

Budget stalled over job, guns

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Temper flared in Northville City Council chambers Monday night as disagreements among council members stalled approval of the city's 1994-95 budget.

The council's failure to approve the budget, or even schedule a future meeting at which the budget could be approved, may delay release of this year's tax bills.

The budget talks stalled over two items, a proposal to give Fire Chief Jim Allen a full-time position and another to arm the city's police department with 9mm semi-automatic handguns.

Both proposals had been left out of the latest version of the city budget, but council members Paul Folino and Charles Keys want to see them put back in.

The squabbling started after City Manager Gary Word gave the council some good news on the budget, noting that voter approval of the Northville District Library plan May 3 will shave $77,388 off next year's city expenses. The figure represents five months' worth of the city's annual $132,665 contribution to library operations.

The council had already pledged to reduce the budget by the amount needed to fund shared service library operations if the separate district library millage was passed.)

The cuts meant that the city's operating millage rate could be reduced to 12.5 mills, he said, from the 12.89-mill rate proposed April 25. It also meant that the Truth-in-Taxation public hearing called for Monday was no longer needed, since the new millage rate would raise no more money this year than last year's 13.14-mill rate.

The council went ahead and held the public hearing anyway, and no comments were received from the sparse audience.

The council had plenty of comments to make, however.

Rosselle resigns, but under protest

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township Fire Chief Rick Rosselle resigned his job on Monday morning, a move he says township officials more or less forced on him for no justifiable reason.

"I was called into the office and basically told to resign or be fired," Rosselle said. "There was no choice in it. I wasn't given any time to consider things and there were no reasons given."

Township officials publicly and privately say those reasons concern Rosselle's performance on the job. They do not include any allegations of illegal or unethical behavior.

No way, said the ex-chief. The allegations—most of which he said he hasn't been told about—are a just smokescreen, according to Rosselle.

Personality conflicts and a desire to revamp the township's emergency service departments were the motivating factors for those who wanted him out, Rosselle claimed. He specifically named Supervisor Karen Baja and Department of Public Safety (DPS) Director Chip Snider.

"The supervisor and the director don't like me," he said, "and they wanted to get rid of me. That's why they created DPS in the first place."

The township's police and fire departments formed a nominal consolidation to become the DPS last year, a single unit under Snider's directorship.

He hadn't been told that his job was in jeopardy before this, Rosselle said, and maintained that he hadn't had done anything that warranted the demand for his resignation.

"I really got the short end of the Conference day topics list whittled down

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

A committee of high school teachers seeking discussion topics for next year's Wednesday morning teacher conferences has received 133 suggestions.

Coordinator John Campbell, a special education teacher, briefed the school board on the committee's progress at the Northville Board of Education's May 9 meeting.

Campbell noted that the committee has already met seven times for a total of almost 16 hours in the past few weeks, most recently to sort through the 133 topics received by the April 15 deadline.

The topics came from various sources, he said, with 66 from high school staff members, 56 from district parents and 11 from school administrators.

The committee has narrowed the suggestions down to 14, including school climate, community relations, curriculum, discipline, interdisciplinary instruction, intradisciplinary instruction and technology.

The list will be whittled down further to 10 topics by the end of the school year, he said. That will give teachers a chance to begin thinking about the topics and planning how to implement them before the start of classes next fall.

"Our intent is to enhance the programs that are presently offered at the high school, and perhaps offer new programs," he said. "As the 1994-1995 school year begins, we won't be crawling. We'll hit the ground running."

Campbell, who has been involved in discussions about a restructured high school day for five years, said the new program is bound to cause some upheaval in the school.

"I have no doubt but there's going to be problems," Campbell said. "But along with those prob-

If horse racing tracks can't get into the general gaming business, they'll go out of business and drag down the $2 billion horse industry with them, a top official warns.

"Twenty million dollars in pari-mutuel revenue will disappear and 40,000 jobs," said John Long, president of Ladbrooke DRC, the thoroughbred running track in Livonia that accounts for more than one-third of wagering, tax and payroll dollars in the Michigan racing industry.

"That 40,000 jobs figure is conservative," said Margaret Zayti, executive manager of Northville Downs. The 250 jobs at stake there include

Election '94 will keep local voters busy

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

There's no turning back now.

The final slate of candidates competing in partisan races across Michigan is now complete. Locally, Northville voters can look forward to some big political battles in this Aug. 2's primary and some races that will be sleepers until November.

Candidates for partisan races at the local, county or state level had to file nominating petitions by 4 p.m. on May 10 to make the Aug. 2 and Nov. 8 ballots.

Those who did so had until 4 p.m. Monday to withdraw their names from consideration. Only one candidate involved in one of the 10 local races choose to pull out.

Democrats and Republicans in each race will now slug it out among their own parties in the primary. The winners in each party then face each other in the general election.

● The biggest contest for Northville voters will likely be the U.S. House of Representatives' 13th District. Long-time Congressman Bill Ford announced he wouldn't run for re-election earlier this year. The 13th includes Northville Township and the Wayne County portion of the City of Northville.

Engineers offer students helping hand in learning

By STEVE KELLMAN

The students lined up along a water-filled trough and on either side of a ramped track, waiting for their paper-and-plastic creations to be pitted against one another and the clock.

A cameraman and an assistant holding a boom microphone followed the action as automotive engineers critiqued each contest and tallied the results on a blackboard.

Except for the filming, scenes like this have been repeated dozens of times in Northville schools over the past three years, ever since the school district began participating in the Society of Automotive Engineers' World in Motion program.

On May 13, a film crew was on hand at Amerman Elementary to record the results—students learning scientific principles through hands-on methods with the assistance of engineers from the country's leading car manufacturers.

Northville PTA named number one in Michigan

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Brandishing a two-foot-tall trophy, Northville Parent-Teacher Association President Caryn Doehler stood before the school board May 9 and declared, "I feel like I'm at Wimbledon."

Doehler had good reason to feel like a winner. Northville's PTA had just been declared the best organization of its kind among the state's 560 school districts by the Michigan PTA.

The Northville school board joined in singing the group's praises Monday night, with a resolution honoring the PTA for setting "exceedingly high expectations for themselves and all parents in our school community through parent education, Legislative Action Network (LAN), (and) participating in Board of Education Subcommittee process which focuses upon curriculum, finance, policy, facilities and personnel . . ."

"They exemplify the best that there is in the state of Michigan," said Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski.

Doehler was honored as well for her "exemplary leadership in advocating towards continuous school improvement."

As part of their winning strategy, the Northville PTA submitted a 116-page answer to seven questions posed by the Michigan PTA, including a question about the PTA's relationship to its school board.

Doehler noted that the relationship in Northville has been an honest, open one even though the two sides have not always agreed. "We're not rubber stamps," she said. But even when the PTA and board disagree over issues, she said, "We can work on a problem together."

The PTA also works in partnership with the community at large. Doehler noted, through activities like the annual Box Lunch Auction during the Victorian Festival. Surplus revenue raised at the auctions goes to fund PTA-sponsored parent education efforts.

Doehler noted that the Legislative Action Network, an offshoot of the PTA, is recognized and published statewide for its informational publications on school legislation.

Publication of PTA Coordinating Council and school officers in the district's annual information handbook shows the district's commitment to the program, she added.

She also attributed much of the PTA's success to a willing community, where hundreds of parents and concerned citizens turn out for parent education programs like Education Week.

Board member Joan Wadsworth, the board's liaison to the PTA, said she was grateful for the association's formal and informal efforts to keep the board informed about issues of importance to parents.

She also pointed out an unrecognized function of the PTA—as role models of successful parenting and community involvement for others.

Ceremony scheduled for DARE

Northville-area residents are invited to attend the annual DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) graduation ceremonies.

The events will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, May 26, at Our Lady of Victory Catholic School, 133 Orchard Road, and at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 31, at St. Paul Lutheran School, 201 Elm.

The graduation ceremonies are for fifth grade students who completed 17 weeks of lessons covering topics in the consequences and social pressures of drug use, saying no to peers, building self-esteem, assertiveness, risk assessment and media influence, forming a support system and learning alternatives to drug use.

The courses were taught by Northville Township Officer Matt Mayes, the lone certified DARE instructor in the community.

The ceremonies will last approximately one hour.

Police News

Alleged attacker won't be charged

A woman who was reportedly sexually assaulted by a neighbor in a Main Street apartment refused to press charges against the man.

City police were responding to a report of a fight in progress around 11 p.m. May 15 when they spotted the man standing outside the woman's room with a beer mug in his hand. The 45-year-old man appeared intoxicated and could not keep his balance. When told he was being taken to the police station for questioning, he reportedly said "I have beer to drink in my apartment. I can't go to jail."

At the police station, the man was evasive when asked about the incident itself, and became belligerent when police continued to question him.

Another neighbor told police he had heard a fight in the woman's apartment and kicked in the door, and saw the man laying on top of the woman.

While they were holding the suspect, the 59-year-old woman called city police and told them to let him go, saying she did not want to press charges. She told police she knew the man and he would never do something like that while sober.

She also said she did not remember telling one officer details of the man's sexual assault.

Police submitted details of the case to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, which declined to approve a warrant for the man's arrest. Without the woman's testimony, police were told, the prosecution had little chance of success.

STUDENT BUSTED WITH DRUG PARAPHERNALIA: An alert hall monitor spotted a 16-year-old Northville High School student returning to school after apparently smoking marijuana behind the school May 13. The student, a Novi resident, was seen leaving the building after being told he could not, and was stopped when he returned a short while later.

He reportedly smelled like marijuana, and was taken to the administrative offices. Once there, the boy ran to the men's room, where he was seen tugging at his waistband. He said he felt sick.

The student was brought back to the assistant principal's office. A 20-oz. Mountain Dew bottle that had been converted into a pipe was found in his pants, along with a piece of tin foil containing a small amount of suspected marijuana.

A one-liter Mountain Dew bottle that had also been turned into a pipe was found in his backpack.

BREAK-IN SOLVED: Three youths reportedly involved in a residential burglary last December were recently arrested by local police.

The youths, a 15-year-old Northville boy, 17-year-old Northville boy and 18-year-old male with no fixed address, were reportedly involved in the burglary of a Horton Street home in which more than $300 in items including a .22-cal. Ruger semi-automatic rifle, blue flannel shirt, Timex quartz watch and two 12-packs of Molson Ice were stolen.

The break in the case came when a township detective investigating another burglary was speaking with the 17-year-old suspect, who was wearing the same Timex watch. He was arrested May 14. The 15-year-old was caught in the act during another burglary, and the 18-year-old was arrested that same week.

TEENS CAUGHT AFTER VANDALIZING CAR: City police, in cooperation with the Novi police department, arrested five teen-agers April 24 after the teens threw eggs and bleach on a passing car from the Northville High School pedestrian overpass around 4 a.m.

The police were investigating a call about several teens running from a Galway Drive home after throwing toilet paper on the house and entering a car in the driveway. As Northville and Novi police were conferring on the side of the road, a driver pulled up to say his car had just been egged. The police took to the road and a Northville officer spotted a car with five teens in it heading west on Eight Mile. When he saw one teen pass a bottle of bleach to another, he pulled the car over.

The teens, a 15-year-old from Novi, three 16-year-olds from Northville and a 16-year-old Lambertville, Mich., resident, were arrested and the Lambertville youth's car was impounded.

Each agreed to pay $64 to cover the cost of the man's windshield, which was cracked during the incident.

TWO CHARGED WITH DISORDERLY CONDUCT: City police arrested two 35-year-old Northville men around 2 a.m. May 14 after they were seen fighting outside The Liquor Shoppe at 115 E. Main.

A police officer on routine patrol heard sounds of fighting and spotted the two men shoving each other. As one pushed the other to the ground, the officer broke them up and arrested them. One man, bleeding from the left side of his face, refused medical attention.

Their blood alcohol level was measured at .21 and .18 percent respectively. They were released after they had sobered up and posted $500 personal recognizance bonds.

ARREST MADE IN CAR THEFT: City police arrested a 17-year-old Northville male May 12 for the theft of a cellular phone March 26.

The $200 car phone was stolen from a car parked outside the Wagon Wheel Lounge sometime between 10:30-10:45 p.m., after the car's window was smashed in. A person matching the suspect's description was seen leaving the scene along with two other males. The other suspects were described as 5-foot 5-inches tall, one with a beard or goatee and dark clothes and the other with a dark baseball cap.

SUSPECTS SOUGHT IN LAUNDRY STORE THEFT: Two comforters valued at $50 apiece were reported stolen from the Novi Road Laundry at 1067 Novi Road May 13, sometime between 3:30-4 p.m. A blue Ford pickup truck containing four women, one man and a child was seen in the area during the time, and two of the women were seen entering the store. The women were described as "Hispanic-looking."

DEALERSHIP ROBBED: A Comerica bag containing hundreds of dollars in cash, checks and receipts was reportedly stolen from McDonald Ford sometime between 10:30 p.m. May 10 and 7:35 a.m. the next day. The bag was taken from a file cabinet, and there were no signs of forced entry to the building.

A McDonald Ford employee told city police that a man had called the 550 W. Seven Mile dealership on May 10 and claimed to be a burglar alarm salesman seeking information on the dealership's alarm system. She said she hung up on him.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Construction is ahead of schedule

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The Mainstreet '93 parking project is ahead of schedule and under budget, said Project Manager Jack Galopin.

Galopin, with the construction manager firm Walbridge Aldinger, briefed the city council on the project's progress Monday night.

The only aspects of the multi-phase project that are not on schedule, he said, are those that are ahead. He said the parking lots south of the Cady Street deck, which had been scheduled for completion July 1, are three weeks ahead of schedule, while demolition and removal of the Cady deck itself is two weeks ahead.

Curbing for the parking lots should be laid down this week, while the limestone sub-base will be laid next week and paving done shortly thereafter.

The Cady Street deck will be replaced by a similar version with more attractive brick facing and elevator and stair towers. Precast concrete for the project is already being poured, and it should be delivered to the site in the beginning of July, Galopin said.

The deck should be completed sometime in November.

As soon as the parking lots are completed, Walbridge will begin coordinating construction of a sunken parking deck south of the MainCentre building.

Township water use ordinance enacted

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township has a new ordinance restricting water use.

Now, don't go fill up the bathtub and sinks just yet. The ordinance, adopted May 12 on a 4-3 vote of the board of trustees, limits lawn sprinkling during declared water emergencies only. That's a situation which has happened only once before.

The infamous drought of the summer of 1988 caused a water shortage in the Detroit area, Director of Public Utilities Bill Anderson said. That, in turn, has led to the state asking local communities to pass ordinances requiring homeowners to cut down on water use when it or Wayne County says levels are dangerously low.

If either of those entities ever does so, Anderson said, the ordinance would regulate lawn sprinkling. Township residents would be asked to water their lawns on an odd/even day system, he continued, and be banned from watering during peak water demand hours. Those include 5-8 a.m. and 5-8 p.m., he said.

The ordinance includes fines for non-compliance, a provision some on the board said means an enforcement headache for officials. The fine is up to $100 per violation.

Friends spend donations

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Its annual dinner/auction may be a memory, but the activities of the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation most definitely are not.

As a matter of fact, the volunteer group has several interesting plans in the hopper these days, President Mary Gans said.

The Friends' April 23 dinner/auction was held at Schoolcraft College. Organizers wanted to raise money for the matching funds the Northville Parks and Recreation Department needed to get a $100,000 state grant for renovating Fish Hatchery Park.

The goal was half the $33,000 match, Gans said. After deducting the evening's costs, he added, the Friends cleared $24,005. The unexpected but very welcome bonus will provide money for a number of Northville projects.

First off, the Friends' donation to the grant effort will now be $18,000 instead of the hoped-for $16,500. Parks and Rec supporters say they will try to get the city and township to come up with the remaining $15,000 for the match. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) is offering the grant.

The remaining $6,000 and change will do a lot of good, Gans said. The Friends will use some of it to buy a fence sign from Northville Junior Baseball. That group is selling them as part of an effort to buy backstops and fencing for the three new baseball diamonds at Beck Road Park.

Spectators at the games there will soon be able to have a seat, courtesy of the Friends. The group is buying a set of bleachers for the park with some of the money raised, Gans said.

The rest will be spent on Fish Hatchery Park, he continued, to clean the pond there, for security lighting and for work on its nature areas.

Also on tap for the Friends: ● July 16 will mark their Ford Field cleanup day. Anyone who's interested is invited to come out with rakes, shovels and gloves for the effort, which takes place from 9 a.m. to noon.

● It's never too early to plan ahead. Circle April 29, 1995, on your calendar—that's the date of next year's Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation's dinner/auction fundraiser.

Police collar suspects after a resident's tip

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Two men suspected in a string of attempted burglaries earlier this month were apprehended May 4 because a Northville Township resident took the time to get involved.

Township police officer Matt Mayes arrested the two 20-year-old males, who are suspected of a number of crimes, including three attempted break-ins in Northville and Livonia.

The resident, who doesn't want to be publicly identified, called police after noticing the two men cruising his neighborhood and behaving oddly. The tip made all the difference, Mayes said.

"Without this citizen's phone call, I would never have been able to catch them," he said.

