

Parent group not sold on new marking system

Some say it uses vague evaluation criteria

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Several parents attending Monday night's Northville Board of Education meeting expressed opposition to the new elementary-level report card system, claiming they felt the new system resulted in a watered-down assessment of a student's academic performance.

While parents asked the board to rethink its decision to use the new report cards, board members and the administration stressed that the new cards are not etched in stone and the process is still open for revision.

"I feel this is a major step in the wrong direction," said Northville parent Alan Bennett, adding that the new reporting system has fuzzy criteria, such as evaluating students on self-esteem.

Parents of students at the kindergarten to fifth-grade level will be receiving new report cards this year, with the first marking period grades coming out during the first week in November.

Students will be assessed by either an "achieving," "developing" or "not yet" comment in the various academic subjects. These three evaluations will replace the "unsatisfactory," "needs improvement," "satisfactory" or "outstanding" ratings students received in previous years.

Also, the back page of the report cards, the Benchmarks page, will list specific concepts and skills a student should be achieving that year, something that Assistant Superintendent for Academic Services Dolly McMaster says allows parents a more precise indication of their children's

Student count has new emphasis

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The pupil count for Northville Public Schools taken Oct. 7 revealed that the district has 4,304 kindergarten through 12th grade students.

Never has the number of students enrolled in the Northville school district been emphasized so heavily as in the 1994-95 school year, as officials embark on the first year that funding comes from the state on a per-pupil basis.

The statewide initiative Proposal A, passed by voters last March, changed the way public education is financed in Michigan.

The Oct. 7 student count will be averaged with the student population counted in February 1994, as mandated by state law, to determine how much money Northville will receive this year from Lansing.

Last week's count is about 35 students less than what school officials tallied on the first day of school; however, Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said the initial loss of some students is to be expected because families move or shop around at different school districts.

Back in June, the state estimated it will allocate the district $6,528 per-pupil this year, a $9 discrepancy from what Northville officials estimated.

Director of Business and Finance John Street filed an appeal to the state over the difference, but because the state's fiscal year started Oct. 1, the district has not received a response yet.

Last month Plante & Moran, a management consultant firm, completed its annual audit of the district and served officials with one piece of information that came as little surprise.

For the 1993-94 school year, 98 percent of Northville Public School's budget was funded by local property taxes. This year, the funding base did a 180 degree turn-around with 98 percent of the funding coming from the state.

The unnerving aspect of the new state funding system, Street said, is that local property tax revenues have been replaced by state sales taxes, which are less stable.

Currently, all eyes are focused on Lansing to see what the financial setting looks like for the 1995-96 school year. Rezmierski said school officials will most likely get a clearer picture of what state revenues will look like around the holidays, after the Nov. 8 election and when the legislature goes back into session Nov. 10.

Ex-fire chief Rosselle files suit

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Ricke Rosselle, the ex-fire chief of Northville Township, has filed a lawsuit against his former employer and two of its officials: Supervisor Karen Baja and Director of Public Safety Chip Snider.

The suit claims that Snider and Baja deliberately tried to oust Rosselle because they believed he was involved in an attempt to unionize the township's fire department earlier this year. The systematic pressure they put on him, the suit alleges, "forced (him), under duress, to involuntarily resign his position" for fear of being fired, thus losing his pen-

Fogg to ask for decisions on two contentious issues

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Northville Township board of trustees is expected to cross swords tonight over recent events surrounding its executive committee and the township's contracted attorney.

Trustee Russ Fogg is scheduled to ask board approval for two controversial moves:

- Fogg wants the board to vote that all decisions made by the committee since May 19 be declared null and void because they violated the board's own guidelines and the state's Open Meetings Act. Fogg added that the board should prevent the committee from making any decisions in the future unless it is acting under the direction of elected trustees.

- Fogg is calling on the board to immediately begin the process of finding a new township attorney, bidding goodbye to the Detroit firm of Vanderveer Garzia. Fogg and other trustees argue that the firm's work has presented a number of problems, particularly its high cost.

Members of the board have publicly disagreed over both issues in recent weeks. Tonight's meeting at Township Hall will likely resurrect that split.

The township's executive committee is composed of three members of the seven-member board of trustees: Supervisor Karen Baja, Clerk Sue Hillebrand and Treasurer Rick Engelland. It last met on Sept. 15. At that meeting, the committee voted to tell administrative consultant Dick Henningsen that his services were no longer required, though Hillebrand holds a different interpretation of that action.

Several trustees objected to the move, arguing that the committee doesn't have the power to make such a decision—or any decisions at all, in fact.

The board voted 4-3 on May 19 to prevent the executive committee from taking any action until trustees agreed on the committee's exact responsibilities and a procedure for monitoring and reporting its actions.

Baja, however, shortly after the OIS eyes second building before it even breaks ground

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

As Optical Imaging Systems (OIS) plans the grand opening of its new high-tech Northville Township manufacturing plant, company officials say they may eventually open up a second, bigger facility next door.

Now based out of Troy, OIS last year closed a deal to build a $100 million plant in the township. The facility will serve as the new OIS company headquarters and a manufacturing center of cutting-edge flat-panel computer screens, primarily for use in military aircraft.

Right now, however, the company is researching the idea of opening up an even bigger plant right next door to its soon-to-be new home, one that would make computer and electronics products for the civilian market. "We are assessing the potential for a plant like that, but we're in the very, very early stages," OIS spokesman Charles Wilson said. "We're doing models of the plant now: what it would cost to build it, production costs, marketing information, financing options. These are all pretty big hurdles we need to jump before we can actually decide what to do."

He said that company officials did not yet know when they would have all the necessary information assembled to make that decision.

Wilson added that he could not discuss specific numbers, but indicated that the plant would likely be bigger than the current facility and its cost would be in the hundreds of millions of dollars

Record takes honors in newspaper contest

The Northville Record earned six awards, including three first-place honors, in the Michigan Press Association's 1994 Better Newspaper Contest.

The first-place certificates were for local news reporting, lifestyle section and sports picture.

In addition, The Record received a second-place award for editorial writing, a third-place honor in the local news reporting category and a third-place distinction for picture story.

"These awards are great, but they tend to make you focus on what you could have won and didn't," editor Lee Snider said. "That makes you want to step up your efforts to make sure you do even better next year."

First-place honors went to former reporter Steve Kellam for his series of stories on General Oil's cleanup of a contaminated oil lagoon it purchased at 175 Railroad Street in Northville.

Photographer Bryan Mitchell's picture of Northville High School long jumper Alana Bradley also won a first-place award for The Record, and former staff writer Michelle Harrison's B-section features took first in the lifestyles classification.

All five of the other publications in the HomeTown Newspaper chain also won awards, including the Novi News which took seven. The Livingston County Press, another HomeTown property, won first place for general excellence.

Equipment stolen from garage after construction

An Eight Mile Road homeowner told township police last week that sometime in the last three months equipment stored in her garage had been stolen.

The woman said that she'd hired a construction firm to make some modifications to the home this summer. Police are investigating employees of that firm to see if there is a connection. The value of the missing items has not yet been determined.

OUIL: Township police arrested a 40-year-old Plymouth man for operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol on Oct. 8.

An officer stopped the man's 1992 Chevrolet Cavalier after he saw it speeding while westbound on Five Mile near Ridge. The man said he had consumed "only four beers" in the last five hours. Breathalyzer testing at police headquarters showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .17 percent, over the legal limit.

OUIL: A 39-year-old Farmington Hills woman was arrested for drunken driving after slow-poke driving on the shoulder of Eight Mile Road.

A Northville city police car was at the intersection of Eight Mile and Center roads Oct. 8 when the woman turned onto westbound Eight Mile without coming to a complete stop or signaling.

The woman proceeded to drive in the right-hand lane of Eight Mile, a 40 mph zone, at 25 mph. She remained in the right lane even after a traffic sign indicated that the lane would soon merge left.

The woman began to drive along the dirt shoulder of the road and then she braked abruptly and proceeded to straddle the curb and the road at a 5 mph pace.

The police officer pulled up along side the woman's mini-van to see if she needed assistance but the driver did not acknowledge the officer and looked forward with her hands firmly placed on the wheel.

The officer pulled behind the woman and activated the emergency lights. The woman then sped up to 25 mph and finally stopped in front of the Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe.

As the officer approached the woman, she opened the door and had to grab onto the steering wheel to avoid falling out of the car.

When the officer asked the woman for her driver's license, she fumbled through her purse, passed her driver's license and handed the officer an American Express card. The woman admitted to the officer that she had been drinking "too much."

The woman failed a number of field sobriety tests and the officer had to hold on to her arm to steady her when getting out of her van.

The woman was arrested and while being booked at the police station, she told police, "All I did was drink. Why don't you catch real criminals? You're wasting your time with drunk drivers."

At the station, the woman registered a .23 percent blood-alcohol content; .1 is considered legally drunk.

The woman was released after posting a $100 cash bond and sobering up. A preliminary hearing is scheduled for Oct. 14 at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

TOOL THEFT: A Garden City man who is part of a construction crew working on a home on Country Knoll Drive told township police that someone stole $500 of his tools on Oct. 4.

Police are checking an employee of another company working on the home to see if a connection exists.

MAIL LARCENY: A 37-year-old Northville man, who lives at Taft Road Apartments, reported to Northville City Police that he had been having problems with missing disability checks.

The man was to receive a $238 check last week; however, it never came.

The man called the company that issues his checks and officials there said the check had been mailed on time.

The man stopped payment on the check and filled out a form at the post office to authorize an investigation into the missing checks.

PELLET GUN FOUND: Township police ticketed a 17-year-old Redford man for carrying a pellet gun last Monday.

The reporting officer said that he saw the youth and two other males, ages 19 and 18, both from Redford, walking on the south-bound shoulder of Sheldon Road north of Five Mile. The 17-year-old was carrying a bag, and when asked told the officer it contained a pellet gun and other items. The 18-year-old owns the item but asked the younger man to carry it, reports said.

The youth was issued a citation for possessing a pellet gun without being at least 18.

B & E: Township police report that unknown persons stole almost $100 in cash from the Jiffy Lube on Northville Road last week.

The assistant manager of the business said that he had left the cash drawer from the register on a desk in an office one evening. When he returned two days later, a window had been pried open and the money taken.

Police are checking with an ex-employee of the business to see if he has any connection to the case.

DRUG PARAPHERNALIA: Township police arrested a 22-year-old Dearborn man for possession of drug paraphernalia on Oct. 2.

The reporting officer said he was checking out a trespassing complaint at the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road when he encountered a 1989 Pontiac Lemans on the facility's grounds.

One of the passengers, a 23-year-old township man, was found to have an outstanding arrest warrant from Livonia for drug paraphernalia possession. A search of the vehicle found a wooden pipe with marijuana residue, cigarette rolling papers and a small amount of the drug in the Dearborn man's backpack.

Both were taken to police headquarters. The township man was held until Livonia police picked him up; the Dearborn man was booked and then released. He faces a hearing later this month in 35th District Court.

Citizens with any information on the above incidents are asked to call Northville police at 349-1234 or the Northville Township Police Department, 349-9400.

City businesses say checks bounced through downtown

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Downtown Northville merchants experienced a rash of bad check receipts last week that could result in a loss of money for several businesses.

Nelda Morrison of Morrison's Antiques, 105 E. Main Street, said a woman, whose identification documents stated she was from Dearborn, wrote a number of checks in the area.

Other downtown businesses hit, Morrison said, include Williamsburg Inspirations, Preferences and the Kitchen Witch.

The woman allegedly wrote the checks, which were for more than $100 each, on Oct. 1. When Morrison attempted to cash hers, she discovered the bank account had been closed and the woman's home phone number had been disconnected.

The next step is to send the woman a registered letter demanding payment for the merchandise. If the bill is not paid, a report can be filled out with the Northville City Police Department.

Morrison described the woman as very friendly and personable, appearing to be in her early 30s, about 5 foot 2 inches with straight brown shoulder-length hair.

The woman, Morrison believes, has probably left the state.

'Jail and bail' going on this week for March of Dimes baby campaign

Now's your chance to jail and bail your friends, family and co-workers. The March of Dimes wants to help you get revenge on a snoring husband, a television remote junkie or a forgetful boss. It's the annual March of Dimes Jail and Bail event, now through Friday, Oct. 14.

"They say that crime doesn't pay, but we can change that for the better," said Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, the general chairman of the March of Dimes Jail and Bail program. "Put out a warrant on a friend, family member of foe."

Participating in the program is easy. Any adult can have someone arrested by calling the Jail and Bail Hotline, (810) 423-3200. For a $25 fee, the March of Dimes will arrest the person of your choice. At a predetermined time, police officers will pick up the very surprised "prisoner" and deliver him or her to the nearest March of Dimes mock jail.

Proceeds go to the organization's Campaign for Healthier Babies.

Arrests will take place between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. this week. There are seven mock jail sites in the area: Arborland Mall in Ann Arbor, Macomb Mall in Roseville, the Renaissance Center in Detroit, Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield, Wal-Mart in Monroe, Wonderland Mall in Livonia and Genesee Valley Center in Flint.

Family Talk.

St. Mary Hospital is affiliated with William Beaumont Hospital

The doctors at St. Mary Hospital believe that the things that go into making a good family — sharing, cooperation, and close involvement — are the very things that are needed for good medical care. So, we listen to our patients... their thoughts, their concerns, their viewpoints and those of their family. And when we talk to our patients we avoid confusing medical terms and try to be understanding as well as understood.

Besides talking with our patients, we also talk to each other. We share professional experiences and pass on information about new technologies and techniques. We also discuss our patients' care. This exchange of ideas is essential to good medical care, for you, and for your family.

The simple act of talking to each other is an important part of good families. And, at St. Mary Hospital, we think it's an important part of good doctoring.

If you want a doctor who practices medicine as if family matters, call (313) 464-WELL. We'll help you find a physician who fits into your family.

Only 4 names on ballot in election for new district library board seats

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

On Nov. 8 Northville residents will not only be casting votes for political candidates and millage proposals, they will be taking part in the process of making the new Northville District Library a reality.

However, residents should not have too much trouble deciding for whom to vote this year as there are only four candidates running for the seven open positions on the Northville District Library Board.

The four candidates, who are all current members of the interim library board, are: Bill Brown, Wendy Gutowski, Lynn Parklan and Anna Sarkisian.

One of the reasons for the scant candidate selection could be that the deadline to run for the board was back in June, something many people may not have been known, Gutowski said.

"I don't think people realized how early they had to get their names on the ballot," she said.

Pat Orr, director of Northville Public Library, said the remaining three seats could be filled by write-in ballots or by board appointment. Orr is currently checking into the law to determine how many votes a write-in candidate must receive to win a seat on the board, she said.

"I don't think people realized how early they had to get their names on the ballot."

Wendy Gutowski
Library board member

The top four vote-getters in the election will be granted four-year terms with the remaining three trustees serving for two years.

After the election, if the three seats are still vacant, Orr said the new board members could advertise for applications and fill the seats before the new board is installed Jan. 1, 1995.

The concept of a Northville District Library was passed by city and township voters May 3. Local residents' approval of a 1-mill levy and a $4.5 million construction bond issue set in motion the formation of the district library, which will result in a more complete and advanced media center for residents.

"It was obvious for years that people in the community needed and wanted a better library," Gutowski said.

Currently, the city and township jointly fund the Northville Public Library with a budget of about $400,000. However, increasing costs in the past couple of years to run and update the library caused officials to cut-back on staff, staff hours and even to delve into the book budget.

With revenues from the 1 mill, the library's budget will be doubled to about $800,000, including rental fees and overdue fines.

The $4.5 million bond issue will allow the library to move out of its 6,000-square-foot quarters located on the lower level of City Hall and occupy a new, two-story 25,000-square-foot building slated to be finished in 1996.

Construction of the building will begin within the next eight to nine months, toward the end of the summer in 1995. Orr said she plans to move into the new building, which will be located on Cady Street south of City Hall, by the end of the summer in 1996.

The interim board will be signing a contract with an architect within the next couple of weeks to begin the design of the new building, Gutowski said. Although she would not disclose the name of the firm, Gutowski said the final list was selected from a pool of 19 candidates following a series of interviews in September.

"There will be a dramatic difference in the services we can provide and the potential for collections to grow," Orr said.

Orr said the library plans to enhance various reading programs, expand on reference and book collections and upgrade computer technology and resources that will make it easier and faster to find books and access more information.

Currently, she is looking into a system that would interface the district library's computers with Northville school libraries so students could do homework on the computers once the schools close.

Also, by the middle of next year, the library will be on-line with Internet, an international computer network system.

Community colleges could expand under law

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Is Livingston County in Oakland Community College's future?

Many two-year college districts will see their boundaries expanded under a legislative bill due for passage after the Nov. 8 election, officials believe.

"If (Gov. John) Engler is reelected, the lame-duck session of the Legislature will pass Senate Bill 76. Every geographic district in the state will be assigned to a community college district," trustee Anne Scott told the Oakland Community College board Monday.

Scott, of Royal Oak, is OCC's delegate to the Michigan Community College Association executive committee. She said MCCA leaders are confident SB 76 will be approved. MCCA supports the bill, now in the House Education Committee.

The state has 29 community college districts, but not every square inch of Michigan territory is in such a district. Livingston County, a fast-growing bedroom suburb for several metropolitan areas, is mostly out.

Livingston residents pay non-resident tuition to attend Oakland, Lansing, Flint's Mott or Washtenaw community colleges. Parts of Genesee and Lapeer counties also aren't in community college districts, Scott said, and could be attached to the OCC district.

"Is there any guarantee Oakland won't lose?" asked OCC trustee Sandra Ritter of Waterford.

"The college presidents are working on friendly agreements," Scott replied.

Sponsored by Sen. George McManus, R-Traverse City, SB 76 was defeated once on the Senate floor before being passed 23-14 in June of 1993. Since then, it has languished in the House committee.

"It's a big issue in the northern part of the state," Scott told OCC trustees.

The McManus bill leaves existing colleges free to negotiate annexations with areas like Livingston County. The State Board of Education would have to approve their plans, probably a routine procedure. Final approval would be up to voters in the affected areas.

Refer to SB 76 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Mill Race Matters

Two Sundays remain in Mill Race Village's summer/fall season, Oct. 16 and 23. The village buildings will be open for viewing from 1 to 4 p.m. with docents on hand to talk about Northville past.

Fall is a lovely time to visit Mill Race Village, located on Griswold just north of Main Street to experience the beauty and color of the season. Regular visitors will be interested in the new paint job on the Yerkes House. The color adds new excitement to the magnificent architectural structure.

This week the Northville Historical Society wishes to thank the Baseline Questers No. 1013 for their recent donation in memory of Thomas Lee, husband of one of their members, Marcia Lee.

Shortly after the village closes its fall season, area residents will get one last opportunity for the year to visit the buildings at Mill Race. All buildings will be open Saturday, Nov. 19, and Sunday, Nov. 20, during the afternoon hours for Mill Race's annual Christmas Walk. There is an admission charge during the Christmas Walk.

Mill Race Village and the Northville Historical Society have experienced a wonderful season with an increase in individual hours, a continuation of school tours and weddings, and a record setting Tivoli Fair.

Participation for their year's Fourth of July celebration and Victorian Festival increased as well. Members also enjoyed the annual Progressive Dinner and guest speaker at the annual meeting, Jo Marie Soszynski. Officers Carolyn Stuart, Fran Gazley, Art Rockall, and Chuck Holmes have worked with board members to develop a more organized flow of village and historical society operations. Changes have streamlined the operation and in the future should make the village even more vital and productive.

Membership which normally runs from January to December is open to everyone. Contact 348-1845 for more information.

Stricken Star Manor owner dies

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Petar Radakovic Jr., the owner of Star Manor retirement home, 520 W. Main St., died Oct. 2 at the age of 40.

In what friends and co-workers described as a shocking development, Radakovic went into cardiac arrest Sept. 18 at the home's annual outdoor pig roast.

Star Manor administrator Lavern Logan said that at one point during the event Radakovic excused himself and went into the building, saying he was feeling "shaky." A short time later, he was found unconscious and in seizure. Radakovic was taken by ambulance to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where he lapsed into a coma and never regained consciousness.

"He was a very warm and compassionate man," said Diana Gabriel, who lived with Radakovic and shared a 19-month-old son with him. "Especially when it came to the quality of care with the elderly."

Gabriel, who works at Star Manor as head controller, said Radakovic was a great father and a friend to many people—the sort of man who would put himself out for someone.

Radakovic, a Northville resident, purchased the retirement home in 1988. Star Manor provides skilled and basic care to its 37 residents. Ownership and management of the home will stay within Radakovic's family.

Radakovic was well loved by the residents of the home, Gabriel said.

"He was socially active with the residents as well as their families," she said.

Radakovic is survived by his 19-month-old son Petar III and two daughters, Kathryn, 14, and Christi, 10, who both live in Novi with their mother.

Radakovic is also survived by his parents Mellisa Isokov and Petar Radakovic Sr. and his two brothers Milan, 53, who lives in Chicago, and Nick, 48, of Grosse Ile.

Funeral services were held Oct. 5 at Martenson Funeral Home in Trenton. Memorial services were held at St. George Serbian Orthodox Church in Monroe and interment took place at Michigan Memorial Cemetery in Huron Township.

