School's out forever

Friday was the last gasp for Northville High's graduating seniors. Commencement exercises were held at the school that evening. After speeches from various school administrators and board members, the evening belonged to the seniors. Then it was celebration time. Here, 1993's class Secretary Leslie Allen gives a fellow grad a big squeeze.

Youths eyed for credit card fraud

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Township police arrested three Northville High School students Thursday for credit card fraud.

The students were arrested after a day-long police surveillance of a township resident's home.

A 36-year-old homeowner called police to tell them the students had been using his credit card to buy car parts and stereo equipment. The man said he was unaware the youths were using his charge card until Thursday.

He told police he had received two other packages at his home that were billed to his credit card, but that he hadn't purchased. The caller said he had returned the two previous deliveries to the sender.

On Tuesday morning, the man called police after he received a phone call from a delivery man who said a third package would be arriving at his home around 10 a.m.

Officers set up surveillance at the home and waited for the students to come and pick up the stereo equipment they had allegedly ordered.

At 4:20 p.m. the trio drove up to the home to pick up the merchandise. A 17-year-old jumped out of the car and took the box from the homeowner's porch and put it in the car. The three then left the scene.

Police followed them and made a traffic stop to arrest all three.

The youths were issued appearance tickets and will be arraigned in district court sometime next week, according to Detective Fred Yankee.

Yankee said the homeowner and the students had lived together prior to the incident.

Voters decide fate of millage and school race

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. today for the annual school election.

Voters will be asked to decide on three issues.

The first is a 22.63-mill, five-year request. The current millage, which was approved by voters for one year last year, is set to expire June 30. District representatives are again asking for 22.63 mills, but this time the Headlee rollback will not apply.

Without an assessment freeze or cap, the Headlee Amendment would have required the district to roll back its millage rate by 1.05 mills. School officials are saying that by not utilizing the Headlee rollback, the extra money generated will allow them to fund additional teachers, textbooks and materials.

Two community watch groups have issued dissenting opinions on the millage question.

Advocates for Quality Education endorses the millage. In a position statement, the Advocates stated: "Advocates believe that this millage request is justifiable (because) the taxpayers are receiving a reasonable return on their investment. As test scores show, our children are learning."

"The school board and the administration are making a reasonable attempt to show fiscal restraint rather than simply making a millage request."

"The millage request is reasonable and comparable to similar school districts in the area."

Advocates further stated the approval of the millage would cost an approximate property tax increase of $177 for 1993 for a $150,000 home assuming the district's 8-percent av-

Proposed parking plan to appear on special July ballot

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It seems everyone else has had a chance to say their piece about Mainstreet '93.

But the only opinion that really matters now is that of Northville City voters.

Voters can make their voices heard Tuesday, July 27, during a special election on the city's plan to build a new tabletop deck on the lot south of MainCentre, replace the existing Cady Street deck, and pave a 160-space lot on the south side of Cady.

The latest deck plan follows more than five years of failed proposals rejected because of public opposition to their size, location or cost. Its closest relative is Mainstreet '92, the city's ambitious plan to relocate Cady Street and replace the Cady deck with a three-level 460-space ramped structure at a cost of $6.2 million.

Mainstreet '93 is a much scaled-back version of Mainstreet '92 that lays the foundation for its eventual construction while reducing the project's immediate cost. It also meets the city's legal obligation to Singh Development to provide more than 70 covered parking spaces for MainCentre residents.

Those spaces would be provided on the upper level of the tabletop deck, which would be connected to MainCentre by an elevated pedestrian bridge. The upper level would be restricted to MainCentre residents and others who purchased leased

Township joins move to study consolidation

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

It will cost Northville Township $2,400 to learn the feasibility of consolidating five area police departments.

The motion to pay the bill and take the chance that the township will benefit from a joint service agreement with Northville and Plymouth cities and Canton and Plymouth townships was approved by trustees, 7-0, Thursday night.

The money will be used to pay an outside group to explore the idea beyond what elected officials from the five communities have done with it thus far.

The Criminal Justice Institute of Saginaw Valley State University has been retained to do the study, pending approval by all five elected boards. Researchers there will review all five police departments and determine if there are any viable ways to consolidate the departments and cut costs.

The study, which has already won the nod of the Northville City Council, will be completed six weeks after it's commissioned. The concept will head to officials in Plymouth and Canton this week.

As a member of the joint services committee, Northville Township Supervisor Karen Baja is lending her support to the study even though it isn't a budgeted item for the township. She told trustees Thursday she would relinquish the funds from the supervisor's budget if necessary to move forward with the study.

That was good news for Trustee Gini Britton, who questioned where the board could squeeze the money from an already stretched budget.

Before Treasurer Rick Engelland cast his vote, he wanted to know how Baja felt about it, and what affect it

Man claims beating from police

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Keith Sousa admits that he's no angel.

Sousa readily acknowledges that he led police on a high-speed chase up I-275 last February, following a burglary that he and partner Chad Garrison committed in Canton. He concedes that the act was foolish, and says he deserves to be punished by the judicial system.

But he objects to being beaten up by a police officer before receiving his sentence from the state.

Sousa, 22, alleges that a Michigan State Police officer slammed his head to the ground several times after his Feb. 18 arrest on Twelve Mile Road in Novi. The same officer entered his holding cell at the Northville state police post and hit him several more times, Sousa said.

During each incident, Sousa recalled, the trooper kept repeating the same phrase — "I should have shot your f----- a--."

The trooper, Kevin McKalpain, declined to comment on Sousa's allegations. An internal inquiry completed under the command of former Post Commander Jack Moulik concluded that the allegations were untrue.

Interim Post Commander David Werner says he agrees with that investigation's conclusion, but added that he has reopened the file to tie up some loose ends.

While several witnesses at the arrest scene and the state police post already have been interviewed, Werner said he still wants to talk with two Canton rescue workers who transported Sousa to a nearby hospital that evening at Sousa's request.

"This investigation was all completed before I arrived here and it was handed to me, and I'm the one that's saying 'This is not a complete investigation yet. You haven't done some things that you should have done,'" Warner said. "I want to shore up those things that haven't been done before we can make a final conclusion . . ."

"But (judging from) the things that have been done, I'm convinced that there was no assault."

Sousa's arrest followed a high-speed chase from Canton through Westland, Plymouth, Livonia and Farmington Hills. The pursuit began shortly before 1 p.m. when Sousa and Garrison left the house they had just burglarized in Canton, their Ford EXP loaded with stolen electronic equipment and jewelry.

Though they had no way of knowing it, their crime had just been witnessed by members of a Michigan State Police surveillance team. The two were suspects in a string of vehicle and other thefts throughout metro Detroit, and had been under surveillance for several weeks.

Sousa, who drove from the scene in Canton, said he realized they were being followed by Canton patrol cars while at a gas station at Joy and Newburgh. They fled, driving south on Newburgh to Ford Road, and west onto I-275, where they tossed stolen items onto the highway as they headed north. Sousa remembers Trooper McKalpain taking up pursuit at Seven Mile Road and I-275.

"He had pulled his revolver on us while we were driving on the freeway, like trying to take aim and shoot at us, and then he kept on pushing the back end of the car to try to make us go out of control," Sousa said. "He got me to go out of control once where I did three or

Street Justice?

Convicted burglar accuses a state police officer of roughing him up after arrest

1 Chad Garrison, 20 and Keith Sousa, 22, of Detroit, rob a house in Canton Township near Sheldon and Ford (M-153) Roads at 12:40 p.m. February 18. The robbery is witnessed by members of a Michigan State Police surveillance team, who take up pursuit when the two drive off.

