

School budget based on state uncertainties

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville Board of Education members approved a budget for the school district Monday night, but they don't plan on sticking to it.

The proposed general fund budget, which will leave the district with a $430,082 surplus, is only a preliminary and conservative one, according to Supt. Leonard Reznierski.

"This will be changed on numerous occasions," Reznierski said.

The reason for the uncertainty is that school officials have yet to learn the specifics of the State School Aid Act, which may not be approved by legislators until as late as September. Also, the district is waiting to see if lawmakers will give the go-ahead to freeze property tax assessments or propose any other type of school finance reform which would affect the budget.

"Keep in mind we have to make our decision now, but the state won't make their decisions until Oct. 1," Reznierski said.

By state law, school districts are required to have their general fund budgets approved by July 1 while the state's budget is due Oct. 1. That makes it hard for school numbers crunchers to estimate how much aid the state will pay to that particular district, let alone base a budget on it.

In this year's preliminary budget, the district expects to make $24,685,627 in expenditures. These include:

- Salaries — $15,955,010. This reflects a 2.3-percent increase over last year's salary expenditures of $15,597,957.

Trustee Patricia Custer said the 2.3-percent increase reflects the addition of 23 teachers, a priority the board adopted last month to reduce classroom sizes. The increase is lower than expected, however, because a number of teachers, who were at the top end of the salary range, have recently retired.

"We're replacing them with teachers paid on the lower end (of the scale)," Custer explained.

- Purchased services — $1,138,626. This figure is down 4.5 percent from last year's budget.

- Supplies — $1,743,551. This category has increased 2.5 percent.

- Capital — $91,711. A 3-percent increase is realized in this budget expense.

- Other — $5,291,723. A 1.7-percent decrease has been reported in this category.

- FICA-retirement — The district has added this expense, $465,000, expecting that it will have to pick up the tab for these costs in the future.

Hearing set to prioritize programs

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Residents are invited to give their input on what programs the board should prioritize in its fiscal 1993-94 budget.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 8, in the board of education meeting room at Old Village School.

The board has already implemented its top two priorities — beefing up the teaching force by 23 teachers to reduce classroom sizes and beginning the Total Quality Management phase of the district's strategic plan. Altogether, that represents about a $930,000 price tag.

The only programs to be considered for implementation and for which residents are asked to give input include:

- Eliminating pay-for-play (athletic and co-curricular), $236,000.
- Restoring resource teachers (1.5 for science/math, technology and gifted programs), $61,500.
- Funding the Student Assistance Program, $25,000.
- Curriculum projects (textbooks, technology, high school day), $210,000.
- Operations/maintenance projects (roofs, painting, buried tank removal, etc.), $260,000.
- Restoring custodians (5.5), $193,000.
- Restoring high school hall monitors (2), $35,840.
- Middle school gifted teacher, $41,000.

- Business-Education Partnerships, $10,500.

- Restoring clerical positions (high school and middle schools), $69,120.
- Restoring one maintenance position, $39,680.
- Restoring teacher assistants, $184,320.
- Setting aside 1 percent fund equity, $250,000.

"There's $1.8 million in programs that we do not have the funds for," Supt. Leonard Reznierski said.

Upon the direction of the board at a May meeting, school administrators set about to pare $250,000 from the budget. At Monday night's board of education meeting, they released the following reductions:

Schools wary of MEAP comparisons

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

If you want to avoid comparing apples and oranges, you won't compare Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores on a building-by-building basis, according to one Northville school official.

"When comparing buildings you don't want to compare annual scores," said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services. "Comparing just those scores doesn't tell you anything. Just like there's no meaning in just looking at isolated years. It tells you nothing about the group by just looking at that."

Instead, Northville officials gauge the results of the annual MEAP tests by following scores of student groups, not buildings. For example, the scores of tests taken by fourth graders at Amerman are compared to the scores of the MEAP tests the same group takes in the seventh grade.

But that doesn't mean school officials aren't aware of the results that come from each individual building.

"Building-by-building, the learning consultant, counselor, building principal and department chairperson sit down and look at those items (tested in the MEAP)," McMaster said. "They analyze every test item and look at the results."

For example, by scrutinizing the individual test items, school representatives discovered that seventh graders didn't score well on the mixed numeral fraction portion of the MEAP test.

"Well, there's a good reason for that," McMaster said. "The kids haven't received that instruction at that point yet."

However, if students score poorly in an area that has been taught, officials look for causes.

"If there is a test item that they should have scored well on and didn't because it was in the curriculum and taught, then we look at that grade level and group of kids to determine if they need additional work and support," McMaster said.

The assistant superintendent used place value as an example. Students are taught that mathematical concept upon entering the school system as kindergartners. If the MEAP scores indicate students have a problem with place value, then

An ice sculpture provided by Orin Jewelers captures the attention of two youths during Northville's annual Art in the Sun festival June 26-27.

Art in the Sun draws an appreciative crowd to downtown Northville

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The annual "Art in the Sun" festival lived up to its billing last weekend as thousands of arts aficionados hit the streets of downtown Northville.

They came to wander among the booths of 120 artists from in and around Michigan, and soak up the sunny if breezy weather.

Jackie Payne of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the annual event, estimated that 12,000 people attended the two-day festival, more than the 10,000 expected and an improvement over last year's figures.

"We expanded down Center Street this year, and the weather was cooperative," Payne said.

A large ice sculpture carved by Livonia artist Dana Leja Saturday morning drew a crowd of curious kids and adults throughout the day. The sculpture, sponsored by Orin Jewelers, contained a pearl and diamond ring valued at $200.

"The whole thing is to guess what time the ring is going to fall out of there," said Orin Manager Dave Beyer as he watched the ice melt in the sun.

The ring fell at 7:25 p.m. Saturday, and two women tied with their guesses. Beyer said both women, Alicia Hirschfield and Doris McCallum, would receive rings.

Jeanne Rose of Warren, who, with her husband Brian, crafts handmade dolls and miniature chairs of twigs, called the couple's first "Art in the Sun" a success.

"I was very pleased with what we did (in sales)," Rose said. "We left Sunday night with a smile, and that's all that counts. . . . We're going to do it again next year."

When asked what improvements could be made at next year's art festival, Rose said "more Portapotties, maybe."

The couple sets up shop at about 25 art fairs around the state each year, Rose said. Their handcrafted doll business is called Whippersnappers.

Judith Buresh of Garden City, who brought her wide range of pottery items to last year's Art Market during the Victorian Festival, was a last-minute entry in this year's "Art in the Sun."

Council gives thumbs up to Mainstreet '93

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city's Mainstreet '93 parking deck plan won unanimous city council approval Tuesday following a near-empty public hearing.

The $4.2 million plan to rebuild the Cady Street parking deck and add a tabletop deck south of MainCentre, would be funded mostly through continued diversion of property tax revenue from the city's downtown development district. It is an amendment to Mainstreet '78, the Downtown Development Authority program that spurred a series of downtown improvements and reinvestment over the past 15 years.

The project would be paid off through a combination of tax capturing off an expanded Downtown Development District, about $500,000 in parking credits owed by Singh Development for its MainCentre and proposed CadyCentre projects, a $247,500 special assessment on downtown businesses and an identical $247,500 contribution from city coffers.

No millage increase is planned in connection with the project.

Few turned out for Monday's hearing, and fewer still spoke out against the plan. Those who did criticized its design more than its cost.

Northville resident Mel Anderson noted that the lower level of the Cady deck was not used much even before it was closed due to falling concrete, because it was so dark. Downtown Development Authority Member

Greg Presley assured him that the new deck would be better lit.

Anderson also questioned the need for an elevator at the northeast corner of the deck, and raised safety concerns about such a feature.

Presley noted that the elevator is now required because of the recently-passed federal Americans with Disabilities Act, and added that the stairwell where the elevator would be located will be glassed in and visible from the outside. Mayor Chris Johnson noted that a video monitor could be installed and wired to the city police station.

When Richard Giblan of the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen asked how Cady Street west of Center would be affected by a new deck on that lot, Presley noted that the roadway will remain the same. He added that the new deck's footings were designed only to take up two parking spaces on the existing lot, and that the deck's installation will be followed by the removal of MainCentre's fencing on the lot itself.

"That surface parking would be totally open to the public," Presley said, which is good news for MAGS tenants who have long complained that they were losing critical parking spaces to MainCentre.

Most of the tabletop deck's top floor would be reserved for use by MainCentre residents, to fulfill the city's contractual obligation to MainCentre builders Singh Development.

Presley noted that the deck, now

Old West theme marks annual Fourth parade

By STEVE KELLMAN

Cardboard cactuses will line Northville's Main Street Saturday as cowboys, cowgirls and covered wagons ply the city's streets.

The occasion is the 1993 Northville/Novi Fourth of July Parade which kicks off promptly at 10 a.m.

The larger-than-life desert scenes were decorated by members of the Kiwanis Early Birds to match the parade's Old West theme. "We're calling it the Cactus Cascade Trail," said coordinator Debbie MacDonald.

The Kiwanis Early Birds are sponsoring the parade this year along with Northville VFW Post 4012.

This year's parade has been arranged a little differently than in the past, McDonald said, with the traditional decorated bike and pet parades leading the way. Children with the best-decorated bikes will win prizes from Town & Country Cycles, while staff from the law firm of Charles Simkins will hand certificates out to kids wearing bike helmets.

Leisure Time Pet Center staff will be on hand to oversee the pet parade, McDonald added.

Following the pets will be Grand Marshal Doug Kurtis, the world-

LOSS OF FUTURE EARNINGS
One of the factors that an injured person will want to take into account when suing for damages is the amount of income lost due to injury. This should include both past and future income. Loss of past income is easy enough to compute by adding up the amount of work time lost to injury and the income it would have generated. As for future income, its losses due to injury may not be figured in so straightforward a manner. If the injury resulted in the loss of the injured person's job, future earnings until retirement should also be taken into account as should loss of promotion and raises. Those plaintiffs seeking damages for lost wages should be as concerned with the future as with the past. If not more so. HINT: Even if a person were unemployed at the time of injury, he or she can be compensated for any delay the injury caused in entering the job market.
Keep in mind too, that one's earning power generally increases substantially over the course of a lifetime. If you have further questions, or a legal matter which needs attention, RICHARD J.
CORRIVEAU & ASSOCIATES P.C. are now welcoming new clients. We charge

News Briefs

CORRECTION: A story in Monday's Record erroneously reported that Northville Township trustees voted 7-0 to assess Curtis Road residents for the cost of a separate storm sewer. But minutes of the trustees' meeting indicate trustees did not vote to create a special assessment district, but instead board members moved only to direct Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand and Don Weaver to look into the possibility of the township acting as financier for the two affected homeowners on Curtis Road. The Record regrets the error.

PARADE BREAKFAST: The public is invited to attend a pre-parade Independence Day farm breakfast, with an all-you-can-eat menu, Saturday, July 3, at the Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main St., above Genitti's. The cost is $3.75 for adults, $2 for children under 12. The event will run from 6:30 a.m. to parade time at 10 a.m.

HEALTH CLINIC: St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will offer a breast and skin clinic on Wednesday, July 7. A physician will perform a complete breast examination and provide instructions on self-examination. Skin cancer checks for both men and women also will be offered. The cost is $10 and registration is required. Call 591-2922.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school age readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

CITY RECYCLING CENTER HOURS: The city council recently voted to reduce business hours at the Northville City recycling center, located inside the Department of Public Works yard at 650 Doherty Drive. The recycling center will no longer be open Wednesdays between 3-7 p.m. Weekend hours will be cut from every Saturday to the first and third Saturdays of each month, between 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

The move is due to reduced use of the center since the city initiated curbside collection of recyclable materials, and is intended to reduce the need for overtime by DPW workers. Since curbside recycling started last February, average use of the center has dropped to 35 cars on Wednesdays and 55 cars on Saturdays.

The center is available to City of Northville residents only, and identification is checked at the gate.

The center accepts clear, green and brown glass, plastic types 1 and 2, tin cans, household and car batteries, paint, used motor oil and antifreeze, compost material, scrap metal, and newspapers. Liquids should be in sealed, clearly labeled containers. Newspapers should be stacked in brown paper bags or tied into bundles. Telephone books, magazines and road maps are not accepted.

For more information, call DPW spokesperson Becky Dozier at 349-3271.

Planners eye fate of Haggerty Road

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township planners have at least two good reasons for looking at amending the township's master plan and rezoning the Haggerty Road corridor.

Aside from new commercial developments adding to the township's almost non-existent commercial tax base, the Haggerty PUD could bring in additional residential growth.

Township officials examined the advantages of rezoning land along Haggerty between Eight Mile and Five Mile roads under a planned unit development (PUD) option at a public hearing Tuesday.

Planners are eyeing acreage adjacent to Meijer and south to Seven Mile for the PUD. They are also considering land options near the Hawthorne Center and at Six Mile.

Under the PUD option, Northville planners and trustees could approve single developments with both residential and commercial uses. The PUD zoning option would also give the township more leverage and control over development of the corridor.

Tuesday's hearing on the fate of the Haggerty Road corridor attempted to gauge residents' reactions to altering the master plan to allow for the proposed PUD.

At least seven residents from adjacent subdivisions and homes came out to object to any more commercial growth sprouting up in their backyards. Some complained about the noise and commotion coming from Meijer and urged planners not to entice similar businesses into the area.

But that may not be feasible given the recent development in the east side of Haggerty in the city of Livonia. As builders put the finishing touches on Target and the Source Club, planners on both sides of the border are looking at uses that will be compatible with the office and commercial uses that are there now.

A letter from the Livonia Mayor's office urged Northville planners to move cautiously with their plans for developing the corridor. Livonia's city fathers favor commercial development adjacent to Target and Source Club, but are opposed to any more development farther south.

Township trustee Gini Britton and Supervisor Karen Baja spoke as residents and asked planners to extend the PUD zone south of Meijer to the Six Mile Road border.

After listening to residents' comments, commissioners closed the hearing and discussed the issue later during their regular meeting.

Commission chairman Dick Allen broached the idea of extending the PUD zone down to Six Mile. He said the commission had toyed with the idea of extending the PUD south to Six Mile, but held off because of the anticipated development of Ward Presbyterian Church.

But Township Zoning and Planning Administrator Carol Maise said plans for the church have changed since the commission first dealt with the PUD idea. She said now that Ward property owners are considering altering its plan and not developing the full 144 acres they own at Six Mile, there may be some flexibility and mobility at that intersection for other planning uses.

Maise said what's important about studying the corridor is the impact it will have on development there in the future.

west could block access to the MAGS building.

Presley also said future development would need more parking and questioned where the additional spaces would be found.

Citizens District Council Chairman Jim DeHaan presented the city council with a revised report from his committee, an advisory body that was formed to analyze the plan's impact on downtown residents.

"We preferred the Mainstreet '93 plan (to Mainstreet '92) because it was less costly and the special assessment was more modest and less likely to have an effect on property owners that would impact downtown residents," DeHaan said.

The city already has spent about $700,000 in property acquisition, design and legal fees over the past several years.

The Mainstreet '93 plan faces at least one more public hearing. A Tuesday, July 6, hearing has been called to take feedback from downtown property owners who would be assessed part of the $247,500 special assessment used to fund part of the plan.

City voters will have their say over

Council Member Paul Folino announced his continued opposition to installing restrooms in the new Cady deck. "There's not a city around that has them, and the ones that have had them have taken them out," he said. "They're a liability to the city."

Johnson responded that the council already has agreed to review the need for restrooms, and will do so be-

Woman says intruder left cigarette ashes on her apartment floor

A 25-year-old Northville woman returned to her apartment last Friday and found someone had been inside her home while she was gone. The woman told police she left the apartment to go swimming in the complex pool. When she returned, she said she found cigarette butts inside the apartment on the kitchen floor and in the trash can. The tenant told police no one in the apartment smokes and apartment management said no maintenance personnel had been let into the apartment.

VANDALS SMASH SCHOOL WINDOWS: Township police were called to Meads Mill Middle School on Saturday, June 26, to respond to a broken window pane on the northeast side of the school building. While at the scene police were also notified of a similar occurrence at Winchester Elementary on June 24. Police have no leads or suspects.

RECKLESS DRIVING: A 26-year-old Romeo man was ticketed Saturday for driving his 1993 Ford Taurus recklessly. The man reportedly lost control of his car while traveling eastbound on Pickford. He struck a ditch on the south side of the road. The vehicle hit the front end of the ditch first and then bounced back and struck the rear end. The incident caused damage to the lawn of the adjacent home.

PORTABLE PHONE TAKEN FROM BAR: An employee of Woolly Bully's reported a portable phone missing from a table inside the restaurant a month after the appliance was stolen. The Cellular One phone, valued at $795, was taken from the table on May 28. Police have no suspects.

POLICE NAB SUBJECTS FOR POSSESSION: In two separate incidents in the last week, township police picked up four men from the former Wayne County Child Development Center and ticketed them for possession of marijuana.

On June 23, officers saw two men exiting the abandoned school property east of Sheldon Road. Officers did a quick frisk of the two and found one marijuana cigarette and two roaches in the pocket of one of the subjects. During the search, several others converged on the police unit, but a 19-year-old Pontiac man fled when he saw the police car. Police chased him down and took him into custody. All three were ticketed for trespassing. The Pontiac man was also cited for possession of marijuana and for interfering with police. He was released after posting $100 bond.

On Thursday, in a separate incident, township police cited an 18-year-old for possession of marijuana and driving with a suspended license. Police retrieved the subject and found a small quantity of marijuana, a pipe and rolling papers in his car.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: A car parked in the city lot at Wing and Dunlap had its driver's side mirror knocked off sometime between 11 a.m.-9:45 p.m. June 26. Damage to the vehicle, a silver 1990 Chevrolet Astro, was estimated at $25.

JUVENILE ARSONISTS CAUGHT: A Randolph Street resident noticed three Northville youths trying to burn their way into a wooden shed the evening of June 18, and held the youths until city police arrived. The three reportedly were using sparklers to burn through a padlock on the shed door when they ignited the wooden door, causing $30 in damage. The youths, all 13 years old, were arrested and released to their parents.

The shed's owner agreed not to prosecute in exchange for having the youths repair the damage and repaint the shed themselves.

SHOPPING CART VANDAL TRACKED DOWN: City police used a license plate number to track down a driver who disabled an Arbor Drugs shopping cart May 29. The 56-year-old Plymouth man told police June 16 that he rammed the cart accidentally, and agreed to pay restitution. Arbor officials originally estimated the damage at $300.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police arrested a Detroit man, 37, whose driver's license showed five suspensions, after stopping him for speeding west on West Main between Wing and Rogers the night of June 25. The man had failed to appear in court on three prior traffic warrants and failed to comply with a court judgement in another case. He was released after posting a $335 cash bond.

YOUTHS CHARGED WITH TRESPASSING: Four local youths were charged with trespassing at a Main Street home June 26-27 after being ordered to stay out of the home. The homeowner, who had asked for help from city police in enforcing her ban, stopped by the house with two police officers at 9:30 p.m. June 26 and found five youths hiding in a closet in her son's bedroom. Two of the five, an 18-year-old Northville man and 17-year-old Northville girl, had been warned about trespassing before and were issued citations that night.

Police returned the next night at 7:50 p.m. and found two more youths, a 17-year-old Livonia male and a 17-year-old Northville male. They, too, were charged with trespassing.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Take The Next Step At Wayne State University...

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country. They are taking classes at our main campus in the University Cultural Center in Detroit or on one of our satellite campuses while others go to our University Center at Macomb Community College.

Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation
- Cost — the only Michigan public university with a negative increase in tuition costs over the past decade based on inflation
- Financial aid — During 1991-92 WSU awarded $50 million in aid to students

Last two police officers leave under city's retirement plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Partners since the 1970s, two Northville City police officers with more than 40 years of service between them spent their last days on the force together.

Sergeants David DeLauder and Don Lancaster retired from the police department yesterday under a city-approved plan designed to trim the officers' ranks and the police budget.

DeLauder, 48, has been a Northville City police officer for more than 23 years or, as he said with pride Tuesday, "half my life, buddy."

He signed up after serving on Redford Township's reserve forces and spending a two-year stint in the U.S. Army.

When he joined the Northville department in 1970, with its one patrol car, DeLauder said he was handed a map and a book of traffic tickets and told to hit the streets.

Lancaster, a Tennessee native, said he was inspired to join the force in 1971 by his father, who served as an officer in a small town outside Memphis. Though the elder Lancaster was killed in a traffic accident in 1956, his son said, "I always had an old photograph of him around, and just started getting interested in it then."

Lancaster's family moved to Northville in 1959 and he joined the police department after graduating from Northville High School. "I even arrested a couple of guys in my class," he said with a smile.

The perennial partners share a fondness for each other and their fellow officers that is bred by the long hours and potential danger of police work.

"When we see each other, our tails start wagging," Lancaster said. "You have to depend on the other person more than if you're a factory worker or a landscaper . . . You have to make sure the person is there if something goes down."

Over the past two decades, the two have seen the city transform itself from a rural town into a suburb as apple orchards along Eight Mile Road fell to developments like Abbey Knolls and Pheasant Hills and rowdy downtown pubs gave way to gift shops and jewelry stores.

Before they were removed during Mainstreet '78 renovations, DeLauder recalled, parking meters lined the downtown streets and it was up to the police officers to empty the change out of them every midnight. DeLauder recounted one night when he and former city police officer Howard Reeves got a call of a fistfight at a local saloon, and forgot about the bucket of coins that was still perched on the patrol car.

"We took off to the bar fight and left the whole damn bucket on the fender," DeLauder recalled, laughing. "We didn't know whether to stop and pick up the change or go to the fight."

Both officers cited the June 1991 deaths of two joggers on Eight Mile Road as among their most tragic cases. The joggers, brothers-in-law Yusuf Hanania and Albert Abdelnour, were killed when a Jeep driven by Novi resident Kenneth Loveday swerved onto the shoulder where they were running, and Lancaster was the first officer at the scene.

"Pretty heartbreaking to see those families after their dads had been killed," DeLauder said. "All you can do is investigate as best you can and hope for a conviction."

As the traffic officer in charge of the case, it was DeLauder's duty to investigate the scene on Eight Mile east of Beck. He spent the next five days there, taking measurements, reviewing the sequence of events and reconstructing the incident.

"When that case went to trial, I was never more confident of an investigation," DeLauder said. "I just wanted it right; I thought the family deserved that."

Loveday eventually was convicted of negligent homicide and sentenced to 15 to 24 months in prison.

From day to day, both men agreed, the most difficult part of police work is the toll it takes on an officer's family life.

"You've got to have the right family to do this job," DeLauder said. "There are some ungodly hours and you've got to work holidays . . . You miss anniversaries, birthday parties, Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter, but you've got to do it. It's something that goes with the job."

Lancaster noted that he has two grown children from a previous marriage who live in Florida. "That's one of the reasons it's a previous marriage, working here," he said. "Police work does take a toll on marriages."

On a more positive note, Lancaster said he met his current wife Debbie when she was a waitress at the Palace restaurant, now the Dandy Gander. He said retirement will give him more time with their 11-year-old son Mark.

"I get to catch up now," he said, grinning. "Mark's at that age where we can have still a lot of fun."

Both men said they plan to take at least a month off before reentering

the job market. DeLauder said his immediate plans include finishing a second home "up north," near Black Lake, with the help of wife Maxine and 21-year-old son Mark.

After that, his future is less certain, and for right now he seems to like it that way.

"I can't be satisfied as a security guard. I know that," DeLauder said. "Once you're a policeman, you're always a policeman . . ."

"But I may just give it up and go fishing."

the day before and brought samples of her work to the chamber to be judged for the juried art fair. "We squeezed her in at the last minute," Payne said.

Buresh, who said she often spends time in Northville with her family, called her first "Art in the Sun" a pleasure. "We always have a nice time in Northville," she said.

Buresh markets her pottery through galleries and by word-of-mouth more than art fairs, but she said she does participate in a half-dozen festivals a year at "a few choice shows." She avoids crowded venues like the Ann Arbor art fairs in favor of smaller ones like Northville's.

"I like the small-town atmosphere and the easy access," she said.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Gary and Anne Wakenhut of Collecting Consort, a harp and dulcimer ensemble playing Victorian tunes.

Food was in plentiful supply during the festival as well, as local eateries including Rocky's of Northville, Papa Romano's and Caffe Bravo were augmented by Mr. G's Concessions, Almond Hut, Donna Trasko's Popcorn & Cotton Candy and Cold Stuff Inc.

The Kiwanis and Northville Rotary dished out their usual sausage sandwiches and hot dogs.

Main and Center streets were closed to vehicles over the weekend as local merchants held sales to coincide with the two-day event.

Treasurer Robert McMahon said he felt the budget should reflect a higher figure, as the district may be responsible for paying up to $650,000 in retirement and FICA costs.

"I think it should go out in information we send that there's a range there," he said. "I think the community should be aware that could be a higher figure (than anticipated)."

On the revenue side of the budget,

the district is expected to take in $24,221,714 in local monies, a 5-percent increase over last year's revenues. Items expected to bring money into the district include:

- Property tax — $24,228,164. Again, this figure is based on a 5-percent assessment increase. There is still no word from Lansing whether or not property tax assessments will be frozen or possibly capped at 3 percent. From these revenues, however, the district is figuring a $280,000 diversion, over $13,000 more than last year, to the Northville Downtown Development Authority and its tax capturing plan. The district had planned to receive this $280,000 with the expiration of Mainstreet '78, but the city plans to amend the plan and continue diverting part of the tax revenue for an additional 11 years.

- Tuition — $36,050. A 3-percent increase is reflected this year over last year's figure.
- Interest — $132,527. Again, a

3-percent increase is expected.

- Rent — $25,750. A 3-percent increase is expected.
- Other — The district expects to receive $79,222 from other sources and grants.

In addition to the above revenue items, the district is expected to receive $588,130 for programs such as the Wayne County Center Programs, and from intergovernmental sources. Other income will include $32,960 from state sources and $272,906 in federal monies, bringing the grand total to $25,115,709.

Other variables affecting the budget will be the freezing of the $72,663 position of director of instructional services. William Hamilton left the district yesterday to accept a position in the Walled Lake school district.

Also, Hamilton's secretary will not be replaced, saving the district another $32,000.

On the other hand, all of the district's bargaining unit contracts are up, which will also more than likely affect the budget.

"Clearly, this is preliminary," Remmersd said of the budget. "We'll have to do some strategizing and minimizing . . . the board has been put in a position predicated on what-ifs."

Township firm seeks new location at city Ford plant

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Rapid expansion has forced a Northville Township firm to seek the vacant Ford Valve Plant as its new home.

The city council now must decide whether the proposed move by R & D Enterprises Inc., which may hinge on a tax abatement and city purchase of part of the Ford plant property, is right for Northville City.

The council was scheduled to review R & D's proposal yesterday at a special 8 p.m. study session, after the Record's deadline. But the firm's initial proposal reportedly was based on city agreement to purchase 2.4 acres of property west of Griswold for $350,000 and grant R & D a 12½-year, 50-percent tax abatement. In exchange, the city would be given the four acres west of Griswold known locally as Ford Field, and about four acres of land and waterway between the plant and the property's northern boundary.

R & D Enterprises President Richard D. Cox said his firm already has been offered tax abatements by surrounding communities and he has discussed the possibility of relocating with officials in Westland, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Brighton and Wixom.

"I was offered 12½ years and 50 percent in Westland, and I have to look at that as opportunity costs lost if we look at a lesser rate," he said.

"I think in any case, the city's going to wind up with more taxes."

R & D will have to consider a lesser rate according to Northville City Manager Gary Word.

"We're going to try and get by without a tax abatement," Word said Tuesday. "At the very least, it's not going to be 12 years."

The city must hold at least two public hearings before any tax abatement is granted, he added.

Word said city officials also are concerned about the condition of the aging dam located on the Ford property, in part of the waterway that would be turned over to the city.

"If there's anything imminent (in needed repairs), I just don't think we want that liability," he said.

Both sides agreed that Ford officials have gone out of their way to get the proposal to this stage by lowering their asking price for the plant from an advertised $1.75 million, though Ford's current price to R & D has not been made public.

"I really honestly think Ford has bent over backwards," Word said.

Cox went further, saying, "My opinion is that Ford has done double back flips trying to make this work . . . They're trying to make a good name for Ford because they're certainly not making any money on the deal."

R & D produces heat exchangers for the marine industry, but hopes to expand into the broader industrial market, Cox said.

"The products that we make conserve energy," he explained, by cooling mechanical elements like transmissions and engines.

Cox said production of heat exchangers at his light manufacturing firm, now located in a 9,600-square-foot building at 19430 Gerald Ave., is increasing so quickly that the business must relocate before the end of the year.

"We're going to have to move out October or November," Cox said Tuesday. "Our business is growing at a rate where we can't work out of here any longer . . . It's imperative that we make a move or we will be unable to supply."

"Either we're moving to that plant or we're moving somewhere else."

He attributed the increased production to heightened demand from current clients like Detroit Diesel and a new contract with Mercury Marine.

"We grew last year at 46 percent and we're running almost 30 percent ahead this year," Cox said. The company's contract with Mercury Marine will increase its production by another 30 percent, he added.

The firm's 28-member staff includes five workers and an engineer hired in the past year. Acorn Stamping Inc., a metal stamping plant now located in Rochester that has been doing the firm's stamping work for nearly 20 years, would relocate its operation and 10 employees into the Ford Plant with R & D.

"Our intent is to buy that company, and bring them in at the same time," Cox said.

R & D posts more than $2 million in annual sales, he said, while Acorn has more than $1 million in annual sales on its own.

The firm would occupy up to 20,000 square feet of the Ford Plant's 53,489-square-foot main floor, while the metal stamping operations would take up an additional 15,000 square feet. "We intend to grow into the rest of it," Cox said.

Cox, himself a former Ford engineer, set up the business that was to become R & D in his Belleville home in 1974. "I was still working at Ford and running the company out of my garage," he said.

The fledgling three-man firm ended up in Northville Township in 1978 after a half-dozen moves. "Now we're 28 strong and looking for two more," Cox said.

Cox said he hopes his firm will be able to work out of the Ford Plant for nearly 20 years. "The whole goal down the road is for us to establish a world-class facility in a historic building," he said.

class marathoner Kurtis leads a covered wagon supplied by Jake Haag of Novell, Michigan, who is bringing members of his Novell Bicentennial Wagon Train to Northville for the occasion. With three to four covered wagons and up to 25 horses, the entry is sure to be the hit of the parade, though it may take a heavy toll on the "Super Duper Pooper Scoopers" following each of the animal acts.

Haag's riders took their name from their role in a miles-long wagon train to commemorate the country's founding in 1776. The wagon train traveled from Washington State to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and grew as it went along as people like Haag joined up. Haag said he took his wife and family along for the ride.

"We kind of made a vacation out of it, and you never had a vacation until you went by wagon train," he said.

Haag added that he would be bringing more wagons except that it's haying season on the farms around Norvell and most of them are in use.

The parade will be filmed by Omnicom Cablevision and narrated by local consultant Charles Keys, who picked the winning Old West theme. It runs along its traditional route north on Griswold, west on Main, south on Rogers, east on Cady and south on Wing until the participants head east on Fairbrook back to the Northville Downs.

McDonald said the parade could not take place without support from groups like Northville Downs, which is donating its facilities to parade participants. "If we did not have the Downs to line up in, I don't know what I'd do," she said.

She also noted that the parade will cost organizers about $4,000.

"A lot of people still don't understand why we have to raise money for it," she said. "Over half of that goes right toward paying bands, and that's a common practice for parades."

As of Tuesday, parade organizers had raised less than half the needed funds. They hope that additional sponsors and brisker raffle ticket sales will make up the difference.

Raffle tickets are $1 a piece and McDonald noted that the list of awards is growing beyond the $300 first prize, $200 second prize and $100 third prize listed on the ticket as companies donate gifts and gift certificates to the parade. One such company, Consumers Power, chipped in with a gas grill and several gift certificates.

Those prizes will be awarded along with the cash prizes during the July 13 drawing.

Our Opinion

Test scores by building can prove enlightening

Once again, we hear education officials warn of the hazards of comparing the scores of students taking the Michigan Education Assessment Program tests.

An article appearing in today's Record compares the 1992 MEAP scores of students in each building of the Northville School District, and the story has prompted educators to repeat their oft-expressed caveat that the tests are not meant to serve as a comparative measure pitting district against district, or, as in this case, building against building.

It is true that the MEAP test is designed as an internal tracking device providing school districts with a means of identifying and targeting areas of weakness. The primary function of the test is to see if a district is meeting its objectives of offering improved instruction from one year to the next. Test scores can lead to curriculum adjustments to address areas of deficiency.

Nevertheless, the MEAP test forms a convenient yardstick for comparison purposes because of the broad and uniform manner in which it is administered. Public school observers and news organizations often use MEAP scores to make cross-district comparisons, and parents frequently consult MEAP results when making home purchase decisions.

We believe these are valid uses of the MEAP, even though the test might not have been intended primarily as an instrument of comparison. All of education, after all, is done on a comparative basis and even in classes where curve grading is not practiced, marks do nothing other than reflect the achievement status of a student relative to his or her cohorts.

The building-by-building comparison that runs in today's paper does not by any means cast suspicion on the quality of education in any single school in this fine district. In fact, few patterns are discernible. Amerman students, for example, scored highest among elementary children in reading and math, but lowest in science. Additionally, Cooke Middle School students outpaced their Meads Mill counterparts in math and reading, but Meads Mill students were higher in science.

But while nothing profound can be concluded from it, we believe the potential questions raised by such a comparison may prove interesting and useful. Parents of Amerman students can feel pleased that their children's school was the best among the district's four elementaries in reading and math, but are entitled to ask why was it lowest in science.

Similarly, parents of students attending Meads Mill may be prompted to wonder why that school bested its opposite in only one of three subject areas. Can the discrepancies be attributed to differences in programming, teacher dedication or student effort, or were they due to nothing more than natural variance?

Questions such as these, we believe, justify the use of a table presenting, side-by-side, the results of the MEAP scores from the individual buildings.

Who knows, maybe an annual comparison of this type will lead to a little healthy school rivalry and inter-district competition. The least it will do is get people thinking, and that in itself isn't all bad.

Wisdom for the hard headed

Lee
Snider

Some people have to learn their lessons the hard way.

I had been ticketed twice for not using my safety belt, but it took a confrontation between my forehead and the windshield of my car to really sell me on the idea.

It all happened so fast I'm still not sure exactly what went wrong. I saw the Northville Township patrol car up ahead on eastbound Seven Mile, but I figured it was moving with traffic. I took my eyes off the road for what seemed like just a second or two, then looked up just in time to spot the scout car's bumper a few feet ahead and closing fast.

I tried jamming on the brakes but it was far too late. My next recollection was of a police officer staring at me through the window of my car, saying, "Don't move. . . Don't move."

Hopefully, you read Monday's account of the accident in which I plowed into the rear of a police car, totaling both my little Subaru and the cruiser. The officer was stopped in the right lane of the highway to issue a ticket, and I hit his car at close to 45 mph. The impact thrust me forward with terrible force, sending my chest into the steering wheel and my head into the windshield.

How I escaped with only a few stitches on my forehead and right knee, I don't think I'll ever know. The next day, I went to inspect the wreckage of the car and retrieve a few items I left inside — an extra pair of glasses, a jacket, my eyebrows. The interior was littered with glass and pieces of dashboard, and the windshield had a dent in it matching the shape of my head. The steering wheel was bent backward and wires dangled from the steering column. It looked like a genuine death trap.

The day after the accident, my head felt like it had been used in a soccer match and my chest felt like it had a semi parked on it. I had to stay away from soda pop for a few days. It hurt like mad to hiccup.

I was able to make it into work two days later but, with a bloodied nose, a head wrap and a leg brace, I looked like a Civil War casualty with a hangover.

With my new facial design, my forehead now bears a striking resemblance to the lunar surface. I'm considering naming the bumps after mountain ranges.

At this point, I have no idea what (if any) marks my mirror will reflect to remind me of what happened. Still, when all is said and done, I have to admit I was lucky — very, very lucky. Consider these facts: I wasn't wearing a seat belt, I was driving a subcompact foreign make and I went from 45 to zero in a fraction of a second.

When you take all that into account, the bills, the soreness and the wounded vanity seem pretty insignificant. And, in a real stroke of good fortune, I was wearing fresh underwear when they took me to the hospital. Mom's advice, as usual, really paid off.

I'll tell you this much, I've learned my lesson in a big way — from now on I'm wearing my seat belt whenever I get behind the wheel. That is, as soon as I get a car to drive.

Self coverage is a tough call

Michael Malott

The toughest story a journalist might ever have to do is one that involves himself or herself.

Well, maybe there is one even more difficult story . . . that's the one that involves the boss.

The staff here faced the former dilemma last week when Northville Record and Novi News Editor Lee Snider drove his Subaru up the back end of a Northville Township police cruiser on Seven Mile Road near Pierson Wednesday afternoon. Snider said he was distracted for a moment, and when he looked up he saw that he was about to rear-end the police car.

Officer Larry Demeter had a truck pulled over to the curb and was seated inside the cruiser, checking the driver's license when the accident occurred. The force of the impact pushed the cruiser into the back of the truck.

Snider, who was not wearing his seatbelt, hit the windshield and got a nasty cut on the forehead. He also cut his knee. Demeter got bounced around in the patrol car and wrenched his back, aggravating an old injury. Demeter needed several days off to recuperate. The driver of the truck fortunately was not injured.

Once it was determined the injuries weren't too serious and Lee was back on his feet, the razzing began. He came back to the office Friday to find his desk cordoned off with yellow "police line" caution tape. He was accused of being an editor who was "trying to make news." He was asked why he is "always on the police department's tail."

Then came the hard part . . . how to handle the story in the newspaper. Sharon Condron, who regularly covers the Northville Township police department, drew the assignment. And we had a good deal of discussion here in the office about how it should be handled.

Is it a story at all? Should Lee be named in the story? How extensive should it be? How much detail should be included? Should we include the expectation that Lee would be ticketed? Should we run a photograph? Where should it be placed in the paper?

The temptation of course is to find some reason to declare that it is not a story and avoid the whole thing. But that obviously wouldn't be fair . . . not fair to our readers who expect objective coverage, not fair to our sources who don't always like what they read in the newspaper, and not fair to all those people who argued at one time or another that they should not be named in the paper but got named anyway.

In the end, the only pertinent question was, "How would we handle it if any other prominent member of the community had done the same thing?" From there, all the answers became clear. I have to tell you that I'm proud of these two. Lee made a mistake driving. Fortunately, things did not turn out worse, either for himself or Officer Demeter. And he will have to accept the consequences when it comes to the ticket and his insurance company.

But when it came to journalistic fairness and professional ethics here at the newspaper, both Lee and Sharon did their jobs flawlessly.

Input is needed to further Teen Task Force

To the Editor:

As an active student at Northville High School, I have been impressed by the city leaders' concern for the kids. By setting up a Teen Task Force and inviting me for my input, I feel our community has taken a giant step in the right direction to keep kids away from some of the problems they face. Through brainstorming, we have come up with some ideas such as a teen center that would make kids happier. However, to make our ideas work, we need other kids' input so the parents don't take over and make this great idea flop! So this is an invitation for anyone to come to a task force meeting Wednesday, July 28, at 7 p.m. at the Township Board Room. We are inviting all students — from the athletically inclined to the ones who like to smoke. If we can get everyone to come and offer his or her positive suggestions, we will be looking forward to a bright future in Northville.

Teachers union has vast power

To the Editor:

Tim Richard was right on in his article entitled "Is the NEA as bad as Forbes says it is?" published in The Nott News June 17. (I hope it will also be published in The Northville Record.) Tim refers to a Forbes magazine article about the powerful teachers union, the NEA, and its Michigan leadership entitled, "The National Extortion Association."

Tim rightly derides the conservative Forbes when it links teacher salary to declining test scores and touts a voucher system.

However, when Tim writes, "Forbes exaggerates the teachers union's strength, at least in Michigan," I must differ.

If power is measured against the strength of your opponent, then the MEA is powerful indeed. Teacher contracts are negotiated locally in Michigan, with local school boards going head-to-head with the very well-financed and well-trained MEA representatives. While no one officially admits it, no local contract goes to a vote of the members before it is approved by the MEA in Lansing. The American Legislative Exchange Council study states from 1989 to 1990 Michigan teacher pay rose 4.3 percent while private sector wages rose 1 percent.

The MEA's PAC is the top spender in Michigan and the NEA is the third highest nationwide. Could that explain why teachers have incredible job protection through archaic state teacher tenure laws?

The strength of the NEA is evident in another area. Michigan has NOT experimented with teacher quality incentive programs as have 14 other states. The NEA has traditionally opposed all attempts to bring accountability to the teaching profession. The irony is, by opposing these incentives, the NEA is denying legitimate career opportunities to its members. If the NEA leaders are from Michigan, as the Forbes article pointed out, is it any wonder we find no career ladder, peer review, mentor teachers, or merit based compensation programs anywhere in Michigan?

I don't think Forbes did overstate the power of the MEA/NEA.

Manresa Caravan sponsors picnics, boat outings, bowling dates and circus days to local people such as Our Lady of Providence, Novi Friendship Club, Old Village School, Moraine School and the St. Louis Center.

Having collections and donations from you is basically our only means of income that enable us to continue our fine work.

We have never been disappointed with the people of Northville and you didn't let us down Saturday either.

Downtown is not in good shape

To the Editor:

Do you read the paper you're the editor of? I find it difficult to believe.

In your "Downtown change is lasting," you stated that Don Wortman was probably right that Northville's business district is doing quite well.

Then why did you on 5-A ("Lack of customers reason merchants closing doors") state that three of Northville's downtown businesses closed within a week's time period — actually less — a five-day period.

Who calls this doing well? Not the owners of the three businesses, that's for sure.

And as far as the business district adapting to new market conditions — what conditions are these? Ones in which we have several of the same type of businesses in town? How many of the same type of businesses do you need to have in a two-block radius? I see a big need for a quota to be put on how many and how close these businesses should be. How many theaters does this town need? How many bakeries, how many different places to get your hair cut?, etc. Yes, one thing is for sure, downtown change is lasting, but how long will downtown last with changes like these being made. Northville is losing the last of its downtown charm to a strip mall mentality of every man for himself. Doesn't anyone look around before deciding to open a hair salon. Gee, we already have five, maybe we should open a pet shop instead. Doesn't anyone do market research here and why is there no consideration for the older established businesses in town? It will be a sad day when Northville isn't Northville anymore and it becomes just like the rest of them — Livonia, Novi, etc.

Next time read before you write.

