

Teachers, school district sign three-year pact

Contract provides for 2.5% annual increases

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The Northville Public School administration and the district's teachers concluded a new three-year contract in what officials are calling record time - four days.

"As far as I can remember I think that's a record," said Director of Personnel Roy Danley. "We were pleased that the parties could settle."

The Northville Education Association's some 300 kindergarten through 12th-grade and special education teachers ratified the contract Jan. 18 by a vote of 154-25.

The Board of Education unanimously approved the tentative agreement at its meeting Monday night.

"Negotiations were quiet and peaceful - that's the way it should be," NEA President Barb LeBoeuf said. "It's a tremendous relief to have settled."

This year's tranquil and speedy negotiations are a far cry from the last contract that was settled two years ago, as the parties took roughly five months to work out the details of the contract then.

The main reason negotiations were settled in such an expedient fashion this year is that the entire contract was not laid out on the table for revamping, LeBoeuf said.

"We agreed to restrict the language open for negotiation," she said. "It was in nobody's best interest to take the whole summer."

Danley agreed, saying there was a num-

Disaster averted in fire at township complex

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

An early morning fire one week ago destroyed two apartments in Northville Township and forced the evacuation of several more.

There were no deaths or serious injuries. Township public safety officials say that's largely due to the efforts of police Officers Kevin Blas and Chris Herter as well as firefighters Mike Eckert and Bill Case.

Herter and Blas were first on the scene of the Jan. 19 blaze at the Northville Forest apartments on Five Mile between Haggerty and Bradner Roads. They evacuated most of the residents in the burning building. Eckert and Case rescued two more.

One of the apartment buildings caught fire at about 6:15 a.m. Herter and Blas helped the eight people living in it to safety, including the woman in whose apartment the fire may have started.

The blaze is being ruled an accident, the result of the woman smoking in bed. She was the only person who needed medical treatment. The woman was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia where she was treated for smoke inhalation and burns to her feet, legs and arms.

It was she who called 911 at about 6:15 a.m., just hours after celebrating her 56th birthday. She told the radio dispatcher that there was a fire in the apartment but ignored his repeated instructions to leave the building.

Politics blamed in appointment

Was the decision of the Northville Township Board of Trustees to deny Rebecca Connell a seat on the Parks & Recreation Commission common sense or dirty politics?

The answer depends on who you talk to.

At their Jan. 12 meeting, board members voted 4-3 to remove Connell's name from consideration for a three-year seat on the nine-member commission which oversees the activities of the Northville

Parks & Recreation Department.

Members of the board voting for the move said they did so because the public's interest wouldn't be served by the likely personality conflict that would occur between Trustee Barbara O'Brien, who's also up for a seat, and Connell. Those voting against it said Connell was being penalized for exercising her right of free speech almost two years ago.

Connell herself said that the board backed down from its responsibility to appoint a qualified candidate. Instead, she said, they knuckled under to O'Brien, who's still nursing a grudge about a 1993 letter that was critical of her. It's a charge the trustee denies.

"I'm flabbergasted. This is blackball, behind-the-scenes political scheming. I'm really angry about it. I want the public to be aware of what's going on," Connell said.

"I agree with her (concern for free speech)," Trustee Gini Britton countered, "but as an elected official you should be responsible to the citizens. To put them on the same commission would be coun-

Britton, however, added that it would "be humiliating to Barbara."

Another stalking case comes to light

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township police are facing two cases of alleged stalking these days. Last week, a third case briefly resurfaced.

A man convicted in 1993 of stalking his ex-girlfriend, a township resident, was convicted last Wednesday of violating the terms of his sentence for that offense. He pled guilty before Judge Ron Lowe in 35th District Court and will spend 45 days in the Wayne County jail.

After being convicted of the stalking charge almost two years ago, the man was sentenced to house arrest and placed on an electronic tether. Before long, police said, he removed the tether. Authorities have been looking for him ever since.

The man has not been easy to find, officers said. However, he recently turned himself in to police. The man has had no contact with the township woman since the incidents of two years ago but police say he was convicted.

Task force draws up battle plan in drug war

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

When it comes to stamping out substance abuse among the community's young people, one thing is certain - there are no easy, clear-cut solutions.

That's what the 20 teachers, parents and administrators on the Alcohol and Other Drugs/Health Task Force found in their several months of research regarding substance abuse among the district's students and how the problem should be attacked.

Task force members left no stone unturned since beginning their research in October. They examined strides the district is taking to educate students and provide individual building programs. They spoke with students about their personal experiences. They consulted area school districts in addition to seeking out expert information from national sources

"We can't find anybody out there that has one great answer," said Robert Sornson, director of special education and AOD task force member. "Yet there are some things we can say."

Students who have positive school and family relationships with a strong sense of self-purpose and good problem-solving skills are less likely to fall prey to drug addiction, Sornson said.

In an effort to foster and promote more of these qualities in Northville students and to whittle away at what seems to be a growing problem of substance abuse among young people, the task force set several short- and long-term goals to implement in the future. The goals were presented at the Jan. 16 Instructional Services Subcommittee meeting. School officials hope to have the short-term goals implemented within the next 18 months, if not sooner.

AOD TASK FORCE GOALS

Short-term goals

Targeted for action within 18 months

- ☐ Police liaison officers on site of high school
- ☐ Additional emphasis on successful transition of students from middle school to high school
- ☐ Increased parental education, targeted particularly at parents of eighth, ninth and 10th-graders
- ☐ Evaluation of the way the AOD surveys were administered
- ☐ Development of a high school plan to integrate the Comprehensive Health Curriculum drug resistance objectives in grades 9-12
- ☐ Provide AOD training for all staff working with students
- ☐ Expand conflict resolution training in schools

Long-term recommendations

Longer than 18 months to implement

- ☐ A mentoring program for students, with one staff member assigned to mentor 15-20 students
- ☐ More activities available to students, with emphasis on healthy alternatives to alcohol and drug use in cooperation with the community.

Township News Briefs

HOME DEPOT OPENS: The Home Depot store at the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty opened this past week. The 150,000 square foot facility will sell home improvement products of all kinds.

Home Depot shares land with the WindRidge subdivision that's now under construction. The joint project remains the only one to be approved under Northville Township's Haggerty Planned Unit Development (HPUD) ordinance option.

ATTORNEY SEARCH CONTINUES: Members of the committee handling the hunt for a new township attorney held public interviews of the half-dozen finalists on Tuesday and Wednesday. A total of 27 firms submitted bids for the contract.

The committee is expected to name its top choice soon and then pass the recommendation on to the board of trustees, who have the final say.

STUDY SESSION CANCELED: The board of trustees' study session scheduled for tonight, Jan. 26, has been canceled. The board will meet in closed session.

NEW PATROL CARS ON THE WAY: The board of trustees recently agreed to the Department of Public Safety's request to buy two new patrol cars to replace two old ones.

The two Crown Victorias from McDonald Ford in Northville will cost $16,922 apiece.

TAX DEADLINE EXTENDED: Northville Township residents will have a little more time to pay their winter property tax bills. The board of trustees recently extended the pay-without-penalty deadline to Feb. 28.

CLARIFICATION: McDonald Ford officials want it known that their prices for car repairs are competitive with those offered in the area. That was not the impression given in a Dec. 15 article which appeared in The Northville Record, they believe.

The piece discussed building department head Mick Kruszewski's efforts to get his official township truck painted in order to keep it on the road for another two years.

Kruszewski received board approval to have the work done by a private individual for $732.

Trustee Barbara O'Brien wanted Kruszewski to seek a bid from McDonald Ford for the job. He did so and the article noted that the dealership's bid was for $1,790.

The story did not make clear, however, that the bid price included more work than the lower bid, including significant body repair and panel replacement. In the words of Dave Rekuc of McDonald Ford, the two bids were "apples and oranges."

Girl Scout cookie drive in full swing

Some families have already ordered their annual supply of Girl Scout cookies while others long ago cleaned out their boxes of mints, creams and caramels.

But those of you who haven't had the chance to get your hungry hands on any of the delicious delicacies have no cause for worry. You haven't missed out.

Though Scouts will be canvassing neighborhoods only through Jan. 29, booth sales of the cookies, or sales at area storefronts, are slated to begin Feb. 25 and run through March 19.

Eight great varieties are available this year, including a new fat-free cookie, the Cinnamon Oatmeal Raisin Bar. Favorites making a return appearance are Thin Mints, Caramel DeLites, Peanut Butter Patties, Shortbread, Lemon Pastry Creams, Peanut Butter Sandwiches and Strawberry 'n Creme.

Each box costs $2.50.

Over 14,000 girls in 1,000 troops are participating in this year's sale. The sale enables girls to set individual and group goals, answer questions with confidence, follow through on commitments and greet people.

According to a press release from the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, with which Northville Girl Scouts are affiliated, 69 percent of the proceeds from cookie sales go toward camp and property development, council operating budgets and to local troops.

The other 31 percent goes to ABC Cookie Co. to cover off the cost of the cookies.

For information or to order boxes of cookies, call 1-800-SCOUT (72688).

Kiwanis Club hoping to take care of pennies

The Northville Kiwanis Early Birds are embarking on an ongoing penny drive to raise money for Northville area youth projects. The Kiwanis is hoping to place canisters with local merchants and would like to ask the public to contribute their pennies when they are able.

