

Study session will focus on school priorities

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

As summer vacation winds down, the Northville Board of Education is wasting no time gearing up for the 1993-94 school year.

A board study session has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 30, so board members can discuss budget priorities, goal setting and improving communications with the community.

Board president Robert McMahon said he would also like to discuss how the board agendas can be improved at the session.

The board had originally planned to meet sooner to discuss budget priorities, but has waited until it learns the provisions of the State School Aid Act. So far the Legislature hasn't worked out the details of the act, leaving Northville officials wondering how much money the district will receive in categorical funding.

Categoricals include transportation, special education, gifted programs, retirement and FICA, or Social Security. Northville school officials are worried about how much the state will dole out for retirement and FICA payments in light of discussion that school districts might have to begin writing out their own checks for those items.

"After (Aug.) 23 we hope to have a clearer position on the money," Supt. Leonard Reznierski told board members prior to a facilities subcommittee meeting last Tuesday evening.

Trustee Joan Wadsworth said she was uncomfortable waiting that long before setting the budget priorities.

"We need to decide what our priorities are," she said.

"Then you cut from the bottom of the list if you have no other choice, even if that includes (priority) number three," Patricia Custer, trustee, agreed.

Wadsworth said she felt uneasy dealing with such items as painting Meads Mill Middle School and adding hours for a technology resource person before the priorities were voted upon.

Custer said delaying put the district's credibility on shaky ground.

Last month the board approved bumping Barb Fife's part-time teaching consultant's status to full time. After the millage failure in 1992, Fife's full-time teaching consultant position was reduced to part-time. She kept full-time status, though, by teaching part time.

The move was made to maintain the district's technology program in the absence of William Hamilton, who retired as the director of instruction at the end of May.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the money for the Meads Mill painting job is actually coming from carryover funds from last year's budget. But before the funds were realized, the painting project was put on the priority list.

If the board approves the painting project, slated for discussion at tonight's board of education meeting, the district will be one year behind in its maintenance schedule.

Drunk driving proposal gains local support

Driving instructor Harry Rosinski hopes Northville teen-agers get the message to not drink and drive just by attending his class.

But if they don't, and get caught in the act, state legislators may hammer home the message.

A bill now pending before the state Senate would make it illegal for drivers under 21 to have a blood alcohol level of .02 percent or more. Current state law makes it illegal for any driver to have a blood alcohol level of .10 or higher.

House Bill 4839 also strengthens current state law by slapping violating minors with up to a 90-day suspension of their license and a maximum fine of $250. Repeat offenders could see their licenses suspended for a year and face a $500 fine.

State Rep. Jerry Vorva (R-Plymouth) co-sponsored the measure, which passed the house July 14 by a 66-32 vote. The bill is expected to sail through the Senate as well before being sent to Gov. John Engler for his signature.

Board to examine limiting the use of school buildings

By MICHELLE HARRISON

A draft policy limiting the use of Northville school buildings should be ready for review next week.

Members of the Northville Board of Education's facilities subcommittee will take a look at the proposed policy which will limit building use to Northville groups at its Wednesday, Aug. 18, meeting. Scheduled for 6:30 p.m., the meeting will take place in the board conference room in the central office building, 501 W. Main.

The draft will also define the term "Northville groups" as well as include a clause which will prohibit private parties from renting public school space.

"People in other school districts are coming to us because we're the best deal in town," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services. "Now, that's flattering, but we don't have the cus-

Case of alleged sex offender set for trial

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Former Northville Township resident David Thomas Broad will face six counts of criminal sexual conduct Wednesday in a Wayne County Circuit Court. Broad will stand trial for the offenses in the courtroom of Judge Claudia Morcom.

Township Police Detective Fred Yankee said the judge has set aside three days for the trial. It won't be known until the day the trial begins if the case will be decided by a jury or the judge.

Broad moved to Canton after Northville Township police arrested him on six sex charges March 10. He was arrested and charged with four counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree and two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the second degree.

In Michigan, suspects found guilty of first degree criminal sexual conduct can receive sentences of as much as life in prison. Second degree CSC carries a maximum term of 15 years.

Township police arrested the 25-year-old man after they received complaints from the mothers of the two 8-year old girls he allegedly abused.

Both girls are expected to testify in court on Wednesday that Broad sexually penetrated and touched them with a vibrator on several occasions.

Yankee said police searched the man's home on March 10. In it they found and confiscated three pornographic magazines, two electronic vibrators and a large cache of guns. Lt. Gary Batzloff said police were under a court order to return the guns because defense attorneys have ruled that they aren't related to the criminal sexual conduct charges.

The abuse allegedly took place between June of 1992 and March 10, 1993, in the Queen Anne Court home where Broad was living with his girlfriend and her daughter.

Broad's case spurred a public outcry in Northville this spring after residents learned the man had been a former employee of a Northville Public Schools' latch-key program. Police say the alleged criminal acts with which he's charged occurred in his girlfriend's Northville home after he was fired from his job at Silver Springs Elementary. School officials said they had no complaints of sexual misconduct during Broad's tenure with the district, which ran from September 1991 to May 1992.

Township police, however, have since learned that Broad may have been involved in another allegation of criminal sexual conduct that happened at the school while the man was employed as a latch-key aide with the district. Police said the parents of a Northville boy have informed them about the incident, but have not filed a formal complaint against Broad.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said Broad was fired for poor job performance.

Vorva calls meeting on property tax

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Local residents can make their voices heard this week on the state's move to eliminate property taxes as a funding source for Michigan schools.

State Rep. Jerry Vorva (R-Plymouth) will hold public hearings this Tuesday and Wednesday to take input on the proposal, which Gov. John Engler has vowed to sign into law later this month.

The 7-9 p.m. open forums are scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 10, at Plymouth City Hall and Wednesday, Aug. 11, at Northville City Hall.

The hearings will be videotaped and copies of the tapes sent to Engler, the House Education Committee and House task forces on school quality and cost containment.

Under the plan, schools across the state will lose the $6.3 billion in property tax revenue they use for operating expenses starting in the 1994-95 fiscal year, as the money is left in the hands of the property owners. Statewide, school operating millage represents nearly two-thirds of property tax bills.

Legislators passed the massive tax cut July 21, but have yet to decide how to replace the lost operating funds. Northville Public Schools now gets about 96 percent of its revenue from property taxes.

Think Victorian

The fifth annual Northville Victorian Festival is only weeks away and is scheduled for Sept. 17-19. The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is in need of a competent photographer to take pictures of all the festival's major events. The pictures will become the property of the chamber and be placed into a permanent file for future use. Chamber executive director Laurie Marrs said the photographs could end up being published in a brochure produced by the chamber or in small magazines that need pictures to accompany stories about the festival. The chamber will pay all film and processing charges, and photo credits will appear wherever the pictures are used. Call 349-7640 to volunteer.

School officials consider limiting use of buildings todial (support).

"I don't think we should become the mecca for groups outside the community under the circumstances we're in now."

Those circumstances involve a reduction of the district's operations staff. In 1982, the operations department had 85 employees comprising its maintenance, custodial, secretarial, administrative/supervisor, mechanic and summer workers employment force. This year, there are 44 employees in the operations department.

Boltho said the entire district experienced a 10 percent reduction in its labor force last year; however, it reflected up to 25 percent reductions in the custodial and maintenance departments. The assistant superintendent added that Local 547 of the International Union of Operating Engineers had originally agreed last year to give up part of their proposed raises to bring back some of the employees.

"We thought we had it pretty well covered," Boltho said. "To our surprise the contract was not ratified and members voted to take the 3-percent raise."

During the 1992-93 school year, the district booked 708 reservations from school groups and non-affiliated school parties for the use of school buildings. The most popular place to meet was the high school, which had 354 bookings alone.

