Northville Board of Education members hope to take the first step in improving communication with the public at tonight's meeting.

The board is expected to appoint two of its members as liaisons to the PTA/PTSA Coordinating Council and the Advocates for Quality Education.

Board President Robert McMahon Mondays. said the move will make it easier for the two groups to participate in the board's process.

"These two groups have been very supportive," he said. "We need to promote that partnership."

Currently, there are board liaisons assigned to the Northville Recreation Department, Northville Youth Assistance and the senior citizens.

Other examples suggested by board members at a study session last week to heighten community awareness included beefing up the "School News," the district's newsletter; streamlining board meetings; preparing one-page news briefs high-lighting actions taken at the last board of education meeting; and following a set schedule for subcommittee meetings.

What began as a minor hit-andrun car accident in the Milford area resulted in the death of a Hartland man due to a heart attack at I-275 near Seven Mile Road Wednesday afternoon.

Lawrence Conrad Whelton, 56, was southbound on I-275 at 1:40 p.m. when his 1991 Dodge pickup crossed the center median and struck a northbound 1988 Oldsmobile driven by David McKinnon, 35, of Walled Lake.

Though the Michigan State Police have yet to complete their investigation into the incident, witnesses at the scene reported that Whelton had been involved in a minor hit-and-run accident in the Milford area some time earlier. When he failed to stop at the accident scene, the driver of the second vehicle apparently gave chase. Witnesses reported Whelton and his pursuer reached speeds of close to 100 mph and were passing cars on the shoulder.

Police questioned the driver and passenger of the alleged pursuing vehicle, which stopped at the scene of was available on whether charges will be filed against that driver.

Andre Joseph Tundo's extended date with the judicial system of three states has begun anew.

Tundo, already wanted for escaping from a Kentucky jail, was arrested by Novi police Sept. 12 after a high-speed chase on Novi and Grand River roads. He was fleeing after allegedly walking out of a real estate agent's open house in Northville with several pieces of jewelry, but the larceny charge for that crime is just one of several he now faces.

Tundo waived his right to a preliminary examination into the charge at Plymouth's 35th District Court Sept. 24, and his case was bound over to Oakland County Circuit Court. He'll be arraigned there Oct.

Northville City police turned him over to the Oakland County Sheriff's

A survey by AAA Michigan predicts a 3 percent increase in Labor Day travel over last year, with an increase of 3 percent expected for overall summer holiday weekend travel.

This is one percentage point less than travel projections made earlier in the season.

Based on 300 August phone interviews with Michigan residents, the study also concluded that forecasts of bad weather will not have a major impact on travel

Northville Player pens melodrama

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

This year's Victorian Festival marks more than the fifth anniversary of Northville's best known event.

It also marks the directorial debut of Northville's newest playwright, John Foster.

Foster, 29, has written and directed the latest melodrama for the Northville Players, scheduled to run throughout the Victorian Festival weekend.

The play is entitled Maggie's Double Trouble, or, Rendered Helpless. "Like most melodramas, this one has two titles," Foster explained.

Unlike many melodramas. though, this one is based on more than a grain of truth.

"It's loosely based on the life of my great-grandmother," said Foster of the woman who was left a widow with four small children when her husband died in 1918 during the country's influenza epidemic.

While her husband's two brothers helped her financially following his death, they did not help her as much as they could, Foster said, and she

At first he worked behind the shipment of his uncle's horses may have disappeared into the Sticklers' glue factory. When he sees Maggie fending off her relatives' lecherous advances, he vows to rescue her.

Foster said his interest in writing began in college as he pursued both had to take a job in a garment factory.

In our play, we've embellished on these points," Foster said.

The brothers-in-law have become twin brothers Dick and Mortimer Stickler. The Sticklers own their own garment factory, and they make a virtual slave out of heroine Maggie Meadowlark when she goes to work there as they compete for her affections.

Into the picture comes lan McLaughlin, a Scotsman on the trail of horse thieves, who suspects that a science and literature as subjects. But the theater is a far cry from his current day job as a medical technologist at Detroit Medical Center.

scenes building sets for various productions, but eventually he screwed up the courage to try out for roles and won a bit part in Neil Simon's Plaza Suite. In last year's production of Egad, the Woman in White, Foster portrayed Sir Percival Glide, the villain.

"Ive been trying to take a more active role each year," he said.

Foster decided to try his hand at writing after the theater troupe had little luck in finding scripts for future productions.

"We saw an awful lot of them that just didn't do anything for us," he said. "I thought I could do better."

The one-hour play itself took shape over last winter and spring. with Kim editing the final version and the Northville Players board accepting it as this year's Victorian Festival production.

Maggie Meadowlark, Bob Hill as hero ie dual role of playwright and director proved to be a challenging one, Foster said. "Both projects were an awful lot more work than I ever imagined, but I'm also having a great time doing it."

The cast of "Maggie's Double Trouble" includes Kim Foster as heroine Ian McLaughlin, Frances Colucci-Hill as narrator Clara the maid, Dan Shoop as Maggie's evil brother-inlaw Dick Stickler, Steve Hillard as Dick's just-as-evil twin brother Mortimer and Steve's wife Jay Hillard as Mrs. Mahoney, Maggie's neighbor and ally.

Mill Race Village goes Victorian

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

While promenading through the Victorian Festival Sept. 17-19, visi tors to Not thville are kindly invited to take a step back in time.

The Mill Race Historical Village will host a variety of old-time activities that weekend, said Marianne Barry of the Northville Historical Society, who is chairing this year's historical society events at the village.

"It's the place to be," Barry bragged.

The village will be open Saturday and Sunday between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. and the historical structures will be staffed by docents. Smithy Owen Createau demonstrates his blacksmith skills while the Mill Race Weaver's Guild spin their looms both days.

At the Interurban Station, period refreshments including (nonalcoholic) birch beer and sarsaparilla will be served.

Sunday's events revolve around the historical society's annual family picnic.

"Bring your picnic lunch or buy one at the Box Lunch Auction." Barry urged.

Besides the blacksmith and weav ers, period crafters will perform de monstrations in the village buildings John Quinn will show off and play his hand built antique musical instru ments, while Ruth Gordon will take a break from 40 days of displays at Greenfield Village to bring her unique collection of hairweave ornaments to Northville.

The woman weaves human hair and it's a real Victorian craft," Barry said

Kathleen Makstutis, also on loan from Greenfield Village, will reenact what it was like to be a schoolteacher in the 1800s.

The soundtrack for the day's events will be provided by dulcimer players Hugh and Mary Lou Battley and the 5th Regiment Civil War Band.

Specific events include a series of children's games starting at 1 p.m., the annual Victorian Hat contest at the Gazebo at 2 p.m. and the famous duck race down the Middle Rouge River at 2:30.

Scale model air show takes to skies above Northville

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Look, up in the sky! It's a bird, it's a plane . . . no, it's a plane the size of a very large bird! That's what residents in the vicinity of Five Mile and Ridge roads may be saying this Labor Day weekend as the Midwest Radio Control Society Inc. of Northville hosts its First Annual "Big Bird" Fly-In.

The event, on Midwest's groomed 800-foot airstrip and flying field off Five Mile west of Ridge Road, includes two days of giant model air-craft flight demonstrations by club members and pilots from all over Mi-chigan, surrounding states and Canada.

Giant models are those with a wing span of at least 80 inches or onequarter the size of the full-scale plane they are modeled after. Giant model biplanes must have a 60-inch wingspan or greater.

Midwest R/C Inc. President Ed Douville said the fly-in will showcase aerobatic performances by nationally-known model airline pilots including Dr. Keith Shaw of Ann Arbor, an internationally recognized authority on electric technology development for model aircraft, and Steve Pulley, who flies a range of conventional and high-performance mi-niatures including ducted fan jets and helicopters.

Pulley plans to thrill the crowd in Northville with his Laser airplane, a one-third scale model that Douville described as "the ultimate in state-of-the-art aerobatic aircraft today." The Laser is modeled after a stunt plane now breaking records around the world, he said.

Airplane pilots will be performing the usual mix of loops and rolls as well as trickler maneuvers like rolling circles and snap rolls, which Douville described as "a very, very sudden deflection of all control surfaces where the airplane will actually revolve 360 degrees in both the horizontal and vertical plane."

Pulley has his own eye-catching version of the snap roll in which the plane pulls out of the maneuver into *knife-edge flight, * with its wings perpendicular to the ground, Douville said.

Andy Low, piloting a 10 1/2 -pound XL-60 helicopter, "will be showing us things that helicopters are not supto be able to do," Douville posed added. "He's that good."

Many of the aerobatic planes will be equipped with smoke injectors that inject a diesel-like liquid into the exhaust manifold to leave a plume of smoke behind the plane.

The aircraft typically are constructed of lightweight materials like balsa wood, spruce and aircraft plywood, Douville said. "We're now getting into some of the more exotic materials like Kevlar," he added. Typical giant-class models weigh in between 25-30 pounds and can be as heavy as 55 pounds. The planes are powered by specially-modified gasoline engines with a displacement of up to seven cubic inches, driving propellers up to 24 inches in diameter.

While ducted fan scale models of jets like the F-16 can attain speeds of 125 miles per hour. Douville said the modeler's goal is not to build the fastest plane but the aircraft that best mimics its original.

"We fly these airplanes as realistically as we possibly can to match the original aircraft," he said, and that includes scaling back the speed as well as scaling down the size.

Pilot registration and mandatory safety inspections begin at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 4-5 and will be followed by 9:30 a.m. pilot's meetings both days. The airshow itself runs between 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday. Spectators can view the aircraft up close on the flight line and talk with the pilots between 12:30-1 p.m. both days.

Master of Ceremon.28 Bob Wroblewski will provide continuous updates on the in-flight activities as up to three aircraft fly the skies above Northville at any one time.

Concessions including food, potato chips, soft drinks and souvenirs will be available throughout the show.

"We feel that a lot of kids are really going to enjoy this," Douville said. Adults are bound to have an exciting time as well.

Spectators are advised to bring folding chairs for the show. The event is sanctioned by the

New restrooms beginning of plan to end student smoking

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

No butts about it, cigarette smokers will not be welcome to light up in the remodeled bathroom facilities at Northville High School.

David C. Bolitho, assistant superintendent of administrative services for the Northville School District, said the bathrooms have been severely damaged by student smokers in the past several years.

Bolitho said one of principal Tho mas Johnson's initiatives this year is board did approve those two full-time positions at its Aug. 23 meeting. It was one of four priority budget items approved.

Bolitho said he didn't know how far the board was willing to go to extinguish the smoking problem, but did mention the new law does permit the ticketing of violators. The misdemeanor carries a $50 fine with it.

"We thought we'd give them a jump on the issue by getting the johns into top-notch shape," Bolitho said, referring to Johnson's and the Parent Advisory group's game plan to eliminate smoking in the restrooms. "It was one of our priorities."

The approximately $12,000 project replaced fixtures, including toilets and toilet seats, mirrors and dispensers in the bathrooms needing them. The main focus of the repair was in the female and male bathrooms near the auditorium. Ceramic tile was placed on the floors and halfway up the walls. Doors are also now on the stalls.