The two men were riding a 1991 Suzuki Katana around Village Run and Doral Drives at a slow speed, the man said. He added that they were stopping and checking the doors of homes on Village Run to see if they were unlocked.

At about 12:30 p.m., Mayes then went to the area to check things out.

The bike was gone when he arrived, Mayes said. He soon spotted it, however, on Penn Drive in Livonia. Penn Drive is just across Haggerty Road and the township border.

The motorcycle did not have a license plate, Mayes said, and so he pulled it over in the parking lot of the Mobil gas station on Six Mile and Haggerty.

Driving it was a Southfield man, who had no license, registration or proof of ownership with him, Mayes said.

Mayes arrested the driver and searched his passenger, a resident of Detroit. He was carrying checkbooks which bore the name and address of a Penn Drive resident, Mayes said. The man would not say how he got them, the officer said, and was taken into custody.

A search of the storage compartment under the bike's seat turned up a black crowbar, Mayes continued. A Doral Drive resident told police that someone had tried to break into his home by attempting to pry open the front door. A Mulfield Lane resident reported the same thing, as did a Penn Drive resident to Livonia police.

A computer check of the Southfield man showed him to have five outstanding felony warrants for charges ranging from fraud to receiving and concealing stolen property to breaking and entering.

Mayes cited the man for driving with a suspended license and for not having a valid motorcycle operator's endorsement on his license. He will appear in 35th District Court later this month. Livonia police will handle all other charges concerning the two, Mayes said.

Former Governor J. Swainson dies last week

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

When former Michigan Gov. John Swainson died Friday, Northville lost a little piece of its past.

Swainson lived in Northville at one time and represented Northville and other western Wayne County suburbs in the Michigan Senate from 1955-58.

"He had a courageous war record, but his political record was equally courageous," said former UAW President Douglas Fraser. "He was a very jovial individual, and he never complained about his handicap—he just accepted it."

Fraser, a current Northville resident, was UAW vice president in 1961-62 when Swainson served as Michigan governor. The governorship, now a four-year position, was a two-year office at that time.

"During the campaign, he was on his feet 16 hours a day. His legs would be raw," Fraser said of the double amputee.

Swainson served with distinction in World War II, losing his lower legs in a mine explosion in France. He died of a heart attack at his home in Manchester, Mich., May 13. He was 68.

The Canadian-born Swainson was the youngest person in state history to serve in all three branches of government. He was elected to the Senate in 1954, to the governorship in 1960 and to the Michigan Supreme Court in 1970.

He was only 35 when he became governor of Michigan. Voters in both Northville city and Northville Township voted for Swainson's opponent, Republican Paul Bagwell, in that election. The combined vote count was Bagwell 2,203, Swainson 1,259.

Dan Gilmartin Sr. of Livonia acted as Swainson's press secretary during the 1960 campaign and said, despite his handicap, Swainson was a tireless worker.

"John campaigned in every county in Michigan. Unlike now when you get $5 million and spend $4 million of it on TV ads, he believed you had to get your ass out on the street."

"He had a million friends all over the state. He knew the editor of the wacky-wacky gazette and the station manager at W-com pone. Many times he put on his artificial legs with blood oozing out of the protective covering."

Gilmartin, a former journalist who wrote for the Ann Arbor News and was once the editor of the Livonia Observer, was close to Swainson for many years and received an appointment as racing commissioner after the 1960 election.

He speaks fondly of Swainson's spontaneous and unique sense of humor.

"On election night, he was sitting on the couch without his legs on when he was told a photographer wanted to take a picture of him. He jumped down, landed on his knees and did his best Toulouse-Lautrec."

He said, "Let him in, he's going to get a picture of the shortest damn governor in the country." Without his legs he was only about 4-foot-3."

Gilmartin acknowledged Swainson's ties to organized labor and said George Romney, who wrested the governorship away from Swainson in 1962, was "the only man in the state who could have beat him."

Fraser attributed Swainson's failed reelection bid to an unpopular tax that was implemented in the early '60s.

"He didn't veto the tax increase," Fraser said. "It was a courageous political act but it cost him the governorship." Swainson's charmed political life took a downward turn when he was acquitted of bribery charges in 1975 but convicted of perjury. He spent 60 days in a halfway house and resigned from the state's high court.

In later years, Swainson was active with the Michigan Historical Society.

"He had a penchant for doing this differently," Gilmartin said. "He was above all a gentleman. If I could clone a politician, it would be him."

The former governor was buried Tuesday.

Prom party

Northville High School seniors didn't let the formality of the occasion keep them from cutting loose, as Scott Madaus demonstrates by shedding his suit coat while dancing with Jen-

Take The Next Step At Wayne State University...

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country. They are taking classes at our main campus in the University Cultural Center in Detroit or on one of our satellite campuses while others go to our University Center at Macomb Community College.

Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation
- Cost — the only Michigan public university with a negative increase in tuition costs over the past decade based on inflation
- Financial aid — During 1991-92 WSU awarded $50 million in aid to students

So go ahead and take the next step. Simply clip and mail the attached coupon and we will send you more information about transferring to Wayne State.

World in Motion brings engineers, students together

Students first raced a fleet of boats with construction-paper sails strung from drinking-straw masts, pushed by an electric fan at one end. Gravity-powered race cars were next.

Between the three heats for each vehicle, the students were given the opportunity to modify sails and hulls of their boats and wheels and weight of their cars, to get the most speed out of them.

"You want to make sure the weight's centered in the car," noted 10-year-old Matt Doyle after his team's car had competed. Centering the clay or metal washers used for weight helped assure that the vehicle ran in a straight line, he explained.

Ashley Pyatenko, 10, part of the design team that constructed the winning Mac Attack sailboat, said the secret was a simple design. "A lot of people tried to make really elaborate designs because of fancy looks," he said. "Ours didn't look fancy, but it went fast."

Amerman science teacher Jeff Lightfoot, who coordinated Friday's contest, said the chance to modify their vehicles is what makes the program interesting for the students. "To me, that's the exciting part, how you can make changes or make modifications and see what happens," Lightfoot said.

For Ford engineer Adam Danes, participating in World in Motion was a sort of homecoming. Danes was a fifth grade student of Lightfoot's 17 years ago, and his mother is an art teacher at Amerman.

Danes said the most important lesson that students should take from the program is that mistakes are how learning takes place.

"A failure isn't a failure unless you let it be," he said. "You could learn more from a car that doesn't steer straight than one that does."

Fellow Ford engineer Debbie Wines added that the program has its rewards for the engineers as well, who get to work with children intrigued by the scientific concepts that have become routine to the engineers themselves.

"It's a nice way to get a better appreciation for your job," she said.

James Cook, Ph.D., a senior advisor with the SAE, said the point of World in Motion is to teach kids how to learn for themselves through trial and error.

"The message to kids is, 'If you try it once and it fails, you try again,'" he said.

Cook, who coordinates the SAE program in school districts across the country, said Northville has been one of the most enthusiastic systems in adopting the program. Because of that enthusiasm, Northville was one of just two school districts chosen to film the 30-minute documentary that will be distributed to engineers around the country, with the aim of recruiting more into the program.

Cook attributed the cooperation to the grass-roots nature of its growth in Northville, where a Ford engineer had approached an elementary school teacher three years ago and the program had spread from that classroom throughout the district.

Student designs make bookmarks

Creativity counts at Our Lady of Victory School. Just ask seven students whose designs have been turned into bookmarks that are now available in the school library.

Each year, the school holds a contest in which all K-8 students are asked to submit pencil drawings that can be used as designs for bookmarks. One winner is chosen from each K-5 grade and one is named from among the middle school students.

The winning entries are placed on colored paper and copied. The copies are then laminated and offered to students who charge out books from the library.

The winning submissions are also framed and put on display in the library.

This year's winners are: Tommy Kempa, kindergarten; James Droze, first grade; Laura Kempa, second grade; Nicole Cauzillo, third grade; Diane Susalla, fourth grade; Karen Marino, fifth grade; and Jennifer Cousins, middle school.

The contest was held in conjunction with National Library Week in April. The theme had to pertain to reading.

Judging the entries were Pastor Ernest Porcari, Principal Linda Jackson and Librarian Virginia Krozek.

The winners will receive certificates and a book of their choice at the school's honors night, June 16. The last day of school at OLV is Friday, June 17.

Blood drive held at Orchard Hills today

The Orchard Hills PTO will be sponsoring a blood drive on behalf of the American Red Cross from 3-9 p.m. today (May 19) at the school. Walk-ins are welcome.

Spring and summer are the seasons when blood supplies are in the highest demand, because of injuries suffered while people active outdoors, explained drive organizer Mary Bohme. It is also the time when donations dip because many regular givers are distracted by those same outdoors activities.

The Orchard Hills PTO had more than 30 promised donations before setting up the drive at the elementary building, located at 41900 Guincoe. But Bohme said she is hoping walk-in donations will boost the amount given in the drive.

Some local races are crowded, some quiet for the right to face the winner among four Republican candidates. They include former Bush aide John Schall, Dennis Fassett, Cynthia Wilbanks or perennial candidate Glen Kassel.

Also covering the township and Wayne County section of the city is the state House 20th District. Incumbent Jerry Vorva (R-Plymouth) faces a primary challenge from former state representative Gerry Law. The winner gets Democrat Carolyn Blanchard—unopposed in the primary—in November.

State Sen. Bob Geake (R-Northville), will have a somewhat easier time of it in his bid for the state's 9th Senate seat. One of his primary challengers dropped out this week.

State Senate districts were redrawn earlier this year to reflect census changes. The 9th includes the township and Wayne County section of the city, areas Geake has represented for years.

Republican Richard Arlen withdrew his name from the ballot, leaving only Geake and John McGraw Jr. to compete for the GOP nomination. The victor will face the top vote-getter on the Democratic side: either Mary Haney and Patrick O'Neill.

The Wayne County Commission 10th District seat is on the ballot but will be a quiet affair until November. Incumbent Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter (R-Livonia) faces no primary opposition. Neither does Democratic challenger Carl Burnett.

Of two local judgeship races, one will likely be very busy, the other very quiet. Some 12 candidates so far have joined the hunt for the seat of retiring 35th District Court jurist James Garber.

The court's jurisdiction includes the Wayne County section of the city, the Township, the City and Township of Plymouth and Canton Township.

Candidates for the non-partisan, six-year position don't have to file their nominating petitions until July 21.

Judge Harold Bulgarelli, jurist at the 52nd District Court, First Division, has filed for re-election to his seat and to date is the sole candidate. 52-1's jurisdiction includes the Oakland County section of the City of Northville.

Four other races include those residents, but they'll see quiet primaries in all of them. Only one Democrat and one Republican have filed in each race: the U.S. House 11th District; the 38th State House District; the 15th State Senate District; and the 17th Oakland County Commission District.

11th District U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg (R-Bloomfield Twp.) faces no primary opposition and neither does Democrat Mike Bershold. The two will face off in November.

Incumbent GOP State Rep. Willis Bullard Jr. of the 38th District, faces no primary opposition as does Democratic challenger Bob Harvey.

State Sen. David Honigman, a Republican, is expected to have a leg up on Democratic challenger Vicki Barnett in the race for the Senate's 15th District. The district's redrawn boundaries was one reason longtime Democratic Sen. Jack Faxon decided not to run, thus avoiding running against colleague Honigman.

In the 17th District of the Oakland County Commission, incumbent Kay Schmid (R-Nowi) faces no opposition, and neither does Democratic candidate Michael Meyer. Meyer, a Novi resident, is a member of the Novi school board.

Two statewide races in which Northville voters will also participate include those for the seat of retiring U.S. Sen. Donald Riegle (D-Flint) and the granddaddy of them all—for governor of Michigan.

Six Democrats will battle it out for the right to face the winner of the two-party Republican primary for Riegle's seat. Candidates include:

For the Democrats: former U.S. Rep. William Brodhead; retiring U.S. House Rep. Bob Carr; Lansing businessman Joel Ferguson, chair of board of trustees of MSU; State Sen. John Kelly of Grosse Pointe; Macomb County Prosecutor Carl Marlinga; and Ann Arbor State Sen. Lana Pollack.

For the Republicans: ex-state party chair Spencer Abraham and former GOP National Committee member Ronna Romney.

INTRODUCING The New Life Center at Providence Park

Where families are born...close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE

Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH

It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

THE CHOICES ARE MANY

From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF. But don't take our word for it. Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.

Libertarian looks forward to close U.S. Senate race

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Libertarians, used to dismal showings of 1 percent at the polls, have reason to be optimistic in the 1994 election year. The reason is H. Ross Perot's nearly 20 percent showing in 1992.

"Perot's United We Stand America is a tax-exempt corporation. They can't run candidates. They don't endorse candidates. I've spoken to every United We Stand group in the state and have been well received," said Libertarian U.S. Senate candidate Jon Coon.

"They are conservative economically. They are patriotic."

"We've had independent presidential candidates do well in the popular vote in the past. What's different this time is that they never had an independent leave behind a permanent organization," Coon said in an interview in his Hazel Park storefront headquarters.

Libertarians are "liberal" on civil rights, abortion and individual freedom (including gun ownership). They're "conservative" on economics and governmental regulation of business.

In 1992 Libertarian candidates for State Board of Education got 95,000 votes—a total so low the party had to petition for a ballot slot this year.

Libertarians reason that if 2.5 million people vote in 1994, and if they draw 850,000 to one million votes, they can elect Coon to Democrat Don Riegle's Senate seat. If they just do well, they can be a spoiler—as Perot was to both George Bush and Bill Clinton.

Coon, 35, is a full-time candidate, supported by party contributors. He lists himself as "Gun Owner—NRA (National Rifle Association) Member—Hunter." Married 15 years, the Coons have three children.

Jon Coon

Coon hails from Henderson, a small town in Shiawassee County, where he went to a one-room school and passed the high school GED test. He spent eight years in the Michigan National Guard, emerging as a first lieutenant.

Out of a factory job in the early 1980s, Coon and a brother started a firewood business that grew into the Henderson Land and Timber Co.

"I'm most proud of the fact that at one time my company employed 12 people. It's not operating now, due to the incredible tax burden. We were hit hard. In that business, you can't hide your assets," he said.

He never was politically active until 1992 when he joined the Libertarian Party and became vice chair in May 1993. Libertarians tend to be issue-oriented and articulate. Among his supporters: the Delenes, the Upper Peninsula family that ran afoul of the Department of Natural Resources in a dispute over wetlands laws, permits and wildlife habitat they constructed.

After long-time stalwart Dick Jacobs succumbed to cancer, the party tapped Coon to run for the U.S. Senate. It didn't field a gubernatorial candidate (see list).

So far Coon has spent much of his time in southeastern Michigan, announcing his candidacy on local talk radio programs and at the Livonia library. Coon warns metro-area counties—particularly Oakland—that restrictive township timber ordinances are putting three-generation farms out of the timber business.

Some of Coon's views:

- Favorite proposed constitutional amendment—"Balanced budget. It's more important than the line-item veto."

- Burden of immigration on state welfare budgets—"Bees are attracted to honey. Files are attracted to something else. It's not time for a fly swatter. It's time to clean out the stable. It's time to take a good look at what is drawing them—the free lunch."

- Welfare—"We don't need welfare for anyone, period. If you keep the welfare system, you should shut down immigration. There were ways we used to do it before we put the church, communities and families out of business."

- North American Free Trade Agreement (supported by Clinton and Bush, opposed by Perot)—"If I got the opportunity, I would kill it. Citizens will decide whether to trade. We don't need a 2,000-page document."

- Gays in the military, women in combat—"I've served with women. I've served with people I know were gay. They're doing their job as well as I am. When I'm in a foxhole, that's all I want to know."

- Tax increases—"No."

- War on drugs—"A war on our own people—killing, imprisoning and confiscating the property of those who don't do as we wish."

lems, we're going to see a lot of positive things... a real blossoming."

Under the one-year pilot program, every high school teacher will sit in on a professional development study group, and each group will focus on a specific topic. The study groups will meet during a two-hour conference period each Wednesday morning, and classes will not start until 10:40 a.m.

Buses will deliver students to school in time for the 10:40 a.m. class and the students will attend a full schedule of shortened half-hour classes before being dismissed at the normal time of 2:05 p.m.

Partial bus service will be offered earlier for students wishing to study or participate in special activities on an as-needed basis.

The program, modeled after similar ones in North Farmington and Holt High School, was approved by the school board Feb. 7.

Mill Race Matters

Tonight Northville Historical Society members join together for a potluck supper/annual meeting. Dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. followed by a short presentation by Jo Marie Soezynski on Victorian costuming and then the organization's annual business meeting.

The Society's Key Person Awards will be presented to four volunteers not currently serving as board members who over the past year have kept the organization functioning smoothly and efficiently. This is the fourth time the Historical Society will make awards to special volunteers.

Previous winners are: First Year — Betty Omar, Diane Rockall, Rita Turnbull; Second Year — Ruth Crawford, Bob Juhasz, Cathy Payne, the Stockhausen family; Third Year — Dennis and Sharon Cassidy, Wanda Huber, Bob Russell and Tom and Sonia Swigart.

