Trustees still questioning high legal fees

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Northville Township's legal expenses are over budget now and could be $100,000 or more than what was projected by year's end, township officials warn.

The township budgeted $161,200 for legal expenses in 1993, but by Aug. 31, Township Finance Director Dwayne Harrigan said the township already had been billed $183,000 for legal fees.

With four months left on the 1993 calendar and monthly legal bills from one of the township's two attorney firms averaging $29,000, officials fear they are heading for a serious budget problem.

The $21,800 current budget overrun reflects the total amount spent on legal costs this year. The $183,000 total expense is shared between four attorney firms that Northville Township has used or is currently using for legal serivces. One of the four firms, Kel-ly & Kelly, P.C. of Northville, was dis-charged by the township board ear-Herming, Essad & Polaczyk, P.C. of Plymouth, was terminated when its contract was not renewed. Harrigan said their expenses — along with those of the township's labor negotiations firm, Barlow & Lange -- were minimal in comparison to bills submitted by Vanderveer Garzia, the township's lead counsel.

So far this year. Northville taxpayers have paid $154,000 for legal ser-

Group to examine future school use

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

Although it's off to a good start, a few more participants are needed to serve on a citizen committee studying the future use of Northville school facilities

Currently there are 13 signed up to serve on the committee which will: I) review wormt building usage, size and location to develop optimal building capacities; 2) determine demographic trends and future school building needs; 3) examine future building usage and future grade level alignment to ensure that usage is consistent with the district's strategic plan, and 4) develop a fiveyear, cost effective plan.

"We would like to have 20, 25 or so in order to accomplish the magnitude (of the project)," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services.

"We're looking at the floor plan to make sure it accurately represents what's in the building." Bolitho said. We're looking at the classrooms and what kind of programs - are they adequate for instruction?"

The committee also examined the eating and gymnasium areas as well as the outside of each building for future expansion ideas.

We're also looking at the special classrooms to see if they accommodate programs which in some buildings they don't because of crowding." Bolitho added.

Committee members will be expected to make recommendations to the board by mid-December. The board will then schedule an attendance boundary hearing, tentatively set for mid-January 1994 before de-ciding on boundaries in early February.

Anyone interested in joining or Those currently serving on the learning more about the citizen's multice include: Barb Bennett, committee is welcome to attend a 55-minute meeting tonight at 6:30 in the board conference room, located on the third floor of the central office building, 501 W. School count less than projected

Northville schools' student enrollment totals came in lower than projections estimated by the Stanfred consulting firm.

Stanfred representatives estimated an enrollment of 4.281 students. However, the Oct. 1 preliminary fourth Friday headcount totalled 4.174 pupils, 107 students below the projected figure.

That's the first time in people's memory around here of that kind of deviation," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administratwe services. "They're (Stanfred) usually on target."

Stanfred, a consulting firm based in Lansing, has projected the Northville enrollment figures for at least the past five years. Bolitho said the firm did have a disclaimer with this year's projections due to the district's program cuts and high classroom sizes.

The school district did gain slightly in population, though. The 1993 headcount reflects an increase of 22 students over the 1992 figure.

On Thursday and Friday of last week the committee started work by touring the district's elementary buildings.

"We want a representation of a cross section of the community as related to the elementary, middle school and high school levels," Bolitho said. "We wouldn't want one area of middle school parents to outnumber the other area. The goal is to have decisions based on the best interests of all the students."

Half of the city's water system was shut down for several hours early Friday morning after a Wing Street water main sprung a leak Thursday afternoon.

The leak, from a 2-inch air release valve on a 24-inch water main, occurred while Detroit Water and Sewer personnel were performing routine maintenance on the main just north of Main Street.

Sewer was in the manhole about 1 p.m. when the relief valve "just let go," he said. "The water shot up about 25 feet in the air ... I just scrambled, got hit in the back by the water and came out," he added.

Workers threw the manhole cover back on to limit the water but it still coursed out into the street, running south to Main Street and halfway to Center before it drained into the storm sewer system. "You're losing at least a thousand gallons a minute," man Frank Szymanski.

Water gushed out of the manhole for hours as Detroit and Northville officials determined the best time to repair the leak. They agreed to wait until midnight when water usage dropped and as few residents as possible would be affected.

The 24-inch main fed residents on the south side of town and those not pressure was detected. fed by the city's water tower. Residents were warned in radio and television messages to boil drinking wavices from Kelly & Kelly ($12,500); Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk ($18,000): Barlow & Lange, ($17,000); and Vanderveer Garzia. ($106,500).

The finance director said Friday the lion's share of the total bill for legal services has come from Leonard Krzyzaniak of Vanderveer Garzia. And the same firm is continuing to submit higher bills as the year comes to a close.

Some township officials like Clerk Sue Hillebrand, Treasurer Rick Engelland and Trustee Gini Britton were outraged when Vanderveer Garzia's monthly bills jumped as high as $29,904 for services rendered in June; $30,956 in July, and $29,0125 in August.

It was a considerable jump from the earlier bills the firm submitted after being hired by the board in February. Those bills were $10,880 for services in March; $13,889 for the month of April, and $20,216 for May.

"I think this is very serious. We have already blown our budget," the clerk said. "I think Rick (Engelland, Township Treasurer) put it very elegantly when he said we have to get our arms around this issue."

Engelland told members of the budget review committee Thursday night it's imperative the township tighten the reigns on the attorney. It was his recommendation that legal fees for next year be capped at $175,000.

"Either we get control of our current attorney or we get a new attor-ney," Engelland said. "If not, we are going to be anywhere from $80,000-100,000 over budget by the ebrand said. year's end."

Vanderveer partner Leonard Krzyzaniak said Friday afternoon he was not aware that his bills were being scrutinized by township trustees. He did say he has talked with Township Manager Bill Richards about the bills but said he didn't know the issue had escalated to talk of replacing him.

"I am not aware of any problems." Krzyzaniak said. "And I've not talked to the township board about it."

The attorney said he had heard there was an article written in an earlier edition of The Northville Record about his bills, but he said he was told the article focused on a clerical error he said his firm made on the Fourth of July.