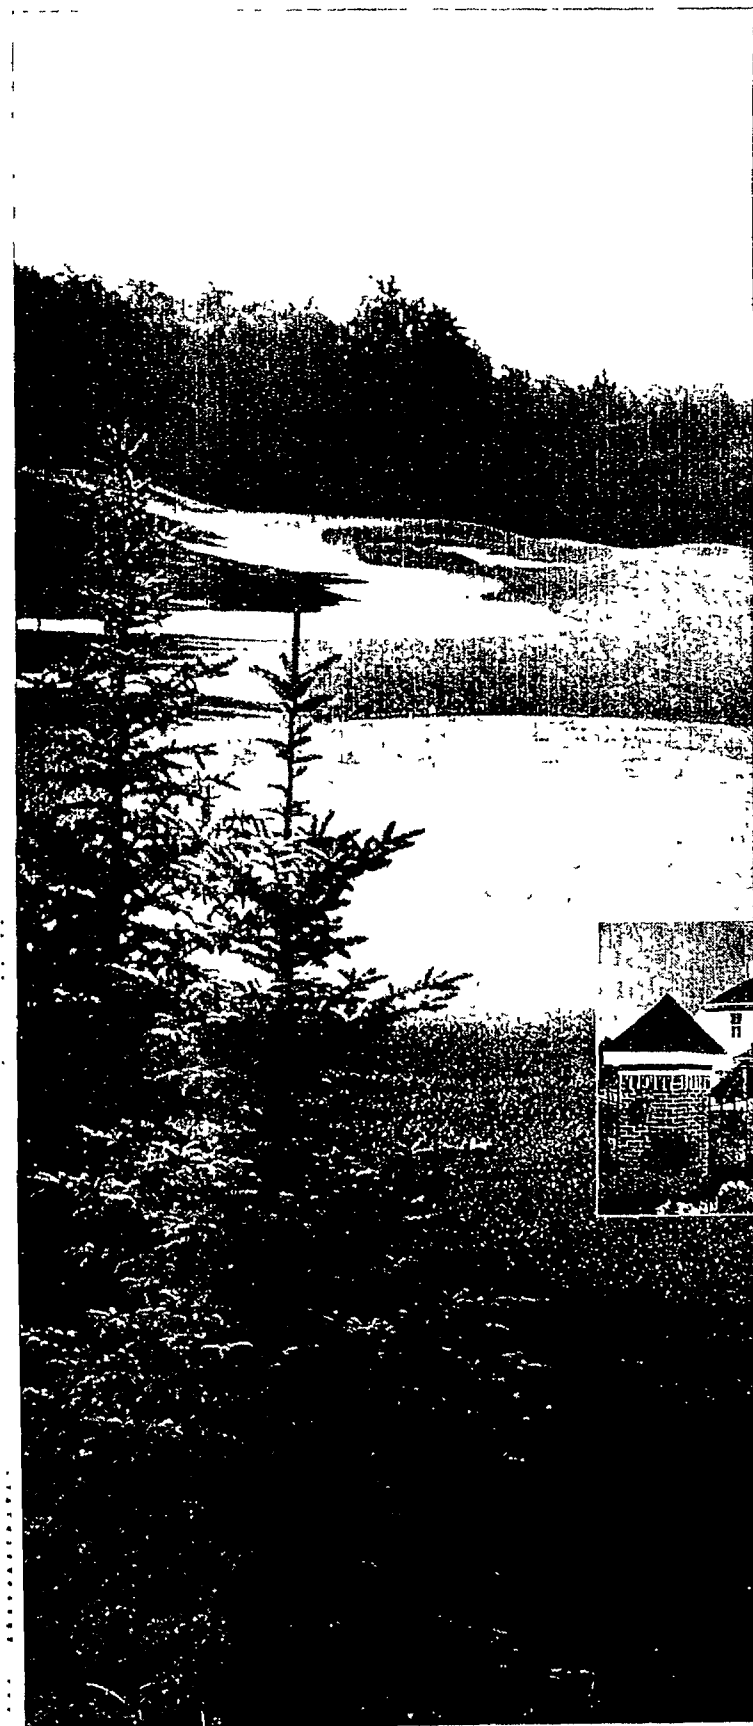

"We started our own Wednesday morning penny drive at our 7 a.m. meetings and we were amazed at how fast our collection grew," Early Bird president Ken Burch said.

"We are not asking for any major donation, just stray pennies. A small gesture like this can add up to a major donation no time."

The Kiwanis Early Bird motto is "Youth: Priority One" and 100 percent of the penny donations will go to various Northville area youth projects including scholarships.

Senior hopes experiences will help others

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Peter Anthony, a 17-year-old senior at Northville High School, is in many ways a statistic.

His former drug use makes him just one of a number of students who reported substance use and abuse when they completed the Alcohol and Other Drugs Survey last year. Community members were aghast at the high incidence of reported habitual alcohol and marijuana use, not to mention experimentation with harder drugs like LSD and cocaine, by Northville High School students.

But Anthony's classification as a statistic, fortunately, ends with the AOD survey. He now belongs to an exclusive group of survivors for whom school districts and communities probably do not have concrete numbers - those who have succeeded in pulling themselves out of the lethal grip of drug involvement.

At one time in his life, Anthony said he was immersed in the world of heavy partying characterized by excessive alcohol and marijuana use. In the past year, however, he pulled away from all that and renewed his sense of purpose in life, he said.

"You always have the choice of when you want to pull out of it (drug use)," said Anthony who has been clean for nearly 100 days now. "I made the choice. I had to get out. If I were still into it, I don't know if I'd be here today."

Earlier in the school year, Anthony served as a representative for Northville Moose Lodge No. 1190 during a statewide drug awareness conference in Lansing with some 80 other students representing Michigan high schools. The one-day conference addressed the growing problem of drug use among the state's young people and proposed possible solutions.

Quite possibly it was Anthony's candor about his life and his willingness to change it that prompted the some 80 students from the conference to choose him to represent Michigan at the Lodge's international conference, which will be held at Niagara Falls in March.

As part of his participation in the conference, Anthony must speak to classrooms of younger students and try to impress upon them the importance of leading drug- and alcohol-free lives. Along with Charlie Stilec, student assistance coordinator at the high school, Anthony has recently spoken to several groups of eighth graders at Cooke and Meads Mill middle schools.

When he began experimenting with drugs, Anthony was not much older than the students he now speaks to.

Anthony's initial experimentation began with marijuana when he was in the eighth grade. His drug use progressed through his high school years, he said. By the time he was a junior, Anthony was habitually using alcohol and marijuana, in addition to experimenting with LSD and even, on one occasion, heroin.

"At first I was just trying it out, experimenting," he said. "Then me and my friends got into it and I got in over my head. I dropped everything else. Drugs became my life."

As Anthony became seduced by the world of drugs, he also became deeply depressed, which eventually led him to attempt suicide. Drug and alcohol use played a major role in his depression, he said.

After his suicide attempt, Anthony spent about a month-and-a-half, on-and-off, in rehabilitation at an adolescent psychiatric ward in Detroit. The final decision to become clean, Anthony says, was his own. He has distanced himself from all addictive substances, including cigarettes. He used to smoke two packs a day.

Even though Anthony's story is a troubling one, it has a happy ending. The bright, well-spoken 17-year-old plans to attend Oakland Community College next year and hopes to transfer to Michigan State University.

"I'm lucky," he said. "I don't feel I'm a success."

Anthony's involvement in drugs was not something he expected to happen.

"I never thought I would get into it," he said.

When Anthony first started to experiment, he said he did not have any knowledge about the risks of getting into drugs and that's why he feels so strongly about relaying his message to middle-schoolers now. Hitting students with drug education at an early age is something Anthony believes is detrimental in deterring substance abuse.

"I didn't like what I went through. So if I can help just one person, then it's worth it," he said. "When the eighth graders now come to the high school, they are going to have to face it - the peer pressure."

Peer pressure, Anthony said, is only one, small reason he thinks many students get involved with drugs. Peer pressure or not, the transition from middle school to the high school is a tough one, he said, where students don't have to look far to find drugs or alcohol.

"Sometimes I think peer pressure is just an excuse," he said. "There is peer pressure but it's not like they're strapping you down."

"Pretty much everywhere I go I see it. Drugs are the 'in' thing. Everybody's trying to get into it," he said.

Last year's AOD survey results, which showed Northville High School students were several percentage points above the national average in alcohol and drug use was an accurate indicator, if not an underestimate, of drug use among Northville students, Anthony said.

"It's easy to get it," he said. "I've seen (drug use among high school students) grow. It seems to me, I see a lot more of it."

Like the decision to get involved with drugs, becoming clean is something only the individual person can do, he said.

"There's probably a lot of parents out there saying we need to do this or this, but there's not much you can do to change them," he said. "You can grab it out of their hand and slap them on the wrist but they'll do it again."

Anthony's decision to stay clean is one he plans to stay with.

"The most important thing to me is keeping myself clean," he said. "I'm faced with it every day."

AOD Task Force works to eradicate drugs

Short-term goals set by the committee include: having liaison police officers on site at the schools; additional emphasis on successful transition from the middle school to the high school; increased parental education especially for parents of eighth, ninth and 10th graders; evaluating how the survey was administered; development of a high school plan to integrate the Comprehensive Health Curriculum drug resistance objectives at the high school level, providing AOD training for all staff working with students and expand conflict resolution training in the schools.

The group also set two long-term goals: Establishing a mentoring program for students, with one staff member assigned to 15-20 students and offering more activities to students, with an emphasis on healthful alternatives to alcohol and drug use in cooperation with the community.

The task force was formed after students at the eighth, 10th and 12-grade levels revealed disturbing levels of substance use and abuse in the Alcohol and Other Drugs Survey last year.

Among the more startling figures from the survey, 10 percent of Northville seniors reported using marijuana daily as opposed to a nationwide average of 1.9 percent.

Binge drinking among students was also evident from the survey. When asked whether they consumed five or more drinks in a row in the past two weeks, 8.2 percent of eighth graders polled said they had. The percentage jumped to 32.9 percent at the 10th-grade level and increased to 36.2 percent at the 12th grade level.

The number of students who reported using hallucinogens like LSD and PCP within the last year started with 1.3 percent of eighth graders and increased to 11.7 percent in the 10th grade and 15.2 percent in the 12th grade.

Those and other startling figures left much of the community in a quandary about what to do about the problem - hence the task force.

Thornton Creek elementary Principal and task force member Mary Najarian said she believes educating parents and teachers about the early signs of drug involvement should be a focal point of the school district.

During the group's studies, Najarian said she met with a student who had been involved with substance abuse - a girl who she had as a student a number of years ago.

"You never would have convinced me as this girl's third-grade teacher that she would become a drug abuser," Najarian said.

Survey results also revealed that as students make the transition from middle school to the high school, their substance use increases. Of eighth grade students who were surveyed in 1992, 1.8 percent said they had used marijuana in the past month. When that same group of students took the same test two years later as 10th graders, 23.9 percent reported using marijuana in the past 30 days.

Following the same class, 26.5 percent of eighth graders in 1992 reported using alcohol in the past month and two years later 55.6 percent of those same students reported alcohol use in the past month as 10th graders. The survey also revealed that as students progressed through the high school, their perceived risks associated with drug use decreases.

Those are the attitudes middle and high school officials hope to target.

One way officials are hoping to make the transition from middle school to high school smoother is by working on the orientation and registration program for students and increasing eighth graders' contact with the high school before they get there.

"One of the links we are missing is improving the flow between the eighth and ninth grade," said Cooke Middle School Principal Jeff Radwanski.

High School Assistant Principal Dennis Colligan said that although nothing has been set in stone yet, he expects that the registration process for incoming ninth graders will change. Currently, the process is a half day affair.

Colligan said beginning next year, registration will be a full-day and could include question-and-answer periods for students to learn what exactly is expected of them when they move up on the hill.

Officials agree that there are a number of issues to deal with. With the task force initiative, however, the schools are making one large step in the right direction.

Task force members noted at the meeting that the schools are just one piece of the puzzle.

"The schools are just one small piece of a very complex puzzle," Radwanski said. "We need to protect our children by working on an environment that's very positive in the schools. When the connection ends

"We are not going to solve the drug-problem in Northville ourselves. All we can do is a play a part. Unless the parents, the law enforcement officers and the community get involved, we can't do it."

is when they leave the schools. We can only provide a solution for the time we have the kid."

In order to effectively attack the substance abuse problem with young people it must be a community effort, Sornson said.

"We are not going to solve the drug problem in Northville ourselves," Sornson said. "All we can do is a play a part. Unless the parents, the law enforcement officers and the community get involved, we can't do it - we won't even make a dent."

Lisa Chomiuk, a 19-year-old 1993 Northville High School graduate, studies in her Novi home, where she lives with her parents. Chomiuk speaks to younger students about her former drug abuse with the hope of preventing a repeat of her life by someone else. "I'm a walking miracle," says Chomiuk of her recovery from drugs and alcohol.

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Lisa Chomiuk has a story to tell. It's a dark, bleak narrative that paints a sobering picture of drug use in Northville. It's a story about how drugs almost ended the life of an attractive, articulate 19-year-old woman before she reached the age of 16. Most importantly, though, Lisa's story is one of success.

Two weeks ago, Chomiuk sat in front of a group of eighth graders at Meads Mill middle school and described the horrifying details of her drug addiction, which began when she was just 12-years-old and in the eighth grade.

"I lost four years of my life but I'm lucky to be here," said Chomiuk, a 1993 graduate of Northville High School. "I have friends that are dead. I have friends that are in prison."

Chomiuk, who took her first puff of marijuana in the eighth grade when she lived in Traverse City, is a perfect example of how experimentation with drugs can lead to a quick downward spiral of a young person's life.

Chomiuk moved to Northville in 1989 as a freshman in high school. Her four years at Northville High School were characterized by the abuse of alcohol, speed, hallucinogenic drugs like LSD and mushrooms, inhalants and marijuana. She experienced depression and made at least five suicide attempts during her time at the high school.

