

Council votes to raise utility rates in city

Water/sewer to go up 14 percent

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The Northville City Council voted Monday night to increase the city's water and sewer rates to meet rising costs from Wayne County and the city of Detroit. The higher charges are also meant to cover maintenance expenses.

The council voted to impose 14 percent increases in both water and sewer rates. Officials also upped the bi-monthly service charge by 50 cents to $4.50, a 12.5 percent increase. The rates will be effective Oct. 1.

The vote on the proposal was 4-0. Council member Paul Folino was absent from the meeting.

The council's vote followed a public hearing at which several residents sought answers as to why the increases were necessary and why water rates seem high already.

City officials cited several reasons for the increases, including rate hikes from authorities higher up. On July 1, the city of Detroit imposed a 6.5 percent water increase, and Wayne County imposed a 6 percent increase for sewer service in December 1993. Northville officials also anticipate an 8 percent increase in sewer rates on Dec. 1, 1994.

The last time Northville residents experi-

Water/sewer rate increases

- Current rates:
- $1.65/ unit for water
 - $4/unit for sewer
 - $4 bi-monthly service charge
- New rates:
- $1.88/unit for water
 - $4.56/ unit for sewer
 - $4.50 bi-monthly service charge

Refuse/Recycling program increases

- A monthly fee increase from $4 to $5 for residents
- A $5 monthly charge for city businesses

Rates effective Oct. 1

Refuse/recycling hiked $1 month

Staff Writer

Motivation is rarely a bad thing, but in at least one case it is.

Mayor Chris Johnson said that Northville residents are so motivated to recycle that there has been much less refuse in the city, meaning a loss in revenue from garbage stickers.

At the Northville City Council's Monday meeting, officials approved a proposal to increase the monthly base rate from $4 to $5 for residents and to initiate a $5 charge for commercial users, who currently do not pay monthly fees. The new rates will be effective Oct. 1.

Logic would seem to suggest that lower volumes of refuse would mean a lower cost to dispose of it, but that's not the case.

The city is in the third year of a four year contract that has fixed rates for trash disposal. For the past three years, the city has had to take about $65,000 from the general operating budget for the refuse and recycling program. In an attempt to make the program self-sustaining, the city administration sought to increase the monthly rate from $4 to $6.

That idea was not received well by various members, however, and the council remained in mental deadlock for some time before reaching a compromise.

Trustees discuss chain of command in township hall

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Just who reports to whom in the Northville Township was the subject of debate last week among the members of the board of trustees.

In recent weeks, the trustees have considered how the township government's flowchart should look. They're hoping to make a decision before hiring a new township manager, which could be soon. The board's Sept. 15 study session saw the trustees take up the issue again—and exchange some harsh words in the process.

The whole discussion centers around two basic organizational questions:

- Should the Director of Public Safety (DPS) report to the township manager, who then would report to the board on DPS issues, or should the Director report directly to the board?

Everyone on the board seemed to agree with Clerk Sue Hillebrand, who proposed the latter in a Sept. 8 memo. Having the head of DPS report directly to them, she argued, would allow the board to have more control and accountability over the police and fire services which are its first priority.

Chip Snider, DPS Director, sup-

Legal bill is issue again for trustees

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The legal Northville Township is an issue which is back on the front burner following last Thursday's meeting of the board of trustees.

One year ago some members of the board questioned the amount of money the township was paying to the lawyer, Len Krzyzaniak of the Detroit firm of Vanderveer Garzia. Clerk Sue Hillebrand was one of them and raised the issue anew one week ago.

At the board's Sept. 15 study session, Hillebrand said that, despite promises of change, the township is still paying Krzyzaniak too much. Other trustees agreed, some also voicing concern about the quality of Krzyzaniak's work. Another problem to some on the board is Krzyzaniak's—in one trustee's words—"unresponsiveness" to officials' directions and requests for information.

Hillebrand urged the board to take another look at the issue.

Expo to showcase DPS vehicles, personnel

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Think the little ones could get a kick out of seeing a police car or a fire truck up close and personal? Interested in learning how you can reduce your chance of becoming a victim of crime or fire? Want to meet the people you pay to help you if you do?

If so, plan to be at Township Hall this Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. for the Department of Public Safety's Expo Day.

It's all free, put on through the volunteer efforts of DPS officials and concerned citizens. Township Hall is located on Six Mile Road between Winchester and Haggerty.

Expo Day is part of a voter education campaign about two millage requests township voters will face on Nov. 8. Proposal 1 asks for 3.84 mills per year for your years to provide police and fire services. Proposal 2 asks for .40 mill per

It was a time of splendor and spectacle at the Sixth Annual Victorian Festival, which is tentatively being called the most successful to date. Organizers reflect on Festival of success

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

This year's Victorian Festival was bigger, better, more lucrative and more successful than ever for the city of Northville, organizers say.

Now that the event is over and the celebratory litter has been swept away from city streets, Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Community Chamber of Commerce, can kick back, put her feet on her desk and breathe a sigh of relief.

"I'm elated," Marrs said about the festival, which finished its sixth year. "Without a doubt this was the largest crowd. This event has truly snowballed."

Marrs attributes the festival's success to a growing reputation and an expanded advertising budget with more press coverage. Marrs said she even had a friend hear mention of the festival on the radio when she was driving home from Chicago.

The sunny, warm weather was the perfect setting as Northville's streets came alive Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the popular antics of Dr. Rudy and his remarkable roundies, breath-taking aerialists, fire eaters, impressive art exhibits and endless food.

The greatest factor of this year's successful festival, Marrs said, is the money that goes into the community through increased business for local merchants and the money raised by the 28 non-profit groups that sold food throughout the weekend.

Sue Anker, co-coordinator for the non-profit groups, said the vast variety of food that was offered sold like crazy.

"I talked to several groups who said they made a lot of money," Anker said. "Overall, people were very pleased with the weekend." The groups made anywhere from $1,200 to $1,600, Anker said, and some, such as St. Paul's Lutheran Church which took in Family returns to find break-in at home

A Seven Mile Road home was the target of unknown burglars last week, Northville Township police report.

The home's owners said they came home last Monday afternoon and found the kitchen window screen removed and the window open. Money, jewelry and a revolver had been stolen.

The investigating officer said that the person or persons involved had cut the screen at the bottom, then opened the unlocked kitchen window. Two partial fingerprints were taken from a soda can, which the thief or thieves stopped to get from the home's refrigerator and drink from, leaving the unfinished portion on the counter.

A neighbor told police she may have seen a white male with dark hair and "a big head" in the woods nearby that morning.

The stolen items are valued at nearly $1,200. The damage to the window screen is estimated at $25.

MINORS IN POSSESSION: Northville City Police ticketed three Walled Lake and two Northville teenagers for minor in possession of alcohol on Friday during a Northville High School football game.

The officer was patrolling the area of the high school's parking lot when noticed a car parked near the water tower with eight teenagers standing around with one holding what appeared to be a beer bottle.

As the officer approached, the youth appeared to be putting objects in the trunk of the car. When the officer asked the one of the students, who was sitting at the wheel of the car to open the trunk, he found 16 sealed beer bottles and seven empty ones.

The officer then called Northville's principal and one of the assistant principal to the scene.

Three of the Walled Lake teenagers received citations and two Northville youths. Three other Northville teenagers were not cited because they either had insignificant or 0 percent blood alcohol levels.

The five teenagers were transported to the police station and then released into their parents' custody. School administrators will follow-up by suspending the two Northville students.

STRANGE CALLS: A female township resident told police she's been receiving peculiar telephone calls recently.

The woman, 86, said that someone called her house on weekdays between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m., saying nothing but remaining on the line. The person does not call on weekends, she said.

IRONIC LARCENY: A Fanner Court couple reported a theft to township police last week.

The two said that sometime last Wednesday, the wife's wallet, containing a checkbook, credit cards, cash and the woman's driver's license, was taken from the kitchen counter in their home.

The couple said that two workers from a Livonia home alarm company were installing an alarm in their home when the wallet disappeared.

Police are investigating.

ATTEMPTED AUTO THEFT: Unknown persons tried but failed to steal a Westmeath Road resident's car last Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

The car's owner said that his 1989 GMC Jimmy was parked in his driveway that night. He found it Thursday morning with its sunroof pried up. The would-be thieves, however, apparently did not gain entry, the investigating police officer said.

Police have no suspects or evidence at this time. Damage to the sun roof is estimated at $200.

OUIL: A Novi man was arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor (OUIL) on Saturday in Northville Township.

The reporting township officer said that he clocked the man doing 58 miles per hour on Northville Road on the evening of Sept. 17. He pulled the man's 1994 Mustang convertible over, the officer said, and the 30-year-old admitted to speeding.

As he spoke to the man, the officer continued, he detected a strong odor of intoxicants coming from the vehicle. The man said that he had consumed "a few beers" that evening.

The officer asked the man to perform field sobriety tests, which he failed. The Novi resident was arrested and held at police headquarters until he sobered up. Breathalyzer testing there showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .21 percent, more than twice the legal limit.

The man faces a hearing in 35th District Court.

OUIL NO. 2: A 44-year-old Northville man was heading northbound on Novi Street when a patrol car flashed its high beams on the man's vehicle because he was driving with his brights on Saturday.

The man did not respond to the signal from the patrol car, so the officer honked his horn to try to get the man's attention but the man kept on driving. The officer pulled the man over at Allen Drive.

The man failed a number of field sobriety tests and registered a .24 blood-alcohol level with a preliminary breathalyzer test.

The posted a $100 cash bond and was released when he sobered up. A preliminary hearing is set for Sept. 23 at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

BREAKING & ENTERING, THEFT: Unknown persons broke into a storage trailer parked behind R & D Enterprises on Gerald Avenue in Northville Township last week, then stole $230 worth of copper and nickel tubing.

The investigating officer said it appeared that those involved had hooked a chain onto the main hinge bar of the 18-wheel trailer, then used a vehicle to pull it out of shape. That allowed them to get the doors to the trailer partially open, he said, and they then took the tubing.

Police continue to investigate the case.

LARCENY FROM A BUILDING:

A resident at 719 Main St. reported a golf bag and accessories valuing $1,174 missing from his garage Sept. 13. The resident is not sure if the garage was locked.

Police have no suspects or witnesses in the case.

OUIL III: A Livonia man who drank and drove caused an accident involving a township resident at Seven Mile and Haggerty on Friday, police say.

The 27-year-old man, police said, was turning his 1992 Ford Mustang right from eastbound Seven Mile onto northbound Haggerty at about midnight on Sept. 18. He drove directly into the path of the 34-year-old township man's 1990 Ford Bronco, the report said.

The traffic light at the intersection was green for Seven Mile traffic, police said. Neither man was injured. The reporting officer said that he detected a strong odor of intoxicants coming from the man when questioning him after the accident.

The man's speech was slurred, the officer said, and he admitted to drinking five beers that evening. The man failed field sobriety tests and was arrested. He was held until he sobered up and faces a hearing in 35th District Court.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township Police at 349-9400.

Church sponsors grief program

A recovery program entitled "Journey Through Grief" will be presented at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville starting Monday, Sept. 26.

The five-week program is being led by Georgann Fuller, therapist and noted speaker on grief and loss, whose husband died in the terrorist bombing of Pan Am flight 103 over Scotland in December 1988.

Each program will be divided into two segments. Information will be presented during the first half of the evening and support will be offered during the second half through discussion and sharing.

Scheduled topics include: Sept. 26, "What is Grief?—An Overview"; Oct. 3, "How Grieving Affects Us"; Oct. 17, "How Grieving Differs"; Oct. 24, "Working Through Grief"; and Oct. 31, "Will I Ever Be Happy Again?" There is no meeting on Oct. 10.

The program is non-denominational and refreshments will be provided. A $10 donation is suggested.

The program will be presented from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the library of the First Presbyterian Church, 200 E. Main Street in Northville. For more information, call 349-0911.

Officials tackle longtime parking problem at NHS

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Northville High School has experienced a problem that area residents have been painfully aware of for years—too many cars, not enough parking spaces.

The solution, as high school students see it, is easy: park in the nearby neighborhoods. Area home owners, however, do not agree.

For a number of years, residents of neighborhoods surrounding the high school have expressed concern over lengthy queues of cars lining both sides of the streets and the safety hazards they might pose for drivers and pedestrians.

Last Friday David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services for Northville Public Schools, City Police Chief Rodney Cannon and City Manager Gary Word met to discuss possible solutions to the problem after receiving repeated complaints from residents.

Unfortunately, officials from both sides say there is no quick and easy solution to the problem, which could get worse as the school district's student population grows with each new year.

"We're land locked," said high school Principal Thomas Johnson of the school which is perched high on top of a hill overlooking Eight Mile Road. "There is no other method in which we can expand parking unless we carve out some of the hill."

Two years ago, school officials dug out the original site plan for the building and met with an architect to examine whether there was room for additional parking on the campus.

Johnson said the only solution would have been to cut into the hill facing Center Street, an expensive and unattractive option. Bolitho said school officials also looked into terracing the hill in 1983 but deemed the idea too costly.

The city has responded to citizen complaints by erecting "No Parking" signs in the affected areas. However, placing parking signs is simply putting a band-aid on the problem and pushing students into other areas, Chief Cannon

Cannon said he has received complaints and concerns about student parking for a number of years; the complaints, however, are coming from both sides of the issue.

"Parents are concerned too because they say, 'Hey, our kids are citizens too and it is a public street,'" Cannon said. "So there really are multiple factors involved."

Currently, 212 of the high school's 268 seniors have parking permits. Assistant Principal Dennis Colligan said every student who requested a parking permit this year received one. The school has about 220 spaces available for students; the remaining spaces are reserved for special situations. During school registration, seniors submit a request for passes.

School officials planned to conduct a lottery to dole out passes this year, but because of the number requesting them, it was unnecessary. In addition to seniors, there are 301 juniors and 325 sophomores, and many of these students become eligible to drive sometime during the year.

The city started taking measures to deter excessive student parking in residential areas in 1986 by posting "No Parking" signs Monday-Friday from 6-9 a.m. on Walnut Street. Then in 1990, parking control was expanded to include High, East and Elm streets.

The city council's most recent action was in July when it approved a 90-day trial period to post signs prohibiting morning parking on portions of Baseline Road and Grace Street south of Eight Mile.

In a letter to the council in June, Nancy Berg, president of the Cabbagetown Residents' Association, expressed the concerns of residents who live on Baseline, Carpenter and Grace roads. Her letter stated that the corridor of cars created by students poses a safety hazard because vehicles have difficulty maneuvering down the streets. The cars also present a hazard for pedestrians, especially small children, who cross the street.

The postings the city approved in July eliminated the problem in her area of the neighborhood, Berg said, but shifted it to another portion of Baseline Road.

Bolitho said a bond issue might hold the key to solving the problem. School officials are expected to bring a bond issue to voters within the next year or so to finance a new middle or high school at the corner of Eight Mile and Garfield roads. If school officials decide to build a high school at the Eight Mile site then the current high school building could serve as a middle school.

Another alternative the district could pursue would be to build a middle school on the vacant land and use the current high school and Cooke Middle School, just across the bridge, to free up parking and classroom space for the growing student population, Bolitho said.

Also, the district is considering moving the tennis courts, situated on the west side of the building, to the east hill in front of the school, and constructing additional parking between the water tower and the area where the tennis courts stood. This could be included in a bond issue request and would add about 137 parking spaces.

CECILE N. PARENT

Cecile N. Parent died Sept. 15, 1994, at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia. She was 76.

Mrs. Parent was born Aug. 15, 1918, in Rhode Island to Horace and Della Bouchard Cayouette. Mrs. Parent was a homemaker and lived in Northville most of her life.

Surviving are her sons, Norbert and Vincent of Michigan; and two sisters and two brothers living in Maine and Rhode Island. Her husband, Norbert, preceded her in death in 1984.

Services were held Sept. 17 at the Northrop Funeral Home in Northville. Officiating was Pastor Mark Mounts of Worldwide Church of God in Livonia. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Memorials to the charity of choice would be appreciated by the family.

M. AGNES BEH

M. Agnes Beh died Sept. 18, 1994, at her Northville home. She was 74.

Mrs. Beh was born Nov. 20, 1919, in Detroit to John J. and Margaret Storski Hewitt.

Mrs. Beh was a homemaker and a member of the Christ Child Society, the Ford Motor Bridge Club and a Lifemaster of the American Bridge League Association.

Surviving are her husband, Joseph C. Beh; her daughters, Nancy (Jack) Williams of Illinois, Barbara (Philip) Thomsen of Minnesota, Monica (John) Arendshorst of Holly, Mary Jo (Jim) Wilson of Dearborn Heights; sons Stephen (Susan), of Grand Rapids, Christopher of California, and Jonathan (Kathryn) of New Boston; 11 grandchildren; and her brother, John J. Hewitt of California.

Her son, David, and grandson, Chip, preceded her in death.

Services were held Sept. 21 at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville. Father Porcari officiated. Burial was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan in Southfield, or Christ Child Society in Detroit.

Little-known disease devastating to self esteem of some sufferers

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Alopecia Areata is probably not a household word for most people. It is, however, a condition that affects 2.5 million people in the United States.

September is National Alopecia Awareness Month, a time designated for increasing public knowledge of the disease and sponsoring fund-raisers to help support medical research.

"We really want more people to know about it and where they can get help," said Northville resident David Kordt, who discovered he had Alopecia when he was in his late 30s.

Alopecia is a condition that results in hair loss on the scalp and body. Men and women are affected equally and the disease can make itself known at any time. Young people, though, are affected most often.

The disease usually starts with losing clumps of hair on the scalp and can culminate in a full loss of hair on the body, including eye lashes and brows. People are afflicted with varying degrees of severity, with some living with several bald spots on the scalp.

"We really want more people to know about it and where they can get help."

Northville resident David Kordt

But however far the disease progresses, dealing with the emotional trauma is difficult, Kordt said.

Once the disease begins, Kordt said, hair loss is rapid and many sufferers lose all their hair within a matter of weeks. Alopecia is especially tough on children, who can be subjected to excessive teasing from school mates. But it's also difficult for adults who may be established in careers and must deal with a rapid change in their physical appearance, he added.

Alopecia is an autoimmune disease where the hair follicles drastically slow production, become very small and grow no hair that is visible from the surface. The follicles below the skin surface remain alive and have the potential to grow hair back. Besides hair loss, some people experience pitting of the nails or vertical grooving. There are no other medical consequences of the disease.

A local support group in Ann Arbor, the only one in southeastern Michigan, gives people with Alopecia moral support and provides discussions on medical treatments. It meets every other month at a member's home.

"We have people come in who are just devastated," Kordt said. "So it's important that the group exists."

Currently, the organization is working toward insurance legislation that would cover people who buy wigs due to hair loss from Alopecia. Wigs can be expensive, costing up to $3,000 each. Most insurance policies cover prosthetic limbs for people who lose an arm or a leg, and the group feels Alopecia-related hair loss is a comparable medical condition.

There are treatments for the disease that can stimulate hair growth, but oftentimes people can regrow hair then lose it again later. Cortisone pills are one way to treat the disease, but can have side effects like weight gain and bloating.

Another treatment called PUVA combines psoralen, a light-sensitizing medication, and exposure to ultraviolet light. Kordt said he has seen the treatment work in other people.

Anyone interested in contacting the local chapter of the National Alopecia Areata Foundation in Ann Arbor can call (313) 665-9259. For more information on the disease, write the NAAF at P.O. Box 150760, San Rafael, CA 94915-0760 or call (415) 456-4644.

Health Notes

The following events and activities will take place at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

• Eating out has become a way of life. Unfortunately, our choices can lead to excess intake of fat, cholesterol, sodium and sugar. Learn to make healthier selections when eating out at St. Mary Hospital's Nutrition Clinic "Eating Out Healthy" from 7 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 18.

Taught by a registered dietitian, the cost of the clinic is $8 per person for the one-hour clinic; $6 per couple. CareLink members receive a 10 percent discount. Menus from area restaurants are used and handouts are included. To register, call (313) 591-2983.

• In an effort to assist those who may be suffering from clinical depression, St. Mary Hospital will offer the third annual National Depression Screening Day—a free, confidential depression screening program—on Thursday, Oct. 6. Presentations will begin at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. in the St. Mary Hospital Auditorium.

Dr. K. C. Nair, chairman of the Department of Behavioral Medicine at St. Mary Hospital, will discuss causes, symptoms and treatments of depression. His discussion will be followed by a short video. Participants will complete an anonymous written form to screen for depression systems.

Put on your walking shoes

Students at Our Lady of Victory Church carry the banner of the 1994 Crop Walk for World Hunger, the 10 kilometer hike that takes place in the area Sunday, Sept. 25. Walkers will begin their trek at the Novi Civic Center at 2 p.m. and wind their way through Novi and Northville before concluding their journey at OLV. Organizers hope to raise $20,000 for hunger relief this year. Sponsoring churches include Novi and Northville First United Methodist churches; Faith Community and Northville First Presbyterian; Holy Family and Our Lady of Victory Catholic parishes; and Meadowbrook Congregational Church in Novi.

about $2,300, did even better.

Merchants lining Center Street, where the non-profit groups were set up, deserve a big pat on the back for providing the electricity to cook the food, Anker said.

Marrs said much of the credit for the success of the festival goes to the some 100 volunteers that helped organize the festival and the local businesses that sponsored it. However, she said she would have liked to see more downtown businesses contribute to the festival. Marrs encourages residents to take notice of the signs in businesses windows showing support for the Victorian Festival and patronize those businesses.

Not only was the overall festival a roaring success, the ever-popular Victorian Ball, the pomp and circumstance event of the year for Northville residents, was "the best ever," Marrs said.

This year 138 people dressed up in high gear at the Northville Community Center to dance to Victorian music and eat culinary delights from several area restaurants Saturday night.

Restaurants and businesses that sponsored the ball include: American Speedy Printing, Community Federal Credit, Brickscape, Good Time Party Store, Ambler Enterprises, Sparr's Flowers, Preferences, Casterline Funeral Home, Crawford's Restaurant, Macaroni Grill, Hungry Howies, Great Harvest Bread Company, Riffles Restaurant, Heavenly Bakery, MacKinnon's, Caffe Bravo, Edward's Caterer, Crawford's Bakery and Decanter Imports.

The newest addition to this year's festival, the Victorian Tea sponsored by the Mother's Club, was also a success.

