Council votes to cut millage

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council Monday approved a four-percent reduction in the city's proposed 1993-1994 millage rate, in response to last Wednesday's defeat of Proposal A.

Because the city budget was predicted on Proposal A's passage, which would have cut the city's total state equalized valuation (SEV) by 4 percent, a reduced millage levy will still generate the same amount of tax revenue.

The 4-0 vote in favor of reducing the city millage from 17.43 to 16.74 mills, followed City Manager Gary Word's recommendation.

"This recommendation is made with mixed feelings," Word said, noting that state legislators may yet pass some property tax reform measure that will reduce the city's tax revenues. Word noted that his own staff disagreed whether to reduce the millage by the full four percent, but he said the consensus was that any action taken by the state probably would not impact this year's tax levy.

Word's caution was shared by the council. "I think there is some risk here," said Council Member Mark Cryderman, "but between what may happen here and with our racetrack money, I think we can cover it."

The city's $4 million budget is not based on the receipt of any state-returned racetrack revenue, though some revenue is expected.

The vote also prompted a joke from one council member.

"When people ask us if we ever reduce taxes, we can say 'Yes, we could have had more,'" said Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers.

Township seeks advice on conflicts of interest

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

With all of the controversy surrounding Northville Township Trustees' voting records these days, the supervisor has asked the attorney to rule on what constitutes a legal conflict of interest.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said she was tired of all the hoopla being raised about her relation to township attorney Leonard Krzyzaniak, so she decided to ask Vanderveer Garzia for a legal opinion on conflict of interest and when it interferes with the right to vote.

The opinion was researched and written by Dawn Twydel, Krzyzaniak's back-up attorney for Northville Township from Vanderveer Garzia. It specifically refers to whether Baja has a conflict of interest because Krzyzaniak attended one of her

School millage renewal will raise more revenue

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Even though Monday's 22.63 millage request is a renewal of existing millage, taxpayers will more than likely feel a tax increase if the measure is approved.

Voters approved 22.63 mills last year for operating purposes and that levy is set to expire at the end of this month. District representatives are again asking for 22.63 mills, but this time the Headlee Amendment rollback won't apply.

Without an assessment freeze or cap, the Headlee Amendment would have required the district to rollback its millage rate by 1.05 mills.

The Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution requires governing bodies to reduce their millage rates so that net tax increases do not exceed increases in the cost of living.

Last year's cost of living, measured on the consumer price index, went up about 3 percent. District-wide property assessments increased approximately 8.7 percent.

School officials are saying that by not utilizing the Headlee rollback, the extra money generated will allow them to fund additional teachers, textbooks and materials. Without an assessment freeze or cap, the 1.05 mills is expected to bring in $875,000 in additional revenue.

Hearing some confusion in the community, the school district issued the following press release:

"Concern has been expressed by some that the renewal of the district's 22.63 voted mills has the effect of circumventing the Headlee Amendment rollback provisions in the constitution. This is true, however, in deciding to ask for this renewal the following factors need to be considered:

- There was a freeze on assessments for 1992-93 and no millage increase over the previous year.
- There is a strong possibility that there will be a freeze or cap on assessments for 1993-94. If this occurs, then voting on fewer mills would result in an even greater revenue reduction for the district than the Headlee rollback would require.

- The current school year has been marked by high class sizes and reduced services. Fewer mills than a renewal would not allow the district to make progress in reducing class size let alone provide other services that

Answers to questions about school millage

What is the ballot proposition and what does it mean?

All of the voted millage levied during the 1992-93 school year for the operation of Northville Public Schools expires June 30. Voters are being asked to approve a renewal of the current millage, 22.63 mills, for five years.

The local voted operating millage currently is 22.63, and the proposed millage is 22.63; the county allocation is 7.23 millages currently, while the proposed millage is 6.89; the debt levy is currently 4.30 mills, and that would remain unchanged. If the request passes, that would bring the total levy to 33.82, down from the current 34.16.

How many new dollars will this millage rate yield?

Depending upon state legislative reaction to the failure of Proposal A, three scenarios are possible:

- A freeze on existing property assessments and a 2 percent increase on new construction would yield an additional $433,944 to the district.

- A 3 percent cap on existing property assessments and a 2 percent increase on new construction would yield an additional $1,126,174.

Business owners split over Mainstreet '93 assessment

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Local business leaders were divided Monday over a proposed $226,000 special assessment on downtown property designed to finance part of Mainstreet '93.

The businesspeople crowded Monday's city council public hearing on the assessment plan, some to complain over their individual assessments and others to argue that it's a small price to pay to preserve the city's business climate.

Mainstreet '93 is the Downtown Development Authority's latest plan to provide more downtown parking, this time through a rebuilt Cady Street deck, a tabletop deck south of Mainstreet and a 160-space lot on the south side of East Cady.

The proposed special assessment is less than six percent of the project's cost, now estimated at $3.8 million. Most of the project would be funded through tax capturing on an expanded Downtown Development District.

Singh Development would pay about $500,000 in its own parking assessments for its MainCentre and proposed CadyCentre developments on top of its participation in the special assessment plan.

Those payments were not high enough for several people at Monday's meeting, who wanted to see Singh charged more for aggravating the parking situation in the first place.

"It seems to me this whole problem is due to this monstrosity on the corner," said Northville Driving Club member Marshall Davis.

Davis also objected to not being invited to meetings of the DDA subcommittee where details of the special as-essment were hammered out, noting that Northville Downs property owners will be charged about 15 percent of the entire special assessment. The Northville Driving Club owns much of the Northville Downs property.

"I just think if our body was going to be roasted, we should have been invited to the fire," Davis said.

Northville Downs officials were still arguing Monday that they should be left out of the special assessment entirely. "We're not against the deck, but we are against the special assessment because it offers absolutely no benefit to us," said racetrack attorney Gerald Van Hellemont. "It simply doesn't do us any good."

Van Hellemont argued that the racetrack provides all the parking it needs on-site.

Volunteers make big difference in cleanup

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A television, pickup truck bed and pig skull were among the stranger items pulled out of a Rouge River tributary Saturday.

The items were part of a dumpster's worth of materials hauled out of the much-maligned river during Northville's participation in the eighth annual Rouge Rescue.

About 59 volunteers braved unseasonably cold and cloudy weather Saturday morning to wade into Johnson Drain or stand on its slippery banks and help pull out man-made and natural obstructions, said Northville Parks and Recreation Director Traci Johnson (no relation). Their goal — to clear logjams, branches, garbage and other debris that clog the river.

By the time the volunteers had finished at about 11 a.m., the muddied water was flowing faster and already beginning to clear up.

Johnson Drain runs northeast through Fish Hatchery Park and empties into the Middle Rouge River south of Northville Downs. The Parks and Recreation Department targeted

News Briefs

CANDIDATES FORUM: Omnicon Cablevision will cablecast the Northville Board of Education candidates forum that took place Monday on cable channel 8 at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 11 and 8:30 p.m. June 12. The forum was sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth.

COMMENCEMENT TO AIR: Omnicon Cablevision will cablecast tomorrow's Northville High School graduation ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 17; 6 p.m. Friday, June 18; 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 22; and at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, June 24. The program can be seen on channel 8.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR ALL-NIGHTER: The decorations for the all-night senior party can be viewed by the Northville community from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, June 11, at the high school. The senior party is sponsored by the parents of the class of 1993. The theme of the decorations was kept a secret until the senior breakfast this morning.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school age readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-Me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

DOG LICENSES UP FOR RENEWAL: Northville city officials would like to remind residents that their pooches need to be licensed to be legal. Any city resident owning a dog 6 months or older must register the dog and obtain a license from the city clerk at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St. The licenses cost $6. The license period runs from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, so licenses purchased now would expire at the end of the year.

POLICE SURVEY CITY RESIDENTS: City police are conducting a random survey of residents to gauge how they feel about their police services. The mailed surveys ask citizens to rate the department's professionalism and visibility, and suggest ways to improve the department.

KIDS CAN ENTER FATHER'S DAY TIE CONTEST: Father's Day is coming up, and The Shirt Box, a Southfield men's clothier, is sponsoring an "Art Tie Contest."

The Art Tie Contest encourages students from all over the area to create a drawing of a tie of their own design. The drawings will then be displayed at The Shirt Box during the Father's Day promotion. A winner will be chosen from each school, and will be awarded an "art wagon" filled with various art supplies (crayons, markers and so forth), and their school's art department will be awarded $100. The drawing for the contest will be held Saturday, June 19 at 6 p.m. at the store on 19011 W. Ten Mile Road.

Any elementary school teacher or student interested in participating may contact The Shirt Box at 352-1080 for materials.

Township clericals still without pact

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Police aren't the only township employees working without a contract.

Almost a year after the township's clerical staffers voted to unionize under the umbrella of the Michigan Association of Public Employees (MAPE), 12 union members have yet to reach their first contract with the township administration.

Even though Supervisor Karen Baja said last Thursday the township is closer to reaching a settlement with the clerical union than other employee groups, there is still no contract between the two sides.

"In my opinion, we are three-quarters of the way through with MAPE," Baja said. "But that's just my opinion."

Baja said both sides were expected to meet at the bargaining table on Monday for a day-long negotiating session. That didn't happen, according to newly-elected union vice president/secretary Paula Sherman and union president Thelma Kubitskey.

Sherman, who is a clerical staffer at the No. 2 fire station, was reluctant Tuesday to say why the session was canceled or who postponed it. But Kubitskey said it was stalled "because some questions have come up in regards to our meetings."

Monday's session would have been Sherman's first as part of the union's negotiating team. She was the elected alternate when the union was formed, but was bumped up into the vice president/secretary's seat recently.

"I haven't yet," she said of the negotiations yet. "That meeting (on Monday) would have been the first meeting for me."

The supervisor said negotiations with the clerical staff have been stalled because the union has lost one of its two representatives, Susan Odom, who represents the union along with Thelma Kubitskey, resigned from her planning department staff position with the township two weeks ago. The union voted to replace Odom with Sherman.

Sherman's appointment could complicate and compromise business at the Five Mile Road station, Baja said. Since she is the only secretary at the station, pulling her into negotiations leaves the station and its switchboard unattended.

Baja said since negotiations are taking longer than she expected, it's not feasible, cost-effective or smart to have Sherman involved in contract talks.

The supervisor said the change in union representatives has stalled talks to speed on the negotiation process is taking time.

"I don't really see why we need to bring a second person on board now and try to bring them up to speed," Baja said.

But Sherman says she doesn't believe her position at the bargaining table complicates anything. Neither she nor Kubitskey said they've heard a complaint from the supervisor. Nonetheless, Baja said last week she expected to give the union three options to help expedite a settlement.

They are: (a) negotiate after hours, (b) negotiate the rest of the contract with Kubitskey alone, or (c) appoint another union representative other than Sherman.

In spite of the length of time it's taken to reach a settlement, Kubitskey said the mood around the bargaining table "so far has been fine."

She said the union began to meet with township administrators and legal counsel shortly after the township's board of trustees approved the hiring of Barlow & Lange as the township's labor relations law firm in February.

The union is composed of clerical workers from the township's general administrative staff, Water and Sewer Department, and Fire Department. The clerical workers voted unanimously to form the union last year.

Police News

Husband reports wife's accidental overdose

Township police responded to a June 5 call from a man who said his wife had accidentally overdosed on prescription drugs. The woman had been taken the drug for severe neck pain, but told her husband she was having trouble breathing after ingesting more than the prescribed dosage. Police arrived at the home and found the woman unconscious. She was treated at the scene by paramedics, then taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

Police said they found no indication that the incident was a foiled suicide attempt. There was no note found in the home nor were there any signs that the woman had been depressed before taking the drug.

VEHICLE LARCENY: Township police responded to a home at Six Mile and Beck roads after the homeowner reported an attempted theft. The resident told police someone had tried to steal his outboard motor. The resident said the top cover portion of the motor was removed and missing and electrical wires had been cut. Police estimate the missing cover costs about $400 and there's at least $200 in damages.

SUSPENDED LICENSE AR-

RESTS: City police made two arrests for driving on a suspended license June 5. A Milford man, 22, was arrested after being stopped for an expired license plate just after 1 a.m., on Eight Mile between Center Street and Novi Road. A computer check revealed the suspension, for failing to comply with a court judgment from Walled Lake. He was released after posting a $100 bond.

Police arrested a 28-year-old Brighton man just before midnight the same day after seeing him speed west on Eight Mile to Beck. The man's speed was estimated at 65-70 mph in the 40-mph zone. He was arrested when he admitted driving on a suspended license, and later released after posting a $35 bond.

STOLEN VEHICLE RECOVERED: City police responding to an abandoned vehicle complaint June 2 discovered that the vehicle in question had been stolen. The white 1985 Toyota Supra was reported stolen from the Plymouth Road Kroger's in Ann Arbor May 25. When police found it at Northville Green Apartments, 725 Randolph, the car had extensive damage to its driver's side bumper and quarter panel, the doors were unlocked and the license plate had been removed.

WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested a Northville man, 19, the night of June 4 after stopping him and two friends for suspicious behavior. He was stopped at Hill and Horton streets when police learned of an outstanding warrant for his arrest from the Farmington Hills police department. The man, who was described as uncooperative and combative, was held in custody until he was picked up by Farmington Hills police.

HOOD ORNAMENT SWIPED: A silver Cadillac hood ornament valued at $100 was reported stolen off a car parked in a Sherrie Drive driveway. The ornament was taken sometime between 7 p.m. June 5 and 11 a.m. June 6.

FENDER BENDER: A driver heading west on Fairbrook at 8:40 a.m. June 3 told city police he ran into a Michigan Bell telephone line that had come loose from a Fairbrook Street home.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Walkaways caught during break-in

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Police are seeking warrants for two Northville Regional State Hospital patients who allegedly walked away from the institution and broke into a township home Saturday.

At 7 p.m. on Saturday, June 7, a 17-year-old Northville man was at home showering when he heard the voices of two intruders. At first, the teen thought the intruders were friends of his brothers, but a phone call to his relative failed to confirm that.

The caller then telephoned police to tell them there were two men in his home he did not know. He then fled the scene.

Police surrounded the home, then entered with guns drawn through the garage door. After clearing the kitchen and living room, they found the two white males in a bedroom on the west side of the home rifling through dresser drawers. The intruders said they were looking for dry socks.

Neither had socks or shoes on their feet.

Officers then ordered both men to the floor and took them into custody without incident.

Det. Fred Yankee said the men told police they were looking for cigarettes, liquor and a ride home.

The patients left their shoes, socks, a box of coffee grounds and a mini stereo with headphones at the scene.

Yankee said a computer check of the hospital's roster confirmed the men were patients there. The detective said the men entered the home through an open garage door.

Police are seeking warrants for breaking and entering. Even though the door was open, Township Police Chief Chip Snider said the incident still constitutes a forced entry.

The police report indicates one of the two patients has a previous warrant for disorderly conduct.

Teen faces charges for alleged harassment

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Northville man will face charges in district court later this month after he allegedly asked a 10-year-old girl if she would have sex with him.

The teenager was playing hockey in the parking lot at Winchester Elementary on June 4 when he allegedly made the remark to the girl who was riding her bike past him.

A parent of an elementary student parked in the lot overheard the man's comment and reported it to school officials. A school secretary called township police.

Police arrived at Winchester and took the man into custody. They questioned the girl at the scene. She confirmed the complaint and identified the man who was seated in the back of the police car.

The police report indicates that the man told police officers he and his friends were just kidding around and never meant to hurt or upset the girl. He told police he never meant the remark seriously or intended to act on it.

The parent who witnessed the incident and the girl's father are both pressing charges. The man was ticketed and will appear in court on June 25.

City joins in police consolidation study

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City will ante up $2,400 for a study of potential police consolidation among the Northville, Plymouth and Canton communities.

The city council Monday approved a proposal by the Cooperative Services Steering Committee, a consortium of community leaders, to hire a Saginaw firm to analyze such a merger.

The firm Criminal Justice Institute (CJI) of Saginaw Valley State University will review the existing police departments in Northville City, Northville Township, Plymouth City, Northville Township and the Township of Canton for potential consolidation of any or all of the departments, or specific services within the departments like dispatching.

CSSC members noted the potential for combining dispatch, records, prisoner and investigation functions to some degree, while the potential for merging other functions like patrol and administration remains unclear.

CJI's $12,000 fee was the second-lowest of five bids, said City Manager Gary Word. The lowest proposed fee, $6,950, came from CMP Associates of Grosse Pointe Park, he said, but their submission seemed incomplete and the firm seemed to have less expertise in the field than others.

"It seemed like there were a lot of things missing from the scope of what they were going to do," Word said.

Council Member Jerry Mittman asked whether CJI may recommend a 2- or 3-community consolidation,

"or is it all or none?"

"I personally feel that for the five communities to get together, that's never going to happen," Mittman said.

"It's not all or none," said Mayor Chris Johnson, a CSSC member. "We're looking for logical groupings, either of services or units."

But Johnson noted that there are similarities among all five communities, including the fact that all fall within the 35th district court's coverage area.

Six vie for trustee seats at Schoolcraft College

In an effort to inform voters, the Livonia League of Women Voters posed three questions to candidates running for the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees (see facing page).

The league is a non-partisan organization dedicated to providing information about candidates and issues. The league does not endorse candidates.

Six candidates are seeking three seats on the board — one four-year term and two six-year terms. The election is Monday, June 14.

Squaring off for one four-year term are Winifred Fraser of Northville and Richard DeVries of Livonia.

Seeking the two six-year terms are Catherine Broadbent of Westland, Linda Chuhuran of Canton Township, John Walsh of Livonia and Patricia Watson of Northville.

Fraser, appointed to the Schoolcraft board in January, is retired from Wayne State University, where she was an associate dean in the graduate school. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees in psychology and a doctorate in philosophy.

Fraser is a member of several boards, including the Child/Youth Initiative of Detroit/Wayne County, the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeastern Michigan and the Michigan Department of Health Prevention Advisory Committee.

She served as chairwoman and vice chairwoman of the Western Michigan University Board of Trustees and is a former member of the Livonia Family YMCA Board of Directors.

She serves as a peer counselor at the Schoolcraft's Women's Resource Center.

DeVries is retired from the Livonia Public Schools, where he worked for more than 30 years.

He holds a bachelor's degree in math from the University of Michigan. His postgraduate work includes course work at U-M, Eastern Michigan University and Wayne State University.

DeVries coached the Churchill High School debate team from 1985 to 1992 and coached boys baseball from 1966 to 1992. He is a member of the Livonia Optimists Club and a charter member of the Livonia Arts Commission.

He is active in the Republican Party and has served as a precinct delegate, a member of what was formerly the Wayne 2nd Congressional Committee and a delegate to the state convention.

Broadbent holds a bachelor's of science degree in business management from Madonna University. She received an associate's degree in business administration from Schoolcraft. She is a graduate of Churchill High School.

She is the director of human resources for Plymouth Township.

The mother of two school-aged children, Broadbent is active in the Michigan Metro Girl Scouts. She was the governmental chairwoman of the Plymouth Community United Way Annual Fund Campaign and a vice chairwoman of the Madonna University Corporate Fund Campaign in 1992.

She is a member of the personnel committee of the Conference of Western Wayne.

Chuhuran holds five associate's degrees (marketing and applied management, general business, cosmetology management, small business management and liberal arts/general studies) from Schoolcraft College. She has a bachelor's of science degree from Madonna and a master's of science degree in administration from the same school.

Chuhuran is a senior accountant at General Motors Corp. and a member of the National Association of Accountants and the American Society of Professional and Executive Women. She was formerly the clerk in Canton Township.

Walsh is an attorney with Lewis, White & Clay of Detroit. He holds a bachelor's degree in international relations from James Madison College at Michigan State University and a law degree from Wayne State University. He is a graduate of Garden City East High School.

He is a member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, the Livonia Jaycees, where he was recognized as the director of the year in 1991-1992, and the Wayne and Oakland Young Republicans.

He was appointed to the Schoolcraft board in January.

Watson, who works as a psychologist at Providence Hospital in Southfield, holds a bachelor's degree from Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, a master's degree from St. Francis College in Indiana and a doctorate from the University of Detroit.

She has served on the Schoolcraft board since she was appointed in 1991.

She is a member of the American Psychological Association, the Northville Business and Professional Women's Organization and the Michigan League of Women Voters. She serves as a consultant to the Salvation Army and Edwin Denby Memorial Children's Home in Detroit.

Registered voters in the school districts of Northville, Livonia, Clarencetown, Plymouth Canton, and Garden City are eligible to vote in the Schoolcraft race.

Schoolcraft trustees are not paid. Other Schoolcraft trustees are Mary Breth of Plymouth Township, Michael Burley of Canton Township, Harry Greenleaf of Livonia and Steve Ragan of Plymouth.

How would this man compose a HomeTown Connection ad?

Perhaps something like this:

SEEKING FAIR MAID to follow me on the primrose path of dalliance for I am a proper man, as one shall see in a summer's day.

"Shall I compare thee to a summer's day? Thou art more lovely and more temperate." — William Shakespeare

HomeTown Connection Ads in your HomeTown newspaper allow you to record a message in your own voice over the phone. That way when people see your ad in the paper, they can dial your code, hear your message and leave a message of their own. You can call, day or night, to get your messages. # Schoolcraft trustee hopefuls address questions

Winifred Fraser: Appointed to the Schoolcraft board in January, she is seeking a four-year term.

Richard DeVries: Retired after nearly 30 years as a Livonia school teacher, he is seeking a four-year term on the Schoolcraft board.

Catherine Broadbent: The director of human resources for Plymouth Township, she is seeking a six-year term on the Schoolcraft board.

Linda Chuhuran: An accountant at GM, she is seeking a six-year term on the Schoolcraft board.

John Walsh: The Livonia attorney was appointed to the board in January. He is seeking a six-year term.

Patricia Watson: Appointed to the board in 1991, she is seeking a six-year term on the Schoolcraft board.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Acceptability of Schoolcraft credits is firmly established. Close cooperation with 32 four-year colleges in Michigan allowed the development of Transfer Guides. If the student works with the transfer guide and a counselor, Schoolcraft credits transfer easily. And our transfer students consistently earn higher grade point averages than other transfer students.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

While state cuts affect Schoolcraft's general fund, re-training programs are funded through JPTA's proposal procedure. Submitting worthwhile proposals as we have in the past should maintain our funding level. Schoolcraft also develops retraining agreements with the private sector through our Business Development office. This activity would receive greater emphasis.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

Cost containment while assuring quality education will be a tremendous problem since state aid has been continuously decreasing.

Maintaining a sufficient number of full-time faculty to ensure quality education will continue to be a challenge.

Achieving broader public recognition of the quality and community resources Schoolcraft offers is crucial.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Schoolcraft has working relationships with most colleges and universities in Michigan. Schoolcraft's credits are respected. The problem is that some four-year institutions do not accept community college credits for graduation requirements. Students are asked to take tests or often repeat courses to take higher level courses and/or graduate.

I would ask the administration to review the current articulation agreements, reworking those that need to be changed.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft College fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

Schoolcraft should take advantage of any available programs to help train students. Schoolcraft already works directly with area businesses on specific retraining projects. Fitting new programs into this format would be a very direct use of funds.

State funding has declined, beginning in the 1992-1993 school year. The state provides about 26 percent of the Schoolcraft revenue. Any federal, state or business program that increases funding and trains students should be encouraged.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

1) Schoolcraft College must increase the number of full-time faculty members. Part-time instructors should be provided extensive training to insure competency.

2) Schoolcraft must make a greater effort to comply immediately with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

3) The college should evaluate all equipment used for instruction. Outdated and older equipment must be replaced.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Schoolcraft College currently has agreements with several dozen state and private colleges concerning the acceptance of transfer credits. To enhance acceptability at additional colleges, graduation testing, similar to the ASSET test required of incoming Schoolcraft students, may provide the necessary assurance to these colleges of post-secondary skills developed at Schoolcraft.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft College fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

This is one way for the college to enhance their revenue picture and self-promote at the same time by capturing retraining funds. According to the Hudson Institute report, the average worker will change jobs seven times in their life. This means continual training, retraining and learning opportunities.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

1) Competition from other educational institutions.

2) Revenue enhancements other than tax dollars, state aid and tuition such as grants, business/education partnerships, fund-raising and expanded facility use.

3) Compliance with ever changing laws such as the Americans with Disabilities Act as it pertains to the retraining of teachers, physical access and employment issues.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Schoolcraft has a high level of acceptance, currently. Structuring course elements with a very specific focus on program identification for specialized skill training will enhance student enrollment and assist students to concentrate on career development and a stronger association with four-year programs instead of two years general studies education.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft College fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

Schoolcraft can easily find a market to coordinate college programs assisting employers changing job descriptions with transitional skill training and career pathing. Employers will fund the cost when courses are structured to benefit their unique specialized needs. Corporate funding will offset funding and enhance student involvement.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

Long range growth development to include extension of programs and facilities to accommodate a changing work force with continual course curriculum upgrades; implementation of student affordability programs and improvements to various student services currently provided; gain considerable private industry involvement with program design, facilities, course instruction and funding.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Schoolcraft credits are presently acceptable at over 25 four-year institutions through articulation agreements. As trustee, I will urge the administration to pursue articulation agreements with additional four-year institutions as well as encouraging our counseling staff to work closely with students to assure compliance with such agreements.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft College fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

Schoolcraft already participates in retraining programs with private businesses. It is important that Schoolcraft be involved in retraining citizens, who in a rapidly changing economy require new skills to compete. Retraining courses should be provided as the budget allows, but should not cause a reduction in resources allocated to traditional two-year students.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

The three immediate problems/concerns requiring attention from the trustees are: the impact of declining state aid to the college, the retirement of over 30 percent of the faculty and staff in the next five years, and community recognition of the excellent courses and programs available at Schoolcraft.

