

Library vote to decide fate of two proposals

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

With less than a week to go until a pivotal vote on the future of Northville's library, District Library Board Chairman John Buckland noted that some voters are still confused over the issue.

Some wonder, for example, why Northville residents can't just continue to use other libraries, as many do now.

In the first quarter of 1994, Northville residents accounted for 12.6 percent of the total circulation at the Novi Public Library, and 6.8 percent of Plymouth Library's circulation. All three libraries are part of the Wayne/Oakland Library Federation.

But WOLF guidelines specify that when another municipality's residents account for more than 5 percent of a library's circulation, the library is entitled to imposed borrowing restrictions against the non-residents.

"The library is for the citizens who pay the taxes to support it," Buckland noted.

Northville's own library services are now funded under the joint operating agreement between the city and township, and the library's budget requests have been reduced several times in recent years as one governmental entity or the other has suffered financial crises. Since 1990, the book budget alone had been reduced from $59,000 to $29,000.

Northville's $17-per-capita library funding level pales compared to surrounding libraries. Livonia residents pay an average of $36 per person for their library services, while Novi residents pay $30 and Plymouth residents pay $32.

A district library would be funded by its own voter-approved dedicated millage. The city council has since agreed to reduce the city's budget by the amount needed now to fund its library contribution, and the township board has agreed to reduce its millage by an equivalent amount, if the district library plan passes.

The District Library Board hopes to give Northville a library that will meet the needs of its citizens, Buckland said, to replace the current facility in the lower level at Northville City Hall. He added that voter approval of a dedicated millage for a district library would assure a secure funding source for library services.

"We will not have to deal with the financial ups and downs of the city and township, and the ensuing politics of both bodies," he said. "We can

City plans to lower its operating millage rate

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

At the Northville City Council's request, city staff has whittled $50,000 off the proposed 1994-95 budget to reduce the city's proposed operating millage rate by a quarter mill.

The cuts will bring the city's operating millage down to 12.89 next year. Staff had originally proposed a 13.14-mill rate, identical to this year's, but some council members called for a reduction since the city had paid off its deficit this year.

The millage rate had been raised 4.2 mills in 1991 to cope with a million-dollar deficit caused largely by the state's withholding of racetrack revenue.

Items included in the latest round of cuts are $7,620 for 9mm semi-automatic pistols for the police department, $10,350 for computers for several city departments, postponement of a $13,000-a-year retiree benefit upgrade and a reduction in fire department training expenses.

Any racetrack revenue received in the coming fiscal year would be applied toward restoring the purchase of semi-automatic pistols to the budget.

The staff actually cut about $65,000 from the budget and then added $13,750 for the purchase of a new city hall phone system and hire of a phone system consultant. Staff members noted that replacement parts are no longer available for the current outdated system, and it allows only one person to answer the phone at a time and only from the main switchboard.

A new system could allow features like voice mail, a community bulletin board and call accounting, they argued.

The $13,750 represents $7,000 for phone system consultation from planning through installation and $6,750 for the first of five years in lease payments for a new system.

Council members, led by Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers, had called for the reductions during a budget study session last Thursday. But when the staff presented the cuts Monday, one member had changed his mind.

"Last week I was of the mind we needed to cut the budget," said Council Member Charles Keys. "I've done a complete turnaround

... I am in 100-percent disagreement with all of these cuts; I think we should stay where we're at."

Keys argued that city residents would rather have the same high level of service than smaller tax bills, according to those he talked with over the weekend. But other council members responded that the cuts would not cause an appreciable change in service levels, and the new phones would represent an improvement.

Mayor Chris Johnson noted that the council had faced "a packed council room" of concerned citizens three years ago when the millage was raised as part of a 2 1/4-year process to erase the deficit. A group of local businesspeople including Keys had also formed an ad-hoc committee that year to review city finances after the council hiked refuse fees, he pointed out.

Johnson added that he would rather keep the operating millage low so that the city has room under its millage cap in case another financial disaster like the one in 1991 occurs. This year's millage rate is about 2.3 mills under the cap of 15.41 mills. The cap could only be increased by a public vote to amend the city charter.

"That (2.3 mills) is not enough to absorb the disaster we just went through recently," Johnson noted.

Ayers added that the council had passed the original 4.2-mill increase as a temporary measure. "I really feel a commitment to, as a

The Cady Street parking deck succumbed to the wrecking ball this week. A new deck is expected to open in November. The project is part of the city's Mainstreet Improvement program, bonds for which were approved in a city-wide election last year. Local officials and construction manager Walbridge Aldinger held a groundbreaking ceremony to kick off the $4.2 million project in the lot south of the deck Monday.

Township officer shoots and wounds family's dog

A Northville Township police officer shot and wounded a family's dog on Tuesday night in the driveway of their home. The event has sparked a flurry of questions and accusations from the family, witnesses to the event, area residents and township police.

Some who saw the shooting, which occurred at about 8:30 p.m. on Cardene Way, say the officer involved overreacted and put those standing nearby in danger. Township police maintain that the officer had a legitimate reason to fear being attacked by the dog. His response was appropriate and didn't endanger anyone, police officials said.

The incident began when a man told police the dog's owner assaulted him around 6:40 p.m. that evening after he struck the animal, which was threatening him, he said. The dog's owner, David Plante, later denied that allegation to police.

The complaint led Officer Charles Cole to try to speak with Plante at the Cardene Way home. In his report, Cole said he arrived at about 8:30 p.m. As he walked up the driveway, he continued, Plante, working nearby, unleashed the dog.

Interest rate low in city bond sale

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville city officials could not have been more pleased with the results of the recent bond sale to finance Mainstreet '93.

The good news came despite fiscal uncertainties at the local and national level.

With interest rates starting to climb nationally, some officials had feared that the city would be paying a higher interest rate than originally anticipated on the $3.8 million in bonds needed to finance the parking deck project.

Also, the city's bond rating of BBB-plus has not been upgraded despite the recent completion of a 2 1/4-year deficit elimination plan, said financial consultant Gerry McGuire of Evensen Dodge Inc.

McGuire said the bond rating firm Standard & Poor's was concerned over the city's lack of a positive fund balance. He suggested that a fund balance of around 15 percent on the city's $4 million total budget would help insure the city of a more favorable rating in the future.

"Triple B plus is not a great bond rating," he added.

Despite the ominous signs, seven financial institutions submitted bids on the bonds April 25, with the lowest bid being a 5.56-percent rate from Kemper Securities Group Inc. of Detroit. Kemper's bid was on a total bond price of $3,705 million.

An obviously pleased McGuire told the city council that he had been figuring the city would receive bids between 6.4 and 6.5 percent.

The difference could add up to a quarter million dollars in interest savings over the 15-year life of the bonds, he said.

"Today we saw some light at the end of the tunnel," he said. "I guess it's just that people are beginning to realize that interest rates don't need to go up that much."

McGuire attributed part of the city's good fortune to the decision to offer bond insurance on the package, at the bidder's option. After three bond insurance companies had turned the city down, McGuire found a fourth willing to take on the risk of insuring the city's bonds.

"The less you need insurance, the more people are willing to give it to you," he noted.

Treasurer Mark Christiansen presented the council with a revised finance plan for the parking project based on the recent round of assessment changes and the latest amendments to the city's parking agreement with Singh Development.

"It indicates that we're fine at the end of the (15-year financing) period, better than where we were before, and certainly much better than where we thought we'd be as the interest rates started going up."

Residents opposing Edenderry linkups

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Is there anyone in the Edenderry Hills area who'd like to see their neighborhood's quiet streets linked to Six Mile Road? If Tuesday's meeting of the Northville Township planning commission meeting was any indication, probably not.

As a matter of fact, residents of the area—located off of Seven Mile west of Sheldon—seem united in adamant opposition to a plan to connect either Edenderry Drive or Pinebrook or Shadbrook Roads to Six Mile as part of a new subdivision.

About 160 people attended the meeting on the proposed Woods of Edenderry project, slated for land just south of the Edenderry area. Not one resident of that area spoke in favor of the connections.

While the plan's critics raised several objections to it, that was their foremost concern. Woods developer Mark Guidobono has said he has included the connections because he was informed that township and Wayne County laws required them for emergency vehicle access and better traffic flow.

Residents of those streets, however—which now have access

What is CINCO DE MAYO?

On May 5th, 1862 a badly outnumbered Mexican army valiantly fought off an aggressive attack by the invading French forces in the tiny town of Puebla, Mexico. This legendary battle marks the last time that any foreign power has ever attempted to enter North America. Today 131 years later, the proud people of Mexico commemorate this historical date with a non-stop, nationwide party!

Fair discusses drug, alcohol abuse

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

It could hardly be more timely, given the alarming results of a recent survey of drug and alcohol use among Northville students.

Northville High School will play host to a Community Outreach Information Fair May 10, bringing together dozens of organizations dedicated to educating parents and teenagers about substance abuse and providing treatment for chemical dependency.

Jim Fay, a nationally-recognized speaker on parenting, will present two seminars that evening. A master storyteller who presents parenting information in a humorous, practical manner, Fay and co-author Foster

W. Cline, M.D., are well-known among parents for their series of books and cassettes espousing their "Love & Logic" philosophy.

Fay's own background includes 36 years as a teacher, principal and consultant.

His works are also familiar to Robert Somson, Northville Public Schools' executive director for special education and a parent of three himself.

"For my money, the skills that he teaches parents are the kinds of skills that will help kids learn good decision-making and problem-solving in natural ways," Somson said. "It's not uncommon for people to say, 'It absolutely changed my family, my home and my life.' I know it has for me."

Fay will speak between 4-6 p.m. on "Parenting Elementary-Age Children with Love & Logic," and between 5:30-7:30 p.m. on "Parenting Teens with Love & Logic."

Somson said Fay's gift is relating to parents without resorting to psychological jargon.

"He speaks absolutely from the heart," the administrator said. "His intellectual understanding of these concepts is extraordinary... (but) he gets you to understand concepts through stories in ways that a textbook or intellectual explanation would never begin to."

The groups represented in the information fair include Northville Youth Assistance, which pairs children and teenagers with same-sex adult role models, Northwestern Community Services, providing child/parent counseling, baby-sitting and respite services, Children with Attention Deficit Disorders (CHADD), and Maple Grove Youth Treatment Center and Brighton Hospital, which provide residential and outpatient services for chemical dependency.

"If you need information about where to get services or support for your kids, this is a good place to get it," Somson said. "It will be a wonderful networking opportunity."

The fair runs between 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and refreshments will be provided. People interested in attending the event, or registering for child care so they can attend, are asked to call Karen Waltz at 344-8453 by Friday, May 6.

Township denying claims of two suits

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township isn't about to knuckle under to two recent lawsuits which area developers have filed against it.

"Our position is that they are suits with no merit in them," Bruce Franklin, the township's attorney in both cases, said this week.

The owner of the land slated for a Home Quarters Warehouse and the owner/developers of a proposed condominium project called Waterford Pond filed two separate suits against the township earlier this month. Both claim that their development plans were illegally rejected by township planners who unfairly interpreted unconstitutional township ordinances.

Franklin, partner in a Troy law firm, said that he had filed the township's official responses to both suits last week in Wayne County's Third Circuit Court. The responses, he said, claim that the township's ordinances and the decisions officials made based on them are reasonable and fair.

The township's insurance company two weeks ago informed the board of trustees that it would handle defense of the two suits and hired Franklin's firm for that job. The lawyer said that it would probably not be a quick one.

While anything can happen, Franklin said, the process from here on in will likely move slowly.

"I'm still investigating all of their claims," he said, "and that's going to take some time. The next phase is the discovery process, where we all ask all our questions. That can take two to three months."

"Attorneys are always trying to settle these things before going to the step of a trial," he added, indicating that this was a possibility in the Home Quarters and Waterford Pond suits as well.

Both ask the Circuit Court to order the township to approve their plans, throw out certain sections of township ordinance, and award the plaintiffs money damages.

Home Quarters was part of a Haggerty Planned Unit Development (HPUD) option plan submitted earlier this year. The 152,000 square foot home improvement products store would have shared about 33 acres with a 24-lot single-family-home subdivision.

It was proposed for a spot off Seven Mile between Meijer's to the north and the WindRidge development being built at the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty. That project, approved in December, includes a 100,000 square foot Home Depot store and a 101-lot subdivision on 64 acres.

The Home Quarters landowner in his lawsuit charges that the township rejected his plan because they didn't want to see another "big box" home improvement products store in the township—a decision which is illegal, he claims.

The township's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) last month rejected Waterford Pond's request for three variances for its concept plan for a condo development off Six Mile near Northville Road.

The project calls for 88 condos to be grouped around a single, long cul-de-sac with one roadway connecting the complex to Six Mile. That violates a township ordinance which says that single-access developments can have a maximum of 24 homes.

The ZBA also refused to grant variances for the length of the cul-de-sac and the height of some of the plan's buildings, both of which violated other sections of township ordinance.

The March 7 decisions, Waterford Pond's backers said, left them without an economically viable use for their property, so they filed suit.

Senate calls for full sentences

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The state Senate has passed two "truth in sentencing" proposals amidst warnings the election-year bills will drive up prison costs.

Support for the bills came from families of the victims of ex-convict Leslie Allen Williams, who left a trail of four brutally murdered young women in western Oakland and Livingston counties.

Final passage came on a 34-2 vote. All area senators voted yes except David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who was recuperating from surgery.

An objection came from Sen. Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, who cast one of the two nay votes. "Certain people who are currently allowed to be in corrections centers or half-way houses prior to parole would not be eligible for that until after parole," said Welborn.

"People want to vote on being tough on prisoners and criminals on a big television day," Welborn said, "but I think it is a mistake to pass legislation that is going to undermine some of the alternative programs we put forth."

But the sponsor, Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, said the cost of letting prisoners go free too soon exceeds, immeasurably, the cost of keeping them behind bars until their minimum sentences have been served.

"The minute that 15-year person walks into the front door at Jackson prison," he said, "that sentence is going to be reduced to about 11.5 years for good time—it really doesn't matter whether you earn it or not."

The bills would:
● Assure that felons who commit assaultive crimes would serve at least the minimum sentence in secure confinement. Currently some may be paroled or released to half-way houses.

● Eliminate "good time" which can reduce an inmate's sentence by seven days per month and replace it with "bad time" under which an inmate's sentence could be lengthened beyond the minimum for prison infractions.

According to various fiscal estimates, the bills could cost the state 9,000 additional prison beds (currently 36,000 felons are behind bars), a one-time construction cost of $90 million and annual operating costs of $98 million. This year the Corrections Department budget is $1.1 billion.

Van Regenmorter, chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said perpetrators of violent crimes should not be eligible for alternative programs until their minimum sentences have been served.

"We are talking half-way houses, we are talking tether programs, we are talking furloughs where prisoners, often violent prisoners, are pretty much free to go about their business—whatever that business might be."

Others are: first- or second-degree murder; kidnapping and hostage-taking; drunk driving or drunk boating that caused death or long-term injury; burning buildings or natural resources; assault; robbery, armed or unarmed robbery; bank robbery; disarming a police officer; breaking and entering an occupied house; first-degree child abuse and sexually abusive activity; and disarming a police officer.

Refer to Senate Bills 40 and 41 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Man arrested for assaulting woman

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Northville man was arrested by city police for aggravated assault after an April 13 incident in which he allegedly fractured his girlfriend's face and ankle.

The incident occurred about 11:30 p.m. when the woman, a 22-year-old Birmingham resident, stopped at the man's house and asked him to talk. She told police that the man refused to talk to her, and refused to let her into the house.

As she was leaving, the woman noticed a purse in a car parked in the driveway. She went through it to see whose it was. When she returned to her car, she said, the man came out and attacked her, punching her in the head four or five times. When she tried to break free, she said, he kicked her twice in the left leg and she fell to the ground.

The man then drove off with another woman, while the injured woman made her way to her parents' home. Her parents took her to Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, where she was treated for a fractured ankle and a facial fracture.

When the woman reported the incident to police the next day, she was in a short leg cast and on crutches. Police also observed bruises on her left forearm and bruises and swelling on the left side of her face.

Police called the man in for questioning April 15 and he told them that the woman had been pursuing and harassing him for some time and he just wanted to be left alone. Police had no records of previous complaints from the man regarding the woman's behavior.

The man was released on a $100 cash bond. He is scheduled to be arraigned on the high misdemeanor charge in 35th District Court Wednesday, May 18.

Presented by: SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments
Detroit, MI 48226 (313) 961-4266

The public is invited to review and submit comments on amendments to the 2015 Regional Transportation Plan for Southeast Michigan (RTP) and the Fiscal Year (FY) 1994-1996 Transportation Improvement Program (TIP) during the public comment period, April 25 to June 9, 1994. The RTP and the TIP are listings of federally and non-federally funded major road and transit service improvements proposed by various communities, road agencies, transit agencies and the Michigan Department of Transportation. The Federal Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act (ISTEA) emphasizes the public's opportunity to review and comment on road and transit projects proposed for federal funding. This public comment process is part of SEMCOG's overall responsibility for formulating the RTP and the TIP, and for approving projects for federal funding.

The additional projects are located in the Southeast Michigan counties of Livingston, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland and Wayne. The types of proposed projects include construction of new roads, widening of existing roads, improvement to existing freeway interchanges and the construction of a new freeway interchange. The TIP document identifies the location of each project, estimated cost, the source of funds and the agency or community which has jurisdiction over the project.

Written comments concerning the projects should be submitted to John M. Amberger, Executive Director of SEMCOG, at 660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900, Detroit, MI, 48226. Verbal responses may also be made at SEMCOG's General Assembly meeting to be held at the Engineering Society of Detroit, 100 Farmworth, Detroit, Thursday June 9, 1994 at 4:30 p.m.

Below is a list of the projects which are proposed to be amended to the 2015 Regional Transportation Plan for Southeast Michigan. Projects marked with an asterisk (*) are also proposed for amendment to the FY 1994-1996 Transportation Improvement Program. Township residents can obtain interest-free home fix-up loans

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Are you a Northville Township resident whose house could stand a revamp but whose income level won't allow it?

If so, township officials want you to know that they have a way to help: federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) money, in the form of an interest-free loan.

Many township residents, especially a lot of senior citizens, are eligible for the loans, program coordinator Maureen Osiecki said. Despite that, the township didn't receive a single application for one last year.

The problem, she explained, is twofold: letting township residents know the money's out there and then getting those who can qualify for one to apply. Some think the funds are a "handout," Osiecki said, and others shy away because the loan requires a lien to be placed on the applicant's home.

"A lot of people are embarrassed over the lien, especially our seniors," Osiecki said. "They think it's a black mark. I tell them that they've worked hard for years and years and years and now they should enjoy their home at this time in their lives."

"The money's a loan," she added. "We'll get it back eventually."

Osiecki said folks should look at the loans in a different light: why shouldn't people who've paid their taxes for so long get a return on their investment? What better way to make their home a better place to live than to borrow some bucks from the government they've helped to support?

"It's important to us in the township that no one should lose their homestead," Osiecki said. "Our residents are important to us. These are people who've struggled and deserve to live in a decent home."

"This is one example of a federal program that works and works well."

Maureen Osiecki
CDBG program coordinator

She described the situation of a recent applicant who had his home re-roofed with a CDBG loan.

"He shouldn't have to move because of a bad roof," Osiecki said. "He's paid his taxes and he should be able to enjoy his home."

"There are so many residents out there who can use this help," she added. "The income level requirement means that seniors are mainly the ones eligible, but we also have some people who are disabled, for example, and receiving Social Security."

The loan for the home improvements is interest-free, Osiecki stressed, and doesn't need to be repaid until the home's ownership changes or the home's residents' income rises above the qualifying levels.

To qualify for a loan, you need to be:

- A Northville Township resident.
- Owning or buying your own home in the township and living in it.
- Paid up with the township for any tax or service bills.
- Have a low or moderate income as defined by the CDBG guidelines. (All information, Osiecki emphasized, is kept strictly confidential.)

Those guidelines are also fairly specific as to what a loan may be used for, Osiecki said: a new furnace, piping, water heater, roof, electrical work and some structural improvements. Funds have been used to connect homes to municipal water and sewer lines and for handicapped modifications, she said.

Those interested should contact Osiecki at the township's Water and Sewer Department at 348-5820.

DO YOU QUALIFY FOR A FEDERALLY-FUNDED HOME IMPROVEMENT LOAN?

The law says you do if your annual income and the number of people living in your house are at or below the following levels:

Household residents:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
Low income:	16,350	18,700	21,000	23,350	25,200	27,100	28,950	30,800
Moderate income:	26,150	29,900	33,600	37,350	40,350	43,350	46,350	49,300

ing, she said: proof of home ownership—your deed or title—and proof of income for the previous year and for this year up to now, such as a tax return.

There are forms to fill out and then an inspection of your home, Osiecki explained. The time from a first approach to approval to the improvement job being done is two to three months at most, depending on the construction season, she added.

"This is one example of a federal program that works and works well," Osiecki said.

Township waits on word of Feb. fire's cause, cost

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

While the Feb. 2 fire at Innsbrook Apartments died quickly, the investigation it sparked about how it started and what its final damage cost will come to is still smoldering.

State fire investigators have identified a preliminary cause in the blaze that left the residents of four apartments homeless. Northville Township's fire department officials hope to get the final report on that, as well as the final estimate from insurance underwriters on the blaze's total price tag this week or next.

The fire occurred the afternoon of Wednesday, Feb. 2. Firefighters confinied it to just one of Innsbrook's apartment buildings, but had to evacuate it and two others next to it for safety reasons.

No one was seriously hurt in the blaze and most people living there were able to return to their homes that evening. Some, however, were not so lucky as the flames damaged or destroyed their apartments and many of their possessions.

Area residents, businesses and relief agencies lent a helping hand, ensuring that the victims' basic needs were met.

Fire Chief Ricke Rosselle last week said that the state fire marshal investigating the blaze had given him a preliminary report on the fire's cause: a faulty electrical thermal coupler switch on one apartment's furnace.

"The switch normally shuts off a furnace when it gets too hot but it didn't in this case, according to the report," Rosselle said.

Investigators in the first days following the fire were checking out the furnace connection, and later looked at the possibility of an electrical problem between the building's two floors.

The chief indicated that he also hoped for word soon on the insurance underwriters' report of the financial loss the blaze caused. Experienced observers say it will be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Odyssey team places sixth in state

The Winchester Elementary Odyssey of the Mind structure team, Division I, placed sixth out of 27 teams at state competition April 16 at Central Michigan University.