"It's like a public restroom now." Bolitho said.

Improvements were also made to the bathrooms by the teacher's lounge and in the English department area.

The bath ooms are where they should be for human use," Bolitho said.

Power outage didn't disturb 911 services

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville City Hall employees were left in the dark for five hours Tuesday when an electrical short knocked out most of the power to the building.

Phone lines went dead and flourescent lights flickered as electri cians traced the source of the outage to a junction box in the fire hall.

A splice inside the junction box apparently had separated and shorted out the municipal office's 400-amp service. Because the short occurred inside the building, a generator behind the police station could not be used as back-up.

The trouble started about 9:30 a.m. as overhead lights flickered throughout the building and about half the electrical devices within city hall were knocked out.

Computer screens went blank, the phones stopped ringing and auditors from Plante & Moran who were performing the annual audit on the city's ledgers had to work in a darkened room. Fortunately, said Chief Accountant Nicolette Bateson, their calculators still worked.

Emergency 911 service was not in terrupted by the outage

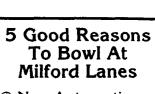

Most city hall workers were dis missed at noon as repairs continued into the afternoon. But the lights were back on and the phones were ringing through to the switchboard by 3:30 pm.

Tax Clerk Chris Maloney joked that the problem, which cropped up on the last day that property tax pay ments were due, must have been the work of internal saboteurs

"It took Cerri (Witkowski, a fellow tax clerk) and I a while, but we finally figured out how to knock out the phones," she said with a laugh

Previously, the district followed a policy which limited smoking in school buildings by contract. The new public act supercedes the former policy, Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said

When the policy was adopted in the late 1980s, the intent was to eventually ban smoking from school district buildings.

"Our concern was the model of behavior we wanted for our students." Rezmierski said.

The superintendent added he didn't think many of the school district's employees would be affected by the new ban. However, the district will direct those employees toward smoking cessation programs, he added.

Mainstreet '93 plan parked for now

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

A joint meeting to review the status of Mainstreet '93 has been postponed again.

The Sept 9 meeting was the third scheduled to review progress on the city's proposal to replace the Cady Street parking deck, add a deck for MainCentre residents and other leased parkers on the lot south of MainCentre and build a paved, lighted parking lot south of the Cady deck

City Manager Gary Word said the meeting's been put off again because little progress has been made - percent of the taxes collected in the either by the city's engineers in designing the decks or by the Michigan Legislature in figuring out whether and how to fund the Tax Increment Financing Authority's plan to finance most of the $4.2 million project.

About 70 percent of the funding for Mainstreet '93 was to come from tax capturing, the diversion of increased property tax revenue within a speci-fied Downtown Development District to projects that benefit that district. The state Legislature's July vote to axe property taxes from the school funding system effectively reduced the revenue stream needed to fund Mainstreet '93 by half, since about 55 city go to fund Northville Public Schools.

Word has noted that without some legislative change, like grandfathering in existing TIFA projects, Main-street '93 is "not a viable project."

Notices went out Monday to members of the city council, planning commission, downtown development authority, citizen's district council, historic district commission and chamber of commerce informing them that the meeting had been indefinitely postponed.

More information may become available at a Sept. 13 forum called by the Rochester DDA to take input on the future of TIFAs. The forum, titled "Downtowns in Jeopardy," is billed as "a special meeting of downtown development officials and concerned citizens to discuss current serious problems and potential solutions.

Speakers include the bond counsel from the Detroit law firm Miller. Canfield, Paddock & Stone, which is working with the Michigan Department of Commerce on potential TIFA legislation, as well as representatives of the Michigan Municipal League, the state Legislature and local DDAs.

Word said he plans to attend the forum.

Mill Race Matters

Summer winds to a close and community activities key up to rush into fall. Coming in the weeks ahead are two of Northville's major events of the year. The Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Victorian Festival and the Northville Historical Society-sponsored Tivoli Fair.

The Victorian Festival comes first on Sept. 17-19. Plans are under way to have all buildings at Mill Race Village open during this event. Volunteers are still needed to help with the staffing. The festival always begins with a parade through town.

As always, Historical Society members plan to participate and promote Mill Race Village. Activities occur throughout the weekend in town and at Mill Race. No one should miss this citywide event.

Then, two weeks later, the Northville Historical Society stages Tivoli Fair, the major fund-raiser for continued maintenance and operation of Mill Race Village. Tivoli Fair, as in past years, will be held at Northville Downs. It is a juried arts and crafts show, recognized by most as one of the top such events in this region.

One reason for its continued success is the quality of the merchandise presented for sale. Craftspersons are juried in March for the October show and often many talented individuals must be turned away for lack of space.

The fair is always held on a Friday and Saturday. The dates this year are Oct. 1-2. The show runs until 8 p.m. on Friday and until 5 p.m. on Saturday. Look for fliers and posters for additional details or call 348-1845. Volunteers are needed to assist Historical Society members with ticket sales, gate monitoring and hosting duties. Call Sally at the number listed above to volunteer.

In the Historical Society archives a family book for the Haslett/ Fouts/Baughman family has been located. It contains birth and marriage information dating from the mid-19th century. An example of the material contained appears below.

"Mrs. Mary Unsgrave (Haslett) was born in Lancaster Co., Penn. January 9, 1803 was married to James Haslett. She has been a widow 22 years, has 19 grandchildren living and 10 great grandchildren. Was the mother of 9 children, 8 of which grew to man and womanhood, died April 11, 1891 was buried April 10, her son William's birthday. Copied by A.D. Baughman April 30, 1907.

The book may be the early 20th century work of a family geneologist. It provides valuable potential information to members of this family. The Historical Society community archives hopes in the future to make available information such as this through national sources.

Many thanks go to the Northville High School class of 1993 for its donation to be used on restoration of the 1943 class composite picture. Good luck in the future.

Planners give nod to Wooly Bully parking

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Wooly Bully's owner Mark Roman really has no desire to ink a deal to lease parking when he can sign one to build a lot of his own.

Roman won the support of the Northville Township Planning Commission Tuesday night for a revised plan to expand his parking lot. Planners voted 4 1 to approve a revised version for additional parking spaces on the restaurateur's lot, contingent on a zoning variance being granted by the zoning board of appeals.

Planning Commission chairman Richard Allen abstained from the vote because his son is employed by ship planner and trustee Russ Fogg cast the dissenting vote against Roman's latest plan. Fogg opposed the idea of cutting down trees to build a parking lot and worried about the security of the expanded lot.

But other planners sympathized with Roman and his efforts to submit a plan that meets commissioners' concerns. It was the second time Roman approached the commission with a plan to squeeze more parking into an already stretched lot. His first request was denied Aug.10.

While commissioners empathized with the business owner's need for additional parking, they preferred it

But rather than wait to see if Roman and Autry could cut a deal. planners opted to accept the revised plan.

"Mr. Roman has come to about he best solution he can," said acting chairman John Amos. "I would like to see him come to an agreement with Mr. Autry, but I think we have to do something in the meantime."

Commissioner Don Mueller agreed, but said it was a difficult decision nonetheless.

"It is a difficult one for me but when I weighed the pluses and min-

A visibly angry Roman dodged planning commissioner Robert Willerer's question about the proposed settlement that was mediated by Snider. But Autry, who also at the planning commission meeting, told planners there was a deal.

"We did work out a temporary verbal agreement," Autry said. "And we have faxed a copy of it to Mr. Roman's attorney. But I have not talked about it with him . . but there is an agree-

Autry told planners that both ship planners Tuesday night about sides did agree to the tenative deal last week and that is why the fire gate dividing the two properties was opened Friday to allow restaurant patrons to pass through to the center where their cars were parked.

Snider was annoyed Tuesday night after hearing Autry and Roman were still duking it out. He said the tentative accord didn't come easy and it took four or five individual meetings with each side -- with no lawyers - to get the two to agree to the terms. The chief said the deal was intended to stand the way he negotiated it and not what was written into a contract.

They were both very. very cooperative," Snider said about the businessmen who have been at odds for months. There was some vascilating back and forth. But both parties were interested in working toward a parking agreement."

The chief said his motivation in mediating the parking dispute was to ensure the safety of pedestrian traffic on Seven Mile Road before Northville Downs opens for its regular racing season on Oct. 16.

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

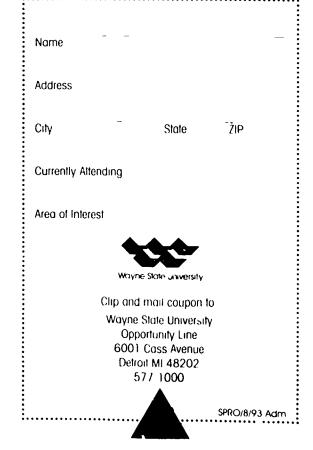

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country. Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation
- Cost the only Michigan public university with a negative increase in tuition costs over the past decade based on inflation
- Financial aid During 1991-92 WSU awarded $50 million in aid to students

Single business tax likely to increase

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

Michigan's business people are deeply divided over the chief tax they pay, especially now that it's likely to go up.

The single business tax (SBT) pro-duces about $1.7 billion a year. Business will be asked to pay more, one way or another, because the state Legislature has repealed $6 billion of local property taxes for schools.

There's a real push for the Legislature to fund schools for 1994-95," said Rep. Susan Grimes Munsell, R-Howell, co-chair of a House Taxation subcommittee looking at the SBT during a Detroit public hearing.

I suspect there will be a lot of activity. Taxation from the SBT will be part of that activity," said Munsell, who wants to produce recommendations for restructuring SBT by Sept. 14, if it's to be done at all.

Herself a certified public accountant, Munsell said the goal will be to have business make up a proportional part of the replacement re-venue or less. We need to deal with it this calendar year," she said. Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union

Lake, predicted lawmakers will allow school districts to reinstitute some of the repealed $6 billion in property taxes. Reason: The Michigan Constitution prevents the Legislature from raising more than $3.8 billion.

Small business people from Southfield and Belleville panned the current SBT as a tax on employment.

Financial, computer and auto giant spokesmen like SBT the way it is. "I have found no consistency." complained Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, about the strong disagreements between business people.

"You can have two people in the same industry with a $1 difference in gross receipts, and they'll have different answers," said Rep. Dobb, also an accountant.

"Ease up on products made in Mi-chigan," said Charles Hood of HLF Furniture Inc., Belleville maker of office furniture and employer of 75. Hood said non-wage costs such as health care, unemployment insurance and workers' compensation should be removed from the tax base. There should be an incubation period for small, start-up businesses," said Hood, drawing great applause from the audience

Paul Pickell of Pick Publications in Southfield called the SBT "a barrier to growth and profitability. It's an unfair burden to small business. It's very complicated and requires a CPA. It hampers reinvestment in one's own business."

A "reasonable business profits tax" would be preferable, said Pickell, whose firm produces business directories.

"Let us know how you want to pay the business cost of education in Michigan," said Munsell.

Linda Jolicoeur, a Southfield entrepreneur representing the National Association of Women Business Owners, replied, "Rather than look at it negatively - like what do you want to pay? — we need to improve the quality of education." She deplored Southfield's spending $9,000 per student a year and raising teachers' wages 8 percant as soon as voters approved a property tax increase.