Those numbers have increased from the 1990-91 figures of 582 reservations made.

"There is a lot at stake here," Boltho said. "Not only of our buildings, but also the morale of our employees."

Last year, custodial employees followed an every-other-day cleaning routine in the buildings except in the areas which required daily cleaning.

Boltho recommended that the board reinstate one full-time custodian at the high school, a part-time custodian at each of the middle schools, Amerman Elementary and the board office, and one full-time maintenance person to work in the high school and in operations. Further, Boltho asked for a substitute secretary to be hired on an as-needed basis to process building reservations.

"We think we can deliver custodial and maintenance services to our building for all of our groups, in addition to pay-for-participation if (the program continues)," Boltho said of the recommendation. "It won't be ideal, but it will be a significant improvement."

Board members discussed various ways to recapturing funds to bring back the needed work force, such as charging an application fee and collecting money up front to cut billing costs.

"We can go with such an elaborate system," Treasurer Richard Brown warned. "We're only talking about $37,000 here."

Last year, the district collected $37,768 in fees from groups who rented buildings in the district. Rates in Northville range from $2.80 an hour to rent an elementary classroom to $42 an hour for use of the athletic field.

Only non-affiliated groups, such as the recreation department, churches, service clubs, private schools and homeowner's associations are assessed the fees. School groups, affiliated school groups (PTA, boosters, Mother's Club, etc.) and scouting groups may use the buildings free of charge.

Secretary Glenna Davis said it was about time the board start putting things back into the operations budget.

"It's not fair, we've been picking away from there," Davis said. "It's not visible until you've been doing it for awhile. And it's starting to become visible . . .

"(By instituting) a building fee structure we might be able to put some things back into maintenance that we didn't want to take out without hurting the citizens."

Boltho reminded the board that the district has not made a profit on the building fees. The break-even venture has only allowed the school to recover its actual costs.

The board is tentatively scheduled to approve a fee structure for use of its buildings at its Aug. 23 meeting.

Budget meeting scheduled

oughly that this is not coming out of priority funds," said Treasurer Richard Brown, adding that painting and other maintenance jobs always seem to find their way on the bottom of the priority list as it is.

"The only problem I have with making the priorities (before the district knows its funding situation) is that we'll be deciding what's going to be (items) nine, 10 and 11 when we don't have a prayer to reinstate (items) one or two."

The study session will be held in the board conference room, located on the third floor of the central office building, 501 W. Main St.

Woman, married to man 3 times, reports assault

City police are investigating a Northville woman's claim that she was assaulted by her estranged husband the night of Aug. 1. The woman told police that her husband, a 52-year-old Florida resident, came to Northville to talk her into coming home with him and she let him stay at the apartment for several days until he became violent.

At one point, she said, he allegedly threatened to go to his van and get a gun "so he could kill her." She told police that on Aug. 1, after they had been drinking and arguing, the man grabbed her by the shoulders and pushed her against the wall numerous times, then grabbed her by the hair and tried to drag her out of the apartment, until she freed herself by kicking him.

He eventually left, but when she attempted to leave the apartment she saw him standing in the driveway.

Police observed several lumps on the woman's head including a large lump on the back of her head, and scratches on her right knuckle that she said were sustained when he pushed her against the stucco wall.

The couple reportedly had been married and divorced twice before they married each other for a third time in 1987.

VANDALISM ON SCENIC LAKE:

A boat on Scenic Lake was reportedly vandalized sometime before 5 p.m. July 31. The boat was cut free from its line and set adrift, and a two-inch hole was punched in the right side of its hull. Damage was estimated at $50.

LARCENY FROM CAR: A $200 cassette player was reported stolen Aug. 2 from a 1992 Plymouth Voyager parked at Meijer on Haggerty Road. The vehicle was parked in the main parking lot between 6:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. when it was broken into. Damage was estimated at $75.

JEWELRY STOLEN: A Blue Heron Drive resident reported the theft of a diamond and gold ring from her home sometime before Aug. 2. The ring was valued at $858.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED IN

DETROIT: A 1991 Pontiac Sunbird reported stolen from Northville Place July 31 was recovered by Detroit police the next day. The car, which had been valued at $3,400, was missing three tires and wheels. Its driver's side door lock had been punched out and the steering column damaged.

CHURCH BROKEN INTO: The Plymouth Wesleyan Church at Five Mile and Bradner was broken into sometime between 8:30 p.m. July 31 and 8:30 a.m. Aug. 1. An estimated $200 in damage was done when a rock was thrown through a church window. An undetermined amount of cash was also reported taken.

VIDEO AND STEREO EQUIP-

MENT STOLEN: An estimated $720 in electronic equipment was stolen from a First Street home sometime between 9 a.m. Aug. 3 and 1 a.m. Aug. 4. The equipment included a Fisher DAC243 compact disc player, Zenith VRR160 videocassette recorder and a Memorex videocassette recorder. The thief apparently gained entry through an open kitchen window, after removing a window screen.

NOXIOUS ODOR REPORTED: City police and fire officials checked out a report of a noxious odor the evening of Aug. 5 at the 113 W. Main Street, rooming house known as the Winner's Circle. The odor drove a real estate agent out of her 109 E. Main Street office and was noticed by patrons of Joseph's Coney Island. Investigators traced it to the building owner's use of sulfuric acid to clean a drain in a rooming house bathroom, and determined that it did not pose a health threat.

FOUND PROPERTY: A black mountain bike was left in a Fairbrook Street driveway sometime between 9 p.m. Aug. 4 and 7:30 a.m. Aug. 5. Anyone wishing to claim it is asked to call the Northville City police at 349-1234 with a more detailed description.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

entered politics, said the bill had special significance for him.

"I had all these flashbacks" when House Bill 4839 was first proposed, he said. "I can't tell you how many times I've gone to accidents where young people were involved... the countless times I've seen young people maimed."

In one instance, Vorva said, he responded to the scene of an accident involving a local football hero. "He drove into the side of a train, drunk," Vorva said.

In Michigan in 1991, Vorva pointed out, alcohol-related traffic accidents claimed the lives of 79 youths between the ages of 15 and 19. One of every eight people killed in alcohol-related accidents that year were teens, he added.

Vorva said the house bill simply reflects other laws that the state already has passed. He noted that it already is illegal for minors to carry beer or liquor in their possession, and questioned why they should be allowed to have alcohol in their systems.

"It was time that we brought that law in line with other parts of the law," he said.

Both Rosinski and Jim Daniel, another driving instructor at Northville High School, fully support the proposed bill.

"Some of the material we present to get the facts out there indicate we have a very serious problem," Daniel said. "Anything the criminal justice system or judicial system can do to try and eliminate that by strict enforcement, I would be in support of."

Rosinski said he would even go as far as to support the reinstatement of sobriety check lanes in Michigan. Police would randomly select a roadway and test each motorist for operating under the influence at the check points.

"I'm very afraid of their (student drivers') futures and my family's future too," Rosinski said. "Drunk driving scares me. It's been said that one out of every three drivers at any given time is under the influence of something. That's very frightening to me, to them and to you."

Both instructors said they don't try to "preach" to students taking their driving classes about drinking and driving, but they do try to make a point about the danger.

"We supply the facts and hope they make the right decision," Daniel said.

Input sought on school finance reform

Vorva, who voted for the tax cut, said it represents a historic opportunity to revamp state financing in general, which has long been criticized as inequitable.

"They've been discussing this for as long as I can remember, back when I was in high school," he said. "I'm not saying it's not scary, but... I look at this as an opportunity to do what should have been done a long time ago."

Local residents have been cheering the proposal to slash their tax bills and shake up the school system, Vorva said.

"From the Northville area, I've been getting a lot of positive response to our initial action," he said. "People are looking forward not only to having (schools) financed in a different fashion but to some policy and cost-containment measures being included."

