'Tis the season

New parking plan caters to critics

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The new Mainstreet '93 plan has made its appearance before several city boards in the past two weeks, and drawn reactions ranging from praise to concern.

The plan for two new parking decks and a new lot was revised recently to address criticism from the Michigan Association of Gift Sales, while its $3.8 million financial plan was reconfigured to take into account the loss of school property taxes.

The major change to the new plan was to build a new deck on the lot south of MainCentre and the MAGS building into the hill along Center Street.

The proposed deck — running the length of the lot and abutting Center Street — will resemble the existing Cady Street deck in that its lower level will be accessed from ground level at the south end of the lot while the upper level will be even with the north end of the lot.

The design means that a separate ramp will not be needed to access the upper level, which was one of the problems MAGS officials had with previous plans

Mainstreet '93 would also provide a rebuilt Cady Street deck similar to the existing one that could be turned into a ramped multi-story structure in the future, and a paved, lighted 140- to 160-space parking lot alongside the south side of East Cady.

City staff unveiled the new design Nov. 10 at a special meeting of several city boards including the city council, planning commission, historic district commission and downtown development authority. Several officials at that meeting worried that the Center Street deck's location took up what could be prime real estate for commercial development in the future.

City Manager Gary Word said those concerns continued at a Nov. 16 planing commission meeting, where some commissioners still sought to have the deck's location moved 60 feet to the west to leave that land along Center open for commercial property.

Parking consultant Matt Jobim had noted at the joint meeting that such a move would cost more because the slope of the hill changes and more excavation would be required.

Friends incorporate to clean Mill Pond

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Friends of the Mill Pond have set themselves an ambitious agenda to clean up their waterway.

The group formed in September after years of trying to get Mill Pond cleaned up or dredged. Its goal is to foster efforts to clean up the murky pond, which is filling with silt from upstream construction and algae from lawn fertilizers leaching into the Middle Rouge River that feed it.

The group has incorporated as a non profit organization, setting up an executive board and bylaws to allow it to raise funds for the pond's cleanup. Its first fund-raiser involved printing and selling T-shirts that bore a life preserver logo and the motto "Save Northville's Mill Pond." Friends Chairman Mike Anushgian said the Mill Pond residents decided to take a more hands-on approach earlier this year after years of inaction on the city's part. "We decided 'Hey, we've got to get most of the money if we can,'" he said. "We're going to try and do the whole thing ourselves."

Since then, the group has contracted with the Ann Arbor-based environmental services firm Johnson, Johnson & Roy, Inc. to assess the pond's conditions and recommend improvements. JJR was recommended to the Friends by Cathy Bean, a Department of Natural Resources coordinator who has worked with the group before.

JJR has proposed a multi phase project in which the firm's scientists would study the pond's water quality and analyze the sedimentation for hazardous materials, develop a long range management program and locate possible funding sources. The cost of the first phase, which includes analyzing the pond's condition, is estimated at a maximum of $19,500.

The Friends plan to pay for the study through a combination of public and private sources. Anushgian noted that JJR recently helped the city of Detroit reapply for a $1.2 million DNR grant to clean up waterways on Belle Isle, after the city's original grant request in 1991 was denied.

The second request in 1992 was approved, he said, and the grant will pay for all the improvements.

A JJR representative plans to attend the Friends' Nov. 30 meeting to discuss the project goals and obtain information on recreational use of the pond and its "desired aesthetic character," in the words of JJR's Nov.

The Friends plan to begin seeking grants for the clean-up in December, with JJR's assistance. They hope to complete the first phase by the end of 1994.

Phase Two — development of the long-range management program — would be done by the end of 1995 under the Friends' timetable. Phase Three — implementation and completion of the pond's restoration — would be finished in 1997.

The Friends hope to complete the program without the use of any city funds, though the group hopes that the city will "strongly consider" participating in any matching grant programs through the state.

The city council had hesitated to promise any funds during a Sept. 19 appearance at city hall by the group, citing the city's own fiscal constraints.

Trustees enter negotiations to purchase land

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Trustees are negotiating to buy land from Wayne County officials.

The board of trustees met in a closed session last Wednesday to discuss the land purchase but failed to reach a firm agreement, according to Township Manager Bill Richards.

After meeting behind closed doors for an hour and a half, trustees emerged and voted 5-0 to go forth with a letter of intent that was discussed in the closed session.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja and Trustee Mark Abbo were absent from the Wednesday night special meeting.

The letter of intent was expected to be signed by Baja before it was sent to county officials on Friday, but was stalled because the supervisor was on vacation last week and unavailable to sign it.

The manager said he couldn't release any of the details about the negotiations because the land buy was still being negotiated with the county.

Richards would not confirm nor deny whether the township's proposal included any of the 900 plus acres of land the county owns between Five and Six Mile Road, at

Officials begin groundwork on shared services

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The results of a five-community joint service study are not in yet, but that's not stopping elected officials from the five municipalities from getting a running start.

Chief elected officials and police and fire chiefs in the communities of Northville city and township, Plymouth city and township and Canton Township are already meeting in subcommittees to study the feasibility of consolidating all or parts of their police departments, even though the results of a study officials commissioned in June have yet to be released.

Parts of the study, which is being done by the Criminal Justice Institute (CJI) of Saginaw Valley State University, are trickling in in draft form and seem to indicate some degree of consolidation may be the way to go.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, who chairs the Cooperative Services Steering Committee (CSSC), said Monday the full report was not yet ready for publication because it was still in draft form.

While she didn't want to speculate on the report's final findings, she did say she has seen bits and pieces of the study that lean towards recommending a merger. But nothing is concrete yet because there are too many variables, she added.

Township board seeks summary of lawyer's caseload

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Trustees have taken the advice of their attorney and agreed to meet with him in a closed session to discuss closure of pending lawsuits.

The discussion will take place in a closed-door meeting prior to the Dec. 9 board of trustees meeting and will serve as the second step in reducing the township's legal bills.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said Township Attorney Leonard Krzyzaniak of Vanderveer Garzia has agreed to come forward with all of the pending litigation and provide trustees with a summary of the status of each case.

The clerk said the attorney agreed to share the status of each suit, tell trustees exactly how much it has cost the township to litigate it to date and then provide an estimate of what it will cost township taxpayers to close the case.

"We will find out then if we can settle some cases and if we can get rid of some cases," the clerk said about the closed-door session. "The board is going to have to make some big de-

News Briefs

CLOTHING DRIVE: The Northville Early Bird Kiwanis and the Northville Student Assistance Program at Northville High School are joining with several volunteer students in sponsoring a Clothes for Kids Drive Dec. 1-13. All clothes must be clean and placed in garbage bags. Drop off clothes at the Northville High School counseling office between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Friday. Donations will be taken to Northville Civic Center. For information, call 344-1825.

CORRECTIONS: A letter from Phil Smith that appeared in last Thursday's edition should have said: "Our library is the smallest and most under funded in the area."

Also, a Nov. 22 story on a task force's efforts to gauge interest in a new teen center gave the impression that a Nov. 5 "Youth Activity Night" was hosted by the task force, and incorrectly stated that a series of activity nights planned for early next year would be hosted by the task force. The Nov. 5 activity was coordinated by Northville Parks and Recreation, which would also coordinate the upcoming series of activity nights. Task force members plan to help publicize the events.

BENEFIT AUCTION: A microwave, a 20-inch color television, an oak mantel clock and other items will be auctioned off at Park Place apartments at 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 3. Proceeds from the event will benefit Children's Hospital of Michigan. Many area merchants have donated items for the auction. Call 348-3600 to reserve a seat. Park Place is on Eight Mile between Meadowbrook and Novi Road.

Study leans to police consolidation

"The preliminary numbers may be some indication but there are still a lot of 'ifs,'" she said about the initial results of the study she has seen. "It is really too soon to tell."

Nonetheless, elected officials are moving forward and splitting into subcommittees to study how partial or full consolidation could be achieved if the report and municipal leaders find it advantageous to merge police services.

"We are moving forward in subcommittees to fine tune some of the ideas," Keen-McCarthy said.

Keen-McCarthy said officials from the five communities will remain on the CSSC while two other subcommittees form. Finance directors or appointed representatives from each of the communities will soon be asked to sit on a finance subcommittee to determine the economic viability of consolidation while police and fire chiefs convene to "put more detail and substance into the conceptual thoughts of the consultants," she said.

Police and fire chiefs met for the first time last week to consider merging dispatch, lock-up and record systems, but the CSSC is still not ruling out the idea of full integration.

"We are still exploring the option of a full five-community consolidation," the Plymouth Township Supervisor said.

Keen-McCarthy said the intent of the study was not to aim solely at full integration. She said the firm was asked to explore all of the options starting at merging joint accident teams and ending at full consolidation.

"The intent of the study was to identify various options and see whether or not there were cost-savings available with several of the options," she said.

The supervisor said she wasn't expecting the report to give the communities a bottom line recommendation. Instead, she said she hoped it would serve as a guide for officials to use in their decision-making process.

"(The study) was supposed to look at all of the options or at a sampling of options for doing some type of cooperative involvement between the five police departments," she said. "We will need to look at it and look at what equipment we would need and how it would operate."

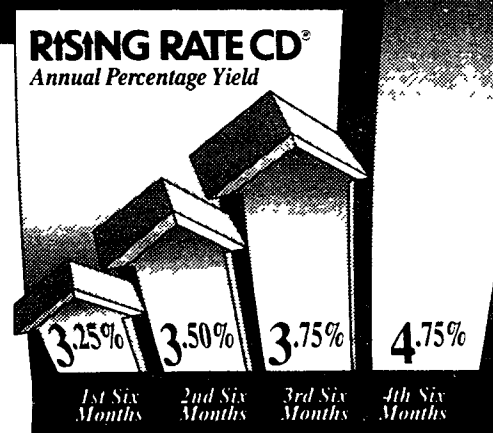

"But since I don't have the final report I don't want to speculate."

Keen-McCarthy said she wasn't sure when the final report would be released.

CDs for people who aren't afraid of heights.

Introducing The Market Rate CD.
Wall Street Thrills Without Wall Street Chills.

Lock Up A Rising Rate With A CD That Won't Lock You In.

This year we're offering you a blue chip opportunity to invest in a new kind of two-year CD. One that allows you to go after Wall Street's potentially higher rates without risking your principal. Your Market Rate CD can be opened with a low $2,000 minimum deposit. At the end of each 52-week period, your interest is calculated based on the average change in the S & P 500® Index** as reported in The Wall Street Journal. And at maturity, you're guaranteed a 100% return of your FDIC-insured initial deposit. The new Market Rate CD. Now the best way to lock in the market's high earnings potential is with a CD that has no risk to principal.

Every six months of its initial two-year term, our Rising Rate CD gives you a guaranteed increase in your interest rate without locking you in. The rate earned for each six-month period rises as the chart above indicates, giving you 4.75% APY during the final six-month period.* You can withdraw all of your investment within the first 10 days of any six-month interval during the initial two-year term without penalty. Or you can make a partial withdrawal without penalty as long as you maintain a $1,000 balance. And the minimum deposit amount is only $1,000. The Rising Rate CD. The liquidity you want, with the guaranteed interest growth you need.

Police News

Several cars have windows shot or smashed in

Township police are investigating several reports of car windows that may have been smashed or shot with a BB gun. A Silver Springs Drive resident told police on Nov. 18 that someone shot through the window of the complainant's 1989 Toyota pick up. The window was still intact with a hole the size of a BB in it when police arrived. Damage was estimated at $250.

The same day, a 33-year-old NorthRidge resident said she noticed the rear window of her 1993 Jeep Wrangler had been shot out, too. She repaired the window for $221.78 before she reported the BB gun blow to police. The driver of a 1986 Ford Mustang said his driver's side door window had been smashed while his car was parked in the Big Lots parking lot on Seven Mile. The damage cost him $140.

A Rocky's of Northville employee told police she suspects her ex-boyfriend may have broken two of her car door windows while she was working at the restaurant last Wednesday. The woman said she left the car parked in the restaurant lot and when she returned the driver and passenger side windows had been smashed.

CAR WINDOW SHATTERED: Someone smashed the window of a car parked at Northville Downs Nov. 18, between 7-11:05 p.m. The car, a black 1980 Pontiac two-door, was parked in the dirt section of the main lot when its passenger-side window was smashed. Damage was estimated at $100.

WARRANT ARREST: Township police arrested a 33-year-old Northville man on Wednesday, Nov. 17, on an outstanding criminal warrant from Livonia. While on patrol, police found the man's 1994 Pontiac Bonneville parked legally across the street from his Northville residence near Seven Mile and Northville Road.

Inside were the man's 5-year-old daughter and 3-year-old son. The children were taken and left with their mother while the man was taken to the station.

FENDER BENDERS: A Farmington Hills woman was ticketed by township police on Thursday, Nov. 18, for failing to yield before making a left hand turn. The woman was in the westbound lane on Eight Mile at Haggerty when she collided with a driver heading east on Eight Mile. According to the police report, the traffic signal was green for east and west bound Eight Mile Road traffic. The woman had a blinking red in the left turn lane. Witnesses say the woman turned left in front of the other driver.

A Novi man suffered minor injuries after his 1987 Olds was struck by a South Lyon woman driving a 1989 Ford van on Seven Mile last Wednesday. Police say the man was stopped at the red light in the right lane when the woman was unable to stop before her van collided with his car. She was ticketed for failing to stop.

LARCENIES AT MEIJER: Township police caught the driver of the getaway car who was waiting in the Meijer parking lot for his friends to come out with the bottle of liquor they stole from the store. Police were called to the store after store detectives witnessed the suspects stealing a bottle of peppermint Schnapps and a Rubbermaid container. The three suspects, a 20-year-old Livonia woman, a 19-year-old Oak Park man and a 19-year-old Livonia man were all arrested.

The three face charges in district court on Dec. 9.

In a separate incident at Meijer on Nov. 22, township police arrested two Detroit females in their thirties for stealing a Sharp electronic organizer valued at $99.94. One of the women, a 33-year-old, gave police a fake name when they first questioned her about the theft. After a check of the name turned up blank, the woman gave police her true identity. A computer check of her name showed an outstanding warrant in Detroit. The pair was arrested and will face larceny charges in 35th District Court on Dec. 13.

OUIL AND NARCOTICS: Township police arrested a 29-year-old Livonia man on Sunday, Nov. 21, for operating under the influence of liquor and possession of marijuana.

The man was driving a red Ford Ranger when police pulled him over for swerving and driving less than the 45 mile per hour posted speed limit at Seven Mile and Haggerty Roads.

According to the police report, the officer smelled a strong odor of marijuana and intoxicants coming from inside the car when he stopped the truck. The officer asked the man and his 29-year-old Redford passenger to step outside the vehicle while he searched it. Inside, police confiscated rolling papers and roaches from the driver side door pocket. The man was taken back to the station and given a Breathalyzer. He was ticketed for OUIL and for possession before he was released on a $100 cash bond.

THREAT AND HARRASSING COMPLAINT: An 18-year-old Northville man is denying a woman's complaint that he threatened her and her family on Friday, Nov. 19. Township police tracked the man down a day after the woman leveled the complaint against him. The woman told police the man came to her door and said he was going to shoot her son and her family. She said he said he would pay her back and told her he had put a "hit" out on a friend of theirs.

The woman told police the man was threatening her because she had turned him in to police for breaking and entering into a home. She said she wanted to press charges against the man, but before police obtained a warrant they wanted to get his side of the story. An officer went looking for the man and discovered he was homeless.

The next day, police found him and questioned him, but he denied it. Instead, he told police he was en route to the woman's home to meet with her daughter when the complainant drove by and asked him to get into her car so she could talk with him. He said she accused him of stealing a video game from her home that she wanted returned before the holidays. If not, she said she would have her son beat him up. He told police he told her "that would be stupid because everyone would get their friends beat up." The man told police the confrontation ended there.

LEATHER LARCENY: A 25-year-old Canton man's black leather jacket was stolen from the coat room at Woolly Bully's Saturday night. According to the police report, the $250 jacket was taken from the coat check room with the man's keys in the pocket. A citizen found the keys in the bar parking lot later that night and returned them to employees at the restaurant, but there was no sign of the missing jacket.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Closed session held to review pending township legal cases

cisions at the December meeting." Hillebrand, who has spearheaded the crusade to cut back on the township's excessive legal bills, said the meeting will give trustees their first opportunity to review the number of cases and the costs they've been paying for litigation.

The clerk has been questioning administrative charges on Krzyzaniak's bills since September. Few of the inquiries she's made to Township Supervisor Karen Baja about the administrative charges on the bills have been answered by the supervisor. Fewer have been credited by the attorney on subsequent bills.

But Hillebrand said Monday she won't stop questioning the bills until the supervisor or the attorney explains why the township was billed for office hours on the Fourth of July and for his attendance at an 11-hour seminar on township law — a seminar Hillebrand said Northville taxpayers shouldn't be paying for.

Before she stops inquiring about the questionable charges, the clerk said she and Treasurer Rick Engeland will stop payment on the charges for the two items in question.

"It is not going to be paid, if it isn't credited," the clerk said about unresolved billings.

Township Manager Bill Richards said Tuesday he has seen a marked decrease in the attorney's latest bill. The firm's September invoice was $19,307, $9,708 less than the $29,015 August bill, which has been the average monthly billing from the firm since July.

Richards wasn't sure if the decrease in the latest bill was a coincidence or a sign that tighter management controls imposed by the board were working.

"Although it is an encouraging sign to see the bills come down substantially, it may be premature to read too much into it. It may or may not be the result of our management controls or it may be just coincidence."

Winning teacher takes new award

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Shirley Klokkenge has done it again.

Winner of last school year's WDIV-Newsweek Teacher of the Year competition, Klokkenge has yet another plaque to hang on her wall.

Named as one of 24 state finalists in Michigan's Teacher of the Year competition for 1993-94, Klokkenge prefers to remain low-key about her awards.

"It's wonderful to receive the honors, but let's go on from here," she said. "I think there's not enough teachers recognized for the work we do."

The award is handed down by the state Department of Education.

It wasn't until after high school that Klokkenge decided on pursuing teaching as a career.

"My childhood wasn't normal or regular," she said, explaining that she lived in various foster homes while growing up in central Illinois.

At an early age Klokkenge's parents divorced, leaving her six brothers and sisters as well as herself wards of the court. The siblings were scattered, placed in either foster or children's homes.

"School became my single thread to stability," she said. "I received the love and nurturing there that is so important during the impressionable years. It was during these years I discovered the importance of the public schools."

Her career was put on hold, though, as she and her husband married while in their teens. Klokkenge worked several years as a tailor to support her husband as he earned a mechanical engineering degree.

Klokkenge's first teaching job was in Inkster. While she raised two sons, she continued her teaching part-time including a stint as a homemaker in a car accident. She also taught in a special vocational day adult program for high school drop-outs.

"This was a very meaningful time for me," she said. "Some unwed mothers were as young as 14 or 15 years old and their only alternative was to drop out of school or abort their unborn child. My classes gave them choices to continue their education."

One particular student in that class will always be remembered by Klokkenge. The student, who was going to drop out of school, passed her a note which read, "I just wanted you to know you are the best teacher I have had in a long time. Because you have faith I could do it so did I."

"I have found that a teacher's attitude has a lot to do with the student's. I realize now I have the capability; I just don't always use it. I feel your class has put me back on the right track. It has given me the confidence that I can do it. I am determined to not just pass, but pass with high grades."

Beginning her teaching career in Northville as a substitute teacher in the early 1980s, Klokkenge became a full-time teacher nine years ago. In addition to her teaching duties, Klokkenge advises the seventh and eighth grade cheerleading squads as well as the forensics team.

When Klokkenge was teaching in the now-defunct John Hill Junior High School in the Wayne-Westland area during the early 1960s, she also sponsored the cheerleading squad. Things were different then.

"We'd meet two to three times a week," she said. "We'd roll up our hair in juice cans and we made our junior high cheerleading uniforms. I almost felt like a mother to these kids as well as being a friend."

At Meads Mill Middle School, Klokkenge teaches four English classes and one speech class. Along with assignments, Klokkenge gives out her home telephone number.

"I usually get four to five calls a night, it varies," she said. "If I assign an essay, I usually get lots of calls asking for help."

The students have even started calling Klokkenge's husband, Donald, a consulting engineer, when they have computer problems.

"The kids do not take advantage of having Klokkenge's home number," she said. "They usually have a legiti-mate question. And parents will call."

Shirley Klokkenge

Klokkenge said she changes her lesson plans every year. A "true believer" in mastery learning, Klokkenge's lessons this year concentrate heavily on being able to write and think clearly.

"Instead of ignoring kids who did not get 85 percent or above on a test, you go back and teach it again and let those kids have the opportunity to take it again," Klokkenge said, explaining the mastery learning theme. "The kids who passed the test the first time get enrichment that deals with the subject area."

Klokkenge said she believes her life experiences lend to her lesson plans. She's worked as a tailor, an executive secretary and has performed many volunteer duties throughout her life.

"I can tell the kids this is what it's like out there," she said.

The teacher did add she would like to work for a newspaper. She wouldn't want any job, however, that would replace her teaching career.

Klokkenge's civic activities also play important roles in the classroom. She views her recent appointment to the Northville Township Planning Commission as a learning tool.

"I think your role model leadership in the community," she said. "By taking a part in the community you know what's going on and can relate it to the kids."

The Klokkengeas have two sons, John, 27, a systems engineer continuing his education at Michigan Tech, and Mark, 21, a helicopter pilot in Sacramento, Calif.

During her summer vacations, Klokkenge decorates the interior of her home via her sewing machine. She was also recently asked to become a youth sponsor at her church.

District library board gets extension of deadline to the end of next year

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville District Public Library Board won a reprieve from the Northville City Council Monday night, giving them eight more months to obtain voter approval of their plan to fund a new district library.

When the city and township agreed to establish a district library board at the start of this year, the board was given until May 1, 1994, to obtain voter approval of a dedicated millage to fund a new district library operation.

The library can seek between 1 and 2 mills a year to fund an expanded operation or an entirely new facility. Board members have identified a site on Cady behind the city hall as their favorite new site.

They are now in the process of polling the community by way of a written survey and telephone poll to determine what the community wants for its library, what services are important and what people are willing to spend.

In a Nov. 1 letter to the city council, board member Lynn Parklan noted that "the library board's goal to stabilize library funding by supporting it with a dedicated millage is no less important or reasonable than it was when the agreement was originally written, but the millage question must be considered in connection with other public financing issues."

As City Manager Gary Word noted Monday, the May 1 deadline did not provide enough time to schedule a vote in the face of uncertainty over state funding of the public school system and state revenue sharing with municipalities like Northville city and township.

"It's been very difficult for the district library board to set a date for a vote, to the point that they've been advised legally that they should probably wait until the summer of 1994," Word said.

Board members are now looking to August as a potential election date. City council members agreed unanimously to extend the board's deadline to Dec. 31, 1994. The board has already won a similar agreement from Northville Township trustees.

The board had sought to have the deadline removed altogether.

Clerk seeks communication, tighter management controls of trustees' use of employees

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand is hoping to improve communication between trustees by asking the board to add study sessions to its monthly meeting line up.

She's also seeking to cut administrative costs by asking trustees to get the township manager's approval before they contact township employees to do work for them.

The clerk said she plans to pitch her proposal for monthly study sessions at the Dec. 9 meeting. She expects then to recommend that trustees add study sessions on the fourth Thursday of each month.

The board meets regularly now at 7:30 p.m. on the second Thursday of every month.

Hillebrand said she hopes the additional meeting will improve the lines of communication between the trustees and the administration, reduce time spent during regular meetings and allow trustees to have more time to digest information before they vote on agenda items.

Study sessions are open to the public, but trustees are not allowed to make decisions or vote on any issues. The sessions would allow trustees to meet and discuss issues as a board before they would have to return to their next meeting and cast a vote.

"I think we have a big problem with communication," she said Monday. "We are just getting too much information too late and then we have to act on it immediately. It's just too quick."

The clerk said she intends to ask trustees to reserve the start of the each study session for any business that has to be carried over from previous meetings.

That portion of the meeting would be noticed and posted as an open board meeting so trustees could vote, she said. The remainder of the study session would be used to discuss — but not vote — on issues that are forthcoming, she said.

"It would just give us an opportunity to bring out everything that we are looking at," she said. "We have a lot of business to take care of and we are basically part-timers trying to take care of everything we need to do in one meeting."

Hillebrand said the sessions would give trustees an opportunity to discuss the issues so they could make informed decisions before they have to come back and vote on them.

"It would make a big difference," she said. "Sometimes I have my mind made up and then I sit there and listen to the discussion and then I have to vote on it. It's too quick."

"It would just be better if we all had time to think about it, make some calls and sleep on it before we had to vote," she said.

The clerk's desire for the additional meeting comes coupled with a memo she circulated to trustees last month asking for their help to improve communication and protocol.

The memo sought direction and discussion from the trustees on their use of township employees and the role of Township Manager Bill Richards.

In the past, the clerk said some of the trustees have contacted department heads directly to have them research trustees' queries. Many, if not all, of the requests were made of the department heads without board approval and in some cases cost the township money in overtime and additional expenses.

Now, Hillebrand is hoping the board will agree that all trustees' requests for work to be done by township employees be approved by Richards before employees respond to the trustees' requests.

The clerk hesitated to affix blame to individual trustees for running up the township employee clock, but did say there have been several incidents when trustees have called department heads on the weekends and asked them to remedy a situation.

"We have had a couple of situations," she said. "And all of us have been guilty of it. There has been a lot of time spent in overtime where no one has authorized it except the trustees."

"It is dangerous when it gets to the point that trustees are telling the department heads what to do," she said. "It shouldn't be that way. All of it should go through the township manager."

The board discussed the matter at the Nov. 11 board meeting, but came to no resolution. The issue surfaced after the board was confronted with the flat-rate sewer fee fiasco and expected to act on the matter that night.

Township Supervisor Karen Baja agreed with Hillebrand's desire to have trustees seek Richards' approval before directing employees to go to work for them.

"I agree with Clerk Hillebrand," the supervisor said during the Nov. 11 meeting. "Again on the flat rate sewer issue, I think I would have handled it differently."

"But I felt as though my back was put to the wall," Baja said about the board's being backed into the corner and forced to make a decision on flat-rate sewer fees.

Block grant funds go to Mill Race

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council on Monday agreed to allocate $8,000 in Oakland County Community Development Block Grant funds to improvements at the Mill Race Historical Village and administrative expenses.

The improvements include installation of barrier-free access at the village's church, which is frequently rented out to the public for weddings and other functions. The barrier-free access is designed to comply with the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

While 10 percent of the total grant will go toward the city's administration expenses, the remainder will be lumped together with left-over Oakland County CDBG funds from 1990 to cover the project's entire $13,200 cost.

After reviewing the allocation request and holding a public hearing, the council approved the request unanimously. No comments were received at the public hearing.

Council Member Paul Folino took the occasion to ask City Manager Gary Word about the status of a city agreement with the Northville Historical Society, which runs the city-owned property. He asked why it was the city's responsibility to build the barrier-free access since the historical society earns revenue from events like weddings at Mill Race.

"We own the buildings and they run it, and basically we have no say in how they run it," he said.

Word noted that the city has prepared a draft copy of an agreement between the city and historical society, which spells out the responsibilities of each party. He said the historical society is still reviewing the draft.

The council also agreed to apply for a one-year waiver from Oakland County to allow it to use the 1990 funds next year. The agreement was included in the council's consent agenda. Without the waiver, the funds will revert to the county since they will not be used before Dec. 31.

The funds had been allocated to barrier-free improvements at the Cady Inn, but those improvements have already been funded by Wayne County CDBG funds.

Because it straddles the border of Wayne and Oakland, the city of Northville receives grants from both counties under the federal Housing and Urban Development's CDBG program. The amount of the grants are based on the city's census population, number of low- and moderate-income residents and the number of overcrowded housing units.

The grants are intended to benefit low- and moderate-income residents, and senior citizens, and the city has had trouble in the past locating projects that meet the conditions.

Paperboys and girls needed to staff annual Rotary Club Goodfellows drive

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville Rotary Club is still looking for a few good men — and women — to help staff its annual Goodfellows newspaper drive.

The drive, which has been a yearly Northville event for decades, involves volunteers stationed at key city and township intersections who hand out commemorative editions of the Northville Record printed especially for the occasion.

Coordinator Charles Keys said Monday that he has signed up some 25-30 volunteers for the day-long Dec. 4 drive, but he's looking for up to 20 more. His goal is to raise a record $15,000 this year.

Last year's drive raised $8,400, while volunteers the year before pulled in $5,500. All the money raised goes to Civic Concern, the Northville-based non-profit organization that provides food and emergency assistance to individuals and families in financial distress.

Keys is looking for volunteers throughout Northville, particularly those from the school system and municipal officials and workers from city and township halls. Keys also invited husbands to bring their wives along, or vice versa. Couples who wish to be stationed at the same intersection will be, he said.

"Bring your spouses out and make an afternoon of it," he suggested.

Shifts run for two hours between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Volunteers are asked to show up at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St., 15 minutes before their designated shift.

To volunteer, call Keys at 349-3348. To donate to the fundraiser without picking up a special edition of the Northville Record, send your donation, in care of the Goodfellows drive, to the Northville Rotary Club, 200 E. Main St., Northville, MI 48167.

Commissioner wins ordinance to park county cars

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township Trustees aren't the only ones looking to park elected officials' use of taxpayer-owned vehicles.

