

Lapham's closing part of longterm trend?

Store's demise continues downtown change

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Since Chuck and Maxine Lapham made public their plans to close their downtown tailoring and clothing store, Lapham's Men's Shop, they've been bombarded by comments from Northville residents. "We have gotten an earful from people," Chuck Lapham said. "Some were irritated that we were leaving and many felt concerned that the town was losing a necessity."

Once the Lapham's liquidation sale is complete, sometime near the end of December or the beginning of January, the longtime retailers will close the 41-year-old store for good.

Lapham's impending close not only triggered sadness from the store's numerous devoted customers, it also seemed symptomatic of a changing landscape for downtown Northville.

In the past couple of years, Northville residents have been witness to the closing of several stores that provided practical services to the community: Northville Pharmacy, formally at 134 E. Main; Frey-di's Cleaners and Men's wear, at 112 E. Main; and Freydl's Women's Wear, at 118 E. Main; and the D&C Dime Store, formally at 139 E. Main, just to name a few.

"D&C is closed, but back when they started, they were like K-mart," said Tom Morrison, the owner of Morrison's Antiques and Uniques at 105 E. Main. "Walmart and Meijers just put them out of business."

Morrison and his wife Nelda, who have operated their Northville business for the past 15 years, feel that, in order to succeed, downtown businesses must offer something that customers can't find in the malls.

"When we first came here there was no Twelve Oaks (Mall), no Meijer," Tom said. "Things were different. If you look at the businesses that are making it - and you ask why they are making it - it is because they are not competing with the malls."

Different votes for different folks

Precinct totals were varied

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville's a very Republican place - you need to be here about five minutes to know that.

But what's not so well known is that - at least as far as last week's election is concerned - some areas of the community are less Republican than others.

What's more, the nearly unthinkable happened last week. In one voting precinct a Democrat actually won.

Those are just some of the interesting trends that reveal themselves in an analysis of the Nov. 8 vote in Northville Township and City.

The Northville Record examined the returns in the township's 10 and the city's two voting precincts, along with the absentee ballots cast in each community. The Record compiled precinct numbers for three key races: governor, U.S. Senate and U.S. House of Representatives 13th District.

The numbers, with the percentages rounded off, say this:

- Northville is a very Republican area, but the Township is slightly more so than the city.

- Township Precinct 5 is one of the most Democratic areas in the community.

- Township Precinct 6 is one of the most Republican areas in Northville.

- The city saw better voter turnout in this election.

- Absentee ballots played a bigger-than-normal role.

Incumbent Gov. John Engler won reelection handily last Tuesday, taking 61 percent of the vote statewide. In Northville, Engler got about 75 percent of the vote.

Republican challenger Spence Abraham will be Michigan's first GOP Senator in 20 years. He won the job with 52 percent of the statewide vote, beating out Democrat Bob Carr (43 percent) and Libertarian Jon Coon (5 percent). His margin of victory in Northville was better: 67 percent to Carr's 29 percent to Coon's 5 percent.

In a rare win for Congressional Democrats, Lynn Rivers beat Republican John Schall to win the 13th District House seat. The 13th district includes the township and most of the Wayne County section of the City Districtwide, Rivers picked up 52 percent of the vote to

Three write-ins gain seats on library board

By YVONNE BEEBE

Unofficial results for the three people who won seats on the Northville District Library Board as write-in candidates have been announced.

Official results will not be released until the entire Nov. 8 election is certified on Nov. 22, but, unofficially, the write-in winners were: Pat Glover, 58 votes; Frederick Porter, 41 votes; and Joseph Oldenburg, 30 votes.

A portion of the District Library Board election was wide open as only four candidates ran for the seven positions on the new board.

Wayne County and Oakland

County election offices have released new numbers for the four candidates whose names did appear on the ballot: Wendy Gutowski, 4,635; William Brown, 4,246; Anna Sarkisian, 4,239; and Lynn Parklan, 4,157.

The four top vote-getters have merited four-year terms on the new board with the remaining three winners receiving two-year terms.

The new library board members will assume their seats Jan. 1.

Northville city and township voters approved two requests in a special election May 2 that granted the community library district library status.

For many local residents, Northville Civic Concern is a place to call home. A place where many tears are shed and hope is offered through friendship and support.

"There are a lot of smiles and a lot of laughter," said Civic Concern director Marlene Kunz, gesturing to the commotion and friendly chatter surrounding her at the Senior Center where the group is based.

Last Friday several volunteers and group members were busily working to bag up the food and paper products the group collects and distributes twice a month to needy community members.

"It's a family unit here," Kunz said. "It's exciting to see what's happening."

Northville Civic Concern is a non-profit community organization that provides a range of various support systems and programs for families and residents of the local area.

In addition to the group's bi-monthly food distribution efforts, Civic Concern provides support to families in emergency situations such as fire or storms. The organization supplies clothing and furniture to the needy and the elderly

Experts warn of danger from deadly odorless gas

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The death of a Northville woman last week has caused an outpouring of concern among residents wanting to prevent a repeat of the tragedy. Sandra Myers, 50, was found dead in her home Nov. 8, the victim of a carbon monoxide leak from a water heater in her basement.

Anytime a tragic death occurs in the community, it is difficult to deal with the loss. However, Myers' death may hit an even deeper nerve with friends, family and neighbors because her death could have been prevented, experts say.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas that is undetectable without special equipment and is lethal.

The gas kills by displacing oxygen in the body's blood and tissue. Unborn babies, infants, young

Watchful program seeking volunteers

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville's ChildWatch program is entering its third year and is looking for volunteers - people just like you.

ChildWatch is a joint effort of community residents, schools and police designed to give kids a safe place to go in the event of an emergency. It also aims to teach children and adults the best way to observe and report potential criminal activity to law enforcement officials.

Now in hundreds of Michigan communities, ChildWatch began in Grand Rapids in 1979. An heir of sorts to the Helping Hands and McGruff Safe House programs of years past, it recruits volunteers to place signs in their homes' windows - a beacon to children in need.

Northville was the first southeastern Michigan school district to adopt ChildWatch. The idea of the program is to form a community network of eyes, ears and helping hands. Only 70-odd people in the community have joined up to date, however. That's a number program volunteer Barb Flis wants to see increase.

"We're a school district of more than 4,000 students and their families," Flis said. "Things are going well but we are looking for more volunteers."

Northville Township police officer Matt Mayes is coordinating the program and conducts the one-hour training sessions for volunteers. Police will screen those who want to take part in ChildWatch, provide the signs and training. The training covers what to do if a child comes to your door with an injury or in fear of a potentially dangerous criminal situation.

Helping kids recognize dangerous situations is a key, officials say. A "stranger," for example, isn't someone who looks a certain way, it's anyone you don't know, kids are told.

Why that definition? Because child abductors or molesters often act "nicely" to their potential victims in order to gain their trust. They have practiced lures to entice children to come with them, such as help in finding a lost dog.

Mayes also offers tips on how to watch for and what to look for in reporting suspicious people, vehicles or incidents to police.

For more information on ChildWatch and how you can participate, call Northville Schools at 349-3400, your local PTA president or Mayes at 349-9400.

Mill Race Matters

Mill Race Village's annual Christmas Walk takes place Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 19 and 20, from noon until 5 p.m. Admission for this special event is $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12.

All buildings will be decorated for the holidays and open for visitation with docents to discuss their history.

Special collections of antique toys, lace bobbins and pressed glass goblets will be on display. Crafters will demonstrate blacksmithing, lacemaking, basketmaking, spinning and weaving.

A teacher will also be present to give everyone a first hand Victorian school experience. The Basket Guild, Weaver's Guild and Country Store will have holiday items available for sale.

Dec. 3 is the day for the annual children's Christmas workshop. As usual two sessions are scheduled for that day. The cost is $10 per child. Reservations must be made in advance. Space is limited. Contact Carol Jean at 349-2833 to check on availability. Children make Christmas gifts for their entire family.

The surveyors who first platted Michigan divided each township into 36 square mile units, numbering them from east to west then dropping down and using the numbers seven through 12 in the second tier west to east.

Northville and Plymouth were identified in this 1818 plat at Town One South Range Eight East.

Baseline Road was one of the two roads used as an axis for this survey. It identified town notation. Meridian Road, which passes near Lansing, was used to determine range. We are the first unit south of the town line and the eighth unit east of the range line.

The first name given to T.I.S.R.8.E., as it is abbreviated, was Plymouth.

Early settlers met in the home of John Tibbits in February 1827 to select the name and pick officials.

By that date landowners in the portion of the community which became Northville were:

William Bartow, Ansel Deland, Richard Boughton, Ephraim Francis, Orval Stewart, Joseph Yerkes, John Blanchard, Alvah Smith, Alanson Aldrich, Ira Rice, Daniel Cady, Ezekiel Webb, Hiram Fuller, Abraham Leets, Rosecrans Holmes, John Yerkes, Arnold Whipple, William Hubbard, John Dickerson, James Beverly, Henry Whipple, Silas Sly, Salmon Kingsley, Gideon Benton, Abraham Markham, Harvey Bradley, Morris Andrews, Justus Andrews, Gardner Simmons, Constant Simmons, William Yerkes, Paul Hazen, Ebenezer Stewart, John Power, Samuel Sterling, Clement Leach, Rufus Thayer Jr., Philo Taylor, David Crooks, and Philo Crooks. Some of these individuals sold their land without ever coming to the area.

Others came to the region, but settled land in adjoining communities.

Of those individuals, Gideon Benton was the earliest, his land grant being dated Aug. 3, 1823. Benton owned property in Section 10. Sections one through six are between Eight Mile and Seven Mile while seven through 12 are between Seven Mile and Six Mile.

The east/west boundary roads were then and still remain Haggerty and Napier. Therefore, this early Benton property lay between Six Mile and Seven Mile, Northville Road and Taft (if it came through). It contained 240 acres and made up the southeastern portion of section 10.

Benton's land later became part of Edward Hines Park, a portion of which is known as Cass Benton Park.

Cass Benton was a grandson of the early settler. He served as state legislator, county tax commissioner and township supervisor.

Some of the other early settlers will be highlighted in this column in the weeks to come. The Northville Historical Society presents this column each week to keep members of the community informed about activities and events occurring at Mill Race Village which is run by the volunteer, non-profit organization for the good of the community of Northville.

During winter months when activity diminishes this column highlights community history.

Township cops participate in Sumpter hostage standoff

By RANDY COBLE

Staff Writer

Northville Township police took part in the attempted apprehension of an alleged bank robber in Sumpter Township last week - "attempted" because the man was shot dead firing his weapons at police.

He was one of three men who police say held up the Waltz Bank in Huron Township last Tuesday morning. The township is a few miles west of Flat Rock in southern Wayne County.

The three were armed with handguns. They left the bank but were soon spotted by a Sumpter Township police patrolman.

After a brief car chase, the three stopped their vehicle and fled on foot. One of the three was arrested at the scene, and the other two were seen headed into a heavily wooded area nearby, police said.

At about 10 a.m., the men allegedly left the woods and were spotted by another Sumpter Township patrolman. They fired two shots at him but he was not injured.

The men then entered a nearby house, taking a female and her baby hostage. That's when Sumpter police asked for special help from 13 area departments, two federal agencies and the Western Wayne County Special Operations Team (SOT).

The SOT is a six-community cooperative agreement. Northville City and Township, Plymouth City and Township and Canton and Van Buren townships pool money and personnel to respond to critical situations. The team's commander is Northville Township Sgt. John Sherman.

As his SWAT team arrived, "things happened very quickly," Sherman said. "It was all rolling pretty fast."

SOT members, camouflaged to blend in with the nearby woods, took over watching the house from uniformed police. Other officers had already secured the area around the house.

While they were setting up, Sherman said, the woman and her child fled the house, saying that the one man left in the house had fallen asleep on a couch. She also told police that the second suspect had left the house some time before, heading west into the woods.

A Michigan State Police canine unit, FBI SWAT team members and Sherman later tracked him down, finding him hiding in the woods about 150 yards away from the house.

Hostage negotiators, meanwhile, where trying without success to make contact with the man in the house. When that didn't work, SOT members set off a "flash bang" grenade to get his attention and a circling Detroit police helicopter sounded its siren.

That did cause the man to get on the phone with police negotiators to allegedly tell them he would "pop anyone that moves his way."

A few minutes later, the man left the house, armed with two semi-automatic pistols and a semi-automatic AR-15 rifle. A second or so later, he open fired on SOT members. Police returned fire, killing the man. No officers were injured.

His accomplice portrayed the man as extremely dangerous, Sherman said.

"Statements made by the other suspect were that this individual would kill a cop and then himself," Sherman said.

Why did he go outside? No one can be sure

The man knew police were outside, Sherman said, but likely did not realize that they were as close as they were. The bag of money taken from the bank had been left in the home's backyard, he added, and the man may have been trying to retrieve it when the brief gunfight erupted.

Accused stalker will stand trial

By RANDY COBLE

Staff Writer

The man accused of stalking his ex-wife, a Northville Township resident, has been bound over for trial.

The man, a 60-year-old Oak Park resident, faces two charges of aggravated stalking. He will await trial on both from behind bars.

35th District Court Judge James Garber agreed with prosecutors that there was enough evidence to hold the suspect for trial and continued his $250,000 cash bond during Nov. 10 pretrial proceedings. The man continues to be unable to post the bail, and so will remain in the Wayne County Jail.

Aggravated stalking is a felony in Michigan, carrying a maximum prison sentence of five years.

Township police received complaints from the woman in recent weeks.

She said her ex-husband had been repeatedly harassing her by calling, driving by her home and once breaking in. She has two restraining orders against him.

Officers arrested the man on Oct. 14 on the first stalking charge. He pled not guilty, posted a $1,000 cash bail and was released.

He continued to stalk her, the woman told police in two complaints filed after his release. On Nov. 4, township officers arrested the man on a second stalking charge when he appeared at Wayne County Circuit Court for a hearing on the first stalking count.

Educators say program is too politically correct

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Public school 11th graders will try out a reading comprehension year requiring them to compare the ideas in different articles, not just know their content.

But a few members of the State Board of Education worry aloud that the reading passages smack of liberal "political correctness" and lack the literary depth of the classics.

"This is the next generation of MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program)," said Dr. Robert Schiller, superintendent of public instruction. "It's going to be called the High School Proficiency Test.

"We're going to ask students to do more than regurgitate information. They have to absorb and process information."

Board members Nov. 9 examined a model of the reading ("communications Arts") test with three articles. The first was "The Loudest Cheer," about deaf Montreal Expos baseball player Curtis Pride, from a 1994 Sports Illustrated magazine; the second was the 1877 address by Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indians in Washington, D.C., about his tribe's maltreatment by a series of federal officials; the third, "Heroes," was about four women who had performed daring rescues, from a 1994 Women's Day magazine.

Among the 15 comparative questions: What quality describes key people in all three selections? ("Persistent, defiant, obedient, observant.") How did being disappointed by those who should have been supportive affect Pride and Chief Joseph? The women in "Heroes" differed from Curt Pride and Chief Joseph because their actions had to be: "A) spontaneous, B) foolish, C) Continuous, D) Self-serving."

In addition, students will write an "extended response" essay using evidence from all three selections to support their conclusions.

The tests will be scored by a private company, Schiller said. Students and teachers will receive an analysis of the students' strengths and weaknesses but not the marked-up test sheet. Volunteer schools will administer the tests next year, but scores will not be published.

"I see politically correct usage," said board member Marilyn Lundy, R-Detroit, pointing to the adulation given a handicapper, an Indian and four women. "It hit me in the face."

"In my day," she added, "you got the test back and could see where you were weak. I just wonder if parents aren't going to come back - and sue."

"There's a very touchy community relations problem," added member Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit.

The lack of classics bothered member Gary Wolfram, R-Hillsdale, economics professor at a private college. "You could never have read Paradise Lost or Billy Budd or Huckle Finn or Black Beauty and pass this test - easily," he said.

"I share a lot of your concerns," added member Dorothy Beardmore, R-Rochester. "There should be something that indicates they've read a lot of literature."

Replied Schiller, whose staff prepared the sample test:

"This is a reading assessment, not a literature assessment. There is no core of books that all students have read. The passage they read should be something they're not familiar with. If it is (familiar), it's going to bias the test."

Math test to be given to 11th graders

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

"The math test is very challenging, very rigorous," said Michigan's school chief, superintendent of public instruction Robert Schiller.

He was telling the State Board of Education about the High School Proficiency Test that will be tried out next year on 11th grade students. Students will be graded not only on whether they got the right answer "but also on the quality of your thinking as it is reflected in your explanations," say the directions.

This sample requires not only a computation but setting up an equation:

"A basketball player earned three times as much money this year as last year. If his contract this year was for $1.5 million, how much did he earn last year?"

"A) $300,000. B) $500,000. C) $750,000. D) $450,000."

The correct answer is B, $500,000.

The next sample requires not just getting the correct answer but setting up a series leading to the answer.

"Jasmine is doing pushups as part of her exercise program. She did two the first day, three the second day, and five the third day. Each day she wants to do as many pushups as she did on the previous two days combined."

"Based on the information above, how many pushups would she have to do the sixth day? Extend the pattern through day six to support your answer."

The pattern: two, three, five, eight, 13, 21. Jasmine would have to do 21 pushups the sixth day.

The next one represents a certain grim economic reality.

"A company with 3,840 employees must reduce its work force. The table shows the number of employees for each month. At this rate, how many employees will there be in May?"

"December - 3,840.

"January - 3,440.

"February - 3,240.

"March - 3,140.

"April - 3,090.

"May - ?"

Choose the correct answer: A) 1,545. B) 2,340. C) 3,040. D) 3,065.

This newspaper will substitute decimals for fractions because of typesetting problems for this question, but 11th graders should still be able to solve it.

The following is a list of ingredients needed to make two loaves of bread: water 0.5 cup; milk, 0.5 cup; flour 2.5 cups; sugar 2 tablespoons; yeast 1.75 teaspoons.

"How much flour is needed to make three loaves of bread? A) 3 cups. B) 3.75 cups. C) 4 cups. D) 4.75 cups."

Voting precincts show varied voting patterns

Schall's 45 percent. In Northville, Schall came out on top, winning 66 percent of the vote to River's 33.

Here's a detailed look at the figures:

GOVERNOR:

Engler won the township with 78 percent of the overall vote, compared to Democrat Howard Wolpe's 22 percent. Among individual precincts, however, the margins varied from a high of 84 percent (Precinct 6) to a low of 60 percent (Precinct 5). Here are the percentage results for each precinct, listed as Engler-Wolpe:

Precinct 1: 76 to 24.
Precinct 2: 74 to 26.
Precinct 3: 78 to 22.
Precinct 4: 80 to 20.
Precinct 5: 60 to 40.
Precinct 6: 84 to 16.
Precinct 7: 77 to 23.
Precinct 8: 79 to 21.
Precinct 9: 71 to 29.
Precinct 10: 78 to 22.
Absentees: 81 to 19.

U.S. SENATE:

Overall, Abraham scored big in the township, taking 69 percent of the vote, compared to Carr's 26 percent and Coon's 5 percent. The Libertarian had some big fans in Precinct 4, winning a whopping 15 percent of the vote. Carr's biggest fans were in Precinct 5, where he won 43 percent of the vote and where Wolpe got his biggest boost.

Abraham, conversely, scored best in the precinct where Engler got top marks: Precinct 6 with 79 percent of the vote. Here are the percentages, listed in the order of Abraham-Carr-Coon:

Precinct 1: 66 to 26 to 7.
Precinct 2: 61 to 32 to 7.
Precinct 3: 69 to 26 to 5.
Precinct 4: 57 to 23 to 15.
Precinct 5: 49 to 43 to 7.
Precinct 6: 79 to 17 to 4.
Precinct 7: 68 to 27 to 4.6.
Precinct 8: 69 to 24 to 7.
Precinct 9: 61 to 31 to 8.
Precinct 10: 72 to 24 to 4.
Absentees: 75 to 22 to 2.5.

U.S. HOUSE:

Overall, township voters went for Schall by a margin of 69 percent, compared to Rivers' 30 percent.

His support was heaviest in — oddly enough — Precinct 6, where he won 77 percent of the vote.

Rivers had her best day in — you guessed it — Precinct 5, actually winning it by a 50 percent/47 percent margin.

Here are the numbers, listed as Schall-Rivers:

Precinct 1: 67 to 30.
Precinct 2: 64 to 33.
Precinct 3: 69 to 29.
Precinct 4: 49 to 42.
Precinct 5: 47 to 50.
Precinct 6: 77 to 21.
Precinct 7: 67 to 30.
Precinct 8: 68 to 29.
Precinct 9: 60 to 37.
Precinct 10: 71 to 28.
Absentees: 76 to 23.

NORTHVILLE CITY:

The numbers say that the township favored Engler and Abraham slightly more than the city did on election day and that the city's Wayne County precinct is slightly less Republican than its Oakland County counterpart.

In Precinct 1 (Wayne section), the numbers are:

• Governor: Engler 72 percent, Wolpe 28 percent.
• Senator: Abraham 63 percent, Carr 32 percent, Coon 5 percent.
• U.S. Rep.: Schall 63 percent, Rivers 36 percent.