Congress keeps wasting money

To the Editor:

Unaccounted are the ways the U.S. of A. wastes the taxpayers' money. For the past three years we have been spending over $16 million annually on T.V.-MARTI, a TV station which beams anti-Castro propaganda towards Cuba (International Law is flouted when one nation beams anti-government TV signals into another nation). Castro has so effectively jammed the TV signal that not one Cuban has ever seen any of the programs beamed their way.

Members of congress should stop wasting the taxpayers' money, remember, "The economy stupid!"
Alfred P. Galli

Time to insist on TV standards

Phil Power

My 11-year-old son Nathan was talking with my wife Kathy after dinner. I was reading a magazine and not following their conversation. Suddenly, a line:

— "There are only two or three fights a week at school now."

I sat bolt upright. "What's that about fights again, Nathan?"

"Just what I said, Dad, only two or three fights a week."

Now, Nathan goes to a good public school. It's not perfect, but the principal is tough and fair, and the kids look like the face of America: hopeful, varied, mostly decent.

I remembered my own school in Ann Arbor, back in the '50s. I could recall only one fight in my entire school career.

I asked Kathy, who grew up in a little farming town in Wisconsin and then lived in Oklahoma. One or two in her entire schooling.

Of course, society has changed since Kathy and I were growing up. It's coarser, more varied, less restrictive, more open. And without doubt, much more violent. Nathan's two or three fights a week are a reflection of the times he is growing up in.

What's the major contributor? Television, of course.

Hearings earlier this month in Washington featured the usual parade of self-serving industry mouthpieces arguing: 1) Violence is what people want to watch. 2) Violence on TV doesn't necessarily cause violent behavior. 3) Anyway, restricting violence on TV violates the First Amendment.

Rubbish.

For years, a growing band of researchers has been pointing to the link between kids exposed to violence on TV and their consequent aggressive and violent behavior.

A recent summary article in "The Public Interest" by Brandon S. Centerwall, an epidemiologist at the University of Washington, concluded that no less than seven U.S. and Canadian studies show a correlation between prolonged childhood exposure to TV and a tendency to physical aggression that extends from before adolescence into adulthood.

What can be done?

Centerwall suggests requiring that all television sets be manufactured with locking devices through which parents can control children's access to certain channels.

That's a good idea, although it presupposes the kinds of parents who are worried about their children's exposure to violence in the first place.

It also assumes that acts of violence are confined to certain channels at certain times. Wrong. Most parents know perfectly well that even regular network prime time programs — including Saturday morning cartoons — are absolutely shot through with violence.

Following the example of the tobacco companies, we certainly can't depend on the television industry to regulate itself. Maybe we are at the point where decent people operating through the government have got to say there must be certain standards for TV and that's it.

Young wasted opportunities to act

Tim Richard

He was an old-time Republican state representative back in the late 1960s and early '70s — bald, didn't smile much, rarely got his name in the wire service stories. I can see his face even if I can't recall his name.

John Bennett, Democratic state representative from Redford Township, was pushing his pet bill — a regional water board to replace the Detroit Water Board.

But the old-time Republican was from Sturgis or some small city that had its own water and sewer department. Like Detroit, his town sold services to surrounding suburbs. He didn't want to see his town's suburbs someday trying to take over the water and sewer department.

So the old guy cast a deciding "no" vote in committee against Bennett's bill. He voted with Detroit! This outstate, white, small-town Republican actually voted with Detroit!

It was an advantage that Coleman Young, as mayor of Detroit for nearly 20 years, failed to exploit. Items from a suburban newsman's scrapbook:

■ Young for 19-plus years has been Detroit's delegate to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. He has never shown his face at the SEMCOG General Assembly or Executive Committee — 234 meetings. SEMCOG is extremely important. Even when it doesn't do much, it's a place where local elected officials come to respect each other and get their rough edges sanded off. They don't talk ignorant rot like "Hit Eight Mile Road" to each other.

■ Young was inactive in the Michigan Municipal League, an association of cities and villages. Municipalities — particularly Pontiac, Flint, Port Huron, Saginaw, Benton Harbor, Sturgis — have a lot in common with Detroit, particularly preserving older neighborhoods and downtowns and blocking urban sprawl. Appointed once to a committee, Young never showed up in two years.

■ Every so often, usually at the beginning of a term, Young would talk about cooperation with neighboring communities. But he never lifted a finger or rode one mile in his armored limousine to follow through.

Young's policy was to look out only for one city — not the towns of 200,000 or 50,000 or 5,000 that had the same problems. He helped shape the popular but wrong-headed notion that associates "urban" with black-dominated cities of more than 1 million people.

And so he squandered two decades, almost a generation, of opportunity to help all cities and villages, including Detroit. He ignored potential allies, like the old, bald Republican state representative.

Young is retiring. Dennis Archer will be the next mayor of Detroit. I wrote a column two years ago saying Archer had the same bad attitude toward "the (white) media" as Young. Archer replied by sending me one of his questionnaires on what I thought Detroit's problems were and how to resolve them.

I had only one basic suggestion. If Mayor Archer is serious, he'll show up at SEMCOG meetings. Not everybody may love Detroit and Detroiters, but the old city has a lot more potential allies than Young imagined.

school officials are alerted and begin to implement lessons to reinforce place value theories.

"We've always done that," McMaster said. "That's just a matter of course."

In the 1992 MEAP results, Amer-

man Elementary students scored the highest in math and reading while Winchester Elementary scored the lowest. Moraine Elementary students came in the highest in the science division while Amerman scored the lowest.

At the middle school level, Cooke students excelled over Meads Mill pupils in both math and reading while Meads Mill topped Cooke in science.

It should be noted, however, that all scores in the Northville district rated far above state average levels. McMaster cited several reasons for the above average scores.

"First and foremost I think it's the home values in education," she said. "Kids know that their parents want them to do well. Secondly, we have a high-powered curriculum. We've invested in our staff and staff development . . . the kids are being served up a heavy duty curriculum with teachers who know what to do with it."

RECORD OUR TOWN

CRUISIN'

Local car buffs caravan to show

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Anyone who strolled into Kosch's Deli last Thursday morning may have thought they'd entered a time warp.

The restaurant's Novi Town Center parking lot was jam-packed with classic cars, mostly from the 50s and 60s.

It was the beginning of the WHND "Honey Radio" sponsored trip up to St. Ignace for the annual Summer Cruise classic car show and festival.

This was the first year that the WHND cruise left from Novi. In past years it has departed from Southfield, but the location changed this year to tie in with the '50s Festival. Kosch's provided a free breakfast for all of the participants.

People drove from as far away as Grand Rapids just to depart from Novi. But there were Novi faces in the crowd, too.

One of the faces belonged to Brent Canup, whose 1958 Chevy beat out 200 others in its class at the show to win the "Best of the Late Great Chevys" trophy. He and his wife Diana were among the crowd that left from Kosch's Thursday and returned Sunday.

Canup bought his car about a year ago and, mechanically, it was "in very poor shape," he said. "Body-wise, it looked a lot like it does now."

He did extensive work and replacement of the mechanical parts of the car. Then he raised it up and added lots of chrome and spoked wheels to "make it look more sassy," he said.

Car restoration is Canup's hobby. In fact, the 1955 Chevrolet that the Novi Rotary Club is auctioning off this year was one of his projects.

"Of all the car shows I've been to, it is the tops," Canup said of the Summer Cruise in St. Ignace. "Everything runs very, very smooth and it's very well organized." This was the fifth year he attended the show, which has taken place for 18 consecutive summers.

The drive up was uneventful, he said, except for some overheating of one of the cars in the caravan — not his, of course. "But we took care of that problem and got back on the road," he said. "The trip was fine and the cars all ran fine."

Volunteer

CINDY STEWART

President of '50s Festival invites all to participate

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you are a Novi resident, new or long-term, you know there is a town spirit in Novi like nowhere else. And if you're not in on it, here's your opportunity.

Cindy Stewart, president of the Michigan '50s Festival, invites you to become a part of this sixth annual event, which will attract outsiders — residents, too, of course — to five days of entertainment at the Novi Town Center July 21-25.

Featured events, Stewart said, will be a softball tournament, a car show, live entertainment, a petting zoo, a moon walk kiddie ride, a lip-synch talent show for kids and adults, food concessions, and a fireworks display.

It's true that Stewart is city-employed as Public Information and Public Relations person for Novi, but heading the '50s Festival spills into unpaid overtime, making her a volunteer.

She and her board of 11 men and women, most of whom are in business in town, have been meeting twice a month, planning the Festival. They hope to make a lot of money — enough to buy a portable stage for the Parks and Recreation Department to use outside, especially for summer concerts.

If this year's '50s Festival attracts the 60,000 to 70,000 people it did last year, largely outsiders who shop in the malls and then come to the festival, the goal should be reached.

But more volunteers, Stewart said, are needed — volunteers to work behind the scenes at the information booth, car show and cruise, Family Show Tent, pop sales, entertainment, ticket sales, bar service, sock hops, and the Festival office.

"We wouldn't be able to do this without volunteers," Stewart said, and as inducement, she added, "It's a good way to learn more about your city and to meet people."

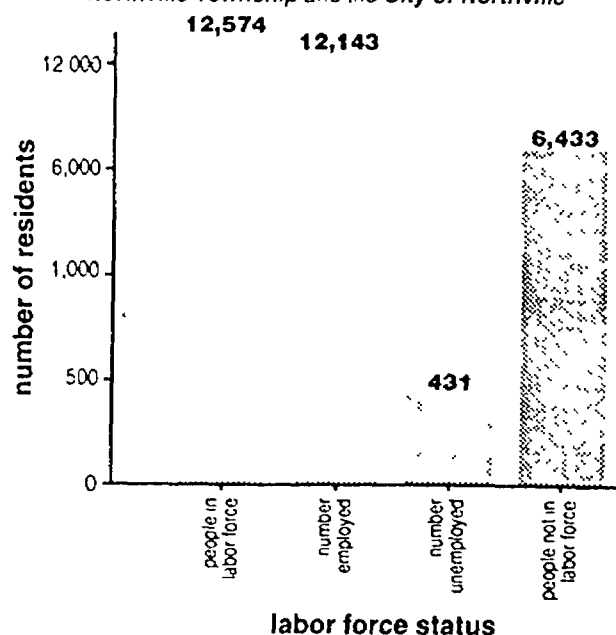

"We'll put you to work, but it's fun. You'll enjoy it."

Local earns first in DAV contest

Kelsey Jenny of Northville won first place in a Disabled American Veterans (DAV) drug awareness poster contest.

The fourth grade William Allan Academy student earned a $100 savings bond for her efforts. The award was presented by Ken Wilcox and Bill Houghton, representatives of the Howell branch of the DAV.

The poster contest involved students in schools throughout Michigan. This year, 485 posters were submitted in the contest.

The posters were judged by a committee and 12 awards are given (first, second and third places) to four grade-level groupings.

Also winning a first place finish from William Allan Academy was Joe Wood, a fifth grader. He also received a $100 savings bond certificate.

Newcomers news

Mary Ann Chumbley and Claudia Tocci have been selected as co-chairpersons for Interest Groups of the Northville Newcomers.

Activities on tap for the next week include:

Ladies Golf — July 1.

Couples Golf — July 3. This is not a competitive golf league. You do not have to play each week and you do not have to pay except when you play. Therefore, it is not too late to join. The group will play nine holes every other Saturday evening. The cost is $15 per person.

Mom and Tots Playgroup — July 7 at Maybury State Park each Wednesday, 10 a.m. It is not necessary to RSVP. Plan on meeting in the main parking lot in front of the swing sets and petting farm. There are picnic tables available for those who would like to pack their own lunches. A Wednesday volunteer is needed to head this group.

Ladies Bridge — July 7.

For more information about any of the above activities, call membership chairperson Lisa Kozerski at 380-9355.

Single Place presents

A panel discussion, "Passage of Divorce," will be held Aug. 12.

The cost of the workshop is $30.

A white water rafting trip will be held July 8-11 on New River Gorge in Hilco, W.Va. The trip is being sponsored by the Single Place Adult Ministries First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Outdoor volleyball will be played at 7 p.m. every Sunday at Park Place Apartments of Northville. Contact Mary Wright for information. A $1 donation is requested.

A country western dance class will be held for five Thursday evenings, July 15 through Aug. 12, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Williams Room of First Presbyterian Church. The cost is $32.

The monthly core meetings of Single Place Ministries will be held at 6 p.m. July 7 and 21. Registration is at 7:15 p.m. The cost is $4 per person.

The ministry is committed to providing healing and spiritual growth as well as opportunities for leadership and service. For further information on any of the Single Place events, call the Single Place office at 340-0911.

Grigg earns award

Wesley Grigg, an eighth grader at Meads Mill Middle School, became the fourth recipient of the Jody Schwartz Memorial Award earlier this month.

Grigg will use the $200 award to purchase needed hockey equipment to fulfill his dream of playing goalie on a hockey team for the University of Michigan and later on a professional team.

The award was created from donations by family and friends in memory of Jody Schwartz who died suddenly in the summer of 1989 before entering eighth grade at Meads Mill. Eighth grade students are encouraged to apply for the annual award by Mrs. Barbara Willoughby, English teacher, and Dr. Sharon Pernia, counselor at Meads Mill. Selection from the 14 applicants was made by Pernia, principal David Longridge, Cindy Wagner, Martha Nield and Andy and Shelly Schwartz.

High school accredited

Principal Thomas Johnson of Northville High School has announced that the school's North Central Association (NCA) accreditation has been extended through the 1992-93 school year.

"Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators, each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the Commission on Schools requests," Johnson said. "The continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

The NCA is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary coalition of over 7,000 schools and over 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19-state region of the central United States. The association works with schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation.

Grutzka is queen

Lisa Grutzka of Northville has been selected as queen of the 1993 Oakland County 4-H Junior Horse Court.

Mark your calendars for Saturday, Aug. 21, for "Paint the Town." Northville Presbyterian Church members aspire to have at least 35 people to paint a house in Detroit.

Wedding

Cara (Besh) and Derek Thiery

Our Lady of Victory Church was the site of the marriage of Cara Besh, daughter of Dick and Gerry Besh of Northville, and Derek R. Thiery, son of Dwight and Kathy Heeter of Chelsea. Following the wedding, a reception for 275 guests was held at Corsi's of Livonia.

The bride's sister, Dina Besh, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Jennifer Besh, sister-in-law of the bride; Candace DiComo Keaser, cousin of the bride; and Laura Heeter and Lisa Morris, sisters of the groom. Paula Morgan, friend of the bride, served as bridesmaid with Laura Besh, niece of the bride, as flower girl.

The best man was Dave McAllister, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Paul and Jeffery Besh, brothers of the bride; and Bob Cole and Dennis Barker, friends of the groom. Donald DiComo, cousin of the bride, performed the readings and Amy Morgan, soloist, accompanied Debbie Felek, both friends of the bride.

The couple honeymooned on a Caribbean cruise. Cara and Derek, both employed by Chrysler Corp., reside in Pleasant Ridge.

MEADS MILL

Meads Mill hosted the Liv-Oaks Middle School league competition on May 19. Two hundred sixth, seventh and eighth graders from 14 schools attended. The students blended to form teams of five and competed in four types of math challenges. This contest was conducted by members of the Northville High School National Honor Society.

Four Meads Mill students and teacher Steve Sutherland traveled to Cooke for the Liv-Oaks computer workshop. The students learned new and different applications of technology. Participating from Meads Mill were Laurie Boloven, Michael Addison, Kathryn Griebel and Kathryn Terakedis.

On Monday, May 24, the eighth graders traveled to Northville High School. The students heard about the opportunities available at NHS from athletic director Dennis Colligan and assistant principal Ralph Redmond. The Meads Mill students elected five freshmen delegates who toured NHS. The five delegates join the Cooke delegates to become student class officers and congress representatives next year.

In an eight-week program entitled Project Business, eighth graders at Meads Mill worked with adult volunteers from five different businesses, including Ford Motor Co. and a public utility. Taking time out from their busy day, the adults presented lessons as well as hands-on activities that provided students with the opportunity to discover how businesses work around the world. Students received certificates of achievement to place in their portfolios. This is the sixth year Meads Mill was selected for this Junior Achievement project.

RIB CRACKER: Dave Doehler and his friends provided the eighth grade with an assembly on aerodynamics. The high point was an outdoor demonstration with model airplanes.

MICHAEL DEREM: Civil War expert, Michael Deren provided Meads Mill eighth graders with experience like Civil War boot camp. Students learned about the music of the era. This assembly was sponsored through the junior enrichment series of the PTSA.

LIV-OAKS TRACK MEET: The Liv-Oaks track season drew to a close at the league meet. Teams of half of the schools in the leagues competed at NHS. The concession stand was operated by the Meads Mill and Cooke PTSAs as a joint project.

SIXTH GRADE NEWS: Meads Mill sixth graders are making the "electrical connection." They have been experimenting with electromagnets by manipulating several variables such as wire gauge, core diameter, and different voltages of batteries. What's next? Students will build an electric motor (that works) to show that electrical energy can be changed to mechanical energy.

A fantasy trip to Europe (with an unlimited budget) is currently being planned. Each student has selected a country and researched everything, with the help of PC Globe in the computer lab, from vital statistics to native foods and customs. The itinerary should be seven to 14 days and include a visit to a private home as well as their country's famous places.

The end of year Academic Olympiad was a huge success, thanks in large part to the help of many capable parent volunteers. Each student competed in three different events. The emphasis for each was different. One was to construct a working project, another was a more intense effort to become a "mini" expert in an area of study, and the third was just for fun.

The grand finale was an optional "egg drop," which took place just before the awards ceremony. Everyone enjoyed the break from the regular outing as well as the spirit of competition.

Sixth graders got a kick out of the recent fifth grade visitation. Many vividly remember the mixed feelings of excitement and anxiety that they had experienced just a few short months ago. The message here is "Don't worry. You'll survive. We all look forward to seeing you in the fall."

PTA News/Elementary Schools

Amerman PTA members of the June 1 meeting were treated to an educational presentation by Matt Hare and Michael Mattis from Mrs. Janice Henderson's fourth grade class who demonstrated the Lego Logo Program purchased by the PTA. The students did a fine explanation and the parents are pleased to see the PTA funds go for such a worthwhile cause.

The Ice Cream Social on June 4 was as popular as ever with prizes, games and lots of food for all to enjoy. Many thanks to those who participated to make this such a great event and especially to chairperson Marie Rumbley.

Many enthusiastic student bikers watched on as Helene Rimer, Outreach Coordinator for Head Injury Systems from the Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan, spoke about bicycle safety. A representative from Town & Country Cyclery, Inc. in Northville talked about bicycle tune-ups too. The importance of wearing a safety helmet was stressed.

Also, the Art Appreciation Committee bought new books at a 20-percent discount, thanks to the generosity of Mrs. Berclay Ruschak, owner of the Bookstall on the Main. We really appreciate the support of local business.

The Security Subcommittee is in need of volunteers to help monitor the sign-in forms and to issue badges to visitors to the school. If anyone has any further suggestions regarding school security, please contact Mr. Anderson.

As another school year comes to a close, let us not forget education is an ongoing experience throughout the summer months as well. Some summer activity suggestions for boys or girls include reading 30 minutes a day, keeping a daily diary, beginning a hobby or putting on performances for friends and relatives by making simple puppets and a cardboard playhouse. Finally, take the time to hug your children every day and praise them for even the smallest accomplishments.

Have a great summer and see you at the next PTA meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 9:15 a.m. in the library.

Any time you have an idea for a story we should write.

rode with City Manager Ed Kriewall in Kriewall's 1971 Challenger convertible, said the number of classic cars on I-75 grew larger and larger as they travelled north.

"We picked up cars along the way," he said. "People (who live along the route) strategically timed it to join in with the group."

Show organizers estimated 35,000 cars and 90,000 people were in St. Ignace for the weekend show. Participants came from as far away as California and the cars and people who traveled there last weekend exceeded the population of the town.

WHND radio disk jockey Jerry Pantlow, who was on hand for the departure from Kosh's, said the weekend is always "like you died and went to Fifties Heaven."

"It's like American Graffiti, with people hanging out the windows and having tailgate parties," he added.

For the car show on Saturday, participants had to line up by 3:30 a.m. "We went there at 3:30 and lined our cars up, then went back to bed," Canup said.

Novi Police Chief Doug Shaeffer, who drove up in his 1966 GTO, did the same thing. The GTOs, he said, were America's original "muscle cars."

Once the sun came up, the car show day was "absolutely beautiful," Canup said. "It was an absolutely picture-perfect day."

The number of classic cars in town was "unbelievable," he added.

"There was a whole strip with cars lined up, parked along the road," he said. "They blocked the street off and the cars ran from expressway to expressway."

Gilbert estimated that the cars on display in St. Ignace, parked door-to-door, would have stretched about four miles.

"If you were to set those cars next to each other and place them perpendicular to the road, they would stretch from Beck Road to Haggerty," he said.

There were many radio interviews going on, he said, as well as people filming the national car show "Wild About Wheels."

"The fascinating thing is... look where it's at," Canup said. "Yet there were 90,000 people there. I talked to people from Detroit who drove up there just for the day."

It takes about five hours to drive from Detroit to St. Ignace.

"I think what draws so many people there is that it actually is a chance to drive your car for some distance," Canup said. He's already made his hotel reservations for next year.

"I had a wonderful time," Gilbert agreed. "This car show, to me, is more exciting than Christmas morning. It is one of the premier car shows that we attend."

Of course, people did the usual "fudge" or tourist stuff while they were there. Most of the Novi participants took in the sights and sounds of Mackinac Island, and nobody went hungry with all of the fudge, pasties and whitfish dealers catering to the crowd.

"We saw the sights of the area and played the typical tourists," Shaeffer said.

"We ate lots of fudge and we brought home lots of fudge," Canup said. "If nothing else a trip to Mackinac Island is worth it for the fudge."

Perhaps something like this:

Art performs well in theater gallery

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Last fall, the restoration of a Main Street store in Northville to create the Samuel H. Little Theater unearthed a massive expanse of beautiful old brick walls — a wall space that begged to be filled.

Now it has been, thanks to the recent opening of the Little Art Gallery at Genitt's.

You could call it a case of simultaneous inspiration. Toni Genitt, who owns the theater with her husband John, called up Northville artist Julie Giordano and asked her to start up a gallery. Giordano, the owner of the former J. Giordano gallery on Main Street, meanwhile, planned to call Genitt with just such a proposal.

"She (Genitt) said 'Look, I wear bifocals and I'm on blood pressure medicine. I don't need any more headaches. Would you run this as your own?'" Giordano explained.

"It's a shame not to fill the walls with artwork."

Giordano brought together a group of her friends for the show that opened the gallery on June 19, "Women of Artistry." Featured now along with Giordano's watercolors are the works of Susan Argiroff, Sharon Dillenbeck, Carol McCreedy and Norma McQueen. All are Michigan artists successful in marketing themselves in local shows, she explained.

The paintings hang in the theater's lobby, as well as in the theater itself. The location is convenient for the theatergoers as well as for Genitt's lunch and dinner crowd, many of whom just pop next door.

The focus at the Little Art Gallery is on art which is more traditional and realistic, rather than trendy and modern.

"It's not going to be very contemporary. I don't want to compete with Atrium Gallery (also in Northville)," Giordano explained.

Most of the artists will be from this area.

Plans call for two exhibits a month, sometimes with live music on the sidewalk in front of the gallery, to lure in potential art lovers.

Artist Julie Giordano runs the new Little Art Gallery in Northville.

'Forest' recalls golden age of animated films

"Once Upon a Forest," now playing at area theaters, is set in the enchanted wood of childhood where animals are capable of every human emotion and expression.

There, three small creatures journey from their shady glen into a world of wonder and danger in a daring attempt to save the life of a friend.

Against backdrops which recall the golden age of storybook illustration, the animated musical adventure marks a new direction not only for its characters but also its creators.

Released by Twentieth Century Fox, "Once Upon a Forest" is a Hanna-Barbera Production produced in association with HTV Cymru-Wales Ltd. The film is produced by David Kirschner and Jerry Mills, directed by Charles Grosvenor and written by Mark Young and Kelly Ward, based upon characters and a concept created by Rae Lambert.

The animation is directed by Dave Michener, and the music is by James Horner.

"Once Upon a Forest" is the first full-length feature produced by Hanna-Barbera Productions since David Kirschner, who created the classic "An American Tail" and brought it to the screen with Steven Spielberg, became the studio's chairman and resident "fantasist."

When Kirschner joined Hanna-Barbera, the birthplace of such celebrated characters as Yogi Bear, Huckleberry Hound and the Flintstones, he set out to expand its well-known artistry. He found the perfect vehicle in a project in development, a contemporary fable with a theme which, he says, "intrigued me as the father of two small children."

The youngsters in this story don't know what they're trying to do is impossible. Through their innocence and inexperience, they don't understand that there is no way they can succeed or maybe even survive. And so they surpass their wildest dreams — and ours."

Abigail, the wood mouse; Edgar, the mole; and Russell, the hedgehog, are among the most mischievous "furlings" their inventive mentor, the badger, Cornelius, has ever had to guide in the ways of the woods.

He can't be sure whether youngsters are getting naughtier or he's just getting older. But even when they demolish a scale model of his latest and greatest contraption, the flying flapper-wing-a-ma-thing, or wander beyond his watchful eye to the borders of humankind, he remains nurturing to his young charges.

It is during one of their nature rambles that civilization — in the form of a runaway chemical truck — careens into the carefree existence of their forest, Dapplewood.

As a toxic mist seeps through meadows and burrows, blocking the sun and blighting the trees, the victims include Cornelius' tiny niece, Michelle. Only an ancient cure, concocted from the herbs eyebright and lungwort, can save the little badger's life. But the gas has poisoned the foliage of Dapplewood.

Somewhere, beyond its borders, there must be a meadow where these plants still grow. But though the "furlings" have no idea where it is — or how to get there — they conquer their fears and scamper bravely off into unknown realms.

Rae Lambert, who devoted 15 years to the adventures on which "Once Upon a Forest" is based, is both a gifted storyteller and an acknowledged authority on herbology, wildlife and animal lore.

"In the midst of Rae's marvelous make-believe, there's always a kernel of truth about the natural world," observes screenwriter Mark Young. "Eyebright and lungwort are, for example, real herbal remedies, made into potions by our primitive ancestors, who observed their curative effect on animals."

Not only did their color-splashed flowers provide a visual feast for the film's artists, but the plants' peculiar properties advanced the plot. Since lungwort grows only at high elevations, Abigail, Russell and Edgar discover it blooming on the face of a cliff.

The only way to reach the precious herb is to fly, a skill for which none of the creatures comes naturally equipped. But they do have the model plans for Cornelius' flapper-wing-a-ma-thing, a cross between a da Vinci vision and a flying runabout designed by Rube Goldberg.

That, in turn, leads to a dizzying display of aerial acrobatics in a wildly wavering wind-whipped craft, flown by a novice hedgehog, a wing-walking wood mouse and a mole with a congenital fear of heights.

Another key sequence with its origins in nature is the funeral procession of the gospel-singing marsh birds. Led by Phineas, a soulful great crested grebe, the birds march through the marshes to a Dixieland beat, bemoaning the fate of a member of their flock. But as the "furlings" soon discover, the subject of the dirge isn't deceased — simply stuck in the mud — which transforms the birds' woeful wail, "He's Gone," into a top-tapping celebration, "He's Back."

While the sequence is a rousing production number, like a New Orleans street parade in a fantasy swamp, it was inspired by a very real problem," says Kelly Ward.

"When construction takes place in certain rural areas, the marshlands are drained. What's left is a shiny, sticky surface of mud. Birds land, sink into the ooze and die. And even those who survive lose their nesting grounds."

Director Charles Grosvenor and writers Young and Ward were deep at work on this blend of imagination and natural lore when Kirschner came to Hanna-Barbera. Given the studio's phenomenal success in television, that seemed the likely outlet for their efforts.

But Kirschner had other ideas. "I'm a sucker for animal stories of any kind, and 'Once Upon a Forest' was like a 'coming of age' story with animals," he said. "I loved what it said — about values, about friendship, about the capacity of kids, just when we're certain they'll never grow up, to do the most wonderful, unexpected things."

"If these little creatures can save a life, maybe they can save a forest as well."

'Last Action Hero' — Hamlet it's not

By SCOTT SIGLER
Staff writer

Okay, so it's not Shakespeare.

But what did we really expect from the current king of the box office? Mega-star Arnold Schwarzenegger has built an entertainment empire on thrilling action/adventure epics.

One might not expect Schwarzenegger to bite the hand that feeds him, but his new movie, "The Last Action Hero" is a light-hearted parody of the genre that has made him a multi-millionaire.

Schwarzenegger is heavy-metal hero Jack Slater, the stereotypical, indestructible, lone-wolf cop. Slater's good-guys-always-win world is thrown into chaos by a magic ticket, a device capable of transcending the boundaries between fantasy and reality.

The ticket catapults pre-teen movie fanatic Danny Matigan (Austin O'Brien) into the glowing silver-screen realm — particularly into the shoot-'em-up setting of Jack Slater.

In a classic bad-writing improbability of Hollywood, the diminutive Matigan and the sauntering Slater are teamed up as partners. As Slater slaves to solve the case, Matigan thrills to being a part of the movies he has always followed with the fervor of a religious zealot.

Endless jaunts between fantasy and reality give the film a truly original slant on the trite action/adventure theme. Slater is a fictitious character — the "fantasy," while Danny comes from the "real world." The transitions between the two worlds are dominated with high-octane action and low-grade laugh attempts. While there are some genuinely funny lines, the action-hero death-puns still draw groans of amusement.

from the unrealistic, endless stream of perfect women the indestructibility of the main character. Arnold even takes multiple cracks at himself.

Not only is Slater the main character of the movie, but Arnold makes an appearance as Arnold, attending the "real world" movie premier of Jack Slater IV.

At the premier, great scenes of marital nagging with real-life wife Maria Schriver establish Schwarzenegger as an existing part of the firmament of reality. With this established, it becomes easier to accept Slater as an actual person, above and beyond one-dimensional characterization and the "actor" who is playing him.

Schwarzenegger continues to rip the action/adventure formula, actually apologizing to his fans for the reduced carnage of Slater IV.

"We only kill 48 people in this picture; in the last one we killed 119," Schwarzenegger proudly boasts to the media at the movie premier, but he is quick to appease his blood-thirsty fans. "We make up for this with a good story, a lot of emotion, steps, direction . . ."

Clearly this is from a man who keeps his work in perspective.

Perspective is also apparent in Arnold's view of his acting. His acting has never received rave reviews, and while fans flock to the box office his critics continue to slam his ability. Arnold gives the critics a dig as well, via the penultimate acting bellwether of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

Perhaps more than any other theatrical character, the portrayal of Hamlet is the measure of serious ability. Schwarzenegger turns Hamlet into a macho, gun-slinging, castle-blasting death machine who walks through the finale of the Shakespearean classic with guns and bad puns ablazing.

"Something is rotten in the state of Denmark," the deep-voiced narrator calls over the scenes of

Arnold wading through the population of Denmark with an Uzi and an attitude. "And Hamlet is taking out the trash."

I hope they have insurance on Elsenore Castle.

Highly exaggerated action in Slater's world adds to the fun-poking of the standard action-hero's super-human abilities. He really hammers the bad puns, bad plot twists and bad writing of the box office bastions.

While far from a thought-provoking flick, the movie slams the one dimensionality of the action-hero. The film honestly tries to look at the whole character, and what would happen to a hero if he was a real person with a life beyond the on-screen antics.

The typical mega-budget Arnold pic, "The Last Action Hero" comes up short. A fun take-off on the action/adventure stand-by the movie isn't a classic . . . even by Schwarzenegger standards. It lacks the hard-core punch of "Predator" or the "Terminator" films, and it lacks the relative realism of "Kindergarten Cop."

While cheesy and melodramatic, it's fun and fairly entertaining. It covers all the basics, and it continues in the "Sensitive Arnold" mode we've seen in his last few movies. The Schwarzenegger conventions, however, still remain solid.

Shuddering explosives, whizzing bullets, matchless bravado and super-human impossibilities dominate the flick — all the things we've come to love in the muscle-bound movies.

If you are entertained by Arnold, you'll probably enjoy "The Last Action Hero." If you aren't an Arnold fan, don't bother — the movies has nothing unique that is going to change your mind.

Besides, if you don't like Arnold in the first place, you can always watch a classic.

I hear "Hamlet" is pretty good.

Want to be a critic?

Seen any good movies lately? If you have, we'd like to hear about it . . . we'd like to hear exactly what you think — good or bad.

What we're saying is that this is your opportunity to play movie critic in your HomeTown newspaper.

If you're like most movie-goers everywhere, you probably think you know as much about the movies as anybody else. In fact, you probably think that you could write reviews that are every bit as good and probably a great deal more accurate than the reviews you see in other newspapers, magazines and on television.

Well, this is your big chance. In trying to make our brand-new Movie Page even more valuable to our readers, we're inviting our readers to share their opinions about the movies with us and their neighbors. Sorry, we're not offering any type of financial rewards if we print your comments, but we will give you a by-line — and then you'll be able to clip out your review and show all your friends that you're a published movie critic.

You can review a newly-released movie or a movie that is available on video. Please limit your mini-reviews to 100 words and send them to HomeTown Newspapers, c/o Phil Jerome, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI 48843.

The reviews should include your name, address and day-time telephone number.

If you have any questions or want more information, please call Phil Jerome at (517) 548-2000.

Look out, Siskel and Ebert. The HomeTown movie reviewers are about to do their thing.

ALL-AREA SOFTBALL

Kemp, Davis make top team

Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area first team for 1993 provides an awesome assortment of hitters and top-notch pitchers, including three Class A All-Stars.

Millford's All-Stater Monique LeGris holds down first, and All-State slugger Jenny "Power" Sorge of Lakeland guards the outfield. The plate is defended by second-year All-Stater and 1993 Hometown Newspapers Player of the Year Tracey Nepjuk of Lakeland.

The rest of our lineup is rock-solid. Nov's shortstop Kelly Barton led the Wildcats in nearly every offensive category and was a first-team All-KVC choice. Second baseman Sarah Kemp provided Northville with one of the area's top leadoff hitters with her amazing bunting and base-running skills.

A pair of pitchers share the mound duties. Millford's Sarah Kirsten earned her second trip to the All-Area mound with a 14-7 record. Nov's Erin Bjerke, just a sophomore, became a dominant pitcher in the KVC as well with her pin-point control.

Now let's meet the all-area first team for 1993 as picked by the sports editors of the Northville Record, Nov News, Millford Times and South Lyon Herald:

MONIQUE LeGRIS

ond team All-KVC.

"She's probably one of the better players around," said Millford coach Mark Pingston. "She's an outstanding fielder, she even plays shortstop."

LeGris hit .346 with 28 runs, 11 RBI, two doubles and one triple.

"She has such a knowledge of the game," Pingston said. "She's one of those players that fills a lot of voids. She has a lot of leadership."

"Other teams saw her as a big threat, someone who was always going to get on base."

LeGris will attend Hillsdale College in the fall where she will play softball.

SARAH KEMP

Northville, second base

base percentage of nearly .500.

Kemp wreaked havoc with enemy defenses. Friemund said teams often tried with little success to take the bunt away from her by moving in at the corners.

"It's like she's on roller skates," he commented. "It seems like she's just moving that fast."

Mustangs place two on All-Area second dream team

The 1993 Hometown Newspapers All Area second team recognition this season, the most dominant being Millford's Chris Hinka. South Lyon's Yvonne Blyskal, put in the All Area second team outfield, should be a player to watch behind the plate next season. Christi Green was as good as gold behind the plate for Northville, digging pitches out of the dirt and nailing would-be base stealers. Green was also put in the outfield of our all area team.

Designated hitter Sara Christenson of Northville was slowed by injuries this spring but still proved to be a tough out and a potent force in the middle of the Mustang lineup. Julie Swinehart threw flames on the mound for the Wildcats. Lakeland's Misty Mabe gives our second squad another great arm.

Three triples and four doubles. "She's got a good arm," Pingston said. "Not too many are going to steal on her. She calls the game for me, she sets up the batters. She's the quarterback of the team."

three triples and four doubles. "She's got a good arm," Pingston said. "Not too many are going to steal on her. She calls the game for me, she sets up the batters. She's the quarterback of the team."

CHRISTINE EDWARDS

Novi, first baseman

Though she was just a sophomore, Edwards' second varsity season was a smash hit — literally. As the Wildcats No. 3 batter, she scored 32 runs while knocking in 24 with four triples and a home run.

"She's got a very good glove," coach John Peace said. "She's got a lot of confidence and poise."

As might be expected with such a young player, the coach said Edwards often makes great plays but has trouble with easier ones. With a little more time, Peace said, her concentration will improve and eliminate such mistakes.

"In key spots," he commented, "that's where she was best."

HEATHER PERRY

South Lyon, second base

One of the bright spots of a very long South Lyon season, Perry used her versatility to make the team better.

"She's quick. I could put her anywhere," said first-year coach Dianna Kampen.

Perry's quickness was apparent on the bases, where she led the team with 22 steals. Kampen felt the junior could have many more steals next season.

Kurtis wins Minnesota marathon

Northville's marathon man has done it again.

Doug Kurtis added another trophy to his already bulging award case last month by winning Grandma Marathon in Duluth, Minn. Perfect conditions helped him secure the victory, he said.

"It was in the low 50s with a slight breeze," Kurtis said. "The weather was perfect."

Kurtis finished the 26-mile race in 2:16:38. It was his second win at Duluth and his fastest time in four years.

Kurtis owns the world record of

"It was in the low 50s with a slight breeze."

Marathon runner

sub-2:20 times, now with 71. His performance also earned him another honor.

"It's the fastest master's time in the world this year," Kurtis said.

The 40-year-old described the Minnesota race as one of the five most competitive in the country. Some 6,000 athletes competed in the marathon.

"It's a great field," Kurtis said. The win didn't come easily. Kurtis trailed much of the way but caught a New Zealand runner in the last two miles to take the victory.

"It was a real close race," he said. "I won by 17 seconds."

Kurtis has been busy in the first half of the year. Duluth was his eighth marathon. Despite the workload, he said his enthusiasm is still high for the sport.

"I haven't felt I've been doing too much," said Kurtis.

He said he won't run another marathon until the fall. Until then, Kurtis said he plans on running in a few 10-kilometer races and a half-marathon.

Kurtis will likely compete in the Northville "Road Runner Race" on July 24. The 8-kilometer race will start on Cady Street and wind through downtown.

Besides her great on-base percentage, Kemp hit .386, scored 25 runs and stole 28 bases.

"I thought she was the best leadoff hitter around," Friemund said.

KELLY BARTON

Novi, shortstop

An excellent all-around athlete, Barton became a dominant hitter this spring. Batting cleanup for the Wildcats, she knocked in an amazing 45 runs in 39 games.

"She's a free swinger," Novi coach John Peace said. "But I think she got a little more patient at the plate. This year she was able to wait on the ball and wait on the changeup."

Barton led Novi with 43 hits, 28 runs and a .347 batting average. She reached base nearly 50 percent of the time.

SARAH DEMAR

Lakeland, third base

Demar spent most of the season at first base, but also put in time at third. With LeCris taking up the first-base spot, the HomeTown writers wanted Demar's hot hands on the hot corner.

Demar had an amazing .971 fielding average while setting a school record 263 putouts.

"Fielding was her strength," said Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths. "She was fearless at first, she gets behind the ball."

Demar was strong with the bat as well, hitting .370 with 22 runs, 34 hits, four doubles and 18 RBIs. Demar had an on-base percentage of .478.

KRISTIN DAVIS

Northville, outfield

Davis rose from obscurity on the diamond to a feared No. 3 batter in the Northville lineup.

"She hit line-drives all the time," said Friemund, the Northville coach. "Even her outs were good hits. She's a very smooth and confident hitter."

After getting only 10 at-bats as a junior, Davis put up good numbers in '93. She batted .422 and slugged .714 while leading her team in RBI and hits. Davis was chosen as all-conference in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"She's always had a nice swing," Friemund said. "But I think this year she learned how to hit."

JENNY SORGE

Lakeland, outfield

This senior All-Stater blasted the ball all year, and came close to hitting over .500.

"She had over .500 going into districts," said Griffiths, the Lakeland coach. "She had a super year."

Sorge finished the season hitting .475 with 48 hits, 30 runs, seven doubles, six triples and 33 RBI. On top of this amazing hitting performance, Sorge set a school record with 44 stolen bases.

Sorge, Lakeland's female athlete of the year, was the Eagles' co-captain and was named All-KVC. Her .475 batting average ties her for third on Lakeland's all-time list.

ALLISON WATKINS

Millford, outfield

Last year as a sophomore, Watkins shattered the league with five home runs and a .543 average. This year, the opposition knew what they were up against when they faced the junior.

"Other pitchers and other teams zoned in on her," said Pingston, the Millford coach. "Last year she was a new player and they didn't know what a threat she was. They didn't pitch to her this year."

Despite the defensive attention, the Homer Heroine hit .412 with 23 runs, 45 RBI, nine triples, five doubles and, yes, two home runs.

"She was our bread-and-butter kid," Pingston said.

Watkins was named all-district, second team all-region and honorable mention All-KVC.

ERIN BJERKE

Novi, pitcher

The sophomore took over as Novi's top starter early this season and kept KVC batters off-balance with her excellent control. Peace, the Novi coach, said Bjerke doesn't blow batters away — she doesn't need to.

"She throws medium-hard," he said. "She's a placement pitcher, in and out, up and down."

Bjerke went 15-7 while posting a 1.71 ERA. She struck out 147 while walking just 10 in 151 innings of work.

"She gained a lot of poise about halfway through the season," said Peace.

The sophomore contributed at the plate by knocking in 24 runs and scoring 22. Bjerke hit .269.

SARAH KIRSTEN

Millford, pitcher

"Slingin'" Sarah was slightly down from her 18-4 1992 season, but she was still one of the most dominant pitchers in the area. Kirsten went 14-7 with a 1.70 ERA and 165 strikeouts.

"We couldn't do what we did without her," said Pingston, the Redskins coach. "Five out of her seven losses were one-run games. She really kept us in games. She was absolutely our best pitcher."

Kirsten was also a terror from the other side of the plate, leading Millford with a .439 batting average. Kirsten had 21 runs, 25 RBI, four doubles and two triples.

Kirsten was named all-district, All-KVC and second team all-region.

Special Writer

Dust off the lawn chairs, clean out the picnic basket, grab the family and head for the Novi Civic Center on Thursday evenings. Have we got a concert for you tonight, July 1.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble featuring Ursula Walker will be performing for their sixth year at Novi Parks and Recreation Sounds of Summer Concert Series. Brookside Jazz Ensemble, featuring 18 Detroit-area jazz musicians, is a high-energy big band à la Stan Kenton. Ursula Walker, one of the finest jazz vocalists in the Detroit area, will be belting out many great jazz tunes.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble and Ursula Walker is a fantastic group well worth repeating," said Terry Cahman, project coordinator for Summer Sounds.