Now, at 19, Chomiuk has been clean for a year and a half. She is attending Schoolcraft College and plans to transfer to the University of Michigan in the fall to study anthropology.

At face value, Chomiuk's friendly personality and cheerful demeanor don't show the painful and long road to recovery she was forced to walk down as a teenager - a road that saved her life, she says.

For the past two years, Chomiuk has relayed her story to young students in the hopes of preventing a repeat of her life by someone else. As with most middle-schoolers, the first time she was introduced to marijuana, Chomiuk said she had no idea what she was getting into.

"I never knew anything about it at all," she said. "When I went into the situation everyone was laughing and talking, and talking to me. I thought, 'Hey, this is cool. I'm fitting in.'"

Once Chomiuk moved to Northville, she said she immediately got involved with the wrong crowd. Marijuana and alcohol use led to more potent drugs like LSD and speed. With her increasing drug use, Chomiuk's life took a turn for the worse and her grades dropped from an A average to Cs and Ds. Her relationship with her parents deteriorated to the point that verbal confrontations became physical ones. Even her appearance suffered, as she would neglect to shower for days on end.

"It was really scary because here I was at 16 and my life was already out of control and I didn't want to see it," she said. "I didn't know who I was anymore."

"I didn't want to be alone. If I got grounded, I'd have my friends bring me drugs. I went from using drugs to have fun to using drugs to escape all my problems."

Exactly when she crossed the fine line between casual use to full-blown addiction is difficult to pinpoint, she said. Once she did make the deadly crossover, however, drug use invaded every aspect of her life, including school.

"We would put alcohol into big plastic cups out in the parking lot and then get drunk during lunch," she said. "Teachers and principals would walk by and never knew about it. I think they just figured we were weird anyway."

Perhaps the most frightening aspect of Chomiuk's experience is that she exhibited classic signs of

Family key in preventing abuse

By YVONNE BEEBE

It's a maliciously tempting world out there.

Ask just about any student walking down the halls of Northville High School and he or she will tell you: If it's drugs or alcohol you're looking for, you need not look far.

"You don't have to look for it, really. It kind of just floats your way," said one 16-year-old Northville student recently.

Students are faced with the pressures and tantalizations of substance abuse on a regular basis.

That is why a positive relationship between teenagers and their parents is key in helping prevent a child from falling prey to drug addiction, said Charlie Stilec, student assistance coordinator at the high school.

"The No. 1 factor in a kid's life is their parents' involvement," Stilec said.

Parents who are home on a regular basis, who have set specific rules and consequences for breaking those rules can be the most important deterrent against drug use, he said.

"Parents need to set the guidelines," he said. "The kids will hate it. They will fight, rebel, but too bad. They'll love them for it too."

Substance abuse from cigarette smoking all the way up to acute drug addiction is something parents must realize can happen to their kids, Stilec said.

"Most kids try something at least once, but once they start using anything, they're on the path. It's just up to them when they get off," he said.

Stilec leads 10 separate support

"We've got a major problem in our community. What we see in our studies is that if you want (drugs) you can get it."

Charlie Stilec

groups in the high school that address such topics as stress and relationships, cigarette smoking and different types of substance abuse. In addition to the support groups, Stilec also works one-on-one with certain students in crisis.

Last year Stilec worked with 229 students in the various support groups and referred 79 kids and their families for treatment. Stilec takes referrals from parents, teachers, administrators and sometimes self-referrals from the student.

There are specific signs and indicators of substance abuse that parents can look for in their children. Some of the signs include: A drop in school performance, including grades, truancy and tardiness; a loss of interest in activities and hobbies; a deterioration or change in appearance and running away from home, just to name a few.

Many of these signs can be typically characteristic of any teenager dealing with the normal stresses of growing up. However, Stilec said, if children exhibit a number of signs with increased severity, they should not be ignored.

"It becomes a more 'I don't care' attitude," Stilec said. "That's the nature of the disease." If students are smoking cigarettes, chances are they are using other substances as well, Stilec added.

The biggest red flag for a parent, despite all the signs, is the presence of some sort of substance in the child's possession. If parents do find a substance, children will often say they had never tried it before or they were just experimenting. Parents should not let these excuses fool them, Stilec said.

"Rule of thumb, when a parent finds out a kid is using, they've been into it for two years," he said. "Over time, the kids become less careful."

If children do exhibit several signs of abuse or if parents find a substance in the child's possession, it is imperative the family go for an evaluation, he said.

Once a student is referred to treatment, recovery is a family affair, Stilec added.

"The kids are not the ones with the problem, it's the family," he said. "Parents too often in our community want just the kid to get fixed but the family is the key."

Drug abuse is a sad reality in the community and the victims are the community's young people, Stilec said.

"We've got a major problem in our community," he said. "What we see in our studies is that if you

Education Notes

Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for the following courses and seminars:

- GRE Preparation Workshop: Review math and verbal skills to successfully complete the GRE. Sample tests will be completed and reviewed. The six week course will meet Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., beginning Jan. 28. The fee is $180.

- GMAT Preparation Workshop: Build confidence in an exam setting to successfully complete the GMAT. Test strategies will be practiced and discussed. The six week course will meet Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., beginning Jan. 28. The fee is $180.

- Herbology: Learn the theory and practice of using foods, herbs and various supplements to improve your physical and emotional well-being. Self-care, natural healing, detoxification, and homeopathy will be discussed. The eight week course will meet Monday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m., beginning Jan. 30. The fee is $69.

To register or receive further information, contact Continuing Education Services at (313) 462-4448.

- Adventures registration: Schoolcraft College is accepting registrations for Adventures in Learning for Talented and Gifted (TAG) youth. The TAG program is offered during the winter and summer terms for talented and gifted students ages four to 16, who require challenging subject matter to expand their everyday learning opportunities.

Mail-in registration must be received by Jan. 28; Walk-in registration will be Feb. 1 and 2, from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the College's Registration Center.

To obtain further information, contact Continuing Education Services at (313) 462-4448.

Madonna University offers the following programs:

- Scholarships: The university is accepting scholarship applications through Wednesday, March 1, from admitted students for the 1995-96 academic year. Scholarship applications may be obtained at the University Financial Aid Office or by calling (313) 591-5036.

The majority of awards stipulate that the recipient be an admitted full-time student who possesses a minimum grade point average of 3.2 on a 4.0 scale.

However, there are some exceptions as well as additional requirements.

- Crafters needed: Madonna University is now accepting applications from crafters for its 11th annual Juried Spring Arts and Crafts Showcase, to be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 1, and Sunday, April 2, in the Activities Center on campus.

Booth space measuring 9-by-6 feet with two chairs and one 6-foot or 8-foot table is available for $45.

Booths with electricity are limited and an additional $5.

Exhibitors may purchase up to three spaces and sell their work for one of the two days. There will be different exhibitors each day.

For an application or information, call (313) 591-5127.

Madonna University is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia.

abuse but teachers and administrators either ignored them or didn't know what to look for. Chomiuk described an incident where she passed out during class after sniffing fumes from rubber cement but the classroom teacher didn't realize what was going on.

Chomiuk reached a point where drugs were consuming her life, leading her down a long dark hole of depression. On many days, just getting out of bed was an insurmountable task, she said. During her addiction, she made five attempts at suicide by trying to overdose or slicing her wrists. Her depression, she said, was a direct result of her drug dependency.

"I actually put a loaded gun to my head once, but I didn't pull the trigger," she said.

Her parents admitted her to an adolescent psychiatric ward but it wasn't until she entered a 10-month rehabilitation program during her senior year that Chomiuk became clean.

"My parents kept saying, 'You're either crazy or on drugs and when we find out which one it is, we're going to get you help,'" she said. "I give my parents a lot of credit. If they wouldn't have put me in recovery, I never would have gone myself."

After leaving the program, she was clean for one year and then experienced a brief relapse. Chomiuk said she stopped herself from falling back into her long-term pattern of abuse and has been clean ever since - almost a year-and-a-half now.

Chomiuk currently lives at home with her parents in Novi. Her relationship with them, she said, is a trusting one. A close and caring relationship between children and their parents can be the greatest deterrent against drug abuse, Chomiuk said.

"Parents are their children's best teachers," she said. The schools, parents and the community should make strides to educate children at a young age about the effects of drug abuse, she said.

The pain of her teenage years is sometimes difficult to deal with, but all she can do now is look back on her mistakes and learn.

"At times it gets hard," Chomiuk said. "I'll never be able to tell my children what the high school prom was like. But I realize I had to sacrifice a year of my life so that I could live."

Chomiuk said she feels lucky to be alive but keeping away from drugs will always be a battle that only she can fight.

"I'm a walking miracle," she said. "I can't run and hide from it. It's always going to be there."

Reading rally

The Northville school district's Running Start Program helps primary schoolers get an early introduction to reading fun. Recently, a reading rally was held in the high school, and on hand were first graders Brian Gardner, Bryan Stadtmiller, Michael Cornelius, and Grant Baldas, front row; as well as Lindsey Blair, Stephanie Bommarito, Kathy Ehlert, Greg Piet, Chris Oflara, Lauren Lutz, Paul Rabehy and Jocelyn Zupin. The program is coordinated by Barb Sixt, Jan Purtell and consultants Jan Tiplady, Leslie Muha, Vivian Henderhan, Shannon Moore and Jay Hillard.

Exchange students need host families

High school students from Germany, France, Spain, Argentina, Brazil, Poland, Hungary, Russia, and Hong Kong are anxiously waiting to be selected by an American host family.

They want to come to America in late August to spend either five or 10 months living as a member of an American family and studying in a public high school.

Students have been carefully screened, speak English, and have their own spending money and medical insurance.

The teenagers need a family to provide them with a bed, meals, love and guidance.

The students are sponsored by World Learning Inc., a non-profit, educational organization. Since there are hundreds of students waiting to be chosen, interested people can select a boy or girl with personality, hobbies, and back-

Police News

Two arrested with stolen car parts

Northville City Police arrested a 34-year-old Detroit man and a 36-year-old Highland Park man for receiving and concealing stolen property after an officer pulled over the man driving a Ford Explorer out of the McDonald Ford parking lot last Saturday.

Police were keeping close watch over the Ford auto repair shop after roughly $3,600 in tires were stolen off of four Probe GTs the day before. Twelve wheels had been taken in all.

The officer pulled over the two men, neither of whom could produce identification and gave the officer false names. In the back of the truck were numerous lug nuts, a car jack and three cinder blocks.

The two men were arrested on the initial charge of prowling. Further investigation revealed that the Explorer the men were driving was stolen from Tom Holzer Ford in Farmington Hills.

The license plate attached to the truck was identified as being stolen from Jerome Duncan Ford in Sterling Heights.

Fingerprints of the two men later revealed their true identities. The Detroit man, who was driving the truck, was found to be an habitual offender.

The man had been convicted of receiving stolen property above $100 in 1985, of auto theft in 1991, and of attempted auto theft in 1992 and again in 1993.

The Detroit man was charged with receiving and concealing property of more than $100 and for being an habitual offender. The Highland Park man was charged with prowling.

Both men pleaded not guilty to the charges. A $75,000 cash bond was set for the Detroit man and a $35,000 cash bond was set for the passenger.

The men are also being investigated for the theft of the wheels.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Jan. 27 at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

FALSE ALARM: Northville Township police received a call that two men were taking wooden pallets from behind the back of Black's Hardware on Seven Mile last Sunday. An officer checked things out, speaking to the two men and finding out that nothing had been taken.

BAD LUCK FRIDAY: A 31-year-old Northville woman reported to Northville City Police that her $36,000 purple and black Corvette had been stolen from the lower lot of the parking deck on Cady Street Jan. 13.