Bonnie St. Thomas of the Mother's Club said about 150 people attended the tea and helped raise about $1,000 for the organization that generates funds for Northville schools.

St. Thomas said the tea, which was held on Sunday, was a nice way for people to admire the the Community Center's elaborate decorations the day after the ball. Many mothers and daughters attended to enjoy tea and cookies, a Victorian fashion show, a performance by the parasol brigade and Victorian music.

St. Thomas said the Mother's Club hopes to make the tea an annual event from now on.

Now Chamber of Commerce members and volunteers can rest on their laurels for a while, but it won't be long before they start up again and get ready for next year.

Marrs said they usually start planning in January for event.

"Each year you learn from your mistakes, you embellish a little more and get more money," she said.

Mill Race Matters

On Friday, Sept. 30, and Saturday, Oct. 1, the Northville Historical Society holds its 25th Tivoli Fair. The Fair, a high quality, juried Arts and Crafts event serves as one of the highlights of Northville's calendar year.

This year the Fair features more dealers as the second floor has been added. Show hours are Friday from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Admission is $3. This year 150 door prizes will be awarded. Proceeds from the two-day event make the continued operation of Mill Race Village possible.

Thank you this week to the Waterford Bend Quilters Chapter 1013 for their donation of a dresser set for use in the Yerkes House. Thank you also to the many members and friends who volunteered time and energy to make the Victorian Festival events at Mill Race a success.

Look for the names of winners of the many picnic events in next week's column. A special thanks to board member Marianne Barry who coordinated all Sunday picnic activities.

The Village remains open on Sundays between 1 and 4 p.m. until Oct. 23. The grounds are open during daylight hours unless a private function is in progress. If that is the case a sign will be posted. Look for information soon on the Christmas Walk scheduled for mid-November.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE CITY OF NOVI NOVI ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Novi, Department of Public Service, will hold a Public Hearing on Thursday, October 27, 1994 at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan. The purpose of this Public Hearing is to provide the opportunity for a public discussion of the alternative treatments under consideration for the proposed improvements of Novi Road from Twelve-and-a-half Mile Road to approximately 600 feet north of Twelve-and-a-half Mile Road. The proposed project includes the widening of Novi Road to five lanes and the construction of required storm drainage systems and non-motorized transportation facilities.

As required by Federal Regulations, an Environmental Assessment has been prepared evaluating the social, economic and environmental aspects of the project. The Environmental Assessment demonstrates that implementation of the proposed action will not have a significant impact on the quality of the human environment. Copies of the Environmental assessment are available for public inspection or may be obtained at the office of the Director of Public Services, City of Novi Civic Center.

This Public Hearing is called in accordance with the most current Federal, State and Local Public Involvement/Public Hearing Procedures. A tentative schedule for the reconstruction of this project and information concerning the right of way acquisition and the relocation assistance program will be provided at the Public Hearing. This Public Hearing is held to hear testimony of interested citizens regarding the economic, social and environmental impacts of the proposed alternatives on the area. Written statements and other exhibits in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the Public Hearing as well as requests for copies of the Environmental Assessment and/or the responses to the testimony received may be submitted to Anthony Nowicki, Director of Public Services, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan 48375 at any time up to ten days after the Public hearing.

INTRODUCING The New Life Center at Providence Park

Where families are born...close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE

Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH

It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

THE CHOICES ARE MANY

From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF But don't take our word for it. Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.

Education Notes

During the 1994-95 academic year, Madonna University, as part of its Humanities Film Series, will present four movies. All films are open to the public and free of charge.

The Age of Innocence, a 1993 production, will kick off the series on Monday, Oct. 3. This 120-minute film centers on a love triangle between the handsome Newland Archer, his lovely fiancée and a beautiful European countess. Daniel Day-Lewis, Winona Rider, and Michelle Pfeiffer star in this adaptation of Edith Wharton's Pulitzer Prize winning novel.

Continuing the series on Thursday, Nov. 10, will be An Angel At My Table, a 1991 winner of more than 20 international awards. It is the story of New Zealand author Janet Frame. Based on Frame's autobiography and directed by Jane Campion, Angel portrays the life of a writer who survives 200 electroshock treatments before emerging as a gifted author. The film is two hours long.

Passion Fish, produced in 1992, will be shown on Thursday, Feb. 2. Mary McDonnell plays a soap opera star who returns to her childhood home after an auto accident leaves her paralyzed and devastated. Two-time Emmy Award-winner Alfre Woodard co-stars as a nurse whose spirit and wit make for a lively interplay of personalities. Written and directed by John Sayles, this movie commemorates Black History Month.

On Tuesday, March 14, Enchanted April, will depict the story of four discontented women who liberated themselves from boring lives to spend a month at an Italian castle overlooking the Mediterranean. This 90-minute film is based on the novel by Elizabeth von Arnim, and stars Miranda Richardson and Joan Plowright.

Each film will be shown at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. in Madonna University's Kresge Hall.

For more information, call (313) 591-5197.

Beginning this fall, Madonna University will host an art exhibit featuring oil and acrylic paintings by Nora Chapa Mendoza.

Held in honor of Hispanic-American Heritage Month, this 22-day exhibit will begin on Thursday, Oct. 6, and continue through Friday, Oct. 28, in the Library Wing Exhibit Gallery on campus.

The gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. The show is open to the public and is free of charge.

For more information, please call (313) 591-5187. Madonna University is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia.

Still no playground equipment at Thornton

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Thornton Creek elementary students who are hungry to monkey around on a jungle gym or reach new heights on a swing set during recess time may have to wait a bit longer.

When the brand-new elementary school opened earlier this month, it greeted the some 474 students with a shiny new gym and cafeteria, colorful classrooms and a jam-packed media center but one thing was missing—playground equipment.

Four weeks later and kids are still waiting for the empty playground to be filled with fun gadgets.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said he expects the equipment to arrive within the next week, but when it can be installed is another story.

Installers from the playground equipment company are busy so students may have to wait another month or so before the equipment can be installed, he said.

On order is a jungle-gym-like play structure equipped with a 60-inch slide, costing $13,828, and three swing sets, which have six swings each, running $6,399.

Bolitho estimated it would take three to four days to install the equipment.

Bolitho said it is unfortunate students have had to wait so long for the equipment.

Currently, students can play the black top games that are painted on the pavement, like hopscotch or four-square.

They also can play basketball on the black top and football and soccer in the field.

In addition, extra space and some leftover funds are available to purchase more equipment for the playground. Bolitho said the school's parent-teacher association would like to be involved in the purchase and also involve the children in the decision, so that will be coming up in the future.

I DID IT!

While Supplies Last

Township Capsules

NAME CHANGE: The township's board of trustees has announced that the two millage requests on the Nov. 8 ballot will be called Proposals 1 and 2, not Proposals A and B.

Wayne County officials, who must approve the township's official ballot language, required the change. County rules say that no two proposals can have the same name in the same year.

Both A and B on the Aug. 2 ballot were defeated. Proposals 1 and 2 on the November ballot are for the same services and the same amounts: 3.84 mills for police and fire services and .40 mill for Northville Parks and Rec, Youth Assistance and senior citizen programs.

FIRE TALKS ON HOLD: Township sources report that City of Northville officials want to put ongoing discussions of a merger of the two communities' fire departments on the back burner until after Nov. 8.

That's the date of the election on Proposals 1 and 2. The vote could influence feelings on whether to pursue merger talks further.

1995 BUDGET: The board will hold a public hearing on the proposed 1995 budget for Northville Township on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. The township's fiscal year follows the calendar year.

BOTTLE DRIVE: Trustees have given their unanimous support to the Northville High School Music Boosters' upcoming pop can and bottle collection drive.

Boosters members will conduct a door-to-door campaign for bottle and can donations on Saturday, Oct. 8, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The money gained from the returnables will support NHS music programs.

To help out, have your returnables ready on Oct. 8. If you like, you can bag them up and leave them out with a note for the Boosters to pick up. Also, the A&P supermarket on Seven Mile Road has agreed to allow the Boosters to collect and sort the bottles and cans there. You can drop your donation off at the store on that day as well.

IAFRATE DISCUSSIONS STALLED: It's slow going in talks between the township and representatives of the Angelo Iafate Co. on ending a three-year-old lawsuit.

Iafate recently bought 175 acres near Six Mile and Ridge from the Holloway Sand & Gravel Co. It wants to put in an asphalt manufacturing plant and open a sand mine on the site. After months of debate, township officials rejected the plan, sparking a lawsuit that is still in the legal pipeline.

Iafate Co. attorney Allen Green earlier this summer told the board that the firm was "very interested" in working out a way to drop the suit. Township officials, however, are saying he's not yet agreed to get specific on what the company wants.

NO MARKET AT FIVE & HAGGERTY: The township's planning commission on Aug. 30 tabled a developer's plan to build a shopping center market on land at the corner of Five Mile and Haggerty.

Commissioner Mark Abbo said the body had a number of problems with the plan, particularly that it called for a 52,000 square foot building on only six acres.

year to pay for the township's portion of "shared" services it jointly funds with the city of Northville: the Parks & Rec Department, Youth Assistance and senior citizen programs.

This Sunday's Expo Day, organizers hope, will give township residents a chance to see what their tax dollars buy. You'll be able to meet township police, fire and emergency medical response personnel and learn more about what they do. They'll show and demonstrate the equipment and techniques they use, as well as offer tips on crime and fire prevention.

There will be a number of services you can take advantage of that will be part of Expo Day, as well as good old-fashioned food, fun and games.

For the kids (even the big ones who pay taxes), there'll be police cruisers and fire trucks. Also on hand will be an emergency Med-Flight helicopter, used to ferry critically injured patients to St. Joseph's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

You can learn what members of this area's S.W.A.T. team do and how they do it. Northville Township's Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) officer will be part of Expo Day, as will the township's paramedics, who will demonstrate some of their life-saving techniques.

Help your children learn to what to do in case of fire with the Fire Safety House. Kids can take part in contests to "put out" mock fires. Also on hand will be McGruff (the "Take a Bite Out of Crime" dog) and Sparky the Fire Prevention Dog.

Parents, there's another good reason to bring your kids to Expo Day. DPS officials will offer voluntary fingerprinting of your child. You're given the prints to keep, to be used in helping to find your child if he or she would ever be abducted.

Own a car? Get its Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) etched discretely on a window for free at Expo Day. The etching makes it easier to identify your car if it's stolen. Many auto insurance companies offer discounts to policyholders who have VIN etching.

Are you a homeowner? Besides learning how to be safer from crime and fire, you can buy smoke detectors and batteries for both early detection of smoke and flames.

If that all weren't enough, Expo Day will also offer a "wellness clinic" where qualified professionals will give you medical checks such as blood pressure and temperature.

Group to hold fund-raiser to aid millage effort

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Members of the community who are looking for a way to support Northville Township's Proposal 1 millage for police and fire services should circle Wednesday, Oct. 5, on their calendars. That's the day the Friends of Essential Services, a new group working to get the request passed, is holding a fund-raiser.

And when they say fund-raiser, they mean "fun." Food and drinks will be available and the millage question on the Nov. 8 ballot will be discussed. A highlight of the event will be the legendary Detroit police musicians The Blue Pigs.

(The Blue Pigs will not, however, be at the Township Department of Public Safety's Expo Day on Sept. 25, as was mistakenly reported in The Northville Record.)

It all happens from 6-10 p.m. at the Highland Lakes clubhouse, located on Silver Springs Drive in Highland Lakes. The Friends hope to raise money to buy signs and distribute literature explaining and supporting Proposal 1.

Township police and fire officials, as well as interested citizens, have put together the group. Extensive township supervisor Don Thomson chairs the Friends. He urged the community to support Proposal 1 and to take part in the Oct. 5 fund-raiser.

"Hopefully, this will help get our millage passed," Thomson said of the event. "We need it. If Proposal 1 is rejected, our services will be cut pretty severely."

With the cuts in police, our own personal safety as citizens would be at issue," he added.

Proposal 1 (formerly known as Proposal A) calls for 3.84 mills for police and fire services. Township voters rejected the same request on Aug. 2. Supporters of Proposal 1 and Proposal 2 (.40 mill for Northville Parks & Rec, Youth Assistance and senior citizen programs) say they're planning an aggressive voter education campaign this fall to make sure that

"With the cuts in police, our own personal safety as citizens would be at issue."

Don Thomson
Friends of Essential Services

the same thing doesn't happen on Nov. 8.

Passage or failure of Proposal 1 will mean the difference between having a police department and not having one. The existing police millage expires this year, as does the millage which partially funds fire services.

If voters do not approve Proposal 1, the township's board of trustees predict grim consequences. The township will have to almost completely shut down the police department and curtail fire services as well. That's why backers of Prop 1 want to get the message across to voters this autumn.

"We want to get out there and educate citizens," Friends Treasurer John Werth said. "We need to tell them what it's all about."

For more information about either the fund-raiser, the Friends or Proposal 1, call Werth at 348-5815. Donations, payable to Friends of Essential Services, may be mailed to P.O. Box 5330, Northville, 48167.

Attorney fees an issue again

"We ought to look at these figures and see if we got a good bang for our buck," she said.

Krzyzaniak was not at the study session, but this week said he did not feel his work or the money he charges constitute problems. He'll have the chance to discuss the issue with the board at its next study session, scheduled for October.

Hired in February 1993, Vanderveer Garzia now handles virtually all township legal business except for labor issues. The cost for Krzyzaniak's services—as high as $29,000 a month in 1993—now averages about $16,000 a month, Hillebrand said. In the last five years, Hillebrand added, the township has paid out the following amounts in fees from all its lawyers:

- 1988: $96,000
- 1989: $146,000
- 1990: $175,000
- 1991: $157,000
- 1992: $150,000
- 1993: $235,000

She and other trustees said that the time has come to bring the cost down, either through an agreement with Vanderveer Garzia or through hunting for cheaper representation. That isn't a new issue for the board. The trustees in October and November 1993 discussed the subject at length.

To reduce legal costs, Hillebrand last year proposed an attorney use policy which would have placed strict controls on when township employees could contact the township's lawyers for advice. A provision prevented elected officials from directly seeking attorney advice.

Instead, the trustees would submit requests to the township manager, who would then act as a go-between. That was aimed at Supervisor Karen Baja in particular, whom some on the board criticized for "excessive" use of the attorney, a charge Baja rejected.

After discussions with Krzyzaniak, he agreed to work with the board to help reduce the cost of his services. Krzyzaniak said this week he had done everything from proposing preset budget caps on legal projects to installing a toll-free 800 number.

Despite all of that, Hillebrand said, the township is on track to significantly exceed its budgeted amount for legal fees this fiscal year, as it did last year.

Krzyzaniak this week said he's doing all he can.

"I've made a very strong effort to curtail legal expenses," Krzyzaniak said. "My fees are not out of line with any fees they've paid in the past," Krzyzaniak said. "I'm trying to do the best job possible for Northville Township," he continued. "If they don't believe that—they're going to do what they want to do."

The lawyer said that the township has a lot of legal business nowadays, business which the board assigns him. A lot of labor means more cost, he indicated.

"They give me the work to do and I do it," he said. "I'm going to stand on what I've done. I've done a lot of good work for the township."

Krzyzaniak added that he is always ready and willing to discuss with the trustees any concerns they may have, including legal fees.

Some on the board said that they want to do just that, raising questions about the quality of the lawyer's work.

Trustee Russ Fogg, for example, said that Krzyzaniak "took a very pro-BFI stance" when negotiating with the company on behalf of the township for a composting site.

Several on the board criticized the fact that the township paid Krzyzaniak almost $8,000 for his work relating to a group home opened earlier this summer in the township. Despite paying out the money, Trustee Gini Britton said, "we got no direction from the attorney."

Some of the trustees also charged that Krzyzaniak was slow to answer their questions about his costs.

"I've asked for answers to these questions and I usually don't get them," Hillebrand said.

Supervisor Karen Baja said that the board should "show Mr. Krzyzaniak the courtesy of discussing this with him face-to-face. It serves no one any good if there's not a trust of our attorney."

Trustee Mark Abbo agreed.

"We need to give Len the opportunity to respond to all of this," he said.

Trustees debate report flowchart

ported that move.

"I don't want a filter between me and the chief elected official to hinder my getting work done," Snider said.

The township manager, Snider argued, should not have to be immediately consulted on every DPS decision, particularly those which have to be made in emergencies.

Other department heads in the township will continue to report to the manager, who will in turn report to the board about their doings, no matter what final decision is made about DPS.

The second question was far more contentious: should the manager report to the supervisor, who would then report to the board, or should the manager report directly to the board?

The debate revolves around some trustees' and residents' views of actions Supervisor Karen Baja has taken during her two years in office. Baja has received much criticism for—in some observers' opinions—going above and beyond her appropriate role. It's a charge she steadfastly denies, including at the Sept. 15 study session.

At the meeting, Baja said that the debate isn't about her actions but about the way some members of the board feel about her personally. The trustees, she said, criticize her for her decisions but do not offer to take the responsibility for making them in the future.

"I'm sick and tired of you all wanting to get it me personally and trying to do it under the guise of doing what's best for the township," Baja said in a strident tone.

"We're not getting anything done," Baja said. "We're not moving forward at all. I don't care who runs it. You want to be in charge, make a motion and be in charge. But you can't hold me responsible if it doesn't work."

"I've got no axe to grind," Trustee Russ Fogg said in response. "The notion that I don't act in the township's best interests I resent."

Many on the board said they favored the manager/board system. Baja cautioned them that it would have drawbacks, such as the difficulty involved in getting seven trustees' OK for emergency decisions, versus that of one supervisor.

"I don't care, but there's a flip side to everything," Baja said.

It was Trustee Mark Abbo, however, who said the one thing with which every board member seemed to agree.

"How are we going to get this resolved so that it doesn't keep coming up all the time?" Trustee Mark Abbo said. "Because, personally, I'm tired of discussing it."

The board will give the matter another day in court and is expected to make a decision before a new manager comes on board.

That could be as early as next month. The short list compiled by the township's executive search consultant has been narrowed to eight, Hillebrand said. Public interviews of the two or three finalists could begin as early as next week.

Election day is just around the corner and you can still do your civic duty, even if you're not going to be in Northville on Nov. 8. City and township residents can request absentee ballots from their respective clerks' offices.

On the November ballot will be candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives and U.S. Senate, governor, the State House and Senate, Wayne County Executive and a number of other political and judicial offices.

Northville Township voters will decide two millage requests as well. Proposal 1 asks for 3.84 mills for police and fire services. Proposal 2 asks for .40 mill to continue funding the Northville Parks & Rec Department, Youth Assistance and senior citizen programs, efforts the township funds in conjunction with the city of Northville.

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP:

If you're already on the mailing list, you can expect your absentee ballot within the next few weeks. The first wave of ballots to those outside the state or country are expected to go out at the end of the month, officials say. The rest will follow in early October.

If you want to be placed on the mailing list, you must fill out an application form. You can do that at Township Hall, located on Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty. You can also request that one be mailed to you by calling the clerk's office at 348-5800.

NORTHVILLE CITY:

Those who were on the list to be mailed an absentee ballot for the Aug. 2 primary will receive one for the November voting as well, city officials say. The first ballots are expected to be mailed out in the first week of October.

If you want to be added to the list, you must fill out an application form. The application deadline is Oct. 29. You can apply for one at City Hall on Main Street. Call the city clerk's office at 349-1300.

Help sought for several school committees

The Northville Board of Education is requesting citizen participation on several education committees. A general overview of committee structures follows:

Enhancement Millage Committee—

To review the possibility of the district recommending a maximum of three mills of enhancement millage for two years. Areas of interest: technology, infrastructure, fund equity.

Committee would meet one or two times monthly (evening or lunchtime) depending on availability of committee members.

Bond Issue Committee—

To review information from the Future Facilities Use Committee report and make recommendations in January/February, 1995, to board of education for construction of new secondary school.

Committee would meet one or two times monthly, depending on need and availability of committee members. Schedule would be determined at first meeting.

Technology Committee—

A citizen/staff committee to review present technology program for students, staff training, equipment, hardware and software needs, etc. Recommendations will be included within Enhancement Millage and Bond Issue committees' recommendations. Schedule would be determined at first meeting.

Middle School Evaluation—

Evaluation of both middle schools from the original design implemented about 10 years ago. Determine if district is successful in all areas of student service and learning.

Committee would meet one or two times monthly, intensifying during evaluation periods. Final report to the board of education March/April, 1995.

If you are interested in joining any of these committees, please contact the superintendent's office at (810) 344-8440 and leave your name, address and phone number.

Allan Academy gets year in full swing

Students returned to William Allan Academy for the 1994-95 school year on Sept. 6, and their parents began the year by attending the Sept. 14 open house in volume.

The open house was an opportunity for parents to become more fully acquainted with staff and policy, as well as to observe the early and industrious work of the children.

In celebration of the Victorian Festival, a full school field trip was held Sept. 16 to Wash Oak School at Mill Race Village. Students and teachers stepped back in time reenacting Victorian school days through period costumes, making their own ink from berries and writing with pens fashioned from turkey feathers, as well as foregoing the usual luncheon conveniences by bringing simple foods wrapped in kerchiefs and twine.

Lessons were taught from the McGuffey Reader, and the children enjoyed games from olden days during recess, coming away from the day with a greater understanding of yesterday and appreciation for today.

Students are eagerly anticipating the school fair, to be held Sept. 30, immediately after school, from 3:30 to 8 p.m. Activities will include games, a silent auction, face painting, a sundae making booth, and the popular book fair, offering a wonderful opportunity to choose quality books at exceptional prices. The school fair is a most enjoyable family outing for past, present and future William Allan students.

October promises to be a busy month for all grades beginning with a preschool field trip to Erwin Orchards in South Lyon for apple picking and tasty treats, and the annual MWF Preschool VIP Night. Students invite that "very important person" to share an evening of school activities and snacks.

Other October happenings include California Achievement Tests administered on Oct. 11 and 12; a field trip to the Ann Arbor Historical Museum for grades four and five; and a visit from the Huron Valley Humane Society at which time students present donations to help support the important work of the facility.

There are still some openings in the Tuesday/Thursday preschool class for three- and four-year-old students. Please contact the school at 349-5020 for further information.

Water rates sent higher in city

enced an increase was in January 1993 when a 10 percent water and sewer adjustment went into effect. At that time, the city's professional consultants, Plante & Moran, recommended a 14 percent increase on June 30, 1993, and an identical hike for June 30, 1994. Those were not approved, however, due to lack of board action.