Voting Precincts

Precinct 2 voters cast their ballots in a different U.S. House District. However, in the two statewide races, they voted:

• Governor: Engler 75 percent, Wolpe 25 percent.
• Senator: Abraham 68 percent, Carr 28 percent, Coon 4 percent.

VOTER TURNOUT:

Overall turnout in the township was 55 percent. Some 7,786 of the 14,102 registered voters cast ballots. Of those, 29.4 percent (2,292) were absentees. Here are the precinct-by-precinct turnout percentages:

Precinct 1: 50.
Precinct 2: 31.
Precinct 3: 42.
Precinct 4: 44.
Precinct 5: 42.
Precinct 6: 51.
Precinct 7: 38.
Precinct 8: 35.
Precinct 9: 28.
Precinct 10: 52.

In the city, some 2,915 of the 4,717 registered voters cast ballots: a turnout of 61 percent. Of them, 671 cast absentee ballots: that's 14.2 percent of the total votes cast.

In Precinct 1 (Wayne), the turnout was 58 percent. Of 2,177 registered voters, 1,267 came to the polls.

In Precinct 2 (Oakland), 1,648 of the 2,540 registered voters cast ballots for a turnout of 65 percent.

VERY LITTLE BEATS WALKING

Often, the first impulse of a patient experiencing knee pain due to osteoarthritis is to stay off his or her feet. The fact is, however, that a supervised walking program may be just what the doctor ordered. According to a recent study, published in the Annals of Internal Medicine, people with osteoarthritis of the knee can benefit from a supervised walking program to improve knee function without exacerbating pain or triggering arthritic flare-ups. The study of 100 people (average age - nearly 70) was the largest randomized, controlled trial ever undertaken of people with osteoarthritis of the knee. It showed that, by working up to an 18 percent increase in activity (through walking), patients were able to improve functional ability by 39 percent and reduce arthritis pain by 27 percent.

At NORTHVILLE PHYSICAL THERAPY & REHABILITATION P.C., our registered therapists specialize in returning patients to their highest level of function. Governor John Engler won reelection in a landslide, but his party's gains in the state Legislature were relatively modest.

Township board makes good on millage vow

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A promise made, a promise kept. That can be a rare happening in the world of politics, but it did happen in Northville Township last week.

The township's board of trustees isn't going to levy the general operating millage to which it's entitled under law, keeping its word not to if voters passed Proposals 1 and 2.

As part of the push to get voters to approve the proposals, trustees made a public promise before the Nov. 8 election. The board agreed that if the pair of millage requests passed, it would not assess the 0.728 general operating levy it can impose without a vote of the people.

The millage requests won big nine days ago, by margins of 67 and 63 percent, respectively.

Two days later, the board lived up to its part of the bargain.

At their Nov. 10 meeting, trustees approved the township's tax levy for 1995. It totals 4.32 mills, and none of it comes from the general operating millage.

Under state law, townships are authorized to levy up to 1 mill a year for general operating expenses without a vote of the people. Due to Headlee Amendment roll-backs, however, the most the board could levy for 1995 would have been 0.728 mill. That's equal to about $397,000.

The whole 4.32 mill levy will appear on township property owners' tax bills next month, and will cover all of 1995 in one shot. Included in it are:

- 3.84 mills for public safety (police and fire services), which voters approved with Proposal 1.
- 0.4 mill for the township's share of services it jointly funds

State election, unlike federal, fails to bring major change

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

What changed?

Some 3.1 million Michiganians went to the polls Nov. 8 after being inflicted with multi-millions of campaign ads. They changed very little in state and local government.

Governor? They kept Republican John Engler with his promises of stable school funding and lower taxes. No change.

Secretary of state? Most people don't know what that office does, as even GOP winner Candice Miller admits, and are unaware of how political ideology makes a difference.

Attorney general? Democratic "Eternal general" Frank Kelley is still there, starting his second third of a century. No change.

State Senate? It's still 23-16 Republican. The parties traded one seat, the GOP losing Gil DiNello of Macomb County, Democrats losing the seat of the retiring Bill Faust, D-Westland, to Loren Bennett, R-Canton. Very little change.

State House? Republicans netted one seat, by Jim Ryan of Redford Township, to take 56-54 control. Actually, they have had a philosophical majority for at least four years because many Democrats voted conservative on abortion, tax cuts and auto insurance reform. Little change.

Supreme Court? Justice Conrad Mallett Jr., a Democratic nominee, led the ticket. The GOP hung onto the seat of retiring Republican Robert Griffin. The highest court is still 3-3-1. No change.

State Board of Education? Ah, here is where Republicans can put their stamp on Michigan's most important governmental function. Here is the body that will approve core curriculum standards that were decreed as part of Proposal A. Here is the body that will approve school accreditation standards. Here is the body that actually will implement many of the "quality" slogans that filled the air.

The State Board of Education has the constitutional duty of leadership and supervision of public education — not the Legislature, not local school districts which have no "home rule" power.

Going into the election, the board was 4-4. Republicans picked up two Democratic seats. On paper, it's 6-2 Republican. The philosophical breakdown, however, is a bit different:

Two holdover Republicans with extensive public school backgrounds — Dorothy Beardmore of Rochester (elected) and Katherine DeGrow of Eaton Rapids (Engler appointee).

Four doctrinaire conservative Republicans with no background in public school decision-making: Gary Wolfram, economics professor from Hillsdale College, a hotbed of anti-government ideology, an Engler appointee; Marilyn Lundy, a Detroit whose background is Catholic social services and who doesn't believe students should have the existing constitutional right of free speech; newcomer Sharon Wise, a Republican district chair and co-owner of an Owosso well-drilling business; and newcomer Clark Durant, attorney, former Reagan administration official and founder of a private school in Detroit.

Two holdover Democrats — Barbara Roberts Mason, a teachers union official, and Kathleen Straus, head of a private school in Detroit but with a background in public school lobbying.

"Policy should dominate process" — that's how Engler described the GOP's nomination of Wise and Durant this year.

In short, step 2 in the reform of Michigan public schools, the quality step, is likely to be dominated by state board members lacking public school background. Ironically, it's a body that Engler and others have advocated abolishing.

Street leaf pickup days are numbered in city

Northville residents who've been putting off raking their leaves into the street are running low on procrastination time.

Homeowners have only a few days left to take advantage of the city's fall program before it draws to an end.

Officials are reminding people to rake all leaves to the edge of the street by Nov. 20. The last leaf pickup truck pass-throughs will take place next week.

Beginning Jan. 1, Northville will begin to enforce a new federal law prohibiting the disposal of yard wastes in plastic bags.

From that time forward, all yard waste, including grass clippings and leaves, will have to be placed in compost bags or set into trash cans that can be emptied and left at the curb.

Salvation Army seeks volunteers for annual Red Kettle campaign

While numerous organizations provide hundreds of volunteer bellringers for the Salvation Army's annual Kettle Drive for funds for the needy at Christmas, more volunteers are needed.

Martha Schultz, Community Center Director, points out that when shortages occur in volunteer manpower students or unemployed persons are paid minimum wage to serve as bellringers.

"We'd prefer that all collections go directly to help the needy," she said.

Schultz suggests that anyone wishing to work as an unpaid bellringer volunteer for a few hours call her at 453-05464 or report to the Corps Center at 9451 South Main Street in Plymouth.

Director Schultz reminds area residents that there are many in the local community in need of help, especially at Christmastime. "If you don't have time to give send money that will go directly to help the needy in our home towns," Schultz asks.

A sure sign that Christmas is near is the sound of the Salvation Army's bellringers. This year the annual Kettle Drive seeking contributions to help needy area families begins Monday, Nov. 21, and continues through Dec. 24.

Hundreds of volunteers from more than 50 organizations from the communities of Northville, Plymouth and Canton will participate in the campaign.

Lieutenant Randall Van Landingham, commander of the Corps Center in Plymouth, has set this year's goal at $106,000.

Traditionally, volunteers from the three-community area served by the Plymouth Corps Center have achieved the organization's goal.

A "kettle kick-off" ceremony will be staged at the Army's Community Center, 9451 South Main, Plymouth, at noon on Wednesday, Nov. 23. Invitations have been sent to community officials and the public is invited to attend and enjoy refreshments, hear the music of a brass band and see the unveiling of the goal board and Christmas tree which will record collection returns.

The kettle-collected money is used to provide needy families in the area with food, clothing, toys and gifts at Christmastime and emergency needs throughout the year.

The Salvation Army helped nearly 1,000 people from more than 350 area families last Christmas.

In Northville, William Davis is in charge of arrangements for the Kettle Drive campaign. He is assisted by H.O. Evans and James Wirtz, who is also a member of the Salvation Army's advisory board.

Bellringers will be stationed at the post office, Shopping Center Market, Arbor Drug A&P and Target's on Haggerty near Eight Mile Road.

Last year, volunteers represented the following Northville organizations:

Northville city administration; city fire department; city police; First Presbyterian Church; Methodist Church; Our Lady of Victory Church; VFW; Kiwanis (original) and Kiwanis Early Bird; Northville Historical Society; Mother's Club (life members); Northville Cooperative Pre-School; Northville Record; Tad Evans family; Single Place (Presbyterian Church group); American Legion; Senior Citizens; Jim Frogner family; Northville High School Student Congress; Northville High School National Honor Society; Detroit First Church of the Nazarene; and many individual volunteers

WNIC blood drive coming

For caring blood donors, the day after Thanksgiving means more than cold turkey sandwiches. It means giving the first gift of the holiday season by donating blood at the WNIC-FM Seventh Annual Blood Drive. The event will take place Friday, Nov. 25, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Wonderland Mall on Plymouth Road in Livonia.

According to Dan Waxman, principal officer for the Southeastern Michigan Blood Service Region, the blood drive is scheduled for the day after Thanksgiving because that's when blood needs are the highest.

"On that day most area businesses are closed and unable to sponsor employee blood drives. Red Cross relies on community blood drives like this to meet the blood needs of 54 hospitals in our region."

The process of donating blood takes a little more than an hour and includes registration, a brief medical history, and having pulse, temperature, blood pressure and hemoglobin checked. The actual donation takes about 10 minutes and is relatively pain free.

To schedule an appointment, call 1-800-582-4383.

Libertarian hopeful gets mixed benefit from vote

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

For Libertarian Jon Coon, the news was good but not great.

The third party U.S. Senate candidate drew nearly 128,000 votes and 4.5 percent of the total in his bid against GOP winner Spencer Abraham and Democrat Bob Carr on Nov. 8.

"We needed 1 percent to stay on the ballot and 5 percent to have primary status," Coon said from his Ferndale headquarters. "We easily preserved our ballot status."

Michigan law requires a party to draw 1 percent in order to stay on the next election ballot without conducting a petition drive.

If their candidate at the top of the ticket had drawn 5 percent, Libertarians would have been eligible to conduct a ballot primary in August of 1996, like the Republicans and Democrats. Instead, Libertarians must continue to nominate all their candidates at a convention. That was the disappointing news to Coon.

"We heard exit pollings that had us in double-digits. We knew in some precincts we had 20 percent of the vote. In others we had half of one percent. We're analyzing the precinct-by-precinct figures to figure out why," said the former timber dealer from rural Shiawassee County.

Other Libertarian candidates, however, received only token vote totals.

"We haven't filed our federal report yet, but we raised $200,000. That's more than we've ever raised," Coon said.

Will Coon stay active in the Libertarian cause?

"We're going to target a race for '96. We'll start cranking up the machinery by the end of the month. We'll decide in the next few days what to run for. It might be a Congressional seat," he said.

Libertarians are against big government. They generally appeal to people who are (1) liberal on social issues like regulation and abortion but (2) conservative on fiscal and foreign policy issues.

Meads Mill Middle School

The fourth week in October was Spirit Week for Meads Mill students who earned spirit points by wearing colorful neckties, wearing their clothes backwards and by taking part in other activities designed to spark school and community spirit.

A food drive to benefit Civic Concern was also held as a part of Spirit Week. Sixth, seventh and eighth graders competed against each other for points. Over 1,800 items were collected for Civic Concern. Kristin Gaitley, Andy LeBeau, and Natasha Switolski each brought in the highest number of donated items on the final day of the food drive, winning a lunch at Max & Erma's with Principal Dave Longridge. The seventh grade won the grade competition and was treated with ice cream after lunch. Spirit Week is sponsored by the PTSA.

Meads Mill help a pop rally on Wednesday, Oct. 26. With the band playing and the Patriot Singers singing, the students learned their brand new school fight song written by Adam Baldwin and Matt Shelley. The pep rally was judged a total success.

The Meads Mill annual Turkey Trot was held on Saturday, Nov. 12. Teachers, students, parents and even some grandparents joined in a one mile walk/jog to promote physical fitness and family togetherness. It was an exhilarating event and afterwards all the runners and walkers gathered in the gym for refreshments. Many lucky participants took home fat Thanksgiving Day turkeys that they won in the raffle.

Everyone at Meads Mill is very proud of sixth grader Erin Banner; seventh grader, Katie Doyle; and eighth grader, Alex Banner, who recently competed in the Eastern Great Lakes Regional Figure Skating Competition held at Winterhurst near Cleveland, Ohio. Each skater competed in separate categories with Erin coming in seventh; Katie fourth, and Alex third. These girls practice an average of 10 hours per week and their hard work and dedication has paid off. Congratulations.

Sixth graders at Meads Mill are hard at work studying European culture and are preparing for the Academic Olympics which is just around the corner. The main event will take place Dec. 13.

Seventh graders Caroline Cozza, Leah Sims and Kyle Tinker were chosen as Students of the Month by their team leaders. Congratulations hard working students. Seventh grade students are busy writing essay on alternatives to TV violence, and are gearing up for work on their Adopt-a-Country projects.

Eighth graders recently had an opportunity to try out their engineering skills with the TAM machine loaned to us by the U of D Mercy. They are all immersed in one of the of the historical novels assigned to them relating to the American Revolution and are currently participating in literary discussions about these novels to promote understanding of American culture during this important period in history.

Literary circles are alive and active at Meads Mill allowing students opportunities to discuss books they are reading with staff and parent volunteers. Soon to be included in the literary circles are employees from our business partner, Standard Federal.

Students Taking a New Direction (S.T.A.N.D.) and some members of Mr. Hannewald's class have been planting spring bulbs at Standard Federal. S.T.A.N.D. is a student activity designed to help students with peer pressure and assist them in being of service to the community.

The November PTSA meeting will be held Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. in the Meads Mill "Pit." Included in this special evening will be an overview of the MEAP scoring system as well as valuable information for parents regarding teen drug and alcohol use.

Family Talk.

The doctors at St. Mary Hospital believe that the things that go into making a good family — sharing, cooperation, and close involvement — are the very things that are needed for good medical care. So, we listen to our patients... their thoughts, their concerns, their viewpoints and those of their family. And when we talk to our patients we avoid confusing medical terms and try to be understanding as well as understood.

Besides talking with our patients, we also talk to each other. We share professional experiences and pass on information about new technologies and techniques. We also discuss our patients' care. This exchange of ideas is essential to good medical care, for you, and for your family.

The simple act of talking to each other is an important part of good families. And, at St. Mary Hospital, we think it's an important part of good doctoring.

If you want a doctor who practices medicine as if family matters, call (313) 464-WELL. We'll help you find a physician who fits into your family.

Business education program gets major grant from state

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Northville Public Schools officials announced a bit of news Monday night that should put a smile on the faces of teachers, students and parents.

The Michigan Department of Education has awarded Northville Public Schools a $45,000 grant to enhance its Business Education and Service Learning Partnerships Program.

The program, which is in its fifth year, is geared toward providing educational opportunities and experiences for students through links and partnerships with businesses in the community.

The 1994-95 Learn and Serve-Michigan Grant, is a one-year $45,000 allocation that will help to enhance the educational opportunities for students through the community.

Jan Purtell, director of the program, is excited about the doors the money can help open for students and the community.

"I am very happy about the grant," Purtell said. "Service learning will be an exciting way to go with this, because of the practical experience students will get. They also get a sense of connection with the community and a sense of caring about others."

One example of the business partnership program is a link between the Community Federal Credit Union, 400 E. Main St., with third through fifth grade students at Amerman Elementary School.

Through the Amerman partnership, employees at the credit union help students set up their own credit union. Purtell said the program gives Amerman students experience with handling money and with interviewing, as the students are screened for positions in the school's union.

"It's a wonderful program," Purtell said. "The kids love it and they get involved with hands-on activities."

The interaction between the credit union and Amerman elementary is not just one-way either. To return the service that the credit union employees provide for the students, Amerman children have planted flowers in front of the building, displayed artwork inside and sung Christmas carols to employees during the holidays, Purtell said.

"The students give something back to their partners," she said. "We really try to make it a two-way street."

The grant will help the district focus on the service learning aspect of the program, Purtell said, and expand it to the kindergarten through 12th grade range.

This year, the district has focused on service learning at mainly the high school level. One example of this program is high school students going into the elementary schools and reading to students.

can reenactment for several classrooms of students from the elementary schools complete with costumes they made themselves. Students set up seven stations at the high school that provided information on Native-American culture, history and food.

"Students on both sides had big smiles on their faces," Purtell said. "It was really a nice experience for everybody."

The grant, which was part of a federal grant the state of Michigan received, will also help bring in speakers and educate teachers on how to incorporate the service and business learning into the classroom.

Northville Public Schools received the grant on the basis of the program's success in promoting academic and personal growth for students while addressing the community's human, environmental and educational needs.

"Service learning is an enhancement to what the kids are learning in the classroom," Purtell said. "And it gives them the opportunity to help someone else."

Harvey hops onto stage at NHS

It was originally called the The White Rabbit, but when it opened on Broadway in 1944 Mary Chase's play went by the name of Harvey.

Yes, 50 years ago this classical theater comedy piece opened and was later made into a major, legendary film. Now the play is coming to Northville High School.

Starting tonight at 8 p.m., the high school will present Harvey, with James Currie as Elwood P. Dowd, Kristyn Dunnaback as his sister, Veta Louise, and Meredith Belloli as his niece, Myrtle Mae.

Others in the cast include:

Bernie Tomsa, Andy Comb, Chrissy Kapusky, Matt Seluk, Mary Rivard, Andy Weiss, Melissa Michaelis, Zak Morgan and Lindsay Conquest.

Harvey is directed by Gary E. Sturm, with Beth Patterson acting as assistant director.

The technical director is Mike O'Brian, with Tim Beemer heading the set construction. Mandy Hallberg and Erica Whichello are heading billboards and set decor.

Judy Patton is supervising the costume crew. There are about 40 students involved in the production.

Performances of Harvey are set for 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17, Friday, Nov. 18, and Saturday, Nov. 19. A performance is also scheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, in the Northville High School auditorium.

Tickets are available at the high school box office between 7-7:30 a.m. and 2-3 p.m. and also at the door.

The family invites everyone to spend a performance with them, their friends and the staff at Chumley's Rest. Perhaps you may catch a glimpse of Harvey himself.

William Allan Academy

Preschoolers in the MWF class celebrated autumn with a trip to Erwin Orchards in South Lyon, enjoying a wagon ride, apple and pumpkin picking and concluding their trip by sharing cider and donuts with teachers and parents.

Each class member also selected a very important person to be a special guest for the annual VIP night. This event is always a wonderful opportunity for those who cannot always observe school activities to spend some special time with their preschooler and, of course, the staff as well.

The 4/5 class visited the Ann Arbor Historical Museum paying particular attention to the Indian Dioramas correlating to their studies of Native American history.

Students enjoyed a visit from Mr. Ron Blauet and his furry friends from the Huron Valley Humane Society, and donated numerous blankets and food items for the cause.

First-grade students then had an opportunity to see how their donations are used during their field trip to the Huron Valley Humane Society.

Halloween parties were thoroughly enjoyed by all classes, and then it was back to work and the California Achievement Tests in early November.

Two programs designed to empower students are also under way: Dress Down Day and Special Food Day. For each, students may choose each month to pay 50 cents and at year end students vote as to how the money will be spent.

November promises to be busy with a field trip to BFI recycling for grades 4/5, parent-teacher conferences on Nov. 16, and a full school field trip to the Festival of the Trees and Cobo Hall prior to the Thanksgiving break.

Police nab suspect for drunk driving, hit-and-run

Northville Township police arrested a man for operating a vehicle while under the influence of liquor (OUIL) on Nov. 11. They believe he was involved in a hit-and-run accident which damaged a parked car the same evening.

Police received word that a white pickup had smashed into a 1988 Mercury Topaz in the area of Bradner and Waterfall, then had left the scene without stopping. An officer searching the area a few minutes later saw the man's 1991 white Mazda pickup pulling out of the Six & Park party store on Northville Road.

The vehicle had "extensive damage," the officer said. He stopped the man, who displayed signs of intoxication, the officer added. The man, 36, is a Belleville resident.

Breathalyzer testing at police headquarters showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .22, more than twice the legal limit. He faces a hearing soon in 35th District Court.

WARRANT ARREST: Township police arrested a 21-year-old Detroit man wanted for possession of a controlled substance in Cook County, Ill., one week ago.

A township officer stopped the man's 1977 Pontiac Grand Prix because its license plates had expired. He admitted to never having a driver's license, the officer said, and was arrested.