2 Sousa realizes police are pursuing him and turns around in a gas station parking lot at Joy and Newburgh Roads.

3 The two fugitives drive north on I-275, throwing stolen merchandise, including a video cassette recorder, out the windows as they drive

4 When their car spins out of control on Novi Road just north of I-275, 12-1/2 mile road, Garrison runs east into the woods. Sousa is arrested at the scene, and alleges the arresting officer, Trooper Wayne McKalpain, slams his head into the pavement several times after throwing him to the ground and placing him in hand cuffs

5 Sousa is taken to the Michigan State Police post in Northville and placed in a holding cell, where he alleges Trooper McKalpain hits him several more times. Police ignore his subsequent requests for medical attention, he says

6 Sousa eventually is taken to the Canton Public Safety Department for further questioning. Following the questioning, he is taken by Canton Fire Department officials to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne for medical treatment

Northville Township Trustees will gauge the community's opinion on a proposed tax abatement for Optical Imaging Systems this Thursday. Township trustees have scheduled a public hearing on the tax abatement for Thursday, June 17, at 7 p.m. at township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road.

The hearing will give residents an opportunity to share their opinions and views on OIS' request for the 12-year abatement.

Few residents came out in support of or opposed to the abatement at the company's first hearing last month. Aside from the few comments made about the abatement at the hearing, Advocates for Quality Education is the only group to take a stand on the abatement. Advocates is a group of residents who are concerned about the future and direction of Northville Public Schools.

Advocates' member Barbara Vaccetta read a prepared statement on the group's support for the abatement to trustees last Thursday.

"Advocates for Quality Education believe that the Optical Imaging Systems Inc. project holds promise for appropriate development in Northville Township. We believe the Northville Township Trustees should grant a tax abatement to OIS," she read.

After offering their support, Advocates also cautioned trustees about granting future abatements. The watchdog group urged trustees and planners to establish criteria to evaluate future abatements and develop a marketing strategy to attract more business to the township.

OIS officials have delayed signing a purchase agreement with Wayne County until township trustees grant the tax incentive for the company's proposed $100 million manufacturing facility. The plant will be used to manufacture advanced flat panel displays for the aviation market. The company has chosen 30 acres of county-owned land at Five Mile Road between Sheldon and Beck roads.

OIS officials are hoping to have the abatement in hand before they leave township hall that night. That's why they requested and paid for a special meeting of the trustees to follow the hearing Thursday.

At the first public hearing to designate the industrial development district, Peter Walters, the spokesman from Guardian Industries Inc., the parent company of Troy-based OIS, said OIS won't relocate to Northville Township without the abatement.

He said the company has had abatement offers from other sites in Michigan and in Ohio that want to house the plant. But he said Northville is the preferred choice because of its proximity to the University of Michigan, which is home to a research center for the active matrix liquid crystal display technology.

News Briefs

COMMENCEMENT TO AIR: Omnicom Cablevision will cable-cast last Friday's Northville High School graduation ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, June 17; 6 p.m. Friday, June 18; 6 p.m. Tuesday, June 22; and 4:30 p.m. Thursday, June 24. The program can be seen on Channel 8.

POLICE NEWS UPDATE: Information from a Northville Township police report that appeared in last Thursday's edition said that a woman had to be rushed to the hospital following an apparent accidental drug overdose. New information indicates that the woman had actually suffered a heart attack in her home. She was admitted to St. Mary Hospital for six days then was released.

POLICE SURVEY CITY RESIDENTS: City police are conducting a random survey of residents to gauge how they feel about their police services. The mailed surveys ask citizens to rate the department's professionalism and visibility, and suggest ways to improve the department.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school age readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-Me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

KIDS CAN ENTER FATHER'S DAY TIE CONTEST: Father's Day is coming up, and The Shirt Box, a Southfield men's clothier, is sponsoring an "Art Tie Contest."

The Art Tie Contest encourages students from all over the area to create a drawing of a tie of their own design. The drawings will then be displayed at The Shirt Box during the Father's Day promotion. A winner will be chosen from each school, and will be awarded an "art wagon" filled with various art supplies (crayons, markers and so forth), and their school's art department will be awarded $100. The drawing for the contest will be held Saturday, June 19 at 6 p.m. at the store on 19011 W. Ten Mile Road.

Any elementary school teacher or student interested in participating may contact The Shirt Box at 352-1090 for materials.

CITY RECYCLING CENTER HOURS: The city council recently voted to reduce business hours at the Northville City recycling center, located inside the Department of Public Works yard at 650 Doherty Drive. The recycling center will no longer be open Wednesdays between 3-7 p.m. Weekend hours will be cut from every Saturday to the first and third Saturdays of each month, between 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

The move is due to reduced use of the center since the city initiated curbside collection of recyclable materials, and is intended to reduce the need for overtime by DPW workers. Since curbside recycling started last February, average use of the center has dropped to 35 cars on Wednesdays and 55 cars on Saturdays.

The center is available to City of Northville residents only, and identification is checked at the gate.

The center accepts clear, green and brown glass, plastic types 1 and 2, tin cans, household and car batteries, paint, used motor oil and antifreeze, compost material, scrap metal, and newspapers. Liquids should be in sealed, clearly labeled containers. Newspapers should be stacked in brown paper bags or tied into bundles. Telephone books, magazines and road maps are not accepted.

For more information, call DPW spokesperson Becky Dozier at 349-3271.

Township to contest county citation

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Township attorneys have turned the tables on Wayne County road inspectors.

Instead of complying with the county's request to treat or pave the roads in the township, township attorneys have ruled that since the roads are owned by the county it is the county's responsibility—not the township's—to care for them.

Township trustees had sought their attorney's opinion after a county inspector ticketed the township on May 12 for air contaminants. The complaint resulted from dust and dirt stirred up from traffic traveling on untreated and unpaved roads.

According to Township Supervisor Karen Baja, the attorney's opinion says the township's best response to the May 12 ticket is to send it back.

The opinion written by Vanderveer Garzia says the township doesn't own the roads, and that, "Wayne County wrote itself a ticket."

"We don't own the roads and we aren't responsible for maintaining them," Baja told board members

Thursday.

Trustee Mark Abbo agreed with the attorney's opinion and suggested the township take an aggressive stand with the county.

Historically, when the township had been ticketed for the same offense, elected officials complied with the request and treated the roads, Baja said. But that won't be the case this year in the wake of Vanderveer Garzia's opinion.

Months ago trustees tentatively agreed to allocate money from the general fund to cover two road treatments. That agreement is contingent on dirt road residents finding a permanent solution to the age-old issue.

A solution could come from the June 23 public meeting of the roads committee at Northville High School. More than 800 dirt road residents have been invited to attend the meeting two weeks from now to try and hammer out a solution to the problem.

Baja said residents have few options aside from absorbing the cost to treat or pave the roads or battle with the county.

Voters to have say on parking deck parking spaces from the city.

The project would be paid off through a combination of tax capturing off an expanded Downtown Development District, about $500,000 in parking credits owed by Singh Development for its MainCentre and proposed CadyCentre projects, a $226,000 special assessment on downtown businesses including MainCentre and a $226,000 contribution from city coffers.

Tax capturing diverts any increase in tax revenue from increased property values within a DDA district to the DDA, to pay off bonds used to finance downtown improvements.

