MAGS to try to stop construction of deck on lot

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A year ago, officials from the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen at 133 W. Main St. protested that their parking was being devoured by other businesses and the city's employee parking plan.

Twelve months later, the folks at MAGS are angrier than ever about their parking situation. They see the city's Mainstreet '93 proposal to renovate the city's parking system as another blow to their business.

"This is the third time the hand is being drawn back to slap us in the face," said

MAGS President Jim Mills. "Where I come from, three strikes and you're out."

Under the $4.2 million Mainstreet '93 plan, the city would build a new tabletop parking structure on the lot south of Main Centre, replace the existing Cady Street deck and pave a 140- to 160-space lot on the south side of East Cady. It's the tabletop deck, built to fulfill the city's parking agreement with Main Centre builders Singh Development, that has MAGS seeing red.

"We are going to do everything within our power to keep any construction off this lot," Mills said. Those efforts may include taking legal action against the city.

If those efforts are not successful, he said, the business simply will pack its bags and leave its location on the southeast corner of Main and Wing. That move would belie the city's efforts to increase commercial investment in downtown Northville and the resulting tax revenue by leaving one of its largest buildings vacant, he said.

"The point we're trying to make is, 'Guys, if you do this, we're outta here,'" Mills said. "They're going to lose even more money when we move the hell out."

Mills said the wholesale gift association's lease with the building's actual owners, Northville Square Associates, expires in two years. But that does not mean the business would not leave sooner, he said.

"That's the good thing about leases; they can always be broken," he said.

MAGS leaders fear that the new tabletop deck, the second floor of which will be restricted to Main Centre residents and other leased parkers, will take up more surface spaces on a 339-space lot that already has seen 134 spaces fenced off for Main Centre shoppers and 81 spaces marked with orange dots for downtown employees.

The actions followed a 1991 repaving and reconfiguration project by Singh that added 56 spaces to the lot. The project was part of the company's parking agreement with the city.

City officials argue that the new deck will only reduce the number of surface spaces on the so-called "MAGS lot" by two and will take Main Centre residents off the surface spaces, while the newly rebuilt Cady Street deck and new lot across Center will help reduce the number of Main Centre shoppers parking in the lot.

"We don't want (MAGS) to leave, and . . . it's certainly not our intent to hurt them in any way, shape or form," said City Manager Gary Word.

Residents demand efforts to prevent sewage back up

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

At least 10 homeowners in Northville Township can empathize to a point with flooded homeowners in Iowa and Missouri.

While torrential rains are to blame for the floods that have sent at least 30,000 homeowners packing in the central plains, backed up sewers in Northville Township have residents here fighting mad.

One angry resident appealed to township trustees last week to find some way to rectify the situation before his basement flooded with raw human sewage again for a fourth time. The Stonehaven resident told trustees at their July 8 meeting that his basement has flooded three times in the 4½ years he's lived in the township; and he's sick and tired of it.

"This last time my wife, daughter and myself all went down to clean it up and within a week all three of us had intestinal flu," he told the board. "I think the township really needs to get a maintenance program that takes care of the problem and they need more powerful equipment to clean out the sewers," he said.

In this latest incident, the resident told the board he enlisted the emergency services of the township's water and sewer department. Department personnel came out to unplug the sanitary sewer to no avail.

The resident said the equipment workers were using to flush out the system wasn't strong enough to blow the plug. Instead workers were forced to rent equipment from a Detroit company to unplug the clog.

"I was there when they unplugged it," he said. "They had a hard time doing it with the equipment they had. The next day they had equipment from a Detroit company . . . that machine was two or three times more efficient than what the township has."

The homeowner told trustees that even after sewer workers managed to

Superintendent's salary is frozen for second straight year

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

For the second year in a row, Northville Public Schools Supt. Leonard Rezmierski will not receive an increase in salary.

Although he received a near-perfect evaluation, board members said there just wasn't enough money in the budget to support additional compensation in the one-year extension of his contract.

"Any other kind of executive who gets the kind of evaluation Dr. Rezmierski did and no raise is just not normal," said Glenn Davis, newly appointed secretary of the board of education at last Monday night's board meeting. "We're just giving you praise here, Len, not any more money."

Rezmierski's base salary will remain at $94,538. He will also receive $2,000 in extra credit pay; $3,000 in longevity pay and a 10 percent salary option of $9,954. The salary option is money that can be placed into a tax-deferred program, similar to a 401K, or can be taken as salary, said John Street, director of business and finance for the district.

All told, Rezmierski's gross grand total is $109,492.

In addition, the superintendent will receive $430.80 a month for a car lease, 750 gallons of gas a year and a $200 a month expense account.

Down on the farm

Two-year-old Jacob Williams, foreground, and brother Kyle, 6, enjoy petting the sheep at Maybury State Park's living farm. The farm is open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Visitors to the farm can sometimes see baby animals and get a glimpse of farm chores being done.

New textbook purchases approved

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

You won't find Dick, Jane or Spot in any of the textbooks approved by Northville Board of Education members recently.

Instead, students will learn about culture, grooming habits and self-esteem. The textbooks — purchased from Merle Distributing, $27,000; Scholastic, $14,000; and the Wright

Group, $11,000 — are a final step in the district's new language arts curriculum approved earlier this year.

"For the first time I think we'll see curriculum drive instruction as opposed to the textbooks — chapter after chapter — driving instruction," said Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services.

McMaster said the textbooks were being purchased with funds from last year as well as this year's budget.

"This will give us the finest language arts program in the state and country," she said.

Barb Sixt, learning consultant at Moraine Elementary School, gave a 40-plus minute presentation to board members, and showed some of the books to board members at last Monday night's meeting.

"We tried to mix all of the curriculum with the books," she said. "All the teachers helped, they had a hand in (selecting books)."

Members of the language arts committee spent about 200 hours attending conferences and another 300 hours in curriculum writing and textbook selection. A materials fair was held in early February at Northville High School where vendors displayed their books.

Driver hospitalized after accident

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A 41-year-old Northville woman was in fair condition Friday afternoon following a morning crash at Seven Mile and Sheldon.

Witnesses said Laura Sandie was heading south on Center at 8:45 a.m. when her Ford Escort was struck by a westbound pickup truck.

Sandie's car was thrown up on the sidewalk near St. Lawrence Estates by the impact. Its driver's side torn open and left rear wheel hanging off at an angle. City rescue personnel placed a cervical collar around her neck and bandaged her head before removing her from the car and strapping her to a backboard to immobilize her spine.

She was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia by Community Emergency

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE 94-07-93

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ZONING ORDINANCE BY AMENDING THE TEXT THEREOF

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS

PART I The Charter Township of Northville Zoning Ordinance No. 94 as amended is hereby further amended by amending Article XVII, SCHEDULE OF REGULATIONS Section 17.5 ONE FAMILY CLUSTER OPTION 4 Development Standards and Requirements b. Yards Requirements (3) (4) and (5) to provide for building setbacks to be measured from the right-of-way

Section 1 Amendment to Section 17.5 ONE FAMILY CLUSTER OPTION 4 Development Standards and Requirements b (3) (4), and (5) to read as follows: (3) Building setbacks from public and/or private streets shall be equal to the front yard setback of the applicable zoning district as measured from the nearest edge of the right-of-way or the private road access easement. All other setbacks shall be not less than thirty-five (35) feet.

(4) If the cluster development includes a public street which, in the opinion of the Planning Commission, serves primarily the cluster development, the minimum street setback from the right-of-way may be reduced to twenty-five (25) feet provided the setback reduction would significantly preserve the natural features.

Section 2 REPEALER
All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed.

Section 3 SEVERABILITY
Should any section, subsection, paragraph, sentence, clause, or word of this Ordinance be held invalid for any reason, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of the Ordinance.

PART II Conflicting Provisions Repealed
Any Ordinance or part of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed save that in all respects Ordinance No. 94, as amended, is hereby ratified and reaffirmed.

PART III Effective Date
The provisions of this Ordinance shall be in full force and effective immediately upon publication.

PART IV Adoption
This Ordinance may be adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Northville, pursuant to authority of Act No. 184, Public Acts of 1943, as amended at their next regular/special meeting.

News Briefs

TEEN CENTER DISCUSSION: All concerned teens and adults are invited to attend a special planning and strategy session to discuss the possibility of opening a teen center in the Northville community. The discussion will take place at 7 p.m., Wednesday, July 28, in the Northville Township Hall meeting room. For information, call Rob White, the youth pastor at First Baptist Church of Northville, 348-1020.

FESTIVAL SIGN-UP TIME: The 5th annual Northville Victorian Festival is scheduled for Sept. 17-19 and non-profit clubs and organizations are again being given the opportunity to operate their own booths.

Registration forms and information are available by contacting Sue Anker, 349-8425, or Sarah Minor, 348-8568.

LONG-TERM CARE SEMINAR: Amex Life Assurance Company is offering free seminars on long-term health care for groups and clubs that might want to hear a presentation on the subject. The presentations feature an informative, entertaining view of how to provide health care for the elderly or chronically ill. For information, call 1-800-343-7125.

LIBRARY YOUNG READERS PROGRAM: The Northville Public Library invites elementary school readers to play a new game called "Hooked on Reading." There will be stickers and stamps for everyone who plays, and a special prize for completing the game.