Working with Livonia police and the Wayne County Sheriffs' Office, police learned of the Illinois warrant. He was cited for the vehicle offenses and turned over to the Sheriffs' office; Illinois officials say they plan to request extradition of the man.

AUTO THEFT: Employees at

McDonald Ford Body Repair and Truck Service Center, 550 Seven Mile Rd., reported to Northville City Police the theft of a 1993 Ford Mustang that was parked in the business' lot overnight for an oil change.

The company still has keys to the vehicle and the owner has the only other set of keys.

Police checked the area and found no evidence of the car's theft.

Police have no suspects at the time and the case remains open.

ATTEMPTED AUTO THEFT: A South Lyon man told township police someone tried to steal his car on Nov. 7, causing $175 in damage.

The unknown thieves broke into his car as it was parked on the shoulder of Seven Mile near Haggerty, the man said, breaking a window and a mirror and damaging the ignition. They also stole the car's radio and some chains, which are valued at $300.

WINCHESTER DAMAGED: Winchester Elementary officials told township police that someone during Nov. 4-7 broke a window in the school's auditorium. The damage is estimated at $200.

BURGLARY: An unoccupied model home in an under-construction Northville Township subdivision was broken into on Nov. 8. Unknown thieves made off with a generator and other construction materials from the home's garage. The generator is valued at $2,000.

LARCENIES APLENTY: Township police arrested several individuals for shoplifting at Meijer during a four-day period last week.

• On Nov. 9, a 29-year-old Canton man was placed under arrest for the theft of a wall switch timer and a rechargeable battery pack, police said. The items are worth $45.

• An 18-year-old Farmington Hills man allegedly stole a micro stereo system and a small color TV the next day. The items are valued at $370.

• A 29-year-old Detroit man was arrested the next day for allegedly stealing a $180 mixer by switching the price tag on it with a cheaper one then paying that price for it. A computer check found an outstanding warrant for the man's arrest from Allen Park; he was held at township police headquarters for Allen Park police.

• A 35-year-old Detroit man was arrested the day after that for allegedly trying to make off with $130 worth of batteries, bed sheets and pillowcases.

All face hearings soon in 35th District Court.

OUIL: Township police arrested a 23-year-old Redford man for drunken driving on Sunday.

The man admitted to drinking "two or three beers" that evening when stopped. Breathalyzer testing later at police headquarters showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .16, above the legal limit.

He faces a hearing soon in 35th District Court.

LARCENY FROM A BUILDING: Residents of a home on Horton reported to Northville City Police the theft of a $385 boy's mountain bike from their garage.

When residents discovered the bike missing, the garage door was left open.

There were no signs of forced entry and police have no suspects at this time.

MARIJUANA: Township police arrested an 18-year-old Brighton man for use and possession of marijuana on Friday.

The reporting officer, in the case said that he was passing Waterfall Road near Northville Road at about 3 a.m. that morning when he saw a 1987 Dodge Omni with its dome light on.

As he approached, the officer said, the light went off and the car began to pull away, then stopped when he shined his spotlight. When he spoke with the driver, he detected an odor of burning marijuana, the officer said.

When confronted, the driver admitted to having marijuana. A baggie of the substance was found on him, the officer said, along with pipes, hemostat clamps and rolling papers.

The man faces a hearing in 35th District Court soon.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY: A Waterfall Road resident told township police on Nov. 9 that someone had tried to break into his garage within the last month.

The homeowner said that he was outside doing some fall cleanup in his yard when he saw pry marks and other damage on the side door to his garage. Nothing appeared to be missing, the man said, and he knew the door was not like that one month ago.

The damage is estimated at $20.

LARCENY: Two 16-year-olds were arrested for larceny last week by Northville Township police.

A township resident called police, saying she was afraid some youths her daughter had let into their home may have stolen something. A township officer soon found the four, on foot nearby.

One admitted to stealing a ring from the home, the other to taking liquor, the officer said.

The two were taken to police headquarters and their parents were called. One is from South Lyon, the other from New Hudson.

OUIL: A 26-year-old Northville man was arrested for drunken driving last Friday after he turned the wrong way down Mary Alexander Court, a one-way road.

The Northville City Police officer followed the man at about 40 mph east down Main Street, a 25 mph zone, and pulled him over.

The man's speech was slurred and his eyes were red and watery. The man admitted to having "a couple of beers" to the officer.

A Breathalyzer test revealed that the man's blood-alcohol content was .15 percent. .10 is considered legally drunk.

The man was arrested and posted a $100 cash bond. He was released upon sobering up.

A preliminary hearing was set for 35th District Court.

Citizens with information about any of the above incidents are asked to call township police at 349-9400 or city police at 349-1234.

Township man accused of assaulting officer

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Northville Township resident this week was convicted of assaulting a police officer and of driving under the influence of alcohol.

The man, 48, has had contact on three occasions this year with township police, the most recent incident giving rise to the assault charge.

In January, members of the Western Wayne County Special Operations Team (SOT) arrested the man after being called to the scene on reports that he was suicidal.

The man's sister said she was afraid he would kill himself. Police found the man lying on his bed in dress clothes, asleep.

Next to his head was a loaded .357 magnum revolver. He admitted to drinking wine and taking sleeping pills. The gun, he told police, was "for his protection" so that he could "shoot anyone he didn't know" who came into his home.

In April, the man was arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol (OUIL) after being stopped on Seven Mile.

Breathalyzer testing showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .02, twice the legal limit.

In September, township police received a report that the man was at another township man's home, threatening him.

The homeowner said that the man at one point bumped him repeatedly with his chest, saying "I'm going to kick your a--."

"You're not going to take me, no way," police say the man claimed as they attempted to arrest him. He resisted arrest, they said, striking ing an officer at one point as he broke an arm free of a policeman's grasp.

The man was arraigned on charges of OUIL, assault and battery, assault on a police officer and obstructing a police officer while performing his duties.

During proceedings at 35th District Court on Tuesday, the assault and battery and obstruction charges were dropped.

The man was fined $110 for the assault on the police officer and pled guilty to a lesser charge of driving while impaired. He will be sentenced for that next week.

Fast action leads to arrest of two suspected of B&E

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The two Livonia youths probably thought they'd have no trouble breaking into the old Fairweather Building at Five Mile and Sheldon on Monday night. After all, it was dark and the place is abandoned.

They didn't bank on Northville Township police Lieutenant Gary Batzloff, however, whose sharp eyes and quick thinking led to their arrest.

Daniel Richard MacDonald and Gregory Richard Waltz, both 17 and from Livonia, pled guilty on Tuesday when arraigned on charges of trespassing and malicious destruction of property in connection with the incident. 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald fined them each $250 for the trespass charge.

They're being considered for probation on the destruction of property count and will be formally sentenced on Nov. 22. The two are expected to be required to pay for the damages they caused to the Fairweather, which one estimate put at $825.

Seven officers from three communities worked together in the apprehension. It began when Batzloff, off-duty at the time, happened to be cruising by the building at about 10 p.m.

He spotted a 1989 Plymouth Sundance parked near the Fairweather. Batzloff, driving an unmarked patrol car assigned to him, killed his headlights and pulled up to have a look. He saw MacDonald and Waltz in the building's lobby, long metal pipes in their hands. The two had entered the building by smashing the glass out of a south set of doors with the pipes, police said.

Batzloff then called for backup over the car's police radio, bringing an officer from Plymouth City, two from Plymouth Township and three more Northville Township officers to the scene. They took up positions around the building as he and a township patrolman went in after MacDonald and Waltz.

When they heard the two officers, the youths fled, leaving the building from the east, where two more officers were waiting. They were arrested and taken to township police headquarters. A township detective then took over the case. He said that the two soon admitted to the break-in.

Tribute in honor

It was solemn time of reflection as the valor of all veterans was recalled in Armistice Day ceremonies at VFW Post 4012 Friday. Left, Gordon Mason, VFW Commander, and Walter Juterbach, Post Chaplain, pause in prayer for those who've made the ultimate sacrifice. Above, VFW Past Commander Clayton Myers salutes crisply in honor of soldiers who have defended the country in battles abroad.

Sign up for kids' holiday workshop

Children in grades one through six can solve their holiday gift idea dilemmas by signing up for the Christmas workshop sponsored by the Northville Historical Society.

The 16th annual workshop will be held Saturday, Dec. 3, at New School Church in Mill Race Village. The event provides a great opportunity for children to make handmade gifts they can surprise their relatives with on Christmas day.

Two sessions will be offered. 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

Because parents are not supposed to get a sneak peak at the gifts, they are asked to pick their children up at Wash Oak School in the Village.

The workshops will accommodate up to 150 children.

Sign up for the workshop will take place at 218 W. Dunlap. The cost is $10 per child. Cash or checks made out to the Northville Historical Society are acceptable.

Pie pig out

Winchester Elementary School Principal Kathy Morhous showed she was no slouch when it came to competing as an equal with the children in the pie eating contest during the school's fall social last month. More than 60 participants took part in the contest, including children, parents and staff. In addition to gorging themselves on frothy goodies, those attending the social also heard scary stories and were served cider and donuts from the Student Council. Organizers are thanking Mary Ann Miller, Pat Barent, Pam Burke, Tracy Lempke, Gail Karoub, Susan Brattina, Judy Manarina, Linda Daul, Kathy Duffield, Pat Etzel, Nancy Schieb, Jackie Bennett and Connie Cylkowski, as well as others who worked behind the scenes.

The Northville Record

children, senior citizens and people with coronary or respiratory problems are most susceptible to the gas. If large enough amounts are accumulated in the body, however, brain damage and death can occur in anyone.

The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are similar to those of the flu and include dizziness, confusion, fatigue, headaches, shortness of breath and nausea.

On Nov. 7, one day before Sandra Myers was found at her home on Carrington, her son Stephen Myers stopped by to take her to the doctor. According to a report from the Northville City Police Department, she had been suffering from headaches and nausea.

Large amounts of carbon monoxide were later found in her body.

A supervisor of Stephen's from work found Sandra dead the next day and discovered Stephen, 24, gravely ill. Stephen was transported to the hospital where he was treated for carbon monoxide poisoning. He survived.

When Northville City Police arrived at the scene they found that the chimney stack leading from the gas water heater in the basement was completely rotted away and was the likely source of the leak.

Northville City Police Chief Rodney Cannon said the tragedy could have been prevented had the heater been repaired.

"It was apparent that maintenance was not a matter of priority in the house," Cannon said.

Police found seven dead and at least nine surviving cats in the home. Animal urine and feces were also discovered throughout the home. All the utilities were immediately shut off and the house was condemned as an unsafe structure by the Northville Building Department.

Mick Kruszewski, head building inspector for the city, said he has been in contact with several of Myers' relatives to determine what should be done with the estate.

"We feel we need to give the people a chance to bring the house up to code," Kruszewski said.

The faulty water heater can be fixed, Kruszewski said, but clean up of the home will be difficult.

"The only way to get all the smell out of there would be to completely gut the whole house," he said. "The walls, the floor, all of the cabinetry and the basement would have to be gutted."

Kruszewski has been in contact with officials in Oakland County for advice on how to deal with the situation. If no family members take responsibility for the home, then the house could be demolished, he said.

Since the time of the incident, police have received several calls from neighbors saying they have seen at least five surviving cats on the window sills of the home.

"Neighbors have called with concerns about the welfare of the remaining cats, and we are concerned too," Cannon said.

The Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society, the group that came into the home to remove the surviving cats, returned Tuesday and rescued three of the cats and set live traps for the remaining ones. The group will return later in the week to retrieve the remaining living cats.

Neighbors at the scene said they had been somewhat aware of the home's poor condition and said that on some days a stench from the house was detectable from the sidewalk.

Chief Cannon said the department had not received any phone calls from neighbors about the condition of the home prior to the woman's death.

The postal carrier for the neighborhood said he would often have to hold his breath while delivering mail to the house because of the odor.

Chris Hacker, a supervisor at the United States Post Office in Detroit, said there are no formal procedures obligating postal carriers to report unusual activity or suspicious circumstances in a home.

"It's really up to their own discretion," Hacker said. "We have come across cases like these. However, it's a judgment call."

Carbon monoxide leaks are different than natural gas leaks, and result from incomplete combustion in furnaces due to a lack of adequate ventilation, fuel or heat.

Charles Ely, of Ely Fuel Oil Co., 316 N. Center, stressed the importance of having gas heaters maintained annually. Clogged, cracked or rusted smoke stacks leading from furnaces and water heaters, or heaters that are located in closets or backed into corners without proper ventilation are frequent causes of gas leaks, he said.

Homeowners can call in the gas company to check for any natural or carbon monoxide leaks. However, it is important to have furnace company representatives come in and check for any potential problems periodically, Ely said.

Placing heaters in closets or back in corners where there could be inadequate ventilation is a problem often experienced in new homes, Ely said. Special equipment can be installed that connects to the outside of the home to bring in more oxygen to alleviate a problem of inadequate ventilation.

"Just use a little caution," he said. "As long as you keep cognizant of what's going on, and keep cognizant of maintaining furnaces and water heaters, you should be okay."

Over firing or under firing of a heating unit or an improper amount of gas in a furnace can also result in a leak.

Although fuel burning furnaces and gas water heaters are major sources of carbon monoxide, clogged or leaking chimneys, space heaters, gas ranges, clothes dryers, gas barbecues and automotive exhaust are also sources.

Another precaution homeowners can take besides maintaining all gas burning appliances in the home is to install carbon monoxide detectors.

Detectors can be purchased at most hardware stores and work much like a smoke detector. Detectors cost approximately $50, depending on the brand, and are either battery operated or can be plugged in to an electrical outlet. The bedroom is a good location for a detector, Ely said.

Another type of detector is a one-time patch that can be used if a homeowner suspects there may be a leak in a certain area of the home. The patches cost about $6.

Area seniors will participate in the big parade

Novi High School seniors Shannon Colligan and Darlene Galido will march in the 1994 Parade Honors Corp in the 68th Annual Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit.

The specialty unit features the best and the brightest band students from 98 high schools in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties.

Press information from Blue Cross Blue Shield, the group sponsoring the event, said a panel of 61 school superintendents selected corp participants. Those selected must carry a grade point average of 3.0 or better and be involved in extra-curricular activities.

Colligan and Galido more than exceed those objectives.

Colligan, the daughter of Dennis and Joanne Colligan of Northville, is a clarinet player in Novi High School's Symphonic band and a color guard in the school's marching band. She carries a 4.0 grade point average on the school's honor roll, is a national chemistry Olympiad, a National Merit Commendation Academic Letter, a member of the Academic Bar and the activities director for the Novi's National Honor Society. She is also part of the French Club.

Colligan earned an A-rating at the state solo and ensemble festival. She is a student athletic trainer, a tutor and a Novi Parks and Recreation volunteer.

Colligan works part-time at Eddie Bauer in the Twelve Oaks Mall.

Galido, is the daughter of John and Theresa Galido of Novi. She also carries a 4.0 grade point average and is included on the honor roll. Galido also earned a National Merit Commendation Academic Letter, is a member of the Academic Bar, and National Honor Society.

She is treasurer of the high school student council and president of the school's chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving. Galido is secretary of the Interact Club at the school and has worked for the Meadowbrook Veterinary Clinic and Living Science Foundation. She is currently employed in the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

Both students intend to attend a four-year university. Colligan plans to pursue a degree in physical therapy. Galido plans to get an undergraduate degree in biology and then go on to medical school.

Merchants to kick off season

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

With Thanksgiving one week away and Hanukkah and Christmas just around the corner, the holiday season will begin to kick into high gear soon.

The Northville community and downtown merchants will usher in the holiday season this Sunday afternoon with its annual Christmas Walk.

Sunday, Main Street will be decorated in holly and jingle-bell finery for the first time this year to provide a proper setting for Santa Claus's grand entrance into the city.

The walk, which has been a tradition in Northville for at least the past 20 years, will have downtown shops open all afternoon while serving snacks and refreshments and featuring several early-holiday sales.

Local non-profit organizations will be outside fending off the year's quickly forming frost selling such holiday treats as figgy pudding, pumpkin bread and decorative ivy.

Students from the Meads Mill Middle School choir will serenade strolling pedestrians from the bandshell with holiday carols at 1 p.m.

The Main Street clock will also be entertaining passers-by with its recently repaired chiming mechanism that plays several holiday tunes at the top of each hour.

Jolly ole Saint Nicholas will arrive in a horse-drawn sleigh at noon Sunday to listen to children's Christmas wishes.

Every Saturday and Sunday until Christmas, Santa Claus will be in his special house located at the bandshell from noon to 3 p.m. to perch children of all ages onto his lap and ask them what they would like to see under the tree this year.

Santa and Northville kids will enjoy a new home this year as local businesses and community members donated money for a new home with real doors and windows at the bandshell.

Laurie Marrs, director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, urges anyone ready to slip into the holiday frame of mind and get some early shopping done to come by and enjoy the event.

Currently, employees at the Department of Public Works are diligently preparing to deck the halls of Main Street, including the bandshell, with holiday lights, holly, bells and bows.

Donations from Northville businesses and community members pay for the decorations and make sprucing up the city possible.

Arts series schedule set with three topics planned

The Northville Arts Commission is sponsoring the Michael Farrell 1995 Lecture Series, entitled "Our Living Tradition: Three Contemporary Realist Painters."

Farrell, associate professor of Art History at the University of Windsor, adjunct curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts and instructor at the Art House of Detroit, is a recognized art authority.

His first lecture on Jan. 12 will present the works of Canadian Artist Alex Coleville, who captures the grandeur of everyday life.

On Feb. 2 the works of American artist Alex Katz, who combines photographic realism with a mannered and deliberate simplicity, will be featured.

The third lecture, featuring

Chilean Claudio Bravo, a painter, draughtsman sculptor and lithographer, will take place on March 30. All lectures will be held in the Northville High School Forum.

Only season tickets are available in advance of the season at $21 per series. For further information, contact Joann Dayton at 347-9664.

Our Opinion

Township voters show good judgment at polls

Northville community officials have rested a lot easier since Nov. 8, the date township residents approved two millage requests at the ballot box. Proposal 1, 3.84 mills for public service, will provide funding for the township's police, fire, dispatch and emergency medical services. Proposal 2, 0.4 mill for shared services, will furnish revenue for senior services, youth assistance and parks and recreation - programs the township and city operate jointly.

The millages passed handily. Proposal 1 got a 67 percent affirmative vote, while Proposal 2 received a 63 percent positive response. Both millage requests also appeared on the Aug. 2 primary ballot and were narrowly turned down by voters at that time, in spite of the fact that the levies involved only minor tax increases and were meant to provide funding for essential services.

But it isn't township and community officials who should be breathing the sigh of relief following last week's vote. It's the residents of Northville Township. Without the public safety tax, there was a very real possibility that police and fire services would have shut down, placing the burden of protecting the township in the hands of county and state officials. Given that rather alarming scenario, it's a wonder even 33 percent of the voters said no.

And without the shared services millage, programs that most communities consider basic would have been drastically curtailed. The city could have continued paying for senior, youth and recreation programs on its own, but the quality of those services would have been seriously compromised. Again, it's a little surprising such worthwhile programs were rejected by even 37 percent of the voters.

Many residents, angry over the lack of cooperative effort on the part of their elected leaders, said they were sending a message by turning the millages down on primary election day. Two other requests, one for capital improvement revenue and one to finance open space acquisition, also failed at the polls.

While we appreciated the frustrations of residents, we felt such a protest was inappropriate. The August millages, we believed, were responsible and reasonable, and we urged reconsideration by the citizenry if township officials came back to voters a second time with the request. They did, and, fortunately, clearer heads prevailed.

We agree that township residents deserve a better quality of government than they are currently getting from township hall, if indeed that's the main reason the millages failed in August.

But there are more appropriate avenues for the expression of disapproval. Attend township board meetings, write to your elected representatives, send letters to the editor, insist that officials cast aside their personal agendas.

But don't jeopardize the very services that help make the township such a livable place.

Still viable after all these years

Lee Snider

Last year at about this time, it was Northville Pharmacy that folded. This year it's Lapham's. A few years ago, it was Fredyl's Cleaners, then Black's Hardware.

There aren't too many family-run businesses of long standing left in the downtown, and you have to wonder: Is the small town approach to business still viable? In this day of mega malls and multiple-acre shopping complexes, is it still possible to get a warm smile and a first-name greeting when you walk into a place to browse or buy? Will you still hear the bell jingle above the door when you step inside, or are you liable to trip the computerized alarm system the hired hand forgot to deactivate?

It's a troubling question that you don't feel fully confident asking, fearful of the likely answer.

But consider this. Of all the businesses in the immediate downtown, there isn't one - not one - that has corporate ownership, says Chamber of Commerce Director Laurie Marrs. Fact is, we've got more moms and pops here than an elementary school picnic.

According to Marrs, there isn't enough room in this space to list all the downtown Northville businesses that are run by father/son, mother/daughter or husband/wife teams. Those that aren't family operations are usually headed up by a couple of pals who trace their friendship back to high school.

