Budget wins approval, priority list put on hold

By YVONNE BEEBE Staff Writer

The Northville Board of Education quickly and quietly adopted a $28.3 million budget Monday evening, but the easy vote does not mean budget issues have been put to bed for 1994-95.

As mandated by state law, the board was required to adopt a working budget by July 1, but $392,000 available for various priority items will remain unearmarked until the board's July 11 meeting.

Board members put the priority list on hold because President Robert McMahon, Vice President Jean Hansen and Trustee Patricia Custer were absent from the meeting and issues that affect the entire district need input from the full board, members decided (see related story, page 16-A).

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said he expects the board will need to make amendments to the budget during the coming months as glitches develop with the revamped funding mechanism from the state.

"It is not uncommon for school districts to adjust their budgets during the year." he said.

This year's budget amounts to $28.3 million, about $3 million, or 12 percent, higher than 1993-94. One of the most significant changes in the way the state funds education is in supporting benefit pay for employees. The state has imposed a much heavier burden on school districts-a bur len that will cost Northville an additional $2 million this year.

Sixty-two percent, about $17.7 million, is devoted to teacher salaries: $5.7 million will go to the elementary schools; $3.5 million is dedicated to the middle schools; $3.8 million is earmarked for the high school; and $1.5 million will go for special education instruction. The district's 249 teachers are entering the second year of a two-year collective bargaining agreement that includes a 3 percent salary increase this year. In addition, the 30 percent of the teachers on the salary scale will receive a one-step boost.

About $452,000 of the new budget accounts for top administrative pay including $109,492 for the superintendent, $93,855 for the assistant superintendent for instructional services, $92,250 for the assistant superintendent for administrative services and $76,466 for the director of personnel.

Rezmierski will receive no pay raise, the third straight year his salary has been frozen.

Last week the state estimated it will allocate $6,528 per pupil for Northville next year. This figure is $9 less than expected and could result explanation or an adjustment. Another discrepency between Northville Public Schools and the state concerns the number of students the district will teach next year.

Northville officials estimate that about 4,242 students will be filling classrooms next year. The state, however, put the district's student population at some 80-100 students less. The difference is not as detrimental as the dollar figure because the state is obligated to provide funding for all children in the district.

"It's just a matter of do we get the money now or later," Street said. "But we do get it."

In the 1993-94 school year, the district accumulated $475,377 in surplus revenue. The majority of the money will go into the district's fund equity pool and will contribute to the goal of reaching a balance equal to 5 percent of the operating budget. Board members and administrators set a 5 percent fund equity goal in 1989 when the district had a razor thin reserve of $48,000.

Road links win

commission OK

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

They may have lost the battle, but residents of Northville Township's Edenderry Hills area give the distinct impression that the war is still very much going on. Next stop: the board of trustees.---

The township's planning commission on Tuesday voted 3-2 to recommend that the board approve plans for the Woods of Edenderry, a proposed 101-lot subdivision for a north of Six Mile and south of the Edenderry Hills sub. Those plans call for the Woods sub to have five street connections, including two to the north which would link its roads with those of the Edenderry Hills area. That has sparked a firestorm of opposition from residents there. They showed up in force neighborhood-like atmosphere of the on Tuesday, turning the heat up on area. A spokesman for the area the commission, the township's argued to the commission that the planning consultants and Woods developer Mark Guidobono.

It was a standing room only affair. The crowd booed when consultants or commissioners called for the connections to be made and cheered when someone criticized the idea. After the vote, those who attended promised to continue the fight with the board.

The controversy over the road connections is multi-sided. The township's consultants and a recentlycompleted traffic study all recommend that the street links be made Two of the researce biggest, they say, are better access for emergency vehicles and the fact that Wayne County requires that they be put in. Opponents of the plan, however, say just the opposite: the connec-tions will decrease safety because of more traffic and will destroy the

Joint fire department considered

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

There's some doubt that the city and township of Northville will ever consolidate. Their fire departments, however, just might.

The city council and the township's board of trustees met June 22 to discuss a proposed joint fire services agreement between the two communities. The deal would create a single "Northville Fire Department." The city and township would share the costs through a proportional funding formula and both communities would pool their equipment and firefighters.

Joint fire services is an idea that city and township officials have explored in the last few months. Last week, however, was the first time a detailed proposal-including a budget-was presented. Officials stressed, however, that it's all very preliminary.

Members of the council and board had questions aplenty about the plan. They'll submit them to township and city workers who are studying the project. The matter will be the subject of another joint meeting paid-on-call firefighters and three scheduled for July 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Township Hall.

The report identifies several advantages of having a single fire department for both communities, the chief ones being improved overall service and lower cost, particularly in the long term as expensive new firefighting equipment is bought.

Drawbacks are also noted in the report, including such things as a loss of identity for each respective fire department" and a "possible loss of personnel."

convinced of that, however.

In its proposed first year budget, The Northville Fire Department would see operating expenditures of $620,077 and capital outlay for equipment purchases of $22,700. That's a grand total of $642,777, of which the township would pick up about 72 percent and the city about 28 percent.

It's also $52,000 more than the current combined fire budgets of both the city and township. A city official who worked on the budget, however, said that the gap in the first year is not actually that large.

The two current budgets don't include some fire department related costs, she said, which the proposed Northville Fire Department budget does, along with a $10,000 contingency fund for unanticipated expenses.

Sewer sale conditions win board agreement

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

How quickly things can change. Northville Township's board of trustees-which two weeks ago seemed to rule out Salem Township's request to buy some sewer line capacity-had itself a change of heart two days ago.

On Tuesday the board voted 7-0 to sell Salem what it asked for: 50,000 gallous a day of the township's sewer flow capacity. That approval, how-ever, is contingent on four major conditions being met, a process that will likely take months,

The first of the four calls for the township to determine if it has enough excess capacity to afford to sell any to Salem.

That question was the subject of a second vote, the board unanimously calling for an independent engineering firm to determine the answer. The move came after some of the trustees questioned the capacity estimates given them by the township's regular engineering firm.

Trustee Mark Abbo summed up the board's thinking this way: "There's some uncertainty as to if we have the capacity. I think we should find out. If we do, I think it's in our best interest to do something with it instead of paying for it and not using -st.'

"If we have the capacity and the price is right, we'd be foolish not to take it," Clerk Sue Hillebrand agreed.

City, township would pool resources in plan

Given that, officials say that the real increase for each community in the first year would be $4,674 for the township and $15,299 for the city.

In the long haul, however, supporters of the agreement say, consolidation of fire services will end up being cheaper for both communities. Cost savings will come from greater efficienc and from capital outlay. Both departments are looking at expensive equipment purchases within the side can end it at the end of the fiscal next few years to maintain fire year they're currently in. services.

"Those efficiencies and savings aren't likely to be realized for the first couple of years of this," Trustee Mark Abbo said. "It takes time."

The fire services agreeement, officials said at the meeting, could also lead to combining police and fire dispatch services for the two communities. How that and a joint fire department could affect ongoing talks on joint services among the two Northvilles, Plymouth City and Township and Canton Township is not yet clear.

Here's an overview and analysis of the draft agreement:

Structure:

assistant chief and a contingent of part-time paid firefighters. The township will financially administer it in consultation with the city manager. The city makes monthly payments for its share of the costs.

A "Northville Fire Board" would be created to handle any problems between the two communities that couldn't be worked out.

The agreement's slated to last for 10 years at first. After that, either

Cost-sharing:

A proportional funding formula will determine each community's share of operating costs. They'll be split this way: 33 percent based on population; 34 percent based on the actual number of emergency service runs each community has had over the past three years; and 33 percent on the total State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of each community.

The agreement stipulates, however, that in no case would the city's share drop below 25 percent.

Capital outlay:

The agreement calls for both communities to pool the equipment the The department would have three new department would use. The city full-time firefighters, one chief, one kicks in 25 percent of all future equipment purchases, and the township contributes 75 percent. If the agreement ever ends, the city will get back its original equipment and either more equipment or cash for what it paid out for captial outlay purchases.

Trends:

The report predicts that the city's share of the cost of the joint department will decline every year for the next six, but only by a small amount. It would drop from a 1994 high of 28.86 percent to a low of 27.99 percent in 2000. The township's share would rise accordingly, from a low of 71.14 percent in 1994 to a high of 72.01 percent in 2000.

Population-part of the funding formula-runs in somewhat the same vein. The city's population was 6,392 in 1993 and is expected to increase slightly every year, hitting 6,658 in the year 2000.

However, as a proportion of the total population of the two communities over that time, the city declines slightly. The township's population was 18,407 in 1993 and is expected to increase a bit every year to an estimated 21,500 in the year 2000.

In the same way, both communities' total SEV is expected to increase over the next six years but the city's proportional share of the combined total is expected to decline.

The three-year average of emergency service runs is also a third of the funding formula. A study of the years 1991-1993 showed that the township saw 67.28 percent of the total of 954 runs; the city saw 32.72 percent.

In two related developments:

• The council and the board will discuss the progress of city/township consolidation talks at a July 12 joint meeting. The meeting will take place at 7:30 p.m. at Northville High School.

• Employees of the township's fire department will vote next week on whether they want to join the state firefighters' union.

An election, overseen by the state's Employment Relations Commission will be held July 5. Fire employees will vote by secret ballot, excluding the fire chief and civilian workers. If a majority approves, the Michigan Association of Firefighters will represent the firefighters.

Video predators aren't that smart

· 物へやく、、 、 、 、 、、、 いかいたちを、日本のかです。~

Township police are pursuing two men accused of failing to return a total of five videos to Northville Video.

One man rented Rainman and Predator on March 26, the store's owner said, and did not bring either one back. He attempted to contact the man by telephone without success, the owner said, and a certified letter was returned, indicating he had moved. The videos are valued at $50. The 44-year-old man did leave his driver's license number with the store, however, and police are attempting to find him using that. Police have already located the new address of the second man, whom the owner says rented three movies on May 26 worth $90 and hasn't returned them.

The owner said he attempted to contact the 38-year-old man, again with no results. He has told police he wants to prosecute; a warrant is being sought for the trilogy renter.

'TIS THE SEASON: Township police checked out two reports of firecrackers being shot off on Sunday on Clement and Ironwood. In both cases, the responding officers found no one.

DOS OUILS: A 23-year-old West Bloomfield man and a 40-year-old Brighton woman were arrested by township police last week for operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor (OUIL).

The reporting officer said he saw the man's 1993 Toyota Celica swerving and striking the curb as it travelled down eastbound Seven Mile on June 24. When stopped, the man said he had consumed a couple of drinks at Wooly Bully's.

He failed field sobriety tests and was arrested. Breathalzyer testing at police headquarters showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .13 percent, above the legal limit. The man was held until he sobered up, then released. He faces a July 1 35th District Court hearing.

The woman was stopped the same day on Beck near Seven Mile in her 1984 Olds Delta 88. The reporting officer said he found numerous beer cans in the rear seat of the car; the woman, however, said that she hadn't had anything to drink.

She failed field sobriety tests and was arrested. Breathalyzer testing showed her to have a blood alcohol level of .21 percent, more than twice the legal limit. She was held until sobering up and then released. She faces a July 1 hearing as well.

AUTO THEFT: A 55-year-old Mil-ford man told police that someone had stolen his car from the Meijer parking lot on June 20.

When he returned to where he had parked after shopping, the man said, he found his 1986 Cadillac DeVille gone. His briefcase and golf clubs were inside. The reporting officer said he found broken glass on the ground where the car had been. The car and other articles are valued at $5,000.

Detroit police contacted the township two days later. They'd found the car with a broken rear window, damaged steering column and missing its radio, battery and hubcaps.

LARCENY/ASSAULT/

MARIJUANA: Township police arrested a 25-year-old Detroit woman for a variety of charges at Meijer on Sunday.

A store detective said she saw the woman switching prices on merchandise. The woman, the detective said, saw her watching and came up lice checked for fingerprints and threatened the detective.

At that point, the detective went to the store's loss prevention office and monitored the woman on video while waiting for police. The responding officers and the detective stopped the woman as she was leaving the store.

The woman was found with $75 worth of stolen property, police said, and admitted to verbally threatening the detective. She was arrested and taken to police headquarters. While processing her there, officers said they found a small baggie of marijuana in her cigarette case.

The woman was cited for that offense as well and was released on bond. She faces a July 13 hearing in 35th District Court.

RETAIL FRAUD: Police arrested an 18-year-old Dearborn man after he walked out of Town and Country Cyclery with a $390 bike fork Friday.

The store's manager observed the suspect leave the store with the bike and followed him outside and then held him in the store while he called police.

The man was held overnight and admitted into the Wayne County Prosecutor's Diversion program, a classroom alternative to incarceration. A preliminary exam is scheduled for July 15.

LARCENY FROM A VEHICLE: An 18-year-old man had $495 worth of speakers stolen from his Dodge Ram truck Thursday night. The man reported to police that he spotted a stereo in the grass across from his house as friends were dropping him off at his home. The $250 stereo turned out to be his. There were no signs of forced entry, since the car was unlocked. Po-to her. The woman then allegedly checked the area but found nothing.

BURGLARIES: Police checked out two cases of burglary on Silver Springs Drive last week

A 40-year-old resident told police last Monday that someone had taken a check, savings bonds and cash from his dresser drawer. No sign of forced entry was found, but the reporting officer said that the home's sliding glass door could be pulled open even when locked. The articles are valued at $2,400.

