

Five join race for board's two seats

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The June 13 election for Northville School Board candidates will be a five-way contest for two open seats. Five candidates filed their petitions by the Monday, April 11, deadline, obtaining the 31 signatures they each needed to qualify.

Four of the candidates—Barb Bennett of the Future Facilities Use Committee, Advocates for Quality Education Secretary Tom Gudritz, Northville High School PTA Vice Chair Martha Nield and former Northville Township Manager Bill Richards—gave varied reasons for running.

"As a long-time resident, teacher and mother of four, I care about the quality of education in Northville," said Bennett. "I believe I made a real contribution to the recent facilities committee work, and that I can continue to contribute on the school board."

Gudritz, who has been an Advocates member for two years, noted his past involvement with issues like collective bargaining and the budget. "I just wanted to try to put it all together and serve on the school board, and try to affect policy." Areas of concern include state control of school finances, and assuring that the school meets future educational requirements.

"There are skills that our kids are going to need in the next 20 years that we need to start addressing," he said.

Nield, past president of the PTA Coordinating Council and member of the district's original Strategic Planning Committee, said, "I decided I wanted to further my involvement with the district on the school board." She cited concerns about state funding and quality mandates, and her desire to see a restructured high school day, as areas of interest.

Richards listed his two school-age children as the primary reasons for seeking a seat. "I am concerned ab-

March was reading month in Michigan and no one knows that better than Silver Springs Elementary Principal Ken Pawlowski. Students were given reading goals to accomplish outside of school and every time they reached that plateau the principal got dumped on. Pawlowski received a total of seven dunkings during the month, with library media specialist Angie Krzeczowski, above, doing the honors the final time. While the principal had to get wet, at least the floor of the gym was kept dry. Pawlowski was asked to stand in a small plastic pool during the ritual.

Northville police assist in Wilke arrest

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township police officers lent a hand in apprehending an infamous accused kidnapper and rapist last week.

David Wilke, 25, of Dearborn Heights, was arraigned Saturday on charges that he abducted and sexually assaulted his ex-girlfriend last week. The alleged incident drew major attention all over metro Detroit because it took place while Wilke was free on bond, facing charges that he raped her once before.

Wilke was arrested without incident Thursday night by the six-community Special Operations Team (SOT), headed by Northville Township Police Sergeant John Sherman.

"Needless to say, we're very pleased with the outcome," Sherman said. "We didn't have a problem and, most importantly, we got the girl out safely."

Canton police requested SOT assistance after being tipped off that Wilke was staying in the Ramada Inn on Lotz Road in their township.

The 22-year-old woman, also of Dearborn Heights, and Wilke had been boyfriend and girlfriend for nearly two years, according to reports. The woman ended the relationship earlier this year, police said, leading to a March 15 sexual assault.

Cannon asks city to look at Novi dispatch

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

While members of a five-municipality consortium consider the wisdom of combining portions of their police departments, the head of one of the departments already has weighed in with his opinion.

Northville City Police Chief Rod Cannon, in an unreleased addendum to an Aug. 12 report on the proposed consolidation among the Northvilles, Plymouths and Canton, listed several reasons why he believed the city would be better served by looking north rather than south for a dispatch partner. The addendum was recently obtained by the Northville Record.

"The Northville Police Department supports the concept of central dispatch," Cannon wrote. "However, with the exception of a joint venture with Northville Township, the City would be better served by going with Novi than the proposed Canton Township location."

"The Novi location is three (3) miles from Northville, Canton is ten (10). In addition, the communications system and equipment, as well as the report system used by Novi is compatible, if not identical to that of Northville. This is not the case with Canton."

"From a practitioner's perspective these elements need consideration as they impact manpower and budget expenditures."

When asked about the statement

"I haven't changed my mind . . . Other than the consolidation between the township and the city, (dispatching with Novi) makes a lot of sense."

Rodney Cannon
City Chief of Police

Tuesday, Cannon said "I haven't changed my mind. . . Other than the consolidation between the township and the city, (dispatching with Novi) makes a lot of sense."

At an April 4 Northville City Council meeting, the police chief had cited several pros and cons to contracting with Novi. Cannon noted that not having part ownership of the dispatch system would be a detriment, and added that if Novi could not hire all of Northville's dispatchers, Northville would be barred by union contracts from hiring part-time officers for assignments like policing Northville Downs.

Deck set to come down on Monday

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Cady Street parking deck will be closed for demolition April 18, according to Mainstreet '93 construction manager Walbridge Aldinger of Detroit.

"The project's starting to roll," said Project Manager Jack Galopin.

All occupants are asked to have their property removed from the deck by Sunday, April 17. Any items not removed will be turned over to the MainCentre management. The deck's lower level had been fenced in with a security gate for the use of MainCentre residents.

The deck is slated for demolition within a week of its closure, and a replacement deck should be completed sometime in November. The replacement deck will be open to all.

Mainstreet '93 also involves construction of a sunken parking deck on the lot south of MainCentre, the lower level of which will be dedicated to MainCentre residents and other leased parkers. A new paved, lighted parking lot also will be built south of the Cady deck.

The new parking lot is scheduled for completion by early June. As soon as it is completed, construction will begin on the new deck south of MainCentre.

The entire project is scheduled for completion in December.

Walbridge Aldinger also has begun distributing flyers, and plans to erect signs around town to keep residents and visitors informed of the construction schedule.

Council gets opening look at year's budget

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council got its first look Monday night at the proposed 1994-95 budget, a document that marks a return to fiscal stability for the city.

The budget calls for the same operating millage as this year—13.14 mills. Decreases in the annual levy for the city's street reconstruction program and Randolph Drain project would result in an overall city levy of 16.60 mills, as compared to last year's 16.74.

While next year's millage would not require a Headlee override vote

World's Most Powerful Slow Drain Cleaner

Imagine how thick the "ring" in your bathtub would be if it wasn't cleaned since your house was built. That is how thick the gunk in your pipes is. No wonder you have slow drains!

Most of your drain pipes are horizontal like your tub. If you pour a drain opener into the tub, it just runs along the bottom. The thick scum ring on the sides is left behind. That happens in your pipes, too!

Plumb Cleanse is an exclusive, highly concentrated powder. It clings and attaches to the build-up. Plumb Cleanse then penetrates into the build-up and biodegrades the soap scum, grease, food particles and other waste leaving your pipes clean and trouble free.

Plumb Cleanse contains Plurazyme™, the most powerful enzyme complex available. In fact, Plumb Cleanse was rated Best Buy by a leading consumer magazine.

Plumb Cleanse is so safe a child can use it. That makes it good for the environment too! It's so revolutionary it's money-back guaranteed! So get safe, guaranteed Plumb Cleanse today!

Committee says no to 3rd judgeship

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The Senate Judiciary Committee voted Wednesday not to add a third judgeship to 35th District Court, which serves the Northville community.

"Gov. Engler said publicly he would veto any district judge," said committee chairman Sen. William Renger, R-Jenison.

The committee's decision means that a third judge will not be added to the court until at least 1996, the next statewide election date.

The move will be met with disappointment by many local attorneys who planned to run for the newly-created position this year.

Court Administrator Marion Belding said the additional judgeship was needed at the court.

"We have the second busiest district court in Wayne County and in the top five in the state," she said.

The court, located in Plymouth, currently houses two judges and a visiting jurist. Judge James Garber has announced plans to retire, so an active election for one judge's position is expected.

District courts are funded partly by the state and partly by the cities of Northville and Plymouth and the townships of Northville, Plymouth, and Canton. All parties had agreed to the additional of an extra judge.

The Senate panel acted in the face of a May 10 deadline for candidates to file. The House earlier had passed a bill authorizing creation of the new judgeship.

Incumbent judges rarely face serious challenges, but attorneys look to a race where no incumbent is seeking reelection.

The western Wayne County communities have relatively low crime rates. But state court administrator Marilyn K. Hall had recommended the third judge, saying:

"In 1992 the court had 20,186 new filings per judge compared to 11,196 statewide per district judge. . . (The higher than average drunk driving caseload is particularly significant . . .)

District courts handle pre-trial examinations in felony cases, landlord-tenant cases, misdemeanor charges and small civil suits. District judges may appoint magistrates to handle small claims and issue warrants.

Friends celebrate Library Week

The Friends of the Northville Public Library will celebrate National Library Week, April 17-23, in two very different ways: an hour-long concert is scheduled for Saturday, April 23, and testimonials of well-known Northville residents who value libraries will be posted about town.

Storyteller Craig Roney and folk-singers Jim Bertin and George Garcia will entertain at the concert to begin at 2 p.m. at Northville's gazebo on Main Street.

Roney, who makes his home in Northville, is an associate professor at Wayne State University. The singers, who will accompany themselves on guitars, are known as "George and Me."

During a brief intermission, there will be a drawing to award prizes to new members of the Friends and to current members who have recently sponsored new members.

Prize packages to be awarded are two tickets to the Friends' Fall Geniti dinner, two tickets to the Friends' Spring Book and Author Luncheon, $20 worth of tickets to play the Friends' cakewalk at the Victorian Festival and a Friends tote bag. Everyone who joins the Friends before April 21 will have a chance to win a prize.

The testimonials praising libraries will be in evidence throughout the community. President Janine M. Bauchet reports that one of the locations will be the length of the outside library wall (inside the city hall building).

Bauchet, recently elected to the Friends' top post, will be assisted through the year by Debbie Malinowski and Sue Anker, first and second vice presidents; Dianne McCulloch, treasurer; Karla Scoble, recording secretary; Terri Tripp, corresponding secretary; and Carol Doyle, Diane DeVincent, Kay Kepner and Debi Lopez, directors.

Appointed chairs are Betty Griffin, newsletter; Pat Allen, membership; Bette Cahill, gift book; Carol Jean Stockhausen, welcome baby; Mernie Hines, Northville Record indexing project; Lois Winters, staff appreciation; and Edie Dunbar, publicity.

Man found smoking marijuana

Township police ticketed a Detroit man for possessing and using marijuana at Meijer's on April 5.

A store detective called police and said he had seen a man enter a public bathroom and later began smoking marijuana there. The responding officers said they could smell the substance when they entered the bathroom.

The man, 44, had dilated eyes and shaking hands, the officers said. When asked for an explanation, the man said he was "nervous." He denied smoking anything but tobacco cigarettes at first, but shortly after that admitted to smoking marijuana in the bathroom and flushing the remains down the toilet.

"No" was the man's answer when the officers asked him if he had any more of it on him. After being searched, however, police found the man had a leather pouch containing a small amount of marijuana and cigarette rolling papers.

The man was cited and given a date for appearance in 35th district court. He was then released at the scene.

BUILDING BROKEN INTO: The former Ford Valve Plant at 235 E. Main, now owned by R & D Enterprises, was broken into and vandalized sometime between April 1 and April 4. Five to six teenagers were seen running from the building at 1:30 p.m. April 4, and three skylight windows were found broken at a potential cost of $30. The teens apparently gained entry through a basement door on the building's north side.

A halogen light on the east side of the property, on land now owned by the city, also was broken in the same timeframe. Damage there was estimated at $200.

VANDALISM: An unoccupied condominium on Waterford Street, located near Six Mile and Northville roads, was vandalized on April 4, causing $2,000 in damage.

The condo is one of several there in the midst of construction. Its owner told police that sometime that morning or afternoon, unknown persons entered the locked residence and poured white paint over the burgundy living room carpet.

There were no signs of forced entry, the officer on the case noted, and there are no suspects or witnesses at this time.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION: An apartment building at 430 E. Main was vandalized sometime between 11 p.m. April 7 and 7 a.m. April 8. Someone broke a leading glass window next to the building's front door, causing an estimated $200 in damage.

The Anger Manufacturing building at 777 W. Baseline was vandalized sometime between April 9-11. Someone used rocks to break a $16 vinyl bathroom window and shatter two exterior spotlights valued at a total of $24.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY: Township police checked out a reported unlawful entry of a Seven Mile Road home on April 7.

The home's owner told the officer on the case that he and his father had been having problems because of the latter's problems with alcohol.

The man, 40, said he had taken his father's firearms for fear he might harm himself. The father, a Harrieta resident, had made several threats to try to get them back, the man added.

The man had left to take the weapons to another town's sheriff's department for storage, leaving a sign on his house's breezeway door telling his father that the guns were no longer there. He returned, he said, to find his father's keys left in the lock of the door and the sign on the floor.

The door to the home itself was still locked, the man said, and nothing appeared to be missing. The father told police he did not enter the home. He left the keys in the door to return them, he said, and took the sign down only to have a closer look at it. The man was advised to stay away from the residence.

OUIL: Township police arrested a Wayne man for operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor (OUIL) on April 2.

The reporting officer in the case said that while on patrol he saw the man's 1979 Ford Mustang make an erratic left turn from Six Mile to Haggerty, crossing both lanes of the southbound side and nearly striking the curb. The car weaved while driving on Haggerty, including straying into the center turning lane, the officer said, adding that it hit speeds of up to 57 miles per hour.

The driver's eyes appeared glassy, the officer said, after he stopped the vehicle, and his speech was slow and slurred. He said he had consumed five beers at his father's house.

The man, 33, lost his balance as he got out of the car, the officer said. He added that when he asked the man to count backwards from 100 to 85, the man said he had had too much to drink to do that. When asked to count forward from one to 18, the report continued, the man counted to three, burped, then counted from 13 to 22.

He was arrested and taken to police headquarters. Breathalyzer testing there showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .18 percent, over the legal limit.

ASSAULT REPORTED: Township police received a report of assault and battery concerning a Maxwell Street home on April 10.

A 46-year-old Westland man called police from the Cap & Cork party store on Five Mile at about 1:30 a.m., saying he had been assaulted. He told the responding officer that while he and his wife were attending a party at the Maxwell street home, his wife's seven brothers had dragged him outside and broke his glasses. His wife wanted to leave, he continued, but the brothers would not let her.

The officer said he did see any cuts or abrasions on the man but did not note a strong odor of intoxicants coming from his person and that he had slow, slurred speech. The officer put the man in the back of his patrol car, first searching him. He found the man carrying a six-inch knife, which was confiscated.

The owner of the home said the man and his wife had begun to fight that evening and that he had turned over a kitchen table in the process. The owner said he asked him several times to leave but that the man refused. The owner then said he dragged the man out to the street by his shirt but denied striking him. The man's wife was unavailable for a statement at that time; the case remains open.

DRUNKEN DRIVING ARRESTS:

A 25-year-old South Lyon man arrested by city police April 7 got himself in deeper trouble at the station. The man had been pulled over for speeding at Beck and Elmsmere that night when police smelled liquor on his breath. He failed field sobriety tests, was arrested and taken to the station where his blood alcohol level was measured at .19 and .17 percent, nearly twice the legal limit.

When the arresting officer stepped out of the booking room briefly, the man grabbed the test results, stuffed them in his pocket and then threw them in the trash. The incident was captured on videotape, and a charge of obstructing a police officer was added to the man's drunken driving charge.

A 54-year-old New Boston man was arrested for driving under the influence April 9. A city police officer stopped the man after seeing him driving south on South Main with his lights out after 1 a.m. He said he was heading home from a wedding and had gotten lost. The man's blood alcohol was measured at .14 percent.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Fire Station No. 3 is vandalized again

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It's getting to be an oldie, but it's definitely not a goodie.

Northville Township's Fire Station No. 3 has once again been vandalized, the third time in only the last four months.

Unknown vandals tossed rocks through the station's windows on April 10, breaking them and chipping the paint of a fire truck. Damage was estimated at $300.

The station has taken more than $30,000 in damages from past acts of vandalism and seen its firefighting equipment put completely out of service three times. The two most recent incidents in February and December cost a total of $16,000.

In response, township officials have been considering Fire Chief Rick Rosselle's proposal for installing an alarm system there. The cost ranged from $3,400 to buy one to $425 per month for a lease.

Rosselle has said he hopes the alarm system would prevent damage to the station and its emergency equipment, allay potential concerns by the township's insurance company and prove to be a deterrent to vandals.

Be sure to steer clear of those lousy potholes

Potholes—those round craters whose depth and sharp edges play havoc with people's car's tires, steering and shock absorbers—are popping out all over Michigan's roads and highways.

"The unusually severe freeze-and-thaw cycle of the last few weeks is causing roads to deteriorate," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager.

His advice: "Keep your eyes on the road and watch out for potholes. Slow down and try to steer around them as much as possible without endangering traffic in adjacent lanes."

Potholes can cause significant damage to vehicles, Basch adds.

"Be sure to take your car in for a check-up if steering, ride, tire or noise problems appear," he says. "Keep your tires properly inflated and steering and suspension components in good condition. Especially critical are the shock absorbers or struts."

Potholes may cost the average American driver more than $100 a year in vehicle repairs such as new shock absorbers, blown tires, wasted gasoline, body work and even broken windshields, Basch says.

State crews are working to patch and repair roads and highways as potholes appear. The Michigan Department of Transportation budgeted $13 million for fiscal year 1993-1994 to repair roadway surfaces, much of that money going for pothole repair.

Crews for 83 county road commissions are also working to keep road surfaces as smooth as possible.

The Wayne County Road Commission is spending between $25,000 and $30,000 a day for pothole repair.

To report a Wayne County pothole hazardous to public travel, call (313) 942-9920.

Potholes begin after snow or rain seeps into cracks in the road surface. The moisture freezes when temperatures drop below freezing, causing the ground to expand, rise and push the pavement up.

When cars and trucks drive over the hollow cavity, the surface cracks and falls into the hollow space.

Get your tax forms in the mail by Friday

If you're putting off filing your U.S. and state income tax forms until the last minute, be aware that the last minute at the Novi Post Office is 4:59 p.m. tomorrow.

The post office on 24875 Novi Road will keep to its usual 5 p.m. closing time on tax day. So will the Walled Lake Post Office at 1126 E. Maple Road. Ditto the Northville Post Office on 200 S. Wing Road.

If you really feel unable to get your income tax forms postmarked by this deadline, there is a solution. The Farmington Post Office at 32455 West Twelve Mile Road in Farmington Hills will be open until 12 midnight on April 15, proving that the system sometimes is forgiving.

In the Detroit area, three post offices now offer 24-hour service at all times, including April 15. They are the Detroit Main Office at 1401 W. Fort St., the Redford Branch Office at 12245 Beech Daly Rd. and the Airport Mail Center at Detroit Metro Airport.

Hospital to provide help with new state power of attorney law

What would you want your family to do if you became seriously ill or injured and were unable to tell them your wishes regarding your medical treatment?

Empowering individuals to make their own decisions regarding their health care is the premise of Michigan's Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care law. Botsford General Hospital is presenting free of charge, "The Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care: Your Right to Make Important Decisions About Your Health Care," as a community service program at several locations during April. Ensuring that an individual's medical wishes are clear and in writing can help provide peace of mind to both the individual and his or her family.

In 1990, Michigan passed a law establishing the Durable Power of Attorney for Health Care. This law gives anyone 18 or older the right to make their wishes known regarding medical treatment when they are not able to speak for themselves and to appoint someone to speak for them if they can't.

Addressing such issues as "who would decide for you if you were in a coma or in a long period of unconsciousness whether you were to be placed on life support equipment and for how long?" will be presented through the Botsford program. It is being offered at the following locations: Tuesday, April 19, 1:30 to 3 p.m., Vladimir's, 28125 Grand River Ave., Farmington Hills; Wednesday, April 20, 7 to 8:30 p.m. Health Development Network, Botsford Center for Health Improvement, 39750 Grand River Ave., Novi; Tuesday, April 26, 7 to 8:30 p.m., Botsford Family Services, 26905 Grand River Ave., Redford.

Information materials will be distributed at each meeting. Pre-registration is required. To register or for more information call Botsford General Hospital community relations at 442-7986.

Fewer gamblers dropped by Northville Downs this racing season, but, on average, each one plunked down more money.

Over the course of the season's 73 racing dates and 11 matinees, 188,325 people walked through the gates at Northville Downs. In the process, they wagered $41,465,184 before the track closed for the season April 2.

The figures indicate average wagering of $220 per person.

The numbers represent a decline from last year's totals, when 206,126 people passed through the gates and $41,471,979 was wagered, for an average of $201 per person. Attendance was down 9 percent while total wagering only dropped a fraction of a percent.

For the Jackson at Northville meet that ended Dec. 31, 146,001 attendees bet a total of $30,909,612. Those figures were an increase over the 1992 handle of $28,404,035 and attendance of 143,111.

The handle was up almost 9 percent while attendance rose 2 percent. The Jackson at Northville meet, which runs between September and December, is operated by officials from Jackson Harness Raceway. Northville Downs Executive Manager Margaret Zayti attributed the drop in overall Downs attendance to competition in the form of afternoon simulcasting at Windsor Raceway. She noted that attendance had actually increased 1.4 percent for the Downs' evening programs, while the evening handle was up 8.9 percent over last year.

