Library millage concept panned

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The second of two public hearings on a proposed district library drew more than 20 people to Northville City Hall last Wednesday.

Residents sympathized with the plight of the current 6,500-square-foot library in city hall's basement, though some sounded cautionary notes about going to the voters for more millage at this time.

The Northville Public District Library Commission is charged with formulating a plan to establish a new district library with its own dedicated voter-approved millage, funded by between 1 and 2 mills a year. One mill would cost $100 in property taxes for the owner of a home valued at $200,000, board member Wendy Gutowski noted Wednesday.

"I think this is a very poor time to go to the people and ask them for more money for something as important as the library," one man said. "People don't know where their school funding is coming from."

Board member Lynn Parklan noted that the board already has

Schools continue to talk to unions

By MICHELLE HARRISON

Negotiations continue with six bargaining units in the Northville school district.

"We're making progress, but I wouldn't say anything is imminent," R. Roy Danley, director of personnel, said.

Danley said compensation and insurances are the key issues stalling contract agreements with all of the groups.

Teachers in the district have already agreed to terms. Members of the Northville Education Association accepted a wage freeze (excluding step scale increases) for the first year of a two-year contract. That contract was approved Sept. 15 by the Northville Board of Education.

The district has met most often with the American Federation of Teachers, representing over 60 para-professionals and special education professionals. There have been five meetings between the two groups with the next one scheduled for today.

Representatives of the International Union of Operating Engineers will sit at the bargaining table again with district negotiators Thursday. The union represents 97 individuals working as bus drivers, food service workers, custodians and maintenance

Trick or treat brigade

They weren't exactly scary but they had fun at the Northville Parks and Recreation Department's annual preschool Halloween party Wednesday, Oct. 27. The event, held at the Recreation Center from 4 to 5:30 p.m., featured games, stories and refreshments for the youngsters. Parks and Rec assistant director John Powe and student intern Jason Spiller helped supply the entertainment. Even some parents got into the act and came outfitted with costumes. The children also got the chance to do some trick or treating, walking to nearby city hall and begging at the finance, building and city manager's offices. Above, 3-year-old Alisha Adams, a gigantic eat of corn, receives a treat from a city worker, while, left, Batman, also known as 4-year-old Andrew Close, shows what he's made of with an eagle-eye stare.

Controversial budget up for review tonight

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

There was support Thursday from Northville Township trustees to thaw the proposed 1994 freeze on shared services allocations.

Despite a budget review committee's recommendation to hold funding of shared services to the 1993 level next year, three trustees said they wanted to see increases for the four shared service departments included in the proposed $4.1 million budget that goes before the public and the board tonight for approval.

But while trustees were struggling with whether to melt the freeze, Township Supervisor Karen Baja complained about increasing taxes.

"It is time for citizens to realize that if they want those services they have to be willing to pay for them," the supervisor said after the trustees debated back and forth about funding shared services.

"There has to be some other way to finance joint services so they don't have to go through this every year," Baja said.

The supervisor is hoping to avoid yearly debates between city and township officials over funding for shared services by raising taxes to support those departments.

"I'm tired of being yelled at for not providing services and then at the same time being yelled at because things are too expensive," she said.

Baja's comments followed the board's lengthy discussion over whether the proposed freeze for the parks and recreation department, the senior center, library and Northville Youth Assistance would be left in the budget recommendation that will be reviewed at tonight's public hearing. Trustees weren't able to talk Treasurer Rick Engelland into amending the budget he and a com-

Attorney vows to help reduce high legal bills in twp.

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Attorney Leonard Krzyzaniak said Thursday night he was willing to do whatever it takes to lower his bills for legal services.

At the request of the township board, Krzyzaniak came to Thursday night's study session to answer questions about his monthly billing that had depleted the township's 1993 budget allocation for legal services in the first seven months of his contract.

"I'm glad to be here to answer questions," he said. "You want to control costs and I'm all for that."

Bills from Krzyzaniak's firm, Vanderveer Garza have come under fire recently from Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand and Treasurer Rick Engelland after both noticed the bills were increasing to an average of $29,000 a month.

The clerk questioned several of the firm's bills in September and October before she co-authored an attorney-use policy that sought to control legal costs. Engelland was tipped off to the mounting bills when the township's budget review committee began digging into them in preparation for the 1994 budget.

Voters head to polls to elect council reps

Tomorrow is the day for all civic-minded city residents to cast their ballots for the council members of their choice.

Three candidates are running for two four-year terms on the city council. Current Council Member Mark Cryderman, facing his first election since being appointed to the council in September of last year, faces off against Planning Commissioner Charles Keys and businessman Kevin Hartshorne. The new terms officially begin Nov. 9.

Mayor Chris Johnson is running unopposed to hold onto his two-year seat, for the third time in a row. He was first elected to the post in 1987. Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers and Council Member Paul Folino do not face re-election until 1995.

The mayor earns a $600-a-year stipend while council members receive $500 a year each. The council meets at 8 p.m. on the first and third Mondays of each month, as well as at additional meetings on an as-needed basis.

Polls will be open between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wayne County residents, those south of Baseline Road, must cast their ballots at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St. Oakland County residents vote at Amerman School, 847 N. Center St.

There are no other questions on the Nov. 2 ballot.

WHAT'S INSIDE?

Turnout low at school building planning session

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Glenna Davis admits she was a bit disappointed with the small turnout at the first meeting of the future facilities usage committee.

"I was discouraged because we didn't have a balanced group," Davis, chairperson of the Northville Board of Education's facility subcommittee, said. "I thought that we would have no credibility."

These days, though, Davis is pleased, with how things are working out. Twenty-seven people are now serving on the committee, which has been divided into two subcommittees.

The future facilities committee's purpose is to recommend how the district should utilize its buildings. The committee is also studying transportation routes and school attendance boundaries as well as the possibility of changing the use of facilities.

One of the subcommittees is studying demographics.

"We're trying to project in five years what Northville will look like," Davis said. "... we don't want any decisions we make not to be congruent with a long range plan."

Currently, the demographic subcommittee is reviewing population figures from Northville Township, Novi and the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). The figures are being used to project future growth in the district from new housing developments.

"It's really a cumbersome, tedious, boring job, but it will pay off in big dividends," David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said.

The subcommittee will also try to figure out why the Lansing enrollment projections came in at 107 students below the 1993-94 head count. Lansing is a consulting firm based in Lansing which has projected the Northville enrollment figures for at least the past five years.

In addition, the subcommittee will investigate as to where the families leaving the district moved to and the reasons behind their moves.

"That's pertinent data," Davis said. "And the committee has taken that on, too."

The other subcommittee is studying the optimal use of buildings within the district. Grade alignment will be a major topic of discussion. More specifically, subcommittee members will compare the middle school vs. the junior high concept. "Middle schools are different than junior high schools," Davis said. "Middle schools have more choices. Kids that age tend to want to concentrate on one thing."

Northville, however, follows the middle school theme of offering 10 week classes, rather than semesters, to allow students more of a choice in subjects.

Whatever the subcommittee recommends, though, it will not compromise the quality education being delivered to Northville students, Davis stressed.

The optimal use subcommittee has been touring all the buildings in the district. Bolitho said members are talking with each of the principals and reviewing floor plans, paying close attention to storage, play, parking and program housing areas.

"You don't get a lot just looking at a blueprint," Davis said.

There are other things to consider, such as the state mandate which now requires schools to provide a health classroom. Silver Springs is currently using a storeroom to accommodate that requirement while a health room was constructed at Thornton Creek.

"We have to look at how each school accommodates that (mandate)," Davis said.

The ultimate goal of the facilities future use committee is to portray an

Paul Folino named Citizen of Year

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It may have been the first time Paul Folino has ever been at a loss for words.

Folino, a community stalwart with 20 years of service on the Northville City Council and countless other titles under his belt, was named Citizen of the Year by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce last Sunday, Oct. 24.

Folino joins a long list of honorees since the award was first presented to Jan Reef of Reef Manufacturing in 1976. Last year's balloting resulted in a split decision, with the awards going to Civic Concern Director Marlene Kunz and Downtown Development Authority member Greg Presley.

Kunz and Presley announced the latest winner during the chamber's annual brunch meeting, held this year at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

Folino had already received a plaque as a past chamber president when he was called up again. His mouth dropped open as the announcement was made, and a visibly moved council member returned to the lectern to say "I guess this is one of the proudest days of my life, and I want to thank my family for helping me make it to this day."

Folino is still recuperating after open-heart surgery in 1991 and several follow-up procedures.

In presenting the award, Kunz noted that Folino's civic involvement extends at least back to 1954 when he chaired the program to deck downtown Northville with Christmas decorations, and continued through his years of involvement as a charter member of the chamber and years of service on the Northville Recreation Commission and Rotary Club.

When first elected to the council in 1969, Folino made the recommendation that the city pursue a senior citizens' housing complex which led to Allen Terrace. In 1977 he left the council for four years and became chamber president. During that time, Folino talked the city into letting the chamber market Mainstreet '78 after city voters turned it down by a 3-to-1 margin. Four months later, it passed by an equally wide margin.

Folino also was instrumental in the redesign of South Main that resulted in the landscaped boulevard it is today, after long negotiations with the Wayne County Road Commission and state officials.