While the legislature is on a three-week break, Vorva and other Republican representatives are in Lansing conducting focus groups studying how to revamp the state's school system with an eye toward quality, cost containment, general budget and tax containment issues.

Rather than simply replacing the lost revenue with higher taxes elsewhere, the Plymouth representative hopes the Legislature will consider reducing other state expenses and redirecting the funds toward education.

One radical proposal he has advocated since he first campaigned for his house seat in 1992 is a unicameral legislature, composed of a state senate alone. Such a move would save the state millions in salaries for its 110 representatives, their staff members and the scandal-plagued House Fiscal Agency, though it could leave Vorva temporarily unemployed.

"I had a job before this and I'll have a job after," he said. "Everything is on the table as far as I'm concerned."

Our Opinion

Drinking and driving bill is needed measure

Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, who represents the Northville community in the lower chamber of the state Legislature, has co-sponsored a proposal that would stiffen penalties against underaged motorists found to be drinking and driving.

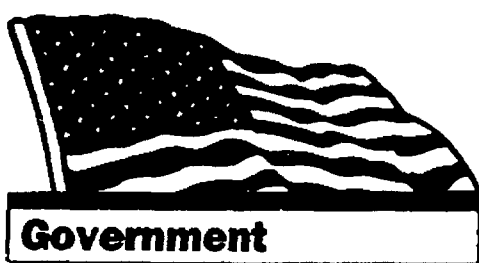

The bill, which the House passed and sent along to the Senate, would provide maximum penalties of a 90-day driver's license suspension and a $250 fine for first-time offenders.

A 1-year suspension and a fine of $500 could be imposed on repeat offenders.

But the really meaningful provision of the bill is the blood alcohol level at which the law is to be violated: .02 percent, one-fifth the allowable level for persons 21 and older.

Northville High School driving instructors Harry Rosinski and Jim Daniel are on record as favoring the measure, and we would like to add our voice to theirs.

Rosinski and Daniel, as drivers' educators, are all too aware of the dangers of impaired driving, while Vorva, a former Plymouth city police officer, is painfully cognizant of the potential for tragedy when underaged drinkers take the wheel.

Tough penalties can serve as effective deterrents against illegal conduct, and taking the driver's license away from a teen for whom the marvelous freedom of the driving privilege is a new-found discovery could prove to be a helpful way of minimizing traffic casualties.

And there's easy justification for the new law in that individuals under 21 aren't supposed to be drinking anyway, whether driving or not.

We hope the Michigan Senate will act quickly to pass House Bill 4839 and send it to Gov. John Engler for his signature.

Where the problem of drunk driving is concerned, there is no room for hesitation.

Volunteer work serves youths, the community

Northville Youth Assistance (NYA), the local agency which provides supervised volunteer and professional social services to youths and their families, is in need of volunteer assistance.

NYA matches youths from the community with volunteers willing to offer important moral and emotional support. Often the support simply takes the form of caring, listening and spending time with the youths.

Volunteers receive 15 hours of training, and meet with the youths with whom they are matched for one to two hours per week at the convenience of both parties.

The role of the volunteer is designed to help youths work toward positive change in their lives and to provide stability and encouragement whenever possible.

NYA is funded jointly by Northville City and Northville Township, and is an example of a cooperative venture that fills a crucial need in the community. The core of volunteers who donate their time and energy to the cause is truly exceptional, but there is always a need for additional help.

NYA needs caring, concerned and committed adults who are willing to give of themselves in order to help Northville-area youths. The next volunteer training session will begin in September.

Call Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King at 344-1618 for additional information or to sign up as an NYA volunteer.

View's great, but it's no right

Item: Royal Crown Estates and Briarwood residents sign a petition opposing Novi's trail system because it comes within view of their homes.

Item: A neighbor of a day care center in Novi opposes the cutting down of trees on the center's site because it would diminish the screening of the home from the roadway.

Something's very wrong with people's perception of property rights these days.

The above items are just two examples of the unreasonable interpretations I've seen lately. There are more.

Unfortunately, I think some people in this area labor under the mistaken impression that their property rights extend as far as their eyes can see. In truth, your property rights extend only to your lot line.

The idea that your property rights include the view is perhaps perpetuated by some real estate agents who, when selling a home, point to the view as an asset.

This isn't necessarily unscrupulous practice on the part of the agent. I'm as easy to sway with a pretty view as the next guy. But if that were one of my reasons for buying, I'd be asking how permanent the view was.

That brings me to the topic of the day care center. The homeowners next door claim they didn't know the center was planned there (though site plan approval was granted two years ago). The cutting of trees on the site, they claim, will reduce the screening from the roadway, and reduce their property value.

I can sympathize, but at the same time I know that real estate is a gamble. It would be great if we could guarantee that a parcel would hold its value, but that's the nature of the game. I'd also add that if these folks were misled by their agent as to what was planned next door, I'd be on the phone to a lawyer.

The same applies to the people in Briarwood and Royal Crown Estates. If they were misled, that's a matter for the buyer, the agent and their respective attorneys to hash out. But if they knew the trail might be coming through an adjacent easement, they really don't have much say about it. Their property rights don't apply.

I'm reminded of my Dad's home in New Jersey, where he lived for 15 years. It was at the top of one of Northern New Jersey's highest hills. To the east, on a clear day, you could see New York's World Trade Center, 35 miles away.

To the south was a huge valley. In 1969, it was all farms, country homes, and forests. At night there were just twinkles here and there of house lights breaking the blackness.

On my last trip home to New York, I drove by the old house. Wouldn't you know it, the New York Times paper box, that I'd helped Dad install when I was 10, was still there, discolored but still standing as straight as the twin towers to the east.

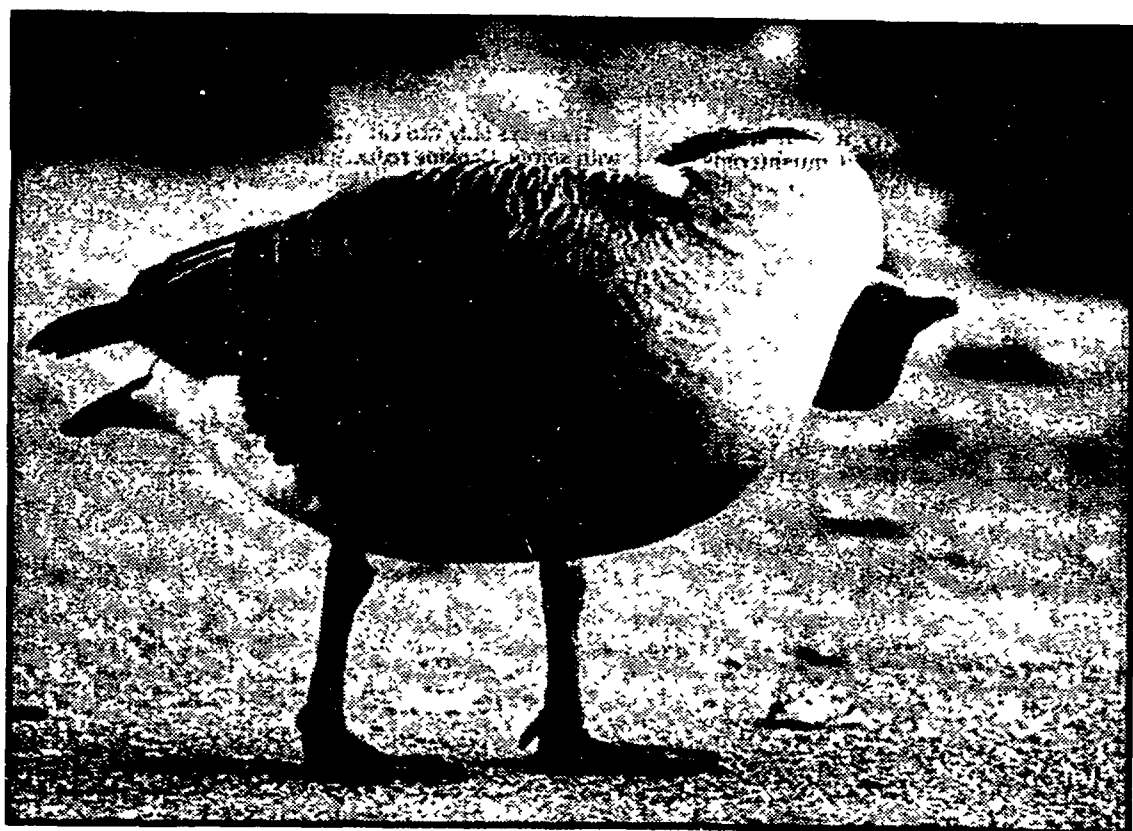

The view to the south had changed a lot, though. Tightly packed subdivisions now dotted the hillsides and valley below. At night, I'm sure it wasn't a sheet of blackness with the occasional twinkle of house lights that I remember.