The team's structure held 459 pounds with an additional 75 points awarded for successfully releasing a ping pong ball undamaged.

This team also entered a Hat, Float and Banner contest and took first place out of 26 entries. They will represent the state of Michigan in the opening ceremonies of the world competition June 1-4 at the University of Iowa.

Donations will be appreciated.

Their float will be a 10-foot inflatable world with two team members inside to move it. The banner will be a 6-foot by 6-foot wooden frame on wheels with vertical blinds that will rotate back to front. The front side will be a map of Michigan and the back side will have a picture with the saying "OM Shapes the Minds of the Future."

The team will be having a pop can and bottle collection on Saturday, May 14, to raise funds to help defray the cost of the trip.

Checks may be made out to Northville Odyssey of the Mind and sent to Winchester Elementary, 16141 Winchester Drive, Northville, MI 48167.

This team has represented Northville at both regional and state competitions for the past four years.

VOTE YES, YES May 3rd

Letter from Novi's Library Director

As the Northville District Library May 3rd election nears, a question about future access to the resources of neighboring community libraries has been raised. Specifically, if voters reject this current chance to support adequate local Northville District Library resources, can they continue to access the collections and services of public libraries in other communities in an unlimited way?

As Director of Novi Public Library, and a resident of Northville, I am very concerned about having to limit library access to anyone. due to their membership in the Wayne Oakland Library Federation, the communities of Northville, Northville Township, Novi and Novi Township are among the many communities in Wayne, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw Counties that share library resources. Recently, I have heard from Novi taxpayers who are concerned that their access to their own public library's resources is compromised due to heavy use by residents of other communities, including Northville and Northville Township. As communities grow, and demand for new and expensive electronic information access grows, there will be more and more attention paid to the way that locally funded library resources are used. Obviously, extreme use of locally funded library services by other communities that have not chosen to support their own library service cannot be overlooked.

Those in positions of responsibility, such as Library Directors and Library Boards, have to represent the interests of their taxpayers, and may need to follow remedies provided in the Library Cooperative law. If residents of one community use the library resources of another community in excess of reasonable reciprocity, limits may be imposed.

Rather than considering limits, we need to be focusing on expanded opportunities. A strong, well-funded library in Northville guarantees that local residents will have a place to go to get not only the traditional resources, but help in adjusting to the greatest explosion of information resources since the advent of the printing press. I look forward to a successful outcome of the May 3rd election and a growing sense of partnership between the Northville and Novi libraries as we each seek to offer more and more services, and not to limit them.

Sincerely,
Brenda Evans
Library Director, Novi

Questions & Answers

At fifty coffees and presentations held in the community during the last month, some questions were raised about library service needs.

Will Library Board members be paid?

No. Library Board members serve as volunteers.

Why pay for library services with a millage?

Many communities support libraries with millage (of no more than 2 mills by law) because it is a more stable source of funding than budgets of local governments. Millages and elected library boards make the library accountable to the community.

Why should I tax myself for the library?

I'll just use Novi's library.

In the first quarter of 1994, Northville residents borrowed 12.6% of the materials borrowed at Novi. When one community's use of another community's library exceeds 5%, restrictions may be applied. Why should Novi residents pay taxes for Northville residents to use their library?

Why not use an existing building to house the library - wouldn't this be cheaper?

Existing buildings cost money, too. In addition to the purchase price, extensive renovations are required to turn most building into libraries. Heavy shelving stacks, fiber optic lines for computers, the Disabilities Act, and parking are special requirements which have made those buildings available in Northville too expensive to convert.

What about parking - will we have enough behind the Community Center?

The parking study done by City Planners for the Library Board shows that even after construction of a new building, improvements and correct lining of the lot will provide more spaces than are currently available. There will be enough parking, even at peak periods of business (not craft shows, though).

Homestead form filing deadline: May 1

Homeowners are being reminded that they must file their Homestead Property Tax Exemption Affidavit by May 1 in order to be eligible for the new lower school property tax rate for 1994. The original deadline of March 1 was extended to May 1.

Filing the exemption affidavit will entitle eligible homeowners to lower their school operating millage rate from its 1993 level to 6 mills in most areas.

If a homeowner has not yet filed his or her affidavit, forms are available at all city and township assessors' offices or by calling (800) FORM-2-ME.

Allow three days for delivery of the form. Completed affidavits must be delivered to the local assessor's office by close of business on Saturday, April 30.

The form must be filed by April 29 in those cities and townships which do not have Saturday hours. If mailed, forms must be postmarked prior to May 1.

Following are some frequently asked questions about applying for the homestead property tax exemption:

Who is eligible for the exemption?

You are eligible to exempt your property from the locally-voted 18 school operating mills if your home is your principal and permanent residence. Tests to determine principal residence included such things as: Where are you registered to vote? What is the address on your driver license? Where do your children attend school?

Who cannot claim an exemption?

Owners of second homes cannot claim an exemption on the second home. Non-Michigan residents who own a home in Michigan cannot claim an exemption.

I bought a home before May 1 but will not move into it until after May 1. May I claim an exemption on my new home for 1994?

No. Since you did not own and occupy the home before the filing date, you may not file a claim for 1994. However, the previous owner may have claimed the property and that exemption remains in effect until Jan. 1. You may file a claim for your new home in 1995.

I own an 8-unit apartment building classified as commercial property and one unit is my principal residence. May I claim an exemption on my unit?

Yes, complete section 3 of the affidavit.

If homeowners have more specific questions about whether they qualify for the exemption, they should call their assessor's office for clarification.

The form must be filed by April 29 in those cities and townships which do not have Saturday hours. If mailed, forms must be postmarked prior to May 1.

How much did you lose last year on nondeductible interest?

FIXED RATE

Maybe you've noticed it while getting your taxes ready. All the interest you've paid on consumer loans that's not deductible.

Well, now's the time to think of a strategy for next year's taxes. And consider borrowing against the equity in your home.

At First of America, we can lock you into a low fixed 7.50 percent APR loan with terms of up to seven years. To make the offer even more attractive, all fees will be waived, so there will be no annual fee, appraisal fees, closing costs or points. And you'll have a fixed monthly payment that will never change. The sooner you take advantage of it, the more you can save on financing home improvements, education, a car or anything else worthwhile. You can even refinance a loan that you have somewhere else.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to make sure the interest is tax deductible.

We can give qualified applicants fast approval—usually within 24 hours.

So stop by any First of America office or call for an application or more information. And make last year's nondeductible interest a thing of the past.

MICHAEL KEY

On March 21 the Northville Arts Commission lost a valued associate and a true friend when Michael Key succumbed to sickle cell anemia. During his relatively short sojourn of years on the commission, Mr. Key made many friends and earned the respect and affection of many artist/exhibitors at the Northville Art Market.

He built artist participation to a peak of 60 exhibitors in only a few years time and his good nature will always be remembered by painters, sculptors and other artists.

The Northville Arts Commission at its April 19 meeting unanimously approved renaming the art market's winning award of "Best of Show" to the "Michael Key" award, in his memory.

token, reduce the millage we charged during the deficit situation," she said. "I feel that I made a promise to do my best to lower the millage."

Council Member Mark Cryderman

argued that the cuts would not make much of a difference in service levels.

"I think a good case can be made that we maintained services throughout the deficit," he said. "The only comment I heard was that we didn't sweep the streets as often . . .

and I don't see anything here that translates into a decrease in what people see as city services."

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held Monday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

ACORD plans an ethnic dinner

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Fun, food and learning are getting together on Tuesday in downtown Northville.

A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity (ACORD) has organized an ethnic dinner for May 3 at

The Wooden Roast, located on Mary Alexander Court in the city. The idea, ACORD member Mary Ellen King explained, is for diners to enjoy fellowship and exotic cuisine—and even learn a little along the way.

"The Wooden Roast is the only Persian restaurant in Michigan," King said. "Everyone's welcome to attend the dinner. We'll all just sit and talk and have a good time."

"The owner said he'd give a short talk about Persian food," she added. "It's nice for everyone to have the chance to learn about another country's culture."

Call King at 344-1618 to RSVP.

Auction/dinner is huge success

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The April 23 Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation dinner/auction was, by all reports, a big success.

Those who attended enjoyed an evening of delicious food and bidding excitement and organizers report that the night raised far more money than they'd hoped.

"It was just a good event all around," Friends President Marv Gans said. "This was a total community effort with total community involvement. Everyone gave it lots of support."

Held Saturday at Schoolcraft College, the dinner/auction aimed to raise half of the $33,000 in matching funds the Rec Department needs to secure a $100,000 state grant.

That grant money would be used for renovating Fish Hatchery Park, located on Seven Mile.

The Friends took in about $33,000 on Saturday, Gans said, and will have about $24,000 to $25,000 left after expenses. That's thousands more than the $16,500 organizers were shooting for.

"We're quite pleased," Gans said. The Friends board will formally consider the question of putting the money toward the Fish Hatchery Park grant at its next meeting, set for May 10.

If the Friends board, as expected, earmarks the money for the grant matching funds, the group will then lobby the city and township to kick in for the remaining amount.

Called "A Taste of Northville," the dinner on Saturday featured a menu crafted by local restaurateurs. They did "a fantastic job," Gans said. "The food was excellent."

Northville High School honors students served the meal to the 200 guests in attendance. Following the meal, diners got the chance to bid on a dizzying variety of items which local merchants donated to the cause. Chamber of Commerce President Laurie Marrs was the top bidder on the evening's most expensive item, a sporty red Jeep.

After the evening's fun was done, Meads Mill Middle School students—members of the Junior Friends organization—helped clean up—"a total community effort," as Gans said.

The bidding was fast and furious at the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation dinner/auction April 23. Several novelty items, including a Red Wings jersey autographed by Dino Ciccarelli, were sold during the fund-raiser.

Garden Club offering women's scholarships

The Northville Garden Club is offering three $1,000 scholarships. Sponsored by the Women's National Farm & Garden Association, the scholarships were created to encourage and support women to complete undergraduate degrees for entry or reentry into the job market.

One scholarship is being offered at Schoolcraft College and two scholarships are available at Madonna University to candidates who meet certain criteria.

Madonna scholarships are targeted for women who reside within the Northville school district and are attending Madonna University or who wish to attend Madonna during the 1994-95 academic year.

Schoolcraft College applicants must be female; must have completed a minimum of one semester in any field; and must submit a copy of their college transcripts with a minimum 3.0 grade point average.

All candidates at both schools are required to submit a 100-200 word statement of their career goals, how they are currently financing their education, and how the scholarship will make a difference to them.

Schoolcraft's application deadline is April 29 and forms are available from the college's financial aid office, located in the Student Services Building.

Applications at Madonna University are due May 5 and are available by calling Suzanne Hansmecht at (810)348-9531.

The Northville Women's National Farm and Garden Association Chapter will announce the award recipients no later than June 30.

The 39-year-old garden club chapter, in addition to its educational focus, has contributed to the aesthetic and ecological aspects of the community.

Engler deep-sixes bond bill for districts

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Gov. John Engler has vetoed a bill giving school districts power to issue bonds to purchase high-tech equipment and computers.

The governor said Senate Bill 597 went too far and offered to sign a modified version if passed by the Legislature.

"I will support an amendment to the school code that does allow bonding for furnishing of partially remodeled schools and for technological hardware for instructional purposes," Engler said, "as long as language is included that ensures that the bonds for technology cannot be issued for longer than the useful life of the equipment."

The governor also opposed:
● Allowing school districts to refund bonds at higher interest rates if the bonds were consolidated with a new debt issue.
● Using sinking funds for the purchase of new technology.

Engler's veto message was received last week by the Senate, which placed the bill on its calendar. The Senate did not take it up during the April 20 all-day session over the teachers labor relations act.

Northville's need for a new library proposal is examined

do what we're supposed to do, which is to develop a first-class facility and operation."

The board's plans call for a new two-story, 25,000-square-foot library straddling the hill south of city hall and the Northville Recreation Center, on land owned by the city and Northville Public Schools. Both the city and schools have endorsed the board's plans and the site.

The Cady Street site has been eyed by library site committees since 1976, when plans were first drawn up for a library similar to the one being considered now. But that plan fell through when Northville was unable to obtain federal grants to help fund he project.

The site was the second choice for a new library after the former Ford Valve Plant in 1988, until the Haller Library proposal arose. Since township voters rejected the Haller plan in 1990, the land has been sold to a developer for a residential subdivision and the Ford Plant has been transferred to a private manufacturer.

"Northville is a first-class community that has a second-class library, to put it simply," Buckland said.

He noted that the current facility, at 6,200 square feet, is well below guidelines stating that a community's library should have one square foot for every resident. The 1990 census figured Northville's total population at 22,539, and the population is expected to peak around 40,000.

Under the ballot language drafted by the Northville District Public Library Board, voters will be asked two questions—whether to approve the levy of up to 1 mill in perpetuity to fund library operations, and whether to approve the issuance of up to $4.5 million in general obligation bonds to fund a new library.

Board members decided to seek a specific bond amount rather than a set millage for the new facility to allow them to sell general obligation bonds to finance the project, instead of limited obligation bonds. General obligation bonds typically draw a lower interest rate for financing, which would save the community interest costs over the years.

Based on a 15-year repayment period and at a 6.5-percent interest rate, the millage for financing the new facility would vary from .638 mills the first year to .422 mills the final year, for an average millage of .523. If the repayment period was extended to 20 years, the millage rate would vary between .545 and .311 mills for a .417-mill average.

Both sets of figures are based on an average 3-percent annual growth rate in Northville's total State-Equalized Value.

If the vote passes, the District Library Board will begin hammering out a process for selecting an architect at its Thursday, May 8 meeting.

Campaign committee backs plan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Northville Library Campaign Committee is urging residents to vote "Yes, Yes" May 3 and assure a new facility as well as the operating funds needed to restore service hours, book and periodical budgets and programs.

"What we're trying to do is give Northville a library that will do, not only for the present but also for the near future," said Committee Chairman Phil Smith. "Everything about our present library is substandard."

Smith noted that the library's popular children's programs are often overcrowded, and the groups sometimes have to meet in the council chambers upstairs instead of in the library. Staffing cuts resulted in a reduction of service hours from 58 hours a week to 50 hours a week in January, 1992, and the low staffing levels have forced the library to close early several times.

With a 1-mill operating millage and a new facility, Smith said, the library could expand its operating hours, restore its book and periodical budgets, add more children's programs and add book delivery programs to senior citizens at Allen Terrace and shut-ins.

Board members have also discussed the possibility of incorporating fiber optic technology from Northville Public Schools in the new facility too, so that students could have access to the library from their schools and vice-versa.

A 1-mill operating levy would increase the library's budget from its current $413,419 level to about $757,000 a year.

Voting precinct locations

City and township precinct polling places for Tuesday's library election will be the same as they were for the March 15 Proposal A vote.

City voters living in Wayne County homes will cast ballots at Precinct No. 1, located in Northville City Hall. City residents who live in Oakland County neighborhoods can vote at Precinct No. 2 at American Elementary, Eight Mile at Center.

The township is divided into 10 precincts.

Precincts 1 and 3 are in Moraine

Elementary, 46811 Eight Mile. Precincts 2, 8 and 9 will be set up in Silver Springs Elementary, 19801 Silver Springs Drive.

Precincts 4 and 7 will be located in Meads Mill Middle School, 16700 Franklin Road near Six Mile.

Precincts 5 will be in the Kings Mill clubhouse, Kings Mill off Northville Road.

And precincts 6 and 10 will be located at Winchester Elementary, 16141 Winchester Drive.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Boosters invite you to meet coaches on May 2

The dog then ran at him in a very aggressive manner, Cole said. He swung his baton but missed, he said, causing the dog to run behind a nearby parked car. It then soon ran at him again, Cole continued, still in a very aggressive manner.

"I felt that it was going to bite me and, judging from its teeth and mouth, possibly cause severe injuries," he said.

He added that Plante at no time tried to call off the dog. Other witnesses, however, say that Plante did try to retrieve the dog and defuse the situation.

The Northville Record spoke to Plante Wednesday morning before reviewing the police reports on the incident. The Record was unable to contact him Wednesday afternoon before presstime for a response to the allegations.

Cole said he pivoted his body as the dog approached until he could safely fire his weapon. He shot the dog once with his .45 caliber Glock semi-automatic handgun.

Cole and police investigators maintain that no one was in the direction of the muzzle of his gun when he fired, that he fired at a downward angle into the dog and towards a nearby wooded area.

Township Police Lieutenant Gary Batzloff said that after reviewing all the information, the department feels that Cole faced a legitimate concern for his safety and his response was appropriate.

Plante should not have unleashed the dog, Batzloff and other police officials said, and failed to control it throughout the incident. Those actions contributed to the problem, officials said.

Scooter, the family's 50-pound, eight-year-old German Shepherd / Labrador mix, was hit in the chest. Kimberly Plante said her two-year-old son David was standing near Scooter when the dog was shot.

"I didn't see the whole thing," said the distraught mother minutes after the incident. "I saw him pull the gun out and I was screaming 'Don't shoot, don't shoot'... It's like he didn't even look at who was around. He just shot... My son could have been shot."

Some witnesses at the scene said they felt the officer overreacted. David Plante said that a veterinarian on Wednesday morning was trying to determine if the dog's internal bleeding had stopped. An operation may be necessary, he said.

Township police issued Plante two tickets, one for not having a dog license and one for harboring a vicious dog, a charge he denies.

Some neighbors said in statements to police that the dog was aggressive with strangers—and has chased or frightened some—although it was friendly with people it knew. Some residents also alleged that the dog was seldom leashed and allowed to roam the area.

The Scenic Harbour resident told police Wednesday afternoon that he did not wish to press charges, Batzloff said.

Sitting at her kitchen table after the incident, Kimberly Plante wondered about the incident's long-range impact.

"I just worry about the effects on my son, seeing a gun fired like that," she said. "It's not something you want a two-year-old seeing, someone who's supposed to protect you shooting your dog."

Mill Race Matters

Spring arrives and Mill Race Village comes to life. This Sunday, May 1, at 2 p.m. all persons interested in assisting this season at the Village should meet at the Cady Inn.

Interpreters are needed for all eight buildings for Sunday afternoons from June through October and for occasional weekday and holiday special events. Docents serve as volunteers and act as Northville envoys to the Village's many visitors.

Docents who have worked previously are encouraged to attend as are newcomers and individuals interested in learning more about this community. Discussion will be held on methods to make the current system more effective. The meeting should last about two hours and provide time to get acquainted and socialize as well. Training will be available for new volunteers.

One special event which will need decent coordination is the Country Garden Club of Northville Garden tour visit to Mill Race scheduled for July. This column misidentified the group last week. Many apologies. More about this event in the weeks to come.

Thanks this week go to No. VI Station Questers for their contribution to the composite picture project. Thanks also to Gerry McCrumb for donation of 1936 and 1938 Palladiums. Help is still needed on both projects.

Saturday, May 14, is the date for the Northville Historical Society Progressive Dinner. Members should have received invitations by now. This year's event will conclude with entertainment at Mill Race Village. Cost is $20 per person for members and $25 per person for non-members plus an assigned dish for dinner. Appetizers begin at 7 p.m. Send registration through May 2 to Northville Historical Society, P.O. Box 71, Northville, MI 48167-1421.

This year's annual membership meeting is scheduled for Thursday, May 19. All members and friends are encouraged to attend. More details next week.

SEMCOG endorses ball park

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A regional planning agency gave a 2-1 endorsement to state legislation that would help build a new downtown Detroit Tiger Stadium.

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) endorsed House Bill 5235 to create Michigan Sports and Entertainment Economic Development Authority (SPEEDA). The vote was 21 to 9.

"First Poletown. Then Willow Run. Now it's a move to subsidize an entertainment business," objected Novi Councilmember Tim Pope. "What's the role of government in this?"

"I agree with Mr. Pope," added Birmingham Councilmember Dante

Lanzetta Jr. "This is a done deal. I don't think this is proper."

The split vote was a rarity for SEMCOG, where most planning projects are approved unanimously.

Sponsored by Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, the SPEEDA bill would create a seven-member board appointed by the governor within the state Commerce Department.

SPEEDA would administer the authority, review and approve projects, create sports and entertainment zones, hold public hearings and issue bonds to support projects.

Tigers owner Mike Ilitch says he will use private funds to build a new $225 million, 47,000-seat stadium but wants state help for related land acquisition, demolition and road work.

Elizabeth Slinde, Macomb County commissioner who chairs SEMCOG's Community and Economic Development Advisory Council, said the bill aims to help "downtown areas that contain under-utilized property or low relative property values" and isn't confined to helping Detroit.

MEA bill was political battle

Staff Writer

Gaunt and pale, Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, left his recovery bed April 20 to give state Senate Republicans the 19th vote they needed to enact a law limiting the bargaining power of teachers unions. Senators gave Honigman, who lost much of his colon in surgery, a bipartisan welcome, but that was before he voted yes two hours later on House Bill 5128, a major revision of provisions changes in the labor law Democrats won in 1965.

The GOP needed Honigman's vote because two Republicans—Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Jon Cisky of Saginaw—crossed over into the no column.

Dillingham unsuccessfully supported softening amendments that would have left the unions more bargaining issues. Then he denounced "both sides of the aisle for playing to the cameras. We seem to be in a power collision. We're playing politics. I'm getting mad as hell," said Dillingham, who frequently has split with Republicans on labor bills in the last two years.

"It will cause an exodus of teachers. It will cause A and B students to be repelled from the profession of teaching," said Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor.

Teacher unionists packed the Senate gallery. Three times they applauded Democratic opponents of the bill and then booed Republicans on final passage. Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld, a former teacher, gavelled for silence and threatened to have them removed for disrupting Senate debate.

Republicans kept Binsfeld in the chair as presiding officer in case her vote was needed to break a tie. It wasn't. The GOP had the votes despite the defections of Dillingham and Cisky.

Area Republicans Robert Geake of Northville and Honigman voted yes but made no speeches. Area Democrats Jack Faxon of Farmington and Lana Pollack and Dillingham voted no and were vocal about it.

HB 5128 is certain to be signed by Gov. John Engler, not only because it would fine teachers a day's pay for a day's strike, but also because it would prohibit their unions from bargaining to take away school quality measures that Engler won last year.

Teachers unions, which have conducted 48 strikes since 1988, also would be fined $5,000 per strike day. The fines would go into the state treasury.

