Three face off for two council seats Tuesday

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville City voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to select two council members from among three candidates, and cast a symbolic vote of confidence for the current mayor. Council Member Mark Cryderman, facing his first election after being appointed to the council last September, faces off against Planning Commissioner Charles Keys and businessman Kevin Hartshorne for the four-year posts that officially begin Nov. 9.

While all three candidates agree that Northville City has made impressive progress despite massive cuts in state revenue, they differ on the direction in which the city should head.

For example, Cryderman bills himself as a proponent of controlled growth rather than mass development and strives to be a voice of the people, even heading out into the community to poll residents on issues that affect them so he can be sure his vote reflects the majority opinion.

He was instrumental in getting the council to downscale its Mainstreet parking deck plan.

Hartshorne sees his role as injecting fiscal responsibility into a council that has been fiscally irresponsible and has come to represent business-ses over residents on issues like the stalled parking deck project.

Keys, while in favor of Mainstreet '93, wonders whether businesses should shoulder more of the financial burden for the $4 million project than they do now, taking some of the load off residents.

Cryderman was named to the council after a brief stint as a planning commissioner, when Council Member G. Dewey Gardner stepped down to move to Brighton. Keys joined the planning commission shortly after Cryderman's departure.

Hartshorne, who first lost a bid for council more than a decade ago, lost again in 1987 in a close three-way race with Gardner and incumbent Jerry Mittman.

The upcoming race became less heated Sept. 21 when Mittman, by now a six-year veteran of the council, announced his decision not to seek another term after pulling petitions and mulling the decision for several weeks.

Extensive interviews with the city council candidates appear on page 6-A.

Mayor Chris Johnson has no opposition in his run for a fourth consecutive two-year term. Barring a successful write-in candidate, he will continue on as the city's mayor.

Johnson, a member of the Northville Board of Education for more than 11 years, was first elected to the mayoral post in 1987 over Gardner. In all three elections since then, he has run unopposed.

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers and Council Member Paul Folino are up for reelection in 1995.

The mayor earns a $600-a-year stipend while council members receive $500 a year each. The council meets at 8 p.m. on the first and third Mondays of each month, as well as at additional meetings on an as-needed basis.

Polls will be open between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wayne County residents, those south of Baseline Road, must cast their ballots at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St. Oakland County residents vote at Amerman School, 847 N. Center St.

There are no other questions on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Trustees upgrade pension package

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

An appointed pension fund committee sold Northville Township Trustees last Thursday on the idea of upgrading the employees' pension fund.

Trustees backed the committee's recommendation to change the present pension system provided that the majority of township employees favor the change in pension plans, the change won't impact contract talks with the township's three bargaining units, and that all three unions' signatures of approval could be obtained before a contract is inked.

Those conditions found favor with pension fund committee representative and Northville Township Police officer John Werth.

It was Werth who presented the committee's recommendation and explained the necessity for the change to trustees last Thursday.

The officer who represented the police officers' and command officers' unions on the pension committee said the study group reached its decision to upgrade the present pension plan with the same company after they interviewed at least five other firms.

The committee unanimously opted to retain the township's current pension plan carrier, Manulife, with an upgraded optional package called New Dimensions.

Werth said the biggest reason employees want to upgrade the pension plan is that they want more investment opportunities than what the existing Manulife plan now provides.

Under the current Manulife pension plan, employees' retirement funds are limited to a 10-year fixed interest rate. There are no other investment options available to employees underneath the current plan.

But with the New Dimensions option, employees will have other options including three-, five-, and 10 year alternatives. There are also more assertive investment options and higher risk options in stocks, money market and mutual fund options available to employees under this plan.

Finance Director Dwayne Harri- gan agreed there were more choices in the new program.

"The new plan would make it self-directed," he said Thursday. "Right now there is only one option but the new plan would give us 10 options . . . Now we have a 10 year guaranteed investment."

An investment that Werth said is too slow in paying out a comfortable return on employee contributions.

"The problem is that interest rates are so low," Werth said. "And Manulife is at the fixed rate."

Werth said there are other advantages to the plan if the township re-

Union rep criticizes supervisor for remarks

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

As a representative of the patrol officers' union, Northville Detective John Werth wasn't willing to argue in public with the township supervisor about the police department's preferred choice of pension plans.

After Werth made a pitch Thursday night to upgrade the township's pension plan with its existing carrier, Township Supervisor Karen Baja questioned the plan's value given that Werth wasn't campaigning for it at the bargaining table.

"If you like it so much why aren't you proposing it for the union?" Baja

All sorts of freakish weirdos lurked in the dark during "Maybury Madness," the haunted forest walk at the state park. The event was held last Friday and Saturday night and featured mazes, tunnels, witches and swashbucklers. Above, Matt Falkewicz's ghoulish alter ego waits to pounce on unsuspecting passersby. Proceeds from the fundraiser will go toward the Parks and Recreation Department's Community Park project.

Fugitive gives in to state police

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Police officers from three jurisdictions chased one of Michigan's most wanted fugitives into the handcuffs of troopers at the Michigan State Police Post in Northville.

On the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 19, Northville Township Police detectives were tipped off by a Plymouth Township officer that fugitive Richard Gothe was living in Northville Township.

The tip was a day late and a dollar short.

Officers at the Northville State Police Post say Gothe turned himself in at the post the night before township police and a state criminal investigator launched a day-long manhunt for him.

State police say the man's mug shot appeared in a Oct. 18 edition of a Detroit newspaper featuring Michigan's Most Wanted Fugitives.

Gothe was wanted for two outstanding warrants; one for a single charge of criminal sexual conduct in the second degree, and the other for assault and battery.

According to State Police reports, Gothe saw the paper and decided to turn himself in. Gothe arrived at the Northville post at 8:30 Monday night, and was turned over to White Lake Township police.

Neither of the alleged crimes took place in Northville Township, police say. The CSC-II charge involved a relative who lived with the man in White Lake Township. The second assault and battery complaint was pending in Livonia.

Who will get the chance to raise the Jug after the Baseline rivalry has been decided?

Northville, Novi vie for Baseline Jug again in annual football rivalry

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

While most people associate the end of October with Halloween, the Northville and Novi communities think football. In particular, the Baseline Jug — that little piece of hardware given to the victor of the annual gridiron clash between the Mustangs and Wildcats.

In just five short years, the Jug has helped to intensify an already great rivalry. Upsets and last minute comebacks have been the rule since the Northville Record and Novi News created the Jug in 1988.

This fall's classic, 7:30 p.m. at Novi High, promises to be a dandy.

According to Wildcat coach John Osborne, retaining the Jug will be an uphill battle for Novi.

"It will be a tall order," he said. "But never say never."

Novi took the Jug for the first time last season 32-28. Quarterback John Lahti scored on a four-yard run with 22 seconds left to give the Cats the win.

"It's a big game for both teams," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher. "I think it's a pride situation for us. We want to be the team that brings (the Jug) home."

The Mustangs head into the regular season finale with a 7-1 record and an almost guaranteed spot in the state playoffs next weekend. Novi stands at 4-4 and would dearly love to end the campaign on a positive note.

"It makes the year between seasons go by easier," said Osborne. "It's an important rivalry."

The game will feature teams of vastly different styles. The Wildcats, said Schumacher, have more colors than a chameleon.

"It's a formation football team," he added. "It presents a lot of problems."

Novi has incorporated a multitude of plays designed to outsmart opponents and create scoring opportunities. Osborne said the Cats simply don't have the size to play smash-mouth football.

"We can't bang with them straight up," he said. "We've got to somehow deal with their power. It hasn't been our strong point. We've not really solved that."

The coach said if Novi can't stop the Mustangs "we'll have to score with them." Osborne said the Wild-

Women's Health
A lifesaver for all women

By Richard S. Hollis, MD
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths among women aged 34 to 50. But the statistics are not all grim. Many women can be cured of the disease if the cancer is found and treated early.

Knowing her body is a woman's best defense against breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast lumps are found by women while they are checking their own breasts. Doing a breast self-exam every month is an important way to detect any changes in the breast early, when treatment is most effective.

All women should do the exam, including those who are young, pregnant or post-menopausal.

Perform the breast exam on the same day of each month, a few days after your menstrual period, if you still menstruate. By becoming familiar with the normal shape and feel of your breasts, which are usually a bit lumpy, you will be able to distinguish any unusual changes. If you find something suspicious, report it to your doctor without delay.

To examine your breasts, make sure you are in good light and use the following simple steps. Steps 3-5 can also be done while taking a shower or bath—it is easy to feel your breasts when they are soapy and wet.

1. Looking in a mirror with your arms at your sides, check for dimpling, puckering or redness of the skin, inversion of the nipples or any changes in breast shape or size.
2. Look for the same signs with your hands pressing into your waist and also pushing down on your hips. Repeat with your arms raised above your head.
3. Now lie flat on your back with a pillow or folded towel under your left shoulder. Place your left hand under or over your head. Using your right hand, make small, gentle, circular motions on your left breast.
4. Start at the top of your breast and move around it in a circle, continuing the gentle, circular massage. Continue to move the circle inward, as you would when peeling an apple, and do the same with your nipple. Squeeze the nipple and check for any discharge. Remember to check below your armpit, too.
5. Now repeat the process with your right breast.

Do not let the fear of what you might find keep you from doing your exam. The chance is only one in five that any lump you find is cancerous. But early detection of a problem may save your life.

Single, free copies of "Detecting and Treating Breast Problems" (AP026) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 409 12th Street, SW, Washington, DC 20024.

Composting plan canned until tonight

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Supervisor Karen Baja was ready last Thursday night to approve a composting pact with Browning-Ferris Industries, but trustees were turning an entirely different leaf.

Even though trustees have seen copies of the proposed agreement before, and have already toured BFI's composting facility at the Arbor Hills facility, not one was willing to approve the pact without reviewing it further and gauging township residents' reaction in a public hearing.

Trustee Gini Britton made the motion to table talk of the pact until tonight's study session.

"I move that we move this to the study session so the full board has a chance to discuss the terms of the agreement," she said before winning majority support.

Treasurer Rick Engelland lent his support and then backed off from discussing the contract until trustees scheduled and held a public hearing.

"I think if we are thinking about approving this, I think the public should be able to come forward and tell us how they feel," he said.

But Supervisor Baja didn't see it that way.

"I was under the impression we were going to act on it tonight," she said after casting the lone vote against tabling the motion and holding a hearing.

After arguing for 15-20 minutes, the board finally agreed to set a public hearing on BFI's offer on Nov. 4 at 7 p.m.

The offer had been before the board earlier this year, but trustees stalled it then so they could visit BFI's composting operation and see what was in store if they approved the agreement. Trustees walked BFI's site on Sept. 19, but have not met since then to discuss the issue or react to the proposed contract.

Under the terms of the proposed plan, BFI is asking Northville Township to be a host community for an 80-acre composting operation. The facility would have screened berms for security, isolation, and aesthetics. It would eventually include a finished-product bagging operation. Trucks would enter the site off Napier Road.

In exchange for Northville giving BFI permission to compost on 80 of the 200 acres BFI owns near Six Mile and Napier Roads, BFI will pay a host community fee to Northville Township and provide residents with free composting services.

The host fee under the proposed agreement is 3 percent of the gross revenues the facility would generate. In addition, BFI agrees to give 20 percent of the gross weight of the incoming compostable material for township residents back for use at township offices and buildings.

But there are limitations. There will be no curbside collections. Residents will have to bring their compostable leaves, grass and yard waste to the site in township-approved haulers or vehicles.

Officer grabs assailant after witnessing assault

A city police officer witnessed a man striking his live-in girlfriend at Northville Downs Oct. 23, and grabbed the man before he could hit her again.

The officer reported that he was patrolling the track's lower grandstand about 11:30 p.m. when he heard a shout and looked around in time to see the 38-year-old Royal Oak man pull the woman's hair and hit her in the face with his fist, sending her glasses flying. He ran up and identified himself as a police officer, then grabbed the assailant from behind as he reached for the woman again.

The man was handcuffed to a pole while the woman was taken to the track's police office for an interview.

The woman's face was bruised and burned, probably from the cigarette the man had in his hand when he hit her. When told that her boyfriend faced assault charges, she begged police not to charge him and added that she did not want to press charges and would not testify against him in court. The officer informed her that since he had witnessed the act, he would be the complaining witness and her complaint and testimony were not needed.

Police interviewed at least two other witnesses to the incident, both of whom corroborated the officer's report.

City police tried to have the man arraigned in court the next morning, a Sunday, but court officials at the Wayne County Circuit Court Annex in Westland and 35th District Court in Plymouth would not arraign him since it was a weekend and the charge was a misdemeanor.

The man was released after being held 20 hours in accordance with domestic abuse laws, and after posting a $100 cash bond.

PARENTAL KIDNAPPING REPORTED: A Northville woman told city police that her estranged husband took her two children, ages 4 and 6, in violation of a court visitation order Oct. 22. Police went to the man's Novi home and were told that he had left for a weekend camping trip with the two children, his girlfriend and her two sons.

The girlfriend called police the next day and told them that the man's lawyer had advised him that the weekend trip was permissible. His wife countered that the trip violated an Oct. 19 court order but said she did not have the order in writing.

The man's girlfriend eventually returned the two children unharmed that Sunday, though she and the wife nearly got into a fight and the wife summoned police with a 911 call. The man had asked his girlfriend to pick up several items at the wife's home, and police stood by to keep the peace as she did.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARREST: City police arrested a 30-year-old South Lyon man at 2 a.m. Oct. 23 after stopping him on westbound Eight Mile near Beck Road. The man was drifting across the lane and twice drove off the road onto the gravel before slowly driving back onto the pavement.

When he was pulled over, he told police he had had 4-5 drinks at a Redford bar more than an hour ago. When asked to step out of the car, he had to hold onto the door for support. He tried to recite the alphabet but his voice was too slurred for the officer to understand the individual letters, and when asked to walk heel-to-toe the man said he could not because he had a brain tumor that affected his left side.

The man was arrested and his blood-alcohol level was measured at .13 percent. He was released 10 hours later after he had sobered up and posted a $100 cash bond.

MAIL TAMPERING: A Potomac Drive resident reported that someone tampered with her mail sometime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The woman found the mail about 50 yards from her house in the woods when she went for a walk that evening, and it had been opened and scattered around. The mail contained credit card statements and bank account information.

TAILGATE LIFTED: The owner of a tan Ford F-250 pickup truck told city police someone stole the truck's tailgate while it was parked in his First Street driveway. The theft of the $300 tailgate occurred sometime between 6 p.m. Oct. 23 and 11:20 a.m.

Oct. 24.

INCIDENTS AT MCDONALD FORD: Two cars parked in a McDonald Ford lot were vandalized sometime between Oct. 22-25, while a third had a dealer's license plate stolen off of it.

The damaged cars, parked in the lot between the Good Time Party Store and a used car lot, included a 1986 Pontiac 6000 that had its driver's side front window broken and a 1990 Chevrolet Corsica that had its trunk pried open and trunk lock broken. The dealer's license plate was number 384-D84.

FENDER BENDERS: City police reported four accidents in the past week. A minor accident on Mary Alexander Court the afternoon of Oct. 22 occurred as a 30-year-old Novi woman was backing out of a parking spot while a woman behind her was also backing out. While the Novi woman told city police that the other car drove into her, the damage on the other car indicated that she had backed into it.

The three other accidents involved drivers making left-hand turns off westbound Eight Mile Road. All three drivers were cited for failing to yield.

On the afternoon of Oct. 24, a 43-year-old Livonia man drove into the path of an eastbound car while turning onto Novi Street. The resulting impact spun his car about 90 degrees and drove the other car into a garage off Eight Mile. Both cars had to be towed but no serious injuries were reported. The next day, just after noon, a 62-year-old Livonia woman struck an eastbound vehicle as she was turning onto Center Street. The vehicle she struck had to be towed.

Later that same afternoon, back at the Novi Street intersection, a 44-year-old Northville woman turned into the path of an eastbound car which pushed her car into a third vehicle heading east. Both her car and the first eastbound car had to be towed from the scene.

POSSESSION OF NARCOTICS: A 30-year-old Detroit man was arrested by township police on Saturday, Oct. 23 for possession of narcotics on Seven Mile near Innsbrook. The patrol officer found the man driving a 1986 Chrysler LeBaron with its rear window blown out.

The officer stopped the man and asked him for his driver's license. The driver complied and also showed police a receipt for the car that he said he had just purchased that day. There was a temporary date sticker stuck to the front passenger side window to verify his story.

After police asked the man to step outside the car, the officer noticed a small marijuana cigarette left laying on the driver's seat. The officer asked the driver if there was any more marijuana in the car and the driver then pulled a small bag of marijuana from inside the car.

The officer searched the car and found three roaches in the ash tray. The man was ticketed for possession of narcotics. He will face the charge in court on Nov. 16.

LARCENY AT MEIJER: A 29-year-old Detroit man was arrested by township police on Oct. 18 after he stole a cellular telephone valued at $510 from a 1985 Olds 98 parked in the Meijer parking lot. The car was parked in the lot with one of its windows rolled down slightly. There was no damage to the car.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY: A 17-year-old Northville man came to township police to report an assault and battery that occurred on Oct. 18. The man said he and some friends were walking on the south bound shoulder of Northville Road, opposite Ruffe's Restaurant, when an unknown white male approximately the same age ran across the street and punched him near the right ear.

The victim said the punch caused him to stumble into the road and nearly into oncoming traffic. The victim said he and the suspect argued and then the suspect kicked him in the shin before he fled the scene. According to the report, the victim had no visible injuries and the suspect got away.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Township police track down drunk driver after hit and run

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Police arrested a 47-year-old resident at his home Monday afternoon shortly after the man, who was drunk, allegedly left an accident scene.

Township police say they apprehended the man after they received a tip from a woman who said she saw him clip a street side mailbox and then smack into a small tree.

The woman who lives on Bloomcrest said she witnessed the accident and then followed the man to his

West Main home before she called township police to report the accident. Police say the man caused about $2,000 worth of property damage to the mailbox, tree, and to his car.

Northville Township Police Lieutenant Gary Batzloff and Det. John Werth were called to the man's home to back up Police Officer Jim Fisher, who responded to the call.

Batzloff said the man appeared in the doorway of his home off balance, with glassy eyes and wreaking of intoxicants.

"We went to the home and the officer found him to be intoxicated," Batzloff said.

Once transported to the station, the lieutenant said he refused to take a breathalyzer.

Detective Werth, however, applied for and received a search warrant for the man's blood. He was later taken to St. Mary's Hospital where a blood sample was drawn and shipped off to the Michigan State Police Crime Lab for analysis.

Lieutenant Batzloff said while in police custody the man threatened to commit suicide. And after the trip to St. Mary's, he was taken to a psychiatric intervention center in Westland for evaluation and then onto a private facility where he remains lodged.

Township police believe the man may have been involved in a similar hit and run property damage accident in the city of Northville the same day.

Aside from his unwillingness to take a breathalyzer, Batzloff said the man was cooperative and non-combative.

When asked if it was common practice for police to obtain a search warrant for a suspect's blood, Batzloff said, "It was a judgement call. For anyone operating under the influence of liquor who is involved in an accident we obtain a search warrant for the blood."

MESC can help the job search with Uncle Sam

Looking for a job with the federal government?

If so, the Michigan Employment Security Commission has made it easier to learn about federal job openings available in Michigan and neighboring states.

"We now have federal job listings on our new electronic bulletin board system — LMI On-Line," MESC Director F. Robert Edwards said. "Within moments anyone with a personal computer and a modem can dial into the system and see what federal jobs are open."

MESC updates the list weekly with information it receives from the federal Office of Personnel Management.

"Currently, LMI On-Line features more than 400 federal listings," Edwards said, "and these are in addition to the 1,400 job openings available through MESC offices that are also on the system."

The federal listings give the job title, pay grade and what agency to contact for further information or to make an application.

Johnson in position to win third unopposed term for city mayor

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville Mayor Chris Johnson will almost certainly hold onto that title after the Nov. 5 elections.

Johnson is running unopposed for the third time in a row since his election as mayor in 1987—an apparent record in Northville City politics. Barring a successful write-in candidate, he will earn another two-year term.

Johnson said Tuesday that he considers the lack of opposition a sign of satisfaction among the city's voters rather than apathy.

"When something is happening in the community, either positive or negative, residents don't hesitate to make their feelings known," he noted.

Still, Johnson said this has been a frustrating tenure for him, after twice seeing major parking deck proposals come undone by actions by the state.

While the governor's withholding of racetrack revenue doomed a parking deck plan several years ago, the elimination of school property tax revenue earlier this year shelved the city's two-deck Mainstreet '93 plan just as it had won city voter approval.

"I can't tell you how frustrating it is to get ready to do things and have the state pull the rug out from under you," Johnson said, talking from experience.

Still, the mayor is proud of the way the city has rebounded from the $1-million deficit resulting largely from the state's withholding of racetrack revenue in 1991, and the fact that the city is ahead of schedule in meeting its deficit reduction plan.

"I've been real pleased with the work that's been going on in getting out of the deficit," he said.

The next step is to establish a capital improvement plan that allows the city to make long-overdue repairs and replacements to its infrastructure and equipment, he said. "We haven't done a major capital outlay purchase in two years," he noted.

Johnson sees other areas where the city can improve its bottom line, particularly in the area of shared services.

He and City Manager Gary Word have been active in talks among the five Northville, Plymouth and Canton city/township communities about shared services, and he noted that a consultant hired by the municipalities is scheduled to make recommendations soon about the feasibility of combining some police services.

Depending on the recommendations, Johnson noted that the communities may need to make some capital outlay to that program as well. But he argued that the investment could pay off.

"You make an investment up front and you can potentially save a lot of money down the road," he said.

Fugitive turns himself in as police narrow search

Gary Batzloff said he and Detective John Werth learned that the man had been seen at his grandmother's home on Maxwell.

A confidential informant told the pair that Gothe had also recently been seen at the Ramada Inn in Livonia. They went to investigate the hotel where they missed Gothe, but bumped into a member of the Michigan State Police Fugitive Team who was also in pursuit of the man. The fugitive team operates out of Livonia.