An altered view? Sure. For the worse? I'd say so. Diminished property value? A possibility, but you know what? Were my Dad still living there, he'd have no more right to dictate the development of the valley below, which was within his view, than he'd have in dictating how tall to build the World Trade Center.

A defense of property taxes

Phil Jerome

Question: What's wrong with the property tax anyway?

That question has been troubling me a long time. And now that the state legislature has taken action to eliminate the property tax, the question is troubling me more than ever.

One of the things that bothers me is that just about everyone seems to agree the property tax is a bad thing. It's hard to write the words "property tax" anymore without preceding them with certain adjectives. Like, "oppressive." Or, "antiquated."

And because everyone seems to agree that the property tax is a bad thing, it concerns me that I can make what I consider a semi-decent argument in favor of the property tax.

As far as the state legislature's action to eliminate the property tax is concerned, I think it prudent to reserve any celebration until we learn what new types of taxes are going to be levied to make up for the $6.3 billion that will be lost.

More than likely, we're all going to get hit with either an increase in the income tax or an increase in the sales tax.

Of the three major taxes, the sales tax strikes me as least fair. Personally, with just two people in my family, I might make out fairly well with a hike in the sales tax.

But what about a family of more than two? What about a family with a father, wife and one or more children? They're going to get hit a lot harder than I will.

The income tax is probably the most fair . . . the higher your income, the higher your taxes.

But is the property tax really all that different than the income tax? Theoretically, there's probably a pretty good correlation between your income and the value of your property.

Rich people tend to be able to afford larger, more expensive houses. Therefore, they tend to pay more in taxes than people who live in smaller, less expensive houses.

Of course, the people who will really make out best by elimination of the property tax are the biggest property tax payers—Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, the Ford plant in Wixom, the big apartment complexes throughout the Northville/Novi area. Which is another reason why I am puzzled that so many homeowners are rejoicing about the legislature's action.

Frankly, I think the property tax is getting a bum rap . . . that efforts to pin the blame on the property tax are nothing but a red herring.

The real problem is the cost of government. And because the vast majority of the property tax goes to pay for schools, the real problem is the fact that school boards and school administrators have done a certifiably crummy job of controlling costs.

This is old ground for me . . . I've laid it out before, but as long as public education is allowed to pay superintendents well over $100,000 a year with all kinds of perks tossed in, and as long as teachers can make $50,000 and $60,000 per year after a scant 10-11 years on the job, there's going to be a funding problem.

Which means there's going to be a tax problem.

The legislature can eliminate the property tax, but the fact remains that they're still going to have to find the revenues, and we're still going to have to pay the taxes—whether property, sales, income or something else—until public schools are managed responsibly.

*Italian wines
add flavor to summer meal*

Recently, we tasted some new Italian wines that please both palate and purse. These wines will make your summer entertaining more flavorful.

Tasting wines without food can be deceiving since a wine's character usually improves with a well-selected dish. Fortunately, our tasting included some exceptional Italian cuisine. Since most wine is consumed with meals, we have selected a number of wines that are especially food-worthy.

The 1988 Rotari Brut Riserva ($10-$11) is a delightfully refreshing sparkling wine made from 90 percent chardonnay and 10 percent pinot noir, the varietals used to make French champagne. Greet your guests with this well-chilled bubbly. Although Italian Asti Spumante is sweet, this wine is totally dry. We think you'll find it a bargain at this price. Several restaurants in the area are using it as a house pour, so look for it when you dine out.

Summer entertaining emphasizes white wines and light reds that can be chilled before serving. Let's take a look at the white Italian wines first.

The 1990 Lamberti Bianco di Costoza ($9) is a blend of five white varietals from northern Italy. It is a great aperitif with a variety of hot and cold hors d'oeuvres such as fried calamari, soft shell crabs, melon and prosciutto or cheese raviolis with cream sauce.

Gavi is a white wine produced in Italy's Piedmont region from a grape known as Cortese di Gavi. The 1990 Ca' Bianca Gavi di Gavi La Centuriona ($14-16) has aromas and flavors that highlight pineapple, pear and lime in a style that brings you back for another sip. Grilled white fish is a perfect complement.

If you just can't get along without chardonnay, try the 1989 Castello di Gabbiano Ariella Chardonnay ($19-23). You will be very impressed by this barrel-aged beauty. Its blend of honey, melon, cinnamon and nutmeg flavors make it unique and tasty. Try it with cracked crab, melted butter and sauteed mushrooms.

Wine-producer Gianni Gagliardo is an advocate of the white grape variety known as favorita, grown in northern Italy's Piedmont. According to Gagliardo, the favorita can make light, easy-drinking wines cold fermented in stainless steel, classic wines aged on the yeast lees or intense, full-bodied wines aged in French oak.

The 1991 Gagliardo "Allegro" Favorita ($10-11) is the first style with fresh apple-pear qualities and a touch of sparkle — Italians call it frizzante. The 1991 Gagliardo "Casa" Favorita ($11-$13) is fermented on the lees and has a more intense apple-pear quality with a delicate mineral character. The 1990 Gagliardo Neirole Favorita ($29-$30) has layer upon layer of oak fragrance blended with lemon and citrus peel.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

- 1992 Jolisse Chardonnay ($5.50) a best buy that boasts lots of fresh fruit character unencumbered by oak.
- 1991 Meridian Chardonnay, ($11) is a seamless wine with layers of both fruit and oak flavors.
- 1991 Benziger Chardonnay, Cameros ($16) has creamy textures, toasty oak and the truity freshness that only Cameros-grown grapes offer.
- 1991 Vichon Chevrignon ($9.60) is consistently the best blend of sauvignon blanc (62 percent) and semillon (38 percent) to be found. Grapefruit and vanilla-oak opens to hints of melon in a style where both fruit and oak take their rightful place without one dominating the other.
- 1992 Joseph Phelps Vin du Mistral Grenache Rose ($10) showcases lively cherry aromas and flavors and is an excellent choice for a summer picnic wine to complement roast chicken, pasta, chilled salads, shrimp or crab.

Spirited Desserts

A splash of liqueur gives sweets a lift

By LAURA DAILY
Copley News Service

Dessert. It's the best part of the meal, yet the most intimidating to create.

Face it, whose chocolate mousse ever came out tasting or looking like the one from your favorite restaurant?

At the recent Aspen (Colo.) Food & Wine Classic, pastry chefs Stanton Ho and Donald Wressell let those with a sweet tooth in on a little secret: It's not nearly as complicated as it appears to create a dazzling dessert.

Ho and Wressell should know. They were part of the three-chef Team USA that competed at the 1993 World Cup of Pastry in Lyon, France, this past January.