Republicans estimate Michigan school districts will save up to $1 billion by a second key provision—giving school boards the right to take bids on health insurance contracts. Currently, MEA bargains not only for the level of benefits but to have its health insurance subsidiary, MESSA, administer the benefits.

The law, which will take effect April 1, 1995, prohibits teachers unions from bargaining over:

- Starting day of classes and amount of "pupil contact time."
- Composition of "site-based decision-making bodies" and school improvement committees, which new laws require be broadly based.
- Organizing public school academies, which would be authorized solely by school boards.
- Contracting out to the private sector such non-instructional services as transportation, janitorial and food service.

- Use of volunteers in schools.
- Experimental or pilot programs and their staffing.

Republicans said the strike provision would put teachers on the same footing as UAW and Teamsters members, who lose pay when they strike. Not so, said Sen. John Cherry, D-Clio. "We (lawmakers) have insisted on 180 days of work. This bill says you (striking teachers) will work without pay."

Faxon blistered Republicans for discharging the bill from the Education Committee before that panel could hold a hearing on it. "What is the calamity we are about to address? The Senate has never done this before," Faxon said.

Countered Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto: "Nineteen hearings have been held and reams of testimony taken on the issues in this bill."

The House last week discharged the bill from its Labor Committee and passed it with only Republican votes. Area representatives all voted with their parties.

'Wheels' withdraws

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Forbidden Wheels motorcycle club has formally notified Northville Township officials that the club is withdrawing its request to establish a headquarters on Northville Road.

Late last Thursday afternoon Forbidden Wheels representative Bill Kuczek faxed a number of documents to Supervisor Karen Baja, including a letter from Kuczek, a copy of the club's letter to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and a copy of the agreement the group signed last week to put the parcel on the market.

MDNR approval would have been necessary for the clubhouse construction plan, as it called for filling in part of a floodway.

"We have entered into an agreement with a commercial real estate company to market the property in anticipation of recouping as much of our original investment as possible," Kuczek said in the letter. "During this marketing term, one of our club members will be renting the house (located on the property) to help absorb the holding costs that are being encountered."

The northwest Detroit club earlier this year announced that it had bought a parcel in the township on Northville Road between Five and Six Mile. Forbidden Wheels sought township approval to build its new club headquarters there, giving rise to strong local opposition.

That opposition—some which included threatening phone calls and letters, Kuczek said—led Forbidden Wheels to drop its efforts and put the land up for sale.

Kuczek added that he felt township officials' handling of Forbidden Wheels' request was "fair and nondiscriminative."

Controversy over the location of the clubhouse was fueled by the distribution of newspaper articles reporting on criminal accusations against members of the club. Copies of the articles, some of which dated back to 1969, were anonymously delivered to several locations, including The Northville Record.

Trustees are expected to be officially notified of the group's decision at their meeting tonight, April 28.

New library, funds for current one at stake

Northville community voters will decide the fate of two ballot questions in Tuesday's election. At stake are 1 mill for library operations and authorization to sell $4.5 million in revenue bonds to finance the construction of a new library building south of city hall.

The issues, though interrelated, are independent of each other and must be decided separately. Voters will have the opportunity to approve both, reject both or pass one while turning down the other.

The requests come barely a month after passage of Proposal A, and weary taxpayers are liable to wonder if government didn't grant a big tax cut just so it could begin a new round of increases. On the other hand, given the sizeable reduction in property taxes just approved, now might not be a bad time to seek new levies. Timing aside, let's look at the issues more closely.

The 1-mill request would provide operating funds for the existing library. Anyone who uses the cramped quarters on the lower level of city hall knows that this community has what can only be regarded as a minimal operation, almost a token facility. Much of the collection is out of date and hours of operation are limited.

Evidence that Northville readers are driving to superior libraries in nearby communities is apparent from figures for the first quarter of this year. In the January-to-March period, Northville residents accounted for 12.6 percent of total circulation at the Novi Public Library and 6.8 percent of Plymouth Library's circulation.

The problem with this situation is that the Wayne / Oakland Library Federation of which Northville, Novi and Plymouth are a part permits the imposition of restrictions when out-community residents account for more than 5 percent of a library's circulation rates.

That means that both Novi and Plymouth would be within their rights if they began to limit borrowings from Northville residents. They could also impose a user's fee on Northville patrons or even ask for monetary contributions from the general funds of both the city and the township.

Approval of the 1-mill request would establish a "dedicated" millage that would be earmarked specifically for library operations in Northville. Elected officials would not have the authority to raid the fund to make up for shortages in other programs.

One mill would cost a homeowner with a $200,000 house $100 a year in taxes, but the net increase could be somewhat less than that. Northville Township currently provides .38 mill for library operations, and trustees have already voted to return that millage to township residents should the 1-mill request pass.

The Northville City Council has not exactly followed suit but has agreed to eliminate its library general fund contribution, currently the equivalent of roughly .67 mill. This, in turn, could lead to either a reduction in millage or a shifting of dollars to other service areas that require funding anyway.

In a literate community such as this, there is little doubt that people can and would make use of a properly stocked full-service library. We believe the request for a dedicated millage is responsible and justified and urge a yes vote on this issue.

The second issue, a companion request for bonds to pay for a new building, is a little more complicated.

If approved, community officials would gain authorization to sell $4.5 million dollars in general obligation bonds to pay for a 25,000 square foot library. Though final approval has not been given to a specific site, a parcel straddling the hill behind city hall and the Recreation Center is the odds-on favorite.

Construction of the building would begin in the spring of 1995, with opening scheduled for sometime in the spring or summer of 1996.

The bonds would pay all costs associated with the new building, including construction, furnishings, parking improvements and architect's fees.

Land costs do not apply, as the property is owned by both the city and the school district and no purchase or lease price would be imposed.

The ballot language does not mention a millage and officials would be permitted to levy whatever millage rate is necessary to retire the debt on the bonds. Planners are considering two payment methods: a 15-year plan requiring an average annual levy of .52 mill, and a 20-year schedule with a .42 average yearly millage.

The latter plan has a more attractive yearly rate of taxation but the former method would save almost a million dollars in interest.

The cost estimates assume a 6.5 percent interest rate on the bonds and a 3 percent annual increase in local real estate values.

This request is highly conservative and would require tight budgeting on the part of planners. The restrained nature of the proposal might be due to official nervousness over the way voters turned down the extravagant Haller library ballot issue in 1990.

Members of the library board have offered assurances that the annual millage rate will not stray far from the .5 mill estimate, saying that officials will choose to scale back the project before they'll agree to impose higher levies in given years.

This commitment sounds solid, but, fortunately, taxpayers have greater safeguards than just the word of officials. If the bonds pass, a 7-member elected district library board would be established. Like members of the board of education, library trustees would serve without compensation and would be answerable to their constituents at the polls.

A levy of .5 mill would run a homeowner with a $200,000 assessment $50 a year. Coupled with the $100 in operations funds from the 1-mill request, that means residents have a chance to get a new building with up-to-date inventories of books and equipment for $150 a year, and that's not allowing for the savings under the potential roll backs.

We believe nothing short of that is worthy of this great community and recommend a yes vote on the bond request.

Please become informed and vote May 3.

doctor or dentist.

A great-uncle of mine once vowed he'd die a slow death before he'd consent to take insulin injections if, as happened to so many in our family, he was ever given a diagnosis of diabetes.

At it turned out, it never got to that point and Aunt Charlotte was able to continue mixing his daily medicines in with his gin and bitters. It was the only sure way to get the stuff inside his system.

Fortunately, not all of us have a pathological fear of syringes. Northville resident Bob Carter is one of those types who doesn't understand what the fuss is all about. A few years ago, Carter went through the American Red Cross bone marrow donation program, making an overnight stay at the hospital so doctors could extract a tank load of the vital fluid from his mid-section.

"It's not bad, really," he said of the experience. "You're a little sore for a few days, sort of like you fell on the ice, but that's about it."

Carter and 12 other southeast Michigan marrow donors

Most of us eventually outgrow our childhood fears of monsters hiding in closets and spiders descending onto our pillows while we sleep at night.

But an astonishing percentage of adults never are able to overcome their dread of one relatively inoffensive thing: needles.

It's amazing how otherwise mature, rational people will regress into helpless babes-in-arms at the thought of taking a shot from the were honored at a Red Cross function April 23. It was the first recognition event for the courageous souls since the regional donation program was initiated back in 1979.

Though I spent only a few moments with him on the telephone, Mr. Carter didn't strike me as someone who's plagued by a lot of nagging doubts and fears. He works as a special agent for the FBI and it sounds like his idea of a restful vacation could be chasing narco-terrorists through the rain forests of the Amazon valley.

Carter got involved in donor causes when he started giving blood regularly and the medics noticed he had hearty veins. First they convinced him to deepen his commitment by occasionally donating his platelets, a procedure that involves having needles in both arms at the same time, then they went after the true object of their lust.

"They asked me if I'd consider becoming a marrow donor," he remarked matter-of-factly. "They said I might be a possible match for a leukemia patient out in California."

Without hesitation, Carter, whose mother died of cancer in 1982, agreed to the procedure. Soon his marrow would be providing life-sustaining nourishment for a 21-year-old woman on the west coast.

Tragically, the recipient died 13 months after receiving her transplant, but Carter's gift gave her an additional year of precious life.

But I'd better be careful not to make this sound like too big a deal. Carter wants people to know how easy marrow donation is so others might agree to sign on with the program just as he did. If I depict him as some kind of a hero, he might be disappointed. And for me that could mean a fast retreat into the nearest rain forest.

These FBI guys, I hear, can be a bit touchy. Lee Snider is editor of The Northville Record.

Don't worry about Kuckenbecker, though. She obviously doesn't let any grass grow under her feet. She'll keep busy serving as chairperson of Northville's Beautification Committee. And, of course, she has another year to serve as chairperson of the Press Committee for the Northville Woman's Club.

As Kuckenbecker introduced the 1994-95 chairperson, Nancy Ishac, she said Town Hall gave her the opportunity to do something she thought she would never do: "Get up and stand in front of everybody."

From the two Town Hall lecture series I've attended, I would have never guessed Kuckenbecker was nervous. She always appeared calm and collected while addressing the crowds that filled the Renaissance Room at the hotel.

Although I really enjoyed social hostess Alison LaLand's speech in March, I think I had more fun at the April 11 series. Although it was rumored that some Town Hall goers had boycotted that particular lecture because of the controversial McLain, who by the way does have a very dry sense of humor,

You could tell Carmen Kuckenbecker was a little sad as she introduced her last speaker as chairperson of the 1993-94 Northville Town Hall Series.

"I'm sad, but it's a relief, too," Kuckenbecker told me while Livonia Holiday Inn employees set out plates of salad and carrot cake. The brief intermission followed Denny McLain's Town Hall address April 11. The former Detroit Tiger pitcher wrapped up this season's attendance seemed to be high. There were even some men in the audience for once.

But for the April 11 lecture, I actually got the opportunity to stay for the entire event. Although Publicity Chairperson Sue Korte has graciously invited me to stay for lunch each time, I've usually had to dash off after the talk because of deadlines.

I really enjoyed my pork chops and vegetables (except for the uncooked green beans, that is) as well as the conversation among my tablemates.

I also got a more personal look at McLain when he answered questions from the audience following lunch.

The line-up for the 1994-95 series looks just as interesting. Former United States senator William Proxmire (Oct. 10), Ukrainian pianist Victoria Solonina (Nov. 14), master wine-taster Michael Ashington-Pickett (March 13, 1995) and national news correspondent Fred Francis (April 10, 1995) are among those scheduled to make appearances.

Season tickets are $40. Luncheon tickets are $12 each, or $48 for the season. Luncheon tickets may be purchased by season lecture ticket holders only.

For Town Hall ticket orders, send your check, payable to Northville Town Hall, to Shirlee Marshall, P.O. Box 93, Northville, MI 48167-0093.

Luncheon tickets may be reserved by sending a check, no later than two weeks preceding each lecture, in care of Mary Louise Cutler at the same address above.

And Sue, go ahead and make my reservations. I'll be staying for lunch.

Library proposal stirs debate

Perhaps it's poor planning. Perhaps it's lack of funds. Perhaps it's intentionally misleading. We've all seen the signs: "Yes Yes For the Northville Library May 3."

These signs are not posted to lead a cheer for the library. Their intent is to support exactly what is missing from their message: A tax increase!

The signs do not mention that the first "Yes" is to increase our taxes by more than $750,000 per year. Nor do the signs mention that the second "Yes" is a tax increase to cover up to $4,500,000 in new debt. Similarly, letters to the editor from library tax advocates are heavily weighted with the praises of a good library, but are very light on the facts.

Light on the fact that passage of this tax increase will not decrease the City's or Township's taxing authority by the amount currently used to fund the library.

Light on the fact that the proposed new library is beyond walking distance for a major portion of the community, and that other library facilities which are already supported by our tax dollars, such as Schoolcraft College, as well as facilities in Novi and Livonia are closer and/or easier to reach.

Light on the fact that this proposal will increase taxes by about $150 per household, enough to put an on-line computer service in every home.

Don't treat this issue as lightly as they would like you to. Learn the facts, and vote on May 3.

Robert Bernard

Approval urged on Tuesday vote

To the editor:

Public libraries are one of the institutions that make our citizenry so well educated, and also, the most advanced technically and scientifically. When I moved here six months ago, I brought 34 boxes of books with me, but still I visit the libraries frequently. I was surprised to find such a limited budget which resulted in such a small library with such limited hours and limited resources.

In addition, I find the state has commandeered half the revenue generated by the racetrack making it impossible to maintain the present level of services.

Although we have excellent book stores no one can own all the books he needs. The residents that I have met here are library users as are their children who have school and leisure time needs. We cannot expect our neighboring cities to fulfill our needs.

Historically the district library concept has worked only when all member libraries contribute a fair share. Therefore I urge everyone to approve the coming millage vote so that we can have a library which can cooperate with the school system and the district libraries to provide outstanding services at reasonable costs.

Mary Montgomery

Two ballot issues dissected

To the editor:

Tuesday, May 3, the Northville voters will be asked to go to the polls to vote on two ballot questions concerning the proposed new Northville District Library. In the last few weeks during the many informational talks concerning the election given by District Library Board and campaign committee members a few questions recur, most notably the exact meaning of the ballot questions.

The first question if passed will provide for a District Library governed by an independent seven-person elected Board and a one mill dedicated millage to support its operation. The district library concept provides stable funding separate from any governmental unit and accountability to the citizens through its elected board.

The second question does not provide for a specific millage rate, but if passed gives only the District Library Board the authority to borrow up to $4.5 million in bonds to construct a new 25,000 square foot, two-story building on the West Cady Street Site. The millage rate will be about one-half mill depending upon the interest rate and the duration of the bonds for which we apply.

The ballot language and 1.5 mill millage rates were selected based upon the input we received from Northville residents through random surveys, questionnaires, and other personal contacts.

If it is my personal hope that all voters will go to the polls May 3 and voice their opinion on this important issue for Northville's future. Regardless of the outcome of the election, I sincerely hope that this decision is made through a large voter turnout. Please exercise your right on May 3.

Anna Sarkisian

Yes vote means higher taxes

To the editor:

Yes! Yes! means adding another $100 to $300 each year to most tax bills as only a start for yet another, separate government unit. Yes! Yes! means authorizing a bond issue without a definite building site or even the definite costs for a new library.

Yes! Yes! means ignoring the fact that the minority of the taxpayers who use the services will continue to be subsidized by the majority who are infrequent users. No user fees have ever been seriously considered.

Yes! Yes! means ignoring the Schoolcraft College library that is minutes from anywhere in Northville, a library that Northville already supports, a library that is open and available, a library that has twice the material of the current Northville library.

Yes! Yes! means that we should ignore the potential of expanding the hours of the school libraries and ignore the existing university libraries that are minutes away in every direction from Northville.

Yes! Yes! allows Northville Township to keep hundreds of thousands of dollars each year that was previously allocated to the library. The Township trustees have not spoken a word about reducing the tax rate to reflect the double taxation.

Yes! Yes! suggests that every community needs every service regardless of duplication or overlap. Yes! Yes! assumes that there is no limit to the taxpayers willingness to spend.

Are you a Yes! Yes! person or can you see through the screen? Vote No! No! to demonstrate again that we are intelligent, independent voters who think and act accordingly.

Kirk Fisher

(Note: The Northville Township Board of Trustees has, in fact, approved a resolution vowing to roll back the township library millage of .38 mill in the event the May 3 vote passes.)

Geake explains vote on PERA

To the editor:

On April 20, the Senate approved HB 5128, commonly referred to as the Public Employee Relations (PERA) bill. The bill is part of the "cost containment" package that is to work in conjunction with the public's adoption of Proposal A. The primary focus of the bill is to vest the decision making authority on administrative educational matters with locally elected school boards. I voted for HB 5128.

The bill contains enforcement measures relating to illegal lockouts by school districts and to illegal teacher strikes. To fully understand this issue some background is necessary.

Prior to 1965, teachers were at a disadvantage because they were forced to individually negotiate their salaries and benefits. This changed in 1965 when the Legislature adopted laws that allowed teachers to organize and bargain effectively for their employment contracts.

As part of the 1965 legislation, teachers were—and still are—prohibited by law from striking. In turn, school boards are prohibited from using lockouts as a bargaining device. Although the law has existed for 29 years, the ability of school boards and courts to enforce the law was limited.

The remedy was to order teachers to return to work or face dismissal. As an example, the law was enforced in the Crestwood district after a prolonged strike in 1974. The teachers were dismissed, and the school district incurred high legal fees for the individual tenure hearings for the dismissed teachers. Because of the unenforceability of dismissing teachers who participate in an illegal strike, and the high cost to the school districts associated with such dismissals, the law has seldom been enforced.

The provisions in HB 5128 dealing with illegal teacher strikes state that for every day teachers participate in an illegal strike they will lose a day's pay. In addition the teacher's union would be fined $5,000 per day for each day of an illegal teacher strike.

If a school board implements an illegal lockout, the board is fined $5,000 per day, and the individual board members are fined $250 a day. The bill does not make strikes illegal—they have been for 29 years. The bill sets a reasonable enforcement mechanism for an existing law.

HB 5128 also addresses the ability of locally elected school boards to have decision making authority for administrative policies. Specifically, it removes several areas from the collective bargaining process. These include:

- The selection of the insurance carrier for employee benefits. The school board is required to negotiate the benefit level with the employees (the board would be the policy holder).
- The starting day of the school year.

- The decision to authorize a public school academy.
- The decision to contract with a third party for non-instructional services.

- The use of volunteers in the schools.
- Decisions on the use and staffing of technology in the schools.

- Compensation for reimbursement of a penalty imposed due to an illegal strike.

HB 5128 also prohibits the bargaining representative of a state education association from vetoing a collective bargaining agreement that the local association has ratified.

I believe in local control of our schools. I also believe that we elect our school board members to represent our interests in providing our children with the best education possible. HB 5128 vests that authority with the local school boards and provides a reasonable enforcement mechanism for a 29-year-old Michigan law against illegal teacher strikes.

BUSINESS AT ITS BEST!

Luring back early-leaving athletes

Phil Power

News briefs from the sporting world:

- This weekend the National Football League drafted college football stand-outs. Signing bonuses will run into the millions.
- Last week University of Michigan basketball stars Juwan Howard and Jalen

Rose announced they would get the big bucks and turn professional. Both are juniors. How and says he'll be back to finish his degree. Rose almost certainly won't.

- A few weeks ago, some U of M athletes pled no contest to a charge of shoplifting beer. Turns out a plant cashier had been letting them take it without paying. The case drew a lot of media attention.

I'm a newspaper publisher, a former sports editor (with the paper in Fairbanks, Alaska, many years ago) and a regent of the U of M. Below some reflections on the state of college athletics.

First, the fact of the matter is that big-time college sports have become little more than fodder for the entertainment industry.

CBS paid $1 billion to televise this year's NCAA basketball championship. Bo Schembechler used to say that God intended football to be played at 1 p.m. on Saturday afternoons, on grass and out-of-doors, but TV schedules now determine when and where games shall be played. Graduation rates for athletes at most universities are far lower than for the rest of the student body. The pressure to win is great enough that some coaches cheat in recruiting, and a few are caught.

Second, so what?

A lot of people like to watch college sports, especially now that the professional ones seem so pre-packaged, marketed and devoid of any real emotion. What's wrong with that, especially when the colleges, at least those with successful athletic programs, get a lot of TV exposure? And the athletes, even if they don't turn pro, get scholarship rides worth something in excess of $100,000 and a shot at a better life for them and their families.

Third, even if you don't like it, what are you going to do about it?

Not much. There's entirely too much publicity and reputation, not to mention bragging rights, that accompany athletic success. Television exposure, even to university presidents, is habit-forming.

There are costs. Most athletic programs around the country, even big time, lose money. At the University of Michigan, the athletic department has trouble breaking even on a budget of $24 million (including around $2 million in TV money).

But I know of no university planning to eliminate intercollegiate sports.

Fourth, it's still sad to see so many good kids turn pro, when I know full well very few will make it, and many will wind up with no degree, no job and no prospects. College should be something more than an unpaid player development system for the owners of professional sports franchises.

Here's a modest proposal: Whenever a professional team signs kids before they get their degrees, require the team to place in escrow with the university an amount sufficient to fund the eventual completion of the students' degrees whenever they return to school.

This would be an insurance policy as well as an incentive for kids to return to school to get their degrees. And it would, if only symbolically, indicate that even those who own professional teams recognize that at least one purpose of going to college is to get a degree.

Edenderry area opposed to road connections only off of Seven Mile—dispute that they're legally or practically necessary. The Woods plan could address those issues without turning their neighborhood boulevards into major thoroughfares, residents indicated.

Connecting them to Six Mile would bring huge increases in traffic, critics said, endangering residents and destroying the quiet, relaxed atmosphere there.

"Factor it all in and the unequivocal answer to the question of putting these roads in is 'No,'" area spokesperson Bob Grant said, receiving a standing ovation from the audience.

Grant gave the commission a detailed file explaining residents' opposition to the road connections and other problems they saw in the Woods plan. Other residents echoed his sentiments.

"Our streets have a neighborhood atmosphere where people can go walking, jogging and bike riding. Small children can ride their bikes in the street and mothers can push babies in strollers. All this traffic around our homes will create a significant traffic hazard and will seriously compromise the quiet character of our neighborhood," Georgina Couse

Chas said. She and her husband Walter developed Edenderry Hills more than three decades ago.

