Bids awarded despite doubts over process

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

The Northville City Council awarded bids for nine of 23 project components on Mainstreet '93 Monday, after chastizing construction manager Walbridge Aldinger over its handling of the bids.

Remaining bid components will be awarded and presented to the council within the next three weeks, Wal-lion project, and seeking bids from a selected list of union contractors.

But city officials argued that the process did not break the letter of the law, and that any delay in the project by rebidding it could push back completion of the project.

Mainstreet '93's two parking decks and parking lot are scheduled to be completed in December to minimize the impact on local merchants.

Before the bid awards, City Manager Gary Word presented the council with an April 4 opinion from Plymouth City Attorney Ronald Lowe, who was asked to review the criticism of Walbridge when Northville City Attorney James Kohl disclosed that his firm does work for Walbridge Aldinger.

In his opinion, Lowe concluded that Walbridge had followed city code bridge had complied with the city's requirements to publish notices inviting bids at least four days before the final date, and to open the bids publicly. He also concluded that it is legal for a firm like Walbridge to limit bids to union shops according to its contract with the city and a 1993 U.S. Supreme Court case.

Some of the criticism over Walbridge Aldinger's handling of the Mainstreet '93 bidding process involved its apparent exclusion of outside bidders, and the fact that local contractors unaware of the project had little opportunity to bid.

Walbridge President Ronald Hausmann attempted to refute the criticism in a March 30 letter to the city, in which he argued that Wal-

Juarters plan denied, company sues

By RANDY COBLE

The plan to bring a Home Quarters Warehouse to Northville Township has suffered a big setback but its backers aren't throwing in the towel. Instead, they're throwing down the gauntlet-a lawsuit.

The township's board of trustees on March 24 unanimously rejected the conceptual plan for the 152,000 square foot home improvement products store and 29-lot single family home subdivision on a 33-acre parcel off of Haggerty Road. That decision mirrored a March 8 planning commission vote which cited a number of criticisms of the

The turndown led company officials last week to serve the township with the suit. The details are not yet available, as the township's lawyer must review it and submit it to the board for official consideration.

Some observers expect the suit to allege that either the township's zoning rules or officials' application of them to the Home Quarters plan are unfair and illegal. The proposal falls under the township's Haggerty Planned Unit Development (HPUD) option.

Other lawsuits have seen companies argue that unreasonable laws governing development make it impossible to get approval for economically viable projects. That means that the town's government has denied them their property rights-referred to in legal terms as "regulatory taking." Whether a judge accepts that line of reasoning in this case—or if the suit actually goes to court at all-remains to be seen. What is clear is that township officials don't like the Home Quarters project plan that was presented to them.

The proposal calls for the store and subdivision to sit between Meijer's to the north and the now under-construction WindRidge HPUD to the south.

WindRidge won board approval in December. It includes a 100,000 square foot Home Depot store and a 101-lot subdivision on a single 64-acre site. Home Quarters includes 152,000 square feet of business space and related parking. A natural preserve area would separate it from the subdivision. A 5,700 square foot restaurant is slated for the site as well, sitting at the northeast end of the main parking lot just off

The entire proposal requires township OK. To get that, the company had to prove to the

With a new steel trench in the ground and a third phase of soil and groundwater studies under way, one would think the Department of Natural Resources would be satisfied with an ongoing cleanup effort at General Oil.

Not so, said DNR Environmental Quality Analyst Steve Kitler.

Kitler, with the DNRs Environmental Response Division in Livonia, has been busy reviewing DNR files on General Oil's 175 Railroad Ave. location in Northville, and assembling a report for the state Attorney General's office.

The DNR is readying an administrative order to force compliance with a strict set of cleanup requirements if General Oil and previous property owners do not clean up the site themselves. If the requirements are not met, the attorney general's of-fice will be called in to enforce compliance.

We've made it quite clear to the people involved that this is the number one priority in this district," Kitler said. It is the worst site in Wayne County as far as we're concerned and we want something to get done now . . . If we do not get full cooperation. then we will issue this order."

Kitler noted that the trench is just a small step forward in preventing the spread of contamination. That collects the oil with the PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls) in it, but it doesn't stop the groundwater flowing into the river, he said. He notes that the groundwater is tainted with chlorinated solvents.

General Oil President Tim Westerdale noted that the company, in cooperation with Stuart-Ironsides Inc. of Illinois, did finally manage to get the trench installed last month, after two years of discussions. The trench, on the shore of Ford Pond across from the former Ford Valve Plant, contains absorbent pads to soak up contaminated sludge that had been leaking into the pond.

General Oil also has overseen the installation of two dozen groundwater monitoring wells across the site, and more than a dozen soil borings have been taken in the course of an ongoing investigation to determine the extent of the contaminated zones and the types of contamination

Contaminants include PCBs, petroleum byproducts, chlorinated solvents and heavy metals, several of which are known carcinogens.

*Once the project began, and the weather and other things cooperated, it went rather smoothly. . . The installation went as well as could be expected," Westerdale said. I think as we move along in this process, we will continue to work in cooperation with the regulatory agencies and Stuart Oil," he added. "I really think government working in concert with the private sector is the best way to get these things done."

Kitler agreed that General Oil has made some progress on the site, but he argued that more is needed. They have been doing work, but I really think we need some guarantees at this point that the site is going to be cleaned up properly," he said. "This is just something to force everybody to work together." One major concern has been addressed for now. The DNR recently received groundwater test results from a 20-foot-deep monitoring well

Stabbing suspect turns himself in to city police

By STEVE KELLMAN Staff Writer

A 25-year-old Detroit man turned himself in to Northville City police and was taken to court April 4 for stabbing his ex-girlfriend's boyfriend.

The man, Nadhim "Norman" Toma Zetounda, was arraigned on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in front of 35th District Magistrate Eric Colthurst. A not guilty plea was entered on his behalf and he was released after posting a $1,000 cash bond.

The charge stems from a March 31 incident in which city police were called to a Revere Court home at 1:15 a.m. on a reported stabbing. Police arrived to find a man standing in the driveway clutching a towel to his bleeding chest. As an officer applied direct pressure to the man's wound, he told police that his girlfriend's former boyfriend, "Norman," had stabbed him. The suspect reportedly had gone to the house to talk to the woman, after phoning her several times that

When he arrived, he stood in her front yard and reportedly demanded that she come out and talk to him. He reportedly paused as he walked tow-ard the front door, pulled his buck knife from his pocket and opened it.

While the woman remained in the house, her boyfriend left armed with a lightweight kitchen broom. The two

Police arrest two people for drunken driving

City police arrested two people for driving while intoxicated last week. A 25-year-old South Lyon woman was pulled over because her car matched the description of one that had been speeding around Rayson and Lake and honking.

When a police officer saw her driving east on Dunlap he turned on his emergency lights, and the woman gave him the finger. She finally pulled over after continuing north on Hutton to Rayson and then to Lake.

The woman was arrested after failing field sobriety tests, and her blood alcohol level was measured at .18 percent. She was released about 10 hours later after she sobered up and posted a $100 cash bond.

A 25-year-old Novi man was arrested April 2 after police clocked him at 40 mph in the 25-mph zone on South Main north of Doheny. The man, who said he only had two beers, failed sobriety tests and his blood alcohol level was measured at .14 and .15 percent. He was released more than seven hours later after he sob-were used from about 1850 to 1930. On April 14, Questers will meet in the parking lot of the M.A.G.S. building on Main Street to form a car pool and travel to the Toledo Museum of Art where a Rubens exhibition is be-

Mill Race Matters

Spring may finally have arrived and with it plans for more activity at Mill Race Village. Daily school tours resume near the end of this month with a group of five volunteers providing support for the activity.

On May 1, all interested parties will gather to discuss docent opportunities in preparation for the Sunday, June 5, village summer opening.

The annual progressive dinner occurs on Saturday, May 14, with the membership annual meeting scheduled for Thursday, May 19. More details will follow on all upcoming events.

This week another sketch on one of Northville's early contributors. Sarah Bradley Clarkson was born in New York in 1822 and arrived in this area with her parents while still a small child in 1826. Her schooling would have been in either one of the village's small one-room facilities or private academies.

By 1843, Sarah, as a young woman, began publication of a literary journal The Sunbeam. North-ville's archives are fortunate to own four of these publications. They are all we know of her work giving a clue to life in the early village settlement.

Sarah's assistant editor David Clarkson ultimately became her husband. Later census records indicate seven children in their home. Clarkson wrote some of the community's earliest historical Mill Race Questers, accounts for The Northville Record during the 1870s. Both were responsible for preserving what memory remains of the village's first years.

Materials published in The Sunbeam were presented in lyceums during the early 1840s. The lyceum was an early form of community entertainment which offered poetry, short story and scholarly essay in lecture format during discussion meetings.

Today's audiences might find many of the topics dry and perhaps a bit dull, but they were the primary entertainment of that era. Bradley and Clarkson can be credited with establishing a scholarly community within the village. They are buried in Northville's Cady Street Cemetery.

City, school, township, chamber hold meeting

By STEVE KELLMAN

Local municipal and school officials and business leaders put their heads together last week during a second annual joint meeting.

The Wednesday night session, involving the heads of Northville City, Northville Township, Northville Public Schools and the Northville Chamber of Commerce, was an opportunity to exchange information and forge new bonds of cooperation to meet future challenges.

Officials at the 7-9 p.m. meeting at Cooke Middle School heard part of a sobering presentation from an internationally known educator, a review of police consolidation efforts and an analysis of a potential city/township merger. School Board President Robert McMahon noted that Northville was recently listed one of the most desirable places to live in a Detroit area publication.

"In the description of Northville, it notes that this community has experienced growth and development . . but it has also at the same time retained its charming small-town quality of life," he said. He added that the four governmental units have a common stake in maintaining that quality. We don't share the same boundries . . . but we and I think that's what we're striving cause of shorter school years, discip-

McMahon praised the work of groups like a Future Facilities Use Committee, which analyzed potential growth in the district and showed where that growth could occur in recommending that Thornton Creek Elementary School be opened next year and showing that a new middle school will be needed soon in order to maintain manageable class sizes and program quality.

He added that next year's High School Day pilot program to free up Wednesday mornings for teacher conferences will stimulate quality improvements there. We have planning time at the middle school; we have planning time at the elementary school," he said. This provides time at the high school."

The district is still figuring the full impact of new state-imposed mandates on local and intermediate school districts in connection with the passage of Proposal A, McMahon said.

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services, then gave the assembled leaders a hint of the challenges facing schools in Northville and across the country by introducing a portion of a video of Willard Daggett, an internationallyrecognized education expert.

Daggett argues that the U.S. school system has fallen far behind share the same spirit of community other industrialized countries be-line problems and their combined roles as academic institutions, recreational facilities and social development centers.

When school officials were asked how Daggett's criticisms mesh with the school proposal to reduce high school students' class time next year, Rezmierski noted that Northville will still exceed state mandates to provide 180 days and 900 hours of instructional time.

In the city, Mayor Chris Johnson noted that bids had been accepted and construction is soon to begin on the $4.2 million Mainstreet '93 parking deck project. The city is also on the verge of paying off its former $1 million deficit, after a three-year austerity program in which city budgets were cut and capital improvements were deferred, he said.

Johnson noted that the city will still need at least part of a 4.2-mill levy increase passed at the start of the austerity program in order to make much-needed capital improvement purchases and establish a positive fund balance to cope with future financial crises.

"Either there's got to be a permanent reduction in services or some increase in the millage over the level before the deficit," he argued.

As for the city's former reliance on state-returned racetrack revenue, a reliance that left the city deep in debt when the revenue was withheld. Johnson said, We'll never again budget for funds that are controlled by the (state) Legislature."

That doesn't sound too hopeful for us, Joked Rezmierski, referring to the fact that most K-12 school funding will now come from the state rather than from local millage levies.

Chamber of commerce members had a few questions for the city over the timing of Mainstreet '93, noting that the construction could stretch into the crucial Christmas shopping

City Manager Gary Word said the city hopes to have the decks usable by early to mid-November. "We're on a fast track," he said. He added that the city will post signs on alternate parking areas and make brochures available to pedestrians to minimize disruption caused by the project.

Police consolidation was a hot ship's antiquated radio system in need of replacement and both entities looking for cost savings and service enhancements.

As for combining the city and township outright, City Council Member Paul Folino noted that a consolidation effort would involve significant start-up costs for items like road maintenance, while Mayor Chris Johnson pointed out that such a move could end a lot of duplicated services and provide long-range Township Supervisor Karen Baja noted that the fate of the longpending Wayne County land sale is still up in the air, though developer R.A. DeMattia is still the frontrunner on the project.