A lifelong Northville resident, the 64-year-old Folino has worked as a State Farm insurance agent and adjuster for the past 32 years.

nance employees.

Union members have been working on a month-to-month extended contract since their pact expired July 31.

The Northville Association of School Administrators will meet with district representatives for its fourth bargaining meeting Wednesday. Salary contracts for all building administrators, including the two center program supervisors, expired June 30.

The Nurses and Certified Occupational Therapist Assistants and the Secretaries have met with the school district's negotiating team. No additional meetings, however, had been scheduled as of last week.

Three nurses and one occupational therapist who work for the special education programs are included in the Nurses and Certified Occupational Therapist Assistants unit. The topic of discussion is the unit's schedule of benefits.

Approximately 25 employees belong to the secretary's group. It, too, is expected to negotiate a schedule of benefits.

Again, a schedule of benefits is the issue facing the Teacher Assistants. The 19 employees in this group, as well as the secretaries, are not affillated with any formal union.

The only other pending contract is the one between the district and the Central Office Administrators. This unit includes all central office administrators except Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. Board of education members extended Rezmierski's contract for one year. For the second time in two years, Rezmierski accepted a wage freeze. No bargaining meetings have been scheduled for that group.

Man disavows responsibility in chain car crash

A 27-year-old Plymouth man claimed he was hit from behind when he smashed into the car ahead of him on North Center near Dunlap Oct. 23, but city police did not buy the excuse.

A police officer investigating the scene that afternoon noticed that, although the man's car had a small scrape on its rear bumper, the damage there was "far less" than the damage to the front of his car and the rear of the car he hit, and to the rear of the third car that the second car was pushed into.

The driver of the second car told police he saw the Plymouth man looking at something either inside or outside the car, rather than straight ahead, just before the crash. The driver of the third car added that the man pulled to the curb ahead of him after the crash, jumped out of his car and said, "Why did you stop?"

Police cited the man for failing to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

LEATHER JACKET LIFTED: A patron of the Wagon Wheel Lounge, 212 S. Main St., reported that his leather bomber jacket was stolen just after midnight Oct. 28 when he went to the bathroom. He had left the waist-length jacket, light brown with a wool collar and grey silk lining, laying over a seat at the bar. It was valued at $180.

CAR BATTERY TAKEN: A $70 Motorcraft battery was stolen from a rental car parked at McDonald Ford, 550 W. Seven Mile, between Oct. 16-28. The battery was taken from a blue 1993 Ford Tempo that was parked in the dealer's south side lot.

BIKE STOLEN: A boy's dirt bike valued at $50 was stolen from behind Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant, 108 E. Main St., sometime between Oct. 23-25. The bike was described as a white Hustler model with silver handlebars, white tires and black and blue brake grips. It was unlocked.

FENDER BENDER: A 45-year-old Northville man was cited for failing to stop after driving into the back of another car on eastbound Seven Mile at South Main Oct. 28. The forward driver had stopped for a stop sign that afternoon and then pulled forward before stopping again, as the Northville man continued forward.

INJURED PERSON: Township police found an 18-year-old Northville woman crying in a basement bedroom on Thursday, Oct. 28. The woman's guardian said she suffers from a mental disorder similar to mental retardation. Fire and ambulance crews attended to small cuts the woman had on her face and stomach. She was treated in the home for minor injuries and is undergoing counseling.

MINOR IN POSSESSION: Township police forced a 20-year-old male and his 17-year-old female passenger to empty the 12 bottles of beer they had in their car when police found them parked Wednesday at Sheldon Road and Five Mile. The Ypsilanti man was ticketed for possession and will face the charge in district court on Nov. 17.

STOLEN LINCOLN: A California man said somebody stole the rented Lincoln Town Car he had parked in the lot at the Hampton Inn on Wednesday, Oct. 27. Police found some broken glass in the space where the car was parked. Also missing from inside the car was business clothing the man had stored in the trunk, shoes, Christmas lights, Lenox and crystal candle sticks, soap dish, pins and bowls.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Attorney vows to cooperate in cutting legal bills

Both officials, along with Trustee Gini Britton, were concerned that if the attorney's bills and access to him weren't controlled before year's end, the township would be paying out in excess of $80,000 over the budgeted $162,000 for legal services in 1993.

At the invitation of Township Manager Bill Richards, who has now been charged with getting a grasp on the bills, the attorney was asked to come to the study session and devise a plan to curb his costs.

He did just that. Krzyzaniak came to the meeting with a list of suggestions he had compiled to reduce fees. His list included everything from asking trustees to cap budgets on cases to installing a 1-800 phone number to consolidating meetings with department heads and elected officials during his weekly office visits.

After explaining his billing procedures, the attorney suggested the board impose budget caps on general legal inquiries and on individual cases. Krzyzaniak said if the caps were imposed, he agreed to keep the board posted on their status and warn trustees when they were nearing depletion.

"We'll keep you posted to how close you are and we'll give you estimates (on the amount spent) on cases," he said. "We are more than willing to do that and work with the board on that basis."

Krzyzaniak attributed a large portion of his bills to the number of lawsuits Northville Township is battling. He cited costly court battles with the owners of the Plaza Mall on Seven Mile to bring the strip mall into compliance with township ordinances as one case that's been an expensive fight for Northville taxpayers. Other cases he said he has appealed, but the decision to appeal similar cases in the future will now rest with the amount of money the board is willing to spend.

"There has been a lot of on-going litigation that I think we have gotten under control," he said. "... You have to decide when you want to fight the battle or roll over."

"But we have been trying to provide you with the best legal services we can for the money," he said.

After sharing his suggestions, the attorney was willing to hear what trustees wanted to do about curbing his costs. He said he was aware there was a movement afoot to limit employee and elected officials' access to the law and other lawyers in the firm. He also knew that the clerk was hoping to discontinue his five-and-a-half-hour weekly visits to township hall on Wednesday mornings.

"When we receive a call, we respond to it," he said. "That's what we've done in the past and it's worked out.

"The office hours have been positive," he said before suggesting that department heads stockpile their questions for him until the Wednesday morning meetings. "I think we utilize the time (at those meetings) well and those face to face meetings have worked out well."

"I have been spending a lot of time with Carol Maise on (the) Home Depot (project)," he said. "I don't come here and twiddle my thumbs," he said about the Wednesday morning meetings with staff at township hall.

Krzyzaniak was quick to defend his decision to not open a local office here immediately, even though he had told trustees he would do that during the interviews if his firm was awarded the contract.

"That's still a possibility," he said. "But a 1-800 number would also help to cut costs."

"Quite frankly, I have a 30-day contract with you people, I was hoping a relationship would develop... I think if we had a better relationship I would do that."

When asked his opinion, Trustee Mark Abbo said he thought it was the attorney's responsibility not the board's to lower the bills.

"I think you have an obligation to keep cost down as much as possible," he told Krzyzaniak. "You need to shift it to a level that is more efficient. Maybe you could use an associate rather than a partner. It behooves you as much as possible to keep billing down for Northville Township."

"We just don't have the resources," Abbo said.

Abbo favored the attorney's suggestion to audit his accounts more closely and to provide better projections and forecasts to what individual cases might cost the township.

Trustees and Krzyzaniak seemed to reach a tentative accord over the billing issue. Clerk Hillebrand was ill and absent from Thursday night's meeting.

Even though trustees didn't get to debate the attorney use policy, they seemed at ease that Krzyzaniak was committed to reducing his bills. The attorney said his firm had already implemented some changes in the township's bills and hoped trustees would see lower invoices in the future.

"Give us a month or two to see if those things are changing," he said. "If not we can meet again. But we aren't here to run up legal hours unnecessarily."

"We are willing to work with you and we want to be your attorneys if you want us to be."

Krzyzaniak didn't bill the township for his appearance at Thursday's meeting.

Trustees to look at budget that freezes shared services

mittee of four drafted for the board.

Even after Trustee Gini Britton and Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand reminded the treasurer that the board approved truth-in-taxation this year to avoid cuts like this next year, Engelland was still not willing to change the budget. Approval of Truth-in-Taxation allows the township to increase taxes at a level commensurate with the growth in the value of property in the community.

Engelland said instead the budget will remain as is until trustees tackle it after the hearing tonight. Then if the majority of the board want to see funding for joint services increased, the budget will be amended.

Clerk Sue Hillebrand and Trustee Britton were opposed to the no-growth budgets the township's budget review committee had recommended for 1994.

Both officials said they voted in favor of truth-in-taxation in August to improve services, not reduce them.

Hillebrand who was ill and not at the meeting asked Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzer to stand in for her at Thursday's study session and express her view.

The deputy clerk read the clerk's comments which indicated that Hillebrand wants to see the four shared service departments receive the $30,000 in increases they had requested from the township this year.

"The Board of Trustees voted truth-in-taxation in. She feels that that money should go to directly benefit services to the community," Switzer read from the clerk's statement.

Britton's argument echoed the clerk's.

"The Recreation and Seniors' budget came in in June and we basically blessed them then," Britton said. "And since we did pass truth-in-taxation, and since the money is going into the general fund and not into the fund balance, it isn't fair to raise people's taxes and reduce their services."

