Library budget falls short of 1993 projections

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Wnter

The Northville Public Library won a hollow victory Nov. 1 when the township board granted most of its 1994 budget request.

The board had been considering a recommendation from its budget committee to hold its 1994 contribution at the 1993 level of $189,036. While it did not grant all of the library's requested 10-percent hike in that contribution, the library was promised $12,714 more, a 6.7-percent increase.

But the victory was not large enough to stave off a cut in library services, said Library Director Pat Orr.

Orr, speaking before the Northville City Council Monday night, warned that the library could experience financial trouble even if its original budget request is approved.

She noted that the board passed the budget this past summer "with very strong reservations about its status," due to questions about ongoing labor negotiations with the city's clerical union and questions about funding requirements by the Wayne/ Oakland Library Federation, the library cooperative to which Northville belongs.

Since the city approved the library's budget in August, Orr said, projected WOLF membership fees for Northville have doubled from $8,000 to almost $16,000. Seven of WOLF's largest member libraries have moved to secede from the cooperative, a development which would require the remain ing libraries to increase their contributions. The result is there are fewer libraries funding the same services," she said. Also, she said, the council's recent approval of a 3-percent wage increase for some city employees will end up costing the library

14 -percent increase for the 1994 budget

The line item that we were able to fund does not cover the package approved by the city council at its last meeting," Orr explained. She said the difference is about

The library had sought a 7-percent increase in its overall $400,000 budget earlier this year, to be funded by 10-percent increases in city and township contributions. The higher city and township contributions reflect flat revenues overall and cuts in state

Orr noted that the township board had obected to a $10,000 line item for a district millage election when the library budget came before them for a vote. The library wants to maintain the line item to pay the cost of a special election for its district library plan next year, in case a regularly-scheduled August election contains several other millage requests. Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers noted that, in the past, both the city and township

Manager offers plan to eye utility funds

When the Northville Township Board of Trustees disbanded the water and sewer commission last summer, critics of the move argued the board did it to get access to an $8 million restricted fund.

In August, trustees asked Townway to implement a system of checks the board's request and has submitted a report and several recommendations that the board will consider

Faxon pokes fun at legislators' strategy for school finance

By MICHELLE HARRISON

State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, had the sparse audience at Monday's Northville Board of Education meeting in stitches as he humorously shared his opinions on school reform.

The politician used analogies in his lively, 45-minute address, which was often critical of Gov. John

There are so many things wrong with what has happened in the last few months, I can't find anything good about Lansing," Faxon said.

Faxon compared the latest movement in school reform — the elimination of property taxes to fund public education — to an approaching flood that moves a mile every day.

They (legislators) sit around and enjoy their coffee and tea," he said. "No one believes the flood is coming. Anyone who wants to stick their head in the ground and think property tax

Council passes Fairbrook park plan

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville Parks and Recreation has been given the green light to proceed with a host of improvements to Fish Hatchery Park — as soon as the funds become available.

The city council on Monday approved a 16-page master plan for the park that details $559,000 in improvements. The improvements would be implemented in six phases and funding would depend largely on outside grants and assistance prog-The parks department has already applied for nearly $229,000 in state Department of Natural Resources grants, to fund reconstruc-tion of the park's five tennis courts, rebuilding of a bridge, dredging and aeration of the pond and refurbishing of a nature trail.

The city should learn what portions of the grant have been awarded by the end of December, said Parks Director Traci Johnson.

Johnson was glad to see the council give its approval to the plan. "Now

Council members made several changes to the draft master plan before approving it, based partly on feedback from an Oct. 18 public hearing.
An Edenderry resident had asked the council to eliminate a trail extension that emptied onto Edenderry by way of a sewer easement, across his property. "I'm not interested in having my property part of a trail," he said then. Mayor Chris Johnson noted then that the city would be on shaky legal ground if it tried to extend the trail. Easements are significantly different than a public right-of-way." he

The proposed trail extension has been eliminated.

While one resident questioned proposals to light the park and fields Oct. 18, another said that some lighting, such as gas lamps, could serve as a deterrent to crime.

The council passed the plan with

We know what the end result will look like. the proposed lighting for parking areas and tennis courts intact, but agreed to revisit the issue before conexit made sense at Orchard. struction. Because the lighting is not planned to be installed until Phase 6. the park will likely remain unlit for several years.

At Monday's meeting, council members Paul Folino and Charles Keys objected to the many new trees shown on a conceptual site plan included in the master plan, citing fears that the screening could result in increased crime. Parks Director Johnson told them that the plan did not detail the final locations of trees.

This is not a landscaping plan," she said. "We're looking more for direction as to the . . . physical structures that are there rather than trying to identify the trees at the site."

Before landscaping is done, she said, the beautification commission will be asked for its opinion and the plan will go before the city's planning commission for approval.

Folino also objected to the plan's showing of a second exit from a new paved parking lot opposite Orchard

"I think it probably makes more sense to line it up with a street than another area, because people are looking for traffic at the street," he

Other council members were hesitant to delay the master plan approval process by sending it back for further modifications. "I don't want to go back to the drawing boards again because I think if we change it too much we're going to have to go for another hearing," said Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers.

"I would just like to get things completed so we can move along with the grant application."

The council passed the plan by a 5-0 vote, with Folino's amendments to review screening around a park restroom, review the parking lot exit at Orchard Street and require soil testing at the tennis court site to assure that new courts would not deteriorate due to groundwater.

"Rather than (stating a position) in terms of what we think about this bill or that bill, it will be in general (concepts)," Superintendent Leonard Re-

Cleaning crew questions arrest of black member

A cleaning crew at McDonald Ford accused township police of arresting one of its members last weekend because he was black. But police say the man was arrested for obstructing justice, not because of his race.

A township patrol car passed the car dealership and noticed the lights inside the office had been turned on after regular business hours. An officer then saw a man get into a 1978 Ford LTD and begin to back away with his lights turned off.

According to the police report, the officer pursued the vehicle because he suspected suspicious circumstances. The officer said he put his overhead lights on and pulled in front of the vehicle to block it from exiting. The driver of the LTD then stopped backing away from the building and then came forward fast enough to squeal the tires on his car.

The officer and the driver of the car, a 53 year-old Detroit man, exchanged words. It took several warnings from the police officer to get the man to stay in his car with his two passengers. After the Detroit man explained that he was a member of the cleaning crew, he complained that police were harrassing him simply because he was black.

Once again the driver exited his vehicle and approached the officer. In the report the officer said the man was "agitated and uncooperative." He was then arrested for interfering with police.

SPOUSAL ABUSE: Township police arrested the owner of a local sandwich shop for spousal abuse after he pushed his wife through a screen door following an agrument over the freshness of lunch meat. The incident occurred on Thursday, Nov.

According to the police report, the couple who are co-owners of the Seven Mile Road Subway shop were arguing over whether or not the meat used to make sandwiches was spoiled. He said it was: she said it wasn't. She continued to disagree. He then pushed her through the screen door and onto to the paved parking lot. Witnesses at the scene told police the husband continued to yell at his wife until she fled.

While enroute to the scene, a patrol car saw the woman in the Waterford Bend area. Officers stopped to question the woman and then proceeded to the scene without realizing she was the victim. After talking with the husband, police returned and picked up the woman and brought her back to the store. She told police her husband had pushed her down. but said she was not injured.

Police arrested the man for spousal abuse because they feared for the woman's safety.

WALKAWAY FROM STATE HOS-PITAL: A known burglar walked away from Northville Regional Hospital on Nov. 6, and remains at large. Christopher Leiss, a 29-year-old white male who has lived at the hospital for several years, was reported missing at 6:58 p.m. on that date. He is not considered dangerous, but Michigan State Police caution that he has a history of breaking and entering dwellings. Leiss is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighing 159 pounds with dark brown hair and blue eyes.

PUBLIC URINATION: A 51-yearold Detroit man was literally caught with his pants down at 9:10 p.m. on Nov. 3. Michigan State Police troopers were westbound on Seven Mile Road west of Haggerty when they noticed a vehicle parked on the right shoulder with its headlights on and a man standing at the passenger's side

When lit up by the troopers' spotlights, the man turned fully around and a stream of water was noticed eminating from his waist area. The man was issued a citation for indecent conduct/public urination. Evidence was non-retrievable and was left at the scene, according to police

FIRE AT STATE HOSPITAL: A fire broke out in a women's dormitory at the Northville Regional Hospital in the early morning hours of Nov. 7. Michigan State Police troopers were dispatched at 5:20 a.m. to investigate what started as a mattress fire in the west end of D Building. The fire was contained to the one room, though smoke filled the building.
Some 20 residents of the building were moved out, and no one was

State Police spoke with several subjects at the scene, but turned their investigation over to the Northville Township Fire Department, which responded to the alarm.

LARCENY OF LIQUOR: Two Detroit residents in their 30s were arrested on Saturday, Nov. 6, for stealing $336.29 worth of liquor from Meijer. Township police were called to the department store after store detectives detained the pair for stealing the goods. The pair stashed the six bottles of whiskey, scotch, schnapps and vodka in their clothing and purse before they were caught leaving the store by loss prevention detectives. They will face larceny charges in district court on Nov. 24.

AUTO THEFT: Township police are looking for the person or persons who smashed the passenger's side windows on a 1992 Jeep Cherokee before they stole the vehicle from Northville's Park Place Apartments Friday

A resident of the apartment complex said he borrowed the $18,000 vehicle from a friend in Pinckney to take it hunting. The Cherokee was packed with hunting equipment when thieves nabbed it from a carport in the complex.

AUTO ACCIDENT: A 27-year-old Plymouth woman was not injured when a Northville man in a Chrysler LeBaron struck her Mazda 323 when he tried to enter Six Mile from the Mobil Gas Station at Haggerty Road.

The woman was traveling east bound on Six Mile when the man made a right turn out of the gas sta-traffic. The Northville driver told police he didn't see the woman because of oncoming traffic. Neither driver was ticketed.

SAFE THEFT: The owner of Northville Auto Wash said someone tried to steal $300 from his office safe on Friday, Nov. 5. But police say the thieves' efforts must have been thwarted before the torch they were using could burn a hole large enough to open the safe.

POLICE SNAG EXPIRED LICENSE: A 28-year-old Detroit man had his expired Mississippi license yanked by city police after he was stopped for speeding on southbound South Main St. Nov. 6. The man was arrested for driving without a valid license and released after posting a $25 bond.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police arrested a 63-year-old Southfield man for driving on a suspended license Nov. 6. The man was stopped for speeding on Eight Mile at the city limits that morning when a computer check turned up a suspension for failing to comply with a court judgement in a Lincoln Park case. The case concerned a charge of driving without a seatbelt.

The man was released after posting a $100 bond and receiving a court

tion without yielding to oncoming to the Northville Michigan State Police Post on a fugitive warrant at 2:15 p.m. on Oct. 23. The man was wanted for a third offense of operating under the influence of liquor by the 37th district court in Warren. The man was lodged at the post for a short time until a friend arrived with $1,500 bail. He was given a court appearance date and released.

DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY: Michigan State Police troopers took a report of damage to a car at Northville Regional Hospital on Nov. 4. The complainant, an employee of the hospital, said someone put three scratches on the door of her 1988 Audi between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on that day. Damage was estimated at $50. There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

CAR KEYED: A black 1986 Mercury Marquis parked on the south side of 'the city lot off Wing and Dunlap was reportedly vandalized sometime between 3:45 p.m. Nov. 4 and noon Nov. 5. Someone left deep scratches in the car's driver's and passenger side panels and trunk lid. Damage was estimated at $150.

FIENDER BENDER: A 16-year-old Northville male was cited for failing to stop within an assured clear distance ahead Nov. 6 after rear-ending another car on westbound Eight Mile. The car was stopped for a red light at Novi Road at 10 a.m. when the accident occurred. The Northville driver's car was disabled and had to he towed from the scene, but no injuries were reported.

School board makes minor changes in school policies

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

Besides some minor word changes, the four policies approved for first readings by the Northville Board of Education warranted little discussion Monday night.

The first policy, Teacher Recruitment and Selection, had nothing changed in terms of consequences from the time it was revised in March

"Basically there's just some wordsmithing," Trustee Patricia Custer said.

Custer is the chairperson of the policy sub-committee.

The policy calls for the director of personnel to be responsible for coordinating, recruiting and selecting teachers; and allowing the principal of the building to which the teacher is to be assigned to be involved in reviewing credentials and interviewing candidates.

It also gives the superintendent the authority to select teachers based upon the recommendation of the building principal and central office administration. The board of education shall always have final authority, however, for approving teacher contracts.

The second policy reviewed Monday night, Appointment of Teachers, also remained relatively unchanged. The policy simply outlines the procedure of who signs the individual contracts of new and tenured teachers.

A new teacher's contract must bear the teacher's signature as well as the signatures of the board president, secretary, treasurer and superintendent. Only the tenured teacher's and superintendent's signatures are required on a tenured teacher's contract.