Michigan racetrack owners and operators are now seeking legislation to allow them to simulcast races as well, she noted. "We have to have simulcasting and meet Windsor head-on, or they're going to drown us," she said.

Gambling peaked at Northville Downs in 1987, when 278,515 visitors over the track's 97-day season wagered more than $53 million. Racetrack attendance and betting at Northville Downs and in Michigan has been in a gradual decline ever since.

With a new casino slated to open in Windsor next month, racetrack operators are pushing for a variety of new lures to draw gamblers back to the tracks. Several bills now pending in the house and senate would allow intertrack wagering, off-track betting and the use of video lottery games at state racetracks under certain circumstances.

A more recent proposal would allow slot machine areas inside racetracks.

Robbery report was just a story

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Hines Park manhunt for a suspected thief involving police from three communities last week turned out to be a waste of time. It's not because they didn't catch him—it's because there was no one to catch.

A Westland cab driver on Thursday told Northville Township police that his passenger had hit him on the head and robbed him after ordering him to stop in Hines Park near Beer Hill, which backs up to the King's Mill condominiums.

The man then fled on foot, the driver said, prompting a flood of squad cars, officers and even a tracking dog to descend on the area.

As police investigated, however, questions began to arise. The man's story began to unravel and on Friday he admitted making it up.

Rick Lee Kalinski, 43, said that his passenger—the man he described as his attacker and who police eventually arrested—had only skipped out on him owing a $62.50 fare. He concocted the robbery story, Kalinski added, because he couldn't afford to pay the taxi company for the loss.

Everything began at about 1:30 p.m. on April 7, Kalinski called for help over his cab's dispatch radio, saying he had been robbed and giving his location near Beer Hill. That brought township police to the scene.

He told them he had picked up a man in Farmington Hills at about 11:15 that morning—a white male, stocky and with a mustache, who wore a white dress shirt, dark blue dress pants and dark pullover sweater.

The man gave him $80 in cash, Kalinski said, and told him to drive to a towing firm's office in Hazel Park. The man got back into the cab after checking on his car there, the cabbie continued, and told him to drive to the spot in Hines Park.

Shortly after that, Kalinski said, the man hit him on the back of the head with an unknown weapon and stole $100 from him. He then took off, he said, running north up Beer Hill.

Kalinski told police he suffered from cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, heart problems and high blood pressure. Fearing a head injury, emergency workers immobilized him with a backboard before taking him to a hospital in Garden City.

Meanwhile, township and city police, backed up by a canine unit from Van Buren Township, fanned out to blanket the area. It wasn't long before something seemed amiss.

"The dog tracker let the dogs go, and he said that the track didn't coincide with his (Kalinski's) story," Township Detective John Werth said. "That was the first indication that something was wrong."

Other questions arose, including when Werth and Township Lieutenant Gary Batzloff interviewed the doctor who treated Kalinski.

"He was complaining of the injury to the head," Werth said, "but the doctor told us that there were no visible signs of the injury."

On Friday, a break in the case occurred. Law enforcement officials had called the towing firm Kalinski had identified and they confirmed that a man fitting the description he'd given had been in on Thursday. Employees were asked to call if he came back for his car, which he did the next day.

That led Werth and Batzloff to the firm. They found evidence to indicate that this was the man Kalinski had identified.

An officer with the Van Buren Township Police Department and his tracking dog search Hines Parks in vain for a suspect in a staged offense. Above, Rick Lee Kalinski is administered medical care by Northville Township rescue personnel after triggering a man hunt with his claim that he was struck during a robbery.

"He fit the description," Werth said. "He was even wearing the same clothes Kalinski described from the day before. He was also identified by the towing people as the guy who came in on Thursday and then left in the cab."

The man's demeanor also raised questions.

"He was acting very nervous," Werth said, "like he had something to hide."

That, combined with the man's answers to their questions, led the investigators to call the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. Officials there agreed that there was probable cause for arresting him. Werth and Batzloff then did so, taking him to township police headquarters.

They questioned him further while also talking to Kalinski, brought in to answer their growing number of concerns about his story as well.

As time went on, Werth said, the man admitted he had ditched Kalinski at Livonia Mall without paying his fare.

"That made a world of difference when we talked to the cabbie," Werth said.

Kalinski eventually confessed, Werth explained, when "I told him that I didn't want to send a man to prison for $20 (the difference between the $80 he said the man gave him and the $100 he said the man took) if he didn't do it."

"That seemed to hit him. He had been sticking to his guns pretty well up to then. Then he said, 'Yeah, you're right. I did it.'"

Money troubles made him make up the story, Kalinski told police. His company, ABC Cab of Livonia, requires cabbies to cover lost fares but not robberies. He just couldn't afford to cover the loss, Werth said he told him.

Kalinski was arrested and ticketed for filing a false police report. He will appear on that charge later this month in 35th District Court.

The man who was his passenger was released. He may face charges in Livonia for allegedly not paying the cab fare.

Township review board handles 295 '94 appeals

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township's board of review has had itself a busy year.

The three-member board, charged with hearing the appeals of property owners who don't think their tax assessments are right, handled 295 cases this year.

That's down from nearly 600 last year, when assessments were coming off a one-year freeze, but still enough to keep things hopping down at Township Hall.

The board's official decisions were put into the mail early this week and should arrive at owners' mailboxes by today or tomorrow. Most should be pleased.

Of the 295 appeals, the board granted reductions of some degree to 179 property owners, all of them residential. Some 58 residential property owners were denied an assessment change as were all 58 commercial or industrial property owners who made a request.

Reasons for an assessment decrease can vary. Most property owners ask because of a hardship, such as low income, or because they feel the assessment doesn't reflect their parcel's true market value.

There are about 6,000 separate properties in the township; about 5,000 of them are residential homes. The assessment reductions granted to 237 of them will apply for the 1994 tax year.

Flower show winners are announced

Winners of the 1994 Ann Arbor Flower & Garden Show from Northville in the design category were:

Joan Doty, 4th place, Large Niche, A Time For Things That Matter; Joan Doty, Large Niche, Ogres I Have Known, National Council of State

Garden Clubs Inc. Creativity Award; and Nancy Goulette, 1st place, Large Niche, A Time For Things That Matter.

Larsen, 3rd place, Matthaei Botanical Gardens Creativity Award.

In the design category the winners from Novi were Marcia Stewart, 3rd place, Medium Niche, As Time Goes "BUY"; and Grethen Pugsley, 2nd place, Petite, Folk Tale Trilogy.

215 in city appeal assessments

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The promise of huge school property tax cuts apparently kept some homeowners away from the city's board of review this year, but not all.

City Treasurer Mark Christiansen noted that 215 property owners appealed their assessments this year, and 124 of them received some sort of reduction. The number was far below last year's 300-plus appeals.

About two-thirds of this year's appeals came from Wayne County property owners, Christiansen said, with the majority of those coming from neighborhoods like Cabbagetown and the Randolph / High area where assessments rose more than 10 percent. County-wide, assessments rose an average of 5.9 percent while Oakland County residents saw an average 3 percent increase.

The city's total tax base rose from last year's $199.9 million figure to $208.9 million this year, even after the board of review reductions. The total includes $173.6 million in residential property, $25.6 million in commercial development and $2.1 million in industrial development.

Mill Race Matters

This week the Northville Historical Society wishes to thank Genie Nehls for her donation.

Various committees continue to work to keep Mill Race Village active and alive. During the past few weeks members of the Stone Gang have helped place signs they constructed and painted at several locations surrounding Northville's Historic District.

Three society members participated in the regional Local History Conference. Executive Board, Archives Committee, Stone Gang, Tivoli Fair workers, and Quarterly writers all met to continue activities. Five volunteers signed up to handle this spring's 26 Wash Oak School Tours.

Members interested in helping this season as village docents are reminded that the organizational reception/meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, May 1, from 2 to 4 p.m. Sweets and beverages will be provided.

New and old docents will discuss this year's calendar of operation, scheduling, and village procedures. This is a great way to become involved with the Northville Historical Society while serving as a representative for your community and having a good time.

Each docent is asked to work approximately four times during the summer season with some individuals donating more and some less time. Training will be provided to new volunteers and to any others who might feel rusty after some time away from the operation. If you want to become involved but are unable to attend on May 1, call 348-1845 or 349-9005.

The Progressive Dinner Committee is working to plan this year's event scheduled for Saturday, May 14. Additional information will be forthcoming to all members. If you would like to help plan the dinner call Marianne at 349-5435.

Marianne is also coordinating plans for the 1994 Annual Meeting which will be held on Thursday, May 19. As in the past the event will begin with dinner and feature the annual business meeting. All historical society members are encouraged to attend and become aware of what is happening with their organization. Guests and visitors are also invited to come to learn more about the group.

Club offers women's scholarships

The Northville Garden Club is offering three $1,000 scholarships. Sponsored by the Women's National Farm & Garden Association, the scholarships were created to encourage and support women to complete undergraduate degrees for entry or reentry into the job market.

One scholarship is being offered at Schoolcraft College and two scholarships are available at Madonna University to candidates who meet certain criteria.

Madonna scholarships are targeted for women who reside within the Northville school district and are attending Madonna University or who wish to attend Madonna during the 1994-95 academic year.

Schoolcraft College applicants must be female; must have completed a minimum of one semester in any field; and must submit a copy of their college transcripts with a minimum 3.0 grade point average.

All candidates at both schools are required to submit a 100-200 word statement of their career goals, how they are currently financing their education, and how the scholarship will make a difference to them.

Schoolcraft's application deadline is April 29 and forms are available from the college's financial aid office, located in the Student Services Building.

Applications at Madonna University are due May 5 and are available by calling Suzanne Hansknecht at (810)348-9531.

The Northville Women's National Farm and Garden Association Chapter will announce the award recipients no later than June 30.

The 39-year-old garden club chapter, in addition to its educational focus, has contributed to the aesthetic and ecological aspects of the community.

Arts group hosts folk music show on April 16

The Northville Arts Commission is hosting the popular Raven Series Coffeehouse at the Cady Inn located in Northville's Mill Race Historical Village on Saturday, April 16, at 8 p.m.

This evening of folk music with contemporary troubadours, both amateur and professional, continues a popular tradition featured so successfully by Tom Rice of the Gifford.

Audiences can enjoy coffee and edibles while listening to area musicians perform. All musicians are invited to perform during open microphone from 8 to 9 p.m. Featured musicians will perform between 9 and 11 p.m.

Featured on April 16 will be Paul Gaughn and Pete Peltier, formerly of the Hope Orchestra and Dave Folks of Mama's Coffeehouse in Birmingham.

Tickets are $5 at the door and include all refreshments. For further information call 349-6104.

Committee wants ideas

The Steering Committee for the Northville High School study year is accepting suggestions for study topics for 1994-95.

Study group proposal forms are available at the high school office, 775 N. Center. Recommendations must be received by Friday, April 15

Moraine Boosters plan a week of fun — with math

The Moraine Boosters (formerly the Fathers' Group) will be hosting a week-long celebration of Math April 18 through 22. The goal will be to promote the love of mathematics through direct involvement in activities that are interesting, fun and informative.

The tentative schedule of events at Moraine Elementary School is as follows:

- Monday. "The Great Number Hunt" begins. This is a scavenger hunt-style puzzle that will be given to each Moraine student. Also on Monday the "Guess How Many" contest will begin. Jars with interesting contents will be put out for students to estimate. Answers will be due Friday.
- Tuesday. At lunch on Tuesday a paper plane contest will be held. Flight times and flight distances will be plotted on a giant graph. Tuesday evenings will be special mathematics bedtime stories from 7:15 to 7:45 p.m. Some very curious stories with mathematical angles will be read by parent volunteers.
- Wednesday. The paper plane contest will continue at lunch. Students will also be given the opportunity to make and decorate their own Euclidian solids. This will be "Wear a Number" day.

● Thursday. Professor William Hart, 1990 Michigan Professor of the Year, comes to Moraine with his presentation called "The Joy of Mathematics." According to Professor Hart, "Math is thinking . . . it is logical, useful, and connects, giving us a deeper understanding of everyday things. Mathematics, like art and music, can be elegant, beautiful and engrossing. It's worth knowing, and is too important not to be taken seriously."

The fourth and fifth graders will see him in the morning. Kindergarten through third graders will receive a visit by the mysterious, heretofore unknown Math Man.

● Friday. Movies about math will be featured at lunch. The answers to the Great Number Hunt and the Guess How Many Contest will be announced.

Throughout the week there will be other special activities and plans are being made to show the kids, creatively, "How Many is a Million."

Call Moraine Principal Mary Najarian at 344-8473 for information or to ask questions.

If you're building a house, meet your new furnace.

Geothermal: An energy source straight from the earth that is four times more efficient than conventional heating and cooling systems.

You've made the decision to build a new home. Now, it's time to discover Geothermal.

Geothermal is the most advanced, cost-effective heating and cooling system available. It uses the earth's constant temperature to create an even, comfortable temperature in your home, along with a ready supply of hot water. A Geothermal system can save you up to 60% on your annual heating, cooling and hot water costs. The system is four times more efficient than natural gas, oil or propane. Plus, it's good to the earth, using a natural and renewable energy source that's clean and safe with no open flame or fumes. Sound complicated? It's not. It's extremely easy to operate and requires virtually no maintenance.

Sound ideal? It's time to get better acquainted

School millage elections yet to come

and STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writers

Local school boards aren't out of the millage election business yet, "contrary to popular misconceptions," said Dr. Robert Schiller, state education superintendent.

Despite voters' 69-31 approval of Proposal A, the school finance reform plan approved March 15, district voters still need to approve local property tax millage rates—some this spring, others in future years.

But didn't Gov. John Engler say Proposal A would "get school boards out of the millage business and back into education"? Why didn't anyone contradict him?

"A lot of us did," replied Kathleen Straus, a Democratic member of the State Board of Education from Detroit, "but no one listened. The governor had a better pulpit."

"A lot of rhetoric (against Proposal A) has been that 'we'll lose local control.' But it turns out we still have a lot of local control," added Dorothy Beardmore, a Republican member of the State Board from Rochester Hills.

Here's why everyone, sooner or later, will be voting on 18 mills of non-homestead property taxes: The Legislature (1) passed a 6-mill statewide property tax on homes and farms and (2) established a 24-mill rate on second homes and businesses.

But that differential rate of 18 mills isn't a state tax. It must be approved locally in each school district and levied by the local school board. The Legislature couldn't pass the additional 18 mills itself because it would have run afoul of the 1978 Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment which caps state revenues at a percentage of total personal income.

"The local 18 mills is not automatic," Schiller told state education writers at a Monday news conference in Lansing. "That's where some confusion rests. To get its full foundation grant, a district must vote locally."

School districts whose voters refuse to levy any or all of the 18 mills will see their state aid—known as "foundation grants"—reduced proportionately. Every district is guaranteed $5,000 per pupil eventually.

"Voters can approve those operating mills for up to 20 years in a single election," Schiller said.

In addition, four other kinds of millage elections are possible:

● "Hold harmless." About 40 districts, particularly in the metro Detroit suburbs, spend more than $6,500 per pupil. To spend at their old levels, they must ask voters immediately for additional homestead property taxes.

● "Enhancement." Districts that want to enrich their programs may levy up to three mills for three years, but not past 1997. In 1997 and thereafter, intermediate (county) districts may vote countywide enhancement taxes.

● Capital needs. Up to five mills may be voted for construction, renovation, repair, purchase of land and (if the Legislature approves) computer hardware.

● Bond issues. These are often approved separately for new school buildings.

For the Northville Public Schools, last year's voter approval of a five-year, 22.63-mill levy assured the district of its full 18 mills over that period, according to Business and Finance Director John Street. "That carries us for five years," he said.

Because Northville's proposed per-pupil spending rate for the 1994-1995 school year is slightly over the state-guaranteed level of $6,500, the district also is entitled to levy an additional .45 mill in hold harmless millage.

But Street noted that the enabling language for Proposal A suggests that the state will pay for hold harmless millage under a half mill, which would save the school district from having to levy the millage locally.

Street added that the district has made no decision whether to levy any enhancement millage this year.

Area physician dies at 75

Dr. John F. Cotant Sr., who cared for Detroit-area patients for five decades, died April 11 at the age of 75 at his home in Northville Township.

Dr. Cotant's affiliation with Providence Hospital in Southfield began in 1943. After graduating from the University of Detroit in 1939 and Wayne State University College of Medicine in 1943, Dr. Cotant started his internship at Providence Hospital in 1943.

He took a short break from his lifetime dedication to medicine in 1944-45 when he served as a captain of the medical corps in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Returning to Providence Hospital in 1946 to begin residency in general surgery, he named to the attending staff in 1949.

Fellow physician and friend of 38 years, Dr. Louis Kaufman, called him "top-notch, a very dedicated and a loving family man."

"When we retired in 1986, Dr. Cotant and I shared responsibilities at the surgery clinic," explained Dr. Kaufman. "It was a wonderful way to retire. I know Dr. Cotant really enjoyed it." Dr. Cotant also continued to actively instruct interns in surgical medicine at the hospital.

"Dr. Cotant was a person of high integrity," Dr. Kaufman said, "the kind of doctor you would want to have; very optimistic, cheerful and friendly. He was the type of guy every one admired."

Dr. Cotant was president of the medical staff at Providence Hospital in 1967 and president of Providence Hospital Research Foundation in 1975-76. He served as chief of the division of general surgery at Providence from 1968 to 1971 and again from 1978 until 1981.

Dr. Cotant was affiliated with the Wayne County Medical Society, Michigan State Medical Society and the American Medical Association.

He was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery and a fellow member of the American College of Utilization Review Physicians.

Very involved in community affairs, Dr. Cotant served on the Detroit Board of Health from 1965 until 1970. Detroit Mayor Jerome P. Cavanaugh appointed Dr. Cotant president of the board in 1968.

He was also active as president of the board of directors at St. Francis Home for Boys in Detroit in 1980-81, and was a member of the advisory board from 1965 until his death. Dr. Cotant was a 4th Degree in the Knights of Columbus, Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre of Jerusalem.

Surviving are his wife of 63 years, Kathleen; his children, James (Janice), John (Marion), Julianne (Richard) Raven, Kathleen (Timothy) Cronin, Mary Christine (Michael) DiGiovanni, Mary Suzanne (Thomas) Vincent, and Michael (Rosanne) Cotant; and 29 grandchildren.

The funeral mass was held at 10:30 a.m. April 14 at St. Kenneth Catholic Church, 124951 Haggerty Road. Burial followed at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

Memorial contributions may be made to Redemptionist Fathers, 39479 Village Run, Northville, MI 48167.

Suit: HPUD plan denied due to Home Depot

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials acted unfairly—and illegally—when they turned down the concept plan for a Home Quarters Warehouse in their town, a recently filed lawsuit alleges.

No way, says the township's lawyer.

"We're going to deny all their claims," attorney Len Krzyzaniak said. "Our position is that we stand by our decision. We don't think we did anything wrong."

Whomever comes out on top in the end, don't expect to see the wheels of justice move quickly. It could be up to two months before both sides huddle in a "status conference" to begin the long trip a lawsuit takes from first filing to its day in court.

First up is the township's official answer to the suit, which was filed March 29. That gives the township until April 26 to file its response in Detroit's Third Circuit Court. Bringing the suit is Fraser resident Antoine Abi Raji, who owns the township parcel for which Home Quarters was slated.

Raji and Home Quarters officials earlier this year submitted a design plan for land under the township's Haggerty Planned Unit Development (HPUD) ordinance. The proposal called for a 33-acre site off Haggerty between Seven and Eight Mile to host a 152,000 square foot Home Quarters store and a 24-lot subdivision. Members of the planning commission and board of trustees unanimously rejected it last month.

Passed last year, the HPUD ordinance gives township officials the option of approving projects that don't fit the conventional zoning of their parcels but would bring "a recognizable and substantial benefit" to the community.

The only HPUD plan approved to date is the WindRidge development, now under construction at the corner of Seven and Haggerty. The 64 acre site will include a 100,000 square foot Home Depot store and a 101 lot subdivision.

It was the fact that Home Depot was already approved that led township officials to turn down the Home Quarters plan, the suit alleges.

It says that the plan met all the requirements of the HPUD ordinance. However, officials still denied it because they didn't want to see two "big box" home improvement centers open up right next door to each other.

That's illegal, the suit contends, under state and federal law and the Michigan and U.S. Constitutions. Raji is asking the court to order the township to approve the Home Quarters plan and to strike down part of the HPUD ordinance. He's also looking for money damages in excess of $10,000, court costs and attorney fees.

