

City voters to issue verdict on bond question

By STEVE KELLMAN

The state Legislature's surprise vote to eliminate school funding from property taxes could have a drastic effect on the city's Mainstreet '93 plan.

But city officials are still urging voters to approve their $4.2 million parking deck proposal at tomorrow's special election.

"We feel quite strongly that this may be the last chance for a project of this type," said City Manager Gary Word. The project is primarily financed through tax capturing, the diversion of property tax revenue increases from the city's Downtown Development District.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said it's too early to tell what effect the massive property tax cut may have on tax increment finance authority projects like Mainstreet '93.

"Clearly the Legislature was not thinking about that kind of project when we passed Senate Bill 1," he said. "It does appear there would be an impact."

When the Legislature voted last week to axe school funding from the state's property taxes, it diverted much of the potential revenue to fund Mainstreet '93. As passed, and without the addition of a grandfather clause for Tax Increment Financing Authority projects like Mainstreet '93, Senate Bill 1 would reduce the revenue stream needed to fund the city's project by more than half. About 55 percent of the taxes collected in the city go to Northville Public Schools.

"Logic says that if that happens, this is not a viable project," Word said. "The bottom line is that we can't do this project unless they make some legislative changes."

In other words, if the state does not make a provision for TIFA projects, the city's proposed project will be halted whether or not residents vote "yes" tomorrow.

"We're not the only community facing that kind of dilemma," Word said, noting that Munising recently issued bonds for a TIFA project there but cannot close on the bonds because of the pending bill.

But Word, who has discussed the impending state legislation with Sen. Robert Geake, the city's financial ad-

Meeting on deck features combative verbal volleys

Angry exchanges marred a Thursday public information hearing on Mainstreet '93, but by meeting's end two key combatants were huddled together over blueprints and agreeing on a potential change to the city's latest parking deck proposal.

The meeting, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce with an assist from the city's Downtown Development Authority, was designed to educate Northville citizens about the city's plan to rebuild the Cady Street parking deck, add a 140-160 space paved and lighted lot south of the deck and a tabletop deck south of the Main-Centre development.

The upper level of the tabletop deck would be reserved primarily for MainCentre residents, to fulfill a city parking contract with Singh.

The plan has won endorsements from the chamber and Northville Board of Education but has drawn heated protests from officials at the Michigan Association of Gift Sales. City voters will be asked to give their blessing to the plan at a special elec-

School officials fret over loss of funding source

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

With 96 percent of its revenue coming from property taxes, Northville school officials are nervous about the latest news from Lansing.

Last week lawmakers yanked $6.3 billion from public schools by slashing property taxes by approximately 60 percent. The action took less than 48 hours to complete. The Legislature had examined the school finance/property tax issue for the past several years.

But what has officials from schools such as Northville, an out-of-formula district, on the edge of their seats is how will the state replace those funds previously earmarked for schools.

"How that's going to be replaced or by what extent it will be replaced by the state is entirely up in the air," said John Street, director of business and finance for Northville Public Schools. "The source is not known, the amount is not known. I'm really at a loss in even trying to anticipate."

The effects of the bill would be realized with the July 1994 tax bills of property owners. It will have no impact on schools for the 1993-94 fiscal year.

That will give the legislature a year to hammer out where replacement funding will come from, said Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who voted yes on the bill. Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, was the only area legislator to vote no on the property tax cut measure. State Reps. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, and Willis Bullard, Jr., R-Milford, each cast yes votes.

"We need to emphasize . . . we have a year to work on this," he said. Lawmakers are already beginning to haggle over how to replace the school funding, and it will probably take some time for the Legislature to agree upon a source or sources, Geake said.

Some ideas that have been mentioned, according to Geake, for making up the replacement funds include:

- An increase in income tax

Autry is arrested for minor offense

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The owner of the Highland Lakes Shopping Center turned himself into Northville Township Police on Friday on an outstanding warrant for destruction of property.

Thurman William Autry voluntarily came in after Police Lt. Gary Batzloff phoned him Friday morning and asked him to comply with the arrest warrant. The warrant was issued after Autry allegedly destroyed signs, bills, and notices inside one of his tenant's stores on June 15.

Michel Ansara, the owner of Michel's Jewelers, and store manager Steve Reed filed the complaint last month after Autry burst into the jewelry store and tore down and ripped up signs that hung in the store window. The report says the store owner seeks restitution for the $1.25 cost of printing the letter and the signs.

The police report taken after the June 15 incident says Ansara posted signs in his windows to announce that he was leaving the center to open shop in the city of Northville. The signs said he was vacating the center because of the "poor conditions" there. There was also a letter taped to the interior window that detailed Ansara's gripes with his landlord.

After the incident last month, Ansara told police and Northville Record staff that he intended to prosecute Autry to the letter of the law.

Autry reportedly has cooperated with township police since the complaint was filed.

"He's coming in voluntarily and has been cooperative," said Batzloff.

Batzloff said Autry could face a $500 fine or 90 days in jail as a result of the complaint. But that won't be decided until Autry faces a district court judge on August 13.

Safety first

New racing commissioner named

Horse racing has a new state commissioner.

Nelson W. Westrin, an assistant attorney general, was appointed last week by Gov. John Engler for a four-year term ending Dec. 31, 1996. Senate confirmation is required. He succeeds Luke Quinn.

Westrin, of Grand Ledge, has been legal advisor in the lottery and racing division of the Attorney General's office since 1984. From 1977 to 1984 he specialized in fighting health care fraud.

"Nelson Westrin's experience and professional expertise will help protect the integrity of the sport and encourage its growth in Michigan," Engler said.

Westrin earned a bachelor of arts degree cum laude in 1969 from Michigan State University and a juris doctor degree in 1974 from Detroit College, where he was a scholarship student. He is treasurer of a credit union and a member of the Lansing Catholic Central athletic council.

From an office in Livonia, the racing commissioner oversees pari-mutuel horse racing in Michigan, including Northville Downs and the Ladbroke DRC track in Livonia. He allocates racing dates, issues occupational licenses, collects license and tax revenues, appoints stewards and veterinarians, hears appeals from decisions of the stewards, and investigates irregularities.

Library friends to hold big book sale

Used books by the hundreds and of every variety will go on sale this Saturday, July 31, at 9 a.m. at the band shell on Main Street.

Bargain prices will prevail for paperbacks and hardbound books. Some videos culled from the library collection will sell for $5. A limited number of record albums will also be among the wares.

The book sale has been a popular fund-raiser for a number of years but had to be discontinued for two years due to a lack of storage space for contributed books.

The Friends of the Northville District Library conduct the sale to benefit the library by providing goods and services not possible due to reduced state, city and township support.

The Friends have given a number of major gifts to the library including construction of the picture book room, an Infotrac system for locating and printing articles from magazines, a photocopier, funding of the indexing of The Northville Record from its earliest publication to the present, and the Oral History Collection featuring taped interviews with citizens with memories of Northville's early history.

Michigan's Best Community Newspaper . . . Again

That's right, again. For the second consecutive year the Michigan Press Association bestowed its prestigious 'Michigan's Best' Award on the Northville Record in its 1992 Better Newspaper Contest. (For weekly newspapers with 5,000 to 15,000 circulation). And we're even prouder to be a two-time winner of the 'Michigan's Best' award than we were the first time we received the honor in the 1991 Better Newspaper Contest. And here's another thing that hasn't changed. Our greatest satisfaction continues to come from being an integral part of the Northville community . . . giving you the type of newspaper you want and need. In other words, we're proud to be your hometown paper.

News Briefs

CORRECTION: An article in the July 22 Northville Record incorrectly described the downtown improvements paid for by the city's Main Street 78 project. The project did not fund storefront improvements. The city did provide low-interest loans for those improvements.

SIDEWALK SALE: Northville's annual sidewalk sale will take place from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 31. Merchants will hold sales and display their products outdoors. Local service clubs will also have booths and special sales. There will be food and entertainment at the band shell. The streets will not be closed off for the event.

USED BOOK SALE: The Friends of the Northville District Library will conduct a used book sale at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 31, at the band shell on Main Street. The event is a fund-raiser for the library. Paperbacks and hardbacks, fiction and non-fiction and children's books will be offered for sale.

LIBRARY CELEBRATIONS: Readers and read-to-me children are invited to come to the Northville Public Library for two parties to celebrate their achievements in the library's "Summer Reading Program: Make a Splash — Read." The parties will be held simultaneously for readers and read-to-me's at 2 p.m. Wednesday, July 28. Special entertainment, refreshments and a grand prize drawing will be take place at each party. Registration is not required. For information, call 349-3020.

FESTIVAL SIGN-UP TIME: The 5th annual Northville Victorian Festival is scheduled for Sept. 17-19 and non-profit clubs and organizations are again being given the opportunity to operate their own booths.

Registration forms and information are available by contacting Sue Anker, 349-8425, or Sarah Minor, 348-8568.

LONG-TERM CARE SEMINAR: Amex Life Assurance Company is offering free seminars on long-term health care for groups and clubs that might want to hear a presentation on the subject. The presentations feature an informative, entertaining view of how to provide health care for the elderly or chronically ill. For information, call 1-800-343-7125.

Meeting will focus on teen center idea

A special session to generate ideas about a local teen center is set for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the meeting room of Northville Township's town hall on Six Mile.

The meeting is open to the public and interested parents and teenagers are encouraged to attend.

The discussion will center around the possibility of opening a local center where young people could meet and socialize.

"We're trying to pull people together to brainstorm and talk about where it would be and what direction we should take," said Jacques Martin-Downs, the prevention coordinator of the Community Commission on Drug Abuse. "We're attempting to make it a grass roots effort."

Martin-Downs said a special community task force is spearheading the effort and looking for as much involvement from the community as possible.

Principal figures in the task force include Northville Township Supervisor Karen Baja, Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King, Student Assistance Program Coordinator Charlie Stille, First Baptist Church of Northville pastor Rob White, and Northville Action Council chairperson Roxanne Casterline.

A meeting on the same topic was held in June, and several members of the Northville High School student congress were in attendance.

Martin-Downs said nothing has been decided yet concerning the center, and basic issues like funding and location still need to be discussed. The idea, she said, is to provide a positive gathering place for teens as a way of keeping them from having to make their own excitement.

"There's a lot of just running around going on with a lot of drinking. This would be a preventive activity,"

Ayers named distinguished alumni

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Although Gregory Ayers is now a doctor, he was quite the comedian during his high school career.

"He was the funniest person," Northville High School secretary Nan Oliver said of Ayers, who was selected as this year's distinguished alumnus. "He is very, very memorable."

Oliver laughed as she told about the time Ayers worked as an office aide during his senior year in 1981.

"He and another boy, John Penrod, were office aides the same hour," she recalled. "This was in the days when we had the old, old Xerox machines. The office aides at that time did all the copying for teachers."

Oliver said the students did a wonderful job and taught themselves how to do some amazing things with the copier — reducing, fitting in numerous items on one copy, etc.

One afternoon the two made up a tiny template which read "Xeroxed by Ayers and Penrod" on the bottom of it. The small tagline appeared on the bottom of all the copies the students made.

"Teachers use some things over again so for years just about everything in the high school said 'Xeroxed by Ayers and Penrod' on the bottom of it," Oliver chuckled.

It was also hard for Oliver not to forget Ayers because of his special graduation ceremony. Due to another commitment, Ayers was unable to participate in his class commencement ceremony.

So the office staff prepared a private graduation for Ayers.

"We gave him his cap and gown and his mother came," Oliver said. "I baked a cake for him and we decorated the office. One of Mr. Rumball's students came in and played Pump and Circumstance. (The principal presented him with his diploma and we all had cake."

Ayers is a doctor in two ways. He has a Ph.D. in cardiovascular physiology from Purdue University in Indiana and has also earned his medical degree with highest distinction from Indiana University Medical School in Indianapolis. Ayers also has a bachelor of science degree in biomedical engineering.

The Distinguished Alumni Club began a decade ago when David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, was the high school principal. He borrowed the idea from then superintendent George Bell, who in turn suggested the award from his days as a principal in the Wayne-Westland district.

The award is handed out annually during commencement. The winner is selected by a committee of 14, who narrow the nominations down before making a final decision.

For this year's selection, the following people acted as judges by serving on the committee: Jean Couse, retired from the Northville Record; Bruce Turnbull, Northville Historical Society; Marian Zayt, former secretary at the board office; Carol Rahimi, former president of the Northville Board of Education; Patricia Dorrian-Sandbothe, retired teacher from Northville High School; Jack Wickens, counselor; Laura White, president of the student congress; Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services; Stacey Nield, president of the class of 1993; Robert Kukalis, vice president of the class of 1993; Barbara LeBoeuf, Northville High School teacher; Christopher Ford, sponsor of the class of 1993; and Thomas Johnson, principal at Northville High School.

"It (the Distinguished Alumni

Gregory Ayers

Club) enables us to maintain continued relations with previous graduates," Johnson said. "These committee members gave up a lot of time sifting through these biographical sketches. They were extremely dedicated."

Ayer's mother Carolann nominated her son for the designation. She also read an acceptance speech on behalf of Ayers who was in Europe at the time of commencement. The award was accepted by his 6-year-old son Joshua.

Ayers moved to Northville with his family in 1969 after completing his kindergarten year in Fort Wayne, Ind. During his school career in Northville, he was active in several activities including the drama club, track team and National Honor Society.

He was most active, however, in Boy Scouts Troop 721, where he earned the rank of Eagle Scout with silver palms as well as the Scout honorary, Order of the Arrow, attaining Vigil Honor and Arrowman of the Year.

After high school Ayers enrolled at Purdue University in the school of biomedical engineering. While there he was a residence hall counselor for two years, academic counselor for freshmen engineering and an undergraduate teaching assistant. He served the college community as a precinct chairman, president of the Purdue College Republicans and was treasurer of the Indiana Federation of College Republicans.

He was also a eucharistic minister with St. Thomas, the campus Catholic church.

Ayers was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, Tau Beta Pi, and Alpha Epsilon Delta. He received the Hellett Award for being the top science or engineering student and was a presidential scholar. After earning his M.D. in 1992, Ayers was inducted into Alpha Omega Alpha, a medical science honorary.

During the summer months Ayers spent his time with the Boy Scouts at Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico as a ranger and trading post manager. He was also a ranger for the D-A Scout Ranch in Metamora, Mich.

Since his graduation, Ayers has resided in the Seattle area. He and his wife of seven years, Angela, have two sons, Joshua and Jordan.

Employed as a senior scientist with Incontrol, he performs research toward the development of an implantable device similar to a pacemaker. It will treat the heart rhythm abnormality called atrial fibrillation.

Ayers is an active member of the American Medical Association and the North American Society for Pacing and Electrophysiology. He is also a soccer coach and a member of Holy Innocent's Parish in Duwall.

Mustang thefts send police searching for clues

Township police are looking to connect reports of two stolen Ford Mustangs and an attempted theft of a third one last week.

Lieutenant Gary Batzloff said Friday thieves returned to Northridge Apartments on Wednesday, July 21, to steal a 1990 Ford Mustang. The Mustang was taken from the carport outside the victim's residence sometime between midnight and 5 a.m. This latest incident marks the third in a string of related reports involving Ford Mustangs and the second call to the Seven Mile Road apartment complex.

Last week an Innsbrook Apartment resident reported that his 1987 Ford Mustang was stolen from his apartment complex parking lot on Monday, July 19, sometime before dawn. That same morning, a Northridge Apartment resident called police to say two white males were trying to steal her 1991 model from the parking lot near her apartment. She told police the suspects fled after seeing her peering through her window.

Batzloff said the two stolen cars have both been recovered, but the thieves are still at large. Police are investigating the reports.

COSTLY CARPET CAPER: A Harbourside Village resident reported $1,800 was missing from a dresser drawer in her Northville apartment the same day a commercial carpet company came into replace carpet in the home.

The resident told police two men from the carpet company came into her home to replace the carpet. The resident left the apartment after letting the workmen in and when the tenant returned home the cash was gone.

DOMESTIC DISPUTE: Township police responded to a 9-1-1 call for help on Tuesday, July 20. Police met a 29-year-old Tennessee woman at a party store on Seven Mile Road who said she had just been hit and knocked down by her husband outside her brother-in-law's Northville home. The wife told police her husband grabbed her at the neck and threw her down against a camper. He then reportedly kicked her in the side. The police report indicates the woman had scratched her husband and thrown things at him during the altercation at the home on Seven Mile and Ridge Road. The woman did not wish to press charges.

NOT FOR SALE: Township police are looking for the owner of a set of gold clubs in a green and white Wilson golf bag that were turned in last week.

The police report indicates that the father of a Northville teenager turned in the clubs after his son lied about where he found them. The boy's father said his son first told him a friend's dad had given him the clubs to sell. But a phone call from the teen's dad to the friend's father proved the son was lying. The teen then told his father he found the clubs in the grass near Scenic Lane and Amboy Road.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST: City police arrested a 47-year-old Fowler woman for driving under the influence July 21 after stopping her on Eight Mile east of Center just after 1 a.m. The woman was seen straddling the yellow line and weaving in her car. She failed several attempts to recite the alphabet after being stopped and was arrested. Her blood alcohol level was measured at .18 percent, nearly twice the legal limit.

She was held at the city police station until 8:45 a.m. when she had sobered up.

BIKES STOLEN, VANDALIZED: An unlocked boy's bicycle parked outside Arbor Drugs, 133 E. Dunlap, July 20 was stolen sometime between 3-3:15 p.m. The bike was described as a hot orange Dyno Comp model and valued at $250.

A bike locked to a rack at Cooke Middle School, 21200 Taft Road, was vandalized sometime July 21. Someone cut the orange Raleigh USA bike's brake and gear cables, causing $50 in damage.

WARRANT ARREST: City police arrested a 28-year-old Northville man at a Main Street apartment July 21. An officer saw the man, wanted for failing to appear in court on an outstanding larceny charge, inside the apartment about 6:50 p.m. and arrested him. He was released on a $210 bond after a court date was set.

FENDER BENDER: A 26-year-old Northville woman was cited for failing to yield July 21 after driving into the path of a southbound car on South Main. She was turning onto west-bound Seven Mile at noon when she was struck by the southbound car. Her car had to be towed from the scene and she complained of injuries but declined medical attention.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Tax cut has educators in state of shock

- An increase in sales tax
- A sales tax for services and entertainment
- Instituting a statewide property tax for schools
- An increase in alcohol and cigarette taxes

"It will probably be some combination of these," Geake said.

"I don't know if sales tax is the answer," Street said, referring to the defeat of Proposal A. "Although I suppose now the voters have some assurance their property taxes will be lowered."

Street said he felt the entire property tax cut was "unplanned" by the legislature, and that he was surprised at how quickly the measure passed.

Geake said although it did only take 48 hours to pass, 33-4 in the Senate and 69-33 in the House, there had been lengthy discussion of a property tax cut.

"The background for this has been boiling up for some time," he said. Other provisions in the bill include the following:

- For taxes levied in 1994, the valuation of property shall be determined as of Dec. 31, 1992.
- Effective immediately, ballot questions must state the amount of the tax increase and provide an estimate of the new revenue collected for the first year when a millage increase is proposed.

Secondly, no more than two millage elections a year will be allowed by a taxing unit asking for a millage increase.

Thirdly, millage renewal requests must be limited to expired millage, less any reduction due to a Headlee rollback. Any millage proposal for more than the expired millage must appear as a separate question.

- Property taxes are exempted for local school district expenses starting Jan. 1, 1994. Millages for community colleges that are part of a local school district are not part of that exemption. Property taxes will also be exempted for intermediate school district operating expenses beginning Jan. 1, 1994.
- No Headlee Amendment overrides will be allowed after 1992. According to the bill, "if the authorization to levy mills expires after 1993, due to the operation of Headlee, those 'rolled back' mills must be reauthorized by a vote that specifically requests renewed authorization. This eliminates specific Headlee override votes."

Geake said, with passage of the bill, the average taxpayer will pay one-third of the taxes they are now paying.

The senator said although he understands the apprehensiveness of school officials, lawmakers do have one year to come up with replacement funding.

"Everyone agrees that Michigan relies too much on property taxes," Geake said. "For years, we've campaigned on the principle of not relying on property taxes. Yet, now that we've done it, some are surprised."

tion tomorrow.

Five MAGS members sat in on Thursday's hearing to cross-examine Mainstreet '93 proponents about the plan.

MAGS leaders are concerned that the proposed MainCentre deck will obscure visibility of their 133 W. Main St. building, formerly known as Northville Square, and exacerbate the shortage of parking on the lot. MAGS members made their complaints known in a scathing letter to Mayor Chris Johnson and a full-page ad in the July 22 Northville Record.

"This is the part we have a tough time living with," said MAGS President Jim Mills, pointing to the new deck south of MainCentre and the MAGS building. "Our perception is we gain nothing. We only lose. We lose exposure, and we have a speed ramp outside our front door..."

But Chamber member Greg Presley, doing double duty as a member of the DDA, noted that Mainstreet '93 will increase the public off-street parking south of Main Street from just over 400 spaces in the 1980s to 642 spaces once the project is complete.

Presley added that the lot in question is a public one, and "no other business in town tries to exercise a right to be visible over a public parking lot."

Under Mainstreet 93, the city's deteriorating Cady Street parking deck would be rebuilt, and its car count will go from 142 to 168 spaces, Presley said. The reconstruction will also make the lower level available to the public again. Singh Development Co., builder of the MainCentre project, was allowed to shore up the lower deck level's crumbling ceiling last year and fence it off for MainCentre residents to fulfill its agreement with the city for covered parking. Those residents would be moved to the upper level of the tabletop deck under Mainstreet '93.

opment out for special treatment. "The only person that gets a guarantee is Singh," he said.

City officials countered that Singh is paying an added $493,400 in parking assessments to help pay for the plan, on top of a special assessment and the property taxes diverted to the project from the newly $6 million building. They say the parking agreements were necessary to lure the developer to town.

"We gave some of those same considerations to Northville Square when they came in and built," said Council Member Paul Folino.

After the 2 1/2-hour meeting broke up, Mills and Presley met in front of the site plans for Mainstreet '93 and discussed whether the MainCentre deck could be lowered so that building residents would park underground, much like they do now in the Cady deck. City Manager Gary Word said Friday that the city is considering the feasibility of the concept.

"We are going to take a serious look at that," Word said. "I don't know whether it's feasible or not."

Many questions and some answers on tax cut bomb

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Answers to questions on the school property tax plan approved Tuesday and Wednesday by the Michigan Legislature.

Q. Where did this plan come from? No one had reported on it.

A. At 2 p.m. Tuesday, it didn't exist. Gov. John Engler met at 4 p.m. with the "quadrant"—leaders of two parties from both chambers—and by 6:30 they had agreed to it.

Q. If it becomes law, how will it affect my property taxes?

A. It will eliminate your school operating property taxes—roughly 65 percent of your total bill—as of July 1, 1994.

Q. Industry and commerce, too?

A. Yes.

Q. When will it affect my local school district?

A. Not this year. It will kick in during fiscal 1994-5 beginning July 1, 1994.

Q. Give me the bad news: How will we pay for it?

A. That's unsettled. Lawmakers will need to look at raising income taxes, cigarette and liquor taxes, and very likely broadening the sales tax base to cover services. The Legislature can do that itself. Later legislators might put a sales tax substitute on the ballot.

It will be a royal battle. Democrats will want to hike the income tax and the single business tax. Republicans will want consumption taxes and spending cuts.

Q. Wasn't it dangerous—even irresponsible—to cut all local school revenues without having a replacement plan in place?

A. It's like a kid who can't swim and decides to learn by jumping into the deepest part of a pool. He forces himself to swim—or drowns. Some folks think that's a great way to teach a kid to swim. Others are horrified. Take your pick.

The Legislature has taken away all local operating revenue from 562 school districts. If it doesn't replace that revenue, public education in Michigan will be bankrupt.

Q. So we face a big state tax increase. I thought guys like Engler and Sen. Dick Posthumus were opposed in principle to raising state taxes.

A. In politics, it sometimes is necessary to rise above principle.

Q. What about cutting assessments?

A. That bill fell "off the table," as they say in Lansing. Instead, your mid-1994 bill will be figured out on the basis of your valuation on Dec. 31, 1992—in effect, a freeze.

Between now and next June 30, the last year of the property tax's life, school districts will be unable to (1) ask for increases more than twice in a year or (2) lump a renewal with an increase—the two items must be separated.

Q. We've been talking about the effect of this bill on schools. But city hall, township hall, the county and the community college won't like that, will they?

A. They didn't like the freeze two years ago, and they won't like it this time.

Community colleges are getting a zero state aid increase this year and a property tax freeze next year. Students should prepare for a big tuition increase.

Q. For years the outstate and inner-city districts have been unhappy about the big differences in school funds they have versus the suburbs and lakeshore districts with big property tax bases. How does this plan affect that situation?

A. The suburbs are in a bad spot. No longer can they rely on their local property wealth. All school funding will come from the state aid formula. The outstate and city districts easily can gang up and "average" school income. High-spending suburban districts will be hurt. They are likely to seek some form of local supplementary revenue.

Q. Weren't lawmakers talking about other school cost containment measures?

A. They sure were. The talk stopped temporarily with the big breakthrough. You will see cost containment ideas surface soon. Among the schemes:

■ Limiting superintendents' salaries to 85 percent of the governor's. That's unlikely because it would interfere in local administration and contractual rights.

■ Taking bids on health insurance for school employees. Currently health coverage is bargained locally, and most districts deal with a subsidiary of the Michigan Education Association, the teachers union.

Q. Politically, how does this affect Gov. John Engler and his leading Democratic opponent, Sen. Debbie Stabenow?

A. Engler delivers on a promise to cut property taxes. Stabenow delivers on a promise to get replacement revenue. Both win because the school finance question is neutralized as a campaign issue.

Within the Democratic Party, however, Stabenow has trouble. Two-thirds of House Democrats voted no. Howard Wolpe and Rep. Lyn Jondahl, her intra-party gubernatorial rivals, will use it against her in the primary.

Q. How does the Michigan Education Association come out?

A. That's hard to say. Clearly, MEA is the most hated group in the state, as education columnist "Doc" Doyle pointed out July 19.

In part, the wrath is manufactured by the religious right, which seeks to dislodge Satan from the schools, but they are a minority. Plenty of non-ideological working people see MEA as continuing to collect big raises while their real incomes are stable or declining. MEA influence over local school boards could become an issue.

Even legislators, accustomed to voter wrath over salary hikes, say the MEA is surpassing them in salary hikes. At least two legislators who left said their teacher-spouses made more than they did.

Outstate, MEA members are likely to be winners, particularly if school funding is increased in poorer districts. In suburbia, MEA could be a loser. But that's just speculation.

Voters to have final say in city park bond vote planning stages. But whatever happens with the legislation, Word said city residents will not be left to foot the bill for Mainstreet '93. He noted that the council agreed early on in the project's evolution not to use a millage increase to fund the $3.5 million in bonds needed to finance the project.

"I really think the city is serious about its pledge of no new taxes," he said.

visors and "everyone else I could think of," said he was assured that the legislature will likely include an exemption for those projects.

A similar exemption was included in Proposal A, the property tax reform plan rejected by Michigan voters in June. Proposal A would have exempted tax capturing projects that were already underway or in the late

Our Opinion

Lansing outdoes itself with reckless scheme

The state Legislature last week did no less a thing than eliminate the property tax as the means of funding Michigan's public schools. The bill passed by large majorities in both houses and is expected to be quickly signed by Gov. John Engler.

Despite the mind boggling implications of the action, lawmakers made absolutely no provision for making up the $6.3 billion that will be lost to school treasuries across the state. When asked how they thought schools could manage without an essential funding source, all they basically said was, "We'll find replacement revenue later, before the tax cut takes effect."

Risk taking can be constructive at times, but we find this irrational move akin to going skydiving without a parachute and offering the reassuring words: "We'll worry about safety later, once ground zero comes into view."

The measure passed by the Legislature was brash and unexpected (one columnist called it "craven"), and political pundits have gone into a dizzying whirl of second-guess ruminating in an attempt to learn the real motive behind the decision.

A host of theories have been advanced, one of the most plausible of which is that the measure was sponsored by Democrats in an attempt to call the bluff of Republicans. The ruse backfired when Republicans took the idea seriously and, by then, the Democrats had no choice but to feign support.

This theory is given credence by the fact that Democrat Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Lansing, the early frontrunner for her party's gubernatorial nomination, was a driving force behind the legislation. Not about to be one-upped by his potential opponent on a tax-cut issue, the governor eagerly joined the game and pressed hard for passage.

We don't claim to know just what lawmakers were thinking in taking such a draconian step, but we have no problem joining educators across Michigan in expressing complete incredulity at what has happened.

The defeated Proposal A, with all its flaws, was an infinitely more responsible proposal than this latest reform measure because it contained provisions to recoup the monies school districts would have lost from the reduction in property taxes. Under A, public school districts would have received replacement revenues through a 50 percent increase in the state sales tax.

By doing away with the property tax last week, lawmakers have given us a half-version of a new Proposal A — the easy half at that. Now they have forced themselves into a position where they must scramble for ways to compensate for the lost public dollars. Under consideration are proposals to increase the state sales tax and impose new levies on everything from hair cuts to movie tickets to golf green fees.

There is even talk of implementing a state property tax, a move that could effectively nullify the effect of last week's vote.

Lawmakers have been trying for years to reform the state's punitive property tax system, but nothing has been accepted by the electorate. To break the frustrating impasse, elected leaders have apparently decided to force the issue by creating a crisis they have no choice but to solve.

This inside-out approach to policy making has obvious hazards. What if the 148-member Legislature can't agree on a course of action? What if lawmakers are unable to find enough ways to generate billions of dollars in new taxes?

The amount of revenue that has to be found from new sources is staggering. Most school districts receive 65 percent of their funding indirectly through the property tax. Out-of-formula districts such as Northville get roughly 96 percent of their revenues from property taxes, and 96 percent of $25 million is a lot of money to replace.

How this is all going to come out is anybody's guess, but when you scratch the surface of it one can clearly pick up the scent of political expediency. Governor Engler still owes us the 20 percent property tax cut he promised during the 1990 campaign and time is running short — he must face the voters next year.

The Democrats, quick to seize the opportunity to take the momentum away from the Republicans, have tried to steal the governor's tax-cut thunder just in time for the campaign.

Won't anyone in the capital stop playing politics with Michigan's future long enough to come up with a reasonable reform plan?

Rick Byrne

Did I miss something here?

Last week the Northville Board of Education policy subcommittee recommended that verbage be drafted banning gang dress and insignia. I guess I wasn't aware that Main Street had turned into one of the mean streets.

Excuse me if I seem a little skeptical. Although the Seattle-esque grunge thing is hitting its peak about now, and the kids who sport it tend to look a little cheesed off, I don't think it means we're spiraling toward a future of Boyz n the Ville. It's an identity, not a movement.

The well-dressed suburbanite would be a better candidate for L.L. Bean's Posse than L.L. Cool J's.

I think it was on an episode of Hill Street Blues that a hispanic gang leader took offense at Capt. Furillo addressing his group as a gang. The gang leader responded, "Hey, man. We are not a gang. We are a social club."

Translate that into Northville terms (and call the show Cady Street Blues), and it'll come out something like, "We are not a gang. We are a chess club."

Gang activity needs several factors to incubate. There needs to be an absence of job opportunities, good schools, parental concern and upward mobility. None of these is in short supply in Northville. For the most part, the biggest stressor in a Northville kid's life is how well he does on the SATs.

What could start a gang fight in Northville? Dissing your parents' driveway sealer? The only time a Northville kid gets his nose broken is when his plastic surgeon's doing a rhinoplasty.

I have a hard time believing that the Pheasant Hills Boys are going to square off with the Lexington Commons Crew in a turf war. Would Allen Terrace be neutral? Who would get Mill Race?

The closest thing we ever had to a gang in Northville was a band of about a half dozen kids with hyperactive spray cans that liked to call themselves "Smooth Criminals." Even the name itself was laughable; it came from a Michael Jackson song. I find it hard to believe that the homeys in South Central L.A. identify with an entertainer who has had eyeliner tattooed on, wears one sequined glove and sounds like Mickey Mouse.

Beyond that, the closest kids around here get to wearing colors is when they get their cheerleading uniforms.

I'd say the only bad boys you need to worry about here are the members of the School Board posse. I'd be suspicious of them. I mean, they all wear their hair more or less the same, wear the same suits, and what's in those briefcases, huh? Some of them wear beepers, and we all know what that means don't we?

At its Aug. 3 meeting, the board will be asked to consider a separate clause from the original school dress policy which would prohibit students from dressing or grooming in a manner which is unsafe or disruptive.

The proposed new clause will prevent students from wearing, or possessing, any clothing, jewelry or symbol that might associate them with a gang. Students would also be prohibited from participating in gang-related activities.

Let me issue a warning. If you do attend the meeting, and from the window you spot a slow-moving Chrysler minivan coming down the street, hit the floor. You wouldn't want to get caught in the crossfire of a Super Soaker drive-by.

In Passing

Long-range story planning

Phil Jerome

Talk about long-range planning. I have tentatively scheduled an appointment seven years from now.

Several weeks ago I received a call from a Novi woman, Danyanti Gupta, who told me her son, Sanjay, had just graduated from the University of Michigan's Intellex Program and been accepted into Michigan's General Surgery Program.

She reminded me that I had written a story about Sanjay when he graduated from Novi High School at the head of his class back in 1986. She offered the information about Sanjay's latest accomplishments so I could write up a short note for the paper, letting his friends and classmates know what and how he's doing.

"Short note, nothing," I replied. "Why don't I come out and write another feature story?"

So that's what I did. I met Sanjay at his home in Novi's Meadowbrook Manor subdivision, and we had a grand old time, sitting around and swapping tales.

The story ran in last Thursday's edition of The Novi News, so Northville folks didn't get to see it.

To recap briefly, Sanjay is one of just five students selected for Michigan's General Surgery Program this year. It's obviously a very exclusive program, and he plans to specialize in cardiothoracic (heart and lungs) surgery — ultimately doing open heart and heart transplant surgery.

"And how long does the General Surgery Program take to complete?" I asked the very personable and successful young Novi High School grad.

"About five years," he said.

"And how long after that before you get to do your first heart transplant?"

"Oh, it will be a couple of years after that," he replied.

And then it sort of hit us at the same time. In 1986 I did a story about Sanjay when he graduated from high school. Seven years later I did a story as he was entering the General Surgery Program at University Hospital in Ann Arbor. And in another seven years he might well be embarking on another important milestone in his professional career.

"Are you noticing the same thing I am about these seven year intervals?" I asked.

"Yes," he nodded.

"So what do you think?" I asked. "Let's do another story when you do your first transplant seven years from now."

"It's a deal," he said.

Seven years from now would be the year 2000. Mark it on your calendars and watch for it, folks. It'll be there.

MORE FUTURE PLANNING: Actually, if Sanjay and I manage to pull this off, it will be only the second longest period of time I have waited to do a story.

While in college, I was watching the Miss America/Universe Pageant on television, only to learn that Miss Michigan was from Novi. She was one of the 10 semi-finalists which, of course, is no small feat.

I don't remember her maiden name, but I do know that she married Jimmy Long of Long's Plumbing and Fancy Bath Boutique on Main Street in Northville. What a good idea, I thought, to write a feature story about Virginia Long on the 25th anniversary of her appearance in the pageant.

Well, we're closing in on the year. Hey, Virginia, give me a call when it's time.

Who says I don't plan ahead.

Court's move to Novi progresses in spite of lawsuit by Walled Lake

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Despite a pending lawsuit to try to stop it, the effort to bring the 52-1 District Court to Novi proceeds apace.

The city's planning commission approved the judicial facility's preliminary site plan at its July 21 meeting.

Backers aim to put the one-story, 28,000-square-foot courthouse on the north side of Grand River Avenue between Wixom and Beck Roads in northwest Novi. The city of Walled Lake, where the 52-1 is now, filed suit against Oakland County in an attempt to block the transfer. That lawsuit will go to trial unless the county tosses in the towel and leaves the court in Walled Lake. A decision is expected soon.

Commissioners gave the green light to the site plan on an 8-0 vote (Commissioner Robert Taub was absent). The court's proposed home is a 4 1/2-acre quadrilateral that lies next to property now owned by Providence Medical Center.

The building itself will house four courtrooms, staff and support areas and detention facilities for prisoners involved in trials. Security is a paramount consideration in its design, architects told commissioners.

"That's become a major issue, really critical," Thomas Strat said.

To that end, the site's design provides protection to court employees, especially judges, with a separate service drive leading to restricted parking and entrances at the back of the building, Strat explained. Prisoners police bring to the court for trial have a separate entrance in back as well.

The general public has one large parking area to use, as well as a turnaround area in the service drive in front of the main entrance to drop off passengers.

Altogether the site has 227 parking spaces, more than twice what city ordinance requires for its given usage. One of the reasons for which the county wants to move the court from Walled Lake is a difficulty with parking.

There'll still be an excess of parking even if the courthouse adds a fifth courtroom, which architects cited as an eventual goal. Designers would tack it onto the east side of the building, at the end of the proposed row of four.

The plan provides only one vehicle access point for the site, a curb cut onto Grand River. City ordinance normally requires two major ingress/egress points, but does not for the courthouse use.

Strat indicated, however, that a second access point could go into the southeast corner of the public parking lot. A service drive would link it with Grand River. That's on the back burner, he told commissioners, until Providence decides what it will do with the property next door. When designers see what's being developed, Strat said, they can begin work on the second access point.