"Taxes are a price you pay for do-ing business," said Mark Brooks of the Cranbrook Group in Bloomfield Hills. "If you add a price to labor, you're going to get less employees." Jeffrey Muhn of Compuware Co. in Farmington Hills called the SBT "an incentive to the software industry" in which Michigan plays a dominant role. Gross receipts and profit taxes. which lawmakers are considering. would hit computer software firms harder and drive them into the beckoning arms of Canada and neighboring states, Muhn said.

John Neberle of Ford Motor Co.'s Dearborn headquarters made a strong case for not tinkering with SBT.

"In 1975, Michigan replaced seven other taxes with SBT. The corporate income tax was 7 percent. Michigan had a tax on net worth - a real minefield because it taxed reserves for health care. We were in court more often than not," he said.

We knew when we went to the SBT there'd be trials and tribulations," Neberle said, citing major state Supreme Court decisions over 18 years. "We're close to the end. We've got rid of a lot of irritants to worldwide manufacturing. The tax resentative, State Capitol, Lansing system has served us well in this 48909.

state. We should spend time on how we improve education."

Four women are among the six panel members, but they gave no hint of whether they were receptive to women business owners' pleas to shift the tax off employment costs.

Republican members are Munsell. Dobb and Deborah Whyman of Canton. Democrats are co-chair Mary Brown of Kalamazoo, Profit of Ypsilanti and John Freeman of Madison Heights.

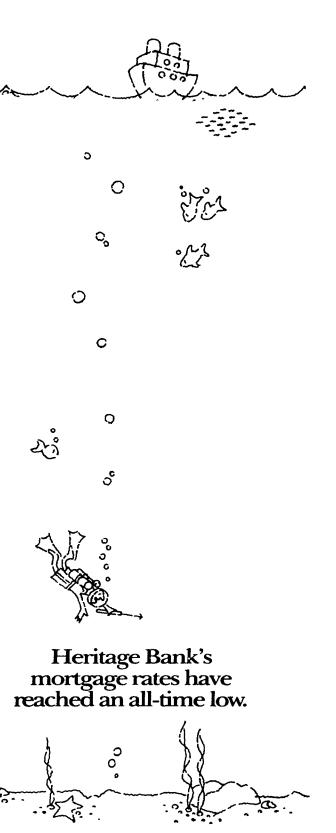

State treasurer Doug Roberts described the SBT as a consumption-type, value-added tax based on the difference between the value of a product at sale and the cost of "inputs," which include materials and purchased items. "Since value-added reflects the amount of business activity a firm performs, it is a good proxy for the amount of government services received by a firm." Roberts said in written comments.

Although SBT revenue varied from $900 million in 1981 to $1.85 billion in 1985, it is a more consistent producer than the old corporate income tax, which gyrated wildly with auto booms and busts.

Doehler takes the helm of PTA/PTSA council

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

As the new president of the Northville Coordinating Council of PTA/ PTSAs, Caryn Doehler thinks her job will be among the easiest.

This group of people is so talented, so bright and so focused, I'm honored to be in a leadership position," she said. "I have the easy job. All I have to do is run a meeting."

Actually, Doehler has earned her position, serving in some sort of capacity with the PTA since moving to Northville Township in 1985. She first started as a room parent at Silver Springs Elementary.

"My primary motivater (for joining PTA) was my kids, ' Doehler said "I wanted to be on the front lines where I had the right information."

From there, Doehler helped operate the elementary's holiday shop and parent education program. It was on to bigger things when she joined the district committee to study a gifted program.

That was before we had any gifted program here," Doehler explained. Kids identified as gifted were pulled out for activities once in awhile."

The Alternative Learning Program for Students (ALPS) resulted from that committee's study.

Doehler has also served as vice president and president of the PTSA at Meads Mill Middle School and was treasurer for the coordinating council for two years.

"In a lot of ways this was the next logical process." Doehler said of her new title. The council meets monthly to plan such major events as:

• The Michigan PTA Reflections program for artists. Open to all students, categories include visual, photography, poetry, short story and music. Last year, Julia Bozyk of Amerman Elementary took third place in the literature catergory. Philip Goode of Cooke Middle School placed first in the literature division. "We apparently, as districts around the state go, have had phenomenal success with this," Doehler said. "Last year we highlighted the language arts curriculum. I think we'll want to highlight one curriculum item again."

This year's workshop is scheduled for Jan. 26, 1994.

• Celebration in Education. This annual event which thanks all the sup-porters of the PTA will be held sometime in February 1994.

• Founder's Day. Next year the Mi-chigan PTA will be 76 years old. We want to do something to highlight the PTA's birthday and ours, too," Doehler said.

The event will also be celebrated in February

• The PTA state convention in Lansing This spring event promotes the objective of the PTA by providing leadership training and workshops on several issues. The Northville council hopes it will be able to offer a workshop itself on successful high school graduations that are alcoholfree and incident-free.

Doehler has set some firm goals for herself as president. Probably the most important of those is continuing and improving the cooperative relationship with the school administration and the board of education.

"I want to close the circle of communication," she said. ". . . we want to be on top of what's going on. That's not to imply at all we have a bad relationship because we don't."

Besides attending regular board meetings, Doehler said PTA representatives will also visit subcommittee meetings of the board.

Other goals of Doehler include continuing the active participation of the council; encouraging parental and community involvement; orga-nizing and providing programs for

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Parking lot dispute a nut too tough to crack

We were as happy as an Elvis fan wandering the hallowed halls of Graceland Manor when we heard that long-time adversaries Mark Roman and Bill Autry had agreed to share the parking lot connecting their two businesses.

Roman owns Wooly Bully's, the enormously popular rock 'n' roll diner club on Seven Mile, and Autry is the owner of the adjacent Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

After months of bitter fighting, the two sides apparently arrived at a tentative agreement under which Roman would lease parking spaces from Autry for a $3,000 monthly fee. Roman had agreed to maintain the parking lot and allow the newly-installed chain link fence to remain standing.

Autry, in turn, said he would not tow cars out of the lot and would install a gate in the fence that divides the two sections of the parking lot. The agreement, facilitated by Northville Township Police Chief Chip Snider, was meant to run on a 90-day trial basis.

All well and good. Too good.

As we feared, there was a change of heart between the time when the two men were negotiating amicably and the time when the deal was to be signed.

Autry apparently added 11th hour changes to the agreement, including a clause requiring Roman to provide parking lot security and an escape clause allowing Autry to bow out after 30 days.

The new conditions were too much for Roman, and now the deal's off.

Autry's additions to the verbal accord are further evidence of the complete absence of good faith between the parties in question. The rancor between Autry and Roman has escalated to such a point that no agreement now seems possible.

Snider did what he could under the circumstances, but it appears that no one possesses the diplomatic acumen required to break the stalemate.

Fortunately, there's light at the end of the tunnel. Tuesday, the township planning commission approved a plan to add 94 parking spaces to the area around the Wooly Bully's building. The plan was Roman's own revision of an earlier proposal that was rejected by the commission.

Final approval is contingent on a variance from the zoning board of appeals.

We, along with a majority of the plan-ning commission, think that Roman's redesigned parking lot expansion proposal is a solid plan, but we're also disappointed that it had to come to that. We would like to believe that two prominent local businessmen could come together and work out their differences in a spirit of neighborliness.

Unfortunately, it was not to be.

SNIDER'S TRUE CALLING: Township Police Chief Chip Snider did such a good job bringing Mark Roman and Bill Autry to within an inch of an agreement that we can't help but wonder if he hasn't missed his real calling in life.

In the end, Roman and Autry backed out of the pact they had reached with Snider's help, but a near impossible feat was accomplished just by getting the mortal enemies to speak to each other in a civil tongue.

Given the chief's proven skills at the bargaining table, maybe we should turn him loose on some lesser diplomatic tasks, like:

- Bosnia.
- The auto contract talks.

 The Burt and Loni divorce. If he can soften the animosity between the twin terrors of Northville Township, he should be able to settle almost anything.

Reason to celebrate every day

Northville Township have five children enrolled in the local school system.

When it comes time for parentteacher conferences, though, there will be only one stop for them to make; all five of the Hughes brood attend Silver Springs Elementary.

Today, Tom Jr. begins fifth grade, Allison enters third grade, Sean starts first grade and twins Bridget and Kimberly go into kindergarten.

It's a unique situation, and the folks at Silver Springs are trying to remember if anything like it has happened in recent memory.

But, as notable as this day is for the Hughes family, everyday has special significance for them. Sean, who suffered a closed head injury after being hit by a car almost three years ago, is alive and well.

"It changes everything," Yvonne said of her new outlook on life. To look at Sean and hear him talk, you'd never know he had been in an accident. We're very grateful."

Sean's story is truly extraordinary, and one which provides vivid evidence of the healing powers of the home setting.

Sean was injured on a street in Detroit after breaking from his father's grip and darting out in front of an oncoming car. Though his breathing was restored by the CPR his father performed at the urging of a caring bystander, Sean fell into a deep coma and showed no signs of coming around.

Four weeks passed with no noticable improvement. Deciding that the family needed some semblance of a normal holiday that year. Tom and Yvonne brought Sean home by med

Yvonne and Tom Hughes of van on Christmas Eve, 1990. Apparently buoyed by the pre-orthville Township have five sence of his friends and family. Sean gave what appeared to be the thumbs up sign upon entering the house. The next day, Christmas day, he spoke.

"I think he probably said 'mom' twice," Yvonne relates. Nothing else.

Evidently that holiday visit was just what the doctor ordered (ironically, it came against the wishes of Mott Hospital officials), as Sean spoke more and more in the following weeks. By the end of January he was home.

"We think of it as our little Christmas miracle," Yvonne

No doubt. The effect of home and family is often miraculous.

Yvonne says Sean was required to repeat kindergarten and he often experiences brief mental delays, but, basically, he's okay.

The Hughes lived in Farmington at the time of the accident, but have since moved to the Grandview Acres neighborhood, on a dead end street where traffic is less heavy. Yvonne has nothing but praise for Silver Springs and the teachers and specialists who lavish attention on her 7-year-old survivor.

An interesting sideline to the story: That bystander who stood over Tom Hughes, whispering words of encouragement as the man tried desperately to resuscitate his son, has become a friend of the family. He lives in Southfield and called the Hughes home regularly to check on Sean's progress.

He had a special ability to empathize. Some time ago, he and his wife suffered an inexpressible loss when their 3-yearold was killed after being struck by a car.

Snack time

Two cows get the munchies at Maybury State Park.

I'll take bet on tax reform

I've never been one to pass up a sucker bet. So when I read esteemed colleague and state reporter Tim Richard's column for this week in which he claimed to be willing to lay money on when the state Legislature would approve its long-awaited tax reform package. I just couldn't resist the prospect of relieving him of a little cash. Especially since he said he was willing to put up money that the Legislature would meet its deadline for passing that bill, even if he predicted it would happen at the very last minute.

Anyone who thinks the Legislature can do something right or on time . . . well, let's just say, I'll take that bet.