What would you do to enhance the acceptability of Schoolcraft credits at four-year institutions?

Schoolcraft has agreements with 32 four-year institutions in Michigan to guarantee the transfer of credits. Mandatory counseling is also provided with a "transfer guide" to insure courses transfer. The guide is provided by four-year institutions to facilitate this process. Students need to access academic counseling if questions arise.

How do you see institutions like Schoolcraft College fitting into proposed job retraining programs in an era of steadily declining state funds for community colleges?

Schoolcraft constantly seeks to obtain grants and funding to address the employment needs of our communities. This effort is another innovative strategy to insure our financial stability. Schoolcraft College has obtained five grants from a fund for job training and adult education in 1992-1993 for a total of $342,541.00.

In your opinion, what three problems at Schoolcraft need the most attention from trustees?

1) Uncertain funding from state of Michigan revenues and the resulting impact to the college.

2) Meeting the ever-changing needs of providing the best academic grounding, technical education and career preparation.

3) Maintain the quality of staff as we face a rate of 30-50 percent retirement within five years.

On June 14, Jean Hansen and Steve Lloyd will compete for a full, four-year term on the Northville Board of Education. What follows are the transcriptions of question and answer interviews between the Northville Record and the candidates. Some of the answers were edited for clarity.

JEAN HANSEN

Jean Hansen is seeking re-election to her seat on the Northville Board of Education and will face challenger Steve Lloyd.

Hansen has served on the board for 12 years

Qualifications?

"I have a bachelor's and a master's from the University of Michigan in history. I recently went back to school and picked up an undergraduate major in math. I taught for 11 years, a long time ago. I taught in Detroit and in California — the San Francisco Bay area, in Germany for the Department of Defense for a couple of years and in Livonia.

"Currently, I'm working at the Ford Livonia Transmission plant as an instructor in the skills enhancement program. This is great because it gives me an opportunity first-hand to see what kind of skills industry wants from graduates.

"I've been active in a lot of community organizations here in Northville. I'm a member of the Historical Society, I've been a docent at Mill Race Historical Village. I was active in both Amerman and Cooke PTAs when my kids were in school. I have been very active in the Northville-Novis branch of the American Association of University Women and I've been president and vice-president of that group.

"I'm a member of the Northville Women's Club, Early Bird Kiwanis, League of Women Voters — I think it is important to stay active in other groups because it gives me a chance to get input from community members with their concerns with the schools.

"I've been on the board since 1981 and during that time I have been president three times, treasurer three times and vice-president two times. I've served on every sub-committee.

"I've also been active in MASB (Michigan Association of School Boards) affairs. MASB offers a lot of workshops and conferences and things through which board members can increase their board skills.

"I've received from the MASB both the award of merit and the award of distinction and that's for attending workshops and so on. Also, the certified board member award for successfully completing courses and boardmanship.

"I think I have a clear understanding and experience with education in probably just about every facet. So, when I make decisions I can draw upon all that experience in helping me decide what is truly best for the kids in the district."

Three most important issues?

"Financial stability and the ability to implement our strategic plans from that. I think those are the two most important issues facing our district.

"For a third, to maintain community support. I think the strength of the district depends on community support."

Solve/implement changes?

"I think it's imperative that the district broadcast and make well-known all of its successes. I think Northville has an overabundance of successes. Our students perform well.

"Over 95 percent of this year's graduating class are going on to college. We are considered really a model school district throughout the nation. People come from all over to look and see how we're doing some of the things we do. We really do need to get out in the public more.

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

"I think it's imperative — for example, we're going to have a public hearing once we find out about the ballot proposal — what are the priorities of community members. We need to seek, and I think we have looked for input from the community in the direction they, in fact, want to see us go.

"Strategic planning is an example of that. The strategic planning team is made up of representatives from almost all areas of the district. There were approximately 12 people not associated with the schools and 12 that were.

"Every school board or district that goes into strategic planning has in essence given up some decision making power to the community. Because if you don't accept what comes out of that strategic plan, you might as well forget about credibility."

Contract talks?

"Well, we're in the middle of negotiations. I really can't say anything about that at all. I will say the board has set parameters that we have given to the district negotiations. We are undergoing expedited bargaining which means each side places just a limited number of issues on the table. The rest of the contract will be left as is."

June 14 ballot?

"We are asking for a renewal of the 22.63 mills. Now, we have different scenarios.

"One, if the 22.63 passes and there's no rollback, we are not required — and this is unrealistic — to spend anything on the retirement and FICA that would give us the $2.4 million. I cannot see the state allowing that to occur.

"Probably the most likely thing we will see if the 22.63 passes and the state cuts back the assessments to the 3 percent level and we figured that our share of the retirement and FICA would probably be $465,000, that would give us an excess revenue over expenditures of $1.1 million. That would be enough to return our class sizes to our historical levels.

"Now, and there's been some talk of this, if they did a complete freeze on assessments, then we would have an excess of $432,000 which is not going to bring back many teachers.

"One thing we did ask was for the administration to come up with a quarter million dollars in other possible cuts in other areas so that as we re-build the programs, depending on what the revenue picture looks like, there will be more options.

"But the renewal does amount to an increase because Headlee does not apply to it. But, with the possibilities being almost certain that the state will in fact roll us back to 3 percent, it seemed just almost irresponsible not to go for the total amount of renewal mills.

"Headlee doesn't apply because since all of our millage expires, it's considered new millage. Headlee only applies to existing millages."

Class size?

"I guess when July rolls around and it's a worst case scenario, what we need to do is involve the public in this discussion. It's very clear to me that class size is a priority for many, many people.

"And the question of what we give up to get it, is one we need to ask folks. I have my own list and I'm sure willing to hang it out there and say these are things I think can go. But I think before the board makes a decision, they really need some input."

Pay-to-play?

"We do not like pay to participate at all. That's one opportunity for kids to work in a group where they have some power in decision making. Pay to participate goes against the grain. In public education these opportunities should be available to every kid.

"I dislike pay to participate, but I can't sit here at the same time and promise you it will go away.

"Our first priority is to reduce class size. If one of the better scenarios turn out to be the case, then definitely (eliminate pay to participate)."

narios turn out to be the case, then definitely (eliminate pay to participate)."

Restructuring of high school day?

"Our strategic plan has grown where we realize the best way to meet the needs of all kids is probably through an outcomes-based approach. What that states is that learning is far more important than time spent in class or the number of classes taken.

"Basically, it says the district decides what a student should learn and then it decides what evidence it will accept to demonstrate or prove that they actually have learned these things.

"This is a complete about-face, though, in the way teachers, in some respects, are used to approaching education. If outcomes-based education is going to work in any district, it only works if it is translated at the classroom level. You could have those beautiful district outcomes, you can even have someone align all those curriculum outcomes, but unless the teachers and the people involved with the kids themselves are convinced and committed to this themselves, there's no way you're going to be successful.

"We are asking people to change. There has to be time set aside someplace so, number one, they can learn about these things and they become committed to it so they have time to collaborate with their colleagues, compare notes. This is essential.

"If I'm teaching five classes a day, facing 190 kids, after school I'm too exhausted to do this and there are too many other things to do. I think if we want to see results in the classroom we have to provide professional development and time for teachers to become involved and become committed. That's why I think some restructuring of the high school is important. I think once we do this and see how well and what each child learns is much more important than when they learn it or the number of classes they take or the amount of time they spend in a class."

Strategic planning?

"This is one of the main reasons that I'm running for the board again — because of my commitment to the strategic planning process as well as the plan itself. If as a district we maintain focus on that plan, we really stress it is each student's learning that is our emphasis, it will be kids that will really benefit in the long run.

"It was necessary to have an external facilitator for this plan. What happens is that everyone on that committee, it doesn't matter if you're the superintendent or just a citizen, everyone is in there on an equal footing. Everyone's opinion is just as important as anyone else's opinion. This is not an administrator plan by any stretch of the imagination.

"A lot of these districts do the planning part, they get their strategies and their objectives down, but it stops there. It never gets implemented to become operational. (Our facilitator) has spent a lot of time showing us how to bridge that gap between strategic to operational and how this is done by the action plans.

"I might add one major factor of each plan is a cost benefit analysis, both financial and human costs as well: what benefits will be derived from it.

"For this district, I cannot say enough what the facilitator has done. The benefit we are going to get from the strategic plan has given us a vision. We know the direction we want to go in. Everything we do should be measured — does this get us closer to this mission statement? That plan should drive our budget. We must budget that plan. Especially in times like these when we are being bombarded in all directions.

"If we use this as our focus we will continue to improve and we will see constant and continuous improvement in this district. I really think strategic planning has been one of the most significant achievements this district has accomplished over the years."

THE QUESTIONS

1. Please provide some background information about yourself. Why do you believe you are qualified to serve on the board of education?
2. What do you feel are the three most important issues facing the Northville Public School District?
3. How would you work to solve/implement those changes?
4. The school district is entering

STEVE LLOYD

Steve Lloyd is the treasurer of the Northville Swim Club and North Hills Homeowner's Association. Lloyd is an executive engineer for General Motors Corporation.

Qualifications?

"I am a parent in the community with a daughter who has gone through the Northville school system and is currently a sophomore at the University of Michigan. I have two other children who have had all of their education in Northville — now a freshmen and sophomore in high school.

"My educational background is that I have engineering training from the University of Michigan — both a bachelor's and a master's. I am currently employed at General Motors as an executive where I manage a multi-million dollar activity and have supervisors and a number of folks reporting through them to me.

"With regards to why might I venture into this challenge, it really deals with a comfort zone I experienced last year when the millage situation failed. I really had an observation shortly thereafter when I saw that the choices for the 1.4 mills — if it were to be defeated — meant some really significant changes in the way our kids would experience their education. Specifically, we were going to end up with kids in classes that were significantly larger than they had been.

"And further, those kids in junior high and high school were going to be asked to pay to participate in the kinds of things that had been a normal broadening educational experience.

"As I perceived these reasons or the root cause for why these events took place, I became more uncomfortable because I was trying to understand the logic of how we made the decisions we made. And I became more uncomfortable when I found out the financial decisions were made without the same kind of business case analysis that would be used in industry. And, furthermore, the community didn't have a real good voice in deciding what stayed and what went away, which led me to a little more involvement.

"In the summertime I wrote an analysis on what I thought went wrong to try and support the administration and the board to take this as a learning lesson and try not to repeat it. So that's really how I got involved."

Three most important issues?

"I think right now the one issue in the voter's mind the most is the reduction of the number of students per classroom. I think that's clear and above the highest focus they would like to see take place.

"I don't think they want to see that take place with, 'OK we're going to pull a lever and reallocate students and hire teachers.'

"I think the second part of your question deals with the financial accountability in the business case focus. They want to know that good stewardship is taking place with regards to expenditures of their funds. And they also want to be a part of that decision process. The communication lines need to be open to the process established so that not only parents, but people who have had children in the school or staff or students, may have a way of voicing their concerns in an open environment such that they can truly participate."

contract talks with the district's labor unions, including the teachers. What position do you think the district representatives should take? Is there enough money in the budget to offer raises?

5. What's your position on the millage requests that will appear on the June 14 ballot?

6. Class size at the elementary level is one of the most pressing concerns of parents. What would you advocate to solve the problem? Do you think teacher staffing levels should be restored?

7. Do you think it is important that the school administration make good on its promise to do away with pay-to-play athletics after this year?

8. How do you feel about the restructuring of the high school day?

9. What are your thoughts on strategic planning? Do the costs involved justify the expense?

Solve/implement changes?

"I think the first one is going to take place naturally because the existing board recognizes the need to do that and has made that a high priority on their list.

"With regards to financial accountability and open communication, I think they're going to have to change the way they do business with regards to requiring business case analyses on financial issues that come before them. I would suggest they take a systems approach and establish a protocol format that looks at whether things are ongoing costs or one-time costs and also look to see what kind of community involvement can be made with regards to the costs.

"With opening the lines of communications, I think I would start by looking at some of the school districts around us that have good communication models.

"Bloomfield Hills has been very effective. I understand Livonia has a good model that we should consider."

Contract talks?

"I think it's inappropriate for me to talk magnitudes in regards to what's appropriate and what's not appropriate in the way of compensation for the teachers. I think what the board should strive for is what will be viewed as a fair and equitable settlement.

"That is to say everybody has bills to pay, however, one needs to be sensitive to the turmoils that have taken place in the community with regards to the economic climate. I know in the automobile industry, we've not had very good compensation to our employees over the past 24 months. I can't speak to industries in the same dollars, but certainly they've been hurt. I would hope the union would be sensitive to that plight and sensitive to the economics the district has undertook.

"Ideally, you'd like to get a multiple year contract if, in fact, you can meet my first couple criteria. But if you can't do that, if you think the economics are going to be terribly unpredictable, then I would not be opposed to a one-year contract if we're trying to get a sense of fairness.

"I think really that's the issue. The community needs to feel comfortable that there was not a win-lose scenario on either party's side. And the union needs to have that sense, too. That's why we call it negotiations."

June 14 ballot?

"The school very definitely needs to have funding to do its task. There's rumors that the Senate is going to immediately roll back the SEV (state equalized valuation), so we're not really sure what the millage means.

"The bottom line, the school board is going to have to have a clear and open dissemination of where the funds are going to go with regards to how they impact the kids and the school district overall. The stewardship representation will be absolutely crucial. People will support things if they understand and believe in them and have the chance to participate.

"If they were to continue along the lines to open Thornton Creek and have five elementary schools out there, my prediction would be it would have been sufficient to cause enough frustration in the community to defeat the millage. I thought that decision put the millage at risk."

Class size?

"I think the teacher staffing levels should, in fact, be restored to the targets they had in mind. And I think I have indicated before the board has bought into it.

"I also feel there are going to be some tight spots as they accomplish this because we are short three classrooms and, based on distribution, Silver Springs is the area where I think the school will have a tight spot associated with it. I would suggest the parents and the staff associated with the elementary building have a chance to try and work through the solutions on how they try to alleviate that pain.

"I would be real uncomfortable if they did not have a voice in making a determination in trying to resolve that. People really support decisions they are a part of, and the converse is also true."

Pay-to-play?

"I think that ought to be a real priority. I think the frustration I have seen in the community with the kids having to choose whether or not they were going to participate in a sport or debate or some of the other areas has been unfortunate. My children have had to choose what sports they would participate in or what extra activity they would participate in and haven't done everything they normally would have wanted to do.

"Many of our kids excel through their extracurricular activities. They may not excel in the classroom but the combination of excelling in some other activity will give them the self esteem to excel in the classroom.

"So I think that's a high priority. If the community said we don't think that's what we want to do, we want to see another issue a higher priority, then I'm prepared to support what the community's voice represents. But I suspect many of them are very dissatisfied with that."

Restructuring of high school day?

"The proposal to restructure the high school day has a nominal cost of I think $90,000, somewhere around in there. It's intended to provide the teachers an opportunity to focus on strengthening their teaching skills and learning some of the new computer system capabilities.

"Unfortunately, I suspect the community is not going to respond warmly to that because it's taking $90,000 from something else when we're already in a cash-shortage situation.

"There's discussion this will take place on a Wednesday which would mean kids would come to school and have a freedom of choice to do a variety of things or come to school late. I'm not sure the business case scenario has been fully explained to the community. I suspect, based on the information they have today, they're not going to be very comfortable with that proposal."

Strategic planning?

"I'm not fully aware of all the costs because I've never seen a complete summary. There are a lot of hidden costs in strategic planning.

"In principal, strategic planning is very good and it should be undertaken for any activity. In industry we do it a little bit different. In industry when we put our plans together we also do our cost analysis as an integral part of our plans. We can see the business trade-off or the return of our investment very clearly.

"Unfortunately, the way the district has chosen to do those plans, they've chosen to focus on their wants and needs. In this last go-around they did classify costs but, they never converted that to the dollar or the commodity that the voters understand. That is, what is the pocket cost to do one proposal versus the other?

"Now, they're focusing on total quality and I think that is an excellent undertaking. It can truly have some value in the community. But the key to that is that it is really a top-down kind of motivation. If the administration or the board does not endorse that, and I mean setting the environment for all the staff and the community to participate, having a customer-wide focus to involve these people, to define a problem-solving process that people can participate in, they can eliminate it.

"Sit down and systematically analyze how you spend your funds and look for opportunities to consolidate or eliminate or streamline. It does not mean get rid of people. It does mean look for alternatives to do the things you have traditionally done. If you can put that all together, you can have a win-win situation for all involved."

Supervisor asks for attorney's opinion to disband utility, service commissions

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Supervisor Karen Baja has come under fire for exploring the possibility of dissolving two township commissions.

But the supervisor said she was acting on past discussions she's had with fellow trustees and executive committee members in seeking legal advice on how to disband the Water and Sewer Commission and the Beautification Commission.

At Baja's request, the attorney's opinion on how to go about dissolving both commissions was included in the township trustee's May 27 board meeting packets. The memo sparked a subtle, behind the scenes debate.

In spite of angry fingers being pointed in Baja's direction, the supervisor contends the idea to disband the two commissions wasn't her own.

"It's been discussed many times by board members to dissolve the Water and Sewer Commission," she said. "The memo (in the board packets) was intended for discussion purposes only and meant to be discussed at a study session."

"This was not a Karen-instigated idea," she said.

Instead, the supervisor said since the notion has sprung up in conversations before and debated at executive committee meetings, she thought she was saving time by asking the attorney what had to be done before the board met to discuss it.

"I just thought I would do the homework first and ask him (township attorney Leonard Krzyzaniak) can we do it and how would we do it," she said.

"It has been discussed more thoroughly at the executive committee level, but it would still need full board support."

Since the idea surfaced, Baja said she's heard opponents argue that she wants to disband the 15-year-old Water and Sewer Commission so she dip into the commission's till and use those resources for general operations.

She disputes that and says it's impossible because the Water and Sewer restricted fund is protected by law.

"That fund is restricted and can't be used by the board as a general fund," she said. "It is a fund that can be used for water and sewer project use only. If the commission was dissolved the fund would still have to be used as a restricted fund."

Baja said she's not entirely convinced that the commission should be disbanded either, but added that she could see the benefits. As it is designed now it duplicates the expertise of contracted consultants and overlaps the responsibilities of the board of trustees.

"It is just another level of bureaucracy that we no longer need," she said. "We don't need to have decisions made at the Water and Sewer Commission level that serve as recommendations to the board. It all ends up on our agenda anyway."

Baja said she never intended to disband the commission without board approval. In fact she said it "was intended for discussion purposes only. I'm not closed or fixed that we need to get rid of it, but maybe 15 years ago it was needed."

"But now we pay a consulting firm a lot of money to make recommendations to us," she said.

The supervisor said there's talk now that instead of dissolving the Beautification Commission, the board might consider bumping it back to committee status rather than maintain it as a commission.

Baja said the main difference between a commission and a committee is that commissions are governed by bylaws and are a line item expenditure in the township's budget.

Baja balked at speculations that her on-going personality differences with Trustee Barbara O'Brien are at the heart of her desire to disband the commission that O'Brien has put years into.

"That's not it," she said. "I'm not trying to get rid of the Beautification Commission or the valuable work they do," she said. "They do a lot of valuable work and good things for this township."

Trustees face light agenda tonight

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Compared with previous agendas, Northville Township Trustees will have fewer items to attend to at tonight's board meeting.

Under new business is an item from the township's ethics board and a glimpse of the 1993-94 parks and recreation budget.

Months after the township's new ethics code was written and ethics board members were chosen, representatives from the newly selected three-member board will submit their long-awaited complaint form for trustees' review.

Board chairman Leonard Kierszkowski will be presenting the standardized complaint form which will serve as the vehicle for any city or township resident, employee or elected official to file a complaint against another employee or elected official.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja said the form is the first official action of the ethics committee.

Kierszkowski said the board has to nail down exactly how complaints will be handled while they are being investigated, but added he hopes to have all that figured out by the time complaints start rolling in.

He said he's also working with board members to devise a system that ensures confidentiality and anonymity of the person filing the complaint.

In other new business, trustees will also get a glimpse of the 1993-94 Parks and Recreation and Senior Citizen budget. The budget has already been approved by the Northville city council in action taken May 17.

Traci Johnson, director of Northville Parks and Recreation, is asking trustees for approval of the budget before it takes effect July 1.

The board meets at 7:30 p.m. at township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road.

Township attorney rules on conflict policy

political fund-raisers and contributed to her campaign election last year.

The opinion reads, "People contribute to political campaigns to help advance their political views. This competes with the need for public officials to perform their duties in an unbiased manner. This has resulted in a number of disclosure laws regarding campaign contribution and voting tendencies. As long as contribution disclosure laws are followed, and the politician casts votes in an unbiased manner, there is no problem."

If the politician cannot render an unbiased vote he or she should be restricted from voting on the issue, the opinion continues.

Baja's alleged conflict of interest issue took root in February when trustees were headed to vote on the selection of the three new attorney firms. Prior to the vote and after being scrutinized for not disclosing the incident to the full board, the supervisor disclosed the relation with Krzyzaniak and asked to abstain from the final vote even though she had participated in the selection process all along. Trustees approved her request.

Baja maintains Krzyzaniak's presence at her fundraiser never constituted a conflict of interest, but says she disclosed it at every meeting of the attorney selection committee to avoid the appearance of one.

Trustee Barbara O'Brien also abstained from the final vote. O'Brien had sought and won the board's permission to abstain earlier in the selection process without disclosing a reason to abstain.

In February after some stir, Vanderveer Garzia was hired without Baja's and O'Brien's votes.

Now months after the vote was taken, O'Brien has still not disclosed her reason for wanting to abstain to the full board. But the reason came into the light after the township contacted Vanderveer Garzia to see if the firm would be interested in picking up the prosecutor's work in the absence of Kelly & Kelly, P.C.

Her conflict is that her nephew is employed as an attorney with Vanderveer Garzia and he would be the lead contact if Vanderveer Garzia picks up the court docket.

Two weeks ago, trustees tabled a motion to hire Vanderveer Garzia as the township's new prosecutor pending the attorney's legal opinion on conflict of interest and its relation to abstaining from voting. It wasn't until after that meeting — at which O'Brien asked once again to abstain — that the public learned her nephew who would take over the prosecutor's work.

O'Brien had little to say about the whole issue except "If anyone would have asked why I would have told them the reason why... I mean you hire the firm, not the man, right?"

The whole mess has caused a stir and made township resident's suspect of the two elected officials. Aside from the vote on the attorney issue, O'Brien abstained again from voting on a proposed land split at the May 27 board meeting.

Prior to this abstention, O'Brien sat in on the motion and the discussion about the land split — even though all along she was the realtor who was listing one of the parcels being voted on.

Mill Race Matters

Mill Race Village opens to the public each Sunday from June to October from 2 to 5 p.m. Docents provide historic information on all buildings. Please meet in the Country Store. School groups will conclude their spring visits on Tuesday, June 15.

Members and friends joined in the third annual plant swap on June 5. The village will be open Saturday, July 3, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. after the town parade.

Salem Area Historical Society hosts Salem Hamlet: Then and Now on Friday, June 11, and Saturday, June 12. Hours are Friday 9-9 and Saturday 9-3. There will be a reception at 7:30 p.m. on Friday. The event is located in Salem Township Hall, Six Mile at Dickerson.

The Northville Historical Society is looking for an editor for the Mill Race Quarterly published in March, June, September, and December of each year. The publication, which serves as the newsletter for society members, highlights historical society events and Mill Race Village happenings in addition to featuring historical articles about the area. Call Sally at 348-1845 Monday, Wednesday or Friday.

The earliest history of Northville Township is connected with Plymouth. Again from Burton's Book on Wayne County:

"When the township was erected April 12, 1827 it included all of Congressional townships 1 and 2 south, range 8 east. Canton Township was cut off in 1834 and Northville in 1898, so that Plymouth is now only one-fourth as large as when first established. It embraces the south half of township 1 South, range 8 east; is bounded on the north by Northville, on the east by Livonia, on the south by Canton, and on the west by Washtenaw County. The surface is slightly rolling and is watered by branches of the River Rouge. With the exception of a few localities, the soil is well adapted to agriculture."

Next week's column will highlight some of Plymouth Township's first settlers, many of whom reside in what is today Northville. An article in the June Mill Race Quarterly will discuss early Wayne County history.

Lawmakers tackle tobacco bill

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

In government there can be three sides to an argument, not just two. Take the bill to ban all smoking in schools, approved 28-8 Thursday by the Michigan Senate and sent to the House.