"We have absorbed a number of increases from Detroit and Wayne County and have not passed those increases on to the people," said Councilman Mark Cryderman. "We have already avoided two big increases, but it is catching up with us."

Currently, the water rate is $1.65 per unit and the sewer charge is $4 per unit. A unit is equal to 1,000 gallons of water.

After Oct. 1, water will be $1.88 and sewer $4.56 per unit.

City Manager Gary Word said the city is not happy imposing double-digit increases, but such hikes are necessary to keep the system running.

"The bottom line is we have to bring in enough revenue to operate the system," Word said.

Other reasons for the increase cited by city officials concern working capital for the water/sewer system, which should total at least $500,000-$700,000 to function as a safety net for emergencies or to cover new county or city mandates. Currently, the city has $328,908, or about half the working capital it needs, city officials say.

In a letter dated Sept. 14 to the city council, Northville resident Robert Lockwood outlined the details of his own survey of water and sewer rates from nine other communities in the area. Lockwood found that Northville's rates are considerably higher than those in the other communities he reviewed.

City Controller Nickie Bateson also conducted a survey of water/sewer rates for surrounding communities, including Novi and Northville Township, and found that while Northville's water rates are somewhere in the middle of the 10 communities surveyed, sewer rates were highest.

City Assessor Mark Christiansen, however, said that the rates are about average for a city of Northville's size and age.

The high sewer rates stem from a number of problems due to the system's age and makeup, Christiansen said.

Northville's landscape consists of a high water table with many underground springs and some ground water infiltrates the sewer system causing more sewage to flow from the city, Christiansen said. That situation results in higher costs, the assessor added.

Although it is difficult to determine exactly how much ground water flows into the sewer system, the city is attempting to tackle the problem by conducting smoke tests in the sewers and monitor the ground water inflow.

Another problem facing the city is that several storm sewers are connected to the sanitary sewer system causing an increased amount of sewage during stormy times of the year.

"The system is so old that at one point in time it was not even considered," Christiansen said. "It just wasn't a problem then."

In the future city residents could see additional increases, Christiansen said, if the city is forced to buy additional sewer capacity from Wayne County or must build a retention basin to collect storm water.

The increased revenue will go for repairs in various areas of the city where there are leaks. Repair and maintenance costs that are not budgeted for next year total $472,030. Maintenance costs the city has identified include:

- Dubuque water main replacement (1995 budget), $75,560
- Catholic water tower protection (1995 budget), $13,000
- Rural Hill water main replacement, $94,600
- North Center Street water main replacement, $144,930
- Citywide water meter replacement program, $112,500
- Water tower repainting, $120,000.

Word said the city loses about 15-20 percent of its water through main leaks, an average amount for the system's age. Excessive sewage discharge is another cause of loss.

In 1993 the city detected a main leak that could have had residents looking at a 35, rather than a 14 percent increase. A main leak near Northville Downs was causing the city to lose almost 44 percent of its water. The leak was difficult to detect because the water was flowing into the Rouge River. After the main was repaired, the city's water loss was reduced to about 20 percent.

Had the leak not been detected and repaired, residents would be paying much more.

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers suggested the council approve a $1 increase for the monthly fees, feeling that a $2 hike was too steep. The $5 monthly charge would leave an approximate $22,000 shortfall in the budget and Ayers said she would be willing to look into other areas of the budget to make cuts.

The proposal passed 3-1 (Councilman Paul Folino was absent) with Councilman Charles Keys opposing the $5 charge as too little.

"It's like putting a band-aid on a major surgical procedure," Keys said. "I don't think it's enough."

Johnson agreed with Keys that $5 was not enough for the program but said it is better than nothing.

The city's refuse and recycling program costs about $415,000 annually. Officials estimate that costs will increase by about 4 percent by February 1995 and by another 5 percent by February 1996. The $5 monthly fee is tacked on to residents' water bills.

The proposal also introduced new policy adjustments regarding garbage can use that could bring the city anywhere from $10,000-$12,000 in additional revenue, said City Assessor Mark Christiansen.

As of Oct. 1, more than one garbage sticker will be required for refuse that goes beyond the lip of the can and refuse cannot exceed 60 pounds per can. This policy adjustment was added because many residents were stuffing two and three bags into one can and using only one sticker.

Councilman Mark Cryderman said rather than increasing the monthly fee, he would like to see an increase in the $1.50 stickers to keep the charge where it is used the most.

In addition, the city added another policy change to the ordinance in order to comply with federal law. Effective Jan. 1, 1995, yard wastes can no longer be stored in plastic bags, but must be disposed of in paper containers.

Take a hike at Maybury State Park

Maybury State Park will be hosting several programs and hikes in the weeks ahead. On Saturday, Sept. 24, there will be a bird identification hike at 8 a.m. Meet us at the Concession Building in the main parking lot and help us start a bird inventory list for the park.

On Saturday, Oct. 1, there will be a fall color hike at 1 p.m. Come see the changing of the seasons on this walk through the woods, which will begin at the Concession Building.

A bird hike at 8 a.m. on Oct. 8 will begin at the Riding Stable parking lot off Beck Road south of Eight Mile. This hike will focus on birds in and around the fishing pond area.

Maybury's Living Farm will also have family programs. The October "Farm Stories" program for kids ages two to six will feature pigs at 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, and at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2, in the Farm Demo Building.

The Maybury Harvest Festival is on Sunday, Oct. 9, from noon to 4 p.m. There will be demonstrations of blacksmithing, wool spinning, basket weaving, and rope making.

as well as expanded children's activities.

Horse-drawn hayrides are available in September and October on Saturdays and Sundays.

Maybury State Park is located on Eight Mile Road, one mile west of Beck. A $4 daily or $18 annual state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry.

RECORD OPINION

THURSDAY
September 22, 1994

Our Opinion

Trustees must get on with task of governing

If you've ever been part of a team, you know that the team can't win unless everyone is doing his or her assigned job. When members of the unit don't clearly understand what each player is supposed to do, responsibilities become clouded. Confusion results. The cogs become fatigued from wear and the machine grinds to a halt.

That brings us to the current state of affairs in Northville Township. Almost since day one, the members of the current board of trustees have debated the question of who does what, spending a good deal of their time mired in gridlock.

Much of this springs from the actions of Supervisor Karen Baja. Her fellow trustees, some members of the public and this newspaper have all, at one time or another, charged her with overstepping the bounds of her authority. That's been particularly true since February, when she took over many of the duties of departing township manager Bill Richards.

Now, it looks like board members are ready to take a definite stance. They're going to choose between two versions of township governmental structure: either having the manager report to the supervisor, who would then report on his or her doings to the board; or having the manager report directly to the elected officials. Tied in to the trustees' choice is the question of the powers and responsibilities of the supervisor, the manager and the board itself.

We don't care which way the board goes in deciding between the two alternatives, so long as it makes a decision and sticks to it.

Board members have wrestled with this for far too long. It's hampering their ability to get things done for their constituents. The time to end the uncertainty is now. Trustees need to take two key actions:

- Pick a governmental structure.

Another festival takes its place in history books

It's like Christmas in that you prepare for it for months and before you know it, it's over.

The Sixth Annual Victorian Festival followed in the tradition of the first five and broke new ground at the same time. Like its predecessors, there was pomp and parades, food and fun, damsels and daring. It had games for kids of all ages, a corridor of arts and crafts, carriage rides, strolling musicians, stage acts and novelty performers.

New this year was a Victorian tea event, which gave festival-goers who didn't attend the Saturday night ball the chance to glimpse the inside of the Community Center, breathtakingly transformed into a first-rate ballroom.

And, of course, there were plenty of lassies, ladies and gents looking like they had just stepped out of a Dickens novel.

Throw in a helping of mild, agreeable weather and you've got a recipe for success. Though hard figures are not yet available, early indications are that the crowds were happy and heavy. The Box Lunch Auction, for example, raised a record amount of revenue for the PTA Coordinating Council.

Legions of volunteers are required to put on an event of this magnitude and we are only able here to acknowledge the ones

- Clearly define the responsibilities and powers of trustees and those of the manager and supervisor.

The debate over Baja's management style, like the Energizer Bunny, just keeps going and going. There comes a time, however, when arguing a point becomes fruitless. The township reached that stage a long time ago. Whatever side of the debate you come down on, what's done is done and no one's interests are served by a continued fixation with this issue. It's time for the team to make decisions. Give everyone his or her assignment then get on with the game. Concentrate on doing your job and let others on the squad concentrate on doing theirs.

That means facing hard choices. The board needs to let whomever it selects as its chief administrator administrate. It's a policy-making body and shouldn't fall into the trap of micro-managing. Board members may just have to live with some choices its administrator makes, without nailing his or her hide to the wall in public.

That's the only way a team can function, the only way it can win. Otherwise, you'll just have a collection of individuals mulling around on the field, getting little, if anything, done. As proof of that, just look at the board's track record.

Ultimately, the blame game will get trustees—and more importantly, township residents—nowhere. It's time to move on; the game clock's ticking. Enough's enough.

who were most prominent in heading up the various committees.

Among those going above and beyond were:

Donna Pallas, who worked tirelessly on the parade; Dr. Rudy, who keeps beating back talent agents to remain a Northville exclusive; Sue Anker and Melody Arndt who organized the non-profit booths; Nancy Hackett and Carol Jean Stockhausen, who devoted long hours to the children's games; Kevin Pavlina, Roxanne Casterline, Steve Cook and a cast of dozens whose creativity provided the setting for the Saturday night ball in the community center; Monica Katona, the Box Lunch Auction coordinator; Jean Claire Vafakas, the entertainment organizer; Jackie Murray of the Northville Arts Commission, sponsors of the Art Market; members of the National Honors Society at Northville High School, who brought enthusiasm and sparkle to their task of staffing the information booth; and Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the principal sponsor of the Victorian Festival.

Congratulations to all who participated in this worthwhile and successful community endeavor.

A great city deserves a great fair, and we've got one!

Lee Snider

It was a great weekend in the old hometown area, what with the simultaneous staging of the Victorian Festival in Northville and the Country Fest in Novi. I got a little exasperated thinking about attending two major civic functions on the same day, but when the time came I had fun shuttling up and down Novi Road between the two events.

For the sake of my wasteline, I should have jogged back and forth from one site to the other, but I don't think I could have made it. I was too weighed down from Italian sausage sandwiches and nut-topped ice cream cones.

Besides, I would have missed too much of the action. At my running speed, I could have left the American Legion Hall in Northville the first thing in the morning and still arrived too late for singer Sean Camp's heal-kickin' encore in Novi that same night.

Festival fanatics who couldn't get enough of the great barbeque-scented outdoors might have seen me passing out guides in Northville Friday night and staffing our "Bash the Press" booth Saturday afternoon in Novi.

In the former case, I pulled a shift at the information gazebo handing out copies of the festival supplement we publish every year. In the latter instance, I did my duty helping to draw unsuspecting patrons into our irresistible crush-a-computer celebration.

See, after we got our new processors here at the office, we decided to put the old jalopy models to good use. So we set the terminals up in the parking lot of the Expo Center and offered people the chance to club them into submission with a sledge hammer. We charged a dollar a pop, with proceeds going to the charitable organization

Civic Concern.

We did fairly well, collecting $40 and enjoying every destructive minute of it. It gave us a chance to get even with those temperamental machines that always seemed to know the worst moments to try our patience. We billed the event as the ultimate opportunity to get back at the press, and some of our clients lovingly dedicated their overhead slams to such unassuming types as Bill Bonds, Mitch Albom and Joe Falls. Only once did someone project a mental image of our staff onto the target area, and we figured she was just kidding (or at least only half serious).

The entertainment in Northville was great, too, though not exactly of the same "hands-on" variety. I was glad to get a break from the nerve wrenching high-wire Wallendas who performed last year, though the high-pole dancers at this year's installment weren't much mellow. I thought their heads were going to unscrew the way they were spinning around in those jaw harnesses.

Then there was the fire eater, who surely has solved the mystery of how to eat jalapeno without seizing up. And I'll bet I wasn't the only one who really expected the human cannonball to get shot out of a barrel, make a summer-sault in the air and land on his feet "next to the guy with the beard." I noticed a lot of surprised faces when the cannon backfired and the helmeted daredevil fell softly to the ground out of the rear of the barrel, pants smoldering from a planted smoke bomb.

Appropriately, P.T. Barnum's words are as true today as they were when Grover Cleveland spent his afternoons snoozing in the Oval Office. There really is a sucker born every minute. Just ask Dr. Rudy.

It was all terrific fun and yet more proof that people in Northville and Novi do, in fact, know how to make merry on a late summer's night.

"Keep your fingers off my radio dial," my friend warned me.

"I just want you to hear this new country station," I tried to explain.

"You like country music? You can't be serious. You listen to classical music," she cut me off. "Yup. I'm a little bit country, a little bit opera. Besides, there's this little matter of Dec. 24, 1779..."

Because of that date, I think I'm entitled to a percentage of all profits made by Nashville recording artists. And they're making a lot these days.

When even upscale, suburban Novi throws a Country Festival, you know the sound has gone mainstream. The attraction's there for those of us who grew up with rock 'n' roll, are burnt out on Oldies and unimpressed with what Top 40 stations are cranking out.

The new country sound is mostly rock with a Southern twang. Much like traditional folk music, many of the lyrics tell a story. Sometimes, the words are downright funny.

It's fresh, it's new. I'm entitled to some of the money. The closest I've ever been to a Nashville star was at the Country Festival last Saturday, when Sean Camp and company were performing. Sitting in the back of the Entertainment Tent, I got a paper napkin from a hot dog vendor and scrawled out a lawsuit. I just couldn't get anybody to serve it on him.

But I think I have a real case.

I may even have a co-plaintiff, my sister. There are those who might call my only sibling a yuppie, but I am not one of them. Although she's convinced the epicenter of paradise is somewhere near Los Angeles, she's domiciled in Dallas.

I was down there in July. As always, I asked her to take me to a raunchy honkytonk. Instead, we shopped at The Galleria, we ate at this ever-so-trendy Ethiopian restaurant. We drank latte. Never got near any place with a juke box.

"You don't really want to go listen to Country music?" my sister always tells me.

"Yes, I do and so should you. Because of Dec. 24, 1779. That's the day the City of Nashville, Tenn.-E-see was founded."

She's a little dense, so I had to explain it. Our great-great-great-grand daddy, then a 20-year-old Revolutionary War veteran, was a member of the founding party. If it weren't for these original Nashville cats, there wouldn't be any Grand Ol' Opry, there wouldn't be the Nashville sound.

The way I figure it, as genuine, legitimate descendants, we ought to get a cut on every Nashville hit record. Money, my sister understands.

"Come to think of it, I did once hear this Garth Brooks song that wasn't so bad. It was called 'I've Got High Friends in Places,' or something like that," she said.

Editorial on salaries missed point

Your Sept. 8 editorial regarding Northville Public Schools administrators' salaries was an excellent example of how misguided the Northville Record editorial staff can be.

You claimed that "the administrators' salaries are competitive with those of other school district managers," yet you fail to list even one "other" district for comparison. Why not do a dollar per student comparison of Northville and some of these others.

For example, you could have shown us how Dr. Rezmierski is paid more than $22 per student while Dr. Snead of Detroit earns about 75 cents per student. Then, compare these numbers to what you would consider to be districts comparable to Northville.

But to compare administrators' salaries to a football player, you just don't get it. If you believe that a football player is overpaid, you show your dissatisfaction by refusing to pay the high ticket prices, and you don't go to the game. If you believe that your school administrators (or any other government officials) are overpaid, see how far you get by refusing to pay your taxes.

If these comparisons and analogies are too difficult to comprehend, you need only to look to the front page article directly below the one announcing the administrative salary increases. Northville Schools anticipate a $39,000 funding shortfall. Take away the increases in administrators' salaries, the increases in the administrators' tax sheltered annuities, and the increases in the administrators' other benefits and see how quickly your funding shortfall disappears.

Rec programs are needed

To the Editor:

Our family has lived in the Northville area for many years and our three children attend the Northville schools. We have always participated in the programs offered by the Northville Parks and Recreation. We started with the programs designed for the young child, like ballet, pillo polo, swimming, and the Halloween parties, advancing to basketball, baseball, soccer and ski club. My children have learned good sportsmanship, and fair play, plus they are exercising, learning to be members of a community, and most importantly, getting the opportunity to see and make friends and have a place to play.

This year alone the baseball program had 1,200 players from the area sign up to play ball and soccer, this fall the program had 700 players. With these numbers it is apparent the local children are taking advantage of the programs being offered and the adults and seniors are also signing up for their volleyball, softball, clogging, senior trips, men's basketball and dances. Traci, Nicki and Karen, plus all the workers of the Recreation Department do an outstanding job of offering and managing all the different activities.

We hear and read constantly that today's youth have no place to go, nothing to do, and nowhere to get together with friends. Northville Recreation is open to the public and offers many fine programs designed for tots all the way up to seniors. There are activities for every age group. Along with playing the different sports, my children have also had the opportunity to officiate soccer and their friends are earning money officiating baseball and basketball.

The opportunities to work and play at the Recreation Department are endless.

The Recreation Department is always in need of new equipment, new fields and improving and expanding the facilities and programs. With the large number of children and adults using the facilities, new programs being added, and replacement items needed, the Recreation Department needs our support. Please support any millage vote for the Parks and Recreation Department. It is a very important part of our community, for the children and the adults.

People responded to lunch auction

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank our Northville community for the fantastic response to the PTA Box Lunch Auction during the Victorian Festival on Sunday. Never before have we had so many contributions from our merchants, our school community and individuals. Among the Objects of the PTA are "To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, community and place of worship ... To develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for all children and youth the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education."

Your generous and creative support of our efforts and our projects demonstrates that our community values the welfare of our children, values enhancing the challenging job of parenting, and values a partnership among school, parents and community.

The proceeds from the Box Lunch Auction will fund our Parent Education Workshops on Wednesday, Jan 25, 1995. This annual event is open to our entire community, free of charge. Please join us so you can benefit from the variety of speakers and topics. You have also enabled us to expand our other projects, including our Art Appreciation, Health and Safety, Legislative Action and Reflections committees.

This cooperative effort and mutual respect was part of how we were evaluated to be named Outstanding PTA Council in Michigan, 1994. Thank you Northville—this is truly a great place to raise children.

Northville Council of PTAs

OLV appreciates festival support

To the Editor:

The winner of the OLV PTO Bike Raffle was Diane Fessler. And the winner of the eighth grade class Victorian Doll Raffle was Mrs. Pelc. OLV would like to thank everyone who supported our fund-raisers at the Victorian Festival this past weekend. A special thank you to the Town and Country Cycle Shop and the Victorian Doll Shoppe in downtown Northville for their participation.

Barb Welcer, OLV PTO

'Queen's' reign was terrific

To the Editor:

I want to thank the Northville Chamber of Commerce for having me reign as Queen Victoria for the Victorian Festival. It was a wonderful experience and I thoroughly enjoyed it.

Laurie Marrs, the festival chairperson, made me feel very special and went out of her way to make all my costume arrangements for me. She was very dedicated to having a successful festival and she was wonderful to work with.

Also a big thank you to Elizabeth's Bridal for the use of the Queen's Crown and Sutton's Costume Shop in Waterford for the use of the ball gown and accessories.

The whole festival was great and I feel that the Chamber of Commerce did a spectacular job of putting the festival on.

Art Market was very successful

To the Editor:

There are many of you in this community who deserve a very sincere "thank you" for making our 8th Annual Art Market a huge success.

Of course, my thanks to the members of the Northville Arts Commission and the members of the 8th Art Market Committee who worked so diligently and enthusiastically on this project. The Northville Department of Public Works and the Northville Police Department gave us an extra effort and met all of our requests.

I especially want to thank all of the volunteers who helped at the Arts Commission booth and relieved the artists by booth sitting. We have a following of excellent artists who always look forward to the hospitality of the Northville Art Market.

Because of the generosity of our Northville youth, like Laura Thomas and Heather Lebeck and her mother, Mrs. Lebeck, we were able to include a participatory Children's Art Booth this year.

I would like to thank the late Michael Winfield Key, the former chairperson of the Art Market, for any influence he might have had in warding off the predicted rain.

Jacquelyn Murray, Chairperson
8th Annual Art Market

Clinton had right to move in Haiti

To the Editor:

When North Korea invaded South Korea in 1950, President Harry S. Truman obtained U.N. approval to beat back the aggressor. Though 33,651 Americans died, and 103,284 suffered non-mortal wounds, war was never declared, instead our involvement was designated a "police action."

When General Cedras ousted democratically elected President Aristide (elected by a whopping 67%), President Clinton obtained U.N. approval to restore Aristide to his rightful office, not by declaring war on Haiti, but by a "police action" to be executed by the U.S.A. and a considerable number of other nations, mostly from South America and the Caribbean. It follows that President Clinton need not have been constrained by Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution.

School format violates constitution

Phil Power

How would you like your tax dollars to pay for a school that:

- Does not employ certified teachers?

• Teaches children in their homes, not in school with other kids?

• Has a science teacher who says that he can't teach evolution because he believes in creationism?

• Recruited many of its students at Christian home school meetings and offers the Accelerated Christian Education Plus curriculum?

• Leases its headquarters for $1 per year from a conservative Bible Institute in Oak Brooke, Ill.?

Not much, you say?

That's what will happen if the folks running the Noah Webster Academy have their way.

Noah Webster is an enterprise with religious ties that proposes to link kids being taught at home by computer to teachers hanging out in an old log cabin near Ionia. That's fine, as far as it goes. The constitution says parents have a perfect right to educate their kids in whatever legal way they see fit—as long as they don't expect the rest of us taxpayers to foot the bill.

But when we adopted Proposal A, we also adopted some foggy language that authorized "charter schools" to receive $5,000 or more per pupil direct funding from the state of Michigan.

So last April, the Berlin Orange Fractional School No. 3 in Ionia County—a nearly-broke appendix of a school district with one elementary school, 20 students and one teacher—granted Noah Webster a 99-year "charter school" designation. That could run the public tab as high as $11 million per year, if Noah Webster's most optimistic enrollment projections turn out.

There is a whiff of a fix here: Could the charter designation be a quid pro quo for a downstream slice of public money for Berlin Orange Fractional School No. 3?