There was a clerical error on the Fourth of July that should have been billed in August," he said. "I will say this though, we have voluntarily reduced our hourly rate to Northville Township because of the volume of the work we do for them."

His comments had little to do with the concerns Hillebrand had raised in the article that appeared in the newspaper last Monday.

In the article, the clerk was questioned Krzyzaniak's billing the township for work he had done on the Fourth of July holiday and for the $825 expense he billed to the township for attending an 11 hour Michigan Township Attorney seminar on July 21.

The seminar expense was credited back to the township on the August bill, but the work done on the Fourth of July has yet to be explained by Supervisor Karen Baja, who approved the bill or by Krzyzaniak, Hill-

When asked to respond to Hillebrand's and Engelland's comments. Krzyzaniak said: "I'm not going to respond to something that is not written yet," referring to an article the Record was compiling for today's newspaper.

Manager Richards confirmed that he had talked with Krzyzaniak about finding a way to reduce his bills. But the manager seemed puzzled Friday when told the attorney wasn't aware of the trustees' concerns.

Richards said the attorney had always been understanding of the manager's concerns about the bills and seemed sincere about finding a way to reduce them.

In our discussions, he's always been very forthright and willing to offer suggestions as to how we can control and reduce our legal costs," the manager said. "In fact, he's even made some suggestions like he's willing to install an 800 number to cut down on long distance phone bills. He's also modified his approach on prosecutions which will help us reluce costs."

That's good news to Public Safety Director Chip Snider, who says his legal costs for the police and fire divisions are eating him out of house and home. Snider said last week he no-ticed a marked increase in both police and fire departments' legal expenses after Vanderveer Garzia came on aboard.

The director said he has since notifled Krzyzaniak that the fire department's budget for legal expenses for the year has been depleted and the police department's is also nearly hours," Snider said. "My bills have been averaging about $5,000 a month for the past two or three months. We (the police department) have a $50,000 a year allocation for legal fees. At this rate. Ill be maxed out in 10 months."

Snider said he called Krzyzaniak and told him they needed to get the department's bills back down to $4,000 a month to match the budget allocation. And unless the budget review committee was willing to increase the department's allocation for legal expenses, something would have to be done to cap the costs.

Snider said the attorney agreed to do what he could to help and has since then pulled a second prosecutor off the township's account.

"We dropped down to one prosecutor from two so we avoid any double billing of prosecutors' time," Snider said. "What Lenny was trying to do by having two prosecutors there was save my officers time in court, but it didn't matter to us how long the officers were there because they were al-ready being paid for evertime to be in court.'

Members of the budget review committee echoed the trustees' concerns about the bills. They talked Thursday about capping legal fees in 1994 at $175,000, but that decision won't be made final until the committee makes its budget recommendation next week.

Britton was equally disturbed by the inflated legal expenses. She was at Thursday's budget meeting to share her views.

"I would really like to see these attorney fees reduced," she said. "If not dry. "In July he overbilled us for 11 they are going to kill us."

News item tips mother off to son's theft of ring

An item in the Sept. 23 Police News tipped a Northville mother off to the fact that her 14-year-old son had stolen a ring from a Victorian Festival booth.

The boy had shown his mother the sterling silver and onyx ring Sept. 19 and told her he bought it. She thought nothing of the ring's purchase until she read about its theft several days later. A description of a potential suspect in the case matched that of her son. The woman confronted him about it while they were driving around town. He denied stealing the ring at first but eventually admitted it, throwing the $26 ring out the car window as they drove.

She retrieved it and reported the incident to city police, who interviewed the boy at their home and referred the case to Northville Youth Assistance. The ring is being re-turned to its owner.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST:

Troopers from the Northville post of the Michigan State Police arrested a 36-year-old Grosse Pointe Woods man last Monday for driving while his license was suspended. The man was observed speeding on I-275 in a 1987 Cadillac, and was stopped on Seven Mile Road at Northridge at 2:25 p.m. The car was discovered to have an expired license plate, and a check with the LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) computer revealed the suspended license. The man was arraigned that afternoon in 35th District Court.

POLICE SEEK OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE CHARGE: An 18-yearold Northville man was arrested by city police for lying to an officer about a Sept. 14 traffic accident. Police responding to reports on an accident at Lexington Condominiums that night found a street sign that had been knocked over and several boulders that had been moved. Witnesses said an older-model green Oldsmobile had done the damage before driving down Yorktown Court, as a neighbor yelled at the driver to slow down.

On Yorktown Court, police found a group of 6-8 youths standing in front of one home and asked about the home's owner. The 18-year-old spoke up and said it was his house, but denied knowing anything about a traffic accident involving the abovementioned car.

Police traced the car to another 18-year-old Northville man, who came into the station later that night and admitted driving into the street sign. He said he had been leaving the Yorktown resident's home when the accident occurred, and the resident had come up after the accident and was told what happened. The resident came to the station and was arrested and released after posting a $50 bond.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST:

City police charged a 24-year-old Li-vonia man with driving on a suspended license after stopping him for failing to yield at Rogers and Main Oct. 6. The man's license was suspended after he failed to comply with court judgments from charges in Plymouth and Livonia.

He was released after posting a $100 bond.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Congress wisely votes to lift a veil of secrecy

We respectfully disagree with Congressman William Ford's vote against reforming the secretive discharge petition process in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Ford, whose district includes the Northville area, was one of only 40 members of the House who voted against the bill. The tally was 390-40.

The discharge petition procedure is a mechanism by which representatives can get a proposal to the floor of the chamber even when the legislation hasn't been reported out of committee.

Normally, before a bill can be voted on it must be approved by a majority of the members of the committee giving it initial consideration. Bills can get hung up in committee and never be subjected to full debate if committee members don't like it or if the committee chair chooses not to place it on the committee's agenda. By this means, a small group of lawmakers can deprive a body of 435 persons of the right to decide a proposal's fate.

Discharge petitions enable lawmakers to free bills that are locked in committees, but there was a problem. Until the recent vote, lawmakers who signed petitions were assured of anonymity. Their names were not subject to public scrutiny because of a rule which kept the lists of signatories secret. And if you couldn't find out who signed a discharge petition, there was no way of knowing who didn't.