Wayne County Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, has convinced county commissioners to ban county officials from using county-owned cars for business and personal use.

McCotter drafted and sponsored the ordinance which passed through commissioners' hands last month.

In addition to eliminating county cars for elected officials and their staffs, the new policy eliminates flat-rate mileage reimbursement for officials as well.

County officials will no longer be allowed to use cars for personal use, and provisions of the new ordinance will require county officials to purchase the most economically efficient cars and provide better records of car purchases and uses.

"This ordinance will promote accountability and economy within the county's vehicle fleet," said McCotter, a member of the Commission's Audit Committee. "While short-term savings will be realized, its true benefit to taxpayers will be the realization of long-term savings. Finally, Wayne County will know what vehicles it has and, most importantly, what vehicles it needs."

McCotter called the ordinance a "landmark reform" in county government because representatives from the commission and from the County Executive's office collaborated on the draft proposal.

"This ordinance is proof that all branches of county government can cooperate and put aside personal politics to constructively change public policy," he wrote in a press release announcing the vehicle policy. "It isn't easy, but it's necessary. And everyone involved deserves credit for this accomplishment."

Township officials are eying a similar policy but have yet to act on a proposed plan submitted by Township Clerk Hillebrand. Trustees tabled the measure at their Nov. 11 meeting because they were split on language that banned all elected officials' use of township-owned cars for any reason.

Township meets behind closed doors to discuss land purchase

Sheldon and Beck.

The manager also hesitated to say that negotiations had anything to do with the county's looming plan to restructure the Huntington Falls residential project, a multi-million dollar residential and commercial plan that at one time included an 18-hole golf course. That plan fell through two years ago when Plymouth developer, Robert A. DeMattia, lost financial backing for the $36 million plan.

County officials have reportedly been negotiating with DeMattia and other developers to get a revised plan in place. They had hoped to announce a new developer in October, according to Bill Wild, director of business development, but mum's the word from county officials who have yet to make a decision on who will manage and/or develop the land that once housed the Wayne County Child Development Center.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said she hopes the township's letter gets to county officials so trustees can release the details of the proposed deal to Northville taxpayers as soon as possible.

"The five of us who were there (at the meeting) would like to see it get to the public real quick," she said Monday. "I'm hoping we hear something today or tomorrow."

The Record was denied a copy of the letter of intent after the board voted to approve its contents last Wednesday. When asked whether the board's affirmative vote meant trustees motioned to purchase land at Wednesday's meeting, the manager said "sort of."

Hillebrand said the letter of intent was just the first step in the negotiations process.

"Our intent was to enter into negotiations to purchase land from Wayne County," she said.

The clerk said the idea to purchase land from the county surfaced in negotiations between township and county officials to resolve delinquent taxes Wayne County owes Northville Township.

At the board's direction, the clerk said the manager, treasurer and supervisor have been meeting with county officials to discuss ways to get Wayne County to cough up the estimated $600,000 it owes in back taxes.

Hillebrand and Richards expected the letter of intent to be sent to county officials as soon as Baja reviewed it this week. The clerk said the details of the land purchase would be made public if and when the township and county reached an agreement.

Pollution control changes up in air

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Maybe drivers will pay more for emissions tests. Maybe they won't. Maybe Livingston County will be in the test area. Maybe it won't. Maybe incinerator permits will cost more. Maybe not.

The Michigan Legislature passed its air pollution control bills in time to meet the federal Nov. 15 deadline. But whether changes are made will depend on whether the feds change the southeastern region's designation from "non-attainment" to "attainment" of air quality standards.

"This is good news for Michigan's environment and economy," said Gov. John Engler as he signed the state legislation into law three days ahead of the deadline. But at the same time, Engler said he would "aggressively pursue all possible options" to ease "the unfair regulatory burdens imposed by the new federal law."

Acting under the federal Clean Air Act of 1990, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said two regions of Michigan had more ozone and dirtier air than allowable.

First, the seven-county southeastern Michigan region was told to improve its air 15 percent below 1990 levels by the year 1996. Previously, Wayne, Oakland and Macomb were subject to federal edicts. The new rule brought in Washtenaw, Livingston, St. Clair and Monroe counties.

Second, the western counties of Kent, Ottawa and Muskegon were told they needed emissions programs. They howled in protest, declaring their dirty air, if any, was blown across Lake Michigan from Milwaukee, Chicago and Gary.

Chuck Hersey, air quality planner for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, gave this analysis of what is law — or may be:

■ The oil industry will move to a different blend of gasoline to reduce vapor pressures. Motorists might pay 2 cents per gallon more. The region will not move to totally "reformulated" fuels.

■ Drivers will not have to take their vehicles to centralized test sites for their annual $10 emissions tests. The neighborhood service station can continue to perform the tests — a victory for the dealers' lobby. But the tests will be more elaborate and cost $13. And the cap on required repairs will rise from the current $84 to $200.

■ Washtenaw County definitely will join Wayne, Oakland and Macomb as being subject to the emissions tests. Livingston, St. Clair and Monroe won't be added unless definitely needed to meet EPA standards.

■ Smokestack permits will cost $25 per ton of emissions. Previously, the federal government paid the costs of running the program. Now, business will pay, to cover the cost of administration. Subject to the act are not only factories but large apartment buildings, dry cleaners, incinerators, auto body bump and paint shops.

"The forms aren't complicated, but they must be filled out. Congress knew it would be onerous," Hersey said of the smokestack bill.

■ If the region fails to get EPA redesignation, the Legislature will have 45 days to improve Michigan's laws.

If Michigan had failed to pass laws to meet EPA's standards, the U.S. government could have withheld an annual $600 million in federal highway funds and all smokestack permits, crippling business growth. Then EPA would have enforced its own rules on the region.

Lawmakers also are seeking redesignation for the three western counties. If not redesignated, they too would be subject to the emissions tests laws.

Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, voted against the smokestack bills because of their impact on smaller firms.

"Michigan must raise about $14.5 million to administer these programs," she said. "The most reasonable way to assess these fees is obvious: Each industry would pay an equal share of the cost through an assessment on every ton of pollutants emitted."

"The legislation we passed, however, levies the highest per-ton fees on smaller emitters with a break going to industries emitting over 4,000 tons of pollutants per year."

"What we have done is encourage air pollution by the biggest polluters while raising the fees on industries emitting lesser amounts."

Her amendment to cut the fee per ton from $25 to $12.50 was rejected. Sens. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, and Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, joined Pollack in voting no on several of the bills but did not enter formal protests into the Senate Journal.

After pondering the seven bills for 10 months, the Legislature gave them final approval in a single day — Nov. 10 — amid great confusion over amendments and amendments to amendments.

Santa Claus will join carolers at downtown bandshell tomorrow

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The sounds of sleigh bells and song will echo down Main Street this Friday, Nov. 26, as the Main Street Bandshell hosts a visit from St. Nick and a bevy of Christmas carolers.

Santa Claus is scheduled to arrive at the Bandshell at 6 p.m., atop a float built by Historic District residents and featuring reindeer and elves. WDIV Channel 4 news anchor Rich Mayk will emcee the event.

Following Santa's arrival, carolers, including a local Girl Scout troop, will entertain the crowd with traditional carols, and song sheets will be handed out so that people can sing along. Hot chocolate and cookies provided by Crawford's Restaurant will also be on hand.

Residents are also asked to bring a canned food item along with them. The items will be turned over to the Northville-based charitable organization Civic Concern.

This Friday also marks the start of extended hours for all downtown shops, with stores remaining open until 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights and until 6 p.m. Saturdays. Sunday hours will run from noon to 5 p.m. through the holiday shopping season.

Santa returns to his headquarters at the Great Harvest Bread Co. on Saturdays and Sundays between noon and 5 p.m. Nov. 27-28, Dec. 4-5 and Dec. 11-12.

Before heading back to the North Pole, Santa will have lunch with the community at the Community Recreation Center Dec. 18, between 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. To register for Santa's lunch, call Northville Parks and Recreation at 349-0203.

Mill Race Matters

Thanksgiving seems a perfect time to offer thanks to the many members and friends in this community who have aided Mill Race Village. Thanks to loyal members who have continued in their financial and physical support throughout the year. Thanks to docents who aid in the effort to keep the village open for all to enjoy. Thanks to the many garden groups and individuals who have worked on projects to keep the grounds in beautiful condition year round. Thanks to the guys who regularly look after interior and exterior maintenance of the many buildings. Thanks to workers on standing committees like the Quarterly staff, the Archives Committee, Wash Oak Docents, the Wedding Supervisors and those who worked on the many special events: the Progressive Dinner, Fourth of July, Victorian Festival picnic, and Christmas Walk. Particular thanks as well to all who joined in the effort to create another successful Tivoli Fair raising half of the organization's operating budget. And naturally thanks to the one paid staff member who regularly donates at least double the time to see that the village continues to operate smoothly and efficiently.

Members are thankful of the dedicated collection of hard workers who make up the Historical Society Board. Many of them put in long, volunteer hours after their regular workdays. It has been a difficult year, plagued by a number of unanticipated trials, but they have continued to proceed ahead with plans for the future of Mill Race Village, for the betterment of the community. It is gratifying to see the beauty and progress which Mill Race has made since its beginning less than 20 years ago.

Thanks also to the community which has continued in its support throughout those long years. Thanks not only for the special gifts, but for the continued interest in this community's history. May that support continue to grow to benefit everyone in this area. Thank you to those from outside the community as well, most particularly, recognition should go to the Yerkes Ladies, a group of members of Plymouth's Latter Day Saints Church who come once each month to donate a morning and clean the Yerkes House.

Any list of thank yous is certain to exclude someone so let this thank you refer to that group. The operation of Mill Race Village takes uncountable volunteer hours. Thanks to all who in any way participate in this worthwhile endeavor.

Mainstreet '93 fine-tuned in meetings

Word noted Monday that the increased cost for that move would be "in excess of $100,000." He added that MAGS President Jim Mills made clear in a Nov. 16 letter that such a move would be "totally unacceptable" to his association.

"So I have a cost increase plus resistance from a major taxpayer that would be directly impacted by it," Word said.

MAGS had actively opposed the original version of Mainstreet '93 that called for a tabletop deck with an external ramp covering the northeast quarter of the lot, taking out a full-page color advertisement in The Northville Record days before a crucial July 27 vote on the plan. The vote passed by a narrow margin.

Word said that the association has not taken such strong opposition to the latest version, although MAGS members still favor the Mainstreet '92 proposal for a single multi-story ramped structure on the site of the current Cady Street deck.

Mainstreet '93 took a back seat before the city's historic district commission at the commission's Nov. 17 meeting, and commissioners tweaked the design slightly.

Mayor Chris Johnson, who also serves as the commission's chairman, said commissioners spent more than an hour reviewing several designs for the stair and elevator tower that will connect the lower level of the new Center Street deck to MainCentre by way of a pedestrian bridge.

The commission reviewed the Center Street design unveiled Nov. 10 as well as four alternate designs sketched by the parking consultant since the joint meeting, and favored the original design which picked up several architectural cues from the MainCentre building, he said.

"We saw it as being softer and blending in better, rather than being separate and distinct," Johnson said. Commissioners did suggest shifting the east wall of a rebuilt Cady Street deck several feet to the west to allow an external pedestrian access between Cady and Mary Alexander Court, Johnson said.

While several parking spaces will be lost, the change will allow people parking at the new Cady Street lot to walk up to Main Street without cutting through the deck.

"It actually puts that wall in the same location that the Mainstreet '92 design would be," Johnson said.

The new Mainstreet '93 plan was also scheduled to be reviewed by the city's downtown development authority Tuesday, Nov. 23, after the Record's Thanksgiving holiday deadline.

Mainstreet '93 still needs formal site plan approval from the planning and historic district commissions. Word said he does not expect the project to be ready to go out to bid until late January or February of next year.

City officials hope to begin construction next spring and complete the project before the Christmas, 1994, shopping season.

Have you seen the all new

WEBER'S GRAND CAFE

Our first love has always been the serving of high quality meals at affordable prices. We began this tradition back in 1937 when we opened "Weber's Restaurant." Although some people think our hotel came first, it was actually added some thirty-three years later.

We recently spent weeks remodeling our main dining room, cooking up new lunch and dinner offerings, and fine tuning our service techniques, to bring you the all new "Weber's Grand Cafe."

But rest assured that we kept all your favorites on the menu, and we didn't raise the prices.

As a special invitation to experience our new "Grand Cafe" we're offering you the attached certificate good for dinner for two for just $20.

$20 DINNER FOR TWO

When you present this certificate, you and a guest will enjoy any two dinner entrees (priced under $14), our homemade bread and house salad, all for just $20.

Choose from over twenty entrees, including our reserve cut of Roast Prime Rib, Chargrilled Norwegian Salmon, or Seafood Fettuccine to name but a few.

Certificate valid Sunday through Friday, now through December 30th, 1993. Not valid in conjunction with any other promotional offers.

School partnership program wins grant funds

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

A recognized program and a little bit of luck were factors in Northville schools getting an extension of a business partnership grant.

Jan Purtell, coordinator for the Business/Education Partnership program for the district, said Northville was one of only two schools to get extensions of the SERVE-Michigan grant.

"It's wonderful and it's nice to be recognized," Purtell said. "This will give me more hours to spend in the district and more time to spend in other districts in developing a state model program."

Early this year Purtell was recalled to her position as project supervisor for the partnership program. It was a post she had held for over two years beginning in 1989 before the expiration of a Department of Education grant and district cutbacks forced her lay-off.

The current grant, which awarded Northville $10,000, is set to expire in December. The new grant, in the amount of $9,200, will include funding for Purtell to work approximately seven hours per week within Northville and seven hours a week "modeling" partnerships for other Michigan communities and schools.

The grant hours will be combined with Northville's allocation, which allows Purtell to work 15 hours per week.

"The money we get from our school district will be specifically used in Northville," Purtell said. "The grant we just got allows me some more time in Northville."

Part of the grant will also be used to write an updated handbook on developing business education partnerships. Purtell will be working on the project with Dearborn community officials.

"It will include steps on how to set up a partnership, how an advisory council is set up, the nuts and bolts of how to match a business partner with a school," Purtell explained.

The 12-step manual will replace the current handbook which is about seven years old.

As far as the future of Northville's program, Purtell said she is still back-pedaling from last year.

"At this point the partners we have going are stable," she said.

But she is always looking for new partners and is examining a new area of partnership — service learning.

"(Service learning) is where you take what the kids are learning and instead of linking that with a business, you link it with a non-profit organization by doing a service project," Purtell said. "That way the kids are actively involved in what they're learning."

Mary Culik's high school environmental science class recently demonstrated service learning when it removed tires and bed springs from one of the nature trails at Maybury State Park.

"They put what they learned into action," Purtell said. "That's a different kind of link to what we're doing."

Other examples are comparable to what another district is doing. Students are writing brochures for their local chamber of commerce.

"They're doing something that's tangible," Purtell said.

Beefing up the partners is also a big goal of Purtell's.

"One area of particular interest is a Society of Auto Engineers (SAE) project," she said. "I need engineers."

Two years ago the Detroit chapter of the national-based SAE came into Northville schools to help students complete projects. The fifth graders teamed up to build cars out of milk cartons. The cars were tested and the students collected data.

"There was a scientific process they walked the kids through, but it was lots of fun, too," Purtell said, adding the project also fostered teamwork.

The sixth graders' project was a little more sophisticated. Students took Matchbox cars and conducted tests based on different inclines.

Of course, other businesses are welcome to share their expertise with students. Purtell is currently ironing out a "Resource Partners" program, which places business people "on call."

The program will include business partners requested by a sampling of teachers who filled out surveys asking which experts they would like to have come in and share their skills with students.

The top 10 interest areas included communications, health, writers/authors, science, theater, advertising, publishing, chemistry, drama and computers.

"The schools are ready for more than one partner now," Purtell said.

The SERVE-Michigan grant is part of a national SERVE-America grant the state Department of Education applies for. Michigan received $600,000 in monies from the national grant.

Partners named to advisory council

Members of the 1993-94 Business/Education Advisory Council include: Frank Cadicamo; Peg Campbell, UofM Health Centers; Christina Castellano, Moraine Elementary teacher; Chris Clinton-Cali, Old Village School director; Gary Fischer, Maybury State Park; Vickie Greiner, Old Village School; and Mary Gyorke, assistant vice-president and Northville branch manager, Community Federal Credit Union.

Also included are Bo Hall, Northville High School teacher; Karin Hardin, Cooke Middle School teacher; Bill Henninger, Dow Corning Automotive Development Center; Tom Johnson, principal, Northville High School; Dave Kowalski, Hewlett-Packard; and Jeff Lightfoot, Amerman Elementary teacher.

Also on the council are John Mahler, branch manager, NBD Bank; Laurie Marrs, Northville Chamber of Commerce; Colleen McKee, Early Childhood Development; Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent; Mary Mende, Bryant School; Jim Milliken, Meijer, Inc.; and Kathleen Mroz, Meads Middle School teacher.

Other participants are Anne

Other members are Joe Steinman, McDonald's; Lee Snider, editor, The Northville Record; Pat Suman, Standard Federal Bank; George Surdu; Marie Thomas, Silver Springs Elementary teacher; Becky Weiss, Winchester Elementary teacher; and Scott Wilson.

Space-Gard clears the air . . .

Cleans the air of particles you can't even see!

The air we live in and breathe is loaded with dust and pollutant particles (as many as 30 million per cubic foot). Most of these particles are so tiny that only 15% of them are trapped by panel air filters. The remaining 85% are recirculated throughout the home. The Space-Gard air cleaner effectively removes the particles that ordinary filters can't.

Its effectiveness has been thoroughly tested using the Dust Spot Efficiency section of ASHRAE Standard Test Procedure No. 52-76 (the same test used to determine other high efficiency air cleaner performance). Utilizing this test procedure, at 1200 cfm the Space-Gard air cleaner average efficiency is 65%, and its efficiency increases as it loads to 88%.

To further substantiate the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner, it has also been tested to accurately determine efficiency on various size particles. The efficiency of any air cleaner varies with the size of the particles in the circulated airstream. On 6 micron particles, for example, the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner is very close to 100%.

The important advantage of the Space-Gard air cleaner is that efficiency increases as it loads—and reaches 98% efficiency on particles as small as 1 micron. Efficiency ratings of the particle size tests with clean, partially loaded and loaded media are reported in the table at lower right.

MEA refuses check-up on health care payouts

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The state's largest teachers union refused to give lawmakers — or school districts — its health care payouts and opposes competitive bidding for health insurance.

"I don't provide that data to anyone," said Warren Culver, executive director of the controversial MESSA — Michigan Education Special Services Association.

MESSA strongly opposed bills requiring school districts to seek competitive bids for health care insurance — something school boards and Republican legislators say could save taxpayers millions.

"Competition may increase costs," Culver replied.

MESSA is an arm of the 127,000 member Michigan Education Association. As a third party administrator (TPA), MESSA buys insurance from Blue Cross and administers benefits for 80,000 school employees, 10 percent of them administrators.

Unlike private industry or other governments, school boards agree in their collective bargaining contracts to use MESSA as health benefits administrator rather than seeking competitive bids.

"If you buck local (MEA) units on MESSA, it's a strike issue," said Tom White, director of governmental affairs for the Michigan Association of School Boards. "Often it (MESSA) is their highest priority."

MASB backs the bills to require competitive bidding, White said, because "health care costs are rising faster than revenues. It's going to eat into our ability to teach children."

"In the private sector, unions cooperate with management to keep costs down. We don't feel that cooperation in the schools."

King told a state Senate Commerce subcommittee MESSA pays an estimated $1.6 million to the parent union for "universe" field representatives who promote MESSA contracts.

King added that MESSA pays $6 million or more to another arm of MEA for data processing.

MEA's critics contend the union is a "monopsony" — a monopoly seller of teacher services and buyer of health services.

White said school districts are unable to seek competitive bids on health insurance without claims data — which MESSA's Culver refused to provide.

Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Eastpointe, asked Culver, "How would your situation worsen if school districts were required to bid out health insurance?"

Culver said MESSA uses "community ratings" rather than experience ratings for small groups. He said community ratings are larger and fairer, especially for small school districts with a handful of teachers. There are five such community rating pools in the state.

If districts with good experience ratings pulled out of MESSA, he said, costs would shoot up for smaller districts where a single serious illness could have a drastic impact on loss experience.

"Health insurance is part of the total compensation package. School boards can't do it alone," Culver said.

Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, asked whether the tiny Parchment School District could be given its loss experience.

"No," Culver replied. "We rate by large rating areas, not by Parchment School District."

Culver said MESSA checks rates of other insurers "from time to time" but finds Blue Cross and Blue Shield have the best rates and benefits. He said Saginaw saved $600,000 and Flint $3 million by switching from the Blues to a third party deal with MESSA.

Senators and MASB noted teachers are so loyal to MESSA that they will strike if a school board looks at another claims administrator.

"MESSA was begun in 1962,"

Culver said, "because school employers did not provide coverage. It's an outstanding program that inspires loyalty."

MESSA became a licensed third party administrator under a state law passed in 1985.

Culver said MESSA costs are "below the industry average," have risen an average of less than 6 percent a year, and this year rose just 3.9 percent.

Bills sponsored by Welborn would require school boards to seek competitive bids and require the Blues and MESSA to release data on numbers of paid claims, numbers and amounts of claims above $5,000, claims by coverage component and rate data.

A deputy state insurance commissioner was unable to testify on the Department of Commerce's views because of a court restraining order obtained by MESSA.

Hal Ziegler gave only factual background on regulations and audits of insurance companies.

MESSA is suing to block a state audit because, Culver said, that audit is "a witch hunt well beyond their scope."

Welborn's subcommittee did not vote on the bills and will continue its hearings next week.

Gov. John Engler supports requiring competitive bidding as a method of controlling school costs.

The relationship between MESSA and the data processing subsidiary was a large part of a much reprinted Forbes magazine article attacking the parent NEA as the "National Extortion Association."

Parents learn lessons, too, after parent exchange at middle school

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Approximately 100 parents accompanied their children into the classrooms at Cooke Middle School last Wednesday.

They answered questions in class and ate lunch in the cafeteria.

"The school I went to, no food was served," Karen Reaume, the mother of seventh grader Robby, said as she ate a hot lunch in the school's cafeteria. "We brown-bagged it or went home. This is great."

What was even more great, though, was getting the chance to see her son's teacher interact with the students.

"It's a lot different than when I went to school," Reaume said. "There's much more dialogue between the teachers and students. Teaching methods are different."

Irene Fleming was back again this year for parent exchange day. She spent the afternoon with Alex, her seventh grade son.

"I want to see how he has changed," Fleming said, finishing her lunch before running off to class. "I really appreciate this invitation from the school and I appreciate everyone making me feel welcome. Especially the kids."

Reaume said she was sort of relieved after spending the morning with her son.

"It puts things into perspective," she laughed. "I realized all those other kids act just as goofy. I feel better knowing that."

Cindy Benedict, mother of seventh grader Kim, was most impressed with the "interdisciplinary learning going on in all the classrooms."

For example, in English class there were posters of South Africa and flags of all the nations displayed. "That ties in with social studies," Benedict said.

The parent added that cooperative learning is going on everywhere, especially in word processing.

"The kids help each other if somebody doesn't understand something," Benedict said.

In her daughter's English class, students read poems using metaphors.

"The participation (was) amazing," Benedict said. "They got up and volunteered to read their poems. They critiqued each other's poems in a kind way."

Benedict also attended her daughter's social studies and teen and law classes. She said the middle school concept is alive and working.

The seventh grade team is working together, that really came through," she said. "It all blends together. I was also pleased to see the respect kids have for each other. That was a school improvement goal. This is a great school. I give a lot of credit to the staff. In English I wanted to raise my hand and participate."

During his lunch hour in the teacher's lounge, science teacher Tim Lutes said the parent exchange day was going well.

"The parents are really appreciative," he said. "They're mostly just observing. I've had some comments about the hands-on activities and they've answered some questions, too."

Pat Stebbins, a foreign languages teacher, said parents had the opportunity to see what was going on in the school rather than just what homework assignment their child brings home.

"It's a wonderful (program) to do," Fleming said. "You get the chance to observe your child in a typical setting. This is a normal day."

"You get to watch your child with their peers and how he interacts with the teacher . . . I think it's worthwhile for any school and if they invite me, I'll be back again next year."

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slowly. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. Just like the "ring" that sticks to the side walls of your bathtub, this gook sticks to the inner side walls of your pipes.

Old-fashioned drain openers cannot remove this build up. They run along the bottom of your pipes. Even a small tunnel in the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind!

Now you can make your pipes run like new with Piomb Clean®. Not a drain opener, it's an advanced plumbing cleaner. Its revolutionary one-of-a-kind formula attaches and penetrates into the waste. Then, in just one to three weeks, it liquifies years of build up that drain openers can't even reach. Cleans from sink to sewer, not just the trap. Piomb Clean® is so effective it is money-back guaranteed!

SAVE MONEY. Because drain openers can't reach the gook on the sides of your pipes you have two choices. Call a plumber and spend $60-$120, or save money and use Piomb Clean®.

Now don't be fooled by look-alikes. Their label has safety cautions instead of a guarantee. And since they aren't as strong, their directions have you use twice as much. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Piomb Clean® today!

Novi city officials fully intend to keep the Christmas tree lot

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

The Grinch is not "stealing" the Christmas tree farm. Although the property on Twelve-and-a-half Mile Road was purchased early this year by the City of Novi for a park, enthusiasts of the cut-your-own pine plantation are still welcome.

The city "absolutely" plans to continue to run the operation and make a profit to help develop the new park. Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis said. He expects to sell about 500 trees at $35 apiece, reaping $17,500 in much-needed cold cash. Opening day is Saturday, Dec. 4. "We're anticipating a pretty good turnout," Davis said.

When voters agreed in January 1993 to a $9.9 million sale of city bonds to finance the purchase of park land, no money in that sum was set aside to actually develop the acreage.

Last year, the previous owners of the Novi Tree Farm sold the Christmas trees for $45 apiece. Davis said market research done by the Parks and Recreation Department indicated that this price might be high, hence the $10 reduction.

But it'll be more than big business at the tree farm. Davis said the city plans to set up a tent and serve free coffee and hot chocolate to residents who want to look over the new park. Free hayrides will also be offered.

The tree sales will be run like a parks and recreation program, with staff members doing the work. One staffer, Steve Tillman, also worked at the tree farm and Davis said he's filled the city in on the operational details.

"We'll utilize his knowledge," Davis added.

When the Novi Tree Farm was a business, the owners didn't just depend on the December holidays to pay the bills. There's also a nursery for landscaping-type trees.

Davis said plans are underway to make money for the park from this operation as well, although it's not yet been determined if the saplings will be sold just to landscaping contractors or to individual purchasers as well.

Residents are invited to come out to the farm on Saturdays Dec. 4, 11 and 18 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Sundays, Dec. 5, 12 and 19 from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Thursdays, Dec. 9 and 16 from noon to 4:30 p.m. and Fridays, Dec. 10 and 17, from noon to 4:30 p.m.

The park is at 44030 Twelve-and-a-half Mile Road, just west of Novi Road. For more information, call 347-0400.

Genittis' breaks a leg to roof storage shed at township park

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation fund-raiser at the Genittis' Little Theater raised $1,470 for the Northville Community Park on Beck Road, said Friends Chairman Mary Gans.

The Nov. 18 fundraiser was designed to help defray the cost of roofing a refurbished storage shed at the park between Five and Six Mile roads. The $4,600 project was completed earlier this month.

When the Friends turned to the Genittis for help funding the project, the restaurateurs and producers were more than happy to help. The Genittis split the proceeds from their $35 tickets with the Friends for the 84 tickets purchased for the evening dinner and performance of their Murder Mystery.

Gans said he was pleased with the response.

"This was just our night," he said. "I thought that was great to get that many people out."

The cinderblock building just off Beck Road had housed water pump equipment for the city of Plymouth before it was converted into a storage facility for the maintenance equipment and automatic sprinkler system that will keep the park's seven ball fields in shape.

Because the old flat roof on the building leaked, it was replaced with a peaked version.

Homeowners may come out winners in school finance

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Homeowners get a "win-win" deal under either version of a compromise school finance plan unveiled by a 14-member bipartisan group of state representatives.

"Either plan is better than the status quo," said House Taxation Committee co-chairman Willis Bullard Jr., R-Highland.

The compromise plan restores $6.7 billion to schools, to replace $6.9 billion in property taxes, regardless of whether voters approve a sales tax hike early in 1994. The Taxation Committee, chaired by Bullard and Lynn Jondahl, D-Okemos, will take up the plan today. House passage could come as early as Nov. 29.

The outline:

- If voters reject a 2-cents sales tax hike, homeowners will pay 16 mills in property taxes and see their personal income tax rates rise to 6 percent from the current 4.6 percent, though exemptions will be hiked.
- If voters hike the sales tax, their homestead property taxes will fall to nine mills and their personal income tax rates to 5.3 percent. Currently, Michigan property owners pay 34 mills in school operating property taxes.

"A 'no' vote is not a return to the status quo," said Rep. Susan Munsell, R-Howell. She said a tax plan will be in place even if voters reject the constitutional amendment for a sales tax hike.

Businesses and owners of second homes will pay 20 mills, regardless of the voters' decision. Businesses will see the single business tax (SBT) rate go up 0.6 percent to 2.95 percent; that will be rolled down to the current 2.35 percent if the sales tax plan passes.