Read-to-Me children (pre-school, kindergarten and other non-readers) may play a game called "Fishing for Good Books" which will also have stickers and stamps for players and a special prize for "catching" all the fish.

Special programs offered at the library will include craft workshops, movie days, Reading Aloud days, and many more exciting activities. Special entertainment is planned for two parties to honor all the game winners on July 28.

Registration begins June 18, at the library, 215 W. Main St. For more information, call 349-3020.

Grad date set at June 10

Friday, June 10, 1994, has been designated as the commencement date for Northville High School students who will be starting their senior year in September.

High School Principal Thomas Johnson requested the date because the last day of work for teachers is June 17, 1994. Therefore, the June 10, 1994, date would allow students to graduate one week early.

Consequently, the senior breakfast and rehearsal are scheduled for Thursday, June 9, 1994.

Senior exams will be held Monday, June 6; Tuesday, June 7; and Wednesday, June 8, 1994. Underclassmen would have their exams the following week, Tuesday through Thursday, June 14-16, 1994.

In a letter to Supt. Leonard Rezmierski, Johnson said although the district has considered holding graduation ceremonies on a Saturday evening or a Sunday afternoon, it has opted to stay with the Friday night tradition.

"Offering graduation on Friday evening, however, increases our chances to have a large faculty representation," Johnson wrote. "It also enables the custodial crew to get the building in shape for Monday classes."

MAGS vows fight over deck

Word pointed out that the final design of the tabletop deck has not been established, and said MAGS' concerns would be taken into consideration during the design phase.

The latest deck plan follows more than five years of failed proposals rejected because of public opposition to their size, location or cost. Its closest relative is Mainstreet '92, the city's plan to relocate Cady Street and replace the Cady deck with a three-level, 460-space ramped structure at a cost of $6.2 million.

Mills said MAGS officials were happy with Mainstreet '92, and did not even balk at a proposed $300,000 special assessment that would have been levied against their building to help fund it. Under Mainstreet '93, their special assessment has been reduced to $22,897 to reflect the project's reduced cost and Northville Square Associates' payment of a $200,000 assessment in the early 1970s to help finance development of the MAGS lot.

The decrease still leaves the MAGS building with the largest single assessment by far, well above Singh Development's $14,285 assessment for its MainCentre and proposed CadyCentre properties. Singh's assessment is over and above separate parking credit payments of about $250,000 each for MainCentre and CadyCentre.

New sets of textbooks approved

Board vice president Jean Hansen asked Sxt if the textbooks would hinder children who were having difficulty with reading.

Sxt said the committee researched that question and realized that children read at all different levels. In light of that, at-risk readers will be identified and closely monitored, Sxt said.

The committee has also prepared videos and a parent handbook detailing the new language arts program. The handbook will be distributed before the beginning of the school year.

"We've been talking about priorities," said Glenna Davis, secretary of the board. "Our priorities are in order if we're buying these (textbooks)."

"I just wish I would have had those (books) instead of Dick and Jane," said trustee Jay Dunkerley.

Tip #6-Avoid Tailgating

Avoid tailgating. By following too closely, car drivers increase their chances of a rear end collision with a truck. Car drivers should always keep a 4 second following distance. In foul weather, increase your following distance to 6-8 seconds.

Please wear your safety belt at all times, someone cares.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Fiscal restraint must be applied in all areas

There is bound to be some measure of cynicism over the decision by the Northville Board of Education to freeze the salary of school Supt. Leonard Rezmierski.

The superintendent's total salary package, including base pay and credits, amounts to roughly $109,492 a year. Throw in a car that's provided at district expense, a gasoline allocation and a generous monthly expense account, and it's a good bet the superintendent will survive the coming year without a raise.

Still, when compared to superintendents in other school districts, Rezmierski is not extravagantly compensated, and the decision to freeze his salary means that officials have denied the school chief a pay increase for two consecutive years.

With all due respect to the cynics, we think school board members should be applauded for freezing the superintendent's salary for another year and that Rezmierski should be commended for graciously accepting. With school board members mulling over a long list of potential budget cuts, any increase at all, whether deserving or not, would have been seen as inappropriate, if not unseemly.

Having said that, we believe it is also necessary to point out that freezing the superintendent's salary, while important, is largely a symbolic act. Holding the line on one employee's rate of pay, even if that person is the highest paid single individual on the district payroll, will not, by itself, result in a significant cost savings.

What is needed in this time of uncertain funding is fiscal restraint in all areas of spending. School district representatives are currently involved in contract negotiations with all of the labor unions in the district. Since salaries represent the single greatest expense in the school district budget — 65 percent in the preliminary budget adopted in late June — it behooves district negotiators to argue strenuously for minimal, or no, pay increases for all employees.

Budget planners have allowed for a 2.3 percent increase in salaries for 1993-94, from $15,597,957 to $15,955,010 on the year. This is responsible spending, but nothing has been finalized yet. Much could change as a result of property assessment limitations or school finance reforms being contemplated by the state Legislature.

Because budget planners in public sector entities spend money that doesn't have to come out of the margins of a company's balance sheet, they do not face the same kind of accountability as their counterparts with private industry firms. There is a temptation to take the easy way out and give in to the demands of a willful, aggressive employee bargaining unit.

We believe it is critical that school district representatives display strong mindedness in resisting the pressures that will be applied during contract discussions. In facing union negotiators across the bargaining table, district officials must bear in mind the soft nature of the economy and the sacrifices which school children will be called upon to make when the budget axe finally comes down.

School board members demonstrated the right mind set in imposing a one-year freeze on the superintendent's salary. Our hope is that this same attitude carries over into all areas of the budget so that substantial savings may be realized on behalf of the taxpayers of the district.

Museum adds to '50s fun

Rick
Byrne

Everyone's heard about the Sock Hop Express as part of this week's Michigan '50s Festival in Novi. A bunch of rowdy people bounce from dance to dance at major area hotels, with buses to get them around.

Now get ready for the Motorsports Express. To make sure the masses of people who will be in town for the weekend don't miss the great cars and displays at the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame, there'll be a shuttle running between the '50s Festival and the Expo Center, with a stop at the front entrance of the Museum.

The shuttle will run directly from the '50s Festival site at the Novi Town Center, picking up passengers at a special Museum display near the Entertainment Tent. Bob Hoeksema, a museum volunteer, graciously arranged for the loan of a van from his employer, Ford Motor Co.

When you get to the museum, you'll want to check out more than just the cars and Hall of Fame. We'll have our video display going all weekend long, rerunning teen car movies of the 1950s like Hot Rod Heaven.

You have to approach these old movies with the right frame of mind. The best way to describe them is that they're good because they're bad. Really horrible. Lousy acting. Inconceivable scripting, unlikely plots. They make

Smokey and the Bandit look like a think piece. But that's what makes them so much fun. Besides, the old cars are really neat.

The Museum is also taking an active role in the '50s Festival Car Show, too. On display along with the other lead sleds and street rods will be the Novi Special, owned jointly by the City of Novi and the Novi Economic Development Corp.

The Novi, for those unfamiliar, was one of the most powerful and most popular cars in the history of the Indianapolis 500. It led many races and was the fastest qualifier at Indy several times throughout the '50s, but ironically never won the race.

It took the city's name because its builder owned a company here in town that supplied parts to Detroit automakers. In another piece of irony, the car never did visit Novi until it was restored in 1988.