Traffic Consultant Rodney Arroyo said he'd like to see plans for the second access, because the court is expected to generate additional traffic in the area. It will require installing a passing lane on the stretch of Grand River that runs along the court site, Arroyo said. Projections for 1994 traffic are 15,877 cars per day using the thoroughfare, he added, assuming the court is in operation by then.

Arroyo also said that the day could come when those traveling on nearby I-96 to get to the court would not have to use Grand River at all. Instead, he explained, a connecting drive could be provided from the court to the freeway.

He and all other city planning consultants recommended that the commission approve the plan.

Members expressed a liking for the look of the building and of the site overall.

"I like the design, and I appreciate the security aspect of it, coming from a person who may have to use this building someday," Vice Chairperson Laura Lorenzo said.

"Not as a perpetrator," she added with a smile echoed by commissioners and audience members alike, "but for the attorneys, the judges and the public."

The commission conditioned its approval on the consultants' recommendations for minor changes and necessary city approvals.

Commissioners added one of their own: that the site provide a 20-foot greenbelt at its east end. That means designers will have to acquire a 13-foot strip from Providence along the eastern boundary or slightly reduce the public parking lot to make space for the green space.

Ma Bell gears up for high tech switch-over

Michigan Bell will activate July 24 the latest generation of sophisticated telephone-call processing equipment in Northville at a cost of $3.5 million.

Similar to a digital computer, the advanced processor will make available new custom calling options starting Oct. 1. The new features include caller ID, automatic callback and repeat dialing.

The company will mail customers information about the new services as they become available.

Installation of the new Northville call processor is part of the company's $505 million investment program to maintain and upgrade its network around the state this year.

More than $100 million of that amount will pay for 36 digital switches similar to Northville's, while another $50 million will go for the purchase and installation of 95,000 miles of fiber optic cable.

"We're well on our way to exceeding our commitment to invest $2 billion over four years in our communications infrastructure," said Marcia Buhl, Michigan Bell's public relations director for the Northville area.

Buhl said Michigan's new telecommunications law, effective since January 1992, has encouraged this level of investment.

Today, all Michigan Bell customers are served by computerized switches, whether analog or digital.

By year-end, more than 70 percent of customer lines will be equipped to offer advanced custom calling features.

Novi effort aimed at helping flood victims

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

There was a flood in Novi last week, but it wasn't anything like the destructive waters now devastating the northern Mississippi River states.

It was a flood of goodwill, released by one woman, Kim Kelley.

Kelley, a co-owner of Totally Tan salon in Peachtree Plaza, originally called the Salvation Army volunteering to put out a cannister to raise funds for the flood victims.

By the time she got off the telephone, Kelley had donated her entire business for the day for a "Tan-A-Thon."

On Saturday, July 17, the proceeds of any tanning after the electricity bill was paid went to the Salvation Army. In addition, Totally Tan and its neighbor, Cottage Inn Pizza, became drop-off centers for necessities being shipped to residents of the impacted areas.

Kelley raced around putting out flyers to get the word out, but before long local television and radio stations had jumped on her bandwagon.

Soon, Novi residents were heeding the call, bringing in hundreds of containers of personal hygiene products, disposable baby diapers, baby food, cleaning products and bottled water.

"People were bringing in laundry baskets full of soaps and bleach. Young kids brought in 50 cents, telling me it was their allowance. One little girl was in tears, she was so worried about the babies. Little old ladies would cross the street and buy new products. It was an emotional day," Kelley said.

"A lot of people who came here had families there and they couldn't get things through directly to them, so this was their way of helping out. There was no other drop-off site."

Kelley said she's raised to date $400. On July 19, a jam-packed truck pulled out of Peachtree Plaza, headed ultimately for the Mississippi River floodplain.

"I had no room. My storage room was just jammed," Kelley said.

One thing not needed is clothes, but bottled water and the cleaning products are still in demand.

Cottage Inn's general manager Tim Zabik helped load the goods. The pizzeria also supplied pizza and pop to the Tan-A-Thon participants.

Kurt Pieper, owner of The Cottage Inn, said the company will continue to collect donations for the flood relief effort.

So will Totally Tan.

"People are still bringing stuff in. We're still accepting it. I'm not going to turn anything away," Kelley added Friday.

Chapoutier winery enters new generation

Throughout France, a new generation of family winemakers has emerged with some exceptional and stellar wines.

The baton has passed from father to a son or daughter who was educated at the world's best winemaking schools. Nowhere is this better exemplified than at M. Chapoutier in France's Northern Rhone Valley. The House of M. Chapoutier was founded in 1808 and has been managed by the Chapoutier family for six generations.

In 1988, Max Chapoutier turned over winemaking duties to his son, Michel, who took charge with enthusiasm. To gain more concentrated flavors, Michel turned his attention to the vineyards.

"Everything that makes a great wine is in the soil and the vines," he said. "My aim is to reduce the winemaker's signature in the wine, to downplay the character of the grape varietal and go back to the earth."

Although the winery is in Tain-l'Hermitage in the northern Rhone, Chapoutier produces wines from both the northern and southern regions of this marvelous winegrowing area. Chapoutier's more than 200 acres of vineyards, in six appellations of the Rhone Valley (Condrieu, Cote Rotie, Crozes-Hermitage, Hermitage, St. Joseph and Chateauneuf-du-Pape) are organically farmed.

"In the Chapoutier vineyards, we've done more than replace chemicals with natural products," said 30-year-old Michel Chapoutier. "That's biological farming, not organic viticulture. Our vineyards are deep plowed two to three times annually to remove weeds. No herbicides are ever used. Shallow roots develop when topical chemicals are applied. Deep roots are needed for absorption of the natural chemicals in the soil."

"Three years ago, specifically selected trees, flowers and hedges were planted around the vineyard periphery to harbor predators of vineyard parasites."

Chapoutier elaborated the methods of maintaining an average vine age of 50 years in their vineyards. Since individual vines are free-standing (not supported on a wire trellis), it is possible to replace an individual plant when it dies or is no longer a good producer.

"Grape vines are like people, some have a longer life," Chapoutier said. "There are some vines on our estates that were planted in 1901 and they are healthy with flavorful fruit."

Located on some of the Rhone's steepest hill-sides, the vines are severely pruned and today's yields are 20 to 30 percent less than they were before Michel took charge. In the cellar, Chapoutier replaced large chestnut casks with small oak barrels coopered in Burgundy, 20 to 30 percent of which are new each vintage.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

- 1992 Dry Creek Vineyard Chenin Blanc ($7) boasts a fresh grassy-grapefruit aroma and intense summertime attractiveness.
- 1992 Clos du Bois Barrel Fermented Sauvignon Blanc ($8) is a sauvignon with melon and oak in an integrated rendition at a great price.
- 1991 Zaca Mesa Syrah ($12) is a supple summertime wine to enjoy now with picnic, pizza and barbecue ribs.
- 1992 Joseph Phelps Vin du Mistral Vignier ($25) is an excellent example of the vignier grape, indigenous to France's Rhone Valley. Pear and pineapple flavors are highlighted by six months of aging in French oak barrels.
- 1992 Jolisse Sauvignon Blanc ($5.50) is a true best-buy. This treasure is an all-fruit wine that shows citrus and melon with floral notes.

Give'em the ol' softshell
Easy-eating crabs are summer delicacy

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Are you tired of high-effort foods?

We're talking about foods that require exotic hand tools, elbow grease and (snicker) proper attire just to extract middling morsels of food.

For the most part, we're referring to shellfish. Escargots, lobsters, crabs and the like. Sure they taste sweet and succulent, but who wants to work up a sweat to eat them? And the price seems to rise in proportion to the effort you put in.

It seems ironic that these kinds of foods are found in the most genteel of restaurants. It's hard to look dignified when wearing a plastic bib with a smiling lobster on it while your eyes are bulging as you suck the meat out of a crab claw.

Fortunately summer spares us the effort of cracking crab shells by bringing us the flavorful softshell crab.

Like caviar and champagne, soft-shell crabs are an acquired taste. These seasonal delicacies, available mid-May to September, are completely edible except for the face and gills.

At Hunan Palace, on Ten Mile Road at I-275, you can find them on the menu stir-fried with red peppers and peanuts.

Linda Parker of Novi, owner of Hunan Palace, brings in a variety of seasonal specialties each summer.

"We've got mussels now too," she said. "They're steamed with black bean sauce or oyster sauce. We also have squid, and next month asparagus will be in season."

But softshell crabs are something special, she said. "We started getting them in June and July," she said. "We'll have them until September. That's when they're the best."

Hunan Palace head chef, Jack Dai, learned about softshell crabs while working in New York and Miami. Now he orders them from Boston whenever he can. He added that they are a favorite in his native Taiwan, where they are harvested along the coastline.

Even if you don't want to go ethnic, a bite of a crunchy softshell crab is a great reminder of summers by the seaside.

"They're just good eating," said Vince Clark, operating partner with Bill Kruse at the Rochester Chop House and Oyster Bar in Rochester.

"They're crispy, you get the flavor of fresh crab meat, and there's almost a caramelization of the outer shell that makes for great eating."

This has been a good season for softshell crab. "We brought in 20 dozen and ran out," said Clark. "I hope to have them all summer. I love soft-shell crab. I figured if we didn't sell them, I'd eat them."

Softshell crabs are blue crabs that have just molted or backed out of their hard shells. Blue crabs shed their shells a couple times a year.

"They have to be caught fairly quickly because the shell stays paper soft for only a day or so," said Clark.

They're a very clean seafood because the crab stops eating about three days before it molts. Its digestive system is cleaned making it just like a cleaned fish.

Nick Tringali of Jack's Seafood Market in Farmington Hills describes the taste of softshell crab as "just as sweet as blue crab, but crunchier."

"The traditional way to prepare them is to season them with flour, pan fry, and give them a squeeze of lemon at the end of cooking," said Tringali. "You can also make a sauce, saute the crabs, and serve them on top of flavored pasta like tomato basil."

"You can also baste them with garlic butter or barbecue sauce and broil or grill about 5 minutes per side. Or bake them at 350 degrees for about 8 minutes." They are either sold live or dressed and cleaned, ready to cook. Call ahead to see if your favorite seafood market has them, or will order them for you.

Anna Georgiou will order, and even cook them for you at her market — Anna's Fresh Seafood Market, Inc. in Redford.

"They're very good," she said. "You can fry them and make a sandwich with lettuce, tomato and onion."

Use soft-shell crabs within two days of buying, or freeze now while they're available, to enjoy later. They thaw quickly in the refrigerator.

"Figure two to three crabs per person for a main meal," said Tringali. "One per sandwich. The cost ranges from $1.49 to $1.99 for small crabs — 3 1/4 inches — to $2.49 to $3.49 for the larger crabs, about 5 inches."

To fry crabs, cook five minutes per side or 8 minutes in a deep fryer. Dry crabs before breading and allow the breading to dry before frying.

Soft-shell crabs are low in fat, calories and cholesterol, only 81 per 3 1/2 ounce serving, 1.0 gram of fat, 41 mg. cholesterol. They're also an excellent source of zinc.

Chef Jack Dai and Linda Parker dish up in-season seafood at Hunan Palace.

Here are some more soft-shell crab recipes from Jack's Seafood Market in Farmington Hills and the Rochester Chop House.

SOFTSHELL CRABS WITH ALMOND CREAM SAUCE

- 8 soft-shell crabs, cleaned
- 2 tablespoons clarified butter
- 1 cup flour
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons sweet whole butter
- 1/2 cup coarse cup almonds
- 1/4 cup red wine vinegar
- 1/2 cup heavy whipped cream

Put clarified butter and olive oil in sautee pan heat on high flame for 2 minutes.

Dredge crabs in flour, add to saute pan. Cook for 3 minutes a side. After 6 to 7 minutes remove crabs, drain olive oil and butter, add sweet butter and almonds. Cook for 1 minute until butter is golden brown. Add red wine vinegar, reduce until it's almost like a glaze. Add cream, bring to a boil, reduce 5 minutes until sauce thickens.

Place crab on serving platter with flavored pasta like tomato basil and pour a ribbon of sauce on top of crabs and over noodles. Serves 4.

A look at Boston piers finds all ship-shape

Mary Brady

Day one continues: It's still morning, and I've learned more about fish in the last hour than anticipated.

The five tests: temperature (not over 36 degrees), nose (no smell), eye (no discoloration), touch (no brine), and taste (flavorful) were emphasized. Each of the attendees were given a seafood quiz that we'll get back at the end of the day. By then, we will know anything that was on the test.

But now comes our trip to the Boston fish pier which is only a quick van ride away. On the way, Mike Moloney, the tour director, explains a bit of the ins and outs of the pier.

First and foremost watch your step. Be careful, since if you get hurt here, the bills are yours. Insurance is too expensive. Secondly, never comment on bad fish.

"You will see it, but do not make any remarks," he said. "These people are nice enough to let us come through the plants and the boats. If we knock their product they'll think twice the next time."

So with all of us on our best behavior we started a wonderful adventure. John Bettencourt, the Boston fish buyer for Foley's, meets us and heads the class into the main room where the auction is held. Unfortunately, it is over. But tomorrow we'll see one in New Bedford.

Our next stop is a tour of a fishing boat that has just docked and is unloading its catch. There are huge holding bins below deck that are full from the eight-day trip. A giant stainless steel bucket is lowered into the belly of the boat and filled by a worker below. Then a crane lifts it out, onto the dock and dumps the load into a bin where it is sorted by species and size.

We are also lucky enough to be granted a tour of the boat. It is about 60 feet long, nice and wide and equipped to the max.

The first thing I notice is how clean it is. Imagine a dozen guys on a boat for over a week, working around the clock and having a clean boat, everything in its place.

The pilot house is a gold mine of equipment. Depth finders, radar, phones and radios. Two of everything. If one goes out the fishing can go on. This has become a sophisticated business. Some radar actually "finds" schools of fish. Then it is up to the fishermen to bring them in.

A trip to the engine room is equally enlightening. A mechanic is washing down the monster engines, checking belts and bolts, assuring the next trip out will hold no surprises. Once again the place is spotless. We're told later that this is one of the more immaculate boats.

From here we head towards a flat fish processing plant. Fifteen men (I didn't see any working women on the pier) filleting sole and flounder. Whoosh, and a fillet is off; flop, the fish is turned over and sent through; another whoosh finishes the job.

Next, the fillet is trimmed and sent through a mechanical skinning machine, rinsed and packaged. The place is fairly clean, but there is no grading of fish. Whether a No. 10 or No. 2, it all gets treated the same.

With Foley's the fish is hand-picked as it is unloaded, from the top of the batch, and sent to the Foley's plant for processing. Personally, I feel much better knowing this. Unfortunately, I find it hard to eat fish out after seeing some of the practices other fish plants follow.

The final stop was a clearing house. Any fish not sold is sent to the clearing house to be sold on a commission basis. Huge tunas and swordfish were scattered around. How old and how good they were was questionable. Amazingly, all fish gets sold. Someone always buys it and thus it finds its way into the "system."

The government does not regulate the fish industry as it does the meat. Buying from a reputable fish company is mandatory for us.

By noon we were back at the Foley plant, heads spinning with fish "fun facts." The morning had been extremely educational. Next week, wear your coats, because we're headed to the Foley processing plant.

Pair veggies, pasta for summer

Summer is the perfect time to create delicious entrees using fresh vegetables from the garden or local farmer's market.

The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant's Rigatoni con Zucchini offers a delicious pasta dish with a summertime twist: sauteed zucchini and stewed fresh tomatoes. Rigatoni con Zucchini is a new entree featured on The Olive Garden's Summer Funtastico menu, available now through Sept. 8.

For other summertime vegetable-filled dishes, the following tips supplied by the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, will help you choose the freshest produce.

• Beans — Pods should be firm, crisp and slender with good green color. Beans should break with a "snap." Wash before using.

• Mushrooms — May be white, tan or cream-colored. Freshest mushrooms are closed around the stem by a thin veil. However, those having open veils caused by loss of water are just as nutritious, but have a more pungent flavor. Refrigerate in a paper bag or ventilated plastic container. Avoid storing in plastic bags.

• Onions — Choose onions that are clean and firm. The skins should be dry, smooth and crackly. Avoid onions with wet, soggy necks or soft, spongy bulbs, which indicate decay. Keep at room temperature in a well-ventilated area. May be refrigerated; above all, keep dry. May be stored three to four weeks.

• Potatoes — Choose firm, clean and relatively smooth potatoes free of cuts or bruises. Avoid green-colored potatoes and those with sprouts. Never refrigerate potatoes, but keep them in a cool, dark, well-ventilated area. Keep away from light (which can cause greening) and moisture.

• Summer Squash — Should be fresh, heavy for its size and tender. Choose small to medium sizes. Refrigerate and use as soon as possible.

• Tomatoes — Choose smooth, firm and plump-looking tomatoes with good color. Place away from sunlight. Putting tomatoes in a bag hastens ripening. Best if never refrigerated.

• Carrots — Look for firm, well-shaped roots with good orange color.

• Broccoli — Look for compact bud clusters. Color varies from dark green to purplish green, depending on variety. Yellow and wilted leaves indicate aging.

The new Summer Funtastico menu is available at nearby Olive Garden Italian restaurants at 14000 Middlebelt Road, Livonia, and 43300 Crescent Boulevard, Novi. Here's a recipe from the menu to try at home.

RIGATONI CON ZUCCHINI
1/2 cup olive oil
1 cup onion, chopped
1 pound fresh mushrooms
1 1/2 teaspoon garlic, finely minced
3 cups crushed tomatoes
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, diced and drained
1 1/2 cups tomato puree
1 cup black olives, sliced and drained
2 teaspoons capers, drained
1/2 teaspoon oregano, dried
1/2 teaspoon basil, dried
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
1/2 teaspoon fennel seeds
1/2 teaspoon salt
Zucchini preparation
4 large zucchini sliced lengthwise, 1/2 inch thick
2 tablespoons olive oil basil, dried oregano, dried salt
black pepper
1 pound rigatoni pasta
Parmesan cheese, freshly grated

Chop onion. Divide mushrooms into 2 equal portions. Cut 1 portion into quarters and reserve. Finely mince remaining portion. Mince garlic. Heat olive oil in heavy Dutch oven over medium heat. Add onion and minced mushrooms. Cook 10 minutes or until onions are very soft, stirring frequently. Add garlic and mushroom quarters and cook 5 more minutes stirring constantly.

Add remaining ingredients, stir and bring to a simmer. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring frequently.

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Cook rigatoni according to package directions.

To prepare zucchini — cut ends off of zucchini. Cut lengthwise into 1/2-inch thick rectangular slices. Sprinkle sliced zucchini with salt, pepper, basil and oregano. Heat 1 tablespoon of olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Place zucchini slices in one layer in the pan.

Saute about 3 minutes per side just until tender. Remove to serving platter, and cover to keep warm while sauteing remaining zucchini. Add remaining olive oil as needed.

Drain cooked rigatoni and transfer to a serving platter. Ladle sauce over the pasta. Top with zucchini slices and serve. Pass extra and freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Serves 4-6.

Chop onion. Divide mushrooms into 2 equal portions. Cut 1 portion into quarters and reserve. Finely mince remaining portion. Mince garlic. Heat olive oil in heavy Dutch oven over medium heat. Add onion and minced mushrooms. Cook 10 minutes or until onions are very soft, stirring frequently. Add garlic and mushroom quarters and cook 5 more minutes stirring constantly.

Add remaining ingredients, stir and bring to a simmer. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring frequently.

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Cook rigatoni according to package directions.

Crunchy crabs make great eating

TEMPURA-FRIED SOFT-SHELL CRAB

2 cups Japanese rice flour (available at Oriental markets)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 cups water
12 live soft-shell crabs (frozen crabs if out of season)

Peanut oil
Chopped parsley

In a bowl, mix together the rice flour, salt and cayenne pepper.

With a wire whisk, slowly stir water into the mixture until the batter is smooth and has the consistency of heavy cream. Add more flour or more water if necessary. Set aside.

Clean the crabs — first rinse them well. Then with a pair of scissors, snip the face off just behind the eyes. Lift up the back shell at its points and remove it with the gills. Reserve the shells.

With a spoon, clean out the mustard-colored bile sac and again rinse the crab well. Place a damp cloth over the crabs and refrigerate until ready to fry.

In a large pot, heat enough oil to cover the crabs, about 1 1/2 inches deep to 375 degrees F. Gently dip each crab in the tempura batter and place in the hot oil, top side down. Cook for 2 minutes, flip over and cook for another minute. Remove from oil and drain on paper towels.

To serve — garnish with chopped parsley and serve with tartar sauce. Serves 4.

Family winery enters a new era

"I don't believe that the oak itself brings any complexity to the wine," Chapoutier said. "It should offer the wine a slow oxidation potential. The problem with chestnut is that it allowed too much oxidation."

"To have flavorful wines, you need flavorful fruit. You get this when the vineyard has low yields and the grapes are picked at peak ripeness. If grapes are picked too early, they have higher acidity which I consider cheap wine insurance. Winemakers who don't know their fruit look for high acid profiles in their fruit as a safeguard. I don't worry about acidity, I look for fruit flavors to make the best wines. It's a myth that wines with higher acidity will have a longer life. A wine should be balanced with generous fruit."

In the past, a limited number of Chapoutier wines have been available in this market. The good news is that many more are being made available. The following tasting notes are only a sampling. Chapoutier wines span the price spectrum from just over $10 for a 1990 Cotes du Ventoux to $51 for the best wine 1990 Hermitage "La Sizeranne."

The 1990 Chapoutier Tavel "La Marcelle" ($21.50) is a rose wine produced from 100 percent grenache.

"With this wine, I do what we did in the Rhone 100 to 150 years ago when rose wines from the Rhone were held in high esteem," said Chapoutier.

If you think that a rose is a whiffy wine, then try this one with spicy food and watch it work its magic.

1990 Hermitage Blanc "Chante Alouette" ($39) is 100 percent marsanne. The taster is immediately charmed by the orange zest aroma. To discover the difference soil makes, try this wine side-by-side with the Chapoutier St. Joseph Blanc ($24) which is also 100 percent marsanne. The Hermitage is full and rich with exceptional body as is the St. Joseph, but it tastes completely different due to the soil elements.

1991 Chateaufort-du-Pape "La Bernardine" ($27) is highly perfumed with phenomenal length. The aromas of roses, red plums, herbes de Provence, red currant jam and wild cherry are irresistible. This wine is also 100 percent grenache.

"With this wine, we have returned to the tradition of the region," Chapoutier said. "Historically, Chateaufort-du-Pape was not a blend of grape varieties, it was 100 percent grenache."

Keep a cooler in the car for groceries

"Summer has arrived and sometimes it is easy to forget just how warm it can get outside," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

Most cars retain heat so well that even a pleasant day of 70 degrees can actually be too hot for food to be left in the car for longer than an hour.

It's a good idea to keep an extra ice chest in your car for summer grocery shopping. Cold foods can be kept safer this way. Often unplanned emergencies arise and you end up making several stops along the way home.

Here are a few more food safety tips for hot weather.

• Put groceries away immediately after shopping — perishables need to be refrigerated first.

• Perishable foods should not be left out more than two hours.

• Defrost all frozen foods in the refrigerator — never at room temperature.

• If you are eating outdoors never leave food out in the hot sun. Provide a source of cooling such as a bowl of ice to set food in and keep food in a shaded area.

If you have other food safety, food and nutrition or food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 858-0904.

Car snacks make road trips easy for annual fete

Summer vacation travel can sometimes spoil the best of "healthful" intentions. For many, traveling in the car means snacking in the car. Snacking can be healthy—it's just a matter of how much we eat and what we choose to snack on. My first rule of car travel is always bring a cooler. I pack plenty of bottled water, veggies and fruit. Take advantage of summer's best—ripe, delicious, nectarines, grapes, peaches and melons. When you or your kids want something to munch on, don't bring out the potato chips and cookies, try Crisp Pita Chips. These homemade chips can be stored in a sealed container for up to two weeks, perfect for vacation travel. Or, for something a little sweeter and different, try Cocoa Crunch Mix. Your kids will love it!

CRISP PITA CHIPS

Four 1-ounce pita breads, split and quartered
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon olive oil
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground red pepper
Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Spray large baking sheet with nonstick cooking spray. In large bowl, combine all ingredients; toss to coat pitas. Place on prepared baking sheet.
Bake 5-6 minutes, turning pitas once, until crisp. Store in airtight container. Makes 4 servings.
Each serving (8 chips) provides: 1 Fat, 1 Bread,

15 Optional Calories on the Weight Watchers Food Plan. Per serving: 143 calories, 6 g fat "Weight Watchers Magazine," May 1992.

COCOA CRUNCH MIX

¼ cup reduced-calorie tub margarine
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 tablespoon unsweetened cocoa powder
2 ounces thin pretzel sticks, coarsely broken
1½ ounces wheat squares cereal
1 ounce shredded wheat cereal, coarsely broken
1½ ounces toasted oat cereal
1½ ounces unsalted peanuts coarsely chopped
¼ cup raisins
In large saucepan, melt margarine; stir in sugar and cocoa. Add pretzels, wheat squares, shredded wheat, oat cereal and peanuts; cook, stirring frequently, 2-3 minutes. Stir in raisins; cook 2-3 minutes longer, until mixture is dry. Cool completely. Store in airtight container. Makes 8 servings.

Each serving provides: 1 Fat, 1 Bread, ¼ Fruit, 25 Optional Calories on the Weight Watchers Food Plan. Per serving: 167 calories, 5 g fat "Weight Watchers Magazine," October 1992.

ROASTED VEGETABLE-PASTA SALAD

2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon olive oil

1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 garlic cloves, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 medium red bell pepper, cut into strips
1 medium green bell pepper, cut into strips
1 medium yellow bell pepper, cut into strips
1 cup cubed eggplant, cut into ½-inch pieces
4½ ounces rotelle pasta

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In small bowl, combine mustard, oil, lemon juice, garlic, salt and black pepper.

In a 13 by 9-inch baking pan, combine bell peppers and eggplant; toss with mustard mixture. Roast 20-25 minutes, until vegetables are tender; set aside.

Meanwhile, in large pot of boiling water, cook pasta 10-15 minutes, until just tender. Drain and add to vegetables. Toss to mix well.

Place in serving bowl or plastic container; cover and refrigerate until well chilled. Stir salad before serving. Makes 4 servings

Each serving provides: 1 Fat, 2 Vegetables, 1½ Breads on the Weight Watchers Food Plan. Per serving: 193 calories, 6 g fat

Summer party dips whip up quick in your microwave

By DESIREE VIVEA
Copley News Service

Dips are one of America's most popular snack and party foods. And luckily, they're also one of the easiest to prepare, especially when your microwave can warm them to a just-right temperature in minutes.

Dips make tasty before-meal appetizers. If you're planning a heavy dinner, appetizer dips should be light; precede a light supper with heavier dips.

Serve dips with drinks at an evening cocktail party, with cocoa or mulled cider for a winter evening snack, with beer or soft drinks for a summer outdoor get-together.

Because some people tend to drink more alcohol during the outdoor party season, it's a good idea to provide plenty of snacks to keep guests from getting too much alcohol on a too-empty stomach.

Most dips are high in fat content. Because microwaves are attracted to fat, dips tend to heat very quickly.

Hearty cheese-based fondues make very popular dips, but remember that cheese can overcook quickly in your microwave, becoming stringy and tough.

In general, microwave at a lower setting and watch carefully to avoid overcooking ingredients.

When converting a conventional recipe for the microwave, cut down on the amount of liquid added. There's less evaporation with microwaving, so liquids don't cook away. By decreasing liquids, you'll ensure that you serve dips—not drips.

What to use as dippers? Crackers, corn or potato chips, crisp bread sticks, French or cocktail bread slices, pita bread wedges, vegetable sticks and slices (cauliflower, broccoli, cherry tomatoes, cucumber slices, carrot and celery sticks, radishes, etc.)

With savory, saucy dips try serving chicken wings or chicken strips, shrimp or tiny cocktail meatballs. With sweet dips or mild cheese dips, serve bread or cake cubes and fruits like apple or pear wedges, pineapple or banana chunks or whole strawberries.

For an extra-special presentation, serve dip in a hollowed-out pineapple shell or in a red cabbage or eggplant shell. Replenish dip and dippers frequently.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625 to 700 watt microwave ovens.

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK:

When microwaving delicate soups, cream-based dips with a temperature probe, set probe at 90 F. Insert probe at center of dip, cover loosely with plastic wrap and microwave on LOW (30 percent power) setting until probe signals.

CREAMY CRAB AND ARTICHOKE DIP

1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
1 (7-ounce) can artichoke hearts, drained
1 (6-ounce) can crab meat, drained and flaked
2 tablespoons chopped red Spanish onion
1 tablespoon white wine
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Yields about 2 cups
Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.
Cooking time: 2 to 4 minutes.

Oven setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power)
Unwrap cheese and place in 1 ½ quart microwave-safe casserole. Microwave at MEDIUM for 1 to 1½ minutes, to soften. Add other ingredients. Microwave at MEDIUM-HIGH setting 1 to 2½ minutes longer or until heated through and bubbly. Stir halfway through cooking time. Serve warm with crackers or cocktail-size bread slices for dipping.

MEXI-MEATBALLS WITH CHEESE DIP

1 pound lean ground beef
¼ cup seasoned dry bread crumbs
¼ cup milk

¼ cup minced onion
1 egg
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Worcestershire sauce

1 (8-ounce) package process cheese loaf, cut into 2-inch cubes
3 tablespoons chopped mild chilies
3 tablespoons chopped black olives
1 teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon cumin

Yields: About 3 dozen appetizers.
Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 8 to 13 minutes

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (80 percent power)
Combine beef, bread crumbs, milk, onion, egg, garlic, salt and pepper in a small mixing bowl. Blend well with hands and shape into about 3 dozen 1-inch meatballs.

Arrange meatballs in shallow microwave-safe baking dish. Brush lightly with Worcestershire sauce.

Cover loosely with wax paper and microwave at HIGH setting 6 to 9 minutes, rearranging every 3 minutes, until meat is no longer pink. Let stand, covered, while making dipping sauce.

For sauce, combine all remaining ingredients in 1-quart microwave-safe casserole.

Microwave at MEDIUM-HIGH setting 2 to 4 minutes or until cheese melts and bubbles. Stir to blend thoroughly.
Serve meatballs with toothpicks for dipping into cheese sauce. Serve hot.

PARTY BRIE DIP ALMONDINE

1 pound brie cheese
¼ cup whipping cream or half-and-half
1 tablespoon white wine
¼ cup chopped toasted almonds

Yields about 2 cups
Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.
Cooking time: 4 to 6 minutes

Oven setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power).

Trim rind from cheese and discard. Place cheese in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Pour cream and wine over cheese.

Microwave 2 minutes. Stir. Microwave 2 to 4 minutes longer, stirring every minute or until cheese can be stirred smooth.

Add almonds, reserving 1 tablespoon for garnish. Stir well. Turn mixture into serving dish, top with remaining almonds and serve with apple and pear wedges and French bread cubes for dipping.

Pony and polka at music fest

Frankenmuth, Michigan—

If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you in Michigan. If you seek a fun-filled music festival, look to Frankenmuth, Michigan, for the Summer Music Fest, Aug. 13-22. Seventeen bands perform during this 10 day event, ranging from big band dance music and rock'n'roll to the biggest names in polka music.

Festival promoters, Marv and Teresa Herzog and Mark Janson, say the ethnic polka bands performing for the Summer Music Fest in Frankenmuth will include Polish, German-Austrian and Slovenian style performances.

Also featured are the distinct sound of The Polka Nuts Dulcimer Band, and the Country Western swing sound of Dave Dighton.

In addition to polka music, from Wednesday through Saturday, Aug. 18 - 21, the Summer Music Fest offers rock'n'roll music from the '50s and '60s, when The Fabulous Hubcaps roll into town.

The Big Band starring at the 1993 Summer Music Fest is the Tommy Dorsey Orchestra with Buddy Morrow conducting, Friday evening Aug. 20. Featured in the afternoon will be the Satin Brass Orchestra with John

Lipinski conducting.

There is convenient parking adjacent to the park, 80,000 square feet of tented areas and almost 10,000 square feet of wooden dance floors, surrounded by hundreds of tables and chairs.

A full menu will be offered daily, along with sandwiches and snacks. Beverages include beer, wine, wine coolers and soft drinks.

Renaissance revelers make merry

Holly, Michigan—

Soar back to a time of knights, maidens, bards, musicians and merchants when the 14th annual Michigan Renaissance Festival opens its turreted gates Aug. 14 through Sept. 26, Saturdays, Sundays and Labor Day Monday on the wooded grounds of Hollygrove located near Holly, Michigan.

Visitors are greeted and made welcome by King Edward and Queen Katheryne as the village unites in seven weekends of celebration. Each weekend offers a unique theme with events to match. Patrons may compete in contests such as Press-A-Wench, Stump the Court, Grape Stomping and the Sot Put.

Continuous entertainment by hundreds of costumed merrymakers is performed on seven outdoor stages. Street theatre is brought to life as visitors stroll the lanes of Hollygrove interacting with Renaissance characters partaking in the pleasures of the day.

Impromptu performances by roaming village magicians, jugglers and musicians delight and amuse visitors. Thrill to the excitement of contact and quintaine jousting performed three times daily by brave knights on the tilt yard.

Feeling hungry? Fret not. The Festival offers many savory dishes, all of which are hand held. Grab a roast turkey drumstick, corn on the cob, spinach pie, Knights Sandwich, apple dumpling and toast the day with beer, wine, cider and soft drinks.

Shop in the bustling bazaar of more than 150 craft shops where artisans demonstrate their timeless crafts. Weaving, pottery, woodworking, blown glass, jewelry and herbs are just some of the treasures you will find as you explore the village.

The lovely wooded shire of Hollygrove is located on Dixie Highway, one mile north of Mt. Holly ski area, between Pontiac and Flint. It offers easy access from Interstate 75 and plenty of free parking.

Adult tickets are $10.95 at the gate, $9.50 in advance at participating Total gas stations and Kroger stores. Tickets for children 5-12 are $5.95 at the gate, $5 in advance. Children younger than 5 are admitted free.

Festival information may be obtained by calling the Michigan Renaissance Festival at 313-645-9640.

HUZZAH!— Costumed funsters greet young Renaissance Festival visitors as they stroll the lanes of Hollygrove. Children younger than 5 are admitted free.

Great days for Danes

Greenville, Michigan—

This west Michigan community serves up coffee and a Danish Festival Aug. 20-21 to celebrate its Old World heritage.

Activities with a definite Danish flavor include a performance of Hans Christian Andersen's The Little Mermaid, musical entertainment at "Tivoli Gardens" (the transformed National Guard Armory), and the Grand Dansk Parade with more than 150 entries.

Aebleskivers and other delectable Danish delicacies are served from many food booths that dot the downtown area. The lucky holder of the winning festival raffle ticket will receive a trip to Denmark.

The focal point of downtown Greenville is The Ugly Duckling Fountain, depicting the famous Hans Christian Andersen tale, handcrafted by noted sculptor Marshall Fredricks. A smaller version of the sculpture is located in Greenville's sister city, Skaelskor, Denmark.

The two-piece bronze sculpture was a gift to the Greenville area from Fred Meijer, in memory of the late Hendrick and Gezina Meijer, founders of Meijer, Inc.

Other festival events include an antique auto display, large arts and craft fair, children's performing arts show, and a 5 K and 10 K run.

The 29th Danish Festival is expected to draw more than 100,000 visitors to this town of 10,000 inhabitants. Call 616-754-6369 for more information.

Greenville is located at the intersection of M-57 and M-91, about 30 miles northeast of Grand Rapids.

This Friday the 13th gets messy

South Haven, Michigan—

Visitors to this Lake Michigan town will come down with the blues and enjoy it Aug. 13-15 when the National Blueberry Festival celebrates the harvest of the mouth-watering fruit.

Friday the 13th gets messy as the kids dive in to the blueberry pie eating and blueberry gum blowing contests. Youngsters will also enjoy the carnival games where everyone comes out a winner.

Continuing over the festival's three days are sidewalk sales, basketball and volleyball tournaments, and The Wizard of Oz play production.

Friday evening will feature the Steelheader's Fish Boil followed by the zany men's and women's Sexy Legs Contest. The evening comes to a close on a high note with a performance by dance band "Y-NOT."

Saturday's schedule includes a 100-booth arts and craft show, the Blueberry Fest 5K Run and the giant festival parade. A free outdoor concert is set for 7 p.m. at the new city marina by Detroit blues band the Chisel Brothers.

Sunday opens with the South Haven Airport Fly-In and the North Beach sand sculpture contest. In the afternoon, visitors can enjoy a magic show and talent show.

Commercial production of blueberries in Michigan began near South Haven in the 1930s. Today, Michigan leads the nation in blueberry production and the South Haven area continues to be the state's blueberry-producing center.

Markets and pick-your-own blueberry farms dot the roadsides near South Haven. Brochures directing visitors to the farms are available at many businesses.

South Haven is located in southwest Michigan and is easily accessible via Interstate 196 or M-43. Call 616-637-5252 for more information.

Chow down on melons...

Howell, Michigan—

When August Schmitt was having lunch in a Howell restaurant some 50 years ago, he tasted a cantaloupe of exceptional quality grown on an Ohio farm. That fortuitous meal has grown into the annual Howell Melon Festival, set this year for Aug. 20-22.

Schmitt, with the aid of local farmers Howard Dankers and Stanley Knight, began work on crossbreeding plants to create a melon whose taste would be beyond compare. In fact, the taste developed was so unique, the plant variety was granted a patent from the State of Michigan.