"We got a tip from somebody that he was at the Ramada Inn in Livonia, so we went there and talked to the hotel personnel and that's when we ran into the state police there," said Werth.

Batzloff and Werth said officers from the two jurisdictions shared information they'd received about the man and then went their separate ways.

"They had a phone number and we had the address," Werth said. "He knew the police were looking for him and he had basically just been jumping hotels. He had stayed at the Red Roof Inn in Plymouth earlier and State Police had just missed him."

Batzloff said Northville Township officers had little to do with Gothe's surrender. He did say he and Werth acted on the tips they received, but in the end it was Gothe who brought himself to justice.

"We really didn't have a key role in this whole thing," the lieutenant said. We acted upon information given to us regarding a fugitive living in the township and we shared information with the state police and they shared information they had with us.

"But Gothe had told state police he was going to surrender to them later that day and he did."

CELEBRATE AN AMERICAN TRADITION

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL ELECTION • NOVEMBER 2

Northville voters Nov. 2 will elect two candidates from a field of three running for city council. The Northville Record asked the candidates a series of questions and brief excerpts from their responses can be found in the grid below. Lower on the page are transcripts of the full interviews.

What major issues do you think the city is going to be grappling with in the near future and what steps can the city council take in dealing with them?

How do you feel about the latest parking deck plan, Mainstreet '93?

What is your opinion of the proposal for a district library?

How would you rate the economic viability of downtown Northville and what can the city council do to preserve or enhance it?

What do you see your role being on the city council?

Mark P. Cryderman, 47, is the only incumbent council member running for reelection. He was appointed to the council in 1992, after serving on the city planning commission. He was also a member of the 1987 library location committee and he served on the city's zoning board of appeals. He and his wife Mary Jane have four college-age children.

I think the major issue that we're still dealing with, and I guess the immediate one, is parking. We're still dealing with what we're going to do there, what are the trade-offs of paying for parking and having additional commercial base. I'm in favor of trying to develop a commercial and retail base here because the more we develop that base, the less taxes the rest of us pay.

Basically I made a comment in one of the council meetings that I thought it was too expensive. I thought we could do two decks for much less money, and I'm happy to say that Greg Presley picked up on that and within two weeks we had a proposal for two decks, for much less money. That was what I was looking for, something that could get us where we wanted to go but make it a lot less money and a lot more palatable to a lot of people ...

A district library has the ability to go out on their own, get their funding, be in control of their own destiny, develop their own plans, and I think they can go a lot farther with that than they can the way we sit right now. The library as it is is very small and under-funded

You do hear some criticism about the mix. Unfortunately, the city council can't do anything about what the mix of stores is in the downtown. We'd like to encourage certain things but there's nothing we can do to do that, that's more the chamber of commerce. But what we can do is make this a nice community to live in, and if it's a nice community to live in it's also a nice community to shop in and it'll attract people through that.

I'd really like to think I'm a voice of the people. I really like to make my opinion secondary. There's been some things that have come up in front of the council and I had a certain opinion on them, but a lot of them were neighborhood issues and the neighborhood came in and said "We don't want this." It's their neighborhood, and I think we should listen to that, and we do.

Charles H. Keys, 47, currently serves on the city's planning commission and is involved in several local organizations.

Probably the biggest major issue that I see facing the city is the growth surrounding our city ... in Novi, Northville Township, Livonia and even Salem. Northville Township, tremendous expansion going on. Most of that township isn't even developed yet. That has to affect the city. All of these expansion projects have to impact the life of us who live in the city here. We need to be prepared to meet that impact.

With the development of the new CadyCentre by Singh Development, Long's building coming up, and again, the general impact of surrounding developments, we're going to need parking in the city.

Anything that's voter-approved is fine with me. Would I vote for it? Yes, I would. The quality of your library is almost a measuring stick of your community values, as are schools. We need to have good schools. But there comes a time when being A-plus, plus and being A-plus, there isn't that much of a difference.

Tremendous potential. Once Northville is marketed, and I have a lot of skills in marketing, the downtown businesses will do better when more people know that downtown Northville exists.

Maybe the council should have some of their meetings in different areas of the city just to bring in some more people, to kind of open up their doors. The council definitely needs to get out into the community more. I know I've talked to Gary Word about getting out into the community. Gary would love to but he doesn't have the time. But in my opinion that should be a priority ...

Keys ran his own marketing and management consulting firm until recently joining the National Health Insurance Agency as a licensed insurance agent.

He and wife Mary Elwart-Keys have two children.

Should the residential homeowner pay for the parking? There's one side of me that says no, probably the dominant side ... I think it should be supported more by the downtown businessmen.

It creates an annual struggle to attain enough dollars to run the library, especially when the city says "OK, we'll give you the 5- or 6-percent increase in funding" and the township says "No" ... I don't think we should raise the millage 1 or 2 mills but I like the idea of a dedicated millage, by both the township and the city, a certain portion of mills to be dedicated to operating the library ...

If you ask the chamber of commerce, and you ask the business types in Northville, I don't think they will ever be pleased with how ever much parking that you create downtown. Their theory and their philosophy is the more traffic that you can generate, the more business it will be for them, and I don't think they're concerned with how much these parking spaces are going to cost, or if the traffic might be a burden on the residents ... I'm not convinced that the parking deck is the way to improve the volume of traffic coming into the city.

I think my version of the library would be something that would come up and I would push for that. I'd like to see us buy down our bonds rather than more projects, more bonds. Try and live within our means, cut up the credit cards.

Kevin Hartshorne, 39, has run a restaurant services business since 1987 and has been an employee of the Ford Motor Co. Wixom plant since 1990.

I know the same people that built (MainCentre) want to build another building across the street, CadyCentre, another four-story giant to connect to their previous investment. And I would have to ask the question, with the parking situation the way it is, why would you want to exacerbate the problem by building another building right across the street that will even require more parking spaces?

(I'm concerned by) the sheer volume of DDAs (Downtown Development Authorities) and the financial obligations that they've placed on school districts in the state ... It has created almost a billion-dollar problem for Engler in his attempt to refinance the schools. What is he going to do with all of the money that has been coming out of the school districts for the existing projects, $280 million? The state is going through the same thing the city is.

Mark Cryderman

Mark P. Cryderman, 47, was appointed to the city council in September, 1992. The former planning commissioner moved to Northville with his family seven years ago and soon became involved with the community as a member of the 1987 library location committee. He joined the city's zoning board of appeals in 1988 and joined the planning commission in 1992.

Mark Cryderman

On the council, Cryderman has served as liaison to the Northville Housing Commission, which operates Allen Terrace, and as liaison to the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

He and his wife Mary Jane have four college-age children.

Record: What big issues do you think the city is going to be grappling with in the near future, and how can the city council deal with them?

ture and how we're going to pay for all of these things. I'm in favor of trying to look at it from a big picture and, to compare it to you and I, rather than every time I need something going out and using my credit card and then paying interest on it over time. I'd be much more in favor of trying to develop some kind of a fund that we could have so that we could pay for it on our own ...

Cryderman: Well, I think the major issue that we're still dealing with, and I guess the immediate one, is parking. We're still dealing with what we're going to do there, what are the trade-offs of paying for parking and having additional commercial base. I'm in favor of trying to develop a commercial and retail base here because the more we develop that base, the less taxes the rest of us pay.

When you do that, obviously you reduce your expense because you're not paying any interest, and in the meantime you're making money on your money while you're saving it.

I think that's good in a way but on the other hand I'm not necessarily a proponent of growth. I'm a proponent of quality growth and not mass development.

I think now that we've come into the real world in terms of how we run the city and spend money, and gotten ourselves out of a deficit, the next thing that we have to do is look at long-range how we plan for the capital improvements and capital maintenance that we do in the city, and the parking deck is the most immediate one.

That's certainly an immediate thing but it's part of a bigger issue in Northville. We've gone through a deficit situation, we're pretty much out of that now, we've learned how to control our finances a lot more than we used to, we've been able to get to a balanced budget but we haven't done anything about capital improvement planning. We have roads, we have sidewalks, we've got bridges, we've got dams, we've got mill ponds, we've got all of these things that you can spend money on to improve and fix, and I think we have to start looking at how we're going to do this in the fu-

Record: How do you feel about the latest parking deck plan, Mainstreet '93?

Cryderman: Well, if you look back on the record, I jumped onto the council in the middle of Mainstreet '92 and I had a real problem with Mainstreet '92 because I felt that it was way too expensive. I'm a salesman and I deal with the automobile industry, and in the automobile industry whenever you came up with an expense, they say "Come up with something that's

Kevin Hartshorne

Kevin Hartshorne, 39, has been a Northville resident since he was 10 years old.

Kevin Hartshorne

Hartshorne's community involvement has included stints on the Northville Jaycees as vice president of community development, vice president of management development, president and chairman of the board, and memberships at Our Lady of Victory Parish and the Eagles Club.

Record: That leads me to my next question on the parking deck project and its many different incarnations, the latest one being Mainstreet '93. What do you think of that plan?

Hartshorne has run a restaurant services business since 1987 and has been an employee of Ford Motor Company's Wixom plant since 1990.

Hartshorne: (I'm concerned by) the sheer volume of DDAs (Downtown Development Authorities) and the financial obligations that they've placed on school districts in the state ...

He and his wife Dolores have two children, Katie, 5 and Kevin, 2. A graduate of Northville High School, Hartshorne went on to earn a liberal arts degree from Schoolcraft College and a degree in hotel and restaurant management from Michigan State University's college of business.

It has created almost a billion-dollar problem for Engler in his attempt to refinance the schools. What is he going to do with all of the money that has been coming out of the school districts for the existing projects, $280 million? I mean, the state is going through the same thing the city is.

Record: What do you think of the direction that the city's going in general, and do you think it should be changed?

I think there are 100 tax increment financing authority projects that are stalled because of this plan, and they have lost their ability to take money from the schools, and I think that's a good thing. But what I think is going to happen ... in the news yesterday there was an article that Engler has authorized or will authorize the cities to add to their millage between 2 and 6 mills to cover existing debt to pay for their bond issues. Now I think we're getting a better look at what would have happened to us had we proceeded with Mainstreet '78. The theory was that it wasn't going to cost us any money, it wasn't going to raise our taxes, but in practice it very well could have raised our taxes up to 6 mills in the city to pay for the parking deck.

Hartshorne: I think you have to be impressed with the progress that the city's made and where we're at right now. Where the city's going is the question as we redevelop Main Street. The monster on Main Street here, MainCentre, as they refer to it, is a good example of a redevelopment of Northville. That's not exactly the kind of development I'd like to see in the future. I know the same people that built this building want to build another building across the street, CadyCentre, another four-story giant to connect to their previous investment. And I would have to ask the question, with the parking situation the way it is, why would you want to exacerbate the problem by building another building right across the street that will even require more parking spaces?

Personally I'd like to see if a parking deck is ever reconstructed — I think someday it will be reconstructed — the parking deck extend out to Main Street, or out to Sheldon Road, and I think if Singh wants to develop a commercial building of that type in the city, it should be developed along the Cady Corridor further away from the center of town.

Charles Keys

Charles H. Keys, 47, currently serves on the city's planning commission. A former Detroit police officer, Keys moved to Northville in 1988 and has been involved in the community ever since.

the city ... I know from talking to my wife and talking to other women who work, there's nothing in town for them.

Past affiliations include stints on the city's Economic Development Council, Northville Youth Assistance Advisory Board, Southwest Detroit Community Mental Health Board of Directors.

We need to market Northville, we need to open up Northville, and let people know Northville exists. Otherwise, the merchants in town won't do the kind of business they need to do to survive.

Keys ran his own marketing and management consulting firm until recently, when he joined the National Health Insurance Agency as a licensed insurance agent.

Record: About the parking deck plan — the long-delayed Mainstreet plan — how do you feel about that project as it was last proposed?

Keys spent four years at Wayne State University majoring in several fields. He is married to Mary Elwart-Keys and they have two children, Jason, 22 and Rebecca, 16.

Record: What do you see as some of the major issues facing the city in coming years?

Keys: Probably the biggest major issue that I see facing the city is the growth surrounding our city — that's in Novi, Northville Township, Livonia and even Salem. Take Novi Road for example. Just north of Eight Mile you've got a new shopping center there, there's plans to widen Novi Road. That has to impact the city. Northville Township, tremendous expansion going on. Most of that township isn't even developed yet. That has to affect the city. All of these expansion projects have to impact the life of us who live in the city here. We need to be prepared to meet that impact.

For example, parking. Parking, in my opinion, is not that great of a problem, but it is a problem and it's only going to get much worse, and it's going to get worse quickly. We need some viable businesses in this town that meet the demands of this population. For example, if you live here in Northville in the city and your wife needs to buy a dress suit to go to work in, there isn't any store in point, and what role can the city play, if any, in making it more viable?

Keys: The fact that we have a new bank coming in town, that says something, with Standard Federal moving in where the Heritage bank is.

Is it viable? Oh, definitely. Tremendous potential. Once Northville is marketed, and I have a lot of skills in marketing, the downtown businesses will do better when more people know that downtown Northville exists.

I work with people all over the metropolitan Detroit area, and most of them have never heard of Northville. We had a few friends that we invited to the Victorian Festival, they loved Northville. But they didn't know that it existed.

Northville has a lot of assets. It's a nice place to dine, it's a nice place to shop, and it's a tremendous place to live. One of my biggest priorities when I get on council, if I get on council, is to maintain Northville as a nice, safe, secure place to live.

I think we have to support our police departments and fire departments with the right kind of equipment so they can respond to whatever the needs are out there. That also maintains our property values, the fact that this is a safe community to live in and the fact that you can go to bed every once in a while and forget to lock your front door and not worry about it, the fact that your kids can go outside and play, the fact that you can walk around the neighborhood and everyone knows you, everyone knows your dog.

This is a tremendous community to live in. You can walk to the library, walk to shopping. This reminds me of the neighborhood I grew up in, this is what I want to preserve. Yet at the same time we have to keep it open and we have to allow other businesses to move into this area to meet additional needs. This is a very old, traditional community that is changing. Slowly, but it's changing.

Record: For the better?

Keys: Oh definitely, definitely. Most change, I think, is for the better. In my life I change all the time. I read constantly. I just finished reading one of Tom Peters' books and he talks about the need to change, most importantly because change brings out creative development, creative ideas. One of the ideas Tom Peters talks about is if something works, change it, because that keeps the creative process alive, and it makes people and businesses flourish. And this is what we're all about and this is what's interesting. That's what makes my life interesting.

Record: Any ideas to change the city council, providing you do get on?

Keys: I don't have a problem with the direction our city council and our city administration have gone in. The debt that we were forced into through the racetrack (funding), the city is doing a fantastic job of coming out of that, they'll come out of it early. They've made budget cuts, all the departments have been cut, but look at where we are today. I was at the city council meeting when Plante & Moran spoke. Yeah, we still do have some problems, but not as many as we had before. The direction is going uphill, not downhill.

The city council has been very responsive. For example, I'm on the planning commission. We changed some zoning. The people in that area who didn't like what we did, they came to a council meeting and the council reversed our decision. . . . Do I think they need to be more sensitive to people? Yes, I do. Do I think they need to be more sensitive to the needs of our business area? Yes, I do.

Record: What do you see your role on the council as being? How would you foster that increased sensitivity to people and to businesses?

Keys: I live and I work in Northville. I'm in town most of the day. I talk to people, I talk to businesspeople, I talk to homeowners. I talk to senior citizens that use the senior center. I use the library myself and talk to other people that use the library. . . . Our most valuable resource is people. We need to encourage the development of our existing people, and that's in all of our programs. The recreation department, too — I think they're doing a fantastic job. I think Pat Orr at the library is doing a great job. It's difficult running those departments when there's a lack of money. But I think some of the decisions or most of their decisions have been good, because they're experiencing the growing pains of this community. Homeowners, consumers want to pay less taxes yet at the same time there's a need for more taxes because costs have gone up. We have equipment that needs to be replaced. We have departments that need to be expanded. So you've got to balance that, and the way to balance that is to get out and talk to people and find out what they really want. Maybe the council should have some of their meetings in different areas of the city just to bring in some more people, to kind of open up their doors. The council definitely needs to get out into the community more. I know I've talked to Gary Word about getting out into the community. Gary would love to but he doesn't have the time. But in my opinion that should be a priority. . . .

You go to the meetings and there's very few people there. So how do we know what they want? Do we know because they don't complain? I don't think that's a good way to judge. Most people don't go to council meetings because you've got families where the husband and wife work, they work all day, they've got kids, they come home at the end of the day and they want to be with their kids and relax. They don't have time to go to meetings, so we need to find some way to communicate with those people. And if it's having a council member go to a church just to talk to people when people come out of church on Sundays, whether it's to walk through downtown more during the week and talk to people, shoppers, homeowners, businesspeople, to find out what they're looking for, because as a community our needs are changing.

One of my priorities would be in helping the city run the city like a business, make business decisions based on income. I think that has to be a big priority. The demands are increasing greater than revenue. So we need to be very aware of expenditures, we've got to make some real business decisions, we've got to cut where we have to cut. Sure we'd like new vehicles, new equipment, but we may not be able to afford it.

Record: One of Gov. Engler's budget proposals has been to drastically cut state-shared revenues. How does the city cope with declining revenues when people are looking for expanded services or trying to keep their services the same?

Keys: We need to find out what people value. I think the people of this community really value a library. I don't see the city or the township really responding to that. The fact is, the library is important, the senior citizen's center is important. The schools are in the paper every Monday and Thursday with what they need. We have the recreation department, we have the senior department, we have Northville Youth Assistance, and the library, of course. Those needs have to be met but they have to be prioritized. We only have X amount of dollars and Engler keeps cutting more and more every year, and that will be the future.

No one likes to talk about raising taxes. There may come a time when that may have to happen. I hope not, I hope we can continue to reduce expenditures, yet at the same time maintain quality service.

You hear some criticisms about how city hall is run, how there's too many people, how they're not working. I don't think that's true. I've been in city hall a lot. I think the staff there, they're very friendly, very helpful, and I think that's a good asset and there's a value to that. We pay our taxes because we want to be treated nicely. . . .

Record: What do you think of the district library plan to levy between 1-2 mills of dedicated, voter-approved millage and possibly, if the community wants it, build a new facility on West Cady?

Keys: Anything that's voter-approved is fine with me. Would I vote for it? Yes, I would. The quality of your library is almost a measuring stick of your community values, are schools. We need to have good schools. But there comes a time when being A-plus-plus and being A-plus — there isn't that much of a difference.

Record: So how would you grade the current library facility?

Keys: The current library facility is poor. It's noisy and it's not because people are noisy in there, it's a small area and there are a lot of people in there. That has to change, and it's just a matter of time. I hope it stays in the downtown area.

half as much and does the same thing." Basically, I made a comment in one of the council meetings that I thought it was too expensive. I thought we could do two decks for much less money, and I'm happy to say that Greg Presley picked up on that and within two weeks we had a proposal for two decks, for much less money. At that point, a lot of people who were very strongly opposed to Mainstreet '92, although some of them still had some objections, they felt that it was a decent compromise and they could live with it. That was what I was looking for, something that could get us where we wanted to go but make it a lot less money and a lot more palatable to a lot of people.

Record: Speaking of downtown projects, what do you think of the district library plan?

Cryderman: I'm in favor of the district library. The library right now is up to the whims of two city governments, and we see a situation right now where the township has at least temporarily frozen their funds, which then affects what the city does. . . .

A district library has the ability to go out on their own, get their funding, be in control of their own destiny, develop their own plans, and I think they can go a lot farther with that than they can the way we sit right now. The library as it is is very small and underfunded.

Record: How about their proposal for a new facility on West Cady, provided voters approve it or they get some sense from the community that it's desired?

Cryderman: That's fine with me, the key is will voters approve it. They have a couple of plans as I understand it, one being a maintenance plan with a long-term savings and the other a closer-term facility, and I think they're going to put it to a vote and that's good, because it'll be up to the community to vote for what they want.

Record: The impression I get is that they're doing these public hearings and a phone survey and a mail-in survey now to determine which way to go with that, and when they come to the voters in August, they'll be presenting one plan or another.

Cryderman: See, that's great. They're going to the people and saying, "What do you want?" That's really important, rather than saying "We've got to give you this."

Early on in my involvement around here I was on a committee to look at relocating the library and at that time we got some input from consultants and those consultants were fairly strong that you needed a library in the downtown area, that the library was like another store and they all fed on each other and helped each other.

So I was and have been in favor of a library downtown. The Cady site was one site we looked at and the Ford plant was still in the equation at that point and there were a lot of other things going on, but I think it's certainly a good potential site.

It's nice and close to downtown, it's close to a main street, whether or not we can work out parking and all that with the surrounding usages will be another issue. But overall, the location's good. I think the fact that people keep coming back to the same site says it's probably got something going for it because it's been recommended more than once over time.

Record: How would you rate the economic viability of downtown Northville and what role can the city council play in preserving or enhancing it?

Cryderman: Well, I think in terms of occupancy the downtown is in very good shape. When we have a store that opens up or a building that opens up, they tend to fill back up pretty fast. And if you look around downtown there's two or three vacancies but all except one, I think, are being redone, so we've got pretty much a full occupancy.

You do hear some criticism about the mix. They don't want just all cutsey stores, they want specific stores. Unfortunately, the city council can't do anything about what the mix of stores is in the downtown. We'd like to encourage certain things but there's nothing we can do to do that, that's more the chamber of commerce. But what we can do is make this a nice community to live in, and if it's a nice community to live in it's also a nice community to shop in and it'll attract people through that.

Also, we get back to the parking again, making it convenient for people to shop from outside the community as well as inside the community. . . . We need to make the downtown a nice place not only for shoppers, but also for merchants. A merchant's going to look at all the different things that are going to bring somebody to a shop. It's location, location, location. He's looking at traffic patterns, the incomes of the people around there and he's looking at the accessibility to a shop.

Record: How can the city cope with declining state revenues? Obviously the city's already had some experience with that with the loss of racetrack revenues. How can that process continue? What could be cut and how do you prioritize?

Cryderman: Well, I don't think you can literally cut a service. We have some essential services we offer and I don't think you can eliminate police or fire or any of those things. I think we have to do what we've done before, we had a big cut then we learned how to live with it. The latest I've heard is that we'll keep that revenue-sharing from the state, although the personal property tax — I'm not sure what's going to happen with that.