The car had been parked in the lot since Jan. 6. The woman did not notice the car was missing until Jan. 13. It is unknown how the suspect got into the vehicle and started it, since it has a new computer chip ignition system. Police have no suspects at this time.

HOME INVASION: A Northville resident living on Debra Lane reported to Northville City Police that a $439 deluxe snow blower was stolen from his garage last Thursday.

The man said that the snow blower was there when he came home for lunch in the afternoon. He discovered it missing later on that day.

Police have no suspects in the case.

MANGLED MAZDA: A Northville Place Drive apartments resident reported a case of vandalism to township police last Tuesday.

Someone had smashed the passenger-side window of his rented 1995 Mazda Protege, the man said, sometime during the night. Damages are estimated at $200.

OUIL: A 26-year-old Northville man was arrested for drunken driving after he jumped the curb on Main Street while attempting a left turn off Hutton. The man then weaved back into his lane and proceeded to drive.

A Northville City police officer witnessed the gulfaw and pulled the man over. The man had slurred speech and failed a number of field sobriety tests.

The man registered a .201 percent blood-alcohol content level.

The man was arrested, posted a $100 cash bond and was released upon sobering up.

A preliminary exam is scheduled for Jan. 20 at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

BAR BILKED: A group of individuals tried to stick Sheehan on the Green at the Oasis golf course on Five Mile with the bill for food and drinks Jan. 17, township police say.

The six men, none of them Northville residents, ordered drinks and food, tavern employees said, then left before the food came, complaining that they'd waited too long for it.

An employee got the license plate number of the 1989 Dodge van they drove away in.

The men agreed to pay $25 for the food and drinks and all parties were satisfied. No charges will be filed.

DRILL RIPPED OFF: Township police arrested a 38-year-old Inkster man for shoplifting at Meijer Jan. 17.

Store detectives said they saw the man put a Black and Decker drill down his pants and then leave the store without trying to pay for it.

When they stopped him outside of the doors, they added, the man tried to run away, injuring a store detective in the process.

He was detained and held until police arrived.

The drill is worth $65. The man faces a hearing next month in 35th District Court.

DRUNK DRIVER: A 45-year-old Farmington Hills man was arrested for drunk driving Jan. 18 in Northville Township.

The reporting officer said that he saw the man's 1994 Ford Tempo run a red light at Five Mile and Haggerty. After stopping the man, the officer said, he noticed "slow, jerky speech" and a "wide-eyed stare."

The man said he was heading home after leaving a Romulus location but that he was lost.

When the officer asked him to count backwards from 100 in order to test his sobriety, the man allegedly replied, "Just ask me, I'll tell ya I'm drunk."

He was taken to police headquarters until he sobered up.

Breathalyzer testing showed the man to have a blood alcohol level of .21 percent, more than twice the legal limit. He faces a hearing later this month in 35th District Court.

SAW STOLEN: A Waterford man parked his pickup truck on a Northville Township street Friday night, only to find $1,100 worth of tools stolen from it the next morning.

The man told township police he parked his Ford pickup on Fairway III Drive on Friday.

When he next checked in Saturday morning, a saw and diamond blade were gone. Police believe the thief got into the truck through its sliding rear window.

Citizens with information about any of the above incidents are asked to call township police at 349-9400 or city police at 349-1234.

New trooper is NHS alumnus

Trooper Dean York Jr.

A Northville High School graduate was one of three new troopers to start work this month at the Jackson Post of the Michigan State Police.

Dean A. York Jr. was among the officers assuming their duties on Jan. 9.

York graduated from 110th Recruit School during a special ceremony in which 81 new troopers were sworn in.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Indiana University in psychology.

He is married with one child.

As a graduate of the 110th Recruit School Class, York received 17 weeks of intense training in criminal law, criminal investigation, crime scene processing, patrol techniques, physical fitness, first aid, firearms instruction, defensive tactics and precision driving techniques.

Police to trade for new weapons

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

"This was one of those times when you go, 'this deal's too good to be true.' The great part is that it is true."

That's how Northville Township Director of Public Safety Chip Snider summed up a recent police department agreement that will provide township's officers with new, more powerful handguns at no charge.

The Glock corporation manufactures handguns and its models are among the most popular with law enforcement officials nationwide. Township police are currently issued nine millimeter Glocks.

Recently the company has produced a new .40 inch caliber handgun. New federal regulations, however, prevent the Glocks from being sold to the general public. The magazines for the Glocks are large enough to hold more shells than the regulations permit. Snider said, meaning the company can only sell them to law enforcement agencies.

Because of that, Glock has made an offer that township police couldn't pass up: a straight-up trade of the new .40 caliber weapons for the nine millimeters. The company can then sell the nines to civilians at a profit, Snider said.

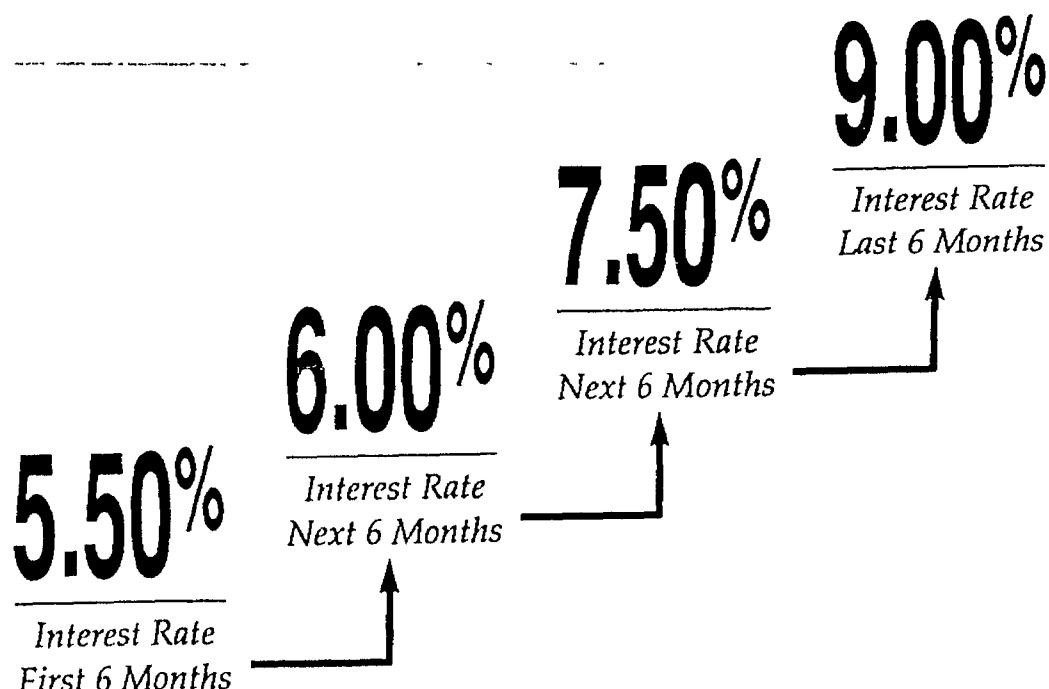

The deal means that the department won't have to replace the nine millimeters in two or three years, as it expected to do because of normal wear and tear.

That equates to a savings of $25,000-$30,000 of taxpayer money, Snider said.

The new weapons may also make police officers a little safer, he added.

The .40 caliber firearms "have more velocity and striking power," Snider said.

Meanwhile, Northville City police are in the process of switching over from revolvers to semi-automatic Sig Sauer handguns.

City seeks reimbursement for offenses

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The city of Northville is sending a message out to the community: If you drink and drive, you will pay.

At its meeting Monday night, the Northville City Council approved an ordinance that will force impaired drivers - whether operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol or some other substance - to foot the bill for the city to dispatch an emergency response team to the scene of an accident or for arresting an impaired driver.

"I hope this sends a message to the larger community that the city is not willing to tolerate abuse of controlled substances," City Manager Gary Word said.

Word said the new ordinance, which will be effective 10 days after it is officially posted (Feb. 2), will help the city defer costs associated with impaired drivers.

Under the ordinance, any driver who is pulled over and is found to have a blood alcohol level of .07 percent, defined by the law as impaired driving, would be responsible for the costs of providing police, fire fighting or rescue services.

State law has established a .10 blood-alcohol level as legally drunk for motorists - also included in the ordinance.

The state's zero tolerance law, providing that any driver under the age of 21 with a .02 percent blood-alcohol level or higher is in violation of state law, is also included in the new ordinance.

The new law can require impaired drivers to pay for the hourly wage of fire-fighting, police and emergency medical service personnel, including overtime wages, costs, and expenses for special equipment used during a response. The cost of any chemical tests for blood alcohol content or controlled substances and for video taping the driver can also be passed along to violators.

Depending upon the severity of the incident, impaired drivers could be responsible for fees ranging from $200 to $800, Word said, adding that each incident will be subject to the discretion of the city administration and the police department.

Northville City Police Chief Rodney Cannon said the department often spends a substantial amount of time and money dealing with drunken drivers through processing and case preparation. The ordinance, Cannon said, will be helpful in defraying the cost to the city.

"It is our hope that we make the ordinance an effective tool for the police department," Cannon said.

Bills would be sent through the mail and would require full payment within 30 days of the incident. Any legal expenses involved in collecting the money would be added to the bill as well.

"I hope this sends a message to the larger community that the city is not willing to tolerate abuse of controlled substances."

Population shift now under way

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Yesterday's new elementary school may be tomorrow's senior citizens center.

That's the kind of issue local elected officials must think about as the seven-county region's population of school kids shrinks and the advanced elderly (above 75) soars.

Forecasts were produced by the University of Michigan's Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations for a SEMCOG subcommittee.

Total population is expected to edge up 12.5 percent from almost 4.6 million in 1990 to nearly 5.2 million in 2020, a bare 4 percent per decade. That, however, is the smallest part of the story. Here is the outline picture by age group for the period from 1990 to 2020:

- Birth to age 44 - populations dropping by 2.2 to 13 percent. The biggest drop, 13 percent, will be in the young workers aged 25 to 34. Their numbers were estimated to fall from 808,000 in 1990 to 703,000 three decades later.
- The 55 to 64 bracket - up 80.6 percent to 713,000, a gain of 318,000.
- The 65 to 75 bracket - up 67.6 percent to 542,000.
- The above-75 bracket - up 58.9 percent to 334,000.

Average household size will continue to slide as it has for the past quarter-century - from 2.66 in 1990 to 2.47 in 2020.

Mill Race Matters

On Feb. 23, members and friends of the Northville Historical Society will attend a dinner/comedy performance/auction at Genitt's Hole in the Wall on Main Street. Tickets cost $35 per person and are available from Fran Gazlay, 349-0767, or through the Historical Society Office, 348-1845. The event serves as a fund-raiser for the community organization. A limited number of spaces are available so be sure to reserve yours early.

Activities at the village have slowed somewhat for the winter, but regular committees continue their enthusiastic participation weekly. The Stone Gang is working on the construction of bird houses which will be sold to benefit the Northville Historical Society and Mill Race Village. The board of directors continues to meet and administer the organization. The Archives Committee is continuing its task of processing materials on this community's history. Gardeners, Docents and program chairs are planning for the spring.

The Quarterly Committee has met to plan the spring 1995 edition. The office manager, Cheryl Gazlay, is available Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m., to assist with inquiries and continue maintenance of the organization's programs and activities.

In 1981, Frank Lewis, a lifetime resident of the area, shared some of his winter memories from early in the century with Jack Hoffman, then editor of the Mill Race Quarterly as well as The Northville Record. From Hoffman's interview which appeared in the Quarterly for December, 1981, comes the following excerpt.