Substitute Teachers, the third policy approved in a first reading by board members, details the recruitment and evaluation processes of those teachers filling in.

There wasn't really anything controversial in these policies," Custer said. There are no changes since their revisions in 1987 with the exception of extraneous wording."

The policy receiving the most attention was one dealing with alcohol and drug abuse for employees.

Trustee Joan Wadsworth was concerned that a sentence in the policy made it appear the district was responsible for offering a drug abuse

Custer said the sentence in question merely meant the district supported the labor union in providing an employee with help if he or she was suffering from a drug or alcohol abuse problem.

Board President Robert McMahon suggested the policy sub-committee revisit the sentence in question at its next meeting.

The final policy reviewed by board members was one regarding staff development. It simply states: The board of education recognizes the need to support an on-going and job-related program of professional growth that is designed to maintain and refine the required competencies of its employees. Therefore, the board of education, insofar as finances of the district permit, encourages staff to participate in those programs that serve to enhance quality education in the district."

The board is expected to hold second readings on all of the four poli-cies at its Nov. 22 meeting.

Four students in running in National Merit contest

By MICHELLE HARRISON

As usual, Northville High School has fared well in the National Merit Scholarship Competition.

This year, four students have qualified as semifinalists along with over 15,000 other students across the country.

Mark Fagnani, Bethany Gengler, Krista Howe and Julie Romine will continue in the competition for about 6,500 merit scholarships. The four students scored in the top half percent of their counterparts across the nation on the 1992 Preliminary SAT/ National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT).

Bret Swalberg, Max Sprauer, Waldo Galan and Joel Elsesser qualifled as commended finalists, meaning they scored in the top 1 percent in the PSAT/NMSQT.

"In proportion to our size and the fact that we're a public school, we always do extremely well," Thomas Johnson, principal of Northville High

Six students at Northville High School qualified as semifinalists two years ago, while three students were named last year.

Johnson said it was impossible to know how a school will do in the competition, however, Northville always makes a good showing.

"We look really good in the state," he said. "We rank right up there in fields and Grosse Pointes."

The competition is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. (NMSC), a privately financed, not-forprofit, organization. Approximately 600 corporate organizations and higher education institutions are expected to sponsor the 1994 merit cholarships.

The number of semifinalists named in each state depends on the state's percentage of the national total of high school graduating

To become a finalist, a student must meet high academic standards. submit SAT scores that confirm the student's earlier PSAT/NMSQT performance, and be fully endorsed and recommended by the high school principal. A detailed scholarship application must be completed which provides information about the student's personal interests, academic and other achievements, volunteer and paid work, educational plans and goals, and his or her contributions in school and community activities.

In April and May the NMSC will honor winners for three types of scholarships:

 National Merit $2,000 scholarships. High school academic records (difficulty level and depth of subjects studied as well as grades), activities and accomplishments outside the

the public schools with the Bloom- classroom, evidence of leadership. two sets of test scores and the written recommendation from the finalist's principal will be the criteria used in awarding 2,000 single-payment $2,000 scholarships.

 Corporate-sponsored merit scholarships. Nearly all of these awards will be offered to children of company employees, residents of communities a grantor organization serves or finalists who have a college major or career plans a sponsor wishes to encourage. The selection of these recipients is based on abilities, skills and accomplishments.

Some of the scholarships are nonrenewable and provide a single payment of $2,000. Most, however, are renewable and provide annual stipends ranging from $500 to $2,000 or more for up to four years.

 College-sponsored merit scholarships. Only finalists who notify NMSC that a sponsor college is their first choice can be considered. All. awards must be used at the institu-, tion financing them. Stipends range from $250 to $2,000 a year.

Fagnani plans to major in computer science to become a computer systems analyst/programmer. Geneler wants to pursue international relations to have a career in government service.

Howe's plans are to major in business while Romine plans to pursue a career in education.

Goodfellows hit the streets again to raise funds for Civic Concern

No one knows for sure how many years ago the Goodfellows paper drive was born, but one things for certain — this is one fund-raiser that's not on its last legs.

The annual holiday fund-raiser. sponsored by the Northville Rotary Club, hits the streets of Northville Saturday, Dec. 4. The Northville Record provides special Goodfellow editions of its paper for the drive, which are distributed by volunteers at key intersections throughout the city and township.

Coordinator Chuck Keys is already busy seeking volunteers for the event, which runs between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. that Saturday.

Volunteers are asked to meet at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St., 15 minutes before their two-hour shift starts, where they'll be issued safety vests for greater visibility on the streets.

The shifts run for two hours each. and popular intersections include Main and Center, Main and Hutton, Center and Dunlap, Novi and Eight Mile, and Haggerty and Eight Mile. All donations go directly to Civic Concern, the Northville-based nonprofit organization that provides emergency food, rent and utility payments to individuals and families in financial distress throughout the year. While Civic Concern's donations typically climb this time of year, so do the demands for its services as the weather turns colder and increased expenses place even more of a burden on cash-strapped families.

Keys said the donations have already started pouring in, with a $3,000 gift from an anonymous woman donor who gave the Goodfellows

$2,000 last year.
The Goodfellows raised $8,400 for Civic Concern that year, falling somewhat short of their $10,000 goal but well ahead of the previous year's tally of $5,500. Keys noted that the goals are something to shoot for

The annual Goodfellows newspaper drive will take place Saturday, Dec. 4.

rather than amounts that could be

"In working on goal-setting, you can't set something that's easily obtainable," he said. "You've got to reach for the sky."

This year's goal, in keeping with Keys' lofty aspirations, is $15,000. Keys noted that he's also aiming this year's fund-raiser, so he can staff more intersections and raise more money for Civic Concern.

The popular fund-raiser typically draws from the ranks of city and township officials, community leaders, businesspeople and many local police and fire personnel.

"The police departments and fire for twice the number of volunteers for departments are great, and we're starting to get a lot more community people," Keys said.

Interested volunteers are asked to call Keys at 349-3348.

Anyone wishing to donate to the fund-raiser in the meantime can send their gifts in care of the Goodfellows drive to the Northville Rotary Club, 200 E. Main St., Northville, MI

Decrepit city DPW fleet to be replaced by three new trucks

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

Northville City's Department of Public Works is getting a brand-new fleet of trucks this year - and not a moment too soon, according to DPW Supervisor Ted Mapes.

The three new trucks, whose purchase was approved by the city council last week, replace motels that are now 15, 16 and 18 years old.

The trucks will be purchased through three different dealers, each of which was the lowest bidder. McDonald Ford of Northville won the bid for a 4-by-4 pickup truck with a snowplow with its $17,699 bid, while Blackwell Ford of Plymouth got the contract to provide a stake truck with a listgate with its $18,800 bid.

The council overruled the city staff's recommendation on a five-ton salter truck with V-body salter and underbody scraper, which had won a low bid of $57,197 from Wolverine Truck of Dearborn.

City Manager Gary Word had recommended that the council approve the next-lowest $57,670 bid for the five-ton salter truck from Motor City Ford Truck of Livonia, since the Livonia dealership was much closer than the one in Dearborn and the city would save money in the long run by taking the truck to the closer dealership for servicing.

But McDonald Ford sales manager Dave Rekuc noted that his Northville dealership would service any Ford truck for the city, no matter where it was purchased.

We would service the city's trucks for any warranty work without question," he said.

There was some confusion as Rekuc noted that his own dealership's original bid on the salter truck contained a mathematical error, and that the corrected bid would have been several hundred dollars below even Wolverine Truck's bid.

While Council Member Mark Cryderman was in favor of sending the truck out for bids again so that McDonald Ford could submit its corrected bid, other council members questioned whether it would be ethical to do so since the bids had already been opened.

Word noted that the council could award whatever bid it felt was appropriate, "but it's certainly not recommended," he said.

What's at stake here, and I have to emphasize this, is the city's integrity. I think we need to take the high road,"

The council approved all the bids unanimously. Cryderman cast a reluctant "yes" vote along with the other four council members on the salter truck, after a frustrated glance at Rekuc.

Mapes told the council that the existing dump truck will be kept as a backup, while the stake truck will not be used. When asked what he will do with the 1975 pickup truck, Mapes said. "If it lasts until we get a new one, we'll probably just say final rights

Good humor marks transition of council members at city hall

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The transfer of power can be handled with finesse or force, but in Northville City Monday night it was handled with graceful humor.

Thirty-fifth District Judge James N. Garber swore in two incumbents and a first-time elected official at Northville City Hall as Mayor Chris Johnson started his fourth two-year term, year-long Council Member Mark Cryderman took his seat for the first time after being elected to the position, and former Planning Commissioner Charles Keys took a seat at the council table for the first time

The three won the posts during the Nov. 2 elections, in which Cryderman and Keys ran against Northville businessman Kevin Hartshorne and Johnson ran unopposed.

The ceremony turned into a comedy skit briefly as outgoing Council kiddingly why the lettering on Key's Member Jerry Mittman walked into council chambers to find new member Chuck Keys already sitting in his seat. "Not yet," he said with a smile, as Keys sheepishly stepped down and sat in the audience until he was formally sworn in.

Mittman then turned Keys' nameplate around and grabbed his own from a drawer, setting it up for one final time as audience members laughed. Moments later, Judge Garber donned his robes and performed the swearing-in ceremony for Keys. Cryderman and Johnson, instructing the officials to place their left hands on his Bible and raise their right hands and repeat the oath of office after him. The sparse audience applauded as first Keys and Crydertman, then Johnson, were sworn in.

Mittman and Keys switched seats again, as Mittman stepped down from the podium, grabbed the incoming council member's hand and wished him luck.

Keys' wife Mary asked the council nameplate was smaller than that on the others. "I told him it was probably seniority," she said.

responded. Council members earn an annual $500 stipend for their four-year terms while the mayor earns $600 a year.

The harmony was broken briefly when a small power struggle ensued over the vote for Mayor Pro Tem, which has gone to long-time council member Carolann Ayers for the past six years. The Mayor Pro Tem serves as mayor when the actual mayor cannot attend a council meeting.

Mayor Johnson "strongly" recommended that the council vote for Ayers again, saying, "In the last six years, while I did not actually vote for Mrs. Ayers, I know she has helped the council tremendously." Ayers was uncontested for the title in her previous two bids.

While Cryderman nominated Ayers for the post Monday, Keys nominated 20-year council veteran Paul Folino. When the roll call was read, both candidates voted for themselves and Johnson cast the deciding vote nual report.

In addition to those suggestions the manager hopes the board will change the current policy that allows the township to pay all up-front costs for special assessment district (SAD) expenses out of the water and sewer restricted fund regardless of their relevance to water and sewer projects.

Richards and Anderson are in agreement in the report that only SAD expenses related to the township's water and sewer system should be covered by the account.

In their report, the pair has included a sample resolution that would allow their suggestions and proposed changes to overrule resolutions that have governed the accounts in the past.

The resolution details which revenues will go into which account and what specifically each account will be used to pay for.

Under the resolution, the operating account will be used to fund the daily operation and maintenance of the township's public water and sanitary sewer systems. It will be composed of water connection fees, administrative fees from water and sewer projects, water and sewer receipts, interest on operating investments and other miscellaneous revenue

Senator backs petition drive to survey voters' opinions on tax reform

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

Proudly admitting he is behind a petition drive to throw a wrench in Gov. John Engler's property tax elimination plan, state Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, isn't making any new friends among his Republican counterparts.

The proposed initiative referendum is designed to provide a "safety net" for the next year, Faxon said. Headed by the Citizens Alliance for Responsible Education (CARE), based in Farmington Hills, the petitions are being collected in order to allow voters to decide if property taxes should be used to provide a support to the said to t cide if property taxes should be used to pay for public education.

"As of Jan. 1, 1994, the deal is done," he said, referring to Senate Bill 1 (SB 1). "Property tax is gone and all you can say is boo-hoo."

SB 1 was passed in July when lawmakers pulled over $6 billion from public schools and cut property taxes by nearly 60 percent.

But if 129,000 valid signatures are collected, the Legislature will have nine months to look at school reform options before a November ballot question takes place.

"We will then at least have the time to look and examine the implications of all these proposals." the senator said. "I feel we need breathing space. I don't like the idea of being sent off in a rocket ship and not knowing when the rocket ship will be back."

Faxon said there is a flurry of groups trying to come up with some reform plan, but nothing has resulted in a solid proposal yet.

"No matter what you talk about, $7 to $8 billion dollars is a lot of money to replace," he said.

Engler's real estate transfer tax idea was shot down by most legislators. Faxon said, while most agree "you never loose if you tax the booze."

Faxon said he was all for placing more taxes on cigarettes.

"Those two solutions, despite what people think, will not fill the gap."

Often asked why the lottery isn't being used to fund education, Faxon said it is. However, only 5 percent of lottery revenues go into the education fund.

"The reality is that there is no magic formula in replacing the money," the senator said.

Faxon said the majority of people asked are signing the petitions.