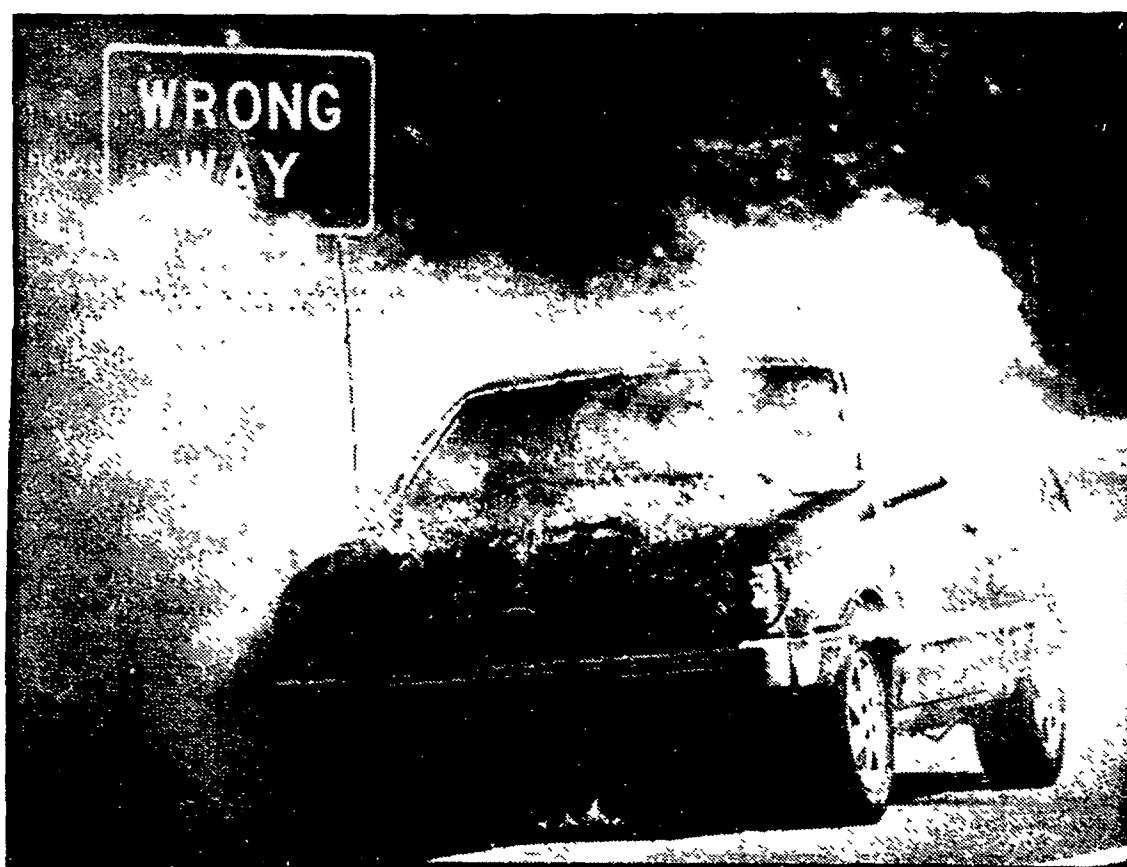

Also appearing at the car show along with the Novi Special will be a 1955 Cadillac stock car owned by Jess Austin of Wayne. The car is a replica of one that raced in the Mexican Road Race of the 1950s and competed on the NASCAR Grand National circuit, what we know today as Winston Cup. It's amazing how unsophisticated the race cars of that era were. The darned thing even has white walls.

The shuttle will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday, at 15-minute intervals. For more information, call 349-RACE.

'50s Festival had rocky start

Phil
Jerome

Talk about a tale of two cities — Northville has a Victorian Festival; Novi has a '50s Festival.

The Victorian Festival comes up later in the year, but the '50s Festival is at hand. Festivities begin this Wednesday and run through Sunday night, culminating with the Cruise Grand River event.

Some random thoughts about the '50s Fest.

■ The sixth annual '50s Fest? It seems like there have been a lot more than that. The fact that this is only the sixth one makes me think that festival organizers have done an awfully good job of getting the event firmly established.

■ Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall deserves a portion of the credit for helping make the event so successful. The City of Novi every year throws a party for employees and the volunteers who serve on various boards and commissions. These parties usually have a theme.

Six or seven years ago, the theme was the '50s. And everyone had such a good time that the '50s was selected as the theme for a summer festival.

■ How many people remember the very first '50s Festival back in 1987?

That was the summer of the big drought. The heat was oppressive, and it seemed like there was no rain whatsoever for more than a month.

A lot of people worked very hard to make sure the first '50s Fest would be a success. They knew the expenses would be high, but were counting on two concerts by Sha Na Na at the high school football field to raise enough money to cover costs. The Saturday of the concerts was typical of the days before it — unbelievably hot . . . so hot that hardly anyone showed up for the afternoon concert, which was okay because a full house was expected for the evening concert.

About 15 minutes before the concert was scheduled to begin, the drought ended. Big time. There was a fierce electrical storm — frightening bolts of lightning and a torrential downpour. Everyone rushed for the high school to get out of the storm.

And the concert never happened. No way was Sha Na Na going to take the stage with all its electrical equipment in the middle of an electrical storm.

The problem was that Sha Na Na insisted on being paid. They were there and ready to perform, they argued. They had met their end of the contract; festival organizers should have been smart enough to have lined up alternate facilities — like the high school auditorium, for example.

Making matters worse, people who had tickets for the evening concert wanted their money back. They had bought tickets for a concert and there was no concert, they reasoned with good justification.

Festival organizers asked concert-goers to consider making a donation by foregoing their refunds. And while some people complied, the festival still ended up something like $20,000 in the hole after '50s Festival I. And '50s Festival II looked doubtful.

A prominent local retail establishment, insisting on anonymity, quietly bailed the festival out of trouble and '50s Festival VI begins Wednesday.

It's a great party. Plan to attend.

Service offers home care opportunities

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Ruth Lanning was so scared of being hospitalized last May that she ignored her constant fatigue, thirst and dry throat for three weeks.

By the time Lanning broke down and let her husband Donald convince her to see a doctor, the 75-year-old Northville resident's blood sugar level had risen to 693 milligrams per deciliter from its normal 70-120 range.

"I tried to get her to go in a week earlier but she didn't want to. She was afraid they were going to put her in a hospital," Donald recalled. "It's a wonder she didn't go into a coma."

Ruth's pancreas had shut down and stopped producing the insulin needed to control her blood sugar. Fortunately for the Lannings, they learned of an alternative to hospitalization for her condition.

While in Dr. Robert Schneider's office in South Lyon, they met Lynda Shanahan of ABC Home Health Services, Inc., a Georgia-based agency that provides skilled nursing care to patients in their homes.

Shanahan, ABC's coordinator of field management development, said she had stopped by Dr. Schneider's office that day to discuss her firm's services with the office manager.

"She said, 'Oh my goodness, I think we have a patient for you to talk to,'" Shanahan recalled. "It was absolutely fortuitous timing."

While Lanning still visits Dr. Schneider twice weekly, an ABC Home Health Services nurse visits her several times a week as well to teach her how to administer insulin and to monitor her performance.

"This is the perfect case for home health care because Mrs. Lanning doesn't need hospitalization, but she needs to be taught about proper diet and giving herself injections," Shanahan said.

"I come out and make sure she's doing it right," Nurse Terri Barbarich added. "She's a model patient."

She has been such a model patient, in fact, that Dr. Schneider has called her in to counsel another patient afraid to medicate herself.

Lanning herself notes with pride that she's already lost 14 pounds under Barbarich's supervision. Aside from an occasional bite of lemon pie, she's followed the nurse's admonitions against foods like desserts and concentrated sweets.

Barbarich is teaching Lanning to take into account other factors that influence blood sugar as well, including stress, exercise and infections.

Lanning is learning, too, to watch out for the warning signs of high blood sugar level, including increased thirst, fatigue and blurred vision. And she's learned that low blood sugar has its own set of symptoms including sweating, irritability, hunger and dizziness.

Lanning now administers her own insulin every morning and tests herself twice a day with a device called a glucometer that measures blood sugar level, to monitor her progress.

Home health care is the fastest-growing segment of the health care field, said Haven Smallwood, administrator of ABC Home Health's Oak Hollow branch in Southfield.

"What's happening now, because hospital stays are so expensive, is the acuity of the patients coming out is much greater," she said.

While the practice actually dates back to the turn of the century when a major insurance company first offered coverage of nursing services in the home, the field has blossomed in the past decade due to skyrocketing medical costs and the availability of high-tech equipment and highly-qualified staff to perform sophisticated procedures in the home.

Having worked as a registered nurse herself in the intensive care unit at William Beaumont Hospital, Smallwood said she was amazed by how differently patients responded in their own homes.

"I was truly impressed with the difference, having gone from one to another," she said. "The patients respond so much better in the home environment."

Smallwood attributes the difference to the intimidating atmosphere of a major medical facility and the resultant difficulty in teaching patients to care for themselves.

"It's not only a very sterile atmosphere, but also very non-conductive to learning," she said. "It's noisy, you don't get enough rest, they're always in there poking you . . . The teaching is done in the hospital but because of the patient being overwhelmed or the family members being overwhelmed, it's simply not absorbed."

Home health care by necessity has a strong educational aspect. Medicare regulations require documentation that the patients like Lanning and their family members — their primary caregivers — are taught about the disease and healing processes involved, including how to administer medication.

"Our real goal is independence," Smallwood said. "Our goal is having Mrs. Lanning independent, and then our task is done."

Home health care has an added benefit over traditional institutional settings, according to its practitioners — its price. While a 30-day stay at an elderly care facility can cost a patient $3,300 for room and board alone, an equivalent 30 days of visits by home health aides and four by skilled nurses only runs about $2,260.

The difference is more dramatic when compared to hospital stays, where a week-long stay may cost a patient $7,756. A week of visits by ABC Home Health, including 10 skilled nursing visits and seven visits by home health aides, is a fraction of that cost at $1,490.

ABC Home Health Services, Inc., which lists its motto as "Keeping families together," was founded in Georgia in 1978. From a single agency the firm has grown into the nation's largest privately-owned Medicare-certified home health company, performing more than 3 million patient visits annually. The firm has 225 offices in 17 states, and employs more than 5,400 people.

The agency now has 10 firms in Michigan, after opening its first branch here three years ago.

The Oak Hollow branch is the largest of its Michigan locations. With about 225 patients, the branch conducts more than 3,500 patient visits each month between Clarkston and Monroe. The visits are conducted by its 60-member staff of registered nurses, home health aides, physical therapists, occupational therapists and social workers.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDINANCE NO. 100 AMENDMENTS TO DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION STANDARDS

An ordinance to amend Chapter 80 of Ordinance 100, Design and Construction Standards, to revise various sections as noted below:

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS:

Section 1 Amendments to Ordinance 100 as published in the Code of Ordinances, Chapter Eighty, Sections 80 502 and 80 701 D. These Sections are amended as follows:

80 502D Curb and Gutter
Concrete curb and gutter, where proposed, shall be MDOT Detail F4, modified with a reverse slope gutter plan where appropriate.