Harold Lockett was director of Hawthorn

Harold J. Lockett, M.D., died unexpectedly Oct. 6, 1994, at an Ann Arbor hospital following surgery for prostate cancer.

An Ann Arbor resident, Dr. Lockett was the senior child psychiatrist in the Michigan Department of Mental Health and the director of the Hawthorn Center, located at 18417 Haggerty Road in Northville Township.

Dr. Lockett was 70. "Michigan's children are indebted to him, as are hundreds of metropolitan-area parents who looked to him for help, advice and counsel," Michigan Mental Health Director James Haveman Jr. said.

Dr. Lockett served as director of the Hawthorn Center since 1990. He started his career as a psychiatrist in training at the center in 1956. Following the completion of his training, he decided to stay at Hawthorn, and in the intervening years he held virtually every position of clinical and administrative leadership at the facility. He served as staff psychiatrist, director of the day treatment and early intervention program, assistant director and director.

"He was a wonderful guy who would do anything for you," said Dr. Harold Wright of Northville, a retired director of Hawthorne Center and a long-time friend and colleague of Dr. Lockett.

"He was quiet, sensitive, always there and always ready to help the kids in whatever way he could. He was extremely devoted to Hawthorn Center and its mission of helping children. One of his great clinical interests was the plight of minority children who were seriously emotionally disturbed and he contributed much to professional discussions in Michigan."

Hawthorn Center is a comprehensive mental health treatment facility for children and adolescents.

Diana Censoni, director of the Department of Mental Health's Bureau of Hospitals and Centers, praised Dr. Lockett for his life-long dedication to children and for his commitment to high quality services.

"He was a tireless worker for Hawthorn and a devoted public servant who will be greatly missed," she said.

"It's a great loss," said Katie

Stocker, the president of the Hawthorn Center Association, a non-profit organization that benefits children served by the center. "He was the initiator and guiding spirit of the Hawthorn Center Association."

In addition to his professional dedication, Dr. Lockett found time to serve as a trustee and president of the Ann Arbor Board of Education and as a member of numerous civic organizations.

The Michigan Department of Mental Health has provided the center with an acting director and will later name Dr. Lockett's permanent successor.

Dr. Lockett is survived by a daughter, Sherie Lockett, his father, Jesse Lockett, and four sisters.

High school performers prep for new season of music-making

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Strolling down the music hallway in Northville High School gives you the impression that you have wandered into an old cathedral with the Tabernacle Choir performing behind closed doors. But what you're really hearing is a group of high school students rehearsing.

Melodious strains echo throughout the hall. Sounds that are just a preview of what is to come.

Students in the Concert and Varsity choirs, Girls' Ensemble, Northville Singers, BackBeat and the TrebleMakers, under the direction of Mary Kay Pryce, are warming up for a full semester of performances and activities.

The first big event of the year will be this year's fall concert "The Stars, the Moon and the Heavens." The public can come out and take advantage of each choral group's unique sounds at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 26. Tickets are $3 and can be bought in advance at the high school office or at the door the evening of the performance.

Early next year, the Concert Choir and Northville Singers will be able to demonstrate their talent to the rest of Michigan, as well as to other Midwestern states, when they perform at the 50th Midwest Music Educators' Conference in Ann Arbor.

The conference, which will be held Jan. 20 and 21, will be attended by instrumental and vocal educators from throughout the entire Midwest region.

"This is a good one to be at because it is such a key year," Pryce said.

Northville won the honor to perform at the conference after Pryce submitted tapes to an audition. Judges listened to the some than 20-30 entries blindly, not knowing one tape from another. They awarded points to the groups and the top four groups in each category won the right to perform at the conference.

Another major event for the choir program is the Madrigal Dinner, an annual Renaissance-style event.

Although the festive event, which includes a five-course meal and transforms the high school cafeteria into an old English castle, is planned for March 3 and 4, students and staff have already begun planning for the popular event.

Pryce said the Madrigal Dinner, which is open to the public, provides continuous entertainment with stage combat, acrobats, jugglers, performances by various choir groups, not to mention an old hunch-backed beggar looking for extra scraps of prime rib to steal from your plate.

Students have started planning the medieval event by working on menu planning, decorating, table decorations, costumes lighting and other elements.

Pryce said the dinner has been successful in past years and she expects this year to be no different.

Other events coming up include: The Friends, Family, Alumni, Teacher/Student choir rehearsal in the auditorium from 7:30-9 p.m. Dec. 5 and the annual Holiday Concert at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium Dec. 14 and 15.

Program is link to community

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Every Monday morning Becky, a 14-year-old student at Old Village School, travels down to Sparr's Flowers & Greenhouse at the corner of Center and Dunlap streets to water the store's plants.

At a glance, the weekly task would not seem overly significant, but it gives Becky the satisfaction of accomplishing a goal and being able to function in the community. Becky's weekly duty at Sparr's is part of a concept known as community-based education, which gets students who suffer from mental and/or physical impairments into the community to learn valuable life skills.

Dave Bartlett, a special education instructor at Old Village School and Becky's teacher, said students participate in many activities including going to Joseph's Coney Island on Main Street to practice ordering, going grocery shopping at Shopping Center Market to practice using money and coupons or visiting Maybury State Park to perform clean-up and groom the animals, among other activities.

Northville business owners have been extremely generous and helpful in contributing to community-based education for the students, Bartlett said.

"They get the practical experience that is important for them to be in the community," Bartlett said. "And it's good for the community to see these kids."

If the staff at Sparr's is any indication, the community enjoys having these students in their establishments.

Once Becky finishes watering the plants with a turkey baster, she mops the floor to clean-up spills with the help of paraprofessional Judy Squires, then showers the staff with hugs before leaving. She always receives a sticker for a job well done.

"It is a joy to have them come," said Sparr's employee Shirley Truesdell. "They are so sweet, it makes your day to see what they're doing."

Getting the students out among the local businesses also teaches them other valuable skills such as traffic safety, and how to deal with crowds and the weather, including deciding whether or not to wear a coat.

"We don't do a lot of academics with these students and they need all the practical experience we can give them," he said.

Connector could open on Oct. 24

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Whether or not the first phase of the Haggerty Connector opens on Oct. 24 depends on the weather.

Not that that has anything to do with the completion of the $37 million worth of construction work. Michigan Department of Transportation officials say they just want a nice day to scoot "high level" political dignitaries in and out of Novi and Farmington Hills for the official opening of the Twelve Mile interchange portion of the project.

"We're firmly on time. We like to kind of brag when we finish a project like this on time. Mostly the weather that we had was pretty good weather," Tom Maki, MDOT district project development engineer, said Monday.

The interchange should ease up the traffic jams at the Novi Road and Orchard Lake interchanges, he added.

Construction of the interchange began in October 1992.

As for the rest of the Haggerty Connector, a boulevard leading from Twelve Mile Road to just shy of Maple Road, the ground breaking is not likely to occur in the near future. The north/south extension will cost about $23 million to build, Maki said, but not all of the necessary right-of-way has yet been acquired by MDOT. The original start-up time for this second phase, which includes improvements to the connector's intersections with Thirteen and Fourteen Mile roads, was spring

"The timetable is unclear. The funding levels are uncertain for next year. We haven't established a firm start. It may start this year, it depends on the funding levels," Maki explained.

The entire Twelve Mile Road interchange will not be opened this month, to avoid dumping all the extra traffic on Twelve Mile Road. All of the entrance ramps onto the interchange, which links with Interstates 96, 275 and M-102, will be available for drivers.

But only two of four exit ramps will be opened. Available for use will be the westbound exit from I-96 and the northbound exit from I-275.

Remaining closed for now will be the link-up to M-102 and the eastbound off ramp from I-96 to Twelve Mile Road.

"The connector's not complete. We did not want to burden the area with a complete movement of traffic right away," Maki said.

"It is going to relieve some of the delays at the Novi Road and Orchard Lake interchanges. It should really help both of them. What's really going to help the (Twelve Oaks) mall traffic is when Twelve Mile Road is open all the way."

While MDOT is currently considering a possible extension of Northwestern Highway into the Haggerty Connector, possibly at Fourteen Mile or Fifteen Mile roads, those plans will not impact the future construction of the connector, Maki said.

The City of Novi's share of the task of widening Twelve Mile Road picks up at Woodland Medical Center, where MDOT left off, and continues to Novi Road.

What's been done so far is a $3 million lane added to the Farmington Hills portion of I-96, the $22 million interchange with a bridge (already festooned with graffiti) in Novi, and the $12 million Twelve Mile Boulevard.

"All that was within the project budget," Maki added.

That work tore up Novi's Summit Drive, shifting the residential street to the west and taking the residence of one family who rebuilt their home on the new Summit Drive. Other houses in Novi, including one of the city's oldest, were lost along Twelve Mile Road.

Now, MDOT officials are busy planning the grand opening.

"Details are being formulated as we speak. We're expecting high level politicians," Maki said.

But don't make firm plans to use the interchange when commuting home on the freeway on Oct. 24.

"The date is up in the air," says MDOT spokesperson Brenda Peek.

Lowe and Boak compete for district court seat

Stephen Boak cites long list of legal credentials

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Attorney Stephen Boak is emphasizing his experience as a prosecutor and litigator in his campaign for 35th District Court judge.

"That's what sets me apart in this race—my experience, not only the length of it, but the variety," Boak said. "Too often we lawyers will look at a judge as being either prosecution oriented, defense oriented, plaintiff oriented or defendant oriented. I am fortunate in that I have broad knowledge gained from representing all sides of both civil and criminal cases."

Boak, 52, is a partner in the Plymouth law firm of Sempliner, Thomas & Boak. He finished first among a field of 11 candidates in the Aug. 2 primary election in the judge's race. Plymouth city attorney Ronald Lowe came in a close second, setting the stage for the contest between the two candidates in the Nov. 8 run-off.

Boak and Lowe are vying for the seat being vacated by retiring Judge James Garber. District court judgeship terms run for six years.

Boak grew up in rural Pennsylvania, taking odd jobs as a youth and saving for college. He earned his undergraduate degree from Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Penn., then came to Michigan to attend the University of Michigan Law School. He received his doctor of jurisprudence degree in 1966.

Michigan became his new home after graduation, as he soon took a position in the office of the Wayne County Prosecutor.

As an assistant prosecutor, he acted as a trial lawyer, handling criminal cases on behalf of the state. He was eventually named chief trial lawyer of the office, and, later, chief of operations, the third-highest position in the office overseeing 125 lawyers. In all, he spent 13 years as an assistant prosecutor.

Boak remembers one remarkable case above all others from his prosecutorial days. It took place in 1974 and involved the trial of three men who had kidnapped and killed two young boys. The men held the boys captive for several days, attempting to obtain a ransom for them. When a police drop failed, they took the boys into a field and shot them. That same night they also murdered an adult who threatened to go to the police.

Boak is proud of the life terms he helped secure against the criminals.

"It was important because there were a lot of different things in the trial. We had voice print evidence, and one boy lost a button and a garment. It was just very interesting as an attorney to try it."

"I'm happy to say that some of my defendants are still in prison as we speak."

After an unsuccessful campaign for circuit court judges in 1980, Boak left the prosecutor's office and went to work with his current firm where he specializes in civil litigation.

"Civil practice is probably not as newsworthy as prosecuting, but it is by the same token as satisfying," he said "I represent people in wrongful death cases where it's evident a wrong has been committed that needs to be corrected."

Boak said he performs some criminal defense work now, but accepts such cases only selectively.

"Having been a prosecutor, I know the percentage of cases where the person is probably guilty, versus the very small percentage where the person is not legitimately charged. I'm not one to manufacture a defense just to give somebody a day in court."

Boak volunteered for the Army in 1966 and drew a stateside assignment during the Vietnam War. He remained in the Army Reserves from the time of his discharge until 1993, retiring as a Lieutenant Colonel. He belongs to several military organizations and counts his work in the Reserves as a community activity, saying as a reservist he did things such as helping seniors complete their income tax returns.

Other affiliations include the Plymouth Kiwanis and acting as a soccer coach.

Boak ran unsuccessfully for Plymouth Township supervisor in 1992. He has never been disciplined as an attorney and has had no grievances filed against him.

He says his 27 years of legal experience and his leadership positions as a first commander in the Army and as the chief of operations in the prosecutor's office qualify him to serve as district court judge.

"Part of the duties of the judge are administrative. My administrative experience and my leadership ability, I think, are the things that make me the best candidate."

The 35th District Court serves the cities of Northville and Plymouth and the townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. The courthouse is located in Plymouth.

District court judges make approximately $100,000 a year.

Ronald Lowe draws on municipal experience

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Plymouth City Attorney Ronald Lowe says he might not have practiced law for as many years as his opponent in the 35th District Court judgeship race, but he'll match resumes with the other candidate anytime.

"Consider this: If you were about to have heart surgery done, you could go to the doctor that's been practicing for 30 years or you could go to the heart surgeon that's been doing heart surgery for six years," he says.

Lowe, 38, finished a close second to attorney Stephen Boak in the Aug. 2 primary. The two are competing to succeed retiring Judge James Garber.

The general election is Nov. 8. The other jurist at 35th District Court, Judge John McDonald, is not up for reelection this year. District court judgeship terms run for six years.

Lowe is a partner in the Plymouth firm of Lowe & Lewandowski. He is under contract to serve as the principal attorney for the city of Plymouth, a position he says represents about 50 percent of his current practice.

"One day you're advising them on whether they should adopt an ordinance or not, another day you're looking at a contract for them," he said.

Lowe has performed municipal work for all five communities in the 35th District Court jurisdiction—the cities of Northville and Plymouth and the townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. He says that kind of involvement with the municipalities, plus the work he performs as part of his general practice, make him the natural choice.

"What I think that does is it gives me a perspective as to what the five municipalities will need when their laws are being enforced at the local district court level.

"My definition of experience is that wisdom that you gain from trials and observation, and I think I have an experience that exceeds Mr. Boak's; but more importantly, it's unique, it's one that I tried to tailor to prepare for the bench."

Lowe says he has known he wanted to be a judge since he was 16 and worked as a court officer for former 35th District Judge Dunbar Davis. Lowe's father, who also served as city attorney for Plymouth, was another major influence on him.

"Davis used to take me back in the chambers after court and we'd talk about the law and the cases. And my father did the same time sitting down at the dinner table. He taught me that good law is just good common sense."

"Between the two of them, I learned two things: I wanted to practice law, but more importantly I wanted to come back and do what judge Dunbar Davis was doing."

Lowe grew up in Plymouth and graduated from Plymouth-Canton High School in 1974. He earned an undergraduate degree from Hillsdale College in 1978, and considered becoming a Baptist minister. His passion for law dominated, however, and he enrolled at Cooley Law School in Lansing, earning his doctor of jurisprudence in 1982.

He began prosecuting cases for Plymouth in 1981, even before obtaining his law degree, then started acting as permanent city attorney in 1985.

His general practice consists of a little of everything, he says.

"I like to put it this way to people: I'm kind of like the general doctor; you come in to me and we'll take care of it. If it's something that requires a specialty, we'll get you to that person."

"One day I could be writing someone's will or trust, the next day putting a corporation together and the next day filing a divorce. You never know what hat you're going to have to wear, you never know if you're going to be the plaintiff or the defendant."

(Editor's Note: The two articles below profile the candidates for the 35th District Court judge's race.)

Lowe has considerable community involvement experience, including officer positions with the United Way, the Plymouth-Canton Jaycees and the Plymouth Rotary. He is the vice-chair of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth's administrative council and conducts a story telling program explaining America's Christian heritage.

He is also affiliated with several legal and professional organizations.

"I've been in a number of leadership roles in those community organizations," he said. "You couple those leadership roles with the city attorney's role, and I think that's the main difference between Steve and I. Steve is looking for the position so that he can demonstrate he can be a community leader. I have been a community leader for 12 years."

Lowe has never run for elective office before. He has not been disciplined professionally or had a grievance file against him.

District court are paid approximately $100,000 a year.

Lawmakers issue recommendations for changes in Friend of Court system

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Families in divorce and paternity cases would be better served if the Friend of Court offices were overseen by county boards instead of judges, a panel of state senators says.

Sens. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, said they heard literally hundreds of complaints in 10 public hearings about over-worked FOC staffs, staff rudeness, bureaucratic procedures and gender bias.

"There appears to be no accountability for the FOC," Geake and Honigman said in their written report. "Currently the chief judges in many jurisdictions do not appear to be giving the FOC the attention it deserves, and public access to complain to the judges is very limited."

"The shift of oversight responsibilities from the chief judge of a circuit to the (county) commission should allow it to better understand the FOC's budgetary needs, as well as to allow more public access ... The FOC should be an at-will employee of the county," the report concluded.

Dissenting was Sen. Christopher Dingell, D-Trenton. He cited "the close working relationship between FOC and the judges" as a reason keeping the FOC an appointee of the judge. Dingell said there may be a constitutional problem with shifting what has been a judicial function since 1919 to another branch of government.

But the others said FOC was created by law, not the constitution, and could be shifted by law, even though "many county board members may not be eager to assume responsibility for FOC operations."

The three senators worked from January through August as a subcommittee of the Family Law, Mental Health and Corrections Committee, making 32 recommendations. Only a handful of recommendations, however, will require changes in the law. A Geake aide said some will be worked on in the state Legislature's November "lame duck" session while others can be implemented administratively.

FOC offices report to the chief judge of a circuit court, which handles divorce and paternity matters.

Many complaints centered on slow payments to mothers and bias toward fathers. The Senate panel recommended much "sensitivity" and "stress management" training for staffs, along with "plain English" explanations of FOC procedures.

Geake is a child psychologist; Honigman and Dingell are attorneys.

As part of the shift from court to general government of the FOC offices, the senators recommended "liaison" committees, subject to the Open Meetings Act, be named to respond to grievances against FOC staff and to compile data.

Senators found judges with six-year terms too inaccessible to clients and unable to deal with budget problems compared to county commissioners with two-year terms. How judges, often jealous of their power, will react will be seen when lawmakers meet in November.

Among other subcommittee recommendations:

- A requirement that child-support checks be mailed to the custodial parent within two weeks of receipt from the supporting parent. FOC should pay interest for late checks.

- A requirement that late payers be charged interest. FOC should report both good and bad payment histories to credit reporting bureaus.

- Mandatory continuing legal training in family law for judges and referees.

- Staffing ratios to be recommended by the State Court Administrator's office. "Throughout the state, there are wide discrepancies in the staffing ratios," causing frustration to clients, the panel said.

- Staff efforts to avoid gender bias.

- Name badges for FOC employees because clients often are unable to identify them.

- Notice to all parties in a visitation dispute that they have a right to meet with the FOC caseworker before the caseworker makes a recommendation.

- Statewide implementation of Oakland County's "SMILE" program—a monthly two-hour program in which the judge, mental health professionals and the FOC meet with parents in divorce cases. There also is a videotape for children.

- No presumption by the judge against joint custody of a child.

- Grandparent visitation provisions.

A thorny question was whether

"Currently the chief judges in many jurisdictions do not appear to be giving the FOC the attention it deserves, and public access to complain to the judges is very limited."

Report on FOC committee hearings the state should revoke the driver's and occupational licenses of deadbeat parents who fail to make support payments. Senators said, however, they heard many complaints that FOC record-keeping was faulty. They recommended:

"Bills already introduced regarding license revocations should be scheduled for legislative hearings and amended to provide adequate due process for those accused of failure to pay."

The subcommittee report on FOC is before the Senate Family Law, Mental Health and Corrections Committee, 405 State Capitol Building, Lansing 48909.

BRIDGEFIX

MDOT Is Doing Its Best To Keep You Out Of A Fix... While Fixing The Bridges

As BRIDGEFIX continues, access to downtown has improved with the re-opening of Chrysler Freeway (I-75). The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is repairing nine bridges and pedestrian walkways over the Lodge (M-10), Ford (I-94) and Fisher (I-75) freeways. When the job is done, you will be traveling over (and under) some of the safest, most secure bridges in Michigan. In the meantime, MDOT wants to keep you out of a fix, while fixing the bridges. Here's how:

- Check your local print news and traffic information stations for updated travel information.
- All freeways have two lanes open in both directions, except during night time construction periods.
- Watch for detour signs and please observe the speed limits.
- Call our toll-free hotline — 1-800-968-9394 — for up-to-the minute information on detours and lane closures.

Our Opinion

Find a different way to show good faith

Northville Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand has correctly identified the symptom but we're not sure she has prescribed the right treatment.

In a move calculated more for public relations than for cost savings, Hillebrand has proposed that the township begin requiring employees to pay for some of the telephone calls they make. Under the proposal, township workers would be asked to provide reimbursement for non-business local calls lasting more than 10 minutes and for all non-business long distance calls.

A second component of her plan would change the township's vehicle policy. Hillebrand wants to take some of the vehicle privileges away from three officials who now have 24-hour use of township-issue cars. The three would still be able to drive township cars during business hours but wouldn't be able to take them home at the end of the day. They'd have to drive their own cars to and from work, then use the township vehicles on their daytime rounds.