The Society will also be recognizing Office Manager Sally Henrickson who after eight years service has decided to retire to pursue other interests. New office manager Renee Brown should be on hand for everyone to meet. Mill Race's office will now be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Another successful Progressive Dinner was held last Saturday evening. Thank you to all the volunteers who contributed their time and talent to make it a success. Thanks also to the numerous community residents who opened their homes to guests for this enjoyable evening.

Michigan History Week begins

Saturday, May 21, and runs through May 28. Spend a little time this week learning more about local, regional, or state history. The best source on Northville community history is Jack Hoffman's book Northville: The First Hundred Years. Copies are available at the Northville Library or can be purchased from the Historical Society, Book-stall on the Main, Painters' Place, or Border's in Novi. The Northville Library and the Historical Society Archives have numerous other materials on community history to whet your enthusiasm for future study.

Other upcoming history events of note include: Saginaw's Cathedral District Tour of Homes on May 22 (517-753-4900), Rendezvous at the Rouge, Ford Field on June 11 and 12, a 1760 era encampment (313-565-3000), and Midland Heritage Fair on June 11 at Bradley Home Site in Upper Emerson Park, Midland (517-631-7557).

On Saturday June 4 prospective docents will meet at 1 p.m. at Mill Race Village, Cady Inn for a training session. This year mature young people are being encouraged to join the group of volunteers who each Sunday afternoon during the summer open the village to visitors. All those interested in participating should attend. If you would like to be a docent, but can not attend June 4, call 348-1845 to leave your name and telephone number.

Mill Race Village resumes Sunday hours on Sunday, June 5. The Village will return to its 1 to 4 p.m. schedule of previous years. On the first Sunday local area historical societies and authors have been invited to participate in a book signing and sale.

Thus far confirmations have been received from Farmington, Salem, Helen Gilbert, author of Tonquish Tales, Barbara Louie, author of No. VI On the Trail and Step By Step Through Northville, Jean Fox, author of numerous Farmington publications, and Diane Rockall, co-author of Step By Step Through Northville currently working on A Powerful Voice. All buildings will be open for viewing.

Come and help start the Mill Race season.

Novi man accused of absconding

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Shawood Lake resident Jim Korte accused Novi staff planner Mike Csapo of absconding with city property—but the charge was refuted by another lakes area resident, who says he gave Csapo the drafting table in question.

Csapo is leaving Novi to become the director of the Resource Recovery and Recycling Authority of Southwest Oakland County.

"An architect's table was given to Mike Csapo and he's leaving. For him to remove it is stealing. It's a cover-up, it's a cover-up. It's a cover-up,"

Korte said.

His remarks during the council's first audience participation session Monday followed a series of allegations Korte made about Novi Police Chief Douglas Shaeffer.

At the second audience participation session, lakes area resident Ed Phelps took his place at the podium "to put any questions to rest."

Phelps said he owned the architect's table, a 500-pound oak antique and decided it was taking up too much space in his home. He invited Novi's Community Development Director Jim Wahl and Csapo to have a look at the table and take it for the city if they were interested.

But the table was too big to fit into the department's space, Phelps said.

"Mike said he would find some use for it. Mike took it home. That to me was not theft. That was an offer turned down by city representatives," Phelps said.

"I'm glad someone's getting some use out of it."

Csapo, who is starting his new job Monday, said the table is stored in his father's barn. There wasn't "any need or room" for the furniture at city hall, he said.

"Skip wanted to get it out of his house. It's worthless. It needs a lot of work," Csapo said.

Elderly home plan is considered

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township may soon see a new housing option built near the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty Roads—an elderly care facility.

That isn't a euphemism for "nursing home" in this case. The kind of place developer Mike Damone has in mind is a homey complex for seniors who are physically frail but don't need a lot of medical care.

"The facility provides a home-like setting for people," Damone told members of the township's planning commission last month. "Residents have their own rooms, private baths and we have small dining areas. There's not an institutional feel to the place."

The elderly living center is part of the proposed plan for Vintagewood Estates, which combines the facility with a 51-lot subdivision of single family homes and a six-acre area of open space for recreation for both. The whole package is slated for 32.8 acres on Six Mile across from East Northville Trail near Haggerty.

The commission recommended approval of the plan, which incorporates the township's open space ordinance option, to the board of trustees. The board has the final say and is expected to consider the matter in coming weeks.

The elderly care facility would sit in the middle of the site, taking up about three acres. Just to its south

The elderly living center is part of the proposed plan for Vintagewood Estates, which combines the facility with a 51-lot subdivision of single family homes and a six-acre area of open space for recreation for both. would be the open space area, shared with the subdivision. The sub's homes would line its semi-circular road, either end connecting it to Six Mile. The homes would average 12,000 square feet and start in the $275,000-300,000 range.

The reason for combining the center and sub into one plan, Damone said, was the benefit both received. Under the plan, the site gets developed as a single package, not as two or three small cul-de-sac subs, Damone said—the likely result if his plan isn't approved, he added.

Sub residents and center residents will both benefit from the acres of open space, he said, and the homey feeling the center's shooting for will be enhanced.

Damone was looking to meet the standards of the open space ordinance, which includes five major conditions. The most important is stages.

The entire facility is licensed and staffed with care professionals who offer essential services and coordinate a variety of activities for the residents. Sixty rooms are planned for in the center, Damone said, with beds for a total of 72 residents.

The commission made its recommendation contingent on several conditions being met. Two of the key ones were a demand that Vintagewood include a phasing plan to avoid "spot development" and for a more detailed landscape plan. The latter was called for in order to address the concerns several dozen residents of the area raised.

They wrote the commission or signed a petition protesting the plan, arguing that Vintagewood would reduce or destroy the wooded natural areas which separate it from the Country Club Village development on its southern flank.

Two of that subdivision's residents spoke in favor of the proposal at the meeting—as did most of the commission—citing a need for elderly housing in the township.

The spot development scenario the commission wanted to avoid goes like this: the center is built and opens; the market falls for residential housing; the developer comes back to the township asking permission for new zoning for commercial centers. A phasing plan, one locking in the residential housing, was agreed to in order to prevent that.

Horse tracks try to compete with casino gambling declaring he will be forced to close the money-losing Ladbroke DRC next year because of competition from casino gambling across the international boundary in Windsor.

"This is going to be a tough sell to the Legislature," said racing commissioner Nelson Westrin. An appointee of Gov. John Engler, Westrin has spent his first nine months in office building a coalition between the thoroughbred (running) industry, the standardbred (harness) industry, the Service Employees International Union and lawmakers such as Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford.

"I've been encouraged," Westrin said Monday at a news conference held by Long. "I told Gov. Engler that if a consensus could be built, perhaps this industry could be saved."

Their sales pitch: More jobs than the 1,000 at Ladbroke DRC and 250 at Northville Downs are at stake. Other potential losers:

- Farms that grow feed for horses.
- Breeding farms.

- Trainers, jockeys, drivers and animal attendants.

- County fairs, 4-H clubs and prizes for horses, which derive their state support from taxes on pari-mutuel wagers.

- Cities that depend on $2.5 million in state-shared revenue to support their police, fire and traffic services.

Bankes added that the law could be rewritten to give cities a direct cut of pari-mutuel taxes. "Cities wouldn't have to go through the appropriations process. They'd get their revenue directly," said Bankes, who has fought losing battles on the House Appropriations Committee.

A 1979 state law guarantees the three major tracks $900,000 a year. Instead, lawmakers have appropriated them $450,000 apiece.

State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, whose district includes Northville Downs, cited Westrin's estimate that allowing horse tracks to handle gaming will result in purses that could double or triple the current purses.

"If you have better purses (for winning horses), you'll attract better horses, and you'll have more people at the tracks," said Vorva.

Source: Michigan Office of Racing Commissioner

Despite increases in the total number of racing dates per year, state revenue from track wagering continues to decline.

Ladbroke's Long said his company has lost money all nine years it has operated the mile track in Livonia. Smallest loss was $554,000 in 1990; largest were $2.1 million in 1985 and $2.2 million last year—total losses of $11 million.

Attendance at Michigan tracks has slipped steadily from 3.8 million in 1975 to 2.5 million in recent years. Northville set its track attendance record of 9,610 on May 15, 1990—44 years ago. In recent years its average daily attendance has been less than 3,000.

Ladbroke DRC set its one-day attendance record in 1952: Hazel Park, in 1965.

The state Senate Fiscal Agency, in a December 1993 article on economic trends, wrote of "The Decline and Fall of Horse Racing," blaming it on a dwindling horse supply, competition from casino gambling, old facilities and the economy.

Long compared horse racing's impact on the Michigan economy to Chrysler Corp.'s in 1978-79. But where Chrysler sought loan guarantees from the federal government, Long said, "We're not looking for a financial handout from the state. We want a chance to compete."

Legislation could give race tracks better odds

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Here is the kind of law that the horse racing industry is asking from the Michigan Legislature:

- The racing commissioner, headquartered in Livonia, would regulate video gaming and new forms of horse race simulcasting.

- Horse race meeting licenses would be expanded to include rights to inter-track (intrastate simulcasting), telephone betting and video gaming (slot machines).

- Only tracks which preserved the same amount of racing dates this year as in 1993 will be eligible to install video gaming terminals (VGTs). One-third of the net income from VGTs will go to the state, yielding an estimated $75 million to $100 million a year (versus $20 million currently from horse racing).

Affected: Eight horse racing tracks. The big three are Northville Downs, Ladbroke DRC in Livonia and Hazel Park Raceway. Others are Jackson Raceway, Sports Creek Raceway (Swartz Creek, near Flint), Saginaw, Mt. Pleasant Meadows, and Muskegon Racecourse.

No bill number has been assigned yet to this proposal. The bill likely will go to the House Agriculture Committee, the House Appropriations Committee or a select committee.

Outing features friendly competition, prizes

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

Northville residents looking to combine business with pleasure can swing their clubs and rub elbows with their neighbors at the annual Northville Open.

The Northville Chamber of Commerce's annual golf outing takes to the links June 30, and reservations are already being accepted.

Linksters will be treated to refreshments and a gourmet dinner at a new golf course this year, the Lakes of Pinewood course in Walled Lake. "They can provide a shotgun start so we can all start at the same time," said the chamber's Executive Director Laurie Marrs.

Sponsorships of different levels are offered, and people can choose to attend just the dinner and post-game festivities for a greatly-reduced cost. Marrs added that many residents mistakenly believe that the golf outing is a chamber-only event, when it's open to the entire Northville community.

"We call it the Northville Open because it's open to anyone in Northville, not just chamber members," she said.

The extensive prize list includes clubs, sweaters, hats, jewelry, a 1994 Ford Mustang and auctions for rounds of golf at the Tournament Player's Club in Dearborn, the Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville and the Oak Pointe Country Club in Brighton.

The winner of an exclusive raffle limited to 200 $10 tickets will claim a set of Ping golf clubs custom-fit to the winner's height and swing.

Proceeds from the outing go to the chamber's computer fund and advertising/marketing fund.

For more information or to make reservations, call 349-7640.

Writing contest winners chosen

The judging has been completed and the winners of the Second Annual Northville Record Writing Contest have been announced.

A total of 232 entries were received in four different categories. Both high school and middle school students were invited to participate.

In the high school essay category, the winners are: Monica Nayakwadi, first place; Nick Bowersox, second place; and Rebecca Gale, third place.

Two other high school essayists were awarded honorable mentions. All high school essays came from the class of Nancy Brown.

Only one high school student submitted in the poetry division, prompting the judges to eliminate that category from the competition for the second straight year. The lone poetry writer, Katie Kohl, will be given an honorable mention certificate.

In the middle school essay category, the winners are: Laurie Holoven, first place; Precious Shah, second place; and Jeff Nelson, third place.

All winners came from Meads Mill Middle School teacher Shirley Klockenga's classes.

Thirteen honorable mentions were awarded in this category.

In the middle school poetry classification, the winners are: Lindsay Conquest, first place (teacher Barbara Willoughby, Meads Mill); Phillip Goode, second place (teacher Dee Krause, Cooke Middle School); and Josh Mullins, third place (teacher Jayne Headrick, Cooke).

Six honorable mention awards were given to middle school poets.

An awards ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. Thursday, June 2, at Meads Mill. The winning compositions will be published in the June 2 edition of The Northville Record and the winners will receive monogrammed dictionaries and certificates. Honorable mention awardees also will be given certificates.

An engraved plaque bearing the names of the nine winners is being prepared by Orin Jewelers and will be presented to Meads Mill Principal David Longridge for display at the school.

The contest theme, "Northville and Me," was designed to give students broad latitude in choosing their subjects while at the same time providing a local flavor to the writing.

Meet board candidates

On June 13 Northville School District voters will be asked to elect two new trustees for the Northville Board of Education.

In order to assist the voters to make an informed decision, Advocates for Quality Education will be hosting a Meet the Candidates night on Tuesday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Northville High School Forum.

Advocates for Quality Education is the only organization sponsoring this type of event for this election. This will be the only opportunity for the voters to ask all of the candidates questions and hear their positions on the critical issues facing our school system and our children.

People are encouraged to come to this meeting, ask their questions and make an informed decision on June 13.

Advocates for Quality Education will hold a general membership meeting at 7 p.m. just preceding the candidates night. The slate of new officers for next year will be voted upon.

There will also be a special general membership meeting on Monday, June 6, at 8 p.m. at Northville High School for the purpose of deciding whether Advocates will endorse and support school board candidates.

City Council split in midst of funds debate

"I still would like to see the fire chief involved in this budget," Folino said, noting that the additional $34,759 cost of making the position full-time would only raise the tax rate .17 mill.

"We have not had fire inspections in our commercial district the way we should be doing, and a full-time fire chief could do that," he said. "We have a man who's been with us for many, many years and done an excellent job, and I'm sure that if we do not fill it with him, he'll be seeking employment elsewhere."

He added that the city could wind up paying thousands of dollars for fire inspection services and for oversight of the Rural Hill Cemetery, a duty that Allan now performs for $500 a month.

Word agreed that the city could use a full-time fire chief.

"The need is there," he said. "The question is how do you prioritize it over the many other needs that are out there. It's a balancing act."

Keys agreed with Folino's assessment, and added his own request for restoration of $7,620 to buy the police department 9mm semi-automatic pistols.

"We're one of the only departments, if not the only department, in Wayne County still carrying .38s," the former Detroit police officer said. "Even the police academy is no longer training in the use of .38s."

The fact that the staff had agreed to earmark any racetrack revenue received by the city in the coming year to the semi-automatic purchase was not enough to satisfy the council members.

Folino suggested using part of the city's slim general fund balance, $68,577 this fiscal year and an estimated $84,653 next year, to the two items, but Word said the fund balance should be allowed to grow to help keep the city solvent in the future.

The city manager noted that fiscal planners recommend maintaining a 25-percent fund balance, which in the city's case would be more than $1 million.

"I understand the need for a fund balance, I do, but I also understand the need for a fire chief and weapons," Keys responded.

What followed was a series of votes reflecting how deeply divided the council has become, especially without Mayor Chris Johnson present to cast the deciding vote. (Johnson was out of town Monday.)

When Folino made a motion to increase the city's proposed budget by the amount needed to make Allen full-time and purchase new handguns, the vote split 2-2 with Acting Mayor Carolann Ayers and Council Member Mark Cryderman opposing. When Cryderman moved to approve the budget as presented, Folino and Keys voted against it.

Folino noted that the city charter calls for the budget to be adopted at the council's second meeting in May. "We can't do it," Ayers responded.

Cryderman then moved to call a special meeting for May 23, so that the budget could be adopted then, but his motion died for lack of support. When Ayers asked the other council members to reconsider, nobody did.

Folino and Keys also voted against Cryderman's motion for a June 13 special meeting, leaving the budget to be adopted June 6 and the millage rate to be set June 20, 10 days before the city's tax bills are scheduled to be mailed out, unless a special meeting is scheduled June 6.

Chief does not go quietly

stick," Rosselle said. "I did nothing wrong. I answered every fire. I did my job. I was a good employee. I'm really disturbed that I've been treated like this after 17 years with the township."

Snider confirmed that Rosselle had resigned but declined to comment on why, citing the former chief's right to privacy.

"The conditions surrounding his resignation are a private matter and I'm not at liberty to discuss them," he said. He did say that assistant chief Bill Zhmendak was made acting chief on Monday night.

The Northville Record was unable to contact Baja about the situation as she was out of town earlier this week.

Under the township's charter, the supervisor has the final decision on the hiring or firing of an employee. Baja does not need the board of trustees' formal approval to accept Rosselle's resignation.

One member of the board's executive committee, which made the decision to ask for the resignation, said that he'd been put on notice about problems in his job performance.

"He has been on a probationary disciplinary status for some time to try to correct some problems we've seen," Clerk Sue Hillebrand said.

The decision, she added, "was a very difficult one. It isn't easy to make a call like this."

"That's news to me," Rosselle said when asked about the probation. "I was not informed of anything like that. If it was in that report, it blew right over my head."

The report he referred to was a memo from Snider listing 20-30 specific items of concern about his performance, Rosselle said. He maintained that the memo represented the only time anyone has raised the issue with him.