Selected from more than 100 applicants, Ho and Wressell spent five months preparing for the culinary competition, where they had a scant nine hours to prepare more than a dozen desserts before a scrutinizing group of judges and 5,000 spectators.

Though the team didn't win, the competition gave Ho and Wressell the opportunity to see what other pastry chefs are doing worldwide.

In Aspen, the duo's focus was on using spirits to turn a simple dessert into a dazzling creation. Chefs have known for centuries that a modest amount of liqueur can add a unique and unexpected flavor to pastries and desserts, while adding little to recipe cost or calories.

"Use spirits to enhance a dessert, but take care not to overwhelm it," says Ho, executive pastry chef at the Las Vegas Hilton. "Remember, the idea is to use a liqueur as a flavoring agent."

Adds Wressell, executive pastry chef at the Four Seasons Hotel in Beverly Hills, "Liqueurs add a nice dimension to desserts. Try whiskey in a chocolate mousse. Or substitute Kahlua for espresso in a dessert recipe. The only limit is your imagination."

There are only two caveats to cooking with spirits. Cooking reduces the alcohol content, so for full flavoring, add spirits near the end of the recipe.

And if you're adding a liquor or liqueur to your own recipe, don't forget to compensate for the added liquid.

"A dessert is different from other recipes because the formula is usually precise, making it more difficult to compensate. Don't be afraid to experiment, but realize it may take a few tries to get it perfect," warns Ho.

Some of the easiest methods of creating a special dessert come when you place it on the serving plate.

"Be creative," encourage Ho and Wressell. Dust the plate with cocoa powder or powdered sugar. Or drizzle it with melted chocolate. Slice up some small pieces of fresh fruit like kiwi, orange or banana slices to accessorize the dessert plate.

Or simply drizzle caramelized sugar or melted chocolate into abstract designs on parchment paper. When they cool, gently peel off and stick into your dessert for some vertical volume.

The chefs also like to create a variety of colorful syrups to use as bright accessories. Add pureed fruit (i.e. banana, orange, kiwi or strawberry) to some simple syrup (boil water, granulated sugar and light corn syrup for 1 minute) and a complementary liqueur (like Triple Sec for an orange syrup.)

The "spirited syrups" can be used for creating abstract designs on the dessert plates or drizzled over cake for added pizzazz.

Chef Mary Brady

Kitchen reveals which fish make the grade

Mary Brady

This is the fifth in a series of columns examining the fish preparations of Foley's, a Boston wholesaler.

The Foley's test kitchen in Boston is small but efficient.

The New Bedford Plant, much newer, boasts a state-of-the-art facility which includes a small 20-seat "dining room." Our return to the classroom was much appreciated after the tour of the bone chilling plant. Also, it was time for lunch.

Because the seminar is so short, even meals are a learning experience. We began with the grading of three filets of fish. This process becomes a bit harder than the whole fish as the skin, gills, eyes and cavity are no longer present to help with the judgement.

The flesh must be translucent with no stretch marks between muscles that indicate brining. There should be no odor around the shoulder area as this is where the first deterioration begins.

There should be a fresh, seaweedy smell. The flesh should be elastic and not retain indentation marks from the pressure of a finger. The appearance should be shiny. There should be no yeasty or putrid odor. The flavor should be sweet and the texture, flaky.

It takes a trained eye and practice to determine the difference between a No. 5 and No. 6 fish. Some of us came close to the grader's scores.

I must admit that close inspection is real important. The really bad filets are easy to spot. Yellowing indicates age. Ammoniated odor indicates spoilage. Avoid both at all costs.

After the grading test it was time for some cooking lessons. We started with a comparison of Canadian scrod vs. Georges bank scrod.

Read my lips, there is no comparison. The Georges Banks fish was firm and fleshy while the Canadian fillet mushy and skinny looking. After cooking the two the taste differences were extremely apparent.

If you can remember, a few weeks back I likened the fish's eating grounds to a vineyard. The Georges Bank fish eat in an area rich with nutrients. The appearance and taste attest to the theory of "vineyards."

We continued by comparing scallops, mussels, clams and oysters. Time after time the Foley's product came out on top. The "other" scallops lost most of their moisture because of brining, the mussels were small and tasteless as were the clams and oysters. The major difference in all cases was the feeding grounds or farming practices.

In the case of salmon, Foley's farm-raised fish are fed a special diet that enhances flavor, color and texture. There is no doubt in my mind that definite variations in taste and quality are a result of environment.

To finish this segment Sandro Di Silvio, the Foley Chef, primed us on some fish cooking facts. His "golden rule" is to cook fish 10 minutes for each 1 inch of thickness measured at the thickest part, at 450 degrees. Proper doneness is medium rare.

indicated by a moist center

The American public is very informed when it comes to preparing fish. Cook well done means an almost total loss of flavor, and a dry fillet.

It is also important to cook fish with skin on when possible. Most of the fat in fish is between the skin and flesh. Cooking allows this fat to "melt" and baste the fillet, preserving flavor and moistness.

The 450-degree oven sears the flesh, keep moistness in and to cook quickly. Adding a few ounces of liquid to fish pans the oven helps to maximize moisture. Finally, nothing will make a bad piece of fish taste good. Do your tests before buying, and enjoy the pleasure of tasteful fillets when cooked properly. Next week we're up at 5 a.m. for the trip to New Bedford and the fish auction.

The guide is based on the new U.S. Department of Agriculture and Health and Human Services Dietary Guidelines for Americans and the American Cancer Society recommendations. The daily plan is easy to follow. It shows suggested numbers of servings from each food group for different ages.

For your free copy, if you're an Oakland County resident, send a self-addressed stamped (29-cent) business envelope to:

Italian wines overflow with flavor

Embossed on the "Neirole" bottle is a mask that any thespian will recognize. Gagliardo maintains that when people first meet they wear a mask that is soon removed after a glass of his wine. Several of the Gagliardo labels also carry the mask motif. We agree that one of the great benefits of wine is a relaxed camaraderie.

Don't avoid red wines in the August heat. Select light red wines that can be served slightly chilled. If a red wine is too warm it will not be refreshing, so don't hesitate to put it in the refrigerator or an ice bucket with a mixture of ice and water before serving.

Dolcetto is a grape variety producing light, fruity wines that are best when consumed young and slightly chilled. The 1990 Gagliardo Dolcetto d'Alba ($10-$11) has a wonderful cherry quality that is a great accompaniment for grilled Italian sausage.

Gagliardo's red wines are made with the philosophy that they should have early appeal and approachability yet be ageable. His 1988 Gagliardo La Serra Barolo ($24-$26) is harvested late for structure and mouthfeel. This is not a typical big, robust Barolo. It is elegant and drinkable now. The Gagliardo Barolo ($28) is made of 100 percent nebbiolo grown in Barolo. Chill it lightly to bring out its cherry aromas and flavors.

If you are searching for a traditional style Barolo from a great year, the 1985 Ca' Bianco Barolo Riserva Cascina Denegri ($19-$23) is a wine in which you can sink your teeth. Serve at cellar temperature (55-60 degrees F) and be prepared for a big fruit expression complemented by leather, mushrooms and smooth tannins. There are few Barolos of this quality at this price.

Eggs and cheese make super combo

Eggs and cheese make a dynamic duo in your microwave. Lots of tasty dishes are based on these two simple ingredients because they're easy to prepare and can be on the table in minutes.

You'll need to take some care when microwaving, though. Proteins attract microwave energy, so they cook very quickly.

An egg's protein is divided almost equally between the white and yolk. But the yolk contains all of the egg's cholesterol and fat. Fats cook even more rapidly than proteins, so watch yolks carefully to avoid overcooking.

And cheese, as everyone knows, is high in both protein and — sigh — fat. So it's a fast cooker, too.