Tim based his prediction on the fact that, when the Leeislature voted earlier this summer to eliminate the property tax for school district operations, it in essence set a self-imposed deadline for coming up with a replacement by June 30, 1994. The common wisdom is that Lansing has to come up with a solution by Dec. 31 so that whatever they pass will have time to take effect before next June. Otherwise, they'll have to get a two-thirds majority vote in order to give the bill immediate effect, and that is consid ered an impossibility in the state House of Representatives.

Regardless, my predicted scenario is that they won't make it. No, they'll return to session in mid-January and, since they didn't accomplish their tax reform before they left, a proposal to reinstate the property tax will be one of the first bills introduced in the new year.

Even then, the Legislature won't settle this issue by the end of June. On the last day of the month, they'll schedule a session to start at about noon, plenty of time to hammer out the final compromise before the midnight deadline.

About 11:50 p.m., someone will drape a cloth over the wallclock in the House chamber so that lawmakers can claim they didn't know they had passed the deadline. (Don't laugh. It's been done.)

And when the sun is about to come streaming in through the windows, making it impossible for lawmakers to contend they did not know it was after midnight, they'll vote to extend the property tax system for just one more year.

The lawmakers will emerge from this all-night session claiming a great bipartisan victory, because they've finally agreed to a deadline for reaching an agreement.

Some smart-aleck cub reporter will most assuredly ask why they think they can meet that deadline when the Legislature just failed to meet a deadline it imposed on itself. Lawmakers will look down their collective noses at that reporter and proclaim in knowning tones, "Because voters will demand it."

Thm Richard heard me out. "Things are changing up there." he said. "They really are."

Note he did not deny that my predictions match the behavior of the Legislature in the past. Lawmakers have pulled every last one of these tricks on a variety of issues.

Note also that his response tacitly admitted that actually doing something on time would indeed count as a change in behavior for the state Legislature.

But despite his claim that things are changing up in Lansing, he spent that evening (Tuesday night) writing up a story on the passage of this year's school aid package . bills which should have been adopted back before the end of June this year.

No one has ever been able to come up with a successful system for betting in Las Vegas or Atlantic City. But when it comes to Lansing, you should always lay your money against anything that would count as decisive action or political will.

Supervisor, trustees flaunt power

To the editor:

A few weeks ago. I was wondering where, all of a sudden, the township received all the money for installing a $473,000 extension for water lines, to cover the soccer field overrun and chloride the roads.

The trustees dissolved the Sewer and Water Commission and now they are in control of the funds. When the Planning Board rezoned the land for OIS four free loader) and it was approved, our Supervisor (Karen) Baja had a big hand clapping to show her approval. That should tell OIS that she is in their corner for anything they want

When Baja was asked about the water they need, she said she was negotiating for water. I believe she should have said she was conniving for it. She talked the trustees into voting for it (5-2)

I was quite disappointed in trustee Abbo and Fogg for voting with Hillebrand, Britton and Baja. Those three women are like three peas in a pod. They vote 99 percent of the time together.

They also are putting a collection fee on our taxes. They don't have to, but as Baja said, it is legal and therefore OK to do it. We need the money.

Mr. Morley has been a Water Commissioner with some other men for over 14 years. I thought they had done an outstanding job but Baja wanted to and did show her authority. We haven't had a Water and Sewer official for over two years but now we have a director at $46,000 per year. It sounds just like the Clinton Administration.

I hope Baja read Phil Jerome's column last week and lets the manager do what he has to do, manage.

I have not met Bill Richards but I have observed him at meetings. He seems like a nice intelligent chap and it is a tough road ahead.

The dual police and fire departments are nothing new and it has been an issue for years in other communities. It may never be solved.

We are very fortunate to have them at our service, 24 hours per day and do appreciate them being available at 2 a.m., 10 degrees below zero and your house is on fire.

I don't think we appreciate one tenth of what we should. They have to go through a lot of training and are willing to put their lives on the line for our safety.

I wish more people would show up at the meeting so you can see for yourself how things are run. Dean H. Lenheiser

Support for schools needed

To the editor:

Test-time Phil. How many of your past editorials have been devoted to salaries of public education employees? I can tell that this is a sensitive issue for you and the Northville Record.

But this letter is not about teacher salaries or the financial problems of public education. It's about community support for public education. Not unique to Northville, public education has come under attack by our government, newspapers, businesses and the public. In effect, people are writing off this institution.

Consider these current "myths" about public education:

1) Schools have put the nation at risk.

2) Schools are "below standard" as compared to other nations. 3) Schools are not giving our children a "quality" education. 4) Schools will "never" change despite pressure from parents. As I mentioned, these are "myths" that require attention (and response) from your staff and readers.

The bottom line is, despite the bad press, our community schools are very important to our future. Teachers and schools have an important task, and I believe they do an excellent job of educating my young son and daughter. For me, as a parent, it's worth every penny. As readers and parents, you need to decide if the "product" is worth the investment.

But this letter is not about teacher salaries or the financial problems of public education. Have a great year Northville schools. I'm behind you 100 percent.

FOIA policy is flawed

To the editor:

A curmudgeon? I have yet to display the bad temper or ill manners requisite to being a curmudgeon which could then justify juvenile name calling from The Northville Record. However, the greater error in your editorial on Aug. 16 was your misreading and misapplication of Michigan law regarding charges for Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests.

MCLA 15.234, from which you extracted your brief FOIA quote. specifically refers to the public body charging a fee "for providing a copy of a public record." Had the legislature intended the law to be so broad as to include inspection of documents, it would not have mentioned the word "copy," or would have amended the section to remove the word "copy" sometime in the 16 years in which this law has been in effect. To further clarify this point, the Attorney General, on pages 28 and 29 of a 116-page opinion dealing exclusively with the FOIA stated: "As the assessment of fees is limited to providing copies of public records, the labor cost involved in search, review and deletion of exempt information may only be imposed if the requester asks for a copy" (OAG 5500). In my effort to avoid a legal challenge, I wrote to School Board President Robert McMahon prior to the adoption of this policy to tell him that the policy is legally flawed. As you know, the Board still adopted the policy. Further evidence that the policy needs revising is in the response Supt. (Leonard) Rezmierski gave to Steve Lloyd when he asked, "Can you define what's in the public interest?" Rezmierski's example of providing student records cannot be considered as primarily benefiting the general public" as stated in MCLA 15.234. Call Schoolcraft College, or any other college, university or school district with a policy in place, and they will tell you what the fees are for such requests. These inverted beliefs of what information would be available at no charge should make one skeptical of granting sole discretion to the Superintendent as to who does get charged, and for what.

I am also surprised and disappointed that The Northville Record. currently caught up in a similar situation with the Michigan State Police, would not know more about this aspect of the FOIA, and could support this flawed NPS policy. Robert Bernard

Certainly. Kentucky's Legislature accomplished an even more drastic reform of its school financing and operations in nine months. Michigan already has done some of the things Kentucky did.

• Programs for technology, preschoolers, the handicapped and family resource centers were provided by law.

• A Workforce Develpment Cabinet was set up. (Our Rep. Bill Keith of Garden City must envy that reform.)

• School board candidates were barred from soliciting employees for campaign contributions or services.

• School employees were prohibited from working on school board campaigns. (Wouldn't the Michigan Education Association throw a fit if we enacted that here?)

Minimum teacher salaries and class sizes were set by state law. Provisions for upgrading the skills of teachers and administrators were put in place. School board members were banned from interfering in teacher hiring decisions.

And so on.

Michigan Republicans are talking about a new financing system that will cost less than the $6 billion in taxes that were repealed. Democrats say school improvements will cost more.

By the following April, Gov. Wallace Wilkinson and the Legislature had made these changes:

• A minimum of $2,420 per child would be spent as of fall 1991. Schools that meet goals would be rewarded with more.

A new state board of education was to establish a model curriculum by mid-1993, followed by state performance testing.

• The state board was given the power to remove local school board members and superintendents in local districts that fail to meet improvement goals. (None of this Kalkaska junk for Kentucky.)

School attendance was made compulsory to age 18, up from 16. (Remember how our Gov. Jim Blanchard hit a brick wall when he proposed out one-third the population. No one can do school improvement on the cheap.

Earlier I asked: Can the Michigan Legislature enact a new school finance program by Dec. 31, 1993? Yes. But will it?

I think so. If the Lottery were to establish a game, I would wager our legislators will complete their work shortly before midnight on Dec. 30. Reason: Dec. 31 is a Friday, and our heroes in Lansing like a long weekend.

Fuerst farm tabbed for educational center

By JAN JEFFRES Staff Write

A proposed division of the late Ruby Fuerst's approximately $1 million estate would leave the single largest chunk of her money to the City of Novi and a smaller share to the hired caretaker who was Fuerst's primary heir in a controversial second will.

If the settlement is approved, after taxes and fees are paid to 10 lawyers involved in the case, about $800,000 would be available to split among an assortment of heirs, according to City Attorney David Fried - with $400,000 of that headed for Novi.

"Everybody's going to have their hand on it, I can tell you," Fried said. Monday, the Novi City Council agreed to accept the compromise. which was arrived at on Aug. 17 by an Oakland County Probate Court-appointed panel of mediators.

The major beneficiary may be Novi's senior citizens, who were remembered by Fuerst in her first testament

The mediation would abide by certain terms of the 1980 will, which left $75,000 for a senior citizens wing on the Novi Civic Center and the bulk of the money to build senior citizen housing near Novi High School. If the city does not build the senior housing, the money would revert to the Novi school district as a scholarship fund for needy students. These bequests to the public were similar in character to those made by Fuerst's sister Iva in her own will. A trial opposing the 1980 will to a 1991 will made when Fuerst was already declared mentally incompetent will be averted if the caretaker, Antonia Kearns, and the other heirs -16charities and three long-time friends of the Novi woman — give their nod the mediation by the Aug. 31 deadline. Kearns would end up with about $50,000. Ten attorneys attached to the case would likely draw $150,000 for their billable hours, Fried said. Kearns' lawyer was not available by presstime to comment on whether her client would OK the settlement.

The city and the school district objected to the probate of the second will, "claiming that Ruby Fuerst was incompetent when she made the second will, and it was made under undue influence," Fried explained.

The school district has agreed to the settlement proposal, he added. Council Member Joseph Toth was the only city official to vote against the settlement package.

"I feel we're only getting half of the money we're entitled to based on the $800,000 Fuerst will. We'll get $400,000. I feel we should carry it forward," Toth said.

"It would be money spent within this community. I believe we have a good chance of seeing it." If the second will prevailed, Fried said the city would get "zip." Council Member Tim Pope pointed out that if the case went to trial, the fees for the 10 attorneys involved would continue to stack up and be charged against the Fuerst funds.

ł

"Do you want to enrich the attorneys or do you make sure you know what you're going to get?," Pope said in supporting the mediation.

Fuerst, 91, lived most of her life with her sister on the family farm at the southeast corner of Taft and Ten Mile roads. That land was sold at a relatively low price to Novi schools, with the sisters retaining a lifetime interest in their house.

Iva died in January 1991. Not long afterward, an Oakland County Department of Public Services caseworker petitioned the court system for a legal guardian for Ruby, who was reportedly "confused." On Feb. 12, a Novi school district official hired Kearns after advertising for a live-in caretaker for Fuerst.