The mechanism was used to finance Mainstreet '78, the project that funded a series of downtown renovations and spurred redevelopment.

Council members last week authorized the issuance of a $3.8 million unlimited general obligation bond issue to fund Mainstreet '93, but City Manager Gary Word said Friday that the project likely will only need a $3.5 million bond.

That figure does not include about $700,000 the city already has spent in property acquisition, design and legal fees over the past several years.

The city decided to seek voter approval of the project rather than issue its own limited general obligation bonds because a voter-approved bond should earn a lower interest rate and result in less interest costs to the city over the life of the project. Because an unlimited bond is backed by the full faith and credit of the city, investors consider it less risky.

In the event financial projections for paying off the bonds fall short, the city could approach the voters to help pay the project off.

Township approves allocation for study would have on future service agreements with the city of Northville.

"The city and township might be the biggest beneficiaries," Baja said.

The supervisor said she and Mayor Chris Johnson both support the plan.

"I think Mayor Johnson and I have been the biggest cheerleaders for it,"

she added. "This is both a financial commitment and a reaffirmation of the political commitment we made to look into a joint service agreement for police consolidation."

Baja said the impetus for the study came after elected officials agreed in January to explore the notion of consolidating city and township services. The initial study will focus on police services because all five communities share the same police union.

She said starting with the police departments would be, at the same time, "the hardest to do, but could bring in the highest benefit."

The supervisor said the study will examine all the options and look at the feasibility of consolidating everything from records to dispatch to basic police operations.

Even though the motion passed, there was skepticism in the audience from former township supervisor Don Thomson.

"We talked about consortiums for years, it never worked," he said. "I really don't think it will work, and I think the money you will be spending will just go down the drain."

Raffle to help finance Fourth of July parade

Organizers of the Northville/Novi Fourth of July parade are trying to spur interest and corral some funding for this year's event.

The parade, which was given a western theme this year, will be held Saturday, July 3, in downtown Northville.

While private donations are expected to help pay some of the bills, the primary means of raising funds is a raffle.

The raffle carries cash prizes of $300, $200 and $100. Other prizes, such as gift certificates, also will be given away.

Organizers have printed 5,000 tickets to help defray an estimated $4,500 in parade expenses.

The raffle drawing will be held Tuesday, July 13. Tickets sell for $1 apiece.

In keeping with the theme, "Western Days," plans call for the use of a horse-drawn wagon and other Old West floats. There will also be a decorated bicycle contest and a pet parade in which people are invited to walk with their pets in the parade line-up.

People attending are being asked to don western attire to contribute to the atmosphere.

Raffle tickets are available at Century 21 Suburban, 130 MainCentre; Joe Sport's Shop, 153 E. Main; Northville Diamond Jewelers, 201 E. Main on Hutton; and Cindy's Coney Island in the Highland Lakes shopping center.

Parade patrons may also call Ginny Hathorn at 349-0996.

The sponsors of this year's parade include the Northville Kiwanis Early Birds, Northville VFW Post No. 4012, and other service clubs from Northville and Novi.

For more information or to register to participate in the parade, call Debbie McDonald at 348-6417.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper . . . Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community . . . giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

Teen suffers minor injuries after being struck by car

A 15-year-old girl was struck by a motorist Thursday, June 10, after attempting to cross Six Mile Road near Summit Drive. The Livonia driver was traveling eastbound on Six Mile Road around 9 p.m. when the pedestrian ran north into the eastbound lane and struck the passenger door of the car. The girl was taken to Providence Hospital and treated for minor injuries.

FIERY SHOTS: Township police responded to a June 10 complaint of shots being fired near Beer Hill. The complainant said he thought he heard several shots being fired from what sounded like a 22-caliber gun. But police arrived at the scene to find a 20-year-old white male lighting fireworks.

BIKE INJURY: An 11-year-old boy suffered a serious knee injury Thursday, June 10 while riding his bike on Leidal Court. Township police responded to the call and assisted in transporting the boy to St. Mary's Hospital.

WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested a 32-year-old Northville woman June 9 on an outstanding warrant. The woman came to the police station on another matter when police learned of the warrant for her arrest from Northville Township. She was wanted for contempt of court following a 1992 assault and battery charge. She was taken into custody and turned over to township police.

THIEVES SLIP OFF WITH SLEEPING BAGS: Two sleeping bags were reported stolen sometime between June 1-2 from the trunk of a car parked off East Main.

The car was parked in the lot at 342 E. Main St. on the south side of the building. Thieves apparently gained entry to the trunk by opening an unlocked car door and triggering the trunk release.

The blue L.L.Bean sleeping bags were valued at $200 each.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARRESTS: City police arrested two drivers for operating under the influence last week. A 28-year-old Hazel Park man was arrested at 9:30 p.m. June 7 after city police stopped him for speeding east on Eight Mile near the Northville High School overpass. He denied drinking anything until he failed to recite the alphabet and count backwards correctly, at which point he admitted drinking six or seven beers. He was arrested and his blood-alcohol level was measured at .12-.13 percent. He was released after he sobered up and posted a $100 bond.

A 41-year-old Farmington man was arrested at 10 p.m. June 9 after police stopped him for speeding east on Eight Mile, between Center and Novi streets. When police asked to see his license, he leaped through his wallet unable to find it until an officer pointed it out to him. The driver said he had about seven beers after a round of golf. His blood-alcohol level was measured at .16 percent.

Police released the man at 6 a.m. the next day after he had sobered up and posted a $500 personal bond.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Millage, race to be decided

erage assessment increase and no new property tax legislation.

Citizens for a Better Northville, however, disagree, and endorsed a no vote on the millage request. That group feels the district should offer a split ballot — asking for the 1.05 mills generated by not utilizing the Headlee Amendment rollback separately.

"The instant we found out what the submitted (ballot) language was going to be, we knew it was deceptively worded," Jeff Hampton, a member of the school watchdog group, said last week. "They're pushing it as a renewal and it's not a renewal."

Voters will also decide who will represent them on two seats open on the Northville Board of Education. Incumbent Jean Hansen will face Steve Lloyd for a four-year position while Debra Faber and Joan Wadsworth are vying for a three-year spot on the board created by the resignation of board president Carol Rahimi. Rahimi is relocating to Illinois.

Six candidates are also seeking three seats on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees. There is one four-year term and two six-year terms open.

Squaring off for the one-year term are Winifred Fraser of Northville and Richard DeVries of Livonia. Seeking the two six-year terms are Catherine Broadbent of Westland, Linda Chuh-ran of Canton Township, John Walsh of Livonia and Patricia Watson of Northville.

Voting precincts are as follows:
● Precinct 1 — Northville City of-fices, 215 W. Main St.
● Precinct 2 — Silver Springs Elementary, 19801 Silver Springs Drive
● Precinct 3 — Winchester Elementary, 16141 Winchester Drive
● Precinct 4 — Amerman Elementary, 847 N. Center St.
● Precinct 5 — Northville City of-fices, 215 W. Main St.

Man charges police brutality

four 360s . . . at I-96, right there by the access for Twelve Oaks. We al-most hit the wall."

Sousa said he edited I-96 at the Novi Road exit after a Canton police car pulled in front of him. When the EXP was finally forced to the side of the road between Twelve and Thir-teen Mile, Garrison jumped out and ran into the woods as Trooper McKal-pain climbed from his patrol car.