"It's just giving them a chance to vote — we're not taking anything away, we're just giving them the chance to vote on it," he said.

Faxon, who is on the appropriations committee and the K-12 funding committee, left a box of petitions with the Northville Board of Education Monday night. Residents interested in learning more about the petition drive should contact CARE, 29271 Glencastle Ct., Farmington Hills, Mich. 48336, or Northville Public Schools, 344-3400.

Senator backs petition Faxon criticizes Engler's tax plan

There are two things wrong with the reform measure proposed by the governor, according to Faxon. The first is that the Legislature has failed to come up with a way to replace the approximately $6.5 billion formerly generated by property taxes. The other is the governor's per-pupil foundation grant idea.

"What the governor has proposed is the most serious assault on the system that has ever occurred in the history of public government." Faxon said. "The foundation grant is an insult to the schools in Wayne. Oakland and Macomb counties. It's less than what any school district in the metropolitan area is spending."

The senator also chastised the governor for his stance on cracking down on violence in schools. In his plan, the governor proposed that discipline be improved by adopting a "zero tolerance for violence." The board chuckled when Faxon said he's never heard a school administrator comment "gee, we've always allowed guns in the school before."

"The public idea that it's a jungle out there is absurd," Faxon said. "We do have problems. I'm not standing up here and saying the system is all roses, but what has happened in Lansing is a tragedy and a travesty."

Calling the latest events occurring in the reform movement a night-mare, Faxon faulted the governor for not putting thought into his plan which he thinks is, in essence, a case of "re-creating the wheel."

"He did it not by thinking about it, not by studying about it . . . but by executive decree by orders of his lordship, the governor of the state," Faxon said sarcastically.

He went on to state that the governor's plan is geared toward the days of little, one-room, red schoolhouses.

"His design for the future is not based on infusing more into the system," Faxon said. "It's the opposite exhuming and leaving the system decrepit and exhausted . . .

The governor's concept of charter public schools also garnered critical remarks from Faxon. Schools would be forced to become "cheerleaders," trying to offer more for the money that came with the students, he said.

Faxon used the scenario that if Northville High School lost 100 kids because of the schools of choice plan. $550,000 would also go out the door.

"What would you have left?" he asked. "A sinking ship. The fundamental flaw is that we collect revenue to provide for a community government and community services for all people in a community."

Municipal governments operate one police department and one fire department. Schools should be operated the same way, Faxon said.

"I'm not saying we can't have private schools," he said. "But you have to pay for it."

If you want added police protection then you hire a private detective and pay for it, Faxon added. "That's the American way."

The state of the school finance reform debate is discouraging businesses around the country which are putting Michigan on hold, Faxon ses around the country which are putting Michigan on hold. Faxon said.

The future of the schools is in such marginal shape, I don't blame them. I'd be insecure, too."

A proponent of the current system.
Faxon said nothing is wrong with how things are working now.

The current way is more fair," he said. "Every district has the opportunity to raise its own millage."

With the governor's plan, instead of moving the bottom of poorer school districts up, the richer school districts will be brought down, according to Faxon.

Robert McMahon, board president, praised Faxon for his efforts in Lansing.

"It's good to have a legislator up there that speaks to the positive aspects of education," he said. "The public does not always know our

Charter and choice school plans hitting a snag in Legislature

Republicans are in deep trouble with

On paper, Senate Republicans have a 22-18 edge, two more than a bare majority of 20. But there are • Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, and two other Republican senators last week refused to support the bills, leaving the GOP a vote short for several hours. The third Republican finally was persuaded after a two-hour party caucus.

 Democrats won't give the GOP any votes toward the two-thirds majority (26) needed to put any tax reform plan on the ballot unless the GOP ones down the "charter" and choice plans.

There will come a time when you'll need us, but the wheels will be off the buggy," Democrat Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills warned Republicans, who hold a 22 to 16 paper majority.

"I asked a bipartisan working group that would sit down quietly and not observe the Open Meetings Act to discuss what direction we'd go," said Democrat Lana Pollack of Ann Arbor. She praised David Honig-man of West Bloomfield as the only Republican willing to negotiate.

Republicans barely got the 20 votes they needed to pass the charter schools, schools of choice, teacher tenure and teacher bargaining bills Engler wants.
Dillingham, a frequent maverick, said he favors the charter idea, "but it should be tried on a limited, pilot project basis. We run the risk of increasng the cost of public education dramatically" if many of the 200,000 pupils in private schools shift to public

Democrats warned that passing choice and charter bills would be equivalent to abdicating authority to the House, where co-chairmen of the House Education Committee have decided to junk the charter school idea in favor of less radical public school "academies."

On a straight party line vote. Democrats lost an effort to "tie bar" the quality bills to SJRS, the constitutional amendment. The most controversial measure Senate Bill 896) would permit the es-ablishment of charter schools special schools chartered by public agencies, receiving state money but not subject to the teacher tenure and collective bargaining laws. All local senators except Dilling ham voted with their parties.

A second bill (SB 872) would ex empt charter schools from teacher tenure laws. Faxon called it "clothing for the corpse," predicting charter lingham objected that the bill "sets up a two-tiered system" for teachers. SB 878 prescribes separate collective bargaining units for charter school teachers. Democrats called the schools of choice bill (SB 891) "a farce" because ndividual districts may choose not to accept non-resident pupils. Faxon fired a long list of objection at the choice bill, a lengthy amendment to the 1976 school code:

number of people present at the meeting, but not at their resistence to the composting operation.

We operate a good composting operation," he said. "We know we can do it without impacting people in that location if we are allowed to do it.

"It has to be done," he continued. "It's going to be a state law and I think we are the best guys to do it."

Trustees tabled a decision on BFI's proposed composting agreement last month when Treasurer Rick Engelland asked for a public hearing. Richards said the board has not yet decided when it will take up the issue

A BFI official will be making a brief presentation to the board tonight on BFI's services, but Richards doubted trustees would tackle the composting issue so soon after the hearing.

Nonetheless, the proposed agree ment still stands, he said. It asks Northville Township to be a host community for an 80-acre composting operation

The facility would have screened berms for security, isolation, and aesthetics. It would eventually include a finished-product bagging operation. Trucks would enter the site off Napier Road.

In exchange for Northville giving BFI permission to compost on 80 of the 200 acres BFI owns off Napier Road, BFI will pay a host community fee to Northville Township and provide residents with free composting agreement is 3 percent of the gross vance of the hearing in favor of the revenues the facility would generate. In addition, BFI agrees to give 20 percent of the gross weight of the incoming compostable material from township residents back for use at township offices and buildings.

Richards said residents at the meeting had two primary concerns about the composting operation. They were primarily concerned about the odor the operation would generate, and that the proximity of the facility might lower property values in Northville Township.

The manager said he was pleased to see the number of people who turned out for the hearing, but shocked to see their anger turn personal against the elected officials.

He said some residents at the meeting accused board members of The host fee under the proposed having their minds made up in adagreement. But Richards said the board went the extra mile to ensure the community had a say in the decision-making process.

The manager said the township went above and beyond the state requirement of notifying property owners within 300 feet of the proposed site. He said the deputy clerk sent letters to homeowners in at least three subdivisions northwest of the site to notify them of the proposed agreement and the public hearing.

That, he believed, is what brought out the crowd.

There is nobody within 300 feet of the site," he said. "So Eunice sent letters to subdivisions that are well beyond the 300-foot requirement . . . We are presently trying to open up the process," he said. "It was sincere and we knew that folks would come." Despite the outcome of the hearing and the fate of the proposed agree-ment, Richards said he was pleased the township answered BFI's initial request for communities interested in hosting a compost facility. If trustees hadn't and Salem Township. also interested in hosting the operation, won the facility. Northville Township would be the big loser, he

"If we said no they would probably look at Salem because they own land there, too," he said. "And for Northville residents, would it really matter if it were on the east or west side of Napier Road? We would still see the same volume of trucks and the potential for odor would still be there. But Salem Township would be getting all of the revenues.

"In essence we would have all the negatives and none of the positives,"

The committee has been called several times in recent years as one governmental agency or the other has sought to fund the library at less than its requested amount.

"I think it's probably an excellent idea to reconvene the blue-ribbon committee," Johnson said.

Johnson was also alarmed to hear that the library's proposed budget may fall short of meeting its needs in the coming year. "I've not been made aware until tonight that the budget does not cover the items in it," he

He asked the library to provide the council with a revised budget and a not agree on the amount to report specifying which line items are underfunded and why the projections have changed since August. We clearly need that information before we go into the blue-ribbon committee," he said. "It's not like we can just toss money at any problem

> On the city's side, the blue-ribbon comittee will include Johnson and Ayers, who serves as the council's liaison to the library board. The library board has requested its own representation on he panel as well.

"I think that the kind of problems we're dealing with tonight absolutely point up the fact that a district library agreement is the way to go to fund the library," said Ayers. "It's been a constant problem to fund the library adequately."

Prudency saves district bucks

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

The watchful eye of Northville schools' business manager John Street has again saved the district

Street was recently notified by the district's depository bank, Comerica, that it would be charged banking fees for processing checks in its payroll and general fund checking accounts. Street contacted the Michigan School District Liquid Asset Fund

Plus (MiLAF+), an organization endorsed by the Michigan Association of School Boards, to compare checking account fees with that of Comerica. What he learned will result in a $6,200 annual savings to the district.

MILAF+ doesn't charge anything for its checking and also pays interest on unpaid balances.

Currently eight Wayne County school districts use MILAF+ checking accounts which are provided by NBD Bank. Since NBD has a local branch in Northville and it also participates in the school district's Business Education Partnerships program, Street said there were no difficulties in making the switch.

"I think it's a good deal for the district," Street said.

The Northville Board of Education approved the recommendation at its meeting Monday evening, but only after praising Street.

This is just another example of John being very prudent in saving the district money." Treasurer Richard Brown said.

Mystic sub boundary amended

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Call it a case of crossed wires. The Novi schools board of education on Thursday voted to slightly amend its Sept. 23 resolution authorizing the transfer of part of one subdivision to the Northville school district. The move came after a resident whom school officials thought wanted to remain in Novi said he wanted to become part of the Northville district.

The two districts have discussed what should be done with the soonto-be-built Mystic Forest subdivision for some time. The development is located in the city of Novi off of Novi Road between Nine and Ten Mile. The boundary line between the two school districts, however, cuts through Mystic Forest: about 80 percent lies in Northville, the rest in Novi.

That situation meant that children in the same subdivision — even next-door neighbors — would have to attend different districts. The boundary line issue also meant that both districts would have to provide bus service for their respective sections of Mystic Forest.

Both school boards, therefore, agreed to Novi's transferring its slice of the subdivision to Northville. The matter is now in the hands of the Wayne and Oakland Counties intermediate school district officials.

When considering the issue, Novi school administrators said they had received a letter from Robert Langan. Mystic Forest's only current resident. The letter, officials said, indicated that Langan wanted to remain in the

Novi district.

Both boards, therefore, agreed to gerrymander the boundary line around the resident's home to keep it in Novi. Novi administration officials on Thursday, however, informed the board that a misunderstanding of the letter had taken place.

Langan had contacted school officials, Superintendent of Schools Emmett Lippe said, and said he wanted his home to go with the rest of Mystic Forest into Northville. Novi's board approved that request, and now the matter next moves on to the North-

After that the amendment to the transfer agreement will go up the pipe to the intermediate school districts. A final decision from those bodies is expected to take some girl was visibly shaken and still in pain from the incident that allegedly occurred at 7:30 the night before.

The detective said it took hours for police to get the girl to tell them exactly what happened. Werth said she was emotional and distraught and blamed herself for what happened.

"It's a very tragic experience for all parties involved," Werth said. "It's been a very emotional and tragic experience for her. But she's dealing

After hours of reassurance, the girl

finally broke down and talked about what had happened, Werth said. The girl told authorities she had just finished showering and wrapped a towel around herself before walking past her stepfather enroute to her bedroom. As she passed the man seated in a chair in the family room, the girl said he grabbed her and pulled her onto to his lap and began fondling her.

He then dragged her into the master bedroom and raped her in his bed, she alleged.

The entire incident occurred after the girl's mother left the home to attend choir practice that night, Werth U-M Medical Center in Ann Arbor for said. The girl's mother and stepfather have a 3-year-old daughter who also lives at the residence.

Werth said the victim described the incident in detail, prompting police to seek a search warrant for bed linens and articles of clothing left in

The detective obtained the search warrant on Friday afternoon and then went to the home with Lieutenant Gary Batzloff that same afternoon to secure the evidence they needed in the case.

The pair then escorted the girl to examination. Afterwards she was taken to a youth home in Dearborn Heights where she remains.

Werth was able to say little about the pending case, but he did say he was concerned about the girl's welfare. She was expected to testify in court against the man at a preliminary hearing yesterday.

When asked how she's dealing with it, Werth said her emotions ran the full gamut.