On Friday a 33-year-old man told police that unknown persons had stolen $1,330 worth of binoculars, bows and a firearm from his home. The reporting officer found scratches on one door, possibly indicating a pry tool had been used.

The case remains open.

ATTEMPTED B&E: A 20-year-old man reported that an unknown person(s) attempted to gain entry into his W. Main Street apartment by prying and pounding on the door and deadbolt lock Saturday morning.

The suspects damaged the lock but did not gain entry.

Earlier in the evening, a neighbor entered a disturbing the peace complaint at the same apartment, stating that loud noise was comming from the apartment and suggesting there might be marijuanna on the premises.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northwille City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH

It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

THE CHOICES ARE MANY

From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.

Get ready: Time for the parade!!

By YVONNE BEEBE Staff Writer

No.

Get ready to celebrate the Fourth of July this year with a calvalcade of clowns, cars, candy and flying saucers

Flying saucers? Well, maybe just Flying Aces, but the professional Frisbee-throwing team is bound to make this year's parade special with its first appearance at Northville's festivities

The disc-throwing team, which will perform a demonstration at 9 a.m. until the parade begins in the clock area on Main Street, is sure to be a crowd pleaser, said Parade Chairwoman Debbie McDonald.

The team has performed in more than 4,700 shows in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico and will now be able to add Northville to its long list. Another attraction of the parade will be this year's Grand Marshal, Larry Santos.

Most people have probably heard Santos without realizing it. Santos' deep, raspy voice has been heard throughout the years on commercial lingles like "You deserve a break today" for McDonalds, "America is turning 7-UP," and "Chevrolet----Building a better way."

Santos, a Northville resident for 23 years, was also a performer on the nationally syndicated children's show "Hot Fudge."

Santos said he attends the parade each year and feels honored to take part this year.

Parade-goers can hear his nation-ally acclaimed voice at 10 a.m. in the clock area when he kicks off the parade with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

McDonald said she received a good response from people wanting to participate in the parade. She has about 95 floats, marching bands, animal acts, politicians and antique car owners registered and she the calls are still coming in.

The parade is going to live up to its theme this year, "Clowns Galore in '94," with at least four professional clown acts marching in the parade and some amateurs as well.

"Some kids and teachers from Our Lady of Victory will be dressing up as clowns in red, white and blue," she said.

Kids can do more than just sit on the sidelines, they can participate and even win prizes for the best decorated bikes in the bike parade or show off their favorite pet in the pet parade.

An official will be available at the Northville Downs parking lot before the parade to direct children where to line up.

The parade route will be the same as in past years: beginning on Griswold Street, then turning west on Main Street, south on Rogers, east down Cady Street, south on Wing Street and end at Fairbrook.

The fun will not end with the parade because Mill Race Village will be open from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. with the 21st Michigan Volunteer Infantry reenacting the Civil and Revolutionary wars and the Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Early Bird Club will be serving hot dogs, potato chips and pop.

The Northville Township Police Officers Association will sell ice cream and beverages.

See pages 9 and 10 of today's paper for a complete preview of the parade and Fourth of July activities.

Republicans come out for U.S. House seat of profiles of candidates for Michigan's U.S. House of Representatives' 13th District seat. The district includes Northville Township and the Wayne County portion of the city of Northville.

Four Republicans and three Democrats have joined the race. Profiled here are Republican candidates Dennis Fassett and Cynthia Hudgins-Wilbanks.)

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Dennis Fassett points to several factors about himself when explaining why he's the best candidate for Michigan's 13th U.S. House District: a lifetime of hard and challenging work; decades of community involvement; a common-sense approach to the issues and the status of a political outsider, a plus to many nowadays. Fassett, 58, is on the Republican ticket for the 13th's Aug. 2 primary along with three other challengers. The winner of the intra-GOP contest will face the top vote-getter from the three Democratic contenders.

A Belleville resident, Fassett grew ip in Dearborn and has lived in the district for a total of 33 years. In announcing his candidacy, he proclaimed a healthy disdain for the status quo in Washington.

"Individual freedom and big government cannot co-exist," Fassett said. "Our federal government continues to waste taxpayer money; politicians continue to believe that the citizens of this district are undertaxed; and the political ruling class is more interested in getting re-elected than in dealing with the critical issues facing this district."

While he's never run for anything before, Fassett said that his work as a former newspaper editor and his longtime involvement in the political arena has put him "in touch with the district and its people.

"I will work in Congress to reject a philosophy that is damaging our families, destroying our schools, encouraging crime and dividing our citizens," Fassett said. "It's time to begin the job of making this district, and America, a better and safer place for everyone."

sinessman in the telecommunications industry. Since 1983 he has been president of Cable Management Associates Inc. In that capacity he is now assisting Northville Township in

Come on down for 4th of July breakfast

(Editor's note: This is one of a series negotiating its cable franchise agree ment with Omnicom Cablevision, his former employer.

Fassett spent several years in California, studying electronic engineering at the University of Southern Ca-lifornia, Pacific States University, Los Angeles City College and the Electronics Institute.

Fassett served in the U.S. Army as a military policeman from 1954-56, stationed in Germany. After leaving the service, he began working for Ford Motor Co., studying electronic engineering at universities in California. He moved to Westland in 1961.

He worked for several years as an electronic technician and as a public relations specialist for the Bendix Corporation. In 1976, he left Bendix to become the managing editor for Associated News, a chain of six weekly newspapers. He became regional manager for Omnicom in 1980. In 1981 Fassett left Omnicom, forming his own cable company, Multi-Vision. His partners bought out his interest in that firm in 1983 when he created his consulting firm, Cable Management Inc.

Added to all that, Fassett cites a long history of community involvement to show why he'd be the best candidate. He has been part of a number of private and municipal activities, everything from coaching youth hockey to serving on Westland's zoning board of appeals. Fassett is a member of a number of professional organizations and private groups including the National Rifle ssociation.

Several key issues face both the 13th District and the nation, Fassett indicated. He offered his views on them:

 Ending early release of offenders, especially for violent criminials, will slash crime rates, Fassett said. He favors converting closed military bases to prisons and using military and national guard personnel to secure them

 Welfare reform: "Well-meaning but misguided elected officials," he said, "have created a destructive system that now rewards nonproductive behavior and taxes constructive effort."

What was intended to be a safety net has become a way of life for far too many, Fassett said. He supports a "workfare" program which puts former welfare recipients to work at public works jobs in exchange for fair wages and health care benefits.

Taxes and jobs: "Many in Congress continue to believe that spending in Washington is not too high, it is just that our taxes are too low," Fassett said. "Delivering more money to Washington is like dumping water on a drowning person."

The waste sucks dollars from the private sector that could otherwise be used to create jobs, Fassett argued. On health care, Fassett said that universal coverage is "a dream" that America simply doesn't have the money for. He cited concerns that Congressional plans for health care reform will take money from Medicare to pay for universal coverage, something he vigorously opposes.

Fassett, a supporter of term limits, has said he will serve no more than three terms in Congress. His years in the telecommunications industry, he added, lets him understand how and why the coming information "superhighway" will be used to improve America's educational system and overall quality of life.

Cynthia Hudgins-Wilbanks

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Why elect Cynthia Hudgins-Wilbanks to be the 13th District's U.S. House Rep.?

Decades of experience in learning how the political system works-and how to make it work for people-is what the canidate herself points to.

One of four Republicans on the Aug. 2 primary ballot, Hudgins-Wilbanks, 43, hopes to be the top vote-getter among the GOP hopefuls. The winner will face the champion of the three-way Democratic primary race, the two squaring off at the polls on Nov. 8.

She's ready, willing and very able to be both the GOP candidate and the 13th's new representative, replacing 30-year Democratic powerhouse Bill Ford, Hudgins-Wilbanks said in announcing her candidacy in April.

Wayne and Washtenaw Countles deserve leadership in step in the concerns of area residents," she said. "We live in a rapidly changing world which demands that our elected representatives in Washington employ new ideas and seek innovative solutions. Yesterday's tired approaches to today's fast-paced problems simply no longer work. "I will bring a solid record of proven leadership; one which will build toward the future while recognizing the past," she added. I am committed to providing a new style of representation for our district which reflects the firmly-held beliefs, interests and hopes of the people of our Congressional district."

A resident of Ypsilanti Township, Hudgins-Wilbanks has been president of Michigan's Children since January 1993. Michigan's Children is a statwide non-profit organization that acts as an advocacy group for children. The candidate is on unpaid leave from the group during the campaign.

Her leadership of Michigan's Children is only the latest phase of a 20-year career of trying to help people through the political process. Hudgins-Wilbanks started out as a staff assistant to former Congressman Marvin Esch from 1973-1976.

In 1977, she joined the staff of former Congressman Carl Pursell, serving as his district director from 1979 to 1992.

Republican politics are no stranger to Hudgins-Wilbanks. She has served as vice-chair of the Washtenaw County Republican Executive Committee and was president of the Ann Arbor Republican Women's Club in 1989 and 1990. She was a GOP nominee for the University of Michigan Board of Regents in 1986.

"My professional experience was gained here in the communities which comprise the 13th District." she said. "My knowledge of the federal government comes from years of acting on behalf of constituents, not from years of manipulating the system from inside the Washington Beltway.

Health care reform, this year's hottest political topic, is a subject on which Hudgins-Wilbanks urges careful consideration.

"I don't support the commplete surrender of health care to the federal government," she said-which is how she described some of the Democratic plans now being considered in Congress.

Fine-tuning reforms, she indi-cated, is what's needed, such as ensuring portability of coverage and prohibiting denial of coverage due to pre-existing condition.

I know what issues are important to our district's voters," she con-tinued. "I know we need economic growth to provide quality jobs. I know we need a balanced budget. I know we want to feel safer on our streets and in our homes. I know we're concerned about the high level of taxes and I know we want better education for our children."

"I understand the consequences of uncontrolled government spending. I understand the havoc wreaked on families due to increasing violence," Hudgins-Wilbanks said. "I understand the need to prepare our children to be competitive and successful in a world marketplace and the need to strengthen families in our communities."

A 1969 graduate of Redford High School, the candidate received her bachelor of arts degree with distinction from the University of Michigan, earning a secondary-level teaching certificate as well in 1973.

Besides her years as a professional in the political arena, Hudgins-Wilbanks offers a long record of community involvement with various civic and area organizations. She's a member of the board of directors of the Glacier Hills Retirement Center in Ann Arbor and of the board of directors for Motor Meals of Ann Arbor.

The candidate's served as chair of the advisory council for the Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce and cochaired the government relations committee of the Michigan Technology Council. Hudgins-Wilbanks has been a member of the board of directors of the Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra and is a member of the local Rotary Club.

She's also a member of the volunteer council for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and a life member of the University of Michigan Alumni Association

Our Opinion

ALPS program still a valid educational tool

A group of parents recently has spoken out against the school district's Alternative Learning Program for Students, saying, in effect, that the program represents a kind of educational elitism.

The core of the argument against the effort seems to be the mistaken belief that the money that's used for ALPS should go into regular education to benefit the vast majority of students not enrolled in any alternative classes.

As many of the critics have since learned, the money to fund ALPS comes from a state grant that is earmarked specificially for that purpose. If the roughly $19,000 ALPS budget were not used on the district's gifted children, it could not be used at all. The dollars are not available to fund other program areas.

It isn't clear if this revelation will satisfy the anti-ALPS forces but we believe it should. When you remove the funding controversy from the equation, the only thing left to criticize is the program itself, and ability grouping is widely accepted as a viable and useful educational practice. Some observers feel that the presence of gifted children would raise the exclusivity.

achievement standards of the regular classroom, but studies have shown that forcing accelerated learners to slow their pace is unfair and generally counterproductive.

It is not unusual for parents of gifted and talented children to evidence an elitist air in their personal attitudes; parents of gifted students must repress feelings of superiority just as parents of special education students must struggle against nagging sentiments of doubt.

But the pretentiousness of the parents should not be used to stifle the inquisitiveness of the children. The ALPS program should stand or fall on its own merits, apart from parental claims of Musings and ramblings on various and sundry subjects.

Hey, what goes on in this place anyway? Here I thought I'd bring my 8-year-old niece into the quaint, old-fashioned city where I work and show her a nice time feeding the ducks; instead we ended up living out a scene from a Hitchcock movie.

Last Saturday, April, my sister's oldest daughter, and I came into town to relax in front of the old Ford Plant and enjoy tossing a few crumbs to the benign, well-behaved wildlife. We got a loaf of bread at the Liquor Shoppe then headed over to do a little communing with nature.

I'm not sure what went wrong, but when I flung a piece of bread into the midst of the herd, boy did the feathers ever start to fly. Dozens of waterfoul converged on the thing, pecking and pushing their way to the sliver of nourishment. One gull even came swooping down like a fighter bomber in a vain attempt to reach the prize first.

I haven't seen such unabashed selfishness since "Let's Make a Deal.

Then it happened-the whole lot of them turned en masse and began to advance on us. It was as if their leader had sounded the charge to begin woddling toward the enemy.

April's self preservation instincts took over.

"I don't have anything," she shouted, throwing her hands into the air.

Standing there dangling a sack of bread, I couldn't make the same claim. "Let's cross the street . . . now," I yelled. Luckily, there were no cars headed down Northville Road and we beat a fast retreat before the stampede came.

I see families out there all the time feeding the flock in a calm, civilized way, but I'll be danged if I know how they do it.

The next time I try something like that I think I'll wear waders.