I just think we have to stay on the same plan we're on now. We cut a lot of money out of the city budget and the city still runs efficiently. It's like any quality journey that you go on. You don't just stop and say, "OK, we cut this much out, now we're all done." I think we have to keep going. We have to keep finding ways to deliver at least the same level of service at lower cost. The joint services that we're looking at is a good example, with the police being the first thing we're looking at.

One of the things suggested in the audit report was a review of our assets. I think we have to do that and look at how we're utilizing all our assets. If we have a truck and 95 percent of the time it sits there and 5 percent of the time we use it, that's not a good asset.

We've just really started on the journey and I think there's a long way we can go with it. I think there's more improvements we can make. If that means just staying even with declining state revenues, or if the revenues stay the same then maybe we could cut our costs and cut our expense to the taxpayers, either way. But I think the people in the city demand a certain level of service. Just going around talking to people, one of the big things I hear in the downtown area is people complaining because they don't sweep the streets the way they used to. That's not something I had thought of, but I got a lot of comments to that effect, so people are watching that.

Record: What has your role on the council been since you've been appointed, and how would it continue?

Cryderman: I'd really like to think I'm a voice of the people. I really like to make my opinion secondary. There's been some things that have come up in front of the council and I had a certain opinion on them, but a lot of them were neighborhood issues and the neighborhood came in and said "We don't want this." It's their neighborhood, and I think we should listen to that, and we do.

I haven't done it on the council but we had one issue before the planning commission where Bealtown had a zoning issue, and I actually tried to take a poll and see what the majority viewpoint was and I was able to do that and say, "OK, that's the majority viewpoint in the neighborhood and therefore, that's how I vote."

I'd like to think I'm a bit of a budget watchdog. On the other hand, I'm not going to go after every nickel and dime just on the basis of spending. What I want to do is look at everything as an investment, and if that investment within a reasonable period of time either gives us the same service at a lower cost or better service at the same cost, then to me that's a good investment and I'm willing to spend money on it. I want to look at everything like a business and look at it on an investment basis.

Township police pension plan offers new options for union

tains Manulife rather than opting to go with another company. Employees will be able to switch their retirement funds over to the new plan without cost or penalty.

The cost to the employee to change pension providers was a major concern for committee members after they learned some long-term employees could stand to lose money if the township switched companies.

"We were dissatisfied with Manulife because it limited us to a fixed interest rate," Werth said. "But we are happy with Manulife's new program because it allows the employees to stay on the fixed rate if they want to, but there are also other investment opportunities."

"There is no cost to upgrade this policy because this is just a modification of the existing program," Werth said.

Werth said his desire to stick with Manulife was two-fold. He said he voted with the committee because of the flexibility the new plan offers and because he learned that if the township switched companies some employees could lose and lose big.

"In the current contract, if you leave Manulife to go to another company you lose market value on your accrued retirement, in some cases that could be as much as $10,000 for some employees."

Township Supervisor Karen Baja agreed to back the plan because it offered employees flexibility without cost or penalty.

"As I understand it there is no penalty to rollover to the new plan," she said. "So there's no potential for loss, but there are more options for choice."

Trustee Mark Abbo was willing to support the motion as long as the new policy wouldn't take anything away from the employees' package.

"This gives them more and takes away nothing," he said.

There was some hesitation among board members to accept the new plan until Werth assured them the change had won unanimous acceptance from the entire staff.

Werth said the committee surveyed all township employees earlier this year. Each replied affirmatively to a written poll that accompanied their paychecks.

But that didn't jibe with at least two department heads' reaction to the pension discussion. Both Chief Building Official Mick Kruszewski and Planning Administrator Carol Maise seemed shocked the New Dimensions plan was before the board for approval.

"This is the first I've heard of it," an angry Kruszewski told trustees.

The only question the chief building official had for Werth and the trustees was whether or not there was a new vesting period.

"I'm talking about a lot of money in there," he said.

Kruszewski was angry he hadn't been notified even though he did cast his ballot for the new plan.

Both he and Maise admitted filling out the survey but didn't think it ended their discussion on the issue. After hearing the benefits of the new plan, each agreed to support it.

Joint services urge board to reconsider freeze

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Trustees tonight will get their first detailed look at the proposed 1994 township budget that has shared service department heads up in arms.

The tentative $4.1 million budget is the product of a five-person budget review committee spearheaded by Treasurer Rick Engelland and Finance Director Dwayne Harrigan.

An overview of the proposal shows that the committee tucked away $100,000 for salary and merit increases, another $60,000 to replace the roof on township hall and $105,000 in capital improvement projects in the police, fire and planning departments.

News of the budget raised eyebrows when shared service department heads learned last week their budget allocations for the new year were being frozen at the same level as last year's.

According to the cover letter from the committee members that was sent to the trustees, each of the four shared services had requested an increase. Northville Parks and Recreation and the Northville Seniors both sought a six percent increase. Northville Public Library requested a 10 percent increase in its contribution from the township while Northville Youth Assistance asked for a 36 percent jump.

Collectively, the four shared services had requested $30,000 more in the upcoming year — $30,000 more than what committee members were willing to shell out.

"Our committee felt that funding levels for each shared service should be determined jointly between the township and the city," the committee wrote in the cover memo to the trustees. "We feel a Blue Ribbon Committee can agree on funding guidelines for all shared services over, say, a five year period, and eliminate any uncertainties through this balance of this board's term and beyond."

The proposed freeze won little support from shared service department heads who all wrote letters to the township budget review committee and to the trustees urging members of both bodies to reconsider.

Tracl Johnson, director of parks and recreation, claims the budget freeze means a $6,905 loss in park revenue from the township and another $4,251 from the city. The freeze jeopardizes the opening of Community Park on Beck Road and relieves a full-time maintenance person from his job.

For the senior citizens, the proposed freeze means a $1,834 loss of revenue from the township and an additional $1,087 gauge from the city. That means the senior center will see a reduction in business hours and the elimination of cleaning services.

It was a similar story for Mary Ellen King as the director of Northville Youth Assistance. Her 1994 budget request for an additional $1,208 was also denied. To her that means NYA won't be getting a new computer and two part-timers won't see a salary increase next year either.

King said her fund balance has been depleted and any decrease in her revenues would mean a decrease in NYA services.

It seems the hardest hit again this year is the Northville Public Library. Without the 10 percent increase Director Pat Orr was seeking from the township and city, Orr won't be able to cover wages and benefits under negotiations with the Michigan Clerical Employees Association.

In addition, Orr said there will be cuts across the board, including reductions in staff and business hours and cutbacks on book subscriptions and information purchases.

Members of the township's Beautification Commission were just as unhappy with the committee's recommendation to trim the commission's budget from $2,500 to $500.

Commission chairman Celia Larsen urged the board to reconsider the committee's recommendation to wipe out her budget.

"We work strictly as volunteers," she wrote in a letter dated Oct. 25. "If we have no budget, then you have no Beautification Commission."

Pay for the trustees who serve as liaisons to the planning commission and zoning board of appeals was also cut for a $1,100 savings.

Budget review committee members were generous enough to include $10,500 for one dirt road treatment application in the 1994 budget. But at the same time committee members urged the board of trustees to make a decision soon on how to resolve the gravel road issue.

The comments included in the committee's cover letter seemed to indicate their opinion on the issue.

The committee struggled with recommending zero, one or two applications. We feel the Board should make that decision, hopefully soon, and advise homeowners of Special Assessment District procedures if necessary."

The committee will present the rest of its recommendations to the trustees tonight at a 7:30 p.m. study session. A public hearing has been scheduled for Nov. 1.

Language arts handbook is parent-friendly

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Don't expect any complicated explanations in a handbook outlining the new language arts curriculum for the Northville public schools.

The 16-page blue handbook was designed for and written by parents. Its question and answer format explains clearly what parents should expect in the new curriculum and how they can get involved in their children's learning.

"I think it's important for parents to have as much information as they can about what's going on in the schools," said Joan Wadsworth, one of the parents on the committee who wrote the book.

Copies of handbook available in schools

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

The parent-written handbook explaining the new K-6 language arts curriculum addresses concepts such as phonics and whole language and encourages parents to get involved in the educational process.

"Parents play key roles as their children learn to speak, listen, read and write," parent committee members Kathi Jerome, Diana Stadtmiller, Angela Thomson and Joan Wadsworth, wrote in the book's introduction.

Research proves what may seem obvious: parental involvement in their child's education significantly enhances children's success.

Questions addressed in the handbook include what is the language arts curriculum and why the curriculum and try to involve them in that process.

Jerome has a fifth grader at Moraine and a sophomore attending the high school. She said the handbook will be a reference guide parents can tuck away until they have a question.

"We tried to appeal to all different types of parents," she said. "There is the nurturer who wants to see lots of good things coming home and then there's the analytical (parent) who says, 'I want to see how you arrive at this.'"

Stadtmiller, also a former English teacher, said she too was happy with the outcome of the handbook.

"We either answered the questions or provoked enough thought to ask more questions," she said.

Stadtmiller was equally impressed with the video the district produced demonstrating the language arts curriculum in action.

"That was quite an experience," Stadtmiller said. "It was great fun... it really shows that pictures speak more than 1,000 words."

Copies of the video are located in each elementary and middle school library.

Stadtmiller has both a son in kindergarten at Silver Springs and a daughter attending Meads Mill Middle School. Thomson also has children attending each of those schools.

"I think there are a lot of parents who don't understand the changes in the language arts curriculum and I think the book explains those changes," Thomson said. "... It's a valuable community contact."

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent of instructional services, said she believes the handbook will be a powerful tool in educating parents.

"There's nothing more powerful than peer to peer in trying to share information," she said.

McMaster said that while the teachers finished grade level aspects of the curriculum, the parent members of the committee brainstormed about what questions parents may have about the new curriculum.

"They wrote a rough draft and reworked it two or three times," McMaster said.

After "field-testing" the handbook with teachers and parents, the committee brought back the book and put the finishing touches on it before handing it out at school open houses in September.

McMaster said it was very beneficial for parents to become involved in such district endeavors as the language arts curriculum committee. In the past, parents have played roles in the health, district exit outcome and high school math curriculum committees and in the strategic plan.

"We have a good track record that shows pretty substantial parent involvement," she said.

Steve Lautzenheiser studied the homing instincts of lemon sharks near the islands of Bimini.

High schooler bites at chance to study sharks in waters near Bimini islands over summer

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Most teenagers would have been at least a little scared, sailing around on a ship for seven days in shark-infested waters, in an unfamiliar country, not knowing a soul.

But not Steven Lautzenheiser. The Northville High School senior jumped at the chance to study lemon sharks near the islands of Bimini this summer. Lautzenheiser learned of the expedition through Dwight Sieggreen, Cooke Middle School science teacher.

"I wasn't really that scared," Lautzenheiser said. "I was more leery at first."

The mission was to study the homing abilities of lemon sharks under the direction of Wesley Strong, a doctoral candidate from the University of California-Santa Barbara. After dark, the crew of seven would go out on the boats and capture the sharks with gill nets. Then crew members surgically applied a transmitter before the sharks were displaced two miles off the island.

"When we released it (the shark) we would track it until it got back to where we found it," Lautzenheiser explained.

The reason why the expeditions were conducted at night was because sharks are more active at night, he added.

The sharks were located with a hydrophone, an underwater radar device.

While Lautzenheiser and the crew handled juvenile sharks, about 3-foot in length, lemon sharks do grow to 6- to 8-foot long.

"Sharks aren't as bad as people think they are," the 17-year-old said.

One of the sharks was even attacked by dolphins, he added. The trip was particularly interesting for Lautzenheiser who wants to be a marine biologist.

"I thought the (trip) was exciting and an opportunity of a lifetime," said Maurine Lautzenheiser, Steven's mother.

"It was good practical experience in what a marine biologist does," Steven's father, Jerry, added.

Although he was never bitten by a shark, the thought of being attacked had crossed Lautzenheiser's mind. The crew had to physically flip the sharks over to put them to sleep. "They feel like they kind of have little teeth all over," he said.

When the expedition was over, the crew realized that most of the sharks returned to the same place they started from. The longest time for a shark to return was 22 hours while the shortest was six hours, according to Lautzenheiser.

Schools find alternative lesson plans for those not taking aptitude tests

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

While Northville High School sophomores were busy taking their Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests, ninth graders were learning how to put together a student portfolio.

While some Juniors were taking the science portion of the MEAP test, seniors were attending a mini college fair.

These and a host of other activities were created during the MEAP testing week at the high school to polish up some rough spots in the previous program.

The response from the community... is that everything went very smoothly," said high school counselor Patrick O'Connor. "It was an awful lot of things to coordinate at once."

"This caused the least amount of interruption we've ever had before," assistant superintendent for instructional services Dolly McMaster said about the new program.

Between the two days of MEAP testing, freshmen students not taking the test also listened to a United States Air Force pilot, worked on career exploration activities with the DISCOVER computer career and college search program and watched videos addressing study skills and how to choose a college.

Seniors not taking the MEAP or the PSAT tests listened to the Air Force pilot as well as a representative from the DeVry Institute, an educational program that emphasizes trade/technical/vocational types of education. A Schoolcraft College representative also spoke with students.

Representatives from Oakland, Michigan State and Illinois Wesleyan universities, the University of Michigan and Schoolcraft College were also on hand for the seniors' mini college fair.

"They answered general questions about college admission and then the students were able to speak with two of the five representatives more closely," O'Connor said.

A financial aid officer from Eastern Michigan University also spoke to the entire group.

On the second day of testing, seniors held a class meeting in the morning and later listened to a two-hour AIDS awareness presentation by Dee Dee Grutins-Ginsberg, who is affiliated with a downtown Detroit hospital.

"I think the students not involved in the testing found the guest speakers very interesting," O'Connor said. "I think the students taking the test thought it was a much smoother process."

In the past, the MEAP was administered in a special classroom for only an hour at a time.

"This way they had the time to sit and concentrate on the test for as long as they basically needed," O'Connor said.

The process will more than likely be used again next year, but will be reviewed.

"I think this will set us off in the right direction," O'Connor said.

Students in the fourth, seventh and 10th grades are required to take the math and reading portions of the MEAP while fifth, eighth and 11th graders take the science part of the test.

Make-ups are being administered this week, as all testing will be completed by tomorrow.

cats can't get too far behind and expect to comeback.

"We have to try and not get overwhelmed," he added. "We have to stay as close as possible."

Neither coach cared to make a prediction. Schumacher said Northville will be ready to play.

"I have a lot of confidence in our kids," he said.

How have the previous Baseline battles turned out? Here's a quick summary of the previous Jug games:

● In 1988, Novi went into the game undefeated and state ranked. The Wildcats couldn't hold a 6-4 halftime lead as Northville scored three second half touchdowns to win 23-18. Novi had won its previous 23 regular season games.

● The Wildcats went in again as the heavy favorites in 1989 and looking for a third straight state playoff appearance. Northville, which was just 2-6 going in, scored a late touchdown to win 10-7.

● The 1990 game was never in doubt. Northville led 3-0 at half and cruised home for a 17-0 shutout. The Mustangs made the state playoffs with a 6-3 record.

● The Mustangs made it four straight in 1991 with a come-from-behind 24-14 victory. Novi scored two early touchdowns to take a 14-0 lead. Neither squad went to the state playoffs.

● Novi finally wrestled the Jug away from Northville, thanks largely to Lahti. He helped the Wildcats overcome an eight-point hole in the fourth quarter for the win and passed for nearly 200 yards.

Police seek upgraded pension plan

quizzed Werth after he presented a pension fund committee's recommendation to the board of trustees last Thursday.

An angry Werth was quick to tell Baja Thursday's public meeting was no arena in which to air secretive contract issues.

"I don't think this is the appropriate time to talk about it," Werth said about the patrol and command union's desire for a pension program that's different from the one trustees approved last week.

"The unions want to upgrade the existing program but even then the existing Manulife program isn't what the township or the unions are proposing at the table," he said.

Werth said he and Township Lieutenant Gary Batzloff, who represents the townships' command officers union, signed a letter in June that said even though both would be receptive to looking at upgrading the existing pension plan, their willingness to research the issue "is in no way meant to be interpreted as a contract proposal."

Werth's comments were backed by Township Manager Bill Richards who seemed equally disturbed that Baja would drag contract issues into the board room.

"I agree this is no place to be discussing that," he said.

Baja backed off from the conversation while Werth stormed out in anger. Even though trustees approved an upgraded pension plan that offers employees more investment opportunities with no cost or penalty, the plan still contains far less than what police officers are seeking in their pension and far more than what the township is willing to offer.

The detective said the township is seeking the same pension plan that's in effect now, only it would be administered by another company, ICMA, rather than Manulife. In contrast, Werth said his officers are seeking an entirely new package with more investment opportunities and a guaranteed retirement.

Two weeks ago it was Werth who filed for arbitration on behalf of his union to settle the patrol and command officers' contracts with Northville Township. Among the three issues on which the two sides have failed to reach an agreement is the police department's pension fund. Wages and longevity pay are the other two.

As the union representative for the Northville Township Patrol Officers Association Werth said he and the other officers are hoping to change the existing pension plan from a defined contribution system to a defined benefit program.

The change, he said, will provide officers with a guaranteed percenttage of their income when they retire.

It will also allow officers to draw off of their pensions after their 50th birthday, if the township agrees to change the pension company it now employs. Under the current system and because of deficiencies in the present system, Werth said few older officers in Northville Township can afford to retire now.

"These older guys would have to work until 65 to retire comfortably," he said. "There are going to have to be 65 year old police officers working the roads in Northville Township. They are going to die on the roads. It shouldn't be like that."

That is what township police are attempting to avoid by asking the township to move towards a defined benefit pension plan. The plan would provide a guaranteed income for officers rather than what the current defined contribution provides.

According to Werth, there are several officers in Northville nearing retirement. Those officers, he said, have provided the township with an average of 17 years of service and have little to show in their retirement accounts or far less than what was promised to them under the existing program.

Eight years ago the township contributed five percent of the annual salary towards the officers' retirements. The last three year contract, which expired in April, saw incremental increases to nine, 12 and 14 percent for each year of the contract. That's still lower than the 15 percent officers in Plymouth and Canton are banking on.

"Fifteen percent is a good number," Werth said. "It is a comfortable retirement that even the younger guys can retire on."

But township officers aren't banking 15 percent, nor are their salaries and longevity pay comparable to those in adjacent communities, Werth said.

That's why the patrol and command unions are negotiating for a new pension package with the Michigan Employees Retirement System or MERIS. Under MERIS' proposed plan, township officers will be guaranteed 62 percent of their wages when they retire.

Opponents of the township's police plan contend police are looking for the defined benefit plan as a way for taxpayers to foot the bill for their entire retirement plan.

Werth disagrees.

"I have never said that it is the township's sole responsibility to fund the retirement system," he said. "In fact just the opposite is true. Some of our employees are putting money into a deferred compensation income system because it's where their money works for them."

Mill Race Matters

One Sunday remains to visit Mill Race Village during its annual summer/fall viewing season. Buildings are open and docents are available on Sunday from 2 until 5 p.m. The docents will share with you their knowledge of these historic buildings taken from the Northville community.

The village is open at other hours for quiet walks and peaceful contemplation. Fall is always a pleasant time to visit the village located along the banks of the Rouge River and adjacent to the Mill Pond.

A special viewing event occurs a few weeks later. Mill Race will be open for its annual Christmas Walk on Nov. 20 and 21 from noon until 5 p.m. Again all buildings will be open and special Christmas gifts will be available for sale. Usually additional entertainment occurs.

Be sure to stop in and make Mill Race a part of your holiday plans. Board members are discussing plans for a special member Christmas party. Details are not yet finalized, but members should be hearing more in the weeks to come. Also the Historical Society annual Wine Tasting party is scheduled before the end of the year.

Resignations by Kathryn Peel and Susan Lapine make available two positions on the Northville Historical Society board. Kathryn was elected secretary this year and Susan had served as director in charge of publications and publicity recently. She also spearheaded and coordinated the recently completed Strategic Plan for the organization.

Any members interested in becoming more involved should call Sally at 348-1845 to volunteer. The board meets on the third Thursday of each month year round.

Because this is a volunteer organization the board does a great deal more than set policy. It is a working board and board members usually coordinate or oversee most of the events which occur at the village and for the Historical Society throughout the year. The job requires time and a great deal of patience. Since the organization is volunteer your only reward is self satisfaction and the opportunity to work with a group of dedicated, hardworking volunteers like yourself.

Kathryn was new to the group, but during her short term brought enthusiasm and a burst of new ideas. Susan had served for several years. She was instrumental in the all-member survey conducted about three years ago. The results of that well-received survey were brought together in the existent Strategic Plan. The current board wishes to thank each of them for the devotion of their time and talent. The society is truly sorry to see them go.

Thank you this week to Constance (Burgess) Wahlberg for the donation of four Northville High School Palladiums and some additional High School memorabilia as well as a cash contribution to work on the restoration of the 1938 Composite picture project. The composite picture project being coordinated by Martha Nield is still missing the following composites: 1913, 1914, 1916, 1917, 1920, 1928, 1938, 1948, 1951, 1956, 1960, 1968, and 1972-1980. Contributions to aid in the project are welcome and can be sent payable to Northville Historical Society, P.O. Box 71. Donations will be recognized by a brass plaque.

Genitti's to play host to International Society

America, Canada and Japan will come to Italy in Northville at Genitti's rambling and historic restaurant on Main Street. Genitti's will host the greater Detroit/Windsor Japan-America Society, whose members come from all three countries.

Officially dubbed Genitti's Hole-in-The-Wall, the tiny gift shop and restaurant were opened in 1979 by John and Toni Genitti. As their popularity grew, so did the restaurant, which now includes two shops, a little theatre, two bars and five dining areas seating a total of 200 diners.

The Samuel H. Little Theatre opened in the fall of 1992, named after Northville's cultural founder.

Members of the Japan-America Society plan to sample all of this in Northville on Nov. 10 at their "5:01 Club" Gathering. For membership and reservation information, contact Lise Ann Gouin at 963-2940.

