Residents win treatment for dusty roads

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Dirt road residents rejoiced when Northville Township trustees passed the 1994 budget with a $10,500 allocation for a single calcium chloride treatment.

Julie Fountain, a township dirt road resident and a member of the dirt roads committee, attended the Nov. 1 public hearing when trustees were considering the proposed 1994 budget.

Before the board adopted the budget after the hearing, Fountain urged trustees to pass the proposed line item for road treatment in the 1994 budget.

"I urge the board to accept that proposal because that's the responsible thing to do and because it's a public safety issue."

Township Supervisor Karen Baja told Fountain at that meeting that the board has discussed the possibility of piggybacking a local question on a statewide ballot in August that would address the dirt road problem.

The supervisor said there has been some discussion among board members to put the ballot question before voters "at that time to decide whether or not we wish to pay for road treatment."

But while residents are celebrating the board's responsiveness to the age-old dusty road problem, Northville trustees are awaiting Wayne County's response to their request for reimbursement of the $10,205.12 the board spent in 1993 to treat the community's 13.2 miles of unpaved roads.

Trustees collide over car policy

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The supervisor and two constables in Northville Township may resume driving township-owned vehicles if trustees continue to say the ban on elected officials driving the cars is too restrictive.

The proposed vehicle-use policy surfaced weeks ago after the board asked the clerk to draft a policy to park the perception that township-owned cars were being used for personal use.

It was tabled at the board's last official meeting and again Nov. 11.

Clerk Sue Hillebrand drafted the policy which called for a daily log of township vehicle use and a ban on elected officials' use of any car for any reason.

The policy also sought to find some way to mark all of the township cars with the township logo. Before the next board meeting, trustees are hoping to find a simple and cost-effective way to mark the cars with

"I don't think we are that rich of a township to afford elected officials the luxury of a car."

either stickers or dashboard labels.

Weeks ago, the clerk said trustees asked her to draft the policy after they became concerned about who was driving the cars in the township fleet and for what purpose. The clerk said the trustees requested that the ban on elected officials' use of the car be included in the draft, but you would never know it by their reaction to the policy.

Merchants gear up for Christmas Walk

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

As the garlands are hung from the lampposts with care, Northville merchants are preparing for another holiday shopping season and their annual Christmas Walk.

The walk, which takes place this Sunday, includes special promotions at downtown stores and a series of events including a concert by a renowned pianist and carols by area school and church choirs. The stores will be open between noon and 5 p.m., displaying holiday merchandise and offering refreshments to their patrons.

Non-profit organizations play a key role in this year's Christmas Walk, said Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs, with the Friends of Northville Library selling hot cider and doughnuts and the Northville Mother's Club offering cookbooks for sale.

A local Girl Scout troop will distribute hot chocolate while a garden club sells wreaths and roping. North-

Speaker gives tips on conflict resolution

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

With tensions at a potential all-time high in Northville High School, a Wayne State University associate who specializes in conflict resolution had a simple message for schools and parents alike.

Mickey Pepera, an associate with WSU's Center for Peace and Conflict Studies, told a Nov. 9 meeting of A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity that the way to settle disputes is to acknowledge them and get to the heart of the problem in a non-confrontational way.

"Conflict can be a growth experience," she noted. "Think of 1776. We wouldn't have a country if it wasn't

BATTLING ABUSE

The quest for drug-free schools for conflict."

Conflicts, or at least reports of them, have become more common at Northville High School in the wake of a Sept. 30 assault by a male black student on a female white student and complaints by several students about white supremacists harassing them in the hallways.

With allegations that the assault was handled in a biased manner on the front page of a Detroit newspaper that morning, and a television news team covering the 7 p.m. ACORD meeting, Pepera's Nov. 9 comments could not have been more timely.

Pepera, who became a mother in 1991, noted that the bond between a parent and a child is a universal one. "This is something that we all have in common and we all share, whether we're black or white or any ethnic group," she said. "That's the thread that binds us. . . . What we're talking about is building relationships, and these are the things that we build on."

The way to bridge gaps between cultures, she said, is to find those similarities and "shared truths" and work from there.

What makes conflict resolution difficult is the fact that the roots of a conflict may not be as obvious as they first appear, if one of the combatants' anger is due to something in his or her past rather than the situation at hand.

As she proceeded to give the ACORD members a "thumbnail class in conflict theory," Pepera noted that parents are the first to teach their School drafts open letter to governor

By MICHELLE HARRISON

Gov. John Engler should be expecting a letter from Northville school officials soon.

The district has formulated a draft of principles for evaluating school finance and restructuring reforms proposed by the state Legislature.

Lawmakers are currently scrambling to come up with an alternative funding mechanism to operate schools after yanking over $6 billion in revenues generated through property taxes this summer.

"It's nowhere near the final (position)," Superintendent Leonard Re-zmierski said of the draft.

The district is expected to announce its position at the Monday, Nov. 22, board of education meeting. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Winchester Elementary.

Salvation Army appeals for funds

The sound of ringing bells so familiar to the Christmas season will soon return to Northville.

Hundreds of volunteers representing more than 50 organizations from the communities of Northville, Plymouth and Canton will ring the bells for the Salvation Army starting Monday, Nov. 22, and continuing until the day before Christmas.

The annual Kettle Drive collects contributions to help needy families in the area at Christmastime.

Lt. Jeffrey Beachum, commander of the Corps Center in Plymouth, says the goal this year is $100,000. Last year volunteers for the three-community area served by the Plymouth center achieved that goal.

To highlight the event the Salvation Army is staging a "Kettle Kick-off" ceremony at its community center, 9451 S. Main St. in Plymouth, at noon on Wednesday, Nov. 24.

Special invitations have been issued to community officials and the public is invited to attend and enjoy refreshments, hear a brass band and see the unveiling of the goal board and Christmas tree which will record collection returns.

Most of the kettle-collected money is used to provide needy area families with food, clothing, toys and gifts for Christmas. Last year, Lt. Beachum reports, the Salvation Army helped 985 people from 362 area families at Christmas alone.

Additionally, basic needs such as prescriptions, utility bills and rental payments are provided by the Army Corps.

The volunteer bellringers represent the following Northville organizations:

Northville city administration; city fire department; city police; First Presbyterian Church of Northville; First United Methodist Church of Northville; Our Lady of Victory Church; Northville Community Chamber of Commerce; VFW Post 4012; Northville Athletic Booster Club; Kiwanis (original and Early Birds); Friends of the Library; Northville Historical Society; Northville League of Women Voters; Newcomers Club; Mothers Club (life members); Northville Cooperative Pre-school; Northville Record; the family of Tad Evans; Single Place (Presbyterian church group); American Legion; Senior citizens.

ARTS SERIES: The Northville Arts Commission will bring back its Michael Farrell Lecture series in 1994. Farrell, an associate professor of art history at the University of Windsor, will speak on the 17th century masters Rembrandt van Rijn, Peter Paul Rubens and Jan Vermeer on Jan. 20, Feb. 17 and March 17.

All lectures will take place in the Northville High School Forum at 7:30 p.m. Season tickets are $15, available in advance. Individual tickets sell for $6 at the door. For information, call 349-6104.

Residents surveyed on road closure

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials will be distributing a survey to Park Gardens residents later this week to gauge homeowners' interest in closing the subdivision's dirt roads to through traffic.

Township Manager Bill Richards said Monday the board of trustees has made minor changes to the survey he submitted for their approval earlier this fall. The board directed Richards to draft the survey in August.

The survey poses only three questions to Park Gardens residents. It asks if they want any or all of their roads closed off to through traffic, and if so, what type of barricade would they prefer be used to block the entrances and exits to the subdivisions.

The third question seeks residents' reaction to paving the roads at their expense.

There is also space on the survey form for residents to supply comments about the issue to township officials.

Richards said the results of the survey will be used to assist the board of trustees in making its decision on whether to petition Wayne County to close the roads.

The manager said township officials are awaiting the results of the survey before making a decision to keep the roads open or close them off.

Since trustees have not yet reached a decision to change the status of the Park Gardens roads, the survey does not include cost estimates for paving the subdivision's roads.

"At this time cost estimates for paving have not been developed," the manager wrote in the cover letter that accompanies the survey. "We believe it would be premature to develop such estimates prior to obtaining your responses to this survey and determining the level of interest by the residents for paving, if any."

A decision to close the roads would also need county approval since the roads are owned by Wayne County, Richards warned residents.

"Closing of any of these roads would require permission of the County," he said. "Further, it is our understanding that the County has previously expressed opposition to reclosing these roads."

Township Fire Chief Rick Roselle recommended at one time that closing the roads would worsen his department's response time. The fire chief said closing the road would make it harder for the department to get its apparatus down those streets. The fire chief changed his stance in August.

Public Safety Director Chip Snider agreed with Roselle's assessment.

"The fire service is unique because it responds from one location," Snider said. "That's in contrast with the mobility of my patrol units. But as director I would support my fire chief's recommendation."

The manager is requesting that survey responses be returned to township hall by Dec. 1.

Township still seeking reimbursement for dirt road treatments

Township Manager Bill Richards said the township has received no word from county officials on the payment they sent downtown last month.

Despite dirt road residents' unanimous plea to have the board make county officials foot the bill for the road palliative, the manager said he wasn't holding out any hope Wayne officials would respond positively.

"I'm not really too hopeful," Richards said about the county reimbursing the bill. "Every other time it's come up the county has responded with an emphatic no." In June, the township's dirt roads committee convened a public meeting of all dirt road residents. County executives were invited to attend, but failed to show. County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, was there but had little opportunity to speak on behalf of the county, he said.

The meeting, which reportedly drew more than 450 residents to the Northville High School auditorium, was chaired by Township Supervisor Karen Baja.

The consensus of those in attendance at the June 23 meeting was that it was either the township's or the county's responsibility to pay for treating the roads — not the residents'.

Police News

Twp. police seek suspects in series of break-ins

Township police are looking for suspects who burglarized 10 apartments off Seven Mile Road last weekend. In each of the reported cases, thieves entered the apartment through an unlocked sliding door wall and left through the front door.

Three of the robberies happened at Silver Springs Apartments; three in Innsbrook; three in the Harbour Village complex; and one in Swan Lake.

The suspects lifted an estimated $1,266 in collector's coins and currency, a diamond ring, an engraved lighter, women's blouses, video tapes, personal checks and a 10-inch straight knife.

According to the police reports, four of the break-ins happened on Saturday between 9 a.m. and 11:09 p.m. Five others occurred on Monday between 7:30 a.m. and 3 a.m. A 10th report — which was not yet completed — was taken from a tenant whose home was robbed sometime over the weekend when the resident was out of town.

Police have few leads to the identities of the thieves who left behind expensive television, stereo equipment and jewelry in plain view. Officers found little evidence at the scene to help them with their investigation.

RUNAWAY FROM HAWTHORNE CENTER: Michigan State Police reported a runaway from the Hawthorne Center for juveniles at 3:20 p.m. on Nov. 13. Sophia Hill, a 15-year-old black female from Inkster remains at large, and was last seen wearing a metallic blue jogging suit with her hair tied back in a bun. She is 5 feet 3 inches, 108 pounds, with a dark complexion, black hair and brown eyes.

OPERATING UNDER THE INFLUENCE: Township police arrested two men for driving under the influence of liquor.

Both arrests occurred on Sunday, Nov. 14, shortly after 2 a.m. A Livonia man was arrested at 2:03 a.m. on southbound Northville Road south of Cass Benton. The 48-year-old was speeding in his black 1993 Pontiac Grand Prix when police pulled him over. The man failed sobriety tests and refused to take a Breathalyzer.

According to the report the man couldn't decide whether to take the tests after being asked twice by township police. After the first refusal, he was taken to the police station and then asked to take it again. After 15 minutes of deliberating, the man agreed to take the test. He was given it twice and both times the result showed a .10 percent blood alcohol level, the legal limit.

Before he was released on $80 cash bond, the man was ticketed for refusing the PBT test and for operating under the influence of liquor.

In another case, a 40-year-old Milford man and his wife were traveling east on Seven Mile Road at Haggerty when they were stopped and he was arrested for driving under the influence. The Milford couple says they were returning from a company party when the officer pulled them over for traveling 65 miles in a 45 mph zone around 2:22 a.m. The man, who was driving at the time, failed field sobriety tests and police determined that his wife, who was a passenger in the car, was also too drunk to drive.

The man was taken back to the station and given a Breathalyzer which showed a .17 percent blood alcohol level. He was released on $100 personal bond and faces charges in 35th District Court on November 19.

AUTO THEFT: A maintenance man at NorthRidge apartments told township police somebody stole his 1978 Ford pickup truck from the parking lot where he left it unlocked and running on Friday, Nov. 12.

The truck owner said he started the truck and left it running to warm it up, but when he returned the truck was missing. The same morning, police received a report that a patient had walked away from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. Police believe the man may have been responsible for the missing truck. The truck was recovered from Hartland Friday afternoon. Police no longer believe the patient is a suspect in the case.

POLICE TRACK DOWN DRUNK

DRIVER: City police tracked down the driver responsible for a Nov. 12 hit-and-run accident, and found out she was drunk. The 32-year-old Walled Lake woman had reportedly turned from eastbound Eight Mile Road onto northbound Novi Road just before 8 p.m. into the path of a westbound car. She continued north after her car was struck, and Novi police found her car in a bank parking lot at Novi and Nine Mile, minus its license plate.

Northville City police found the woman sitting outside a drugstore just south of the bank, leaning against a column. When asked why she was leaning against the column she reportedly told a police officer, "Because I'm drunk." The officer could smell liquor on her breath, and she was taken into custody. Field sobriety tests were not administered due to the woman's inability to stand straight and the fact she was argumentative.

A Breathalyzer test measured her blood alcohol level at .22 percent, more than twice the legal limit. A bottle of rum and an empty 24-ounce bottle of beer were found in her car when it was impounded.

The Nov. 12 arrest followed a series of traffic infractions by the woman. She had been charged with operating while impaired in Walled Lake in 1985 and driving on a suspended license in Bloomfield Hills in 1986, along with four speeding tickets, two citations for driving without proof of insurance, a ticket for failing to display a valid license and another for driving with an expired license since then. She also had several charges of failing to appear in court and failing to comply with a court judgment on her record.

HIGH SCHOOL FIST FIGHT BLAMED ON RACE: A 15-year-old Northville student complained that he was attacked by a 14-year-old in the hallway between classes Nov. 5. The 8:30 a.m. incident apparently resulted when the two exchanged words as the 14-year-old was walking by the 15-year-old's locker, and escalated into a shoving match before fists started flying. A teacher broke the fight up, but not before the 14-year-old punched the 15-year-old in the face as the teacher was questioning the older boy.

The complainant, who is white, said he's being picked on because he has black friends. According to the 14-year-old, who is also white, the alleged victim started the argument when he said "Come on, you Nazi, let's fight."

School officials have suspended the 14-year-old for five days and the 15-year-old for three days.

SUSPENDED LICENSE ARREST: City police arrested a 25-year-old

Novi man for driving on a suspended license the morning of Nov. 12 after pulling him over for speeding on northbound South Main near Doherty Drive. The man was using a Virginia driver's license which had expired. He was released on $500 personal bond.

TRESPASSING ON RACETRACK PROPERTY: City police cited a 49-year-old South Lyon man for trespassing at Northville Downs Nov. 12 after he had been barred from all Michigan horse racetracks earlier this year. The man was seen in the barn area at the 301 S. Center St. track that afternoon and could not produce the racing license required to be on track grounds.

FENDER BENDER: An 18-year-old Northville man was cited for failing to yield at Eight Mile and Randolph the afternoon of Nov. 13 after pulling into another car on westbound Eight Mile. The man was turning off Randolph Street at the time. There was little damage and no one was injured.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Board holds township manager accountable for lawyer's bills

Instead of adopting the new policy, the board opted for stronger enforcement of the existing one that was adopted after trustees hired Krzyzaniak's firm and two others in February. That means Township Manager Bill Richards will be in charge of screening and approving employees' contact with Krzyzaniak. Township board members may continue to contact the attorney as long as the manager is kept informed.

Employees and elected officials will be asked to complete a request-for-services form and then submit it to the manager. He then will make the determination as to whether the attorney should be called to handle the request.

Trustee Barbara O'Brien objected to the proposal to prohibit elected officials from contacting the attorney. The trustee — who called Krzyzaniak last week without the township manager's approval to get a clarification on whether it was illegal or unethical for her to participate in the flat-rate sewer debate — said the ban was excessive.

"It's too restrictive," she said. "I think sometimes you have to get some things straight from the horse's mouth."

Trustee Mark Abbo disagreed.

"I don't think we should be contacting the attorney," he said. "I don't think individually we should be spending the township's money that way."

Richards told trustees the attorney's bills were already starting to decrease without the adoption of the new policy.

"They are coming down," he said. "But I'm not sure if it's because of the latest efforts or because of the luck of the draw and the number of cases being down."

Nonetheless, the bills are still much higher than trustees anticipated.

Aside from limiting access, the clerk and several of the other trustees maintain that they still want to find other ways to reduce legal expenses. She wants to cut back on Krzyzaniak's weekly office hours while others want him to install an 800 line or a local phone number.

Supervisor Baja had little to say about the issue except that the weekly office hours are advantageous and should be increased from one day a week to two.

"I actually think the attorney should come in more than one day a week," she said. "... Instead of just Wednesdays maybe he could come Tuesdays and Thursdays."

Abbo also suggested the board begin monitoring and auditing the bills more closely as one way of "looking for some very concrete ways to cut the bills."

Richards also suggested board members get a rundown of the pending legal cases and meet in a closed session with Krzyzaniak to plan strategy.

"The board needs to get information about the pending law cases and then meet in a closed session and find ways to cut our losses," he said.

New OLV principal plans to spend time in classroom, too

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Even if she did get her own office, Linda Jackson is still having a hard time staying out of the classroom.

Jackson, who has taught at Our Lady of Victory Catholic School for the past seven years, is now the school's principal. She succeeded Marilyn Reagan, who retired at the end of June.