"I got out of the car and said, 'I give, man, I give, I've had enough. Where do you want me?' " Sousa said. "The next thing I know, I'm in a headlock, slammed to the ground, put in hand-cuffs and then my head's going up and down off the cement."

Sousa said the trooper placed one hand on the back of his head, another on the front, and bounced the right side of his head off the ground several times.

Sousa eventually was taken to the Northville state police post by another officer, but he said that was not his final run-in with Trooper McKalpain.

"I got to the trooper's station, and about 15 minutes later . . . he comes in and he's pointing back at me, and the next thing I know I see a piece of paper go up (in the cell window) and here he comes through the door . . .

"The next thing I know, I'm seeing stars. I got hit upside my head while I was in the cell handcuffed to the wall . . . I said, 'What's this for?' He said 'I should have shot you f----- a. I don't need a reason.'"

"I get it again, pow." Sousa said he was hit three or four times, until he yelled out for help and the officer left. He said he saw no one else for about 20 minutes until he noticed someone walking by and called for help again.

"All I heard was, 'Who's the officer that's hitting this guy.' And the next thing I know, (McKallpain) came back in with another officer and he said, 'Is there any problems?' I said 'No, there ain't no problems,' because I didn't want him to start hitting me again, thinking I'm trying to get him in trouble."

Sousa eventually was taken to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, following questioning by Canton police. But he said the injuries still left him with splitting headaches and blurred vision.

"I went to the eye doctor while I was in quarantine and he told me I need a full eye exam because I lost vision in my eye," he said.

According to the initial police report, Werner said, the investigation into Sousa's allegations was stymied in part because Sousa refused to re-lease his medical records from Anna-polis Hospital. But Sousa insisted he was never asked to release those re-cords, and would gladly have re-leased them if asked.

Also according to the initial police report, Werner said, "Nobody ob-served any injuries to the individual himself."

That observation seems to be con-tradicted by a blurry mug shot taken of Sousa by the Canton Public Safety Department after his arrest. The color Polaroid picture shows a silver-dollar-sized bruise on the upper right side of his face near his eye, and several faint red marks on his cheek.

Annapolis Hospital's emergency room medical report on Sousa notes "abrasions over the right side of the face, angle and mandible of the right cheek . . . (and) diffuse tenderness over the scalp." A handwritten as-sessment also notes "jaw swelling," Sousa was examined at 8:30 p.m., seven hours after his capture and ar-rest. He was released and told to take Motrin to ease his pain.

Sousa pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an occupied dwelling March 12 in front of Recorder's Judge John P. O'Brien, and was taken to Wayne County Jail. He was sen-tenced April 19 to 1½ -15 years in prison and transferred to Adrian Temporary Correctional Facility, where he remains today.

The former Farmington Hills re-sident was still on parole for a 1992 charge of larceny from an auto when he was arrested again Feb. 18.

"I'm not saying I'm an angel, and what I did was wrong, and I know that now," Sousa said. "I'm not going to try to get an officer in trouble just to try to benefit me if it didn't happen. I'm not like that. I mean that's his job and that, but . . . I feel I'm paying for my crime, and my actions."

"That man should at least have to have some kind of penalty for his ac-tions. Just because he's got a badge and a gun don't mean that he can hit me just because he wants to hit me."

The allegations come at a bad time for the Northville post, already shak-en by the dismissal of former post commander Jack Moulik last month on an unrelated charge.

A state police administrative trial board found reason to believe last month that Moulik had illegally ap-propriated more than $55,000 from the post's petty cash fund for per-sonal use, and he was fired the fol-lowing day. That case is still under in-vestigation, and Moulik had not been formally charged with a crime as of presstime Friday.

Werner was appointed post com-mander in mid-May after Moulik was suspended.

Our Opinion

County tries to shirk responsibility for roads

Being in a position of authority definitely has its advantages. A recent case involving Wayne County and Northville Township makes the point.

The county, as the superior political entity, owns the roads that run through the township. But ownership apparently doesn't translate into responsibility, at least not in this case. The roads might fall under the jurisdiction of Wayne County, but that hasn't stopped county officials from saddling the township with the unwanted task of paying for dirt road treatments.

On May 12, county inspectors wrote the township a ticket, insisting that air contaminants on Fry, Maxwell and Parklane exceeded safety limits.

What the citation amounts to is an order requiring the township to pay for calcium chloride treatments to pack down the dirt and prevent the raising of dust clouds from passing traffic.

In other words, the county believes it has the authority to order the township to pay to maintain roads to which the county itself holds title.

As Mel Brooks said in portraying the supremely privileged Louis XVI: "It's good to be the king."

This same situation has cropped up in the past, and township officials have always responded by meekly submitting to the hostage taker's demand.

But this time, in the throes of a financial crunch, the response has been different. Township officials wisely referred the matter to corporation counsel, and the attorney returned the following opinion: the county has just written itself a ticket.

Township trustees have decided to take a firm stand on the issue and challenge the presumptuousness of the county. We find this position refreshingly bold, and somewhat surprising in light of the way the two governments seem to be in such close synch on the OIS high-technology development.

What makes the situation so deplorable is that not too long ago Wayne County willingly financed the calcium chloride applications that are needed on dirt roads in Northville Township. Now, they've withdrawn the funding and converted the responsibility into a sort of "mandatory option" for the township.

We don't know where this matter can be expected to go from here, and it might be unwise for the township to go so far as to get entangled in a court battle over the matter. But township trustees have shown real gumption in standing up to the county and in sending a signal that landlords must be more than bosses—they must be custodians too.

Consolidation is worth looking at, paying for

It took a little coaxing, but Northville Township trustees last week took the far-sighted step of helping to finance a program to look at consolidating area police departments.

The township board approved a $2,400 allowance to pay for a feasibility study that will compare the costs and benefits of five local governments merging all or part of their police functions.

The city of Northville has already agreed to participate in the study, and agreement is now needed from Plymouth Township, Plymouth city and Canton Township.

If all five communities go along, the study would be completed in roughly six weeks by the Criminal Justice Institute of Saginaw Valley State University.

The analysis would focus on several potential scenarios, everything from partial to total consolidation of police functions among any or all of the five municipalities.

Trustees, mindful of the township's precarious financial position, balked at the costs of the study, but Supervisor Karen Baja rightly pressed for approval. Baja said she would pull funds from the supervisor's own budget if necessary to pay for the township's portion of the five-way split.

We believe there is every possibility that precious resources could be saved from the consolidation of any number of municipal services, public safety included. Agreement first on the part of the city and now the township to pay for a feasibility analysis is just the first step in a what could result in long-term cost savings and improved service delivery for area taxpayers.

We hope this is just the start of a large-scale cooperative effort to look at ways of streamlining local government and avoiding duplication of services.

Boys can use some charm too

Rick Byrne

A couple of laments I've heard around town lately:

■ One of the guests in town last week for the Induction Ceremony of the Motorsports Hall of Fame told me she runs an old-fashioned charm school out on the west coast.

Mostly it's designed for young women who want careers in modeling. Betty teaches them proper hygiene, use of cosmetics, and how to carry themselves gracefully. In addition, they're taught proper etiquette and table manners. You know, stuff like which fork to use.

The concept of charm schools was dying out for a while, Betty says, but new ones have sprung up lately under the nebulous heading of "personal development centers."

And there's further proof that an old concept can adapt well to the '90s. Many of the parents who send their daughters to class also have sons, and they are clamoring for similar classes for boys.