Just some of the stores that are examples of what we're talking about: Sandle's Hallmark, Crawford's Bakery, Traditions, Salutations, Fleet Feet, Joe's Sports Shop, Great Harvest Bread Company, Kitchen

Witch, Caffe Bravo, Town and Country Cyclery, Long's Plumbing, the Liquor Shoppe, Williamsburg Inspirations, Genitti's, D & D Bicycle, Northville Diamond Jewelers, Goldsmith Galleries, Orin Jewelers, Renee's Chocolates, Stampeddler Plus, Margo's Hair Salon, Unique Toys and Gifts ...

I could go on and on but you get the picture. When it comes to small, family-style businesses, downtown Northville wrote the book.

Of course, there's more to a shopping district than the friendly face you're apt to see behind the counter. Stores have to offer high-demand goods and services and must be able to compete with the big name operations.

Here the picture becomes a little murky. Depending on whom you talk to, downtown Northville is either a whirlwind of commercial activity or the functional equivalent of the quiet room at the public library. I've heard both extremes and just about everything in between.

Having no hard figures with which to make a certain case, I can only offer the evidence of my own eyes and ears (and they've been known to fail before). But, based on what I see in my comings and goings at the office, there doesn't seem to be any shortage of traffic around town, either of the foot or vehicular variety.

Newspaper people keep weird hours and it isn't unusual for me to leave the office at 10 p.m. on a Friday or to arrive to get some work done at 1 o'clock on a Saturday. No matter, there's always a ton of people downtown. More than once, I've had to resort to parking on the neighborhood street.

If Northville's dying or losing its competitive edge, it's an awfully slow process. Undeniably, the downtown's changing. But it survives.

Enough election vows, fix the roads already

The 1994 campaign is over and now it's time for Michigan Republicans and Democrats to talk about the issue they shunned like the plague for the past four years.

Our roads and bridges are still in embarrassingly bad shape. Nothing short of a fuel tax increase can produce the revenue to do the work.

And Gov. John Engler knows it. His reelection campaign emphasized 11 tax cuts. "Tax," in his lexicon, was a dirty word. But late in October, he began to admit the truth of what western Wayne County drivers have known for several years, that a fuel tax increase has to be an option.

Four years ago, Engler put Patrick Nowak, our Oakland County neighbor, to work as director of the Department of Transportation with orders to squeeze as much as possible out of the budget. Nowak followed orders, adding technology, privatizing some maintenance functions, and paring costs by $115 million. MDOT has been resurfacing a record 1,000 miles of roads per season.

After 20 years of delay, the state opened up an expanded Haggerty Road in Oakland. Good - no question. I-94 near Metropolitan Airport was brought up to date, and a new surface was applied to much of I-275 in Livonia. Good - no question.

In Wayne County, CEO Ed McNamara applied blacktop to a lot of county mile roads, with informative billboards asking us to tolerate the interruptions. Good - no question.

Yet more is needed.

- The Haggerty-Seven Mile intersection between Livonia and Northville Township is the scene of continuous commercial, office and hotel development and needs more attention, particularly with the huge exodus of traffic from nearby I-275.

- Ford Road in Canton needs to have its traffic capacity increased.

- Traffic lights need a lot of attention. Wayne County is 30 years behind in installing delayed left-turn signals. We have yet to see computerized traffic signals that vary the length of red lights depending on the time of day.

- Most western Wayne mile roads have ill-timed red lights that frustrate drivers, prompt them to speed up and result in many collisions.

Although we've seen progress, the overall amount of money available from the state for trunklines, county roads and municipal streets is still inadequate.

Wayne County was getting $28 million a year from a transportation economic development fund that was designed by Oakland lawmakers and has yielded Oakland $105 million a year. And anyone who has traveled the mid-Michigan farm belt knows their county roads are in better shape than county roads in the metropolitan area.

We can afford a fuel tax increase. Michigan's fuel tax burden actually has grown lighter over the years - 0.43 percent of personal income in 1982 versus 0.34 percent in 1992, according to Public Sector Consultants Inc. of Lansing. Fuel tax revenues went up 7.1 percent as our incomes rose 81.7 percent.

Chief reason is more fuel efficient vehicles. In 1978 federal CAFE (corporate average fuel economy) standards were 18 miles per gallon for passenger autos. By 1992 the auto standard was 27.5 mpg.

Yes, more people are using light trucks instead of autos as personal vehicles. But even the light truck CAFE standard is 20.2 mpg, higher than the auto standard used to be.

We called on the state to quit its political posturing a year ago and raise the fuel tax. At that time, fuel prices had been flat around $1 a gallon for regular for a long time. That would have been the best time to act. But politicians' jobs are more important under the tan dome in Lansing than our road needs, so the job didn't get done.

Well, the election is over. Engler has his second four-year term and says he won't seek a third term. It's a no-risk proposition for him. He and lawmakers should do the job that everyone knows needs to be done: Hike the fuel tax, pour more into our transportation infrastructure, and quit worrying about political posturing.

At last, meaning in the holidays

Sharon Condron

Two weeks ago, I didn't think I'd be looking forward to the holidays ... but I've changed my mind.

It seemed as though the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays were just coming too quickly to have time to enjoy them. But now I'm armed with the right mindset and ready to go.

First things first. Let's get Thanksgiving over and done with. It sounds awful I know but I've never been one who looks forward to setting aside a whole day to pig out and be thankful for it.

Call me a cynic.

Don't get me wrong, I have a lot to be thankful for. I just don't need the pomp and circumstance of Thanksgiving Day to appreciate all those things. I'd rather live each day the way I do now, thankful for the hand life has dealt me and the ability to cope with things that didn't always go my way.

Take for example the passing of my father. It was six years ago but when the holidays roll around it seems like yesterday. I still remember him getting up at the crack of dawn to stuff the bird and get it in the oven.

At dawn's first light on Thanksgiving, he's always come looking for me. He'd roll me out of bed and tell me he needed my help tossing the stuffing.

I bought into it until last year when I cooked my first bird and learned it really is a one-person job. I smiled last week when I thought of doing it again this year.

I've learned to look forward to Christmas without him because that's the day that meant the most to him. He took pleasure in readying the house for the holidays. When it came time to put up the outdoor lights, Dad always came looking for me.

"I need your help," he would say as he unfolded the ladder.

We would talk about nothing in particular and everything that mattered. Back then, they were one and the same. Before I knew it, it was dusk and all the lights were hung. He would tap me on the back of the head and tell me to flip the switch. When the lights came on, we would stand back and smile.

Feeling pleased, we'd put the tools and ladder aside and go our own ways. Nothing else needed to be said.

Trimming the tree was always the same Christmas Eve day ritual in our house. Once again, it was Dad and I who put the lights on the tree. After that, his job was done. He'd prop himself up in his recliner and watch the rest of us decorate the tree. Every once in a while, he'd point out a hole. He was good at that. Good at delegating. It was annoying.

It's been six years since Dad died. The first few Christmases were tough ones. His Dec. 30 birthday never makes it much easier. But I've learned a lot in six years. I've learned to remember the good times and appreciate the vivid memories I still have of him. I see his face and still hear his laughter.

This year, I've learned the most important lesson of all. Dad never needed my help stuffing the bird or stringing the lights - he just wanted it.

I'm thankful for that.

Don't put complex in my back yard

Regarding the proposed sports center on Six Mile and Beck: We are residents of Northville and are very against the building of such an arena in our neighborhood. We feel this would be very disruptive to our city. The reason we chose to live in this city was because of its quiet and peaceful atmosphere.

We have two children ages 14 and 15 and are very active in sports. That's not to say all activities have to be so convenient that they would have to be in our back yard.

There are many commercial areas to build restaurants, bars and parking lots. We have invested our life savings in to our home, and want to live in a residential area, not a busy intersection.

Don't change zoning ordinance

To the Editor:

We object to changing the single family dwelling classification in the zoning ordinance to permit commercial sports centers and to approval of the Hamilton sports complex.

By changing the zoning ordinance the township would be providing a loophole for anyone to build a sports complex and add on restaurants, bars and banquet halls in a single family residential area.

With respect to the Hamilton sports complex, those township residents who live at the perimeter of the complex will have to endure the noise and lights of a 525 car parking lot serving a 50,000 square foot complex that is open 24 hours a day.

Those township residents who live in the vicinity of the complex (Blue Heron Pointe, Fox Hollow, Glen Meadows and Crestwood Hills) will be confronted with more traffic snarls on Beck Road.

Currently a continuous line of traffic backs up between Six and Seven Mile roads during peak hours. We feel that situating the sports complex on Beck Road, which is open 24 hours a day, will exacerbate the problem.

One should also note that Beck Road is the only paved thoroughfare that connects I-96 to M-14, other than US 23 and I-275. For this reason, we feel that township officials should be sensitive to development along Beck Road and the volume of traffic it will attract.

Perhaps serious consideration could be given to a smaller, township owned facility at Five Mile and Sheldon roads. This facility would give the township better control over ice time than a shared, privately owned facility.

Center would harm community

To the Editor:

Two years ago we moved to Michigan and chose Northville as our home. The major attraction was the community spirit and perceived focus by the town on building a family oriented community.

What I find so disturbing about the proposal to rezone and build a skating arena on Beck and Six Mile is the "willingness" to sell out the families for an obvious commercial venture. We invested here, chose a home here, fully expecting to watch Northville grow with increased emphasis on family values.

Why would Northville sell off its image as a place to invest a family's life savings and to raise a family for a high risk venture in retailing? We chose Hills of Crestwood to make a home and a place for investment because of the appropriate zoning around this area. It's conceivable the town would take an action that negatively impacts so many people for the welfare of one. This is especially so with all the vacant property along the much traveled I-275 and M-14. What would be more appropriate for this type of facility?

Please help make this nightmare go away and refocus the town officials on providing a safe and prosperous community for families to invest and live.

Mr and Mrs. James Mavel

I like small town country living

To the Editor:

Please do not allow or accept the proposed new zoning ordinance regarding the single family dwelling classification which would permit the proposed sports center at the Beck/Six Mile area.

I moved to Northville Township over seven years ago and built my retirement home. I wanted the small town country living that came with the township. There is no reason a sports center and associated bars and restaurants will be beneficial to my neighborhood!

As I read The Record all the support that Mr. Engelland is providing for this I really question his motives (and sometimes who seems to be supporting it). He is quoted as saying the town has nothing going for it and that this would be a fabulous "amenity" (and I question how a bar(s) can be attractive to the skating enthusiasts and be an amenity).

However, if a sports center were to be considered, it belongs over by Haggerty and a mile road, so that the public can get to it and not disrupt the residents.

I am pleading with you, as a representative of my neighbors and myself, to muster all your forces to defeat any plans to consider the sports center at this location.

Article was disrespectful

To the Editor:

In last Thursday's edition of The Record you printed an article about the tragic death of longtime Northville resident Sandra Myers. This article was written with no consideration and completely without respect for the Myers family.

There was no mention of survivors nor was it explained that Mrs. Myers had just lost her husband last year. The article was entitled, "Gas leak kills one in home," and should have been written about just that. It should have focused on the loss of one human life and the struggle for another. The picture which accompanied this piece was not one of the victim or her son. It was of an underworked, overpaid police officer who had to get his hands dirty. Of course, the picture had to be large enough to fit in the "condemned" sign.

The real tragedy here is the Myers family, not the individuals mentioned in your article. We don't despair for the police who had to wear boots and masks into a "cesspool." In fact, we are all curious to know where anybody at The Record has been in their life to know exactly what a cesspool is. We don't feel sorry for the neighbors or for the postal worker who had to hold his little nose. What that guy ought to do is keep his nose in his own business.

Thankfully, Steve is going to recover and was released this past weekend. This young man, perhaps the nicest guy you could ever know, is now out of the hospital. The first thing he had to do was bury his mother and take on the responsibilities for her estate. Now he'll begin the painful process of dealing with the fact that he has lost his entire family, through no fault of his own. The last thing he needs is to open his home town paper and see an article like that.

That type of slanderous, disrespectful sensationalism has no place in a small town like Northville. I hope people will see that.

Any novice reporter could tell a town about a horrible accident which claimed one life and destroyed another. I know 5-year-olds that could write such an article with more compassion and I know 10-year-olds that could edit it with more skill. Perhaps you should raise your standards. It doesn't take a Ph.D. in psychology to be able to put yourself in someone else's shoes.

My heart, and many like mine, go out to my friend Steve. I pray that he never sees your article of mine.

Anyone who wishes to help Steve, please send donations to: To Sandy Myers Memorial, American Legion Post 147, 100 West Dunlap, Northville, MI 48167.

Paper acted like tabloid rag

To the Editor:

This is in response to your insensitive, scathing and distasteful article that was published in your "rag sheet" after the unfortunate death of Sandra Myers.

Who in your employ has the right to be so judgmental? Is it someone that has aspirations of working for the Star or the Enquirer, someone that is otherwise known as a "wannabe"?

Every American citizen has the inalienable right to live in their home as they choose. The person that allowed that article to be printed wants to hope that there are no skeletons in their closet, i.e., wife beating, child molestation, etc., and, if there are that person should hope that they are immortal. Chickens always come home to roost.

How do you justify the additional pain that you have inflicted on the many people that knew, cared for and loved Sandy? Did you invest any time to learn of her many accomplishments? It appears not.

Do you have the decency and/or nerve to print this or are you afraid that this may be too "ho-hum" to let you achieve your sales quota?

JoAnn Holland
P.S. Would it make you feel better if I copied inside Edition?

Record sank to new low

To the Editor:

Having been a lifelong resident of this community, I have often times taken civic pride in the professional manner in which the local press has reported local news. A small community which is growing in a consistent manner is dependent upon the local media to inform the citizenry of local events and happenings in a manner which is responsible, informational and in good taste to the standard of the community.

The article which was published in a recent edition of your newspaper fell to a new low in reporting the passing of Sandra Myers at her home.

Not being a connoisseur of tabloid reporting, but having the experience of reading such revealing stories as "Hog Eats Grandmother" or "My Dog is an Alien Spy," I find it hard to believe that your reporting of events would stoop to the depth of such insensitivity as I read.

Sandy, to her family and friends, was a "one of a kind person." She had many friends who will testify to the fact that there was never a time that Sandy wouldn't volunteer to help people, civic groups and animals if a request was made. I am proud to say that Sandy was a friend of mine and how she chose to live is no one's business but her own.

A newspaper reporter who determines that the passing of someone is worthy of reporting has two obligations: 1) to report in a manner which is not offensive to the person involved, and 2) a responsibility to the feelings of the family and friends that are left behind. Based on this criteria, I would suggest that The Northville Record has failed on both counts.

I would say in closing that the author of the article written, the editor and the publishing company had better beware when your time is up in this world, that your home should be clean, your life should have been pure and free of the myriad errors of living as you choose, the freedom of enjoying it to the utmost are over and that some journalist (?) doesn't turn up the fact that you are not a "normal" human being by his/her standards, whatever they may be.

Michael Janchlick

Story pried into private life

To the Editor:

With great sadness I read the Nov. 10 article about my dear friend Sandy Myers having been a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning in her home last week. My sadness at her having passed away became deeper after reading the comments included by the writer, neighbors and postal carrier. Why was it necessary to include such information about her personal life?

Sandy was a proud person and her private life was respected by those who knew and loved her. She was a diligent and hard worker having delivered newspapers for one of the Detroit News largest routes seven days a week for 20 years.

At the time of her death she was president of the Northville Lloyd H. Green American Legion Auxiliary and had held that office and others in prior years. She was a past president of the Northville VFW Auxiliary. For many years she organized the Northville Memorial Day parade, assisted with the Fourth of July parade and worked on the annual poppy campaign.

Sandy raised her two sons, both now adults, and we are grateful Stephen survived this tragic happening. Her son, Wallie, lives in California. Her husband, Mike, passed away about 2 1/2 years ago.

Sandy's life was not always easy but she was caring, loving, patriotic and respectful of other people's feelings, so it added to my and Sandy's friends' sorrow to read Yvonne Beebe's article.

Sandy gave a lot to this community and her time and efforts are not known to those who did not know her. To those of us who knew Sandy, she will be greatly missed along with her smile, laugh and love, which we will keep in our hearts and remembers always.

Wide margin of victory can be curse

Phil Power

Political insiders have an old saying: "The worst thing that can happen to you is winning in a landslide."

Ask Jim Blanchard, who thumped Bill Lucas for governor in 1986 with nearly 70 percent of the vote, an even bigger margin than John Engler's Nov. 8 landslide over Howard Wolpe. Overconfident and out of steam, Blanchard in 1990 lost narrowly to Engler.

Look at President Lyndon Johnson, who in 1964 just killed Barry Goldwater, only to be harmed into non-candidacy in 1968 by raising national anger over the war in Vietnam.

Lord Acton was right: "Power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely." People who win landslides begin to believe their press releases, and often the result is big trouble.

And although I hate to be a wet blanket just now that Gov. Engler is enjoying the double glow of fatherhood and his 700,000-vote win last week, there could be big trouble brewing during his second term.

Michigan's economy - plainly Engler's greatest political asset - simply is not going to keep booming for the next four years. The auto industry, all the biggest chunk of our economic base, is inherently boom and bust. That bust could come quickly when the Federal Reserve Board decides to push up interest rates again.

A recession in Michigan would mean money troubles for a state whose chances already are less solid than they look on the surface. For example, Michigan has been taking advantage of a loophole in the federal law governing Medicare reimbursements. But recently Congressman John Dingell made sure the practice ended. That will cost the state more than $200 million this coming year alone.

Worse, the state lost a lot of budgetary flexibility when the Legislature betwined the pot in the frenzy to pass the Proposal A legislation. State school aid payments of $4,500 per child are a binding obligation, regardless of what other problems might exist with the budget. The moment state tax revenues dip, this giant prior claim on state money could wipe out the rest of the budget.

Elements in Engler's own party will be tempted to seize the opportunity offered by his landslide win to advance their own agendas. Expect to see fierce pressure to fund private schools, further to restrict abortions, drastically to cut taxes, to restrict civil rights for homosexuals, and to mandate school curriculum to reading, "riting and" rithmetic.

Each of these causes has passionate advocates within the Republican Party. Yet each could be used as "wedge issues" to rip chunks out of the GOP coalition that was so successful this year.

But cheer up, Governor. The curse of landslide winners only works when the opposition is reasonably healthy, and today the Michigan Democratic Party is a pretty bedraggled lot.

Its leadership is in tatters, from AFL-CIO chief Frank Garrison, who picked Howard Wolpe in the first place, to the MEA's Bev Wolkow, who shot her union's wad in trying to get Larry Owen nominated in the primary.

Suffering from a drought of new or even workable ideas, the party has had trouble attracting enthusiastic volunteers and recruiting new, able and marketable candidates. Even union members, traditionally the party's core voters, are now flush with overtime and disinclined to vote the way their leaders instruct them.

The party's fundamental problem - finding candidates who can pass the litmus tests imposed by various interest groups within the party to get nominated, and then actually to win an election - seems entirely unresolved.

And as long as the Democrats are marginalized, Engler may be able to dodge the curse of the landslide winners.

City's character still evolving

Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs agrees that large-scale shopping malls and catch-all stores like Meijer have affected small downtowns like Northville's.

"Malls have diluted the downtown shopping district," Marrs said. "But people still love a downtown, they like the pedestrian atmosphere. Malls are not the demise of the downtown. I think we just have more competition."

For downtown shopping districts to survive, they must offer the right mix of restaurants, specialized gift shops and stores that provide useful services, Marrs added.

The key is for the stores to specialize in a specific product line or brand name as a means of luring customers in, she said.

Herbal Harvest, a new store slated to open by Dec. 1, is an example of a specialty business that will draw customers, Marrs said. The store, expected to offer special skin care lines, therapeutic and decorative herbs, essential oils and aroma therapy products, will be moving into the storefront that used to be occupied by Victoria's Place at 142 N. Center. Victoria's Place moved to Main Street last summer.

"In order for the businesses to survive, they have to specialize in something," Marrs said. "You can't go walk over to Twelve Oaks Mall and get all the things you can get here."

Lapham, who insists on having a "store of substance" like another men's clothing shop replace his, said he is willing to invest time and energy into getting the right retailer into his location.

"I am willing to forego a couple months of rent until I can find a business of substance to come in," he said.

Lapham said he has received six offers to start up a new business so far, but only one has "rung a bell" with him.

"I'm waiting to find something the town needs," he said.

In order to maintain the financial viability of the downtown business district, the Downtown Development Authority is considering hiring a consultant to concentrate on business recruitment, retention and marketing of downtown Northville.

City Manager Gary Word said the need is there. However, before the city can realistically consider hiring a downtown coordinator, certain capital improvements like curb work, brickscaping and repairs on the bandshell, must be made.

"There are still a lot of questions to be answered about what form this position would take and what the structure would be," Word said, adding that even if the position were to be filled no one would come on board until at least after the spring of 1995.

Marrs is enthusiastic about the potential of hiring a downtown coordinator and said one of the consultant's main focuses would be to compile lists of businesses that might be willing to set up shop in Northville.

"So Northville is pro-active rather than reactive in terms of recruiting businesses," Marrs said. "So when a store like Lapham's leaves, we have someone on the sidelines waiting to move in."