• Our 15 minutes

Did you hear about all the positive publicity we got on channel 56? Our town was featured on the WIVS program 'Senior Focus" at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Kathy McCloud and Brad Heureux were interviewed and taiked all about the dinner/theater shows at Genitti's. Great Harvest Bread Company owner Lori Novelly also made an appearance, describing the unique way her store makes its products. New entrepreneur Elizabeth Kratt even got into the act, and was taped sitting atop her classic carriage.

Kathy told me last week that the program was coming, but she didn't know until Monday exactly when. By the time she found out the broadcast date, it was too late for us to mention it in the paper.

If you missed the program, though, not to worry: Kathy says channel 56 plans to rerun it. She promises to tip us off in plenty of time for us to put a note in the newspaper the next time it airs. Viva la Northville!

• Alumnus back from the big time

Former Northville Record reporter Bob Webb came into the office the other day to get caught up about the place he worked at almost 40 years ago.

Webb is now an editor at the hugely influential Washington Post and remembers with fondness the days when reporters were involved in every aspect of newpaper production, including block typesetting.

He showed us some black and whites from a photo album in his possession, and said he liked his job at the Record so much he even declined an offer to defect to the The Detroit Free Press once.

Considering where he ended up, the decision apparently didn't hold back his career.

Vote to rescind new appointment is hollow

The Northville Township Board of Trustees voted last week to rescind its June 9 decision to promote Bill Zhmendak to the position of fire chief. The rescision vote was strictly procedural, however, and appears to mean nothing substantive. Zhmendak's appointment as chief is permanent and remains in effect in spite of the move.

What happened is that board members voted to promote Zhmendak, then came to realize their vote on the matter was not necessary: the appointment was an executive decision that Supervisor Karen Baja was empowered to make on her own. Seeing that formal board approval was not needed, a majority of the trustees apparently decided to remove their names from the record on the Zhmendak appointment. The vote to rescind was 4-2, with Baja and Treasurer Rick Engelland voting against.

. both the promotion of Zhmendak and the earlier dismissal of former chief Ricke Rosselle.

Given this support, why bother voting to rescind? It appears, on the surface at least, that trustees were trying to distance themselves from the change in leadership in the fire department, a change that has met with resistence from a segment of the community.

We think it is fair to consider trustees

But even while taking their imprimatur off the appointment, trustees (with the exception of Barbara O'Brien) were quick to point out that they supported on record as supporting Baja's decisions to discharge Rosselle and hire Zhmendak, even though formal votes might not be a part of official board action. Whether you agree or disagree with the shake up in the upper ranks of the departmentand our assessment is that Zhmendak is qualified to serve as fire chief-the change clearly has majority support of the full board.

That being the case, why not let the vote stand as a unifying decision of

We may fret about the economy, but most of the world still thinks of America as the land of milk and honey-or at least of abundant consumer goods.

On June 16, I came back to work after spending 25 days in six countries, only one of them with a full selection of cheap gimerackery suitable as gifts for the folks back home. That was England. As for the others, Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Kirghizia (all three nations were once part of the Soviet Union); China's wild west, the Xingiang Province; and Pakistan, forget it. You just don't see stores full of "My friend went to Samarkand and all I got was this crummy T-shirt."

Except for Pakistan, where we saw a full-fledged shopping center in the capital. Islamabad, most stores in Central Asia are small and carry the same stuff that you see in the establishments next door and down the street. Never have I seen such a vast choice of hand-made hats, dress fabrics and daggers and not much else. Since no one I know makes their own clothes, covers their head or pulls knives on people, I was hard put to find gifts.

Shopping can be fatiguing in Asia and not just because you're trotting around until your feet ache. It's arriving at a fair price. If an item is worth, say US $10, the asking price may start at US $100. Then, you work your way down from Since I've returned from my there. I spent 45 minutes with a dealer in China negotiating summer vacation, a few people are over an antique Uigher (Moslem Chinese) hat: How much? pouting because I didn't bring Too Much. Not too much. Too Much.

The trick is reaching a happy medium. You don't want to magnets. Hey, I go to places where be cheated; you don't want to keep back an extra dollar or two from somebody who may need it far more than you ever will.

Merchants in Uzbekistan only accepted the U.S. dollar, Shopping is so easy here. Three not their own money, the sum. Inflation's so out of control there people feel the only way they can protect their savings is with our cash. One dollar bills are carefully scrutinized, to make sure they're not counterfeit.

Nobody, but nobody took traveller's checks.

I traveled with a group hailing from various Englishspeaking nations. In the former Soviet Union, tourists from Great Britain and Australia were greeted with calm politeness. Those of us who could say we were from America were bowled over by the exuberant enthusiasm. It's hard to believe we spent 40-odd years as partners in the dance of Mutual Assured Destruction.

What I really wanted to bring back to Michigan I saw at the Sunday Market in Kashgar, China. This is a place where you can test drive horses, donkeys and camels. I'd walk a mile to own a fine Bactrian or two-humped camel, if I just had a place to keep it. The going rate there is about $200; if the beast doesn't have floppy humps, it's well-nourished.

Instead, I have my Uigher hat. When I brought the treasure home, a miracle of embroidery on hand-spun linen gathered into a topknot, I modelled it for my 93-year-old grandfather.

Home Depot crushes land's beauty

- SUCRESSINCE & SOLARS AND A REAL PROPERTY IN TH

To the editor:

Last weekend while visiting my old hometown in Livonia, I passed the new Home Depot site on the intersection of Haggerty and Seven Mile Road presently under construction. This once magnificently wooded and rolling terrain has sav-agely been stripped to make way for the future 100,000 square foot quotidian warehouse flanked by a flat sea of asphalt parking.

It appears that no one realized the aesthetic and future value of this past personalized site in its indigenous state. Is this yet one more disturbing example of how history repeats itself resulting in blundering misfortunes, i.e. the deforestation of Brazil's rain forests?

In many instances our society has once more closed their ears to the modern day troubadours claiming that we as humans should attempt to function in integrity and harmony with our mother earth instead of robbing the unprotected for immediate gratification, profiteering and convenience.

I am left puzzled as to why our elected officials succumb to dispassionate developers, masquerading in sheeps clothing, waving carrots of increased tax revenue and promises that only appeal on paper. Furthermore, just because this intrusive development lies out of view of Northville's downtown (and is located in a commercial corridor) does not rationalize this illsuited blitz krieg. Behold the site if you differ in opinion.

I also noticed at the intersection an existing "Welcome to Northville" sign containing a "Tree USA" plaque. Ironically a line of devouring earth graders and logging trucks were bustling about directly behind this very sign. I am curious to see how a town with "Tree USA" status plans to mask over the tons of displaced soil, trees and wildlife and a cursed eyesore for years to come.

In parting I believe that architecture and its surrounding land stewardship is representative of society itself. I also contend that our society has the vanguard to discern when and when not to develop in a conscientious manner. This however requires severe discipline and courage and in many cases sadly remains dormant. Pernicious development such as the Home Depot site now can only rest as a lesson for future generations. Joseph Strach

Think creatively in busing kids

To the editor:

I find it interesting that busing services have not been seriously considered for reinstatement to levels of a few years ago. This is especially interesting since we voted ves on the latest millage request and numerous new expenditures are being approved on a goingforward basis.

For example, the new budgeting for the shorter day on Wednesday at the high school where they will be busing the students to school at various times.

The school district listens to special interest groups and reacts to their requests and needs. Perhaps the safety of our children should be considered a need. Does it seem right that children are expected to cross major cross streets such as Six Mile Road, and then compete with cars, trucks, motorcycles, and bicycles on their walk in the street to their school?

In addition, does it make sense that buses are not filled to capacity? It doesn't seem we are utilizing our buses most efficiently, i.e., how often do we see the buses lined up in the morning at the local schools and the drivers drinking coffee or reading the paper?

Maybe we can be creative with new and innovative ideas to transport our children to school and at the same time being cost efficient. Possibly a task force should be formed to come up with a solution before the start of the 1994-95 school year.

Jim and Denise Davis Shortened school day is ill-timed

To the editor:

Good Idea. Bad Practice. Lousy Timing.

I've got to believe the dedicated educators of Northville are committed to provide the best educational experience for the students of the Northville community. To meet their obligation they need in our 21st century. time to plan curriculum, develop The educators are educational plans for students, examine teaching strategies, etc. Certainly staff development and continued dialogue and training are necessary. Good idea.

When to do this planning was discussed and the decision was made to do it during what was traditionally scheduled as the school day for students. This, of course, fell within the accords of the collective bargaining agreement. To request that staff training be done before or after school or during the summer months would appear to be an infringement of that agreement. Who loses instructional time?

Research data and educational trends point out that increased quality instructional time be implemented to gain more desired results. Despite this information the administration is still willing to forego some instructional time to better prepare staff and the curriculum to meet the needs of Northville students. Many in the community are not happy as they see this as a poor precedent to set. Bad practice.

Another variable in the picture is the initiative at the state level to reform education in Michigan. The legislature has passed, or is attempting to pass, legislation to subject teachers to punitive action if they strike and to provide cost containment measures in the school districts (predominantly administrative).

Other initiatives are apparent in the areas of higher academic standard, proficiency exams, extended school years, public school academies. innovative curriculum programs, school based management and staff development. Nowhere is it stated that reducing instructional time is an objective of the Legislature. On the contrary, additional instructional time is written in the state aid bill to increase annually to the year 2000. Lousy timing?

The demands on our instructional and administrative staff continue to increase as they are expected to take in all students with all their skills, talents, problems, disabilities, lifestyles, and attitudes. Their mission is to prepare all of them to be successful citizens

The educators are to be congratulated and applauded for taking action to meet their mission; however, I suggest they examine the vehicle they selected. Although an excellent idea, its implementation is bad practice and poorly timed. James Newman

Residents should repair sidewalks

To the editor:

In response to Jean Findley Bryant's recent letter, allow me to clarify the sidewalk situation in the historic district.

Let me agree with Ms. Bryant that many of the sidewalks in Northville are badly in need of repair. The poor condition of the sidewalks effects everyone, especially handicapped people, people pushing strollers, and children. But the city is not responsible to pay for all these fixes.

pay for all these fixes. The city was not "playing favor," rites" with the historic district in 1989 when we were required to fix our sidewalks. The only costs to the city on these repairs was "fronting" us the money to do it, and adding the cost to our tax bill over five years. The city also paid to repair the sidewalk squares that were damaged due to the trees on city easement property.

You can call that favoritism if you like, I call it $1,700 we had to pay. And in the area with the most foot traffic, the central business district, there were areas of East Dunlap and North Central over which I literally could not push a stroller.

When we repaired our sidewalks in 1989, we had lived in the house a total of five years of its then 118 year life. We still were required to replace all $1,700 damage.

If the city wanted to do everyone a big favor, they would require that the sidewalks are inspected every 10 years and require the home owner to replace those damaged squares. This happens in other cities, with no cost at all to the city government, Mills Child Southers . Denise, Nash

a lot of old family

Two in particular struck me, probably because we are now entering the cherry season, one of the great glories of summer in Michigan.

One is a picture of my great grandmother, Celestia Power, sitting on the porch of the old family farm in Elk Rapids, a tiny town near Traverse City. I suppose the picture was taken around the turn of the century. She is wearing the full-busted, long cotton dress fashionable at the time. She's sitting in a rocking chair on an old-fashioned porch with Old Joe, the family English setter, sleeping on the grass below.

The other is a picture of great-grandfather Eugene Power, in a white shirt and tie, dark suit and Panama hat, standing in the middle of his cherry orchard. He's surveying the newlyplanted cherry trees, with a farmhand holding a pruning knife standing behind him.

Family legend has it that great-grandfather Power was one of the first farmers to plant Montmorency cherries (called "sours" to distinguish them from the dark red eating cherries. "sweets") in northern Michigan. For a time, they became the dominant crop in the region, thriving on the sandy, well-drained soil and the moderating influence of the lake. Even today, most land that hasn't been raped by developers is in cherry orchards.

My father recalled that his first job was out on the family farm, picking cherries for 10 cents a lug. He thinks his father, Glenn, who started out as a surveyor, helped great-grandfather Eugene lay out the cherry trees in long, straight hard to regain! photographs. But originality (in practice, often hard to distinguish from mere eccentricity) always ran deep in the Power family. My great-great-great-grandfather, Nathan Power, came to Michigan in 1824 from Farmington, New York. I suspect his neighbors thought him a bit strange when he went out west to found what became Farmington, Mich.

And his son, Gideon Power, was no doubt regarded as a bit odd when he moved from Farmington way up north to Elk Rapids.

But that was their way-and the way of countless pioneer families like them. They made our state and our nation what they are, and it gives me a feeling of family continuity to think of them in the aftermath of my father's death.

And, just in time for the sour cherry season, here's our family recipe for Montmorency cherry pie:

MONTMORENCY CHERRY PIE For the crust:

11/2 cups all-purpose flour, plus additional for rolling

Quarter-teaspoon baking powder Half-teaspoon salt One-third cup lard 3 tablespoons unsalted butter 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening 2 tablespoons ice water l teaspoon white vinegar $2 \, \text{eggs}$

For the filling:

4 cups pitted red sour cherries 1 cup granulated sugar

Preparing the crust:

Combine the flour, baking powder and salt in a mixing bowl. Add the lard, butter and shortening and mix with your fingers or a pastry cutter until mixture forms coarse crumbs. Whisk together the ice water, vinegar and one of the eggs. Add to the flour mixture and mix with a fork just until combined; do not overwork the dough. Refrigerate for 30 minutes.