Not Surprisingly, a whole lot of people sued on the grounds that Noah Webster looks very much like a private school trying to get public taxes to pay for it. Last week, Ingham Circuit Judge William E. Collette refused to enjoin public money from going to the academy. Now state superintendent of public instruction Robert E. Schiller has to investigate to see if Noah Webster is really a private wolf trying to wear public sheep's clothing.

If he does, the academy will sue, evidently with forethought and pleasure. The Noah Webster case will go all the way to the Supreme Court "without a doubt," said David A. Kallman, the academy's founder and a lawyer who has spent much of his career trying to overcome the constitutional separation of church and state. "We are intentionally doing this to test the issue," he said.

What is very sad about this whole situation is that the Noah Webster ripoff puts at risk the great potential for school reform represented by other charter schools. So far, six other schools have been chartered in Michigan on the idea that non-monopolistic schools might produce innovation and improvement without threatening the rest of the other public schools in Michigan.

"If someone wanted to design a charter-school proposal to make the law look bad, this is the sort of thing one might do," Ted Kolderie, a Minnesota charter school advocate, told the Wall Street Journal. I know Kolderie. He's sensible, and he's right.

State Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, whose committee wrote the charter school provision into Proposal A, was also quoted in The Journal: "The enemies of charter schools are going to say, 'See, we told you so.' And there are a whole lot of people out there just waiting to trip this whole movement up."

Innovation is one thing. Trying to twist the constitution into getting the public to pay for a religious school is another.

If you feel strongly about what's going on, I suggest you write to Robert E. Schiller, superintendent of public instruction, at the Department of Education, PO Box 30008, Lansing, MI 48909. He's facing a complicated legal and political situation, and I know he'd like to hear from you.

Northwestern connector under discussion

A $26 million proposal to extend Northwestern Highway through to the Haggerty Connector or Fifteen Mile Road will be discussed at a series of meetings this fall in West Bloomfield.

The three meetings will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in West Bloomfield at the Orchard Lake Middle School Cafeteria, 6000 Orchard Lake Road.

The first is on Sept. 28. This session will focus on issues, opportunities and constraints such as trees, hills, driveways and pedestrian routes.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is eyeing three possible ways to bring the highway west while bypassing West Bloomfield, which has been firm that a Northwestern Extension is not wanted there.

One alternative would hook Northwestern into Fourteen Mile Road between Orchard Lake and Haggerty roads and then link to the Haggerty Connector. Another possibility discussed is tying into Fifteen Mile Road. The third prospect would use both mile roads.

In addition, Fourteen Mile, Fifteen Mile or both could be turned into four-lane urban boulevards.

RECORD OUR TOWN

September 22, 1994

Jade Scott and Laura Ruby, natives of the Northville and Novi area, are the core members of the Oriental Spas. They describe their latest release, Pain, as the most personal and intimate of their four recordings. "It's the perfect album to throw on if you just broke up with somebody," says Ruby. Though they've now cut four records together, Scott and Ruby prefer the immediacy of live performing

It's a family affair

Local brother/sister act forms core of rock ensemble Oriental Spas

By MICHELLE HARRISON
Staff Writer

Jade Scott of the hit rock group Oriental Spas first started demonstrating his musical abilities at around the age of 2 by banging on the family piano.

It took his younger sister, Laura Ruby, a little longer, though, to display her musical talent. She was 4 when she made her debut as the little girl who sang "I wish I was an Oscar Meyer Wiener..."

"It was a commercial my Dad lined me up to do," Ruby said.

Dad is Larry Santos, a well-known commercial singer and vocalist in his own right. In fact, he recently released his latest album, Larry Santos-Viva Arriva, on Overture Records.

The Santos call the Novi/Northville area home. Their company—Overture Music Productions, Recording, Records and Film—is nestled among the trees on Beck Road in Novi.

The Oriental Spas has been around for about six years. It's outgrown some of its members, but Scott and Ruby remain its core. Other members include Tim Patalin, bass guitar; and Jody Cortez, drummer, who played in the studio with Scott and Ruby; and Dave Devore, drummer; Will Castratti, rhythm guitar; and Scott Stern, keyboards, play during live performances.

Ruby is the group's lead singer while Scott plays most of the instruments and writes the songs.

"We've written all of our stuff," Scott said.

They have just released their fourth album entitled Pain. It's receiving radio play across the country on stations in Miami, Fla.; Jacksonville, Springfield and Urbana, Ill.; Baton Rouge, La.; Boston, Mass.; Ft. Collins, Colo.; Poplar Bluff, Mo.; Ft. Dodge and Sioux City, Iowa; and Lexington, Ky. Both Scott and Ruby were also guests on Detroit's ZRock in July where their new album was previewed.

Scott describes the group's music as a mix between groove and rock.

"I start with a rhythm and build on a pulse until it begins to feel good to play," Scott explained.

He admits to being "very influenced" by the blues and names the Beatles, Elton John and Kate Bush as his favorites in the business.

Oriental Spas plans to begin touring this fall. They could be on the road for as little as two weeks or as long as six months.

"At our level, we're obviously on an independent label—we're a growing band," Ruby said. "It's very expensive and cost-prohibitive when you're on the road."

Sometimes the band can travel from one gig to the other, driving all night to make it to the next show.

"You play to as many people as you can get to," Ruby said. "... it can be rough (especially) being a woman, just the balance of a woman's hormones in that they're differently set up than a man's. A man's body is set up for grueling (work)."

Scott admitted that men do have it a bit easier being on the road.

"Things like even going to the bathroom (can be difficult for a woman)," he said. "We've played some pretty crummy clubs."

But both brother and sister are willing to pay their dues.

"It's most definitely worth it if we can shed our own music on everybody," Ruby said.

"You have to do the necessary evils in rock 'n' roll," Scott admitted.

On past tours, Oriental Spas have opened up for such popular bands as Bad Company, Concrete Blonde, Night Ranger, Jackyl and Blue Oyster Cult.

Although they have cut four albums in the studio, both Ruby and Scott prefer to perform live.

"It's sad, a lot of kids don't listen to live music anymore," Scott said. "A lot of good music is not being heard because MTV practically rules the roost of what is played."

"(Performing live) is like no other thing at all," Ruby said. "It's completely gratifying. It's a lot different than being in the studio."

"In the studio you can get out every little whisper or growl. Out on stage, you have more energy for the people, more energy for you."

Scott said performing live is pure euphoria.

"It's pure, pure energy," he described. "It's the most high you can be. No drug or alcohol can compare to how high you can get when things are really going great on stage ... I lose my mind. I don't think of what I'm doing."

One of the group's favorite playing spots is a club called Under the Rail in Seattle, Wash.

"The people there have an entirely different attitude," Ruby said. "And an attitude of an audience can usually make or break you. Even the tough ones can be fun, too, because they're really challenging."

Also on their list of top places to play are Medford, Ore.; Salt Lake City, Utah; and the State Theater here at home.

The goal of the group is to keep making records and build on its fan base. Currently, there are approximately 600 members belonging to the Oriental Spas' fan club.

"We hope to sell enough records to keep on making records," Scott said.

DENNIS COLLIGAN

Colligan devoted to parks activities

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"We need to keep our youth active, keep things available for them."

This was uppermost in his mind when Dennis Colligan, vice principal of Northville High School, talked about his activity as a member of the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission.

And he spoke, not just as a parent but as a man who has had experience in youth activities—as former athletic director of Northville High and as coach in youth basketball, soccer, and baseball.

"We're building a Youth Sports Center at Eight Mile and Napier Road. We'll break ground next spring, and it should be available in the spring of 1996."

But that won't be enough, he thinks, because the Novi community is growing, and "we'll have a population well over 50,000 in the near future."

"The new fields will help a lot," Colligan said, "but we'll continue to use the school facilities, the school fields."

Parks and Recreation is concerned with other things, too, he said. "We need to continue to see what the needs of the citizens are," and that includes citizens of all ages and interests.

And that means, Colligan said, "we have to keep our eyes open to see what other communities are doing."

Meetings of the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission are held the second Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers. The public is invited.

Not surprisingly, Colligan said, that as members of the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission, they work with staff in areas of programming, budget, facilities, planning, and public relations, and they often find that "needs out weight means."

But "Novi is a great place to live," he continued, and back to his big interest, "our kids," he repeated, "the more we have to offer them, the better."

Garden club's book becoming a best seller

Several members of the Country Garden Club of Northville were more than a little booked while producing the club's latest masterpiece—a 166-page book about gardening.

Working on the project were Zo Chisnell, project director; Patricia Allen, Sue Raftari and Patricia Zielke. Allen used her home Page-Maker to format and design the project.

"We put in eight-hour days," including weekends," Chisnell said. "A lot of times we worked at home ... we spent hours just laying it out, putting the words together."

The project has been a success, selling out at the Bookstall on the Main. Members plan to restock at the downtown bookstore, but the books are also available at the Northville Chamber of Commerce, Genitti's Market, Ultimate Toys and Gifts, Preferences and the Mill Race Gift Shop.

"They'll be on the bestseller's list anytime now," Allen said.

Chisnell said it took about six months to complete the project, but it's not the first time the club has tried its hand at publishing.

"We did it about a year ago with a small handbook," she said. "We had always talked about doing something a little more elaborate."

And that they did. The result is seven chapters chock-filled with tips on back-fence gardening.

"People are always coming up to garden club members and asking questions," Chisnell said.

The club collected the questions and addressed them in the how-to book.

"We're still collecting information" which may be used for a future book, Chisnell said. "There was all kinds of information we couldn't use."

The book highlights areas such as wildflowers, natural gardening and shade gardening.

"Shade gardening is a big thing," Chisnell said.

The book is also "earth-friendly" in that it promotes using natural controls such as mulch to make your garden grow.

A source list is also included in the back of the book as well as a list of recommended reading.

About 300 of the 758 printed editions have been sold, according to Chisnell.

"One of our members sold over 50 books," she added, referring to Raftari's efforts.

A branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, the Country Garden Club of Northville was formed in 1977. Its 23 members meet on the first Tuesday of each month at members' homes.

"We're all ages," Chisnell said. "Some are very young members and we have some seniors."

The club raises funds through its membership dues and fund-raising activities such as its annual garden walk, garage and plant sales and proceeds from a booth it mans at the Victorian Festival. Although the club supports many community and educational organizations, a large portion of its funds go toward an annual scholarship for a Northville High School senior.

"This club is very active," Zielke said. "We're hands-on gardeners. We do social things, but we also tend to gardens."

Members include: Patricia Allen, Barb Barone, Connie Bergstrom, Lillian Cady, Lillian Chagnon, Jody Chapman, Zo Chisnell, Jody Dubuc, Julie Koerbel, Sandy LeMasters, Bette Moran, Pat Nixon, Kathleen Otton, Gerry Payne, Lynne Purcell, Sue Raftari, Theresa Schulte, Joan Ulrich, Harriet Welland, Barb Williamson, Lois Winters, Myrtle Zack and Patricia Zielke.

For more information about the club, call Chisnell at 349-3121 or Zielke at 349-3336. All are welcome to join.

MORE ABOUT THE FAIR

The following local people were exhibitors in this year's Michigan

State Fair:

The Community Arts Division—SONJA AVAKIAN of Novi entered cakes, cookies and brownies; LINDA BROWN of Novi; CINDY DRAFTA of Novi and a Hartford school teacher earned third place for her handwoven basket; DOROTHY SCHULZ of Novi won a blue ribbon for her strawberry jam, red ribbons for her raspberry jam and salsa entries and an honorable mention for her porcelain doll; JOANN WALL of Northville entered a crocheted Afghan.

COUPLE COMPETE

Michele and John Kelly of Northville rode in the seventh annual Wish-A-Mile (WAM) 300 Aug. 12-14. The WAM 300 is a three-day, 300-mile bicycle challenge starting at dawn from St. Ignace and ending at Camp Dearborn in Milford. It benefits the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan.

The 1994 WAM raised over $200,000 to help make wishes come true for children between the ages of two and 17 with life-threatening illnesses. Each of the 165 riders raised a minimum of $500.

Wedding

Kristen and Spencer Sellas

Kristen Lee Whitney and Spencer Nicholas Sellas, formerly of Northville, were united in Holy Matrimony on July 30, 1994, at the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church in Clearwater, Fla. The bride is the daughter of Janice Whitney of Bartow, Fla., and Ross Whitney of Hawkins, Texas. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Sellas of Northville.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James Stathakios of Mr. Sellas' home parish of Sts. Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church of Westland and the Rev. James Rousakes of the Holy Trinity Church of Clearwater, Fla.

Trudy Kincaid, bridesmaid and friend of the bride, sang musical selections before the ceremony. The choir of Holy Trinity Church chanted the sacramental hymns during the service.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father wearing a white silk shantung sheath, draped over the shoulder with silk chiffon. The cathedral train was held by rosettes. The rosettes were repeated in her headpiece and veil. She carried a large bouquet of white lilies and ivy. The pews were decorated with stargazer lilies and ivy, held together by netting, ribbon and strings of pearls.

The maid of honor was Laraine Sellas, sister of the groom, who wore a navy silk ankle length gown and matching shoes. She and the bridesmaids carried bouquets of stargazer lilies and ivy, encrusted with string of pearls.

The best man was Steven Sellas, brother of the bridegroom. Local ushers were Dr. Stephen Tsoucaris, cousin of the bridegroom, Michael Nader of Northville, friend of the bridegroom, and Christopher Manders, Godson of the bridegroom.

Following the Greek ancient rite,

Frank and Peggy Butler of Farmington Hills, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, served as Koumbari, who officiated at the exchange of Holy Wreaths over the bridal couple's heads.

The bridegroom wore his father's seedpearl boutonniere, which Dr. Sellas wore at his wedding 31 years ago. The bride carried an heirloom Bible that has been in the bridegroom's family for 107 years and has been carried by 27 family brides.

An hors d'oeuvre, dinner, and dessert table reception followed at Matheson Hall of Clearwater. The wedding cake was a five tier cheesecake with burgundy ribbon streaming from a bow at the top.

Each guest received a wedding favor of a Greek column candlestick done in ivory, with sugar coated almonds in netting and pearls.

Out of town guests from Alabama, Connecticut, Colorado, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas, Florida attended a rehearsal dinner, plus a pre-wedding dancing and dessert held at the hotel and a Sunday breakfast, given by Dr. and Mrs. Sellas.

The couple honeymooned in Vancouver, British Columbia, and in the Seattle, Washington, area.

The bride is a graduate of the University of South Florida and is completing her last semester at the University of Florida Law School. She will graduate in December.

The bridegroom graduated from Northville High School in 1983 and from Adrian College. He earned a master of business administration degree in management information systems from the University of South Florida. He is employed as an EDI and e-mail focus account project manager for Advantis, IBM's Value Added Network.

Engagements

Carrie Morgan/Patrick Fuelling

John and Lorna Morgan of Utica announce the engagement of their daughter, Carrie Lyn, to Patrick Dennis Fuelling, the son of Dennis and Mary Fuelling of Northville.

The bride-elect is a 1989 graduate of Utica High School. The bridegroom-elect is a 1989 graduate of Detroit Catholic Central.

Both are 1993 graduates of Western Michigan University and members of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity. She is an auditor for the CPA firm of KPMG Peat Marwick LLP. He is an auditor for the CPA firm of Doeren Mayhew of Troy.

A Sept. 30, 1995, wedding date has been set.

Stephen Cadley/Susan Jablonski

Delphine Lind of Northville is pleased to announce the engagement of Susan Clare Jablonski to Stephen Colebrook Cadley, son of Dolette Belinkie and Stephen Cadley of Stratford, Conn. Susan is the daughter of Delphine Lind and the late Julius Jablonski.

The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Redford Union High School and received a bachelor of business administration degree in 1983 from Western Michigan University.

She is employed as a sales account manager at AT&T College and University Systems.

The bridegroom-elect is a 1980 graduate of Bunnell High School and a 1986 graduate of Southern Connecticut State University where he received a bachelor of science degree. He is employed at AT&T as an account executive.

A June 1995 wedding is planned. The couple will be residing in Atlanta, Ga.

Author/lawyer is replacement speaker

Retired U.S. Sen. William Proxmire has canceled his appearance as the first guest speaker in this year's Northville Town Hall series. Proxmire was due to open the organization's 34th season with a lecture on Monday, Oct. 10. He is unable to attend, however, due to an undisclosed illness.

Attorney and best-selling author Vincent Bugliosi has been named as the replacement speaker.

Perry Mason, Inherit the Wind, The DA, LA Law. Over the years, many legal battles have been portrayed in literature, on film and on television. Courtroom drama holds a unique place in the American mind, exemplifying the victory of truth and justice over evil. And more than any one person in America today, Bugliosi captures the essence of that drama—in his profession and in the public eye.

Bugliosi is the acclaimed prosecutor who convicted Charles Manson in the bloody Tate/LaBianca murders, one of the most bizarre mass murder cases in the annals of crime. The story of that case was immortalized in his book, Helter Skelter, the biggest selling true crime book in publishing history. The book was turned into a highly successful two-part television movie which continues to draw high ratings in reruns.

Respected by his peers and admired by audiences across the country, Bugliosi has spoken before hundreds of thousands of people. With a warm personal style and a clear understanding of the facts, Bugliosi relates the stories of his cases; mysteries that he has solved, such as the Manson murders, the desert island murders, even the Kennedy assassination. Compelling, dynamic, and yet sensitive, he belies the image of the dry attorney, even when discussing his tactics and techniques of trying a case.

You may have seen Bugliosi in a television special, trying the case of Lee Harvey Oswald's assassination of John F. Kennedy. For this special he prepared for six months as if it were an actual case, working 12 hour days. His arguments have been acclaimed as the most convincing ones made in recent years against various conspiracy theories in the President's death.

Bugliosi received his law degree in 1964 from UCLA Law School. In his eight-year career as a prosecutor of the Los Angeles District Attorney's office, he tried close to 1,000 cases. He lost only one of the 106 felony cases he prosecuted. His most famous trial was that of Charles Manson. But even before that, the starring role of Robert Conrad in the TV series.

The DA, was patterned after him. He is also the author of the national best seller, Till Death Us Do Part, and more recently, And The Sea Will Tell, which became No. 1 on The New York Times best seller list and a four-hour CBS-TV mini series.

Lecture topics include: The Manson Murders, Tactics and Techniques in the Trial of a Case, which can be used for legal continuing credit, and The Kennedy Assassination ... an Argument Against Conspiracy.

Town Hall tickets are sold on a seasonal basis, so no exchange is necessary due to the change in speakers.

In their latest effort, the title truly reflects what the album is all about.

"A lot of feeling went into it, all stemming completely from Jade," Ruby said.

Anyone who has endured the pain of breaking off a relationship will relate to Pain, according to Scott.

"It's the most personal and intimate recording we've ever made," he said. "It was difficult in ways because it was so personal."

Scott said sometimes he would get a thought at 2 or 3 a.m. while composing the songs for the album.

"It was fairly easy due to my state of mind," he admitted.

"It's the perfect album to throw on if you've just broken up with somebody," Ruby said.

The album's theme is different compared to past records by the group. Telling Tree was more of a social, politically-based album.

"In the past, we've made statements," Ruby said about the group's music. But with this album being so emotional, Ruby found the songs felt natural to her as she belted them out on the latest album.

Besides pursuing their dream to someday make it big, Ruby and Scott are also partial owners in the recording studio. There are about a half dozen artists on the Overture Records label. The label attempts to produce six records a year.

"We're looking to develop young talent in the metropolitan area," Scott said, adding it would be great to bring Detroit back to the days of Motown.

"It could happen," he said. "We have a lot of talent here."

Both Ruby and Scott still live in the area. Ruby rents out an apartment in Novi while Scott lives in Walled Lake. Pursuing their musical interests is a full-time job and both are determined to be persistent in realizing their dream despite the long hours and expenses.

"Don't think that somebody's just going to drop by your door (and give you a break)," Ruby said. "It costs so much money to compete—the equipment, photos, flying to meet with people in the record industry. It costs hundreds of thousands of dollars."

"You have to believe in yourself no matter what," Scott added. "Put your nose to the ground. You have to get a joy out of it whether or not you're successful."

"Sometimes people get so out of focus in order to get successful that they lose sight of what they're doing it for. It's a constant struggle and balance."

Touring theater back on the road

September Productions will open its fourth season of theater for children at Trinity House Theatre in Livonia with a lively adaptation of The Frog Prince.

In this original musical written by Theresa Weiss, a prince who has been turned into a frog meets a princess who not only dislikes kissing frogs, but also has a low opinion of princes. Between run-ins with a scary witch and a couple of bumbling pirates, they both become friends and learn "you can't judge a book by its cover."

Performances are scheduled for 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 24; and at 12:30 and 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25. Tickets are $5 for children and adults. The Trinity House Theatre is located at 38840 W. Six Mile Road, between I-275 and Haggerty Road.

September Productions is a Michigan-based touring theater company of adult professional performers. All actors, directors and technical staff are from the metro-Detroit area.

Throughout the past four years, the troupe has performed for preschoolers to grandparents. Its goal is to make its productions artistic, educational, entertaining and affordable for all.

Coming in the winter and spring are Charlotte's Web and a readers theater version of The Secret Garden.

For reservations to The Frog Prince, call (810) 615-0414.

Idealistic convictions on trial

Single mother clings to old-fashioned values in a world of corruption in 'Trial by Jury'

In this contemporary thriller, a young, single mother's strength and idealistic convictions are put to the test when she is selected to serve as a juror—and terrifyingly manipulated—in the trial of a notorious New York mob boss.

Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, Armand Assante, Gabriel Byrne and William Hurt head an all-star cast in this psychological courtroom thriller directed by Heywood Gould through Morgan Creek Productions.

Valerie Alston (Whalley-Kilmer) is a young divorced mother, raising a seven-year-old son and running her own business in New York City. She's successful in a world where success is hard to come by, yet she is still an idealist. She believes in truth, justice and the American way. She believes in setting an example for her son and doing her civic duty.

So when jury duty calls, Valerie rearranges her schedule to comply.

Ruthless mob boss Rusty Pirone (Assante) is on trial for a host of crimes, including the brutal murders of 11 people. Public opinion against him is overwhelming, yet he exudes charm, confidence and the unmistakable swagger of a man in control.

Pirone and his men murder the star witness in his prosecution on the eve of his trial. Now U.S. Attorney Daniel Graham (Byrne), obsessed with convicting his nemesis, will try the case on little more than circumstantial evidence. Nevertheless, Pirone knows every member of the jury will believe he is guilty.