Krzyzaniak declined to comment on the specifics of the charges while preparing the official response due in 12 days.

"The owner bought the property and in essence took his chances to get a rezoning," he added, however. "The courts don't generally act as supra-zoning boards. Unless the court decides that the township's decision is arbitrary and capricious they'll let the decision stand."

The suit seeks to revolve around three key questions:

- Did officials turn down the plan because they didn't want to see two Home Improvement stores in the township or did the plan fall short of the requirements of the HPUD ordinance?

Some observers expect the township to argue that it didn't meet the ordinance, namely in its failure to effectively preserve the site's natural features.

• If the plan met the requirements and even if the township denied it for the reasons the suit alleges, would that violate the HPUD ordinance?

Language in the ordinance refers to it as an "option" and says that the township "may" approve plans if they meet the conditions laid out—not "must" or "shall" like other sections of township ordinance. Does that mean that officials can legally deny the plan for the reasons the suit alleges, even if it meets the HPUD requirements?

- If all that were true, would the process at some point break state or federal law?

The suit includes five different counts—allegations of wrongdoing. Raji claims the following:

- The township held the Home Quarters project to a different standard under the HPUD ordinance than it did the Home Depot plan, plans which are "virtually identical."

Officials "discriminated" against Home Quarters because they were afraid either Home Quarters or Home Depot would eventually go out of business if both were approved. That violated Raji's right to equal protection under the law.

• The township has an "obligation" to approve any proposals which meet the standards of the HPUD ordinance. It didn't, a violation of law.

- The township's denial of the Home Quarters plan only because of Home Depot's approval is a restraint of trade and commerce, again illegal.

• The following section of the HPUD ordinance is unconstitutional:

"The township planning commission and the board of trustees shall find that the HPUD will result in a recognizable and substantial benefit to the ultimate users of the project and to the township, where such benefit would otherwise be unfeasible or unlikely to be achieved."

The benefits can be provided through site design elements in excess of the requirements of this ordinance that would otherwise apply such as high quality architectural design, extensive landscaping, sensitivity to adjacent residential land uses, unique site design features, unified access and preservation of natural features.

"Recognizable" and "substantial" are arbitrary standards which township officials don't uniformly apply, in violation of the state constitution and laws.

- The township's actions violate the highest law in the land.

"As a result of the actions of the charter township of Northville," the suit reads, "plaintiffs have been damaged and denied, and been deprived of their rights as secured by the United States and State of Michigan Constitutions."

Diagnostic and interventional procedures. To detect heart disease, Providence cardiologists access such state of the art technology as stress angioplasty or atherectomy can significantly improve a heart condition. Other patients require open heart surgery to bypass blocked or diseased coronary arteries. Last year, Providence cardiac surgeons performed nearly 500 of these delicate procedures, restoring patients to more normal lives.

On the "air"

Northville High School junior Josh Sabin takes to the airways each Friday morning from 7 to 7:25 a.m., hosting a program that's broadcast over the school's public address system. Josh's show, which features interviews with students and staff members, accented with an occasional track from a current CD, can be heard in the hallways while students are preparing to head to class. The PA becomes "WNHS" during the 25 minutes of the show.

Northville law firm hosts a March seminar/fund-raiser

"Toward a Better Understanding of Traumatic Brain Injury," the fifth annual seminar sponsored by the Northville law firm of Simkins and Simkins, was held March 24 at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The seminar was a benefit for the Brighton-based Michigan Head Injury Alliance (MHIA) and the Michigan State Organization of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

The all-day seminar was designed to provide information for a better understanding of traumatic brain injury and featured 11 of the nation's leading experts in the field, including Dr. Charles Seigerman, clinical neuropsychologist at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor; Dr. James Kelly, neurologist and assistant professor of rehabilitation medicine and neurology at Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago; and Dr. Emanuel Tanay, professor of clinical psychiatry at Wayne State University in Detroit.

Topics included prevention of traumatic brain injury; signs and symptoms of the injury; human consequences of traumatic brain injury; diagnosis and rehabilitation of people with traumatic brain injury; educational needs of brain injured children; and trial preparation of a closed-head injury case.

Among the 110 people in attendance were neuropsychologists, rehabilitation specialists, neurologists, lawyers and insurance company representatives.

The event raised $5,000 for MHIA, a non-profit organization founded in 1981 to enhance the lives of those affected by brain injury.

MHIA Executive Director Michael Dabbs says the funds raised by the seminar will help defray costs associated with the organization's "Camp Barefoot," a fun-filled experience complete with swimming, horseback riding, arts and crafts, hayrides, and even a talent show.

"Because of the fund-raiser, we hope that we will be able to offer this wonderful week-long outing to as many as 35 or 40 individuals this summer," Dabbs said.

The seminar also raised $5,000 for the Michigan State MADD Organization, headquartered in Midland. Spokeswoman Diane Page says the money the organization received from the fund-raiser will be used for public education and victims' assistance programs.

Report pushes for more courts

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

State lawmakers groan whenever Marilyn K. Hall issues one of her State Court Administrator's reports. Hall recommended the Court of Appeals, which now has 24 judges, get "a minimum of 12 new judgeships no later than 1997."

Her report last November added: "The Michigan Court of Appeals' docket is growing faster than that of any of the other large comparison states . . . Criminal appeals increased by 122 percent in Michigan between 1988 and 1992 . . . Civil appeals increased by 34 percent."

The Legislature, occupied with school reform and budget woes, responded by:

- Creating four new judgeships and redistricting the court.
- Placing Proposal B on the Nov. 8 ballot to cut down appeals by about one-third. The proposed constitutional amendment would eliminate the automatic right of appeal of convicts who had pleaded guilty, permitting appeals in such cases "by leave" (permission) only.

For years the court administrator has recommended a major expansion of the Court of Appeals, which handles 95 percent of appeals from trial courts. The caseload, she said, justifies 54 judges. The backlog is about three years. Each year 1,500 more appeals are filed than are disposed of.

The second-highest court was created by the 1963 Constitution with nine judges. By 1986 it had doubled to 18. The current 24 judges work in panels of three.

Meanwhile, court watchers are predicting the Court of Appeals will turn more conservative because all the new judges will be added in the southwest portion of the state. No new judgeships are scheduled for the metropolitan Detroit area, where incumbents, never beaten, will be seeking reelection to six-year terms.

Wayne County was in the first district with five other counties, stretching west to Jackson. The new first district has just three counties—Wayne, Monroe and Lenawee. It will lose one judge, Thomas J. Brennan of Dearborn. His post will be eliminated because he is past 70 and may not run for reelection.

Incumbent Judges Roman S. Gribbs of Detroit and Maura Corrigan of Grosse Pointe Park have filed for reelection.

Oakland County was in the second district with 14 other counties stretching west to Lansing and north to Arenac County. The new second district has four counties—Oakland, Macomb, Genesee and Shiawassee. Incumbent Judges Michael J. Kelly and Marilyn J. Kelly, both of Bloomfield Hills but not related, and Kathleen Jansen of Harrison Township have filed for reelection.

The excitement will be in the new third district, which gets all four new appeals judges. That U-shaped district starts in Muskegon in the west, goes down to Berrien County and across southern Michigan, ending in Livingston County. Legislative elections indicate it's the most conservative section of the state.

Livingston Circuit Judge Daniel Burrell has announced for one of the seats.

Depending on the number of votes, the four winning candidates will have terms of 10, eight, eight and six years. Court watchers already refer to it as Gov. John Engler's "court packing plan."

The fourth district, northern lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, will gain Brennan's seat.

Hall sticks to her guns—more judges. Among 29 states with appellate courts, the average number of filings per judge was 205. In Michigan the average was 493 per judge.

Cost of adding four judges this year: $2.2 million in operating costs and a one-time expense of $428,000 for office equipment and furnishings.

out substance abuse problems and risk factors for youth," he added.

Richards cited the need for more programs like DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education), and said, "I think we ought to consider what other kinds of programs we can bring to bear."

Richards added his desire for more "user-friendly" school facilities and the possibility of examining the curriculum on a community-wide basis as two other areas of interest.

Last-minute candidate Michael Williams, who pulled a petition and returned it Monday, could not be reached for comment.

Voters will choose two of the five candidates June 13 to replace outgoing board members Glenna Davis and Joseph Dunkerley. Davis, a 13-year board veteran and current board secretary, and 8-year trustee Dunkerley, announced they were stepping down at the March 28 board meeting. Their terms officially expire in July.

Board of Education members serve four-year staggered terms and receive no compensation. The board typically meets as a whole the second and fourth Monday of every month, and board members also serve on several subcommittees.

Ready to mow

Parks and Recreation Director Traci Johnson displays the new commercial mower donated to the parks department by Mark King, the owner of Mark's Small Engine. Mark's made the donation to commemorate its 20th anniversary of service to the community. The business is holding an open house to celebrate its birthday and to exhibit a new addition to its building, located at 16959 Northville Road. On April 16 and 17, the business will treat customers to bratwurst and other goodies, including hot dogs, popcorn, soft drinks and chips. Prizes, such as a snowblower, a power trimmer, gift certificates and more, will be given away in a drawing. Above, King leans on the lawn mower handle, surrounded by members of his staff.

Organ donor cards can mean second chance to those in need

Every year the Michigan Department of State distributes up to two million donor labels for motorists to place on the back of their driver licenses or Michigan identification cards, to encourage organ and tissue donation.

This year, in addition to issuing the labels, Secretary of State Richard Austin is joining with the Gift of Life Agency, the Michigan Eye-Bank and Transplantation Center, and the Michigan Tissue Bank to remind motorists to fill out and use the labels.

"Since 1976, the Department of State has issued donor labels to Michigan residents to promote organ and tissue donation," Austin noted. "In 1993, 440 lives were saved in Michigan because someone was willing to donate one or more organs upon the death of a loved one."

"Unfortunately, Michigan has hundreds of residents who will not survive without a transplant and this is why the donor label is so important," Austin added. "If motorists have signed labels affixed to their licenses or identification cards, their wishes for donation are more likely to be fulfilled by next-of-kin in the event of unexpected death."

All 181 Secretary of State branch offices are recognizing Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week, April 17 through 23, with special displays and free informational materials. On Tuesday, April 19, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., nearly 80 Secretary of State offices will host a visitor who has received a transplant or donated the organs of a deceased loved one.

The Secretary of State's donor label is designed to encourage people to discuss organ and tissue donation with their family and friends. Once signed by the motorist and witnessed, it should be placed on the lower half of the back side of your Michigan driver license or identification card.

New labels are mailed with all driver license and ID card renewals, and are available from any Secretary of State branch office.

Organs and tissues may be donated from anyone 75 years of age or younger at no charge to the donor or donor's family. Organ and tissue donation is supported by all major religions and does not affect customary funeral arrangements, nor does it alter body appearance. Among the organs and tissues that may be transplanted are the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, pancreas, bones, eyes and skin.

The Gift of Life agency estimates that more than 1,400 Michigan residents are currently awaiting organ transplants. Last year, at least 125 people died while waiting for a donated organ. Nationwide, more than 32,000 people are on transplant waiting lists.

College fair comes to the Novi Expo

The Metro Detroit National College Fair will be held on Tuesday, April 19, from 9 a.m. until noon and from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. at the Novi Expo Center. Admission is free.

At the fair, students and parents will be able to speak to representatives from more than 150 colleges, universities, trade and technical schools about educational opportunities beyond high school. One-to-one counseling will be available for students and parents to answer any specific questions about the college admission process, programs of study, financial aid, and college selection.

Everyone attending the fair will receive a free copy of Facts About American Colleges, an informative booklet that profiles many of the NACAC member institutions throughout the country that participate in the fairs.

National College Fairs are currently held in 25 cities across the United States. Each fair is organized by a local committee of volunteers from area high schools and colleges that handles the publicity and physical arrangements for the program. These volunteers also donate time to help staff the counseling and information booths at the fair.

NACAC, the National College Fair sponsor, is a Washington-based education association of secondary school guidance counselors, college admission officers, financial aid officers, and other individuals who work with students as they make the transition from high school to college. Since 1972, National College Fairs have served nearly 4 million students and parents, and have been officially endorsed by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASPP).

Novi police chief makes case for more officers

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

On paper, Novi Police Chief Douglas Shaeffer builds a strong case for two additional police officers.

Compared to neighboring communities in Oakland and Wayne Counties, Novi's force of 49 falls short of forces in other communities of the same size with similar crime statistics.

Shaeffer surveyed the size of forces in Oakland and Wayne County communities. He also compared the number of officers to the present population and to the number of the crimes reported.

He compiled the information in time to make his plea for the additional manpower at the city's first round of budget hearings two weeks ago.

According to the results of his study, in 1993-94 Novi has fewer officers for every 1,000 residents than most Oakland County communities including Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield Township, Livonia, Birmingham, Troy, Royal Oak, Wixom, Madison Heights, Farmdale, Hazel Park and Oak Park.

The average of officers per 1,000 residents in all of those communities combined was 1.43. In Novi, Shaeffer estimates at the current staffing level would produce an officer-per-1,000-population ratio of 1.23 officers if you estimate Novi has 40,000 residents, 1.29 if the population is 38,000.

Shaeffer used two conservative population estimates he received from Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments and from the city clerk's office.

The most recent count, taken in 1993 put the population at 38,000, but the population has been growing at a rate of 2,000 new residents every year, Shaeffer said.

The same held true in 1992. According to the chief's statistics the number of officers per 1,000 residents in Novi was .19 below the 1.54 aggregate of officers per 1,000 residents in the Oakland County communities surveyed. Shaeffer's force also fell short in comparisons with 10 Wayne County communities, the chief said.

In that survey, he found that Novi had .23 fewer officers on the street than the county average of 1.58 officers per 1,000 residents. Using the city clerk's population estimate for 1994 of 41,458, Shaeffer figures he now has 1.18 officers for every 1,000 residents.

The city's ratio also falls short of the Federal Bureau of Investigation national guidelines for 2.2 officers for every 1,000 citizens. The FBI also recommends 1.5 officers per 1,000 for midwestern cities of Novi's size.

Nonetheless the city's ratio also falls shy of the 1.5 officers recommended by a city's police and fire protection committee set up in the 1980s.

Back then, former Police Chief Lee BeCote projected on paper the department should have 27 additional officers by this year. Instead, the department has added two dispatchers and lost one officer and a chief dispatcher.

The one officer was let go after funding for the position was cut due to the loss of a grant.

Cross-county population comparisons aren't the only factor Shaeffer has used to illustrate what he sees is the disparity between Novi's police officers and its population.

He's compared the number of crimes with the number of officers. Last year, Novi's 50 officers handled 5,050 crimes. That meant there were 10 officers for every 1,000 crimes in the city.

In Oakland County communities, there are an average of 12.68 officers to respond to the same number of crimes. In Wayne County, 11.51 officers handle every 1,000 crimes.

"We've compared ourselves with similar communities," the chief said. "We were using communities with similar retail economy too."

Residential and retail growth have also helped to compound the demand for additional manpower, the chief said. As the city continues to grow at the current 2,000 person a year rate the shortage of officers could compound itself and cause more problems, he said.

Aside from being the fastest growing residential area in the seven-county area, Novi is also quickly becoming the newest regional destination center in the metropolitan area.

Retail attractions like the Novi Expo Center, Twelve Oaks and the Novi Town Center continue to bring more folks, more traffic and eventually more crime into the area, Shaeffer said.

In addition, a smorgashboard of new eateries, Novi has a lot to offer people who live, work, shop and visit here.

And people are beginning to flock here. They come to shop, dine and be entertained, he said.

Twelve Oaks has been named among the top 20 largest retail centers in the country, the chief said. Each weekend, the mall brings 110,000 shoppers in 38,000 cars to Novi.

The Expo Center is expected to put the same kind of hardship on the backs of officers as weekend shows attracts thousands to the city.

All of the city's growth puts more demand on Shaeffer's staff. More people means more crime, he said. And yet the department can barely meet the demands of the existing community.

"Policing traffic in the neighborhoods is also important," he said.

The department receives numerous requests from residents in northern Novi for higher police visibility around Walled Lake on South and East Lake drives and on West Road. Yet there are those on Meadowbrook, Beck, Haggerty and Taft roads who often complain they want more control of speeders in the area.

"We would like to have a special projects enforcement team to concentrate on areas where there are traffic, vandalism and other re-occurring problems," he said. "Neighborhood groups in and around those areas are concerned about it."

"We've grown so much faster than anybody ever thought we would," Shaeffer said. "All of the city staff are complaining about not having enough people to do things."

The chief fears the situation could worsen now that six officers are eligible to retire at year's end. He doubts all six will, but he said it takes at least a year to get a new recruit up to speed.

"It will take a full year for an officer to become a resource to us," he said. "and three full years for one to become fully competent on the job."

That's why the chief included the two new positions in this year's budget request. He estimates it would cost the city about $100,000 to hire and outfit the two new officers.

How much did you lose last year on nondeductible interest?

7.50% APR.* FIXED RATE

Maybe you've noticed it while getting your taxes ready. All the interest you've paid on consumer loans that's not deductible.

Well, now's the time to think of a strategy for next year's taxes. And consider borrowing against the equity in your home.

At First of America, we can lock you into a low fixed 7.50 percent APR loan with terms of up to seven years. To make the offer even more attractive, all fees will be waived, so there will be no annual fee, appraisal fees, closing costs or points. And you'll have a fixed monthly payment that will never change. The sooner you take advantage of it, the more you can save on financing home improvements, education, a car or anything else worthwhile. You can even refinance a loan that you have somewhere else.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to make sure the interest is tax deductible.

We can give qualified applicants fast approval—usually within 24 hours.

So stop by any First of America office or call for an application or more information. And make last year's nondeductible interest a thing of the past.

Our Opinion

Look at all options in consolidation plans

Northville Police Chief Rod Cannon might have unwittingly thrown proponents of local service consolidation a curve.

When a report on the prospects of combining the dispatch operations of five local communities was prepared last year, Cannon affixed an addendum suggesting the city consider another option, that of contracting with Novi for dispatch services.

The chief offers some good reasons for leaning toward Novi rather than Canton Township, the latter being spoken of as the central dispatch site in the event the five communities come to an agreement. The advantages, in Cannon's view, include closer proximity (Novi's dispatch station is three miles away while Canton's is 10) and greater compatibilities with the northern community's equipment and reporting systems.

"From a practitioner's perspective these elements need consideration as they impact manpower and budget expenditures," Cannon wrote. In other words, there's a chance a Novi dispatch arrangement could preserve existing service levels and save taxpayer dollars.

Despite the soundness of the chief's suggestions and the fact that they come from someone in the know, there had been no discussion of the possibility of contracting with Novi until the matter was brought to light at an April 4 city council meeting.

One possible explanation for this could be that a Novi arrangement doesn't fit in with the plans that so far have developed official followings. The two options now under consideration are: Consolidation of the public safety dispatch and law enforcement lock-up functions of Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township, the feasibility of which was explored in a professional study completed last year; and a total merger of Northville city and Northville Township, a monumental task that would require wrenching compromises and a difficult sales job to community residents.

Paying Novi to dispatch for Northville is not a part of either of those proposals, but that doesn't mean the idea can't be introduced as another potential cost-effectiveness consideration.

Mayor Chris Johnson seemed to suggest that he felt discussion of a Novi dispatch arrangement would send the wrong message at a time when the main focus is on two principle proposals already under review, but we believe this is the wrong approach. During this exploratory period all options should be examined. If not, the commendable effort to join with neighboring communities to eliminate duplications might overlook the best that consolidation has to offer.

Unburden the courts

Our state Court of Appeals is like the humorous poster they sell in office supply stores showing a harried worker with his legs spinning like wheels as he runs. In the caption, he says:

"The hurrier I go, the behinder I get."

The more appellate judges we add, the farther behind the court gets. The case backlog grows faster than the taxpayers' ability to pay for new judges.

In 1965, the Court of Appeals' first full year in business, there were nine judges. By the 1980s there were 18 judges. Since 1989 we've been blessed to have 24 judges.

This year we'll add four more judges for a total of 28, and that's a pittance, says state Court Administrator Marilyn K. Hall. Her "conservative" recommendation for 1997 is 12 more judges, and she adds that we really ought to have 54 to keep the workload the same as in other states.

Meanwhile, Michigan's population has been virtually flat. We have seen a flight of manufacturing jobs, we have seen farming shrink, our school enrollments are falling, but the number of appellate judges just grows and grows.

The culprit: more case filings, more appeals. Hall's numbers are mind-numbing, so we'll keep it simple: 5,200 filings by 1980, then 10,500 in 1990 and more than 13,000 in 1992—generally a 13 percent increase a year.