Parks and Recreation Director Traci Johnson, Library Director Pat Orr and Beautification Commission Chairman Celia Larsen were at Thursday's study session to make a last ditch effort to trustees for the increase funding.

Johnson told trustees the opening of the Community Park was contingent on her $6,900 request being honored by the township. The director said the money which will be matched by the city's $4,200 contribution will be used to pay a full-time maintenance person to care for the new park and other recreational facilities.

"This is not meant as a threat,"

Johnson told the board. "But without the position we can't operate the department... I just want you to be aware of the impact."

The township's freeze would have a similar impact on the library which could lose state aid if its hours and staff is cut below current levels.

"If we can't meet state requirements we lose state aid and our membership in WOLF (Wayne Oakland Library Federation)," Orr said. "A no-growth budget puts us in a very, very difficult position in the obligations we have to the state."

For Larsen, the $2,000 cut proposed from the Beautification Commission's budget will wilt that group's plans for the year.

"Cutting our budget back to $500 really would kill us," she said. "We have a lot of exciting things we'd like to do and I just hope the board is behind us."

Trustees listened to the department heads pitch for more revenue, but failed to show a clear allegiance where they may vote on the issue tonight. The public hearing on the budget starts at 7 p.m. The board will meet right after it to discuss and adopt the new budget.

Ski Club registration is this week

Northville Parks and Recreation will be holding Northville Ski Club registration from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 6, at Meads Mill Middle School (band room).

Ski Club is offered to students in grades six through 12.

The registration fee of $80 includes 18 scheduled ski trips, four passes to Mt. Brighton, free ski lessons, group tickets and rental rates.

The first trip is scheduled for Dec. 3.

Ski club participants must attend the registration in order to have their photograph taken for their ID card.

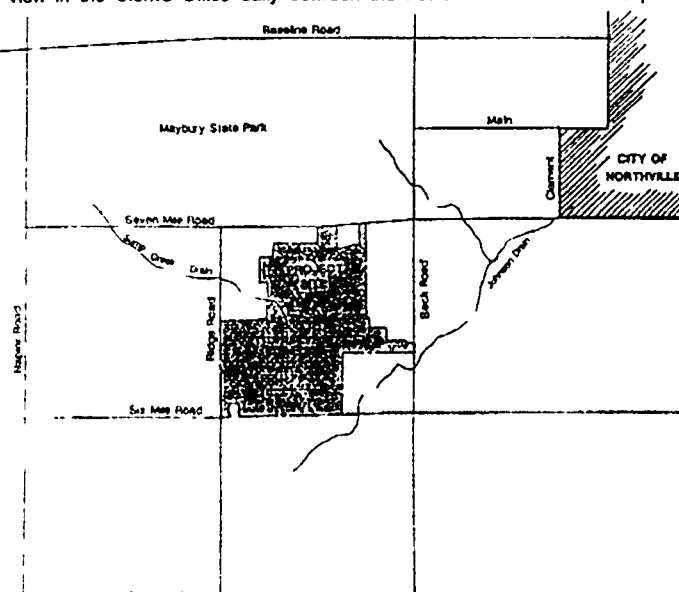

For information, contact Northville Parks and Recreation, 349-0203.

Our Opinion

Composting proposal still raises questions

Northville Township trustees took a wise step Oct. 21 in deciding to delay voting on a proposed composting arrangement with Browning Ferris Industries.

The plan has many dubious aspects that require further discussion, and people need to be given a chance to offer input at a public hearing.

Neither of these objections could have been accomplished if trustees had acted precipitously and approved the agreement at the October meeting.

Under the proposal, BFI would establish a composting operation on 80 acres at the company's Arbor Hills Resource Management site, near the Northville/Salem border at Napier and Six Mile. BFI would pay Northville Township a "host" fee of 3 percent of gross revenues. A limited quantity of compost product, a useful soil additive, would be donated to the township for use at municipal offices and buildings, and bags of the material would be made available to residents at no charge.

But there are question marks in the proposal. For instance, BFI would provide no curbside pickup. Instead, workers would be required to transport leaves, grass and yard clippings to the facility via the township's designated hauler or in official township vehicles.

Such a system would involve township resources and could be costly, in

Tomorrow is big day in Northville's future

Northville residents will go to the polls tomorrow to elect representatives to the city council. Three hopefuls are vying for two open seats on the governing body.

Incumbent Mark Cryderman is hoping to retain the seat to which he was appointed in September of last year, while planning commissioner Chuck Keys and resident Kevin Hartshorne are looking to win four-year terms.

Mayor Chris Johnson is running unopposed for a fourth term.

Though the election has failed to arouse strong feelings over either issues or candidacies, voters should not be complacent. Government can only be as good as the people who run it, and the higher the participation rate at the polls, the better the chances the most qualified will win election.

Government

terms of man hours if nothing else. The inconvenient nature of it could also hinder participation. One wonders why BFI doesn't agree to pick up compostables at the curb as they do in their recycling program.

Then, of course, there is the issue of odor. Some property owners with parcels near the site might have concerns about the possibility of foul smells drifting into their yards; they have every right to express those misgivings and hear explanations at an open meeting.

Trustees apparently saw these potential stumbling blocks and balked — wisely, we believe — at early approval of the plan. Only Supervisor Karen Baja wanted to go ahead with the contract, a curious move in light of her vow, made earlier this year, never to allow the establishment of a new landfill without appropriate public comment opportunities.

The public hearing on the composting plan is set for 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 4, in township hall.

CITY ELECTION

We urge Northville residents to exercise their right to vote on Tuesday. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wayne County Northvillians vote at city hall, 215 W. Main, while Oakland County city residents cast ballots at 847 N. Center.

The Northville Record has endorsed Cryderman and Keys for council.

What's township's excuse?

Rick Byrne

Now let me get this straight. When the shared services — the library, recreation department, the senior citizens center, and so forth — approached Northville and Northville Township with budget proposals, it was the city that gave the groups a funding boost. The township said it was freezing the funding at last year's level.

Funny, but I was under the impression that it was the city that was in financial dire straits; not the township.

Chalk up a big victory for city administration and elected officials for charting Northville's course back from the brink of disaster. Due to huge cuts in racetrack revenue from Lansing, the city was staring a seven-figure deficit in the face not too long ago.

The city's not entirely out of the woods yet, but a recent audit indicated that Northville was erasing the red ink quicker than expected. This recent round of shared service requests confirms the progress.

It does, however, beg the question: what's Northville Township's excuse?

BARONETTE SOLD: I was sorry to hear that the Japanese firm, Suzuki (the bakery, not the motorcycle maker) had sold the Hotel Baronette.

The Baronette graciously hosted all of our guests for last summer's induction ceremony of the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame. Everyone of them remarked at the wonderful lodgings.

But perhaps my best memory of that week came on the night of the induction. When we returned from the banquet at the State Theater downtown at around 11 p.m., Mr. Ngao, the hotel's general manager, personally opened the bar (which was ready to close early as it was Wednesday), whipped up a few hummers and summoned the piano player.

Ngao, a native of Japan, then demonstrated his home-grown karaoke skills by grabbing a microphone and belting out a few Sinatra and Tony Bennett tunes. He demonstrated a fine voice, and as I remember he sang a duet with Dan Gurney.

The new owners of the Baronette are an investment group. One of the five partners is from New York, so, who knows, we may hear more Sinatra yet.

HIGH WATER MARK: If you doubt the long-reaching effects of last summer's floods in the Mississippi floodplain, you need look no further than the local tool and die shops.

Many of the manufacturing plants in along the Mississippi were shut down by the rain and flooding. The result was a deluge of out-sourcing work that was shifted to areas that were high and dry.