80 701D Fire Hydrants and Appurtenances
1. Location

a. Fire hydrants in subdivisions composed of detached single family dwelling units have a maximum spacing of 500 feet.

(1) Hydrants shall not be located closer than 40 feet from a single family residence.

b. Fire Hydrants in all multiple, commercial, office, and industrial developments shall have a maximum spacing of 300 feet and shall further be subject to the following requirements:

(1) In general, no part of a building shall be more than 300 feet from a fire hydrant as measured by the unobstructed hose length.

(2) Hydrants shall be located for double coverage in multiple housing developments, but in no case shall they be located closer than 50 feet from any other structure.

(3) Spacing of hydrants around commercial and/or manufacturing establishments shall be considered as individual cases and shall be determined by the CBO.

(4) All hydrant spacing shall be subject to review and approval by the Township's Fire department.

c. Fire Hydrants shall be located at street intersections where feasible. In subdivisions, hydrants shall generally be located on the extended side yard property lines.

d. A hydrant shall be installed at the end of every dead-end main.

e. In general, hydrants shall be located in the road right-of-way not more than 10 feet or less than 3 feet from back of curb.

f. Fire hydrants in parking areas shall be protected by 4 steel guard posts or a 6 inch high curb.

g. All hydrants shall be constructed with a companion gate valve and box. Where a fire hydrant is proposed to be located adjacent to a drainage ditch or swale, a culvert shall be placed to allow access to the fire hydrant.

2. Materials
a. Hydrants shall be Midwest Hydrants, East Jordan Type 6BR (traffic model) with breakable flange and mechanical joint connections.

(1) Fire hydrants shall comply with the latest revision of AWWA Standard, C502. Hydrants shall be compression type to open with the pressure. They shall have a 5/4" valve opening and 6" mechanical joint inlet. Hydrants for use in high density and commercial areas shall have two 4" pumper connection with Detroit 7-1/2" threads per inch.

(2) Fire hydrants shall have an inside barrel dimension of not less than 8 1/4" I.D. from top to bottom. The 1 1/4" pentagon operating nut shall open "COUNTER CLOCKWISE".

(3) All nozzles shall be on a removable head with a flange so that they may be rotated by changing the position of the flange.

(4) Hydrants shall be fully bronze mounted, including top of the operating stem where it passes through the double o-ring seal in the bronze packing gland. The forged operating stem in the base and the valve seat shall also be of bronze. The molded valve shall be of composition rubber and the cast iron valve clamps shall be packed with o-ring seals and held right to the stem by a threaded bronze hex retainer ring and threaded bronze locknut, anchored with set screws.

(5) Hydrant shall be designed for 150 psi working pressure and tested to 300 psi. Those portions of the hydrant above grade shall have two coats of red enamel. All unpainted surfaces shall have two coats of coal tar pitch varnish.

(6) Depth of bury is 6'6" from the bottom of the connection pipe to the grade line on the hydrant.

(7) Drain hole shall be plugged unless otherwise directed by the CBO.

b. Valve boxes shall be of cast iron construction. They shall be of three piece, screw type adjustment design. All valve boxes shall be installed flush with the top of the proposed site grade. Covers shall be designed to be removed easily to provide access to the valve. Valve boxes shall be Series 6860 as manufactured by Tyler Pipe, or equal.

Section 2 Separability
If any section, subsection, clause, phrase or portion of this Ordinance is held invalid for any reason or unconstitutional by any Court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision, and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions thereof.

Section 3 Savings Clause
The repeal provided for in Section 4 shall not abrogate or affect any offense or act committed or done, or any penalty or forfeiture incurred, or any pending litigation or prosecution of any right established, or occurring prior to the effective date.

Section 4 Repeal of Conflicting Ordinances
All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed only to the extent necessary to give this Ordinance full force and effect.

Section 5 Effective Date

These Ordinance Amendments shall become effective upon publication, July 19, 1993.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE AMENDMENT TO ZONING ORDINANCE 94-04-93

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ZONING ORDINANCE BY AMENDING THE TEXT THEREOF.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDAINS:

PART I. The Charter Township of Northville Zoning Ordinance No. 94 as amended is hereby further amended by amending Article XVII, GENERAL PROVISIONS, Section 18 24, SITE PLAN REVIEW (ALL DISTRICTS) paragraph 3 h. Waiver from required Site Plan Submittal Items, to add a provision to waive site plan submittal items for accessory buildings and uses in certain circumstances.

Section 1 Amendment to ARTICLE XVII GENERAL PROVISIONS Section 18 24 SITE PLAN REVIEW (ALL DISTRICTS) paragraph 3 subparagraph h. Waiver From Required Site Plan Submittal Items to add subparagraph (4).

3 h. Waiver from Required Site Plan Submittal Items

Particular site plan submittal items may be waived by the Planning Commission and a sketch plan may be submitted under the following conditions:

(1) A cumulative expansion of no more than ten (10%) percent from the original site plan of the square footage of the building or parking, provided that any previous minor expansions be considered in making the determination.

(2) Uses Subject to Special Conditions which would occupy less than twenty five percent (25%) of any existing structure.

(3) Uses within an existing building when the use will be similar or less intense than the past use in terms of parking, traffic generation, drainage, utility needs, noise, aesthetics, and other external impacts.

(4) Accessory structures and uses except for those on lots that are part of residential plats. SIGNS SHALL BE REVIEWED AND APPROVED BY THE PLANNING AND ZONING ADMINISTRATOR.

Sketch plan approval shall follow the procedures outlined for site plan review. In order to be placed on the Planning Commission agenda and considered, all application for sketch plan review, with all requisite material, shall be delivered to the office of the Township Planning and Zoning Department not less than nineteen (19) days in advance of the regularly scheduled Planning Commission meeting.

Minimum contents of a sketch plan include:

(1) Drawn to an engineers scale
(2) Application form and fee
(3) Proof of ownership
(4) Legal description of the property
(5) Property lines
(6) Existing and proposed buildings and parking lots with dimensions and setbacks
(7) Existing and proposed parking calculations
(8) Existing and proposed driveways
(9) Existing and proposed signs
(10) Existing and proposed landscaping illustrated on a plan and described in a plant list.

(11) Layout of proposed changes to utilities
(12) Any proposed changes to grading, lighting, dumpsters, protected or landmark trees.

(13) Architectural perspective of proposed changes to buildings
(14) Any other items requested by Township staff or the Planning Commission to assist in the review.

PART II. Conflicting Provisions Repealed.
Any Ordinance or part of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed save that in all other respects Ordinance No. 94, as amended, is hereby ratified and reaffirmed.

PART III. Effective Date.
The provisions of this ordinance shall be in full force and effective immediately upon publication.

PART IV. Adoption.
This ordinance may be adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Northville, pursuant to authority of Act No. 184, Public Acts of 1943, as amended at their next regular/special meeting.

July has been berry, berry good to you

July belongs to blueberries! This is the peak month for berries, and to celebrate, Weight Watchers has come up with a trio of delectable blueberry recipes.

Start off your "berry" good day with mouth watering Blueberry Hotcakes, or the perennial favorite muffin. In this case Blueberry-Orange Muffins. Or, try something different — a tangy Blueberry Salad, ideal as a side dish or as a light dessert.

Whether you cook them or eat them by the handful, enjoying more fresh, seasonal fruits like blueberries can help your weight loss effort. When you enjoy the fruits and vegetables at their peak of freshness, you add variety and a sense of fun to your diet.

Sounds "berry" good! All recipes are from Weight Watchers Favorite Homestyle Recipes Cookbook.

BLUEBERRY HOTCAKES

- ½ teaspoon cornstarch
- 1½ cups fresh or frozen blueberries
- granulated sugar substitute to equal 4 teaspoons sugar
- 1½ ounces quick cooking oats
- ½ cup buttermilk powder
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon granulated sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup egg substitute

To prepare blueberry sauce, in small saucepan, combine cornstarch and ¼ cup cold water until smooth. Add blueberries; cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until thickened, about 5 minutes. Stir in sugar substitute; set aside.

Heat non-stick electric griddle or 2 medium non-stick skillet until hot.

In large bowl, combine remaining ingredients until just blended.

Drop batter by ¼ cup measures onto hot griddle, making 6 hotcakes. Cook until golden brown, about 3 minutes. Carefully turn and cook until other side is golden, about 3 minutes. Serve immediately with blueberry sauce. Makes 2 servings.

Each serving provides: ½ milk; ½ protein; 1 fruit; 1½ bread; 10 optional calories on the Weight Watchers Food Plan.

Per serving: 286 calories; 15 g protein; 3 g fat; 52 g carbohydrate; 318 mg calcium; 761 mg sodium; 14 mg cholesterol; 5 g dietary fiber.

BLUEBERRY-ORANGE MUFFINS

- 2½ cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup reduced-calorie tub margarine
- ½ cup plain nonfat yogurt
- 1 small orange, peeled, seeded and finely chopped with juice
- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel
- 2 large eggs, beaten
- 1½ cups fresh or frozen blueberries

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Spray twelve 2½-inch non-stick muffin cups with non-stick cooking spray, or line with paper liners; set aside.