Well, instead of adding more Court of Appeals judges until half the state is hearing judicial appeals from the other half, let's examine the problem afresh. Is there a way to cut extraneous appeals without compromising the quality of justice?

Yes. Voters should consider supporting Proposal B on the Nov. 8 ballot. It would cut the Court of Appeals' workload by 25 percent or so by denying convicts who pled guilty the automatic right to appeal.

The Michigan Constitution (Art. 1, Sec. 20) grants "an appeal as a matter of right." Proposal B would add: "except that an appeal by an accused who pleads guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) shall be by leave (permission) of the court."

In other words, a convict could appeal if he has a good case, but it wouldn't be an automatic right.

In real life, the Court of Appeals almost always affirms lower court decisions where the convict says he had a bad attorney, should have been charged with a lesser crime, or uses other jailhouse-lawyer malarkey.

But it will send a few cases back for resentencing where the judge has departed from sentencing guidelines by imposing too long a prison term without a good reason, stated on the record.

Michigan's sentencing guideline system, based on actual judicial experience, is only a few years old. It's a common-sense system. The guidelines work to save many an offender from an overly harsh sentence imposed by a vindictive judge having a bad day.

Proposal B—to eliminate automatic appeals by those who have pleaded guilty—is also a common-sense solution to the cancerous Court of Appeals docket.

To weary taxpayers, Proposal B makes more sense than adding dozens of new judges at $108,000 a year apiece.

Tips can lead to good news

Lee Snider

One of the great things about news reporting is that people sometimes do the hard work for you, like when informants provide you with story leads.

Angry officials who want to see their enemies' names dragged through the mud will occasionally tell you about shady behind-the-scenes dealings, giving you the tips you need to break that big one.

Just ask Woodward and Bernstein. Without "Deepthroat" to put them on the scent of Watergate, one of the biggest scandals of the 20th century might have gone unreported. Then Richard Nixon would have finished his second term, Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter never would have been president and we wouldn't have heard about Billy Beer.

American cultural history would have been completely different.

Because there aren't too many Watergates on the community level, we don't get a lot of calls from people trying to arrange meetings in a parking garage. But we do get tips, mostly from readers who want to tell us about someone they know who has done something unique or extraordinary.

A postcard I received from a man in Bowling Green, Kentucky, last week is a case in point.

The cryptic card was simply addressed to "Nonhille," Michigan, and on the front of it were instructions for the postmaster to forward the note to the local newspaper. In spite of the mangled spelling of the city name, the zip code was right, and that must have been enough to enable it to reach its destination.

A typewritten message on the back of the card listed the name of one Robert Lehman, saying this man, living or dead, deserves recognition for having participated in the D-Day invasion of World War II, the 50th anniversary of which is coming up June 6.

"A brave man, Robert Lehman, parachuted several times with the 82nd Airborne and helped to save hundreds of wounded men," the card read.

"Honor him in your newspaper on the anniversary of D-Day in Normandy."

Now this works in neatly with our plans, as we had intended to ask for help in locating hometown soldiers who took part in Operation Overload, as it was called. The landing, though not the turning point in the war some believe it was, represented the greatest amphibious assault in military history and set in motion the series of events that culminated in the end of the Nazi nightmare in May 1945.

I was elated upon receiving the postcard, but, unfortunately, my attempts to locate Robert Lehman, for whom a Northville street number was given, have gone for naught. Neither have I been able to contact the sender of the card, though a detailed return address was provided.

Hopefully, my mentioning it in this space will serve as some, albeit inadequate, acknowledgement of this patriot's great deeds.

As far as my request is concerned, here it is: If you know of someone living in the area who was involved in the D-Day invasion, let us know about it. It sure would be interesting to pick the brains of people who were at the scene of one of the most massive efforts of World War II.

Give us a call or, if you prefer, drop us a line. Apparently, as long as you get the zip right, it'll get here.

Unbelievable time had by all

Steve Kellman

The food was fabulous, the music ethereal and the costumes simply fantastic.

The occasion, of course, was the Northville Library Campaign Committee's Phantom Ball, designed to raise funds for the election campaign for a new district library. Organizers called the now-legendary April 1 event a smashing success.

"Simply unreal," said Lynn Parklann, whose brainchild the ball was.

"I can't believe how well it went," added Committee President Phil Smith.

The ball stretched into the wee hours, and drew many of the community's elite. Laurie Marrs of the Chamber of Commerce danced all night in her Cleopatra costume, while Mayor Chris Johnson and Supervisor Karan Baja engaged in a lively discussion on how to merge all the governmental entities within a 20-mile radius of Northville.

Gifted Music Store owner Tom Rice used the occasion to unveil his new heavy metal band, Raven It Up. Rice, on electric guitar, was the hit of the evening with his Jimi Hendrix-inspired solos.

In one corner of the ballroom, a rowdy Irish contingent led by writer James Joyce tried to drown out Rice's band by belting out "Oh, Danny Boy." In another, noted poetess Maya Angelou read her latest library-inspired work, "I Know Why the Shelves Book Falls."

Other literary figures had trouble reaching the event. Samuel Clemens' paddleboat ran aground on a mudbank on the way up the Rouge River from Greenfield Village, while Ernest Hemingway and soulmate Jim Harrison stopped off at the Wagon Wheel Saloon for a game of eight-ball and never made it to the Phantom Ball.

On a more down-to-earth note, 130 people responded to the library committee's invitations, sending in donations ranging from $2 to $200. About $3,200 in total donations was raised.

The money will be used to sell the community on the need for a new 25,000-square-foot district library on Cady Street, behind city hall and the recreation center.

Respondents were asked to list who they wanted to sit with at the banquet, and the responses indicated a literary if slightly twisted crowd. Charles Dickens and William Shakespeare were the hands-down favorites, but pairings were popular as well, said campaign committee treasurer Joyce Murdoch. One person wanted to sit with Rush Limbaugh, William Bennett and Cervantes, perhaps to study the contrasts. Another wanted to be between Jackie Collins and Dante. Maybe Jackie could have gotten the author of The Inferno to lighten up a bit.

One person put down Dr. Benjamin Spock's name, and wrote "Help" on the response card. "This one must be from someone who's home with children," Murdoch said.

Murdoch noted that not everyone seemed to get the joke, either. "I'm wondering, because some people put their friends' names down, but I'm sure they realized afterwards, when they thought, 'I don't even know where it is.'"

For those who missed out, donations can still be sent to the Northville Library Campaign Committee at 41600 Rayburn, Northville, MI 48167.

Donations will be accepted right up until May 3, the date of the district library millage election, and any leftover funds will be turned over to the Friends of Northville Library to help fund the library itself.

Vote 'yes' on May 3 for the library

To the editor:
A "Yes, Yes" vote for the library on May 3 is going to cost me a little more than I now spend in support of the library, but I think this will be money well spent. "Yes, Yes" means:

- Stable library funding (at a reasonable level) will be provided because of a dedicated millage
- A larger building on a fine location
- A collection to match our growing needs
- Expanded hours and services, including programs for children and adults
- Technology to access the information super highway
- I can really influence how my library tax dollars are spent when I vote for library board members

A "Yes, Yes" vote on May 3 will echo for years to come in this community. It will signal that we care about the entire community, from the children to the senior citizens. I speak with pride about living in the Northville community and that largely results from our support for neighbor, family, children, and education.

A "Yes, Yes" vote for the library on May 3 is for more than a library. It is for neighbor, family, children, education and, yes, community pride.

School changes damage trust

To the editor:

At the NHS PTSA meeting of March 23, the membership overwhelmingly approved a motion directing me to inform (the school district) central administration about our dissatisfaction with the Parent-Teacher Conference schedule.

The change in conference times, shortened by 45 minutes on two evenings (total of 90 minutes) due to the power failure at the fall conferences, was an unfavorable measure for the union and the administration to take.

I understand this was a negotiated item in order to give back lost time to teachers. What is being done about the lost time to parents? Unfortunately, many parents were unable to meet with all the necessary teachers. Other parents were unable to attend the shortened conference evenings due to their work schedules.

We are experiencing a lack of trust among parents, teachers and administration regarding the high school day, and this unfortunate occurrence has added further strain on the perception of the high school staff.

In a time when the budget is a major concern, when "seat time" is a guarded institution and when trust is being challenged, this grievance is perceived by the community as a demonstrated lack of professionalism, not allowing for a nurturing of trust.

It is our hope that future decisions will be made carefully to prevent a negative impact on the delicate balance of trust in the high school environment. Instances such as this one will cause a great divide rather than a meeting of the minds in our educational scheme for a better Northville High School.

Margaret Surdu
President
NHS PTSA

(Editor's note: The preceding letter was directed to the school district central office and a copy sent to The Northville Record.)

Balanced budget has hidden flaws

To the editor:

Sir Walter Scott wrote: "Oh, what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive."

The balanced budget amendment protagonists, if successful, in the two houses of Congress, are not telling the people of the different states, that many of the social programs presently funded in part, or wholly, by the federal government, will be dumped onto the budgets of the separate states.

The 38 states needed to complete the passage of the balanced budget amendment are well advised to be wary of the unintended results a balanced budget amendment will have on their state budgets!

Then too, one must realize that the sound and fury attending the rhetoric in the august chambers of our Congress are but means whereby re-election is the goal of any elected official.

Tell me: Who, of sound mind, does not desire a balanced federal budget? Beware, beware of an elected official's siren song!

Computers aren't always better

Tim Richard

I thought I had it bad until I listened to Friend of the Court staffers tell their woes about handling child-support payment.

My problem is vexing, but it won't make me go hungry. It's the computers in the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation (WOLF). They are very slow and very inaccurate.

I wrote about those miserable computers a few years ago. I pointed out that where you used to see one or two people standing using the old-fashioned card catalog to look up books, you now see a dozen people sitting at computer terminals for 20 minutes at a crack.

No longer can you flip through a drawer of the card catalog like a deck of cards and glance quickly when one interests you. Instead, you have to (a) type in a key word, (b) scroll down, (c) stop at what you think is the correct entry, (d) call up the entry, (e) read it, (f) exit the entry and (g) print out the information.

It's user-hostile, and I said so in print. I implored the WOLF pack not to extend the computer system. In reply, I got a dumb letter from Alpha WOLF, the director, telling me how great computers were for librarians.

The dummy totally missed the point. What about the library patron???

Against my reasoned advice, WOLF expanded the use of computers. Recently I had to hunt for a classic play, The Importance of Being Earnest by Oscar Wilde, for my Great Books group. The computer indicated no copy in my local library, but there was a copy at "ORIN," their abbreviation for Ortonville. Nuts, I thought, that's 35 miles away.

Distrusting the computer, I walked over to the 822 section of the bookshelves, and guess what. Not just one or two copies of The Importance of Being Earnest but 131 Right, a dozen plus one.

During National Library Week, April 17-23, I renew my plea that WOLF scrap its idiotic computers and go forward to the card catalog, and I add the testimony of Ellen Abbott, who does Friend of the Court (FOC) in rural Osceola and Mecosta counties.

FOC works on divorce cases. It accepts child-support payments from (usually) dads and writes checks to custodial moms so the kids can eat. Michigan is installing a new computer system in FOC offices, starting in smaller counties.

"My own office is behind because of the new computer system. The state-mandated computer system is a nightmare," Abbott said, calling it's "not user friendly" and complaining that state experts "won't listen to the product users."

Gosh, that's exactly what I said about WOLF's computer.

"My office has taken a giant step backwards in enforcement," Abbott told a state Senate panel headed by Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville. "Now I'm lucky to issue checks once a week. I used to have a payment history. Now I have a financial history (from the computer), which even I can't understand."

Abbott warned that in May larger counties will start having the state computer system inflicted on them.

Sounds like state bureaucrats don't pay any more attention to the users than the head of the WOLF pack does.

Awareness key to drug resistance

Charles Stilec

Recently, all eighth, 10th and 12th graders in the Northville Public Schools completed the Alcohol and Other Drugs Survey through Western Michigan University and the University of Michigan.

The results will be given to the public in the near future and I have a serious concern that rates of drug use and abuse by our youth have increased over what were higher than national averages back in 1992, the last year our students took the survey.

According to the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence, this is the picture at present:

- 87 percent of high school seniors have used alcohol, 63 percent have smoked cigarettes, 32 percent have used marijuana and only 6 percent have used cocaine.
- Approximately two of three teens who drink report that they can buy their own alcoholic beverages.
- Use of alcohol and other drugs is associated with the leading causes of death and injury (i.e. motor vehicle crashes, homicides and suicides) among teen-agers and young adults.
- Alcohol and other drug use at an early age is an indicator of future drug or alcohol problems.

- The first use of alcohol typically begins around age 13.
- Junior/middle and senior high school students drink 35 percent of all wine coolers sold in the U.S.
- Approximately 7 percent of the nation's eighth graders, 18 percent of 10th graders and 30 percent of 12th graders report they have been drunk during the last month.
- Among teen-agers who "binge" drink (consuming five or more drinks in a row on a single occasion), 39 percent say they drink alone; 58 percent drink when they are upset; 30 percent drink when they are bored; and 37 percent drink to feel high.
- Though male high school seniors "binge" drink in greater numbers than females, the differences have been diminishing gradually during the last decade.
- 41 percent of college students have "binged" on alcohol during the past two weeks.

Recently, there has been more and more information on the relationship between nicotine and addiction. The Food and Drug Administration is presently looking into whether cigarettes need to be regulated as an addictive drug.

There are studies coming forward to show that nicotine is addictive and indications are that the nation's largest tobacco producer, Philip Morris Co., has had relevant information since 1983 about the important role nicotine plays in preventing smokers from quitting.

Being in the additions field for many years, I know the relationships between gateway drugs such as cigarettes, alcohol and addiction. Working closely with middle and senior high students I see the "at risk" elements of our youth and their sometimes choosing to get high whether with a cigarette or a beer as a way to cope with the stressors in their lives.

My problem is your problem. These addictive drugs are readily available and if they choose to use, that use remains generally unchecked. We as parents, and concerned community members, have to stop enabling this use.

The key is education, awareness and an attitude change. Northville is offering, through the Northville Youth Forum, a free program as follows through Maple Grove Community Education:

Wednesday, April 20; 7:30 to 9 p.m.; "Impact on the Family."

Wednesday, April 27; 7:30 to 9 p.m.; "Alcohol, Drugs and Teens."

This series will be held at the Northville High School Forum. Child care will be available. For further information, contact Barb Flis at 349-5477 or myself at 344-1825.

We owe it to ourselves, to our students and the safety of our community to be educated and prepared to take action. Believe me, this drug thing is not going away. If you care, come.

Charles Stilec is the student assistance coordinator at Northville High School and a prevention specialist with the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, an agency funded, in part, by SEMSAS.

Trans Am featured at Novi auto museum

A special exhibition of "The Lightweight," the Trans Am car with the "unfair advantage" featured in the April issue of Car and Driver, is at the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame in Novi through May.

According to the current owner, George Mongon of Cincinnati, it was fabricated by Ron Fournier, of Troy, for the 24-hour Daytona race in February 1968.

The famous "Deepwater Blue" Camaro, campaigned by Mark Donohue and Roger Penske in 1968, legend has it, was dipped in acid to lighten it by almost 400 pounds. So much metal, and thus structural strength, was removed that a NASCAR style roll cage was installed to serve as a chassis. The roll cage was thought to be the first introduced to SCCA car racing. The car also appeared with a vinyl roof to hide the thin roof metal, though it was reported that Penske explained to race officials that GM wanted the car to appear in vinyl to promote vinyl roof options.

After the car was banned from American race tracks in 1969, it was sent to Germany where it won 18 of the first 20 races it entered.

It was then sold to a British team and entered in Group 2 Series in England in 1970 and 1972, which it won handily. The Wiggins Teape-sponsored car was so popular that it led to Wiggins sponsoring the entire Group 2 Series in 1971. That was the first time in England that car racing attendance exceeded motorcycle racing attendance. The car is very popular in England and some consider it to be a national treasure.

Another amazing car on display for a limited time is the Oldsmobile Aerotech which broke 47 records in one outing, during which it ran 24 hours a day for more than 8 days at speeds up to 181.988 miles per hour.

More than 60 very special examples of Motorsports machinery, sports cars, Indy cars, NASCARs, race trucks, dragsters, motorcycles, snowmobiles, even a 150 mph championship go kart are on display. New vehicles arrive monthly, so the exhibit is always fresh.

In addition to race vehicles, the Museum also houses the Motorsports Hall of Fame which currently enshrines 47 Heroes of Horsepower with 10 more to be inducted at the Annual Induction Dinner and Ceremony held in Detroit kicking off Grand Prix week.

Council pores over 1994/95 budget

since it is well below the city's millage cap of 15.41, a Truth in Taxation hearing is required since the levy would raise more money than this year's rate.

The public hearing will be held Monday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

City Manager Gary Word noted that next year's budget is a balanced one in two respects. Aside from being balanced for the year, the budget also will mark the city's first full year without a deficit since 1991, when the state's withholding of racetrack revenue helped plunge the city into debt.

Following that, Word noted, the city embarked on "a very ambitious program to eliminate a deficit of well over a million dollars, actually closer to a million and a half, in two and a half years."

Police, clerical and DPW workers were laid off, across-the-board budget cuts were implemented, capital improvements were deferred and a 4.2-mill increase was passed to whittle the deficit down.

Word noted that the city's total $4 million budget has been held within an $80,000 range for the past three years. "I think that's a good testament to good fiscal management by your finance department and all the departments in the city," he said.

Controller Nickie Bateson listed some of the improvements the city was able to include in this year's budget, and some that had to be left off. Among those included were a $13,000 upgrade in retiree benefits, implementation of an Employee Assistance Program at an annual cost of around $2,000, fund transfers for a series of road improvements, the re-staffing of one DPW position and equipment purchases.

Road improvements include the city's share of replacing the Old Novi Street bridge, a new traffic light at Eight Mile and Randolph and repaving projects on Eight Mile, Seven Mile and Edward Hines Drive.

The new equipment includes a $13,000 mower/tractor to replace one that's 46 years old. "I told (DPW Supervisor) Ted Mapes to try to get 50 years out of it, but he said he couldn't," Bateson joked.

Among the items not included were a $36,000 replacement of city hall's antiquated telephone system, a $107,000 upgrade of computer hardware and software that includes staff retraining, Sherri Lane street repairs and paving projects on Rural Hill Drive and East Cady between South Main and Griswold.

"We cannot do everything," Bateson noted.

This year's proposed budget also sets aside almost $12,000 to start building up a positive general fund balance, a move that's long been recommended by the city's auditors at Plante & Moran.

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers, filling in Monday night for Mayor Chris Johnson, added that she would prefer some sort of reduction in this year's operating millage rate since it was raised 4.2 mills to pay off the deficit.

"I think we have promised the electorate some kind of reduction because we're out of our deficit situation," she said.

The council will examine the budget on a department-by-department basis in a series of special 7:30 p.m. meetings scheduled for April 11, 19, 21 and 25. The meetings are open to the public.

Look north, not south, if we merge, chief says

The possibility of consolidating the five Northville, Plymouth and Canton police departments was first raised in December, 1992, when the elected leaders of all five communities met to discuss the possibility of combining governmental services.

Police services were the first area explored, and a $12,000 study by two police consultants found that combining the departments' dispatch, record-keeping and lock-up services at a Canton location was feasible.

But the study also mentioned that Novi previously had offered to provide the city of Northville with dispatch and lock-up services for around $25,000 per year.

Novi already provides police and fire dispatching services for South Lyon and Wixom, and fire dispatching alone for Lyon Township.

Northville Mayor Chris Johnson and Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers have stated their support for combined dispatch with some or all of the five communities to the south. But council members Charles Keys and Paul Follino have sounded more cautionary notes, citing the potential cost increases and service reductions associated with a Canton-based dispatch and lock-up center.

One concern is the amount of time that a city police officer would be out of commission while transporting a prisoner to Canton.

Follino noted at a March 21 council meeting, and again April 4, that he had talked informally with Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall about the previously-raised possibility of contracting with Novi for the services.

"The contracting relationship of ten breaks down because one of the contracting parties does not feel that sense of ownership," he said April 4.

Johnson also called the possibility of contracting with Novi "slightly premature," noting that the city is still involved in discussions with the four other western Wayne communities, and with Northville Township on the possibility of a complete city/township merger.

"It kind of sends out conflicting messages" to approach Novi, Johnson said.

Johnson's view was not shared by Keys, who suggested approaching Novi for figures. "Let's find out, what do they have to offer," he said.

When Council Member Mark Cryderman said he thought such a move would be "destructive" to the consolidation talks already under way, Johnson noted the "slim consensus" not to approach Novi.