"I haven't seen a large transition because I've been so much a part of this school," Jackson said. "I was familiar with procedures. I was familiar with the teachers who returned and all the parents. Many of the kids I already knew."

What she wasn't familiar with were things such as policies of the diocese and developing her own expectations for the school.

"A teacher's view, looking up at the principal, it looks easy," she said.

Although she enjoys her job, there were some things the principal is responsible for that she didn't realize as a teacher.

One is that schedules are made to be broken.

"Kids get hurt, a parent calls and wants to talk with you now — every day is unique," Jackson said. "Hopefully you can accomplish at least one thing you set out to do."

Jackson also understands why certain decisions are made the way they are now, too.

"Here, you're looking at a whole range of what the decision is affecting," she admitted. "From the classroom, you have one centered point of view."

Still, Jackson says it's hard for her to stay out of the classroom.

"I questioned whether or not I would miss it," she admitted. "The higher you go up in administration, you just get one step further away."

Jackson has indulged her yearning for the classroom, though, by substitute teaching when needed.

"I have enjoyed what I've been doing," she said. "Hopefully, I can keep both going on at the same time and I won't miss what's going on in the classroom."

Jackson decided on a teaching career in her high school years.

"I used to spend a lot of time with my grandmother who (taught) special education," she said. "As far as administration, I never wanted to do that, but the opportunity came along."

Jackson's teaching experience includes private schools St. Gabriel in Detroit and Our Lady of Grace and St. Anselm, both in Dearborn Heights. Although her teaching assignments varied at Our Lady of Victory, she primarily taught social studies and was assigned homeroom for sixth and eighth graders.

A resident of Redford Township, Jackson and her husband Jim have six children, Julie, 16; James, 13; Kevin, 10; Kelly, 8; Kristen, 5; and Shannon, 4.

Although Jackson has been on the job a relatively short time, she has already firmed up her goal for this year — to strengthen the school's technology program.

Other than that it will be business as usual.

"I came into a very stable position and the school is very successful," she said.

Volunteers kept blooms healthy

By PATRICIA A. ZIELKE
Special Writer

Sometimes good things happen ... and one did at Allen Terrace this year.

Tom Hughes made it happen. He heard about an ongoing problem faced by members of the Country Garden Club of Northville in maintaining the healthy perennial garden they had planted for the Terrace's residents several years ago.

The problem was a lack of water, stemming in part from inaccessible water outlets. Having to run feet of connecting hose between building and garden was an arduous task at best, but John Gustav, resident and former maintenance supervisor, volunteered to do it when time could be taken from an already full work schedule.

When Gustav retired, however, so did the garden's water supply. In order to sustain the garden and ensure survival of the less hardy plants, members of the garden club transported containers of water from their homes to the area.

Enter Tom Hughes of Custom Sprinklers by Tom. He not only contributed all materials, but installed an automatic sprinkler system and timer. Unlike some of us who see a need and just acknowledge its existence, Hughes saw a need and filled it.

This season, thanks to Hughes, everything stayed green, healthy and thirst-quenched at Allen Terrace.

Bill would halt government 'secret' settlements

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Local governments would no longer be able to hide lawsuit settlements — but businesses could — under a bill before the state House of Representatives.

Recommended by the House Judiciary Committee last week, the bill declares that any secret settlement "is against public policy and is void."

The bill by Rep. Michael Griffin, D-Jackson, is aimed against the practice of governmental units paying off plaintiffs, requiring that the payment be kept secret, and asking the circuit court to seal the records.

The government then hides the payment by including it in a lump sum payment to its attorney. The attorney writes the plaintiff a check — not a public record under Michigan's Freedom of Information Act.

The bill applies to counties, cities, villages, townships, special authorities, public universities, community colleges, special assessment districts and all other boards created by either state law or municipal charter.

Griffin introduced the bill two years ago after public outcry when the Jackson County Board of Commissioners made a secret settlement with two prisoners who had been beaten up in the jail.

Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, sought to expand the bill to all parties, including businesses. With 10 votes needed in committee, Republicans rejected Gubow's amendment, five yes to six no with one abstention and six absent.

The issue was brought to light nationally in December 1991 by Texas attorney Bob Gibbins in the American Bar Association Journal.

In "Secrecy versus Safety," Gibbins argued that companies like Upjohn, Dow Corning, McNeilab Inc. and Cessna Aircraft not only hid their payouts from stockholders, but the gag orders prohibited public release of product safety information. Even scientific journals were prohibited from discussing adverse effects of painkilling medicines, Gibbins said.

The Dow Corning case involved breast implants. Plaintiffs' attorneys say hundreds of women never would have asked for implants if facts about earlier cases hadn't been sealed in court records.

Mill Race Matters

This year's Mill Race Village Christmas Walk will feature the private collections of a number of members and friends. Collections on display will include: historic Santas, children's toys, Christmas ornaments, apple peelers, dolls, and quilts. All buildings will be decorated and open for viewing.

This year's chair of the event, Aletta Holmes, hopes to provide a new look and a number of previously unexhibited features. The village will be open Saturday, Nov. 20, and Sunday, Nov. 21, from noon until 5 p.m. Admission is $1.

As always, the Mill Race Weaver's, the Mill Race Basket Guild, and the Village Country Store will have items available for sale.

Another feature of this year's walk will be a shed (a.k.a. garage) sale, clearing out a variety of excess materials. Members who have items they wish to donate for the sale may do so on Friday, Nov. 19, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. or on Saturday, Nov. 20, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The shed is adjacent to the Hirsch Blacksmith Shop. It is hoped that this event can replace the auction of previous years. Any item suitable for resale is accepted.

Registration for this year's Children's workshop takes place Friday, Nov. 19, at 218 W. Dunlap. Members may register their children beginning at 6 p.m. with non-member registration beginning at 7 p.m. This is the Northville Historical Society's 15th annual Children's Christmas Workshop. Children in grades one through six are invited to participate.

They get the opportunity to make hand-made gifts for the special people on their lists. The intent is to allow the children to surprise their family members with things they themselves have created. Parents are encouraged not to peek or pry and spoil the surprise. Sessions occur on Saturday, Dec. 4 at New School Church, Mill Race Village. The morning session runs from 10 a.m. until noon and the afternoon session from 1 until 3 p.m. Cost for one session is $10 per child.

With the conclusion of the Christmas Walk most Mill Race Village buildings close for the winter. This year members and friends are being asked to donate old sheets which can be used to cover the furnishings during the winter months. It is hoped that covering the items will protect them from the excess dust which accumulates from non-usage. Old sheets can be dropped off Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Cady Inn. Those unable to drop them off during these hours can call 348-1845 to make special arrangements.

Thank you to Phelps Hines for the donation of several copies of Historic Preservation News. Thanks also to Jean and Blake Couse for their donation in memory of Jack Hoffman.

The Sculptors Guild of Michigan holds its annual exhibit Nov. through 29 at the Oakland County Galleria. Hours are from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

Syme returns for Christmas walk

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

When it comes to tickling the ivories, few pianists have as wide a range or as assured a touch as West Bloomfield's David Syme.

The man known as "The Human Jukebox" will bring his broad repertoire to Morrison's Antiques this Sunday for a special performance during Northville's Christmas Walk. The free performance will take place between 1-4 p.m. at Morrison's 105 E. Main St. store.

Syme drew rave reviews after performing a similar concert at Morrison's during last year's holiday celebrations. But he's no stranger to glowing press reports, having been called "a performer of leaping fire, sparkling temperament and dedication" by Germany's Cologne Survey and "a soloist who commands a big tone, the requisite sweep, and a fire-breathing approach" by the Boston Globe, and praised for his "impressive digital command" by Canada's Victoria Times Colonist.

He earned the kudos during worldwide tours that included stops throughout Europe.

These days Syme travels the continent from the comfort of his West Bloomfield home, through the magic of radio. He literally phones in many of his performances to radio stations across the United States and Canada, his Steinway wired for sound and plugged into a mixer for better sound quality, while he takes requests from callers. He performs about 15 such concerts a week, he said, to help promote sales of his compact discs.

"I really like it," he said shortly after wrapping up a gig for a Toledo station Monday. "You get to reach a lot of people without leaving your house." Syme, who admits to "eclectic" tastes in music, developed those tastes during an unconventional route to stardom. After learning to play the piano by ear at age 3, he received no formal training until age 13.

From then he studied with several of the most distinguished pianists in the world and earned bachelor's and master's degrees in piano performance at New York's famed Juilliard School of Music. Side trips on his musical odyssey have included a two-year stint with a rock band and their recording of a soundtrack for the movie Hell's Angels 1969, and a year hosting his own television show in Kentucky.

David Syme, the "Human Jukebox," will perform free of charge Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. at Morrison's, 105 E. Main.

Syme's best-known recording is Play it again, Syme, which includes performances of well-known piano pieces by Beethoven, Debussy and Gershwin as well as his own medley of musical themes called "Pumping Ivory." The recording has already sold more than 20,000 copies.

His latest work, titled "Rock Formations," includes classic rock numbers by Led Zeppelin and Derek &

The Dominoes.

Syme said he expects to perform "a mixture of old standards, pop songs, Christmas songs and some rock and roll" at Morrison's this weekend, though he added, "I don't have a rigid format—I like to go with what's happening in the room."

ville Rotary will be on hand selling luminaries.

A series of carolers will perform at the Main Street Bandshell between noon and 5 p.m. The all-female MercyAires Choral Group from Farmington's Mercy High School heads a host of school and church ensembles that are scheduled to perform.

The Jolly Old Soul himself is scheduled to arrive in town by horse and carriage at 1 p.m. He and Mrs. Claus will take up residence at the Great Harvest Bread Co., 139 E. Main St., where they will greet children and distribute candy donated by Grandma Betty's Sweets-n-Treats throughout the afternoon.

Santa's sleigh will be available for carriage rides around town after his arrival. The horse and carriage were made possible by donations from the downtown merchants.

The Christmas Walk is just the first in a series of holiday events for downtown Northville. On Friday, Nov. 26, the Main Street Bandshell will be the site of Community Christmas Caroling and a Canned Food Drive to benefit Civic Concern between 6-8 p.m.

The night also marks the start of extended hours for all downtown shops with stores remaining open until 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights and until 6 p.m. Saturdays. Sunday hours run from noon to 5 p.m.

That weekend, the Community Recreation Center will host its Craft Village Craft Show Saturday, Nov. 27, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 28, between 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. The show is being put on by Craft Village at 100 MainCenter.

The Goodfellows Newspaper Drive, where members of the Northville Rotary Club and other volunteers hand out commemorative editions of the Northville Record, hits the streets of Northville Dec. 4 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. All proceeds from the annual fund-raiser go to support Civic Concern.

The Community Recreation Center will be the site of another arts and crafts show, the Handcrafters Craft Show, the weekend of Dec. 10-12. The annual show is one of three that the Handcrafters host at the recreation center each year. It opens that Friday between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., continues Saturday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and finishes up Sunday between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Youngsters can hit the stores themselves Dec. 12 for Children's Shopping Days, when merchants are asked to have items for $10 or less available for children to purchase for their parents, teachers, friends and relatives.

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce will host an Open House between 6-8 p.m. Dec. 15. To R.S.V.P., call 349-7640.

Another popular holiday service is the community center's annual Holiday Babysitting day Friday, Dec. 17, at the Community Recreation Center. Recreation center staff will supervise children and provide games and entertainment between 6-10 p.m. for $6. Parents must register with Northville Parks and Recreation by calling 349-0203.

Santa returns to man his headquarters at the Great Harvest Bread Co. on Saturdays and Sundays between noon and 5 p.m. Nov. 27-28, Dec. 4-5 and Dec. 11-12.

Rose Cottage Banquet House: The fashionable place to hold business functions, wedding receptions, showers and other group activities requiring an attractive facility offering excellent food at affordable prices.

The Rose Cottage is situated in a country Victorian building which is believed to be one of the very first residences built north of town possibly as early as the 1850s. The present owner, Anthony Rizzo, acquired the structure in 1974 after it had been scheduled for demolition and began a lengthy restoration. In 1991, the Rose Cottage Tea Room opened and quickly outgrew its "Tea Room" image and became a highly regarded luncheon facility. In 1993, "Tea Room" was dropped from its name, an 80-seat banquet room was added, a liquor license was pursued and the area's premier banquet house was born.
The Rose Cottage Banquet House and Restaurant can be reached at 349-0505.

Supervisor defends officials' use of township car

Township Supervisor Karen Baja, the only elected official who drives a car on a daily basis, voiced the strongest opposition to the point in the policy that restricts her use of a Ford Taurus.

The constables also asked after the board's discussion that they not be denied access to cars to do their jobs.

"I am fundamentally opposed to 'C,' Baja said about the ban of elected officials' use of cars. "I go to Lansing, Plymouth and Canton... and it's all on township business. It is cheaper to the township to let me use the township vehicle than it would be for me to charge back my mileage at 28 cents a mile.

"This car is an old car with many miles and we can't sell it," she said. "It was purchased by the (former) board for the supervisor's use and if you don't wish to double my salary until 1996 then you can't take away my car until then."

Trustee Mark Abbo sided with the supervisor in the debate over her car.

"I've gone on the record with this before," he said. "I don't think we should remove anything in the present term. We could change it in 1996 if we wanted to."

But Treasurer Rick Engelland and Trustees Russ Fogg and Barbara O'Brien didn't think the car was part of the supervisor's compensation for the part-time elected post, nor did they think having the supervisor driving a township owned car is the right message to send to taxpayers. "It's not part of the compensation," Engelland told Baja.

"No, it wasn't spelled out but neither was the amount of paper or number of paper clips..." she said defensively.

Trustee O'Brien was a staunch supporter of the ban. She said there was no reason Baja couldn't use her own car to take on business and drive to and from work every day.

"I don't think we are that rich of a township to afford elected officials the luxury of a car," said Trustee O'Brien. "A car that's turned into really your own personal car."

O'Brien also challenged Baja's claim that she would seek reimbursement for every trip she makes on township business if forced to use her own car.

"I do support 'C,'" O'Brien said. "I don't think we can reimburse short trips in the community. They shouldn't be reimbursed."

"... Karen doesn't see it but it is a bone of contention with many people in the community," O'Brien added. "You are elected and you knew it would take a vehicle to do your job."

But Baja didn't see it that way. "I will be expected to be reimbursed for the expenses I incur doing township business," Baja said. "I will be reimbursed for every mile I travel," she said in response to O'Brien's comments.

Trustee Gini Britton agreed with several of the board members who thought the clause was unnecessary.

"It's too restrictive," she said. "But I don't think, Karen, you need to take cars home at night and on the weekends."

The board will work on rewording the policy and on getting stickers to mark its fleet.

Board to adopt position on school reform

tion, copies will be sent to Engler, nearly 20 key legislators, fellow districts and counties, school buildings and community organizations.

"We wanted to identify quality and funding issues the board believes in," Rezmierski said of the draft, which was developed late last week. "Hopefully, we can relay it in a positive way that the citizens can understand."

The draft has 10 points. They are:

- 1. The reform proposal shall ensure equity in the scope and quality of instructional programs offered to all students regardless of which public school they attend. The proposal shall be structured so as to guarantee that equity for all students is achieved within a 5-year period.

- 2. The reform proposal shall provide a stable and balanced source of revenue which ensures full replacement of all revenue for schools eliminated or reduced by legislative action during the 1993-94 school year.

- 3. Revenue sources identified in the reform proposal shall be spread so as to ensure equitable distribution of the tax burden across the state and within tax paying groups.

- 4. Specific provisions shall be included in the reform proposal which provide for stability in the revenue allocation to schools beyond the initial year. A maintenance index, which establishes a formula to determine revenue increases in future years based on changes in the consumer's price index, would be an example of the type of provision which is desired.

The reform proposal shall include a "catch-up" provision so as to allow revenues to increase at a faster rate for districts which have been forced in the past to reduce programs and services to undesirable levels due to funding inequities.

- 5. The components of the reform proposal which relate to school structure, school organization, instructional delivery systems, core curricula and student assessment shall be based upon documented and generally accepted principles of educational research.

- 6. The reform proposal shall recognize the need for employees at all levels to continue to develop new and improve existing skills. Provisions shall be included to provide financial resources for on-going staff development activities.

- 7. A focus of the reform proposal must be the neighborhood school — the one easiest for pupils to reach and for parents to influence. Public support for schools of choice should be limited to individual public school districts.

- 8. The reform proposal shall ensure that the traditional concepts of "local control" of instructional issues and neighborhood schools are maintained. This requirement shall not prohibit consideration of regional or statewide collective bargaining, nor shall this requirement prohibit consideration of "schools of choice" within an individual district.

- 9. Specific provisions shall be made within the reform proposal for the special needs of all students. These provisions shall recognize the needs of special education, talented and gifted and traditional students.

- 10. The reform proposal shall provide for the on-going infrastructure needs of individual districts. Specific provisions shall be made for needs such as acquiring property, constructing new facilities, renovation and major maintenance needs of districts.

"A lot of it is cyclical information," Rezmierski said of the draft. "You can only say the same things (so many times)."

Rezmierski said school officials have sought input from citizens regarding the proposals, but has only heard from such groups as the Legislative Action Network, Advocates for Quality Education and the PTA Coordinating Council. He believes confusion may be a reason for that limited input.

"For example, there are 241 amendments to the charter school proposal alone," the superintendent said. "A lot of our citizens aren't even sure what are charter schools. Hopefully the (position paper) will reflect the sensitive issues so people understand."

Rezmierski said the Legislature isn't cooperating when it comes to making explanations of reform proposals easy.

"All of the committee bills and amendments coming out of (the Legislature) have been discussed so many times it isn't funny," he said disgustedly. "I got six (major amendments) on Friday alone. It's never-ending."

At least until Dec. 31. If the Legislature comes up with no plan before then, the issue will become more complex, according to Rezmierski.