Preparing the filling:

In a large bowl combine the cherries, sugars, tapioca, almond extract, mace and optional kirsch, if desired. Allow to stand for 15 minutes. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees.

Roll out two-thirds of the dough on a lightly floured surface. Line a 9-inch pie plate with the dough and trim the edges. Place the filling in the pie shell and dot with the butter. Roll the remaining dough and make into a lattice top. Whisk the remaining egg with 2 teaspoons of water and brush the egg wash onto the top. Bake for 10 minutes, then lower the temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking for 30 or 40 minutes longer, or until the juices are bubbling up in the center of the pie. Cool briefly and eat warm.

My father preferred vanilla ice cream with his pie. I'm a purist. Either way, it's a delicious way to celebrate Michigan cherries and the family that grew them.

Busing to receive more money, items prioritized

By YVONNE BEEBE Staff Writer

School Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski told parents what they've been waiting to hear at the Northville Board of Education's finance subcommittee meeting June 22.

Rezmierski has decided to devote $75,000 of the 1993-94 school year's carryover revenue to address the busing issue.

The announcement came after hoards of parents addressed the board and committees at various meetings with concerns that the present busing system is unsafe for children.

The district's busing schedule was reduced from a half-mile to 1.5 miles after the milage defeat in 1992.

Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services David Bolitho said he will be looking at various ways during the summer to increase busing for kids.

Bolitho said reducing the bus runs to 1 mile would be too expensive for the entire district but he will examine the possibility of 1 mile bus runs for elementary students.

Having the middle school and high school begin classes at the same time so buses would make two runs a day instead of three is also another option to look into, Bolitho said.

With the opening of the new elementary school Thorton Creek, many parents who live along Nine Mile Road are concerned with children walking down the busy road where there are no sidewalks.

Part of a sidewalk has been laid down west of Taft Road on Nine Mile, however a portion of the walkway is missing because Consumer's Power

Co. owns a portion of the land. Bo- district's priority list. litho said the company seems receptive to building a sidewalk in the missing portion.

There will also be an access point between the Royal Crown subdivision and Thorton Creek to be finished by the fall, he said.

Bolitho said he has spoken with Novi officials about signs identifying the school area, crossing gards and cross walks in the area and the possibility of erecting a traffic light at the intersection of Taft and Nine Mile roads.

Joe DiDia, a parent who lives in Dunbarton Pines, a subdivision off Nine Mile Road, said he appreciates the board's efforts, however he would like to see more.

The $75,000 that Dr. Rezmierski has set aside, I'd like to see a little bit more." he said. "When you're talking about elementary students walking in the dead of winter, half a mile is a long way, one mile is outrageous and 1.4 miles-you can't do it."

Parent Barb Meiklejohn, who lives off of Six Mile Road, said she would like to the 1.5-mile bus schedule back into the budget.

Trustee Joan Wadsworth, who has a second- and fourth-grader who attend Amerman, said there is also another side to the issue-walking is good for kids.

"Walking to school is not bad for these kids," she said. "I appreciate the concern that you folks are bring-. ing, but there is another perspective on it too. The other night I had a phone call from a parent who said transportation is not a high priority lors. After two years, Rezmierski with me.' "

zeroed in on some key issues on the maintained.

The priority list, which has gained mounting attention from parents in recent weeks, is a wish list compiled from each of Northville's shools and administrators on positions, programs technology upgrades and maintenence they would like to see in next year's budget.

The Northville Board of Education adopted its $28 million budget June 27 and will vote on priority items at its July 11 meeting.

Rezmierski presented the 1994-95 priority list at a public hearing for parents June 13. Unfortunately, the list totals $1.2 million but only $392,000 is available so not everyone will get what they want.

Rezmierski outlined the priority items he believes should take precedence over others.

"Most of the recomendations I am making are concerned with direct service to kids, that is our first priority," he said.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS:

• A full-time elementary social worker/counselor at $45,500 ($35,000 for salary and $10,500 for benefits). The counselor would spend one day at each of the district's five elementary schools in what would be a two-year study program. Rezmierski said the position is needed to deal with the social, emotional and academic needs of students and would assist the building staff in providing parenting skills.

This position could also take up the back log of children who may have problems from other counsewants to assess the postion to make Also at the meeting, Rezmierski sure it is effective and if it should be

• He did not recommend a $22,500 request for upgrading office equiptment and a $12,000 request for an upgrade in copying equiptment MIDDLE SCHOOLS:

 Rezmierski recommended $ 78,000 ($60,000 for salary and $18,000 in benefits)for hiring a fulltime assistant principal. Presently, Assistant Principal Susan Meyers flip-flops between Cooke and Meads Mill middle schools. Rezmierski supported the position because it will enhance student supervision and safety and increase communication between parents and staff. Also new state and district mandates have added responsibilities to the position-too much a load for one person

• A $45,500 request ($35,000 for salary and $10,500 in benefits) for an additional full-time counselor, was also recommended by Rezmierski. The current counselor-to-student ratio is 450 and 550 to one respectively, and maybe even higher, he said. This high ratio, Rezmierski said, is too great a burden on the middle schools' counselors and they may not be able to deal with the social and emotional teachers, one at each school, at

• Rezmierski did not recommend $28,600 ($22,000 in salary and $6,600 in benefits) for a full-time

full-time media assistants. HIGH SCHOOL:

 Rezmierski recommended the request for $45,500 ($35,000 for salary and $10,500 for benefits) for a fulltime learning consultant.

The position would help at-risk students who are not identified as special education students, to help young students to cope with the transition between middle school and high school and to provide a link between administrators, teachers, counselors, parents and students.

There are about 100 students that for a number of reasons fall through the cracks," said Principal Thomas Johnson. "We are afraid we are going to lose these kids and we need someone to pick them up." Johnson said these kids often have poor attendance, poor grades and have more potential to be the dropouts

This position would also work with teachers and staff members. • Rez mierski did not recommend requests for one full-time secretary at $18,200 clerk typist and $39,000 ($30,000 in $14,000 in salary and $4,200 in salary and $9,000 in benefits) for two benefits), an increase in vocal and instrumental budgets because it is already covered under other channels, a $7,800 request on improving the suspension program, $19,500, ($15,000 in salary and $4,500 in benefits) or $45,500 ($35,000 in salary and $10,500 in benefits) for a fifth counselor. ADMINISTRATIVE PRIORITIES:

 A recommendation was made for increasing the language arts resource teacher position at the elementary level from half- to fulltime ($22,750), to hiring a gifted/ language arts teacher assistant ($9,750) to improve the level of service to students, staff and parents and to increase the district's capitol outlay by $12,000.

• Some of the priorities not supported include $42,662 to replace doors and frames at Silver Springs and Winchester elementary schools and at the high school, $18,000 to paint the pedestrian bridge at Moraine elementary school and $17,000 to replace PA systems and clocks in all schools.

Trustees give conditional okay flow sale

"It's going to have to be proven to me conclusively that we have enough over-capacity to cover our own ccntingencies," Trustee Russ Fogg cautioned. "I'm skeptical." Salem Township made its request for the capacity earlier this month. It wants to build a sewer system for the hamlet of Salem-the original area of the township-to eliminate a decades-old sewage disposal problem there.

Salem's looking to hook the sewer into Northville's section of the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) system. It wants to buy 50,000 gallons a day of flow capacity-enough for about 250 homes.

trustees raised two basic concerns about the request: capacity and cost. Can the township afford to spare any flow capacity, given expected-and possibly some unexpected-needs as it grows over the next 20 years? If it can, would Salem Township pay the price the trustees want?

At that meeting, it seemed that al-At a June 16 study session, the most every member of the board either doubted the township could spare the capacity or named a price for the sale that was completely out of Salem's ballpark.

Debate over how much excess capacity the township has-if it has any at all-raised the question of the numbers supplied by the township's regular contracted engineering firm, Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May of Ann Arbor. Members of the board said they wanted to see if Ayres-Lewis overbilled the township in an earlier study of the WTUA system.

The second vote called on Director of Public Utilities Bill Anderson to seek bids from engineering firms to find out if the township does have enough excess capacity to meet Salem's request. The trustees specified that the selected firm be one with no connections to either the township or its WTUA partners, Plymouth and Canton Townships.

The other three conditions on the sale are: having the township's attorney ensure that it wouldn't violate any township contractual agreements; mutual Salem/Northville agreement on a to-be-negotiated compensation structure; and approval from both WTUA and the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority (YCUA).

Will township take the county to war on links?

township has the final say about the connections and encouraged officials to fight the county over the issue.

The Woods plan calls for Edenderry Drive---which now begins at Seven Mile and dead-ends at the southern edge of Edenderry Hills---to be extended to Six Mile. To the north, Pinebrook Road---which also deadends on the southern edge of Edenderry Hills---is to be connected to the Woods street system.

To the west, the Crestwood Hills sub's Rustic Hills Drive will be linked with Woods. Rustic Hills intersects Red Oak Drive in Crestwood, which in turn intersects Beck Road. The fifth and final connection for Woods is a stub street to be built on the eastern edge of its property. The land to its east is vacant now but is being considered as a future sub site.

The traffic study concluded that those connections would not substantially change traffic flow through the Edenderry Hills area, something with which township consultants agreed.

Residents of the area, however, did not, led by spokesperson Bob Grant. He criticized the study's methods and conclusions, saying the report left out many relevant factors. He cited minutes of meetings and other documents to prove that township officials of the 1960s—the time when Edenderry and other nearby roads were built—didn't intend for the proposed connections to be made proposed connections to be made. Doing so now, Grant added, would have a huge impact on the natural features of the Woods parcel, particularly regarding the extension of Edenderry.

The attorney also took aim at a legal opinion submitted by the township's attorney which said that the county has the final say over the connections. Grant produced evidence from the township's own ordinance, state law, the state constitution and state Supreme Court decisions which said that the township did.

Area residents don't have a problem with the Woods plan, Grant said, other than the connections to their streets and the problems they would bring.

"We want a win-win situation," Grant said. "We want to let Mr. Guidobono develop his land and we want to preserve the character of our neighborhood."

State Representative Jerry Vorva appeared in support of the residents. A licensed realtor and a former police officer, Vorva said that the connections would lower home values on Edenderry Drive, create more traffic hazards and open up the area to crime.

"It is patently unfair to do this to people," he said to loud applause. The debate was enough to sway Commission Chairman Dick Allen, who said that it changed his mind about the plan. He voted against recommending that the board accept the plan, joined by Commissioner Shirley Klokkenga.

"There's nothing here that justifies opening Pinebrook or Edenderry," he said. "I say we drop those and see how far this thing will roll. Who's going to win? The county or the township?"

Whether to start a fight with the county at all should be the board's decision, those supporting the recommendation said. The commission's role, Commissioner Mark Abbo said, is to see if the plan fits the technical requirements of township ordinance and the recommendations of the consultants.

Policy, he continued, is the board's preserve. Let it decide if it wants to take the county to war, Abbo said. He was joined in his approval vote by Commissioner Don Mueller and Vice-Chairman John Amos.

School budget gets trustees' approval

At the board's June 22 financial subcommittee meeting, Rezmierski told parents and committee members that $400,000 of the 1993-94 revenue would go toward the fund equity, raising the district's balance to 3.8 percent of the budget. The remaining $75,000 would go to address transportation issues.

Rezmierski said keeping a hefty fund equity balance makes sound business sense, especially since the district will be sitting on pins and needles the next couple of years with uncertain state funding.

"I am very concerned with the future of the district's funding," he said. "If the state revenue picture turns stale, we will have to rely on our own internal sources for funding. "It would be easy to whittle away those funds, but that would be an unwise decision," he said.

There are about 14 members in the friendship club who visit hospitals, senior citizen homes and schools to educate people on dog safety. The dogs entertain by performing tricks, such as jumping through hoops and a country line dance, as well as responding to routine obedience commands. It took Mary Hufstedler five months before she could enter a hospital with her dog. Hufstedler, of Garden City, is one of 14 members of K-9 Klick, a "friendship club" whose members, along with their canine companions, visit children in the hospitals and senior citizens in homes.

"Sometimes it can get pretty emotional for us," Hufstedler said. "Everybody usually breaks down when we leave," said Bob "Fong" Wilfong. "It's hard to do."

But it's also rewarding to watch a child who hasn't moved in months to show reaction when visited by a dog, Wilfong said.

"Or you'll visit a senior citizen's home and some people are withdrawn," he said. "They'll see an animal and actually come out of their shell. It's really amazing the power an animal has."

Pam Koons of Novi said everybody has heard about the wonders of pet therapy, but can't appreciate it until experiencing it for themselves.

"It's a great feeling," she said, K-9 Klick members have another important aspect to their agenda, however, other than cheering up the sick and elderly. Their goal is to teach responsible dog ownership and safety.

Koons said the club put on its most important and impressive show at last Sunday's Balloonfest in Howell. Two members demonstrated to the audience the right and wrong ways of approaching a dog.

For example, never approach a the sense of dominance, Koons said.

Hufstedler brought Houston and Dottie, her and her husband Ron's two dalmations, to last week's show. They were to jump through hoops as well as perform in the line dance.

"We're all amateurs, but we try," she said about the dancing. Each of the dogs know from 150 to 350 different commands-voice

All of the shows are put on free of charge. Any costs associated wit the show, such as uniforms and equipment for tricks, is paid solely by club members. Michelle Koons, a 17-year-old Novi High School student, works with her family's three white shepherds. She shows confirmation as well as participates in her mother's K-9 Klick shows.