SOT team apprehends an accused rapist

Wilke is charged with breaking into the woman's parent's home and raping her at knifepoint. He was ordered to stand trial after an April 6 preliminary exam in 20th District Court but was allowed to go free on $50,000 bond.

He abducted the woman from her parent's home on Wednesday evening, reports said. He then checked into the Ramada at about 7:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The hotel employee saw news reports about the woman's disappearance that afternoon and called police. At that point, Sherman said, SOT was asked to step in.

SOT is a joint effort by the township of Canton, Plymouth, Van Buren and Northville and the cities of Plymouth and Wayne.

The 16-member team, three of whom are Northville Township officers, arrived on the scene at about 7:30 p.m. By 9:35, Sherman said, they were preparing to enter the room when something unexpected happened.

"All of sudden, he came out," Sherman said. "We don't know why."

The woman was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. Wilke was taken to Canton Township police headquarters.

Planning can prevent tragedy from house fires

With proper planning, children have a much better chance of surviving tragic home fires, AAA Michigan advises.

Last November, four children and an adult died in three separate house fires in the Detroit area. And in Bay City, three children were killed in a fire. Reports of these tragedies include a lack of smoke detectors, security bars blocking exits or children playing with matches.

The list continues to grow: Recently, four children and an adult lost their lives in a fire in Grand Rapids.

According to AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager Jerry Basch and other fire safety experts, by following a few simple guidelines, families can develop an emergency life saving plan and prevent critical fire situations.

"For a few dollars and a little family planning time, a family can prepare for fire emergencies," reports Basch. "Smoke detectors and home fire safety drills are keys for a quick home emergency exit. Family members may only have three minutes to get out safely before being overcome by smoke and gases."

According to the Department of State Police, Fire Marshall Division, a total of 52,709 fires were reported in Michigan during 1992. More than 200 people died as a result of these fires and 800 were injured. Property losses for the year totaled $381 million.

Although the number of fires in Michigan has been steadily decreasing since 1988 (from 72,958 in 1988 to 52,709 in 1992), the number of lives lost has not. In 1992, say state officials, 218 civilian deaths were reported, only two fewer than in 1988 and eight more than the preceding year.

The irony of the fire safety issue in Michigan is that the one age group most affected by fire — children — is least able to prevent it from happening.

Last year, 90 children under 10 died in Michigan fires, more than any other age group. The young continue to make up the largest portion of both injuries and deaths in 1992, accounting for 41 percent of all civilian fire deaths and 22 percent of injuries.

Since 1986, AAA Michigan has conducted fire safety programs targeted at young people. This year, the Auto Club will conduct about 250 fire safety programs reaching an expected 70,000 kindergarten through sixth-grade students statewide.

SCHANNE'S LEGACY

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

It's not an easy task planning for Homeless Hospitality Week.

Just ask the 300 to 500 volunteers who help plan meals, arrange special programs and provide for the safety and welfare of up to 100 guests during the annual week-long event started five years ago by LeeAnn Schanne. Schanne, who was in her mid-30s, died in her sleep several months after the first Homeless Hospitality Week took place.

But if those basic programs weren't enough, this year's event will offer even more to the homeless visitors staying at the First United Methodist Church of Northville.

"We're trying to do what we can to do some crisis intervention and end the cycle of homelessness," said Pat Green, who is in charge of this week's event.

Professional social workers and psychologists, representatives of Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous, and literacy, parenting and job skills programs have been added to this year's program.

"We realize we can't make a monumental difference in a person's life in a week, but if we can steer them in the right direction . . .," Green said. "If a person has a problem that hasn't been identified, we can identify it and steer them in the right direction."

Green is the director of human resources for the Roosevelt Center, a 300-bed homeless shelter. Through work with local companies, the shelter has found employment for 150 people, Green said.

"Through the shelter we really try to make a positive impact in people's lives," she said. "It's really exciting."

Green was a natural to head up this week's Homeless Hospitality program, what with her full-time job at the shelter and her experience working the Cass Corridor in downtown Detroit. For two years, she aided the homeless on the streets.

"God has this in store for my life," she said. "I feel like I'm making a difference in someone's life. Some days you can't count the positives you've made, but if you count them at the end of the month or the year, (you) see that you've helped even a few people regain their self-confidence, their self-independence, and bring them back to God. Plus, I enjoy it."

In the four years the church has hosted the Homeless Hospitality Week, Dale Wolke has been in charge of the transportation schedules. That involved taking the guests from the church back to Detroit in the morning so they could get to or look for work, search for shelter, etc. and bringing them back to the church for dinner and an overnight stay.

This year, though, Wolke has accepted the job of finding life skills and counseling programs.

"It was time to move on and do something else," Wolke said.

His new job has required a lot of phone work, but the effort has been worth it. Professional counselors, social workers and psychologists will be on hand just about every night to help those who need it.

Stephen Ministers, counselors with the church, also will be able to help those spiritually in need.

In addition, Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous representatives will hold regular meetings with speakers and the Wayne County Reading Council will present a reading skills workshop.

Doug Little is also heading up a resume and job skills workshop, said Wolke.

Wolke enlisted the aid of local residents such as Dave Laycock, a motivational speaker; Charlie Silec, Student Assistance Coordinator for Northville schools; Cheryl Jones, a social worker; Elsie Barnes, counselor; Carol Haveranek, psychologist; and Stephen Ministers Nancy Shurman and Marilyn Meyer to help make the program a success.

Wolke's wife Julie is also involved, helping wherever she's needed whether it's mending someone's clothing or preparing food for one of the meals.

"I get a lot out of it," Dale Wolke said. "It makes me feel good about myself. I get inspiration from these people."

"They're very spiritual people, homeless people . . . they're very real people. We've become friends with these people. We always have a very good time."

Dave Law shares the same sentiments. In charge of organizing all of the evening activities, Law said there are a lot of misconceptions about homeless people. They're very upbeat, despite the stressful situations they have been placed in, he said.

"We all have so much more in common than we think," he said. "All that separates us with homeless people is a stroke of luck or the hand of fate," Law said. "They give us much more back than we give them."

"That could be us in those shoes someday," Lois Gibbons, who helps prepare the dinners all week long, said. "There's a great misunderstanding about the homeless.

"You don't have to be poor. You don't have to be of a particular race to have an unfortunate situation happen to you."

Gibbons used her brother as an example. A few years ago he became ill and if it hadn't been for friends and family, he very well, too, could have ended up on the streets, she said.

While Law used to take the entire week off work to help out with Homeless Hospitality Week, he now finds himself spending a couple hours at the church each night due to other personal commitments. It doesn't mean his job is any less important, however.

This year's entertainment schedule promises to deliver uplifting music and messages each night. On Wednesday, the church's youth group performed its musical, Decide! Although the youths have taken their annual musical on the road to other churches in past years, this was the first year they performed for the homeless.

"I think it's a real nice opportunity for them," Wolke said.

On Thursday, the guests will be treated to the talents of the Northville High School Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Mike Rumbell.

A perennial favorite, "Cass" Dufrin will return with her guitar to perform folk, rock, jazz and rhythm and blues with her soulful voice.

Other activities held throughout the week included T-shirt painting—a real hit with all the guests, men included—basketball at Cooke Middle School, haircuts from local stylists, volunteers mending clothes, and a Saturday morning tour of Maybury Park. Television and movies also will be played for those wanting to catch up on their rest.

"We like to start out low-key and end low-key," said Law, who credited Craig Krueberg for helping organize the programs.

Bible study groups will also meet during the week.

"Personally, I think this is unbelievable," Law said of the event. "It helps you put perspective on things. This is not a long-term solution to the problem. It's an underlying problem that's terribly complex. It's really important that politicians, leaders . . . understand that."

The day starts early for those on the breakfast shift this week. Breakfast is served between 6:30 and 7 a.m. so the guests can get back to the city in time for work or to job hunt. Guests are given a lunch and snacks to take with them to the city.

Dinner is served between 6 and 6:30 p.m.

"Most of the food is made by members of the congregation and is donated," Gibbons said. "Also, outside merchants do donate things."

Gibbons said she and her crew usually start making the dinners in the early afternoon or late morning. By the time dinner is served, the plates are cleared and the food put away. It's usually about 10 p.m.

Food is prepared for about 100 people; however, Gibbons said she is expecting about 80 guests.

"It is so rewarding," said Gibbons, who has been helping out since the program's inception. "That's what it is all about, being here to help other people."

Marge Bolton

Charity group set to celebrate 100th year

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Do-gooders are necessary to a community, but sometimes they and the recipients of their actions are the only ones who are aware of what's going on.

Take, for example, the Northville King's Daughters, of which Marge Bolton, a member of 32 years, is past president and current treasurer.

"We used to be known as 'the welfare group' in Northville," she said. "We gave out food baskets, clothing, loads of coal, and we paid utility bills."

And they did it with money they raised through bake sales, bazaars, chicken-pie dinners and dues. Bolton said they got tips on the needy from churches, the Salvation Army, and the Goodfellows.

Then in 1963 Civic Concern was organized and King's Daughters broke away from the active scene, but started contributing a monthly sum of money to the new organization.

In addition, they now donate funds and/or craft items they make to Mott Children's Hospital, Angela Hospice Home Care, Salvation Army and First Step.

And there's more. As part of a world-wide organization—the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons—which is concerned with promoting health careers and student ministry—the Northville King's Daughters pays dues to the state, national and international offices.

How? Bolton said that instead of raising money, they invested the money two members willed to them, spending only the interest.

Recently, however, they have had to dip into the principal, but if they can attract new members with fresh ideas on how to support their projects and maybe add more, Bolton hopes they can sail into 1995, their 100th year here, with enthusiasm.

You may call Marge Bolton at 349-3518 for more information or to tell her you'd like to come to a meeting, held on the first Tuesday, September through June, at 1 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

"Eggs over easy, hash browns and you," are the lyrics to one of Karen Thompson's favorite songs. The tune, called Angelos, is played every Sunday during "Over Easy," a Sunday morning program featuring mellow rock classics on WCSX 94.7 FM.

It was only natural that Patrick Calhoun chose to pop the question to Thompson before the song was played during the Feb. 27 program. He enlisted the aid of disc jockey Carrie Carlson to help him deliver the proposal.

"The DJ asked if she (Karen) was sitting down, which fortunately, she was," Calhoun said. "Then she read her name and she said, 'Oh, no that can't be for me.' Then they read my name. She was stunned, but she said yes."

Both graduates of Northville High School, Calhoun and Thompson amazingly had never met, although Thompson knew Calhoun's brother, sister and father.

"I had never met her until I interviewed her for a management position at my store," said Calhoun, who manages the Wooden Bird Art Gallery in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Although Calhoun tried, he couldn't pay Thompson the salary she requested. Grateful for his efforts, Thompson asked if she could show her appreciation by taking Calhoun to lunch.

Calhoun said he couldn't make lunch, but suggested the two go for a drink that night after work.

"I thought she was kind of neat and I think she thought the same about me so I conveniently turned lunch into dinner and drinks," Calhoun said. "It was much less businesslike that way."

The couple's engagement is in today's B-section.

Megan Gilshire, a fifth grader at Silver Springs Elementary, was a second place winner in the state finals of the Michigan McDonald's "When I Grow Up" speech contest on Saturday, March 26, in Lansing.

Megan, who hopes to become a historical fiction writer, was awarded a $200 U.S. Savings Bond for her second place finish. She qualified as a semi-finalist in the regional round of competition held in Novi in mid-March.

Also competing in the state finals was Rebecca Frimenko, an Amerman Elementary fourth grader. Rebecca, who hopes to become a doctor, also qualified for the state competition by finishing as a semi-finalist in the regional round held in Nov.

Delightful tale of 'Thumbelina' now in theaters

Thumbelina, the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale about the adventures of a tiny girl "no bigger than a thumb" is now a full-length animated feature film.

Produced and directed by Don Bluth and Gary Goldman, "Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina" chronicles the adventures of Thumbelina who believes that if she follows her heart, true love will come to her at last.

Her search for a place in the great wide world that is suited to a minuscule girl takes her through a series of funny, hair-raising and ultimately romantic adventures as Thumbelina learns to stand up for herself and believe in her own dreams.

The cast features Jodi Benson as the voice of Thumbelina. Benson has become familiar to millions as the vocal embodiment of Ariel, the beautiful mermaid in Disney's animated film, "The Little Mermaid."

Also featured in the animated classic are Carol Channing as the voice of Miss Fieldmouse, Charo as the voice of Mrs. Toad and acclaimed British actor John Hurt as Mr. Mole. "Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina" is written, directed and produced by Don Bluth, one of the leaders in the resurgence of classically animated theatrical films. Since establishing his own animation studio in 1979, Bluth has directed and produced six theatrical films, beginning with "The Secret of N.I.M.H." in 1982 and continuing with "An American Tail," "The Land Before Time," "All Dogs Go To Heaven" and "Rock-A-Diddle."

In the enchanting Hans Christian Andersen story, Thumbelina is a tiny girl, born from the center of a flower to a lonely, full-sized woman who had always wanted a daughter. The woman goes to see a good witch who gives her a magical barleycorn. She waters it, it grows and flowers, and when it opens it reveals a tiny girl.

Thumbelina, though she loves her mother dearly, longs to meet someone her own size to share her life with.

One night, as Thumbelina is singing to herself of her dreams, Prince Cornelius, an enchanted fairy as tiny as herself, hears her sweet voice and is drawn to it. They meet and are immediately drawn to one another. He promises to return to spend more time with her in the morning, and Thumbelina falls asleep happily imagining her future.

To her astonishment, however, Thumbelina awakens the next day in the middle of a pond. It seems that the glamorous and flamboyant Mrs. Delores Toad (Charo) has also heard Thumbelina's voice and abducted her. Mrs. Toad demands that Thumbelina join her and her three sons in the family's world-famous musical group, the Singers de Espana.

At first, Thumbelina is tempted by the promise of fame and fortune, but when she is approached with an offer of marriage by one of Mrs. Toad's sons, she is horrified and refuses.

The ambitious Mrs. Toad, however, insists that the tiny girl become a toad's wife.

Fortunately, Jacquimo, a passing swallow, hears Thumbelina's cries for help and comes to her aid. He helps Thumbelina escape, urging her to follow her heart and search for her prince.

Thumbelina and Prince Cornelius find true happiness in Warner Bros.' "Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina"

She next encounters the smooth-talking Berkeley Beetle who invites Thumbelina to accompany him to the Beetle Ball. After narrowly escaping the bug's advances, Thumbelina is on her own again.

Meanwhile, Prince Cornelius is determinedly searching for the lovely girl he met and then lost. But winter arrives and he crashes into the woods after a frightful ice storm causes his gossamer wings to fall.

Thumbelina has taken refuge in a shoe to escape the storm. She is saved from freezing by Miss Field-mouse (Carol Channing), only to be offered once again in marriage, this time to Mr. Mole (John Hurt), a crusty, wealthy old bachelor.

Thumbelina recalls Jacquimo's advice to follow her heart, and she finally realizes that, even if she never sees Prince Cornelius again, it is he whom she loves. She flees Mr. Mole, fighting off her pursuers, including Grundle and Berkeley Beetle. Then, miraculously, Prince Cornelius reappears and defends his true love, and Thumbelina and Prince Cornelius are blissfully reunited and eventually

wed. Bluth said there are all kinds of reasons for making a story into an animated movie. "Usually it's a message that connects with children that inspires me," he said. "In the case of Thumbelina, it's the story of a small girl who struggles to fit into a world too big for her until she finds a place that's just the right size."

"Children face the challenge of growing up into adult size and responsibilities just as they are learning to fit into their own child-sized world, with the special quality that it has and which remains in our memories forever."

Bluth said Thumbelina worries about being able to take care of herself, and learns that she can be strong if she learns to follow her heart. "In some ways, this is the lesson all children learn about growing up, accepting challenges and listening to their consciences," he explained.

"But in this story, the core message is wrapped up in a beautiful fantasy that takes children into a world of oversized objects, talking animals and magical fairies."

Animaniacs debut on big screen

The wackiest, wildest most off-the-wall animated characters ever created — Yakko, Wakko and Dot Warner — will make their debut leap onto the silver screen when they appear in their first theatrical short, "I'm Mad."

The film runs in tandem with "Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina," the newest family entertainment feature from Warner Bros.

Yakko, Wakko and Dot Warner are better known to TV animation fans as the Animaniacs, the stars of "Steven Spielberg Presents Animaniacs" which appears weekdays on Fox Children's Network.

"I'm Mad," a four minute/50 second animated short, is the first work featuring the Animaniacs to be created for and shown on the motion picture screen.

Using the beloved characters' trademark style of physical comedy, non-stop word play and rousing music, "I'm Mad" explores the time-honored trauma experienced by nearly every family with more than one child — the back-seat bickering that inevitably accompanies trips in the car.

Since their television premiere on Sept. 13, 1993, the Animaniacs have drawn millions of fans with their combination of sly humor, classic animation and full, original musical scores for every episode.

"What makes Animaniacs so unique is its irreverent brand of humor, slapstick and parodies combined with its rich blend of original music — from ballads to Broadway-style show tunes to rock 'n' roll to rap," said Tom Ruegger, senior producer of the series and the new animated short.

According to Animaniacs legend, Yakko, Wakko and Dot Warner were created in the 1930s by an unnamed animator who "crossed over the edge."

Deeming the celluloid trio too zany to loose on an unsuspecting public, studio executives confined them to the famed Warner Bros. Water Tower for 50 years, where they remained the studio's number one secret. Until now.

Yakko Warner, voiced by Rob Paulsen, is the oldest Warner sibling — a fast-talking master of verbal warfare.

Wakko Warner, voiced by Jess Harnell, is the cartoon equivalent of an atomic bomb — whatever he pushes or pulls starts a chain reaction of unintentional chaos.

And little Dot Warner, voiced by Tress Mac-Neille, can do anything her brothers can, but often takes refuge in her status as the littlest and the only girl.

Together these three central characters are the source of non-stop action and hilarity on every episode of the series and in their own new animated short.

Both Ruegger and writer Randy Rogel worked on the story idea for "I'm Mad" which centers around the bickering and bawling — with a musical beat — that the little Warners indulge in when their grownup friend, Dr. Scratchansniff (also voiced by Rob Paulsen) takes them on a car trip. Rogel's script incorporates his song, "I'm Mad," a counterpoint of complaining by all three Animaniacs as they fuss and fight in the back seat.

"The afternoon time slot for our TV show means that it's primarily viewed by kids," said Rogel. "We thought that, like so many other Warner Bros. cartoons, this show might have a wider audience."

"By screening it with 'Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina,'" he continued, "we'll give parents a chance to enjoy the Animaniacs with their children just the way they still get a kick out of Bugs Bunny or Daffy Duck."

Yakko, Wakko and Dot Warner, also known as the Animaniacs, make their motion picture debut in a musical short about the distractions, frustrations and joys of going on a car trip. The film runs with "Hans Christian Andersen's Thumbelina."

'Jimmy Hollywood:' More than just a comedy

JIMMY HOLLYWOOD
By Deborah Hunt
Plymouth

Barry Levinson's film is not so much a portrait of a guy trying to be an actor, but an often funny and hilarious contemplation of the lengths someone will go to to make it in Hollywood.

Joe Pesci's "Jimmy Alto" gives us a glimpse inside a person who really gets mad when someone steals his car stereo. When he finds police won't do anything about it, he takes matters into his own hands, exposing the gritty, crime-ridden streets of Hollywood through video and creating for himself the role of a life time.

Pesci's sidekick is "William," a dim-witted Hollywood street kid played by Christian Slater, who does the videotaping. Slater signs a note "S.O.S." to a video tape and a thief they leave on the steps of a police station, and he inadvertently creates the notion that this is the work of vigilantes.

Police start looking for Pesci's gang. Suddenly, Pesci finds himself a folk hero and is splashed on every TV newscast as his character "Jericho," the vigilante leader.

Although the film explores the comedic aspects of these two characters' escapades, it also explores their friendship and comments on the streets of Hollywood, making it more than just a comedy.

LIGHTNING JACK
By Heather Wadowski
Northville

In Paul Hogan's latest movie, "Lightning Jack," Hogan plays a criminal who's not wanted . . . and desperately wants to be.

His mute partner, Cuba Gooding Jr., is the only character who gets the laughs through this movie, which isn't much at all.

If you want a good comedy, see "Ace Ventura: Pet Detective," not this. I was bored out of my mind.

But don't get me wrong. If you like a good western movie, see this. But if you don't like westerns, do not see this.

Trust me, "Schindler's List" is more of a comedy than "Lightning Jack."