When Rusty Pirone's eyes meet Valerie Alston's across the crowded courtroom, he formulates a new plan to win his freedom. And for Valerie, his plan is the start of her imprisonment.

Ex-cop Tommy Vesey (Hurt), now on Pirone's payroll, uses the tools of his trade—intimidation and threats—to coerce Valerie into voting for Pirone's acquittal, and even more, into swaying the beliefs of the other jurors.

With no option but to cooperate,

Valerie soon learns to lie and manipulate, and she gets the taste of power that comes with it. And she can never go back to the life she once knew.

Heywood Gould, who both wrote and directed "Trial by Jury," said the film is a story about a very honest, very moral woman who believes in truth, fair play, justice and the jury system. "She believes in all the values she was taught in school, in church and by her parents," he said. "And, in truth, none of those values apply ... to her, or to our lives."

Gould's choice for the role of the idealistic Valerie was Joanne Whalley-Kilmer. "What immediately struck me about Joanne is that one look at her and you feel the sincerity and vulnerability of the virtuous person," he said. "Because this movie is about someone who travels into another world, a world that in her innocence she didn't imagine even existed, the actress portraying Valerie had to possess not only vulnerability, but the idealism and fire necessary to make her character believable."

For Whalley-Kilmer, the attraction to the role of Valerie was based on the changes the character goes through. "I don't think Valerie really knows who she is until she's tested," she said. "When we meet her, she's an old-fashioned person with old-fashioned values who's just trying to keep it together. You know, she works hard; she's trying to raise her kid right; she hasn't the time or reason to find out what she's really made of."

"Valerie is most interesting to me at the point where she realizes that the values she was brought up on will not serve her, that she must become a different person in order to survive."

Initially, Pirone, Graham and Vesey all view Valerie as a vulnerable woman—a pawn whose only role in the game is to help each of them obtain what they need in order to achieve their objectives. Ruthless though her opponents may be, in the end, Valerie turns the tables on them, using the same innocence and purity that allowed her to become a victim to destroy them all—either professionally or physically.

"Valerie makes them search inside themselves," said Whalley-Kilmer, "for values that have long since been lost. She wields the fact they are without virtue as her weapon. She's able to gain their trust and capitalize on their weaknesses in order to guarantee their downfall and her own survival."

Using New York City as a backdrop, the filmmakers set out to create a world of contrasts—the dark and threatening world of Pirone, Graham and Vesey, and the light and comfortable world of Valerie.

"We've employed light and shadow to move the drama along," said Frederick Elmes, director of photography. "Each character has a color assigned to them; each scene has a specific visual feel. For instance, we have moments where the gangsters are in a seedy bar in Brooklyn—it's very red and it's very dark. It's their world, it's where they live; our leading lady would never go there."

The film noir aspect of "Trial by Jury" is also reflected in Valerie's wardrobe.

Said costume designer Mary Malin: "Having Valerie own a vintage clothing store became a handy device for being able to create a period look within a contemporary context. We made her favorite period the '30s and '40s—a time when women dressed in very glamorous fashion—and gave Valerie first crack at all the garments that came into her store. And because the retro look is very popular in fashion these days, we were able to create a wardrobe for Valerie that mixed the old with the new."

Golfers dump Western by nine

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A loss Friday to Walled Lake Western would've put the Mustang golf team somewhere they haven't been in many moons; below .500.

Fortunately, Northville High was able to whip the Warriors 207-216. Coach Trish Waldecker desperately wanted to avoid a losing record.

"I told them I'm not a below .500 coach," she joked, "and you're not a below .500 team."

Northville moved to 4-3 overall with the win. The Mustangs are 2-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

James Damico led Northville with a round of 38 at Tanglewood Golf Course. Kay Yoshida was next with 40.

"Those two have been very consistent," said Waldecker.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL 199, NORTHVILLE 212

Playing at Whispering Willows in Livonia, the Chargers were red hot Sept. 14.

Waldecker said three Churchill players shot in the 30s. The coach said 199 is a tough score to beat, but Northville is better than 212.

"I really believe we should be below 205 consistently," Waldecker commented.

The Mustangs won't come down to that range until they improve

Gridders get first victory with shutout of WLW

It wasn't pretty, but Darrel Schumacher will take it just the same.

That's because Northville High won its first game of the season Friday by dumping Walled Lake Western 22-0 at home. Anell Kersey scored three touchdowns and ran for more than 100 yards in leading the Mustangs to victory.

Schumacher said his team wasn't as sharp as it could've been offensively. But an excellent defensive effort, that saw Northville hold the Warriors to less than 100 total yards and three first downs, more than made up for it.

"We played good defense," the coach said. "It made things tolerable for us."

Northville improved to 1-2. The Mustangs go on the road to face Farmington Hills Harrison Saturday at 1 p.m.

"They're a great team," said Schumacher. "If we can get to the level where we think we should be it'll be a competitive game."

The Mustangs will certainly have to make a few less miscues against the Hawks than they did Friday night.

Northville took the opening kickoff. Three plays into their first possession, the Mustangs fumbled the ball away.

Western got it on Northville's 36-yard line. Fortunately, the Warrior offense was inept. They moved the ball back twice on off-sides penalties and then got sacked by Northville.

"They've got a lot of young kids playing," said Schumacher. "They just couldn't get it on the right track."

Neither team did much the rest of the quarter. Northville finally got it going early in the second.

After starting on Western's 28-yard line, the Mustangs scored in five plays. Facing fourth down and a foot to go, Todd Zayti picked up the first on a reverse play keeping the drive alive. Kersey capped it off with a three-yard run to make it 6-0 at the 9:10 mark.

Turnovers cost Northville in the first half.

"We had five turnovers in the first half," said Schumacher. "We made mistakes that could've cost us against a better team."

The Mustangs did a better job of holding on to the ball in the second half. Northville, in fact, scored on its first possession.

The home team started on its own 26 and went 74 yards on 10 plays to make it 12-0 at the 7:03 mark of the third quarter. Quarterback Shaun Connolly hit Mark Smith on a 24-yard pass play to help the drive along while Kersey closed it out with a two-yard run.

Northville got its final touchdown before the quarter was over.

Walled Lake fumbled the ball away on its own 35-yard line. Connolly passes to Zayti for 11 yards and Kersey for 19 yards were the big plays of this short drive. Kersey got his third tally on a one-yard plunge to make it 19-0 with 1:07 left.

Connolly hit 11 of 19 passes in the game for 111 yards. Zayti was his favorite target with four recep-

After a long wait, the Mustang tennis team got its season under way last week. And what a start it was.

Northville took three straight victories, which all happened to be within the Western Lakes Activities Association. The latest Mustang victim was Livonia Churchill Friday.

A strong effort by both singles and doubles players led Northville to an easy 7-1 road victory. Even though her team had no trouble with the Chargers, coach Uta Filkin said they've improved.

"They are a little stronger," she said. Filkin said the newcomers to her lineup also struggled a bit with playing conditions. She said it was windy and the hitting background was further back causing a lot of long hits.

Freshman Kristin Smith didn't have too many problems. She won her top singles' match 6-2, 6-2 over Maureen Senette.

"We had all we wanted. We had some wonderful matches."

Uta Filkin
Tennis coach

Aubrey MacFarlane was a 6-4, 6-2 loser to Mary Thomas at second singles. Northville won its final two singles matches as Kyle Mills and Shelly Morgan won in three and two sets, respectively.

In doubles action, Mary MacDonald and Jenny Moak won their match. They beat Livonia's top doubles team, Amanda Nash and Rose Sennett 6-0, 6-4.

At second doubles, Chrissy Kapusky and Meghan Connery were two-set winners over Tiffany Cook and Deseray Karl. Amanda Nelson and Sarah Johnson of Northville won in two sets as well.

Closing out the match was Lisa Cousineau and Jessica Hullman. They beat Angie Durant and Erin Ritz 6-0, 6-1.

The Falcons gave Northville a good match Sept. 14.

"We had all we wanted," said Filkin. "We had some wonderful matches."

Jackie Moore, despite a sore shoulder, was able to beat Beth Wilson at No. 1 singles, 6-3, 6-4.

"I hope it's just temporary," Filkin said of the injury. "She didn't play as well as I know she can."

Smith fell in two sets to Korina Szpo at second singles. MacFarlane, meanwhile, took a 6-1, 6-1 decision over Sarah McKay.

Mills had a tough battle at fourth singles. She needed three sets to beat Chrissy Mahon. 4-6, 7-6(7-3), 6-3.

Livonia whips tankers 70-32

By SCOTT DANIEL

There's two ways of looking at Northville High's 70-32 home loss to Livonia Stevenson Thursday.

One, you can simply label it as a mismatch; or, two, you can take a look at what the Mustangs accomplished and forget the score. Coach Bill Dicks would prefer to do the latter.

The longtime Northville mentor was quite proud of the fact that his swimmers were able to attain three state cuts in the meet.

"This was a win-win meet for everyone," Dicks commented.

That didn't keep him from acknowledging the superiority of Stevenson, though.

"They've got a lot of kids," said Dicks. "Stevenson is a level above where we are."

It was Northville's first home meet of the season. It was also a WLA non-division match up.

Northville was able to take third place in the meet's first event, the 200-yard medley relay. The team of Kara Lyczak, Gwen Osborne, Mandy VanHorn and Andrea Moretti finished in 2:01.6.

Amy Kohl garnered second place in the 200-freestyle with a time of 2:01.88. Rebecca Anderson got Northville's first state cut.

She swam a 2:18.12 in the 200-yard IM beating the state mark by less than a second. She finished second in the race.

Jill Holloway won the diving competition with a score of 204.90. It was Northville's only win of the evening.

Anderson got her second cut, this time in the 100-yard butterfly as she placed third in 1:02.59. Dicks said finishing third after making the state cut says something.

Fourth quarter surge leads cagers to victory

By SCOTT DANIEL

In words that only a mad dictator could understand, the Mustang basketball team had the mother of all come backs Saturday.

Trailing by 14 points going into the fourth quarter, Northville High went on a 21-0 run to start the period and take control of the game. A switch from zone to man-to-man defense pushed the Mustangs to the streak and a 51-48 win.

"Our pressure bothered them," said coach Gary Schwan.

After two tough losses in a row, it was a much needed victory.

"A win like this helps us believe in all the hard work," Schwan said. "We beat a good team."

Northville moved to 2-3 with the win. They'll play Westland John Glenn at home tonight at 7 p.m.

Saturday's game was close early. Northville took a 9-8 advantage after the first quarter.

Riverview, a class B power, took advantage of a stagnant Mustang offense in the second and went into halftime with a 26-17 lead.

The game looked to become a blowout in the third quarter. Riverview led by 17 before Schwan pulled his starters.

Off the bench came Laura Geniti, Lindsey Casterline, Tami Taylor and Carrie Dalziel. That group managed to whittle the lead down to 14 by the end of the third.

Perhaps inspired by her teammates' play, Samantha Leger went

"A win like this helps us believe in all the hard work. We beat a good team."

Basketball coach

nuclear in the fourth. The Mustang junior keyed Northville's unbelievable run by scoring 12 points in the fourth period.

All she did was finish the game with 26 points, 13 rebounds, seven assists and four steals.

"Sam really stepped up to the forefront against Riverview," Schwan said.

Northville led 41-36 by the time the streak ended. The Mustangs held a seven-point advantage until the final seconds.

Riverview had a chance to tie the game with eight seconds left, but turned the ball over and the game ended. Schwan said the game mirrored Northville's encounter with Brighton earlier in the season.

"It was similar to Brighton," he said, "but we got over the hump this time. We've got some good character kids."

Lyndsay Huot was Northville's second leading scorer with nine points.

Mustangs take 22-0 win over WLW

tions. "We felt we could hit Todd in the seam all night," Schumacher said. "They were giving us that little spot."

Joe Scappaticci closed the scoring in the game. He hit a 39-yard field goal at the 3:45 mark of the fourth quarter to make the final score 22-0.

Schumacher was happy to get the win. He said his team must continue to improve, however.

Northville has a long way to go to get back into the WLAA race, he added.

"At least it puts us in the position to compete," Schumacher said.

For the game, Kersey rushed for 102 yards while Tim Smith had 36 and Zayti 15. Zayti had four receptions for 42 yards. Kersey and Trevor Surdu each had two.

Matiss Kukainis had 12 tackles to lead the defense. Garrett Carter had 10 and Tim Smith eight. Schumacher said Scappaticci, Nick Bowersox, James Holman and John Matthews also played well on defense.

Runners beat Westland John Glenn

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

When is a tie not really a tie? Why, in cross country of course.

The Mustangs took a victory over Westland John Glenn Thursday on the road even though both squads finished with 28 points. How, you ask?

Normally, the top five runners for each team count toward the final score. But in the case of a tie, such as Thursday, the sixth man becomes the deciding factor.

Freshman Tim Schovers saved the day for Northville. He finished 10th overall, but beat Westland's sixth runner by some 24 seconds.

Northville retained the Mustang-Rocket trophy for the third straight year. Coach Ed Gabrys said the race could've easily turned out the wrong way.

"If the race had been 200 feet longer," he said, "we would've lost."

Nate Kirmis' performance allowed Schovers to be the hero. The senior finished fifth overall by one second.

"We would've lost otherwise," said Gabrys.

The victory meant a lot, the coach added. Gabrys said his team wanted to keep the trophy away from its non-division rival.

"This group of seniors was the first to run (for it)," he said. "They lost as freshmen."

"I knew it would be a tough meet. I knew they'd be better."

Considering last week's hot weather, the win looms even larger.

"It was unseasonably hot," Gabrys said. "But we played it smart and pack ran for the first mile."

The coach said he wanted his top group of runners to stay together and then, hopefully, catch John Glenn by the end of the race. The strategy worked.

While Westland took first and second, Northville's Scott Lloyd was able to take third, overall, in 18:23. Dwight VanTuyl was fourth in 18:30 and Kirmis fifth in 18:44.

Jeff Zwiesler came in seventh in 19:09 and Ravi Mujumdar was ninth in 19:50. Schovers ran a 19:56 for 10th and Sean Hollister was 14th in 20:53.

"It was a smart race," Gabrys said. "Our experience showed through."

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

Northville had a lot easier time knocking off the Rockets on the girls' side, 19-38.

"We were kind of concerned going in," coach Chris Cronin said. "We had no idea what kind of team John Glenn had."

The way Adrienne Browne ran it wouldn't have mattered. The senior blew away the competition by more than a minute to take first overall. "She's turned it up a level," said Cronin. "She has the potential to be a great runner."

Northville won the meet easily by claiming second and third places as well. Erin Tovey and Jill Dart filled those two spots while Kathryn Mittman took fifth and Kajal Parikh was eighth.

According to Cronin, the team is rounding into shape. Right now, he said, the Mustangs are working on conditioning and getting healthy.

"I think we could have a strong team if everyone's healthy," said Cronin.

Novi upsets South Lyon 22-21 at home

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Jon Wroe kicked a 31-yard field goal with 10 seconds left in the fourth quarter Friday to give Novi a huge 22-21 upset of South Lyon at home.

"It was our first field goal since 1987," coach John Osborne said of Wroe's kick. "I told him we're never kicking one again."

The senior said he wasn't nervous about the kick and had "zip" running through his mind before he made it.

"I just didn't feel anything," Wroe said.

The Wildcats came from behind to beat South Lyon, which went into the game rated No. 8 in class A. The Lions led 14-0 midway through the second quarter.

Osborne scrapped the Wing T offense midway through that period in favor of the option. It made all the difference as the Wildcats were able to control the football behind the running of Jason Witherspoon and Wroe.

"We pulled it out of the archives," Osborne said of the option. "We were looking for plays and it was working."

Novi scored late in the third period to pull within one of South Lyon. The Wildcats then went ahead with about five minutes to play on a Wroe touchdown run to make it 19-14.

The Lions took the lead right back and scored on a four-yard run by Mike Watson with 58 seconds left to make it 21-19. Novi then took the kickoff and started the game-winning drive on its own 38-yard line.

Chad Dicken came into quarterback on first down and hit Wroe for a 42-yard pass over the middle. After an incomplete pass and a delay of game call on Novi, South Lyon made a critical mistake.

With just 19 seconds left, Wroe kept the ball on an option. He just made it out of bounds when a Lion player him. South Lyon was called for a late hit-moving the ball all the way to the 14-yard line.

With no timeouts remaining, Osborne elected to try the field goal.

"How 'bout them Wildcats," the coach said several times after the game as he shook hands with players and parents.

Wroe said he and his teammates believed they could beat South Lyon all along.

"We knew we could do it," he said. "We just had that mind-set."

Anybody that watched the first quarter-and-a-half of Friday night's game wouldn't have believed Novi could comeback. It was pretty ugly, folks.

South Lyon took the opening kickoff and marched 74 yards in eight plays to take a 7-0 lead. Watson, Greg McGuire and Greg Smith ran right through the Wildcats who were being dominated by the Lion line.

Novi did nothing on its first possession and punted after three downs. South Lyon moved right down the field again and appeared ready to add to its lead.

As the second quarter got under way, the Lions had the ball on Novi's eight-yard line. But the visitors failed to capitalize and turned the ball over on downs.

The Wildcats weren't so lucky on South Lyon's next possession, though.

The Lions took the ball on Novi's 27 after forcing the home team to punt from the back of its end zone. Four plays later, McGuire scored on an eight-yard run.

Osborne made his big switch after Novi got the ball back. Starting on their own 47-yard line, the Wildcats went right to the option as Witherspoon picked up 15.

Wroe then made two nice runs on keepers for about 15 yards each. Jim Harrington capped the drive with a five-yard run up the middle to make it 14-7 at the 4:16 mark.

"It came to me like a vision," Osborne said of making the switch to the option.

Novi dodged a big bullet before halftime. South Lyon made all the way to the Wildcat one-yard line before Sevy Martin recovered a fumble with 1:03 left.

The second half was all Novi.

The Wildcats took the kickoff to start the third quarter. Some 16 plays later they cut South Lyon's lead to one as Wroe hurdled into the end zone.

He got his second touchdown in the fourth quarter. Wroe sprinted 24 yards to finish off a 14-play drive at the 4:52 mark.

South Lyon scored on its final drive of the game to set up Wroe's final-second heroics.

Novi will try to continue its momentum tomorrow night on the road against Mt. Morris. Osborne said he's likely to keep the option in the offense.

"We like what we saw of it tonight," he said.

For the game, Witherspoon had 107 yards rushing and Wroe had 76. Mark Lesperance and Mike Sill led the defense with 17 and 16 tackles, respectively.

"That shows you the caliber of Stevenson," he said.

Amity Heckemeyer and Moretti finished second and third in the 100 freestyle, respectively. Kohl was second in the 50-yard freestyle and VanHorn was fourth.

The team of Lyczak, Heckemeyer, Tammy Cook and Jodie Brown were second in the 200-yard freestyle relay. Amy Cook took third in the 100 backstroke.

Heckemeyer got Northville's final cut. She made it in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:11.51, which is .08 faster than the needed time.

NORTHVILLE 65, DEARBORN EDSSEL FORD 32

The Mustangs were on the road Sept. 13 and took an easy victory over Dearborn. Northville won nearly every event.

Lyczak, Osborne, Amy Cook, and Jill Wairo earned first in the 200-medley relay. Heckemeyer and Kohl went one-two in the 200 freestyle.

In the 200-yard IM, Anderson was first while VanHorn placed third. Brown won the 50 freestyle while Tammy Cook took top honors in the 100 butterfly.

Heckemeyer and Brown finished first and second in the 100 freestyle. Northville got yet another first in the 500 freestyle as Kohl beat the pack. Alicia Doehler finished third in the race but dropped 10 seconds from her previous best time.

Amy Cook won the 100-yard backstroke and VanHorn placed second in the 100 breaststroke. Northville won the 200 freestyle relay but was second in the 400 freestyle relay.

The Mustangs are back in action today at North Farmington. The meet starts at 7 p.m.

NORTH FARMINGTON 56, NORTHVILLE 53

The Mustangs faced a veteran Raider team Sept. 13 and came up on the short end on the road. Northville took a 26-22 lead at halftime but couldn't hold it. North Farmington rallied in the third to take a two-point lead.

That margin became eight, 48-40, late in the game. Northville fought back and pulled to within one as Leger swished a three-pointer.

North Farmington Alicia Gordon followed that with a three-point lay to seal the win.

Tips for getting kids ready for school

Planning and encouragement goes a long way in helping your child view school as a stimulating, satisfying experience. The following ideas can be supportive in promoting good attitudes and practices in your child.

1. Help your child unwind once the school day is over.

Give your child focused attention every day. Talk about the school experience. Listen for underlying feelings of anger or fear along with positive feelings of excitement and satisfaction.

Because your child's time at school is quite structured, plan time at the end of the school day for unstructured activities. Allow your child to release energy through outdoor play or sports.

While one or two after-school commitments such as piano or soccer lessons are beneficial, be careful not to over-program your child. This will inevitably result in stress-overload—for you as well as your child.

2. Help your child get organized.

Arrange study space. Reserve one corner somewhere in your home for your child's quiet concentration. Provide a table or desk, good lighting, reference materials and school supplies.

If possible, keep the study area away from tempting distractions such as the television.

Plan for the next day. Help your child get into the habit of organizing such things as clothing, lunch money, permission slips and homework the night before. Nerves are bound to be less frazzled in the morning.

Note important dates. Buy a large wall calendar with large boxes. If your youngster is too young to read or write, draw pictures symbolizing important school activities. Help an older child jot down dates of exams, reports, field trips, after-school events and other upcoming commitments.

3. Establish a regular homework routine.

Daily attention to school work for short periods of time is much better than panicking and agonizing the night before a project or examination. While maintaining some flexibility, set a fixed time each afternoon or evening for school assignments. Your child's homework schedule should synchronize with other extracurricular activities. Depending on age, 15 minutes to an hour before or after dinner is usually sufficient.

4. Be available to encourage your child.

Show your interest by being consistently available at predictable times each day. Do not, however, play the role of teacher by attempting to teach your child specific skills. Your time together is apt to be frustrating. If your child is having problems with a subject, talk to the teacher about supplementary activities you could do together at home as well as tutoring or other special attention at school.

In addition, do not attempt to protect your child from negative consequences by actually doing the homework assignment yourself. This seriously detracts from your child's confidence to cope successfully with future school demands.