"It's a lot of time and a lot of work, but the rewards are great," Michelle said. "You can take (the dogs) any place and not worry about them getting out of hand."

Pam Koons said club members are a dedicated lot. Most of them work during the day, leaving little time for themselves when a show being performed "You've got to find it rewarding

Association's president loves her neighborhood

If you live in Novi, you know you live in the best city in the state, and if you live in Village Oaks, you know you live in the best subdivision in the city.

It's a factual matter, according to Nancy Polcyn, who has been president of Village Oaks Commons Areas Association for three years and treasurer and activities chairperson before that.

"We have 350 homes," she said, making it the largest subdivision in Novi. The residents are of all ages from small kids to retirees and of various professions, too.

children's parties (under age 12 and also teen agers), Fourth of July parade, Easter parade, Christmas and

New Year's Eve parties. "There's always some place to go, something to do," Polcyn said, "and if there isn't one, you can suggest it."

"We have monthly meetings," she continued, of the two governing bodies: "the executive council of which I'm president and the board of directors which determines how our money is invested."

Money? There's a $130 annual membership fee per household and that covers everything except things like swimming lessons and private parties at the club house.

Yes, they rent the place out for outsiders. "The rental," Polcyn said, "enables us to do all of this."

You need a baby-sitter? No prob-We have two lakes we maintain, lem. You put in so many hours of baby-sitting for a member and you get that many back for yourself.

It takes doing, Nancy Polcyn said, but look what you get! "A lot of fun There are activities such as: and a friendly place where people get to know each other."

And children should be careful not to run up to a dog, grabbing to hug it, Wilfong added.

K-9 Klick's shows are also entertaining, as some members participate in a country line dance with their dogs-complete with cowboy hats. Another part of the program, "tips or tricks," educates audience nyembers as club members offer dog safety "tips" or the dog entertains by performing "tricks."

Wilfong's two miniature schnauzers, Gus and Sadie, were to peform several tricks at last

Each year, the group also participates in Howell's Festival of Lights Christmas event, dressing the dogs up in Christmas lights.

The group would like to reach more children's groups. Anyone interested in booking a show should call Koons at 349-2685.

AAUW camp gets positive feedback

The American Association of Uni- lecting specimens for use under the versity Women, Northville-Novi branch, met May 23 to evaluate the organization's major project of the year-the "Excited About Science" hands-on science camp for girls.

Despite the cold and rainy weather on May 7, close to 100 fifth and sixth grade girls showed up for the science camp organized by the Northville-Novi and Livonia branches of the AAUW.

The May 21 session for seventh and eighth graders featured handson activities at the living science laboratory, including: the study of plant and animal communities in the pond, meadow and forest habitat; the study of plants as food factories; col-microscope; and finding creative ways of exploring the environment. The camp was also approved by the Girl Scouts for a badge. The report on how girls felt about the camp was very positive-some 94 percent of the girls reported enjoying the hands-on activities in spite of the rain. Fully, 82 percent thought the program was beneficial.

Approximately 59 Kalamazoo College students participated in the school's foreign study program, an integral part of the educational experience at the college. Kalamazoo College has the highest participation in foreign study of any college in the nation.

Approximately 85 percent of all Kalamazoo College students participate in the foreign study program, designed to meet a wide range of needs, interests, and levels of language proficiency.

Students live with host families in the countries of France, Germany, Spain and Mexico. Participants typically spend six months as juniors or three months as sophomores, becoming acquainted with different' cultures and people while studying at selected colleges and universities. Students receive full academic credit for the successful completion of work overseas.

Thanks to a special endowment of the S.R. Light Trust Fund, the foreign study program is extensively subsidized by the college, making this opportunity financially feasible for virtually all students.

'Much Ado' merits much ado

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING By Tim Anderson Novi

If you are willing to be intellectu-ally involved in a romantic come-dy, this gem is for you. Adapting Shakespeare to film has had dismal results in the past ("Hamlet" with Mel Gibson comes to mind). What Kenneth Branagh has done with his adaptation of "Much Ado About Nothing" is magnify the persona above the prose. Because of the vivacity of the actors, especially Branagh and Emma Thompson, I found myself on the edge of my seat, ready to solve the puzzle of the next uttered phrase

The one disappointment in this film was the part of the dim-witted constable played by Michael Keaton. His part borrowed too much from the Monty Python movies and his Beetlejuice character to be believable, and much of what he said was unintelligible. Thankfully, it was such a minor part that it was just a nuisance in an otherwise exemplary film.

This movie is not for the kids, but if you're in the mood for a stimulating frolic through Shakespeare's world, you can't go wrong renting "Much Ado About Nothing.

DOMINIC AND EUGENE By Helaine Binstock

Eugene's efforts to establish a career and form relationships.

A promising opportunity is offered Eugene elsewhere. He knows if he accepts the proposal, Dominic will be sad for a period. Yet, Dominic enjoys his job here. He makes enough money to support himself and, most important, Dominic has a friend. So, Eugene must face a decision involving both their lives.

A bizarre ingredient - while Eugene has nurtured his impaired brother all these years, Dominic's wages have put Eugene through college. Like a parent, he's tended to Dominic's emotional, citen physical, needs and considered the arrangement a fair exchange. No so, according to Dominic's friend, Larry Surprises surface in this 1988 enjoyable release. Liotta and Hulce migrating brother who happens to pop up right when Crystal is having his 40th birthday after he has moved out of the city and opened a small radio station.

The duo discover that the map was drawn by Curly's father when he robbed $20 million from a train, and once again an adventure in the wild west sprouts in the darkness of mid-life crisis. Lovitz comes along on the journey that was supposed to be a trip to Vegas.

Not many famous one-liners from Palance, but in some ways it was good to see him back. It just wasn't the same though. The movie had spurts of chuckles, plenty of danger and a little piece of heart, but was not as genuine as the original.

"City Slickers II" gets a generous three stars (based on a five-star scale with five being the best). Lots of fun to watch, but lacks the qualities that the original introduced to the audience.

DAZED AND CONFUSED By David Perrotta Northville

"Dazed and Confused." That about says it all. This is the perfect out for the summer, party movie.

As a prelude to the opening credits, there's this message: You're about to see contains references to drugs, fun, loud music, parties, youth & sex." There's a party in the works on the last day of school as a group of '77 high school juniors patiently await their ring of freedom. For some, this movie may be a total bore, while others will just sit back, take a 'toke off a joint and laugh because that's exactly what they're doing. To sum it up, here's a list of priorities according to the menagerie of kids in the movie. Number one priority is to smoke pot anywhere, anytime and with anyone. Second includes partying (mainly drinking) anywhere, anytime and again with anyone. Third is to beat the butts of incoming freshmen over the summer. And lastly, before there were smashing pumpkins, smashing mailboxes was a favorite pastime.

This movie couldn't have been released at a better time. It's summer, and kids want to party. This isn't only for kids, but you twentyand thirtysomethings can also appreciate the humor and reminisce. So why not get a few laughs and check out "Dazed and Confused," now on video.

THE FLINTSTONES By Heather Wadowski Northville

When "The Flintstones" has first advertised, I thought the only people who would enjoy it would be four year olds. But the fact that John Goodman ("Roseanne") and Stephen "Spielrock" created it got me to the movie theater on opening day.

And boy am I glad!

"The Flintstones" was definitely not aimed for four year olds. In fact, the only people who were laughing in the movie theater were teenagers and adults. The humor in this movie anyone under six will not understand. It's just too advanced. In fact, most of it appears in the end as the credits go up.

All in all, "The Flintstones" was pretty good. I recommend it to anyone who wants a good laugh. As for Stephen "Spielrock," he will definitely receive a pretty penny with "The Flintstones." And don't be surprised when it puts up a lot of Oscars next year.

Rick Moranis, Rosie O'Donnell, Elizabeth Perkins, Richard Moll, Jonathon Winters and Elizabeth Taylor also star in "The Flintstones," along with a special appearance by the BC-52s.

What benefits do children receive by attending vacation Bible school? Just ask Judy VanTuyl, one of the rganizers of the week-long event at

First Baptist Church of Northville. You mean besides coming together and learning about Jesus, learning Bible verses and having a good time?" she asked. "Making new friends, but keeping old ones.

VanTuyl, along with Shirley Backman and Murilla Eerryman, started planning for the church's vacation school in January. The last day of classes was held last Friday.

Each day, the children would participate in a recreational activity, do craft projects, hear Bible stories and sing. All activities were associated with the school's theme, "Fruit of the Spirit-Son Country Farm."

VanTuyl said love, joy, peace, pati-ence and kindness-fruits of the Spirit-were emphasized. Teachers and volunteers also reinforced the "Son Country Farm" theme by donning staw hats, bib overalls and fake freckles.

During the week, students had a chance to barter for items in the "Old Country Store" by bringing chicks and a pail. For each memory verse the student learned or visitor he brought in, as well as other incentives, the student would receive a chick to put toward a certain item in the store.

The students also had the opportunity to learn about another country as they heard about First Baptist's two missionaries-Dave and Lynn West-on a two-year stay in China.

Ashleigh Walker takes a gander in the country store during Vacation Bible School at Northville First Baptist Church, Students earned bartering power by memorizing Bible verses.

Ride 'em cowboys and cowgirls. Three-year-old children enrolled in Northville First Baptist Church's Vacation Bible School made stick horses as part of a craft project last week.

Bible school will go toward purchasing Bibles for the missionaries.

Novi United Methodist Church is offering a new slant to this year's vacation Bible school. Classes will be held in the evening and will be geared toward including the entire family.

The evening will begin with a meal before the children break into their classes

Besides providing education for children, vacation Bible schools often mean a return to church for young families, according to the Rev. David Grundmeier, pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

"À lot of times, parents use vacation Bible school as the first time for the kids to get really into Bible study," he said. "Oftentimes, it's new parents' first contact with the church since they were teen-agers. It leads into a family ministry to families who haven't got back into the church. Oftentimes, the child is the catalyst to doing that."

Burroughs Farm?

If you are a native of the area, then chances are you have some special memories of days spent at Burroughs Farm Brighton, Michigan. From 1928 through 1981 it was the place to be for summertime fun with cottages, campsites, golf courses, softball fields, swimming and a dance hall enjoyed by thousands of local residents. Burroughs Corporation developed this "playground" or recreational center for use by all employees and invited guests. For 53 years, Burroughs Farm created the kind of memories that still linger today.

Burroughs Farm Today

What happened is something spectacular as golf enthusiasts in the area have already discovered. Oak Pointe Country Club quietly debuted as a private country club in 1992 with new ownership and a new vision.

Club Corporation of America (CCA), the world's largest owner of private clubs, purchased the golf courses and started developing a private country club. Other clubs in the CCA roster include Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, Pinehurst Resort in North Carolina and Mission Hills in California. French trips a must Caroline Dunphy has painted in the at Gallery 12 in Plymouth. gardens of the French impressionist Claude Monet.

One year she was "sick as a dog," after she and her daughter caught a bug on the airplane while on their way to the Giverny gardens.

But neither the rain nor the flu has kept the Northville artist from spending a day sketching in her favorite spot.

"That garden is like no garden in the entire world," she said. "To go sit there and paint, I almost felt like I was going to meet him (Monet) someway.

Dunphy and her husband just returned a few weeks ago after vacationing in Provence, France. Of course, she made a stop at Monet's gardens to paint for a day.

She will combine paintings based on last summer's trip with her recent one as she prepares for an art show in September.

"Everytime I start a painting, it's almost like I'm going there again," the artist said. "There's one flower bed just to the right . . . it's all mauves, pinks and purples no matter what time of the year. It's my favorite, favorite spot.

"In the spring, the Irises are out. That's my favorite flower to paint, so I was in my glory."

To help keep the images of the garden alive in her mind when she gets back home, Dunphy takes photographs and uses a sketchbook.

"I keep a sketchbook going a lot of the time," she said. "I do do watercolors as much as I can. I have a very photographic memory. When I take a picture I know where it will be in the painting . . . I sorta sketch with my camera. al formall and () On her latest trip? Dunphy used

Street building which houses her studio.

She first started with a studio in It has rained four of the eight times her home before exhibiting her work

When Eve's Art Form, a venture operated by three women located over the Marquis Theatre, opened soon thereafter, Dunphy was asked to teach a pen and ink class.

"From that, I rented my own studio over the Marquis," she said. But it wasn't long before she moved to a three-room studio near Les Bowden's Insurance Agency. "I realized people weren't going to walk up a flight of stairs to see an ar-tist," she said. "Nor were they going to walk down a dark hall." Dunphy scouted for another location. She asked the woman who owned an herb and basket store, located next to where Dunphy is today, if she ever thought about moving, to let Dunphy know so she could rent the space

"She told me she was going out of business and 'if the woman (looking at renting the space) today doesn't take it, it's yours,' " Dunphy said.

The deal fail through and Dunphy got the space. She worked there for two years before down-sizing her studio to its current location. She's been there for about 16 years.

Besides her watercolors, Dunphy is well known for her pen and ink sketches of Northville scenes. One of her biggest sellers is a card depicting the Main Street clock.

Locals also commission Dunphy for house portraits.

On average, Dunphy spends ab-out three hours a day painting. "It's hard to judge," she said. "Some days I'll paint for about 10 hours and forget about meals. Then on the weekends, I may not (paint). I work very well under deadlines." Not all of her work takes place at her studio.

ist Claude Monet's gardens. A September showing is planned to present her latest works from the trip.