As for the acting in this movie, Cuba Gooding Jr. gives a winning performance, and so does Paul Hogan. But for a comedy, this movie doesn't cut it.

Newman to guide Mustang baseballers

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If experience counts for anything, and it usually does, Northville High will go a long way this baseball season.

The Mustangs will feature nearly a dozen seniors on its varsity roster this year. According to first year coach Mickey Newman, that experience should translate into an exciting offensive team.

"I think we'll be able to hit the ball," he said. "(But) I'm a little worried if we can throw strikes."

Newman takes over for Tim Cain, who led Northville to a 19-9 record and a trip to district finals. The 28-year-old Northville High graduate has previously coached baseball, football and basketball.

"I've always wanted to be a varsity coach," said Newman. "It's a good opportunity for me."

"I've got a soft spot for Northville," he said. "The coach will carry 18 players in his first campaign. A total of 11 seniors and juniors help make up the roster."

A pair of seniors will anchor the pitching staff.

John Buser will be the top starter. A 6-foot-6 right hander, he throws hard and is working on a curveball. "I'll pitch him against our division rivals," said Newman. "I have a lot of confidence in John."

Jason Mavel will rely on breaking balls to get batters out. Newman said he'll throw Mavel against good fast-ball hitting teams.

Rounding out the starting rotation is junior Dave McCulloch.

"Dave's got good stuff," said Newman. "He's a smart kid and a real battler."

A hard thrower, the coach is looking at McCulloch as being Northville's ace by next season.

"We'll get him a lot of innings," said Newman. "He'll be that much better next year."

If the Mustangs need help out of the bullpen, a trio of right handers should do a solid job.

Senior Jeff Luterek will be used in long relief. Steve George, also a senior, will also work the middle innings.

The all-important stopper's role falls in the hands of senior Chuck Apligan. Newman says he can do it all.

"He throws hard and has good off-speed stuff," he commented. When Apligan isn't pitching, he'll form the other half of the battery. Also catching will be junior Chuck Yessalan.

"He can hit the ball," said Newman. "He swings from the shoe tops."

Captain Fred Swarthout returns to first base. A three-year starter, the senior has good hands at first and a good eye at the plate.

Northville will likely platoon at second base. Trevor Surdu and Jason Wenzel will both see action.

Luterek, the Mustangs' other captain, will start at shortstop. Jason Rice gets the nod at third base, but could back up at catcher as well.

The only set outfield position belongs to Dean Frellick. He'll play rightfield.

"He's naturally one of our better outfielders," said Newman. "He has a good arm."

Four others will split time in center and left fields.

McCulloch is a tough centerfielder and junior Jason Edwards has a good glove. Mike Husak and Curt Katsner will get plenty of work, too.

One of Northville's fastest players is senior Nate Kirmis. He'll work in the outfield and pinch run.

Nick Baughman will spell Swarthout at first base and bat as the designated hitter. Third baseman Mark Fantion rounds out the roster.

"I've got a lot of interchangeable parts," said Newman. "I have three guys that are strictly pitchers and 15 others to maneuver with."

In terms of the league race, the balance of power lies in the Lakes Division. Salem, Westland John Glenn and Walled Lake Central are powers.

The Western Division is wide open. Northville, Livonia Franklin and Walled Lake Western probably have the best shot at winning, Newman said.

"Our goal is to win the division," he said. "I think anybody, with a string of games, can take the division."

Grace Gilmore will run in her first Boston Marathon Monday.

Boston Marathon to feature several Northville runners

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Victor Barkoski began running to drop a few pounds and get in shape.

Now, 17 years later, the Northville resident is still going strong. And, come Monday, the 45-year-old will run his eighth Boston Marathon—the granddaddy of them all.

"If you haven't done your homework now," Barkoski said of the race, "forget it."

Barkoski is one of several area runners that will challenge the historic 26-mile New England course. About 8,000 athletes are expected for the marathon, which is a lot more than just a race in Boston.

"The crowd treats everybody like a celebrity," said Novi resident Hub Copp. "They line-up five and six deep along the entire course."

A 44-year-old, 15-year runner, Barkoski will run for a sixth time at Boston. Not so for Northville's Grace Gilmore.

Although she's an experienced marathoner, it's her first time in the big one. Gilmore said a variety of reasons keeps her training and running 50 miles a week to compete in the races.

"There are so many highs and lows in a race," she said. "It's a very emotional thing to just do it. You're doing something most people can't do."

"It's a wonderful experience to run a marathon."

Barkoski feels the same way.

Since he started running in the late '70s he's done two dozen marathons. Barkoski did "very minimal running" at first but increased his mileage rapidly.

It was just a year after he started that he ran his first 26-mile race. One reason he's stuck with it for so long is its social aspects.

Barkoski climbs out of bed bright and early every weekend and heads to Belle Isle to run with friends.

"The people got me caught up in running," he said. "It's a social thing."

Barkoski generally runs one marathon in the spring and the fall. Monday will mark the fourth time in five years he's run in Boston.

"I've been fortunate," he said, "I haven't had too many injuries."

Even though it's one of the tougher courses, Barkoski said he thinks he can run at a pace of about seven minutes. The master's division runner has been putting in 50 to 55 miles of roadwork a week for the past three months to hit that goal.

"It's the type of thing you wouldn't commit unless you enjoy it," Barkoski explained.

Copp is one guy who enjoys his running. Unlike most athletes, he doesn't mind getting a little older.

"I'm looking forward to turning 45," he said with a laugh. "I get another five minutes to qualify."

Boston is the only marathon runners have to qualify for. As part of the 40 to 44-year-old bracket, Copp had to run three hours and 20 minutes or under. He did that last Labor Day with five minutes to spare, in fact.

"Runners are the only people that look forward to getting older," Copp joked.

A former college athlete, he began running to stay in shape for basketball. Something funny happened along the way, though. Copp's inter-

South Lyon pounds softballers 16-7 in season opener

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Classic softball it wasn't.

Northville High opened its season Monday with a sloppy 16-7 non-conference loss to South Lyon. The Mustangs made just about every type of miscue possible in the frigid road game—throwing, catching, base running and a plethora of mental errors.

Coach Frank Friemund didn't put any window-dressings on the defeat. He said his team just played "bad" softball.

About the only bright spot for Northville was its hitting. The Mustangs smacked nine hits as Sarah Kemp and Andrea Moretti had two apiece.

Coach Frank Friemund didn't put any window-dressings on the defeat. He said his team just played "bad" softball.

South Lyon collected seven hits. Heather Perry, Yvonne Blyskal and Sue Harmala each had runs batted in for the winners.

Harmala went the distance on the mound for the Lions. After two shaky first innings in which she allowed five runs, the South Lyon hurler held the Mustangs to just two more scores. Harmala struck out four and walked five.

Northville jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Kemp led off with a bunt single, stole second and scored on a wild throw by South Lyon catcher Blyskal into centerfield. Melissa Petrovsky followed with a single, stole second, was wild pitched to third and scored on a single by Moretti. Moretti later scored on a South Lyon error to make it 3-0.

The Lions countered with two in their half of the first. Perry reached on an error, moved to third on a wild pitch and passed ball. Leslie Rosenthal then walked and stole second to put two runners in scoring position. A passed ball and error got both home to make it 3-2.

The teams traded a pair of runs in the second inning to make it 5-4 Northville going into the third.

The Mustangs went quietly in the top half of the inning. South Lyon tied it as Dawn Hamilton scored on a wild pitch.

Northville grabbed its final lead of the ballgame in the fourth. Jenny Sheehan was hit by a pitch, stole second and moved to third on a passed ball. It appeared South Lyon then had her picked off third, but the sophomore raced home under the tag to make it 6-5 Mustangs.

The floodgate opened for the Lions in the bottom of the frame. South Lyon scored seven times on four hits and a slew of Northville errors.

The Mustangs managed one final run off Harmala in the sixth, but it was too little too late.

Livonia Churchill team to beat in west

Northville High began its softball season Monday by playing a non-league game against South Lyon.

The Mustangs, which finished fifth in the Western Division of the WIAA last season, start the conference season in earnest tomorrow on the road against Livonia Churchill. The following article takes a look at Northville's Western Lakes rivals, the top hitters and pitchers in the league.

CANTON

Gone are nine of 10 starters who took Canton on a 31-6 ride last year.

Kelly Holmes was everything to the Chiefs. She dominated the WIAA to the tune of a 20-3 record, 321 strikeouts in 165 innings and posted a remarkable 0.20 ERA.

Coach Jim Arnold likes the chemistry of his team, its pride and work ethic. He just wishes he knew if it had enough hits and runs to go with all those intangibles.

"We have a long ways to go," he said. "We don't hit well, but we will continue to work on it."

Arnold is counting on his two most experienced players to lead the hitting: senior Heather Schaeffer, who hit .286 last year, and senior Heather LaGrow. The duo will switch off between center field and third base.

But keep an eye on freshman shortstop Nicole Kovachevich.

"She has a lot of all-around talent,"

Arnold said. "She has a good glove, good arm, good range and she hits with authority."

Freshman catcher Amy LaGrow and junior first baseman Kelly Nelson will contribute.

In the outfield, junior speedster Karl Jackson and senior Heather Reeber will start along with Schaeffer or Heather LaGrow.

The pitching duties will be handled by Jamie Skora and Jackie Nicastri.

"They both have good control," said Arnold.

NORTH FARMINGTON

The Raiders have tied for the Lakes Division title and finished no lower than third in the last four years. With almost all of its starters back, North is looking to go all the way this season.

This group came in in the second year of the summer program, and you can definitely tell they've been playing fast-pitch softball," Raider coach Dave Brubaker said. "Their skills are more advanced than the girls I first had six or seven years ago."

The leading returnee is senior All-WIAA shortstop Allison Stein. She hit .354, stole 25 bases, scored 30 runs and had an .892 fielding percentage.

The Raiders have another solid player in senior catcher Kate Mackie, a cleanup hitter who made the all-division team. She batted .356 with 31 hits, five doubles, four triples, three home runs and 31 RBI.

The Raiders are blessed with two experienced pitchers: seniors Melonie Cheney and Becky Thursam.

Cheney did most of the varsity pitching, and Thursam showed what she could do in the summer. Both were 8-0 while pitching the Farmington Hills Diamonds to the Incredible Girls Fast-Pitch League Title. Cheney was 11-13 for North with a 3.24 ERA in 155 innings with 121 strikeouts and 120 walks.

When Thursam isn't pitching, she'll play third base. Other top Raiders to watch for are: Jennifer Cassidy, Amy Finkel and Courtney Carlson.

FARMINGTON

The Falcons will depend on veterans to improve their 6-18 fortunes of a year ago.

Senior shortstop Jennifer Sever is Farmington's top returning player. A four-year starter, she hit .560 with 10 doubles, eight triples, three home runs and 30 RBI last year.

"She's real strong defensively and she's only hitting her pitch at bat," Farmington coach Julie Ingalls said. "She's really learned to discipline herself. She's learned to practice how she wants to play in a game."

The other returning starters are seniors Mario Walker, Suzanne Major, Sara Thomas, Dina Aon and Teresa Lindenmuth. Another key player could be freshman Allina Heikkinen, who played summer fast-pitch as a hurler.

"She has good speed and control as far as being in the area of the

Wildcat golfers begin new season

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Debbie Harris isn't expecting miracles from her Wildcat golf team this spring.

But that's not to say Novi High won't be competitive in its second season on the links. In fact, Harris thinks the 'Cats will shave 10 to 20 strokes off their team scores of a year ago.

"I'm hoping early in the season that we'll be in the 220s," she said. "We've got girls that can consistently shoot in the 50s."

The top four scores out of six count in most high school matches. Last year, Novi players averaged in the 60s.

A reduction of just a few strokes by everyone should give the Wildcats a big improvement over last year's 2-9 record.

"I'm hoping, in general, that our scores will be lower," said Harris.

Without question, Barb Lowes was the star of the team last spring. She averaged in the 40s and made it to the state finals.

Lowes went on to play at Michigan State University last fall. While they can't lean on her anymore, Novi does return several experienced players.

Junior Kelly Worger will be one of the 'Cats' new leaders. She's already been shooting practice round scores in the 50s.

"She has good direction and a nice game around the greens," said Harris.

Gretchen Harvey returns as well. A junior, Harris said she has potential. "If we can get some consistency from her," she said, "I think she'll do well."

Junior Lisa Mott is playing her first year of varsity golf. She's averaged in the mid 50s thus far.

Alison O'Mura is a top prospect for Novi. An excellent putter, the sophomore has the ability to shoot in the 40s.

A host of other sophomores will join the team, too. Krista Kling, Erin Wilsie, Angela Unitt, Andrea Lorenz and Adrian Briesacher are ready for action.

Lauren Graves and Johna Meredith are two freshmen who could see varsity time. Harris said the team has made good progress so far this year.

"I'm real pleased with their start," she added.

Novi opens the season April 22 at the Ann Arbor Huron team tournament at the University of Michigan.

Although five Kensington Valley Conference schools compete in golf, no league champ will be crowned, Harris said. Howell, Brighton and a combined Milford and Lakeland team will compete with the Wildcats.

Livonia Churchill team to beat plate," Ingalls said. "She has a tendency to get high or low, so we're working with her on her release."

Freshman Kristen Siakosky will play third base. Others to watch for are: Lindsey Piel, Amy Wagner, Karen Moore and Kate Lukusiac.

"We could be (contenders) as long as we have offense," said Ingalls. "We want to be strong defensively, but we want to be the one (the opponent is) playing against, fighting our hits, our speed on the base paths."

FARMINGTON HILLS HARRISON

Farmington Hills Harrison has a simple goal, as veteran coach Mike Teachman describes it, for the 1994 season. The Hawks want to win a school-record number of games, which means a minimum of 14 victories.

That might seem like a lofty objective for many teams, including the Hawks, who were 6-17 last year and have struggled to be competitive in the past. Farmington Hills will almost certainly improve with nearly a dozen returning players.

"This is as good an athletic and academic group as we've ever had at Harrison," Teachman said. "They want to succeed in everything they do, and succeed now."

The Hawks are led by shortstop Amanda Ault, who hit .346 with 19 runs scored, 15 RBI and 22 stolen bases. Teachman will move junior all-division outfielder Jenny Myslinski to first base. She holds single-season records for runs, hits and extra-base hits.

Junior Amy Geary is another solid hitter for Farmington Hills. She hit .338 last year and led the team with 16 RBI. Geary will play third base.

Kristen Kozlarski and Kathy Schneider will have the catching duties. Erin Lacosse, who was 3-8 last year, will be the top pitcher.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

The Chargers feature the league's top returning pitcher in senior Karen Jose.

A right-hander, she went 15-3 last year with an ERA of 0.78. In 126 innings, Jose had 187 strikeouts and only 22 walks.

"Churchill, because of Jose, is going to be the power on our side (the Western Division)," said Livonia Franklin coach Joe Epstein. "But I think there's a quality pitcher on every team on our side."

Churchill coach Dana Hardwidge, who must replace star catcher Chrissy Daly, said the Western Division has "a lot of balance."

"On our side you have Northville, Farmington Harrison and Franklin," she said. "And Canton won't be weak."

Churchill went 15-6 under Hardwidge last spring. She'll have an excellent returning team behind Jose this time around.

Senior second baseman Angie Cerne, Caria Karoub, Jenny Clulow Mary Daly, Alicia December, Anne Roulo and Melissa Sochacki are the top returners.

"Karen Jose's strength is her experience," said Hardwidge. "She's working hard again."

"Another strength is our senior leadership. We're a stronger hitting team this year with maybe more power. We have the potential."

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

The Patriots finished 17-13 in Epstein's 10th season as coach a year ago. A pair of junior pitchers, Becky Jansen and Tina Allen, will hold the key to Livonia's season.

"Our two pitchers have worked hard in the off-season," said Epstein. "They're throwing the ball well."

Franklin's biggest need is at the other half of the battery. Danielle Wood, a sophomore, or Shannon Weakley are the most likely candidates.

"We will have to come up with a catcher," said Epstein. "If we play solid defense, we'll be in every single game."

Top players to watch for are: Ja-

LIVONIA STEVENSON

The Spartans will likely face a rebuilding season.

Stevenson went 5-18 last spring and lost two of its best players to graduation. Coach Art Anselm said his team will have some strengths, however.

"Our strength is our defense and hitting," he commented. "We're still a little weak pitching. Marie Wilson and Laura Kroll have control, they're developing speed right now."

Kroll and Wilson are both sophomores. Senior Angela Ciuffetelli is another pitching prospect.

"Ciuffetelli has good speed," said Anselm, "but she has to throw strikes."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

The Rockets recorded a mediocre 15-15 year under coach Linda Jimenez a year ago. But with only one notable loss, John Glenn could contend in the Lakes Division.

"Our senior leadership is outstanding," Jimenez said. "Jamie Cook, Lynn Little, Christi Wyrbykowski and Jamie Sulek are excellent role models for the underclassmen."

"I'm looking forward to an exciting season. I think we'll be competitive."

Westland's other notable returning players are: Cook, Little, a senior pitcher who went 11-14 last year, Sulek, Amanda Samkowiak, Kelly Klene and Kelly Kirk.

Performance Plus ready for spring

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

Looking for a cultural experience this weekend without going very far? Look no further than the Novi Civic Center, home of Novi's best kept secrets.

Novi Youth Theatre's Performance Plus presents its spring production, Look Homeward Angel, at the Novi Civic Center Stage on Friday, April 15, and Saturday, April 16, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 17, at 3 p.m.

The students involved in Performance Plus have worked long and hard to make each and every production a first class experience, from promotion, set design, costumes and make-up to their actual performance.

Look Homeward Angel is a comedy drama in three acts by Kettys Frings based on the novel by Thomas Wolfe, winner of a Pulitzer Prize and New York Critics Award as best play of the season. An authentic American classic skillfully alternating its mood between sardonic humor and intense grief, both private and universal, the play is based on Wolfe's own life.

Performance Plus is the brainchild of Novi resident Linda Wickert. She is the guiding force of this innovative program and the true reason for its success. Wickert's educational approach to the theater offers "theater experience" to each individual beyond the memorization of lines.

Performance Plus students have already performed in The One Act Festival, Picnic at Hanging Rock, Alice in Wonderland, and The Crucible.

Anyone fortunate enough to see our performance of The Crucible knows what a wonderful program Novi has. The talent of these 17 area students in Look Homeward Angel is tremendous and the sets will blow everyone away, said Linda.

"This spring Performance Plus will present two productions because I had 50 gifted students try out for parts in the play. I couldn't turn down such talent, so I quit my job to devote my time to three plays, including a May Children's Annex production," said Linda.

"I have never worked with two casts so gifted and dedicated. It was truly a joy to direct these students."

The Performance Plus 2 production will be Children's Hour, which will be presented Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, May 1, at 3 p.m.

Children's Hour is a drama by Lillian Hellman, one of the greatest successes of a distinguished writer. A serious and adult play about two women who run a school for girls and what happens when a malicious young girl starts an unfounded scandal. The message is one of unbelievable outrage when one wrong can damage the lives of so many.

The actors and actresses from Performance Plus are students from Novi, Northville and the surrounding suburbs with enrollment increasing with each production. The productions performed are the classics and the students do a tremendous job for such heavy dramas.

Both Performance Plus productions are not recommended for young children due to the serious subject matter, but mark your calendars for May 20 and 22 when Children's Annex presents Lion and Mouse Stories, a play for all ages.

Bring your family and friends and check out the Novi Youth Theatre's Performance Plus. You won't be disappointed and hopefully this is one secret that won't be kept!

America losing touch with its children?

Jacquie Downs

Have you heard about the new family involvement campaign that Secretary of Education Richard Riley is initiating this spring?

Prevention specialists, mental health professionals and many others such as Riley are concerned about how connected this nation is to its children. In his February State of American Education address, Riley commented that "there's a disconnection so pervasive between America and children of America that we are all losing touch with one another."

He feels we are drifting toward a new concept of childhood where "a child can be brought into this world and allowed to fend for himself or herself... the break-up of the American family and the isolation of family members from each other, even in intact families, has had a profound and lasting effect on the education of our children."

"As I have said so many times before, parents need to slow down their lives and help their children grow."

How many of us are guilty of running in high gear and are not always "there" for our children. Few of us would admit that we are keeping a frenetic pace. The upshot of being busy and away from our children is that the children are, as Riley says, learning to fend for themselves.

Just what is the outcome of parents' busyness? Unfortunately our schools and our streets are a microcosm of the outcome.

Riley comments that too many young people come to school unprepared, too many drift through school uninspired and bored, too many drop out (75 percent do not go on to a four-year college), too many wake up the day after graduation with no meaningful idea about what to do with their futures.