In early March, Fuerst was declared a court-protected person and two guardians were appointed to oversee her affairs.

On March 22, 1991, Fuerst signed a new will drafted by Kearns attorney, leaving most of her money to Kearns

After the guardianship was contested, probate court documents $150,000, the mediators proposed.

show that a second legal guardian appointed by Judge Barry Grant had serious concerns about $8,000 in funds withdrawn from Fuerst's account after Kearns took the job.

Acquaintances said Ruby Fuerst had always practiced a frugal lifestyle.

The guardian began docking Kearns' paycheck by $100 a week until he fired the caretaker and placed the elderly lady in a foster care home for seniors. Fuerst died not long afterward.

Kearns' flance, retired attorney Peter Bartholomew, says that she has been unfairly maligned in Novi and that before she met Fuerst the 91-year-old was uncared-for, and she was "barely alive, the poor soul."

"Toni is a victim of some nasty rumors," Bartholomew said, adding that the city has been "greedy" in its conduct of the case.

Of the remaining money, $32,000 would then be distributed as follows: $5,000 to the Lutheran School for the Deaf.

■ $2,500 each to the remaining 10 charities listed in the 1980 will.

■ $1,000 apiece to Fuerst's longtime friends Margaret Gitre and Alice Dineen.

Another $200,000 would be divided among the five charities listed in the 1991 will. In addition, Fuerst's friend Frieda Simmons, should get

Mustangs may go back to the future in '93 campaign

By SCOTT SIGLER and SCOTT DANIEL Sports Writers

Northville High will be hunting a big Lion in the Jungle tomorrow night.

The Mustangs travel to South Lyon to open the '93 season at 7:30 p.m. with revenge on their minds. Last year the Lions ripped Northville 34-6, at Northville, in the first game of the year.

The Mustangs rebounded to go 6-4 on the season, with the last loss crm ing in the first round of the Class playoffs. South Lyon continued to ride high after the 1992 opener, going 9-2 on the season, including a playoff loss in the district championship

"It's going to be a very tough opener," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher. "We'll find out in a hurry if we're a good football team."

South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske has some impressive machinery in place for his ' ion program. Instead of changing that around, with the loss of star runners Billy Porter and Ken Nelson, all he needs to do is find new parts.

The philosophy of the coaching staff doesn't change too much. Scheloske said. "We have a balanced offensive philosophy, our strength is running.

He's definitely got spare parts aplenty for the ground game Seven the Lions is quarterback. Returning players are earmarked for running the ball this year.

Sophomore Mike Watson will probably fill the fullback spot. At 5-foot-9, 165 pounds, Watson will rely more on his quickness than strength at the power position.

Seniors Brian Neuen and Mike McDaniels are slated to be main halfbacks, but a slew of players could roll into the position including senior Jeff Archey, junior Greg Smith and so-phomores Greg McGuire and Rick Peters.

The offensive line is seeing a lot of changes from last year as athletes fill up spots left open by graduation. All-KVC offensive tackle Matt Malik returns to lead the line along with guards Tim Tuzinsky and Jason Firby.

Tackle Don Oziewski, center John Podczerwinsky and guard Steve Arbenowske will be mainstays of the pit crew.

The line did a nice job in the scrimmage," Scheloske said. "The kids haven't played (at their positions) much. We're moving kids from guard to tackle and tackle to guard. The more they play together the better they're going to be."

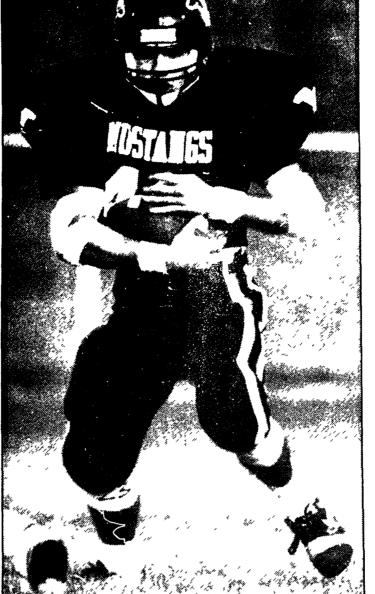

Senior Keith Grant and junior Mitch Anderson have the starting nod as offensive ends. Junior Eric Duncan will be quick off the bench as backup.

One of the strongest positions for starter Jon Hatton, a senior, brings seasoned experience to the helm. Hatton proved to be a tough hombre last year and did a superb job of keeping the ball off the ground.

Passing wasn't Hatton's strong point last year, but Scheloske feels the senior has made great strides in that department.

'If the pass opens up I'm not afraid to throw the ball with Jon," Scheloske said.

Defensively the Lions can rely on the pass defense of McDaniels, an All-KVC and All-Area defensive back. McDaniels, a wide corner, may be pulling double duty as a running back, so sophomore Cory Sargent

Northville tries to tame Lions in grid opener

By SCOTT DANIEL Soorts Editor

Northville High football fans may feel like they're watching a rerun of the 1992 season this fall.

That's not to say the Mustangs have exactly the same personnel as last year. Far from it, in fact. Guys like Danny Walsh, Kevin and Eric Shaw, Rob Subotich, Mark McDonald and Jim Conklin have all graduated Players such as Marc Golden, John Gatti, Chuck Apligian, Justin Cataldo, Brian Jackson and Adam Davis have moved in to take the spotlight.

According to head coach Darrel Schumacher, though, many of the new faces possess abilities similar to those of their predecessors He said Northville will likely have the same strengths and weaknesses of a year ago.

"We will be similar to last year," said Schumacher. "But this is a team that loves to compete and hates to lose. They work hard to win."

A repeat of '92 wouldn't be half bad, either. The Mustangs finished the regular season at 6-3 and made the state playoffs, falling to Walled Lake Western in the first round. Northville made the most of its talent last fall. Schumacher said. "I thought the kids improved throughout the year and made it happen," he said. "I was very proud of their accomplishments."

Nothing short of a total team commitment will bring success again, the coach added.

"We have to play as a team," said Schumacher. "One person can't carry the club.

An important link in the chain will be Golden.

A 5-foot-9 155 pounder, the senior will open at quarterback. Although not blessed with a tremendous throwing arm. Golden is accurate and elusive when he decides to run

"We've got to get him in the open field," said Schumacher. "He's almost a carbon-copy of Danny (Walsh). We have to make people defend him."

A trio will back Golden up. Shawn Connelly, Trevor Surdu and John Farrar may all see action at quarterback. Schumacher said he would like to see one of the three take the starting job, allowing him to move Golden to slot receiver.

"If one of the other three comes on we will do that," he said. Gatti returns at fullback. He will provide excellent blocking and may surprise some with his running ability, according to Schumacher.

Apligian is the leading halfback. The coach described him as a tough. durable runner. Aneil Kersey, Bryan Kelley and Todd Zayti give Northville more depth than a year ago.

"I think (running back) will be one of our strong points," said Schumacher.

The coach said his team should gain more yardage on the ground. "We want to stress the running game until we get rolling offensively," said Schumacher. "Our running game is looking much better than in the past."

But, he added, the Mustangs need to be able to throw to keep teams honest.

"Our ability to throw will be pi votal," said Schumacher.

Golden will have a fine set of receivers to throw to. Cataldo, Farrar and Jackson are all capable of going deep.

Northville should have a strong offensive line with four returning star ters. Derek White and Dave Eckerley will take the guard slots while Fred Swarthout will be at one tackle and John Wilds at the other.

Greg Belliston may move into the center position. Jason Holman returns at tight end.

Northville will need improved play from its defensive line this fall.

Defensive end Gatti will be a focal point on the line as he will be counted on to put heat on the quarterback. Davis, at tackle, is another good pass-rusher while Holman and a host of others will see action.

Kelley and White are the mainstays of the linebacking unit. Kelley has big-play potential as he demonstrated last season with a 102-yard interception return.

Farrar, Golden, Cataldo, Jackson and Neil Lokey will work in the secondary. Schumacher said his team must stop the runner better than it did last year.

Netters shoot for conference title

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

After a mediocre 1992, the Mustang tennis team could race right back to the front of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

That's the prediction of longtime Northville High coach Uta Filkin. With a stable of young talent she said her team will return to its winning ways this fall.

"We will have a really good team." said Filkin. "I think we could go all the way."

And that would be a big jump. Northville finished in the bottom half of the conference a year ago, seventh place with a 5-5-2 overall record. Players such as Jenny Lower, Ellen Song and Allisa Miller have either graduated or moved out of the school district.

For most squads, losing three of little hitter and will make a good No. the top four singles players would 2. Northville will have more experimean a fast fall in conference stand-

Filkin said the Mustangs will have more athletic ability than a year ago. "I definitely have more talent," she said.

Northville's main competition for the WLAA title will come from Plymouth Salem. The Rocks feature the league's top player at No. 1 singles and will be tough throughout their lineup.

Salem may not get the chance to battle Northville, however. A failed millage has left that school district scrambling to find funding for athletics

Freshman class adds depth to Mustang tankers

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

It's a case of good news, bad news for the Mustang swim team this fall. A total of 43 students are on the squad this season - up from 25 last season. In a conference where teams are routinely that big or bigger. It's good news for Northville High.

The only problem is that coach Bill Dicks has had one less week to work with the group in preparation for the campaign. In an already short season the lost week, which occurred because of state regulations, could be critical.

"In a sport like swimming that counts so heavily on conditioning," Dicks said, "we need the time for these kids to build up a base. One week makes a big difference."

Any injuries or illnesses will make it even tougher for individual Mustangs to reach their peaks at the end of the season for the WLAA and state meets, he added. Nonetheless, Dicks is excited about Northville's prospects.

"It's a good team and a good group of girls, personality wise," he said. "They're a great group to work with and are very talented."

The Mustangs did lose some considerable talent via graduation. Jodi Wesley, a state qualifier, Megan Goble, Lisa Hojnacki and Erica Anderson have all moved on. Daneen Lang and Chris Perry moved out of the district.

Led by that group and others. Northville finished third in the Western Lakes Acuvities Association. The Mustangs sent five swimmers to the state finals.

Northville will have solid leadership in trying to equal or better those accomplishments this fall.

Seniors Sheila Osborne, Brenda Newton and Amy Christoff captain the club Osborne is a sprint specialist while Newton is proficient in all strokes and events. Christoff is a diver.

They are both very important to the team," Dicks said.

Julie Tharp, Mutsumi Yoshida, Kelly Polich, Sarah Carney and Sara Kolb are all returning seniors. Mariana Saenz, a foreign exchange student, and Wendy Forster, a gymnastic and track standout, join the Mustangs for the first time.

"In a sport like swimming that counts so heavily on conditioning we need the time for these kids to build up a base. One week makes a big difference."

"She's got a lot of talent," Dicks said of Forster. "She seems to be a natural on the (diving) board."

Tammy Cook heads the list of juniors. She will perform in the butterfly and freestyle. Other 11th graders include: Stephanie Keetle, Casandra Johnson, Renee Olin, Mandy VanHorn, Katrina Heckemeyer, Melissa Hayes and Amy Petricca.