The secrecy of the petition process enabled lawmakers to take one stance on an issue in public and a completely a very direct and simple question: why?

different one in private. Representatives could claim to favor bills they believed had popular support, while secretly doing whatever they could to keep them bottled up.

Education

A spokesman for Ford said the congressman voted against lifting the veil of secrecy because he believed anonymity protected lawmakers from the pressure of ultimatums. Representatives can now demand that their colleagues sign petitions under the threat of releasing their names if they refuse. Such disclosures could make it look like non-signatories tried to restrict debate on issues of importance.

While acknowledging that Ford's point has merit, we believe there is more to gain than lose by reforming the secrecy of the discharge petition process. Publicizing the names of those who decide not to sign petitions will rob deceptive lawmakers of the luxury of having their cake and eating it too. No longer will it be possible for a representative to claim to support a measure even while actively working to suppress it. Accountability will be improved, and, from now, on, a lawmaker who wants to keep a bill tied up in committee will have to answer a very direct and simple question: why?

Speed gadgets serve a purpose

Rick Byrne

So now Novi's planning to get one of those big roll-around signs that figures your speed and tells you what it is in a big neon digital display.

There to admit that this isn't my first experience with one of these things, and inasmuch as I stand four-square against the use of speeding tickets for generating local revenue, I have to say they're a good idea.

My first meeting with a portable speed monitor was in San Rafael, Calif., two years ago. The local constabulary had set up the monitor on a through street in a residenital area that was three lanes wide, and downhill to boot.

The first time I passed it, it clocked me doing 42 in a 25 mph zone. Jamming on the brakes got me down to 28. Over the course of the next three days, I passed the monitor maybe a half dozen times, and found it exceedingly difficult to get down to the legal limit in that particular location.

If you gave the car just enough gas to get through the intersection at the top of the street, the slope made the car pick up speed unless you rode the brakes the whole way. But the visual cues of the extra-wide roadway gave you a somewhat distorted estimate of your speed unless you kept your eyes glued to the speedometer.

By riding the brakes all the way down the street, I could keep my speed in the 25-28 range. Frustrated that I couldn't get the car under 25, I made a radical move. I let the automatic transmission get me moving from the stop light at the top of the street. No accelerator whatsoever. As soon as I hit the

So now Novi's planning to get slope, I rode the brake again. This time I did it. The monitor displayed "21" as I rode past.

But what I thought were trumpets of celebration were the horns of three cheesed-off drivers behind me, unhappy with my attempts at civil obedience.

My point here is not to make excuses for exceeding the speed limit. An argument could be made that the speed limit was artifically low, but that's irrelevent. The fact of the matter is that street in California was a quirk of geography that could give radar-happy police officers the opportunity for cherrypicking.

Instead, the local police offered drivers the opportunity to police themselves. A charitable move under the circumstances.

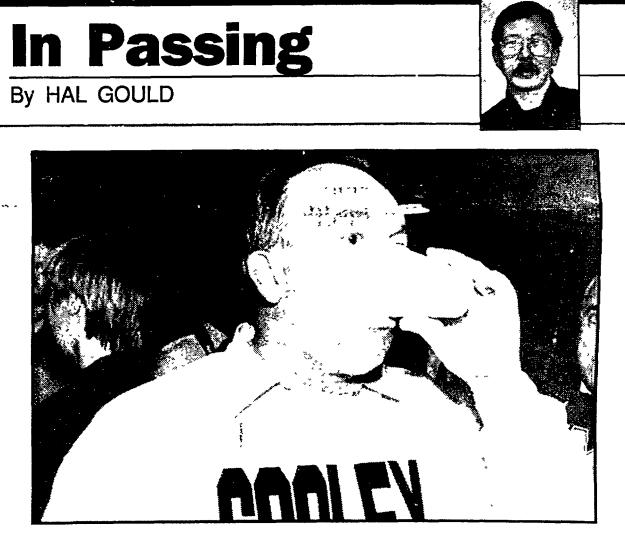

There are other reasons to like the speed machines. I've driven cars with oversize tires that caused the speedometer to give readings way under the actual speed. Replacement of your rear-end gear and transmission could also result in false readings. It's nice to know just how accurate your speedometer is.

In Novi, there are plenty of places where a speed monitor would be effective: Meadowbrook Road from Eight Mile to Ten Mile; Taft Road from Grand River to Eight Mile; East Lake Drive... I'm sure you have your own favorite.

All of the streets I mention have low speed limits, and justiflably so for safety concerns.

That, after all, is the best reason for enforcing speed laws. I certainly hope Novi would never view traffic enforcement solely as a means of generating dollars. By using a speed monitor, the city shows that indeed it would not.

trict children are extraordinary for the extent of their involvement in schoolrelated affairs. Attendance at parentteacher conferences is tremendously high and membership in PTA organizations is truly commendable. Outstanding student achievement rates, the ultimate measure of parental involvement, further attest to the care school district parents lavish on their children's education.

Now, the district is going to its residents and again asking for help.

A citizens' committee is being formed to study long-range uses of school buildings and classrooms. Current building usage will be reviewed and demographic trends will be studied. Grade-level alignments will be examined and a five-year plan will be developed. An attendance boundary plan will be devised and pre-sometime in January.

The effort is designed to provide a blueprint for the future and ensure maximum use of the district's facilities.

Thirteen people have volunteered to sit on the committee, but more are needed. School district officials are hoping to interest 20-25 concerned individuals before the committee gets down to the nuts and bolts of its task.

Our hope is that Northville school district residents will continue their remarkable tradition of involvement in school matters and step forward to serve on the citizens' committee. A meeting is planned for 6:30 tonight in the board conference room of Main Street school, 501 W. Main.

A school system is only as good as its participants. That explains why Northville has been so good for so long.

Reflecting on the free press

Jerome

Newspaper Week. And in celebration I want to dedicate my column to saying a few nice things about this wonderful, and extremely important, profession.

The thing is that I love what I do. Just as importantly, I am of the firm opinion that what we journalists do is extremely important to Northville... to the preservation of democracy and the advancement of the republic.