Chuck Lapham said the idea has merit, but ultimately the business owner should influence decisions over who fills vacant store fronts.

"I think it is a valid idea to pursue," he said. "However, the individual business owners should have a say in what goes into their buildings as well."

"The proper mix of any shopping area makes or breaks its success. If you don't have the mix, you won't have the people coming in," Lapham said.

Doug Dreher, the owner of Fleet Feet Athletic Shop on Main Street, said he believes a development coordinator could benefit the downtown.

"I think it's a good idea," Dreher said. "Right now the downtown does not have a cohesive marketing group."

Tom Morrison, on the other hand, feels business recruitment and marketing should be left up to individual business owners.

"I am totally against it," Morrison said. "It's just another bureaucrat. It has always been up to the individual landlords and it should stay that way."

Marrs, however, remains optimistic.

"Our downtown area is truly the nucleus of our community and if we succeed, the whole surrounding businesses will succeed as well," she said. "We have a golden apple sitting here and we have to make sure we polish it."

Today's downtown Northville is a far cry from what it was a decade ago.

Don't be FLU SHOT SHY

There are only a few weeks left to protect against the flu bug due to strike between January and March.

The flu bug is actually a virus and it poses a real threat to a variety of people considered to be in the high risk groups.

Ideally the flu shot should be given from mid-October to mid-November but can be taken until Dec. 1, according to Dr. Max McKinney, D.O. of Botsford General Hospital.

"It affords the best protection to get all shots out of the way by Dec. 1," he said. "It takes six weeks for the body to build up the necessary levels of immunity."

The shot protects against the trivalents, the three most likely strains to hit this year.

"The big ones for this year are Texas flu, Shang Dong flu and the Panama flu," said McKinney. "Flus get their names because they were isolated in that area." They may or may not have originated there. "Trivalents change every year," he said. "Viruses have a way of constantly mutating." The Texas flu may be a mutant of an earlier flu, said McKinney.

Determining which flu bugs will strike is based on epidemiological studies. "It is guess work, but they (epidemiologists) are pretty much on target," said McKinney.

One high risk group is the very young, those between 6 months and 18 years of age who have diseases that weaken them or with conditions that necessitate they take aspirin.

Another high risk group is the very old.

"A lot depends on general health," explained McKinney. "Those in the over 65 age group should take the flu shot regardless."

"The mid-group - those 30 to 50 years of age, if they have chronic diseases such as high blood pressure, emphysema, pulmonary problems or diabetes - need shots because it hits them hard." Those with immune deficiency and cancer also fall into this high risk category.

Health care professionals, teachers and nursing home attendants should also consider getting shots, said McKinney.

"All flus are air and saliva born," explained McKinney. "When the weather turns foul, flu cases diminish. People are not transmitting the flu because they tend to socialize less.

"God and the weather have a lot to do with it," he said. "Cold weather has nothing to do with the virus, just the spread of the virus."

The best protection against flu is rest, good nutrition, fluids and keeping in a good healthy state, according to McKinney.

But if the flu bug does strike, it just has to run its course, usually two or three days.

"A severe case is seven to ten days, depending on the unfortunate host," he said.

Also unfortunate is that hosts are usually contagious before they are even aware they are carrying the influenza virus.

Flu symptoms are more severe than the common cold. Fevers for several days, dry cough, aches and pains and malaise indicate the flu has struck. A runny nose, cough, and 'I don't feel like going to work' feeling is probably the more common cold.

At home measures for systemic relief include decongestants, antihistamines, lots of fluids. Tylenol or acetaminophen, said McKinney.

"If you've tried symptomatic home remedies for two to three days and don't feel better, go see a doctor," advises McKinney.

Shots are covered under Medicare and Medicaid.

Flu shots are only available at doctors offices and at the county health departments. Outreach clinics are now closed in this area.

The Oakland County Health Department is located at 27725 Greenfield Road at Catalpa in Southfield. Hours are Monday, noon to 7:30 p.m., and Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on a walk-in basis. There is no charge for Medicare and Medicaid patients. There is a $3 charge.

The Wayne County Health Department is located 2501 Merriman, north of Michigan. On Friday Nov. 18, flu shots will be available from 8 to 11 a.m. on a walk-in basis. For next week's schedule, call Wayne County at (313) 467-3304. A $2 donation is charged for all except those over 60 years of age who have Medicare.

CARMEN KUCKENBECKER

Kuckenbecker looks to fill seats

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

HELP WANTED. According to Chairperson Carmen Kuckenbecker, there are two vacant seats on the Northville Beautification Commission.

Meetings are held monthly, except for two months in the summer, on the second Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

Duties are to help plan the flower planting on city-owned property, specifically around the clock, the band shell, and the parking lot bordered by West Main, Wing, and West Dunlap.

Planning duties also include the tubs, scattered around town: 12 in the South Main parkway, 150 in the downtown area, and seven at Allen Terrace.

The Department of Public Works, Kuckenbecker said, prepares the top soil in the tubs, and the two garden clubs (Women's National Farm and Garden Association and the Country Branch of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association) do the planting.

According to Kuckenbecker, commission members work on the tubs to the extent of assembling plants for each tub and putting them alongside.

Then the garden clubs take over. About watering and weeding, Kuckenbecker said, "We pitch in and do it if we can't get anybody else to do it."

As for her experience on the commission, Kuckenbecker said, she's been on it since she was appointed eight years ago. But — she has worked on it for 22 years, dating back to when her "Mom and Dad were active in it."

The commission, Kuckenbecker said, is "funded by the city" and a few contributions from interested citizens and organizations. So it doesn't cost commission members — just time and contributing thoughts.

The pay for this job? It's satisfaction and pleasure in seeing a colorful, floral Northville.

Interested? Come to a meeting and then go the City Clerk's office to fill out an application for membership.

Town Hall pianist recalls life behind Iron Curtain

Solonina admires Americans for their love of freedom

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Victoria Solonina has vivid memories of her escape eight years ago out a small second story dressing room window to the waiting arms of freedom. She recalls the desperation she felt at the thought of living her entire life in the Soviet Union.

Almost 400 people listened at a Northville Town Hall lecture Monday as Solonina told of her grandmother's living nightmare in 1919. Alexandria awoke and saw Communists running all over the Winter Palace. It was that night that the young 16-year-old girl witnessed the murder of her family. All the family's possessions were confiscated and she was sent to Siberia. After 11 years in banishment, Alexandria returned to St Petersburg where she lived under constant surveillance.

Solonina's mother, Valentina, was a teenager during World War II. Wanting to be a doctor, Valentina would go to school during the day and work at a hospital at night. One night a wounded lieutenant was brought to the hospital. Valentina begged the doctors to save his arm which was attached by only a small piece of skin. A few days after surgery, she learned the soldier's name was Theodore and that he was only 19-years-old.

"He was only a boy in an officer's uniform," she said. Several months after his discharge from the hospital, the young lieutenant asked Valentina to marry him.

After the war, Solonina was born. She was named Victoria because it meant victory, she said.

Solonina first noticed the piano when she was three or four years of age.

"There must be a bear living in there," she said as she played the low notes. "Those must be birds," she said playing the high notes. The family's grand piano took up one room of their two-room apartment in the Soviet Union. The other room was used for sleeping.

"The piano was my babysitter," Solonina said. "My mother was already picturing me on the concert stage."

Solonina quietly sat down at the piano and played a spiritual selection by Franz Liszt.

Her music career started very early and continued for 15 years. Soviet musical education "is very powerful, very grand."

She attended music schools, and a music college, learning everything about the art. On top of her studies, she practiced eight hours a day at the piano. "The biggest gift I received from communism was my musical education," she said.

There were favored and unfavored students at the schools, she said. Since her grandmother's history was a black spot on her own background, an unfortunate incident only caused the spot to grow.

Solonina's family practiced Catholicism at home. She confined the wearing of her cross to her house. One morning while in a hurry, she forgot to take off her cross. After rushing into class the professor stopped her and asked about the cross. Solonina was forbidden to attend classes for the rest of the day and was publicly reprimanded in front of the whole conservatory.

"But it made our prayers even stronger," she said.

The cross incident played a major negative role a short time later. During a piano competition, she placed first, allowing her to leave the country to perform. But it was the second place finisher who was granted the privileges due Solonina.

Solonina went on to receive her diploma and was granted a professorship at the conservatory. Everything was chosen for her. Her programs, gowns and students. In the Soviet Union, students either had talent or they didn't, she said.

"If they didn't have talent, they were told not to study music."

Except for children of high ranking officials. It didn't matter if they had talent or not, she added. Unfortunately for Solonina, they were assigned to her class. "It was like teaching chickens to swim, instead of the swans," said Solonina.

These children could not compose music either.

Solonina sat down at the piano again to demonstrate the chicken scratch the Communist students composed. Then she played Sonata in A Major by Mozart.

"Mozart makes your face light up," she said.

When she was 27-years-old she realized she was "locked in an iron cage." "I had to do something," she said. But in Soviet Union you couldn't just go to the travel agent and ask for a ticket to New York, she explained.

She credits her continued faith and prayers for what was to happen next.

Solonina was asked to play for a foreign delegation who where coming to the Soviet Union. "It was my first meeting with people from the West," she said. The KGB briefed the musicians, forbidding them to have any personal contact.

"Music is the language of love, available to everyone in the universe."

Victoria Solonina

One of the delegations was from England. "I liked them instantly," she said. "They looked happy, confident and their faces had light in them."

The head of the English delegation approached her and asked if she'd like to play abroad. With the KGB guards right next to her the whole time, she could not allow the ecstasy she felt to show.

The Englishman was determined and came backstage at another performance, which was held in town and open to the general public.

"I wrote my address on a microscopic piece of paper while I was in the bathroom," she said, "and handed it to him as we shook hands goodbye. I was risking a lot, but I called them at the hotel later and in English gave them instructions to wait for me at a certain time and place," she said.

Solonina met the Englishman and took him back to her family's apartment where her mother had made a beautiful dinner.

"We talked and talked," she said. "It felt right. He (the Englishman) asked how could I live like this and said he was going to try to help me."

Three weeks later she received a note about a two month tour of England. It would take another 18 months before Solonina would be granted permission to leave the country to perform.

During that year and a half, she was grilled constantly by the KGB, who made her sign papers saying she would return to the Soviet Union. She feared for herself and her family.

While on tour, Solonina told the Englishman she couldn't go back. Details were worked out that Solonina was to escape from the two KGB body guards who had been assigned to watch her every move while in England on tour. The English had a van waiting at every concert.

During the last concert, Solonina could barely remember what she was playing, her thoughts were on escaping. In her dressing room, she noticed a small window and decided it was now or never. She climbed out the window and down a spiral staircase to the van waiting below.

She was whisked to the airport and boarded a flight to Tampa, Florida. With only the clothes on her back and the one shoe she hadn't lost during the ordeal, she was greeted in America. That same evening, she was given a pair of shoes to go with her gown and played her first concert at the University of Southern Florida to a sell out audience, plus 75 additional people who were seated around the stage.

A concert-goer offered Solonina her guest house in Clearwater. Solonina stayed with the family, who have remained good friends, for seven months until she saved enough to buy her own home.

Although Solonina was free, her family felt the repercussions. They lost their jobs. She couldn't get in touch with them for five years. All letters were confiscated. Then communism collapsed and her family moved to London.

Solonina was afraid to leave the United States until she became a citizen. She met with her parents regularly after that. Her father continues to teach math. Her mother had a career in neurology until her death a few months ago at the age of 64.

"My mother taught me God is love," she said. "Music is the language of love, available to everyone in the universe." Since she spoke poor English when she first arrived in the United States, Solonina said music was her language. Solonina still has a very strong accent, but has excellent diction. Intent on learning the English language, she practiced an hour a day with a book in front of the mirror after her arrival.

Solonina married an American clothes designer two years ago. When things slow down, she would like to start a family.

The gown she wore at Town Hall on Monday she designed herself after her grandmother's wedding dress, only in black.

"My grandmother said 'spiritual values, like music, are forever'," said Solonina.

Taking a seat at the piano she played her final selection, Polonaise by Chopin, and dedicated it to freedom.

Film offers novel view of vampires

Throughout the myth, literature and film of the past century, the image of the vampire has proven to be one of the most enduring. From Victorian novel to classic horror film, the vampire's vicious figure of power and immortality has captivated audiences world-wide.

In the mid-1970s, a new, highly evocative, elegant and original incarnation of the vampire myth was born in a novel set amid the languid sensuality of New Orleans. The best-selling first volume of Ann Rice's acclaimed "Vampire Chronicles: Interview with The Vampire" was published in 1976 and is considered both a popular triumph and a cult classic.

Now, the story has been brought to the big screen in a major movie picture starring Tom Cruise. "Interview With The Vampire" is the highly anticipated film version of the first volume of Ann Rice's celebrated "Vampire Chronicles."

The film also stars Brad Pitt as Louis and Christian Slater as The Interviewer. Rice, herself, wrote the screenplay; the film is directed by Neil Jordan.

"Interview With The Vampire" tells the story of one man who finds himself seduced by a diabolical creature so charismatic and compelling that he succumbs to an evil he cannot truly imagine. The reminiscences of this man cover 200 years and weave an erotically charged history centered around the vampire Lestat (Cruise), one of contemporary literature's most magnetic creations.

Into Lestat's world in the late 18th century comes Louis de Pointe du Lac, a mortal man devastated by the loss of his beloved wife and infant daughter. Amid the torpid heat of a delta settlement near New Orleans, the air thick with portent and promises of unearthly desire and unspeakable horrors, Lestat encounters Louis and leads him past death into everlasting life and darkness.

Two hundred years later, in late 20th century San Francisco, Louis decides to tell his story — a vampire's story of desire, love, yearning, grief, terror, ecstasy — to a young reporter, weaving the history that has come to be known as "Interview With The Vampire."

The provocative nature of Rice's work, which has kept it a widely read work of fiction for nearly 20 years, immediately stimulated the film world's desire to realize the book as a motion picture.

But it was not until recently that Rice's written imagery and the vision of acclaimed filmmaker Neil Jordan were combined to bring "Interview with the Vampire" to the screen.

Jordan most recently directed "The Crying Game," which was nominated for six Academy Awards. In fact, Jordan earned the Oscar for Best Original Screenplay for his work on the film.

Jordan's other works include the film "Mona Lisa," which earned a Golden Globe Award, a Los Angeles Film Critics Award and a Best Screenplay nomination from the Writers Guild of America. It also earned Bob Hoskins an Academy Award nomination for Best Actor.

Jordan's work frequently explores themes he describes as "impossible passion and, especially, the violence of emotion." And although his work has common themes, Jordan claims he likes to do things that haven't been done before. "I want to see images and emotional moments that I haven't seen before...and I'm interested in a story that can strike very deep in areas of human nature," he said.

"Interview With The Vampire" provides Jordan an ideal opportunity to explore those depths of emotion in human — and inhuman — nature. "It's a disturbing movie, because it's told from the point of view of monsters," said Jordan. "These are people who live off each other's blood and kill to live. They are the 'heros' of this movie, which is a really horrifying, but very original, perspective."

Counting on fans' familiarity with the fantasy-thriller genre, the filmmakers recognized the need to be original. "There are things within our film which I have never seen on the screen anywhere before," said Jordan. "We want it to be a great horror film that will scare people, but we also want it to be a great fantasy movie and to have things that are not just violent and savage, but also gentle and subtle and perhaps unique. However, the mood of the film follows Louis' journey and it's a journey from light into darkness."

The vampire Lestat. Ageless. Infinite life. Death without mortality. Lestat flows through the years on a river of blood which sustains his existence. He awards his victims with immortality — whether they want it or not.

Louis (Brad Pitt) destroys the Theatre of the Vampires in 'Interview With The Vampire' from Warner Bros.

Cagers bounced from tourney by Ladywood

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Livonia Ladywood lived up to the meaning of its nickname Monday night.

Opening the state basketball tournament at home, the "Blazers" played a brilliant first quarter and coasted past Northville High 55-39. Crisp offensive execution and a suffocating press pushed Ladywood to a 17-point advantage by the end of the period.

"We knew we'd have to come out strong," Livonia coach Lisa McPhee said, "and take them out of their game plan."

Which is exactly what the Blazers did.

Ladywood's Erin LeSage opened the scoring 18 seconds into the game. Livonia then promptly converted a Northville turnover into two more points. The home team led 13-4 before the quarter was half over.

"They didn't do anything that surprised us," Northville coach Gary Schwan said. "We were a step slow for some reason."

Lauren Metaj scored on a lay up with 2:48 to go in the first to cut Ladywood's lead to eight. But the Blazers went on an 11-2 run before the horn sounded to take their commanding lead.

"We had a bad eight minutes," Schwan said. "But a great year."

The Mustangs finished the season at 13-8 - four more wins than last fall. The coach remains optimistic about the future.

"We're a young team," said Schwan. "We've got everyone back but two kids."

That first quarter hole proved too deep for Northville to climb out of.

The Mustangs were finally able to settle down about midway through the second quarter. Northville found a way to break Ladywood's pressure and get into its offense.

Down by 20, the Mustangs went on a 6-0 spurt. Samantha Leger made four free throws and Carrie Dalziel added a basket to pull her team to within 35-21.

Northville actually outscored the Blazers by one in the period, but still trailed 39-23 at the half.

"I'm glad we fought back and responded in the second quarter," said Schwan.

The second half was much like the first. Ladywood dominated the third and Northville the fourth.

The Blazers pushed their lead out to 23 by the end of three. Northville was held scoreless until the 3:01 mark of the period when Leger scored on a lay up.

The Mustangs again fought back. But it was too little, too late.

A 10-0 run starting the fourth, which pulled Northville to within 13, highlighted the effort.

Leger scored 22 points to lead the Mustangs while Metaj added nine. Melissa Campeau led Livonia with 15 and Anne Poglits added 12.

"It was our third game in six days," said Schwan. "I think we were emotionally tired. We put a lot into our Tuesday and Friday games."

NORTHVILLE 53, CANTON 42

The Mustangs closed the regular season Friday at home by whipping a good Chief squad. And, it wasn't just another win.

Northville High finished third in the Western Lakes Activities Association by beating Canton. After two rebuilding years, it was a fine reward for the Mustangs.

It was a dominant performance against a team Northville had lost to early this season.

Topous heads All-Area soccer team

Perhaps more than any other year, the 1994 HomeTown Newspapers' East All Area Soccer Team is dominated by offensive firepower.

While most teams don't play with more than three forwards our first team features a half dozen. That's not to say there weren't enough talented fullbacks and halfbacks to fill out our roster - it was just a great season for forwards.

Novi's Joe Schimizzi and Chris Young head the list of goal scorers. Both finished with nearly 20 tallies this fall, which is something that happens rarely on one team.

Northville's Rob Willard anchors the defense. A steady and strong player for the Mustangs, he also was versatile enough to be a scoring threat.

Here's a closer look at this year's all-area team as selected by the sports editors of the Northville Record, Novi News, Milford Times and South Lyon Herald.

MATT TOPOUS

Northville, senior forward

If the Mustangs had a most valuable player this year it was probably Topous. A consistent performer, he was relied upon heavily by coach Doug Lyon.

"We knew Matt had the talent and skill to do a lot," he said. "Matt did a super job."

Playing in the state's toughest soccer conference, Topous led Northville with 12 goals and three assists. Lyon said the senior was adept at dribbling and placing his shots.

"He played four years of varsity soccer for us," the coach added.

Topous earned all Western Division honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association

TIM SCOFIELD

Milford senior forward

Scofield was about as intense a competitor as the KVC saw this season. He led the Redskins in goals, tallying 11 on the year while adding two assists.

MHS coach Dennis Garn said that when Scofield was on his game he was a terror, but it was sometimes hard to get him in the groove.

"He's an enigma," Garn said. "When he was on, he was on. But sometimes he tried to do so well it would affect the way he played. When he played relaxed he was great."

Fortunately for Milford, Scofield was on more times than not this fall, and he was always the one who put fire into the Redskins' lineup.

JOE SCHIMIZZI

Novi, junior forward

Averaging nearly a goal a game, it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that the junior had a great year. Schimizzi finished with 17 goals and seven assists playing mostly left wing for the Wildcats.

"He had a terrific first half of the season," said coach Larry Christoff.

It was Schimizzi's speed that led to a lot of his goals. Christoff said his work ethic helped, too.

"He never stopped hustling," he added. Schimizzi was named to the all-KVC team

CHRIS YOUNG

Novi, senior forward

Toss out all the superlatives about Young that you want - aggressive, talented, determined, gutsy. They all fit.

Without his presence in the lineup, the Wildcats surely wouldn't have made it to the state regional this fall. Young scored 14 goals and six assists despite leg and eye injuries and being tightly marked every game.

"He never complained," said Christoff. "He was an inspiration to other players."

Young displayed "tremendous speed and ball control," the coach added. Christoff said high school won't be the end of his playing career.

"No doubt Chris can play with some first division team," he said.

ALEXIS JORG

South Lyon senior forward

Jorg started out as one of the most powerful offensive weapons in the KVC, scoring 10 goals in the first half of the season. The skilled exchange student from Switzerland wound up leading the Lions with 12 goals and eight assists on the season.