If any one class dominates the Mustangs this year it might be the sophomores. Amity Heckemeyer, Amy Kohl and Andrea Moretti head the super sophs. Others include: Rebecca Anderson. Sara Roth, Katle Rompel, Katie Goble, Michelle Hoblack, Katy Gudritz, Jill Holloway and Alicia Doehler.

A dozen freshman are on the Northville roster. Dicks said he expects contributions from many of them.

Amy Cook, for example, is already "top performer," he said. Diver Michon Slanina also looks strong, Dicks said. Other freshmen include: Gwen Osborne, Katie Varley, Beth Handley, Monica Prasad, Whitney Anolick, Kara Lyczak, Margaret Lapham, Stacey Vlisides and Sarah Wright.

We have a lot of numbers," Dicks said. "I'm real happy to see that." The coach said he declined to make predictions about how the Mustangs would finish in the conference. With the Plymouth and Livonia schools struggling to field teams, he said it's too early to tell how the race will unfold.

"Anything can happen," Dicks said.

Kickers win two at local tourney

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

The Mustang soccer team had its early season winning streak snapped at two Saturday as Detroit Country Day beat Northville 6-1

It was the second straight year the Mustangs fell to tournament host Country Day Northville coach Doug Lyon said the Yellowjackets are in a class by themselves

"They're probably the best team in the state," he said "They're like a mini-college. "But we didn't play as good as we could have."

Northville beat WLAA rival Farmington 3.2 Saturday morning to make it to the finals. It turned out to be a game of penalty kicks.

Bo Fowler made sure the Mustangs free kicks counted. The senior scored both of Northville's first-half goals off of Falcon penalties.

Even without the "PKs." Lyon said. his team dominated the first half. "I thought everybody was playing well," he said.

Farmington scored on two penalty shots of its own in the second half. Matt Schwagle got the game winner for Northville about midway through the final half.

The game wasn't as close as it sounds, said Lyon.

(Farmington) really didn't have an offensive threat," he added.

Northville opened the tournament and its season Friday by beating Birmingham Seaholm 2-1. The Mustangs trailed until the final five minutes but got goals from Lance Bethell and Jason MacIver to win it.

"It wasn't a pretty win," Lyon said, "but it was a win." PREVIEW the start of the season. The longtime assistant will look to lead Northville to the top of the WLAA.

As always, the Mustangs will field a talented squad. That strength is shown in the nets as sophomore Ty Fowler and senior Brian Dogonski split goalkeeping duties. Tri-captain Rob Nelson anchors the defense in front of the 'keepers. Ryan Winn will be the sweeper while Dave Rossing, Rob Willard Paul Shultz and Jeremy Sweet will see action at fullback.

"I think we will be pretty strong in the defensive area," said Lyon.

At halfback, captains Chad Tolstedt and Bo Fowler lead the way.

Dan Lyczak and Maciver also play at halfback.

Northville has a pair of speed-demons at forward. Schwagel and Bethel are both capable scorers, Lyon said.

Filling out Northville's roster is Matt Topous, Chris Harrison, Bill Rundell and Dan Schwartz. Amanual Liben was lost to the team with a broken leg in the Detroit Country Day tournament.

Although the Mustangs play the more defensive-minded 4-4-2 set, the coach said his offense has been clicking thus far. He said having Bo Fowler pinch in from halfback has helped.

Runners field veteran team for tough conference race

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

A veteran group of runners will lead the Northville High boys cross country team this year.

Six of the Mustangs top eight runners are either juniors or seniors. After years of grooming the current crop. Northville coach Ed Gabrys is looking forward to a successful fall campaign.

"It's time for us to harvest the ta-lent we have," he said. In a strong Western Lakes Activities Association last year, the Mustangs finished fourth in the Western Division with a 3-3 dual meet mark. If hard work translates into a jump in the conference and division standings, Northville should move toward the top.

The Mustangs began practice ab-out a month ago. Gabrys said work-outs got off on a positive note at team camp in Flint.

"We got in good shape there and it gave the guys the chance to gel as a team," he commented. "We ran about 65 miles in five days."

Many runners started work even before camp. Gabrys said many of his

If practice is any indication, the Northville High golf team should clean up in the Western Lakes Activities Association this fall.

The Mustangs hit the ground running when practice began in mid-August. According to coach Trish Waldecker, practice round scores have averaged in the low 40s.

"I think we'll see a lot of scores in the 30s, too, " she said.

Competition for varsity spots has been keen, thus far. Only six Mustangs can compete in any one varsity match. Waldecker said all 18 team members have a chance to play varsity - if they shoot the scores.

Universities woo Mustang football star Gatti

Gatti then joined his middle school squad at Meads Mill. After starting high school, he played exactly one game with the freshman team before moving up to junior varsity.

"I was really scared," Gatti said. Everybody was faster and hit harder. It was a big change."

Not that it took the teenager a long time to adjust. After a few games, he said, he fit in and played well.

'I've always been with the older guys," said Gatu.

As a sophomore, he moved up to varsity. Gatti described the transition from JV to varsity as being easier then earlier jumps.

"I think teaching would be a nice thing to get into. It's kind of scary to think about college. It's a big change from high school."

"I was a little more comfortable with it," he commented. "I was a little more prepared."

As a junior last fall, Gatti came into his own. Playing at defensive end and linebacker he often wreaked havoc on opposing offenses.

In a September game against Livonia Churchill, the Mustang co-captain had 10 tackles including six tackles for losses and two quarterback sacks. "I loved it," said Gatti. "I had a blast last year."

Schumacher hopes the senior will continue to have fun this season. Gatti will again play weakside linebacker. Schumacher said that should force opponents to run toward the short side of the field and make the job of his defense easier. "It'll help us gear up," he said.

The coach added that he will move Gatti around to keep teams off balance.

"I think I'll have more freedom to get in the backfield," John said, "and make tackles."

Wherever he's at on the field, Schumacher said, he won't be worrying about ringing up big statistics. 'I think John is a team player." he said. "It doesn't matter to him if he gets a lot of tackles as long as we win. He had team-oriented goals."

The Mustangs will also use Gatti at fullback on offense. Schumacher said he'll be an excellent lead blocker and might surprise with his running ability.

"He's deceptively quick," he explained. "He's a power back that moves the pile when he hits it."

Of the two, Gatti said he prefers defense. "I feel more comfortable," he added. "I've been doing it all the time."

Just starting his final year at Northville High, Gatti said he's focused in on school and the football season. But, he said, thoughts of college in 1994 are never too far away.

Mid-American Conference schools like Kent State, Central and Eastern Michigan have expressed interest. Gatti has also heard from the Fightin' Irish at Nortre Dame.

"I think he can be a Division I player," Schumacher said. "He's a heck of a pass-rusher. That will be his strength (in college)."

Visits to some of those courting universities will come shortly. He said he's been to Michigan State University and liked the campus.

Many factors will play a part in his decision.

"It won't be just football," Gatti said. "I've thought a lot about it and feeling comfortable is very important to me.'

The senior is considering a career in education.

"I think teaching would be a nice thing to get into," said Gatti. "It's kind of scary to think about college. It's a big change from high school."

Many ways to get rid of common warts

By RAY HOBBS Special Writer

Warts are a common problem that affect most people at least once in their liftime. They are commonly seen during the teen age years and may affect about 10 percent of the population.

Warts are caused by a virus. This virus can be spread by touching something contaminated by the virus. An example of this might be walking barefoot to a swimming pool. Fortunately they are not contagious.

Warts can occur on any part of the body. They may be flat, long and spindly, but most are round with an irregular surface.

Two types of warts deserve special mention.

The first are warts that occur on the feet. These are called plantar (not planter) warts. Plantar is the medical term for the bottom of the foot.

The second type are genital warts. Their importance lies not only in their appearance and discomfort but also in the fact that they increase a wo-man's chance of developing cervical cancer. Fortunately, good treatment OCT. 1 OCT. 8 is available.

Warts, if given enough time, will usually disappear. Unfortunately, the time required is a lot longer than most people allow. They can be destroyed with an electric needle, surgically removed, treated with chemicals to help dissolve them or treated with extreme cold.

The last method is exceptional and easy to use. The physician freezes the wart with liquid nitrogen, which is more than 100 degrees below zero. Usually within 10 days the wart will turn black and disappear.

Ray Hobbs, M.D., is medical director and internal medicine physician at the U-M Health Center in Northville. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.

'Hard Target' Van Damme fights back in new action thriller

Popular action star Jean-Claude Van Damme teams with one of the cinema's most dynamic directors. John Woo, in the Alphaville-Renaissance production of Universal Pictures' action-drama "Hard Target."

From his native Hong Kong to Europe and North America, Woo continues to amaze critics, electrify audiences and add to his legion of fans. His driving, yet poetic visual style

- embodied in such critically acclaimed motion pictures as "The Killer" and "Hard Boiled" — has eanred him the admiration of such cinematic masters as Oliver Stone and Martin Scorsese. He makes his American directing debut with "Hard Target."

Van Damme is Chance, a downon-his-luck New Orleans merchant sailer who uses his high-powered martial arts skills to battle a sadistic band of hunters who prey on homeless veterans in a deadly safari game.

His quest begins when he comes to the rescue of a young woman (newcomer Yancy Butler) whose father was a recent victim of the killers.

The supporting cast includes Lance Henrikson ("Near Dark"), playing the chief hunter with coldblooded resolve. Beloved character actor Wilfred Brimley turns in a salty, lively performance as Chance's crafty Cajun uncle.

James Jacks and Sean Daniel are the producers, with Sam Raimi, Robert Tapert and Moshe Diamant acting as executive producers.

The striking premise of "Hard Target," originated by screenwriter Chuck Pfarrer ("Darkman") and developed with producer James Jacks of Alphaville Productions, puts an innovative contemporary twist on a classic Hollywood thriller, "The Most Dangerous Game," in which a demented millionaire sportsman lured his human prey to a remote island.

In "Hard Target," the cool and amoral organizers of the safari, Emil Fouchon (Henriksen) and Pik Van Cleaf (Vosloo), are former mercenaries who devised their murderous game purely as a business venture. For their grim purposes, the chaos following a citywide police strike makes New Orleans a prime hunting ground.

Van Damme's Chance Bordreaux comes to the aid of Natasha "Nat" Binder (Yancy Butler), a determined young lawyer from Detroit who is searching for her missing father.

At first, Chance is a proud loner who signs on with Natasha just to earn the $217 he needs to pay his back union dues as a merchant seaman. But when Chance discovers Fouchon's murderous enterprise, he earnestly devotes himself to protecting Nat and exacting vengeance on the killers.

This sets off a deadly contest betwen Fouchon and Chance (the ultimate "hard target"). shifting from the mean streets of New Orleans to the treacherous Louisiana bayous as Chance leads the hunters on a wild chase into his home terrain.

In Chance's words, "What we got here is a home game for us, and an away game for them."

"Hard Target" was born when producer Jacks endorsed screenwriter Chuck Pfarrer's suggestion that the 1932 film "The Most Dangerous Game" was ripe for an update. From the beginning, they had one director in mind — John Woo, whose smash hit "The Killer" had opened to rave reviews on the North American festival circuit after breaking all boxoffice records in Hong Kong.