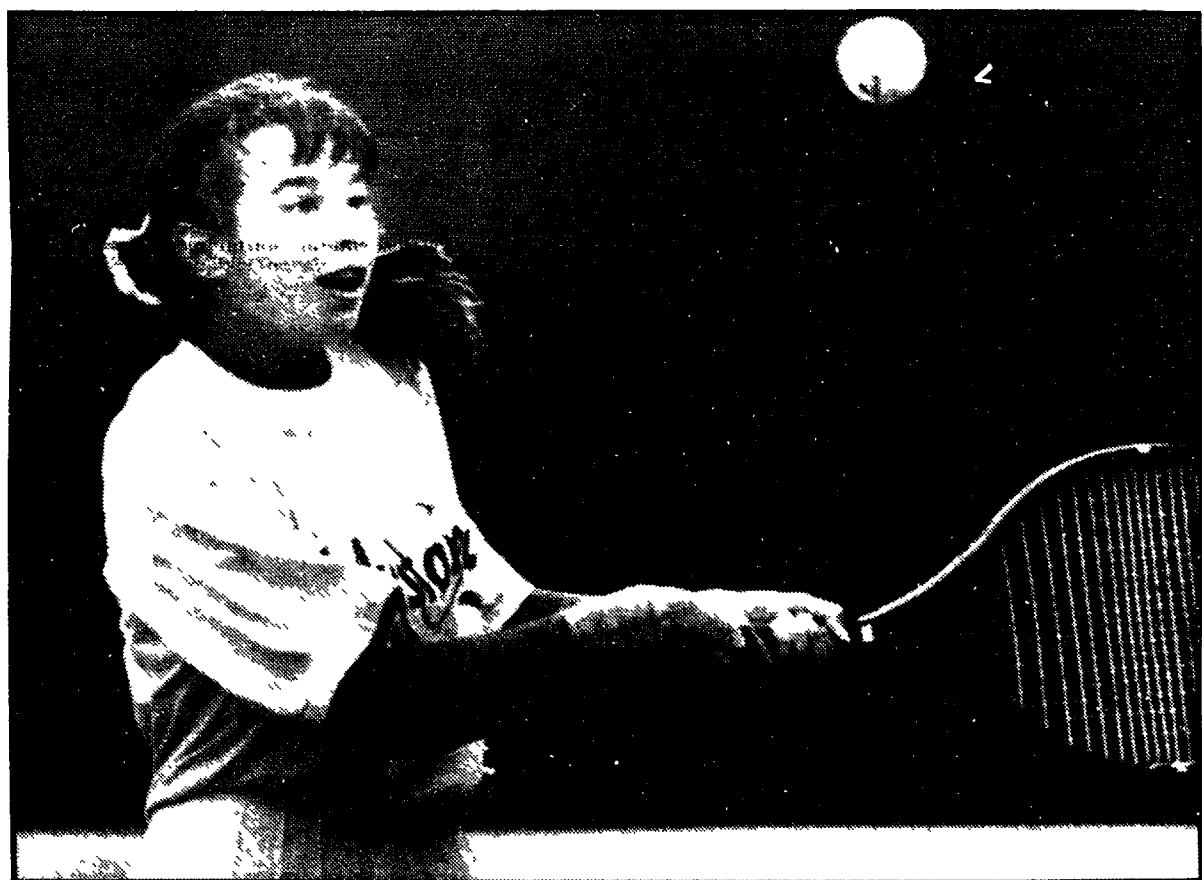

My buddy Jerry LeBlanc was one of those who benefitted. "I'm havin' my best year ever," he told me recently while I was visiting his toolmaking shop in Novi.

He's had an endless flow of need-it-yesterday jobs, in particular for various parts on the seating system of the 1994 Chevrolet Corvette. The plant that makes the Vette is in St. Louis.

Other shops in the area have been just as busy, and the torrent of work hasn't slowed yet. It'll be after the first of the year before things are back to normal along Big Muddy.

Give me Novi style elections

Phil Jerome

I couldn't believe it when I saw the headline on Mike Malott's column in The Novi News last Thursday.

"High marks of quiet election," it read.

"Quiet election?" I shouted. "You must be writing about Northville, not Novi."

Tomorrow is election day in cities across Michigan, and Northville and Novi are no exception.

Except for being on the same day, there's little similarity between the two races. In Northville, Chris Johnson is running unopposed for a fourth consecutive term as mayor.

There is some competition for two council seats, however, as three candidates — Mark Cryderman, Kevin Hartshorne and Charles Keys — vie for two vacancies.

And that's about it for the Northville race.

Novi is something different.

Four candidates — Lee BeGole, Nancy Covert-Cassis, Kathleen McLallen and Joseph Toth — are running for mayor, seeking to replace Matt Quinn and become only the eighth mayor in Novi's history.

And for three seats on the Novi City Council there are seven candidates — Hugh Crawford, Oliver Hayman, Walter Jenkins, Rob Mitzel, Tim Pope, Tim Ruyle and Robert Taub.

Drive through Novi and you'll find anywhere from seven to 11 campaign signs on almost every corner.

Drive through Northville and you'll see . . . well, let's just say that if any Northville candidates have campaign signs I haven't seen them yet.

And for excitement, Novi has the "Tail-Gate Scandal" — the somewhat blurry incident in which mayoral candidate Covert-Cassis may have hit a parked car, inflicting an estimated $1,100 worth of damage, and then departed the scene, not reporting it until almost a full day later.

And for more excitement, Covert-Cassis has hung a "pro-development" label on two of her opponents (McLallen and Toth), allegations which have in turn been labeled "irresponsible" and "disreputable" by Toth.

And Malott thinks Novi has had a "quiet election?"

Actually, both elections are running true to course: Northville typically has nice quiet elections with few candidates and little campaigning; Novi typically has raucous, ram-bunctious elections with all kinds of candidates running hard and fast.

I've never been able to figure out why it's almost always this way. My theory is that Novi's a lot more exciting place to be. The City of Northville is almost fully developed, while the City of Novi is approximately 40 percent developed.

Sure, Northville has important issues, primarily issues relating to downtown development. But Novi's issues are a lot more exciting, i.e. how shall the rest of the city be developed? Is "estate zoning" appropriate?

In Novi, there's still a chance to have considerable input on what the city will become.

Frankly, when it comes to city elections, I'll take mine Novi style.

Elections come and go in the City of Northville without much notice. But elections in the City of Novi are wide open affairs with lots of interested citizens engaging in spirited debate of relevant issues.

It's the spirited debate which makes the difference. When lots of residents care enough to run for office and when they wage intense discussions of the critical issues, the entire city is better off. Don't forget to vote tomorrow.

Amerman fourth graders plant trees at Maybury Park as part of the partnership in education program.

Students study habitats of nature

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Fourth graders participated in one of Northville schools' biggest business-education partnerships this month.

Jan Purtell, business-education coordinator, said about 400 students participated in the tour and hike at Maybury State Park.

"It's really one of our strongest partnerships because it will benefit an entire grade level and correlates so well with the fourth grade science and social studies curriculum," Purtell said.

While on the nature hike, students viewed wildlife and signs of wildlife, identified plants and leaves and studied pond life as well as how the water was supplied to the pond.

Students also got the chance to ride on a tractor-pulled hay ride for 1½ miles and learned about the benefits of plantings. They also viewed a honey extraction demonstration.

Some of the questions students were asked to answer following the trip included:

- Name at least four trees mentioned on the nature hike and one characteristic of each tree listed.
- Name at least four animals mentioned on the nature hike.
- List at least five steps in the food chain at the Maybury Pond.
- What is the role of queen bee? Worker bee? Drone?

- Name two ways trees benefit people.
- If everyone in Michigan recycled newspapers, how many trees would be saved in three months? One year?

In 1917, Maybury State Park was actually eight farms purchased by the city of Detroit. It was there that the Maybury Tuberculosis Sanatorium was developed.

The facility closed in 1969 due to improved TB treatment. The state took possession of the park in 1972, creating an Urban State Park. In 1975, William Maybury State Park officially opened, offering 945 acres of recreational land to the public.

This is the fourth year Maybury has entered into the partnership agreement with the school district.

"They involve a lot of students and they do a lot of hands-on projects so they're really involved in the partnership," Purtell said of the park officials.

Purtell added that the students like to do something nice while they're at the park so they take part in transplanting trees.

"We want our partners to benefit from the relationship," she said. "We gain a lot from their (Maybury officials) expertise and they take a lot of time with our kids that they wouldn't normally with other school groups. This is truly a partnership that is special."

Vacant elementary built under budget

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Even if the Northville school district wasn't able to open the doors of its new elementary building this fall, officials can take solace in the fact that the building was completed under budget.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent of instructional services, said although budget projections aren't final, some of the leftover bond money from the $8,754,870 project will be used to install telephone lines.

But it still breaks board of education secretary Glenna Davis' heart to see the building stand empty.

"Obviously it's stupid for a brand new building to be sitting there and us not being able to open it," she said.

But, she added, the board couldn't "willy-nilly" approve its opening when financial uncertainties faced the district back in May. Deciding not to gamble, the board opted to instead focus on bringing back teachers and beefing up the work force to reduce class sizes.

Some of the savings in Thornton Creek's budget were due to the board's decision not to board the windows and doors at the school, located on Nine Mile Road between Taft and Beck. The district anticipated a $1,500 cost for the boarding, however, bids came in at $7,420 and

Bolitho said the board was also concerned that boarding the buildings may have caused damage to the building itself by fastening plywood to the window frames and mortar joints. The district is patrolling the area, though, by keeping the construction fence and installing a locked gate at the entrance of the 17 acres.

A security system has also been installed and the grounds are checked every day, Bolitho said.

Most of the building has been furnished with student and teacher desks and chairs; however, Bolitho said some of those items had to be borrowed to make up for shortages in other elementary buildings this year. Those items will be returned when Thornton Creek opens.

And when will Thornton Creek open? That's a good question, according to Bolitho. Although it is the board's goal to open the building next school year, no one is sure how things will end up.

"We could be still using four elementaries and one of them could be Thornton Creek," Bolitho said. "Or we could be using five elementaries. It's really hard right now to predict because the demographics material is being collected and analyzed. There may even be another option that I'm not thinking of."

Speakers caution against new millage

pushed back the date for a potential election to give the state legislature time to sort out school funding. Though the board must obtain passage of a funding millage by May under the current district library proposal, board members plan to seek approval from the city council and township board to waive that deadline and allow the vote to take place during a regularly-scheduled election, probably next August.

Gutowski figured the rough cost of building and furnishing a new 25,000-square-foot library at $4 million, and rounded it off to $5 million with the cost of repaving and reconfiguring the parking lot to the west. She noted that a 20-year loan at 6-percent interest would only cost .6 mills. The costs of operating and staffing the new facility would be additional.