"The new congress would have to pass something with a two-thirds vote, and there's not much hope for that," he said. "From what I understand it would revert back to the original property tax. There's not much likelihood that will happen. That's not going to happen."

Then again there's the petition drive Citizens Alliance for Responsible Education (C.A.R.E.) is spearheading. The alliance is collecting signatures to get the property tax question placed on the ballot.

"I think the goal is to have the signatures validated by the middle of December to put another forceful thought into the Legislature that the people want it on the ballot before they go and carve things up," Rezmierski said. "That way there can be better information before anyone decides."

Lock up a rising rate with a CD that won't lock you in.

RIISING RATE CD® Annual Percentage Yield

A guaranteed rate increase with a no-penalty withdrawal option every six months.

Whichever way interest rates might go, the Rising Rate CD is a smart investment bet. Because if interest rates remain flat or drop, you'll still get a guaranteed raise in your CD rate every six months. But if interest rates begin to climb, the Rising Rate CD gives you the liquidity to pull out once every six months of its initial two-year term without penalty.

The rate earned for each six-month period rises as the chart above indicates, climbing to a 4.75% APY during the final six-month period.* You have the option of withdrawing all of your investment within the first ten days of any six-month interval during the initial two-year term without penalty. Or you can take out any portion of it as long as a $1,000 balance is maintained.

The Rising Rate CD. The liquidity you want, the guaranteed interest growth you need. To open yours for as little as $1,000, call or visit any participating bank office.

FIRST OF AMERICA
A bank for life.™

*A penalty may be imposed for early withdrawal other than periods stated above. At the fourth maturity, your CD will automatically renew as a two-year CD. Annual percentage yields shown above reflect the yield for each six-month period separately, and are not cumulative yields. Deposit limits apply. Individuals and sole proprietors only. Rates good as of 10/31/93, subject to change without notice. Limited time offer available at participating banks only. Equal Housing Lender. Member FDIC. If hearing impaired, TDD available from 9-5 EST at 1-800-289-4614. For information, call 1-800-735-0034.

Legislators split on school reform tactics

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

"Chaos reigns"

In two words, a school lobbyist summed up four months of work on 30 school reform bills by 148 legislators, scores of staff, the governor and the top brass of the Treasury Department.

The lobbyist asked to remain anonymous so he wouldn't irritate lawmakers. But few of them would disagree. After repealing $6.7 billion in school property taxes in two days in July, the Legislature has neither put together a package of replacement taxes nor agreed on how to improve public education.

Take the Senate special committee on school finance, which recently almost broke down as its eight members split in three directions.

• Three Republicans — chair Joanne Emmons of Big Rapids, Robert Geake of Northville and Harry Gast of St. Joseph — were ready to vote on one of Gov. John Engler's proposals, a 16-mill statewide business property tax.

• Two Republicans — David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Doug Carl of Utica — offered different plans on state spending cuts and replacement taxes.

• Three Democrats — John Kelly of Grosse Pointe, Joe Conroy of Flint and Virgil Smith of Detroit — wouldn't vote for any tax increases until Republicans backed off some of the school reform proposals such as charter schools.

"The Democrats claim they won't vote for anything unless the other committee changes on the quality bills," said Honigman. "Kelly promised he'd vote on a tax bill but reneged. Kelly wouldn't even vote for his own tax bill."

"Doug Carl doesn't want to vote for a (state) tax increase unless the governor makes budget cuts by executive order. We (legislators) have no power to make the governor do that."

Honigman pushed his own plan: $1 billion in state general government cuts, half going to help "at-risk" pupils, the other half going back to taxpayers; a five-year freeze on government spending at 1993-94 levels except for education; and half of all growth in state tax revenues going into education.

"I think this committee has come to the end of its productivity," said Emmons, who has Engler's old mid-state Senate seat.

"I don't know why I told (majority leader Dick) Posthumus I'd serve on this friggin' committee," said Gast.

"Our party is undergoing an identity crisis. I would like to focus more on budget cuts," said Carl, one of the Senate's most conservative members.

The House Education Committee, on the other hand, was moving toward compromise. The two Bills who co chair the panel — Democrat Keith of Garden City and Republican Bryant of Grosse Pointe — dumped Engler's "charter schools" idea in favor of a less radical "academy" system.

Result. Conservative Republicans and labor-oriented Democrats jumped off the wagon as it headed down the middle of the road.

Pleading to suburban school districts was a House plan to give more of them local option tax opportunities. Engler wants to give only 35 top-spending districts local-option taxes, insisting he wants to get administrators and school boards out of the milage campaign business.

children about conflict resolution. The problem is that the messages that they send — like "don't air your dirty laundry in public" and "hide your feelings" — are often poor ones.

"Let's take everything we learned about conflict resolution and throw it out the window, and start all over again," she suggested. She said people must change both their attitudes and responses to conflict in order to deal with it better.

The first way to encourage better conflict resolution is for parents and school officials to act the way they want their charges to act.

"Look at the way people learn," Pepera noted. "They model their behavior after others."

Pepera noted that teachers often claim their students dislike them.

"That's fine. They may hate you, but they're watching you," she said.

Another method is to adapt the school's curriculum to include course work that addresses conflict resolution, whether through more discussion in English classes about the literary works that have conflict at their hearts or through specific courses on the topic in social studies or other fields.

Finally, the school needs to provide some sort of forum like a peer mediation program where students can resolve their conflicts and learn "cooperative problem-solving processes," Pepera said.

"Unless you're going to follow your child around for the rest of your life, it's very important to teach internal controls," she said. "Conflict resolution is something that our students are going to be using throughout their lives."

ACORD member Roland Hwang asked if the Center for Peace and Conflict Studies could act as an advisor to Northville Public Schools in setting up a peer mediation program here. While noting that the center has helped set up similar programs in schools in Walled Lake, Wayne/Westland and Detroit, Pepera added that there are existing curricula that could be put in place with little expense.

Such programs, she said, typically lead to a 75-percent reduction in school violence.

Pepera also noted that "conflicts are things that are resolved privately," noting that group forums can allow a conflict to grow by adding an element of drama to it. That prompted a question from Lori Golani, who asked whether the high school's recent school-wide forums had dragged on the healing process.

"I think you're adding more fuel to the situation and the immediate problem is not being resolved," Golani said. "It seems in the community as though the school has provided a vast forum for this whole process, and I don't know if that's good... I realize that you have to unload all this excess baggage, but I feel it should be done in a positive way."

Pepera noted that people do have to be given the opportunity to air their opinions and vent their frustrations.

"That's part of the healing process, and I think that's important," she said. "You scream at it and get it out, and then get down to business to solve it."

Wayne State's Center for Peace and Conflict Studies program was conceived during the labor movement of the 1960s, and is nationally recognized for its work in conflict resolution, Pepera said.

Trustees give final nod for mixed use complex age along Haggerty Road.

Trustees voted 7-0 to approve a final preliminary plan for the 101-unit residential development that butts up to a planned Home Depot store and a proposed full-service restaurant.

The board gave its approval to the residential portion of the development Thursday. Plans for the Home Depot, a 100,000 square-foot home improvement center with an attached garden center, are following the residential plan through the township's planning process, but final plans for the retail component of the plan have not yet been approved by the board.

The restaurant has also not yet been introduced to township planners by Victor International, the developer of the site plan.

Victor International's David Johnson is spearheading the plan which is nestled into 64 acres on Haggerty Road near Seven Mile. Fifty acres of the 64-acre lot will be used to develop the homes on the site.

The homes will be high quality, traditionally platted wooded sites, Johnson said Tuesday. They will average 1,700 square feet and will sell for $250,000 and up. Construction is expected to start in 60-90 days, he said.

Johnson said selling prices will cap off at $450,000.

The developer said the residential development will resemble similar developments his company has built in Bloomfield Township. He cited Heron Bay and Echo Park as the latest additions to his firm's development portfolio that match the quality of the WindRidge plan.

The plan was added onto the trustees' agenda at the last minute Thursday night so the developer could show the township's signature of approval of its concept plan at a Friday closing of the Home Depot deal.

Trustees approved the plan provided the specifications include the township engineers and planning consultants' recommendations made at the meeting are reflected in the final plan. They also required that the necessary Wayne County and Department of Natural Resources permits and approvals of a stormwater discharge system and pertinent roadway approval also be secured.

Don Weaver, the township's engineer and Brad Strader, the planner, asked the board to give them one more week to review the plan in depth before it becomes a final blueprint.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja admitted that the township's planning process was being rushed so the township could meet the developer's schedule. But she said the consultants had reviewed the revised plan earlier that day and had submitted their letters of recommendation.

The decision to vacate Phillips Road, a road that bisects WindRidge and the adjacent subdivision, is still one that needs to be decided by Wayne County officials.

According to Johnson there was a dispute among residents of the Meadowbrook subdivision, a northern property owner and the developer over whether to vacate Phillips Road. He says some adjacent residents wanted the developer to vacate Phillips Road, but the township wanted him to pave it and use it as an access road to his development.

Trustee Gini Britton said Thursday Meadowbrook residents apparently don't want the additional traffic on the road which has never been open before. The other adjacent property owner to the north doesn't want the road vacated because vacating it could hinder the developability of the couple's land.

ity of the couple's land.

The decision to open or close the road will rest with the county, the supervisor said, but the township does have a say in it.

"The township would not be the ultimate decision-maker but we are a catalyst," she said.

Metroparks are sites for Toys for Tots collections

The Huron-Clinton Metroparks are serving as collection sponsors for the Toys for Tots program.

The program is conducted annually by the United States Marine Corps Reserve to serve needy children in local communities by providing new, unwrapped toys during the holiday season.

Anyone wishing to donate a new, unwrapped toy that has no violent connotations can drop them off at park offices or the HCMA Administration Office from Nov. 19 to Dec. 17.

Donated toys will then be distributed to needy children in Oakland, Wayne, Washtenaw and Macomb counties by the 1st Battalion, 24th Marine Regiment.

Space-Gard clears the air...

Cleans the air of particles you can't even see!

The air we live in and breathe is loaded with dust and pollutant particles (as many as 30 million per cubic foot). Most of these particles are so tiny that only 15% of them are trapped by panel air filters. The remaining 85% are recirculated throughout the home. The Space-Gard air cleaner effectively removes the particles that ordinary filters can't.

Its effectiveness has been thoroughly tested using the Dust Spot Efficiency section of ASHRAE Standard Test Procedure No. 52-76 (the same test used to determine other high efficiency air cleaner performance). Utilizing this test procedure, at 1200 cfm the Space-Gard air cleaner average efficiency is 65%, and its efficiency increases as it loads to 88%.

To further substantiate the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner, it has also been tested to accurately determine efficiency on various size particles. The efficiency of any air cleaner varies with the size of the particles in the circulated airstream. On 6 micron particles, for example, the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner is very close to 100%.

The important advantage of the Space-Gard air cleaner is that efficiency increases as it loads—and reaches 98% efficiency on particles as small as 1 micron.

Efficiency ratings of the particle size tests with clean, partially loaded and loaded media are reported in the table at lower right.

Big bills possible for those hurt in car accidents

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Auto insurers aren't liable for medical benefits until an injured person has tried to collect all his or her health benefits, the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled in three major cases.

One case involves a Brighton woman who is out $5,000 for treatment her auto insurer won't cover.

The result: Injured persons may have to pay heavy medical bills—especially where they have used doctors outside the system paid for by their employers.

"Henceforth, you have a burden," said Wayne Miller, Birmingham attorney who represented two of the plaintiffs. "If they (worker's HMOs) can't provide it, then you can go outside the system. It's very troubling."

"The Supreme Court justices are seven general practitioners, however bright, who are trying to practice in all the areas of law before them. I don't think the court appreciated the duress the plaintiffs (in auto injury cases) are under."

"The Supreme Court felt the only important matter was containing (insurance) costs. So they elevated cost containment to the only important matter," said Miller.

The high court ruled 4-3 for auto insurers in cases involving injured persons from Brighton, rural Jackson County and Detroit. The cases started in Southfield District Court and Wayne Circuit Court.

"We hold that a no-fault insurer is not subject to liability for medical expense that the insured's health care insurer is required, under its contract, to pay for or provide," said Justice Charles Levin, who wrote all three opinions citing Sec. 3109 of the No-Fault Automotive Liability Act.

Levin was joined by Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh and Justices Robert Griffin and Conrad Mallett Jr. Louise Ann Tounsignant, 31, a former Northwest Airlines flight attendant from Brighton, is out $5,000 for treatment of injuries suffered in a July 1987 auto accident.

"Tounsignant was examined and treated after the accident for back and neck pain at the emergency room of Henry Ford Medical Clinic in West Bloomfield, an HAP (Health Alliance Plan) facility. She was released with instructions to return if her back or neck pain continued," Levin said.

"Instead of returning to the Henry Ford Medical Clinic or another HAP facility or physician, Tounsignant sought treatment from a physician other than an HAP physician," said Levin. She received heat treatments for a year and dental services from unaffiliated doctors. She sought payment from her auto insurer, Allstate.

After the case was moved up from Southfield District Court, Oakland Circuit Judge Robert Templin ruled in favor of Allstate, was reversed by the Court of Appeals and upheld by the Supreme Court.

Levin said the legislative policy "requires an insured who chooses to coordinate no-fault and health coverages to obtain payment and services from the health insurer to the extent of the health coverage available from the health insurer."

"Where this hurts," said David Martin, Tounsignant's attorney in Southfield, "is when they have an HMO chosen by the employer as opposed to the best coverage." His client now is a housewife and mother.

A costlier case involved Kenneth Owens, a young Coast Guardsman who suffered permanent brain injury in a December 1982 accident when his car hit a tree. He was on leave and visiting his parents in rural Jackson County.

The Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor treated him until his discharge in June 1984. A VA neurologist recommended he go to Herrick Hospital in Tecumseh where Owens ran up a $110,000 bill for intensive rehabilitation therapy. Owens also got $70,000 in treatment at Saline Community Hospital.

VA did not identify another VA facility where Owens could get inpatient treatment. Then VA refused to pay. Auto Club, Owens' insurer, also refused.

Said the Supreme Court: "Owens has the burden of establishing that the services rendered by Herrick and Saline were 'allowable expenses,' and that 'reasonable charges' were there 'incurred for reasonably necessary' services."

"Owens also has the burden of establishing that he sought to obtain appropriate services from the VA," the high court said.

Martin, Owens' attorney, said he would be back before Wayne Circuit Judge John H. Gillis in two weeks to meet those tests. "We start all over," Martin said.

At stake are $180,000 in hospital bills plus interest for up to nine years.

The third case was what attorneys call a "double dip." George Yancey Jr. of Detroit was seriously injured in an auto accident. Citizens Insurance Co. reduced his work loss benefits by the amount of Social Security disability benefits Yancey received.

"We hold that Social Security disability benefits should be subtracted," the Supreme Court said, citing its 1979 ruling that Social Security survivors' benefits also are to be subtracted.

Justice Patricia Boyle dissented in part and was joined by James Brickley and Dorothy Comstock Riley.

Boyle said the majority opinion failed to distinguish between benefits, (1) required by state or federal law and (2) other health and accident coverage.

Boyle predicted the Supreme Court's decision "will encourage new rounds of litigation continuing the trend of shifting from health insurers to no-fault insurers."

The minority said it disagreed with the results in the case of Owens, the Coast Guardsman, but agreed with the results in the other two cases.

Our Opinion

School should consider conflict-solving classes

As the group that served as the first public forum for charges of racial insensitivity and racism at Northville High School, ACORD has played a leading role in the dialogue regarding cultural diversity at the school.

That role continued last week as ACORD (A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity) hosted a speaker from Wayne State University's Center for Peace and Conflict Studies who described several useful techniques for handling conflict at schools, and mentioned that her program has helped school districts like Northville establish peer mediation programs where students learn to resolve their problems themselves.

Such programs have already been set up in the Walled Lake and Wayne/Westland school districts, said WSU's Mickey Pepera, adding that WSU could serve as an advisor to Northville in creating a similar program here.

Pepera made the valid point that conflict resolution is an invaluable skill to students on the cusp of adulthood, and one they will use throughout their lives. "Unless you're going to follow your child around for the rest of your life, it's very important to teach internal controls," she said.

Such programs, she noted, typically lead to a 75-percent reduction in school violence.

We believe her suggestion deserves serious consideration. At the very least, school officials should explore existing conflict resolution curricula in other schools with an eye toward establishing a program of their own.

With a Sept. 30 high school assault case already at 35th District Court and a Nov. 5 report of a fist fight now under investigation by city police, the high school could certainly stand to see a decrease in violence, and it appears its students could benefit from learning non-violent approaches to conflict resolution.

Quandary over reform stymies school officials

Northville school district officials have put together a draft copy of the district's position on education reform, currently the subject of so much frantic debate in Lansing.

The position statement is to be available in final form Nov. 22, then later distributed to 20 key legislators, the governor, other school districts and community organizations.

The draft includes 10 separate points the district would like to see addressed by lawmakers who are now engaged in the formidable task of finding almost $7 billion to finance public education in Michigan.

While we think it's a good idea that the district go on record with its concerns regarding the future of public education in the state, the draft, in its current form, is vague in nature and, hence, of dubious value as an advisory instrument.

Recommendations such as: "(The reform proposal) shall provide a stable and balanced source of revenue which ensures full replacement of all revenue for schools eliminated or reduced by legislative action during the 1993-94 school year," and, "revenue sources identified in the reform proposal shall be spread so as to ensure equitable distribution of the tax burden across the state and within tax paying groups," are quite general and offer no help in unlocking the basic unknown — how are stability and equity to be achieved.

But, given the extreme state of flux in which the school reform discussion is now mired, how could any position statement be anything but vague? When pressed for details about their own views, lawmakers themselves often stammer for answers, unsure of the far-reaching consequences of the action they took last July.

The weakness of the school district's draft is a reflection of the uncertainty of public education in our state. In eliminating school millages, lawmakers effectively took all the cards and hurled them high into the air. What the system will look like when the deck lands is still anyone's best guess.