She added that DeMattia still owes three years worth of back taxes on the project since the land was placed back on the tax rolls. But she noted that the township has won the first round of a court battle over the overdue taxes.

Baja also discussed "the 'M' word," or recent discussions of a city / township merger that started in a joint blue ribbon committee meeting during a debate over shared services. She said she preferred to use the word "consolidation" to avoid comparisons with a falled merger attempt two decades ago.

We are not trying to ram anything down anybody's throat," Baja said. We are simply trying to provide a broad picture for the voters for an advisory election in November.

At township hall, Treasurer Rick Engelland noted that trustees are considering splitting up the August miliage requests to let voters decide where they want their tax dollars to

Possible subjects could include a "vision" millage for items like purchasing park land and open space, a road palliative measure for dust treatments on dirt roads and a solid waste millage to cover the fees that now appear on a resident's water bills, she said. The intent is to give the voters a choice," Baja said.

In the business world, Chamber of Commerce President Al Ferrara noted that his organization hopes to take a long-term view of Northville's commercial status, and use demographic information like that used by the Future Facilities Use Committee to set long range goals.

The chamber also wants to publicize the ways local merchants support community efforts, with the aim of encouraging the community to support its merchants in turn.

Chamber Vice President Ann Willis pointed to the recent establishment of a Central Business District Committee to establish a marketing plan for Northville's historic downtown as an important step in that

Tax forms can be had via mail or with a fax

HomeTown Newspapers is making the tax season a little easier for taxpayers this year by offering a tax form request service.

Taxpayers can selectively order the tax forms they need by calling 1-800-947-4368 and ordering any of the numerous federal or state of Michigan forms on this service.

Callers must used a Visa, Master-Card or American Express card for payment of the forms, which cost $4.95 apiece.

Forms can be mailed or faxed to the caller. Simply indicate which delivery method is desired and give the complete mailing address or the 10-digit fax telephone number. If the caller does not know the specific item number of the tax form desired, federal or Michigan directories (which list all available forms) can be requested for $1.95 each. This service includes commonly used Michigan forms such as Amended Michigan Income Tax (dial #0141), SBT Credit for Small Business (dial #0801) or Request for More Time to File (dial #0426), just to name The federal list of available forms is extensive and ranges from the common Capital Gains & Losses (dial #1044) and Employee Business Expenses (dial #2106) to the elusive Sale of Your Home (dial #2119) and Non-cash Charitable Contributions (dial #8283).

"Tax by Fax" service also includes instructions for a number of the available forms. Dial codes preceded by "-" on the directory listing have instruction sheets that can be ordered for $1.95 each.

Mountain bike trail will open at the park

The new Mountain Bike Trail at Maybury State Park will officially open on Sunday, April 10.

While some may wonder where the mountain is at Maybury, a mountain is really only a natural elevation of the earth's surface, higher than a hill.

The Maybury State Park, Michigan Mountain Bike Association (MMBA) and D & D Bicycles hope that with the new bike trail will come an increased awareness that mountain biking opportunities are right here in southeast Michigan.

The grand opening celebration will start near the Day Camp Building at 10 a.m. with the ribbon cutting ceremony, followed by a slow race, huffy toss, a slalom course and a mountain bike polo competition.

between the site and the popular Northville Rotary Well that shows no signs of a contamination plume heading for the well. The Rotary well is located about 500 feet southwest of the General Oil site.

Two years ago, in response to DNR concerns over the General Oil contamination, the city's Department of Public Works began taking quarterly water samples from the well and sending them to Lansing to be tested for a 62-item list of contaminants associated with petroleum products.

While some DNR officials originally favored closing the well down altogether, the DNR and city agreed to monitor the well's water quality instead. No contaminants were ever detected in the well water.

The next phase of the project is to devise a strategy to skim oil off the groundwater, Westerdale said. "It's within a very confined area. We know the borders of that contamination."

Techniques like pumping the stallation prompted DNR threats to Still to be addressed is the Jack Doheny Supplies property southeast of General Oil, where aerial photographs have indicated that the building was constructed directly over one of the buried lagoons.

The Doheny portion really hasn't been investigated yet," Kitler said.

The General Oil case has been a source of frustration for the DNR since oily sludge first began seeping into Ford Pond in 1983. Using aerial photographs, a geologist with the agency's waste management division traced the contamination to abandoned and buried oil lagoons on the General Oil property that had been used by previous site owners between 1963 and 1975.

The trench itself took months to be installed, with consultants from General Oil and Stuart arguing over its design. Repeated delays in its in-groundwater to the surface for purification may be used, he said.

take over the project and pay for it with public funds. In that case, potentially responsible parties like General Oil and Stuart-Ironsides could have been charged three times the actual costs.

> Kitler made his feelings clear in a Dec. 15 letter to General Oil Environmental Engineer Greg Reichard.

"My department considers delays in construction of the recovery trench unacceptable and . . . we are now authorized to expend public funds to help alleviate what we perceive as tremendous environmental hazards at the site," he wrote. "I am hopeful that doubts within my department concerning your com-pany's willingness to clean up the site will be resolved within the next few months as the recovery trench is, perhaps, installed . . .

The trench was finally installed in early March.

No more plastic bags for township folk's compost

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Paper or plastic? Although we'll still face that dilemma at the supermarket, Northville Township residents won't have to worry about it now when it comes to their yard waste. The bottom line is that no one can put compost in plastic bags any more—that's the new rule," Director of Public Utilities Bill Anderson

His department, in cooperation with the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) and Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI), recently mailed pamphlets to township residents explaining why.

The township has lined up cutrate curbside compost recycling services with BFI through WTUA. Part of the the deal, Anderson said. is that the leaves, grass and other compost materials don't arrive at the company's Salem Township recycling center in plastic bags.

Besides being non-biodegradable, the plastic sacks prevent air and bacteria from properly decaying the material into beneficial humus, the joint pamphlet says. If they do make their way into the compost heaps, some lucky BFI worker gets the job of plucking them out by hand.

The best way to stop plastic bags from getting to the site is at the home," Anderson said.

Township residents can store their compost material in metal or plastic cans or in large paper "kraft" sacks available at many area

Other composting tips the pamphlet offers are:

 Use a mulching lawn mower instead of the bagging type. It saves time, gas and trash bags and helps out the lawn with degradable grass curbside waste pickup, start your own backyard composting and use the finished product in your yard and garden. The pamphlet offers a how-to guide on setting up a compost pile and cites additional infor-

- Be kind to those who pick up yard waste. Branches and tree limbs less than 4 inches around should be tied in bundles no more than 3 feet in length and weighing less than 50 pounds.
- Stumps, firewood, food scraps or animal waste are not acceptable composting materials.
- Remember, household yard waste will be picked up by a separate collection truck on the same day as the regular trash pickkup. Township officials ask residents to have waste at the curb no later than 7 a.m. on those days.

Statistics in the report also indicate that young driver crashes tend to be more deadly.

*About 15 percent of drivers aged 16-20 are involved in a traffic accident each year," according to Terry Buckles, president of MAIC. By comparison, only 6 percent of 45- to 54-year-olds are involved in a roadway crash annually."

Buckles also noted that 16- to 20-year-old drivers have a greater involvement in fatal accidents than most other age groups. Only those drivers aged 75 and older have a higher rate of deadly crashes."

Younger motorists are having more accidents and more costly accidents," Buckles said. "That is the reason they pay higher premiums for car insurance. The greater price is a reflection of greater insurance payout."

A younger person who is the prin-cipal driver of a motor vehicle typically pays 40 to 200 percent more for coverage than older drivers, accordolder and is generally discontinued by insurance companies at or before

 Select your car carefully. Rates are based on its cost, repairability and performance characteristics.

• Choose higher deductibles on collision and comprehensive coverages. Consider a more economical type of Collision insurance, but make sure you understand when you are covered and when you are not. • If you have an older car, consider dropping both collision and comprehensive coverage. ● Drive carefully. Most traffic tickets and at-fault accidents will automatically increase your rates. MAIC is a non-profit public organization which sponsors a number of consumer information and education programs, including driver safety presentations in Michigan high schools.

Lowe also concluded that a recent attorney general's opinion, which found that a construction manager could not be the assignee of contractors' construction contracts with a school district, did not apply to the city's relationship with Walbridge.

No such conflict edst(s) . . . as all of the subcontractors will contract directly with Walbridge," he wrote. Despite Lowe's opinions, some council members said they were uncomfortable over proceeding with the bid awards but they argued that it was needed to keep the project on

"I'm very disappointed with the way this whole thing has turned out," said Council Member Paul Folino, who added he was concerned over the short notice Walbridge gave prospective bidders and the firm's calls for selected union subcontractors. "I guess if I could have done it all over, I would have done it a little differently," added Council Member Mark Cryderman.

Walbridge was criticized at a
March 29 public information meeting on Mainstreet '93, when local contractor and Downtown Development Authority member James Long argued that the firm was conducting a restricted bid process, limiting bids to a selected list of subcontractors and requiring union firms.

He argued that the short notice and poor advertising gave local would be bidders little opportunity to bid, and said the DDA had been told a more open bid process would be

Aside from a March 24 notice in the Northville Record, Walbridge had placed advertisements in the March 11 and March 25 trade publication Dodge Reports. The March 11 ad announced Walbridge's appointment that the project was "scheduled for sub trade bidding in 3 to 4 weeks." The March 25 ad requested bids from a "selected list only."

The deadline for submitting bids was March 30.

Before the bids were received, Walbridge had prepared a list of proposed subcontractors March 11. Of the 70 bids received for the entire project on March 30, only one, by Angelo lafrate of Warren for earthwork and utilities, was from a subcontractor not on Walbridge's prop-

The council also agreed Monday to raise the guaranteed maximum construction price of the project from $3,469,320 (including Walbridge's maximum fee of $117,320) to $3,502,467. The $33,147 in increases are due to two change work orders, for a parking lot revision and for reworking the Center Street / as construction manager and noted Mary Alexander Court intersection.

Walbridge head answers charges

notice by running advertisements well before then. "Any allegations to the contrary are inflammatory and false," he wrote.

Hausmann added that the subcontractor list Walbridge used "includes substantial local representation," claiming that one third of the subcontractors were from Northville or "immediate surrounding areas."

A review of the 87 firms on Walbridge Aldinger's proposed subcontractor list shows that fewer than a third are from adjacent communities and only two are from Northville

From Northville, G & R Masonry Inc. submitted a masonry bid and McRea Electric Co. bid on electrical work. From Novi, Merlyn Contractors Inc. submitted an earthwork/ utilities bid and Brunt Associates Inc. submitted a carpentry bid, while Cadillac Asphalt Paving Co. was asked to bid on asphalting and William H. commission and the board that the plan satisfies the conditions of the HPUD option.

The option allows the township to approve special development projects on land that borders the Haggerty corridor. To allow it, officials have to decide that an HPUD plan is better than anything that could realistically come along under conventional zoning.

The ordinance spells out what a proposal has to do to meet that standard. The chief yardstick is that a plan has to provide the township with a "recognizable and substantial benefit" versus a conventional plan.

Home Quarters just doesn't measure up to that standard, members of the commission and the board-as well as many residents who spoke against the plan at public meetingsdecided. Critics of the proposal cite several reasons.

The foremost one is that the option requires a plan to preserve significant natural features of the land to be developed. Home Quarters, however, would wipe out some of the most dense, high quality vegetation on the parcel in question. The Warehouse would be built into a sloping hill on the site, disturbing or destroying a number of trees and other plants. Company representatives responded to criticism of that fact, however, by arguing that big environmental disruption would happen with any development going in there, including an office building.

The Home Quarters plan, they said, would better preserve what can be preserved and still allow for an economically feasible development. However, the township's planning consultants disagreed, as did the commission and the board.

Another issue which saw differences of opinion was whether the store was economically viable. Several critics raised questions about how proitable a Northville Township Home Quarters Warehouse could be in an area that is "saturated" with establishments like it.

Besides other Home Quarters stores now open in the area, critics said, there are a number of competitors such as Builder's Square or the Home Depot site opening up just down the road.

Company officials, however. maintained that a big market exists and would support a Home Quarters at the proposed site.

Home Quarters representatives said their company would benefit the Northville community through taxes, jobs and a program of civic involvement. Still other concerns surfaced in the plan. The number of parking spaces provided was below what the ordinance called for and some questioned whether the plans for traffic flow were safe.