Anthony Koterba said the neighborhood's message was simple: "No outlets. Not one outlet, not two outlets. No outlets," he said to a round of applause.

Township Police Sergeant John Sherman, speaking on behalf of the Department of Public Safety, maintained—despite questions from some at the meeting—that at least one road connection was necessary for fastest emergency access to the Woods subdivision.

If a connection were not made to Six Mile, he explained, emergency personnel would have to enter Woods via another road such as Seven Mile, taking valuable time to do so.

"I can assure you that one or two minutes can make a difference in these situations," Sherman, an officer of nearly two decades, said. "I'm not saying that to be melodramatic. I'm saying it because that's the way it is."

The question facing the commission, one member said, is whether that issue outweighs potential dangers of increased traffic through the area.

"Will the opening of the roads negatively or positively affect safety?

That's the real question," Mark Abbo said.

Commissioners ended up tabling the Woods matter pending two issues.

First, they want a legal opinion from the township's attorney telling them whether the commission or Wayne County has the final say on whether the road connections must go in or not. County officials want at least two of the three connections made and say their approval is necessary for the Woods plan to go through. Grant, however, told the commission that township ordinance said that they had the ultimate decision in the matter.

Commissioners also asked for Guidobono and township consultants to conduct a sweeping traffic study of situation.

As a freshman at Novi High School, Matt Mitchell was labeled a nerd because he was overweight. His classmates would call "suey," like a farmer would to a pig, whenever he approached. He got the chance to confront his bullies on a syndicated talk show earlier this month.

From A NERD To A KNOCK- OUT

Today, Mitchell is a slim 6-foot-1 and 180 pounds. Despite the name calling and teasing he received as a kid, he says he had a happy childhood. Mitchell said he has always believed in treating others the way he wants to be treated, a lesson instilled by his parents as a youngster.

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

During his junior high and early high school years, classmates would tease Matthew Mitchell, calling "suey" as a farmer would to a pig, whenever he approached.

These "average bullies," as Mitchell called them, teased and called him names because he was overweight. He was a nerd, according to their standards.

One bully—Lou—admitted to throwing rocks and apples at Mitchell while Christy, the girl Mitchell had a mad crush on, admitted to "dissing" him as he tried to show his affection for her every day at her locker.

Now 23 and 80 pounds thinner, Mitchell, a Novi resident, had the opportunity to confront Lou and Christy in front of a national audience last month. He was the second guest on talk show host Ricki Lake's segment of "Surprise! I Was a Nerd but Now I'm a Knockout." The show aired April 8.

"I more or less told them (Lou and Christy) what they did and how it had affected me," Mitchell said. "Then I took questions from Ricki and the audience. As the show went on, I gave my opinions on how I think people should be treated."

Mitchell learned of the upcoming segment while watching the show one afternoon.

"They had taken a commercial break and they flashed the topic and a phone number," Mitchell said. "... I'm not the timid type. I just picked up the phone."

The operator on the other end asked Mitchell to send some before and after pictures. That was last October.

"Every month I would look in the TV Guide to see if they had done the show," Mitchell said.

Six months later, on March 14, Mitchell got the phone call he thought wasn't coming. Could he be in New York for taping in two days? the caller inquired.

"That's how crazy it was," he said. "It was totally hectic. I was nervous but happy."

Producers sent Mitchell, a waiter at Cantina Del Ray, the airline tickets via express mail the next day along with a couple pages of rules.

Before he knew it, Mitchell was on a plane for a once-in-a-lifetime experience that would last 27 hours.

He landed at Kennedy Airport about 4 p.m. March 16. With his hand-held video camera in one hand, he got his luggage, found his driver and chatted with other passengers as he recorded the entire event.

Once he got to his hotel, he met another person who was appearing on an earlier taping of the Ricki Lake Show. Three shows were being taped that day, at 3, 5 and 7 p.m., Mitchell explained.

This man, a female impersonator, happened to be a guest on the "My Parents Hate What I Do to Make Money" segment.

"He was in the same boat with me. Well, I guess it was a little different of a boat," Mitchell laughed after thinking about it. "He showed me some of the dresses he was going to wear on the show. He had this one black evening gown that had a hundred pieces of broken mirror all over it."

After chatting with the man for a bit, it was off to check out the night life after a quick stop at the fruit stand. Mitchell met up with some friends from his NBC days at the nightclub Webster Hall where they partied until 4 a.m.

As an Albion College student, Mitchell interned four months for "Saturday Night Live" and NBC Sports. He performed clerical work and typed press releases for "Saturday Night Live" and edited videotape for NBC Sports.

A speech communications and theater major, Mitchell loved his brief stint in New York. In fact, he's planning on moving back for the summer.

"I got to go backstage at 'Saturday Night Live' whenever I wanted," he said.

He met all of the show's stars, like Dana Carvey who's "really cool" and Mike Myers, a bit "quiet and reserved" of Wayne's World fame. He's also talked with Bob Costas, Marv Albert and O.J. Simpson from NBC Sports.

As time grew near for Mitchell to appear on the talk show, he started getting the jitters. He checked out of his hotel room at 1 p.m., stopped for a bite to eat and was whisked away to the studio.

"The producers greeted me," he said. "I had to go through a metal detector."

Then it was time to wait. He mingled with other guests and checked out the 3 p.m. taping until it was time for makeup at 4 p.m. Thirty minutes later he was fitted with his microphone.

A short "pep" talk from the producer and it was time.

"I was very nervous," Mitchell admitted. "My theater training helped me a lot. I knew to enunciate and to be animated. The producers warned us the crowd would either zap you with energy or zap the energy out of you."

On the show, the two who had bullied Mitchell were already seated in front of the audience. Lake asked the two how and why they had bullied Mitchell before asking Mitchell to come out.

When he was introduced, Mitchell, with a 6-foot-1, 180-pound frame, emerged and promptly walked over to Lou and pinned a sign which read "suey" on Lou's chest.

"I don't hold a grudge," Mitchell said about the two. "I just wanted to put them in their place and bury the hatchet. I've seen them since and everything is OK. It's in the past."

Mitchell said he learned a very important lesson from his parents while he was growing up—treat others the way you want to be treated.

"I was always a happy kid even though I was big and teased a lot," Mitchell said. "My brother and sister were fun-loving and good-natured. I've always been open-minded about everybody."

"I don't like people who don't respect other people. I have a lot of gay friends. I have a lot of black friends. I have a lot of different kinds of friends. Nothing matters as long as that person is a nice, trustful person with a good head on their shoulders."

Mitchell said his junior high and early high school experiences turned him into a loner.

"In high school you had to fit in and I didn't fit in," he said. Mitchell's transformation started after his high school junior year. In a mock school election he was voted "changed the most."

"I stopped going to the arcades. I stopped staying inside all day eating," he said.

Mitchell had just gotten his first car—a 1974 Plymouth Duster—and joined the tennis team.

He knew once he lost some weight he would have a better chance in getting the better parts in all the school plays he participated in.

It hasn't been hard to keep fit, said Mitchell.

"I try to be real smart (about what he eats) and real active," he said. "I play a lot of basketball and I run three times a week."

Besides getting the chance to confront his junior high bullies, Mitchell said he jumped at the opportunity for some exposure. He would like a career in theater or TV sports communications.

"I'm looking for any kind of break," he admitted.

Besides, he got $50 for doing the show, which he said was a blast.

"It was easily one of the best entertainment experiences in my life," he said. "It's something you never think will happen to you. It's like buying a Lotto ticket. You think you might win, but you never win. It was like a dream come true."

Maybelle Opal

Red Cross volunteer holds down dual job

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"It's a lovely place to work," said Maybelle Opal about Botsford Hospital where she is a Red Cross volunteer two days a week in two different departments.

From 9 to 1 one day she assists with clerical work in the endoscopy department, which is concerned with colon cancer.

"I make up packages," she said, one containing forms regarding tests and one for possible surgery, and also, "I label boxes of syringes."

She has a close relationship, she said, with the nine nurses and secretary in the department. If she can't make it one day, they don't want another volunteer.

From noon to 4 on a second day Opal coordinates activity in the surgery lounge.

"I take care of the people who come in"—20 to 30 friends of patients having surgery. They sign in at her desk, giving their own name and that of the patient. And if anyone leaves the room, Opal notes the time.

Also she gets calls regarding the patients, which she relays to the people waiting—calls like visitors may go in before surgery, the patient is in recovery, the patient is in recovery, and at last the doctor will call.

Unlike her volunteering in endoscopy, Opal said, "When I go away on vacation, I have to get somebody to take over."

Being a Red Cross volunteer, Maybelle Opal said, means she has taken Red Cross orientation and is entitled to wear the uniform. Where she volunteers is her choice.

If you would like to volunteer with the Red Cross in this or another activity, contact the offices at 29691 Six Mile in Livonia. The telephone number is 422-2787.

It's A Fact

City of Novi Population

The total population of Novi in 1960 was 6,390. The 1970 U.S. census counted 9,668 people living in Novi. By 1980 the figure jumped to 22,525 and the 1990 U.S. census figure was 32,998.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) recently prepared a population forecast based on several trends for Novi. Their highest of three estimates put Novi's population at 83,668 by the year 2010 and the lowest estimate at 52,024.

Show to feature authentic Victorian fashions

All the dresses in the Sand Hill Chapter 79 of The Questers vintage clothing fashion show will be authentic.

The show has been scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 11, in the Fellowship Hall at First Presbyterian Church, 200 E. Main St., Northville.

The fashion show will be preceded by two skits: the first identifies clothing (often totaling 15 pounds) worn at the turn of the century and the second skit will portray the many uses of the ever-present apron from the same era.

The fashion show will consist of sleepwear from the last quarter of the 1800s, a morning dress, waists and skirts and dresses from the turn of the century. The early decades of the 1900s saw dramatic changes in clothing for the women.

Chapter members will wear heavily beaded and rhinestoned garments from the 1920s and the show will end with the clinging fashions that were popular in the 1930s.

The price for the event is $5. Dessert will be served and gift certificates will be awarded for door prizes.

Tickets can be purchased by calling the church at 349-0911 or from members of the Women's Association. All profits will be used for missions and scholarships.

Newcomers keep busy

Northville Newcomers have several events on the calendar for the last week of April. One of the highlights is a couples' pizza and bowling night, scheduled for Friday, April 29.

Ladies golf started Thursday, April 21, at Fox Hills. This is a "fun" group and all level players are welcome. Couples golf will be held every other Saturday afternoon during the summer.

Plans to attend the Junior League of Detroit Designers' Show House for May 12 have been made.

Information about Northville Newcomers is available from Lisa Kozerski, 380-9355.

Thanks to the efforts of chairperson Mary Ryzyl, her volunteers Sue Anker, Betsy Lebeis and Monica Katona, and the families who took time to send in labels, several teaching aids were acquired for the school.

Kites filled the skies above Silver Springs last week as students participated in this month's Student Council-sponsored activity. Plans are under way for a lunchtime roller skating activity in May.

Last week, Silver Springs students got a close-up view of the insect world as Gary Dunn from the Young Entomologists Society visited our school with his collection of insects.

Our last assembly of the year, entitled "Understanding Energy for a Cleaner Environment," will be presented on May 18. As always, families are welcome to attend.

Our last roller skating party of the year was held last week and, as usual, it was a huge success. Many thanks to Deb Peloso for organizing these fun-filled evenings for us this year.

The Amerman Elementary April PTA meeting provided much information regarding events taking place in our community. Special guest speakers were John Bucklan, president, district library board; and Phil Smith, Northville Library millage campaign committee chairperson.

They presented information regarding the upcoming May 3 vote for a new library in Northville. Presently, Northville has a library that is 6,200-square-feet. The proposed building is a two-story, 25,000-square-foot library with an elevator.

Steve Anderson reports that March's "Express Yourself" was well received by students and staff. The children really enjoyed the dance performance by the Eisenhower Ensemble. Another big hit was the carving of the totem pole by Matt Schellenberg. The finished product can be seen in the front hallway by Mr. Anderson's office.

In the beginning of March, students were asked to sign a pledge card promising that television would be turned off or viewing time cut back for the entire month. Students who met "The Amerman Challenge" would be eligible to participate in a drawing for a free dinner at Genitti's. Two names were drawn at the April PTA meeting and the winners were Amanda Olah and Lindsay Moore. Congratulations.

The next PTA meeting will be Tuesday, May 3, at 9:15 a.m.

For Mother's Day . . .
Give the gift of a mammogram to a special woman in your life

- Breast cancer affects one in nine women
- Every woman is at risk
- Early detection significantly increases a woman's treatment options

The best method to detect breast cancer early involves three things: regular exams by a physician, monthly breast self examination and mammograms as recommended by the American Cancer Society. Mammography can often detect breast cancer up to two years before a cancerous lump can be felt.

If the important woman in your life has medical insurance coverage for screening mammography but isn't already getting regular mammograms, encourage her to schedule an appointment today. If not, consider giving her a mammogram for Mother's Day. It's a gift that may save her life.

Genitti's brings dinner theater to kids

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Successful with its dinner theaters for adults, Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall is presenting something similar for the kids.

Under the direction of Off The Wall Productions, the Velveteen Rabbit will follow Genitti's Saturday noon buffet lunch at 1 p.m.

The show will run four Saturday afternoons, April 30 through May 21.

Novi resident Theresa Weiss, along with Mark Barerra, wrote the music and lyrics for the show, adapted from the story by Marjorie Williams.

"We stuck very close to the story and expanded it on some scenes," Weiss said. "We added a lot more fun to it."

The story is about a little boy who has a favorite toy—a stuffed rabbit.

"The theme is how love makes things real," Weiss explained. "Here, the toy rabbit becomes real."

Seven performers play eight characters in the 40-minute skit.

Weiss, who owns September Productions, which has performed plays for many schools in the area, said the Velveteen Rabbit can also be enjoyed by parents and adults.

"It's a good level for parents and adults... sometimes just adults come to see the show," Weiss said. "There's a lot of movement, action and fun."

Ticket prices are $9.99 for children and $11.99 for adults. The buffet offers soups and sandwiches, and a buffet of pasta, salads, chicken and dessert. Tickets are available at the door.

For reservations, call 349-0522.

Trueba family fortunes come to life in 'Spirits'

In the passions, secrets and obsessions of a family lies the power to build and destroy worlds.

Those unseen forces — the violent ghosts of memory and desire, the invisible magic of hope and reconciliation — control and enchant all our lives.

Rarely has this been more dramatically brought to light than in Isabel Allende's epic novel "The House of the Spirits."

Over the course of three generations, the Trueba's deepest desires and darkest greed spark both romance and tragedy, create both fortunes and ruin, and lead violently, inexorably to the death of an old way of life and the birth of new dreams for themselves and their country.

Celebrated as an evocation of the catalytic forces of love, magic and family pride, "The House of the Spirits" has captured the imagination of readers around the world.

Now the book has been adapted for the screen by Bille August. The internationally-acclaimed cast includes Meryl Streep, Jeremy Irons, Glenn Close, Winona Ryder, Antonio Banderas, Vanessa Redgrave, Armin Mueller-Stahl, Maria Conchita Alonso, Jan Niklas and Sarita Choudhury.

"To me, 'The House of the Spirits' is a profound love story," said Bille August. "Not only between lovers but also between brother and sister, parent and child. It is about the contrasts and attraction between men and women, young and old, totalitarian and democratic, revenge and forgiveness."

"But it is also about the cost of feelings," she added. "About how we must remember that human beings, no matter what they do in life, end up affecting each other deeply in both beautiful and terrible ways."

"The House of the Spirits" follows the powerful Trueba family from the tranquil days of the 1920s to the modern turbulence of the 1970s. The family's intimate alliances are set against the violent struggles of their country, a South American republic fighting for democracy against a constant torrent of dictatorship and bloody coups.

While the political history of their country is up for grabs, the personal history of each Trueba takes a very different course.

Esteban Trueba (Jeremy Irons) is the family patriarch. In 1928, he is scraping away in the gold mines, his heart set on two equally impossible goals — to strike it rich where so many others have failed and to amass enough wealth to marry the fairy tale beauty Rosa Del Valle.

But his dreams dissolve into obsession when Rosa dies suddenly, violently, foretold only by the visions of her strange, compelling younger sister Clara.

Hungry for land and the power invested by its ownership, Esteban takes command of an abandoned estate, Tres Marias, and restores it to its full wealth and glory, becoming a respected right wing politician along the way.

After foretelling her own sister's death, Clara retreats into a child's spiritual dream world, a strange, silent realm of visions, protected in awe by her mother Nivea (Vanessa Redgrave), who will continue to watch over her even in death.

The adult Clara (Meryl Streep) is the Trueba matriarch, a true maternal force of nature, using her psychic gifts to foresee and manipulate her family's fortunes.

When she finally speaks, 20 years after Rosa's death, it is to Esteban Trueba. "You've come to ask me to marry you, haven't you," she tells him, astonishing him with her powers for the first of many times. Drawn by Clara's mystery, Esteban Trueba begins a futile life-long struggle to know her, love her and control her.

Clara joins Esteban at Tres Marias, where they live with his spinster sister Ferula (Glenn Close). The two women bond to each other like blood sisters, with Clara instantly providing the warmth and friendship so long absent in Ferula's life, igniting Esteban's deadly rage and jealousy.

Despite his growing political popularity, in his own home power eludes him, sapped by family secrets — including the existence of his own illegitimate son — and the sisterhood of wife, sister and daughter, who seem to defy him at every turn.

Although the Trueba's history is filled with tragedy and regret, screenwriter August sees their tale as inspirational. "There is so much violence today over past history between families, between tribes, between political enemies," she said.

"Look at the tragedy in the former Yugoslavia, for example. If people would stop seeking revenge, I think it would be a very different situation. There is no greater power in this world than that of love and forgiveness."

"That is ultimately what the Truebas come to know over the generations — the power of their love for each other to change things, to forgive, give love and begin again. If we can learn to forgive, there is truly hope for humankind."

Meryl Streep and Glenn Close become close friends in Bille August's epic 'The House of the Spirits'

'Father Hood:' A lot more than expected

FATHER HOOD
By Heather Wadowski
Northville

What looked like a good action film or comedy starring Patrick Swayze ended up being much more. It ended up being serious and anything but comical.

Patrick Swayze plays a father who's on the run from the cops. Eventually, his two kids end up joining him on the run from the orphanage. Together, they are out to prove they can live on their own without anyone to help them.

What ends up happening is just the opposite of what was planned, when some information slips out about the orphanage. . . like the fact all the children are kept in handcuffs.

But when Swayze is wanted for kidnapping his own kids, and the biggest secret of all slips out, the only thing that can save all of them is the one thing they were all trying to avoid — love and trust.

This movie is not intended for young children, but teenagers and adults will love it.

COPS AND ROBBERSONS
By David Thompson
Highland

Chevy Chase's new movie, "Cops and Robbersons," was a great movie . . . for home rental.

The plot was good and it was a cute story line, but it just lacked the usual comedy that is expected in a Chevy Chase film.

"Cops and Robbersons" is playing at theaters now and stars Chevy Chase and Jack Palance.

A good movie to take the kids to. My personal suggestion is to wait for it to come out on video and rent it for $3 instead of paying the big bucks at the theater.

FOUR WEDDINGS AND A FUNERAL
By Marybeth Bagnall
Highland

The movie is about exactly this — four weddings and a funeral.

It starts off in England with Charlie and Scarlet, who I suppose is his sister (it's never clear), getting up late for a wedding. They have to rush to the church and just make it there on time.

At the wedding Charlie sees a woman he wants to meet. They do, and later that night they have sex. The woman, Carrie, is a slut throughout the movie. She even cheats on her fiancé.

Then Charlie and Scarlet get up late for two more weddings just like the first one.

Next is the funeral. All this does is depress you. There is really no point in putting this in there. Actually, there is no point to the whole movie. It's just a bunch of people getting married, or wanting to.

Finally, there is the last wedding. I won't tell you what happens just in case you want to waste your time and money going to see this movie.

Mustangs fall in tourney final to Baseline rival

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Don't be sad Mustang softball supporters because two out of three isn't bad.

Northville High made it to Saturday's Novi Early Bird tournament finals with a pair of wins, but the Mustangs ran into a hot pitcher and fell to Novi, 3-1.

"We came from behind in two games," coach Frank Friemund said. "But not a third time."

Novi's Erin Bjerke and was brilliant, allowing just four hits and no walks to Northville. She struck out six Mustang batters.

It was the Wildcat right hander's second win of the tournament. She tossed a perfect game at Hazel Park in the opener.

"We were behind her," said Friemund. "Every ball we hit went to the right side of the field."

The Wildcats got all three of their runs in the first inning off Northville starter Karl Krupansky. With runners on second and third, Bjerke got a single to score both. She later scored on a single by Melissa Strikulis.

Northville got its only run in the third inning. Samantha Leger singled, stole second and eventually scored on a ground ball by Sarah Kemp.

Melissa Petrosky led Northville with two hits in the game.

The Mustangs are 4-3 on the season. Friemund said his team is rounding into shape.

"We've played four solid games in a row," he added. "We're settling down in the field."

Northville opened the tournament with a 5-1 win over Detroit Murray Wright.

Down 1-0, the Mustangs tied it in the first inning as Jenny Sheehan walked and came around on a Detroit error. Petrosky knocked in the winning run in the second with a single.

Northville added three in the sixth with RBI singles from Andrea Moretti, Sara Roth and Jenny Cooley. The Mustangs had 11 hits.

A 6-5 victory over Montrose in round two sent Northville to the final.

The game was tied 5-5 heading into the bottom of the seventh. Moretti singled to start off the rally.

Northville then loaded the bases as Cooley and Kristin Moore singled.

With one out, Jenny Frisbie delivered a single and the winning run.

NORTHVILLE 5, CANTON 2

In recent years playing the Chiefs meant facing high school softball's best pitcher in Kelly Holmes. Fortunately for the Mustangs and the rest of the WLAA, Holmes has moved on to the University of Michigan.

With the excellent hurler gone, Friday was Krupansky's time to shine. The Northville senior ate Canton up by striking out 12 batters.

"She hit her spots," said Friemund.

Canton led 1-0 until the fourth inning. Northville tied it in that frame as Leger walked and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

The Mustangs came up with the winning runs in the bottom of the fifth. Petrosky and Moretti scored on ground outs after reaching base.