The citizens of Howell were so impressed with the flavor that work began on an event to honor this tasty fruit. The first celebration in 1960 drew more than 10,000 people, doubling the town's size. Today's festival has grown into one of mid-Michigan's largest events, drawing more than 70,000 visitors.

Even though the community and the celebration have grown in size since the days of the first festival, Howell has maintained its small town hospitality and atmosphere. The Howell Jaycees plan and coordinate Melon Festival activities, which are designed to appeal to people of all ages.

The Melon Tent on Walnut Street is a focal point of the festival. It's the place for information, food and fun for the whole family. Barbecued chicken, hot dogs, fresh melons and beverages are on the menu and entertainment and music is on the schedule.

More than 70,000 spectators are expected to line Grand River Avenue on Saturday, Aug. 21, to view the festival parade. One-hundred units of Shriners, bands, horse clubs, and more step off in the two hour parade.

The arts and crafts exhibition on Bamard Street is one of the most popular festival attractions. With more than 250 exhibitors selling everything from stained glass to jewelry and pottery, it's one of the largest shows in the state.

Another festival highlight is the wacky annual Landlubber Salty Dog People Powered Contraption Race on Aug. 22. It starts on land, continues across Thompson lake and then finishes back on land. There are number of rules which govern the race, the two most notable being that the craft be hand-built and that it must be people-powered.

Howell is located along Interstate 96, about halfway between metro Detroit and Lansing. Call 517-546-7477 for more information.

EXCEPTIONAL YARD BIRD— Howell Jaycees serve up barbecued chicken to complement the famous melons.

...'taters, fish, pickles too

Hungry for the good life, baby, hungry through and through? Then head for these off-beat Michigan celebrations and slap on the feed bag!

The Munger Volunteer Firemen celebrate their 39th annual festival honoring the potato July 29-Aug. 1. Events include a carnival, demolition derby and a parade led by the Potato King and Queen, making them the town's chief "potato heads."

Children of all ages participate in games, Saturday, July 31, including potato sack races, potato toss, and potato decorating and painting. Tons of free potatoes are given away each day of the event. Food consists of potato burgers and sausage, chicken barbecue and all kinds of potato treats.

Munger is a small village located between Bay City and Saginaw on M-138. Call 517-659-2571 or 517-799-2404 for more information.

Bay Port, located in Michigan's Thumb, northeast of Bay City on M-25, claims to be the nation's largest fresh water fishing port. The fish are reported to be so big that the town's slogan is "Where the Fish Caught the Man!"

On Aug. 7-8, Bay Port will serve 10,000 fish sandwiches to hungry fish fanciers as part of the Fish Sandwich Festival. Fish fans feast on the batter-dipped fried mullet filets that are made with a secret batter and served on a bun so big it requires both hands to eat it.

There's a parade on Saturday with 40 fish-theme entries, including a fish mascot and a crowned Fish Sandwich Queen. Also scheduled: an arts and crafts show in the park and free entertainment. Call 517-656-2391 for more information.

What does the pickle and Christmas have in common? According to a Berrien Springs historian, the glass pickle Christmas ornament is part of the German Victorian Christmas tradition. And that inspired the local Christmas Pickle Festival, set for Dec. 4-5 and Dec. 11-12.

As the story goes, the pickle ornament was hidden in the boughs of the tree on Christmas Eve after the children were in bed, and the first child to find it received a gift from St. Nick as a reward for being observant on Christmas morning.

All kinds of pickle paraphernalia are for sale at this festival, including pickle ornaments, sweatshirts, and gourmet pickle relishes prepared by the Flamm Pickle Co. in nearby Eau Claire. The chocolate-covered pickle will make its debut this year. Participate in the Pickle Parade on Sunday, Dec. 5, and see the Pickle Prince and Princess crowned.

Last year's first annual Pickle Festival put the company which produced the Christmas pickle in a pickle because it could not keep up with the demand for the ornament. Organizers had more than 1000 pickle ornaments sent from Germany to meet the demand.

Berrien Springs is located in southwest Michigan along US-31. Call 616-471-1202 for more information.

'93 Concours another classic

Rochester, Michigan—

The list of one of a kind cars that will be shown at the 15th annual Oakland University Concours d'Elegance at Meadow Brook Hall on Sunday, Aug. 8, covers an incredibly wide range in value and elegance.

From the famous 1921 Hispano Suiza H6B Labourdette Skiff owned by Robert Meyer to a 1932 Rochne Roadster that sold originally for under $600, the total scope of classics at this year's Concours makes for a completely original and breathtaking event.

Approximately 40 1932 cars will make up the once in a lifetime group of 1932 marque circles. This is the first time so many examples of cars produced in 1932, "the last year of the golden era of design," will be gathered at one time and one place.

Among the fabulous 1932s which will be displayed in seven circles are: a Marmon V-16, a Lincoln V-12, a 12 Twin Six Packard Dual Cowl Phaeton, a Cadillac V 12, a 1932 Graham Blue Streak and an Auburn Speedster 8 to name a few. The circles will be organized according to the cars' original purchase price in 1932, ranging from under $600 to over $5,000.

All 40 1932s will parade across the Concours field at 4 p.m. before the Concours closes. The Concours opens at 9 a.m.

Other one of a kind cars on their way to this year's Concours are the 1921 Hispano Suiza H6B which travels with its owner from King City, California. It has been lovingly restored by Hill and Vaughn.

The fabulous auto, which absolutely defines elegance, was coachbuilt by Henri Labourdette, and the skiff body is made entirely of wood following similar speedboat design and construction of the era. There are three criss crossing layers of wood assembled together by copper rivets and brass screws. The wood used is mahogany, ash and rosewood. This interior is upholstered in ostrich stamped leather.

Another feature of this year's Concours is the showing of not one but two of the rare Rolls Royce Henley Roadster. One is a 1930 owned by Millard Newman of Tampa, Florida and a 1932 owned by Robert Pass of St. Louis, Missouri.

A 1939 Lincoln Town Car used by the King and Queen of England on their visit to America in 1939 will be on view at Concours. It is owned by Richard and Linda Kughn of Detroit, Michigan.

Everyone's favorite sports car, the Corvette, celebrating its 40th anniversary, will be feted as the featured sports marque at this year's Concours.

One classic example of each Corvette model that was produced in the sports car's first 17 years, from 1953 to 1969, will be on view at the Meadow Brook Concours.

One of many outstanding Corvettes to look for is a 1959 'Vette brought by Neal and Barb Carter of Toledo. It was originally owned by George Ford of Libbey Owens Ford. Ford's friend, former General Motors Chairman Ed Cole, had the car completely refit and then painted with 20 coats of acrylic lacquer.

This one of a kind Corvette was sold to former Indianapolis driver, Carter in 1966 when Ford passed away. Carter was the Chevrolet service manager at the time the car was bought, and he is the only person ever to work on the car. He, Ford's chauffeur and Ford are the only people ever to drive this beauty, which has only 6,714 miles and has never been rained on.

Some other one of a kind classic sports cars to look for on the Concours field are:

A rare 1936 A.C. Ace Sports Competition owned by David C. Campbell of Rockland, Massachusetts; a rare 1933 left hand drive, three wheel Morgan which has been owned by Eugene Blossey of Lansing, Michigan for 43 years; and, a 1952 Jaguar C Type with street trim, shown for the first time and owned by Gerald and Kathy Nell of Brookfield, Wisconsin.

The Meadow Brook Concours is now ranked as one of the top three classic car shows in the world along with the Concours held annually at Pebble Beach, California and Bagatelle, Paris, France.

The Concours also includes one of the finest automotive art shows in the world and a showing of haute couture fashions matched by the Somerset Collection to some of the beautiful award winning cars as they pass the review stand. This is a unique recreation of the original French Concours.

Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester, Michigan on the grounds of Oakland University. This historic mansion of Matilda Dodge Wilson - wife of the auto baron is one of the finest examples of Tudor architecture in America. The Hall serves as a luxurious backdrop and the Concours is set on the sumptuous rolling golf course that make up its grounds. All proceeds benefit Meadow Brook Hall which is used as a public educational and cultural center. The Hall is open to tour during Concours.

TICKETS: $10 adults, $5 children 5 - 12, under 5 free (A full range of refreshments are sold at Concours) Tickets are available at the door or ahead of time. For tickets or information call (313) 370-3140. Parking is free.

Birthday celebration for valiant service

Grand Haven, Michigan—

Streaking fireworks light the night. Top name entertainers practice their magic under the stars. Those are among the many attractions of the U.S. Coast Guard Festival, July 30-Aug. 8, Grand Haven's birthday party for the valiant service.

"Coast Guard City, USA," as dubbed by an Act of Congress, has celebrated its unique relationship with this service since well before the turn of the century when a Life Saving Station was established in the Lake Michigan shoreline community. A community picnic in 1924 has grown into a festival attended by 300,000 persons, making it the largest festival of its kind in the nation honoring any single branch of the armed services.

The picnic grew into a festival with the stationing of the Coast Guard Cutter Escañaba in Grand Haven in 1932. Its job was to break ice in the Great Lakes, but in the winter of 1942, the Escañaba went to war. In February she rescued 133 survivors from the USS Dorchester sinking of the Greenland coast.

Later that same year, the Escañaba was torpedoed and sank while escorting a convoy across the North Atlantic. The community grieved over the loss of 101 crewmen who were their friends and neighbors. Grand Haven turned its anguish to hard work and raised more than $1 million to build a second Escañaba. A third namesake was later commissioned in Grand Haven Harbor in 1987.

Festival visitors are in for many treats. There's the world's largest musical fountain, the Grand Parade on Saturday, Aug. 7, bands, and drum and bugle corp competition. The fireworks display is among the brightest and best you'll ever see.

Another tradition is a reunion of Coast Guard retirees and an opportunity to cruise aboard one of the USCG cutters in port for the festivities.

There's caramel corn and cotton candy for the kids, art in the park, Coast Guard ships to tour, carnival rides, mimes and clowns. Visitors can stroll through Grand Haven's Central Park on their way to many unique shops and boutiques downtown, or walk the tree-shaded streets and observe the community's many beautiful old homes.

Highlighting the festival is a quiet but memorable ceremony commemorating the tragic fate of the first Escañaba as well as a tribute to all Coast Guardsmen and women who have died on active duty during the past year.

It's a chance to get red, white and blue, starred and striped, and help honor the United States Coast Guard. Call 616-846-5940 for more information. Grand Haven is in West Michigan and is easily accessible via US-31 or M-104 off Interstate 96.

STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER— U.S. Coast Guard cutters are available for touring during the festival. Retired Coast Guard personnel have an opportunity to cruise aboard one of the vessels.

Puzzling exhibit awaits solution

Midland, Michigan—

A mind-bending exhibit will be at the Hall of Ideas, Midland Center for the Arts through Aug. 29. Brain Teasers, a collection of 21 puzzles ranging from giant jigsaws to rope tricks to the mysterious "Tower of Brahma," is sure to challenge even the most accomplished problem-solver.

The Hall of Ideas is located in the Midland Center for the Arts at 1801 W. St. Andrews. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 5 p.m. weekends. Admission is by donation. Call 517-631-5930 for more information.

Ypsilanti takes long, free look into past

Ypsilanti, Michigan—

Reflecting Ypsilanti's unique relationship with transportation, the 15th annual Heritage Festival returns in late August with its theme of "Trains, Planes and Automobiles." The city's summer festival, which runs Aug. 20-22, is held in Riverside Park, Frog Island Park and Historic Depot Town in Ypsilanti. The popular event is noted for its tradition of providing a wide range of free entertainment for both young and old.

Among the highlights scheduled for the 1993 Festival is the Flying SWallendas highwire act.

Performances are scheduled for all three days at Frog Island Park as part of the Family Village entertainment. Also added to this year's event is the Freighthouse Toy Train Show which promises to attract the curious as well as serious collector. Hosted by noted collector and promoter Ray Nikolai, the show on Saturday and Sunday will include railroad art plus exhibits by Lionel Trains, Inc and the Bluewater Michigan Chapter.

Returning to the Festival is the popular Living History Encampment, a fascinating look into our past as hundreds of participants reenact life from the 1700's to 1840.

The 1993 Heritage Jazz Competition features some of the best in up and coming southeastern Michigan artists. Three days of music returns to Depot Town with a blend of jazz, Latin and blues. Beverages, food and an almost endless lineup of musicians appear under the large airy tent all weekend long. Friday and Saturday include special headline acts that close the show each night.

More free entertainment graces the Riverside Dock Stage along the Huron River. The open air venue promises an eclectic blend of blues, jazz, country, R&B, gospel and much more. Friday evening includes special concerts by the Ypsilanti Community Band followed by the Community Choir. The special Sunday lineup includes the Detroit-based gospel ensemble, The Resurrection.

The Heritage Festival Parade provides added visual appeal as it reprises the annual downtown Ypsilanti route on Saturday morning. Beginning at 10 a.m., Michigan Avenue comes alive with clowns, marching bands, balloons, antique cars, horses and more. Attracting more spectators every year means the best advice is to get there early. The parade proceeds east on Michigan Avenue, then north on Huron Street ending near the Cross Street entrance to FIFE AND DRUM— Marching units of all varieties add musical and visual appeal to the Heritage Festival Parade, set for Saturday, Aug. 21.

Riverside Park.

Showcasing some of the unique and interesting architecture in Ypsilanti, the annual Heritage Festival Home Tour returns with a walking tour of selected sites. The city is host to one of the largest historical districts in the state. Tickets to the event scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 22, will permit a glimpse inside of the homes featured on the tour.

Four free entertainment stages, antique automobiles and bicycles, Millionaire's Party, historic costumes, Rubber Ducky Race, and hundreds of other activities will guarantee a weekend of great family fun! FESTIVAL HOURS: Noon -1:00 a.m. Friday, Aug. 20; 9 a.m. -1 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 21; 10 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 22.

Festival is sponsored by the Ypsilanti Area Visitors & Convention Bureau. For more information call 313-482-4920.

ENERGY CENTER VISTA— Visitors to the Cook Energy Center enjoy a view of Lake Michigan from a terraced patio and picnic area with seasonal flowers and permanent sculptures.

Watts up, doc?

Bridgman, Michigan—

The Cook Energy Information Center, a service of the Indiana Michigan Power Company to help educate people about the future of energy, has announced its schedule of free shows and events -- held one or two weekends every month -- that feature unique exhibits from regional artists, crafts people, collectors and hobbyists.

Here is the schedule of upcoming shows and events. (Days and standard times for shows are Saturday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. except where noted.)

Art Exhibit by Greg Harrington, July 20-Aug. 1 (closed Monday), displays the watercolor work of this noted artist who lives, paints and teaches in northwestern Indiana. Mr. Harrington, whose work has been chosen and exhibited in numerous juried competitions, has been painting for 25 years but has worked exclusively in transparent watercolor for the last 14 years. He will also be offering painting classes during his exhibit.

Quilted Tapestries by Charlotte Bass, Aug. 3-22 (closed Monday), is one of the traditional popular shows of the season. An acclaimed artist, Charlotte Bass uses quilts to "paint" colorful images, fashion three-dimensional designs, and capture pieces of history through intricate sewing. Her helpful seminars, teaching her unique quick quilting technique, result in many visitors trying their own hand at this distinctive art form.

Dolls, Dolls, Dolls Show, Sept. 11-12, fills the center with frilly lace, porcelain faces and soft curls. Visitors can talk to people who both make and collect a variety of traditional and unusual dolls. Visitors are welcome to bring dolls from their own collection and have them appraised by experts. There is also the chance to win a collectable doll through a raffle held at the show.

Berrien Springs Civic League Arts and Crafts Show, Sept. 18-19, provides gift ideas for any occasion, from old favorites to clever new ones. Visitors will discover table-after-table of handmade crafts, art work and homemade candies.

Southwest Michigan Stamp Club Show, Oct. 2-3, gives visitors the perfect opportunity to view, buy, sell and trade stamps. Whether they're serious philatelists or just beginning collectors, visitors to this show will enjoy the opportunity to see and hear the history behind rare and ornate stamps from around the world.

Antique Show, Oct. 16-17, provides a second opportunity, in addition to the earlier Spring Show, to browse or hunt for unusual vintage toys, tools, clothing, collectibles and other antiques.

Fingerprinting Day, Oct. 24, offers parents the important opportunity to have their children fingerprinted by McGruff the Crime Dog. As a safety precaution, fingerprinting can provide quick identification by emergency teams when a frightened child's parents aren't nearby. Parents are encouraged to bring their children, ages three and up, for a fun fingerprinting session with McGruff as well as free cider, doughnuts, shows and games.

Fruitbelt Woodcarvers' Show, Nov. 6-7, features artisan hand carvers from across the region. Visitors can see hand-painted wildlife, figures, statues, intricate reliefs and three-dimensional carvings, hardwood bowls and trays, and unique wooden toys.

BAKER FURNITURE MUSEUM— Most of the furniture on display was collected on world travels, brought back to Michigan, and then used as designs in the Baker factories.

Antique furniture buffs take shine to museum

The lower level of a bank building on the main street of downtown Holland, Michigan, might not be where you would expect to find a major furniture museum, but that's exactly where the 52-year old Baker Furniture Museum is now located.

A visit to view the unique collection of antiques and models shows, however, that the move from its Windmill Island location three summers ago makes sense. The newly built NBD bank building at 100 East 8th Street next to Holland's historic theater provides climate control and expanses of white walls to set off the priceless pieces of furniture.

Most of the furniture on view was collected by Hollis Siebe Baker, son of Baker Furniture founder Siebe Baker, on his many world travels on which he sought out with a discerning eye pieces that could be used as designs in the company's factories.

In addition to the furniture, there are displays of old woodworking tools, an architectural gallery containing carving fragments from English, French, Italian and Flemish schools, as well as measured drawings of rare antique furniture in private collections in Europe.

Only one piece in the museum is encased in a clear protective covering -- a 3,552 year old wood stool from Egypt. The legs are lion's paws with carefully carved claws of the New Kingdom Dynasty dated 1567 - 1320 BC.

Curator Alex Mitchell has let the furniture be the main attraction in the museum, with pieces placed so that the many students of furniture design research who visit may view them from different angles.

But the museum offers a learning experience for even a casual visitor to appreciate fine antiques as plaques offer descriptive information about the collections.

Oak, Oriental and painted furniture are arranged in galleries. There are such eye-catching pieces as a miniature chest dated 1780, a Sheraton rocking cradle of 1800, an extremely graceful folding butler table, a Chinese black lacquer table inlaid with mother of pearl as well as - surprisingly - modern pieces by the Danish architect Finn Juhl.

At the entrance is the first piece of furniture made by Siebe Baker, who emigrated from the Netherlands to Michigan. It was made in the first factory in Allegan in 1890 and was the firm's famous number 96 combination desk and bookcase in oak. It was sold two for $10 crated together.

The factory was moved to Holland in 1933. Today there are six factories - one in Holland, one in Grand Rapids, three in North Carolina and one in Illinois.

At the entrance also are photographs of founder Siebe Baker and his son, Hollis Siebe Baker. The founder's grandson, Hollis M. Baker, sold the company to Magnavox in 1969 as no one with the Baker name was left. It next merged with North American Philips and today is owned by the Kohler Company, which purchased the company in 1988.

Staffer June Vlietstra, who was at the reception desk when we visited the end of June, related that the Kohler Company has been most interested in and supportive of the museum. The museum is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday (the same hours as the bank) and is staffed by Martha Kimball, its longtime supervisor, and Vlietstra and two others in rotation. They can arrange tours of the museum for groups.

Interestingly, the rare pieces collected by Hollis Siebe Baker to represent the best of many periods of furniture design from all over the world are displayed as they were found; there has been no restoration or refinishing of the originals.

In many cases, the original and its reproduction are on display side by side. There's an unusual curved front commode of the Italian Directoire period with tambour doors with reeded detail circa 1800 that has been meticulously copied.

Because Hollis S. Baker's interest in furniture design extended back to the ancient world, you'll find a gilded small Egyptian chair made for Princess Sitamun and a reproduction at the left.

Just before he died in 1966, Baker completed a book for which he had been gathering material much of his life, Furniture in the Ancient World. Now out of print, there is a copy on display in the museum.

Hollis S. Baker had graduated from the University of Michigan in 1910, entered the firm and became president in 1925 on the death of his father. It was after he became president the company began to grow from a small factory.

On his many, many trips to Europe, he sent back fine antiques to the factory and library and to the museum, which began with 1500 pieces. It is estimated there are 4,000 pieces in the collection. Some have been given to the Grand Rapids Museum; some are in storage; and many are on view.

While it is no longer possible to tour the furniture factories themselves, where skilled craftsmen make present day Baker pieces, the museum shows a video, The Making of a Treasure.

It is pointed out that the furniture pieces being made today are "not copies (of antiques) but pieces subtly adapted for today's living."

The company's many collections are shown and include Colonial Williamsburg designs, Stately Homes of more than 120 pieces of the finest English furniture originally in palaces and estates, the Charleston Collection from that city's elegant homes, such as the Nathaniel Russell house the Charles Pfister contemporary collection and the firm's newest, the McMillen Collection based on the furniture of the New York design firm of that name.

Much of the Baker furniture today is sold through interior decorators who bring their clients to showrooms in larger cities across the country. While a single major piece can sell for several thousand dollars, it still makes it possible for those who appreciate fine furniture to acquire reproduction of antiques that often sell at world auctions for more than a million dollars.

A trip to the museum also can make collectors appreciative of what they have at home. The cherry Welsh cupboard I purchased in the early 1960s from the Baker Milling Road Collection is my personal treasure, and my daughter has a Baker chair bought in the late 1940s which is "good as new" freshly reupholstered.

Museum staffer June Vlietstra agreed with me that we who bought in those early, more affordable years are "the lucky ones." She pointed out that the Baker name at that time was incised inside a drawer, or, earlier might be on a small brass tag. Take a look; you, too, may have a treasure.

If you go to the museum, the business 1-96 route will take you to 8th Street. The museum is located between College Avenue (right by Hope College campus) and Columbia Avenue at 100 East 8th Street. There is three hour free parking on the street as well as a parking lot accessed from 9th Street.

Summer hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday and 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. Admission is $2 for adults; $1 for children 12 to 16. Children under 12 with adults are free. Call (616) 392-8761 for information about tours.

Do allow time to stroll along Holland's main street with renovated buildings housing restaurants, art galleries and fine shops. A new pasta restaurant has joined the excellent 8th Street Grille (which has gained a reputation for its daily offering of three homemade soups) and the more formal Alpen Rose dining room on the main street within a few blocks of the museum.

IVA'S CHICKEN DINNERS ...

Iva Ousterhout's famous chicken dinners have been served since 1938.

Over the years, Iva has had three kitchens built along with additions to accommodate an ever increasing number of patrons who come from all over the state to enjoy "Iva's Chicken Dinners." As in the past, they serve fresh, pan-fried chicken accompanied by homemade mashed potatoes, coleslaw, gravy and biscuits.

Exploring the world by kayak

Julie Candler

Allan Hayes

In early July an avid sea-kayaker named Sheila Evans car-topped her 20-foot Winona Seal craft and headed to the Upper Peninsula for a month-long jaunt, alone.

Evans, artist and piano teacher from Oxford, Michigan, got hooked on kayaking four years ago. "My first experience was in Perry Sound in Georgian Bay," she says. "It was a one-day trip in a heavy kayak, and the water was so clear I could see the quartz veins in the rocks. I was hooked."

Paddling---whether it's kayaks, canoes or inflatable rafts---is one of the fastest-growing recreational activities in the country.

People become addicted to the sport because paddling a watery trail is an ideal way to experience the natural beauty of the outdoors. "It's a door opening on a whole new way to experience the planet, the water and the shore," says Evans, who is 49.

Paddling is for people of all ages, and has many advantages. The season is from April to November. The boats don't have to be registered. They are light and easily hauled, by car-top or otherwise. We saw a car-top carrier, costing about $200, capable of carrying 10 kayaks.

Many kayakers, including Evans, are like skiers who go cross-country. They prefer to use their craft for touring purposes. They use larger boats with room inside for camping gear, ideal for exploration of rivers and small lakes.

Then there are sea kayaks, built to take the rough waves of the oceans and Great Lakes. Author Paul Theroux explored many Pacific islands in a sea kayak that could be disassembled into two sections for air shipment.

Other enthusiasts prefer to ride in white-water kayaks down a foaming canyon. These are the kind of people who love downhill skiing. Their boats are short with rockered bottoms to make them turn more easily.

Among the best-known competitive paddlers is Stan Chladek, who has been kayaking since he was a kid in Czechoslovakia. He won a world championship in white-water racing in a covered canoe in 1965. He is now a U.S. citizen and a distributor and retailer of kayaks, canoes and accessories at Great River Outfitters, 4180 Elizabeth Lake Road in Waterford, Michigan.

His daughter, Dana, was a 1992 Olympic bronze medalist in kayaking. She still competes in world events. She also designs colorful Rapidstyle water sport clothing, on sale at her father's and other stores.

Whichever form of kayaking you choose, you should learn the tricks of handling these light, tender and responsive little boats. As Chladek says, "Doing it right requires training. It takes a lot of skill to cope with bad weather."

A two-hour lesson, given on a clear, small lake in Waterford, costs $20 per person. Great River provides the equipment. Mike Janoska, 31, has taught kayaking for nine years, most of it at a paddling school in Pennsylvania. Now the Milford resident gives lessons through Great River Outfitters.

We watch as he stands hip-deep in Crescent Lake, explaining the basics of kayaking to Dave and Carrie Morgridge of Beverly Hills, Michigan. The handsome and athletic young couple, along with their instructor, wear wet suits, life jackets and spray skirts---strange garments with elastic hems that wrap around the cockpit's edge to keep the water out.

First Janoska puts the beginners through a drill to build confidence and familiarity with the boats. He starts with Dave, who has wriggled into the kayak cockpit (you WEAR a kayak, not just ride in it) and secured the spray skirt. Then Janoska overturns the kayak. That leaves Dave hanging momentarily upside down while surfacing his hands to make pre-arranged thumping signals on the kayak's bottom.

When he capsizes the kayak a third time, Janoska has Dave free himself and come to the surface. This, explains the teacher, is to show the student that he can get out if necessary. "Once you know that," says Janoska, "the worst thing that can happen is, you get wet."

Now they all head out into the lake. They deliberately capsize a kayak and "rescue" the dumped party. Janoska shows the couple how to pull a flooded boat over an upright kayak to empty it out, then steady it while the rescuee climbs back aboard over the stern.

Then the instructor demonstrates the "Eskimo roll", the method by which capsized kayakers rotate to an upright position without separating from their kayaks. It was invented long ago by a courageous Inuit. It permits recovery from a capsize without flooding the boat or having to climb back aboard, a tricky operation when one is alone.

"If you plan to be a self-contained kayaker, you should have the Eskimo roll," says Great River store manager Rob Kowal. Like all of Chladek's employees, he is an experienced paddler. "It's not nearly as hard as it looks. You may not need it often, but it's a good thing to have available."

Some kayakers, like Sheila Evans, take extended trips along Great Lakes shorelines without being able to Eskimo-roll. Evans carries an inflatable sleeve to be slipped over the end of her paddle if she capsizes. She can use the sleeved paddle as a steadying outrigger if she has to climb back aboard. She also has a bilge pump built into her kayak for getting the water out.

Janoska's lesson also illustrates the handling of a double-bladed kayak paddle. He recommends using a short, quick paddle stroke because longer thrusts tend to make the kayak zig-zag.

Canoers use a single-bladed paddle, which is easier to master and lends itself nicely to family outings. Liveries that rent kayaks are rare, but there are canoe liveries on most major rivers. We had a delightful family expedition down the AuSable last summer, with eight of us, including four children, in three canoes.

A good canoe, bought new, costs between $600 and $2,000. Kayaks range from $700 to $800 for the white-water variety, $700 to $1,000 for a touring kayak, $700 to $1,200 for a plastic sea kayak and from $1,400 to $2,000 for a fiberglass sea kayak. A kayak designed to be broken down for shipment costs about $500 to $1,000 more than its one-piece counterpart. A two-person kayak, which cannot be operated singly, also costs more. Guiding a two-seater requires teamwork and can lead to marital friction. Chladek and his wife prefer to paddle their own separate kayaks.

If you want to try kayaking before you invest, you can rent from some retailers. Great River Outfitters charges $17 a day, or $33 for a Friday-to-Tuesday weekend.

Besides a kayak, basic equipment needed to get started is a spray skirt, a life jacket and a double-bladed paddle.

As for paddleable waters in Michigan, Janoska says the Clinton River has more vertical drop than the Pine or Rifle. He advises touring from DOUBLE-BLADED MANEUVER— A seasoned white-water kayaker, Mike Janoska can make his craft speed over the water.

Rochester to the river's mouth at Lake St. Clair. Chladek recommends Canada's Point Pelee National Park on Lake Erie. The only white-water rapids in Michigan appear in springtime, mostly in the U.P.

If you don't want to paddle your own canoe, you can join the throngs who enjoy its spectator aspects. Thousands of people line the banks to watch the AuSable River Marathon, held every year in late July. About 50 two-man paddling teams race their canoes the 120 miles from Grayling to Oscoda. They paddle at 50 to 60 strokes a minute, besides making six portages. Both Grayling and Oscoda stage elaborate festivals for the event.

Spectators are also turning out to watch 20 canoe and kayak racers in the Iditarod of paddling, an inaugural 1,000-mile race that began June 27 in Chicago. It ends Aug. 2 in New York via Lake St. Clair, the Detroit River, the Erie Canal and Hudson River, along with several lengthy portages. It's called the Finlandia Clean Water Challenge, and is the longest canoe and kayak race in the world.

It's sponsored by the American Canoe Association, the governing body for canoe and kayak competition in the U.S.

These races are primarily for professionals. Amateurs don't have to work that hard, or put themselves at risk. Says Sheila Evans, "The closest I get to trouble is when I'm having so much fun that I don't realize I'm tired. I still have to paddle all the way back to camp."

Hi ho, El Rancho!

Gaylord, Michigan—

Tucked away quietly amid acres of untouched forests is a family resort-ranch that brings back that old fashioned family vacation.

El Rancho Stevens is a getaway spot where city dudes (and dudettes) go to leave their everyday worries behind, along with the crowded streets and that dreaded daily routine. The ranch caters to the family, single person, couples, even the single parent. What all these people have in common is a vacation of two days to a week devoted to regaining a bit of the childhood we have all left behind.

Located on more than 600 acres of the North's most beautiful pine trees and hardwoods, El Rancho Stevens is about five miles out of Gaylord. The Ranch accepts about 70-80 people at a time, so there is plenty of wide open space to go around. Besides the many acres of woods, the Ranch is also situated on about one-quarter mile of Dixon Lake.

What's there to do one might ask? The better question is, what isn't there to do. El Rancho offers excellent fishing on a DNR stocked lake, boating, waterskiing, horseback riding, swimming (heated pool and lake), archery, softball, volleyball, hay rides cook-outs, dancing, and best of all, peace and quiet.

Having a good time, whether you choose to be lazy or active, is what El Rancho Stevens is all about. "Doc" and Candy Stevens, who own the Ranch, started it back in the late 1940s with an idea to create a place for their friends to come and visit, to get away from the fast pace of the city. They have sought to build El Rancho on the same basis, everyone who comes through the door is treated as family. Many guests return year after year, because it is like going home. El Rancho is geared to providing a very personalized vacation experience.

A large part of that feeling comes from the Stevens themselves, as many guests will remember "Doc" and his crazy songs or for making them spell Albuquerque before going in for dinner. Sound silly? Well maybe, but that is what brings people back and what people remember.

Every resort has its drawing card. The Ranch has two, horses and waterskiing. And don't forget the children's program, and the closeness to the area golf courses. Mom and dad can go play a round of golf while the kids are being kept busy back at the Ranch with hikes, swimming, etc.

Want to learn more about horses? The Ranch wranglers are quite knowledgeable when it comes to those equine and they love sharing their knowledge with the guests.

So you don't want to stay at the ranch all the time? There are many area attractions within 60 miles of the Ranch: Mackinac Island, Indian River Shrine, AuSable River canoe trips, Hartwick Pines and more. Only a rock would be bored on a vacation at El Rancho Stevens.

For more information write or call: El Rancho Stevens, P.O. 495 Gaylord, Michigan 49735, 517-732-5090.

IN PURSUIT OF SAVINGS— With more than 130 stores, the outlet center in Birch Run is Michigan's largest — and it's right off I-75.

Birch Run, Michigan—

Throughout history, bargain hunting has been the driving force of commerce. Since the first department stores sprang up in the mid-19th century, one-stop shopping has been standard purchasing procedure. The rising popularity of malls throughout the 1970s did the department store one better, expanding the number of stores -- and the variety of goods -- found under one roof.

So, how could you improve on this idea? Discounts! Or, more precisely, lowering the mark-up. Which is exactly what Manufacturers Marketplace and the Village Shops in Birch Run are all about. Birch Run is located in Saginaw County, home to Frankenmuth, Saginaw and Chesaning.

The largest outlet center in Michigan, Birch Run is a bargain hunter's dream, where you'll find factory-direct savings on practically everything imaginable. And with over 130 stores, you can imagine the possibilities. (In most mini malls or outlet centers, you'll find only 30 to 50 stores.)

If you're planning a shopping trip to Birch Run, wear comfortable clothes (this is the place to buy new shoes ... not wear them) and be prepared to spend the day. Serious shoppers will probably look forward to this. For the uninitiated, this can be a daunting proposition. But the shopping centers make it easy for the novice shopper to enjoy the day.

First of all, Manufacturers Marketplace and the Village Shops are easy to get to, right off of Interstate 75. Each section of shops has plenty of parking, so you don't have to walk miles to the stores. And new in '93 is complimentary Saginaw Trolley shuttle service between sections.

Two "marketplaces" at Manufacturers Marketplace house visitor information racks, restrooms and food courts, plus you'll find a separate cafe and other restrooms conveniently located throughout the complexes. And benches along the way provide a place to rest and watch the activity.

So, what will you find in Birch Run? The better question might be what won't you find.

Car exhibit's a gem

Midland, Michigan—

The Mineral Car, actually a Chevrolet Lumina APV Minivan donated by General Motors, is making a pit stop at the Hall of Ideas (1801 W. St. Andrews, Midland) on its way to its permanent home, the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History's Geology, Gems and Mineral Hall. It will be on display in the brick lobby at the Center for the Arts through October 4.

This one-of-a-kind vehicle was created by the Michigan Mineralogical Society, and is sponsored at the Midland Center for the Arts by the Hall of Ideas. It points out the many different minerals used in the making of an automobile. The minerals in their raw state are exhibited next to the van.

The Mineralogical Society felt the need to remind today's public that even though we are surrounded by plastic, synthetic and recycled products, everything originated from a main source... minerals.

Plan your visit to this unique exhibit today. To schedule a group tour, call 517-631-5930. The Hall of Ideas is located at the Midland Center for the Arts, 1801 W. St. Andrews. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 1 to 5 p.m. weekends.

Ontario discovery: A cottage-lover's inn

Iris
Jones

Crowe's Landing, Ontario—

I am sitting over dinner at the Irwin Inn watching the sun go down on Stoney Lake. The water looks like grey silk in the evening light. A green cottage with white-trimmed windows stares through trees at us from a rocky island half a mile away. A grey-haired man and a tiny blonde girl fish from the dock below my window. Young Robbie Irwin pushes a boat out from the dock.

Guests who sat at nearby tables all week swap tales of the day.

"The kids had a fishing tournament."

"We went to see the petroglyphs."

"We watched the boats go through the canal locks on the Trent-Sever."

"Jamie Irwin took us for a trail ride on the horses."

"I played the par three golf course but it was wet from last night's rain."

If you have never driven even an hour north of Toronto you may not have been in a place like this. Stoney Lake is one of thousands of lakes dug out of the ancient rock of the Canadian Shield, which covers most of eastern Canada but stops short of the U.S. border.

These lakes differ from those you find in Michigan and Illinois, partly because heavy trees and rocky shorelines hang over cold deep water and partly because Canada's small population has so many millions of square miles of wilderness to play in. I see one canoe and one sailboat on a lake big enough to include 1000 islands, each island holding a cottage or two aloft like a birdhouse.

Where am I? Two hours northeast of the expressways of Toronto in the Kawartha Lakes, just north of the city of Peterboro. Boaters can follow the Trent-Severn canal through this area from Georgian Bay on Lake Huron to the town of Trenton on Lake Ontario.

There are many places to stay in this area: Pine Vista Cottages, a few miles down Stoney Lake Road, Viamede Resort across the lake. What I like about Irwin Inn is that you can live in a real cottage beside the lake, play in the boats, on the golf course and riding stables by day, enjoy good food and wine in a homey setting at night and still feel as if you are in the wilderness.

Crowe's Landing is marked on the map where County Road 40 and County Road 6 converge at a tiny white nineteenth century church. There is no town here any more, just a general store and marina. Norma Irwin was a Crowe; her father and grandfather ran a stagecoach carrying mail and cottagers between the lake and the town of Norwood. Ross Irwin was a cook at nearby Nepton Mines when they met at a dance in the barn that still stands on Milestone Farm.

The Irwins married and built a cottage on Stoney Lake in the 1940s. One day they accommodated overflow guests from a nearby inn. Over the years they added guest rooms upstairs, dining room over the lake, playgrounds and cottages behind, a par-three nine hole golf course, and started buying cottages that came up for sale on either side of them.