"The Senate has ignored the fact that a great many taxpayers are smokers. Many are athletic boosters and band boosters," said opponent Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville.

an ex-smoker and retired band booster.

"In many small communities, the only place to hold bingo is in school buildings. I've worked bingo for the band boosters. I could have supported this bill if it were amended to allow smoking in designated areas after school hours."

On the other hand, Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, wanted to make the bill even more restrictive by banning alcohol, too.

"My attempt to include alcohol in the smoking bill was consistent with the message we intend to send," said O'Brien. "I've voted for every piece of anti-smoking legislation. We need to say it's not OK to have a Rotary beer tent on school property."

In the middle was sponsor Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron. He and 27 supporters wanted a simple bill extending the state's ban on smoking in schools to the entire building, 24 hours a day.

"It's a single-purpose bill to deal with tobacco," said DeGrow. He promised to co-sponsor an O'Brien bill to ban all alcohol in school buildings. That would ban service club beer tents in small town summer festivals.

Voting yes were area Sens. Robert Geake, R-Northville; Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills; David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield; and Lana Polack, D-Ann Arbor.

Voting no was Dillingham.

If you write to your state representative, refer to Senate Bill 459. Address lawmakers at: State Capitol, Lansing 48913.

Bill encourages banks to open mobile units to service customers

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Dad won't have to cash his paycheck at the bar if two Senate bills are passed by the state House of Representatives.

"These bills would allow banks and savings & loans to create mobile units to take to nursing homes or to a shop on payday," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville.

Dillingham guided SB 641 and 642 through his Corporations Committee and to 36-0 Senate passage Thursday.

"They would allow banks to go into a Brinks-type business and move money. They could also serve the home-bound by helping them close a mortgage or sell a house. They allow banks to provide more consumer service," said Dillingham.

Impetus for the bill came from a small Adrian bank which couldn't afford to build branches, he said.

Dillingham noted many bars near factories cash checks on payday and rely on patrons' spending a good chunk of it before heading home.

Mobile banking units would be a convenience to small businesses as well as workers, Dillingham said.

"When I was in the hardware business, I carried extra cash on weekends — more cash than I felt comfortable with — to cash checks for customers," he said.

The bills had no opposition. Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, raised the question whether the bill affecting savings & loans required a two-thirds vote under the state constitution. Senate president pro-tem Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, searched the rules and said it did require a two-thirds vote.

City merchants debate parking assessments

Mayor Chris Johnson disagreed that the Downs sees no benefit from off-site lots, saying, "It's obvious to me on racing nights, particularly Friday and Saturday nights, that Downs patrons do park in city lots."

Gene Overstreet, who owns property at 355 E. Main St., said he, too, objected to paying for a parking deck "that's not going to help me at all." Under the proposed special assessment rolls, Overstreet would pay a total of $487.84 over 11 years.

Overstreet noted that he has paid into the city's parking credit program in the past, and seen no return on the investment. "I've been charged for parking spaces that I never got," he complained.

City officials pointed out that property owners are credited for payments they have made to the city's previous parking assessment rolls. The credits are among three factors that a property's Mainstreet '93 assessment are based on — a property's Seate-Equalized Value, its proximity to the decks, and its compliance with the city's parking requirements.

Johnson took exception to several audience comments criticizing the city for keeping the Mainstreet program under wraps.

"I can't think of a project that's had more public comment and more meetings than this one," he said. "We've had probably hundreds of meetings on this project."

Johnson also noted that the current deck design was the end result of several public hearings that found opposition to a large parking structure on the lot south of Main Centre and to the expense of a three-level deck on Cadbury.

"No downtown project can work anymore requiring on-site parking," Johnson said.

Council Member Paul Folino argued that the decks are needed to downtown property values and insure future tax benefits to taxing units like Northville Public Schools.

"Without progress, we will regress," Folino said. "If we regress, our children and our schools will suffer and I don't want to see that happen."

Not all of Monday's audience members had negative things to say about Mainstreet '93.

Jim Long, owner of Long's Plumbing and Fancy Bath Boutique and a member of the DDA, "I can't think of too many businesses in town that aren't going to benefit from improved, increased parking."

Said John S. Center property owner David Johnson, "I'm here to protect my business, and without a viable downtown I'm a dead duck."

Johnson noted that his proposed special assessment is $1,438.48, payable over 11 years at 6 percent interest.

"That's pretty cheap," he said, to assure adequate parking.

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently passed a resolution supporting Mainstreet '93, said Vice President Ann Willis, though the resolution did not discuss the special assessment directly.

"Our membership has called time and time again for us to do something about parking downtown," she said, while criticizing the "narrow-minded" view of several speakers.

"It's foolish to say 'My customers have enough parking,' because tomorrow they may not," Willis said. "Empty storefronts will affect everyone's business downtown, and affect the quality of life in Northville."

Individual business owners still have another chance to protest their assessments, at a July 6 public hearing called to confirm the assessment rolls. Notices listing the size of individual assessments are scheduled to be mailed to affected property owners June 18.

ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION OF THE ELECTORS OF NORTHVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS WAYNE, OAKLAND AND WASHTENAW COUNTIES, MICHIGAN TO BE HELD JUNE 14, 1993

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:
Please Take Notice that the annual election of the school district will be held on Monday, June 14, 1993. THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL OPEN AT 7 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING AND CLOSE AT 8 O'CLOCK IN THE EVENING.

At the annual school election there will be elected one (1) member to the board of education of the district for a full term of four (4) years ending in 1994, and one (1) member for an unexpired term of three (3) years ending in 1996.

THE FOLLOWING PERSONS HAVE BEEN NOMINATED TO FILL SUCH VACANCY(IES):

FOUR YEAR TERM
Jean M. Hansen
Stephen E. Lloyd

THREE YEAR TERM
Debra E. Faber
Joan Wadsworth

TAKE FURTHER NOTICE THAT the following proposition(s) will be submitted to the vote of the electors at the annual school election:

I. MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Northville Public Schools, Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, be increased by 22.63 mills ($22.63 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 5 years, 1993 to 1997, inclusive, to provide additional funds for operating purposes (this being a renewal of 22.63 mills for operating purposes which expires with the 1992 tax levy)?

ON JUNE 2, 1993, THE ELECTORS OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN WILL BE VOTING ON AN AMENDMENT TO THE MICHIGAN CONSTITUTION OF 1963 WHICH WILL MATERIALLY CHANGE THE METHOD OF FINANCING SCHOOLS. IF THIS AMENDMENT IS APPROVED, IT WILL NOT BE NECESSARY FOR THE ELECTORS OF THIS SCHOOL DISTRICT TO VOTE ON THE PROPOSITION ABOVE. IF THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT IS APPROVED BY THE ELECTORS, THE PROPOSITION SET FORTH ABOVE WILL NOT BE SUBMITTED AT THE ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION. HOWEVER IT WILL, IN THAT EVENT, BE NECESSARY TO REQUEST APPROVAL OF THE ELECTORS OF ADDITIONAL OPERATING MILLAGE FOR THE SCHOOL DISTRICT'S 1993 OPERATING TAX LEVY AND PROPOSITION "A" SET FORTH BELOW WILL THEN BE PRESENTED TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT AT THE JUNE 14, 1993 ANNUAL SCHOOL ELECTION.

OPERATING MILLAGE PROPOSITION

(TO BE VOTED UPON IF PROPOSITION "A" IS APPROVED BY THE ELECTORS OF THE STATE OF MICHIGAN ON JUNE 2, 1993)

This operating millage, if approved, together with the 18 operating mills authorized for levy in 1993, pursuant to the amendment to the Michigan Constitution of 1963 approved by the electors of the State of Michigan on June 2, 1993, shall be the authorized operating millage for the school district's 1993 operating tax levy.

PROPOSITION A

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Northville Public Schools, Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw Counties, Michigan, be increased by 9 mills ($9.00 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for a period of 5 years 1993 to 1997, inclusive, to provide additional funds for operating purposes?

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that the Regular Biennial Election of Schoolcraft Community College, Michigan, will be held at the same time and at the same voting places as the annual school election on Monday, June 14, 1993, and will be conducted by the same school officials for those electors of the community college district residing in this school district.

At the Regular Biennial Election there will be elected two (2) members for the office of Community College District Trustee for full terms of six (6) years ending June 30, 1999, and one (1) member for the office of Community College District Trustee for an unexpired term of four (4) years ending June 30, 1997.

THE FOLLOWING PERSONS HAVE BEEN NOMINATED TO FILL SUCH VACANCIES:

WASHTENAW COUNTY TREASURER

RICHARD H. BROWN, JR.
SECRETARY, BOARD OF EDUCATION

"Still wondering where to go to college? Here's some advice... Make Walsh College your second choice!"

David A. Spencer
President, Walsh College

"Why second? The reason is simple. Walsh College offers the final two years of a bachelor degree giving us the ability to concentrate on doing what we do best... business education."

If you're a recent high school graduate or want to go back to school and follow a business career path, here is my advice: Make your local community college your first choice, then transfer to Walsh College for your last two years.

Over the years, I have been impressed with the quality of education that students receive at their local community college before transferring to Walsh. With the sound educational foundation they receive at the community college level and the specialized education at Walsh, they are equipped to achieve their goals."

Walsh College offers undergraduate degrees in

- Accounting
- Computer Information Systems
- Finance
- General Business
- Management
- Marketing

Gridlock ends, state inheritance tax slashed

by TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

If he can't cut property taxes, Gov. John Engler will cut the inheritance tax.

"To cynics and naysayers, it's a sign of the end of gridlock," Engler said last week at a ceremonial signing of House Bill 4597.

At center stage, literally, with Engler was Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Bellford, sponsor of the bill cutting the cost of dying by $70 million.

An attorney, Bullard introduced members of the State Bar committee who worked on the reform bill.

"It was a tremendous bipartisan accomplishment," Bullard said. "It's a technically correct and perfect bill." To those who complained of the revenue loss, Bullard said, "It's money in the pockets of the people."

It was the day's lone bright spot for Engler, who also fielded questions on the defeat of Proposal A. The ballot proposal he backed would have cut property taxes $2 billion and raised the sales tax $1.7 billion.

Engler has advocated eliminating the inheritance tax since the mid-1980s, when Hudson Institute, a think tank, recommended it as a way of keeping senior citizens in Michigan and shoring up the economies of northern tourist towns.

"It's going to make money," said Engler, when asked about the revenue loss.

The Republican-controlled Senate twice had passed the bill only to have the Democrat-run House Taxation Committee refuse to take it to public hearings. Bullard, though Republican co-chair of that panel, didn't take it into his own committee but ran it through the House Commerce Committee.

It got 91 votes in the House and a healthy majority in the Senate — enough to let it take effect Oct. 1. Support came from both sides of the aisle, though not from the Democratic leadership.

The law:

- Abolishes the inheritance tax on bequests to heirs, a $110 item in the general fund budget.
- Substitutes an estate tax that piggybacks on the federal estate tax and will bring in $30 million to $40 million.
- Exempts estates valued at less than $600,000.
- Junks a multi-page form in favor of a single-page form.

- Extends the filing deadline from the current 105 days after death to nine months after death.

Sen. Joanne Emmons, R-Big Rapids, said the inheritance tax has cost Michigan 16,000 residents a year to places like Florida, which has no such tax. The Senate Finance Committee chair said the figure was provided by Comerica Bank economist David Littmann.

"They (retirees) vote with feet, dollars and word of mouth. States like Michigan emerged as losers — silent losers," Emmons said. "NBD and Comerica banks said there is $4 billion in their Florida branches from former Michigan residents.

"Michigan loses valuable sales, income and intangibles tax dollars when its residents flee to other states. We tax them when they earn it, we tax them when they spend it, we tax them when they invest it — must we also tax them when they die?" Emmons asked.

The tax cut is expected to be a campaign issue if Democrats nominate state Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Lansing for governor. Stabenow battled the bill.

Residents hopeful gate will block trespassers

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Residents on Garfield Road in Novi are hoping a gate and the watchful eyes of city police officers will keep this summer from becoming a reprise of last year, which they call a nightmare.

The problem is just under 60 acres of vacant land on the west side of Garfield Road, fronting a lake left by a former gravel mining operation.

A narrow road into the land was left unblocked and served as an open invitation to trespassing, all-night party-goers from throughout the metropolitan area — including cities as far away as Redford. The peaceful Garfield Road community became wild, to say the least, the residents say. Their litany of horrors includes blown-up mail boxes, bonfires, parking on homeowners' front yards, drunken driving and trash, beer cans and heaps of old tires tossed on the site, which is a protected wetlands.

"Last year was the final straw. I was working in my garden and four drunks pulled up and started yelling obscenities at me," Garfield resident Cindy Gronachan said.

"It was just a horrible summer last year. Drunkards were urinating into the lake. Nobody could go on their deck on a Sunday afternoon."

So far, it's a new neighborhood, said Gronachan, who has served as the spokesperson for the homeowners.

But she says it took a run-around at city hall, months after the initial complaint was aired in September 1992, until the matter was put to rest by the Novi Police Department.

The residents protested to the City Council and were assured the owner, Robert Langan, would be asked to put up a gate. Gronachan said what went up was a wire on two tree trunks and as the weather warmed up this spring, the partying commenced again.

On one weekend day this spring, 15 carloads of trespassers were counted on the property.

In May, Garfield Road resident William Gallaway wrote to city council to complain. Gronachan says she then wrote a letter to City Manager Edward Kriewall and made several phone calls to city hall and was given the run-around.

"Here are some residents in Novi that had to stop a problem in their own little neighborhood. And we had to follow the procedure we were supposed to follow and it didn't work," she said.

"The point is, why didn't the City of Novi follow through on this? ... I'm so mad I could spit bullets."

That's all changed. A gate with a "no trespassing" sign is now up and the police drive by more frequently. Gronachan says the Novi Police Department is to thank.

"The problem was solved. It was the police department we owe our thanks to. They really did their job," Gronachan said.

City Manager Edward Kriewall denies that the Garfield Road complaints were ignored at city hall. "Who does she think sent the police department out there? We sent them out there," Kriewall said.

Gronachan said she isn't convinced of that.

One thing is for sure. People living on Garfield Road are keeping their fingers crossed that their neighborhood is no longer a summer place for out-of-towners.

Local landscaper donates garden to Meadow Brook

Northville businesswoman Sandy Stamm is enamored with the look and style of the early 20th century, and her participation in a landscape and garden show has allowed her to indulge her passion.

Stamm, the owner of First Impressions Landscape and Exterior Design, was asked to create an outdoor ensemble at the Wilson mansion at Oakland University's Meadow Brook complex. Needless to say, she jumped at the opportunity.

"We were invited to donate a garden and I chose a site near the carriage house facing the estate," she said. "I chose it because I love the architecture and I wanted to be able to look at the mansion and daydream."

Stamm's creation will be on display this weekend at the Meadow Brook Landscape and Garden Show. The show will feature demonstrations, displays, an outdoor marketplace, and tours and nature trails, in addition to more than two dozen permanent and feature gardens.

There will also be food and speakers.

To add authenticity to the occasion, Northville Township resident Gina Mathews will portray family matriarch Matilda Dodge Wilson in period sketches.

Stamm said she is calling her creation "The Gatsby Garden" after the 1920s novel by American author F. Scott Fitzgerald. She designed the lay-out herself and donated the arbor, trellises and plants that went into it.

She said she made a commitment to maintain it for three years and will perform one more planting phase next year.

The landscape and garden show will run this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Meadow Brook, located near I-75 and University Drive (exit 79) in Rochester.

Tickets are $6 through TicketMaster and $7 at the gate. For more information, call 313-646-4992.

Schools would see more dollars with millage

were in place prior to the current year.

● "Taking into current account the Headlee rollback that will take place on the balance of the school operating mills, the total operating levy will be about 29.5 mills (the county allocated mills of 7.23 will be rolled back to 6.89)." The state-wide average is roughly 34 mills for operations (not including debt retirement millages).

● "A five-year millage authorization will keep the millage rate subject to the Headlee rollback in each of the subsequent four years."

"We're not asking for an increase in the millage," said Carol Rahimi, board of education president. "(But) we will realize more funding dollars."

Supt. Leonard Rezmierski said it is almost certain, however, that legislators will pass some sort of freeze or cap on assessments. Senate Bill 146, which proposes a 3 percent property assessment ceiling, is expected to be approved sometime in July.

Northville, as part of the Wayne County Association of School Administrators, supports the 3 percent cap because such a limit would reduce the impact of funding shortfalls for out-of-formula districts (such as Northville), prevent the Headlee rollback from reducing millage rates in out-of-formula school districts and provide instant tax relief for property owners and businesses.

If a 3-percent cap is approved on existing property and a 2 percent increase is allowed on new construction, the district should realize $1,126,174 in additional revenues under the millage proposal.

Two other scenarios facing the district include the following:

● If there is a freeze on existing property and a 2 percent increase allowed on new construction, the district's millage would generate an additional $433,944.

● If nothing is done, existing assessment increases, in addition to 2 percent increases on new construction, would bring in an additional $2,449,877 to the school district. However, about $465,000 of that would have to be deducted for increased social security payroll taxes and retirement payments.

— School board candidates Debra Faber and Steve Lloyd, who are running as a slate on Monday's ballot, voiced opposition to the millage at a League of Women Voters candidate forum held Monday night.

"We oppose the millage because of the way it reads on the ballot. It is in fact an increase of 1.05 mills," Faber said. "The information the administration is disseminating to the public is that it is a renewal."

Faber said she feels the district should have split the ballot and allowed voters to decide the base renewal and the 1.05 mill override separately.

"We feel they (the school district) have done a disservice to the community," she said.

Members of Citizens for a Better Northville couldn't agree more.

"The instant we found out what the submitted (ballot) language was going to be, we knew it was deceptively worded," said Jeff Hampton, a member of the school watchdog group. "They're pushing it as a renewal and it's not a renewal."

Hampton said the group endorses the idea that the district split the ballot as Faber suggested.

The suggestion that the board asked for a one-year renewal last year so it would not have to adhere to the Headlee rollback in this year's election is absolute nonsense, according to board trustee Jean Hansen.

"I know you're hearing that," she said in a candidate interview. "You know what the school financial picture was like last year. Everything was up in the air. Every year the state — once we've completed our budget — comes up with cuts as the year goes on. It creates all kind of havoc. Until there was some stability, we just didn't see any other way."

"I can assure you, this one-year thing was not to escape the Headlee rollback at all."

The reason the district opted for a five-year millage this year was that millage elections are too time consuming, according to Rahimi.

"This is not the way to do business," Rahimi said. "There's far too much time being spent on millage campaigns every year. There are far better things we need to be concentrating on."

School board candidate Joan Wadsworth said she was supportive of the millage request.

"In my mind it is a reasonable request," Wadsworth said. "I'm comfortable with the board's priority to rehire additional teachers. I've heard it over and over again that what the community wants is to restore classroom sizes. I think that's a good use of the money."

"It will cost close to a million dollars to do that. You can't carve out $1 million in the budget."

The board has committed to restoring class sizes to their traditional levels and to implementing parts of the strategic plan.

After the election, depending on what monies will be available, the district will begin holding public hearings on how the money should be spent. Input will be sought on the following items:

- Eliminate pay-to-play athletics.
- Restore resource teachers (1.5 full-time equivalent).
- Restore full-time student assistance program.

- Implement curriculum projects.
  - Implement operations/maintenance projects.
  - Restore custodians.
  - Restore high school monitors.
  - Restore full-time middle school gifted teacher.
  - Maintain business/education partnerships.
  - Restore clerical positions.
  - Restore one maintenance position.
  - Restore teacher assistants.
  - Set aside 1 percent for fund equity.
- Rezmierski said he didn't want to be an alarmist, however, if the millage is defeated, four things will happen.

One, there will be an immediate cash flow problem.

Two, the district will more than likely not be eligible for loans.

Three, there will be massive layoffs.

Four, the district will probably not be able to open up the schools.

"The board has not broached that yet because we don't think the community will come out like that," he said. "Looking at the flip side, there are a number of school districts around us that are (going through this). Look at Kalkaska."

Rezmierski said the district has instituted cost savings measures which will also be in place during the next school year.

The $170,000 reductions include measures such as implementing individual building energy conservation plans, imposing a cap on field trips, purchasing natural gas, converting to self-insured medical coverage, not replacing employees who retire or resign and realigning secretarial classifications.

Both Rezmierski and Rahimi said the contract negotiations with the Northville Education Association do not play a part in Monday's vote.

"Some people think by holding off

(on the millage) it will help negotiations," he said. "It won't help negotiations at all... we have no hidden agenda here."

"There is no hidden agenda in postponing the settlement," Rahimi added. "The things they're negotiating are not going to change depending on what happens on the 14th."

Rezmierski welcomed anyone with questions to call his office at 344-8440. He will be speaking about the millage at the following sites:

- Moraine Elementary Fun Fair, 5:30 p.m. June 11
- Cooke PTA, 9:30 a.m. June 13
- Meads Mill PTA, 9:30 a.m. June 14

Answers to June 14 millage request questions

● Existing assessment increases and a 2 percent increase on new construction would yield an additional $2,449,877.

Does the 22.63 request include a Headlee override?

Yes, the override, essentially, is built in. Because the request is for a renewal of existing millage, the Headlee override requirement does not apply. If the override did apply, the district would be required to roll back its 22.63 rate by 1.05 mills.

How are these funds going to be spent?

The board of education has set a priority of reducing high class sizes. Anywhere from 16 to 22 teachers will be needed to restore K-12 class sizes to their historical levels. Currently, 16.7 full-time equivalent teachers are on lay-off.

Recalling laid-off teachers (16.7 including benefits), would cost $685,000.

Additional teachers (6.6 due to growth, at $41,000 including benefits), would cost $270,000.

Strategic planning (1993-94 estimate), is estimated to cost $10,000 to $20,000.

About $1.8 million in new spending would also be identified. The board will consider these further priorities, with community input, beginning June 15 (random order) if funding is available:

- Eliminate pay-to-play (athletic and co-curricular) — $236,000.
- Restore resource teachers (1.5 for science, math, technology and gifted) — $61,500.
- Restore full-time student assistance program — $25,000.
- Implement curriculum projects (textbooks, technology, high school day) — $210,000.
- Implement operations/maintenance projects (roofs, painting, buried tank removal, etc.) — $260,000.
- Restore custodians (5.5) — $193,000.
- Restore high school hall monitors (two) — $35,840.
- Restore full-time middle school gifted teacher — $41,000.
- Maintain business/education partnerships — $10,500.
- Restore clerical positions (high school and middle schools) — $69,120.

- Restore one maintenance position — $39,680.
- Restore teachers assistants — $184,320.
- Set aside 1 percent fund equity — $250,000.

FOOD LOVERS DIET

To introduce a new approach to dieting, free diet pills were given to 50 people. With The Omicron Diet, one man lost 14 pounds in 5 days and one woman lost 18 pounds in 10 days. The average weight loss was over a pound a day for women and over 2 pounds a day for men. The Omicron Diet is a revolutionary new concept for unbelievably fast weight loss developed and clinically proven by National Dietary Research of Washington, D.C. This significant breakthrough in metabolic weight control was made possible by the utilization of biological information overlooked by other diet programs. With a formulation of natural enzymes along with real food, you shed unwanted pounds extremely rapidly and safely. Now available:

WHEN CLAIMS EXCEED COVERAGE

People who find that claims made against them exceed their insurance coverage should make every effort to see that their insurers act in good faith to settle and resolve claims in excess of their policy limits. For instance, a claim may be made for $100,000 against an individual who has only $25,000 of insurance coverage. If the claimant were willing to settle for $25,000, the settlement would not require the defendant to reach into his or her own pockets. If the insurance company, however, were to try to save something by refusing to settle for anything over $10,000, it would expose the defendant to an unnecessary trial risk. In such a case, the defendant should make sure that the insurer was not unreasonable in its willingness to pay out full coverage.

It can be helpful to have a trusted attorney by your side when it comes time to negotiate with an insurance company. # Senate OKs bill to ban smoking in schools, debate three-sided

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

In government there can be three sides to an argument, not just two. Take the bill to ban all smoking in schools, approved 28-8 Thursday by the Michigan Senate and sent to the House.

"The Senate has ignored the fact that a great many taxpayers are smokers. Many are athletic boosters and band boosters," said opponent Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, an ex-smoker and retired band booster.

"In many small communities, the only place to hold bingo is in school buildings. I've worked bingo for the band boosters. I could have supported this bill if it were amended to allow smoking in designated areas after school hours."

On the other hand, Sen. Michael O'Brien, D-Detroit, wanted to make the bill even more restrictive by banning alcohol, too.

"My attempt to include alcohol in the smoking bill was consistent with the message we intend to send," said O'Brien. "I've voted for every piece of anti-smoking legislation. We need to say it's not OK to have a Rotary beer tent on school property."

In the middle was sponsor Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron. He and 27 supporters wanted a simple bill extending the state's ban on smoking in schools to the entire building, 24 hours a day.