South Lyon coach Bill Stevanovich said Jorg was the first player in team history to lead the team in both offensive categories and he felt

VanTuyl, Lloyd earn area honors

This fall cross country running continued its rising status as a high school sport in our area.

The Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) placed three schools among the top six teams in the state with the Lakeland and Milford squads leading the pack in second and fifth place respectively.

Lakeland's top five boys runners proved that their times could match up with anyone's in Michigan and all front-running Eagles were deserving of all-area first team honors.

Other harriers from across the area put on some great individual performances that also deserved special recognition, however, and the seven boys who have earned spots on the all-area team could be considered a cross country dream team in any class or category.

One trait that seemed to link the first-teamers together was an uncanny ability to produce in the big meets. From top to bottom these athletes were able to boost their efforts and trim their times when the meet or tournament was on the line.

Here's a peek at the class performers from the East and Central all-area boys cross country team from 1994 as compiled by the sports editors of South Lyon Herald, Milford Times, Northville

Record and Novi News:

DWIGHT VANTUYL

Northville junior

In his third year of varsity cross country, VanTuyl became the Mustangs' top runner. The junior chopped more than a minute off his best time from his sophomore season.

"He displayed a lot of intensity," Northville coach Ed Gabrys said.

Gabrys added that he's seen steady improvement from VanTuyl every year. That improvement led him to All-Western Division honors in the WLAA and his team's MVP award as well.

"He's potentially all-conference," Gabrys said. "Top seven."

VanTuyl will likely run track next spring. Gabrys said that should make him even faster for next fall.

"We're expecting a trip to the state meet from him (next year)," he added.

ADAM HAGFORS

Novi junior

Browne, Tovey on girls All-Area squads

If this year's HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Girls Cross Country Team looks like a who's who of Novi runners it's for a good reason.

Led by a plethora of talented athletes, the Wildcats finished as Michigan's third best squad in Class A. Novi All-staters Jenny Hampton and Lorna Camp head our selections while teammates Katie Zimmerman and Angel Root also made the grade.

All in all, 1994 was a fantastic year for girls cross country in our area. Here's a closer look at HomeTown Newspapers' choices as selected by the sports editors of the Northville Record, Novi News, South Lyon Herald and Milford Times.

JENNY HAMPTON

Novi sophomore

Awsome is about the only word that fits the Wildcat sophomore. Hampton earned all-state honors for the second straight year two weeks ago by taking eighth in the state.

"She's absolutely dedicated," coach Norm Norgren said, "with a wonderful, wonderful attitude."

Hampton was just about all-everything. She earned top honors in the Kensington Valley Conference, Oakland County and regional races.

True to form, Hampton did her best when it counted the most. She ran her personal best at the state meet this year with a time of 19:01.

"She always gets out towards the front," Norgren said. "She likes to run from there."

LORNA CAMP

Novi sophomore

Camp was equally awesome this fall. She placed sixth in Michigan two weeks ago. For her it was vindication from just missing all-state as a freshman.

"Lorna is extremely competitive," Norgren said. "She couldn't wait for this year's state final."

Camp also ran her best time of the year at the final (19 minutes). She also won the KVC championship besides being all-region and county.

Beyond those achievements, Camp earned great respect this year. Coaches named her the outstanding runner.

"Lorna is nine-tenths superball," Norgren said. "She's ready to explode at any moment."

that his forward's ability to create his own scoring chances was his best weapon

J.J. TRAYNOR

Lakeland senior forward
When Traynor would get on a roll he was hard to stop in '94. He could take over games with his great moves and prowess at finding the net

He came on strong late in the season and played a vital role in helping the Eagles make it to the district final game. He and Graves made a dynamic tandem that was tough to contain in the KVC this season and each player began to feed on the other's success in the post season

Traynor blasted 13 goals on the year and was the team leader in assists with nine.

ROB WILLARD

Northville, senior fullback
One of the Mustangs hardest workers, Willard was also one of the most talented. The senior often had the task of marking opponents top offensive player.

"He's a very solid fullback," added Lyon.

Willard managed to score four goals while specializing on defense. Lyon said he often posted him in front of the net on corner kicks and throw ins because of his ability to head the ball.

Willard was a two-year varsity player and earned honorable mention all WLAA.

STEVE KENNEDY

South Lyon junior defender
The leader of the Lions defensive unit and the team's co-captain played sweeper in most games and he was a strong product of the South Lyon soccer community. Stevanovich said Kennedy showed his strong leadership qualities this year by taking up the slack on the defensive line when his skills are better suited for either the midfield or forward spots

"He'll definitely be our leader next year," Stevanovich said.

JASON WOLCOTT

Milford senior defender
Wolcott spent a lot of time all over the field for MHS this season, seeing action at forward, midfield and on defense. He scored two goals and two assists this fall but Garn said his value to the Redskins was immeasurable.

"His numbers really don't tell the story," Garn said. "He hustled. Every time he stepped on the field he gave 110 percent. I have a great deal of respect for the way he plays the game."

JASON MACIVER

Northville, senior midfielder
Just call him, Mr. Playmaker. Lyon described Maciver as the Wayne Gretzky of the Mustangs.

"He was the one setting everyone up," he said.

Maciver totaled 15 assists and four goals in his senior campaign. With a little more luck, Lyon said he would've had a few more goals

He split time between halfback and forward.

PAUL GRAVES

Lakeland senior midfielder
Graves did it all for Lakeland this season. When he was asked to be a scorer he could produce with the best of them. If LHS coach Matt Topous made our All-Area first team because of his excellent offensive production for Northville this fall.

Franco Gamero wanted him to shadow a talented opposing forward, he would take on that task as well. No matter what the challenge, Graves would meet it head on.

He led Lakeland in scoring, totaling 14 goals while adding eight assists on the year. He was also a leader and the playmaker in the middle for Lakeland.

DAVE HART

Novi, junior goalkeeper
He split duties with teammate Joe Meyer, but was spectacular when he did mind the nets.

He posted seven shutouts, a goals against average of less than one and made 108 saves. Christoff said he's got a knack of knowing exactly where the ball is at all times.

"He anticipates things a lot," he added.

When he wasn't in goal, Hart played up at halfback. He scored one goal.

Exercising vital for good health

Many Americans have good intentions when it comes to being more physically active. In fact, surveys show that 93 percent of the population is more fitness-conscious than ever before and most people are well aware of the positive implications regular exercise can have on overall healthy and longevity.

Why then is only 28 percent of the population considered physically active? And what's keeping so many from getting up off the couch?

A national opinion survey by the President's Council on Physical Fitness found that over two-thirds (69 percent) of the sedentary people interviewed said they would like to exercise more, but they cite lack of time as the number one barrier.

Although lack of time is considered a major reason there are other reasons why it is difficult for Americans to work exercise into their lifestyle. For that reason, The National Exercise For Life Institute would like to help people identify these obstacles to active living and provide some practical solutions that will help people succeed.

Making the time

Surveys have found that less active Americans say they have too little leisure time, yet the top three ways that less active people spend their leisure time are watching TV, listening to music and reading for pleasure - all are sedentary, physically unchallenging pursuits.

"Using lack of time as the number one obstacle to exercise is not really a valid excuse," said Jeff Zwiefel, M.A. and director of The National Exercise For Life Institute. "It really is a matter of making appropriate choices with our leisure time and re-prioritizing the importance of our personal health."

The average American has 15-18 hours of leisure per week, and has the TV on for seven hours a day at home.

"This clearly indicates that most of us have the time, yet we just don't incorporate physical activity into our lifestyles even when we know it will give us healthy benefits like reduced cardiovascular disease, high blood pressure, diabetes and weight loss," said Zwiefel.

One way to work exercise into a busy schedule is to exercise at home. Exercising at home gives you the flexibility to do multiple things at the same time, making more efficient use of your free time. In fact, those who exercise at home can watch TV, listen to music and read - the three top-ranked leisure pursuits - while benefiting from the exercise. When a person can accomplish two things at once there is a greater potential for overall satisfaction and enjoyment.

Other benefits of in-home exercise programs include a decrease in time constraints due to travel, changing and waiting in line for equipment or feeling uncomfortable in a health club setting. It also allows people to fit exercise into their personal schedules. For most people, early morning, late afternoon, or lunch hours are the best times to exercise. So select the time that works for you, establish a schedule or routine and keep a record of your progress.

Getting enough exercise

Another reason for not starting an exercise program is the perception by sedentary people that they are already getting enough exercise. Twenty percent of the people who drop out of or do not start an exercise program feel they receive enough exercise in their daily routine without having to add more.

National survey results disagree with this contention, stating that 60 percent of all adults can be classified as sedentary. Over the last half century, technological advancements have reduced the amount of effort required to perform daily activities and have created a sedentary, disease prone society.

Aerobic exercise such as cross-country skiing or walking is important to the prevention of many diseases related to being sedentary while increasing our ability to handle both physical and emotional stress in our daily lives. Most people think exercise requires a major time commitment - an hour plus every day - to obtain significant health benefits and many still harbor the misconception that exercise must be grim and intense to be effective.

However, people are beginning to realize that exercising regularly and consistently are the keys to an effective program. What is necessary is that people attempt to do a little more exercise than they have previously. It is imperative that everything about the exercise routine be as appealing as possible. Finding pleasant surroundings and a form of exercise that is enjoyable will help make it a positive experience.

Getting family and friends involved

Friends and family have been identified as being the most influential in encouraging less active individuals to become more physically active. Research has shown that if the family participates in an exercise program together, the chances of success in terms of compliance are significantly enhanced. Active leisure pursuits with family and friends indoors or outdoors can be more fun. Additionally, partners serve to motivate and inspire during difficult times, they force setting aside time everyday to do it and can help provide focus.

These days many people engage in physical activity as much for social reasons as for health and fitness. Americans are learning that they can effectively use exercise as an enjoyable means for social interaction and gain twice the benefit from their exercise time.

Regular exercise burns calories and effectively promotes weight loss, lowers cholesterol, strengthens bones, reduces blood pressure and may even reduce the risk of diabetes and some forms of cancer. This list also includes numerous psychological benefits as well. The Institute encourages everyone to start benefiting from an exercise program today, by beginning slowly and progressing at your own pace.

The National Exercise For Life Institute is dedicated to collecting, analyzing and disseminating information on the benefits of regular exercise to convince more Americans to begin and maintain a personal exercise program. For more information on how to begin or maintain a program of regular exercise, write or call the National Exercise For Life Institute: Box 2000 Excelsior MN, 55331-9967 or call 1-800-358-3635.

Sleep apnea exacts toll on body

Breton Weintraub

In my last article, I discussed treatment of the common cold. In this article, I would like to discuss something less common but more serious: sleep apnea.

Sleep apnea is a disturbance of sleep. By definition it occurs when a person fails to breathe when asleep. There are several types of this disorder, but I will describe the most common type - "obstructive" sleep apnea.

Normally during sleep your muscles relax including those holding the airway open. In obstructive sleep apnea, the airway releases so much that it collapses, choking the person. Blood oxygen falls, adrenaline surges and blood pressure and heart rate rise. The person responds by waking up, often gasping or snoring for air.

A person with sleep apnea may awaken several hundred times a night but is usually unaware of these awakenings. Generally the start-and-stop breathing pattern, the gasping and snoring and the restlessness of the sleep are first noticed by the bed partner. Because of poor sleep quality the victim often suffers symptoms of severe sleep deprivation. These symptoms include daytime drowsiness, morning headaches, irritability, fatigue, inability to concentrate, personality changes and sexual difficulty. Some people are so tired that they fall asleep in mid-sentence, or even while driving.

Sleep apnea exacts a toll on the body. Heart attacks, sudden cardiac death, pulmonary hypertension, stroke and heart failure may occur. Falling asleep behind the wheel, or at other critical times, can have its own dreadful consequences.

Several factors worsen the severity of sleep apnea. Obesity fattens tissues in the airway, making it more narrow. A narrower airway airway collapses more easily. Large tonsils, a large tongue or other structural problems can also narrow the airway. Sedatives, such as alcohol, antihistamines, barbiturates, benzodiazepines and narcotics, lessen the urge to breathe, causing more profound suffocation with each apneic episode. Some medical conditions such as stroke, emphysema and heart failure may also interfere with breathing.

Sleep apnea is diagnosed during a sleep study. In this test, a person suspected of the disorder sleeps while attached to several monitors. These monitors measure air flow and sleep stage. If breathing stops during sleep, the diagnosis of sleep apnea is confirmed. Further monitoring may be necessary to assess the effects of treatment.

If possible, treatment must be individualized and directed toward the underlying problem contributing to airway collapse. Losing weight often helps obese people. Avoiding sedatives is absolutely crucial. Occasionally, surgery to widen the airway is appropriate, although there is much debate about this particular therapy. The most frequently used treatment for sleep apnea is Continuous Positive Airway Pressure (CPAP).

CPAP is a machine that forces open the airway with positive pressure, thus relieving airway blockage. A mask fits over the nose or inside the nostrils, using prongs. The person breathes normally through the device, which is set next to the bed. The CPAP is necessary every time one sleeps, day or night.

With CPAP, a person usually experiences prompt and gratifying relief, even with the first night. After a few nights of treatment, the symptoms of sleep deprivation usually disappear. Unfortunately, unless and underlying cause can be identified and eliminated, the CPAP may be needed indefinitely.

I hope that this brief look at sleep apnea has been helpful in understanding this uncommon but serious disorder. If you suspect that you or your partner may have this problem, consult your physician.

Deer hunting can bring on heart attack

Barry Franklin

Each fall we read about deer hunters who, unfortunately, are shot to death. Few people realize, however, that heart attacks are really the hunter's worst enemy.

Deer hunting involves high levels of energy expenditure, imposing excessive demands on the heart.

Several years ago, physiologists in Minnesota conducted a series of experiments designed to simulate the energy cost of deer hunting. Healthy men between 40 and 65 years of age were subjected to dragging a 100-pound sack of sand through loose gravel over varied grades.

The experiment yielded startling results. Heart rates during the dragging often ranged between 140 and 200 beats per minute. In addition, more than 10 percent of the men demonstrated electrocardiograms suggesting inadequate oxygen supply to the heart muscle or potentially dangerous rhythm disturbances.

Many factors probably contribute to the disproportionate metabolic and cardiac demands of deer hunting. These include climbing hilly terrain, wearing extra clothing, coping with extremes in environmental conditions and dragging or carrying heavy loads.

Such stressors can be further exaggerated by the ingestion of heavy meals, alcohol and tobacco use before or after hunting.

Excessive hormonal responses, namely adrenalin release, can contribute to the stress of deer hunting. For example, merely sighting a deer can evoke a heart rate of 150 beats per minute in some people.

It is probably no coincidence that heart attacks and sudden death during deer hunting season occur three times as frequently as "accidental" deaths.

Q. A cold-weather training question: "Feet cold? Put on a hat." Good advice or old wives' tale?

A. Good advice, especially during winter exercise. Wearing a hat or cap can be a very effective means of keeping warm because a lot of body heat is lost through an exposed head.

Wool is one of the best fabrics to wear during winter exercise. In contrast to most materials, wool provides warmth even when wet.

Q. What is "congestive heart failure?" It sounds ominous.

A. It's not as frightening as it sounds. Congestive heart failure sometimes occurs after a heart attack. The pumping capacity of the heart is weakened.

Symptoms include fatigue (especially after mild exertion), shortness of breath and swelling in the legs. If you experience these symptoms, contact your physician immediately. Several medications may be prescribed to treat this heart problem.

"Every time he stepped on the starting line for us he was our No. 1 runner," Novi coach Bob Smith said.

Hagfors made All-Kensington Valley Conference in soccer. On the cross country course he ran a 17-minute race against Brighton.

Smith said Hagfors would've likely made it to the state finals if he hadn't had a soccer game to play in the day of the cross country regional.

Beyond his athletic ability, the coach said Hagfors set a great example for his teammates.

"He's the epitome of a good sport and a good competitor," Smith said.

NICK GOW

Lakeland freshman

For a first-year runner Gow consistently ran far beyond his years this season.

He raced to a third place finish in the KVC meet and then turned in another breathtaking performance in the state meet as he took 14th overall. That finish was the best by a KVC runner in the team race and the top freshman finish in school history. It also earned him all-state honors.

"He's the most-talented freshman that I've ever coached," said Lakeland's Randy Wilkins who added that Gow will be the team's leader over the next three years

R.C. EDWARDS

Lakeland senior

In his fourth year on the Eagles' team Edwards stepped up this year and became a vocal leader of the talented squad.

He finished slowly in '93 with injuries at the regional and state meets, but he stayed strong this season finishing 32nd at the state meet with a personal best time of 16:18. He helped Lakeland win the Oakland County title three of the four years he ran on the squad.

"He's a hard worker and he's very smart," Wilkins said. "He was just a super nice kid to coach."

BOB SHARPE

Lakeland senior

The KVC runner of the year finished first among the high-flyin' Eagles in every race up until the state finals when Gow edged him out for tops on the team.

He made significant strides at the state level going from No. 122 in Michigan his sophomore season to No. 20 with all-state honors at this year's race.

"He showed that if you just keep your nose to the grindstone, good things will happen," Wilkins said.

Sharpe also finished first in the KVC race and third in the regional and he was also named to the state all-academic team this season.

SETH WASHBURN

Lakeland junior

In his third year of cross country running Washburn was really the surprise on Lakeland's team.

"He was the real sleeper out of our group," Wilkins said. "He really made our top five solid."

After running hurt in the final part of the '93 season, he trained hard in the off months and came back strong this fall.

He saved his best for last cruising to his top time at the state meet with a mark of 16:12.

BRYON BETTS

Milford senior

Betts was one of the hardest workers on the Redskins' team and coach Gene Balawajder said that helped him continue to trim seconds off his time this season.

"He was one of the most improved runners that we had on the squad this year," Balawajder said. "He emerged as one of our big three."

Betts and teammates Jeff Rutkowski and Kory Kramer gave Milford a powerful trio that earned the school a fifth place finish in the state.

Betts top time of 16:21 came against rival Lakeland this year.

KORY KRAMER

Milford senior

The four-year letter winner came up with his career-best time of 16:15 against Howell this season.

He has received all-KVC honors for three straight years and his mark of 16:24 in the state meet was almost a 40-second improvement of his time from the year before in the finals. He also earned all-state academic honors for the second year in a row with a 4.0 GPA.

"He was a very solid runner," Balawajder said. "He improved (his time) by over a minute overall this year."

Browne on first area squad

KATIE ZIMMERMAN

Novi sophomore

Although she doesn't receive the same accolades as her teammates, Zimmerman is a fine runner in her own right.

This year was her second straight trip to the state final as well. She finished 43rd in the state's individual race as a freshman then was 45th in this year's team race.

"She very, very consistent," Norgren said. "She brought her times down this year."

And that's an understatement. Zimmerman improved on her best time from last fall by some 40 seconds.

Zimmerman was all-KVC along with other honors.

ANGEL ROOT

Novi, sophomore

Another of the Wildcats great runners. According to Norgren, Root made great strides this year.

"She made the biggest improvement," he said.

Root cut two minutes off her best freshman time. Along the way, she made the all-KVC second team and all-county.

"She made us a force," said Norgren.

ADRIENNE BROWNE

Northville senior

The Mustang runner quietly put together an excellent year. She qualified for the state meet - the first Northville runner to accomplish that feat in years.

"Adrienne epitomizes how much hard work can pay off," said coach Chris Cronin. "She made a lot of sacrifices to make herself a better runner."

Browne was a varsity runner all four years for Northville. She broke the 20 minute mark at Schoolcraft College early in the season and remained strong the rest of the way.

"Her intensity and consistency were her greatest marks," Cronin

NICOLE MCMILLAN

South Lyon junior

McMillan was the Lions' top runner in every meet this season.

She had a remarkable year as a first-year cross country athlete and she posted her top mark against Hartland this year with a time of 19:35.

At the state meet she finished in 20:02 which was the fastest any South Lyon girls runner had finished at states in more than a decade.

KATIE WILKINSON

South Lyon junior

The third-year runner served as the team's No. 1 harrier until this season when McMillan took over the top spot.

Wilkinson still managed to improve her times and form, according to Smith, who added that she also showed some strong leadership qualities in '94.

"Katie was really a warm and compassionate leader for the girls," Smith said.

a tough 1-2 punch in the KVC next year.

KRISTIN KILEY

Lakeland junior

Over the past two seasons Kiley has showed her ability to step it up in the big meets.

She placed 27th in the state meet in '93 breaking the 20-minute mark for the first time in her career, and this season she also turned it up a notch at states posting a personal best time of 19:35, good for 15th overall in the individual race.

Kiley was the Eagles' top runner all season long and she will once again lead the team when she returns for her final season next fall.

JESSICA GREENLESS

Milford junior

Greenless had a strong season despite suffering from muscle injuries in both of her legs throughout the final weeks of competition.

She had a top time of 20:18 in the state meet, good for 72nd place overall, but Balawajder said that mark was 10 seconds off her state time from the year before because of the injuries.

"She probably had half the training days of the other kids on the team," Balawajder said.

New-home designs feature major changes

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Major changes are taking place in new-home designs. More amenities and special-use features are demanded by today's home buyers — and in smaller overall space.