Both eggs and cheese should be microwaved in short increments of time and/or at lower temperature settings. Check frequently: Overcooked eggs will be rubbery and tough. Cheese can become stringy, rubbery or hard if microwaved too long.

For best results with cheese, add as the last ingredient and microwave only a short time. Or add cheese during standing time; while eggs continue to set, cheese gets a chance to melt (see Savory Scramble and Easy Cheese Omelet).

Aged cheese melts more smoothly than new cheese. And shredded cheese will melt faster. Cold cheese is easier to shred, so take it right from the fridge, or place in the freezer for about 15 minutes before grating. (One cup shredded cheese equals approximately 4 ounces.)

Most cheeses may be frozen for longer storage. While they may become somewhat brittle after freezing, they'll be fine for shredding or crumbling into salads or to use in cooking. Wrap tightly in portions of less than half a pound; this lets cheese freeze quickly and helps preserve its original texture.

Do not attempt to thaw frozen cheese in your microwave. Instead, let it thaw slowly in your refrigerator for at least 24 hours. Too-rapid defrosting can contribute to inferior texture.

SAVORY SCRAMBLE

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
5 large eggs
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon crumbled dried basil leaves
1 medium tomato, chopped
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Yields 2 to 3 servings.

Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.

Cooking time: 4 1/2 to 6 1/2 minutes (plus 3 to 4 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power).

Combine butter, green pepper and green onion in 1 1/2-quart microwave-safe baking dish. Microwave at HIGH setting about 1 minute, until vegetables are soft.

Combine eggs, sour cream and pepper in medium mixing bowl; beat well to blend thoroughly. Fold in all remaining ingredients except cheese.

Pour mixture into baking dish. Cover loosely with wax paper and microwave 3 1/2 to 5 minutes or until eggs are almost set, stirring every minute.

Stir in cheese. Let stand, covered, 3 to 4 minutes before serving, to finish cooking eggs and melt cheese.

Avoid the routine fast food meal

Hectic lifestyles make it very tempting to plan dinner around a bucket of chicken, a bag of burgers or a frozen boxed dinner. Fast foods can dent the budget and may shortchange you nutritionally. Most families are "into" lighter meals, easier preparation of foods, and faster cleanup. Time-consuming cooking (other than holidays) has really passed its prime. "Foods fast" as opposed to "fast foods" may be the perfect solution.

"Foods fast" preparation does not mean defrost and cook a frozen TV dinner or open a box. Instead, use your imagination! The key to quick and easy nutritious meals is organization. Start by planning menus. Think about how much time you have for preparation, cooking and cleanup.

Have a well-stocked kitchen of food staples, the basics, such as flour, sugar, rice, shortening and pasta so you can immediately put together a meal. Always have some "no cook" foods handy. These are canned fish, canned vegetables and fruits, for a hot or cold meal. Streamline shopping by planning ahead for several meals and do the shopping all at one time.

Look at what convenience appliances you may have in your kitchen. The biggest time-saver is a microwave, the cooking time is cut in half or more. "Meal in a peel," a baked potato with meat, vegetables, and cheese on the top can be a very quick and nutritious meal from the microwave and certainly less expensive than the fast food restaurant. There is very little cleanup with microwave cooking because you can cook on the serving dish.

Leftovers can be made into your own TV dinners and popped into the microwave for a quick meal with more imagination and more nutrition than the purchased kind.

Stir frying is an easy way to cook quickly. Use a wok or a skillet to stir-fry chicken, beef, pork, other meats or seafood. The meat should be fully cooked, but all the vegetables are better if still crunchy. Lemon juice or herbs sprinkled on these will eliminate salt and bring out the good flavor of the vegetables.

Crock pots are great for long, slow cooking in the summer or winter. (They add only minimal heat to the kitchen). Let the crock pot cook all day and when you arrive home the soup/stew is ready. Serve bread and a piece of fruit and you have a nutritious meal in minutes! Since a crock pot makes a larger batch, freeze some for another time. Tough meats cooked in liquid with a slow cooking method can make them very tender.

Food processors and blenders make chopping, peeling, slicing, shredding, pureeing easier and quicker. Do extra for the next time so you are preparing two or more meals at own time. One mess, one cleanup.

Broiling and stove top cooking are usually faster than one-item oven cooking. Do several things at the same time. If the oven is set on 400, in 30 minutes you can have meat pie, biscuit roll-ups, pasties, baked salmon, scalloped potatoes, cobbler, baked apples, and muffins. If the oven is set on 375, in one hour you can have meat loaf, casseroles, spanish rice, stuffed peppers, baked potatoes, upside-down cake, and gingerbread.

If the oven is on, make two roasts at the same time, use one and freeze the other. Remember when you double a recipe you only clean the kitchen once! A freezer can really be helpful for a quick meal by offering convenience and flexibility to meal planning. Freeze foods in containers you can use in the microwave or oven. You do not have to wait to thaw them out — just pop in the oven.

Other helpful suggestions are: Shorten the cooking time by cutting ingredients in small pieces. So what if the spaghetti isn't 12 inches long! Recipes that call for water: Use boiling water or very hot water. A flat baking dish cooks faster than a regular casserole dish, for instance, use a cake pan for a casserole. Bake on the garnishes to save time. Just before baking, press nut meats or fruit gently into bread, cake and cookie batters.

Make individual portions as opposed to one large (for example, individual meat loaves instead of one large). Look for recipes that are one-dish meals or casseroles. Foods heat faster if they start out at room temperature. This does not mean leaving the food to sit out on the counter all day. Instead, when you arrive home, take the food out of the refrigerator, let it sit for 20-30 minutes, then cook.

You still may be tempted to turn into the first fast food place you pass on the way home, so make nutritious choices. Whether it be fast foods or making foods fast, remember the key is moderation and variety for good eating and good health.

Cherries just one of nature's gems

"Stone fruit" is an elegant name for such succulent fruits as peaches, plums, nectarines and cherries. Gemstone fruits would be more appropriate, in celebration of their rich colors and lush flavors.

The most accessible of foods, stone fruits at their best need no embellishment. While they lend themselves to all manner of culinary delights, what chef could concoct a treat more luscious than a tree-ripened apricot or sweet cherry?

If poets would just come down to earth and look about, they'd forget about romance and dedicate sonnets to fruit.

Imagine William Shakespeare writing — How beautiful peaches are! Oh, brave new world, that has such tastes in it!

"Our customers love Michigan-grown produce," says Joe Malorani Jr., co-owner of Joe's Produce, in Livonia. "It eats better because it's closer to the tree. It's picked riper, so it's juicier and more flavorful."

PEACHES

Peaches are everybody's favorite. Not many people realize that Michigan, with more than a million peach trees, is the nation's fifth largest producer. Most peaches are eaten out of hand, but a good number of people can them.

Malorani cautions that there's more to stone fruit than just a pretty peel. For example, one of the tastiest peaches available is the Loring available from early to mid-August.

"A lot of other peaches are cosmetically superior, but you can't beat Loring for eating and canning," he said.

Chef Michael Haggarty, of Southfield's Cafe Lamour, takes advantage of Michigan peaches to make a French peach tart. "Peaches are almost accident-proof," Haggarty said. "Michigan peaches are the greatest in the world. They're firm, and they hold a glaze well. They're not too moist, and the flavor is more intense after cooking. A French peach tart is easy to do, and it makes a phenomenal presentation."

When shopping for peaches, look for a fruit with a creamy or yellow (not green) background color. Ripe peaches give to gentle pressure; avoid green, extra-hard and badly bruised fruit.

PLUMS

Instead of "And what is so rare as a day in June?" James Russell Lowell could have written "And what is so rare as a plum in June."

Plums come in gorgeous colors — red, green, scarlet, blue and purple — with flavors ranging from tart to sweet. Michigan growers specialize in the purple Italian plum, and are the nation's second largest producer.