Betty's biggest surprise is the lack of table manners among the youths she sees. It cuts across all socio-economic lines. The problem, she speculates, is that the growth in two-income families and single-parent households has eliminated the traditional nightly sit-down-with-the-whole-family type of meal.

Dinner, her young clients tell her, is catch as catch can, eaten in front of the TV, out of the microwave, without parents present.

That, she says, is only a minor problem. The broader issue is the vicious cycle of over-worked, over-educated parents expecting the local schools to take up the slack on raising their kids.

Changes in the education system have made schools less equipped to cover for parents, not more. Too much emphasis, Betty believes, is put on maintaining kids' self-esteem.

She sees a lot of girls in the 10-15 age group of whom she says, "They can't spell or do math, but, boy, have they got self-esteem."

■ Jerry and Whitey, my two toolmaker buddies, were sitting around the other night, downing a couple of PBRs to congratulate themselves for getting another hot job out of their shop in Novi. They got to talking, and were left with a "why."

As Jerry put it "Why do the governor and the president say they're not raising taxes on us when they're raising the taxes on business. Who's the business going to pass the taxes on to?"

Good question.

Here's another one that I have: Why do so many political candidates say they want to "run government like a business?"

When you run a business, there are only two ways to turn a negative balance sheet into a profitable one; lower your expenses or raise your revenues.

Both the Michigan and federal governments are operating at a loss. If the person we elect can't find enough ways to cut expenses, you can bet he or she will raise revenues. Government's only revenues are fees and taxes. Get the picture?

That's the reason I'm suspicious of anyone who says he wants to "run government like a business."

A return trip to Afghanistan

Phil Jerome

Catching up on my phone calls.

AFGHANISTAN REVISITED: I received a call from a gentleman (sorry, I forgot to write down his name) about my "Want to insult a journalist?" column last Monday.

In case you missed it, I wrote about "Afghanistanism"—the practice of editorializing about things and places so far away that nobody really cares how you say. "Afghanistanism" is a good way to keep people from getting upset with you;

it's a bad way to put out a newspaper.

At any rate, in attempting to explain how this practice became called "Afghanistanism" I described Afghanistan as "one of those small nondescript countries tucked somewhere in Europe where nothing of much consequence to the rest of the world takes place."

Wrong! Afghanistan is technically in Asia, not Europe... although it's down in that somewhat grey area between the two continents.

Two things bother me: (1) I knew when I was writing it that I should have looked it up on a map before sending the column off to the printing press, and (2) only one person caught the mistake. I suspect there were more, but only one person caught it and called to tell me about it.

GRADE INFLATION REVISITED: There was relatively little response to the column I wrote accusing the Northville and Novi school districts of grade inflation.

Basically, that column noted the high number of valedictorians in both Northville and Novi, and suggested that grades are being devalued just as the dollar is. Ah for the good old days when it was virtually impossible to get through four years of high school with a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

That is not to say there was no response, however.

Shortly after the column appeared I received a call from a woman who identified herself as the parent of a student who was one of those co-valedictorians within the past three years. (I won't tell you if it was Northville or Novi high school to protect identities).

The woman told me that her 4-pointer had headed off to an engineering curriculum at one of this state's major universities and, quite frankly, was having a difficult time of it.

"My husband and I were talking recently about whether we built up false expectations based on that 4-point GPA," she said. "We were happy to see your column because it was exactly what we had been talking about."

In all fairness, I note that I have been warned that I am going to hear the other side of the story sometime after the flurry around graduation subsides.

Chuck Nanas, an administrator at Novi High School, told me last Thursday that High School Principal Arthur Miller would like to sit down with me in the near future to (1) get to know me better and (2) discuss my "grade inflation" column in greater detail.

I'm looking forward to it.

READIN' and 'WRITING': I hope everyone took time to read the winners of the first-ever Northville Record Writing Contest that were published in the June 3 edition.

Much credit goes to Shirley Klokenga who worked closely with Record Lee Snider to make the idea become a reality. We were proud to sponsor the contest.

Sauternes star gets challenge from neighbor

In Bordeaux, famed for the great red wines of the Medoc, St. Emillion and Pomerol, there is a small southern region called Sauternes, renowned for its prestigious white Dessert wines.

Here, Chateau Yquem rules as queen of Sauternes, but its high price tag ($150) makes it a truly special occasion wine.

At the foot of Yquem's domain are the contiguous vineyards of Chateau Raymond-Lafon, making exquisite wines rivaling those of the queen in many vintages, but at one-fifth the price ($30).

The Meslier family, current proprietors of Raymond-Lafon, reside in the property's modest chateau. They are pleased to have succeeded in re-establishing the reputation of Raymond-Lafon, a property that had fallen into neglect prior to their purchase in 1972.

Imagine a white wine that ages longer than any red wine in the world; a wine with the richness to complement foie gras d'ole (goose liver pate), the intensity to stand up to Roquefort and the viscosity to completely coat the palate.

Contemplate a wine with intense honey aromas and peach flavors made from botrytis-infected, shriveled grapes picked berry by individual berry. That's the luxurious taste experience of Chateau Raymond-Lafon Sauternes.

What dessert lives up to that? None, just serve it well chilled as an exquisite finale to any meal.

In 1963, Pierre Meslier became director at Chateau Yquem where he managed the vineyards and winemaking of both Yquem and Chateau de Fargues until 1989.

"At Yquem, I learned the importance of demanding the very best," Meslier said. "In Sauternes, we grow grapes under extremely difficult conditions. I guess it is the struggle with nature that makes our wines so delicious."

While managing Yquem, Meslier became acquainted with other properties in Sauternes, and when the opportunity presented itself in 1972, he purchased the neighboring property of Raymond-Lafon.

Meslier continued managing Yquem while his wife Francine directed the operations at Raymond-Lafon. Together, the Mesliers have reacquired the original vineyards of the Chateau, raised the quality to that of a great growth, and in 1990, gave this treasure to their children.

Today, with the elder Mesliers continuing as consultants, Jean-Pierre, Charles-Henri and Marie-Francoise have assumed the roles of international marketer, winemaker and manager, respectively.

The quality of Raymond-Lafon Sauternes is a result of impeccably high winemaking standards and strict grape selection employed in the vineyard.

"Our vines must struggle against the odds to make a great wine," said Meslier. "Our soil is chalk and clay with gravel, not very hospitable to most crops, but poor soil is best for grapes."

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

- 1992 Preston Vineyards Marsanne ($17.50) or Vigonier ($19).

Both marsanne and vigonier are white grapes originating in France's Rhone Valley. Nobody in California is doing a better job with these varietals than Preston.

- 1991 Mirassou Chardonnay Limited Bottling (blue label $14).

This wine may be the best-kept secret around.

- 1988 Clos du Val Reserve ($49).

This wine rivals the best Bordeaux chateau for complexity and richness.

- 1990 Lyeth Red ($13).

It is approachable, delicious and value priced.

Chef Dean George of the Novi Hilton takes his work seriously, but isn't above some fun in the kitchen.

Fun Fare, Italian Style

New menu at Hilton bears chef's mark

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Unusual things happen in a restaurant when Chef L. Dean George is around.

George is the executive chef at the Novi Hilton who has overseen the transformation of the Hilton's main dining room into the new DaVinci's Market, a new Italian restaurant that would make Michelangelo drop his paintbrush.

Whether he's showing up to work in white clogs or Birkenstocks (forsaking the traditional black work shoes), serving up an insalata pomodora as an hors d'oeuvre, or being tossed into a rack of candy, there's never a dull moment when Chef George is around.