"New-home sellers (builders, developers) must supply more amenities for the buck than ever before," said architect James Armstrong, AIA. "Such features as walk-in pantries, office/guest rooms, upgraded kitchen appliances, state-of-the-art security systems and garage-door openers have become standard in most new homes."

The office/guest room — a special room or suite separated from the rest of the living quarters — is particularly important to today's home buyers, according to Armstrong.

In many cases, the buyer plans to perform part or all of his occupational work from home. And by having office space and facilities already built into his new home, the cost can be amortized as part of the home loan, according to a report from The Meyers Group, a research and consulting firm.

The same motivation applies to an entertainment center in the home. It makes these usually after-purchase add-on features more accessible for cash-strapped home buyers, the Meyers report said.

While many buyers will now accept smaller lots, and in some cases smaller houses, they demand skillfully designed floor plans that allow privacy areas and special-use rooms like computer-friendly offices.

A large lot was very prestigious years ago. But today, people don't place a high priority on exterior space and features. They want a well-planned interior, said architect Ernesto Vasquez.

HOME DESIGNS

Single-level with four bedrooms offered by the Pinion

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Varied roof lines, brick detailing and a gabled entry porch create curb appeal in the Pinion, a single-level, four-bedroom home designed for family living. Bedrooms cluster together on the left, formal rooms are in the center and family living spaces are to the right.

Vaulted ceilings expand the first rooms you see upon stepping inside. The entry, living room and dining room all flow together. Four skylights provide overhead illumination in this large space, and three picture windows, filling most of the back wall, make it doubly bright. A wide tile hearth wraps around a corner fireplace.

The kitchen, with adjoining family room, is comfortably large and open. An island with a vegetable sink adds to the available work space, allowing two or more cooks access without getting in each other's way. Small green plants flourish in the moist brightness of a garden window that looks out across a covered patio illuminated by skylights. Pantry, basement stairs and a large utility room with a sink are all but a step away.

Access to the utility room through the three-car garage allows it to serve as a mud room when the weather turns wet, or a place to scrub up after working in the garden or shop. Counters for folding clothes line one wall.

Bay windows expand a master suite roomy enough for both sleeping and sitting areas. French doors provide access to the deck. The luxurious bathroom and spacious walk-in closet buffer the volume of sound emanating from the children's bedrooms.

Controls for a security system are close to the door. Amenities in the master bathroom include a double vanity, oversize shower and spa tub bathed in the natural light from the opaque windows and skylight.

The three secondary bedrooms are so similar in size and shape that none of the children will feel slighted. These rooms share a bathroom with twin lavatories.

SAVE A BUCK

The $2 million house in Novi has been reduced by a buck to $1,999,999.

It's not exactly a deep discount, but potential buyers will find that the cost of this luxury estate in Novi has been reduced.

The asking price is $1,999,999, instead of the $2 million Chamberlain Realtor associate broker and manager Gerry Burke estimates the home worth. He advised the sellers to drop the $1 to catch the eyes of readers of real estate ads.

While the owners don't want their name and address published, let's just say the property is in the vicinity of Beck and Nine Mile roads. And more than the price is eye-catching, although you can't see a bit of the home from the road.

So what does $1,999,999 buy in Novi? A brick, custom-built Tudor-style home on 30 acres with two barns, dual satellite dishes, a three-car garage, a private paved road and a vast fenced-in pasture.

A good chunk of it is the land. In southeast Michigan, there aren't too many luxury homes with this amount of property intact," Burke said last week.

The 4,283 square foot home was built in 1986 by a couple who raised exotic cattle. The current residents are the second owners. In his search of buyers, Burke is contacting Russian athletes, members of the equestrian set, country clubbers and classic car collectors.

For those who seek the best of both worlds, the estate combines privacy and wide open spaces with the convenience of suburban living. The wooded property is surrounded by a privacy fence and electronically-controlled gate, with a security system which includes a television screen in the front hall.

A cedar-shake roof, split-beam Tudor styling and elaborate brickwork, including English chimneys, lend an old-world look to the home.

"When you're got a $400,000 house you may have 4,500 square feet, but you won't get the features and the details that you get here," Burke said.

Inside, hand-finished oak woodwork throughout the home, including the entryway stairs to the second floor, is the work of a Mackinac Island craftsman. Imported stained and leaded glass is in windows on each floor, with the ground floor library/office door showcasing a leaded glass window from an old church torn down in England.

"This is like a Disneyland-type house. You get so used to the cookie cutter-type houses where you can guess the floor plan. This is special," Burke said.

The floor plan is open, creating a sunny home

So what does
buy in Novi?

The formal dining room is accented by the stained glass or etched windows that are throughout the house.

The master bath comes complete with a jacuzzi.

"Buyers are thinking more about what they need vs. what they want," he said. "They want more practicality. Young buyers in particular are much more conscious about waste, and they desire simplicity."

Many home interior plans now include so-called flex-rooms that can serve multiple purposes. Another recent trend is the revival of courtyards — a pleasant, private area where family members can be alone or interact with friends and neighbors, Vasquez said.

Q. What do the expert real estate analysts say about the market in coming months?

A. Most areas of the country are optimistic. For example, here's what researcher/analyst Ernest Siracusa writes in his new "Siracusa Report."

"For the first time in several years, there is a genuine sense of optimism in the air with respect to the new home market. A look at the market statistics certainly supports this outlook. Clearly, the market is making a come-back. Lacking any sudden upward surge in interest rates or downward plunge in the economic climate, it should continue in this mode for the balance of the year."

Q. How will the proposed changes in the Real Estate Settlement and Procedures Act (RESPA) help consumers?

"Most of HUD's recommendations are helpful to consumers as well as businesses attempting to offer one-stop shopping in the real estate settlement service arena."

But some elements of the proposed changes should be studied more closely."

A. Industry professionals are sharply divided in assessing the impact of new RESPA rules now being formalized. The most vocal group is probably the National Association of Realtors. Here's their view:

"The proposed RESPA rule changes will facilitate consumer demand for better one-stop shopping capability in the home buying process, but more clarification is needed," an NAR spokesman said.

"Home buyers definitely want one-stop shopping in the real estate settlement service area, and recent changes proposed in the RESPA rules will help develop this concept."

"However, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) should create a 'level playing field' for those involved in providing settlement services, whether they be the traditional paper-based approach or the newly emerging high-tech diversified real estate services."

"RESPA changes proposed by HUD would regulate the number of lenders that must be listed on a computerized loan origination (CLO) service and how the service is paid for. HUD also is proposing to revise the wording on disclosure forms and stipulate how employees can compensate employees for referring business to affiliated companies."

"Most of HUD's recommendations are helpful to consumers as well as businesses attempting to offer one-stop shopping in the real estate settlement service arena. But some elements of the proposed changes should be studied more closely."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

$2 million Novi house reduced for sale even though the house is surrounded to the south by woods. With the push of a button, electric shutters on the first floor quickly open or shut. Three fireplaces grace the first floor, including one in the living room, with its 10-foot tall ceiling and glass French doors to a two-tier outdoor deck.

Each of the four bedrooms has at least one walk-in closet.

To keep that big house comfortable, there are two furnaces, two air conditioners and two hot water tanks.

Outdoors, it's the perfect home for those who love horses or who want to set up their own private zoo. The two barns made of imported Austrian brick include a shower for the livestock.

"If you're into animals, they've got it all here," Burke said.

Of course, if you're into acquiring larger collectibles, like cars, those barns would come in handy, too.

While developers have eyed the 30 acres as a possible location for a new subdivision, Burke said he'd like to see the property sold intact as an estate.

Teakwood stand from China

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. A teakwood stand that I inherited from my uncle. It is 25 inches high, and the top is 11 inches in diameter. The top has a pink marble inset. A paper label on the underside has the words "Fau & Hing — Made in China."

What is its approximate worth?

A. Carved teakwood stands were made in China for export in the early 1900s. They are generally seen in antique shops in the $200 to $300 range, depending on the condition.

Q. I have a porcelain creamer and sugar bowl that are at least 70 years old. They were made in Japan and decorated with multicolored flowers against a white background and trimmed in orange.

Can you give me an idea of what they are worth?

A. Porcelain of this type was made in large volumes in the early 20th century and is easily found in antique shops today. The set would probably be worth about $30 to $35 in good condition.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a silver-plated coffee and tea service that I have. The set consists of a coffee pot, teapot, creamer, sugar bowl and tray.

Could you tell me when it was made and what its value is?

A. Your set was made by International Silver in the mid-20th century. Camille is the name of the pattern. The value would probably be about $325 to $375 in good condition.

Q. My mother gave me a cast-iron doorstop that she had for years. It is a black cat with yellow eyes. The back is flat black and it is sitting on a base. The height is 13 inches and it weighs 20 pounds. The paint is the original, but it is worn away in just a few small areas.

Should I repaint it and does it have any value?

A. Most cast-iron door stops were made from the late 1800s to the early 1900s. Repainting diminishes the price; the original paint is preferred. Your doorstop would probably be valued about $125.

Q. I inherited a blue and white spongware wash bowl and pitcher. It belonged to my great-grandmother who brought it with her from England in 1900. The pitcher is 12 inches high and the bowl is 14 inches in diameter.

Could you please tell me what it is worth?

A. Spongware was popular in the 1800s and early 1900s in both Europe and the United States. While examples can be found in green and white, and orange and white, blue and white remain the colors most preferred. Your wash set would probably be valued at $300 to $350.

BOOK REVIEW

Jo Cunningham, author of "The Collector's Encyclopedia of American Dinnerware" (Collector Books), has left no stone unturned in her research on every facet of the American pottery industry. She has checked records, talked with pottery workers and scoured over trade publications, catalogs and magazines.

Histories, detailed descriptions, photos, dates, marks and catalog reprints of more than 40 manufacturers are showcased. Also included is a glossary and an up-to-date price guide.

Save for retirement with U.S. Savings Bonds. They'll mature before you do.

You're as young as you feel. And you're feeling "groovy." Which explains why you prefer Motown LPs over rap CDs. Why you prefer to call them "my comfortable jeans," not "my loose fit jeans."

And why you still haven't started to save for retirement.

Exactly what are you waiting for? The first day of your retirement, when you find yourself with no more job and no more paychecks?

Give your retirement savings program a solid foundation by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. They're backed by the full faith and credit of the United States and guaranteed to earn interest.* And they're easy to buy for just a few dollars each payday through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan. Or buy them at your bank.

Plus, the interest earned on U.S. Savings Bonds is exempt from state and local income taxes and can be deferred for federal income tax purposes for up to 30 years*.

Ask your banker or your employer about including U.S. Savings Bonds in your retirement savings program. And who knows? Your bonds just might mature before you do.

LET THERE BE LIGHT
QUESTION: Do you have any suggestions on how much a home should be lighted when being shown to a prospective buyer?
ANSWER: In my opinion -- the brighter the better! Give the prospect the best image you can of the comfort, beauty and livability you are offering. In other words, you want to sell a home not a house. Full illumination is the best way to give your home the "lived-in" look.
Furniture, rugs and fixtures take on a warm glow from the proper lighting. Kitchens should always be bright, turn on lights in all rooms and especially in closets and storage rooms. The brighter -- the better.

Don's is bringing '50s back in Novi

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Walking into Novi's newest eatery, Don's of Traverse City, is a little like walking into a time warp.

Maybe it's the black and white checkered floor. Then again it could be the pictures of Elvis Presley on the wall or even the old fashioned jukebox by the front door.

Whatever the case, patrons are sure to feel like they've traveled back to the 1950s. Everything about Don's, from the Life and Look magazine covers on the walls to the classic uniforms waitresses wear, gives that feeling.

Owner Bob Wilson's reason for donning the '50s motif is pretty simple: he likes the era.

"I like that kind of food," he added.

Located at 48730 Grand River Avenue, just east of Wixom Road, Don's of Traverse City specializes in real burgers and real French fries - not the tasteless stuff you get at the fast food places.

"Real milk shakes are what I'm best known for," said Wilson.

Don's opened about three weeks ago on Novi's west side. With development sprouting up on Grand River and into Wixom, the restaurant is sure to be a hit.

"I thought the location was right," said Wilson.

The entrepreneur moved his family from, you guess it, Traverse City last fall after living up north for about 20 years. Family ties were an important factor in moving to the metropolitan area, Wilson said.

"My wife is from this area," he added.

Ground was broken for the restaurant in July. Wilson planned for it to open a little sooner, but had to get special approval from the City of Novi because of Don's building facade.

"They liked the '50s concept," Wilson said, "but they wrinkled their eyes at my stainless steel concept."

Novi usually requires brick facades. After receiving the waiver, it wasn't a matter of constructing the building from the ground up. It was a matter of dropping it into place with a rather large crane.

The stainless steel building was made in Daytona Beach, Fla., by a company called "Starlite Diner." Wilson flew down and met with officials to select the exact style for his Novi diner.

After gaining final building approvals, the diner was transported to Michigan and put into place.

"It was like moving a mobile home," said Wilson.

Thus far, the restaurant has been received well in Novi.

"It's been overwhelming," Wilson said.

Don's of Traverse City isn't his venture in the food business.

Wilson has owned Don's Drive-In in Traverse City for more than a decade. Traverse The Magazine has awarded that establishment "best burgers and shakes" several times, including 1989.

"What you see is what you get at Don's," the magazine wrote that year, "your basic breakfasts, burgers, shakes and fries - no frills, no cutesy names, no high-ticket prices."

Wilson has kept that same philosophy for Don's of Traverse City. A 1/4-pound burger, done the way you want it, is $2.75 and the Big D 1/2-pounder is $4.35. Burger baskets, which include cole slaw and fries runs under $6.

Other sandwiches, ham and cheese, grilled cheese, charbroiled chicken breast and fish are also on the menu. Coney and foot long hot dogs are another tasty part of the fare at Don's.

Soups and chili are on hand for lighter meals. Breaded onion rings and mushrooms or "French fries by the car load" top off dinner.

To wash it down, Don's serves

Malts are 25 cents extra.

New owner takes over local franchise

A new owner of an existing Molly Maid franchise continues to meet the growing demands of busy, two-career families.

Jerry Brown is the new owner of Molly Maid of Livingston County, a two-year-old location of one of the world's fastest growing residential cleaning franchises, with U.S. operations based in Ann Arbor. Brown bought the franchise "to serve Livingston County, including Brighton, Howell, and Fowlerville and Milford and South Lyon in Oakland County. He is running the business with the help of his two sons, Randy, 25, and Rob, 23.

"Because my wife and I both work, we are aware of the pressures two career families face every day," says Brown, a former insurance executive. "With the current boom that this area is experiencing, investing in a domestic cleaning franchise fills an existing need that is only going to increase."

Brown learned about Molly Maid after researching domestic cleaning opportunities, and was impressed with the company's high standards and reputation for quality. When the former owner got a job training new franchisees at the company's corporate headquarters, Brown saw an opportunity to fulfill a family dream — to go into business with his two sons. "The idea of spending time together building a business that my sons could eventually buy out when I'm ready to retire made a lot of sense to me," Brown and sons have increased business by 20 percent less than three months after taking it over.

"I wanted to offer a service that would be in demand for our territory," says Brown. "A professionally managed domestic cleaning company is a perfect match for this area because of the increasing number of professionals and two-career families who just don't have time anymore for incidentals such as domestic chores."

Nationwide, women have been entering the marketplace at a rate of 1.1 million per year over the past decade, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Women in the workplace now number 58.4 million, up from 48.5 million in 1983.

The demographic shift has been a boom to businesses, many of which are franchises, which serve families with both parents working outside the home.

"It helped our business grow 30 percent last year," says Paul Wiljansen, vice president of marketing at Molly Maid corporate.

And it's given birth to a wide range of new businesses and services, everything from dry cleaners that pick up and deliver at the workplace to third-party restaurant delivery services, that bring restaurant-prepared meals to the doorsteps of consumers too tired to cook or even go out to eat.

Aside from saving consumers time and energy, Molly Maid of Livingston County offers its clients peace of mind. Molly Maid shields consumers from liability by meeting federal, state, county and city payroll tax requirements. In addition, all of the company's maids are company employees not subcontract workers.

Molly Maid's professional ethics are echoed in every facet of the company's operations. For instance, Brown points out that Molly Maid employees are all trained in the company's team cleaning methods and must wear the company's blue and white maid's uniforms. They arrive at job sites in the company's highly recognizable dark blue vehicles, with the company's pink logo on the sides.

"When you think about it, hiring someone to clean your home involves a very sacred trust," says Brown. "More than 85 percent of our customers give us the keys to their house. That's why professionalism in paying payroll taxes and delivering the kind of quality service that saves our customers valuable time is vital to building a strong customer base among two-career families."

For more information about Molly Maid, contact Jerry Brown at (810) 227-0808.

OIS plans second facility as first opens

As Optical Imaging Systems (OIS) plans the opening of its new high-tech Northville Township manufacturing plant, company officials say they may eventually open up a second, bigger facility next door.

Now based out of Troy, OIS last year closed a deal to build a $100 million plant in the township. The facility will serve as the new OIS company headquarters and a manufacturing center of cutting-edge flat-panel computer screens, primarily for use in military aircraft.

Right now, however, the company is researching the idea of opening up an even bigger plant right next door to its soon-to-be new home, one that would make computer and electronics products for the civilian market.

"We are assessing the potential for a plant like that, but we're in the very, very early stages," OIS spokesman Charles Wilson said.

"We're doing models of the plant now: what it would cost to build it, production costs, marketing information, financing options. These are all pretty big hurdles we need to jump before we can actually decide what to do."

He said that company officials did not yet know when they would have all the necessary information assembled to make that decision.

Wilson added that he could not discuss specific numbers, but indicated that the plant would likely be bigger than the current facility and its cost would be in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

The firm was helped along in its efforts to build the original plant by a $48 million grant from the federal government and by Wayne County, which sold them the 30-acre construction site for $10. County officials said that the jobs and tax revenue the plant would create made the deal feasible and attractive.

The 115,000 square foot plant will employ about 200 people, including current OIS administrators who now work at its Troy office, when things get fully under way sometime this summer. OIS will hold grand opening ceremonies for the township plant—as well as begin moving in personnel—next month.

Wilson declined to comment on published reports that OIS has checked with Wayne County officials about buying 40 more acres of land it owns that sits next to its present site.

Flat-panel computers are slimmer and clearer than conventional screens, Wilson said. OIS is particularly interested in manufacturing "notebook" portable computers and screens for automobiles as well.

"There's a huge, emerging market for these products," he said, "and we know that we can get into it. We know that it can be done, but we've got to develop a plan."

In June 1994, OIS announced a deal with Apple to make the display panels for that firm's notebook computers. Wilson estimated the worldwide market for civilian flat-panel goods at between $10 billion to $20 billion.

Guardian Industries, owned by Detroit Pistons majority partner Bill Davidson, owns OIS. The $10 deal he got for the land for the new OIS plant caused waves in some quarters. Plymouth's Bob DeMatia, leader of a group of area developers, dropped attempts to buy 800-odd acres of land the county owns in the township for a gigantic commercial and residential project.

DeMatia argued that his group should get a break on the price of the land since the parcel OIS bought was worth more than $3 million.

Money Management

Cheaper way to take your loans

Carrying high credit card charges from month to month is one of the most expensive ways to borrow money. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA) says that there are smarter ways to borrow money that will keep interest costs to a minimum and allow you to pay off your debts faster.

The options available vary depending on how you plan to use the funds, how much you plan to borrow, and for how long.

HOME-EQUITY LOANS

If you've been haphazardly racking up credit card charges, you can consolidate your debt by taking out a home-equity loan. You can usually borrow up to 80 percent of your home's value, minus the balance on your mortgage. With interest rates on mortgage loans averaging about half that of credit card rates, a home-equity loan may save you thousands of dollars.

In addition, if you itemize on your tax return, you may also be able to deduct the interest on up to $100,000 of home-equity indebtedness. Check with your CPA to determine if you'll qualify for the deduction.

Finally, keep in mind that when you borrow against your home, you are essentially putting your home on the line. If you can't pay off your home-equity debt, you risk losing your home.

CREDIT UNIONS

Credit unions provide a number of consumer credit services, including home-equity, automobile and personal loans. Their loan services are restricted to credit union members who borrow money from a pool of funds, comprised in part of money deposited by all of the credit union's members. If you're a credit union member and need a loan, you will most likely obtain a more favorable rate by taking the loan from your credit union than by borrowing from a local bank.

401(K) PLANS

If you participate in a qualified retirement plan, such as a 401(k) plan, you can borrow against your investment. Generally loans must be repaid within five years and there are limits on how much you can borrow. The benefits: The interest rate is usually one percentage point above prime—which is lower than the interest rate on most other forms of credit—and your interest payments go into your own account.

INSURANCE POLICIES

Certain types of insurance policies can be used as security to borrow from insurance companies. For example, if you own a whole life policy, you can borrow against the cash-value of the policy. The interest rate will generally be lower than that charged by lending institutions. In fact, the interest rate on loans of older policies can be as low as 5 percent. What's more, you do not need to repay the loan. However, in most instances, it will be beneficial to do so. That's because the amount borrowed is deducted from the death benefit. Also, until the loan is repaid, your death benefit grows more slowly.