"I've talked with her for an hour on the phone," he said. "She's been crying at one point, laughing at another and then crying again. She feels like it's all her fault."

Werth said this isn't the first runin police have had with the Northville Township family. Last month they had been notified by protective services that she had passed a note to a friend in school that said her stepfather had been sexually abusing her, but he hadn't penetrated her.

The note was intercepted by a teacher who notified protective services of its content. Township police were also notified, but the girl remained in the home until last week.

Restaurant gets initial nod to enclose outdoor terrace

By RANDY COBLE Staff Winter

Make a run for the Border . . . and grab a seat on its soon-to-beenclosed outdoor terrace. But come early, or you may not find a parking

The Novi Planning Commission at its Nov. 3 meeting approved a request from the Border Cantina to put walls and a roof around its existing terrace. The Novi road eatery, located near the Northville/Novi city limits, provides outdoor dining for customers in the warmer months, but is looking for year-round use for its terrace.

The commission voted 9-0 to approve the request, tying it to the resolution of some parking concerns the restaurant has. Border Cantina's request for the enclosure means it must gain city approval of a revised site plan. That, Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers explained to commissioners. means that the restaurant must now comply with new parking standards put into a city ordinance since the original plan won approval.

The new standard requires Border Cantina to have 90 parking spaces as well as four handicapped spaces. Rogers said. Some 80 now exist on the site, three of them for handicap access. There is, however, no more space on the 1.2 acre site for additional parking, Rogers said.

That fact means that the restaurant will have to make arrangements for additional parking - possibly through buying a chunk of nearby land - or getting a waiver for its deficiency from the city's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA).

There is a strip of land directly behind the Border Cantina site, Rogers said, that the owners of the restaurant are interested in buying. It would provide enough space for the needed parking, he said, but is currently zoned for industrial use. The city would have to rezone the land if Border Cantina wanted to purchase it,

Commissioners conditioned their approval of the terrace enclosure on

■ First, that ZBA approves of the parking deficiency. If the land purchase and rezoning plan becomes reality, there will be sufficient parking to meet city standards.

■ Second, that the four handicapped spaces called for in the new ordinance all be placed as close to the restaurant's entrance as possible. Some commissioners expressed concern over plans to put two of the spaces across the parking lot from the door, a distance of several dozen 13

Township needs facts about state building

The wheels are in motion to transfer ownership of the building that now houses the Wayne County Living Services agency from the state of Michigan to Northville Township.

The structure, once the location of the Plymouth Center For Human Development, a mental health treatment facility. is located at Five Mile and Sheldon

The state has deemed the building surplus property, and State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, has introduced a proposal to effect a title transfer. The measure has passed the Senate and is now under consideration in the House. Geake is also seeking permission to allow interim occupancy while the state Department of Management and Budget looks more closely at the advisability of selling the property for just $1, the minimum legal consideration.

Township officials think the building could be put to any number of uses and could solve current space shortages by serving as the new site of township hall.

We certainly favor exploring the potential uses of the building but we also think more must be done to look into the practical aspects of local ownership before any exchange is finalized.

police and fire departments and a district library and still have vacant corridors. An assessment of maintenance costs should be completed so that an estimate of annual operating expenses can be known.

In addition, major portions of the building are in a state of disrepair. Costly renovations probably would be required before township employees could call the rooms home. Again, estimates of these expenses are needed before the township can make a sound commitment.

Moreover, soil borings and other environmental tests should be conducted to learn whether clean up efforts would have to be completed on the site.

The prospect of receiving a large building and its adjoining land free of charge is an attractive one, but we tend to believe the transfer process is being pushed ahead too hastily. We also can't allow this opportunity to pass without thanking Mittman for his years of service on the council. company to take a job some place else an internal scramble for the person's old position usually

Such was the case recently within our company — HomeTown Newspapers — when Milford Times editor Matt Valley announced he was going to the Battle Creek Enquirer, the daily newspaper that covers the cereal center of the universe.

A flurry of applications poured in from HomeTown employees and, when the smoke cleared, I'm glad to say that Rick Bryne, copy editor for The Northville Record/Novi News. emerged as Matt's successor. Congratulations, Rick, but there are a few things you should know before you pack up your Associated Press stylebook and head down I-96.

First of all, be on the lookout for the inevitable grammar patrol officer. There's one in every community and their MO's are remarkably similar. They clip articles from your paper that include typos, pencil corrections into the margins of the newsprint, then cheerfully mail the neat little package your way. The nice thing about it is that you don't even have to ask them to provide this invaluable service. In the great tradition of volunteerism, they do it entirely on their own.

Don't expect to be able to talk to your personal language inspector or find out who they are, though. They never sign their names and the envelopes they use contain no return

But you'll have nothing to worry about as long as you don't Lee Snider is editor of The Northville Rec. 'd.

Whenever someone leaves a use comas, that aren't necessary or create run-on sentences they are hard to read.

Another thing you can look forward to is an unending stream of highly informative and useful press releases. If you're as lucky as me, the stacks of mail you sift through each week will enable you to learn the multiple applications of cow dung and what to do to keep your cat from urping fur balls all over your living room carpet.

You'll also be able to stay current on the milestone anniversaries of the intermittent windshield wiper and on technological advances in the meat curing industry.

One service you might hear from will offer to help you reduce your credit card debt. They make it easy for you to pay the subscription fee, too: just write your credit card account number in the broken line on the application form!

Then, of course, there are the ever-present letter writers. the ones who have opinions on everything from the rainforests to the size of curb address numbers.

It seems like I've gotten letters on just about every topic imaginable and then some. One of the most amusing I ever read was from a man who was angry with the local fire chief for telling a resident to smoke out a squirrel that had somehow managed to nestle in the woman's chimney.

If you can't coax them out any other way, just stoke a fire, the chief advised. That'll do the trick.

Our letter writer, however, didn't take kindly to the suggestion. "Did it ever occur to you that squirrels might be an endangered species?" he asked.

They're not, I'm sure, but neither, I'm just as certain, are human nut cases.

Pre-game prayer

The Mustangs say the Lord's Prayer before their first game of the playoffs.

Listening is an essential skill

Recently, I came across this poem that I felt was worth sharing. I feel unquestionably one of the best things we can do for our children is to listen to them. I think this poem is worth posting on a bulletin board or on the front of the refrigerator.

Mary Ellen King

LISTENING When I ask you to listen to me and you start giving advice, you have not done what I asked.

When I ask you to listen to me and you begin to tell me why I shouldn't feel that way, you are trampling on my feelings.

When I ask you to listen to me and you feel you have to do something to solve my problem. you have failed me, strange as that may seem.

Listen! All I asked was that you listen. Not talk, or do, just hear. Advice is cheap. Dear Abby and Billy Graham are in the newspaper.

I can do for myself; I'm not helpless. Maybe discouraged and faltering.

but not helpless.

When you do something for me that I can and need to do for myself you contribute to my fear and weakness.

But, when you accept as a simple fact that I do feel what I feel, no matter how irrational, then I can quit trying to convince you and get about the business of understanding what's behind the irrational feeling.

So please just listen and hear me. If you want to talk, wait a minute for your turn; then I'll listen to you.

Headline did not reflect content of library story

The principles of good journal-ism require that a headline accurately reflect the contents of a story. Accurate headlines tell a reader whether he is interested in learning more about the subject or that he is not interested.

I wish to call attention to the story on page one, Nov. 1, with the headline "Library millage concept panned." The story covered a public hearing at the city council chambers about a proposed li-brary. I arrived at the hearing well before it began and stayed well beyond its ending. At no time did a participant "pan" anything discussed that evening.

The participant who was quoted was asking in a gentle way whether it was wise to conduct a miliage vote before the public knows what the state is going to do about education funding.

One other citizen asked for clarification on the amounts of possible millage numbers.

Certainly it is not accurate to use the word "some" in referring to two individuals, as the reporter did. To have done so reflects on an otherwise accurate story. Steve Kellman has a good handle on the intricacies of library operation and funding. It is unfortunate that the headline writer chose to use a loaded word that cannot be justifled by what happened that evening nor by the coverage of it.

Youths learn values at home

To the editor: Dear Parents.

Our young children need positive attention from you! Take time today to listen to them, to teach them something new, to do something together. Give them reasons to believe in themselves, and correct the misguided notions they pick up from influences outside of your home. The bottom line here is: Invest the time and attention in them that will give them the posiself-esteem and the feeling of self worth that they need to survive (and, with your help now . . . to thrive) in the world of diversity that seems to get more complicated for kids as they get older.

When people feel good about themselves, they have no inclination or need to put others down. When people feel good about themselves, they tolerate and even appreciate differences in others. When people feel good about themselves, they are not confrontational, but willing to stand firmly on their principles. Give our young children reasons to feel good about themselves!

cultural/class/racial/etc. tolerance atmosphere in our schools, because I have children who spend 32½ hours each week in these schools. This is where they are to learn the skills that will help to make them productive citizens of our country. I want my children to be able to concentrate on learning these skills, not forced to deal with classmates who taunt, gang up, threaten, etc.

Teachers should not have to 'educate" our children on the rights and wrongs of social interaction. This is our responsibility as parents and it starts well before our children enter the school system. Speaking from my own experience s a parent. I ask all of you parents today to invest in your child's positive self esteem so they will have the self-respecting decency to know how to treat others!

Police officer is lauded for work

I am writing to ask that you give an officer from the Northville Township Police Department, Matthew Mayes, the Northville Moose Lodge's highest praise as an officer.

On Oct. 23, the Northville Moose No. 1190 had its annual Halloween Party. There were about 40 children between the ages of six months and 12 years old who attended. As special guests, we had Dracula the magician, that little purple guy. Barney, and Officer May is from the Northville Township Police Department.

Mr. Mayes came to the lodge and gave a half-hour presentation to he children on Halloween safety. For example, he instructed them on how costumes should be bright colored so that they are easy to see. and that they should never eat any candy they receive until their parents or someone older has looked through it to make sure it is safe to eat. He also spoke to the children about the dangers of drugs and talking to strangers. Officer Mayes took the time to show how the instruments in his patrol car worked and what they are used for. He also explained to the children that they should not be afraid to talk to police officers because they are there to help them.

In this day and age where there is so much crime, I think it is great that children learn not to be afraid of police officers and that the children are made aware that police officers have other duties besides arresting people and giving speeding tickets. I would like Officer Mayes to know that the Moose lodge ap-preciates his efforts in keeping our children safe during the Halloween

Lastly, I would like to recommend to anyone who is involved in a community service program that helps children that if they should ever need a speaker, Officer Mayes is the person to ask.

Article was misleading

To the editor:

Anyone reading the article by Sharon Condron, "Crowd gets result of the dialog is a plan to sup-Township to Amend Budget," in port a group where students can Nov. 4's newspaper, would be mislead by what really occurred. Ms. Condron was not present at this meeting. If she had been present, she would have witnessed not an "angry crowd," but a group of concerned, interested citizens, presenting their views relative to providing quality shared services. The four shared services are the Parks & Recreation, Library, Youth Assistance and Senior Citizens. There were also some other interested citizens and department heads present. Information was presented in a matter-of-fact way. It was an attempt on the part of various interested groups to work together (and was in no way confrontational). The article failed to recognize that the Township Board came to this budget approval meeting with prepared amendments to reinstate shared services, beautification, and some other items. This is important because it shows the Board's responsiveness to community concerns. The press should not put the well-meaning interests of people concerned with community improvement in such a negative way. I was proud of the cooperative spirit exhibited during this meeting, and that's how it should have been presented.

It is truly a sad situation when the community newspaper exses a view of which it has no firsthand knowledge. This is irresponsible reporting.

(Editor's note: While the Northville Record reporter did not attend the eting in question, she did review the audio tape of the session in its entirety. Quotes were taken directly from the tape and the Record stands by its published account.

ACORD didn't take a position

To the editor:

We are responding to two letters that appeared in the Oct. 21 Letters Section, "Student Acted With Courage" and "Why Does Group Allege Racism?" The incident be-tween the students at the high school was disturbing to many people for many reasons. Contrary to what was written, ACORD neither supported nor condemned the position of either party involved in the incident.

As much as we'd like to think otherwise, things are not always exemplary" at Northville High School. Our high school age child-Tare at a volatile age and it takes the positive support of our youth by the entire community to help them become productive adults.

One part of ACORD's Mission Statement is ". . . to appreciate si-. to appreciate similarities and differences, develop educational programs to increase community awareness, and act as a resource for the community and schools." Problems can be diffused by talking about them and proceeding in a positive direction.

Had the letter-writers been at the October meeting of ACORD (a meeting attended by both the principal and assistant principal) they would know that the Mission Statement was being fulfilled. One come together and discuss issues before they boil over into incidents. ACORD is working with the school administration toward this end.

We should be about teaching our children how to live together non-violently and how to respect differing views. ACORD is attempting to do just that.

Music program support helpful

To the editor:

Once again, many thanks go out to members of the Northville/Novi business community for the support given to the young people involved in the music program at Northville High School.