All area music lovers would be wise to mark their calendars for every Thursday at 7 p.m. and get a good seat in front of the Novi Civic Center. This year there will also be free lemonade and pretzels for concert goers. Tonight's concert is also giving away blowing bubbles to the first 50 to arrive (unless the concert is moved indoors due to rain), and a free drawing for lunch for two at Novi's newest restaurant, Red Robin in the Novi Town

Center.

Janet Tenaj and Sven Anderson Ensemble performed on June 24 and were well received. Listeners commented that from the quality of the first concert, the list of upcoming concerts and prior year concerts, Novi Parks and Recreation 1993 Sounds of Summer Concerts should not be missed. These concerts are brought to you by Providence Medical Center, Ford Motor Co. Foundation and Novi Parks and Recreation. They are all free and will happen come rain or shine.

The rest of the summer line-up is as follows:

July 8: Myk and Mary. Rock duo playing pop hits of the 60's and 70's.
July 15: Straight Blue. Jazz quintet from Hope College.

July 22: No concert. Michigan '50s Festival.

July 29: Bakra Bata. American Steel Drum Band based in Seattle.
Aug. 5: Howard "Louie Blue" Armstrong and Ray Kamalay. '30s blues and Tin Pan Alley standards.

Aug. 13: : Novi Concert Band. Novi's own community band performs classical, semi-classical, marches, show tunes, etc. at the Providence Hospital site on Grand River and Beck roads.

Warning signs for periodontal disease

Dr. Kathryn
Hoppe, D.D.S.

Your teeth are meant to last a lifetime, and they can, with the proper care. By daily thorough brushing and flossing and regular professional cleanings, most periodontal diseases can be avoided.

Periodontal diseases are the major cause of tooth loss in adults. After age 35, about three out of four adults are affected by some form of periodontal disease. However, it can occur at any age. Even children as young as 5 or 6-years-old can have signs of some of these diseases. But they can be prevented.

Periodontal diseases are caused by certain types of bacteria in dental plaque. Plaque is the sticky, colorless film of bacteria that constantly forms on the teeth. If this plaque is not removed through daily cleaning, it produces toxins or poisons that can irritate and inflame gums.

Eventually, these toxins destroy gum tissues, causing the tissues to separate from the tooth and form deepened spaces called pockets. These pockets can then hold more bacteria and the process can progress so that the gum tissues detach even further until the bone and other supporting tissues of the teeth are destroyed.

You may not even be aware that you have periodontal disease because it usually doesn't cause pain. But there are warning signs to alert you:

- Gums that bleed (even a little) during tooth brushing or flossing.
- Red, swollen or tender gums.
- Gums that have pulled away from the teeth.
- Bad breath that persists.
- Pus between the teeth and gums.
- Loose or separating teeth.
- A change in the way your teeth fit together

when you bite.

A dentist can alert you to periodontal disease by using a small instrument, called a periodontal probe, to measure the depth of the space between the tooth and gum. This will determine if you have periodontal pockets. Generally, the more severe the gum disease, the greater the depth of the pockets.

Again, periodontal diseases can be prevented by thorough daily plaque removal by brushing, flossing, eating a well balanced diet and regular dental visits.

When plaque is not removed, it hardens into a rough, porous deposit called tartar. Once tartar forms, it can only be removed by a professional. If it isn't removed, new bacteria and plaque attach easily to form more tartar, thus allowing the progression of the disease.

So, brush, brush, brush, floss, floss, floss.
Dr. Kathryn Hoppe has a dental practice in the Novi Professional Village, 23985 Novi Road in Novi. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.

Green, Christenson make second team

"The only thing holding her back is confidence in her speed," Kampen said. "Once she gets that she should be tops in the league."

Perry, a switch-hitter, hit .270 and led the Lions with a .386 on-base percentage. Perry was named honorable mention All-KVC.

KRISTY SHERY Milford, shortstop

Shery, a junior, should be one of the top players in the KVC next season. She hit over .300 for most of the year, but a slump late in the season dropped her final tally to .280.

"She filled the shortstop spot for us," said Pingston, the Milford coach. "She's a solid player, a good fielder. She'll get a lot better before next season."

"She'll be a player to watch next season."

BETH TRIMARK Lakeland, third base

This Lakeland junior was a jack-of-all-trades, putting in time at third, shortstop, second base and even as backup catcher.

"She was one we couldn't afford to lose," said Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths. "She backed up so many positions. She was a starter, it just depended on where she would start — second, third or short."

Trimark was also versatile from the plate, hitting .333 with 27 runs, 29 hits, five doubles, 20 RBI and 13 stolen bases. Trimark's real strength was hitting with runners on base. The junior was .421 with runners in scoring position.

Trimark, a co-captain for the Eagles in 1994, struck out only seven times in 87 at-bats.

ANN SOPER Novi, outfield

Although the senior played second and third base for the Wildcats, we've converted her to an outfielder. With her defensive prowess she would make the transition easily.

According to Peace, Soper was one of Novi's best in the field. Late in the season, the coach moved his senior to second base and instructed his pitching staff to throw to the outside part of the plate — to force enemy batters to hit it Soper's way.

"Ann had an excellent year," Peace commented. "It was by far her best." She hit .333 with 29 hits and 12 RBI from her No. 2 slot in the batting order. Soper set the table for Novi's power hitters by reaching base exactly 50 percent of the time.

CHRISTI GREEN Northville, outfield

The HomeTown writers had to get this player on the field, even if it meant moving her from catcher to the outfield. The senior made a smooth transition from the infield to catcher this spring. Coach Frank Friemund said Green stopped other teams from running aggressively on the base paths.

"Nobody tried to steal on us," he said. "We would have been nowhere without her."

Green hit .276 while scoring 21 runs and stealing 18 bases. She had an on-base percentage of .430.

YVONNE BLYSKAL South Lyon, outfield

As with Green, the HomeTown writers couldn't bear to leave this athlete off the second team.

"She was one of the bright spots going into next year," said Kampen, the South Lyon coach. "She caught all but 16 innings this year. She did a great job behind the plate."

"She picked off people to a point where nobody would run on her at season's end."

Blyskal, a second-team All-KVC pick, hit .263 for the year.

SARA CHRISTENSON Northville, designated hitter

An All-Area first team choice as a junior, the only thing that stopped Christenson from making that squad again was a knee injury. Friemund said his senior was bobbled by her injury but played anyway.

"If the game was on," he said, "she was playing in it."

Christenson posted respectable numbers despite limited action. She batted .292, stole 10 bases and drew 15 walks.

COACH OF THE YEAR: JOHN PEACE, NOVI

The coach said his player was devoted to her team. As captain she kept the Mustangs' ship running smoothly and also helped chart the action when she couldn't play.

Mabe hit .355 on the year, as well as having 61 defensive assists. "She had a good fielding year," Griffiths said.

JULIE SWINEHART Novi, pitcher

Perhaps no pitcher in the KVC has better heat than the Wildcat junior. Peace said with a little more control, Swinehart would be nearly unhittable.

"If she keeps it down she can dominate," he added.

Swinehart's numbers back up Peace's comments. She went 9-8 for Novi with a 3.20 ERA. The junior struck out 119 batters in 105 innings.

Swinehart will battle first-team pick Erin Bjerk for the top starting slot next spring.

"I can see her being a real help," said Peace.

MISTY MABE Lakeland, pitcher

Mabe went 12-4 last year as a freshman, and continued to astonish the league with a 14-6 mark this year as the Eagles' top pitcher. In 128 innings pitched, the sophomore gave up 84 hits and 23 earned runs for a 1.26 ERA.

"Misty gets better as she gets older," said Griffiths, the Lakeland coach. "Last year she just threw it. Now she uses the change-up a lot more. She has more control over where she throws it."

Mabe's control was obvious in her 81 strikeouts.

New dictionary defines real estate terminology

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Understanding the meaning of basic real estate terms used in property transactions is important to today's buyers and sellers.

If you don't understand the terminology, real estate can be overwhelming. And this leaves the buyer and seller vulnerable. Business and personal decisions can be disastrous when made on the basis of misunderstood terminology.

For example, what is the meaning and significance of "fee simple title"? What are those "points" that often cost big bucks when obtaining a mortgage loan? What is "joint tenancy"? What's an ARM home loan? What is the APR interest rate?

"Sometimes home buyers, particularly first-time buyers, don't know what very basic terms mean and it's our job to provide needed education," said Susan Herrick, owner of a multi-office real estate brokerage firm. "Some buyers don't know what escrow is, or a walk-through inspection."

Herrick stressed the importance of keeping current on real estate terms. That applies to both buying and selling consumers, as well as real estate professionals.

"It's a real challenge to stay up to date on terms used in today's world of real estate," said Jack Friedman, one of three authors who prepared the text for the

Seek the right slope for the two-storied Jamar

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

If you were driving by the Jamar and only glanced at it from the front, you might think it was fairly small. Because it is designed for construction on a right-sloping hill, from the street you see only the upper floor and the front corner of the lower level.

By the same token, if you looked only at its richly windowed, two-storied right side, you could easily imagine that the house was large and expensive.

As you might have guessed, neither impression is true. The Jamar is squarely in the midsize range. At the same time, the plan is loaded with custom design features.

Take the staircase, for instance. Bookshelves line a mid-floor landing that is naturally brightened by two tall slender windows. More bookshelves can be found in the hallway across from the kitchen. And in the sunken, vaulted living room, half-walls of custom shelving provide space for more books and a home for stereo components and a television.

Windows on three sides bathe the living room in soft, natural light and offer striking vistas. A fireplace adds warmth and charm.

Also richly windowed, the kitchen and dining room are conveniently located at the core of the upper level. Two skylights let in additional light over the sink.

Other amenities in the kitchen include a built-in desk, a small eating bar, a huge pantry, a built-in dishwasher, range and oven, and lazy Susan shelving.

More luxurious touches are found in the master suite. The most unique is a shelf atop the walk-in closet, designed for a television. A door in the bathroom opens onto a wide deck just a few steps away from a large spa. Glass blocks line one wall of a sumptuous custom shower, and the dressing area has a second lavatory and vanity.

A large utility room with built-in ironing board, and an additional storage closet are downstairs, tucked between two bedrooms. All of the rooms on this level, including the bathroom, are as richly windowed as the upper level.

For a study plan of the Jamar (401-22) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

14 years ago.

BY ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN • STAFF WRITER

Their wish came true.

Their 25-year-old Georgian colonial home is furnished eclectically — mostly with antiques. This is not surprising when one considers that Margaret is a part-time antique dealer.

She chooses the pieces of furniture she likes and somehow makes everything fit together.

"At one time, I used to be afraid of mixing patterns and colors," she said. "I like bright colors."

Margaret and Michael Miller have four children: Sarah, 24, Mark, 23, Simon, 20, and 14-year-old Miles. Margaret said she thinks the house, which is located on Buno Road in Kensington Park, was an ideal choice for their family.

"The house was built for a family with six children, so there is a lot of closet space," Margaret said. "It's a very practical house."

The home's furnishings reflect Margaret's personal taste.

Wooden floors covered with scattered antique area rugs, windows covered with the barest whisps of curtains and valances allow for maximum lighting and peaceful views in every direction.

Their five-bedroom, four-bathroom home has no particular theme, Miller said, adding that she chose items she thought would be comfortable. The antique furniture suited their lifestyle, she added.

"We always felt with antiques that they already had some scratches — so the boys couldn't do any damage to them," she said. "And they didn't."

Margaret said that she loves wood antique pieces and enjoys mixing different wood tones within a room. This preference is illustrated by looking through the various rooms in the Millers' home.

Margaret said that one of her favorite furnishings is an antique "grandfather" clock, an early 1800s British piece with a hand-painted face depicting historical figures representing the British Empire. It stands majestically in the stone-floored entryway next to the front door.

The "red room," which serves as a formal dining area and sitting room, features red walls and mixed wood pieces, including an 18th century linen press (a free-standing linen closet) which holds the Millers' musical items — a cassette and compact disc player, cassettes and CDs.

This locale also contains a fire screen — which Regency era ladies used to keep their wax makeup from melting and a bow-fronted chest. Both pieces date from the early 1800s.

Other "red room" pieces include a "nun's bed" — an unusual piece dating from the early 1800s. It looks like a sideboard — which is the use the Millers have for it — and it came from a Canadian convent.

The front of the nun's bed is

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

Cauliflower is without doubt the most difficult cole crop a beginning gardener can attempt. Even experienced gardeners think twice before planting it, and with good reason.

Cauliflower demands a lot of garden space for a relatively long period of time and doesn't always repay the attention.

Nevertheless, once you've tasted home-grown cauliflower, you'll never want to buy it at the market again!

The ideal time for planting cauliflower is in late July or August since spring-planted cauliflower runs a higher risk of failure as temperatures rise. Of course, in some places even as late as September or October is OK.

To figure out when to start fall seedlings, determine the first fall frost in your zone and the days to maturity for the type you're planting.

You'll find the number of days listed in the seed catalogs is from transplant to harvest.

Don't buy types that require more than 100 days to mature since there are newer, heat-resistant varieties available that mature in half that time — for instance, "Hybrid Snow King" and "Gurney's Stovepipe."

Rule of thumb: Proper soil preparation is important. Like other brassicas, cauliflower likes deeply tilled soil that's rich in nitrogen, so ample organic matter that's rich in nitrogen is absolutely necessary for developing large, tasty heads.

Otherwise, if the soil is poor, the head will be tasteless and somewhat stunted.

Give your plants plenty of moisture. If the roots don't have a constant supply of water available, they won't form proper heads.

Blanch the heads for a milder, whiter crop (covered to keep sunlight from the heads) or you'll have green, brown or yellow cauliflower heads to harvest.

I pull the larger, outer leaves up over the tops (when the heads are the size of teacups) and bind them together with rubber bands.

Blanching takes about one week, but sometimes two in

Repairing small screen holes without straining

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. Do you have any recommendations for repairing small holes in window screening? I hate to pay for new screens if there is a way I can do some patchwork repair on the screens we have at a vacation home, J.B.

A. Screening, rather than the frame, is usually the first part of a screen that has to be repaired.

Small holes can be repaired or patched but the screening should be replaced if there are rips or large holes.

Metal screening should be repaired with patches made of the same type of wire as the screen. These can be cut from scrap screening or purchased ready-cut in packages.

One method of attaching a patch is to bend the wires around the edges. Cut the patch so it is somewhat larger than the hole in the screen. Remove a few strands of cross wire on each side of the patch and bend the exposed strands (1/2 inch to 1 inch) upright, so they are perpendicular to the flat surface of the patch.

Place the patch over the hole and push the perpendicular tips through the mesh of the screening surrounding the hole. To hold in place, bend the tips back over the patch and trim them if they are too long. When the patch has weathered a little, it will tend to blend

Another method is to fasten the patch by weaving several strands of wire along the edges. The patch should be large enough to extend an inch or 2 beyond the hole on each side. With the patch flush over the hole, weave the strands through both the patch and the screening. The tighter the weave, the tighter the patch will be.

Plastic screening can be repaired by using plastic adhesive to attach a small piece of plastic mesh over the hole. If you have areas in the screening where the strands are not broken, but just pushed apart, use a sharp-pointed instrument to push them back into position. Once they are pushed back, apply a coat of shellac, varnish or clear nail polish to hold in position.

If you have galvanized-steel screening, a coat of screen paint will provide protection and keep them looking like new. Copper or bronze won't rust, but they will tarnish unless they are protected with a thin coat of exterior varnish.

Plastic, aluminum and fiberglass screening need little care other than vacuuming or washing when it becomes dirty.

New dictionary helps you decipher the real estate world's jargon

recently released, "Dictionary of Real Estate Terms—Third Edition," published by Barron's Educational Series.

"In the past few years, an array of new concepts and terms have become part of the real estate practitioner's language," Friedman said. "New ways of financing property and major changes in tax laws have contributed to the list. Even before these changes, real estate vocabulary was extensive and complicated. Now it can be even more confusing."

The new dictionary presents 2,000 definitions of terms and concepts related to real estate marketing and ownership. The terms span from subjects tied to financing and brokerage law to architecture and structures.

The first alphabetized term in the 389-page dictionary is AAATenant. Most people know that a business or person who leases an office building is a tenant. But what's an AAA-tenant?

The dictionary defines it as a tenant with an excellent credit record. They are usually major firms or organizations that are least likely to default on a lease.

Other entries in the new dictionary

include:

Fee Simple Title—Absolute ownership of real property. The owner (title holder) is entitled to the entire property with unconditional power of disposition during the owner's life.

Points—Fees paid to induce lenders to make a mortgage loan. Each point equals 1 percent of the loan principal.

Joint Tenancy—Ownership of realty by two or more persons, each of whom has an undivided interest with the right of survivorship. Typically used by related persons.

ARM—An Adjustable Rate Mortgage is a mortgage loan that allows the interest rate to be changed at specific intervals over the maturity of the loan.

APR—Annual Percentage Rate is the effective rate of interest for a loan per year, disclosure of which is required by the Truth-in-Lending law.

Escrow—An agreement between two or more parties providing that certain instruments or property be placed with a third party for safekeeping, pending the fulfillment or performance of a specified act or condition.

Walk-through inspection—An inspection of the premises by a buyer or tenant prior to closing or taking possession.

Some terms were considered by the authors but were not used in the final manuscript. Examples: easy qualifier loan, life care community, safe harbor. These may be included in the next edition, depending on their future common usage.

When organizing a large number of entries for a book, some that should be included will be missed, Friedman said. An example in the just-released dictionary is "tenant improvements." It was not included, but will be in the next edition, he said.

The new paperback "Dictionary of Real Estate Terms" sells for $10.95.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Try some of the self-blanching varieties, their leaves naturally curl over the head and do the job for you.

Harvest at the peak of perfection. Let the head grow to its maximum size and then cut it just before the stalks branch and separate and the florets turn ricey.

Try to harvest early, and remember, fall-planted cauliflower tastes best!

HEALTHY GARDEN

There is absolutely no cholesterol in any vegetable, fruit or grain. Dairy products like eggs, butter and cream are the sources; meat, too.

Eating less saturated fat can reduce cholesterol, the stuff that deposits plaque in your arteries and makes blood circulation more difficult. The results will astound you by cutting down on consumption of these foods.

Most garden foods are very low in salt, and many are low in calories. Herbs, for example, make a great salt substitute!

A vegetable and fruit garden can go a long way toward total diet needs. Therefore, the greater variety of vegetables that you plant, harvest and eat, so much the better!

Food grown in poor soils looks poor, and it doesn't taste so hot. And it doesn't begin to provide proper nutrition as do foods grown in rich organic soil, which provides them with all the minerals they need to thrive.

So keep your soil well fed for your sake, as well as nature's!

C.Z. Guest is a gardening authority whose work appears in House and Garden and author of numerous books and videos, including "5 Seasons of Gardening."

Finding and making a house with character

actually a hinged door which swung down at night when the nun was ready to sleep, Margret explained. During the day, the mattress and bedding were hidden in the yellow pine piece.

The black-lacquered Queen Anne style dining set, which has a handpainted Oriental motif, stands next to the nun's bed.

A light wood corner cupboard, an antique leather couch, a few comfortable chairs, some choice oil paintings on the walls, and a baby grand piano dating from the 1940s — also painted black — complete the room's setting.

The family room contains their television and VCR — also in an antique pine armchair — as well as comfortable pieces of furniture. A contemporary sectional sofa mingles comfortably with older pieces.

The master bedroom, which the Millers added to the house, has walls sporting terra cotta (reddish) paint. Decorative highlights of the room include a needlepoint piano bench in front of the mixed iron and brass Victorian bed, an American cherrywood armchair, and pine and mahogany chests made in England.

Margret recently had the kitchen redecorated. It features white washed maple cupboards, handpainted floral tile in the "black-splash" area on the kitchen walls and new white tiled floors.

The informal dining table, located next to the kitchen, is an English piece made of two types of wood — the tabletop is pine. Margret said she believes the pine are made of beech wood.

The informal dining area and the connecting "garden room" are the sites which display Margret's collection of pottery, including French Breton "Quimper" pottery and majolica, an English form of the Spanish mallorca pottery. Majolica pottery generally has bright colors and natural motifs.

The Millers also have a large collection of animalia — pieces of animal art — in various art materials, including canvas, wood, or ceramics.

In the backyard, Margret, who has completed a master gardener's course, recently planted an English cottage garden and a formal rose garden. The yard also features an extensive deck and a swimming pool.

Margret said that their family is a very international one. She is British. Sarah, Mark and Simon are Canadian citizens and Miles is an American citizen. Michael, who is a Canadian native, served in the Canadian navy and trained in England when they were first married.

Eventually, they went back to Canada. After 10 years in the navy (including naval college), Michael took up a career in environmental protection.

They moved to England 18 years ago and lived there for four years. When they moved from England for the second time, it was to the Millford area. Michael had received a promotion. They were only supposed to stay here for two years, then move on to Canada.

This did not stop the Millers from being very particular about where they lived. And their choosing of a home went right down to the wire. Margret, Michael, and the three eldest children moved to their Millford Township home 14 years ago — just ten days prior to Miles' birth.

She said that their choice for a home was a wonderful one. The house, which is lodged on three acres, backs up to innumerable acres of Kenington Metropark, was a terrific place to raise their family.

The Millers enjoyed the area and their new home so much that Michael found another job in Michigan so he wouldn't have to move again to Canada. He currently works for Envotech in Ypsilanti.

Margret and Michael consider America in general and this area in particular to be a wonderful place to live and raise children.

"It's different in England," she said. "Land is scarce ... We like living in America. I think it's the best country in the world."

The family home is quieter now that the Sarah and Mark have moved away from home altogether and Simon is attending college at University of Michigan Ann Arbor.

Miles is the only child still living at home on a regular basis.

"We had four horses at one time for the kids, four kids, one dog, and, at one point, five cats. Now we're down to one dog, one cat, and one kid," she laughed.

Twelve Oaks welcomes 9 newcomers

Nine new stores have opened at Twelve Oaks this spring — with more on the way — featuring everything from footwear to lingerie, from outfits for toddlers to casual fashions for men.

They are Jordan Marie, Gymboree, For You From Spiegel, Preci, Structure, Champs Sports, Scarlet Letters, Wentworth Galleries and Sun-glass Hut. Another shop, Cacique, is ready to open.

In addition, three existing shops have relocated and expanded in response to shopper demand: President Tuxedo, Bombay Company and D.O.C. Eyeworld.

"With these arrivals and expansions, Twelve Oaks is having an exciting spring," says Marketing Director Elaine Kah. "For our shoppers, it means a wider choice of the latest merchandise."

Jordan Marie features a large selection of colorful outfits for infants to toddlers up to size 6. Also available are christening gowns and blankets, as well as matching accessories like hats, shoes, socks and bibs.

Gymboree carries a wide choice of durable cotton activewear for children in sizes ranging from newborn to 6X. All items are easily mixed and matched to make new outfits. Accessories include sun hats, baseball caps, leggings and hair bows.

Stylish women's fashions in large sizes from 14 to 24 are available at For You From Spiegel. The shop carries styles for the office, weekends and an evening on the town. Accessories include jewelry, hats and scarves.

Preci features trendy footwear for women, including clogs, platforms and grunge-look shoes. Also available are a selection of such accessories as handbags, necklaces, earrings and belts.

Structure, a men's shop with a distinctive look, carries a European-inspired sportswear collection that includes blazers, trousers, polo shirts and jeans. A linen collection includes trousers, blazers and shirts.

Scarlet Letters features a wide array of gift items, including framed pictures, calligraphy prints and collectors dolls, as well as greeting cards and stationery.

Champs Sports carries a broad selection of athletic equipment, footwear and apparel. The store has racquets for all sports, golf clubs, baseball bats and gloves and workout equipment.

Wentworth Galleries sells fine art and art collectibles, including serigraphs and sculptures, by such artists as Erte, Thomas McKnight and Melanie Taylor Kent, as well as John Zaccaro, Maxwell Parsons, Yuan Zuo and Fanchi Ledan.

Sunglass Hut carries hundreds of sunglasses from mirror-lens styles to retro designs from the '50s. Top brand names include Ray-Ban, Oakley, Liz Claiborne, DKNY and Armani.

Opening soon is Cacique, a shop from the Limited family of stores with a complete assortment of stylish lingerie made of fine fabrics and available at reasonable prices.

Three existing stores at Twelve Oaks have moved and more than doubled in size. President Tuxedo, which sells and rents tuxedos, has added for-sale suits, sport jackets, slacks and dress shirts by Hugo Boss and Perry Ellis. New tuxedo brands include Hugo Boss, Tallia and Chaps/Ralph Lauren.

The Bombay Company, the home furnishing store, is increasing its selection of merchandise in every area, from tables and lamps to mirrors and accessories.

D.O.C. Eyewear is growing to 7,000 square feet and greatly expanding its selection of frames, adding names like Oliver Peoples, Jean-Paul Gaultier and Calvin Klein. A second optometrist is joining the staff.

Building Volume

Schonscheck Inc., local authorized Ceko builder in Wixom, was awarded the 1992 Annual $250,000 Volume Award and the 1992 Regional Best Building Merit Award at the Ceko Builder Meeting in Orlando, Fla., recently. At the meeting, Ceko builders from all over the U.S. and Canada met to review new products, discuss economic factors concerning the construction industry, and to hear nationally acclaimed speakers including Paul Harvey. Accepting the award above are Dick Hartigan (second from left) and Ian Schonscheck (third from left). At left is Midwestern Region general manager, and on the right is district sales manager Erwin Farmer.

KENNETH ZIEMANN

KAREN DELANEY

The Jervis B. Webb Co. has announced the selection of Karen Delaney as Quality Achiever of the month. She resides in Milford and has been employed by the company for eight years. She currently holds the position of senior technical writer/training coordinator.

Delaney has been a member of the Quality Education Committee since its inception in 1991. As a member of the QEC, she has been involved with the organization of the Quality Work Group Training classes and graduation ceremonies for the 600 employees at the Farmington Hills World Headquarters facility, the New Hudson manufacturing facility and the Mt. Vernon, Ohio, manufacturing facility.

Lane Longstreth, Delaney's supervisor, said, "Quality comes first as far as Karen is concerned. She never sacrifices quality for schedule or price. She believes high quality standards can be achieved within the time and budget requirements."

Also named as a quality achiever of the month is Kenneth Ziemann.

Ziemann resides in Garden City. He has been employed by the company for eight years and currently holds the position of fitter at Webb's New Hudson manufacturing facility.

The fitter's job is to assemble material according to the specifications of the engineering drawing in preparation for welding. Ziemann's selection as quality achiever is due to the extra effort that he puts forth to get the job done properly and on time.

Achievers are nominated by their peers and evaluated on the following criteria: conformance to requirements, problem solving and prevention, zero defects attitude, commitment to the Quality Improvement Process, cooperation and communication.

The Jervis B. Webb Co. is the world's leading designer, manufacturer and installer of custom material handling systems. With 34 operations worldwide, it supplies integrated material handling systems to a multitude of industries including aluminum, automotive, airline, transportation, warehousing, primary metals, chemicals, publishing and waste management.

One-Day Scrub Attack
Rejuvenates Cabinets

Maybe your kitchen cabinets don't need to be replaced. Maybe they just need a day at the spa. Kitchen Tune-Up® is a national franchise that revives worn cabinets. It's done in one day, and you don't even empty the drawers. First, workers scrub off the gunk with a surface cleaner. Then they rub in a wood stain. Next they touch up problem spots and treat the wood with KTU Oil. They also polish and clean your counter tops and align hinges and drawer slides.

Education deductions prove tricky

Understanding which educational expenses are deductible and which are not can be confusing. Generally, those expenses which are considered to be of a personal nature are not deductible. However, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says that as an employee or self-employed individual, there are educational deductions that are available to you.

To qualify for a deduction, education expenses must meet specific guidelines. The first is that the educational program must be required by your employer, or by law or regulation, to keep your salary, status or job. Plus, the program must be for a bona-fide business reason, not just to benefit you.

If the course is not actually required, it may still be deductible if it is needed to maintain or improve the skills you use in your present work. However, educational costs are not deductible if you need the education to meet the minimum education requirements to qualify you for your trade or business, or the education qualifies you for a new trade or business, whether or not you intend to enter that business.

In general, expenses related to correspondence courses, tutoring, formal training and even research and typing papers are deductible as long as they comply with the rules above. Deductible expenses include tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and other related items.

Certain transportation costs can also be considered deductible. Depending on the distance you travel to your class, you can claim either the one-way or round-trip cost of mass transportation or using your car.

If your educational program requires you to live away from home and the program meets the IRS's requirements, your transportation, meals and lodging costs are all deductible. The IRS will even allow you to deduct these expenses if you could have taken the course locally. However, you may not deduct expenses for personal activities such as sightseeing, entertaining or visiting. Keep in mind also that you cannot deduct the cost of travel that in and of itself is a form of education.

You may be able to further your education and reduce your taxes all at the same time. Just remember that educational expenses are considered part of your miscellaneous deductions and are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. CPAs add that good records and supporting evidence are essential to getting the maximum deduction.

To Anyone Who Has A Lung Disease This Is A Breathtaking View.

Climbing even a short flight of stairs can leave a person who suffers from a chronic lung disease fighting for breath.

An estimated one out of ten Americans suffers from chronic lung disease. And the mortality rate from lung diseases is increasing faster than any of the other top ten causes of death.

Until we do something about lung diseases, no one can breathe easy.

In a few short months, September to be precise, the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) will present its ninth annual House Tour. The 1993 Tour will take individuals into the homes of at least six Birmingham and Bloomfield residences, each featuring the design brilliance of area architects. This exceptional opportunity to closely scrutinize an array of styles, textures and the union of site and structure has made it one of the most popular tours of its kind in the United States.

Because the number of reservations is limited, B&P, Inc. suggests a call to AIA Detroit at (313) 965-4100 to reserve your space. Advance sale tickets are $15 per person for the Sunday, September 19 tour. Tickets will be available the day of the tour. Again, because of space limitations we urge you to purchase your tickets in advance. Proceeds benefit numerous types of educational activities including high school competitions, scholarships, career days, Speakers Bureau and tours of public buildings.

Come Back To Nature At Hickory Creek

"I travel the country looking at different marketplaces to come up with new ideas that we might bring to Michigan." Scott Jacobson, President S.R. Jacobson

PHOTOGRAPHY BY

We wanted to create a unit for someone moving out of a house but with an active lifestyle who would rather do other things on the weekend besides mow the lawn and play with the landscape." Scott Jacobson is talking about Hickory Creek, one of S.R. Jacobson's newest and most appealing developments. This community of detached condominiums in Northville Township relieves the homeowner of landscaping, yard care and snow removal, making it appealing to empty nesters as well as young professionals.

The ninth of Jacobson's 11 community developments in S.E. Michigan, Hickory Creek not only surrounds you with amenities, but also surrounds you with a visual feast as well. Hiking trails wind through 16 acres of wetlands and woods, inviting residents to shuck the trappings of civilization to enjoy birdsong and forests of pine and hardwood. There's even a sparkling trout pond that may attract a fishing pole or two.

Happily the great outdoors seems in concert with the sunlit, open interiors of Hickory Creek's 94 homes. And that's no accident, according to Scott Jacobson. "I travel the country looking at different marketplaces to come up with new ideas that we might bring to Michigan. These architects (Bloodgood and Associates) are out of Des Moines and we decided to do something different.

ahead of time and fed it to them, told them what we wanted in terms of square footage and let them go. We met with them at 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. every day, and in a week's time we developed this product."

"This product" has all the hallmarks of a Jacobson development—quality, elegance, great livability and plenty of options. In the 2,400-square-foot Ridgewood model, these hallmarks are immediately evident. The great room at the back of the house has a windowed wall and doorwall, spanned by a deck which overlooks a sweep of hardwood. The line between indoor greenery and outdoor forest seems to disappear when you stand at this huge wall of glass (the windows go all the way to the ceiling) and watch the changing moods of nature.

Inside, sunlight fills the room to the top of the 20-foot studio ceiling, playing across the tiled fireplace, flanked on either side by built-in glass shelving. The decorator for the model, Childs Dreyfus of Chicago, topped the shelving with elegant, fan shaped cornices. But, undoubtedly, the most interesting feature of this bright, airy room, one that draws the eye back down again, are the columns that stand like sentinels on either side of the entrance into the adjacent den. "People walk in and are pleasantly surprised by the concept," Jacobson says.

The columns frame the den, setting it off from the living room more elegantly, more invitingly, than any doorway. The columns, like the deck off the great room, are optional, but in the Ridgewood model their classic elegance harmonizes with the proportions of these rooms.

The den in this model acquired an additional 23 square feet of living space when Jacobson decided to bump it out two feet along the window wall, making the dimensions 11'4" x 13'1". This bonus was, according to sales manager Linda McCulloch, part of Jacobson's commitment to customer satisfaction. "Every time we have a new design the entire team (salespeople, construction workers, architects and Scott Jacobson) walks through at the stud stage to see if there is anything we can change to make it better."

It's not hard to see that the larger den is an improvement, roomy enough for entertaining beyond the traffic of the great room

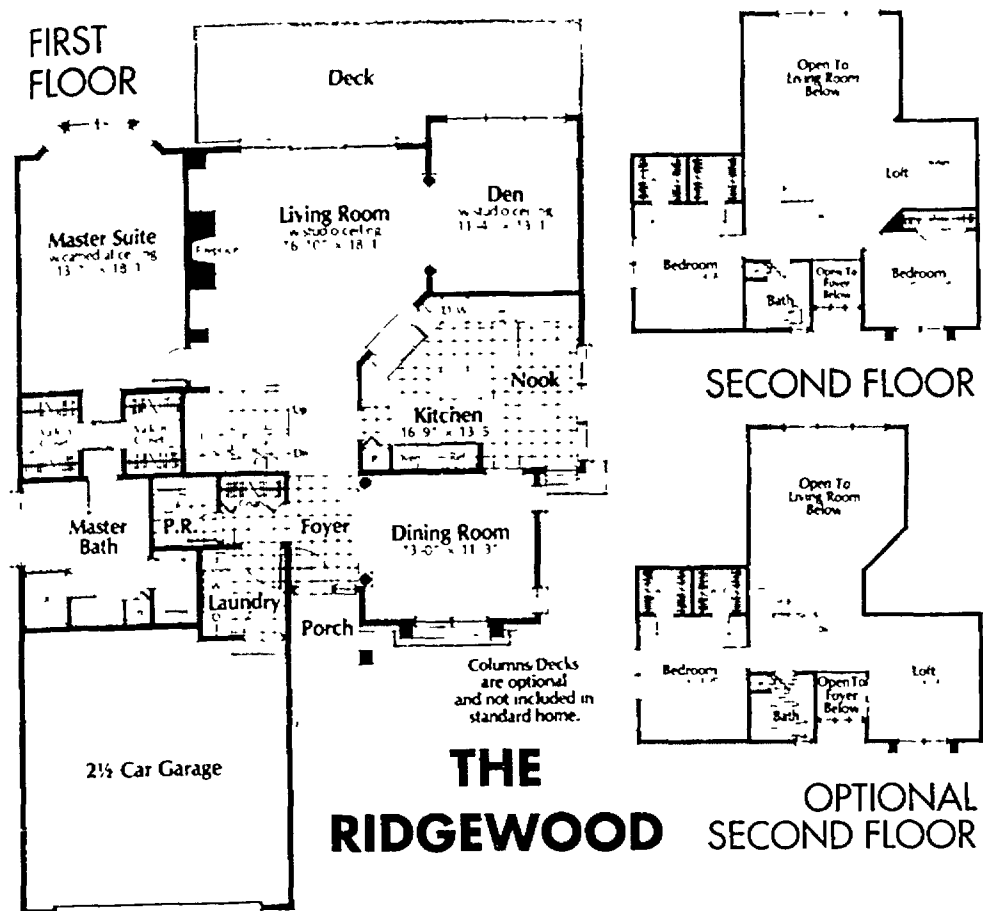

and certainly ample enough to serve as a dining room if, as McCulloch suggests, you want to exercise the option of having the dining room (which is the same size as the den) moved to the back of the house, converting the front-of-the-house dining room into a more secluded office. "This is an appealing option for people who need an office more than they need a den and who want to get away from the traffic flow," she adds.

As it is, the dining room is just to the right of the foyer when you enter, graced on either side by more columns, framing the room in classic simplicity. With white walls, white draperies and a glass and whitewashed dining room set, the eye is drawn to the splash of peach wall between the tall windows. Much of the decorating in these rooms is in its architectural charm.

small, glass topped table and four chairs. There is plenty of room in this sunny, checkered kitchen to eat lunch while watching the chef make a cherry pie at the formica-topped island in the center of the room. (All kitchens come with double ovens, cooktop, garbage disposal and dishwasher.) Perhaps the most appealing feature of the kitchen is the enormous pass-through into the great room, not only giving a view of the outdoors but also letting in all that light from the windows.

Adjacent to the great room on the fireplace wall is a large (13'1" x 18'1") master bedroom with cathedral ceiling, master bath, including stall shower and platform tub, and his and hers walk-in closets. In this room, the eye is drawn to a lovely pillow-lined bay window overlooking the woods—a perfect spot to curl up with an afghan and take a snooze.

Coming out of the master suite and following the oak bannistered stairway you will find two smaller bedrooms upstairs, sharing a bath, both with ample closet space. There is also a cozy loft with its own niche of shelves for books, plants or a small television. Away from downstairs activity, it's a good place to settle in with a snack and the TV Guide. Like the great room below, the loft has a vaulted ceiling which lets in a long shaft of sunshine from the skylight over the sofa.

Another feature of this model, McCulloch points out, is a huge, daylight basement, which could be turned into an apartment for an in-law suite or adult child. In response to clients who wanted the furnace moved from the living space, Scott Jacobson took on the challenge of redesigning the basement layout to move the four stanchions and the furnace to the sides of the room. "It was quite a logistical problem," McCulloch says, "moving all those pipes, meeting the codes, but we did it. Time after time, things will come up that customers want and Scott will think about it for awhile and then he'll say okay. His philosophy is underpromise and overdeliver. And that's what he does."

Hickory Creek is located off Beck Road just north of Six Mile in Northville Township. Prices start at $183,900 for the 1,722-square-foot design. The Ridgewood (with extended loft) is the largest (at 2,400 square feet) and most expensive ($215,900). For more information, call (313) 348-7878. ■

beige covers the walls of the foyer as well as the walls of the upper level hallway. A stately brass/glass light fixture suspended by a brass chain adds a touch of brilliance.

The foyer opens directly into the dining room, living room and den. Guests recognize immediately that they have entered a warm and inviting home. Sparkling white 12-inch tiles unite the floors of the foyer and the dining room to the right of the foyer. Black silk wall covering sets off the white wood trim and gives the dining room a dramatic look contrasting with the elegant sophistication of the foyer.

Tile was used in the foyer, dining room, kitchen and connecting areas because of its durability. The owners entertain at dinner parties at least once a week, and tile takes the wear better than carpeting, with the added advantage that it doesn't stain.

The west-facing window wall in the living room

To the left of the foyer, glass-paneled doors lead to the den, where the wood floors contrast with the white floor coverings that seamlessly unite the rest of the first floor.

The den, with its abundance of wood, was designed to be a cozy retreat. The wood flooring has the raw look of barnwood, an effect produced by raising the grain, and by alternating 3" strips with 2" strips for a random look. One wall is lined with built-in bookshelves that also house the television; remaining walls are wood-paneled. East-facing floor-to-ceiling windows diffuse soft natural light into the room.

The tiny first-floor powder room belies conventional notions that a small room can't accommodate large furnishings. A bombe' chest the width of the room encloses the oval marble sink. A gilt mirror hanging over the chest creates the illusion of space, while elaborate stone-finish wall sconces make a statement. Walls in the powder room are covered with black textured fabric painted to resemble antique tile.

A butler's pantry with a wet bar connects the kitchen to the living room, ensuring that host and hostess don't collide when one is preparing refreshments for guests while the other is cooking.

Recognizing that the kitchen is the most important, and busiest, room in the house, the owners wanted it to be spectacular and it is. Contemporary and French country merge effortlessly in two adjacent dining areas.

Spacious mullioned windows over the sink look out onto the river, and skylights in the two-story studio ceiling ensure abundant natural light. A small TV built into the sloping studio ceiling is invisible, except to those watching the morning news with breakfast. Appliances are stored in "garages" under the sink instead of cluttering the sink's countertop. Just roll up the door and the toaster and coffee maker are ready to use.

owner wanted guests to enter a gracious area no matter which direction they came from. So, a leaded glass side door was added to the house, facing east, as does the front door. The roomy white-tiled foyer can accommodate six people handily, and a short stairway leads guests into the kitchen. Guests for large parties continue through the kitchen and down a short flight of stairs to the entertainment room on the lower level. A large walk-in closet in the foyer provides guests and the family ample room to store their coats.

A wing of the home's first floor is devoted to the master suite. The master bath features a step-up bathtub beneath a bay window. Commode and shower are in a separate area. A model of simplicity, the room is white and cream with brass accents. The large bedroom, dominated by a lace-bedded, king-size sleigh bed, is the epitome of glamour, but it was also meticulously planned for morning traffic control. His-and-hers closets and vanities create separate traffic areas designed to allow a two-career couple to get going in the morning without their paths crossing.

Three bedrooms, each with a walk-in closet, a bathroom and linen closet, occupy the home's second floor.

On the lower level, the spacious entertainment area easily accommodates the large parties that the owners enjoy several times a year. A window wall overlooks the river, and the covered terrace is convenient for barbecuing. Behind the elegant bar with faux pewter stools there are complete cooking facilities. A working fireplace contributes to the room's friendly aura. A full bath is located between the entertainment room and the space dominated by a hot tub. This space has two walls of sliding glass doors, for easy access in and out of the entertainment area.

The exercise room just off the entertainment room also provides space for billiard and ping-pong tables. Laundry room and mechanical space are also on the lower level.

This is a comfortable house, with warmth and character. Its functional aspects make it possible for a busy family to enjoy their home and to share it with their many friends. ■

The restorative powers of the bath have been known since the beginning of time.

THE BATH AND BEYOND

by Katie Elsilá

Classic Baths demonstrates the elegance achieved through Kohler's great design.

The restorative powers of the bath have been known since the beginning of time. But, if you haven't planned a new home recently, you are in for surprise.

"Today's homeowners have an exciting array of choices, including new materials, new products and new technologies, available to them," says Mary Ellen Vigna, manager of Classic Baths in Birmingham. "You can enjoy sumptuous showering pleasure with body sprays and steam systems, conserve water with the most advanced low-consumption toilets and accommodate elderly family members with walk-in whirlpool baths."