In Plymouth, American Glass & Metals Corp. submitted a glass and glazing bid and TriStar Fire Protection Inc. bid on fire protection. Imperial Floor Covering Inc. of Walled Lake will be part of a future bid package on vinyl flooring and carpet, and the

The victim was taken to Botsford Hospital, where the wound was closed with eight stitches. He was later released.

Police also called Zetounda's home in Detroit directly and spoke with a person who claimed to be his mother, though police had been told that his mother spoke no English. The person said Zetounda was not at home.

Later that morning, police received a call from a retired Detroit police officer who said he was a friend of Zetounda's family and had talked with the suspect. He brought Zetounda in

In an interview with city police, the suspect admitted swinging an open buck knife in the boyfriend's direction, but only after the boyfriend had attacked him and struck him in the head with the broom. Legislators consider new judges

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

One year, certain suburbs top the region in building permits. A few years later, they're seeking more district court judges.

The state Senate next week will take up a House-passed bill to add one judge each in the 35th District Court (Northville-Plymouth-Canton) and Oakland Circuit Court.

District 52-1 (Novi, South Lyon, Milford and Walled Lake) is eligible to add one judge, but local officials declined.

"It (Senate action) has got to be real soon, said Graham Crabtree, counsel to Senate Judiciary Committee Chair William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison. The chairman wants a hearing right after spring break (due to end April 12)."

Candidate filing deadline is May

Adding a judge is a three-step

First, the State Court Administrator's office analyzes caseloads and issues a recommendation. That office makes recommendations freely. For example, the court administrator asked 12 new Court of Appeals judges (currently there are 12) and got four. Second, the local funding unit must ask for the increase, agreeing to bear its share of the cost. In the 35th District, the two Northvilles, the two Plymouths and Canton Township agreed to add a third judge.

But there was a problem in Oakland County, the funding unit for District 52-1 and circuit court. The court administrator recommended a third judge in the district court and two more in circuit court. The county board agreed only to one circuit

Third, the Legislature must pass a law expanding the court, agreeing to bear the state's share of the cost. That's the issue before the Senate Judiciary Committee next week.

*Average annual operating cost per new judge (to the state) was $170,000," said the court administrator. The costs include salaries, social security, and $6,000 in recording equipment.

Here is what the State Court Administrator said in support of its recommendations for new trial judges: • 35th District (Northville, Plymouth, etc.) - In 1992 the court had 20,186 new filings per judge compared to 11,196 statewide per district judge . . . (I)he higher than average drunk driving caseload is particularly significant . . . There were 551 drunk driving misdemeanors per judge compared to 223 statewide."

Three freeways have expanded the economic and population bases.

• 52-1 District Court (Walled Lake, etc.) — From 1991 to 1992 reported new filings increased by 12 percent age over 1,500 more non-traffic cases than the statewide average. The division is located in an area of rapid economic and population growth." ● Oakland Circuit — In 1992 the court had 1,906 new filings per judge . . (T)he judges of this divison avercompared to 1,146 statewide per circuit judge. There were 525 criminal filings per judge compared to 288 statewide. Appeals per judge were 141 compared to 52 statewide.

AAA offers free pamplet with traveler safety tips travelers has prompted AAA of Michigan to offer "Playing it Safe," a free self-help brochure on traveler safety, to the public. The six-page brochure provides tips for safety on the road, at accommodations and aightseeing.

"Crime is a fact of life throughout the world and travelers are not immune," said Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch. While few people are confronted by safety problems on a trip, those who prepare wisely can help ensure a worry-free and enjoyable vacation."

Basch cited two key factors in successful trip planning: First, make sure your vehicle is in top operating condition and, second, thoroughly plan your route in advance. Other travel security tips:

Concern for the security of E Keep your car doors locked and windows up.

■ Drive on well-traveled roads or Market Avoid high-crime areas.

Travel during daylight hours.

Use well-lighted convenience stores, gas stations, or other establishments frequented by the public. ■ Use a cellular phone, if possible, for emergency calls.

For travelers using a rental vehicle, special conditions apply. Basch recommends choosing a car rental company that doesn't use stickers or other obvious rental company identification (including special license plates) on its vehicles. Some states have special laws which require rental-care license plates to begin with a Y or Z.

Instead, motion to the other driver to follow you, then drive to a well-lighted, public area and contact the police. If you have a cellular phone, dial 9-1-1 or 0 and request police assistance.

"in most cases, common sense is a very valuable tool when seeking to avoid potentially dangerous situa-tions," said Basch. "We urge all travelers even those familiar with their surroundings—to 'play it save' and take necessary precautions."

Boat show at Novi Expo will feature fun sailing simulator

Boating enthusiasts can hop aboard a new and innovative sailing simulator and learn the basics of sailing in only five minutes, at the second annual Novi Boating Expo, running through April 10.

The simulator can be used indoors or outdoors which will give the perfect conditions every time. The sailing simulator creates its own wind, using three high powered fans. The wind blows through the sails giving the participant the feeling of sailing at about eight knots. The simulator also has a tiller that turns the boat upwind or downwind with the same seeling as a rudder.

Functioning like a real sailboat, the simulator can teach all the basics of sailing including: jibing, sheeting in, sheeting out, tacking, beam reach, broad reach, turning upwind, turning downwind, and stalling.

"It's a great tool for teaching," said Van W. Snider, Michigan Boating Industries Association executive director. "In less than five minutes you can get past the mystery of sailing and easily and effectively sharpen your sailing technique."

"Sailing is a passionate sport in Michigan," said Snider. "There are races and regattas for boats of all sizes all around the state."

Sailing is reaching all corners of the population — from young to old and from the athletic to the hand-icapped. The Michigan based Great Lakes Sailing Association was founded in 1992 to facilitate physical and psychological rehabilitation through sailing. Their mission is to provide specially equipped boats to allow handicapped people to enjoy the freedom and challenge of sailing. More recently, the Special Olympics also announced the addition of sailing as their newest sport in the Special Olympics World Games to be held in New Haven this summer, July

The 2nd annual Novi Boating Expo boat, will be at the Novi Expo Center through April 10. The Novi Boating Expo is the second show owned and produced by the state-wide the Michigan Boating Industries Association, a marine trade association.

Admission is $6 for adults, children under 12 are free with adult; Hours are Wednesday through Friday 3 to 10 p.m., Saturday noon to 10 p.m., and Sunday noon to 8 p.m.;

Video used in job searches

The Michigan Employment Security Commission is using video technology to fill job openings at Northern Michigan resorts, said agency director F. Robert Edwards.

Geake's committee listens to Friend of Court workers

By TIM RICHARD

They're in the middle of the battle of the sexes. They deal with people in divorce—the most stressful human experience next to the death of a spouse or parent. They explain legalisms to non-readers. They come to work early and leave late.

They're Friend of the Court employees, and it was their turn Thursday to complain to state senators about how shabbily the public treats

"We deal with illiteracy. People can't understand forms or even the signs on the wall," said Fran Le-sinski, a Troy resident who works for the Friend of the Court in Wayne County.

The organization has a pyramid shape. There are 400 employees, and there is no avenue to be heard or to proceed with a career path," Lesinski told a subcommittee chaired by Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

These are fierce battlefields," said Eaton Circuit Judge Thomas Eveland. There are outrageous and unfounded attacks. Disagreements turn to diatribes. There are complaints of gender bias on both sides.

*Emotional people plus an adver-

situation," Eveland said.

Geake chairs a subcommittee of the Senate Family Law Committee. In eight hearings around the state, starting with sessions in Livonia and Pontiac, he heard Friend of the Court staffers take "hours and hours of brutal beatings from people with very serious complaints.

Many of you will say, We can do a better job with more resources,' and that's all right. We realize the resources have not kept pace with the growing rate of divorce."

Friend of the Court is an arm of circuit courts, half of whose caseload is divorce suits. The Friend of the Court processes child support and alimony payments, deals with child custody squabbles and holds conciliation conferences.

One Friend of the Court employee after another cited evidence that Michigan's system is the ebest in the nation, the envy of many states and even other nations.

"Our operation needs attention, resources and direction," said James Rashid, chief judge of Wayne Circuit Court, whose Friend of the Court operation has drawn the bulk of the criticism.

"Make SMILE mandatory," said

County program of three-times-amonth meetings with people going through divorces. The acronym stands for "Start Making It Livable for Everyone. Rashid urged lawmakers not to limit a judge's authority to order custody and visitation. Resist the temptation to make hard-and-fast rules for decision makers." You heard people who purport to have complaints against the Friend of the Court," said Ellen Abbott, Friend of the Court for the Osceola and Mecosta counties circuit. The bulk weren't."

Abbott cited complaints Geake heard about unenforced court orders, failure to make pickups on bench warrants, failure to prosecute bad checks, failure to prosecute kidnappers, stalking, lies by the other party, and just bad parenting—all the duties of judges, police, prosecutors and ex-spouses, but all blamed on Friend of the Court staffers.

. Funding is inadequate, said Clinton County Friend of the Court Terry Clarke, because county general funds are the primary budget source. *Our revenues go to county general funds. Then we have to compete with other needs."

Planning, following steps can sell home fast and at best price

Homeowners can play an impor-tant role in the timely sale of their property. Whether one is employing the expertise of a real estate sales associate or selling ones own home, Detroit-area Realtors advise homeowners to follow a few simple and inexpensive steps to help them sell their home faster and at the best possible price.

■ Make the most of that first impression.

Never underestimate the importance of outward appearances - especially where your home is con-cerned. Potential buyers begin their decision-making process early, usually after their first glance of your property. A well-manicured lawn, neatly trimmed shrubs and a clutterfree porch welcome prospects; so does a freshly painted or at least freshly scrubbed front door. The fewer the obstacles between prospects and the true appeal of your home, the better.

■ Invest a few hours for future dividends.

Here's your chance to clean up in real estate. Clean up in the living room, the bathroom, the bedrooms and the kitchen. If the woodwork is scuffed or the paint is fading, per-haps you might want to consider some minor redecoration. Fresh wallpaper in the kitchen or bath can add charm and value to your property. If appropriate, consider adding a brass kick-plate, mail box and porch light. Prospects would rather see how great your home really looks than be told how great it could look. "with a little work."

Check faucets and bulbs. Dripping water rattles the nerves, discolors the sinks and suggests the existence of faulty or worn-out plumbing. Burned-out bulbs leave prospects in the dark. Don't let little problems distract prospects from all the strengths your home has to offer.

Don't shut out a sale. If cabinets or closet doors stick in your home, you can be sure they will also stick in a prospect's mind. Don't try to explain way sticky situations when you can easily plane or sand them away. A little effort on your part can smooth the way toward a closing.

■ Make your bathrooms sparkle. Bathrooms sell homes, so let them shine. Check and repair damaged or unsightly caulking in the tubs and showers. For added allure, display your best towels, mats and shower

■ Create dream bedrooms. Wake up prospects to the cozy comforts of your bedrooms. For a specious look, consider getting rid of excess furniture. Colorful bedspreads and fresh curtains can do wonders. ■ Make room for space. Remember, potential buyers are looking for more than just comfortable living space. They're looking for storage space, too. Make sure your attic and basement are clean and free of unnecessary ■ Consider your closets. The better organized a closet, the larger it appears. Take the time to box up those unwanted clothes and donate them to charity. ■ Open up the daytime. Let the sunshine in. Pull back your curtains and drapes so prospects can see how bright and cherry your home really is. ■ Lighten up at night. Turn on the excitement by turning on your lights -both inside and out - when showing your home in the evening. Lights add color and warmth and help make prospects feel welcome. Think safety. Homeowners learn to live with all kinds of self-set booby traps: rollerskates on the stairs, exposed extension cords, slippery throw rungs, low-hanging overhead lighs, and so on. Makeyour residence as non-perilous as possible for unexpected visitors.

Avoid crowd scenes. Potential buyers often feel like intruders when they enter a home filled with people. Rather than giving your house the attention it deserves, they're likely to hurry through it. Keep the company present to a minimum or schedule your visits from friends and family around your home showings.

■ Watch your pets. Dogs and cats are great companions, but not when you're showing your home. Pets have a talent for getting underfoot. Prospects may appreciate your keeping Kitty and Spot outside during showings more than you think.

■ Think volume. Rock-n-roll will never die; but it might kill a real estate transaction. When it's time to show your home, you're better off turning down the stereo or television. ■ Relax. Be friendly; but don't try to force conversation. Prospects most times want to view your home with minimal distraction. ■ Don't apologize. No matter how humble your abode, never apologize for its shortcomings. Accentuate the positive.

■ Don't turn your home into a second-hand store.