Norma still comes in to handle the garden and set up the nightly salad bar, but Ross has retired to a golf course near Norwood and the inn is into its second generation.

LIFE IN THE SLOW LANE— The weekly fish fry on an island in Stoney Lake reminds guests that life needn't be so hectic.

Dennis and Patti Irwin are innkeepers now. They've added a nice wine list, upgraded the rooms, bought Milestone Farm and 20 horses to go with it, added small conferences and are working hard to move into the 21st century while keeping that family cottage feeling that everybody loves.

This is an all-inclusive resort where most things come with the price of the room. One hundred Canadian dollars a day per person buy a room or cottage suite with living room, bedroom, a big buffet breakfast and a soup-salad-entree-dessert-coffee dinner, golf but not clubs, canoes but not motor boats and any little thing you want that the Irwins and two dozen cheerful young staff people can provide.

If you want night life or instant shopping, you shouldn't be here. It is 15 miles and no gas stations to the picturesque and historic village of Lakefield, 40 minutes drive to downtown Peterboro. The sun raises the shades on the lake at dawn and pulls them down at sundown, leaving you to a book, a limited selection of television programs or a game of cards.

What else is there to do in a week? Walk or ride the trails on the property. Take the pontoon boat for the weekly island fish fry. Spend an hour around the end of the lake in Petroglyphs Provincial Park, where 500 - 1000 year old rock carvings are preserved under a glass roof. Watch the boats go up and down the many locks on the Trent-Severn Canal nearby.

Shop at the Lockside Trading Post in Young's Point. Picnic around the locks in Burleigh Falls. Go to service at the Church on the Rock. Drive to Curve Lake Indian Reservation for a fabulous gallery of Indian Craft. Visit the world's highest hydraulic lift lock or attend the Saturday night performance and fireworks festival on Little Lake in Peterboro.

You could be busy every day. You go. I'll just stay here thank you, sit on the dock and watch the fish jump.

For more information, contact the Irwin Inn, R.R. 2, Lakefield, Ontario, Canada, K0L 2H0 or telephone toll-free (800) 461-6490. Or call that wonderful toll-free number (800) ONTARIO and ask for a free booklet called Resorts Ontario; it will tell you about many wonderful places like this that combine rustic settings with good food and good beds.

A budget-planning tip: Your American dollar is worth $1.25 in Canadian money as I write this. That difference will pay for the various Ontario and federal taxes and for your tips in a place like Irwin Inn. If the rate is $C100 a day allow $US100 to cover these costs.

Small town, big fair

Fenton, Michigan—

Fenton's Art at the Center is in its 14th year. The success of this small town's big fair is due to quality art, beautiful surroundings, lively entertainment, and easy access.

Over 100 artists come from out-of-state and all over Michigan to exhibit at this popular juried show. Painters, sculptors, potters, weavers, photographers, jewelers, glassmakers, calligraphers and woodworkers will show their art.

You can talk with the artists and choose unique art for your home.

Parking and admission are free. Refreshments are by the historic Fenton Hotel. Sunday morning the Fenton Kiwanis holds a pancake breakfast on the lawn for those who want food first and art second.

On Sunday afternoon there is the traditional Quick Draw Auction. At 1:15 watch artists create a piece in 45 minutes, then bid on your favorite amid much hilarity.

Live entertainment fills the air with music. This year there will be banjos, singing and hammer dulcimer.

It is a pleasant low-keyed way to enjoy the final summer days.

Art at the Center will be on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 28 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Fenton Community Center, 150 South LeRoy Street. For further information call: 313-629-5447.

Historic homes open doors

Muskegon, Michigan—

The Hackley & Hume Historic Site has opened its doors for the 1993 touring season. Through the month of September, the Site will be open to the public each Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 1 to 4 p.m.

The admission cost is $2 and free for children 12 and under, and includes guided tours through both the Charles H. Hackley and Thomas Hume houses.

This year's tours will include a unique opportunity to see the Hackley house as it has not been seen in decades. As the exterior restoration of the house continues, work has now begun on the home's elaborate interior. A professional paint analysis has uncovered layers of paint and canvas that once adorned the Hackley walls and ceilings.

Visitors to the Site may have the opportunity to watch as professional painters bring these masterpieces back to life.

Call 616-722-7578 for more information.

BEST OF BOTH WORLDS— The Irwin Inn offers fine food and an extensive wine list, while retaining the family cottage atmosphere.

Mackinac Island, Michigan—

The horse and buggy have always been a part of Mackinac Island's history and charm.

Horse-drawn carriages are as much a part of the Island as the Grand Hotel and fudge but there's about to be a new twist on the old theme.

First, some background.

The Grand Hotel is adding an additional nine-hole course to its existing layout. The new Woods nine will debut in the spring of 1994, joining the existing Grand nine. Together they'll be known as the Jewel.

Dan Musser Jr. and his wife, Amelia, have owned Mackinac Island's famous Grand Hotel since 1979.

The family-owned and operated Grand Hotel - son Dan III is president - is the world's largest summer hotel. The 319-room facility was built in 1887. No motor vehicles are permitted on Mackinac Island. Remember, the Grand Hotel is part of a bygone era.

It was recently named one of the top 10 summer retreats in America by Travel & Leisure magazine and was a featured destination in this year's Sports Illustrated's swimsuit edition.

A few years after they purchased the Grand Hotel, the Mussers decided on touching up the existing nine-hole golf course. Being a successful resort/vacation operator in Northern Michigan these days means having a top flight golf course to offer your guests.

The next step was to select an architect for the renovation project.

"We got some advice on the subject and ended up with Jerry Matthews," Musser says.

Matthews is Michigan's most prolific golf course designer. His works dot the state and have won numerous national honors in recent years. The most recent award winners include Elk Ridge in Atlanta, Timber Ridge in East Lansing and Michaywe's Lake course in Gaylord.

Matthews spent a couple of years in the mid-1980s reworking the little nine-hole Grand course.

He moved every tee and green and changed the fairways. Basically, he rebuilt the golf course, trading off postage stamp greens for large, undulating models. He enlarged tees and generally refined and upgraded the facility.

"The reaction (to the improvements) has been wonderful," Musser says. "Our guests couldn't believe we were doing it. Returning customers are thrilled with it, as am I."

Down the road at Stonecliffe, the former proprietors also hired Matthews to build a golf course. The course was designed and the land cleared some six years ago before the project went broke.

The Mussers got the property and what there was to the golf course out of bankruptcy. The location is about 1½ miles north of the Grand Hotel. The course wraps around the runway of Mackinac Island's air strip. Two holes are on one side of the runway, seven on the other. The course is at the Mackinac Bridge end of the island.

The Woods course is due to open next spring and that's where the horse-drawn carriages will come in. The two nines of the golf course - a trip of some 12 to 14 minutes - will be connected by a most unique "motorless" golf cart.

"It'll be a horsedrawn conveyance - we just don't know the kind of carriage we will be using," Musser says. "We haven't worked out all the details like whether we'll be taking two foursomes over together or every foursome separately."

The carriages will be complete with bag racks and refreshments to make the unique trip a totally enjoyable experience.

The new Woods nine is on heavily wooded property (pines, hardwoods, aspens and cedars) with substantial elevation changes. Water comes into play on four holes in the form of nearly five acres of man-made ponds and streams.

It will feature bent grass tees, greens and fairways.

The Woods will play to par 34 and 3,005 yards.

"That's longer than our course here," Musser says. "I wish it were even longer but you deal with what land you have here on the Island."

The setting for the green on the first hole offers a spectacular view of the Mackinaw Bridge. You'll also get breathtaking vistas of the Straits of Mackinac, St. Ignace and Mackinaw City.

The Grand Hotel has also renovated an existing restaurant at the new course. It's called Woods, and is a Bavarian-style eatery offering a casual dining option to all guests.

During the winter, noted designer Carleton Varney of Dorothy Draper New York redesigned the interior with his whimsical and colorful touches. Carriage service is available to Woods from downtown and the Grand Hotel each evening.

It is open for dinner now, and will serve lunch and dinner when the course opens next year. It is also available for private functions.

"We've always lacked enough golf here," Musser says. "We're a convention hotel and need golf - that was a motivating factor. The golf explosion in northern Michigan is pretty amazing ... there are some great courses up here."

Musser has spared no expense in making his two nine-hole courses measure up. He won't say how much that is - he only says "too much" - but the finished products will speak for themselves.

HISTORY, CHARM— The Grand Hotel's elegance reflects a bygone era. Each room is rich in its unique character.

WHAT A WELCOME!— Hole number one at Elk Ridge shows off the hardwoods, wetlands and slopes that typify the course.

Golfers pig out!

Atlanta, Michigan—

A couple of things tell you all you need to know about Elk Ridge Golf Course.

It's located in Atlanta, a small community nestled about 30 minutes east of Gaylord. There's not much in the way of traffic and no cities of any significant size are nearby from which to attract golfers. So local play is virtually nonexistent.

"We rely pretty much on the vacation traveler," says Scott Landane, Elk Ridge's director of golf. "We're way out here and with no lodging facilities, either. For the numbers of rounds we're putting through, it tells you that the course is quite an attraction."

For good reason.

Now in its second full summer of operation, Elk Ridge made an immediate impact on Northern Michigan's golfscape when it was rated by Golf Digest as the second best new public course in the country in 1991.

The Jerry Matthews-designed course stretches out to nearly 7,100 yards and has so many natural delights it's hard to experience them all the first time ... or the second ... or the third.

Elk Ridge is owned by Lou and Mary Schmidt of Troy, Michigan-based Honey Baked Hams. The Schmidts purchased 2,700 acres of wilderness surrounding Valentine Lake. Lou and architect Matthews collaborated on the design, and they missed very few elements. The golf course sits on about 450 acres.

The property is a mixture of hardwoods, steep slopes, sprawling wetlands and trout streams. Toss in a blue heron or two gliding across the lake, deer and other wildlife. It's an ideal setting.

Scott and Karen Landane - she's Lou and Mary's daughter - run the place. Karen handles the managing/administrative duties.

"The course is probably in the best shape it's been," Scott says. "The reaction has been great. It's a fun course to play. It's very playable. It's tight, tree-lined all the way. People come in looking like they've been in a tornado but they love it and can't wait to go back out for more."

Landane's favorite hole is No. 16, a dogleg left from an elevated tee over a duck marsh. The tee shot must carry 180 yards to a fairway that rolls left. The hole measures 381 yards from the back tees.

And there's the Pig Hole, the 184-yard par 3 10th. The bunkering around the green is shaped like a pig, in honor of Honey Baked Hams.

"It's caught on," Landane says. "Funny, when we first opened, people would stand on the deck by the clubhouse looking down and not recognize it. Now they go out of their way, even non-golfers, to come over and take a look at it. It's a good conversation piece."

Yes, Honey Baked Ham sandwiches are available in the bar and grill, which serves breakfast and lunch.

Officials from the United States Golf Association visited Elk Ridge a few weeks back and came away very impressed, according to Landane.

"They were impressed with the greens," he says. "We started a regimented top-dressing program that's really helped."

The foray into golf has been such a positive experience for Lou Schmidt that he's gearing up to do another on the property. He's already talking to course designers.

The best way to get to Elk Ridge from the Detroit metropolitan area is I-75 north to the downtown Gaylord exit, M-32 east. The course is five miles north of Atlanta on M-33. For more information and tee times, call 1-800-626-4355.

Overnight golf packages are available at Thunder Bay Resort, about a 25-minute drive. For package information, call 1-800-729-9375.

NW Michigan offers golf options galore

Visit America's Summer Golf Capital in Northwest Michigan for all-inclusive packages at eight resorts and 17 golf courses, plus vacation attractions throughout the region.

This booming area offers unmatched vacation and golf options -- with resorts, golf courses and convention and visitors bureaus working together to make reservations easy and vacation possibilities endless.

The golf courses will please the serious competitor, with demanding links including Jack Nicklaus' The Bear at Grand Traverse Resort, Robert Trent Jones' Heather at Boyne Highlands or Arnold Palmer's The Legend at Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain Resort. These courses are challenging but not intimidating for even the higher-handicap players. And experts will find that courses such as Spruce at McGuire's Resort Center or Crystal Mountain's Resort Course commands attention.

What makes this region's courses different, however, is the abundance of water -- on the course and in golfer's views from each course.

Golfers at A-Ga-Ming Golf Club are left in awe from the spectacular sight of the famous Torch Lake, which National Geographic called one of the most beautiful inland lakes in the world. Wilderness Valley's Black Forest course is alive with surrounding wetlands and wildlife, with white-tailed deer often bounding across the fairways.

Each resort, with its different style and decor, has accommodations ranging from luxurious suites to economical family lodging. There is a price range available for everyone -- with even the lower-priced lodging offering plenty of amenities.

All of these resorts and golf courses are within an hour's drive of each other. They're set in a region with plenty to do in addition to golfing, such as shopping in one-of-a-kind stores and boutiques, viewing the renovated or restored Victorian homes, swimming at the nearby beaches, boating in the numerous inland lakes or Lake Michigan or dining in fine restaurants.

Following is a short description of each golf course and resort, with a following listing of convention and visitors bureaus in America's Summer Golf Capital.

Package prices and green fees are included where applicable. Reservation and tee times for all properties can be made by calling 1-800-937-7272.

A-Ga-Ming Golf Club has beautiful views of Torch Lake from its high bluffs. It features a challenging layout with guarded greens and tight fairways. Course improvements include a new 420-yard par-4 hole, and a 519-yard par-5 hole, both on the front nine. Rates are $39 per 18 holes and $30 after 3:30 p.m.

Antrim Dells Golf Club is known as a tough but fair course. Rates are $40 per round with cart every day. Twilight golf is available after 3 p.m. for $30 a round.

Boyne USA Resorts: Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands have five world-class courses between them. Both resorts are full-service -- with amenities including health clubs, the Country Club of Boyne, tennis, hiking and biking trails and swimming pools. Both the Highlands and Mountain were lauded by national golf publications last year for excellent courses and resort facilities. Heather and the Donald Ross Memorial were ranked among America's 75 Best Resort Courses by Golf Digest, and Boyne Highlands was awarded a Golf Magazine Silver Medal for excellence as a golf resort. Boyne's stay-and-play package starts at $115 per person, per day based on double occupancy. It includes a night of lodging, breakfast and dinner and an 18-hole round on any Boyne course: Heather, Moor, The Donald Ross Memorial, The Monument or Alpine.

Crystal Mountain Resort in Thompsonville offers 27 holes of golf with three nine-hole layouts that can be mixed-and-matched to create three distinctive 18-hole courses. Families can take advantage of three children's programs, tennis, mountain biking, hiking trails, a fitness center and indoor and outdoor pools. A variety of accommodations includes motel rooms, condos and vacation homes. Packages include a midweek unlimited golf, lodging, dinner and breakfast deal for $85 to $105 per person, per night. Weekend packages include unlimited golf, accommodations and two meals for $105-$119 per person, per night.

Grand Traverse Resort in Acme has two courses, including Jack Nicklaus' The Bear -- recently named one of America's best golf courses by *GOLF*WEEK -- and William Newcomb's Spruce Run. Grand Traverse is known for its 17-story glass tower, with rooms that overlook Grand Traverse Bay. The resort also offers many exclusive shops and boutiques and several restaurants and lounges. Golf packages start at $265 per person, double-occupancy, for two nights of lodging, 36 holes on Spruce Run, a half-hour lesson and access to the resort's expansive health club. For the 13th year, Grand Traverse is hosting the Michigan Open Golf Championship on The Bear, and again is running the John Jacobs' Practical Golf Schools.

High Pointe Golf Club in Williamsburg is a Tom Doak-design that has earned top recognition from Golf Digest and Golf Magazine. Green fees are $39 with cart and $49 on summer weekends. Twilight rates are $29 and walking is allowed.

McGuire's Resort Center in Cadillac is an all-around destination perfect for couples and families. It has two courses: The 18-hole Spruce and the nine-hole Norway. McGuire's weekend package is $179 per person, including two nights lodging, two breakfasts, one dinner and two rounds of golf.

Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain Resort in Bellaire boasts three courses and more than 600 rooms in hotels, deluxe condos and lodges. The Legend course, designed by Arnold Palmer, has been a mainstay of great Northwest Michigan golf. Golf Digest recently named The Legend one of America's 75 Best Resort Courses and number one in the Midwest. The resort also has tennis, swimming, restaurants, shops, a health club and bike paths. The resort offers the popular Golf Advantage School, patterned after and sponsored by Pinehurst Resort and Country Club. The Spring Free Recreation Package is $59 per person, per day. It includes one night of lodging, 18 holes of golf on The Shanty Creek Resort Course or dinner, health club privileges, bike rental, tennis and breakfast.

Pure Scottish golf -- in Michigan

Oscoda, Michigan—

Kevin Aldridge went to Scotland before the start of construction of Lakewood Shores Resort's Gales course in Oscoda armed with his dad's photographs.

His father, Stan, has been to Scotland on countless occasions to visit the great courses and each time he returned with more pictures. Kevin, 27, used those to form his images.

"Dad's been there a million times and has taken all kinds of pictures," Kevin says. "They didn't do the courses justice. I had all my drawings with me. The minute I got there, the drawings pretty much went out the window. I started all over."

The product of Kevin's efforts was the Gales course, an overwhelming success in recreating Scottish-style golf in the United States.

The Gales, the second of two 18-hole championship courses at Lakewood Shores with a third on the way, is a runaway best-seller. Soon after its debut, the prestigious Golf Magazine tabbed it one of the top 10 best new courses in the country.

Kevin, a graduate of Michigan

State with a degree in finance, has done the construction on 18 courses around the country through his father's SA Golf construction company. The first course he worked on was the New Course at Indianwood Golf and Country Club in 1986. But it'll be a while before anything tops the experience with the Gales.

"I'll tell you what, it's the most fun course I've ever built," Kevin says. "Every night I would go home and think about it and next day go and do it. It was pretty much off the cuff."

The Gales was a hit among golfers and critics from the moment it opened in 1992.

"The reaction keeps getting better and better," says Craig Peters, general manager/golf professional at Lakewood Shores. "The comments are even better this year than last."

"We've had a number of people who have been over to Scotland and their comment is that this is exactly it. That's nice to hear because that was our intention, to recreate the look."

The Gales has 132 bunkers, rumpled fairways, double greens and shared fairways, all characteristics of Scottish links courses. The sod-faced bunkers are entirely foreign this side of the pond.

"It's so different," Peters says. "People are just not used to seeing this kind of look, there's nothing to compare it to in Michigan."

LINKS COURSE— The Gales features double greens, sod bunkers and long fescue grass for a wee bit of Scotland.

"That's what is so intriguing. Golfers watch the British Open on television and wonder what it really looks like. Watch the British Open and you see them putting from 20 feet off the green. You can do that here."

Holes No. 8 and 13 share a common fairway that stretches at least 200 yards in width. In the middle of the eighth fairway sits 8 to 10 bunkers, many of them not visible from the tee on the 580-yard hole.

The Gales is unforgettable, literally. Many who have played the course only once can remember every hole. There's a message in that.

"I don't think there's a weak hole out there, every hole has character," Peters says. "That's the sign of a great course. You don't forget the holes."

Unlike many new resort courses, the Gales allows golfers to walk. Weekday greens fees are $45 (plus $10 for cart). It's $50 on weekends (plus $10 for a cart). For tee times and information, call 1-800-882-2493.

"It's doing unbelievably well," says Papa Stan Aldridge. "People are raving about it. There's a lot of excitement. It's so different - that's the biggest thing that everybody says."

The Gales isn't an easy golf course but it is eminently fair. Good shots are rewarded, poor shots are penalized.

"The thing I get out of it is a tremendous amount of pride because Kevin designed the course," Stan says. "Bob Cupp did the routing, Kevin did the design."

"We were building six golf courses at the time when we started the Gales so I had nobody available to help Kevin, didn't have shapers, nobody. He took a crew of 30 or 40 guys, none of whom had ever built a golf course before, and built the course in 5 1/2 months. He designed and built it, from top to bottom. The irrigation was done by a rookie crew."

"And then to have it turn out like that, he earn the raves of Golf Magazine ... I've been to Scotland I don't know how many times. I've walked St. Andrews, never played it but I know every bump on that course. When I'm up at the Gales I'm in Scotland. It's so neat, I just can't describe it."

Canterbury tale: Music, mirth, munchies

Lake Orion, Michigan—

A new age with a distinctly "olde" feel to it is about to dawn in a little village north of Pontiac.

Olde World Canterbury Village, scheduled to open Sept. 9, will be many things to many people.

The central theme of owner/developer Stan Aldridge's latest venture is Christmas but it doesn't stop there. It will be a Tudor shopping village, a never-ending festival, a year-around holiday center or just a fun place to be.

Canterbury Village is located on Joslyn Road, three miles north of Interstate 75 in Orion Township. The 21-acre site features 16 buildings (and some 100,000 square feet) of unique shopping.

A cavernous restaurant will be a crowning touch to the development when the restaurant opens next year.

The year-around Always Christmas store, with its 16-foot high castle, will be a favorite, as will the toy building, flower shop and Canterbury store featuring housewares and gift items. You'll be able to buy ornaments, figurines, baskets, art and jewelry in the variety of shops.

The 20,000-square foot Always Christmas store is built on the site of a historic barn destroyed by fire. It's sure to be a highlight for Canterbury Village visitors.

Offsprings will feature children's clothing imported from Europe, all original and unique. "None of the run-of-the-mill stuff," Aldridge says.

The restaurant/banquet facility will be family-style dining with a variety of fare, including Italian cuisine and popular chicken creations.

Canterbury Village is located on the site of the former Keatington Antique Village, on the old William Scripps estate.

Aldridge, who lives in Bloomfield Hills, owns Indianwood Golf and Country Club, which is three miles north of Canterbury Village. He envisions a festive, carnival atmosphere - what Detroit Monthly magazine labeled a "Dickens-meets-Disney look to it."

The central courtyard will be highlighted by a Gazebo. Visitors will be entertained by clowns and costumed characters; music, mirth and munch. Aldridge is planning on special events, such as art fairs and holiday fairs.

"Christmas time will have its festivals," Aldridge says. "We'll have a Winter Carnival on February 1, an Easter program, then get into the spring with an art fair. Of course, you've got the Fourth of July, Oktoberfest and Halloween. There will be something going on every couple of months."

The Aldridge family - wife, Sue, and the kids - are putting it all together. That's typical. They're hands-on, get-it-done kind of people and they're all into the Canterbury Village project.

They've taken the property on the Scripps Estate - the barns, the little houses - and have restored them into boutiques, candy stores and antique mall. Only a handful of buildings are new, the rest have been preserved and rebuilt.

"I always thought it was a shame the property was treated so poorly," Aldridge says.

There will be parking for 750 cars, Aldridge estimates there are 4 million people within 45 minutes to one-hour driving time of Canterbury Village.

Originally, plans called for an opening in 1992 but concessions were made to the sluggish economy.

Sue and Stan did all the buying, and Ed Scully is a consultant and right-hand-man. One daughter, Kim, is on-site while another, Kelly, is nearby at Indianwood. Kelly is the tournament director for next summer's U.S. Women's Open which returns to Indianwood. Kim will open Offsprings, a children's clothing store.

"I have ornaments coming from Germany, pieces from Austria, France and Italy," Aldridge says. "We're buying all the unusual things we can find ... but quality things and at good prices."

Aldridge also enlists some of son Kevin's building and maintenance crew from the Lakewood Shores Resort in Oscoda, where the Aldridges own a 36-hole golf complex.

Another son, Kirk, is involved in a trading company - Diversified Trade and Marketing Inc. - in Beijing and contributes heavily to the buying for Canterbury Village.

"My wife and I go around the world to buy," Aldridge says.

The look at Canterbury Village is distinctly Aldridge. It will have jeweled ornaments from Europe, goblets and art glass from Italy. The restaurant will be another trademark with its Tudor steeples and exposed woodwork.

"What it is is a castle, with eight towers," he says. "You know how I am at Indianwood, with a lot of oak paneling, leaded glass windows. Big staircases, huge fireplace. All the rooms will be oak paneled. It takes some time to build and should be roughed in by fall."

"People will recognize the quality and certainly the design - it carries the theme through."

Friday and Saturday nights will be teaming with festivities, quartets, entertainers, carriage rides, fruit carts, fudge and ice cream stores - you name it.

"It'll be absolutely fantastic on summer evenings," Aldridge says. "It's all here."

YEAR-ROUND HOLIDAY— The Always Christmas store at Canterbury Village will feature a 16-foot high castle to delight children of all ages.

Mackinaw City, Michigan—

Mackinac State Historic Parks has announced the completion of a unique underground archaeological exhibit, Treasures From the Sand at Colonial Michilimackinac in Mackinaw City—a reconstructed 18th century fur trading village and the site of the nation's longest on-going archaeological dig.

Treasures From the Sand: Archaeology at Michilimackinac reveals how three decades of archaeological research has illuminated a colorful period of Michigan history. Over 2 million artifacts have been unearthed, analyzed and conserved from this historic site.

"Archaeology has been a part of our research work since 1959 and has been the basis for our reconstruction of Michilimackinac," explains Carl R.

Nold, director of Mackinac State Historic Parks. "This exhibit allows visitors to understand the process of archaeology, and to see how the exciting results contribute to our understanding of what happened at Michilimackinac long ago."

Visitors enter Treasures From the Sand through the reconstructed British Trader's House in the northwest corner of Colonial Michilimackinac. A stairway leads to exhibits focusing on the archaeological process and explaining how artifacts are unearthed and recorded by field archaeologists.

Observers follow an artifact from initial discovery to final preservation and see for the first time hundreds of artifacts recovered from the surrounding soil. Highlights include two actual architectural remains in their original locations: an 18th century storage cellar and a French well.

An exciting feature of Treasures From the Sand is a dramatic 3-D display incorporating large scale models to illustrate how Michilimackinac's reconstructions are based on archaeological evidence found in the sand. The buildings seem to disappear to explain the archaeology process.

The Mackinac State Historic Parks archaeology program began in 1959 and remains active today. Graduate and post-graduate students from major universities gather each year to study under professional archaeologists.

Colonial Michilimackinac and Historic Mill Creek are among the few nation-wide sites where the general public can regularly watch field archaeologists at work. As they carefully sift the earth, an interpreter describes the intricate process.

For more information contact Mackinac State Historic Parks, Box 873, Mackinaw City, MI 49701-0873, (616) 436-5563.

Mackinaw City, Michigan—

The 4th annual Corvette Crossroads Auto Show is scheduled for Aug. 27 and 28. The highlight of this event is a Friday evening Parade of Cars from the Arnold Line dock on Huron Street, downtown and across the Mackinac Bridge. The lineup will begin at 7 p.m. with the parade leaving the dock at 7:30 p.m.

The ZR-1 Corvette DARE car; (Drug - Abuse - Resistance - Education) will lead the Friday night Parade across the Mackinac Bridge. It will be on display at the show on the 28th. The DARE car began through a cooperative venture with General Motors Technical Center, and was donated to support the program.

On Saturday the show begins at 10 a.m. and continues until 4 p.m. Admission is $1. The cost to show a car is $10. Peoples choice awards will be presented after the show in 10 categories, by age, stock and modified divisions.

Also on Saturday, a new event, Gymkhana, is scheduled. This will be a timed skill demonstration. Each entrant will have three opportunities to drive through the course. There will be a driver meeting and a safety inspection for all participants. Cost is $5.

On Saturday evening the fun continues with a Sunset Cruise of the Straits of Mackinac, under the "Mighty Mac" Bridge, aboard the Arnold Line with cocktails and entertainment. The cost is $8 per person, limited space is available, registration is required.

There is also the International Ironworkers Festival taking place at the high school during the weekend; an arts and craft show, Saturday and Sunday; and a performance by the Air Force Band on Saturday afternoon.

For more information and registration packages call the Mackinaw City Chamber of Commerce at 616-436-5574.

Some book sellers buck superstore trend

Dorothy Webster

When readers think of bookstores in the traditional sense, they picture a cozy place, with book-lined shelves reaching upwards, perhaps a cat snoozing somewhere, a clerk who grew up with the collection and can answer every question the reader may put, best-sellers lining the windows and maybe some ferns in a corner. And all the books discounted, of course.

You'd be hard put to find such a place today when the term "bigger and better" seems to have taken hold.

With Kmart's buyout of Tom and Louis Borders' 22-year-old bookstore chain last year, the bookstore business in Michigan changed considerably.

Owners of small bookstores, or those perhaps owning several in nearby towns, wondered what the new trend would bring to their areas - and perhaps even they were surprised.

Borders, an Ann Arbor-based chain, expanded from 21 stores at the time of the acquisition to 32 stores. They plan to open an additional 12 to 18 stores this year and 50 new stores over the next two years. And the new stores are far from the old "ideal" described earlier.

Almost all the new stores will be Borders Book and Music stores, with a minimum of 30,000 square feet of space and 100,000 book titles, 70,000 compact disc titles, a large selection of videotapes for sale, and on-site espresso cafes.

The first Michigan Borders stores to include CDs, videos and espresso, as well as books, was due to open in mid-July in Novi, when Borders was to move across Novi Road from its former location.

Another superstore will open on the site of Jacobson's in downtown Ann Arbor.

Some Michigan bookstore owners are expanding to meet the challenge, some are content to continue their current methods in select areas - but all are aware of changes in the business climate - and they're keeping up with the latest rumors while coping with those changes in their individual ways.

Bucking the trend in Tawas City, a Little Professor bookstore shares building space with a drugstore and a Hallmark card store - all in one undivided space across from Tawas Bay.

Store manager Sheryl Boger, who has headed the store for nearly five years, says, "We have a steady group of customers who buy books here all year - and we have a lot of summer people who buy more magazines and lighter reading."

Children's books, romance novels, science fiction, "they're all good sellers," with Bridges of Madison County by Robert Waller heading the adult best-seller list this summer. In the children's department, Love You Forever by Robert Munsch tops the sales figures. "It's a story of unconditional love rewarded," says Boger. "And what child doesn't need that?"

The magazine section features uncommon titles for the north country - Vegetarian Times, Taste of Home, Outside, Parabola, Cook's Illustrated, Teddy Bear and Friends, Road Bike, Buzzworm, Aquarium USA - and many customers come in once a month and stock up, Boger comments.

Of course she's heard about the new "mega stores." But she's not worried.

"I believe Barnes and Noble plan to have about 2,000 square feet of space for the children's section alone," she muses. After all, those stores are hundreds of miles away, and the Little Professor bookstore has a comfortable niche alongside Lake Huron.

Located in the Brugger Plaza, a small mini-strip mall on US-23, called Lake Street in Tawas City, the store has about 2,000 square feet devoted to books in the center of the building. No walls separate the drugstore (to the right) and Hallmark's (to the left). Customers enter right into the attractive book displays, and that helps, says Boger.

"By sharing space with the two other businesses, we have a lot of foot traffic that we might not ordinarily have - and many of them buy books."

In addition, that staple of northern summertime living - the sidewalk sale - has been good for Little Professor.

"Our June sales were great," Boger says. "And we have another big sidewalk sale set for August. We mark hardcover books way down. Everyday, we offer a 25 percent discount on New York Times best seller listing, too."

Boger says she and her staff visit area schools during the winter months to foster interest in books and reading. "We borrow Bernstein Bears costumes from the publisher and the little kids really enjoy that."

The store has a children's gift register, similar to those for brides, that helps their adult relatives and other youngsters choose books as gifts for them.

All in all, it's innovative marketing and daring location that makes this small store work - and friendly staff helps, too.

Downstate, in Flint, an individually-owned bookstore, Young and Welshan's on Miller Road, has met the challenge another way - they've taken over an adjacent store and expanded an additional 3,000 square feet. The interior has been opened up and a customer, coming in for the first time, wouldn't realize that it hadn't always been that way. So often, remodeling is obvious.

Young and Welshan's carries approximately 55,000 titles, says Hilda McShane, promotion director. It's an eclectic mix, with Native American works, gardening and nature, mystery and crime, sharing space with best-sellers, biography, children's books, art and photography, travel and self-help volumes.

This is, in my opinion, simply the best bookstore Michigan has to offer.

Not only does Young and Welshan's have a knowledgeable staff and books that suit my catholic reading tastes, it carries an impressive selection of out-of-town and out-of-state newspapers - including the New York Times Sunday edition, and it's there first thing Sunday morning.

Tangibly, this bookstore has everything one expects from a fine urban bookstore.

Intangibly, there's more. It's an atmosphere that's hard to describe. If I were younger, and this were still the Sixties, I'd simply say the place had "good vibes". The airy, but not-too-high ceiling contributes to the atmosphere, so does the soft carpet underfoot, the muted colors and natural woods, comfortable benches and chairs, the arrangement of shelving and displays. One simply feels at home here - and very welcome.

Near the cash registers there is a photo gallery of the staff's pets - neatly labeled snapshots of cats Tasha, Samantha and Psycho, and dogs Max, Elliot and Cubby. A few steady customers have brought in photographs of their pets to be added to the gallery, and they're alongside the others. Perhaps that gracious gesture says more about this bookstore than anything else.

In the autumn, Young and Welshan's adds a dizzying array of calendars to their stock - well displayed and arranged so one can browse easily. And there are offbeat greeting cards as well.

The staff will special order books for you, mail them to your home or to a gift recipient, and will helpfully suggest just the "right" book for a hard to buy for person.

Even with mega stores coming, Young and Welshan's will be hard to surpass for sheer ambiance, depth of their collection, friendliness, and atmosphere.

In Traverse City, Horizon Books has met the challenge head-on. They've purchased a several-story high building downtown that formerly housed JC Penney's and opened in May amid wet paint and enthusiasm.

Early morning customers appreciate the front window coffee bar that opens at 7 a.m., taking advantage of early going-to-work traffic. The store itself opens at 8 a.m. and stays open until 10 p.m.

Amy Reynolds, manager of the new store and wife of the owner, Victor Herman, explains that there are actually four stores in the Horizon Books chain. Besides the Traverse City location, there are stores in Cadillac, Petoskey, and Beulah. While the Beulah store is owned by someone else, it retains the Horizon Books affiliation.

"We have plenty of room to expand here," Reynolds comments, noting the soon-to-be occupied mezzanine, and several stories above that, as yet unfinished.

"There are approximately 30-40,000 titles on the shelves now and we'll increase that by 50 percent by September," she adds.

On the Traverse Bay side of the building, two large windows flank a fireplace, creating a cozy space for prolonged browsing, even in the winter months. All display shelving is within easy viewing height, not too tall, and the natural woods used throughout the space add a contemporary feel. Soft classical music plays in the background, but isn't intrusive.

Broad staircases lead to the mezzanine and will provide seating for planned story hours for children. "We carpeted the stairs just for that purpose," says Reynolds.

The large front display windows are used well, affording passersby a view of indoor bookshelves, display tables, and the attractive cash register-gift wrapping area.

"We charge 50 cents for gift wrapping," says Reynolds, and explains a book-buying club that customers may join. There's also a newsletter, "Book Chat" that's mailed to customers, detailing the latest releases and providing succinct reviews.

Near the coffee bar, magazine racks display a wide variety of titles - handy for purchasing to read while drinking one of several beverages offered.

Downtown Traverse City's streets are attractively bricked, with plenty of lighting and pedestrian crossing areas. Directly behind the Horizon Books building, Traverse Bay beckons, and tourists will find parking on the nearby streets as well as directly in front of the store.

Horizon Books stocks a broad spectrum of material, ranging from Jim Harrison paperbacks and hardcover books (including his Just Before Dark) to Farley Mowat's The Dog Who Wouldn't Be and The Boat Who Wouldn't Float, two of the funniest books I've ever read, and regularly purchase to give to hospital bound friends. There's also a good collection of Sigurd Olson books, including "The Singing Wilderness", a classic of nature appreciation writing.

A section of books on tape rounds out the extensive offerings included in this splendid bookstore.

That traditional bookstore fixture, a snoozing cat, hasn't been forgotten. But, like the bookstore itself, it has met that challenge with a twist: since some of the staff have allergies that prevent a live animal gracing the premises, there's a non-allergenic Avanti model. It's an orange tabby, curled up as if asleep, and it probably fools some customers.

Its name, appropriately, is "Mehitabel" named for Don Marquis' unforgettable character in Archy and Mehitabel.

It's the perfect touch for what promises to be a popular downtown spot.

Dorothy Webster, a former newspaper and magazine publisher, lives in northern lower Michigan. An artist and photographer, she records out-of-the-way buildings and scenes.

Talented fingers highlight Thumb fest

Huron City, Michigan—

Listening to Bess Bonnier's sparkling piano jazz is a joyful experience. Visiting Huron City Museums, a restored pioneer lumbering town with its inn, general store, church, homes and other buildings is a trip back in time.

These two seemingly unrelated facts will come together on Saturday, July 31 when Bess Bonnier with bassist Paul Keller, will present "Jazz and the Classics," a Museum Red Letter Day Concert, at the mid-19th century church on the main street of Huron City, the museum town at the tip of Michigan's thumb.

Huron City is located mid-way between Port Hope and Port Austin at the junction of M-25 and Huron City Road. The town flourished in the 1880s and its life-style has been meticulously restored. Its forward looking citizens would have approved of this concert, which will bring together the best of the classical music they loved and the subsequent exuberance of ragtime and jazz.

For Huron County residents and for those who enjoy summer homes at the nearby resorts, this will be a local event. For Detroit metropolitan area residents this benefit-for-the-museum-restoration-fund concert will be only a two and one-half hour drive away.