In making her suggestions, Hillebrand mentioned that the failed Aug. 2 millages amounted to an indication of voter dissatisfaction. Township residents are unhappy with their elected officials, she believes, and demonstrated their frustration at the ballot box. By way of response, township officials should make a good faith effort to show that they acknowledge the problem and are doing something about it.

As is usually the case, Hillebrand's reasoning is sound, but there's a trade off. Trustee Mark Abbo was right in pointing out that a signal of this kind to the voters could take an offsetting toll in employee morale. Not only would it be an inconvenience for employees to have to begin logging their telephone calls, it would also create an atmosphere of mistrust, as if workers were being constantly monitored. That would not be the intent, though, as the recommendation is meant as a show of responsiveness, not as a move to correct an existing abuse. Hillebrand estimates the new policy would save the township $200 a month. Even if this figure is correct, the cost savings, we believe, would not justify the disgruntlement it would cause.

The changes in vehicle policy, we think, would have similar consequences. The way the clerk has proposed it, the policy would compensate employees for the privileges of which they were stripped. Hillebrand acknowledges that vehicle use is a form of compensation and she is willing to provide bonuses or raises equal to the value of the lost benefit.

The real advantage, Hillebrand says, would come in the form of reduced liability risks. With municipal cars parked in the lot at township hall instead of in employees' driveways, there would be less of a chance that a worker could cause an accident while leaving a social engagement. That, in turn, would reduce the chance the township could get sued for personal injury or negligence.

Again this is thoughtful reasoning, but, as Abbo indicated, the township is fully insured and is in line with other municipalities in providing its fast-response personnel with the full use of automobiles.

Hillebrand is on target in both her assessment of voter unhappiness and in her resolve to address credibility problems. We believe that can best be done, though, by the selection of a qualified, full-time manager and by a commitment on the part of trustees to work together in harmony rather than hostility.

'B' would help stem abuse of justice system

Proposal B on the Nov. 8 ballot deserves a yes vote because it corrects a bad situation in our jammed-up courts.

The situation is absurd: A defendant pleads guilty and is sentenced. Then he protests to the Court of Appeals.

The situation costs taxpayers millions. Three appellate court justices, paid more than $100,000 a year, must look at each case. They have staffs to pay and offices to rent. Defense lawyers, usually paid for by the public, cost $900 to $1,000 per case. They file 35-page briefs. The county prosecutor must take a senior staff lawyer off trial work to write a 35-page reply brief. Each appeal requires a transcript that averages 20 pages at $2.35 a page.

The situation occurs too often. About one-fourth of the Court of Appeals' caseload stems from guilty plea cases. The 24 judges on Michigan's second highest court are so overburdened that the Supreme Court administrator is asking for dozens of additional judges. Dozens!

The situation is a waste of time and talent. More than 99 percent of the appeals by those who plead guilty are found to be without merit.

The situation can be corrected. Proposal B would remove the automatic right of appeal of defendants who plead guilty. They wouldn't lose their constitutional rights entirely because they still could request "leave to appeal"—the Court of Appeals' permission.

Critics of Proposal B are very few. They fear Proposal B would take away defendants' rights.

Not so. Remember, it applies only to those who plead guilty (or no contest). Most of their appeals allege harsh sentences. In the 1980s Michigan developed a set of sentencing guidelines based on the actual experiences of hundreds of judges. A judge may hand down a sentence that exceeds the guidelines but must justify the stiff sentence with reasons, on the record.

In 1990 the Michigan Supreme Court put teeth in the sentencing guidelines by ordering resentencing in more than a dozen such cases. That famous case was People vs. Milbourn. If Proposal B is added to the Michigan Constitution, a convict would merely have to cite a judge's unjustified deviation from the sentencing guidelines and cite the Milbourn case, and his appeal would carry a red flag that would demand Court of Appeals attention.

Thus, the Court of Appeals could concentrate on the 1 percent of meritorious appeals and be rid of the 99 percent that are time-wasters.

Prosecutors and politicians of both parties favor Proposal B. We hope voters do to. Vote yes on Nov. 8.

Lee Snider

Musings about people and happenings around town.

Did you see the write up on entrepreneurs extraordinaire John and Toni Genitti in the Oct. 3 Detroit News? It was penned by longtime reporter/columnist George Cantor and appeared on the front page of that day's Metro section.

It seems John knows Cantor from when the two of them worked at the Detroit Free Press many years ago. One day recently, according to John, Cantor was walking through town when he spotted Genitti's Main Street conglomerate and decided a story would be in order.

The article's full of positive publicity about the Genittis and about Northville, depicting the city as a dynamic community that was awakened from its slumber by the opening of I-275. There was even a map illustrating the downtown and an inset showing Northville's location in the tri-county area.

Just two caveats, though: too much modesty from John when he attributed his success to being in the right place at the right time. Imagination and a willingness to take chances also help account for the quality establishments he and his wife operate.

Secondly, why credit just the opening of the expressway for the city's resurgence? The massive 1978 renewal project that put a new veneer on the entire downtown probably had something to do with it, too, don't you think?

Sickly steed

Sebastian, the magnificent English shire who was the work horse (literally) of the Classic Carriage tour service, is out with the bug. Owner Elizabeth Kratt says her purebred animal caught a virus, probably a rodent-borne infection, and lost considerable weight. The nobly-proportioned stallion eventually became just a shadow of his former self, appearing pallid and anemic, Elizabeth says.

Sebastian was turned over to the experts at MSU and, apparently, he's now on the mend. In the meantime, the tour duties are being ably handled by a loaner horse, a non-blueblood who goes by the unassuming name of "Rick."

What riles ya, baby?

An ironic thing happened at the Town Hall lecture luncheon Monday. At one point, speaker Vincent Bugliosi took time out from his address to tell our photographer, Sue Spillane, to cease and desist with the picture taking. Bugliosi, a prosecutor and the best-selling author of Helter Skelter, starred into the very face of evil when he took Charles "Madman" Manson to trial and won a conviction. Nevertheless, the presence of Sue and her camera in the room proved "disconcerting" to the tough-as-nails crime buster.

You never know what's going to get under some people's skin. Still, it's hard to fathom. Sue's about as threatening as Aunt Bea with a head cold.

Institutional losses

The local health care community suffered a double tragedy this month with the sudden deaths of two prominent officials. First, Petar Radakovic, the owner of Star Manor retirement home died Oct. 2. Radakovic's condition was particularly puzzling, as the 40-year-old unexpectedly went into cardiac arrest during the home's annual pig roast event Sept. 18 and later fell into a coma. He never came out of it.

Then Dr. Harold Lockett, the director of the Hawthorn Center, died Oct. 6 during surgery. Though he had been under treatment for prostate cancer, Dr. Lockett was apparently in good health. His work schedule had not been curtailed and he was expected to pull through the surgery. He was 70.

It was an incalculable personal and professional loss for the scores of people who benefited from the leadership of these two caring men.

A little sanity while planning

Sharon Condron

Two of the strangest things happened this week. And if you missed either event, let me preface this by saying you really had to be there to believe it.

First off, Novi city planners were asked to approve a development that would have put 51 percent more cars through the Eight Mile and Haggerty Road intersection.

What boggles the mind is that some commissioners actually considered the plan, which included a three-store center and a restaurant. Developers planned to squeeze the 129,000-square-foot strip mall between Chili's Restaurant and the Novi Hilton, squeeze being the operative word.

I sat and listened attentively to the developer's pitch but lost my concentration when I was interrupted by a flash of reality, and then a skeptical chuckle.

I got the chuckle from watching the expressions on some commissioners' faces—especially that of Robert Taub. It was a look that screamed, "this is ludicrous." I found myself chucking harder as some debated the plan and offered assurances that it could work with minor improvements to Haggerty Road. Hello? How could anyone who has traveled that intersection even propose such a monstrosity? It was an accident waiting to happen.

I found myself wondering if those proposing the development or those accepting it had traveled Haggerty Road at any given time recently? Had they forgotten the traffic, the hazards and the recent fatal accident that claimed the life of a Novi teenager?

It's pure chaos. Most of the time making a left turn out of McDonald's, Taco Bell, or Speedway is at best a major delay, at worst a virtual impossibility.

Better yet, a few years back commissioners denied a developer's plan to build a single restaurant in the same location. That's good planning that makes sense.

I for one am grateful commissioners had the sense to nip the plan in the bud before Haggerty Road became a chamber of horrors.

As if that wasn't enough, the next night I attended the Novi Board of Education and thought I was experiencing deja vu. I was sure the board had debated, decided and voted to approve two separate bond proposals for new and renovated schools a week earlier.

"Pinch me if I'm dreaming," I kept thinking as the board brought the issue back for review and revision. Minutes later the majority voted to amend their previous plan, increase the proposal by $2.4 million and combine the two proposals into one.

Amazing, I thought. Despite criticisms of the plan, elected school officials contended the proposal was "well thought out."

How well thought out could plans be when they change from week to week, I thought as I left the meeting and headed to Taco Bell at Eight Mile and Haggerty to grab a diet cola for the ride home.

When I turned left out of the fast food restaurant, I was thankful someone had some good sense in planning.

What was wrong with old grades?

To the Editor:
Some reflections on the Oct. 6 Record.

First, the article by Yvonne Beebe regarding the new grade marking system: I have met and worked with Ms. McMaster and find her to be an extremely intelligent, dedicated educator. I have often felt she should be the superintendent, since her position on issues is usually clear. However, it is the attitude of McMaster and the current administration, the school board and the teacher's union that drives parents and taxpayers to distraction.

Who asked for a new report card? Who was unable to understand the old one? How much more time will be needed to grade these new report cards? Why were 90 of the district's teachers and 1,500 hours of work spent to create it? It seems more of that time could have been spent on teaching or preparing to teach.

Second, the letter to the editor from Steve Pichan: Mr. Pichan voiced the concerns of many of us in a very articulate manner. Why are teachers being used as social workers instead of addressing the issue that concerns parents the most: academics?

Should we accept that our children are academically mediocre as long as they feel really good about themselves? Half of self-esteem should be the byproduct of a good education not the goal. It is not the responsibility of our public school system to teach our children values or to think in a specific way about environmental, social, moral and spiritual issues; that is and should remain the domain of private schools.

Third, Phil Power's comments regarding charter schools: Mr. Power seems to have gotten a little better understanding of the opinions of the general public regarding school issues as a result of the voice mail he received. It would be encouraging if the school board and the administration would also heed these warnings. The Record should conduct a poll of the residents of the Northville school district to get a better and more accurate understanding of the public's feelings regarding these issues.

Finally, Randy Coble's "Wake up call to voters"; Mr. Coble must also remember that the results of any election should be a wake up call for the elected and employees of government, not the voters. The citizens of the township voted in August on an issue and now in November they have to pay for another election about the same thing. I hope that the school board doesn't think we will tolerate another millage election. It is very frustrating for voters to have people assume that they are stupid or uninformed simply because they don't agree with the current agenda of the powers that be.

A rubber stamp school board is not what we wanted when we voted in three new members in the last two elections. Why is it so difficult for these people to understand that they work for us! Parents' concerns are falling on deaf ears. The administration seems incompetent regarding future planning, staffing and facilities. They seem to lack general knowledge about what is actually going on in the classroom.

They have given tenure to teachers that don't belong in the classroom. We have overcrowded classrooms, but they are concerned about expanding the ALPS program and developing new report cards. These patronizing, arrogant, holler than thou, "we know what's best for you" attitudes are exactly why schools of choice, charter schools, vouchers and privatizing of school districts are becoming a reality.

The rumble being heard around Northville these days is the undercurrent of our dissatisfaction with the direction in which public education is heading.

Deemphasize the role of money

Phil Power

Last Saturday at the UM-MSU football game, I ran into Bob Carr, the Democrat who's running against Spencer Abraham for the U.S. Senate. Snippets from our conversation speak volumes about what's really going on in this campaign, now down to the last few weeks before election day.

"Hi, Bob. How are things going?"
"OK, I guess. I finally got up on the air (i.e., ran a TV spot) with me speaking directly into the camera. Abraham has been running a spot trying to make me look like Bill Clinton, and I wanted to remind folks that it's me, warts and all, that's running for the Senate."
"What's the mood out there?"

"Pretty bad. People are sore; they're cynical. I've never seen the mood quite like this."

More than I have ever seen, this campaign is turning into politics by television. Even in private conversation, candidates don't talk much any more about how wrong or inconsistent or treacherous their opponent really is. All they can talk about is "getting up on the air" or "my opponent has another spot ready to go."

There is no doubt that politics in a big state like Michigan has to be done wholesale, which means by costly TV commercials. Production costs are ruinous. Air time, particularly in southeastern Michigan where munities in which they live.

By so doing, veterans will receive much better care and treatment in hospitals in the community rather than in government-run veterans hospitals. Then, too, many community hospital beds that now remain vacant would be more fully—and profitably—utilized.

Lakes thanks township dept.

To the Editor:
The Lakes of Northville Subdivision Board of Directors would like to publicly thank the Northville Township Public Safety Department for their outstanding participation in our annual subdivision picnic.

We were delighted by their professionalism and enthusiasm throughout the afternoon. We enjoyed their firehouse, along with all the equipment, trucks and information provided to us.

I'm proud that these fine people represent us in this community and hope that others will take advantage of their special fire prevention activities. They were kind enough to volunteer their holiday afternoon for us and we sincerely appreciate their efforts.

We would much rather see them educating and preventing fires than fighting and cleaning up after them.

Youth assistance must survive

To the Editor:
In a few weeks the voters of Northville will be deciding the fate of the Northville Youth Assistance Program.

In my work with Youth Assistance Programs of Wayne County, I have worked closely with Program Coordinator Mary Ellen King and I can attest to the effectiveness of the program.

Since its inception in 1987, Northville Youth Assistance has been an asset to the community. It provides positive role models for at-risk youth, thus preventing and deterring them from entering the 'criminal justice system.'

I believe it is the community's responsibility to take care of its own. Your vote on the millage to the well-bring of struggling youths and families in Northville. Please vote yes on Nov. 8

To the Editor:
As a former member of Northville and neighbor and friend of Karen Baja, I felt compelled to remind the residents of Northville how fortunate they are to have someone like Karen Baja in a leadership position in their community. Knowing Karen politically as well as socially inclines me to believe that many people in Northville have lost their perspective on what the objective for the betterment of Northville is, and instead become caught up in a lot of sensationalism.

In the last campaign between Karen Baja and Georgina Goss, I know a lot was going around then to attempt to discredit Karen. Also knowing personally the parties involved who were doing such mud slinging, I'd have to say that they would be the least worthy of casting the first stone.

Since that last campaign, brief visits with Karen have revealed the stresses and strains of her political position—not the average pressures expected in a leadership position, but undue hardship heaped on her from spiteful, vindictive colleagues.

In my own experience in the political arena in Northville, I've experienced an element of unprofessionalism from a community that prides itself on its professional citizens. This behavior is usually initiated and then supported by a certain "group" in Northville that maintains a pattern of thinking that, when challenged, will viciously set out to suppress any representation that does not reflect their mind-set. This "group" or pattern of thinking subscribes to the concept of furthering your political career above all else. Simple justice, fairness and integrity that people like Karen Baja are trying to represent have no place in their system.

Asking people like Karen Baja to stay in the political arena dealing with unprofessional mongers on a daily basis (as with others that I know who have stayed) is quite a sacrifice on their part for the community.

It is a very valuable example to our children, though. It teaches them that one person can make a difference and that sooner or later "what goes around does come around." What kind of example are these mongers setting for their children? That it's easier to go along with the crowd and sensationalize rather than deal in fact?

As for the media ... the above statement defines most of them also. They do want to sensationalize rather than deal in fact. It's easier for them too. I deal with the real media daily on a national level corresponding with the Detroit, Washington, D.C., L.A. and New York bureaus of the major newspapers. In the past five years I've learned that the press does not want to be educated. They want superficial information and sensationalism to base their stories on and if you do not give them the story they expect they literally make it up. Fabrication leaves no guilt for them. However, they are misleading a gullible audience and in a sense stirring up the public unnecessarily.

On behalf of the good media, they experience pressures similar to what Karen is experiencing because they dare to take a stand and do their job. So don't expect support from the press—instead use them as a sounding board for what we know to be the majority of citizens that still possess integrity.

O.B.E. often misunderstood

To the Editor:
O.B.E. A challenge for all. I am a high school teacher, a professional, who is confident about the educational opportunities and challenges offered to students. I have been implementing Outcomes Based Education (O.B.E.) for three years and I can no longer allow this educational process to be criticized by those who are less informed.

O.B.E. is not experimental. Research has proven that all children can learn, at different rates and through different methods. Education is a process, not a product—not a competition with a prize at the end. School is a place where children practice skills until these skills are mastered, prior to advancing to the next level.

Various learning strategies and enrichment opportunities are being made available to the students toward this end. If O.B.E. is implemented correctly, all students who take advantage of the opportunities will achieve, with room for many students to exceed the established outcome.

O.B.E. is not "teaching someone's thinking."

The objective is to teach thinking skills, not specific beliefs. Major criticism from higher education and industry includes the lack of problem-solving and decislon-making skills displayed by high school graduates. To teach these skills, more than one perspective on an issue must be presented.

O.B.E. doesn't dilute academic standards in public schools

O.B.E. is not a "watered down" curriculum, with lowered standards.

O.B.E. is more demanding. It is easier for a student to memorize than to think and apply knowledge. Often, a student with a flawless straight "A" report card, finds it difficult to be a stand-out, when asked to formulate, logically, an opinion and support it. State mandated proficiency tests for the class of 1999 will require a level of mastery of these skills for high school graduation.

O.B.E. is not the absence of a "loving, nurturing and continually supportive teacher."

It is the presence of that same teacher with high expectations of achievement of the skills that are necessary for the student's future success. A teacher who guides the student is preparing that student to be a self-motivated learner.

The goal of Outcomes Based Education and the goal of the "ideal" American education is one and the same—for all children to be given the opportunity to learn the necessary skills and applications to be successful. When these children grow into adulthood, they will be equipped to act as functioning members of the American society—assets to the community, rather than dependents of the community.

School fair was great success

To the Editor:

William Allan Academy recently held its annual school fair and it was once again a wonderful event thanks to the efforts of several individuals. Students, teachers, staff and parents all did their part to contribute to an afternoon devoted to fun.

In particular, the Parent Group Organization would like to thank the following individuals and businesses for donating their time and goods.

A big thank you to Mike Ader, area supervisor at Little Caesar's Pizza, for coordinating the pizza orders and making repeated trips out to the school to deliver the pizzas while they were still hot. And thanks to the crew at the Northville Little Caesar's on Seven Mile Road for making all those pizzas.

We would also like to thank the management at Shopping Center Market for donating a $50 gift certificate which was used to purchase cider and pop for our fair.

Pepsi's Chris Hudgens was generous enough to donate eight 24-packs of Pepsi and Brian Belobradic, a William Allan parent, contributed over 300 bags of Eagle Potato Chips.

And thank you to Tony Zebari of the New Hudson Food Market in New Hudson for giving us the watermelons we needed for our watermelon eating contest. Those participating in the contest said they were delicious.

Thanks are also due to all the parents who brought in baked goods for the bake sale and cake walk. Most of us were disappointed that recipes weren't included with the items, they smelled so good!

Pats on the back go to all the hard working parents who gave their time to coordinating the various booths at the fair: Gretchen Beems and Reba Clemmons who coordinated the food booth, Kim Belobradic's handling of the book fair, Sue Schwirring's great job with children's games, Barb Bunnell and Gail Dewar's efforts with the bake shop, Lois Pfefferle's flavored "sundae" booth, and Tom Horrigan's "Dad Dunk" and Pam Couch's popular pumpkin painting booth.

Many kudos to Bill Jenney for his spirited cake walk and his efforts organizing the fair.

Teachers Nancy Lawrence, who also organized things from "behind the scenes," and Trish Moore, who painted several hearts and rainbows on kids' faces, also deserve a big thank you.

Without the tireless efforts by all these individuals, the fair would not have been such an enjoyable event.

Just for kicks

Northville athlete Christina Mimikos put her best foot forward at last summer's Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic games and came away a winner. Christina took two gold medals in the competition, which centered on the taekwondo martial arts. As a result of her performance, Christina was named Outstanding Female Competitor of the event and will have her name inscribed on a plaque that will be displayed at the AAU headquarters in Indianapolis. The award is named after Joel Ferrell, former AAU executive director who was instrumental in involving children in athletic tournaments. The Junior Olympics took place in Coca Beach, Fla. Only one girl and one boy won outstanding competitor honors.

Rosselle sues over loss of chief's job

son and reputation. The defendants constructively discharged the plaintiff in retaliation for his exercise of his statutory right to join a union and due to his refusal to unlawfully interfere with the rights of other firefighters to form and join a union," the suit says.

The lawsuit also alleges that Baja and Snider had no authority under state law, the township's charter or policies and procedures manual to seek or accept Rosselle's resignation or to "constructively discharge" him, which is how the document describes what happened.

In addition, members of the board of trustees—who in a telephone poll supported Baja's decision to ask Rosselle to resign—are guilty of violating the state's Open Meetings Act, the suit also charges.

"The discussions and decisions concerning the plaintiff's constructive discharge," it says, "were made at secret meetings, which were held in violation of the open meetings requirements of state law and these decisions are legally invalid and void."