Following our successful car wash-athon on Saturday, Oct. 30, the students celebrated at a Halloween party hosted by the music boosters. Because of the generosity of many local business people, we were able to reward clever costumes, pumpkins "par excellence" and limber limbo-ers with an excellent variety of donated prizes. Music Boosters and students would like to recognize and thank the following: Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall, Baiardi's Hair Salon, Bookstall on the Main, Joe's Sport Shop, Caffe Bravo, Hair Haus and Papa Romano's-Novi Road.

In addition, Northville Clock Shop and Meyer Berry Farm helped with supplies for decorations while Shopping Center Market, Donut Scene and Great Harvest Bakery provided the refreshments.

Today, as never before, "it takes an entire village to raise a child" and the Music Boosters wish to acknowledge gratefully the generosity of these people for stepping

${\it Voters\ thanked.}$ paper slammed

To the editor:

First I would like to thank all those who voted for city council candidates in the last election, especially those who cast a vote on my behalf. To come out and vote in light of the turnout (16 percent) was obviously not an easy thing to do and you are all to be commended.

I can honestly say I have not enloved a council race more than this past one. I am sure the reason for that has a lot to do with the kind of people the Crydermans and the Keys are more than anything else. I congratulate them and their families on their respective victories and wish for them nothing but the

With regard to The Northville Record, however, I do not have the same compassion. Nor do I feel I need to answer to the pernicious remarks expressed on the editorial page of this newspaper prior to the election. Certainly their opinions speak more about the character of those that wrote them than they do of me. Please believe me when I say I do not need a lesson on the graclous humility required of an individual after losing an election, I am getting rather proficient in that regard. But I assure you there is no prize in city politics that is worth enduring the comments made at my expense in this newspaper in this last election.

A show of class, with a measure of respect and a great deal of dignity is how candidates for the city council have treated one another in the past. It is truly unfortunate when the same cannot be expected shadowed by the endorsements in of the editorial staff of The North the newspaper. The future of our

I would like to thank again my loyal supporters, you are greatly appreciated, but we must never again allow our efforts to be overcity and the fate of our tax dollars are just too important to be influenced by the writings of a misguided city beat newspaper reporter.

The human side of historic tales

Richard

Some big stories never make the history books.

Last spring I wrote about the 1927 school explosion in Bath, a village 10 miles north of Lansing. Andrew Kehoe, a school board trustee, dynamited the school and his own farm buildings, kiliing 45 people, including himself, the superintendent and three dozen children. I noted how several history books either failed to mention the enormous disaster or kissed it off in half a

Next day Howard Walker called and left a message. The 93-year-old retiree had visited the site, and would I like to see his 1927 snapshots? Yes, indeed. And was I interested in his view of the train wreck near Plymouth that was the worst in Michigan history? Yes, again.

Walker lives in Plymouth. During that fateful week in 1927 — the same week Charles Lindbergh flew solo across the Atlantic — he had been teaching in Lake Odessa, not far west of Bath, and drove to the disaster site. He snapped pictures of the bombed consolidated school and the tiny graves decorated with flowers. The photos, still crystal clear, make you choke up.

Perhaps memories of the Bath explosion are so horrifying that historians, like village residents, go into denial. Townsfolks have a simple memorial but to this day are touchy about discussing the tragedy, I hear. Kehoe's wife was buried under her maiden name. "The maniac" himself was buried in an unmarked grave in the pauper's corner of a different cemetery.

Walker was 6 when the state's biggest train wreck occurred not far from his boyhood home. The current issue of Michigan History magazine, devoted entirely to our railroad heritage, contains a two-page spread of photos on the wreck in Salem Township, just west of Plymouth.

Says writer Tiffany Dziurman: "Michigan's worst train wreck occurred near Salem on 20 July 1907. The crew of a westbound local freight ignored an order giving them 'the right of way over everything but first class passenger trains.' They forgot about a running eastbound special Pere Marquette passenger train and proceeded on the tracks. The resulting collision killed 31 people and seriously injured 100 others.

Walker was raised on a farm near Gottfredson Road and M-14 freeway in Salem Township and walked with his father to the site. "It was a head on crash. One engine was on its side. Cars were on top of each other. There was a pile of (victims') shoes," he recalled.

Isle from Ionia. "A lot were from Howell," Walker numbers is (313) 349-1700.

I checked indexes of two authoritative histories of Michigan. Guess what. Nothing about that wreck. Lots of material about railroad safety problems and workers compensation, but nothing about any of the disasters.

So who is this gracious gentleman with the nearly perfect memory who had viewed the aftermath of two of Michigan's worst human disasters?

The farm boy often visited Plymouth and recalled the John Gale store. Later Watkins went to Ypsilanti State Normal School, now Eastern Michigan University, and took the Lake Odessa job for a year. He spent most of his adult years in the Five Points area of old Redford in northwest Detroit and taught drafting, English, social studies and math in the Detroit public schools. A daughter, Donna Grater, was recently widowed. Walker told some great yarns about how teachers dealt with discipline problems in the schools, but that's beyond the scope of today's column. I guess the moral is that history is more than political events and social movements. There are thousands of individuals' stories. It's valuable that we have the Howard Walkers to re-

The Rose Cottage is situated in a country Victorian building which is believed to be one of the very first residences built north of town possibly as early as the 1850s. The present owner, Anthony Rizzo, acquired the structure in 1974 after it had been scheduled for demolition and began a lengthy restoration. In 1991, the Rose Cottage Tea Room opened and quickly outgrew its "Tea Room" image and became a highly regarded luncheon facility. In 1993, "Tea Room" was dropped from its name, an 80-seat banquet room was added, a liquor license was pursued and the area's premier banquet house was born.

RECORD OUR TOWN

Bailena

By CRISTINA FERRIER Staff Writer

Novi's most historic road, Grand River, is one that passes through town on its meandering way west to Lansing and on to Muskegon, or east into Detroit.

The road, which dates back to 1832, was once the only route from Detroit to Lansing. Private companies covered the road with wooden planks, for which they were allowed to charge the stage coaches a penny per mile.

But the road to Lansing was a long one. Even with the planks in place, it was a full day and night's journey to travel from Detroit to Lansing. Weary travellers needed places to stop along the way at local inns where they could find a bite to eat and, perhaps, a place to

And so the tradition of eating on Grand River began. Even today with the average drive from Detroit to Lansing reduced to about two hours and bypassing Grand River altogether—the road is still dotted with dining experiences, from casual to fine.

Novi's stretch of the road is no exception. From the city's eastern border at Haggerty Road to its west end at Wixom, there are 11 places to eat. There's Burger King, Papa Romano's, KFC, Sam's Cafe, Shield's Pizza, Country Epicure, Victor's Novi Inn. Bates, Gatsby's, Rosewood Inn and O'Shea's. The last is technically in Wixom, but has a Novi address.

Most of them were hopping last ready filled at 5 p.m., and most of the tables were full, too.

The crowd was varied. A few sat alone, nursing a beer, perhaps winding down from a long shift at the nearby Ford plant. Others sat in lively groups, faces flushed and happy as they leaned across the bles and talked animatedly.

People seemed to know each other at O'Shea's. Friends tossed a wave and a shout across the room as they walked through the door.

"This used to be called the Old Continental." said Lottie Miner of South Lyon as she sat at the bar with her husband Ron. This is a good family bar," added Ron, who's worked at the Ford plant for 34 years. "And the ribs on Thursday night are fantastic." "It's a Ford Motor Company bar," added Lottie, whose voice reflects that workplace pride found in locals where families make vehicles for one of the Big Three and believe their product to be the

But actually, said co-owner Frank Cleary, the Ford crowd was probably only around the bar. He wasn't sure if the people at the tables were from the plant, too.

"This is just an excellent location," he said, in between greeting and shaking hands of people who pass in or out of the door. "You couldn't ask for a better location. We've got the car dealership coming in across the street, the hospital down the road, the courthouse coming in .

"And this is just an excellent Friday night. At O'Shea's, for ex- crowd of people. But it's kind of ample, each seat at the bar was al-slow right now. It'll pick up later.

Burger King winds down for the evening.

You should see it on St. Patrick's Lillie Howard's been making those famous ribs for 10 years, by the way. She's also known for her Buffalo Wings, which have a secret ingredient in the dip.

It's hot but it's not overpowering," Ron said. "She won't tell the secret. I know it, but I won't tell you. I'm sworn to secrecy."

When told about the ringing endorsements out in the bar, Lillie in the kitchen just smiled.

"It's very nice to have customers like that," she said.

Down the road at the Rosewood, it was a little quieter than O'Shea's.

"It's always like this," said waitress Wendy Smela. "One minute it's slow, the next minute it's

The Rosewood attracts a big breakfast crowd, and gets a lot of business from truckers heading in from I-96. The most popular dish is the Working Man's Breakfast, which has three eggs, choice of meat, potatoes and juice. This is the oldest place in Novi," owner Dave Zdravkovski said. "It used to be a train stop, or something. I don't know." In the 1950s, when Novi was a rural farming area, the Rosewood was a popular truck stop.

Zdravkovski, who each year sponsors several local sports teams, has only taken one vacation in the 19 years he's owned the Rosewood. And he says he doesn't

"It's not unusual for me to be here all the time," he said. "I just work and cook all day. We have real home cooking.

"I'm used to (working every day)," he added. "Even if I don't have to work, I come here. It's like my home. I sleep and I work. And everyone that comes in here, they know me. I know them."

At the intersection of Grand River and Novi Road, a 1950sstyle diner glows in the dark and fills the air around it with the fragrant smell of burgers and fries.

Inside Bates, behind the shinv steel counter, Paula Miller and Linda and Kelly Vatter were serving up double cheeseburgers and chili fries Friday night.

people," Miller said. "Really different. Some obnoxious, some scary, some very nice."

It's later, when the bars close, that the odd crowd tends to show

ALYCE CUMMINGS

Program gives moms time with their kids

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

Moms and their kids get together for a couple of hours once a month because of Children's Outings, a program that Alyce Cummings puts together. The moms, incidentally, all belong to Northville Newcomers, and the kids range in age from infants to 8

It's a one-year term for Cummings from September to June, and her outings so far have been . well, the first one was rained out, but it was supposed to have been Plymouth Orchards and the cider mill. In October there were two. First there was an hour

(10:30-11:30 a.m.) at the Gymboree in Plymouth. Ten moms and kids came," she said, at $2 per Second there was an outing at Heritage Park in Farmington Hills. Moms met at the playground there at 10:30 a.m., and some, Cummings såid, brought a brown-bag lunch to eat in the picnic area. "Five moms and eight

For November Cummings invited moms to get together "for lots of fun" at Kid Kingdom, the indoor play park in Canton. Scheduling it at 12:30 p.m. on a half-day for Northville school grades K-5, Cummings hoped for a large turnout. Admission price was set at $3.95 per child.

Coming up but not yet scheduled. Cummings said, will be a movie at the Marquis Theater during Christmas holidays. Children will have to be 4 years old.

And sometime after that there'll be Bumper Pool at the Novi Bowl. That'll be on a no-school day, and there'll be a lunch, too - probably a hot dog and pizza.

"It's a fun a job," Cummings said. She checks out places ahead of time, announces them in the monthly Northville Newcomers newsletter, and waits for moms to call her to sign up.

If you are a mom who would like to go on a Children's Outing, but you don't belong to Northville Newcomers, give her a call at 348-1538, and she'll tell you how to get in.

It's A Fact

Our Lady of Providence thanks staff, helpers

Volunteers, staff and board members of Our Lady of Providence Center were recognized for their contributions at a Celebration Mass and Dinner

Special honors went to Fr. Stanley Kukulsi, Bill Wiercioch, Mary Holtschneider, Kate Kirschner, Jackie Hopkins, Pat O'Donnell and the business people serving on the development board. Letters of congratulations from Archbishop Adam J. Maida, Gov. John Engler and President Bill Clin-

Sister Linda's brother (who is the head chef at the Radisson Hotel in Lansing), the staff and the Parent's Association served a wonderful buffet dinner after the ceremonies. Young ladies from Ladywood High School stayed with Our Lady of Providence residents, allowing all the sisters to enjoy the special day.

Our Lady of Providence, located on Beck Road in Northville, is a residential learning center for disadvantaged young ladies who come from homes throughout the metropolitan area. In the past year or so, with the residents attending Northville schools, the center has been able to change its focus to one of employment training. While much of the piecework is done at the center, some of the residents are at their workplaces out in the community. For these young people, pay day is a very important and satisfying event.

The staff and volunteers are constantly seeking the means to offer this training to young people throughout the community, as well as developing new employment opportunities. If you would like further information, contact the center at 453-1300.

"I like this more," she said. "In a bar you have to deal with some bad people. This place does get crazy. though. We're busiest on the weekends.

Across Novi Road and across Grand River is Victor's Novi Inn. where bartender Laura Halfacre has been making drinks for five years.