5. Display a love of learning at home.

Celebrating learning fuels your child's natural interest and curiosity. Ask questions, exchange ideas and allow your child to arrive at personal conclusions. Provide an environment rich in books, games and projects. Compliment your child's school experiences with excursions for the entire family. Above all, let your child see you enjoying new challenges and activities.

6. Become involved in your child's school.

By joining a parent-teacher organization or volunteering your time allows you to share more of your child's world. You are also in a better position to understand and make suggestions for improvement.

Fat is fat, here's how to take it off

Most medical and nutrition authorities say there is no such thing as cellulite—it's just plain fat tissue of a different consistency.

The cosmetics industry insists that cellulite does indeed exist.

"Cellulite" describes a peculiar type of fatty tissue causing the overlying skin to appear dimpled like an orange peel. Proponents claim it's "trapped fat" in the connective tissue, a major layer of the skin, that creates the unsightly bulges.

Cellulite is believed to be different from normal fat storage in that, if pinched, the squeezed tissue produces lumps and bumps rather than a smooth surface.

Cosmeticians estimate that more than two-thirds of all women have some cellulite deposits, most often in the thighs, buttocks and knees.

Whether this cosmetic condition can be treated effectively is doubtful. Exorbitant fees often are charged for unfounded "cures" based on a variety of prescriptions for treatment. Unfortunately, the primary reduction often occurs in the subscriber's billfold.

Vigorous exercise and caloric restriction will cause a general reduction in body fat stores. But there is no conclusive scientific evidence that massage, sauna, special skin creams, body wrappings or pseudo-electric devices will break up or reduce cellulite deposits.

Q. If I abandon my lazy ways and take up walking or running, what's the most common potential injury?

A. Shin splints are a common problem for previously inactive people who begin walking or jogging programs. Although there are many treatments, simply stopping the activity—generally for a week—seems to work best. Then resume training, but at half the initial intensity level, and gradually work up to the desired exercise dosage over the next three to six weeks.

Q. How about death rates during sports?

A. Scuba diving has one of the highest death rates of any sport—similar to the risk of skydiving and professional car racing. The activity places a considerable strain on the heart, much more so than regular swimming.

Q. More and more Americans are living to retirement age and even exceeding 85. Are they doomed to being physically weak?

A. No. A 1990 study showed that a weight training program could promote dramatic increases in muscle strength in very old men and women—up to 96 years of age. Many showed a three to fourfold increase in strength in just eight weeks.

Vacation property purchases are rising

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The classic American dream for most families is to own a home. Increasingly, the second chapter of that dream is to also own a vacation home.

A recent survey, conducted by Personal Financial Services, reveals that only about 7 percent of families now own a vacation property, but 92 percent plan or hope to own one in the future.

Among those hopeful families, 59 percent would prefer a vacation home near water — 37 percent specified a preference for a location near an ocean. About 22 percent would prefer a mountain location. "Our sales of beach condos and single family homes to be used as a second residence is definitely up from last year," said California Realtor Joe Young, who specializes in the sale of beach properties.

"Both sales and traffic (visitors) at our open houses have been picking up significantly in recent months. And about half of our current activity involves second-home buyers."

In some cases, buyers of second homes plan to use them first for vacation housing, and move into the residence permanently when

HOME DESIGNS

Nine skylights shed light on the cottenwood

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Skylights are increasingly common these days, but most homes have two or three at most. The Cottonwood has a grand total of nine—three in the vaulted dining room, two in the nook and four in the family room.

Natural illumination is more than adequate in these rooms during the day, most of the year. Soaring vaulted ceilings add to the feeling of openness in the living room and dining room, located at the core of this plan.

The complete lack of walls creates a great room effect. A quasi-octagonal hearth mirrors the shape of the wide, slightly bayed living room windows. Sliding glass doors in the dining room open onto an extended deck that's also accessible from the nook and family room.

There's no door between the formal rooms and the kitchen, which makes for ease of movement. But at the same time, the clutter that sometimes accumulates on kitchen counters is well-concealed behind carefully placed walls.

Counter space is more than ample to accommodate multiple cooks. A range top is built into the central work island, and the long eating bar can easily seat four. Ovens, including a microwave, are tucked into an alcove next to a wide pantry. The utility room is much larger than most. Features here include cabinets, a pull-down ironing board, a closet for hanging ironed clothes, and a counter for folding clothes.

A utility sink is just around the corner, in the U-shaped-workbench area of the garage—handy for use after gardening or working in the shop.

All of the bedrooms are on the opposite side of the house where closets and bathrooms provide some isolation between the master suite and the secondary bedrooms. The master bedroom is large, expanded and brightened by a bay window at front and a small octagonal window at the side.

Luxury amenities in the master bathroom include an oversized shower, spa tub with an outer wall of glass blocks and twin vanities. The walk-in closet is huge. The Cottonwood is built over a basement that could be used as storage or developed into additional living areas.

For a study plan of the Cottonwood (333-090) send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

DANDIES, EH?

Control dandelions in lawns during the fall

If dandelions grew only in meadows and alongside roads, people would probably consider them wildflowers and take steps to protect and preserve them.

They grow in lawns, however, and that makes them weeds.

If your lawn was a carpet of yellow blossoms in May, fall is the time to do something about it to prevent a replay next year.

"The seeds from the spring crop of dandelions germinate in the lawn in the fall," explains Paul Rieke, Extension turfgrass specialist at Michigan State University. "Herbicides are very effective against these actively growing young plants."

Fall weather usually provides optimal growing conditions for lawn grasses, he adds, so grass will quickly fill in spaces left by removing dandelions. In the spring, annual weeds such as crabgrass may fill in bare areas.

Using herbicides to control dandelions is less likely to injure landscape ornamentals in the fall, he notes. Landscape plants are growing less vigorously in the fall and are less sensitive to herbicides than they are in the spring.

The preferred herbicide for dandelion control is the amine formulation of 2,4-D, Rieke says. (The more volatile ester formulation poses a greater hazard to nearby landscape plants.) Follow label directions for applying the product to the foliage of actively growing weeds. Spray when dry weather is expected to continue for at least 12 hours.

Applied at the proper rate, the herbicide will move through the whole plant and kill it, roots as well as shoots. Applied at too high a rate, it will just burn the tops off and the plants will regenerate from the roots.

If you would prefer not to use herbicides for dandelion control, hold off digging the weeds until spring. Then the plants will have used up most of the food reserves stored in the roots and may be unable to resprout.

"For digging to be effective, you need to cut as deeply as possible—at least 4 to 5 inches," Rieke advises. "Shallow cutting may actually increase the dandelion problem by promoting the development of numerous new shoots from each root. Where you had one plant you'll then have several."

Once dandelions and other weeds are under control, maintaining a thick, well fertilized and managed lawn is your best defense against a weed comeback.

The story of 'Peace' rose

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

In 1942, a French rose breeder named Francois Meilland developed a beautiful pale-yellow rose with glossy dark-green leaves. Its petals changed color with the temperature. In summer, blooms were pale yellow tinted with orange and edged in pink. In the cool of the fall, the blooms were all yellow.

Since it was one of the most beautiful roses Meilland had ever seen, he named it after his mother, Madame Antoine Meilland.

Poor Monsieur Meilland worried over the safety of his new rose because Europe was in the midst of World War II. What to do? Finally, he had an idea.

He took a cutting of bud wood from the plant since new shoots and flowers could be grown from it. Then he secretly took the cutting to the American consul, who worked for the U.S. government in France. The consul said he'd care for the valuable cutting and make sure it reached the United States, where it would be safe.

For the next three years (until the war was over), Meilland wondered about his beautiful rose. Had the consul been able to send it to the United States and, if so, had it survived the trip?

When the war was over (1945), representatives from all over the world gathered in San Francisco to draw up a constitution for a new organization called the United Nations. The United States was to be a meeting place where countries could discuss their disagreements and hopefully prevent wars.

At the first meeting, representatives saw vases of yellow roses on every table in the room—they were Meilland's roses!

The American consul had kept his word. He'd sent the cutting to America where growers introduced new plants from it.

This beautiful yellow rose had survived the horrible holocaust to become a symbol of friendship and unity. It was honored with a new name, "Peace."

Today, Peace roses grow in gardens and terraces all over the world—it just happens to be my favorite. Plant one today.

History of the "Peace" Rose

- Developed by Francois Meilland in 1942.

- The petals change color with temperature variations; summer heat brings pale-yellow petals tinted with orange and edged in pink, and fall brings all-yellow blooms.

- During World War II, Meilland gave a cutting from the plant to an American consul, who took it to the United States.

- When the war was over the United Nations was formed at a conference in San Francisco. At the first meeting the representatives of the nations saw vases of the yellow roses on all the tables. This rose had survived the war to become a symbol of unity and friendship.

American Belleek china

ANTIQUES

Q. The dish in this photo has been in my family for many years. It is about five inches in diameter and four inches deep. On the bottom it is marked with a twisted serpent and the words "Willets - Belleek."

Is my bowl Belleek china? Could you tell me something about the manufacturer, its vintage and value?

A. Your bowl, quite possibly a soup bowl, is an example of American Belleek. It was made by Willets Manufacturing Co., in Trenton, N.J.

This mark was used from 1879 to 1912. The value of this bowl would probably be about $275 to $325 in good condition.

Q. I have a cake set that was given to me in 1954. It consists of one cake plate, eight serving plates and a cake lifter. Each piece is marked with the words "The Harker Pottery Co.—Made in U.S.A.—Since 1840—22KT. Gold."

Could you please tell me if my set has any value?

A. Harker Pottery Company in East Liverpool, Ohio, produced semivitreous ware from 1890 to 1972. The mark you described was used circa 1950.

Generally, dishes that are marked "22 KT." were made after the 1930s and are trimmed in real 22-carat gold. Your cake set would probably be worth about $50.

Q. I am curious about a set of porcelain dishes that I inherited from my parents. They are decorated with brown floral sprays against a white background. The set consists of service for eight and eight serving pieces, all in excellent condition.

Each piece is marked "Blossom — Alfred Meakin — England."

Could you give me any information on my dishes and what their value is?

A. Your dinner set was made by Alfred Meakin, Tunstall, Staffordshire, England. They began manufacturing earthenware and ironstone in 1873.

Your dishes were made in the late 1800s. They would probably be worth about $700 to $800.

Q. As a child in 1935, I received a child's pink depression glass dinner set for my birthday. It consists of four plates, four cups and saucers, a creamer, sugar bowl and covered butter dish. The pattern is "Cherry Blossom" and the set was made by the Jeannette Glass Co., Jeannette, Pa.

Could you tell me its approximate value?

A. "Cherry Blossom" is a pattern that has been a perennial favorite with depression glass collectors for years. Jeannette Glass Co made this pattern from 1930 to 1939 in a variety of colors.

The children's dinner set is quite desirable as a collectible. Assuming the condition is mint, its value would probably be about $335 to $375.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

This American Belleek bowl was manufactured between 1879 and 1912 and would probably sell for $275 to $325.

they retire.

The survey noted that the greatest number of current vacation home owners come from four occupation groups—business owners and entrepreneurs, corporate executives, physicians, and attorneys.

One-third of the owners range from age 45 to 55, 25 percent from 55 to 64.

Owners (nationally) spend an average of 27 days per year in their vacation homes. Only about 15 percent of owners rent their properties. When they do rent, the average rent is $783 per week. That average rent ranges from $624 in the Midwest to $952 in the West.

The survey also revealed that an increasing number of second home buyers in the United States are from foreign countries. Promotion by travel agents, word of mouth and an increasing number of scheduled nonstop flights are encouraging offshore buyers to acquire a second residence in this country.

Q. Are condominium sales increasing or decreasing?

A. Nationally sales of existing condos are running more than 18 percent greater than last year at this time, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors.

Most of the condo sales involve retiree or first-time buyers. But a large number are being purchased for use as a second residence.

"First-time home buyers have always been a strong factor in the condo market," said NAR President Robert Ford. "And many current sales are to retirees who are choosing to move out of their present homes and into the higher-priced end of the condo market."

"First-time buyers are determined not to be locked out of home ownership. This is overriding fear of higher mortgage rates, which typically can delay the purchasing decision." The national median price of existing condominiums is now about $88,000—up from $83,400 a year ago.

"The demand in this segment of the real estate market is very healthy," said NAR chief economist John Tuccillo. "There's no apparent ill effect of higher mortgage rates or poor weather conditions, which often dampen other segments of the housing market. Condo sales is clearly a market niche that will remain strong and healthy through the remainder of this year."

Q. What proportion of a family's monthly income typically goes for housing expenses?

A. On average, 21 percent of monthly income is devoted to meeting monthly mortgage payments, including taxes and insurance, according to a report from Lomas Mortgage USA. That's down from 29 percent five years ago.

Lower interest rates and lower prices made the difference. The average monthly payment is about $940. That's $130 less than a year ago.

FLOWERS FOR KEEPS

"Everlastings" bring a bit of the ornamental garden indoors; achillea, artemisia, gomphrena and other flowers suitable for drying are in vogue. At Park Seed, sales of flowers for drying have tripled during the past five years.

Make sure when you pick flowers for drying that you pick them before they're fully open. That's good advice for most everlastings: They'll open as they dry. If picked in full bloom, they are more likely to fall apart.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

MARJORIE SHEFFIECK

THE GREAT INFLATION HEDGE

QUESTION: Why does everyone say that home ownership is one of the great hedges against inflation?

ANSWER: For one thing, your monthly installment payments never change (unless you have an adjustable rate mortgage). Also, your investment grows as the value of your home increases with rising prices. On top of that, you enjoy some fine tax advantages, especially the property tax and mortgage interest deduction. There is no better inflation hedge than the ownership of a home. And, most importantly, real estate values have always increased faster than the cost of living.

Epicure's bakery proves to be a hit

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

If satisfying your sweet-tooth has become a problem one of Novi's most well-known restaurants has the solution.

Country Epicure recently opened its Bakery and Coffee Shop with the idea of supplying patrons fine desserts, hearty breads and choice blends of coffee in an elegant, relaxed atmosphere.

According to co-owner Karen Angelosante, demand for the restaurant's confectionery items necessitated opening of the shop.

"Within the last year it started getting (crazy)," she said. "People were clogging the door."

Country Epicure Bakery and Coffee Shop, which is located at 42010 Grand River between Novi and Meadowbrook roads, opened Aug. 1. Angelosante said she had been considering opening the store for quite awhile and decided to go ahead after getting financing together.

"It was a major project," she added. "We went way above the budget."

Those that enjoy the restaurant should enjoy the bakery equally. A country-French style marks the shop which features tables, booths and an interesting peek at chefs preparing all of the goodies.

"I feel very confident about it,"

Business Briefs

The first "Great Strawberry Challenge," sponsored by the NOVI HILTON HOTEL, has drawn to a close after a month-long battle. All during June, the silent battle went on. The challenge would decide which restaurant could sell the most strawberries. DAVINCI'S MARKET in the Hilton or MAISANO'S restaurant located in Novi. DaVinci's won the contest by selling 12 more pounds. The contest raised about $800 for the Michigan State University-Tollgate Exceptional Equestrian program.

The JERVIS B. WEBB COMPANY recently announced the selection of HAROLD KORT as Quality Achiever of the month. He has been employed by the company for 32 years and currently holds the position of senior item control analyst in the engineering, item control department.

The item control department is responsible for entering and maintaining all engineering data in visibility computer system, to ensure accuracy, and follow concise policies and procedures. Kort, a Farmington resident, is responsible for communicating requirements to the engineers, training team members, answering user questions, and interacting with a variety of departments.

DOUGLAS W. TEUBERT, FIC, a LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD district representative from Northville, has earned Qualifying and Life status in the Million Dollar Round Table. Only 6 percent of the world's life insurance agents qualify for the round table each year through high-level client service and production. Teubert is associated with the Society's Karl Mueller Agency in Rochester Hills.

The City of Novi's Beautification

Committee has announced that the COUNTRY EPICURE PLAZA has won the "Exceptional Award" for its landscape which enhances the City of Novi in the Shopping Center Entrance ways category. The award presentation will be held Sept. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road.

ERA REAL ESTATE, along with Countrywide Funding will sponsor the second annual ERA Success Day to be held in Novi. "ERA Around the World" is the focus of this years event in which all ERA brokers and agents are invited to attend. Last year's event drew over 350 ERA members from across Michigan.

THOM BARRY has recently joined the R.A. DEMATTIA COMPANY as Vice President, Sales and Marketing. He will officially begin duties in mid-September. His educational background includes a Bachelor's of Science Degree in Mechanical Engineering from Michigan State University and a degree in construction environmental testing from Lawrence Institute of Technology.

LES BEARE, owner of the MAIL BOXES ETC. CENTER in Novi, was honored recently by the firm's international headquarters in San Diego for outstanding overall performance during the past year. Named Individual Franchise of the Year at the 1994 Mail Boxes Etc. convention in Las Vegas, NV, Beare was recognized with a Franny award for excellence in supporting Mail Boxes Etc. standards and endorsing the corporate philosophy of providing exceptional customer service. Beare opened his store in February 1988.

said Angelosante. "It turned out exactly the way I wanted."

While the decor is nice, the shop's bread and butter is in its goods. "Chefs, Michele Angelosante, Ralph Brad Dockey, Susan Pearson and Karen Delaney create fresh, highly adding items every day."

"We have a fine reputation for our desserts and baked goods," said Angelosante.

Cookies of all varieties, muffins and cakes are sure to please even the most discriminating sweet-tooth. And, yes, the pecan cornbread is still available.

"It's always the first thing to sell out," Angelosante said.

If tortes are your idea of nirvana, Country Epicure Bakery and Coffee Shop is the place to go. The Pecan Chocolate Toffee, Naples, and Strawberry Hazelnut Chiffon Torte are just a few of the shop has to offer in the $20 range.

Wedding, birthday and other specialty cakes are also made. Angelosante there's plenty of work to keep her staff of chefs busy.

"There's always a demand for it," she said.

A variety of breads are on hand as well.

Pumpernickel, sour dough and oatmeal breads are baked daily as are bagels and croissants. Angelosante takes pride in the fact that breads and desserts have a homemade feel.

"Our desserts look home-made," she said.

A cup of hot coffee is a must with any purchase. Country Epicure has seven different blends with the house blend and vanilla-cream being the most popular, manager Joe Davenport said.

Having been open for just more than a month, the co-owner said she still learning about her patrons preferences.

"We're still in the growing-pain stage," Angelosante commented.

Reception to the new shop has been good thus far. A steady stream of customers come throughout the day.

"People who come in to sit down are in early in the morning and late at night," Angelosante added.

Store hours are: from 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday; Saturday 6:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Deduct medical costs to cut expenses

If the cost of your medical expenses has you feeling a bit under the weather, Uncle Sam may provide you with some financial relief. According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, unreimbursed medical and dental expenses may be deductible to the extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI). Although you need high medical expenses to qualify for a deduction, there is a wide range of deductible expenses that may help to put you over the 7.5-percent threshold.

WHAT YOU CAN DEDUCT

Generally, deductible medical expenses are those that are associated with the diagnosis, cure, treatment or prevention of disease. Examples of deductible expenses are the costs of hearing aids, braces, dentures and eyeglasses. Additionally, you may deduct the cost of items purchased for health reasons. This can include a new mattress for an individual suffering from arthritis, or a wheelchair for a handicapped person.

When it comes to medications, only the cost for insulin and physician-prescribed medications are deductible.

Money Management

INCLUDE MORE THAN MEDICAL BILLS

In reviewing the medical and dental expenses you incurred during the past year, be sure to include those expenses paid for your spouse (if you file jointly) and your dependents. Additionally, if you tapped your own resources to pay the medical bills of your parents or other individuals, you may also be able to add these to your list of expenses, provided the following requirements are met: The individual could be claimed as a dependent on your tax return, does not receive more than $2,150 in gross income for the 1992 tax year and does not file a joint tax return.

DON'T OVERLOOK COSTS

Qualified medical expenses also include the cost of insurance, such as health, dental and hospitalization. If you pay additional insurance premiums in order for your child to participate in a sport at school, this is also a deductible expense. Be aware, too, that the cost for Medicare-supplemental insurance is a qualified medical expense.

TRAVEL AND LODGING COSTS

Whether you drive or travel in a cab, bus, train or plane to see a physician or obtain medical treatment for an illness or disease, your transportation costs are tax-deductible. You can calculate your expenses at 9 cents per mile or total the real costs, including what you pay for gas and oil. You may also claim the costs for tolls and parking.

If your medical condition required treatment at an out-of-town hospital and necessitated an overnight stay, you may deduct lodging expenses of up to $50 per night.

FACTOR IN HOME IMPROVEMENTS

Congress also allows you to take a tax deduction for medically related capital improvements to your home, such as guard rails in bathrooms and walkways to accommodate wheelchairs. However, the amount of your medical expense deduction is affected by the extent to which such improvements increase the value of your home. Your deduction is equal to the difference between your home's increase in value and the cost of your medically-related improvement.

MAXIMIZE DEDUCTIONS

Keep in mind that qualified medical expenses are deductible in the year they are incurred. The Michigan Association of CPAs points out that by grouping substantial amounts of medical expenses into one year, you may be able to reach the 7.5-percent threshold and reduce your tax bill.

Summer sales predict a good fall

Michigan retailers increased sales in July from a year ago and expect sales to continue climbing for at least the next three months, according to the first Michigan Retail Index just released as a joint project by the Michigan Retailers Association (MRA) and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Nearly 60 percent of the state's retailers reported increased sales in July, more than twice the number who reported a decrease, according to the index, released just last week. And more than 75 percent said they expected to increase year-to-year sales for the August through October period, compared to 10 percent who expected a drop in sales.

Looking beyond October, more than 70 percent also said they are planning for better Christmas sales this year.

"We're encouraged by these first month's findings, which point to a generally healthy and optimistic retail industry," said Larry Meyer, MRA Chief Executive Officer and former Director of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

"We established the Michigan Retail Index to provide a monthly snapshot of the retail sector and reveal important long-term trends. We believe it's the first project of its kind in the nation to measure and report state retail activity on such a broad scale and timely basis."

"We're pleased by retailers' response," said Robert H. Schnorbus, Senior Business Economist and Research Officer of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, which has a branch in downtown Detroit.

"The retail industry is a large and vital element of the Michigan economy. The Michigan Retail Index will provide us, on a regular basis, with important data that will help us better understand and forecast economic trends."