For the first 10 years Dunphy painted, she worked exclusively in oils. About half of her jobs were portraits of people. When she needed to do some smaller paintings to help make expenses, she decided to try watercolors.

"I thought, 'Oh my gosh, this is so much fun, why haven't I been doing this before?" " she said.

An allergic reaction to the oils, leaving Dunphy with contact dermatitis, was the clincher in helping her make the switch to watercolors.

"It's more exciting," she said. "I like negative spaces-painting around something to make it happen. Anything you see that is white is the paper.

Dunphy follows in the footsteps of her grandfather, who was an artist, and her grandmother, a gardener. "Like Monet, I'm a gardner, too," 'she said. "He said, 'I don't know if I garden to paint or if I paint to garden.'

Dunphy's gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Thursdays or by appointment, 348-9544.

ICE CREAM What flavor are you?

Did you know that your favorite ice cream flavor reveals something about your personality?

Danilo Ponce, a medical doctor and psychiatrist at the University of Hawaii School of Medicine, says com- flavored with fruits. mon flavors indicate certain personality traits. Here's the scoop:

Chocolate-You're sentimental, nostalgic and traditional. You like to reminisce about life's good times.

Vanilla-You're personable, proud and popular. You enjoy life's simple pleasures.

Strawberry-You're compassionate, easy-going and down-to-earth, willing to share feelings openly.

Butter Pecan-Romantic and personable, able to bring out the best in people.

Neopolitan-Flexible, experimentive and able to compromise easily. Coffee-Self-confident and competitive, you possess a take-charge personality; a perfectionist. Mint Chocolate Chip-Bold and high-achieving with a good eye for detail, able to "read" people. Chocolate Chip-An optimist who is full of life. Rocky Road-Adventurous, exciting, enjoy challenges.

In the early 17th century, a French chef introduced "cream ice" to King Charles I of England.

Initially, cream ice was a dessert reserved for royalty and people of the court. By the end of the century, commoners were allowed these confections. We now know these desserts as ice cream or frozen desserts.

The hand-cranked ice cream churn was invented in 1846, but it was 1904 before the first ice cream cone was sold. And this, of course, started a wave of frozen treats in a cone or on a stick. A trip to a modern 90s supermarket may confuse even the best shopper with all the names and definitions of available frozen

Frozen yogurt is either soft or hard. Soft frozen yogurts are served in cones or sundaes. Hard frozen vogurt has a smooth texture, but is less creamy than ice cream, and usually

Since plain yogurts do not freeze well, sugar, a stabilizer, milk solids and fruits have been added.

Ice milk is a generic name for frozen desserts that cannot be labeled ice cream because they contain too much air and /or too little butterfat. It is made from milk, stabilizers and sweeteners, and sometimes contains more sugar than ice cream.

Ice milk is a sherbet to which milk or cream has been added, but not enough to make it ice cream.

Sherbet can be called ice, water ice, Italian ice or fruit ice. Sherbet is generally made from pulverized fruit ulp, fruit juice and sugar syrup. The French sorbet made with a light syrup, is slightly grainy and has an intense fruit flavor. Italian sorbettos are made with a heavier syrup and tend to be smoother and sweeter. Sherbets and ices are more sensitive to texture changes than ice cream so for the finest eating quality, storage time should be limited.

Italian gelato contains less air than most French or American ice cream so it is denser and firmer. Spanish granita refers to the slightly grainy, granular texture because it has been frozen without constant churning so it can be made in your home freezer. Serve slightly thawed and slushy. Both the gelato and granitos make refreshing, between course, palate cleaners.

Ice cream is a frozen dessert made from egg yolks, milk, cream, sugar, and flavorings. According to federal standards, to be sold as ice cream, the product must have at lest 10 percent butterfat, 20 percent milk solids and not more than 50 percent air.

For the many people who cannot have lactose, the sugar in milk products, or those just wanting to cut back on fat and cholesterol, there are some other alternatives. You will need to carefully read the labels on these products. There are products made from tofu, fruit purees, brown rice and other low lactose products. Ice cream and other frozen desserts should be stored at low temperatures to protect the texture and flavors. Don't let ice cream thaw too much. Repeated thawing and re-freezing will destroy the texture. Homemade ice cream should "ripen" for several hours, but should be eaten within one or two days. Ice cream stored for long periods develops ice crystals on its surface and acquires a heavy undesirable texture.

Do the unusual with frozen desserts. Cut off the top of a navel or-ange, and hollow out the pulp, fill with ice cream, sherbet or fruit ice, use the top for a lid and freeze individually. Allow about one-half hour to defrost and serve to your delighted guests.

A bombe is a classic shape for molded ice cream. It looks like half a football. A bombe is a mixture of two or more frozen desserts of different colors layered and packed into the mold.

A watermelon bombe would certainly impress your friends. Layer the inside of the mold with vanilla ice cream, press plastic wrap against the ice cream and freeze at least four hours. Stir chocolate chips into raspberry sherbet to simulate watermelon seeds.

Remove the plastic from the van-illa mold and fill the cavity with the sherbet. Cover and freeze. After the bombe has been unmolded, paint the outside of the molded ice cream with green food coloring until it looks like a watermelon, slice to serve.

Ice Cream - made by stirring a slowly freezing pasteurized mix that includes one or more dairy ingredients (milk, cream and condensed milk), sweeting agents, flavorings and optional egg or egg yolk solids or other indredients.

Ice Milk - prepared with ice cream's ingredients but the milkfat content is lower; usually has more sugar than ice cream.

Yogurt — a mixture of milk, skim milk and/or cream and bacteria, it must contain at least 8 25 percent nonfat milk solids and .9 percent acid. Dairy products in yogurt are pasteurized or ultrapasteurized, using a heating process to destroy disease-producing bacteria and increase shelf life. Create fabulous flavors by making your own ice cream homemade ice cream.

No one will refuse a chance at the churn in order to reap the scrumptious rewards. That's why making ice cream tends to turn into a family activity. Whether using Grandfather's churn with rock salt and ice or one of the newer machines that needs noice at all, young and old alike will gather to lend a helping hand-and spoon.

TO BEGIN-THE BASICS

Because every ice cream maker is different, get acquainted with your machine before you begin. Read the owners manual thoroughly and follow the manufacturer's instructions for freezing. The basic procedure is simple-even for a first-timer-and these helpful tips ensure success. • As with all good things, the better the ingredients, the better the results. Use fruit at the peak of ripeness, forego imitation flavor extracts and use fresh eggs and real dairy products.

• Chill cooked ice cream mixtures completely before freezing. • Ice cream expands as it freezes, so don't overfill the ice cream maker. Most should be filled to only twothirds or three-fourths of their capacity. Check your manufacturer's instructions.

• Homemade ice creams are made without preservatives and stabilizers so they don't keep as long as commercial varieties. For optimum flavor and texture, eat homemade ice cream within one or two weeks.

FABULOUS FLAVOR

The most difficult-but fun-part about making homemade ice cream is choosing a flavor. According to the International Ice Cream Association, vanilla continues to be the most popular pick, selected nearly 30 per-

For a sweet summer indulgence, cent of the time. But, for a delicious delight "kids" ages eight to 80 with alternative, the American Dairy Association has two new flavors you'll want to try. (See recipes below.) In homemade brown sugar perch, brown sugar enhances the fresh peach flavor, setting it apart from other basic peach ice creams,

And six-ingredient-easy cinnamon is the perfect accompaniment for summer fruit pies and cobblers. Each begins with a "stirred custard" base, which is the recommended start for all homemade ice creams containing eggs.

TIPS FOR COOKING A CUSTARD BASE

• Stir milk, sugar and eggs constantly while cooking over low heat until the mixture thickens and reaches 160 degrees.

• If you don't have a thermometer, use the "spoon test" to determine temperature. At 160 degrees, the mixture will lightly coat a metal spoon.

Remove custard from the heat before adding other ingredients.

 Chill the custard base completely before freezing in your ice cream maker.

It's also easy to convert your favorite recipes that call for uncooked eggs. Simply combine the milk, beaten eggs and sugar in a saucepan, then cook over low heat, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens and coats a metal spoon.

BROWN SUGAR PEACH ICE CREAM

Yields approximately 2 quarts

4 large peaches (about 1 lb.) 114 cups firmly packed light brown sugar, divided 1 tbsp. lemon juice 1% cups milk 3 eggs, beaten

1% cups whipping cream tsp. vanilla extract

Puree or finely chop peaches. Stir in ¼ cup sugar and the lemon juice; reserve. Combine milk, eggs and remaining ¼ cup sugar in medium saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats spoon, about 15 minutes. Stir in cream and extract. Chill. Stir peaches into cream mixture. Freeze in ice cream maker according to manufacturer's directions.

One package (16 ounces) frozen unsweetened sliced peaches, thawed, may be substituted for fresh peaches.

Variation: For a peach swirl, fold the sweetened peaches into cream mixture after freezing in ice cream maker. Place ice cream in freezer for at least one hour before serving.

CINNAMON ICE CREAM

Yields approximately 2 quarts

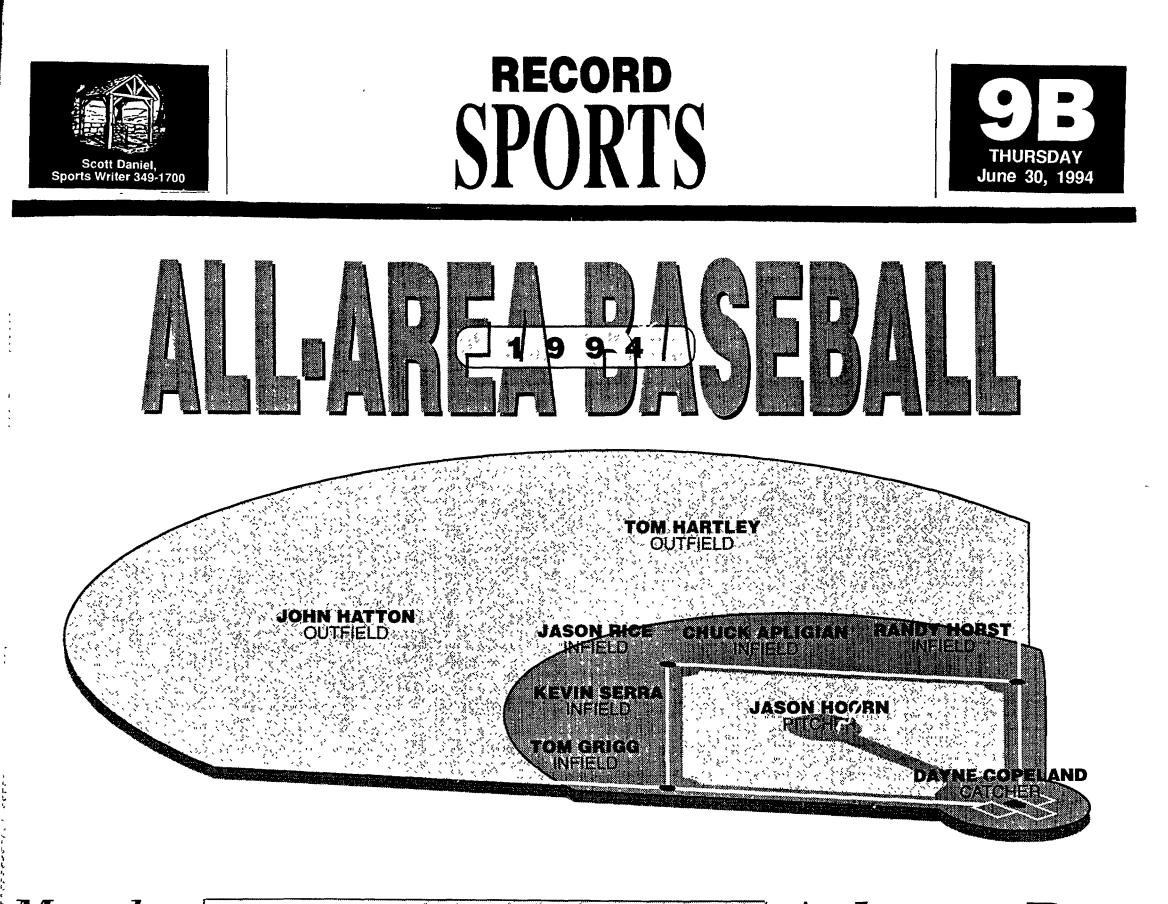

- 2 cups milk
- 4 eggs, beaten
- cup sugar

6 sticks (about 3 inches each) cinnamon, broken into thirds 2 cups whipping cream

1 tsp. vanilla extract

Combine milk, eggs, sugar and cinnamon sticks in large saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats spoon, about 15 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in cream and extract. Chill at least three hours. Remove cinnamon sticks. Freeze in ice crearn maker according to manufacturer's directions.

The cinnamon sticks can be substituted with 1 tsp. ground cinnamon.

Several of the players who dot this year's second team are either former all-first team selections or were predicted to make all-first team honors this year but failed to do so only because of unexpected outstanding seasons from some unheralded players in the area.

This year's second team is therefore very experienced but there are also some younger players on board who give this team a unique blend of talent that would probably give the first-teamers a real run for their money out on the diamond.

Here's a look at the players that make up the 1994 all-area second team, a squad that really deserves a more appropriate title. (All selections are made by the sports editors of the Milford Times, Northville Record, Novi News and South Lyon Herald.)