The compromise solves a problem that gave school people nervous fits:

If voters rejected Gov. John Engler's plan, built largely around a Feb. 8 sales tax proposal, schools would be short several billion dollars in fall of 1994. The compromise contains a fallback plan that doesn't need voter approval.

Bullard said he and many Republicans will support the shift to the sales tax, but said the other plan is "workable." "It's the best plan for high-spending districts," he said, referring to suburban Oakland and Wayne counties.

"Both plans are based on a stable tax mix," said Rep. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake. "It's a very good plan for Oakland County schools."

Suburban members agreed their school districts came out of the negotiations better than they might have anticipated a couple of weeks ago. Here is how the money will be distributed:

■ The state will make a basic "foundation grant" of $5,000 per pupil. Districts that spend only $3,000 will have their state aid increased 10 percent ($300 per pupil) a year. Engler had proposed a $4,500 foundation. The compromise version is aimed at the "equity" problem — the wide disparity between resources for the richest ($9,000) and poorest ($2,500) districts.

■ The state will "hold harmless" districts that spend between $5,000 and $6,500 per pupil — it won't cut their revenue. Next year they are guaranteed at least a 3 percent increase.

■ Districts spending more than $6,500 per pupil may levy additional property tax millage to make up the difference. They may levy enough to give themselves a $195 boost (3 percent of $6,500) in fall of 1994. This provision would apply to about 35 of the state's 562 districts.

■ Intermediate (county) school districts — but not individual school districts — may levy "enrichment" taxes of 4 mills to be spread equally on a per-pupil basis across the county.

Republican co-speaker Paul Hillegonds of Holland called it "a very good compromise — one I can support — very good policy." He said Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus and Gov. Engler had been kept abreast of the outlines. He said Engler was "non-committal."

Democratic co-speaker Dennis Hertel of Detroit was cooler, saying Democrats want to see what the school reform bills look like before agreeing to the tax package. Democrats generally dislike Engler's "charter" school plan and "choice" plan.

Hillegonds was reassuring. The GOP chief said some details affecting unions were out of the deal, but "cost containment" is still on his party's agenda.

The finance plan contains one legal trick to get around the Headlee tax limitation amendment to the Michigan Constitution. That provision limits state taxation to 9.49 percent of income — $3.8 billion in new taxes, although more than $6 billion are needed.

The trick is that the 16 mills homestead tax will be levied by local school districts, so legally it's a local tax. Bullard said school boards will have an incentive to levy it: "The 16 mills has to be levied by the local school district to get the state (aid) guarantee. That makes it 'local.' The 16 mills stays in the district."

Other elements in the school finance plan:

■ Interstate telephone calls will be subject to the sales tax.

■ Engler's proposed real estate transfer tax of $40 per $1,000 of value will be cut to $11.10 per $1,000. Current rate is $1.10.

■ Exemptions in the personal income tax will be raised $900 to $3,000 per person.

■ Renters will get tax breaks of $40 million.

■ Intermediate (county) districts again will be allowed to levy millages for operating vocational-technical programs, and special education. Those taxes had been eliminated when the Legislature in July passed SB 1, wiping out $6.9 billion in school property taxes.

Preliminary figures in the plan indicate that:

■ Novi would spend an estimated $6,998 per pupil in 1994 and levy 29.43 mills. Under the plan it would have a base of 16 mills and could levy up to 3.11 additional mills to be held harmless.

■ Northville would spend approximately $6,340 per pupil and levy 29.49 mills. Under the plan, it could levy .19 mills above the 16 mill base.

■ Walled Lake would spend about $6,686 per pupil and levy 36.88 mills. Under the plan it would have the 16-mill base and could levy an additional 2.27 mills.

Novi schools to broadcast board of ed meetings

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Novi Community School District residents will now be able to tune in Board of Education meetings on television.

The board at its Nov. 18 meeting voted 4-3 to begin tape-delayed broadcasting of meetings on a trial basis. The test period will begin immediately and last until June 30, 1994. The measure saw considerable controversy, however.

Its supporters and opponents markedly disagreed over both the need for and the likely effects of putting board meetings on cable access television. Those favoring the plan said that it would allow more residents to see the board at work and was something which many in the community had called for.

Those against it, however, said that the board was very accessible to citizens now and didn't need to cablecast that meetings. They also predicted that cablecasting would cause board and audience members to "act up" for the cameras.

Supporting the trial plan were Board President Ray Byers, Steve Hitchcock, John Streit and Craig Foreback. All said that if the experiment proved problematic, the board could easily discontinue the broadcasts. Voting against the plan were Trustees Bob Schram, Julia Abrams and Michael Meyer.

Foreback last month brought the matter before the board. He said that cablecasting would allow those who didn't have the time to attend the Thursday evening meetings to still see them.

"Many parents are interested in the board meetings," Foreback said, "but they're busy with other things."

Several PTO members had asked that the board broadcast the meetings, Byers said in agreeing with Foreback. Putting the meetings on television would make it easier for those interested to become involved, he said, citing his own experience in watching Congress on C-SPAN or Novi City Council meetings.

Schram disagreed, citing two counterarguments. One, that school boards are very accessible to their citizens, unlike the U.S. Congress. Second, he continued, cameras had created grandstanding among council members and those who attended their meetings.

"People don't watch them for substance, they watch them for entertainment," Schram said.

There could be audience members, Abrams said, who may not feel comfortable speaking to the board knowing that they were on television.

Cablecasting, he added, would detract from board members' ability to work together as well.

Opponents also said that there were better uses for the money it would take to broadcast the meetings. One estimate puts the cost at $50 per meeting. The board has 14 regular meetings scheduled before June 30 — a total cost of $700.

"This is a tragic mistake by the board of education," Schram said.

Members voting for the trial plan said they were concerned over the potential for problems, but that the pluses outweighed the minuses.

Those who watch the meetings, Byers said, will be able to spot when board or audience members get out of line.

"Citizens have a right to see us and see the way we conduct our business," he said. "If we act like buffoons, that's our fault."

Citing his own experience watching the council, Byers added that "I watch the meetings for substance. When I see people up there acting inappropriately, I recognize it and remember it and I don't vote for them the next time around."

Cablecasting the meetings, Byers also pointed out, would provide more citizens with direct information about the district's activities, instead of making them rely on The Novi News.

The president said that he did not like the fact that the paper, which he alleged was sometimes inaccurate, is the primary source of information for many residents.

Foreback cited the News' coverage of the last board discussion of cable broadcasting as a case in point. The board at its Oct. 21 meeting voted 4-3 against making the broadcast plan an action item. The rules under which the board conducts its meetings specify members can take no action on a discussion item — as the cablecasting matter was — unless the board votes to first make it an action item.

The Novi News, Foreback said, had inaccurately described the vote as one against the broadcast plan itself instead of against making it an action item.

One member who voted against making the issue an action item at the Oct. 21 meeting — Steve Hitchcock — said that he had done so because it was the first time it had come before the board. At the Nov. 18 meeting, Hitchcock said that he had received numerous requests from community members for the cablecasting, and so would support the measure.

The meetings will be broadcast on a tape-delayed basis on MetroVision's cable access Channel 10, which Novi and Farmington schools share. The exact days and times the meetings will be shown have yet to be determined.

Adoption program welcomes new pupils

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

It's doubtful one could find a bigger welcome mat than the one adorning the entrance at Northville High School.

Laura Wallace, assistant principal, says she doesn't know of any other school that participates in an "Adopt-A-Student" program to help get new students settled.

"We want to get (new students) off to the very best start as possible," Wallace said.

When a family moves to Northville, there's a lot of paperwork that has to be filled out before a student can begin attending school. An assistant principal meets with the new family for about 45 minutes to go over policies and handbooks as well as talk about where the student is coming from, Wallace said.

The Adopt-A-Student program is one more way to help the student feel comfortable as he or she makes the transition. New students are asked to complete a form describing themselves, answering questions like: What are their favorite and least favorite subjects? What activities are they interested in? What activities would they like to be involved in?

"It gives us a lot of guidance on what this young person is like," Wallace said.

Northville High students volunteer in June to adopt any new students who may be arriving in the fall. About a week before school starts, students are assigned their adoptee.

"It's wonderful," Wallace said. "The kids come in on their vacation day to see what they can do to help a student. How nice can you be?"

At the orientation, Wallace goes over the components and expectations of the program. Then she starts reading the forms the adoptees filled out until a student volunteer. A student may volunteer because he or she may share the same interests.

After the student learns who he will adopt, he is instructed to phone

Cardinal visits

Northville resident Marian Szczepanski, a Polish gentile and concentration camp survivor, greets Joseph Cardinal Glemp, the Primate of Poland, during the latter's recent visit to metropolitan Detroit. Cardinal Glemp was in the area for the 50th anniversary of the Catholic League for Religious Assistance to Poland.

the new student to introduce himself. The student then invites his adoptee to the school's open house.

On the first day of school, the adopter meets the new student at a designated location and accompanies the adoptee to the first-hour class. Wallace emphasized the importance of making sure the new student had somebody to sit with during lunch.

"The biggest worry is lunch hour and not letting them sit there by themselves feeling left out," she said.

Adopters are given special passes for the first three days of school, allowing them to leave class early and arrive late in order to escort their adopted student to his/her classes.

"Most kids, after a week, feel fine (to go on by themselves)," Wallace said.

This year, Wallace is proud to say she had more volunteers than new students. Although the high school normally gets up to 100 new students per year, only 50 were admitted this fall.

"They come from other parts of the world, not just Michigan," she said.

Along with the transfers from school districts in Farmington and Livonia, new students attending Northville this school year come from Mexico, Georgia, the Netherlands, Brazil, Canada, Japan, Serbia and Hong Kong.

Wallace said many of the adopters sign up for the program each year.

"They feel really good about it," she said. "I think the kids are always searching for ways to feel important."

Sometimes the program provides a foundation for a new friendship, sometimes not.

"It's always somebody who will say hello to you in the hallways," Wallace said. "It's somebody who will always know your name. It's somebody who will always smile at you or can answer a question."

Any program has to be evaluated before Wallace can label it a success. The surveys that students have returned about the program have proven its success.

"It gave me a real good sense that they (the adopters) are doing their job," Wallace said.

Although not all surveys returned always share a positive experience, all involved believe the program is a good one.

"It establishes communications between the kids," Wallace said. "New parents and students are reassured by this program."

Our Opinion

Additional meetings could help decisions

Northville Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand has come up with an idea that's so simple and so good, it's a wonder no one's thought of it before.

The clerk believes that one meeting of the township board of trustees per month is too few, and she is poised to suggest that the board institute a once-a-month study session to alternate with its regular voting meetings.

We have long thought it odd, not to say inefficient, that trustees meet formally just once a month. This practice is unusual for a municipal body, most of which meet twice monthly, either during the first and third or the second and fourth weeks. A once-monthly meeting schedule is also, we believe, unsound, for a number of reasons.

First of all, once-a-month meetings result in enormously long agendas and, hence, enormously long meetings. Anyone who has ever attended a session of the board of trustees knows this to be the case. Though trustees have gone to a two-page consent agenda to help expedite matters, the list of items on a township agenda form still can take up several sides of legal paper. As a consequence, meetings can be interminably long, straining the attention span of elected officials and resident attendees alike.

What's more, long meetings are especially bad in Northville Township, as Supervisor Karen Baja tends to run out of steam as the evening wears on. She herself has said that 11 p.m. seems to be the point at which her concentration begins to waver.

More importantly, though, monthly meetings simply do not allow trustees sufficient time to discuss township issues, many of which are highly involved and require much verbal explanation. The institution of a monthly study session, at which issues would be discussed but not voted on, would permit trustees to learn the details of agenda items and mull them over for two weeks before casting votes. Currently, trustees get only one shot at discussion and debate, and often must vote before the intricacies of issues have had a chance to sink in.

Scheduling a study session in between each regular voting meeting of the board makes good sense and should give trustees more of a chance to digest the high volumes of information they receive in their jobs as elected representatives. Their improved decision making, of course, will lead to improved government.

We endorse the clerk's suggestion for monthly study sessions and urge township trustees to give the proposal serious consideration when the matter comes up for discussion at the township board's Dec. 9 meeting.

A case of speaking too soon

Lee Snider

That'll learn me. Last week in this space I took aim at newspaper critics who only write or call when they come across something in print that sticks in their craw. When they become irked, I railed, they accuse journalists of all manner of ill intent, insisting that we never go to press with any stories about the positive things that happen in the community or in the schools.

Well, guess what? Hardly was the ink dry from my little tirade than we got a letter thanking us for the restraint we showed in reporting on an alleged criminal sexual conduct incident. The letter arrived the same day that the paper came out, so you know it couldn't have been influenced by my observations about reader response habits.

How 'bout that? Some recognition after all. Such letters are extremely rare, and the timing of this one was truly amazing. I guess I had it coming for the chiding I delivered, however heartfelt it may have been. Catch the letter in question along with other words of wisdom from our readers on the facing page.

No mo' Monday to moan about.

By now, everyone's heard that the Monday edition of The Northville Record and The Novi News soon will be history. After an almost four-year experiment with a twice-weekly product, the Mondays will cease publication after the Nov. 29 installments.

Most of us in the office are disappointed over the move.

feeling that the Monday paper, though thinner, was on roughly equal footing with our Thursday standard bearer.

Nevertheless, when the news came down from corporate, I don't think anybody was in a state of shock. For whatever reason, people in the community had blinders on where the Monday edition was concerned — it just never caught on.

I can't count the number of times people asked me if I would publicize their event or place their story in the Thursday paper, as if the Monday barely made a blip on the radar screen.

We gave it our best shot, but, like all services, ours is subject to the vagaries of public opinion. There was no market for the Monday paper, so the Monday paper is no more.

Wild animals be forewarned.

Super hunter Paul Craig was in the office the other day showing off some of the trophies he's acquired from his various adventures down through the years.

After telling me the story of how he nailed two bucks on successive days earlier this month, he pulled a baggy from his pocket and proceeded to display some boar tusks he salvaged from when he once leveled a pig.

This guy knows everything about hunting and there's no stopping him. It took him only two days to use up his allotment of rifle hunting privileges, so next he's going to take to the woods with a bow and arrow. After that, it's down to Tennessee for a wild boar safari on a private preserve.

I get the feeling there are more than a few four-legged creatures out there who like to huddle around a fire at night and tell tales about their harrowing encounters with the terror Northvillian.

Goodbye to Monday edition

Michael Malott

Farewell Monday, we barely knew ya.

As you may have read in this past Monday's edition of The Northville Record, the Monday edition will soon be coming to an end. The last issue will appear Monday, Nov. 29, and then The Record will return to its traditional once-a-week publishing schedule, hitting the streets on Thursday.

What that means, I'm convinced, is that we will be able to do an even better job with the Thursday paper. The Monday edition stretched our resources, and as much as I hate to say it, it sometimes showed. So now, we can concentrate on what has always been our forte, giving good, thoughtful community news to our readers on a weekly basis. And I'm dedicated to making a once-a-week newspaper the best it can be.

If it does not sound as if I'm too sad to be losing the Monday edition, it is because I'm not. Mind you, I liked the second edition each week as a great way to get news out on to the street a lot faster, but putting it out sometimes required an exhausting pace, both for myself and the rest of the staff.

We learned of the edition's demise only a few days before readers did. HomeTown Newspapers General Manager Rich Perlberg came to our regular staff meeting Nov. 18 to break the news. We pretty much knew what was coming. We'd had to fight to save the edition from the chopping block in the last two budget years, and it was obvious the edition wasn't making much money. That the company would be able to fold the edition without need of laying anybody off was the good news Perlberg brought with him.

I'll tell you that the staff here busted tail to make the Monday paper the best it could be. Effort, however, does not pay the bills. Circulation and advertising do. After three-and-a-half years, Monday wasn't making gains in either category. Meanwhile, the Thursday edition was growing in popularity with both readers and advertisers.

The Monday edition was launched May 14, 1990, by editors Anne Willis and Bob Needham. Staff writers Jan Jeffries, Steve Kellman and photographer Bryan Mitchell were a part of it from the start too. Getting it off the ground was quite a feat by itself. Originally, the emphasis of the Monday edition was on feature stories and entertainment, but by the time I arrived on the scene in September of that year, it was clear a change in direction was needed.

Only a week after I got here a tornado hit Novi, knocking down several homes, barely missing the high school while students were getting out of class, and damaging the Civic Center and police headquarters, but killing no one. The tornado hit after deadline on a Friday, but by 11 that evening, we'd put together what was one of the best Monday papers ever, carrying comprehensive coverage of the near disaster. The Monday paper enabled us to get the news out three days earlier.

That only helped enforce the idea that the Monday edition needed to become a smaller version of the Thursday paper, as full as it could be of news developments since the paper had last come out. Staff saw that clearly: all I had to do was stand back and watch. They turned it into a heck of a good vehicle for news and information.

In the end however, it was an information vehicle that was not needed by the community. The flow of news, information and advertising locally has not yet grown to the point that it would outstrip our capacity to carry it in the Thursday edition.

Some day, it may. So I liked Executive Editor Phil Jerome's choice of words when he wrote up the announcement of the end of the Monday edition — he said the edition would be "suspended." That implies it may one day be started up again.

The idea of the Monday edition wasn't a bad idea, in my humble opinion, just one that was ahead of its time. When the community needs more capacity for news, information and advertising, it will be The Northville Record that gives it to you.

In the meantime, we'll concentrate on putting out the best Thursday paper we can.

Student answers criticism of school

To the editor:

As a student at Northville High School and an active member of its community, I would like to invite Mr. Fred J. Hendra to visit his prison on the hill. He could meet the "inmates," or the "animals," as he referred to us. He would be welcomed by us. He would be welcomed by us. He would be welcomed by us.

I do not wish to be disrespectful in any way. Mr. Hendra, but it broke my heart to read your rashly caustic opinions about my peers. It seemed almost sinister to me, as I read (in the Nov. 4, 1993 Record) of your anger and sadness about recently publicized unrest at the high school, that your suggestions could include stepping on the "stupid, young punks," and stomping out the bad behavior. Beware of such obvious parallels, sir, young punks are not so stupid when learning through example.

Of course, Mr. Hendra did make valid points. Intolerance and hatred are despicable qualities and their presence is always cause for concern, but please don't confuse those traits caused by ignorance with characteristics reflecting individuality. While the seriousness of prejudice must not be undermined, the community must be aware of the changing and sometimes unrecognizable ideals of its youth. Yes, we are a different bunch of kids than might have graduated from Northville where it established in 1944-45, different even from graduates last year. Regardless of what we wear (a letter jacket, a black SHARP jacket, Grateful Dead tie-dye, sock caps with overalls, or anything else in between), we have the aspirations and fears characteristic of young adults in every generation. We attempt to balance our need to be individuals with the desire for acceptance by our peers, and we grapple with uncertain futures in a very changing world. We continue to face the never-ending challenges of becoming adult.

While we pray that Northville's new-found, politically correct awareness will bring about improvement, we must also encourage the positive forces at work in the high school. Why don't the accomplishments of Northville's students get full-page, picture write-ups? With such a vast pool of talents to draw from, why must The Northville Record focus on the negative issues? The successes of Northville's youth can surely sell just as many papers as their shortcomings. In the senior class alone, 14 students vie for the honor of Valedictorian, and more than a month ago eight seniors received National Merit Scholar recognition. Aside from academic accomplishments, NHS students receive countless honors for their efforts in art, vocal and instrumental music, debate/forensics, and athletics, to name a few.

So, instead of pointing fingers at whomever is responsible for the "animals" and "sick youngsters" attending Northville's high school, I would like to plead for support. As we struggle to care about and respect each other, we are far from being inmates; we are citizens in a flourishing society with a wide variety of individuals contributing in their own special ways. Now, as never before, we need our community's support.

Julie Romine
Senior Class Vice President

Many students are outstanding

To the editor:

I am writing in response to Mr. Hendra's letter in the Nov. 4 Northville Record.

As a teacher at Northville High School, I am offended that he calls my students "stupid young punks . . . inmates . . . and animals." Among my students are talented dancers, writers, musicians and athletes. Additionally, many participate in student government and hold jobs after school.

Further, I am dismayed by Mr. Hendra's comments about students' dress. Certainly the character of a person is far more important than apparel.

To alter these misconceptions, I would like to invite Mr. Hendra to visit my classes and meet some exemplary teenagers.

Library has funding shortfall

To the editor:

Thanks for offering to print a retraction for your error in my letter (Nov. 18) on the state of the Northville/Township Library. I understand I know things go wrong, but I would like to clarify the situation if I could. If I ever had any credibility, it absolutely went out the window.

My letter stated that "Our library is the smallest and most underfunded in the AREA" — not the "STATE."

To determine the relative size of the Northville Library, I surveyed Canton, Livonia, Novi, Plymouth, Farmington and Farmington Hills, Milford and Wixom. I got library size and population data, and used it to determine that our library is in fact 2 1/2 times smaller than the area average, after factoring in population. I also got data on the Rochester, Bloomfield and Birmingham libraries where we're almost four times smaller, but didn't use it because too many numbers drive us all buggy.

I have the above data and will share it with any one interested.

Phil Smith

All should offer opinions

To the editor:

Something very good happened last week in the community that was not covered in the newspaper. Over 300 concerned people, parents, educators and board of education members attended the Town Meeting to discuss public school reform and finance with our legislators.

I would like to thank Senator Jack Faxon, Senator Robert Geake, Representative Willis Bulard and Representative Jerry Vorva for taking the time out of their busy schedules to attend the meeting on Nov. 16 at Northville High School.

A special thank you goes to all the custodial staff working that night at NHS. We had to change rooms from the Forum to the cafeteria to accommodate all the people that attended. The staff was absolutely wonderful, from obtaining pitchers of water, to chalk boards, taking chairs out, putting chairs away . . . all that service, and with a smile!

I believe that it is important that the people who represent us hear and understand what we think about these important issues. I urge everyone to continue to contact their legislators to let them know what you think about these important issues. After all, these people represent you and welcome your comments.

Can teachers be overpaid?

To the editor:

As I review Mr. Phil Jerome's frequent comments regarding teachers, teacher salaries, and secondary education in general, and the letters from readers regarding this issue, I find myself, as an N.H.S. graduate (Class of '57) with a need to take time to reflect and comment.

Some centuries ago Nicholas Ling said, "Ignorance is a voluntary misfortune." And John Locke later added, "a man may live long, and die at last in ignorance of many truths which his mind was capable of knowing."

There are some things of which we are needlessly ignorant and voluntary ignorance is a major misfortune. And as to acquiring constructive knowledge, we should have a continuing discontent and never become complacent or smugly satisfied with what we know of people, places or principles. We should study and learn and become acquainted with good books, languages and people. We should seek wisdom, understanding, and have our minds opened to truth, whatever it is and wherever it is, since education is not only an opportunity, but also an obligation.

We need to know all we reasonably can, about physical facts, about people and their problems. We should try always to turn light into dark places; to improve, to know more than we have known, to do better than we have done. We must seek to cast out fear, superstition, mistrust, misunderstanding, politics; to penetrate the shadows with freedom to search, and with courage to face the facts and to know that avoidable ignorance is unbefitting to any one of us.

As I recall my teachers of the past from Northville High School, I realize they sacrificed greatly, personally, in order to teach and prepare our generation for life and living. I recall one outstanding teacher who was forced to sell his home of 40 years to make way for a parking lot across from the post office. Heartbroken, he could not afford to relocate in Northville and had to move to another community. Such shoddy treatment is inexcusable. As I look back, I wonder if we can ever overpay a teacher. Northville Schools enjoy high acclaim today and their faculty salaries should reflect the area's better schools. Teaching is a very special trust, or should be. Perhaps Mr. Jerome should be encouraged to read more of the great authors, and confine his writing to his cats and neighbors if he is to fulfill his obligation and trust to journalism and the community. The Northville Record does not deserve any journalism award for merit or trust.

Paper must stop bashing teachers

To the editor:

This response to Mr. Jerome's editorial, "The MEA still rolling along," is not to give the author nor the article any credibility. It is, rather, to ask that Mr. Jerome, The Northville Record, and HomeTown Newspapers take some responsibility and invest in the community which they serve. The poorly written opinion by this "executive editor" did not improve, nor was it intended to improve, the quality of life for persons in this community. The editorial did not offer any redeeming qualities. The "bashing" must stop!

A series of feature articles on what education reform and finance would do for this community would probably be welcomed by all residents. Looking into the current state of politics on these topics in our state may be frightening. Such as, (1) is it true that our state only required high school students to pass one year of physical education and one semester of government to be eligible to graduate? Would it not benefit our children, businesses, and community to require a core curriculum that includes mathematics, science, English, foreign language, the arts, and vocational/technical education? (2) Should there not be sufficient funding to provide an equal educational opportunity for every child? (3) In the best interest of everyone, should not the teacher of your child be qualified and licensed in the subject area they are to teach? (4) How about interviewing our local representatives and senators on this topic. Ask Mr. Faxon about the vote coming up this spring. Is it true that if the people in our community vote "no" on the sales tax increase, as we did in the past, that the ballot will be written so that a no vote to the sales tax increase means a "yes" to an increase in the income tax? Why is there not to be two separate ballots?

After such a series of informational articles, input from local citizens, parents, business persons, local leaders, teachers, superintendents, and our legislators, The Northville Record and HomeTown Newspapers could present an editorial that demonstrates a vested interest in the quality of life of this community.

Thanks for not sensationalizing

To the editor:

Just wanted to commend you on the restraint you showed in your last Thursday edition. It certainly must have been a temptation to plaster the story about the molesting stepfather in a banner headline. Believe me, I'm sure I represent many others in appreciating the fact you spared us the rampant sensationalism.

New anti-stalking bill is a sham

Tim Richard

Our state representatives told a reeking lie when they passed what they called an "anti-stalking" bill.

House Bill 4806 wouldn't punish a single stalker.

But it would allow some state legislators to hide the fact they don't live in the districts they represent, as required by the Michigan Constitution (Art. IV, Sec. 7).

Here's how it came about: A couple of years ago, Detroit News reporter Jim Mitzelfeld exposed the fact that four lawmakers didn't reside in the districts which elected them. One was Rep. Burton Leland, a Democrat ostensibly from Detroit who actually had a home in the Lansing suburb of Okemos.

One tool Mitzelfeld used to track down on Leland was Secretary of State records. Under current law, you can take a license plate number to the Secretary of State and, for a few bucks, learn the name and address of the person who registered the vehicle.

Big-city papers also use these public records to identify people in auto accidents.

So along came Leland, of all people, with a bill to shut down these public records to the public. Under Leland's bill, we will have a caste system: "... the Secretary of State may release registration information to a law enforcement agency or unit of government in connection with a lawful activity . . . or to a person who also presents an order issued by a court of competent jurisdiction . . ."

Who's going to bother with the expense of obtaining a court order to prove that a legislator doesn't live in his district or that a city clerk really lives in a lakefront cottage in the next county?

It sailed through the House, 101-0.

"We're trying to prevent people from getting this information for improper purposes," said Leland with a straight face. "Most requests the Secretary of State gets are not legitimate. It's a real issue of privacy."

Yeah, sure, "privacy" — a code word for secrecy.

This is the second term Leland has been working on his version of the Official Secrets Act. His original rationale was to cite a California case where a nut tracked down a starlet and shot her. In the magazine Governing, I came across the facts: For $250, the nut had hired a private detective, who got the starlet's license plate, then paid the secretary of state $10 for her name and address and turned them over to the nut.

Any predator still can hire a private detective to track down someone, although the detective will have to employ other resources.

Michigan hasn't seen a case like that, in fact, but we have had non-resident legislators exposed through Secretary of State's records, in fact.

"Stalking" is the media Crime of the Year, much the same as date rape, spouse abuse and elderly abuse were the "in" crimes a few years back. Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, got some free national TV time for sponsoring the real anti-stalking law in the Michigan Legislature.

Stalking strikes fear into the hearts of women, and so Leland astutely got 15 of the House's 24 women members to sign on as cosponsors.

In the House, the Judiciary Committee handles true anti-crime and public records bills. But as I pointed out, this isn't a true anti-crime bill. Leland ran it through the Transportation Committee.

The bill now is on its way to the Senate. Goodness knows which committee it will land in, given the Senate's record of hiding public records bills. Judiciary? Criminal Law and Corrections? State Affairs? Transportation?

Leland will have to move fast in the Senate before the "stalking" fad burns out.

County offers carrot to Walled Lake officials

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Oakland County is dangling a $500,000 renovation package before Walled Lake officials, hoping to lure that city into dropping its lawsuit to block the transfer of the 52-1 District Court to Novi.

Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County Board of Commissioners Chair Larry Crake and other county officials met last week with members of the Walled Lake City Council to discuss the proposal, which includes shifting portions of the county Health Department, Treasury and Veterans Affairs operations to the current courthouse site on Maple Road in Walled Lake.

The $500,000 would be spent to renovate the building and make it more accessible to the handicapped.

"It's in the hands of Walled Lake. We're just waiting more or less for their answer," Oakland County Commissioner Kay Schmid, R-Nowi, who was not at the meeting, said.

"From what I understand, they weren't too excited."

The county anticipates some response to the idea this week or next week.

Walled Lake City Council Member Diane Cartier was at the Nov. 17 meeting, as was that city's Mayor William Roberts, City Manager Phillip Vawter and attorney.

"The majority of the people on the (Walled Lake) council don't know about it yet," Cartier said Tuesday.