Like kitchen projects, a bathroom needs to be approached with careful planning, accurate measurements and a firm grasp of the possibilities inherent in today's products, colors, applications and materials. And, it's well worth the time to consult experts and visit their showrooms. (Readers note: The designers featured in our kitchen story in this issue also design bathrooms.)

"We have brochures and catalogs," explains Vigna, "but it's important to see the real thing, to touch the products and even try them out for size and comfort."

Amica Internazionale Ltd.

Bathroom designers agree with Vigna who says, "Often, customers tell me how happy they are that they didn't compromise on the things they use frequently, like faucets. As with a piece of fine jewelry, if the faucets look and feel good to the touch, the sense of satisfaction you derive each time you use them makes them worth the extra money you may spend."

As in kitchens, many new bathrooms are incorporating natural stone materials. But, even classics like marble go through cycles of popularity. "Today the strong, dominant colors increasingly are selected," says Garrett Van Horn of Amica Internazionale Ltd., Importers and Distributors of Fine Marble and Granite. "Rosso Levanto, dark purple with white and green veins, and Rojo Alacante, a deep reddish color and burnt orange with strong white veins, are being requested, as is Breccia Oniciata, a mixed coloration of pinks, browns, beiges and peaches."

"Stone not only is a premium material, it has become more economical," says Van Horn. "Today marble and granite prices are very competitive with ceramic and other man-made materials. Customers like the fact that we can now seal marble to resist any spots or stains. Also, they appreciate that marble has the ability to be refinished, if necessary."

According to Tim Holton, vice president of Royal Oak Kitchens and Baths, today's new or updated bathrooms are likely to feature separate showers and bathtubs for versatility and a sense of luxury. And, although not an overwhelming trend, Holton says bidets are increasingly requested by clients.

The popularity of master bathrooms with his-and-hers vanities continues, says Holton, who says that, as with kitchens, clients want rooms that function efficiently at the same time they make a design statement. ■

Our designers can look back in time to the traditional elegance of England and create a kitchen using fine woods with hand rubbed finishes and patinas.

They can look to the future and fashion a dramatic, bold new look carved from clean crisp lines using high gloss polyesters and the latest European technology.

The choice is yours.

Kitchen Is You

Whether you can visualize your dream kitchen down to the smallest detail or you haven't the vaguest idea of what you'd like, a professional kitchen designer can work with you to help create a kitchen that reflects your personality, needs and lifestyle.

Up to date on the overwhelming number of options available in the marketplace, and armed with knowledge and experience, the kitchen designer becomes your guide and partner in selecting the cabinets, countertops, appliances, floorings, fixtures, architectural details, cabinets and colors.

Following are examples of how six talented kitchen designers translated their clients' varying needs and desires into kitchens that look great and function beautifully.

KITCHENS PLUS, of Livonia, created this commercial-caliber kitchen for an entrepreneurial bachelor who entertains frequently. "The challenge was to provide the functional, commercial quality the client was accustomed to in his lifestyle and, at the same time, provide a well-designed, appealing area appropriate for entertaining in a residential setting," said designers Gary and Carmen Hancock, owners of Kitchens Plus. The designers achieved their goal in a combination of well-executed choices.

A striking range hood of stainless steel mounts over the two-grate range, which also features a built-in griddle and grill and a convection oven. Black laminate cabinetry with cathedral grain finish is highlighted with brushed aluminum interiors to echo the stainless steel range. Two undermounted stainless steel sinks and built-in refrigeration system all add to the kitchen's sleek, professional look. The raised snack bar curves around the preparation island, which includes a commercial-quality icemaker especially designed to produce crystal-clear ice cubes.

FUTURISTIC FURNISHINGS, INC., of Royal Oak, shows its versatility in this classical kitchen designed by Michael Moore for a Birmingham client who wanted a timeless look. The custom cabinetry, manufactured on site at Futuristic Furnishings, features traditional raised panel doors, crown molding and glass mullion doors. These classical design elements received a modern spin when painted white with a clear polyester coating.

"Often customers know the look that they want, but aren't sure how to achieve it," says Moore. "One customer brought in a number of magazine photos of kitchens she liked. We helped her identify the elements all the photos had in common: wood floors, wine racks, crown molding, ceramic backsplash, traditional cook top areas. Then we designed a kitchen that incorporated many of these elements and added other features as well to create an environment that was a satisfying expression of her tastes and needs. Our computer system really helped. She was able to view her proposed kitchen on the screen, see exactly what it would look like and consider alternatives before making her final decisions."

DESIGNS UNLIMITED,
West Bloomfield, introduced silver Vitricor cabinetry with black lacquer radius trim
and granite countertops to create a polished, streamlined kitchen for a client
who wanted a "functional, gorgeous area that also could serve as a focal point

for casual parties, since the swimming pool is located off the dining room."

Designer Janice Morse suggested Vitricor because it has a reflective quality not found in any other product, is contemporary and easy to maintain. A number of features in the kitchen are hidden from view, including double grills recessed under granite panels in the island, a wine cooler and an ice maker.

In general, Morse reports an increase in group participation in the kitchen. "One client requested that the silverware drawer be placed on a level where her 7-year-old could reach it because it was his job to set the table. Another family with teenagers and young adults wanted a separate preparation area for them with a microwave and its cooking utensils."

Kitchen Studio of

Birmingham transformed the existing kitchen of a beautiful historical home
in Orchard Lake into a brighter, more efficient work area. The kitchen, originally the barn, was added to the main house some time ago. Designer Franco Nonahal says, "I added a large bay window to the dining area to bring in more light and gave the client a perfect view of their gorgeous back yard. I repositioned the island so she can enjoy the view while she cooks, instead of facing the wall." The dark walls were stripped and painted, while white cabinetry with butcher block countertops were added to help lighten the space. The granite inset near the Viking cooktop provides a landing area for hot pots and pans.
The ceiling beams and window trimmings were left in their original color as an accent. Terra
floor color.

Besides the kitchen and dining area, a laundry room was also part of the reconfiguration.
Although Kitchen Studio also designs contemporary and traditional style kitchens, the staff really enjoyed working on this historic home. "It was a real challenge to update this kitchen while at the same time retaining its historical integrity,"
says Nonahal. continued on page 23

Madison Design Group shows its individualized approach to clients with two strikingly different kitchens

Designer Gary Fried achieved this "residential high-tech" kitchen for a client who wanted contemporary style. Rich, deep navy and black gloss colors complement the stainless steel countertops and built-in appliances (not shown here), while the herringbone oak floor adds warmth. Two flush-mounted television screens, one in the work area and another in the buffet area underscore that—more than for just food preparation—this beautiful kitchen is a center for gathering and entertaining.

Madison Design Group's Gary Fried calls this kitchen's style "Manhattan Country." Designed by Fried and Pam Bytner, the kitchen is reminiscent of country, but in a fresh, urban setting. The client wanted the kitchen furnishings to look like furniture, so even the island seems like a table. This effect was enhanced by having its legs made in oversized proportions. "This client has a great eye and very much knew the look she wanted. All we had to do was help her achieve it," says Fried. (continued on page 25)

Dan House, CKD, of EW Kitchen Distributors, was asked by a client for a kitchen that was "traditional, but not formal—one that would be warm and inviting and operate efficiently for a family of six, but also function as a comfortable place for entertaining." By selecting stock cabinetry, and incorporating details usually associated with more costly products, House achieved a custom look in the kitchen and the butler's pantry and wet bar areas. Such details include: crown molding and raised panel ends on cabinets, baffles to conceal halogen lights under cabinets, solid brass hardware and oak edge treatments to formica countertops. "Excellent quality and an ever-increasing variety of styles in cabinetry are now available in the medium price range," says House. "This fact gives homeowners and designers of kitchens an ability to distribute their dollars differently than they could even five years ago." ■

Today's glass block goes far beyond the basic glass square. Diamonds, grids and basket-weaves are just some of the patterns available. Hexagonal corner block can make 90-degree corners, and another uniquely shaped block allows the creation of angles from 45 degrees up to a full circle. The imagination soars when considering all the effects that can be achieved with creative combinations of these materials.

Kitchens, bathrooms, bedrooms and halls; stairways, patios, poolside and more, the possibilities are endless for the use of glass block in and outside the home. These days, more and more, architects and homeowners opt for glass block as a creative design element.

"Beautiful bathrooms are being designed now featuring glass block showers," says Paul Forte, vice president of 43-year-old Glass Block Sales, Inc. in Warren. "I think there are three reasons: They allow in maximum light while still providing privacy; because they can be installed with curves or angles, they offer more design possibilities than tempered glass; they are a lot less expensive than tempered glass. A homeowner can enjoy a floor-to-ceiling area of glass block at significant savings over tempered glass.

"Bathrooms are just one room using more glass block today. With the variety of blocks and sizes, it is easy to create unique and attractive designs in all areas of the home." Mr. Forte cites these innovative examples:

- alternating rows of squares and rectangles on an under-the-stairs wall to transform a once dark spot
- curving a two-story panel to enhance a circular stairwell
- punctuating a kitchen cooking island with several strategically-placed blocks
- accentuating a dining area with a serpentine curved wall of glass block

With their versatility, pleasing appearance and practicality (they are energy efficient and offer maximum security), it is easy to see why glass block is increasingly specified by architects and homeowners in the designs for new homes or in the updating of existing structures. ■

Developer sought for township land

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Wayne County officials are proceeding with more caution this time in their search for a developer for the former training school site in Northville Township.

"I think we have not been interested in plunging ahead kind of rilly willy with this thing," said Bill Wild, the county's director of Business Development Center.

Wild said a team of county officials is still reviewing six new bids received in April for the development of the 695-acre parcel that lies between Five and Six Mile, bisected by Sheldon Road.

The county official said the selection team sought two different kinds of proposals in its March 8 request for proposals (RFP). Four months ago, the county asked developers to respond if they were interested in either developing the land as a single project or if they wanted to act as construction managers on behalf of the county, which would become the developer.

Of the six responses that made the April 16 RFP deadline, Wild said only two developers offered to tackle the entire parcel as a single mixed-use development. The other four, he said, agreed to act as construction managers.

Plymouth developer Robert DeMattia was the only one to respond to both RFPs, Wild said. DeMattia's response was no surprise to county officials, even though his last proposed endeavor for the site, Huntington Falls, was foiled last year due to lack of financing.

From the looks of the RFPs, the county hopes to proceed with the plan to develop the site as a single planned unit development (PUD) as outlined in the township's master plan and in the RFP. Wild says even though developers in the past have had problems raising money to develop the entire 695 acres, he still thinks it's a viable option.

"It's possible," he said hesitantly. The RFP asked developers to respond with "a high-quality mixed use development." Using the PUD option in the township's zoning ordinance, the county sought projects that proffered a minimum of 200-300 acres of single family residential; 20-100 acres of multi-family residential; 200-300 acres of research and development and 10-400 acres of office and business.

City considers strategy to sell bonds to voters

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Downtown Development Authority members huddled Wednesday morning to plan a strategy for selling their Mainstreet '93 plan to city voters.

The strategy, to be hammered out in more detail with the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, will include face-to-face meetings with downtown merchants and landlords as well as an informational forum for all city voters.

The DDA and chamber have divided up the task of selling the DDA's $4.2 million plan to replace the Cady Street deck, build a tabletop deck south of Main Centre and pave a large lot along East Cady. While DDA members agreed to buttonhole merchants, the chamber will focus its attention on the larger community.

Their common goal is to win approval of the Mainstreet '93 plan by city voters at a special July 27 election. What voters will be asked to do is back the $3.5 million in bonds to finance much of the deck project.

A voter-approved project should cost the city less in interest payments over the 11-year life of the funding plan since investors are more likely to grant it a favorable interest rate. No millage increase is involved since the project will be funded through tax capturing, parking credits and special assessments on downtown property owners. But if the plan's financial projections fall short of covering bond payments, the city will be required to cover the difference through any means necessary including a millage increase.

City Manager Gary Word noted

School officials make suggestions for tax revisions

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville School District officials admittedly are having some trouble following the school finance reform ball that is being bounced around by lawmakers and would like to have some game time of their own.

So, the Wayne County Association of School Administrators (WCASA) called a time out and came up with its own list of rules it hopes the Legislature will play by.

"Four months ago we (the WCASA) testified as a group," Supt. Leonard Reznierski told board members at Monday night's Northville Board of Education meeting. "We identified seven areas and came up with an educational priority issue paper."

The group maintains the following principles:

- No mandate from the Legislature for local school district action without full state funding should be enacted.
- Tax relief to the taxpayers of the state must be accompanied by full reimbursement to local school district budgets.
- A commitment by the Legislature to school finance and tax policy which provides stability and predictability and fosters rational financial planning by local school districts

City vows to work with firm eyeing Ford Plant

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city and the company may disagree on the details, but Northville City Council members made clear Wednesday they will work closely with R & D Enterprises in the firm's attempt to purchase and occupy the vacant Ford Valve Plant.

Judging from comments received from audience members at Wednesday's special study session, many local residents would welcome the new neighbor and new city taxpayer.

R & D Enterprises, now located at 19430 Gerald Ave., is a fast-growing firm that manufactures heat exchangers for the marine industry. The firm has been negotiating with the Ford Motor Co. for months to buy the plant at 235 E. Main and move out of its current cramped facility.

As R & D President Richard D. Cox told the council Wednesday, "We are busting at the seams. We have contracts that will not allow us to stay there past November."

The 28-member firm would bring with it Acorn Stamping Inc., a 10-member stamping operation now located in Rochester.

To make the move, though, R & D wants the city to grant it a tax abatement and buy 2.4 acres of land now used as a parking lot across Griswold from the plant. The city would be given the four acres west of Griswold known as Ford Field and an additional four acres north and east of the plant itself, including the Middle Rouge River waterway and the duck feeding area downstream from the plant's waterwheel.

"We want to retain just enough parking area and whatnot to run the plant," Cox said.

While R & D's initial offer to Ford was based on the city's purchase of the 2.4 acres west of Griswold for $350,000, City Manager Gary Word recommended that the price be limited to $200,000 and said the city should seek an option on the property rather than buy it outright.

Word noted that the land could be used for additional recreational space or a library site, and said if the property is used for recreational space, the city could apply for state Department of Natural Resources grants to fund much of the purchase price.

But Parks and Recreation Director Traci Johnson said after the meeting that such grants could not be used to fund property acquisition after it has been purchased.

Also unresolved is the issue of a tax abatement, which could be granted for up to 12 years at a rate of 50 percent. Word said the city would seek a shorter abatement, if any.

Word raised concerns about the dam east of the plant, and said he wanted assurances from Ford that the dam was in good condition.

"The city should not accept a dam that's in poor condition," he said.

Executive Ray Scheich, who works for Ford's property disposition department, said the automotive company had agreed to fund a study of the dam's condition. He said the two-week study should begin sometime in July.

City resident Harry Podnar attacked Cox, after asking how much he pays his employees on average.

"You're going to bring 40 jobs here at $9 an hour. Big deal. And you're asking for a tax abatement for up to 12 years?"

But Podnar's view was the minority one Wednesday night, as several residents came forward and urged the council to make the proposal a reality.

"I was tickled to death when I read the paper last week and found out there was a potential buyer," said Sam Kunst. "I believe there are probably some compromises in order, but I'm hoping the thing can come to fruition."

School chief defends against claims made in CBN pamphlet

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

As Northville schools Supt. Leonard Reznierski says, "everyone has a right to criticize and they usually do."

But the superintendent took exception to some recent criticism handed out by Citizens for a Better Northville (CBN) in the form of a pamphlet distributed the day before and the day of the June 14 millage election.

"I'm afraid it leaves the wrong impression," he said at last Monday night's board of education meeting. "I'm afraid it was deliberately done to cast doubt in everyone's mind the day before the election. It was grossly unfair — we had no chance to (respond) to any of it."

Bob Bernard, a member of CBN, said the pamphlet was only a rebuttal to statements made by the school district just a few weeks before the election. He added that in some areas of the city, CBN members were only allowed to hand out pamphlets on election day "so it wouldn't have mattered if we had them printed two weeks before."

Bernard said close to 7,000 pamphlets were handed out and that the group has followed the same practice during election time for several years.

Responding to Reznierski's statements, Bernard would only say, "that's as unfair as handing out (millage) information to school kids to take home to their parents."

Reznierski refuted the following statements published in the CBN pamphlet:

Officials vow cooperation with potential buyers

David Jerome, president of the Junior Baseball Board, disagreed with Cox's assertion that two ball diamonds could be placed on the current Ford Field but he noted that recreation groups would be much more likely to make improvements at the field if it was turned over to the city.

"Having a facility like this in downtown Northville would certainly be an asset," he said. "There's a great deal of land being given to the city."

Greg Presley, who reviewed potential plant reuses as a member of last year's Ford Plant Study Committee, noted that R & D's proposal met many of the city's guidelines. Though the committee hoped for a community reuse, he said, a light industrial user like R & D was not far down on the list.

"It is pleasant to find much of the land, if not the building, made available to the public," he said.

Fellow former committee member Steve Fecht noted that the committee did have concerns about the plant's reuse by a manufacturing plant because of the potential for increased noise and traffic.

"Our facility is not a big noise generator," Cox responded, though he said a stamping operation like Acorn would not be silent.

"That's a liability I know I have to address in a downtown area," he said, adding that proper floor design and engineering could cut the noise. He added that Ford's operations at the plant had included metal stamping, and said the head of a nearby resident's association could recall no complaints about Ford's stamping operation.

In response to a resident's query about air quality at the plant, Cox said the operation uses blowtorches that burn propane and oxygen, which combine to give off carbon dioxide. Another resident asked about the plant's shift schedule, and Cox noted that R & D runs two shifts.

"It will be a bit of a disruption at shift change," he conceded.

Questions about potential environmental hazards at the plant drew a response from Scheich, who noted that Ford is working with Michigan Department of Natural Resource officials over oil seeping into the waterway from the other side of the river.

Studies by Ford indicate that the oil is most likely from abandoned oil reclamation lagoons located across the railroad tracks on property now owned by General Oil, since its composition is different from the oils used by Ford at its plant.

He said the DNR is working with General Oil officials to dig a containment trench on the far side of the waterway to divert the oil before it enters the Rouge.

"We have the MDNR's opinion that we as property owners are not responsible (for the pollution), and they are working with the responsible party," he said.

R & D would add a new 51-space parking lot north of the plant, to complement the 18 spaces it would maintain along Main Street. Cox noted that the spaces would more than satisfy the city's parking requirements since the firms would only be using the upper floor of the plant.

But Council Member Paul Follino noted that the firms likely would need more spaces in the future if they continue to expand.

"Even though you meet code, you're going to run short of parking spaces," he said. "Then what?"

Cox said an additional 15-16 spaces could be added north of the plant, in an area slated to house a company basketball court.

"The basketball court would be used after hours, hopefully," he said.

Follino also expressed concern about city acquisition of the waterway. "There is a liability to the city taking that on because of the water," he said.

Scheich noted that Ford has shouldered that liability for years.

Mayor Chris Johnson asked for information on the tax revenue that would result from any tax abatement after Finance Officer Mark Christiansen noted that the empty property now generates $36,000 in annual tax revenue, $9,800 of which goes into city coffers.

Johnson added that any tax abatement should be accompanied by an agreement from R & D that the firm would remain in the plant for a substantial period of time, to avoid a situation like General Motors' pull-out from its Willow Run plant in Ypsilanti.

DDA thinks of ways to approach city electorate that he had asked chamber board vice president Ann Willis and "cunningham-at-large" Bill Sliger, a former DDA member involved in the passage of Mainstreet '78, to brief the DDA on marketing efforts for the new Mainstreet project.

Willis told the DDA that since most of the city's formal public hearings on Mainstreet '93 are complete, "now we're concentrating on the vote."

She noted that the vote itself differs from elections for items like school millages that impact the voters directly in increased taxes and added that a "no" vote will not necessarily mean the end of the project, since the city's need for assured parking and its obligation to Singh Development will not go away.

"It's a little different than saying 'I don't want a parking decks.' That's not the nature of the vote," she said.

City officials are revising their marketing strategy after a surprisingly low turnout at a June 28 public hearing on the plan. The council had scheduled an overflow meeting for the next night in case the hearing went late, but approved the plan in an hour June 28 after receiving only a handful of comments and critiques.

Willis said that may be a sign that the city has already answered much of the criticism of its original deck plan by shaving $2 million off its cost and reducing its impact on tax revenue to Northville Public Schools.

Sliger noted that Mainstreet '78 failed the first time it went to a vote, mostly because the city not have the support of downtown merchants. The merchants were opposed to the city's plan to make Main Street one-way, and only after the plan was revised to keep two-way traffic on Main Street was it passed by the voters.

The latest criticism of Mainstreet '93 came from within the authority rather than without, when DDA Member Jim Long criticized the $700,000 already spent on land acquisition and design work for previous deck plans.

"That's a lot of money spent for no buildings at this point," Long said.

Long also asked whether the city had sought bids before deciding to refer engineering of the latest deck project to its parking consultants, Rich & Associates of Southfield. DDA Member Greg Presley noted that the city could save money by sticking with Rich & Associates, which had done the design work on previous deck projects, since the projects had common elements.

Presley asked whether the authority could be involved in letting the contract for the actual construction, or at least reviewing it.

"It seems to me that if we're going to be involved in the bricks and mortar, we should be involved in the contracting, too," he said.

Word noted that the deck plan is ultimately a city project rather than a DDA project, but agreed to let Presley and Long review the contract.

BIBLE SCHOOL: St. Paul's Lutheran Church will hold its Vacation Bible School July 12-16 from 9-11:45 a.m. The school is for children 3 years old through the sixth grade. The theme for the week is "The Greatest Treasure Hunt." For information, call 349-3140.

HEALTH CLINIC: St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will offer a breast and skin clinic on Wednesday, July 7. A physician will perform a complete breast examination and provide instructions on self-examination. Skin cancer checks for both men and women also will be offered. The cost is $10 and registration is required. Call 591-2922.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school age readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-Me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

CITY RECYCLING CENTER HOURS: The city council recently voted to reduce business hours at the Northville City recycling center, located inside the Department of Public Works yard at 650 Doherty Drive. The recycling center will no longer be open Wednesdays between 3-7 p.m. Weekend hours will be cut from every Saturday to the first and third Saturdays of each month, between 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

The move is due to reduced use of the center since the city initiated curbside collection of recyclable materials, and is intended to reduce the need for overtime by DPW workers. Since curbside recycling started last February, average use of the center has dropped to 35 cars on Wednesdays and 55 cars on Saturdays.

The center is available to City of Northville residents only, and identification is checked at the gate.

The center accepts clear, green and brown glass, plastic types 1 and 2, tin cans, household and car batteries, paint, used motor oil and antifreeze, compost material, scrap metal, and newspapers. Liquids should be in sealed, clearly labeled containers. Newspapers should be stacked in brown paper bags or tied into bundles. Telephone books, magazines and road maps are not accepted.

For more information, call DPW spokesperson Becky Dozier at 349-3271.

In addition to the 695 acres, Wild said the county is still toying with the idea of owning a golf course on the site. The 18-hole course would sprawl across 200 acres and be designed to complement the surrounding development. Wild was hesitant in discussing details of the golf course option, but did say he believed it would be a part of any future development.

"In all likelihood, yes, we are still considering that," he said.

Wayne County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter said last week there was little news from the county's selection committee charged with sifting through bids. He said he believes members of the committee are taking their time this time around because too many other projects earmarked for that land have fallen through in years past.

The 10th District Commissioner said members of the 15-member county board have been omitted from the committee in the hope of achieving impartiality.

"All of the commissioners and I are out of the selection process," McCotter said. "And that's really fine with me because I want to have a fresh look at the project when it comes for approval."

Wild said he wasn't sure when the committee would be making a recommendation on a new developer.

"I keep saying it will be in two weeks and then for one reason or another something else comes up," he said. "But we will make it as soon as we can."

Feud between tenants, landlord is defused

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Fairbrook Apartments tenants' feud appears to be dying down after recent action by the apartment owner to address their concerns.

Tenants at the 32-unit complex at 525 Fairbrook had formed their own association in May after a series of complaints about their building's condition had gone unanswered. They threatened to place their rent in an escrow account until a list of demands, including window, roof and parking lot repairs, were met.

Since then, workers have been painting halls, replacing appliances and repairing the roof at the 28-year-old complex.

Other promised improvements include repaving the parking lot and dressing up the front entrance and dumpster area.

Fairbrook Apartments owner Paul Johnson sent letters to the tenants June 28 asking them for their patience as the renovations continue. Some residents had questioned why workers were refurbishing the complex's vacant apartments before their own.

"Obviously, it is easier and quicker to do the work first in the vacant units, because of the ease of access, scheduling, etc.," Johnson wrote. "We will get to you . . . We will eventually get to each apartment to do whatever work is necessary."

Johnson's letter did not specify the problems that led to the apartment building's rundown condition, but he said the problems have been addressed.

" . . . I am sorry for any inconvenience that you may have been caused in the past," he wrote. "I will not go into our problems or the details at this point, except to say that it never should have happened; and we assure you that we have taken steps to see that it does not happen again."

"As some of you know, for many years Fairbrook was a first-class property; and although it is now over 25 years old, we fully expect to maintain the buildings and grounds in such a way as to make you proud to be a resident and to attract new quality residents as your neighbors."

To help attract those new residents, Johnson offered existing tenants a $300 bounty for referrals that sign leases at Fairbrook.

The firm has hired a new resident management team, Joseph and Cheryl DeMea. The two have prior experience managing and owning properties, according to Johnson.

Northville City Building Official Joe Attard said Friday that he has not reinspected the complex since a May inspection turned up 26 building and electrical code violations including loose and broken windows, unpainted common areas, missing stairway carpeting, roof leaks and uncharged fire extinguishers. The building owners were given 30 days to correct the violations, which which were listed in a May 20 letter from Attard.

Attard noted that the roof has been repaired and the fire extinguishers serviced. He intends to reinspect the complex sometime this week.

Man arrested for allegedly striking girlfriend

Township police arrested a Northville man on Thursday, July 1, for the assault and battery of his live-in girlfriend.

Police Lt. Gary Batzloff said the department was called to the couple's Northville home near Marilyn. At the home, police found the woman had suffered minor facial injuries after being slapped in the face by the man during an argument. Police say the man also reportedly punched her in the ribs. She was treated for the minor injuries.

Batzloff said the couple began arguing after dining at the Ground Round at I-275 and Six Mile Road. Police took the man into custody and held him pending his arraignment Friday afternoon.

HARASSMENT: A Highland Lakes resident called township police Thursday to say he had been harassed and threatened, and he had reason to believe his life was in danger because of it. The handcuffed man in his 30s told police last week he feared for his life because the person behind the threats said he was flying into Detroit later that afternoon.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A 30-year-old Swan Harbor resident reported his 1991 Ford Taurus was broken into on Thursday, July 1. The man said someone had smashed in the front passenger side window and taken a cellular phone in a black leather case; a leather jacket; leather gloves; and a leather briefcase. Police estimate the missing items at $915.

An investigation at the scene turned up paperwork taken from the briefcase in a trash dumpster approximately 100 feet from the car. Police have no leads.

INJURED COYOTE: Police responded to a citizen's complaint June 30 that a coyote had been hit by a car near Five Mile and Beck Road. The animal reportedly dragged himself back into the wooded area before the citizen contacted a local veterinarian who cares for wild animals. The veterinarian arrived at the scene shortly afterwards and took the animal under her care.

LAWN MOWER SENDS ROCK THROUGH WINDOW: A 25-year-old Northville Place resident said the driver's side window of his 1990 Pontiac Grand Prix was shattered by a rock thrown from a lawn mower. Police said the rock caused about $250 worth of damage to the car, but they ruled out breaking and entering because nothing was taken from the vehicle.

BURGLARY AND FORCED ENTRY: A Northville couple living on Beck Road reported $300 in cash was taken from their home on Wednesday, June 30. Someone entered the home through an open window in the master bedroom sometime between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. The cash was taken from a purse that was lying on a closet shelf.

FOUND PROPERTY: A 68-year-old Whitehaven resident said she found a stop sign in her backyard on Sunday June 13. Township police went to the resident's home and confiscated the street sign.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY: The owner of Highland Lakes Shopping Center reported Wednesday, June 30 that someone had thrown a rock through a neon sign in one of the vacant store fronts in the strip mall. The sign which used to illuminate the Century 21 office front was not working properly when the owner noticed it had been on the blink. Police also said the center owner reported that a man hole had been lifted off and thrown into a sewer drain in his center parking lot. The glass panel of a Detroit Edison electric meter was also smashed at the center. The owner estimated the damage totaled $400. Police have no suspects or witnesses.

WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested an 18-year-old Westland man on an outstanding city warrant June 20 after stopping him at the Cady Street parking deck at 6:35 p.m. The man was wanted on an outstanding expired license plate charge. He was released after posting a $100 bond.

DRUNKEN DRIVER ARRESTED ON BIRTHDAY: City police arrested a 36-year-old Livonia man for driving under the influence at 1 a.m. July 1, his birthday. The man was seen driving slowly west on Eight Mile to Center Street, where he stopped for several seconds at a flashing yellow light before turning north on Center. He was pulled over after he rolled through a stop sign at Center and Ely.

The man was arrested after failing field sobriety tests, and his blood-alcohol level was measured at .13 percent. He was held until he sobered up and posted a $100 cash bond.

CURFEW VIOLATION: City police cited a Northville teen under 16 for violating the city's curfew July 1. The teen was in a car with four other youths, all 16 or older, that was pulled over on Seven Mile Road after 2 a.m. He told police his parents had given him permission to go to a concert in Lansing, but his parents were not with him.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Township police assist in solving bank robbery

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Police assisted Livonia officers in the arrest of a man who allegedly robbed the Comerica Bank at Eight Mile and Hagerty roads Monday.

Northville Police Lieutenant Gary Batzloff said the 32-year-old Detroit man pulled up to the drive-in window at the bank around 11:45 a.m. He allegedly passed a note to the teller demanding an unspecified amount of cash and threatened to harm bank employees and patrons if she didn't comply.

A single silver bullet was taped to the note, Northville police said.

The bank teller sent the man $1,250 in cash through the automated system and he fled the scene. A bank employee notified township police, who, in turn, alerted the Livonia Police Department.

"It was our quick response and dissemination of information that helped Livonia officers nab the guy," Batzloff said.

Batzloff said the teller's partial description of the suspect, his car and license plate also helped lead Livonia Police to the suspect's trail at Five Mile and Newburgh roads.

Livonia officers sighted the car at Five Mile and attempted to stop the suspect to no avail. A high speed police chase ensued and ended with the suspect colliding with a police cruiser at Schoolcraft and Merriman. The man then reportedly jumped out of the car and fled on foot.

Batzloff said officers arrested the suspect minutes later. Police recovered the note, bullet and all of the money in the man's car, the lieutenant said.

Livonia police intend to turn the man over to federal investigators to face stiffer charges, Batzloff said. Suspects face longer penalties for bank robbery under federal law. He will be arraigned in federal court later this week.

State House wants feds to grant Michigan air quality upgrade

State lawmakers introduced a House resolution recently, asking the Environmental Protection Agency to reclassify southeast Michigan as meeting federal clean air quality standards, announced state Rep. Bill Bullard, R-Milford.

Southeast Michigan is currently designated as an ozone non-attainment area under the Clean Air Act although it has not violated national standards since 1990.

"Ozone levels in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties have been falling since the 1980s," said Bullard, who co-sponsored the resolution. "Our success at reducing air pollution levels shows how a cooperative effort between the public and private sectors can benefit residents and industry alike."

According to the Department of Natural Resources, before an area can ask for reclassification, certain criteria must be met. They include:

- Meeting the federal ozone standard for three years.
- EPA approval of a state implementation plan, detailing what steps Michigan will take to keep air quality in compliance with Clean Air Act standards.
- A permanent and enforceable improvement in air quality.
- Submission of a 10-year maintenance plan to ensure future standards are met.
- A vehicle inspection/maintenance program to monitor and control automotive exhaust emissions.

Areas complying before Nov. 15 may avoid some of the ozone control measures under the Clean Air Act amendments, according to the DNR. Areas that do not achieve attainment on schedule are subject to further control measures including stiff financial penalties.

"We have a win-win solution," Bullard said. "Oakland County's citizens benefit from cleaner air, and by meeting federal standards, the business community keeps itself in compliance, thus avoiding stricter restrictions which tend to inhibit development."

Hold on tight

Ann Riha of Northville needs two hands to carry the new ferns she bought at the Northville Farmers Market.

Rezmierski says pamphlet was filled with errors

"In the 1992 school year, fiscal constraint has . . . moved school bus stops outside a 1.5 mile radius of the school while the superintendent received a maintenance-free automobile with a cellular phone."

Rezmierski told board members, "If I have a cellular phone, I'll buy you all dinner. I haven't, never had nor plan to have a cellular phone . . . Why would I? The most quiet time I have now is when I'm driving."

Bernard said if Rezmierski is not benefiting from the use of a cellular phone, the group apologizes for the error.

"But he is receiving a maintenance-free automobile," Bernard added.

Rezmierski's contract does provide him with a leased car. " . . . Invoked the pay-to-play concept in athletic activities while paying the airfare for an administrator to visit his family in Arizona last fall."

Rezmierski said the administrator had prior approval for the vacation and actually saved the district about $200 in airfare because of the additional stay. As a result of the trip, the administrator netted Northville the host site of the National School Board Association's annual convention, which in turn, got the district a $4,500 Microsoft grant.

"If that's not paying off our investment, then I guess I'm missing something," Rezmierski said.

" . . . forced children out of co-curricular activities while the strategic planning committee meets over $700 meals, including water at $1 per pitcher."

Rezmierski said the strategic planning sessions were held at Bryant Center, one of the district's own schools, and it would be ludicrous to charge itself for the use of its own water.

Bernard said he was merely using the information the district sent him after requesting invoices of the costs of the strategic planning sessions.

According to a Northville Public Schools general requisition form, the district was charged $4 for four pitchers of ice water served during the Oct. 2 strategic planning session. However, no charges were shown for water served during the other two days of the session.

Rezmierski said there must have been some sort of "transpositional error," because the district was never charged for water.

"That's got to be an error because that would be like us charging for water at the board meetings," he said. "How could we even justify that?"

" . . . threatened the elimination of the middle school seventh period while the average central office administrator costs all of us more than $100,000 per year."

"Threatening the closing of the middle school seventh period — I don't know where that came from," Rezmierski said.

He added that the average salary of Northville administrators is $84,000.

The superintendent's sub-total salary is $99,538. All administrators have a salary option (the superintendent has a 10-percent option, while other administrators have a 7-percent option). The two assistant superintendents have a sub-total salary in the $85,000 range while central office directors and supervisors' sub-total salaries range from $40,000 to $68,000.

Board secretary Richard Brown Jr. said he was perturbed because the CBN flyer did not list a phone number so people could call if they had questions about its contents. The only identification on the flyer was a CBN post office box number to which people could send their correspondence and contributions.

Our Opinion

City's downtown alive and in good condition

The closing of three downtown businesses within a week of each other has given rise to a new round of eulogizing from those who like to forecast the imminent demise of the small town main street business district.

In late June, Northville Pharmacy, V & S Variety and Juan Carlos Restaurant all closed their doors for good. A change in policy from Blue Cross/Blue Shield forced the pharmacy to go out of business after generations of community service, while a prolonged lack of business proved the undoing of V & S and Juan Carlos.

The closings came as a disappointment to those who patronized the stores, but the rapid turn of events should not, in our view, be taken as a sign that downtown Northville is in danger of folding up. Generally speaking, the downtown is healthy and vibrant and has survived tougher challenges than that posed by the closing of a pharmacy, a Mexican restaurant and a discount variety store.

Gigantic malls and mega-stores such as Twelve Oaks, Meijer, Target and the Source Club are formidable obstacles for the downtown to overcome. Northville, like other cities across the state and country, cannot hope to compete with the mind-boggling array of merchandise displayed under the roofs of these mammoth commercial centers, and merchants have been forced to offer unique products and services as an alternative drawing card.

But an astonishing number of Northville business operators have risen to the occasion and carved out their own market niches. Businesses such as Genitti's, Crawford's, MacKinnon's, Lapham's and Perrin's, to name just a few, have found large followings and prospered in spite of the trend toward shopping in outlying areas.

Overall, the city has undergone far-reaching changes in offering an impressive assortment of specialty stores, fine restaurants and accessible offices, and has proven that, even in these days of one-stop shopping and high-speed mobility, the small downtown can remain viable and alive.

One of the merchants who folded up shop last month blamed the failure of her business on a stagnating downtown, even going so far as to proclaim Northville "dead." Given the number of successful downtown merchants, the considerable amount of interest from businesses seeking to locate here and the high volume of pedestrian traffic on downtown sidewalks, we would advise this individual to think again. It is far more likely that the closing of the store could be attributed to the nature of the business or to a pattern of sub-standard service.

We, like many, are saddened that small downtowns can no longer sustain the kind of folksy store operator who once ran the friendly 5 & 10, the laid-back barber shop or the personalized drug store. Today's business operators must be astute, savvy marketing experts with one eye firmly fixed on a dynamic and fast-paced commercial scene.

But new market trends demand new market approaches and Northville, more so than most small cities, has succeeded in adapting to the new conditions.

Northville's downtown is indeed changing but it is by no means dying. Those who claim it is need only look around to see how wrong they are.

Playing with facts is a widespread practice

Northville School District Supt. Leonard Rezmierski issued a sharp rebuttal last week to the election flyer produced by the organization Citizens for a Better Northville.

The pamphlet listed several reasons for opposing the June 14 millage request, and was distributed the day before and the day of the vote.

As is usually the case with opposition literature, no names or telephone numbers of individuals appeared on the flyer. Only the name and the post office box of the organization were listed on the document.

Many of the claims included in the pamphlet were, in fact, carelessly worded and poorly researched. For example, the flyer maintained that Rezmierski's leased automobile contained a cellular phone. It does not.

It also asserted that the school district paid the airfare for an administrator's trip to Arizona. In reality, the trip in question actually resulted in a reduced airfare because the administrator added to his itinerary a visit to his family in Arizona the Saturday before an educational conference in Texas.

But if some of the claims made in the flyer were haphazard and slipshod, others deserve a closer look. For instance, Rezmierski disputed the contention that the district paid $1 for a bottle of water at last fall's strategy planning session. But, an invoice itemizing expenses of the session does, in fact, include a $2 expenditure for two bottles of water.

Further, the superintendent claimed that the flyer was inaccurate in saying that central office administrators cost the district an average of $100,000 a year. He said the average administrator's salary is roughly $84,000.

However, the flyer didn't say anything about salaries, it mentioned "costs." When additional expenses such as fringe benefits are included in the calculation, it might well be that administrators' costs average $100,000 a year.

Unless we're missing something, it appears that both sides were playing with meanings in order to suit their purposes.

A 'Parrot-head Paradise'

Rick Byrne

If you want to lie in the sand with a tall drink in your hand, with an occasional break for a game of volleyball, you usually have to make travel plans to some tropical hot spot.

Save the plane fare. Blair Bowman and company have fixed up one of the exhibit halls at the Novi Expo Center to create the Novi Expo Beach Club.

Well, saying they've "fixed up" may be overstating it. In short, it looks like a Jimmy Buffett hallucination that's run amok. Exhibit Hall B has been decorated with beach balls, banners, palm trees and sand to create something that reminds me of senior prom on a low budget.

"We were going for the cheap wedding look," said Bowman, tongue in cheek. "And I think we've achieved that."

This bar/nightclub/hangout will operate through the summer, taking advantage of the slack season for shows at the Expo Center.

I had a chance to take in the atmosphere through the haze of a couple of tropical concoctions last Wednesday night after my meeting at the Motorsports Museum wrapped up.

It reminds me a lot of the Atlantis Club in Kill Devil Hills, N.C., an honest-to-goodness, on-the-beach dance joint which becomes my home away from home for a week each summer.

Like the Atlantis, the Novi Expo Beach Club is a big open room with tables, chairs, a bar, a band and pool tables. Live entertainment is scheduled Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The Expo gets a bit more extreme, however. There are dart boards for which the bartender will gladly give you some really good darts — no plastic cheapies. (Don't think of swiping them, though. They take a major credit card in exchange.)

Basketball backboards have been hung on the walls.

Forget about that pint-size Pop-a-Shot that other bars offer you. This is the real thing, thrown elbows and all.

There are two sand volleyball courts outside, marking the first time in recent memory that people have had good things to say about the Expo Center parking lot. Inside the building another volleyball court has been marked off, but for some reason, the shuffleboard courts were getting far more attention on the night I was there.

Sand has been trucked in and piled in the corners with plenty of beach toys and tools to build sand castles. The pillars supporting the roof have been covered in pipe wrap, which creates a strikingly realistic facsimile of a palm tree stalk. The fronds above, I'm told, are real, though.

And if you get hungry, the concession stand is open, supplying Shield's outstanding pizza.

Bowman also said the place is open to kids during the day. The bar becomes a juice bar, and they're free to play darts, shuffleboard, volleyball, basketball and pool. The underage crowd gets kicked out at 8 p.m.

This, to me, seems like just the thing young people in this area need. It's a place to go and hang out, with just enough supervision to keep them out of trouble, but enough activity to keep them interested. Nobody's going to feel like a geek hanging out at the Novi Expo Beach Club.

Although the jury's still out on whether the Novi Expo Beach Club will be a success, you'll never know it by looking at the place.

"We had 300 people in here last weekend," said Bowman. "About 150 of them were gathered around the bar, and the rest were spread around at tables. And it looked dead."

With its 16-foot ceilings, and Hall B's square footage well into the five figures, you could have 600 people in there, and it still wouldn't look busy.

But even in an empty room, all I need is a tall drink, good friends and some Jimmy Buffett tapes. This is Parrot-head Paradise.

The rules apply to everyone

Those of you who saw The Northville Record last Monday know that Record editor Lee Snider was in an automobile accident the previous week. You know it because we carried a story about it on the front page.

Those of you who read The Novi News know it as well because Snider and News editor Mike Malott wrote about it in their columns which appeared in both the Northville and Novi editions on Thursday.

The two columns came at the incident from different angles. Snider recounted the accident and said he had learned his lesson about the importance of wearing seatbelts. Malott talked about the decisions involved in reporting the accident on the front page as we did in Northville's Monday edition.

Was it a tough decision to run the story about Snider's accident? Not at all. In fact, it was an easy decision.

Those of us in the community journalism business are accused of many things, sometimes justly, sometimes unjustly. One of the unjust criticisms is that we protect our own. One of the basic rules here at The Record is that everybody gets treated the same. It's a matter of integrity.