"I work about 45 hours a week." she said. Business varies, but weekends are always busy and so is the holiday season, as Victor's is across the street from the Novi Town Center and one of the Detroit area's densest shopping locations.

"At lunchtime we get businessmen and moms out to lunch with friends." The restaurant also attracts a political crowd, mostly due to connections of owner Victor Cassis and his wife, former Novi City Councilmember Nancy Cassis.

Victor Cassis has owned the restaurant for eight years. Four years ago he renovated the building to fit in with the city's plan to build a downtown in that location. Cassis is an organizer and member of the Grand River Corridor Committee, which has been involved in setting standards for development in that area.

"Before he renovated it, this was just a little hole in the wall," Halfacr? said. "A hangout, a shot-and-a-beer place, whatever."

"Now we appeal to the quiet crowd," Cassis added. "This is not a bar and grill concept. We appeal to both young people and older people. Business people. Office people. We're not a fast food place but, at the same

The critically acclaimed Swann is director of music and organist at the renowed Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove, Calif., where he directs a 16-group music program, including The Cathedral Choir

Seen and heard by millions of television viewers each week. Swann is possibly the most visible organist in the world today.

The Cathedral Choir, under his direction, performs for over 300,000 people in approximately 100 services each year.

The Sunday morning services are taped for television and are broadcast as "The Hour Of Power — Robert Schuller," which bills itself as the most widely watched religious program in the world and is presented weekly throughout the U.S., Canada. Australia, and major cities in 60 European countries.

Swann, a Virginia native began the study of piano and organ at an early age - he was appointed to his first church position at age 10.

Before arriving at the Crystal Cathedral, posts held by Swann included organist and music director of New York's Riverside Church.

Today, he is sought after as a performer for the dedication of new pipe organs. In 1981, he inaugurated the Northville. organ at Orchestra Hall in Chicago in a sold-out concert with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Three years later, he played a dedicatory concert on a new organ at Roy Thomson Hall in Toronto. And in 1984, he was sol-

Swann has also played recitals in many of the major churches and cathedrals of Europe. In summer 1994, he will jet to Germany to participate in the Nurnberg Organ Festival and play several other recitals in Germany, France and England.

He has made over a dozen recordings with Gothic Records, including great organ masterworks by Mendelssohn, Bach, and Franck - as well as Christmas music. His own choral and organ compositions are published by Fred Bock Music Company and Hinshaw Music Inc.

Swann is a teacher as well as a musician. From 1972-1982, he was chairman of the organ department of the Manhattan School of Music. He is in demand as a leader of organ and church music workshops.

He has been active for 40 years with the American Guild of Organists, holding a number of national offices, as well as serving on the editorial supervisory board of the offical guild magazine. The American Organist, for 14 years.

AL PACINO

'Carlito's Way' rejoins Pacino, DePalma again

Carlito Brigante is a legend in the Carlito's reputation for ruthlessness barrios of New York.

Once he commanded fear and re- it. spect as a matchless player in the deadly game of organized crime. Now he returns to the streets after five years behind bars as the drug underworld anxiously waits for him to reclaim his power.

Yet Carlito has only one ambition - to escape his past and start over again with the woman he loves.

But first, he has to stay alive. In "Carlito's Way." Academy . Award winner Al Pacino takes on one of the richest roles of his career as Carlito Brigante, a man whose dreams are haunted by the memory , of old crimes and the treachery of , young rivals.

The Bregman/Baier production was directed by Brian De Palma and produced by Martin Bregman.

Sean Penn ("Casualties of War") co-stars as Carlito's smooth-talking, streetwise attorney. Penelope Ann Miller ("Awakenings") plays a dancer, full of hope and vitality, who falls in love with Carlito but can't prevent his return to crime. Newcomer John Le-ided over some of the city's most sen-

This is a very moving, very romantic film," said De Palma, the director of such successful and critically acclaimed films as "The Untouchables," "Casualties of War," "Dressed to Kill" and "Scarface."

"It has its moments of action and suspense, but basically it's a story about a man who has a dream. He's been in the business, he's gone to prison, and now he's been given a second chance at life with the woman he's loved for years."

The character of Carlito Brigante was born in the mind of New York State Supreme Justice Edwin Torres, who drew his inspiration from two worlds he knows extremely well. One is the East Harlem barrio where he was born --- on a kitchen table in a railroad tenement - and raised in an atmosphere of racial gangs, drugs and poverty. Torres' other world is the criminal justice system. As a New York State Supreme Court Justice, he has presguizamo portrays a small-time drug sational cases — the trial of the rapdealer who has grown up admiring ists of a Central Park jogger and the killers of a tourist on a midtown subway platform - and has earned a reputation for tough sentencing. The judge they call the "Time Machine" recently sent a repeat offender to state prison with a simple promise: Your parole officer hasn't been born

Throughout his years on the bench. Torres was drawn to tell the story of his barrio. "The street never forgets," he said. "When I wrote the novels, I was writing from my own memory. I heard Carlito talking to me. He was the voice of Spanish Harlem, and I felt compelled to write about my own world because no one else was doing it."

Carlito Brigante returns home to find that his neighborhood has grown more vicious and merciless than even he could have imagined. "Carlito is a knockaround guy, a racketeer - and an anachronism, said Torres.

"His standards of loyalty, friendship and honor — not your code of honor, perhaps, nor mine, but honor nonetheless - are vanishing from the street with each new crop of punks and shipload of cocaine."

"As Carlito himself describes it, his neighborhood has become like one of those old ghost towns, except that instead of tumbleweed and horses. there's graffiti and car wrecks," said De Palma. The situation he faces is very much like one of those gunslinger myths where the guy wants to hang up his gun, but all these kids are talking about what a legend he was. If one of them can kill him, he'll be a legend, too."

Carlito also discovers that the intervening years have worked a change on his friend and lawyer, David Kleinfeld, played by Sean Penn. Torres says he based the character on attorneys he's known who were seduced by the glamor of the underworld.

Carlito has to remind Kleinfeld that he's too old to become a wise guy," said Torres. "You have to be born into it. But Kleinfeld is blinded by the power and excitement. I've seen it happen again and again during my 36 years in the legal establishment: Ivy League types falling prey to the romantic notion that they are above the law. I've personally known several lawyers who were murdered because of their illegal activities with the underworld. It happens. It happens all the time."

Producer Martin Bregman was deeply impressed by the "raw street poetry" of Torres' writing, still more by the novels' compelling central character. "Carlito Brigante is a classic movie hero - romantic, macho, a charismatic individual with a tremendous sense of honor," said Bregman, "It was a perfect role for Al Pacino, yet very different from every part he's ever played."

A veteran producer whose previous work has included such signature Pacino films as "Serpico," "Dog Day Afternoon," "Scarface" and "Sea of Love," Bregman has built his reputation as a hands-on producer, intimately involved in every stage of a film's creation. In the case of "Carlito's Way," his first priority was to develop a script that would capture the essence of Carlito Brigante's world and provide a broad canvas for Pacino's talents.

Bregman tapped David Koepp, whose screenwrirting credits include Jurassic Park" and "Death Becomes Her," for the job.

"Koepp is versatile, smart, a brilliant dramatist," said Bregman, who worked closely with Koepp for two years to develop the shooting script

for "Carlito's Way."

Once this task was completed, Bregman enlisted the talents of Brian De Palma, the accomplished director he and Pacino had successfully collaborated with years before on "Scarface."

"There were two things that attracted me to this project," said De Palma. "The screenplay and the chance to work with Al Pacino again. When I read this script, there was no question that I had to direct it."

While superficial comparisons with Scarface's Tony Montana are easy to make, De Palma maintains that Carlito Brigante is really the antithesis of Tony Montana. 'Scarface' was like 'Richard III,' " he said. The story revolved around a dark, sinister character who used force to climb to the top of the cocaine business. Carlito is fundamentally a man of principal who has been given a second chance at life.

"But before he can escape with the woman he loves, his honor demands that he pay his debt to this friend. Kleinfeld. And that gets him in a lot of

In 1961, producer Samuel Bronston could truly be considered an epic filmmaker with the release of two colossal productions — "King of Kings," the story of Christ, and "El

"El Cid" was perhaps even more daring and monumental than "King of Kings." Starring Charlton Heston and Sophia Loren, and directed by Anthony Mann, the film is a lavish saga of romance and adventure, chronicling the life of the great 11th century champion who sought to unit Spain's disparate, warring religious factions under a single crown.

The story had never before been told on film, and Bronston's undertaking ultimately required a year of pre-production and eight months of shooting. The result was a rich and spectacular epic with a powerful message of religious tolerance which applies even today.

In the early 1990s, two French companies, Argos Films, headed by Jacques Rerat, and Les Films 26, headed by Jean-Paul de Vidras, teamed up to restore Bronston's "El Cid" to its original glory.

Piecing together a film which was released 30 years ago proved to be as epic an undertaking at the actual production. The film and all the original elements had been placed in storage in London and a daunting amount of material awaited the two

Following the example of the recently restored "Lawrence of Arabia," Rerat and de Vidas hoped to rerecord the film in Dolby Stereo to make it technologically compatible with modern movie theaters.

To accomplish this required more detective work. In order to re-mix the film, they had to find the original magnetic soundtracks.

After a bit of sleuthing, they discovered the missing soundtracks in the possession of a London collector. who handed them right over. Miraculously, they were in perfect condition Moreover, the track included the musical sequence from the over-

Mustangs go for revenge Saturday

By SCOTT DANIEL ports Editor

The stakes will be high at Saturday's football showdown with Farmington Hills Harrison.

Northville has a chance to avenge its only loss of the season and earn a second trip to the Class A semifinals in four years. According to coach Darrel Schumacher, taming the Hawks may come down to playing without nervousness.

"I think that hurt a lot the last time," he said. "The kids were really uptight. We want them to stay loose and focused."

Northville, 9-1, lost a 21-6 decision to Harrison in the third week of the season Sept. 17.

"I think that was our worst game," Schumacher said. "We'll have to play better to win this time.'

The Mustangs host the regional fi-nal starting at 1:30 p.m. A win Satur-day would send Northville to the semi-finals next weekend against the winner of the Birmingham Seaholm-Fraser contest.

Making it past the Hawks, though, will be no easy task.

Offensively, Farmington Hills, 8-2, presents a myriad of problems. Quarterback Mike Pesci is an effective thrower, Schumacher said. He connected with tight end Brock Burgess twice for touchdowns against Northville.

"He's a top notch kid," Schuma-cher said of Burgess, "who makes big

"They've got a ton of talent at the skill positions," said Schumacher.

Slowing down will mean more than stopping one of Harrison's weapons, he added.

Northville beats Chadsey with big plays, defense

By SCOTT DANIEL. Sports Editor

It's downright amazing what a bone-crunching defense and a few turnovers can do for a football team. Those ingredients added up to a 13-6 victory for Northville High over Detroit Chadsey Saturday in the first round of the state playoffs. A goalline stand, three recovered fumbles and a key pass deflection proved to be the difference for the Mustangs.

Our defense played the way it wanted," coach Darrel Schumacher said. We wanted to contain them and let them make mistakes. We wanted to stay in their face and keep hitting them.

Northville, now 9-1, advances to the MSHAA quarter-finals Saturday against conference rival Farmington Hills Harrison. The Hawks gave Northville its only loss of the season in September (see related story).

Making it to the regional final came down to one thing for Northville: stopping Detroit's Rafael Cooper. Although the Chadsey second of the c nior gained 85 yards on 21 carries. Schumacher said his team did the

That is one whale of a back," he added. "He's got excellent speed and lot of moves.

"But we kept him inside enough where our people could get to him.

vear," he said. The senior said Northville was fortunate to win. "They played bad and we played bad," Golden said. "We both had our ups and downs." The Mustangs were definitely up on defense. Besides putting a blanket on Cooper, Northville held Chadsev to just 139 yards of total offense. Both defenses dominated early on. Northville opened the game with the ball but could do little. Aneil Kersey carried three straight times for a first down at the Mustangs' 47-yard-line. Three more running plays got into Explorer territory but failed to get a first down.

Chadsey's first possession met with even less success. Cooper caried for three yards on first down and then five on third down.

Facing fourth down and three, Chadsey elected to punt. Chris Gomersal then made Northville's first big play of the game by tackling punter Stevonne Wortham at the Detroit 39-yard-line.

The Mustangs looked like they would make the most of the break. On second down, Kersey rumbled 24 yards down the left sideline to the Explorer 10. Northville tried and failed to punch the ball in. Kicker Mike Hirvela missed wide left on a 24-yard field goal attempt and Chadsey escaped unscathed.

Detroit took the momentum of that stop and moved from its own 17 to Northville's 35-yard-line. On second down, quarterback Courtney Dinkins launched a perfect pass to Chris Tilmon. What looked like a sure touchdown was turned away by Brian Jackson as the Mustang defensive back leapt high in the air and batted the ball away.