"It's a single-purpose bill to deal with tobacco," said DeGrow. He promised to co-sponsor an O'Brien bill to ban all alcohol in school buildings. That would ban service club beer tents in small town summer festivals.

Voting yes were area Sens. Robert Geake, R-Northville; Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills; David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield; and Lana Pollock, D-Ann Arbor.

Voting no was Dillingham.

Over 50 volunteer for Rouge clean-up

a stretch of the tributary between Five Mile and Ridge roads for this year's rescue effort because sections of the Rouge itself that had been cleaned in prior years remained fairly clear.

"We really didn't find anything in any of the other areas we did before that needed cleanup," Johnson said.

The just-cleaned stretch is also just downstream from a section in Plymouth Township that's been the focus of several years of cleanup efforts by the Plymouth-based Western Wayne County Conservation Association.

The Plymouth section of Johnson Drain also houses the redside dace, a threatened fish species with only one other known habitat in Michigan.

Since their own site remains fairly unclogged this year, WWCCA members turned out in force to the Northville site Saturday with chainsaws in hand to help their conservation-minded neighbors to the north.

The section is just downstream from the spot where the association planted hundreds of brown trout fingerlings last year, as part of a 4,500-fingerling plant at several locations along the waterway.

"They wanted to see as much of that cleaned out as possible, so the little trout could live," Johnson said.

WWCCA member Chuck Van Vleck slogged through the mud Saturday and came upon a foul-smelling trickle of orange-stained water leaking into the tributary.

"This doesn't mean God's telling us there's iron ore here," he said. "It means there's a pipe up there somewhere."

Van Vleck and other WWCCA members, along with Michigan United Conservation Clubs President Bob Laich, are working to get Johnson Drain redesignated as a stream, to take it out of the hands of the Wayne County Drain Commissioner and put it under the authority of the state Department of Natural Resources.

The move would put tighter restrictions on drainage into the waterway.

Among other volunteers Saturday were several crews from Res-Comm Custom Cleaning, Northville High School Counselor Charlie Stilec and Chamber of Commerce Director Laurie Marrs. The 30-yard dumpster was provided by City Management, while Waste Management provided a portable toilet for the occasion.

Volunteers snacked on discounted sandwiches provided by the Dandy Gander restaurant, courtesy of the Northville Record.

The Rouge Rescue is an annual event coordinated by the Detroit-based Friends of the Rouge, a non-profit group of concerned residents and organizations organized in 1986 and dedicated to the restoration and preservation of the Rouge.

Jim Graham, executive director of Friends of the Rouge, said Northville's site was among 23 cleanup sites in 17 communities this year. He estimated that 2,300 volunteers turned out.

"We at least matched last year's (attendance) figures," Graham said. "In some places like the Holliday Nature Preserve (in Westland), we had twice as many people as last year."

Friends of the Rouge is also expanding its activities beyond the annual cleanup, Graham said. Other projects nesting this year include placing nesting boxes for bluebirds, tree swallows, wood ducks and brown bats along the river, and stenciling messages by sewer grates that read "Dump no waste, drains to river."

"This year, I think we have a chance to make the Rouge Rescue more than just a one-day event," Graham said.

Our Opinion

Voters should give the nod to school millage

There has been much confusion over whether Monday's school millage request represents a renewal of existing millage or a renewal plus an increase.

The answer, in a sense, is both. Technically, the 22.63 mills for which the district is asking is a renewal. The district currently levies that amount (plus a county allocation and debt millage), so, numerically at least, the district is asking for nothing other than what is already in place.

But, the proposal contains what is, in effect, a built-in increase of 1.05 mills because that is the amount by which the district would be required to reduce its levy if the provisions of the Headlee Amendment applied.

The Headlee Amendment, to make a long story short, requires taxing bodies to reduce (rollback) millages so that tax increases from assessment hikes don't exceed the inflation rate. If governments want to keep additional revenues in excess of inflation, they must go to the voters and ask permission to "override" Headlee.

The Headlee override, however, does not apply to renewal requests, hence, no separate vote is needed this year.

Even though school literature specifies that 1.05 mills of the 22.63 package is, essentially, new millage, this unusual situation has led to charges that the district is deliberately misleading taxpayers by calling the millage a "renewal."

In any case, if the millage is approved, Northville School District taxpayers could be saddled with a 1.05 mill increase, or roughly $79 a year on a home valued at $150,000.

The extra tax, on top of what is already a difficult financial burden for property owners, normally would cause us to recoil. But, in this case, we can find reasons to recommend that voters approve the millage that will appear on the June 14 ballot.

School estimates show that the district would realize almost $2.5 million in additional revenue under the millage, but there is movement in Lansing to pass some sort of property assessment limitation for the coming year.

If current trends hold, the Legislature will pass a measure which will cap assessment increases at 3 percent. This would provide protection for property owners and lower the amount of new revenues from the school millage to $1,126,174, leaving the district with roughly a 4.7 percent revenue increase.

Given that there was no millage increase last year and that a property assessment freeze was in effect the year before, we do not see this increase as excessive. Indeed, the cost of rehiring pink-slipped teachers alone has been placed at $685,000, or about 61 percent of the new revenue.

We confess to feeling a little uncomfortable recommending that voters pass a millage based on what amounts to a hypothetical, but the potential for assessment limitation is strong in the wake of the defeat of Proposal A. In addition, the 22.63 mills would be good for five years, and would be subject to Headlee restrictions over that period.

For these reasons, we urge a yes vote on the ballot request.

Students show literary stripes

Lee Snider

The first annual Northville Record writing contest is history and the project, by all accounts, was a great success.

We received almost 150 essays and poems from middle and high school students on the theme of Northville's parks and recreation facilities. The judging was completed last month, and last Thursday the trophies and certificates were passed out to the winners.

The texts of the winning submissions were published in the June 3 edition.

I was pleasantly surprised by the quality and degree of polish of the writing. As I explained to the audience during the awards ceremony, I think I was still trying to work out the difference between a noun and a verb when I was the age of many of the contest authors.

But while the prose and poetry were solid overall, there were some entries, mostly from younger students, that lacked a certain sophistication.

One writer, obviously a future marketing major, argued for the need for a dance club in downtown Northville.

"I'm not talking about turning Northville around," the modest writer said, "all we want is a place where the kids can go and have fun. And Northville can make a profit off it. There won't be alcohol smoking and it will cost $2-$4 a head."

I've never heard of alcohol smoking, but I'm glad it would be banned. It sounds like it could be habit forming.

Another author also saw dollar signs in recommending a mini-theme park for the city.

"People could come from other states. This would help the hotels in Northville rake in big bucks."

You know, I hear money from other states is worth more.

One writer apparently felt there was enough room in Northville to bring a new Cedar Point into the city.

"Let us play on the 2,000 foot roller coaster, going over 150 miles per hour. There would be 10 roller coasters. Each roller coaster would seat 40 people."

That's just what we need — something that would make the racetrack look like a backyard play set.

Another author suggested making a group activity out of cleaning up the community. You'd have to mind your P's and Q's, though, as strict rules would be imposed.

"Cheating will not be put up with. Your group will be thrown out of the game. Also your group needs to find trash within the city limits. So you can not get trash from another city like Canton or Novi."

Yeah, no fair padding your trash count with stuff from other places.

Yet another writer wanted to see a rollerball facility established, but not just anyone would be allowed to participate.

"To play the game you have to be 4 ft. or taller and you have to be able to skate fast and slow at different points in the game."

I'm not sure I agree with that height requirement. It could disqualify many of your more talented rollerballers.

As great as the winning submissions were, there's something about these also-rans that make them fun in a special way. Kudos and thanks to all who wrote in.

School election offers candidates of quality

There is no excuse for not voting, and people who fail to do their duty at the ballot box are taking for granted something for which countless Americans have made the ultimate sacrifice.

Nevertheless, when you look at the quality of many candidates and realize that selections often have to be made on the basis of whom will do the least amount of harm, it's not hard to see where the indifference comes from.

Happily, this situation does not apply to the current school board race in the Northville School District, as district voters will have the opportunity June 14 to choose among four qualified, caring candidates for two open seats on the board of education.

Jean Hansen, Steve Lloyd, Joan Wadsworth and Debra Faber are active, informed people who obviously have the best interests of the school children and taxpayers at heart. The district would be well served by any of them.

Hansen and Lloyd are competing for a full, four-year term on the board. Hansen is a skills instructor for Ford Motor Co. and has been on the board of education since 1981. Lloyd is an executive engineer with General Motors, and has participated on several school-related committees.

Our preference:

• Jean Hansen.

Hansen's vast experience in education makes her a mandatory choice to continue serving the school district. Currently a trustee, Hansen, a former teacher, has held all officer positions on the board, including three terms as president. She has also been on the district's strategic planning team since 1989 and has received honors from the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Hansen's critics contend the veteran school official is just another member of the board's passive majority that does little more than mindlessly affirm the recommendations of the administration. This characterization is unfair. Though generally accommodating, Hansen clearly possesses the ability to think independently and has an instinct for making decisions that are in the overall good.

Joan Wadsworth and Debra Faber are vying for the three-year, unexpired term of current board President Carol Rahimi, who soon will relocate to the Chicago area.

Wadsworth has considerable experience on school committees, including the Northville Council of PTAs, the Language Arts Committee and the strategic planning team. She is also a classroom volunteer at Amerman.

Faber, who has a degree in elementary education, is also deeply involved in school issues, and is a member of the Moraine Elementary school improvement team, the district-wide strategic planning team, and the Moraine Junior Great Books committee. She is also an art appreciation parent instructor at Moraine.

Our preference:

• Joan Wadsworth.

Wadsworth's analytic skills are truly impressive and her level of involvement, both with the schools and in the community as a whole, indicates she would bring commitment and energy to the board.

As with Hansen, Wadsworth's detractors come from that faction of the community that opposes status quo approaches, but we believe, when considered on their individual merits, Hansen and Wadsworth represent the best choices to serve the public school district.

Northville Board of Education members serve without compensation.

Assistance helps students

Charles Stillec

The student assistance program at Northville High School was implemented in November 1987. It is a school-based program which provides education, support and awareness in order to intervene, identify, assess and refer students and families around the issue of chemical abuse and dependency.

Students can be referred by families, staff or can be self-referred. Most students involved in this program are seen weekly on a rotating hour with teacher and parent permission.

At Northville High School the Student Assistance Program coordinator is responsible for:

- Interviewing identified students
- Facilitating support groups
- Working with individual students
- Co-facilitating SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk)
- Speaking to various community groups
- Speaking to high school groups
- Serving as a referral source for staff
- Co-facilitating community and parent support education groups as needed.

Readers should be aware of what a typical day looks like behind the scenes. On any given day these groups are run to support students:

- Aftercare — recovery groups
- Chemical awareness group
- Relationship stress group
- Fresh start stop smoking group

- Concerned persons (children of alcoholics) group
- Keeping a balance group
- Grief and loss group
- Eating disorders group

Students are also seen individually as needed and referrals to outside counseling are made if deemed necessary and appropriate. Since the inception of this program hundreds of students have been seen and helped. Since the millage cutbacks have limited the programs to two days a week much of the year and recently three days a week, there has been a drastic cutback in service.

Comparing 1991-92 to 1992-93 reveals the following differences:

- 1991-92: 19 groups were facilitated with 175 students in groups and 475 total referrals to the student assistance program.
- 1992-93: Nine groups were facilitated with 51 students in groups and 116 total referrals.

The key to the program is consistency, high visibility and availability to the students, the parents, and the community.

Each year it is apparent how important it is for hundreds of students to trust and talk to someone. Talking, support and sharing may take one session or may last for years. Students and families need to be heard, and our schools provide this service in one very unique program which is "student assistance."

For further information on the student assistance program or to answer concerns call me at 344-1825.

Elections shouldn't be set so close

To the editor:

I contacted the Northville School Business office recently inquiring about its special June 14 election and why it couldn't have been included in the June 2 election. The information given to me was, "Every school district in Michigan must hold an election on the second Monday of June — no exceptions."

I question this waste of money and time. My absentee ballot cost 78 cents plus 29 cents for the initial application (postage). The Proposition A was 29 cents plus 28 cents. I was told it costs approximately $4,000 to conduct each of these elections.

Dearborn (Detroit Free Press, May 29) held a joint election. Why is it exempt? Is Northville so wealthy it can throw away $4,000? Some kids could get to participate in an enrichment class for this wasteful use of money. Please explain again.

Firing of firm was outrageous

To the editor:

"A society that loses its sense of change is doomed to extinction." This was included in a speech delivered by U.S. Senator Daniel P. Moynihan last month at a conference of a civic group, the Association for a Better New York. Although his comments refer to New York City, they hold meaning for many other municipalities, including Northville Township.

Recently the township board, in a closed-order session, fired the law firm of Kelly & Kelly P.C., without extending the common courtesy of advising them before the meeting that such an action was pending. Although the vote was taken on May 13, John and Michele Kelly were not advised until May 20 of the Board's action. (Although Supervisor Karen Baja was conversing with John and Michele on Tuesday, May 18, at the Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting and did not advise them at that time.)

This writer attended the township meeting on Friday, May 21, and was appalled at the actions of Supervisor Baja and her tyrannical handling of the meeting. She intimidated the other trustees and treated John Kelly in a very disrespectful manner.

The whole episode raises several questions:

1. Why did the Board hire more than one law firm to start with?
2. Why did they retain Vanderveer Garzia, a firm with virtually no municipal experience, the only legal firm making a contribution to Supervisor Baja's campaign and the only firm with a partner who is an old college friend of her husband?
3. Why didn't the township select one of the other 24 firms applying for the job; one that has substantial municipal experience? (In addition to Kelly and Kelly, three names come to mind immediately — Better-Howlett of Bloomfield Hills; Cummings, McClory, Davis and Aho of Livonia; and Donald Morgan of Plymouth.)
4. Why wasn't Kelly and Kelly retained over Vanderveer, Garzia? (Kelly and Kelly have more experience, attend board meetings without charging the township, and receive high marks from the township police and other departments, and 35th District judges.)
5. Why are the township department heads required to travel to the office of Vanderveer Garzia, in Detroit, when they could meet with Kelly and Kelly, a local firm?

6. Why doesn't the board of trustees care about public sentiment? (At the meeting on May 21, one of the trustees indicated she did not care about public sentiment and that they were going to stick by their decision to fire Kelly and Kelly.)

Yes, I am outraged over this and other actions of the Northville Township Board and ask that they reconsider their dismissal of Kelly and Kelly.

Success depends upon planning

To the editor:

Regarding your editorial of May 24, 1993, please note the following relative to Northville Public Schools' Strategic Planning:

- Students are the focus, not the sacrifice of Strategic Planning.
- Planning is essential in any process. Failure to plan is a plan for failure.
- Without planning there is no progress. Are you suggesting that we halt progress in favor of retrenchment?
- The planning process is complex and requires professional guidance.
- Professionals do not work for free.
- Fourteen of the 25 core members are from the community at large. They do not receive remuneration. They have donated in excess of 532 hours of meeting time (32-93 school year).
- These 532 hours do not include prep or presentation time.
- Regarding "Public Perception": Principles must not be sacrificed for political gain.
- Did you discuss the Strategic Plan with any of the 25 members prior to the editorial? Who?

Barbara Flis

P.S. If you have 38 hours to spare come to the next Strategic Planning meeting. I'll buy lunch!

Millage request is excessive

To the editor:

I hope that Northville School District taxpayers do not ignore their opportunity on Monday, June 14. After the defeat of Proposal A the local millage issue became clear. We are being asked to approve a revenue increase of 10 percent. The District would have an additional 2.5 million dollars to spend over the current year. Over $800,000 of those dollars were to be used to open a new school, a decision that has since been reversed. Therefore, there is no certainty where those funds would be spent. Not coincidentally, none of the labor contracts have been finalized. As a result, taxpayers are being asked to make a five year commitment of funding before we know how much and where the money will be spent. In fact, final contacts and costs could result in even more expenses than this millage would provide funding for. Does this sound familiar to you? It might be relevant to remember that salaries have increased in the district at a faster rate than inflation, year after year. How many residents have not had at least one or two more years of frozen or reduced income in the past five years? Decide for yourself if you are comfortable allowing tax dollars to continue to be spent this way.

If nothing else, spend the time to really understand what is at stake. We owe it to each other to care enough to make our decision and cast our vote. Don't let a few decide for the majority.

John P. O'Reilly

Millage approval is a necessity

To the editor:

On June 14 the Northville School District faces a serious decision. The decision will determine whether or not the doors of Northville Public Schools will open in September. The ballot question will simply be to renew the existing 22.63 operating mills for the coming five year period.

In addition, voters will have the opportunity to select two candidates among the four who are running to serve on the Northville Board of Education. Another six citizens are running for re-election to the Schoolcraft College Board. We have to choose three.

While electing good candidates is important, renewing the operating millage is absolutely crucial. The Northville school system is clearly unable to function without successful passage of the operating millage renewal.

Without question, this request by our Board of Education can only be viewed as reasonable and necessary. Every citizen has a stake in maintaining our excellent school system, whether or not they happen to have children enrolled in the school at the present time. I urge everyone to vote YES on the millage renewal proposition on Monday, June 14.

R. Robert Geake
State Senator

School numbers don't add up

To the editor:

Here's an accounting question for the average voter to ask the Northville Public Schools (NPS) administration: "Which numbers are we counting?"

No less than two separate pieces of NPS propaganda have hit the streets this week with conflicting information.

First, what the NPS calls a "Renewal Only" is a renewal plus a tax increase of 1.05 mills, nearly $2.5 million in new tax dollars each year. Which numbers are we counting?

One flier calls for the hiring of 5.6 new teachers (at $41,000 each) while another calls for hiring 6.6 new teachers. Which numbers are we counting?

In calculating the money needed for new students, the NPS is including two years worth of students, as if last year's new students were stuffed in a closet somewhere and not in the classroom. Which numbers are we counting?

The NPS claims upwards of $200,000 in cost savings measures. Yet, their own detailed information identifies only $35,600 in new cost savings. The balance, which doesn't come close to $200,000, are items repeated verbatim from last year. How many times are we going to count the money saved from removing redundant lighting? How many times are we going to install the same diesel storage tank to purchase at bulk rate? How many times are we going to count the pennies saved when the bathroom light was turned off in 1989?

Which numbers are we counting? Call Superintendent Rezmierski and ask him. Then VOTE June 14, because we're also counting on you.

Robert Bernard

Millage should be approved

To the editor:

On June 14 the citizens of Northville Public Schools will be asked to approve a five year renewal of 22.64 mills to operate the school system. Here are the facts that relate to this request:

1. This is a bonafide renewal. The millage being requested is the same as the millage approved last year.
2. If approved, this millage rate may result in as much as a 3 percent per pupil increase in revenue for 1993 due to the increased property assessments. This money would be used to restore the 16.7 teacher positions lost last year, thereby beginning the process of reducing our class sizes. It may also allow other priority items as determined by the school board with citizen input, such as the "Pay to Participate" program, to be addressed.
3. This 3 percent per pupil increase in revenue is a best case scenario. Due to the defeat of Proposal A there are several bills currently being considered in Lansing to restructure school financing and, in some way, modify property taxes. Each of these bills, if approved, would reduce the funds available to the Northville schools and might even result in less funds than last year.

The Northville Public School System is an excellent school system.

Perfect, no. In need of improvement, yes.

However, it is still an excellent system. Standardized test scores show that our children are being educated better than most in southwestern Michigan for less money. This excellence is worth preserving and building upon. We should approve the millage renewal June 14.

Thomas G. Gudritz

Bicyclist is grateful for help

To the editor:

On Friday, May 28 at 10:30 a.m. I was out on my bicycle for a morning ride. I went off Seven Mile between Riggs and Wing and tried to get back and unfortunately I was not able to and in the process was thrown from my bicycle. You might say I kissed seven mile a couple of times. I would like to take a few minutes to thank everyone who helped me. The Northville City Police, fire and rescue, the EMT, the woman down from Huron Valley Ambulance, the young girl on the mountain bike, the driver of the red car and the gentleman from the back car.

Thank you all for your help.

Shift focus from funds to results

Phil Power

There were two important questions of public policy contained in Proposal A that was defeated last week.

1. Should the taxation structure of Michigan continue to rely as much as it does on the property tax?

2. How should public K-12 education be financed so as to provide the best schooling for all Michigan's children?

The real reason Proposal A failed was that it smeared these two questions — both important, both related, but certainly not both the same — into one complex ballot proposal.

Proposal A was confused and therefore fundamentally flawed from the start. All the huffing and puffing about the indifference of the rich suburbs or voter cynicism are merely convenient rhetoric to disguise its basic design flaw.

As for "indifference," consider voters in the richer school districts, concentrated mainly in suburban Oakland and Wayne counties. Proposal A provided them no particular relief from high property tax rates, offering in exchange a diversion of money to poorer school districts without linking the extra funds to improved student performance.

Is it any wonder suburban voters turned down such a bad deal?

There was a lot of cynicism expressed in the vote, aimed mainly at the folks who run education in Michigan, particularly the Michigan Education Association. The general view was that if Proposal A passed, the only possible beneficiaries would be MEA members and some school administrators.

The intensity of this kind of talk is new to me (some folks even referred to the "Michigan Extortion Association") and should be a matter of deep concern for the MEA.

Given this widespread attitude, I doubt very much whether any kind of education finance reform proposal can pass in the future without being tied very tightly to improvements in school performance.

Which, frankly, is exactly what is needed. For far too long, our governmental and political system has concentrated on inputs (how much to tax, how much to spend) without much concern for outcomes (what we actually get for our money).

Education offers the clearest case.

First the inputs. From 1970 to 1990, spending on Michigan K-12 education grew from $1.6 billion to $6.7 billion, or a 25 percent increase after inflation. During this period, student enrollment went down nearly 25 percent. Spending per pupil increased nearly 70 percent in constant dollars!

Now the outcomes. College admission test scores (the only hard outcome measure we have for the 1970-90 period) changed not at all!

The lesson is clear: Heaven only knows we spend enough on education, so it's about time we started getting some results.

As our leaders start mulling over what to do in the aftermath of Proposal A's defeat, they might well begin by reviewing this simple lesson.

FLYING HIGH

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Members of the Ribcrackers excel in their air craft.

A model airplane club, the Ribcrackers have been meeting for almost 20 years to keep up on the latest chit-chat in the model airplane industry and to swap how-to stories. Their favorite thing, though, is getting out on the runway and doing what they do best — flying their models.

"You have to concentrate, but the one nice thing about flying is you don't have a problem or a care in the world," said Ken Koza of Brighton.

"You have to have patience, that goes with any hobby of models — cars, trains or planes," said Dave Doehler of Northville Township, secretary of the club. "We're stimulating what real planes do... Every one of us would love to be in a full scale plane.

"It's a lot of fun building something and making it fly as you do acrobatics and maneuvers and succeed at it."

A World War II pilot, Koza has been flying model airplanes for over 25 years. He, much like other members of the club, flew models when he was a teen-ager.

"Most of us, when we were younger, built planes and flew them," Ralph Hegadorn of Livonia said. "Some continued, some stopped."

"A lot of kids get into it when they're 10 or 12 and get out of it when they're 16 when they get cars and start chasing women," Koza laughed.

Ed Katz, who served as field safety director at Wednesday's presentation at Meads Mill Middle School in Northville Township, has always been interested in aviation.

"I've always really wanted to fly a full-scale airplane," he said. "I had a couple hours of flying lessons in World War II before I ran out of money and the government decided to send me somewhere else."

Volunteer

Scouting need becomes full-time volunteering

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Sometimes you can snowball in volunteering far beyond what you'd asked for — and love it.

That's what happened to Angela Jean, who went to a school round-up in Novi in 1990 because her step-daughter wanted to join Girl Scouts — and there wasn't an available troop.

So she signed up, took a training course, and organized a troop. That meant she had to plan and conduct a troop meeting after school every other week.

And she still does it. Her step-daughter has moved away, but her niece is in her troop of 10 fifth-graders.

Next she was named director of Girl Scout leaders at Novi Meadows. Each school has a director, she said, to coordinate its Girl Scout activities.

Soon after that Jean was elected head of all of the Novi Schools' directors, responsible for planning and conducting monthly meetings and organizing the community activities for Girl Scouts — activities like the Christmas party at Novi Meadows, the dance at the Civic Center, and the service project for the year.

Then in this last year, Angela Jean said, "I was appointed by paid staff in Detroit to be Neighborhood Service Unit Director," which is a liaison position between the local Girl Scout directors and the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council. It's an appointment which brings her to morning and afternoon meetings in Detroit four times a year.

Oh, she has other demands on her time, including a full time job of 45 to 50 hours a week.

But of her Girl Scouting, she said, "It's a lot of fun, and I'll stay in it as long as my troop does."

If you want to know how to volunteer in Girl Scouts, you're welcome to call Angela Jean at 347-7841.

In Our Town

Northville youngster has starring role in play

Christine Anne Price of Northville is starring as Baby June in the Stagecrafters production of "Gypsy," a revival of the 1959 classic based on the memoirs of Gypsy Rose Lee.