That sounds rather high-falutin', but please don't dismiss it too easily.

I like that famous Thomas Jefferson quote: "The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Too much? Am I taking my profession --- what we do here at The Northville Record --- too seriously? No way.

You may recall learning in high school government classes about the systems of checks and balances provided in the U.S. Constitution. Remember? The executive, legislative and judicial branches. How power is supposed to distributed between them in order to prevent any individual or group of individuals from accumulating too much power.

The fourth part of the system of checks and balances, I maintain, is the press. There have been countless incidents in recent history where the first three pieces of the checks and balances system failed to prevent abuses of power. Often, it has been the free press which has brought the abuses to light, providing the information that the other branches the system of the checks and balances system failed to prevent abuses of power. Often, it has been the free press which has brought the abuses to light, providing the information that the other branches the system of the

This (Oct. 10-16) is National need to make the system work.

And, whether you believe it or not, the system works the pretty much the same way right here in Northville.

One of the responsibilities of the press is to report completely on actions of local government, whether city councils, school boards or township boards.

Another is to comment on the actions of local government through columns and editorials.

Yet another is to provide a forum for the expression of opposing opinions . . . opinions opposed to government, opinions opposed to our own. That's why we welcome letters to the editor, and that's why it's our policy to print them all . . . regardless of the opinion expressed.

It's the way our democratic system is supposed to work . . the way it has to work.

One other thing. The fact that we may criticize some actions of local government does not mean than we are unappreciative of their contributions. We may fight like crazy over any given issue, but the fights must always be carried on with a sense of appreciation for those who step forward to carry on this noble concept of democratic government.

They're as much a part of the system of checks and balances as we are. What's more, we may not like to admit it too loudly, but we're smart enough to know that we do not possess all knowledge . . . that on any given issue our opinion may be wrong.

So let's care about the issues. Let's disagree and argue our points intelligently and with fervor. Most of all, let's remember that we all basically have the same objective — to make this city, this school district, this township as good as it can be.

Happy National Newspaper Week, everybody. Now let's get back to work. Phil Jerome is executive editor of the Northville Record and Investment yields benefits , after long wait

Some 90 miles north of San Francisco, and far from mainstream northern California wine country, is Guenoc (Gwen'-ahk) Valley, an uncommonly beautiful, but extremely isolated, and under-developed area. Here the wine lover finds the 23,000 acres of the Guenoc Estate Vineyards and Winery which in total represents the area of a sizeable city.

Vineyards in Guenoc Valley grow at optimum elevations between 1,000 and 1,500 feet. Grapes reap benefits from the rich California sun by day and very cool temperatures at night. Soils are either loamy with gravel bands or rocky and lean. The former are superior for chardonnay, while the latter simulate the conditions of the Medoc and make a favorable home for the Bordeaux varietals - cabernet sauvignon, merlot, cabernet franc, malbec and petit verdot.

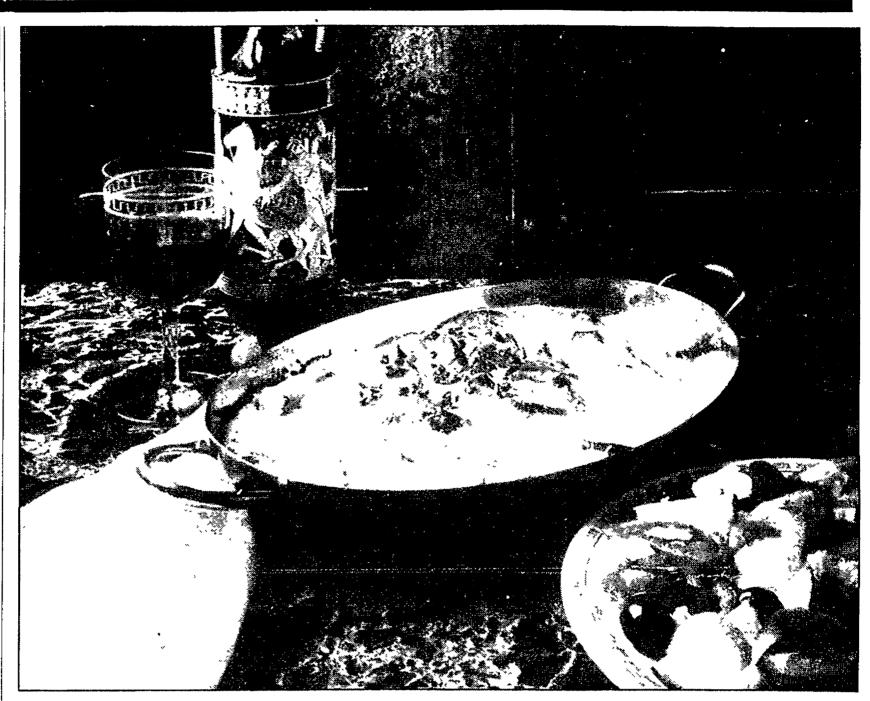

The Guenoc Winery label bears a portrait of the famous stage actress Lillie Langtry who was the darling of both European and American theatergoers in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Langtry owned property in the Guenoc Valley where she produced wines from her vineyards. Today, more than 300 acres of vineyards surround the original Langtry House, re-stored to its original Victorian elegance by Guenoc's proprietors Orville and Karen Magoon.

In 1963, Orville Magoon's family exchanged 23 acres of prime real estate in Hawaii for the 23,000 acres in Guenoc Valley because the University of Hawaii needed to expand its campus facilities. At first, the property served as a livestock ranch only, but Magoon's mother Genevieve wanted to plant grapes, considering them more romantic than hay. And so it happened!

Both the wine louse phylloxera and Prohibition destroyed the vineyards planted by Langtry and the Magoon family had to begin back at square one. Orville Magoon travelled to Bordeaux to visit vinevards and came back to the property to plant test plots. The first wines from these plantings were produced in 1976.

In 1980, the Magoons built a winery with an exterior in the original design modeled after the historic Langtry barn. Here winemaker Derek Holstein is crafting some of the most delicious wines made in California. Holstein has been honing his winemaking skills since high school when he first made wine from plums.