In large bowl, whisk together flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda, and salt; cut in margarine until mixture resembles fine crumbs.

In small bowl, combine yogurt, orange and orange peel until thoroughly blended. Stir in eggs.

An important component at every Italian meal throughout the day is perfectly done bread.

Loaves, Italian style

Bread appears on the table at every meal

By ORLANDO RAMIREZ
Copley News Service

Bread is simple: flour, water, yeast — maybe a little salt — and you have the staff of life. Yet, each culture has its own variation and it is how those variations are made, and the ingredients added, that summarizes the history of that culture's cuisine.

Italy is as good an example as any. Sitting at the crossroads of the Mediterranean, the Italian peninsula has been invaded or occupied by the Greeks, Etruscans, Arabs, French and Germans in its 3,000-year history. Each has left its stamp on Italian food.

Flat breads, such as focaccia, draw from the Arab style of bread baking brought by the Moors, who also introduced the eggplant from across the Mediterranean.

The European influence can be seen in the breads from the northern reaches, in particular the Pane Giallo, which uses polenta to make a corn bread. Although who introduced rice to the Lombardy region is in dispute, the French are widely credited as having a deep influence on the development of risotto.

Even the Americans, through the tomato, have had their effect on Italian cooking.

Of equal influence is Italy's geography. Surrounded on three sides by water, with a mixed terrain of mountains and fertile fields, Italy's 20 regions have a wealth of indigenous ingredients with which cooks whip up local specialties.

It is said that it took national hero Giuseppe Garibaldi to unify the cuisine when he marched from one end of Italy to the other and introduced the northern, rice-eating soldiers in his campaign to the pleasures of pasta and tomatoes from the south.

The essential aspect of each of these breads is the flavoring imparted by local herbs and flavorings.

Panne Rustico, flavored with Italian ham and mozzarella cheese, can be a meal in itself. In Rome, Panne Rustico, a green salad and a bottle of Chianti are considered lunch.

From Sicily, there is Pane di Mattina Alla Siciliana, a breakfast bread that uses locally made Marsala dessert wine to impart a sweet flavor.

In fact, Marsala wine is used quite frequently in Sicilian dessert-making, said to be the best in Italy. Many of the recipes were influenced by the Moorish invaders.

Most of the "rustic" breads described here demand nothing more than a simple dressing of a good olive oil, salt and maybe a tomato — the vine-ripened kind, not the gaseous variety that passes for a tomato in most American supermarkets — to make an excellent appetizer.

And although most Italians purchase their loaves at the neighborhood bakery, there are few things better or more impressive than home-baked bread.

To be honest, baking bread is a time-consuming process that requires some physical labor if you're not using a food processor fitted with a dough hook. One thing to remember is that the loaves you don't use right away can be frozen.

It is best to freeze right after the bread has cooled to preserve freshness. Make sure the freezer wrap or bag is airtight. You don't want any moisture or vapors to be absorbed. It is best to use frozen breads within four to six months.

There are several important steps to preparing yeast doughs. (The Pane Giallo uses no yeast.) The first is, of course, the yeast, which must be proofed in warm water at least 105 F.

If bubbles fail to rise within 10 minutes of mixing the yeast with the warm water, then the yeast is inactive and you must start with a fresh package. However, most commercial yeast will begin proofing within five minutes.

Then the kneading begins. Many chefs opt to use a food processor with a plastic dough hook instead of kneading by hand. When using a food processor, start with the dry ingredients in the bowl and add the liquid slowly. When mixed thoroughly, the dough will form a ball, and the sides and bottom of the bowl should be clean.

A further note: Use the plastic dough hook with amounts less than 3 cups of dry ingredients. Above that amount, the metal blade works best.

Even if you're using a food processor, take the dough out of the bowl and knead it by hand for a few turns. Something about the dough being stretched by hand seems to give an extra elasticity and texture.

Set the dough on a lightly floured bowl and using the heel of your hand, push the dough away from you. Then, pull the end back over and give the dough a turn — no more than an inch or two.

Build up a rhythm, pushing, pulling and turning in a continuous motion until the dough develops an elastic, smooth finish with small bubbles appearing just under the surface.

At first the dough may stick to the board. Sprinkle the board with flour until it becomes clean. Scrape away any wet pieces that stick to the board.

Kneading helps develop the gluten in the dough. The yeast forms bubbles of carbon dioxide and stretches the gluten. This expansion determines the volume and texture of the bread.

The purpose of letting the dough rise, then punching it down, is to keep the yeast from stretching to a point where it breaks down the gluten network. The result of the rising and punching down creates an even texture to the dough.

This expansion (or rising) continues until heat in the oven kills the yeast.

For breads that demand a heavier texture, such as the focaccia, you don't want to let the bread achieve much volume, so the rising time is 1 ½ hours.

On the other hand, the Pane di Mattina is allowed to rise for almost 8 hours total to develop a light, airy texture to hold the raisins and currants in a sweet dough flavored with Marsala and lemons.

The Merenda Fiorentina is a flat, pizza-style bread scented with rosemary, oil and garlic.

To serve, cut it into thin slices and pack along with a picnic lunch of roast chicken, roasted red peppers and red wine.

The bacon and cheese in the Pane Rustico make it a perfect accompaniment to a bowl of chicken or tomato soup.

The Pane di Mattina alla Siciliana is Sicily's answer to the morning Danish. Make it a day ahead, then serve it with a cup of good, strong coffee for a break from the traditional bacon-and-egg breakfast.

The Pane Giallo is lightened with egg whites to give it a puddinglike consistency.

However, the red peppers and garlic give it a distinctively savory cast.

Search for fresh fish takes all the senses

Mary Brady

More from Boston . . . Monday evening was the first session of fish school.

Promptly at six and eleven, attendees met for the first time. They were Kusta, Charles, William, Matthew and Gisela Kegas from the Regas Restaurant in Knoxville; Michael Janosek, sous chef of Cafe Sausalito, Cleveland, Ohio; Thomas Walters, regional director of operations for Morton's of Chicago, San Diego, California; Charles Haskell, executive chef, Park Country Club of Buffalo, Williamsville, N.Y.; Dan Covington, Purchasing, Union League Club, Chicago, Ill.; and Susan Glazier, purchasing, Congra mail order, Burr Ridge, Ill.

It was a nice diverse group of people that would spend the next 48 hours talking and learning fish. Little did I realize how close we'd become.

Dinner was at Jimmy's Harborside, the oldest restaurant on the wharf. The view, food and company were outstanding. Calamari, oysters, shrimp and swordfish started our stay in Boston. A first class meal.

To start each of us stood and spoke about our background and what we hoped to get out of the seminar. Mike Foley promised us that, by Wednesday, we'd learn all that we'd asked for and more. A slide presentation finished the session and we were shuttled back to the hotel for a short but sweet beauty rest.

Tuesday started at 6 a.m. with a wake-up call. I can't remember the last time I was up so early. Class began promptly at 7. The morning was spent learning about grading and preserving fish. Some pretty interesting stuff.

There are five tests that fish should pass before making it to our refrigerator, i.e., as it comes through the back door. First, the ideal temperature is 32 degrees. If the temperature is over 40 degrees, the fish should be rejected. A small pocket thermometer is placed between the fillets to check temperature.

Next, the nose test. Good fish does not smell. Any yeasty, fishy or ammonia odors indicate a poor product.

Then, the eye exam. Look for natural shine. Yellowing or browning of flesh are signs of age.

Also, fish should not be shipped in plastic bags or containers as they are insulators of heat and do not conduct cold. Bet you can guess what Foley's ships in . . . Yep, tin.

The touch test follows. Rub fingers over fish to insure fillets have not been brine soaked. A tacky, sticky and mucousy feel indicates brined fillets. Brine soaking is used to mask fish odor, adds water weight and thus a 10-percent shrinkage loss upon cooking, camouflages poor quality and adds bacteria. Lots of fish processors brine fish because they start with poor quality.

Now, check workmanship. Reject fillets that have ragged edges or contain blood spots.

And, finally taste the product. Any fishy smells while cooking are a sure sign that the product is not of the quality demanded.

Obviously, it is much easier for us to check these factors upon delivery than it is for you at the grocery store. To me the two tests that are the most important can be conducted at the fish counter.

Ask to smell the fish. If there is any odor don't buy it. Also, look at the product. A nice natural shine is imperative. Any browning or yellowing is a sign of age.

Finally, know who you're buying your fish from. Develop a good working relationship with your neighborhood fish monger.

Next week a trip to the fish auction and wharf.

Slip into some Italian loafers

Like polenta, this bread goes well with grilled chicken or chops, roast quail or pan-fried sausages.

Focaccia derives its name from focus, meaning hearth, because it used to be cooked under the ashes of the hearth in the days before ovens.

The trick is to make a depression in the focaccia to create a well for additional flavorings because you can top your focaccia with just about anything — cheese, rosemary, olive oil, chicken strips, sausage, tomatoes — or in the case of Focaccia di Palermo, stuff it with sausage and cheese.

These recipes are from The Cole Group's cookbook, Italian Cooking at the Academy, available from the publisher, 4415 Sonoma Highway, Santa Rosa, CA 95409, (800) 959-2717 or your local bookseller ($10.95).