While a 1-mill levy would allow greatly-expanded services at the current facility, library board members have suggested that about 1.5 mills would be needed to build and operate a new facility.

Board members are eyeing a site along West Cady behind city hall that has been cited by past committees as a good location.

Gutowski noted that under the city's agreement with the Wayne/Oakland Library Federation, a library that checks more than 5 percent of its books out to another community's residents can limit the number of books that can be checked out to those residents, charge them a fee or seek reimbursement from the offending municipality.

Northville residents account for nearly 5 percent of the Novi Public Library's circulation, and also check many books out in Plymouth.

"I would much prefer to pay for my library in Northville and keep it here, than to pay Plymouth or Novi," Gutowski said.

The library board still plans to conduct a random phone survey of residents to hear their concerns about library services, and is still accepting written questionnaires. The questionnaire forms are available at the Northville Public Library at 215 W. Main St.

School planning session focuses on the long-term

accurate five-year projection. That would be used to determine if another school building will be needed in the future or if anticipated growth can be handled by manipulating school attendance boundaries, according to Bolitho.

Members of the committee include residents Kimberly Anderson, Kathy Arenz, Cindy Benedict, Barb Bennett, Dennis Curlew, Sandy Frazier, Jane Gardner, Linda Jo Hare, Stewart Kissingner, Jim Maher, Bob Minch, Tom Minielly, Gregory Pelc, Robin Polletta, Holly Raymond, Karen Reaume, Donna Riehl, Mary Ruple, Nancy Schieb, Dave Walch and Barb Woodrhn. Bolitho and Tom Bailey, operations director, and board members Davis, Pat Custer, Jay Dunkerley and Joan Wadsworth serve in advisory positions.

The demographics subcommittee will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the conference room, third floor of the central office building. The entire committee will convene 30 minutes later.

Gripping stageplay comes to Novi High

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It's a story that causes the heart to weep, the soul to anguish... and the mind to never forget.

Novi High School will present The Diary of Anne Frank this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. It's a tale that, unfortunately, isn't one. Rather, it's the dramatization of the true story of how one young girl remembered her world collapsing under the weight of Nazi terror in World War II Europe.

Anne Frank and her family and friends spent years hiding in a tiny room atop a house in Amsterdam following the German occupation of Holland. The devout Jewish family waited for the dark night of the Third Reich to pass, living every day in fear of discovery and arrest.

Frank kept a diary during that time, a document as poignant and painful as any ever written. In its pages she describes everything from the hardships they must endure as fugitives, to the everyday daydreams of a teenage girl. She speaks of fear, faith, terror, love and hope.

The diary was recovered after the war — after Frank and her family were sent to the concentration camps, where they perished. It was later published and turned into the award-winning play that will take to the stage this weekend at Novi High School.

It's an experience not to be missed. Tickets are $3 pre-sale or $4 at the door. Pre-sale tickets can be obtained by contacting Joan Arrick or Richard Hendin at Novi High School (344-8300).

The cast and crew of The Diary of Anne Frank consist of a highly talented group of students. They include:

- Cyrus Mistry as Mr. Frank.
- Sandy Kessler as Mrs. Frank (during the Nov. 4 and 5 performances)
- and Kelly Lutes as Mrs. Frank on Nov. 6.

- Karey Hart as Margot Frank.
- Becky Kohl as Anne Frank.
- Anthony Dixon as Mr. Van Damm.
- Corey Davis as Mrs. Van Damm.
- John Scrednicki as Peter Van Damm.
- Chrissy Charbonneau as Meip.
- Elliot Edmunds as Mr. Dussel (during the Nov. 5 performance) and Dan Smoliga on Nov. 4 and 6.
- Keith List as Mr. Kraler.

Student directors for the show are Tracy Watkins and Smoliga. Stage managing will be Danielle Kuenzel, assisted by Renee Burchfield. Coordinating all is Novi High drama director Hendin.

Schools take applications for ALPS gifted student educational program

The Northville Public Schools are now accepting parent nominations for the third through seventh grade Alternative Learning Programs for Students (ALPS) classes for the 1994-95 school year.

ALPS is the gifted magnet program currently housed at Amerman Elementary. Student screening begins next month for students currently in grades two through seven. If you believe your child exhibits exceptional ability and has a need for alternative programming, you may want to consider requesting an assessment.

Nomination forms are available from the individual school offices only and must be completed and returned to the Office of Instruction, Northville Public Schools Board of Education offices, 501 W. Main St., Room 308 or 310, Northville 48167. The deadline to register for screening during this school year is 4 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Further details about this program or process can be obtained from Gayle Fountain, ALPS facilitator, at 344-8448 or Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent, 344-8442.

Beans pack a powerhouse of energy, fiber

Beans are back! Beans are a powerhouse of nutritional value. They are loaded with protein, fiber, vitamins and minerals and low in fat.

Recent research has found that water soluble fiber like that found in beans can lower blood cholesterol and possibly decrease the risk of heart disease. Beans help control diabetes by slowing the amount of glucose (sugar) that is absorbed in the bloodstream. Eating a serving of beans for dinner may stave off the hunger for late night snacks.

A cup of pinto or black beans has 16 grams of fiber. You'd have to eat eight slices of whole wheat bread, or four cups of corn, or five bananas or 4 1/2 baked potatoes to get an equal amount of fiber. A cup of any cooked beans will provide at least half of the recommended amount of folic acid and B vitamins.

Beans also contain magnesium, potassium, zinc, and phosphorus. Beans are a plant food so contain no cholesterol and contain only 224 calories per cup, less calories than three ounces of cooked meat.

If you are new to eating beans, start with a small amount and increase gradually or you may have problems with gas. Eating cabbage or brussel sprouts with beans can also add to your stomach discomfort. Lentils, black-eyed peas, lima beans, chickpeas and white beans are thought to be less gassy.

Don't cook the beans in the same water in which you have soaked them. That water contains the sugar from the beans. Cook the beans thoroughly. That will make the starches more digestible.

Dry edible beans have been a staple in man's diet since the Bronze Age. In the 17th century it was thought that beans possessed magical powers and were used to cure everything from colds to baldness. Michigan is the largest bean producing state, growing about 40 percent of the total United States bean crop. Michigan produces navy, black turtles, cranberry, great northern, kidney, pinto and yellow eye beans.

Navy beans, are small white ovals and used in soups, stew, Boston baked beans and make a great puree. Black turtles are a medium black-skinned oval used in Mexican and Latin American foods.

Cranberry beans are medium ovals mottled pinkish red or beige and used in soups, stews and salads. Great Northern are large ovals and added to soups, stews and baked beans. Kidney beans are a distinctive kidney shape and are most often used in chili.

Pinto beans are medium ovals mottled light brown or beige and most often used in Mexican bean dishes, especially refried beans. Yellow eyes are medium white ovals with a dark yellow "eye" used most often in salads for color.

Dry beans need to be soaked before cooking. There are two methods — overnight and quick soak. To soak overnight, use six cups cold water and two teaspoons of salt for every pound of beans. Cover and let stand overnight. Beans soaked overnight keep their shape better than quick soak.

For a quick soak, bring one pound of beans and six cups water to a boil, cook two minutes, remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour. No matter which method you use, they will need to be simmered about two hours or until tender. Simmer beans gently to prevent the skins from bursting. Do not boil beans.

Cooked beans can be served alone, in soups, dips, with meats, in salads or puree and add to cakes, cookies or tines. Make lentil or black bean soup by combining them with chopped

Tasty Beginnings

Meatless means more healthy appetizers

By ORLANDO RAMIREZ
Copley News Service

It's not until the old cholesterol count starts edging into the danger zone that most people become acquainted with vegetarian cooking.

At first, a low-fat and/or low-calorie diet seems like cruel and unusual punishment after years of eating what you like when you like. Gone are the pepperoni pizzas, bacon and eggs, carne asada burritos (with extra guacamole) and triple-chocolate Haagen-Dazs ice cream bars.

Their replacements — skinless chicken, fish and vegetables, plenty of vegetables — seem so bland at first glance. But those who stick with the diet soon discover that cooking with healthy ingredients doesn't mean sacrificing flavor or sophistication.

The basic tenet of this style of cooking is the switch from animal protein to complex carbohydrates — vegetables, fruits, whole grains and legumes. Once most people wean themselves from animal protein, a modified or completely vegetarian diet seems not only feasible but preferable, given the vast array of choices possible in vegetarian cooking. In other words, once chicken or fish becomes a side dish, it is easy to eliminate it all together.

Discovering the variety possible in vegetarian cooking is essential to modifying long-term dietary habits. If the diet seems bland, then it will be that much easier to slip back into bad habits.

This presents a problem for those who are accustomed to eating ethnic foods, since many depend on frying or the use of high-fat ingredients. As with any cuisine, it all comes down to choices.

For example, the staple of Mexican cooking is refried beans and tortillas. The beans alone are a great source of protein, but the refrying (usually in lard) adds a high level of fat. Add some cheese and the fat count gets dangerous. And the tortillas, if they're flour tortillas made with lard, just add to the damage.