A gala dinner to honor Bonnier and Keller will take place at 5:30 p.m. on the grounds of Seven Gables, the Victorian mansion just down the street from the church and will precede the 8 p.m. concert. During dinner, a showing of original fashions dating from 1880 to 1925 will be presented by the M. J. Peters Models. Tours of the museum buildings will be available between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on concert day.

Sponsor, Patron and Benefactor tickets include a guided museum tour, dinner and reserved concert seats and are $50, $100, and $500 respectively. Tickets for the concert only are $10 each. Ticket costs are tax deductible. For information call the museum at 517-428-4123 or in Detroit call 313-961-2332.

Bess Bonnier, well known to Michigan audiences, is enthusiastic about this concert. She loves, she says, the concept of preserving history, as Huron City does it, in our "throw-away" society.

To combine the music of the past with the tempo of the present is a challenge which she meets wonderfully. Her original version of Chopin's "Harp Etude" combined with Jerome Kern's "All The Things You

HOUSE OF SEVEN GABLES— Built in the 1880s by a Thumb lumber tycoon, this country house called "Seven Gables" is part of the Huron City Museum complex.

Are" is an example. "A concert like this is like a piece of sculpture," she says, "It has texture, movement and grace, form and weight."

"In creating or performing music you have to trust yourself and use your senses," she says. Bonnier will announce and talk about each of the selections, thus adding a touch of her own animated personality. This will also be evident when she plays her own composition "Dorian" written for her daughter. Her ability is great and her personal appeal equally so. Her enormous talent and her vast love for people create a dynamic combination to which her audiences invariably respond with enthusiasm.

Bess Bonnier is one of our national musical treasures. Among her many honors are the Citizens for the Arts Governor's Award in 1990 and the Arts Foundation of Michigan Award in 1986.

HIGHLIGHTS

Veteran broadcaster Tom Brokaw examines the bleak outlook for employment-minded high school graduates in "The Lost Generation," on "The Brokaw Report" airing Wednesday, July 28, on NBC. Today, fresh-faced graduates hoping to join the work force have few prospects other than "McJobs," low-paying, unskilled positions that offer little chance of advancement. Brokaw looks at programs springing up to help these youths, including one whose enrollees were near-suicidal one year ago.

It's always fair weather with Willard Scott

By Steven Alan McGaw

A letter once passed through the busy New York City postal system addressed simply to "Portly, Sunny Weatherman, NBC, New York."

Not surprisingly, it found its way to the crowded mailbag of NBC's Willard Scott, a staple of the network's "Today Show." With all due credit to the mail handlers involved, it could scarcely have been intended for anyone else.

Since March 1980, when he made his "Today" debut, Scott has been one of television's most popular - and colorful - broadcasters, a mix of canny showmanship and unabashedly corny bonhomie. Whether engaged in a folksy rumination about rain in the Northeast, or saluting a grateful Georgian's 100th birthday, Scott provides a respite from the polished, even self-important style of most TV news staffers.

That Scott musters his genial, ebullient delivery so early in the morning is testimony to both his energy and his professionalism. "Oh, I usually lay around in bed until 3:30 or so," he laughs, describing his morning regimen. "I told somebody last week-and I wasn't trying to be funny-that I loved being on vacation

'cause I could sleep 'til 6:30 or 7.

And as for the other residents of the Scott household? "It's just my wife and I now," he explains, "and she doesn't care what I do. Hell, one time she made up the bed with me it it."

One presumes Scott is in no such danger when staying in a hotel on one of his many road trips, doing his "Today" segments from various fairs, festivals, fund-raisers and parades around the nation. Despite the rigors of travel, Scott describes the remotes as "kind of my trademark...I love it."

Scott says the rewards of the road trips are multiple. "No. 1, of course, I'm a ham," he admits. "I just come alive when I'm with people. There are also practical, business spinoffs. People want to hire you a week later to make a speech, or someone in an ad agency sees you and says, 'Hey, that guy's okay, he's working with a cow, or with kids.'"

In his speaking engagements, titled "The Joy of Living," Scott opens with anecdotes from his years in broadcasting as well as other humorous topics.

"I usually take a hairpiece with me that I use as a prop," he says, "and then I look for some baldheaded guy in the audience to kid around with. And hope he doesn't sue me."

The second part of Scott's speech is a bit more serious, turning to the thing he describes as "the second great love of my life, which started just as a fluke." He's referring to his trademark birthday salutes to centenarians and his feelings in general for the treatment and respect accorded the elderly.

"I've been saying for several years," says Scott, "that we need to get older people and younger people together and have a dialogue. There's a lot of ills in our society that come, I think, from people not knowing or spending time with their grandparents. It teaches you respect...and older people have a lot to offer, a great deal of wisdom."

The author of four books (including a best-selling recipe collection), Scott has gained a lot of his own wisdom through a lifetime in radio and television. He became infatuated with broadcasting after wandering into a Washington radio station at age 8 and watching none other than Eric Sevareid read the news.

"I never forgot that," Scott recalls. A make-believe station in his parents' basement led to the real thing by the time he was a teenager, working with a souped-up system he ordered through the mail from St. Louis. His partner was one David Sharp, and the call letters of their fledgling enterprise were WSSD.

"We were broadcasting one Saturday morning," Scott remembers with a laugh, "and some guys from the FCC came to my house and shut us down. They said we were coming in over the Pan Am frequency as flights came in at the airport. I'm lucky I didn't go to jail."

Weekday mornings, veteran broadcaster Willard Scott serves up weather forecasts, folksy humor and his trademark 100th birthday salutations on NBC's "Today Show." Scott says he caught the broadcasting bug at the age of 8.

STAR NOTES

Udy enjoys playing shady character

BY SCOTT WHITE

When asked what research she has invested in her characterization of Myra, an indentured prostitute on the CBS hit "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," Helene Udy laughingly responds, "Well, let's say I've assimilated that information over the years."

She goes on to explain, "I mean, I've been very interested in Westerns anyway. In terms of what it was like to be a hooker in those times, I know it was not a glamorous thing, an easy thing. Women had a hard enough time as it was, so hookers put themselves at the lowest place on the totem pole. ... It wasn't like the Renaissance; it wasn't an intellectual time. It was a time when you were just surviving if you were lucky. That just made [Myra's] profession a whole lot harder."

Raised in Montreal, Udy has directed several noted plays, including "Out in America," which earned her a Dramalogue Award.

HIGHLIGHTS

"Nature" host George Page visits one of the most cuddly of Australia's indigenous species, the koala, in "The Nature of Australia: A Portrait of the Island Continent," repeating this week on PBS. The six-hour series, airing Monday through Wednesday, July 26-28, examines the continent's development from its geographic split with South America and Antarctica 50 million years ago to its current status as a highly urbanized agricultural power. Also featured is a look at Australia's diverse wildlife and weather extremes.

SOAP WORLD

Colleen Dion works soaps coast to coast

BY CANDACE HAVENS

She's bold and beautiful, and she is on "Another World." Colleen Dion has been through some big changes this year with her move from the West Coast and a job on the daytime serial "The Bold and the Beautiful" to the East Coast and a job on "AW." The move was made possible when "B&B" took her off contract status and her character became a recurring role. Not one to sit around and see what happens, Dion landed a contract role as architect Brett Gardner on "AW" after only one week of looking for a new job. She and her husband, Steve, were ready for a change, and moving to New York City seemed like a good idea.

"Things still haven't settled down," says the actress. "The job is great, but Steven and I are looking for a bigger place to live. We looked upstate a little bit, but it is just more convenient to live in the city."

Colleen grew up in Chicago and upstate New York, and she was prepared for the cold weather when the couple arrived in December, but her husband wasn't. "I told him that it hardly ever snows in the city, and then we get here and it is the worst winter they had in years. I'm never going to live that one down."

The weather wasn't the only thing that was different when Dion arrived in New York; she also had an increased workload. "I was doing a half-hour show in Los Angeles, and 'AW' is an hour long. The first day I went to work, I had 20 pages of dialogue to learn, and I flipped. It has gotten easier with time, but I was scared to death at first."

"AW" is Dion's fifth soap opera. She was Evie Stone on "Search for Tomorrow," Cecilia on "Loving," Felicia on "B&B," and she also appeared on "Santa Barbara." Many of her fans have followed her to the different soaps, and Dion feels lucky to have one faithful fan in particular — her mom. "My mom is my biggest fan and my best friend. She watches the show every day." What would fans be surprised to know about her? "That I am boring," Dion replies. "I love to stay at home and watch TV, and just hang out with my husband."

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

More Elvis on the way; TNT tallies votes for favorite films

Raycom, a sports and entertainment company based in Charlotte, N.C., has announced a five-year contract with the estate of singer Elvis Presley. The arrangement calls for a series of syndicated television specials co-produced by Raycom and the estate, culminating in a 1997 spectacular commemorating the 20th anniversary of Presley's death on Aug. 16, 1977. The first two offerings air this summer in a two-week window beginning Aug. 7. Lisa Hartman-Black and Mac Davis serve as co-hosts and narrators for both programs. "America Comes to Graceland" offers a tour of the singer's opulent Memphis home, as well as interviews with celebrities such as Elton John, George Harrison and Travis Tritt on the influence of Presley's music. "Elvis: His Life and Times" is billed as the "definitive Elvis biography," featuring candid comments from members of the singer's family and inner circle of friends, as well as never-before-seen footage of Presley at work and at play.

Attention, film fans. There are two weeks left to cast votes in TNT's "America's Favorite Movie Poll." As a feature of its summer movie showcase, the cable network is operating a phone number (1-900-786-4TNT) for viewers to call and name their favorite films. The remaining opportunities to phone in are Thursday, July 29, when

Jason Alexander introduces 1963's "Jason and the Argonauts," and Wednesday, Aug. 11, with Martin Scorsese serving as host for an airing of David Lean's "Lawrence of Arabia." The results of the poll will be announced in the series' last installment on Thursday, Sept. 16, when Whoopi Goldberg fronts George Cukor's "A Star is Born." Proceeds from the poll

'Article 99' entertaining,

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Imagine "M*A*S*H" rewritten and co-directed by Billy Wilder, Frank Capra and a TV sitcom neophyte, and the result might be something like 1992's "Article 99," a film little seen in its brief theatrical release. A blend of icy cynicism, hearty belief in the "little guy" and sometimes threadbare plot developments, Howard Deutch's film is at once entertaining, thought-provoking and maddeningly uneven.

Perhaps the problem is that "Article 99" just never decided what it wanted to be when it grew up. The film seems to meander between "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and "The Hospital," with occasional forays into the territories of Rambo-style machismo and poorly staged slapstick. It just never picks a path and sticks to it.

But some films, like some people, can be forgiven a lot just because of good intentions. "Article 99" springs from a good idea, the performances are sound, and the statements it makes, however clumsily, need to be made.

Ray Liotta ("Unlawful Entry," "Dominick and Eugene") stars as a rebellious, resourceful doctor in a Veterans Administration hospital. Frustrated with the VA's dense bureaucracy and ceaseless cost-cutting, Liotta and his confederates (John C. McGinley, Forest Whitaker, Lea Thompson) have become experts at going around the proper procedures, even if it means scheduling patients for prostate surgery when they really need a triple bypass, or shifting patients from one ward to another rather than let them be returned to the street.

Into the fray comes intern Keifer Sutherland, a young man with his eyes on lucrative private practice and totally unprepared for the grim realities of real-life medicine.

Stand-out performances come from Liotta and John Mahoney as the hospital's ruthless, politically minded director. Kathy Baker ("Picket Fences") is appealing as a rule-bound psychiatrist angered, then attracted, by Liotta's maverick behavior.

HIGHLIGHTS

During July, CBS shows kids how captioning is done by airing open-captioned episodes of "Fievel's American Tails" on Saturday mornings. Previously, a special decoder was needed to provide captioning for the hearing impaired. Now, all new television sets are required by law to include a switch that allows instant access to captioning. Captioned programs also aid those learning to read or learning English as a second language. Parents can turn the sound down on their sets to encourage children to read along.

Mainstreet wins narrow verdict from voters

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It can hardly be called a mandate, but Northville City voters narrowly agreed to put the city's full faith and credit behind its Mainstreet '93 plan.

A mere 14 percent of the city's 4,780 voters hit the city's two polling places Tuesday and approved the city's proposed $4.2 million parking expansion by a 356-307 margin. Yes votes accounted for 54 percent of the total.

The project's future still remains clouded by the state Legislature's vote last week to end property taxes as a source of school funding.

Mainstreet '93 was to receive most of its funding from tax capturing, the diversion of property tax increases from a designated Downtown Development District to projects that benefit the district. Since about half the property taxes collected in the city go to Northville Public Schools, the Legislature's move cut in half the revenue stream needed to fund the city's project.

City officials have been told by state legislators that tax capturing projects like Northville's may be exempted from the plan, or given a certain period of time to qualify for exemption. A similar exemption was included in Proposal A, the property tax reform plan rejected by Michigan voters in June.

"We have authorization," said City Manager Gary Word, "but with the financing plan we now have in place, we don't have a project, and it's primarily due to the action of the Legislature."

"Our focus has to be on convincing the Legislature to solve the problem, since they created it."

Mayor Chris Johnson added, "While we've received the backing of the voters, we still have to make sure there's a viable project and the money to go forward . . . That seemed to be the last item to put in place, and now it's not."

In any case, the hoped-for fall construction start will likely be pushed back to sometime in 1994, since state leaders are talking about a six-month timeframe to resolve the school funding dilemma left in the wake of their property tax vote.

The delay may also increase the cost of the city's project, Johnson noted, if construction costs and interest rates rise in the meantime. "If both of those costs go up even higher than the conservative figures that we planned, then the project's in jeopardy again."

Mainstreet '93 is an extension of Mainstreet '78, which financed the facelift of downtown Northville. Under Mainstreet '93, the city would rebuild its crumbling Cady Street deck, add a 140-160 space paved and lighted parking lot south of the deck and a parking structure south of MainCentre with dedicated parking for MainCentre residents.

The MainCentre deck fulfills a longstanding agreement with Singh Development Co., builders of the nearly $6 million mixed-use development.

Heavy rains Sunday kept the crowds sparse during the early afternoon hours of the 17th annual Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival in Ford Field. The weather cleared up later, however, and attendance improved. Below, folk singer Ann Hills was one of the performers who participated in the benefit for Huntington's research.

Rain didn't dampen spirits at music fest

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Not even thunderstorms could deter a hard-core cadre of bluegrass fans from the start of this year's 17th Annual Folk & Bluegrass Festival.

The rain may have limited the audience but it did nothing to dispel the enthusiasm of those who showed or the performers they heard.

Festival organizer Tom Rice said several fans were already sitting in front of the main stage on Ford Field when the heavens first parted Sunday afternoon.

"We got a major downpour just as we were ready to start," he said. "There were about 20 people sitting in front of the stage, the same 20 people who show up every year . . . We sat there and kind of laughed it off. What can you do?"

"They were just sitting there with their little umbrellas and having a great time."

The storm pushed the performances back about 45 minutes but the show went on. Kicked off by an a cappella version of the national anthem by the three-man group Backbeat and a one-hour set by the bluegrass band Division Street. The rain stopped shortly after it started and the sun broke through about 4:30 p.m.

Joel Mabus took the stage after Division Street "and blew everybody away like I knew he would," Rice said. "He owns the guitar." One of Mabus' biggest crowd pleasers was Sunday's rendition of his song Duct Tape Blues.

Township firm seeks tax break to move to city

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council has scheduled an Aug. 2 public hearing to consider establishing a plant rehabilitation district for R & D Enterprises.

Establishing a district would be a first step toward granting the light industrial firm a property tax abatement. R & D president Rick Cox has said his firm needs the abatement to move from its current Northville Township location to the vacant Ford Valve Plant at 235 E. Main.

The firm already has been offered abatements by several other municipalities, he said.

Council members agreed July 19 to proceed with the tax abatement process, but not without some reservations.

"If a tax abatement is given, then I think there might be some room for some written agreement that if they should move out, the balance of that abatement would be paid back to the city," said Council Member Paul Folino.

"That's a very good point, and one I've already raised with R & D Enterprises," said Mayor Chris Johnson. "They've indicated that they'd be willing to consider such an agreement."

Northville City officials pledged to work with R & D to woo the firm to the long-vacant plant during a special June 30 work session on the firm's proposal. Council members also received comments from residents happy to see a new firm willing to move into the plant but wary of its potential traffic and noise impact on surrounding residential areas and its request for property tax relief.

R & D Enterprises, a leading manufacturer of heat exchangers for the marine industry, is moving its 28-member firm from cramped quarters at 19430 Griswold Avenue to increase manufacturing capacity and

Twp. manager moves to dissolve staff contracts

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Manager Bill Richards expected staffers to be angry Wednesday at his proposal to scrap all of their employment contracts.

But instead of lynching the messenger the majority of the township's non-bargaining employees welcomed the idea of dissolving their contracts and starting anew.

Richards and Township Supervisor Karen Baja met with the affected department heads and inspectors in two separate meetings to break the news that their contracts were being severed. Richards assured employees that they weren't losing their jobs, just their contracts.

"It was surprising to me that people had been expressing an outcome closer to what Karen and I were proposing," Richards said Monday. "The majority of them actually preferred it. They said they had been lobbying for something similar to what was being proposed."

Richards was relieved that township employees were willing to voluntarily sign consent forms to release the township from their contracts. The manager said he was surprised at the staff's acceptance of the plan.

In both meetings on Wednesday, he said there wasn't anybody who voiced opposition but there was at least one employee who said nothing or showed no expression. Richards didn't know if the employee's silence was indicative of support or opposition, but nonetheless he said the majority favored the plan.

The manager said he first broke the news to the four department heads who have contracts without expiration dates. Of those four — Chief of Police Chip Snider, Fire Chief Rick Rosselle, Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise, and Chief Building Official Michael Kruszewski — the majority of them expressed support for the idea. Board stalls its decision on pay-to-play

Staff Writer

Don't expect the Northville Board of Education to make any decisions regarding its pay-to-play co-curricular and athletic program anytime soon.

The board had hoped to announce whether or not it could afford to do away with the pay-to-participate program at its Aug. 9 meeting. However, since school officials have recently learned that it may be October before the Legislature approves the provisions in the State School Aid Act, the board is hesitant to settling firm budget priorities.

The recall of 16.7 teachers, plus additional teaching staff, as well as a portion of the strategic plan were approved in June as priorities for the 1993-94 school year.

The only action the district is willing to take is to not assess any pay-to-play fees at this time. At its last meeting earlier this month, the board agreed to proceed with the athletic and co-curricular programs so their respective seasons could continue on schedule.

But the action doesn't mean that the pay-to-participate program is entirely out of the picture.

"Should the state aid act and other pending legislation be unfavorable to our district, the pay-for-participation program will be continued for the Board to review fees for building use

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Fee structures for the use of Northville school buildings will be reviewed by members of the Northville Board of Education facility subcommittee next Tuesday.

The subcommittee will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board conference room on the third floor of the administration building.

"The major issue we have here is that there has been a severe reduction in the custodial force — 25 percent" while usage of buildings has increased, said assistant superintendent of administrative services David Bolitho.

Last year the district revised its policy and implemented a fee structure based on actual costs i.e. maintenance, custodial and utility costs per hour.

Bolitho said the district actually needs a part-time secretary to process the building requests, and should have included the costs in the building fees.

The assistant superintendent said he felt the board should review the policy for other reasons, too.

"If Plymouth-Canton doesn't pass its millage, it's going to close the doors at 4 p.m. There will be no activities," he said. "I see those (Plymouth) community groups coming to us for a potential place to meet."

"If I can't clean and maintain the buildings now, even though people are paying a fee, I'm continuing to provide more of a strain on the buildings, both custodial- and maintenance-wise. The board needs to review this and give us a sense of direction."

Bolitho plans to compare Northville's fee structure with those in the Farmington, Plymouth-Canton and Novi school districts.

Northville has four classifications when it comes to charging user fees. First, there's the school program, which has no charge associated with it. This includes athletics and co-curricular activities.

Groups falling into the affiliated classification are also not required to pay to use a building. Affiliated groups include PTAs, Mother's Club, boosters, senior citizens, youth assistance — anything that enhances or supports the school program.

The third classification is scouts. There is no charge for scouts to use school buildings if meetings are concluded by 6 p.m.

The only group that is required to pay for building use is the non-affiliated one. It includes the recreation department, churches, homeowner associations, weight control groups, service clubs, local sports clubs, local clubs, little league football, summer baseball, music and art groups and Civil Air Patrol.

All groups that are not required to pay a user's fee are assessed a fee if the meeting takes place beyond a custodian's regular work hours, or on Friday evenings, weekends or holidays.

For example, it would cost a non-affiliated group, meeting during normal custodial hours, $23 an hour to rent the high school auditorium in Northville. In Farmington, the cost is $400 per three-hour period for use of the high school auditorium, according to Bolitho.

In Plymouth-Canton it would cost $200 to rent the gym for a three-hour period. In Northville, it's $19.15 per hour.

"We need to revisit this $23 an hour in terms of compounding building usage, maintenance and custodial charges," Bolitho said, referring to the cost of renting the high school auditorium. "It just seems counter-productive to what we're trying to do. We want to maintain programs for our first priority, which is our educational program."

Since 1982, the operations staff has reduced its staffing levels by 50 percent. However, the department's responsibilities have increased, taking on additional environmental issues and booking over 700 building reservations per year. Last year, the custodial force was reduced by 25 percent while the maintenance department experienced a 20 percent loss in manpower.

"We need to restructure what we're doing," Bolitho said. "Last year, we went to every-other-day cleaning, except in the areas that had to be sanitized every day, being the locker room, pool and lavatories."

Bolitho said he will ask the board to restore two to three custodial positions and recall at least one of the two laid-off maintenance employees.

"If we had adequate staffing we wouldn't have to go through this," Bolitho said. "We're hopeful, anyway, that we'll be considered given the fact that building usage has increased."

Ethics board awaits township residents' inquiries

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

As chairman of the Northville Township's Ethics Board, Leonard Kierszkowski isn't sure how to interpret the silence coming from Northville residents.

He'd like to think township residents have no gripes about the way township employees and elected officials are handling their tax dollars, but judging from the number of complaint calls he received just a few months back he knows better.

Kierszkowski said before the ethics board was formed and the three-member panel established its criteria for handling and responding to complaints, he had received at least a half dozen phone calls from residents eager to file complaints.

At that time the board wasn't ready to accept any complaints, but now that township trustees have appointed three people to the board and approved the ethics board's complaint procedure, interest in the board has died.

"I think people are shying away," Kierszkowski said. "Maybe it's a good sign, maybe people have no complaints. But I had several calls before we were organized and then after news went out that all complaints had to be signed everything came to a standstill."

Kierszkowski suggested that the reason residents aren't flocking to the ethics board with hordes of complaints is because they fear their names will be tied to their complaints and become part of a public record. But that isn't the case.

Under the board's rules, all complaints must be signed, but the identity of the complainant remains exclusively in the hands of the chairperson.

Kierszkowski said he will be the only person who knows the complainant's identity even though the ethics committee will investigate the charge.

"I will be the only one who knows who the complainant is and I will be the only one to answer the complainant," he said.

The chairperson said the only exception to the guarantee of anonymity is if the complainant alleges a criminal offense. In that case the complainant will be forwarded to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office for investigation.

"All criminal offenses will go to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office," he said. "Chief (Chip) Snider won't touch it and in criminal cases the ethics board won't touch it either."

Kierszkowski said all complaints also have to be accompanied by some kind of evidence to substantiate the claim. He said even though it is the board's responsibility to investigate complaints, board members need a bit more than a hunch before embarking on a wild goose chase.

"We need complainants to submit some kind of evidence to support the complaint. We aren't into heavy investigations. We aren't the FBI and can't go running around looking for stuff."

After months of working towards developing a process, Kierszkowski said the board developed the following process and requirements for accepting and handling complaints.

- All complaints must be signed;
- All complaints will be received by the chairperson unopened;
- All complaints will go to the ethics board anonymously;
- The board will decide what action will be taken and make a recommendation to the Northville Township Board of Trustees

• The trustees have the final say in any disciplinary action;

• The chairperson of the board would then notify the complainant in writing as to the outcome of the case.

Kierszkowski said the ethics board is strictly an advisory body to the board of trustees. Trustees have the right to accept or deny the board's recommendations.

If a complaint is alleged against a trustee, Kierszkowski said the township's previously adopted code of ethics has language in it that requires the accused to step down from his or her seat until the investigation is complete. If more than one trustee is involved in the complaint then the pecking order of highest vote getter will replace the trustee in question after the board's officers have been removed.

Trustees adopted the ethics code in January and the complaint process a couple of months ago. The ethics code is applicable to all elected officials, township employees, contractors, vendors and consultants.

All complaints should be addressed to the Chairperson of the Ethics Board and mailed to Northville Township Hall, 41600 Six Mile Road, Northville, MI 48167.

Woman seeks shelter from estranged husband

A Northville Township woman took the advice of township police and moved to an area shelter after her estranged husband repeatedly threatened her over the phone on Thursday, July 22.

The woman told police her son-in-law notified her that her estranged husband who is a Northville city resident said he was going to kill her for leaving him. After that the estranged husband made several threatening calls to the woman's home begging her to come back. The man reportedly said if she didn't come back he was going to kill her.

According to the police report the man said he had a friend in a motorcycle club who would take care of her if she didn't return home. The man also made threats to the woman's parents. Township officers advised the man to stop making the calls to the woman's home. They also suggested that she obtain a court injunction and move to a shelter.

Police say the son-in-law told them his father was drunk at the time of the incident and claims the father said the woman was blowing the incident out of proportion. The woman did not wish to press charges.

DRUNK DRIVERS: Township police are seeking charges against a three-time drunk driver. The 44-year-old Farmington Hills man was stopped by police on Friday, July 23, at 3:12 a.m. at Five Mile and Haggerty. He had a blood alcohol level of .22 and a lengthy driving record with numerous operating under the influence of liquor violations. Township Police Lt. Gary Batzloff said the department intends to press charges because it was the man's third offense.

LARCENY FROM MEIJER: Three alleged shoplifters were nabbed by Meijer store detectives this week.

A 36-year-old Detroit woman will face a larceny with false pretenses charge after she wrote a check off a closed bank account for $108 in groceries. The woman cashed the check off an account that was closed by her bank in 1991. Meijer's recovered the groceries before the woman left the store. She was issued an appearance ticket for district court on August 29.

On July 25 a juvenile from Detroit was arrested after he stole a set of headphones, batteries and a dog harness from the store at 2:13 a.m. The boy will face charges for attempting to steal the $68.49 worth of merchandise in a Wayne County Juvenile court. That same day police nabbed a 27-year-old Redford man for stealing a pair of Nike shoes and a package of golf balls from the store at 4:10 p.m. He will face a larceny charge in court on August 13.

BREAKING AND ENTERING: Someone stole a jewelry box from a Northville Township home on Six Mile Road on Friday, July 23. Police say the thieves entered the home through an open kitchen window and exited with the box through the front door sometime between 9 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. Police have no leads.

SPRAY PAINT ON JUNIOR HIGH: Meads Mill Junior High School has been a target of vandals this summer. This time around vandals spray painted the school's windows, doors and brick walls sometime after 3:30 p.m. on July 21 and before 7 a.m. on July 23. Prior to the graffiti call, police had taken other reports of broken windows and doors at the school since school recessed in June.

FOUND DOGS: A township resident called police on Sunday, July 25, to complain that there were two doberman pinchers in her yard for seven hours. The dogs who were not wearing dog tags had been in the woman's yard since 2 p.m. that day. She called police at 9:45 p.m. Officers came out to her Napier Road residence to haul the dogs away.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: A Rayburn road resident told police he found the rear window of his 1985 black Ford Explorer smashed on the morning of July 26. The man says someone must have smashed the window sometime between 1 and 6 a.m.

LARCENY FROM STORE: An estimated $275 in gifts was stolen from Changing Seasons, 149 E. Main, sometime between July 14-19. The stolen items included a 14-by-18-inch pink stained glass window with flowers, a white flower pot decorated with gold trim and painted birds, and a clear glass vase with gold trim.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police charged a 23-year-old South Lyon man with driving on a suspended license July 23, after stopping him that evening for running a red light on eastbound Eight Mile at Taft. The man had six prior suspensions on his license for failing to comply with four court judgments and failing to appear in court twice. He was arrested and released on a $100 bond.

CAR, BIKE FENDERS BENT: City police responded to four traffic accidents last week, two involving bicyclists. An 88-year-old Northville woman was charged with careless driving July 23 after her car accelerated rapidly while westbound on Main near Cady and she lost control. The car left the roadway, hopped a curb on the north side of the road and struck a fire hydrant and Michigan Bell telephone box before coming to a stop. Damage to the car was minor, and the driver refused medical attention.

A 46-year-old South Lyon man was ticketed after driving into the back of another car at Seven Mile and South Main. The other car had stopped at an eastbound stop sign and edged forward before stopping again when the South Lyon man drove into it.

A 12-year-old Northville girl was thrown from her bicycle after being struck by a car the afternoon of June 25, but her injuries were minor. She had turned from eastbound Eight Mile north onto Novi Road, into the path of the westbound car. The driver changed lanes and slowed but still hit the cyclist, who was taken to William Beaumont Hospital by her father and treated for cuts and scrapes. She was not admitted.

A 15-year-old Northville boy was banged up July 26 after driving his bike into the side of a car at Grace and Eight Mile that morning. The boy was heading east on the sidewalk along Eight Mile when he rammed the southbound car, stopped at the Grace Street stop sign. He was visibly injured but refused medical attention.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Chain of command keeps staff in line with organization chart

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Shortly before Northville Township Manager Bill Richards was hired, the board of trustees redirected township staff to report to the manager.

The move diverted the staff away from Township Supervisor Karen Baja and adhered to the organization chart that accompanied the new chain of command.

Richards said the board's decision was a good one now that he's on board as the chief administrator.

In one of his first official moves, the manager successfully sought last week to dissolve employment contracts with the non-bargaining employees at township hall. He said the move was in the best interests of both parties in the long run, but said in the short term it strengthened the chain of command.

"There's difficulty with the lines of authority when the employees have contracts with the board," he said. "It lets them think they work for the board and strays from the organizational chart."

Richards, who seems well-versed in managerial philosophy, said having the contracts in place "makes the lines of communication ambiguous."

And while some employees were weary of reporting to Richards initially, he said most are coming around now and are more comfortable with the arrangement.

Prior to Richards' appointment, it was Baja who was making most of the day-to-day administrative decisions.

Even though the new organizational chart directs the staff to report to Richards, the manager was quick to dispel the idea that Baja was being left off the administrative loop. In fact, he said he and Baja have formed an administrative team and partnership that's working well at township hall.

"We have been really trying to establish it as a team approach," he said.

The team approach, although it strays from the traditional organizational flow, works well now for Northville Township's administration and it may one day serve as a new model in township government, Richards hopes.

"We have the potential here to show a new model in township and municipal government," he said. "We may be able to show that the supervisor and manager can work together, work well together and make it work."

The manager said the two have found a way to blend the administrative and the elected responsibilities and duties so they "can make the joint offices work together." He says they've actually formed a partnership that draws on the best of both people's skills.

"It's exciting. It just seems like a natural way to maximize our skills," he said. "I hope I can become a role model for some new level of cooperation."

Since the manager came aboard in June, he and Baja have been working to reorganize the staff and boost morale. With that in mind their first collective endeavor has been to write an employee handbook with new rules, regulations and policies. Together the two have made subtle changes in job responsibilities, duties and titles that help the organization's workload function more effectively and efficiently.

Richards said the advent of new policies like the non-smoking and casual comfort days, along with a commitment to fill new and vacant jobs with internal promotions, are all ways they are trying to show their commitment to bettering the staff and increasing morale.

"Instead of asking why, I'm saying let's ask why not? Why can't there be more cooperation," he said. "We are looking for more creative problem-solving methods. And right now we are looking at reorganizing and reassigning staff and workload to make us more efficient and effective."

"And we are getting some real good cooperation with that," he said.

Richards said he was pleased to find that the staff was willing to try new things and for the most part his employees aren't resistant to change.

"It's real refreshing to find the spirit and willingness to look at things and how they are being done," he said. "People are ready for change that is appropriate change. But it isn't change for change's sake. We are really looking at how we can improve our processes."

In the future Richards said he plans to review the planning department's site plan review process and the format of board of trustees' meeting agendas.

"It's a commitment that both Karen and I have made organizationally. We are responsive to the employees and their needs. And frankly I have seen a change in behavior because we've taken an interest."

Local man gets prison term for molesting girl

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Northville man was sentenced to 2-15 years in prison Monday for molesting an 8-year-old girl.

Robert Allan Chace also was ordered to undergo AIDS testing, pay $30 to the Crime Victims Rights Fund and pay a yet-to-be-determined amount of restitution to the victim by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frederick Balkwill.

Chace, 23, was found guilty June 18 on two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct. The charges stemmed from a 1992 incident at the South Lyon home of Chace's relatives.

The victim told authorities she was spending the night there with a friend Feb. 16 when Chace lay down on the mattress where she slept, touched her breast and made her touch his genitals.

An Oakland County jury found Chace guilty after he gave conflicting accounts of the night's events to an Oakland County Sheriff's Department detective and the operator of a polygraph test that he took while awaiting trial. He failed the polygraph test but its results were inadmissible in court.

Chace was still being held in Oakland County Jail as of press time Tuesday, awaiting transfer to the State Prison of Southern Michigan in Jackson.

Philip Power accepts the Lesher Award from SNA Past President Charles Wrubel

Power selected to receive prestigious Lesher Award

Philip H. Power, chairman and owner of this newspaper, is the recipient of Suburban Newspapers of America's (SNA) 1993 Dean S. Lesher Award. The citation, the industry's highest award, recognizes outstanding lifetime achievement and service to community newspapers.

Power is founder, owner and chairman of Suburban Communications Corporation (SCC), publisher of more than 50 community newspapers throughout Michigan and in the Cincinnati area. He received the award at a recent SNA publishers' conference in Montreal.

"I'm surprised and abashed. I didn't expect the award," said Power, crediting his management team. "My role has been to find good people, give them a vision, provide them with resources and get out of the way."

Power said, "the onrush of technology" in publishing "will spawn a new suburban newspaper industry just as surely as the emergence of the suburbs after World War II created our industry as we now know it."

The award was named for Dean Lesher, a California suburban publisher known, said Power, for his "energy, drive, innovation, entrepreneurial reach and community commitment."

HomeTown Newspapers, publisher of this newspaper, is one of five SCC subsidiaries. SCC's newspapers have a combined weekly circulation of more than 500,000 and operate eight composing rooms and three web press facilities.

A native of Ann Arbor, Power began his career as a suburban publisher in 1965 when he acquired the Observer Newspapers in Livonia. Over the years, he has served as a director and officer of Suburban Newspapers of America, the main industry trade association. His award-winning column appears periodically in HomeTown and SCC's other Michigan newspapers.

He is also an involved public servant.

He was appointed to the University of Michigan Board of Regents in 1987 and elected statewide to an eight-year term in 1990.

In 1991 he founded and currently serves as chairman of the Corporation for a Skilled Workforce, a not-for-profit organization which helps communities, states, employers and others achieve world-class workforce development systems.

He currently serves on the national Commission on the Skills of the American Workforce.

He serves on the boards of the Power Foundation, The World Press Freedom Committee, Daedalus Enterprises and Jacobson Stores and as a trustee of the National Center on Education and the Economy.

Power, his wife Kathleen, and their two sons live in Ann Arbor.

Twp. workers accept idea to re-think contracts

Later that same afternoon, the manager made an identical pitch to the remainder of the non-bargaining employees which included the Finance Director Dwayne Harrigan, the assistant Fire Chief and a handful of various building inspectors. Those employees all have contracts with expiration dates that have either passed or are due to expire.

He said all of those present at the meeting favored working without contracts.

The manager said the employees were relieved to find out that state law provides more protection for their jobs than what most of their contracts would. He said under most contracts, employees could be terminated with 60 days severance pay but without a real reason for termination. The manager said since state law provides those kinds of guidelines, employees in the township who are exempt from unions have more leverage.

"Michigan law has a standard in place that is above at-will employees," Richards said. "The law provides substantial protection that protects them from being dismissed without any reason at all. This is a higher level of protection under this system of employment."

In place of the contracts, Richards is working on authoring a personnel handbook or manual. The handbook will outline the township's policies and codes of conduct for township personnel.

"It's a new set of personnel rules for them," he said. "It will serve as a standard of continued employment that will be greater than the performance requirements of at-will employees."

Richards said it was his idea to stray from the idea of contracting with employees. He said he was surprised to learn Northville Township held employment contracts even though most municipalities have done away with it.

"It isn't consistent with the predominant managerial philosophy that exists today in most municipal governments," he said. "Other governments with contractual agreements are relatively few and far between."

Richards, who has been on staff for three weeks, said he was dismayed to learn the township didn't have any of its personnel policies written down. He began work on the manual last week after the board adopted the first two policies — one prohibiting smoking in township buildings and vehicles and one allowing employees to dress casually for a fee that is donated to a designated charity.

Obituaries

HAROLD W. LEATHERS

Harold W. Leathers, of Northville, died July 22 at the Middlebelt Nursing Center in Livonia. He was 80.

Mr. Leathers was born in Howard, Pa., on August 22, 1912, to the late George and Katherine Cummings Leathers.

Mr. Leathers was the owner of the Shell Service Station in the Grand River area for 25 years, retiring in 1977. The Leathers family moved to the Northville area in 1982.