Of those 20 or 30 items, Rosselle added, "maybe one or two were legitimate; the others weren't. As far as those two things go, I'm a human being and I make mistakes. I made an honest mistake in those cases."

Township officials counter that Rosselle has it wrong. Hillebrand said that his personnel file contains "a lot of written information" detailing the performance concerns of officials. Other township sources privately agree and maintain that he was kept fully informed of what was going on.

"This did not come out of the blue by any means," Hillebrand said.

Rosselle said he had not considered his next career move yet, not had he decided whether he'll pursue legal action over the forced resignation.

Legislators to write new anti-assisted death bill

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Two pro-life legislators were back at work drafting a new law to ban assisted suicide after a state Court of Appeals panel May 10 dealt blows to both sides of the issue.

"My thought is to reinstitute the ban," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, author of the 1992 law making assisted suicide a four-year felony. "I'll be meeting with (Rep. Nick) Claramitro (D-Roseville) and later with Ed Rivet of Right to Life.

"Once people look at the Court of Appeals decision on felony murder (allowing Dr. Jack Kevorkian to be tried for murder), they'll prefer that we deal with it as a ban on assisted suicide," said Dillingham. "My position is the moderate one."

Dillingham said both chambers had picked up conservative, anti-suicide strength since the Legislature passed the ban. The retiring senator predicted it would be more conservative yet in 1995.

Howard Simon, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, which challenged the law's constitutionality, wants lawmakers "to regulate but not prohibit it. Unfortunately, our Legislature buries its head in the sand and simply tries to ban it. It's out of tune with where the public is. We have a Legislature in the grip of Right to Life."

"My thought is to reinstitute the ban. Once people look at the Court of Appeals decision on felony murder (allowing Dr. Jack Kevorkian to be tried for murder), they'll prefer that we deal with it as a ban on assisted suicide."

Fred Dillingham
State Senator

The same Court of Appeals panel ruled 2-1 in two cases—retired Supreme Court Justice John Fitzgerald and appeals Judge Clifford Taylor in the majority, visiting Washtenaw Circuit Judge Donald E. Shelton dissenting. The rulings:
● Oakland Circuit Judge David Breck was wrong to dismiss two counts of murder against Kevorkian. Breck held that physician-assisted suicide is not a crime in Michigan. The appeals majority, however, said, "We have found no basis in either the statutes or common law for an exception for physicians who aid and abet suicide."

Shelton called the decision "patently unjust. Justice is about nothing if not about the way it actually affects the lives of people."

That ruling came in the deaths on Oct. 23, 1991, of Marjorie Wantz and Sherry Miller in a cabin in the Bald Mountain Recreation Area of northern Oakland County.

● Wayne Circuit Judges Cynthia Stephens and Richard Kaufman were correct in holding the assisted suicide ban was unconstitutionally passed. House Bill 5401 started as a study commission bill but was amended in the Senate to regulate assisted suicide—hence had it two objects and violated the Michigan Constitution. Today there is no ban on assisted suicide.

Stephens and Kaufman erred in finding a constitutional right to commit suicide. "Nor is the right to commit suicide deeply rooted in this nation's traditions," said the majority. "At common law, a suicide incurred criminal liability and harsh penalties. Although the penalties were abolished, they were abolished to spare the innocent family and not to legitimize the act."

Local family donates sculpture

Vincent DeSantis, a 1959 graduate of Westminster College, and his wife, Carole, of Northville, recently donated a sculpture to Westminster College in memory of their daughter, Sherry Anne.

The bronze sculpture, Cabriole, which was unveiled during a dedication ceremony on April 30, is located in the lobby of Orr Auditorium.

American sculptor JIMILU Mason created the piece—three male dancers performing a cabriole, a ballet leap in which one leg is extended in midair and the other struck against it. JIMILU's works in bronze, stone and welded metal—including busts of Presidents Lyndon Johnson, John Kennedy and Harry Truman—are located throughout the country.

Commissioned work in public spaces include those at the Washington National Zoo—a 5-foot bronze Baby Asian Elephant Fountain—in the garden of the Virginia Governor's Mansion and at the Punxsutawney Burroughs Building—a 3-foot bronze of Punxsutawney Phil.

Council must set aside differences to function

It's one thing to have an honest disagreement with other members of the board on which you sit.

It's another thing entirely to engage in stall tactics that do nothing more than delay the business at hand.

That's what happened in Northville City Council chambers Monday night as four council members found themselves unable to agree on the budget for the city's 1994-95 fiscal year, and two even refused to agree to schedule a special meeting at which the budget could be passed.

The end result, while little threat to the orderly workings of city hall, is that city staffers will have to scramble to implement the new budget by the start of the new fiscal year.

The twin bones of contention for council members Paul Folino and Charles Keys were a proposal to make Fire Chief Jim Allen's position full-time and a recommendation to arm the city's police department with semi-automatic pistols. While both proposals have merit, they were shunted aside early in the budget discussions in favor of capital improvements and other projects. As a result, they received little substantive discussion other than an occasional request by one council member or another to see them reinstated.

Now, on the eve of budget approval, the two council members have seemingly teamed up in Mayor Chris Johnson's absence to play their own little game of gridlock after they were unable to force the items through. (Keys denied after the meeting that their votes represented a concerted effort, but that's the way it appeared.)

The move obviously frustrated Acting Mayor Carolann Ayers, who could not understand their reasons for refusing to schedule a special meeting on the budget.

Frankly, neither can we. If a proposal is worthy of adoption, defend it on its merits but don't delay the process to make a point.

The council has always seemed willing to agree to disagree on minor items in the past in order to pass major projects like Mainstreet '93 and the city's just-completed deficit elimination plan. This recent example of petty obstructionism is unbecoming of a council with a long history of putting aside its differences to get things done.

We hope that the current divide is a temporary one, and that council members can return to their formerly productive ways. If not, the city's progress and reputation will suffer.

Legislature must act to spur lagging tracks

While thrill seekers were streaming across the border by the thousands this week in search of fun and fortune at Casino Windsor, race track operators on this side of the river were worriedly looking on and wondering if their luck hadn't finally run out.

The lure of casino gambling, now within an hour's drive of even the remotest part of the metropolitan area, will almost certainly cause a disbursement of the entertainment dollar that many tracks simply won't be able to survive.

What many Michiganians and more than a few ill-informed lawmakers might not realize is that the failure of the state's horse racing industry wouldn't just result in hardship for the drivers and the people who operate the tracks, it would have a negative spin-off effect that would extend deep into the Michigan economy.

Impacted would be countless feed and breeding farms, trainers, jockeys, drivers, animal attendants, county fairs and 4-H clubs.

An estimated 40,000 jobs or more could be lost.

In addition, the state agriculture department derives revenues from pari-mutuel betting as do host cities, which receive millions in state-shared money to support their police, fire and traffic services. This important source of revenue is now jeopardized.

But though the situation is bleak, it is not hopeless. Fortunately, there are steps that can—and should—be taken that would help inject new life into the lagging industry.

Track operators are asking for legislation that would allow them to provide a number of new features, including additional simulcast days, video gaming (slot) machines and off-track betting.

Currently, race tracks are permitted to broadcast races from other tracks on monitor screens set up inside their buildings. Northville Downs might, for example, show the races at Jackson. But while state regulations permit such a cooperative venture, the number of simulcast days is limited by law. Track operators are asking that the state extend the number of allowable simulcast days, thus enabling some tracks to remain open even during their off-seasons.

A second request seeks approval for the use of video gaming machines at tracks. Though normally associated with casino-style gambling, slot machines are a natural extension of the type of gambling that already goes on, with few problems, inside race tracks. Casino gambling is an idea whose time obviously has come, and it appears only a matter of months before Detroit will have its own version of this form of entertainment.

Yet another proposal involves the implementation of off-track betting. OTB is commonplace in New York, where vendors, much like Lottery outlets, act as agents for both bettor and track. We can see a situation where off-track betting could be profitable for track operators and retail merchants.

These revisions, or some combination thereof, could do much to help race tracks overcome the competitive disadvantage into which they've been flung by the establishment of Casino Windsor and the inevitable expansion of the U.S. gambling industry. He urge lawmakers to give serious consideration to these and related proposals.

No thanks in a thankless job

Lee Snider

OK, don't thank me. I didn't want to be thanked anyway. Really. That's the truth.

All right, so I expected a few pats on the back from some of those nice pro-library people who used gentle persuasion in trying to win my endorsement of the May 3 millage and bond proposals.

That doesn't mean I wanted any of the credit after we took a "yes, yes" stance on the Record editorial page and both plans ended up passing.

No way. Not on your Life Magazine.

I don't like it when people thank me for saying the things they wanted to hear, any more than I like being ripped apart when readers object to our newspaper's official opinions.

Oh, sure, if I had to choose between the two I'd take the compliments. Humility under praise always comes easier than retreat under fire.

But the principle's the same in either case; I'm obligated to write what I believe to be true regardless of who is likely to agree or disagree.

As a reporter, I have always understood the importance of editorial impartiality but the concept didn't hit me at gut level until a group of school officials took time out from a board meeting once to publicly thank me for supporting a bond issue.

I'm not sure how they knew I had written the endorsement essay that appeared in the paper prior to the election (editorials are always unsigned), but somehow they did and when the bonds passed I became one of the people to whom a debt of gratitude was owed.

When I heard them start in with their remarks, I wanted to find a desk lid to hide under, as if I was back in class and there was a chance the teacher might call on me. I was both embarrassed and professionally troubled by their comments. Even though I knew the school folks meant well, I couldn't help but feel that my objectivity had been compromised.

I hadn't set out to please anyone in arriving at my position about the bonds. No, I just took a dispassionate step back from all the rhetoric, calmly examined the pros and cons, coolly weighed the costs against the benefits and determined in detached, analytic fashion what was in the overall best interest.

I didn't expect—or want—any thanks. In fact, the expressions of appreciation actually played into the hands of the critics who believed I had been cajoled into towing the party line. The school board unknowingly contributed to the impression that I was part of an inner circle, the school district clique.

So this time I was ready—ready to explain to grateful library supporters that, much as I would have liked, I just couldn't accept their thanks. I was prepared to launch into a lecture about journalistic ethics and the need to remain above the fray. I was geared up to insist that I required only sound argument, not the promise of thanks, to know the right things to say.

But, alas, no calls and no chance to pontificate. Hmmm. See if I do them any more favors.

Many missed essential point

Mike Malott

You just didn't get the point, did you?

Gauging by the reaction of a lot of folks who paid attention to the story, and some who didn't, it's pretty clear to me that for all the ink and video tape spent on the Jack Kevorkian trial, there are a good many of you out there who still just didn't understand what it was really all about.

So I'll spell it out for you. As they'd say during children's story hour, "... And now the moral of our story."

When the 12 men and women of the Records Court jury in Detroit returned from deliberations Monday, May 2, they weren't passing judgment solely on the actions of Dr. Jack, nor were they merely deciding the fairness of a state law banning assisted suicide.

Ultimately, their verdict also acquitted Tom Hyde and Heidi Fernandez.

It's true that neither Hyde nor Fernandez were facing any kind of formal charges, but there were a good many people rushing to condemn them for the choices they made. Many rushed to condemn Hyde and Fernandez because the decisions they made offended their sensibilities, or violated their religious beliefs, or ran counter to their personal interests.

And the jury decision vindicated the couple, saying in essence that it was OK for them to take that option. It was the right thing for them to do.

In one sense, Hyde's life story is everyone's life story. How does the old saying go: "It's not the cards you're dealt, but how you play your hand." Many of us walk around thinking we've been dealt a pretty bad hand and how we could have done much better in life with a little more luck of the draw. I'm guilty of it myself time to time. The truth is that most of the time we've had it pretty good.

Hyde truly got a lousy deal. It was good for a while—a healthy and athletic lifestyle, a loving fiancée and a beautiful child. But then the trump card was laid against him—Lou Gehrig's disease. Bad break. But Hyde kept control of the game. He continued to call the shots, even when his choices became very limited.

To put it another way, Hyde refused to become a victim. Yes, it's true that there was nothing he could do to stop the illness from ravaging his body, but it didn't dominate his spirit. He fought the affliction as long as he could. And when he couldn't fight any longer, he made the determination of when to die. He made the decision, not the virus.

Refusing to play the victim really has become an unpopular choice in this society anymore. We seem to have mentally divided the world up into neat little categories of good guys and bad guys. Bad guys can be things, of course, like diseases. But the only way to prove you're a good guy is to be a victim. Refusing to be a victim seems to upset the natural order of things for some people. It makes them suspect you're really not a good guy after all.

Fernandez' story is also everyone's story. In a way. For her, it was a question of standing by a loved one after he'd made the hard decision, one that created controversy and offended others. That kind of supportiveness is pretty rare among couples anymore.

Some folks around these parts reacted to the fact that Fernandez was so happy about Kevorkian's acquittal. They thought she should be playing the part of the grieving widow. But I thought the reaction was entirely understandable. Because when the verdict came in, they ruled that his last act of defiance against the disease was acceptable. And they vindicated Fernandez for the support she gave him, both before and after his death.

Frankly, we could all take a few lessons from these two.

Millages will just keep on a'coming

To the editor:
Well, now that the flood gates are open, we can expect the dam waters to gush.

The library millage passed, much to my amazement—but I doubt that the voters were aware that this millage is in perpetuity—forever, forever, forever. We will never have to make a decision to renew this particular millage, but we'll probably be given the privilege of increasing it. Oh yes, yes, we will!

Now that this millage vote is history, the township is next in line for a higher "basic services and enhancement millage." The schools will not be far behind, followed by prisons, special education, and, maybe, Schoolcraft College.

This library millage should generate at least 1 million plus in revenue. Our assessment increase will provide additional funds. How much, I wonder, will be directed to personnel salary increases and fringes? How much to improving the state of the present library?

Your "reduced" taxes, voters, are a thing of the past and just think, the new law is only two months old.

Mary Braddock

Costs of library are justified

To the editor:
Robert Bernard should explain how he gets his numbers when he writes to the community (re: his letter May 12). I know where ours came from.

One more time—if you live in a $150,000 house, with a 50 percent SEV, with 2.53 people/household average in our Northville community, and if the Library Board levies the full 1.5 mills—the new building will cost each person about $15 a year and operating the library less than $30 a year.

The $15 is a facility catch-up number to give us a building we need for full future library services. Our $30 operating cost can be compared to Novi's $30, Livonia's $36, and Plymouth's $32. Our comparison was with eight communities, not four, and only Wixom spent less than us. It is difficult to compare our library directly with others, all have taken different paths in different time frames.

The benefits far outstrip any new costs. All our figures are out of U.S. Census and Library of Michigan Statistics published data, and my eyes are starting to glaze over.

On the other hand, I too am concerned about our students going out into a highly competitive world not as well equipped as they should be. Didn't I read in the Free Press that U.S. students get about half the meaningful education that other industrial countries give their students? Would we send out any other high school team so ill equipped and trained?

I wish we had our library sooner so students who are concerned about their future could take advantage of it.

Gun-totter gives lie to NRA claims

To the editor:

Seventeen year old Gary Kindred, 17, threatened several policemen with an AK-17 in a local schoolyard. Kindred, a troubled youth and a known burglar, may have obtained this dangerous weapon in one of his burglarizing forays.

Though a law-abiding citizen may have purchased this dangerous semi-automatic weapon, a burglar need not have purchased such a weapon lawfully, he could easily have stolen it from a law-abiding citizen, thus faulting the NRA's argument that law-abiding citizens should not be prevented from buying any type of gun. Even a Bazooka?

Alfred P. Galli

Vals article poorly presented

To the editor:

"Our Town" of May 12, 1994, pictured and named the "Top Guns" from the class of 1994. It reflected some very efficient copy space utilization. I understand the 12 Novi valedictorians fit perfectly in the space relegated for pictures surrounding the same article in The Novi News.

As you might guess I have some problems with the way the "Top Guns" were reported. Was the purpose to honor the top graduating seniors, or was it to report a change in the way top students will be recognized starting in 1997? May I suggest that it was the latter. May I also suggest that the article, although informative, would have been more appropriate next week.

I would also like to know why "... the number of valedictorians is increasing because the school is changing its honors system. ..."? I fail to see any connection. It seems to me that an article about these honor students would have more appropriately included interviews or at least an indication of their college plans and career aspirations.

Parents need info about ALPS

To the editor:

Children in Northville are fortunate to have dedicated educators who are leaders in their fields and continually demonstrate outstanding abilities to help students be the best that they can be.

Concurrently, these educators are supported by a concerned and involved base of parents and guardians. Educators and parents, actively working together are essential ingredients in creating exceptional educational experiences for our youngsters.

As both an educator and parent, I am very pleased when hearing "educational discussion" weaving its way through our community at all levels. This is a strong indication that the education of our children is an important priority in our lives.

Educational opportunities, ideas and attitudes are continually changing and, therefore, need to be examined and openly discussed on a regular basis. Currently, discussion has been generated concerning the gifted and talented program (ALPS).

This is an exciting time for learners and educators alike. Hopefully parents are seeing implementation of the whole language philosophy, a literature-based approach to reading, process writing, integration of the language arts into the content areas, focus on thematic teaching, use of flexible grouping, an emphasis on critical and strategic thinking and self evaluation.