If Joe Citizen gets his name in the paper for being arrested for drunk driving or shoplifting or anything else, so does Prominent Local Official. Being mayor or school board president doesn't give you any special privileges.

And if that rule applies to both Joe Citizen and Prominent Local Official, it must also apply to us. If a reporter or photographer or editor at The Record gets arrested for drunk driving or shoplifting, it goes right in along with everybody else.

In fact, if you're the editor of the paper, don't be surprised to see your "story" on the front page.

Another facet in our story about the Snider accident was that Lee was not allowed to edit it. In the pursuit of unbiased reporting, the writing and editing jobs were turned over to another staffer.

Which reminds me of another of our sacred rules: nobody, and I mean nobody, is allowed to read a story before it is published.

The best illustration of this policy occurred a few years ago when Bill Sliger owned the papers and Jack Hoffman was the editor. Mrs. S. was very active with the library in those days and called up Jack to see if he would do a story about the library.

Now libraries are something we hold near and dear here at The Record and we try to do everything we can to support them, so Jack had no problem with agreeing to do a story.

The problem arose when Mrs. Sliger asked to be able to read the story before it was published. "No way," said Jack. "Nobody's allowed to read our stories before they're printed."

And so, as the story goes, the wife of our beloved published called her husband, the owner of the paper, and asked for permission to read the story before it was published.

"No way," said Mr. S. "Nobody's allowed to read our stories before they're printed."

I've always wondered what dinner was like at the Sliger residence the day that happened, but, hey, rules are rules — and they have to apply to everybody.

Group says tax reform should reimburse schools must be established.

● The commitment to the concept of local governance must be maintained.

The seven areas identified by the WCASA that need to be addressed by lawmakers include the following:

● 1. Equity of opportunity. The group recommends the state do away with inequities in education by instituting the Olmstead-Kearney formula. Also known as the O-K plan, the proposal calls for tapping the lottery for school funding which would increase state support to schools to 50 percent; roll back millage rates to 30 mills with guaranteed state reimbursment of any loss in per-pupil revenues; and make education Michigan's top budget priority.

● 2. Property tax relief. The WCASA recommends a flat rate, state-wide property tax to be levied against all real property in Michigan, with proceeds distributed among the school districts of the state.

For immediate action, the group also suggests a 3 percent cap on 1993 assessments.

● 3. Resource adequacy. This can be accomplished by expanding the sales tax base to include taxation of services, closing tax loopholes which permit some to avoid payment of current tax levies, eliminating tax abate-ments to businesses and industries, and increasing the income tax rate dedicated to the school aid fund.

● 4. Control of labor costs by enforce-ing legislation to penalize public em-

Southern pride evident from home cooking

By ORLANDO RAMIREZ
Copley News Service

Prudence Hilburn's love of baking began in her mother's kitchen. The youngest of seven children, she watched her mother performing biscuit "magic" every morning.

The day in her Piedmont, Ala., home began with baking, just as it began in homes throughout the South in the days before packaged baked goods. Although the tradition may be on the wane, Hilburn is doing her best to keep it alive with her new cookbook "A Treasury of Southern Baking" (HarperPerennial).

"I hope that it isn't dying out," says Hilburn in an interview. "But I see a revival of the baking spirit. It's important to teach children while they're young to develop a love of baking."

But she does admit that times have changed, what with two-income families and not enough time to bake for each meal, as was the custom while she was growing up.

That's why she includes a "Busy Baker" section in each of the chapters on cakes, cookies, pies and puddings and breads. These quick recipes often use convenience mixes to get tasty results.

"I wanted to write a cookbook that was not intimidating," Hilburn says. "A book people would actually use, that doesn't call for ingredients you can't buy."

Don't let the homespun approach fool you. Hilburn has trained with some of the best chefs in France and New York, including Simone "Simca" Beck, James Beard and Peter Kump of the New York Cooking School. She also writes two weekly columns, one for The New York Times syndicate and the other for the Anniston Star in Anniston, Ala.

Nonetheless, Hilburn remains more the Pillsbury Bake-Off finalist (six times) than the chef cooking fancy dishes in high-priced restaurants.

The mother of four (three girls, one boy) with four grandchildren, Hilburn didn't really start baking until after she married her husband, Huey.

Her first success came in 1963, when she was named a finalist in the Pillsbury Bake-Off for a Tropical Orange Cake.

"It had coconut icing and was made with orange juice and other tropical fruits," she recalls. "I got the idea from ambrosia. It's been so long since I made one." Hilburn went on to win so many bake-offs that she was disqualified.

"Not only me," she says. "But my daughters, too!" During this time she worked as an accountant, a job she held for 25 years, but she always saw cooking as more than a hobby.

Deciding to make a career change, she went to New York to study with James Beard, then went with a group from Kump's school to the South of France to study with Beck, the co-author of Mastering the Art of French Cooking, with Julia Child.

"Peter Kump said he wished I was working in New York," Hilburn says. "But I wasn't sure. My husband said, 'Go for it,' and I decided to give it a try."

Her accounting experience served her well because she was able to work in the New York Cooking School's office and "take any course I wanted with any teacher I wanted. It was a real learning experience. I was willing to start at the bottom and do anything to broaden my knowledge."

Then Beard asked her to work with him. Unfortunately, Beard died before she had the opportunity, but he did introduce Hilburn to Barbara Kafka, who wrote the introduction for Southern Baking.

Yet, little of these classic influences seems to have infiltrated Hilburn's recipes.

"I can make a classic butter-cream frosting," she says. "But it isn't right with these types of recipes."

"That kind of cooking can be very elegant. Southern cooking isn't always elegant, but tastes good."

Whether intentional or not, Hilburn has tapped into the growing interest for regional American cuisines. Her emphasis on using prepared mixes and canned ingredients draws on basic American homestyle cooking, exemplified by her Pillsbury Bake-Off honors.

Cookbook author Prudence Hilburn worked with a basic coconut cake recipe to get it just like mom's.

"There is something in the book for everyone," she says. "There are recipes easy enough for the weekend baker and recipes tasty enough for the professional."

Many of the recipes were handed down from her mother. Like most home bakers, Hilburn's mother rarely wrote anything down and measured everything by hand, which proved to be a handicap when it came time to write Southern Baking.

To re-create these oral recipes accurately, Hilburn had to rely on her own skills as a baker.

"I sat down with a basic layer cake recipe," she says of her recreation of the Fresh Coconut Cake.

"And I worked with it until I got it to taste like mother's. Once I got it, I knew it by memory."

Hilburn notes that the one thing that differentiates

Southern baking is the ingredients; primary among them is flour.

Southern bakers have a fondness for self-rising flour that is usually milled from soft winter wheat. This gives their biscuits that light, fluffy quality that is hard to duplicate with all-purpose flour.

To approximate self-rising flour, Hilburn suggests you add 1 tablespoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt to 2 cups all-purpose flour.

Another difference is the use of margarine (or as Southerners call it "oleo") instead of butter, although Hilburn says the choice is up to the individual.

Another ingredient — that has now fallen into disfavor — is lard. It is used in the basic Southern Biscuits

Consider the egg for nutrition and value

Mary Brady

As a young child one of my fondest memories was spending time with my grandparents. Three out of four were excellent cooks.

Grandfather Smith didn't cook but truly enjoyed eating. When we lived in Buffalo I would often spend weekends at the Smith house. Later, after moving to Northville, school and summer vacations were the times spent with them.

The days were leisurely. Reading, napping, eating three squares a day and then some.

Breakfast was always the same. Two soft boiled eggs, toast with butter, grapefruit, juice and cereal. This meal had been ritual for 75 years. My grandfather's mother cooked the same breakfast when he was a youngster. The only thing that ever changed was hot versus cold cereal and the variety of toast and jams.

Lunch was often a fried egg sandwich or two. My grandfather was extremely weight conscious. Never, never did he go over the recommended weight charts. As a colonel in the Army for three wars, he was well-versed in restraint and self control.

He died in 1977 at the age of 92 after a short illness. I remember everyone marveling at how he ate two eggs or more a day, butter, milk, cream and ice cream and that he lived to be healthy and old.

Today, all we hear is to avoid eggs because of the negative effects they carry. Could it be, maybe, that it isn't the eggs but all the other garbage we load into our systems?

Let's consider nutrient density. Nutrient density is a way of evaluating the nutritional quality of a food by comparing the amounts of nutrients it contains against the number of calories it provides.

For an example, a glass of milk contains 160 calories plus significant amounts of protein, calcium, riboflavin and other nutrients. By comparison, an alcoholic drink, containing the same amount of calories, is virtually devoid of any essential nutrient. Thus, the milk is "nutrient dense" while the alcohol is not.

We each have a "caloric budget" for each day. The food choices we make as we "spend" this budget must supply nutrients as well as fuel. The trick is to choose foods low in calories and high in nutrients before using up your allotment of calories.

This situation presents a "catch-22" dilemma for modern people: Eat more food and you risk obesity, eat less and you risk nutritional deficits! Thus the foods eaten must be more nutrient dense.

Enter the egg.

The egg is one of nature's better nutritional efforts, designed as a total life support system for the developing chick. One serving of two large eggs provides 160 calories and 9 percent of the daily requirement for protein, vitamin A, riboflavin, iron, vitamin D and phosphorus needed by the average woman.

As a source of high quality protein eggs cannot be beat. There are eight essential amino acids or "building blocks" of protein that cannot be manufactured by the body. Foods that contain all eight are called complete proteins.

Eggs, like other animal proteins, fall into this category. The pattern of essential amino acids in the egg is so ideal that it has been used for years as the standard against which other protein foods are judged.

An egg contains all of its fat (6 grams) and cholesterol (265 milligrams) in the yolk. This is where most other nutrients are found also. Remove the yolk and you seriously alter the protein and nutrient content the egg has to offer.

There are three different types of fat in the yolk: polyunsaturated (1 gram) monounsaturated (3 grams) and saturated (2 grams). Because high blood cholesterol has been identified as a risk factor for heart disease, dietary fats and dietary cholesterol have been under intensive study to find out whether and how they influence blood cholesterol.

It has been learned that saturated fats can raise blood cholesterol in some people, while dietary cholesterol does not seem to have a consistent effect on blood cholesterol.

On the other hand, there is evidence that polyunsaturated fats and perhaps monounsaturated fats may lower blood cholesterol. Research is inconclusive on the effect of cholesterol present in eggs in relation to blood cholesterol.

Some people show higher blood cholesterol with a high egg diet while others show no effect and in some cases lowered blood cholesterol. These highly varied and individualistic responses cannot be explained as yet. Other risk factors such as smoking and high blood pressure are equally important.

For people sensitive to dietary saturated fat and cholesterol, eggs should be eaten upon recommendation of your physician. For the rest of us the fat content of the egg provides a good "stick-to-the-ribs" energy kick to fuel the body for hours after consumption.

Finally, eggs are a bargain when it comes to the food budget. By government regulation, one dozen large eggs must weigh 1½ pounds. Therefore it is easy to figure the cost per pound. Even at the high price of $1.20 per dozen eggs cost a mere $.90 per pound.

Next in line for protein economy is beef liver followed by peanut butter. Thus the egg is one of the least expensive of the high quality animal proteins.

It would be difficult to design a food that compares as favorably, both in nutrients per calorie and nutrients per unit cost.

Baking fired by Southern pride recipe, although solid vegetable shortening can be substituted.

Still, lard was used widely by Southern cooks until the current emphasis on low-cholesterol cooking. It imparts a certain consistency and texture, particularly in pie-crusts, that is hard to duplicate.

As Hilburn notes, "My mother lived to be 92 and cooked with it daily."

Many of the recipes use the fruits and nuts indigenous to the South, in particular peaches, strawberries, blackberries, pears, pecans, peanuts and black walnuts.

However, certain non-indigenous fruits are ubiquitous in Southern baking, in particular the pineapple and coconut.

Pineapple makes its appearance in the classic upside-down cake (which Hilburn calls Topey-Turvy Pineapple Cake) and an upside down pineapple gingerbread, as well as an ingredient in various fillings and frostings.

Canned pineapple is always used, in particular the liquid, as a flavoring agent.

Fresh coconut, however, must be used, in particular for the Fresh Coconut Cake.

"You can't get the same flavor with packaged," says Hilburn. "The fresh is more moist."

Fresh coconuts can be found in most supermarkets. To prepare, take a hammer and nail and punch out one of the "eyes."

Drain the coconut milk and reserve.

Place the whole coconut in a 200 F to 250 F oven for about 20 minutes. This will make it easier to crack. Once out of the oven, give the coconut a few whacks with the hammer until it splits. Separate the edible part of the coconut from the shell and grate.

Hilburn says her Sweet Potato Pie is called a "custard" in the South, but her editor insisted she list it as a pie because it has a crust.

The Deep-Dish Fresh Peach cobbler has a unique double-crust that Hilburn says her mother used on all her cobblers.

The trick is to bake the first crust just so it sets.

After the top crust cooks the bottom crust has a dumpling-like consistency.

She says, "This is a family-type cobbler that is good enough for company."

Liquors and liqueurs were rarely found in Southern baking until recently, probably because it's the heart of the Bible Belt. However, Bread Pudding With Bourbon Sauce originated in New Orleans and reflects that city's cosmopolitan heritage.

FRESH COCONUT CAKE

Cake layers:

1/4 pound (1 stick) butter OR margarine
1/4 cup shortening
2 cups sugar
3 egg yolks

3 cups all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
5 egg whites

Coconut frosting
2 egg whites
2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup of liquid drained from fresh coconut

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 fresh coconut, peeled and grated (about 3 1/2 cups)

Yields 14 to 16 servings.
Preheat oven to 350 F. Grease and flour three 9-inch cake pans.

In large bowl, combine flour, baking powder and salt. Stir to mix. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture alternately with milk, starting and ending with flour. Add vanilla, mix well.

Beat the egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into batter.

Divide batter evenly among prepared pans. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes or until wooden pick comes out clean when inserted in center of layers. Remove from pans immediately and cool completely on racks before frosting.

To make frosting, combine egg whites, corn syrup, sugar and coconut liquid in top of double boiler. Beat with electric mixer for about 1 minute, until well mixed. Place over boiling water. Cook for 7 minutes, beating continuously with electric mixer. Frosting should be thick and glossy. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla.

Spread frosting on one cooled cake layer and sprinkle generously with grated coconut. Repeat with second and third layers. Spread frosting around sides of cake and cover with coconut.

SWEET POTATO PIE

3 cups mashed cooked sweet potatoes
1/2 pound (1 stick) butter OR margarine, softened at room temperature
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 (9-inch) pie crust, unbaked

Yields 6 to 8 servings.
Preheat oven to 400 F.

Combine sweet potatoes, butter, sugar, brown sugar, vanilla, eggs and nutmeg. Mix well. Pour into unbaked pie crust. Bake for 10 minutes.

Reduce temperature immediately to 350 F and continue baking for additional 35 minutes or until thin knife blade comes out clean when inserted into center of custard.

Cool completely before slicing.

FRESH PEACH COBBLER

Crust:

1/2 cup shortening
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 to 5 teaspoons ice water

Filling:

6 cups peeled and sliced fresh peaches
1 1/2 cups water
2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon (optional)

12 tablespoons (1 1/2 sticks) butter OR margarine

Yields 6 to 8 servings.
Preheat oven to 375 F.

Make crust by cutting shortening into flour until mixture resembles coarse meal. Gradually add ice water until mixture clings together and can be formed into a ball. Divide dough in half. Roll each half to square large enough to fit 8x8x4-inch casserole dish or deep pan.

For filling, put 3 cups of peaches and 1 cup of water in casserole or pan. Combine sugar with flour and cinnamon. Stir to mix. Sprinkle half of this mixture over peaches in baking dish. Dot with half the butter. Cover with one square of dough. Make 2 or 5 slits in crust to allow steam to escape while baking. Bake for about 15 minutes, or until crust no longer looks "doughy."

Top with remaining 3 cups peaches, 1/2 cup water, 1 cup sugar mixture and 6 tablespoons butter. Place remaining square of dough over top. Cut several small slits in top crust.

If you like a buttery crust, brush top with melted butter before baking. Bake for 40 to 45 minutes or until top crust is lightly browned and filling is slightly thickened.

BREAD PUDDING WITH BOURBON SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter OR margarine
6 cups coarsely crumbled French bread

1 quart milk
1 cup raisins
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon vanilla extract

Easy Bourbon Sauce:
1/2 pound (1 stick) butter OR margarine, softened at room temperature
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons bourbon

Yields 8 to 10 servings.
Preheat oven to 350 F. Melt butter in 9x13x2-inch baking pan.

In large bowl, combine bread, milk and raisins. Mix and set aside. In another bowl, combine eggs, sugar and vanilla. Beat with fork until blended. Pour into bread mixture and mix well.

Pour pudding mixture into pan. For sauce, combine butter, sugar, water and egg yolk in small saucepan. Mix well. Cook over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Reduce heat to medium-low and continue cooking for about 3 minutes or until mixture starts to thicken. Remove from heat and stir in bourbon. Serve warm with bread pudding. Sauce can be reheated, but do so over very low heat and do not allow mixture to boil.

Fruit salad a summertime winner

Besides good nutrition, fresh produce has so much to recommend it—color, texture and flavor. And more health-conscious consumers are beginning to recognize that eating lots of fruits and vegetables improves health.

The American Institute for Cancer Research and other health organizations recommend eating more fruits, vegetables and whole grains while cutting back on fat as the cornerstones of healthy eating.

But while Americans have begun to cut down on fat, research shows that benefits can come from replacing high-fat foods with nutritious fruits, vegetables and grains.

That means taking a whole new look at your plate—and refocusing your diet to center on fruits, vegetables and grains. Most health authorities agree that meat portions should be limited to three ounces, and that leaves lots of room on the plate for other wholesome foods.

The USDA recommends eating five or more daily servings of vegetables and fruits (especially dark green, yellow and orange vegetables and citrus fruits) and six or more servings of breads, cereals and legumes.

A serving is defined as a half-cup for most fresh and cooked vegetables, fruits and ready-to-eat cooked cereals; or one medium-sized piece of fresh fruit; or one slice of bread, one roll, or one muffin.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are naturally low in fat, so eating lots of them instead of meat and dairy products is an easy way to eat less fat. Just as important, they contain essential nutrients and other important substances, such as fiber, vitamins and minerals that can help keep you in good health. So shift the focus of your meals and give the featured role to the stars of the summer season—fresh fruits and vegetables.

To order a free brochure with more than a dozen lowfat recipes for fruits and vegetables, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to AICR, Dept. FV, Washington, DC 20069.

Mint adds flavor to a colorful "Minted Fruit Salad." This salad can be served as a light dessert to end your summer meals. You can substitute your own favorite fruits for any of those listed below.

MINTED FRUIT SALAD

1 cup pineapple chunks (fresh or canned in juice)
2 tablespoons fresh mint, chopped (2 teaspoons dried)

1/2 cantaloupe
1 unpeeled apple
1/2 cup seedless grapes
2 tablespoons low-fat yogurt
Mint sprigs (optional)

Combine the pineapple chunks and the mint in a large bowl. Use a melon baller or cut cubes of the cantaloupe, chop the apple, and slice the grapes in half. Combine the fruits, toss them with the yogurt to taste, and chill the mixture before serving. Garnish each serving with fresh mint sprigs.

Each of the four servings contains 78 calories and no fat. The material in "Good Food/Good Health" is reviewed by Karen Collins, registered dietitian, for the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Book makes desserts special

The adage that a picture is worth a thousand words is especially true when following a new recipe.

The Good Housekeeping Illustrated Book of Desserts, edited by Mildred Ying, and published in the fall of 1991 by William Morrow and Co. Inc. ($25), uses pictures to make elaborate dessert-making easy.

Along with the recipes are illustrations of how to make the desserts look good as well as taste good. If pretty and imaginative desserts are your goal, this book has plenty of ideas.

The recipe for Dreamy Chocolate Cake includes directions on how to make the grated chocolate curls to go along the edges of the completed cake. Cannoli Cake features instructions for making a feather design on the top.

Chocolate lovers will find many confections to their liking, such as the Marbled Mousse, Individual Chocolate Souffles with coffee cream and the Chocolate Box with berries and cream that features direction in how to make a chocolate box. And the section on decorative pie edges shows how to spice up an ordinary pie recipe by making fancy fluted edges, leaf edges, ruffled or braided edges.

Some of the directions rely on basic cake-decorating skills such as how to pipe the borders on the Valentine Cake. Beginners could have problems completing the shell and ruffle designs. Some recipes feature real flowers or leaves for garnish. The Double-Chocolate Mousse Cake recipes uses candied violets for garnish.

Other recipes make use of fresh fruits for their appeal, such as the Flag Cake with uses raspberries and blueberries to make a "Stars and Stripes" design on the top.

Also included in this 320-page book are information and instructions for icings, fillings, sweet sauces and meringues and pastry piping.

Included in the cookie section are 28 cooking recipes with such tempters as Brandy Snaps, Two-Tone Hearts, Apricot Rugelach and Crispy Snowflakes.

The frozen desserts section includes recipes for iced drinks such as the Velvet Hammer, Black Cow and Mocha Float.

More than 200 recipes are included, with chapters on cakes, pies, tarts and pastries, cookies and frozen desserts as well as special desserts such as mousses and souffles, custards and creams, crepes and blintzes and meringues.

Greenfield Village hosts heritage cooking exhibition

If you're interested in learning more about American Heritage foods, plan to attend the Taste of History at Greenfield Village in Dearborn, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 24 and July 25.

The two-day event will feature a sampling of 200 centuries of American cooking. For more information, call 271-1620.

Lynn Kallil, lead interpreter at the Firestone Farm at Greenfield Village, and her staff will be preparing three recipes in the Firestone Farm kitchen.

"They're all authentic 1880s recipes," said Kallil. "One, a White Mountain Cake is from 'The Buckeye Cookbook,' which has recently been reprinted and is available in the gift shop. Another is a lemon-potato pie, and the third is Aunt Kate's molasses cookies, Harvey Firestone's mother's favorite."

"We're not allowed to sell food on the farm, but all three of these desserts will be available in the tasting tents on the grounds." Here are some American Heritage desserts to try.

The original instructions for this syllabub, which dates from 1800, called for the bowl to be filled with warm milk straight from the cow. If desired, 2 cups of white wine can be substituted for the mixture of port and sherry.

SYLLABUB

- 1 1/2 cups port
- 1 1/2 cups medium-dry sherry
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

Pour the port and sherry into a 1 1/2 -quart glass or pottery bowl. The bowl should be about 1/2 full. Stir in the sugar according to taste. Add the milk and stir a little. Leave to stand for about 20 minutes, or until the curd of the milk separates from the wine. Pour the syllabub into individual glasses, spooning the curd on top, and put a spoonful of whipped cream on each serving.

LEMON POTATO PIE

- 1 medium unpeeled boiling potato
- 1 lemon
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup water
- 2 pie crusts

Grate one medium unpeeled boiling potato. Grate one lemon, peel and all, saving the juice that runs off. Remove seeds.

Mix potato, lemon, sugar and water. Pour into a pie crust and put top crust in place.

Bake in a hot (about 375 degree) oven until done. At the Firestone Farm they insert a knife to test for doneness.

When it's thick enough to cling to the knife, it's done. Keep in mind that baking wasn't an exact science in the 1880s. The stoves didn't have thermometers, so cooks relied on instinct and experience.

AUNT KATE'S COOKIES

- 2 cups molasses
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup lard or shortening

- 1 teaspoon ginger
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons baking soda dissolved in 1 cup warm water
- 2 eggs
- 6 cups flour

In large bowl, combine brown sugar and lard or shortening. Mix until creamy. Stir in eggs and molasses. Add dry ingredients, alternating with warm water/soda mixture.

Mix until smooth. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheets and bake in a 400 degree oven for about 10 minutes.

Note: these cookies are enhanced by a touch of butter icing.

GOOSEBERRY FOOL

- 1 quart ripe gooseberries, strawberries, blackberries, or raspberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 cups grated lemon rind
- 1 1/2 cups heavy cream
- 1/2 cup crumbled macaroons

Combine the berries with 1/2 cup water in a saucepan. Cook over a low heat until fruit is extremely tender. Remove from heat and work through a sieve to make a smooth puree. While hot, stir in sugar and lemon rind. Set aside to cool. Whip cream until it holds a shape, then fold into the cool fruit puree.

Spoon into a serving bowl, sprinkle with macaroon crumbs, and chill thoroughly. Serves 6.

The author of "Little Women" was so fond of the New England dessert called slump that she named her house in Concord, Mass. "Apple Slump."

LOUISA MAY ALCOTT'S APPLE SLUMP

- 6 cups apples, pared, cored and sliced
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup milk

Combine apple slices, sugar, cinnamon, and water in a saucepan with a tight-fitting lid. Heat to the boiling point. Sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough.

Drop dough from a tablespoon onto apple mixture. Cover tightly and cook over a low heat for 30 minutes. Serve warm with New England Nutmeg Sauce, or rich cream.

This dessert can be made with various berries as well.

NEW ENGLAND NUTMEG SAUCE

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg

Mix together sugar and flour. Stir in boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce bubbles and thickens slightly. Add butter and simmer gently for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in 1 teaspoon nutmeg. Serve hot.

OHIO PUDDING

- 4 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup each mashed cooked sweet potatoes and carrots or squash
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 1 quart milk or light cream
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine the beaten eggs with brown sugar, mashed vegetables, salt, crumbs, milk, and vanilla. Pour into a well-greased 2-quart baking dish. Bake in 350 degree oven 1 hour, 15 minutes, or until a silver knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Eat warm with cold pudding sauce, or when partially cool sprinkle with granulated sugar. Makes about 8 servings.

COLD PUDDING SAUCE

- 1/2 pound of butter or margarine (1/2 cup)
- 1 to 1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1/4 cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice or 1 teaspoon grated rind

Beat the butter. Add the sugar, cream and lemon and beat.

Fox's 'Danger Theatre' not for all tastes... and proud of it

By Carl Spinks

James Thurber once wrote a story about his favorite party pastime, a word game called Ghosts. His wife, however, did not share Thurber's giddy enthusiasm for the game, he noted, and "wished it were in hell with Knock, Knock, Who's There?"

It's hard to find a clear consensus on anything. From traditionally taboo topics such as politics and religion to unexpected hornets' nests like fantasy Super Bowls and "Well, I wouldn't call that green in a million years," only one bet is safe: people will disagree.

Television is no exception. Even though producers do costly research to find the lowest common denominators and safest (i.e., blandest) on-camera personalities, likes and dislikes on television are hotly debated. Want to polarize a party? Lament the passing of "Twin Peaks." Longing to irritate a newshound? Opine that venerable David Brinkley doesn't know Bosnia from Bosco, then stand back and let the games begin.

Now careening into the fray is Fox's new "Danger Theatre," premiering Sunday, July 11, and this one's sure to register high on the argument meter.

Some will see it as a vigorous spoof of bygone cop/adventure/dogooder shows such as "Knight Rider" and "Hawaii Five-O," programs filled with square-jawed heroes, beady-eyed villains and deathless dialogue such as "Not so fast, pal!" and "Book him!" Detractors, however, will quickly peg the series as just another dumb sitcom, indistinguishable from, or even worse than the shows it aims to parody.

Robert Vaughn ("The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," "Superman III") brings his usual stolid, gray-at-the-temples authority to his duties as host of the series. Each week, Vaughn babbles ominously about the mean streets of contemporary America, the hooded gunmen lurking at every door and the helpless plight of peace-loving citizens scared to death by the may hem they see around them. He also makes periodic gaffes, such as solemnly intoning "crimes of fashion" for "crimes of passion" (a cue-card error), or eagerly inquiring about the post-show party when the episode is only half over.

Vaughn's gloomy pronouncements serve as introductions for each week's installments of two miniature series: First up is "The Searcher," starring Diedrich Bader as the leather-clad, motorcycle-riding title character. Endowed with an impossibly deep, gravelly voice and a clumsiness normally reserved for animated characters, our hero stumbles through his macho paces, more or less saving the day but never getting the girl.

"Tropical Punch," the second of the show's recurring story lines, stars Adam West ("Batman") as stumbling, stout-hearted Mike Morgan, a captain on the police force of a crime-ridden Hawaiian city. Aided by his assistants, Detective Tom McCormick (sort of a blow-dried Barney Fife, played by Billy Morrisette), and rotund Al

Hamoki (Peter Navy Tuiasosopo), Morgan blusters his way through solving crimes, relentlessly drawing his gun and spouting an endless litany of tough-guy nonsense. These guys make "Police Squad" look like Interpol.

"Danger Theatre" is the brainchild of director Penelope Spheeris ("Wayne's World," the upcoming "Beverly Hillbillies") and Robert Wolterstorff of "Quantum Leap." Besides her duties as executive producer, Spheeris also directs several episodes.

So what's the verdict on "Danger Theater?" Is it a keen-eyed, on-target spoof of by-the-numbers action shows, or a numbing half-hour of real stupidity, a no-brainer that makes "Mannix" seem like "Masterpiece Theatre?"

Here's the rub: it's both. For fans of "Airplane" and the "Hot Shots" movies the show will likely be a pallid but pleasing imitation. But viewers more inclined to PBS than "Police Squad" will find themselves quickly scurrying to another channel.

NBC hits the beach for AVP volleyball tour
BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Can't make it to the beach this summer? It may be little consolation, but NBC brings the sights and sounds of the surf and the sand into living rooms across the nation when it presents coverage of the Association of Volleyball Professionals Pro Beach Volleyball tour on Sunday, July 4.

The tour stops in Manhattan Beach, Calif., for the Killer Loop tourney. Former U.S. Olympians Chris Marlowe and Paul Sunderland handle the play-by-play and color analysis for NBC.

NBC's coverage is part of this year's expanded schedule of AVP telecasts. NBC will travel to Hermosa Beach, Calif., for the U.S. Championships on Saturday, Aug. 28, and Sunday, Aug. 29, and then it's on to Cincinnati for the Tournament of Champions on Saturday, Sept. 4.

NBC will break new ground on Saturday, July 31, from Milwaukee, Wis., when it presents the first live network coverage of a women's pro beach volleyball event.

"Everything about the AVP is growing," says Jon Miller, NBC Sports' vice president of program planning and development. "Interest among spectators, advertisers and participants is at an all-time high. Our interest in the fastest-growing sport in America is increasing, and that is reflected in NBC's commitment to the sport."

SOAP WORLD

A year of success for Linda Dano

BY CANDACE HAVENS

It has been a busy year for Linda Dano. She turned 50, had a front-burner story line as Felicia on "Another World," launched her new accessory line and question-and-answer segment on cable shopping network QVC, and stopped along the way to pick up the Emmy for Outstanding Lead Actress.

Dano is not one to rest on her laurels and accolades; actually, she is not one to rest at all. She is perpetually busy and lives by the popular motto "Just Do It."

"I think if I stopped long enough to think about everything I'm doing, I'd only worry, and then I wouldn't get anything accomplished," says Dano. "I remember when I was a kid and my mom would say, 'If you want something done, give it to someone who is busy.' If you have a million things to do you find a way, but if you only have one thing to do you drag your feet."

Dano has spent the last 11 years portraying the writer/talk show host Felicia, and she is the first to give her co-workers the credit for helping her to make the character such a success.

"You know, it's a funny thing," Dano says, "actors always get a bad rap. People say they are jealous, competitive and unfriendly, and on our set that couldn't be further from the truth. We are like a family, sometimes competitive, but also very supportive."

Dano also feels lucky to have a good support system at home. She and husband Frank Attardi have been together for 17 years and married for 11 years. "Frank is such a dear, wonderful man," says Dano lovingly. "Whenever I come home, no matter what time it is, he doesn't glare at me and ask where have I been. He puts his arms around me and says 'Hi honey, are you tired?'" Dano reciprocates the caring attitude by leaving special gifts under his pillow and arranging for candlelight dinners whenever possible.

Attardi and Dano share a passion for their early 18th-century home in Connecticut. "When we really want to relax we go antiquing," says the actress. "We love to take long drives and stop at little antique stores along the way. It is so much fun for us."

School budget based on state uncertainties

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Northville Board of Education members approved a budget for the school district Monday night, but they don't plan on sticking to it.

The proposed general fund budget, which will leave the district with a $430,082 surplus, is only a preliminary and conservative one, according to Supt. Leonard Reznierski.

"This will be changed on numerous occasions," Reznierski said.

The reason for the uncertainty is that school officials have yet to learn the specifics of the State School Aid Act, which may not be approved by legislators until as late as September. Also, the district is waiting to see if lawmakers will give the go-ahead to freeze property tax assessments or propose any other type of school finance reform which would affect the budget.

"Keep in mind we have to make our decision now, but the state won't make their decisions until Oct. 1," Reznierski said.

By state law, school districts are required to have their general fund budgets approved by July 1 while the state's budget is due Oct. 1. That makes it hard for school numbers crunchers to estimate how much aid the state will pay to that particular district, let alone base a budget on it.

In this year's preliminary budget, the district expects to make $24,685,627 in expenditures. These include:

- Salaries — $15,955,010. This reflects a 2.3-percent increase over last year's salary expenditures of $15,597,957.

Trustee Patricia Custer said the 2.3-percent increase reflects the addition of 23 teachers, a priority the board adopted last month to reduce classroom sizes. The increase is lower than expected, however, because a number of teachers, who were at the top end of the salary range, have recently retired.

"We're replacing them with teachers paid on the lower end (of the scale)," Custer explained.

- Purchased services — $1,138,626. This figure is down 4.5 percent from last year's budget.

- Supplies — $1,743,551. This category has increased 2.5 percent.

- Capital — $91,711. A 3-percent increase is realized in this budget expense.

- Other — $5,291,723. A 1.7-percent decrease has been reported in this category.

- FICA-retirement — The district has added this expense, $465,000, expecting that it will have to pick up the tab for these costs in the future.

Hearing set to prioritize programs

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

Residents are invited to give their input on what programs the board should prioritize in its fiscal 1993-94 budget.

A public hearing has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 8, in the board of education meeting room at Old Village School.

The board has already implemented its top two priorities — beefing up the teaching force by 23 teachers to reduce classroom sizes and beginning the Total Quality Management phase of the district's strategic plan. Altogether, that represents about a $930,000 price tag.

The only programs to be considered for implementation and for which residents are asked to give input include:

- Eliminating pay-for-play (athletic and co-curricular), $236,000.
- Restoring resource teachers (1.5 for science/math, technology and gifted programs), $61,500.
- Funding the Student Assistance Program, $25,000.
- Curriculum projects (textbooks, technology, high school day), $210,000.
- Operations/maintenance projects (roofs, painting, buried tank removal, etc.), $260,000.
- Restoring custodians (5.5), $193,000.
- Restoring high school hall monitors (2), $35,840.
- Middle school gifted teacher, $41,000.

- Business-Education Partnerships, $10,500.

- Restoring clerical positions (high school and middle schools), $69,120.
- Restoring one maintenance position, $39,680.
- Restoring teacher assistants, $184,320.
- Setting aside 1 percent fund equity, $250,000.

"There's $1.8 million in programs that we do not have the funds for," Supt. Leonard Reznierski said.

Upon the direction of the board at a May meeting, school administrators set about to pare $250,000 from the budget. At Monday night's board of education meeting, they released the following reductions:

Schools wary of MEAP comparisons

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

If you want to avoid comparing apples and oranges, you won't compare Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores on a building-by-building basis, according to one Northville school official.

"When comparing buildings you don't want to compare annual scores," said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services. "Comparing just those scores doesn't tell you anything. Just like there's no meaning in just looking at isolated years. It tells you nothing about the group by just looking at that."

Instead, Northville officials gauge the results of the annual MEAP tests by following scores of student groups, not buildings. For example, the scores of tests taken by fourth graders at Amerman are compared to the scores of the MEAP tests the same group takes in the seventh grade.

But that doesn't mean school officials aren't aware of the results that come from each individual building.

"Building-by-building, the learning consultant, counselor, building principal and department chairperson sit down and look at those items (tested in the MEAP)," McMaster said. "They analyze every test item and look at the results."

For example, by scrutinizing the individual test items, school representatives discovered that seventh graders didn't score well on the mixed numeral fraction portion of the MEAP test.

"Well, there's a good reason for that," McMaster said. "The kids haven't received that instruction at that point yet."

However, if students score poorly in an area that has been taught, officials look for causes.

"If there is a test item that they should have scored well on and didn't because it was in the curriculum and taught, then we look at that grade level and group of kids to determine if they need additional work and support," McMaster said.

The assistant superintendent used place value as an example. Students are taught that mathematical concept upon entering the school system as kindergartners. If the MEAP scores indicate students have a problem with place value, then

An ice sculpture provided by Orin Jewelers captures the attention of two youths during Northville's annual Art in the Sun festival June 26-27.

Art in the Sun draws an appreciative crowd to downtown Northville

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The annual "Art in the Sun" festival lived up to its billing last weekend as thousands of arts aficionados hit the streets of downtown Northville.

They came to wander among the booths of 120 artists from in and around Michigan, and soak up the sunny if breezy weather.

Jackie Payne of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the annual event, estimated that 12,000 people attended the two-day festival, more than the 10,000 expected and an improvement over last year's figures.

"We expanded down Center Street this year, and the weather was cooperative," Payne said.

A large ice sculpture carved by Livonia artist Dana Leja Saturday morning drew a crowd of curious kids and adults throughout the day. The sculpture, sponsored by Orin Jewelers, contained a pearl and diamond ring valued at $200.

"The whole thing is to guess what time the ring is going to fall out of there," said Orin Manager Dave Beyer as he watched the ice melt in the sun.

The ring fell at 7:25 p.m. Saturday, and two women tied with their guesses. Beyer said both women, Alicia Hirschfield and Doris McCallum, would receive rings.

Jeanne Rose of Warren, who, with her husband Brian, crafts handmade dolls and miniature chairs of twigs, called the couple's first "Art in the Sun" a success.

"I was very pleased with what we did (in sales)," Rose said. "We left Sunday night with a smile, and that's all that counts. . . . We're going to do it again next year."

When asked what improvements could be made at next year's art festival, Rose said "more Portapotties, maybe."

The couple sets up shop at about 25 art fairs around the state each year, Rose said. Their handcrafted doll business is called Whippersnappers.

Judith Buresh of Garden City, who brought her wide range of pottery items to last year's Art Market during the Victorian Festival, was a last-minute entry in this year's "Art in the Sun."

Council gives thumbs up to Mainstreet '93

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The city's Mainstreet '93 parking deck plan won unanimous city council approval Tuesday following a near-empty public hearing.

The $4.2 million plan to rebuild the Cady Street parking deck and add a tabletop deck south of MainCentre, would be funded mostly through continued diversion of property tax revenue from the city's downtown development district. It is an amendment to Mainstreet '78, the Downtown Development Authority program that spurred a series of downtown improvements and reinvestment over the past 15 years.

The project would be paid off through a combination of tax capturing off an expanded Downtown Development District, about $500,000 in parking credits owed by Singh Development for its MainCentre and proposed CadyCentre projects, a $247,500 special assessment on downtown businesses and an identical $247,500 contribution from city coffers.

No millage increase is planned in connection with the project.

Few turned out for Monday's hearing, and fewer still spoke out against the plan. Those who did criticized its design more than its cost.

Northville resident Mel Anderson noted that the lower level of the Cady deck was not used much even before it was closed due to falling concrete, because it was so dark. Downtown Development Authority Member

Greg Presley assured him that the new deck would be better lit.

Anderson also questioned the need for an elevator at the northeast corner of the deck, and raised safety concerns about such a feature.

Presley noted that the elevator is now required because of the recently-passed federal Americans with Disabilities Act, and added that the stairwell where the elevator would be located will be glassed in and visible from the outside. Mayor Chris Johnson noted that a video monitor could be installed and wired to the city police station.

When Richard Giblan of the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen asked how Cady Street west of Center would be affected by a new deck on that lot, Presley noted that the roadway will remain the same. He added that the new deck's footings were designed only to take up two parking spaces on the existing lot, and that the deck's installation will be followed by the removal of MainCentre's fencing on the lot itself.

"That surface parking would be totally open to the public," Presley said, which is good news for MAGS tenants who have long complained that they were losing critical parking spaces to MainCentre.

Most of the tabletop deck's top floor would be reserved for use by MainCentre residents, to fulfill the city's contractual obligation to MainCentre builders Singh Development.

Presley noted that the deck, now

Cardboard cactuses will line Northville's Main Street Saturday as cowboys, cowgirls and covered wagons ply the city's streets.

The occasion is the 1993 Northville/Novi Fourth of July Parade which kicks off promptly at 10 a.m.

The larger-than-life desert scenes were decorated by members of the Kiwanis Early Birds to match the parade's Old West theme. "We're calling it the Cactus Cascade Trail," said coordinator Debbie MacDonald.

The Kiwanis Early Birds are sponsoring the parade this year along with Northville VFW Post 4012.

This year's parade has been arranged a little differently than in the past, McDonald said, with the traditional decorated bike and pet parades leading the way. Children with the best-decorated bikes will win prizes from Town & Country Cycles, while staff from the law firm of Charles Simkins will hand certificates out to kids wearing bike helmets.

Leisure Time Pet Center staff will be on hand to oversee the pet parade, McDonald added.

LOSS OF FUTURE EARNINGS

One of the factors that an injured person will want to take into account when suing for damages is the amount of income lost due to injury. This should include both past and future income. Loss of past income is easy enough to compute by adding up the amount of work time lost to injury and the income it would have generated. As for future income, its losses due to injury may not be figured in so straightforward a manner. If the injury resulted in the loss of the injured person's job, future earnings until retirement should also be taken into account as should loss of promotion and raises. Those plaintiffs seeking damages for lost wages should be as concerned with the future as with the past. If not more so. HINT: Even if a person were unemployed at the time of injury, he or she can be compensated for any delay the injury caused in entering the job market.

Keep in mind too, that one's earning power generally increases substantially over the course of a lifetime. If you have further questions, or a legal matter which needs attention, RICHARD J. CORRIVEAU & ASSOCIATES P.C. are now welcoming new clients. We charge no fee for the initial consultation, and we handle a wide variety of legal matters, including medical malpractice, divorce and family law, criminal law, civil rights and license restoration. You'll find our office at 426 S. Main St. (360-6800) and we see clients weekdays 9-5, other hours by appointment.

News Briefs

CORRECTION: A story in Monday's Record erroneously reported that Northville Township trustees voted 7-0 to assess Curtis Road residents for the cost of a separate storm sewer. But minutes of the trustees' meeting indicate trustees did not vote to create a special assessment district, but instead board members moved only to direct Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand and Don Weaver to look into the possibility of the township acting as financier for the two affected homeowners on Curtis Road. The Record regrets the error.