Chance (Jean-Claude Van Damme) uses his martial arts skills in "Hard Target"

Over the last decade, John Woo has become one of the leading artists in the emerging Hong Kong school of filmmakers and the first to gain a wide audience overseas. Popularized by such director as Woo and Jackie Chan ("Police Story"), Hong Kong cinema delivers action with a vengeance: passions explode, bullets fly and heroes charge with mindbending, hyper-kinetic force.

As The New York Post's Jami Bernard once observed, "When they yell 'action!' in Hong Kong, they really mean action."

Once dismissed as chop-socky, Hong Kong cinema has gained an eager following among film enthusiasts in recent years, thanks in large part to John Woo. Beyond his talents as a director of visceral, compelling drama, Woo brings to his films a graceful, balletic sense of movement, self-deprecating humor and emotional resonance.

The producers were certain that a collaboration between Woo and Jean-Claude Van Damme, one of the cinema's most celebrated action stars and martial artists, would produce thrilling results.

Like Woo, Van Damme has risen to the top of his profession in only a few short years. His formal training as a dancer, as much as his well-known expertise in martial arts, perfectly complemented Woo's inventive camera style.

When Woo watched Van Damme in rehearsal and got a close up look at what the actor could do, he set himself to design fight sequences that would showcase Van Damme's fighting skills more dramatically than ever before.

A topical touch in the script is the subtext class conflict. While only rich men can afford to become hunters in "Hard Target," all the victims are desperate, homeless combat veterans, willing to bet their lives against a $10,000 prize.

The actors in "Hard Target" were willing to go to extremes to satisfy the director. Lance Henriksen put his heart and soul into the chilling Fouchon. In what is certain to be one of the film's most discussed scenes, Henriksen allowed his character's trademark black cashmere overcoat to be set ablaze while he was still wearing it.

The actors' dedication to their roles echoes the loyalty that Woo quickly earned among the entire production company.

"I knew even before I met him," said Pfarrer, "that John Woo was an exceptional movie director."

Northville woman is key to lost family

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

Frances Moad and her two brothers had a relatively quiet childhood.

Although their father uprooted the children often, taking up residences in Oregon, Utah and Arizona, the family lacked knowledge of any kind other than the four of themselves.

"All those years growing up. Dad said we had to take care of each other because it was only the four of us," Moad said. That was the family philosophy since Moad was barely 6 years old when her father William Miller Sr., also known as Curly because of his naturally curly hair, moved the children from their Emmett, Mich., home following the death of their mother Dottie May (Card) Miller. She died of tuberculosis at the age of 39.

Moad, who now makes her home in Corvallis, Ore., said she didn't know why her father moved around so much.

"He just did," she said. "We didn't talk about our past at all. We really didn't even know if we had relatives for sure on either side.'

Even before their father died in 1982, Moad and her brother Dwight, a Portland, Ore., resident, had altempted to reach relatives. We just came to a place I guess where we thought there really just wasn't anybody (related)." Moad and her brothers. William Jr. and Dwight, were recently reunited with long-lost family members at a reunion held Aug. 22 near Flint. The key in the family's search for identity was provided by Northville resident June King.

King, who is a cousin to Moad and the Millers, said when her mother's younger sister died, her uncle took the kids, breaking ties with the Card side of the family.

A financial secretary and computer consultant for the United Methodist Church of Northville, wrote to the Salvation Army and was sent some forms to fill out. She was put on a waiting list for almost a year before Dwight was located.

"I didn't feel they would find the daughter (Moad) only because she was married and was under her married name," King said. "I figured the only chance was of finding one of the boys. And what with a war in between this - you just didn't know what had happened. It's amazing when you think about it."

cated missing persons.

Dwight, who said he was just about on the verge of giving up on finding any of his relatives, didn't know what to make of the letter he got from the Social Security Administration.

"I opened it and inside was a letter from the Salvation Army's missing persons (department)," Dwight said.

The letter told Dwight a woman claiming to be a relative was searching for him.

'I was unsure if someone was just playing a game," Dwight said, discouraged because all of his leads had come to a dead end. He had previously tried to contact family members via a book signed by relatives who had attended his mother's funeral.

"I went down the list and mailed letters of inquiry, but they kept coming back negative or no such occupant," Dwight said.

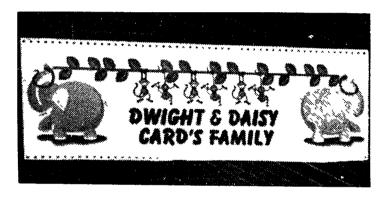

After he received the Salvation Army's letter, he contacted King to see if she really was a relative.

"She gave me information without me having to ask so I knew (we were related)," he said. "Everything she told me just fell into what I had."

"I didn't believe it," King said of wight's telephone call. "It's been 42 years. We hoped against hope we would someday find the kids."

King sent pictures and the families exchanged letters and telephone calls often throughout the year. But it wasn't until two weeks ago that Moad and her brothers had the chance to meet their familv members - all 200 of them.

Mary Jane Dean

Crafty volunteer cares for animals

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

If you have a pet — cat, bird, dog, rabbit, whatever - you will understand Mary Jane Dean's enthusiasm in volunteering for the Michigan Humane Society, which is an organization committed to the relief of animal suffering whenever and wherever it occurs.

To help raise money for the Society. Dean helps make craft items for the Paw Pourri Gift Shop on Main Street in Royal Oak.

"A friend of mine started the project with a crafts sale," she said.

Eventually the shop was opened and then also a Christmas catalog was put out annually to increase sales in another area.

"Five of us women get together now for crafts sessions," not so often during the summer months but probably once a week in the fall and early winter to build up inventory so as to have as many items - at least - as were sold in the previous year.

Gift items are not all pet related, but one popular one is a cat-nip mouse made of cloth with ears, nose, and whiskers.

The money raised goes for various things needed at the three shelters (Detroit, Rochester Hills, and Westland). One big item was a rescue van. Less expensive, ongoing items are spraying and neutering cats and dogs for people who can't afford to have it done.

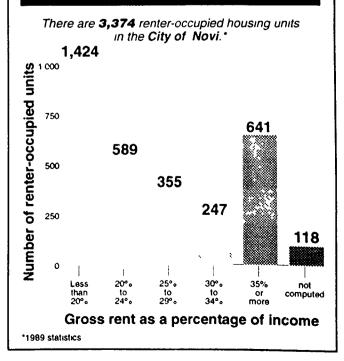

A main project for The Michigan Humane Society, of course, is helping the animals in the shelters to find homes where they can be well taken care of.

And one lucky animal is Calvin. a mixed-breed, long-hair dog which Mary Jane Dean found abandoned at a shelter several years ago.

For more information on this and other shelter volunteering, call the Westland shelter at 721-730

Area dance students kick up their heels at Disney World

When that familiar "What I Did on My Summer Vacation" essay is assigned, the Northville and Novi students who traveled with the Gayle's DancePhase Touring Group will have an interesting story to tell.

During the last week in July, the group put on their dancing shoes to work as honorary cast members of Walt Disney World in Orlando, Fla. The week began with a special

Working with Disney choreographer and staging assistant. Jim Ames, they discussed Disney history and philosophy, the audition process as well as the work and discipline required to survive grueling rehearsals and sull put on the best possible performance in 90 degree-plus heat and humidity.

The group also learned why pro fessionalism counts when working with guest stars who often don't arrive until the very last minute. 'Missing' members of family meet for first time in 40 years

"It was overwhelming," Moad admitted. "I sat there and thought - to me 200 people is a big crowd - and it dawned on me that they were all related to me."

"I was pretty flabbergasted," Dwight said. "We've always had it drilled into us that it was only us. Then to find out we have 200-plus relatives. It didn't really register until I got to the reunion People started arriving and arriving and it never stopped."

There were plenty of tears and lots of laughs as Moad became acquainted with her relatives. Actually a mini-reunion was taking place at the same time as Moad and Dwight visited with their brother William for the first time since William had moved to Mississippi in the 1980s. Moad hadn't seen her brother in eight years while it had been 15 years since Dwight had seen his big brother.

We were having our own reunion while this was going on," Moad said. "It was fantastic," Dwight said of before the family reunion. The fami-lies coincidentally booked rooms at the same motel near Flint the weekend of the reunion.

They came down to our room and talked with us for an hour, maybe an hour and a half," King said. The day after the reunion Moad and her brother Dwight visited King in Northville and went to their mother's gravesite located in Rural Hill Cemetery, where Rogers Street meets Seven Mile Road.

King, Moad and the Miller boys share the same grandparents. Dwight and Daisy Card. The Card home used to be located in what is now a vacant lot on Cady Street east of the credit union.

Dwight is currently trying to track down his father's side of the family. but is having a much harder time locating family ties. But he did get a tip from, who else, his cousin June. She was going through some of her mom's letters and came across one from some relatives in Ohio that referred to Dad and us kids." Dwight plained

King actually met up with the trio aunt and uncle. From there he received a name of an uncle living in Florida, but hasn't had a chance to follow through on the lead. Each of the Miller children are divorced. Frances, 50, has two daughters, ages 20 and 23. William, 49 and a truck driver, is remarried and has one child. Dwight, 45, is also remarried. He has two children and three step-children.

Sometimes the three wonder if their divorces resulted from their family life.

We always thought there might be pattern," Dwight said.

The youngest of the three said he thinks his upbringing also affected his outlook on life.

I think we all would probably have had different attitudes," Dwight said. Like, I'm not a crowd person. I think if I would have grown up around people I would have been more at ease in crowds and been more open. I'm kind of what people call a loner."

It's probably for that reason that Dwight agrees the 40-year wait was worth it despite letters that were returned unanswered and telephone searches that turned out to be fruitless.

Students from Gayle's DancePhase Touring Group performed at Walt Disney World in Orlando; Fla., over the summer. They also competed in the Starpower National Championship Talent Competition, bringing home numerous awards.

REAL ESTATE Habitat for Humanity helps the homeless

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

Providing homes for the homeless is a noble cause. But is such an effort really achievable?

Charles Henderson, a single 72year-old retiree, found a program that works.

He recently moved into a new home built by volunteer workers participating in a local chapter program of Habitat for Humanity International. He also actively assisted in the project.

"Habitat is the old barn-raising concept applied to housing, Humanity chapter director Virgil Nelson said. "It's a partnership with families using no-profit, nom-terest loans and a lot of sweat equity. "It's definitely not a charity or giveaway program, since families pay for the actual cost of materials used to build or rehabilitate their homes. Home-purchasing families normally make a 'down payment' of 500 hours of labor. That's 20 percent of hours needed to build a typical home."

Last year. 20 families were helped by Nelson's Habitat chapter. This included major home repair and rehab projects - new roofs, plumbing systems and painting. Also, a portion of all donated funds received by the local Habitat group is passed on for the construction of homes in less-developed nations through their local Habitat chapters. Nelson said.

The Tiara: A jewel of a ranchstyle home with country flavor

By James McAlexander Copley News Service

Porches, front and back, expand the living area in the Tiara, a ranch-style mome with dashes of country flavor.

A covered porch stretches across the front, spanning the recess between the living room and the nook.