These are excellent strategies, used to meet the needs of children of all developmental abilities. Research indicates that schools are moving away from ability grouping and tracking.

Last year I asked to read the ALPS curriculum and observe in a classroom. I was told the curriculum is not in print because it is continually changing and that observation was not possible. As a public school district, the tax dollars helping to fund the ALPS program, I believe it is essential to make program information available for everyone. Parents cannot make informed decisions regarding their children if the information is not available.

I am concerned that a small percentage of children in Northville are being offered far superior enrichment opportunities than the majority of traditional students (science trip/week at Cranbrook, etc.). I believe the ALPS trips are of outstanding educational value and could greatly enhance learning environments for all children.

If it is Northville's goal to offer equity in education, then it seems we need a broader definition of this objective. Recent letters to the paper indicate different interpretations. If equity in education means meeting the needs of each child, we must determine how far we can go before discrimination occurs.

As it stands the ALPS and traditional students educational experiences differ in the following ways: there are separate curriculums, separate materials, books and supplies (ALPS receives $150 per child while traditional education receives $60 per child); superior enrichment activities and intensive study are offered to ALPS students alone; there are separate motivations and incentives (monthly pizza parties for ALPS); there are no collaborative exchanges between ALPS and traditional teachers (many traditional teachers do not know what goes on in ALPS classrooms); there are no shared learning experiences (at grade level) between ALPS and traditional students; there are separate learning opportunities for teachers; in depth information regarding ALPS is not distributed to the general population of parents.

Do these practices coincide with the definition of educational equity? Planners must take care that schools do not inadvertently promote excellence at the expense of equity.

We as a community and public school system need to decide if we want to continue to fund "alternative" opportunities and curriculum to select groups. Is it a good idea to start labeling kids at such a young age?

By testing intelligence and ability in second grade are we assuming that this is when all children reach their greatest potential (for testing)? Do children differ in their developmental gains from year to year?

Did you know that Dr. Guy Blackburn, coordinator of program and staff development for Oakland County Schools did not learn to read until the 9th grade? I submit that there are many questions to consider.

In our quest for excellence in education it is vital that these productive discussions continue. Parents, please consider that important school budget decisions that will effect your children are now being considered for 1994-95. As taxpayers, are you making it known where you want school funds spent?

Let's hear your opinion! Better yet, attend the board meeting on May 23. Educators, your knowledge and opinions are very important.

Column insulted school teachers

To the editor:

I was so disappointed and disheartened to read the editorial by Tim Richard in the May 5 issue.

As a teacher, I'm not pleased to concede that there may be a small minority who do not always represent the profession well. Unfortunately, the same is true of any other profession in the United States—lawyers, doctors, politicians, etc.

So why is there a "witch hunt" on teachers? The reference to the Ku Klux Klan, though shirt-tail, was the most ignorant and personally crushing comparison I've read. All year in my classroom, I encourage kids to work together, to be compassionate for others, to look at issues openly from many angles, to vote for their beliefs and to beware of the prejudices within our society.

From there, I ask them to make their own choices about how they will live as responsible citizens. To compare me or any other teacher I've ever known with an organization that stands for hatred, violence, and exclusion is the most demeaning and untrue insult I can imagine.

What is a "real" teacher like? Isn't it time that someone reported

Event set tone for bridge building

Phil Power

The Livonia Community Prayer Breakfast kicked off last Monday at 7:30 a.m., so I had to roll out of bed pretty early to make it.

I'm glad I did, because so many decent and wholesome things got bundled together there as to make it stand as a living rebutal to what is happening to our increasingly tolerant and ego-driven political system.

The Livonia breakfast is just one in a series of similar events that take place regularly around the country. Their philosophy is simple: "A reaffirmation that people of good will, standing together for a common purpose, can transcend racial, geographic or cultural differences and create unparalleled opportunities for community progress."

Somewhat the events on the program—each ordinary in itself but together moving and significant—made this philosophy concrete.

We all trooped in and sang "God Bless America" with our orange juice. Then Sister Mary Danatha, who had been chair of the first Livonia prayer breakfast 20 years ago, reflected on how the event had grown with the community, from just over 200 to nearly 1,100 attendees.

Deborah Westerman, a student at Oakland University, read scripture. Fred Hubbs sang "How Great Thou Art" with beauty and passion. Somebody described how one sixth grader at Cleveland Elementary School got a ticket and how that mushroomed into the entire class being present. The Livonia Observer Academic All Star were introduced.

Dennis Archer, Detroit's new mayor, spoke about personal ethics and community bridge building. "Success is defined by whether the face you see in the mirror in the morning is one you can respect," he said, "and that has to do with how much you have given back, not how much you have taken."

Reflecting on the relationships between the center city and the suburbs, so strained and hostile for so long, Archer pointed out, "There's no need for city and suburbs to be at odds. Our competition is not Livonia or Troy or Novi; it's Cleveland and Baltimore. We need to pull together, all of us, to succeed."

Archer described how his campaign for mayor started early on with meetings between him and his key aides and a group of faculty from the University of Michigan. Those meetings took place in Livonia, in the offices of the corporation that owns this newspaper. "We started building bridges right here in this city,"

Archer said, "and we're not going to stop."

Wonderful! I have lived through an era in which the bored and elderly nastiness of Coleman Young called forth the part puckish and part race-baiting responses of Brooks Patterson. And here's Dennis Archer, newly elected mayor of a city that's in trouble, talking about building bridges between city and suburb.

Dr. Bartlett Hess led us in prayer: "O God, by whom the meek are guided in judgment, and light rises up in darkness for the godly; Grant us, in our doubts and uncertainties, the grace to ask what you would have us to be..."

I left thinking that this prayer breakfast had pulled together all the threads which make our civic life full of hope.

The next morning, I read what angry things the Michigan Education Association said about Gov. John Engler (or what Engler said about MEA—I can't remember). And I read another story about how many sitting state representatives and senators are not running for another term because the political environment has turned so nasty and partisan, with single-issue groups demanding total obedience to their narrow points of view.

It was not a happy contrast.

Writer was unfair to school teachers

what the majority of teachers really do? I do not just work when the children are present. Many hours are spent planning interesting lessons which require students think and interact with the material.

Further hours are spent communicating with parents, grading and writing feedback on papers, attending my student's outside activities, planning with my co-teaching special education partner and keeping up to date with current research. Weekends are used as a catch up time either back at my fifth grade classroom or at home. On most days, a minimum of 4 1/2 hours is spent on school related work when my students are not with me. That's an 11 1/2 hour work day.

I do not teach in the Northville district but as the parent of a child at Silver Springs, a child at Amerman and a child at Meads Mill, I can assure you that the quality education my children are receiving does not come from teachers who have time to be irresponsible menaces to society. Their educations come from individuals who despite being slammed in the press, devote their time, energies, and personal finances into enhancing their teaching and enriching the lives of every child they meet.

The inadequate school funding issue has caused a climate of deep frustration throughout Michigan but the scapegoating of teachers for a situation they did not create need to stop. It's time to refocus our energies into supporting excellence in education and the teachers who work hard to make it happen.

Farmlands will get homestead tax rate

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A bill giving nearly all farms the same property tax break as homesteads is on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk for signature.

Engler had promised the Farm Bureau he would support a six-mill tax rate for farms in order to win that group's endorsement of the Proposal A school finance reform measure March 15.

"I couldn't be happier," said Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, sponsor of the measure. "The Senate Democrats amended out the things the House Democrats put in that I didn't want."

Gustafson, who represents rural Ingham and Livingston counties, wanted all farms taxed the same as homes. Historically, farms and homes have been assessed in the same property classification.

As originally passed Dec. 24, the tax law set rates of (1) six mills for homesteads and farms contiguous to a homestead and (2) 24 mills for business property, commercial property, second homes and farmland that was non-contiguous, rented or owned by a non-resident of Michigan.

"This isn't mom or pop," objected Sen. Joe Conroy, F-Flint, as the bill passed the Senate. "These are corporate managers. It's big business. So why would we give them a huge break? We already cut their taxes down to 24 mills on the school property tax. But my small grocer, my small manufacturer, my cosmetologist has to pay 24 mills."

The Senate approved its version of the bill 25-8. Voting yes were 21 Republicans and four Democrats; voting no, eight Democrats.

Local supporters were Republicans Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Robert Geake of Northville.

Opposed was Democrat Jack Faxon of Farmington Hills.

Absent were David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who is still recuperating from surgery, and Lana Pollock, D-Ann Arbor.

The House voted 64-40 to concur in Senate amendments.

Voting yes were Republicans Willis Bullard of Milford, Gustafson, Tom Middleton of Orionville, and Susan Munsell of Howell, and Democrat Kirk Profit of Ypsilanti.

Science is fun at summer day camps

In cooperation with the Living Science Foundation, Northville Public Schools will be hosting two one-week day camps this summer at Meads Mill Middle School.

The cost is $195 and $156 for the camps, which may be paid in three installments. The following camps are being offered:

Marine biology for ages five through 11 will run June 27 through July 1 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The cost is $195.

Each of the five fun-filled days of the marine biology camp will feature visits to the exciting world of salt water animals. See and touch a wide variety of animals you would not find in a typical aquarium.

Campers will experience the smell of salt and surf with the LSF mobile marine study lab and will handle sea anemone and horseshoe crab, learning where they come from and how they all live together.

Science sampler for ages five through 12 will run July 5 through July 8 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The cost is $156.

A great way to make friends with science, sampler camp brings the entire family of Living Science Day Camps together in one week-long program.

Each fun-packed day highlights one area of science discovery: children have personal encounters with parrots, snakes, frogs, and a variety of LSF animals on science and nature day; discover the body as a machine and electricity on physics day; touch real dinosaur bones, Pecoskey stones and trilobites, make a plaster cast of fossils, and reconstruct giant dinosaur models on dinosaur day; experiment with the basic principles of flight, and view the stars in the planetarium on air and space day; taste the salty ocean water, hold a living sea star, and pet a four-foot shark on marine biology day.

PLAQUE TO SAX

He's a dentist by day and skilled musician by night

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Northville dentist Dr. Joseph Sinkwits knows his instruments. By day, he uses his dentistry drill to fill cavities and make people feel better about themselves. By night, it's his turn to make himself feel good by picking up a saxophone.

Playing music since the age of 7, a lot of Sinkwits' patients are often surprised when they learn their dentist is also a professional musician.

"I'll be playing the (Northville) bandshell on a Friday night and people will look in and say, 'Hey, that's Dr. Sinkwits,'" he said.

Sinkwits plays the alto, soprano, tenor and baritone saxophones as well as the clarinet. He learned how to play the saxophone at a young age because his father was a professional musician.

"Little boys always try to emulate their fathers," he said. "It was a natural thing to do."

With his first professional engagement at age 11, Sinkwits has gone on to play with most of the big bands in the Detroit area, including The Skyliners, Johnny Trundell, Joe Vitale, Dick Murphy, Metro Jazz Orchestra and The Big Band Express.

Sinkwits almost followed in his dad's musical footsteps, but got cold feet at the last minute.

"I was going to begin the music program at the University of Michigan," Sinkwits said. "Then I decided maybe I'd better do (with music) as a hobby."

Right before he was to start college, Sinkwits changed his mind and enlisted in the pre-dentistry program at the University of Detroit.

"I was very adept at science and chemistry," he explained. "I liked the idea of working with your hands and being able to take care of people—make them feel better about themselves."

"Most dentists I knew had a nice family-type of existence and life without having to make midnight calls to deliver babies."

Sinkwits was also accepted into a doctorate program in biochemistry, but it took only a few months of working in a basement research lab to discover that wasn't the career for him.

"(It (playing professionally) is a wonderful diversion from the everyday pressure of running a busy general practice. But I wouldn't want to do it all the time. Those days are over for a while."

Dr. Joseph Sinkwits

"It was so isolated," he said. "I'm a people person. The only thing down there was a bunch of rats and rabbits."

In practice in Northville since 1972, Sinkwits said he has about 700 families as patients.

Sinkwits used his musical talents to put himself through college and dental school, playing and leading his own band.

"(It (playing professionally) is a wonderful diversion from the everyday pressure of running a busy general practice," he said. "But I wouldn't want to do it all the time. Those days are over for a while."

Now, he plays professionally approximately 20 times a year. He does have his music union card, which means he has to be able to make a living by playing.

These days, Sinkwits basically serves as a substitute, filling in for regular band members during performances.

"I don't play regularly," he said. "It's the fun way of doing it."

Sinkwits also plays for relaxation. Oftentimes, he'll play along with his compact discs after a day at the office.

"I have a (compact disc) library of most of the songs recorded during the Big Band Era," he said. "That keeps me able to sight read from anyone else's book."

The dentist also writes his own arrangements when time permits.

"It is something to look forward to in my retirement—expanding my musical career," he said. "When I had a young family I didn't want to spend the time away from them. However, doing this as an avocation really is enjoyable."

Sinkwits has been practicing dentistry for 26 years. He has two children: Jennifer, a sophomore at Ferris State University, and Scott, a civil engineer.

Although playing at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn on New Year's Eve was a highlight in his career, Sinkwits said it doesn't matter where he plays, just as long as he gets the chance to.

"It's not so much the place, but the type (of music)," he explained. "I really enjoy the Big Band sound whether it's in a tiny hall or a big auditorium."

He particularly loves to play with the 16- or 17-piece gigs.

"Since I have over a thousand original scores from the big bands, I enjoy playing in the style of Benny Goodman and Artie Shaw, emphasizing their style of clarinet work," Sinkwits said. "But, the Glenn Miller sound is still very popular—people still love to hear it."

An avid runner, golfer and tennis player, Sinkwits said he has many fond memories of his lengthy musical career. One of them is of the time when the late Bud Freeman, jazz tenor saxophonist from the Tommy Dorsey and Benny Goodman bands, stopped by his office for a visit.

"He put me behind an hour and a half reminiscing about the days of the big bands," he said. "But my staff and patients were all thrilled to meet one of the real legends of jazz."

Chuck Keys

New Rotary president plans aggressive term

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"Anyone old enough to walk" is eligible to join, according to Chuck Keys, new president (as of July 1) of Northville Rotary Club.

But, he said, they're going to have to do something to promote welfare causes in Northville and in the world.

Keys admits he's cracking the whip, but he also said, "No one has said no" when he has assigned responsibilities.

"It's an aggressive approach," he added, but then also "I'm an aggressive business person." His business? He's president of Keys Financial Group, Inc., located in downtown Northville.

So what does Rotary do? Keys answered that it raises and donates money for charitable causes all over the world.

Locally, Rotarians have raised money by selling hot dogs at all major civic events. At Christmas-time they've sold luminaries. And they've organized the Goodfellows newspaper sale.

Locally they've given money to a long list of causes, chief of which is Civic Concern. Internationally they've contributed in areas such as a dental clinic in Brazil, Croatian relief fund, Rotary International Fund, and Polio Plus.

Rotary, according to Keys, is "compassion for the underprivileged, the ill and the disabled," many of whom are the beneficiaries of over 50,000 service projects conducted by Rotary Clubs in the world each year.

"It's a lot of work—and it's working," he said, because, for one reason, "as business men and women we all owe something" to the community.

Northville Rotary Club meets for lunch every Tuesday at 12:05 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church to enjoy one other's fellowship and to discuss ways to serve others.

If you are interested, give Chuck Keys a call at 349-3348.

AAUW chapter gets a gold star

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) Northville-Novi branch, was singled out for three awards at the recent state meeting of the association.

The branch came in first, receiving the Gold Star Award, in the branch newsletter contest. Joyce Murdock is the editor.

An award in recognition of notable accomplishments in recruitment ideas was presented to Karen Olson, the membership vice president. The recruitment ideas were successful—the Novi-Northville branch has increased approximately 30 percent.

And last, but not least, the branch received the five-star designation in recognition of the devoted and valuable services it has rendered. The five-star designation was earned by meeting five criteria, the most important being branch activities in the area of educational equity.

The branch fulfilled this criteria by providing the community with a day-long science camp for fifth to eighth grade girls at Maybury State Park. At least a quarter of the local branch's members were involved in running the camp as teachers, mentors and organizers. Kirsten VanRiper and Sue Page chaired the Science Camp committee.

For information on other branch activities, please contact Winifred Fraser, branch president, at 348-7264.

A creative slogan can net some extra jingle

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

A local contest could help put a little extra jingle—$500—in some lucky student's pocket.

Apartment Quest, a Novi-based company which provides data sheets to apartment seekers, is looking for some help in creating a 30- or 60-second commercial spot for radio.

"This is our very first (radio) commercial," marketing director Beverly Smith said. "Previously, we've advertised in newspapers and magazines, but we thought this would be kind of fun."

Students in middle and high schools as well as technical schools are invited to submit their jingles, no longer than 60 seconds, on a cassette tape. Tapes will not be returned.

Since the company's logo is a medieval castle, entries should contain a medieval theme.

People looking for an apartment are referred to complexes that meet their specific needs through Apartment Quest. When the client rents, Apartment Quest receives a percentage of the rental amount as a referral fee, making the service free to the client.