Northville added two insurance runs in the sixth.

Petrosky, who is hitting an incredible .522, had three hits as did Cooley to lead the attack.

"We are seeming to get more hits than typical," said Friemund.

Runners take third place at annual Novi Relays

By SCOTT DANIEL

Dennis Faletti has a way of predicting track meets. The longtime Northville High coach can generally tell, within a few points, where the chips will fall. So when Farmington Hills Harrison walked away with the Novi Relays title Saturday, it was hardly a shock.

"I thought they'd do well," said Faletti. "They have a good team."

The Hawks won the meet with 104 points while Northville was a distant second at 89 points. Host Novi was third with 65 points.

Harrison and the Mustangs won't match up in a dual meet until May 12. Faletti said the Western Division title will likely be up for grabs.

"It will be a heck of a battle," he added. As for the Novi Relays, Northville had an excellent day.

The team of Chris Gomersal, Eric Moore, Bob Oiler and Brian Dogonski placed second in the 800-meter relay in 1:33.3. John Gatti, Justin Cataldo and Mattis Kukainis combined to take third in the discus with 331 feet total.

In the sprint medley, Farb Navi, Pat Gordon, Moore and Scott Lloyd were third in 3:48.7. Northville got the first of its top finishes in the 3,200-meter relay as Bo Fowler, Jeff Zwiesler, Marc Ritter and Todd Zayti won in 8:29.2.

A 44:8 got Northville first place in the 400 relay. Gomersal, Moore, Oiler and Dogonski comprised that team. Shaun Hollester, Dave Craig, Chris Harrison and Lloyd were first in the distance relay in 11:38.8. Gatti, Kukainis and Bryan Kelly won the shot put relay with 124 feet 11 inches.

Northville took third in the pole vault. Bo Fowler, Brian Clowers and Carl Tune combined for a distance of 28 feet. A 3:49.9 was second in the mile relay. Josh Williams, Tune and Bernie Tomsa won the high jump by combining for 17 feet 4 inches.

NORTHVILLE 80, CANTON 57

The Mustangs had no trouble defeating the WLAA's defending champs Thursday at home.

Faletti was a little surprised at how easily his team beat the Chiefs.

"We're actually better than we appeared (early on)," he said. "I think we're a little ahead of where I thought we'd be at this point in time."

That statement certainly applies to Williams.

The senior set a new school record in the high jump by clearing 6 feet 5 1/2 inches. Not bad for a guy who had never participated in the sport until a month ago.

"He works at it," said Faletti. "He will get (even) better if he corrects some of the problems he has. Josh has a lot to learn."

Williams started a sweep in the event. Tune was second at 5 feet 10 inches and Tomsa was third at 5 feet 3 inches.

In the long jump, Northville swept again as Gomersal was first, Williams second and Oiler third. Gatti won both the shot put and the discus. His throw of 143 feet 8 inches in the discus was a very good one. Faletti said.

Cataldo took third in 110-meter high hurdles in 18.7 seconds. Brian Dogonski was first in the 100 dash in 11.1 and Moore was third in 11.8.

The Mustangs garnered yet another sweep in the pole vault. Bo Fowler cleared 12 feet while Ty Fowler earned second at 9 feet 6 inches and Clowers was third at 8 feet.

Navi, Gomersal, Oiler and Dogonski finished first in the 800-meter relay in 1:35.3. Lloyd finished second the mile race in 4:44.7 while Bo Fowler was first in the 400 in 54.7.

Dogonski, Oiler and Moore swept the 200-meter dash with times of 23.6, 23.8 and 24.1, respectively.

Kickers spank Pioneer 6-1

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Playing defense isn't much fun. It takes a lot of hard work, determination and skill.

Ann Arbor Pioneer opted to have fun and forget the hard work Friday as Northville dusted the visitors 6-1. The Mustangs scored four times in the first half and cruised to their third victory.

"Once we got down to their end (of the field)," Northville coach Doug Lyon said, "there was very little pressure. We brought the ball down and had time to knock it around."

The coach said he was a little dumbfounded over Pioneer's strategy. Ann Arbor seemed to play aggressive soccer everywhere on the field—except in its defensive third of the field.

"They just didn't play with the same heat (as in the past)," Lyon said.

Lyndsay Huot was the first Mustang to take advantage of Pioneer's generosity. The freshman halfback scored with 10 minutes gone by in the half on an assist from Angie Snyder.

Just five minutes later, Katie Kohl got into the act. Heather Huizing took the ball deep into Ann Arbor territory then dropped it back for Kohl who belted it home from about 20 yards.

Snyder and Sue McQuaid added goals before the half ended. Pioneer got its lone goal about midway through the half.

Lyon said he was really pleased with what he saw. He said his team played much better offensively by completing passes.

"What I wanted to see happen," Lyon added, "happened."

Netters finish third at Waterford Mott

Going into this week's action, Northville High's tennis winning streak of 32 matches was still intact.

But a rash of injuries and two scheduled tough matches put it in serious jeopardy. Singles players Brad Smith and Ryan Moak were lost to the team last week with back and hand injuries, respectively.

Top doubles player Jeff Wofahl is also out of the lineup with back problems. With Livonia Stevenson and North Farmington on tap this week, coach Dick Norton was concerned about the health of his team.

"I've lost three of my top six players," he said.

Because of Northville's depth, though, the team was able to keep winning last week. The Mustangs took easy victories over Walled Lake Western, Livonia Churchill, Novi and Farmington.

"Going into the season I knew we had depth," said Norton. "Right now, it's paying off."

That depth paid off again Saturday at the Waterford Mott tournament. Northville finished third behind powers Redford Catholic Central and Birmingham Seaholm.

"It was a very good day," said Norton. "We were in contention for a medal at each flight and won two of eight flights."

Matt Schwagle was the first Northville champion of the day.

He walked over three opponents for the crown. Schwagle, who hasn't lost a set yet this season, faced his biggest test against Steve Pillion.

The Class B player from St. Clair Shores fell to Schwagle 6-4, 6-2.

"He's an excellent player," said Norton.

At second singles, Nic McReedie moved in and did a fine job. He won two of three matches to take third place including a 6-4, 6-2 triumph over Kevin Cook of Farmington.

Nick Straman played at third singles. The freshman lost all three matches, but played tough in each. "For being a freshman at No. 3 singles," said Norton, "he did very well for himself."

Another freshman, David Anderson, was at fourth singles. He beat Kevin Moore of Seaholm 2-6, 6-2, 6-1 in the opening round and then added a 6-1, 6-3 victory over Steve Halthcock of Catholic Central. Anderson then won the tournament by beating John Shea of Farmington, 6-1, 6-0.

Northville has apparently found a new No. 1 doubles team. Matt Telepo and Ravi Mujumdar won their first two matches but then fell in the finals to Phil Toney and Doug Newton, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6.

"That shows that we've got good balance," said Norton. "I was very pleased with the way they played."

So much so, the coach said the duo would stay at No. 1 until someone can beat them in a challenge match.

"That's the best doubles play we've had," said Norton.

Scott Anderson and Vik Srinivasan played at second doubles and took fifth. The duo dropped their first match but then won the final two in easy fashion.

Arjun Srinivasan and Ganesh Nayakwadi finished as runners up at third doubles. They beat Tasko Popovski and Jeff Padyasek of Waterford Mott in the first round and then Larry Fajardo and Tom Mansee of St. Clair Shores in round two. Rob Willasenor and Paul West of Catholic Central defeated the Mustangs in two sets for the title.

Fourth doubles team Nate Connell and Desmond Liang also made it to the final, but lost as well.

Providence Run on tap in Novi

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

The place to be this Sunday, May 1, is the Novi Civic Center.

Calling all runners, walkers and dedicated volunteers to the 14th Annual Providence Novi Run! The spring weather has arrived and now we need approximately 300 to 400 eager runners to start the ground shaking as the starting gun goes off at 1:30 p.m. for the 5K and 10K race.

The Providence Novi Run was created by matching up Novi Parks & Rec with Providence Hospital. One of the goals of Novi Parks and Recreation has always been to provide "fitness for life" experiences in the community. Providence Hospital also looked for ways to interact with the community to encourage healthy lifestyles.

In 1980, the City of Novi teamed up with Providence Hospital to provide the Providence Novi Run, a healthy lifestyle event for the entire family.

The Trackers will once again unselfishly donate their time to help the event run smoothly, serving as course marshals, manning water stations and offering any other help needed on race day.

Race participants range from young children to people in their 60s. There are wheelchair racers and parents with strollers. It's a day for family fun complete with Four Seasons Brass Band, fruit and bagels, door prizes and posture screenings by Kathy Duncan, R.N., D.C., of Duncan Chiropractic in Novi.

"The Providence Novi Run is an important fitness for life event in Novi. Not only does it serve the competitive runner, but it's an event for the entire family," said Marilyn Troshak, Parks & Rec Coordinator.

The 1 and 2 Mile Fun Walks begin at 12:30 p.m., with the 5K and 10K runs immediately following at 1:30 p.m. Runners and walkers can register on-site prior to the event at the Novi Civic Center. For more information, call 347-0400.

The Novi Providence Run is Sunday.

Avoiding those spring time injuries

James Carpenter

Spring is finally here, and with it comes that uncontrollable desire to get outside and do something. It may be golf, tennis, softball, cycling, canoeing, running or a variety of other sports—everybody's got something they want to do.

Although it is a wonderful feeling to get out for the first time of the year, unfortunately, a large number of people injure themselves as a result of this burst of enthusiasm.

Most of these injuries are limited and minor but some may be more serious and involve a long recovery period. However, there are measures you can take to prevent these injuries.

Our bodies try very hard to adapt to our environment. That environment may be the weather—hot or cold, sunny or cloudy or it may be our activity level—sedentary or strenuous. During the winter certain activities are not possible because of the weather.

Our bodies adapt toward a lower level of activity for certain motions and muscle groups. In the spring we expect to pick up where we left off in the fall. To regain our previous level of activity, we must go through a period of re-adaptation. If we try to shortcut this retraining and push our bodies back too fast, injuries can occur.

The good news is that these injuries are generally preventable. You must give your body a chance to adapt. This requires time. You should not try to return to a normal level of participation right away but instead ease into an activity. The time it takes depends on you and the activity.

Less adaptation is necessary if you have regularly participated in a similar activity or have taken some time off, than when just beginning a sport. The longer the time off from an activity, the longer it takes to retrain. Unfortunately, trial and error are the only way to find out what is right for you.

There are some general guidelines that can help you avoid injury. The following three physical factors should be considered in your sports participation.

- Adequate flexibility (range of motion), muscular function (strength and endurance) and coordination are essential for successful and injury-free participation. If you do not have adequate range of motion for performing an activity such as throwing or jumping and you try it anyway, injury can occur.

This is most common at the shoulder, with overhead activity such as throwing and swinging, and at the hip, with running and jumping. A stretching program will help you establish flexibility before you attempt these activities. Allow an adequate amount of time for adaptation.

- Training over time increases muscular strength and endurance. Severe injury occurs when placing large stresses on a muscle or a tendon before it is properly trained. This is more likely to occur during eccentric contractions (stretching contractions as the muscle lengthens) than during concentric contractions (flexing contractions as the muscle shortens).

Incorporating this knowledge into your training regimen reduces the chance of sustaining injury.

- Training increases adequate coordination of our movements and muscles. Generally this is sport-specific and training occurs throughout participation. However, just as with flexibility and muscular function, adaptation is necessary. Even if an athlete has obtained adequate flexibility and strength, he cannot perform maximally and without risk for injury unless there is adequate coordination.

Most injuries can be prevented with an appropriate pre-participation stretching program, muscular strength and endurance conditioning followed by a sport-specific coordination program. If you coach or supervise athletes, it is important to incorporate this into their pre-season instructions as well as at their initial team workouts.

Pushing athletes into high-level competing and training without a period of adaptation can lead to unnecessary injuries, frustrations and disappointments. For the individual athlete, jump into spring with enthusiasm tempered with knowledge of your own body and common sense.

Parents: Don't pressure your little leaguer

Barry Franklin

I recently received my indoctrination as the parent of an eight-year-old starting his first year of Little League baseball.

Tuesday night we had a meeting of all parents at the coach's home. Friday evening we purchased baseball equipment. Sunday afternoon was the first practice.

The meeting at the coach's home—a meeting I originally felt was unnecessary to attend—stressed "his" philosophy of Little League: "You think these kids don't feel bad when they strike out or miss a pop fly? In this league, the parents should never criticize the coach, the umpire and, above all, the child. These kids have enough pressure on them. If you can't live by these rules, don't sign up your child."

"I want these kids to have fun, to enjoy the game and, above all, to improve their skills throughout the season. Winning is nice, but as far as I'm concerned, improvement is the key. Furthermore, every boy will play—regardless of his skill."

I never had realized the extreme pressure parents can put on their children. It was apparent the coach was very serious and sincere in his plea. I vowed that evening that all my comments and interactions with my son would be positive—encouragement, motivation, never criticism.

The coach informed us each player would need a baseball glove made of real leather, not cheap synthetics. Each boy was also to bring a baseball to his first practice to bolster the league's equipment arsenal.

Finally, each boy was to have a jockstrap. "A kid wearing a jock automatically feels like a big league baseball player," the coach explained.

On Friday night we went shopping for the equipment. A Rawlings baseball glove, all leather, set me back $19.95. The salesman suggested we buy a leather softener for the glove—another $1.75. Big league baseballs were on sale at $2.99, and a jockstrap cost another $2.95.

At home that evening, my son decided to try on his athletic supporter. It took him a minute or two to figure out how to put on this strange new garment. Indeed, he soon realized he had put on backwards.

Sunday afternoon was the first practice. I arrived early with my son only to find many other dads already on the field.

I was rapidly enlisted to help coach. My job was to hit easy ground balls to several infielders. I tossed the first ball up in the air, intending to hit a grounder to second base.

REAL ESTATE

Picking a good broker

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Is it best for a real estate brokerage firm to be independent, or would it enhance bottom-line profits and overall success to affiliate with a national franchise group?

The broker's answer to that sometimes perplexing question often affects the way his firm serves property buyers and sellers in his local market.

Throughout the country there are many brokers who have said yes, and those who said no, to franchise salesmen. And there are outstanding success stories, as well as losers, on both sides of the fence.

Most brokers have strong opinions on the subject. Here are a few examples:

"During the years I operated retail music stores I learned that the big national firms always have an edge on local independent firms," said Glenn Sipes, co-owner of a multi-office brokerage firm affiliated with the Re/Max International franchise group.

"Therefore, when I started my own real estate firm in 1989, I wanted to be part of a strong national organization. After studying the market carefully, I selected Re/Max International."

Re/Max has a unique concept among franchise organizations. It permits brokers to retain 100 percent of their sales commissions. Each broker simply pays the owner of their firm a set amount each month, usually from $1,200 to $1,500, Sipes said.

This pays for their office space, telephone, advertising participation, errors & omissions insurance, etc. The owner then pays the franchisor a fee based on the number of brokers working from that firm.

"It's worked out very well for us," Sipes said. "We now have about 21 percent share of brokerage business in our marketing area. We recently launched a mortgage and escrow division."

On the other hand, successful brokers like Susan Herrick, owner of Herrick & Co., Realtors, want no part of a franchise affiliation.

OBERG

Striking entrance is highlight of Oberg's spacious style

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Sidelights on both sides of the Oberg's front door and more glass stacked high under the lofty porch gable create a striking entrance portico effect.

From the exterior, you can see that this is not a large home. The 1,500 square foot, 3-bedroom plan is a mere 54 feet wide, so it easily fits on a standard lot. But when you first step inside, the sense of spaciousness is surprising.

The vaulted foyer is richly illuminated and immediately presents three choices of direction. A door on the right opens into the master suite, and a hallway is to the left. What catches the eye, though, is the vaulted great room, directly ahead — a comfortably large living area that rolls together the functions of kitchen, dining room, living room and family room.

Four skylights shower the room with light, adding to the brightness spilling in through three large windows that fill most of the room's rear wall. A fireplace, tucked into the corner farthest from the windows, provides a colorful focal point when the sky outside turns dreary.

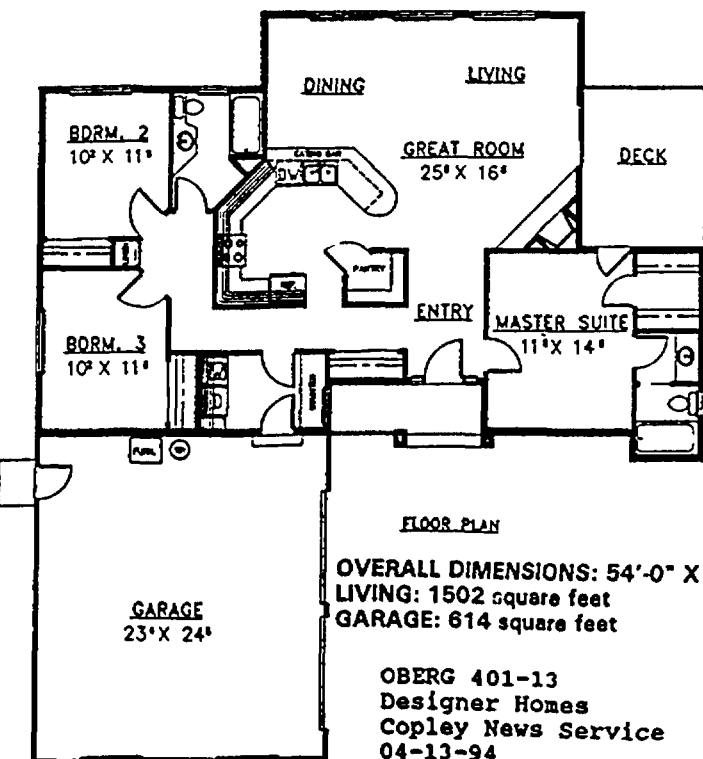

The kitchen is also much larger than one expects to find in a compact home. It is rich in counter and storage space. A dogleg-shaped eating bar adds to the work area and provides separation between the great room and the kitchen. And the location of the sink means that the clean-up crew needn't be left out of conversations or activities going on in other parts of the great room.

A small kitchen table or even a work island, could fit comfortably into the wide space at the center of the kitchen. A walk-in pantry provides additional storage capacity. Utilities are close at hand, and convenient to the bedrooms as well, tucked into a pass-through to the garage. This small room has a counter which comes in handy for folding clothes.

Features in the master suite include a walk-in closet and private bathroom. The toilet and tub are separated from the lavatory and mirror. This arrangement allows privacy where it is most desired, and keeps the mirror free from steam.

A PERENNIAL QUESTION

By Cynthia Tarchinski
STAFF WRITER

Gardens with flowers blooming from spring to mid-fall, year in and year out may sound like a dream but, according to some area gardeners, with some hard work, it can become reality.

For those who would like to see flowers blooming in their yard this summer, May and June are prime months for planting a perennial garden. Perennials are, with some exceptions, non-woody plants having roots that live through the winter while the tops die back to the ground.

Some perennials will last for years. Others tend to be short-lived and many last only a few years. Some perennials start out as bulbs, others can be started out with seeds. This is the perfect time of year to get young plants in the ground, said Susan Andrews of Marion Township, immediate past president of the Howell Potpourri Garden Club.

Andrews said she loves perennials because they bring color to her gardens from early spring to mid-fall.

"I have primroses blooming now," Andrews said. "I'll have something blooming until October."

There are perennials for every type of soil and every degree of sunlight. Andrews has about 12 different kinds of gardens planted around her home and has been growing flowers since she was in the fifth grade.

There are many resources for beginners. Andrews suggests going to the local library for books on gardening, talking to area growers at farmers' markets, calling people at area greenhouses, reading gardening catalogs, consulting local gardeners or calling the local Michigan State University Extension Office for help with growing perennials. Another resource is visiting gardens in bloom when one finds them.

"It's a good idea to visit a perennial garden in bloom to see the kinds of flowers," Andrews said.

Growing perennials takes some planning, she said. Due to the different kinds of soils found in many yards, some plants may thrive better in different areas of a yard.

"You kind of have to experiment with it to know what plants will

GARDENING

Q. I've never had a vegetable garden. What advice would you give a beginner?

A. Start with proper soil preparation, it's the most important element in any garden. Remove the grass and take a soil sample to your garden center. It's essential that your soil pH (potential hydrogen) be correct. Follow the recommendations on the soil test for the amount of lime to spread on the soil.

Apply fertilizer (5-10-5 or 10-6-4) according to directions on the bag while adding all the compost you can set your hands on.

Spread at least 6 inches of compost on top of the soil and work it into a depth of 1 foot. However, if you're feeling energetic, dig deeper, mixing all additives in well. Rake the soil smooth and remove any stones or large rocks.

For the first year try easy vegetables such as lettuce, peas, radishes, beans, corn and root crops like carrots and beets. Choose varieties that are disease resistant.

Make sure the initials VFN appear after the name of a tomato variety (V stands for verticillium, F for fusarium and N for nematodes). They mean your plants are less likely to have these problems.

Don't expect to get everything right the first year; gardening requires endless trial and error. Keep a garden notebook and record of what you liked and didn't like, what went wrong and what varieties you love.

This way you'll avoid making the same mistakes twice! Most of all, have fun and enjoy the fruits of your labor!

Q. Can I grow fabulous vegetables without resorting to chemicals?

A. Yes, yes, yes. The best way, of course, is to use an all-natural fertilizer. Another way is to add peat moss or compost to the soil in spring before planting your garden. When spraying is necessary to control pests, use an insecticide soap spray; read directions on the label carefully!

Dealing with pet odors in floors, furniture

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

G. The smell of cat urine penetrates one of our rooms where the animal was left unattended for a long period of time. The smell remains in the room, even after I removed both the carpeting and the padding. Do you have any suggestions on how to get rid of this offensive odor?

A Here is some good news for this common, difficult problem. "Nature's Miracle," manufactured by Pets & People, Inc. (5312 Ironwood St., Rancho Palos Verdes, CA 90274) is effective in the treatment of organic odors and stains. It is available in most pet stores and comes in pints, quarts or gallon containers.

This product can be used for spot treatment on carpets and furniture as well as the entire foundation. Your problem sounds more serious than spot treatment.

Since the odor remains after you have already removed both carpet and padding, you may have to treat the entire floor. If you have hardwood flooring, you will need to strip off the old finish and apply this solution to the bare wood to neutralize the disagreeable materials that have penetrated the wood.