Survivors include his wife of 60 years, Rhea E. Leathers of Northville, a daughter Joyce Radgens of Naples, Fla., four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services were held July 24 at 10:30 a.m. at the Northrop Funeral Home, Northville. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

TIMOTHY P. EIS

Timothy Peters Eis, of Northville, died July 24 at Harper Hospital in Detroit. He was 66.

Mr. Eis was born September 15, 1926, in Milford to Dorothy A. Peters and Constance Eis.

He lived his entire life in the area, working as a teacher at William Thurston High School in Redford for 35 years.

Mr. Eis is survived by his wife, Constance Eis, children Todd of Northville, Thomas of Colorado, and Tamara Lynn Eis-Eisenberg of New York.

He had two sisters, Martha Hamlin of Ann Arbor and Sarah Fremlin of Canada. He had four grandchildren.

Mr. Eis was affiliated with the First Presbyterian Church, was active in the Michigan Cancer Society and was a past member of the Redford Lions Club.

The funeral was held Tuesday, July 27, at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Michigan Cancer Foundation, Research.

WINIFRED V. NICHOLLS

Winifred V. Nicholls, of Northville, died July 19 at Middlebelt Nursing Care Center Livonia. She was 83.

Mrs. Nicholls was born May 7, 1910, in Calumet, Michigan, to John Warth and Ingrid Henderson.

She moved to Northville in 1952 where she worked as a dental assistant for Dr. Godfrey.

Mrs. Nicholls was preceded in death by her husband, Walter, who died in 1966.

She is survived by son Jon Nicholls of Northville and brother Ray Warth of Oregon.

She was affiliated with First United Methodist Church in Northville.

The funeral was held July 28 at the Methodist Church, with Dr. Douglas Vernon officiating.

NORMA S. BUCHAN

Norma Sue Buchan, of Plymouth, died July 22 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. She was 52.

Mrs. Buchan was born March 12, 1941 in Niles, Mich., to Carme E. Crowley and Hardin Letcher Wise. She came to the area 14 years ago from Illinois.

Mrs. Buchan is survived by her husband Gene Buchan, children Bruce S. Buchan of Hazel Park and Hope S. Buchan of Florida, and a brother, Douglas Wise, of Niles.

She had two grandchildren, Justin and Kori Beth.

Mrs. Buchan was a Presbyterian minister and was affiliated with First Presbyterian Church in Northville, Girl Scouts, Womens Club, Gennis 2 and Boy Scouts.

The funeral was held July 26 at the First Presbyterian Church.

JAMES A. McNAMARA

James A. McNamara, of Northville, died July 20 in his home. He was 73.

Mr. McNamara was born on June 11, 1920, in Detroit to the late Thomas McNamara and Mabel McCarthy.

Following in the footsteps of his grandfather, father and father-in-law, Mr. McNamara joined the Detroit Fire Department where he served for 33 years. He rose to the rank of Battalion Chief before retiring in 1974. He was a member of the Detroit Police and Firefighters Association and the Detroit Fire Department Officers Club.

Mr. McNamara was a life-long Detroit Tiger fan. He received the first CYO scholarship to Assumption College. He served in the U.S. Navy during WWII as a physical education instructor. Mr. McNamara was a resident of Detroit with his wife until they moved to Northville in 1985. He and his wife, Annette, were married for 40 years.

Surviving Mr. McNamara are his wife, Annette McNamara, children Daniel McNamara, Maureen Bonner, Kathleen McNamara, and Patricia McNamara. He had three grandchildren and three brothers, Eugene McNamara, Leo McNamara, and Joseph McNamara.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Northrop Funeral Home.

1993-94 school year," a letter to students and parents from school board Robert McMahon and Supt. Leonard Rezmierski stated.

The only money Northville receives through the state aid act is for what are known as categoricals, such as transportation, the gifted program, food services and special education. While an in-formula district receives funding from the state, out-of-formula districts like Northville receive 96 percent of its revenue from local property taxes.

Last year, Northville got about $32,000 of its $23,941,747 budget from state sources. This year, anticipating it will have to pay added Social Security and retirement costs, the district set aside $465,000 in its preliminary $25,115,709 general budget.

"We're just kind of waiting right now," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services. "This has been going on for the last four years."

Bolitho said he has been trying to accomplish two major projects, re-roofing a portion of Meads Mill as well as painting the building, but funding uncertainties haven't allowed the projects to get off the ground.

"We can't start that project until we know what the funding picture is," he said. "We may need those funds for salaries."

Administrators are considering the same scenario when facing new bus purchases and capital improvement projects.

"We don't get a lot of money from the state but it's significant enough to have to hold off on a lot of these projects now," Bolitho said.

City's insurance firm asked for gag order in suit

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

An order of silence imposed on Novi police officer Deanna Hall and her attorney over the settlement of her discrimination and sexual harassment lawsuit was done without the Novi City Council's knowledge, city attorney David Fried said.

The gag requirement was requested by lawyers for Novi's insurance firm, Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority, Fried added. The company has since been advised that city legal settlements may not be kept confidential.

The lawsuit was ended on July 14, when Hall agreed to accept $25,000 rather than take the case to trial. Two days earlier, the council in a public meeting had agreed to the sum.

Hall's attorney Jamil Akhtar said subsequently he could not discuss the amount of the settlement due to the confidentiality agreement.

"The city arrives at settlements in open meetings. I sent a letter to Risk Management that they can make no settlement with confidentiality," Fried told the council.

The insurer's attorneys will be asked to file an amendment to the settlement, waiving the confidentiality agreement.

"This really wasn't debated in executive session," Council Member Tim Pope said. "Council may have been criticized for something that we weren't aware was going to be filed. In the future, we will ask for a written statement."

The Novi City Council earlier in the meeting discussed with representatives of Municipal Risk Management a request that the city use its own attorney for lawsuits. The issue was put on hold until Fried had time to review information provided by the insurers.

The insurance firm gets involved with legal cases when the city faces the possible payment of monetary damages.

In a June 1 letter to the council, Fried indicated that the agreement gives the insurer the right to select an attorney.

Pope said the council's consultant review committee had suggested that Fried take the lead in these lawsuits not just "because we trust him and he's a good attorney, but it's a potential cost savings to the city."

The Authority's policy is that a city can use its own attorney in a lawsuit if it agrees to pay up to $150,000 per occurrence. Novi currently pays up to $75,000.

Based on the $10 million per incident liability the insurer provides, it would evaluate the possible use of Novi's attorney on a case-by-case basis, regional risk manager Donald Manser said.

If Novi opts to up its potential payments to $150,000, the city's annual insurance bill would be $40,000 less. Novi currently pays $390,000 per year to the Livonia-based Michigan Risk Management Authority.

Take The Next Step At Wayne State University...

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU* from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country.
They are taking classes at our main campus in the University Cultural Center in Detroit or on one of our satellite campuses while others go to our University Center at Macomb Community College.

Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation

The Northville Record

Mill Race Matters

Summer is always a great time to visit Mill Race Village located on Griswold one block north of Main Street. The Village buildings are open for public touring from 2 to 5 p.m. on Sunday afternoon. Be sure to ask the docents for building and community history information.

Admission is free, but donations are encouraged. The donations are used to continue maintenance and restoration of the village.

Mill Race Village began in 1972 when Ford Motor Co. donated land to the city of Northville. Henry Ford had purchased that same land in 1918 as part of his village industry program which operated along the Rouge River.

Northville's Ford Plant opened the following year and was the first Ford village industry in operation. The now vacant facility opened first and closed last in the entire chain which is now part of Ford Heritage Trail.

Mill Race Village was part of the Ford property. When Ford purchased the current site it housed Northville Mills, a community grist mill. That mill was the ancestor of the mill built by John Miller in 1827. Northville's first industry. Like the later Northville Mill, Miller's grist mill was located on the river race. It is from this race that Mill Race Village gets its name.

Today's restoration village contains nine structures moved to the location for preservation. The land still remains city property, but the structures are owned and maintained by the Northville Historical Society, a volunteer, non-profit, community organization.

Most work at the village is done by volunteers. Docents are always needed to assist visitors on Sunday afternoon and on privately scheduled weekday tours.

Building repair and preservation is done on Tuesday and Thursday mornings by another group of dedicated volunteers.

Friday morning is usually the time to find another group hard at work in the archives. Various other events and activities provide additional opportunity for numerous kinds of volunteer efforts.

For more information about the organization please call 348-1845 Monday, Wednesday or Friday morning. Everyone is welcome to join.

Novi police dept. going to the dogs

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Officer Mugsy and Officer Smokey joined the Novi police force Monday.

Hey, don't laugh at their names. These are two tough, trained cops. Real animals.

Dogs, actually.

They're the first canines to be used at the Novi Police Department in 20 years. Chief Douglas Shaeffer explained that the program was reconsidered after officers asked for the four-footed narcotics sniffers.

"Not a single day in Novi goes by in which they wouldn't call in these dogs to do a drug search. Judges clear across the nation are taking the word of the dog as reliable information when search warrants should be done," Shaeffer said.

In case you're wondering how much is that doggie in the rear window of the patrol car: plenty. Their handlers each spent $7,000 of their own money to purchase, train and have the German shepherds certified. The Van Buren Township Police Department assisted in the training.

Officer June Mullins is the handler of the 2-year-old Mugsy, while Officer Victor Lauria takes care of Smokey, age 3 1/2. Each dog belongs to and lives with the officer it trained with, who will then lease the dog to the city for $1 per year.

Whether it's biscuits or standard vet bills, the officers will pay for the dogs' basic needs. If an animal is seriously injured on the job, the city would shoulder the veterinarian's fees.

The Novi City Council agreed to a one-year trial for the K-9 program, which will be funded through money impounded in drug busts. The department expects it will cost $1,000 to $1,200 per dog each year for the new program. Shaeffer said.

Forget the old image of police dogs as mean sons of bitches.

The new way is to allow the animals to be their natural sweet selves, unless the handler asks otherwise. Law-abiding citizens are welcome to give Smokey and Mugsy a scratch behind the ears.

"We make the dogs as friendly as we possibly can, except for when the officer wants it to be aggressive," Shaeffer said.

The dogs will get tough on command, or if their handler is attacked.

Besides sniffing for drugs, Mugsy and Smokey are trained to search large buildings for possible prowlers, engage in searches for missing persons, pursue fleeing suspects and break up large, unruly crowds.

The dogs are expected to be a money-maker for the city, in so far as they will likely nose up cash forfeitures as part of narcotics searches. These funds may then only be used for the war on drugs.

Shaeffer provided the council with the following statistics. In the first six months of 1992, West Bloomfield's then-new canine corps seized $147,000 in drug asset forfeitures. The Van Buren Township police department's canine haul for 1992 was $43,000.

TO UNDERSTAND WHY WE HAD TO MOVE, PHOTOCOPY THIS 50,000 TIMES.

You've never seen 30,000 music titles in one place before. Of course, before Borders'. you'd never seen 100,000 different books in one store. Now both are at the new Borders Books & Music.

At the risk of harping, just think about what you'll find 14,000 classical titles, including twenty-five recordings of Beethoven's 9th 17,000 not-so-classical rock and pop titles (The Velvet Underground? Eleven albums.) Enjoy Frank Sinatra? Use moderation when you see seventy-five titles. Jazz? 9,000. Of course, another reason for moving is to improve on what you've always had at Borders. Enough space to relax and sit down with a good book—even with a cup of cappuccino at our espresso bar. We've gone so far as to put in a children's section with storytime area, music listening lounge, and a video section that includes classic films.

As for the music section, there'll be no bebop hip-hop musical irritation urging you out the door. The staff appreciates books and music and appreciates that you do, too.

Maybe you should take some time to come see the new Borders Books and Music at our Grand Reopening.

Which of our 143 classical fanfares would you like us to play?

City sets public hearing to look at tax abatement supply new customers. The former Ford plant would also house Acom Stamping Inc., a 10-employee stamping plant based in Rochester that has been affiliated with R & D for several years. R & D officials hope to move forward quickly with their relocation and be situated in the Main Street plant by November. Under a potential timetable drafted by Word, the council could schedule an Aug. 16 public hearing for a specific tax abatement if council members accept the firm's tax abatement application Aug. 2. The city's planning commission could get a first look at R & D's site plan as early as Aug. 3 while the firm's proposed $1 million restoration of the Ford plant could be reviewed by the city's Historic District Commission at its Aug. 18 meeting. Under a proposed sales agreement between R & D and the Ford Motor Co., the city would be given four acres west of Griswold known locally as Ford Field and about four acres of land and waterway between the plant and the property's northern boundary. The firm would sell the city a 2.4-acre parcel of land on the west side of Griswold that is now used as a parking lot. City officials have questioned a proposed $350,000 sales price for the 2.4 acres, and Manager Gary Word has recommended that the city not consider any price over $200,000. Word has also questioned the condition of a dam that the city would acquire in the deal, and Ford has agreed to fund a study of its condition. The size of the potential tax break has not been discussed, though state law allows a municipality to issue a 12-year, 50-percent abatement. Cox has said he was offered similar arrangements in Brighton, Northville Township, Plymouth Township, Westland and Wixom. Word has recommended that the city agree to something less than the maximum abatement.

A public hearing will be held Aug. 2 as the first step toward granting a proposed property tax abatement for R & D Enterprises, the firm considering purchasing the old Ford Valve Plant.

Initial attendance estimates at '50s event indicate new record

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

The numbers aren't in yet, but the organizers of 1993's sixth annual Michigan Fifties Festival are pronouncing it a record success.

Though no official attendance estimates were yet available Tuesday, said organizer Rhonda Gage, "Our Thursday night crowd looked like last year's Friday night crowd and our Friday looked like last year's Saturday."

Even a thunderstorm that caused a temporary loss of electricity Sunday afternoon wasn't enough to dampen the festivities. Festival-goers were moved away from aluminum tent poles and herded into the craft tent, where the poles were wooden, until the air cleared and the power was restored.

In the Family Tent, a performer named Zemo the Yo-Yo Man entertained for nearly an hour, without the need for electricity, during the storm.

"He stood there and performed for a long time till we could get the electricity back on," Gage said.

Many people were moved into the craft tent to wait out the storm and, to Gage's surprise, they really did wait it out.

"They waited it out," she said. "They didn't mind. When the storm was over, there were still as many people as before."

Novi Police Chief Doug Shaeffer said there were relatively few police incidents during this year's festival. Officers were called to the scene Saturday night after a report that an unknown suspect had pulled a gun during an argument. However, police found nothing when they arrived within 30 seconds.

Several warnings and a few tickets were issued to classic car drivers for speeding or burn-outs. Shaeffer said most drivers only received warnings. A sign was also posted this year to warn motorists in advance that such driving would be ticketed.

The festival was a fundraising bonanza for many local nonprofit organizations that volunteered in the beer tent. A percentage of the profits from the tent are divided up and given to the groups that serve beer and otherwise volunteer.

"It all goes back into the community through these groups," Gage explained.

Working the tent on Wednesday were the Novi Choralaires. On Thursday, the Sixth Gate Cloggers poured the brew and on Friday the Novi Chamber of Commerce took over. The Novi Lions Club worked Saturday afternoon and the Novi Newcomers and Neighbors worked the evening shift. The Novi Ambassadors worked on Sunday.

Bingo, which Gage said was an increasingly popular event this year, also benefited local organizations that worked the event. They were the Novi Senior Center, St. James Catholic Church and the Novi School Band Boosters.

A pancake breakfast promoted as part of the Fifties Festival was organized, executed and entirely profitable for the Novi Optimist Club and the Novi Firefighters.

Gage said the softball tournament and MetroVision Run also enjoyed good participation this year.

She partly credited the good attendance to "really tremendous promotion" from WOMC radio as well as live broadcasts from WHND "Honey Radio," which set up operation on private property across the street from the festival.

WHND, which was forced out of the festival due to hot competition over festival promotion, set up on private property with a large balloon and a vintage car show.

Dance companies from around the area participated in the Family Tent this year, bringing in young dance groups. The performances, organized by Sheryl's School of Dance, also included dancers from Novi's Performing Arts Academy, Gayle's Dance Phase, Dance Dynamics, Eileen's Dance Electric and Dance House.

"All of the entertainment provided at the family tent, other than Danny Vann and the Moonwalk — for which there was a $3 fee — was free of charge" and sponsored by the festival, Gage commented. Family tent entertainment also included puppet theaters, Max the Moose, and the Dancing Dinosaurs as well as a petting fair, clowns and balloons.

"We really wanted to bring the family atmosphere to our festival this year," she said.

Festival fireworks were provided by Twelve Oaks Mall, and Barney the Dinosaur put in an appearance at the West Oaks shopping center.

Festival organizers provided shuttle and trolley service to the shopping centers for these events as well as to the Motorsports Hall of Fame, and the Beach Club at the Novi Expo Center.

Gage said the trolley stops at the Novi Expo Center were added to the plans at the last minute, but it was easy to do and worth the effort.

"I know a lot of people enjoyed the Motorsports," she said. "A lot of people didn't even know we had a museum."

All in all, Gage said, it was "an awesome festival."

"Everyone was so involved, and everyone helped out so much," she said, adding her appreciation to the Novi Police and Fire departments, the Department of Public Works, and the Community EMS and Bots-

Local singer looking for stardom

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Even if he had to stand in line for over six hours, sunburned and recovering from a cold, Robert Bugar 'isn't complaining.'

The 26-year-old Northville singer said it was "discouraging" when he arrived at the studio of WDIV Channel 4 to audition for the "Super Singer" competition at 9 a.m. and found thousands in front of him.

His turn finally came and went and he was asked to perform again, this time on videotape.

A few weeks later, Bugar was asked to come in to make another videotape.

"Then they called me back and told me I was in the top five," Bugar said. "I was pretty excited. My mom screamed. One of the producers called me and I mouthed to my mom (it was a finalist) and she screamed."

From there, Bugar and the other four singers competed against each other with special spots shown during certain times for two weeks on WDIV. Viewers registered telephone votes for their favorite performer.

"I was excited about all the exposure," Bugar, who has been singing in bars and clubs for the past 10 years, said. "I couldn't afford that kind of advertisement."

As part of the contest, Bugar also got the chance to perform at the Renaissance Center for a week and during the Detroit fireworks celebration.

Bugar learned of his second place finishing before his performance at the fireworks celebration. Harvey Thompson won the contest as well as two Southwest airline tickets and the opportunity to perform at the Summerfest at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Bugar said Thompson had been playing in local clubs for the past 30 years and wasn't disappointed in his own second best performance.

"I got to sing a song I wrote on TV in front of a half million people," he said. "I wasn't too upset about (not winning)."

Bugar performed "It's Easy," a song he described as a "smart-ass love song."

Since the age of 16, Bugar has been traveling the bar circuit, playing everywhere from Harpo's and The Ritz to small clubs around here. He and his partner Doug Meadows are known as "Dog Shelf." The duo concentrates on playing basic rock and roll now.

"I grew out of playing the hard rock stuff," he said. "You can't act like a kid forever."

A 1985 graduate of Northville High School, Bugar said he plays the bar scene for money.

"It's a big dead end," he said, adding he is in the process of recording some of his stuff in hopes of signing on with a national label. He is also sending a copy of his video-taped performance to the producers of Star Search.

"A lot of bands in Detroit have been here forever," Bugar said. "A lot of great bands have been here forever and they're not going anywhere. I'm trying not to follow their example."

Bugar said he and Meadows do like to play their own material, but their "acoustic gig is all cover stuff." Bugar plays piano, guitar and is in charge of lead vocals while Meadows, also a Northville High School graduate, plays guitar and provides backup vocals.

The duo picked up the name "Dog Shelf" from a friend.

"We were all sitting around at a party and a friend spit out the name 'Dog Shelf,'" Bugar said. "We all laughed at it."

Soon after the party, Bugar was rushing to get a demo tape out and the singing duo realized they still didn't have a name. So they adopted "Dog Shelf."

"It's stupid, it doesn't mean anything and it doesn't offend anybody," Bugar said.

Although the late John Lennon of the Beatles and the late Freddie Mercury of Queen were big influences of Bugar's, he became hooked on music in junior high.

"A friend taught me 'Fly By Night' by Rush on the guitar," he said. "I've wanted to play ever since."

He's tried other things, from selling furniture to carpentry, but the simple truth is Bugar just makes more money doing what he loves to do.

"I make as much in two nights singing as I did in 40 hours of carpentry," Bugar said.

Currently, "Dog Shelf" plays two to three nights a week and are pretty well booked through October.

"We would like to start playing four to five nights a week so we can later take a rest time and work on writing and finish recording," Bugar said.

Dog Shelf will be performing Aug.

5, 12, 19, 20 and 21 at the Novi Expo Beach Club; at Novi Bowl the first weekend in August and at 700 Bowl in South Lyon the second weekend of August. Call 380-3080 for other performance times and dates.

The son of Michael and Sherry Bugar and grandson of Cornelia Bugar, all of Northville, the singer said it's always been easy to come up with new material.

"I always have an idea," he said. "I usually come up with them while I'm driving. There's times I'm going out to see my grandpa and the first thing I do when I get there is sit down at his piano."

"It's so easy to get busy and lose your train of thought and the song is gone forever."

Bugar's girlfriend Jennifer Clark remedied that, though, by buying him a handheld tape recorder to carry with him on his trips to see his Grandma and Grandpa Hanlin in Dearborn.

Describing himself as one of those kids who ran around singing all the commercials he had seen on TV, Bugar said he feels right at home in front of an audience.

"The only times I ever got nervous was the first time. I was 14 or 15 and I was in the Giffiddler talent show. I had been taking lessons there. I thought I was going to lose it."

The only other time Bugar felt a little uneasy was during his first performance at Harpos. Maybe it was because he was putting on a show for 3,000 people.

Although music is his life, Bugar said everybody needs some time to themselves.

Robert Bugar of Northville placed second in the WDIV-TV Super Singer competition.

"It gets old when you go to parties and everybody says 'bring your guitar.' Then my whole life is a performance. Every once in awhile I just want to hang out and not be the musician."

Cancer hits a lot of men below the belt.

One in ten men will develop prostate cancer.

If you're a man, you're at risk for prostate cancer. Prostate cancer is the most common cancer in men and the second leading cause of cancer death in men.

This disease hits an estimated 165,000 men annually and takes around 35,000 lives each year. About 80 percent of these deaths may be preventable with early detection.

Screening exams are able to detect prostate cancer when it's the most treatable. An annual exam can detect an enlarged prostate, one of the symptoms of prostate cancer. Health Development Network at Botsford Center for Health Improvement offers a yearly prostate screening and other programs for men over forty.

A prostate screening could save your life. If you would like more information, call Health Development Network at (313) 477-6100.

If you would like a physician referral, please call Health Match at 442-7900.

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Rotary International, a group of more than 25,000 international service clubs with over 1,000,000 men and women members, celebrated the 75th anniversary of the Rotary Foundation in 1992.

The Rotary Foundation supports many charitable causes around the world, including the granting of more educational scholarships than the Rhodes and Fulbright scholarships combined.

Local Rotary Clubs are independent in the programs they choose to support. For more information contact your hometown Rotary Club.

Volunteer Briefs

The Northville Record periodically publishes a list of not-for-profit organizations in the area seeking people to volunteer their time. We welcome additions to our list. Representatives of any such group may submit the pertinent information to: Volunteer Briefs, The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167, Attention: Lee Snider.

MEALS DRIVERS NEEDED: Meals-On-Wheels is in need of new daily and substitute drivers.

Prepared meals are taken from Allen Terrace to homebound throughout the Northville area. Normal pickup and delivery time is Monday through Friday, between 11:45 a.m. and 12:45 p.m.

Anyone who could help once a week or occasionally as a substitute may call Judy at 348-1761 or Claudia at 349-9661 between 10:30 and 12:45.

HORSEBACK RIDING FOR HANDICAPERS: Volunteers ages 14 and older are needed immediately to work with the physically, mentally and emotionally disabled people in a Horseback Riding for Handicappers program in Novi. Volunteers are needed Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon, Tuesday through Friday evenings from 6-9 p.m. and all day Saturday. Please contact 347-3860, Ext. 218 for further information.

S.P.A.R.K.: The Society for the Preservation of American Racing Knowledge, or SPARK, is the volunteer group that supports the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame of America in the Novi Expo Center. SPARK needs volunteers to participate in ongoing building projects at the Museum and Hall of Fame, work at the Museum gift shop, lead tours, help with publicity and public relations, and to coordinate various aspects of the Museum's big events.

Volunteers are asked to commit 20 hours of their time per year (though many do that much in a month), and become members of the Museum for the discounted rate of $15 per year. Volunteer members receive a Novi Special pin, membership card, quarterly newsletter, annual induction yearbook, Museum poster and a 10-percent discount at the gift shop.

To volunteer, call 349-RACE.

BLOOD NEEDED: The American Red Cross is facing another severe shortage of blood and continues to seek blood donors.

The Livonia Donor Center offers an ongoing opportunity to donate. Located at 29691 W. Six Mile (just west of Middlebelt), Suite 100C, in the rear of Bell Creek Office Plaza, the center is open from 2-8 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Friday; and from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. To schedule an appointment at the donor center call 1-800-582-4383.

WANTED: Friendly dogs and cats and their warm-hearted owners who can spare one hour each month are needed to visit handicapped children at the Old Village School in Northville.

If this description fits you and your pet, the Pet-A-Pet program wants you! Pet-A-Pet is an animal visitation program whose volunteers and their pets pay regular group visits to the school.

Animal visitation programs have proven to be beneficial in the health care of handicapped children who especially enjoy the unconditional love a pet can offer. Children who are unable to hear or see often respond favorably to the warmth of animals.

Pet-A-Pet volunteers may bring their own pets if they are friendly, in good health, and have current vaccination records. The visits are scheduled one day per month and last about one hour. In addition to the Old Village School, the program also visits several nursing homes in the metro area.

If you are interested in joining the group that visits Old Village School, please call Laurie Allen at 355-1823.

HELPLINK HOTLINE: Allnet Communications of Birmingham has announced the opening of the "HelpLink Hotline" to assist potential volunteers to reach non-profit agencies in need of their help. Volunteers can dial 1-800-U-R-VITAL (1-800-878-4825) to learn about agencies which use and need volunteer help. Up to 25 organizations will be highlighted on the hotline each month. The hotline is a pilot program that was created for Allnet and if successful may be expanded to other cities.

OUR LADY OF PROVIDENCE SEEKS ASSISTANTS: Our Lady of Providence Center is accepting volunteers to assist staff in the supervision of developmentally impaired girls in the classroom, work training program, residential program and the Volunteer Visiting Foster Family program.

Training for the classroom, work training and residential programs will be provided to all volunteers and hours are flexible. Volunteers from all age groups teen to retirees are welcome.

The Volunteer Visiting Foster Family program allows students whose families live out of the area to "go home" for a few hours or during a weekend to families living near the center.

If interested in volunteering a few hours each week call Jari Smith at 453-1300.

HEART ASSOCIATION: The American Heart Association, Western Wayne County Division, is a non-profit volunteer health organization which promotes cardiovascular fitness through educational programs and fund-raising activities.

The group is looking for volunteers to work on educational programs and special event benefits. For information call Christine Giuliani at 557-9500, ext. 539.

RECREATION DEPARTMENT: Need something to do? Have some extra time that you'd like to volunteer? The Northville Recreation Department needs help.

Volunteer opportunities are numerous:

- Coaches: for basketball, softball, baseball and soccer.
- Special event worker: Valentines Dance, lunches with Easter Bunny and Santa Claus, dinner theaters, etc.
- Instruction: Have a special gift? We can use your talents at our summer day camp, or to teach a class.
- Chaperones: Northville Ski Club, trips.

All year round, we have things to do. Call Northville Recreation Department, 349-0203.

ALZHEIMER'S PROGRAMS: Alzheimer's Association — Detroit Area Chapter is recruiting volunteers to assist with the In-Home Respite and Adult Day Care programs.

Both services, which are open to residents of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, serve to relieve caregivers of persons afflicted with Alzheimer's disease or another irreversible memory impairment. The respite is provided by trained volunteers.

Volunteers donate from four to sixteen hours per month. They are provided with extensive training by skilled professionals prior to placement. They are also reimbursed for mileage during the training and for mileage traveled to and from placement sites. Day, evening and Saturday hours are available.

Working with a person afflicted with Alzheimer's disease can be a positive and rewarding experience. In-Home volunteers provide companionship and supervision; Adult Day Care volunteers assist clients with social and recreational activities. Both programs allow opportunities for one-on-one interaction with clients but most important of all, respite provides caregivers with much-needed free time.

If you are interested in becoming a volunteer and would like to attend a training session or would like further information, please call 557-8277.

Education Notes

State's actions may make city vote moot

It's become a running joke for city leaders — "I've got good news and bad news, what do you want to hear first?" The good news this time around is that city voters gave their thumbs up, albeit by a slim margin, to the city's Mainstreet '93 plan.

The bad news is that their approval may not matter. The state Legislature's sudden decision last week to solve half of Michigan's longstanding property tax/school funding conundrum has left Mainstreet's funding up in the air.

Property owners are cheering, and rightfully so, over the massive tax break that the Legislature apparently has handed them after years of overreliance on property taxes as a source of school funding. But as we argued in this space Monday, the state has yet to decide how to replace those funds.

The state also has made no provision for Tax Increment Financing Authority projects like Mainstreet '93 that rely heavily on the diversion of existing property taxes for their funding. In Mainstreet '93's case, the tax capturing stream that the city had planned to use to fund most of the $4.2 million project has been virtually cut in half.

Northville found itself in a similar situation in 1991 when the state began withholding most of the city's allocated racetrack revenue. That action ultimately derailed the city's plan for a three-level ramped parking deck on the site of the existing Cady structure, just as the plan was winning final approval from local boards.

What will this cost Northville? No one knows for sure. Already the proposed fall, 1993, construction start date looks overly optimistic. And if the state takes its time deciding the fate of TIFA projects, the added cost could include higher construction costs and interest rates.

The city will consider changing the financing plan to make it more feasible even with the reduction in tax capturing revenue. Some potential changes include increasing the special assessment on downtown businesses and passing a city-wide millage increase, but neither seems likely. Mainstreet '92 was reworked in part because of the outcry from business owners over its $1 million plus in special assessments, and the city council has made clear that they would rather avoid any millage increase.

As with racetrack funding, Northville is not the only city left in the lurch by the state's latest legislative bombshell. Walled Lake and Munising also have TIFA projects that have been stranded until the state Legislature makes a move, city officials say. Hopefully, pressure from all the affected parties can convince lawmakers to make provisions for TIFAs quickly, whether or not they have figured out how to replace the $6.3 billion in lost school aid.

This may be one of those rare occasions when citizens can have more of an impact locally by going to their state legislators. Local residents may have more success in making Mainstreet '93 a reality by urging their state senator and representative to exempt existing TIFA plans from the property tax reduction than by casting their ballots at city hall.

Township government begins to take shape

There seems to be a move toward normalcy in Northville Township government, a development that should provide township residents with no small amount of relief.

Since Manager Bill Richards came on board last month, things are taking shape at township hall and there appears to be a perceptible authority structure emerging from the disorder that reigned heretofore.

Among the hopeful developments is a new policy establishing a chain of command and directing staff to report to the full-time manager rather than the part-time supervisor. In addition, non-union employees have agreed to dissolve their contracts with the township and work under state rules governing public employment arrangements, a proposal we expected employees to resist.

Richards has also decided to compose a personnel manual to codify the regulations and policies under which township employees must work.

Other minor, but progressive, policy changes include prohibiting smoking in township buildings and vehicles, and allowing employees to pay a charity donation "comfort fee" in exchange for wearing casual clothes to the office.

It's too early to say for sure how such changes are being received by township employees and elected officials but, on the surface at least, things certainly seem to be undergoing a change for the better.

Our hope is that the improved atmosphere is not just superficial or the result of a honeymoon period the new manager is enjoying. What Northville Township government needs is strong leadership and healthy employee morale on a lasting basis.

Festival acquires rich history

Lee Snider

The weather is no respecter of property or causes — we're seeing that in the plains states where monsoon-like downpours have driven thousands of people from their homes and caused billions of dollars in property damage.

On a far less disastrous scale but a lot closer to home, a heavy rain put a definite damper on things in keeping people away from Sunday's Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival, the well-meaning outdoor music bash that benefits Huntington's Disease research.

The rains came and went all morning and well into the afternoon hours, but, thankfully, it cleared up early enough to allow the celebration to go ahead as planned.

Despite sizzling afternoon temperatures that quickly burned away a lot of the dampness, the rain took its toll: attendance was estimated at 600-700 people, several hundred less than expected.

Typically, festival organizer Tom Rice was philosophical about the way things turned out.

"The dang thing could have been washed out completely," he said. "I'm very pleased. I don't mark it as a success from the amount of people who were there. The festival worked."

Tom, the owner of the Gittfiddler music store in downtown Northville, lost both his beloved sister, Donna Jarski, and his musical hero, Woody Guthrie, to Huntington's.

One day, his need to fight back converged with his love of folk music and gave birth to the idea of the fund-raiser. The festival soon became a local institution and is still going strong after 17 years.

According to Tom, all expenses had been met prior to the start of Sunday's event, so all gate receipts represented clear donations for Huntington's research. Things could have been worse.

I attended the festival myself with my mother and my 7-year-old niece, and all three of us had a great time. It was a Woodstock-like affair that featured a lot of sincere, passionate music played by people who looked like they would have been right at home at the famous music and arts bacchanalia of 24 years ago.

Minus Woodstock's zen, drugs and nudity, representatives of all three generations of my family were able to feel comfortable there.

One of the most moving moments for me came when Tom played a tape recording of Marjorie Guthrie, Woody's wife, who attended the festivals in Northville before her death in 1984.

Marjorie, Tom explained, was a silver-haired, plain-speaking type who worked tirelessly to increase awareness of the disease that claimed her famous husband.

At one point in her audience address, she mentioned how Woody Guthrie was not very good at either singing or playing the guitar.

Later, I asked Tom if that could be right. He said yes: Woody had a gift for creating wonderful melodies and picturesque lyrics, and but couldn't hold a tune or strum a "gittfiddle" to save himself.

He was a crude cowboy who liked to hop freight trains and disappear for months at a time. Over the years, more talented performers took his songs and polished and embellished them. Now, when played by highly skilled instrumentalists like those who were at the Folk and Bluegrass Festival, they sound like they were created by a pure-bred saint.

Such is the stuff of which legends are made.

Barrels of fun

There were empty kegs, lots of them, after the Michigan '50s Festival.

Plan would solve burning issue

Rick Byrne

Sitting in his 427 Cobra at the Cone Zone late Sunday, Paul Changes had a disgusted look on his face when I asked him about burnouts in the Michigan '50s Festival Grand River Cruise.

"Nobody was doing them," said Paul. "They had cops every 30 or 40 cars, so when you were going around the X, if there wasn't one right behind you, there was one coming toward you."

Burnouts, the crowd-pleasing, wheel-spinning, smoke-raising launches by high performance cars, were absent from the cruise for the first time since its inception.

Oh, there were a few tire squeals here and there. I saw a couple of tickets handed out, too. But Novi Police had declared zero tolerance before the event, and they got it.

I don't blame the police one bit for their crackdown. Their duty is to serve and protect, and that's what they did. Mission accomplished.

But to be honest, the cruise lacked something without the high-revving engines, billows of smoke and the crowds urging the drivers to "light 'em up!"

The '50s Festival Board of Directors wanted a burnout contest as part of the car show and cruise. They're popular attractions at car shows elsewhere. As I understand it, though, a lack of time and manpower kept the group from doing it right.

There must be a way, I thought, to stage a burnout contest as part of the Grand River Cruise without disrupting the cruise, endangering drivers or spectators, or flouting the laws of the city.

I'd like to suggest that the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame step in and run the burnout contest. I flew the idea past Ron Watson, executive director of the Museum, and he thought it was worth considering. That this is a motorsports contest is only part of the reason why it seems so appropriate.

"We're a part of this community, and the '50s Festival is a community event," said Watson. "We really ought to be involved."

Watson also reminded me that the Hall of Fame's most recent Drag Racing inductee, Wally Parks, gained his notoriety from a similar situation. As editor of Hot Rod Magazine in the early '50s, Parks became concerned for the "dry lakes racers," kids with fast cars who would stake out a dry lake bed for an afternoon and hold drag races.

They gained a largely undeserved reputation as "hooligans" who were "just out to break their necks." In some cases, the amateur racers earned their criticism too, as they staged illegal races on city streets.

Parks used his influence and ingenuity to create the Southern California Timing Association which organized and sanctioned frequent drag races at certified tracks. He also initiated the Safety Safari, a rescue crew trained especially to handle race crashes.

Parks' group has since grown into the National Hot Rod Association, the world's largest racing sanctioning body.

Here's my plan: The Museum, perhaps using its connections with NHRA or the Sports Car Club of America, sets up a burnout area along the cruise route, with a couple hundred feet of concrete barriers to protect fans, and keep the cars contained. Cruise participants would pay a buck or two extra for the right to perform burnouts, with profits going as a fund-raiser for the non-profit Museum.

I've even got the site picked out. A good burnout creates trenches in asphalt from the heat generated, so I can't see city administrators allowing anything on the cruise route, Grand River and Meadowbrook. Eleven Mile, between the Town Center and Meadowbrook is a slab roadway, though. It's within walking distance of the car show, and has very few residences to disturb.

After all the cars are on the cruise route, they could veer off at Eleven Mile for their burnouts. A flagger to stage and launch the cars would be needed, along with people to direct traffic. Judges could rate the performances on execution and showmanship.