All entries must be received by Aug. 1. Include your name, address and phone number. Send cassettes to Apartment Quest Commercial Contest, 39555 Orchard Hill Place Dr., Suite 600, Novi, MI 48375.

The winner will be notified no later than Aug. 10. A release must be signed giving the company exclusive rights to the jingle.

Smith said she hopes to have the radio spots airing by September. The commercial will be played on local radio stations with formats geared toward younger adults, the majority of whom are apartment dwellers, she said.

'Maverick' returns in comic adventure

The days of America's Old West were extraordinary times, demanding extraordinary talents from the men and women who pioneered our frontiers.

To survive the challenge of life on the prairie, each required at least one remarkable skill. Some were strong. Others were wise. Many were brave.

One knew never to draw to an inside straight.

Bret Maverick, charming con man and romantic adventurer, was a gambling man with a deeply-rooted sense of fair play. A debonair drifter, Maverick had a flair for getting into - and out of - trouble that makes him one of the most colorful characters in Western legend.

Now, Mel Gibson brings Bret Maverick to life in a romantic comic adventure that takes viewers from the smoky recesses of a saloon poker table to the untamed canyons and prairies of the Wild West, and, eventually, to the embrace of the beautiful and wily Annabelle Bransford (Jodie Foster).

All along the way, Maverick encounters - more often than he'd like - the heroic and unflappable lawman, Marshal Zane Cooper (James Garner), who seems to have a peculiar way of anticipating his every move.

As Maverick decides to pit his talent - and his bankroll - against the best of the West in a lucrative poker championship, the paths of Maverick, Annabelle and Cooper become more closely intertwined, with the results as unexpected as those in a high-stakes game of cards.

Described as a romantic comic adventure, "Maverick" is set in the old West and deals with three charming and ambitious poker players in pursuit of one irresistible fortune, the prize in a high-stakes poker game that each intends to win.

As the smooth-talking, charming Bret Maverick acquires - and loses, and reacquires - his stake to enter the game, he plays a game of cat-and-mouse with the lovely Bransford and the unflappable marshal.

Principal photography for "Maverick" began in El Mirage, California, on a dry lake bed in blistering heat. The scene, which involved Mel Gibson dangling precariously from a solitary tree in a hangman's noose, was also populated by a clump of snakes - both real and animatronic.

This site, grim as it might appear, had nostalgic significance to both Gibson and director Richard Donner - it is the place where they began one of the most successful box-office partnerships in history, the trio of "Lethal Weapon" movies which starred Gibson and Danny Glover under Donner's direction.

And the many local residents who turned out to watch the filming of "Maverick" were pleased to see another pairing of Gibson and Donner in production.

Donner said that this time around, it was Gibson who came to him with the project. "Mel dropped hints once in a while about the western he was developing," said Donner. "Then one day he came to me with 'Maverick' and I was very honored. I thought this would be a delightful experience with Mel, which it turned out to be."

Gibson began developing the project with producer Bruce Davey, his partner at Icon Productions, nearly three years ago. But his interest in doing a Western began earlier while he was filming "Hamlet." During their search for an appealing story set in the Old West, Davey investigated the rights to the Warner Bros.' television series "Maverick," which had been a hit during the 1950s and '60s.

The partners scored a coup when they attracted acclaimed screenwriter William Goldman to develop the script. Goldman's reputation for creating crowd-pleasing, larger-than-life characters and placing them against the rough-and-tumble backdrop of the Old West, as he did in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," made him the perfect choice.

And James Garner, who starred as Maverick on the television series, fills the shoes of the honorable Zane Cooper. While Garner had been approached to make Maverick features in the past, none appealed to him like this one.

"Now we're talking," said Garner. "Bill Goldman wrote a great script. And with Donner and Jodie - and Mel - I'm just tickled to death that he's doing it and happy to be doing it with him."

Along the course of his dusty ride through the West, Maverick is swindled, cheated and scammed by friend and foe alike.

Gibson, who is working with Donner for the fourth time, compares the atmosphere on the set to the craziness of the "Lethal Weapon" sets. "The atmosphere and the mood that got created on the set whereby you're allowed the freedom to just totally improvise -

Jodie Foster, Mel Gibson and James Garner star in Warner Bros.' comic adventure, 'Maverick.'

when you're working with Donner - anything's possible."

Jodie Foster describes Donner's style as "participatory."

Donner said the chemistry between himself and his three stars began immediately. "The moment we all met we knew it was right," he said. "The humor was sharp as sharks and it started immediately."

'Ducks' still score

D2-THE MIGHTY DUCKS
By Heather Wadowski
Northville

"D2: The Mighty Ducks" shares the same magic as the original "Mighty Ducks" ... plus a little extra.

Emilio Estevez returns as Team USA's coach after a recent hockey injury to his knee. But as Team USA competes in Los Angeles for the gold, Emilio Estevez gets caught up in the fame and fortune of being a hockey star and loses sight of what's really important - having fun.

Soon, Emilio Estevez pushes Team USA too far and loses its respect. Now it's the championship game, and Emilio Estevez has to choose between what's really important - fame or pride.

Will Team USA win the gold? This movie is fact paced and, at times, quite funny. I recommend it for anyone, whether you love hockey or not.

Golfers aim for state finals

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville High will be shooting for its third trip in four years to the state golfing final tomorrow in Brighton. The Mustangs will tee off at 9 a.m. at Oakpointe Golf Course, site of the 18-school regional. Northville must finish in the top three of the 18-hole tournament to advance.

Coach Trish Waldecker thinks her squad has a good chance of moving on to East Lansing.

"I think we can," she said. "But we have to be on."

Ann Arbor Pioneer and Saline will more than likely make the cut. Waldecker figures the Mustangs will battle with host Brighton for the remaining spot.

"I think if the girls can keep it in play," she added, "they'll score well."

A team score of 400 or less, which amounts to 100 strokes per player, will be needed to make the finals, Waldecker said.

"(But) anything can happen on a given day," she commented.

Which was exactly the case May 10 against Farmington Hills Mercy. Northville shot its best score of the season, 207, but lost by six strokes to the Marlins at Tanglewood Golf Course in South Lyon.

Alana Bradley broke Northville High's record in the long jump last week. She jumped 17 feet 6 inches.

Runners fourth at Clarkston; fall to Wildcats 72-56

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Alana Bradley's strong all-around performance helped the Mustang girls' track team to a fourth place finish at the Clarkston Relays Saturday.

The senior won the long jump competition and placed highly in several others. According to coach Ann Turnbull, Bradley has been exceptionally focused of late.

"She was our star of the day," Turnbull said. "She has been concentrating very well and has been very consistent."

Western Lakes rival Livonia Stevenson won the meet easily with more than 100 points. Northville was well back in fourth place with 50 points.

"It's a good meet for us," Turnbull said. "There are a lot of teams in our caliber."

Bradley's effort in the long jump was the Mustangs' only first place of the day. She set a meet record, in fact, by jumping 16 feet 5 inches.

The 400-meter relay team of Melanie Helmer, Carrie Dalziel, Melissa Poole and Bradley were second. Bradley came back and took second place in the 200-meter dash in 22.6.

In the 100-meter sprint, Dalziel finished second. The 800-meter relay team of Dalziel, Poole, Bradley and Jenny Palatukas placed fourth.

Renee Olin set her personal best in the shot put. She had a toss of 31 feet 1 1/4 inches for fourth place.

"(Alana Bradley) was our star of the day. She has been concentrating very well and has been very consistent."

ANN TURNBULL
Track coach

Sekerka finished sixth in the discus. In the high jump, Tammy Cook was sixth by clearing 5 feet 0.

"She had some beautiful jumps," said Turnbull.

Adrienne Browne's 2:31.5 was third in the 800-meter run.

Northville closed its dual meet season Tuesday at Walled Lake Western. The Mustangs will compete in regionals tomorrow at Redford Union High School.

Turnbull said Wendy Forster, Bradley, Cook and Sekerka, among others, have a chance to advance to the state meet.

Kickers demolish Central 9-0 behind Androsian

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

There are your laughs and there are your big laughs.

The Mustang soccer team had a rip-roaring good time May 11 in whipping Walled Lake Central 9-0 on the road. Renee Androsian had a hat trick in leading Northville to the rout.

"That was the worst I've seen Walled Lake Central in a long time," said coach Doug Lyon. "They're having a bad year."

A bit of bad news dampened the victory. Star goalkeeper Jessica

Jones, who suffered a fractured sternum last month, will be lost for the season. Lyon said the injury hasn't healed enough for her to play.

"We don't want to risk anything," he added.

Senior Angie Snyder, who has been out the past few games with a bad ankle, will return for the state playoffs. Northville's lineup was bolstered against Walled Lake by the return of forward Kristin Wasalaski.

The sophomore got her team's second goal of the first half. Androsian scored all three of her goals in the opening 40 minutes as Northville skated to a 5-0 lead at intermission. The flurry of goals continued in the second half.

Amanda DeKoler scored twice while Lyndsay Huot and Katie Kohl added goals in the half. Kohl finished with two goals in the game.

Fortunately for the Vikings, the game ended before Northville could add to its 9-0 lead. It was the Mustangs biggest output of the season.

The competition will be getting tougher starting Monday as districts begin. Northville will try to advance to regionals as will Novi, Walled Lake Western, Walled Lake Central, Milford and South Lyon.

The Mustangs' first round opponent was not known as of presstime Monday.

NORTHVILLE 1, SALEM 1

The Mustangs squared off against a young Salem squad May 9 at home and found themselves in a defensive struggle, according to Lyon.

The coach said the Rocks played a very conservative game by dropping most of its players back near the net to stop Northville from scoring.

"We had opportunities right and left," Lyon said. "We just couldn't get the ball in the net."

Northville controlled the game from start to finish.

The Rocks' only goal came on a Mustang miscue. About midway through the first half, Salem sent a shot toward the middle of the field near the Northville net.

A Mustang defender elected to play the shot with her head. The ball deflected past the Northville goalkeeper, who was coming out to play the ball, and into the net.

"It was a lack of communication," Lyon said.

The Mustangs managed to tie the game by halftime as Kohl scored on a pass from Androsian.

Lyon said Northville played an excellent second half against Salem, but was unable to score.

"We were playing beautifully," he added. "We had opportunities and just missed."

Lyon said his team really wanted a win.

"It was frustrating that we didn't win," he said. "But we can't be too frustrated because, movement-wise, it was the best we've played all year."

Tracksters fall to Farmington Hills

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Mustang boys' track team lost a battle Thursday to Farmington Hills Harrison but may just win the war.

Northville fell 72-65 to the Hawks on the road. While Harrison has won the Western Division title, the Mustangs may have a shot at winning the WLAA crown on May 31.

"They were a little better dual-meet team," said coach Dennis Faletti. "In a bigger meet, I think we're a little better."

Farmington Hills beat Northville with its depth in each event Thursday. In the conference meet where all 12 schools compete, Harrison will lose points because other schools will take second and third place finishes that the Hawks get in dual meets.

Faletti said his team is more likely to take first place finishes and score more points at the WLAA meet. Harrison coach John Reed told him, in fact, that the Mustangs were "favorites" to take the championship.

"If we had the meet today," Faletti said, "I'd say we have an excellent chance."

At any rate, Thursday's loss was the first for Northville, which is now 6-1.

The Mustangs started the meet strong. The 3,200-meter relay team of Jeff Zwiesler, Shaun Hollester, Marc Ritter and Todd Zayti were first in 8:44.50 seconds.

Brian Dogonski was tops in the 100 dash in 11.1. In the mile run, Scott Lloyd was first in 4:37.20.

Bo Fowler finished fourth in the 400-meter in 55.90. Northville got a sweep of the 800 as Zayti was first in 2:04.6, Ritter second in 2:04.9 and Zwiesler third in 2:07.50.

Dogonski continued his sprint mastery by winning the 200 in 23.6. Farb Navi was second in 23.8.

Lloyd came back to win the 3,200-meter run in 10:35.10. The Mile relay team of Fowler, Navi, Dogonski and Zayti won in 3:36.70.

The highlight of the meet for Northville came in the discus. John

"They were a little better dual-meet team. In a bigger meet, I think we're a little better."

DENNIS FALETTI
Track coach

Gatti broke his own school record by throwing 154 feet 3 inches for first place.

He also won the shot put by throwing 47-11.

"John had a great throwing day," said Faletti.

Josh Williams won the high jump by clearing 6-0. Rob Tune was second at 5-10.

Bo Fowler won the pole vault at 10-0 and Ty Fowler was third with 9-6.

NORTHVILLE 72, NOVI 65

It wasn't easy, but the Mustangs knocked off their Baseline rivals May 10 on the road.

"Their kids were running absolutely great for them," said Faletti.

It took some last minute maneuvering for Northville to get the win. The Mustangs fell behind by more than 20 points early before charging back.

Novi built its lead in the field events. The best Northville could do in the long jump, for example, was third place as Navi got a 19-9.

Gatti was able to win the discus with a throw of 132-0. Northville took the 3,200-meter relay in 8:57.30 with the team of Zwiesler, Hollester, Ritter and Zayti.

Dogonski was second in the 100-meter in 11.1. Bo Fowler was first in the pole at 11-0 and Tune third at 10-0.

In the mile race, Lloyd notched another victory in 4:37.20. Chris Harrison was third in 4:54.10.

Brian Dogonski battles Novi's Todd Pejakovich in the 100-meter dash last week.

Williams won the high jump at 5-10. Chris Gomorsal, Eric Moore, Bob Oiler and Dogonski won the 400-meter relay in 45.10.

Northville swept the shot put with Gatti in first, Matiss Kukainis second and Bryan Kelly third. Zayti and Ritter went first and second in the 800-meter.

Dogonski posted his personal best time in the 200-meter dash. He ran a 23.2 while Navi finished third in 23.60.

As it turned out, the meet went down to the final race, the 1,600-meter relay. Northville held a slight two-point advantage going into the race. The team of Bo Fowler, Navi, Ritter and Zayti then preserved the victory by winning in 3:31.43.

Northville stings Franklin 10-0

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Leave it to the Mustang baseball team to turn an ace into a joker.

Livonia Franklin hurler Brian Crumbley had been holding the trump card on Western Lake conference rivals all season. Why, he even no-hit Churchill a few weeks ago.

But Northville High solved Crumbley and pounded the Patriots 10-0 in a five inning home game Thursday. After absorbing a big loss to Canton a few days earlier, the Mustangs rebounded with a vengeance.

"We needed that one to keep us in it," said coach Mickey Newman. "After getting killed Monday it was important for our confidence."

Northville and Canton are both 6-2 in Western Division play. For the Mustangs to win the division crown, they must beat Walled Lake Western and Farmington Hills Harrison this week. The Chiefs must also lose a game because they have won both of their meetings with Northville.

The squad's division hopes were placed squarely on the shoulders of Jason Mavel Thursday. The senior right hander and Crumbley matched pitch-for-pitch early.

"The first three innings went by in about 20 minutes," Newman said.

Mavel allowed runners in each of those frames but worked out of trouble.

"He has so much confidence in himself," said Newman, "that he believes he can get out of trouble without too much damage."

Perhaps it was Mavel's ability to get his team out of those early scrapes that ignited the offense. Whatever the case, Northville put an eight-spot on the board in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Jason Rice led the inning off with a single and a stolen base. Fred Swarthout then reached on an error. Nate Kirmis pinch ran for the big first baseman and promptly stole second.

Chuck Yessian knocked in both runners with a single. The flood gates then opened as Jason Wenzel, Chuck Apligan and Curt Kalsner smacked RBI singles. Rice then finished what he started with a three-run frozen rope DEEP over the wall in left field.

Northville ended the game in the fifth inning with two more runs to make it 10-0. As for Mavel, he had Franklin's number all day long.

"He kept the ball down and made them beat it into the ground," said Newman.

Northville is now 10-6 overall. CANTON 17, NORTHVILLE 2

Ouch.

The Chiefs gave Northville its worst defeat in several years May 9.

Playing at home, the Mustangs were merited in five innings. Everything that could go wrong did, Newman said.

"It was one of those days where everything they hit found a hole," he added. "We hit the ball hard (too) but right at people."

Canton scored four times in the top of the first off starter John Buser. The Chiefs then added five in the second to chase the right hander from the mound.

"He couldn't get his off-speed stuff over and they just waited for his fast ball," Newman said.

Northville's only highlight came in the first inning. Apligan led off with a home run.

Newman said he was disappointed with the loss. But, he added, he was very proud of the way his team bounced back against Franklin.

Mustangs beat Churchill 6-3

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

As a rule of thumb, softball teams that blow leads usually don't win.

But Northville High broke the rules Friday and took a 6-3 road victory over Livonia Churchill. Jenny Cooley slapped a two-run single in the top of the eighth inning to give the Mustangs the winning margin.

"We blew a 3-1 lead in the seventh inning," Northville coach Frank Friemund said. "But it was an exciting good game."

The squad is now 10-7 overall. Northville closes Western Division play this week and has a chance for second place with wins over Walled Lake Western and Farmington Hills Harrison.

"I think we have a good shot at it," said Friemund.