The actions of all involved, the suit concludes, violate state and federal law and the Michigan and U.S. Constitutions protecting Rosselle's rights, among them those of speech and association.

Individuals on both sides of the suit declined comment, citing the pending litigation.

Rosselle filed the suit on Aug. 23 in Wayne County Circuit Court. It names the township, Baja and Snider as defendants, charging them with eight counts of violating Rosselle's rights. The suit asks for an unspecified amount of money as compensation for the alleged violations. The minimum amount of damages that can be sought for a suit to be filed in Circuit Court, however, is $10,000.

The ex-chief resigned on May 16. Baja at the time said that she made the final decision to ask him for his resignation, backed up by Snider's recommendation to do so. The director at the time said he had made the suggestion after encountering a recurrent problem in the chief's "administrative and leadership" capabilities.

Rosselle in comments made to The Northville Record at the time said that the concerns, Snider and Baja cited were just a cover for the real reason he was asked to leave: personal dislike and their belief that he was resisting the merger of the fire and police departments in the township's Department of Public Safety.

A majority of the board gave their support to the move when Baja polled them by phone before asking Snider to make the request. Baja said she was unable to contact Trustee Barbara O'Brien, who did not learn of the resignation until after the fact. When she did, O'Brien questioned the legality of the move, saying that Rosselle's status was something only the board of trustees should decide.

On May 26, after consulting an attorney, Rosselle sent Baja a letter which stated Snider had forced him to sign the resignation letter "under threat, intimidation and ultimatum." Therefore, he continued, he considered the resignation invalid and himself still fire chief. Baja in a response letter said that she considered the matter closed.

Rosselle, the suit says, "was an exemplary and excellent employee" from when he was first hired in 1977 until his "wrongful termination" this May. Copies of a number of confidential memos written by Snider and Baja, however, allege a series of job-related performance problems on the part of the ex-chief.

Those allegations, the suit says, are untrue and part of a deliberate effort to put Rosselle out of his job.

"The foreseeable impact of the defendants' conduct," the suit alleges, "was to make the plaintiff's working conditions so difficult and unpleasant that he would be compelled to resign."

The real reason the officials wanted Rosselle to leave the township, the suit claims, is that they believed he either supported or was not doing enough to block an effort earlier this year to unionize the members of the fire department.

The township's firefighters in July voted by a decisive margin to turn down a proposal to join the state's firefighters union.

Matters came to head on May 16, the suit alleges, when Snider told Rosselle of Baja's decision. The director, the suit says, demanded that Rosselle immediately make a decision and denied Rosselle's repeated requests to go home and think things over or to contact an attorney. Rosselle signed the resignation letter which Snider prepared because he feared losing his pension, professional reputation and chance for getting a new job, the suit says.

Rosselle is seeking compensation for loss of his job, his wages and fringe benefits, mental and emotional suffering and for damage to his ability to get a new job. Rosselle's wife, Nancy, is also a plaintiff in the case, seeking compensation for her suffering from the alleged violations.

Parents object to new grade system academic performance. Some parents do not agree, however, feeling the new evaluation system is too vague.

"I believe we need to reassess the new system," said parent Pat Lamerato.

McMaster said there is a process in place that will allow for necessary changes to be made this year. After each card marking, she said, McMaster will be soliciting feedback from teachers and parents as to the pros and cons of the new system.

After the third card marking the committee that created the new report cards will reconvene, take into account comments from parents and teachers, and make needed changes.

Another change in the report cards that provoked concern from parents is the elimination of "D" and "E" grades at the fourth and fifth-grade levels and the implementation of an N.Y. rating.

"Why are we trying to eliminate all forms of healthy competition?" Lamerato said.

McMaster said the revised reporting system is a result of changes in the district's curriculum and a decision to fall in line with the district's vision that all children can learn.

Trustee Jean Hansen, who is pleased with the new system, said the N.Y. evaluation may motivate kids to perform better and work harder to achieve academic excellence.

"One of the board's scopes is that all children can learn," said Hansen. "If we truly believe this, it just stands to reason that some children learn faster than others, and this gives the other kids a second chance."

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski urged parents to be open to the process and continue to provide input.

Trustee Tom Gudritz said he has spoken with various community members who support the new report cards.

"I have talked to people in the community to find out how they were feeling and many said, 'Why should we have failures in the fourth and fifth grade?'" he said.

Pupil count means more this year with funding coming from the state

In the past, Rezmierski has voiced concern that if state revenues drop, Michigan schools could suffer.

In the event the state does suffer from ailing revenues within the next few years, Lansing is only obligated to allocate the school districts the per-pupil amount designated this year, rather than the 3 percent annual increase the schools could receive in a stable financial environment.

Even though Northville could be facing difficult times ahead, the district has two tricks up its sleeve that could prove to be a saving grace: a growing student population and a fund balance.

Northville Public Schools student population has been steadily on the rise which will equate to more money for the schools in the future.

This year, the school district met its goal of reaching 5 percent of the general operating budget in fund equity reserve, which could serve as a cushion in years to come if state revenues decline.

The Plante & Moran audit revealed that the school district has been successful in steadily building a larger fund equity pool.

In the past five years since 1989, the district managed to increase its fund equity from .28 percent of the budget to 5 percent.

Although the considerably hefty fund balance this year can allow officials to breathe a little easier, it is still 3.7 percent lower than the state average of 8.7 percent.

Rezmierski said the board and administration will work to keep adding to the fund equity pool, but additional amounts will depend on how much the state can provide.

Members of the Tennessee Press Association acted as judges for the MPA this year. They reviewed a total of 2,469 entries from 142 Michigan newspapers.

The Northville Record competed in the Class B category for weeklies. Class B newspapers fall in the 10,000 to 25,000 circulation range. The Record's circulation is roughly 6,000, but publications were required to register in the category of the highest circulating newspaper owned by their parent companies. The circulation of the Livingston County Press is more than 13,000, thus placing The Record into the higher classification.

Fogg to suggest dumping board, attorney vote, requested a legal opinion from Vanderveer Garzia's Len Krzyzaniak. He said that the board did not have the legal power to prevent the committee from operating. The three members, therefore, have continued to meet and have made several decisions, Baja said.

Baja said that all members of the board have received copies of Krzyzaniak's opinion and minutes of each of the committee's three meetings. Some trustees, however, said they weren't told that the committee had kept meeting and also denied they were given any minutes.

A larger issue of disagreement among board members is over Krzyzaniak's legal opinions regarding the powers of Baja and the executive committee, opinions which they say conflict with ones issued by the Michigan Townships Association and the state attorney general.

Tied into that debate are doubts some trustees voiced about Krzyzaniak's services and fees.

In an Oct. 7 memo to the board, Fogg said that the problems he perceives are serious enough to warrant getting rid of Vanderveer Garzia and immediately start hunting for a new township law firm.

The firm, he said, is costing the township too much money. Besides that, Fogg continued, he and other trustees have voiced concerns over the quality of some of Krzyzaniak's work.

Krzyzaniak has strongly defended both his fees and performance.

The township—through requests of the board and a number of pending lawsuits—gives him a lot of work to do, the attorney said, and costs go up accordingly. He denied as well the suggestion that work he's done for the township has been of substandard quality.

The board's meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. Township Hall is located on Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty.

Sugar & Spice

Photostory by Bryan Mitchell

The sweet smell of cider and doughnuts reaches your nose the minute you walk through the door of Parmenter's Cider Mill. The owners and crew say they never tire of that sensation.

The doughnut crew arrives early each morning to make fresh doughnuts for the day. On an average day a couple hundred pounds of dough will be used to make 125 to 150 dozen doughnuts. If there are any left over they send them to nursing homes or to a police department, or use them to feed the ducks out back.

"The ducks love them," says Diane Jones, a part owner of the mill.

Four years ago Jones took over the operation of the mill along with her husband Mel, sister Cheryl Nelson and Cheryl's husband Rob.

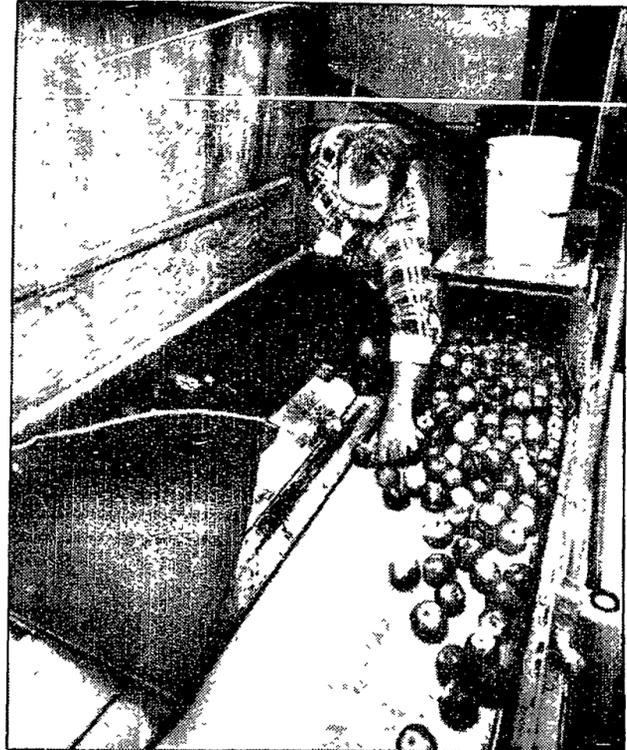

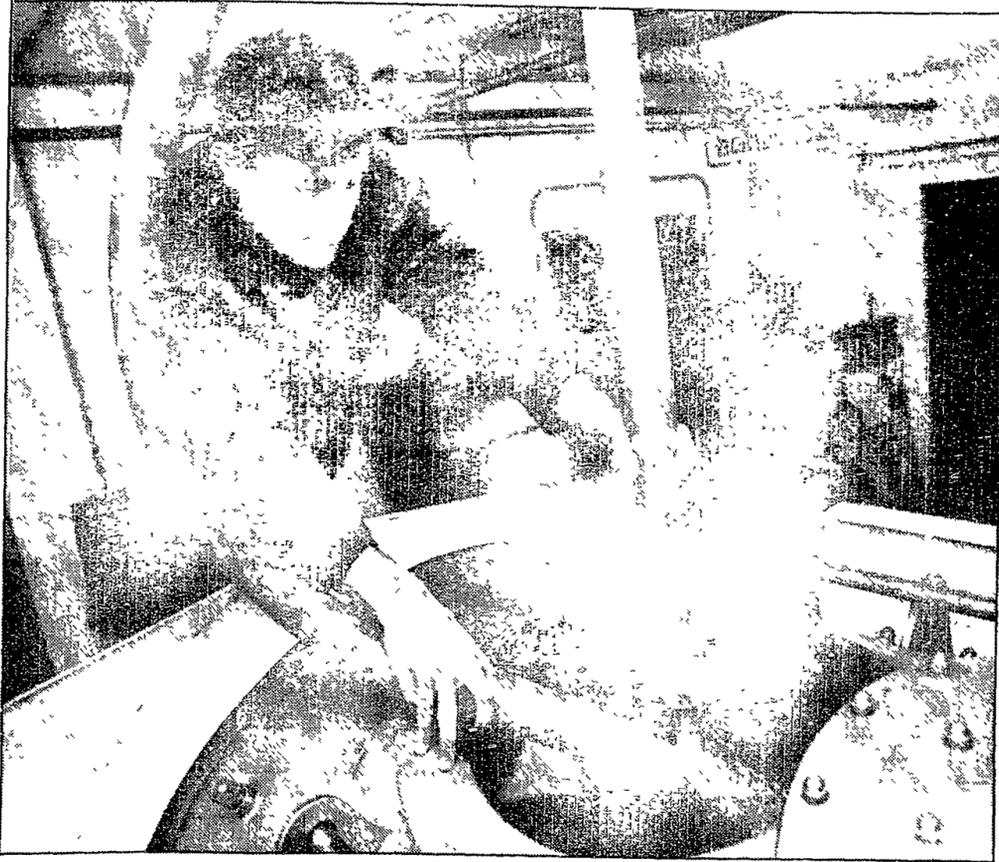

Mel and Rob oversee the production of cider, which is made several times a week this time of the year.

Using a mixture of apples such as red delicious, Macintosh and Jonathans, they try to get 350 gallons from each pressing. The apples are first sorted to eliminate any bad ones, then washed and ground to a pulp. The pulp is then loaded into the press along with rice hulls. Hulls are the outside shell of rice, which help separate the juice from the pulp.

For the next hour and a half the cider is squeezed out of the apples and sent to a cooling tank where it is chilled to 35 degrees. Next it goes to a storage tank from which it is eventually poured into containers. The whole process takes almost four hours.

On a good day they sell about 150 gallons of cider and most of the doughnuts.

Neither the cider nor the doughnuts are made with any preservatives and the cider will last about a week in the refrigerator. That is, if they are not eaten right away.

(above) Erik Booker fills the cider press with the apple pulp and rice hulls. (right) Donna Heyart dumps a fresh batch of doughnuts into the sugar and spice mixture.

(top) Ed Russell sorts the apples picking out any bad ones before they are washed and ground to a pulp. (above) Donna Heyart rolls the doughnuts in the sugar and spice mix. She says it is kind of like playing in sand.

Northville Woman's Club kicks off year with luncheon

102nd year begins with record number of past presidents in attendance

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

The Northville Woman's Club marked the start of its 102nd year with a luncheon at Meadowbrook Country Club on Oct. 7.

Over 175 members and guests attended the event. Among those in attendance were 13 past presidents of the Club.

Past presidents in attendance were: Ada Bloom, 1942-44; Georgianna Chase, 1944-46; Ruth Mary Atchison, 1954-56; Mary Yahne, 1958-60; Geraldine Kohs, 1962-64; Araminta Ellison, 1966-68; Carol Couse, 1968-70; Ruth Klein, 1970-72; Evelyn Harper, 1980-82; Phyliss Slattery, 1982-83; Marge Bolton, 1987-89; Geraldine Mills, 1989-91; and Mary Louise Cutler, 1991-93.

"It is the first time so many past presidents have come," said Helen Myers, reservation chair.

The guest speaker for the luncheon was Rabbi Sherwin T. Wine of the Birmingham Temple, who gave a brief speech on Humanistic Judaism.

Wine explained that a revolution resulted from developments during the ages of exploration and capitalism. That revolution was called the humanism, which embraces both knowledge and values.

"The way to find truth is to use your reasoning mind," said Wine. The three words, "I don't know," is a very respectable answer, but it is an answer many find hard to say."

The second component of the revolution, he said, consists of values. "Everyone is entitled to be the master of their own life, as long as they don't harm other people," said

Wine. "If you're looking for power to solve problems the power is within you," he added. "It doesn't come from out there."

"Some people are comfortable calling that power 'God,'" he said. The terminology, though, is a vocabulary choice, according to Wine.

Wine, who founded Humanistic Judaism in 1963, said there are now communities in Russia, France, England, and Australia.

The humanistic movement applies not just to Jews, said Wine. "There is a Humanistic Christianity developing too."

A dividing line runs through all religions today, according to Wine. The line divides those who lean toward the traditional versus those who tend toward the humanistic.

A scene from The Fantasticks, a retelling of love lost and found, with a little help from dad.

Musical comedy continues at the Marquis

A musical comedy that was first produced in 1960 at the Sullivan Street Playhouse in New York and has gone on to be the longest running musical in history, as well as being produced throughout the world, continues its run at the Marquis Theatre through Saturday, Oct. 22.

The Fantasticks is another retelling of the ancient Pierrot and Columbine story of the boy and girl who fall in love, then spoil their love and finally come back to a new appreciation of each other for final happiness.

Mike Smith, who recently finished a long run in the musical Forever Plaid at the Gem Theatre, and Susan Puree are portraying this pair of sweethearts whose wooing is especially romantic because it is forbidden. Their fathers, portrayed by Joe Lo DeJude and Joe Lannen, are neighbors and friends who hope for a match of their children, and have promoted it by pretending to an angry feud.

For added flavor the fathers even provide an adventure — a staged abduction of the girl in the moonlight, in which the young man can heroically play her rescuer. After the young man has handily vanquished the ruffians, and the fathers have "reluctantly" consented to their union, the story seems to have arrived at a happy ending at mid-point in the evening. But then the narrator — doubling as abductor, played by Tom Murphy — discloses that "a play never ends, till we've been burned a bit."

A ballad called "Try to Remember," one of the most popular song hits from The Fantasticks, provides a haunting theme for the story. Another of the ditties that have become popular favorites is "They Were You," set to a lyrical, insistent tune. "Round and Round" is the heroine's reckless visualization of the worldly life to which she is tempted. "Soon It's Gonna Rain" sums up the show's pastoral simplicity.

Evening performances are at 8 p.m. with matinees scheduled for Wednesdays and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the theater at 349-8110.

Meryl Streep battles rapids in 'River Wild'

Gail draws her strength from the river.

Brought up navigating the rapids, she left all of it and moved to the city to marry and raise a family. Now, once more deep in the heart of "The River Wild," all her skills and strength are put to the test as she struggles to protect her loved ones and stay alive.

Two-time Academy Award-winner Meryl Streep and David Strathairn star as Gail and Tom, a troubled couple who take their young son Roarke (Joseph Mazzello) on a white-water rafting vacation in a last-ditch effort to save their marriage.

The journey turns treacherous when they encounter mysterious strangers Wade (Kevin Bacon) and Terry (John D. Reilly), forcing Gail, Tom and Roarke to draw together as a family to save their lives as the river carries them perilously toward their final destination.

Director Curtis Hanson ("The Hand That Rocks the Cradle") displays his gift for popular suspense thrillers in "The River Wild," based on Denis O'Neill's original screenplay.

In "The River Wild," Meryl Streep plays one of the most physically demanding roles of her extraordinary career. During the film, Streep—like her character, Gail—is called upon to display both resolve and resourcefulness in navigating some of the most challenging river rapids ever to appear on film.

A non-fiction article for "Fly, Rod & Reel Magazine" by fly-fishing aficionado Denis O'Neill served as the inspiration for "The River Wild." The piece was based on a fishing trip O'Neill took down Montana's Smith River, notable not only because "it is beautiful and remote, but also because once you get on that river, you can't get off," said O'Neill. "You have to travel the length of it."

Among his companions was one of the country's premiere women fishing guides, an accomplished oarswoman in her own right. The writer's experiences on the river stayed with him and he began developing them into a screenplay that would become his first feature film to be produced.

For veteran producer David Foster, the screenplay for "The River Wild" was a chance to fulfill a long-cherished ambition. In 1975, while developing a Western titled "Running the Wild Big Red," a fictional account of the first trip down the Colorado River rapids, Foster acquired his enduring fascination for white-water rafting.

Although the project was set aside after Westerns fell out of favor, Foster kept the dream alive (the project is once more in development).

"For 17 years, I'd wanted to do a movie set on the rapids," said Foster. "When I read the first draft of 'The River Wild,' I knew I had a project that could work."

Foster said he had two people in mind for the movie from the moment he read the script. "I wanted Meryl Streep to star in it and I wanted Curtis Hanson to direct," he said. "In my years of producing, this was the first time I got my number one choices right off the bat."

Hanson was brought to the project early in the development process. Because of his proven talent to direct such thrillers as "The Bedroom Window," which he also wrote, and "The Hand That Rocks the Cradle," Hanson seemed a natural choice for "The River Wild."

"With 'The Hand That Rocks the Cradle,' Hanson expertly balanced the family situation with intense jeopardy," said Foster. "He obviously knows about characterization and pacing and all the elements that go into directing a suspense thriller. He has certainly demonstrated the ability to direct strong women characters. Beyond that, he is very centered and totally unflappable."

In working on the script, Hanson focused on those very qualities that make "The River Wild" difficult to categorize.

"What the picture is about keeps changing, much the way the river changes—day to day, mile to mile," said Hanson. "It's a story about a couple who have to be separated in order to find each other. But then, it's also about a boy whose chooses the wrong man to idolize and emulate. And, finally it's about a conflict between a woman who respects and understands nature and a man who doesn't—and because he doesn't, bad things happen."

"A family drama, a suspense picture, an action-adventure—I wanted it to be all of those things."

With the final draft of the script completed, Streep agreed to play

Gail.

A two-time Oscar winner (for Best Actress in "Sophie's Choice" and Best Supporting Actress in "Kramer Vs. Kramer"), Streep has also been nominated for her performances in "A Cry in the Dark," "Postcards from the Edge," "The Deer Hunter," "The French Lieutenant's Woman," "Silkwood," "Out of Africa" and "Ironweed."

"I had met Denis O'Neill socially a couple of times, and he mentioned a project he'd written about a river guide, a mother who takes her family on a white-water rafting trip," said Streep. "I was intrigued, but when Curtis Hanson talked to me about it and how he wanted to develop it, my heart started pumping and I knew my adrenaline had already committed me to the project."

"You know, that feeling is addictive, and it didn't stop until the day we wrapped."

The outdoor setting of "The River Wild," while often arduous and demanding, was also exhilarating—for the actors as much as for anyone else on the production.

"As much as we whined about the cold and the danger (now I know why they call them wet suits—they never dry!), all of the actors felt primed and challenged and thrilled to be working on this movie," said Streep.