The index is based on a monthly survey of MRA's more than 4,000 members. Nearly 1,000 members responded to the mail survey in time to be included in the first results.

The index is designed to measure changes in key retail activities, including sales, inventory, hiring, pricing and advertising.

For July, nearly half of the retailers reported increasing inventories, twice as many as reported decreasing their stock. More retailers also reported increasing hiring and advertising/promotional efforts.

Good news for consumers included the fact that nearly 70 percent reported no change in their prices and 11 percent cut prices. Only 21 percent reported raising prices.

The new index grew out of previous MRA holiday sales surveys. The organizations decided to expand the relationship.

[ALL THOSE TIRED OF CLIMBING IN AND OUT OF A TRUCK, STEP RIGHT UP.]

Getting in and out of a sport utility vehicle can be an adventure. That's why we created the all-new Jimmy from GMC Truck. One of the first things you'll notice is a lower step-in height. This was achieved without sacrificing ground clearance - an engineering breakthrough. Of course, Jimmy still comes with all the strength and reliability of a GMC truck. Like a boxed frame for improved riding comfort, Insta-Trac® 4WD and as standard equipment, the Enhanced 4.3L 195 hp V6 engine - one of the most powerful in its class. Not to mention a remarkably quiet interior, and other sport utility firsts - like a choice of suspensions

For safety, there's a standard driver's side air bag, four-wheel antilock brakes, and steel reinforced side door beams. For more information call 1-800-GMC TRUCK. Or better yet visit a GMC Truck dealer for a test drive.

Protect your home from burglars, fire

By Priscilla Lister

Copley News Service

Burglary may be one of the worst experiences of personal violation. And since our home is our safest haven, we want to protect it against unwanted intruders.

Studies show that houses protected by burglar alarms are three times less likely to be burglarized than those without such protection.

A wide variety of systems exists on the market, from do-it-yourself models to professionally installed systems.

ANATOMY OF ALARM SYSTEMS

Most home security systems consist of perimeter and area sensors, a control panel that arms and disarms the system and a siren, according to Consumer Reports magazine.

"Most systems divide a dwelling into zones — one door or a row of windows, for example, or a room guarded by a motion detector," says Consumer Reports. "It may be more economical to cover a whole room with one area sensor instead of with perimeter sensors at each window."

You also will need to keep in mind that area sensors should be disarmed when people or pets are present in the home, while perimeter sensors might be armed, and all sensors should be armed when everyone is gone.

And you'll need a siren that's loud enough to attract the neighbors' attention. Outdoor sirens are best because they're loudest, and burglars aren't so quickly alerted to the system's central control panel.

INSTALLED SYSTEMS

ADT, AT&T, Brinks and Honeywell capture more than half of the market in North America for professionally installed residential alarm systems.

Honeywell introduced in 1992 its TotalHome system, which now leads the North American home automation industry in sales. The TotalHome concept incorporates more than just security systems — it also integrates control of temperature, lighting and appliances from a single panel, which can also be operated remotely using a touch-tone phone. Expect to pay from $3,000 to $5,000.

The ADT Safewatch Plus, which costs around $1,200 to install, is a wired alarm security system that electronically monitors six zones with 10 sensors throughout your home.

The AT&T 8300 system arms 15 zones with 23 sensors for about $3,200.

The Brinks BHS-1000B system arms eight zones with 26 sensors and costs about

Consumer Reports rated the ADT, AT&T and Brinks systems and found all these dealer-installed, wired systems to be comparable in quality, capabilities and convenience.

The one greatest advantage of a professionally installed, wired system may be the monitoring service that most companies provide for additional monthly charges.

Monitoring services link your security system to the service's operators who are automatically notified when your alarm goes off. The operators call your home and if no one answers or if an intruder who answers doesn't know your code, the operator will call the police immediately.

Another advantage with monitoring services — which typically cost around $30 to $50 a month — is that you can have a special code you can enter to alert the monitoring company if an intruder is forcing you to disarm the system, so the monitoring operator can call the police immediately.

Any of these systems can also incorporate fire and smoke alarm systems.

DO-IT-YOURSELF SYSTEMS

The main advantage of do-it-yourself systems, naturally, is lower cost. These systems typically cost less than $600.

They don't provide monitoring services, but they can be installed easily and provide moderate security.

Consumer Reports' first choices among do-it-yourself wireless systems are Radio Shack's Safe House 40-2010 and the Powerhouse X-10 DS700, which each cost less than $600.

Radio Shack's Safe House is a wireless system covering 16 zones; the Powerhouse X-10 also covers 16 zones.

LOW-TECH OPTIONS

Keep in mind that most security experts believe that noise and lights are the biggest deterrents to burglars. Sirens obviously fit the noise requirement — and so do barking dogs.

Lighting timers that make your home look occupied by turning your lights on and off at normal times when you're away are also good security measures.

One of the easiest and most important ways to protect your home is by installing strong exterior doors, which is where most burglars gain illegal entry.

Don't consider only the locks on these doors, but the strength of the doors themselves, for often burglars kick in these entry-

Books and experts are two resources homeowners can turn to before starting a project.

Smart projects enhance style and value

By Priscilla Lister

Copley News Service

Now that you own your home, you know how imperfect it is.

Whether they're a matter of style or substance, home improvement projects will keep coming up during the life of your ownership. They can be small or large, inexpensive or expensive, but if they're done right, they'll make your home more valuable, in terms of resale as well as personal comfort.

DO-IT-YOURSELF PROJECTS

Lots of home improvements can be undertaken by do-it-yourselfers, even those with no experience. But these are typically less-involved projects that require little or no professional expertise.

Easy do-it-yourself improvements might include relatively minor enhancements like replacing old doorknobs or the pulls on bath and kitchen cabinets, replacing built-in lighting fixtures or replacing light-switch plates with attractive new ones.

Another relatively easy project that can add a lot of interest is to install moldings at the tops of interior walls. There are about 300 styles, and they will all give a custom, finished look superior to the walls without them.

You might also be able to paint the exterior or interior of your home.

But be advised that professionals exist to do these jobs for several reasons: They know how to prepare the surfaces, they know the proper techniques, and they have the right equipment.

And get those professionals to create the popular faux finishes, such as sponging or rag-rolling paint on your interior walls. A wall that looks like you squished a sponge on it every 3 inches will not grab the kind of attention you want.

Consider painting your kitchen cabinets for an update that won't cost an arm and a leg.

Enterprising do-it-yourselfers might even want to replace a tiled kitchen counter or a cracked linoleum floor. And if you find a wood floor underneath that old linoleum, you might have found a real treasure. There are several books on the market that take you through such tiling and flooring projects step by step, if you're so inclined.

And don't forget the outdoors. With a lot of personal elbow grease, you can improve your home's landscaping. A more attractive yard will not only add curb appeal, but may even provide you with flowers for your centerpiece and vegetables for your health.

But for the big improvement jobs, get some help.

MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS

Be advised, first of all, that many major remodeling projects will cost more than you'll ever recoup when you eventually sell your home. Be aware, too, that experts usually advise against improving your home beyond the scale of your neighborhood for the simple reason that you'll rarely get your money back.

While recovery values for remodeling projects vary from region to region, and even neighborhood to neighborhood, the National Association of Home Builders has issued a list citing typical remodeling project costs with estimated recovery values.

According to the NAHB, the most valuable remodeling projects are upgrading your kitchen or adding a new bathroom. Each project costs an average of $6,000 and has an 80 percent to 125 percent recovery.

Next on the NAHB list are adding a second story, $28,000, 80 percent to 100 percent recovery; adding a garage, $10,000, 80 percent to 100 percent recovery; adding a fireplace, $3,500, 50 percent to 100 percent recovery; adding a new room, $20,000, 40 percent to 75 percent recovery; adding a deck, $4,000, 40 percent to 70 percent recovery.

"If you're getting your house repainted, replacing a roof, or dealing with a kitchen or bath remodeling specialty firm, for example, you can handle it on your own," advises Duncan Calder Stephens in his new book, "Home Remodeling Pitfalls and How to Avoid Them" (Globe Pequot Press).

You'll need a general contractor for big jobs that require several subcontractors. A general contractor will also be responsible for all permits, supply orders and making sure the various projects fit together on schedule.

"If your job involves major alterations or requires creative problem-solving skills, consider retaining an architect," says Stephens. "A builder can usually find a technical solution to a remodeling problem, but an architect may find a creative solution."

A design/remodeling firm may have both contractors and architects on staff, offering a hybrid solution for your big jobs.

The best way to locate general contractors as well as architects or design firms is to ask friends and colleagues for recommendations.

Word of mouth is the best kind of advertising in this business.

Another route might be to scan local newspaper or magazine articles for names of contractors and/or architects whose work you admire.

Get bids from three or four prospective professionals.

Be aware of the difference between firm bids — a fixed price for which the contractor will do the job even if he loses money — and an initial bid that allows for unexpected situations. You take risks with firm bids just as with initial bids.

Even more important than the professionals' bids — since few can estimate perfectly — are references from people they've worked for and even seeing jobs they've completed.

KITCHENS AND BATHS

It's small wonder the most valuable remodeling jobs are renovations of kitchens and baths. For these daily necessity areas are also keys to home pride.

So while you think about your dream kitchen or bath, consider what some experts are doing around the country.

Wood flooring in kitchens makes them warmer and quieter, says Carolin Schebish, ASID, of Design Exchange in Fairfax, Va.

"Kitchen islands are a very big thing," she adds, and wood cabinets are replacing white ones for their warmth and coziness.

Rita Carson Guest, ASID, of Carson Guest Inc. in Atlanta, however, still designs many kitchens with white cabinets and black granite counter tops. She also recommends appliance garages. And she pays special attention to lighting.

She uses parlamps over stoves — a type of incandescent light that projects down, and low-voltage track lighting over islands. Getting rid of fluorescent lighting — which makes people and food look terrible — is a great kitchen update project.

Whirlpool tubs are popular in bathroom remodels, as are two-sink areas and privacy walls surrounding toilets.

Whatever project you undertake, do it well and your home will fit you better every year.

Protect your home

ways with force that locks can't stop.

"The best doors are made of metal-clad or solid hardwood, hung in metal or hardwood framing," says Consumer Reports. "The doors should fit closely and swing smoothly on strong hinges."

And before you consider new door locks and even new doors, think about installing more secure doorjamb, which are the most vulnerable areas to kick-ins.

Stanley JambGuard doorplates, to name one manufacturer, offer a heavy-duty security device that reinforces any door frame. A deadbolt in the door locks into the heavy-gauge steel JambGuard to provide added protection against forceable entry. The security plate retails for about $10.

Steel doors offer good protection against kick-in intrusion while also helping to keep fire from spreading throughout your home. Georgia-Pacific's Grand Passage steel doors, costing about $300, are meant to look more like hardwood doors.

And for your patio doors, Marvin's

Safe-T-Plus sliding patio doors (about $1,100) feature heavy jambs and a deadbolt system that secures the top and bottom of the door. Andersen Windows also offers a high-security Frenchwood Patio Door (about $1,800) with a three-point locking system.

Another low-tech — and more affordable — option is simply placing a sturdy dowel in a window track. Purchase - or 1-inch-thick dowels at a home-improvement store and cut them to size to fit an easily accessible windows.

SMOKE DETECTORS

Studies have shown that having a smoke detector in your home significantly cuts your risk of dying in a fire. Most homes have them now.

But don't assume yours are working — check them. Replace batteries every year, and replace the detectors themselves every 10 years. Install detectors outside each sleeping area and on each level of your home.

Whatever security measures you take, get to know your neighbors. They can be one of the best allies you have. Join or start a Neighborhood Watch program by calling your local police station.

A modern interpretation on the traditional wing chair is an example of the style that's in sophisticated East Coast interiors.

All-American design comes in many guises

By Glenda Winders

Copley News Service

Mention French Country design — or Chinese or Danish — and you instantly conjure up a mental picture of rooms created in a particular mode. But American? There's no such thing.

This doesn't mean that dwellers in the United States don't have style — au contraire.

Instead, this "melting pot" country is layered from coast to coast with influences from the backgrounds, professions and ethnic heritages of the groups who settled in a given area.

To spotlight the cultural diversity of regional American homes, Vitae Publishing Inc., in conjunction with interior designers across the land, has produced a sumptuous set of books aptly titled "Showcase of Interior Design."

In volumes that cover the East, South, Midwest and Pacific, designers discuss their projects and illustrate their points with color photos of what they have done.

They emphasize that within any arbitrary geographical division there is a wide range of individual style and taste. The beauty and originality of any home is in direct proportion

Since the East Coast was settled first, its design history is the richest of all. Its fascinating mix is made up of European ideas coupled with Colonial ingenuity.

Eastern apartment dwellers are passionate about making sure their rented homes reflect their personalities and taste.

Clever use of small spaces is the byword. Oil paintings lean against bookshelves; desks and occasional tables don linen tablecloths and do double duty for dining. Conversational groupings of sofas and chairs are close and intimate.

These bold people aren't afraid of drama. Stark white-on-white furnishings or deep chocolate-brown walls come as no surprise. Rooms often contain an eclectic mix of Asian and 18th century European antiques coupled with contemporary abstract art.

In the South, hospitality reigns. Homes are designed for entertaining, with emphasis on dining rooms, verandas and patios. Here, mid-18th century European design quickly gave way to furniture, textiles and pottery made by local artisans.

Southern architecture ranges from antebellum plantation houses to mountaintop log cabin retreats and Greek Revival mansions.

Climate, history and geography play a large role. In Florida, for example, Spanish architecture still enhances the semitropical landscape. Texas sports a cowboy ruggedness reflected in suede and khaki fabrics and twig furniture.

Everywhere is a sense of struggle, loss and proud rebirth left over from the Civil War. Elegance and excess are prevalent. Curtains and tablecloths in rich fabrics puddle on the floor. Fresh flowers turn up in every room.

The Midwest is made up of a curious mix of architectural styles that range from cozy pastoral farmhouses to converted warehouse lofts in its industrial cities.

Home designs are reminiscent of the 19th century and reflect the diverse origins of the pioneers who settled there. A front porch outfitted with wicker furniture and a friendly swing is a must. Furnishings are likely to include folk art such as quilts, baskets and handmade furniture.

Midwesterners aren't trendy. Designers from this part of the country say their clients are interested in the long haul. They generally consider only new ideas that have been proved on the coasts. They're busy, hard-working people who want timelessness in their decor and who can't or don't want to redecorate every year.

They're practical, more influenced by value than flash and seldom interested in one-upping the Joneses or worrying about what the neighbors think.

They cherish relaxed homes that allow them to express their individuality while at the same time letting them put their feet up and be comfortable.

Because of the temperature extremes in this part of the country, people spend more time inside their homes at all times of the year. Warm colors, thick rugs and heavy draperies keep out winter's cold and summer's heat.

The Pacific area — primarily characterized by California living — is the exact opposite. People here go for new ideas and want to be the first to try everything.

They enjoy such innovations for pleasurable living as the hot tub, and they like easy-care fabrics and materials that let them spend as little time as possible on maintenance.

Houses are designed for outdoor living or to bring the outdoors inside with pools, fountains and tile floors. Natural materials are popular and might include stone walls and bare wood floors.

Views of mountains, the desert and the ocean often dictate the way a house is built, so expansive windows play an important role.

The influences come from more recent history — the gold rush, Hollywood's heyday and the area's spot on the Pacific Rim. Architecture is likely to be the bungalow or the Mexican hacienda, but may also range from Tudor to Bauhaus.

Furnishings are a mix of styles that look optimistically to the future while embracing the past. An unfinished ceiling may pair up with high-gloss finished walls. Spindly antiques turn up unexpectedly on ceramic tile or wood floors.

Color comes by way of Mexican tiles and Indian print blankets and rugs. Terracotta pots sprout living plants — from colorful red geraniums to the austere cactus.

Get a head start weeks before moving day by packing items you don't use often.

Plan ahead for easy change of address

By Sharon Gillenwater
Copley News Service

"Our move shouldn't be that traumatic," said Sandy, who, along with her new husband Bill, was preparing to move from Southern California to Washington, D.C.

"We don't have that much stuff," she said. "And we don't have any kids to worry about."

Two weeks later, Sandy was a wreck. She and Bill hadn't been able to rent a large enough vehicle for their move because they had waited too long to make a reservation. They didn't know that almost half of all moves take place between May and Labor Day, and that summer reservations for rental vehicles should be made more than one month in advance.

In a packing frenzy, Bill stowed away his laptop computer, which he needed to close an important business deal before the move. He didn't think to mark which of the 30 boxes it was in, and he and Sandy had to check each and every one.

"And just when I think we have everything packed and ready," Sandy wailed, "I find another cupboard full of junk!"

Sandy and Bill could have avoided most of these moving mishaps with better planning. Both professional movers and do-it-yourself truck rental companies recommend that you begin planning the details of your move six weeks to one month in advance.

Whether you're hiring the pros or doing it yourself, heed the following advice for a move that's as painless as possible.

- Make a written timetable of tasks for the few weeks prior to moving day and stick to it.

- Inventory everything you pack in a notebook. On the outside of each box, write a number and the room in which the box should be unpacked. Write the box number in the inventory notebook with a list of its contents.

- Throw out everything that you don't want or need. Better yet, have a big garage sale and make money off those unnecessary items.

- Begin packing early. Start two weeks before moving day, with the goal of packing two boxes a night. Books, knickknacks and out-of-season clothes can be packed well ahead of time. Pack up the kitchen several days in advance and use paper plates, plastic cutlery and cups in the interim. Fragile glassware should be packed in bubble wrap.

- Set aside a carton or two for those sentimental, irreplaceable items. On moving day, take these items with you in your own car.

- Don't forget to file a change of address about two weeks before you move. Magazine subscriptions should be changed with the publishing company at least one month before moving day.

- Arrange to have the phone and electricity turned off the day after you move so you will have access to them on moving day. Likewise, have utilities turned on at your new home on the day before your arrival.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

WORKING WITH THE PROS

Using a professional mover will considerably reduce the amount of work and stress involved in a move. If you are lucky enough to be able to afford the services of a professional moving company, there are still a number of extra things you can do to ensure a smooth move.

- Ask ahead of time if they charge extra for flights of stairs at either end of the move.
- Ask for a detailed description of the route the movers will take when transporting your belongings, including any planned interim stops. This is where your written inventory becomes very important. Your notebook will help you in filing a claim if anything is lost.

• Give the mover a rough floor plan of your new home with directions on where they should place each item of furniture. This will save you a lot of extra work when you get to your new home.

DOING IT YOURSELF

Moving yourself can save you up to 80 percent of moving costs, so it is no surprise that nearly 80 percent of moves are do-it-yourself productions.

It's never easy, but if you start a few weeks in advance and stay organized, you and your belongings will end up at the final destination in one piece.

The following are some extra tips for the do-it-yourself mover.

• Reserve your truck and moving supplies (cartons, tape, bubble wrap) early. You don't want to be scrounging for boxes at the last minute.

• Make sure your rental truck company offers 24-hour emergency road service along your moving route.

• Remove legs from tables or chairs, if possible, to make them more compact.

• Put heaviest items, such as appliances and heavy furniture, in the truck first.

• Pad furniture with towels and blankets.

• Fill dresser drawers with small, breakable items wrapped in clothes. Secure drawers with rope.

• Individually wrap dishes first in plastic bags, then in newspaper. Pack saucers and plates on edge, not flat. This reduces the chance of breakage.

• Use corrugated cardboard to wrap mirrors, prints and paintings.

• Don't move paints, fuel or other flammables. Check with a hardware store or the health department about their proper disposal.

• Pets and, if possible, plants, should be transported in the front cab of the truck.

• Pack a travel kit for the road with water, aspirin, cash, credit cards, address book, paper towels, snacks and plastic cups.

Home buyers need to be alert consumers

By Jason Zappe
Copley News Service

If you think fulfilling the American dream of owning your own home, is just a dream, think again.

Today's housing prices may be somewhat out of whack compared with what your parents paid, but there's also plenty of flexibility in making a down payment these days.

Fortunately, housing prices are beginning to stabilize and are nowhere near the catastrophic prices of the '80s.

This means the market is ripe for first-time home buyers, as well as someone looking for a larger house or just a change.

At no other time do you need to be on your most alert consumer status than when buying a house. Be prepared to ask hundreds of questions and don't take anything for granted. Buying the right house at the right price will turn out to be a lifetime investment.

The first step toward buying a house, besides coughing up the cash and planning for mortgage payments, insurance and taxes, is location. This is also the easiest part of the home-buying process. Most everyone knows where they would like to live in any city and it really comes down to what your pocket-book will allow.

Some people say it's better to own the worst house in the best neighborhood than the best house in the worst neighborhood.

As Ilyce R. Glink stresses in her book, "100 Questions Every First-Time Home Buyer Should Ask" (Times Books), "Location, location, location. Check out the neighborhood — what school district is the home in? What transportation is it near? Is it next to a garbage dump?"

Once you've chosen the location, then it's time to become the detective and hunt out the right house. Once you find one you like, inspect the heck out of it. Look beyond superficial beauty you see and examine the frame of the house. Your primary concerns should focus on the slab, the plumbing, the woodwork, the electrical and the roof. If all these are in good order, you have a sound house. But if you want to buy a fixer-upper, then you are primarily going to make sure the slab is intact.

Glink recommends the examining these factors:

- Roof. Are the shingles curling or lifting? Find out how old the roof is — a new roof should last between 15 and 25 years. You can expect more from a tile roof, but they can be more expensive to repair.

- Plumbing and electricity. Turn on all faucets to check pressure and for dripping. Make sure they drain well. Check to see that all the lights work, both interior and exterior. Check to see if there are plenty of outlets per room. You don't want to see one outlet in a room and end up having to connect everything with extension cords.

- Pests. Check for evidence of termites, roaches and mice. Holes in beams may be a sign of termites.

- Mechanics. Examine the water heater, heating unit, air-conditioning unit and any furnace systems. Ask to see current heating, water and electricity bills.

You may need to see one house up to four or five times. Above all, take your time. You don't want to rush into something as big as owning and living in a new house if it

Furniture trends in the moody '90s

By Nikki B. Godfrey
Copley News Service

Future design historians may have a hard time labeling the furniture look of the '90s. Names being bandied around include Casual Contemporary, Neo-Individualism and Shabby Chic. Classic Contemporary is a favorite the furniture industry is loosely using to describe the older styles of furniture being subtly modernized for today's market. But it doesn't quite cut it when it comes to classification.