"We still have to do some further investigation. Until then, I can't comment."

Cartier said the proposal could come before the Walled Lake council on Dec. 7.

Novi City Attorney David Fried, who was at the session, had a different perspective.

"Walled Lake seemed to indicate they were not interested in accepting the settlement," Fried told the Novi City Council Monday.

"The county executive says the lawsuit will be pursued vigorously now. It was sitting on the backburner before."

Representatives of Walled Lake were scheduled to meet Tuesday with Oakland County Health Officer Thomas Gordon to discuss the proposal further.

Oakland County aims to lease a new courthouse to be built on the northwest corner of Grand River Avenue and Beck Road — but Walled Lake filed a lawsuit asking that the project go out to bids again. Walled Lake council members and some residents say they fear the city's downtown will be decimated if they lose the courthouse.

Novi's leaders have been lobbying to bring the district court here. Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall sat in on last week's discussion.

"We don't really participate. We were kind of just there to see what was going on," Kriewall said.

"Nobody seemed very committed at all, so we don't know what is going on."

David Ross, director of Oakland County's Department of Public Works, said portions of the health department offices in Pontiac and Southfield would move to Walled Lake, including an inoculation service, a walk-in clinic and health inspectors. These operations would also continue at the Pontiac and Southfield offices.

The treasurer's office would enable area residents to pay their dog licenses and some county water bills in Walled Lake, while county taxes would also be collected there.

KIDS GIVE THANKS

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

Life is so hectic. Who has time to be thankful anymore?

Work is stressful. Trying to keep a home and family running smoothly requires more hours than there are in a day. And let's not even talk about traffic, national health care or the situation overseas.

But wait a minute. There is a lot to be thankful for when you look at what you take for granted.

Want proof? Ask a kid. Kids don't have to worry about the things on which adults must concentrate each day. For them, life is a lot simpler, and simple pleasures aren't so easily forgotten.

Kids in Virginia Krietz's and Sally Mullen's kindergarten classes at Amerman Elementary School made lists last week of the things for which they are grateful. Among the many moms and dads and grandparents and families and dogs and cats the children listed, there were also a few surprises and gems.

Walter is thankful for race cars. He may not own one, but he's just happy that they exist in this world. Yohei's glad for dinosaurs — perhaps glad that they aren't roaming the field behind the school.

Ashley is thankful for one pig. Just one. Michelle is thankful for God and Kendyl's thankful for Jesus. Leah's thankful for zebras. And David? He's thankful for fun.

Brianna is thankful for rainbows, and Sean is thankful for blocks. Ricky's thankful for the whole world, while Alex is just thankful for the pond.

Michael's thankful for horses, and Nicky's thankful for fish. Britt's glad there are kangaroos, and Alexander's gratefulness runs toward the fact that there are flowers in this world.

Sarah and Ryan P. are glad that there's love in our hearts, while Patrick is glad that there are hearts. Kathy's thankful for jewelry and Cory's thankful for washing machines and butterflies.

So this Thursday when you sit down for a turkey dinner and reflect on your blessings, remember that blessings come in many forms. You may not be a millionaire, but you live in a world full of people, animals, modern conveniences and love.

Goodfellows sale helps local needy families

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

The redistribution of money is a main function of the Northville Rotary Club of which Stephen Stocker, founder of the local clinic for psychotherapy and counseling services, is the immediate past president.

Stocker said Rotarians raise much of their money by selling hot dogs from a cart six times a year at civic events like the Victorian Festival, and they're looking for more ways to raise.

The Rotarians spend or redistribute the money like this:

- The scholarship fund, which Stocker established, gives two scholarships a year to Northville High School students.
- The Amerman Enrichment Program, which Stocker coordinates, gives awards to Northville teachers who submit programs which a Rotarian committee believes warrants them.
- Specialized summer camp annually for three or four disadvantaged children who Northville Youth Assistance recommends would benefit from it — physically disabled, emotionally disturbed, with speech problems.

And Stocker said, "I'm responsible for helping sponsorship of the Blue Grass Festival in Northville, which raises money for research into Huntington's Disease."

Apart from their putting money to good use, Northville Rotarians coordinate the activities of the Goodfellows with their newspaper drive — this year on the street on Dec. 4.

Why does Stephen Stocker involve himself in these extra curricular affairs?

"It's my way of being involved in the community," he said. "It gives me an opportunity to share activities."

Northville Rotary, an organization of business and professional men and women, meets weekly at noon on Tuesdays at the Presbyterian Church. If you want to know how to be a member, call Stephen Stocker at 348-1100.

NHS grad to present university design project

Karl Noffz, a 1988 graduate of Northville High School, will present a project in the 13th Conference on Senior Engineering Design Projects to be held Tuesday, Dec. 7, at Western Michigan University.

Eighty-five seniors in aircraft and automotive, computer systems, electrical, industrial, mechanical and paper engineering and in engineering technology will present the results of 40 projects they have completed to solve problems facing business and industry.

Reducing patient visit time at a medical clinic, a traveling seat belt mount that automatically adjusts the seat belt when the seat is moved, an analysis of wind flow around off-shore drilling rigs and an automatic page-turner for musicians are among the projects.

Noffz is the son of Harold and Carol Noffz of Northville. He plans to receive a bachelor's degree in automotive engineering in April 1994. His project is a transmission for a Hybrid Electric Vehicle.

NOW plans schedule

The Western Wayne County chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) has announced its January and February speakers.

"We will continue to focus our second Wednesday business meetings on a monthly series of one-hour feminist programs featuring exceptional Metro area activists," said Northville's Tracey Martin, Western Wayne NOW president.

In December, the chapter meeting will be the annual Christmas party to benefit First Step, the local women's shelter. It will be co-sponsored with Downriver NOW.

On Jan. 12, Pam O'Leary, an Ann Arbor/Toledo expert, will explain an alternative abortion method.

The Feb. 9 meeting a panel of speakers will speak on "Islam in America: Is Feminism Compatible with it or a Corruption of it?" The session will feature Lila Amen, May Berry and Maha Freij.

"This session should challenge us all to look more sensitively at the conditions we impose on our ethnic neighbors as we struggle to achieve cultural stability in late 20th century America," Martin said.

All membership meetings are held on the second Wednesday of the month and are open to the public. Meetings are conducted at Hoover Elementary School, 15900 Levan, in Livonia. A business meeting is held at 7 p.m. while programs begin at 7:30 p.m.

For updated meeting information, or for information on membership, call the chapter phone, 591-9344.

Class of '43 to meet

The Northville High School Class of 1943 is planning a reunion for September 1994. Classmates who would like to work on a committee to plan the reunion, or help out in locating classmates, should call Lois Sutton Nelson at (313) 261-1756 or Marge Edmondson Bolton at (313) 349-3518.

A committee meeting has been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 5.

Single Place presents

Single Place participants will gather from 10-10:45 a.m. Sunday in the library at First Presbyterian Church.

The gathering is specially designed for Christian singles of all denominations as a time of learning, sharing and growing. Bob Allwine will be the guest speaker.

A divorce recovery workshop continues on Thursday evenings through Dec. 16, beginning at 7:30 p.m. This workshop is open to divorced and separated persons of all ages. A fee is requested. Scholarships are available.

For further information on any of the Single Place events, call the Single Place office at 340-0911.

French nativity scene

A French nativity scene will be displayed through Christmas at La Belle Provence, an importer of European antiques on North Center Street in downtown Northville.

The scene, displayed in the shop's window, will consist of hand-sculptured terracotta French Santon dolls dressed with French Provencal clothing from the south of France. Unlike most nativity scenes, this French version represents all of the residents and workers specific to a typical French town coming to witness the birth of Christ and bringing the fruits of their labor as gifts.

Paper work

Ginny Malisch, (seated) Northville Newcomers vice-president, and Lisa Kozerski, membership chairperson, check out details in the club's annual directory. The books will be sent out to members this month. Several area merchants have supported the printing of the directory. Information about the Northville Newcomers is available from Kozerski at 380-9355.

PTA News/Elementaries

Amerman Elementary

Amerman PTA has much to appreciate this Thanksgiving season. The committees are hard at work and we're accomplishing many of our goals.

Students at Amerman have many opportunities to learn with their classmates. Events are also planned for them to learn more about their classmates in settings other than the classroom.

Barb Kemp organized two exciting evenings of skating last month. Abbie Holden and Linda Koons are organizing an evening for students to come and see their classmates' entries in the Reflections contest.

The opening night for the art show is 7 to 8:30 p.m. Dec. 1. In an effort to get children to look at others' creations, People's Choice Awards are going to be available this year. Come enjoy some refreshments as you browse and see familiar faces.

The pancake breakfast, chaired by Kim and Tom Vooytal and Connie and Perry Roberts, is another opportunity for families to gather for fun and food. Surrounded by family, friends and the Amerman staff, students can't help but feel very special and the school-home-community bond strengthens even more.

The Holiday Shop, chaired by our already busy vice president Cindy Atkinson and committee chair Vicki Searly, operates along with the breakfast. We're fortunate that the Amerman staff and many parents have volunteered so generously to assist the students with their gift selections for family and friends.

Do you need a phone number to set up a play date? Use your handy student directory. Diane Johnson and committee compiled a very thorough book for us, complete with zip codes and homeroom numbers.

The hospitality of Our Baker on Call Committee has been abundant. Thank you to Becky Leonard, Connie McCausland and Anna Sarkisian for providing refreshments for Sen. Geake's visit and to Laura Kingsbury, Jackie Simmons and Linda Routh for providing refreshments at the November PTA meeting.

Our teachers were treated, too, for the month of November by Mary Storch, Connie Carr and Cathy Toth. A wreath decorated their table with Thanksgiving figurines and delicious baked goods. We're starting to get requests for these specialty recipes. Teacher Appreciation Chair Sue Crank is keeping all this organized for us this year.

We thought maybe we acquired some gnomes at Amerman. The Saturday kindergarten playground clean-up had been cancelled due to bad weather, but when the children arrived on Monday morning the grounds were cleared out. What seemed the work of magical elves was really the grounds committee hard at work one damp Saturday morning. Campbell's soup labels can still be sent in. Nancy Manley is keeping a record of our points. This program will allow us to acquire more materials for our school. The informative note Nancy sent out revealed the many product labels we can earn points with.

Legislative chair Kathy Petlicke interviewed Sen. Geake during his visit at Amerman. A videotape will be available in the parent library if you are interested.

Chautauqua Express was at Amerman Nov. 23. The JES program was offered at 9:10 and 10:10 a.m.

Amerman's next PTA meeting is 7 p.m. Dec. 7.

Happy Thanksgiving.

Silver Springs Elementary

Hats off to our students of the month for October: Margaret Bacigal, Danielle Charboneau, Kyle Clausnitzer, Laura Dale, Casey Jachimowicz, Masaki Kiriya, Michael Kontry, Matt Lewicki, Damien Melnick, Sean Neppel, Nicole Premo, Zachary Ray, Brad Romans, Adam Sinkus, Ashley Strait, Rachell Szamowski, Mariko Yamauchi and Phil Yutzky.

The Silver Springs Student Council is in full swing under the direction of Principal Kenneth Pawloski with PTA liaison Kathy Houslander. Elections have taken place and the following students were chosen to represent their respective classrooms: Rachel Martin and Danny Massa, Mrs. Aller; Nick Groh and Laura Jones, Mrs. Socha; Matt Corneliuss and Vicky Stephens, Mrs. Vanston; Thomas Knapp and Jenny Houslander, Mrs. Curvin; Claire Bacigal and Laura Dale, Mrs. Higbee; Renee Asclone and Graham Dresselhouse, Mrs. Wall; Ken MacKinnon and Mark Thomson, Mrs. Rigney; and Kristin Kirk and Michael Hiemstra, Mrs. Stringer.

This group is already planning their "Adopt a Family" project for the holidays. Each grade level will adopt a family and work to make that family's holiday a special one. They will be having two different drives in order to collect the necessary items.

A pop can drive will take place the week following Thanksgiving. Proceeds from the drive will be used to purchase dinner and gifts for our adopted families. During the week of Dec. 6-10, we will be having a canned food, paper goods and toiletries drive. Let's all pitch in and help the Student Council in this special community service and experience the wonderful feeling of giving to others.

The following fourth and fifth grade students earned all As and Bs for the first quarter, making them members of the ABBIT (As and Bs Because I Try) Society: Monica Anderson, Cindy Anteau, Renee Asclone, Brian Ashby, Claire Bacigal, Johnathan Baker, Katie Banks, Elena Bazini, Nick Brazen, Brianna Buckley, Tommy Carr, Tiffany Chichester, Lindsay Crammond, Laura Dale, Billy Dalton, Jason D'Anna, Michelle Delavy, Christina DeVincent, Steven Doinidis, Graham Dresselhouse, Rebecca Eley, Diana Frentzos, Laura

On Nov. 11 and 12, Mrs. Vanston's and Mrs. Socha's third graders walked back in time to Wash Oak School for a day of learning. Quill pens, McGuffey readers and old-fashioned games at recess were just some of the things that made this day authentic.

On Nov. 16 our JES assembly put grades K-3 into the Thanksgiving spirit as they learned about life as a Native American through the use of Indian artifacts.

On Nov. 17 our fourth and fifth graders enjoyed a performance of "First Lady of Detroit," performed by the Mme. Cadillac Dance Theater, which brought to life their current study of explorers.

CAT testing will take place the week of Nov. 29 for all third and fifth graders.

The Silver Springs Holiday Musical is scheduled for Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend as the second graders, fifth graders and the fourth graders from Mrs. Wall's class do their best to put us in the holiday spirit.

If that still is not enough holiday cheer for you, you are also invited to stop by the school on Dec. 10 at 2:45 p.m. as the Northville High School Choir fills our halls with music.

After many weeks of preparation, the Holiday Shop will be open for business Dec. 6, 7 and 8, and for the first time, during the musical on Dec. 9.

Thanks to the efforts of Victor Gollani and Diane DeVincent, visitors to Silver Springs will be welcomed by a refurbished sign that we can now be proud of. You did a terrific job.

There will be no December PTA meeting due to winter recess. Please join us Jan. 18 at 9:15 a.m. for our next meeting. Have a happy Thanksgiving.

Holiday preparations

PTA News/Middle school

The Cooke Middle School PTA meeting was called to order Nov. 4 by president Pat Melvin.

Pat introduced Jo Ann Weber, prevention specialist for the Community Commission on Drug Abuse. Weber will be the facilitator of the Students Taking a New Direction (STAND) program.

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski gave an update on state representatives still visiting our school. Rezmierski and our Legislative Action Network committee were encouraged to educate themselves on the governor's plan on school funding.

Cindy Benedict reported our Junior Enrichment Series schedule is in place with presentation for all grades.

Cheryl Gibbs congratulated everyone on a job well done on the Cooke carnival. Anyone with new ideas or interested in the carnival for next year should contact Sue Wood through the school directory.

Our spirit week concluded with the eighth grade being the winners. There were 1,867 items collected for the needy. This resulted in Principal Jeff Radwanski having to shave off his mustache during the seventh and eighth grades lunch hour. Our top three donors were T.C. Lopez, Jerry Straub and Lisa Jobulian. Congratulations students.

The PTA encourages you to participate. Sue Spaniol is looking for volunteers to read textbooks for taping to aide students. This could be done at home.

We remind you it is not too late to join our PTSA. We thank all who have joined as well as our business partners. Adept Technology, Dealers Resources, Inc. and Papa Romanos. Our eighth grade business partner is NBD.

The cast of Aladdin includes Todd Spencer (front right) as Tareye the Terrible and the genie, Ken Haering (rear left).

Aladdin's an Arabian delight for kids

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Aladdin, was but one of the tales the legendary Scherazade wove during her 1001 Arabian Nights.

There's also about 1001 ways this favorite story can be told and only one of them involves a Walt Disney cartoon. Another is the musical, Aladdin, now showing at Northville's Marquis Theater through Dec. 29.

Performing Aladdin on stage presents certain difficulties not present in an animated cartoon — like springing a tall genie out of a little lamp.

To bring this fantasy of the Middle East to life for schoolchildren, the Marquis teams up adult professional actors with three different rotating casts of its own Youth Players.

Actor Todd Spencer, who studied drama at Wayne State University and is a veteran of children's theater in Minnesota and Utah, plays the menacing role of Tareye the Terrible, the royal guard of the princess. Tareye is rough, gruff and a total pushover.

"He isn't really terrible. He tries to be. He works very hard to be mean. He's kind of a cross between Don Knotts and Arnold Schwarzenegger," Spencer said.

Spencer finds children are a better audience than adults — they're more well-behaved.

"It's very challenging for an actor to play really zany characters but still be honest with the kids because if you're not, they'll tune you right out. It's a real challenge to face 600 kids and captivate and hold their attention for awhile," Spencer said.

"It's not Disney. The beauty of storytelling is that you can tell it your own way. There are several Aladdin productions. This one is special because it gives the kids a chance to see other kids up on the stage. It includes them a lot more."

Ken Haering is the genie, the guy that has to pop out of the lamp. About that...

"We use a fog machine off stage and he appears in the fog," Marquis publicist Cindy Zeitz explained.

Haering studied voice at Indiana State University between football practices and is enjoying his new role. Typically, he plays the leading man in Marquis productions — although he was Captain Hook in Peter Pan.

"I get a little tired of playing the same roles," he said.

"This is a pretty easy role to play. I took a little off Robin Williams. It's a combination of the two of us. I know the kids would be expecting that. I struck in a lot of jokes, a few schucks and gags."

Aladdin will be performed on Saturdays, Nov. 27; Dec. 4, 11 and 18 and Jan. 1 at 2:30 p.m. Also on Sundays, Nov. 28; Dec. 5, 12 and 26 and Jan. 2 at 2:30 p.m.

Special holiday break performances are slated for Monday through Friday, Dec. 27-31 at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are $6.50 and are available at the door.

'Perfect World' teams Costner and Eastwood

Set in Texas in 1963, "A Perfect World" follows escaped convict Butch Haynes (Kevin Costner), who, in the course of eluding the Texas Rangers, takes a young boy hostage.

The fatherless boy has led a strictly constrained life due to the religious beliefs of his mother, and has had few happy experiences. While Haynes and his young hostage are on the road, they develop a unique friendship that enables each of them to experience some of the pleasures missing from their childhoods.

Clint Eastwood plays Red Garnett, the leader of the Texas Rangers, and Laura Dern plays Sally Gerber, a young criminologist aiding in the manhunt.

The film is directed by Eastwood, his first effort since winning the Academy Award for Best Director for "Unforgiven."

This is his 17th directorial effort. In addition to "Unforgiven," his most recent directorial efforts have included "White Hunter, Black Heart" and the widely acclaimed "Bird."

There is keen public interest in the manhunt for Haynes, with equal measures of pressure and political ramifications, because President John F. Kennedy is scheduled to visit Dallas in less than two weeks.

Garnett, an experienced lawman whose instincts have served him well over the years, understands the back roads of the Panhandle and the people who live there. Most importantly, he understands Butch Haynes.

Garnett was the arresting officer when Haynes was first sent to prison as a juvenile. At the time, Garnett had recommended a harsh sentence of an otherwise minor offense, thinking Haynes would have a better chance to straighten out his life with the state than if he stayed with his dysfunctional family.

The decision, however, proved to be a mistake because Haynes became a career criminal behind bars.

"A Perfect World" looks at relationships between generations and the accidental turns that can change lives irreversibly. The child taken hostage, Phillip Perry (T.J. Lowther), is the product of a broken home. Fatherless, he is both fearful and in awe of Butch Haynes, a predicament which soon leads to identification.

The irony of the situation is the fantasy that Haynes creates for his captive. Both clever and charming, he quickly provides an environment in which dreams become reality and a child's wishes are less than a half-step from the possible. Remarkably, this is accomplished while they are on the open road, eluding every major law-enforcement agency in Texas.

Red Garnett's job becomes increasingly complex as the manhunt continues. He has use of a high-tech mobile trailer, provided by the governor because of the seriousness of the manhunt, which he unwillingly shares with the sincere but inexperienced Sally Gerber and three red-neck deputies.

Garnett feels the tension of the chase, magnified by his knowledge of Haynes and the public's fear of a dangerous escaped convict-turned-kidnapper.

Butch Haynes, on the other hand, is the picture of control. He is at ease, talkative and composed, with one very special exception — Haynes cannot tolerate seeing a child abused in any way. The change in him is sudden and complete. The resulting transformation is terrifying not only to the real or imagined offender, but to the child this convict thinks he is protecting.

"A Perfect World" is a character-driven story of a convict whose basic instincts are well-meaning, despite his history, cynicism and inability to fit into the social mainstream.

Butch Haynes and his seven-year-old captive are living a fantasy life on the run. It will inevitably intersect with the reality of Texas Ranger Red Garnett, a man who must enforce the law in a most imperfect world.

Shot entirely on location in Huntsville, Texas, and the area surrounding Austin, "A Perfect World" is a film which essentially takes place on the road, reflecting the Texas hill country, the open farmland and the small towns which, in many ways, have not changed much in 30 years.

For those locations which could not be found, Academy Award-winning production designer Henry Bumstead ("The Sting," "To Kill a Mockingbird") was called upon to build them. Bumstead created the fictional small town of Noodle, Texas, where a number of interior and exterior scenes take place, including key moments between Butch and Phillip in a 1960s dry-goods store called Friendly's.

"A Perfect World" was filmed with the cooperation of the Texas Film Commission and includes many scenes filmed at the recently restored capitol building in Austin.

Eastwood returns to director's chair

After winning the Academy Award for Best Director with "Unforgiven," Clint Eastwood returns to the role of director in "A Perfect World."

Malpaso Productions, the option of 1968, allows Eastwood the option of producing and directing as well as starring in his own projects. It is the independent base from which all his projects evolve.

"A Perfect World" is the 17th film that Eastwood has directed in his illustrious career.

He made his directorial debut in "Play Misty For Me," an opportunity which was provided after he agreed to co-star in the film with Jessica Walter and Donna Mills. The 1971 release established an impressive basis for the future, wherein Eastwood would continue to work on both sides of the camera.

He followed "Play Misty For Me" with "High Plains Drifter," "Breezy," "The Eiger Sanction," "The Outlaw Josey Wales," "The Gauntlet," "Bronco Billy," "Firefox," "Honkytonk Man," "Sudden Impact," "Pale Rider" and "Heartbreak Ridge."

Eastwood remained behind the camera in only two of the films he has directed — "Breezy" and "Bird."

"Breezy" was cast with William Holden and Kay Lenz, while "Bird" featured award-winning performances by Forest Whitaker, who won a Best Actor Award at the Cannes Film Festival, and Diane Venora, who was named Best Actress by the New York Film Critics.

Eastwood won a Golden Globe Award for Best Director for his work on "Bird."

In addition to acting and directing, Eastwood has attached himself to a number of projects as producer, involving himself in all phases of bringing special stories to the screen.

His producing efforts began with "Firefox" and continued through "Honkytonk Man," "Sudden Impact," "Pale Rider," "Heartbreak Ridge,"

"White Hunter, Black Heart" and "Unforgiven."

"A Perfect World" follows Eastwood's most successful film as a producer, director and star. "Unforgiven" was a milestone in his career, further defining the growing and evolving Eastwood aesthetic behind the camera.

In addition to his work as director, Eastwood has starred in such films as "Joe Kidd," "Magnum Force," "Thunderbolt and Lightfoot," "The Enforcer," "Every Which Way But Loose," "Escape from Alcatraz," "Any Which Way You Can," "Tightrope," "City Heat," "The Dead Pool," "Pink Cadillac" and "The Rookie."

In "A Perfect World," he plays Red Garnett, a solitary cop who is dedicated to his job.

A lifelong bachelor without any family, Garnett describes himself as having "a nose like a blue tick and a medulla with an antenna." He is a savvy, experienced professional who understands the ramifications of the case he has been assigned.

For Eastwood, the part of Red Garnett fits naturally into a long list of well-known cinematic roles. He has starred as a contemporary lawman in films as diverse as "Coogan's Bluff" and "Dirty Harry" as well as "The Gauntlet," "Tightrope," "City Heat," "The Rookie" and "In The Line of Fire."

"A Perfect World" is a spare, tightly wound and understated insight into character, the momentum of events and the influence of personality.

Mustangs dominate All-Area football teams in '93

Davis, Kelley, Gatti make top area defense

If you want to play good defense, you have to have people who can hit. This year's HomeTown Newspapers East All-Area defensive squad is a powerful, hard-hitting crew that could keep any offense in check.

With four selections, Northville dominates our first team defense. Led by the group of Adam Davis, John Gatti, Bryan Kelley and Marc Golden, the Mustangs made it to the regional finals this fall. Each was an All-WLAA choice.

South Lyon's strong defense puts a trio of All-KVC players on the first team with Mike McDaniels, Jeff Archey and Phil Angelosanto.

BRAD SCHECK Milford defensive back

One of the more excitable players in the league, Scheck's energy was a strong point as a defensive back who would step up and put a blister on wayward runners.

"Brad comes ready to play," said Milford coach Mike Shearer. "He really shored up our defensive backs. This year we've had the best group we've had since I've been there."

"He's a fire type and a good tackler; we like to blitz him a lot."

MIKE McDANIELS South Lyon defensive back

McDaniels was the go-to man for the Lions this year — when you need just about anything done, go to Mike. The senior was a two-year starter in the defensive backfield, ran the ball, lined up as a receiver, returned punts and returned kickoffs.

"He's a great all-around player," said Lions coach Bob Scheloske said. "He was good on defense and offense, as a running back and as a receiver."

He was probably our most versatile player."

McDaniels averaged 23.7 yards per punt return and finished the season with 397 all-purpose yards.

MARC GOLDEN Northville defensive back

Unlike most starting quarterbacks, Golden wasn't afraid to play defense. At free safety, the senior quarterbacked the Mustangs' secondary by making defensive calls and taking charge.

"Most teams threw away from him because of his quickness," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher.

At only 165 pounds, Golden wasn't afraid to hit anybody. He made a couple of interceptions as well as 35 tackles for Northville.

As quarterback of the 9-2 Mustangs, he completed nearly 50 percent of his passes and threw for more than 500 yards. Golden was also a rush threat, according to Schumacher.

BRYAN KELLEY Northville linebacker

If the Mustangs had a most valuable player, it was Kelley. The 6-foot-2, 200-pounder was tough as nails at linebacker and led Northville with 97 tackles. Schumacher said his speed made him a great defender.

"Bryan could run anybody down," he said.

The senior was just as tough on offense. A fullback, he ran for more than 500 yards and was a threat to catch the ball out of the backfield.

"On traps he got to the hole very quick," Schumacher said. "He had a good year running."

JASON FISCHER Novi linebacker

If you look at Webster's for the definition of intensity you might just see a picture of the Wildcat senior by the entry. Despite his size (5-foot-7, 160 pounds), Fischer was Novi's defense this fall.

He registered more than 100 tackles, including 12 solo hits for losses.

"What a dynamite player," said Wildcat coach John Osborne. "What he lacks in stature, he makes up for in intensity. He's one tough player."

Fischer was a three-year starter for Novi. He made All-KVC this fall.

JEFF ARCHY South Lyon linebacker

Archey got off to a slow start this year — that lasted about one game.

In the second game of the season and for the rest of the year, Archey became a defensive monster that mowed down everything in his path.

"I think he had to get adjusted to playing at the linebacker position," Scheloske said. "He led the team in tackles and he called the defensive signals."

In addition to his defensive duties,

Archey, a team captain, often lined up at fullback.

"He was used on offense when we needed the block and a hard-running fullback on the goal line," Scheloske said. "He was a very versatile player and an excellent captain."

Archey, an All-KVC player, was named the Lions' MVP by his teammates.

JOHN GATTI

Northville defensive end

The most physically impressive football player in the area, Gatti was a terminator on defense. Opponents did all they could to run away from the senior, but he was still able to collect 70 tackles and 10 sacks from defensive end/linebacker.

"John Gatti is a force," said Schumacher. "Nobody wanted to run at

Kersey, Hirvela selected to offense

One word comes to mind when looking at HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Football First Team offense: awesome.

Size, strength and speed are hallmarks of this year's squad. We start with a massive line anchored by Northville's Fred Swarthout, Derek White and South Lyon's Matt Malik and John Podczewinski; and let's not forget 250 pounds of Milford's Darryl Stalarczyk.

A very talented backfield is led by Novi signal caller Kevin Serra, and our running game would be second to none with a pair of outstanding sophomores in South Lyon's Mike Watson and Northville's Aniel Kersey. Rounding out the backfield is bruiser Randy Horst of Milford.

Receivers John Wroe of Novi and Brian White of Milford provide Serra with two excellent options. And when our first team didn't make it into the endzone, kicker Mike Hirvela of Northville would be there to collect three points.

All in all, the 1993 HomeTown Newspapers' All-Area First Team offense is awesome. Here's a closer look at our selections:

KEVIN SERRA Novi quarterback

The Wildcat senior showed the Kensington Valley Conference just how talented he is in 1993. An outstanding tight end last fall, Serra stepped into the role of quarterback without missing a beat.

"He's a multi-faceted player," said Novi coach John Osborne. "He's a very fine athlete. I gained a lot more respect for his ability this year."

All Serra did was throw for more than 1,000 yards and run for more than 300. Osborne said his ability to run the option play made him a triple threat.

"His ability to run it was tremendous," said Osborne. "He had a great feel for the option."