"...The homestead - you've visited it - was comfortable, certainly not ostentatious but adequate. Like most houses in those years, it was heated by a wood stove. The house was insulated in a manner of speaking, with rags stuffed in cracks here and there. Our stove was a little above average, for a family of our means, and I was proud as a peacock when my friends came in to ogle it. It glistened with isinglass and polished metal ...

"...We had another woodburner in the kitchen ... those stoves consume a lot of fuel and that meant trips into some nearby woods ... I can recall the first time my father took me along to cut wood between here and the village (Northville). Some farmer for whom my father had done some work let us cut anything that had fallen. We carried the wood in a bob, pulled by a mare that I dare say was twice my age ...

"... Travel to Northville by bob or sleigh was pretty common. I made the trip many times, first in company with my father when he had business in the village, and then later on when I was a young man.

It was the winter travel that persuaded me that 11 years of school was enough.

The cold you feel right now is how thousands of families feel 24 hours a day.

This year, thousands of men, women and children will be cold due to a financial hardship. For them, the thought of winter's cold only brings doubt and fear. Whether they are unexpectedly unemployed or the working poor, they will endure the chill of winter without the protection of a warm home. You can help prevent this by contributing to The Heat And Warmth (THAW) Fund.

THAW is a non-profit organization which helps struggling families in 11 Southeastern Michigan counties keep their heat on. It is the last resort for families who have exhausted all other possible resources. Since 1986, THAW has assisted over 15,000 families, more than half with children. Yet, THAW is not considered a handout, but a helping hand, for less than 10% of the recipients are repeat cases.

Once again, Detroit Edison is supporting THAW's efforts. Every dollar you donate will be matched by Detroit Edison and will go directly to help those in need. So, as the nights grow longer, please remember the families who grow colder.

Cleaning help hired in township

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township jumped a small but significant hurdle two weeks ago.

The board of trustees at its Jan. 12 meeting unanimously accepted Manager Tamara Hanlin's recommendation for a new custodial firm to clean the township's offices, despite the fact that the company's price was a lot higher than the two other bidders involved.

The move is expected to end years of complaints about conditions at Township Hall and is one more sign of the trustees' growing faith in Hanlin, hired just two months ago.

The township will spend $12,100 more for custodial services this year than it originally budgeted. However, Hanlin said that extra money's needed to buy a firm that will do the job right.

The two low-bid firms have worked for the township in the past, Hanlin said, but didn't pass muster. Superior Janitorial was canned some time ago for poor performance and replaced by Freedom Office Cleaning. That firm has also been repeatedly cited for poor performance, but hasn't cleaned up its act, Hanlin said.

"The work was just not acceptable," she said. "I'm frankly embarrassed. I've had visitors comment on the level of cleanliness at Township Hall. I feel this is the amount we're going to have to pay to have adequate services."

Supervisor Karen Baja and Trustee Gini Britton agreed with Hanlin's assessment. Britton said the township's employees will benefit from the improved service.

"No one wants to work in a pigsty," she said.

Based on that, Hanlin recommended the board reject Superior's bid of $17,500 for the one-year contract and Freedom's for $16,150. Instead, she recommended McCoy Maintenance, a firm she said performed very well in the City of Eastpointe, where she worked for four years.

The only glitch is that the firm's bid was $25,304. That's $12,100 over the $13,200 in the township budget for custodial services this year. Fate stepped in to lend a hand, however.

Just minutes before the custodial services contract came up, the board had been presented with an insurance refund check of $12,343 after a year of few workers compensation claims.

"As soon as it gets in, government sure knows how to spend it," Treasurer Engelland observed with a laugh.

Another DARE class graduates

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

This week Northville celebrated another crop of young people who've DARE'd to stay away from the dangers of drugs.

Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) is a nationally recognized police/school partnership. Working with two local educational institutions, Northville Township police officer Matt Mayes has just completed another 17-week program, culminating in student graduation ceremonies on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Last year marked the first DARE classes to graduate in Northville. The first graduation this year took place Tuesday at Northville Christian School on Six Mile and Wednesday at the Northville Montessori Center near Five Mile and Haggerty.

"It's going to be great," Mayes said Monday of the ceremonies. "We're excited."

Northville City police officer Jim Marks has just begun his first DARE program and expects to graduate his students this spring.

The graduates included: Jonathan Bedard, Stefanie Berger, Chad Boruta, Amanda Bryan, Jillian Buckshaw, Jonathan Carlisle, Samantha Goud and Katie Haller.

Anthony Hoblack, Jennifer Huff, Adam Koczara, Shea Krajewski, Jacqueline Lapetz, Gregory Lavigne, Sherry Link and Sarah Loisel.

Elizabeth Lulek, Nicole Mason, Jonathan Moore, Kevin Ostrander, Brittany Pajkowski, Stephen Raudzus, Molly Seitz, Arthur Thomas, Rebecca Veen and Timothy Wendt.

Northville Montessori Center's parents and staff saw DARE graduations of 27 of their students on Wednesday night.

The graduates include: Margaret Bett, John Brick, Alexander Grutter, Emily McPhail, Mark Theisen, Thomas Winowicki and Jessica Youngblood.

Sean Adkins, Michelle Beddow, Kristin Budzisz, Shikha Ganguly, Alicia Gaspar, Matthew George, Sara Greenfield, Benjamin Harneden, Elizabeth Hasse and Maria LoPiccolo.

Lauren Mack, Danielle Malone, Aaron McPhail, Karah McPhail, Christopher Nolfo, Brittney O'Neil, Kit Pruchnik, Jonathan Seely, Arthur Sen and Justina Youngblood.

In addition, students James Forde, Carol Hesse and Chad Morrin graduated from DARE last year and helped with this year's program.

Trustees throw weight behind Edenderry

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Northville Township Board of Trustees has left no doubt that they want Wayne County to approve the controversial Woods of Edenderry subdivision plan.

At their Jan. 12 meeting, trustees voted 5-2 in favor of a resolution of support for the proposal which county planners will soon formally review.

Trustee Mark Abbo offered the resolution after meeting with county officials last month. Abbo said that he and representatives of both Cambridge Homes, the Woods developer, and area homeowners discussed the so-called "loop" plan design.

The discussions, Abbo continued, convinced him that "some additional show of support" for the plan was needed. "I feel this is important," Abbo said. "It needs to be shown exactly where the board stands on this issue."

The original proposal for the Woods of Edenderry, first presented to the township last April, called for a 101-lot subdivision on land just south of the existing Edenderry Hills and Shadbrook subdivisions. They are located off Seven Mile between Clement and Beck roads.

Hills-area residents objected because the design proposal included street connections into their neighborhoods. They fear that the road links would bring increased traffic and crime to their quiet, dead-end streets.

Township officials worked for months to find a compromise, finally succeeding in September.

The trustees agreed to a complex deal with Cambridge and the residents.

In a nutshell, the compromise lets Cambridge construct phase one of the two-phase plan (the board approved phase one in December) while pursuing county approval for a new design for phase two. That design, referred to as the "loop" plan, eliminates street connections with two roads to the north of the Woods subdivision.

Instead, those two roads would be linked by an eyebrow-shaped loop with homes built along it. County officials have yet to formally take up the loop plan, however. Abbo's motion is intended to strengthen its chances of passage.

Supervisor Karen Baja voted against the motion, saying she wanted to see township attorney Len Krzyzaniak's written opinion before supporting it. Abbo said he had discussed the motion with Krzyzaniak by phone and was told it did not present any legal problems for the township.

Treasurer Rick Engelland also voted against the motion.

Religious lobby applauds state ed board

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Michigan Family Forum, a religious right group, was first to praise the State Board of Education's new mission statement, with its heavy emphasis on God and parents.

"A positive step for parents ... parents indeed should have the primary right and responsibility ... The State Board's operating mentality of the past relied much more on bureaucratic edicts than on parental rights," said Randall Hekman, MFF executive director and harsh critic of the state's curriculum standards.

Pushed through by incoming board president W. Clark Durant III, the board mission statement mentions God and religion three times and uses "child" rather than "pupil." It mentions "parents" twice before mentioning "teachers." Unlike most educational goals, it makes no mention of employability, the global economy, racial equity, gender equity or diversity.

Prime goals are "character and academic excellence" through parental choice, quality teaching, local accountability, removal of barriers to educational opportunity and "a new birth of freedom."

The statement passed 7-1. Dissenting was Kathleen Straus, D-Detroit, who objected to Durant's process. "It was not available to the board. It was not available to the public. There was no open discussion," Straus said.

Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, said he drafted the statement after calls to individual board members. He had enough copies only for board members, with none for the public.

Although state law and board rules require a chance for public comment on board agenda items, Durant inserted his mission statement at a point in the agenda where public comment was impossible. Told afterwards this procedure violated the Open Meetings Act, Durant fell silent for several seconds, then said: "It's going to be a wonderful opportunity to have much public comment."

Fellow Republican Dorothy Beardmore of Rochester Hills gently chided Durant for dodging public comment and hoped for "a more appropriate way in the future" to conduct board business.

Typically, major board policy pronouncements are voted on the meeting after they are introduced to allow reflection, dissemination to local boards, reflection and amendment.

In an interview, Durant, who never has served in a public education office, said he was asked to be president by Gov. John Engler. Durant said he reminded Engler the decision was up to the other seven board members. Durant canvassed board members individually by telephone - no violation of law - to round up the votes.

Five days before the board's first open meeting of the term, a school lobbyist reported, and Engler's press secretary confirmed, that Durant would be president. Last Thursday he won 7-0, with Straus abstaining. He said he was "touched" that Democrat Barbara Roberts Mason, an employee of the Michigan Education Association, made his nominating speech.

In other developments:
• Durant declined a yes or no answer to the question of whether he would support an effort to strip a ban on state aid to parochial schools from the Michigan Constitution (Art. VIII, Sec. 2). Instead he said he supported parental choice of schools and charter schools.

• Durant said he was aware two fellow Republicans voted against renewing the contract of Dr. Robert Schiller, superintendent of public instruction, a few months ago. "I can't tell you about his past performance, but I've found in my work with him that he's been very open and very dedicated to trying to follow board policy."

"I'm anxious to work with him as we go forward," Durant said, adding Engler asked him to make his own decision about Schiller's future.

The State Board's seven remaining members: Durant and Sharon Wise of Owosso, both elected in 1994 without previous school office; Marilyn Lundy, R-Detroit, with a Catholic social services background, who was elected in 1988; Mason, D-Lansing, elected in 1990; Gary Wolfram, R-Hillsdale, a Hillsdale College economics professor and Engler appointee; Beardmore, a former local school board and intermediate board trustee, elected to a second term in 1992; and Straus, president of a private school, elected in 1992.

Who says finishing first doesn't matter?

Northville's first baby of the year has a chance to start off life in style with gold jewelry, birthday cake and a variety of other goodies.

The Northville Record is looking to award a host of great prizes to the lucky mom whose bundle of joy was smart enough to wait until after the stroke of midnight before making his or her way into the world.

In addition to our sincere hope for a long and prosperous life, we're also willing to give the early bird arrival:

Free child care for the first year from the U of M Health Center; a children's step stool from The Sawmill; a 14 karat gold baby bootie charm with birthstone from Northville Diamond Jewelers; a baby's gourmet birthday cake from Northville Gourmet and Wine Shoppe; a large pizza and a bottle of Coke from the Pizza Cutter; 10 one-half gallon cartons of milk from Guernsey Farms Dairy; a complimentary dinner for the parents from Crawford's; a gift basket of goodies from Baby Baby; a night light and music box from Ultimate Toys & Gifts; and a 14 karat gold baby charm from Goldsmith Galleries.

To be eligible to win all those great gifts, the baby must have been born to a mother having a Northville mailing address and the birth date and time must be verifiable by an attending physician.