And at the back, you can choose between the screened and covered porch, adjacent to the family room, and a roofless deck, off the master suite

Bathrooms are also abundant. No one need ever wait in line, even during the morning rush. The four bathrooms range in size from a tiny cubicle next to the garage, to the luxurious master bathroom with twin basins, a spa tub, oversize shower and enclosed water

This room also has access to a garage with extra storage space.

Bay windows brighten and enlarge the dining room and living room But the vaulted family room is the largest and brightest room in the house. Multipaned windows, capped by a huge half-round at the center, fill most of the back wall.

The opposite wall, next to the basement stairway, separates the family room from the dining room. A wide tile hearth spans one side of the family room. Built-in shelves flank the fireplace. (The living room has an equally wide hearth, but no shelves.)

An entertainment center and a storage closet are tucked into alcoves on the opposite side. Additional storage space lines the hallway to the two bedrooms. The bedroom with the private bathroom also has a built-in desk.

Soil management

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Good soil management means preserving the natural systems that take place in the soil. To keep soil healthy, we must return nutrients to it and learn to use techniques that have the least damaging effect on the soil and environment.

For instance, soil uses organic matter as a food source. As microorganisms in the soil consume the organic matter, they replace nutrientsinto the soil, which are available to plants to take up through their root systems. If there's little organic matter in the soil, plants suffer and often look stunted.

Soil structure is most important to your garden's productivity. The goal of any gardener should be to have soil with a loose, crumbly, open structure that encourages good water and air movement within the soil.

Gardeners should also avoid working fine clay soil when it's wet and subjecting soil to heavy foot or equipment traf fic, both of which can ruin its structure. In other words, don't walk on wet soil because it packs it down!

The best organic materials that can be added to soil are GARDENING leaf mold, compost plant material, grass clippings and cover crops that are usually sowed in fall and then turned under.

The point is to recycle plant material, back into the soil at least as quickly as it is used.

If manure (cow, horse or exotic manure from the circus) is used, make sure it is aged Otherwise, it may contain viable weed seeds.

In addition to adding organic matter and maintaining good soil structure, gardeners should strive for a soil pH (potential hydrogen) level between 6 and 7. Within this range, major nutrients such as nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium are available to plants.

If the pH is lower or higher, nutrients get tied up in the soil and can't be taken up by the plants. Adding fertilizers to the soil with incorrect pH levels is a waste of time, money and resources

So, for best results, have your soil tested by a nursery or horticulturist at least every three or four years

To poison your garden is to poison the Earth Since we're all residents of this planet,

Sioux Indian image used originally for advertising

9. Enclosed is a picture of an Old Sleepy Eye pitcher that originally belonged to my motherinlaw, and I have had it in my possession since 1964. It is marked "W.S. Co." and "Monmouth. Ill."

Recently, I have seen pitchers like mine in antique shops for various prices with and without marks. Would you please give me some information as to the age and value of my pitcher?

A Sleepy Eye was the name of a 19th century Sioux Indian In the early 1900s, Old Sleepy Eye Flour Co of Sleepy Eye, Minn , used his portrait on advertising. The company offered stoneware and potterv mugs pitchers, steins, bowls and crocks decorated with his image as premiums

9. For years I have been curious about a porcelain tea set.

As a child, I was told that it was very old and had been brought from Germany by relatives. The set consists of a teapot, creamer and covered sugar bowl. They are decorated with flowers against a white background.

Each piece has a blue-green band around the top and bottom, and is trimmed in gold. On the bottom, it is marked "Victoria Carlsbad - Austria."

Could you please provide me with any information about the age and value of my tea set?

shirt and yellow stockings, and has a floral border.

There is a figure on the cup and one blue band at the top. What can you tell me about these pieces and their value?

A. Quimper pottery is named for a town in Brittany, France, where, since the 17th century, numerous companies produced hand-painted pottery.

The Dumaine firm, established in 1778, eventually became known as HR or Henriot Quimper. Scenes of everyday Breton peasant life, flowers and primary colors became popular motifs in the 1800s. Quimper pottery is still being made today and marketed in major department stores.

Your plates and cup were made in the mid-20th century. Each plate could be worth around $100 to $110, and the value of the cup without a saucer would be about $25 to $35 in good condition.

G. I would appreciate any information you can give me concerning my matching royalblue glass creamer and cereal dish. The creamer has the image of a young Shirley Temple on it. They are 55 years old and in excellent condition.

Habitat for Humanity helps the homeless; state of home refinancing homes is $1,200. Donations from Nelson's chapter have so far financed four of those homes.

"Most homeless families are not looking for a hand out, but rather a helping hand to find a way out of a lifestyle that offers little security and little opportunity to be pro-ductive in their community." Nel son said.

Basically, here's how the Habitat for Humanity program works:

Through volunteer labor and donations of money and materials, Habitat builds and rehabilitates homes with the help of the homeowners.

The new houses are sold at no profit to "partner families" and nointerest mortgages are issued over a fixed time period. Costs of homes vary in different geographic locations.

Currently, the cost of a new Habitat home in this country aver ages $35,000. Small monthly mortgage payments, including taxes and insurance, are repaid over 7 to 20 years and deposited in a revolving "Fund for Humanity" which supports the construction of more houses

A local "family selection committee" chooses an applicant family based on their level of need and willingness to become partners in the program. And, of course, their ability to repay the loan is a consideration.

Habitat does not accept government money for construction of new homes, or the renovation of existing houses. However, it does accept funds for acquisition of streets, utilities, land or old hous es, provided those funds have no provisions attached that would violate Habitat's principles Nationwide, the program has constructed more than 8,200 homes for homeless and lowincome families. In the 42 foreign countries where Habitat is active. more than 12,500 homes have been constructed.

The most famous Habitat volum teer worker is former President Carter, often photographed in Habitat house building projects Bob Hope and other celebrities have also participated in Habitat construction activities

For more information on the non profit organization, write Habitat for Humanity Internation al, 121 Habitat Street, Americus, GA 31709-3498.

Q. Is there still a flood of home refinance applications, or has that tapered off?

A. It's still a boom market for mortgage lenders, thanks to the continuing flow of home refinance applications. Nearly 20 percent of all American homeowners have refinanced their homes in the past 18 months and another 14 percent are considering the move, according to a survey by the Federal National Mortgage Association

Most of those refinance loans are fixed-rate mortgages, not loans with adjustable interest rates. The proportion of fixed rate refinance loans this year ranges geographically from a low of 73 percent in California to a high of 91 percent in Texas

The Fannie Mae survey also surveyed homeowners on reasons they decided not to refinance their mortgage loan. About 21 percent said it would not pay to refinance. 14 percent reported their mortgages were almost paid off and 20 percent said they never gave much thought to it one way or another.

However, the lowest interest rates in a generation are still motivating a record number of homeowners to apply for a home refinance loan.

Beauty contest prompts people

Three people not familiar with Child Lake Estates. including a HomeTown Newspapers reporter, served as judges for the contest. The yards were judged on originality, placement and overall beauty.

"We wanted to make sure we used people who would not be blased." Pink said of the judge choices.

In two short years, Pink has noticed an increasing pride residents take in thier homes and yards since the contest started.

"We wanted to prompt people to take care of their homes or fix their homes up," she said. "We wanted to give them some incentive.

We feel they all did a very good job and we thank them for helping improve the looks of our community." Pink added.

Kerri Stevens and Glen Stadler, who recently moved into Child Lake Estates, entered the contest at the last minute. Although the couple did not place, their unique use of cactus plants definitely caught the eye of the judges.

"We liked the southwest look, something plain and simple," Stevens said. "We didn't want to use a lot of flowers." Stevens, who also decorates the inside of her home with an array of cactus, shared the reason behind using a plant most often found in deserts.

"It's the only thing I can't kill," she said, then pointed to a wilting housewarming plant as evidence. "I bought the cactuses but my boyfriend is the yard man. I don't do anything with plants but make them die."

Sue Poster pours it on thick at the relocated soda fountain.

Crawfords' rescues soda fountain

By RICK BYRNE Copy Editor

When the Wright family shut down the Northville Pharmacy on Main Street, it was the end of an era. Then again, maybe it wasn't.

A portion of the pharmacy's legacy lives on right across the street. The old soda fountain that Bill Wright had restored just a few years ago has been saved and relocated by Sue Poster, owner of Crawfords' Bakery Connection.

Poster said she couldn't bear to see the fountain leave downtown.

"When the pharmacy went, this went too," she said. "I talked to Bill about it, and he said "Why don't you put it in the bakery, take over the business and keep it open." " Poster thought about it, and then took the plunge.

It took only a month or so to dismantle the entire operation and reinstall it at the Bakery Connection. It went so quickly that Poster actually did it without telling her father, Dick Crawford, her partner in the Bakery Connection and Crawfords Restaurant.

When he came out, though, he said it was obvious. He thought it would be a natural," Poster said.

The 15-foot marble countertop was on loan from Tom McKinnon. and was returned. Poster and company designed the new counter in an L-shape, and created a new countertop to fit.

Everything else came with the counter, though, right down to the glassware. The old stools, the shakemaker, the ice cream freezers, the soda machine and even the popcorn maker were part of the deal.

"It was more complicated than I thought it would be," said Poster. Training for the new soda fountain was practically built in, though. "I have a nephew who worked at Northville Pharmacy." Poster said. He knew all the recipes and knew how to work all the machines, so he came over with it."

Ice cream, as in the past, is supplied by Independent's of Monroe, in 16 flavors including frozen yogurt. Relocating the fountain to the bakery offers some new options that weren't possible before, like pie a la mode and cream puff sundaes. "I have a lot of other ideas, too. With all the decorations I have in the back. I can do clown cones for the kids," said Poster. "And we use no canned cherries or berries either, since we have fresh."

Visitors can order sundaes in chocolate, strawberry, pineapple, butterscotch and caramel. All the other typical fountain fare remains as well. There are floats, shakes, malts and sodas. Or how about a brown cow or a banana split?

You can have a Boston cooler, or an ice cream float made with Vernor's ginger ale. Or if you're watching your waistline, try a skinny shake, made with frozen yogurt and skim milk. You can't tell a skinny shake from the real thing, thanks to some old fountain secrets.

Crawfords' now remains open un-

FIDELITY COMMUNICATIONS CORP., a telecommunications marketing firm, has announced the opening of a new 18,000 square foot expanded office, warehouse and research center in Novi.

Fidelity President Richard Stanbridge attributes the move to the rapid growth in the number of firms served by the 4 year old company which counsels its clients in the design, equipping, operation, and funding of voice and data telecommunications hardware and software.

This new facility will provide our clients with the tools to develop solutions to many of todays complex telecommunications issues." firm partner and vice president Robert Gilles said in making the announcement.

Fidelity markets to companies in the U.S. and Canada.

til 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights to accommodate the fountain crowd. Fridays in particular are busy, as you'll often find a line out the door during the summer bandshell concerts.

Some regulars now stop in for floats and shakes, and most of the customers who visited the pharmacy have come on over too.

At least for Northville Pharmacy's soda fountain, it isn't the end of an era. Perhaps it's only the beginning of chapter two.