Instead of refried beans, serve them enteros (whole, not mashed) with a generous helping of low-fat salsa to keep them spicy. And forget the flour tortillas. Corn tortillas made from corn, water and a touch of lime are a perfect no-fat option.

Another challenge occurs when entertaining. The no-fat host has to find a way to please guests who may or may not share his or her dietary concerns. This becomes especially tricky when it comes to appetizers, where little morsels of meat or high-fat concoctions are the order.

A platter of crudites is the best way to provide healthy hors d'oeuvres. The key here is to provide a selection of raw vegetables in a wide variety of colors, textures and shapes.

Be sure to include cherry tomatoes, celery and carrot sticks, broccoli and cauliflower florets, red, green or yellow bell pepper strips, small sweet chilies, green onions, button mushrooms, endive spears and asparagus tips.

You may want to blanch the hard vegetables, such as the broccoli, cauliflower and carrots.

In addition, you will want to serve dips. A salsa fresca, made with tomatoes, chilies, cilantro, tomatoes, onions, garlic and lime juice is a welcome accompaniment, as is a blue cheese dip made with 8 ounces of tofu, 1/2 cup non-fat yogurt, 3 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon safflower oil, a dash of white pepper and a scant 3 ounces of blue cheese.

Corn tortilla chips — baked, not fried — and rounds of Melba toast are sensible low-fat additions to the platter.

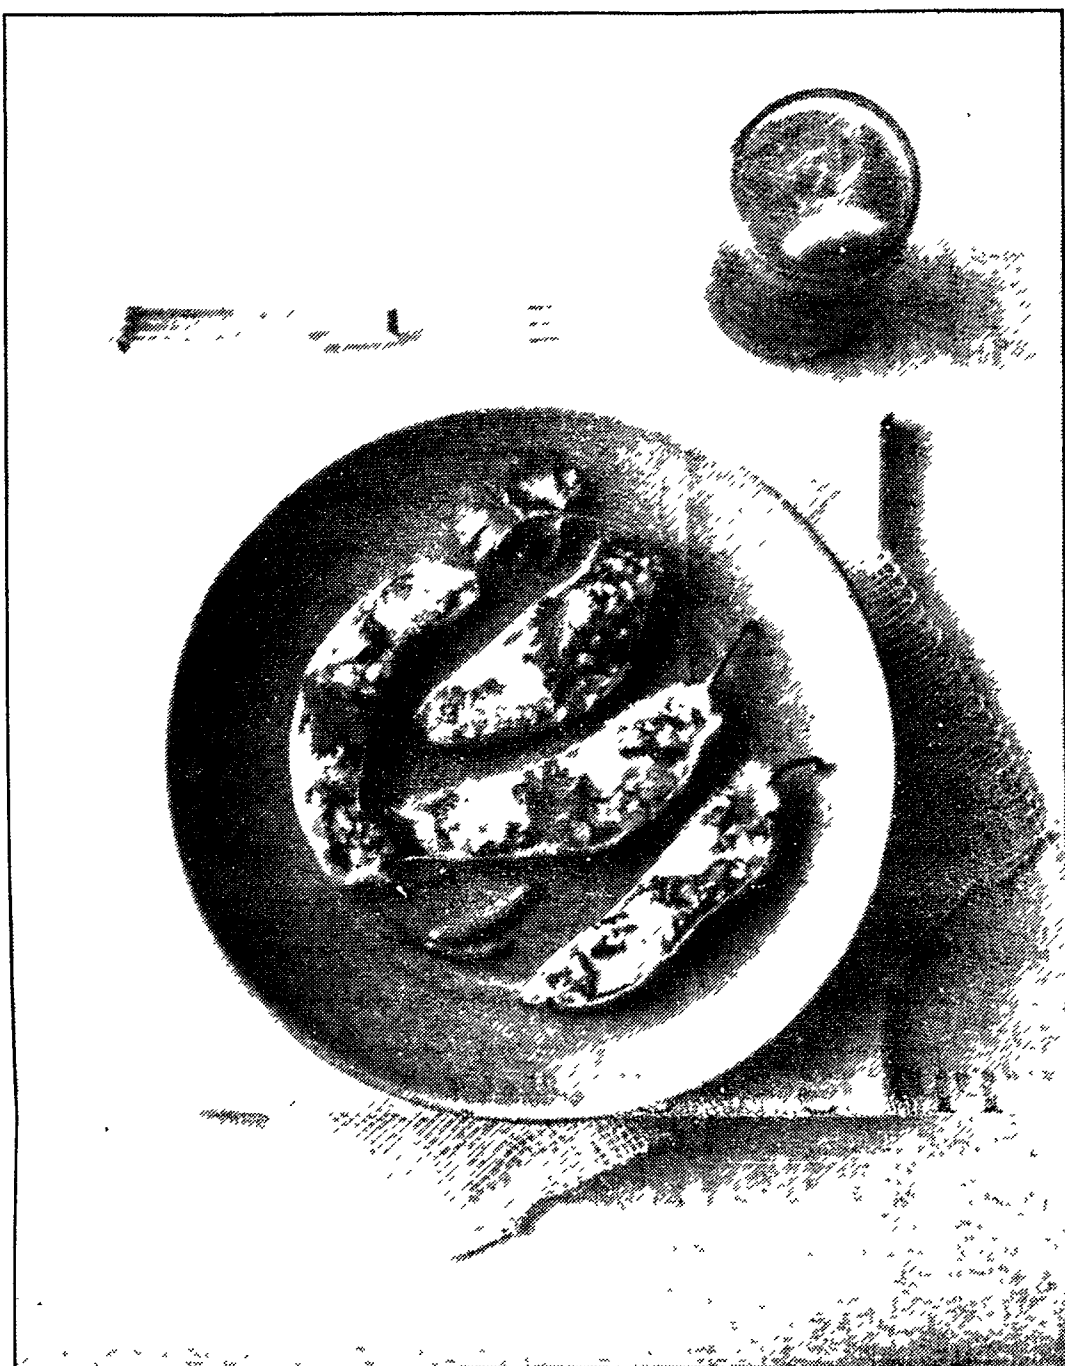

Of course, presentation is everything. Place different colors and shapes adjacent to one another for best effect. Be sure that some items are served chilled, while others are at room temperature.

Still, guests will expect hot appetizers and there is no reason to deny them. The recipes provided here are cross-cultural dishes that draw from different cuisines for tasty results.

Pita Quesadillas combine the Middle East and Mexico. Use whole-wheat pitas for best results since they are lower in fat than regular breads. And be careful to select low-fat and part-skim cheeses.

The jalapeno chilies can be tricky to work with. Some may want to wear rubber gloves while seeding and dicing since jalapenos are some of the hottest of the peppers.

As a general rule, the smaller the pepper, the hotter it is; or, as Spanish-speakers say, picoso.

Stuffed mild Anaheim peppers make a tasty, spicy, fun appetizer without meat.

The capsicum located in the membrane that holds the seeds can sting. If you're not using gloves, take care to not touch any sensitive parts of the body — particularly the eyes — before thoroughly washing your hands.

Corn tortillas can be substituted for pita bread when making this recipe with good results. Some may be tempted to microwave instead of broiling. Don't, because the microwave will make the quesadilla too soggy and guests may burn their tongues since the inner temperature of the cheese will be hotter than the exterior.

Finding the mild Anaheim chilies needed for the Stuffed Chilies may be difficult in some markets. Fresh is best, but canned chilies can be substituted.

These recipes are from the Cole Group's, California Culinary Academy Series cookbook, Elegant Low-Calorie Cooking, available from the publisher, 4415 Sonoma Highway, Santa Rosa, CA 95409, (800) 959-2717, or your local bookseller ($9.95).

PITA QUESADILLAS

1/2 cup grated part-skim mozzarella OR low-fat Monterey Jack cheese

3 small jalapeno chilies, seeded and diced
2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
2 tablespoons pimiento, drained and diced
2 large whole-wheat pita breads

In small bowl combine grated cheese, diced chili, cilantro, cumin and pimiento.

With sharp knife, slice open pita breads along edges, making 4 thin rounds of bread. Lay, cut side up, on parchment-covered baking sheet and sprinkle with cheese mixture.

Broil until bubbly. Cut each pita into 4 wedges. Serve hot. Yields 4 servings.

A favorite from the American Southwest, this recipe calls for fresh chilies; if they are unavailable in your area, use canned chilies or pimientos in stead. Use a small paring knife to slit chilies and remove seeds and membrane. These chilies are great served with a mug of sangria and a platter of low-calorie, unsalted tortilla chips.

There's more than seeds in that pumpkin

The only time most of us think of pumpkin is when we're carving jack-o'-lanterns or waiting to dig into a piece of pumpkin pie at Thanksgiving dinner. What many of us don't realize is that pumpkin is a nutritious vegetable that's high in beta-carotene, Vitamin A and potassium. So, if you love pumpkin as much as I do, you'll be happy to know there are many wonderful ways to enjoy the taste of pumpkin — even if it's not Thanksgiving.

Ever tried pumpkin pancakes? If you haven't, you're in for a delicious surprise. Haitian Pumpkin Pancakes will bring an international flair to your Sunday morning brunch. Top with reduced-calorie maple syrup or serve with a fruit spread.