George came to the Hilton late last year with an impressive pedigree. Educated at the Cincinnati branch of the Culinary Institute of America, Chef George became the youngest and first American Chef de Cuisine at the Gourmet Room of the Terrace Hilton, a 42-year-old highly acclaimed French restaurant.

The emphasis is on traditional French cuisine at the Gourmet Room. It's a Mobil four-star restaurant, a rare distinction, and one of three in the Hilton chain.

"Meals are served on Lennox china, and the silver dates from the 1940s," said George.

He also prepared dinner for President Bill Clinton last March at The Gridiron Club in Washington, as one of two chefs chosen for the honor.

It's also a far cry from his former employment as restaurant manager at a small-town family style joint.

"I was a restaurant manager for a lot of years, and I decided I wanted to cook," he said. "I had an epiphany one day as I was being thrown into a Pennsylvania Dutch candy tree by a bunch of bikers."

At the Hilton, the atmosphere is a little more sedate, but everyone's supposed to have fun.

Take the insalata pomodora for example. Where most places put bread and butter on the table, DaVinci's gives you bread and a bowl of roma and sun-dried tomatoes with chopped fresh basil. Smear the bread through a dash of olive oil, then add some tomatoes. It takes the edge off nicely until dinner arrives.

A house chianti is served in a pitcher at your table. Drink as many glasses as you'd like, but not so many that you lose count. Payment for wine is on the honor system. You just tell the server at the end of the meal how many glasses you had, and he or she will charge you a dollar each.

A dollar a glass for chianti is a bargain, and this is good chianti. That's typical of the new Hilton attitude at DaVinci's, though.

Since the hotel sees a lot of solo business travelers, there's an emphasis on value. No entree on the menu costs more than $13.95 (a fabulous filet mignon with horseradish whipped potatoes). Careful research went into the choice of Italian cuisine for the Hilton.

"There's a renewed interest in Italian food with the focus on simplicity and freshness allowing the tastes and aromas to be enjoyed without heavy sauces or over-preparation," said George.

Said food and beverage manager Mark Blakely, "The Novi Hilton is trying to break that staid image. It's not your typical hotel restaurant. And this restaurant is being used as a testbed for other Hiltons. If it works, others will pick it up."

What they won't be able to pick up, though, is Chef George's attitude toward work in the kitchen. He arrives at 8:30 most mornings and stays until 6:30 or 7 in the evening.

To the people who work for him, he characterizes himself as a "counselor and leader." He knows how to have fun in the kitchen and still get the job done without slipping into the stereotypical role of the tyrannical chef.

"I've worked for plenty of those, and I'm not like that," George said.

He's also happy to share his knowledge with customers. Recently he received a call from a customer who had eaten at DaVinci's and wanted help in creating the same sauce in her kitchen. George was happy to provide her with ingredients and instructions.

"I don't believe in keeping secrets in my kitchen," said George. "My goal is to provide the diner with a good meal, and if that means they want to try duplicating it at home, I consider that a compliment on a job well done."

In that spirit, here is one of Chef George's signature dishes from the new DaVinci's menu.

Local class displays enthusiasm of youth

Mary Brady

Last week, Ellie Williams, chef instructor of Walled Lake Central's culinary arts program, asked me to be a guest for her class's final project.

The assignment was to plan, prepare and present one restaurant lunch menu for two guests consisting of three courses, soup or salad, entree and dessert.

The guidelines were fairly simple: choose ingredients for main display. Complete utilization — no waste — of product, protein portion sizes of 4-6 ounces and any garnish, if used, to be in harmony with all food items on the plate.

The students would be evaluated on professionalism, planning and organization, skill, work, process, knowledge, degree of difficulty and the final product. Teaching in a hands-on situation is one of my favorite things to do. I agreed. I've mentioned before that the joy of teaching is learning. Last Friday did not prove me wrong.

I arrived a bit before nine and already the kitchen was alive with students buzzing here and there. Collecting ingredients, cutting, chopping, marinating and sauteing.

Anyone who hadn't done their homework was in trouble. There was no time to start menu planning or recipe reading at this stage of the game. A deadline had to be met or points would be subtracted.

Right away I noticed a different atmosphere from the college level. Open and jovial attitudes prevailed. These kids were really happy to be in Ellie's class. Not all of them will end up in the kitchen as a lifelong career but as a whole they showed talent and interest.

For the next two hours I was once again in a teaching mode, and was it ever fun. As the students worked I stopped at each station and offered suggestions, showed proper procedures, assisted with tasting and correcting seasoning and finally with the set-up of plates. Their food was fantastic. The kids were marvelous.

The program owes its success to Ellie. I learned much about teaching philosophies and skills in those few hours. Her "kids" absolutely adore her. Her peers are tremendously supportive and excited with her class.

Just about every teacher in the school came in to see the final product. A photographer was present to record the event. This was enthusiasm at its peak.

I asked Ellie to give me the secret of her accomplishments. She has been teaching commercial foods, alias food service, alias culinary arts, and what is now known as hospitality/culinary arts for 27 years. The program objectives have always been to prepare students with the knowledge, skills and employability traits for work in the food service industry.

"I have always done that and more" Ellie says. "The culinary program is a natural place to integrate learning with other disciplines — science, history, art, business, economic, multi-cultural studies, math, communications and psychology."

"Many years ago, I know it was important to teach 'transferable skills,' so my students have always learned within the context of the 'big picture.'"

Over the years she has had a wide variety of students pass through her classes — the academically talented and the limited, the "average" and the underachiever, and sometimes the troubled student whose life problems interfere with education.

"It is a challenge to teach that mix," she says. "I believe it is important to take each student just where they are and move them forward. To challenge them to their best. To build a sense of ownership and pride in their own educational achievement."

"Whatever it takes to do that is the challenge of every teacher. I'm committed to that!"

Ellie, you are one phenomenal educator. Your devotion to your students is exemplary. Thanks for my "education" last Friday.

And thanks to Mike Williamson, Eric Hoffman, Mike Lacey, Steve Buttermore, Tanya Rickway, Brandi Dalplan, Drik Snyder, Mike Fletcher, Tom Chapel, Aaron Tryell and Melissa Gendron for the really awesome poster of your class. I'll hang it with pride in the restaurant. Much luck with your careers.

HOME CANNING COURSE: If you've promised yourself each year that you would learn how to can foods properly — this is the time to start.

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension is now offering a seven week correspondence Food Preservation course for $15 to cover mailing and printing charges.

For enrollment information and other food and nutrition, food safety and food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 858-0904.

The various lessons include — complete information on food safety; canning of low acid and high acid foods; pickling and jam and jelly preparation; freezing and drying of foods.

The lessons are mailed every two weeks to your home so you can work at your own pace. Complete background materials and recipes are provided. There's even a quiz at each lesson's end for you to see what you have learned.

PRODUCE POINTERS: Here are some produce pointers from "Fruit and Vegetable News," a publication of the Produce Marketing Association.

■ To determine if a mango is ripe, sniff the stem end; there should be a pleasant scent. A light scent is just fine, but no aroma usually means no flavor.

If it smells a bit sour or alcoholic, the mango has begun to ferment and should not be eaten. When held in the palm of your hand, the mango should yield slightly to pressure (much like a ripe peach). Mangos do not do well in the cold; ripen them at room temperature and eat as soon as possible.