Inconsistency in criticism

Lee Snider

While Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson has criticized the way the Detroit News covered the issue of racial and peer group divisiveness at his building, he generally has been supportive of The Northville Record's handling of the same story.

Others, however, have been less complimentary.

Many people have called and written us to express displeasure, even anger, over the way we reported the Sept. 30 assault and the subsequent assemblies at which the menace of bigotry was confronted.

In most cases, the charge against us is that we've exaggerated the problem through overstatement. Too much emphasis on black, white and yellow, too much focus on supremacists, freaks and jocks. Our headlines and pictures make it seem like the whole school is one big street gang, we're told, when, in truth, only tiny slivers of the student body are openly hostile.

Not surprisingly, I think the coverage has been fair, emphasizing not only the hatred felt by small segments of the student population but also the efforts to ferret out the intolerances that form the core of youth rivalries.

The point can be argued indefinitely and it's not my intention to defend or even explain our news gathering approach in this space. I would like to address one issue, though, raised by many who've written or called to voice complaints.

Invariably, we hear our critics ask us why we don't cover any of the positive stories at the school, implying that all we show up for is the dramatic and sensational stuff. This is simply not the case. Our papers are regularly filled with stories and photos of student achievers, many conspicuously positioned on the front page.

Articles about scholarship awards, successful competition entries, author recognitions and vocational accomplishments can be found in almost every edition of The Record.

When the Michigan Education Assessment Program test scores come out (and the results are always outstanding in Northville) we give the story full play. Heck, we even used the Freedom of Information Act to force the release of the MEAP results last January when, for some peculiar reason, school officials seemed loath to share the good news.

It's noteworthy to me that readers tend to write letters or call with complaints only when we go to print with something they object to. Could it be that they're doing to us precisely what they claim we're doing to the schools: overlooking the positive and dwelling on the negative?

If there's one thing I've learned in this job it's that there's something in human nature that makes anger a more powerful motivational force than gratitude. If it's true that newspapers harp on the negative, perhaps it's because that's the surest way to provoke a response.

Lee Snider is editor of The Northville Record.

SADD has important mission

Charles Stilec

One of the greatest pleasures and positive aspects of my job as the Student Assistance Program Coordinator at Northville High School, has been my being asked to be the SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) advisor along with Jack Wickens, counselor and friend. I feel it is important for our community to know what a positive, proactive prevention program SADD is, and has been for several years. Let's take a look at what

SADD is.

SADD is a student leadership program, which got its start in 1981 as the response of a high school in Massachusetts to the alcohol-related deaths of two of its athletes. From that small beginning, it has grown to a national movement involving over 6,000 high schools and four million students. In Michigan there is some level of SADD activity in about half of the schools.

SADD's mission is to reduce the number of alcohol-related fatalities and injuries by enhancing communication between parents and teens and by mobilizing the constructive use of peer pressure. SADD has the secondary objective of facilitating alcohol and drug education and fostering the learning of pressure resistance skills. The SADD program is opposed to the illegal consumption of alcohol by the underage population, and has as its primary target group those at-risk students, estimated by various sources in excess of two-thirds of the high school student population, who are somewhat regular users of alcohol.

At Northville High School, SADD is presently one of our largest student organizations. We currently have over 80 students who have attended meetings and who have signed a Member Purpose and Belief Statement (see below). The members, thanks to the generosity of Pizza Cutter, raised several hundred dollars during the Victorian Festival to be used for training in leadership as well as Northville High School school-wide assemblies and speakers. The members participated in the Fourth of July Parade and Homecoming and had at least 70 members involved in positive activities through the Northville Recreation Department's Maybury Madness Haunted Forest Walk. Our meetings are held the first Wednesday of each month during both lunches so all students can attend. If you or your student is interested, please contact me.

Each SADD member is expected to sign and live the following:

SADD Member Purpose and Belief Statement:

Northville High School Students Against Driving Drunk welcomes you to share our mission. We realize in Northville that two-thirds of the student population use alcohol. We believe that has the potential to change and we will not exclude students from membership who choose to drink as long as they accept these promises:

1. I will not drive drunk.
2. I will not get into a car with a driver who is drunk.
3. I will encourage my friends to do the same.

It is important for the members of SADD to realize as well as community members that the key to this program is membership and spreading the word.

The Northville Community along with every community across the nation have a serious problem with the use and abuse of alcohol not only by our youth but also by adults.

For you that read this article, be assured that we in the field of Chemical Dependency fight daily to educate families to support programs that work such as SADD. It is with pleasure that we also have STAND (Students Taking A New Direction) at both our middle schools, thanks to the cooperation and direction of Sue Meyer, assistant principal at Meads Mill and Cooke Middle Schools, teacher Pat Stebbins and parent Al Qualman at Cooke and teacher Kathleen Gray and parent Scott Wilson at Cooke.

Two fire prevention specialists from the Community Commission on Drug Abuse Jo Ann Weber and Maureen Callahan head up the STAND teams and plan the programs. These students learn the keys to positive self esteem as well as refusal skills and become SADD members at the high school.

The Northville community and schools should feel good about these programs and their positive effect on our youth.

School survey a waste of taxpayer time, money

To the editor:

Parent teacher conference time, what a surprise to be given a survey. This must be important. It's from the Office of Instruction. It's so important, nobody signed the memo? I'll call their offices... hello, who wrote this memo on the survey? A lady's voice, "I don't know, I'll find out"... pause... "We don't know who wrote it, but if you have a question, please call Steve Anderson or Dr. Dolly McMaster." Incredible! The Office of Instruction doesn't know, and they sent it.

Let's look at this attitude/behavioral test. Where did they get some of these poorly constructed 1950s questions from? This looks sophomoric and insane. Here's a good question, number 16, "Did bad luck cause difficulties for your child?" Absolutely! It was darn bad luck that his parents weren't millionaires. He could have the best private tutors, definitely bad luck. Or number 25, "A college education is more important for a boy than it is for a girl?" I agree... no... I disagree. The question is, do they want to go to college? This is about freedom of choice. Tell me what the girl and boy want to do and I can answer your question. Question number 28, "Boys, as much as girls, should learn to cook and care for themselves." This isn't a school education question. If a boy or girl wants to learn to cook, so be it. Freedom of choice. But what does "care for themselves" mean? Entire books have been written on caring for yourself psychologically, physically and spiritually. Is the school system going to teach this?

After reading these questions, my final analysis is: a) cut wasteful use of our tax money, start with this piece of drivel; 2) whose doctoral thesis will this research be used in, (just a coincidence that Steve Anderson is working on his?), don't use our money to fund it; c) what's the agenda? It should be to teach freedom of choice, not that everyone should take cooking class; d) someone should sign memos to the parents and take ownership and responsibility.

School waste... Call Dolly at 344-8442 or Steve at 344-8405 and just say no! My attitude test, oops, survey just got recycled.

Paper should print viewpoints

To the editor:

I think you would agree The Northville Record's function is to inform the community it serves on a variety of issues and topics. In addition to the news, you have had columns by chefs, firefighters, substance abuse counselors, a local legislative group, PTA's, etc. Why, then, did you deny Northville School District officials a column to inform the public on educational trends and issues? Aren't topics such as Outcomes Based Education and Mastery Learning at least as important to the community as Cajun cooking?

Support for program helpful

To the editor:

Once again, many thanks go out to members of the Northville/Novi business community for the support given to the young people involved in the music program at Northville High School.

Following our successful car wash-athon on Saturday, Oct. 30, the students celebrated at a Halloween party hosted by the music boosters. Because of the generosity of many local business people, we were able to reward clever costumes, pumpkins "par excellence" and limber limbo-ers with an excellent variety of donated prizes. Music Boosters and students would like to recognize and thank the following: Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall, Balardi's Hair Salon, Bookstall on the Main, Joe's Sport Shop, Caff'e Bravo, Hair Haus and Papa Romano's-Now Road.

In addition, Northville Clock Shop and Meyer Berry Farm helped with supplies for decorations while Shopping Center Market, Donut Scene and Great Harvest Bakery provided the refreshments.

Today, as never before, "it takes an entire village to raise a child" and the Music Boosters wish to acknowledge gratefully the generosity of these people for stepping forward.

Drivers are inconsiderate

To the editor:

Most Northville homeowners take pride in the appearance of their property, and work diligently to maintain neat yards. Many are retired people who rake leaves with a great deal of pain and discomfort. It is very disconcerting to have speeding cars deliberately drive into piles of leaves at the curb and scatter them back on to the lawns. The laughing drivers and passengers may not be aware that there are a few ill-mannered dog owners here who stand by while their untidy dogs use lawns for their bathrooms. When we rake leaves, we also rake to the curb all the droppings. These arrogant drivers should keep in mind that they are splattering their cars with more than autumn leaves. I realize this is an extremely distasteful subject, but so is continually cleaning up from someone else's dog.

Donation helped with playset

To the editor:

Let me thank you for the fine story and photograph in your Nov. 8 edition about the new playground equipment purchased and installed at the Northville Commons subdivision through a community project. We want to give special thanks to the patronage and support received from the Jack Demmer Ford Dealership in Wayne, Mich. and its president, Bill Demmer. The dealership contributed $5,000 in matching funds towards this project. Bill Demmer and his family are residents of Northville Commons.

Library should be built now

To the editor:

Our library is the smallest and most under funded in the state. It's 2 1/4 times smaller than the area average, after adjustment for population, and we spend less than one-half of what our neighboring communities spend on their libraries. The good news is that our neighboring communities haven't yet penalized us for using their libraries which are of course supported by their taxes. The bad news is they don't have to continue to be this polite.

I hear people say that our tax situation is too unsettled to ask for a new library facility right now. So things are going to get better in the future for some undefined reason and there will be a better time to build? I doubt it. Are construction costs going to get lower by some mysterious mechanism? Are interest rates going to stay down so we can delay this decision with no penalty? Are we saying that delaying the building of a new library is going to cost us more? You bet it will.

Our decision isn't whether we should build a new library but when we should build it. I prefer to build a library now and not keep putting it off until some magic, rosey day in the future. What we can really count on is that the delay is going to cost us more money.

Catching up is always tough.

Transit could link suburbs to city lighted and clean, and the ride was relatively quiet and quick. I arrived at the Labor Department, serene and on time for my meeting.

Such is mass transit in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area, thanks to the Metro. It's quick, convenient, inexpensive, safe. It links the center city to the growing suburbs, and it has played an enormous role in the fantastic job growth of the entire capital region.

Contrast this with mass transit in the metropolitan Detroit area. Here we have two bus systems — Detroit's DOT and the suburban system, SMART — both separate and both unequal to the task.

Detroit, with a population around one million, has about 300 buses running daily, while smaller Washington has 1,100 buses plus a rail system. Worse, D-DOT buses run mostly in Detroit, so Detroiters who work in the suburbs have to change and wait to get to their jobs.

And it's clear that job growth in southeastern Michigan for the foreseeable future will be concentrated in the suburbs.

According to NPA Data Services, more jobs will be created in the Detroit metropolitan area, relative to population growth, than in any other U.S. metropolitan area. Projections show population growth of 111,100 new residents from 1989-2010, but 285,700 new jobs. That's a ratio of 2.57 new jobs for every one new resident, best rate in the country.

But nearly all these new jobs will be located in Oakland, western Wayne and Livingston counties.

That's why Dennis Archer, mayor-elect of Detroit, talked repeatedly and bluntly during the campaign about how important regional mass transit is in solving the unemployment problem in the core city and providing the necessary labor to fuel economic growth in the suburbs.

Archer also called for merging SMART with D-DOT, partly to provide better services and partly because running one system is cheaper and more efficient than running two in parallel. Mayor Coleman A. Young, you will remember, refused for years to consider anything remotely resembling a merger.

With Archer's election, the barriers to cooperation are beginning to come down. Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara has been for a merged system for years, while Brooks Patterson, Oakland County executive, long an opponent, recently said he'd consider it.

The big problem, of course, is money. Detroit taxpayers kick in $35 million a year to support D-DOT, while SMART gets no suburban government subsidies. It's going to take a lot to persuade suburbanites to pay a regional tax to support an old mass transit system that relatively few of them use.

But suppose the choice were not taxes for a bad bus system but, instead, just for a good rail system. For example, with just half the population density per square mile as Detroit, Atlanta now operates two rapid transit rail lines 25 miles long, roughly the distance from downtown Detroit to Pontiac.

What interests both the suburbs and the city is not merging separate and inadequate old transit systems but creating a good new one that can drive the economic growth of the entire area. Now that suburbs and city are beginning to talk, that's a good early agenda item.

Youth no match for crafty old age

Tim Richard

My dad has a favorite saying: "In any contest, old age and treachery will outwit youth and vigor." Dad is a retired printer, not a political science professor, but he is absolutely right.

Lesson 1: Around 1970, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a Missouri community college's apportionment violated the U.S. Constitution's "equal protection of the laws" — as common folks say, "one person, one vote."

Schoolcraft College was one of two or three in Michigan with malapportioned voting districts that clearly were unconstitutional. Either equalized districts or at-large voting had to be adopted. Schoolcraft's Old Guard knew it from reading the paper.

Their attorney advised the chair that Schoolcraft's election districts were unconstitutional. Moreover, the flaming young liberals in the New Democratic Coalition began collecting money for a lawsuit.

The chair of the Old Guard hid the attorney's opinion. During the delay, the college president retired, and the Old Guard hired a new president. When the NDC suit came into Wayne Circuit Court, the Old Guard surrendered. But since it already had hired the man who would be president for 10 years, age and treachery had prevailed.

Lesson 2: The Michigan Legislature currently is writing a school tax package and educational reform measures that are likely to be in effect for decades, even generations. It will be the biggest change in schools since the sales tax adoption in the 1930s and the high school building binge of the 1950s and '60s.

Meanwhile, young and vigorous idealists are waiting for the state constitutional amendment on term limitation to kick in — the one voters adopted in 1992. Representatives must leave after three terms (six years), senators after two (eight years).

In the House, the Old Guard won't let this chance slip away. It's not letting the big decisions be made in the standing committees, where freshmen members can be heard. Instead an ad hoc group of a dozen or so senior members is meeting behind closed doors to bargain the issues.

In the House Education Committee, co chairs Bill Keith of Garden City and Bill Bryant of Grosse Pointe — who have been around 20 years or so apiece — quietly amended one key proposal of Gov. John Engler's and informed everyone that this would be the vehicle bill. That was that.

That bugged newcomers like Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, Deborah Whyman of Canton, Al

Cropsey of DeWitt and others. Vorva, in particular, is unhappy with the Old Guard's tactics. "We didn't even get to vote on Engler's version," he complained.

Personally, I like how the two Bills massaged Engler's plan, but that's not the point. The point is that the Old Guard is using its last years in power to dictate school taxes and policy for decades, riding roughshod over the new kids.

Lesson 3: What the young idealists vote for during the year is taken away by the Old Guard on the joint House-Senate conference committees.

During normal deliberations, freshman Rep. Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills won 87 to 1 approval of an amendment to a budget bill requiring the Legislature to show in detail its costs and number of jobs. A conference committee then met to iron out differences in the House and Senate versions of the bill. Old Guard senators insisted Kaza's amendment had to go. It went.

Dad's lesson deserved to be in the civics books: "In any contest, old age and treachery will outwit youth and vigor." I wish him a happy 84th birthday — and thanks for the civics lesson.

School officials should be trusted

To the editor:

The Northville Record has forcefully expressed opinions on many school related issues. Some of these have concerned teacher pay, the secretiveness of public officials, and the "clandestine" manner in which teacher contracts are settled.

Mr. Jerome argues that teachers are overpaid. This is not original to him nor will it be resolved until public education no longer exists. Someone will always feel that I, as a teacher, make too much money. Mr. Jerome and others are entitled to this viewpoint and he, as long as he remains in the news business, his soapbox.

What irks me is the condescending, self congratulatory mind-mush which opened a recent column by Mr. Jerome. The differences of opinion between reporters and editors, he expounds, guarantee balance. Even though a reader may know nothing about the way a newspaper is run, we are to trust that this is what happens! As the board members are not of one mind, shouldn't they be similarly trusted? They also serve gratis. Doesn't this entitle them to more trust than you, Mr. Jerome, because you are paid? Trust is not earned with lip-service to balance.

Mr. Snider also opined that journalists are/must be inherently mistrustful of public officials in order to go beyond the superficial. Interestingly enough, he admits his own ignorance of the "P's and Q's" of school operations. How is a reader to trust the paper's positions if the editor does not exhibit an understanding of how the details fit into the big picture? Does he even see the big picture? Differences of opinion do not automatically lead to balance nor to thoughtful analysis. "It's just human nature for people to speak on the record to tell you only those parts of a story that reflect their position. The rest they manage to keep to themselves" (Lee Snider, Sept. 30). What were you trying to minimize to insignificance about your ignorance of school operations, Mr. Snider?

Mr. Richard lamely attempts to support Mr. Jerome's contention that tentative agreements between a school board and its teachers ought to be open to public comment prior to a ratification vote. He allows that circuit and appellate court decisions have ruled that this is not public information. His conclusions mystify as he claims school boards are both "arrogant" and "weakling" in nature for following the law. Mr. Richard neatly recapitulates Mr. Snider's Delphic prophecy by conveniently not stating the reasoning behind the courts' decisions. Also, undoubtedly, he was unable to find stronger support in the Michigan constitution for his desired ends.

Elected officials in our system are given power and responsibility. If we want to allow them to use it wisely, then we must also risk that it will be used unwisely. Messrs. Jerome and Richard would strip school boards of their power because they "see" more of the latter. What system of government, however, is better at placing power and the responsibility for consequences than republican government? Who would take responsibility for the demise of a school district if school boards were reduced to figurehead status? You, Mr. Richard, or you, Mr. Jerome?

The lot of the journalist is to be mistrustful of everyone who is/might be news, according to these three journalists. A corollary is that their own skepticism corrupts them. They cannot ask for public trust when they cannot give it.