If you're interested in entertaining, remember that appearance and presentation is so important. If a dish looks appetizing, it will be appetizing to your guests. Be creative with your pumpkin presentations.

Take miniature pumpkins, carve out the inside and use the pumpkin shell as a soup bowl for delicious Pumpkin Soup. Or, chill the pumpkin shells and use them as serving bowls for Pumpkin Pudding, an appetizing alternative to fattening pumpkin pie.

Although you can't beat the taste of fresh pumpkin, you can still enjoy these recipes even when it's not in season. Canned pumpkin puree is always available at your grocery store and offers the same nutritional value as fresh pumpkin.

HAITIAN PUMPKIN PANCAKES

1/2 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoons each salt and ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon each ground allspice and ground ginger
1 cup evaporated skimmed milk

1/2 cup canned or cooked and pureed pumpkin
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Into medium mixing bowl sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, and seasonings. In separate medium bowl combine remaining ingredients; add to dry ingredients and mix until thoroughly combined.

Spray 9-inch nonstick skillet with non-stick cooking spray and heat over medium heat. Drop batter by rounded tablespoons into skillet, making 6 equal pancakes; cook until underside is browned.

Using pancake turner, turn pancakes over and cook until browned on other side. Transfer pancakes to warmed plate and keep warm. Repeat procedure 3 more times, using remaining batter and making 18 more pancakes. Makes 4 Servings, 6 pancakes each.

Each serving provides: 1 Bread, 1/4 Vegetable, 1/4 Milk, 20 Optional Calories on Weight Watchers' Plan. Per serving with canned pumpkin: 169 calories, 2 g fat Per serving with cooked pumpkin: 165 calories, 2 g fat

New to the restaurant this fall is the offering of French and Russian culinary selections, in addition to its traditional American cuisine. A variety of tempting entrees are offered daily, with prices ranging from $6 to $10. Each Friday the regular menu is cast aside in order to present an extensive "grand gourmet buffet" of appetizers, entrees and desserts for $10 per person.

Seating is limited to 50 guests per day. Reservations can be made by calling American Harvest at 462-4488. The American Harvest restaurant is located in the Waterman Campus Center at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile Roads in Livonia.

HOME CANNING COURSE: If you've promised yourself each year that you would learn how to can foods properly — this is the time to start.

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension is now offering a seven week correspondence Food Preservation course for $15 to cover mailing and printing charges.

For enrollment information and other food and nutrition, food safety and food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 858-0904.

The various lessons include — complete information on food safety; canning of low acid and high acid foods; pickling and jam and jelly preparation; freezing and drying of foods.

The lessons are mailed every two weeks to your home so you can work at your own pace. Complete background materials and recipes are provided. There's even a quiz at each lesson's end for you to see what you have learned.

WARM UP TO FOOD SAFETY: That's the message from the United States Department of Agriculture which warns there are more cases of food poisoning during the warm weather months. Here's some food for thought.

■ Don't use food from damaged containers. Check cans and glass jars for dents, cracks or bulging lids, paper packages for leaks and stains.

■ Serve food quickly from the cooler and replace it inside the cooler fast.

FDA INFORMATION ON SEAFOOD STORAGE: The Food and Drug Administration offers a toll-free consumer hotline — 1-800-FDA-4010 — 24 hours a day to answer your questions about seafood storage, handling, preparation, nutrition and more!

OLIVE OIL HOTLINE: If you've ever wondered about the "heart-healthy" benefits of olive oil, call the International Olive Oil Council hot line. The hot line is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Eastern time. Call 1-800-232-6548.

KNOW THE FOOD PYRAMID: Want to know what you should eat to stay healthy? "The Food Guide Pyramid, beyond the Basic Four," a new brochure, helps answer this question. The brochure condenses the information from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) booklet "The Food Guide Pyramid" and features the new food guide graphic on the elements of a healthy diet.

The brochure was developed by the Food Marketing Institute in cooperation with the USDA. For a copy, send a check or money order for $1 payable to the Superintendent of Documents, to Consumer Information Center, Department 159-Y, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

RECIPES WANTED: A new feature is appearing in the Creative Dining section of this paper. Known as HomeTown Cooking, it will feature recipes contributed by readers. With that in mind, we'd like to take this time to ask that anyone with a recipe that they'd like to share with all their neighbors in the Northville/Novi area please send it, along with your name, address, and phone number, to HomeTown Cooking, 104 W. Main St., Northville, MI 48167.

Any recipe will do. Perhaps you have a dinner-time favorite, or a recipe for bread that's been passed down through your family for generations, or maybe just a good, fast work-night cost-cutter. Send it in, and we'll feature it on these pages.

STUFFED CHILIES

12 fresh Anaheim chilies (also known as California chilies)
1 teaspoon safflower oil, for baking dish
¼ cup dry sherry
1 teaspoon olive oil
½ cup minced yellow onion
½ cup minced mushroom caps
1 bunch spinach, washed, stemmed and chopped
¼ cup grated part-skim mozzarella cheese
1 cup farmer cheese
2 cups rye bread crumbs, coarsely ground
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
Salt OR herbal salt substitute, to taste

Preheat oven to 400 F. Leaving stems on chilies, slit lengthwise and remove seeds and white membrane (see note). Set, cut side up, in lightly oiled baking dish.

In medium skillet heat sherry and olive oil until mixture is simmering. Stir in onion and cook over medium-high heat. Keep stirring until onion begins to brown slightly. Add mushrooms and cover; lower heat and cook until mushrooms weep moisture. (Add small amount of water if necessary to prevent mushrooms from sticking.) Remove cover and add spinach. Cover again and cook until wilted (about 3 minutes).

Remove from heat and add cheese, bread crumbs, cumin, cayenne and salt; mix well. Stuff chilies with mushroom mixture.

Bake until chilies are softened and cheeses have melted (about 30 minutes). Serve hot.

Note: When you are cutting chilies, it is a good safety precaution to wear rubber gloves. The chilies' pungent oils can sting fingers and then be transferred to eyes. Gloves also protect fingers from the sharp blade of the paring knife. Yields 6 servings.

These "kid-size" pizzas with a vegetable base are very easy for children to make and are great as snacks for adult weight-watchers. The pizzas may be served alone or on thin, low-calorie crackers.

ITALIAN ZUCCHINI PIZZAS

1 thick zucchini (see note)
1 cup Mary's Chunky Tomato Sauce With Fresh Basil (recipe follows)
½ cup thinly sliced large mushrooms
¼ cup grated Parmesan OR Romano cheese

Preheat oven to 200 F. Cut zucchini into round slices about ¼ inch thick. Place on parchment-lined baking sheet and bake until soft and moist but not brown (about 20 minutes).

Place 1 teaspoon sauce in center of each round, and then top with 1 slice mushroom and ¼ teaspoon grated cheese.

Broil pizzas until lightly browned and bubbly. Serve hot. Yields 4 servings.

Note: Rounds of eggplant may be substituted for zucchini.

This sauce tastes as if it's been cooking for hours when actually it's been on the stove only 30 minutes. The secret is in the presoaking of the dried herbs. Like perfume manufacturers distilling the essential oils of flowers and herbs by steeping them in alcohol, the herbs in this recipe are steeped in room-temperature wine in order to release the flavors without lengthy cooking time. This sauce can easily be doubled or tripled, freezes well and makes a great gift.

MARY'S CHUNKY TOMATO SAUCE WITH FRESH BASIL

2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil
1 tablespoon dried oregano
¼ cup dry sherry
1 teaspoon olive oil
¼ cup white wine
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 large red bell peppers, seeded and chopped
2 cups chopped mushrooms
4 large, very ripe tomatoes, coarsely chopped
3 large cloves garlic, minced
¼ cup tomato paste

In small bowl, place basil, oregano and sherry and let steep 15 minutes at room temperature.

In medium saucepan over medium-high heat, combine olive oil and white wine. Add onion and cook slowly until soft but not browned. Add bell peppers and cook 5 minutes.

Add mushrooms and continue cooking, stirring frequently, until they weep moisture. Add tomatoes, garlic and tomato paste; cook for 10 minutes more.

Pour sherry and herb mixture into sauce and bring to a boil. Lower heat to medium-high and simmer sauce for 10 minutes. Serve hot. Yields approximately 3 cups.

Granulated sugar substitute to equal 1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pumpkin pie spice
2 tablespoons reduced-calorie whipped topping (8 calories per tablespoon)

Ground cinnamon for garnish

In small bowl, combine all ingredients, except whipped topping and cinnamon, until blended. Spoon into 2 dessert dishes. Cover and refrigerate, or serve immediately.

To serve, place 1 tablespoon whipped topping on each pudding. Garnish with cinnamon. Makes 2 Servings.

Each serving provides: ¼ Milk, ¼ Vegetable, 10 Optional Calories. Per Serving: 80 calories, 1 g fat.

Beans are booming with good nutrition

celery, carrots and other vegetables and season with paprika, fresh chopped coriander, parsley and ground cardamom. Fill flour tortillas with black beans, tomato chunks, chopped lettuce and feta cheese and roll for a burrito.

Hummus is a blend of garbanzo beans, garlic, lemon juice, cumin, red pepper and sesame seed paste. It is a delicious Middle Eastern dip.