PANE DI MATTINA ALLA SICILIANA (Sicilian Morning Bread)

1 teaspoon olive oil
1 package active dry yeast
1/4 cup plus 1 teaspoon sugar
1 1/2 cups scalded milk, cooled to 100 F
6 1/2 cups (approximately) unbleached flour
1/2 cup dried currants
1/2 cup golden raisins
1/2 cup Marsala
1/2 cup unsalted butter
3 tablespoons shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons fennel seed
4 eggs
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon salt

Egg Wash:

1 tablespoon whipping cream

1 egg yolk
1/4 tablespoon Marsala

Yields 2 9-inch loaves or 1 large round loaf.

Brush olive oil over surface of large stainless steel bowl. Put yeast and 1 teaspoon of sugar in bottom of bowl. Add 1 cup of scalded milk and stir to dissolve yeast. Set aside for 10 minutes, then add 1 1/2 cups of flour and remaining milk.

Knead by hand or with mixer and dough hook until dough is soft and silky, about 7 or 8 minutes. Cover and let rise 5 hours.

While dough rises, soak currants and raisins in Marsala for at least 1 hour. In small saucepan over low heat, melt butter and 2 tablespoons shortening. Add fennel seed, remove from heat, and let stand until cool. Add eggs to fennel-seed mixture one at a time, blending well after each addition, then add lemon rind and remaining sugar. Set aside.

When dough has risen 5 hours, add fennel-seed mixture and mix well. Add salt and begin adding remaining flour, 1/4 cup at a time. When dough is firm enough to knead, turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and soft, about 10 to 15 minutes, adding as much additional flour as necessary to keep it from sticking. During final 5 minutes, knead in raisins and currants.

Form dough into 2 loaves. Use remaining shortening to grease 2 9-inch loaf pans. Place dough in pans, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. This may take as long as 3 hours. (Dough may also be formed into 1 large round loaf and baked free-form.)

To make Egg Wash, combine cream, yolk and Marsala in small bowl. Preheat oven to 375 F. Brush Egg Wash on loaves 5 minutes before baking. Brush again immediately before baking. Bake until loaves are golden brown and sound hollow when tapped, about 35 minutes. Cool on racks.

MERENDA FIORENTINA (Florentine Snack Bread)

1 package active dry yeast
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups unbleached flour
1 cup warm (105 F) water
3 tablespoons olive oil plus olive oil for brushing crust
1 tablespoon minced garlic
Cornmeal, for dusting
Coarse salt
1 teaspoon minced fresh rosemary (optional)

Yields 1 12x14-inch rectangle.

Combine yeast, salt and flour in large bowl. Combine water and oil in small bowl. Add liquid to dry ingredients and mix until they form a rough mass. Knead mixture in bowl with your hands until it holds together, then turn it out onto lightly floured surface and knead in garlic. Continue kneading until dough is smooth and elastic, about 8 minutes. Form into ball and let rest on lightly floured surface, covered, for 1 hour.

Preheat oven to 375 F. Roll dough into 12 x 14-inch rectangle and transfer to baking sheet sprinkled with cornmeal.

Use your fingertips to make indentations in the dough at 2-inch intervals. Sprinkle dough lightly with coarse salt and drizzle olive oil over the top. Sprinkle with rosemary (if used). Bake until golden, about 25 minutes. Remove from oven and brush with a little more olive oil. Cool slightly on rack; serve warm.

PANE GIALLO (Polenta Bread)

5 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 tablespoons minced garlic
1 cup polenta (coarse yellow cornmeal)
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
3 eggs, separated
2 cups milk
1/2 cup half-and-half
1 cup roasted red peppers, minced
Olive oil

Yields 8 servings.

In small skillet over moderately low heat, melt 2 tablespoons of butter. Add garlic and saute until fragrant. Remove from heat. Combine polenta, salt and pepper in bowl and set aside.

Put egg yolks, milk and half-and-half in saucepan and whisk well. Bring to a boil, whisking constantly. Add cornmeal mixture gradually, then add garlic and red peppers. Cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly with wooden spoon. Add remaining butter and cook an additional 2 minutes.

Preheat oven to 375 F. Brush 8-cup souffle dish or casserole with olive oil. Place dish in oven 5 minutes to warm it. Beat egg whites with pinch of salt until stiff peaks form. Gently fold whites into thickened cornmeal. Pour mixture into hot souffle dish. Bake until puffed and golden, about 30 minutes. Serve immediately.

Berry season brings out the best

Make well in center of flour mixture. Pour in egg mixture and stir until just combined; gently fold in blueberries.

Spoon batter evenly into prepared muffin cups, filling each about two-thirds full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, until lightly browned and a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on rack. Makes 12 servings.

Each serving provides: 1 fat; 1/4 fruit; 1 bread; 75 optional calories on Weight Watchers Food Plan. Per serving: 199 calories; 4 g protein; 5 g fat; 34 g carbohydrate; 78 mg calcium; 327 mg sodium; 36 mg cholesterol; 1 g dietary fiber.

BLUEBERRY SALAD

2 envelopes (eight 1/4 cup servings) sugar-free triple-berry-flavored gelatin mix (8 calories per serving)

2 cups drained canned crushed pineapple

1 1/2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries

6 tablespoons light cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup nonfat sour cream (10 calories per tablespoon)

1/4 cup plain nonfat yogurt

2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons granulated sugar

1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

1/2 ounce shelled pecans, chopped

In medium bowl or 4-cup decorative mold, combine gelatin and 2 cups boiling water. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved; add pineapple, blueberries, and 1 cup cold water. Chill until set, about 4 hours.

In blender, combine remaining ingredients except pecans; blend until smooth.

Unmold gelatin onto serving plate; pour cream cheese mixture over top; sprinkle with pecans. Makes 8 servings.

Each serving provides: 1/4 fat; 1/4 fruit; 60 optional calories on the Weight Watchers Food Plan. Per serving: 121 calories; 4 g protein; 3 g fat; 20 g carbohydrate; 50 mg calcium; 133 mg sodium; 6 mg cholesterol; 1 g dietary fiber.

Canned food can do for dietary fiber

Are you dreading waking up to another bowl of oat bran cereal? Are you tired of eating the same bran muffin each day to ensure you get enough fiber in your diet? There's an alternative. According to the Canned Food Information Council, some of the highest fiber foods available are packaged in cans.

Yet, most people are confused about how much fiber to consume, the different kinds of fiber and the best way to regulate their fiber intake. Fiber is divided into two categories: soluble and insoluble, both of which you need in order to maintain a healthy diet.

Insoluble fiber, or roughage, is found in canned vegetables, such as green beans, potatoes and corn, and serves to speed the passage of food through the digestive system.

Soluble fiber, found in canned beans, lentils, peas, mandarin oranges and apples, among others, also helps move food through the digestive system and may play a role in lowering blood cholesterol levels.

While Americans currently consume an average of 11 grams of dietary fiber daily, the National Cancer Institute recommends an increase to 25-35 grams a day.

An easy way to increase the amount of fiber you eat, while adding variety to your diet, is to include many green vegetables. But it's tough to beat beans when it comes to fiber. Beans are among the few foods that contain significant amounts of both soluble and insoluble dietary fiber.

Low in fat and price, beans are the ideal choice for people seeking additional fiber. Canned limas, navy, kidney and garbanzo beans are good sources of iron and B vitamins, and like all vegetables and fruits, contain no cholesterol.

Many new varieties of beans like black beans with cumin and spices, pinto beans with tomatoes, peppers and spices, and pinto in chiles are now available on grocery shelves. Canned beans are the convenient alternative. The canning process takes care of the soaking and cooking, so the beans are ready to serve with little effort.

More than 40 different kinds of beans are available in cans, as well as dozens of other fruits and vegetables. Here's a recipe to try.

FALAFEL

Vegetable cooking spray

1/2 cup sliced green onions and tops

1/2 cup sliced celery

2 cloves garlic, minced

1 can (15 ounces) garbanzo beans, drained

1 can (15 ounces) pinto beans, drained, rinsed

1 egg

2 teaspoons lemon juice

2 tablespoons flour

1/2 teaspoon ground cumin

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon black pepper

2 cans (15 ounces each) whole tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped

1/2 cup chopped cucumber

2 teaspoons sliced black olives

1 cup no-fat plain yogurt

1/2 teaspoon dried mint leaves

4 pita breads, cut into halves

Spray small skillet with cooking spray and heat until hot; saute onions, celery and garlic until tender. Process beans in blender or food processor until smooth. Mix pureed beans, egg, lemon juice, flour, cumin, salt and pepper; mix in sauteed vegetables. Form mixture into 8 patties. Spray large skillet with cooking spray and heat until hot; cook patties over medium-low heat until lightly browned, about 5 minutes on each side.

Mix tomatoes, cucumber and olives; mix yogurt and mint. Serve falafel in or with pita bread; serve with tomato and yogurt mixtures. Makes 8 servings.

Broaden your pork recipe repertoire

Listen to the sounds of summer: a breeze wafting through leafy branches, birds singing, waves lapping the shoreline—and the sizzling of food on the grill.

Outdoor grilling—and pork—are synonymous with summer.