As a rule, it isn't necessary to peel plums before cooking. The peels add to the flavor and aren't unattractive.

It's hard to judge maturity of dark-skinned plums by color, but try to choose fruit that's full colored for its variety. Ripe fruit is slightly soft at the tip end and gives when squeezed gently.

Apricots are the most fragile of stone fruits, and very difficult to find at their peak. They're usually picked green so they'll survive the trip to market, and they just never develop the true delicate apricot flavor.

Most of the Michigan crop is processed, and only 6 percent of the California crop is sold fresh.

A good fresh apricot is precious, so

FRENCH STONE PEACH TART

Buttery Pastry Crust
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
1 egg yolk, beaten
2 tablespoons milk

Combine flour and salt in a mixing bowl. Cut butter in until mixture is in pea-sized pieces. Combine egg yolk and milk. Mix into flour mixture, and stir just to mix. Do not over-stir!

Form into a ball, adding more milk if necessary.

Roll dough to fit 11-inch tart pan (with removable bottom). Fit pastry dough into pan and trim excess. Place waxed paper over dough and fill with dried beans. Bake crust at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Remove paper and beans, and bake 3 more minutes.

GLAZE

1/2 cup apricot preserves
2 teaspoons water
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

FILLING

3 cups pitted, sliced, ripe, Michigan peaches
1 tablespoon glaze
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened

NOTE: To peel peaches, pour boiling water over peaches, let set for a couple of minutes, no longer. Skins will slip off easily.

Heat preserves, water and almond extract until smooth. Stir 1 tablespoon glaze into softened cream cheese, and spread mixture into buttery pastry shell. Arrange peaches artistically over filling and brush with remaining glaze. (Glaze may also be spooned over peaches). Refrigerate 1 hour and serve. (This tart must be served the day it is made.)

PLUM CRISP

1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup oatmeal
1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed

4 cups (about two pounds) sliced Michigan plums
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon quick tapioca

Thoroughly combine first 4 ingredients to make topping. Set aside. Mix plums, sugar, cinnamon and tapioca together until plums are evenly coated. Place in shallow 2-quart baking dish or 9-inch baking pan. Sprinkle topping evenly over plums.

Bake in 350 degree F. oven about 40 minutes, or until plums bubble around edges and topping is golden brown. Serve warm with ice cream. Serves eight.

NECTARINE THAI SALAD

Dressing
1/2 cup each corn oil and lime juice
2 tablespoons each chopped fresh mint leaves, cilantro and pickled jalapeno pepper, seeded
1/2 teaspoon sugar

Salad
12 ounces coil vermicelli, cooked, drained, cooled
1/2 cup chopped red onion
1 medium cucumber, sliced
1/2 pound medium-sized shrimp, ready-to-eat
3 fresh ripe nectarines, sliced lettuce leaves
dried, crushed red chili pepper flakes

To make dressing — combine ingredients in a jar, and cover jar with tight-fitting lid. Shake vigorously until well-blended, and set aside.

To make salad — combine pasta, onion and half the dressing in a medium bowl. Toss until well-mixed.

To serve, place pasta on lettuce-lined platter, arrange shrimp, nectarine, and cucumber slices on top of pasta. Drizzle with remaining dressing and garnish by sprinkling with dried crushed red chili pepper flakes.

ange color as possible. Avoid fruit that's pale or greenish yellow, very firm or shriveled.

CHERRIES

"Oh my hove is like a red, red, cherry/That's newly sprung in June," (Robert Burns).

The pits of several species of cherries have been found in the Stone Age deposits of Swiss lake dwellings and in the mounds and cliff-caves of prehistoric America. The early colonists brought cultivated varieties with them.

In Michigan, the first commercial crop was harvested in Traverse City in 1896. The dark, sweet, Bing cherry was developed in the Western hemisphere and named for a Chinese workman.

Sweet cherries increase in size, sweetness and depth of color as they ripen. Look for plump, bright-colored cherries: Avoid overly soft or shriveled cherries. Cherries should have stems attached.

The key to maximum enjoyment of all stone fruits is to remember that they're not carrots. Eat them now! If necessary, ripe stone fruit (except cherries) may be stored, unwashed, in a paper bag in the refrigerator for up to three days. Two days is better.

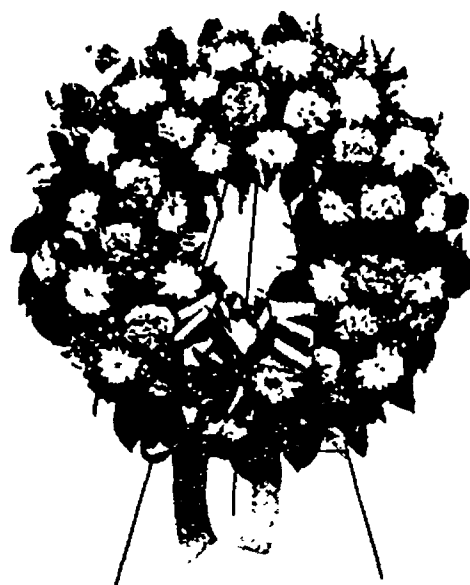

Cherries are quite perishable. To keep them for up to three days, line a shallow pan with several layers of paper towels. Arrange cherries, unwashed, on towels in a single layer; top with more paper towels and plastic wrap. Better yet, just eat them!

To ripen fruit, place in a paper bag, close bag loosely, and leave at room temperature. Check daily for ripeness by placing fruit in palm and squeezing gently. If it gives to light pressure and has a fragrant aroma, it's ready to eat.

Stone fruits are fairly low in calories (a medium peach has about 50 calories), and are rich in vitamins and minerals. They're low in sodium and fat, and filled with carbohydrates for quick energy.

Yeadley Smith one of Fox's most valuable players

By John Crook

Yeadley Smith is a little worried about her voice: more specifically, how America will react to hearing it in two different programs on one night.

Beginning Aug. 12, Fox will be giving its viewers yards of Yeadley, as "Herman's Head" moves to Thursday, where it joins a prime-time lineup that already includes "The Simpsons." Smith plays mild-mannered research assistant Louise Fitzer in the former and, of course, precocious Lisa in the latter.

Her unmistakable pipes, which suggest a Mouseketeer on helium, have been both a blessing and a curse, she says during an interview at a Los Angeles hotel. "I realized as my career advanced that it was something that people either absolutely loved or they just couldn't bear, and there was nothing in between. There's no gray area," she says, with a shrug.

William Ragsdale, who plays Herman Brooks in the sitcom the cast refers to simply as "The Head," and who right now is sporting trendy "hiatus stubble," just rolls his eyes when he hears of Smith's tongue-in-cheek fretting about having her two series as bookends on the same night.

"Look, in the first place, the people who don't like Yeadley are an incredibly small minority," he says, shaking his head at the notion. "Believe me, it (having her voice on twice in one night) can only help the ratings."

If Smith has a refreshingly ironic attitude about her inimitable voice, she comes by it honestly. After all, Time-Life operators have hung up on her, thinking she was a kid making a crank call ("I'm going, 'No, please, I have a credit card! Really!'" she says pleadingly.) And when she took over the role of Jeremy Irons' daughter in the hit Broadway comedy "The Real Thing," director Mike Nichols made one tactful suggestion.

"He just said, 'Yeadley, you might want to work on your voice,'" she recalls. "He didn't say anything else. And I kept asking, 'What do you mean?'" By that time, she had been through years of teasing from her peers ("High school? Ha! Try kindergarten!").

She admits that she can't explain the popularity (by Fox standards) of "The Head": "I was in the park one day, and there was this woman who seemed utterly refined, and she was having a picnic with a huge family, and she was this matriarch—she was wearing this, you know, fabulous hat...After a couple of hours she said to me, 'Excuse me, aren't you that girl on "Herman's Head?'" ' And I said, 'Yes. What are you doing, watching that show?' And she said, 'Oh, that's my favorite show!'"