The Mustangs were equal to the task Friday.

Heading into the second inning tied at one, Northville took the lead. Samantha Leger singled and after advancing to second was knocked home on a single by Michelle Menghini.

The Mustangs added what appeared to be an insurance run in the third to make it 3-1. But in the seventh inning, Churchill tied it up on a pair of unearned runs.

Northville came right back in the eighth. Melissa Petrosky led off with a single and was followed by a walk to Sarah Kemp. The runners then advanced to second and third on a passed ball.

Cooley's single scored Petrosky and Kemp. She later came around on a ground out by Leger.

Kari Krupansky pitched all eight innings for the win. She allowed just one earned run on six hits, four walks and five strikeouts.

CANTON 7, NORTHVILLE 3

One bad inning did the Mustangs in during the May 9 road game, according to Friemund.

With the game tied at one in the bottom of the third inning, Canton erupted for five runs. Krupansky lost the strike zone in that frame by walking five batters. She also allowed a pair of hits during the Chief rally.

"We had one bad inning," Friemund said. "Other than that we played well."

Northville cut Canton's lead to 6-2 in the fourth. It appeared the Mustangs would continue to rally in the seventh.

"With one out, Jenny Sheehan singled. Petrosky followed with a single, and a walk to Kemp loaded the bases.

Jenny Frisbie knocked in a run with a single to make it 7-3. But the rally died there as the Mustangs stranded two runners.

How to buy the right toothbrush

Dr. Kathryn Hoppe, D.D.S.

There's more to choosing a toothbrush than deciding whether blue or green best complements the bathroom towels.

The major challenge is selecting a brush from the overwhelming assortment available, one that will be most effective in preventing dental disease. There are so many to choose from—brushes with hard, medium or soft bristles, nylon bristles, straight handles, curved handles, handles bent at every angle and heads of all shapes and sizes. How do you decide what brush is right for you?

Here are some recommendations:

- Select a brush with soft, rounded or polished bristles. Soft-bristle brushes are less likely to injure gums during brushing.
- Brush size, shape and color are a matter of personal preference, but you should be able to reach each tooth surface with your brush. Smaller brushes can reach all areas of each tooth and clean teeth more effectively. Children should use smaller brushes than adults.

● Manual or electric? Both are effective. Choose the one you like best that will help you brush more thoroughly and regularly. Electric toothbrushes have improved greatly over the years. If you have one, select a medium speed setting; higher speed settings may damage your gums.

Proper brushing techniques are very important. The following methods will keep your teeth from accumulating plaque.

- Angle the brush upward against the gumline at a 45-degree angle.
- Brush in a circular motion (scrubbing circles).
- Brush the outer surfaces of each tooth, keeping the bristles angled against the gumline. Use the same method on the inner surfaces of each tooth.
- Scrub the chewing surfaces of the teeth; let the bristles work into the grooves.

- Clean the inside surfaces of the front teeth by tilting the brush vertically, then make several up-and-down strokes with the tip of the brush.
- Brush thoroughly and in an organized manner to maintain healthy teeth and gums and to reach each tooth surface.
- Finish by brushing your tongue to help freshen your breath and remove bacteria.

It is important to change your toothbrush at least once every three months. When the bristles become frayed or worn, they can't do a good job. Also, after an illness such as the cold or flu, throw away your old brush and start using a new one. This will prevent a relapse of illness.

Tooth brushing should be done twice a day (or more often). Make sure to brush thoroughly so as not to miss any areas. Most importantly, brush before bedtime or after your last food intake for the evening. This removes the bacteria from your teeth and helps keep gums healthy.

Kathryn Hoppe, D.D.S., has a dental practice in the Novi Professional Village, located at 23985 Novi Road, (810) 348-5151. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.

Diet can help with cholesterol

Barry Franklin

A famous diet guru was Nathan Pritikin.

At the age of 42, he knew he had coronary heart disease. Considerable research convinced him that dangerous narrowing of the heart's arteries would occur at blood cholesterol levels over 160. At the time, his cholesterol was 300. He figured that if he could get his cholesterol level down, he might have a chance of surviving.

He did, and he lived 27 more years.

Unable to get professional nutrition counseling in the '50s, Pritikin initiated "experimental" dietary changes on himself that he later came to recommend to millions of others. At the time he wrote his best-selling book, his cholesterol level had plummeted to 107.

The Pritikin Diet included foods as old as man. It was low in fat, cholesterol, protein and highly-refined carbohydrates such as sugars. He advocated natural foods high in complex carbohydrates—grains, vegetables and fruits. Salt was highly restricted. Forbidden were alcohol, tobacco, coffee and tea.

His diet differed dramatically from the typical American diet. It included fat levels of 5 to 10 percent, protein from 10 to 15 percent and carbohydrates (mostly complex and unrefined) to 80 percent.

Critics said the regimen was more stringent than necessary.

Others, including the American Heart Association, did not recommend it to the public, primarily because of the difficulty of maintaining it.

Without doubt, his diet was highly effective in reducing blood cholesterol levels. The first 900 patients enrolled at the Pritikin Longevity Center produced these results:

- A significant decrease in blood cholesterol—a mean value of 235 at the start of the program, 175 after only four weeks.
 - Impressive lowering of serum triglyceride levels—174 at admission, 130 at discharge.
- Over the years, thousands of patients have testified on the remarkable results they achieved by following the Pritikin Diet. Many actually claimed relief of anginal symptoms and regression of heart disease.

No testimonial was more enjoyable than this one: "If I feel any better, I will have to consider additional surgery—a vasectomy."

Barry Franklin, PhD, is director of Cardiac Rehabilitation and Exercise Laboratories at William Beaumont Hospital. His new book, "Making Healthy Tomorrows," is available by calling 1-800-289-4843.

Chargers win AAU title behind Leger

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS: The West Oakland Chargers won the Michigan State Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) 15 and under girls basketball championship on April 10. The team will go on to represent the state at the AAU National Tournament in Shreveport, La., July 21 through 30.

The Chargers remained undefeated throughout the three-day tournament, guided by head coach Jim Wickett and assistant coach Mary Ruby. The Chargers defeated the defending champion Michigan Belles of Lansing during the championship game by one point on a shot with one second remaining in a truly exciting finale.

The West Oakland Chargers 15 and under girls team members are: Karyn Kerr, Waterford; Erin Vicary, Walled Lake; Liz Wickett, Birmingham; Tracy Rynkiewicz, Westland; Samantha Leger, Novi; Kelly Kearney, Novi; Jennifer Jacek, Livonia; Julie Warren, Birmingham; Megan Barton, Novi; Becky Cummings, Walled Lake; and Laurie Albertson, Northville.

The Chargers will be hosting a series of fundraisers in an effort to defray the cost of their trip to the Nationals in July. Anyone wishing to support the Chargers should contact Irene Wickett at (810) 645-1913.

Novi gets back to winning ways on baseball diamond

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Ah, the difference a week can make.

The Wildcat baseball team appeared dead in the water just a few short weeks ago. But five straight victories have righted the ship and put Novi back on line for a third straight Kensington Valley Conference title.

The Wildcats will face Brighton Wednesday in a home doubleheader that could decide the league championship. Both squads entered action this week with just two KVC defeats.

"If we win the rest of our league games we can at least tie them," said coach Brian Howard. "It's a tall order but I think we're up to it."

The title was decided in similar fashion last season. Brighton and Novi met on the last day of the KVC season and split a doubleheader to share the crown.

If the Wildcats play like they did last week they won't have to share this year. The bats were booming while pitching and defense were rock solid.

Take, for example, Saturday's West Bloomfield Tournament. Novi won the four-team invitational by whipping Walled Lake Central and West Bloomfield.

Howard said his team is starting to play to its capabilities.

"I was worried before because they weren't playing up to their potential," he added. "All of a sudden they're playing up to their potential."

That was certainly true in the opener, a 7-3 clubbing of Walled Lake Central.

After falling behind 2-1 going into the bottom of the second inning, the 'Cats took command. Jason Fischer singled to lead off the frame.

Angelo Fallone followed with a single and a walk to Jimmy Rose loaded the bases. A walk to Mitch Jabczynski forced in a run then Chuck Jozwiak tripled home two more. Novi made it 5-2 on an RBI double by Kevin Serra.

After a rocky start, Greg Norris settled down and pitched a fine game for Novi. He went the distance striking out five Viking batters. Norris, who had been out of action with a sore arm, retired the last 11 batters.

Novi added two more runs in the fourth inning on an RBI triple by Serra and RBI double by Tom Grigg.

The Wildcats closed the tournament by pounding West Bloomfield 11-4.

Novi scored early and often with three in the first inning, two in the second and five in the fourth. The game was ended after five innings because of the mercy rule. Jozwiak, Grigg and Serra each had three hits in the rout.

John Wroe started on the mound and got the victory.

HARTLAND DOUBLEHEADER
The Wildcat hurlers just about took care of Hartland all by themselves Thursday at home.

Joe Harmon pitched Novi to a 5-2 victory in the opener. His steady six innings of work allowed the 'Cat offense to take over.

Novi got all five of its runs in the third inning. A two-run homer by Serra highlighted the outburst.

In the nightcap, Fischer tossed a one-hitter.

Hartland scored its lone run in the first inning. The Wildcats scored twice in the bottom half of the inning on RBI doubles by Grigg and Wroe. Howard said Fischer dominated the Eagles.

"His ball was moving like a jumping bean," he said.

NOVI 7, MILFORD 0
Speaking of one-hitters, Jabczynski threw one at the Redskins on the road May 9.

The junior lefty whiffed 10 batters. He got all the support he needed in the first inning as Novi scored three times on a two-run single by Fischer and an RBI single by Andy Sill.

Runners fall to Novi

by sweeping the mile run and relay, the two-mile and 400-meter runs.

"They got 23 points in distance events," said Turnbull.

Northville did some sweeping of its own in the long jump. Bradley set a new school record by jumping 17-6, beating Forster's year-old mark of 17-4. Forster was second last week with a jump of 15-9 and Poole third at 15-7.

Cook won the high jump as she made it over 4 feet 10 inches. In the shot put, Olin's 30 feet was good for first place while Kris Werda was third with 27 feet 6 inches.

Northville swept the discus with Sekerka taking first, Werda second and Olin third. Sekerka finished second in the 100-meter hurdles in 17.4 seconds.

Sprinter Poole finished third in the 100-meter with a time of 13.4. The 800-meter relay team of Forster, Dalziel, Katie Rompel and Bradley won in 1:50.3. That same group won the 400 relay in 41.7.

Jessica Reimer was second in the 300-meter low hurdles in 54.1. Bradley and Rompel were first and third in the 200-meter dash.

Northville's final points of the day came in the 800-meter open race. Browne had her personal best of 2:31.4 to take second place.

"It's a hard pill to swallow when you shoot your best and still lose," said Waldecker.

Lindsey Casterline had her best round of the season with a 43. She had an excellent putting round of just 14 strokes.

"I'm feeling very good about her now," said Waldecker.

Junior Heather Nix shot a 53. Kylene Mills had Northville's third lowest score of the day with a 54. Katie Kernohan and Monica Prasad tied with a 57.

Waldecker was happy with her team's work.

"207 is a very respectable score," she said.
NORTHVILLE 209, WALLED LAKE CENTRAL 248

Playing at Tanglewood on May 9, the Mustangs walked away with an easy victory.

Casterline once again led the way. She shot 47 for the nine holes.

"She was thrilled to be in the 40s," said Waldecker.

Brittany Ahern notched a 53. Mills a 54 and Kernohan a 55.

Northville will close its dual meet season out Wednesday against Novi. The Mustangs stand at 6-3 overall and 6-1 in the Western Lakes conference.

Home sales continue to climb

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

First-time home buyers in near-record numbers are taking advantage of favorable market and lending opportunities to purchase their dream home. Real estate brokers and home builders are reporting significant increases in the number of first-time buyer customers in most regions of the country.

These buyers are primarily motivated by still-low mortgage interest rates, even though they've been edging up since last October. Many feel they should take action now before rates jump higher, and before home prices start another climb.

Last year, when the number of home sales was only 5 percent short of the nation's top sales record set in 1978, there surfaced a surprising trend in the market.

Many analysts predicted the primary segment of home buyers would be seasoned, more affluent move-up buyers. But as it turned out, they generally stayed on the sidelines, according to a survey and report issued by Chicago Title Co.

"Low mortgage rates flushed out another huge contingent of buyers who were poised to enter the market for the first time. In fact, it produced one of the highest percentage of single first-time buyers in history."

On a national level, first-time buyers represented 46 percent of the market last year, it was noted in Chicago Title's "Who's Buying Homes in America" report. That rate was slightly lower than the 47.7 percent market share attained by first-time buyers dur-

The Kelsey offers a wide variety of living environs

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

A sun room at the back expands the already spacious family room in the Kelsey, a two-story country-style home that offers a wide range of living environments, inside and out. Lattice-work, a country-style wraparound porch, cedar shakes and a wealth of multipaned windows give the home a comfortable, open and welcoming look.

Relaxation, along with ferns and tropical plants, can't help but thrive in the screened or glassed, sky-lit sun room. Both ends of this bright space have sliding glass doors that open onto decks. Light spills over into the family room through windows and French doors.

A long eating bar is all that separates the family room from a kitchen that's large enough to accommodate multiple cooks. Natural light from a skylight illuminates the garden window, in front of the three-section sink.

Cook top and ovens are built into the work island, and the huge pantry has both walk-in and face-frame doors.

Garage access, through the nook, comes in handy for unloading groceries. A utility room, large enough to accommodate both a freezer and a fold-down ironing board, is close to both the kitchen and garage. And clothes dropped in a chute in the large linen/storage closet upstairs, end up in a basket here.

A bar sink is tucked into an alcove between the kitchen and the formal dining room. Vaulted ceilings increase the sense of spaciousness in the dining room and parlor. Light from the arched dormer adds drama and increases the natural light in the bay-windowed parlor. The swing room, located between the family room and master suite, is a bonus space that can be used as a nursery, home office, hobby room or whatever.

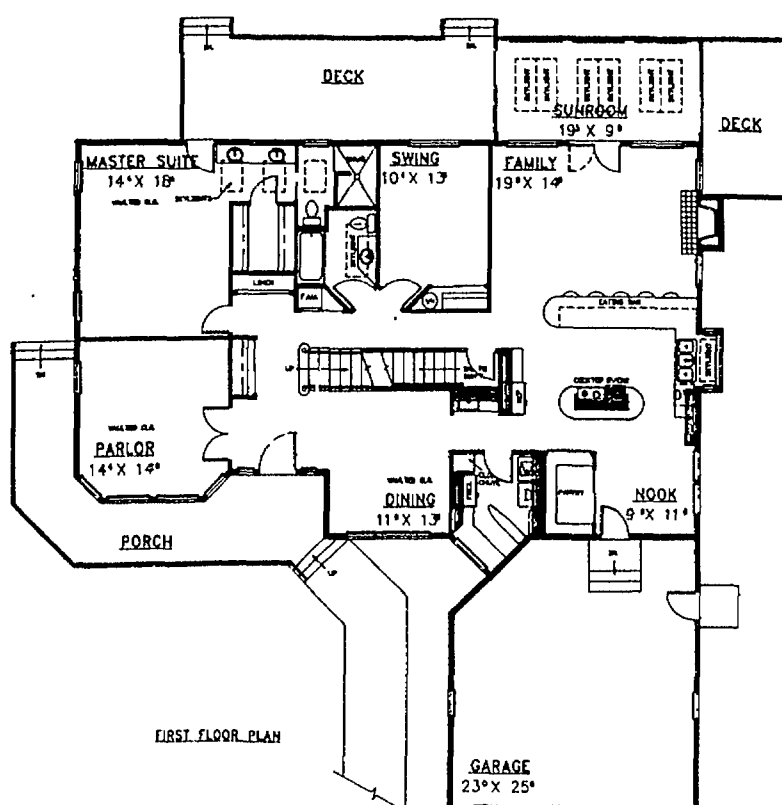

Electric lights won't be needed during the day in any of the Kelsey's three bathrooms. All have skylights. The master bathroom has three. One is in the shower and toilet enclosure, and two more are over the twin basins in the dressing area by the walk-in closet.

Two bedrooms share the upstairs bathroom, which is also outfitted with a double vanity.

For a study plan of the Kelsey (332-290) send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

Copley News Service

Gardeners are often advised that the best soil for growing flowers, vegetables or about anything else is a good loam.

What gardeners often have is clay — heavy and sticky when wet, rock hard when dry, or sand — easy to work, quick to dry in the spring but requiring prodigious amounts of water in the summer.

A good loam, says Darryl Warncke, Michigan State University soils scientist, contains clay, sand and silt — a particle between clay and sand in size — in more or less equal amounts. Loamy soil is ideal for garden plants because it holds moisture but also drains well so plenty of air can reach plant roots.

Gardeners with clay soils can improve them by tilling in large amounts of organic matter, such as lawn clippings, shredded leaves, compost, aged manure, cover crops or organic mulches. This improves soil aggregation — that is, it helps bind the small clay particles together to form larger stable units or aggregates. This, in turn, opens up spaces in the soil for better drainage and aeration. Though it may take several years, adding organic matter will eventually improve the soil and make it easier for water and roots to move through it.