In 1981, Guenoc Valley became the first single-proprietor viticultural appellation recognized by the federal government Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Attention white wine lovers, these are some of the best we've tasted recently: Sauvignon blancs: 1991 Quivira Reserve ($14), 1992 St. Clement ($11), 1992 Murphy-Goode Fume Blanc ($11), 1992 Fortant de France ($6), 1992 Fritz Cellars ($8.50), 1992 Ferrari-Carano Fuine Blanc ($11).

Chardonnays: 1992 Fortant de France ($7), 1992 Rodney Strong ($9), 1991 Sterling Vineyards ($16), Australia's Rosemount Estate Diamond Label ($11). 1991 Antinori Cervaro della Sala ($14) is an interesting blend of chardonnay and the Italian varietal grechetto and the 1990 Ferrari-Carano ($32) although wearing a high price tag is sensational.

Greek cuisine and Greektown are as fundamental to the Detroit area as postand-lintel construction is to architecture.

According to Eva Zane's book, Greek Cooking for the Gods (101 Productions). centuries before the birth of Christ, the Greeks were dining on legumes simmered with olive oil, oregano and bay leaf, lamb roasted with capers and honey-drenched cakes. All this while the balance of Europe was gnawing on raw bones.

The tenets of modern cuisine - stock, herb seasoning, sauces - and methods such as braising can all be attributed to Greek invention.

In Greek Cooking for the Gods, we learn that Athenaeus, a kind of second-century M.F.K. Fisher, wrote an esteemed treatise recipe for "electric ray stewed in oil, wine and fragrant herbs and a little grated cheese.

In spite of this respectful beginning, what most people know of Greek cooking is stuffed grape leaves. And likely they don't even know the main ingredients in these dolmadakia, as they are called.

Greek cooking is a broad and savory subject. Greece has some 2,500 miles of shoreline. As a seafaring population, Greeks exported bouillabaisse, bechamel, mayonnaise, gingerbread and figs -all under different names of course. Likewise, Hellenistic cuisine was enriched by customs from far and wide --paper-thin filo pastry from Persia; rice, lemons and eggplants from India; and thick, strong coffee and skewered meats from the Turks.

from drinking their storehouses of wine, added pine resin to it.

The Persians were put off, but the results after aging were exceptional.

Favorite red wines are nemea, othello and pendeli. White wines include demestica, hymettus and the full-bodied robola. Ouzo, an anise-flavored acquired taste, is the Aegean's favored aperauf.

It is not coincidental that Dionysys is as often pictured eating grapes as drinking. It is the custom to quaff while eating an assortment of mezadakia (appetizers) like dolmadakia, marinated mushrooms, and little meat triangles called kreatopetes. For dyed-in-the-wool adventurers, try lamb brains marinated with oregano, or pickled squid.

With the rocky Greek countryside covered with goats and sheep, goat and mozzarella for kasseri, and ricotta for mizithra. Manouri, from Crete, is more complicated to duplicate.

A wedge of hot bread, a slice of goat's milk cheesee and a local specialty like taramosalata (a fish roe puree) with cucumbers might make a meal with a glass of light wine.

DEMETER'S BOUNTY

Herbs such as mint, oregano, dill, rosemary and thyme are plentifully grown and used in the Aegean. Basil is held in special affection. The tender plants are cultivated with care and used in tomato or eggplant dishes.

Make meals fit for the gods

For many of humble means, a kettle of steamy soup provides the main sustenance.

The most common soup of Athe-naeus' time was a thick ientil porridge, soupa faki. An egg-lemon blend flavors many traditional soups with chicken, ground lamb or celery.

Greak salads are not just greens. Eggplant seasoned with onion and garlic, tomatoes criss-crossed with anchovy fillets, or even dandelion greens are some of the flavors.

The arrangement of the vegetables is as important as their flavor, as in the Athenian Salad below. Always rub the wooden salad bowl or platter with garlic first.

Use vegetables to stretch meat and fish portions with elegant dishes like domates yemistes (tomatoes stuffed with beef and zucchini) and moussaka (baked eggplant with lamb).

We require less protein anyway, according to new dietary recommendations, and these recipes make great meals-in-one.

OFF POSEIDON'S HARPOON

In this country, we have to suffer along without some of Greece's most memorable fish like red mullet and petalia.

But halibut, striped bass and sea bass can be successfully substituted for Mediterranean fish in traditional recipes like psari plaki (fish baked with tomatoes). Zane includes some intriguing ways to prepare cod, one with spinach and garlic sauce and another with currants.

Each Greek island has its own specialty, like the garides souvlakia (shrimp on skewers) below. Octopus, squid and eel are not uncommon.

PAN, KEEPER OF THE FLOCKS

If Greek Cooking for the Gods is any indication, the eastern corner of the Mediterranean is not without exceptional meat preparation. The recipes range from the elementary "kid on a spit to artichoke-stuffed chicken and meat sausages in wine sauce. They don't favor beef, which is difficult to sustain, or pork due to the high Muslim population. Meat most often means lamb.

Eggplant stars in dishes throughout the Mediterranean, but none surpasses the fame of Greek moussaka. Some food historians believe that this elaborately layered meat-andvegetable casserol was adapted from maghmuma, a similar mixture of

BAKED EGGPLANT WITH LAMB/MOUSSAKA

3 medium eggplants

Salt 1/2 cup butter

2 pounds ground lamb freshly ground pepper to taste 2 onions, chopped

3 cloves garlic, minced

1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

% teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg % teaspoon dried fine herbs, crushed

2 tablespoons minced fresh

parsley

1 cup store-bought tomato sauce

% cup red wine

4 cups store-bought white sauce 3 egg yolks (optional)

Olive oil for frying and for baking dish

About 1% cups freshly grated kefalotyri OR Parmesan cheese

Peel eggplants and cut lengthwise in ¼ -inch-thick slices. Liberally sprinkle with salt, place on paper towels, weight down with heavy platter, and let stand to drain 30 minutes to an hour. In large skillet over medium-high heat, melt butter. Add lamb, pepper, onions, garlic and salt to taste; saute until meat is evenly browned (about 10 minutes), breaking it up with a fork as it cooks. Add cinnamon, nutmeg, fine herbs, parsley, and tomato sauce; stir, mixing well. Add wine and simmer, uncovered, until liquid is reduced and mixture is quite thick (about 20 minutes). Remove from heat and set aside.