The Our Lady of Victory sixth grader has performed in numerous productions, including those with the Michigan Opera, Northville Marquis and Ann Arbor Ballet theatres.

Price can be seen at the Baldwin Theatre in Royal Oak. Show dates are today, tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m.; Sunday at 7 p.m.; and June 17, 18 and 19 at 8 p.m. June 20 at 2 p.m. June 25 and 26 at 8 p.m. and again at 2 p.m. June 27.

For ticket reservations call (313) 541-6430. The ticket office is open Tuesdays and Thursdays between 7 and 9 p.m. and Fridays between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Newcomers news

New members in the Northville Newcomers Club include the following: Lisa and Chris Compo, Debbie DiGirolamo and Ken Roberts, Cora Leeds, Linda and Bob Shenefelt, Midge and Bart Stillwagon and Gwyn and Bob Street.

Activities on tap for the next week include:

Couples Pinochle — June 11 at the home of Hughean and Mark Timm. Please bring an appetizer and your own drink.

Wine-tasting — June 11 at the home of Doug and Diane Farquhar.

Couples Euchre — June 12. There are two groups to join.

Games, Games, Games — June 12 at the home of Dave and Jill Kuznicki. The group will be participating in the Wegzyn/Kuznicki Polka. Be prepared for an outdoor event. Bring an appetizer and your choice of beverage. The games begin at 7:30 p.m.

Recipe Exchange — June 14 at the home of Ginny Malisch for a summer picnic. The exchange begins at noon.

Bunko — June 15, hosted by Paulette Zizzo.

Ladies Bridge — June 16, 10 a.m. to noon.

Ladies Evening Euchre — June 17, hostess is Jo Ann Pierce.

For more information about any of the above activities, call membership chairperson Lisa Kozerski at 380-9355.

Single Place presents

Single Place participants will gather at 10 a.m. Sunday in the library at First Presbyterian Church. The gathering is specially designed for Christian singles of all denominations as a time of learning, sharing and growing. "Knowing Your Own Cues, How What We Do Has An Effect on What Happens" with Pam Jacobs will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 16.

Also that evening, Jim Russell will speak on "Questions of Faith, What Matters Anyway?"

An Opportunity for Growth Workshop will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. June 10, 17 and 24. Bettina Edwards will speak on "Learning to Say Goodbye." Some of the most difficult times in our lives involve some form of saying goodbye: death, divorce, end of friendships, moves, job loss, etc. Edwards will explore how to put some good into goodbyes.

A donation of $24 is requested. Registration is required. The workshop is sponsored by Single Place Adult Ministries.

A country western dance and lesson session will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight Saturday, June 12, at Northville Recreation Center. Bernard Corney will be the instructor.

A white water rafting trip will be held July 8-11 on New River Gorge in Hilco, West Virginia. The trip is being sponsored by the Single Place Adult Ministries First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

"Cushion Crew and Brew" will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. Friday, June 11, at 27630 Schoolcraft (Inkster and I-96). Call Char at 981-4118 for more information.

Outdoor volleyball will be played at 7 p.m. every Sunday at Park Place, beginning this Sunday.

Tickets are $7 in advance and $9 at the door.

For further information on any of the Single Place events, call the Single Place office at 340-0911.

Local DAR chapter to sponsor genealogical workshop June 19

The Sarah Ann Cochran Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will sponsor a genealogical workshop Saturday, June 19, at the Plymouth Public Library. Participants may stop by any time between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Reservations are not necessary, and there is no charge to participate.

Barbara Green, DAR state lineage research chairwoman, will conduct the session, assisted by Eva Collins, State Regent of Michigan. Several other DAR Genealogists will assist.

Membership in the DAR is based on the descent from a man or woman who served as a sailor, soldier or civil officer in one of the colonies or states, or as a recognized patriot who rendered material aid to the cause of independence. Proof of lineage is required.

The genealogists will assist those attending on a one-to-one basis. Special assistance will be given to those women 18 years of age and older who are interested in joining DAR.

The workshop is open to anyone interested in working on family lines and family worksheets will be provided.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring any helpful data concerning their ancestors such as births, death and marriage certificates, baptismal certificates, land records, family bibles and genealogies, census records, obituaries, cemetery records and newspaper clippings.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Sue Petres at 344-4635 or Gloria Collins at 348-1857.

On Campus

JENNIFER JEAN JORDING and SCOTT ROGER STASAK, both of Northville, are degree candidates at the University of Michigan.

JUSTIN ATKINS of Northville was among the Alma College students graduating with honors at the college's 1993 commencement April 24.

A biology major who received a bachelor's degree, Atkins graduated magna cum laude, an achievement which requires a 3.6 cumulative grade point average (and 3.4 in credits outside the division of the major).

He also earned departmental honors in biology having a 3.5 grade point average in biology, writing a thesis of honors caliber and presenting that thesis publicly. His thesis topic was "Interaction of the ambrosia beetle Xyloterinus politus and its symbiotic fungi."

Atkins, a 1989 graduate of Au Gres-Sims High School, is the son of Sherri Atkins of Northville and the late J. Glen Atkins.

BRIAN P. DOWNS, of Detroit Catholic Central High School and SCOTT LLOYD of Northville High School, both sophomores, have been selected to attend the 1993 Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation (HOBY) Michigan East Leadership seminar. These students will join 192 other outstanding young leaders representing Southeastern Michigan high schools. The conference, scheduled for May 13-16, will be hosted at the Eastern Michigan University campus.

CHRISTOPHER BULLOCK, HEATHER M. COLINS, STEVEN W. COON, TIMOTHY J. DUFF, VICTORIA L. EPPERS, CHRISTOPHER GREN, SUSAN A. KOSTER, CHRISTOPHER LEMMON, MICHELLE M. LESLIE, JACQUELINE MAE LONG, MARIA L. MACINIS, KEVIN J. MCCULLOCH, TIMOTHY G. PETROSKY, COLLEEN MARGARET REGAN, KENNETH C. SCHULTZ, KRISTANNA TURNER, LAURA MICHELE WALLS, JEREMY C. WALTZ, JAMES MATTHEW WILLERER, and DANIELLE RENEE WITEK, all of Northville, earned 3.5 grade point averages or better for the spring semester at Michigan State University.

TAIAA SCHREINER of Canton has been selected as the 1993 recipient of the University of Michigan Scholarship, awarded by the University of Michigan-Northville Alumni Club in cooperation with the Schoolcraft College Foundation. Scholarship Chairperson Martha Nield of Northville presented a plaque to Schreiner on behalf of the University of Michigan-Northville Alumni Club.

Schreiner is a member of Schoolcraft's national honor society, Phi Theta Kappa. She has earned and maintained a 3.8 grade point average while working 40 hours a week. She will attend the University of Michigan this fall, majoring in accounting.

CHERRI L. DELUCA, and JENNIFER L. DRAGON, both of Northville, were elected to the University of Michigan chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. They were elected "on the basis of high scholarly achievement, broad cultural interests and good character."

CYNTHIA SECOF of Northville received high honors at Washtenaw Community College for receiving a 3.7 grade point average while completing at least 12 credit hours.

STACY L. TUCKER, WENDY R. CARROLL and PAUL D. WARNER, all of Northville, were named to the dean's list at Hope College. To be named to the honor roll students must achieve a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

ABBY AND ADRIENNE EDWARDS of Northville graduated from Central Michigan University cum laude with degrees in business administration and accounting.

Adrienne has accepted a position with NBD in Detroit. Abby has been accepted to Wayne State's Law School.

TODD EARL OSBORNE of Northville received academic honors at Purdue University. Students who earn academic honors at Purdue must have earned at least a 3.5 semester or cumulative grade-point average on a 6 point scale.

TODD A. CLASON of Northville is a distinguished senior in biology at Western Michigan University. He was awarded $75 for his outstanding achievement in biology and his minimum grade point average of 3.5.

BRIAN T. O'NEILL received a bachelor of science at Adrian College in mathematics. O'Neill, a 1989 graduate of Northville High School, is the son of James and Mary O'Neill of Waterwheel Road.

Engagement

Louis Isabell/Nadine Nash

Loy and Veronica Nash of Charlotte announce the engagement of their daughter, Nadine Marie Nash to Louis John Isabell (John), of East Lansing, son of Louis and Agnes Isabell of Northville. Nadine is a 1988 graduate of Charlotte High School. She received her associates degree in psychology from Lansing Community College in 1993. She is employed by the Great Lakes Region American Red Cross as a departmental secretary.

John in a 1986 graduate of Detroit Catholic Central. He received his BSBA in marketing and finance from Lawrence Technological University in 1991. John is employed by Comerica Bank of Lansing as an assistant branch manager.

A Sept. 18, 1993 wedding is planned.

Model builders get their airplanes off the ground

In 1977, Katz' wife bought him a Heath model airplane kit. He built it and three months later sort of bumped into the Ribcrackers Club.

"I was just taxiing the plane in a park in Livonia when, lo and behold, the club was out there," he said.

The Ribcrackers have changed flying sites several times and have flown at Schoolcraft and in Wixom, Novi and New Hudson.

"We're losing one of our fields in Novi because they're building a church there at 10 Mile and Beck," Katz said.

It's just not a lack of land that prevents a flying field for model airplane enthusiasts.

"One of the problems with this hobby is that it only takes one person to complain and we lose the field," Koza said. "This is a very safe hobby and there's not so much noise."

"It's safer than driving to work every day," Katz said.

"And you get more noise from all those trimmers and mowers in the neighborhood," added Al Luckham of Livonia.

There are about 150 members in the Ribcrackers, which got its name because airplane wings have ribs in them and, well, members have a tendency to keep breaking those ribs.

"The one nice thing about models is if you crash you can laugh about it," Koza said.

"We're lucky — we haven't hit any cars yet," joked Katz.

But there have been injuries associated with the sport.

"You really have to watch it, those propellers can be very unforgiving," Katz said, showing a scar on his hand.

Koza, who has crashed three airplanes within the span of six weeks, explained that some of the airplanes have up to 5 horsepower engines in them.

"That's like a lawn mower," he said. "It's quite powerful."

Katz said injury usually only occurs as a result of stupidity.

As field safety director, Katz recently took over the duties once held by Ray Franciscutti.

"You look at the aircraft and inspect it to see if it's flight-worthy," Franciscutti said.

The rules are to stay over the field and be considerate of other pilots.

"It's considered bad form when you fly your plane two inches from someone else's nose," Katz said.

The hobby is an expensive one, costing about $300 to get started.

However, engines and radios can be moved from one plane to another.

"It's cheaper than golf, chasing women or drinking in a bar," Koza said.

"It's like golf," Doehler compared.

"You pay your green fees, lose a few balls, but you still have the bag and the clubs."

Another benefit to building and flying model airplanes is more of a domestic issue.

"It keeps the wife sane because it gets the old man out of the house and leaves the wife alone," Franciscutti laughed.

It can take as little as 40 hours or as long as several months to build a plane.

"There's kits on the market that you can probably finish within a month of leisure time," Katz said. "Some of them come with excellent instructions."

Doehler particularly enjoys the building aspect of the hobby and has even designed and planned his own plane.

"I enjoy building a lot," he said. "Some guys throw something together so they can get out and fly."

Doehler calls his method of construction "scratch building," or building from purchased plans. He has three planes he built from kits and four he scratch built.

Fee garden takes winning honors with ingenuity

By PATRICIA ZIELKE
Special Writer

A design director at Exhibit Works in Livonia, where he directs the design and development of exhibits and special events for major national and international corporations, Don Fee applies some of the basic design principles in his garden as he uses in his work.

Color, texture, height and composition are a few of the components in creating a beautiful landscape filled with flowers, bushes and trees.

Fee lives on Thayer directly across the street from Our Lady of Victory Church. His large lot is 300-feet deep by 100-feet wide. Stones, rocks and other natural materials are used to define flower beds and his hand-laid curved brick pathways take us on a journey through the garden.

A portion of the front garden, embraced by a fence of spreading yews, contains large Japanese maples, rhododendrons, malus jade (weeping crab apple), Washington Hawthorne, crab apple, surrounded by English ivy and an Oregon holly, which is currently displaying a large cluster of hanging yellow blossoms.

At the sides are varieties of hosta, a 100-year-old lilac bush and beds of brilliantly colored tulips, with a grand old oak taking center stage flanked by stately sugar maples.

Taking a trip through the back garden, a hot tub keeps beckoning you to stop, hop in and enjoy the surroundings of cascading wisteria covering an overhead trellace, along with a privacy fence of snow ball bushes, pyracantha, catnecaster, Japanese maples and Japanese holly (sounds like the road company from World War II) and a 7-foot tall wind mill palm from Florida.

Stepping away from the hot tub and up to the deck, which holds a Ficus tree and giant pot of red geraniums, we're looking down onto a gently sloping hill covered with hosta, euonymus and creeping myrtle, to the heart of the garden—a basin containing a serpentine-shaped bed filled with globe arborvitae, berenita, tiger lillies, varieties of day lillies, lupines, plox, delphinium, crimson rhododendron, ajuga, pyramid holly and mountain laurel (indigenous to Seattle Wash.).

There's also a rose bed containing varieties of bush and climbers.

They're looking good, but no blooms yet.

A small lily pond glistens among the lush vegetation, providing a romantic setting for a bull frog lothario to romance his mate on a warm summer's eve by croaking a ballad only another frog could love.

The sides and back are filled with wild flowers — some hand-planted and some that just blew in from good neighborhoods. Lots of gigantic silver dollars, wild raspberries, pachysandra, wild phlox, thistle, tall ferns, many hemlocks (Don's favorite tree) and a thick bittersweet vine vigorously climb an old maple tree.

Bittersweet's colorful orange berries provide a cheery contrast against a gray autumn sky.

Fee has rescued many scruffy shrubs and trees from imminent destruction by former owners who no longer had the desire to restore them to health. His garden is an inspired combination of dignified and divine to wild and wooley — a harmonious and creative integration with pleasing and interesting visual results.

Patricia Zielke is a member of the Country Girls' branch, Womens' National Farm and Garden Association.

Don Fee's daughter Jessica, above right, tends to some of the plants in her father's garden. Fee's was selected as the Garden of the Month by the Country Girls' branch of the Womens' National Farm and Garden Association. Left, the lily pond in Fee's backyard.

Murder mystery at Little Theater

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Combine a wacky cast, a script that allows for plenty of ad libbing and a plot so twisted it leaves audience members scratching their heads while holding their sides from laughter, and what do you have?

The latest murder mystery at the Samuel H. Little Theater, of course.

The Soap Opera Murders, produced by Off-Broadway Productions and written by David Nelson, is an hour of silly jokes and side-splitting laughter that revolves around the imaginary filming of the soap opera "The Tears of Our Life." The theatrical audience plays the role of a stage audience witnessing the filming, and budget cutbacks force the actors to pluck people out of the audience for parts in the soap.

The plot revolves, loosely, around Derek Stratton's love for Jenny, the maid at his mother's mansion. Their affair threatens to derail Mrs. Stratton's plans to marry her son to heiress Chastity Milestone and combine the family fortunes.

Tom Logan plays the nerdy Derek to Laura Genitti's Penny, while Ellen Sandweiss-Hodges plays the villainous Chastity Milestone, slinking around the stage in a red dress singing numbers like "Whatever Chastity wants, Chastity gets" and "I'm always true to you darling, in my way."

The lovely David Nelson plays Mrs. Stratton, while a traveling plastic surgeon and his well-endowed assistant are played by the thickly-accented Gary Sturm and Tracy Horne. When Horne loses her phalandering doctor to Gloria Fortune, as played by Beth Wingert, Wingert gives a raunchy new meaning to the phrase "What's up, doc."

The real fun of the play is in its use of several audience members in bit parts. At Saturday's performance, a hapless audience member named Ron is pulled on stage to play the role of the butler. He mutters "I can't believe I'm doing this as the cast members dress him up in a long coat and slip him cue cards for his lines.

When two of the cast members are shot, the crew seizes a poor man named Mike out of the front row to play Dr. Watson to Nelson's barefoot Detective Chang.

A young man named David, together with other students from Bethesda Christian School, was treated to a prom night he'll never forget as he was cast in the role of Derek's long-lost son.

When the audience members are asked to vote on who the killer is at the end of the play, David is listed as a suspect. "He didn't do it," ad libs Beth Wingert. "Not yet, but he is on his prom."

The Soap Opera Murders runs Friday and Saturday nights through the summer at the Samuel H. Little Theater, 112 E. Main, Northville. For more information call Genitti's at 349-0522.

Entertainment Listings

Special Events

NOVI POPS: Rush over tonight to Novi High School for a free outdoor concert at 6:30 p.m. The high school band, directed by Tim Hoey, will be playing everything from jazz to Mozart's Jupiter Symphony on the grounds between the commons and the school building. If it rains, the show will go on in the high school auditorium.

BAND STAND: The Novi Concert Band, a symphonic wind ensemble, will be performing on June 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the gazebo in downtown Northville. The concert is free.

ART GALLERY NOUVEAU: "Women of Artistry" is the first exhibit scheduled for the new Little Art Gallery at Genitti's Samuel Little Theater in downtown Northville. The gallery will feature two shows a month by Michigan artists.

Work by Julie Giordano, Susan Argirdiff, Sharon Dillen-Beck, Carol McCreedy and Norma McQueen will be on display from June 19-24.

Refreshments will be served at the opening reception on June 19 at from 12 noon to 5 p.m. The Little Art Gallery is at 112 E. Main Street. All proceeds from sales go to the artists.

Michigan fine artists who would like to show their works are encouraged to contact Giordano at 348-0282.

ACHY-BREAKY TOES: The Novi Parks and Recreation Department is offering a four-week sampler class on country-western dancing. This is the place to learn the two-step, line dances and mixers first before dazling the folks at the hoe-down.

Mary Lindbert-Kelly, a national dance competitor and instructor at Schoolcraft College, will teach the Wednesday sessions from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center.

Register by June 23. The class runs June 23 through July 14. The price is $24 for Novi residents, $28 for non-residents.

Theater

BAKED CHICKEN AND CHUCKLES: Comedy at the Little Theater On Main continues, as Detroiters Kirk Noland and Steve Bills come to Northville on June 18 and 19.

Four performances are scheduled. The first shows — on Friday, June 18, at 7 p.m. and Saturday, June 19, at 6:30 p.m. — start with a family-style dinner at Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall. Tickets are $29.95 for the meal and show.

Or, you can come late for just the entertainment. The stand-up only is $10 per ticket and starts both evenings at 10:30 p.m.

For information, call 349-0522. Genitti's is located at 108 E. Main Street.

RAG DOLLS: The Cotton Candy Kids of Northville's Marquis Theater have an original new production, Raggedy Ann and Andy, ready to go. Remaining performance dates and times are: Saturday June 12 and 19, 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Tickets are $5. For information call 349-8110. The theater is at 135 E. Main Street.

WHO DUNNITS AND HIGH C's: Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant continues to present its Murder Mystery and Verdi Opera Dinner Theater performances.

Genitti's has three different production companies performing three different Murder Mystery Dinner Theaters every Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. Reservations are required. Special performances of the Murder Mystery Dinner Theater are available.

The restaurant is now featuring The Soap Opera Murders. Soap stars are dying off as the program "The Tears of Our Life" is being filmed.

As the crime unfolds during the performance, the guests try to discover who "committed the murder" through clues given out by cast members. Audience members are asked to perform roles in the play. Gifts are awarded to those who correctly guess the identity of the culprit.

The "Verdi Opera Dinner Theater" is scheduled the third Thursday of every month at 7:30 p.m. All arias are performed by the Verdi Opera Theater of Michigan. Special performances are available for large groups. Reservations are required.

Genitti's "Hole-in-the-Wall" restaurant is located in downtown Northville at 108 E. Main St. just east of Center Street (Sheldon Road). The Murder Mystery Dinner Theater and the Verdi Opera Dinner Theater including the seven-course dinner costs $29.95 per person (including tax and tip).

Phone 349-0522 or fax 349-4641 for reservations. Group rates available.

Music

ANTHONY'S NIGHTCLUB: Anthony's provides a steady diet of entertainment, both musical and comedy. For information, call 348-5000.

COUNTRY EPICURE: A jazz duo featuring pianist Wilbert Peagler is now performing at the Country Epicure Restaurant, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

On Friday and Saturday, the entertainment at the Country Epicure is a jazz quartet, featuring some of Detroit's finest vocalists.

Country Epicure is located at 42050 Grand River between Meadowbrook and Novi roads. For more information, call 349-7770.

HOME, SWEET HOME: Live jazz every Wednesday from 8-11 p.m. is on the menu at Home Sweet Home restaurant, at 43180 Nine Mile, just east of Novi Road. The 1920s home provides a setting conducive to music popular in that era as well as today.

There is no additional charge for the performances but a two drink minimum is required. For more information, call 347-0095.

HOTEL BARONETTE: Pianists Anthony Lang and James Jewhurst play every Tuesday through Saturday from 7-11 p.m. in the Tara Lounge, in the Hotel Baronette at Twelve Oaks Mall.

RECORD TRAVEL

THURSDAY
June 10, 1993

By WILLIAM T. TOMICKI
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Q: Have you ever heard of the Iceman Cometh Mountain Bike Challenge? What, when and where is it?

A: This year this unusual mountain-biking race takes place in Traverse City, Mich., on Nov. 6. Over 1,000 riders are expected to take the 25-mile ride over rugged terrain that includes bluffs, backwood dirt roads and abandoned railroad beds.

But the ultimate obstacle is the inclement weather. In 1992, cyclists crossed the starting line in four to five inches of snow.

Designated as one of the National Off-Road Bicycle Association's 13 classic point-to-point races, the punishing conditions make this a top event for bicyclists and spectators alike.

For more information call the Traverse City Convention and Visitors Bureau at (800) 872-8377.

Q: My wife and I will be visiting Hawaii in July and want to incorporate our love of food into the trip. Do you know of an event there that we can focus our travel around?

A: You're in luck! The Mauna Lani Bay Hotel will hold its fourth annual "Culinary of the Sun" culinary celebration from July 17 to 21.

This year the theme of the five-day, four-night event is "Hot Island: Flavors from Four Worlds." The islands being honored are Bali, Hawaii, Jamaica and Sicily.

Star chefs, guest speakers, restaurateurs, beverage-makers (beer, rum and wine) and authors will attend.

This is one of the most respected gastronomic events in the country. Classes and seminars meet each morning; afternoons are free for snorkeling, playing golf or tennis, or simply relaxing on the beach.

Evening festivities include a "Caribbean Calypso Night," a "New Wave Luau" and "A Colonial Rijstafel in the Garden" (a Balinese food celebration).

Reservations are limited. The event is priced at $700 per person. Participants can also take advantage of a special room rate beginning at $225 at the Mauna Lani Bay Hotel. For more information call (800) 367-2323.

Q: My husband and I are avid skiers and usually vacation at a ski resort once a year. Where can we vacation that will be full of sporting activity — not necessarily skiing — yet still give us the chance to experience a different culture? We've been to Europe and would prefer someplace else.

A: You can have both the sights and the sporting activity with Asian Pacific Adventures' "Best of China" Bike Tour. This unique 14-day bike tour visits Beijing, Xian, Guilin, Yangshuo and Hong Kong.

Bicyclists will cycle to the Great Wall, Forbidden City, Temple of Heaven and the Dowager Empress' Summer Palace and rural farmlands. The last stop in China is Yangshuo, a country town with limestone towers and jade-colored plains.

A novice or experienced cyclist can easily make the journey. For tired bicyclists, a support bus is available.

The package, including airfare and bike, is about $4,099 (depending on the airfare price, which can fluctuate).

Asian Pacific Adventures also offers other tours to Tibet, Pakistan, Nepal, India, Malaysia and more.

You say you want to 'see' Ireland?

Adventurous travelers are finding other ways to explore the Emerald Isle

By EVERETT POTTER
New York Times Travel Syndicate

For years, Americans have been gently teased by the Irish for attempting to "see" Ireland in a mad one-week or 10-day dash in a rented car.

But those habits are changing. An increasing number of visitors are choosing to explore Ireland via horseback or bicycle, from the deck of a hired boat in the Shannon River or even on foot. Others are taking tours led by experts on Irish history, culture or literature.

Here is a selection of inventive ways to visit the Emerald Isle this year.

All prices are per person, based on double occupancy. The recent devaluation of the Irish punt means that 1993 prices are often 10 percent lower than last year's. Unless specified, airfare and transfers are extra.

■ The spectacular Irish countryside is best seen at the slow pace a bicycle affords. While there are hills aplenty, Ireland's winding little roads, or "boreens," are some of the least crowded in Europe.

Eight-day tours of Counties Cork and Kerry that include stops in Killarney and Kenmare and a trip to Milizen Head (Ireland's southernmost point) are offered from May through September by Destination Ireland (250 W. 57th St., Suite 2511, New York, N.Y. 10107, telephone 800-832-1848). The $745 per-person price includes hotel or guesthouse accommodations, full Irish breakfasts, bicycle rental, support van, tour guide and accident insurance.

The company offers two other bicycling itineraries, as well as golfing, riding and walking holidays. Call for more information.