When prospects come to view your home, don't distract them with offers to sell those furnishing you no longer need. You may lose the biggest sale of

Keep a low profile. Nobody knows your home as well as you do; but your sales associate knows buyers — what they want and what they don't want. Your sales associate will have an ea-Your sales associate wi sier time articulating the virtues of your home if you stay in the background.

■ Defer to experience. When prospects want to talk price, terms, or other real estate matters, let them speak to an expert — your real estate sales associate.

■ Help your associate. Your associate will have an easier time selling your home if showings are scheduled through his or her office. You'll appreciate the results.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Breath test is low blow in attempt at deterrent

Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson is hoping to obtain a Breathalyzer device, the implement police use to test drivers and criminal suspects for blood alcohol content. The plan is to keep the instrument on hand in the school office and use it as a deterrent against student alcohol use.

The request to obtain the Breathalyzer has the support of the district administration and senior class

According to the principal, students suspected of imbibing could be asked to submit to a blow test. Submission would be strictly voluntary.

Despite Dr. Johnson's claim that tests would be meant to establish innocence in cases where drinking was suspected, refusing to take a Breathalyzer could lead to a kind of guilt by implication, much in the same way that refusing to take a lie detector test tends to brand the suspect as a wrong doer. Not taking the test doesn't supply positive proof of guilt, but it doesn't do your case any good either. If you're innocent, after all, why not take it?

While we support proactive measures to deter alcohol use among young people, we think the use of a Breathalyzer at Northville High School probably would do more harm than good.

Dr. Johnson's theory seems to rest on the presumption that the mere presence of the machine and the threat of its use would intimidate students into staying straight during school hours. This might work in some instances but it could also send the message that the school administration is attempting to set up a kind of self-contained, para-legal system within the building. Such a tactic is likely to be resented by the student population and contribute to a general climate of mistrust. It would also contradict the spirit of the Alcohol and Other Drugs survey, which in its candid questioning includes a factor of trust.

We believe the school district and the larger community are headed in the right direction in their efforts to educate students on the dangers of chemical abuse. Anti drug abuse information, the active participation of the local SADD chapter and seminars such as the one on Wednesday sponsored by Northville Youth Forum will do more, in the long run, to benefit students and parents than police-like attempts to enforce policies. When disciplinary measures are needed, as they sometimes are, suspension and expulsion are appropriate steps available to school officials.

We urge Dr. Johnson to reconsider his request to obtain a Breathalyzer and we suggest people concerned about the proliferation of drugs attend the Northville Youth Forum seminar at 7:30 p.m. April 13 at Northville High School. The subject is chemical dependency, its indicators, progression and physical complications.

What do you do when two company policies are on a head-on collision course? Why, you make up a third, incorporating the nonopposing features of the two, of course.

That's sort of where we are in trying to devise a new approach to the photographs we run in The Northville Record.

On the one hand, we have a policy that states, Whatever comes in, gets in." All that means is that if we get a story tip or a photo request that has merit and a good local angle, we should find some use for it. Chances are it belongs in a community newspaper.

As a practical matter, this doesn't always work because we have limited resources that often can't keep up with the demand. It gets especially difficult when our 1.2 full-timeequivalent photographers have to cover three basketball games, a service club raffle, a children's reading hour, a visit from a Yemeni clock maker and a cow pie dung-drop contest all in the same night.

Nevertheless, the rule is that every attempt should be made to accommodate the people who write and call with worthwhile suggestions.

On the other hand, though, there's the policy that says, "Don't use posed photographs—they have little interest to anyone other than the people being depicted."

These are your standard "grip and grin" pictures of two people exchanging a check or "execution" photos in which you stand people up against a wall and "shoot" them.

Too many of those and your publication begins to look like the scapbook from your 1977 Benevolent and Protective Order of Yaks' anniversary party.

So what do you do? You want to be able to take pictures of as many noteworthy events as possible, yet you don't want to compromise the pictorial integrity of your paper.

Time for a little creativity. We have to find ways to make ac-

For example, when we get a call from a fifth-grade teacher whose pupil won the school spelling bee, on go the thinking caps. We certainly feel that kids who can spell "gerundive" (the future passive participle that functions adjectivally and expresses the notion of fitness or necessity) deserve to have their pictures in our paper. However, we don't want to ask them to stand frozen and smile as if they've just been told their father's been hired as a booth operator at Disney World;

So, we have to improvise. How can we go along with the picture request and make the photo appealing to a wider audience at the same time?

Well, we could try plopping the student down at their classroom desk, making it look like they're studying their Webster's New World. Or, perhaps we could set them up in the library and surround them with brainy-looking objects like globes and encyclopedias.

Our photographer Bryan Mitchell likes to make unique photographs by finding odd angles for his camera. He once had three students lie down on the floor as if they were spokes in a wheel with their heads meeting at the hub. He then stood over them and, looking down, snapped a picture of them from just the neck up. The effect was striking and the unusual image definitely got your attention. I didn't have the nerve to ask Bryan if the camera had slipped from his grasp while he was focusing, but I haven't heard of any lawsuits against the company so I guess everything went all right.

There are other examples of this new twist on picture taking but I think you get the idea. I'm hoping that people in the community who call us with photo requests will agree with the new approach and help us think of different ways of staging the pictures they want taken.

As someone in our brain trust said, an attractive picture will benefit everyone: it'll help us by providing photos that will improve the look of our pages, and it'll help the community by drawing greater attention to the subject of the photos.

What a solution!

See district from inside out

In an upscale community like Novi, I find it hard to believe people aren't flocking to fill vacancies on the Novi Community School District Board of Education.

When school officials told me they needed to host last week's board of education information night because they needed to campaign for school board candidates. I was shocked.

In a city like Novi where the majority of residents are collegeeducated, working at executive level jobs, I find it really shocking that people living here aren't interested in lending a helping hand towards education.

School officials in Novi contend historically there's been little interest in the school board seats because there are few problems in the district.

They say since board meetings aren't jam packed with angry parents, residents in the district have faith in their elected officials and are content with the job the current board and administration is doing. That may be true. But I don't think that in itself is reason enough for the community to sit back and let others do the job. People should want to get involved. They should want to see their tax dollars at work in the classroom. They should need to see how the long list of state mandates affect the quality of education and nibble away at the district's finances.. Parents should want to take an active role in their children's education. They should want to be involved in decisions. that will affect their child's future.

When I first started to cover Novi's school board meetings. it astonished me that few residents attend meetings, ask questions or show an interest at the board level where policy decisions are made.

When I asked board members and administrators about it, they concurred.

There are no problems here, they said. That's why there's little attendance. Now once before I've used this space to criticize Northville Public Schools elected officials for their over-reliance on community input. So I recognize that this may sound a bit contradictory. But, when a school district has a difficult time recruiting board members, I think the story is different. I think it's laudable Novi residents think their elected officials are doing a good job educating their children. But I think people in the community also need to be more responsible and responsive to the needs of the schools. Don't wait until you have an axe to grind with the school board before you get involved. That's what Northville's problem has been in the past. Get involved now so you're seated on the board for the right reasons. Take an interest and learn about the district from the inside out not the outside in. ., ,

Youth Assistance is outstanding

I have just spent every Thursday evening for the last five weeks participating in one of the most outstanding training programs that I have encountered!

I spent this time with Mary Ellen King who is the Director of Northville Youth Assistance, Kathy Norris, who is the leader of the training program, and with other trainees. All of us Northville Youth Assistance trainees are now eagerly awaiting our youth.

The Northville Youth Assistance program is so fortunate to have NHS band such an excellent and caring director and training leader. Thank you deserves kudos to Mary Ellen and Kathy. I am so very glad that I took the time to get To the editor. involved in such an important program.

Bible says to pray in silence

To the editor:

. : I would refer those who clamor for prayers in public schools to St. Matthew, Chapter 6, verses 5, 6 and 7, in the King James version of the Bible. It reads:

:*5. And when thou prayest, thou salt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you. They have their reward.

6. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to the from the students, but hard work

7. But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking."

Addendum: A week or so ago Senator Jesse Helms filibustered in the educational committee meeting in his efforts to allow the practice of religious prayers in our To the editor: public schools.

About six months ago we started getting the Northville Record. It was something I really look forward to reading. I especially like to hear what is going on at Northville High School.

Supervisor said it, all right

I do not understand why Mrs. Baja's husband is all out of shape because of the letters I have

I think I have written the truth. Let's start at the beginning.
I voted for her and after attending a few meetings I found out that I had made a mistake and wrote a letter to the Record admitting it.

I personally don't know anything about her except from what I have observed at the township

I was there with some neighbors when she said Northville Township was getting the reputation of being the armpit of western Wayne County. Ask the trustees if that wasn't said. Call Bill or Mary Wood who were shocked that she would say such a thing at an open meeting. Better yet, ask your wife. If she doesn't remember, I would suggest you take her to a memory expert.

be in any trouble for that. At Christmas time, Sue Hillebrand asked what she should do with all the gifts arriving at the Township Hall for the board. Bar-

I just told the truth so I shouldn't didn't want any gifts and others agreed. Mrs. Baja spoke up that she would not insult anyone by refusing or returning the gifts. Does that sound like good honest government to you? Not to me. This isn't Chicago. I was surprised when four trustees voted down the compost operation from BFI. Only your wife and Abbo voted for it. Common sense prevailed for the good of the township.

I know BFI will be back and they are powerful. It is not going to help development with that in our township. Mrs. Baja thinks it is.

When I asked at an open meeting if the rumor I heard about BFI sending out invitations for a night at Greenfield Village with cocktails, dinner and entertainment was true, they all said yes and the only one accepting was Mrs. Baja. She had attended their party in 1992 and 1993 and was going again this year. Does this sound like good government to you? Not in my mind.

I am real happy that you love your wife and have such a successful marriage but she has failed the test with me as a supervisor and with many people that I talk to. I do not go to any local coffee shops or bars as you suggest that I do.

I agree that being supervisor or a trustee is not an easy job. You never please everyone but with good common business sense you'll win more than you lose.

Richard garette tax, assessment cap . . . money, money, money. I expected somebody would ask what, if anything. Lansing was doing about education reform.

Now things are moving fast. The day after the March 15 Proposal A election, the State Board of Education approved new standards to accredit public schools. They depend on MEAP assessment tests, attendance, dropout rates, graduation rates and other criteria.

Oh, it's not final approval. A committee gave It to the state board; the state board is sending it to local and intermediate school districts, colleges, universities, chambers of commerce and the like; and then come the hearings:

■ Wayne Intermediate School District -9:30-11:30 a.m. Monday, May 9; 6:30-8-30 p.m. Tuesday, May 10.

Since the summer day when the Legislature abolished local school operating property taxes, I hardly covered the state Board of Education. A letter from board member Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester, jostled me.

It seems the now-famous PA 25 of 1990, the law setting up school improvement plans, was, updated in the laundry list of laws passed by the Legislature on Christmas Eve day. The new law is PA 335 of 1993.

Every school building in Michigan is expected to meet state accreditation standards," Beardmore told an educators conference March 17. "Failure to become accredited will result in financial penalties to the school district."

The state can accredit schools for three years. Accreditation can be at one of three levels: full, interim, non-accredited.

Other changes are coming down the pike. "Core curriculum outcomes" board has a Sept. 1 deadline for developing a model core curriculum in "math, science, reading, history, geography, economics, American government and writing," but not "attitudes, beliefs or value systems." Note the word "outcomes." A student may "test out" of some courses.

Commented Beardmore: "No more can a teacher say, as some are reputed to have done, We covered the material, or I taught it; they just didn't learn it.' Learning is the essential thing, not the names or numbers of courses."

■ School year — PA 335 sets the usual 180 days of instruction this year but shifts to a 900-hours standard for 1994, 990 hours in 1995, 1,035 in 1997 and 1,080 in 1990-2000. The goal is 210 instructional days by 2009.

Some complain this is a state takeover of local control. Wrong. Since 1837 Michigan has had state supervision of public schools in its constitution. "Local control" never has been in the Michigan Constitution.

This annotated list of fiction and nonfiction favorites of our staff will be on display through the month of April. Limited copies of past editions of this popular list are available at the reference desk.

Reference desk . . . circulation desk . . . what's the difference?

The reference desk is the place to ask a question, ask for assistance, get answers. It's the place to drop off those "Rev up to Read!" lists our children have been filling all winter. Just a few feet away is the circulation desk; the place to borrow or return materials, place reserve requests and pick them up, pay fines or fees. It's also the place to get your first library card or renew an expired card.

There is no charge for a card, only if the card has been lost or damaged through negligence. Stolen cards should be reported immediately, and are replaced at no charge.