A shutdown lane would slow the cars down before they reached the Town Center. After a left turn onto Crescent Drive, they could rejoin the cruise route at Grand River.

At this point, this is all just talk, and the only people who've talked about it are Ron Watson and myself. But with a few more wise heads contributing their thoughts, I think it could work. Whether you like the idea, or are dead set against it, I'd like to hear from you. Give me a call at 349-1700.

Parade committee lauded for effort

To the editor:

As this year's Parade Chairperson for the Northville/Novi Fourth of July Parade, I'd like to express my appreciation for the tireless efforts of this year's committee. Without the endless hours of commitment these people have given to this cause, the "Olde West Round-Up" would have never come to life.

So, I'd like to thank the following cowboys and cowgirls who organized the Parade details: Denise Dowdell, Annette Patyna, Bob Baber, Ginny Hathhorn, Michele Perrin, Rod Cannon, Doris Purvis, Sandy Meyers, Betty Omar, Jane Liberati, Marlene Kunz and Joan Hursey.

Also, special thanks to our very generous tin-star sponsors: VFW Post 4012, Northville Record, University of Michigan Health Care Center, Northville Rotary Club, Edward D. Jones & Co/Todd D. Kniekerbocker, Masonic Temple Association of Northville, Northville Chamber of Commerce, Twelve Oaks Mall, Lee Holland & Associates, Margo's of Northville and Northville Diamond Jewelers.

And, a hearty "yee-haw" to the many businesses who contributed goods and services to help make the Round-up a success: Copy Boy Printers, Consumers Power, Absopure Water Co., Graphicolor Systems, Graphic Visions, Bell Travel, Genitt's, Stampeddler, Mission Hills, Town & Country Bike Shop, Leisure Time Pets and Perrin Souveniers.

Last, but certainly not least, I'd like to express my deepest appreciation to each member of the Northville Kiwanis Early Birds! Their time and dedication to this project has been an inspiration to me personally. Thank you from the bottom of my achy-breaky heart!

Move to cut taxes was a bold one

To the editor:

The Michigan Legislature displayed true courage last week when it confronted the long-standing dilemmas of property tax relief and school finance reform.

Those of us who are privileged to represent Oakland and Wayne counties came to Lansing with this goal as a cornerstone of our legislative agendas. Our decision to support this bold move was not made lightly, but we stand by it because we believe it paves the way for a revitalized Michigan.

By eliminating school operating millages we will save our taxpayers $5.6 billion. We recognize that in creating a school finance system we will have to raise revenues, repeal some tax credits and loopholes, cut state spending and enact measures to help our local schools contain costs.

We too have endured years of frustration with a status quo that strangled Michigan's economy, drained family budgets and fostered great spending disparities between schools. Continued inaction would have been irresponsible and an insult to constituents who count on us to set Michigan's agenda.

Special-interest groups that fear change fault the $5.6 billion tax cut plan for not including replacement revenue for schools. We submit that it is best to define the system to be funded rather than pumping precious tax dollars into a structure that lacks direction. In truth, the risk we are taking pales in comparison to the cost of doing nothing.

Contrary to the gloom and doom espoused by naysayers, we see exciting possibilities ahead. Michigan no longer is shackled by a burdensome, archaic property tax system. We pledge here and now to work in a bipartisan fashion to pursue an efficient, responsible, cost-effective system that emphasizes quality and protects the integrity of our schools. We also are confident that this can be accomplished by year's end, and will urge leaders of both parties that it be at the legislative forefront this fall.

We believe the vast majority of residents will welcome these sweeping reforms. The challenges that lie ahead are undeniably demanding, yet we anxiously await them with the same renewed enthusiasm that will pervade our state.

Examine shifting to six-hour day

To the editor:

With about 15 million workers either unemployed, underemployed, or "out of the unemployment loop" because of a failure to find work, it is about time to re-evaluate the number of hours worked weekly by industrial functions (Free Press 7/14), which has resulted in the displacement of millions of industrial workers. It is time for industry and the unions to consider instituting the six hour day, five days a week, so that more people can again return to work in good paying jobs. The result would be more people paying taxes, less people on welfare or receiving unemployment compensation, and substantially restoring the vitality and viability of our economy.

Schools have plenty of funds

To the editor:

Regarding the recent debate on pay-to-play, etc. I just read with amazement a quote from Supt. Leonard Rezmierski: "We have two days of fund equity... that means we could keep the doors open for two days. That's close to the razor's edge..."

This is in a district where the community provides $6,100 per student for basic education plus many frills that are now considered entitlements (swimming pools, tennis courts, etc.). Once again that's $6,100 dollars per student.

Anyone who reads objective studies, or has experience with private schools, knows that a quality education can be provided for $3,000 — $4,000 per student, and a no-frills education for much less. For example, North Dakota's average per pupil expenditure last year was $3,685, and they scored second in the country in SAT scores and first in MEAP math scores. Utah spent $2,993 per student and they ranked fourth and eighth, respectively, by the same metrics. Nagoya, Japan, an affluent Tokyo suburb, spends $4,112 per pupil.

To say that you are getting $6,100 per pupil, and are on the "razor's edge" is insane.

A guarantee: If you give each parent a check for $6,100 per student and let them spend it on education as they please, you won't see any schools closing, except those run by incompetents, and you won't hear that sorry "Kalkaska" song sung by the National Education Association anymore.

Trustee cast ill-advised vote

To the editor:

You reported that Northville Township Trustee Mark Abbo voted against treating the township's gravel roads because "general fund money should... not be used to benefit a small portion of the community."

From this, I assume that he's also against funding the recreation department, the library, paved road repairs, and just about every other township program.

Mr. Abbo also seems to assume that dust stirred up by passing vehicles does not drift throughout the air to adjacent areas. I can assure him that dust along Six Mile Road in the Beck Road area will find its way into the subdivisions blossoming along Beck. A dust plume on Napier Road that is vented into the air will be breathed in Highland Lakes — you can be sure of that. The dust problem should be of concern to all township residents as well as Northville city residents and our neighboring communities. It affects us all.

I would also like to point out that road treatment is the only tangible thing those of us who live on gravel roads see from the township.

In the 20 years that I've lived here, the only other concrete things that have directly affected me was a joint township-school decision to dump a storm sewer into my front yard causing massive erosion and the loss of numerous trees (one of the largest and most beautiful trees in the township is currently being threatened) and approving the redesign of the Six Mile-Waterford Road intersection into one of the most dangerous intersections I've ever seen — not a great record.

If Trustee Abbo and Treasurer Engelland (who also voted against treating the roads) think that township residents should live in a cloud of dust while they argue about whose responsibility it is to treat the roads, then I for one will remember them well next election day and when I see their names, I, like them, will vote no.

Downtown needs fresh businesses

To the editor:

This is a response to the owner of the Variety Store article in the Northville Record.

If the owner of the Variety Store had been more concerned about their customers and had a better attitude, they could have made it. They were uncooperative, not helpful and just stood there at the cash register. They were certainly not a D & C — we too think they were dead.

Northville is not dead, just poorly managed and the city planners should see that the needs of customers will make the city.

We need a retail ladies shop, a shoe shop, with hostery, a D & C-type store, etc. Also, the children do not have a skating rink, a recreation place for games. They have nothing. City planners, get with it.

Towing bill was outrageous

To the editor:

I recently moved to Northville from the west side of the state after taking a pharmacist position in Royal Oak.

Last Saturday night some friends and I decided to stop in to Woolly Bully's. I did not want to be valet parked so I parked next door at the Highland Lakes shopping center. We were later told it is owned by Bill Autry.

We were inside less than two hours and upon return to the parking lot my car was gone along with the four or five vehicles it was parked by. After we walked home I contacted the state police and was told my car was towed by B & B towing of Plymouth at Mr. Autry's request. I was charged $84 for the return of my car. When I called B & B Towing a few days later I was told a five mile tow (the distance between Woolly Bully's and B & B Towing) would cost me "about $45." How was the outrageous $84 towing charge I paid arrived at? A B & B Towing employee told us that his boss and Mr. Autry decided the charge together. This business practice must prove quite profitable for both of them. A total of eight vehicles were towed that night alone.

As a result of this incident I will no longer patronize any of the businesses located in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center and I will urge my friends and others who have been towed to do the same.

Dirt road tax would be unfair

To the editor:

I was amazed to read your editorial on July 15 concerning the township's dirt roads since your paper apparently did not think the matter important enough to cover the recent meeting on the subject.

Wayne County should be billed for calcium chloride treatments and that possibility thoroughly explored before any other options are reviewed. Your defeatist attitude is unworthy.

As to the other options, the one which you advocate, assessing dirt road residents, is the most unfair of all. As a township dirt road resident, I am appalled at the idea of being assessed an unknown amount of money, established by who knows what method, subject to continual revisions upward, for as long as we own our house. I think such a charge might have a negative impact on the marketability of our houses (why should a buyer agree to pay an unknown extra expense when he can just have a house on a paved street?)

Your parallel to paving roads is faulty. Firstly, paving is a finite expense, it does not go on and on as this proposed assessment would. Secondly, when we moved to this house we willingly exchanged some dust for a less busy road. I do not want West Main Street paved; people speed as it is. Calcium chloride treatments help but a row of spruces or bushes do more to reduce dust. I would prefer no treatments at all to paving or to your "solution."

Big tax cut is high-risk medicine

Phil Power

Last week the Legislature abolished the local school property tax, thereby yanking at least $5.6 billion out of funding for Michigan's kindergarten through 12th grade schools.

Contemplating the wreckage yields two conflicting feelings.

My head says at last we have a chance to break through 25 years of futile argument about school financing and get something serious done.

My heart asks if those clowns in Lansing are really going to screw my son, Nathan, who enters sixth grade this fall.

First, for the head.

There is absolutely no doubt that education in Michigan is a mess. Not only is there a tremendous disparity in per-student funding between rich districts and poor ones, but overall the system today is educating 25 percent fewer kids than it was 15 years ago, costing 25 percent more per student (after inflation) and yielding declining test scores.

Attempts to find a way out have all failed, in part because each merely tinkered at the margins (thereby allowing the lobbyists to kill anything useful) and in part because each failed to link reform in finance to serious improvement in educational quality.

Precisely because what the Legislature did last week is so radical, the pressure is on to produce far-reaching remedies. Or so they say. Already two large positions are being staked out, both based on relating spending to what kids actually learn.

One calls for "voucherizing" the entire system, giving parents vouchers for a certain amount of money and relying on market forces to drive improvements in educational quality. The other urges creating a state-wide assessment system and linking funding for schools with performance against this standard.

Both are based on widely available information about student learning. This newspaper regularly publishes results of the MEAP tests, district by district, building by building. Nothing we have ever done has aroused such intense reader interest.

My head concludes that the basis now exists for serious reform of our kindergarten through 12th grade system.

My heart reacts with the deepest possible skepticism for a number of reasons.

First, it hardly inspires confidence that even the apologists for what the Legislature did last week admit that our system of representative democracy can only function when faced with a crisis. Holding 1.8 million kids hostage to the legislative process is, well, scary.

Second, this issue is so complicated, so ideological and so infested with lobbyists representing so many special interests that it's hard to believe state government will act in time to prevent disaster. A telling indication of the Legislature's reluctance to discipline itself came when attempts to impose a deadline to come up with a financing plan before school starts in 1994 were all defeated.

Third, I'm old and grumpy, but my memory is still pretty good. And I remember two things that feel a lot like what happened last week.

■ The enormous tax cuts at the beginning of the Reagan Administration, masquerading as a stimulus to the economy, in fact provoked the disastrous ballooning of the deficit that still plagues us.

■ The U.S. Army officer said during war in Vietnam something along the line that, "We had to destroy the village in order to save it."

Sidewalk sales cater to bargain hunters in city this weekend

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Some people would walk a mile for a good deal.

Shoppers in downtown Northville this weekend can find bargains galore for the price of a short stroll.

The city hosts its annual Sidewalk Sale this Saturday, July 31, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. While city streets will not be closed for the event, the sidewalks along Main and Center will still be lined with sale items as local merchants take to the streets to display their wares, and entertainment will be provided in and around the Main Street bandshell.

"It's the sale they've been waiting for," said Kitchen Witch owner Ronnie Cambra, who helped organize the event through the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. "People can start on their Christmas shopping. It's crazy but believe it or not, there are people doing it."

The Friends of the Northville Public Library bring their annual used book sale back Saturday, with a booth at the Main Street bandshell. Forced to discontinue the annual library fund-raiser two years ago due to book storage problems, the Friends have reentered the book sale business this year after collecting used books from local residents for the past two weekends. Hardbacks and softbacks, fiction and non-fiction and children's books all will be offered for sale.

Also at the bandshell, the Center Stage Dance Studio performs throughout the day while Backbeat, a local barbershop quartet, will walk the streets between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. singing a capella tunes.

Shoppers can snack on the roasted almonds offered near the bandshell as they plan their next purchase.

Or they can head over to 139 E. Main where Ray and Lorie Novelty, owners of the new Great Harvest Bakery Company, will be handing out free samples of their baked goods.

FESTIVE FEATS

Local festival organizers offer insight to their jobs

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Novi has its Fifties, Northville has its Victorian era. They are moments in time that are celebrated here by lavish festivals that bring hundreds and hundreds of people into the area.

The planning is extensive. It starts when the festivals themselves have barely ended. And it amounts to thousands of hours of volunteer time for the people involved in planning and executing these events.

Is it worth it? The organizers of Novi's Fifties Festival and Northville's Victorian Festival say it's worth every minute and the investment is repaid many times over to the community.

Fifties Festival organizer Rhonda Gage, who breathed a satisfied sigh after Novi's sixth annual festival concluded last week, said Novi benefits by giving itself an identity. Also, she said, it acts as a gathering place for locals and raises funds for non-profit groups that, in turn, put the money back into the community.

"The fifties started a long time ago as a kind of local theme," Gage said. "The festival in particular has become a kind of meeting place for people who come back to Novi."

"Novi has a lot of people who come and go for various reasons," she added. "People tell me all the time they can be in Novi every day and not see anybody, but they can go to the festival and see people they haven't seen in four or five years."

Both of the festivals began as Chamber of Commerce brainchild designed to promote the community. Novi Chamber Executive Director Connie Mallet recalled that developing a local festival was a challenge to her when she took on her position in 1986.

The Fifties theme came along almost by accident. Mallet explained that, after the original group was formed to develop a festival, they began brainstorming for ideas. They thought of a stagecoach theme, based on the story about Novi being the "Number Six" stop on the trail, and they considered a nautical theme, since the city is situated on Walled Lake. They also considered a car theme to go along with the Motorsports Hall of Fame and the Novi Special.

"Then, I think it was (City Manager) Ed Kriewall who mentioned that we'd recently had a fifties dance, or a party with a fifties theme, and that it had been really fun and successful. So we added that idea to the list."

"Then we went to a Chamber of Commerce luncheon and we had a vote. The Fifties theme was overwhelmingly the top choice. So we decided to go with that. It wasn't until later that we started realizing that the atmosphere and history of Novi worked well with the theme."

Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs said the Victorian Festival is unique in that all of the food and drink items are provided by non-profit organizations, and the money they raise goes back into the community in the form of various projects.

Groups such as the Northville High School cheerleaders, the Mothers Club, the Rotary, the Band Boosters, the Garden Club, the Historical Society, Angela Hospice and many others have been seen along the sidewalks during past Victorian Festivals hawking items from hot dogs to lemonade.

The money earned by food and drink sales goes into the coffers of these non-profit organizations and eventually benefits the community in the form of services or civic improvements.

This year's Victorian Festival will take place Sept. 17-19.

At the Fifties Festival, food is provided by professional vendors, but non-profit organizations benefit there by providing services.

For example, organizations including the Novi Choralaires, Chamber of Commerce, Sixth Gate Cloggers, Novi Ambassadors, Lions and the Novi Newcomers and Neighbors Club all take a turn at serving beer in the beer tent. Afterwards, the beer profits are divided up and a percentage goes to the groups that worked.

Gage, who is a member of the Novi Newcomers and Neighbors, said she knows firsthand that the money they raise at the festival goes toward children's Easter baskets and back-to-school packages for needy families in Novi.

Another fund-raising activity at the Fifties Festival include Bingo, which is sponsored by the Novi Senior Center, St. James Catholic Church and the Novi High School Band Boosters. A pancake breakfast is a fund-raiser whose proceeds go completely to the Novi Optimist Club and the Novi Firefighters.

"And another thing the Fifties Festival is putting back into the community big-time is that we are putting money aside into a fund to buy a portable stage for the Parks and Recreation department, which is sorely needed," Gage added. That will amount to an estimated $50,000 donation to the community.

The Northville Victorian Festival, in addition to benefiting non-profit organizations, is a boon to the community's image, Marrs said.

People begin to associate a community with its festival. Marrs pointed out that, while Novi's ambiance and history is appropriate to a Fifties Festival, that wouldn't work as well in Northville. Northville, she said, promotes its own heritage and style with the Victorian Festival.

"It's one thing to read or hear about how beautiful Northville is and it's another thing to actually come here and walk through the historic areas or see the Victorian architecture," Marrs said.

"People come to the festival and they discover the town. Northville is somewhat of a well-kept secret, or at least it was until recently. From the very beginning no one, even some of the residents themselves, knew we were a Victorian town with a historic heritage."

Marrs said that, after the festivals, she has received calls from realtors who say their clients decided to look for a home in Northville after attending the festival.

The festival has also led to increased visits by school groups to Mill Race Village.

"The festival is Mill Race's busiest week," Marrs said. "Children see it during the festival, then they go back and tell their teachers about it."

The village, which allows classes to pack lunches and spend a day in the one-room schoolhouse, is booked during the school year.

And although local retailers say the festival itself does little in the way of cash register sales while it is going on, it does bring people back into the community for shopping at later dates.

"The festival is like an introduction to the area," Marrs said. "People go home and they come back with their friends. That's why we want people to have a good experience here and leave with a good feeling about the festival and the community. We want them to have an experience here that will bring them back."

The Victorian Festival, unlike many other area festivals, is completely free of charge.

"That's because we have sponsors that are all supportive of our community and all from Northville," she said. "We start out each year by looking for donations. In the beginning it was difficult, but now that people see the benefit of the festival they are putting it into their budgets each year."

So back to that original question. Is it worth it?

"You bet!" Gage emphasized. "When I hear the thank-yous and the it-was-greats and the we'll-come-backs and I know that everything was done so great... you bet it's worth it."

Marrs agreed.

"Now that we're coming up on our fifth year, yes, I do think it's been worth it," she said. "During the first and second year it was a real mind-boggler and there was a lot of nervousness because everything depended on the weather," she said, as she recalled the heavy rains of 1989 followed by the tornado that struck during the festival in 1990.

But those experiences have left the organizers more prepared for the weather. "And we look at the sky now and shrug. There's nothing we can do about the weather," she added.

"But yes, it is definitely well worth it. When I look at all the smiling faces and read all the letters from people saying they loved Northville, then I say yes, it was definitely worth it."

Local festivals bring out lacy finery and Elvis impersonators. Above, two Victorian Festival participants stop to chat on the streets of Northville. At left is singer Danny Vann, who performed in the Michigan '50s Festival family tent last week while (far left) 14-year-old J. Rembisz was Elvis in the lip sync contest. Amber Bonar, below, sported the finest in Victorian millinery at last September's Victorian Festival.

Students must maintain a 3.5 grade point average while taking at least 12 credit hours to achieve this honor.

Susan MacDonald/Ken Larson

Judge and Mrs. John E. MacDonald, of Northville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Elizabeth MacDonald, to Kenneth James Larson, of Valley Center, Calif. The bride elect graduated in 1987 from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts in Spanish. She was in the Sigma Kappa sorority. She is now a field representative for California Leisure Consultants, a convention/tour management group.

The bridegroom graduated in 1991 from San Diego State University with a bachelor of science in aerospace engineering. He is an engineer for Martin Marietta Advanced Technologies Operations.

The wedding is set for September.

Paul Schmit/Carol Kulha

Frank and Sue Kulha of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol, to Paul J. Schmit, of Granada Hills, Calif., son of Gregory and Annette Schmit of Flossmoor, Ill.

The bride-elect is a 1982 graduate of Mercy High School. She attended Michigan State University before moving to California where she is involved in acting and doing freelance work producing commercials and videos.

The bridegroom elect is a 1980 graduate of Northwestern University and received his medical degree from the University of Chicago. He is presently on the surgical faculty at UCLA Medical Center.

A June 11, 1994 wedding is planned.

Michael Brandon

Broadway is goal for '77 grad

On May 13, 1993, Michael Brandon received his bachelor of arts degree, summa cum laude, in musical theatre/pre-law from New York University.

After graduating from Northville High School in 1977, Mike attended Schoolcraft College before transferring on scholarship to NYU. During his senior year, Mike was honored as a University Scholar, and was also accepted as a member of Phi Kappa Lambda Honor Fraternity.

He was presented with the Theodor Presser Award for 1992, named Schnap Music Department's Student of the Year, and received the President's Service Award for Volunteerism and Community Service.

With a film/broadway career as his goal, Mike has enjoyed the opportunity of performing at New York's famous Village Gate, the Improv, and most recently as Leatherman/God in the off-broadway production of "One Day Longer."

Anniversary

Lustigs observe 50th with family

On June 25 Betty (McClain) and Ray Lustig of Country Place in Northville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The following day they were joined by many of their friends and combined families.

Relatives arrived from Ohio, Florida, Montana and California to share in the golden anniversary.

Mass was celebrated by the couple's nephew, Thomas McClain S.J., and included special readings by their four children, Cindy Dixon of Grand Rapids, Bill of Kalamazoo, Diane Schovers of Northville and Kathy Hanlon of Farmington Hills.

Mass was followed by several hours of reminiscing, "catching up" and dining.

In addition to their children, the Lustigs enjoyed the company of their 10 grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews, including three newborns.

Toy show is a baby boomer's dream

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

A collector's best friend are the "throwing out" moms.

By sweeping up their kids' toys and popping them into the garbage, shipping them off to the Goodwill or selling them off in a garage sale, they create scarcity.

And the short supply is what puts playthings like Davey Crockett coonskin hats and Shirley Temple dolls in high demand in today's collector's market.

You can see many of these childhood treasures at the Plymouth Historical Museum's new exhibit, "Rock and Roll. Toys of the Baby Boomers 1945-1965," which is running now through Halloween.

"You'd be surprised about how collectible stuff we grew up with has become," Beth Stewart, director of the Plymouth Historical Museum, said.

"My kids helped set it up. They said, 'Mom, you played with this junk?'"

The majority of the toys featured in the exhibit survived because they are part of Lawrence Scripps Wilkinson's mega-collection of 8,000 toys.

Nobody played with Wilkinson's toys. The collector kept them in their original packages, which makes each more valuable today, and donated the lot to the Detroit Historical Museum. Now living in Florida, Wilkinson is still purchasing toys and periodically ships packages to the Detroit museum.

According to Stewart, the collection's Roy Rogers and Dale Evans dolls from the 1950s, each in its own box, are now valued at $700 apiece.

The Wilkinson collection is kept in a warehouse watched over by a staff of two administrators. Museum curators like Stewart may select toys, which are available at a fee, for exhibits. Stewart said the focus was on Baby Boomers' playthings because Victorian toys were too expensive to rent.

"Old friends" selected include Mr. Peanut, Mr. Magoo, Pluto the Pup, Chatty Cathy, Popeye and Barbie. Some of them are in exhibit cases, others in a room furnished 1950s style in the museum's lobby.

While it's all a trip down memory lane for, in some cases, the not-so-older generation, Stewart says she particularly enjoys the reactions she gets from today's kids. The elementary school set will dispute a sign proclaiming Felix as the world's most famous cat, saying Garfield gets the honor.

One way Stewart will guess your age is if you are or are not aware that rock star Paul McCartney was in another group before Wings.

Evidence of McCartney's prior involvement is on display at the museum, in the form of a variety of Beatles memorabilia, including dolls.

Tastes have changed, Stewart, 36, found. Kids today love the Elvis part of the exhibit.

"Elvis was a dweeb when we were kids, now it's like he's cool," she said.

"They couldn't believe Mickey Mouse was around when we were kids."

Today's kids touring the museum are typically shocked by the number of toy guns the Baby Boomers toiled, to say nothing of a 1954-model, battery-operated, toy nuclear reactor.

"Everything was influenced by television, TV advertising, TV shows," Stewart explained.

Other toys illustrate the era's affair with cars, space ships and the Wild West.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is at 155 S. Main St. in downtown Plymouth. Hours are Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 1-4 p.m. and Sundays from 2-5 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students and $4 for families. For information, call 455-8940.

The pub is on Main Street at Hutton.

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slowly. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. Just like the "ring" sticks to the side walls of your bathtub, this gook sticks to the inner side walls of your pipes.

Old-fashioned drain openers cannot remove this build up. They run along the bottom of your pipes. Even a small tunnel in the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind!

Now you can make your pipes run like new with Plumb Clean. Not a drain opener, it's an advanced plumbing cleaner. Its revolutionary one-of-a-kind formula attaches and penetrates into the waste. Then, in just one to three weeks, it liquefies years of build up that drain openers can't even reach. Cleans from sink to sewer, not just the trap. Plumb Clean is so effective it is money-back guaranteed!

SAVE MONEY. Because drain openers can't reach the gook on the sides of your pipes you have two choices. Call a plumber and spend $60-$120, or save money and use Plumb Clean.

Now don't be fooled by look-alikes. Their label has safety cautions instead of a guarantee. And since they aren't as strong, their directions have you use twice as much. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

'The Fugitive' adds depth to hit TV series

His heart is pounding; shuddering breaths rasp raggedly in his throat. Like hunted prey, he keeps running. Exhausted, he cannot stop. Even the slightest hesitation could mean capture — or death.

At every corner there is danger; each shadow threatens to be the enemy. Dr. Richard Kimble is caught in a nightmare from which he cannot awake. He is a fugitive. And there is no sanctuary.

Harrison Ford stars as the wrongly convicted Richard Kimble and Tommy Lee Jones is U.S. Marshal Sam Gerard, his relentless pursuer. In "The Fugitive," a tense suspense thriller based on the hit television series of the 1960s.

Dr. Richard Kimble, a distinguished Chicago surgeon, has the perfect life — a beautiful wife, Helen (Sela Ward); a prominent standing in the community, an expensive townhouse located in an exclusive Chicago neighborhood.

A perfect life, that is — until the night Helen was murdered.

Returning home from an emergency surgery, Kimble surprised an intruder in the house. Moments later, he found his gravely injured wife, who died in his arms.

Kimble is accused of her murder; his claim of seeing a one-armed man leaving his house is discounted. Circumstantial evidence mounts against the horrified doctor. When the trial is over, Kimble, though innocent, is convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

En route to the state penitentiary in a prison bus, some of the other prisoners attempt to escape, causing the bus to careen out of control and into the path of an oncoming train. At the last second, Kimble narrowly escaped certain death and begins an obsessive odyssey to track down his wife's real killer — "the one-armed man" (Andreas Katsulas) whom he alone saw.

But Kimble is now a fugitive. As soon as his escape is discovered, he becomes the object of an intense manhunt led by Deputy U.S. Marshal Sam Gerard, a grimly determined federal agent who, with the help of his aggressive partner, Renfro (Joe Pantoliano), and a team of other marshalls, has sworn to bring Kimble to justice.

Surviving by his wits, Kimble becomes a desperate man with no identity, constantly in flight. His only hope for the future lies in righting the grievous wrong of his past — and time is running out as Gerard closes in.

Among the outstanding actors in the supporting cast is Jerome Krabbe, as Dr. Charles Nichols.

"The Fugitive" is directed by Andrew Davis; Arnold Kopelson produces. Roy Huggins, who created the original series, and Keith Barish are executive producers.

Like millions of people throughout the world, Kopelson, the Academy Award-winning producer of "Platoon," and producer (with Herschel Weingrod and Timothy Harris) of Warner Bros.' and New Regency's "Falling Down," was a fan of "The Fugitive" as the hugely successful television series starring David Janssen.

"It has always been my dream to produce a major motion picture based on the series," said Kopelson. "The story is one we can all relate to; we sympathize with Dr. Richard Kimble, falsely accused of killing his wife. We know he's innocent and root for him to find the real killer."

Harrison Ford plays Dr. Richard Kimble in the movie version of the classic TV series.

"We're also infuriated with Gerard's obsessive pursuit of Kimble. Why doesn't he understand that Kimble is innocent and there really is a one-armed man?"

To portray one of the world's most famous antagonists, Deputy U.S. Marshal Sam Gerard (Lieutenant Gerard in the series), the filmmakers cast the versatile Tommy Lee Jones, Oscar-nominated as Best Supporting Actor for his work in "JFK."

Jones said his motivation for taking the role of the tireless federal agent was quite simple. "I've worked with Arnold Kopelson (the producer) before; I've worked with Andy Davis (the director) before, and I've never had the opportunity to work with Harrison Ford. Those are enough reasons for going to work."

The role of the menacing one-armed man is chillingly portrayed by 6'3" character actor Andrea Katsulas, who admits he knew little of the original series.

Due to the popularity of the television show, Davis is prepared for inevitable comparisons. "The movie is a modern version of a classic thriller. The challenge for me was to make it seem fresh and alive in ways that people wouldn't expect and still satisfy all the strengths of the TV series. The main difference is that this film has a much more in-depth view of Richard Kimble and what caused him to be a man on the run," he said.

What Ford hopes to convey on screen is Kimble's altruism, and most importantly, his genuine love for his wife. "When we first meet Kimble, he is a prominent vascular surgeon who has an ego and a degree of vanity. He appreciates beauty and fine living. He is happy in his work and with his life, and he's doing well by doing good."

"Kimble is very happily married," noted Ford. "He and Helen have a relationship based on trust and devotion. They depend upon each other rather than on the people around them, which makes her death all the more painful and makes him more driven to find the real killer."

Ford describes his relationship with Gerard as that of cat and mouse, but he doesn't view him as a bad guy. "Gerard is just doing his job; ultimately, Kimble doesn't care whether or not Gerard believes in his innocence. Kimble's sole intent is to find the real bad guy, the person behind the murder."

Bette Middler soars in new Disney film

HOCUS POCUS
By Pamela Thibodeau
Milford

What do you get when you cross a modern day comedy with a 300-year-old Salem Witch hunt? A hilarious broomstick/slapstick.

Walt Disney Pictures cleverly cooks up a bewitching concoction. New kid on the block at Salem High School, Max Dennison, falls into the hands of the legendary Sander-son sisters, played by Bette Middler, Sarah Jessica Parker and Kathy Najimy.

Max, skeptical of hocus pocus stones, believes that Halloween is just an invention by the candy companies. The story asks the proverbial, "Do you believe?" Well, Allison, Max's girl interest will make a believer out of him; but it won't be easy.

The race is on for the witches to recapture their needed spell book before daylight. The kids befriend the boy who the legends say the sisters transformed into a black cat. How the cat helps them out gives a new meaning to the term, "cat got your tongue?"

The story includes mesmerizing witchcraft riddles, modern day broomsticks and a spell book that would give the Addams Family's Thing a run for his money.

Is it trick or treat? The trick is that the movie is not being released for Halloween. The treat is that Bette Middler is, as always, totally entertaining.

JURASSIC PARK
By Carol Canavan
Northville

The "terrible lizards" of yore and their recreation by Steven Spielberg are the real stars and most memorable images of this basic monster movie.

After an eminent scientist clones ancient dinosaur genes and constructs a sanctuary for the resulting reptiles, fellow scientists Laura Dern and Sam Neill, along with the cloner's grandson become lost in the park.

Will anyone escape humankind's brush with the Jurassic age?

This dilemma is not new to movies, but the monsters, in their vast variety and natural habitat, are very realistic.

Probably the most appreciative audience lies in the age 13 into the 20s category.

SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE
By Mike Kapusky
Northville

A great, feel-good movie! It is the story of Sam, played by Tom Hanks, going on in life with his 8-year-old son after his wife died.

When his son, played by Ross Malinger, calls a nationwide radio show and gets Sam to talk about his wife, it all begins.

Great acting, simple plot and a wide variety of music that fit perfectly.

I am giving "Sleepless in Seattle" four stars. (This scale is based on a five-star basis, with five being the best).

Go see it. It is a great movie!

Eastwood's back in 'formula' thriller

By Scott Sigler

Who cares if it's formula, as long as it's good.

"In the Line of Fire" is a first-class action thriller, although the movie holds nothing new for box-office magnet Clint Eastwood.

Eastwood plays — now see if this sounds familiar — a tough, lone-wolf, gun-toting man who has lost his family long ago and is the only one who can save the day.

Don't forget to add the tough but ravishing love-interest (Rene Russo) or the bumbling but sensitive expendable partner (Dylan McDermott).

No, nothing new, but after all — this is an Eastwood thriller. Is it formula? Maybe. But like all those other lone-wolf movies, everyone's favorite dry-witted tough guy makes this flick work like a charm.

Eastwood portrays Secret Service agent Frank Horrigan, the only active agent to have lost a president. As the president's chief of security in 1963, Horrigan was standing right next to John F. Kennedy when the fatal shots rang out.

Thirty years have passed since that day, and Horrigan still works as an undercover agent for the service. When he and his young partner are called in to investigate an apartment-wall presidential assassins' shrine, the aging agent catches the eye of hopeful giant killer Mitch Leary (John Malkovich).

Leary has one goal in his misguided, miserable life — kill the president. He would have been happy to go on about his business in a non-descript manner, calmly plotting the president's death beneath a mask of anonymity. With the arrival of Horrigan, however, the game takes on a sadistic new spin.

The web of anonymity disappears as Leary fixates on the agent. Now it's not enough to just kill the president — he has to broadcast each step to the most experienced Secret Service agent in the country.

Leary is drawn to Horrigan, feeling the lone-wolf agent is a kindred spirit. The would-be assassin can bask in his own glory by tauntingly challenging Horrigan and still pulling off the crime.

That taunting becomes more frantic as the movie reaches its fevered climax. Leary feeds on Horrigan's fear and frustration. An emotional vampire on a kamikaze run with history, Leary takes perverse pleasure in his final days by mentally torturing the agent.

Take heart, viewers and fans. Horrigan may be battered by verbal jabs and emotional body-blows, but he has a few punches of his own waiting for the late rounds.

This is Eastwood, after all.

The seemingly immortal actor is guided through this white-knuckle seat-grIPPING thriller by director Wolfgang Peterson ("Das Boot," "Shattered"), an old pro at the psychological action-drama game. Peterson keeps the pace up throughout the entire movie while still developing characters and orchestrating a believable plot.

Peterson's talents come to the fore in the mandatory chase scene. Sending the actors hurtling across the low rooftops of Washington D.C., the director has the viewers hanging more precariously than Horrigan, who is dangling six stories up held by nothing other than his slipping fingertips. Eastwood did his own stunts for the amazingly dangerous shots, although Malkovich's sick-puppy antics steal the scene.

Malkovich almost steals the entire show with the calculated, controlled rage of Leary. A frighteningly real villain, the shy, soft-spoken Malkovich lulls the viewer into a chilled complacency. When he does erupt in paranoid frustration, you have little doubt that this man could and will kill the president.

Eastwood, who won an Oscar for his directorial talents in "The Unforgiven," delivers a performance that's almost sure to send him an acting nomination in the golden-statue festival.

Old Clint is still the gristle-tough man fans flock to see, but perhaps he's softening with age. His portrayal of Horrigan, a character haunted by monsters of the past and present, is commanding and utterly real. We almost get to see the star cry — the same man who sneered his way through Dirty Harry's trying life.

This is Eastwood, after all.

Runners embrace Northville race

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

And the winner is . . . the city of Northville.

The 10th Annual RoadRunner Classic was a smash hit with runners and city residents alike Saturday, according to world class marathoner and race organizer Doug Kurtis. More than 1,000 runners competed in the eight-kilometer race, which wound through the streets of Northville.

"It was absolutely great," said Kurtis. "All the runners want to come back. We got nothing but great comments."

It was the city's first time as host for the event, which attracted some excellent local runners, according to Kurtis. Livonia had hosted the race in previous years.

The Classic was sponsored by the Redford Road Runners. Kurtis said more than 100 volunteers from his club worked the race, keeping runners on the right path and handing out water.

The race began at Cady and Center streets and headed east on Cady before turning back on Griswold to westbound Main Street. Runners were treated to a trip through Northville's historic district before finishing at Northville Downs.

"It's really scenic," Kurtis said. "Running by all the Victorian homes gives it a quaint atmosphere."

Many runners said the course was more demanding than Livonia's. Times were faster than previous years, Kurtis noted, however.

"It's the best weather we've ever had for the race," he said. "It was cool . . . just perfect."

About 900 runners competed in the 8-K. Kurtis said 100 or more runners participated in the one-mile fun run and the Classic Junior, held for children under 12.

Proceeds from the race go to the Doug Kurtis Scholarship Fund. The $1,000 scholarship goes to a deserving runner at Northville High School. Although final numbers weren't in, Kurtis said the race generated $200-$300 for the fund.

Age bracket winners are listed below:

James Carlton, White Lake, 14 and under; Brian Woodcock, Troy, 15-19-year-olds; Aaron Prussian, Saline, 19-24-year-olds; Eric Laywell, Memphis, 25-29-year-olds; Rick Brauer, Northville, 30-34-year-olds; David Black, Ann Arbor, 35-39-year-olds; Richard Fedorick, Taylor, 40-44-year-olds and Bill Stewart, Ann Arbor, 50-59-year-olds.