PARADE BREAKFAST: The public is invited to attend a pre-parade Independence Day farm breakfast, with an all-you-can-eat menu, Saturday, July 3, at the Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main St., above Genitti's. The cost is $3.75 for adults, $2 for children under 12. The event will run from 6:30 a.m. to parade time at 10 a.m.

HEALTH CLINIC: St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will offer a breast and skin clinic on Wednesday, July 7. A physician will perform a complete breast examination and provide instructions on self-examination. Skin cancer checks for both men and women also will be offered. The cost is $10 and registration is required. Call 591-2922.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school age readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

CITY RECYCLING CENTER HOURS: The city council recently voted to reduce business hours at the Northville City recycling center, located inside the Department of Public Works yard at 650 Doherty Drive. The recycling center will no longer be open Wednesdays between 3-7 p.m. Weekend hours will be cut from every Saturday to the first and third Saturdays of each month, between 11 a.m.-5 p.m.

The move is due to reduced use of the center since the city initiated curbside collection of recyclable materials, and is intended to reduce the need for overtime by DPW workers. Since curbside recycling started last February, average use of the center has dropped to 35 cars on Wednesdays and 55 cars on Saturdays.

The center is available to City of Northville residents only, and identification is checked at the gate.

The center accepts clear, green and brown glass, plastic types 1 and 2, tin cans, household and car batteries, paint, used motor oil and antifreeze, compost material, scrap metal, and newspapers. Liquids should be in sealed, clearly labeled containers. Newspapers should be stacked in brown paper bags or tied into bundles. Telephone books, magazines and road maps are not accepted.

For more information, call DPW spokesperson Becky Dozier at 349-3271.

Planners eye fate of Haggerty Road

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township planners have at least two good reasons for looking at amending the township's master plan and rezoning the Haggerty Road corridor.

Aside from new commercial developments adding to the township's almost non-existent commercial tax base, the Haggerty PUD could bring in additional residential growth.

Township officials examined the advantages of rezoning land along Haggerty between Eight Mile and Five Mile roads under a planned unit development (PUD) option at a public hearing Tuesday.

Planners are eyeing acreage adjacent to Meijer and south to Seven Mile for the PUD. They are also considering land options near the Hawthorne Center and at Six Mile.

Under the PUD option, Northville planners and trustees could approve single developments with both residential and commercial uses. The PUD zoning option would also give the township more leverage and control over development of the corridor.

Tuesday's hearing on the fate of the Haggerty Road corridor attempted to gauge residents' reactions to altering the master plan to allow for the proposed PUD.

At least seven residents from adjacent subdivisions and homes came out to object to any more commercial growth sprouting up in their backyards. Some complained about the noise and commotion coming from Meijer and urged planners not to entice similar businesses into the area.

But that may not be feasible given the recent development in the east side of Haggerty in the city of Livonia. As builders put the finishing touches on Target and the Source Club, planners on both sides of the border are looking at uses that will be compatible with the office and commercial uses that are there now.

A letter from the Livonia Mayor's office urged Northville planners to move cautiously with their plans for developing the corridor. Livonia's city fathers favor commercial development adjacent to Target and Source Club, but are opposed to any more development farther south.

Township trustee Gini Britton and Supervisor Karen Baja spoke as residents and asked planners to extend the PUD zone south of Meijer to the Six Mile Road border.

After listening to residents' comments, commissioners closed the hearing and discussed the issue later during their regular meeting.

Commission chairman Dick Allen broached the idea of extending the PUD zone down to Six Mile. He said the commission had toyed with the idea of extending the PUD south to Six Mile, but held off because of the anticipated development of Ward Presbyterian Church.

But Township Zoning and Planning Administrator Carol Maise said plans for the church have changed since the commission first dealt with the PUD idea. She said now that Ward property owners are considering altering its plan and not developing the full 144 acres they own at Six Mile, there may be some flexibility and mobility at that intersection for other planning uses.

Maise said what's important about studying the corridor is the impact it will have on development there in the future.

west could block access to the MAGS building.

Presley also said future development would need more parking and questioned where the additional spaces would be found.

Citizens District Council Chairman Jim DeHaan presented the city council with a revised report from his committee, an advisory body that was formed to analyze the plan's impact on downtown residents.

"We preferred the Mainstreet '93 plan (to Mainstreet '92) because it was less costly and the special assessment was more modest and less likely to have an effect on property owners that would impact downtown residents," DeHaan said.

The city already has spent about $700,000 in property acquisition, design and legal fees over the past several years.

fore they are installed.

The Mainstreet '93 plan faces at least one more public hearing. A Tuesday, July 6, hearing has been called to take feedback from downtown property owners who would be assessed part of the $247,500 special assessment used to fund part of the plan.

Council Member Paul Folino announced his continued opposition to installing restrooms in the new Cady deck. "There's not a city around that has them, and the ones that have had them have taken them out," he said. "They're a liability to the city."

Johnson responded that the council already has agreed to review the need for restrooms, and will do so be-

A 25-year-old Northville woman returned to her apartment last Friday and found someone had been inside her home while she was gone. The woman told police she left the apartment to go swimming in the complex pool. When she returned, she said she found cigarette butts inside the apartment on the kitchen floor and in the trash can. The tenant told police no one in the apartment smokes and apartment management said no maintenance personnel had been let into the apartment.

VANDALS SMASH SCHOOL WINDOWS: Township police were called to Meads Mill Middle School on Saturday, June 26, to respond to a broken window pane on the northeast side of the school building. While at the scene police were also notified of a similar occurrence at Winchester Elementary on June 24. Police have no leads or suspects.

RECKLESS DRIVING: A 26-year-old Romeo man was ticketed Saturday for driving his 1993 Ford Taurus recklessly. The man reportedly lost control of his car while traveling eastbound on Pickford. He struck a ditch on the south side of the road. The vehicle hit the front end of the ditch first and then bounced back and struck the rear end. The incident caused damage to the lawn of the adjacent home.

PORTABLE PHONE TAKEN FROM BAR: An employee of Woolly Bully's reported a portable phone missing from a table inside the restaurant a month after the appliance was stolen. The Cellular One phone, valued at $795, was taken from the table on May 28. Police have no suspects.

POLICE NAB SUBJECTS FOR POSSESSION: In two separate incidents in the last week, township police picked up four men from the former Wayne County Child Development Center and ticketed them for possession of marijuana.

On June 23, officers saw two men exiting the abandoned school property east of Sheldon Road. Officers did a quick frisk of the two and found one marijuana cigarette and two roaches in the pocket of one of the subjects. During the search, several others converged on the police unit, but a 19-year-old Pontiac man fled when he saw the police car. Police chased him down and took him into custody. All three were ticketed for trespassing. The Pontiac man was also cited for possession of marijuana and for interfering with police. He was released after posting $100 bond.

On Thursday, in a separate incident, township police cited an 18-year-old for possession of marijuana and driving with a suspended license. Police retrieved the subject and found a small quantity of marijuana, a pipe and rolling papers in his car.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: A car parked in the city lot at Wing and Dunlap had its driver's side mirror knocked off sometime between 11 a.m.-9:45 p.m. June 26. Damage to the vehicle, a silver 1990 Chevrolet Astro, was estimated at $25.

JUVENILE ARSONISTS CAUGHT: A Randolph Street resident noticed three Northville youths trying to burn their way into a wooden shed the evening of June 18, and held the youths until city police arrived. The three reportedly were using sparklers to burn through a padlock on the shed door when they ignited the wooden door, causing $30 in damage. The youths, all 13 years old, were arrested and released to their parents.

The shed's owner agreed not to prosecute in exchange for having the youths repair the damage and repaint the shed themselves.

SHOPPING CART VANDAL TRACKED DOWN: City police used a license plate number to track down a driver who disabled an Arbor Drugs shopping cart May 29. The 56-year-old Plymouth man told police June 16 that he rammed the cart accidentally, and agreed to pay restitution. Arbor officials originally estimated the damage at $300.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police arrested a Detroit man, 37, whose driver's license showed five suspensions, after stopping him for speeding west on West Main between Wing and Rogers the night of June 25. The man had failed to appear in court on three prior traffic warrants and failed to comply with a court judgement in another case. He was released after posting a $335 cash bond.

YOUTHS CHARGED WITH TRESPASSING: Four local youths were charged with trespassing at a Main Street home June 26-27 after being ordered to stay out of the home. The homeowner, who had asked for help from city police in enforcing her ban, stopped by the house with two police officers at 9:30 p.m. June 26 and found five youths hiding in a closet in her son's bedroom. Two of the five, an 18-year-old Northville man and 17-year-old Northville girl, had been warned about trespassing before and were issued citations that night.

Police returned the next night at 7:50 p.m. and found two more youths, a 17-year-old Livonia male and a 17-year-old Northville male. They, too, were charged with trespassing.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Take The Next Step At Wayne State University...

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country. They are taking classes at our main campus in the University Cultural Center in Detroit or on one of our satellite campuses while others go to our University Center at Macomb Community College.

Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation
- Cost — the only Michigan public university with a negative increase in tuition costs over the past decade based on inflation
- Financial aid — During 1991-92 WSU awarded $50 million in aid to students

So go ahead and take the next step. Simply clip and mail the attached coupon and we will send you more information about transferring to Wayne State.

Last two police officers leave under city's retirement plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Partners since the 1970s, two Northville City police officers with more than 40 years of service between them spent their last days on the force together.

Sergeants David DeLauder and Don Lancaster retired from the police department yesterday under a city-approved plan designed to trim the officers' ranks and the police budget.

He signed up after serving on Redford Township's reserve forces and spending a two-year stint in the U.S. Army.

When he joined the Northville department in 1970, with its one patrol car, DeLauder said he was handed a map and a book of traffic tickets and told to hit the streets.

Lancaster, a Tennessee native, said he was inspired to join the force in 1971 by his father, who served as an officer in a small town outside Memphis. Though the elder Lancaster was killed in a traffic accident in 1956, his son said, "I always had an old photograph of him around, and just started getting interested in it then."

Lancaster's family moved to Northville in 1959 and he joined the police department after graduating from Northville High School. "I even arrested a couple of guys in my class," he said with a smile.

The perennial partners share a fondness for each other and their fellow officers that is bred by the long hours and potential danger of police work.

"When we see each other, our tails start wagging," Lancaster said. "You have to depend on the other person more than if you're a factory worker or a landscaper . . . You have to make sure the person is there if something goes down."

Over the past two decades, the two have seen the city transform itself from a rural town into a suburb as apple orchards along Eight Mile Road fell to developments like Abbey Knolls and Pheasant Hills and rowdy downtown pubs gave way to gift shops and jewelry stores.

Before they were removed during Mainstreet '78 renovations, DeLauder recalled, parking meters lined the downtown streets and it was up to the police officers to empty the change out of them every midnight. DeLauder recounted one night when he and former city police officer Howard Reeves got a call of a fistfight at a local saloon, and forgot about the bucket of coins that was still perched on the patrol car.

"We took off to the bar fight and left the whole damn bucket on the fender," DeLauder recalled, laughing. "We didn't know whether to stop and pick up the change or go to the fight."

Both officers cited the June 1991 deaths of two joggers on Eight Mile Road as among their most tragic cases. The joggers, brothers-in-law Yusuf Hanania and Albert Abdelnour, were killed when a Jeep driven by Novi resident Kenneth Loveday swerved onto the shoulder where they were running, and Lancaster was the first officer at the scene.

"Pretty heartbreaking to see those families after their dads had been killed," DeLauder said. "All you can do is investigate as best you can and hope for a conviction."

As the traffic officer in charge of the case, it was DeLauder's duty to investigate the scene on Eight Mile east of Beck. He spent the next five days there, taking measurements, reviewing the sequence of events and reconstructing the incident.

"When that case went to trial, I was never more confident of an investigation," DeLauder said. "I just wanted it right; I thought the family deserved that."

Loveday eventually was convicted of negligent homicide and sentenced to 15 to 24 months in prison.

From day to day, both men agreed, the most difficult part of police work is the toll it takes on an officer's family life.

"You've got to have the right family to do this job," DeLauder said. "There are some ungodly hours and you've got to work holidays . . . You miss anniversaries, birthday parties, Christmas, Thanksgiving, Easter, but you've got to do it. It's something that goes with the job."

Lancaster noted that he has two grown children from a previous marriage who live in Florida. "That's one of the reasons it's a previous marriage, working here," he said. "Police work does take a toll on marriages."

On a more positive note, Lancaster said he met his current wife Debbie when she was a waitress at the Palace restaurant, now the Dandy Gander. He said retirement will give him more time with their 11-year-old son Mark.

"I get to catch up now," he said, grinning. "Mark's at that age where we can have still a lot of fun."

Both men said they plan to take at least a month off before reentering

the job market. DeLauder said his immediate plans include finishing a second home "up north," near Black Lake, with the help of wife Maxine and 21-year-old son Mark.

After that, his future is less certain, and for right now he seems to like it that way.

"I can't be satisfied as a security guard. I know that," DeLauder said. "Once you're a policeman, you're always a policeman . . ."

"But I may just give it up and go fishing."

the day before and brought samples of her work to the chamber to be judged for the juried art fair. "We squeezed her in at the last minute," Payne said.

Buresh, who said she often spends time in Northville with her family, called her first "Art in the Sun" a pleasure. "We always have a nice time in Northville," she said.

Buresh markets her pottery through galleries and by word-of-mouth more than art fairs, but she said she does participate in a half-dozen festivals a year at "a few choice shows." She avoids crowded venues like the Ann Arbor art fairs in favor of smaller ones like Northville's.

"I like the small-town atmosphere and the easy access," she said.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Gary and Anne Wakenhut of Collecting Consort, a harp and dulcimer ensemble playing Victorian tunes.

Food was in plentiful supply during the festival as well, as local eateries including Rocky's of Northville, Papa Romano's and Caffe Bravo were augmented by Mr. G's Concessions, Almond Hut, Donna Trasko's Popcorn & Cotton Candy and Cold Stuff Inc.

The Kiwanis and Northville Rotary dished out their usual sausage sandwiches and hot dogs.

Main and Center streets were closed to vehicles over the weekend as local merchants held sales to coincide with the two-day event.

Treasurer Robert McMahon said he felt the budget should reflect a higher figure, as the district may be responsible for paying up to $650,000 in retirement and FICA costs.

"I think it should go out in information we send that there's a range there," he said. "I think the community should be aware that could be a higher figure (than anticipated)."

On the revenue side of the budget,

the district is expected to take in $24,221,714 in local monies, a 5-percent increase over last year's revenues. Items expected to bring money into the district include:

- Property tax — $24,228,164. Again, this figure is based on a 5-percent assessment increase. There is still no word from Lansing whether or not property tax assessments will be frozen or possibly capped at 3 percent. From these revenues, however, the district is figuring a $280,000 diversion, over $13,000 more than last year, to the Northville Downtown Development Authority and its tax capturing plan. The district had planned to receive this $280,000 with the expiration of Mainstreet '78, but the city plans to amend the plan and continue diverting part of the tax revenue for an additional 11 years.

- Tuition — $36,050. A 3-percent increase is reflected this year over last year's figure.
- Interest — $132,527. Again, a

3-percent increase is expected.

- Rent — $25,750. A 3-percent increase is expected.
- Other — The district expects to receive $79,222 from other sources and grants.

In addition to the above revenue items, the district is expected to receive $588,130 for programs such as the Wayne County Center Programs, and from intergovernmental sources. Other income will include $32,960 from state sources and $272,906 in federal monies, bringing the grand total to $25,115,709.

Other variables affecting the budget will be the freezing of the $72,663 position of director of instructional services. William Hamilton left the district yesterday to accept a position in the Walled Lake school district.

Also, Hamilton's secretary will not be replaced, saving the district another $32,000.

On the other hand, all of the district's bargaining unit contracts are up, which will also more than likely affect the budget.

"Clearly, this is preliminary," Remmersd said of the budget. "We'll have to do some strategizing and minimizing . . . the board has been put in a position predicated on what-ifs."

Township firm seeks new location at city Ford plant

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Rapid expansion has forced a Northville Township firm to seek the vacant Ford Valve Plant as its new home.

The city council now must decide whether the proposed move by R & D Enterprises Inc., which may hinge on a tax abatement and city purchase of part of the Ford plant property, is right for Northville City.

The council was scheduled to review R & D's proposal yesterday at a special 8 p.m. study session, after the Record's deadline. But the firm's initial proposal reportedly was based on city agreement to purchase 2.4 acres of property west of Griswold for $350,000 and grant R & D a 12½-year, 50-percent tax abatement. In exchange, the city would be given the four acres west of Griswold known locally as Ford Field, and about four acres of land and waterway between the plant and the property's northern boundary.

R & D Enterprises President Richard D. Cox said his firm already has been offered tax abatements by surrounding communities and he has discussed the possibility of relocating with officials in Westland, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Brighton and Wixom.

"I was offered 12½ years and 50 percent in Westland, and I have to look at that as opportunity costs lost if we look at a lesser rate," he said.

"I think in any case, the city's going to wind up with more taxes."

R & D will have to consider a lesser rate according to Northville City Manager Gary Word.

"We're going to try and get by without a tax abatement," Word said Tuesday. "At the very least, it's not going to be 12 years."

The city must hold at least two public hearings before any tax abatement is granted, he added.

Word said city officials also are concerned about the condition of the aging dam located on the Ford property, in part of the waterway that would be turned over to the city.

"If there's anything imminent (in needed repairs), I just don't think we want that liability," he said.

Both sides agreed that Ford officials have gone out of their way to get the proposal to this stage by lowering their asking price for the plant from an advertised $1.75 million, though Ford's current price to R & D has not been made public.

"I really honestly think Ford has bent over backwards," Word said.

Cox went further, saying, "My opinion is that Ford has done double back flips trying to make this work . . . They're trying to make a good name for Ford because they're certainly not making any money on the deal."

R & D produces heat exchangers for the marine industry, but hopes to expand into the broader industrial market, Cox said.

"The products that we make conserve energy," he explained, by cooling mechanical elements like transmissions and engines.

Cox said production of heat exchangers at his light manufacturing firm, now located in a 9,600-square-foot building at 19430 Gerald Ave., is increasing so quickly that the business must relocate before the end of the year.

"We're going to have to move out October or November," Cox said Tuesday. "Our business is growing at a rate where we can't work out of here any longer . . . It's imperative that we make a move or we will be unable to supply."

"Either we're moving to that plant

or we're moving somewhere else."

He attributed the increased production to heightened demand from current clients like Detroit Diesel and a new contract with Mercury Marine.

"We grew last year at 46 percent and we're running almost 30 percent ahead this year," Cox said. The company's contract with Mercury Marine will increase its production by another 30 percent, he added.

The firm's 28-member staff includes five workers and an engineer hired in the past year. Acorn Stamping Inc., a metal stamping plant now located in Rochester that has been doing the firm's stamping work for nearly 20 years, would relocate its operation and 10 employees into the Ford Plant with R & D.

"Our intent is to buy that company, and bring them in at the same time," Cox said.

R & D posts more than $2 million in annual sales, he said, while Acorn has more than $1 million in annual sales on its own.

The firm would occupy up to 20,000 square feet of the Ford Plant's 53,489-square-foot main floor, while the metal stamping operations would take up an additional 15,000 square feet. "We intend to grow into the rest of it," Cox said.

Cox, himself a former Ford engineer, set up the business that was to become R & D in his Belleville home in 1974. "I was still working at Ford and running the company out of my garage," he said.

The fledgling three-man firm ended up in Northville Township in 1978 after a half-dozen moves. "Now we're 28 strong and looking for two more," Cox said.

Cox said he hopes his firm will be able to work out of the Ford Plant for nearly 20 years. "The whole goal down the road is for us to establish a world-class facility in a historic building," he said.

'Western Days' theme highlights the parade activities for the holiday class marathoner Kurtis leads a covered wagon supplied by Jake Haag of Novell, Michigan, who is bringing members of his Novell Bicentennial Wagon Train to Northville for the occasion. With three to four covered wagons and up to 25 horses, the entry is sure to be the hit of the parade, though it may take a heavy toll on the "Super Duper Pooper Scoopers" following each of the animal acts.

Haag's riders took their name from their role in a miles-long wagon train to commemorate the country's founding in 1776. The wagon train traveled from Washington State to Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and grew as it went along as people like Haag joined up. Haag said he took his wife and family along for the ride.

"We kind of made a vacation out of it, and you never had a vacation until you went by wagon train," he said.

Haag added that he would be bringing more wagons except that it's haying season on the farms around Norvell and most of them are in use.

The parade will be filmed by Omnicom Cablevision and narrated by local consultant Charles Keys, who picked the winning Old West theme. It runs along its traditional route north on Griswold, west on Main, south on Rogers, east on Cady and south on Wing until the participants head east on Fairbrook back to the Northville Downs.

McDonald said the parade could not take place without support from groups like Northville Downs, which is donating its facilities to parade participants. "If we did not have the Downs to line up in, I don't know what I'd do," she said.

She also noted that the parade will cost organizers about $4,000.

"A lot of people still don't understand why we have to raise money for it," she said. "Over half of that goes right toward paying bands, and that's a common practice for parades."

As of Tuesday, parade organizers had raised less than half the needed funds. They hope that additional sponsors and brisker raffle ticket sales will make up the difference.

Raffle tickets are $1 a piece and McDonald noted that the list of awards is growing beyond the $300 first prize, $200 second prize and $100 third prize listed on the ticket as companies donate gifts and gift certificates to the parade. One such company, Consumers Power, chipped in with a gas grill and several gift certificates.

Those prizes will be awarded along with the cash prizes during the July 13 drawing.

Mill Race Matters

Independence Day will be celebrated on Saturday, July 3, at Mill Race Village immediately following the parade through downtown Northville. Please take note of the date change. All events have been scheduled for Saturday, July 3. Activities get under way at the conclusion of the parade, about 11 a.m. Participants will include: Novi Concert Band, Dulcimer players, 21st Michigan Reenactment Company, 17th Michigan Reenactment Company, Mill Race Basket Guild, Mill Race Weavers' Guild, cloggers, and the Northville Jaycees.

The Jaycees will provide children's games, Frank Cunningham and Ron Omar will work throughout the day blacksmithing, local scouts will do face painting, cotton candy and balloons will be local scout troops, the Northville Historical Society will be holding a bake sale, and all Mill Race buildings will be open for viewing. Items will be available for purchase from a number of sources. Bring your own picnic lunch to eat on the green and enjoy a traditional, old fashioned holiday.

Members are encouraged to drop off items for the bake sale on Friday, July 2, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Profits from the sale are to be used to defray the cost of repainting Hunter House this summer. Special thanks this week to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hall for donating antique china. Members will be pleased to learn that Helen Gilbert has been able to identify many of the ladies pictured on the back of the current Mill Race Quarterly. Identifications will be available in the September issue.

In 1966 an unidentified individual decided to share memories of a local old-timer Clifford Cranson, then 81. The following is excerpted from those comments: "His grandfather Ashley, built the Waterford dam (now a pond at the northeast corner of Six Mile and Northville Roads). Water was released from the dam, traveled directly west, under the railroad tracks, turned south and paralleled Northville Road, under Six Mile Road to the old Meads Mill (sometimes called Waterford), and from there west cross Northville Road to the farm implement factory (where part of Cass Benton Park is now located). Water was carried in the chute made of cypress wood."

"After Meads Mill was burned out they went to Plymouth to get some financial aid; someone came up with the necessary money and this unidentified person and the Meads built the Phoenix Mill."

"Cranson's great grandfather, Gannett, was instrumental in getting the Meads interested in starting the first mill at Waterford. . . Ashley lived in the Reservoir Drive area, too. He died and is buried in Osceola, Florida. . . Other members of his family stayed behind. His wife, Nancy, one daughter, Lucy. . . The stone in Waterford (for Ashley) is a merry stone only. Nancy or Mrs. Ashley Ramsdell, died in the brown home, immediately next to the Cranson home at 218 S. Center Street."

"Children of Gannett Ramsdell were: Thomas, Ashley, and Johnathan G. . . Ashley had seven children: Wendell, Anna, Evelyn, William, Madge, Lucy (Cranson's mother), and Abe. Wendell is buried in Florida with his father."

Board establishes tax levy at hearing

By MICHELLE KAISER
Staff Writer

No one spoke during the Northville Board of Education's truth in taxation hearing Monday night and at least one board member feared the lack of participation may have been due to confusion.

The routine hearing was held due to the district's June 14 millage election. Its purpose was to accept public comment before school officials formally established the tax levy on taxable property in the district for this year.

Treasurer Robert McMahon said he was aware of the district's legal advertisement in The Northville Record announcing the truth in taxation hearing, but felt the district should do something to explain the legal jargon in the mandatory ad.

"We need a better presentation in lay terms," McMahon told board members.

Board president Carol Rahimi reminded the treasurer that any additional advertisements could prove costly to the district.

McMahon said he understood that, but was afraid of the amount of confusion and doubt in the community.

Supt. Leonard Rezmierski said he would suggest that a "guest column" explaining confusing issues be submitted to the local newspaper.

After a few minutes of discussion, board members approved the following tax rate:

Voted operational mills — 22.63.
County allocated mills — 8.9

rolled back to 6.92.

Total operating millage is 29.55, compared to 29.86 levied during the 1992-93 fiscal year.

Debt millage — 4.3 mills.

The total millage for Northville Public Schools is 33.85.

Board members also adopted the amended 1992-93 debt fund and special revenue fund budgets at the meeting.

Local revenue of $3,389,000 million was generated by the 4.3 debt mills, while expenditures included $1,780,000 in principle and $2,041,423 in interest. Another $1,223 in various expenses resulted in the district losing $483,646, and lowered the projected debt fund balance to $931,825.

In the area of special revenue funds, the district expects to break even in the areas of special education ($6.7 million); athletics ($332,237); early childhood ($750,000) and food service ($770,000).

In special education, the district received state and interdistrict monies which in turn paid for operating expenses.

Over $212,000 of the athletic fund came from local sources, including gate receipts and fees charged in the pay-to-participate program.

Likewise, the $750,000 coming from local sources to operate the early childhood program was used for operating expenses.

In the food service budget, $630,000 was generated on a local level, $70,000 from the federal government and $70,000 from interdistrict sources.

School officials will seek input on cuts

Our Opinion

Test scores by building can prove enlightening

Once again, we hear education officials warn of the hazards of comparing the scores of students taking the Michigan Education Assessment Program tests.

An article appearing in today's Record compares the 1992 MEAP scores of students in each building of the Northville School District, and the story has prompted educators to repeat their oft-expressed caveat that the tests are not meant to serve as a comparative measure pitting district against district, or, as in this case, building against building.

It is true that the MEAP test is designed as an internal tracking device providing school districts with a means of identifying and targeting areas of weakness. The primary function of the test is to see if a district is meeting its objectives of offering improved instruction from one year to the next. Test scores can lead to curriculum adjustments to address areas of deficiency.

Nevertheless, the MEAP test forms a convenient yardstick for comparison purposes because of the broad and uniform manner in which it is administered. Public school observers and news organizations often use MEAP scores to make cross-district comparisons, and parents frequently consult MEAP results when making home purchase decisions.

We believe these are valid uses of the MEAP, even though the test might not have been intended primarily as an instrument of comparison. All of education, after all, is done on a comparative basis and even in classes where curve grading is not practiced, marks do nothing other than reflect the achievement status of a student relative to his or her cohorts.

The building-by-building comparison that runs in today's paper does not by any means cast suspicion on the quality of education in any single school in this fine district. In fact, few patterns are discernible. Amerman students, for example, scored highest among elementary children in reading and math, but lowest in science. Additionally, Cooke Middle School students outpaced their Meads Mill counterparts in math and reading, but Meads Mill students were higher in science.

But while nothing profound can be concluded from it, we believe the potential questions raised by such a comparison may prove interesting and useful. Parents of Amerman students can feel pleased that their children's school was the best among the district's four elementaries in reading and math, but are entitled to ask why was it lowest in science.

Similarly, parents of students attending Meads Mill may be prompted to wonder why that school bested its opposite in only one of three subject areas. Can the discrepancies be attributed to differences in programming, teacher dedication or student effort, or were they due to nothing more than natural variance?

Questions such as these, we believe, justify the use of a table presenting, side-by-side, the results of the MEAP scores from the individual buildings.

Who knows, maybe an annual comparison of this type will lead to a little healthy school rivalry and inter-district competition. The least it will do is get people thinking, and that in itself isn't all bad.

Wisdom for the hard headed

Lee Snider

Some people have to learn their lessons the hard way.

I had been ticketed twice for not using my safety belt, but it took a confrontation between my forehead and the windshield of my car to really sell me on the idea.

It all happened so fast I'm still not sure exactly what went wrong. I saw the Northville Township patrol car up ahead on eastbound Seven Mile, but I figured it was moving with traffic. I took my eyes off the road for what seemed like just a second or two, then looked up just in time to spot the scout car's bumper a few feet ahead and closing fast.

I tried jamming on the brakes but it was far too late. My next recollection was of a police officer staring at me through the window of my car, saying, "Don't move. . . Don't move."

Hopefully, you read Monday's account of the accident in which I plowed into the rear of a police car, totaling both my little Subaru and the cruiser. The officer was stopped in the right lane of the highway to issue a ticket, and I hit his car at close to 45 mph. The impact thrust me forward with terrible force, sending my chest into the steering wheel and my head into the windshield.

How I escaped with only a few stitches on my forehead and right knee, I don't think I'll ever know. The next day, I went to inspect the wreckage of the car and retrieve a few items I left inside — an extra pair of glasses, a jacket, my eyebrows. The interior was littered with glass and pieces of dashboard, and the windshield had a dent in it matching the shape of my head. The steering wheel was bent backward and wires dangled from the steering column. It looked like a genuine death trap.

The day after the accident, my head felt like it had been used in a soccer match and my chest felt like it had a semi parked on it. I had to stay away from soda pop for a few days. It hurt like mad to hiccup.

I was able to make it into work two days later but, with a bloodied nose, a head wrap and a leg brace, I looked like a Civil War casualty with a hangover.

With my new facial design, my forehead now bears a striking resemblance to the lunar surface. I'm considering naming the bumps after mountain ranges.

At this point, I have no idea what (if any) marks my mirror will reflect to remind me of what happened. Still, when all is said and done, I have to admit I was lucky — very, very lucky. Consider these facts: I wasn't wearing a seat belt, I was driving a subcompact foreign make and I went from 45 to zero in a fraction of a second.

When you take all that into account, the bills, the soreness and the wounded vanity seem pretty insignificant. And, in a real stroke of good fortune, I was wearing fresh underwear when they took me to the hospital. Mom's advice, as usual, really paid off.

I'll tell you this much, I've learned my lesson in a big way — from now on I'm wearing my seat belt whenever I get behind the wheel. That is, as soon as I get a car to drive.

Self coverage is a tough call

Michael Malott

The toughest story a journalist might ever have to do is one that involves himself or herself.

Well, maybe there is one even more difficult story . . . that's the one that involves the boss.

The staff here faced the former dilemma last week when Northville Record and Novi News Editor Lee Snider drove his Subaru up the back end of a Northville Township police cruiser on Seven Mile Road near Pierson Wednesday afternoon. Snider said he was distracted for a moment, and when he looked up he saw that he was about to rear-end the police car.

Officer Larry Demeter had a truck pulled over to the curb and was seated inside the cruiser, checking the driver's license when the accident occurred. The force of the impact pushed the cruiser into the back of the truck.

Snider, who was not wearing his seatbelt, hit the windshield and got a nasty cut on the forehead. He also cut his knee. Demeter got bounced around in the patrol car and wrenched his back, aggravating an old injury. Demeter needed several days off to recuperate. The driver of the truck fortunately was not injured.

Once it was determined the injuries weren't too serious and Lee was back on his feet, the razzing began. He came back to the office Friday to find his desk cordoned off with yellow "police line" caution tape. He was accused of being an editor who was "trying to make news." He was asked why he is "always on the police department's tail."

Then came the hard part . . . how to handle the story in the newspaper. Sharon Condron, who regularly covers the Northville Township police department, drew the assignment. And we had a good deal of discussion here in the office about how it should be handled.

Is it a story at all? Should Lee be named in the story? How extensive should it be? How much detail should be included? Should we include the expectation that Lee would be ticketed? Should we run a photograph? Where should it be placed in the paper?

The temptation of course is to find some reason to declare that it is not a story and avoid the whole thing. But that obviously wouldn't be fair . . . not fair to our readers who expect objective coverage, not fair to our sources who don't always like what they read in the newspaper, and not fair to all those people who argued at one time or another that they should not be named in the paper but got named anyway.

In the end, the only pertinent question was, "How would we handle it if any other prominent member of the community had done the same thing?" From there, all the answers became clear. I have to tell you that I'm proud of these two. Lee made a mistake driving. Fortunately, things did not turn out worse, either for himself or Officer Demeter. And he will have to accept the consequences when it comes to the ticket and his insurance company.

But when it came to journalistic fairness and professional ethics here at the newspaper, both Lee and Sharon did their jobs flawlessly.

To the Editor:

As an active student at Northville High School, I have been impressed by the city leaders' concern for the kids. By setting up a Teen Task Force and inviting me for my input, I feel our community has taken a giant step in the right direction to keep kids away from some of the problems they face. Through brainstorming, we have come up with some ideas such as a teen center that would make kids happier. However, to make our ideas work, we need other kids' input so the parents don't take over and make this great idea flop! So this is an invitation for anyone to come to a task force meeting Wednesday, July 28, at 7 p.m. at the Township Board Room. We are inviting all students — from the athletically inclined to the ones who like to smoke. If we can get everyone to come and offer his or her positive suggestions, we will be looking forward to a bright future in Northville.

Teachers union has vast power

To the Editor:

Tim Richard was right on in his article entitled "Is the NEA as bad as Forbes says it is?" published in The Nott News June 17. (I hope it will also be published in The Northville Record.) Tim refers to a Forbes magazine article about the powerful teachers union, the NEA, and its Michigan leadership entitled, "The National Extortion Association."

Tim rightly derides the conservative Forbes when it links teacher salary to declining test scores and touts a voucher system.

However, when Tim writes, "Forbes exaggerates the teachers union's strength, at least in Michigan," I must differ.

If power is measured against the strength of your opponent, then the MEA is powerful indeed. Teacher contracts are negotiated locally in Michigan, with local school boards going head-to-head with the very well-financed and well-trained MEA representatives. While no one officially admits it, no local contract goes to a vote of the members before it is approved by the MEA in Lansing. The American Legislative Exchange Council study states from 1989 to 1990 Michigan teacher pay rose 4.3 percent while private sector wages rose 1 percent.

The MEA's PAC is the top spender in Michigan and the NEA is the third highest nationwide. Could that explain why teachers have incredible job protection through archaic state teacher tenure laws?

The strength of the NEA is evident in another area. Michigan has NOT experimented with teacher quality incentive programs as have 14 other states. The NEA has traditionally opposed all attempts to bring accountability to the teaching profession. The irony is, by opposing these incentives, the NEA is denying legitimate career opportunities to its members. If the NEA leaders are from Michigan, as the Forbes article pointed out, is it any wonder we find no career ladder, peer review, mentor teachers, or merit based compensation programs anywhere in Michigan?

I don't think Forbes did overstate the power of the MEA/NEA.

Support on drive appreciated

To the Editor:

Manresa Caravan 217, Order of Alhambra, would like to publicly thank the people of Northville and Meijer shoppers for their support of our annual cannister collection held Saturday, June 19.

As you know, the mentally impaired persons of this area are the "big" beneficiaries of our services.

Manresa Caravan sponsors picnics, boat outings, bowling dates and circus days to local people such as Our Lady of Providence, Novi Friendship Club, Old Village School, Moraine School and the St. Louis Center.

Having collections and donations from you is basically our only means of income that enable us to continue our fine work.

We have never been disappointed with the people of Northville and you didn't let us down Saturday either.

Thank you and God bless,
Bill Lorenz,
Cannister Chairman,

Downtown is not in good shape

To the Editor:

Do you read the paper you're the editor of? I find it difficult to believe.

In your "Downtown change is lasting," you stated that Don Wortman was probably right that Northville's business district is doing quite well.

Then why did you on 5-A ("Lack of customers reason merchants closing doors") state that three of Northville's downtown businesses closed within a week's time period — actually less — a five-day period.

Who calls this doing well? Not the owners of the three businesses, that's for sure.

And as far as the business district adapting to new market conditions — what conditions are these? Ones in which we have several of the same type of businesses in town? How many of the same type of businesses do you need to have in a two-block radius? I see a big need for a quota to be put on how many and how close these businesses should be. How many theaters does this town need? How many bakeries, how many different places to get your hair cut?, etc. Yes, one thing is for sure, downtown change is lasting, but how long will downtown last with changes like these being made. Northville is losing the last of its downtown charm to a strip mall mentality of every man for himself. Doesn't anyone look around before deciding to open a hair salon. Gee, we already have five, maybe we should open a pet shop instead. Doesn't anyone do market research here and why is there no consideration for the older established businesses in town? It will be a sad day when Northville isn't Northville anymore and it becomes just like the rest of them — Livonia, Novi, etc.

Next time read before you write.

Congress keeps wasting money

To the Editor:

Unaccounted are the ways the U.S. of A. wastes the taxpayers' money. For the past three years we have been spending over $16 million annually on T.V.-MARTI, a TV station which beams anti-Castro propaganda towards Cuba (International Law is flouted when one nation beams anti-government TV signals into another nation). Castro has so effectively jammed the TV signal that not one Cuban has ever seen any of the programs beamed their way.

Members of congress should stop wasting the taxpayers' money, remember, "The economy stupid!"

Time to insist on TV standards

Phil Power

My 11-year-old son Nathan was talking with my wife Kathy after dinner. I was reading a magazine and not following their conversation. Suddenly, a line:

— "There are only two or three fights a week at school now."

I sat bolt upright. "What's that about fights again, Nathan?"

"Just what I said, Dad, only two or three fights a week."

Now, Nathan goes to a good public school. It's not perfect, but the principal is tough and fair, and the kids look like the face of America: hopeful, varied, mostly decent.

I remembered my own school in Ann Arbor, back in the '50s. I could recall only one fight in my entire school career.

I asked Kathy, who grew up in a little farming town in Wisconsin and then lived in Oklahoma. One or two in her entire schooling.

Of course, society has changed since Kathy and I were growing up. It's coarser, more varied, less restrictive, more open. And without doubt, much more violent. Nathan's two or three fights a week are a reflection of the times he is growing up in.

What's the major contributor? Television, of course.

Hearings earlier this month in Washington featured the usual parade of self-serving industry mouthpieces arguing: 1) Violence is what people want to watch. 2) Violence on TV doesn't necessarily cause violent behavior. 3) Anyway, restricting violence on TV violates the First Amendment.

Rubbish.

For years, a growing band of researchers has been pointing to the link between kids exposed to violence on TV and their consequent aggressive and violent behavior.

A recent summary article in "The Public Interest" by Brandon S. Centerwall, an epidemiologist at the University of Washington, concluded that no less than seven U.S. and Canadian studies show a correlation between prolonged childhood exposure to TV and a tendency to physical aggression that extends from before adolescence into adulthood.

What can be done?

Centerwall suggests requiring that all television sets be manufactured with locking devices through which parents can control children's access to certain channels.

That's a good idea, although it presupposes the kinds of parents who are worried about their children's exposure to violence in the first place.

It also assumes that acts of violence are confined to certain channels at certain times. Wrong. Most parents know perfectly well that even regular network prime time programs — including Saturday morning cartoons — are absolutely shot through with violence.

Following the example of the tobacco companies, we certainly can't depend on the television industry to regulate itself. Maybe we are at the point where decent people operating through the government have got to say there must be certain standards for TV and that's it.

Young wasted opportunities to act

Tim Richard

He was an old-time Republican state representative back in the late 1960s and early '70s — bald, didn't smile much, rarely got his name in the wire service stories. I can see his face even if I can't recall his name.

John Bennett, Democratic state representative from Redford Township, was pushing his pet bill — a regional water board to replace the Detroit Water Board.

But the old-time Republican was from Sturgis or some small city that had its own water and sewer department. Like Detroit, his town sold services to surrounding suburbs. He didn't want to see his town's suburbs someday trying to take over the water and sewer department.

So the old guy cast a deciding "no" vote in committee against Bennett's bill. He voted with Detroit! This outstate, white, small-town Republican actually voted with Detroit!

It was an advantage that Coleman Young, as mayor of Detroit for nearly 20 years, failed to exploit. Items from a suburban newsman's scrapbook:

■ Young for 19-plus years has been Detroit's delegate to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. He has never shown his face at the SEMCOG General Assembly or Executive Committee — 234 meetings. SEMCOG is extremely important. Even when it doesn't do much, it's a place where local elected officials come to respect each other and get their rough edges sanded off. They don't talk ignorant rot like "Hit Eight Mile Road" to each other.

■ Young was inactive in the Michigan Municipal League, an association of cities and villages. Municipalities — particularly Pontiac, Flint, Port Huron, Saginaw, Benton Harbor, Sturgis — have a lot in common with Detroit, particularly preserving older neighborhoods and downtowns and blocking urban sprawl. Appointed once to a committee, Young never showed up in two years.

■ Every so often, usually at the beginning of a term, Young would talk about cooperation with neighboring communities. But he never lifted a finger or rode one mile in his armored limousine to follow through.

Young's policy was to look out only for one city — not the towns of 200,000 or 50,000 or 5,000 that had the same problems. He helped shape the popular but wrong-headed notion that associates "urban" with black-dominated cities of more than 1 million people.

And so he squandered two decades, almost a generation, of opportunity to help all cities and villages, including Detroit. He ignored potential allies, like the old, bald Republican state representative.

Young is retiring. Dennis Archer will be the next mayor of Detroit. I wrote a column two years ago saying Archer had the same bad attitude toward "the (white) media" as Young. Archer replied by sending me one of his questionnaires on what I thought Detroit's problems were and how to resolve them.

I had only one basic suggestion. If Mayor Archer is serious, he'll show up at SEMCOG meetings. Not everybody may love Detroit and Detroiters, but the old city has a lot more potential allies than Young imagined.

school officials are alerted and begin to implement lessons to reinforce place value theories.

"We've always done that," McMaster said. "That's just a matter of course."

In the 1992 MEAP results, Amer-

man Elementary students scored the highest in math and reading while Winchester Elementary scored the lowest. Moraine Elementary students came in the highest in the science division while Amerman scored the lowest.

At the middle school level, Cooke students excelled over Meads Mill pupils in both math and reading while Meads Mill topped Cooke in science.

It should be noted, however, that all scores in the Northville district rated far above state average levels. McMaster cited several reasons for the above average scores.

"First and foremost I think it's the

RECORD OUR TOWN

CRUISIN'

Local car buffs caravan to show

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Anyone who strolled into Kosch's Deli last Thursday morning may have thought they'd entered a time warp.