While lamb mixture simmers, prepare white sauce. For a richer sauce, beat optional egg yolks in small bowl and whisk in some of the hot sauce. Add egg mixture to remaining white sauce and whisk to blend well. Set aside.

Preheat oven to 350 F. Wipe eggplant slices dry. With pastry brush, lightly oil skillet placed over high heat. Quickly fry eggplant slices until golden on both sides but still firm; remove to paper towels to drain. [If you greens in center and cover them with follow this method, eggplant will not absorb too much oil.)

Lightly oil 9x13-inch baking dish. Layer half of eggplant in bottom of dish. Spoon lamb mixture over egg-plant, sprinkle with layer of cheese. and then top with remaining egg-plant. Sprinkle with more cheese and then pour reserved white sauce evenly over casserole. Lavishly sprinkle cheese over top. Bake until cheese is golden brown (20 to 30 minutes). Do not overcook or eggplant will be too soft. Cool slightly, then cut in 3-inch squares to serve. Yields 12 servings.

Zucchini variation: For eggplant. substitute 2 pounds zucchini, sliced lengthwise and fried briefly in olive oll. Potato variation: For eggplant, substitute 2 pounds of potatoes, cut into ¼ -inch-thick slices and fried a few minutes in olive oil.

MEAT TRIANGLES (Kreatopetes)

1/4 pound lean ground beef 2 tablespoons freshly grated kefalotyri OR Parmesan cheese

1 hard-cooked egg, minced 8 sheets of filo dough, thawed overnight in refrigerator if frozen 's cup butter, melted and cooled

Preheat overn to 375 F. In small dry skillet over medium-high heat, saute beef until browned (6 to 8 minutes). In mixing bowl, combine beef, cheese and egg; mix well. Form triangles, using filo, butter and beef filling, then bake on a bak-ing sheet until lightly browned and hot, about 20 minutes. Cool 2 minutes before serving. Yields 2 dozen.

> ATHENIAN SALAD (Salata Athenas)

Assorted greens (red- and greenleaf lettuce, chicory, watercress) 1 clove garlic, halved Cucumbers, peeled and sliced

Green onions, thinly sliced Capers

Radishes, thinly sliced Tomatoes, peeled and quartered Anchovy fillets

Kalamata olives and mint sprigs, for garnish

Feta Dressing Evoula, as needed (recipe follows)

Wash, dry and coarsely chop greens. Rub large wooden platter with cut sides of garlic. Arrange rows of cucumber slices. Sprinkle onions and capers over the top, then surround with radish slices.

Encircle edge of platter with to-matowedges, draping anchoby fillets at regular intervals in between the wedges. Garnish platter with olives and mint sprigs. Serve dressing in a bowl alongside.

FETA DRESSING EVOULA (Saltsa Feta)

2 cloves garlic

- 2 cups crumbled feta cheese 2 cups mayonnaise
- % cup wine vinegar

1 teaspoon dried fine herbs, crushed 1 tablespoon minced fresh

oregano

I tablespoon Worcestershire sauce 2 tablespoons olive oil

In food processor or blender, process garlic to mince. Add remaining ingredients and blend until smooth Store in covered jar in refrigerator for up to 10 days.

SHRIMP ON SKEWERS (Garides Souvlakia)

24 large shrimp, peeled and deveined

3 cloves garlic, minced 3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley 2 tablespoons chopped fresh

oregano ¼ cup olive oil

¹⁴ cup brandy OR dry white wine Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste wedges. Lemon for accompaniment

In large bowl, combine all ingredients except lemon wedges. Mix well and marinate at least 1 hour, or cover and refrigerate up to 4 hours.

Preheat broiler. Remove shrimp, reserving marinade. Thread 6 shrimp onto each of 4 metal skewers. Place on broiler rack with pan underneath to catch drippings. Pour marinade over shrimp. Broil about 3 inches from heat, basting with marinade and turning once, until golden on both sides (about 10 minutes total cooking time).

Slide shrimp off skewers onto individual serving plates. Pour panjuices over and serve immediately with lemon wedges. Yields 4 servings.

It's not just Guenoc's wines that appeal to us, but the care that's given to the vineyards. The term organically grown (natural

Win Schuler's comes back home

As part of Campbell Soup Company, Win Schuler Foods known for their Bar-Scheeze Spread, got no respect.

They were a sleepy business in a large multi-million dollar corporation, and weren't getting any atten-tion." said Robert Nunez who with his partner Tom Bitterman, bought the product line from Campbell Soup Company in March, and opened an office in Livonia.

Detroit's Vlasic Pickle Company bought the Win Schuler food line from the family in 1982. Just four years earlier. Vlasic had been purchased by the Campbell Soup Company.

Bitterman and Nunez left Vlasic two years ago to go into business for themselves. After scouting a number of food lines, they decided to bring Win Schuler Foods back to Michigan.

"Campbell's, with hundreds of products and over $6 billion in annual sales couldn't devote the sales and marketing energy that the Win Schuler line deserved.* said Bitterman, who managed the products for a time at Vlasic.

The partners have introduced some new products, and changed the packaging of your favorite Win Schuler products, but not the price. We felt the Win Schuler brand name was strong and highly respected," said Nunez. "Everyone's got a Win Schuler story, they feel very strongly about it."

Bitterman and Nunez have introduced a new line of frozen, heat-andserve, appetizers including Win Schuler barbecue meatballs, which were served at Win Schuler's Restaurant before dinner with a complimentary crock of cheese.

The two other new products are Grilled Chicken Chunks in a Thick & Rich Barbecue Sauce, and Smoked Sausages in a Mild Chili Sauce. They are available in five-pound plastic buckets at membership clubs like Source, Parti-Giant and in twopound supermarket containers at

Spartan stores

Other products in the Win Schuler food line are five flavors of Bar-Scheeze Cheese Spread, Cheese logs and balls; and eight flavors of Bar-

Schips snack crackers. Fail and football season bring back a lot of fond memories for Nunez who attended Albion College and used to sample Bar-Scheeze "at the source" in nearby Marshall. The Schuler restaurants in Marshall, Jackson, Stevensville and St. Joseph, Mich., remain independent, and are run by the family. Win Schuler, died in May at the age of 85.