There are several members of the first team who could probably win Player of the Year honors in any other season. Standout performers like Lakeland's Tom Hartley and South Lyon's Jason Hoorn proved their value to their teams time and time again this season and their numbers are very impressive.

Novi's Tom Grigg also was a great value to his team and his tremendous skill in just about every area of his game, however, makes him the choice for 1994 Player of the Year.

His pitching is what proved most valuable to the Lions later in the season, however, when he used his talents to shut down the opponent's best hitters en route to the Lions's impressive showing in the district playoffs.

Hoorn wound up batting .421 on the year with 27 RBI and went 5-3 as a pitcher with one save to his credit. He had a 2.83 ERA and also struck out 80 batters while walking only 10 on the year. That plus-70 in the strikeouts-to-walks category is the best in school history, according to South Lyon coach Mark Thomas.

"Jason's always a quiet player," said Thomas. "He does whatever is asked of him and he does it well. It doesn't look like he's giving much effort out there but he really is. He just lets his numbers speak for themselves," he added.

Mark Heiden

Swim coach

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Mark Heiden believes in practicing what he preaches.

As coach of the Northville High boys' swimming team he's used to telling folks how things should be done. But if his athletes ever had any doubts about what he was imparting to them, well, they won't now.

That's because Heiden recently won a United States diving championship. Competing at the indoor finals in Lexington, Ky., early last month, he easily outdistanced the field to capture the one-meter master's title.

"It's something I've wanted since I started diving at 14-years-old," said Heiden, who runs the Heidivers diving team with wife Pam. "I've been

The competition really came down to two divers: Heiden and Craig Ford, who coaches Emory College. The two had met before with Ford coming out on top.

Ford did his dives just before Heiden during the meet.

Heiden started diving at the age of 13. His training in other sports made the transition into diving easier than he thought it would be.

"I was in gymnastics from the age of 5 to 11," Heiden said. "(Diving) came easy to me to do lots of (moves) off the board."

He went on to dive at Livonia Stevenson High School where he finished eighth in Michigan in 1980. Heiden accepted a diving scholarship to the University of Wyoming and placed second in his conference one season.

Dayne Copeland

South Lyon, Catcher There are two words to describe Copeland's approach to the game according to Thomas: hard work.

The senior really came on strong this season leading the team in batting and setting several school records along the way.

"He just loves the game and works very hard to get better at it," remarked Thomas.

Copeland was a very consistent hitter for the Lions in '94 and that consistency paid off as he overtook teammate Hoorn for the top average on the team late in the year. He wound up batting .456 on the year and his 34 RBI set a new South Lyon record.

He also showed that he could hit for average as well as power, slugging seven home runs on the year and that set a new school mark as well.

Defensively, Copeland was the Lions anchor out on the field. He wasn't overwhelming with the number of runners thrown out trying to steal this season but he always played with his head in the game and he was tremendous working with the Lion pitchers.

"He was definitely like another coach on the team," said Thomas. "He took a lot of responsibility on himself on defense and he took a lot of pride in his catching," he added.

Copeland was an all-KVC second team selection this year.

Chuck Apligian Northville, Infielder

Apligan played solid defense in a couple of positions for the Mustangs, alternating between catcher and third base. But it was his offensive prowess that made him such a valued addition to his team.

"Chuck batted lead-off and got things going for us," said coach Mickey Newman. "He often started us off.

And he kept things going for Northville. The senior smacked six doubles and one homer, and scored 17 runs on his way to a .344 batting average. He also swiped 14 bases. Apligian's outstanding play earned him WLAA All-League honors.

Jason Rice Northville, Infielder

Like Apligian, Rice split his defensive duties between third base and catcher, turning in dependable performances at both positions. Also like his platoon partner, Rice was an offensive standout for the Mustangs, batting a sensational .491 and knocking in 20 runs. He clobbered four homes runs and banged out six doubles.

In addition, the speedy junior scored 21 runs and stole 14 bases without being thrown out.

"As good as he is now, he has the potential to be even better," coach Mickey Newman said.

Rice was the only junior named to the WLAA All-League unit.

Tom Grigg Novi. Infielder

Novi coach Brian Howard feels there was only one thing wrong with Grigg's spectacular career as a Wildcat: it had to end.

"So much has been written about him and it's all true," Howard said.

Grigg recorded some unbelievable statistics over his four-years of playing time with Novi, amassing an incredible .432 batting average and stealing 136 bases out of 141 attempts.

The standout was all-everything in his senior year, including statewide Class A First Team honoree. He also was named to the all-class Dream Team, ranking him as one of the four top infielders in the state.

Knowing a good thing when they saw one, Michigan State University scouts made him their most soughtafter recruit, and Grigg will attend the East Lansing school on a full scholarship.

"They don't come any better," Howard added.

Kevin Serra

Novi, Infielder

for the Wildcats in 1994, hitting for a suffering through a series of injuries steller .459 batting average.

"He was the best hitter on the team," Howard said. "He was even better than Tom (Grigg) this year. He's an excellent leader.

Howard credited Serra with being responsible for much of the Wildcats' success in the team's 16-11 season.

Randy Horst Milford, Infielder

Horst was one of the bright spots on what was basically a dismal year for the Redskins.

The senior first baseman had another outstanding year in his third season at the varsity level. Performing well in sports is nothing new to Horst, though, as he showed that being one of the top players in the area in football, basketball and baseball isn't impossible, just rare.

The kids definitely respect him because he's a three-sport star," said Milford coach Mike Shearer.

Hitting number three in the Redskin's lineup meant that Horst would get his opportunity to shine for the team at the plate and he certainly filled that order. He batted .379 for the year and had 27 RBI, eight doubles, and two triples. He led the Milford team in each one of those categories.

"You could count on him to hit anybody whether they were a hard-thrower or a junker," said Shearer.

Horst hopes to continue to flourish athletically and academically as well in the fall as he plans to attend prestigious Carnegie-Mellon College near Pittsburgh where he'sll play football. Horst was named to the all-KVC second team this season.

Tom Hartley

Lakeland, Outfielder The 1994 spring baseball season had to be particularly satisfying for Hartley, a junior outfielder. Hartley was one of the top players in the area this year and although his Eagles didn't do quite as well as he would've hoped in the playoffs, the team did make it to the district finals ovi, Infielder before being knocked out and he, Serra was a top offensive producer personally, had a monster year after in his first two years on the varsity level.

Hartley had the top batting average in the area swinging at a .500 clip for the season. He also drove in 34 runs and scored 32 times for Lakeland. He proved his versatility as he led the team in stolen bases with 15 on the year.

"He did everything that was asked of him and more," said Ganzel. "If he can duplicate this or do even better next season, it will be one heckuva senior year."

In his freshman year, Hartley was forced to sit out with an injury and his performance was hampered by last year with a sore foot. He broke the foot while playing basketball, another sport that Hartley has been known to dominate in a Lakeland uniform.

Hartley made all-KVC first team in 94

Jon Hatton

South Lyon, Outfielder

The senior rebounded to have a great season after a poor start ffensively.

Hatton struggled at the plate during the first few weeks of the spring and that's probably the main reason why he didn't crack the .400 mark this year. He wound up batting .367 for the season with 24 RBI and four home runs.

Thomas said that Hatton was forced to move to the Lion outfield after playing mainly in the infield in '93 and he handled the switch amazingly well. "He played very well this year," said Thomas. "He accepted his position and he got better as the season went on. Whatever the team needs, he'll do it," added the coach.

Thomas also counted on Hatton for his leadership ability this season. Hatton, who was a standout quarterback for the South Lyon football team last year, was one of the team's cocaptains along with Copeland so he was also a vocal leader for the Lions.

Hatton was an all-KVC second team selection this year.

Lakeland, Outfielder

team at the beginning of the season and it hurt him at the plate.

He batted under .200 for the first month of the year but the other facets of his game were still strong. He turned it around in the second half of the season going on a tear that saw him raise his average more than 100 points.

Agne finished with a .316 average to go along with 29 RBI and Ganzel

Southpaw Jabczpnski had opposing batters swinging at nothing all year along. His blazing fastball produced an outstanding 6-1 record and a miniscule 1.23 earned run average.

"He throws smoke," coach Brian Howard said. "His fastball comes in in the low 80s, which is excellent for high school."

In addition to his fine won-loss record and low ERA, Jabczpnski wiffed three. He also drove in 22 runs which 59 batters while allowing only 22 walks. The junior hurler's performance earned him an All-League second team selection in the Kensington Valley Conference.

iured and out of his normal position for most of the season.

After injuring his shoulder playing hockey, Diesch was forced to move from his normal positions of either pitcher or catcher in the Eagle lineup to first base.

Lakeland coach Jerry Ganzel said the injury hurt Diesch a little at the beginning of the year but he rebounded and made a smooth transition to first. Diesch was 2-3 as a starting pitcher in '93 for Lakeland but he didn't pitch at all this spring and Ganzel said that probably hurt the team down the stretch.

Diesch batted .329 for the Eagles and led the team in home runs with was second best on the squad. Defensively, he was very reliable committing only two errors all season long at first. Diesch was an all-KVC honorable mention selection this year.

The freshman shortstop was just what Ganzel's Eagles needed at the beginning of the season.

There was a hole to fill at short at the start of the year when Hardin stepped in and took hold of the position. He made an immediate impact on the club coming up with four game-winning RBIs in the first month of the action.

Hardin cooled off a bit but he still was a big asset to the team both offensively and defensively and he was an effective pitcher as well going 3-4 on the year.

Hebatted .319 and had 18 RBIs for the year. Hardin also was one of the most durable players on the Lakeland team as he led the Eagles in total innings played with 190.

Chubby child could be fat adult cal activity and eating habits may influence his or her fat cell development in later life?"

Although countless weight loss methods are available, no major impact has been made on the long-term control of gross obesity.

Over the past 20 years, researchers have studied the cellular composition of body fat stores. They found that fat storage cells may increased in size and number in the person who overeats and under-exercises.

During the first year of infancy and adoles-cence — periods of rapid growth — the number of fat cells in the body is established, and that number remains relatively fixed for life. These fat cells may influence the appetite when they are not filled.

The size of fat cells, however, decreases when one loses weight. Compared to the normal person, the grossly obese person has (1) a consider-ably greater number of fat cells and (2) a slightly increased fat cell size.

The research conclusions:

•Gross obesity (typically of childhood onset) results from abnormally large numbers of fart cells formed during growth.

•Adult obesity due to recent weight gain appears to be due to increased size of fat cells. The fundamental remaining question is: Can gross obesity (large numbers of fat cells) be al-tered before adulthood? Or is overfatness something one inherits?

Studies on animals indicated that restricted eating and/or exercise early in life can lead to a permanent reduction in adult body weight and numbers of fat cells.

If the same holds true in humans, it would seem quite possible to prevent the formation of excess numbers of fat cells during the early childhood years.

Unfortunately, our culture had made no impact on long-term control of gross obesity. But of the possibilities available, the best may be to prevent obesity during childhood.

said that his leadership in the Eagle clubhouse was immeasurable.

At the beginning of the year Ganzel chose to move Agne's spot in the batting order from first to third so that he would have some other good hitters both in front and behind them. Ganzel said the move may have hurt Agne initially but he adapted and got better as the season progressed.

Defense is where Agne was most consistent this year as he was nearly flawless committing only two errors all season long.

"He was our strongest defensive outfielder," said Ganzel, "he made some great catches out there." Agne was named to the all-KVC second team this year.

His speed was a great asset to the Lions as he stole eight bases and led the team in runs scored with 24. Levoska backed up that concept season.

This year Levoska was an all-KVC

Cory Sargent

South Lyon, Outfielder The sophomore centerfielder was definitely a key performer for South Lyon in his second year at the varsity level. He was among the team leaders in batting with a .340 average and he also drove in 22 runs during the season. Sargent was another player in

Thomas' lineup that almost always made contact against opposing Outfield, Northville pitchers. He struck out only seven times in 100 at-bats this year. He also used his great speed to make some spectacular plays in the outfield, said Thomas, who added that Sargent has been able to succeed at South Lyon because of a great work ethic.

"He's an excellent athlete but he also tries very hard at the game," said Thomas.

Sargent was an all-KVC honorable mention selection this year.

Curt Kaisner

Senior outfielder Curt Kaisner was an excellent contact hitter for the Mustangs, getting his bat on the ball a lot.

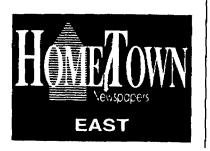

"He batted second for us and put the ball in play," coach Mickey New-man said. "He was a steady allaround player."

But putting the ball in play isn't all he did-he also found a lot of holes in the defensive alignments of the opposing teams. He hit .340 on the year, clobbering five doubles and one home run.

"He continued to improve all year long," Newman added.

REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

REAL ESTATE Settling housing transactions disputes

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

What can home buyers or sellers do when they have a grievance against a real estate broker involved in their transaction?

That's a question that pops up consistently in my mail. Fortunately, there are specific steps that can be taken to resolve most problems.

Most transactions are handled smoothly and professionally by seasoned brokers. But when a problem occurs, the consumer needs to know his options.

A typical complaint is that a broker misrepresented facts about a property or its current market value, causing a buyer to lose a substantial sum of money. Or when a broker is listing a home for sale he provides the seller with bad counsel on an asking price or marketing methods-or promises to cancel the listing contract on request, but later refuses to do so.