The reason is that furniture trends today, more than ever before, are multiple. Today's designers are mixing old designs with new, simplifying popular forms of yesteryear to suit the more user-friendly furniture requirements of modern living. And some designers are even juxtaposing blatant reproductions borrowed from different decades in one room to produce a pseudo look the '90s can call its own.

Robert Nightengale, president of the Home Furnishings Council, comes closest to accurately naming today's varied furniture trends, calling this decade "The Moody '90s."

"No one's really come up with a good name for what we're seeing because consumers are making such eclectic choices," Nightengale says. "People are furnishing rooms with all kinds of style combinations, mixing and matching family heirloom pieces with new items, aiming more for functionality than looks."

In response to Classic Contemporary as a possible moniker, Nightengale says, "Contemporary is always a weird word because everyone has their own definition depending on their mood. Knowing the furniture industry, you're going to still hear the names you've always heard — traditional, contemporary, country, what have you. But I think consumers are going to be buying and decorating more around mood than around style."

Wid Chapman, chairman of interior design at Parson's College of Design in New York, agrees that there are a "multitude of influences" at the moment, with many award-winning designer pieces claiming to be new designs but appearing as obvious reproductions of earlier styles.

"We're seeing lots of revivals, with an incredible attraction to retro '50s and '60s furniture —

Consumer's aren't afraid to mix looks from different eras, such as this tapering chest of drawers teamed with a 50's style sunburst mirror.

Creative tenants see the plain interior of an apartment as a canvas on which to create a personal statement.

Turn rented property into personal haven

By Lee Littlewood

Copley News Service

Furnishing an apartment or rented house shouldn't be a dull, limiting experience. Your humble abode doesn't have to look just like the one the previous dwellers lived in, or what the future renters will see.

Since the landlord is the owner, though, you shouldn't set your sights on tearing down walls, ripping up the carpet or painting the living room shocking pink. There is much you can do, however.

Before attempting to make any permanent changes such as painting, changing curtains or blinds, or altering floor coverings, contact your landlord. Occasionally, an owner may agree to changes if they will help to raise the value of the unit. Old carpet can be pulled up to reveal lovely hardwood floors and dingy curtains can sometimes be replaced with bright blinds.

It can't be reiterated too often, however, that these kinds of permanent changes must be approved by the owner. Most of the time he or she will say no. Some landlords don't even like sticky cabinet covering; it's hard to remove and leaves grimy gunk on the shelves. But there are exceptions to any rule.

It's better to be safe than sorry — ask first, no matter what you plan to do to walls, cabinets, floors and windows.

Never fear, though, decorating fiends! There are umpteen ways to decorate and liven up any rental unit without annoying the landlord.

Tips for unimaginative and busy individuals can be found in decorating and home furnishings magazines and books that are full of the latest trends, products and ideas.

Drab corners, blank walls and ho-hum hallways can be dressed up with offbeat articles like a ladder in the bathroom that doubles as a towel rack, or old suitcases as a coffee table.

Hang folksy birdhouses or decorative plates to liven up boring walls. (Spackling can be used later to fill nail holes.)

up tops of walls. Also try bordering kitchen walls directly above counter tops or along doorways. Colorful borders can cheer up kids' rooms and bathrooms, too.

Boring and lived-in carpets can be helped along with whimsical throw rugs, just as funky pillows can brighten up drab sofas. If throw pillows seem too expensive, buy some fabric and cover them yourself. Mexican and Guatemalan fabrics make colorful, inexpensive covers for pillows, and all you need is a needle and thread.

For those of you without much cash (and who doesn't fill this bill?), junk can be turned into decorative treasures, and decorating what you already own can be enough to give your apartment that homey touch. Stenciling favorite designs on dressers, lampshades, doormats and flowerpots can turn lifeless home furnishings into treasures "oohed" and "aahed" at by visitors.

Flea markets and swap meets remain gold mines for inexpensive decorating finds. The key is to keep your mind open and your creative juices flowing. For a country look, spray paint aluminum watering cans and place on a shelf. Place favorite enamelware around the kitchen and nail up a few shelves to display '50s memorabilia. Large ceramic pots look great in drab corners, and a display of salsa bottles in the kitchen can add a spicy Southwestern flavor.

For a funky taste, collections are always eye-catchers. Old sunglasses, quilts, weather vanes, postcards, cows, stars and buttons can make wonderfully whimsical displays in any room.

For down-home comfort and a nostalgic feel, the Western look is riding high in the saddle. For those aspiring cowpokes, Seabrook Designs offers a Western Frontier collection of wallpapers, borders and fabrics.

Also, Country Sampler's West magazine is chock-full of frontier decorating ideas and cowboy items to order.

So, get to work and turn your rental home into a livable, lovable retreat you'll want to spend time in. Anything is possible.

Paint is affordable way to make dramatic impact

By Alison Ashton

Copley News Service

You love the look of granite floors, but the real thing is out of your budget. Your living room needs something to wake it up.

An old chest of drawers still has life in it, but it could use some pizzazz.

Get a bucket of paint, invest in a few supplies and set aside a weekend — you could learn what interior designers have always known: Paint is a budget decorator's best friend.

And as the do-it-yourself market has exploded in recent years, supplies, tools and instructional manuals have become readily available.

What used to be the domain of professionals and creative people with the time and patience to experiment has been put in the hands of regular folk who just want to spruce up a plain wall or a boring chair.

Here are a few of the myriad books that can get you started:

- "The Painted Kitchen" by Charyn Jones (Cassell). Although Jones focuses on kitchen design, she offers a number of useful tips on selecting colors and paint techniques. Full-color photographs offer inspiration and easy-to-follow instructions for various paint techniques.

- "Painting Furniture: A Practical Guide" by Rosie Fisher (Little, Brown). Fisher covers furniture throughout the house and includes instructions.

- "The Thrifty Decorator: A DIY Guide to Style on a Shoestring" by Jocasta Innes (Conran Octopus). British designer Innes, also the author of "Paint Magic," is considered the doyenne of paint. She offers plenty of how-tos and a section devoted to "Recipes," from homemade oil-based paint to oil glazes.

- "Stencil Source Book" by Patricia Meehan (North Light Books). Meehan includes tips, projects and more than 200 motifs.

CHOOSING COLORS

Chances are, you already know something really important: There's a whole psychology involved in color. So think carefully before you slap paint on walls and furniture.

- Benjamin Moore Paints devotes an entire book to the subject in "Color: A Stroke of Brilliance." As author Leslie Harrington notes, some colors are better suited to some rooms than others.

For example, red is an energizing color that's thought to stimulate appetite. You'd be better off using it in a dining room than in a child's room. For a child's room, consider calming shades of blue, which also has connotations of security.

If you love yellow, you're unusual — most people dislike it because it's difficult for the eye to process and has unpleasant connotations. It's also an unflattering color on some people.

Consider using rich shades of yellow as an accent color, or using a soft shade of yellow to brighten a dark hallway.

Color also can change your perception of a room's proportions. Darker colors can make a cavernous room feel more intimate, while lighter shades help open up a small room.

Don't be afraid to use color as a statement. "The Thrifty Decorator" includes a striking hallway painted in soft, powdery blue tinged with violet, which provides a striking contrast for a jug of bright-yellow flowers on a table covered with a yellow throw. The effect is airy and calming without putting you to sleep.

"If in doubt," Innes advises, "go overboard with color."

Time and experience may make you brave enough to do just that.

CREATIVE TECHNIQUES

The colors you choose are just the beginning. Of course, you can simply apply paint with a brush or a roller. But once you see some of the textures that can be achieved, you'll want to try something more ambitious.

Sponging is, Jones notes, "the perfect paint effect for beginners" because it's easy, quick and random. Imperfections are not a problem. Basically, it involves applying two colors (with a brush and sponge) over a coat of base paint.

Ragging is a similar technique but uses a rag (preferably cotton, linen or cheesecloth) to create the texture. Stippling is ideal to enhance the character of textured surfaces, such as anaglypta wallpaper or wall moldings.

For a rustic effect, try color washing, which uses varying shades to create soft, textured surfaces. It's ideal for large expanses of wall, for example, or to camouflage imperfect plasterwork.

You can even use paint to mimic wood grain and marble.

For showier effects, try spattering or combing. Spattering creates a look that's reminiscent of a Jackson Pollock painting — it's perfect in a kitschy '50s-style interior.

Home buyers need to be alert consumers

By Jason Zappe
Copley News Service

If you think fulfilling the American dream of owning your own home, is just a dream, think again.

Today's housing prices may be somewhat out of whack compared with what your parents paid, but there's also plenty of flexibility in making a down payment these days.

Fortunately, housing prices are beginning to stabilize and are nowhere near the catastrophic prices of the '80s.

This means the market is ripe for first-time home buyers, as well as someone looking for a larger house or just a change.

At no other time do you need to be on your most alert consumer status than when buying a house. Be prepared to ask hundreds of questions and don't take anything for granted. Buying the right house at the right price will turn out to be a lifetime investment.

The first step toward buying a house, besides coughing up the cash and planning for mortgage payments, insurance and taxes, is location. This is also the easiest part of the home-buying process. Most everyone knows where they would like to live in any city and it really comes down to what your pocketbook will allow.

Some people say it's better to own the worst house in the best neighborhood than the best house in the worst neighborhood.

As Ilyce R. Glink stresses in her book, "100 Questions Every First-Time Home Buyer Should Ask" (Times Books), "Location, location, location. Check out the neighborhood — what school district is the home in? What transportation is it near? Is it next to a garbage dump?"

Once you've chosen the location, then it's time to become the detective and hunt out the right house. Once you find one you like, inspect the heck out of it. Look beyond superficial beauty you see and examine the frame of the house. Your primary concerns should focus on the slab, the plumbing, the woodwork, the electrical and the roof. If all these are in good order, you have a sound house. But if you want to buy a fixer-upper, then you are primarily going to make sure the slab is intact.

Glink recommends the examining these factors:

- Roof. Are the shingles curling or lifting? Find out how old the roof is — a new roof should last between 15 and 25 years. You can expect more from a tile roof, but they can be more expensive to repair.

- Plumbing and electricity. Turn on all faucets to check pressure and for dripping. Make sure they drain well. Check to see that all the lights work, both interior and exterior. Check to see if there are plenty of outlets per room. You don't want to see one outlet in a room and end up having to connect everything with extension cords.

- Pests. Check for evidence of termites, roaches and mice. Holes in beams may be a sign of termites.

- Mechanics. Examine the water heater, heating unit, air-conditioning unit and any furnace systems. Ask to see current heating, water and electricity bills.

You may need to see one house up to four or five times. Above all, take your time. You don't want to rush into something as big as owning and living in a new house if it isn't right.

After you've decided the house is sound and worthy of purchasing, take the time to be in the house and imagine yourself doing your regular activities there. Will you be comfortable, will you use the back door to go out into the yard, is the bedroom laid out properly for your needs, etc.

Once you've narrowed your field, it's time to ask the big question — can I afford it? Many real estate agents will tell you that if you can afford to pay rent and have a down payment, you're really a homeowner.

Your first step down mortgage lane is to prequalify. Many lenders will easily prequalify you in a preliminary way. Mostly what is involved is more or less the same thing that occurs when you purchase a new car — they run a credit check and require debt-to-income ratios. How much house you can afford depends on the cost and the interest rates.

There are many programs available for first-time buyers, and the main thing is to have a substantial percentage to pay the down payment. The first step is to figure out your monthly budget based on income and expenditures.

A few of the more common mortgages include:

- Fixed-rate mortgage. This type is the most popular and charges the same interest over the life of the loan — usually 30 years.

- Adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM). This type fluctuates and is tied to one-year Treasury bills or a specific index. When the economic climate is one where the interest rates are falling, ARMs are the best deal in town. But you also take the chance that interest rates might rise and cost you more.

- VA loan. This type is administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs in Washington, D.C., and is primarily for U.S. veterans.

Unlike selling a house, buying a house really requires some professional help in the way of a real estate agent and a friendly lender you can go to with any kind of question. Buying a house is an important and serious process. Don't be pressured into doing anything you're not comfortable with. You can always say no — you're the customer.

Home heating ideas that don't burn up budget

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

As the cold-weather season arrives each year, so do heated discussions regarding how to stay warm throughout the coming months without burning up the budget.

It's only natural to want a cozy, comfortable living environment all winter long. But as everyone knows, a blanket of warmth can come with an equally enveloping price tag.

Thus, when fall rolls around, many homeowners bid farewell to their gardens and decks, and turn their thoughts to supplemental heating sources and do-it-yourself projects that will promote warmth, economy and energy-efficiency when the temperatures fall and storms rage.

Following is a rundown of some options you can use to create a warming trend within your own abode:

- Befriend your furnace. You lean heavily on your furnace in the chilly months ahead. In order to receive maximum output at minimum cost, yours needs to be in good working order.

Some homeowners take on simple jobs themselves when fall rolls around, such as cleaning and replacing air filters or removing dust from baseboard heaters and vents. Others schedule routine maintenance check-ups with the repairman before cold weather sets in.

You might even consider updating an older system for increased energy savings and comfort. Get an estimate, for example, of what it would cost to convert from oil to natural gas, or to replace an old heat pump with one of the new variable speed models. Compare installation costs with the projected savings to see if such a change would be worthwhile.

- Crack down on air leaks. Home heating experts estimate that approximately 15 percent of the energy used to heat a home goes toward warming the air that seeps through cracks and air leaks. Thus, it really can pay to take action against these silent robbers.

Seal leaks around wall switches, electrical outlets and baseboard moldings, for instance, and install door sweeps and weatherstripping around windows and doors. Add summer/winter film to windows to boost their insulating abilities.

For considerably more money than you'd spend on a tube of caulking, you can fortify your home with storm doors, additional insulation, maintenance-free siding and windows constructed from "high-E" glass, which has a greater R-value — or resistance to heat flow — than regular glass.

Consult an energy auditor on ways to improve your home, or look for an energy-smart contractor who'll build the efficiency right in if a new home is in your future.

- Get ready, get set. You program your videocassette recorder and your microwave. Now you can program your thermostat to raise or lower the temperature when you're not home, thereby saving energy while still maintaining the standard of comfort you desire.

It's all possible with an electronic programmable thermostat that can change the temperature of a home several times a day.

With these smart thermostats, you simply pick the temperature settings you want, and the thermostat takes over the job of keeping you comfortable.

In terms of energy savings, the Trane Home Comfort Institute estimates you'll save about 3 percent of your heating consumption for every degree you lower your heat during winter.

- Light a fire. For centuries, the glow of a fire has warmed both heart and home. The story is much the same in the 1990s — only with a few energy-efficient twists and turns.

Some homeowners, for example, are finally getting the fireplace they always wanted with natural gas burners that look like the real thing — only don't require the chimney or stacks of firewood.

Others are adding natural gas logs to existing fireplaces for the sake of energy efficiency, or boosting their fireplace's energy output with the addition of an insert.

Pellet-fired appliances and wood-burning stoves are two additional alternatives that create a cozy ambience while providing comforting heat.

Pellet stoves, which are forced-air stoves that automatically burn compressed pellets, are especially popular with today's environmentally conscious homeowners. While they do resemble regular wood-burning stoves, pellet stoves produce less of the hazardous emissions than their wood-burning counterparts.

- Warm up to Mother Nature. Smart landscaping and solar power can help you stay warmer this cool-weather season.

Deciduous trees, for example, block sun in the summer, then let warming, winter rays in when cool weather rolls around. Shrubs and hedges planted in strategic spots can act as a barrier against wind. Active and passive solar-powered solutions, such as solar panels, heat collectors and insulating shutters, present environmentally smart ways to reduce heating expenses.

- Crank up the fan. While it might strike the average homeowner as strange, turning on the ceiling fan in winter can be a smart move.

A ceiling fan operating on its reverse setting, or winter program, can move warm air trapped in the ceiling area down to the living area — thus promoting a comfortable indoor climate and significant energy savings.

- Heighten humidity. Just when it is needed the most, humidity often falls to an all-time low during the winter months.

Thus, a humidifier can prove a real boon during cool weather. Not only does added humidity help prevent nasal and skin dryness and static electricity, but it also helps ward off the winter's chill indoors.

- Smart heating supplements. When you want to heat things up — but only in a limited area, don't crank up the thermostat. Just turn on a space heater.

A powerful, low-cost heating alternative for decades, the newest space heaters are even better than their popular predecessors, thanks to compact designs and safety features such as an automatic shut-off triggered when the heater is pushed over or during overheating.

soft-edged sensible furniture that's chic but not extravagant."

He feels people are tired of ornate, gilded furniture because it doesn't speak of the downsized lifestyle of the '90s.

Chapman says interior designers today are dealing with both reduced scope and budget, which is forcing them to come up with alternative methods of giving clients the look they need. This means producing a new aesthetic of furniture that doesn't appear extravagant, but doesn't look cheap, either.

Tighter budgets and space may be a primary impetus behind the current popularity of light woods crafted with a new sense of simplicity in design. Nightengale says that Home Furnishing Council research shows that the single most popular style is still country, and that means lots of pine. Pine has always been around, but Nightengale feels that pine in the '90s is more of a decorator piece.

Ann Videriksen at the Pacific Design Center in Los Angeles says the ease with which blond woods can be dyed a variety of hues, from light blues and greens to dark reds, makes them appealing for creating different looks and combining different styles.

Oak, although looked down on by many as a very 1970s grain, also is making a comeback. Chapman says "very blocky oak furniture" may have been overexposed but is palpable in the '90s after the '80s' diversions to such woods as mahogany, walnut and cherry. He feels oak is being reinterpreted to fit today's eclectic styles and also works well with the new simplicity.

Videriksen points to simplicity as a factor for the Mission furniture style coming into its own in the '90s, making the craftsman style of furniture, including Shaker, hot for a while. Still, it's hard for anyone to predict whether this resurgence will endure the rest of The Moody '90s.

The same can be said for the very recent trend of rattan and raffia appearing in architecturally sophisticated forms of high-end designer furniture pieces.

What does seem to be surviving furni-ture's mood swings is the need for functionality: pure form, clean cut, user-friendly, ergonomic. These elements all are requirements in furniture today, no matter what the style, in part because people don't want their interiors to appear overindulgent in times when even the most wealthy in society are feeling financial strain.

Delicate furniture forms of previous decades are being reproduced bigger to be more practical. Washable slipcovers, an inexpensive option for freshening the look of existing furniture, are here to stay for a while.

Nightengale says as a part of functionality, "motionality" is key, with recliners and reclining sofa sections and furniture with built-in magazine racks and TV trays remaining popular for retail residential consumers.

Functionality is also the leading force behind ready-to-assemble furniture, known in the industry as RTA, accounting for approximately 15 percent of total wood furniture sales. RTA has come a long way in terms of design, style and quality since the days when "knock-down" furniture was considered second, or even third, class.

Kevin Sauder, vice president of Sauder Woodworking Co., the nation's largest manufacturer of RTA furniture, says, "RTA used to be purely price oriented as a large production item, but now we have real furniture designers (rather than engineers), and new technology is allowing better looks."

Today's RTA furniture has improved wood grain laminates, including etched wood finishes that look and feel like real wood, allowing for respectable reproductions of Shaker and Mission styles priced anywhere from 25 percent to 50 percent less than already assembled furniture. Sauder has a line of upscale, traditional cherry bedroom furniture new out this fall, featuring routed panels and detailed moldings.

Whether your budget favors RTA or upscale designer styles, furnishing around a focus piece is key.

Nightengale says find a single piece of furniture you really love, preferably a sofa or comfortable chair and build around that. Because it's the item of furniture you'll use the most, no matter what your mood in the '90s.

Affordable way to make dramatic impact

Combing uses a metal comb dragged across a scrubble glaze to create a pattern. Try it on furniture or floors.

Stenciling is a favorite of beginners because it's easy to learn and you can stencil as much or as little as you want. Try stenciling a silhouette in the shape of a bunch of grapes around the kitchen, or use a teddy-bear motif to enliven a child's toy chest.

Bear in mind that spattering and stenciling are eye-catching techniques that work best when used with restraint.

Of course, special paint techniques require more than a basic brush or roller. For example, there are special brushes for stippling, stenciling and varnishing. A natural sea sponge is ideal for sponging and stippling. Special combs make an easier job of combing. Most of the items you'll need are available in paint and home-improvement stores.

FUN PROJECTS

If you're new to this do-it-yourself

gig, start small. When you become more confident in your skills, move on to more ambitious projects. Here are a few ideas to get you started.

Paint a ladder-back chair in bright, primary colors. Use a different shade for each rung.

Stencil a romantic design on the headboard of a bed, a whimsical motif on a child's toy chest or a floral pattern on a terra-cotta planter.

Paint a plain lampshade in a vibrant accent color, and stencil a border around the rim.

Look down: Floors are an ideal place to make a dramatic statement with paint. Use paint to create a checkerboard design or fake parquet.

Stencil a pattern on a plain roller blind.

Spatter paint a chest of drawers in bright colors for a child's room.

Sponge paint or stipple an old desk to lend an elegant touch to a home office.

No Payments 'til April 1, 1995

If you come in now, you can own a new Toro Wheel Horse tractor and use it until next April 1st without making a single payment or paying any finance charges!

That means you can use your new tractor the entire fall and winter, and well into spring - all without spending a single cent!*

Wheel Horse®
Tractors & Riding Mowers

OR

1/2 Off Fall and Winter Attachments

You can save up to 1/2 off on the attachments you'll need most this fall—baggers, snowthrowers and blades—when you buy an attachment with a tractor.

You'll be able to bag leaves this fall and push or throw snow all winter long - and save up to $300.

*Only Toro Wheel Horse offers a full, two-year Total Coverage Guarantee.†
Toro is dedicated to quality manufacturing and customer satisfaction.
Toro's commitment to service is shared by our thousands of

GOURMET DEEP DISH PIZZA

The entire bottom and sides of this incredible Deep Dish Pizza are brushed with butter and zesty Italian seasonings, then topped with lots of hot, melted cheese and your favorite fresh toppings! This pizza is very filling, and will satisfy even those with the heartiest of appetites!

CRISPY THIN CRUST PIZZA

Thin is definitely in! First we start off with a thin and crispy crust and cover it with your favorite toppings, which are surrounded by lots of cheese. We then sprinkle on just the right amount of Italian Seasoning to give it a taste you are sure to love! This Crispy Thin Crust pizza has a taste all it's own!