Library Week offers a good opportunity to examine why Americans use public libraries. In 1992, the Gallop organization surveyed a nationwide audience of 1,001 regular library users over the age of 18.

Participants were given a list of the 10 most common library roles, and were asked to select the roles that best described their reasons for visiting the library. Participants could select more than one role, and most did. Here are the

The most widely selected roles are:

• 88.1 percent visit because the library provides students of all ages with books, magazines, and other services needed for school

• 84.6 percent visit because the library provides adults who are not students with the materials and services they need to better themselves or to learn a new skill.

• 83.2 percent visit because the library provides preschool children with picture books, story hours, and educational programs so that these children can have fun and learn to appreclate reading.

• 68.2 percent visit because the library provides scientists and scholars with specialized research collections of books, magazines, and computerized information needed to conduct research or to write books.

• 65.6 percent come to the library because it provides people with information about their community. This could include, for example, information about local government, issues or laws, about community services such as senior citizen programs or day care for children.

• 55.1 percent visit because the library provides businesses in the community with information they need to survive and prosper. This could include information about sales or marketing, worker safety or setting up a new business.

● 52.4 percent visit regularly because the library provides people with a comfortable place to go when they need someplace outside their house or apartment to read, think or work.

• 51.4 percent visit because the library provides a collection of current best-selling books and popular magazines, videos, and musical recordings for borrowing.

• 48.4 percent visit because the library provides people with the information they need to answer personal and household questions. This could include information about how to fix things around the house, hobbies, health issues, or the quality and prices of home appliances.

• 41.3 percent visit because the library serves as a neighborhood or community activity center—a place where organizations or clubs can hold meetings or present concerts and lectures.

As I read through the survey, my personal choices followed closely with the nationwide audience. Priorities depend on other community services available to the individual. Without an organized community recreation program, the Community Activities Center listed in 10th place in the survey might finish much higher than in communities such as Northville with well-established Parks & Recreation programs.

I also found a close similarity between "providing adults who are not students with the materials and services they need to better themselves . . . " and "providing peple with information they need to answer personal and household questions . . . "

Consumer and health care information are among the most frequently asked questions we get. Next in popularity is, "Can you recommend a good book?"

Stop in any time, but especially during Library Week. Don't wait to discover the exciting world waiting for you at your library!

Lansing considers some new rules on adoption

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

Finding good families for homeless kids was the chief goal of Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld's Commission on

Two bills by Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, are among the 21-bill package passed by the state Senate prior to its spring break.

Geake's bills, with a companion measure by Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, will require health insurers to cover children the day they enter their new home rather than a year later, when the adoption becomes "A child is a child," philosophized Berman, who has worked three years on the project, often with opposition from insurers.

Currently, adoptive parents frequently take their birth children to one doctor and their adopted children to another, sometimes in another town, who accepts Medicaid payments.

Meanwhile, Gov. John Engler's administration used a recommendation from the Binsfeld Commission to speed up the process of placing abused and neglected children who are wards of the state.

So the DSS effort to speed the process is being hailed as good news by those who want to see children "united with their 'forever families,' " in Binsfeld's words.

Oakland Probate Judge Joan E. Young praised the work of Richard Hoekstra, director of the division of adoption services for the Michigan Department of Social Services.

"In 1991 we did 1,320 adoptions. In 1993 we did 1,959," an increase of 48 percent, said Hoekstra.

*First, we made changes in 1992 in our contracts with private agencies that we rely on to place half of our children. We give them (agencies) a financial incentive to place them within the first eight months of wardship—don't let them linger.

"Second, we made a diligent effort to get kids listed on the exchange," a state directory of available children.

Of the 5,000 adoptions done in Michigan each year, about 20 percent were state wards, the Binsfeld Commission reported.

In 1991 some 1,600 children a year were becoming state wards, but only 1,200 a year were being adopted. So the pool of state wards was growing at 400 children a year. At that rate, the pool would have grown to 5,000 by the year 2000.

But the administration was criticized by one member of the Binsfeld Commission. Don Marengere of Bloomfield Township. Formerly the president of Adoption Option. Marengere said the state is cutting back its services to birth mothers, often unmarried teenagers.

He cited the closing of Marillac Hall, a Farmington Hills contractor which provided pre-natal services, including adoption counseling to young mothers.

*Half the low birth weight babies in Detroit are born to teen mothers," Marengere said. *It costs $2,000 per day to care for those babies until they can be released. You knows who pays for that? The taxpayers."

Mustangs ready for faster start

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Getting out of the gate quickly has been a problem for the Mustang softball team in recent years.

But with a pair of veteran hurlers returning, Manager Frank "Sparky" Friemund is confident his squad can reverse that trend. Kari Krupansky and Andrea Moretti make Northville armed and dangerous in the Western Division of the WLAA.

There's been no established pitcher to start the sesaon before this year," Friemund said, adding that that should make the Mustangs better sooner. "I know we will be. Whether it's winning or losing, I don't

"We'll have to experiment in game situations," Friemund said. "Since they are so young it will be difficult to find the right position for everyone."

Northville will carry 12 on varsity. At times last season, the Mustangs had trouble fielding a team with injuries. Friemund said making out the lineup card will be a tad easier now.

Golfers prepare for conference title run

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

The good news for WLAA golf teams is that Northville High sports a young squad in 1994.

The bad news is, they're pretty darn good. The Mustangs are coming off a conference championship and a trip to the state finals.

While talented performers like Beth MacLean, Kelly Casterline and Maria Candella have graduated, the Mustangs' stable is full with returning talent.

"I think we will be a threat," said coach Trish Waldecker. 'It's always nice to be considered a tough team and a team to beat."

It's no surprise Northville is highly regarded again this year. In their three years on the varsity scene, the Mustangs have been either league or division champs every season. The team also has gone to the state finals in two of three years.

Northville didn't win the division championship a year ago but did produce a 6-1 dual meet record. Waldecker said the goal for this year is to win the Western Division and hold on to the league crown.

Leading the way will be Lindsey Casterline. A junior, Waldecker predicted that she'll shoot in the low 40s

"She has worked really hard on her game," she said. "She has the potential to shoot between 40-45.

Seniors Meagan Bataran and Katie Kernohnan will provide leadership on the course. Brittny Ahern, also a senior, is expected to vie for top honors in Northville.

She's a very experienced player, said Waldecker.

Junior Jodi Fischer is another Mustang standout.

"Jodi's looking really good," said Waldecker. "She has a good head for the game.

Kyley Mills and Heather Nix are also returning juniors. Also seeing time at varsity will be Jennifer Dixon and Emily Baldwin.

Rounding out the Mustangs' lineup are freshmen Beth Kruger, Ka tie Kulp and Monica Prasad. Waldecker said the trio would see most of their action at junior varsity this

The coach emphasized, however, that varsity spots must be earned. "If they are shooting the scores they'll play," Waldecker commented, Stx play in varsity matches with the lowest four scores counting as the team score. Waldecker said she's hoping that her team will average about 50 strokes person.

"Anything below 215 is great," she Northville opens the campaign April 18 at home [Tanglewood Golf Course) against Plymouth Canton. The league season concludes just a month later with the WLAA meet on May 17.

With so many young players, Waldecker said Northville will be talented for years to come.

"It's nice to be young and talented," she said.

Tracksters ready for WLAA rivals Canton, Harrison

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

· It's going to be an interesting spring for the Northville High boys' track team.

Not only will the Mustangs be trying to clear the final hurdle to a league championship, but they will feature the world's tallest high jumper. According to coach Dennis Faletti, if talent counts for anything, Northville will be very competitive in the WLAA.

"We have quality kids," he said. It's a good mix of veterans and new kids that have a lot of talent."

The Mustangs were second in the Western Lakes conference last year and posted a 7-3 dual meet record. With a smaller team than usual. Faletti was happy with the way things turned out.

"I was surprised," he commented. We did better than I thought in the dual meets.

Northville's numbers are up slightly from that team, 43 to 40. The loss of athletes such as Rob Subotich and Jason Petrie via graduation will be felt.

' Faletti will look to fill those vacancles with some new faces, one of whom will be senior Josh Williams. A star basketball player, the 6-foot-11 athlete will be trying his hand at high and long jumping. Williams has no prior track experience, Faletti said, but does have potential.

"Josh is pretty coordinated," he said. "He enjoys being out there but he's got a long way to go."

Rob Tune will be an outstanding high jumper. The 5-foot-6 sophomore has already jumped six feet and could approach the school record of

Mustangs take aim at league with biggest squad in years

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Talk about turnarounds. After years of languishing near the WLAA cellar in girls' track, Northville High is on the rebound. The Mustangs finished sixth in the 12-school league last year and posted an impressive 7-2 dual meet record. Things are looking even brighter this spring. For starters, numbers are way up. Nearly 70 athletes will be participating for Northville giving the Mustangs depth they haven't had in many years. We should finish higher than we did last year," said coach Ann Turnbull.

"We should finish higher than we did last year."

Canton and Salem will be the teams to beat. Northville is perhaps a year away from moving into title contention.

"I don't think we have enough depth in distance events," said Turnbull. Northville will have depth in field

Kristine Werda and Renee Olin, a senior and junior, respectively, will throw the shot put. In the discus, Jenny Sekerka could capture the school record.

The Mustangs should own the long jump in most dual meets. Seniors Wendy Forster and Alana Bradely both finished in the top five in Class A last year in the event.

German exchange student Jessica Reimer will also compete in the long jump. Freshman Melissa Poole will give a shot, too.

In the high jump, junior Tammy Cook is back. She had a personal high of 5-feet 2-inches last year.

High hurdles will see Bradley, Forster and Reimer compete. Junior Melannie Helmer will also run in the 110-meter event.

Overall, Northville will be stronger in field events.

"A lot stronger than we use to be,"
Turnbull added.

Sprinter Carrie Dalziel leads the way for the Mustangs. She'll run in the 100 and 200 meter dash. Forster and Bradley will join her in the 200. A strong middle-distance lineup is led by Adrienne Browne. Laura Brown, Lauren Nadeau and Marci Bolger will run the 400 with Browne. That same group plus Sarah Goshorn will work in the 800 meters.

In the distance events, look for Jodi Clark, a senior, and Monica Nayakwadi. While they'll be running the 1,600 meter, Amy Tapp, Roopel Vashi and Erin Maloney will run the two-mile.

Northville will use many of the same athletes in the relay events. Forster, Bradley and Dalziel will do the sprint relays while Brown and Browne will anchor the 1,600.

Northville opens the season at South Lyon Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Kickers favored in division race despite new faces

By SCOTT DANIEL

Perhaps more than any squad this spring, the Mustang soccer team will have a new look.

Key losses on the field and behind the bench have sent Northville High in a new direction for 1994. Despite the changes, WLAA observers are picking the squad for first place in the Western Division.

"It'll be up for grabs in our league," said new head coach Doug Lyon. Lyon isn't exactly new to the prog-ram. He was the assistant coach for years and also serves as boys' head coach.

He replaces Bob Paul. The former coach's work and family responsibilities forced the move.

Northville put together a fine season for Paul a year ago. The Mustangs were 14-3-4, won a district championship and fell in region flnals to league rival Canton.

Graduation and other departures will make repeating that success

Valerie Schuerman is the most notable loss on the field. She was HomeTown Newspapers' All-Area Player of the Year, having scored 18 goals and 13 assists.

Suzi Morton, Reagan Wiseley and Karen Schwartz were other valuable members who graduated. Junior Emily Lawrence transferred out of Northville High while senior Krista Howe opted not to play this spring.

"We will miss them," said Lyon. *But our talent is still very strong."

The Mustangs will use a blend of youth and experience to pick up the pieces. Northville will carry 16 varsity players this year, four from each

Angle Snyder and Mary Pat Bahl will anchor the defense at fullback. Snyder was all-area first team last year while Bahl played steady soccer. Androsian, Snyder and Bahl will captain the team. Collen Litzelman. also a senior, will work at forward. A strong group of juniors is led by goal keeper Jessica Jones. Also all-area first team, she recorded nearly a dozen shutouts. "She was an all-conference player," added Lyon. Lisa Bernardo moves back to sweeper after a one-year hiatus. Heather Huizing will play defense as well as outside fullback and Katie Kohl will be counted upon for offense at her forward slot.

Lyon said the Mustangs will play a little differently on offense. He said they'll try to utilize three forwards instead of two.

ward last year, will move to halfback. Lyon said he'll try to utilize her speed in moving the ball quickly to the forward line.

Sue McQuaid will likely play at halfback and forward.