Brauer's 25:15.1 was the overall best time for males. Other top Northville finishes included: Mike Mittman and Joe Leo, second and third in the 15-19-year-olds; James McBride, third place in the 40-44 age group.

Women's top finishers included:

Alexis Lund, North Muskegon, 14 and under; Emily Shively, Farmington Hills, 15-18-year-old; Michele Gillsple, Roseville, 25-29-year-olds; Dawn Massie, Ypsilanti, 30-34-year-olds; Ella Willis, Detroit, 35-39-year-olds; Barb Meys, Detroit, 45-49-year-olds; Kathy Machesky, Walled Lake, 50-59-year-olds and Christine Willis, Waterford, 60 and over.

Ella Willis was the overall female winner in 28:33.4.

Shooting star

Stelmach rolls to success with WRHL's Titans

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Perhaps his legs have a little less bounce than they did a few years ago. Maybe his slap shot has lost a couple of miles per hour and his checks aren't quite as bone-crunching.

But whatever physical abilities time has taken from Ken Stelmach, it hasn't stripped him of his desire to play the sport he loves. So when a chance to earn a spot in the fledgling World Roller Hockey League came up last winter, the Northville businessman jumped at it.

"I think I'll play hockey the rest of my life," said the 31-year-old. "It's tough to get out of your blood."

Stelmach tried out in January and impressed league officials enough to earn a one-year contract. He was then placed on the Michigan-sponsored Titans, which finished runners-up in the eight team WRHL.

"I'll play this as long as the league is around," he commented. "It was a lot of fun."

Stelmach's hockey career began at an early age. Practically from the time he could walk, he was on skates.

The 1980 Northville High graduate went through the hockey ranks from squirts to a stint with the Detroit Junior Red Wings. Stelmach was recruited out of juniors by several maior colleges, including traditional powers Michigan State University and Boston College, and finally accepted a scholarship offer from Ferris State University.

"I think I'll play hockey the rest of my life. It's tough to get out of your blood."

"A lot of my friends were going there," he said.

Stelmach said he had some good years as a Bulldog forward. He described himself as a checker/scorer.

"I thrived on physical contact," he said. "I was kind of a nut-cake on ice."

After college it was on to professional hockey for Flint of the International Hockey League, an NHL minor league. Stelmach played a few games for the Spirits before deciding to hang 'em up and concentrate on business full-time.

Since then, Stelmach's landscaping company has grown from "working out of the back of my truck" to modest success. While work has claimed much of his energies over recent years he has still found time for hockey.

Stelmach, in fact, has played in the Westland senior open league, which features many ex-college players, since 1985. He said he couldn't imagine not competing.

"It's a sport I've played all of my life," he added.

Stelmach heard of the WRHL through friends in Westland.

The league, which is sponsored by Disney and ESPN, held its 12-game season over a three week period in May. All contests were played at MGM studios in Orlando, Fla., according to Stelmach.

While most of ice hockey's rules and playing conditions are maintained in the WRHL, a few major differences do exist. The most obvious, of course, is in equipment.

Players use rollerblades instead of skates. Little padding is worn and the game is played on a plastic surface instead of ice.

While incidental contact is allowed, checking isn't. There are no red lines either, meaning players have more offensive freedom. Teams play with five players instead of six in ice hockey.

Stelmach said the game is faster-paced and good passing is the key to victory.

"It's almost like a giant game of keep-away," he said.

Heat was the biggest problem during the short season. Temperatures on the plastic surface were close to 100 degrees much of the time.

"It was brutal," said Stelmach. "I lost six pounds in one game."

Despite the heat, he did very well in the WRHL. Before being sidelined by a knee injury, Stelmach led the league in scoring. He tallied 13 goals and nine assists in six games.

Not bad, considering the league featured such ex-NHL stars like Robert Picard and Ron Duguay.

"There's a lot of talent in the league," said Stelmach.

The WRHL was also successful with excellent ratings on ESPN. The league will return next March, said Stelmach, who earned $5,000 playing for the Titans.

Longer contracts and higher compensation are likely in the next few years in the WRHL.

Waterford sinks Mantle squad 8-2

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Northville Mucky Mantle squad closed its regular season on a down note Saturday with an 8-2 setback to Waterford.

The visitors scored in every inning but the sixth to rout Northville. The locals managed just two hits.

"It was pretty disappointing with the bats," said coach Paul Newitt.

Northville scored single runs in the fifth and sixth innings. David McCulloch singled home Anell Kersey in the fifth and Jeff Luterek was hit by a pitch, stole a base and was wild pitched home in the sixth.

McCulloch took the loss on the mound.

Northville finishes the regular season with a 12-8 league mark. Newitt said his club finished in 10th place, two spots out of a playoff berth in the 31-team league.

The Mantle team will play again next week as the host for the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series. Winning that tournament would send Northville to the national "Super Series" in Texas.

WESTLAND 4, NORTHVILLE 2

The contest was called after five innings because of a bench-clearing fight. Newitt said words were exchanged by some players causing a short brawl.

"It was an embarrassing day for Northville baseball," he commented.

Umpires ended the game after the fight with Westland ahead. The home team scored twice in the fourth and fifth innings.

Northville got two in the fourth on RBI singles by Chuck Yessalan and Glen Pinneo.

DETROIT 5, NORTHVILLE 2

Northville started the week by facing a tough Detroit Pal team.

Real baseball back in town

Scott
Daniel

2-1 nail-bitter more exciting than the four-hour 12-10 turkeys we see today.

Everytime you turn on the radio or TV you hear MLB is losing fans to basketball and football. Scouts say, as a result, young athletes are turning to those sports and leaving their teams

Each year, it seems, the quality of baseball we see in the major leagues goes down a little bit.

Pitching gets a little worse, batters do nothing but strikeout or hit a home run — let alone lay down a good bunt. Call me old fashioned, but I've always found a 3-2 or with less talent to choose from.

Well, folks, have I got a deal for you. Real baseball is back in town.

Starting today, Northville will host the National Amateur Baseball Federation Sophomore World Series.

Some of the finest baseball you'll see all summer will be played all weekend at Northville High and at Livonia's Madonna University. Youngsters 13 and 14-years-old will compete for the series title in the double-elimination tournament.

Teams from around the country, including Maryland, Florida, Ohio and Washington, will compete. Host Northville will also field a team as well.

Defending champion Putty Hill, Md., will defend its crown. The squad beat homestate rival Reistertown last summer for the title.

Opening ceremonies start at 8 a.m. this morning. Mayor Chris Johnson and Township Supervisor Karen Baja will be on hand to throw out the first pitch.

Games start at 9 a.m. with Northville taking the field against Putty Hill. Other games will follow at noon and 3 p.m.

A banquet at Northville High will conclude today's activities. Genetti's will cater the event and serve chicken and Italian favorites. Cost is $8 for adults and $4 for children under 12.

Baseball will resume tomorrow at 9 a.m. with games every three hours. Madonna will host a 9 a.m. (Five Mile and Hubbard).

Play will conclude either Saturday or Sunday, depending on tournament results. Admission for all the games is absolutely free.

Next week, the Junior NABF World Series will be played in Northville. An identical format, the tournament features 15 and 16-year-old players.

Greens make Hilltop demanding

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If Hilltop Golf Club had perfectly flat putting greens it would still be a challenge.

But, as anyone who's traveled south down Beck Road to the Plymouth course knows, it doesn't. In fact, if you find any level putting surface at Hilltop you've really done something.

"It has the 18 toughest putting greens, together, in the state of Michigan," says veteran Plymouth golfer Mort Weisling. "And I've played all the courses in Michigan."

If that sounds like an overstatement, it probably isn't. In an average round at Hilltop, golfers can expect to have no more than a handful of easy, straight-on putts. Otherwise, be prepared to sweat-out every stroke with the short stick.

"It's no picnic," said Hilltop Golf Director John Jawor. "It's a very difficult course as far as the greens."

The PGA professional said Hilltop is maintained as well or better than any public course in the state. The course annually holds Michigan

Open qualifying rounds as well as several USGA events — buttressing Jawor's claims.

"It's a marvelous course," Weisling said.

Hilltop opened in 1927 as a nine-hole course. Under Jawor's guidance it became an 18-hole facility in 1981. All that remains from the old course are putting greens at the No. 1, 4 and 10 holes.

"You might as well say it's a new course," Jawor said.

Some 4,000 trees have been added over the years, giving Hilltop a much different feel from its pre-1981 days. Where the old course was open, it's now fairly tight and demanding.

The par-3, 185-yard second hole is a good example.

Golfers must use enough club to get over a stream that runs 20 yards in front of the green but not so much to fly way by. Thick trees and brush are behind and left of the green while a pond feeds the stream in front. There's a little room to miss on the right, but not much.

As for adventure, you can find it at No. 4. A dog-leg left 392-yard par-4, the hole is rated the fifth most difficult at Hilltop and requires smart play.

Trying to cut the corner (as I did) to the green is a big mistake. Unless you can hit a 300-yard drive and fly over a grouping of thin trees along the left side of the fairway, play it safe.

Hitting the green at the fourth isn't easy, even after a good drive. Golfers must drop their shots on to a green elevated about 20 feet from the fairway. To make matters more difficult, the green slopes down toward the fairway. With the pin in the front of the green, shooting par here is excellent.

Teeing off downhill can give players a false sense of security at the sixth hole. A 387-yard par-4, the hole can reward a small slice.

But the real challenge of the hole is finding the green. Protected by woods on all sides, anything but an accurate shot will lose a golf ball.

The 185-yard, par-3 ninth is another test in accuracy. Hitting the large surface shouldn't be a problem for most. But with a front pin placement, hitting the backside of the green is a sure way to three-putt.

Bakra Bata performs tonight

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

If you're in the mood for a unique kind of fusion music that is energetic and exhilarating, stop by the Novi High School athletic field at 7 p.m. for another great Novi Parks and Recreation Sounds of Summer concert tonight.

Bakra Bata is a steel drum and percussion ensemble based in Seattle, Wash. Bakra Bata meaning "professional merry makers" devotes its ideas, energy, message and meaning expressed in the incantations of vibrations and feelings, to the mysterious final language of longings and belongings — music!

The group, under the direction of Michael Shantz, has created a distinctly American style in music and dance that draws from the roots of the Caribbean, African, Brazilian, and Native American traditions. Shantz has been a life long student of world music and a performing musician for 15 years. Eliso Pitta, a contemporary Afro-American dancer and choreographer has been working with Bakra Bata since 1986.

The primary instrument featured by the band is the steel pan, a product of innovative genius of Afro-Caribbean musicians and instrumentalists. Bakra Bata emphasizes rhythm and thus utilizes a great variety of percussion instruments such as conga drums, bells, shakers and Yoruba talking drums. In addition, they also perform traditional and contemporary dance and drumming pieces.

Along with Bakra Bata the concert audience will also be treated to a performance by the Glassmen Drum and Bugle Corps at 8:30 p.m. The Toledo-based group has members who travel from as far away as Canada and Holland in order to spend their summer touring the country, competing against the top drum and bugle corps in the United States.

Four of our own Novi residents are members of this illustrious group. Holli Kendra, a 1991 Novi High graduate, and Russ McMartin, a 1993 Novi High graduate play the bugles. Another 1993 grad, T.J. Weinberg plays contra-bass for the Glassmen. Tyler Harris plays the cymbals in the corps' percussion section and will continue to play in Novi's marching band in his junior year at Novi High.

Get the family together tonight and stop by the Novi High athletic field for a truly enjoyable evening listening to Bakra Bata and the Glassmen Drum and Bugle Corps. This fabulous summer concert series is sponsored by Providence Medical Center, Ford Motor Company Foundation and Novi Parks and Recreation. Don't forget that Border Cantina, Honey Tree, Leon's, Olive Garden, Red Robin, Ruby Tuesday, and Salvatore Scallopini have donated "Lunches for 2" that are given away as prize drawings during each concert. There are also free lemonade, pretzels, balloons and blowing bubbles for the kids.

Fun and fitness can go together

Randy Step

After a good night's sleep, a great workout or healthy meal, I feel fantastic. My self confidence and self-esteem are improved.

You would think, though, after experiencing these rewards firsthand, that I would never skip a workout, eat high fat meal or stay out until the wee hours of the morning with beer in hand. But somehow, sometimes I do — even though the repercussions include guilt and uncertain inner dialogues with myself about my own loss of self-control.

Why, when I feel committed to a healthy lifestyle, do these incidents occur? I've given some thought to this tug-of-war between healthy practices and unhealthy slip-ups, especially on the "morning after," especially when I'm making one of those "never again" promises.

And what I've concluded is that one major reason I don't always follow a healthy lifestyle is that life itself is so exciting and captivating that I don't want to miss any of it. With people, travel, adventure, nature and learning all packed into a 24-hour day, getting enough sleep is sometimes the first principle to go and staying fit is the second. When you add gourmet cooking into the mix, the concept of healthy eating can bite the dust, too.

So what's the answer when it comes to following a healthy lifestyle — or is there one? Will this be a life-long struggle and, if so, is it worth it? For me, the answers are: no, there's not an overall answer or solution; yes, it will be a life-long struggle; and yes, it is worth it.

I have mentioned in past articles that permanent changes in lifestyle can be difficult to make. The older we get, the slower and harder it can be to achieve change, but still, we can do it. Even when we make a poor choice, we learn from it, though we may not realize it at the time. Plus, it's encouraging to know that the more healthy choices we make, the more likely we are to establish a long-term pattern of healthy

Bit by bit, as we continue to make positive changes, the quality of our lives improves, too. The food binges get farther apart and the late nights out become a rarity. Exercise eventually becomes a part of daily life and continues to give us more enjoyment and a greater sense of accomplishment.

There will always be experiences in life that we won't want to miss, even though they may not always involve healthy choices and may come with some degree of guilt. But if we persevere and continue in the right direction, the number of healthy choices we make will increase, and improve the overall quality of our lives.

I guarantee that, if you keep trying and don't get discouraged by setbacks, you'll look back in a few years and, remembering what you used to eat and how you spent your time, see an improvement. Just stick with it. Randy Step is president of American Exercise and Running Fit, a retail chain of fitness stores. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at U-M Health Centers.

Individual home buyers are increasing dramatically

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The number of single individuals buying a home is dramatically increasing, according to several national studies.

"We have experienced a steady increase in the number of individual buyers, men and women, during the past few months," said Barry Moore, owner of Barry Moore & Associates, a medium-size real estate brokerage firm. "In fact, this segment of home buyers now makes up 15 to 20 percent of transactions we handle."

Cathy Mims, president of a regional Association of Realtors, also reports a notable increase in the number of single buyers.

"Today's single individuals want privacy, space and pride of ownership," Mims said. "The majority of single-buyer transactions our firm has handled recently are for women."

Nationally, singles are the fastest-growing segment of the population. The increasing number of divorces and people who concentrate on their careers rather than marriage during early adult life contribute to the trend. And more people are electing to not marry at all.

Also, people are living longer and many elderly people are widowed. These are key factors pushing up the proportion of singles.

Increasingly, those singles want to own their home rather than rent a residence. And many believe this is the time to buy while mortgage interest rates are low and home values are lower than they have been in recent years.

From 1980 to 1990, the homeownership rate for singles rose from 45 percent to nearly 50 percent, while the rate fell for all other household types, according to a study by the National Association of Home Builders.

"Singles make up a small but growing portion of the home buying market today and will become an even more important part of the market in the future," said NAHB president Roger Glunt. Singles are growing in importance as a market segment because their numbers are increasing.

In 1960, single-person households made up 13 percent of the population. In 1990, their share

The countryside Contessa offers neatness and space

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

"A place for everything and everything in its place."

That saying fits the countryside Contessa to a T.

Inspired by ideas from a reader in Amherst, N.Y., we've provided clear separation of living environments in this plan.

Family areas are at the center, with informal spaces at the back and formal rooms at the front.

Bedrooms and a den are to the right, master suite and utility room to the left.

Dining room, living room and entry are vaulted, adding to the impression of spaciousness. Glass cabinets define the entryway, providing some separation between the living room and dining room without destroying the open feeling.

In addition to being richly windowed at the ground level, the entire area is brightened by two dormer windows overhead.

The kitchen/family room is huge and just as bright. Windows line a long back wall expanded by a bayed eating nook. And with two skylights over the kitchen, electric lights will rarely be needed during the day.

An L-shaped eating bar juts into the family room and provides extra counter space. From the built-in cooktop, meals are easily served to people at the counter or in the dining room. Shelves on one side of the walk-in pantry can be accessed through doors that open to the kitchen.

Expanded by a wide bay window, the master suite is a bright and luxurious adult retreat with a walk-in closet and a skylit private bath. A second vanity is located outside the bathroom, in the dressing area.

Controls for a home security system are in the adjacent hallway.

The utility room is much larger than most. Features include a pull-down ironing board and ample counter space. A sewing machine would fit nicely here.

The garage is extra-roomy too, and comes outfitted with storage shelves.

Off to the right of the central living area are a powder room, two bedrooms that share a compartmentalized bathroom, and another room that could be used as a den, home office or whatever. Storage space lines the long hallway.

For additional storage, the Contessa could be built over a full or partial basement.

For a study plan of the Contessa (332-022) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Sunlight key to hibiscus

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

Q. I have two questions involving my houseplants. One, why do some of the hibiscus blossoms fall off before they are fully developed? What can be done to prevent this?

Two, I have an arella (false, I think) and a California palm, which are nearing my ceiling. Both are healthy plants, which I would like to save.

What should I do?
A. The main requirements for constant bloom in hibiscus is abundant sunlight. Moderate humidity (30 percent or more), cool temperature (50 to 60 degrees F) and freely circulating air also help all buds mature into flowers of perfection!

It is the nature of hibiscus to grow into large shrubs so it's perfectly OK to prune them to convenient size at any time. If the soil dries severely, many leaves will turn yellow and fall, as will any developing flower buds! Drafts of hot, dry air and soil that has become soggy from poor drainage will cause similar symptoms.

During the warm months of summer, place your plant outdoors in a sunny spot.

Most people who have a few houseplants eventually own dozens, even hundreds! Why? Because multiplying them is almost irresistible once you discover how fascinating and easy propagating plants can be.

For instance, who could dislike acquiring for free a whole new palm plant just by "air-layering" the parent? It's also an easy way of increasing those shrubs, plants or trees that are difficult to raise from cuttings.

Both of your plants should be air-layered.

Q. I bought a package of eight different tomato plants. They all grew well and had a lot of tomatoes. There was only one problem. The tomatoes never turned completely red. The tops around the stem stayed yellow.

Can you tell me why my tomatoes didn't turn all red?
A. The high points in tomato culture are planting on fertile, moisture-holding soil, and keeping the weeds under control. Tomatoes seem to thrive under a wide range of soil and climatic conditions.

Buying or starting strong plants is important and using

Hibiscus how-to

- Keep plant in abundant sunlight.
- Plants thrive on moderate humidity, cool temperature and good air circulation
- Keep soil moist
- Prune as necessary.

Neighboring attitude can help beat carpenter ants

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I read your column concerning termites, which prompts me to inquire about carpenter ants. For the past few years, there have been carpenter ants inhabiting my wooden fence, which connects on both sides to my neighbors' wooden fences. I have seen no evidence that they are in my house.

What treatment can I use?

Wouldn't my neighbors have to treat their fences also to take care of this problem?

A. I would call in an exterminator but would like to avoid the expense if there is a home remedy. Also, I have a feeling unless my neighbors would use an exterminator, it would not be advisable. Please advise!—CE.

A. As you already suspect, in order to correct the problem, you and your neighbors must act together to attack the infestation.

HOW TO

There are several products available that will deter and sometimes clear the infested wood of these pests. Ortho Hornet & Wasp spray is one effective pesticide for use on carpenter ants. Spray the wood wherever you see signs of the ants. Once the ants have died, sprinkle diazinon around the perimeter of the fence.

A word of caution: Diazinon is a strong chemical and its use is outlawed in several states due to environmental concerns.

There are non-chemical alternatives you can try. Use lines of bone meal or powdered charcoal (which ants loathe to cross) around the perimeter of the fence as an entry barrier. Or use the fresh juice of lemon in the same manner. Include slices of fresh lemon in your barrier. You also can try fresh or dried cucumber peelings to repel them.

If you can get your neighbors to cooperate, I suggest that you contact an exterminating firm or firms, and get a quote from them on professional treatment. Be sure to inquire about guarantees concerning reinfestation. If the cost is shared, you may find that this is the best method of protection. One chemical treatment may be all that you will need.

Regardless of the approach, keep in mind that carpenter ants like moist conditions (such as might be caused by roof leaks, poorly maintained gutters, damp crawl spaces and bushes against a fence or house). If you do not eliminate moisture problems around your home and the fencing, you will likely have reinfestation.

Send inquiries to Here's How, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190. Only questions of general interest can be answered in the column.

Individual home buyers are increasing dramatically; worn tire construction had increased to 25 percent. It may go as high as 29 percent by the year 2000, according to a report from the Joint Center for Housing Studies at Harvard University.

The home builders association divides the singles population into three major submarkets: Elderly widowed over age 64, middle-aged divorced and separated from age 35 to 64, and young never-marrieds under age 35.

Elderly widows are the most likely to own their own homes, but middle-aged singles are catching up, the NAHB study revealed. In fact, from 1980 to 1990, home-ownership among the middle-aged singles grew by 10 percent. By 1990, about 50 percent of those singles owned homes. Young singles are least likely to buy a home.

As you might expect, people living alone tend to live in smaller homes than people who live with others. Three-quarters of all solo renters live in housing units with less than 1,000 square feet.

When singles decide to buy a home, they usually select a previously owned residence, as opposed to a newly constructed house. And they are less likely to want a big yard.

They are generally willing to give up some features, like a large living room, for affordability. Also, proximity to work and shopping are more critical to them than to other home buyers, according to the NAHB study.

Q. Is it true that old, worn-out auto tires are sometimes used as a building material in the construction of new homes?

A. Definitely. The most famous house in which old tires and cans were recycled as building materials belongs to actor Dennis Weaver in Colorado. This unique luxury home was recently completed on the Western slope of the Rockies.

Old tires also are used for other types of construction. For example, when financial adviser John Brant designed and built a garden terrace wall in his steeply sloping backyard garden, his primary construction material was old tires, each filled with about 300 pounds of dirt packed into the tires solidly with a sledgehammer.

The utility utilized about 100 tires and a lot of dirt, all acquired at no cost. Most of the tires came from dealers who were happy to get rid of them.

The dirt came from a nearby construction job. The contractor was so glad to have a convenient place to take his surplus dirt, he delivered it free to the Brant residence, dumping it on the front driveway. If the terrace wall project was handled by an outside contractor it would probably cost about $2,200, Brant estimated.

Being an avid environmentalist (like Weaver), Brant likes the idea of recycling usable materials as well as the cost savings. The finished product should increase his home's value. It's a form of sweat-equity enhancement.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

This rocker could sell for $225 to $235.

Rocker is from the 19th century

By Anne McColam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a maple rocker I purchased at a relative's sale. What can you tell me about its vintage and value?

A. This rocker is late Victorian and was made in the last quarter of the 19th century.

It would probably sell in the $225 to $235 range.

Q. I have a set of miniature books of the "Little Leather Library," which belonged to my aunt. They are short classics by famous authors. The books are 3 by 4 inches and are bound in green leather.

I am curious what era these books come from, if they are collectible, and what would be their value?

A. These books were published by the thousands in the early 20th century. They are not valuable collectibles and usually sell for less than $1.

Q. My grandmother gave me a porcelain bowl that has been in my family for years. It is 7-1/2 inches in diameter and is decorated with white roses against a shaded green background. The mark on the bottom has two daisies with their stems crossed and the letters "J&C."

Could you please give me any information about its origin and value?

A. Your bowl was made by Jaeger & Co. in Marktredwitz, Bavaria, Germany. The mark indicates it was made around 1902.

The value might be about $45 to $55.

ANTIQUES

Q. I have a full set of china that was manufactured by Heinrich & Co. in Bavaria, Germany. The set consists of a 91-piece service for 12, and seven serving pieces that are in excellent condition. The china is two-tone white, with gold trim and a dark-blue pattern set into the gold.

I would greatly appreciate if you would give me an appraisal of my china.

A. Your china was made by Heinrich & Co., Selb, Bavaria, Germany, in the mid-20th century.

The value would probably be in the $700 to $800 range.

Q. I'm curious about a bottle my child found in an old excavation site. Embossed on the glass are the words

"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," and "R.V. Pierce M.D." on one side, and "Buffalo, N.Y." on the other. It is aqua and is a rectangular shape.

I'd be interested in its history and possible value.

A. Your child found an old medicine bottle. Most of those collected today date from the 1850 to 1930 period.

Early bottles with raised letters are popular with collectors.

Your bottle was made in the late 19th century.

It would probably be worth about $20 to $25.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McColam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

Building a pond for the soothing effect of running water

Sitting before the pond, one can truly feel the tensions of the day melt away.

"It's very therapeutic and relaxing," Caryl said. "Just visually, it's cooling, and it provides an environment for animals and birds. The birds love to bathe in it, drink from it, and fly through the fountain. It's very enjoyable."

Caryl, a market gardener for Shady Stop Greenhouses in Whitmore Lake, said the pond became a spontaneous project for her and her husband three years ago when Mr. Carr brought home three mallard ducks that needed a home.

The ducks could not fly and the bathtub was quickly becoming a nuisance, so the Carrs dove into a quick study research project on building ponds (an idea they had tinkered around with before). Soon after, Caryl said her husband was busy at work, hand-digging a hole out in the backyard.

"We have a lot of gravel and iron clay in our soil so it was very hard to dig in," Caryl said. "If the ground is compacted, you have to use a back hoe."

Knowing from their research that ponds should be at least 18-inches deep, the Carrs decided to dig a little deeper. Their pond is about 2ba1/2ea-feet deep.

However, the Carrs later found out that if you plan to stock a pond with fish, turtles and frogs, the water should be 3-4 feet deep to allow the fish to safely hibernate over the winter months. They are planning to add more depth—as well as width—to their pond in the future.

Once their pond was dug out, the Carrs added a 2-3 inch layer of sand and blanketed the bottom of the pond with a PVC (polyvinyl chloride) liner. A concrete base can also be used but it is much more costly.

The Carrs placed their pond by an electrical outlet so they could install a pump and water fountain to keep the water circulating and outdoor lights for nighttime enjoyment.

"The pump circulates the water and keeps it from being stagnant," Caryl said. "It helps keep the water clean for the animals to drink and live in."

The edge of the Carrs' pond is lined with sandstone (large flat rocks) and they used the excess soil dug out from the hole to enhance a slanting berm adjacent to the pond. The Carrs turned the mound into a rock garden, planting bulbs, annuals and perennials. Cottageaster, hosta, irises, daisies, blue creeping junipers and day lilies are some of the plants Caryl selected.

The mound provided the perfect setting for a cascading waterfall. The water spills along a few rocks before it tumbles over into the pond.

"We moved out here in 1989—the summer of the drought—and our well was the last thing to go in," Caryl said. "I never complained about rain again after that. Water is vital."

Not wanting to use chemicals to keep their pond's bacteria count down, the Carrs, instead, choose to drain their pond and scrub the liner every 4-6 weeks.

Caryl said the whole project took them about three weeks to complete (working weekends and after work) and cost about $700. She said the PVC liner was the most expensive item priced at about $500.

When the Carrs are outside working in their yard, they said it's not unusual for strangers to stop by and inquire about their pond.

"I highly recommend it to everybody," Caryl said. "It serves as an anchor and focal point for our yard, and we love the animals and birds it attracts. We have a lot of bluebirds and swallows and wonderful chirping frogs."

Little Hornbook helps make preschool fun

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

When Andrea Lenzi started Little Hornbook Day School for preschoolers nine years ago, she knew she wanted something that would be as much fun as it was educational.

"When I first started the school," said Andrea, "I asked people I knew, 'When you were in preschool, did you enjoy it?' Most said no."

Pleasant evergreens surround the large, homey building on Twelve Mile Road, east of the intersection of Grand River and Wixom roads in Novi. Birds and trees are always visible to the kids, through oodles of low windows that allow them to see out without stretching. There are plenty of shady trees, and everywhere is play equipment for them to romp in the sunshine.

But Little Hornbook isn't just a place for kids to indulge themselves. A lot of planning and thought went into bringing together the right staff and the right program in the right building.

"There are so many working families that we have to have a good program," Andrea said. "We need to be educators. Anyone can provide day care. We are a day school."

These are new quarters for Little Hornbook.

Formerly located at Ten Mile and Wixom, the school outgrew its location thanks to a great demand. Their old site had room for 56 kids, but now the school is certified for 140, though they aren't pushing that maximum quite yet.

This is the second time that Little Hornbook has had to move and double its size.

"We have the same excellent staff that we've always had," said Andrea. "Some of our people have been with us for nine years, from the beginning."

"We started adding people six months before we moved, training the new staff."

The new building particularly impresses parents.

"On the Thursday and Friday prior to our opening, we held an open house," Andrea said. "Everyone was asking us, 'What's the adult rate? Can I come here?'"

The huge central play room makes careful use of space, with portions of the room dedicated to computers, arts and crafts, large muscle play and even a life-size (well, kid's life-size) playhouse.

The ceiling is high, which Andrea said keeps kids from feeling enclosed. While it adds to the noise level somewhat, there are plenty of quiet play areas adjoining the main room.

An indoor pool offers year-round swimming, taught by a Red Cross certified swimming instructor. There's also a room just for baby care and play. In the near future, Little Hornbook will even offer private kindergarten classes.

All of the lead teachers are degreed professionals. Of the 15 staff members, seven have their degrees. It makes for a staff-to-child ratio of 1-to-4 in the baby room, and 1-to-6 in the room for older kids.

"We wanted to keep the good program that we had. We're the only nationally accredited program in west Oakland County."

Earning national accreditation is no simple task. It indicates a program of exceptional quality.

"There are just 45 of them in the state," said Andrea. "Only two percent of all day care providers in the country earn it. We have some parents who've moved here from the south, and they're impressed because they know it means something."

And every parent can appreciate a school that can ease the burden of child care.

"Even the moms that don't work, that are in the home, can't do what we can," said Andrea. "Our focus is on the children all the time. We don't have to do the laundry, the cooking, the housework and answering the phone."

Keeping the focus on the children helps them to learn and grow, while having fun along the way. That was the goal, Andrea said, and judging from the happy sounds that come from the play rooms, Little Hornbook is achieving it.

"It should be a positive learning experience, so they can go on to be good students and good citizens," Andrea said. Little Hornbook offers child care from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. For more information, call 348-2780.

CPAs say check your filing status

Married couples have the option of filing a joint return or filing separately. The Michigan Association of CPAs advises you and your spouse to compute your taxes under both methods to determine which one lowers your combined tax liability.

MARRIED, FILING JOINTLY

The lowest tax rates are available to married individuals who elect to file joint returns. This generally translates into a lower tax bill, particularly for couples where only one spouse works or where one spouse earns substantially less than the other.

Married couples filing jointly may also be eligible for some additional tax breaks that are not extended to married individuals filing separately. These include the earned income cre-

Taxes on Social Security benefits are also affected by filing status, and here again, married individuals filing jointly have the advantage. Joint filers with a combined adjusted gross income (AGI) of $32,000 or less are not required to pay any taxes on their Social Security benefits. However, married individuals filing separately must pay taxes on Social Security benefits if their joint income exceeds $25,000. Depending on the excess of income over these base amounts, up to one-half of these benefits could be taxable.

MARRIED, FILING SEPARATELY

It may be better for a married couple to file separate tax returns if one spouse earns substantially less than the other one and has high deductible expenses. By filing separately, such married couples may be able to avoid losing deductions that are based on adjusted gross income.

For example, since the medical expense deduction is limited to 7.5 percent of AGI, a married taxpayer with a low AGI and substantial medical bills is more likely to qualify for the deduction by filing separately than by filing a joint return with his or her spouse.

The same principle applies to miscellaneous itemized deductions. Because there is a 2-percent adjusted gross income limitation, couples may benefit by filing separately if one spouse has high unreimbursed business expenses or other qualified expenses.

Be aware, too, that casualty and theft losses involving personal assets, which are allowable only to the extent that they exceed 10 percent of AGI, may provide a deduction on a separate return but may not on a joint return.

Remember, however, that if one spouse itemizes deductions on a tax return, the other spouse must also itemize.

WHEN YOU'RE MARRIED IN THE EYES OF THE IRS

For tax purposes, marital status is generally determined by the situation on the last day of the year. So if you married on December 31, 1992, you and your spouse may file a joint return and have the past year's income taxed at the married rate. On the other hand, you cannot file as a single individual unless you and your spouse have lived apart for the entire year or are legally divorced before December 31.

One-Day Scrub Attack Rejuvenates Cabinets

Maybe your kitchen cabinets don't need to be replaced. Maybe they just need a day at the spa. Kitchen Tune-Up® is a national franchise that revives worn cabinets. It's done in one day, and you don't even empty the drawers. First, workers scrub off the gunk with a surface cleaner. Then they rub in a wood stain. Next they touch up problem spots and treat the wood with KTU Oil. They also polish and clean your counter tops and align hinges and drawer slides.

Are Your Kitchen Cabinets Showing Their Age?

Business Briefs

ARBOR DRUGS INC., will open its 137th through 140th stores by the end of August, including its second store in Novi, and its first Hamtramck location. The announcement of the company's four additional stores was made by Eugene Applebaum, chairman and CEO of Arbor Drugs.

The scheduled openings follow:

- Now open: Arbor's sixth Westland store, formerly a Richardson's Drug Store, is located at 37376 Glenwood at Newburgh Road.
- Now open: The company opened its seventh Washtenaw County location in Ypsilanti, also formerly a Richardson's Drug Store, at 1510 Washtenaw at Mansfield.
- In August: Arbor's first Hamtramck location will open at 9300 Joseph Campau and Holbrook Avenue.
- In August: The chain's second Novi store is located at 22240 Novi Road at Nine Mile Road.

Commenting on the stores, Applebaum said, "Arbor is committed to increasing its strong presence as a health care center in southeastern Michigan, the nation's fifth largest drugstore market. These additional stores will provide more convenience for our growing customer base, in addition to reinforcing our position as the market share leader in this region."

The stores, ranging in size from 6,640 to 10,700 square feet, will offer all of the traditional Arbor services including Arbortech Plus. This pharmacy system enables customers to refill prescriptions at any Arbor drug store in Michigan.

Founded by Applebaum in 1963, Arbor Drugs is the country's 20th largest drug store chain. Presently, Arbor operates 136 full-service stores, all in Michigan, and has more than 4,500 employees.

GERRY DODDS of Century 21 Suburban in Northville announces the leasing of the retail store at 139 E. Main St., formerly the V & G Variety Store to Raymond and Loretta Novelly of Farmington Hills. Their company, Novelly Bakeries Inc. will operate a retail outlet of the Great Harvest Bread Company.

This unique bakery specializes in high quality natural whole wheat products and other baked goods. The bread is made fresh daily using 100 percent stone milled whole wheats ground in the old fashioned method right on the premises. The bakery offers a wide variety of round loaf breads, as well as cookies, dinner rolls and bread sticks. Selections vary daily and there is always a fresh, hot batch coming out of the oven.

The Novellys are both leaving corporate careers that moved them around the country. This is an opportunity for them to return to their home communities. Loretta Novelly grew up in Northville, graduating from Ferris State, and is a registered dental hygienist. Raymond Novelly grew up in Dearborn, attended Wayne State and earned a marketing degree there.

Contract Interiors of Southfield will be designing the remodeling of the interior and exterior of the store.

THOMAS P. KOWALSKI has been named president and chief executive officer of Clayton Environmental Consultants Inc. in Novi.

Kowalski was formerly chief operations officer of McLaren/Hart Environmental Engineering Corporation. Clayton is an international provider of industrial hygiene and environmental consulting services and laboratory services. Providing services to clients since 1954, Clayton has 14 offices in the United States, Canada, and the United Kingdom, with two offices located in Novi.

LONG JOHN SILVER'S opened recently to the cheers of Novi Special Olympics athletes. The restaurant is located at Twelve Oaks Mall, 27734 Novi Road.

Grand opening festivities included Long John Silver's executives stringing a chain of $20 bills just waiting to be clipped by the Special Olympics kids. The chain of $20 bills totaled $500 which will be donated to Novi Special Olympics.

"On behalf of the Long John Silver's team, I want to express enthusiasm for our new Novi location," said Mike Kupstas, division vice president for Long John Silver's. "We are excited to become a part of this terrific community and to further our commitment to the athletes taking part in Special Olympics programs."

According to store manager Claire Boucher, the restaurant's menu features fish, chicken and seafood meals and salads. The Twelve Oaks Mall restaurant will offer a 90-seat dining room.

"Long John Silver's has led the nation in year over year, same store retail sales in the fast food industry for the past two months," Boucher said. "We are pleased to offer the residents of Novi the newest addition to their fast food selection. Our promise to our guest means providing great tasting, healthful, reasonably priced fish, seafood and chicken in a fast, friendly manner on every visit."

Boucher brings five years of restaurant management experience to the Long John Silver's team. The Twelve Oaks Mall Long John Silver's will employ up to 20 team members.

Long John Silver's hours of operation will be Mondays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays, noon to 6:00 p.m.

Long John Silver's is the nation's leading quick-service seafood restaurant chain with 1,449 shops in 34 states, Canada, Saudi Arabia and Singapore. Long John Silver's chain employs 24,000 people nationwide.