Fire department plans party

A parade of Draculas, ghouls and various strange creatures is expected at the Northville Fire Department's annual Halloween party.

The monster bash will take place Halloween night, Sunday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 9 p.m. at the fire station, 215 W. Main.

The feature activity of the event is a costume contest, set for 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center, 303 W. Main. Trophies will be awarded to the ghastliest costumes in five different age brackets: newborn to 3, 4-6, 7-11, 12-15, and 16 and older. Popcorn, apple cider and cotton candy, soft drinks and other treats will be available.

Fire Chief Jim Allen said the streets of downtown are always cordoned off during the annual party, which dates all the way back to the 1960s.

For information, call 349-0770.

Local church plans costume party

Everything for the sports enthusiast will be offered at the Northville Mothers' Club's special sale Saturday, Nov. 6, at Meads Mill. Sarah Carlson (sitting), 12, and sister Lindsey, 10, help display some of the items the sale will feature.

Annual ski/skate sale offers host of sporting merchandise

The Northville Mothers' Club Ski/Skate/Sports Sale will take place from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 6, at Meads Mill Middle School, located south of Six Mile between Haggerty and Northville roads.

The sale will include sports equipment from activities such as golf, tennis, baseball and hockey as well as skates and downhill and cross country skis.

Community members wishing to sell items can drop them off at Meads Mill from 4 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 5. Items for resale will not be accepted on that Saturday.

Ski equipment must be less than seven years old with the manufacturer's DIN number visible. Older equipment may not have bindings and soles which would permit safe adjustments.

Anyone with a large number of items to sell will be provided with tags prior to the sale for early pricing.

The Northville Mothers' Club will receive a 20 percent commission for items sold. Proceeds will benefit Northville schools. For more information, call Sharon Ferrara at 349-1781 or Marie Carlson at 349-1371.

Pumpkins become basis of lessons

A visit to the pumpkin patch (Alexander's Farm Market) paved the way for a totally integrated curriculum for Gayle Mango's second grade classroom at Moraine Elementary.

Twenty-five students, or research scientists, very carefully observed the similarities and differences of pumpkins and pets. The children wrote in their research notebooks about how their pet pumpkins related to a pet at home (authentic real-life experiences).

Utilizing higher level thinking skills to compare and contrast, the students recorded their observations in their research notebooks.

Math was evident as students weighed and measured their own pumpkin with the help of parent volunteers. Classroom discussion was held so the research scientists and authentic mathematicians could report their findings within the language arts of reading, writing, listening and speaking.

Teachable moments within the context of reporting findings and editing were evident through discussion using correct capitalization, punctuation, spelling and sentence structure.

The teaching occurred while informing a student to use a capital "P" in Persian cat, using descriptive words and learning the difference between proper and common nouns as students named their pumpkins.

Clean air proposals watered down

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Drivers in southeastern Michigan will detect little or no change in the vehicle inspection system as the nation moves to comply with the federal Clean Air Act.

The state House of Representatives last week passed two watered down I & M (for inspection and maintenance) bills. The House battle followed months of arguments and phone calls from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"We are preparing to ask for re-designation from a nonattainment to an attainment area for ozone," said Drew Schmidt, a staff member in the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. "Meanwhile, the Legislature must supply contingency measures, and one must be an I & M program."

"It sure is in a state of flux," said E.J. Buss of the governmental affairs office in the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Here is what House Bill 5016, the I & M bill covering southeastern Michigan, looks like as it heads to the state Senate:

- Cost will be $11 for an enhanced vehicle emissions test compared to the current $10. (Earlier versions would have required a $30 test every two years.)

- The program still applies just to Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Unless the EPA rules differently, Livingston, Washtenaw, St. Clair and Monroe counties will stay out.

- You will go to your neighborhood service station annually. Earlier versions called for two-year inspections at a handful of centralized stations—a provision fiercely opposed by service station dealers.

- People on Medicaid get their tests free.

- If your car or truck flunks, you will have to have repairs up to a $200 limit, depending on need. Current limit is $83.

Once you've spent the limit and your vehicle still fails, said MDOT's Buss, "you can get a waiver that says you really tried." Vehicles need a passing grade or a waiver before owners may purchase new registration plates.

A second bill, HB 4165, brings the western counties of Kent (Grand Rapids), Ottawa and Muskegon into an I & M program.

Western lawmakers blame their air pollution on winds from Chicago and the steel mills of Gary, Ind. "In western Michigan, motors will never be able to attain compliance because they can't control the pollution," complained Rep. Jessie Dalman, R-Holland.

MDOT's Buss said a Lake Michigan ozone study, due next April, will determine the truth of that hypothesis. Meanwhile, said Buss, "we have to enforce the (Clean Air) law as written."

Southeastern Michigan's original goal was to reduce air pollutants 15 percent from 1990 levels by 1996. SEMCOG officials call it "a moving target" because each year traffic and emissions get worse.

If the two regions fail to comply with EPA's latest interpretation of the Clean Air Act, the state could lose $500 million in federal highway aid and be ineligible for smokestack permits for new factories.

That's "federal blackmail," said Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills. Kaza also objected to "the multi-million dollar taxpayer subsidy for welfare recipients who need car repairs."

Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, came within two votes of breaking the tiebar between the two bills. A tiebar is a section that says the southeastern Michigan bill doesn't become law unless the western Michigan bill also becomes law.

"There was no reason to tiebar," Whyman said. Breaking the tiebar would have allowed the House to defeat the western Michigan bill without endangering the southeastern Michigan bill.

HB 5016, affecting southeastern Michigan, was passed 65 to 36 with nine absent. Voting yes were Willis Bullard, R-Milford; Tom Middleton, R-Ortonville; Susan Munsell, R-Howell; Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti.

Castings no votes were Dan Gustafson, R-Haslett, and Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth.

House Bill 4165, affecting the western counties, was adopted 57 to 43 with 10 absent. Here's how area representatives voted:

Yes — Bullard, Middleton, Munsell.
No — Gustafson, Profit, Vorva.

How much did you lose last year on nondeductible interest?

FIXED RATE

Maybe you've noticed it while getting your taxes ready. All the interest you've paid on consumer loans that's not deductible.

Well, now's the time to think of a strategy for next year's taxes. And consider borrowing against the equity in your home.

At First of America, we can lock you into a low fixed 7.90 percent APR loan with terms of up to seven years. To make the offer even more attractive, all fees will be waived, so there will be no annual fee, appraisal fees, closing costs or points. And you'll have a fixed monthly payment that will never change.

The sooner you take advantage of it, the more you can save on financing home improvements, education, a car or anything else worthwhile. You can even refinance a loan that you have somewhere else.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to make sure the interest is tax deductible.

We can give qualified applicants fast approval—usually within 24 hours. So stop by any First of America office or call 1-800-443-5465 to apply today. And make last year's nondeductible interest a thing of the past.

Camomile Makes wrinkles almost disappear

Recently, an historic study was conducted in Europe. A group of women whose skin had been damaged by harmful ultraviolet rays of the sun applied a patented Camomile preparation.

In just 3 days, a dramatic smoothing effect occurred with a visible reduction of the fine lines and wrinkles caused by the UV rays. In just 7 days, the skin returned to its healthy, radiant look.

Now this special natural Camomile is available in a luxurious cream under the name CamoCare Facial Therapy.

CamoCare does more than moisturize. It soothes and relaxes the skin—dramatically reducing the appearance of lines and wrinkles caused by sun damage.

Lots of Halloween happenings at Twelve Oaks

Ghostly tunes and tales, store-to-store trick-or-treating, a new haunted house and free photos of anyone in costume will make this year's Halloween the most "spooktacular" ever at Twelve Oaks shopping center.

"This is a wonderful way to celebrate Halloween without having to worry about the weather," observes Elaine Kah, Twelve Oaks marketing director. "No matter how cold or rainy outside, our celebration is water-proof — no coats to hide all those great costumes. It'll be light, bright, safe and warm."

New this year to Twelve Oaks Halloween celebration are two original Halloween shows by the Children's Theater of Michigan and a haunted house backdrop.

The free performances by the innovative family theater company will be in Center Court at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 24, and Sunday, Oct. 31. The show, "Boogah & Hoogah's Silly Spooktacular" is a trick-filled treat featuring two goofy goblins and their ghostly songs, dances, poems, jokes and stories.

The haunted house has creaky shutters that flap in the wind and a flying witch on a broomstick that circles an overhead moon. House lights flash on and off, revealing skeletons in every closet and ghosts galore.

On Sunday, Oct. 31, the Farmington Community Band will play spirited music at 4 p.m. to put everyone in the mood for the center's annual store-to-store trick-or-treating. Trick-or-treating at all 180 Twelve Oaks stores begins at 4:30 p.m. and continues until the center closes at 6 p.m.

"Last year, which was our fifth, we had over 3,000 youngsters," says Kah. "Many store employees wear costumes, too. It's really something to see and be part of."

Complimentary bags for trick-or-treaters are provided by Huron Valley Hospital.

WKQI-FM midday radio personality Kevin O'Neill will host the Halloween events, beginning with the band show at 4 p.m.

To make sure holiday memories haunt them long beyond Halloween, shoppers can stop by Center Court from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31, for free photos of costumed children and adults.

For those who have yet to scare up a costume, Twelve Oaks offers a new seasonal store, Halloween Land, stocked with costumes, masks, wigs and accessories for the holiday.

Twelve Oaks Mall, located at Twelve Mile and Novi Road, features 180 shops and services along with Hudson's, Lord & Taylor, JCPenney, and Sears.

Space-Gard clears the air . . .

Cleans the air of particles you can't even see!

The air we live in and breathe is loaded with dust and pollutant particles (as many as 30 million per cubic foot). Most of these particles are so tiny that only 15% of them are trapped by panel air filters. The remaining 85% are recirculated throughout the home. The Space-Gard air cleaner effectively removes the particles that ordinary filters can't.

Its effectiveness has been thoroughly tested using the Dust Spot Efficiency section of ASHRAE Standard Test Procedure No. 52-76 (the same test used to determine other high efficiency air cleaner performance). Utilizing this test procedure, at 1900 cfm the Space-Gard air cleaner average efficiency is 65% and its efficiency increases as it loads to 88%.

To further substantiate the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner, it has also been tested to accurately determine efficiency on various size particles. The efficiency of any air cleaner varies with the size of the particles in the circulated airstream. On 6 micron particles, for example, the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner is very close to 100%.

The important advantage of the Space-Gard air cleaner is that efficiency increases as it loads—and reaches 98% efficiency on particles as small as 1 micron. Efficiency ratings of the particle size tests with clean, partially loaded and loaded media are reported in the table at lower right.

The Count to appear at downtown theater

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

"Oooh, that's scary!" Those words, often heard around this time of year in the Detroit area, will echo in Northville's Samuel H. Little Theater Oct. 30 as Count Scary makes his first-ever appearance on a live stage.

Scary, a.k.a. Tom Ryan of WOMC Oldies 104.3, is well-known to Detroit-area television viewers and radio listeners for his intros to horror movies and appearances on morning radio shows. But the Count has never appeared in his own theatrical production — until now.

Ryan and longtime collaborator Tom DeLisle are putting the finishing touches on "An Evening with Count Scary — A One-Vampire Show." The show debuts at Genitti's Samuel H. Little Theater, 112 E. Main, this Saturday, Oct. 30, with two performances.

Theater-goers will be treated to a tour of the Count's living room, as some are snatched out of the audience to take part in the performance by Count Scary and Igor, his faithful houseboy. Pamphlets for the production describe the Count as "the scariest man in Detroit. If you don't count the outgoing mayor."

If the show takes off, Ryan said, it may become a regular fixture on the Little Theater stage. "We were talking about doing this annually but we decided to do it just once a year," he said with a smile.

Ryan, in describing his alter ego, said, "He's the oldest living vampire in Detroit. 327 years old give or take a decade."

Perhaps the world's only vaudevilian vampire, Scary's act consists of "a little song, a little dance, a little seltzer down your pants," he said. The Count, whose humor appeals to adults as well as children, is also the only known horror figure to cite Soupy Sales as a major influence.

Count Scary made his television debut 10 years ago on Channel 4, Ryan recalled, introducing that station's first showing of a 3-D movie, a clunker called "Gorilla at Large."

"It was a real stupid movie, but it was 3-D," Ryan said.

The Count went on to host a string of bad movies in 14 local TV specials on three different stations. During one performance of a truly pathetic piece of celluloid, Ryan said, he and DeLisle provided voiceovers a la Mystery Science Theater 3000 in which they mocked the movie unmercifully while it aired. "It made it a hit," he said.

Unfortunately, Ryan and DeLisle forgot to get the station's permission before adding their own slant to the movie's soundtrack.

"My philosophy is it's easier to get forgiveness than permission," Ryan said.

Our Opinion

The choice is clear in city council elections

Tuesday's city council election presents a clear, if limited, choice to Northville City voters. The three candidates for the two open positions represent a range of opinions — from Mark Cryderman's favor of controlled development to Kevin Hartshorne, a candidate worried that the current city council has paid too much attention to developers and businesspeople and not enough to the city's residents.

The candidates also possess a range of experience for the job, from Cryderman's year-long tenure on the council through Charles Keys' planning commission experience and on to Hartshorne, who has no experience in an elected or appointed office but who had played a major role in Northville's now-defunct Jaycees.

The candidates all present reasoned arguments to bolster their positions on various city issues, but their stances do vary. While Cryderman and Keys favor the current district library plan and want any new facility to remain in the city, Hartshorne instead presents a unique idea to expand the recreation center and give the expansion over to a new library rather than build a freestanding structure now.

What worries us about Hartshorne is his tendency to engage in attack politics, criticizing the current city council from the sidelines when it suits him but not often taking a positive role in the governmental process. He rarely shows up at council meetings and when he does, his comments occasionally reflect a lack of knowledge of the basic issues he is discussing.

For example, in the interview in today's Northville Record, Hartshorne notes that the developers of MainCentre plan to build another commercial structure across the street known as CadyCentre, which he described as "another four-story giant to connect to their previous investment." But CadyCentre is planned as a three-story building, not four.

He also has a tendency to play fast and loose with the numbers, accusing the city of "pouring half a million dollars a year into the downtown" when referring to the Mainstreet project, either ignoring or unaware of the fact that the more than half million spent on the project has been paid out over several years.

While not a single brick has been laid, as Hartshorne notes, the city has built a solid foundation for the deck through land acquisition and design work. If anything, the many different variations on the deck plan resulting in the current two-deck proposal represents the city's willingness to acquiesce to the community's desires rather than what Hartshorne sees as the council's efforts to push through a plan in the face of widespread opposition.

Of course, neither Cryderman nor Keys are perfect candidates, if such a candidate exists. While we applaud Cryderman for always taking the resident's desires into account in his decisions, we can envision a time when the council should vote for what's best for the city as a whole despite what some residents might think, and we hope and trust that Cryderman could stand up for the city's best interests.

Keys, though his stance on issues from the parking deck to the district library are not firm, does boast a long history of involvement in a range of city organizations and projects. Like Cryderman, he has worked his way up through the city's board and commission system and made positive contributions along the way.

Therefore, we recommend that city voters cast their ballots for Mark Cryderman and Charles Keys. We feel both men have earned a slot on the council by working within the system to better it, and that they would make every effort to act as a voice for the citizens and always keep the city's best interests at heart.

Not just a stroll through park

Random thoughts and stray notions on various and sundry subjects...

I got pegged to act as a tour guide for the Parks and Rec Department's Haunted Forest Walk in Maybury this past weekend. It was one of those things that you didn't especially look forward to, but once you got started you were glad you to be there.

The event was a blast. Organizers really outdid themselves this year. Tombstones lined the route, skeletons dangled from branches and bloodied body parts littered the ground. A scary maze and a zero-visibility smoke tunnel beckoned.

A creep wearing a glow-in-the-dark hockey mask lurked in the shadows, while another revved a chain saw when you didn't expect it. Witches roasted entrails over a fire and the shrieks of monsters, muggers and zombies shattered the stillness of the night. (Am I having fun writing this or what?)

The cutest remark I heard from anyone on any of the tours I led came from a young girl who was screeching and screaming and generally having the time of her life. In between her expressions of panic she told her father: "We'd better turn around and go home. Don't I have homework to do?"

Tim Richard's column below describes how the Wayne County branch of the Michigan Education Association is irked that Troy teachers accepted salary increases of 1.5-, 3.25- and 3.5-percent over the three-year life of their contract.

Seems the union higher-ups are worried about the precedent-setting possibilities of such a "pitifully low" settlement. They must not have heard that Northville teachers agreed to a salary freeze in the first year and a 3-percent hike in the second year of their new pact.

If the unionists thought the Troy terms were pitiful, what would they call the Northville settlement? Unconscionable, destructive, insane?

In an editorial a few weeks back, we called it responsible.

By now everyone's heard about the passing of Jack Hoffman, enthusiastic civic booster and journalist extraordinaire. We had a big tribute to him in last week's paper.

Hoffman was supposed to attend the 150th anniversary of HomeTown Newspapers' Livingston County Press in Howell on Sunday, Oct. 17. I was looking forward to meeting him, both because of his reputation as an outstanding newsman and because I needed his advice on something.

Hoffman was editor of The Northville Record in 1969 when the publication turned 100. He produced an ambitious special section marking the occasion. In 1994, The Record turns 125 and I was hoping to hear some of Hoffman's ideas on what I could do as a commemorative gesture.

I got to Howell that day and started helping fold up the chairs that had been used in the outdoor tent when I got the word: Jack had died that very morning.

I was stunned, but as Phil Jerome said in his column, Jack's untimely death (is it ever timely?) was a shock but not a surprise. It was no secret he had a weak heart.

Happy Halloween

Many ghouls have been spotted in the Northville area of late.

High school has taken a painful first step

Last Thursday's fiery cultural diversity forum at Northville High School represented a painful but necessary first step toward healing a wound that could, if untreated, tear the school apart.

To recap, the meeting included students shouting accusations of racism and insensitivity at each other and shedding tears as they expressed the pain felt at being the brunt of racial or ethnic attacks. While most of the incidents mentioned — people being bad-mouthed or shoved into lockers for their background or clothing choice — seemed relatively minor, their effect on the student body has been anything but.

The school administration, which already had scheduled a Nov. 9 school-wide address by speaker Jim Tuman on the subject, invited Tuman to last Thursday's forum to begin to address the problem early after an assault on a female student by a male heightened tensions even further. The administration also took the unprecedented step of opening the process up to the press and public. We applaud the administration for doing so, because it's rare that a school takes such a hard look at such a delicate issue and shares what it finds so openly.

School officials have also pledged to keep working on the problem, through after-school forums beginning today and the Nov. 9 presentation by Tuman. We hope they keep that pledge and continue to move forward with the healing process.

Another hopeful sign is the students' own desire to set up their own group along the lines of A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity, to act as a sounding board for future cultural clashes before they get out of hand. Such a forum could provide a much-needed relief valve for mounting ethnic and cultural pressures before they boil over.

As the school population continues to become increasingly diverse, such steps will be more necessary than ever.

High school will always be a traumatic time for students as they begin to broaden the boundaries of their world and formulate the moral and ethical rules that will govern them for the rest of their lives. The school itself can play a crucial role in this process by letting students test out different philosophies and beliefs while assuring they don't act on beliefs that are harmful to others. The school must also make clear that hating an entire class of people for no other reason than that they are members of that class is wrong, and we believe Northville High School has begun to send that message.

It may be the most important lesson that schools ever teach.

The union's real first interest

Tim Richard

Teachers are a likeable group. It's not nice to cut 'em up. But sometimes their union leads with its jugular.

Gov. John Engler has a chart in his book on reforming Michigan schools that makes fascinating reading. It shows teachers' salaries on the national average and in seven Midwestern states. Michigan teachers lead the pack at $41,000. The national average is about $35,000.

Another chart covering the years 1982 to 1994 shows consumer price inflation at 55.8 percent and school funding per pupil at 109.4 percent. Message: We don't have the world's best schools — only the most expensive.

Engler has launched an all-out attack on the teachers union, proposing union-free charter schools, greater use of non-certified teachers, and an end to the "closed shop."

In the middle of this bloodbath, a letter written last March by officials of the Wayne County MEA to Troy Education Association leaders has surfaced in Lansing. It's old news in Troy, but a hot item in the Capitol Building.

It seems that after going on strike in 1989 for 6 percent annual increases, Troy EA this year settled for annual increases of 1.5, 3.25 and 3.5 percent over three years, and the union brothers in Wayne County didn't like it.

As you read the letter, ask yourself: Are teachers unions really interested in teaching and kids? Here goes:

"I am writing this letter to protest the harmful actions that you have taken in agreeing to a pitifully low three-year contract with the Troy Board of Education.

"I feel compelled to charge you with eroding the future of teachers everywhere, but especially those in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne County, with such irresponsible action.

"Your total disregard for the well-being of all teachers is glaringly clear, for not only did you decide on your own without consulting any other leaders within a reasonable vicinity about the impact on them of such a low settlement, but you accepted such a detrimental settlement so early in the bargaining season. That is reprehensible. . .

"Wayne County MEA/NEA has a highly-developed sense of unionism. In that vein we supported you during your last strike, we sent money to help bolster teachers' morale, we came to an ally. What was all that for?

"Is it that, when the going gets tough, you feel perfectly comfortable in giving up all that you have fought for in order to take the line of least resistance? Where is your sense of unionism and regard for fellow teachers that your leadership should exhibit?

"If you were going to take a bath in such a calculating way, you could at least have battled it out for a year in the buildings, gone without a contract, let other districts around you use their intestinal fortitude and courage to battle for you and then taken the horrible settlement when it wouldn't have hurt so many people."

With friends like the Wayne County MEA, teachers don't need more enemies.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional events. His office number is (313) 349-1700.