Please send announcements postmarked no later than Friday, Jan. 27, to Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

The winner will be announced in the Feb. 2 edition of The Record.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDINANCE 94-01-95

The Charter Township of Northville, via this advertisement, hereby gives notice to all parties interested in an amendment to Zoning Ordinance No. 94-01-95, specifically, an amendment to Section 18.16, Landscaping Standards. The purpose of this zoning ordinance amendment is to promote the public health, safety and welfare in the Charter Township of Northville by establishing minimum standards for the design, installation and maintenance of landscaping and parking lots, buffer zones between certain uses, along roadways, and adjacent to buildings. This section is also intended to enhance the visual character of the site; screen or filter views, where necessary; help unify the various natural and design elements of a site, blend inharmonious land uses; buffer incompatible uses, define and articulate outdoor and architectural space; control soil erosion by slowing the effects of erosive winds or water; moderate harsh or unpleasant sounds remove air pollutants; control glare and reflection; help prevent flooding; assist in directing safe and efficient traffic flow at driveways and within parking lots; ensure adequate site distance, reduce traffic noise, provide a continuous green driving environment which would screen objectionable views; beautify the road corridor; ensure sufficient access to fire hydrants; reduce the impacts of glare from headlights; distinguish and separate vehicular and pedestrian circulation; block, divert or channel winds; moderate the effects of climate and create a more desirable microclimate.

The standards of this Section shall apply to all projects subject to site plan review.

This ordinance amendment affects all parties either individually or as in some other legal entity seeking site plan review in Northville Township. A complete copy of the Zoning Ordinance amendment can be inspected by contacting the Township Clerk at Northville Township Civic Center during the normal business hours, Monday through Friday (1-26-95 NR)

ADVERTISEMENT FOR NOTICE OF SOLICITATION OF INTEREST, QUALIFICATIONS, AND TECHNICAL & FEE PROPOSALS FOR CONSTRUCTION ENGINEERING SERVICES

The City of Novi Department of Public Services, in accordance with the Michigan Department of Transportation's "Procedures for Engagement of Consultant Services by Local Agencies for Federal-Aid Projects," hereby solicits interest and qualifications from consulting engineering firms for construction engineering services in connection with the proposed signalization project from Grand River Avenue to Twelve Mile Road, Novi, Michigan.

The construction engineering services include, but are not limited to, review of plans and specifications developed during the preliminary engineering phase of the project, review and recommendation on the award of construction contracts, consultation and advice to the City during the entire construction phase of the project, administration of the construction contracts, resolution of problems, observation of the progress and quality of executed work, issuance of instructions to the contractor, determination of amounts of progress payments due and making of a final inspection, and preparation of reports on project completion.

Proposal packages are available to any firm desiring to be considered for this project from the Director of Purchasing, 45175 W. Ten Mile Rd., Novi, Michigan 48375. Five sets of qualifications and proposed technical approach to the project shall be submitted to the City of Novi Purchasing Department by 3:00 p.m., Wednesday, February 8, 1995. Qualifications and technical approach to the project should include, at minimum, the following:

- Identify experience and expertise in constructing similar Federal Aid projects.
- Availability of the firm to undertake the project and meet established time tables.
- Affirmative action employment practices and ability to meet Federal, State, and City requirements.
- Resumes of staff engineers who would be in charge of the project.
- Understanding of the project.
- Detailed scope of services.

Selection of a "short list" of firms will be based upon qualifications criteria. The final selection, from the "short list" will be based on the technical aspects of the proposal with consideration of fee. (1-26-95 NR, NN)

Far-reaching court reform plan rejected

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Circuit judges persuaded the State Bar Association to reject a committee proposal to unify three levels of the Michigan judiciary into a single trial court.

The Bar's Representative Assembly Saturday disapproved a year of work by its Committee on Courts in the 21st Century by a vote of 51 for and 65 against.

Instead, the assembly merely authorized its leaders to negotiate before the Legislature for "improvements in the judicial system."

"I supported the reform, and the people in my district support it," said Brighton attorney Michael Gallagher, who represents the Livingston County circuit in the 150-member assembly.

"There's a reason why a crisis exists in the circuit court. It's the inability to bring civil cases to trial because of a glut of criminal cases. We have two circuit judges trying 30-plus jury cases a year. When you look at what time remains for civil, it's minimal," said Gallagher, who practices both civil and criminal law.

A key proposal of the reform plan was to combine circuit, probate and district courts into a single "trial court."

"We'd be making district and probate judges available to handle a crowded and clogged (circuit) docket. We're not going to have funds to hire more circuit judges," Gallagher said in an interview.

A second reason he supported the reform proposal is that it would provide for full state funding of courts. Currently, only Wayne Circuit, Detroit Records and Detroit District courts are state-funded.

"I approve of the concept that indigent's criminal defense will be state-funded," Gallagher said. "The result would be uniform fees. Now we have private contractors going out to bid where the lowest bid gets the contract. A lawyer has his own practice, so the criminal defendant doesn't get the same time available for defense as if he had funds to hire a private attorney."

"Indigents' defense ought to be state-funded, just like the prosecution."

The Bar's Representative Assembly scheduled two hours of discussion Saturday morning in a Lansing conference center on the most far-reaching reform and refinancing of state trial courts in 30 years. But a filibuster by circuit judges dragged the session past 3 p.m.

"The role of the local unit would be severely diminished by (state) takeover of the courts," said Oakland Circuit Judge Barry L. Howard, opposing the reform plan. "Nationally, we're going back to local government. We (the Bar panel) are running upstream."

"Wayne County courts are not on a gravy train," added Wayne Chief Judge James Rashid.

Probate and district judges, however, backed the reform.

Stephen Cooper, the new president of the District Judges Association, said courts need reorganization because "we have a system where courts are played off against each other." The Southfield judge cited a divorce case (in circuit court) resulting in a spouse abuse charge (district court) and a child neglect charge (in probate court) - "three courts handling one case."

"Artificial lines of geography and artificial lines of jurisdiction prevent us from putting judges where they are needed," Cooper said.

Jon Muth, the Grand Rapids attorney who is president of the 30,000-member State Bar, argued for trial court unification because "the judicial map of Michigan is like Germany before the Reformation - dukes, earls, fiefdoms. And each has a moat around it."

"It's flat-ass broken," said Muth, saying Gov. John Engler and an outstate-dominated, Republican-controlled Legislature are bound to reorganize courts because there's no money to keep adding judges. The Bar should make its views known, he said, or else non-lawyers, politicians and unions will make the decision.

"There is a lawsuit (by 80 outstate counties) for reimbursement pending before the Supreme Court now; a decision is expected by July," said Muth. The outstate counties are asking $1.5 billion - a sum that would bankrupt the state.

Senior Alliance: The Senior Alliance's Medicare/Medicaid Assistance Program (MMAP) is in need of volunteers to help older adults understand and work more effectively within the Medicare/Medicaid system.

This program is sponsored by The Senior Alliance (Area Agency on Aging 1-C). Volunteers will receive formal training, a detailed guidebook to Medicare/Medicaid, regular informational updates, and support of other volunteers.

The program is designed to help seniors with problems or questions associated with Medicare/Medicaid claims and forms, HMO's, PPO's, supplemental insurance, and legislation affecting Medicare/Medicaid. Counseling can take place over the telephone, at community sites, or at the residence of a homebound senior.

If you, or someone you know, might like to share a little free time to help seniors with Medicare/Medicaid questions, contact Stephen Von Hatten, coordinator, at The Senior Alliance at (313) 722-2830.

Trustees engage in table irony at study session

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Most people think the workings of local government are always dry and boring.

Not so, as a small incident which occurred during the Jan. 12 meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees demonstrated.

A debate on parliamentary rules injected a bit of humor into the evening's proceedings.

The board was considering whether to adopt a modified version of Robert's Rules of Order, an English parliamentary system used to manage governmental meetings. The rules establish the rights of members of an elected body to speak and ask for votes on issues during meetings, among other things.

Trustee Mark Abbo and Clerk Sue Hillebrand at one point took up the section of Robert's Rules that discusses "tabling," which takes place when board members vote to stop discussing an issue on their meeting agenda and put it aside for discussion or action at a later date.

Currently, the board operates under a system that requires it to immediately vote without discussion on a trustee's motion to table an issue. Hillebrand and Abbo debated whether that rule should be changed to allow some discussion before a vote.

After several minutes of discussion, the trustees voted 7-0 to table the tabling discussion and leave the issue of adopting Robert's Rules to a future study session.

Stalker convicted

ed of stalking another woman in Novi since that time.

Then 27, the man was convicted of stalking the township resident who broke up with him after a two-month relationship. The victim told police the harassment occurred from December 1992 through February 1993 and that she feared for her safety.

He would call her home and workplace constantly, the woman said, and occasionally come to her residence. The man sent her expensive gifts, a ring and a leather coat. She repeatedly told him that she didn't want to see or talk to him but the man ignored her.

When township officers questioned him, the man told them he didn't know his behavior had upset the woman and promised to stop.

But soon after that the man began anew. On one occasion, he allegedly told the woman that "he was going to kill the next person that she went out with," police reports said.

"I told him I'd just get a restraining order and he said there are public places and ways around everything," the woman told police.

In a second police interview, the man admitted he had continued to contact the woman because he thought they might get back together

Wixom suspect pleads guilty in court; Judge takes case under advisement

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The suspect accused of stalking his ex-girlfriend, a Northville Township resident, was convicted last week of a second misdemeanor stalking charge.

The man, 30, is a Wixom resident. Last Tuesday, he pled guilty to violating a township misdemeanor stalking ordinance before 35th District Court Judge Ron Lowe.

Lowe took the case under advisement for one year, ordering the man to avoid any and all contact with the woman.

If another incident takes place, the judge could choose to impose a sentence of up to 90 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Lowe handed down the same sentence for the second charge, a violation of state law.

The man pled guilty to the offense before Lowe on Friday.

Township police say the man has been harassing his ex-girlfriend since December 1993. The victim told police the man kept calling her and trying to see her in person despite her repeated demands that he stop.

That led township officers to arrest him twice on the stalking charges.

Free tax guide available from Bullard

A guide to assist Michigan taxpayers with their 1994 returns is available free of charge from the Lansing office of state Rep. Willis Bullard, Jr., Chair, House Tax Policy Committee.

The Milford Republican said the publication also is available at local government offices and libraries.

"These guides will make doing income taxes an easier task,"

Bullard said. "They contain concise, practical information of the latest policies to help residents filing their own returns."

The guide contains sample tax forms and a list of phone numbers

Bills to regulate mega malls get SEMCOG endorsement

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Local governments dealing with "mega-mall" projects, would have new tools for dealing with their regional impact under bills endorsed by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

Developers of mega-malls could be required to present an analysis of the off-site demand for roads and other improvements. And neighboring communities — which would get the traffic but not the tax benefits — would have a chance to voice their views at public hearings, if the bills become law.

"It's pretty weak stuff," said Livonia Council member Michael McGee, chair of SEMCOG's Community and Economic Development Advisory Council. "It (the package of bills) would empower local units to employ a series of growth management tools. But use of the tools would be totally elective by the host community. Nothing would interfere with their home rule powers."

The eight bills were developed last year by a state House Republican Task Force chaired by Rep. (now Sen.) Leon Stille of Spring Lake. They are to be reintroduced again this year. SEMCOG's executive committee Friday unanimously approved the bills in concept.

In the seven-county region, the problem arose when tiny Auburn Hills dealt with a proposed Auburn Mills mega-mall that would have glutted roads in nearby communities and potentially drained their businesses. (The project was finally scaled down.) SEMCOG's consensus: Projects with a multi-town impact deserve multi-town thinking.