We all remember Mr. Schuler's touch, his smile, the sparkle in his eye, his insistence on quality products," said Nunez.

"We're trying to meet the consumer needs for quick party food. We think the consumer wants a variety of products. The meatballs, chicken and sausage are typically things that take time to make."

Here are some recipes.

BAR PARTY FONDUE

- ¼ cup butter
- 14 cup flour
- % teaspoon salt % teaspoon dry mustard
- 12 ounce can of beer

½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 8 ounces Bar-Scheeze

Melt butter over moderate heat and stir in flour, salt and dry mustard. Remove from heat and add Worcesershire sauce, return to heat and stir constantly until mixture boils. Add Bar-Scheeze and stir until blended. Pour into pot an serve.

SOUR CREAM DIP

1 cup sour cream 1 cup Bar-Scheeze

Combine sour cream and Bar-

Scheeze at room temperature. Serve with fresh vegetables or chips.

Turn to lamb for a flavorful dish fall. American lamb is mild, offers a new spark for tired menu plans, and is easy to prepare. Demands for boneless, lean lamb have created some new cuts which are much more consumerfriendly.

For an extra special treat, nothing is more ten-der than a loin or rib chop grilled with a basting of garlic seasoned marinade or a simple seasoned bread crumb coated rack of lamb.

For those unfamiliar with lamb, the rack of lamb is a section of rib chops. It serves one to two, depending on size, and is on the table in an hour or less.

Cround lamb has been gaining in popularity as customers are looking for a change from the ground poultry, beef and pork they use most often. Well-trimmed ground lamb is excellent as a sand-wich or in favorite dishes such as lasagna.

Remember to cook your ground lamb until no

There are several reasons for trying lamb this pink remains or 160 degrees, if you are using a meat thermometer. Ground lamb should be frozen if not used within 24 hours of purchase. Try this easy zesty tomato pasta for a fall dinner treat. It has no secret ingredients and will find favor with all of the pasta lovers at the table. Basil gives it that authentic Italian flavor and the prepared diced tomatoes make it time efficient. Any boneless cut can be used and the mild taste of American fall lamb makes it special.

PASTA WITH RUSTICA LAMB TOMATO SAUCE

12 ounces boneless American leg of lamb or shoulder, sliced in thin strips (12 ounces lean ground lamb may be substituted) 1 tablespoon olive oil 1 cup chopped onion

1% cups thinly sliced zucchini I cup (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms I can (14.5 ounces) diced tomatoes and juice

% teaspoon ground black pepper % teaspoon seasoned salt, optional vinevard-designated reserve wines are produced. Chardonnay from the Genevieve Magoon Vineyard ($21) on the estate and a Cabernet Sauvignon from the Beckstoffer Vineyard ($30) in

At the top of the line are the Langtry Meritage bottlings. If you've seen the term "meritage" on California bottlings and don't understand the term, we'll state it simply. The term meritage rhymes with heritage — it is not a French word and it denotes wines of merit made with grape varietals that are the heritage of the Bordeaux region.

Langtry Meritage White ($18) is a blend of 84 percent sauvignon blane and 16 percent seminon. Langtry Meritage Red ($37) is a blend of all five Bordeaux varietals grown on the estate and named above. In our opinion, the Langtry Meritage wines have few peers in the meritage category. These are stunning offerings of harmonious fruit and oak integration.

'I'll Fly Away' comes full circle on PBS

By JOHN CROOK

A poignant drama series that many critics hailed as being "too good for network TV" returns, however briefly, starting this week. "I'll Fly Away: Then and Now," an original TV movie that ties up loose ends in the now-canceled series, airs Monday, Oct. 11, on many PBS affiliates. Beginning the following Monday, PBS will rebroadcast all 38 episodes that aired during the series' two seasons on NBC.

"I'll Fly Away" focused on two families in the mythical Deep South town of Bryland as the turbulent 1960s were dawning. Sam Waterston starred as small-town prosecutor Forrest Bedford. Regina Taylor played Lilly Harper, housekeeper and caregiver for his three children (Jeremy London, Ashlee Levitch and John Aaron Bennett). All principals were able to recreate their roles for the TV movie with the exception of London, who was replaced by his identical twin brother, Jason, due to a scheduling conflict.

"I'll Fly Away: Then and Now" opens in modern-day Atlanta, where Lilly, now in her 60s, is living comfortably. During a weekend visit from her 12-year-old grandson, a Californian fixated on rap music, she chafes at the boy's total lack of interest in their family's history.

Finally, Lilly firmly sits him down with a scrapbook and begins to relate her experiences in the civil rights movement to the reluctant boy. She describes the tragic murder case that forced her family to flee Bryland in 1962, and forever changed the lives of the Harper and Bedford families. At the conclusion of the film, Lilly returns to Bryland to learn the fate of her friends and former employers. This return visit is not only a sequel but a prequel to the series, setting the stage for the following 38 episodes.

The movie was shot on location in Georgia and directed by series executive producer Ian Sander. It also includes taped interviews with cast and crew members, who offer their views about the importance of the series, both historically and personally. More interviews will be featured at the end of selected episodes throughout the season.

Commenting on the series' impact, Waterston says, "I think it's great that this drama takes on the history of the civil rights movement, which is one of the thorniest issues that the United States has had to deal with...and keeps on affirming that there is a way through the problems.

"It reminds people that the result of the struggle, which looked nasty and horrible at the time, was a tremendous benefit to society; that we can move forward and have moved forward; and that giving up and bailing out is not such a good idea."

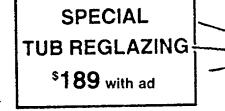

Waterston, Taylor and the series all were nominated for Emmys during both seasons of the show's NBC run. While they struck out both times, the two actors have won Golden Globes and American Television Awards for their work, and the show itself has received a battery of other awards, including the prestigious Humanitas Prize and a Television Critics Association Award.