"He was beat but he recovered well," said Schumacher. "I thought that was a big play."

The Mustangs didn't let a second opportunity slip through their fingers.

After forcing the Explorers to punt, Northville took over on its own 22-yard-line. Eight plays later, Bryan Kelley followed a John Gatti block and scored on a 10-yard run with 4:17 left before halftime.

Both teams got the ball again before the end of the quarter, but failed to score and Northville went into the intermission up 7-0.

That lead appeared threatened at the start of the third quarter.

Chadsey's Tony Hobbs took Hirvela's kickoff and raced 68 yards before the kicker could tackle him at Northville's 6-yard line. Cooper then ran twice to move his team to the 2.

A third-down keeper by Dinkins was stuffed by the Mustangs. The Detroit quarterback tried the same play on fourth down, but Northville stopped him a yard short of the goal line and took over.

"That turned the game around," said Schumacher.

Chadsey forced Northville to punt after three downs and started a second drive at the Mustang 30-yardline. The visitors were again shut down and missed a 43-yard field goal attempt.

Northville got the winning touchdown before the end of the third quarter.

Scott Hartsough recovered an Explorer fumble at the Detroit 41 to give his team excellent field position. Schumacher opened his bag of tricks and pulled out a halfback pass as Kersey hit Golden for 11 yards on first down.

A Golden-to-Jason Holman pass moved the ball to the Detroit 20. Three plays later, Kelley got his second touchdown on an eight-yard run. Hirvela missed the extra point and Northville led 13-0 with seconds left in the quarter.

Chadsey scored its only touch-down midway through the fourth quarter. After recovering a fumble at the 15-yard line, Dinkins hit Curtis Murphy in the endzone.

The visitors shot themselves in the foot on their next possession. After stopping Northville on six plays, the Explorers took the ball at their own 35-yard line. Dinkins fumbled the center exchange on first down and Justin Cataldo recovered for Northville.

The Mustangs took the final four minutes off the clock with a pair of first downs and walked away with the

Lakeland dominates area cross country

To say that Lakeland dominates HomeTown Newspapers' East All Area Cross Country Boys team would be a great disservice. With five of the top seven runners, the Eagles own the 1993 Dream team. And for good reason. Led by Runner of the Year Shelby Baecker, Lakeland was a force in the state of Michigan. Baecker earned allleague, all-county and all-state honors this fall. An awesome Eagle lineup was rounded out by stars Jeff Clarke and Lance Binonemi.

Now, lets take a look at all of HomeTown Newspaper's selec-

SHELBY BAECKER Lakeland

If you're looking for the one person who completely dominated the Kensington Valley Conference this year, then you have to look no further than Shelby "The Blurr" Baecker from Lakeland.

The senior earned All-State honors this year with an eighth-place finish at Saturday's state finals. Baecker was also All-County with a seventh-place finish at the Oakland County meet, and was the 1993 Kensington Valley Conference champion.

"He had a great race Saturday (at the state meet)," said Lakeland coach Randy Wilkins. "It was a fantastic race. He peaked. He was fourth most of the way, but a few guys got past him at the end."

Baecker notched an impressive time of 15:58 at the state finals, which was the 10th fastest Class A time overall.

"He was a really dedicated run-ner," Wilkins said. "He was a fouryear runner and a perfect captain."

JEFF CLARKE Lakeland

Clarke battled with Baecker for the top Lakeland spot for most of the season until Baecker pulled away at the end of the year. Clarke recorded the top Lakeland finish at the Swartz Creek Regional meet, taking sixth.

Among the senior's accomplishments was a fifth-place finish at the KVC meet, a ninth-place finish at the Oakland County meet and a 25th-place mark at Saturday's state championship.

LANCE BINONEMI

Sometimes all it takes is one good blow to keep a bad team down. Northville High learned that lesson Thursday night at home by beating Farmington 43-30. Leading by just three at half, the Mustangs put together a 10-0 run to start the third quarter. Coach Gary Schwan said he made clear what Northville needed to do to win the game in his halftime speech.

"I told them if we let them hang around we're leaving the door open," he said. "If we could make a run I thought they'd let up."

The win improved Northville's season record to 7-11. The Mustangs will play Livonia Churchill tonight to close out the regular season.

"We'd like to close on a positive note and get ready for the state playoffs," said Schwan.

Northville takes on Plymouth Salem in the first round of districts Monday at 7:30 p.m. A win there would put the Mustangs into the semifinal with Livonia Ladywood.

Samantha Leger and Gina Chiasson led Northville in first half against Farmington. The duo combined for all but two of the Mustangs' 16 points in the half.

"We had a good defensive effort," Schwan said. "We just didn't shoot well."

Fortunately, that changed in the third quarter.

The Mustangs scored eight points in less than two minutes to open the period. The score was 26-13 before the Falcons knew what hit them.

"You could see a difference in (Farmington) after that," said Schwan.

"I told them if we let them hang around we're leaving the door open. If we could make a run I thought they'd let up."

Northville will try to mix things up offensively.

"We want to give them a lot of different looks," Schumacher commented. "We're going to do a lot of different things and make them make the plays.

Aneil Kersey and Bryan Kelley will play key roles. The running back tandem combined for 150 yards in Northville's first round playoff win over Detroit Chadsey.

Both have a few bumps and bruises, but will be ready Saturday.

"Physically we're beat up," said Schumacher. "You can't play this many games and not be banged up."

Novi places three on top area squad

HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Cross Country first team proves that experience doesn't always count more than hard work and dedication. With three freshmen, three sophomores and only one senior, many of our dream team members will be grabbing honors for years to come. They've certainly captured their share this season.

Runner of The Year Jenny Hampton became Novi's first all-stater in girls' cross country. Wildcat teammates Lorna Camp and Katie Zim-merman earned their fair share of kudos, such as all-county, all-KVC and all-region.

South Lyon's Katie Wilkinson was the first Lion to visit the state meet in a decade, while Huron Valley Schools thrilled to the amazing first-year periormances of Lakeland's Kristen Kiley and Milford's Jessica Greenless.

We are confident our inaugural All-Area team could compete with any squad in Michigan. Lets take a closer look at this year's selections: JENNY HAMPTON

"Her success may have surprised her, but it's not so surprising to the rest of us," said Milford coach Gene Balawajder. "We knew she could be this good or better. She had some quality runs; when she learns how to race she's going to be in the low 19s. She did all this with no summer training."

Hiking an excellent way to stay in shape

Randy Step

The last time many of us went for a long hike on a wooded trail was when we were children at summer camp or on an outing with a scout troop.

When I remember the fun and satisfaction that comes from completing a long hike, I wonder why we only did them as kids? Come to think of it there's a lot of fun things we did as kids that we don't get around to as adults. A great way to recapture the feeling of youth is to act like a kid and what better way to start than to take a hike.

For many of us, the years between being a child and having a child are a dormant period as far as these activities are concerned. I am in the fortunate position of having a 5- and an 8-year old. That means, for me, bike rides, hikes in the woods and building tree houses are part of my life again. In short, I've rediscovered some great ways for adults to have fun, and just in time to enjoy the crisp fall weather.

A fall hike is fun whether you go alone, with kids or in a pack. But, if you're not a parent and feel uncomfortable going without kids, borrow somebody else's. You'll be a hero and the kids will add to the fun. Here's some more thoughts on fall hiking.

Fall is the best time for a hike in the woods, there are no bugs and you can dress comfortably and adjust to weather changes. Wearing a waist pack allows you to carry gloves or a wind breaker. If you can throw in a water bottle and a lunch, you're ready for an all-day

Carry a compass on the trails. There always seems to be an unmarked intersection and using a map and compass gives you a better chance of choosing the right direction. The part I like most about carrying a compass is that I feel like I am on a big-time expedition!

You need not go far to find a backwoods trail. My favorite place is the trails in the Pinckney Recreation Area. To get there go north on U.S. 23 to North Territorial Road, go 10 miles west, turn right on Silver Hill Road and continue for about a mile until you enter the Silver Lake Beach parking area. Trail maps are available at the park entrance.

As for all fitness activities, having a reward for yourself at the end keeps you motivated. I suggest a trip through historical downtown Chelsea. Like so many of the communities in this area, it is loaded with fun places to eat or scenic streets to continue your walk on. Chelsea is just a short drive from the Pinckney Recreation Area. Continue west on North Territorial Road to M-52, go south on M-52 about three miles and you'll be in downtown Chelsea.

It's a perfect end to a healthy fall hike. Hopefully, you're seriously thinking about heading to the trails. I hope to see you there!

Preparation the key to selling a home

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

Home sales are sluggish in many areas of the country. It requires special effort and creativity to successfully sell a home at a fair price within a reasonably short time

It's important to properly prepare a home to be shown to prospective buyers, according to leading Realtors.

"Today's buyers respond to a home that's in tip-top condition," said Jim Garfield, owner of Cal-West/Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate. "An intensive cleanup and improvement project should be completed before the property is introduced to the market. First impressions are important."

Garfield emphasized the importance of "curb appeal." Exterior paint, if needed, should be a priority. And enhancing the front landscaping with bright and colorful flowers is a key improvement ele-

"I've noticed when driving clients around in my car that the condition and appeal of a house as we approach it has a big impact on their overall response to it," he

Susan Herrick, owner of Herrick & Co. Realtors, also emphasized the importance of curb appeal. "It costs very little to weed and spruce up the landscaping, repair torn screens and generally give a home a face-lift job. But it has a big effect on prospective buyers.

Herrick also stressed the importance of keeping the interior neat and clean.

"Get rid of the clutter. And place some real pretty potted plants at strategic points within the house. It brightens the interior and makes it look homey."

She suggested touring several open houses—particularly model homes at new residential develop-

The Covington designed as a natural light house

By James McAlexander

Rich in windows and skylights, the Covington is designed to allow as much natural light as possible in every room of the house. Even the covered porch has three sky-lights and the garage, too, has three large windows.

Sunniest of all are the formal rooms at the back-the vaulted dining room and living room. Wide multi-paned windows span most of the rear-facing wall, allowing full appreciation of a vista of landscaped yard.

And six skylights provide addiuonai muminauon

The entryway also has a lofty vaulted ceiling, brightened by two skylights. A small bathroom is just inside the front door, close to the pass-through utility room. Muddy shoes can be removed while sitting on the bench in the garage, and stored underneath the bench to

Other features in the two-car garage include: built-in shelves, a workbench and storage cabinets.

Windows rim the left wall of a combination family room/kitchen, expanded by a bayed eating nook. The kitchen work area is designed to minimize steps, with the sink, cook top and refrigerator placed close together.

Face framing on the walk-in pantry allows direct access to some of the shelves; a built-in grill provides an alternative cooking option.

Features in the utility room include a deep sink, a fold-down ironing board and counters that could house a sewing machine or be used for folding clothes.

The library, to the immediate right of the front door, can also be used as a home office or as a private sitting room for the master

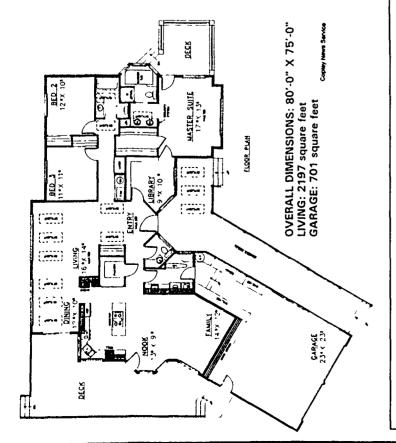

Luxury amenities in the master bathroom include an oversize shower, a garden tub with space for tropical plants in the tub alcove outside the bathroom.

The sleeping area is vaulted and has a security system, a large walk-in closet and a private deck, enclosed by a wall.

The other two bedrooms share a a third bathroom, which is also brightened by a skylight.

At home with orchids

dle tax withholding, liability and worker compen-

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

These exotic beauties are amazingly easy to care for; in fact, orchids are my favorite

There are plenty of orchids that will flourish and bloom well in the environment found in the average household. Of course, the key to success is twofold: First, learn some of the plants' basic needs and characteristics, then select those varieties that lend themselves best to indoor culture.

CULTURE TIPS

Unfortunately, the downfall of most first-time orchid growers is the tendency to overwater! Many orchids, for example, epidendrums, cattleya and oncidiums, have swollen stems known as pseudobulbs that can store water. So it's important that plants of this type dry out between waterings.

Other types of orchids that lack pseudobulbs — paphiope-dilums, vandas and phalaenopsis-need a continual supply of moisture, but even these varieties must be grown in a coarse, freely draining medium that allows some air to reach the roots.

Keep in mind wrinkled leaves, which beginners sometimes interpret as a sign of wilting, are usually the result of overwatering. They indicate that the plant's root system has collapsed and can no longer take up water. Generally, you'll need to water your orchid only two times a week in summer and once a week in

GARDENING

When you do water, allow it to run through the medium for a few seconds to wet it thoroughly, then set the pot aside to drain. This is the proper way to water all plants.