A pound of beans equals about two cups. Beans triple in volume when soaked and cooked so, a cup of dry beans yields three cups cooked. Dry beans will keep indefinitely if stored in a tightly sealed container or the original package. Cooked beans should be covered, and can be refrigerated up to four to five days.

Cooked beans and bean dishes can be frozen for up to six months. Beans are the "super stars" of the 1990s, take them off the back burner and enjoy a healthy, delicious, economical food.

Lois Thieleke of Birmingham is an extension home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County office.

Top chefs come to town for seminar

Schoolcraft College is cooking up a fall feast with acclaimed Michigan chefs Brian Polcyn of Pike Street, Steven Allen of The Golden Mushroom, Peter Loren of Opus One, and Ed Janos of The Avenue Diner for a special "Foods of Autumn" seminar on Sunday Nov. 21, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the College's Waterman Center.

Two seminar sessions are scheduled:

Session I, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. — Brian Polcyn will prepare Two Potato Terrine with Smoked Ham Potato Sauce, Noisettes of Lamb with Eggplant Quenelle and Roasted Tomato Tart, and Steven Allen will share valuable tips on homemade pasta preparation while he prepares his famous Lobster Lasagna, and Carrot and Zucchini Garnish.

Session II, 1:30-3:30 p.m. — Peter Loren will prepare Pheasant Whole Corn Soup with Chilis and Tomato, Michigan Trout Crunch Cakes with Basil Remoulade, and Steamed Black Walnut and Dried Cherry Pudding with Irish Creme Anglaise. Ed Janos will prepare three of his famous Michigan specialties — Michigan Bean and Ham Fritters, Layered Autumn Salad; and Oxtail Ravioli with Autumn Vegetable, Red Wine Essence Mustard Sauce. Participants will choose one presentation each session. The seminar fee is $100.

“The boy who delivers the crack, he’s eleven. He makes $300 a day but now he’s dead. These kids are not learning nothing except how to be hopeless.

How to die. You don’t need to go to no school to learn that. And that’s just it. These kids aren’t going. So I went to the schools to see what I could do. Me, a man who’s seen his neighborhood go from bad to worse. But now I’m tired of it and I’m going to start with the kids. They’re the hope. I go to the junior high and just show up in class and tell them to take pride in themselves. Pride in what they are and to have dignity. They can wake up in the morning and either go out and be mad at the world or do something to make it good for them. These kids just don’t know better. And that’s no good because how are our children going to have good lives if they don’t stay in school? There is a reason to stay. And I’m going to tell them. ”

This is W.W. Johnson’s real-life story. He is one of the little answers to the big problems facing every community in America. And because there are more people than problems, things will get done. All you have to do is something. Do anything. To find out how you can help in your community, call 1 (800) 677-5515.

Letterman's crack staff lines up sports guests

BY MICHAEL SCOGIN

Since David Letterman brought his talk show to its "better time, new station" on Aug. 30, the number of appearances by sports personalities seems to have increased. New York Yankees pitcher Jim Abbott, professional boxer Tim "Doughboy" Tomashek, jockey Julie Krone and Philadelphia Phillies first baseman John Kruk are just a few of the names that have visited the Ed Sullivan Theatre in recent weeks. So, without further adieu, from the home office, here are the top 10 reasons Letterman is having so many sports guests on the new show.

10. More Steinbrenner!
9. Now that Michael Jordan is retired, Dave finally has a chance to win the slam dunk title.
8. Gets to invite Vince Coleman to the neighborhood to give 4th of July safety tips to preschoolers.
7. Marv Albert still drops by to trade hairpiece stories.
6. Finally with a network that has a sports contract.
5. John Kruk comes over to polish off commissary leftovers.
4. Likes to hit the showers after the show.
3. Might have a shot at free New York Mets season tickets next year.
2. Complimentary Cruex!
1. Good excuse to say the name "Mookie."

Boxleitner is water-logged in NBC's "House of Secrets"

By John Crook

Any actor worth his salt is ready to suffer for his art. Being drowned, however, should be considered above and beyond the call of duty. Just ask Bruce Boxleitner, who stars with real-life love Melissa Gilbert in "House of Secrets," airing Monday, Nov. 1, on NBC.

In the psychological thriller, a remake of the 1955 French film "Diabolique" transplanted to contemporary New Orleans, a battered wife (Gilbert) and betrayed mistress (Kate Vernon) decide to kill a conniving doctor (Boxleitner). The plan: Drug him, drown him in a bathtub, then dump him in a garden pond.

Phoning from Tucson, Ariz., where he is filming the fifth "Gunsmoke" TV movie with James Arness, the actor says he knew from the beginning his role would involve some grueling moments.

"When this (project) first came to me, I went out and found 'Diabolique' for Melissa... a birthday present, at the time. I kept thinking as I watched that bathtub scene, 'Oh, my God, how are we going to do this?' There's no way to do it but to do it. There's no Hollywood trickery.

"Being drowned is not fun. It goes against everything that we as upright, walking mammals who don't have gills (feel), against everything that all these years of evolution (have wrought)," he says. "Do you realize what water is in your eyes — for hours? I drowned for, like six hours, with my eyes open and.. 'full eye' contact lens — and the irritation from the water getting underneath them. And, of course, it was dirty water because I was still in my clothes and my shoes. And when you go down in water backwards, the water just floods up your nose."

Things got worse when he had to be dumped into the pond. "I had a bad ear infection for a while," Boxleitner recalls, adding with a laugh, "You know what frogs do in that water."

The summer filming in and around New Orleans took its toll not just on the actor. "The scene of the initial drowning... was shot around four in the morning," he says. "Melissa fainted, she went right out that night, just dead from exhaustion, and we had to revive her with oxygen."

Despite that, Gilbert's plucky character drives most of the movie, and she takes the phone long enough to talk about her character, Marion Ravenel. "When you're playing a Southern woman, it's a very easy trap to fall into, 'playing the shrinkin' vi'let,' very Blanche Dubois," she says in an exaggerated drawl.

"(Marion) was sort of an amalgam of Tennessee Williams characters, but more than anything she was Maggie (from 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof'), who was very strong. If I had played it too simpering and weak, it wouldn't have worked, because somehow I had to find the strength to take what was mine and kill the man I loved, in order to save what I had."

The scene in which Marion must serve her husband lemonade laced with sleeping powder is one of the movie's most riveting moments, and Gilbert says dryly, "That was quite a moment for us. It's one of my favorite scenes ever that I've done. Can I serve lemonade at the wedding, dear?" she asks her co-star and fiance.

"No lemonade!" Boxleitner says firmly, as he takes the phone back. "I swear to God, it was hours of that, and my hands were so sticky!"

Speaking again of the thriller, in which virtually nothing is what it seems, Boxleitner throws in an extra wrinkle about his character, Dr. Frank Ravenel. "I don't think there is a Frank Ravenel," he says. "I questioned whether he was really a doctor. I think he (may have) killed the doctor and taken his identity."

On a personal level, Boxleitner says he originally called the recently divorced Gilbert at the suggestion of his ex-wife. The co-stars became engaged in September, on the anniversary of their first date.

"I don't know why; it just popped out of my mouth, I guess," Boxleitner says. Gilbert, 29, has a 4-year-old son, Cody. Boxleitner, 43, has two sons: 13-year-old Sam, and David, who turns 8 on Nov. 16. They live on a ranch in Hidden Hills, Calif.

TV CROSSWORD

SOAP WORLD

Readers give
'Loving' responses

BY CANDACE HAVENS

In true soap opera fashion, just when things were getting good on "Loving," ABC brass decided to bring in a new executive producer, Jo Ann Emmerich, replacing Haydee Grainger. Emmerich takes over on Nov. 1, so it will be a while before we see any drastic changes.

A few weeks ago we asked readers to take a look at "Loving" and tell us what they thought. The letters printed below are representative of the mail we received about the show. Here is what some readers had to say:

Dear Candace: I read your column and decided to give "Loving" a try, and now I am hooked. I can't believe I have been missing such a great show. I already have some favorite characters: Trucker, Dinah Lee and Ava. Thanks for turning me on to my new favorite soap—Debbie D. in Pa.

Dear Candace: I have been watching "Loving" since it began. It is a wonderful, funny soap, with great story lines. I will continue to watch the show for as long as it is on. I only hope it will survive the competition. Suzie McLean, Lehighton, Pa.

Dear Candace: I have been watching "Loving" since it was first aired and have watched every episode since. The show has vastly improved over the last few months.

The story line with Ava, Jeremy and Alex is funny, a pleasant change from the usual doom and gloom of soaps. I think Ava would make a great Scarlet for "Gone With the Wind."

I am glad Curtis is gone; he added nothing to the show. Shana's and Stacey's characters are much more appealing since the writers have given them a sense of humor. The music is also terrific. Louie was a great loss, and I'm glad they didn't replace his character—Barbara Fraser, Windsor, Ontario.

Dear Candace: "Loving" is the best soap. It has a great cast. I really miss Louie, he was one of my favorites. My only complaint is that I would like it to be an hour long show. I haven't missed an episode since I retired. Tell them to keep up the good work. Mildred Polzer, Clifton, N.J.