Discrimination isn't the real issue

To the Editor:
A man assaults his terminally ill wife. He also assaults his step-daughter as she tries to defend her mother. He is removed in handcuffs from his home, detained in jail for a day, pleads guilty then sues for damage to his reputation. A man harasses younger students, grabs a girl who tells him to stop and when she defends herself the man pushes her through a glass window. He is removed in handcuffs and jailed but it was racial discrimination.
What in the world is going on? This is violence plain and simple. After reading both articles I felt neither man had received harsh enough consequences for his behavior.
Until we as a community and society focus on the real issues and not manufactured issues, violence will continue. We need solutions and fighting amongst ourselves won't accomplish that!
Vick Dweley

In general an extremely unhappy kid. After meeting with Mary Ellen she put us in touch with Tom Handyside, a Northville resident, and he became my son's "Big Brother."
I can't begin to express my gratitude to this program because in the last two years, Tom's influence has made a dramatic difference in my son's life. Tom, although he has an extremely busy schedule, has hardly missed a week of meeting with my son. His influence of caring and consistency, and the fact that he is a remarkable role model, has been the most meaningful experience and most rewarding relationship that my son has ever experienced with another person.
My son is not the same boy he was two years ago. He is, in general, a much happier person. He is doing well in school, becoming active in extra curricular activities and has a very positive attitude towards life. I am very grateful to God that He has sent Tom, along with his wife, Linda, into my son's life. I thought this relationship would last one year, but it is continuing still. My son looks forward to his time with Tom as the highlight of his week.
In closing, I hope that I have expressed how valuable this program is. The way in which it has impacted my son's life, as he looks back on these years, could never be measured.

still remember the twinkle in Jack's eye when he would come up with a story that everyone else had overlooked. Somehow he had the knack of finding an angle where most reporters thought none existed.
He also had the curiosity befitting a top notch journalist.
I have no doubt that after Jack passed away and was taken to meet the man upstairs, his first words were, "Fill me in."
That was Jack!

campaigns on cutting cost. After they win, all the campaign promises are forgotten and they think they have found a pot-of-gold for them to spend.
This attitude starts with the President and goes right on down the ladder to the little Township.
After reading this week's Northville Record, Baja still is running the Township as queen.
If the Trustees voted for her to go to California, we better get on their case.
Seminars are nice when you can afford them but anyone in business knows they are 90 percent fun time.
The Township needs to buckle down and conserve funds. A car for a part-time Supervisor and it sits in her driveway for five days while she was at a seminar. What the heck is going on? How does a part-time employee rate a car in the first place?
The budget meeting is on Thursday, Oct. 28, and while the taxpayers cannot speak on the budget, there should be a large audience to show that we do care on how our money is going to be spent.
Dean H. Lenheiser

Cuts would be short-sighted

To the editor:
We would like to encourage Northville residents to attend a study session of the township board Thursday night (tonight) at 7:30 p.m. as the board discusses the budget for 1994.
The Township Budget Committee has recommended a "no growth budget" for Northville shared services for 1994. While this recommendation might appear to be fiscally responsible, it could actually cut deep into services that Northville residents have come to expect.
By reaching its recommendations at such a late date, this committee left no opportunity to discuss and/or revise its budget before the state-mandated balanced budget deadline of Nov. 1. The only public hearing will take place at 7 p.m. on Nov. 1, 30 minutes before township board convenes to approve it.
Each of the shared services: Parks & Recreation, Senior Citizens, the Library and Northville Youth Assistance could suffer greatly from this committee's inability to find other ways to balance its budget. It is also unfortunate that committee members did not take the time to discuss their concerns with the shared services directors, each of whom requested to sit in on the budget sessions, each of whom were told it wasn't necessary.
In August, Parks & Recreation hired a full-time maintenance employee after the city approved the budget and the township twice gave its approval. A "no growth" budget, if it stands, might force the lay-off of this maintenance worker. Without this additional full-time employee, opening the Beck Road park could be in jeopardy.
To regain the lost revenue Parks & Recreation could increase its program fees, but they are already on the high side. For instance, participation in an eight-week youth basketball program in Northville will cost a Northville participant $72. The equivalent league in Novi charges its residents only $30 and Livonia charges approximately $30.
All shared services are in jeopardy without city and township support. Northville's recreation facilities and programs, its library, senior citizens and youth assistance programs are essential to the quality of life of the community. We encourage all residents to attend tonight's session and let their views be known.
Mary Gans, Chairperson
Steve Fecht, Chairperson-elect Friends of Parks and Recreation shared funds should be capped

To the editor:
There is a message to be derived from the fiscally responsible action of the Township Budget Committee in capping the funds of joint shared activities at least year's levels. The message: Live within the budget. $189,036 is sufficient to maintain the library. We as taxpayers must have a budget. Without one, we face bankruptcy. Not unlike the library, we have wish lists. To acquire things on it, we sacrifice, save and cut back. Rarely does a Good Fairy endow us.
With a population of approximately 12,000, $189,036 amounts to $15.50 per capita. Not a shabby amount. The Library Committee states that Livonia funds $33 per capita. With a population of 110,000 that amounts to $3,630,000. Yet they service three libraries or approximately 35,000 residents each ($1,210,000). You are also dallying with the idea of asking for 1.5 mills from the residents. This will generate $1,200,000. Why do you need monies of this amount when our needs are nowhere comparable to Livonia. Perhaps as you say, it is only $112 per household, but I consider it ill-timed and extravagant.
The purpose of the library is to provide services not normally available elsewhere. The taxed residents of Northville funded three million for high tech networking at the schools. Our college students have their libraries on campus. Our local school media centers are state of the arts: amply stocked with periodicals, videos, research materials, books. Preschool centers have their own collections.
We share with Novi, Farmington, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton. Let us continue to do so.
I am not anti-library. I am anti-foolish. We don't need that extra expansion. Just be grateful for the $189,000 and combine it with the contribution from the city. You'll manage
Mary Braddock

NYA should be fully funded
To the editor:
I am sending this letter in regards to the cutbacks in funding for the Northville Youth Assistance Program. I am a single mother and full-time student with an 8-year-old son who truly looks forward to his weekly visits with his "significant" friend. It is quite unfortunate, but my son does not have a father that can be consistent in his life, so it makes "Bob" an extremely important person to him — someone for him to emulate. My son has been involved in this particular program for nearly two years now and has grown very attached to this considerate and kind man who has taken the dedication, care, and patience to make sure my little boy has a "good" role model around.

Editor's passing saddens friend
To the editor:
I was personally saddened to hear of the death of Jack Hoffman. As editor of The Novi News for several years in the mid 1970s, I had the pleasure of working directly under Jack. He was a tireless newspaperman who always knew how to get the most from the people who worked around him.
Yet he never asked for more from them than he was willing to give himself. He instilled in us a work ethic which, for me, continues today.
There was, however, a human side to Jack that is often overlooked. I still remember when fire destroyed the home I was living in and took nearly everything I owned. Jack was the first to offer me a place to stay until I could get back on my feet.
But Jack is probably most often remembered by his peers for his newspaper sense, that elusive something in a person's makeup that he must be born with. I can

Youth service is very helpful

To the editor:
I would like to tell you what the benefits of the Northville Youth Assistance Program have been to my daughter.
Karen is 11, and the child of a single parent. She had been going to a counselor for approximately three years because she was having trouble going to visit her father, whom she had been seeing every other weekend since she was five months old.
Upon the recommendation of Mary Ellen King, I enrolled her in the Youth Assistance Program and have been very pleased with the child she has become. After just a few months with the lady she spends time with, Karen was able to open up and tell me what had been bothering her for the past three years. She was able to feel that she could trust this lady and that she would not tell her mother or dad what was really going on. But through conversations, they were able to determine that it was best for Karen to tell her mother what was going on.
The result so far of their relationship has been the best thing that has happened to Karen. She is able to talk with this lady, share things with her that I know if they are of grave concern will be brought to my attention.
In conclusion, Northville Youth Assistance has been of great help to my daughter, and I believe would be of great benefit to every child who is a participant in this program.

Cuts could hurt useful program

To the editor:
During these days of budget cutting, I am writing to express my support and concern that the funding for Northville Youth Assistance not be cut. In the following paragraphs, I will try to attempt to explain why I feel so strongly about this.
I am a single mother and two years ago, following a messy divorce, I contacted Mary Ellen King at the Northville Youth Assistance to see about the possibility of getting a "Big Brother" for my son, who was then beginning sixth grade. At that time my son was very depressed, doing poorly in school and

Bad habits made for bad relations

Phil Power

Quite possibly, Coleman Young's worst habit during his nearly 20 years as mayor of Detroit was to play the racial card, demonizing "the suburbs" when it suited his purposes.
It was a bad habit because it regularly and gratuitously blocked any chance that the city and the suburbs might work together.
Where common sense might well have seen common need and shared purpose, Mayor Young regularly saw plots and malice. Faced with brilliantly verbalized suspicion punctuated by bouts of political paranoia, suburbanites found it easy to wash their hands of the city.
The predictable result: Detroit became firmly entrenched as among the worst big cities in the country, unforgettably labeled as "America's Third World city."

So when Young decided not to seek another term, a lot of people — suburbanites and city dwellers alike — hoped his departure might help change things. How fragile that hope!
Consider this sequence of events in the campaign between Sharon McPhail and Dennis Archer:
● McPhail charges Archer is the tool of unnamed "outside interests."
● McPhail repeatedly suggests Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson has endorsed and contributed to Archer's campaign.
● At a prayer breakfast for McPhail, the Rev. Charles Adams, pastor of Hartford Memorial Baptist Church, talks about "outside forces" wanting to undermine black Detroiters. He then produces the racist line about suburbanites wanting a mayor who "will shuffle when he's not going anywhere, scratch when he's not itching and grin when he's not tickled."
● Patterson responds with a tongue-in-cheek fund-raiser for McPhail at Duggan's Irish Pub in Royal Oak. A lot of people had a lot of laughs, only partly without malice, although Patterson does talk about "mutual and compelling interests on both sides of Eight Mile."

If this kind of stuff doesn't stop, we're going to be back to the bad old days in a hurry.
During the course of my work with this newspaper, I see a lot of people who live and work in the suburbs, and I have yet to meet anybody who wants to control a place that's in as much trouble as Detroit.
Some are dismayed at the deterioration of the city where they were born and for which they carry great residual affection. Others are troubled that the long-term fate of great regional cultural institutions such as the Detroit Institute of Arts or the Detroit Symphony Orchestra is held hostage to political expedience.
Still others see that the economic health of the entire southeastern Michigan area will inevitably depend on things required for both city and suburb: effective mass transit, good schools, a trained work force, safe streets and a climate of civility.
That's what politics in this area ought to be about, not the bad habits of a departing mayor.

High school senior, living with lupus, is upbeat in outlook

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Having lupus has only made Mike Kapusky a stronger person.

The Northville High School senior said he has come to terms with the disease he was diagnosed with during spring break of 1992.

"I'm used to it now," he said. "It only makes you stronger. I'm a much more enthusiastic person now."

Doctors determined Mike was suffering from systemic lupus, a chronic inflammatory auto-immune disease which involves the internal organs of the body. Another type of lupus, discoid, involves the skin. A lupus patient can suffer from both.

"Mike's particular symptoms were redness in the face and around the ears... and a rash on the back of his hands," Mike's mother Carol Kapusky said.

Common symptoms of lupus are fever, weakness, fatigue, weight loss, joint pains and a butterfly-type rash over the bridge of the nose and cheeks which is usually sun-sensitive.

"We were very lucky having it diagnosed within a month," Carol said. As it was, Mike suffered some very minor effects to his kidney.

"They've come a long way with research," Carol said. "Now they have very sophisticated blood tests."

With systemic lupus, something causes the disease to flare up.

"The question is what triggered it to come to the surface," Carol said.

Mike guesses stress brought it to the surface.

"I try to do too many things at once," he admitted. "I usually don't know my limits."

It was difficult for the family during the first month or so before doctors actually came up with a diagnosis. Then when Mike learned he had lupus, there were even more questions because the disease affects few men. Nine out of 10 patients with systemic lupus are women, half of them developing their first symptoms between ages 15 and 30.

"Some of this is still confusing to us," Carol said.

Mike would like to find a male pen pal who suffers from lupus but hasn't had any luck yet. Although women experience the same symptoms, the emotions are different, Mike explained.

Although the disease hasn't limited Mike's activities — he plays varsity tennis and soccer; is editor of his school newspaper, "The Mustang"; is a member of the National Honor Society and German Club; and plays baritone horn in the band — he does have to take certain precautions. Like taking medication and wearing 50-plus sunblock so the sun won't trigger another flare-up.

"It's a disease you don't know what could happen with," Mike said. "I've got to take care of myself."

Lupus patient Mike Kapusky remains busy with his school work and his interests, one of which is working on the "Mustanger," of which he is editor.

After he was first diagnosed with lupus, Mike spent over four weeks in the hospital after experiencing his first "real flare-up." His temperature had risen as high as 103 degrees, causing him to hallucinate.

"I couldn't figure out what my own fears were or what was reality," Mike said.

"Yes, it did scare him," Carol said. "He was having a hard time with the medication."

But Mike insists his lifestyle hasn't changed because of the disease.

"Once you get past the first stages of the disease, it's not that bad," he said.

"It's just like any chronic disease, like diabetes, you learn how to con-rol it with medication," Carol said.

Mike continues to see the doctor every six weeks and is hoping to actually go into remission.

"Right now I'm still active, but I feel fine," he said.

"Our goal is to be able to have the blood test show 'all clear,'" Carol added.

In most cases, lupus sufferers experience no more symptoms once they reach their 40s.

The Kapuskys wanted to share their story because this month is National Lupus Awareness Month. The Michigan Lupus Foundation, open to all lupus patients, offers support and education about lupus research. Local chapters of the foundation are established to provide additional support.

"We came out of this a lot closer as a family," Carol said of the ordeal. "It built up our determination, our faith — we had a tremendous amount of support from students, teachers and our church."

Mike received over 200 cards from classmates during his hospital visit.

Since Mike's case was detected early, his prognosis is good because treatment was initiated before damage could be done to the organs.

The family remains upbeat about Mike's diagnosis.

"Anyone can live with it," Mike said.

Art topics on agenda for fall programs

On Thursday, Nov. 4, Melanie Bazil will discuss Pewabic pottery at Genitt's Samuel H. Little Theater in downtown Northville.

Founded in Detroit in 1903, Pewabic pottery has permeated all areas of the decorative arts.

Bazil, the archivist/curator of Pewabic Pottery on East Jefferson in Detroit, will discuss the craftsmanship and beauty of handmade objects of daily life.

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.

On Sunday, Nov. 7, the program will feature "Art on the People Mover."

This special event will consist of an optional lunch at Fishbones Restaurant in Detroit's Greektown area at 11:30 a.m. Patrons will later ride the People Mover while Michael Farrell discusses the sculptures, mosaics, paintings and Pewabic tiles along the route.

Tickets are $15 single, $25 a couple. For more information, call 349-6104.

Trustees to reconsider restrictive vehicle policy

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

There was little talk last week about Northville Township's new vehicle use policy, but that may not be the case at tonight's study session.

The proposed vehicle use policy was submitted for discussion to the board last Thursday but was tabled and is expected to be debated tonight.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand recommended the policy after several trustees questioned employee and elected officials' use of township owned cars and trucks.

The policy calls for an inventory of all township owned cars and asks that employees requesting a township vehicle be made to sign cars in and out. It denies elected officials use of township cars, but does provide language for mileage reimbursements for board of trustees members who use their own vehicles on township business.

Even though talk of the policy was stifled until the study session, at least one township employee is opposed to the plan.

Chief Building Official Mick Kruszewski wrote a letter to trustees on Oct. 25 asking that the proposed policy be changed before it is adopted. As part of the inventory process, the clerk was asking that all township vehicles be marked with the township name and/or logo.

Kruszewski disagrees with the idea of marking all of the cars, saying that would be detrimental to the nature of his business.

"The nature of the job we do can get our department into some very adversarial positions," he wrote in the memo he sent to trustees. "... I don't believe marking our vehicles is in the best interest of the township or my employees."

Kruszewski cited eight reasons why he thinks township owned vehicles that are being driven by building inspectors shouldn't be marked. That list included instances where and when inspectors' vehicles have been vandalized after an inspector shut down a project because the developer didn't have the necessary permits to build.

In other cases, Kruszewski said his building inspectors have been mistreated and having marked vehicles could only heighten that treatment.

The vehicle use policy will be discussed at tonight's study session along with the proposed attorney-use policy that was also tabled last Thursday. Trustees will be eyeballing the proposed 1994 budget and tackle the flat rate sewer fees.

The board meets at township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road.

GET BOOED

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

The newest attention-grabber at this year's Haunted Barn at the Tollgate 4-H Center may not be scary, but it is impressive.

Cindy Richards, one of the organizers of the event, said Fantasy Lighting, a movie production company from Ypsilanti, provides the duplicate laser show in one of the 11 "haunted" rooms at the barn.

The rooms getting the most comments this year are the swamp spectacle, where "some strange things happen" on a unique bridge; the operating room complete with beating hearts and breathing heads; a graveyard with electronic coffins; a butcher room; a roaming mad woodsman and a prisoner's room, Richards said.

Over 30 volunteers from the community help run the haunted barn each night. Richards estimated about 10,000 people visit the spooky sight in the 2½ weeks of operation.

The barn is recommended for children ages 6 and over.

"It's up to the parents to make the judgment," Richards said.

A hayride is offered Thursday through Sunday for those younger children not able to tour the 15-minute haunted barn.

The venture, as well as the profits, is shared by the Novi Jaycees and Tollgate. This year, Tollgate's share of the money will benefit the Horseback Riding for the Handicapped Drill Team with its upcoming trip to the Kentucky Horse Park. They have been selected to perform there in early November.

Ruth Bozian

Bozian finds it hard to say no to worthy causes

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"I'd like to say no sometime" when a volunteer opportunity comes along, commented Ruth Bozian, who retired from Michigan Bell in 1978. But she can't say no because either the opportunity is too interesting to pass up, or it has a shortage of volunteers.

After one year in retirement she signed up for a Bell retiree project — hearing-testing at Harper Hospital for newborn babies, many of whom are high risk, premature and frequently with hearing problems. She became a tester, working with a partner.

Then her partner dropped out. "So I went into clerical work," she said, "preparing testing packages, notifying parents of the results, sending copies to the pediatricians, arranging for follow-up."

She still does that once a week. Also once a week Bozian assists at Red Cross blood donor sites wherever she's called for morning, afternoon, or early evening shifts in Livonia and Canton.

She registers donors, labels their plastic bags for testing and donation, then later serves cookies and juice to donors, talking with them and observing for possible reactions.

Anyone who is interested in volunteering in the Red Cross blood program, Bozian said, should call Catherine Magadino, office manager in Livonia, 422-2787.

Another of her volunteer areas is the Novi Public Library. "I'm, co-chairman," she said, "of The Friends of the Library."

"We support the library in any way we can — raise funds in an on-going book sale, help with mailings, decorate at Christmas."

Various committee chairs gave status reports on their committees. Congratulations to all parents and staff who joined the PTA this year. Winchester has again earned awards in 100 percent Participation, 100 percent Staff Participation and 10 percent Increase in Participation.

Civic Concern's "Operation Bundle Up" was a huge success. Many people will be helped by the generosity of Winchester families.

The Sally Foster Gift Wrap fundraiser netted over $6,500.

The Winchester school directory was distributed Oct. 18. It is free with a family membership or may be purchased for $4.

October's Junior Enrichment Series was "Back to Bones," an excellent program about vertebrates.

November will be a busy time at Winchester. Parent/teacher conferences are scheduled for the first week.

The fourth grade "Adopt a Grandparent" program is beginning, as well as a new Reflections program with a theme, "If I Could Give the World a Gift."

The Winchester cookbook is under way and a Market Day food cooperative program is beginning.

Silver Springs Elementary

Another busy month has come and gone at Silver Springs. Many things were accomplished, including party planning at the annual Room Parent Tea. Many thanks to Eileen Asteriou for organizing such a fun and productive event.

Thanks to the efforts of chairperson Dominique Moroz, Silver Springs has completed yet another successful fund-raiser. Thank you, also, to our families for their support.

School directories are completed and free with PTA memberships or can be purchased for $4 at the school office. We'd like to thank Denise Anderson for all her hard work in publishing these books.

The first newsletter of the school year is hot off the presses and looking great thanks to the work of Debbie and Jim Tucker.

Our first assembly of the year, entitled "Homeward Bound" was well received by Silver Spring students as they learned about animal habits and habitats through the use of live animals. An armadillo, parrot and chinchilla were just some of the animals that roamed the Rondelle.

Ann Vickers, JES chairperson, has another assembly planned for Nov. 17 when Mme. Cadillac Dance Theater will perform "First Lady of Detroit" for fourth and fifth graders at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., respectively. As always, parents are welcome to attend.

Chris Curvin's fourth grade class took their nature studies to Maybury State Park yesterday. They had a busy day planting trees, hiking and studying their surroundings. The remaining fourth grade classes plan to visit the park in March.

Silver Springs students are looking forward to their Halloween parties. The annual parade is scheduled for 1 p.m. tomorrow so get those costumes ready.

Conferences will be held the week of Nov. 1. The Book Fair will also be held during that time. Parents are urged to stop in the library and browse at the books available for sale. "Silver Springs Spirit" T-shirts and sweatshirts will also be on display at that time and may be ordered for delivery prior to Christmas.

The third graders from Diane Vanston's and Kristi Socha's classes will continue their study of local history by spending a day learning at Wash Oak School in the Mill Race Historical Village on Nov. 11 and 12, respectively. Marcy Aller's class will attend the school in the spring.

The PTA would like to welcome Connie Wall as the new PTA teacher representative. We look forward to a mutually rewarding year.

Many thanks to the terrific staff at Silver Springs as they have reached 100 percent PTA membership. Silver Springs has also been placed on the PTA honor roll for having increased its total membership over last year's numbers.

Holiday Shop volunteers continue to work on crafts in the Art Room on Tuesday mornings. More volunteers are always welcome.

Our next PTA meeting will be an evening meeting at 7 p.m., Nov. 16 in the Rondelle. Babysitting will be available. Please join us.

Amerman Elementary

We're settling in here at Amerman. We're experiencing the enthusiasm and ideas of those taking on new roles in the PTA and are appreciating those who are loyal to their area of expertise.

Barb Slubowski, PTA president, had a friendly welcome for all the families at the open house. She and the board, along with numerous chairs and committee members, are eager to make this year very special for our children.