Cooking over an open flame contributes a wonderful flavor to most foods, and especially to fresh pork. Yet, if you're like most Americans, you find yourself relying on two or three old standards.

It's time to fall into the habit of always cooking the same things on the grill. Burgers, hot dogs and steaks are grilling classics — and for good reason. But if you want to be a virtuoso of the grill, expand your grilling repertoire.

Start by selecting the main course and build from there. Feeling a bit tentative? Play it safe by introducing a single new dish to a menu of tried-and-true favorites. Try pork burgers on sandwich buns instead of traditional hamburgers, served with two summer favorites — creamy coleslaw and sliced tomatoes vinaigrette. You can also add interest and a variety to your outdoor grilling repertoire with different cuts and shapes of meat.

Marinades and sauces harmonize with foods to create an exciting and exotic array of flavor sensations.

For example, the tropical flavors of Caribbean pork kabobs, served with green beans with coconut and yellow rice will have family and friends offering accolades.

With a little creativity you can find yourself enjoying rave reviews. Let yourself go on the grill and create a completely original composition. Menu planning can be creative and fun. Use the following guidelines to help spark your artistic vision — and remember, variety is the key to creating a meal that appeals to all the senses.

● Color: Give your eyes a feast. Think of foods that will complement each other on the plate. Contrasting colors are more appetizing than foods of a similar shade. For instance, the contrast of carrot-line salad and gingered snow peas creates a splash of color and complements the more subtle color of Honey-Garlic grilled chops.

● Form: Don't serve too many similar shapes or too many small pieces. Leave some foods whole and serve others sliced, cubed, shredded or cut into other interesting shapes and sizes.

● Flavor: Complement tart or spicy foods with something bland or neutral. Usually plan only one highly seasoned food item per menu. So rice is a good foil for the stronger seasonings in Caribbean pork kabobs.

● Temperature: Include a variety of temperatures. Hot, cold and room temperature foods make a good combination.

● Texture: Combine a variety of textures in your menu. Serve soft or creamy foods with crisp or crunchy ones. Everything creamy or everything crunchy is too much.

If you want to make a claim to being a grilling maestro, you definitely need to master the two most basic grilling methods — indirect and direct heat.

● Indirect: In this method, food is cooked by hot air circulating around the food, similar to the way you oven works. Simply position food away from the coals by banking the coals on one side of the grill; or in a ring around the outer perimeter of the grill bed. This method is ideal for larger cuts of meat, such as roasts and thick pork chops. Indirect heat allows you to cook meat without burning the surface.

● Direct: This quick, high-heat method is best for grilling small pieces of tender meat, such as kabobs, steak, shrimp, scallops and ground meats such as sausage and burgers. Similar to broiling, direct heat is applied to the food being cooked.

Whether you are a master or beginner, anyone can put in a virtuoso performance when it comes to outdoor cooking.

PORK BURGERS

1 pound lean ground pork
Seasoned pepper to taste

4 large soft sandwich buns

Divide pork into four portions and shape into patties about 1/4-inch thick, handling meat as little as possible. Sprinkle both sides of patties with seasoned pepper. Grill over direct heat over medium-hot fire 5 minutes per side, turning once. Serve immediately on buns with favorite condiments. Serves 4.

CARIBBEAN PORK KABOBS

1 pound pork tenderloin, cut into 1-inch cubes
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup lime juice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 teaspoon ground cayenne pepper

Combine all ingredients in a self-sealing plastic bag; seal bag and refrigerate 2-24 hours. Remove cubes from marinade; discard leftover marinade.

Thread cubes evenly onto four skewers (if using wooden skewers, soak them in water for an hour before using to prevent burning). Grill over hot coals 10-12 minutes, turning often, until nicely browned. Serve with hot rice and kabobs of grilled fruit and pepper chunks, if desired. Serves 4.

Marinating takes toughness out of meat

Marinating is a favorite way to tenderize less-tender cuts of meat. Certain cuts need tenderizing prior to conventional cooking because dry heat can make them tough.

Some conventional moist-cooking methods, like stewing and braising, themselves help to tenderize meats — and so does microwaving. But marinating can help make meats even more tender — and adds delicious flavor, too.

Basically, a marinade consists of an acidic liquid (wine, lemon juice or vinegar), spices and oil. Since marinades penetrate only to a shallow depth, it's best to marinate smaller pieces, like chicken, ribs or thinner cuts of steak instead of, say, a roast. Marinate smaller cuts (kebabs, thin cuts) no longer than three to four hours. Larger cuts can marinate up to 24 hours.

Marinades contain acid, and the process may take several hours, so you need a tray or bowl that won't be affected by acidic ingredients. Therefore, it's necessary to marinate in glass or plastic rather than in metal containers. This is no problem when microwaving, of course, since the same container can be used to marinate and to cook.

Marinating and barbecuing go hand in hand, and more of this synergism goes on during the summer months than at any other time of year. One popular method is to marinate meat, partially cook in the microwave, then finish on the grill, using leftover marinade to baste.

Some recipes ask you to let marinated meat steep at room temperature. Since most marinades do contain acid, they will slow bacterial growth, but in hot summer weather, it's best not to take chances. Any meat to be marinated for over one hour should be marinated in our refrigerator — or, if it's a very hot day, don't even leave it out that long. Cover meat with marinade, according to recipe instructions, then cover tightly (so smell won't permeate fridge) and chill until ready to cook.

Leftover marinated meat can be frozen, but meat fats and oil will separate, forming a solid layer on top. When thawed, however, sauce will meld together again.

You can also marinate vegetables — not to tenderize them, but simply for flavor.

Savory Marinated Red Tomatoes and Onions get its flavor from a light oregano and garlic marinade with fresh parsley. It's excellent in sandwiches, atop a green salad, or as a side dish with a summer barbecue. (Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

When microwaving, marinate meats for color as well as tenderness and flavor. Good candidates for marinating/microwaving are flank, chuck, cube and round steak. There's no need to tenderize chicken. But marinate this pale-colored meat in a soy sauce mixture and it emerges from your microwave extra-flavorful and colored a deep, rich, appetizing brown.

MARINATED TOMATOES AND ONIONS

2 large, ripe tomatoes, thinly sliced
1/2 medium red onion, thinly sliced
1/2 cup olive oil
1 large clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup fresh minced parsley, packed
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
1/2 teaspoon sugar
Scant 1/2 teaspoon ground dried oregano
Dash freshly ground black pepper

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 10 minutes (plus 2 hours to marinate)
Cooking time: 1 minute
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Arrange sliced tomatoes in shallow serving bowl; top with sliced onions. Set aside.

Measure olive oil into 1-quart microwave-safe casserole. Add garlic and parsley. Cover and microwave 1 minute, or until parsley is limp. Stir in vinegar, sugar and oregano. Spoon mixture over tomatoes and onions. Top with dash of freshly ground black pepper.

Cover dish tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate at least 2 hours before serving time, to let flavors blend.

TERIYAKI FLANK STEAK

1 1/2 pounds beef flank steak
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/2 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons cider vinegar

1 tablespoon sherry
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 green onions, sliced
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon ground dried ginger

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Preparation time: 15 to 20 minutes (plus 4 to 6 hours to marinate).
Cooking time: 45 to 55 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-LOW/DEFROST (30 percent power).

Using sharp knife, diagonally score top and bottom of steak to about 1/4-inch. Place steak in shallow 10-inch microwave-safe baking dish. In small bowl combine all remaining ingredients. Pour marinade over steak, turning to coat both sides. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate 4 to 6 hours.

To cook, cover dish with vented plastic wrap and microwave 5 minutes at HIGH setting. Turn meat, replace cover and microwave at MEDIUM-LOW/DEFROST setting 40 to 50 minutes, or until meat is tender. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

To serve, slice meat thinly across grain and spoon cooking juices over top. Serve with hot cooked rice and steamed green vegetables.

MARINATED CHICKEN STRIPS WITH CASHEWS AND PEA PODS

2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons white wine
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon red chili sauce (optional)

2 whole, boneless chicken breasts, skinned and halved

1 (10-ounce) package frozen pea pods

4 green onions, sliced
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules

1 cup whole salted cashews

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 20 minutes (plus 20 minutes to marinate).

Cooking time: 7 to 10 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

In small mixing bowl combine soy sauce, wine, vegetable oil, cornstarch and chili sauce. Set aside.

Cut chicken breast halves crosswise into thin strips, about 1/4-inch wide. Place in 10-inch glass pie plate. Pour marinade over top, stirring briefly to coat. Cover with plastic wrap and let stand 20 minutes, to marinate.

Add pea pods and green onions to chicken pieces. Combine water and chicken bouillon granules; stir into chicken mixture with cashews. Microwave, covered, 4 to 5 minutes, or until chicken has lost pink color. Stir. Microwave, uncovered, 3 to 5 minutes longer, or until chicken is cooked through and sauce is thickened. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving over hot rice.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR NOTICE OF SOLICITATION OF INTEREST AND QUALIFICATIONS FOR RIGHT-OF WAY SERVICES

The City of Novi, Department of Public Services, in accordance with the Michigan Department of Transportation's "Procedures for Engagement of Consultant Services by Local Agencies for Federal-Aid Projects," hereby solicits interest and qualifications from consulting firms for Right-Of-Way Services in connection with the proposed reconstruction and widening of Novi Road between Twelve Mile Road and Twelve-and-a-Half Mile Road, Novi, Michigan.