Greg Berglin

City deserves its own fine

To the editor:

I am writing in regards to the City putting a fine on people for not removing the snow off their sidewalks, but what about fining the City for not picking up leaves which I had to rake about a dozen times already this year, and every time the wind blows I have to rake them again.

R.J. Cummings

Something smells in government

To the editor:

In reading "Thomas Jefferson & the New Nation: A Biography," by M.D. Peterson, I learned that back in the 18th century, during King George III's reign, the House of Commons was supposed to act as a check and balance vis-a-vis the power of the House of Lords and the King. For some period of time it did just that. Over time, the House of Commons became dominated by several self-perpetuating cliques who fought not over principles but spoils.

James Burgh, a critic of the English government at the time, wrote, "As standing water stinks . . . so a standing House of Commons will ever be a standing pool of corruption."

One begins to wonder whether or not our somewhat self-perpetuating congressmen have become, like "standing water," more interested in spoils for themselves and their bailiwicks than in principles which would rebound to the benefit of our society as a whole.

Remember the Tea-Pot Dome affair of the '20s? The S & L scandal of the '80s?, to mention just a few. Are we beginning to detect a "stink" in the way some of our representatives conduct themselves? Hmmmmmm!

Engler plan more of same

To the editor:

We need to resolve the huge disparity in funding among wealthy and poor districts in Michigan. The Vandermolen Plan proposes small increases in the state income tax and sin taxes to provide equal funding for all of the students in each of the school districts.

In an attempt to provide for enrichment above the base level of $5,000 per student the Vandermolen Plan establishes the opportunity for each local district to place a 1 percent local income tax proposal on the ballot once every decade. Revenues from the local income tax would be used exclusively for teachers salaries and enrichment projects.

Gov. Engler's plan continues the huge disparity in funding and allows a few wealthy districts the opportunity to enrich their unfair advantage over poor districts by holding future millage elections. Such an approach is elitist and discriminates against middle-class communities.

ALIEN ENCOUNTERS

Karen Sandiford, left, (also an au pair) visits with au pair Chris Jefferson while she looks after Tommy, 3 months, and Jack, 2, at the Snyder home in Northville. Sandiford is caring for children of the Franks family, also of Northville.

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

British native Chris Jefferson has only been in the United States for a couple of months, but it's been long enough for her to know she'll miss it when she's gone.

Jefferson is here for 12 months as part of the Au Pair Programme USA, a government-authorized program designed to promote the general interests of educational and cultural exchange while providing live-in child care for approved host families.

"I'll never have an opportunity like this again," Jefferson said in her thick British accent. "I've learned a lot about American culture and the way people live... Each day is different. There's always something different going on. There's no hardfast schedule to stick to."

"This doesn't feel like a 9-to-5 job. You get up in the morning and you look forward to each day."

Jefferson, like all au pairs, works 45 hours a week with 1 1/2 days off each week. Job responsibilities include general child care; fixing meals for the children; driving the children to school; helping with lessons, etc.; picking up after the children; doing the children's laundry; and straightening the children's rooms.

Serving as the au pair for the Snyder family in Northville, Jefferson learned of the program from a college friend in England. When she completed the two-year National Nurse Examination Board course, she thought the American nanny experience would help boost her career back home.

The 19-year-old plans to work as a nanny until she finishes three years of hospital training to become a mid-wife.

For the Snyders, Jefferson cares for 2-year-old Jack and 3-month-old Tommy during the day. Mom Kay Doheny-Snyder takes care of the children at night and oftentimes helps out during the day.

"My day is finished when the children go to bed, around 7:30 p.m.," Jefferson said.

Doheny-Snyder is also the Detroit regional counselor for the au pair program. Jefferson is the third au pair hosted by the Snyders.

As counselor, Snyder's main function is to bring the girls in the au pair program together. Currently that group includes: Louise Downham staying with the Kaplan family in Farmington Hills; Marisa Palacios with the Chammout family in Dearborn; Sarah Scales with the Moores family in Plymouth; Susan Drenwick with the Main family in Northville; Kelli Edwards with the Miller family in Brighton; Emma Allen with the Clapp family in Rochester Hills; Pascale Bechet with the Vogt family in Rochester Hills; Sharon Henson with the Myer family in West Bloomfield; Karen Sandiford with the Franks family in Northville; Louise Stephenson with the Fettes family in Novi; Guilenette Terrier with the Rea family in Bloomfield Hills; Katie Bolton with the Williams family in Ann Arbor; Anne Lefeuille with the Barger stock family in Livonia; Lene Ed

DDA member says work at a standstill

By DOROTHY NASH

"I am sensitized to the needs of senior citizens on a fixed budget, and I'm trying to make a difference," is the reason Laura Lorenzo gave for her being a member of the Novi Housing and Community Development Advisory Committee.

A description of the committee, according to a booklet put out by the city, reads like this:

"The City of Novi annually receives funding from Oakland County called Community Development Block Grant Funds. The Housing and Community Development Advisory Committee was formulated for the purpose of reviewing community development needs of the City in regard to these funds."

Of the five on the committee, "three of us are women, and there are two men plus Dan Davis," who is chairperson and has an office in Parks and Recreation, said Lorenzo.

For the last two years the Committee has received between $87,000 and $98,000 dollars to spend.

A portion, Lorenzo said, "is given every year." The Public Services portion covers the van for senior citizen transportation and two-thirds of the salary of Jan McAlpin, the senior citizen center manager.

The rest is allocated to take care of the needs which senior citizens have reported they can't take care of such as "emergency rehabilitation... home repairs... things to make their homes livable."

"Basically all of these people," Lorenzo said, "live north of I-96."

"People contact Dan Davis," she said, and then the committee meets to discuss the needs, "prioritizing them," Lorenzo said.

Usually the committee meets twice at the end of the year, and then a public hearing is held, followed by City Council approval. In December application is made for the funds, and in the following spring the funds are available.

"It makes you feel good," being on the committee, said Laura Lorenzo

Northville family of actors cast as leads in play

Northville's traveling acting family has taken to the road again, or should we say the sky this time.

Jay and Steve Hillard are again leaving town to perform, and this time they are taking their daughter with them.

The acting pair, who most recently appeared in the Northville Players' Victorian Festival melodrama, Maggie's Double Trouble, will be featured players at the historic Crosswell Opera House in Adrian in the musical Peter Pan.

Jay, who played the comical upstairs neighbor in Maggie's Double Trouble will exchange her gray wig and bent posture for the perpetually young and vibrant title role as Peter Pan. The fifth grade teacher at Northville's Winchester Elementary first "flew" as Peter Pan at the historic theater in 1984. She wanted to do it again the minute the curtain came down for the last performance some nine years ago.

"This role is my favorite," she said. "Peter lives the life that many people yearn for, carefree, forever young, and he can fly."

The "flying" is a major reason for Jay wanting to play Peter Pan again, but it is not the only reason. This play has turned into a family affair. The other title role, that of Captain Hook, is being played by Jay's husband Steve.

Steve also appeared in Maggie... last September as one of the twin villains. Captain Hook himself gives the best description of the most recent role, that of, "... the greatest villain of all time." This comically foolish evil pirate is a joy to play.

"I have played the villain in three melodramas, but never has there been a more perfect role for me. I get to be evil and funny at the same time," said Steve.

Accompanying the husband and wife acting team on the 110-mile round trip to rehearsals is their daughter Megan Gilshire, a fifth grade student at Silver Springs Elementary. Megan has also appeared as a Northville Player in the 1991 production of The Rented Christmas.

In addition to her "lost boy" role and the busy schedule that comes with it, Megan is also an "Abbott" student in Ms. Wall's class. This all As and Bs performance is the one that made her parents the most proud.

"I do my homework in the car on our way to rehearsal," said the budding actress. "It makes the hour drive go by pretty quick."

When asked how they find the time to travel to these acting assignments, all three of the thespians give the same reply: "Travis." Travis is their Northville High School freshman son and brother who keeps the home fires burning.

"He cleans the house, does the dishes and helps with the laundry," Jay said. "We couldn't do this without his help" proving the old adage that behind every successful acting family is a responsible 14-year-old young man.

Peter Pan will be on stage at the historic Crosswell Opera House Nov. 26, 27, 28 and Dec. 3, 4 and 5. If you would like more information about show times and tickets, please call the Crosswell at (517) 264-SHOW.

Scouts to pick up food

Northville Cub Scout Pack 755 is once again doing its part to help feed hungry people in the community through the "Operation Can-Do" food drive.

Last week scouts visited Northville households to drop off "Operation Can-Do" bags. They will return on Saturday, Nov. 20, to pick up bags of donated canned goods from the porches of Northville homes. Residents are asked to put their "Can-Do" donations out by 10 a.m. for pick-up.

Last year, Detroit-area scouts collected 630,000 bags of food for the Southeast Michigan Hunger Coalition through "Operation Can-Do," a project sponsored by the Scout's Detroit Area Council, Elias Brothers restaurants, Farmer Jack and WXYZ-Channel 7.

Donations are distributed to community food programs in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

The local Scouting for Food effort is part of the Scout's National Good Turn program.

Northville Cub Scout Pack 755 is based at Amerman Elementary School.

Weddings

Drs. Sandra and John Pappas

Dr. Sandra L. Mondro and Dr. John L. Pappas were married Oct. 2 at Assumption Greek Orthodox Church in St. Clair Shores. The Rev. Demetrios Kavadas officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by Rev. Nicholas Lolini, Rev. Christopher Welch and Rev. Constantine Makrinos.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. David Mondro of Novi. Parents of the groom are Dr. and Mrs. George J. Pappas of Northville.

Matron of honor was Dr. Rose Magsoudi, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Jennifer Shea, friend of the bride, and Elizabeth Newboles and Stephanie Pappas, sisters of the groom. Serving as flower girls were the groom's cousins, Lisa and Katie Dimitry.

Best man and Kumbaro was the groom's brother George Pappas. Serving as groomsmen were Patrick Mondro, the bride's brother, Matt Newboles, brother-in-law of the groom, and John Moran, friend of the groom. Dr. William Cosgrove, friend of the groom and Todd Dimitry, cousin of the groom, were ushers.

The bride's gown, designed by Galina, featured a long-sleeved, beaded and sequined bodice with a full tulle skirt with beaded appliques that fell into a chapel train. Her long veil was held by a beaded and sequined wreath headpiece. The bridesmaids' gowns were floor-length fusia organza suits. The bride and her attendants carried large floral sprays of multi-colored flowers, including star gazer lilies, roses, orchids and gerber daisies.

Following the ceremony, a dinner reception was held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Guests were from New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California.

The bride is a 1991 graduate of Wayne State University Medical School and is currently serving her residency in radiology at Harvard Medical School's Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

The groom is a 1991 graduate of Michigan State University's College of Human Medicine and is currently serving his residency in anesthesiology at Harvard Medical School's Beth Israel Hospital in Boston.

Following their wedding trip aboard Renaissance Cruise Lines to the Caribbean, the couple will reside in Boston.

Claire and Robert Schrotenboer II

Births

Michael Patrick and Robynn Christine (Bell) Duffy of Novi announce the birth of their son, Shane Michael, on Sept. 7. Shane weighed in at seven pounds 15 1/2 ounces and was born at Huron Valley Hospital.

Shane joins a sister, Sara-Kate, eight years old.

Grandparents are Mark and Marilyn Bell Jr., of Northville; Ronald and Louise Duffy, of Strongsville, Ohio; and John and Donna Pokelsek, of Pinckney.

Claire Elizabeth Langran and Robert Gene Schrotenboer II were united in holy matrimony on June 26 at the Mulder Memorial Chapel of Western Theological Seminary in Holland, Mich. The Rev. Jeff Munroe officiated at the double ring ceremony. The Rev. Arthur Whitbread was the celebrant.

The bride is the daughter of Tony and Iris Langran of Northville. The groom is the son of Prudy Schrotenboer of Holland.

The bride's gown was white silk and taffeta, off the shoulder with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice was adorned with pearls and beads, the skirt was full with detailing along the bottom. Silk roses decorated the sleeves as well as the train and headpiece. The bride wore a spray of lily of the valley from her mother's wedding gown.

The flowers for the ceremony were representative of a lush English garden. The bride's bouquet consisted of roses (for her grandmother, Rose), irises (for her mother, Iris), as well as stephanotis, tulips, and larkspur. The windowsills of the chapel were adorned with baskets of hyacinths, irises, and other wildflowers. A single white rose was placed on the piano in memory of the groom's late father.

The bride's maid of honor was Mary Beth Bowden. Her three attendants were Kelly Langran, Jennifer Leonard, and Kimberly Schrotenboer. The attendants' fuchsia gowns were custom designed by Christi Bernard Bridal of Grand Rapids. The attendants carried wildflower bouquets.

The groom's best man was Chad Wykhuis. His three groomsmen were Nicholas Cross, Bruce Langran, and Richard Young. They wore black tuxedo jackets with houndstooth check trousers.

Hymns were chosen by paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Langran of Tredegar, Wales, United Kingdom, and Mrs. Gladys Schrotenboer of Holland, Mich.

Friends of the couple, Jason Jarvis, Shari Brown, and Anthony Anusbigian, provided the scripture, verse and piano accompaniment for the ceremony. The groom's sister and husband, Jose and Dawn Perez-Pala, served as master and mistress of ceremonies.

The reception was held at the Amway Grand Plaza, Grand Rapids. The John Shea Jazz Trio played on the east concourse during the cocktail reception. Dinner and dancing were in the Pantlind Ballroom. The bride and groom left the reception in a horse-drawn carriage.

The couple honeymooned in Negril, Jamaica. They reside in Dallas, Texas.

The couple met while both were attending Hillsdale College. The bride graduated from Hillsdale and was a member of Chi Omega Sorority. She is employed by Merrill Lynch.

The groom was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and graduated from Hope College. He is currently employed by the Alan Roush Art Gallery.

Au Pair program provides cultural exchange vardsen with the Brehob family in Dearborn and Carol Walker with the Learmont family in Rochester Hills.

Girls between 18 and 25 wishing to become an au pair must submit a multiple page application with references. Families requesting an au pair are also thoroughly checked out, Snyder said.

A counselor for about a year, Snyder said she became familiar with the au pair program through visits to her parents in Florida.

"There are a lot of au pairs there," she said.

Snyder's Serenity Drive neighbor was the one who received the information about the au pair program in the mail.

"I just thought, well, I'll be the guinea pig," Snyder laughed.

Four months later, when the organization was looking for a new counselor, Snyder bid for the job.

"I love it," she said. "We have a lot of fun. All of the girls are nice. I tell my families I wouldn't do it if I didn't like it."

Snyder said she has had no problems with girls staying out late or causing trouble, which makes her job even easier. She calls all of the girls once a week to check and see if everything is going all right. She also plans some function for the girls to get together often.

"We see as much of America as possible," Jefferson said. "We get together and watch movies, go shopping and horseback riding. I've been to loads of craft shows. I've spent loads of money there."

The majority of au pairs, like Jefferson, are from England. Several girls, however, are from France and Norway and one is from Switzerland.

Au pairs are paid $100 weekly. The program does include a $75 processing fee, a $100 application fee and $3,175 for the actual program. Host families must provide the au pair with a private room.

Louise Stephenson works as an au pair in Novi, near the Snyders.

"I love it. I really enjoy it," she said.

Stephenson cares for a 6-year-old for the Fetters family.

Karen Sandiford works even closer, caring for a 2-year-old and a 5-year-old for the Frankses right across the street from the Snyders. Sandiford said she was thankful the other au pairs are so close by.

"If it weren't for the other au pairs out here I think I would have had a hard time finding other American friends," she said.

"I was really nervous about coming here and not knowing anyone," Stephenson admitted.

All three have seemed to settle in nicely, however, in their surroundings.

"I feel like part of the family," Jefferson said. "Kay's like my mom and the children feel like my brothers."

Snyder is as equally happy with the au pair program.

"When they leave it is really hard," she said, mentioning her last au pair, Chris. "I've never before put anyone on a plane knowing I'd never see that person again. Usually you'll see that person in two weeks or see them at a wedding. It's never just good-bye."

The Au Pair Programme USA is headquartered in Salt Lake City, Utah. For more information, call Snyder at 348-5981.

New play is spin-off of old disc

A 1957 Bing Crosby recording that enchanted Joseph Haynes when he was a boy led to the crafting of an original play which opens Friday at the Novi Civic Center.

Haynes, a professional actor/director, said the Christmas record An Axe, An Apple and A Buckskin Jacket, "was something I always grew up and listened to and it always stayed in my mind."

To incorporate the songs into a musical, however, required approval from the lyricist and composer. Haynes contacted the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. and was helped in the formidable task of tracking down the lyricist, Arnold Sundgaard. The library ran a search of its extensive files.

Sundgaard was discovered living in New Mexico and Haynes won his approval for the new production. The composer, Alec Wilder, is no longer alive.

Haynes and Sundgaard exchanged a series of letters while Haynes drafted the stage version of An Axe, An Apple and A Buckskin Jacket.

"He (Sundgaard) accepted what I wrote and made sure I held true to his ideals," Haynes said.

The musical, which will be staged for the first time ever at the Novi Civic Center Theater, is set in rural Kentucky in the 1850s. It's the story of a young man, Jethro, who decides to surprise his parents, who are away, one Christmas by clearing a field of trees — but he finds the task too daunting and grows disappointed with himself.

Jethro falls asleep and in his dream Paul Bunyan, Annie Oakley and Johnny Appleseed come to his rescue. Bunyan offers him an ax which clears the field, Johnny provides seeds to sow an orchard and Annie hands him the gift he's always wanted, a buckskin jacket with fringe.

"They all give him a lesson about hope, and courage and strength," said Haynes, who directs the play.

"He wakes up and realizes it was just a dream."

Or was it?

Jethro's parents return home laden with gifts from three strangers they met on the way, an ax, appleseed and a buckskin jacket.

While the play is new, the music, originally recorded at Radio City Music Hall, was performed live once on Irish television in 1960.