Melissa Hannah and Nancy Riegner did a terrific job of letting October's fun and spooky theme greet our staff in the lounge. The treats and display were enjoyed greatly.

We're all noticing the children's creations in the hallways, too. They're getting everyone excited about the upcoming Halloween parade. The children will be eager to share their costume creations and are probably wondering what Mr. Anderson's costume will be this year. Parents are welcome to join in the fun on Friday, Oct. 29.

Thank you to Amerman's newsletter staff: Mary Step, Patty Quincey, Patricia Prechesky, Karen Cameron and Connie Carr. The harvest yellow AMAGRAM was well-received and found to be very informative.

With the chillier weather showing up you may be hoping you had your Amerman sweatshirt. The T-shirts and sweatshirts are expected in three weeks. Vickie Sneathy worked with the designer and succeeded in getting some sharp looking shirts at a great price.

More warming news: Jeff Lightfoot, our teacher representative, reported that our staff has supported us with 100 percent PTA membership. Business memberships have reached seven. We're so pleased to have community support from the following businesses: Community Federal Credit Union (Mary Gyorke), Dealers Resources (John Jameson), Kelly and Kelly PC (Michele A. Kelly), Longaberger Co. (Geri Martin), Papa Romanos (Jim and Pam Wampler), Pizza Cutter (Jim and Liz DeLano) and The Selective Group (Matt Thurber). We're continuing to process individual and family memberships. Send in your blue application forms soon.

The Sally Foster gift wrap is expected on Nov. 10. Thank you to Mary Ellen Wolbers, Donna Retzback and Debi Lopez for spearheading such a successful effort for accumulating funds for our children's benefit. How generous our community and friends have been.

The disbursement committee, chaired by Barb Flis, has been busier than ever. They have allocated just what areas these funds are to be used in. These decisions do not come without much consideration. Their time and commitment is not going unnoticed.

The Junior Enrichment Series, a recipient of the fund-raising, just offered the children "Homeward Bound." The children had the opportunity to touch and learn about animals that are not native to Michigan or America.

The PTA-sponsored Skating Nights are great opportunities to skate at bargain prices. It's a social event away from Amerman for students and their families at Skatin' Station. Our celebrity teachers often make appearances and ignite the students' energy and interest even more.

Reflections, a national PTA creativity contest, is available to all Amerman students. Information concerning the contest and them, "If I Could Give the World a Gift," has been sent home with our students. Chairperson Abbie Holden has much for us in the days ahead. Don't miss this year's opening night art show.

During conferences, Amerman's book fair will be set up in the media center. Here's an opportunity for some holiday shopping as well as during the holiday shop/pancake breakfast Nov. 20.

We're fortunate to have many ways of keeping informed on educational issues. Our LAN committee, chaired by Kathy Petlick, reports to us at every PTA meeting. We have board briefs posted at the entryway and one of Amerman's parents, Joan Wadsworth, is on the school board.

Attending the open forum during Sen. Robert Geake's visit on Nov. 1 is yet another way of keeping current. Hope to see you there as well as on Nov. 9 at the PTA meeting.

Perennial plans, planting a key to blooming garden

By PATRICIA A. ZIELKE
Special Writer

Linda Lestock's beautiful garden is living testimony to good perennial planning and planting. Throughout the entire growing season the garden continues in full bloom with over 60 perennials and 50 annuals — excluding bushes and trees.

Linda and Mel Lestock reside on Glenhill in Abbey Knoll where they served as their own landscapers. Starting at the mailbox, the postman is treated daily to a standing bouquet of lythrum, daylilies, blackeyed susans, impatiens, Japanese iris and hosta, all clustered around a sizeable rock.

A huge crescent-shaped garden, filled with rows of two-foot-high violet impatiens, phlox, daylilies, white cone flowers, goldenrod, cardinal flowers, artemesia, coreopsis and purple salvia, spreads across the front of the home, along with maple trees, red bud and spring snow crab apple trees.

A red brick pathway, bordered on both sides by yews and hostas, leads from the driveway to the front door. Close to the entrance are several azalea bushes and a graceful Japanese maple which are outranked but not outclassed by a "Royal Family of Clematis" — The Duchess of Edinburgh and The Prince of Wales.

An inviting arbor is the entrance to the main garden which is separated by a red brick pathway leading to the deck. Currently in bloom are pink, purple and white spider plants, climbing pink roses, New Guinea impatiens, hollyhocks, giant sunflowers, mallow, tall pink and white cosmos, red and purple salvia, zinnias, boltonia, Japanese anemone, meadowsweet, blackeyed susan, veronica, speedwell, heliotrope, astilbe, fever few and ligularia.

The beginnings of an herb garden include lemon verbena, lemon balm, basil, French tarragon, chamomile, hysop, catmint, thyme and lambs ears.

Shade-loving flowers, including polminaria, cranesbill, columbine, foam flowers and plantigea hosta, have found a happy home beneath an old apple tree which is encircled by a wood seat, providing space for a weary gardener to rest awhile.

In the back garden, lining the foot of the deck, are elfin violet impatiens, red twig dogwood, star magnolia, a collection of azalea bushes.

This picture would be incomplete without including the frame that displays it — the lawn. It's green, thick, deep, flawless, and Mel Lestock loves it! He meticulously grooms and nurtures it with organic fertilizer, and it responds beautifully to the attention.

I don't know much about squirrels, or jays, but I do know Lestock's garden is definitely a winner.

Linda Lestock has over 50 blooming perennials, excluding shrubs and trees, flowering in her garden.

Planning is a key in any successful garden, according to Linda Lestock. The Northville resident's planning earned her garden of the month honors.

Teen has 'Broadway' rhythm

Northville resident Ernie Nolan will be showing off his considerable singing and dancing talent in That Broadway Feeling, which opens Oct. 29 at the Livonia Civic Center Library.

The review-style show, presented by West End Productions, boasts a larger cast and more dance and movement than a standard review.

It's an evening of some of the finest moments from recent musical hits, including Les Miserables, Phantom of the Opera, Miss Saigon, The Rocky Horror Show, La Cage Aux Folles, Grease and Evita.

Nolan, who has been involved in dance, musical theatre and plays since he was ten, also contributed to the choreography of That Broadway Feeling.

Among the numbers Nolan, a junior at University of Detroit Jesuit High School, worked with is "Magic To Do" from the musical Pippin.

"It's fun to do well-known Broadway material, to affect the audience. I had seen Pippin before, and I know the (Bob) Fosse style of movement. It was also getting a feel for the song, that underlying beat and tone of the song, and trying to bring that alive onstage," he said.

Director Francine Hachem said she had no reservations about permitting the teen-aged Nolan to choreograph.

"It's nice to see Ernie getting the respect of the adults. There really is no generation gap. We feed off of each other's talent," she explained.

Nolan is enthusiastic when talking about That Broadway Feeling.

"I think it's a wonderful review, and a wonderful opportunity for a whole bunch of us to do what we do well. It's a wonderful learning experience because everyone involved - this is their specialty. This is what they do. There's acting, dancing and singing," he said.

Nolan's love for the stage is obvious.

When discussing current trends in government support of the arts, Nolan says, "I hope they (the public) come and see this show - definitely! And continue supporting the arts and supporting theatre in our community."

That Broadway Feeling is on stage at the Livonia Civic Center Library, 32777 Five Mile Road on Oct. 29, 30 and 31 and Nov. 5, 6, and 7. The Friday and Saturday shows are at 8 p.m., while the Sunday matinee is at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors. For reservations and information, call 544-4079.

New film explores instincts of basic survival

In our imagination, we are always heroes.

Decisive. Fearless. Strong. And most of us are rarely challenged physically or morally on little more than a small scale.

But what would happen if we were really tested in a matter of life or death? How would we respond? How should we respond?

In "Judgment Night," a simple night out with the guys turns into a fight for survival as four young men make a wrong turn off an expressway and must face a test of their friendship, loyalty and courage.

In the shadows of their own city, the four young men cross into a dark, frightening world, defined neither by race nor color. In this world, all strangers are equally unwelcome and become victims of the night.

"Judgment Night," an action-drama from Largo Entertainment, features an ensemble of gifted young actors — Emilio Estevez ("Young Guns," "Stakeout"), Cuba Gooding, Jr. ("Boyz n the Hood"), Stephen Dorff ("The Power of One") and Jeremy Piven ("The Larry Sanders Show").

MTV's Denis Leary plays the psychopathic killer who sets a savage game of cat and mouse for his unwilling prey.

The film is directed by Stephen Hopkins ("Predator 2") and produced by Gene Levy from a screenplay by Lewis Colick, based on a story by Lewis Colick and Jere Cunningham.

"I know what it's like to be in the wrong place at the wrong time," said Stephen Hopkins, the director. "It happened to me in Australia, so it's not just an urban phenomenon."

Hopkins refers to the basic plot of "Judgment Night" in which four friends, on the way to a boxing match, take a wrong turn off an expressway and end up in a dangerous world, a far cry from their suburban sensibilities.

After witnessing a mob-style killing, the foursome end up being hunted like prey in an urban jungle, testing both their mettle and the strength of their friendships.

Hopkins, who has had some directorial experience with fear and terror in previous movies like "Predator 2" and "Nightmare on Elm Street 5" was drawn to the project because the drama is derived from with the characters and less from some kind of objective and horrific monster.

"The thrills in the film come from the fact that you know these guys and root for them," said Hopkins. "I think a lot of people have been stuck in the wrong part of town. We've taken that idea and pushed it much further."

Physically, "Judgment Night" was a grueling shoot that took a toll on both cast and crew. Nearly three-quarters of the shooting schedule took place at night in both Chicago (where the story actually takes place) and Los Angeles. Emilio Estevez, a veteran of numerous films, said "Judgment Night" was the most demanding movie he has ever done. "More so than 'Young Guns' and more so than 'Freejack,' which ended up being a five-month shoot," he said.

Hopkins believes Chicago was the right place to shoot a portion of the movie because of the city's visual texture and style. "There's a beautiful skyline in addition to the dramatic contrast between city and suburbs," he said.

An unusual ensemble of young actors assumes the eclectic characters in "Judgment Night." The good guys are led by Estevez, fresh from his starring roles in "The Mighty Ducks" and "Loaded Weapon 1."

Cuba Gooding, Jr., stars as Mike Peterson, an ex-athlete with leadership qualities but less than mature sentiments. Highly acclaimed for his starring role in "Boyz n the Hood," Gooding, Jr. was sought highly by Hopkins for his role in "Judgment Night."

Stephen Dorff, cast as Estevez's younger brother, portrays a feisty young man who usually acts before he thinks.

The last element to the good guys is Jeremy Piven, a Chicago native seen most recently on Garry Shandling's "The Larry Sanders Show." His character, Ray Cochran, is all hustler and deal-maker.

Leading the bad guys in their hunt for the Estevez group is Fallon, played by comedian/actor Denis Leary. One of the hottest comic talents working today, Leary has made his mark on television with his Bo Jackson/Nike commercials as well as his MTV ratings.

Peter Greene serves as Fallon's clone-like second-in-command.

"Judgment Night" interested Leary because it was a story about two groups of people who are basically the same — "the same color, the same everything except that one group has a lot of stuff that the other group doesn't have, simply by birth."

"To me, they're not bad guys," added Greene. "They just grew up in a different environment." Comparing the two groups, director Hopkins said Fallon's group has a much stronger bond than the good guys because they have a distinct code of ethics which are black and white. "It's the area of grey that the good guys live in and, in fact, almost all of us do."

"This film is about people being pushed to their emotional limits," he continued. "What makes the story frightening is seeing ourselves in each of these characters and empathizing with their predicaments."

"It's a film of choices. That's where the judgment comes in. They are constantly faced with a new set of circumstances demanding a decision about which way to go and what to do."

"There's nothing fantastical about this movie," he added. "It simply taps into that primal vein called human survival. It doesn't get any more real than that."

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

'Bronx Tale': A dark story

A BRONX TALE
By Mike Kapusky
Northville

A dark tale in a dim neighborhood. This is a film directed by a great actor. Robert DeNiro makes his directing debut in this dark look at the Bronx in the 1960s. It is a time when racism is strong and when gangsters rule the neighborhoods.

DeNiro takes a cast of unknowns and creates a rich variety of characters for the film. A bundle of swearing, a pinch of violence and a spice of black humor add up to a serious tale of growing up in the Bronx.

The different characters, a few chucks and the realistic atmosphere make the film very enjoyable. DeNiro makes a movie based on his father's life very interesting for such a dark subject.

"A Bronx Tale" gets four stars (based on a five-star basis with five being the best). Go see it, but be ready for an abundance of racism and gangsters.

Mustangs edge Stevenson 14-6

Golden, Kelley lead Northville past Livonia

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville built a two-touchdown lead then hung on to beat Livonia Stevenson 14-6 Friday night on the road.

Marc Golden scored on a 36-yard run in the second quarter and Bryan Kelley added a two-yard touchdown run in third to lead the Mustangs to victory. Northville finished third in the Western Lakes Activities Association with the cross-over win.

"It was a hard-hitting game," said coach Darrel Schumacher. "Stevenson was well prepared and played great defense. It was a very physical ballgame."

The Mustangs virtually assured themselves of a playoff berth next week.

Northville is currently No. 1 in its region heading into tomorrow night's game with Novi (see related story page 1-A). Even with a loss to the Wildcats, the Mustangs would probably make the state dance.

"We want to host a playoff game," said Schumacher. "That's our main goal."

The top four teams in each Class A region make the playoffs. The No. 1 and No. 2 teams host.

Livonia certainly didn't make getting into the post season easy for Northville.

Stevenson shutdown the Mustangs usually potent running game early. Northville, in fact, managed just one first down in the opening quarter.

The Spartans used a six-man front and shadowed star runner Aniel Kersey with a defensive back. It's a strategy many professional teams use to stop the Detroit Lions' Barry Sanders.

"It gave us fits all night," said Schumacher. Northville's defense was just as dominating. Jason Holman and John Gatti did an excellent job of getting pressure on Livonia quarterback Kevin Szczembara.

The Mustangs forced Stevenson to punt near its goal line as the first quarter ended. Northville started its first scoring drive on its own 49-yard-line.

Golden completed an eight-yard pass to Kelley on first down. The senior fullback then rushed for seven to the Spartan 36. On first down, Golden tucked the ball under his arm, then sprinted to the left sideline and past a herd of Livonia defenders for the touchdown.

"He's a good athlete," said Schumacher. "I think he's become a good quarterback."

Northville looked to add on to the lead before halftime. The Mustangs took over on downs at Livonia's 39 with 3:59 to go in the half.

Runs by Kelley and Kersey got Northville in scoring position. On a third down from the Spartan five, Golden slipped and was dropped for a five yard loss.

Schumacher sent kicker Mike Hervela on for a 27-yard attempt, but it sailed wide right and the half ended 7-0.

Northville got the game-winning score late in third quarter.

The Mustangs started this time on Stevenson's 42. A Livonia fourth-down penalty kept the drive going early as the home team was flagged for too many men on the field.

Golden then completed passes to Justin Cataldo for 13 yards and Kelley for 16 more to the Livonia three-yard line. Two plays later Kelley scored at the 2:19 mark.

Stevenson didn't get its offense into gear until midway through the fourth. With 6:27 left in the game, the Spartans took over at their own 34. Szczembara completed consecutive passes to Brad Morgan to move his team to Northville's 20. On third down from the 17-yard-line, Szczembara dropped back to pass and was sacked for a loss of eight yards.

Officials waved the play off by saying they had blown it dead before Gatti's sack. Movement in Livonia's line before the snap was missed by the officials.

Schumacher said the Mustangs should have had the option of taking the sack by Gatti or the penalty. The down, instead, was replayed.

Livonia failed to get the first down anyway and Northville took the ball. Schumacher was still upset about the call.

"They could've scored," he said. "The officials didn't interpret the rules correctly."

Livonia finally did score with seconds left. After forcing Northville to punt, the Spartans scored quickly on a 25-yard pass from Szczembara to Chris Mullett.

Schumacher said he was happy to escape with the victory.

"It was a heck of a wake-up call," he added. "I think it will allow us to focus better on what we need to accomplish."

BASELINE JUG GAME FOOTBALL Novi vs. Northville 7:30 p.m. at Novi

Running Back

At first glance, Novi and Northville would appear equal in rushing the football. The Wildcats' Andy Sill and Mustangs' Aniel Kersey are both solid, sometimes spectacular runners that have posted comparable numbers this season. The difference comes in the area of depth. Northville has a pair of hard-running fullbacks in Bryan Kelley and John Gatti while Chuck Aptigian is steady at reserve halfback. Novi's second leading rusher is quarterback Kevin Serra. Contributions from the 'Cats' other backs have been sporadic at best. ADVANTAGE: NORTHVILLE

Quarterback

Serra has made a smooth transition from star tight end to quarterback this fall. The senior has shown the ability to throw for big yardage when needed and run for a crucial first down if necessary. Northville's Marc Golden started slowly but has come on of late. He proved he could throw effectively two weeks ago against Walled Lake Western. ADVANTAGE: NOVI

Wide Receiver

Serra and Golden each have a plethora of receivers to throw to. Novi's Derek Gavigan is probably the best on either side. John Wroe, Tony Place, Brian Csordas, Jason McAleer and Pat Dunn provide the Wildcats with great versatility. The Mustangs are led by tight end Jason Holman while Justin Cataldo, John Farrar and Bryan Jackson are dependable. ADVANTAGE: NOVI

Lines

Northville has its best offensive line in years. Derek White, Fred Swarhout and John Wilds anchor a group that has had little trouble blowing holes in enemy lines. Novi has had a less cohesive group, mainly because of injuries, that's struggled against bigger opponents. Defensively, the Wildcats have been susceptible to the big play. The Mustangs have also given up big yardage at times, but overall present a better front than Novi. ADVANTAGE: NORTHVILLE

Linebacker

Perhaps the strength of both defenses. Novi's Jason Fischer is a big-time player who hits anything that moves. Jim Harrington, meanwhile, has shown a nose for the football and scored three touchdowns from his linebacking spot. Kelley is excellent against the run while Holman and Gatti add mobility and rushing ability. ADVANTAGE: NORTHVILLE

Defensive Back

Both secondaries play active roles with their teams supporting against the run as well as coverage duties. The Mustangs use Golden, Jackson, Neil Lokey and Justin Cataldo, among others. Jackson seems to have a knack for intercepting the ball. Serra, Wroe, Mike Hicks and Jeff Pahl have done a good job for Novi all year. ADVANTAGE: EVEN

Special Teams

Novi has shown improvement from a year ago. Sill has done a decent job when called upon as placekicker while punting has been solid. Wroe has big play ability on returns. Mike Hervela is a fine high school placekicker. Punting for the Mustangs has been sporadic. Golden is a capable return man. As far as coverage, Novi has done a better job this fall. ADVANTAGE: EVEN

An Analysis

Grabbing an early lead in tomorrow night's contest is critical for both teams. Northville has had a great season but not shown it can climb out of a hole. Novi has shown it can come back, but against weaker teams than the Mustangs. In the end, the Wildcats will not be able to stop Kersey and Northville's high-powered rushing attack. The Mustangs get the Jug back.

Tankers drop Churchill 72-21 in last home meet

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Mustang swim team got back to its winning ways Thursday by pounding Livonia Franklin 72-21.

It was Northville High's last regular season home meet of 1993, traditionally a time when seniors are honored for their contributions to the program. This year's finale was no exception as eight Mustangs received flowers and recognition midway through the meet.

According to coach Bill Dicks, the seniors also had a chance to swim some of their favorite events during the meet. Franklin, he explained, isn't one of the WLA's stronger squads.

"It allowed me the flexibility of letting the seniors swim where they wanted," the coach said.

In the 200 medley relay, Rebecca Anderson, Gwen Osborne, Andrea Moretti and Amy Heckemeyer placed first. Kara Lyczak, Mandy VanHorn, Beth Handley and Alicia Doehler were second.

Amy Kohl was the winner of the 200-yard freestyle, while Missy Hayes took fourth. Anderson took first in the 200 IM and VanHorn was third.

Tammy Cook and Shelia Osborne went first and second in the 50 freestyle. Sarah Carney's 217 points were good for first in diving.

In the 100-yard butterfly, Moretti was first and Lyczak took second. Brenda Newton was the winner of the 100 freestyle and Handley took third.

Heckemeyer won the 500-yard freestyle while Hayes finished fourth. Dicks said Hayes, a transfer student from West Virginia, has made steady improvement in her sophomore season.

The team of Shelia Osborne, Newton, Doehler and Jodi Brown won the 200 freestyle relay. Anderson and Lyczak took first and second in the 100-yard backstroke.

In the breaststroke, VanHorn had a personal best time of 1:17.40 while Renee Olin also had her best time of 1:28.20 for third place. Cook, Moretti, Newton and Heckemeyer won the 400-yard freestyle relay to close the meet.

The end of the campaign is nearing for the Mustangs. The conference meet will be held next week and the state meet in three weeks.

Dicks said Northville began tapering for the WLA meet this week.

"The girls are working hard," he added. "We've been healthy so we'll see how well they taper."

Cagers end streak by beating Chargers

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

When the Northville High basketball team breaks out of a slump, by gosh, it really breaks out of a slump.

Going into Thursday night's home game with Livonia Churchill, the Mustangs had lost six straight. But Northville had little trouble ending the streak against a weak Charger squad 47-23.

"We needed a win," said Mustang coach Gary Schwan, "we got a win. For the kids — that was big."

Northville dominated from the opening tip, leading by five points after a quarter and nine by halftime. Samantha Leger led the way with 14 points.

"I think it was the first game her ankle felt better," Schwan said of the sophomore, who suffered her injury about a month ago. "I think it was Sam's best decision-making game of the year."

Leger set up many of her teammates on fastbreak opportunities with crisp, accurate passes. Schwan said his entire team passed well Thursday.

"We had a lot of good looks," he added.

Northville improved to 6-8 on the season. Schwan said his team hasn't lost its fighting spirit despite the recent tough times.

"We're not backing off," he said. The Mustangs didn't back off Thursday night.

A Lyndsay Huot jump shot from the right wing gave Northville a 6-1 lead at the 3:17 mark of the first quarter. The Mustangs led 8-3 by the end of the period, despite missing many open shots.