■ Prune puree can be used in a one-for-one substitution (1 cup puree for 1 cup butter) in brownie, cake, and cookie recipes. You will cut fat 75 to 99 percent and boost vitamins, minerals and fiber at the same time.

■ Kiwi fruit, once known as Chinese gooseberry, can be eaten directly out of hand without peeling it. The peel is edible. Some people rub off a little of the fuzz, others don't.

HOME CANNING: If you've promised yourself each year that you would learn how to can foods properly, this is the time to start.

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension is now offering a seven-week correspondence Food Preservation Course for $15 to cover mailing and printed charges.

The various lessons include complete information on food safety; canning of low acid and high acid foods; pickling and jam and jelly preparation; freezing and drying of foods. The lessons are mailed every two weeks to your home so you can work at your own pace. Complete background materials and recipes are provided. There is even a quiz at each lesson's end for you to see what you have learned.

For enrollment information and other food and nutrition, food safety and food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday-Friday, 8:30-5, 858-0904.

OLIVE OIL HOTLINE: If you've ever wondered about the "heart-healthy" benefits of olive oil, call the International Olive Oil Council hot line. The hot line is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Eastern time. Call 1-800-232-6548.

KNOW THE FOOD PYRAMID: Want to know what you should eat to stay healthy? "The Food Guide Pyramid, beyond the Basic Four," a new brochure, helps answer this question. The brochure condenses the information from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) booklet "The Food Guide Pyramid" and features the new food guide graphic on the elements of a healthy diet.

The brochure was developed by the Food Marketing Institute in cooperation with the USDA. For a copy, send a check or money order for $1 payable to the Superintendent of Documents, to Consumer Information Center, Department 159-Y, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Area folks walk off their meals

Novi pooch, Cookie, and his master Kathie Briggs walked for Weight Watchers as part of Walk Away Hunger.

In celebration of Weight Watchers' 30th anniversary, hundreds of metro Detroiters laced up their tennis to "Walk Away Hunger" recently at the Southfield Civic Center.

In cooperation with Tropicana Twister and Dieters Feed the Hungry (DFTH), a non-profit organization, Weight Watchers sponsored a 4-mile walk to benefit the Hunger Action Coalition of Detroit. Walkers dropped off tons and tons of non-perishable groceries to be donated to DFTH.

"It was wonderful to see so many Weight Watchers members, families and friends getting exercise in a meaningful way by rallying together to give something back to the community," said Florine Mark, president and CEO of the largest franchise of Weight Watchers International.

Adds Ronna Kabatznick, founder and director of Dieters Feed the Hungry, "This is a great way for people to receive the emotional satisfaction of helping others without turning to food."

Numerous "Walk Away Hunger" events took place across the nation during the weekend of May 15 and 16.

When the sound system failed before the walk, Mark had to improvise and lead walkers through warm-ups using a police car radio, courtesy of the Southfield police department. After warm-ups, Southfield Mayor Donald Fracassi and City Council President Steve Hurte presented Mark with a proclamation declaring Saturday, May 15, 1993, as Weight Watchers "Walk Away Hunger" Day in Southfield.

Everyone joined in to make the event a huge success. Even Southfield's Mayor Fracassi pitched in to help unload the refreshments, courtesy of Tropicana Twister. The Livonia Stevenson High School Marching Band not only supplied the energetic entertainment, but also took the lead to begin the 4-mile walk.

The entire morning was one feel-good event, Southfield Police Officer Charmain Jefferson-Ford made sure of that! At one point she was seen blowing the whistle at walkers who didn't quite make it all the way to the half-way 2-mile marker. She made them turn around, walk back, and touch it. Of course, it was all in good fun.

Chef puts his twist on Hilton fare

1 cup tomato sauce (recipe follows)
1 tablespoon olive oil
¼ lemon (freshly squeezed)
3 ounces dry white wine
1 tablespoon whole butter

Tomato Sauce

12 ounces Italian plum tomato sauce
2 ounces extra virgin olive oil

2 cloves garlic finely minced salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
2 tablespoons chopped basil
½ teaspoon chopped parsley

Sauce: Heat the olive oil in a skillet and add the garlic. Cook over moderate heat for a minute, but do not brown. Add the tomato sauce.

Cook over moderate heat until the sauce starts to thicken.

Season with salt and pepper, and remove from the heat. Add basil and parsley.

To prepare the dish: Season the salmon filets with salt and pepper and lightly dredge with flour.

In a hot saute pan, add the butter, heat, then the salmon (skin side up). Brown on one side, turn over, then deglaze with white wine. Cover and place in a 350-degree oven. Broil for about 10 minutes, check for doneness and remove from oven.

Place the salmon on a warm platter and reserve.

In the pan juices add the spinach and cook lightly. Add the lemon and season. Arrange the spinach on four dinner plates and top with the salmon. In the same pan with the braising liquid, add the tomato sauce. Allow to heat through, then add the butter, mix and spoon around the salmon and spinach.

Northville woman takes part in fest

Northville Township resident Donna Haller believes that spending her time on the Michigan TasteFest will be time well spent in promoting the state and the City of Detroit.

Michigan TasteFest features forty of the state's finest restaurants, wineries, and breweries selling "tastes" of their specialties to enthusiastic visitors from throughout Michigan and Ontario. The 1993 festival takes place over the Fourth of July weekend, July 2-5.

For Haller, however, this year takes on a new twist. She has the responsibility of coordinating the ever-popular KIDZONE, featuring a children's stage, crafts and much more. Haller is finding this year quite fulfilling. "I'm having a lot of fun with it. We have more exciting activities than ever before," she says.

Because of Haller's dedication, both children and their parents will enjoy the non-stop activity and entertainment of the KIDZONE. Haller has been successful in recruiting the Cranbrook Institute of Science, the Cookie Factory Bakery, the Detroit Zoo, Arts and Scraps, WTVS-Channel 56, and many more for the 1993 festival.

The Michigan TasteFest is held in Detroit's New Center Area on west Grand Boulevard between Woodward and the Lodge Freeway, adjacent to the historic General Motors and Fisher buildings. KIDZONE is sponsored by Henry Ford Health System and Friendly's Ice Cream and presented by WLTN-FM, MetroParent Magazine, and WTVS-Channel 56. The festival is produced by the New Center Area. Dessert wine tastes fine on its own

The extremely humid Sauternes climate in September and October would be disastrous for dry, white wines, but it is excellent for sweet dessert-style wines because it encourages pourriture noble (botrytis cinerea).

This microscopic fungus feeds on the sugar, moisture and tartaric acid in the grapes, shriveling the berries and concentrating sugar levels. Grapes are harvested at 20 percent potential alcohol. Once the fungus has established itself, the grapes lose their shape, becoming fuzzy, amorphous balls of pulp. The rich, sweet nectar given up by the harvest is one of the miracles of nature. It is the character imparted by botrytis cinerea that gives sauternes its rich, peach-honey flavors.

Without beneficial botrytis infection, sauternes would be a different beverage. During fermentation, this benevolent fungus produces an antibiotic that kills the yeast and stops the fermentation before all the sugar is fermented. Therefore, a natural balance is achieved between percent alcohol and residual sugar.

Because botrytis is slow to develop, attacking individual berries rather than whole bunches, a team of 25 women (Meslier claims that pickers must have small fingers to pick the botrytis-infected grapes) pass through the vineyard several times during harvest, picking only those individual grapes that have shriveled due to botrytis-induced dehydration. In 1985, when botrytis was particularly slow to develop, harvest included 11 pickings that extended through Dec. 16.