"Controlling growth is one of the most frustrating parts of the job," said Joan Buser, 22-year supervisor of Oakland Township north of Rochester. "It doesn't look like things will get better in the future."

Jerry Fisher, a municipal zoning expert from the Farmington Hills law firm of Kohl Seest, said the bills would promote coordination between the need and availability of capital improvements.

Copies of the developer's regional impact statement would be circulated to neighboring cities and townships which would then be able to comment on them.

"The community approving the development would have the right and obligation of determining whether the project will have an unreasonable impact" on state and local governments.

"If an unreasonable impact would result, the project could not be approved until the unreasonable impact has been resolved," Fisher said. "The bill would also provide for input from regional planning agencies."

"The concept embodied in this bill is entirely new to land use regulation in Michigan," said Fisher, adding, "The bill recognizes the independent authority and integrity of each local municipality involved in the process."

Besides Buser, McGee and Fisher, members of the council included Northville Township zoning administrator Carol Maise.

Sentence upheld in torture crime case

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A split Michigan Supreme Court upheld the "basketball score" sentence Wayne Circuit Judge Michael Talbot gave a young man in what the prosecutor called a "sexual torture" case.

On a 4-3 vote, the justices upheld the sentence of 60 to 120 years for Bashara Merriweather, who was 19 when he terrorized, tortured, sodomized and burned an 84-year-old Detroit woman.

Defense attorney Carolyn Blanchard, of Northville Township, convinced the dissenters that "you have to give a sentence reviewable by a parole board." The sentencing guidelines called for a 20-year minimum.

Merriweather is ineligible for parole until he serves his minimum sentence. If he had been sentenced to life, he would have been eligible for parole board review in 15 years.

Justices Patricia Boyle, Dorothy Comstock Riley, Robert Griffin and Conrad Mallett Jr. upheld Talbot, who is known for giving lengthy sentences that frequently have been reversed in the higher courts, and which said Merriweather should be resentenced.

Boyle called Merriweather's crime "so depraved" as to be almost incomparable in the annals of crime. "The 84-year-old victim, who had previously lived alone, suffered a heart attack as a result of the attack and has lived in a nursing home ever since. At the time of the trial and sentencing, she was unable to speak and had to be wheeled into court in a wheel chair," Boyle said.

Merriweather himself admitted he prowled the neighborhood looking for small bags of garbage indicating an old person living alone. "Once inside, he abused the woman with kitchen implements in a vain effort to extort money."

A jury convicted him of assault with intent to rob while armed (life), assault with intent to murder (life), breaking and entering an occupied dwelling (10-15 years) and two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct (60-120 years for each).

Boyle's opinion said there was "no abuse" of discretion on Judge Talbot's part because of "compelling aggravating factors ... The type of brutality he (Merriweather) engaged in is uniquely perverse."

Nor did she see any wrong in Talbot's handing down a sentence beyond the scope of a parole board because that "appears to be precisely what the Legislature intended."

Justice Mallett, the court's swing vote, joined the tough-on-crime trio to uphold a long sentence.

The dissent was written by Justice Michael Cavanagh, joined by Charles Levin and James Brickley. "I believe a third life sentence for the criminal sexual conduct convictions is justifiable," Cavanagh said.

OCC still waiting on video classroom

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The Highland Lakes Campus will have to wait another month for Oakland Community College board action on a new interactive video classroom.

With three members absent Jan. 16, the board voted 3-1 to purchase the video classroom from National Satellite Corp. of Rochester Hills, the low bidder at $38,306. Four yes votes were needed, however, under state law.

"I don't have enough information," said trustee Sandra Ritter of Waterford, the dissenter.

Missing the meeting, but saying in advance they would be unable to attend, were trustees Douglas Wakefield, Carol Crew and Pamela Davis.

The board was unable to conduct its Dec. 19 meeting because Ritter, Wakefield, Crew and Davis were no-shows. The OCC board had quorums for two special meetings.

Attending the Jan. 16 meeting and voting yes were board chair Janice Simmons of Pontiac, Judith Wiser of West Bloomfield and Anne V. Scott of Royal Oak.

Chancellor Patsy Calkins said interactive video would allow OCC to do long-distance teaching to business clients "on a real-time or taped-for-delivery basis. General Motors wants a better delivery system," she said.

Funds will come from corporate gifts to the college's Business and Professional Institute.

Calkins will put the item on the

Feb. 20 agenda.

The board, on a 4-0 vote, awarded a contract for an uninterruptible power supply to Plummer Electric of Detroit, the low bidder at $126,700. A steady supply is needed for computers in OCC's Bee Administration Center in Bloomfield Hills.

Calkins said interruptions of Detroit Edison Co. power have been increasing over time.

Classroom technology was a major theme in a report on the Auburn Hills Campus, OCC's "flagship," President Richard Saunders and administrators.

"Geographically, we're in a perfect location," said Saunders, citing proximity to Chrysler headquarters, Fanuc Robotics and Volkswagen of America. "We still have 170 acres of some of the most valuable land in Oakland County."

Ten thousand students are enrolled in 31 credit programs, most career related, he said.

Academic dean Carlos Olivares said a new Welcome Center, opened last September on the second floor of B building, greets potential students with applications forms, requirements, schedules, financial aids, counseling and registration services — part of OCC's recruitment and retention thrust.

Barbara Einhardt, academic dean in charge of the library and humanities, said students are helped with "test anxiety," time management, note taking and Internet.

About 600 students are taking remedial work, she told trustees. Saunders said, "Many have been out of school for 12 or 15 years and have forgotten math. Reading is not an issue."

In the text of his annual report, Saunders said enrollment in technical skills programs "increased dramatically" although enrollment of traditional degree-bound students fell slightly.

"Workers from the Big Three auto companies and their suppliers came to campus by the hundreds. This trend will continue throughout the decade. In anticipation, we have renovated our Advanced Technology Center and finalized plans for the construction of a $9 million, 22-classroom addition," he said.

Fire is close call for renters

"Oh, my God," the woman said several times. "There's a fire. I'm terrified. I'm choking (from the smoke)."

"Get out of the building," the dispatcher repeated several times. "Get out of the apartment."

As he spoke, the woman dialed 911 several times.

The dispatcher then radioed Herter and Bias, working the graveyard shift that day, to immediately head for the Forest apartments. As they walked through the front door of the building a couple of minutes later, the two officers detected "a faint odor of smoke in the main hallway," Herter said in his report.

The woman heard them and opened the door of her apartment. Herter continued, and "smoke began to pour into the hallway."

The woman refused the officers' instructions to leave the apartment. Herter said, and instead actually went back inside the smoke- and flame-filled apartment.

At that point, Bias went around to the rear of the building. He found her at the sliding glass door of her apartment. Bias pulled the woman out of door and then went in and removed several oxygen tanks from the apartment.

By this time, Bias said in his report, the flames in the apartment were five feet high.

The tanks were used to help the woman, an emphysema patient, breathe. They are designed with a special valve to release oxygen slowly in the event of a fire to prevent explosion. Township firefighters said they found several of the tanks still in the apartment, blue oxygen flames spouting from the valves.

The valve on one tank, however, was apparently faulty, causing it to explode in the fire. Witnesses likened the sound to that of a grenade going off but no one was injured.

As Bias dealt with the woman and the tanks, Herter was trying to climb the building's hallway stairs to warn the other residents of the danger. Thick smoke forced him to crawl. The family living directly above the woman's apartment heard his shouts and crawled down the stairs to safety.

Herter can be heard fighting for breath because of the smoke as he spoke to the dispatcher of their progress, as recorded on the 911 tape.

Regulations didn't require the two officers to attempt the rescue, officials note, which is something normally reserved for firefighters with special equipment. Lack of gear didn't slow down Bias or Herter, however. The two then went to the next hallway in the building, kicking open doors to get the residents out as quickly as possible. All were safely evacuated.

Then, at the other end of the building, the officers saw an elderly couple standing on the balcony of their second-story apartment.

"Smoke was pouring from the balcony door," Herter said.

They helped Eckert and Case put up a ladder and then the firefighters got the couple to safety.

"This was really over and above the job they're expected to," Fire Chief Bill Zmenda said. "They had no airpicks on, we didn't have any water on the fire yet. It was outstanding what they did."

Fire teams quickly checked the building to ensure that no one was left inside, then worked to contain the fire as flames shot through the roof. Their efforts, as well as the firewalls separating the apartments, kept the blaze from spreading beyond the two units.

Assisting township firefighters were those from Northville City and Plymouth City and Township.

"We appreciate their help," Zmenda said. "Everyone worked outstandingly together as a team."

The Salvation Army arrived just minutes after the fire was out and made sure the displaced residents were cared for. The Army put the woman up at the Red Roof Inn in Plymouth Township.

Some of the seven displaced residents gathered in the Forest apartments clubhouse, others in a nearby resident's apartment. They declined to comment on what took place.

The woman, police said, appeared to be "extremely intoxicated" at the scene and was "very belligerent" with everyone involved.

Officers requested and received a search warrant for a sample of the woman's blood. Her blood alcohol level was found to be .23 percent, officers said. That's more than twice the legal limit for drunk driving.

This week, Red Roof Inn employees reportedly called Plymouth Township police. They expressed concern that the woman was constantly smoking and had oxygen tanks in her room. They allegedly told police they were afraid a fire might start.

Officers praised for alertness, bravery

By RANDY COBLE

You don't get paid for what you do every day," former Northville Township Fire Chief Bob Toms used to tell police officers and firefighters. "You get paid for what you're willing to do."

If that's true, Officers Chris Herter and Kevin Bias surely earned their pay last week.

The two helped eight people out of a burning building at the Northville Forest apartments one week ago, saving the life of at least one of them in the process. Police and fire officials praised their efforts, saying the two men displayed "courage and dedication."

"Our officers responded quickly and heroically to save the life of a 56-year-old woman and evacuate the whole complex," Director of Public Safety Chip Snider said. "They used good judgment. Sometimes you have to make an individual decision that the safety of the public comes over your own sense of safety."

The officers' cool heads and determination enabled them to deal with thick smoke and flames during the evacuation, officials said. They even rescued one woman who refused to leave her apartment despite five-foot-high flames.

"If it weren't for them," firefighter Guy Balor said, "that woman probably wouldn't have survived."

The two officers will receive life-saving letters of commendation at the township board of trustees' February meeting.

"They did a fine job," police Lieutenant Gary Batzloff said. "These officers really went above and beyond the call of duty. They didn't have to do what they did. I told them, 'that really took guts.'"

The two officers aren't taking any bows, though. Minutes after their actions, Bias downplayed his and Herter's.

"It's just good that we got everyone out," he said.

Teachers hammer out new contract in 4 days

other issues to concentrate on for the remainder of the school year, including new mandates coming down from Lansing.

"Both parties were interested in getting the contract settled so we could get back to focusing on the business of educating our children," Danley said. "I am delighted. It is an excellent contract for employees and a responsible one for the school district."

Responsibility seems to be the buzz word associated with the new three-year contract, which allows for 2.5 percent salary increases for each of the next three years.

LeBoeuf said she is content with the accord's main provisions.

"This is a reasonable contract," she said. "Having the security of a three-year agreement is in the best interest of the community and teachers."

Under the contract, faculty members will receive a 2.5 percent on-schedule salary increase each year of the contract. On-schedule increases build upon compounded salary increases during the life of the contract.

In addition to the on-schedule increase, teachers will receive a 0.5 percent off-schedule increase for the first two years of the contract and a 0.25 percent off-schedule increase for the third year. Off-schedule increases are based on the teacher's base salary at the time that the contract begins and do not take account of yearly raises.