Like Smith, Ragsdale says he has no idea what the move to Thursday will mean for the show, and admits to being "a little nervous." But Molly Hagan, who plays the optimistic Angel (one-fourth of Herman's cranial crew), characteristically puts a positive spin on things: "I hope the move away from 'Married...With Children' will give us a little more leeway in terms of plot and tone."

One of the cleanest and well-maintained centers in the metro area.

Keep your options open, especially where financial and business ventures are concerned. A friend may introduce you to someone who will change your life.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
You may have thought a situation was a lost cause, but things will turn out better than you imagined. Get some advice concerning finances.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
Try not to be too forceful with friends and family members. There is a possibility you have not heard all sides to a certain story.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
A physical attraction to someone close to you will soon pass. Try to think ahead on a certain project; there is a good chance you may be missing an important detail.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
A healthy diet and exercise regimen are exactly what the doctor ordered for you. Take care of yourself and you will be amazed by the transformation.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Do not play head games with those close to you. Be direct and state the facts, but be tactful. Your honesty will be appreciated by those you love.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
You will begin to feel as though you have more energy than in the past and you will be able to accomplish more. Keep a secret for now.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
You must trust your intuition regarding a specific situation and do what is best for all concerned. Focus on what is most important in life.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
Keep an open mind, but at the same time do not set yourself up for disappointment. You will have the opportunity to voice your opinions.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You have more going for you at this time than you may realize. Take some time to appreciate the many blessings that you have been given.

Glynnis O'Connor is pursuing dream job

BY CANDACE HAVENS

To Glynnis O'Connor, it sounded like a dream job: the opportunity to spend more time with her family and the chance to sink her teeth into a meaty character. But what O'Connor didn't count on was the rigor of playing one of daytime television's most lively detectives, Margo Hughes, on "As the World Turns."

"I was on this show ('ATWT') about 20 years ago," says O'Connor, "when it was a half-hour show and was taped live each day. Things have really changed since then. I had no idea the amount of material you have every day, sometimes 20 or 30 pages. I am used to doing a couple of pages a day when I'm working on a film. Margo is involved with so many different characters on the show, and she has so much history."

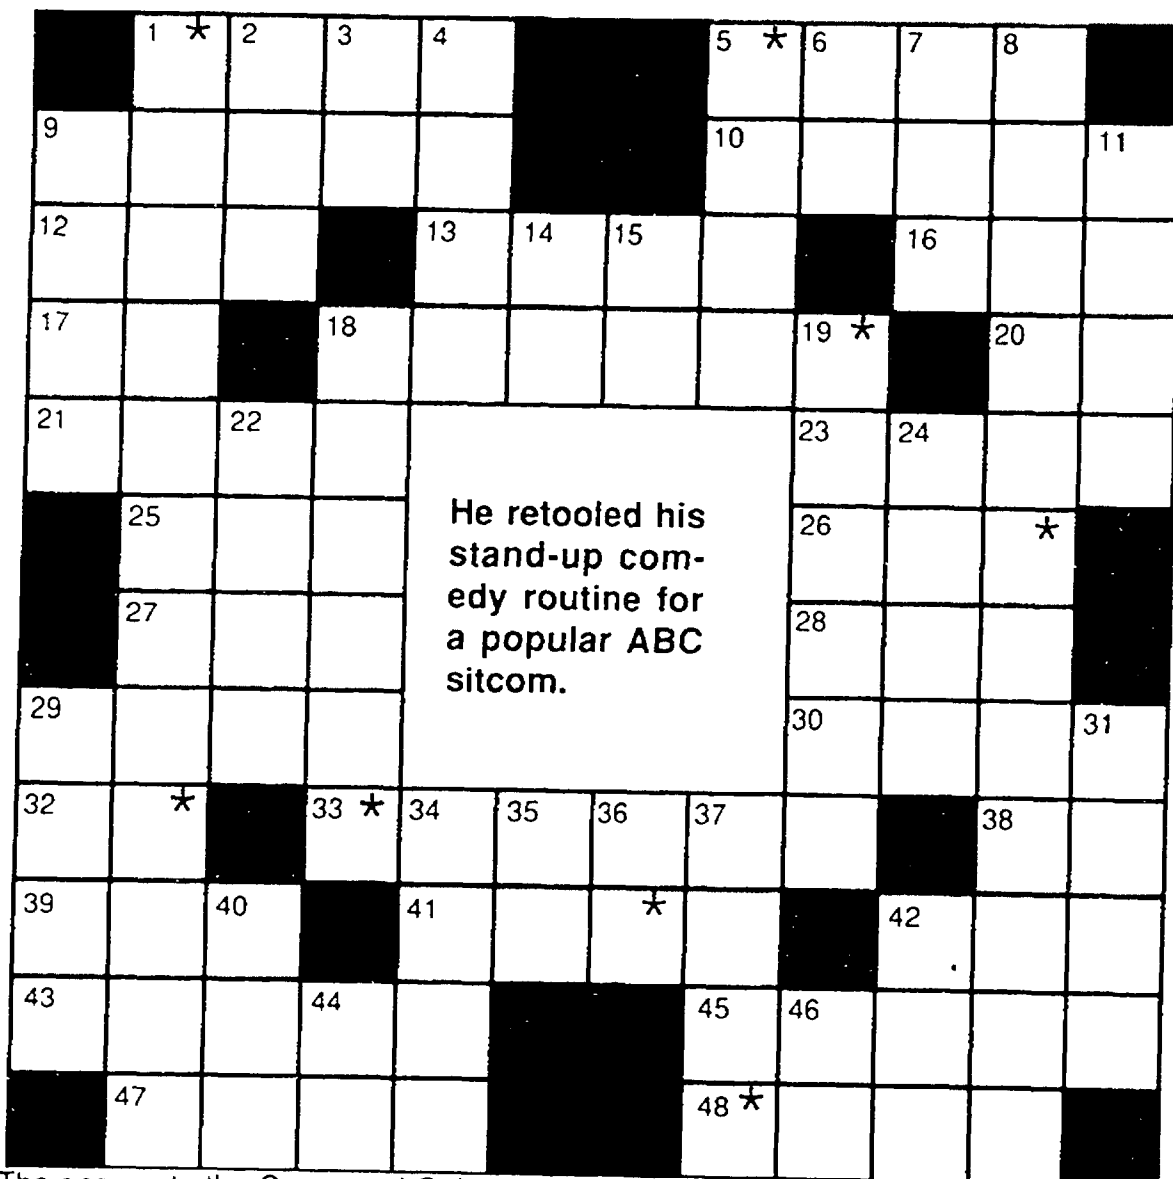

"On one of the first shows that I appeared, there was a birthday party for my daughter on the show, and there were so many different cast members in the scene. I had no idea who most of them were. I remember meeting somebody and doing a scene with her and later finding out she used to be married to Margo's dad. Things like that happen all the time, but you just kind of laugh it off."

At first, O'Connor was nervous about taking over after Ellen Dolan decided to leave the role. "Ellen was loved by everybody, and she had the character down," says O'Connor. "I knew it wouldn't be easy when I first went in there. I walked around feeling like an idiot for a few months, but it has gotten better."

"I work a lot of hours, but you know, there really is no such thing as a free lunch, and the work here is really great. The cast and crew are so real and down-to-earth. There are no egos on the set, and that is rare in this business."

While this was only O'Connor's second foray into the soaps, she has had a successful career in movies, television and theater. Her films include, "Ode to Billy Joe" and "Our Town." She has done several TV movies, including "Sons and Daughters" and "The Boy in the Plastic Bubble."