Organic matter is also the prescription for sandy soils. Adding organic matter improves the water-holding capacity of sandy soils.

Adding sand to clay is not recommended.

"If you think about it, clay plus sand sounds like a recipe for bricks," Warncke observes. "Adding sand along with organic matter is OK, however. Sand and organic material will help improve drainage and aeration in clay soils."

is not a one-shot operation — it may take literally years to convert clay or sandy soils into productive garden soil," Warncke says. "But the benefits are worth waiting and working for."

— Outreach Communications
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

TALKING DIRTY

Half of good soil consists of mineral and organic matter — what we usually think of as dirt, he notes. Only 4 to 5 percent is organic matter, but it plays an important role. Adding organic matter annually helps stimulate activity by both macro- and microorganisms, which are important in cycling nutrients and aerating the soil.

The other half is divided fairly equally between water and air, which occupy the spaces between the solid particles. When the particles are very tiny, as with clay soils, they can become very tightly packed, driving out the air and making it difficult for water to move either into or out of it. Sand particles are much larger. Spaces between them are also large, allowing water to pass through readily.

The one thing that can make a clay soil worse is to walk or drive on it, try to till it or dig it when it's wet. This drives out the air and packs the soil particles even tighter together, making the soil even more impenetrable.

"Improving your soil is not a one-shot operation — it may take literally years to convert clay or sandy soils into productive garden soil," Warncke says. "But the benefits are worth waiting and working for."

Caring for cut flowers

GARDENING

Whether you are arranging them for your house or to give to a friend, follow these tips to make cut flowers last longer and look fresher.

- Harvest either early morning or evening, never but never cut flowers in midday sun!

- Carry a pail with water and place each flower (especially roses) into this immediately.

- Cut at a slant to maximize the water-absorbing surface and to prevent a stem from resting flat against the bottom of the pail. It's usually best to cut stems a bit longer than you think will be needed.

- Back in the house fill a clean, deep container with tepid water, recut each stem and place in the container. Leave the flowers in a cool, dark place for several hours and, even better, overnight if possible.

- Always handle flowers carefully by their stems at every stage. When you lay them out on a table, let the heads hang over the edge to prevent crushing.

- As you make arrangements, recut once more each stem on a slant to the desired length and remove all leaves that will end up below the waterline of the vase.

- Change the water every day or two and, as they fade, remove dead flowers.

Q. I never have any luck with spider plants. I keep them on the floor in front of a window. I can get them to grow, but I don't get any baby spiders on plants.

A. Spider plants are easy to grow. Their plain or green-and-white striped leaves have a refreshing appearance and its habit of sprouting babies in midair is endlessly fascinating. The plant adapts to various kinds of light, and is virtually pest free.

Leaf tips die back when the soil dries out severely, so keep the soil evenly moist. A large hanging basket may need as much as 1 quart of water twice a week. Misting is appreciated.

If new growth shows black-

Installing a fan on an open-beam ceiling

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

HERE'S HOW

Q. Is it possible to install a ceiling fan in a room that has an open-beam ceiling? The beams are 3-1/2 inches x 5-1/2 inches. What type of ceiling fan would you recommend? I would have the fan installed by an electrician.

A. Installation of such a fan should not be too difficult. The major concern will be locating the new wiring so that it will not mar the effect of your open-beam ceiling.

Since you will not have an attic in which you can hide the wiring, you will probably have to bring it up through the wall and perhaps run it to the center of the room via the beam, keeping it tucked in the crevice and out of sight as much as possible.

The wiring should be near the color of the ceiling and the beams so that it is inconspicuous.

A better way might be to install the wiring and then cover it with a false wood strip, hollowed out on the inside to make room for the required wiring.

A good electrician and/or carpenter should be able to help you solve this problem. The installation will be more expensive than a normal ceiling installation because of the cosmetics. Choice of a fan would be personal preference.

Q. I plan on putting up a patio cover this summer. I would like to use wood for the framing, and fiberglass, which would allow natural diffused light, for the roofing. Would redwood be a good choice for the framing material? I would prefer the look of natural wood rather than a painted structure. How high should the roof be from the ground?

A. Redwood is an excellent choice, since it is one of the few woods that stands up well under the elements. After construction, provide additional protection by applying a water-repellent finish.

This will not alter the rich, natural grain and texture of the wood, but it will modify the effects of weathering, eliminating the dark stages that redwood sometimes goes through.

Choose a preservative that contains a mildewcide. A water-repellent preservative penetrates and continues for some time to spread into the wood. It makes the surface repellent to water and also adds mildew and decay resistance to the wood.

This type of product is available under several brand names. If you want a little different shade than the natural condition of the wood, choose a preservative that performs the same protective functions but also contains stains to change the color of the wood. As for the height of the roof, that depends on two things: how high you want it to be and secondly and more important, where the headers can be attached to the back of the house. In most cases, you will find that the convenient place to attach the headers is approximately eight feet. Be sure that the new patio cover slants slightly downward to take care of the runoff of rain.

Q. One of our renters had children who marked the walls of several rooms with colored ink pens and crayons. When I repainted one of the rooms, the markings bled through the new paint. What can I do to prevent this?

A. Wash the walls down prior to painting. TSP (trisodium phosphate) is a good cleaning choice. However, purchase it from a reputable paint dealer to obtain the real product. Due to environmental concerns, TSP is no longer available in some areas as a general cleaner.

Prior to applying a finish coat you will need to prime the walls, specifically the areas that are marked.

Q. The previous owner painted the brick trim on our home white. Every winter the paint peels off and at the same time chunks of brick come off with it. It is a frustrating thing to watch. Every spring I have to repaint, but the same thing keeps recurring. I am facing the same project again this year. Can you give me any advice on what to do to alleviate this problem?

A. This is one of the reasons I recommend against painting brick, particularly in cold climates. Moisture eventually works under the paint and the freeze/thaw cycle causes the brick to disintegrate.

First brush off all the crumbling particles and scrape off most of the paint in the areas where it is peeling and brick is crumbling. Apply one or two coats of liquid cement hardener, available at masonry supply dealers.

Then scrub the wall with trisodium phosphate and strong chlorine bleach. Rinse well and let dry thoroughly.

Before repainting, apply clear masonry sealer to help keep the moisture out of the brick.

Use a quality masonry paint. Two coats will be more protective than one.

You might consider removal of the paint as outlined above. However, this is a tedious task for large areas and you may not be able to remove all traces of paint from the porous brick. Even with paint residue, the brick may be attractive, taking on the appearance of popular used brick.

A restored, natural brick surface will minimize your upkeep, compared to the annual sanding of peeling paint and repainting.

Redwood, a good choice

- Redwood is a good choice for outdoor use because it is one of the few woods that stands up to the elements.
- A water-repellent preservative will penetrate the wood and, if you buy a good brand, will add mildew and decay resistance.
- Try to find a brand of preservative that contains a mildewcide.
- If you want to alter the wood's color a bit, you can find preservatives that contain a stain.

Home sales continue to climb; the main reason people refinance

ing the previous year but high by recent historical standards, the report noted.

"During the 1980s, first-time buyers typically accounted for less than 40 percent of total home sales," it stated.

Although the baby-boom generation is getting older, and the age group that includes most first-time home buyers keeps shrinking, the percentage of first-time buyers over the past two years was the highest it has been in two decades, the report noted.

While many buyers were making second or third home purchases, they were replaced by a large number of single individuals and families moving from rented units to their first owned home. However, analysts noted that buying activity during the past year did not extend much beyond second or third home buyers.

Another surprising figure: The median price of homes last year was $141,900. That's just $900 higher than the previous year—a annual gain of less than 1 percent.

As interest rates decreased last year, the average monthly mortgage payment (nationally) declined $49—from $1,064 to $1,015. However, the average monthly payment for repeat home buyers was down $80, to $1,076.

Although mortgage rates were low during the past year, fixed-rate mortgages were no more popular than they were the year before.

More than one of every five buyers surveyed opted to use adjustable-rate mortgages to finance their home purchase.

The popularity of adjustable-rate mortgages is partly explained by the first-time buyer phenomenon, the Chicago Title report stated.

Lower adjustable-rate mortgages make it easier for first-time buyers with marginal qualifications to obtain a financing loan.

However, repeat buyers were even bigger users of the less costly adjustable-rate mortgages. What this suggests is that a growing number of buyers in this category believe that lower interest rates are part of a long-term pattern.

When this is the perception, buyer psychology changes and the urge to lock-in a fixed interest rate for the long haul loses some of its urgency.

Q. Was lowering the amount of monthly payments the main reason so many people refinanced the home mortgage loan during the past year?

A. Surprisingly, more homeowners who refinanced their home opted for shorter-term loans instead of lowering their monthly payment, according to a report from Fannie Mae (Federal National Mortgage Association), the nation's largest buyer of existing mortgages.

"When faced with the choice of an immediate benefit of saving an average of $1,500 a year in mortgage payments or the long-term benefit of cutting their loan term by about seven years, more consumers opted to cut their loan term. They feel this will help build long-term wealth," the report stated.

Q. Is it true that the average Realtor now earns in excess of $100,000 per year?

A. Hardly. According to the National Association of Realtors, today's average Realtor works about 45 hours per week and earns a net median income of $23,100. The report is based on a survey of nearly 2,300 Realtors throughout the country.

The median net income of real estate sales representatives (those working for Realtors) is the same figure—$23,100. But that reflects a rate of increase in recent years that is about double the rate for Realtors.

Q. Do most Realtor firms now have an affiliation with an electronic mortgage network?

A. No. Only 7 percent now have such an affiliation, according to "Real Trends" newsletter. It should be noted, however, that most firms using this type of computerized service are the larger companies. They include about 21 percent of the industry sales force, the newsletter pointed out.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Getting lucky with spider plants

ened or rotted areas, correct this by working a tablespoon of horticultural limestone into the soil's surface. Spider plants have thick roots almost like radishes, and it does best moved to a size larger pot when the old one is filled with roots. It also needs good drainage. Fertilize with an all-purpose plant food all-year-round such as Miracle-Gro. Root airborne offsets or plant root divisions at anytime of the year.

During the summer months, hang your plant outside in semi-shade—it will do wonders!

Q. Any advice on how to get rid of whiteflies on my houseplants without spraying? I'm against using chemicals, besides I'm allergic to them.

A. Try vacuuming them off your plants daily.

You may have to keep this routine up for a month or so in order to vacuum up larvae as they hatch.

Make sure you use the dusting brush attachment and make sure to also vacuum flying whiteflies out of the air around the plant.

This method also works with plants afflicted with spider mites. Pay particular attention to the undersides of leaves where whiteflies and spider mites like to live and hide.

Many elevations to choose from!

This sculpture titled "Midday" is by Edris Eckhardt, whose work often sells in the thousands.

WPA ceramic art of the '30s

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. This is a photo of a beautiful piece of pottery that has been in my collection for years and I still can't find out much about it.

The figure stands 14 inches tall including the base. The colors and work are just incredible. Her gown is a peach color, her hair and the sheaf of wheat between her feet are a golden yellow. She is marked with the words "Edris Eckhardt—No. 7—Midday Federal Art Project—Cleveland, Ohio." Edris Eckhardt's signature is imprinted in the clay on the base.

Is this a good piece and what can you tell me about its value?

A. "Midday," a ceramic sculpture by Edris Eckhardt, was exhibited at the May Show in The Cleveland Museum of Art in 1938. Your figure is one of her "Midday" pieces that she made in the late 30s. She usually produced multiples of her pieces, sometimes a dozen a day.

While still a student in art school, Guy Cowan asked her to join The Cowan Pottery Company, in Cleveland, Ohio. This association proved to be a significant influence on her development as an artist. Because of her versatility and talent she was named supervisor for the Ceramic Division of the Federal Arts Project that was part of the Works Project Administration (WPA).

Sponsored by the WPA, she designed and produced her "Mother Goose" and "Alice in Wonderland" series. They found a permanent home in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. A lifesize terra cotta figure of Huckleberry Finn was commissioned by Eleanor Roosevelt for a small reflecting pond in 1939.

Figures similar to yours can go as high as several thousand dollars. "Edris Eckhardt Cleveland Sculptor" by Ruth Dancyger, edited and published by Roger A. Welchans, part of the John Carroll University Cleveland Artist Series 1990, is an excellent source of information.

Q. Enclosed is the mark that is on the bottom of a porcelain covered dish that I have. The dish is white and trimmed in gold. I was told that it was a sponge or soap dish.

Could you please tell me its value and vintage?

A. Your dish was probably part of a wash set and was used to hold soap or a sponge. It was made by the Sevres China Co. in East Liverpool, Ohio, between 1900 and 1908. There is no connection between this firm and the porcelain made since 1769 in Sevres, France. The value would probably be about $35 to $45.

Q. I have a 1969 Hummel calendar. On the front of the calendar is a picture of a Hummel figurine of a boy sitting on a carriage that is drawn by two horses. In the background is a tree and a castle. Each month has a different picture of a Hummel figurine. Beneath the picture on the front are the words "Hummel—Kalendar—1969." It has never been used and is in mint condition.

What can you tell me about my calendar?

A. In 1951 Goebel published the first German version of a Hummel calendar. The first calendar printed in English was published in 1954. There were 13 color photos of various Hummel figurines on each calendar.

Generally the English version portrayed the photos from the German calendar of the previous year. Some very early calendars sell as much as $2,000. Yours is the German version and the value would probably be about $20 to $25.

Q. My husband bought a porcelain vase at a sale. The height is approximately 7 inches. It is decorated with flowers, a classical scene and gold trim. On the bottom it is marked "Erphila Czechoslovakia."

What is the value and vintage of my vase?

A. Eberling and Reuss in Philadelphia imported porcelain from Czechoslovakia. It is believed the mark "Erphila" is a combination of the letters "E" and "R" (Eberling and Reuss) and the first five letters of Philadelphia. Your vase was made sometime in the 1930s. The value would probably be about $145 in good condition.

Q. We have a volume, consisting of 30, semimonthly parts of "Frank Leslie's Scenes and Portraits of the Civil War." There is only some slight wear in that the edges are faded, but the scenes are still clear.

If you could give us an idea of its value, we would appreciate it.

A. "American Book Prices Current 1984" lists the sale of one of the original 26 semimonthly parts bound in one volume folio at $175. It would probably be worth at least $200 currently.

This reference book is available in most public libraries. It is a reliable source of information for anyone researching book prices. Check it out!

Frames Unlimited opens new store in Novi

Chain now has 31 outlets in state

Elizabeth Miller, manager of Frames Unlimited in Novi, helps a customer.

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

It has been hanging there on your refrigerator door for months. The edges are starting to turn yellow and stiff, the colors that once smiled out at you have begun to fade.

Suddenly, as you reach for the milk carton one day, a wave of guilt comes over you: what do I do with my second grader's first self portrait? Frames Unlimited.

One of Novi's newest businesses can ease a young parent's anxiety or handle just about any framing need. From prints to paintings, baseball cards to graduation gowns, Frames Unlimited is the place to go to preserve your artwork and memories.

"We try to cater to all framing needs," said Elizabeth Miller, manager of the Novi store. "Anything you want to frame, we can frame."

Frames Unlimited opened in the Oakpointe Plaza, 22224 Novi Road, in late November of last year. According to owner Dorothy Zimdar, business has gone very well in the first few months.

"Our reception has been overwhelming," she said. "Within a few years, the Novi store will be in our top five."

Zimdar began the business in northeast Grand Rapids during the early 1970s. In its two decades of operation, Frames Unlimited has expanded quickly with as many as five stores opening in a single year.

"I wanted to get into a market niche that wasn't being filled by anyone," Zimdar commented. "I didn't have any idea it would grow like this."

She owns a total of 31 shops now in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

"It has been extremely challenging and exciting," Zimdar said.

In moving to Novi, she said she carefully considered the community's demographics. But, Zimdar added, the final decision came down to one thing.

"The location was right," she said. "Above all, I had the manager just right for the location."

Miller has been with the company for nearly seven years. She was working as the manager of the Troy store before coming to Novi.

Thus far, Miller said, sales have been strong.

"The volume isn't quite what my old store was," she said. "But it's looking really promising."

With Frames Unlimited's products and services, it's no wonder.

Thousands of custom frame mouldings including the hand-carved museum line of Munn mouldings, finished in gold leaf, are available. Miller said she can create a custom frame for any size print or painting for anywhere from $20 to $300.

Prints, drawings and paintings aren't the only things that can be framed at the store, either. Miller said she often gets requests for graduation items, sports jerseys and christening gowns.

"We frame everything," she said. The Novi store is much more than frames, however.

Hand-crafted sculptures, candlesticks, ceramics, vases and exotic flowers are just a few of the home accessories on hand. Original works by artists such as Stephen Duren and Martha Walther are available as well as limited editions by Itzark Tarkay and others. Prints and posters are in stock, too, and may be special ordered from catalogs.

Frames Unlimited also offers delivery service. Miller said the company will hang larger frames for customers as well.

Frames Unlimited is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. For more information call (810) 344-8369.