■ For those who want to savor every step of the Emerald Isle, British Coastal Trails (1001 B Avenue, Suite 302, Coronado, Calif. 92118, telephone 800-473-1210) offers eight-day walks in the Dingle Peninsula of County Kerry and in Connemara.

These are leisurely walks covering between six and eight miles a day. The Kerry walk includes a visit to Great Blasket Island and takes travelers through wild rhododendron forests, dramatic glens and rustic fishing villages in the heart of one of Ireland's last Gaelic-speaking areas.

The tours cost $1,750 per person, including transfers, accommodations, breakfasts, dinners and van support.

■ Ireland is popular with horse lovers, and Hooftbeats International, Inc. (162 Cambridge Ave., Englewood, N.J. 07631, telephone 800-733-2995) offers three- and six-day trail rides as well as four seven-night programs at Irish riding schools. The company can also arrange for longer stays and for hunting trips.

Rides on the Connemara Trail take travelers along the Irish coast, into the mountains and through bogs, highlighting some of the most beautiful scenery Ireland has to offer.

During July and August, the Connemara Trail trip costs $1,120 per person. That rate includes riding, accommodations, all meals and van support.

■ A lazy week spent boating on the meandering Shannon River requires more common sense than seamanship. This kind of vacation, very popular with Irish and Continental families, is available through Le Boat, Inc. (P.O. Box E, Maywood, N.J. 07607, telephone 800-922-0291).

The company rents self-drive cruisers in a range of sizes, most of which sleep between two and eight people. The boats come with a fully equipped kitchen, shower and toilet. Linens are also provided.

Rates range from $1,155 to $3,560 per week, per boat during July and August. Fuel is extra. Boaters have the option of renting a small dinghy with an outboard motor.

■ One of the most creative ways to view Ireland is through a camera lens.

For 18 years American Ron Rosenstock, an instructor at Clark University in Worcester, Mass., has been offering two-week Irish Photographic and Cultural Excursions that allow participants to experience the strong Irish light in all its variations.

This year there are seven departures between March and October. Each trip is limited to 11 participants.

The groups are based in Hillcrest House in rural Kilmenea, County Mayo. Activities include trips to the beautiful Shillilly Hills, the ruins of Cong Abbey and (if weather permits) Clare Island.

The $1,890 per-person price includes accommodations, breakfasts, dinners and transfers.

For more information, contact Voyagers International, P.O. Box 915, Ithaca, N.Y. 14851, telephone (800) 633-0299.

■ Irish America Magazine (432 Park Ave. South, Suite 1503, New York, N.Y. 10016, telephone 212-725-2993), the leading journal for Irish Americans, has teamed up with C.I.E. Tours to offer a variation on the standard luxury coach tour of Ireland.

The seven-day 1993 Heritage Tour (Sept. 17-24) includes a visit to the Ring of Kerry and the Blarney Stone, as well as two nights in Dublin.

Passengers will be accompanied by one of the magazine's staffers.

The $1,541 per-person price includes round-trip airfare from New York to Ireland on Aer Lingus, first-class hotel accommodations, breakfasts, five dinners (including a medieval banquet) and a cocktail party with the Lord Mayor of Dublin.

■ For a deeper immersion in Irish culture, Smithsonian Associates (1100 Jefferson Drive S.W., Room 3045, Washington, D.C. 20560, telephone 202-357-4700) offers two study tours that include meetings with Irish historians and local experts.

Those who choose the 11-day Inside Ireland tour (June 7-18) will visit a Gaelic school in Galway; have a cooking lesson with chef Darina Allen at the Ballymaloe Cookery School in Shanagarry; and celebrate Bloomsday, an annual celebration of James Joyce, in the heart of Dublin.

The $4,270 per-person price includes round-trip airfare from New York to Ireland, first-class hotel accommodations, all breakfasts, three lunches, three dinners and all tours and lectures.

The Irish Tourist Board (757 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017, telephone 212-418-0800) offers a free list of more than 80 special-interest tour operators offering Irish programs.

Retired couple provides tips for traveling through Europe

By GENE and ADELE MALOTT
New York Times Travel Syndicate

Not long ago, Linda and Jim Stringer took early retirement, sold their home and set out on a lifelong dream of exploring Europe.

Six months, 20 countries and 20,000 miles later, they have written "Winging It! In Europe. An Empty Nester's Plan for Travel" (SunCity Publishing).

The book tells what they learned about traveling through Europe on less than $100 a day — and about the advantages of serendipity. Its mood is upbeat and its challenge compelling. But before you put your home up for sale, be prepared to answer some hard questions about yourself, your lifestyle and your commitment to travel.

If you decide that the Stringers' approach is for you, this book can save you headaches and the frustration of re-inventing the wheel yourself.

It also offers certain suggestions and precautions that we hadn't seen in print before, on topics such as buying a used car in Europe; acquiring auto insurance; seeking help if you get sick or injured; using assistance programs available through credit cards; and seeing a country effectively.

All the strategies are based on the Stringers' lifestyle and preferences, which may not suit everyone. Still, readers wishing to try their own form of winging it will pick up some useful tips.

The Stringers don't believe much in planning. They once stopped for a cup of coffee in a Swiss village on the shores of Lake Lucerne and were so enchanted they stayed for 12 days.

"Never give up the spontaneity that is a must for winging it," they write.

To order the book, which costs $16.95, write SunCity Publishing, P.O. Box 2064, Tri-Cities, Wash. 99302-2064. Or call (800) 831-5208.

Readers are invited to submit questions and comments to Gene and Adele Malott, c/o New York Times Syndicate, 130 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10011. Send the Malotts a postcard from your trip with ideas, questions and information on the bargains you find for seniors. ## Kickers succumb in regional final 1-0 to Canton

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Mustang soccer team's state title quest came to an end Saturday as Plymouth Canton defeated Northville 1-0.

The Chiefs' Amy Westerhold scored the game's only goal at the 23:23 mark of the first half. Northville keeper Jessica Jones stopped Westerhold's first shot but couldn't keep a rebound shot out of the net.

"The goal came out of transition," Mustang coach Bob Paul said. "They drove four people right through the middle. We had two little people back there and they just got ran over."

The loss ended a great playoff run for Northville.

The Mustangs became district champions by shutting out Lakeland, Novi and South Lyon. Northville then whipped Dearborn Edsel Ford 5-0 before succumbing to the state's No. 5 team in Class A.

Paul gave Canton credit for a well-played game.

"They played very strong," he said. "If Canton stays healthy I think they've got to be the favorite to take the state final."

The Chiefs moved on to the state semi-finals to play Portage Central Wednesday.

Canton took control of last weekend's game early. Just minutes into the contest, Jones was forced to make a diving stop against the Chiefs' Becky Cifaldi.

The visitors continued to press for about the first eight minutes of the half. What turned out to be Northville's best scoring chance of the game occurred with 32:46 left in the first half.

Freshman Sue McQuaid sent a high-rising shot at the Chief goal but keeper Jori Welchans was able to leap and tip it away. Northville wasn't able to sustain, however.

Canton went right back on the offensive. The Chiefs sent a corner kick toward the Northville goal at 29:51 and just missed on a header out in front.

The Mustangs weren't as fortunate a few minutes later as Westerhold scored.

Paul said he hoped to escape the half without a goal. He added that his strategy was to play more offensive-minded soccer in the second half when his team would be going with a fierce wind.

"That wind was tough to do anything against," Paul said. "We thought if we could get through the half scoreless we would win the game."

Jones made several more brilliant saves before the end of the half to keep Northville close.

Neither team generated many scoring chances in the second half. The Mustangs' best chance came with seconds left as a crossing pass was deflected just wide of the Canton net.

"We tried to take advantage of the wind in the second half," Paul said. "But they're so diligent in their marking and we got pushed off the ball so much . . . it was tough."

Northville finishes the 1993 season with a 14-3-4 record.

Jessica Jones was shaken up on this play, but made the stop.

Mustangs second in WLAA to Chiefs

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A second straight Western Lakes Activities Association title eluded the Mustang boys track team by a mere six points at the conference championships June 1.

Plymouth Canton edged Northville 111½-105½ to take the crown from Northville. If not for some extraordinary performances, coach Dennis Faletti said his team would have won again.

"Our kids did what I thought they'd do," he said. "But we didn't get the points I thought we'd get with those performances."

Faletti said finishing second was nothing to be ashamed of, especially considering most schools had much larger teams. The Mustangs, in fact, were forced to use athletes in two to three events.

"I thought we had quite a bit of quality," Faletti commented. "But we were just a little short on numbers."

Teams earned points for the top eight finishes in each event. John Gatti was the first to garner points for Northville.

The junior was fifth in the discus with a throw of 133-5. Gatti took third in the shot put at 47-6.

In the high jump, Rob Tune took seventh by clearing 5-10. Jason Petrie was fifth in the pole vault at 11-2 while teammate Bo Fowler placed seventh at 10-6.

The Mustangs were sixth in the 1,600-meter relay. The team of Justin Lankes, Todd Zayit, Farb Navi and Rob Subotich finished in 3:38.50.

Forster earns all-state honors.

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville High has an All-State track and field athlete.

Wendy Forster earned that honor Saturday by taking second place in the long jump at the Michigan Class A finals in Grand Rapids. The junior set a school record on her final jump of the season as she leaped 17-4.

Coach Ann Turnbull said a slight change in technique may have helped Forster.

"We gave her a longer approach," she said. "Hopefully that gave her more speed."

Cindy Panowicz, who set numerous Mustang records in the mid 1980s, was forced to step aside for Forster. The junior's excellent jump may not have come as a surprise.

"Wendy Forster had a dream she was going to break the long jump record," Turnbull said earlier this spring.

Mwanza Russell of Southfield was the state champion in the event as she jumped 17-7½. Turnbull said she wouldn't be surprised to see Forster beat Russell next spring.

"Wendy's going to go for it next year," she said. "She's got great technique and knows what she's doing. She's very consistent."

Forster wasn't the only top Northville finisher in the event. Alana Bradley took fifth by doing a season's best 16-9½. With a little more consistency, Bradley could push her teammate next season.

"She has the desire to improve and do well," Turnbull said.

Northville also competed in the 200-meter relay, taking seventh place. The team of Forster, Bradley, Katie Rempel and Carrie Dalziel finished in 50.49.

In all, Northville garnered 14 points at the state meet.

"It's our best showing as a team in the state finals," Turnbull said.

After years of frustration and disappointment, the coach said it was nice finishing in the top half of the Western Lakes Activities Association and doing well at the state finals.

"I'm pleased that our team was more competitive this year," Turnbull said, "and took their opportunities and used them to their best advantage."

Wendy Forster finished as state runner-up in the long jump.

HONORS ANNOUNCED

Turnbull announced team awards for this season:

Forster was picked as the most valuable performer; Michelle Fetter-man as scholar athlete; Dalziel as rookie of the year; Jenny Sekerka as most improved performer; Jenny Platuskas got the guts award and Christine Werda took the team spirit award.

Baseballers fall in finals

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Brighton's Steve Hornsberger won a battle of pitching aces Saturday as the Kensington Valley Conference's Bulldogs defeated Northville 5-1 in a district final matchup.

The Mustangs' Steve Christenson pitched a solid ballgame but was a little on the wild side, according to manager Tim Cain.

"He didn't pitch all that badly," he said. "But he did struggle with his control. He was behind in a lot of counts."

The senior right hander walked just three in his seven innings of work. But, Cain said, he was behind on many batters and had to come in with his fastball.

"When you go ahead in the count," he said, "you have more control because the batter is guessing on the (next) pitch."

Northville could do little with Hornsberger. The Mustangs had just three hits, all singles, and struck out 11 times.

"He was bringing the ball and we weren't connecting," Cain said. "That was the story."

The manager said he knew it would be a tough game.

"We were on a roll," Cain said. "I thought we could keep it going and surprise Brighton. But it wasn't in the cards."

Playing at Novi High with Northville designated as the home team, the Bulldogs drew first blood.

Brighton scored once in the first inning on a walk, an error and a single. The visitors made it 3-0 in the third on a pair of walks and singles.

Northville scored its lone run in the fifth inning.

Jason Rice lead off with a single. He scored on a Tom Busard bunt when Brighton threw the ball wildly to first base.

The Bulldogs closed the scoring in the sixth with two runs.

"It was a little disappointing," Cain said of the loss. "We thought we could win the district this year."

"But it's no reason to hang our heads."

Northville finishes with a 19-9 record.

NORTHVILLE 8, PINCKNEY 0

The Mustangs advanced to the district final by beating the Pirates Saturday morning.

Senior Joe Staknis pitched his final game for Northville — a gem. He went the distance needing only 92 pitches to subdue Pinckney.

Neil Yackle catches a pop fly against Brighton.

"We were hoping for four or five innings from Joe," Cain said. "It was a pleasant surprise."

Staknis struck out eight while allowing five hits and only one walk. Northville got him all the support he needed in the first inning.

Danny Walsh was hit by a pitch and Chuck Apligian followed with a walk. Kevin Walsh tripled both runners home and later scored himself on a sacrifice fly from Fred Swarthout.

Northville added two runs in the second inning and three more in the sixth. Rice had two hits to lead a nine-hit attack.

"(Pinckney) wasn't a bad fielding team," Cain said. "But they didn't get to field too many."

Mark Schwagle fell to the No. 1 seed in the state tournament's semi-final round.

Schwagle places fourth in state singles tourney

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Mark Schwagle's Northville High tennis career ended sooner than he would have like Saturday. The senior fell in the semi-finals of the Class A tournament in two sets to Troy's Arvid Swan. Schwagle said some time off before the tournament may have hurt him.

"I didn't feel near 100 percent the way my shots were going," he said. "I felt my timing was off."

Northville coach Dick Norton said Schwagle played his best tennis the first day of competition.

"If he had played like he did (Friday)," he said, "he would have won." It was Schwagle's fourth year in the state finals. He finished as the Class A runner up in his first three seasons as a Mustang.

"I would have liked to win," Schwagle said. "But I'm not going to sit around and mull over it."

The senior went into the final day of action seeded fourth. Swan was the No. 1 seed.

The Troy junior showed himself as a capable player in the opening set by splitting the first two games with Schwagle. He then took the next two games, displaying a decent serve and a good ability to track down Schwagle's volleys.

The two traded games at that point. Along return by Schwagle gave

"I didn't feel near 100 percent the way my shots were going. I felt my timing was off."

MARK SCHWAGLE
Tennis player

Swan a 6-4 opening set victory.

Swan clearly had the momentum as the second set began. He, in fact, breezed through the first two games.

Midway through the second game, Schwagle dropped his racket and walked off the court briefly.

"I wanted to slow down the pace," he said. "If you change the pace anything can happen."

Even though he didn't win the game, the strategy seemed to work. Schwagle won the next four games, serving strong and making fewer unforced errors.

"I felt in control, somewhat," he commented. "I was dictating the points."

Schwagle held a 5-3 lead when Swan regained the momentum. The Troy player won the next two games, surrendering just one point in the process.

Schwagle won the next game to go up 6-5 but Swan quickly tied it. Swan went on to take the tie breaker 7-4.

The Northville player said he missed too many first serves in the match.

"It would have made a huge difference if I had been serving average," said Schwagle.

He beat three opponents to make it to semi-finals.

Aaron Kneas of Kalamazoo Loy Norrix was Schwagle's first victim (6-3, 6-1). He then beat Pat Noud of Okemos (6-1, 6-1) and Cullen McMahon of Grosse Pointe South (6-2, 6-0).

"Mark has nothing to be ashamed of," Norton said. "He's had a great career."

Indeed.

Schwagle went 89-8 in his four years as a Mustang. All but one of his losses came in state tournament action.

This fall, Schwagle will begin a new career at Michigan State University. The senior said he will be playing in several tournaments this summer and practicing six to eight hours per day in preparation for becoming a Spartan.

Tracksters finish second in WLAA

Brian Dogonski earned a league championship in the 200-meter sprint. He ran a 23.4 while Bob Oiler was second in 23.5 and Subotich fifth in 23.9.

The 3,200-meter relay team of Mark Ritter, Matt Hamster, Petrie and Zayti were sixth in 8:34.60. Dogonski finished second in the 100-meter dash in 11.2 and Rick King was sixth in 11.6.

Northville won a championship in the 800-meter relay. The team of Oiler, Navi, King and Subotich beat the field by running a 1:32.70 race.

In the 400-meter relay, Northville was second in 45.0 with Oiler, Chris Gomersall, King and Dogonski. Subotich took the 400-meter title by running a 50.6.

Zayti's 2:04.10 was seventh in the 800-meter. Petrie was eighth in 2:04.40.

The Mustangs' Lankes was fifth in the 300-meter hurdles. He finished in 42.5.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Mustangs competed in the 1,600-meter relay Saturday at state finals in Grand Rapids but failed to place.

The team of Lankes, Petrie, Zayti and Subotich ran a 3:30.20 — some three seconds slower than Northville's best time this season.

Sport Shorts

MUSTANGS MISS CUT: Northville High's golf team competed in the state finals Friday but failed to get out of the qualifying round. The Mustangs scored 402 and finished about 10 strokes away from making the cut, according to coach Trish Waldecker.

Scores were as follows for the 18-hole tournament: Beth MacLean 93, Lindsay Casterline 100, Kelly Casterline 103 and Maria Candela 106.

METRO CHAMPS: The Our Lady of Victory baseball team opened its playoff campaign with a pair of victories last weekend. The squad, which went as Metro Division champs, were to play yesterday in the semi-finals. The squad finished with a 9-1 regular season record. Team members include: Connor Bacon, Ross Baker, Tim Burke, Phil Kozdron, John Rohrhoff, Matt Samhat, Paul Stachura, Scott Vigh, Scott Weller, Joe Willey, Eric Arnold, Jeff Brazziunas, Joe Hubert, Fred Lyons, Dave Schulte, Jim Giammarco and Brent Zak.

GYMNAST COMPETES: As part of the Blake Acronauts, Northville's Gina Spagnoli recently competed in the United States Association of Independent Gymnasts Club regional meet. The 12-year-old qualified for national competition with an all-around score of 35.35 in the vault, uneven bars, balance beam and floor exercises.

DUATHLON COMPETITOR: Jeffery Hartman recently competed in the Saturn-Columbus classic duathlon in Columbus, Ohio placing ninth overall. Hartman took second place in the 25-29 age group by covering a 5k run, 30k bike and 5k run course in 1:17:46.

RUNNER QUALIFIES: Tim Polsinelli of Northville was a qualifier in last weekend's state track finals. A junior at the University of Detroit Jesuit High School, Polsinelli was the lead runner on the 3,200-meter relay team. The Northville resident earned All Catholic League honors this spring.

TAEKWONDO CHAMP: Northville High graduate Matt Schramm recently took the gold medal in sparring at the 19th U.S. National Taekwondo Championships in St. Paul, Minn. Schramm earned the right to compete nationally when he won the state sparring championship held in Inkster earlier this year. A 1992 NHS graduate, Schramm will be a sophomore at Henry Ford Community College in the fall.

Bike safety program offered in Novi

In the past 10 years, safety education has not kept pace with the growth of cycling. Since Novi Parks and Recreation is always bringing new and innovative programs to its residents they are now adding bicycle safety.

Three Bicycle Riders Technique and Safety Camps will be offered through Parks and Recreation, Monday, July 12 through Friday, July 16; Monday July 19 through Friday, July 23; and Monday, July 26 through Friday, July 30 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. for youths 8-11 years.

These five day youth programs designed for Novi Parks and Recreation will teach helmet safety awareness and bicycle safety techniques, promote a higher level of physical fitness for each participant, provide hands-on experience for simple bicycle maintenance and excite each cyclist to pursue distance and group bicycle touring.

The bicycle camp was created by Novi residents Marie Kennedy and Susan Thomas, who are both experienced cyclists and long distance touring enthusiasts. They began the biking program for the 4-H club and helped 40 children become knowledgeable and experienced bicyclists. Marie has also taught bicycle safety in Novi and Northville schools and will continue her programs this September at Village Oaks.

"We wanted to provide a community service to the residents because we are very concerned about bicycle safety and the promotion of adults and children wearing helmets," said Susan Thomas.

"Every day a child is killed in a bike accident and 80 percent are from head injuries. Helmets for children and adults are very inexpensive for the amount of safety they provide bicyclists."

"With the absence of bike and safety paths in Novi it is important to promote bicycle safety for our residents, especially children. I felt a Parks and Recreation Bicycle Techniques and Safety Camp was something new and necessary for our Novi youth, and when approached by Marie and Susan I was very excited," said Marilyn Troschak, Parks and Recreation coordinator.

The first camp begins Monday, July 12 at the Novi Civic Center with activities designed to introduce beginning cycling skills. The week will include group rides along scenic bike trails, instruction in beginning touring skills, bicycle safety tips, picnicking, field trips, a bicycle parade and a bicycle rodeo with pizza from Domino's.

"The camp offers an off-road experience for the beginner to intermediate level cyclists, while enjoying many natural resource areas in the Novi-Northville area," said Marie Kennedy. "It also leaves us open for future spin-off programs for touring enthusiasts."

The bicycle rodeo offers different skill stations to simulate encounters the children may confront while riding on the road. Each station teaches a different safety skill such as dodging rocks, using hand and voice signals, and crossing at stop signs.

"Hopefully, this camp will excite our community bike club into becoming a vocal advocate for the practice of safe biking techniques for adults and children. The more people wearing bike helmets the better, for everyone's safety," said Thomas.

The only requirement equipment is a bicycle in good repair, properly

Nurse practitioners offer quality care

Cheryl Bord

There is a growing awareness of the need for increased primary health care providers in our state and nation. There are many specialists for serious or unusual health care needs, yet our country cannot provide for the routine, but necessary, primary care services.

Even in areas where there are enough physicians to provide specialty services, there might be a severe lack of primary care specialists. Nurse practitioners can fill that void.

Nurse practitioners are registered nurses with advanced educational preparation, usually at the master's or Ph.D. level, which prepares them to provide primary care services to children, teens and/or adults. There are several specialty areas in which nurse practitioners typically practice: pediatrics, ob/gyn, adult or family health care, gerontology or psychiatric nursing.

They provide services such as pediatric well-child and illness care; sports, school, or work physical exams; counseling services during times of acute crises or long-term stress; the treatment of minor acute illnesses (such as viruses, sprains, vaginal infections, or sudden onset of pain) and they often manage patients with chronic illnesses (such as hypertension, diabetes, AIDS, or arthritis).

In addition, you may find nurse practitioners providing obstetrical care, routine gynecological care, premarital counseling, stress management, nutritional guidance, or assisting people with life-style changes such as smoking cessation or weight control.

They practice in various settings, such as clinics, homeless shelters, private physician offices, long-term care facilities or school-based clinics.

Michigan pharmacy law allows physicians to delegate prescriptive writing to nurse practitioners, so they can prescribe medication in addition to their other treatment modalities.

The trend nationally, however, is to allow nurse practitioners to independently write prescriptions so they can move into rural areas more easily to provide badly-needed services.

A 1986 study by the United States Office of Technology Assessment states that nurse practitioners can perform 60-80 percent of the services often provided by physicians and a recent study by the American Nurses Association found that they provide the same quality care as physicians, but at a cost savings of 39 percent.

Barbara Safrier, an associate dean of Yale Law School, recently published an exhaustive review of nurses in advanced practice in the Yale Journal of Regulation. She summarized that nurse practitioners are high-quality, cost-effective care providers that this country should make greater use of.

Many insurance carriers are beginning to reimburse for nurse practitioner services. Medicaid began direct reimbursement in 1991 for pediatric and family nurse practitioners, in an effort to decrease infant mortality across the country.

Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan recently announced a pilot program in Wayne and Oakland counties, and in numerous rural counties throughout the state. It is hoped that the cost savings from paying for these providers will be passed on to all BCBS subscribers, and in a short time, will be extended to all counties in Michigan.

In addition, many managed care settings provide coverage for nurse practitioner services, and were some of the first to do so. These actions should lead to extended opportunities for these health care providers and expand into areas of greatest need — the inner cities and rural areas.

With health care costs continuing to rise, it makes sense to utilize professionals who provide high quality care at reduced costs. Nurse practitioners, specialists in primary and preventive care, are the professionals who can do this.

Cheryl Bord, M.S.N., R.N., C., is an adult nurse practitioner at the U-M Health Center at North-east Ann Arbor. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.

Softballers fall to Pinckney in district play

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Sloppy play put an end to the Mustang softball team's season Saturday as Northville fell 10-2 to Pinckney in the opening round of districts.

Northville made seven errors in the game and suffered numerous mental lapses. Coach Frank Friemund was less than thrilled about the performance.

"We didn't play well," he said. "We were very disappointed for the seniors."

"I think the key was that they got five runs off Andrea on one hit. I think they got disappointed after that."

FRANK FRIEMUND
Softball coach

It was a shocking defeat for the Mustangs. The two schools met just a week before with Northville winning easily.

"You don't lose to a team 10-2 that you merced the week before," Friemund said. It became apparent just what kind of day it was going to be for Northville in the early going.

Pinckney scored three runs on a walk, hit and an error in the top of the first. The Pirates made it 5-0 in the second inning on two more Northville errors.