After treatment you will need to refinish the floors by sanding and applying a new varnish or polyurethane finish.

You may find that the wood is stained permanently, darkened in areas where the urine penetrated. A commercial wood bleach used prior to refinishing can be helpful in diminishing this staining.

If the foundation is concrete instead of wood, the problem is more difficult because of the porous nature of concrete.

Saturate the entire area with "Nature's Miracle." It sometimes takes up to a week to achieve results. Even though the surface may appear to be dry, it will take longer for the moisture level inside the concrete to dissipate and odors can remain during this period.

It may take more than one application to correct the problem. If you still have pets around during this type of treatment, it is best to cover the area with heavy aluminum foil (perforated with holes of ventilation). When the odor is still present, pets are attracted to the area and are inclined to repeat the offense. Placing a dish of food on the foil is an added deterrent, as pets rarely contaminate an area where food is present.

It may take more than one application to correct the problem.

After the treatment has removed the offensive odor, seal the concrete with a good masonry sealer prior to the installation of new padding and carpeting.

G. I have a problem with a closet that has the lingering odor of mildew, even though I have aired it out and removed the musty smelling clothing items that were stored there. Do you have any suggestions on how to get rid of this odor so we can use this closet again?

A. Odors Away is an effective product. It is an industrial odor killer now available to consumers. It comes in a concentrated form in nee fluid containers. Check housewares stores or a good hardware stores, or contact Odors Away, 550 West 70th Place, Chicago, Ill 60638.

G. I want to replace the wallpaper in my kitchen. Do you have any recommendations on what type of paper would be most durable and withstand washing. The area behind the stove has been particularly difficult to keep clean, due to grease splatters.

I like wallpaper designs, so I would prefer repapering to painting. Please give me any suggestions you might have.

A. There are a number of durable, washable vinyls on the market. I prefer one of the fabric-backed vinyls for durability in areas such as kitchens and baths. These are harder to find than the paper-backed vinyl coverings, and you may find the design selection in fabric-backed vinyls too limiting. Either fabric-backed or paper-backed vinyl papers will be suitable.

To eliminate the problem of grease buildup in the area behind the range/oven, cover the paper in this area with a sheet of clear plastic or acrylic. The design will show through, but the covering will protect the wall-covering during frequent washings.

Careful planning and hard work can lead to success do well in what area," Andrews said.

Along with experimentation with the various plants should come a realistic approach to gardening, said gardener Ruth Esper. Esper, a Genoa Township resident well-known for her lush gardens, said she tells new gardeners to take it slowly. Those who try to plant huge gardens the first year out might be discouraged if all does not go as planned, she said.

Also, taking into consideration the amount of work various perennials might need is important. Perennial does not always mean perpetual.

"I think gardening is a wonderful hobby and it's wonderful exercise, but just because something comes up every year, it doesn't mean that it won't need work," Esper said.

The maintenance required for perennials also varies greatly. For instance, chrysanthemum and delphinium need attention each year, whereas hosta, peony and balloon flower generally require little care after they are established, according to a guide published by the MSU Cooperative Extension.

Esper's beautiful gardens around her home frequently prompt comments like "You must have a green thumb, I could never grow a garden like that," Esper said she thinks anyone can grow a garden if they put some work into it.

Beginners sometimes make the mistake of improperly preparing their soil, or not even preparing it at all. If the soil is properly prepared with a mixture of sand and top soil added to it, she said, the plants have a much better chance at succeeding.

An easy-to-follow guide entitled "Growing Perennials" is available through the MSU Cooperative Extension Office, 820 E. Grand River Ave., Howell. The guide gives information on the many perennials available and also contains tips on planning gardens.

Both Andrews and Esper said it is important to consider the area where you intend to plant the flowers. The amount of sunlight in the area and the type of soil are two important considerations.

The planning stage is often overlooked and can result in a haphazard collection of plant materials. Andrews points out that it is important to consider the heights of the various plants one selects for a garden. Most information on plants will give an estimated height, she said.

The MSU guide points out five steps in designing a perennial garden. The steps include:

- Determine the points of viewing. Place beds and borders where they can be readily seen and admired. Some high areas of visibility include, the front yard, near windows and the porch or patio.

- Consider existing conditions such as soil type and amount of sunlight. If you want, map out your yard showing the location of existing plants and showing the location where you might want to plant perennials.

- Decide on style — either formal or informal. An informal style follows the natural terrain by using curved, flowing lines. It creates balance without being symmetrical and highlights existing and future plants.

- A formal style uses straight, geometric lines to determine the shape of the bed.

- Choose the type of display.

Three types of displays are commonly used for perennial gardens — the border, the island bed and the naturalized area. A border would bound an area such as a lawn, walkway, driveway or wall. An island bed, like its name suggests, is an area surrounded by an open expanse such as a lawn. The naturalized display can contain a mixture of perennials along a stream, in lowlands or in a dry meadow so they look like they are part of the natural landscape.

- Select plants. Make a list of favorites. Consider the space limitations of the site. Try to match soil type, light levels and site climate with the requirements of preferred plants.

franchise are those that are really hurting," Herrick said. "We don't need it. We've been successful in our area for a long time and have built a solid reputation on our own."

"I've been approached by major franchise representative three times since I purchased this business three years ago. One rep asked what it would take to get me to sign with his franchise. I told him I would have to be on the brink of bankruptcy."

Linda Flor, co-owner of a Century 21 franchised brokerage firm, believes the name recognition and a continuing program of strong national advertising more than justifies the franchise fee.

"Also, the international referral service set up by Century 21 generates a lot of business," Flor said. "We offer a variety of special services for relocating families, including discounts when using Allied Van Lines."

Flor also noted the training and career development programs set up by Century 21. And the networking and educational functions available at Century 21 conventions and regional sales conferences are helpful, she said.

Tim Hctor, owner of T.E. Hctor & Co. Realtors, likes his independence and intends to keep it that way.

"Franchise services are an allusion," he said. "We can provide personal hands-on services for our clients as well or better than the franchise members. We've been doing it successfully for the past 17 years."

"I like the total independence and challenge of operating a firm my way," Hctor said. "We keep getting pitches from the franchise reps. Just yesterday I received one from a fellow selling a new franchise. My answer, as always, was no."

Most brokers who sign with a franchise group are motivated by the name recognition, impact from a strong regional and national advertising program, a nationwide referral setup, and the affiliation's appeal to prospective new salesmen, according to a national study.

Brokers who decline offers to become affiliated with franchises usually do so because they want to remain independent, or they just don't feel the affiliation benefits justify the fees that must be paid to the franchisor.

Those who want to sell or buy a home would be well advised to consider the personal qualifications of a broker or firm, whether the company is affiliated with a franchise. Ask questions. Check references.

"There is ample room in real estate to accommodate companies of all types and sizes," said Robert Elrod, president of the National Association of Realtors. "There will always be entrepreneurs who want to remain independent. And small firms will remain an important part of the industry."

A recent NAR survey revealed that nine out of 10 firms are single office operations. And more than 40 percent of all real estate firms have five or fewer sales associates, while an additional 20 percent have six to 10 sales associates. Only 6 percent of all firms have more than 50 associates.

G. Will home building increase or decrease this year?

A. Permits are expected to exceed 1.4 million units in 1994, according to the research department of Lomas Mortgage USA. That reflects an increase of about 15 percent over last year's total permits.

G. What are the biggest problems facing home builders today?

A. The greatest concerns expressed by home builders are the recent Federal Reserve Board action to raise interest rates, volatile lumber prices and wetlands reform, according to the National Association of Home Builders.

"There's no question about it. Home builders are really worried about rising interest rates and what the Fed may do next," said NAHB president Tommy Thompson.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

This Empire table was produced in the late 1840s and would be worth about $900.

Empire (furniture) strikes back

Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a table that I bought at an estate sale in Savannah, Ga. The people that I purchased it from told me that the table had been in their family for at least 130 years.

Could you give me an idea of its value?

A. Empire furniture was a style of furniture that gained acceptance in America from 1820 to 1840. The designs were based on ancient Roman, Greek, Etruscan and Egyptian forms. Some of the characteristics were pineapple or acanthus leaf carving, saber legs, heavy lines, rich woods and animal paw feet. The vintage of your table is late Empire. It would probably be valued about $900.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a porcelain pitcher that I have. It is decorated with a scene of two men in a sail boat. There is a band of ducks swimming around the top and one at the bottom of the scene.

What can you tell me about my pitcher and its value?

A. Your porcelain pitcher was made by Royal Bayreuth in Tettau, Bavaria, Germany. This firm was founded in 1794 and exists today. The mark you described is circa 1919. Your pitcher would probably be worth about $225 to $250.

Q. Could you tell me anything about my vase and its value? It stands about 4 inches high and is decorated with flowers under a brown glaze. On the bottom are the words "J.R. Owens — Utopian." The vase is in excellent condition.

A. J.B. Owens stoneware factory in Zanesville, Ohio, began making art pottery in 1896. Much of this ware was designed to compete with Roseville and Weller pottery. After 1907 productions of art pottery all but ceased. The firm began manufacturing tiles, a more lucrative operation. "Utopian" is the name of a brown glaze that was similar to Weller's "Louvella" Pottery. Your vase was made around 1900. Its value would probably be about $135 to $145.

Q. I would like some information about a set of porcelain dishes. It consists of one dish 6 inches in diameter and six smaller ones that measure 3 inches. They are trimmed with red and gold and have scalloped edges. Each dish is marked with a star above a wreath and the words "R. S.—Tillowitz."

I hope you can tell me what were these dishes used for, the manufacturer, the vintage and value.

A. You have a butter set. The large dish is the butter server and the smaller ones are the individual butter pats. The manufacturer is Reinhold Schlegelmilch in Tillowitz, Silesia, Germany. The mark you described was used around 1930. Similar butter sets are seen in antique shops in the $200 to $250 range.

Q. My mother gave me a Wedgwood pitcher that has been in our family since the late 1800's. The color is dark blue and the height is 4 inches. It is decorated with white classical scenes in relief and is in mint condition. On the bottom it is marked "Wedgwood—JSB."

Any information you can provide will be appreciated.

A. Your Jasperware pitcher was made by Josiah Wedgwood in Burslem, Staffordshire, England. From 1860 to 1906 their dating system used three capital letters. The first letter represented the month the piece was made, the second represented the potter, and the last letter the year it was made. A pitcher marked "Wedgwood — JSB" shows it was made in January, 1873. The value would probably be about $250 to $300.

Q. I have four lead crystal goblets that were made by the Leerdam Glass Factory of Holland. They are hand-cut and polished. The name of the pattern is "Allegro" and only a limited number was produced. I was told they were designed and signed by the architect Frank Lloyd Wright.

Did he design my glassware or is my information incorrect?

A. At the request of the Dutch firm, Leerdam Glass Company, Frank Lloyd Wright proposed his designs for dinner service and crystal glassware. The glassware never made it off the drawing board because his designs couldn't be adapted to glass blowing techniques. In his book "The Decorative Designs of Frank Lloyd Wright," author Donald A. Hanks says, "A flower vase was the only piece in the Leerdam series that was executed." Three examples of the vase exist, but it was never put into production.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McColiam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

Q. A good friend of mine sent me a lovely phalaenopsis orchid plant. I would like to know the proper way to care for it.

A. The moth orchid is one of the easiest of orchids to grow even though it has a few environmental requirements.

Do not set your plant in direct sun because its leaves sunburn easily. The ideal spot is a lightly shaded east-facing window or an unshaded north-facing window. Too little light causes soft succulent growth and could mean that flower spikes fail to develop.

This orchid prefers even, warm temperatures. In summer, keep it at 80 degrees during the day and 70 degrees at night. In winter, daytime temperatures should not exceed 65 degrees and night temperatures should never dip below 60 degrees. Be sure the plant receives ample fresh air, but no drafts, please!

Fertilizing is necessary, so begin feeding when new growth appears (use Miracid or 5-10-5). Stop feeding when flower buds appear.

Flowering occurs usually during fall and winter and can continue up to eight months when side branches develop new buds.

You may have to water two or three times a week during the hot summer months; daily misting helps provide needed humidity. Never allow water to collect in the axils—rot can develop.

Cashier adds a friendly touch

By LESLIE SALOMON
Special Writer

Walk down her cashier aisle at K mart in Novi and you're in for a treat. Pauline Brown will greet you with such a warm smile and friendly manner that you'll feel like a million bucks.

And when she finishes ringing up your items and hands you your package, you will feel so special and appreciated—like you just visited family. You'll almost want to peek her on the cheek and say, "Don't worry, I'll be back next week."

This is no ordinary cashier. Pauline, a resident of Milford, is a 4-foot-8-inch dynamo cashier, or customer service associate as is her official title. She has worked at K mart part-time for the last two years, and she won Employee of the Year at the Novi K mart for both of those years.

John Hart, the store manager at the K mart store in Novi, gave glowing comments for Pauline.

He said, "I have been with K mart for 19 years... and by far she is the best customer orientated associate that I have ever worked with." He added, "I've never seen anything like it."

Pauline Brown grew up in Detroit, married Bill Brown and they raised four daughters. She has been married for 47 years and is a grandmother of 11, ranging in age from 3 to 20. Her family is so important to her that Pauline said, "My real role (in life) is wife and mother."

When she applied to K mart for a job two years ago, she did it because she thought it would be a new experience, and it has been.

Pauline said, "Every customer is refreshing and new and I just enjoy them. People tickle me. They are so different and interesting." She also added, "It's fun. I look at it as fun." While she is ringing up your items,

Home improvements can be a source of deductions

There's no question that owning a home can be costly, but home ownership is also replete with tax-saving opportunities. To help you make the most of these opportunities, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants points out how the tax law can impact your home ownership decision.

POINTS DEDUCTIBLE

Your tax savings begin with the points you pay to the mortgage lender to secure a mortgage. Points paid to acquire your principal residence are generally fully deductible in the year you pay them. Points paid for refinancing or purchasing a second home normally must be deducted over the life of the loan.

In a recent reversal, the IRS ruled that points paid from mortgage proceeds are deductible up front as long as the fees you pay at closing, such as those for attorneys, appraisals, and abstracts, are at least equal to the amount of points withheld. Prior to this ruling, deductions for points paid out of the loan proceeds had to be spread over the life of the mortgage.

INTEREST AND TAXES

Deductions for mortgage interest and real estate taxes can also help to offset some of the high costs of home ownership. You may deduct interest paid on up to $1 million in acquisition debt as long as you use the loan proceeds to buy, construct or improve your principal or second residence.

Real estate taxes you pay on your property are generally tax deductible. If you buy or sell property during the year, the real estate tax deduction is allocated between the buyer and seller based on the part of the year you each owned the property. However, this tax deduction, and certain other itemized deductions, are phased out for some high-income taxpayers.

IMPROVEMENTS PAY OFF

The money you spend for home improvements provides another opportunity for tax savings. For tax purposes, an improvement is anything that adds value to your house, prolongs its life or adapts it to new uses. The cost of improvements of a lasting nature, such as adding a bathroom, installing a new roof, or building a deck, add to your home's basis or total cost. When it comes time to sell your home, the higher your basis, the lower your gain—and the lower your taxes. Be sure to save bills, cancelled checks, and other documents that support the cost of the improvements you make.

SELLERS GET BREAKS

If you sell your home and realize a profit, you can generally defer paying taxes on your gain by meeting two conditions: (1) you can purchase or build a new house within the period beginning two years before and ending two years after the sale date of the old residence; and (2) the cost of the home you buy is equal to or greater than the adjusted selling price of your old home. Your adjusted selling price is the amount realized on the sale, reduced by certain expenses of fixing up the old residence to sell it. The amount realized on the sale is the selling price, reduced by selling expenses, such as real estate commissions, advertising, legal and title fees. Fixing-up costs are expenses you incur in preparing your home for sale, such as the cost of painting, carpet cleaning and general repairs. You must do the fixing-up during the 90 days before you sign the contract to sell your house and you must pay for the repairs within 30 days after the sale. In addition, these expenses must not be capital expenses that add to the basis of the property sold. The IRS allows you to postpone taxes on the gain from the sale of your principal residence only. A vacation home doesn't qualify for this tax treatment.

If you are age 55 or older when you sell your home, you may be entitled to a special once-in-a-lifetime tax break that allows you to exclude from your taxable income up to $125,000 of the gain realized from the sale. You qualify for the exclusion if you have owned and lived in the home for at least three of the five years leading up to the sale. CPAs point out that married couples can take only one exclusion between them.

REPORT THE SALE

Whether you owe, defer or exclude the taxes on the sale of your residence, you must report the sale on IRS Form 2119 in the year that you sell it. Since each sale affects the basis of your next home, retain these forms for future reference.

you wouldn't catch her making small talk to another cashier. You have Pauline's focused attention on you and your purchase.

She said, "Give them attention. Customers deserve that."

And she seems so relaxed and peaceful as she works. Pauline said, "My mind is free. I don't have this turmoil and I'm very relaxed. I am able to enjoy."

And when she hands you your package after the purchase is completed, it isn't the usual quick thank you with little eye contact that you usually get from a cashier. Pauline's "Thank you" has a uniqueness all her own. She gives you direct eye contact that lasts longer than the usual cashier's.

Plus her "Thank you" is said with such emphasis, expression and sincerity. She takes her time thanking you so that you leave feeling really appreciated. You want to come back just to hear her thank you again.

Pauline's winning attitude comes natural to her, but she helps it along during her drive to work.

She said, "So many times on the ride in (to K mart), I'll think, 'This will be a good day. What am I going to do?' I set my goal."

She also plays a game with herself. She tells herself, "It's going to be a fun day, a good day." Does this approach work for her? She said, "It seems to set the mood because I have been so successful there with customer contact."

What helps it be a fun day for her at K mart is her interest in the customers. She notes that it is very natural for her to take an interest in them.

"It is easy," she said. "It might be my age. I can relate to all of you... the young, the older couples. I can relate different experiences."

People around her have played an important part in her life. She attributes her peaceful nature to her family and all the love and security she got growing up.

And when she was asked if she always had this ability to make people feel good, she said, "I'm just being myself. I've always been surrounded by good people that are kind and giving so naturally it rubs off... my family, my friends."

She also felt she is blessed with a good husband who is a wonderful support for her.

Her husband Bill confirms how nice she really is, even at home. "That's her. What you see is what you get. Arguments are few and far between. And if there is an argument, I have to do all the arguing myself." Bill Brown even added, "Her daughters all wish they were like her. She has been a role model for them."

Pauline's comments on handling life seem to have so much soothing wisdom and common sense. On how she handles life's obstacles - "You keep thinking, it's going to be all right. It's going to work out."

And it doesn't hurt that she trusts in her faith.

"I thank God everyday. I know a lot of my blessings are because of God and prayer... I think we all need that umbrella. I can't imagine not having some kind of faith. I think it would be a terrible world without it."

Pauline Brown works to be the best cashier she can be. She emphasizes that the cashier "is the last person the customer sees, and we want them to leave with a good impression and this is what I want to do. But then I do it for myself too."

Business Briefs

Novi resident BOB SCHMID, a divisional claim superintendent for STATE FARM INSURANCE, met with Congressman JOSEPH KNOLLENBERG in Washington D.C. March 8 to discuss current legislative issues.

Among the topics discussed were the Natural Disaster Protection Act, which would set up a balanced partnership between governmental and private entities involved in the consequences of natural catastrophes.

The visit took place at the legislator's Washington office, and Schmid was pleased with the opportunity to meet with him in person.

Along with his day job, Schmid has a second career. He moonlights as a Novi City Council member.

Two local agencies have been honored by one of Michigan's largest insurance companies.

After reviewing the performance of approximately 600 independent agencies in Michigan and Indiana that write property and casualty policies for the CITIZENS INSURANCE COMPANY, the Howell-based insurer selected BOWDEN ASSOCIATES and INSURANCE EXCHANGE AGENCY, both of Northville, for Key Agents Club awards.

The Key Agents Club award recognizes agencies for exceptional production and underwriting results.

Northville-based GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES CORP., announced this week the official inauguration of its 14th worldwide float glass plant.

Production began late last year at the plant in Tudela, in the south of the Spanish region of Navarra. This plant represents a further investment of $110 million in Spain's economy.

The Tudela facility produces an average of 600 metric tons of float glass a day and employs a total staff of 220 people, and adds to Guardian's existing substantial investment in Llodio, in the Province of Alava, where it manufactures float and pattern glass as well as automotive glass and mirrors. The new Tudela float line is Guardian's 14th such facility in the world.

BETH MAGEWICK joined COMMUNITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION as the new director of marketing recently. Magewick brings a solid background in financial services marketing to the $100 million dollar credit union.

After receiving a bachelors of arts in finance from the University of Michigan, she worked as a financial services officer for Dearborn Federal Credit Union in Dearborn. Magewick returns to financial services marketing after her most recent employment at the Society of Manufacturing Engineers where she served as a promotion manager.

Community Federal Credit Union membership is open to anyone living or working in Northville, Plymouth, Canton or the northern Michigan counties of Montmorency or Otsego.

The Novi office of LIBERTY MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY look very different for a day on April 28, as employees bring their daughters, relatives and family friends to work in recognition of the national "Take Our Daughters To Work Day" program sponsored by the Ms. Foundation for Women. Get a lotta Deere for a little dough.

Contrary to popular belief, you can get a John Deere lawn tractor without spending big bucks. Our STX38 lawn tractor can be yours for just $38 a month. With a powerful 12.5-horsepower engine, heavy-gauge steel 38-inch mower deck, and carbon-steel cutting blade, the STX38 is a whole lot of Deere. And at $38 a month, you'll really fawn over it.

NOTHING RUNS LIKE A DEERE.

PRAYER to the Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who showed me the way to reach my ideal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in the short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Say for 3 consecutive days without mentioning your petition and your prayer will be answered. Promise to publish this prayer. Also wish to thank Blessed Mother, St. Joseph and St. Jude. LB.

WE would like to thank all of our friends, relatives and especially the fine staff at Mediodge for their love, care and support during our bereavement in the loss of our dear father. A special thanks to Pastor Arthur Larson for his comforting words and McDonalds Funeral Home for their guidance and support. Thanks to all the ladies at Tri-Lakes Baptist Church for the lovely luncheon served. Your presence, prayers, kind words, donations, flowers and sharing cherished memories meant a great deal to us in our time of sorrow.