ANIEL KERSEY Northville running back

Defensive coaches were scratching their heads trying to figure out who this sophomore was in the early weeks of the season. No more. A graceful, fluid, cutback runner, Kersey gained 970 yards in his first varsity season.

"We didn't know that he'd get 970 yards," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher. "But we knew he'd be a good one."

Kersey should do nothing but get better for the Mustangs. An avid weightlifter, he was the second strongest player on Northville's squad with a combined 705-pound bench press and squat.

Aside from his strength, Schumacher said Kersey has several other attributes that make him a great runner.

"I think he's got good vision," he said. "He sees the field well."

MIKE WATSON South Lyon halfback

Watson was electrifying in his first few varsity games, a sophomore who rushed for 300 yards in his first two outings. Opposing defenses quickly caught on to Watson's threatening potential, but that didn't stop him from being the KVC's second-leading rusher with 723 yards. He finished second only to Brighton's bruising big man Clint Copenhaver, who racked up a total of 1,150.

"He (Watson) was an outstanding running back for a sophomore," said

South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske. "He has excellent quickness and great breakaway speed."

RANDY HORST Milford fullback

A two-way starter, Horst found ways to score regardless of where he was playing or which team had the ball.

The senior scored as a fullback, intercepted a pass for a touchdown, caught an offensive pass for a touchdown and kicked extra points.

He was also responsible for kickoffs, he punted, and he was the team's leading tackler from his linebacker position. And to top it all off, he was an offensive lineman last year.

"Randy had a great season," said Milford coach Mike Shearer. "We moved him from the offensive line to fullback and tight end to take advantage of his skills as a blocker, receiver and runner."

Horst finished the season with 301

Holman, Jackson on second defense

While HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Second Team Defense doesn't have the size and strength of our first unit, it does have speed to burn.

Led by a strong group of linebackers, we believe our second squad is a cut above. Novi's Brian Csordas is a good example as he was a team leader in tackles from his outside linebacker slot. Northville's Jason Holman was tough against the run and had enough speed to cover running backs and tight ends in pass situations.

South Lyon juniors Jason Duncan, Rob Morris, Mitch Anderson and Ian Galdez, along with sophomore Cory Sargent, prove the Lions defense could be the best in the area next year.

So, without further ado, let's meet the 1993 all-area second team defense.

MARK COOPER Lakeland lineman

A two-way starter at center and defensive tackle, Cooper's consistency was valued by Lakeland coach Bill Mohr. Cooper had a sack and gathered up two fumble recoveries this year.

"He's 6-foot-5 and he can cover a lot of ground," Mohr said. "The fact that he's got that big stride, he uses that to his advantage."

Mark Barckholts Lakeland lineman

Despite his 5-foot-10, 187-pound frame, this Lakeland senior toiled in the trenches on both sides of the ball all year long.

"He's aggressive, yet he carries out his responsibilities," Mohr said. "He didn't outsize anybody and it didn't really matter."

"For his height and weight, he's one of the strongest players around. He's very consistent, very steady."

NICK BOWERSOX Northville lineman

A junior, Bowersox came on strong for the Mustangs this fall. He made nearly 50 tackles and was tough against the run.

"I think he's got a future on both sides of the ball," said Northville coach Darrel Schumacher. "He's a steady performer."

The coach said Bowersox was often on hand to finish off enemy ball carriers. Schumacher said he will be a key performer next year.

BRIAN CSORDAS Novi linebacker

A two-year starter for the Wildcats,

Tankers compete at state finals at EMU

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

The Mustang swim team's season drew to a close Friday at the state finals with Northville High failing to score a point.

Swimmers and divers had to place in the top 12 of preliminaries Friday to advance to the finals Saturday at Eastern Michigan University. None of the Mustangs were able to make it into the finals.

Grand Rapids Forest Hills was crowned state champ, defeating four-time champion Ann Arbor Pioneer. Northville's conference rival Livonia Stevenson finished in second place.

Mustang coach Bill Dicks said swimmers did improve on their best times of the season Friday. He said having swam in the conference meet a few weeks prior, however, it wasn't surprising times didn't drop enough to garner top state finishes.

"It's hard to have enough time, psychologically, to go faster at the state meet," he said. "The girls were fully tapered for the league meet. I think, under the circumstances, they did a good job."

Northville competed in five events in preliminary rounds.

Amity Heckemeyer placed 20th in the 200-yard IM with a time of 2:15.87. The sophomore improved by a tenth of a second but would have needed to swim a full second faster to make the finals.

In the 200 freestyle relay, Northville placed 25th. The team of Tammy Cook, Andrea Moretti, Katie Rompel and Jodie Brown finished in 1:43.98. The group finished about two seconds out of a finals berth.

Heckemeyer was 18th in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:10.32. Dicks said Friday won't be her last appearance at the state finals.

"She's got a great future," he said. "The trick for her is to pick the right event in the right year. She can be strong in any of the strokes."

yards rushing and was second in league scoring with 67 points. "He never fumbled the ball all year and he made some big catches for us," Shearer said.

BRIAN WHITE
Millford receiver
 White became a force in the KVC this season, hooking up with second-team All-Area quarterback Dan Caldwell for some big plays.

"He really improved a lot from last year," Shearer said. "He was faster and he has great hands. He was our leading receiver and a deep threat at all times."

White finished the season with 299 yards, which was tops in the KVC in the regular season.

White also filled in at defensive back throughout the season.

JOHN WROE
Novi receiver

The speedy receiver did it all for the Wildcats this fall. Besides catching 20 passes for nearly 300 yards, Wroe returned kickoffs, rushed the ball and did some kicking.

"He'll be a candidate for quarterback next year," said Osborne.

Wroe's all-around athletic ability made him one of the most valuable Wildcats. Besides his offensive production, he was in the top seven of Novi tacklers from defensive back.

"He's a great competitor and fine young man," said Osborne.

DEREK WHITE

Northville lineman

A three-year starter for the Mustangs, White made great strides in his senior season. Schumacher said his team counted on White's ability to trap-block and pull on sweeps.

"He really turned things around for himself and this team," he added. "He was our most consistent lineman."

White earned All-WLAA honors for his work at left guard. He also played linebacker for the Mustangs.

"He has good speed," said Schumacher. "He could play tight end."

FRED SWARTHOUT
Northville lineman

Also an All-WLAA pick, the senior used his excellent size (6-foot, 240 pounds) to mash people into the turf.

"He's one of the most intense people you'll see on the football field," said Schumacher. "He could never settle for less than his best and the best from his teammates."

Swarthout teamed with White on the left side of the Northville line. Schumacher said when his team needed yards it was that side they most often ran to.

"If you needed to count on somebody," he said. "He was the one."

DARRYL STALARCZYK
Millford lineman

Stalarczyk started the season playing both ways at tackle before Shearer shifted his offensive line assignments. Stalarczyk, a 6-foot-3, 257-pound senior, became both the immovable object and the irresistible force as an offensive guard.

 Marc Golden played defensive back and quarterback for Northville this fall.

"At 250 pounds, he was an awesome trapping guard," Shearer said. "We could always count on Darryl. He was a good two-way player and he pretty much held our defensive line together."

MATT MALIK
South Lyon lineman

The most valuable lineman in a school that prides itself on smash-mouth blockers, Malik finished up his senior season in style.

him." Gatti also played a key role on offense. At fullback he provided hard rushing for Northville as well as excellent blocking.

At 6-foot-2 and 220 pounds, he is being heavily recruited and will play Division I college football.

PAUL MINOR

Lakeland defensive end

Lakeland wasn't blessed with size this year, and Paul Minor was no exception. At 5-foot-10, 175 pounds, Minor led the team in defense for the second year in a row.

"He exemplifies our defense," said Lakeland coach Bill Mohr. "He's very aggressive, he goes to the ball and he enjoys hitting."

Minor had two fumble recoveries and six hits for losses this season. Depending on the situation, he played several defensive positions and even wound up in the Eagles' offensive backfield.

"He was all over the field for us," Mohr said. "We even ended up playing him at running back at the end of the year; we started to run out of runners."

ADAM DAVIS

Northville lineman

A 6-foot-1, 260 pound tank, Davis was a force on Northville's line. He made it nearly impossible to run on the Mustangs and was a fearsome pass-rusher with nine sacks.

"He's tremendously quick for a big kid," Schumacher said. "He beat a lot of linemen on his first move. He also beat people technically."

Davis was among the team leaders with 55 tackles. His impact on Northville's defense was shown in the team's playoff loss to Farmington Hills Harrison. With Davis out of the lineup, the Mustangs were unable to stop Harrison's running game.

CRAIG HOFFMAN
Lakeland lineman

Hoffman, a senior, may not have talked the talk — but he definitely could walk the walk.

"He's a quiet leader," Mohr said.

"He leads by example."

In addition to being Lakeland's best offensive lineman, Hoffman had a pair of sacks and 27 first-hit tackles on the year.

"He was really steady," Mohr said. "You know he's going to do the job. He doesn't make mistakes."

PHIL ANGELOSANTO
South Lyon lineman

Big Phil was no angel to opposing offenses this year. Aside from being very difficult to block, Angelosanto just found ways to get to the ballcarrier.

"He came on as an outstanding defensive lineman for us," Scheloske said. "Most people ran away from him rather than directly at him."

"He was the leader of the defensive front all year long."

Bowersox, Jackson on second defense

Csordas was Novi's third leading tackler this season with 75. Novi coach John Osborne described Csordas as a hard-nosed player.

"He was a leader on defense," he said.

Csordas, 6-foot-1, 180 pounds, often had to shed bigger blockers to make the tackle. Defense wasn't the senior's only role.

He played fullback on offense. Csordas also handled the important job of long snapper on punts.

JASON DUNCAN
South Lyon linebacker

When a linebacker spot opened up, Duncan pounced on the opportunity.

"He's another student who just gets better and better," said South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske. "He's probably our most-improved linebacker this season."

"He picked up his reads and was probably our best pass-defense linebacker."

Duncan is a captain for the 1994 season.

ROB MORRIS
South Lyon linebacker

Morris knew what he wanted before the season started, and when practices began he wasn't going to let anybody get in his way.

"He came in and (by his play) said 'I'm going to play defensive end,'" Scheloske said. "He stepped in and that was it."

Morris was tough against the run and developed into a solid pass rusher. The junior will be a captain in the 1994 season.

"He'll be one of our cornerstones for next year," Scheloske said.

JASON HOLMAN
Northville defensive end

The senior saw most of his action at linebacker but did line up as a defensive end on occasion. Schumacher said he made big strides from last season.

"Jason was a surprise," Schumacher said. "Last year he couldn't do the job. But he got stronger this year and got more confident. I thought he played outstanding."

Holman had about 50 tackles. He also contributed on offense with 14 catches for 200 yards.

MITCH ANDERSON
South Lyon defensive end

Only one of two two-way players on the South Lyon squad, Anderson excelled on defense.

"He did a good job on offense, but he was more of a force on defense," Scheloske said. "He developed as the season went on as a pass rusher and also as a drop-back linebacker against the pass."

Anderson batted down five passes this year. A 6-foot-4 junior, Scheloske feels he has collegiate potential because of his size and ability.

IAN GALDEZ

South Lyon defensive back

When the coaches saw a young point in a defensive backfield weakspot, Galdez saw the chance to be a starter.

"He stepped into a position where we had some questions and he never gave up," Scheloske said. "He played the position excellent against the run."

Galdez, who was named a captain for next year, developed a crucial talent for a defensive back as the year wore on.

"He's an outstanding hitter," Scheloske said. "He was a pleasant surprise. He leads by example and he's very determined to succeed."

CORY SARGENT

South Lyon defensive back

Sargent lettered in three varsity sports last year — as a freshman. This year as a sophomore he started every game at wide corner.

"He was never beat on a long pass," Scheloske said.

Eckerly selected for second team offense

If there's one thing the area had this season, it was ample offensive talent. Perhaps 1993 didn't see the big stars of the past, but the season did witness a healthy crop of solid contributors.

The HomeTown Newspapers East All-Area second-team offense is full of that talent. With a mixture of young and old, this lineup would be more than a match for any team in the state.

Novi's Andy Sill would have been a first-team performer most any other year. A senior, he was the workhorse of the Wildcat offense and was a surprisingly punishing runner for his small size. The other Novi connection on our all-area offense is receiver Derek Gavigan.

South Lyon's Greg McGuire could be one of the area's best runners next year, while quarterback-turned-tailback Jason Johnson showed that mental strength is just as important as physical ability.

Our line is led by a pair of tough competitors in Northville's Dave Eckerly of Northville and Novi's Eric Lenski. Millford's Chris Tobin adds strength to our blocking unit. Don Oziemski and Tim Tuzinsky, a pair from South Lyon's "Polish Power" offensive line round out the squad.

Here's a closer look at HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Second

DAN CALDWELL
Millford quarterback

At the start of the year, it looked like this junior would be a backup behind returning starter Jason Johnson. But when Millford coach Mike Shearer moved Johnson to tailback, Caldwell took over the starting QB role.

RECORD RECREATION

THURSDAY
November 25, 1993

Santa will be on hand to take all requests this holiday season.

Holiday activities planned for Novi

Special Writer

As you eat your fill this week of Thanksgiving turkey, stuffing and cranberry sauce, start gearing up for all the great holiday happenings the Novi Parks and Rec staff has planned for you and your family. Start singing those great old favorites like "Jingle Bells," "Deck the Halls" and especially "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" because the jolly old man will be in Novi on Monday, Dec. 6, to "Light Up the Holidays."

Dress warm and bring the family and friends to the Novi Civic Center for a great, old fashioned holiday celebration. The fun begins at 6:30 p.m. with hayrides through Power Park and hot cocoa on the Civic Center Plaza (south entrance). Visit with your Novi neighbors as you gather to hear the Novi Middle School Select Choir at 6:45 p.m. The 32 talented eighth graders directed by Nancy Moyes will sing everyone's favorite holiday songs. Join them for the special holiday sing-a-long as we get ready to welcome our special guest in the red suit and white beard!

Santa Claus really is coming to Novi and our new mayor Kathy McLallen will be on hand to give a holiday address and present Santa with the key to the city. Those reindeers know the way to Novi... follow the traffic heading for the Twelve Oaks Mall.

After Santa Claus receives his own special key to Novi, we'll start the countdown and watch as Santa and Mayor McLallen "Light Up the Holidays!" The glow from the Civic Center trees has always marked the official holiday season in Novi, but this year there is an extra special treat in store for you.

New this year and thanks to JCK and Associates, Novi Parks and Recreation is proud to present the "Light up the Holiday" Laser Light Show. Scheduled for 7:20 p.m., this outdoor laser show will be complete with fantastic graphics and holiday music. It's a one of a kind spectacular show that you won't want to miss!

After the breathtaking Laser Light Show, bring the family inside for warmth, refreshments and visits with Santa (he stayed for the Laser Light Show too). All good little boys and girls will find Santa in the multipurpose room waiting to hear their Christmas wishes. Special thanks to the Novi Newcomers and Neighbors

... they're baking the cookies for us that night! Since we're expecting a huge crowd, it's not too late to donate some of your favorite holiday cookies! Call parks and rec, they'll be happy to accept any donations.

Also, special thanks to the Novi Jaycees, Novi Optimist Club and the Novi Parks and Recreation Staff. Without these people, this fantastic, free, family event would not be possible. As you come to the Civic Center, please remember to share in the holiday spirit of giving and bring a can/boxed food item or unwrapped new toy for the Jaycees Needy Family Christmas Program.

Call Novi Parks and Recreation at 347-0400 for more information. See you at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 6.

Sensitive teeth are very common

Dr. Kathryn Hoppe, D.D.S.

Imagine drinking an ice-cold lemonade or a cup of steaming hot chocolate. Do you associate tooth pain with either experience?

Sensitive teeth are very common. About 40 million Americans suffer from sensitive teeth at one time or another, and for more than 10 million Americans the situation is chronic.

A hypersensitive tooth is caused by gum recession or abrasion. The tooth's hard, protective layer, the enamel, ends near the gumline. As the gums recede with age, or as a result of periodontal disease, the softer, more sensitive root is exposed. When this happens, the tooth becomes sensitive or painful. This pain is triggered by hot, cold and mechanical stimulation such as tooth brushes, toothpicks or dental floss.

Tooth abrasion is another cause of sensitive teeth. Teeth become abraded or worn away in three ways. Using a medium or hard toothbrush can abrade your teeth. Today, we recommend only soft toothbrushes so the teeth don't become worn away. Also, the soft toothbrushes clean better because they conform to the tooth better.

Constant eating of acidic foods such as tomatoes or oranges can also contribute to abrasion near the gumline, causing teeth to become sensitive.

Finally, poor oral hygiene can cause sensitive teeth. Plaque left on teeth can cause the teeth to demineralize or become porous, resulting in sensitive teeth. If oral hygiene isn't improved, decay will soon follow.

If teeth sensitivity lasts more than one to two weeks, you should see a dentist. There could be a deeper problem such as broken filling, a crack in the tooth enamel or decay.

A variety of treatments can help with sensitive teeth depending on the cause of the problem. You may need to pay more attention to the daily brushing and flossing. A prescription fluoride rinse or a prescription fluoride gel may provide relief. We now have more dental materials that can be placed on the sensitive area to help the sensitive tooth. Some are liquid medications for the tooth while others are actually bonded to the tooth in the form of liquid "tooth-colored" filling materials.

Whatever the cause, don't stay uncomfortable with sensitive teeth. Seek the care you need.

Dr. Kathryn Hoppe has a dental practice located in the Novi Professional Village, 23985 Novi Road in Novi. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the University of Michigan Health Centers.

HERE'S HOW

Painting vinyl siding with care; installing hardwood floors

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. Is it possible to paint vinyl siding with satisfactory results? My newly purchased house is partially covered with vinyl siding that appears to be in fine shape but is a truly ugly color. I am considering painting it myself rather than pay a very significant amount of money for new siding, just to change the color.

A. I have had conflicting reports on painting vinyl, and I am confused. Some paint and siding experts say no, that a coat of paint, lying dry and stiff on top of flexible vinyl will begin to warp and flake after one to three years as the vinyl expands and contracts. Others have said that good results can be achieved. Can you advise?—C.C.

A. Both vinyl siding and vinyl gutter systems can be painted. Often the manufacturer advises against painting. Once painted, vinyl loses its easy, no-maintenance qualities.

Like any other painted surface it will need repainting from time to time. The length of time between repainting will depend on the quality of the paint and your climatic conditions. If painted, dark colors should be avoided because they absorb more heat. This can tend to buckle the siding.

For a durable paint job follow these guidelines. First, thoroughly clean the vinyl surface. A rented power-sprayer will help remove heavy dirt and grime. Allow the vinyl to dry, then wipe down the surface with denatured alcohol (be careful—the fumes are toxic).

Use a top-quality acrylic latex paint with the recommended primer. One of your larger local paint dealers can make recommendations. Do not use an oil-based paint. And I'll stress again, do not use a paint that is darker than the original color because it will absorb more heat and cause the siding to buckle.

Q. About six months ago, we installed tongue-and-groove hardwood flooring over a cement slab, using an appropriate adhesive. This summer, many of the

Don't throw stones in the Deerhorn

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

All of the rear-facing living areas in the Deerhorn — eating nook, great room and master suite — are richly windowed. In fact, glass fills nearly twice the space as walls.

Consequently, these rooms are exceptionally bright and offer a panoramic view of the natural environment, be it riverbank, lake, ocean, canyon or lovingly landscaped yard.

Breakfasting in the sunny half-octagonal nook adds yet another dimension.

Lingering over mugs of coffee, you can enjoy vistas in three directions. And yet another large window is in front of the sink.

Abundant counter and cupboard space wraps around four sides of the large country kitchen. The counter that separates the kitchen from the nook serves as a buffet, when needed, and could be outfitted as an eating bar. Potted plants flourish in the narrow garden window.

The huge central living area could be outfitted as a family room, or sectioned off as dining room and living room, depending on family preference. Behind the pellet-burning stove, which is placed on a large hearth, the clipped corner is lined with brick, which holds and radiates heat long after fires have turned to ash.

A small step-in pantry is located in the passageway to the two-car garage, across the hall from a comfortably large utility room with ample counter space for folding clothes. If the Deerhorn is built over a basement, stairs would go here, between the pantry and the garage. If not, this space could house a broom closet or expanded pantry.

Storage space lines the hallway to the bedrooms, all located at the left end of the house.

A bay window adds elegance to the master suite, which has a walk-in closet, oversized shower and a second vanity in the dressing area.

The other two bedrooms share a bathroom with combined tub and shower.

Odd angles are another interesting feature of the Deerhorn. Only the utility room is totally rectangular.

DECORATING FOR # Christmas

By Anne Seebaldt Gogolin
Special Writer

By using a little ingenuity you can have a beautifully decorated home this Christmas for a price that's easy on your wallet.

Beautiful decorations needn't blow your Christmas budget, explained Roberta Bearup and Michelle Sadler, co-owners of The Village Florist located at 401 N. Main St. in Milford.

Decorations can be elaborate or simple, expensive or inexpensive to suit a person's individual preferences and pocketbooks. Even the simplest evergreen bough cut from the bottom of your own tree can be transformed into a beautiful evergreen swag or wreath to grace the walls of your home.

An inexpensive way to dress up a wreath is to use ornaments or decorations you already have, Bearup said.

The same principle may be applied to existing silk floral arrangements which are coordinated with one's home decor, Sadler said.

"People spend a lot of money on decorations and don't want to spend more on a Christmas centerpiece," she said.

Sadler also suggested using hollowed-out fruit, such as apples or oranges, as votive holders for candle centerpieces. When surrounded by Christmas greenery, they make a unique, inexpensive and bright centerpiece.

Christmas picks, artificial berries, fruit, and other holiday-oriented items, can add the perfect touch to greenery or floral arrangements, Sadler said. Christmas cactuses and poinsettias are other inexpensive, Christmas items available almost anywhere.

Another idea Bearup suggested was to spray pine cones with metallic or white paint for a glitzy or snowy look. The pine cones can join pine fronds in a basket centerpiece. Fresh or silk flowers are another possible addition to hand-made Christmas centerpieces.

Bearup said that placing ice cubes in a fresh evergreen arrangement will help keep the pine cuttings fresh.

The Village Florist sells ready-made decorated centerpieces, wreaths and wall hangings in a variety of styles. In addition to a wide variety of Christmas ornaments, Bearup sells the components to make Christmas centerpieces and decorations.

Dan DeClark, owner of Legends of Time, 453 N. Main St. in Milford, offered some tips for Southwestern Christmas decor. DeClark's suggestions included decorating a cactus with small Christmas lights or the chili pepper lights he sells in his store for less than $15. DeClark also sells brightly-colored tin ornaments and greenish-tinged copper decorations with western motifs such as horses, cacti, and saddles.

He suggested that the chili pepper lights could be hung on oak branches "planted" in a planter.

Crops to improve soil

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Q. Why raise green manures? Why plant cover crops or catch crops?

A. Simple. These cover crops will improve the soil by adding huge amounts of organic material.

They'll add valuable nutrients to it, or prevent valuable nutrients from disappearing and prevent soil erosion.

Catch crops prevent the leaching away of nutrients, increase the life of your soil, discourage weeds and provide ideal conditions for earthworms, nature's greatest workers. All overlap in their contributions.

Cover crops are easy to plant and require virtually no maintenance. Spring, summer and early fall are the times to plant them.

Most cover crops will grow right up until hard frost and will then protect your topsoil from wind and water erosion over the winter.

Always sow a cover crop that will thrive in your area.

Q. How do I keep vegetables growing indoors after frost?

A. If you've wondered how to use your leftover onion sets or perhaps you still have small onions in the garden, plant them in pots or containers and grow them indoors.

You can even put them in the same pots as your houseplants.

Because onions have foliage, they only need a little room and don't bother the growth of other plants close by. Just push a few onion sets into the soil, and they'll grow beautifully on your windowsill.

Chives and parsley make great indoor crops, too, and will keep producing as long as you keep snipping them! Simply dig up a clump of each plant and pot it.

You also may grow tomatoes indoors by using "slips" rather than whole plants. In the garden, break three or four healthy shoots or suckers with blossoms on them. Set the slips in a deep container with good soil and water generously for a few days. They'll root just like geranium cuttings and once indoors will extend your harvest for months.

Remember to fertilize and water your plants regularly, provide proper drainage and plenty of sun. During the winter months, you may have to

Pesticide smarts

- Do not double or triple the dose of any garden chemical.
- Overuse of insecticides can kill beneficial bugs and render vegetables unfit for consumption.
- Avoid using nonselective herbicides anywhere near desired plants.
- Always dispose of pesticides properly. Never pour pesticides down the drain.

New wallboard: the first coat

■ Because there are two surfaces on newly installed wallboard — the board's paper surface and the joint compound on the corners, seams and nail heads — a water-based primer is advised.
 ■ United States Gypsum makes a primer called First Coat. It is available pre-mixed or as a powder.
 ■ The experts advise professionals to cover all wallboard with a thin layer of compound to eliminate the two surfaces.
 ■ Do not paint until the two surface types have been primed.

Salvaging buckling boards; readers suggest

boards buckled and became loose. Is there a method of salvaging these boards so they can be re-installed? How can we prevent this problem from recurring?—G.W.

A. First, it is important to find the reason behind the buckling of your flooring.

One problem could be the lack of sufficient room for expansion when the floor was installed. To find out, remove the base boards. There should be at least a 3/8-inch gap between the floor and the wall. If there isn't, chisel out some of the flooring along the walls. When the baseboard is re-installed, it should cover up what has been chiseled out. When this correction has been made, the board should remain flat.

However, if the boards continue to buckle, it is possible that the adhesive pulled loose, causing a hardened, uneven residue to form under the boards. To correct this, carefully remove the popped up boards. If the boards break in the process, you will have to replace them with new planks, matched as closely as possible.

Install the new boards by cutting off the bottom side of the groove. Remove as much of the old glue residue as possible from both the floor and the undersides of the planks. A lot of scraping and elbow grease is the most reliable method. Trowel new adhesive on the floor following manufacturer's instructions and place a bead of glue on top of the tongue. Place the boards down and roll them. You may need to put some weight on the boards for a few hours to help them adhere.

If the boards continue to buckle, the source of your problem could be due to excessive moisture in the concrete slab. Moisture can exist even if the concrete looks dry. If your concrete subfloor is in direct contact with the ground, the dampness comes from below, and there seems to be little remedy for this after the floor has been installed. You might reduce the element of dampness by proper outside drainage to prevent water from soaking under the floor.

For the immediate relief of the condition, you can use portable heating units, with electric fans to direct the heat toward the buckled areas. Drying out the boards may reduce the buckling.

If not, you might trim the buckled boards, using a portable circular saw. Slightly narrower planks may enable you to press the boards back in place over fresh adhesive.

Weight the boards down with sandbags until the adhesive sets.

If this does not work and you continue to have problems with buckling due to moisture, the only alternative is to remove the flooring and properly seal the concrete subfloor to block out moisture migrating to the surface.

Often a good concrete sealer will do the job.

Another, more dependable method would be to install 6-mil plastic sheeting along with vapor barriers and a plywood subfloor installed over sleepers.

This would keep moisture from whatever flooring you choose.

READERS' SUGGESTIONS

Regarding the cleaning of copper pans, we received the following two reader suggestions:

• A great way to clean discoloration from copper pans is to rub them with ketchup. When the discoloration disappears, rinse the ketchup off and dry. It really works!

• Clean your copper by boiling canned pineapple juice. Then either immerse the item in the juice while still boiling, or pour hot juice over a soft cloth that has been laid on the copper article.

When the copper is a shiny as a new penny, you know that your work is done.

Growing crops to improve soil

move your plants from window to window during the day to capture the best sunlight possible.

Q. Can I store leftover vegetable seeds to use next season? My garden is tiny and I always have ample leftover lettuce, tomato and herb seeds.

A. Absolutely! Commercial seed packets can be easily stored in glass jars fitted with a rubber ring (for watertight seal) and placed in the freezer. Coated or pelleted seeds should not be kept longer than one year; raw seeds, however, will keep longer.

Seeds that last longest (three to four years) are squash, cabbage, radish, carrot, celery, cauliflower, lettuce, tomato and peas.

For home gardeners who want to save seeds from their own plants, they should make sure the seeds are:

- Cleaned thoroughly.
- Dried on newspaper for several days.
- Packaged individually in manila coin envelopes.
- Dried once more in a sealed jar fitted with a rubber ring with silica gel.

Put an equal weight of seeds and silica gel together, making sure the seed packets don't touch the gel directly.

After a week of this treatment, remove the silica gel and store the seeds as you would commercial packets.

These plates used to serve fish or game in England in the early 1900s.

Game plates and mother-of-pearl

By Anne McColam
Copley News Service

Q. This picture shows four of 12 plates that I have. Each plate has a different game bird painted in the center and all are in excellent condition. On the back of the plates are the words "Copeland-Spode—England."

I would appreciate any information you can give me.

A. In the late 1800s and early 1900s game plates were very popular. They were used to serve fish or game.

These plates were made by W.T. Copeland & Sons Ltd., Staffordshire, England, in the early 1900s. They would be worth about $1,200 to $1,500 for a set of 12.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a porcelain figurine of two children that I inherited from an aunt in Switzerland. The children are kneeling, facing each other, and kissing. It is about 5 inches high.

Could you please tell me the vintage and value of my figurine?