Right-Of-Way Services include, but are not limited to: Conduct interviews with property owners, order title commitments and conduct title searches, prepare the Appraisal Problems, appraise all property rights to be acquired and prepare an appraisal report, prepare an option to purchase agreement, prepare the offer to purchase letters, conduct negotiations, prepare resolutions for acceptance of options, conduct the real estate closings, and any and all functions necessary and related to right-of-way work for this project. Work performed shall conform to City, Michigan, Department of Transportation and Federal Highway Administration rules, regulations, guidelines, et cetera.

Proposal packages are available to any firm desiring to be considered for this project from the Director of Purchasing, 45175 W. Ten Mile Rd., Novi, Michigan 48375. Five sets of qualifications shall be submitted to the City of Novi Purchasing Department by 4:00 p.m., Wednesday, August 4, 1993. Qualifications should include, at minimum, the following:

— Identify experience and expertise in providing Right-Of-Way Services for similar Federal Aid projects.

— Availability of the firm to undertake the project and meet established time tables.

— Affirmative action employment practices and ability to meet Federal State and City requirements.

— Resumes of staff who would be in responsible charge of the project. Based upon the data submitted by the Consultants, four firms will be requested to submit proposals with detailed progress manpower schedules and man-hours for the proposed work. Selection of the Consultant will be made after a review of the proposals and the proposals will be ranked in order of preference based on the data submitted for the work.

Dobson hopes for a long ride with CBS' 'Johnny Bago'

By Steven Alan McGaw

"It's just fun," says Peter Dobson, the star of CBS' "Johnny Bago," an adventure-comedy about a hapless, would-be mobster on the lam in a dusty recreational vehicle. "If you're home on a Friday night, you might wanna tune in. For one thing, we've got such talented writers. And everybody involved is from features — and hit ones at that."

Dobson's soft sell is characteristic of the New Jersey native's style, but the pedigree of the new CBS entry, which premiered Friday, June 25, is impressive indeed. The executive producers include Robert Zemeckis, the director of hits such as "Who Framed Roger Rabbit?" and the "Back to the Future," films, and Frank Marshall, whose production credits include "E.T., the Extraterrestrial," the Indiana Jones movies, and last spring's "Alive." Along with Steve Starkey, Jeff Price and Peter Seaman, Zemeckis and Marshall created the zany, hourlong comedy more or less on a lark. They even made sure they had plenty of fun while trying to sell the show.

"We contacted the head of each network," Marshall recalls, "and asked them to be at the curb of their building at 12:30 on a certain day. They asked 'Why?' and we said, 'You'll know when we get there.' So we pulled up in this Winnebago, collected them — they thought they were getting kidnapped — and just drove around Los Angeles."

Once on the freeway, the bewildered executives were served pasta and canolli and listened to the pitch for "Johnny Bago."

Apparently, the unorthodox idea worked, at least with CBS' Jeff Sagansky. "Everybody had a good time," Zemeckis laughs.

Next came the job of casting. Zemeckis and his buddies pictured Johnny Tenuti (the 'Bago' is a last-minute alias, taken from his transportation) as a man nearing his 40th birthday, seasoned by his tumultuous marriage and a five-year prison stint for a crime he didn't commit. An actor of appropriate age was even penciled in for the role, but suddenly had to drop out.

That's when Dobson saw his chance.

"I'd read the script and I thought it was hysterical," he says, so he contacted his agent and pleaded his case. "I said 'Listen, it doesn't matter if this guy is 27 instead of 37.'"

Dobson, a handsome former bricklayer whose experience includes the films "Plainclothes," "Sing" and "Where the Day Takes You," evidently convinced the producers. Ultimately, the actor says, the writers started drawing more on Dobson himself.

"By the third show," says Dobson, "The dialogue was stuff I'd say anyway. There's a fine line between me and that character."

Dobson explains the similarities between himself and unlucky Johnny thusly: "I'm a big kid, just like he is, like a kid in a candy store. He doesn't mean to be bad."

"And you know," Dobson adds, noting one more likeness between himself and his alter-ego, "you can get by with murder with a smile on your face."

Co-starring as Beverly Florio, Johnny's parole officer is Rose Abdoo, a veteran of Chicago's famed Second City troupe. The trouble is, Beverly is also Johnny's ex-wife.

"It's the ultimate revenge," Abdoo laughs, "to go after your ex-husband with a gun and get paid to do it."

In an unusual move, CBS has scheduled repeats of each Friday's episode of "Johnny Bago" on Wednesdays in the network's beleaguered last-night slot. Here's hoping the extra push brings the show — a fast-paced, irreverent laugh-getter that far surpasses standard summer fare — the audience it deserves. It would be nice to keep Johnny rolling for a while.

TRIVIA

The term "southpaw" comes from major league baseball diamonds, which place the pitcher facing west, his left arm to the south.

Unlike his refusal of a 1970 Oscar for "Patton," George C. Scott accepted an Emmy for his performance the same year in "The Price."

'American Music Shop'

BY SCOTT WHITE

With his shiny vest, bushy beard and beady eyes peeking from under a giant hat, Charlie Daniels looks almost cartoonish while serving as host of a special children's edition of "American Music Shop." Daniels invites youngsters and parents alike to share an hour of music and fun from the Barns of Wolf Trap in Vienna, Va., airing on The Nashville Network Tuesday, July 20.

Pop veteran John McCutcheon rolls out a couple of silly numbers, including a rendition of Woody Guthrie's "Mail Myself to You" adeptly performed on hammered dulcimer. Nicolette Larson takes the stage to sing two maternal songs from her upcoming album of lullabies titled "Sleep, Baby, Sleep."

Award-winning children's artists Cathy Fink and Marcy Marxer steal the show with a pair of audience-participation numbers, including "When the Rain Comes Down," which features an entire verse in sign language.

Daniels performs two numbers about being small titled "Little Boy Blue" and "Little Folks Are People, Too." Then the entire cast takes the stage to sing "Would You Like to Swing on a Star?"

With its eclectic mix of folk, traditional and standard blues/country arrangements, this episode of "American Music Shop" proves to be unpretentious fun for the whole family.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

You may be overwhelmed by the work you have to get done in such a short time. Don't let others dump their emotional garbage on you.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

You will be pleasantly surprised by some good news. Someone is going to help you bring about some much wanted changes in your life.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Money problems will begin to improve. Some changes will occur that will help relieve pressures and problems. You may be joining a new group.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

You may have to combat some unexpected problems, but you will come out a winner. It is time to slow down or risk getting run down.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

You may have a change of heart in romance or find a certain situation unbearable. Don't let other people talk you out of reaching your goals.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

You could have unexpected good luck if you are traveling. There is a chance of meeting the person of your dreams, and things will be better than you imagined.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

The worst may be over, but you should proceed carefully. Don't take the kindness of others for granted. If you need guidance, look inward.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)

There could be a delay in plans, but things will work out very well for you. You could receive or give a gift of love that will be greatly appreciated.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 20)

It is important for you to get a handle on a situation before things get crazy. There are undercurrents in your work environment of which you may not be aware.

Capricorn (Dec. 21-Jan. 19)

There is an important event ahead for you, and you must be prepared for it. Take time to show loved ones how much you care. They need your support.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

There will be a new beginning for you, possibly with someone who knows you well. The results of a certain situation rely solely upon you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20)

You will find a lost article, or a friend from the past may call. Helping others with problems could help you in the process. This is a creative time for you.

Michael Tylo puts family first

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Who is Blade, and what is he doing in Genoa City? That is the question fans of "The Young and the Restless" are dying to have answered. Blade has been a part of the show for more than a year now, and viewers still don't know much more than they did when he first arrived on the scene.

Michael Tylo, the handsome actor who portrays Blade, doesn't have any answers. "I have no idea what they are doing or going to do with my character," Tylo says. "That is up to Bill Bell, his team of writers and the gods."

Tylo is married to one of the most beautiful women on television, Hunter Tylo of "The Bold and the Beautiful," but he doesn't have a problem with being one half of a two-actor family.

"There is no competition between Hunter and I," Tylo says. "I enjoy it when she is working and I'm not, because I get to spend more time with my children and play golf. We made a policy a long time ago that we didn't care who made the money as long as the bills were paid."

"She is younger, prettier and in lots of ways more talented, so I would be foolish to even try to compete," Tylo adds.

"My father was a plumber. He used to tell me he was an artist at what he did, and I'm an artist at what I do," Tylo says. His point was we never look down to what other people are doing or up to them. It's all basically the same thing, we are just working at something we like to do."

Blade is Tylo's fifth daytime role. He started on "Another World" as Peter Belton, then starred as Quinton Chamberlain on "Guiding Light" and Matt Connelly on "All My Children." Tylo landed the role of Charlie Prince on "General Hospital." In addition, he was Dee Boot in the CBS miniseries "Lonesome Dove." He moved to Spain to do "Zorro," but returned to Los Angeles to be closer to his family.

"My family comes first now. If you don't make your life happy and enjoy your family, then the career means nothing," Tylo says.