We also see kids who get their sense of belonging by joining a gang, or a weekend binge drinking group, or isolating in their bedrooms smoking marijuana. The outcome for these kids is dismal at best.

They find their way into the $5 an hour jobs and often continue to live in their parents' home indefinitely. Some marry right out of high school and discover they are raising little ones before they're 21.

What's to come to this "nation at risk"? Riley calls for a new commitment from parents and communities. Are we as parents willing to sacrifice and make our children a higher priority?

Sacrificing includes giving them extra time each day, working on their homework with them, going to parent-teacher conferences, instilling our morals, values and beliefs for them to embrace as their own, watching to see who they befriend, knowing where they are when they go out, telling them the consequence of drug or alcohol involvement, getting involved in their school and community activities, volunteering to run/coach/lead one of the groups they are part of, listening to them, tracking their school progress, talking with their teachers about them, and so on. Are we really willing to do all this?

Maybe not. Maybe it's easier to blame it on government. (If the government didn't tax me so much, I wouldn't have to work overtime and might be home sooner.) Maybe we have to blame it on our ex-spouse. (If I were still married, I wouldn't be forced into this single parent role and have to raise these kids on my own.) Maybe we have to blame it on the media. (If the kids weren't exposed to so much violence or sex through television, movies, videos or music my kids might have a chance.)

But maybe, just maybe, we have to look at ourselves. Nobody ever told us that having and raising children was going to be such an "awesome" responsibility! Nobody prepared parents to parent in a responsible and mature way.

But now that the kids are here, it is up to us to make the most of the 18 years that we have with them. It is up to us to create an environment where they are not forced to make their own decisions and value judgments.

It is up to us to be there to hear how they are doing in school and speak with their teachers when necessary. It is up to us to stay on top of the homework, make sure that they understand it and that it gets completed. It is up to us to be involved in their lives and make a difference.

Kids are like empty vessels in which you pour ethics, beliefs and responsibilities. If we let that vessel sit empty waiting for us to pour "the stuff of life" into it, it may get filled up with the values of gang members, negative peers and unhelpful adult role models. It's our choice. Are we up to it?

Avoiding a second heart attack

Barry Franklin

Cardiac patients can reduce their risk of future heart problems to a large extent. The best single thing a heart patient can do is quit smoking. That, along with education, compliance to lifestyle alterations and regular medical checkups are the keys.

Each year one million Americans survive heart attacks, and more than 200,000 undergo coronary artery bypass. Unfortunately, the disease process continues to progress in these individuals. We now realize that heart attack survivors, compared to the general population, are at increased risk for a second, and potentially more serious, heart attack.

Even bypass surgery—a time-tested, highly successful procedure—doesn't guarantee for that matter, from sudden death.

In some patients, the vein bypassed may close, additional blood vessels may become blocked and symptoms may reappear, necessitating repeat bypass surgery.

Research strongly suggests that medical treatment and lifestyle alterations can slow the disease process and reduce the likelihood of future heart problems. Because many of these interventions are also believed to be effective in preventing heart disease, they have been termed "secondary prevention" efforts.

It is not surprising that cardiac patients often ask me: "What can I do to reduce my chances of another heart problem?" My answers are in six areas.

1. Learn about the disease. Read and ask questions. Consider joining a cardiac rehabilitation program with a strong educational component.

2. Reduce risk factors. Major risk factors are cigarette smoking, high blood pressure and an elevated level of cholesterol.

A low level of high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol (the good cholesterol) has also been shown to be a potential indicator of increased risk.

Quit smoking.

Aim for a blood pressure that is consistently less than 140 and over 90, a cholesterol value under 200 and a cholesterol to HDL-cholesterol ratio that is below 5 (divide the cholesterol value by the HDL value).

In many instances, you can accomplish these goals with a low-salt, low-fat low-cholesterol diet, regular exercise and a sensible program of weight reduction. If these lifestyle alterations aren't effective, medication may be prescribed.

A clinical study involving patients with substantial elevations of blood cholesterol showed that, for every 1 percent the cholesterol level was reduced, the risk of heart attack was reduced 2 percent.

Thus, the patient who reduced his blood cholesterol 25 percent potentially cut his risk of having a heart attack by half.

Regular exercise can reduce subsequent deaths among heart attack survivors. Perhaps even more important is the fact that these benefits can be achieved with "moderate" levels of exercise. For most patients, plain walking should be the activity of choice. The optimum: 12 to 15 miles a week.

3. Comply with medications.

Medications may be prescribed after a heart attack or bypass surgery to help relieve chest pains, reduce heart rhythm irregularities, promote heart-pumping action, and lessen workload.

Don't alter the medication and exact dose without your physician's approval.

4. Periodic checkups are mandatory.

Heart disease is progressive. New warning signs or symptoms should never be ignored.

In some instances, the physician may recommend additional diagnostic tests to further define the extent, severity and progression of disease. Patients who are considered at moderate-to-high risk for another heart attack may be referred for more intensive procedures such as bypass surgery or PTCA, a relatively new technique to open up narrowed blood vessels.

5. Prophylactic drugs can help.

Research studies identify certain drugs that may substantially reduce the risk of a second heart attack. One clinical trial in heart attack survivors showed that propranolol, a widely prescribed cardiac medication, actually decreased the annual death rate more than 25 percent. Major studies of aspirin in cardiac patients have yielded encouraging results.

In some patients, they may cause more harm than good.

6. Heed warning symptoms. Recognize the symptoms that may indicate a heart attack and seek medical help quickly.

Symptoms include pain under the breastbone or sternum, which may or may not radiate to the neck, jaw, back or left arm. Heart attack victims often experience weakness, shortness of breath and nausea.

A new clot-busting drug—tissue plasminogen activator, or tPA—can literally halt a heart attack in progress if it's administered soon after the onset of symptoms.

Unfortunately, most heart attack victims wait several hours before seeking medical attention. By that time, much of the heart muscle already may have been damaged.

REAL ESTATE

Computers build picture of your dream home

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The real estate industry is constantly evolving. Now, a new niche is being carved out of the industry. The resulting service can make planning a new home a more simple, exacting and exciting process.

The service involves a high-tech system of visualizing model home plans, and possible custom change options, on a computer screen. The images come up as realistic, full color, three-dimensional perspective views of the home—interior and exterior views.

The prospective home buyer can tour every room of a selected home plan, seeing every detail—even to blue sky and puffy white clouds seen through windows.

The recently developed technology is particularly helpful when buyers are considering custom changes in room sizes or configuration in a home they are purchasing in a housing development. Or when they are deciding on certain upgrade features, like the use of finer tile, cabinetry or doors.

Today, buyers can clearly see all offered home plans and possible options on a computer screen, long before the earth-moving machines roll in to prepare the site for the home's foundation. And changes can be visualized by touching a few computer keys, or pressing points on the screen.

ADRIANE

Soaring vaulted ceilings highlight the Adriane

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Entering the Adriane, the first impression is one of spaciousness. Vaulted ceilings soar over your head in the entry, living room and dining room, and the rooms are not small to start with.

This plan puts the formal living spaces at the center, master suite and garage on the left, and everything else on the right. Thus, the master suite is well-isolated from the children's bedrooms and the high-energy family living area.

An adult retreat, this sumptuous master suite has everything. Closets are divided into two sections, each with its own vanity.

Except for an enclosed toilet and sink, the luxurious bathroom is open, but partially separated by a wall that houses two more basins. A sitting or exercise area is at the back of the sleeping area, and French doors open onto a private patio.

A three-car garage, accessible from this patio as well as through another door, has a workbench and plenty of extra space for storage.

Family living takes place in the spacious and bright family room, which is totally open to the U-shape kitchen. A fireplace is at one end, a sunny eating nook at the other and French doors open onto the patio.

Extend the roof, add screening and this outdoor space becomes a Florida room, where you can eat or relax without the company of bugs.

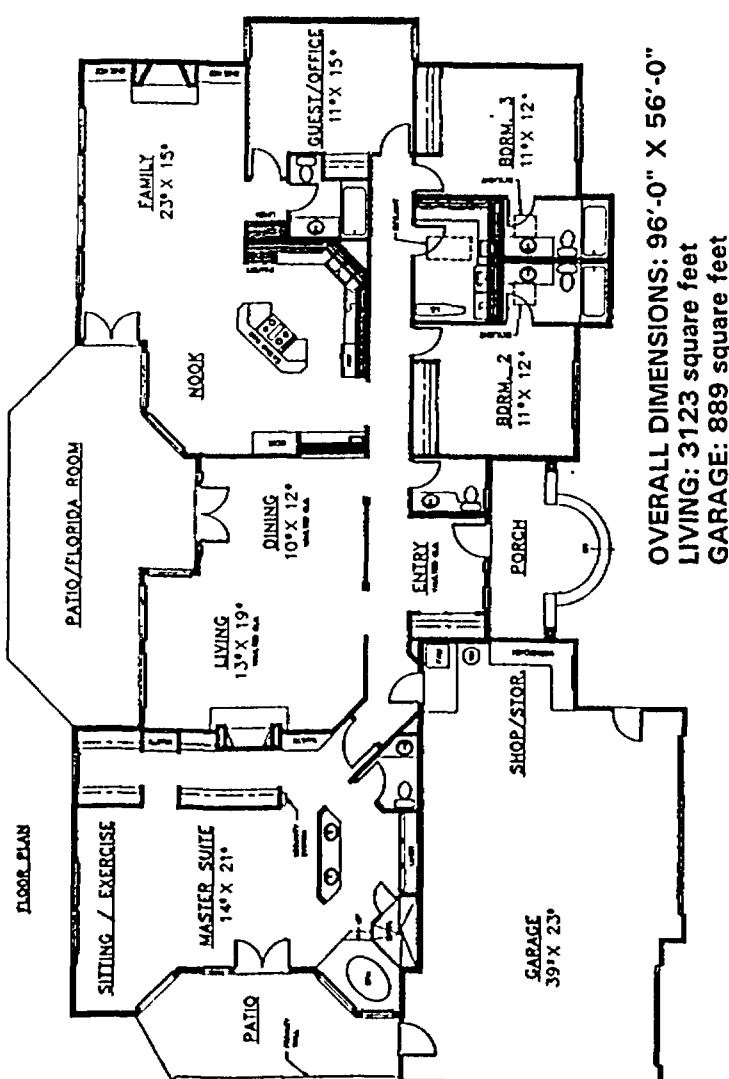

Features in the large kitchen include a desk, a vegetable sink, a pantry and a large central island/eating bar combination with built-in cook top.

One of the home's five bedrooms is just off the family room, adjacent to a room that could serve as a home office, guest quarters or anything else you can think of.

A sky-lit utility room is close to the kitchen, nestled in a space between two bedrooms, each with its own sky-lit private bath.

Controls for a security system are affixed to an outer wall of a closet, close to the entrance.

For a study plan of the Adriane (332-260) send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

Bird watching isn't just for adults—it's educational and entertaining for children, too. Creating a bird sanctuary in your backyard this season can be a fun activity for the entire family.

If you'd like to make your backyard as inviting to feathered friends as human friends, start by taking a step out the back door to inventory what you have.

A BIRD BATH

Having a bird bath in your yard is essential to attracting birds. Birds need water for drinking as well as bathing and a bird bath will serve both purposes.

A simple ceramic or plastic bath is inexpensive and easy to assemble. Make sure not to place it near trees or bushes or other areas accessible to cats. Once in place, fill it with fresh water each day.

BIRD FEEDERS

Wild birds continually search for food sources. Though they rely primarily on natural food supplies such as insects and seeds, most will easily recognize and eat from a bird feeder. If they eat from your feeder during the spring and summer, they will know to return to your yard for food during the winter months.

Bird feeders come in a variety of shapes, sizes and varieties. Large bird feeders can be costly and difficult for children to hang or refill, so you may opt to start with a small, pre-filled plastic feeder, such as the Easy Feeder by Easy Gardener. It can be purchased at a local garden center or hardware store and comes filled with a well-balanced, nutritious selection of bird food, including 50 percent black-oiled sunflower seeds, millet and milo, so that it lures a wide variety of birds.

Hang the feeder in an area where the family can watch from the porch as well as from inside the house. The feeder should be placed in an area of abundant natural shelter, such as a tree or hedge, but out of reach for squirrels, mice and cats.

BIRD HOUSES

Bird houses also come in many shapes and sizes. While most birds will nest in trees or bushes, some prefer a more secure and windproof site such as a bird house. Small, single-dwelling bird houses are usually inexpensive and easily hung in a tree or from a lamp post.

Some birds, such as purple martins, are highly social and build nests in close proximity to each other. Special large bird houses, called martin houses, are available for social birds. Though installing a martin house in your yard may be costly, it will attract purple martins, swallows and swifts, all of which eat hundreds of mosquitoes each day and will make your yard more enjoyable during the summer months.

Succulents are easy to cultivate

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

Originating in areas of the world where climate conditions are most severe, succulents and cactuses make dandy houseplants.

Unlike most green plants, succulents and cactuses have the ability to store moisture in the tissues of their leaves or stems, or both.

They collect moisture during rainy periods, then during drier periods release the moisture gradually by transpiring at a slow rate.

All cactuses are succulents. True desert cactuses are not difficult to recognize, they are almost all stem, without leaves, and generally have spires. Jade and aloe plants are popular succulents that are not cactuses.

Succulents and cactuses can be grown successfully indoors with indirect sun or bright light. A south-facing window will provide the proper light.

Succulents need to be watered as soon as the soil becomes completely dry. Water cactuses three to four days after complete drying of the soil. These plants are susceptible to rot, which occurs when the soil remains soggy for several days in a row. They are better off under watered than overwatered.

Fertilize only during spring and summer, when the plants are in active growth. Fertilizing in fall can force them into unnatural and distorted growth at a period when they should be dormant.

The most common pests of succulents and cactuses are mealybugs. Keeping your plants clean is the key to success.

MEALYBUG MATTERS

Think of it this way: A female mealybug lays more than 500 eggs in a cottony mass covering most of her body. (Exception: The long tailed mealybug variety gives birth to live young.) Eggs hatch in about a week.

Male nymphs form a mass of cottony filaments and eventually transform themselves into winged adults.

Mealybugs overwinter in the egg stage, so with careful inspection of plants they can be eliminated. Mealybugs are soft-bodied, oval, flattened insects less than 1/8 inch long, covered with a white powdery (or mealy) wax.

They congregate in large groups—the egg masses are

GARDEN TIPS

Super succulents

■ Place succulents and cactuses in a south-facing window.

■ Water succulents as soon as the soil is completely dry; water cactuses three or four days after soil is completely dry.

■ Fertilize only in spring and summer.

■ Keep plants clean to ward off mealybugs.

Heavy-duty cleaner can brighten dirtiest oven

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. Do you have any suggestions on how to clean an oven encrusted with layers of baked-on grease and dirt? Our renters evidently never cleaned it. I am not sure that it is salvageable.

A. Today's heavy-duty oven cleaners are marvelous, a great improvement over those available years ago. You can even use them on the interior racks without damaging them.

It is important to follow manufacturer's instructions. I have had the best success with warming the oven rather than leaving it cold, which is an option with most cleaners. It is still going to be a messy, time-consuming job, and several applications of oven cleaner may be necessary before you are through.

Spread newspapers to protect your flooring. Spray the interior and racks and wait the recommended period of time. Use rubber gloves to protect your hands.

Take removable parts to the sink for washing. Use a steel-wool pad on both the racks and the interior surface of the oven to remove baked-on food (a second application of oven cleaner works well for stubborn, encrusted surfaces).

Use paper towels to remove the cleaner and residue. Follow by wiping with a sponge, rinsing often in warm water.

It's a lot of work, but you will be amazed at how effective these cleaners are in restoring neglected, encrusted oven surfaces.

The oven cleaner should be heavy-duty.

Q. We have completed installation of a new vinyl flooring in our kitchen and family room. During the installation process,

It is still going to
time-consuming job

some of the glue used for the flooring and plastic coving got on the surface of the new vinyl.

We also have some residue of tar on the floor that was tracked in from outside. I do not want to mar the finish of this new floor, but I have been unable to clean these stains with regular cleaners. Do you have any advice?

A. Lighter fluid is usually a good cleaning solvent for this type of staining. A good commercial product is "Goof Off," manufactured by Atlanta Sundries, 6480 Chupp Road, Lithonia, GA 30058. Available at home centers, it is effective in removing glue, tar, crayon, gum and a variety of other substances.

However, be sure to test the solution in an inconspicuous area to ensure the solvent does not mar the finish of the surface you are trying to clean.

Q. I have several white rings on my good furniture left by cocktail glasses during a recent party. Do you have an effective method of removing these rings, or will my furniture have to be refinished?

A. There is a simple method of removal if the stain has not gone through the finish into the wood.

Buff the spot with a damp cotton cloth

dabbed with toothpaste. If this doesn't do the job, mix a little baking soda with the toothpaste and buff again.

If the damage has gone into the wood, removal will require stripping and refinishing of the surface.

Q. I have a collection of antique glass bottles that I want to display safely on narrow shelves in my dining room. My concern is to protect them from falling or if we have an earthquake. Do you know of any way to secure these items without damaging the bottles or the wood shelves? I may want to rearrange them from time to time, so permanently gluing them in place is not a good option.

A. I have two suggestions I have received from readers concerning their collections.

One recommendation is to use small dabs of decorator's adhesive, called Vogue Stickum, on the bottom of each piece. This is easily removed, it will not damage the wood and it provides flexibility in rearranging your display or adding newly acquired treasures. The stickum can be purchased at almost any artificial flower or hobby shop.

Another collector recommended the use of wax. All types of wax can be used, but the harder the wax, the stronger the adhesion. If using candle wax, a color can be selected that is nearly the same as the wood, so it is less apparent.

HOME HOW-TO

The plane truth

- If you are planing a too-wide door, plane down the hinge side — not the knob side. Plane off only enough wood to allow proper shutting. If you take off too much and the door shrinks, you will have too large a gap.
- Hand planes tend to work best on good, solid (usually old), straight-grained lumber. Make sure the blade is sharp.
- Start off the job with pressure on the front (toe) of the plane. Finish with more pressure to the back (heel) of the plane.
- When planing board ends, push the plane from edge to middle. Planing from middle to edge may cause the board to tear out.

Some new home developments are finding the new "model home simulation" system to be so effective it is used instead of building a series of model homes.

"We haven't even had our grand opening yet," said Mark Rader, sales agent at Classica Homes, a 38-home development in California. "We're taking reservations on homes after showing folks the three-dimensional views of our planned homes and custom options on a computer screen in our sales trailer. The system is working very well indeed."

The model home simulation system used at Classica Homes is produced by Ormonde Presentations, one of the new breed of high-tech firms emerging in this new industry niche.

"We are basically a high-tech marketing firm, providing software needed by home builders and developers to create visualization tours' of their homes on computer screens," said Steve Ormonde president of the firm. "We started operations in 1989 and now have 50 major builder-developer clients at points throughout the country."

Typically, the cost for setting up a special software program for a housing project ranges from $5,000 to $8,000, Ormonde said. Compared with the cost of building, furnishing and decorating model homes, that cost is minimal, Ormonde pointed out.

One of the first firms to create and market software to create new home visualization on a computer screen is Virtus Corp., based in North Carolina. This firm developed a "Virtus WalkThrough" program, allowing a prospective buyer to visually walk through a home being considered before a dollar has been spent on construction.

In addition to visualizing homes that don't yet exist, the Virtus program is particularly adaptable to simulating home improvement and remodeling projects, including room additions, kitchen enhancements, or installing new landscape elements. It's primarily used by architects and graphic designers.

As for the future of computer simulation programs as a means of helping home buyers and those planning a home improvement project, Frank Boosman, vice president of Virtus Corp., said:

"Increasingly, these programs will make great-looking three dimensional visualizations. At the same time, a new generation of machines will provide increased computing power to make these scenic worlds more interesting, with more interactivity."

"Improving the graphics and interactivity will make the viewing experience richer and more compelling. And more compelling environments will lead to better work, learning and entertainment. Every time humans have explored a new frontier, we have learned more about ourselves and our world. Such is the case with the development of computer simulation."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

More mealybugs; making compost

white and cottony. Their range is widespread outdoors and more so indoors.

For control, inspect and quarantine all infected plants (and new ones, too) for several weeks. Remove soft-white spots from plants with a cotton swab dipped in rubbing alcohol.

Spray weekly until the infestation is under control with insecticide soap spray, and while you're at it, drench the soil with the same insecticide spray to control mealybugs.

Q. How do you make compost?

A. Some people use a plastic bag or simply pile the materials in a corner in the garden, while others have wood or chicken-wire cages or rotating tumblers to contain the materials.