Unlike Crosby's version of White Christmas, none of the songs are ones the audience is likely to recognize, Haynes said.

"They're catchy little tunes, pleasant numbers," he added.

This is not the first play Haynes has created. He wrote the scripts for Cinderella and The Velveteen Rabbit, performed at Northville's Marquis Theater. He's a regular actor at the Greenfield Village-Henry Ford Museum Theatre and has appeared in a number of commercials and industrial films.

Haynes, a Belleville resident, knew Genevieve Terry, the president of Novi Players, through his years of community theater and approached her about doing the show. Terry agreed and is serving as the producer and assistant director.

The musical is a cooperative effort between the Novi Players and SRO (Standing Room Only) Theater in Southfield.

In Novi, it will be performed Nov. 19 and Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 21 at 2 p.m. at the Novi Theater, in the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, west of Novi Road.

Tickets are $5 in advance, $6 at the door and $4 for seniors and kids. For tickets, call 347-0400 or 349-3743.

Cast members are narrator, Joseph Haynes; Jethro, Joey Gravecc; Maw, Miranda Lapan; Paw, Remi Esordi; Pepper, Mindy Marns; Paul Bunyan, Chuck Rowison; Johnny Appleseed, Remi Esordi; Annie Oakley, Connie Carr; and in the chorus, Marje King, Helen Weiss and Genevieve Terry.

In December, the show continues at the SRO Theater on to-be-announced dates.

Noted author weaves story of romance in 'The Piano'

In "The Piano," acclaimed writer-director Jane Campion weaves a powerful and romantic story of a woman and the two men who love her.

Ada Hunter (Holly Hunter), her nine-year-old daughter and her piano arrive to an arranged marriage in the remote bush of 19th century New Zealand.

Of all her belongings, her husband (Sam Neill) refuses to transport the piano which is left behind on the beach. Unable to bear its certain destruction, Ada strikes a bargain with an illiterate tattooed neighbor (Harvey Keitel). She may earn her piano back if she allows him to do certain things while she plays; one black key for every lesson.

The arrangement draws all three deeper and deeper into a complex emotional, sexual bond remarkable for its naive passion and frightening disregard for limits.

Campion began writing "The Piano" in 1984, even before the making of her first feature film "Sweeties" (1989) and way before her direction of the celebrated "An Angel at My Table" (1990).

Although living and working in Sydney, Campion's imagination was drawn back to the colonial past of her birth country, New Zealand.

"I think it's a strange heritage that I have as a pakeha New Zealander, and I wanted to be in a position to touch or explore that," she said. "In contrast to the original people in New Zealand, the Maori, who have such an attachment to history, we seem to have no history, or at least not the same tradition."

"This makes you start to ask 'Well, who are my ancestors? My ancestors are English colonizers — the people who came out like Ada and Stewart and Baines.'"

Inventing three fictional 19th century forebears — Ada, Stewart and Baines, Campion set them into a highly charged love triangle. She was determined to explore the way that erotic impulses and the unpredictable emotions that can arise through their enactment, might have been experienced in another century and another landscape.

"I've enjoyed writing characters who don't have a 20th century sensibility about sex," she explained. "They have nothing to prepare themselves for its strength and power. We grew up with all those magazines that described courtship, giving us lots of little rules and ways of handling it. We grow up with so many expectations around it, that it's almost like the pure sexual erotic impulse is lost to us."

"But for them . . . the husband Stewart had probably never had sex at all. So for him to experience sex or feelings of sexual jealousy would have been personality transforming. The impact of sex is not softened . . . it's cleaner and extremer than that."

Three years after its inception, Campion showed the first draft of the script for "The Piano" to Jan Chapman. Chapman and Campion had worked together when producer Chapman invited Campion to direct the telefeature "Two Friends" in 1986.

Juggling other film projects, the two began to meet with script editor Billy McKinnon for a series of script development sessions.

"One of the major changes to the script was to give the ending a more poetical, more psychological finish," said Campion.

"It really needed the right ending or it could have been too soft," added Chapman. "But basically Jane — with our help — came up with the idea of the erotic focus shifting for Ada from the lover Baines to her husband Stewart. I think this is the thing that makes the film modern actually and not sentimental."

Essential to the truth of the period was the inclusion of a "Maori story." Campion felt keenly aware of their place in any story authentic to the world of 19th century New Zealand, and of the need of Maori advisers and writers to help create such a story.

The result of the collaboration is a large Maori cast who lend an extraordinarily rich collective presence to the film.

For what was to be a French-financed, New Zealand-based, Australian production of a New Zealand story, Chapman and Campion were keen to cast internationally. Campion, who has established a reputation for drawing strong performances from less experienced actors, was seeking another kind of challenge.

"I wanted to work with actors who would throw me into a different arena, to be called forth by the actors who were demanding and experienced," she said. "The characters in the script needed to be 'owned' by actors who could take them on, control them and have the experience to do so."

In fact the script itself was a large factor in drawing that experience. Among those interested actors was Holly Hunter who said the script had one ingredient that almost every script she has read does not — "a vast dimension of things being unexplained to the audience or even to the characters themselves, and that's just a real haunting part of the story . . . very, very haunting."

"There was a long list of extraordinary possibilities from Australian actresses to a number of French, English or Americans," said Campion.

"We could have been unimaginative enough to have not see her because the Holly Hunter of 'Broadcast News' and our Ada were two entirely different people," said Chapman. "Ada was going to be a tall woman with a strong, dark eene sort of beauty. But Holly's audition tape was just stupendous."

Sally Sherratt, the location finder, took some four weeks to cast the film's other great force — the beaches of black sand and cliff, topped by bush of almost prehistoric density — and mud.

In fact, this landscape was to be a hybrid of distant and neighboring locations jigsawed together to represent the lush difference of New Zealand.

"Jane (Campion) said very clearly what she wanted," said Sherratt. "Each location was to have its particular feeling and meaning — and she warned me, 'Beware of the Bland Old Bush!'"

Here's your chance to be a hometown movie critic

Seen any good movies lately? If you have, we'd like to hear about it . . . we'd like to hear exactly what you think — good or bad.

What we're saying is that this is your opportunity to play movie critic in your HomeTown newspaper.

If you're like most movie-goers everywhere, you probably think you know as much about the movies as anybody else. In fact, you probably think that you could write reviews that are every bit as good and probably a great deal more accurate than the reviews you see in other newspapers, magazines and on television.

Well, this is your big chance. In trying to make our Movie Page even more interesting to readers, we're inviting our readers to share their opinions about the movies with us and their neighbors.

Sorry, we're not offering any type of financial rewards if we print your comments, but we will give you a by-line — and then you'll be able to clip out your review and show all your friends that you're a published movie critic.

You can review a newly-released movie or a movie that is available on video. Please limit your mini-reviews to 100 words and send them to HomeTown Newspapers, c/o Phil Jerome, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI 48843.

The reviews should include your name, address and day-time telephone number.

If you have any questions or want more information, please call Phil Jerome at (517) 548-2000.

Look out, Siskel and Ebert. The HomeTown movie reviewers are about to do their thing.

Harrison ends Mustangs' season

John Gatti walked alone in bewilderment across the muddy field at Northville High unable to hold back the tears.

Many of the senior's teammates were lying on the turf trying to come to grips with a 23-16 region final loss Saturday to old nemesis Farmington Hills Harrison.

A two-yard touchdown run by the Hawks' Nick Williams in the third quarter separated the Mustangs from their second Class A semi final appearance in four years.

"We played a fine team and played them hard," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher. "I just wish we could have made the kids' dream come true."

Tied at 16 at the start of the second half, the Mustangs took the ball on their own 27-yard-line. Northville moved to its own 41 before a sack of quarterback Marc Golden forced a punt.

A low snap to Mark Scholz allowed Harrison's Ed Kennedy enough time to tackle the punter at the 18-yard line. Williams ran four straight times before punching it in off of left tackle at the 5:20 mark of the quarter.

Schumacher said the special-team error was critical.

"That was their offense," he said. "They didn't have any long drives on us."

"That hurt. It took our minds off of what we had to do."

Northville generated only two offensive first downs in the second half. The Mustangs' final chance to tie came with just under four minutes left in the game.

After forcing a Harrison punt, Northville gained possession at its own 19 yard line. Golden scrambled for five yards on first down and then threw an incomplete pass.

On third down, the senior scored his only completion of the day to John Farrar for 13 yards. Golden dropped back to pass again on first down, threw into heavy coverage and was intercepted by Dave Hensel at the Northville 46-yard-line.

Bryan Kelley was held in check by Farmington Hills all day.

"At that point they were shutting down the run," said Schumacher. "We felt we could move the ball with 10-yard passes."

Farmington Hills ran the clock out with 2:36 and won the game 23-16.

"I could have about guessed the score," said Harrison coach John Herrington.

The longtime Hawk mentor, who has won 23 of 24 meetings with Northville, said his team's ability to run the ball was the difference in the game.

"We went to the power game when we saw what kind of day it was," Herrington said, noting the wet conditions Saturday. "We went with Williams hoping we could control the ball and pass when we needed to."

Injuries play role in second loss to Hawks

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Injuries played a key role in Northville's playoff loss to Farmington Hills Harrison.

A half dozen Mustangs were either out or slowed Saturday with assorted injuries. According to Northville coach Darrel Schumacher, personnel depletion was a major factor in the ballgame.

"I think we're a better football team," he said bluntly. "I think we could have met the challenges they presented (with a full lineup)."

Northville took its biggest hit in the defensive line.

Adam Davis, a defensive tackle, was unable to play because of a severely sprained ankle. The senior hurt the ankle in Northville's first-round playoff victory over Detroit Chadsey two weeks ago.

"That was the biggest blow," said Schumacher. "He's our biggest and best lineman."

Nosetackle Scott Hartsough missed the game due to disciplinary reasons. Schumacher declined to elaborate on the action but said the senior was "an important cog" in the line.

The coach said Greg Belliston and Fred Swarthout did commendable jobs filling in. But without Davis and Hartsough, Harrison attacked Northville in the middle.

"I think when he saw Davis out he changed his plans," Schumacher said of Farmington Hills coach John Herrington. "They went into a power game."

Time and time again Hawk fullback Nick Williams pounded through the Mustang line. He finished with better than 100 yards.

"Nick turned it up a notch," said Herrington. "They had trouble with our rushing game."

Northville was also hampered on offense.

Right guard Dave Eckerly hurt an achilles tendon early in the game and was forced to come out. Schumacher said his loss affected the Mustangs' rushing attack.

Running backs Bryan Kelley and Anell Kersey were less than 100 percent as well. Kelley had been bothered by a hip pointer the last few weeks while Kersey's ankle was tender going into the game.

The long season, Schumacher said, took its toll on his team in the form of injuries.

"It always does," he said. "But you can't use it as an excuse."

Schumacher was proud of the effort the Mustangs gave.

"I'm thrilled with how well they played," he said. "I just hated to see it end."

Cagers strangle Churchill; fall in district game

By SCOTT DANIEL

Last Thursday was almost perfect for the Mustang basketball team.

Not only did Northville High slaughter Livonia Churchill 65-24, but the squad's five seniors finished their regular-season careers with a bang. Each scored, including nine points from Marci Bolger and eight from Lindsay Bacon, to help lead the Mustangs to their third straight win.

"It was a nice way to finish for our seniors," coach Gary Schwan said. "It was a good game for us."

The state tournament began Monday night. Northville, which is hosting the district, lost to Plymouth Salem 40-36.

The Mustangs finish the season with a 9-12 record, a win shy of doubling last years total. Salem advanced to the semi-finals to play Livonia Ladywood.

Even with the tournament looming, the Mustangs' attention was squarely on Livonia Thursday night. After a sluggish first quarter that saw Churchill take an 8-7 lead, Northville came alive.

"It was a nice way to finish for our seniors. It was a good game for us."

GARY SCHWAN
Basketball coach

Gina Chiasson gave the Mustangs the lead back with 6:49 before half-time on a short jump shot. Northville built an 18-12 edge with about three minutes to go, but was far from finished in the quarter.

The Mustangs went on a 13-0 run before the buzzer. Samantha Leger keyed the charge with five points, including a steal and a couple of fast-break layups.

Northville never let up.

Bolger got hot in the third quarter. The senior, in fact, scored seven straight points for Northville mostly from close range.

Schwan played her out of position, he said, at shooting guard and she responded.

"Bolger had a nice game," he said. "She did a good job for us."

Kickers place four on area dream team

A combination of goal-scorers, playmakers and strong defensive players marks HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Soccer team.

Led by Player of the Year Chris Young, our 1993 squad would have little trouble finding the back of the net. Novi's Young was a top scorer in the Kensington Valley Conference with more than 20 goals. Halfbacks Bo Fowler and Kevin Sitts figured prominently in their teams' offense and would in ours, too.

Lakeland forward J.J. Traynor and South Lyon scorer Dave Melville would make this an impossible team to cover.

Defensively, Rob Nelson and Dave Rossing of Northville and Jason Howard of Milford anchor our team. Guarding the net is none other than two-time All-KVC goalie Steve Cramer.

Here's a closer look at our choices:

CHRIS YOUNG

Forward, Novi

The junior had a phenomenal season in leading Novi to a 15-4-1 record. Young netted 22 goals and added 10 assists while often drawing the opposition's best defensive player.

"He was a marked man all the way," said Novi coach Larry Christoff.

The coach said Young added strength and more speed to his game this fall. Christoff said the forward plays like a bulldog.

"He plays hard and gives you 100 percent," he added.

Young led the Wildcats by example.

"He does things in a quiet way," Christoff said. "But the kids have a great deal of respect for him."

Young may get even better as a senior.

"I'm not surprised at what he did this year," Christoff said. "I hope he can do the same next year."

DAVE MELVILLE

Forward, South Lyon

Melville made an impact despite missing half the season with various injuries.

"He's one of the most recognizable players in the KVC," said South Lyon coach Bill Stevanovic. "He's got speed and super athletic ability."

Melville knocked in five goals and added four assists this year. The injury impact is visible when you compare those numbers to his 1992 stats: 11 goals and 18 assists.

"He's got an excellent shot and great headers," Stevanovic said. He can play any position and he's one of the fastest players in the KVC."

CHAD TOLSTEDT

Forward, Northville

Playing only half the season at forward, Tolstedt put up good offensive stats. The senior scored five goals and three assists while also seeing duty at halfback.

Northville coach Doug Lyon said he moved Tolstedt up front to take advantage of his passing and ball control skills. He described him as a playmaker.

"Chad is a very solid player," Lyon said.

Tolstedt was the Mustangs' co-captain this year. He was selected to the Western Lakes Activities Association all-division team.

J.J. TRAYNOR

Forward, Lakeland

This junior was responsible for almost half of the Lakeland goals this season, many coming as he seized a broken-play opportunity.

"Many of his goals were individual efforts," said Lakeland coach Franco Camero. "He's a very aggressive player and he retains the ball well. "He has good goal vision."

KEVIN SITTS

Halfback, Novi

The senior seemed to have a nose for the ball. Christoff said Sitts wasn't afraid to mix it up on the offensive end.

"He's a guy that does all the work to set up goals," he added. "He's a real steady player."

Sitts scored 10 goals and six assists from his halfback slot. Christoff described as a good offensive player.

JASON HOWARD

Halfback, Milford

With graduation losses Milford was left with a big hole in the middle of the field. Howard moves up from sweeper to quarterback the team as center-midfielder.

"This year I needed good midfielder," said Milford coach Robert Mazur. "He did his job very well."

Howard, a senior captain, had eight goals and 12 assists on the season.

"He's a very good player," Mazur said. "He has good speed, jumping and dribbling ability and he's always thinking."

BO FOWLER

Halfback, Northville

Fowler was one of the WLAA's very best players. A senior, he was named to the all-conference team scoring seven goals and six assists.

"He dominated games," said Lyon. "His biggest assets are his skill and determination. He never gives up."

Even at halfback, Fowler was the main gun in Northville's offense. Lyon said forwards often passed the ball back to him to take the shot.

ROB NELSON

Fullback, Northville

Nelson, a senior, served as the Mustangs' stopper on defense. Even with his defensive role, he scored a respectable three goals and five assists.

"That's fantastic from that position," Lyon said.

The coach said Nelson did a good job of shutting down enemy goal scorers.

"He's a player we'll miss," said Lyon. "Rob is a tough and physical player."

Nelson was named to the all Western Division team along with Tolstedt.

Schwagle heads list for second team

MATT SCHWAGLE

Forward, Northville

A junior, Schwagle split time between forward and halfback. He still finished as Northville's second leading scorer with six goals and eight assists.

"He's a great player," said Northville coach Doug Lyon. "He has great skills and could be a superstar if he played all year."

Schwagle, who is one of Michigan's best high school tennis players, will likely move into the halfback slot full time next fall. Lyon said the Mustangs would be able to take advantage of his skills more fully from that position.

PAUL GRAVES

Forward, Lakeland

A junior sub-captain, Graves spent the year coordinating the Eagle offense from midfield. We switched him to forward to take advantage of his quarterbacking skills and his knack for racking up points.

"He was the team's top scorer," said Lakeland coach Franco Camero.

"He was an excellent midfielder with excellent control of the ball."

JOE SCHMIZZI

Forward, Novi

Just a sophomore, Schmizzi scored nine goals and four assists for the Wildcats. Coach Larry Christoff said he was a hot and cold player.

"He had some good days and bad days," he said. "But near the end he was very consistent."

Schmizzi has an excellent left-foot shot, Christoff added.

"His biggest asset is his speed," he said.

Schmizzi made all-Kensington Valley Conference. Christoff said he will improve as a junior and a senior when he develops finesse and coolness on the field.

MATT TOPOUS

Halfback, Northville

Lyon described the junior as an offensive halfback.

"His skill work is one of the best on our team," he said. "What he lacks in speed he makes up for in ball control."

Topous scored two goals and eight assists. Lyon said he earned a lot of points off of corner kicks.

"He's very good at placing the ball," he added.