"Sue has a strong shot," said Lyon. "If she can get the shot on net she's deadly.

Sophomore Courtney Todd and Kate Riebling will play at halfback. Northville's youth soccer program continues to supply the Mustangs with talent. Four freshmen will join the varsity squad from those ranks.

Kristen Baja has a lot of speed and will help on defense while Amanda DeKoler will be up front at forward. Lyndsay Huot moves into the starting lineup at outside halfback and Mary MacDonald will play fullback.

"These are good freshmen," said

The coach emphasized that everyone on the roster will play a lot. Northville opens the season Tues-

It's hard to improve on perfection. But that's exactly what the Mustang tennis team will be trying to do this spring. Northville High has won 28 straight dual matches over the past three seasons and, in the process, a pair of Western Lakes Activities Association titles.

According to coach Dick Norton, the Mustangs have a good shot at adding to those numbers. A strong singles lineup is bolstered by a young. talented group of doubles players.

"I think we will be better than last year," said Norton, "because we have more depth at doubles. I think we are a year away from being really good." Northville was awfully good last prove his game," Norton said. Completing the singles lineup is senior Nic McCreedy. He'll likely start out at the fourth spot but could move up a notch or two if any falters. Norton said other than Schwagle, his lineup isn't etched in stone. "It'll depend on how they do against each other in practice," he

The longtime coach said he expects whoever competes at singles will win.

"I think most meets we will sweep at singles," Norton commented. It's our strength again this year."

While the coach has had time to pair most of his remaining doubles teams he's not sure exactly where they'll be playing.

Vik Srinavasan and Scott Anderson will be paired. Ravi Mujumdar and Matt Telepo are another likely combination that will play regularly. Ganesh Nayakwadi and freshman Arjun Srinavasan will also likely see court time. Rounding out the doubles scene is Desmond Llang, Nate Connell, Nick Sriraman, Mike Bushi Ryan Steinhauer and Anthony race. Norton said he's expecting a strong challenge from Livonia "It'll be an interesting match when Northville will get a chance to tell just how good it is next week. The Mustangs play Ann Arbor Huron, which will be ranked in Class A's top 10, in an exhibition. The regular season opens a week from tomorrow on the road against Novi (4 p.m.).

Forster, Bradley aim for top season

According to the two Mustangs, hours of physical and mental preparation are neccessary for top results.

The first step toward success is building leg strength. While other athletes use weight training to develop power in the thighs and calves, Turnbull steers her runners away from pumping iron.

Instead, Forster and Bradley concentrate on running. Sprinting and running bleachers at the football field are primary exercises as well as "pop ups," jumping straight up from a crouched position.

Technique is the other major ingredient. Most high school long jumpers use 16 or 17 steps before taking off. Hit- airborne. ting that number and jumping off the correct foot can be difficult.

"It seems like I'm never consistent," Bradley said. "16 steps are on my good days."
"Wendy is technically perfect," said Turnbull. "With Alana you never know what she'll do going down the Once that footwork is mastered it's time for flight. Forster said gaining immediate altitude is the most important thing for a long jump.

*Otherwise you go straight into the sand," she commented. You've got to power all the way down (the runway) and then go straight up," added Bradley. "Motion carries you forward."

Most try to "hang" and then arch forward. A hitch-kick is also used by

"My eyes are closed and my arms fly out," said Forster. "I try to stay in the air as long as I can.

Jumps are measured from where the back of the heel lands in the sand. If the athlete falls backwards the jump is measured from where the hands are in the sand. "If it's a bad jump," Bradley said, you fall back.

Forster and Bradley have different ways of getting ready for the jump. Wendy said she is learning the art of visualization. Executing the jump successfully in her mind makes doing it physically a little easier.

I think it is meditation," Forster

For Alana, it's getting pumped up before each jump. She said she concentrates on everything from exploding down the runway and making the perfect take off to proper breathing. "It seems like I have to get so focused," Bradley said.

No matter how much they get ready, though, it's tough to jump well without being pushed by the competition. "I think we do better at big meets," said Forster. "I think we rise to the occasion when the competition is Turnbull said WLAA rivals will throw better competition at the duo this season. They'll have to be good to win in our dual meets," she added.

T-ball registration deadline approaching quickly in Novi

By CINDY STEWART Special Writer

What is the most important thing you have to do by April 15? No, it's not your taxes. It's much more important

Friday, April 15 at 5 p.m. is the registration deadline for Novi Parks and Recreation Youth T-Ball and Youth Softball Leagues. What could be more important than that.

Over 1,000 Novi kids from 5 to 13 years old will ultimately sign up for more than 60 Parks and Recreation Department teams coached by more than 125 parent volunteers.

If you sign up before the 5 p.m. April 15 deadline, your child is guaranteed a spot on one of the teams. Practice begins the second week of June and Opening Day is scheduled for Saturday, June 18, in Power Park for both T-Ball and Youth Softball. Each participant will receive a shirt, hat and trophy.

Youth T-Ball helps your youngster learn the fundamentals of baseball, softball, throwing, catching, teamwork and sportsmanship by playing in a non-competitive co-ed league. This includes a Midget League for 5 year olds and a Giant League for 6 and 7 year olds. Game days are Wednesdays for the midgets and Mondays or Tuesdays for the Clants.

Youth Softball lets your child enjoy a league that stresses fundamentals, team work and sportsmanship. These teams play two games per week. The softball divisions are Youth for 9 and 10 year olds and Junior for 11-13 year olds. The boys game days are Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the girls play on Mondays and Wednesdays. All game times are 6:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. with practice starting the second week of June. Except for opening and closing day, all games are played on school fields throughout Novi.

"Our T-ball and softball leagues have grown very popular over the years," said Dianne Adaschik, Recreation Coordinator. The kids have so much fun, especially on Opening Day when we use the scoreboards and announcers, and open the concession stand. It's as exciting as opening day at Tiger Stadium.

"We couldn't offer such great programs if it wasn't for our parent volunteers and the team sponsors. We need more parents and businesses to get involved in our community and help the kids. T-ball and softball are such worthwhile programs that provide constructive activities for Novi's kids. I have some parents and business sponsors who return year after year and they deserve our thanks." Tim May is one of those great parents. A 13-year resident of Novi, Tim has coached Novi Parks and Rec soccer for the past eight years and softball for the past five years.

"I coach because I strongly believe in being involved in my children's activities and get so much pleasure out of coaching," May said.

"I would strongly encourage all parents to get involved. It's a great way to develop a friendship with the neighborhood kids, meet the parents and help your community. Novi Parks and Rec is one of the best organizations I've ever dealt with."

Longtime Novi resident Art Cervi is another of those dedicated parent volunteers who has coached his boys T-ball and softball for the last nine

"Why do I coach? Well it's more fun to be involved with my sons on the field as a coach, instead of just sitting in the bleachers," said Art. "I love seeing the kids learn and grow. It's important for the adults to teach them the fundamentals of baseball, to play as a team and most importantly to Another miracle finish?

'Major League II' returns for another screwball season

Can the Indians do it again?
That's the question asked in "Major League II," the sequel to Morgan Creek Productions' 1989 comedy hit. The sequel re-unites nearly all the characters who made "Major League" a runaway success, while adding several new characters to the Cleveland Indians' lineup.

Filmed on location in Baltimore, "Major League II takes another look at the Indians after they miraculously wrest a national championship from the jaws of their miserable early season.

Now, once again, the team has slid back to its old ways and is in hilarious disarray.

There's no arguing that the original "Major League was one of the major hits of the 1989 film season. The rags-to-riches story and the wacky characters created by writer and director David S. Ward struck a chord with audiences that continues as the film has gone into the ancillary cycle of video, pay-TV and free TV release.

This kind of success would ordinarily guarantee an immediate rush to produce a sequel. But fans of the original had to endure a five year offseason. Why the long wait?

"Basically, I wasn't sure I wanted to do it again for a lot of reasons, said Ward. "It took awhile to come up with a story that I thought would be a worthy succesor to the first one. It had to be fresh enough to be different, while still giving audiences the characters they'd gotten to know and love." It was writer R.J. Stewart who came up with the basic idea to solve the problem. "The challenge."

he said "was to do something different from the first film while still delivering to people who've grown to know and love these characters the elements that drew them to the first film.

"That desire not to give our audience the same thing over and over again, to find the right mix of the old and new, was one of the major factors in the long wait." he added.

In a sense, putting the right team together for Major League II was re:narkably similar to building a major league ball club. Start with the nucleus of veterans - Charlie Sheen. Tom Berenger. Corbin Bernsen, Dennis Haysbert, James Gammon. Margaret Whitton as team owner Rachel Philps and Bob Uecker as the prototypical playby-play man Harry Doyle.

Then bring up a few newcomers (David Keith and Eric Bruskotte) to shake things up and keep the veterans from getting too complacent.

Ward had no trouble convincing most of the original cast to come back. "Ive never done a sequel before," said Berenger. "But this was a such a good script that I had to come back. And it was great fun seeing all the guys back rogether again."

The opportunity to work again with old friends seemed to be the motivating factor for everyone. "It was like coming back to summer camp," said Margaret Whitton. That first day on the set was so sweet. We were all so happy to see each other

Newcomer Omar Epps, who had worked with Ward on the director's last film, "The Program." steps into the role of Willie Mays Hayes. "I loved the first film, and the characterof Willie had been my favorite," he said. "I loved Wesley Snipes in the part, and the opportunity to take over was something I couldn't pass up."

But it's up to the new characters created by Stewart and Ward to provide the catalyst to turn the Indians' season around. Jack Parkman's ego and his disdain for his Inidian teammates gives the rest of the team someone to hate.

And Rube Baker's naivete and, more importantly, his love for the game of baseball, serve to shame the team into its second half winning surge.

Perhaps the most striking of the new characters on the team this time around is Tanaka, purchased from the Tokyo Giants by new owner Roger Dorn. As played by Japanese comedy star Takaaki Ishibashi. Tanaka's all-out style of play and spiritual fervor serve to light a fire under first Cerrano and then, eventually, the entire team.

Ron Howard records a hit with 'The Paper'

THE PAPER By Cindy Stanisz South Lyon

Ron Howard has done it again. Yes, Opie Taylor, Richie Cunning-ham and the director of "Splash." "Backdraft" and "Parenthood" has another hit on his hands with the newly-released "The Paper."

Starring the likes of Michael Keaton ("Batman"), Marisa Tomei ("My Cousin Vinnie"), Glenn Close and Robert Duvall how can this film not be a hit? But there's more - The Paper delivers a story.

A very intriguing story about two businessmen who are murdered as an act of racial violence - or are they? That's when Michael Keaton comes in to find out the truth. As Assistant Managing Editor of The New York Sun newspaper, it seems his paper is always losing the "big" story to one of the other New York newspapers.

Striving to manage the newspaper and his very pregnant wife, played by Tomei, is not an easy job. But while Keaton is juggling his career and family, Glenn Close, as managing THE FOX AND THE HOUND editor, is seaching for respect in her job - and a raise. Robert Duvall, as chief editor, who fears he is dying, is trying to make amends with his daughter.

All in all, "The Paper" is a real-life, behind-the-scenes look at what goes on at a daily newspaper. It's a roller coaster ride that you won't want to

WHAT'S EATING GILBERT dog - who didn't know they were GRAPE? By P. Pryor Milford

So you ask "What's Eating Gilbert Grape?" Well, for starters, it's being almost trapped in a small, depressing dust bowl of a town where the most exciting annual event is the arrival of the summer campers.

It could also be that you are the sole breadwinner at a one-cashregister grocery for your dysfunctional family who have no one else to depend on.

And it might possibly be that your more. A family who unconditionally love one another transcends even the dreariest of existences.

Gilbert and Arnie, the brothers, have a true tenderness reminiscent of "Rain Man's" Tom Cruise and Dustin Hoffman --- but Johnny Depp and Leonardo DiCaprio have a brotherly bond that is forever, no matter what.

PANO

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

When Christiane Thoemmes learned her husband's job would transfer them to the United States, she already knew how she would spend her spare time.

It was time to learn how to tickle the tvories. A native of Germany, Thoenmes had tinkered with her parents' plano, but never really learned how to play.

"When we decided to move to the USA, I said I'm sure we'll have a bigger house with enough space for a plano," she said. "That was my wish for when I came here."

The Thoemmes settled in Novi
over a year ago when Christiane's husband, Franz, volunteered to relocate. He is employed by Robert Bosch, a company that makes equipment for Ford and Chrysler.

"He (Franz) said from the beginning that any opportunity we got to live in another country for a couple years, we would take the chance," Thoemmes said.