'Fresh' offers a different perspective on survival

"Fresh" is a thriller about a good kid in a bad neighborhood, where criminals dictate the way of life and survival means saying nothing.

When Fresh and his family are put into jeopardy, he decides he must get out and sets into motion a dangerous game; playing against all odds and using everything he knows in an attempt to save everyone he loves.

Written and directed by Boaz Yakin, "Fresh" earned special acclaim by winning the 1994 Sundance Film Festival Filmmakers' Trophy Award.

A seemingly ordinary 12-year-old Brooklyn boy, Fresh (Sean Nelson) is actually far more complex than he appears. He is the neighborhood "do anything," a kid who runs heroin for the charismatic Esteban (Giancarlo Esposito) and steers crack for local runners—whatever pays.

Fresh also worries about getting to school on time and staying in the good graces of his Aunt Frances, with whom he and his 11 cousins live. Among Fresh's many secrets are his travels to Washington Square Park, where he receives valuable lessons in speed chess from his estranged father, a street smart genius whom Fresh is forbidden to see. In these clandestine meetings, Fresh learns valuable life lessons: that he must think on his feet and use all the pieces on the board—even sacrifice his favorites, the ones he loves the most—to capture the king and win.

This information becomes Fresh's strongest weapon when he faces the most daring and dangerous of circumstances.

Fresh's restricted relationship with his father goes no further than the chess board. His older sister Nichole is a drug addict who has left home at a young age. Fresh's role models, then, are the neighborhood drug dealers, particularly the heroin-dealing Esteban. Both Esteban and crack dealer Corky consider the quiet and intelligent boy their protege and a perfect foil in the dangerous but profitable world of dealing drugs.

But Fresh quietly becomes less willing to participate in their dangerous and illegal business. Rosie, a young girl who Fresh has a crush on, is suddenly gunned down by a drug dealer in a cross-fire dispute at their schoolyard basketball court. Fresh also learns that his sister is the mistress of Esteban, who is supplying her with drugs to keep her with him. Influenced by these circumstances and drawing upon his father's lessons, Fresh secretly begins to devise an ingenious trap to save himself and his sister.

As he makes his way through the neighborhood from the streets to the school to the projects where he lives, events out of his control begin to coalesce into a terrifying web, and Fresh must invent and instigate the ultimate game in order to survive.

With quick and deft moves, Fresh tries to convince the drug dealers that each is invading the other's turf. He derives a plan to use his own money earned from dealing to set the trap.

But even as Fresh makes his moves to create an escape for himself and his sister, one thing is for sure—he is, sure to lose something far more precious. Though still a child, he will never be an innocent again.

Yakin, a native New Yorker with several screenplays to his credit, was working on a book when his old friend, producer Lawrence Bender, contacted him. Newly off the success of "Reservoir Dogs," Bender suggested they collaborate on a film that Yakin would write and that would mark Yakin's directorial debut.

"The character of Fresh had been in my mind for a while," said Yakin. "When I write, it tends to come from the idea about a character and then I fill in the rest of the story."

"It's very much a story about someone living in a tough world trying to maintain an emotional distance in his life," he continued. "When events begin to spin out of his control, he takes drastic measures to free himself in the only way he knows."

"Fresh succeeds in getting himself out of a situation, but by winning, he's lost. At the end of the movie, you're reminded that he's just a child. By doing all this, he has destroyed his innocence."

Yakin spent three months in the Bronx teaching screen writing as part of his research for the film, and also spent a lot of time talking to elementary schools kids in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, where the film was ultimately set.

Some of the true-life stories the children told him were woven into his screenplay.

Yakin completed the final draft of his screenplay in January 1993 and pre-production began in the spring. Randy Ostrow, a New York-based producer, was brought on the project of his extensive experience with filming in the city.

When looking for a cinematographer, the filmmakers discussed the looks of certain films that they liked. Yakin, whose favorite films date from the late '60s and early '70s, kept thinking of "Midnight Cowboy."

They contacted that classic film's director of photography, Adam Holender. Holender was an energetic, youthful 53; he had been only 28 when he photographed "Midnight Cowboy." The filmmakers were thrilled when Holender said he loved the script and signed on to handle the cinematography.

Northville edges Canton 14-9 with big plays

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Anybody who thinks Northville High doesn't have one heck of a football team this fall should think again.

All the Mustangs did Friday was beat a bigger, perhaps more skilled Canton team 14-9 on the road. While the Chiefs may have piled up some impressive numbers, Northville had only stat it cared about - a win.

"It should serve as momentum in the belief that we can compete against good football teams," said coach Darrel Schumacher. "We know how to win now."

That was evident Friday. Northville made the plays when it had to.

With Canton driving late in the fourth quarter, linebacker Garrett Carter intercepted a Chief pass. Then with the Mustangs deep in their own territory, half back Todd Zayti ran for 57 yards to get his team out of trouble.

"We had our backs to the wall," said Schumacher. Canton got the ball back at its own 25-yard line with about two minutes to go. The Mustangs held as the Chiefs incompleated a pass on fourth down. Schumacher admitted that his team got some breaks in the game.

"Sometimes you've just got to be lucky," he said. "We got breaks at the right time."

Northville played without star runner Aneil Kersey Friday. Schumacher said he didn't want to get into a shootout with the Chiefs.

"We knew we had to keep them from scoring because we'd have trouble moving against their size," he added. "I'm glad it was low scoring. It was the only way we were going to win."

Northville evened its record for this time this season at 3-3. The Mustangs, which have won three of their last four games, play Saturday at Livonia Franklin.

At Canton, Northville fell in an early hole. The Chiefs put together a massive 17-play drive, but wound up with just a field goal out of it and led 3-0 at the 2:20 mark of the first quarter.

The teams traded possession as the second quarter got under way. The Mustangs then staged an excellent drive of their own by going 80 yards for a touchdown.

Tim Smith ran for 12 yards for the first big play of the drive. Then on a third down play, the Chiefs were called for grabbing a Northville face mask.

That moved the ball to Canton's 46-yard line. Tight end Jason Wenzel then found a seam in the Chief defense and caught a 46-yard pass from quarterback Shaun Connolly for the TD. Northville led 7-3 with 6:14 to go before halftime.

"He was a good 25 yards down the field when he caught," said Schumacher. "He got behind the secondary."

The half closed with Northville up 7-3.

The Mustangs opened with the ball but were forced to punt after five plays. Canton also did very little with its first drive of the half and was forced to punt.

But here's where Northville made one of those plays. Carl Tune, a linebacker, blocked the kick and gave his team the ball at Canton's 7-yard line.

Three plays later, Zayti scored from four yards out to make it 14-3.

The Chiefs then came back with a quick score of their own. Half back Lenny Gardner raced 71 yards on the third play from scrimmage to make it 14-9. Canton tried a two-point play but failed at the 5:56 mark.

"That kid's faster than I thought," said Schumacher. "He just flat-out out ran us."

It wasn't until the fourth quarter that things got heated up again. But Carter's interception and Zayti's run sealed the Chiefs fate.

For the game, Canton held a wide advantage in the stat department. The Chiefs had 297 offensive yards to Northville's 189. Canton also ran 65 plays to the Mustangs' 38.

In Kersey's absence, Chris Gomersall stepped up. He finished with 56 yards on 17 attempts. Zayti had five carries for 69 yards.

Defensively, Carter led the way with 12 tackles, including a pair of sacks. Tune had 10 tackles, Mattis Kukainis and Nick Bowersox had nine each. Mike and Joe Scappaticci had eight apiece.

Tankers dunk Livonia Churchill, Brighton in duals

All of the Mustang swim team's hard work this fall is starting to show results.

In a 67-35 home victory over Livonia Churchill Thursday, Northville totaled 20 beach swims. As his team begins to cut back yardage in the next few weeks, coach Bill Dicks expects times will get even faster.

For now though, the Mustangs were happy with what they accomplished Thursday.

"The girls were very excited about it," said Dicks.

Northville improved to 5-2 overall and is currently 2-0 in the Western Division of the WLAA.

Northville had no problems whipping the Chargers. All but two events was won by the Mustangs.

Rebecca Anderson, Amity Heckemeyer, Andrea Moretti and Katie Rompel took the first of those victories in the 200 medley relay. Amy Cook, Gwen Osborne, Alicia Doehler and Jodie Brown were second.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Amy Kohl placed second while Kara Lyczak was third. Anderson won the 200 IM and Mandy VanHorn was third.

Heckemeyer finished first in the 50 freestyle while Tammy Cook was second. Northville went third and fourth in diving behind Katrina Heckemeyer and Mary Essary.

Anderson won yet another event, the 100-yard butterfly. Tammy Cook had a personal best time of 1:06.80 for third place.

Amity Heckemeyer finished first in the 100-yard freestyle and Brown was third. Kohl won the 500 freestyle in 5:28.90 and Doehler was second in 6:16.70.

"She started around 6:50 this year and is down to 6:16," said Dicks.

Tammy Cook, VanHorn, Rompel and Brown won the 200-yard freestyle relay. Jill Walro, Allison Anti, Erin Taylor and Osborne were third.

Amy Cook and Lyczak went first and second, respectively, in the backstroke. VanHorn won the breaststroke while Osborne was second.

Finishing strong is always is always a good idea. And Northville High did just that Oct. 5 by taking an 8-0 tennis win over Canton at home.

Even without top singles player Jackie Moore, the Mustangs whipped Canton in straight sets at all eight flights. Coach Uta Filkin was hoping for the same luck in Tuesday's conference meet.

"I hope we'll do well," she said.

"We have a chance in doubles to take a few flights."

The Mustangs win over Canton left them with a 7-3-1 dual meet record for the season. Northville will conclude the season tomorrow at the state regional in Farmington.

Kristin Smith moved into Moore's top spot against the Chiefs. She defeated Nikki Reinert 6-2, 6-1.

Northville's Matt Topous got the game-winning goal on a penalty shot Saturday against Novi. Topous was awarded the kick after Novi was penalized at the end of regulation time. The Mustangs won the game 4-3.

Golfers close season at regional

By SCOTT DANIEL

The Mustang golf team was hoping for a few breaks at Friday's golf regional in Brighton.

While Northville High played well and shot 330, it wasn't enough to get into the top three and advance to state finals. Coach Trish Waldecker knew one of the top teams would have to have an off day for her team to squeeze into the top group.

Even though that didn't happen, she wasn't disappointed.

"I was very happy with the way we played," she said. "It was such a tough region. One of the tougher ones in the state, I think."

A total of 19 schools participated at the region tournament at Oakpointe. Host Brighton finished atop the standings at 302 while Howell was second at 312 and Salem third at 320.

"It was nice to have a conference school make it," Waldecker said. Northville's season is now completed.

Brian Glock and Eric Swietlik emerged as Northville's top two players Friday. Each shot 81 with steady, consistent play. Rob Rankin scored an 82 and Kay Yoshida an 86.

"You really need four scores in the 70s (to advance)," Waldecker said.

WLAA
After a tough dual meet conference season, Northville rebounded nicely at the Oct. 4 league meet.

The Mustangs placed third in the Western Lakes Activities Association with a score of 421. Salem won the meet at 395 and Livonia Churchill was second, also with 395.

"Considering the up and down season," Waldecker said, "this is a very good finish."

Runners whip Livonia

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Is there any team at Northville High that gets more out of what they have than the girls cross country team?

The answer is, probably not. With less than a dozen runners on their roster, the Mustangs just keep on winning.

Northville High got outstanding performances from Jill Dart and Christina Darrow and took a 24-31 victory over Livonia Churchill at Cass Benton last Thursday. The Mustangs now stand at 3-1 on the season.

"It was really a solid team effort," said coach Chris Cronin.

With Laura Brown and Kajal Parikh out, Northville needed a pair of runners to pick up the slack. Dart and Darrow filled the bill.

"They stepped up big-time," said

Cagers win pair over Livonia Franklin, Farmington in WLAA

It pays to remember the fundamentals in basketball. Like, for instance, free throwing shooting.

Northville High took a 49-40 home victory over Livonia Franklin Thursday night. But that win didn't come without a scare.

The Patriots cut a 15-point fourth quarter margin down to three. Northville helped Livonia's cause by making just three of 12 from the free throw line in the period.

"It's hard when you don't make free throws," said coach Gary Schwan. "We didn't play poorly. We just didn't convert."

Samantha Leger hit a big bucket to push the lead back out to five. The Mustangs went on to score the final two hoops of the game to take the nine-point win.

"I thought we did a great job overall," said Schwan.

Northville improved to 6-4 overall and 3-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Mustangs are on the road tonight against Walled Lake Western.

Thursday's game started slowly for both clubs. Northville, however, was able to take a 5-4 lead after the first period.

"We didn't shoot well," said Schwan.

The Mustangs caught fire in the second quarter and took a 22-13 lead by halftime. Lauren Mettaji, who finished with a game high 17 points, and Leger led the charge.

Northville held control for most of the second half. Livonia cut the lead to five by the end of the third quarter but didn't pose a serious threat until the final few minutes.

Leger, who finished with a very sore back, finished with 13 points and 12 rebounds. Gina Chisnon had eight rebounds.

NORTHVILLE 52, FARMINGTON 40

The Mustangs overcame a seven-point first quarter deficit Oct. 4 on the road to take the win.

"We started a little sluggish," Schwan said. "Farmington came out fired up and went after us." It didn't help, he added, that his team was coming off a tough loss to Canton. Schwan said there aren't too many bad teams in the WLAA either.

"Our league is so strong," he said. "(Farmington is not a bad club.)"

Led by guards Andrea Salyer and Amanda Porter, Farmington took a 13-6 lead after one quarter.

Northville shook off the cobwebs and dominated the rest of the game. Leger, again, was the driving force.

The Mustang junior had 27 points and 18 rebounds.

"She was strong in that game," said Schwan.

A critical juncture came in the third quarter. Trailing 28-27, freshman Karla Kalso scored a hoop and then converted on a three-point play to give Northville a four-point advantage. The Mustangs never looked back.

"That was her best game," Schwan said.

Those were Kalso's only points of the game.

Rankin, who along with Swietlik came on strong at the end of the season, led Northville. He shot an 80 while Swietlik was next at 81. Yoshida finished at 82 and James Damico an 88. Glock had a round of 90 at Braeburn Golf Course in Salem Township.

Northville returns most of its squad next fall. Waldecker is optimistic for a Northville rise in the standings.

"I'm looking forward to having the same crew back," she said.

Step finds relief through running

Much of my past two years is a stressful blur. Finding time for family and fitness has not been easy with heart surgery, the expansion of Fitness Source to a nine-store chain, and finally the sale of the company. However, things are now turning around.

Randy Step

I'll share my summer experience with you to reflect on what I feel are the important things in life.

In 1981, Kathy and I lived in a Chevy and drove across the country running, biking and swimming as we pleased. During that time we traveled twice to Hawaii for the Ironman Triathlon. It was a time in my life I have often reflected upon. Life was simple and fun.

With our past two hectic years, we wondered if we would ever be in the position to do it again. This year, the time had come.

Most of our summer was spent in the mountains out West, camping at sites between 7,000 and 10,000 feet. Our running was on steep and rocky trails. Because of the kids (Trevor, 6, Anna, 6), Kathy and I ran in shifts, (so all our running was done alone).

The beauty and solitude of my runs offered the ideal setting for reflecting on life's true priorities (interrupted only by the occasional thought of mountains). Because of the footing, hills and elevation, speed was not a goal of my running.

The only race I ran this summer was the Kendall Mountain run in Silverton, Colo., a classic mountain mining town. The 13.1 mile course was a rocky, switch-back trail with 7,520 feet of elevation change. The race started at 9,300 feet, went to 13,060 feet and then back.

We camped about 30 miles from town, so I didn't find out much about the race in advance. I drove in that morning, registered and lined up. The 100 runners were the fittest group I have seen assembled at such a small event.

I had a strange feeling that I might actually finish last. I was told the duct tape around the top of the runner's shoes kept rocks out of their shoes and socks. The gloves they wore kept their hands from getting cut on the shale and thorny grass in the "open section" of the course during the last quarter mile.

Heads turned when I asked what the open section was. I learned the trail ends at the last quarter mile with an open rock climb to the top. I thought, "This flatlander might be in trouble."

I started slow through the first couple of miles; later I would be thankful. I was surprised I was running up such a steep grade. I fell into a rhythm, like running stairs. Each foot was planted deliberately. In no time, we were above tree line.

The view was incredible. Unfortunately, my vision was a bit blurred due to a lack of oxygen. The double vision also inhibited my foot placement.

The course became much steeper an hour into the race. I was walking, or should I say climbing, much of the time. I heard falling rocks and the bleating of mountain goats.

I lost several positions in this section carefully picking each hand and foot placement. Several times my foot was completely buried in loose gravel. Fortunately, my shoes were tightly tied and my feet were too numb to feel the stone that chewed them up.

I reached the turnaround, 6.5 miles, in one hour and 38 minutes. I stood on the peak and savored the view for about a minute. I was scrambling down before I knew it. I felt good and pushed the pace, picking up positions all the way down. Finally, I found something I was good at: the downhill. Maybe it was just reckless abandon. The jarring was a chiropractor's dream.

I finished 46th overall, with a half-marathon time of two hours, 29 minutes. I had a feeling of excitement and a sense of accomplishment that I haven't felt since my first marathon. It was, without a doubt, a great experience. It was three days before I could run again, and that wasn't pain free.

Summer is over. After eight weeks on the road, my family and I are back in Northville, back to reality. The kids are in school and I'm back to work. My wilderness running for the time being is relegated to the trials at Maybury.

The memories of Kendall Mountain remain with me and remind me of the importance of living life to the fullest. This isn't a dress rehearsal; get out and grab on to this life before it passes you by.

Heart disease is often hereditary

Irving was a 69-year-old gentleman who had undergone coronary artery bypass surgery eight weeks earlier.

Barry Franklin

Reluctantly, on his cardiologist's advice, he had entered our cardiac rehabilitation program. Although he had not had a heart attack, over the last few months Irving had experienced chest discomfort on exertion.

A series of medical evaluations of his heart led to the recommendation of bypass surgery for two blood vessels that were almost totally blocked with cholesterol.

When I told him he would need to follow a sensible lifestyle, he became obstinate and argumentative. "You doctors are full of it!" he said. "I've taken good care of myself all my life, and look where it's got me—heart bypass surgery!"

Indeed, he felt that fate had dealt him an unfair destiny. "For many years now, I've religiously walked two or three miles a day, three to four times per week. I've avoided fatty foods and eggs, watched my weight and have always had a normal blood pressure. A little schnapps (whiskey) now and then—and that's about it," he said.

At five-foot-11, he weighed only 156 pounds. Clearly he could not be considered obese. His blood pressure that day was almost textbook normal, 126 over 80. His cholesterol level, 186, was also compatible with a low risk for heart disease.

"Any history of elevated blood sugar or diabetes?" I asked.

"No," he defiantly replied.

I thought for a few moments and came up with what I believed was the $64,000 question: "Were you a heavy cigarette smoker?"

"Never touched the stuff. I was the only one in my family who didn't smoke," he said.

By now I was perplexed. Here was a 69-year-old man with heart disease, an angry at the world.

He apparently had taken very good care of himself and had none of the classic "risk factors" for heart disease.

As he left my office, I felt disappointed in my inability to offer him a reasonable explanation for his dilemma. Why didn't his healthy lifestyle protect him from heart disease?

Then it hit me. I ran down the hall to catch Irving and found him waiting at the elevator.

"Irving, did you have any family history of heart problems?" I asked.

"Darn right I did!" he replied. "My father had a heart attack at the age of 56, and my brother died of one at 51."

I walked back to my office, feeling like Sherlock Holmes. The mystery had been solved.

Perhaps Irving's lifestyle had been far more beneficial to him than he had ever realized.

Art council welcomes participation

As autumn kicks in with cooler temperatures and shorter days, there's no reason to start hibernating yet. Novi Parks and Recreation continues to find creative ways for you and your family to have fun. They also offer plenty of free activities which will save you money for the approaching holiday season.

Novi Parks and Rec sponsors the Novi Arts Council, a non-profit membership organization which welcomes your participation and support. The Novi Arts Council provides promotional and funding support to a variety of organizations which serve the cultural and arts educational needs of the community, including the Novi Community Band, the Novi Chorales, the Plymouth Symphony, the Plymouth-Canton Ballet, the Center for Creative Studies and other area actors, writers and musicians.

The Arts Council also seeks to promote the arts and encourages artists by providing opportunities for area residents to enjoy the arts in the atrium of the Novi Civic Center. The beautiful atrium of the Novi Civic Center, the Gate VI Gallery, has been the scene of colorful artwork. Currently the works of artist Mitchell Tolle are on display through Oct. 15.

Local artists are encouraged to submit slides of their work to the Gate VI Gallery Committee or call Larry Champline at 347-0400.

Another brainchild of the Novi Arts Council was to utilize the Civic Center Atrium as a "performer's showcase." Singers, dancers and musicians entertain the public in a half-hour sampler of their repertoire. The Monday evening performances have been very well received.