The restaurant's Novi Town Center parking lot was jam-packed with classic cars, mostly from the 50s and 60s.

It was the beginning of the WHND "Honey Radio" sponsored trip up to St. Ignace for the annual Summer Cruise classic car show and festival.

This was the first year that the WHND cruise left from Novi. In past years it has departed from Southfield, but the location changed this year to tie in with the '50s Festival. Kosch's provided a free breakfast for all of the participants.

People drove from as far away as Grand Rapids just to depart from Novi. But there were Novi faces in the crowd, too.

One of the faces belonged to Brent Canup, whose 1958 Chevy beat out 200 others in its class at the show to win the "Best of the Late Great Chevys" trophy. He and his wife Diana were among the crowd that left from Kosch's Thursday and returned Sunday.

Canup bought his car about a year ago and, mechanically, it was "in very poor shape," he said. "Body-wise, it looked a lot like it does now."

He did extensive work and replacement of the mechanical parts of the car. Then he raised it up and added lots of chrome and spoked wheels to "make it look more sassy," he said.

Car restoration is Canup's hobby. In fact, the 1955 Chevrolet that the Novi Rotary Club is auctioning off this year was one of his projects.

"Of all the car shows I've been to, it is the tops," Canup said of the Summer Cruise in St. Ignace. "Everything runs very, very smooth and it's very well organized." This was the fifth year he attended the show, which has taken place for 18 consecutive summers.

The drive up was uneventful, he said, except for some overheating of one of the cars in the caravan — not his, of course. "But we took care of that problem and got back on the road," he said. "The trip was fine and the cars all ran fine."

CINDY STEWART

President of '50s Festival invites all to participate

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you are a Novi resident, new or long-term, you know there is a town spirit in Novi like nowhere else. And if you're not in on it, here's your opportunity.

Cindy Stewart, president of the Michigan '50s Festival, invites you to become a part of this sixth annual event, which will attract outsiders — residents, too, of course — to five days of entertainment at the Novi Town Center July 21-25.

Featured events, Stewart said, will be a softball tournament, a car show, live entertainment, a petting zoo, a moon walk kiddie ride, a lip-synch talent show for kids and adults, food concessions, and a fireworks display.

It's true that Stewart is city-employed as Public Information and Public Relations person for Novi, but heading the '50s Festival spills into unpaid overtime, making her a volunteer.

She and her board of 11 men and women, most of whom are in business in town, have been meeting twice a month, planning the Festival. They hope to make a lot of money — enough to buy a portable stage for the Parks and Recreation Department to use outside, especially for summer concerts.

If this year's '50s Festival attracts the 60,000 to 70,000 people it did last year, largely outsiders who shop in the malls and then come to the festival, the goal should be reached.

But more volunteers, Stewart said, are needed — volunteers to work behind the scenes at the information booth, car show and cruise, Family Show Tent, pop sales, entertainment, ticket sales, bar service, sock hops, and the Festival office.

"We wouldn't be able to do this without volunteers," Stewart said, and as inducement, she added, "It's a good way to learn more about your city and to meet people."

"We'll put you to work, but it's fun. You'll enjoy it."

Local earns first in DAV contest

Kelsey Jenny of Northville won first place in a Disabled American Veterans (DAV) drug awareness poster contest.

The fourth grade William Allan Academy student earned a $100 savings bond for her efforts. The award was presented by Ken Wilcox and Bill Houghton, representatives of the Howell branch of the DAV.

The poster contest involved students in schools throughout Michigan. This year, 485 posters were submitted in the contest.

The posters were judged by a committee and 12 awards are given (first, second and third places) to four grade-level groupings.

Also winning a first place finish from William Allan Academy was Joe Wood, a fifth grader. He also received a $100 savings bond certificate.

Newcomers news

Mary Ann Chumbley and Claudia Tocci have been selected as co-chairpersons for Interest Groups of the Northville Newcomers.

Mom and Tots Playgroup — July 7 at Maybury State Park each Wednesday, 10 a.m. It is not necessary to RSVP. Plan on meeting in the main parking lot in front of the swing sets and petting farm. There are picnic tables available for those who would like to pack their own lunches. A Wednesday volunteer is needed to head this group.

Grigg earns award

Wesley Grigg, an eighth grader at Meads Mill Middle School, became the fourth recipient of the Jody Schwartz Memorial Award earlier this month.

Grigg will use the $200 award to purchase needed hockey equipment to fulfill his dream of playing goalie on a hockey team for the University of Michigan and later on a professional team.

The award was created from donations by family and friends in memory of Jody Schwartz who died suddenly in the summer of 1989 before entering eighth grade at Meads Mill. Eighth grade students are encouraged to apply for the annual award by Mrs. Barbara Willoughby, English teacher, and Dr. Sharon Pernia, counselor at Meads Mill. Selection from the 14 applicants was made by Pernia, principal David Longridge, Cindy Wagner, Martha Nield and Andy and Shelly Schwartz.

High school accredited

Principal Thomas Johnson of Northville High School has announced that the school's North Central Association (NCA) accreditation has been extended through the 1992-93 school year.

"Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators, each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school and on such supplementary information as the Commission on Schools requests," Johnson said. "The continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

The NCA is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies. It is a voluntary coalition of over 7,000 schools and over 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19-state region of the central United States. The association works with schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation.

MEADS MILL

Meads Mill hosted the Liv-Oaks Middle School league competition on May 19. Two hundred sixth, seventh and eighth graders from 14 schools attended. The students blended to form teams of five and competed in four types of math challenges. This contest was conducted by members of the Northville High School National Honor Society.

Four Meads Mill students and teacher Steve Sutherland traveled to Cooke for the Liv-Oaks computer workshop. The students learned new and different applications of technology. Participating from Meads Mill were Laurie Boloven, Michael Addison, Kathryn Griebel and Kathryn Terakedis.

On Monday, May 24, the eighth graders traveled to Northville High School. The students heard about the opportunities available at NHS from athletic director Dennis Colligan and assistant principal Ralph Redmond. The Meads Mill students elected five freshmen delegates who toured NHS. The five delegates join the Cooke delegates to become student class officers and congress representatives next year.

In an eight-week program entitled Project Business, eighth graders at Meads Mill worked with adult volunteers from five different businesses, including Ford Motor Co. and a public utility. Taking time out from their busy day, the adults presented lessons as well as hands-on activities that provided students with the opportunity to discover how businesses work around the world. Students received certificates of achievement to place in their portfolios. This is the sixth year Meads Mill was selected for this Junior Achievement project.

RIB CRACKER: Dave Doehler and his friends provided the eighth grade with an assembly on aerodynamics. The high point was an outdoor demonstration with model airplanes.

MICHAEL DEREM: Civil War expert, Michael Deren provided Meads Mill eighth graders with experience like Civil War boot camp. Students learned about the music of the era. This assembly was sponsored through the junior enrichment series of the PTSA.

LIV-OAKS TRACK MEET: The Liv-Oaks track season drew to a close at the league meet. Teams of half of the schools in the leagues competed at NHS. The concession stand was operated by the Meads Mill and Cooke PTSAs as a joint project.

SIXTH GRADE NEWS: Meads Mill sixth graders are making the "electrical connection." They have been experimenting with electromagnets by manipulating several variables such as wire gauge, core diameter, and different voltages of batteries. What's next? Students will build an electric motor (that works) to show that electrical energy can be changed to mechanical energy.

A fantasy trip to Europe (with an unlimited budget) is currently being planned. Each student has selected a country and researched everything, with the help of PC Globe in the computer lab, from vital statistics to native foods and customs. The itinerary should be seven to 14 days and include a visit to a private home as well as their country's famous places.

The end of year Academic Olympiad was a huge success, thanks in large part to the help of many capable parent volunteers. Each student competed in three different events. The emphasis for each was different. One was to construct a working project, another was a more intense effort to become a "mini" expert in an area of study, and the third was just for fun.

The grand finale was an optional "egg drop," which took place just before the awards ceremony. Everyone enjoyed the break from the regular outing as well as the spirit of competition.

Sixth graders got a kick out of the recent fifth grade visitation. Many vividly remember the mixed feelings of excitement and anxiety that they had experienced just a few short months ago. The message here is "Don't worry. You'll survive. We all look forward to seeing you in the fall."

PTA News/Elementary Schools

Amerman PTA members of the June 1 meeting were treated to an educational presentation by Matt Hare and Michael Mattis from Mrs. Janice Henderson's fourth grade class who demonstrated the Lego Logo Program purchased by the PTA. The students did a fine explanation and the parents are pleased to see the PTA funds go for such a worthwhile cause.

The Ice Cream Social on June 4 was as popular as ever with prizes, games and lots of food for all to enjoy. Many thanks to those who participated to make this such a great event and especially to chairperson Marie Rumbley.

Many enthusiastic student bikers watched on as Helene Rimer, Outreach Coordinator for Head Injury Systems from the Rehabilitation Institute of Michigan, spoke about bicycle safety. A representative from Town & Country Cyclery, Inc. in Northville talked about bicycle tune-ups too. The importance of wearing a safety helmet was stressed.

Also, the Art Appreciation Committee bought new books at a 20-percent discount, thanks to the generosity of Mrs. Berclay Ruschak, owner of the Bookstall on the Main. We really appreciate the support of local business.

The Security Subcommittee is in need of volunteers to help monitor the sign-in forms and to issue badges to visitors to the school. If anyone has any further suggestions regarding school security, please contact Mr. Anderson.

As another school year comes to a close, let us not forget education is an ongoing experience throughout the summer months as well. Some summer activity suggestions for boys or girls include reading 30 minutes a day, keeping a daily diary, beginning a hobby or putting on performances for friends and relatives by making simple puppets and a cardboard playhouse. Finally, take the time to hug your children every day and praise them for even the smallest accomplishments.

Have a great summer and see you at the next PTA meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 9:15 a.m. in the library.

Any time you have an idea for a story we should write.

rode with City Manager Ed Kriewall in Kriewall's 1971 Challenger convertible, said the number of classic cars on I-75 grew larger and larger as they travelled north.

"We picked up cars along the way," he said. "People (who live along the route) strategically timed it to join in with the group."

Show organizers estimated 35,000 cars and 90,000 people were in St. Ignace for the weekend show. Participants came from as far away as California and the cars and people who traveled there last weekend exceeded the population of the town.

WHND radio disk jockey Jerry Pantlow, who was on hand for the departure from Kosh's, said the weekend is always "like you died and went to Fifties Heaven."

"It's like American Graffiti, with people hanging out the windows and having tailgate parties," he added.

For the car show on Saturday, participants had to line up by 3:30 a.m. "We went there at 3:30 and lined our cars up, then went back to bed," Canup said.

Novi Police Chief Doug Shaeffer, who drove up in his 1966 GTO, did the same thing. The GTOs, he said, were America's original "muscle cars."

Once the sun came up, the car show day was "absolutely beautiful," Canup said. "It was an absolutely picture-perfect day."

The number of classic cars in town was "unbelievable," he added.

"There was a whole strip with cars lined up, parked along the road," he said. "They blocked the street off and the cars ran from expressway to expressway."

Gilbert estimated that the cars on display in St. Ignace, parked door-to-door, would have stretched about four miles.

"If you were to set those cars next to each other and place them perpendicular to the road, they would stretch from Beck Road to Haggerty," he said.

There were many radio interviews going on, he said, as well as people filming the national car show "Wild About Wheels."

"The fascinating thing is... look where it's at," Canup said. "Yet there were 90,000 people there. I talked to people from Detroit who drove up there just for the day."

It takes about five hours to drive from Detroit to St. Ignace.

"I think what draws so many people there is that it actually is a chance to drive your car for some distance," Canup said. He's already made his hotel reservations for next year.

"I had a wonderful time," Gilbert agreed. "This car show, to me, is more exciting than Christmas morning. It is one of the premier car shows that we attend."

Of course, people did the usual "fudge" or tourist stuff while they were there. Most of the Novi participants took in the sights and sounds of Mackinac Island, and nobody went hungry with all of the fudge, pasties and whitfish dealers catering to the crowd.

"We saw the sights of the area and played the typical tourists," Shaeffer said.

"We ate lots of fudge and we brought home lots of fudge," Canup said. "If nothing else a trip to Mackinac Island is worth it for the fudge."

Art performs well in theater gallery

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Last fall, the restoration of a Main Street store in Northville to create the Samuel H. Little Theater unearthed a massive expanse of beautiful old brick walls — a wall space that begged to be filled.

Now it has been, thanks to the recent opening of the Little Art Gallery at Genitt's.

You could call it a case of simultaneous inspiration. Toni Genitt, who owns the theater with her husband John, called up Northville artist Julie Giordano and asked her to start up a gallery. Giordano, the owner of the former J. Giordano gallery on Main Street, meanwhile, planned to call Genitt with just such a proposal.

"She (Genitt) said 'Look, I wear bifocals and I'm on blood pressure medicine. I don't need any more headaches. Would you run this as your own?'" Giordano explained.

"It's a shame not to fill the walls with artwork."

Giordano brought together a group of her friends for the show that opened the gallery on June 19, "Women of Artistry." Featured now along with Giordano's watercolors are the works of Susan Argiroff, Sharon Dillenbeck, Carol McCreedy and Norma McQueen. All are Michigan artists successful in marketing themselves in local shows, she explained.

The paintings hang in the theater's lobby, as well as in the theater itself. The location is convenient for the theatergoers as well as for Genitt's lunch and dinner crowd, many of whom just pop next door.

The focus at the Little Art Gallery is on art which is more traditional and realistic, rather than trendy and modern.

"It's not going to be very contemporary. I don't want to compete with Atrium Gallery (also in Northville)," Giordano explained.

Most of the artists will be from this area.

Plans call for two exhibits a month, sometimes with live music on the sidewalk in front of the gallery, to lure in potential art lovers.

Coming up on July 10, the Little Art Gallery's second show will be the photography of Walled Lake resident Ray Rohr. Giordano said Rohr works in black and white with dramatic lighting.

Artist Julie Giordano runs the new Little Art Gallery in Northville.

'Forest' recalls golden age of animated films

"Once Upon a Forest," now playing at area theaters, is set in the enchanted wood of childhood where animals are capable of every human emotion and expression.

There, three small creatures journey from their shady glen into a world of wonder and danger in a daring attempt to save the life of a friend.

Against backdrops which recall the golden age of storybook illustration, the animated musical adventure marks a new direction not only for its characters but also its creators.

Released by Twentieth Century Fox, "Once Upon a Forest" is a Hanna-Barbera Production produced in association with HTV Cymru-Wales Ltd. The film is produced by David Kirschner and Jerry Mills, directed by Charles Grosvenor and written by Mark Young and Kelly Ward, based upon characters and a concept created by Rae Lambert.

The animation is directed by Dave Michener, and the music is by James Horner.

"Once Upon a Forest" is the first full-length feature produced by Hanna-Barbera. Productions since David Kirschner, who created the classic "An American Tail" and brought it to the screen with Steven Spielberg, became the studio's chairman and resident "fantasist."

When Kirschner joined Hanna-Barbera, the birthplace of such celebrated characters as Yogi Bear, Huckleberry Hound and the Flintstones, he set out to expand its well-known artistry. He found the perfect vehicle in a project in development, a contemporary fable with a theme which, he says, "intrigued me as the father of two small children."

The youngsters in this story don't know what they're trying to do is impossible. Through their innocence and inexperience, they don't under-

Abigail, the wood mouse; Edgar, the mole; and Russell, the hedgehog, are among the most mischievous "furlings" their inventive mentor, the badger, Cornelius, has ever had to guide in the ways of the woods.

He can't be sure whether youngsters are getting naughtier or he's just getting older. But even when they demolish a scale model of his latest and greatest contraption, the flying flapper-wing-a-ma-thing, or wander beyond his watchful eye to the borders of humankind, he remains nurturing to his young charges.

It is during one of their nature rambles that civilization — in the form of a runaway chemical truck — careens into the carefree existence of their forest, Dapplewood.

As a toxic mist seeps through meadows and burrows, blocking the sun and blighting the trees, the victims include Cornelius' tiny niece, Michelle. Only an ancient cure, concocted from the herbs eyebright and lungwort, can save the little badger's life. But the gas has poisoned the foliage of Dapplewood.

Somewhere, beyond its borders, there must be a meadow where these plants still grow. But though the "furlings" have no idea where it is — or how to get there — they conquer their fears and scamper bravely off into unknown realms.

Rae Lambert, who devoted 15 years to the adventures on which "Once Upon a Forest" is based, is both a gifted storyteller and an acknowledged authority on herbology, wildlife and animal lore.

"In the midst of Rae's marvelous make-believe, there's always a kernel of truth about the natural world," observes screenwriter Mark Young. "Eyebright and lungwort are, for example, real herbal remedies, made into potions by our primitive ancestors, who observed their curative effect on animals."

Not only did their color-splashed flowers provide a visual feast for the film's artists, but the plants' peculiar properties advanced the plot. Since lungwort grows only at high elevations, Abigail, Russell and Edgar discover it blooming on the face of a cliff.

The only way to reach the precious herb is to fly, a skill for which none of the creatures comes naturally equipped. But they do have the model plans for Cornelius' flapper-wing-a-ma-thing, a cross between a da Vinci vision and a flying runabout designed by Rube Goldberg.

That, in turn, leads to a dizzying display of aerial acrobatics in a wildly wavering wind-whipped craft, flown by a novice hedgehog, a wing-walking wood mouse and a mole with a congenital fear of heights.

Another key sequence with its origins in nature is the funeral procession of the gospel-singing marsh birds. Led by Phineas, a soulful great crested grebe, the birds march through the marshes to a Dixieland beat, bemoaning the fate of a member of their flock. But as the "furlings" soon discover, the subject of the dirge isn't deceased — simply stuck in the mud — which transforms the birds' woeful wail, "He's Gone," into a top-tapping celebration, "He's Back."

While the sequence is a rousing production number, like a New Orleans street parade in a fantasy swamp, it was inspired by a very real problem," says Kelly Ward.

"When construction takes place in certain rural areas, the marshlands are drained. What's left is a shiny, sticky surface of mud. Birds land, sink into the ooze and die. And even those who survive lose their nesting grounds."

Director Charles Grosvenor and writers Young and Ward were deep at work on this blend of imagination and natural lore when Kirschner came to Hanna-Barbera. Given the studio's phenomenal success in television, that seemed the likely outlet for their efforts.

But Kirschner had other ideas. "I'm a sucker for animal stories of any kind, and 'Once Upon a Forest' was like a 'coming of age' story with animals," he said. "I loved what it said — about values, about friendship, about the capacity of kids, just when we're certain they'll never grow up, to do the most wonderful, unexpected things."

"If these little creatures can save a life, maybe they can save a forest as well."

'Last Action Hero' — Hamlet it's not

By SCOTT SIGLER
Staff writer

Okay, so it's not Shakespeare.

But what did we really expect from the current king of the box office? Mega-star Arnold Schwarzenegger has built an entertainment empire on thrilling action/adventure epics.

One might not expect Schwarzenegger to bite the hand that feeds him, but his new movie, "The Last Action Hero" is a light-hearted parody of the genre that has made him a multi-millionaire.

Schwarzenegger is heavy-metal hero Jack Slater, the stereotypical, indestructible, lone-wolf cop. Slater's good-guys-always-win world is thrown into chaos by a magic ticket, a device capable of transcending the boundaries between fantasy and reality.

The ticket catapults pre-teen movie fanatic Danny Matigan (Austin O'Brien) into the glowing silver-screen realm — particularly into the shoot-'em-up setting of Jack Slater.

In a classic bad-writing improbability of Hollywood, the diminutive Matigan and the sauntering Slater are teamed up as partners. As Slater slaves to solve the case, Matigan thrills to being a part of the movies he has always followed with the fervor of a religious zealot.

Endless jaunts between fantasy and reality give the film a truly original slant on the trite action/adventure theme. Slater is a fictitious character — the "fantasy," while Danny comes from the "real world." The transitions between the two worlds are dominated with high-octane action and low-grade laugh attempts. While there are some genuinely funny lines, the action-hero death-puns still draw groans of amusement.

from the unrealistic, endless stream of perfect women to the indestructibility of the main character. Arnold even takes multiple cracks at himself.

Not only is Slater the main character of the movie, but Arnold makes an appearance as Arnold, attending the "real world" movie premier of Jack Slater IV.

At the premier, great scenes of marital nagging with real-life wife Maria Schriver establish Schwarzenegger as an existing part of the firmament of reality. With this established, it becomes easier to accept Slater as an actual person, above and beyond one-dimensional characterization and the "actor" who is playing him.

Schwarzenegger continues to rip the action/adventure formula, actually apologizing to his fans for the reduced carnage of Slater IV.

"We only kill 48 people in this picture; in the last one we killed 119," Schwarzenegger proudly boasts to the media at the movie premier, but he is quick to appease his blood-thirsty fans. "We make up for this with a good story, a lot of emotion, steps, direction . . ."

Clearly this is from a man who keeps his work in perspective.

Perspective is also apparent in Arnold's view of his acting. His acting has never received rave reviews, and while fans flock to the box office his critics continue to slam his ability. Arnold gives the critics a dig as well, via the penultimate acting bellwether of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

Perhaps more than any other theatrical character, the portrayal of Hamlet is the measure of serious ability. Schwarzenegger turns Hamlet into a macho, gun-slinging, castle-blasting death machine who walks through the finale of the Shakespearean classic with guns and bad puns ablazing.

"Something is rotten in the state of Denmark," the deep-voiced narrator calls over the scenes of

Arnold wading through the population of Denmark with an Uzi and an attitude. "And Hamlet is taking out the trash."

I hope they have insurance on Elsenore Castle.

Highly exaggerated action in Slater's world adds to the fun-poking of the standard action-hero's super-human abilities. He really hammers the bad puns, bad plot twists and bad writing of the box office bastions.

While far from a thought-provoking flick, the movie slams the one dimensionality of the action-hero. The film honestly tries to look at the whole character, and what would happen to a hero if he was a real person with a life beyond the on-screen antics.

The typical mega-budget Arnold pic, "The Last Action Hero" comes up short. A fun take-off on the action/adventure stand-by the movie isn't a classic . . . even by Schwarzenegger standards. It lacks the hard-core punch of "Predator" or the "Terminator" films, and it lacks the relative realism of "Kindergarten Cop."

While cheesy and melodramatic, it's fun and fairly entertaining. It covers all the basics, and it continues in the "Sensitive Arnold" mode we've seen in his last few movies. The Schwarzenegger conventions, however, still remain solid.

Shuddering explosives, whizzing bullets, matchless bravado and super-human impossibilities dominate the flick — all the things we've come to love in the muscle-bound movies.

If you are entertained by Arnold, you'll probably enjoy "The Last Action Hero." If you aren't an Arnold fan, don't bother — the movies has nothing unique that is going to change your mind.

Besides, if you don't like Arnold in the first place, you can always watch a classic.

I hear "Hamlet" is pretty good.

Want to be a critic?

Seen any good movies lately?

If you have, we'd like to hear about it . . . we'd like to hear exactly what you think — good or bad.

What we're saying is that this is your opportunity to play movie critic in your HomeTown newspaper.

If you're like most movie-goers everywhere, you probably think you know as much about the movies as anybody else. In fact, you probably think that you could write reviews that are every bit as good and probably a great deal more accurate than the reviews you see in other newspapers, magazines and on television.

Well, this is your big chance.

In trying to make our brand-new Movie Page even more valuable to our readers, we're inviting our readers to share their opinions about the movies with us and their neighbors.

Sony, we're not offering any type of financial rewards if we print your comments, but we will give you a by-line — and then you'll be able to clip out your review and show all your friends that you're a published movie critic.

You can review a newly-released movie or a movie that is available on video. Please limit your mini-reviews to 100 words and send them to HomeTown Newspapers, c/o Phil Jerome, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI 48843.

The reviews should include your name, address and day-time telephone number.

If you have any questions or want more information, please call Phil Jerome at (517) 548-2000.

Look out, Siskel and Ebert. The HomeTown movie reviewers are about to do their thing.

Kemp, Davis make top team

Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area first team for 1993 provides an awesome assortment of hitters and top-notch pitchers, including three Class A All-Stars.

Millford's All-Stater Monique LeGris holds down first, and All-State slugger Jenny "Power" Sorge of Lakeland guards the outfield. The plate is defended by second-year All-Stater and 1993 Hometown Newspapers Player of the Year Tracey Nepjuk of Lakeland.

The rest of our lineup is rock-solid. Nov's shortstop Kelly Barton led the Wildcats in nearly every offensive category and was a first-team All-KVC choice. Second baseman Sarah Kemp provided Northville with one of the area's top leadoff hitters with her amazing bunting and base-running skills.

A pair of pitchers share the mound duties. Millford's Sarah Kirsten earned her second trip to the All-Area mound with a 14-7 record. Nov's Erin Bjerke, just a sophomore, became a dominant pitcher in the KVC as well with her pin-point control.

Now let's meet the all-area first team for 1993 as picked by the sports editors of the Northville Record, Nov News, Millford Times and South Lyon Herald:

"She's probably one of the better players around," said Millford coach Mark Pingston. "She's an outstanding fielder, she even plays shortstop."

LeGris hit .346 with 28 runs, 11 RBI, two doubles and one triple.

"She has such a knowledge of the game," Pingston said. "She's one of those players that fills a lot of voids. She has a lot of leadership."

"Other teams saw her as a big threat, someone who was always going to get on base."

LeGris will attend Hillsdale College in the fall where she will play softball.

SARAH KEMP

Northville, second base

base percentage of nearly .500.

Kemp wreaked havoc with enemy defenses. Friemund said teams often tried with little success to take the bunt away from her by moving in at the corners.

"It's like she's on roller skates," he commented. "It seems like she's just moving that fast."

Mustangs place two on All-Area second dream team

The 1993 Hometown Newspapers All Area second team recognition this season, the most dominant being Millford's Chris Hinka. South Lyon's Yvonne Blyskal, put in the All Area second team outfield, should be a player to watch behind the plate next season. Christi Green was as good as gold behind the plate for Northville, digging pitches out of the dirt and nailing would-be base stealers. Green was also put in the outfield of our all area team.

Designated hitter Sara Christenson of Northville was slowed by injuries this spring but still proved to be a tough out and a potent force in the middle of the Mustang lineup. Julie Swinehart threw flames on the mound for the Wildcats. Lakeland's Misty Mabe gives our second squad another great arm.

Three triples and four doubles. "She's got a good arm," Pingston said. "Not too many are going to steal on her. She calls the game for me, she sets up the batters. She's the quarterback of the team."

CHRISTINE EDWARDS

Novi, first baseman

Though she was just a sophomore, Edwards' second varsity season was a smash hit — literally. As the Wildcats No. 3 batter, she scored 32 runs while knocking in 24 with four triples and a home run.

"She's got a very good glove," coach John Peace said. "She's got a lot of confidence and poise."

As might be expected with such a young player, the coach said Edwards often makes great plays but has trouble with easier ones. With a little more time, Peace said, her concentration will improve and eliminate such mistakes.

"In key spots," he commented, "that's where she was best."

HEATHER PERRY

South Lyon, second base

One of the bright spots of a very long South Lyon season, Perry used her versatility to make the team better.

"She's quick. I could put her anywhere," said first-year coach Dianna Kampen.

Perry's quickness was apparent on the bases, where she led the team with 22 steals. Kampen felt the junior could have many more steals next season.

Kurtis wins Minnesota marathon

Northville's marathon man has done it again.

Doug Kurtis added another trophy to his already bulging award case last month by winning Grandma Marathon in Duluth, Minn. Perfect conditions helped him secure the victory, he said.

"It was in the low 50s with a slight breeze," Kurtis said. "The weather was perfect."

Kurtis finished the 26-mile race in 2:16:38. It was his second win at Duluth and his fastest time in four years.

Kurtis owns the world record of sub-2:20 times, now with 71. His performance also earned him another honor.

"It was in the low 50s with a slight breeze."

"It's the fastest master's time in the world this year," Kurtis said.

The 40-year-old described the Minnesota race as one of the five most competitive in the country. Some 6,000 athletes competed in the marathon.

"It's a great field," Kurtis said. The win didn't come easily. Kurtis trailed much of the way but caught a New Zealand runner in the last two miles to take the victory.

"It was a real close race," he said. "I won by 17 seconds."

Kurtis has been busy in the first half of the year. Duluth was his eighth marathon. Despite the workload, he said his enthusiasm is still high for the sport.

"I haven't felt I've been doing too much," said Kurtis.

He said he won't run another marathon until the fall. Until then, Kurtis said he plans on running in a few 10-kilometer races and a half-marathon.

Kurtis will likely compete in the Northville "Road Runner Race" on July 24. The 8-kilometer race will start on Cady Street and wind through downtown.

Besides her great on-base percentage, Kemp hit .386, scored 25 runs and stole 28 bases. "I thought she was the best leadoff hitter around," Friemund said.

Novi, shortstop
An excellent all-around athlete, Barton became a dominant hitter this spring. Batting cleanup for the Wildcats, she knocked in an amazing 45 runs in 39 games. "She's a free swinger," Novi coach John Peace said. "But I think she got a little more patient at the plate. This year she was able to wait on the ball and wait on the changeup." Barton led Novi with 43 hits, 28 runs and a .347 batting average. She reached base nearly 50 percent of the time.

SARAH DEMAR

Lakeland, third base
Demar spent most of the season at first base, but also put in time at third. With LeCris taking up the first-base spot, the HomeTown writers wanted Demar's hot hands on the hot corner. Demar had an amazing .971 fielding average while setting a school record 263 putouts. "Fielding was her strength," said Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths. "She was fearless at first, she gets behind the ball." Demar was strong with the bat as well, hitting .370 with 22 runs, 34 hits, four doubles and 18 RBIs. Demar had an on-base percentage of .478.

KRISTIN DAVIS

Northville, outfield
Davis rose from obscurity on the diamond to a feared No. 3 batter in the Northville lineup. "She hit line-drives all the time," said Friemund, the Northville coach. "Even her outs were good hits. She's a very smooth and confident hitter." After getting only 10 at-bats as a junior, Davis put up good numbers in '93. She batted .422 and slugged .714 while leading her team in RBI and hits. Davis was chosen as all-conference in the Western Lakes Activities Association. "She's always had a nice swing," Friemund said. "But I think this year she learned how to hit."

JENNY SORGE

Lakeland, outfield
This senior All-Stater blasted the ball all year, and came close to hitting over .500. "She had over .500 going into districts," said Griffiths, the Lakeland coach. "She had a super year." Sorge finished the season hitting .475 with 48 hits, 30 runs, seven doubles, six triples and 33 RBI. On top of this amazing hitting performance, Sorge set a school record with 44 stolen bases. Sorge, Lakeland's female athlete of the year, was the Eagles' co-captain and was named All-KVC. Her .475 batting average ties her for third on Lakeland's all-time list.

ALLISON WATKINS

Millford, outfield
Last year as a sophomore, Watkins shattered the league with five home runs and a .543 average. This year, the opposition knew what they were up against when they faced the junior. "Other pitchers and other teams zoned in on her," said Pingston, the Millford coach. "Last year she was a new player and they didn't know what a threat she was. They didn't pitch to her this year." Despite the defensive attention, the Homer Heroine hit .412 with 23 runs, 45 RBI, nine triples, five doubles and, yes, two home runs. "She was our bread-and-butter kid," Pingston said. Watkins was named all-district, second team all-region and honorable mention All-KVC.

ERIN BJERKE

Novi, pitcher
The sophomore took over as Novi's top starter early this season and kept KVC batters off-balance with her excellent control. Peace, the Novi coach, said Bjerke doesn't blow batters away — she doesn't need to. "She throws medium-hard," he said. "She's a placement pitcher, in and out, up and down." Bjerke went 15-7 while posting a 1.71 ERA. She struck out 147 while walking just 10 in 151 innings of work. "She gained a lot of poise about halfway through the season," said Peace. The sophomore contributed at the plate by knocking in 24 runs and scoring 22. Bjerke hit .269.

SARAH KIRSTEN

Millford, pitcher
"Slingin'" Sarah was slightly down from her 18-4 1992 season, but she was still one of the most dominant pitchers in the area. Kirsten went 14-7 with a 1.70 ERA and 165 strikeouts. "We couldn't do what we did without her," said Pingston, the Redskins coach. "Five out of her seven losses were one-run games. She really kept us in games. She was absolutely our best pitcher." Kirsten was also a terror from the other side of the plate, leading Millford with a .439 batting average. Kirsten had 21 runs, 25 RBI, four doubles and two triples. Kirsten was named all-district, All-KVC and second team all-region.

Soccer Stars

Concert planned for tonight in Novi

Special Writer

Dust off the lawn chairs, clean out the picnic basket, grab the family and head for the Novi Civic Center on Thursday evenings. Have we got a concert for you tonight, July 1.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble featuring Ursula Walker will be performing for their sixth year at Novi Parks and Recreation Sounds of Summer Concert Series. Brookside Jazz Ensemble, featuring 18 Detroit-area jazz musicians, is a high-energy big band à la Stan Kenton. Ursula Walker, one of the finest jazz vocalists in the Detroit area, will be belting out

many great jazz tunes.

The Brookside Jazz Ensemble and Ursula Walker is a fantastic group well worth repeating," said Terry Cahman, project coordinator for Summer Sounds.

All area music lovers would be wise to mark their calendars for every Thursday at 7 p.m. and get a good seat in front of the Novi Civic Center. This year there will also be free lemonade and pretzels for concert goers. Tonight's concert is also giving away blowing bubbles to the first 50 to arrive (unless the concert is moved indoors due to rain), and a free drawing for lunch for two at Novi's newest restaurant, Red Robin in the Novi Town

Center.

Janet Tenaj and Sven Anderson Ensemble performed on June 24 and were well received. Listeners commented that from the quality of the first concert, the list of upcoming concerts and prior year concerts, Novi Parks and Recreation 1993 Sounds of Summer Concerts should not be missed. These concerts are brought to you by Providence Medical Center, Ford Motor Co. Foundation and Novi Parks and Recreation. They are all free and will happen come rain or shine.

The rest of the summer line-up is as follows:

July 8: Myk and Mary. Rock duo playing pop hits of the 60's and 70's.
July 15: Straight Blue. Jazz quintet from Hope College.

July 22: No concert. Michigan '50s Festival.

July 29: Bakra Bata. American Steel Drum Band based in Seattle.
Aug. 5: Howard "Louie Blue" Armstrong and Ray Kamalay. '30s blues and Tin Pan Alley standards.

Aug. 13: : Novi Concert Band. Novi's own community band performs classical, semi-classical, marches, show tunes, etc. at the Providence Hospital site on Grand River and Beck roads.

Warning signs for periodontal disease

Dr. Kathryn
Hoppe, D.D.S.

Your teeth are meant to last a lifetime, and they can, with the proper care. By daily thorough brushing and flossing and regular professional cleanings, most periodontal diseases can be avoided.

Periodontal diseases are the major cause of tooth loss in adults. After age 35, about three out of four adults are affected by some form of periodontal disease. However, it can occur at any age. Even children as young as 5 or 6-years-old can have signs of some of these diseases. But they can be prevented.

Periodontal diseases are caused by certain types of bacteria in dental plaque. Plaque is the sticky, colorless film of bacteria that constantly forms on the teeth. If this plaque is not removed through daily cleaning, it produces toxins or poisons that can irritate and inflame gums.

Eventually, these toxins destroy gum tissues, causing the tissues to separate from the tooth and form deepened spaces called pockets. These pockets can then hold more bacteria and the process can progress so that the gum tissues detach even further until the bone and other supporting tissues of the teeth are destroyed.

You may not even be aware that you have periodontal disease because it usually doesn't cause pain. But there are warning signs to alert you:

- Gums that bleed (even a little) during tooth brushing or flossing.
- Red, swollen or tender gums.
- Gums that have pulled away from the teeth.
- Bad breath that persists.
- Pus between the teeth and gums.
- Loose or separating teeth.
- A change in the way your teeth fit together

when you bite.

A dentist can alert you to periodontal disease by using a small instrument, called a periodontal probe, to measure the depth of the space between the tooth and gum. This will determine if you have periodontal pockets. Generally, the more severe the gum disease, the greater the depth of the pockets.

Again, periodontal diseases can be prevented by thorough daily plaque removal by brushing, flossing, eating a well balanced diet and regular dental visits.

When plaque is not removed, it hardens into a rough, porous deposit called tartar. Once tartar forms, it can only be removed by a professional. If it isn't removed, new bacteria and plaque attach easily to form more tartar, thus allowing the progression of the disease.

So, brush, brush, brush, floss, floss, floss.

Dr. Kathryn Hoppe has a dental practice in the Novi Professional Village, 23985 Novi Road in Novi. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.

"The only thing holding her back is confidence in her speed," Kampen said. "Once she gets that she should be tops in the league."

Perry, a switch-hitter, hit .270 and led the Lions with a .386 on-base percentage. Perry was named honorable mention All-KVC.

KRISTY SHERY

Milford, shortstop

Shery, a junior, should be one of the top players in the KVC next season. She hit over .300 for most of the year, but a slump late in the season dropped her final tally to .280.

"She filled the shortstop spot for us," said Pingston, the Milford coach. "She's a solid player, a good fielder. She'll get a lot better before next season."

"She'll be a player to watch next season."

BETH TRIMARK

Lakeland, third base

This Lakeland junior was a jack-of-all-trades, putting in time at third, shortstop, second base and even as backup catcher.

"She was one we couldn't afford to lose," said Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths. "She backed up so many positions. She was a starter, it just depended on where she would start — second, third or short."

Trimark was also versatile from the plate, hitting .333 with 27 runs, 29 hits, five doubles, 20 RBI and 13 stolen bases. Trimark's real strength was hitting with runners on base. The junior was .421 with runners in scoring position.

Trimark, a co-captain for the Eagles in 1994, struck out only seven times in 87 at-bats.

ANN SOPER

Novi, outfield

Although the senior played second and third base for the Wildcats, we've converted her to an outfielder. With her defensive prowess she would make the transition easily.

According to Peace, Soper was one of Novi's best in the field. Late in the season, the coach moved his senior to second base and instructed his pitching staff to throw to the outside part of the plate — to force enemy batters to hit it Soper's way.

"Ann had an excellent year," Peace commented. "It was by far her best."

She hit .333 with 29 hits and 12 RBI from her No. 2 slot in the batting order. Soper set the table for Novi's power hitters by reaching base exactly 50 percent of the time.

CHRISTI GREEN

Northville, outfield

The HomeTown writers had to get this player on the field, even if it meant moving her from catcher to the outfield. The senior made a smooth transition from the infield to catcher this spring. Coach Frank Friemund said Green stopped other teams from running aggressively on the base paths.

"Nobody tried to steal on us," he said. "We would have been nowhere without her."

Green hit .276 while scoring 21 runs and stealing 18 bases. She had an on-base percentage of .430.

"She has good speed and is a good base runner," said Friemund. "She really understands baseball."

YVONNE BLYSKAL

South Lyon, outfield

As with Green, the HomeTown writers couldn't bear to leave this athlete off the second team.

"She was one of the bright spots going into next year," said Kampen, the South Lyon coach. "She caught all but 16 innings this year. She did a great job behind the plate."

"She picked off people to a point where nobody would run on her at season's end."

Blyskal, a second-team All-KVC pick, hit .263 for the year.

SARA CHRISTENSON

Northville, designated hitter

An All-Area first team choice as a junior, the only thing that stopped Christenson from making that squad again was a knee injury. Friemund said his senior was bobbled by her injury but played anyway.

"If the game was on," he said, "she was playing in it."

Christenson posted respectable numbers despite limited action. She batted .292, stole 10 bases and drew 15 walks.

"She has a very good eye at the plate," Friemund said.

The coach said his player was devoted to her team. As captain she kept the Mustangs' ship running smoothly and also helped chart the action when she couldn't play.

JULIE SWINEHART

Novi, pitcher

Perhaps no pitcher in the KVC has better heat than the Wildcat junior. Peace said with a little more control, Swinehart would be nearly unhittable.

"If she keeps it down she can dominate," he added.

Swinehart's numbers back up Peace's comments. She went 9-8 for Novi with a 3.20 ERA. The junior struck out 119 batters in 105 innings.

Swinehart will battle first-team pick Erin Bjerke for the top starting slot next spring.

"I can see her being a real help," said Peace.

MISTY MABE

Lakeland, pitcher

Mabe went 12-4 last year as a freshman, and continued to astonish the league with a 14-6 mark this year as the Eagles' top pitcher. In 128 innings pitched, the sophomore gave up 84 hits and 23 earned runs for a 1.26 ERA.

"Misty gets better as she gets older," said Griffiths, the Lakeland coach. "Last year she just threw it. Now she uses the change-up a lot more. She has more control over where she throws it."

Mabe's control was obvious in her 81 strikeouts.

New dictionary defines real estate terminology

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Understanding the meaning of basic real estate terms used in property transactions is important to today's buyers and sellers.

If you don't understand the terminology, real estate can be overwhelming. And this leaves the buyer and seller vulnerable. Business and personal decisions can be disastrous when made on the basis of misunderstood terminology.

For example, what is the meaning and significance of "fee simple title"? What are those "points" that often cost big bucks when obtaining a mortgage loan? What is "joint tenancy"? What's an ARM home loan? What is the APR interest rate?

"Sometimes home buyers, particularly first-time buyers, don't know what very basic terms mean and it's our job to provide needed education," said Susan Herrick, owner of a multi-office real estate brokerage firm. "Some buyers don't know what escrow is, or a walk-through inspection."

Herrick stressed the importance of keeping current on real estate terms. That applies to both buying and selling consumers, as well as real estate professionals.

"It's a real challenge to stay up to date on terms used in today's world of real estate," said Jack Friedman, one of three authors who prepared the text for the

Seek the right slope for the two-storied Jamar

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

If you were driving by the Jamar and only glanced at it from the front, you might think it was fairly small. Because it is designed for construction on a right-sloping hill, from the street you see only the upper floor and the front corner of the lower level.

By the same token, if you looked only at its richly windowed, two-storied right side, you could easily imagine that the house was large and expensive.

As you might have guessed, neither impression is true. The Jamar is squarely in the midsize range. At the same time, the plan is loaded with custom design features.

Take the staircase, for instance. Bookshelves line a mid-floor landing that is naturally brightened by two tall slender windows. More bookshelves can be found in the hallway across from the kitchen. And in the sunken, vaulted living room, half-walls of custom shelving provide space for more books and a home for stereo components and a television.

Windows on three sides bathe the living room in soft, natural light and offer striking vistas. A fireplace adds warmth and charm.

Also richly windowed, the kitchen and dining room are conveniently located at the core of the upper level. Two skylights let in additional light over the sink.

Other amenities in the kitchen include a built-in desk, a small eating bar, a huge pantry, a built-in dishwasher, range and oven, and lazy Susan shelving.