I think the most efficient method of

houses are best installed well out of reach of the birds' natural predators—the family cat and dog. Martin houses should be installed on a tall post in an open area of the yard away from the house, trees and any large bushes.

BIRD-FRIENDLY LANDSCAPES

A bird-friendly landscape is one that provides habitat for nesting, eating and social activity. Trees provide natural settings for nests as well as perches for social interaction.

Berry bushes and other flowering plants offer additional food and nectar. Before adding new trees, bushes or plants to the yard, ask a local garden center representative to recommend the appropriate foliage that will attract local birds.

Also, tell the representative about the existing plants in the yard to make sure that none are toxic to animals. Two plants to avoid are poinsettia and mistletoe, both of which are poisonous to birds.

Now that your yard is bird-friendly, find an animal book or encyclopedia to help you identify the different birds flying and feasting in your yard. Then, sit back and enjoy the sights and sounds of your new feathered friends.

Spool beds from the 1820s-1880s

By Anne McColam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a photograph of an antique bed that I inherited. Originally it was a rope bed. However it has been modernized to hold a modern spring and mattress.

I would appreciate any information you can provide.

A. This is a spool-turned bed, the precursor to the "Jenny Lind" bed. The turnings resemble a series of spools, therefore, the name. Spool furniture usually was made of maple, birch or other native hardwoods.

A filled ticking mattress rested on ropes that were laced around pegs on the head and foot rails and both side rails, creating a webbing.

Beds of this type were made from the 1820s to the 1880s. One similar to yours is listed at $1,500 to $2,000 in "Country Furniture" by Ellen M. Plante.

Q. I am curious about a porcelain tea service that I have. It consists of six cups and saucers, a creamer, a sugar bowl and a teapot. They are decorated with tiny black faces against designs of mostly white, yellow, red and gold. Each piece is marked "Made in Japan."

Any information you can provide will be appreciated.

A. This is known as "1,000 Faces" porcelain because it was decorated with many small hand-painted faces. Most of it was produced from the 1930s to the 1950s in Japan.

Although there are variations, the "Black Face" and the "Gold Face" designs are the most prevalent. A 15-piece tea set would probably be worth about $150 in good condition.

Q. My mother gave me a water pitcher that she bought in the 1940s. The color is chartreuse and there is a lid on the pitcher. The shape is sleek and streamlined.

On the bottom are the words "Russel Wright — Mfg. By Steubenville." My mother said the name of the pattern is "American Modern."

What can you tell me about my pitcher, and is it collectible?

"American Modern" was designed by Wright for Steubenville Pottery Co. in Steubenville, Ohio. It was manufactured from 1939 to 1959.

It was available in several colors, making it easy for the creative homemaker to mix and match the pieces. The value of your pitcher would probably be $70 to $80 in good condition.

Q. Could you please tell me the value of two pieces of porcelain that I have? One is a covered vegetable bowl with handles, the other is a platter. They are both marked "Rosenthal-Bavaria-Chippendale."

A. Your covered bowl and platter were made by Philip Rosenthal & Co. in Selb, Bavaria, Germany, in the early 1900s.

The firm began in 1879 and is still in operation.

"Chippendale" is the name of the pattern. The value of the covered bowl would probably be about $100 and the value of the platter about $45 to $50.

Q. I have a nickel-plated safety razor with a lifetime blade. The trademark has the words "Rolls Razor Ltd.—1927—Made in England." It is in beautiful condition and has never been used.

Are razors worth collecting and what is its value?

A. You don't have to be on the cutting edge to collect safety razors. They have become almost as popular as straight razors with collectors in recent years.

Rolls Ltd., an English firm, manufactured razors for distribution in the United States. Yours was probably made sometime in the late 1920s to 1930s.

The value would be about $30 to $35.

Q. I have a "Flub-A-Dub" marionette, one of the "Howdy Doody" characters. It dates from the 1950s and is in perfect condition.

He has a yellow nose, blue face, black ears and feet, a mouth that moves and his name is on his side.

Could you please give me an estimate of his worth?

A current price guide lists a "Flub-A-Dub" marionette at $265.

Gym seeks to build youths' bodies, minds

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

If you are finding it increasingly difficult to pull your child away from the Nintendo, a new Novi business may just be the answer.

The Little Gym is set to open its doors to the community next month at Beck Village Plaza. According to owner Cheryl Flammer, the business will aim to develop children's bodies and minds through carefully planned physical activities.

"We promote an encouraging atmosphere," she said. "It's a spirit where everyone can become the best they can be."

The Little Gym was founded in 1976 in Seattle by Robin Wes, a physical education teacher and musician. He created a self-development system for children using gymnastic movements and various other athletic activities with the backdrop of upbeat, educational music.

The business remained in Seattle until about three years ago when Wes began selling franchises. Flammer and her husband, Dave, will open just the second Little Gym in Michigan in mid-May.

The couple, which have worked in public education for years, became interested in the business last summer and purchased a franchise in October.

"We became interested from the standpoint that our first love is working with kids," Flammer said. "We wanted to figure out a business where we could work with children on a forever basis."

The "sound curriculum" of Little Gym was also another selling point, she added.

Children are taught how to warm-up their muscles through stretching exercises. Practicing skills, which can be gymnastic movements for younger children to basketball, cheerleading and baseball basics for older youths, instruction, games, free play and activities are all planned, too.

"Kids can climb, jump and wiggle around and just learn about their bodies," said Flammer.

The Little Gym caters to children from four months to 12 years old. No matter the age, Flammer said, "lessons" are organized similarly to keep continuity.

Music is used to help maintain the learning atmosphere as well as increase motivation. The tunes also teach such things as colors and symbol recognition.

For now, the business is operating out of its mobile unit. Since March, certified instructors Dan Picot and Kathy Castle-Layman have been taking Little Gym equipment and ideas to pre-schools in Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Wixom and Walled Lake.

Flammer said her instructors are providing a smaller version of what will be offered at the Beck Village Plaza starting next month.

Once in operation, the gym will offer an attractive atmosphere for children. Flammer said primary colors and informational graphics will dot The Little Gym.

Gymnastic equipment such as tumbling mats, bars and beams will be featured, too. Obstacle courses for youngsters are another large element of the gym.

"We can create whatever we want with our equipment," said Flammer. The Little Gym offers competitive pricing.

All classes are $40 a month per child, for one-hour, once-a-week sessions. A $30 annual fee is also charged.

Hours will be Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. and weekends for special events such as birthday parties, summer day camps and parent survival nights.

Business Briefs

RON SCHULTZ has been named executive vice president for American Speedy Printing Centers Inc. In his new position, Schultz will be responsible for strategic planning and business development.

Before joining the World Headquarters staff, Schultz held various executive positions at Inacom, including division president and vice president of strategic planning and business development.

Brighton resident, Schultz is a graduate of the University of Michigan. Pontiac Division's general director of brand management and marketing, LYNN MYERS, received an inaugural McCall's/Ward's Auto/New York International Auto Show "Outstanding Woman in the Automotive Industry" award.

Myers, a resident Northville, was honored in the automotive manufacturers marketing category. The new automotive awards recognize women who have made significant contributions to the automotive industry by demonstrating outstanding management skills, business acumen and creativity.

Myers has held a variety of marketing positions throughout her 20-year career at General Motors. She spent several years at Oldsmobile before moving to GM's marketing and product planning staff in Detroit in 1988, as general director of North American Truck Capacity Planning. She later assumed responsibility for cars.

In February 1992, Myers joined Pontiac as general marketing manager.

FIL SUPERFISKY, a sales associate and associate broker with ERA Rymal Symes in Novi, has received national recognition from Electronic Realty Associates for top sales performance during 1993.

Superfisky ranked as one of the top producers among 24,000 ERA sales associates nationwide for sales units closed and sales volume. The awards were announced at the 1994 ERA International Business Conference held in March in San Antonio, Texas.

Novi resident BOB SCHMID, a divisional claim superintendent for State Farm Insurance, met with Congressman Joseph Knollenberg in Washington, D.C., on March 8 to discuss current legislative issues.

Among the topics discussed were the Natural Disaster Protection Act, which would set up a balanced partnership between governmental and private entities involved in the consequences of natural catastrophes.

The visit took place at the legislator's Washington office, and Schmid was pleased with the opportunity to meet with him in person.

Along with his day job, Schmid has a second career. He moonlights as a Novi City Council member.

THE PLYMOUTH COMMUNITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE'S downtown merchants present their annual Midnight Madness sales on April 15 from 7 p.m. to midnight. Sales and bargains will be found at Plymouth's 75 downtown shops.

Hudson's has a strong commitment to all communities in which it operates stores. In addition to donating 5 percent of its federally taxable income to nonprofit organizations, the company encourages associates to volunteer outside of work and supports three volunteer programs: Team VIP, Volunteer Involvement Program (VIP) and Hudson's Retiree Volunteer Association (HRVA).

Through Team VIP, the company encourages associates to work together on volunteer projects. Hudson's metropolitan Detroit stores participate in Paint the Town each year by painting nine houses occupied by senior citizens, low-income and disabled residents. Other commitments were made to the Tollgate Equestrian Program, St. Patrick's Senior Center in Detroit, Penrickton Center for the Blind in Taylor and others.

Another effort, the Volunteer Involvement Program (VIP), recognizes associates who are dedicated community volunteers. Associates who have actively volunteered their time with a nonprofit organization for a minimum of six months may award their charitable organization $250. In 1993, nearly $10,000 was donated to nonprofit organizations on behalf of Hudson's associates.

Hudson's Retiree Volunteer Association (HRVA) is the only program of its kind in the Detroit area. The purpose of this organization is to promote active lives and companionships for retirees through volunteerism. In doing this, they continue to invest their talents and experiences to make positive contributions to surrounding communities.

In 1993, some of the HRVA's accomplishments included sorting and hanging coats for the Salvation Army Coat Drive, collecting donations and serving refreshments at the Rescue Mission Walk, wrapping gifts for the Sarah Fisher Children's Wrap and Wheeling and dealing at the New Year's Eve Millionaires' Party for Common Ground.

Hudson's is proud of its approximately 500 associates that continue to offer their time and talents to surrounding communities. During National Volunteer Week, April 17 through 23, volunteers will be distinguished by wearing red and white ribbons that read "Volunteers Count at Hudson's."

Information can be obtained for all 83 Michigan counties on taxes, workers' compensation, unemployment insurance, wages, gas and electric utilities and real estate costs.

For comparison, the data base includes the same information for the other 49 United States and the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec. It also provides both generic and industry-specific information about labor characteristics and business incentives for all of these geographic areas.

Detroit Edison will use the data base to research which counties offer specific advantages for specific industries and to provide information to companies in the process of site selection. Jackson said the company intends to make it available for use by economic development organizations outside Detroit Edison by mid-1994.

Data base to help attract business

Detroit Edison expects to help Michigan attract new business by using a newly developed data base that computes the general cost of doing business throughout the state and compares it with data from all 49 competing states, Quebec and Ontario.

"We believe this data base will help debunk the myth that Michigan's business climate is uninviting," said George Jackson Jr., Detroit Edison's director for economic development.

"The data base provides a better understanding of Michigan's economic strengths. Knowing our strengths may help the state attract new business and encourage manufacturers to expand."

Developed for Detroit Edison by Michigan State University, the data base provides information on nine manufacturing industries: food and kindred products, paper and allied products, printing and publishing, chemical and petroleum, rubber and miscellaneous plastics, primary metals, fabricated metals, industrial machinery and computer equipment, and transportation equipment.

A wide variety of sources provides the business cost data for the Detroit Edison system.

"When you compare local business cost data, Michigan communities frequently fare much better than when traditional statewide averages are used," Jackson said. "This system also provides a more accurate snapshot of the costs a manufacturer truly will incur."

"Using the information, business can make preliminary decisions about siting new facilities or expanding existing ones."

The Detroit Edison data base estimates the annual cost of doing business in individual communities throughout the state based on rates and specific information about a company. It also suggests the least-cost locations for a particular company or industry.

Similar data systems only compare rates for utilities, taxes, workers' compensation and other expenses rather than calculating actual costs.

For example, the Detroit Edison system computes the total sales tax a business would pay based on projected purchases and informs clients that capital improvements and machinery purchases are exempt from the sales tax. Other systems simply report that Michigan levies a 4 percent state sales tax, soon to increase to 6 percent.

"This data base is the first of its kind in Michigan," Jackson said. "Comparing site locations previously took up to 100 hours, but with the data base it takes less than an hour to develop an entire business climate profile for each local site."

Dependents can help ease your tax burden

Need some relief from the high costs of raising children? If so, you can turn to Uncle Sam. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you may be entitled to tax exemptions and deductions that can directly reduce the costs associated with raising your children. Smart tax planning can also help you to save for your child's future while minimizing the tax bite on your income.

Claim the Dependency Exemption
Even if you have a December baby, you may claim an exemption of $2,350 on your 1993 tax return. You are entitled to one exemption for each child who qualifies as a dependent. Generally, a child qualifies as a dependent if he or she is under age 19 at the end of the year or is a full-time student under age 24. Other tax rules also apply, so be sure to check with your CPA.

Note that the dependency exemption is phased out for married individuals filing jointly with adjusted gross incomes (AGIs) exceeding $162,700; for married individuals filing separately with AGIs above $81,350; for single filers with AGIs above $108,450; and for heads of household with AGIs above $135,600.

Record Medical Expenses
You may also get some tax relief from the high costs of your children's medical expenses. Qualified medical expenses, including those of your spouse (if you file jointly) and qualified dependents, are deductible to the extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. Any medical expenses over this amount are fully deductible in the year they are paid.

Money Management

Child-Care Credit

If you must hire child-care help or send your children to a day-care facility so you and your spouse can work, you may be entitled to a tax credit that can directly reduce your tax bill.

To qualify for the full credit, your AGI must be $10,000 or less. The credit is then equal to 30 percent of certain employment-related child-care expenses. The maximum amount of employment-related expenses that can be considered for the credit is $2,400 for one qualifying child and $4,800 for two or more children. The amount of credit decreases by 1 percent for each $2,000, or part of $2,000, of your adjusted gross income in excess of $10,000 but not below 20 percent. Thus, for taxpayers with AGIs over $28,000, the applicable percentage is 20 percent.

Take Advantage of the Gift Tax Exclusion

When it comes to building your child's savings account, you may be able to use some tax-advantaged strategies. For example, you can give up to $10,000 a year ($20,000 a year if both parents make a gift) to each of your children without paying any gift tax.

The benefit: you remove the gift amount, as well as any income the gift may earn, from your taxable estate. If your child is 14 or over, any interest the money earns will be taxed at the child's lower rate.

percent tax bracket until their income exceeds $22,100.

Beware the Kiddie Tax

Under the kiddie tax, if your child is under 14, the first $600 of unearned income is tax exempt; the next is $600 is taxed at 15 percent; earnings above $1,200 are taxed at the parents' highest marginal tax rate. For the 1993 tax year, this means that the income could be taxed at a rate as high as 39.6 percent.

Give Appreciated Assets to Your Children

Another way to reduce your taxes while increasing your child's financial resources is to give assets to the child and let the child sell them. If you sold the assets yourself, you could face a long-term capital gains tax of 28 percent.

If, however, the child sells the assets, the gain will be taxed at the child's rate if the child is 14 or older at the end of the taxable year. For the 1993 tax year, children are in the 15

Extra funds help during cold spell

Due to the unprecedented cold weather last winter, President Clinton released $300 million in February in emergency energy funds.

Based on the cold weather statistics and the potentially eligible low-income population, Michigan received an additional $48.8 million for the Low-Income Energy Assistance Program (LIEAP). Michigan's regular LIEAP allocation for Fiscal Year 1994 is $77.6 million.

LIEAP is administered by the Department of Social Services (DSS) and consists of three types of energy assistance payments for low-income households.

- 1.) A basic heating allowance available as the Michigan Home Heating Credit and distributed by the Department of Treasury. This can be filed with the state income tax return.
- 2.) Crisis Assistance, including the heating and electrical assistance programs and state emergency relief, to provide help to people in danger of shutoff.
- 3.) Home repair services to help reduce energy consumption.

Based on information provided by DSS field staff and the major utility companies, DSS has decided that the funds should be used in three ways:

- To increase the emergency assistance maximums—also known as the caps—for heat and electricity.
- To expand the types of energy-related home repairs available, and to allow exceptions to the lifetime maximum up to $4,500.
- To relax the exception criteria for emergencies which fall outside of the normal policy guidelines.

People who are facing heat or utility shutoff, are in need of energy-related home repairs, or who are in danger of eviction should immediately contact the Department of Social Services office located in their county to apply for LIEAP.

The annual amount available for heat and electricity has been raised as follows:

- Heat by gas or wood increased from $160 to $350
- Heat by deliverable fuels increased from $300 to $500
- Electricity increased from $250 to $430

No changes have been made in the income or assets levels to be eligible for the service, but DSS will give consideration to households which have made a part, but not all, of their required payments.

Second, for home owners or purchasers, the expansion of home repairs and similar services will be extended beyond just furnace repair or replacement to include:

- Replacement of faulty or inefficient water heaters
- Furnace-related electrical repairs
- Roof repair or replacement
- Chimney repair
- Structural repairs for exterior walls, ceilings, and floors
- Repair or replacement of broken windows

In the third area, funds will be made available on a case-by-case basis to assist renters whose heat or electricity is included in their rent payment. If it was necessary for landlords to increase their rent payment due to an increase in utility bills, consideration will be given to people in the following situations:

- To assist people to temporarily remain in their current situation if they are facing eviction
- To assist people to move into more affordable housing

In fiscal year 1993, LIEAP funds assisted 395,000 households in Michigan with payments averaging $188. Almost 48 percent of those households contained at least one person who was elderly or handicapped.

Any person or agency with questions about the additional LIEAP funds should call their local DSS office listed in the state government section of the phone book under Michigan State of—Social Services.

Jobs lost in February

Seasonal job losses caused unadjusted February jobless rates to increase in all 10 of Michigan's major labor market areas, F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), reports.

Typically, the state and its major labor markets experience job losses in retail trade and construction during February," Edwards said. "This year was no exception as employment dropped in all 10 areas while the labor force declined in nine."

Edwards said much of the labor force decrease resulted as the last of the temporary workers were released from their Christmas holiday and post-holiday jobs in the retail industry.

Among the state's major labor markets, the Ann Arbor area had the lowest jobless rate in February at 5.5 percent, up slightly from January's 5.2 percent.

The Upper Peninsula had the highest February rate at 13.1 percent and the largest change as its rate climbed by .6 percent from 12.5 percent in December.

The month-to-month change was not significant in any of the major labor markets, as the unemployment rate increases averaged less than half a percentage point in all areas, except the UP," Edwards said.

Andersen Window Truckload Sale

We Have the Latest Slant on Window Cleaning

For openers, the Andersen® DC Tilt-Wash Window is unique because both sash tilt inward at the touch of a fingertip.

Plus there's a locking mechanism that keeps the sash from popping out or being damaged while it's being cleaned.

It's also weatherstripped on all four sides of both sash to make it extra snug. Yet the unique vinyl weatherstripping makes it extra easy to tilt in and reclose.

Irresistible Beauty. Irreplaceable Endurance.

Andersen® Frenchwood Hinged, Frenchwood® Gliding, and Perma-Shield® patio doors. If their beauty doesn't immediately stop you, give them time.

Andersen replacement patio doors are designed to stay weathertight year after year. (Even through 8" of rain per hour driven by 50 mph winds.) And because we offer sizes to fit nearly every opening, you can be sure your old wood or aluminum patio doors will be replaced easily, snugly and securely.

If you'd like to know more, you can talk to just about anyone. (More builders and remodelers use Andersen® Windows and Patio Doors than any other.) Or you can talk with us. We'd be happy to demonstrate enduring beauty other patio doors simply can't replace.

Dear Mr. Mans:

I wanted to drop you a short note to tell you how much I have appreciated the services provided by Pat Delaney.

This past summer my wife and I began the construction of our new home. As you know, dealing with contractors, suppliers, etc. can be very frustrating. However, dealing with Pat has been a pleasant experience. Pat has been extremely helpful in the acquisition and delivery of materials. He has gone out of his way to arrange meetings with suppliers, checking the status of orders and staying in touch with us. He is always willing to assist us in any way possible.

We hope to complete our home within the next few weeks. Without the help of Mans, and especially the help and expertise from Pat, our building experience would have been much more difficult.

Sincerely,

Douglas L. Smith

Want to cut energy use to help reduce pollution?

Replacing a standard 60 watt light bulb with a 15 watt compact fluorescent bulb will give you slightly more light for substantially less energy. (An average savings of $45 in electricity over the 10,000 hour life of the bulb.)