Freshman Andrea Moretti started the game. She was relieved by Kari Krupansky in the second inning.

"I think the key was that they got five runs off Andrea on one hit," Friemund said. "I think they got disappointed after that."

Northville got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the third inning. Lori George doubled and later scored on a throwing error by Pinckney.

The Pirates added three runs in the fourth inning and two more in the fifth. Northville's final run came in the seventh as Channon Chase walked and came around on a wild pitch.

Northville had just four hits in the game. The Mustangs made at least one error in each inning until the sixth.

The two sides of PMI

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Private mortgage insurance can be a blessing or a curse for homeowners.

For young families with a good income but little cash for a down payment, PMI can play a key role in making it possible for them to purchase and finance a home.

Normally, a mortgage lender will not loan more than 80 percent of a home's value without PMI coverage. In other words, a home purchased with financing by a conventional loan will require at least 20 percent down payment.

However, with PMI insurance coverage of the top 20 percent to 25 percent of the loan, the lender will often accept as little as 5 percent down. But that mortgage insurance is expensive, and of course is paid by the borrower—a sizable chunk at the time of closing and a surcharge with each monthly payment.

Typically, PMI coverage will cost the borrower 1/2 of 1 percent of the loan amount at the time the transaction is closed. Then with each monthly payment the borrower pays 1/12 of a 0.35 percent (of loan amount) annual premium payment.

For example, if a home were purchased for $120,000 with a 10 percent cash down payment, the lender would require PMI coverage. The mortgage loan would be $108,000. The closing costs would include a $540 premium fee for the PMI. After closing, there would be a PMI surcharge in the amount of $31.50 with each month's payment.

The loan premium payments continue at least until the mortgage loan balance is reduced to the

Country-style charm offered by the Halterman

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Brick accents, a front-facing gable, and a railed, wraparound covered porch add to the country-style charm of the Halterman, a medium-size home that centers around a large family room.

Quiet rooms—the parlor and master suite—are to the right of the family room, children's bedrooms to the left.

Range and oven are built into an eating bar that faces into the family room. The room is easily large enough for a couple of couches, a media center, the family computer, or what have you.

A wood-burning stove could also be placed here, if desired. Being so centrally located, it would radiate heat to all of the other rooms.

Generous counter space lines the sides of the dogleg-shape kitchen. A walk-in pantry is at one end and a large eating nook at the other.

The kitchen sink faces a wide window that overlooks the covered porch and allows you to see who's coming up the walkway to the front door. The nook's garage access is convenient for unloading groceries and other supplies.

Bay windows wrap around the front of a formal living room or parlor. This room is vaulted, with still more light coming in from the gable overhead.

A master suite with French doors opening on the deck dominates the right wing. Its huge walk-in closet has several walls of shelves along with the typical rod and shelf sections.

This closet offers no excuse for disorganized clothing and shoe storage. The bathroom has an oversize spa tub and a separate shower.

Bedrooms two and three share a bathroom and are close to the utility room as well.

Extra space at the back of the garage could be used for a workbench or storage.

For a study plan of the Halterman (401-20) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

One JUNK...

By Marilyn Herald
Special Writer

Recycling tin cans, bottles and plastic may have only come into accepted vogue during the last three or four years, but recycling of clothing and household items via garage sales has grown like an epidemic since it started to catch on back in the 1950s.

These days it's the ideal way to clean out the basement, attic, closets, garage and any other storage spot where things collect but are seldom used.

It's a boon to the seller, because it brings in some fairly hefty cash amounts depending on how many "treasures" they are ready to part with.

For the buyer, it's a great way to purchase a different wardrobe for small prices or to stock that pleasure boat, travel trailer or cabin with household items that still have plenty of wear left in them.

A good shopper can furnish an entire kitchen, complete with a kitchen sink, by making the rounds of the many sales advertised in HomeTown Newspapers.

Selective shopping requires some advance planning, however.

Turn to section 103 of the Green Sheet Classifieds and decide in which areas you want to shop this week.

Almost no one, no matter how swift, could possibly hit every sale on a fine spring or summer weekend even if they began with Thursday's sales and worked right through Friday, Saturday and occasionally a Sunday sale here and there. There are just too many offered and too much from which to choose.

Pick your area or areas and then use a highlighter to mark those that begin Thursday if that's the first day you have to go "saling."

Next, to narrow it down just a little more, use a different colored marker for the ads that are "moving" sales, subdivision sales and "multi-family."

Veteran garage salers will tell you these are the ones where you can usually find the most variety with the least effort.

Don't be surprised to see a wide assortment of shoppers when you hit these sales, especially in subdivisions. Garage saling has nearly replaced baseball as the great American pastime.

It's generally regarded as inexpensive entertainment that has the double benefit of satisfying everyone's urge to find a terrific bargain. Senior citizens and young mothers with toddlers and preschoolers are probably the most

Trees need TLC

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

Choosing trees is often the most important decision a gardener is faced with. Their size and long life make trees important and often the dominant figures in a garden for years to come.

And whether selected for their splashes of color, as a source of food, shade or as a screen for added privacy, all trees, big and small, benefit from proper care—care often reserved for the smaller inhabitants of the garden.

According to my experience, although they seem big enough, and strong enough to fend for themselves, trees can only reach their greatest potential with proper care.

In their first few years of life, trees require fertilizing in the spring and fall, generous watering once a week, unless there is plenty of rain, and spraying to ward off disease and insects.

In addition, mature trees also can benefit from a similar healthful diet and faithful care.

A little care at the start will pay off in the long run. I offer the following advice to expert and novice gardeners alike, many of whom focus their attention on the seemingly more fragile and needy members of the garden—flowers, plants and vegetables.

FERTILIZING

Supplementing a tree's natural intake of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium with routine fertilizing does wonders for its well-being. To encourage a healthy root system, start with a fertilizer that offers a root zone feeding, such as Osmocote Tree & Shrub Planting Tablets 20-10-5.

And whether you select a liquid fertilizer, applied with a sprayer, a solid fertilizer, such as Osmocote controlled-release tablets (placed underground only once) for yearlong feeding, or a granular formulation that is distributed by hand, make certain that it fits your need for convenience. This will best ensure faithful feedings.

Keep in mind when a controlled-release formulation is used, a single application at the start will provide trees with the essential nutrients needed year-round. Otherwise, young trees should be fertilized once in the spring, just before new

Tree tips

- Fertilize trees in spring and fall.
- Give young trees a deep watering once a week.
- Avoid frequent, light watering, which can encourage roots to grow too close to the surface.
- Spray all parts of the tree with a natural insecticide in spring and summer.

Both sides of the PMI story; why title insurance?

point where it is less than 80 percent of the property's current value. But there is no "red flag" or reminder from the lender when that point is reached. And unless the borrower petitions the lender to cancel the premium charges, it will continue throughout the term of the loan.

Lenders say there's no practical way to track their loans and determine when the 80 percent point is reached. But many lenders candidly admit it is to their advantage to keep the coverage going as long as possible, as this will enhance the safety of their funds.

The fact remains, however, that thousands of homeowners are continuing to pay out PMI premium money every month who do not need to do so. Check your mortgage to see if you are in a position to have your PMI premium payments cancelled. If necessary, have the property appraised to determine its current market value.

On the positive side, the PMI coverage remains in place when an insured mortgage is sold in the secondary market. The coverage makes the loan more appealing and salable to secondary mortgage buyers—organizations that buy existing mortgage loans from primary lenders.

The sale of mortgages on the secondary market returns funds to primary lenders for use in financing more home purchase transactions, thus helping more families attain home ownership.

Caution: Some mortgage lenders now advertise they will provide high-ratio loans (low down payment) without the use of outside PMI coverage. In effect, they will self-insure the loans.

However, this coverage also is expensive—sometimes much more expensive than regular PMI insurance coverage. The lender compensates by charging a higher interest rate or additional points (loan fees).

The best plan, when possible, is to save enough money to pay at least 20 percent cash down payment before purchasing that dream home. It will save a bundle.

Q. Why is title insurance needed when buying a home?

A. The purchase of a home is most likely one of the most expensive and important purchases you will ever make. You and your mortgage lender want to make sure you have insurance that the property is indeed yours and that you are protected against claims of liens or encumbrances that may be on record against the property. Title companies usually provide two types of policies. One is an owner's policy that covers the home buyer-owner. The other is a lender's policy that covers the mortgage lender over the life of the loan. Both are important and are issued at the time of purchase for a one-time premium.

Q. Are sales of condos dropping in most areas?

A. No. Condominium sales are increasing significantly in most areas of the country. During the first quarter of 1993, condo sales were up 5.7 percent higher than during the first quarter of last year, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors. Decreasing mortgage rates opened the home market to many first-time buyers who were searching for an affordable way to achieve home ownership, the NAR report stated.

"Buying conditions have remained very favorable for people seeking starter homes."

"And buying a condo is an excellent way to enter the market."

Tender loving care for your leafed friends

growth starts, and once again in the fall, just after the leaves start to drop.

WATERING

Trees can only absorb nutrients through their roots when watered. Therefore, a ready supply of water is a must.

Young trees need to be watered much more frequently than older trees. Avoid frequent light waterings that may encourage roots to grow too near the surface. A thorough, deep watering once a week is best to promote healthy trees.

Look for early signs of needed water so that immediate action can be taken. Symptoms include:

- Lack of luster or shine to the leaves.
- Drooping leaves at the top of the tree and at the end of the branches.
- Dry soil from branch taken approximately 12 inches beneath the leaf canopy.

GETTING RID OF PESTS

While spring and summer are seasons of growth and ripening, they also are prime seasons for insect infestation. Left unprotected, trees fall prey to a host of pest attacks and disease.

When necessary, all parts of the tree—the trunk, branches, twigs, both upper and lower surfaces of the leaves, the flowers and fruit if any—should be sprayed with a pesticide that will kill existing insects and fungi and repel potential pests.

Label instructions will provide recommended uses, times and methods of application and precautions.

Take care when choosing and using insecticides.

Know or ask what pest is attacking your tree. Insecticides are powerful tools and there are many kinds on the market, both natural and chemical products.

Whichever you choose, be sure to read all labels carefully, and make certain that they are safe for home use and effective on targeted pests. Choose natural insecticides whenever possible.

Fixing problems with ceramic tile flooring

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. We installed a ceramic tile floor in an entry way and family room about six months ago. We removed the previous vinyl covering and installed the tile directly on the plywood subflooring using a thin-set adhesive.

The floor looked great until the grout started cracking and turned the tiles loose.

What did we do wrong and how can we correct this mess?

A. There are a number of circumstances that could cause this problem. Flexing plywood can cause tiles to loosen. In situations like yours it is best to have two layers of plywood, one installed over the other, using screws at the joists to bond the layers into a single unit for the tile underlayment.

HOW TO

Moisture also can create problems with the underlayment. Plywood expands when it's damp and contracts when it's dry. This expansion movement also will cause grout to crack and loosen the tiles. Check for moisture problems under the plywood. This could come from below (damp ground under the crawl space or a damp basement) or from seepage and drainage problems at floor level. If the plywood is damp when the tile is laid, the thin-set adhesive (waterbased) won't cure properly. This results in a poor bond between the tile and the floor.

Often a different adhesive such as an epoxy can correct the problem. You may want to confer with a structural engineer or building inspector before proceeding further. With a professional inspection, the problem can be accurately identified. For instance, if the floor is properly framed, your best bet may be to install cement board over the existing plywood, which would provide an even sturdier foundation for the installation of tile.

The fine art of finding treasure at your neighborhood garage sale

prevalent among the shoppers on any given day.

And you don't have to have special clothes to enjoy this sport. Jeans and sweatshirts or shorts and T-shirts are obviously the outfit of choice for most veteran shoppers.

Baby clothes and items for elementary youngsters are probably snapped up faster than any other single category. Kids often don't wear things out, they just get too big for them or they don't like them.

Patient shoppers can locate "finds" in huge stacks of children's clothing that will satisfy any number of needs for school and play.

A grandmother may go armed with a tape measure, the sizes of all grandchildren and a "want" list for nearly every member of her extended family.

A good subdivision sale is a lot like a large shopping mall. Variety of stores brings in the shoppers. Likewise, a variety of garage and yard sales in one area on the same day or weekend attract shoppers like deep-throated flowers attract hummingbirds.

Usually the only problem with a large subdivision sale is for shoppers to find a place to park since few homes also include parking lots.

Another helpful thing to have on hand is a really good map of the area you plan to cover. A Huron-Clinton Metropark map is probably the best in general distribution because it includes most of the "little" roads that are not often found on state maps. The maps are available free at the Kensington Park office and often are also available at the newspaper offices in the HomeTown chain.

Take a little time before setting out to plan your route. After you have selected what appear to be the "best" sales, determine where to start and work in a circle from there back to your home base. Taking some of the less-traveled side roads can offer diversion from those more familiar routes and may shorten your travel time.

A well-written garage sale ad will include directions such as nearest crossroads (i.e. mile roads, etc.). Once you've found the general area, you don't have to worry too much about missing the sale. Generally, there are plenty of other cars parked around the site and all you have to do is join the crowd.

If you're taking a small child along, give him or her a quarter or 50 cents to spend on their own and try to find a "toy" sale among your first few stops. Once the child has purchased his or her treasure, it will usually keep him entertained at least for the morning.

By noon or 1 p.m., after an intensive morning spent searching for bargains, you and the child will both be tired enough to return home for a lunch break and to replenish shopping funds.

A recent morning spent with a grandson in tow turned up a Ninja Turtle with a loose head which could be purchased for a quarter at the second sale we visited. It turned out to be his favorite toy.

Grandma did indulge him slightly by buying him a Ghost Buster backpack and gun which cost the princely sum of $1.50. However, it was the Ninja Turtle which visited all the rest of the sales with us, clutched firmly in his small hand.

We also found a beautiful band for $600 which unfortunately we didn't have nearly enough money to purchase. We saw a plethora of used high chairs at $3 and $4 and all seemed to be in good condition.

Lawnmowers, "old" linens, a Model T, dirt bikes, used cars, plenty of antiques, tables and a La-Z-Boy chair were among the things we saw and admired, as well as lots of dishes. Garage sales are also often great places to find "pieces" to match your china pattern or everyday tableware.

Although garage sales go on all summer long, the best months are usually May and September when people are cleaning out for the coming season and are willing to part with a variety of treasures at reasonable prices. You may even find some "give-aways" worth taking home.

"I gauge how successful a sale is by how much I have to carry back in the house after it's over," said Sandy Layson of South Lyon, laughing as she recalled her May weekend garage sale.

"This one was great but it's a lot of work," she added. "This is the first one I ever had at this house but my mom and dad and sister brought some things over so it was pretty big. I didn't keep track of just how much we took in."

Emma Lou Rodgers of Milford is a garage sale veteran who usually throws one every other year. "We have quite a few things because my daughter and three grandsons live with me and those boys out-grow clothes pretty fast. Some things are like brand new."

A teacher of the art of doll making from start to finish, Rodgers said she usually has quite a few dolls and supplies for sale at the end of her teaching year. "Some people would rather buy the dolls all finished. In my classes we start with the greenware and work our way through the entire process."

THE SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE Board of Trustees passed a resolution of congratulations to South Lyon resident Richard H. Benson, a professor of culinary arts at Schoolcraft, who will be retiring after 26 years of service. He will be honored this month at a recognition ceremony in the college's Waterman Campus Center.

Benson joined Schoolcraft in 1967 after teaching commercial foods at Detroit's Chadsey High School and gaining professional experience as a cook at numerous restaurants, including the London Chop House. He has been president and chef owner of B&B Catering in South Lyon since 1965.

Benson has served Schoolcraft as the head of the culinary arts co-op and internship program, as food service supervisor for cafeteria and banquet facilities and as Tech Prep Partnership Program Coordinator in conjunction with the Detroit Public Schools.

Benson has earned a reputation for his culinary expertise and has been a frequent food service lecturer for many companies, including Detroit Edison, United Marketing, Groen & Griend Equipment, and Swanson Food Company.

Benson will continue to run B & B Catering in South Lyon and his new establishment, Benson's Marion House Banquet & Catering Facility in Howell, upon his retirement. His son, Richard Jr., will also open a new restaurant in Howell, Benny's Bar & Grill.

KAREN WOODRUFF AND PEGGY GETTO of J.A. Delaney and Company of Northville attended the 25th annual convention of All Points Relocation Service, recently in San Antonio, Texas, where they received training on serving the special needs of individuals and families relocating from one city to another.

Delegates were members of the All Points Relocation Service, an international real estate referral and marketing network of nearly 400 independent real estate firms throughout the U.S. and Canada which cooperate in assisting transferred families with the sale of one home, purchase of another, and other moving-related services. J.A. Delaney and Company represents All Points in the Detroit Western Wayne County area.

Picture this: framing at home

By RICK BYRNE

There's a proverb that says a man may work from dawn till dusk, but a woman's work is never done.

If you've got some work — artwork, that is — that never seems done, Diane Martin may be the woman you want to call. Martin is the proprietor of The Iterate Framer, a picture framing service with a unique twist. The Iterate Framer makes house calls.

"The idea of going to the home is that I'm part framer and part decorator," says Martin. "I want my clients to feel comfortable with the piece. I try to avoid the 'We're going to do this' attitude, because I don't have to live with the finished piece."

So Martin will arrive with her van, filled with as many as 500 frame samples. When a client can see the completed trio of artwork, frame and matting in the environment in which it will be shown, Martin says it leads to greater enjoyment of something special.

"You might pick something out in a frame shop," she says. "But it won't look right when you get it home."

As an example, she points out a piece in her home. It's a watercolor in bright purples and magentas that she purchased in Taos, N.M. The frame looks like fairly ordinary stainless steel.

"But at certain times of the day, when the sun hits it, it turns iridescent purple, and that picks up the colors," she says.

To highlight other works, she has added gold filleting, triple frames, marble-look paper and intricate decorative mats.

She can also "float" a piece of artwork above the surface of its backing by a fraction of an inch, perhaps to highlight its texture.

"That's a popular method," she says.

Framing service comes to the home

Conservation framing is available for people who have archival documents that might break down with time. Acid-free mounting and matting is used.

Martin can create shadow boxes, which some clients like for mounting children's christening outfits. She also works with plexi-boxes, wall-mounted plexiglas cases for larger items. For one musical client, Martin mounted a horn and a mandolin in plexi-boxes.

For people who don't have a piece of artwork selected, she can bring in a consultant to help the client choose that special item to complete a room. She will even work in conjunction with the client's own interior designers and decorators, and provide installation upon request.

Martin works quickly, too, since corporate clients sometimes demand great volumes of work. In one three-week period in May she completed 70 pieces for a corporate client, which included selecting the art and framing it.

Martin started as a technical illustrator for General Motors. She did some pen and ink drawings on the side, but, she says, "I couldn't afford to have them professionally matted. But I decided I liked doing the framing. I figured I was never going to be a great artist, so why not frame those that are?"

Martin spent years framing for area galleries, and is a graduate of Chicago's Larson-Juhl framing school.

While she doesn't miss her days of drawing car parts, the attention to detail that it demanded translates well into framing and matting.

"You have to be so meticulous and so clean," she says of the intricate process of cutting and preparing mats. "The corners have to be smooth and sharp."

Mitered corners on the frames have to match perfectly too, and Martin has several framing vises to handle the job.

Though she works from her basement, Martin says it's actually better that the client doesn't see that end of the business.

"For some reason, people still perceive in-home businesses as less than legitimate," she says. "So, yeah, I can't afford a retail place, but I have a van."

The clearly marked van, she says, impresses customers, and others as well.

"I've had frame salesmen, who've been in the business 20 years or more, tell me they've never seen anything like it," Martin says.

Diane Martin shows examples of her work, and just a portion of her hundreds of framing samples.

And unlike doctors, Martin says she doesn't charge extra for the house call.

"My prices are competitive with framing shops," she says. "And I also have the opportunity to follow up to see how a client likes the finished product. They like that kind of service."

"Word of mouth has been my best advertising," she adds. "I have some religious followers. I've never had a client say they didn't like the service."

Business Briefs

THE JERVIS B. WEBB CO. has announced the selection of Karen Delaney as Quality Achiever of the month. She resides in Milford and has been employed by the company for eight years. She currently holds the position of senior technical writer/training coordinator.

Delaney has been a member of the Quality Education Committee since its inception in 1991. As a member of the QEC, she has been involved with the organization of the Quality Work Group Training classes and graduation ceremonies for the 600 employees at the Farmington Hills World Headquarters facility, the New Hudson manufacturing facility and the Mt. Vernon, Ohio manufacturing facility.

Lane Longstreth, Delaney's supervisor, said, "Quality comes first as far as Karen is concerned. She never sacrifices quality for schedule or price. She believes high quality standards can be achieved within the time and budget requirements."

Achievers are nominated by their peers and evaluated on the following criteria: conformance to requirements, problem solving and prevention, zero defects attitude, commitment to the Quality Improvement Process, cooperation and communication.

The Jervis B. Webb Co. is the world's leading designer, manufacturer and installer of custom material handling systems. With 34 operations worldwide, they supply integrated material handling systems to a multitude of industries including aluminum, automotive, airline, transportation, warehousing, primary metals, chemicals, publishing and waste management.

REMERICA VILLAGE REALTORS in Northville has announced the addition of Georgina Goss as a Realtor-associate.

Goss is a lifelong member of the Northville community, and held various positions with the Northville Township government from 1975 until 1991. In that year, she was elected as 36th District state representative.

For more information, call 349-5600.

TIMBERLANE OF NOVI has joined the Andersen Window Center program for 1993. This specialized resource center is designed to be a one-stop location for consumers undertaking remodeling, new construction or replacement projects with windows, patio doors or roof windows.

In addition to providing expert advice to consumers, Andersen Window Centers are offering a special purchase. For only $19.95 each, consumers may purchase the Brighter Home Ideas Book and Brighter Home Ideas Video. The 120-page, full-color book highlights hundreds of Andersen Feature Window combinations designed to fill a home with light and beauty. In addition, practical advice on how to work with architects, builders and banks is included.

CAR CARE

A supplement to the Brighton Argus, Livingston County Press, Milford Times, Northville Record, Novi News and South Lyon Herald.

Protecting a vehicle's finish during summer

By Sharon Achatz

Copley News Service

The sun is shining, flowers are blooming, the grass is green—and your car's got the blues.

Without adequate protection, a car's surfaces can bake and rot away under the warping rays of summer's sun. The good news is that, just as a little application of sunscreen can protect your skin, so, too, can a few simple applications protect your car.

Warm-weather car care begins, simply enough, with a thorough washing to remove the corrosive substances autos collect along their way—from acid rain and mud to tree sap, dead bugs and bird droppings.

Many folks are proponents of a good ol' at-home wash complete with buckets, sponges, chamois, and garden hoses—perhaps with power spraying attachments.

For motorists who find such care too time-consuming during summer's precious hours, automated car washes offer everything from self-service coin-deposit stalls to full-service establishments where the motorist can sip some iced tea while his car is completely detailed.

In self-service bays, the car owner uses high-pressure wands to dispense everything from a presoak solution that loosens grime to a high-gloss polymer wax.

In tunnel washes, the car moves on a conveyor through a series of applicators and automatic washing devices that clean all surfaces, including tires and wheel covers.

Another option is an automatic stationary wash, in which a rotating fabric cleaning unit travels over a stationary vehicle or in which high-pressure machines administer several applications of pre-soak and cleaning solutions, rinses and waxes.

For motorists living in areas that inhibit water wasting, there are now no-water products to help keep the car clean between precious washings—such as Gold Eagle's Waterless Car Wash, a spraycan product that lifts dirt, bird droppings and tar from car finishes. Just spray a small area, spread the cleaner with a soft sponge, then wipe off with a soft cloth.

Once the car exterior is good and clean—no matter the method—it's essential to apply a high-quality wax. Once again, options range from at-home elbow grease to sophisticated car-wash machinery.

If applying by hand, be sure to use a clean applicator, as dirt on a rag will leave scratches and abrasion rings. Don't allow wax to bake onto the surface before you buff it off or it can chemically etch to the paint.

Avoid getting wax on black vinyl and rubber trims as the wax will leave a chalky white film. Instead use products—such as Armor-All—made specifically for protecting vinyl and rubber surfaces.

Automated car washes generally offer waxing options that range from spray-on applications to specially designed buffing machines and usually offer additional services such as interior detailing and under-carriage treatments.

Such treatments remove caked mud and grime that can hold moisture to metal and cause rust and body rot around wheel wells and door sills. They also often include rust inhibitors to further protect the car body from being eaten from the inside out.

As for interior cleaning, a fullservice car wash employs service people to vacuum, wash windows and clean and polish the dash, steering column and door panels.

When it comes to ultimate automotive pampering inside and out, consider a detailing service. At these locations, the car is completely washed before wax is handapplied and buffed to a high-gloss shine.

Detailers also vacuum and shampoo the interior and trunk and apply protective coating to all rubber surfaces, dashboard and steering column. Even air-conditioner vents are cleaned with cotton swabs, and some detailers are mobile—they'll come to your home or office to do the dirty work.