A. The mark you provided was used by Heubach Bros. in Thuringia, Germany, around 1900. Christoph and Philip Heubach founded the factory in the 1840s.

The firm was well known for making piano babies, figurines and bisque dolls. Your Heubach figurine would probably be worth about $400 to $450 in good condition.

ANTIQUES

Q. My caster set has five glass containers. It consists of salt and pepper shakers, oil and vinegar bottles and a mustard jar. The stand looks like it is made of silver plate. On the bottom of the stand is the word "Quadruple."

What can you tell me about my caster set?

A. Caster sets were fashionable from around 1870 to 1915. Their popularity waned by World War I. The stands were either sterling or silver plate. The word Quadruple means it was silver-plated four times.

Your caster set would probably be valued about $125 to $150 in good condition.

Q. Over 40 years ago I was given a set of mother-of-pearl flatware that was brought by a relative from England. It is silver plate and consists of six knives, six forks and six butter knives. All 18 pieces are in perfect condition.

Could you give me an approximate value?

A. Mother-of-pearl flatware was quite popular in the late 19th century. It was available in luncheon sets, fish sets and even picnic sets.

Your silver-plated flatware was made in the late 1800s. It would be worth about $150 to $175 for the set.

Q. I have two Audubon prints. One is "The Blue Winged Yellow Warbler," plate 20, which measures 20 by 16 inches; the other is "The Key West Dove," plate 167 and it is 19 by 13 inches.

Are they originals? Were all Audubon prints the same size?

A. "The Birds of America" was the name of the complete work of 435 engravings by John James Audubon. It was produced in the early 1800s.

His prints have been copied in a variety of sizes and methods. The originals were approximately 25 by 38 inches and known as double-elephant-folio.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McColam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

Decorating your home for Christmas with different styles and methods

Traditional Indian decorations which add a different — but still festive — air to the holiday season include strings of chili peppers and popcorn as well as "dreamcatchers" woven in suet and decorated with feathers. He suggested putting these decorations on a Christmas cactus.

The Woodland Indians traditionally hung dreamcatchers near bedroom windows to catch both good and bad dreams. The bad dreams would get caught up in the webbing and be burned off by the first morning light. The good dreams would filter down into the feathers and be held there to be dreamed another night.

Pat Guy, owner of Cabbage Rose

Ltd. in South Lyon, a Victorian-oriented antiques and collectibles shop, agrees that Christmas decorations need not be expensive. Cabbage Rose is located at 317 N. Lafayette St.

Guy explained that Victorian-era people made their own decorations, and among the most popular were popcorn and cranberry strings, acorns, nutcrackers, flags and dried flowers.

Other popular ornaments included fruit, crystal, candy, fans, paper garlands cut in fancy shapes, tinsel, lace and homemade trinkets. A Christmas tree would not be complete without edible items such as dried fruit, candy and caramel corn balls hanging on the tree for family enjoyment. Candles in holders often were placed on Victorian Christmas trees for a pretty, glowing effect, Guy said, adding that artificial lights are much safer; many Victorian homes burned down to candlelit trees in that era.

Victorians also made elaborate centerpieces made of glazed fruit and handmade embroidered stockings for people Christmas goodies.

For those who desire already-made items or others who would enjoy learning to make Christmas decorations, Carlene Atchison of the Artcraft Shop, located at 113 N. Lafayette St. in South Lyon, offers both options.

"We do fence poor Santas and snowmen, and door arrangements (such as wreaths) that you can make or buy," Atchison said. "We're having three Victorian tea parties where people can come in and make ornaments for the tree."

The crafting/luncheon events are scheduled for Saturday, Nov.

27; Tuesday, Nov. 30; and Saturday, Dec. 11.

"They can make as many ornaments as they like," she said. "They're here all day."

The cost of each ornament-making session is $6 plus materials. The least expensive ornament materials cost $3.

Atchison will host other seasonally-oriented craft classes, such as learning to make Christmas wall hangings and quilted tree skirts in the next month as well.

Atchison also had a suggestion to help inspire individual's projects. When she can't decide which Christmas projects she'd like to host, she visits Meadowbrook Hall, located on Oakland University's campus. She has gathered many project ideas from the historic home's decorations.

"You come out with so many good ideas," she said. "If you look hard enough, you'll be inspired."

Her store gives fresh look to used books

By RICK BYRNE
Copy Editor

The young, blonde woman that so cheerfully helped you find just the right novel at Hooked on Books isn't the hired help. She's not even the owner's daughter.

Amy Wagner, 22, is the owner of the used bookstore that opened recently at 24063 Meadowbrook Road. She's not shy about pointing out that it was her idea, her investment and her store, and no she didn't need her parents' permission, thank you.

"My parents weren't really supportive until I had it open and running," she said. "Once they saw it, the were 100 percent behind me."

Wagner got the idea to start her own book store because she thought she could do it better than others she'd visited.

"I'd shopped in used book stores all my life, and a lot of them had dark carpeting, dark shelves and books piled everywhere," she said.

"I'm an avid reader . . . or at least I was until I started this business. Now I have no time to read, if that makes any sense."

She's turned her space in the Peachtree plaza into a bright and cheery place to search for your next romance or mystery novel. The bright white shelves, trimmed in blue, are clearly marked by category, and there's a sizeable section for children and teens.

"My children's books are priced so low, compared to the industry standard," she said. "I'm a big believer in children reading. Parents are more likely to buy books for their children if they're 25 cents apiece as opposed to $3."

Unlike many used bookstores that limit themselves to paperbacks, Hooked on Books has plenty of hardcover volumes, reference books, cookbooks, do-it-yourself manuals and other non-fiction works.

A native of Livonia, Wagner is just a few credits shy of her bachelor's degree from Wayne State University. Being so young, she said, has its advantages.

"One of the Detroit papers ran a small six-line item about the store opening, and they included the fact that I was 22," she said. "I got calls from Rochester and everywhere else from people who wanted to see what kind of a store a 22-year-old would have."

The downside is that at times customers don't believe she's the owner. "If my mom is in here helping me, they'll ask her the questions until they realize she hasn't got a clue," she said.

Wagner showed all the business sense of a veteran in choosing her location. She researched Southeast Michigan carefully before she decided on Novi.

"Novi was the only city that didn't have a used bookstore that had the right demographics and was big enough," she said.

It doesn't bother her that Novi already boasts a number of new bookstores. She says her biggest competition comes from deep discount stores like Pace Warehouse.

"The way I look at it, the more new bookstores there are in the area, the bigger the supply of books for me," she said.

Although the bulk of her stock of some 30,000 titles has come from customers trade-ins, Wagner combed estate sales, libraries and book stores to find what she needed to open. And with melancholy in her voice, Wagner admits she even put some of her own collection on the shelves.

"It feels kind of funny when you see someone buy one of your books and you say to yourself 'That was mine, and I read it,'" she said.

With a capacity for 65,000 volumes, Wagner continues to accept trade-ins, and buys books outright too. Many of her sellers are readers themselves, though, and they prefer to trade for whatever's on the shelves. What's more, it's a better deal. Wagner sets a higher value on trades than outright cash exchanges.

Most used bookstores have a co-pay policy for trades whereby you trade your book with cash, say 99 cents, for another book. Wagner offers straight trade credits instead.

"My accountant doesn't like that, but I talked him into it," she said. Wagner's main stipulation for taking books is that they be in excellent condition. She'll take whatever's popular, and if she has a couple in stock already, she'll tell you to bring it in another time.

Amy Wagner has a youthful look but a veteran's savvy at Hooked on Books in Novi.

"Westerns don't stay on the shelves long," she said. "In most stores, romance is strong, but for some reason I don't sell a lot of them. I sell a lot of mystery and suspense stuff. Really male-type books."

Whatever your pleasure, you can probably find it at Hooked on Books. Store hours are Mondays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon to five. Call 380-4999.

Business Briefs

CONNIE ASHBURN of Milford has just returned from the international convention in San Francisco of Discovery Toys Inc. Ashburn, who has been affiliated with the company for two years, oversees a group of about 15 consultants.

At the event, a new partnership between the U.S. Committee for UNICEF and Discovery Toys was introduced by Edward James Olmos, internationally known for his Academy Award nominated performance in the motion picture Stand and Deliver.

Ashburn took advantage of three days of seminars in child development, self-esteem and positive parenting, combined with marketing and business management training.

Discovery Toys Inc., headquartered in Martinez, Calif., is the nation's leading originator and manufacturer of developmental toys, books and games for infants and children. Discovery Toys distributes its products in the United States, Canada, and Japan through a network of 30,000 educational consultants.

For further information about new toys or career opportunities, call Connie Ashburn at 684-1314.

GARY W. DORF, a fraternal insurance counselor from Highland, recently earned the National Quality Award from the National Association of Life Underwriters. Dorf is a district representative of Lutheran Brotherhood's Karl Mueller Agency in Rochester Hills.

This award honors those in the insurance business who write a minimum of 25 policies and who achieve 90 percent persistency for a minimum of 13 months. "Persistency" refers to the number of policies that remain in force during a specified time period.

Lutheran Brotherhood, a fraternal benefit society, offers a broad range of products and services to Lutherans nationwide. Through its fraternal programs, Lutheran Brotherhood aids its members, their communities and Lutheranism. During the past decade, Lutheran Brotherhood has contributed $300 million to fraternal programs.

TOYOTA

DEALER IN NOVEMBER:

1 This year, three Toyotas (Camry, Tercel & Paseo) were ranked in their price class

2 Five more (Previa, Land Cruiser, T100, 4 runner & 4x4) were ranked best compact or full-sized vehicle.

3 More than any manufacturer in the history of these awards.

4 In total, eight Toyotas were ranked best by their owners.

Toyota Quality. It's the most powerful statement that we can make.

Creative ideas for deserving men

By Priscilla Lister

Copley News Service

You know the type: picky, picky, picky. He hates to go shopping, but he's very particular about what you buy for him. Don't get defiant—get thoughtful.

As you gear up for your annual holiday quest for the perfect gift for your man, whether he's your husband, boyfriend, father or friend, consider these tips that might spur that special solution.

Judith King offers a basic beginning in her book, "The Greatest Gift Guide Ever" (Betterway Books). She recommends preparing a gift profile before you hit those stores. This profile goes beyond sizes and ages and delves into personalities. See if you can get gift hints from your man's hobbies, topics of conversation, wishes or dreams.

Meanwhile, here are some suggestions that may spur your own creativity.

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN

And they're no longer just basic black, gray or tan.

The ever-present tie as a holiday gift offers more excitement this year. Whimsical, witty prints, scenics and even art reproductions are hot this year, as are small geometric patterns in many bright and contrasting colors.

Contrasting collars on shirts are big again this year—the starched white against stripes or solids. But this look is strictly for the dresser dresser. And, in fact, the stripes are getting smaller and closer together.

Blues and grays are back in suits, which just last year were dominated by the earth tones of khaki, olive and taupe. And three-button suits are new this year, back from eons ago.

Fabrics have gone high-tech. European designer Faconnable has spurred a new high-fashion interest in what outdoor outfitters have used for years: microfibers that combine nylon with naturals for more water repellent jackets. And those high-tech fabrics are finding their way into suits this year, like Joseph Abboud's tissue-thin woolens blends where nylon allows the lightweight.

When it comes to jackets, bomber and baseball styles are still popular.

Corduroy pants are the hottest look in leg wear this season, while flannel plaid shirts and tweed jackets complete that casual style. Sweater vests and cardigans are other good layering ideas.

And no man really has too many sweaters, period. This year you'll find them in cotton and wool, patterned, solid, heathered and cabled.

Just about anything Western has become vogue, from cowboy boots to bolo ties to conch belts to silver buckle belts to cowboy hats. And today's jeans have several styles, from classic boot fit to slim to relaxed, easy fit choices.

Suspenders have gone way beyond basic black. Trafalgar is leading this fashion trend with silk statements that picture a Nottingham Snooker Club to a Romeo & Juliet theater ticket theme to scenics that evoke jazz, dice, toucans in the tropics, wild animals, circus animals and, of course, basketball and golf.

How about dressing up your formal man with tuxedo vests and cummerbunds that have taken their cues from tie silks?

Robert Talbott, for one, makes these special with gold metallic moons and stars. Others have silver and black diagonal stripes, small abstract oil-spill-like patterns and hot geometric prints. And don't overlook the opera scarf for men—the white jacquard silk with fringe to warming paisley and patterned lightweight woolens.

Cufflinks are back as cuffed shirts return to formal wear, too. Some are teamed with stud sets and they're sporting mosaics of colored stones or silver sailboat cufflinks with propeller studs, pianos and benches, scales of justice and even TV sets where the screen reveals your own tiny photo.

NOT FOR WOMEN ONLY

Fragrance for men has inspired almost as many designers as fragrance for women. Men's scents tend more toward citrus or pine notes, but there are literally dozens of choices.

No. 1 this year is Carolina Herrera's for Men, followed closely by Pasha by Cartier, Escape, Eternity and Obsession by Calvin Klein, Safari and Polo by Ralph Lauren, a signature Armani, DNA by Bijan, Bucheron, Byblos, Nautica, Valentino's Vendetta, Tiffany for Men, Paco Rabanne's Zenia, Italy's Molto Smalto, Mackie for Men, Giorgio for Men and Sung Homme, to name only a few.

Don't overlook your gourmet's desires or even those of your health-nut. More men are taking care of themselves in the kitchen these days with juicers, coffee makers and hot-air popcorn poppers.

DETAILS, DETAILS

Manicure sets in leather zippered cases may please your neatnik, as may a true shoe polishing kit. Linen handkerchiefs never go out of style and back in style are variously colored pocket squares. Organize his dresser top with a wooden jewelry box.

Don't overlook the potential in wallets, address books, key chains with his car's logo on it, driving gloves or even shoe horns.

And one gift that's sure to please just about any man is binoculars. They're good for more than birdwatching. Try them at football games, the theater or even the front porch, especially if that porch has a view of water activities or ski slopes.

Pretty dolls to surprise and delight

By Sharon Williams

Copley News Service

Some have wardrobes, furniture and accessories that rival New York's savviest socialites, while others are as famous as any movie star. Some giggle, cry and move. And some win hearts solely through their lovable looks.

In the 1990s, dolls still stand at the top of many holiday wish lists. From Madame Alexanders, Barbie and trolls to baby dolls, Cabbage Patch Kids and doll versions of Disney heroines Princess Jasmine, Belle and Ariel, dolls never cease to entertain and captivate their owners.

This year, Santa's bag is bursting with dolls for virtually everyone. Besides the usual decked-out dolls for display, dolls with great hair and battery-powered dolls, there are some newer, more enlightened additions to the toy box.

Examples include dolls for boys, dolls that promote cultural diversity and even dolls dressed to go to work in non-traditional fields.

Following are a few of the dolls sure to enthrall both young and old this holiday season.

OH, BABIES

- Cabbage Patch Kids (Hasbro). The Cabbage Patch Kids are 10 years old—and still as cuddly as ever. Among this year's crop is a limited-edition anniversary Cabbage Patcher, the Ruff 'n Tuff doll for little boys and the Baby Cries So Real, a doll that stops weeping when you wipe her eyes or kiss her forehead.

- Kids of Color Rag Doll (Playskool). Developed to highlight cultural diversity and promote respect for different cultures, these all-soft babies are dressed in traditional African kente fabric. Squeeze the doll, and you'll hear a cute squeaking sound.

- Baby Get Well (Tyco). Press this doll's arm, and she'll tell you if she's feeling fine or if she's a little under the weather. When her cheeks are red and she's coughing and sneezing, you can nurse her back to health.

Creative ideas for men

Take those binoculars one step further and consider a telescope, putting him in a starry mood.

And if he's a photographer, don't hesitate to buy him a new specialty lens for his 35mm camera. Look for used ones sold at many camera stores on consignment.

A CALCULATED CHOICE

For the cutting-edge type, electronic organizers are gaining. Whereas the pocket-sized electronic calculator was once king, these high-tech gadgets have gone way beyond addition and subtraction to become almost like mini-computers.

Nearly every manufacturer of calculators, from Sharp to Hewlett-Packard to Panasonic to Casio to Texas Instruments and even Rolodex have put such functions as schedules, address lists, to-do lists, and even scientific formulas and graphics on hand-held gizmos that will excite the man who loves to play with computers.

There are models that even help the poorest speller find the right word or foreign language translators for the world traveler.

Briefcases today can organize your man, too, and can also become a style statement.

And if your man's a writer, consider an honest-to-goodness fountain pen or personalized stationery. Maybe he'll write you more often while on his business trips.

Which brings to mind all kinds of travel gear ideas, from duffel bags to suitcase caddies to toiletry totes, not to mention the newest lines of carry-on bags that fit under the seat.

THE ENTERTAINER

If he's a party-giver, give him some special tools to work with: bar glasses with initials engraved, glass and crystal pitchers and decanters, wine racks, the latest effortless cork screws, thematic stoppers for opened bottles that feature golf, Santa or even champagne buckets.

Speaking of champagne buckets, how about an ice bucket filled with his favorite bubbly?

Here are just a couple of thoughts that may make him even more comfortable in his favorite position: an ottoman to rest his weary feet or a set of TV trays to make eating even easier.

If he's tired of TV but he's still a homebody, he's never too old for board or card games.

But sometimes the homebody turns into a handyman. These guys never have too many tools, either. Get them organized with a new tool chest or consider a new set of screwdrivers, drill bits, pliers, sander with several grades of sandpaper, assorted nails and screws, washers and nuts, and, ever popular, a gift certificate to his favorite hardware store.

Stanley, a leading manufacturer of hand tools, celebrates its 150th anniversary this year with a commemorative tool collection.

Each of the 11 tools in the collection is crafted to be a memento. The collection includes two saws, try square, level, marking gauge, a wood chisels and mallet set, a flat blade screwdriver set, hand screws, a brass reproduction of the first utility knife offered by the company, and a pocket tape with special engraving.

Skil, a maker of electronic tools, this year offers its Flexi-Charge Inter-changeable Power System, the first broad line of cordless power screwdrivers and drills for do-it-yourselfers that share the same removable, rechargeable battery pack.

EXPERIENCE THAT COUNTS

Think about those times he's revealed something he's always wanted to do, then give him the ticket to do it.

It may be a certificate for tickets to a World Series or National Football League playoff game, location to be determined when the time comes; or a helicopter ride above his city, a hot-air balloon lift in the countryside, a river-rafting trip, a private and professional massage, a speedboat rental for a day, boxing lessons, ski-lift tickets or scuba diving lessons. You get the picture — make his dream come true.

In fact, create a dream he didn't even know he had, but don't forget this is a gift for him, not you.

Plan a night out or a weekend overnight and steal him away to a secret destination. Make all the arrangements, make a date and take him to that barbecue pit on the bayou he's driven by many times or to that favorite fishing hole where a bed-and-breakfast inn makes getting up at dawn easier.

And there are also gifts that keep coming all year—magazine subscriptions. There's a topic that's sure to fit your man, whether its focus is the outdoors, bicycling, fishing, hunting, sports, golf, travel, horses, dogs, automobiles, boating, computing, gardening, hobbyist, history, fitness, photography, politics, science and even women.

You get the holiday idea: Give your man some thought and the gift you choose will be from your heart.

Challenging games for young players

By Jennifer Plantier

Copley News Service

Don't waste precious hours of the holiday season agonizing over what to give the children in your life. Once the colorful wrappings have fallen to the floor, few gifts please youngsters more than the perfect game. Select it carefully and it will provide many hours of entertainment even after the holiday decorations have been relegated to the attic.

Take note of the ages suggested on the box, but also keep the particular child in mind. Consider their skills and attention span, not just their current interests. Even if they are unbelievably fixated on the Ninja Turtles, a game that is too simple or complicated will find its way to the bottom of the closet floor.

THE LITTLEST ELVES

It is often easiest to delight the youngest category of gamers. Simple memory and matching games, as well as those that require no reading, suit preschoolers best.

Games that feature their most beloved characters will grab their interest instantly. Milton Bradley offers a myriad of easy-to-play but exciting board games starring Disney characters from Mickey and his friends to Snow White and Aladdin.

The Barney Memory Game and Sesame Street Scrabble, also from Milton Bradley, feature more superstars of the kid set. Golden Games' series of Barbie board games inspire lots of daydreams for gamers 5 and up, and their Big Bird's Talking Bingo doubles as an interactive electronic game and alphabet primer.

Tiger Electronics' line of Junior Hand Held Video Games invite youngsters into the huge video game market with titles such as Inspector Gadget, Batman The Animated Series and Disney's Aladdin.

Fast-action games with a little (or a lot) of silliness also make this year's list. Many simulate food fights or funny animal antics.

Milton Bradley's Picnic Panic, Eat at Ralph's and Loopin' Louie along with Parker Brothers' Wild Webber and The Grape Escape, combine just the right amount of gadgets and giggles.

Finally, consider these time-proven favorites from Golden Games with entertainment value that really lasts. Hi Ho! Cherry-O, a counting game, Pictionary Junior with kid-themes to sketch, and Husker Du, a visual memory builder.

A HOLIDAY QUEST

Choosing a game for older children (6 and up) will probably take a little more effort. It may prove helpful to remember their fascination with adventure and mystery. Games can harness that like no other form of entertainment, especially when it comes to interaction.

Board games such as Tornado Rex and Tower of the Wizard King, from Parker Brothers, take the imagination a long way from home. Pressman Toys has introduced two new games with some of the hottest superheroes around. Marvel's The Uncanny X-Men Alert Adventure! Game and The Marvel Super Heroes Game find players in the throes of real action.

Milton Bradley presents Jurassic Park, a hot board game title for reasons that need not be explained, as well as Forbidden Bridge and Flying Thunder. All three are chock-full of challenge, danger and thrills that match those of any box office hit.

Golden Games' Key to the Kingdom features the familiar quest for magic and treasure, while University Games' popular Where in the World is Carmen Sandiego? board game sends gamers all over the world in search of a crafty criminal who likes to steal treasured landmarks. Gamers may experience mystery of another sort with The Babysitters Club Mystery Game or Ask Zandar, a mystical board game complete with a wizard and his crystal ball, both from Milton Bradley.

Hand Held Video Games from Tiger also offer plenty of palm-sized action. Street Fighter II, Star Trek—The Next Generation and Jurassic Park head off the list of exciting licensed titles.

Nobody said all games had to be played indoors, even if it is the dead of winter. Kids will love to make a break for some fresh air and try out these new outdoor games. Parker Brother's new Scramball is a tag-like game with a colorful ball and wristbands, while University Games' Zip It is played with power nets that are snapped to send the ball flying.

A TIME FOR TEACHING

Learning doesn't have to be a tedious chore that kids toss aside until school reopens after the holiday season. A large and ever-growing market of educational games make learning a fun and exciting challenge.

The Words From Words board game, from GDB Game Concepts, builds spelling and vocabulary skills, while the Brain Quest Game, from University Games, prompts kids to think about the many different subjects they study at school in a new and fun way. Kids of many different ages can play together, each answering the questions that correspond to their own grade level (from 1 to 6).

Electronic games add lights and beeping sounds to the adventure. Quiz Whiz, from Tiger Electronics, drills kids with fascinating facts and trivia and MathSafari, from Educational Insights, utilizes lesson sets and programs to teach everything from basic math to complex formulas.

Child-size computers, such as the ComQuest PC and Super Computer, both from Team Concepts, resemble Mom or Dad's laptop but is really an interactive learning center with more than 22 games and activities.

The selection of computer software for children has also multiplied in recent years, and some of the new offerings for interactive CD-ROM systems are truly impressive. Busytown, From Paramount Interactive, features the animated characters of popular children's author Richard Scarry.

Don't face the aisles of children's gaming options, from board games to computer programs, without at least some preparation. After all, choosing the right game could extend some of that magic holiday happiness well into the new year.

VISIONS OF VIDEO

This holiday should follow suit with those in recent years when it comes to video game sales. They are as popular with many different age groups as they have always been. The Sega Genesis and Super Nintendo home entertainment systems still make wonderful gifts, and new cartridges are being released continuously so that gamers don't lose interest.

For cutting edge gamers, several new CD-based systems such as Sega CD, Phillips Interactive and the 3DO system offer graphics and sound that are a step up from current 16-bit models, but bear in mind that the price is quite a step up, too.

In case you're wondering, here's a few cartridges kids will be hinting for this year. Jurassic Park, Ecco the Dolphin and Sonic Spinball, all from Sega, have been slated for release for the Sega Genesis. Bubsy In: Claws Encounters of the Furred Kind, from Accolade, and Capcom's Street Fighter II Turbo promise to breathe new life into the Super Nintendo.

Pretty dolls to surprise and delight the little ones

DOLLS FOR PLAY AND PRETEND

- Barbie (Mattel). This quintessential dream doll continues her march into new and exciting realms—oftentimes with Ken on her plastic arm. Current takes include Hollywood Hair Barbie, Army Barbie, Native American Barbie, Romantic Bride Barbie, Glitter Barbie and Earring Barbie.

- Whispering Wishes doll (Galoob). Talk about positive reinforcement. When you hug this doll and ask her a secret question, such as "Will I grow up to be a ballerina," she'll whisper back, "Your dreams will come true." The doll also offers three other upbeat responses.

- Full House Dolls (Tiger Electronics). Inspired by the hit television series, this doll line allows kids to re-enact memorable episodes—or to come up with brand-new ones. The dolls are sold in families and are designed to reside happily together in the Full House Doll House.

- Tea for Two (Tiger Electronics). Tea parties take on a new twist with these dolls—each designed with a unique flavor of tea in mind. Scented with the fragrance they represent, each is packaged with two teacups and saucers—one for the child and one for the doll, naturally.

- Treasure Troll Tots (Ace Novelty Co.). These are baby versions of trolls—those famous blasts from the past that have won thousands of hearts in the 1990s. The "treasure" in the dolls' names refers to their bejeweled belly buttons.

DOLLS ON THE GO

- Jumpsie (Hasbro). Things always are jumping when this energetic doll is around. Capturing the pure joy of rebounding, Jumpsie bounces on her very own trampoline.

- Real Baby Coos and Giggles (Hasbro). This cuddly baby responds with real baby sounds to a child's loving care. When you talk to her or shake her rattle, she coos, and if you tickle her, she'll get the giggles.

- Baby Giggles 'n' Go (Tyco). Combining hands-on action with cuddly, nurturing play, this soft-bodied, cuddly doll comes in a two-speed walker that lets her run, bump and turn around—over and over again. Every time she bumps, she giggles.

- Little Darlings' Ice Skater (Meritus). A vision on ice in her pink leotard with white tutu and matching hot pink skates, this doll gracefully glides around in a toe spin while moving her arms. Other Little Darlings include Super Skater, Ballet Dancer and Baby Playful.

DOLLS WITH GREAT STUFF

- Caboodles Playsets (Toy Biz). Big girls use Caboodles carriers to store beauty products, but it's the little ones who really get to have the fun. Inside these Caboodles play cases are fun, fashionable fantasy worlds such as a beach, beauty spa or a mall that come complete with accessory pieces and 2-inch mini fashion dolls.

- Pretty and Me (Toy Biz). This 14-inch doll with loads of thick, lush hair comes equipped with everything she needs for a magic make-over—makeup, gem stickers and jewelry. All the cosmetics and hair products for the doll also can be used by the child who owns her.

- Krystal Princesses (Playskool). As much fun to look at as they are to play with, each of these themed dolls stands enclosed inside her very own enchanted dome. When she's in, she gets a magical crystal shower. Take her out, and she's ready to play.

Intelligent gifts to enrich young minds

By Jason Zappe

Copley News Service

Kids have been hitting the books for almost half a year, so those given as gifts should be on fun topics.

This allows your gift to play a dual role: entertain and educate.

With all that is available in books and videos you would need a workshop full of elves to sort through the paraphernalia. Or you can use the following to help get you in the holiday shopping spirit.

BOOKS

Here's an area that offers variety and quantity. The ages of your children will determine what kinds of books to buy them.

Choices range from fun, tactile pop-up books to classic fairy tales retold to scaled down versions of adult classics.

When it comes to choosing books for kids that are fun and educational, there's no beating the Muppets. Muppet Press offers a cornucopia of wonderful books. To help kids cope in the 90s, there's "One Frog Can Make A Difference. Kermit's Guide to Life in the '90s" by Kermit the Frog as told to Robert P. Riger and illustrated by Tom Payne.

On a more serious level there's "For Every Child, A Better World" by Kermit the Frog as told to Louise Gikow and Ellen Weiss and illustrated by Bruce McNally, Jr. conjunction with the United Nations. Kermit explains how the United Nations helps children around the world and what kids can do to help poor and homeless children.

There also are Muppet books that help little ones make steps to independence. For example, "Bye-Bye Crib," "Bye-Bye High Chair" and "Bye-Bye Blankie" by Bonnie Worth and illustrated by Tom

Cooke

Thanks to summer's "Jurassic Park," dinosaurs will be on almost anybody's list. Running Press gallops to the rescue with "Dinosaurs."

Part of a series, this is a fold-out book complete with 15 panels.

The illustrations are detailed and the colors are exquisite. In addition to "Dinosaurs," they also offer "Mysterious Places," "The Pyramid Builders" and "Indians of the Great Plains."

Another fascinating series from Running Press is its Start Exploring series. With these books, children use crayons and imagination to explore the world of nature, science, literature and art. The series includes "Forests," "Oceans," "Architecture," "Masterpieces," "Insects" and "Space."