"It was a great shame that the show didn't go on for two or three more years," says Waterston, "because the story is so interesting and absorbing in its detail. It records historic acts by people who

SOAP WORLD

Barbara Crampton shines as new Mindy

BY CANDACE HAVENS

There is a trend this year with West Coast actresses moving to the East Coast to accept soap roles. Colleen Dion (Brett, "Another World") and Glynnis O'Connor (Margo, "As the World Turns") were among the first to make the move, and now Barbara Crampton has joined them as the new Mindy Lewis on "Guiding Light."

Crampton turned down the opportunity to take a screen test for the part last year when Kimberly Simms vacated the role. Ann Hamilton was cast in the role and life went on, until Crampton saw Jill Farren Phelps and told the executive producer she had changed her mind. Phelps told Crampton the role was hers, if she wanted it. No screen test, no audition – goodbye Hamilton.

"I turned down the role because I didn't want to move to New York," says Crampton. "I don't know what I was thinking. Even though I was raised on the East Coast (Vermont), I had lived in Los Angeles for the last 10 years and had really gotten used to that laid-back way of life. I didn't think I would be happy in New York. Boy, was I wrong! I am so happy here, I don't care if I ever go back."

Crampton has been accepted by critics and fans alike for her portrayal of Mindy, and that fact pleases the actress immensely. "The writers are making Mindy a stronger person," she says. "For the last 10 years the character has been kind of a spoiled brat. She came from a rich family and had a great deal of personal problems. Now she has her own successful design business and the confidence and maturity that goes along with that kind of responsibility." The big question is will Nick (Vincent Izzary) and Mindy ever get back together? "Mindy has made a decision that Nick is her man. They have always had this thing together. I think the writers are going to put the characters together for a while."

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 19) There could be news concerning a birth or new program. You may be involved with a group that has some interesting and pertinent views of the world.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20) There is an opportunity in the offing, and you should be ready to seize it at any moment. New ventures will prosper, and you will have good health.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20) Forget about the past and concentrate on the future. You have a wonderful life ahead of you, and you should concentrate on the positive aspects of it.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20) You must wake up and do what is necessary to accomplish your goals. There is no time for procrastination. A change for the better is on the way.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21) You may not like a sudden change in plans, but you will have to deal with it just the same. Caution is needed in dealing with defensive people.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22) You will meet a kind and generous person who has your best interest at heart. Pay close attention to monetary transactions and contracts.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

You feel ready to try something different, but you aren't really certain what it is. Check your diet and exercise regime. Stay positive in a difficult situation.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22) You need to set yourself on the right course and stop your self-destructive ways. Concentrate on the many blessings you have been given.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20) An unexpected event will take place and it will improve your attitude. There will be a definite change for the better. Use common sense in a difficult situation.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19) You need constant motivation and find it hard to settle down and concentrate. A dark-headed man could change your mind about something important.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) Do not feel sorry for yourself – you really don't have the time. Be prepared to adapt to an unusual set of circumstances. You need a change of pace.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20) A time of peace is coming for you. There will be news of a marriage or birth. You may consider accepting a new job opportunity.

Cable/TV Weekly

Burt Reynolds and country singer Reba McEntire star in "The Man From Left Field." airing Friday. Oct. 15, on CBS. In the humorous and poignant story, Reynolds, who also directed the film, plays an amnesiac man befriended by a gang of mostly fatherless boys. Needing a coach in order to start a little league baseball team, the boys "adopt" the silent stranger, supplying him with food, shelter and the name "Jack." His newfound life also includes romance with Nancy Lee (McEntire), the waitress mom of one of the boys.

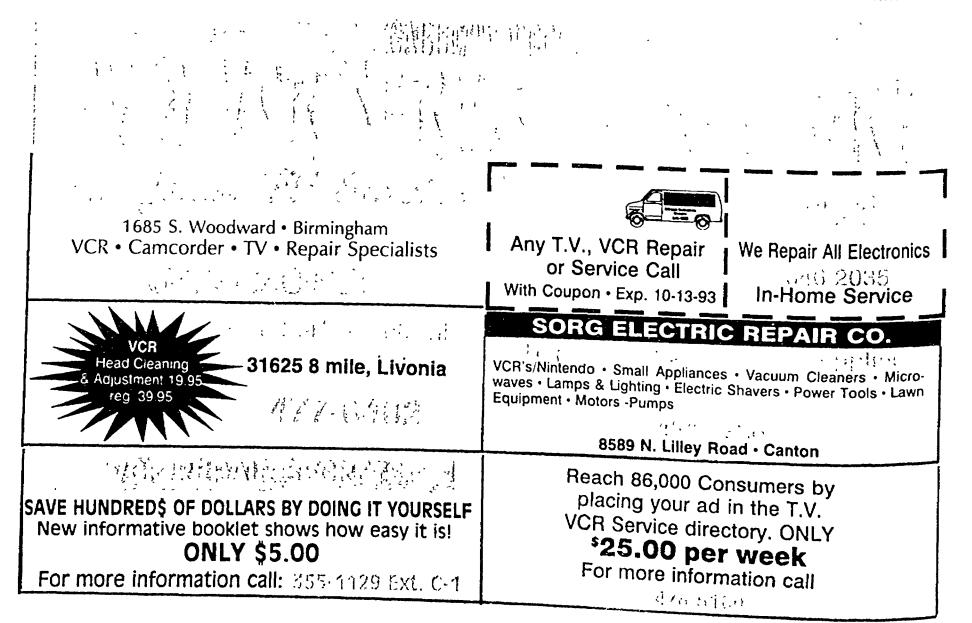

TRIVIA

Tree shrews are squirrel-like animals with pointed snouts! Native to Asia, they live on fruits, leaves and smaller animals.

The troposphere is the lowest level of Earth's atmosphere, with a ceiling about six miles above the poles and 10 miles above the equator.

English Romantic poet Percy Bysshe Shelley was only 30 years old when he died in a boating accident off the coast of Italy.

American architect James Renwick not only designed St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City, but also parts of the Smithsonian Institution.