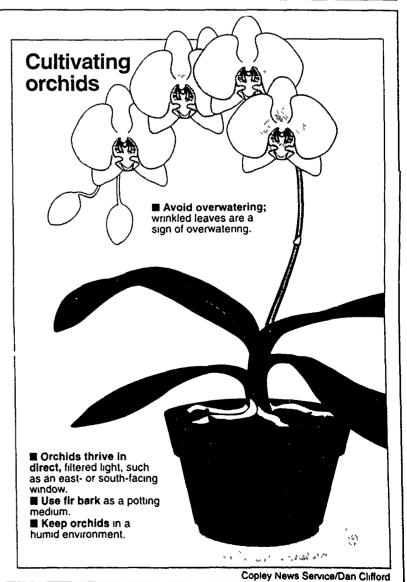

A good rule of thumb for watering is when in doubt, wait a day or two.

LIGHT AND SOIL

Inadequate light is the next most frequent reason an orchid fails to thrive. Although some types of orchids require more light than others, none will bloom in a dark corner.

Most orchids need direct filtered light from an east- or south-facing window or 12 to 14 hours a day beneath four 40-watt fluorescent tubes. A plant that is getting sufficient light produces sturdy growth and has leaves that are a medium green. Pale or yellow leaves are an indication that the plant is receiving too much

Reporting income of home employees

sation insurances, and adequate bonding, may charge slightly higher prices, but Wiljanen said the price is worth the peace of mind.

"More and more of our customers are saying it's just not worth the risk and hassle (to handle the tax, insurance and bonding paperwork on their own)," he auued.

Independent home service workers are still the largest segment of the cleaning industry. Wiljanen said, and homeowners who choose to hire an independent are completely responsible for reporting all wages and paying all withholding taxes to the government.
One of the biggest misconceptions among homeowners is that if they pay the lady down the street $40 to clean their house, and that lady doesn't report her earnings to the IRS, it's her problem, she goes to jail if she gets caught," he added. "But that's not true. Federal law has very clear guidelines (which say that) if you hire domestic help and pay them more than $50 over three months, you are responsible for withholding the appropriate taxes (and reporting the income).

Federal guidelines say that if an individual works directly for the homeowner, was hired and can be fired by the homeowner, and performs services under the homeowner's direction, the worker is considered the homeowner's employee. This category inlcudes housekeepers and caretakers who are not with outside services, and even babysitters.

Conversely, guidelines say that if the worker belongs to an agency or service and isn't hired, fired or paid directly by the homeowner, the worker's Social Security and taxes must be covered by the agency providing the workers.

Workers who use their own tools, perform their job without instruction and offer the same services to a number of people are considered contractors, and are responsible for their own Social Security and Homeowners who are unsure which category their domestic help falls into can file a form SS-8 and let the government decide whether the worker is an employee or under contract. All forms for withholding and reporting can be obtained from the IRS by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM.

Reporting a domestic employee's wages and withholding the appropriate taxes, as well as obtaining liability and workers compensation insurances are critical for homeowners who hire independent household help, Wiljanen said.

"If the homeowner doesn't (handle taxes) and they get caught, they are on the hook for thousands of dollars in back taxes, penalties and interest," he said. "And if they don't have liability insurance and their cleaning lady slips and falls down the stairs and has a $2,000 medical bill, the homeowner has to pay

Orchids need fifty-percent humidity

The potting medium to use since it works best for the home grower is fir bark. It comes in fine- or medium-size chunks, usually with some admixture of redwood fiber, charcoal, coarse peat or tree-fern fiber. Bark-based mediums are moisture retentive but drain swiftly enough so that the plants' roots remain healthy.

HUMIDITY

To grow well, orchids need humidity-level of about 50 percent. This is not a difficult task to achieve during the summer months when open windows and muggy days do the job for you.

In winter, it's a different story when central heating turns many houses into virtual deserts. so you must boost the humidity in your growing area. Daily misting is the key, preferably in the morning because misting at night promotes fungal and other bacterial diseases.

Most growers place their plants in trays filled with 1/2 inch to 1 inch of gravel that is kept constantly moist. The plant should never rest on the gravel. Simply place it on top of an over-turned saucer; it will keep the potting medium from becoming saturated with water.

Depending on the variety, orchids differ in their feeding requirements. I feed my orchids every week (during the growing season) with Miracid, available in most garden centers and nurseries around the country. Contrary to their image, most orchids are perfectly at home in temperatures that suit human beings. Try to avoid extremes of either hot or cold, a range during the day of 75 to 80 degrees is perfection; fall to 60 to 65 degrees at night is ideal. This 15- to 20-degree difference between day and night temperatures is necessary if the plants are to remain vigorous.

Of course, during the summer months (depending on where you live) it is often tricky to achieve this indoors or out. Open windows with ample air circulation are best conditions in summer, preferable to air conditioners.

Orchids grown at home rarely suffer from pests, but watch out for slugs and mealy bugs. don't use pesticides; with all infestations, I wipe the affected leaves once a week with a cotton swab dipped in rubbing alcohol until all signs of the pest have disappeared. Be vigilant

When selecting your first orchids, the more knowledge you acquire will be rewarding and will increase your chances of success if you start out with plants that are easy to deal with. So select hybrids over species.

Once you have mastered the basics of orchid care, you can move on to the species that catch your fancy. Either way, buy your plants from the best orchid nursery you can find.

Most of the Staffordshire potters had an individual border by which they could be identified. The wreath of flowers, beaded band and white margin on the platter are all typical border designs of J.&.J. Jack-

Your Staffordshire platter would probably fetch about $325 to $350.

He also suggests fresh flowers in the home and placing a drop of vanilla on a light bulb to add a pleasant fragrance. And a fire in the fireplace during the winter is always appealing.

Piping in classical or other soft music also helps to create a pleasant environment while not disturbing the conversation, he noted.

Sunshine can also work wonders in creating a cheerful, warm environment within the house. Opening draperies and curtains lets the prospective buyer see how cheerful your home can be. During evening inspections, turning on all lights again creates a glowing warmth," he said.

Sloan suggests that owners not be present during the inspection by a prospective buyer, when the property is listed by a broker. It's the job of the broker or sales associate to show the property to best advantage and discuss its possible purchase. And that can usually be accomplished better when the owners are not within listening range. In cases where the owners are present, its important that they never apologize for the appearance of the home. That always leaves a negative impression, he said.

When it comes down to the wire, a home seller's cooperation in making cosmetic repairs and priming the house for each showing can truly make or break a sale. And in today's competitive market, every effort counts." Sloan said.

Cactus captivates at this shop

By ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN Special Writer

Highland resident Dan DeClark's enthusiasm for Southwest art and decor combined with his desire to draw more people into Milford led him to open Legends of Time, a store with a Southwest theme.

"I wanted to bring something different to Milford," DeClark said.

A retail store manager for 10 years, DeClark decided to take a chance. He quit his job and has devoted himself full-time to his business - something he says he would not have done were he married.

Comments from friends and family members asking where he obtained Southwest items in his home and their desire to purchase similar items inspired him to begin his own

He said his family was shocked at first by his decision.

"After they came out and saw (the store), they were behind me 100 percent," DeClark said. "They were my first customers.

DeClark's store, which opened the first week of September, houses a combination of reminders of the Southwest's past and present. Indian art, pottery, bandanas, colored cacti and adobe houses mingle at 453 N. Main Street in Milford - the former Milford Times office location. He chose the site because it was available and conveniently located in the heart of Milford Village.

DeClark said he couldn't have chosen a better location.

"I like meeting the people in town and all the customers who come in," he said. "I enjoy talking to people."

DeClark's personal favorite is a striking Southwestern painting of three brightly colored cacti by artist

"I would like to have a lot of local people represented (in my shop) if possible," DeClark said.

At present, most of his items are obtained from Arizona and New

Other items DeClark carries include candles and coyotes, handpainted tiles, stained-glass suncatchers, pottery, American Indianinspired "dreamcatchers," pictures and cards with Southwest themes, live cacti, Navajo-style blankets, woven rugs, live cacti, terrariums, some jewelry, "lucky" rabbits' feet, and wall made in the USA, according to Deof Mount St. Helens.

The cost of the items range from 99 cents for rabbits' feet to $500 for a few select art items. The majority of De-Clark's stock is priced lower than that. "You can get a decent gift for $20 to $60," he said.

Most of DeClark's merchandise is plaques made from the hardened ash Clark, who said that the primary exceptions to the rule are three gaily-Among DeClark's most popular colored pinatas from Mexico. He can MAILBOXES ETC. of Northville has announced the promotion of Eric Ladwig to the position of Manager-Customer Services at the Northville Mailboxes Etc. store.

Eric's responsibilities include, but are not limited to, private mailbox rental service, all UPS shipping and packaging, large freight shipments, copy and fax service.

"Since the store's opening in February 1993 our monthly sales have increased dramatically," noted store owner Mike Ladwig. "We've added many services, (freight shipping, items too large to send via UPS or Federal Express, Western Union Money Transfer, color copies and document binding). In order to maintain our level of customer service it was necessary to create this position, and staff it with someone who follows the principles of good customer service. Eric has demonstrated his ability to accomplish this task."

KAREN A. LONGRIDGE has been appointed as director of Communications and Public Affairs for Inland Fisher Guide Division it was announced by Gerald L. Elson, GM vice president and general manager of the division. The appointment was effective Sept. 1, 1993.

Longridge was born Sept. 11, 1964, in Ann Arbor. She graduated from Northville High School in 1982 and earned a bachelor's degree in communication from the University of Michigan in 1986. She joined the GM Public Relations Staff that same year as an exhibit representative at the GM World of Motion exhibit at Epcot Center in Orlando, Fla.

New shop has desert treasures

DeClark added that if a customer has a particular Southwest item they want, they should ask him to try to obtain it.

"I can order just about anything anyone wants - or at least try to find it." he said.

For more information, call De-Clark at (313) 685-0911.

Business Briefs

Longridge joined the GM News Relations Section in Detroit in July 1987 and held several assignments there until being named manager of public relations for GM North American Export Sales in December

In June 1993, Longridge was named senior staff assistant with GM North American Operations (NAO) Communications Staff and handled platform and divisional relations. She held that assignment until being promoted to this position.

Inland Fisher Guide, a division of GM's Automotive Components Group Worldwide, employs 3,000 people and operates 25 manufacturing sites in the U.S., Mexico, Canada, and Europe which supply body hardware, interior systems, lighting and bumper systems, and seat systems to the automotive industry.

JAMES S. ROTH has been named president of MascoTech Stamping Technologies, according to Alfred H. Grava, president of MascoTech's Automotive Systems Group.

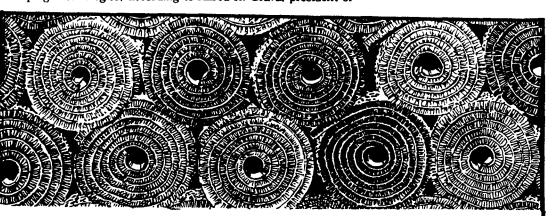

In his new position, Roth will oversee MascoTech Stamping Technologies operations, including 1,100 employees at 15 sites in three states. He was previously senior vice president of the Budd Company. serving as president of its stamping and frame division.

Roth holds a master of business administration degree from Cornell University. He resides in Bloomfield Hills.

MascoTech Stamping Technologies, a unit of the MascoTech Automotive Systems Group, is headquartered in Novi. The company is a full-service organization with design, engineering and prototype capabilities that produces light, medium and heavy stamped metal parts and assemblies using line, transfer and progressive dies. Additional operations including welding, painting, assembly, finishing and machining.

The boy who delivers the crack, he's eleven. He makes $300 a day but now he's dead. These kids are not learning nothing except how to be hopeless. How to die. You don't need to go to no school to learn that. And that's just it. These kids aren't going. So I went to the schools to see what I could do. Me, a man who's seen his neighborhood go from bad to worse. But now I'm tired of it and I'm going to start with the kids. They're the hope. I go to the junior high and just show up in class and tell them to take pride in themselves. Pride in what they are and to have dignity. They can wake up in the morning and either go out and be mad at the world or do something to make it good for them. These kids just don't know better. And that's no good because how are our children going to have good lives if they don't stay in school? There is a reason to stay. And I'm going to tell them.

This is W.W. Johnson's real-life story. He is one of the little answers to the big problems facing every community in America. And because there are more people than problems, things will get done. All you have to do is something. Do anything. To find out how you can help in your community, call 1 (800) 677-5515.

DO you know Bob Scranton? If you don't, you really should. As a prinipal & soldier, this man was really good. He was taken prisoner in World War II at the Battle of the Bulge, from that he came through. He taught our children 40 years of griving his all, if we had problems we could always give Mr. Scranton a call. At home he has Maïred, as charming as she can be, they have a boy & girl, & grandchildren they have 3. He has reached the age of 75 & we all do wish him well. He truty is one of Brighton's very best citizens.