The upcoming calendar of performances includes: Oct. 17, Tollgate Cloggers; Nov. 14, Plymouth-Canton Ballet; Nov. 21, The Novi Singers; Dec. 12, Ilene's Dance Electric; and Dec. 19, Dan Kuzek, classical and acoustic guitar (preceding the Novi City Council meeting). All are free.

The Novi Arts Council also sponsors programs which enhance the appreciation and enjoyment of the arts by students. The Youth Theater of Eastern Michigan University is currently scheduled for performances in the Novi area schools under Novi Arts Council sponsorship.

NAC has also raised money at their annual art fairs with the money going to support the arts in Novi. Another upcoming NAC event is the Holiday Arts & Crafts Show which will be held in the Novi Civic Center Atrium on Saturday, Nov. 26, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admis-

There's always something for everyone through Novi Parks & Recreation!

And don't forget ... Halloween's almost here. Join us for the first annual Search for the Great Pumpkin. Drop in anytime between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 29, at the Tree Farm Property (12 1/2 Mile and Dixon Roads) and search for the great pumpkin! Find your pumpkin and if it has a special mark, you will receive a surprise. Clowns, balloons, candy, refreshments and a decoration station will be featured.

The cost is $3 per car (plus the cost of a pumpkin—optional). Bring the entire family for great Halloween fun. Preregistration is not required.

Cronin. Adrienne Browne finished as the race's top finisher. She came in with a time of 20:49—more than a minute better than Churchill's top finisher.

Monica Nayakwadi was third in 22:05. Erin Tovey, a sophomore, was fifth in 22:52.

"Erin's been one of our most consistent and competitive runners over the last four meets," Cronin said. "She makes us a much better team."

Dart finished under 25 minutes for the first time at 24:49 for seventh place. Darrow had her best time of the season with a 26:08.

"I think our team is getting better and better," said Cronin. "This was our best victory. We were short and two people had to step up. If they didn't, we don't win."

Northville runs at Livonia Franklin today at 4 p.m.

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY

The Mustangs took four out of the top five spots against Churchill to win their race as well.

Dwight Vantuyl had his personal best time to lead Northville. He won the race in 17:44.

Scott Lloyd was third in 17:56. Coach Ed Gabrys said he's got several more runners that could break 18 minutes.

"We've got four with potential," he said. "We need to develop a closer at about 18:30."

Nate Kirmis was fourth overall with a time of 18:10. Jeff Zwiesler was close behind in 18:17 for fifth place.

Tim Schovers took ninth in 19:01 while Ravi Mujumdar improved on his best time of the year by 36 seconds with a 19:02 for 10th. Sean Hollister closed the race for Northville with a time of 19:27.

The Mustangs improved to 2-2. Gabrys said he expects times for his runners to start dropping with the temperatures.

"Cooler weather is better to run in," he added.

Novi takes 27-7 win over Lakeland

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

After a less than stellar first half for the Wildcat offensive, the Novi High football team got its act together in the second and smashed Lakeland 27-7 before a large homecoming crowd Friday.

Jason Witherspoon scored three touchdowns and rushed for 198 yards as the Wildcats dominated the second half. Mark McBride notched Novi's final score in the early minutes of the fourth quarter.

A simple halftime adjustment led to the rout.

"They were geared to stop the option but not the sweep," said coach John Osborne. "You've got to go with what they're giving you."

The 'Cats did a good job of picking up blocks on the sweep and marched at will in the final two quarters. Witherspoon exploited whatever holes were available outside.

"He's very difficult to tackle," Osborne said. "It's hard to get a hold of him."

The win kept Novi very much in the Kensington Valley Conference race. With just one loss in the league, the Wildcats are tied with Howell, South Lyon and Hartland.

Novi is 4-2 overall and 3-1 in the KVC.

The 'Cats travel to Brighton tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. It won't be an easy game as the Bulldogs will be pumped for their own homecoming. They've also lost three games in a row.

"I saw them in their first game," said Osborne. "They looked like a well oiled machine."

Novi finishes its KVC schedule a week from tomorrow with Howell at home.

The Wildcats won't be able to afford a start like they had against Lakeland tomorrow or next week. Against a winless team, Novi struggled in the first 24 minutes.

The Eagles nearly scored on their first possession. Lakeland got a good return to near midfield to start the ball game.

A combination of passing and running brought it down to Novi's 29-yard line. The Eagles faced a fourth down and one at the Wildcats' 20. Novi was able to take the ball away by stopping the visitors on the play.

A Wildcat miscue kept them from scoring on their first drive.

Witherspoon broke a 28-yard run on a reverse to move it into Lakeland territory. McBride then busted up the middle for nine more yards while Witherspoon followed with three straight runs for a total of 21 yards.

At Lakeland's 18-yard line, Novi was called for holding. On the next play, the Wildcats fumbled it away.

"We kept shooting ourselves in the foot in the first half," said Osborne.

Novi got the ball back on Lakeland's 24-yard line on the very next play as the Eagles coughed it up after a completed pass. The Wildcat offense sputtered and Jon Wroe missed a 30-yard field goal attempt to end the threat.

Neither team did much the rest of the half. Getting it going in the second half can be credited to the players in more than one way.

"The kids mentioned that they hadn't stopped the sweep," Osborne said. "It became our primary weapon."

It was certainly an effective weapon.

Novi needed just five plays to get on the scoreboard in the third quarter. Witherspoon had a pair of 23-yard runs and then finished off the drive with a 10-yarder at the 10:46 mark. The extra point was missed to make it 6-0.

The score became 14-0 just two minutes later. Lakeland went three plays and out on its possession.

Novi took over on its own 33-yard line after the punt. A pair of big plays by Witherspoon accounted for the score.

The sophomore caught an 18-yard pass from Wroe, then later scored on a 29-yard run.

At second singles, Aubrey Macfarlane beat Laura Belisle 6-2, 6-4. Chrissy Kapusky beat Melissa MacNamara 7-5, 7-6 and Shelley Morgan whipped Liz Layman 6-3, 6-3.

In doubles action, Jenny Moak and Mary McDonald won all but two games in their two-set match. Meghan Connery and Kyle Mills won in similar fashion at second doubles.

Lisa Cousineau and Sarah Johnson beat Colleen Hauncher and Jill Smith 6-1, 6-0. Angela Bardoni and Angie Kuciban took an easy 6-1, 6-1 victory over Kara Lawson and Erin Fry.

NORTHVILLE 4, WALLED LAKE CENTRAL 4

bles and the Vikings are strong in singles. The two schools won all matches in each respective category.

"It was a very strange match," said Filkin.

Moore was in the lineup for the match and lost in two sets, 6-1, 7-6, to last year's league champ, Rachel Clanton. Smith fell in two sets to Becky Clanton.

Dani Gilhood took a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Macfarlane while Kapusky lost a two-setter to Mandy Kowal.

Moak and McDonald shutout Cari Wahlen and Wendy Wolter 6-0, 6-0. Mills and Cousineau beat Sarah Clark and Suzi Slusher 6-2, 6-1.

At third doubles, Amanda Nelson and Johnson beat Marie Douglas and Laura Athin 6-2, 6-2.

Preparation is the key to timely, profitable home-sale

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Selling a home in a timely manner for the best price involves more than putting a sign in the front yard and placing ads in the local newspaper.

One of the keys to expediting a sale is in properly preparing the home for the marketing process and doing the right things during the "showing" of the home to prospects.

Here is a consensus of specific recommendations for owners of homes being marketed.

- New paint on exterior and interior surfaces can quickly spruce up the appearance of an offered home. In some cases, a selective paint touch-up project is all that's needed. Pay special attention to doors, cabinets and window casings.

- Clean and polish the kitchen and all accessories in the kitchen. This is an important area for making the right impression on inspecting visitors. Also, clean and polish all door knobs.

- Curtains and drapes should be clean and pressed, particularly in front.

- Do whatever is needed to make the front door especially attractive.
- Clean or replace carpeting, as needed.

- Fertilize and thoroughly water the lawn, beginning several weeks before placing the property on the market.

- Look at your home's landscaping from the perspective of a prospective buyer. Remove withering plants. Replace them with fresh new plantings—especially those with brightly colored flowers.

- Before that first appointment, tidy up the house and grounds. Remove any elements that might spark a negative impression. Be sure all steps are free of hazards.

- Turn on lights. "Illumination is like a bright welcome sign," said Realtor Susan Herrick, owner of a multi-office brokerage firm. "Potential buyers feel a glowing warmth when all the lights are on for an evening inspection."

- Wash the dishes. Put away clothes and toys. Put newspapers and magazines in proper places. Make the beds with attractive spreads.

- When it's time for the prospects to arrive, be sure pets and kids are out of the way. Even

The De Paul can provide for a tight family budget

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Economical to build and maintain, the De Paul was designed to provide families on a tight budget with an opportunity for affordable home ownership. Everything, including an indoor utility room, is efficiently contained in 1,200 square feet of living space. And there's a fully enclosed garage as well.

Narrow punch outs add curb appeal to the front facade of this basically L-shape plan. Horizontal siding fills the space between the eaves and the windows, while vertical siding wraps around most of the home's exterior.

A small, covered porch offers protection from the elements. The kitchen sink faces across the porch, toward the street, allowing parents to keep an eye on kids playing in the front yard.

Kitchen and living room flow together at the rear to create a great room with a comfortable sense of openness. Had these two areas been walled off from each other, the house would feel much smaller.

An eating bar and a change in the flooring material mark the division between the two. Linoleum or vinyl flooring covers the floors in kitchen and nook, while carpeting or hardwood adds a touch of class to the living room.

Cupboard and counter space are ample. Dishwasher, range and oven are built right into the counters, creating an efficient work triangle between the refrigerator, sink and stove.

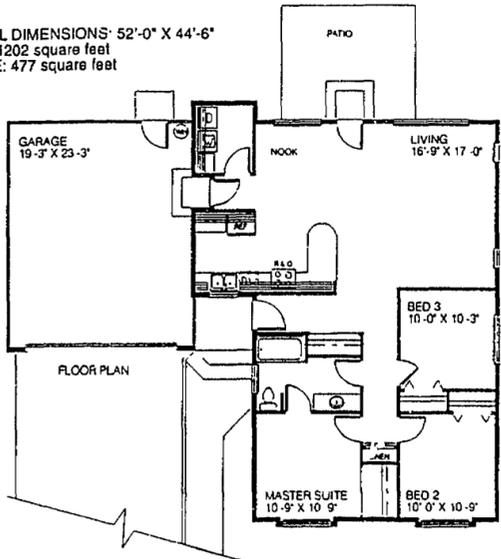

Washer and dryer are adjacent to the nook and equally handy to the garage. In the utility room, cabinets line the wall above the appliances, and there's a small folding counter. The garage is deep, providing space for a lawn mower and other household equipment.

The master suite is only slightly larger than the other two bedrooms, but it has private access to the bathroom. Narrow window seats or plant ledges could be built into the punch outs in the master suite and bedroom too.

A linen closet at the end of the hall serves the bedrooms and bathroom. A larger closet, just inside the entry, provides storage for coats and footwear.

WINTERIZE!

By Jane Benskey
Special Writer

The telltale signs of autumn, the trees are putting on their annual color show and the days are getting shorter and shorter.

Though fall is a lovely time, its harbinger is fleeting as it is a harbinger of what lurks around the corner. Winter.

Winter. With its bone-chilling winds and snow-filled days that force us to take cover in our homes for the duration.

Because winters here in the Midwest can bring arctic-like temperatures — like last year's record-breaking cold — keeping your home snug and warm is a priority. But keeping your energy bills down is also a priority; after all, who looks forward to those pricey utility bills in January and February?

With those two goals in mind, we've collected some tips to help homeowners prepare their houses for the coming winter months.

To begin, determine what areas need work. For example, if your curtains moved on gusty days last winter (and the windows were closed), it's a pretty good indication that your windows need work.

If you're not sure where to start or what to do, consider hiring an energy auditor to evaluate your home. Consumers Power offers a program in which a company representative will go through the home with the homeowner and offer suggestions on areas of energy improvement free of charge.

If you aren't a Consumers Power customer, check with your local building inspector and ask about any state or local energy programs that may be available.

Those homeowners who want to tackle the projects themselves will find a wealth of home weatherproofing projects at their local hardware or home center stores.

According to Sam White, a manager at the Brighton Meijers, more people are taking the do-it-yourself route with home weatherproofing projects each year for a number of reasons. Not only do they benefit from a warmer home and save energy dollars but, said White, the manufacturers of weatherproofing products have made those products easier to understand and simple to use.

Remember the sage advice to wear a hat in cold weather to prevent heat loss from the top of your head? The same holds true for your house.

Because heat rises and is lost through the top of the home, a thick layer of good insulation, either rolled blanket-type insulation or blown-in insulation, installed in the attic of your home is essential.

If you plan to insulate your attic yourself, take care to wear old clothing, gloves and eye protection to guard from the fiberglass fibers in the insulation.

For blown-in insulation, your best bet is to consult the Yellow Pages for a qualified insulation contractor.

The basement rim joints, where the floor framing rests on the foundation, can also be insulated to help keep the basement warmer.

Another source of drafts and heat loss are doors and windows. The installation of weather stripping on doors and windows

can help block those drafts.

There are many different types of weather-stripping products on the market, from foam tapes to plastic v-strips. You will probably use one type for windows and another for doors.

Although the October 1993 issue of Consumer Reports said weather stripping won't save much energy, it will, however, make a room feel less drafty and ultimately may "save energy indirectly since you may not need to turn up the thermostat as much if the room isn't drafty."

CaULKing around windows and doors is also important because it seals gaps and cracks that develop around window frames and doors that let in cold air.

Old caulking that is cracked or dried out is no longer effective and should be replaced.

When caulking, White cautioned against using an indoor caulk for outdoor windows because indoor caulk is not designed to withstand extreme temperatures and as a result, said White, all your work "would be a waste of time."

White also recommends using caulk that is 100 percent silicone because of its pliability and longevity. Because of Michigan's damp weather it is also advisable to use caulk that resists mildew.

Often caulking and weather stripping on windows is not enough to stop the drafts on old single pane windows. Even those outfitted with a storm window. In that case, many homeowners either make their own interior storm windows or use temporary measures like storm window kits.

There are two types of storm window kits on the market. One type uses plastic film attached to the window frame with double stick tape, which is then stretched tight from the heat of a blow dryer.

Another kit uses plastic channels that are mounted to the window frame. A reusable piece of plastic is then attached to the channel. Both methods are effective

Fall harvest marches on

GARDENING

Our harvest continues through the fall with the arrival of the traditional fall crops such as pumpkin, squash, along with the ongoing production of corn, tomatoes and beans. My garden isn't quite through for the season and, of course, planting continues this month, too, but at a slower pace. I can still plant such cool-weather crops as lettuce, radishes and spinach.

I do admit, however, that September is the time I begin to envy gardeners in the warmer parts of the country. Fall is approaching, and winter's on the way!

As a rule, I don't have a frost in my garden until the middle of October, but I do keep an ear to the weather forecasts (and you should, too), just to be on the safe side. Sometimes we'll have a freak frost (most unusual though) followed by a week or two of Indian summer, so it pays to bring whatever crops you can through the first nip!

For nighttime, I cover mine with a plastic cover or tarp. Of course, the root crops and most of the cabbage family actually improve with the arrival of cool weather.

I always keep ample lettuce seedlings on hand to fill garden vacancies as they occur. During the summer months I plant the heat-resistant types, but now I plant the same cool-weather types that I planted in the spring, such as Ruby bib and Buttercrunch.

Day lilies must be divided about every five years, and the best time to do it is in the fall. As they approach the end of their five-year cycle, few blooms appear because the roots have extracted most of the nutrients from the soil; it's dividing time.

Dividing day lilies is no cinch, as the roots are tough as nails! The best approach is to pry the roots apart with two spading forks driven in the root mass back to back. The root clumps should be divided into sections about the size of a head of cauliflower, and then replant the divisions into fresh soil.

In the first year after division, the plants will produce few flowers (so don't get discouraged). After that they'll grow to their "hearts' content" until they're ready to be divided again in five years.

Canning and freezing hints to preserve your garden's har-

Preserving harvest

Canning and freezing are two ways to make the bounty of your garden extend all year long.

- Always use firm, fresh vegetables that have been washed carefully. Blanch in boiling water and chill immediately in ice water before packing without liquid.

- For fruit the preparation may be packed in dry sugar, with a sugar syrup (50 percent sugar/water solution boiled until the sugar has dissolved), in its own juices or simply in water, depending on the desired sweetness.

- Add a citric acid and ascorbic acid mixture, following the package instructions to prevent discoloration.

- Be sure to leave ample room for expansion in your container -- don't fill it too full!

Preparation is the key to timely, profitable home-sale

though the inspecting party might love to see those adorable small ones, they can divert attention away from home-buying considerations.

In fact, too many people around during inspections can be a problem. If the property is listed with a real estate company, let that broker or sales associate handle the inspection and conversations with prospects. The wrong comment at the wrong time by an owner can kill a sale.

For example, something cooking on the stove, emitting a pleasant aroma, creates a warm, homey effect.

On cool evenings, a fire in the fireplace is helpful, as is soft background music from the stereo. In other words, make positive impressions on the prospect's senses, but make yourself and the kids scarce during the inspection (if the property is being shown by a broker).

Another success-proven method to expedite a sale, particularly if it's an older home, is to purchase one-year warranty coverage. Typically, coverage by one of several home protection plans can be purchased for a one-time fee, usually ranging from $230 to $400, depending on the going rate in your region. With most plans, this will cover the mechanical and electrical systems in the house, along with built-in components.

These plans are normally purchased by the seller and paid as part of the closing process. Sometimes the cost is paid or shared by the buyer.

9. What's a good source of information about preparing a home to withstand future earthquakes?

A. Making a home earthquake-resistant is the subject of "Earthquake Prepared." (Studio 4 Productions) written by Joel Leach.

The book includes practical advice on making homes resistant to major damage during earthquakes. It covers such subjects as methods of attaching furniture and office equipment (including computers) to wallboards and preventing glass doors from shattering.

The book even addresses the subject of minimizing the risk of the house being shaken from its foundation during an exceptionally strong quake. For information, write Studio 4 Productions, P.O.

Box 280400, Northridge, CA 91328.

9. Which is the best type of real estate investment — office or apartment buildings?

A. Office buildings currently are the most popular type of property for investors, according to Grubb & Ellis, a national commercial real estate firm.

Office vacancy rates are down in most areas, making these properties more attractive. In a recent study, Grubb & Ellis determined the best office building markets are Atlanta, San Francisco, Portland, Chicago, Tampa, Dallas, Los Angeles, Boston, Denver and Phoenix. The study also showed apartments maintaining a stronghold, but falling behind of rice properties in most markets. This is the first time in years that office properties have been viewed favorably in the investment community, and one of the final signs of a full recovery in the real estate industry, a Grubb & Ellis spokesman said.

It's always a pleasure to serve family and friends a homegrown treat, no matter what the season. Canning and freezing are two ways to make the bounty of your garden extend all year long.

Always use firm, fresh vegetables that have been washed carefully, then blanch in boiling water and immediately chill in ice water before being packed without liquid.

For fruit, the preparation varies: they may be packed in dry sugar, with You also may wish to add a citric acid and ascorbic acid mixture, following the package instructions to prevent discoloration. Just be sure to use firm, ripe fruit at the height of its flavor.

And for all canning and freezing, be sure to leave ample room for expansion in your container — don't fill it too full!

Here are blanching times, and preparation guidelines for preparing some garden favorites for preserving:

VEGETABLES

Asparagus: 2-4 minutes; cut in desired lengths.

Beans, string: 3-4 minutes; cut, slice or leave whole.

Beans, lima: 2-3 minutes; shell, sort, wash.

Corn, whole grain: 4 minutes; husk, silk, cut from cob. Greens, all kinds: 2-3 minutes; discard tough leaves and stems.

Eclectic pump organ is diverse

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a pump organ that I have. It is marked "Windsor—Chicago." It is in excellent condition. I am interested in learning its value.

A. Your pump organ is circa 1900. The style could be considered eclectic, combining the diverse characteristics of several periods. Your organ would probably be worth about $1,500.

Q. I inherited from my mother a six-piece Jim Beam train set. It consists of an engine, coal car, baggage car, passenger car, dining car and caboose. None of the seals have been broken on the bottles and the set is in good condition.

I am planning to sell the set and would like to know what it is worth.

A. Some states prohibit selling liquor without a license. Many collectors are only interested in empty bottles. This set is part of the "Beam on Wheel" series and was made in the 1970s and 1980s. Each train car would probably be worth about $40 to $65.

Q. This mark is on the back of a porcelain plate I have. I would like to know when it was made and its value.

It has gold trim, white flowers and green leaves. Also on the front are the words "Give Us This Day Our Daily Bread."

A. Your bread plate was made by C. Tielsch & Co., located in Aitwaser, Silesia, Germany. The firm was established in 1845. Your plate was made around 1900. Its value would probably be about $25 in good condition.

Q. My mother received silver-plated flatware for a wedding gift in the early 1950s. Although I don't know the name of the pattern, I do know it was made by National Silver Co. I believe the firm is out of business. I would like to add to the set, but don't have a clue how to go about it.