A 7-1 spurt at the start of the second quarter moved Northville ahead by 11. Leger scored a pair of baskets on drives to the hoop, while Gina Chiasson and Karl Krupansky added jumpers to fuel the spurt.

The Mustangs led 19-10 at the half.

Churchill finally showed some signs of life early in the third quarter. Kristen Sattler hit a long three-pointer to start the half. About a minute later, Jenny Jenkins scored on an inside move to cut Northville's lead to seven.

Schwan called for a timeout. After a little chastising from the coach, the Mustangs put the game away.

Northville went on an 11-2 run to close the quarter. Lindsey Casterline came off the bench to score six points, mostly from short range, during the streak.

Schwan went to his bench in the fourth quarter and Northville rolled up the lead. Senior Kate Woodrich poured in six points in the period.

PLYMOUTH SALEM 36, NORTHVILLE 21

The Mustangs ran into a defensive buzz-saw on Oct. 19. Schwan said the Rocks were the best defensive team Northville has seen this season.

"They just frustrated us," he added. "They flat-out shut us out."

Northville stayed close until late in the first half. Ahead 12-9, Salem nailed three straight three-pointers to take a 21-9 halftime lead.

It didn't get any better for the Mustangs in the second half. Northville managed just one point in the third quarter.

"Their pressure took us out of it," said Schwan. "They play great defense."

Chiasson led Northville with seven points.

The Mustangs have just one home game remaining. Northville plays the first round of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs at home Nov. 4.

Mustangs of the Week

LISA WAGNER AND JENNIFER MCCORMICK

The Mustangs top tennis doubles team made it to the semi-finals of the conference playoffs last week. According to coach Uta Filkin, the duo really held her team together on and off the court this fall. Both are seniors.

Netters place fourth at WLAA meet

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

As coach of the Mustang tennis team for more than two decades, Uta Filkin knows things don't always work out as planned.
That was certainly the case Oct. 19 as Northville High finished fourth at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet. Filkin said she got points from some Mustangs she didn't expect and didn't get points from ones she did expect.
"Our 11 points were by half the team," Filkin added.
Walled Lake Central took the championship. North Farmington and Farmington were second and third, respectively.

"I thought we had a chance to reach North Farmington and Farmington," said Filkin. "We could have had second place."
The conference meet concluded Northville's season.
Jackie Moore closed her freshman season out in strong fashion. Seeded fourth, she beat Westland's Liz Parr and Farmington's Sarah Brodli in the first two rounds. She then dropped a 7-5, 6-1 decision in the final to Rachel Clanton of Walled Lake Central.
"She played a great first set against Clanton," said Filkin.
Mary McDonald returned to the lineup after missing about a month with various injuries. She also drew a fourth seed and, thus, received a first-round bye. McDonald won her first match in two sets over Shawn Beall but then lost in the semi-finals to eventual champ Danielle Gilhood of Central.

Jennifer Pollock lost a tough three-set match to Livonia Stevenson's Sandy Peacock in her only action of the day at No. 3 singles. Kyle Mills was also upset in her first match by Farmington Harrison's Kristen Walters, 6-4, 6-0.
Lisa Wagner and Jenny McCormick made it to the semi-finals at top doubles. The Mustang pair won a pair of three setters before falling in two to Devon Woodruff and Leslie Britt of Farmington.
"They played 73 games before that match," said Filkin. "They were used."

Nanda Filkin and Meghan Conery went 1-1 on the day. They beat North Farmington's Renee Ouellet and Renee Chou before falling out of the tournament.
Julie Weix and Chrissy Kapsusky made it to the finals at No. 3 doubles. The duo won a pair of three-set matches before falling 6-2, 6-4 in the final to Erika Schweitzer and Jean Chau of Walled Lake Central.
Abby Semeyn and Jenny Moak were the top seed at No. 4 doubles but lost in their first match to North Farmington's Heidi Walkon and Erica Brown.
"Overall it was a good tournament," said Filkin. "For once everybody was healthy and playing."

Runners finish ninth in conference

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville High took ninth place at Saturday's conference meet held at Cass Benton Park.
Plymouth Canton, as expected, was crowned conference champ. Farmington placed second, while North Farmington and Livonia Stevenson followed.
Mustang coach Ed Gabrys was a little surprised at his team's finish. But he said there was a good reason for it.
"We had a very competitive conference this year," Gabrys said.
He added that his team ran a good race. Three of Northville's top seven runners had personal best times Saturday.

Junior Scott Lloyd was one of those. He finished 27th overall with a time of 17:42.
Nate Kirnis posted a time of 17:58 for 38th place while senior Mark Ritter set a personal best in 17:59 for 39th.
Jeff Zwiesler was healthy for the first time this season and ran an 18:12. The junior has been bothered by knee problems this fall.
Rounding out Northville's day were Dwight VanTuyly in 18:32 for 54th, Chris Shiffr 19:26 and Jeff Luterek with his best time of 20:14.
The Mustangs compete Saturday at state regionals in West Bloomfield.

WALLED LAKE WESTERN 40, NORTHVILLE 21
The Mustangs finished their dual meet season Oct. 19 with the Warriors. Northville finished 3-3 in the WLAA for the second straight year.
"Western is very tough," said Gabrys. "They ran well."
Kirnis was Northville's top finisher against Walled Lake. He placed second in 18:05.
Other times and finishes included: Lloyd 18:24 for fifth, Zwiesler 19:30 for 10th, VanTuyly 19:40 for 11th, Ritter 19:45 for 12th, Shiffr 20:06 and Ravi Mujumdar 21:23.

FORMER MUS-TANGS: NHS graduate Karen Baird, a Adrian College golfer, was recently named first team All-MIAA. Baird, a softball standout as well, was second in the MIAA with an average of 86.3 per 18 holes. Kara McNeil, a 1992 Northville graduate, averaged 99.1 for Adrian. . .

Laura Whitely, a recent NHS graduate, is playing for the Kalamazoo College soccer team. She scored two goals and two assists for the Hornets as a freshman last fall. . .

Trick or treaters need to be careful with Halloween candy.

Tips for young trick or treaters

Halloween is this Sunday, so this may be the perfect opportunity to remind parents and children of the "Trick or Treat" do's and don'ts. Todd Anger, Novi's Crime Prevention Officer recommends following these tips for a fun and very safe Halloween.

1. The Novi Police Department recommends trick or treating on Sunday, Oct. 31, only from 6-8 p.m.
2. Remind the kids not to eat any candy before mom or dad checks it first. If candy is unwrapped, or if the packaging is wet, or ripped, it's not worth the risk. Throw it away!
3. Costumes: Stay away from face masks—they can restrict vision and this can be dangerous. A better idea is face painting.

4. Wear light colored costumes so you can be seen in the dark.
5. Carry flashlights or glow-sticks.
6. Stay away from long capes or costumes that could restrict movement. This could cause accidents as children go running in the dark.
7. Always go trick or treating with parents or friends. Never travel alone.
8. Don't run between houses or across streets. Look both ways before crossing the street.
9. If a house is dark, don't go.
10. Never go inside of anyone's house.
11. Trick or treat in your own neighborhood.

12. If you are giving out candy at your own house, have lights on so the little goblins feel welcome.

These tips will help insure a happy and safe Halloween for all of our children.

Don't forget that tomorrow, Oct. 29 is the Novi Parks and Recreation Halloween Carnival at the Novi Civic Center. Bring your daddy and "mummy" for a haunting good time! Dress up in your costume and join us for Halloween fun, games and treats. Visit Morticia's Madhouse for a screaming good time.

Parents, why spend all that time and energy on a great costume for your kids, if they're only going to wear it once. Here's a great opportunity to show off their costume creations where you won't have to wear a coat over it if the weather doesn't cooperate.

Kids of all ages are welcome to come in costume and have a very ghoulish evening. Bring those Barney's, Ninja Turtles, Little Mermaids, Witches, Ghosts, Aladdins and even Princess Jasmine. Everyone who wears a costume will receive a special mystery prize.

There will be haunting activities, scary games, refreshments and Halloween goody bags for everyone. Special treats will be provided by Novi's own Olive Garden Italian Restaurant.

Jacque Martin-Downs/Health

Millions are children of alcoholics

Downs

In this country, there are about 29 million children of alcoholics, or COAs, and 6.6 million are under the age of 18. COAs have four times greater risk of developing alcoholism than children of non alcoholics. The problems these children deal with in the home may be more related to growing up in an unstable environment than the addiction. The home is often organized around something other than people, and the way children handle the situation varies.

Generally, children in these families take on one of four roles. The "hero" tries hard to be good, smart and talented to help bring esteem to the family.

The "scapegoat" drops out because he or she cannot compete with the hero and doesn't care about the image of the family. The scapegoat is often the most astute regarding the trouble the family is having. His or her call for help to the outside world comes from getting in trouble and being defiant.

The "lost child" tries to be invisible and isolated to avoid calling attention to himself. If he can stay out of the line of fire and make very few waves, he's accomplished his goal.

The "mascot" tries desperately to keep some levity in the family so that anger and high tensions won't overcome them.

New studies suggest that any factor within the family that prevents the alcoholic's behavior from disrupting family stability protect the children from long-term consequences. The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism found four factors to be important in protecting family stability:

1. Consistent, predictable parenting by the non-using parent. The unspoken truths of the alcoholic family are: Don't talk, don't trust, don't feel. Consistency and predictability are never taken for granted. It is difficult to trust a parent who not only breaks promises, but claims not to have made them in the first place.

In a healthy, functioning home, the child is validated by the other parent who knows of the promise but realizes the other parent has forgotten or is squirming out of it. The other parent could say, "I know the promise was made, but I'm afraid it isn't going to happen. Let's see what we can do to find another way for you to do it." This affirms what the child knew was said in the first place.

2. Minimal disorganization in roles and daily routines. Often, the alcoholic family finds itself wound up in whirlpools of action and reaction. If the non-using parent can maintain a semblance of order and routine, the children understand what is expected of them and that they belong and have a purpose with this system.

3. Maintenance of family rituals. Thousands of COAs talk about the vacations, birthday parties and holiday celebrations that were thwarted because the user arbitrarily canceled or ruined them. If there is a way for the other parent to carry on in spite of the user, children may learn that when they anticipate something exciting, it is indeed going to come true. After all, half the fun is anticipating the event.

4. Strategic family therapy interventions. The other parent can help the family cope with an unhealthy family situation by seeking outside counseling. Therapy teaches the rest of the family that they have an identity as a non-alcoholic family. Short-term therapy allows people to vent their frustrations and anger as well as validates their experience. Their feelings are important and should not be shut down.

Functional families are possible even if the family is organized around something other than people. You can learn more through parent education and support groups. Look for these in your local newspaper or through your school district.

Fantasy hoop league starts soon

FANTASY BASKETBALL: The popularity of Northville Public Library's Fantasy Baseball program has prompted an expansion of fantasy sports leagues to include basketball. Education crucial for those in real estate

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

An unusual scenario is shaping up in the real estate brokerage industry: Fewer people are applying for and obtaining real estate licenses, but more practitioners are participating in educational programs. And those programs are increasing in numbers and sophistication.

"There's not so many people coming into the business these days, but those who do pass their exams and start a real estate career must be well-educated or they will soon drop out of the field," said Dale King, owner of a large California brokerage firm affiliated with the Century 21 franchise group.

Real estate is considerably more complex today than ever before, King said.

And consumers generally are more knowledgeable than they were just a few years ago.

"A real estate professional today must be constantly plugged-in to a vast reservoir of knowledge if he is to serve clients effectively and sur-

The Legacy 2: Country impact on a single level

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

A large workshop, separate from the garage, is included in the floor plan of the Legacy 2, a compact single-level home with a country-style front porch.

Economical to build, this home is well-suited to the needs of first-time home buyers, singles or empty nesters. And it can be adapted for wheelchair accessibility.

Family living areas are at the front, bedrooms at the back. Vaulted ceilings give a sense of spaciousness to the living room, entryway and dining room.

A five-sided bay window brightens the living room and creates an interesting recess for plants, a specially designed couch, a couple of easy chairs—the possibilities are endless. The living room also has a door that opens onto a small deck.

Most homes this size have two bathrooms, but this one has three. The one next to the garage comes in handy for cleanup when clothes and shoes are grubby from working in the shop or garden.

Counter space in the kitchen is augmented by a work island, with built-in range and oven. Other features include a large walk-in pantry, broom closet and built-in dishwasher. Sink and dishwasher are nestled into a bay window that faces the street.

Some families might prefer to outfit the adjacent space as a family room, rather than a dining room.

Luxury touches in the master bedroom suite include a huge walk-in closet, oversize shower and twin basins in the dressing area. A glass door provides access to the deck.

The utility room has cabinets and a long counter for folding clothes. It can be entered from the back yard, as well as from the interior hallway.

Although not included in the plan, another deck could be built behind the home.

A skylight brightens the main bathroom and a large linen closet is across the hall, next to the coat closet by the entry.

Bedroom three, which is accessible from the kitchen, could be used as a home office, hobby room, or you-name-it, if a third bedroom is not needed.

For a study plan of the Legacy 2 (332-131) send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Many varieties of birds do not migrate for the winter, but stay right here. Winter months can be tough on the birds, but humans can help out by providing them with shelter and ample food over during the cold, snowy months ahead. Above, youngsters erect a bird house and feeder in the fall at the Novi library.

FEEDING FEATHERED FRIENDS

Each year, summer comes and goes in the blink of an eye. Before we know it, the long, lazy days of the season are over and autumn is upon us, bringing shorter days and colder weather.

Although the change in weather has little effect on most of us humans, the approaching fall and winter seasons can be rough on backyard birds.

An often dramatic decrease in the supply of natural foods and fewer daylight hours make it difficult for birds to find sources of food.

We need not worry though, for we can help out our feathered friends by providing them with food, and benefit at the same time by partaking in the entertaining and relaxing hobby of birdwatching.

BIRD FEEDERS

Actually, fall is the best time to start feeding birds, because they have yet to settle down in their winter territories and have not fixed their habits of searching for food. If you set up a bird feeder in early autumn and keep it filled with food, you can attract many wintering birds that will become accustomed to visiting before cold weather actually begins.

Then, as the fall turns into winter, those birds will usually elect to remain where they know there's an ample supply of tasty, accessible food.

Though generally not difficult to make from scratch or assemble from a kit, even a simple bird feeder can be a time-consuming project. Ornate, pre-assembled, large scale bird feeders can be purchased, but they are costly and more likely to be used by longtime birdwatchers.

An easier, less expensive option is to purchase a ready-to-use, pre-filled, plastic bird feeder. These are typically available at garden centers and hardware stores. The feeders come filled with a well-balanced, nutritious selection of bird food, so that they lure a wide variety of song birds.

An easy feeder is also a good choice because it dispenses the seed mix only when needed. This protects the seed from the damaging effects of rain and snow, or contamination by bird waste.

Once you've assembled or purchased a bird feeder, scout your yard for the best location for hanging it. Keep in mind that a feeder should be hung in areas that are out of reach for squirrels, mice and cats.

The feeder should also be placed in areas of abundant natural shelter, such as trees and hedges. This is especially important in the fall and winter months because the shrubbery serves as protection against the cold winds and snowstorms of the seasons. Hang two and you may attract an increased number of birds.

BIRD BATHS

After you have the feeder in place, you may want to consider setting up a bird bath in your yard. This will serve as an additional attraction for bird visitors, providing them with a place to stop for a quick drink or to clean their feather. One thing to remember while maintaining a bird bath during the fall and winter months is that it must be kept thawed.

Improving soil

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Q. Why raise green manures? Why plant cover crops or catch crops?

A. Simple. These cover crops will improve the soil by adding huge amounts of organic material. They'll add valuable nutrients to it, or prevent valuable nutrients from disappearing and prevent soil erosion.

Catch crops prevent the leaching away of nutrients. Increase the life of your soil, discourage weeds and provide ideal conditions for earthworms, nature's greatest workers. All overlap in their contributions.

Cover crops are easy to plant and require virtually no maintenance. Spring, summer and early fall are the times to plant them. Most cover crops will grow right up until hard frost and will then protect your topsoil from wind and water erosion over the winter.

A. If you've wondered how to use your leftover onion sets or perhaps you still have small onions in the garden, plant them in pots or containers and grow them indoors. You can even put them in the same pots as your houseplants.

Because onions have foliage, they only need a little room and don't bother the growth of other plants close by. Just push a few onion sets into the soil, and they'll grow beautifully on your windowsill.

Chives and parsley make great indoor crops, too, and will keep producing as long as you keep snipping them! Simply dig up a clump of each plant and pot it.

You also may grow tomatoes indoors by using "slips" rather than whole plants. In the garden, break three or four healthy shoots or suckers with blossoms on them. Set the slips in a deep container with good soil and water generously for a few days. They'll root just like geranium cuttings and once indoors will extend your harvest for months.

Remember to fertilize and water your plants regularly, provide proper drainage and plenty of sun. During the winter months, you may have to move your plants from window to window during the day to vive in the highly competitive real estate field," he said.

 "Also, the liability risk in today's real estate brokerage field is tremendous, King said. A lack of education and professional expertise is an invitation to legal problems.
 An example of increasing complexities in real estate transactions is the new six-page deposit receipt and sales contract developed by the California Association of Realtors. It's now recommended by CAR and will be used by most Realtors throughout that state. Other state Realtor associations throughout the country are now studying the possibility of taking similar action in an effort to avoid legal problems.
 King's brokerage firm, and many others, are now providing special training sessions for their brokers and sales representatives to be sure they are familiar with this complicated document.

 "Most property buyers and sellers don't understand the new contract at all," King said. "And many brokers are still unfamiliar with certain aspects of the document. It's important that they become educated quickly so they can guide and advise their clients professionally and competently."
 Another indication of the move toward more and better real estate education for professionals is seen in the rapidly growing membership of the Residential Sales Council.
 The council is the educational arm of Realtors National Marketing Institute, an affiliate of the National Association of Realtors.
 The council's membership has grown by 12.3 percent during the past year (since September, 1992)—from 22,450 to 25,219 members. Practitioners who successfully complete the council's educational pro-

Q. Are real estate commission rates usually mandated by the local board of

A. No. The amount of commission charged by brokers continues to confuse many consumers. The commission rate is always open to negotiation between the client and broker. And an increasing number of brokers are lowering their commissions below the generally prevailing rate, without sacrificing services.

Q. Is it common for real estate brokers to offer "buyer representation" services, as opposed to the more conventional seller representation service?

A. Yes, it's increasingly common for brokers to offer services specifically for (and legally representing) a buyer. This is particularly true in areas where real estate sales activity is generally sluggish. It's a way to beef up the daily work schedule and revenues.
 One of the nation's major relocation networks, RELO, recently surveyed their broker members to see how many offered the option of buyer representation. Surprisingly, 78 percent reported they now offer such an option.

"This means buyers, particularly transferees and first-time home buyers, can have an added benefit of working with agents who will legally act in their interest," said William Sage, RELO president.

"In the past, agents in residential real estate transactions were required to represent only the sellers. Giving consumers the choice of being represented in a residential transaction will help them buy smarter."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Storing leftover seeds through the winter

Q. Can I store leftover vegetable seeds to use next season? My garden is tiny and I always have ample leftover lettuce, tomato and herb seeds.

A. Absolutely! Commercial seed packets can be easily stored in glass jars fitted with a rubber ring (for watertight seal) and placed in the freezer. Coated or pelleted seeds should not be kept longer than one year; raw seeds, however, will keep longer.

Seeds that last longest (three to four years) are squash, cabbage, radish, carrot, celery, cauliflower, lettuce, tomato and peas.

For home gardeners who want to save seeds from their own plants, they should make sure the seeds are:

 • Cleaned thoroughly.
 • Dried on newspaper for several days.
 • Packaged individually in manila coin envelopes.
 • Dried once more in a sealed jar fitted with a rubber ring with silica gel.

directly.
 After a week of this treatment, remove the silica gel and store the seeds as you would commercial packets.

Hummel manufactured Ba-Bee rings in the 1930s

By Anne McCollam

Z. S. & CO. BAVARIA

Q. Enclosed is a photograph of two Hummel Ba-Bee rings my great-aunt gave me. Each is 4-3/4 inches in diameter. They are marked on the back with a bumblebee in a "V" and the words "M.I. Hummel—Germany."

Also there is a paper label with the words "Hum. 030/A&B."

What is their approximate value?

A. These rings were first issued in the late 1930s and were called Hummel rings until the 1950s when they became known as Ba-Bee rings.

The "030" indicates the size of the rings, the letter "A" refers to the male figure and "B" to the female figure.

Your Ba-Bee rings were made in the 1950s. They would probably be worth about $200 to $250 in good condition.

Q. The enclosed mark is on a cake set that my parents received for a wedding gift over 70 years ago.

The set consists of an 11-inch cake plate and six dessert plates. They are pale blue and white with yellow roses and green leaves, and have a gold band around the edges.

Can you give me any information about my set?

A. Your cake set was made by Zeh, Scherzer & Co. in Rehau, Bavaria, Germany, in the early 1900s. This company was founded in 1880 and is still in operation.

The value of your cake set would probably be $100 to $125 in good condition.

Q. I have a collection of postcards and advertising cards from the early 1900s.

The ones I am most curious about are the following:

• Quaker White Oats man holding a bowl of cereal in his right hand; in his left hand is a paper with the word "PURE" on it.

• A picture of two black children in a wooden tub of water with the caption

"Gold Dust Washing Powder."

• A girl's head in a rose with the words "Perfumed with Hoyt's German Cologne."

• An Easter greeting with four yellow chicks in military hats carrying guns. Does this collection have any value?

A. Both sides of cards have important information. So, if your cards are in an album, remove them carefully.

The Quaker Oats and Gold Dust Washing Powder cards would be about $20 to $25 each.

The Easter chicks postcard and the Hoyt's German Cologne card might be worth about $5 to $10 each.

Q. I recently purchased a Bing Crosby Junior Juke Box. It measures 15 inches wide by 13 inches high and is made of celluloid.

I would appreciate any information you can provide on my jukebox.