Both have experience living abroad. Franz lived in Baton Rouge, I.a., for a semester of school while Christiane worked as an Au Pair (nanny) in Ireland

"It was tough to move here, to another country, not to know anybody," Thoemmes admitted. "But we like to meet new people, get to know another culture."

"Going shopping in Germany is almost like shopping in Birmingham and Northville," Thoemmes said. "You can shop just with a grocery basket and stroller. You don't need a car for grocery shopping normally. Here, you need a car for everything."

Thoemmes said it's also difficult for her to remember to allow for sales tax when making purchases.

"In Germany, tax and tips are included," she said.

Christiane needed some additional support because the Thoemmes first child, Madeleine, was born here.

"it was kind of hard to know if I wanted to stay in Germany for the delivery," she said. "We decided it would be even tougher to be apart for the delivery.

"America is a country with good health care.

The hospital stays are a lot shorter, though.

In Germany, a mother having a normal delivery will stay in the hospital up to five days. The extra time allows the nurses to help the new mother prepare to care of the newborn."

A pediatric nurse, Thoernmes said she was lucky because, although she is a first-time mother, she was prepared to immediately begin caring for her baby.

Since she doesn't have her green card, Thoemmes isn't allowed to work while she is here. That's why she decided to pursue her interest in playing the piano.

When she saw plano instructor Ann Oberts' business card advertised in her Novi subdivision's newsletter, she called to make an appointment.

Ten months later, the two have established not only a teacherstudent relationship, but a deep friendship.

"She's doing great," Oberts said about Thoemmes' piano-playing abilities. "We've been working together for about a year. We've come to enjoy each other's cultures."

The two share tips on things such as parenting to where to buy the best bread. They also exchange cultural notes, making them aware of the similarities and differences between the two of them.

For example, only the musical notes were universal when the two compared German and American plano music books. In Germany, "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" is a Christmas tune.

Although her family has visited, and are scheduled to do so again soon, it is difficult living away from her home in Baden-Baden, located near the Black Forest in southwestern Germany.

"I'm not really that homesick," she admitted. "I miss my family. Last year was not too bad. It does

"Her music has helped her (in the transition)," Oberts said, remarking on how well her student has adjusted to living in America. "She's getting to know me and Γm getting to know her. And her music is still recreational as well as challenging."

Besides her music, Thoemmes also meets up with a Mom and Tots group weekly in Bloomfield.

Thoemmes continues to practice 30 minutes to an hour every day on her plano, but is considering taking lessons in tennis this

She also plans to make use of the pool in her subdivision. No matter how easy or hard the move to America was, it was a move worth making.

"It's a great opportunity," Thoemmes said. "...be openminded. We (she and her husband) wanted to do something different. We didn't want to live 30 or 40 years without any challenges or so."

Sharon Ferrara

Ferrara keeps an eye on legislative matters

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

Even if you know legalese, it can sometimes be difficult to understand the thinking of state legislators on matters that affect you personally.

If you are a parent of a child in the Northville school system, however, and you are concerned with what is being decided in Lansing on matters affecting education, you have help because of Sharon Ferrara, who cochairs the Legislative Action Network (LAN), a sub-committee of the Northville PTA Coordinating Council.

"We're not a lobbyist group," Ferrara said, "but we provide information to make voters better educated, to know what's going on.

"We make ourselves aware of local, state, and national legislation and the impact it can have on our students."

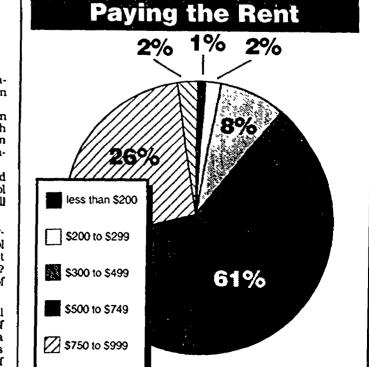

Members of LAN meet monthly for discussion with one representative from each school, Ferrara said. The information LAN obtains is also shared at the schools with parents, as it was before the vote on Proposal A.

Now that Proposal A has been voted on and the means by which schools are to be financed has been determined, Ferrara said, LAN is concerned with quality of education.

The state Legislature has decided that, starting in the 1995-96 school year, the number of school days will be increased.

Ferrara said that LAN is considering what this will mean to the school district. Will it add to costs because it could require taking on more staff? Will it really enhance the quality of education?

The Legislative Action Network will continue to keep parents informed of its findings, but Sharon Ferrara urges that parents and other citizens who have opinions on the subject of lengthening of school days—whether it will really improve the quality of education—should write to the congressman who represents them.

Goals already set for '94 Crop Walk

By MICHELLE HARRISON Staff Writer

The annual Novi/Northville CROP walk won't be held until Oct. 2, but hunger walks. organizers have already set goals.

Our goal is $20,000 and 400 walkers," said the Rev. Charles Ja-cobs of Novi United Methodist Church. "For the last two years we've had 300-plus walkers and raised ver $16,000."

Jacobs co-chairs the event along with Northville resident Dave Black.

Last year, 375 Novi/Northville walkers earned $16,305 for Church World Services, which distributes monies raised throughout 70 countries.

Each community walk is totally organized by local volunteers, ex-plained David C. Bower, Michigan director of Church World Services/ CROP in Lansing.

Ten percent of the money raised locally went to the Novi Emergency Food Fund. Another 10 percent benefitted Northville Civic Concern's food pantry while 5 percent went to Focus Hope in Detroit.

Walkers either received pledges or flat donations for the distance they

In the four-county metro Detroit area, 59 local hunger agencies re-ceived $94,218 from the community CROP walks.

Major designated funds were received from Michigan people for three major emergencies during the year: the civil wars in Somalia and Sudan, the earthquake in India and the Midwest/USA flood victims.

"It's a fantastic cause," Jacobs said, noting only about 16 percent of funds raised go toward administrative costs. "A high percentage goes to the intended causes."

Financial reports are available, specifying where the money goes, added Jacobs.

This was the third year Northville and Novi combined their CROP

"We've been the most successful (since joining together)," Jacobs said. CROP was organized in Michigan in 1948 with Russell Hartzler as director for 22 years. Bower was named the Michigan director in 1970. Also serving as directors in 1993 were Esthere Brown and Johanna Balzer.

Property management is an expanding field

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

The market for rental housing units in most areas of the country has picked up since the first of the year.

That trend has boosted the demand for professional property managers.

But it's still a highly competitive field, and successful managers must provide a greater range of services than ever before. And they must key those services to current market conditions.

Single-family houses are now the most popular type of rental residence, according to Art Tidey, manager with Herrick Property Management, a major California property management firm.

"Next in our 'demand rating' are duplex units, followed by condos and apartments," he said. "Overall, our vacancy factor is down to 3 or 4 percent of total inventory. No unit stave ment years long.

unit stays vacant very long.

"We're very careful about the people we accept as renters, as well as the units we agree to manage. Prospective tenants must be cleared with a computerized system programmed to screen out people with negative renting history. The $25 fee for the use of this system is paid by the tenant."

The Herrick firm also insists that newly offered rental units be rehabilitated and cleaned before offering it to tenants.

As for problems faced by today's property managers, loud music takes the No. 1 position, Tidey said. Next in line are barking dogs and yelling kids.

HOME DESIGNS

Let the Sunshine in

By James McAlexander Copiey News Service

As the name implies, the Sunshine is designed to take full advantage of natural light. One of its most unique features is a frontfacing upper deck, or solarium, adjacent to the master suite. While providing privacy and protection from the wind, the space also serves as a nurturing environment for pots of colorful sun-loving plants.

The solarium's back wall is almost entirely glass. Two sets of sliding doors flank a stationary window, and all three are capped by half-rounds. Step through one of the sliding glass doors and you'll find yourself on a balcony with a 12-inch shelf at railing height—another great place for plants.

The balcony overlooks an exceptionally bright kitchen and dining room. Light filtering in through the solarium windows combines with light from four skylights in the two-story-high ceiling to provide reliable natural illumination throughout the daylight hours most of the year.

Located well away from the activities of the rest of the house, the spacious master suite serves as a quiet adult retreat. Luxury amenities include his-and-hers pass through wardrobes, a double-basin vanity and a raised spa tub. Tropical-plants flourish in the warm, moist atmosphere around the tub moist atmosphere around the tub.

A second bedroom, on the opposite end of the balcony, also has a private bathroom, and the two bedrooms downstairs, share a third bathroom.

Counters wrap around four sides of the generously sized kitchen. An eating bar is convenient for snacking, and Lazy Susan shelving provides easy cupboard access in two corners. Sliders in the bayed dining room make it easy to move meals outside onto the railed deck.

Additional storage space is available in a pass-through utility room between the dining room and the garage.

The two-car garage has a U shape shop in the back, complete with counters and cabinets.

PLAN AHEAD

Linda Lyke and San Richard look over some fabric samples in the back of their Decorating

By Amy Kemnic

Planning is the key word when it comes to decorating, no matter how large or small the project, says an area decorating consultant.

"It's really important to come up with a realistic budget and do a plan," said Linda Lyke of Decorating Den. "The plan is the key."

Redecorators should not limit their plans to just what they can accomplish right now. Lyke said, but develop instead a long-range master plan that can be worked on over time, as finances allow.

There are several ways to start a redecorating plan, Lyke said, depending on budget and the needs of the home. If windows are old or in bad shape, a hard treatment, such as vertical or wooden blinds or pleated shades, can be installed to add both softness and insulation.

"You can go a long time with that before you have to do top treatments." she added.

Window treatments also are the place to start in a room where the carpet or floor covering does not need replacing. Lyke said. Otherwise, begin with the carpet. Next, move on to the furniture to get the colors for the room.

"If you have really good furniture, for example, a sofa with a 1-1/2-inch frame, I would reupholster it," she said. "If it was inexpensive to begin with, it probably should be replaced."

About 13 yards of fabric are required to reupholster a sofa, which costs about the same as purchasing something new today, because the quality of newer furniture has downgraded in recent years, Lyke said.

There is a wide range in the cost of fabric, generally found anywhere from $23-$50 per yard, and plaids, checks and stripes are the hot patterns right now, she added. The presence of kids and/or pets in the home is a major criteria for fabric selection, with darker colors working better for families, she said.

Tricks of the trade from seasoned green thumbs

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Saving time, effort and money by talking with experienced gardeners, the beginner can pick up many 'tricks of the trade."

Listed below are some favorite tips from some seasoned gardeners I know.

Using tomato cages instead of staking the plants is a marvelous time-saver. The plants will grow perfectly inside the cage, resting their branches on the sides of the structure. Cages are easy to make. The diameter should be about 15 to 18 inches. Otherwise, they are available in most nurseries, catalogs or hardware stores.

The uses for old pantyhose or nylons in the garden are virtually unlimited.

• Cut them into 6-inch

 Cut them into 6-inch strips for use as ties when training or staking vine-type plants.

• Slip small squash or melons into the toes of a stocking, tie the hose to the vine support and let the fruit develop inside. The nylon will protect the fruit from birds or animals while supporting the weight of the hanging fruit. Use the stockings to hold onions for drying.

• Prevent losses from sunflower heads by covering them with a nylon to keep birds from getting to them

To prevent cutworms from chewing off your transplants or seedlings, simply make "collars" for them: 4-inch sections of 1-quart milk cartons or tin cans with the tops and bottoms removed work wonders. The idea is to place the container around the plant with 1/2 to 1 inch of the collar below the surface of the soil.

Finally, the most important tip of all. Relax, you don't have to be an expert or a perfectionist to grow a beautiful garden. Just remember, gardening is so easy and enjoyable that millions of people have made it the nation's favorite hobby.

Remember that weed seeds are borne in numerous ways, on clothing or on the fur of wild animals or pets; through runners under soil, by the

Another problem is people inviting others to move into their rented residence without permission from the management company or owner. The practice is common, even though the rental agreement signed by all parties prohibits it.

Security deposits also are a problem in the renting process. Tidey said.

Typically, an amount equal to one month's rent plus a couple of hundred dollars is collected from a new tenant as a security deposit and retained in the manager's trust account," he said.

Q. Is there a move afoot to eliminate the requirement for an independent appraisal of real estate in the majority of mortgage loan transactions?

A. This is being considered in Congress, sparking strong opposition from the appraisal industry.

"It would jeopardize the safety and soundness of federally insured financial institutions and eliminate important consumer protections. it was stated in a report from the Appraisal Institute, based in Chicago.

Q. How is the home selling market expected to shape up this year?

A. Despite terrible weather conditions this winter in many parts of the country, this is expected to be the best home selling year in a long time.