A. Anyone seeking to replace missing pieces of china, crystal, earthenware or silver can contact "Replacements Ltd." Their address is 1089 Knox Road, P.O. Box 26029, Greensboro, NC 27420. For more information, call toll-free (800) 562-4462. They are the world's largest supplier of obsolete, inactive and active china, crystal, stainless and silver.

Q. My vase is marked "Roseville—989-B" and it is in very good condition. The pattern is "Lily of the Valley" and it is 8 inches high.

I understand "Roseville" is very popular and I am curious about the approximate value.

A. We closely examined the photo you sent of your vase, and decided that the pattern is "Bleeding Heart." It was made circa 1938 and available in three colors. A vase similar to yours is listed in "Second Series of the Collectors Encyclopedia of Roseville Pottery" by Sharon and Bob Huxford, in the $75 to $100 range.

BOOK REVIEW

Joan Davies, author of "Collecting Quimper—Quimper Collections" (Merry Walk), has devoted the last 10 years to the study and research of Quimperware. She has spent several summers in Brittany, France, steeping herself in the history of this charming pottery.

Her book opens doors to the extraordinary collections in the United States and France. Each page is teeming with color photos that dazzle the eye. She includes a primer for the collector that proves to be an outstanding source of information.

I enthusiastically recommend this delightful book to collectors, beginning and advanced, and interior decorators alike. It is available through the publisher, Merry Walk, P.O. Box 109-644 E. Fort Ave., Baltimore, MD 21230 for $35 a copy.

Letters with picture(s) are welcome and may be answered in the column. We cannot reply personally or return pictures. Address your letters to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

in helping to reduce drafts. Compressed foam outlet and switch sealers are a snap to install and will prevent cold air from entering through those sockets.

In addition to the above projects there are other maintenance-type tasks that are equally important in preparation for winter. While they may not keep your home warmer, they will improve the energy efficiency of your home as well as prevent problems. These include:

- Replacing furnace filters as needed to keep the furnace running efficiently. There are several types of filters on the market, from an inexpensive basic filter that has to be changed frequently to more expensive filters that offer more dust control or odor control and are changed less frequently. Also have your furnace inspected and cleaned to insure proper operation of your furnace.
- Cleaning the furnace humidifier. The humidifier filters should also be cleaned regularly to prevent the growth of mold, which could be blown throughout the house.

- Arranging to have a chimney sweep clean your fireplace if you use it on a regular basis.

- Wrapping hot and cold pipes in pipe insulation to eliminate the sweating from dripping of pipes.

- Wrapping furnace ducts that are exposed to cold air in duct insulation to prevent heat loss.

- Installing pipe heating cable on water pipes that are susceptible to cold temperatures to prevent frozen water pipes.

While all of these tasks may seem daunting, with the investment of your time, effort and money, the payoff will be a more comfortable home this winter as well as a more comfortable utility bill.

For more information on Consumers Power "Reduce the Use" program, which will also install, free of charge, a water heater blanket, six feet of hot water pipe insulation, weather stripping on one door and provide two plastic storm windows, call 1-800-694-8787.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
MARJORIE SHEFFIECK

SHOULD I RENT WITH OPTION?

QUESTION: My home is for sale. One prospect offered to rent it with an option to buy. What is your advice on this situation?

ANSWER: The "Rent with option to buy" offer is usually made by someone who is not a serious buyer for ANY house. I'd suggest putting the offer aside and looking for a bonafide prospect who wants to BUY the house - not rent it. However, if you MUST rent your home under these circumstances, be sure that there is a consideration for the option over and above the rent. Remember, you are reducing your sales prospects down to one - and that one is quite dubious.

Secretarial services prove to be a hit in Novi

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

In the business world, crunch time can make or break a company. Enterprises that meet deadlines and give customers what they need will survive while the others simply will not.

Helping companies make it in the economic jungle is Novi Secretarial Services' specialty. According to owner Judy Ward, her business has been helping clients meet deadlines and become more productive for the past decade.

"We provide any services that are available in a normal office setting," she said. "(We) help customers keep their overhead expenses down and their office running smoothly."

From typing and resumes to manual development and tape transcription, Novi Secretarial Services had built a solid reputation in the business community of metropolitan Detroit.

"We share in (our client's) success," said Ward. "We make a good impression for them."

The service just celebrated its 10th anniversary last month. A Novi resident for nearly 20 years, Ward said her community has been a great place to do business.

"The City of Novi is a great place," she commented and added. "I'm the first secretarial service in Novi."

Ward started the business with

"We share in (our client's) success. We make a good impression for them ... The City of Novi is a great place. I'm the first secretarial service in Novi," the idea of working primarily for her husband, Ronald, who is a business management consultant. But a funny thing happened: Novi Secretarial Services took off.

"Within a short period of time," Ward said, "he was just a client."

With her experience in the field, it's no wonder the business has been a hit. Ward worked for more than 20 years as a secretarial and administrative assistant for the likes of the Detroit Institute of Technology, Ford Motor Company and Dean Foods.

Her excellent reputation helped in getting the business started. Ward remembered that her business' first job was a project for Ford.

"We've been growing by leaps and bounds," she said. "Since we moved, even more."

Novi Secretarial Services started off at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook roads.

Late last fall, Ward moved the business to 24245 Karim Blvd., off

Ten Mile and just west of Haggerty Road.

As Ward explained, companies bring work to her office.

"We don't send people out," she said. "It's not like a Kelly service."

All types of folks use Novi Secretarial. From big business like Ford to small shop owners and individuals.

"No job's too big; no job's too small," Ward said.

All projects done by Ward and her staff are done on state-of-the-art computers and laser printers. Copy machines and fax capabilities make for complete office services.

The Novi business has clients all over the metro area from Brighton and Wixom to Livonia, Farmington and Detroit.

"Our clients come from everywhere," said Ward.

From now until the end of the month, Novi Secretarial Services is offering a 10 percent discount on all projects. For more information on services, call (810) 471-3252.

Retailers say sales are on the rise

Michigan retailers increased sales in August from a year ago and are bullish in their sales forecasts for the next three months, according to the Michigan Retail Index, a joint project of the Michigan Retailers Association (MRA) and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

The retailers' activities were stronger - and their forecasts even more upbeat - than recorded in July by the MRA's first monthly Michigan Retail Index.

More than 62 percent of the state's retailers reported increased sales in August, more than twice the number who reported a decrease. In July, 58 percent reported increased sales.

More than 78 percent said they expected to increase year-to-year sales for the September through November period, compared to only 10 percent who expected a drop in sales. In July, 75 percent expected higher sales for the next three months.

"Retail sales remain strong and so does the outlook for the future," said Larry Meyer, MRA Chief Executive Officer and former Director of the Michigan Department of Commerce. "Consumers are in a spending mood, which is a good sign as we move closer to the holiday shopping season."

The index is based on a monthly survey of MRA's members. Nearly 600 members responded to the survey in time to be included in the August results, which are compiled by the Federal Reserve and used as an indicator of overall economic activity.

The index measures changes in key retail activities: sales, inventory, hiring, pricing, and advertising.

For August, more than half of the retailers reported increasing their inventories, more than twice as many as reported decreasing their stock. Significantly more retailers also reported increasing hiring and advertising and promotional efforts.

Good news for consumers included the fact that 71 percent reported no change in their prices, while more than 8 percent cut prices.

The August index showed: 63 percent of retailers increased sales and 24 percent decreased sales; 52 percent increased inventories and 20 percent decreased inventories; 92 percent reported no increase in prices; 29 percent increased promotional activities and 7 percent decreased promotions; and 22 percent increased hiring while 6 percent decreased hiring.

By comparison, the July index showed: 58 percent of retailers increased sales and 27 percent decreased sales; 44 percent increased inventories and 23 percent decreased inventories; 79 percent reported no increase in prices; 33 percent increased promotional activities and 8 percent decreased promotions; and 15 percent increased hiring and 9 percent decreased hiring.

The Michigan Retailers Association represents more than 4,200 retail businesses which operate 8,000 stores across Michigan.

vent rust from forming, fiberglass repairs, urethane repairs, and custom and performance body applications. For more information or to set up a tour of the facility, call (810) 380-0230.

Varsity cuts the ribbon at city border

When it was time for Varsity Lincoln-Mercury to cut the ribbon to celebrate its opening, there was a problem, which mayor should do the honors? After all, the new dealership straddles the city limits, part in Novi and part in Wixom.

The answer: both. Mayors Kathleen McLallen of Novi and Wayne Glessner of Wixom cut the ribbon simultaneously, right on the city border line, on Sept. 21.

The new dealership is located at 49251 Grand River Avenue in Novi. Affiliated with the well-known Varsity Ford dealership in Ann Arbor, Varsity Lincoln-Mercury is located one block south of the Wixom Road exit off I-96. It is the fourth new car automobile dealership in Novi.

The area's newest dealership opened July 25 with a staff of 14 new car sales persons and six used car sales persons.

So far, the response has been exceptional. Sales Manager Don Smith noted that Varsity Lincoln-Mercury sold over 120 cars in the first two weeks of operation.

Smith, who has 10 years' experience with Varsity Ford in Ann Arbor, is excited about the Novi location. Noting there seemed to be a void in the area when it came to serving Lincoln-Mercury buyers, he predicted that the Grand River dealership will be an important addition to the community.

Smith said the first thing he looked for when assembling the sales staff was a record of customer service. "We looked at how well they had served their clients in the past," he explained. "We wanted to know whether their previous customers were pleased with the service they had received."

The concern with customer service is seen throughout all the departments at Varsity Lincoln-Mercury. Top-notch service is what made Varsity Ford in Ann Arbor number one for quality commitment in Michigan. Caring about the customer is what made it the largest Ford dealer in Michigan and the third largest in the United States. Lou, Hank and Mike Stanford, who own both Varsity dealerships, insist on high standards of customer service.

The concept is to offer customers what they want and do it very well. When you do that, customers will come back and bring their friends with them.

Another area where the emphasis on customer service is evident is the service department. The Novi location offers a 55-day service department that guarantees service which is not only top rate, but also convenient for the customer.

Customer service again is apparent in the financing department, which is headed by finance manager Tim Rotarius.

"We can have on-the-spot financing in 10 minutes," he said. "The customer could potentially walk out of the dealership an hour after making the decision to buy a car." Hours are Monday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For more information call (810) 305-5300 or call their toll-free number at 1-800-850-NOVI.

How to give yourself a financial check up

Are you financially prepared to deal with a sudden drop in income or an unanticipated large expense? Do you have adequate homeowners insurance? Are you overpaying your taxes? If you are unsure of the answers to these questions, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants recommends that you give yourself a financial fitness checkup. Here's what you need to look at:

SAVINGS STRATEGY

No matter how large or small your income, it's vital to get into the savings habit. How much you save depends on your own circumstances, including your age, income, current expenses and goals. The MACPA recommends that the average person save 7 percent of their pretax income when starting to save at age 25, 10 percent at age 35, 18 percent at 45, and 35 if saving begins at age 55.

Money management

If you're not saving regularly, or lack the discipline to do so, consider joining an employer-sponsored savings program in which the company directly deposits a portion of your paycheck into a savings account or another savings vehicle.

INVESTMENT VEHICLES

If all of your savings are sitting in your neighborhood bank, it's time to make some withdrawals. Diversify your investment among those that offer long-term growth and security (such as stocks and bonds) and short-term saving vehicles (such as Certificates of Deposit and money market funds).

EMERGENCY FUND

To be prepared for a possible emergency, keep at least three months of household expenses in liquid accounts, those that enable you to easily withdraw cash without risk of losing the principal. However, if you live in a one income household with children or if you're older, it's best to set aside enough cash to cover six to 12 months of living expenses.

TOTAL DEBT

Generally, your monthly installment credit payments should not exceed 20 percent of your monthly take-home pay. This includes automobile loans, credit card debt, installment loans, personal loans and student loans. It does not however include first mortgages. If your debt is near or over 20 percent, curb your spending and pay off your credit balances. One alternative may be to consolidate your debt by taking out a home-equity loan. In many cases, you'll pay a lower interest rate and can deduct the interest you pay on the loan.

CREDIT CARDS

One way to control your debt is to control or eliminate your use of credit cards. While credit cards make it each to purchase items, they are among the most expensive ways to borrow money. Keep only one or two credit cards and limit your use of them. Make sure your cards have a low interest rate, no annual fee and offers a grace period before interest charges are assessed.

Finally, the MACPA recommends that, as part of your financial checkup, you give yourself a tax checkup. You still have time to implement strategies for 1994.

Hearings slated on late MESC tax reports

The Michigan Employment Security Commission will hold two public hearings next month to take comments about changes in the rules governing what will be considered "good cause" for submitting late quarterly unemployment reports.

The hearings will be held Wednesday, Oct. 12 in Detroit in Room 511 of the Detroit Labor Building, 7310 Woodward, and Thursday, Oct. 13, in Lansing in the Lake Erie Room of the Michigan Library at 717 W. Allegan. The hearings will begin at 10 a.m. The proposed new rules give employers a year to file late, for good cause.

“‘I really want my mom to find me face-down in my own blood on the floor of her bathroom. The woman deserves it.’

The hair on the back of my neck stood on end. My forehead went wet. ‘I hate my pathetic life,’ she said. It was the first call I got working at the suicide hotline, a volunteer thing I did because a friend said she got so much out of it. Before I got too nervous, I stood up and spoke into the phone with as much compassion as I could. But my voice skipped and fluttered. How do you tell a girl like this it’s going to be alright? Just when my head started to swim with the idea that I might be the reason she kills herself, it hit me. She doesn’t want me to have the answers, she just wants a friend. She wants me to understand because no one else wants to. I never felt so alive. And that feeling is what brings me back here to the phones. Everyone reaches a point where they need help. If all it takes is listening for a few hours, I can do that. ”

This is Chris Suffredini’s real-life story. He is one of the little answers to the big problems facing every community in America. And because there are more people than problems, things will get done. All you have to do is something. Do anything. To find out how you can help in your community, call 1 (800) 677-5515.

BOYS GYMNASTICS

Learn all the fundamentals of tumbling and gymnastics as well as developing upper and lower body strength. Activities will include tumbling, vault and bars.

PRE-SCHOOL

Gym & Sport

TOT GYM – This class is fun for the child up to three years old. Parents are involved in this class that uses games and activities to work on large muscle groups and hand-eye coordination. Let your child explore up, down and around on mats and obstacle courses. Work with them to build confidence and enjoy themselves.

TINY TUMBLERS – Get your little ones involved! This class is especially designed for three and four year olds. Creative games using the parachute and balls, imagination practice with animals and sounds, refining tumbling work on the mats and balance beam introduction are all part of this class. Get your kids off to a great start with Tiny Tumblers.

GYM FUNTIME – A supervised time for parents and children to use the gym equipment for free play and activity.

PRE-SCHOOL BALLET (Ages 3-6) – An exciting introduction for your child into the world of ballet. Learning the basic steps and discipline of ballet encourages your child's interest, along with providing fun.

PRE-SCHOOL GYMNASTICS – Don't stop with Tiny Tumblers! Keep your children growing and learning with our Pre-School Gym program. We'll progress to more work on the mats and beams to other gymnastics apparatus such as the uneven bars and rings. Motor skills and fine tuning of coordination and balance will help your child be more successful in everyday tasks and concentration. Plus – they'll have fun!

PRE-SCHOOL GYMNASTICS ADVANCED – Has your child progressed from Pre-School Gym, but is not quite ready for beginner gymnastics? We have the perfect class for them! This class gives your child a little extra time to master skills taught in the Pre-School Program, but also begins to introduce them to the discipline and new skills they will be learning in beginner gym. Also gives your child extra time to socially acclimate to a class structure.

NEW! PRE-SCHOOL BASKETBALL – An instructional program designed to teach the children the basics of dribbling, passing, and shooting held at the YMCA.

PRE-SCHOOL FLOOR HOCKEY – A class for the little ones to learn the basics of stick handling and shooting. A fun class with lots of action.

SPORT SAMPLER – This is a great class for the pre-school child to be introduced to a variety of sports: T-ball, basketball, hockey and soccer!

PRE-SCHOOL SOCCER – Designed for the pre-schooler who is not quite ready for the league. Major emphasis is on the basic skills of dribbling, passing and teamwork. Classes will be held indoors. Shinguards recommended. No cleats please.

Pee Wee Tennis

NEW! MR. PEE WEE TENNIS – These classes are designed to introduce the 4-7 year old to the basics of tennis. Drills and fun games have been developed to improve a child's balance, muscle control, hand/eye coordination and their tennis skills. The YMCA will provide racquets for tots who do not have their own.

PEE WEE I – Introduction to the court and racquet. Stationary forehands are emphasized at this level.

Brentwood Farms Development Inc.

by Craig Farrand

Affordable housing and a golf course? Skeptics and homebuyers would say that's impossible-but that just means they haven't seen the Brentwood subdivision under development in Oakland County's White Lake Township.

Of course, "affordable" is a relative term-but when similar developments feature homes in the high six and seven figure range, Brentwood is indeed an affordable option for those seeking state-of-the-art living in a natural setting.

And for the first 18 days of September, a projected 100,000 people had a chance to see this unique combination up close and personal when the site hosted Homearama '94, sponsored again by the Builder's Association of Southeastern Michigan.

During the three-week show, visitors walked through 13 different floorplans ranging in size from 2,300 to nearly 3,000 square feet and priced from $240,000 to $350,000.

What they saw, however, was more than just brick and mortar and dollars and cents; they saw firsthand the combined visions of Steve Chaplin and Raymond Leduc.

It was this duo who, as Brentwood Farms Development, laid out the plans for an 18 hole-course surrounded by sweeping architecture; and it was this duo who, as Brentwood Farms Builders, erected many of the homes on the site-and made plans to add even more in the future.

Originally, the Brentwood development was a two part-project, with phase one calling for 70 homes and nine holes of golf. Another 68 homes and the back nine were to constitute phase two.

As it sits today, though, both phases have blended into a unified plan calling for the completion of all 18 holes by spring, with home construction to match the golf course's development.

In fact, although planners hoped the first nine holes would be in play this fall, their opening has been delayed until spring when the remaining nine will also be open for tee times.

But the delay will be well worth the wait: According to planners, not only will the course be in better shape come spring, but by that time the site will also feature a completed 12,000-square-foot clubhouse as its centerpiece.

The final "look" of the entire development, according to Chaplin and Leduc, will then be a mixture of competitive golf and "Mayberry-USA"- a blend of a classic sport with classic architecture.

All on 240 acres.

Not surprisingly, then, Brentwood Farms is the ideal showcase of the talents of Chaplin and Leduc, who bring a rare combination of excitement, knowledge, experience and capability to the home industry.

Leduc, a registered professional engineer as well as a builder and designer, is responsible for the "inside" operations of the company; Chaplin, as site manager, keeps the line of communications open between concept and construction.

In addition, the two are supported by an army of draftsmen, superintendents, decorators and golf course professionals.

The efforts of this team can best be seen in some of the traditional designs incorporated in the homes on the site. For example, the broad porches and sweeping roofs on the outside bring to mind the 1890s more than the 1990s. Yet the modern conveniences and roominess inside meet all the needs of families of the 21st century.

Builder of The Month

The duo's homes on the site include The Fancrest, The Tybee, The Providence and The Talonwaide.

In addition to the homes, the development's entryway-a highlight of the Homearama presentation-is itself a classic blend of styles: Watch towers are positioned on each side but are enhanced by landscaping that both conceals and reveals the esthetics of the game.

At the same time, a boulder-lined causeway is incorporated in the entry design to allow players and their golfcarts to move from one hole to the next without conflicting with traffic.

And homeowner privacy?

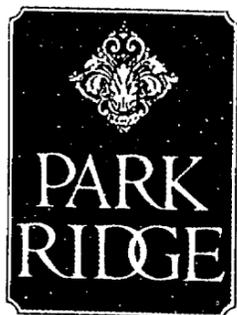

Consider again the skills of Chaplin and Leduc: Even those homes

Gas Fireplaces

Warmth without the hassle

by Steve Brown

Since the beginning of time, man has had a love affair with fire and in modern times, man has had a love for the fireplace.

The use and need of fire has helped to sustain and improve the quality of life with its beauty and warmth. Today however, fire, and in particular the fireplace, have become almost a necessity of contemporary living. Fireplaces, at one time, seemed available only to the wealthy as an amenity to a room, or in some cases a necessity for warmth. But today, whether a multi-million dollar home with twelve fireplaces, or a moderately priced home, condominium, or apartment, fireplaces are being installed in record numbers. Gas logs are a big part of the reason for their popularity.

On average, most people who burn wood in their fireplace only have a fire about once every ten days during the fall and winter wood burning seasons. Many of these people admit they enjoy having fires, but because of the hassles of having a fire (i.e., providing the wood, chopping and or buying, storing the wood, worrying about sparks, losing too much heated room air up the chimney, cleaning the ashes). All are reasons why having a wood fire is so infrequent. Gas logs, however, are changing the way we use our fireplaces and its frequency.

People will spend hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars on marble mantels and accessories to trim their fireplace. However they barely use the fireplace due to the inconveniences stated earlier.

With the advent and increased popularity of the fireplace gas logs, people are beginning to use their fireplaces frequently. It is not unusual to have two or more fireplaces installed in moderately priced homes. Gas logs along with factory built pre-fabricated zero-clearance fireplaces have created a new market that has been welcomed by today's builder and homeowners alike.