A. Celluloid is an early plastic that was developed in the 1800s. Synthetics eventually replaced it in the mid-1900s.

A word of caution to collectors: it can be flammable.

Your Junior Juke Box was made in the mid-20th century. Its value is probably between $150 to $400, depending on its condition.

These Hummel Ba-Bee Rings were made in the 1950s and could be worth about $200 to $250.

Q. From 1942 to 1952 our local theater gave away a dish a week. I collected a 62-piece service for 12.

They are semiporcelain and have a gold band around the edges. Each piece is marked "W.S. George."

A. These dishes were made by the W.S. George

Co. in Kittanning, Pa., in the mid-1900s. The company existed from 1880 to 1959.

Assuming your dinnerware is in good condition, it would probably be worth about $165 to $185.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

Feeding fine feathered friends during winter

One way to do this is by adding hot water to the bath every so often. If you set up your bird bath on a window shelf, you won't need to venture out in unbearably cold weather.

Although this method will suffice, a more convenient, and relatively inexpensive way to keep the bath thawed, is by investing in a waterproof electric heater. This is a good choice because it keeps water at a certain, even temperature. These heaters can be purchased at aquarium supply stores for about $10.

BIRD HAVEN

Now that you have turned your yard into a bird haven for the upcoming season, sit back, relax and watch for the many wintering birds that will visit your family's yard, the average garden attracted approximately 15 species, depending on where you live. Common winter visitors include cardinals, jays, mockingbirds, chickadees, nuthatches and mourning doves.

A bird watching guide will help you identify your new guests. Whatever you decide, you can now enjoy the entertaining, educational and rewarding pastime of birdwatching, all the while knowing that you have done something to contribute to the preservation of our fine feathered friends.

'Big kid' runs Novi card shop

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

Todd Kuzma makes no bones about the fact that he's in the investment business.

His store, All-Star Cards in Novi, deals in trading cards for baseball, football, basketball, hockey and auto racing, as well as the popular non-sports cards.

For the last five years or so, trading cards of all kinds have undergone a metamorphosis. Where once they were strictly the domain of children, now many view them as investment tools. But when a customer walks in the door at All Star Cards, that investment stuff goes right out the window.

"I cater to the kids," Kuzma said. "I like kids and I can relate to them well, because that's what I am, nothing but a big 28-year-old kid."

He also worked during college at a shelter for runaway children.

"Here, I get to see happy kids," he said. "That's what I want. I want every person to walk out of here with a smile on their face."

For that reason he carries a broad line of merchandise—not just what's new and hot.

"I even carry cards for little girls," he said. "I've got Beauty and the Beast, Trolls, Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. I can get just about anything for anybody. I've made a lot of friends in this business that I can call on to help me track things down."

But if it's new and hot you want, he has that too. He particularly likes the Fleer Flair baseball cards. Quality cards with good photography will always sell well, he said.

Cards for a little over a year. He was as surprised as anyone that he wound up in the trading card business.

"If you'd have told me a couple of years ago that this is where I'd end up, I wouldn't have believed it," he said.

After graduating from the University of Michigan with an engineering degree, he went to work for a plastics firm. He gave it up, though, because "I wasn't doing the job I thought I'd been hired to do."

Uncertain what to do next, he went to work at a friend's card shop. When he discovered he enjoyed it, the entrepreneurial spirit began gnawing at him. With that, he took the plunge.

It has been, he said, a learning experience, and nothing like his former line of work.

"This is a commodities market," he said. "I am, for all intents and purposes, a commodities broker... but I'm not getting rich. My bank will tell you that. If you want to get rich, in-

Caring for elderly offers tax breaks

If you're financially supporting an elderly parent, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants points out that certain tax breaks can help alleviate the financial pressure on you and your family.

THE DEPENDENCY EXEMPTION
Although taxpayers commonly take dependency exemptions for their children, many fail to realize that if they are providing at least half of the support of a parent, or another close relative, they may take an additional dependency exemption on their tax return, as long as that relative does not file a joint return with his or her spouse.

The dependency exemption, which directly reduces your taxable income, is $2,350 in 1993.

However, with the exception of legally adopted children, qualified dependents must be citizens or nationals of the United States or residents of the United States, Canada or Mexico.

HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD FILING STATUS

Individuals who qualify to file as head of household are subject to a different tax rate which is usually lower than the rate for single individuals. If you are unmarried or if you pay more than half the qualified costs of maintaining your home, which is a principal place of abode for a qualified relative for more than one-half of the tax year, you may file as head of household.

A qualified relative is a son, daughter, grandchild, adopted child or stepchild. In general, any other relative must qualify as a dependent. However, dependent parents may live elsewhere if you maintain their household.

If you are married, you can qualify as head of household if your spouse was not a member of the household for the last six months of the year and if your home is the principal place of abode for a child for whom you are entitled to take a dependency exemption.

THE OPPORTUNITY FOR A TAX CREDIT

If your dependent parent is physically or mentally incapable of caring for himself and you need someone to look after him while you work, you may be able to recover some of the cost by claiming a tax credit.

If your adjusted gross income is $10,000 or less, an income tax credit is available equal to 30 percent of certain employment-related expenses incurred for such care. The amount of the credit will decrease by 1 percent (but not below 20 percent) for each $2,000 of adjusted gross invest in the stock market.

"The difference is, with the stock market, you can be instantly liquid. With cards, if you want cash, you have to find a buyer."

He also doesn't buy into the theory that the sports card market is softening.

"Every market goes through an adjustment period," he said. "That's what's happening now. Studies show every household in America has at least one sports fan, and something like one-eighth of all sports fans collect."

For people who collect because they are fans, Kuzma offers a assortment of autographed photos and plaques. For the card collector, there are set boxes, card holders and holders for autographed balls.

Collating the cards — opening boxes upon boxes of packs upon packs and making them into complete sets — is often seen as the drudgery of the card business. But not for Kuzma.

"I've got people begging me to do it," he said. "My girlfriend's father uses it as therapy. He uses it to detox from a day at Ford Motor Co. He sits in front of the TV and enjoys looking at the cards and opening the packs. People just seem to like opening packs. It's like opening Christmas presents."

It's that sort of innocence that Kuzma believes will maintain the vitality of the trading card market.

"There's a reason that I like Dave Concepcion, a great player," said Kuzma. "But he doesn't mean the same thing to a kid today as someone like Frank Thomas does. Every generation needs its heroes."

You can find your heroes at All Star Cards, on Grand River Avenue just west of Haggerty in the Pheasant Run shopping plaza. Call 473-0888 for more information.

come (or fraction thereof) in excess of $10,000, until it decreases to 20 percent for taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes over $28,000. The maximum amount of employment-related expenses that can be taken into account to determine the credit is $2,400 for one qualifying individual, and $4,800 for two or more qualifying individuals.

DEALING WITH MEDICAL COSTS

Even with medical insurance coverage, many families are finding themselves sharing the burden of a parent's medical bills. If you pay for your dependent parent's qualified medical expenses, you may take an itemized tax deduction to the extent that such expenses, along with your own medical expenses and those of your other dependents, exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income.

Qualified expenses include: the cost of medical insurance premiums; fees paid to physicians, dentists, chiropractors and other medical professionals; prescription drugs; and supplies and equipment, such as false teeth, eyeglasses, crutches, hearing aids or orthopedic shoes.

PLANNING YOUR PARENTS' FINANCIAL FUTURE

CPAs point out that as a caretaker of elderly parents, you should help them maximize their income with a proper financial plan and encourage them to draw up appropriate legal documents, such as a will. This will help your parents take charge of their financial future and give both you and your parents greater peace of mind.

Wisdom for the well- dressed groom

By Debra Lee Baldwin

Copley News Service

Your fiancée is in a frenzy, getting her gown fitted, her hair permed and her flowers picked.

But you, the groom, are laid-back. All you have to do is rent a tuxedo the day before the wedding, right?

Dude, wake up and smell the stephanotis. You have no time to lose. (It's a wonder she hasn't lit a fire under you yet.)

A groom's outfit may be black and basic, but its style and accessories must coordinate with her dress, the bridal colors and the degree of formality of the wedding.

Your penguin suit has to fit you superbly — whether you're built like Arnold, Woody or Danny DeVito. Which means you have to be fitted in advance. Maybe weeks in advance.

And what about your attendants? Maybe your best man owns his own tux—but will it look OK on your big day?

Now that we've got you nice and nervous, read on for soothing advice. Your job, after all, is easy— compared to what she has to do.

INFO, PLEASE

You should find out or decide, ASAP, these key facts:

- The time of day of the wedding and the season.
- Whether it is semiformal, formal or ultra-formal.
- If the style is traditional or contemporary.
- Who will be standing up with you (the groomsmen, best man).
- The colors of the wedding. If the wedding is semiformal, you can get by with your best

For warm-weather wedding, the groom looks dashing in a double-breasted, shawl-collar ivory dinner jacket.

Class and style is key for formal wear individuality

suit, a white shirt, a tie and well-polished dress shoes. Anything more formal, a tux is a must.

The ultimate in formality will turn you into a Fred Astaire clone in a black tuxedo with full dress tails. With it you'll wear a vest, bow tie and wing-collar shirt, all made of white pique.

If you're thinking, "Pee-kay, shmee-kay, what the heck is that?" perhaps you need to hand yourself over to an expert: your fiancée's bridal consultant. These supremely capable, confident counselors can accompany a gawky groom to a formal-wear store and, with a wave of a magic wand, transform Godzilla into Gene Kelly.

You're on your own? Not to panic. Visit a tuxedo rental shop that specializes in wedding wear. And do it no later than six weeks prior to the big day.

You can go with your lady love or fly solo. As long as you've armed with essential info (see above), on-staff experts can provide exactly what you need.

Now, for your groomsmen.

The day before the wedding, Uncle Otto is flying in from Phoenix, your college roommate is driving from Duluth and Cousin It is thumbing his way from Abilene. Yet your bride is adamant they all be attired identically.

You may want to choose a tuxedo rental shop that works sort of like an FTD florist. Cousin It gets fitted in one of the shop's outlets in Texas; his measurements are sent to the store near you. An It-fitting tux, with just the right degree of formality and that matches the others to a T is then set aside.

Your out-of-town groomsmen needn't pack any formal wear. When they arrive, they have final fittings. Presto: a flock of perfect penguins.

STYLE TRENDS

You care what you wear? You want a say on the big day? There's plenty of room for individuality, even among birds of black feathers.

In fact, personalizing his formal wear is very much a groom's prerogative.

The key is to do it with class and style:

Consider floral, plaid or paisley prints—or iridescent fabrics —when you select your bow tie, cummerbund, vest and/or pocket square.

classic clothes, bold accessories. Consider floral, plaid or paisley prints—or iridescent fabrics —when you select your bow tie, cummerbund, vest and/or pocket square.

If your choice blends with the bridal colors, so much the better. An ideal way to do this is to select accessories with diffused, variegated hues in abstract patterns—a hot new look.

Also big: black-and-white designs, black-on-black patterns and fabrics with subtle textures. And if you think a tux is a tux is a tux, you should know that there are subtle changes in cut and style from year to year. Some are retro, others avant-garde.

You'll see notch and upswept peak lapels on tuxedos with designer labels (Yves St. Laurent, Pierre Cardin, Perry Ellis, Ralph Lauren, Bill Blass).

Currently popular are double-breasted styles with wide shawl lapels that complement broader shoulders. Think Humphrey Bogart.

Trousers, too, are fuller, with pleats in front and legs that taper at the ankle. Shirts are always white, always pleated—but collars may be turned-down or wing.

GROOM GROOMING

How are you wearing your hair?

"Jose Eber, owner of Jose Eber Salons in California and Texas, believes a smooth look—both classic and romantic—is the right choice for a groom on his wedding day," says Bridal Guide magazine.

"He suggests that the groom slick back his hair with gel. If his hair is long enough, he can sport a ponytail for a 'Valentino' style."

But don't do anything drastic for the ceremony. Have your hair cut a week or two beforehand, and try out the look you want. Keep in mind that the collar of a tuxedo is high.

You'll be shaking hands with or hugging everyone who is nearest and dearest to you and your new wife.

So, your hands should be smooth, your nails clean and clipped, your breath sweet, your smile bright (have your teeth cleaned) and your hair free of dandruff.

Just before the ceremony, don't forget to shave—especially if you have a tendency to sprout facial hair like Rasputin.

Today's brides say 'I do' in style

By Sharon Mosley
Copley News Service

It's that one special day that millions dream about—their wedding day. And Americans spend millions dressing for the occasion that will be remembered in photographs for a lifetime. This year the formal-wear and bridal industry are celebrating, too.

"Optimism is prevailing," says Harvey Weinstein, chairman and CEO of Lord West Formals, a leading apparel producer in the blacktie business.

Weinstein credits much of this heightened sense of style in wedding apparel to the handsome, new executive couple in the White House.

"Maybe it's a reminder of the heightened sense of social activity inspired by the Kennedys," he says.

He also believes young people are much more interested in having a traditional ceremony, but updating it by wearing more fashionable attire.

THE BRIDE

Choosing a wedding dress can be one of the hardest decisions any bride faces. Most brides don't wait until the day before to buy their dress like first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton did. Instead, they often spend hours and hours shopping for that one perfect gown.

Fulfilling the desire of every woman for the perfect dress is an ongoing challenge to Michelle Piccione, designer for Alfred Angelo DreamMaker, one of the world's largest manufacturers of bridal gowns.

Alfred Angelo gowns retail from $300 to $1,000.

"Today we see our customer as more aware and discerning," says Piccione. "She recognizes quality and actively seeks value. But whether a first or second time bride, these women share one dream ... to look and feel beautiful on their wedding day."

Vera Wang, a New York bridal designer whose gowns range in price from $1,000 to $8,000 agrees.

"Brides are always value conscious and style conscious," she says. "But my clients usually indulge their fantasies on their wedding day."

TRENDS

Piccione highlights several silhouettes in her 1993 bridal collection, according to Alfred Angelo design coordinator, Cindi Freeburn.

Simple, princess styles in soft white crepe features a bodice and cap sleeves accented with hand beaded re-embroidered lace.

Off-the-shoulder ball gowns are also popular, Piccione says, trimmed with satin roses and petals.

"We are seeing a big return to elegance and simplicity," says Freeburn. "For years, bridal customers believed the more glitzy stuff on a dress the better. Now they want something more refined."

Continued on 5 This season' bridal gowns are simpler and less glitzy than in recent years.

For the sophisticated bride, Piccione suggests a dramatic full-length sheath of metallic brocade topped off with a shoulder skimming fichu collar and a back peplum that ends in a semi-cathedral train of sparkle tulle, easily detachable for dancing.

Brides have also been asking Vera Wang for soft, clingy dresses in crepe, beaded chiffon or charmeuse. Wang also likes to use stretch lace in her bridal designs.

"I use stretch illusion as a result of designing the Olympic figure skating costumes for Nancy Kerrigan," she says. "Going forward, I will be working in many more stretch fabrics. Brides want to feel comfortable in their wedding dresses and this fabric allows them movement and flexibility."

But Wang adds a warning: "However, this look is only for very thin and fashion-forward brides."

Short wedding dress styles have been a signature of Wang's, but she feels that long, full dresses will always be the most popular.

Like Piccione, one of Wang's favorite styles is the sheath; hers is in crepe and features a detachable lace pouf overskirt.

THE BRIDAL PARTY

Freeburn says black and white is still strong for bridesmaid's dresses, but garden-fresh florals in linen and chintz are blossoming at Alfred Angelo.

Notable are dresses in floral prints that feature a softened "neckline, puff sleeves, princess bodice and Basque waistline.

Vera Wang says she loves to see bridesmaids wearing bright colors.

"I am doing a wedding where the attendants are all wearing cantaloupe," she says.

Chartreuse, violet, melon, coral and mango are other favorites of Wang.

For a different twist, Wang likes to dress the bridesmaids in short dresses. "They're sexier and more fun."

Flower girls should always relate to the bride, she says, while the maids and matrons should complement—not necessarily compete or match the bride.

THE GROOM AND HIS MEN

A husband-to-be used to just sit on the sidelines and let his fiancée and her mother tell him what to wear. No more, says Lord West's Harvey Weinstein.

"There are so many styles of formalwear to choose from these days," he admits. "It's no longer just a question of wearing a black tuxedo with a vest that matches the bridesmaid's dresses."

But there are a few rules that still apply. A late morning or early afternoon wedding calls for daytime formalwear—an updated cutaway and striped trousers for the groom and stroller-length coats with striped trousers for his men.

If it's an ultraformal wedding, is planned, then white tie and tails is the proper choice.

For late afternoon or early evening ceremonies, tuxedos in an unlimited selection of styles is correct.

TRENDS

New for this season at Pierre Cardin, a licensee of Lord West, are the "Max" tuxedos. One version of Max is a double-breasted tailcoat that is worn by the groom; the other version features a four-button, one-to-button-style tuxedo jacket with side vents.

Black is still the No. 1 selling color among tuxedos, according to Weinstein, but surprisingly, ivory dinner jackets are outselling white jackets for the first time in a decade.

"The winter white jacket with the black trousers has been a big hit," he says.

Another surprise in the tuxedo scene has been the popularity of the Western look.

"We thought our Western-styled tuxedos might just be a regional thing," Weinstein admits, "but it has turned out to be a national phenomenon."

From Connecticut to Arizona, black-tie apparel influenced by the spirit of the West is riding high at weddings. Tuxedos styled with scalloped yokes and pockets are accessorized with bolos and crossover satin ties.

"People are snatching bolo ties right off the mannequins in our stores," he says.

ALL THE EXTRAS

Accessories are creating new ways to update any tuxedo, no matter how traditional.

Vests are making a big comeback, according to the formal wear expert. Stand-up collars without wings are also making a major fashion statement, says Weinstein. "You don't have to worry anymore whether the tie goes over or under the wing with the new shirts."

Cummerbunds and ties in colorful abstracts, subtle antique prints and humorous conversational designs are giving the groom and his groomsmen lots of choices.

How to register for wedding gifts

By Sharon Williams

Copley News Service

If wedding bells are in your future—bag the hints, nix the subtle suggestions and forget the innuendo.

With gifts, there's no need to be coy. Instead, cut right to the chase in getting what you want through the bridal registry.

You won't raise any eyebrows or offend any etiquette experts by listing the objects of your affection—right down to nitty-gritty details such as size, color and quantity.

In fact, you'll make the task of finding a wedding present much easier for your guests.

By registering at certain stores, you're helping them locate the right places to shop. They can either visit in person or order by telephone.

A wish list at each location drawn up by you, your fiancé—and oftentimes a resident gift specialist—lets everyone in on the things you want and eliminates those sure to be returned or exchanged.

Since each store keeps track—either through a computerized listing or on paper—of the gifts that have been selected, it's easy for guests to see what choices still are in the running.

For decades, couples have registered at traditional spots for traditional gifts.

Department stores and small shops specializing in items for the home are prime places to find formal and casual dinnerware, cutlery, sterling and stainless flatware, crystal, kitchenware, small appliances and linens for bath, bed, kitchen and dining.

Espresso machines, bath sheets, juicers, blenders, food steamers, wide-mouth toasters, monogrammed terry cloth robes, duvets, irons with automatic shut-off and hand vacuums are just a few of the hottest gifts for the home front.

There also are many less traditional options to consider.

In many cases, today's couples wed after they've established a home or marry for the second time around. Thus, they often already have all the pots, pans and plates they need.

Instead, they're registering for the gifts they really desire at some unconventional spots. Spots such as bookstores, music stores or video shops. Or, departments that haven't housed registries before—such as luggage, furniture or lingerie.

Possibilities include:

- Sporting good stores, where you could request gear for skiing, camping, fishing, golfing, hiking and tennis or for furnishings for the home gym.
- Specialty food shops, where guests can shop for pizza stones, upscale cookware, Mexican ceramics, pasta machines and other specialty equipment for the kitchen, food baskets, gourmet ingredients, cookbooks and wines.
- Antique boutiques, where you'll find

Smart couples register for classically simple china patterns that won't go out of style.

vintage dinnerware, silverware and one-of-a-kind collectibles;

- Camera departments that list frames, cameras, photo albums and specific pieces of equipment.

- Electronic emporiums, where cordless telephones, small-screen televisions, minicopiers, fax machines, computer equipment and programs await.

- Home improvement stores, for tools for the garden and workshop, a wheel barrow and ladder.

- Museum gift shops, where your wish list might include art books, prints and reproductions of beloved objets d'art.

Even large-scale items such as furniture for the home or patio, wide-screen televisions, stereos, mattresses, microwave ovens

Tips for registering for gifts

or lawn mowers aren't out of the question for registries, since many guests are delighted to pool their cash resources;

In fact, with so many options, it seems a couple hardly can go wrong no matter where or for what they register.

Narrowing the field of possibilities easily could present the greatest challenge.

Tips that will make your selection of registry choices easier include the following

- Do your homework. Think it over and talk it over before heading to the registry counter.

Consider, for instance, how and how often you'll entertain, how you'll spend your spare time and you hope to decorate your new home.

Browse through the pages of bridal magazines, window shop and walk down the aisles of your favorite stores to get an idea of what's out there... and what you want.

The registry lists located in most bridal magazines and books also can help you organize your wedding wish list.

- Take him along. Once upon a time, the bridal registry was a duty that was hers and hers alone. But today, the trend toward shared household responsibilities has motivated more grooms to get in on the act.

Encourage yours to follow suit. At the very least, get his stamp of approval on your selections before everything is finalized.

- Get good advice. When you're ready to register, call and make an appointment with the registry consultant, who can lend a guiding hand as you wade through myriad patterns, colors and quantities.

He or she will help you cover a wide price range with your selections so every guest can find a suitable gift.

Wedding experts say it's best to register at least several months before the wedding. Since you've a lot of ground to cover, don't try to complete the task in a rushed afternoon.

Another smart move: Take pains to ensure you don't register for the same item at several different places.

Since each store will only keep track of purchases applying to the registry there, you'll wind up making the calls and doing the counting for an accurate tally.

The exception — department stores that are linked by computer. Register at your branch in San Diego, and Aunt Martha in Washington can visit her branch, glance over a printout of your registry and select a gift. Her choice will then appear on subsequent printouts — so no duplicate gifts are purchased.