The first step in correcting a problem should be a frank and honest discussion between the complainant and the broker. Often, a problem is magnified by a lack of candid communication between the parties. A satisfactory resolution to a problem usually can be reached by reasonable people talking with each other.

If this is not successful, the next step (if the broker is a Realtor) is to contact the executive officer of the local board or association of Realtors. Details of the problem probably will be referred to the board's Grievance Committee. If it's an ethics problem, this committee should settle it.

If the committee feels the complaint is valid and involves a possile monetary settlement, it will be birds or squirrels may do the job for you. Sunflowers are grown commercially mostly for the oil, says Mary McLellan, master gardener coordinator at Michigan State University.

Birdseed is another major market. Both oil seeds (the smaller, all-black sunflower seeds) and the larger black and white striped seeds are sold as bird food.

The large seeds and dramatic appearance of sunflowers-some varieties stand 10- to 12-feet tall and bear flower heads up to a foot across-make them a favorite in children's gardens. The large seeds are easy for small fingers to handle, and the resulting giant plants are a natural photo opportunity.

medium-sized flowers on shorter stalks-dwarf varieties may be only 2 feet tall.

Sunflowers tolerate some frost when they're small and they don't require warm soil for germination, so they can be planted earlier than most warm-weather garden crops. They also grow quickly enough that they can be planted as a succession crop after spring cool-weather crops are harvested.

The flower heads are made up of 1,000 to 2,000 individual flowers joined together at the base and surrounded by individual ray flowers (the petals). The flower heads follow the movement of the sun until the plants mature, then they droop and face the ground.

Seed development begins at the outer edge of the flower and moves toward the center. It usually takes about 30 days from the time the last flower is pollinated until harvest.

To harvest the seeds, cut the entire head off the stem and hang it upside-down in a warm, dry place with good air circula-tion for about three weeks. Tie a piece of cheesecloth or nylon net around the head to catch the seeds that drop as they dry. When the head is dry, thresh the seeds from the head by knocking it against a table or counter to make the seeds fall out.

Seeds for bird food need no further processing. Simply bag them and store them where mice or other animals can't get into them.

Sunflower seeds for human consumption can be hulled and eaten raw or used in baked goods, roasted in the shell, or hulled and deep fat fried.

To hull dried sunflower seeds, begin by breaking them up with a rolling pin, hammer or food chopper. Then drop seeds and hulls into a large container of water and stir vigorously. Kernels will sink to the bottom and the shells will float. Dry kernels before roasting or storing.

To roast in the shell, soak fully dry seeds overnight in a strong saltwater solution (two quarts of water and ba1/4ea to ba1/2ea cup of salt). Drain, then place the seeds on cookie sheets, and roast three hours or until crisp at 200 degrees. Or, mix them with butter and salt-about 1ba1/2ea Tbsp. butter and 1 tsp. salt per 2 cups of seeds-and roast for about an hour at 250 degrees. Shake or stir occasionally so the seeds brown evenly.

To dry roast, spread seeds in a single laver on a cookie sheet and bake in a 350-degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Seeds are ready to eat when they begin to swell and the seedcoats crack.

To deep fry hulled seeds, allow ba1/4ea cup cooking oil for every cup of seeds. Cook at 360 degrees until seeds are golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Store tightly covered.

As a snack food, hulled raw sunflower seeds provide protein, vitamins and about 150 calories per ounce, most in the form of polyunsaturated fat. They can be used in muffins, cookies, bread, homemade granola and other baked goods in from their play. Stairs to the bedrooms are to the right, just past the bathroom and a coat closet provides storage for outdoor clothing

The living room and dining room are spacious and bright. A fireplace with a tile hearth offers fire-gazing opportunities in winter. Sliding glass doors in the dining room (and nook) allow meals to move onto the deck when warm weather beckons. The living room ceiling could be vaulted or flat.

Day-to-day living takes place in the kitchen, family room and nook, an area as bright. and almost as spacious. as the living room. Amenities here include a large walk-in pantry, a combination work island/cook top/eating bar and a garden window. Slide the pocket doors out of the way and the family room expands into the generously sized utility room, which also serves as a pass-through to the garage. Stairs to the basement are in the family room.

Water, weeds soil

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

I've always felt that watering a garden correctly is a most difficult task for someone to learn. I don't know why, but it always seems that people are either dehydrating their plants or drowning them.

In the hot summer months of June, July and August, a simple rule to follow is this: The ground around the plants should be constantly moist.

You may have to water twice a day, morning and afternoon, as well as using a heavy mulch to keep in dampness. Never water so much that your plants are standing in a pool of water. Just keep the ground around your plants evenly moist.

In areas of severe drought conditions, there are different water-saving methods that should be followed.

The ideal technique for watering during drought is called drip irrigation, which waters each plant individually without wasting any water. It entails using a hose with tiny holes that slowly trickles water around the plant roots. A few basics that you all know, but we'll go over again: Most watering should be done in the morning; never let your plants go to bed with water on their leaves as this can cause fungus, mildew and black spot, especially in roses.

GARDENING

· A good soaking (up to one hour) is needed only every 12 to 14 days.

• If you are thirsty, then maybe your garden needs a drink, too. Like you, in hot months, your garden needs more to drink than in cooler months.

WEEDS

A weed is an unloved, unwanted plant. Unfortunately, weeds are strong and aggressive, and will take over a garden in no time if not kept under strict control. They are sanctuaries for many different insects and diseases. In the spring, rototill the soil deeply to kill off as many weed seeds as possible before planting. Then, as your garden grows, you must constantly weed, especially right after it rains. Weeds that do appear should be removed with a hoe just at the soil surface. Regular cultivation will inflict damage on the shallow feeder

Getting rid of pesky bats in your belfry

By Gene Gary Copley News Service

G. We have been invaded by bats. They found their way into our attic and have become a nuisance, especially during early evening when they take flight.

Their presence has inhibited the use of our outdoor patio during summer evenings, mainly because my wife and daughters are afraid of them. Can you recommend a method of getting rid of this bat colony?

A. Bats roost in the attic during the day and leave the nest nightly to feed. If the roost is accessible, floodlights or strong fans can sometimes be used to convince the bats to abandon a house

However, there is a safe and simple exclusion process developed by Dr. Stephen Frantz of the New York Department of Health, that lets the bats out to feed, but denies them re-entry.

Plug all openings between the attic and other parts of the house. Then watch for a few days to identify the points where bats are entering and leaving your home. Dusk and dawn from mid-July through August are the best times for bat watches.

Even though there are many potential openings in the attic area, bats will tend to favor only a few. Plug the holes they aren't using with caulk, screening or sheet metal.

Be thorough because bats will try to gain other access once you seal their primary entrances. They can squeeze into openings as small as 1/4 inch x 1-1/2 inches.

The next step is to construct netting funnels ("check valves") that allow the bats to leave the attic but confuse them when they return. Make the funnels from structural-grade, black polypropylene bird netting with openings that measure 5/8inch diagonally. The netting is available from garden centers, building supplies and home centers. You also will need waterproof duct tape and heavy-duty sta-

Cut the netting so that it's wide enough to span the point of entry and long enough to hang about 3 feet below it. Attach the netting with staples and tape above the opening and down the sides to create a bottomless box. The material is rather stiff, so when you secure it above the entrance it will project clear of the opening.

Taper the netting to make the bottom opening no more than 15 inches wide. You want the bats to be able to fly out from under the netting, but not to be able to fly back in when they return from their nocturnal feeding. Bats need to feed at least every third day, so it should only take about a week to make sure they have all left.

Remove the netting and permanently seal any openings. To avoid trapping any flightless bat pups inside the nesting area. it is best to to this in either early spring or the fall. The bat pups are born in late spring and early summer, and need only about three weeks to fly and feed on their own referred to the board's Professional Standards Panel. This group will provide non-binding mediation between the waring factions.

If you have bats that reside year-around (non-migrating bats) do not try to evict them in the winter months when they are hibernating.

If this still does not satisfy both parties, the case can go to an Arbitration Panel with the understanding they will study all aspects of the problem and determine a binding resolution. If the case involves more than one board of Realtors, it can go to an Interboard Arbitration Panel.

In many boards, members must agree to arbitration of serious problems at the time they join the board

If the case includes a non-Realtor broker (a licensed real estate broker who is not a member of the National Association of Realtors or local board), the case may be handled by an independent mediator or by the courts, via attorneys.

Lawsuits should be the last resort in resolving differences. They can be costly and frustrating. A process of professional mediation is more desirable.

Some states are considering laws that would encourage a process of mediation in disputes. For example, the California Assembly Judiciary Committee recently approved a new bill (AB 3272) that will require all parties involved in real estate disputes to use mediation before pursuing litigation.

The bill states that if the parties are unable to reach a resolution.

they are free to pursue litigation. It also contains a waiver provision that gives parties an option to waive the mediation requirement by mutual agreement after a dispute arises.

Mediation is a simple but often workable method of resolving disputes in which a neutral person (mediator) facilitates discussion and negotiation between involved parties. The mediator does not have authority to impose a settlement upon the parties.

More than 80 percent of all disputes that go through the mediation process are resolved and never end up on the courthouse steps, it was determined in a recent survey.

Another currently proposed bill that would affect many real estate related cases would discourage frivolous lawsuits by requiring an attorney filing a suit to certify that the suit is being filed in good faith and that it has legal merit. This bill gives courts the authority to penalize attorneys who file frivolous lawsuits to harass an individual or needlessly increase the cost of litigation.

Staying out of the legalistic mire is the best practice, if at all possible. Legitimate grievances can usually be settled by honest discussion between the parties, or use of systems structured for this purpose by local boards (or associations) of Realtors.

G. Enclosed is a picture of a piece of furniture that I am curious about. What was it used for, what is its vintage and its value?

A. You have a factory made Edwardian hunt board. The style was inspired by 18th century designs, along with the fashionable trends of the late 18th and early 19th centuries. Objects were displayed or stored behind the glass doors. Drinks and refreshments could be served from the top. The vintage is early 1900s. Its value is $800 to $900.

Q. I have a 39 piece, service for six, set of china. Each dish is marked "Copeland—Spode's Tower-England."

The dishes are white with dark red designs. The dishes are decorated with a scene of trees, a stream and a tower beyond a bridge. Each has a border of red and white flowers.

Can you tell me if the pattern is in anyway related to blue willowware? How old is my set and what is it worth? A. Your dinner set was made by Copeland-Spode in Stoke, Staffordshire, England, probably in the early to mid-20th century. Italian historical scenes were a popular source of inspiration for Staffordshire patterns. The pattern "Tower" was originally introduced by Spode in 1814. It was based on an aquatint engraving titled "The Bridge of Lucano" published in 1798. The bridge is just outside Rome and is named for a Roman victory over the Lucanians. This pattern has been used by other English potters. Assuming your dinner set is in good condition, the value would probably be about $1,000 to $1,200.

I would appreciate any information you can give

A. Your platter was made by Gustafsberg, on the island of Farsta, Sweden. In the 1800s they produced faience, cream ware, and porcelain in the English style. In the 1900s the designs became more modern and simple. Some pieces were signed by the artist and some were dated.

This mark was used from 1908 to 1941. "Alva" is the name of the pattern. Your platter would probably be worth about $150 to $175 in good condition.

G. I inherited my grandfather's old hydraulic barber chair. He purchased it from a barber during the Depression. I spent two years refinishing the oak, replacing the leather and replating the metal. There is a plate on it with the words "August Kern B.S. Co.-St. Louis, M.*

Would you have any idea of the age or worth of my barber chair?

A. Your barber's chair was made around 1900. Chairs similar to yours restored and working are usually in the $1,000 to $1,400 range. Q. We have a coke machine that we've had for about 25 years. It is in good condition and works. The machine was made by Cavalier and has the model num-ber "C51." On the side are the words "Here's a Coke for You in Bottles." As far as we know, everything is original. Please give us any information on the machine and its value.

A. Cavalier was one of the major manufacturers of "Coca-Cola" vending machines. It was probably made around 1940. According to a market analyst, the prices have leveled off and even fizzled out 15 percent to 20 percent. "Shroeder's Antiques Price Guide" lists a Cavalier model No. C51, in excellent original condition, at $650 and a Cavalier model No. C51, in mint condition and restored, at $2,000.

The firm began in 1852 in Brooklyn, N.Y., and by 1860 had moved to the village of White Mills, Pa. He chronicles the rise to leader of the American glass industry, financial woes that plagued the firm, and family discords that finally brought the close of the factory in 1921.

shoppers — products that are the "best choice" for healthy eating and products that are an "acceptable choice" for healthy eating. "Best choice" products are marked on Breen's I.G.A.'s shelves with special green shelf labels while "acceptable choice" products are marked with yellow shelf labels.

The book also identifies some unacceptable choices, but out of respect for the manufacturer, those will not receive any shelf labeling.

According to Susan Breen-Leist of Breen's IGA, the company has introduced the M-Fit shelf labeling program to make healthy shopping easier and more convenient for its customers.

When it's time to wash up, you'll be up to your elbows in style. The increasing number of materials, shapes and colors available make today's sinks a fashion statement as well as clean-up essential. Kitchen sinks now come in • Single bowl • Bowl and

- Bowl and a half
- Double bowl and

• Triple bowl designs, providing more and more area for clean up and food prep. Keep in mind that triple bowl models require plenty of counter length.

Add a hot water dispenser for convenience and water conservation.