The vineyards at Raymond-Lafon are planted to 80 percent semillon and 20 percent sauvignon blanc yielding only 88 to 99 gallons per acre or about one glass of wine per vine.

By comparison, one picker in the Medoc can pick enough grapes to produce one barrel of juice per day, but it requires 10 pickers to yield one barrel of wine in Sauternes. The pressed juice from one day's picking makes only two to three barrels.

Pierre Meslier projects that a great sauternes from Raymond-Lafon may age well for up to 80 years. Current releases, especially those from 1988 and 1989 are incredibly luscious desserts.

MONDAY
June 14, 1993

The Mustang softball team, along with senior Kristin Davis, was just one of many Northville High squads to receive Monday coverage this school year.

Monday sports goes on hiatus

In just a few short days, summer break will begin for the Northville School District.

Graduated seniors will prepare for college in the fall. Underclassmen will pick up more hours at summer jobs while the district's younger students will do their best at having as much fun as can be had in three months without homework.

And while school goes on hiatus, so too will the Northville Record's Monday sports coverage.

You'll still be able to catch up on all the summer sports action around town on Thursdays. We'll have plenty of baseball, golf and other news and feature items each week.

But, let's get back to Monday for a moment. Since beginning the paper's second weekly edition a few years ago we have debated about what kind of sports coverage should be included.

At first, coverage was limited to a sports briefs column. When school began last fall, the Northville Record stepped up its effort by adding a single sports story and picture to each Monday issue.

We've brought you news about football, girls and boys basketball, swimming, baseball, softball, soccer and many other sports each Monday. Being able to bring you that news sooner has been a real treat.

Our goal at the Northville Record is to give you exactly the kind of sports coverage you want each week. To do that, though, we need your help.

Have you enjoyed the Monday coverage as it is? Would you like to see more sports news in Monday and less Thursday? Do you think we should drop Monday sports altogether?

The ball is in your court.

Please feel free to drop us a line (104 W. Main St., Northville, 48167) with your thoughts. If you prefer, I'd be happy to talk with you about our Monday coverage (349-1700). Either way, we'd like to hear from you in the upcoming weeks.

Treatments for heat stress in high school athletics

Early fall football, cross country, soccer and field hockey practices are conducted in very hot and humid weather in many parts of the United States.

Due to the equipment and uniforms needed in football, most of the heat problems have been associated with football. The Michigan High School Athletic Association has listed the causes of heat stress:

■ Heat Cramps: Painful cramps involving abdominal muscles and extremities caused by intense, prolonged exercise in the heat and depletion to salt and water due to profuse sweating.

■ Heat Syncope: Weakness, fatigue and fainting due to loss of salt and water in sweat and exercise in the heat. Predisposes to heat stroke.

■ Heat Exhaustion (water depletion): Excessive weight loss, reduced sweating, elevated skin and deep body temperature, excessive thirst, weakness, headache and sometimes unconsciousness.

■ Heat Exhaustion (salt depletion): Exhaustion, nausea, vomiting, muscle cramps and dizziness due to profuse sweating and inadequate replacement of body salts.

■ Heat Stroke: An acute medical emergency related to a thermoregulatory failure. Associated with nausea, seizures, disorientation, and possible unconsciousness or coma. It may occur suddenly without being preceded by any other chemical signs. The individual is usually unconscious with a high body temperature, and hot dry skin (heat stroke victims, contrary to popular belief, may sweat profusely).

It is believed that these heat stress problems can be controlled provided certain precautions are taken. According to the American Academy of Pediatrics Committee on Sports Medicine, heat related illnesses are all preventable. (Sports Medicine: Health Care for Young Athletes, American Academy of Pediatrics, 1991). The following practices and precautions are recommended:

1. Each athlete should have a physical examination with a medical history when first entering a program and an annual health history update. History of previous heat illness and type of training activities before organized practice begins should be included. State High School Association recommendations should be followed.

2. It is clear that top physical performance can only be achieved by an athlete who is in top physical condition. Lack of physical fitness impairs the performance of an athlete who participates in high temperatures. Coaches should know physical condition of their athletes and set practice schedules accordingly.

3. Along with physical conditioning the factor of acclimatization to heat is important. Acclimatization is the process of becoming adjusted to heat and it is essential to provide for gradual acclimatization to hot weather. It is necessary for an athlete to exercise in the heat if he/she is to become acclimatized to it. It is suggested that a graduated physical conditioning program to be used and that 80 percent acclimatization can be expected to occur after the first seven to 10 days. Final stages of acclimatization to heat are marked by increased sweating and reduced salt concentration in the sweat.

4. The old idea that water should be withheld from athletes during workouts has no scientific foundation. The most important safeguard to the health of the athlete is the replacement of water. Water must be on the field and readily available to the athletes at all times. It is recommended that a minimum of 10-minute water break be scheduled for every half hour of heavy exercise in the heat. Athletes should rest in a shaded area during the break. Water should be available in unlimited quantities. Check and be sure athletes are drinking the water. Cold water is preferable. Drinking ample water before practice or games has also been found to aid performance in the heat.

5. Salt should be replaced daily. Modest salting of foods after practice or games will accomplish this purpose. Salt tablets are not recommended. Attention must be directed to replacing water — fluid replacement is essential.

6. Know both the temperature and humidity. The greater the humidity the more difficult it is for the body to cool itself. Test the air prior to practice or game using a wet bulb, globe, temperature index (WBGT index) which is based on the combined effects of air temperature, relative humidity, radiant heat and air movement. The following precautions are recommended when using the WBGT index:

Below 65: Unlimited activity
65-72: Moderate risk
74-82: High risk
82 plus: Very high risk

There is also a weather guide for activities that last 30 minutes or more which involves knowing the relative humidity and air temperature: 70 degrees, 80 percent RH (danger zone), 100 percent RH (critical zone) 75 degrees, 70 percent RH (danger zone), 100 percent RH (critical zone) 80 degrees, 50 percent RH (danger zone), 80 percent RH (critical zone) 85 degrees, 40 percent RH (danger zone), 68 percent RH (critical zone) 90 degrees, 30 percent RH (danger zone), 68 percent RH (critical zone) 100 degrees, 10 percent RH (danger zone), 30 percent RH (critical zone). RH=relative humidity.

One other method of measuring the relative humidity is the use of a sling psychrometer which measures wet bulb temperature. The wet bulb temperature should be measured prior to practice and the intensity and duration of practice adjusted accordingly. Recommendations are as follows:

Under 60 degrees: Safe, but always observe athletes
61-65: Observe players carefully
66-75: Caution
71-75: Shorter practice sessions and more frequent water and rest breaks
75+: Danger level and extreme caution.

7. Cooling by evaporation is proportional to the area of the skin exposed. In extremely hot and humid weather reduce the amount of clothing covering the body as much as possible. Never use rubberized clothing.

8. Athletes should weigh in each day before and after practice and weight charts should be checked. Generally a three percent weight loss through sweating is safe. At more than three percent, the athlete should not be allowed to practice in hot and humid conditions. Observe the athletes closely under all conditions.

9. Observe the athlete carefully for signs of trouble, particularly athletes who lose weight and the eager athlete who constantly competes at his/her capacity.

10. Teams that encounter hot weather during the season through travel or following an unseasonably cool period, should be physically fit but will not be environmentally fit. Coaches in this situation should follow the recommendations for acclimatization and substitute more frequently during a game.