Most wood burning fireplaces (masonry or prefab) can easily be converted to accommodate gas logs with minimal expense. As always, it is important a licensed and insured installer be contracted to do this work.

With today's newest technology certain gas log manufacturers have been able to mimic a fire, as well as creating realistic logs. This makes it extremely difficult to tell the difference between a gas log fire from a wood burning fire.

The detail available in some of the better gas log sets would sur-

In either case, they are extremely user friendly.

Another gas fireplace product that has been rapidly gaining popularity are the new direct vent gas fireplaces. These units can be installed in just about any location in the home which previously would have been impossible. These direct vent units do not require the typical prise even the hard core wood users. Deeply detailed bark with knots and holes, as well as split logs and white birch have virtually made the difference between natural wood and gas log fires indistinguishable.

The best gas logs are made of a fireproof refractory material molded and hardened to resemble that of wood. The burner assembly which helps to make the flames dance between logs are generally made of heavy gauge steel and have sand or vermiculite placed in around the burner to help create a realistic flame pattern. Burning embers at the base of the fire also enhance the natural look of the fire. The valves to control the flame height as well as to start and extinguish the gas fire logs are available with a simple automatic safety pilot or a manual type valve which you light with a match.

chimney which must protrude above the roofline. Instead, these units can be vented directly to the outside, similar to that of a clothes dryer. These direct vent units have eliminated most obstacles during remodeling as well as new construction. The direct vent fireplaces most popular installation seems to be in the basement or lower level, as well as in bedrooms. A direct vent fireplace is both a warming and an added amenity to any room and are simple to install. A simple wall switch or a hand held remote control are available to turn the units on and off. Another bonus of these direct vent units are that they are actually mini furnaces and can supplement heat with an average efficiency over 60%.

Home of the '90s Comes to Oakland County

by Angie Andreson

Latest in Home Automation is featured at Hills of Chelsea Park in West Bloomfield.

A home automation system often thought of as something found only in futuristic homes like that of the "Jetsons"-is available now and will be featured at Chelsea park, a new Ivanhoe Huntley development in West Bloomfield.

Honeywell's TotalHome home automation system-distributed in Michigan by HomeTek of Royal Oak-integrates control of a home's security, temperature, lighting and appliances into a single, easy-to-operate panel. With the proper pass code, the system also can be remotely operated using a touch-tone phone. The system is as easy to use as an automated teller machine and it gives today's home owners the added flexibility and control their lifestyles demand.

Each TotalHome system is customized to fit the home owner's individual needs and lifestyle. At the time of installation, Honeywell programs the system with up to 15 "scenarios" that include security, temperature, lighting and appliance settings tailored to the home owner's personal preferences.

Home owners choose not only which options each mode will include, but also what each scenario will be called, such as 'Good Morning', 'At Work' or 'On Vacation'. With a typical TotalHome scenario, a family would wake up in the morning to a comfortably warm house with coffee brewing and a lighted hallway leading to the bathroom.

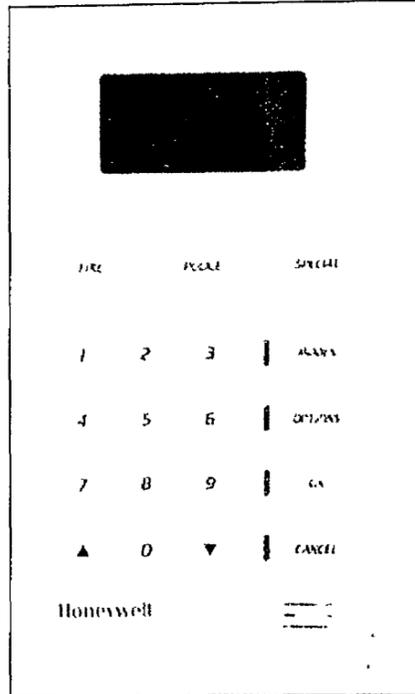

When leaving for work, the home owner could select a new mode, perhaps one called 'At Work', which would arm the security system, shut off appliances for safety, adjust the temperature to save energy and even turn designated lights on and off for a "lived-in" look.

Unlike most existing home automation offerings that range from $10,000 to $200,000 for an installed system, the TotalHome system is affordable. A typical TotalHome system, featuring 10 points of lighting or appliance control; 10 points of security control; control of the home's temperature; two TotalHome panels; and remote phone access, costs about $4,000 for installation in a new or existing home.

Known for its exceptional homes, Ivanhoe Huntley continually looks for ways to further set them apart from the competition.

that back up to the golf course are buffered from the action by the planting of 4,000 trees along the fairways and greens.

Forget errant balls, though; developers already wonder if homeowners will even hear an occasional "fore".

"We've already had to make an extra effort to show some (potential buyers) that it's a golf course, too," said Burt Arbuckle of K.W. Peterson and Associates (which is handling sales on the site).

"At first people didn't seem to notice, but then all of a sudden it was 'sure enough, I'm on a golf course.'"

"The response has been great," Arbuckle said.

In particular, Arbuckle was referring to just the first five days of Homearama '94-which, he estimated, had seen nearly 35,000 people come through the development.

(By comparison, previous Homearamas had reported crowds of 30,000 to 80,000 for the entire show, Arbuckle said.)

"We didn't know what to expect, since this was the first time that Brentwood had taken part in a show."

"But we were averaging 1,000 people an hour at one point; and that's a record turnout," he said.

It was Arbuckle who put the Brentwood development in proper perspective in the home-buying market:

"What sets this (project) apart from other golf course/home sites is that it's priced right.

"At most sites like this, only a millionaire could buy a home- but here, 'Mr. Everyone' can buy."

enhanced but ensured the use of gas logs and gas fireplaces has been their kindness to our environment. Gas log fires burn 98% cleaner than a wood fire. In fact, certain areas of the country have banned wood burning entirely, or have restricted use on certain high pollution days. And, it seems more wood burning restrictions are on the way.

Many consumers have switched to gas logs because they desire flames without the fuss of chopping and storing wood or the mess of ashes. Natural gas is a less expensive fuel, and burns far more cleanly than wood. It also starts in an instant and is in immediate supply. A dazzling array of gas burning models are available at a reasonable cost.

A fireplace setting creates a certain ambiance, warmth, and a feeling of security. Today, the fireplace has become environmentally friendly, cost effective and safer with the introduction of these gas products.

HOUSING INDUSTRY TRENDS

Housing starts in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties totaled 11,819 last year, an increase of 643 new homes over the 1992 figure. The Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan is predicting that by the end of 1994, new home starts will surpass 13,000, indicating strong, steady growth for our area's housing industry.

- If you are planning a move, The Better Business Bureau of Southeastern Michigan can inform you as to whether or not the moving company you have selected to transport your personal belongings has a satisfactory business record. Their telephone number is (810) 644-9100.

- Recycling is on the rise throughout Oakland, Western Wayne and Livingston counties among residents who are both required to recycle and those who participate voluntarily. Finding well-planned storage for recyclables such as pop cans, plastic containers and newspapers is becoming an important new feature being considered by some new home buyers. According to a recent study by the National Kitchen and Bath Association, 52% of custom kitchen design jobs today involve special planning for recycling and 37% of the jobs include recycling bins.

- 70% of U.S. homes will have computers by the year 2001, compared with 30% today in a prediction made by futurist Marvin Cetron, president of Forecasting International in Arlington, Virginia. Plugged-in study centers are already becoming popular for many of today's school age children and may soon be as commonplace in the home as the television.

Choosing The Perfect Garage Door

(NAPS)—Your garage doors deserve extra attention when you build or remodel your home. They can contribute as much as 40 percent to its overall appearance.

The range of garage door options has grown substantially in the past few years, with new designs, new materials and new technology. That means more choices for you.

One of the most significant decisions homeowners will make is the choice of construction materials. Generally speaking, the available options are steel and wood.

Wood has been the traditional choice for millions of homes over the years. But for most homeowners, today's state-of-the-art steel garage doors offer many advantages that are hard to beat.

APPEARANCE. Some homeowners still prefer the look of genuine wood garage doors. But today's steel doors offer the widest selection of panel styles, pre-painted colors, windows and window design options to accent and enhance any home's exterior.

MAINTENANCE. Modern steel doors are available pre-painted with permanent, durable, rust-inhibitive paints to match or coordinate with exterior house colors. Wood doors usually require sealing, caulking and repainting every few years.

INSULATION. Steel doors are available with insulation in a variety of thicknesses, bonded to exterior and interior steel skins for rigidity, durability, noise reduction, energy efficiency and comfort. Wood doors generally are sold without added insulation.

DURABILITY. Steel garage doors are built to last. Wood doors require periodic preventive maintenance—sealing, painting, staining—to avoid rot and deterioration.

ECONOMY. Because steel doors last longer, with less maintenance they offer the lowest total cost over the life of the door. And insulated steel doors can increase a home's energy efficiency, too.

For most homeowners, steel garage doors offer the best solutions to their particular needs. For your own home, consider all variables, including aesthetics, climate where you live and how you expect to use the garage and garage door.

For more information on garage doors and on choosing, buying and installing them, call 1-800-2CLO-PAY and ask for your copy of a helpful brochure called A Guide To Garage Doors. It's free from Clopay Building Products Company, Cincinnati.

House Call

by Barbi Krass
Colorworks Studio of Interior Design

Are you considering hiring an interior designer to work with you on your home or office. If you are like the majority of consumers you will assume your designer's role is to select and sell furniture and accessories, but a designer's role stretches far beyond this narrow description.

Full service interior design means the ability to offer new construction services such as making builders selections and specifications, assessing electrical needs, choosing plumbing fixtures, designing a fireplace detail or a railing concept, as well as cabinetry and built-in specifications. Blueprint review and purchase agreement assessments are also an integral part of custom interior services.

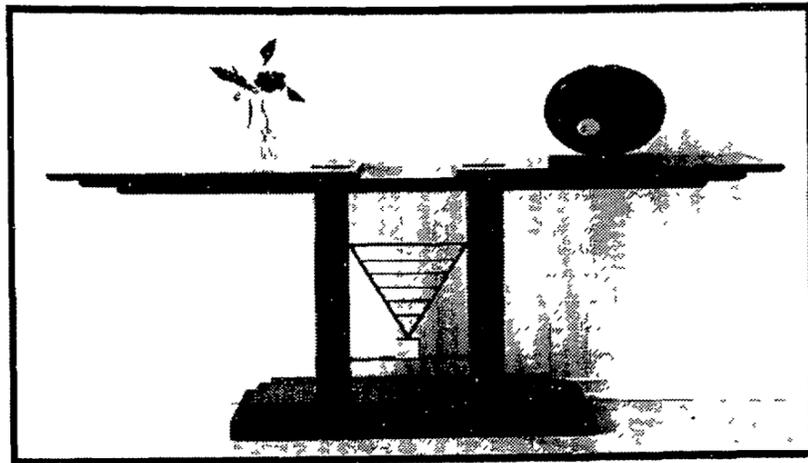

A full service design firm has the knowledge and expertise to do custom design as well as production design. That means the concept fits the particular space or room and is individual for each client.

At Colorworks we call custom design "working backwards". The retail furniture store concept, which is sales oriented, concentrates on selecting the furniture and working it into the design of a room. The custom concept "works backwards": scaling the design of a room, balancing the space, color and texture of a room, before considering the specific furniture pieces. The selection choice is narrowed based on the needs of the particular space. It can be a frustrating task for a client to settle on a particular sectional only to find the size, configuration or style is inappropriate for the space.

Full service design also means custom fabrication. The ability to design and build wall units for the home theater, computer work spaces, home office areas, bedroom sets, etc. is essential. Knowledge of materials ranging from laminates, to lacquer, to metals, to exotic woods give the clients a broad range of choices. Custom fabrication includes upholstery of all kinds: bedspreads, upholstered beds, slip covers, window and drapery treatment, cornices, etc. Carpeting and flooring selection includes area rug design, flooring inlays, hand painting and more. Wall treatments cover not only paper and paint, but faux finishing, stenciling and burnishing. And of course accessorizing and fine art placement need to be addressed for the finishing of every home.

The role of the interior designer has expanded greatly over the years, with detailed schooling, technical training, and on site experience. Taking advantage of all that interior design has to offer ensures each client of achieving that winning combination of personal choice and professional design.

Outdoor Lighting

Decorative as well as protective

by Jerry Waligora

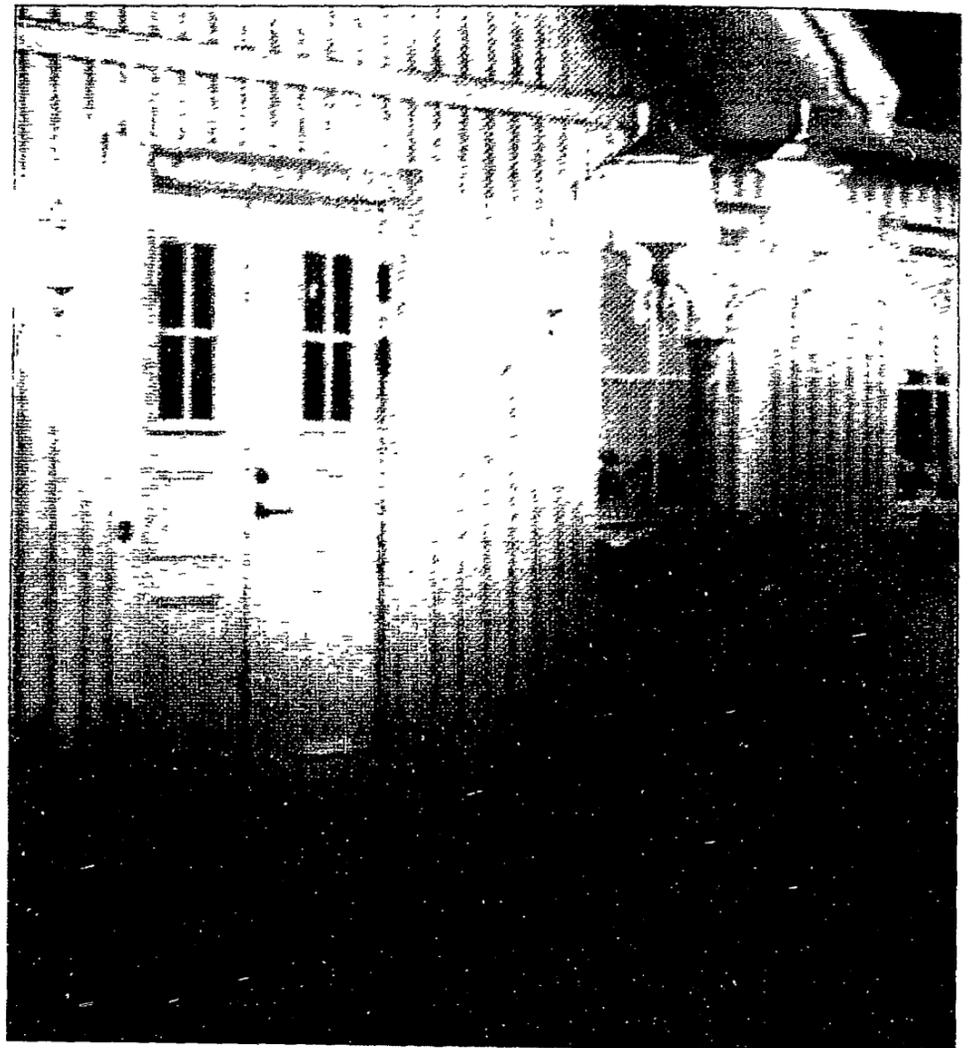

Outdoor lighting has continued to grow in demand the last few years. New products, improvement in quality and reliability and efficient light sources have all added to the growth of this portion of your home's lighting.

Outdoor lighting can be broken down into two segments. Decorative or aesthetic type lighting and security or convenience lighting.

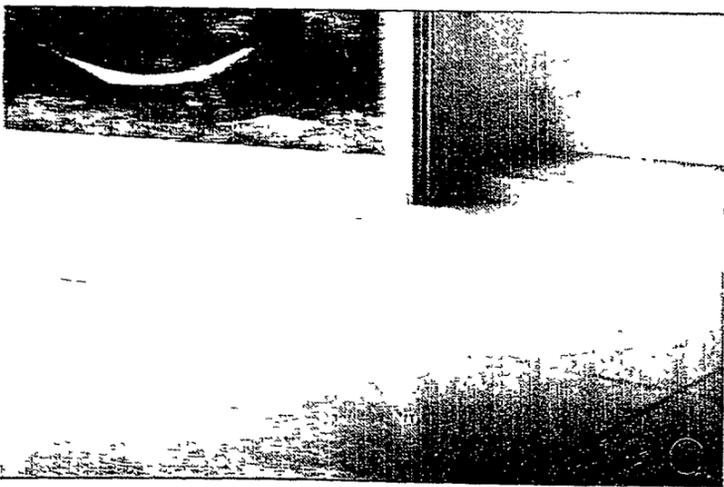

Some fixtures can crossover into both areas. For example an architectural spotlight can not only provide the security, safety and convenience associated with it, but bring an atmosphere to a street or neighborhood of your own design.

Aesthetic type lighting includes decorative post lanterns, bollards, landscape lighting and surface mounted fixtures for a variety of purposes. No longer are light fixtures limited to the traditional locations. Consider now decks, terraces, patios, ponds, and gazebos. Also you can highlight architectural features of your home and surroundings. Light sources include incandescent, halogen, fluorescent, metal halide and high pressure sodium. Each light source creates its own effect ranging from the dramatic to the subtle.

Advancements in aesthetic lighting in recent years include high quality cast aluminum fixtures, a dramatic increase in fixture selection including finishes and the type of them they create. As recently as 10 years ago selection was minimal and most fixtures were constructed of plastic materials and provided minimal light output. Today, even with low voltage units high levels of light can be reached for applications that warrant it. Examples of new products include underwater pond light, fiber optic tubing for pools, under rail deck lights, rock light (designed to look like a boulder in the landscape) and even fixtures that raise out and then lower back into the ground as they are turned on and off.

Security type lighting usually installed on the house itself or on a traditional post lantern can bring safety to your home along with automatic operation, keeping your home secure should you be there or not. Major advancements in this area have been efficient type light sources along with more decorative type units. Fluorescent, sodium and metal halide bulbs can save as much as 80% of the energy used with traditional incandescent bulbs. Most units have built in photocells for automatic on at dusk, off at dawn operation. Combined with the efficiency of these units a typical security light costs approximately $1 to $3 per month to operate.

Bringing in a lighting consultant, especially one specializing in exterior lighting can make the difference between a well planned lighting layout and the one that has the common downfalls of hotspots, glare, too low or high light levels or improper controlling of the fixtures. Take the time or the advice of a professional to first layout your exterior lighting. Also consider zoning certain areas as they affect your lifestyle outdoors, complete your project in phases if necessary, but a well laid out system will benefit you in the end from resale value to the convenience it provides.

The company saw the TotalHome system as a way to differentiate the homes in Chelsea Park. "Installing an easy-to-use system such as the TotalHome system gives us a competitive advantage," says Steve Perلمان, Ivanhoe Huntley vice-president. "We also expect that the uniqueness of the system will increase traffic through our models."

Ivanhoe Huntley does not have to look far for a unique system that would provide home buyers with security, comfort, convenience and energy-savings. Larry Rich, Andy Sallan and Scott Dresner, co-founders of HomeTek, provided Ivanhoe Huntley with the solution.

HomeTek's mission is to provide home owners and builders with a one-stop shopping source for home technology needs. Early this year, the partners decided to offer their customers home automation systems.

"After extensive research, we realized that Honeywell was the type of company we wanted to work with and the TotalHome system was the perfect system for HomeTek to offer," Rich said. Initial success with custom builders using the TotalHome system has solidified the partners' belief in their approach.

"We chose the TotalHome system for a number of reasons," Rich said. "In addition to being affordable and easy-to-use, we would also receive Honeywell's name recognition, strong builder support and promotion, and access to Honeywell's portfolio of products."

"Our research also showed that Honeywell's alliance partners were industry leaders as well," Sallan said. "By distributing the TotalHome system, we have instant access to other home automation products, such as Aiphone video entry systems and intercoms and AT&T phone systems, which are both the best in their industries."

In keeping with its goal of designing homes with today's lifestyles in mind, Ivanhoe Huntley features the TotalHome system in its homes in the Hills of Chelsea Park "village" within the Chelsea Park community. In addition, Chelsea Park's homes are designed with open living spaces that allow for both easy entertaining and privacy.

Area builders had a first-hand look at the TotalHome system during a Media and Builder Preview held July 7th through 10th at a 3,500 square foot home located in Oakland County. In addition, home buyers experienced TotalHome at the 1994 Fall Homearama in Whitelake Township. The Hughes Management Group, Inc. known for its use of innovative and energy savings products including steel frame construction, steel and foam engineered basements and water source geothermal power to provide heating, cooling and hot water, incorporated TotalHome into its Prevost Model. Call 1-800-345-6770 ext. 2039 or call HomeTek at (810) 547-0500 for more information about the TotalHome system or any of Honeywell's home systems.