More luxurious touches are found in the master suite. The most unique is a shelf atop the walk-in closet, designed for a television. A door in the bathroom opens onto a wide deck just a few steps away from a large spa. Glass blocks line one wall of a sumptuous custom shower, and the dressing area has a second lavatory and vanity.

A large utility room with built-in ironing board, and an additional storage closet are downstairs, tucked between two bedrooms. All of the rooms on this level, including the bathroom, are as richly windowed as the upper level.

For a study plan of the Jamar (401-22) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Margaret Miller cuts some flower in her English Cottage style garden at her home in Milford.

— Margaret Miller, about her wanted a family's search for a new

character,"
14 years ago.

BY ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN • STAFF WRITER

Their wish came true.

Their 25-year-old Georgian colonial home is furnished eclectically — mostly with antiques. This is not surprising when one considers that Margaret is a part-time antique dealer.

She chooses the pieces of furniture she likes and somehow makes everything fit together.

"At one time, I used to be afraid of mixing patterns and colors," she said. "I like bright colors."

Margaret and Michael Miller have four children: Sarah, 24, Mark, 23, Simon, 20, and 14-year-old Miles. Margaret said she thinks the house, which is located on Buno Road in Kensington Park, was an ideal choice for their family.

"The house was built for a family with six children, so there is a lot of closet space," Margaret said. "It's a very practical house."

The home's furnishings reflect Margaret's personal taste.

Wooden floors covered with scattered antique area rugs, windows covered with the barest whisps of curtains and valances allow for maximum lighting and peaceful views in every direction.

Their five-bedroom, four-bathroom home has no particular theme, Miller said, adding that she chose items she thought would be comfortable. The antique furniture suited their lifestyle, she added.

"We always felt with antiques that they already had some scratches — so the boys couldn't do any damage to them," she said. "And they didn't."

Margaret said that she loves wood antique pieces and enjoys mixing different wood tones within a room. This preference is illustrated by looking through the various rooms in the Millers' home.

Margaret said that one of her favorite furnishings is an antique "grandfather" clock, an early 1800s British piece with a hand-painted face depicting historical figures representing the British Empire. It stands majestically in the stone-floored entryway next to the front door.

The "red room," which serves as a formal dining area and sitting room, features red walls and mixed wood pieces, including an 18th century linen press (a free-standing linen closet) which holds the Millers' musical items — a cassette and compact disc player, cassettes and CDs.

This locale also contains a fire screen — which Regency era ladies used to keep their wax makeup from melting and a bow-fronted chest. Both pieces date from the early 1800s.

Other "red room" pieces include a "nun's bed" — an unusual piece dating from the early 1800s. It looks like a sideboard — which is the use the Millers have for it — and it came from a Canadian convent.

The front of the nun's bed is

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Cauliflower is without doubt the most difficult cole crop a beginning gardener can attempt. Even experienced gardeners think twice before planting it, and with good reason.

Cauliflower demands a lot of garden space for a relatively long period of time and doesn't always repay the attention.

Nevertheless, once you've tasted home-grown cauliflower, you'll never want to buy it at the market again!

The ideal time for planting cauliflower is in late July or August since spring-planted cauliflower runs a higher risk of failure as temperatures rise. Of course, in some places even as late as September or October is OK.

To figure out when to start fall seedlings, determine the first fall frost in your zone and the days to maturity for the type you're planting.

You'll find the number of days listed in the seed catalogs is from transplant to harvest.

For best results, select quickmaturing, disease-resistant varieties. Cauliflower should grow fast and be harvested early.

Don't buy types that require more than 100 days to mature since there are newer, heat-resistant varieties available that mature in half that time — for instance, "Hybrid Snow King" and "Gurney's Stovepipe."

Rule of thumb: Proper soil preparation is important. Like other brassicas, cauliflower likes deeply tilled soil that's rich in nitrogen, so ample organic matter that's rich in nitrogen is absolutely necessary for developing large, tasty heads.

Otherwise, if the soil is poor, the head will be tasteless and somewhat stunted.

Give your plants plenty of moisture. If the roots don't have a constant supply of water available, they won't form proper heads.

Blanch the heads for a milder, whiter crop (covered to keep sunlight from the heads) or you'll have green, brown or yellow cauliflower heads to harvest.

I pull the larger, outer leaves up over the tops (when the heads are the size of teacups) and bind them together with rubber bands.

Blanching takes about one week, but sometimes two in

Repairing small screen holes without straining

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. Do you have any recommendations for repairing small holes in window screening? I hate to pay for new screens if there is a way I can do some patchwork repair on the screens we have at a vacation home. J.B.

A. Screening, rather than the frame, is usually the first part of a screen that has to be repaired.

Small holes can be repaired or patched but the screening should be replaced if there are rips or large holes.

Metal screening should be repaired with patches made of the same type of wire as the screen. These can be cut from scrap screening or purchased ready-cut in packages.

One method of attaching a patch is to bend the wires around the edges. Cut the patch so it is somewhat larger than the hole in the screen. Remove a few strands of cross wire on each side of the patch and bend the exposed strands (1/2 inch to 1 inch) upright, so they are perpendicular to the flat surface of the patch.

Place the patch over the hole and push the perpendicular tips through the mesh of the screening surrounding the hole. To hold in place, bend the tips back over the patch and trim them if they are too long. When the patch has weathered a little, it will tend to blend

Another method is to fasten the patch by weaving several strands of wire along the edges. The patch should be large enough to extend an inch or 2 beyond the hole on each side. With the patch flush over the hole, weave the strands through both the patch and the screening. The tighter the weave, the tighter the patch will be.

Plastic screening can be repaired by using plastic adhesive to attach a small piece of plastic mesh over the hole. If you have areas in the screening where the strands are not broken, but just pushed apart, use a sharp-pointed instrument to push them back into position. Once they are pushed back, apply a coat of shellac, varnish or clear nail polish to hold in position.

If you have galvanized-steel screening, a coat of screen paint will provide protection and keep them looking like new. Copper or bronze won't rust, but they will tarnish unless they are protected with a thin coat of exterior varnish.

Plastic, aluminum and fiberglass screening need little care other than vacuuming or washing when it becomes dirty.

recently released, "Dictionary of Real Estate Terms—Third Edition," published by Barron's Educational Series.

"In the past few years, an array of new concepts and terms have become part of the real estate practitioner's language," Friedman said. "New ways of financing property and major changes in tax laws have contributed to the list. Even before these changes, real estate vocabulary was extensive and complicated. Now it can be even more confusing."

The new dictionary presents 2,000 definitions of terms and concepts related to real estate marketing and ownership. The terms span from subjects tied to financing and brokerage law to architecture and structures.

The first alphabetized term in the 389-page dictionary is AAATenant. Most people know that a business or person who leases an office building is a tenant. But what's an AAA-tenant?

The dictionary defines it as a tenant with an excellent credit record. They are usually major firms or organizations that are least likely to default on a lease.

The last term in the new dictionary is Zoning Ordinance—The act of city or county or other authorities specifying the type of use to which property may be put in specific areas.

Other entries in the new dictionary

include:

Fee Simple Title—Absolute ownership of real property. The owner (title holder) is entitled to the entire property with unconditional power of disposition during the owner's life.

Points—Fees paid to induce lenders to make a mortgage loan. Each point equals 1 percent of the loan principal.

Joint Tenancy—Ownership of realty by two or more persons, each of whom has an undivided interest with the right of survivorship. Typically used by related persons.

ARM—An Adjustable Rate Mortgage is a mortgage loan that allows the interest rate to be changed at specific intervals over the maturity of the loan.

APR—Annual Percentage Rate is the effective rate of interest for a loan per year, disclosure of which is required by the Truth-in-Lending law.

Escrow—An agreement between two or more parties providing that certain instruments or property be placed with a third party for safekeeping, pending the fulfillment or performance of a specified act or condition.

Walk-through inspection—An inspection of the premises by a buyer or tenant prior to closing or taking possession.

Some terms were considered by the authors but were not used in the final manuscript. Examples: easy qualifier loan, life care community, safe harbor. These may be included in the next edition, depending on their future common usage.

When organizing a large number of entries for a book, some that should be included will be missed, Friedman said. An example in the just-released dictionary is "tenant improvements." It was not included, but will be in the next edition, he said.

The new paperback "Dictionary of Real Estate Terms" sells for $10.95.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

the fall.

Try some of the self-blanching varieties, their leaves naturally curl over the head and do the job for you.

Harvest at the peak of perfection. Let the head grow to its maximum size and then cut it just before the stalks branch and separate and the florets turn ricey.

Try to harvest early, and remember, fall-planted cauliflower tastes best!

HEALTHY GARDEN

There is absolutely no cholesterol in any vegetable, fruit or grain. Dairy products like eggs, butter and cream are the sources; meat, too.

Eating less saturated fat can reduce cholesterol, the stuff that deposits plaque in your arteries and makes blood circulation more difficult. The results will astound you by cutting down on consumption of these foods.

Most garden foods are very low in salt, and many are low in calories. Herbs, for example, make a great salt substitute!

A vegetable and fruit garden can go a long way toward total diet needs. Therefore, the greater variety of vegetables that you plant, harvest and eat, so much the better!

Food grown in poor soils looks poor, and it doesn't taste so hot. And it doesn't begin to provide proper nutrition as do foods grown in rich organic soil, which provides them with all the minerals they need to thrive.

So keep your soil well fed for your sake, as well as nature's!

Finding and making a house with character

actually a hinged door which swung down at night when the nun was ready to sleep, Margret explained. During the day, the mattress and bedding were hidden in the yellow pine piece.

The black-lacquered Queen Anne style dining set, which has a handpainted Oriental motif, stands next to the nun's bed.

A light wood corner cupboard, an antique leather couch, a few comfortable chairs, some choice oil paintings on the walls, and a baby grand piano dating from the 1940s — also painted black — complete the room's setting.

The family room contains their television and VCR — also in an antique pine armchair — as well as comfortable pieces of furniture. A contemporary sectional sofa mingles comfortably with older pieces.

The master bedroom, which the Millers added to the house, has walls sporting terra cotta (reddish) paint. Decorative highlights of the room include a needlepoint piano bench in front of the mixed iron and brass Victorian bed, an American cherrywood armchair, and pine and mahogany chests made in England.

Margret recently had the kitchen redecorated. It features white washed maple cupboards, handpainted floral tile in the "black-splash" area on the kitchen walls and new white tiled floors.

The informal dining table, located next to the kitchen, is an English piece made of two types of wood — the tabletop is pine. Margret said she believes the pine are made of beech wood.

The informal dining area and the connecting "garden room" are the sites which display Margret's collection of pottery, including

French Breton "Quimper" pottery and majolica, an English form of the Spanish mallorca pottery. Majolica pottery generally has bright colors and natural motifs.

The Millers also have a large collection of animalia — pieces of animal art — in various art materials, including canvas, wood, or ceramics.

In the backyard, Margret, who has completed a master gardener's course, recently planted an English cottage garden and a formal rose garden. The yard also features an extensive deck and a swimming pool.

Margret said that their family is a very international one. She is British. Sarah, Mark and Simon are Canadian citizens and Miles is an American citizen. Michael, who is a Canadian native, served in the Canadian navy and trained in England when they were first married.

Eventually, they went back to Canada. After 10 years in the navy (including naval college), Michael took up a career in environmental protection.

They moved to England 18 years ago and lived there for four years. When they moved from England for the second time, it was to the Millford area. Michael had received a promotion. They were only supposed to stay here for two years, then move on to Canada.

This did not stop the Millers from being very particular about where they lived. And their choosing of a home went right down to the wire. Margret, Michael, and the three eldest children moved to their Millford Township home 14 years ago — just ten days prior to Miles' birth.

She said that their choice for a home was a wonderful one. The house, which is lodged on three acres, backs up to innumerable acres of Kenington Metropark, was a terrific place to raise their family.

The Millers enjoyed the area and their new home so much that Michael found another job in Michigan so he wouldn't have to move again to Canada. He currently works for Envotech in Ypsilanti.

Margret and Michael consider America in general and this area in particular to be a wonderful place to live and raise children.

"It's different in England," she said. "Land is scarce ... We like living in America. I think it's the best country in the world."

The family home is quieter now that the Sarah and Mark have moved away from home altogether and Simon is attending college at University of Michigan Ann Arbor.

Miles is the only child still living at home on a regular basis.

"We had four horses at one time for the kids, four kids, one dog, and, at one point, five cats. Now we're down to one dog, one cat, and one kid," she laughed.

Twelve Oaks welcomes 9 newcomers

Nine new stores have opened at Twelve Oaks this spring — with more on the way — featuring everything from footwear to lingerie, from outfits for toddlers to casual fashions for men.

They are Jordan Marie, Gymboree, For You From Spiegel, Precise, Structure, Champs Sports, Scarlet Letters, Wentworth Galleries and Sun-glass Hut. Another shop, Cacique, is ready to open.

In addition, three existing shops have relocated and expanded in response to shopper demand: President Tuxedo, Bombay Company and D.O.C. Eyeworld.

"With these arrivals and expansions, Twelve Oaks is having an exciting spring," says Marketing Director Elaine Kah. "For our shoppers, it means a wider choice of the latest merchandise."

Jordan Marie features a large selection of colorful outfits for infants to toddlers up to size 6. Also available are christening gowns and blankets, as well as matching accessories like hats, shoes, socks and bibs.

Gymboree carries a wide choice of durable cotton activewear for children in sizes ranging from newborn to 6X. All items are easily mixed and matched to make new outfits. Accessories include sun hats, baseball caps, leggings and hair bows.

Stylish women's fashions in large sizes from 14 to 24 are available at For You From Spiegel. The shop carries styles for the office, weekends and an evening on the town. Accessories include jewelry, hats and scarves.

Precise features trendy footwear for women, including clogs, platforms and grunge-look shoes. Also available are a selection of such accessories as handbags, necklaces, earrings and belts.

Structure, a men's shop with a distinctive look, carries a European-inspired sportswear collection that includes blazers, trousers, polo shirts and jeans. A linen collection includes trousers, blazers and shirts.

Scarlet Letters features a wide array of gift items, including framed pictures, calligraphy prints and collectors dolls, as well as greeting cards and stationery.

Champs Sports carries a broad selection of athletic equipment, footwear and apparel. The store has racquets for all sports, golf clubs, baseball bats and gloves and workout equipment.

Wentworth Galleries sells fine art and art collectibles, including serigraphs and sculptures, by such artists as Erte, Thomas McKnight and Melanie Taylor Kent, as well as John Zaccaro, Maxwell Parsons, Yuan Zuo and Fanchi Ledan.

Sunglass Hut carries hundreds of sunglasses from mirror-lens styles to retro designs from the '50s. Top brand names include Ray-Ban, Oakley, Liz Claiborne, DKNY and Armani.

Opening soon is Cacique, a shop from the Limited family of stores with a complete assortment of stylish lingerie made of fine fabrics and available at reasonable prices.

Three existing stores at Twelve Oaks have moved and more than doubled in size. President Tuxedo, which sells and rents tuxedos, has added for-sale suits, sport jackets, slacks and dress shirts by Hugo Boss and Perry Ellis. New tuxedo brands include Hugo Boss, Tallia and Chaps/Ralph Lauren.

The Bombay Company, the home furnishing store, is increasing its selection of merchandise in every area, from tables and lamps to mirrors and accessories.

D.O.C. Eyewear is growing to 7,000 square feet and greatly expanding its selection of frames, adding names like Oliver Peoples, Jean Paul Gaultier and Calvin Klein. A second optometrist is joining the staff.

KENNETH ZIEMANN

KAREN DELANEY

The Jervis B. Webb Co. has announced the selection of Karen Delaney as Quality Achiever of the month. She resides in Milford and has been employed by the company for eight years. She currently holds the position of senior technical writer/training coordinator.

Delaney has been a member of the Quality Education Committee since its inception in 1991. As a member of the QEC, she has been involved with the organization of the Quality Work Group Training classes and graduation ceremonies for the 600 employees at the Farmington Hills World Headquarters facility, the New Hudson manufacturing facility and the Mt. Vernon, Ohio, manufacturing facility.

Lane Longstreth, Delaney's supervisor, said, "Quality comes first as far as Karen is concerned. She never sacrifices quality for schedule or price. She believes high quality standards can be achieved within the time and budget requirements."

Also named as a quality achiever of the month is Kenneth Ziemann.

Ziemann resides in Garden City. He has been employed by the company for eight years and currently holds the position of fitter at Webb's New Hudson manufacturing facility.

The fitter's job is to assemble material according to the specifications of the engineering drawing in preparation for welding. Ziemann's selection as quality achiever is due to the extra effort that he puts forth to get the job done properly and on time.

Achievers are nominated by their peers and evaluated on the following criteria: conformance to requirements, problem solving and prevention, zero defects attitude, commitment to the Quality Improvement Process, cooperation and communication.

The Jervis B. Webb Co. is the world's leading designer, manufacturer and installer of custom material handling systems. With 34 operations worldwide, it supplies integrated material handling systems to a multitude of industries including aluminum, automotive, airline, transportation, warehousing, primary metals, chemicals, publishing and waste management.

Maybe your kitchen cabinets don't need to be replaced. Maybe they just need a day at the spa. Kitchen Tune-Up® is a national franchise that revives worn cabinets. It's done in one day, and you don't even empty the drawers. First, workers scrub off the gunk with a surface cleaner. Then they rub in a wood stain. Education deductions prove tricky

Understanding which educational expenses are deductible and which are not can be confusing. Generally, those expenses which are considered to be of a personal nature are not deductible. However, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says that as an employee or self-employed individual, there are educational deductions that are available to you.

To qualify for a deduction, education expenses must meet specific guidelines. The first is that the educational program must be required by your employer, or by law or regulation, to keep your salary, status or job. Plus, the program must be for a bona-fide business reason, not just to benefit you.

If the course is not actually required, it may still be deductible if it is needed to maintain or improve the skills you use in your present work. However, educational costs are not deductible if you need the education to meet the minimum education requirements to qualify you for your trade or business, or the education qualifies you for a new trade or business, whether or not you intend to enter that business.

In general, expenses related to correspondence courses, tutoring, formal training and even research and typing papers are deductible as long as they comply with the rules above. Deductible expenses include tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees and other related items.

Certain transportation costs can also be considered deductible. Depending on the distance you travel to your class, you can claim either the one-way or round-trip cost of mass transportation or using your car.

If your educational program requires you to live away from home and the program meets the IRS's requirements, your transportation, meals and lodging costs are all deductible. The IRS will even allow you to deduct these expenses if you could have taken the course locally. However, you may not deduct expenses for personal activities such as sightseeing, entertaining or visiting. Keep in mind also that you cannot deduct the cost of travel that in and of itself is a form of education.

You may be able to further your education and reduce your taxes all at the same time. Just remember that educational expenses are considered part of your miscellaneous deductions and are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. CPAs add that good records and supporting evidence are essential to getting the maximum deduction.

To Anyone Who Has A Lung Disease This Is A Breathtaking View.

Climbing even a short flight of stairs can leave a person who suffers from a chronic lung disease fighting for breath.

An estimated one out of ten Americans suffers from chronic lung disease. And the mortality rate from lung diseases is increasing faster than any of the other top ten causes of death.

Until we do something about lung diseases, no one can breathe easy.

It's a matter

SKETCHES

In a few short months, September to be precise, the Detroit chapter of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) will present its ninth annual House Tour. The 1993 Tour will take individuals into the homes of at least six Birmingham and Bloomfield residences, each featuring the design brilliance of area architects. This exceptional opportunity to closely scrutinize an array of styles, textures and the union of site and structure has made it one of the most popular tours of its kind in the United States.

Because the number of reservations is limited, B&P, Inc. suggests a call to AIA Detroit at (313) 965-4100 to reserve your space. Advance sale tickets are $15 per person for the Sunday, September 19 tour. Tickets will be available the day of the tour. Again, because of space limitations we urge you to purchase your tickets in advance. Proceeds benefit numerous types of educational activities including high school competitions, scholarships, career days, Speakers Bureau and tours of public buildings.

Come Back To Nature At Hickory Creek

"I travel the country looking at different marketplaces to come up with new ideas that we might bring to Michigan." Scott Jacobson, President S.R. Jacobson

BY INGRID TOMEY

PHOTOGRAPHY BY BETH SINGER

We wanted to create a unit for someone moving out of a house but with an active lifestyle who would rather do other things on the weekend besides mow the lawn and play with the landscape." Scott Jacobson is talking about Hickory Creek, one of S.R. Jacobson's newest and most appealing developments. This community of detached condominiums in Northville Township relieves the homeowner of landscaping, yard care and snow removal, making it appealing to empty nesters as well as young professionals.

The ninth of Jacobson's 11 community developments in S.E. Michigan, Hickory Creek not only surrounds you with amenities, but also surrounds you with a visual feast as well. Hiking trails wind through 16 acres of wetlands and woods, inviting residents to shuck the trappings of civilization to enjoy birdsong and forests of pine and hardwood. There's even a sparkling trout pond that may attract a fishing pole or two.

Happily the great outdoors seems in concert with the sunlit, open interiors of Hickory Creek's 94 homes. And that's no accident, according to Scott Jacobson. "I travel the country looking at different marketplaces to come up with new ideas that we might bring to Michigan. These architects (Bloodgood and Associates) are out of Des Moines and we decided to do something different.

ahead of time and fed it to them, told them what we wanted in terms of square footage and let them go. We met with them at 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. every day, and in a week's time we developed this product."

"This product" has all the hallmarks of a Jacobson development—quality, elegance, great livability and plenty of options. In the 2,400-square-foot Ridgewood model, these hallmarks are immediately evident. The great room at the back of the house has a windowed wall and doorwall, spanned by a deck which overlooks a sweep of hardwood. The line between indoor greenery and outdoor forest seems to disappear when you stand at this huge wall of glass (the windows go all the way to the ceiling) and watch the changing moods of nature.

Inside, sunlight fills the room to the top of the 20-foot studio ceiling, playing across the tiled fireplace, flanked on either side by built-in glass shelving. The decorator for the model, Childs Dreyfus of Chicago, topped the shelving with elegant, fan shaped cornices. But, undoubtedly, the most interesting feature of this bright, airy room, one that draws the eye back down again, are the columns that stand like sentinels on either side of the entrance into the adjacent den. "People walk in and are pleasantly surprised by the concept," Jacobson says.

The columns frame the den, setting it off from the living room more elegantly, more invitingly, than any doorway. The columns, like the deck off the great room, are optional, but in the Ridgewood model their classic elegance harmonizes with the proportions of these rooms.

The den in this model acquired an additional 23 square feet of living space when Jacobson decided to bump it out two feet along the window wall, making the dimensions 11'4" x 13'1". This bonus was, according to sales manager Linda McCulloch, part of Jacobson's commitment to customer satisfaction. "Every time we have a new design the entire team (salespeople, construction workers, architects and Scott Jacobson) walks through at the stud stage to see if there is anything we can change to make it better."

It's not hard to see that the larger den is an improvement, roomy enough for entertaining beyond the traffic of the great room

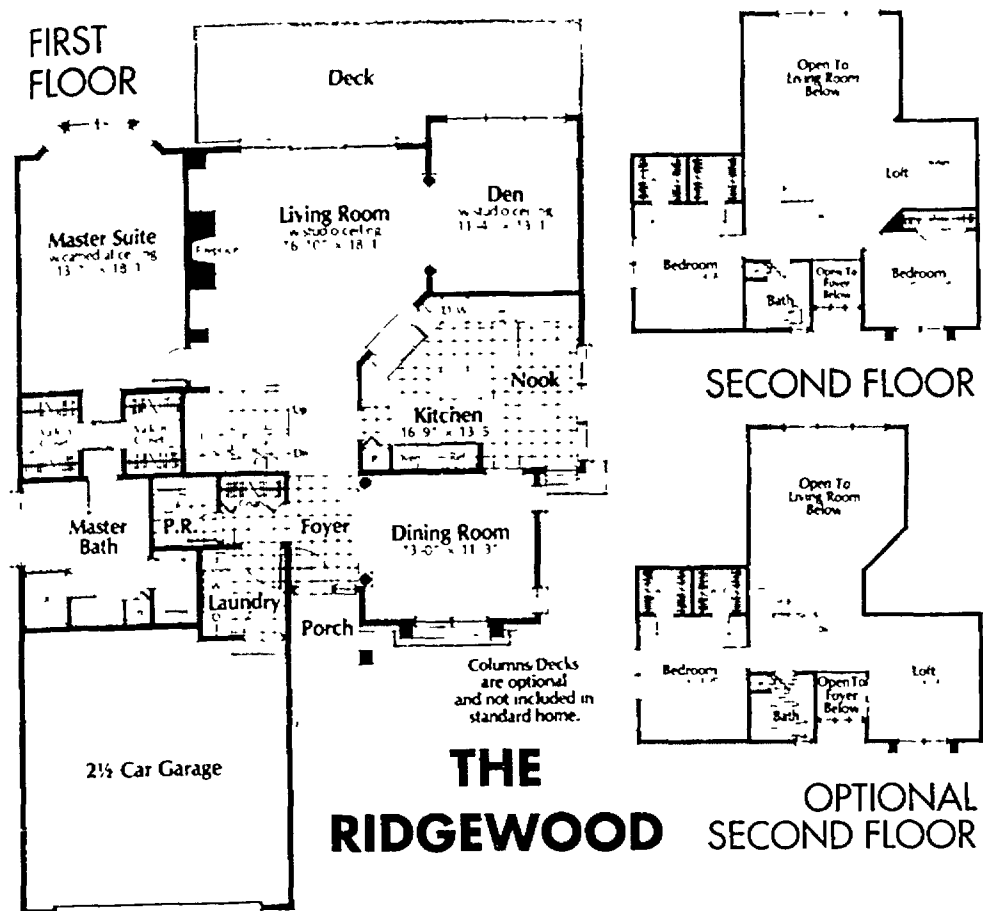

and certainly ample enough to serve as a dining room if, as McCulloch suggests, you want to exercise the option of having the dining room (which is the same size as the den) moved to the back of the house, converting the front-of-the-house dining room into a more secluded office. "This is an appealing option for people who need an office more than they need a den and who want to get away from the traffic flow," she adds.

As it is, the dining room is just to the right of the foyer when you enter, graced on either side by more columns, framing the room in classic simplicity. With white walls, white draperies and a glass and whitewashed dining room set, the eye is drawn to the splash of peach wall between the tall windows. Much of the decorating in these rooms is in its architectural charm.

The oak-floored dining room leads into the large (16'9" x 13'5") kitchen surrounded on three sides by bleached oak cabinets (Triangle Pacific makes these.) The fourth wall is a sunlit nook large enough to contain a small, glass topped table and four chairs. There is plenty of room in this sunny, checkered kitchen to eat lunch while watching the chef make a cherry pie at the formica-topped island in the center of the room. (All kitchens come with double ovens, cooktop, garbage disposal and dishwasher.) Perhaps the most appealing feature of the kitchen is the enormous pass-through into the great room, not only giving a view of the outdoors but also letting in all that light from the windows.

Adjacent to the great room on the fireplace wall is a large (13'1" x 18'1") master bedroom with cathedral ceiling, master bath, including stall shower and platform tub, and his and hers walk-in closets. In this room, the eye is drawn to a lovely pillow-lined bay window overlooking the woods—a perfect spot to curl up with an afghan and take a snooze.

Coming out of the master suite and following the oak bannistered stairway you will find two smaller bedrooms upstairs, sharing a bath, both with ample closet space. There is also a cozy loft with its own niche of shelves for books, plants or a small television. Away from downstairs activity, it's a good place to settle in with a snack and the TV Guide. Like the great room below, the loft has a vaulted ceiling which lets in a long shaft of sunshine from the skylight over the sofa.

Another feature of this model, McCulloch points out, is a huge, daylight basement, which could be turned into an apartment for an in-law suite or adult child. In response to clients who wanted the furnace moved from the living space, Scott Jacobson took on the challenge of redesigning the basement layout to move the four stanchions and the furnace to the sides of the room. "It was quite a logistical problem," McCulloch says, "moving all those pipes, meeting the codes, but we did it. Time after time, things will come up that customers want and Scott will think about it for awhile and then he'll say okay. His philosophy is underpromise and overdeliver. And that's what he does."

Hickory Creek is located off Beck Road just north of Six Mile in Northville Township. Prices start at $183,900 for the 1,722-square-foot design. The Ridgewood (with extended loft) is the largest (at 2,400 square feet) and most expensive ($215,900). For more information, call (313) 348-7878. ■

beige covers the walls of the foyer as well as the walls of the upper level hallway. A stately brass/glass light fixture suspended by a brass chain adds a touch of brilliance.

The foyer opens directly into the dining room, living room and den. Guests recognize immediately that they have entered a warm and inviting home. Sparkling white 12-inch tiles unite the floors of the foyer and the dining room to the right of the foyer. Black silk wall covering sets off the white wood trim and gives the dining room a dramatic look contrasting with the elegant sophistication of the foyer.

Tile was used in the foyer, dining room, kitchen and connecting areas because of its durability. The owners entertain at dinner parties at least once a week, and tile takes the wear better than carpeting, with the added advantage that it doesn't stain.

The west-facing window wall in the living room

frames a charming view of a meandering branch of the Rouge River. The space is delineated by off-white carpeting. A French-inspired mantle graces one wall.

To the left of the foyer, glass-paneled doors lead to the den, where the wood floors contrast with the white floor coverings that seamlessly unite the rest of the first floor.

The den, with its abundance of wood, was designed to be a cozy retreat. The wood flooring has the raw look of barnwood, an effect produced by raising the grain, and by alternating 3" strips with 2" strips for a random look. One wall is lined with built-in bookshelves that also house the television; remaining walls are wood-paneled. East-facing floor-to-ceiling windows diffuse soft natural light into the room.

The tiny first-floor powder room belies conventional notions that a small room can't accommodate large furnishings. A bombe' chest the width of the room encloses the oval marble sink. A gilt mirror hanging over the chest creates the illusion of space, while elaborate stone-finish wall sconces make a statement. Walls in the powder room are covered with black textured fabric painted to resemble antique tile.

A butler's pantry with a wet bar connects the kitchen to the living room, ensuring that host and hostess don't collide when one is preparing refreshments for guests while the other is cooking.

Recognizing that the kitchen is the most important, and busiest, room in the house, the owners wanted it to be spectacular and it is. Contemporary and French country merge effortlessly in two adjacent dining areas.

Spacious mullioned windows over the sink look out onto the river, and skylights in the two-story studio ceiling ensure abundant natural light. A small TV built into the sloping studio ceiling is invisible, except to those watching the morning news with breakfast. Appliances are stored in "garages" under the sink instead of cluttering the sink's countertop. Just roll up the door and the toaster and coffee maker are ready to use.

owner wanted guests to enter a gracious area no matter which direction they came from. So, a leaded glass side door was added to the house, facing east, as does the front door. The roomy white-tiled foyer can accommodate six people handily, and a short stairway leads guests into the kitchen. Guests for large parties continue through the kitchen and down a short flight of stairs to the entertainment room on the lower level. A large walk-in closet in the foyer provides guests and the family ample room to store their coats.

A wing of the home's first floor is devoted to the master suite. The master bath features a step-up bathtub beneath a bay window. Commode and shower are in a separate area. A model of simplicity, the room is white and cream with brass accents. The large bedroom, dominated by a lace-bedded, king-size sleigh bed, is the epitome of glamour, but it was also meticulously planned for morning traffic control. His-and-hers closets and vanities create separate traffic areas designed to allow a two-career couple to get going in the morning without their paths crossing.

Three bedrooms, each with a walk-in closet, a bathroom and linen closet, occupy the home's second floor.

On the lower level, the spacious entertainment area easily accommodates the large parties that the owners enjoy several times a year. A window wall overlooks the river, and the covered terrace is convenient for barbecuing. Behind the elegant bar with faux pewter stools there are complete cooking facilities. A working fireplace contributes to the room's friendly aura. A full bath is located between the entertainment room and the space dominated by a hot tub. This space has two walls of sliding glass doors, for easy access in and out of the entertainment area.

The exercise room just off the entertainment room also provides space for billiard and ping-pong tables. Laundry room and mechanical space are also on the lower level.

This is a comfortable house, with warmth and character. Its functional aspects make it possible for a busy family to enjoy their home and to share it with their many friends. ■

Sometimes a luxurious bath is just what you need. And then there's this!—a Grohe Custom Shower System. Available at Classic Baths.

Classic Baths demonstrates the elegance achieved through Kohler's great design.

THE BATH AND BEYOND

by Katie Elzila

The restorative powers of the bath have been known since the beginning of time. But, if you haven't planned a new home recently, you are in for surprise.

"Today's homeowners have an exciting array of choices, including new materials, new products and new technologies, available to them," says Mary Ellen Vigna, manager of Classic Baths in Birmingham. "You can enjoy sumptuous showering pleasure with body sprays and steam systems, conserve water with the most advanced low-consumption toilets and accommodate elderly family members with walk-in whirlpool baths."

Like kitchen projects, a bathroom needs to be approached with careful planning, accurate measurements and a firm grasp of the possibilities inherent in today's products, colors, applications and materials. And, it's well worth the time to consult experts and visit their showrooms. (Readers note: The designers featured in our kitchen story in this issue also design bathrooms.)

"We have brochures and catalogs," explains Vigna, "but it's important to see the real thing, to touch the products and even try them out for size and comfort."

Powder rooms are getting larger and more luxurious with each coming year.

Bathroom designers agree with Vigna who says, "Often, customers tell me how happy they are that they didn't compromise on the things they use frequently, like faucets. As with a piece of fine jewelry, if the faucets look and feel good to the touch, the sense of satisfaction you derive each time you use them makes them worth the extra money you may spend."

As in kitchens, many new bathrooms are incorporating natural stone materials. But, even classics like marble go through cycles of popularity. "Today the strong, dominant colors increasingly are selected," says Garrett Van Horn of Amica Internazionale Ltd., Importers and Distributors of Fine Marble and Granite. "Rosso Levanto, dark purple with white and green veins, and Rojo Alacante, a deep reddish color and burnt orange with strong white veins, are being requested, as is Breccia Oniciata, a mixed coloration of pinks, browns, beiges and peaches."

"Stone not only is a premium material, it has become more economical," says Van Horn. "Today marble and granite prices are very competitive with ceramic and other man-made materials. Customers like the fact that we can now seal marble to resist any spots or stains. Also, they appreciate that marble has the ability to be refinished, if necessary."

According to Tim Holton, vice president of Royal Oak Kitchens and Baths, today's new or updated bathrooms are likely to feature separate showers and bathtubs for versatility and a sense of luxury. And, although not an overwhelming trend, Holton says bidets are increasingly requested by clients.

The popularity of master bathrooms with his-and-hers vanities continues, says Holton, who says that, as with kitchens, clients want rooms that function efficiently at the same time they make a design statement. ■

Kitchen Is You

Whether you can visualize your dream kitchen down to the smallest detail or you haven't the vaguest idea of what you'd like, a professional kitchen designer can work with you to help create a kitchen that reflects your personality, needs and lifestyle.

Up to date on the overwhelming number of options available in the marketplace, and armed with knowledge and experience, the kitchen designer becomes your guide and partner in selecting the cabinets, countertops, appliances, floorings, fixtures, architectural details, cabinets and colors.

Following are examples of how six talented kitchen designers translated their clients' varying needs and desires into kitchens that look great and function beautifully.

KITCHENS PLUS, of Livonia, created this commercial-caliber kitchen for an entrepreneurial bachelor who entertains frequently. "The challenge was to provide the functional, commercial quality the client was accustomed to in his lifestyle and, at the same time, provide a well-designed, appealing area appropriate for entertaining in a residential setting," said designers Gary and Carmen Hancock, owners of Kitchens Plus. The designers achieved their goal in a combination of well-executed choices.

A striking range hood of stainless steel mounts over the two-grate range, which also features a built-in griddle and grill and a convection oven. Black laminate cabinetry with cathedral grain finish is highlighted with brushed aluminum interiors to echo the stainless steel range. Two undermounted stainless steel sinks and built-in refrigeration system all add to the kitchen's sleek, professional look. The raised snack bar curves around the preparation island, which includes a commercial-quality icemaker especially designed to produce crystal-clear ice cubes.

The dramatic black/mauve/gray color scheme is artfully rendered in the polished marble floor and backsplash, woven-textured cushions and pearl gray matte solid surface countertops.

FUTURISTIC FURNISHINGS, INC., of Royal Oak, shows its versatility in this classical kitchen designed by Michael Moore for a Birmingham client who wanted a timeless look. The custom cabinetry, manufactured on site at Futuristic Furnishings, features traditional raised panel doors, crown molding and glass mullion doors. These classical design elements received a modern spin when painted white with a clear polyester coating.

"Often customers know the look that they want, but aren't sure how to achieve it," says Moore. "One customer brought in a number of magazine photos of kitchens she liked. We helped her identify the elements all the photos had in common: wood floors, wine racks, crown molding, ceramic backsplash, traditional cook top areas. Then we designed a kitchen that incorporated many of these elements and added other features as well to create an environment that was a satisfying expression of her tastes and needs. Our computer system really helped. She was able to view her proposed kitchen on the screen, see exactly what it would look like and consider alternatives before making her final decisions."

DESIGNS UNLIMITED,
West Bloomfield, introduced silver Vitricor cabinetry with black lacquer radius trim
and granite countertops to create a polished, streamlined kitchen for a client
who wanted a "functional,
gorgeous area that also could serve as a focal point

for casual parties, since the swimming pool is located off the dining room."

Designer Janice Morse suggested Vitricor because it has a reflective quality not found in any other product, is contemporary and easy to maintain. A number of features in the kitchen are hidden from view, including double grills recessed under granite panels in the island, a wine cooler and an ice maker.

In general, Morse reports an increase in group participation in the kitchen. "One client requested that the silverware drawer be placed on a level where her 7-year-old could reach it because it was his job to set the table. Another family with teenagers and young adults wanted
a separate preparation area for them with a microwave and its cooking utensils."

Kitchen Studio of

Birmingham transformed the existing kitchen of a beautiful historical home
in Orchard Lake into a brighter,
more efficient work area. The kitchen, originally the barn, was added to the main house some time ago. Designer Franco Nonahal says, "I added a large bay window to the dining area to bring in more light and gave the client a perfect view of their gorgeous back yard. I repositioned the island so she can enjoy the view while she cooks, instead of facing the wall." The dark walls were stripped and painted, while white cabinetry with butcher block countertops were added to help lighten the space. The granite inset near the Viking cooktop provides a landing area for hot pots and pans.
The ceiling beams and window trimmings were
floor color.

Besides the kitchen and dining area, a laundry room was also part of the reconfiguration.
Although Kitchen Studio also designs contemporary and traditional style kitchens, the staff really enjoyed working on this historic home. "It was a real challenge to update this kitchen while at
says Nonahal. continued on page 23

DIAMOND BUILDER AWARD

Beth Singer

Madison Design Group shows its individualized approach to clients with two strikingly different kitchens

Designer Gary Fried achieved this "residential high-tech" kitchen for a client who wanted contemporary style. Rich, deep navy and black gloss colors complement the stainless steel countertops and built-in appliances (not shown here), while the herringbone oak floor adds warmth. Two flush-mounted television screens, one in the work area and another in the buffet area underscore that—more than for just food preparation—this beautiful kitchen is a center for gathering and entertaining.

Madison Design Group's Gary Fried calls this kitchen's style "Manhattan Country." Designed by Fried and Pam Bytner, the kitchen is reminiscent of country, but in a fresh, urban setting. The client wanted the kitchen furnishings to look like furniture, so even the island seems like a table. This effect was enhanced by having its legs made in oversized proportions. "This client has a great eye and very much knew the look she wanted. All we had to do was help her achieve it," says Fried. —continued on page 25

Dan House, CKD, of EW Kitchen Distributors, was asked by a client for a kitchen that was "traditional, but not formal—one that would be warm and inviting and operate efficiently for a family of six, but also function as a comfortable place for entertaining." By selecting stock cabinetry, and incorporating details usually associated with more costly products, House achieved a custom look in the kitchen and the butler's pantry and wet bar areas. Such details include: crown molding and raised panel ends on cabinets, baffles to conceal halogen lights under cabinets, solid brass hardware and oak edge treatments to formica countertops. "Excellent quality and an ever-increasing variety of styles in cabinetry are now available in the medium price range," says House. "This fact gives homeowners and designers of kitchens an ability to distribute their dollars differently than they could even five years ago." ■

Today's glass block goes far beyond the basic glass square. Diamonds, grids and basket-weaves are just some of the patterns available. Hexagonal corner block can make 90-degree corners, and another uniquely shaped block allows the creation of angles from 45 degrees up to a full circle. The imagination soars when considering all the effects that can be achieved with creative combinations of these materials.

Kitchens, bathrooms, bedrooms and halls; stairways, patios, poolside and more, the possibilities are endless for the use of glass block in and outside the home. These days, more and more, architects and homeowners opt for glass block as a creative design element.

"Beautiful bathrooms are being designed now featuring glass block showers," says Paul Forte, vice president of 43-year-old Glass Block Sales, Inc. in Warren. "I think there are three reasons: They allow in maximum light while still providing privacy; because they can be installed with curves or angles, they offer more design possibilities than tempered glass; they are a lot less expensive than tempered glass. A homeowner can enjoy a floor-to-ceiling area of glass block at significant savings over tempered glass.

"Bathrooms are just one room using more glass block today. With the variety of blocks and sizes, it is easy to create unique and attractive designs in all areas of the home." Mr. Forte cites these innovative examples:

- alternating rows of squares and rectangles on an under-the-stairs wall to transform a once dark spot
- curving a two-story panel to enhance a circular stairwell
- punctuating a kitchen cooking island with several strategically-placed blocks
- accentuating a dining area with a serpentine curved wall of glass block

With their versatility, pleasing appearance and practicality (they are energy efficient and offer maximum security), it is easy to see why glass block is increasingly specified by architects and homeowners in the designs for new homes or in the updating of existing structures. ■

NEW CLASSICS

Can a chair evoke an emotion? People do respond to the functional, stylish furniture of the American Design movement of the 30s. If Design America, a young furniture company in Coral Gables, Florida, has its way, America will soon recoup its earlier reputation as a world leader in design. Shown here is Design America's Graves Lounge Chair (Style # 37001) and Ottoman (Style # 37011). For further information, call (313) 481-0576.

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO BETH

"There is something in the way that walls line up that excites me." This according to Beth Singer, a 16-year career photographer who converts the excitement she sees through her camera lens into photography that is something far more than "walls lined up." As evidence of what she calls "good architectural photography," the photo of a private Toledo, Ohio, residence (left) combines primary Singer elements: great photography, creative and effective uses of light and excellent color balance. To contact Beth, call her studio at (313) 626-4860.