GOVERNMENT LOANS

Federal and state governments can be a source of low interest loans for special purposes such as financing a student's higher education costs or the start-up of a small business. The interest rates on government loans are usually lower than current market rates. For more information about student loans, call the Federal Student Financial Aid Information Center at 1-800-433-3243. To find out about small business loan programs, call the Small Business Administration at 1-800-USAK-SBA.

KEEP YOUR DEBT IN CHECK

Remember, it's wise to borrow money only for necessities. The MACPA says that if you must allocate more than 20 percent of your income to pay off current loans, it's time to stop borrowing and change your spending habits.

New stores coming to Twelve Oaks

The country's first Ethan Allen store located within a shopping mall has opened at Twelve Oaks Mall.

The opening is one of four new arrivals at the center. Brooks Brothers also opened in early September. Bebe, contemporary private-label fashions for women, opened in late August. Max & Erma's restaurant, opens this month.

"What a treat to be able to offer our shoppers so many fine new stores—legendary names like Ethan Allen and Brooks Brothers as well as Bebe, one of today's fastest-growing retailers of fine women's fashions," observes Elaine Kah, Twelve Oaks marketing director. "As for Max & Erma's, it's one of those places where everybody loves to gather and eat."

For Ethan Allen, one of the country's leading manufacturers and retailers of home furnishings and accessories, the shopping center location marks a new retailing venture.

"We are delighted to be bringing this exciting retail concept to the Detroit area," said Barbara McGill, vice president, general manager Ethan Allen retail division. "Our store in the Twelve Oaks Mall will enable us to reach a new generation of Ethan Allen customers, while providing added convenience to our many existing customers in the community."

The new 4,500-square-foot store will carry furniture in the company's four home style categories—Casual Contemporary, American Country, Classic Elegance and Formal—as well as tableware, quilts, lamps, wall decor, vases, serving trays and candlesticks.

Shoppers will find home entertainment centers, office furniture and a selection of wood accessories like jewelry cases, nesting tables and mirrors.

Ethan Allen also offers complimentary design services and free local delivery.

The furniture retailer kicked off its new concept at an opening reception held Sept. 8.

That same evening, Brooks Brothers, classic American clothiers since 1818, hosted a reception. Ten percent of sales that night went to charity.

On display at the reception and for a short time after was a memorabilia from the Brooks Brothers exhibition "175 Years of American Style," featuring Brooks Brothers originals and replicas, including Abraham Lincoln's great coat, Franklin Delano Roosevelt's legendary cape, an 1800s military uniform and portraits of famous customers.

Brooks Brothers, which has only one other Michigan retail location, will feature an extensive selection of men's classic business clothing, formal wear, furnishings and sportswear, as well as tailored clothing and accessories for women.

"Brooks Brothers has a long history as an American institution that has been shaping the evolution of a uniquely American style for over 175 years," said William V. Roberti, president and chief executive officer. "We are delighted to be opening a store in Novi and look forward to serving the surrounding community."

Bebe, a rapidly growing San Francisco-based women's fashion retailer and manufacturer, offers contemporary fashion "with an adventurous, sensual twist." Its target customers are contemporary women between 25 and 45, according to Trish Mareno, vice president.

"Price points like $175 to $225 for jackets, $40 to $80 for tops, and $69 to $130 for bottoms make a Bebe suit a small indulgence for the '90s customer," observes

Mareno.

Bebe, with 30 shops in fashionable locations such as West Palm Beach and Scottsdale, hopes to open 20 more stores nationwide by 1995.

The new Max & Erma's, which will open at Twelve Oaks this fall, will seat 200 and offer fair-weather diners an outdoor patio.

The casual restaurant is known for its varied menu, from gourmet hamburgers and pastas to Mexican and Oriental fare, as well as for its eclectic decor which features sports memorabilia, old-time posters and photos of famous people.

"It's the perfect restaurant for shoppers," observes William Niesch Jr., executive vice president. "You can come in and get very good quality for about $5 to $6 before tax and tip and be out the door in 35 to 40 minutes."

"I think that has a lot of appeal to the shopper who doesn't want to spend an arm and a leg and who doesn't want to take an hour or an hour and a half of shopping time to eat."

To assure top quality and service, Max & Erma's employs "secret diners" to eat at their restaurants and report back with their findings.

Young drivers pay high insurance rates

Younger drivers are more than twice as likely to be involved in a traffic accident compared to motorists aged 45-54, according to a study conducted by the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC).

Statistics in the report also indicate that young driver crashes tend to be more deadly.

"About 15 percent of drivers aged 16-20 are involved in a traffic accident each year," according to Terry Buckles, president of MAIC. "By comparison, only 6 percent of 45- to 54-year-olds are involved in a roadway crash annually."

Buckles also noted that 16- to 20-year-old drivers have a greater involvement in fatal accidents than most other age groups. Only those drivers aged 75 and older have a higher rate of deadly crashes.

"Younger motorists are having more accidents and more costly accidents," Buckles said. "That is the reason they pay higher premiums for car insurance. The greater price is a reflection of greater insurance pay out."

A younger person who is the principal driver of a motor vehicle typically pays 40 to 200 percent more for coverage than older drivers, according to the MAIC report. This surcharge is reduced as the driver grows older and is generally discontinued by insurance companies at or before age 25.

Premium surcharges are generally much lower for young drivers who use the family car only on an occasional basis. These typically range from 20 percent for 24-year-olds to 90 percent for 16-year-olds, but vary from one insurance company to another.

[ALL THOSE TIRED OF CLIMBING IN AND OUT OF A TRUCK, STEP RIGHT UP.]

Getting in and out of a sport utility vehicle can be an adventure. That's why we created the all-new Jimmy from GMC Truck. One of the first things you'll notice is a lower step-in height. This was achieved without sacrificing ground clearance—an engineering breakthrough. Of course Jimmy still comes with all the strength and reliability of a GMC truck. Like a boxed frame for improved riding comfort, Insta-Trac® 4WD, and as standard equipment the Enhanced 4.3L, 195 hp V6 engine—one of the most powerful in its class. Not to mention a remarkably quiet interior, and other sport utility firsts—like a choice of suspensions

For safety, there's a standard driver's side air bag*, four-wheel antilock brakes, and steel reinforced side door beams. For more information call 1-800-GMC TRUCK. Or better yet visit a GMC Truck dealer for a test drive.

*If you are a Michigan resident, please refer to the "Safety" section of the GMC Jimmy Owner's Manual for details on proper use of the air bag.

Chatham-Created Alexandrite

Chatham-created Alexandrite - The original June birthstone. Natural alexandrite, named after Czar Alexander II was discovered in 1830 in Russia.

This fascinating chameleon-like stone has always been thought to be a good omen but is now extremely rare and very expensive. We now offer Chatham-created alexandrite, set in 14K gold, which changes from a rich, lush blue-green, to a dramatic royal purple as shown here. The real difference between natural alexandrite and Chatham is price!

Orin Jewelers Returns From 8,000 Mile Diamond Buying Trip

ORIN MAZZONI, JR. BECOMES EXCLUSIVE ANTWERP DIAMOND BROKER

Benefit of Charter Membership in Master IJO Jewelers Organization

Special to The Antwerp Times
Antwerp, Belgium—Typically, only the largest importers can purchase diamonds in Antwerp. Most jewelers are shut out because they would need a one or two million dollar cash deposit just to gain entry to the direct diamond sources visited recently by Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Orin Jewelers in Garden City and Northville.

So how does a single store gain access to those sources? "Usually it can't," he explains. "But we're the exclusive charter member of the Master IJO Jewelers organization in this area. Since IJO is the largest Buying Group in the world, it has enormous clout. Master IJO Jewelers like us are welcomed in Antwerp."

Orin Mazzoni, Jr. observed the fine art of diamond cutting while in Antwerp, Belgium.

IJO headquartered in Westport, C.I., is, in fact, larger than all other Buying Groups combined. It has more than 900 retail jeweler members worldwide, including Australia, Canada, and the United Kingdom—who generate over $600 million in annual retail sales. That goes a long way toward explaining why Master IJO Jewelers can buy from direct diamond sources in Antwerp.

Such rare access to Antwerp diamond cutters is rewarding for everyone. Customers, for example, can purchase the exact diamonds they are looking for and take advantage of deep discounts. And the store, by building on its Master IJO Jeweler exclusivity and serving as the Antwerp Diamond Broker for its customers, builds its reputation as the only local diamond source

BIG SAVINGS ON DIAMONDS FROM ANTWERP

Special to The Antwerp Times

If you are wondering when your jeweler might go to Antwerp for you, there is no reason to wonder any longer. Because IJO goes to the diamond capital of the world several times a year. And the exclusive, local Master IJO Jeweler who just returned with exquisite stones at remarkable prices is Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Orin Jewelers in Garden City and Northville.

The store's replenished inventory includes the finest diamonds from a vast selection unavailable to jewelers who do not travel to Antwerp, and since there is no middleman markup, customers save 20-40%.

All of the diamonds were handpicked in Antwerp according to the highest standards of the selection process, known in the trade as the 4-C's—Color, Cut, Clarity, and Carat Weight. "It's a painstaking process. Of all the diamonds we inspect for our customers, fewer than one in eight meet our demanding standards," says Orin.

In all of this, the standards for diamonds processed in Antwerp are more demanding than diamonds found elsewhere. Cut, for example, is more exacting due to the meticulous care of Antwerp's artisans. And Carat Weight is measured by state-of-the-art electronic scales. As a result, diamonds from Antwerp are superior in every respect.

The store's inventory includes diamonds of all shapes and sizes. One quality they have in common is the special Antwerp savings on the fine selection of all diamonds.

The most beautiful diamonds in the world come from Antwerp, Belgium.

Customers are assured of the highest standards in Color, Cut, Clarity and Carat Weight. Color is the actual body color inherent in every diamond. Cut is the "make" of every diamond in the production process. Clarity refers to tiny flaws that may exist in diamonds as proscribed in accordance with ratings determined by the Gemological Institute of America. And carat weight is the measure of all diamonds as quantified by special scales.

Readers are invited to stop by the store and see the exquisite selection of fine diamonds and gemstones available in the store.

DIAMANT CLUB VAN ANTWERPEN

Orin Mazzoni, Jr. and other Master IJO Jewelers received special invitations to visit The Diamond Club in Antwerp, Belgium. Over 900 Master IJO Jewelers from the U.S., Canada, Australia and the U.K. travel to Belgium regularly.

ANTWERP DIAMOND BROKER PROGRAM SAVES YOU 20-40%

Antwerp is The Diamond Capital of The World

Antwerp, Belgium—Most jewelers never travel to Antwerp, Belgium to buy diamonds for their customers. It is a demanding journey. Antwerp is a long way from here. More often than not, there are frustrating travel delays. Negotiating for the best possible diamond prices is arduous. And there is the inconvenience of jet lag as well.

Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Orin Jewelers, looking at diamonds in Antwerp, Belgium.

Perhaps for those reasons, only jewelers serious about their diamond business make the trip. A local jeweler who just returned from Antwerp is Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Orin Jewelers in Garden City and Northville.

While there, he was the Diamond Broker for the store's customers. "IJO goes to Antwerp several times a year," he says, "because we see more fine diamonds there than we can anywhere else. And because we're able to pass along the savings we negotiate there."

Antwerp is the source for diamonds. It is, in fact, the diamond capital of the world. Over half of the world's supply is sold there. And that includes the finest, well-made diamonds mined in South Africa, India, Russia, Israel, and other diamond centers around the world.

People in this area would have to travel all the way to Antwerp to see so many fine diamonds in one place. As it selection and price are not enough, there are several other reasons to stop by the store.

Providence Hospital and Medical Centers is part of the Daughters of Charity National Health System, the largest not-for-profit health care system in the nation.

The Daughters of Charity were founded in 1633 in Paris, France by St. Vincent de Paul and St. Louise de Marillac. The Daughters established Michigan's first hospital in 1845, only eight years after the state joined the Union.

The institution known as Providence Hospital in Southfield grew out of the House of Providence, founded by the Daughters in Detroit in 1869. In 1910, this facility became a general hospital known as Providence and was located in Detroit on West Grand Boulevard. In 1965, the hospital moved to its present location in Southfield.

Today, the Providence network of caring encompasses a 462-bed community teaching hospital, along with numerous family-centered medical centers and many advanced care services. The Daughters' healing mission is central to all we do at Providence, and all patients are treated with dignity and compassion.

WESTERN WAYNE OAKLAND COUNTY ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS

Your Guide Down the Road to Buying & Selling

"The American Dream"

The Western Wayne Oakland County Association of REALTORS® is a 2,600+ member real estate trade association, headquartered in Farmington. The WWOCAR has produced this publication as a tool for you to use when you enter the home buying or home selling process.

Enclosed you will find a geographical list of our REALTOR® member offices*, as well as "Affiliate" members who are in related fields such as lending, title representation, building, etc. You will also find other helpful information throughout, including tips on preparing your home for showings and up-to-date information on each of the cities and townships within our area. We hope you retain this publication as a reference even if you are not currently in the housing market either as a potential buyer or seller. Please note that the market area of a particular firm is not limited to the city or township in which it is located.

*Those offices listed have paid a nominal fee to assist in covering the cost of this publication. There are additional members in good standing who did not wish to have their names appear in this publication.

REALTOR®

What is a Realtor®?

A REALTOR® is a licensed real estate agent who has chosen to belong to a local Board/Association of REALTORS®, State Association of REALTORS® and the National Association of REALTORS®. By belonging to these Associations, the REALTOR® pledges to abide by a strict Code of Ethics, setting them apart from other sales agents who are not members and have not pledged themselves to such a personal obligation. Only REALTORS® are licensed to use the federally registered trademark, and only REALTORS® have access to an affiliated multiple listing service (MLS). All real estate firms listed in this publication, as well as individual agents within their offices, are REALTOR® members of the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of REALTORS®, the Michigan Association of REALTORS® and the National Association of REALTORS®.

Did You Know?

The Western Wayne Oakland County Association of REALTORS® (WWOCAR) presents services for the public as well as for its members. Following are four of our top public service programs in 1994. For more information on any of these projects, contact the WWOCAR offices at 810/478-1700.

Home Renovation Project

1994 presented the WWOCAR with one of its toughest challenges - renovation of a home for a needy family. Contributions and donations of time and money were solicited, and hundreds of hours of work were completed for the lucky homeowner in our community. The WWOCAR hopes to continue this project in 1995.

Fair Housing Month Seminar

The WWOCAR presents an annual Fair Housing Month Seminar each April to its members and the public. Speakers from the Detroit Fair Housing Center, Detroit HUD Office, and such luminaries as WJBK TV2 news anchor Huel Perkins have offered panel discussions on your rights and responsibilities under the law.

Scholarships

Scholarships are available for high school students! They must be recommended by a WWOCAR member and apply by April 15th. Scholarship amounts range from $200-$1000 and are awarded on or near June 1st.

Homebuyer/Homeseller Seminars

Each spring, the WWOCAR presents a Homebuyer and a Homeseller seminar. These programs offer a diverse panel of speakers from within the industry, including Realtors®, home inspectors, lenders, accountants, and attorneys. It's your chance to ask questions of the experts!

And don't forget...this brochure is a public service project of the WWOCAR. Be sure to let our members know you saw them "in the Observer & Eccentric publication!"

MLS: What Is It, and How Can it Help Me?

A Multiple Listing Service (MLS) is a computerized network which allows information on homes for sale to be accessed by all REALTORS® who subscribe to the service.

Locally, there are seven Boards/Associations of REALTORS® who have worked together to form a 7,000+ user MLS. For the seller, this means that by listing your home with a REALTOR®, the pertinent information can be accessed by over 7,000 REALTORS® in 5 counties in the Detroit metropolitan area.

With the aid of a REALTOR®, potential buyers are able to "shop" through a typical inventory of over 9,000 residential homes and condominiums via the MLS. They are able to do so by specifying certain parameters, such as price range, area, number of bedrooms, fireplace, amenities, etc.

What Can a REALTOR® Do for You When You Are...

BUYING? SELLING?

A REALTOR® helps you determine how much home you can actually afford. Often a REALTOR® can suggest additional ways to accrue the down payment and explain alternative financing methods.

A REALTOR® can help you work out a realistic idea of the home best suited to your needs—size, style, features, location, accessibility to schools, transportation, shopping, and other personal preferences.

A REALTOR® has access to a listing of available homes, can evaluate them in terms of your needs and affordability, and doesn't waste your time on unsuitable homes.

A REALTOR® can supply information on real estate values, taxes, utility costs, municipal services and facilities, and may be aware of proposed zoning changes that could affect your decision to buy.

A REALTOR® knows the local money market and can tell you about financing, along with telling you what personal and financial data to bring with you when you apply for a loan.

A REALTOR® knows the current real estate market and can help you set a realistic competitive price. A REALTOR® also is familiar with the local home loan market and can help you decide on financing that's best to expedite your sale.

A REALTOR® knows how to figure the approximate net proceeds from your sale based on types of loans, outstanding loan balance and closing costs.

A REALTOR® can suggest how to add sales appeal to your home at low or moderate cost.

A REALTOR® knows where to find prospective buyers. Most homebuyers prefer to work with a real estate agent. Serious prospects are "qualified" as to their affordable price range before your home is shown.

A REALTOR® frees you from problems associated with showing your home. The REALTOR® handles all phone inquiries, makes appointments, shows your home and follows up, leaving your time for you.

What Everyone Should Know About Equal Opportunity in Housing...

The sale and purchase of a home is one of the most significant events that any person will experience in their lifetime. It is more than the simple purchase of housing, for it includes the hopes, dreams, aspirations, and economic destiny of those involved in it. The home seller, home seeker, and the Realtor® all have rights and responsibilities under the law.

For the Home Seller

You should know that as a home seller or landlord you have a responsibility and a requirement under the law not to discriminate in the sale, rental and financing of a property on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin. In the state of Michigan, marital status and age are also included as protected classes. You cannot instruct the licensed broker or salesperson acting as your agent to convey for you any limitations in the sale or rental, because the real estate professional is bound by law not to discriminate. Under the law, a home seller or landlord cannot establish discriminatory terms or conditions in the purchase or rental; deny that housing is available or advertise that the property is available only to persons of a certain race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, marital status, or age.

For the Home Seeker

You have the right to expect that housing will be available to you without discrimination or other limitations based on race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin. The state of Michigan also includes marital status and age as protected classes.

Your Realtor®

As a home seller or home seeker, you should know that Realtors®, as members of the National Association of REALTORS®, are bound to conduct their business in accordance with Article 10 of the REALTOR® Code of Ethics, which prohibits discrimination.

Now Showing...

Your Home! Realtors® go through a lot of homes during their careers, and have picked up some helpful hints to aid in selling yours:

Necessities:

- ☆ Open shades and drapes.
- ☆ Open windows to freshen rooms.
- ☆ Turn on lights.
- ☆ Make sure rugs are clean and straight.
- ☆ Empty wastebaskets.
- ☆ Deodorize pet areas.
- ☆ Get rid of clutter.
- ☆ Set a comfortable temperature.
- ☆ Pick up lawn tools & toys.
- ☆ Pick up after pets.
- ☆ Remove obstructions from curb view.
- ☆ Clear driveways and walk areas.

Extras:

- ☆ Add potted plants or hanging flowers to deck or porch.
- ☆ Add scented soaps or a candle in the bathroom.
- ☆ Use flowers and potpourri.
- ☆ Use logs & fireplace accessories.
- ☆ Drape an afghan over a chair or couch.
- ☆ Arrange decorative pillows or shams on beds.

Your best tip is to work with a Realtor®! Through the multiple listing service, they can expose your home to the most potential (and qualified) buyers!

Moving Day - Tips from the Experts

Moving has come a long way from the wagon days of the pioneers. Yet, the fact remains that moving is stressful and time-consuming. Here are some moving tips to help you in your move:

Before the Move Checklist

1. Sort and clean all possessions. Set aside items that you will not use again for a garage sale, charity, or the garbage.
2. Take inventory of each room. Involve the entire family; do one room per day.
3. Obtain copies of all medical and dental records, school transcripts, and birth certificates.
4. Gather all carpets, drapes, and clothes that need dry cleaning. Keep items in cleaning bags and packages so that they stay clean and fresh during the move.
5. Use up canned and frozen food.
6. If you have children, involve them throughout the move. Make them a part of the planning and packing process. They will feel useful and be busy.

Packing Tips

1. Pack drawers with light items: shirts, underwear, blankets, pillowcases.
2. Anything that would be difficult to replace (jewelry, documents, cameras, coin/stamp collections) should be transported with you on moving day. Contents of a safe deposit box can usually be moved for you by your bank.
3. If you move plants, they should be transported with you. For detailed information, consult a local florist or a book on plants.
4. If you are transporting pets, keep them in a well-ventilated cage, away from drafts or extreme temperatures. Pet tranquilizers (prescribed by your vet) can make the trip easier for everyone.

Moving Day/Arrival Checklist

1. Make sure the movers know which items to load last and which items not to load.
2. After the movers have finished unloading, you will be asked to sign an inventory list. Note any apparent damage before you sign and write that you have not finished inspecting your possessions.
3. Plan something special for the whole family to do together at the end of the day.