Tips for sufferers and their families

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Alzheimer's disease might strike only one elderly member of a family. But, it leaves many victims.

The neurodegenerative disorder itself causes irreversible memory loss and deterioration of intellectual and behavior functions to approximately 4 million Americans — most of them over age 65.

To their loved ones, Alzheimer's brings on months — and sometimes years — of anxiety, depression, anger and endless responsibilities as the father, mother, sister or brother they once knew slowly slips away in an uncontrollable, unpredictable way.

Indeed, there is no known cause or cure for this most common form of dementia, although some symptoms can be treated with medication.

Additionally, more than 100,000 adults die each year from Alzheimer's disease, making it the fourth leading cause of death among adults after heart disease, cancer and stroke, according to the Alzheimer's Disease Cooperative Study of the University of California at San Diego.

The statistics are bleak and the facts somber. But, when a family member is afflicted, there are ways to cope with the challenges that lie ahead.

One of the smartest moves for both patient and caregiver is to get a diagnosis from a competent physician — preferably one who specializes in treating the aged and who knows how to handle many of the symptoms associated with Alzheimer's disease.

From there, it's vital to gain an understanding of what lies ahead. If one knows what to expect, and can recognize the symptoms of progression, the changes that Alzheimer's brings at varying rates won't seem as mysterious and alarming as they might otherwise.

Alzheimer's causes a gradual deterioration of nearly all mental functions. Sufferers usually begin by experiencing bouts of forgetfulness such as misplacing their keys or forgetting names of acquaintances they once remembered in a snap.

These episodes usually are followed by more severe memory loss and learning difficulties. Sufferers may, for instance, forget to turn off the stove, or find they can't remember the month or even year.

At its worst, Alzheimer's causes disorientation, personality and mood changes. Those with the disease become suspicious and misidentify people they once knew well and get lost in familiar surroundings. Some grow to be agitated, paranoid and withdrawn.

Once a caregiver gains an understanding of Alzheimer's,

HOW ENZYMES ACT IN ALZHEIMER'S

A protein fragment called beta amyloid is a suspected culprit in Alzheimer's disease. Brain tissue in Alzheimer's patients is full of dense plaques containing millions of these fragments. Some scientists believe that the disease occurs when beta amyloid is not properly sliced by an enzyme.

The beta amyloid fragment is partly inside and outside the cell membrane.

Normally, one enzyme clips the fragment at midpoint. But in Alzheimer's patients, this action is somehow blocked, allowing the intact fragment to merge with other fragments, and, eventually, to form plaques.

In all individuals, a second enzyme cuts the fragments from the cell wall.

A third enzyme slices the fragment away from the rest of the precursor. Alzheimer's drugs may be developed to block this action, thus preventing formation of plaques.

Keep medications, for example, in special compartmentalized cases that designate what day and what pill, and install night lights along main lines of traffic for easy orientation in darkness.

Other recommendations include turning down settings on the water heater, thermostat or faucets so that hot water won't scald skin, making sure smoke alarms are in top condition and removing handles from gas stoves to prevent burns or fire. If portable heat is necessary, purchase units with safety grills.

• Take a day off: The caregivers of Alzheimer's victims carry a burden of unrelenting responsibilities.

Adult day care centers can help, however, by providing nursing, recreational and medical services and meals for elderly patients for a few hours or even a day. Thus, family members can get a much-needed respite from the never-ending duties.

• Enlist help: Since caring for an Alzheimer's victim often is an around-the-clock job, it's smart — and essential — to hire a helping hand.

Maids, adult sitters, visiting nurses, physical therapists and delivery service personnel who will bring groceries and medication to the door are among the many professionals ready and willing to handle some of the daily chores. And, taxi services and vans for the handicapped can help make getting around town a safer and more enjoyable experience for Alzheimer's patients.

• Join a support group: Alzheimer's disease puts stress and pressure on families, but support and therapy groups, such as the Alzheimer's Association (919 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 1000, Chicago, IL 60611-1676), are there to help them down the long road ahead.

Books and magazine also can provide vital support and information. New titles include "Facing Alzheimer's: Family Caregivers Speak" by Patricia Brown Coughlan (Ballantine/Health), and "Alzheimer's Disease: A Guide for Families" by Lenore S. Powell with Katie Courtice (Addison Wesley; 1993).

Additionally, several medications to treat Alzheimer's disease are now in development. These include drugs that prevent degeneration of neural activity, and calcium channel blockers which have been shown to improve memory in older animals, according to the Alzheimer's Disease Cooperative Study.

Thus, it's vital for caregivers to never give up hope, even when the prognosis looks grim.

he or she will be better prepared to help his or her loved one through their illness — and more able to cope with the disease himself or herself.

Additional measures to consider include:

• Stick to the familiar: Alzheimer patients usually do best with settings and schedules that are consistent and constant, say experts.

Thus, it's smart to stick with a predictable, established routine that includes proper medication, moderate physical and social activity, and to allow those with Alzheimer's to live at home — or somewhere that's familiar and comfortable — for as long as possible.

• Keep it simple: Forgetfulness is among the first symptoms Alzheimer victims experience, so keeping a home familiar and welcoming can prove challenging.

Survival tips include prominently displaying, easy-to-read clocks and calendars, photographs and other familiar objects, and using checklists, appointment books and diaries to keep track of the daily itinerary.

Away from home, identification bracelets and ID cards can prove virtual lifesavers if an Alzheimer sufferer becomes lost and disoriented — and can't find his or her way.

• Make home a safe place: Accidents send thousands of mature adults to the hospital each year, so it can really pay to take some precautions when Alzheimer's Disease enters the game.

Where can a family turn for help?

Caring for the elderly is an extremely difficult task and can produce an enormous drain on a family's emotions. To maintain a dignified life-style in a home environment would bring peace of mind to everyone concerned.

WINTERWOOD ESTATES is an answer!

Our care is as personal as a family can make it. The family atmosphere encourages the residents to function normally and to accept their new home with open arms -- not hostility.

We are an excellent alternative to a nursing home. We are a family unit offering a stable environment on which people can depend. Our homes are small (6-8 residents) and provide a secure and stimulating home atmosphere with warm support and individual care.

WHO IS WELCOME IN OUR HOMES?

Our homes are open to the elderly who may be experiencing memory loss or confusion, physical impairment, or need more supervision and personal care than you can provide. Our emphasis is always on remaining abilities rather than limitations.

Our homes are located in the historic Village of Parshallville. We are 15 miles north of Brighton, and 20 miles south of Flint.

Looking good in the golden years

By Alison Ashton

Copley News Service

Whether you're 16 or 60, you want to look good. And now, more than ever, seniors are taking steps to create an outward appearance that reflects how vital they feel inside.

Look through the pages of almost any magazine and you'll see mature models in their 50s and 60s who project a positive image of aging — energetic, active and looking good. Forward-thinking retailers, such as Nordstrom, use models of all ages in their catalogs; after all, it's their older customers who have the most resources to buy upmarket clothes and cosmetics.

Looking good — at any age — is a matter of care and attention.

SKIN CARE

Think of healthy skin as a clean palette, and the sooner you start taking care of it, the better.

A balanced diet and regular exercise are essential for a glowing complexion. So is regular cleansing that pampers skin without being too harsh.

Be sure to cleanse skin morning and night, but use gentle, nondrying products, such as superfatted soaps or cleansing creams. Squeaky-clean skin is skin that's too dry.

Beware of astringents, which contain a lot of alcohol and can be very drying. If necessary, shop for an alcohol-free toner.

Also use a moisturizer twice a day. You can use a lighter product before applying makeup in the morning and a richer moisturizer in the evening.

Exfoliating is one way to slough off dead skin cells and revitalize a complexion. However, like anything else, be gentle — a little goes a long way. A soft sponge, a little exfoliant and a light touch are all you need.

Another basic — for men as well as women — is regular use of sunscreen. Sun exposure, along with heredity, is the main culprit when it comes to aging skin. Use a sunscreen with high sun protection factor (SPF), and apply it on any exposed skin (including ears, hands, back of the neck). It's also a smart idea to wear a hat out in the sun.

Retin-A was in the news several years ago for its ability to reduce fine lines and wrinkles, but its side effects — increased photosensitivity, redness, peeling skin — made it a less-than-perfect option.

Now a relatively new product, glycolic acid, is available in some over-the-counter products (Avon and Murad are two companies that have them; for a stronger dose, consult a dermatologist). Glycolic acid is a naturally occurring substance derived from the sugar-cane plant, and it's effective on fine lines and wrinkles, as well as age spots.

MAKEUP AND HAIR

Inappropriate makeup colors look bad, no matter what your age. But skin tones do get paler with age, so what worked for you 10 years ago might not look best now.

If you're not confident about makeup, consult books such as "Look Like a Winner After 50" by Jo Peddicord (NWP).

Experiment at the cosmetics counter to find the best shades of foundation, blush and eye makeup. Colors should blend naturally with your skin tones.

Opt for cosmetics with a matte finish, and remember that oily products and iridescent eye shadow accentuate wrinkles. Use shades of rose on lips and cheeks to perk up a pale complexion, as well as soft shades of mauve and fawn on the eyes.

It's also invigorating to keep your hairstyle up to date. Work with a hairstylist to find the most flattering shape. Whether you prefer your hair long or short, keep it well maintained with regular trimming.

Does she or doesn't she? Well, maybe. Women with cool undertones to their skin look wonderful in shades of ash blond or ash brown hair; those with warm undertones should opt for golden blonds and browns. Dark shades, depending on your skin tone, can be tricky; they have a tendency to enhance facial lines.

You may even decide not to color your hair at all. Shades of gray and vibrant white can be very flattering. Use shampoos and conditioners formulated for gray and white hair to prevent a yellow or brassy cast.

FASHION SAVVY

Like your skin, the rest of your body changes with age. You may not lose or gain any weight, but the way it's distributed on your body can shift. Here again, what fit well and looked good 10 years ago might not fit right now.

The first step is to choose clothing in flattering colors, which, says Peddicord, is a matter of choosing between warm and cool shades. Drape swatches of blue red and warm red around your shoulders. Which looks better? If the blue red is more flattering, look for clothes with "cool" undertones. Otherwise opt for warmer tones.

Also pay attention to how clothes fit, altering them as necessary and keeping in mind that figure flaws are easy to camouflage. For example, wearing darker shades below the waist visually slims a plump midsection.

If you suffer from arthritis, which can make getting dressed a painful chore, look for ways to make it easier. Instead of buttons, choose garments with snaps or fabric fasteners. Zippers should have a large tab, and elastic-waist pants are easy to pull on.

COSMETIC SURGERY

Cosmetic surgery is a booming industry — among all age groups. Older patients — both male and female — usually have procedures that will reduce signs of aging. That means face and neck lifts and eyelid surgery to tighten loose skin, or collagen implants, chemical peels or dermabrasion to reduce fine lines and wrinkles.

You should consult a board-certified plastic surgeon and ask to see before-and-after pictures for procedures similar to what you are considering.

Be forthcoming with your goals and expectations — a good surgeon will tell you if they are realistic.

It also is crucial to give a complete and accurate medical history, letting the surgeon know about any medications (including aspirin and other over-the-counter drugs) you are taking.

FOR MEN

Toupee or not toupee? Most men hate losing their hair; most women don't really understand why. After all, one year People magazine named a very bald Sean Connery the sexiest man alive. Connery might don a toupee for a movie role, but never in real life (he also has noted that Mikhail Gorbachev, the bald former leader of the Soviet Union, was probably a pretty sexy guy).

Other notables with a naked pate include actor Ben Kingsley and, of course, Michael Jordan.

While balding in men and thinning hair in women is largely hereditary, poor diet and chemotherapy or radiation treatments also can contribute to hair loss. Books like "What You Can Do About Chronic Hair Loss" by Nancy Burning (Dell) outline treatments, from drugs (like minoxidil) to hairpieces to surgical techniques.

Care Memorial Society

Making a difference for thousands of Michigan families

We have made a great difference in the lives of thousands of families. For years, Michigan families had very few options as far as funeral service providers were concerned. In an emergency situation most families called the local traditional funeral home and contracted for products and services at the worst possible time in their lives.

At those times in our lives we need directors to guide us because so many of us are mentally and emotionally unable to make sound business decisions.

There had to be a better way! Today there are alternatives available.

Care Memorial Society is licensed with the state of Michigan # 3401000633 as a pre-paid funeral seller/provider. Our logo and slogan is "Because We Care"—and we do.

Today we can assist you in making these difficult decisions under the best possible circumstances.

We provide a clear path for your family to follow, when it may seem that little else is clear. Your wishes can be followed to the letter. By virtue of the fact that we use a guaranteed price agreement, the cost for these arrangements cannot increase.

There are no surprises, no attempting to add on to the original plans at the time of need. This is the peace of mind consumers demand and deserve today.

At Care Memorial Society we have learned that consumers simply want peace of mind and we guarantee that. . . Families expect prompt professional service at a realistic price and we also have that covered.

Here at Care Memorial Society we do not own large funeral homes, we do not own hearses or limousines, and we do not offer extended viewing or visitation for three days, for example. Large overhead and fixed expenses are passed directly to the public in the form of higher prices. If your family wants or needs a full-service funeral home, then Care Memorial Society may not be well-suited.

But if you are among the hundreds of thousands of families who would prefer a condensed one-day funeral or are interested in a complete cremation plan with a memorial service to follow, then Care Memorial Society may just be the perfect solution for you.

Contrary to what some local traditional funeral homes have recently advertised, Care Memorial Society is licensed under the same pre-need funeral act that they are. We are under the same state regulatory agency as funeral homes, so do not be confused by those who simply do not want to have to do business in a competitive market.

What Care Memorial Society represents is the opportunity for Michigan consumers to have the right to choose from whom they purchase funeral products and services.

If you, for example, were interested in saving up to 50 percent on the cost of a major purchase such as a casket, you have every right to make that purchase without fear that someone else may not be receptive. This is America, after all.

If you personally prefer a basic direct cremation without a funeral service, this is your right. No one should make you or your family feel as though you lack compassion, simply because you may not feel the same way that your folks did years ago.

The American tradition has always been free enterprise Monopolies eliminate competition, and exist in only a few states in the funeral service business. A competitive market best serves the American consumer by reducing prices.

The Federal Trade Commission has recently ruled that any person or business attempting to discourage or restrain free trade is in violation. In addition, the charging of any special fee or assessment to consumers who select products or services from any outside source is also illegal.

You do owe it to yourself and your family to investigate this subject further under the best possible circumstances. The way the laws are currently written, Care Memorial society is only able to service families who have prearranged with us. Those who wait until there is a death situation must then go through the traditional funeral system, and have thus limited their options.

Get the facts now under the best of circumstances, for everyone concerned. Because we care—and we know you do as well.

Golden years are time to pursue avocation

By Sharon Williams

Copley News Service

There are opportunities of a lifetime that one must wait almost a lifetime to pursue. But as most seniors would agree, they're well worth moving off the back burner when the time finally arrives.

The career and child-raising years offer little room for the chores of day-to-day living, let alone life's leisurely pursuits. So, many people put them off until the "golden years" — which truly present some golden opportunities in terms of time, personal and financial freedom.

Finally, there are the hours (and, perhaps the dollars) to take up a new hobby, pick up a once-beloved passion or immerse oneself in volunteer work.

The opportunities for personal pastimes rival the numbers tossed around in a lively bingo match. One can make the most of his or her retirement years by performing in bands and orchestras, competing in masters' sporting events, serving as a foster grandparent for children in need and socializing at a variety of soirees.

There are hundreds of pursuits and pleasures available to the older generation — enough to fit and fill every wish and whim.

The opportunities for amusement go beyond cards and knitting needles for good reason. In the 1990s, society poses far fewer restrictions and limitations on seniors than it

Instead of relegating seniors to the rocking chair, today's aging experts encourage them to lead lives filled with activity, and to plunge right into the pursuits that best fit their goals, capabilities and range of interests. Studies show that the more active one is, the fewer problems he or she will have with the aging process.

Following are some activities and amusements sure to enrich the retirement years:

SPORTING LIFE

For many of today's active adults, it's the green, not the golf cart, and the swimming pool, not the sidelines. Because of the social, mental and physical fitness they promote, sports and athletic activities are hot with the senior set.

Choices range from sports such as tennis, racquetball and skiing to less strenuous pursuits such as lawn bowling and shuffleboard. A longtime favorite of retirees, golf has putted its way to No. 1.

For a good workout, seniors can move to the tunes in a low-impact aerobics class, walk the mall with friends, exercise in a class designed for those limited to a wheelchair or take to the water in aqua aerobics.

For those with the desire to compete, there are masters' competitions, wheelchair and senior categories in events such as swim meets, tennis matches, marathons and 5- and 10-K races.

HOT HOBBIES

Hobbies for seniors are much more than just mindless pursuits. Whether it's gardening, genealogy, model railroading, sewing, acting or art appreciation, this generation is passionate about its pastimes.

Given all the choices, it's easy to see why. Gourmet cookery, music, furniture refinishing, creative writing, home decorating, craft and metal work, animal training and breeding, photography, art, foreign languages, carpentry, stamp, coin and other types of collecting, preserving, bird-watching, miniature-making and fish-fly tying are some of the hot hobbies that are constructive, personally rewarding and that yield results.

Some seniors pick up a hobby they enjoyed in days gone by, while others take up something new. Those who seek instruction or advice can take classes in practically every subject offered through craft and hobby emporiums, seminars, community education, courses-by-mail and nearby colleges and universities.

Libraries, museums and art galleries offer opportunities for learning, researching and simple observation. For those who enjoy camaraderie and competition, there are clubs, organizations and contests.

CALLING ALL VOLUNTEERS

Many seniors are ready to make a contribution. They might volunteer as a foster grandparent, dish up soup at a local homeless shelter, tie quilt after quilt for charity or run for the city council.

What many don't expect is that volunteer work will bring rewards. Personal health and happiness get a boost when one helps another, makes a friend, rises to the physical challenges of a volunteer job or simply learns something new.

There are volunteer opportunities for every talent and level of ability.

Someone who is wheelchair-bound, for instance, might enjoy reading for the blind, dyslexic and physically disabled, while environmentally conscious seniors might work on a recycling or restoration program.

Those who found success in their career or business can lead others down the same path through consulting projects.

Other options that allow seniors to pour their talents and years of experience back into the community include volunteer positions at the senior citizen center, Meals on Wheels or on campaigns for a candidate or cause.

Volunteer opportunities can be uncovered through churches, hospitals, charitable organizations, community health and human service agencies, food banks, homeless shelters, job boards and the classifieds.

There are even volunteer networks designed to match senior volunteers with appropriate positions.

SOCIAL STANDING

Today's seniors have many reasons for a get-together, and few reasons to spend the "golden years" alone.

Some choose to gather for games such as bridge, bingo, chess and checkers, while others join the throngs in orchestras, bands, square dancing or clogging groups, acting troupes and choirs.

Retiree associations for those of certain professions, circles for literature lovers, knitters, quilters and needle workers, homemakers' groups and social, study, book and computer clubs bring those with something in common together.

There also are those who just love a party. Friends both old and new can be found at senior citizen center gatherings, parties sponsored by churches and even private galas. Agnes P. Schaller and Analee L. Kinney offer some great entertaining tips in their book, "Never Too Old to Have Fun: Seasoned Parties for Seasoned Citizens" (Abingdon Press).

Then, there's companionship of the canine or feline persuasion. With 49 percent of all adults age 50 plus, and 30 percent of adults more than age 70 owning pets, one could easily say animals play a big role in the lives of many seniors.

Whether it's a bird, fish, cat, dog or some other type of pet, animal companionship brings many benefits. Researchers say a pet in the house can help decrease stress, have a positive influence on emotions and serve as an outlet to ease loneliness after a divorce or loss of a friend or loved one.

These spots are tops with mature residents

By Sharon Achatz

Copley News Service

Retirement for one person may mean the quest for perfect golf. Others may seek an idyllic fishing lake, the freedom to travel, or the time to perform in civic theater.

Whatever a person's goals for his senior years, there are retirement communities that cater to making those dreams realities.

While some retirement communities provide a monthly calendar of events that could fill a person's datebook — including the likes of bridge nights, swimming and exercise classes, well-stocked arts and craft studios, dances, classical concerts and academic lectures — others focus more on folks who want to make their own way. They may organize a monthly potluck or produce a play or two annually, but there are no regular affairs.

The best communities, if they don't provide organized pursuits, are at least near cities that can provide opportunities for an active lifestyle — from golf, boating and fishing to civic cultural events and community college courses.

The best also keep an eye to the possible need for future medical care — either by having on-site medical facilities or by being located near a major metropolitan area that could provide for any future need.

While all retirement communities have a minimum age requirement, that age can vary greatly. Some welcome people as young as 40, while most begin with an age requirement of 55.

A community's housing choices are likely to vary even more. While one community may offer only the sophistication of a high-rise condo, another will showcase a community of clustered duplexes.

Still others present nothing other than single-family homes with private garages and yards, while others offer a mix of housing options.

Regardless of their housing configuration of choice, nearly all retirees enjoy the security of a gated community and 24-hour security-guard service. Some communities offer the added benefit of a maintenance crew that takes care of homes while seniors are off traveling.

A list of some of the U.S.'s best retirement resorts:

- Green Valley near Tucson, Ariz. Custom-designed homes in the desert with first-class recreational and social activities — and a temperature that's generally about 10 degrees cooler than that of Tucson.
- The Villages Golf and Country Club, an hour from San Francisco. Condos and single-family homes adjacent to the site's 550-acre nature preserve that's home to wild hogs, mountain lions, foxes and wild turkeys.

- Sun City Center near Tampa, Fla. Condos and single-family homes in an outdoor haven that includes activities such as 126 holes of golf, hunting, fishing and boating.

- The Fairways at Leisure World in Maryland near Washington. Part of the area's political pulse — representatives frequently visit the community for open-forum discussions. Diversified housing options include everything from high-rise condos and attached town-houses to single-family homes.

- Woodlake Village near Myrtle Beach, S.C. Single-family homes with activities options that include the variety of several nearby golf courses, as well as the beach-front, sailing and deep-sea fishing of Myrtle Beach.

- Bayview Village at Port Ludlow, one hour from Seattle. Single-family homes with spectacular views of Puget Sound and activities that cater to golfers, boaters and cultural sophisticates, including dance and music classes and concerts.