'We've had really bad weather and a recent up-tick in mortgage interest rates, but the strong demand for homes in the market and some of the best affordability conditions in years will push home sales activity this year to a healthy level," said Robert Elrod, president of the National Association of Real-

EASY SEEDS

Seed tapes make it easy to handle seeds and easy to sow a straight garden row with less fuss. Because the seeds are spaced evenly on the tape. they sprout well, have ample room to grow into sturdy plants and take less of your time to thin.

These seed tapes are designed for better germination, precise spacing and easy handling. They dissolve after planting and produce beautiful rows of evenly spaced flowers and vegetables. All you have to do is sit back and watch them grow! Seed 'N' Start kits make it easy to grow your own bedding plants indoors to get a head start on the season. In most parts of the country, slower-growing vegetables like peppers, tomatoes and eggplants really must be started indoors to give them the extra time they need to mature a crop before frost.

For instance, petunias, geraniums and impatiens need an early indoor start if you want months of summer

YOUNG GARDENERS

Children love to grow their own fun garden. Try planting Nautes half-long carrot, Cherry Belle radish, Evergreen bunching onion, extra-curled parsley, zinnias in mixed colors, Gay Ladies hybrid marigolds in mixed colors and sunflowers.

CHANGING LANDSCAPE

Bored by the same old scenery? Well, let your imagination run wild, create your own changeable landscape with blooming plants grown in unusual containers.

If space is the problem, then bring container-grown greenery and bright splashes of color into your life. Use pots of flowering plants to add beauty in unexpected areas.

If you have poor soil conditions, who cares when you can use a commercial pro-mix potting soil (where everything is prepared for you), available in your local garden center or nursery.

I would appreciate any information you can furnish about this

A. Your oak desk is a Davenport desk made around the late 1890s. This type of desk originated in England in the early 1800s.

It usually had drawers in the side. The lid lifted to reveal compartments and small drawers. The incised carving, inset tiles and gallery are characteristics of the Eastlake style.

While it is good to document the provenance of your desk, it usually doesn't increase its value. Your Davenport desk would probably be worth about $1,400.

Your plates would probably be worth $30 each in good condition.

Q. Over 20 years ago I bought a flow-blue platter from an antique shop. It is 16 by 12 inches and has no cracks or chips. The edge is scalloped and trimmed in gold. On the bottom is a crown and the words "Ridgways—Royal Semi Porcelain-England-Gainsborough."

Could you give me an idea of its value and when it was made?

A. Flow blue is the term used to describe the process that allows the color to run or bleed during the glaze firing stage. Although originally cobalt blue was used, wares can be found in sepia, green and purple.

Your platter is circa 1905. It would probably fetch about $235 in an antique shop.

Travel agents sees low airfair as 'challenge'

By ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN Special Writer

Business owner Carol Bond Ayar of South Lyon-based Century World Travel said that the agency provides a top-notch travel service for their clients regardless of their destination

"Our goal is to be a professional agency with a professional team." Ayar said.

While Century World Travel is a fairly new South Lyon business, Ayar explained that the staff as a whole are experienced travel professionals with a combined 47 years in travel service.

Ayar started working in the travel business in 1968. Originally she specialized in international travel and later changed her focus to domestic travel. She also has vast experience in group travel and cruises. Her former travel work has been in Plymouth, Brighton and Ann Arbor.

She enjoys the challenge of hunting the lowest fare and the best deal for the people she serves and treats customers the way she would like to explained. We want to run a friendly office. We look forward to (clients) travel challenges.

Located at 22335 Pontiac Trail, Century World Travel opened in January 1993. Ayar said that she and the other staff members want to have a good working relationship with the community. In order to help demons-two American Airlines round-trip tickets for anywhere within the 48 mainland states during it's September grand opening.

Travel professionals must assess the needs and desires of their clients in order to plan successful journeys for them.

Ayar said that her first step in this assessment process involves asking the client a number of questions. She inquires about their destination, their preferred mode of transportation, the number of adults and children who will be traveling, their budget and whether or not they have visited this destination before.

Ayar will give clients as much in-"We want a good reputation," she formation about their destination as she has, then guides them to other available information. Travelers can obtain an abundance of useful travel information through calling tour boards. They also may borrow travel books from the local library or purchase them at a bookstore.

Armed with this information, travelers can learn what to expect in trate that, the business gave away terms of climate, currency exchange rates, and time differences. Other valuable information they can obtain includes visa or passport requirements for their trip.

*People can learn so much about their destination before they even arrive," Ayar said.

Next. Ayar schedules air flights and/or other transportation. "I always take pride in hunting down a good airfare price," she added.

She then tackles hotel stays. tours, and car rentals. After these steps are complete, she ensures that her clients have any necessary passports or visas.

The agency uses a sophisticated, Dallas-based computer system called Sabre. Using this system, Ayar can check and/or reserve prices on airfares, railfares, tour rates, car rentals, accommodations, weather projections, and current exchange rates. She also can order a special diet on the airplane for a client in advance from her terminal.

"it's really endless what the computer can do," she said. Century World Travel serves indigroups. "Our clientele is a really good mixture," Ayar said.

Customers call Ayar and other staff members from near and far. The agency has helped clients from as far away as Paris, California and Arizona. They also serve Michiganders near and far - from South Lyon to Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

She attributes the diverse location of their customers to "the contagious effect of good service."

The other travel professionals working at Century World Travel include Kelly Burke Stiles, Gayle Bachman and Darcee Babcock.

Stiles has 14 years experience speviduals, families, clubs and other cializing in group, commercial, intergroups. "Our clientele is a really good national, and Carribean travel in Milford, Howell, Pontiac and South

Bachman has eight years travel experience. She trained at the American Travel School and is experienced in leisure and corporate travel. She previously worked in Grand Rapids and St. Joseph.

Babcock has an associates degree in travel and tourism from Lansing Community College. She has worked in the business for about a year in East Lansing and South Lyon.

Accountant Janet Bliden acts as "the balancing equation" for their business.

In general, popular vacation destinations for their clients include Las Vegas, Artzona, and Cancun, Mexico. Carribean and Mexican cruises are also popular.

The agency has joined the Cruise Network and now is able to offer cruise packages at a reduced rate. Mini-vacation packages for people who don't have time for a full-scale vacation are another new service which the business is starting to

The business does not charge client fees, but receives a percentage of client's payment to the airlines and other companies.

Money Management

Avoid being a 'tax fool' this April 15

To help you understand the limits of the tax law and prevent you from becoming an April Fool this tax season, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants provides these tax tales.

CHILDREN CANNOT ESCAPE TAX

If your child has any income, including self-employment income, you may be required to file a tax return on his or her behalf. One family found this out the hard way when they failed to report the income their 13-year-old had earned from professional modeling. The result: Because the parents had failed to file a return for the child, she was hit with negligence penalties. She also owed penalties for her parents' failure to file estimated taxes on her behalf. (Slay Bassett, 100 TC No. 41)

AMICABLE SEPARATIONS

One couple called their marriage quits and sought divorce action. However, they both continued to live in the same house together. The husband paid for all household expenses, except for food and his wife's personal expenses. When he tried to claim an alimony deduction for these expenses, the IRS disallowed it. Although the husband argued that he and his wife were estranged and living separate lives, this did not entitle him to a tax deduction. Tax law requires that a husband and wife be separated and living apart at the time alimony payments are made in order for them to be deductible. Both the Tax Court and the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals agreed that Congress did not intend for alimony to be deductible when a husband and wife are living under the same roof. (Coltman, CA-7, 12/7/92)

TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE

In one case, the Internal Revenue Service tried to collect back taxes

Don't be an April fool when it from a couple eight years after they comes to your taxes. Take note of had filed their tax return. The couple, had filed their tax return. The couple, with legal assistance, argued that they were not liable for additional taxes since they were protected by the three-year statute of limitations. Despite the tax law specifying that the IRS generally has three years after the date on which your return is filed to assess additional taxes, the IRS persisted in its claim. Ultimately, the Court of Appeals found the IRS IIable for the couple's legal defense costs since the agency had ignored the statute of limitations and the couple's correct legal defense. (Bruce Hanson, CA-5, No. 91-5060)

COSTS OF BOUNCING CHECKS

Don't expect uncle Sam to alleviate some of the costs associated with overdrawing your business accounts. In a recent case, a taxpayer was denied a deduction when he tried to claim bank overdraft charges as a business expense, even though the check was used to pay a businessrelated expense. The Court of Appeals ruled that it does not consider bouncing checks a normal and customary business practice. (Asa M. Balley Jr., CA-11, No. 91-9003)

EXCUSES, EXCUSES

If you let your personal problems get in the way of filing a timely tax return, you risk being hit with latefiling penalties, points out the Michigan Association of CPAs. One taxpayer argued that his health problems and those of his wife, his marital difficulties, and his need to work three jobs to make ends meet. provided reasonable causefor his late filing. The Tax Court disagreed. Illness and personal problems constitute reasonable cause only if they result in an individual becoming incapable of managing his or her affairs. Since the taxpayer was capable of working three jobs, the court felt he was also capable of completing a timely tax return, and so, enforced the penalty. James A. Farley, TC Memo 1993-31)

Tips to help homes sell quicker, for a better price

Homeowners can play an impor-tant role in the timely sale of their property. Whether one is employing the expertise of a real estate sales associate or selling ones own home. Detroit-area Realtors advise home-owners to follow a few simple and inexpensive steps to help them sell their home faster and at the best possible price.

■ Make the most of that first impression.

Never underestimate the importance of outward appearances - especially where your home is concerned. Potential buyers begin their decision-making process early, usually after their first glance of your property. A well-manicured lawn. neatly trimmed shrubs and a clutterfree porch welcome prospects; so does a freshly painted or at least freshly scrubbed front door. The fewer the obstacles between prospects and the true appeal of your home, the better.

■ Invest a few hours for future dividends.

Here's your chance to clean up in areal estate. Clean up in the living -room, the bathroom, the bedrooms and the kitchen. If the woodwork is scuffed or the paint is fading, perhaps you might want to consider some minor redecoration. Fresh wallpaper in the kitchen or bath can add charm and value to your property. If appropriate, consider adding a brass kick-plate, mail box and porch light. Prospects would rather items. see how great your home really looks than be told how great it could look. with a little work."

■ Check faucets and bulbs. Dripping water rattles the nerves, discolors the sinks and suggests the existence of faulty or worn-out plumbing. Burned-out bulbs leave prospects in the dark. Don't let little problems distract prospects from all the strengths your home has to offer.

■ Don't shut out a sale. If cabinets or closet doors stick in your home, you can be sure they will also stick in a prospect's mind. Don't try to explain away sticky situations when you can eastly plane or sand them away. A little effort on your part can smooth the way toward a closing.

■ Make your bathrooms sparkle. Bathrooms sell homes, so let them shine. Check and repair damaged or unsightly caulking in the tubs and showers. For added allure, display your best towels, mats and shower curtains.

Create dream bedrooms. Wake up prospects to the cozy comforts of your bedrooms. For a spacious look, consider getting rid of excess furniture. Colorful bedspreads and fresh curtains can do wonders.

■ Make room for space. Remember, potential buyers are looking for more than just comfortable living space. They're looking for storage space, too. Make sure your attic and basement are clean and free of unnecessary

■ Open up the daytime. Let the sun-shine in. Pull back your curtains and drapes so prospects can see how bright and cherry your home really is.

ers often feel like intruders when they enter a home filled with people. Rather than giving your house the attention it deserves, they're likely to hurry through it. Keep the company present to a minimum or schedule your visits from friends and family around your home showings.

■ Watch your pets. Dogs and cats are great companions, but not when you're showing your home. Pets have a talent for getting underfoot. Prospects may appreciate your keeping Kitty and Spot outside during showings more than you think.

Think volume. Rock-n-roll will never die; but it might kill a real estate transaction. When it's time to show your home, you're better off turning down the stereo or television. Relax. Be friendly; but don't try to force conversation. Prospects most times want to view your home with minimal distraction. ■ Don't apologize. No matter how humble your abode, never apologize sier time articulating the virtues of positive.

Don't turn your home into a second-hand store.

When prospects come to view your home, don't distract them with offers to sell those furnishing you no longer need. You may lose the biggest sale of

for its shortcomings. Accentuate the your home if you stay in the background.

> ■ Defer to experience. When prospects want to talk price, terms, or other real estate matters, let them speak to an expert - your real estate sales associate.

■ Help your associate. Your associate will have an easier time selling your home if showings are scheduled through his or her office. You'll appreciate the results.