Offering classic children's books for decades, Golden Press continues to offer great reads. Everyone remembers "The Poky Little Puppy." This classic is still available through Golden Press. In addition, Golden Press also offers such current favorites as "Disney's Beauty and the Beast," "Disney's Aladdin" and "Disney's The Little Mermaid."

Price Stern and Sloan offer some great beginner's books that combine color, fun and education. Kids will have fun with "A Big Alphabet • Book" and "One Big Counting Book." Illustrations guide children along as they learn about letters and numbers.

And if there are brave parents out there, Sterling offers two new joke books for kids. "World's Wildest Animal Jokes" by Francis Murray and illustrated by Sanford Hoffman, and "The Wackiest Nature Riddles on Earth" by Mike Artell will guarantee plenty of laughter.

VIDEOS

There's no denying that the video to be the most sought after for the holidays will be "Aladdin." Also available from Walt Disney Home Video is "Ariel's Undersea Adventures" and "Goof Troop!"

Fans of George of the Jungle will be glad to know there are four new adventures with George. The titles from CBS/FOX Video include "My Jungle 'Tis of Thee," "The Man From J.U.N.G.L.E.," "In George We Trust" and "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad Jungle."

CBS Video celebrates Garfield's 15th anniversary with the release of two new adventures. The irascible cat will star in "Garfield: His 9 Lives" and "Garfield's Feline Fantasies."

AUDIO

Anyone adding the video "Aladdin" to the holiday gift list will also want to include the new Aladdin offering in Walt Disney Record's Storyteller Series.

"Aladdin: Adventure in the Cave of Wonders" comes with a 24-page book and 15-minute narration tape. Not only will Aladdin fans enjoy this new tale, they will be able to read along and join in the fun.

Kid Rhino, the children's label of Rhino Records, offers young listeners a new voice. Mike Summers' "Side By Side" features his rendition of the Beach Boys' "In My Room" and the Beatles' "Yellow Submarine."

Listening to nature can be just as exciting as reading about it. Well kids can get an earful thanks to Tiger Electronics, Inc. They offer audio cassettes that bring the world to your kids' ears. Some of the titles include "World of Animals," "Monsters, Myths & Dinosaurs" and "Planet Earth."

Sugarplum fairies bring books and videos

By Jason Zappe

Copley News Service

Shopping for holiday gifts can turn even the kindest person into a raving, shove-you-out-of-the-way consumer bent on getting just the right gift for the right person.

It doesn't have to be that way.

Almost everyone loves a good book, calendar, movie or TV program. So why not pick up a box set of their favorite TV show, or the latest release from their adored writer?

Following is some elvish advice for finding something among the throngs of books, videos and calendars and to help you avoid the holiday shopping quagmire.

CALENDARS

If you want to give the gift that keeps on giving, choose a calendar of your recipient's favorite whatever and for the rest of the year you know your gift will be used.

Calendars have gone beyond the simple notation of days in a month and months in a year. Today's calendars range from the erotic to the exotic. You can keep track of the days with puppies, pin-up girls, dinosaurs and even your favorite recipes.

From Chronicle Books you can find wall calendars such as "Embracing Earth: New Views of Our Changing Planet" and "Arts & Crafts of Mexico: Always a gem is Frida Kahlo." The 4th edition has all new images.

For fans of the movie "Aladdin" might want to get the calendar "Aladdin" from Day Dream Publishing. The calendar includes illustrations from the movie. Another calendar/movie tie-in offered is "Jurassic Park." Day Dream also has calendars of Kathy Ireland, Michael Jordan and Marcus, the Calvin Klein pin-up for women.

Macmillan Calendars offer sophistication in their Audubon series that includes "Nature," "Wild Animal," "Wild Bird" and "Save the Planet." All contain beautiful full-color pictures to help you appreciate life.

If you know someone who's a big fan of Mike Peters' "Grimmy" in his daily cartoon strip, there's "The Year of the Dog" from Antioch press.

Other cartoon lovers can fun all year-round with Random House's "Life in Hell" and "The Simpsons."

Art lovers will be impressed by Universe Calendars' "Impressionism," with panels from the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Landmark Calendars offers the widest array of visuals to chronicle your yearly existence.

For animal lovers, selections include "Zoo Life," "Animals Animals," "Baby Animals," "Pandas," "Hummingbirds" and "Majestic Eagles."

For sports enthusiasts, look for "Run Log," "Golf — Beautiful Courses of the World," "Best of the NFL" and "Sailing."

Another good thing about calendars—before you wrap it, write a note on your birthday so you'll be sure to get a present.

BOOKS

Any bibliophile will tell you that if you're buying books for presents, it doesn't make any difference what the subject is, just as long as it is a book. That may work for the hardcore, but when giving a book, it's best to choose one that the recipient enjoys. Following are a few that will get you on the ladder and zooming past the shelves.

For fiction fans there's Tom Clancy's return to Vietnam "Without Remorse" (Putnam). For a more easy-going read there's Robert James Waller's "The Bridges of Madison County" (Warner). Tony Hillerman's latest is out, "Sacred Clowns" (HarperCollins). Nick Bantock concludes his "Griffin & Sabine" trilogy with "The Golden Mean" (Chronicle).

For bilingual readers, why not pick up Laura Esquivel's very hot "Like Water for Chocolate" (Doubleday) in Espanol?

Anyone familiar—and those not—with Maya Angelou will be sad if they miss her "Wouldn't Take Nothing For My Journey Now" (Random House). This collection of essays is personal, emotional and heart-warming. If more on the meaning of life is what your receiver wants, try hit comedian Jerry Seinfeld's "Seinlanguage" (Bantam).

Dog owners and lovers won't want to miss "The Hidden Life of Dogs" by Elizabeth Marshall Thomas (Davison/Houghton Mifflin). Women of all ages will be clamoring for Betty Friedan's "Fountain of Age" (Simon & Schuster). Some more humor comes down the road from Erma Bombeck in "A Marriage Made in Heaven" (HarperCollins).

And all Mick Jagger fans, whether they will believe it or not, won't want to pass up "Jagger Unauthorized" by Christopher Andersen (Delacorte Press).

Another special gift might be "Let's Do It" by Cole Porter and illustrated by Ward Schumacher (Chronicle Books). This enduring and popular song combines with colorful, loving illustrations to make for the perfect I-knew-you-cared gift this season.

VIDEOS

If visual entertainment is your escapism preference, think about box set video collections this year.

Box sets have always been popular for CDs. Why not get wrap up a favorite few shows from someone's favorite show for change of pace?

CBS Video is expanding its Classic TV Collections series. This year, new episodes of three of the most popular shows ever will be available. Fans will get new volumes of "I Love Lucy," "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "The Twilight Zone."

To ring in the holiday season, The Nashville Network offers the "Twelve Videos of Christmas." TNN veejays will be broadcasting the best Country Music videos with Christmas themes around Christmastime. Videos will include "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" by Ray Stevens and "I Only Want You For Christmas" by Alan Jackson.

Another Christmas video collection to help celebrate is "Merry Britmas." CBS/FOX offers the best of BBC programming. The video includes a variety of titles for the family. There's "Bernard and the Genie," "Blackadder Christmas Carol" and "Little Women."

From paperbacks to deluxe hardcover editions, books are always welcome gifts.

Holiday cookies are welcome goodies

By Orlando Ramirez

Copley News Service

Legend tells of a woman somewhere in the Midwest who begins baking Christmas cookies somewhere around the time the first leaf on the tallest branches of the oak tree begins to turn yellow.

She bakes lemon bars and fruitcake drops, candy canes made with red and green dough, gingerbread and sugar cookies slathered with creamy frosting. There probably hasn't been a cookie introduced in America this woman hasn't tried.

Her fame began at church cookie exchanges, then relatives introduced her cookies to their friends and soon she gained such renown that she began taking orders. To meet the demand she had to start baking soon after the back-to-school decorations came down at the local Woolworth. It is said she bakes at least 150 dozen cookies of 30 different kinds.

Most people don't start thinking about Christmas cookies until after Thanksgiving, and some don't start baking until a day or two before the holiday. There's so much to do during the holidays that cookies often get short shrift. But for many, the idea of Christmas without cookies is like Easter without eggs or Halloween without candy—you get the idea.

Once you get down to baking, try to make it a group activity, particularly if the kids are home on holiday vacation. The baking, and particularly the decorating, goes faster when there are extra hands to help.

The Gingerbread People cookies lend themselves to group activity. Some families make sure there is a Gingerbread Person to represent each member of the family.

Don't be afraid to improvise when cutting the dough. If Dad is on the stout side, add a little dough around the middle. Maybe Grandma wears glasses. A little icing will fix that. Get creative and cut out shapes for the family dog and cat to make sure they're included, too.

Be sure to bake carefully so the gingerbread does not become too dry. Also, it's important to add the currants for the eyes, mouth and buttons while the cookies are still hot. However, be sure the cookies are completely cool before icing. They are easier to handle that way.

Included here is the recipe for Traditional Sugar-Cookie Cutouts. Dig out your mother's or grandmother's cookie cutters for some traditional shapes to decorate. If you have none of your own, hunt antique, secondhand stores or garage sales for cookie cutters that are different from the usual Christmas tree, Santa Claus, star and

The Royal Icing I with the Gingerbread People recipe will work with the Sugar Cookie recipe, too. Add a few drops of food coloring to small batches of white frosting for vivid holiday colors.

It might be worth your while to invest in a pastry bag to help with the decorating. They come with a variety of nozzles to create different patterns as the icing is laid down. Handling the bag may seem difficult at first, but you'll soon get the hang of it, and the first messy attempt will still taste good.

The Toffee Diamonds are easy to assemble. The important step is to make sure the dough is well-browned so it brings out the deep toffee flavor. However, keep an eye on it as it bakes because well-browned turns to burned very quickly.

For some, it's not Christmas unless there is fruitcake. For others, fruitcake is a tradition best left in the past. These fruitcake drops find a happy medium.

The trick is to get the mixture right so the fruits don't become too cloying. It is important that the rum-soaked fruits and nuts be held together with just enough batter so these drop cookies don't crumble when they are handled.

The Cinnamon Stars are known as zimmerne in Germany. They contain no flour or fat and are a meringue-based cookie stiffened with ground almonds.

The dough will be rather sticky, so it is easier to pat out rather than roll the dough. Although stars are presented here, other shapes can be substituted.

These recipes are from the Cole Group's California Culinary Academy series cookbook, "Cookies at the Academy," available from the publisher, 4415 Sonoma Highway, Santa Rosa, CA 95409 (800) 959-2717, or your local bookseller ($11.95).

GINGERBREAD PEOPLE

1/2 cup butter, softened
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup molasses 1 egg
2-1/2 cups flour 1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
Dried Currants for decorating
Royal Icing I (recipe follows)
Yields about 1 dozen 4-inch-long cookies.

In large mixer bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light.

Add molasses and egg and beat to blend well; set aside.

In a bowl stir together flour, baking soda, salt, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Gradually add flour mixture to butter mixture, beating until just blended. Gather dough into a ball and enclose in plastic wrap; refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Preheat oven to 325 F. On lightly floured board, roll out gingerbread to thickness of 1/4 inch. Cut out cookies with a floured, 4 1/2-inch-long cutter and transfer to greased baking sheets. Bake until cookies are lightly browned around edges and feel barely firm when touched gently (about 10 minutes). Transfer to wire racks.

While each cookie is hot, press in currants to create eyes, mouth and buttons. When cool, decorate with Royal Icing I piped from a paper cone.

ROYAL ICING I

1-1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar 1 egg white 1 teaspoon strained lemon juice Food coloring (optional) Yields 3/4 cup.

In small bowl combine 3/4 cup of sugar with egg white and lemon juice. Beat until thick and white (about 10 minutes). Add remaining sugar and beat until stiff. Tint icing with food coloring, if desired.

TRADITIONAL SUGAR-COOKIE CUTOUTS

1-3/4 cups flour 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/4 teaspoon ground mace or nutmeg

1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened 1 cup sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla extract 1 egg Yields about 3 dozen cookies.

In bowl stir together flour, baking powder and mace to combine thoroughly, set aside.

In mixer bowl combine butter and sugar; beat until light and fluffy. Blend in vanilla. Add egg and beat again until fluffy. Gradually add flour mixture, beating until just well combined.

Enclose dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate until firm (1 to 2 hours or overnight).

Preheat oven to 325 F. Work with about half the dough at a time, keeping remainder in refrigerator. On lightly floured board or pastry cloth, roll out dough to thickness of about 1/8 inch. Cut with cookie cutters. Transfer to lightly greased baking sheets.

Bake until cookies are golden brown (10 to 12 minutes). Let stand for about 1 minute, then transfer to wire racks to cool.

TOFFEE DIAMONDS

- 1 cup unsalted butter, softened
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 cup flour
- 1 package (8 ounce) semisweet chocolate chips
- 1/4 cup minced, toasted walnuts

Yields about 45 1-1/2-inch cookies. Preheat oven to 350 F. In large bowl of electric mixer, cream butter, sugar, salt, vanilla and egg yolk until smooth. Gradually add flour, beating until just blended.

Spread mixture evenly in greased, shallow 10 1/4x15 1/4-inch baking pan. Bake until well browned (about 15 to 20 minutes); watch carefully to prevent burning.

Remove from oven and sprinkle chocolate chips evenly over surface. Let pan cool on wire rack 10 minutes while chocolate chips melt, then spread them evenly over surface with a spatula. Garnish with walnuts. Let cool completely before slicing into diamonds.

FRUITCAKE DROPS

- 3/4 cup dark raisins
- 3/4 cup golden raisins
- 1 cup chopped pitted dates
- 1 cup chopped, mixed candied fruit 1/2 cup dark rum
- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup unsalted butter, softened
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups toasted pecan halves, coarsely chopped
- 1 cup toasted, slivered almonds

Confectioners' sugar for dusting (optional)

Yields 50 2-inch cookies.

Preheat oven to 300 F. In medium bowl, stir together flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt. Set aside.

In large bowl of electric mixer, cream butter; gradually add brown sugar and beat until light. Add eggs, one at a time, blending well after each addition. Add macerated fruit and beat to blend. On lowest speed, add flour mixture, beating until just blended. Stir in nuts by hand.

Drop dough by generous tablespoons, placed about 1 1/2 inches apart, onto greased baking sheets. Bake until lightly browned on bottom (about 15 to 18 minutes). Transfer to wire racks. When cool, sift confectioners' sugar over cookies, if desired.

CINNAMON STARS

3 egg whites at room temperature Pinch salt 1-1/4 cups superfine sugar 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon 5 to 5 1/2 cups (approximately) finely ground unblanched almonds Yields about 2 dozen 3-inch cookies.

In mixer bowl beat egg whites with salt to soft peaks. Gradually add sugar; beat at high speed 10 minutes. With spoon remove 3/4 cup of meringue and set aside. Using lower speed, add cinnamon to remaining meringue and beat thoroughly.

Add 4-1/2 cups of ground almonds to meringue, folding them in gently but thoroughly.

Pat out dough to thickness of 1/4 inch. On work surface sprinkled with remaining 1/2 to 1 cup ground almonds (use as needed to keep dough from sticking), cut dough with star-shaped cutter. Transfer cookies to greased and floured baking sheets.

Using pastry brush or table knife, paint top of each cookie with even layer of reserved meringue. Let cookies stand in cool place for 2 hours.

When cookies are almost cool, preheat oven to 300 F. Bake until cookies are very lightly colored and tops feel firm when touched gently (about 20 minutes). Cool 5 minutes on baking sheets, then transfer to wire racks to cool completely. Store in airtight container.

Tasty ways to say 'Happy Holidays'

By Sharon Achatz
Copley News Service

Looking for the perfect gift? Focus on food. From sweets to salsa, vino to vinegar, there's something out there for every palate and pocketbook. Edible gifts are sure to please the recipient, and they're easy on the presenter—gifts can be as frugal or extravagant as desired.

For a simple gift, a single loaf of fruit bread can be wrapped in plastic wrap and tied with a colorful ribbon accented with small bells. That same gift can become elegant when placed in a napkin-lined basket along with breadboard, knife and jars of jams.

Another benefit of edible gifts is that one size fits all, although the best gastronomic gifts are those tailored to suit an individual's favored flavors.

If someone loves cinnamon and chocolate, for example, consider mixing the spice with a good cocoa mix and presenting the blend in a porcelain teacup or novelty mug with handwritten preparation instructions tied to the handle.

Missing Mom's homemade soup? Layer a variety of colorful beans in an antique glass jar, then attach the recipe with a festive ribbon.

If another person on your gift list is on a low-fat diet, offer up a fabric-covered hatbox filled with meringue cookies, macaroons or baked goods made with fruit purees rather than butter.

For ice cream or salsa fiends, present dessert sauces or salsas in canning jars topped with doilies or swatches of fabric—using pinking shear., cut circles of fabric and tie with a bow or ribbon.

As these examples suggest, one need not be a baker or chef in order to lavish friends and family with gifts of food. There are plenty of specialty stores stocked full of ready-made goodies ready to pluck from the pantry and plunk into a gift basket.

Speedy shoppers can even buy ready-made baskets that incorporate everything from meats and mustards to cheeses and confections, but, again, the best gifts are individual expressions of the recipient's interests.

Experts suggest choosing an overall gift theme and then selecting edible and non-edible tie-in items—adding as many items as your budget allows.

For a Johnny Appleseed, pack a basket with a variety of shiny apples, an apple wedge slicer, apple butter and apple-nut bread. To round out the basket, toss in recipe cards and perhaps a cookbook.

If there's a mouse in the house, create a cheese smorgasbord. Line a basket with a checkered napkin, then fill it with a wide selection of individually wrapped cheeses. Include a cutting board and slicer, decorative spreading knife and a crock of creamy cheese spread. For variety, include a jar of marinated vegetables or pickles. Finish off the basket with a crusty loaf of bread and good bottle of wine. own or to be included in an elaborate basket, it's best to individually wrap all items.

Be on the lookout for interesting baskets, ribbons, bottles, tins and boxes that will best display your gifts—from Oriental takeout boxes purchased from a paper goods store to glass bottles and bowls or nostalgic tins picked up from the thrift store.

To add a personal touch — whether the gift is simple or elaborate, store-bought or homemade—include miniature cards with handwritten suggestions for serving the foods and recipes for home-baked goods.

Top a breakfast-in-bed tray with gourmet muffin or pancake mixes, flavored syrups, dried fruits, coffee beans and a grinder.

Create a pasta fest by filling a colander with a variety of pasta in festive colors and shapes, a garlic press and string of garlic heads, jars of sun-dried tomatoes and a cookbook.

Surprise someone with the makings of an elegant tea party or coffee klatch. Line a serving tray with a floral napkin or crochet doily, then place atop that a batch of cookies, biscuits or tea breads in a nice container. Add a jar of honey or jam, fill a decorative tin with flavored coffee or tea mix, and finish off the tray with a porcelain teapot.

Chocoholics will enjoy a celebration of their sweet treat, whether store-bought or homemade. Distributors are full of innovative gifting ideas, from miniature chocolate boxes filled with a select few truffles to towers of confection that layer box after box of a wide assortment of chocolate treats—from coated nuts and pretzels to chewy caramels.

It's easy to give equally elegant presentation for homemade confections with the likes of crystal jewelry cases and novelty items such as a toy sleigh filled with fudge or toffee.

Festive packaging is part of the joy that goes into giving. Whether an item of food is to be presented as a gift on its

Copley News Service

Just about the time you are stuck in Chicago's O'Hare airport sandwiched in a mass of gift-bearing humanity this holiday season, you may ask yourself a very good question.

"For this I get to go to East Moline? Why not Hawaii? Europe? Skiing? Beaching? Anything but Aunt Rose's fruitcake."

Why not, indeed.

Of course you still have to travel and if that involves flying, you have to deal with the panicked expressions of airport personnel who see the holiday season as something just short of Armageddon. Plan ahead and run, don't walk, to your telephone to make your reservations while there is still a seat or two left.

Many destinations and hotels offer very attractive holiday packages that include festivities, decorations, meals and children's programs. As a general rule, warm-weather destinations are often slightly less expensive during this period because many people want the holidays to be spent in snow. On the other hand, places like ski resorts boost their prices since the holidays are their busiest period.

AROUND THE U.S.

Hawaii often tops the most desired holiday getaway spots. Many hotels in the islands run special holiday events. You can choose from superdeluxe at the Grand Wailea Resort and Spa on Maui (808-875-1234 or 800-888-6100) with rooms starting at $350 and topping out at 58,000 for the Grand Suite, and work your way down.

Some other Hawaii resorts that offer special holiday attractions include The Stouffer Wailea Beach Resort (808-879-4900 or 800-468-3571), also on Maui; the Ritz-Carlton Mauna Lani (808-885-2000 or 800-845-9905) on the Big Island's Kohala Coast and the Hyatt chain's four Hawaii properties at Waikiki, Waikoloa, Kauai and Maui (800-772-0011).

While all these resorts are pricey, there are special holiday celebrations in the islands that are available no matter where you stay. Around the islands, towns and villages all have their own special ways of celebrating, many of them free. Call the local chamber of commerce.

California offers a variety of holiday getaways you may not have considered. One of the best may be San Francisco, especially its Union Square.

"The City" as residents call it, has dozens of temples, churches, mosques and religious celebrations embracing just about any of the world's religions.

The St. Francis Hotel in Union Square offers a more worldly holiday with discounted package rates from $119 to $189 per night. Choirs perform in the hotel lobby under its renowned decorations.

Whether or not they're in the snow, most hotels and resorts are transformed into festive winter wonderlands.

Outside, Union Square bustles with shopping opportunities. Call (415) 397-7000.

Mendocino County, high above the Pacific north of San Francisco offers an annual holiday festival in December with tours of historic homes, dramatic productions and special events staged by the county's many inns and restaurants. Call (707) 961-6300 or (800) 776-7780.

Napa Valley, the heart of the state's wine country is another favorite for the holidays. Nearly every vineyard and inn offers a holiday program. One, The Meadowood Resort, is featuring the work of 12 famous chefs from December 9 through '90. Call (707) 963-3636.

In Southern California, the Ritz Carlton in Laguna Niguel turns into a holiday wonderland every year. Perched on a cliff overlooking the Pacific, it's easy to see why Santa makes it a regular stop.

Florida may be the most popular winter destination in the U.S., but it has always been a little short on special holiday attractions. Still, there are a few spots offering unique celebrations. Tallahassee has decided it was the site of the first New World Christmas about 450 years ago because Hernando de Soto camped nearby.

This year the city will re-enact the encampment as part of its Southern Accents of Winter program that includes events from home tours to a production of Nutcracker. Call (904) 488-3990 for details.

Anelha Island in North Florida will present its third annual Victorian Seaside Christmas in the island's Victorian era town of Fernandina Beach. Call (904) 761-3248.

Lasting a little, Acadian culture might be another way to spend your holidays.

The Cajun city of Lafayette, Louisiana features several large holiday celebrations in the city and in its Acadian museums and recreated villages. Call (318) 737-3808 or (800) 346-1955.

In New Orleans, the city will celebrate its 275th holiday season with decorations in the French Quarter, choraling on riverboats and fireworks over the Mississippi.

Williamsburg, Va., has had a long history as the American favorite holiday spots thanks to the Grand Illumination. The historic town becomes a sea of old-fashioned Christmas lights and services, with all the bells. The city's 300-year-old houses are decorated in the style of the 18th century. Call (800) 557-5570 or (800) 557-5570.

The holiday season in the Northeast Christmas season is a celebration of the season's spirit. The city's 300-year-old houses are decorated in the style of the 18th century. Call (800) 557-5570 or (800) 557-5570.

Holiday in the Southwest is a celebration of the season's spirit. The city's 300-year-old houses are decorated in the style of the 18th century. Call (800) 557-5570 or (800) 557-5570.

In recognition of the diversity of people living in the United States, The Children's Museum of Boston has organized Winter Celebrations, a series of performances and activities starting December 5 when children can participate in an African American Kwanzaa celebration, Hanukkah, the winter solstice, the Scandinavian Santa Claus Christmas and seasonal Asian rites. Call (617) 428-6800 for dates and times.

SKI PACKAGES

Escaping to a ski resort has become a favorite way to travelers to celebrate a traditional snowbound season and still have a vacation. Most resorts offer holiday packages and events geared to creating a family feel welcome. Resorts such as Sun Valley, Taos and Jackson Hole present Christmas Eve torchlight parades, special children's programs, holiday menus and other special events.

While it's not a ski resort, the Broadmoor, near Colorado Springs, Colo., does offer a variety of winter activities in its holiday packages including a "Pops on Ice" skating show, a special dramatic production, a children's program and passes to local attractions. Call (719) 634-7777.

NEW YORK

There may be nothing quite like spending the holidays in one of the world's great urban centers, especially New York. Holiday events run the gamut of cultures, prices and experiences from skating at Rockefeller Center, shopping the windows at Saks, visiting special museum exhibitions and eating at the city's great restaurants, some of which, such as the famous Russian Tea Room, prepare special holiday menus.

Some special events include the American Theatre production of "The Night Before Christmas: A Musical Fantasy" and a skating version of "Clement Clarke Moore's 'A Visit from St. Nicholas.'" It has become a tradition for the season.

The Thompson Morgan, born at 25 East Street, presents a family holiday celebration of "Mondays in December" at 3:30 PM. The show will contain readings of classic holiday stories and holiday shopping.

Some hotels offer bargain rates during the season since their normal business clientele stays home. The Grand Hyatt, 111 E. 57th St., has $80-$135-$135 or Park Avenue at Grand Central is offering itself at $45 per room during select holiday weeks including parking, a bargain to New York.

The Stanhope Hotel, 1011 Avenue A, has a package price, a $295 per night that permits children to stay for free and includes passes to the Children's Museum of Manhattan, the American Museum of Natural History, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Central Park Zoo, and yes the kiddies will also receive the help of a personal shopper for a special trip to F.W. Schwarz. Call (800) 828-1121 or (212) 288-5800.

CARIBBEAN AND CRUISING

The Caribbean celebrates the holidays at a more relaxed pace than the mainland United States and cruise lines follow suit with theme cruises during the season.

Most of the resorts on the region's islands create special packages, often at lower rates than during the early and late winter seasons.

EUROPE

Harrod's in December or window shopping in Munich's Marionplatz during the season might leave you with memories much more valuable than new golf clubs and Gameboys.

Dickens might shudder at the luxury, but Hilton's two London properties and the Savoy Group's hotels in the United Kingdom have created holiday packages that would require little Tom to rob a bank. The modern Park Lane Hilton in Mayfair has a $490 per person package that includes three nights, breakfasts, Christmas Day lunch, and a brunch. The Langham Hilton is charging a mere $2,250 for a night for two in the Royal Suite with a long menu of perks including theater tickets. Call (800) 445-8667 for Hilton and (800) 223-6800 or (212) 838-3110 for the Savoy group.

The Lanesborough, on Hyde Park Corner has packages from about $300 per night including room, breakfast and airport transfers. Call (800) 999-1828.

Savoy's Lucknam Park, near Bath, offers a Christmas Break package December 24-27 including lodging, meals, and events like archery, shooting and listening to the queen's message in the drawing room. All that Englishness will cost you from about $1,000 up.

If you've always wanted to find yourself in the middle of a P.G. Wodehouse novel, try the Castle Ashby Christmas House Party, an adults only gathering December 24-27 at Castle Ashby near Northampton. The approximate cost of $300 per person per night gives you a room, meals, drinks and entertainment. Contact Alan McAnish, 01938 544999.

Amsterdam is celebrating its own Golden Age, the 1600s, when it was an art and manufacturing center of Europe. "Winter the Amsterdam Way" packages are available that include discounted room rates and free admission or discounts to attractions. Call (212) 370-7367 or (312) 812-0300 for details.

Christmas in Greece and in the Greek sector of divided Cyprus is a unique experience with special menus including kolouria bread, pastries, strolling chorales and solemn religious observances. In Cyprus, most people exchange presents at New Year's rather than Christmas.

In fact, every European capital has special holiday celebrations and most hotels offer package deals.

Of course, if you really do not want to leave far from home, look at your own backyard. There are regional events all over the country. For example, Louisville, Ky., will present its annual Holiday House Tour, December 4-5. The Lyric Palace Christmas Celebration will be held at New Bern, North Carolina in early December. Call (813) 638-5800. The Old Cowtown Museum in Wichita, Kan., holds its Old Fashioned Christmas the first two weekends of December. Call (316) 286-0241.

The holidays, after all, don't live in any special place. They live in your heart. Ever if you're at Aunt Rose's in East Moline.

Holiday fashion tips for all ages

By Sharon Mosley

Copley News Service

Those holiday parties are rolling around as fast as you can say "RSVP." If you're searching for a few new ways to get your wardrobe in a festive mood, don't worry. This holiday season there are plenty of ways for everyone in the family to dress stylishly for the party circuit.

If you've got a list and you're checking it twice, check off some of these holiday fashion tips and trends.

GETTING CREATIVE

First, take a look at the clothes you already have in your closet. When it comes to dressing for special occasions during the holidays, it's important to think creatively. "Creative Black Tie" is a phrase often bandied about on invitations these days, and it's become the credo of the fashion savvy.

Since contemporary fashion is full of contradictions—short and long, vintage and new, sporty and formal—it's OK to throw away the rule book. The holidays are the perfect time to do your own thing.