JASON MACIVER

Halfback, Northville

A late season eye-injury slowed the junior. But Lyon said his two goals and nine assists were very respectable numbers.

"I think he would have done even better without the injury," he added.

The coach said Maciver was a top playmaker for Northville. Lyon said he had a knack for distributing the ball.

"He's one of our better players," he said.

Arts, crafts show coming

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

Get ready now for the biggest shopping weekend of the year — Thanksgiving weekend! But, instead of all the hustle and bustle at the area malls, stop by the Novi Civic Center on Saturday or Sunday, Nov. 27 and 28, for the 3rd Annual Holiday Arts and Crafts Show sponsored by the Novi Arts Council and the Novi Jaycees. Do your holiday shopping in a comfortable setting with free, convenient parking as you support the arts in Novi.

Fifty-five area crafters will be bringing a wide variety of handmade items for everyone. Shop now for holiday gifts or for a special something for yourself. There are many new and exciting crafts this year, as well as 15 returning crafters who have been involved from the beginning. The crafts fill the Novi Civic Center Atrium and the Multi-Purpose Room. New items this year include hand-polished wood pins in various shapes such as musical instruments and abstract designs.

Other arts and crafts items at this year's juried show include stained glass, oil and acrylic paintings, pottery (vases and bowls with a southwestern motif), jewelry, gingerbread houses, wood crafts (toys, shelves and chests), needlepoint and stationary items. There are also many crafts with a holiday flavor that would make great Christmas gifts, including handmade music boxes, ornaments, wreaths and hand-painted 3-D houses and villages which have been described as "incredibly gorgeous".

The Novi Arts Council and the Novi Jaycees joined forces two years ago for their first Holiday Arts and Crafts Show. The last two years have been very successful and a fun way for the two groups to make money for their special community projects. Novi Jaycees representative Becky Staab said, "It's a fun event for our community and the Jaycees puts its profits into the Community Development Fund. This is used for our needy family Christmas program, Safety Town and our summer reading program at the Novi Library."

Paula Joyner-Clinard, president of the Novi Arts Council agrees that the Arts and Crafts Show benefits our community. "The Arts Council uses their share of the profits to support the arts in Novi. This varies from grants to bring artists into the community, a youth theater to go into the Novi elementary schools next fall, or poetry readings at the schools."

There is something for everyone at the Holiday Arts and Crafts Show. Prices for the items range from $1 to $100 with the average prices around $15 to $20. The Novi Jaycees will provide the food concessions with pizza from Maria's Bakery, hot dogs, chips, candy, pop and coffee. "We will also feature the world famous 'Jaycees Super Chili,'" said Staab. "Don't miss it!"

Both groups have shared the responsibility for planning, publicity, jury committee, set-up, collecting admission, handling the hourly raffle, food concessions and clean-up. It's a joint effort bringing a quality arts and crafts show to the community.

The crafters have donated items for an hourly raffle and each person attending the show has a chance to win some of the beautiful handmade crafts. Admission is only $1 and this money is divided between the Arts Council and the Jaycees. The Novi High School Choir will have its Christmas tape available for sale and the Jaycees will be selling a variety of live poinsettias for $10, as well as the Choralaires' Christmas Concert tickets.

Come early as the show opens at 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 27, and noon on Sunday, Nov. 28. It runs until 4 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Last year's crowds were very happy with the open layout and wide aisles at the Novi Civic Center. It made it very convenient and comfortable for the shoppers.

See you at the Civic Center for the Holiday Arts and Crafts Show this Thanksgiving weekend! Remember there's only 36 shopping days left until Christmas!

Heartburn can have many causes

Perry Prichard

At one time or another, most everyone experiences discomfort or pain from heartburn.

For people who suffer frequently, the most likely diagnosis is Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease (GERD). GERD is caused by the recurrent reflux, or backing up, of gastric contents into the esophagus, the muscular tube connecting the mouth and stomach.

Normally after food is swallowed it travels down the esophagus and enters the stomach. The relaxation of a sphincter, or muscular ring, at the far end of the esophagus makes this one-way trip possible. If the integrity of this ring is compromised in some way, it may allow food and acid from the stomach back into the esophagus, causing irritation of this tube.

Heartburn, or pyrosis, is the burning sensation associated with irritation of the esophagus and is the characteristic symptom of GERD. Heartburn typically occurs about an hour after a meal and may persist for several hours.

The pain can be intense. In fact, 30 to 40 percent of emergency room visits for chest pain may be esophageal in origin. Although the distinction between esophageal and heart pain is often obvious, it can be sometimes impossible to make.

Most often, our natural defenses are sufficient to prevent frequent heartburn. A well functioning lower esophageal sphincter is important for preventing excessive reflux of gastric contents.

Other factors which limit the amount of reflux include esophageal peristalsis, the wave-like propulsion of food from muscular contraction, and the effects of gravity on swallowed food. Saliva helps neutralize stomach acid. Finally, an intact mucosal barrier also helps prevent esophageal inflammation.

When these defenses are insufficient and heartburn persists, several simple measures can be taken. Elevating the head of one's bed and waiting at least three hours after eating before lying down allows gravity to decrease reflux more effectively. Avoiding things such as caffeinated beverages, foods high in fat content, chocolate and nicotine also may help. Overeating can contribute to the problem by increasing the pressure for back flow.

Over-the-counter antacids can help to neutralize acidic reflux. Preferred antacids, Maalox and Mylanta, contain a combination of magnesium and aluminum salts. These tend not to disrupt bowel mobility as much as either element would if acting alone.

Antacids containing calcium are not recommended because calcium ions tend to increase secretions of gastric acid. Sodium bicarbonate, a common home remedy for stomach upset, is readily absorbed into the bloodstream and can cause unwanted side effects, making it an unattractive alternative.

If the above measures are inadequate to relieve heartburn, a visit to the doctor is in order. Several prescription medications are useful in treating GERD.

Zantac decreases stomach acid. Reglan increases acid clearance and Prilosec reduces acid secretion. In cases where all the previous measures have failed, anti-reflux surgery may be required.

Gridders fall 23-16 in region final to Harrison

Williams, a 6-foot-2, 230-pounder, carried the ball 31 times for 115 yards.

"We hit him at the line of scrimmage and he fell forward for two or three yards," said Schumacher.

The visitors totaled 240 yards of offense to Northville's 122.

"They had trouble with our power game," said Herrington.

Injuries may have played a part in Harrison's rushing success. Northville was without defensive linemen Adam Davis and Scott Hartsough (see related story).

"It made a difference," said Schumacher.

The game started with a bang. Harrison took the opening kickoff and began on its own 35-yard line. Three plays later, quarterback Joe Pesci found Kevin Bryant for a 47-yard TD pass.

The Hawk receiver was 15 yards past any Mustang defender for the easy catch and score.

"He slipped behind us," said Schumacher. "It was a blown assignment."

Chuck Apligian got Northville right back into the game.

He scooped up a line-drive kickoff and bolted straight up the middle. At the Farmington Hills 20-yard-line, Apligian hurdled the Harrison kicker and then completed an 87-yard touchdown run to tie the game 7-7.

Schumacher said the senior's big play loosened his team up.

"We were too uptight," he added. "I think what Chuck did was ingrate us."

Northville snuffed out Harrison's next drive in four plays and took the ball, after a shanked punt, at Farmington Hills' 44-yard line.

Some hard running by Bryan Kelley moved the ball down to the 19. Facing third down and seven, Golden ran a quarterback draw for four yards. Mike Hirvela then came on for a 32-yard field goal and Northville had its only lead of the day, 10-7 at the 4:54 mark of the first quarter.

Harrison took the lead midway through the second period. The Hawks capped an 80-yard drive with a 19-yard pass play from Pesci to Bryant. The extra point failed and the visitors led 13-10.

With just under three minutes left, Harrison made it 16-10 on a 32-yard field goal by Brock Gove. Gove set up the score by blocking a Mustang punt at the Northville 15-yard-line.

The Mustangs tied it up before halftime, however.

Starting on his own 29, Northville's Aneil Kersey came alive with a 27-yard first down run.

Kersey, who finished with 73 yards, then ran three more times to the Harrison nine. Two plays later he scored from five yards out. Northville missed the extra point and the teams went to halftime tied at 16.

The Mustangs led 45-20 by the end of the quarter.

In such lopsided games, the bench typically plays much of the final quarter. But Schwan had used all of his roster in the first three quarters.

The coach kept shuffling the deck in the fourth, but the game got even more out of hand. Bacon led a balanced attack with six points in the period.

When Lyndsay Huot got a hoop on a fast break at the 2:54 mark, everyone on the Northville squad had scored in the game. Chiasson led the Mustangs with 12 points. Kari Krupansky had seven, Katie Woodrich and Jennie Hursey six.

Schwan said closing with a three-game winning streak helped his team.

"Everybody is on the upswing," he added. "We feel good about the way we are playing. We're playing strong."

NORTHVILLE 41, WESTLAND JOHN GLENN 34

The Mustangs used a decisive third quarter to beat John Glenn Nov. 9.

Ahead 22-18 at halftime, Northville pulled away from the home team with a 12-4 quarter after halftime. Krupansky scored four points, including a three-pointer, in the period.

Free throws played a crucial role in the game.

Northville, which has been very poor of late from the charity stripe, connected on 12 of 18 in the game. Westland was just 8 of 17 by comparison.

Leger led the way for the Mustangs with 13 points. Krupansky added eight and Huot six.

REAL ESTATE

Which broker is best for the buyer?

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Many home buyers find and purchase their new residence through a real estate broker who legally represents the home seller. In recent years, a debate has been brewing throughout the country regarding broker representation.

Are property buyers who work with a broker who legally represents the seller really getting a bad deal?

This question has puzzled many people when reading conflicting reports on the subject. It became such a big issue a few years ago that several states passed legislation that required real estate brokers to disclose to clients whether they legally represented the buyer, seller or were serving in a dual agency capacity.

For decades, a typical situation generally followed these steps: A family moves to a new city and needs a home. They see an interesting ad in the local newspaper and call the broker listed in the ad.

The family subsequently works with this broker in inspecting the property and negotiating a price and terms for purchasing the home.

In most cases, that broker legally represents the property seller (owner). He is either the listing agent, working under the terms of a listing contract with the owner, or a subagent to the listing broker.

There are often two brokers directly involved in the sale of a home. One listed the property and submitted it to the area multiple listing service (MLS). The other is the "cooperating broker"—usually a fellow member of the MLS—who sold the property. In most cases, both of these brokers legally represent the seller (the owner who signed the listing contract).

The recent fuss about representation has spawned a new breed of broker—one who represents the buyer exclusively. And many brokers now offer themselves in either capacity, as a seller or buyer representative. It's an open window of

Column entrance marks Splawn's grand design

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Grand. That word springs instantly to mind on viewing the Splawn's classic columned entrance.

Regal Palladian windows overarch a wide door flanked with stacked windows. The columns are capped by a high gable. Lesser arches trim the three garage doors, adding grace and unifying the exterior.

While the vaulted entry hall is equally dramatic, it also has its practical aspect. A coat closet is tucked into an alcove hidden by the open door.

A second-story bridge overlooks both the entry hall and the large, vaulted living room at the rear. Plants placed here trail down the walls, creating an arbor effect. The bridge leads to a single room that could be put to a number of uses, including artist's studio, recreation room or hobby space. It has a half-bathroom in one corner.

French doors on two sides of the living room open onto decks, the left one larger than the right.

A wood-burning stove angles across one corner of the room, providing a warm focal point on chilly days. In the large country kitchen, another set of French doors opens the bayed eating nook to the deck. Meals, and even the kitchen table, can be easily moved outside when the temperature rises.

Other features include a built-in dishwasher, range and oven and a step-in pantry. A formal dining room is right across the hall.

The master suite is expanded by a richly glassed sitting area that opens onto the deck. Luxury amenities include a large walk-in closet and a two-section bathroom with a linen closet and a second basin in the dressing area.

Another notable feature of the Splawn is the mud room, entered through a door that's located between the entrance and the garage. Placing a bench on the stoop would provide a seat for removing messy footwear as well as a place to stow those items while they dry out.

Interior doors open to the garage on one side, and a utility room on the other. The utility room has long counters for folding clothes.

For a study plan of the Splawn (40 1-38), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Forcing a flower from a plant during the winter months can create a surprise to visitors

Beginning in early winter, many flowering trees and shrubs can be stimulated into bloom in just a few weeks by creating springtime weather conditions and climates indoors.

Placed inside the front door to greet visitors or on the dining table as a centerpiece, indoor bouquets of flowering branches brighten the look of any home. Forcing blooms indoors gives homeowners the pleasures of springtime months before the actual onset of spring.

Selecting the branches

Whether you fill every room in your house with flowering plants or limit your indoor garden to selected window sills, the plants you choose and how you arrange them can make all the difference in the satisfaction they provide.

Since flowers and attractive foliage are the primary goal, you should know what to expect of a plant before you choose one. If colorful flowers are your objective, branches cut from forsythia, flowering quince and daphne are excellent choices.

In as few as two weeks, forced buds formed on last year's branches will produce an array of vibrant blossoms, ranging in color from yellow to pink. Trees and shrubs that flower early in spring are generally the easiest to force.

Forced branches from budless trees and shrubs such as Japanese Maple, however will produce only leaves. Plants such as these should not be overlooked for forcing, as bountiful green foliage creates a vibrant atmosphere in any room of the home.

Remember to consider the shape and size of branches when selecting plants for forcing. Choose branches that have an attractive yet suitable shape for transplanting indoors. Plants that are too large and cumbersome for limited indoor space will appear awkward and overgrown, detracting from the beauty of the home rather than enhancing it.

Transplanting

Like people, branches need to feel at home. Transplanted branches need an environment with appropriate temperatures, light, water and humidity to provide the desired blooms and leaves. Although plants are highly adaptable, the closer you can come to creating the environment that each finds ideal, the more they will flourish.

Cut branches such as mock orange, kerria and pussywillow have a high success rate when transplanted and forced indoors. No longer subject to high winds, driving rain or wide-ranging temperatures, plants will thrive in the consistent and stable conditions of Attracting beneficial insects

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Insects are amazing creatures. They can be found in every ecological niche and make up almost half of all living things on Earth.

Insects can affect man both directly and indirectly. While many people think of insects as destructive or obnoxious pests, most insects are beneficial. Without the pollinating services of bees and other insects, man would have few fruits, vegetables or field crops.

Commercial products, such as silk, honey and shellac, are insect byproducts. At the least, insects are important as scavengers and for food for birds and fish.

One area where insects are important is in natural control of pest insect species. Beneficial insects help keep pest populations in balance because many insects are predators, and others are parasites.

Predatory insects are free-living organisms, which attack and feed upon other insects. Predators are usually larger than their prey and require more than one prey to complete their life cycle. Ladybird beetles are a good example of a predatory insect.

Parasitic wasps (or parasitoids as they are properly called) live in or on the bodies of their hosts. They may be the same size or smaller than the host and will feed on the host insect, weakening and finally killing it. They require only one host to complete their development. Many species of wasps are parasitoids. These beneficial wasps do not sting.

The applied use of beneficial insects to control pest populations dates back to 1888 when the Vedalia lady beetle was imported from Australia to control cottony cushion scale on fruit in California.

On a smaller scale, beneficial insects occur naturally where their host food source is found in sufficient numbers to support their populations. The home gardener can take several steps to encourage, conserve and enhance populations of beneficial insects.

Avoid measures that will destroy beneficials as well as pests. Try alternate methods of pest management such as hand-picking, sticky traps, insecticide soap spray or Bacillus thuringiensis (B.t.).

If an insecticide application is necessary, make a spot treatment rather than a broad-scale application. Try to select a material with a short residuopportunity for brokers during a generally sluggish market period.

However, home buyers do not normally get a raw deal from brokers who legally represent the seller. If brokers do not serve the needs of buyers competently and professionally, they are not performing effectively for their seller clients. And they probably won't be in business long.

"In the real world, home buyers usually receive good service from seller-representing brokers," said Barry Moore, a California broker who has been serving home sellers and buyers for 18 years. "There's not much need for an exclusive 'buyer broker' in most markets. And in over 90 percent of purchases, the buyer is serviced by a broker who is not the listing broker."

Tom Byler, a Kansas broker expressed this commonly-held opinion: "I believe, after the dust settles on agency tampering, the overwhelming majority of brokerages will provide traditional seller agency and subagency."

His comments were carried in the official publication of the National Association of Realtors.

Even William Chee, president of NAR, now seems to favor the traditional approach to serving property buyers and sellers.

"Consumers have different needs and wants. We (Realtors) have to see our business as serving consumers rather than serving one specific type of consumer," Chee said.

"For instance, what if a seller comes to a buyer-agency-only shop? That company has restricted its business and can't service that consumer. The best way to run a brokerage business today is to key its operation to the best possible service for consumers, without limiting those services."

Probably the most vocal advocate of exclusive buyer-representation brokerage offices is Barry Miller, president of the Denver-based Buyer's Resource Real Estate franchise group.

This organization, launched in 1989, now has about 65 affiliated firms in 22 states. The group's franchise fee (a firm's cost for affiliation) is $12,500 for firms in metro areas plus a royalty of 5 percent on gross commissions and an advertising fee of another 2 percent of commissions.

"We're gearing up for enormous growth of exclusive buyer representation," Miller said optimistically.

ly. "The real estate industry and home-buying public both have seen the future, and it's us."

However, most real estate professionals agree that a buyer can receive excellent service from a traditional broker, even though he or she may legally represent the property seller.

It's the experience and capability of the broker that counts most, not who he technically represents.

On the other hand, it is important for a consumer to know who the broker represents. That should be disclosed at the beginning of discussions.

And when the broker represents the seller, the buyer should not disclose information to him that is not appropriate to be communicated to the seller.

Q. Is insurance coverage available to protect home sellers from litigious home buyers who believe they have been misled by the seller?