As much as you'd love to show off your car's newfound shine, the wise motorist will protect it even further by giving it a break from summer glare—and that means covering it with a car cover available from auto parts stores or car dealers and parking it in a garage whenever possible.

MOTOR HOME MANIA

Roam the roads with a recreational vehicle

Whether seasoned traveler or a novice to trailer life, the wise motorist in the market for a mobile home will take to heart this motto: Try before you buy.

At a minimum, that means giving any potential purchase a thorough test drive. At the most advantageous, that means renting your RV model of choice and taking it on a trial tour—whether a ballgame tailgate, national park camp-over or international vacation.

Because motor homes can include all the features and luxuries anyone might want, they are the most popular—and expensive—type of RV. The least expensive option is the camping trailer, which also is popular because it's light enough to be pulled by most automobiles and can sleep up to eight people.

In-between options include self-contained travel trailers, folding camping trailers and fifth-wheels.

The number of people in your group, the amenities you require and the size of your budget all affect your decision when selecting an RV. The larger and more elaborate the rig, of course, the more it will cost—but those additional amenities may make the entire experience that much more enjoyable.

To get an idea of the type of RV you'd like to consider for rental or purchase, the Recreational Vehicle Industry Association suggests going to an RV trade show. There are many RV shows throughout the year in most major metropolitan areas. In some areas, there are large, multiple-dealer RV sales lots, as well—similar to an auto mall—where shoppers can conveniently peruse many different vehicles.

Once you have a general idea of what type of RV you want, it's time to shop around for the best rental deal or best purchase price.

For a comprehensive list of rental dealers, the Recreation Vehicle Association publishes the directory "Who's Who in RV Rentals" for North America. In addition, newspapers list dealers and private parties who rent. The telephone directory's yellow pages are another good resource.

Before hitting the road with a rental RV, you'll need to ask a lot of questions. Here are a few recommended by Trailer Life magazine:

- Write down the instructions on how to operate everything on board. You'll need to know how the hot-water tank, furnace, air-conditioner and auxiliary generator operate. You'll need to know how to fill freshwater tanks, how to dump holding tanks, how to add toilet chemicals and how to hook up to power.

- Know the location of the fuse boxes and where the extra fuses are stored. Locate the spare tire, the jack and the lug wrench. Show everyone in your party where the emergency exits are and how to open them. Note where the fire extinguisher is located.

- Go for a test drive. Turning corners, changing traffic lanes and backing up are different in an RV due to its size. Find out the RV's height, and take note of the posted clearance of overhead structures, such as service-station roofs and overpasses, before driving under them. Remember that, because of the RV's size and weight, you will need more time for accelerating and stopping.

After trying the RV lifestyle with a rental, some people get hooked. In fact, some rental agencies anticipate this and allow renters to apply the rental fee to the purchase of the RV. If you become interested in buying an RV, a smart place to begin shopping is a rental dealer's used fleet. But be prepared to go to several dealers for comparison shopping to ensure that you get the best price.

To purchase an RV, motor homes start around $20,000, with the average price of a top-of-the-line model about $60,000. In general, financing for such motor homes frequently is spread out over 10 years or more.

At the low end of the spectrum are folding camping trailers with collapsible canvas sides, ranging in price from $2,000 to $9,000. Truck campers, which fit into the bed of a pickup truck or are mounted on a pickup chassis, range from $3,000 to $13,000. Travel trailers, designed to be towed by a car, van or pickup, cost $4,000 to $55,000.

After an RV trial you may find that they are more than you're ready to bargain for. An up-and-coming option are vans and trucks customized with camping features such as foldout sleepers, cooking facilities and pop-tops for extended sleeping space or living-space headroom.

Prepare your car for summer driving

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Copley News Service

The weather's warming and your car is purring. You can coast until fall without an auto-related worry, right?

Sorry. Hot weather creates its own slew of must-dos. Savvy drivers tend to them, routinely, each spring or early summer.

The following seasonal car-care tips are based on suggestions from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), a non-profit organization that tests and certifies auto repair experts.

- Read your car's manual and follow the manufacturer's recommended service schedule. You'll extend the life of your vehicle as much as 50 percent if you have it serviced regularly.

Some of this you can do yourself, but don't begrudge the cost of work done at the dealership or repair shop. What you spend will be pennies compared to the eventual cost (not to mention inconvenience) of performing no routine maintenance at all.

- A clean car runs better. Of course this is psychological, but there's no denying the benefits of a clear windshield (inside and out), a gleaming exterior and a crumbfree, uncluttered interior.

Now's the time to replace your windshield wipers. You don't think you'll need them until fall? Think again—those blades will be scraping dust and bugs off hot glass every time you hit the washerspray button. And while you're at it, don't forget to fill the washer fluid reservoir.

- Check the cooling system. You want to make sure your car won't overheat this summer and leave you in a pickle. If you didn't have the cooling system flushed and refilled last year, now's the time to do it. (Half water, half antifreeze is usually the recommended mix.) You or your service technician also should check the condition of clamps, hoses and drive belts; replace as needed.

- Don't take your air-conditioning system for granted. If it hasn't been serviced recently, it may choose the hottest day in August to go on the fritz.

Have it checked before the heat hits—and before air-conditioning service shops are jammed with desperate, perspiring drivers.

- How's the engine? Does it start hard or lose power? Does it stall like a stubborn child? Does it idle like a nervous rabbit?

Your car may be trying to catch its breath—especially when summer breezes are dust-laden. If so, it's time to replace the air and fuel filters (check the manufacturer's recommendations).

- Change the oil. Think of your car as a family member who suffers from a blood disorder—a loved one who becomes weak and tired if he doesn't receive transfusions regularly.

According to the ASE, oil (and filter) changes are the most vital of all routine maintenance tasks, yet also the most neglected.

Oil changes are quick and inexpensive (many service shops offer special deals). Plan a visit every 3,000 miles—more frequently if you plan to haul a trailer or do a lot of stop-and-go driving.

- Rotate the tires. A rule of thumb is to have this done every 5,000 miles. You'll prolong the life of the tires by ensuring even tread wear—and more importantly, you'll prevent a potential safety hazard.

Invest in an accurate tire gauge and check the tire pressure once a month. Tires should be cool to the touch; look on the tire sidewall, glove compartment or the inside of the driver's door for the proper tire pressure.

Also examine your tires for embedded nails, uneven wear, cuts and nicks.

Winter potholes cause summer tire problems. If your car drifts to one side or the other as it's coasting—or if tire wear appears to be uneven—an alignment may be in order. And now's a good time to check the condition of your spare and jack.

- Have your brakes inspected. Danger signs include grabbing, noises or a pulsing sensation.

- How's the battery? True, battery failure happens more often in winter than summer, but it's not just a cold-weather phenomenon.

The best way to make sure your battery is dependable is to have it checked with equipment at a service station or repair shop.

But you also should perform routine maintenance: Scrape away any corrosion, clean the surface of the battery and tighten the connections. (Take precautions to avoid touching or splashing battery acid.)

- Find a repair shop you can count on. Where would you take your car if it suddenly broke down?

Ask friends and neighbors for recommendations. Try out a shop by scheduling a routine job to get a feel for the quality of the service. A good technician will examine the overall condition of the car, even if you've requested a specific service or repair.

But you'll want to watch out for shops that seem eager to sell you items you didn't know you needed. Also look for the ASE sign at the shops you evaluate; there are 250,000 certified ASE technicians nationwide.

If the employees (and the shop itself) are neat and orderly, the work performed is likely to be the same.

The staff should be courteous and willing to listen—and all work should be guaranteed.

Simple chores you can do yourself

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Copley News Service

When you consider the high cost of auto repairs, it makes sense to do some of the work yourself. On the other hand, there's no point in spending valuable time trying to find and fix something a mechanic could do blindfolded.

The following cost-conscious suggestions will tell you when to tamper with your car—and when to take it in.

THE BASIC OIL CHANGE

This is a must-do, several times a year. It's a fairly simple process, but a messy one.

You'll need an oil drain plug wrench, an oil filter wrench, a small plastic funnel, a new oil filter and fresh oil (check your owner's manual for the right kind)—plus a container to hold the drained oil (4 to 6 quarts).

To drain the old oil, place the container under the oil pan, use the wrench to loosen the drain plug and unscrew the plug with your fingers. (The car engine should be warm but not hot.)

Next remove the old filter by turning it counterclockwise with the filter wrench. Screw the new filter onto the mounting stud until the gasket meets the mounting surface. When the oil finishes draining, replace and tighten the oil drain plug.

Dispose of the oil properly—through a recycling service—never down the drain. Fill the engine with new oil (open the oil fill cap and use the funnel). The dipstick should read "full" after you've started the engine, run it five minutes, then turned it off.

If this isn't your idea of fun (did we remind you to wear old clothes?), chances are you can find a service station to do the job for you for less than $25—in under an hour.

TUNEUP TIME?

If your car idles oddly, hesitates, gets poor mileage, and/or loses power, it may need new spark plugs, plug wires, distributor cap and/or rotor—especially if these have more than 30,000 miles of wear. You certainly can do the job yourself, but there are good reasons to have it done by a pro.

Today's engines are equipped with solid-state, computer-controlled fuel and ignition systems, so there's more to a "tuneup" than there was a decade ago.

"Malfunctions may be camouflaged by computers whose function is to keep the engine running as efficiently as possible as long as possible," advises the Car Care Council.

And at the service center, new diagnostic procedures help determine what parts, if any, are needed beyond the replacement of spark plugs.

Moreover, specific models tend to have consistent problems that trained service technicians learn to anticipate and correct.

So when your car isn't running right, think checkup rather than tuneup—and include any routine maintenance specified by the owner's manual.

FLUID FACTS

A service station will charge you for the privilege of adding fluids to your car—and we don't mean just gas. So why not save money by buying, at an auto supply store, the kinds of oils, additives and other fluids your car requires?

Your owner's manual will have this information, plus a diagram of the engine area so you can see where each reservoir is located and how to access it.

It may seem obvious, but when checking fluid levels, be sure to park your car on a level surface. And if your car seems to need a particular fluid frequently, there may be a leak or some other problem that requires attention.

You'll need coolant for your radiator; it's a mix of antifreeze and water. Check the fluid level in the overflow tank near the radiator (if you can't read the indicator lines, the tank should be about half-full). Never open the radiator cap if it's warm or hot.

Check the oil by pulling out the dipstick, wiping it off with a clean, lint-free rag, replacing it (all the way), then pulling it out again to see how high the oil level registers. If it is below the "ADD" line, unscrew the oil filter cap and add a quart of oil.

Transmission fluid must be checked when the engine is running and warm (not hot). Watch out for moving parts, read the transmission dipstick and add the reddish fluid, if needed, through the reservoir cap.

Windshield-washing liquid is usually stored in a translucent plastic reservoir, refill as needed to the level indicated. Use a prepared, premixed solution, not plain water or—as some misguided souls have done—engine antifreeze.

If your battery isn't labeled "maintenance-free," check the acid level about once a month; if it's an inch or so below the top, add distilled water with a siphoning bulb.

Fuel-injected cars can benefit from additives that keep injector tips clean and extract water from the fuel system. Simply pour a bottle into the gas tank once a month or so.

OTHER EASY ITEMS

Windshield wipers have two parts, the blade and the rubber strip. This last should be replaced twice a year (or as needed). Don't replace the blade unless it's broken or defective—it's designed and contoured to fit your car's windshield.

When the car is off and cool, open the hood and feel the hoses for bulges, cracks, soft spots or brittleness. To save money, you can replace a defective hose yourself, or buy the part and have the installation done at an auto repair center.

Caution: Never try to replace air-conditioning hoses yourself. The pressurized gases can cause serious injury.

Also simple to replace are air cleaner filters (check your owner's manual for frequency). When you do so, be sure to wipe the inside of the air cleaner housing and the cover with a damp cloth.

And if you have a burned-out headlight or taillight, all you need is a replacement bulb (take the old one with you to the auto parts store) and a Phillips screwdriver.

The right tools make it easier to do simple car maintenance jobs on your own.

Motorcycles go mainstream

By Sharon Williams

Copley News Service

The roar of the engine sounds like a lullaby, the open road beckons unrelentingly and the gleam of the handlebars catches the eye like little else.

In other words, you're moonstruck over motorcycles, and it's only a matter of time before you're taking your place on the seat of a grandiose bike.

Whether you're taking up motorcycling for the first time, or getting back into biking, there are millions of enthusiasts who share your passion.

And, those revving their engines are a far cry from the stereotypical tough young turks sporting tattoos and black leather who often are associated with motorcycling.

Instead, the guy — or gal — behind the handlebars is probably more Jay Leno than James Dean, according to a study conducted by Discover Today's Motorcycling, an information campaign of the Irvine, Calif.-based Motorcycle Industry Council.

Today's typical motorcycle rider is a 32 1/2-year-old male, who is married, has attended college and earns a mean household income of about $39,200 a year, according to the study. In other words, he's respectable, well-educated and a good wage-earner.

It's easy to see why motorcycles and their close cousins—all-terrain vehicles and scooters—are appealing to this profile type in the 1990s—over 100 years after Gottlieb Daimler invented the first.

For one thing, it's tough to beat a motorcycle in terms of versatility. Depending on your wishes, whims and wheels, you can hit roads ranging from city highways and desert byways to racetracks and mountain trails.

Motorcyclists can zip across the country or around the block—solo or with a group of brother bikers. Grip those handlebars, and you can find relaxation and fun, or challenge and adventure—depending on your particular goals.

A cycle also can be an economical way to go when one considers the low price tag and high gasoline mileage.

Ready to join to join today's two-wheeled throng? Following are some tips and trends to consider before you ride off into the sunset.

START YOUR SEARCH

Finding the right bike is hardly a matter of choosing between half a dozen or so mean machines.

Today's bikes are highly specialized—and sifting through all the makes and models can be mindboggling at best, and completely overwhelming at worst.

So many choices mean newcomers and seasoned bikers alike need to lay some important groundwork, then make some big decisions before they hit the shopping circuit.

Begin by talking to friends who ride motorcycles, and visiting motorcycle dealers—most of whom are experienced riders themselves, suggests DTM campaign experts.

Look for those willing to offer sound, intelligent advice about bikes that are best for both your budget and lifestyle.

Magazines can provide lowdown on motorcycling facts, tips, clubs, new models, used bargains, accessories, races, sources, guides, gear and people. And, helpful information also can be furnished by organizations such as the MIC through toll-free numbers and contact addresses.

Once you've done your homework, decide just how you want your motorcycle to fit into your life. The way you'll use your bike—along with your riding ability, budget, size, age and overall experience—will largely determine the best bike.

Among today's motorcyclists, there's a trend toward using bikes for recreational and leisure enjoyment, according to the DTM campaign survey. A decade ago, the spotlight was on commuting.

GET A GRIP ON BIKES

Once you know what you want out of your new motorcycle, shift gears and focus on the makes and models.

There's a bike for practically every path and pavement—everything from small, off-road bikes for tackling the trails and mopeds that can take you from curbside to classes, to touring bikes that can go the distances and sports bikes with the need for speed.

DTM breaks bikes down into eight basic styles. Cruisers, are descendants of the classic "chopper," sports bikes combine racer-bike looks with high-performance engineering and standards celebrate the best in basics.

To men, cars are vehicles of fantasy

By Orlando Ramirez

Copley News Service

Little girls want ponies, little boys want Mustangs—preferably 1969 Shelby Cobra Mustangs.

The division of the sexes may not be so clear cut when it comes to driving, but the way men and women feel about cars is different.

It seems that women view cars as not much more than appliances on wheels, like a toaster oven or washer that can get you from point A to point B.

Men, however, have a more complicated relationship. It's one tied to ego and status and—well—manhood.

It's not because cars are mechanical things and men are supposed to be more mechanically inclined than women. In fact, with the widespread use of fuel-injection and electronic ignitions, most men won't even dare change the oil.

It's related to the reason why men won't stop to ask for directions. For women it's easy to pull over, lean out and ask the nearest stranger.

Men would rather have their toenails pulled out with flaming tongs than ask for directions. Men are taught to be self-reliant, stoic and, most of all, independent.

So cars are the ultimate expression of that independence. If worse gets to worst men like to think they can hop in the car, turn the ignition and peel out of the driveway like Mel Gibson in a "Mad Max" movie.

In real life the car won't start or there isn't enough money in their wallets to buy a tank of gas.

But it's the fantasy that's important and there is no better place to see that fantasy in action than at a car show.

The experience can be overwhelming to the uninitiated. The local convention center is transformed into a huge new-car showroom.

Vehicles of every make gleam under the fluorescent lights over the space of several football fields as huge turntables rotate slowly while sequin-clad spokesmodels sweep their lacquered fingertips over the fenders of the latest edition Cadillac, Dodge, Acura or Lincoln and intone the litany of latest improvements.

At one recent show the emphasis was on ecology. BMW had a big display on how it uses recycled materials in its bumpers, seats and other parts of its vehicles. Nissan provided a diorama of how its new air-conditioning systems uses ozone protecting non-CFC substitutes.

But the real action was around the new Pontiac Firebirds and Chevy Camaros introduced for 1993. Lean, low to the ground, they are shaped like every school-boy's dream with a built-in spoiler in the back.

They are the return of the "muscle car." The Firebird Trans Am and Camaro Z28 this year offer 5.7 V8s that produce 275 horsepower at 5000 RPM linked up to a BorgWarner Automotive T56 6-speed manual—that's guy talk meaning they accelerate like blue blazes.

As the red (what else?) Trans Am rotated on the table, one young woman asked her companion, "What do you need a six-speed for?"

He looked at her like she was crazy. But it's a good question. In what state can you lawfully use that sixth gear? Yet, it's just the idea that all these horses can be unleashed at some terrific speed that probably sells more cars than anything else.

The Hummers drew the same reaction. You know, the vehicles brought to you by Operation Desert Storm—more than 7-feet wide, four-wheel drive with independent suspension and a spare tire that looks like it takes three men to wrestle into place.

The fact that Arnold Schwarzenegger drives one makes it a vehicle for men not afraid to smoke cigars and who maybe carry rocket launchers for personal protection.

At $80,000—before stereo, air conditioning and brush and headlight guard—this is one expensive toy and impractical for day-to-day driving unless you regularly invade small sheikdoms.

A trio of retired gentlemen were making the rounds of the show. They stopped to admire a Mercedes 400 SEL S-Class sedan with a 12-cylinder engine, which was obscured by several sleek plates engraved with the Mercedes logo.

One reached in and rubbed his hand on the brushed aluminum covers and said, "I wonder where you change the oil on this thing?"

They stopped and pondered the question. One found a small slot near the back of the compartment and said he found it.

"No," joshed one, "That's where you hide the money to make your payments."

"If you've got to make payments," replied the third, "you can't afford one."

No doubt, very few of these big Mercedes get sold at auto shows, but for those who can't afford one it's a chance to fantasize what they would buy if they won the lottery.

Some models were definitely look-but-don't-touch. The Range Rovers were all locked to keep grubby fingers off their leathertrimmed interiors. And the most radical roadster of all, the Dodge Viper, which looks and probably drives like the Batmobile's (also on display) little brother, turned slowly on the platform tantalizingly out of reach.

There are those people genuinely interested in doing some comparison shopping and they ask the salesmen in blazers all kinds of questions and keep them out of the way while the rest of us linger, catching our reflection in the flexible acrylic primer, waterborne acrylic base and polyurethane clear-coat aquamarine finish of the Saturn SLI.

For the most part, auto show attendees are men, sometimes with their significant others, usually with other guys, who tend to slip into a slack-jawed reverie when they settle behind the wheel of a mid-engine Acura NSX and imagine themselves doing 110 mph on the road to Vegas or maybe picking up Cindy Crawford when she decides to ditch Richard Gere.

Then there were those guys with video cameras filming the cars from every angle. Isn't that taking this fantasy thing a step too far?

When women sit in a car the gestalt is different. They run their hands over the dash. They open and close the ashtray. They make sure the cup holder is there.

All of a sudden they transform the car into a mobile living room, which is not such a bad thing.

Other bikes are designed with rougher roads in mind. Dual-purpose bikes offer both street and off-road capabilities, off-road models are capable of handling some of the most rugged terrain around and motocross models are designed for closed-course competition.

See all the sizes, colors and options available by zooming down to your nearest motorcycle dealerships—most of which are packed with the latest models.

You also can see the latest, greatest bikes at motorcycle shows frequently held in malls and convention centers.

Bikers on a budget also might consider purchasing a used bike—a trend that has taken off in the recent years thanks to both a slow economy and the fact that today's bikes are built to last.

To find a used machine check with both dealers and private parties from classified ads, newsletters and enthusiasts publications.

MOVE INTO MOTORCYCLING

Motorcycling doesn't begin and end with finding the right bike. Once you've gleaned your machine, take the following steps to ensure that you'll ride safely and happily through the years to come.

- Enroll in a motorcycling class. In a class, you can gain the knowledge and skills you'll need for a safe and enjoyable ride. Many courses, such as the Rider-Courses offered by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation, combine classroom and hands-on instruction for both new and experienced riders.

- Get your license. Most states require a motorcycle operator's license, and obtaining one is much like getting a driver's license. Once it's in hand, remember to obey all the traffic laws.

- Finance and insure your ride. Paying for and insuring your ride is much like finding the right bike—you want to find the options that suit your lifestyle, needs and budget.

You can finance your cycle through a dealer, bank, credit union or loan company, and insure it through dealers and insurance companies specializing in motorcycle insurance coverage.

Graduates of some motorcycle training courses are eligible for discounts on insurance, and some manufacturers are willing to pay for such courses when one purchases a new bike.

- Invest in the extras. Motorcycling is one sport where accessories are more must-haves than maybes for comfort and protection.

First and foremost is the helmet—required in many states, and strongly recommended elsewhere for safety's sake. Protect eyes and face by adding a face shield or goggles.

Other vital accessories include over-the-ankle boots with non-slip soles that help protect feet; leather gloves that guard against wind, cold, scrapes from falls and improve handlebar grip; and clothing crafted from leather or other rough-and-tough materials to safeguard from the elements.

- Join other motorcyclists. Whether you want to be the leader—or just a part of the pack, there are plenty of good reasons to unite with other cyclists.

You can hit the open road with the members of your local riding club, for instance, and compete in or watch a riveting motorcycle race or exhibition with fellow enthusiasts.

Voice your views regarding motorcycle regulation by joining a government lobbying effort, and gain access to loads of important information through membership in a national organization such as the American Motorcyclist Association.

Another thought: Rev up your engine and join a motorcycle vacation tour—truly a dream come true from a biker's point of view.

As more motorcyclists take off on vacations and weekend getaways on their bikes, a growing number of bed-and-breakfast inns hotels, airlines and travel agents are offering two-wheeled travelers special discounts, accommodations and services, such as motorcycle rentals and shipping services.

If you enjoy reading about cars, or know someone who does, the following are hotter than asphalt in August.

NEW BOOKS

- "Power Behind the Wheel: Creativity and Evolution of the Automobile," by Walter J. Boyne (Artabras). A coffee-table book with stunning color photography and a text that is as entertaining as it is informative.

- "Enzo Ferrari: The Man, the Cars, the Races," by Brock Yates (Doubleday). This biography chronicles the life of Enzo Ferrari, Italy's champion of racing machines and builder of exotic cars—with intimate details of his personal life.

- "How to Get More Miles per Gallon in the 1990s" by Robert Sikorsky (TAB Books). The back cover promises you'll improve your gas mileage by as much as 100 percent—if you heed the book's 300-plus tips.

- "The Auto Math Handbook," by John Lawlor (HP Books). A compilation of basic equations that help you understand your vehicle better—explained simply and painlessly.

MOTOR MAGAZINES

There's a 'zine for every interest: VWs, hot rods, trucks, classic cars, four-wheelers, muscle cars, motorcycles, racers, RVs. But for mainstream auto info presented to perfection, these two are monthly must-reads.

- Car and Driver. Readers are college-educated professionals in their 20s and 30s; circulation is nearly 1 million. Article topics include motor racing, exciting and interesting cars, road tests, equipment overviews, personalities in the industry and automotive sports.

- Motor Trend. Tailored to enthusiasts as well as consumers, this periodical has a circulation of about 750,000. Subjects have a national appeal, with an emphasis on domestic and imported cars, driving impressions, auto classics, travel, racing and high-performance vehicles. Packed with facts.

A Mervyn's Diamond Certificate will be sent to you following every diamond purchase of 0.20 carat total weight or more. The certificate documents the number of diamonds, their quality and weight, and the price you paid. You can also use it to trade up to another piece of diamond jewelry of equal or greater value, provided your diamond is undamaged and in its original mounting.

INSTANT CREDIT!

Take 15% off the first purchase charged to your new Mervyn's account. Apply today in any of our stores. Takes just minutes! Requires a valid picture I.D. and a Visa, MasterCard, Discover, or American Express. Subject to credit approval.

FRIDAY, SATURDAY & SUNDAY • JUNE 11, 12 & 13
 For store locations, phone 1-800-M-E-R-V-Y-N-S toll-free, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