For women this year, dressing imaginatively for a holiday party might mean combining a lace turtleneck body suit from a lingerie store with a vintage tuxedo jacket from a resale shop and teaming it all with flowing chiffon palazzo pants or skinny velvet jeans, then accessorizing it with cross pendants or cameo chokers and granny boots. Or try wearing a vest without a blouse; a tasseled rope as a belt with a tunic, a pajama top as a jacket.

Many holiday clothes take on the air of a costume. Long velvet frock coats flowing tunic robes, fur hats and embroidered vests have the trappings of an era long ago. A holiday party is one time you can act the part and dress up to your heart's content.

BLACK ATTACK

Black is always a holiday favorite, but by mixing up some of your basics in the classic hue with some unexpected twists—for example black jeans with black velvet jacket—you'll get lots more fashion mileage from your clothes.

And if you're tired of black, try sparking up your darks with a crimson red brocade jacket or taffeta vest. A few yards of a shimmering iridescent taffeta or lush velvet from your local fabric store could do wonders swathed over bare arms and a little black lace column dress.

MENSWEAR FAVORITES

For men, getting creative for dressy occasions means taking a different approach to the traditional suit. The holidays are the perfect time to be a little daring. There's no excuse to settle for a humdrum vest or cummerbund and tie set when the event calls for a tuxedo.

And when the party is not quite so formal, instead of the typical two-button jacket, try an updated three-button suit or sport coat in a subtle herringbone or houndstooth wool. Paired with a small-checked shirt and geometric-designed tie and braided leather suspenders, this fresh ensemble is a delightful change of pace.

Banded collar shirts or a knit turtleneck are other ways to add a sophisticated touch to holiday dressing sans tie.

KID STYLE

Kids always seem to come up with creative ways to dress for the holidays. It's their favorite time of year. It's also a time to pretend to dress like the grown-ups. For girls, crushed velvet takes on visions of sugarplums in panne peplum tops, jumpsuits, broomsuck skirts and leggings teamed with poet's blouses. Floppy brimmed velvet hats trimmed with antique flowers are another way to make the holidays festive.

Tartan plaids are also tempting for kids during the holiday fashion season. Double-breasted vests for little boys and party frocks for girls all get the plaid treatment.

Sweater dressing gives boys lots of options when it comes to party style. V-neck cardigans and pullovers in sharp stripes are teamed with loose-fit corduroy pants. Varsity jackets and color-blocked parkas add the finishing touch.

CASUAL CHIC

While there are plenty of occasions during the holidays that call for dressing up, there are still even more parties where dressing down is more appropriate. Tuxedos and lace may not be quite the thing to wear to a cozy dinner by the fire with close friends or to an afternoon open house in the neighborhood.

But this year you can get away with wearing velvet for even the most informal get-togethers. The velvet jean is currently a big hit and a great day-into-evening piece to add to your wardrobe.

Velour stirrup pants or leggings are other wardrobe stretchers that look festive when topped off with a romantic white shirt, stretchy ribbed T-shirt, tunic sweater or even a denim shirt.

Velvet body suits and T-shirts are great go-with-alls for blue jeans, crinkled skirts and full-legged trousers.

Soft cotton knits are another alternative when the party invitation says casual. Layering is the key to dressing up or down these versatile pieces. Long vests can mix with long tunics, slim skirts, slim leggings or soft, wide-leg pants. Be sure to choose coordinating colors when you buy knits, and the possibilities of mixing these pieces are endless.

Knit pullover sweaters are great for the guys, too, when it comes to casual holiday dressing. Denim or flannel shirts layered with sweaters and corduroys or jeans are always comfortable. Plaid blazers and cotton polo-style shirts are other options paired with jeans or trousers.

For kids, hooded fleece tops are casual cool-weather winners. Athletic team logos abound on these pullover styles. Novel cartoon characters and holiday motifs show up on knit tops, too.

Teamed with knit leggings for girls or fatigue pants for boys, the fit is oversized and comfortable. Great for gifts, too.

DETAILS, DETAILS

Even if you're rushed, the holidays are no time to forget to take a few extra minutes with your makeup routine, which often has to look great from day to evening.

For long-lasting benefits, make sure you dust your foundation and blush with loose powder to make it last throughout the day; apply two coats of mascara; outline lips with lip pencil and lightly dust with powder after you put on your lipstick.

For a quick touch-up in the evening, refresh your powder and lipstick. Strong, dark lips in berries and brown shades are the focal point of the holiday face.

GLAMOROUS EXTRAS

Accessories can instantly update your holiday wardrobe. Costume jewelry is making a big return in vintage-look chokers, long cross pendants and sparkling rhinestone earrings.

Crushable velvet hats are another holiday favorite. Again, special occasions are much more fun when you feel dressed up.

Hats seem to make anything you wear take on a more festive air.

Glamorous evenings can also be an excuse to experiment with your hair. Sweep hair up in a French twist, let it loose in romantic curls, slick it back in a chic chignon or wear it wispy and boyishly short.

Since Victorian fashions are right in style, watch for hair accessories featuring antique floral patterns in rich velvets, lace and chenille. Glossy gold barrettes, faux tortoise and lacquer combs and bun covers hold hair beautifully in place.

Ornaments, from whimsical to traditional

By Sharon Williams

Copley News Service

There was a time when Christmas decorating began with candy canes and ended with strings of popcorn and cranberries. Today, the objects and ornaments that adorn the tree are almost as personal as one's reflection in a shiny Christmas ball — there's something for every personality, passion and pursuit imaginable.

It's safe to say that if you can dream it, you can find it and decorate with it. If, for instance, you love Southwestern style, you can adorn your tree with colorful coyotes, cacti and kachina dolls.

If you're an animal lover, you'll quickly find there's a zoo out there waiting to inhabit every wreath and corner of your home.

And if Santa is your No. 1 man, you'll find hundreds of takes on the jolly old fellow ranging from charming Old World depictions to contemporary portrayals that have him raiding the icebox or zooming around on a snow mobile.

There are one-of-a-kind ornaments, antique ornaments, ornament collections, ornaments that flash and move, ornaments designed especially for the treetop, ornaments to eat and ornaments crafted from blown or cut glass. And that's even counting the ornaments you can make, such as cross-stitched ornaments, hand-painted ceramic and wooden ornaments, ornaments crafted from leaves, flowers, fruits and foliage, paper ornaments and home-baked cookie ornaments.

It's a far cry from the first ornaments — the angels, stars, toys, gilded nuts and brightly wrapped candies the Germans used to decorate their Christmas trees. Later came tinsel and lighted candles.

It wasn't long before other countries were adopting decorating decorum. Scandinavians first used fish nets and little flags, then updated with cookies, apples and gilded nuts. Traditional trees in Poland are trimmed with bright paper ornaments and candies.

In the United States, popcorn, candy canes and cranberries soon gave way to gingerbread men and colored balls. From there, a literal ornamental explosion took place as trends in baubles and beads for the boughs followed each and every possible path.

Among today's most beloved ornaments are:

- Decorative "firsts": Dozens of ornaments celebrate the big "firsts" in people's lives, such as baby's first Christmas, a couple's first Christmas together or first Christmas in a new home. Photo ornament holders that showcase a snapshot or silver, brass or glass ornaments that can be engraved with dates and names go hand in hand with this idea.

- High-tech baubles: Heartwarming Christmas vignettes literally come to life when you plug in ornaments that use light, motion, music and even synthesized sound. In Hallmark's offerings, for example, there is an ornament that has Santa running a marathon with his reindeer, and another with Looney Tunes' Road Runner and Wile. E. Coyote in a high-speed chase.

- Foreign favorites: Straw dolls from Sweden, dough ornaments, mini pin-atas and papier-mache creations a la Mexico and the brightly wrapped party crackers of Britain are just a few of the many ornaments that celebrate Christmas in foreign lands. Hallmark's selection this year includes an ornament that reflects Ukrainian holiday traditions.

- Treetop trimmers: Ornaments and objects for the top of the Christmas tree ensure that the pinnacle will be as striking as the rest. Angels and stars are traditional, but there are many other options from which to choose. One of the best this season is Madame Alexander's angel doll, which comes complete with golden wings and her very own halo.

- Ornamental edibles: The traditional gingerbread man still holds a lot of clout as a hot tree decoration. Other edible possibilities include chocolate ornaments wrapped in colorful foil and whimsical hand-painted cookies. You also can create a most tempting tree with faux replicas of popcorn, candies, fruit and cookies that look good enough to eat.

- Do-it-yourself decorations: This may be the best year yet to make your own holiday decorations. Craft stores and fabric shops are full of ideas for ornaments that can be stitched, quilted, embroidered, painted or even folded.

- Collectibles and commemoratives: Oftentimes, ornaments are designed to celebrate an event or anniversary, or as additions to ongoing collections. Saks Fifth Avenue, for example, is offering a hand-painted Christmas ball that's the third in a series. Hallmark's collectible collections include classic American cars, nostalgic miniature homes and shops and even Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

- Up close and personals: You can find the perfect ornament for every person on your Christmas list. There are ornaments designed for parents, children, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews, families, teachers, grandparents, grandchildren, godchildren, teachers, coaches, neighbors and even the family pet.

- Great 'toons: Mickey Mouse, Winnie the Pooh, Charlie Brown, Superman, the Pink Panther, Bugs Bunny and Tweety are a few of the cartoon characters that have made the leap from the comic pages, movies and television onto the Christmas tree.

- Outdoor celebrations: Outdoor, Western-inspired themes are forging their way in many holiday homes this year. Miniature canoes, hand-carved trout, grizzly bears, buffalo and deer, tiny fishing creels, quilted stars and ornamental frames crafted out of twigs are just a few of the rustic ornaments to consider.

- Elegant trimmings: White, gold and clear ornaments are the classy trappings decorating some of the season's most elegant trees. Essential elements include icicles and ornaments blown or cut from glass, frothy white bows, birds, snowflakes and gilded beads and balls.

Ready to decorate your tree? Whether you're seeking a few ornaments to add to your collection or searching for a new look this holiday season, the following tips can help you hone in on the right ornaments:

- Let a theme inspire you: You can find ornaments built upon practically every theme imaginable.

There are regional themes, foreign themes, color themes, animal themes and storybook themes.

- Look for the unexpected: If you're purchasing just one or two new ornaments this year, consider an antique or one-of-a-kind bauble. Search secondhand emporiums, off-the-beaten-path boutiques, fine gift shops, flea markets and craft fairs for possibilities. Or, turn an everyday object into an ornament by adding wire and hanger.

- Create a collection: An ornament collection displayed on a tree not only makes for a put-together look, but offers its owner an easy way to update every year.

- See the shows: Christmas tree festivals and fairs where trees are decorated by individuals and groups and then sold for charity are brimming new ideas and themes. Ditto for the proliferation of year-round Christmas boutiques and departments that always feature an aisle or more of breathtaking trees.

Clever gift wrapping and greeting cards

By Elizabeth Scheibner

Copley News Service

Want to turn your ordinary packages into something spectacular this season? With a little imagination, you can create packages that will dazzle even the Grinch.

Whether you want to go all out and create your own wrapping paper and decorations or rely on commercially made products, there are more options than ever before when it comes to holiday gift wrapping.

Beginning as early as October, gift stores, craft stores and department stores begin stocking up on gift-wrap, tissue paper, cards, bows, ribbons and decorations—virtually everything you need to wrap your gifts.

And each year there seems to be a greater selection. Hallmark alone offers more than 500 holiday gift-wrap designs, including coordinating bags, wraps and trims.

Designs range from traditional holiday themes to whimsical motifs featuring Disney and other popular cartoon characters. You can buy pre-matched ensembles that include wrapping paper, card and bow, or create your own custom-made packages. Many craft stores now offer classes on gift wrapping.

When it comes to wrapping gifts, it's easy to get carried away and spend almost as much on the decorations as on the gift itself. Store-bought decorations aren't cheap and can start to add up when you buy in quantity. To save money, make your own package decorations using lace, paper doilies, miniature ornaments, candy, decorated cookies, glitter, stickers and cutouts from old greeting cards.

In today's environmentally conscious world, more and more people are thinking of creative ways to decorate their packages using recyclable materials. Designer Raymond Waites, in his book "Small Pleasures: A Treasury of Design Ideas for Your Home" (Bullfinch Press), offers several unique ideas for wrapping presents.

Waites suggests using old newspapers to wrap gifts. Select a section from the newspaper that appeals to the recipient, such as the sports, business or real estate section. Or use the classified ad section as the background to create your own design using felt pens or paints. For children's gifts, use the comic strips from the Sunday paper.

Rather than using store-bought decorations, use natural decorations such as pine cones, dried flowers or fresh foliage. Not only are these easier on your pocketbook (and Earth), but they give your presents a special look.

Perhaps you want to be a little more elaborate. Make a gift bag using velvet, brocade or other fabric. Cut out an 18-inch square of fabric, stuff with tissue or newspaper and tie with a gold ribbon. The bags can be used year after year. For a country look, hand-paint a burlap sack or wrap gifts in brightly colored scarfs, tablecloths or dish towels.

For those who don't have the time to create their own gift wrap, there are environmentally friendly wrappings that are commercially available. Look for gift

Facts, food and fun for Festival of Lights

By Sharon Achatz

Copley News Service

Nothing says "Hanukkah" more than a glowing menorah and freshly fried latkes, both symbols derived from the classic Hanukkah tale.

More than 2,000 years ago, Jews regained political and religious freedom from an invading army of Syrians. The Jews then restored the Jerusalem temple, which had been defiled. When they wanted to rekindle the temple's lamp, however, they found only enough oil to last one day. Miraculously, the oil lasted eight days — the miracle commemorated during Hanukkah and the source of the holiday's nickname, the Festival of Lights.

This is why Hanukkah is celebrated for eight days with the menorah's candles. And it is why favored Hanukkah foods contain a lot of oil or are fried in oil—like the quintessential potato pancakes called latkes.

While considered a minor Jewish holiday, Hanukkah still is teeming with tradition—lighting the menorah, serving latkes, gathering the family to play games, sing songs and exchange gifts.

Beyond these basics, however, Hanukkah is celebrated in a wide variety of ways.

Some families adhere closely to tradition, gathering each night to light the menorah candles, sing songs, exchange modest gifts, play with dreidels (four-sided tops) and eat elegant dinners.

At the other end of the spectrum are families who incorporate a Hanukkah bush to approximate the Christmas tree, hang blue-and-white stockings by the mantel and exchange elaborate gifts nightly.

Although high-priced gifts now are popular, gifts traditionally were simple, such as gelt—small bags of pennies or chocolate coins—and perhaps some small personal items such as clothing, grooming items or a children's book.

Most families today incorporate a blend of gift-giving. Simple items such as bookmarks or candy are presented on the first nights of Hanukkah, with more expensive presents exchanged on the final night.

For gifts centered on a Hanukkah theme, consider visiting bookstores and specialty shops that stock Hebrew alphabet coloring books, Hanukkah stickers, audio and video tapes of Jewish stories and songs, cookie cutters and books.

For more elaborate gifts, consider selecting an heirloom of Jewish art: Menorahs, dreidels, lithographs or paintings from Israel can be found on display at Jewish specialty shops and in mainstream galleries of metropolitan areas.

Some parents strive to mitigate the commercialism of Hanukkah by encouraging children to designate a charity to receive a gift one or two nights during the holiday.

Aside from exchanging gifts, there are many other ways to spend joyous time together during Hanukkah, which is considered a family-centered holiday.

For example, participate in arts and crafts. Set aside one evening to make dreidels, create construction-paper chain links, color banners and cut Star of David mobiles to hang from the ceiling.

Read books, sing songs or present a skit. A favorite tale or skit is any version of the Hanukkah story, perhaps read from a child's new book. Others prefer to tell tales of family Hanukkahs past.

Play games. Children delight in playing spinning and betting games with the dreidel, a four-sided top with a Hebrew letter on each side—nun, gimmel, heh and shin. These are the first letters of the Hebrew words Nes Gadol Hayah Sham, which means "a great miracle happened there."

Aside from spinning the dreidel, everyday games can be tailored to Hanukkah, such as chess or checkers in which opposing sides become Jews battling Syrians, or Scrabble in which players are awarded bonus points for Hanukkah-related words such as "candle," "temple," "oil" or "battle."

Whatever other customs are included, the kindling of menorah candles is the primary ritual of the holiday. The family gathers round and chants a blessing as the shamash (servant candle) is kindled. It then is used to light the first Hanukkah candle.

On the second night, the shamash and two candles burn, and so on, until all eight Hanukkah candles burn bright and clear.

The menorah can vary in size and shape and materials; its design may be that of a classic candelabra or a modern work of art. Others are simple handcrafted items. Menorahs may be found for purchase at craft fairs, Jewish specialty shops or synagogues.

Many families let children choose the color of candles to be burned in the menorah each night; others let each child have his own menorah to burn.

In addition to the prominent placement of the menorah in the home, many families choose to decorate with blue-and-white banners and streamers, balloons, banners and table linens. Stationery stores stock entire lines of Hanukkah decorations and wrapping paper, party invitations and paper plates.

Aside from the menorah, nothing says Hanukkah more than the smell of latkes frying in oil—they often are served during each night of Hanukkah. While customarily made from potatoes, many families enjoy the variety of recipes made from other vegetables such as zucchini, spinach, pumpkin and sweet potatoes.

Other traditional holiday foods include anything cooked in oil—including apple fritters and doughnuts—as well as rich dairy dishes such as Cold Fruit Kugel.

Also popular are Grilled Beef Brisket, stuffed cabbage rolls, smoked salmon, a loaf of challah and buttery sugar cookies.

ZUCCHINI LATKES

6 cups coarsely grated zucchini 2 tablespoons chopped garlic Salt and pepper to taste 2 eggs, lightly beaten 1/3 Cup plus 1 tablespoon flour

1/2 cup vegetable oil (for frying)

Yields 24 latkes.

In large mixing bowl, combine zucchini and garlic; season with salt and pepper.

Lightly stir in beaten egg; stir in flour.

In large skillet, heat oil. For each latke, drop 1 heaping tablespoon zucchini mixture into pan. Flatten slightly with back of spoon. Fry over medium heat about 2 minutes per side, or until golden brown.

Drain on paper towels.

Stir batter before adding each new batch of latkes to skillet. If all oil is absorbed, add more to skillet as necessary.

COLD FRUIT KUGEL

8 ounces cream cheese, at room temperature

1/4 pound margarine, at room temperature
8 ounces sour cream

1/2 cup sugar 1 teaspoon vanilla 4 eggs 2 (15-ounce) cans mandarin orange slices, drained 1 (20-ounce) can crushed pineapple, drained 1 (16-ounce) can dark pitted cherries, drained

1/2 pound fine egg noodles, cooked Cinnamon and sugar (for topping) Yields 30 pieces. Preheat oven to 350 F.

Combine cream cheese, margarine, sour cream, sugar, vanilla and eggs in blender until well combined.

Pour in bowl and add 1 can of oranges, crushed pineapple, cherries and noodles; stir well.

Pour into 9x13-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar to taste. Arrange second drained can of orange slices over top of kugel in rows.

Bake 45 minutes or until golden brown and knife inserted into center comes out clean.

GRILLED BEEF BRISKET

1 cup red wine 2 tablespoons soy sauce 1 onion, grated 1 celery stalk, thinly sliced 2 garlic cloves, finely minced 1 (3-pound) brisket, trimmed of all excess fat 1 onion, thinly sliced Yields 8 servings.

In baking dish, mix together wine, soy sauce, grated onion, celery and garlic. Add brisket, turn to coat and set aside to marinate while preheating oven to 325 F.

Transfer brisket to roasting pan. Scatter sliced onion around it. Pour about half of marinade over brisket. Cover pan tightly with aluminum foil. Roast brisket 2 1/2 to 3 hours, basting occasionally until very tender. Remove brisket from oven; let stand for a few minutes. Simmer additional marinade and serve with brisket as sauce.

Clever gift wrapping and greetings

wrap and gift bags made from recycled paper. Some have a natural brown-paper look while others resemble ordinary wrapping paper.

Another idea you may want to try is "wrapping" your gifts in unusual containers, such as antique glass jars, laundry bags, pinatas or hat boxes. For smaller items, consider using baskets, cookie tins, jewelry boxes and travel cases. The wonderful thing about using containers to wrap your gifts is that the recipient can use them for other things. And, of course, containers are a great way to disguise odd-shaped gifts.

Tired of the using conventional name tags for your gifts? Consider making your own gift tags this year. You don't have to be an artist to create eye-catching gift tags. Use holiday stickers or a rubber stamp, or cut up old greeting cards and create a montage. Make personalized gingerbread cookies or bookmarks. Or if you're really ambitious, cross-stitch an ornament with the recipient's name.

If you've got the time, you may want to consider making your own greeting cards this season. Everyone appreciates a handmade card, no matter how simple or elaborate it is.

Designing your own cards allows you to convey your own personal sentiment about the holidays.

For the computer literate, EPYX Inc. has come up with "Studio of Greetings!", a desktop program that helps you create and design your own greeting cards. The program includes more than 800 graphics and more than 700 sample cards for virtually every holiday, occasion and event. "Studio of Greetings!" is available for both IBM and Apple Macintosh computers.

Creative ways to welcome the new year

By Alison Ashton

Copley News Service

Regardless of whether the previous year was wonderful or rotten, we all like to do something special to say goodbye to the old and ring in the new year. Perhaps it's simply a matter of perennial high hopes for better times. Or maybe it's just a good excuse to throw a memorable party.

Whatever your motivations, take some time to plan something special. There are as many ways to celebrate New Year's Eve as there are celebrants—anything from a big bash for all your nearest and dearest to an elegant dinner party to a quiet, romantic at-home fete for two.

In fact, current trends indicate that end-of-year revelers prefer smaller, more intimate gatherings to large, anonymous parties. People are drinking less and don't want to be on the road in the wee hours of the morning. Besides, who wants to greet the new year with a bunch of strangers?

If you don't like to entertain but still want to celebrate, consider any of a number of hotel packages, which usually include an elegant prix-fixe dinner or party with an orchestra as well as accommodations. That way, you can safely party till dawn.

Another easy option is to make reservations at your favorite restaurant. Either plan on eating late, or dine earlier in the evening and have everyone reconvene at your house for a sinful repast of gourmet dessert and coffee. Of course, popping the cork on a bottle of champagne is de rigueur.

Whether you have friends to ring in the new year over dinner or simply dessert, create an appropriately festive ambience. Visit a party supply store to stock up on gold and silver party favors, including hats, balloons, noisemakers and streamers. Festoon the table with silver and gold tinsel and light plenty of candles.

If New Year's Day is usually a hazy let-down, consider celebrating with a buffet brunch for a change of pace. Guests can gather to watch football games or videos, or—better still—simply visit and unwind after the hectic holidays. This also is an ideal way to include children in the celebration. To keep idle guests busy, have them bring their favorite board games; Monopoly, Pictionary and Trivial Pursuit are popular with players of all ages.

Traditional New Year's Day cuisine includes black-eyed peas, pork and sauerkraut, all of which are supposed to bring good luck in the coming year. So start with a baked ham and prepare these recipes for a New Year's Day buffet brunch from California Culinary Academy's "Menus for Entertaining." Making these is a good excuse to invite two dozen of your best pals.

To keep preparations for your New Year's Day brunch under control, do as much as possible in advance. For example, assemble the Deviled Crab casserole and make the Chunky Applesauce and Kuchen Crumb Crust the day before. Then, on the morning of the party, you can bake the kuchen and prepare the frittata, both of which can be served at room temperature. Set the buffet table and put out decorations the day before.

Round out the feast with a selection of cold juices, hot coffee, cocoa and tea. For a festive note, serve sparkling wine or apple cider.

These recipes are from the Cole Groups California Culinary Academy series cookbook, "Menus for Entertaining," available from the publisher, 4415 Sonoma Highway, Santa Rosa, CA 94409 (800-959-2717), or your local bookseller ($9.95).

FRITTATA WITH HERBS AND ONIONS

4 cups parsley, stems removed
6 green onions, white and pale green parts only, root ends, trimmed. 2 large leeks, white and pale green parts only, well washed, root ends trimmed

1 cup fresh spinach leaves, stems removed

1/2 cup fresh dill 3/4 Cup fresh mint leaves 30 eggs 1 1/2 teaspoons freshly ground pepper, plus more to taste

1/2 cup butter, melted

1/4 Cup olive oil Salt, to taste

6 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese, for garnish
Yields 24 servings.

To prepare in food processor, combine parsley, onions, leeks, spinach, dill and mint in work bowl. Pulse to mince, but do not puree.

To prepare by hand, mince parsley, onions, leeks, spinach, dill and mint finely.

Break eggs into large bowl. Add minced greens and pepper, to taste, and whisk to blend. In small bowl, whisk together butter and oil.

In 12-inch skillet over moderately high heat, warm 1/4 Cup butter-oil mixture. When mixture foams, pour in 1/3 of beaten egg mixture. Cover, reduce heat to moderately low and cook until egg is firm but moist (7 to 10 minutes).

Season top with salt and pepper, then slide frittata onto serving platter. Continue with remaining butter-oil mixture, making 2 more frittatas.

Slide each onto a clean platter as it is done.

Serve frittata slightly warm or at room temperature. Just before serving, garnish with Parmesan and slice each into 8 wedges.

The best applesauce is made with fragrant, flavorful apples. Choose Gravenstein, McIntosh or other aromatic varieties, then cook with honey, cider, lemon and spices.

CHUNKY APPLESAUCE

split 1/3 Cup honey 1 cup apple cider
1/4 Cup lemon juice, or more to taste 2 cinnamon sticks or 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon 1 teaspoon ground allspice 1/2 cup brandy or apple brandy (optional) Brown sugar, to taste 1/4 Cup minced fresh mint, or more to taste (optional) Whipping cream, for accompaniment (optional)
Yields 24 servings.

Place apples in large pot. Use a knife to scrape vanilla seeds into pot, then add whole bean.

Add honey, cider, lemon juice, cinnamon, allspice and brandy, if desired. Over moderate heat, cook, covered, until apples are soft but not mushy (about 10 minutes).
Cool.

Remove cinnamon sticks, if used. Taste and adjust sweetness. If mixture is not sweet enough, add brown sugar, not more honey.

If it is too sweet, add more lemon juice.

Place applesauce in batches in food processor and pulse briefly; mixture should remain chunky. Transfer to serving bowl and stir in mint.

Offer a pitcher of whipping cream alongside, if desired.

PEAR AND SOUR CREAM KUCHEN

5 cups unbleached flour
1/3 Cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups butter, softened
5 pounds ripe pears, peeled, cored and roughly chopped
3 eggs
9 egg yolks
1 cup sour cream
2 cups sugar
2/3 Cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/2 teaspoons nutmeg
1 cup finely chopped toasted almonds
Confectioners' sugar (optional)
Yields 3 9-inch kuchen.

To make crust: In large bowl, combine flour, sugar, salt, baking powder and cinnamon; stir to blend. Cut in butter quickly with two knives, a pastry blender or fingertips until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Divide dough in thirds and press firmly into 3 9-inch tart tins. Lined tart tins may be refrigerated for up to 1 day.

Preheat oven to 350 F.

Fill 3 prepared crusts with equal amounts of cubed pear.

In large bowl, whisk together eggs, egg yolks, sour cream, sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour mixture over pears.
Sprinkle each kuchen with 1/3 Cup almonds and bake until filling is set and lightly browned (30 to 40 minutes).
Remove from oven and set on racks to cool. Serve warm or at room temperature.
Sift confectioners' sugar over tops of kuchen before serving, if desired.

ings.

Preheat oven to 350 F.

In large bowl, combine celery, onions, peppers and crab meat. Add eggs and stir to blend. Stir in 2 cups Herbed Bread Crumbs, mustard, sour cream, hot pepper sauce, if using, and 1 cup melted butter.

Generously butter several gratin dishes or 3 8-cup souffle dishes. Divide mixture among dishes and top with remaining 2 cups Herbed Bread Crumbs. This dish may be assembled up to this point 1 day ahead, covered and refrigerated.

Drizzle remaining butter and bake until bubbly and golden brown (about 35 minutes). Top with minced chives and serve hot from pan.

HERBED BREAD CRUMBS

4 cups soft bread crumbs 1 tablespoon salt 2 teaspoons freshly ground pepper

1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper 1 teaspoon dried oregano 1 teaspoon dried thyme
1/2 teaspoon ground bay leaf Yields 4 cups.

Combine all ingredients in medium bowl.

One of the few egg dishes that doesn't have to be made to order, a frittata tastes best when barely warm. This version is flavored with mixed herbs, onions and greens, then cooked in a large skillet like a thick pancake. It can be made in a 12-inch skillet or several smaller ones.

*RADIO SHACK VALUEPLUS CREDIT. Radio Shack has made it easy to enjoy the electronics technology you've always wanted for your home and office. Our ValuePlus consumer revolving credit program gives you your own personal line of credit. Your application may be approved in a matter of minutes. Budget your purchases with monthly payments or pay your balance in full at any time and avoid finance charges for the current billing cycle. Actual payments may vary depending upon your account balance. Details are available at your nearby Radio Shack store or participating Radio Shack authorized dealer. Credit options for businesses are also available.

*On approved regular revolving ValuePlus account with single ticket purchase over $99. A monthly statement will be sent but no payment or increase in payment will be due until March 1994. Following the 0% interest/no payment period, interest (up to 21% APR, 50¢ monthly minimum) will apply until the purchase is paid in full and, if allowed by your state, charges for late payments may be assessed. Offer is valid November 18, December 24, 1993.