A. At least one company offers such coverage — Homeowners Group Inc., a publicly held firm based in Hollywood, Fla.

As a result of a rising number of lawsuits brought against home sellers for lack of adequate disclosure, "an increasingly strong market has surfaced for a 'seller's errors and omissions' type of insurance coverage, according to Carl Buccellato, president of the Homeowners firm.

"Many courts have held that sellers are responsible for disclosing any defect or circumstance that might affect the buyer's decision to purchase a home," he said.

Q. Are most home buyers financing their purchase with a fixed-rate or adjustable-rate mortgage loan?

A. As mortgage interest rates continue to drop, an increasing number of buyers are opting for a 30-year fixed-rate loan, according to a report from the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), the nation's largest buyer of existing mortgage loans.

The same numbers apply to homeowners who refinance their existing mortgage loans.

The proportion of buyers and refinancing homeowners taking a fixed-rate loan is now up to 54.8 percent, the Fannie Mae report revealed. It also noted that 62.8 percent of recent loans are refinance mortgages.

Ways to attract beneficial insects to your garden even through tough months al life. Be tolerant of minor insect infestations. Beneficials must have sufficient prey to feed upon or they will move elsewhere.

Maintaining a good diversity of plants will provide alternate hosts for beneficials as well as overwintering sites, shelter and sources of food. Many adult parasitoids feed on nectar and pollen. Having an abundance of blooming plants will attract these beneficials to your garden.

The following are some of the most common beneficials that may be found in the garden. Learn to recognize these valuable insects and encourage them in your area.

• Ladybird beetles (ladybugs). There are more than 400 species of this beetle in North America. Both the adult and larvae are important aphid predators. Several species also feed on scale insects, mealybugs and spider mites.

The adult beetle is small, broadly oval and often brightly colored with white spots on the wing covers. The adult female may lay up to 1,500 orange, cigar-shaped eggs on leaf surfaces, usually in clusters of 12 or more.

The larvae are small, flat and alligator-shaped. A ladybird larva may eat 25 aphids a day, while an adult may consume 50. When aphid populations decrease, ladybird beetles usually migrate.

Commercially sold ladybird beetles are collected while dormant. The tendency of the adult is to disperse upon release, so purchased beetles may not take up residence in home gardens.

• Ground beetles. These dark, flattened beetles are ground dwellers, although some species climb trees in search of prey. Ranging in length from 1/4 inch to 1 1/2 inches, these beetles are active at night and hide under rocks and other objects during the day. Both adult and larvae of most species prey on cutworms, earwigs and various caterpillars, including the gypsy moth.

• Praying mantis. Considered by many to be beneficial, this large predator may eat other beneficial insects as well as pests. The adult mantis may be up to 5 inches in length and can be either green or brown. The front legs are thickened and spined for grasping its prey. The immature mantis looks like the adult but is smaller and without wings.

In the fall, the adult female lays about 100 eggs in a straw-colored foamy mass. The young hatch the following spring. Egg masses may be purchased commercially or collected from fields.

• Green lacewings. The adult lacewing is up to 3/4 inch long with large, transparent, intricately veined wings from which it gets its name. The wings are held over the body in a rooflike position.

The small, yellowish, spindle-shaped larvae are fierce predators with voracious appetites. They feed on aphids, mealybugs, thrips, caterpillar eggs and leafhopper nymphs.

The adult female lays each egg upon a hairlike stalk to prevent hatching larvae from devouring the unhatched eggs. Lacewing eggs are available commercially and may be a valuable addition to the garden.

Cabinet made in early 1900s

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a photograph of a china cabinet that I recently obtained. It has Queen Anne legs and there are four shelves behind glass doors. It is in beautiful condition, and I think the wood is walnut.

When was it made, and what is it worth?

A. Colonial furniture has been reproduced since the 1880s. Although some pieces were close copies, manufacturers took liberties with design. As an example, there were no original Queen Anne coffee tables or end tables.

Even though Colonial Revival furniture was mass produced, it usually was very well made.

Your cabinet has the characteristics of a piece made in the early 1900s. It would be worth about $800 to $900.

ANTIQUES

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of a porcelain-covered powder box that my great-aunt gave me. On the lid is the figure of a young woman in a rose gown holding a basket of flowers. It is in excellent condition.

tion. When was this made, and what is it worth?

A. Your powder box was made by Hertwig & Co. Porcelain Factory in Katzhutte, Thuringia, Germany. In the early 1900s, Hertwig & Co. was founded in 1864 and closed in 1945.

Many of the 19th and 20th century porcelain factories were in Thuringia because the raw materials necessary to the production of porcelain were located in that region.

Your powder box would probably be worth about $225 to $250 in good condition.

Q. What can you tell me about a waffle iron that I have? It stands on three legs and has an attached tray. On the front are the words M.B. Means Best—Manning Bowman & Co.—Serial No. 524—Article No.

1605—Made in U.S.A.—Meriden, Conn.

Is my waffle iron worth anything?

A. Waffle irons are becoming almost as popular to collect as toasters. Construction was simple, the wiring basic and most small appliances still work.

The original box will increase the value, while plated items that have been stripped to the base metal will decrease it.

The serial number and article number indicate your waffle iron was manufactured by Manning Bowman & Co. in the early 1900s. It would probably be worth about $35 to $45 in good condition.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

This china cabinet is a well-made reproduction that could sell for $800 to $900.

A blooming force for cold winter months their new home. For instance, plants receive a regular supply of food and water, while the threat of disease and insects is reduced.

Gardeners can ensure strong and healthy transplants and blooms by using an antitranspirant spray to protect buds and exposed stems from the effects of transplant shock.

Forcing Technique

The first step for successful forcing is the careful stem-end preparation. Make several two to three-inch cuts up the stem from its base to increase plant cell exposure and maximize their absorption capacity.

Damaged or smashed stems severely diminishes the number of plant cells available for water and nutrient absorption, which results in limited blooms. Crushed stems are also displeasing to the eye when placed around the home in floral arrangements.

Once the stems have been cut, branches need to soak in a warm water bath for two to three hours. Soaking the branches softens winter bark formed around the buds to protect future blooms from cold weather and other harsh elements. A warm soak also removes excess dirt and debris. Clean, soft buds and branches facilitate the forcing process and minimize stress on blooms and leaves.

Now ready for the final phase of forcing, preparing branches should be placed in a container of water and set in a room with a constant temperature of 65 degrees F to 75 degrees F. Water and feed plants as necessary and continue to mist buds to prevent dehydraton and hardness. This "greenhouse" effect along with minimal maintenance will produce colorful flowers and leaves in one to five weeks.

Once branches begin to bloom, arrange flowers and plants as desired. Forced leaves and blossoms can be kept healthy and fresh looking with occasional applications of a antitranspirant spray.

Homeowners will delight as they see the fruits of their labor blossom before their eyes. Simple to do and easy to care for, forcing branches results in endless combinations of indoor flowering bouquets limited only by the gardeners imagination.

The Hanna family finds home in Northville

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

It's been a circuitous route to get to Northville, but for the Hanna family, it's safe to say they've found a home.

That's how it seems at the Northville Gourmet, a fine food shop the family bought last spring at 680 W. Eight Mile Road. Since taking ownership of the former party store in April, the Cal, Ussama, Tariq and their father Edward Hanna have been welcomed by the community.

"We want to have a somewhat mainstream appeal to the masses, but we want to be a little left of center," said Tariq, the creative maestro of the Northville Gourmet's kitchen. "We'll have the same potato salad and macaroni salad, but we'll get people to try new things too."

The Hanna family originally hails from Jerusalem, but lived in Nigeria for nine years. The boys attended boarding school in England during that time, and they all still maintain slight British accents.

Cal has assumed the role of public relations director, though he's still community activities director at Oakland Community College. Ussama, who's in advertising, runs the counter. Tariq, educated at OCC's culinary arts program, is the chef, specializing in pastries.

His goal of teaching new tastes to the community has taken root, just as they'd all hoped.

"My first pound of pate I sold to a construction worker," Tariq said. "It's funny. I can start with just some leftovers, and the next thing you know, it's our best-selling salad. A lot of people are really interested in what we're doing. People come in and say 'I have to try that next time,' and they do. They come back and try it."

The spread at the Northville Gourmet's grand opening two weeks ago provided further proof. Visitors snatched up chicken satays with Thai-style peanut dipping sauce, and chocolate raspberry tarts.

"I don't stick to any formats," Tariq said. "I'll try anything and everything once. When I begin to feel a little more comfortable with the clientele, I'll try a few more obscure things."

For now, though, he's happy to send you home with as many timbales, nougaines, truffles and unbelievable cakes as you can handle.

Inside, the gourmet shop has a European flair. The exposed trusses and corrugated steel of the ceiling have been painted teal. Chrome high-tech racks have replaced the tin shelves of the old party store.

Indeed, the old vestiges of the old party store are the candy and chips on the shelves, and the soda and beer in the cooler. The pizza, which had acquired something of a cult following under former owners, will remain as well.

But even the cigarettes have gone a little upscale, as Dunhills now sit side-by-side with the American brands. Exotic teas and coffees (grind your own fresh if you like) have slipped in beside the coolers. A variety of balsamic vinegars and olive oils are offered.

"If we don't have it," Tariq said, "in 24 hours we can get it."

Under former owners, the party store had developed a wine shelf that went a bit beyond standard fare. But upon Cal's insistence, the store has now taken another quantum leap in that area. Here you'll find one of the best arrays of Australian wines anywhere in Southeast Michigan.

"It's not just gourmet food; it's the whole thing," said Cal. "We feature Australian wine, not because we were raised in England and it's part of the Commonwealth. It's because it's extraordinary wine."

And it's still available at bargain prices. Rosemount Estates Shiraz, at $9.99 a bottle, tastes as good or better than French reds costing twice as much. But for a real treat, try Rosemount's Reserve Syrah. Though it's a tough-to-get limited bottling, the Northville Gourmet grabbed more than its share of cases. At $15.99 a bottle, it won't stay around long.

Getting to this point wasn't easy. The party store, while in good shape, needed a total interior overhaul before it was ready to be christened the Guests enjoy the fare at the grand opening of the Northville Gourmet on Eight Mile Road.

Northville Gourmet.

"I took one look and said, 'No way,'" said Tariq.

But with a lot of sweat and hard work, they've created something that people in the area have taken a shine to.

"I really, really like this," he said.

Northville Gourmet offers many tastes

"You can't work 100 hours in a week and say 'That was great,' unless you really enjoyed it."

"We've been in the states now for seven years, and I think we've found a home."

Or perhaps it has found them. At the grand opening, a small ceremony was held outside the store. While a light drizzle fell, Cal spoke a few words to gathered visitors before a tree at the east end of the shop's parking lot.

"The day we took the keys to the store, a gentleman came in and introduced himself as Gordy," Cal said. "He was the first one to tell us, 'We come to Northville.'"

Every morning and evening Gordy would drop in to pick up something, or just pass the time of day. Then, a couple of months ago, the man died.

"Gordy Karschnick is still here today," Cal said. "We see him every morning and every evening. He was a real inspiration to us and this business. We dedicate this tree and this plaque to him."

The plaque bears the inscription, "Gordon Lyle Karschnick. A true friend forever."

Network launches membership drive

The Farmington Hills chapter of "The Business Network", a nationwide business referral organization, recently elected new officers, and embarked on an aggressive membership campaign.

The chapter currently has 18 members from 10 neighboring communities. These business people, each from a different profession, meet weekly in an effort to increase their business, through a mutual referral system.

Newly elected officers are: President Mark Ephraim, Vice President of the New Brandy's Flowers in Walled Lake; Vice President Patricia Stahl, President of Stahl Associates Inc. in Birmingham; and Treasurer Mark Aretha, district manager for ADP in Allen Park.

The Farmington Hills group, which is one of 13 Metro Detroit area chapters, holds weekly, Wednesday morning meetings, at the Tollgate 4-H Education Center in Novi.

Founded in 1985, this unique marketing service has generated an unbelievable number of business leads. In fact, last year alone, members of the nationwide group passed on 177,000 leads to each other, which generated an estimated $59 million worth of business.

Locally, during just the past month alone, members of the Farmington Hills chapter exchanged more than 120 potential business leads.

For additional information and/or an invitation to one of the weekly meetings, please call 642-7725.

Money Management

Care still needed when borrowing

Over the past year, banks and other lenders have substantially reduced the interest rates on loans. As a result, borrowing money for a special project or purpose has become more manageable. However, as the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants points out, borrowers should carefully investigate their financing options before making any purchasing and borrowing decisions.

THE REAL COST OF CREDIT CARDS

The lowering of interest rates by banks and other lenders generally has not been reflected in the rates charged by credit card issuers. Interest rates on credit cards tend to be higher than the rates charged on some bank loans. What's more, the interest you pay on credit card balances and other consumer loans is no longer tax-deductible.

If you can't do without the convenience of credit cards, be sure you take the time to compare your cards' annual fees, interest rates, methods for computing interest, and grace periods with those of other cards.

How much interest you're actually paying depends, in part, on the credit card issuer's method for computing interest. Many companies charge an annual percentage rate using the adjusted balance method. This means you are charged interest on what you owe after subtracting your payment from the previous balance. Another way of computing interest and one that is less favorable to you is the previous balance method. With this method, you are charged interest based on your balance at the end of the previous month, regardless of any payments made during that month.

Some credit card issuers charge you interest based on your average daily balance. The credit card issuer will add your balance each day, divide it by the number of days in the billing period, and charge you interest on the average balance.

To avoid interest charges entirely, it's wise to limit the use of your credit card to purchases you are able to pay off within 25 to 30 days. If you are thinking about purchasing big-ticket items, such as those that cost $1,000 or more, be sure to explore other financing alternatives.

THE BENEFITS OF HOME EQUITY LOANS

Expanding or renovating your home may warrant the use of a home equity loan. In most instances, you can borrow up to 80 percent of your home's value, less the balance on your mortgage. What's more, interest rates on home equity loans are likely to be significantly lower than the rate offered by credit card issuers, and the interest on home equity loans of up to $100,000 is generally tax-deductible.

Keep in mind that a home equity loan usually involves paying closing costs to the lender. However, you don't have to go to your current mortgage lender to obtain the loan. Shop around for a competitive interest rate.

Be aware that if you use the proceeds of your home equity loan for purposes other than those related to homeownership or home improvements, you may be subject to the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), since the related interest expense is not deductible for AMT purposes.

WHEN PERSONAL LOANS CAN HELP

If you're having trouble paying off your debts, you may want to consider taking out a personal loan to consolidate them. However, be aware that while personal loans are a valuable source of credit, they tend to be an expensive way to borrow money. The interest rates on personal loans can be several percentage points higher than the interest rates on home equity loans.

KNOW YOUR CREDIT LIMITS

CPAs suggest that you limit the amount of your debt payments, excluding a mortgage, to 20 percent of your after-tax income. They also suggest that you keep track of your outstanding debts and make it a priority to pay off those with the highest interest rates first.

Another plan to appeal to families is hosting pizza parties for children's birthdays, Savedes said. The restaurant can provide just about everything the birthday child might need for a day's worth of fun — the parents just need to sit back and relax while Gus's feeds the youngsters and takes care of cleaning up after them.

While the seating capacity of the restaurant, located in Brookdale Square on Pontiac Trail, is somewhat small, Savedes said he's put in an order for more seats to increase the capacity of the restaurant.

Besides the pizza, salads, sandwiches and ribs most associate with Gus's, Savedes notes the restaurant also does catering with menus including hearty pasta dishes or chicken.

The restaurant's hours are 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon to 9 p.m. Sunday. The phone number is 437-GUSS.

In Memoriam

ROBERT Reed Hardy So many times I needed you, so many times I've cried, if love alone could have saved you, you never would have died. In life you were loved dearly, in death, you are still loved. For in my heart you will hold a place that no one else can fill. It broke my heart to lose you, but you didn't go alone, a part of me went with you, the night God took you home. A heart of gold stop beating, 2 shining eyes in rest, God broke our hearts to prove to us He only takes the best. God knows you had to go to leave us, but you didn't go alone. For each of us went with you, the day God took you home. To some you are forgotten, to others, just part of the past, but to us, who loved you & lost you, your memory will always last. It's a loneliness home without you & I had been the way, for life & home aren't the same, since you were called away. God gave us strength to face it & courage to bear the blow, but what I meant to lose you, no one will ever know. Gloria Hardy & children.

When The Buying Public Is Being Misled It's Time For Someone To Say Something.

There are people taking advantage of you not being able to evaluate items such as diamonds, pearls, colored gemstones, and most fine jewelry. They are claiming highly inflated "retail" prices and advertising so-called "discount" prices, leading you to believe you're getting a "real bargain."

Remember that if a price looks too good to be true, it probably means the beginning price of the jewelry was too high to begin with or the jewelry is of lower quality than you are expecting.

How can you be sure you're getting what you are paying for? Go to someone you trust.....We at Orin's have the knowledge, the integrity, the quality and the service—at the right prices all the time.

We at Orin Jewelers are Graduate Gemologists through the Gemological Institute of America and Certified Gemologists and Registered Jewelers through the American Gem Society. This professional title is awarded to select jewelers who have completed a formal gemological education, have successfully passed rigorous examinations and have proven that their business ethics are above reproach. An AGS title is an annual appointment and must be won by yearly examination.

Orin Jewelers does not advertise over inflated "discounts." You'll find our prices are always fair. If you ever see special pricing on our merchandise, you can be guaranteed that they are very special.

We invite you to stop in and compare our quality, service and everyday fair prices with our competitors. We personally guarantee your satisfaction.

The public is being bombarded by various outlets, so called wholesalers, department stores, jewelry chains and even some independent jewelers — with ads and promotions claiming so-called "discounts" which are so exaggerated that you should question them.

Are they true discounts? Was the merchandise ever really sold at the high "regular" or "former" or "reference" price quoted?

Or, was the merchandise fictitiously priced to lure you into thinking you're getting a bargain?

There's nothing wrong with legitimate discounts...we are against deceptive pricing. You owe it to yourself to shop around and compare quality and service as well as price.