- Sun City near Las Vegas. Duplexes and single-family homes with the freedom for selecting personalized landscap-

Some pointers to remember for selling the old house

By Sharon Achatz

Copley News Service

Moving to a retirement community often means selling the old homestead. Here are some tips to hasten its sale.

- Price the house right. Do so, and it's half-sold. Realtors probably are a seller's best resource in determining such a figure, as they have access to a computerized listing of hundreds of comparable homes for sale, the prices home owners are asking — and the prices for which the dwellings actually sell.

- Select a trustworthy real estate agent. Interview at least three top local real estate agents before listing a home. Ask each agent lots of questions, and be sure to phone their previous clients to ask: "Were you in any way unhappy with your agent and would you list another home for sale with the same agent?"

- Agree to have a lockbox on the house for easy access to all agents who may want to show the home.

- Cultivate curb appeal by making sure the yard is clean and well-manicured and that there are no loose railings, cracked glass or broken bricks at the doorway.

- Fresh exterior paint and new screens revitalize even the oldest houses, and new paint inside makes a home look and feel fresh and clean.

- Cleanliness sells better than dirt, so shampoo carpeting and make sure kitchen and bathroom floors and tiles are shiny clean — with polished chrome fixtures.

- When it comes time for prospective buyers to actually walk through the home, ensure it is shown in its best light. Make sure the house is neither too hot nor too cold. Leave all lights on, and open all draperies. For your own safety, put small valuables in a secure place.

Plan now to make most of nest egg

Retirement is a dream for some, a nightmare for others.

If you can't wait for the freedom and time to do what you've had to put off during your working years, retirement can be a dream come true. If you derive most of your satisfaction from work and can't think of anything you'd rather do, retirement may strike the fear of too much empty time.

If you haven't thought about it or planned for it financially, retirement can indeed be a frightful experience.

Make it a deliberate goal instead by planning ahead and ensuring the security to do what you've always wanted with your own time. You may find your retirement years are the best you've ever cultivated.

You'll likely have many more of them than your forebears. Today many people retire as early as 55 or 60 and will live to be 85 or 90 — that's 30 years, or one-third of your life, after work.

"Four in 10 Americans have no program at all of saving for retirement," says John Pierson, author of "Thirty Years of Retirement," a retirement planning guide from the American Society of CLU & ChFC reprinted in Fortune magazine's "Investor's Guide" and Money magazine's 20th anniversary issue.

Six out of 10 adults believe Social Security and company pension benefits will support them after they stop work.

"In fact, Social Security and pensions cover only about one-third of retirement expenses," Pierson says, "which means people will have to save to make up the difference."

You can find out any time what your estimated Social Security benefits will be. They'll depend on how much you paid into the system based on your income. Obviously, the younger you are, the more of an estimate it will be. But a "Request for Earnings and Benefit Statement" is available from Social Security by calling (800) 772-1213; fill it out and return it, and the agency will send you an estimate of your benefits to be paid at age 62, 65 or 70.

While Social Security is widely considered safe for decades to come, taxes on supplemental income will probably increase as may taxes on benefits themselves. More people are realizing Social Security alone will not ensure the retirement years they desire.

START SAVING SOONEST

So the only way to protect yourself is to start saving. And the sooner you start saving, the more you'll benefit from compound interest so that you'll have to save less per month over a longer period of time.

"There is no other way," asserts Pierson.

Consumer Reports magazine in May 1993 published a table of how much money you will need to save to supplement Social Security benefits. Some benchmarks, based on average annual inflation of 4 percent and an annual rate of return of 8 percent:

If your current income is $30,000 and you have 10 years to retirement, you'll need to save $7,902 each year to reach $107,331 in savings at retirement; at $60,000 income, save $28,649 each year to reach $389,151. If you have 30 years to retirement and your current income is $30,000, you'll need to save $3,075 each year to reach $234,968; at $60,000, $11,148 each year to reach $851,926.

"The surest way to accumulate savings is to put aside money regularly — ideally at least 10 percent of your after-tax income," advises Consumer Reports.

Merrill Lynch released a study in January 1993, "Baby Boom Retirement Index," that found baby boomers — those born between 1946 and 1956 in this study — are saving at just one-third the rate necessary to provide them a secure retirement at age 65.

"The survey's findings paint a rather bleak picture," says B. Douglas Bernheim, an economics professor at Princeton University who prepared the study. "Unless baby boomers are far more frugal, most will have to accept dramatically lower standards of living in retirement than they enjoyed during their working years."

Don't let that happen to you.

A 12-STEP PROGRAM

There are many books on the market that advise you on how to plan for your retirement, including dozens on investment vehicles that vary greatly in returns, risks and long-term track records. Prepare yourself today for your own tomorrow and start learning what you need to know.

One book is "Kiplinger's 12 Steps to a Worry-Free Retirement" (Kiplinger Books) by Daniel Kehrer, editor of "IB: America's Small Business Magazine."

offer a good guideline for getting serious about your future.

- Look ahead. Overcome retirement worries and face your own reality.

- Estimate how much you'll need. Figure out your future income and what you'll need to live, and determine how to fill the gap.

- Manage your spending and debts. Consider retirement savings a fixed monthly expense. Pay off your mortgage early. Step off the auto loan treadmill.

- Size up your retirement plan at work. Know what you are entitled to, what your choices are and how to make the most of the program.

- Discover the real deal from Social Security. Request your estimate. Choose when to collect.

- Pack an insurance parachute. Shop for the best insurance deals, for health and life coverage as well as long-term care.

- Get a turbocharged earnings edge with IRAs. They still offer the power of tax-free growth.

- Set up your own pension plan. If you're self-employed, create a Keogh plan, a simplified employee pension (SEP-IRA), or a simplified, small-business version of a 401(k) plan, a SARSEP, and you can set aside as much as 20 percent of your earnings or $30,000, whichever is less, per year, and every dollar is tax-deductible.

- Make the best investment choices. Stocks have historically shown the best long-term gains, but you may also choose bonds, annuities, real estate investment trusts, your own home and the myriad other choices available. Learn what your risk tolerance is and what your investment goals are and pick accordingly.

- Use these money-wise strategies: mutual funds, an annuity advantage, pick your own stocks, use solid bond-buying tactics, use dollar-cost averaging, avoid investment potholes.

- Make the right moves with a pension payout.

- Monitor your retirement plan's pulse. Watch out for inflation and track your investments' performance.

COMPANY PAYOUTS

A new law took effect Jan. 1, 1993, that requires employers to withhold 20 percent of "eligible rollover distributions" paid out from retirement plans to retirees, unless the money is directly rolled over into an IRA or other qualified retirement plan, according to T. Rowe Price's booklet, "Deciding What to Do With Your Company Retirement Money."

The money management firm that has a family of no-load mutual funds says you should consider two basic phases in the decision: taxes and investment.

Retirees faced with company pension plan payouts have basically three choices, says Price: "(1) Roll over all or part of the money into an IRA; (2) take the money and pay taxes, and possibly a 10 percent penalty; or (3) leave the money in the employer's plan."

"The direct IRA rollover is the easiest and most foolproof method to preserve the tax-deferred status of this money," advises James S. Riepe, president of T. Rowe Price Investment Services Inc. "In addition, you maintain your flexibility to begin receiving payments at any time or to move the money to another retirement plan later on."

INVESTMENT CHOICES

With the range of investment vehicles broad, follow the asset allocation advice of Fidelity Brokerage Services Inc., one of the nation's largest money management and investment firms that also offers a family of mutual funds.

Fidelity visualizes basic asset allocation as a pyramid. At the bottom, which is the largest block, are "secure, low-risk investments," such as bank accounts, certificates of deposit, money markets funds, IRAs and insurance; at the middle are "growth-oriented and tax-advantaged investments," including corporate and municipal bonds, zero-coupon bonds and utility company stocks; and at the top (the smallest) layer are "speculative investments," which should generally be left to those who have the most time left to save for retirement.

Speculative investments include growth stocks, aggressive growth-oriented mutual funds and convertible bonds, says Fidelity. The objective of speculative investments should be wealth building, not income, it adds.

You should be your most important financial adviser, whether you hire help or not, for you know best your needs, your tolerance for risk, your time factors and your goals.

Make retirement one of your most important goals, and the sooner, the better.

Women's retirement

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

According to a study conducted in 1992 by a House aging subcommittee, women have more to worry about financially in retirement than men do.

The study found that on average women receive only 70 percent of the Social Security benefits of men; and widows under age 60 tend to begin collecting spousal benefits early because of age discrimination in the job market, among other factors, which decreases Social Security benefits by as much as 30 percent.

pared to men, typical pension plans reward them less than their higher-paid male counterparts.

Add to these facts that seven of 10 baby-boomer generation women are expected to outlive their husbands for as long as 20 years, and women had better start thinking about funding their own retirements whether they're married or not.

Women should plan ahead for retirement financially the same way men should — and perhaps most importantly, should begin learning as much about finances as men should. Don't become the widow who kept herself in the dark about her family's assets and liabilities, only to find the dark a truly fearful place when her husband dies.

Take an interest in your present and future and learn what you need to know to understand your family financial picture.

Just like men, begin to save for your retirement as soon as possible, and make wise investment decisions by learning what the choices mean.

You might consider selling your longtime home and moving to a smaller place, even in a less expensive part of the country. Don't forget to place value on your friends, family and familiar activities, however, when considering such a move. But you could take the money from the sale, buy less expensive quarters, and invest the remainder.

Even if you stay in your hometown and in your own home, you may be able to draw some equity out of your house through a home equity loan; or you may be able to procure a so-called reverse mortgage if you own your home, wherein you assign the title to a bank that pays you monthly for life, meaning they claim that asset upon your death.

A pair of golfers 'test drive' the elevated green on the fourth hole of The Majestic

'The Majestic' opens on Memorial Day

By DON JOZWIAK

Northern lower Michigan has become a golf mecca in recent years. Courses like Sylvan Treetops, The Bear at Grand Traverse Resort and the Boyne Mountain Alpine Course are among the best courses in the state.

If these courses and their woodsy elegance appeal to you, but a three-hour drive to Gaylord or Boyne Falls doesn't, then you will want to be sure to check out Livingston County's newest golf course.

The Majestic at Waldenwoods is a slice of northern Michigan at M-59 and US-23. The map says The Majestic is in Hartland, but after playing a few holes on it, you'll swear you're hundreds of miles north.

The northern feel was part of the plan for The Majestic, which is scheduled to open Memorial Day weekend. The course architect was Jerry Matthews, whose fingerprints are all over the golf boom in northern Michigan. Matthews also succeeded in bringing a northern flavor to East Lansing with his Timber Ridge Golf Course a few years ago.

Matthews isn't the only connection The Majestic has with Timber Ridge. General Manager Bill Fountain and head pro Ed Cushman both come to Hartland from the East Lansing course.

"We really wanted to capture that feeling that the northern courses have," Fountain said. "But this was really possible because of the remarkable piece of land we had to work with here."

The Majestic completely surrounds Lake Walden, circling the 150-acre lake. The immense 18-hole public course stretches from Crouse Road to M-59 along Old US-23 and takes full advantage of the land's natural beauty. The Waldenwoods resort had left the land untouched for more than a century, and Matthews' design left much of Mother Nature's design work intact.

"It was our goal to disturb as little nature as we could," said Cashman. "This course is amazing just for the number of different animals and different types of trees you see. We didn't have to bring anything into the course to make it look this beautiful."

The Majestic's 18 holes encompass 1,400 acres with 160 feet of dramatic elevation changes and natural challenges.

There are tricky par-3 holes requiring delicate shots over wetlands. The greens are generally large, but missing one could put you in a dense underbrush — or in Lake Fenton.

Despite these challenges, The Majestic is not a sadistic course. From the back tees, it does play over 7,000 yards, but it can also play as short as 5,045 yards. There is plenty of sand, but many bunkers are there only for aesthetic purposes. The landing areas for tee shots are generously wide, and the rough is generally forgiving.

"This course can be set up many different ways," Cashman said with only a hint of evil in his voice. "If we have an outing that is mostly novice golfers, we can set up the course for them to have fun and enjoy themselves. But for something like a league championship, we could use the back tees and some creative pin placements to really give this place some sharp teeth."

The Majestic will add more teeth later in the season when it unveils another nine holes on the other side of Crouse Road.

Cashman and Fountain both think those nine holes could be the most interesting the course will offer, due largely to a massive wetlands area within the playing area.

The Majestic's first 18 holes will not be without some interesting twists. Along with an on-site driving range, The Majestic also will offer boat rides.

Boat rides? Well, since the ninth hole is on the opposite side of Lake Walden from the clubhouse, a ferry service will be offered to golfers who only want to play nine holes or who want to start on the tenth.

The Majestic's driving range should open a few weeks prior to the Memorial Day weekend grand opening of the entire course. Nine holes of golf will cost $20 and 18 holes will cost $40. When the third nine opens later in the season, 27 holes will cost $55.

Carts are mandatory — and necessary due to the sprawling course (walking between holes could take several minutes and the stamina of a triathlete). Power carts will cost $10 for nine holes, $20 for 18 and $30 for 27. For more information, call 632-5235.

"We're offering country club conditions at a public course," Cashman said. "We've got bent grass fairways and a great maintenance crew. We think people here are going to love it."

Majestic owner Bill Fountain is proud of Livingston County's newest course

Fourth set of nine holes coming to Hartland Glen

By MERRILL CAIN

Visitors to the Hartland Glen Golf and Country Club will get a big treat when they visit the club later this summer. The course is located on Highland Road in Hartland.

Finishing touches are currently being made on a fourth set of nine holes on the golf course which club pro Roger Boyt describes as "simply beautiful."

The new portion of the course is located on the eastern end of the club which has added to some confusion concerning the opening of the new holes, said Boyt.

The original 18 holes at Hartland Glen were designed in 1972, but when Boyt was hired as the club professional in 1984, plans were already in the works to design a new nine holes.

'Simply beautiful' describes new nine

Construction on what was labeled as the "east nine" began in 1986, said Boyt.

Designers Kevin Sustick and Jack Eastman designed the original 18 holes at Hartland Glen, but Boyt said a different design team was used for the new nine holes.

Because of unanticipated construction costs and several other obstacles, Boyt said the club was forced to cut some corners on the new portion of the course, which hurt business in the long run.

"Frankly (the east nine) was a disaster," said Boyt. "We took away from the course by going away from the original design boundaries," he added.

After the new nine holes were opened in 1989, employees at Hartland Glen began to hear complaints almost immediately, said Boyt.

Golfers complained that the greens were too small and the banks around the greens were too deep among other things, he said.

Boyt said it was very frustrating to hear complaints when everyone had worked so hard to develop the new part of the course.

"There was a lot of frustration," he explained. "You would like to put in a course and have people come in and say they love it, but sometimes things just don't work out that way. When that happens, you can't just throw up your hands. You have to figure out what to do."

Boyt said it didn't take club officials long to figure out their next step. They re-hired Sustick because they knew he was the one who designed the successful original 18 holes and he would be the one to figure out how to revamp the new part of the course.

Boyt said the club then purchased some property near Maxfield Road just south of the course in 1990 with plans to develop a brand new nine holes. Sustick was in charge of the entire design for that portion of the course; construction began on the "south nine" at Hartland Glen later that year.

Boyt said that after consulting with Sustick, it was determined that the east nine would be shut down for redesign after the south nine was completed. Then Sustick could redo the eastern part of the course to give the club a full and consistent 36 holes of golf.

The south nine opened July 4, 1993, and Boyt said the course has been a big hit with golfers at Hartland Glen ever since. He said the new nine holes has received a lot of use in the past year because the club carried through with its plans to close off the east nine.

Employees at the club have been working hard since last summer to get the brand new east nine ready, and the course is just about finished, said Boyt.

All of the greens and tees on the old east nine were destroyed, and workers started from scratch to rebuild the course. Fairways were left in tact because they were consistent with the overall design of the course.

It looks as if the new nine holes will be completed by July 4 this year and Boyt said a grand opening will be planned once club officials have an exact opening date pinned down.

The new course will be treated gently during the first year of operation, said Boyt, to ensure that it's broken in properly. There will only be open play on the course on evenings during the week and in the daytime on weekends. He added that there will be no league play on the new east nine for the first year that it's open. Leagues will instead play primarily on the south nine.

Once the new nine holes are fully operational, Boyt said some additional restructuring will be done on the course to enable golfers to play a smooth 36 holes at Hartland

Glen.

Boyt reported that some additional changes are in the works that will make the facility a much more pleasurable place to play golf when they're completed.

An enclosed patio has recently been installed adjacent to the clubhouse, and a new parking area is also under construction. Boyt said a practice green is being installed, and the club is purchasing more carts and hiring additional staff to accommodate more golfers.

Boyt said he's looking forward to an excellent season at the club and can't wait for the new nine holes to be open. His enthusiasm is shared by people who have played the south nine at Hartland Glen.

"The people who usually play the south nine are just chomping at the bit to play the new east course," said Boyt. "They're very excited and so am I."

'So you want to buy a new set of clubs?'

By SCOTT DANIEL

You see it every spring.

Harry Hacker and Debbie Duffer buy a new set of golf clubs and think they'll be magically transformed into Greg Norman, John Daly or Nancy Lopez.

When it doesn't happen, they wonder what went wrong.

"The golf swing has to be correct for the club to work," said John Koch, PGA professional at Brooklane Golf Club in Northville. "Before they buy, make sure that they take a lesson."

Purchasing a new set of clubs isn't likely to land you on the tour or qualify you for next year's Masters at Augusta. But, done smartly, the right clubs can cut a few strokes and a measure of frustration off your game.

According to area professionals, the first and best step is to seek qualified advice.

Factors such as shaft flexibility and the "lie" of the club (the angle at which the shaft goes into the clubhead) are very important. By analyzing a particular person's swing, Koch said a PGA pro can recommend the correct type of clubs.

"It's a big investment," he commented. "There are things you have to look at."

One of those things is clubhead speed. If you've ever wondered how Fred Couples hits the ball so far, it's because, well, he swings harder and produces much more club speed than the average player.

"The more clubhead speed you generate the stiffer the shaft should be," said Tom Sheldon, the pro at the Links of Novi.

Koch agreed. When he works with players, he said he uses two clubs to check speed.

"The driver and and five-iron," Koch said.

More clubspeed is produced by the woods because they're usually four inches longer than irons. For that reason, Koch added, it's often necessary to buy a stiffer shafted wood than iron.

Shafts can be made of many different materials. The two most popular, however, are steel and graphite.

Both come in varying degrees of flexibility. Many golfers have gone to graphite, though, because it's "lighter and stronger" than steel, Sheldon said.

Besides clubhead speed, Koch looks at how players hit the ball.

If a player tends to smack the ball more off the toe of the clubface, a club with more of an upright lie is needed. If it's hit off the heel more often, a club with a flatter lie should be purchased.

Making those assessments is well and good, but you have to be willing to pay for them. Buying a custom-made set that matches your swing speed and fits how you hit the ball will "double the cost," Koch said.

"Most people don't want to pay the extra dollar for the right club," he added.

For those who are willing, the Brooklane pro said he can order whatever is needed directly from the manufacturer. A truly custom made set can run up to $1,000 or more.

Many buyers, Koch said, fall into the trap

Buying the 'right' new clubs requires professional advice of thinking they have to buy what's in the pro shop or local store.

"Most people don't think there's a choice," he said. "They do have a choice."

Prices, of course, do vary.

David Sicheneder, manager of Bavarian Village Ski and Golf in Novi, said he sells sets from under $200 to over $1,000. Cost is determined primarily by the materials used in building the clubs.

"That's the big difference," Sicheneder said.

Lynx, Cobra and Ping are three of the more popular lines sold at the shop, which is located in the Novi Town Center. Another hot item is the Nicklaus N1 irons and woods.

Sicheneder said it's not always necessary to spend big money to get a good set of clubs.

About 90 percent of golfers, he said, use standard lie and length clubs. Manufacturers, accordingly, make mostly standardized clubs.

For about $500, Sicheneder said the average player can purchase a "nice set" of standardized clubs.

Skill level can be another determining factor in buying.

Beginners should find out if they really like the game before spending a lot of money, Koch said. To that end, he recommended that players allocating under $400 should "go for the best price."

Oversized woods and irons aren't a bad choice for a first set, Koch added.

"They give you more confidence that you won't miss-hit," he added.

The six HomeTown Newspapers won a total of 58 state and national awards for journalistic excellence in 1993 - a score that only a few newspaper groups across the United States could even dream of approaching.

Unlike golf, a high score is considered good when counting up awards.

The reason for our success? It's you, our readers. Here are HomeTown Newspapers we're lucky to have a highly intelligent and well-educated group of readers who want and demand the very best in hometown journalism.

In 1994, we're hoping to break par.

Steps 1 & 2: Honda's unique twin-blade system cuts each blade of grass into two pieces.

Step 3: Then, because the deck is tilted rearward, a third cut is made as the blade revolves to the rear.

Step 4: The unique deck design circulates these pieces through the deck housing where they are cut over and over.

Step 5 & 6: The tiny clippings are then deposited at the front of the deck. Lift created from the twin-blades draws larger pieces back into the deck to be mulched again.

BLACK HEAVY GAUGE STEEL FOR LONG-WEARING SERVICE

Don't know where to start? Here are the basic steps of wood fence installation:

STEP 1:
Use string to plot the location of the fence line. Calculate space between posts and stake out location of fence posts.

STEP 2:
Dig postholes and set posts. Use a level to make sure the posts are set perfectly vertical.

STEP 3:
Attach fence panel sections to posts. Use a level to be sure the fence sections are horizontal.

STEP 4:
Install gates and any accessories. Protect wood with paint, stain, or sealer of your choice.

If it has to do with fence projects, we've got it.

SELECT THE RIGHT CORD FOR YOUR PROJECT

Different tools need different amounts of electricity (amps). Heavy gauge wires can carry more electricity. The heavier the gauge the smaller the number. (12 gauge is heavier than 14). A cord's outer insulation is called its jacket. A thicker jacket will better resist wear. A thinner jacket makes a cord lighter to use and more flexible. The ability of any cord to carry electricity decreases as the cords length increases. Buy a cord with the same number of wires (conductors) as the tool you will be using.

The New Life Center at Providence Park

Where families are born...close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE

Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH

It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

THE CHOICES ARE MANY

From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF Visit our Open House on Sunday, May 1. Our staff will be available to answer questions from 1:00 to 4:00 pm. Plus, there are free gifts waiting for you. Or, if you have questions now, give us a call.