The step scale, which grants faculty member increases based on seniority and educational attainment, was not altered in the new contract. Faculty members must go through 22 step increases before hitting the maximum pay level.

A new aspect of the contract will require teachers to pay 0.25 percent of their total salary toward medical insurance. Previously, faculty members did not contribute to health insurance payments.

Employees contributing to a portion of their health insurance is a more common trend with businesses and school districts, Danley said. A new teacher entering the district will pay approximately $75 for health insurance while a teacher at the upper end of the pay scale will pay roughly $150, Danley said.

Also as part of the contract, the district added on two more school days for the 1995-96 school year. The new area of the contract is designed to comply with a state mandate that requires school districts to offer 210 school days by the 2009-2010 school year.

So, next year students will be in school for 182 days and teachers will work 189 days.

Language regarding a master-mentor teacher program for new instructors in the district was also added to the contract as mandated by the state.

"The mentor teacher is really going to serve as a coach or a big-brother, big-sister relationship to guide the teacher into making a smooth entry into the teaching profession," Danley said.

The program between a volunteer teacher and the novice faculty member will last for three years. The mentor teacher will assist the new teacher with such issues as classroom management, parental communications and curriculum.

Also, as mandated by state law, language was added to the contract regarding charter schools. That provision states that the board will provide immediate notice to the NEA regarding charter schools that might be set up within the district. In return, teachers must keep the board informed of their decisions to apply for positions at a charter school within the district.

Teachers who take positions at a charter school will also be allowed to return to Northville Public Schools if they were NEA members before transferring.

The district's settlement comes just months before the teacher strike bill goes into effect, imposing fines against striking faculty unions.

Under the law, if negotiators reach an impasse, teachers must operate under the administration's best last offer until concessions can be made.

LeBoeuf said this year's quick settlement was not a result of the impending law, which will become effective April 1.

Trustees cite personal conflict in rejecting appointment

for the board to approve the appointment. Clerk Sue Hillebrand said that she would be "offended" at the selection if she were O'Brien.

For her part, O'Brien said that Connell's behavior demonstrated that she wouldn't be a good, level-headed commissioner.

"Freedom of speech doesn't mean you have a right to slander or libel someone," O'Brien said. "There is a line and she crossed it."

O'Brien also denied lobbying the board to reject Connell.

"They did it all on their own," she said. "I didn't speak to any of them."

Those voting to remove Connell's name were Trustees Britton, O'Brien and Russ Fogg as well as Hillebrand. Those voting against it were Supervisor Karen Baja, Trustee Mark Abbo and Treasurer Rick Engelland.

The situation began in February 1993. Connell helped author a letter that was partially read at a board meeting. It was strongly critical of O'Brien's behavior as a trustee. Connell admits the letter was sharply critical but said it was necessary to make the statements in public because O'Brien's activities "affected the whole board."

"If a person has anything to say to you, they should speak to you (privately) first," O'Brien said in disagreement.

"Past performance is indicative of future performance," she added. "Her distributing this vicious misinformation shows she just doesn't have the temperament for the job."

Soon after that, Baja removed Connell's name from consideration for an open seat on the township's planning commission. At that time she said she was told the rest of the board would not support Connell's appointment because of the letter.

That was true, Connell said, despite the fact that the board just a couple of months before agreed by consensus that she was at the top of the list of prospective appointees for the next open commission seat. Some of the trustees who supported her in the poll then voted against her now, she added.

"I should not be rejected because of an opinion," Connell said. "That's a violation of my civil rights. There is a freedom of speech. This government's in trouble if the public's going to be reprimanded for speaking out."

Thrown into the mix is the fact that Connell is a friend of Baja, which O'Brien said is the reason she was nominated despite the fact that she serves on two commissions already.

"The fact that I'm her friend I think threatens them," Connell said, denying the charge. "They feel I'd be a Karen clone. She doesn't own me. I have my own opinions and she has hers and sometimes we disagree."

Never in Northville Township's history, Connell claimed, has a supervisor's appointment been denied by the board except in her case and in one other instance where the individual involved was not a township resident.

"It was made clear to me (then) that I was blackballed from the political arena while they were in office. Her feelings are more important than the appointment. It's sad."

Our Opinion

Appointee rejection denies right of speech

"Congress shall make no law," the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution reads, "abridging the freedom of speech ... or the right of the people ... to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

Apparently the rules are different in Northville Township. There you can exercise some of your rights and then find that others of them get squashed. That's what's happened to resident Rebecca Connell.

The township board of trustees recently voted 4-3 to deny her a seat on the Parks & Recreation Commission. They did so because of Connell's involvement two years ago with a letter criticizing Trustee Barbara O'Brien, who herself is up for another seat on the commission.

Those voting to remove Connell's name included O'Brien, Trustees Gini Britton and Russ Fogg and Clerk Sue Hillebrand. Those voting against it were Supervisor Karen Baja Baja, Trustee Mark Abbo and Treasurer Rick Engelland.

This isn't the first time Connell's been turned down for a volunteer position because of her letter. She helped to write it and signed it, then someone else read part of it at board meeting in early 1993. Shortly after that, a majority of the trustees let Baja know that Connell was out of the running for an open planning commission seat. If the letter hadn't been written, it's very likely that Connell would have gotten either commission spot without much fuss.

There are three basic points of view when it comes to this situation: the practical one, the temperamental one and the correct one.

First, some of those in the majority against Connell say they're just being practical. Putting O'Brien and Connell together on the rec commission would probably mean a guaranteed and constant personality logjam. That in turn would hinder the commission's work. Add to that the political minus of doing something that a fellow board member strongly objects to.

There also appears to be hints of agreement with O'Brien's stated position, however.

In a nutshell, that position is that Connell just wouldn't make a good commission member because she's a temperamental hothead and lacks good judgment. The letter proves that point, O'Brien maintains. She calls it an example of "vicious misinformation" that crossed the line from free speech into outright libel.

Guardians of safety show up for the job

We use a lot of lip service to describe how much we appreciate the work of the people we entrust with our safety - police officers, firefighters, emergency medical workers and radio dispatchers. Last week's fire at the Northville Forest apartments, however, should serve as a stark reminder of just how invaluable that work is.

The township Department of Public Safety (DPS), along with firefighters from other area communities, managed to snuff out the blaze which erupted in the early morning of Jan. 19. Two apartments were completely destroyed and the residents of some others had to be evacuated, but no one died or was seriously injured.

A big reason for the latter fact are police officers Kevin Bias and Chris Herter and firefighters Mike Eckert and Bill Case. DPS officials say the four went above and beyond the call of duty in risking their lives to pull the people inside the apartment building to safety.

Understand that rescuing people from burning buildings isn't part of police officers' job description. That task is normally left to firefighters, who

Government

Also to be remembered, she adds, is the fact that Connell and Baja are friends. Her appointment is one more step in the never-ending campaign Baja is waging to increase her fiefdom, the thinking seems to be.

Then we get to the third view: the truth, Connell's opinion, shared by the minority, is that she has a right to say what she said without fear of being denied participation in her local government. The four majority voters ignored that, she adds, the three others choosing to pacify O'Brien's hurt feelings.

We think that the personality conflict argument and the fact that she's friends with Baja aren't grounds to toss out Connell. We also think that the letter, while harsh, sticks to the writers' perceived concerns about O'Brien's performance as a trustee. That's a legitimate issue for public debate. The fact that O'Brien feels it's a personal attack doesn't change that.

If O'Brien (and others) disagree, perhaps they should recall some of their spicer comments about the way Baja's done her job. Right or wrong, those and the letter's charges are all equally caustic.

The most legitimate point made against Connell is that she serves on two township commissions now, albeit minor ones. Why not instead appoint someone who's not serving on anything? If that were the reason she was denied, it might have some merit. But that clearly wasn't the case.

What is the case is that the majority ignored Connell's rights. She has a right to her opinions about O'Brien's performance as a trustee. Part of that right is the ability to express them even in - if not especially in - strong ways without fear of retribution. That right isn't contingent on how the exercise of it will affect a commission nor on the personal feelings of O'Brien.

The First Amendment, as a matter of fact, is about just the reverse. Speech that doesn't offend anyone doesn't need protection because nobody objects to it. It's the speech that rubs some people the wrong way that requires defense.

Otherwise, the First Amendment is just a hollow shell.

have protective clothing, breathing gear and other special equipment. Despite that, these officers went and brought out six people, at least one of whom otherwise would have died in the flames.

Eckert and Case didn't have the proper gear but still went ahead and rescued two more people from the burning building.

That's where the real heroism here shows. Things can be replaced. People can't.

The people who keep us safe take risks. Maybe those risks aren't as great here in Northville as in a big town like Detroit. However, this fire burned just as hot as any that Motown's ever had.

It's also true that public safety employees get paid for taking those risks. How many of us, though, do a job that's a lot less dangerous for a lot more money? How many of us would have gone into that building?

We feel these four men, as well as the rest of the DPS team, deserve a big public pat on the back for their fast action and courage.

National peg in a local hole

Mike Malott

Media outlets are so clogged with this so-called coverage that barely any real news and information can drain through at all.

It probably wouldn't surprise you to learn that an Associated Press survey of daily newspaper editors from across the country ranked the O.J. Simpson case among the top 10 news stories of 1994, or even that they picked it as number one on the list.

But you might start to get a feeling for how out of touch the national media has become if you learned that the Nancy/Tonya saga also made the list of top stories of the year, and that the congressional elections ranked only fourth.

Now, we get a lot of advice from the journalism world's so-called experts on how to do a better job producing our weekly newspaper.

Recently one of our crew returned from a seminar in which these so-called experts again suggested that "localizing national news stories" is a good source of

The thin line between "national news" and "tabloid trash" continues to blur. This week, the networks are going "wall to wall" with the O.J. Simpson trial.

The daily papers are producing special sections dedicated to the court case and cable channels are promising live broadcasts of the courtroom proceedings - expected to go on for six months - start to finish.

ideas for local newspapers such as ours.

I've already explained in this space that I think that's a really bad idea. And here's why.

One of the first suggestions made of how we could "localize national news stories" was to find a local tie to the O.J. trial.

Perhaps we could have a mock jury, composed of local residents, who could then give their opinions of Simpson's guilt or innocence, was the way the idea went.

This would be "reader responsive," it was said, because people in town are interested in and talking about the Simpson trial.

I won't tell you who offered this really stupid idea, but I will tell you that this editor, at least, hit the roof. The result was a six-page memo denouncing this and other idiotic notions offered by these self-proclaimed experts who say they can tell us how to get in touch with our readers.

It would be better, I suggested, if we were to run a banner on the front page pronouncing our newspaper to be "100 Percent O.J. Free."

From what I can tell, we'd gain a lot of readers in town who are sick and tired of hearing about the trial and the accompanying media circus.

Well, I guess now that I've done a column explaining why we aren't involved in the media feeding frenzy, I'm going to have to change that to "99.9 Percent O.J. Free."

But that is still an improvement over most papers these days.

play on the kid who's experimenting with independence and dependence all at the same time.

When I'm ready to leave for work, Tyler drags his feet to get ready to go to his Aunt's for the day. After work when I pick him up there we go through the same thing only now it's just the reverse.

It's a daily ritual that quite frankly tries my patience. I really don't like threatening the kid to make him respond, but it beats the alternative of using force and creating a tearful, angry scene.

I've thought of other methods to get him into gear but nothing works as well. I've resigned myself to the notion that in this world there's real time and there's Tyler time. I guess from a three-year-old's point of view, there is just no concept of time.

Now don't get me wrong, Tyler's not a bad little guy. In fact he's just the opposite. Parents - like me - have to say that.

But really he's a bee charmer. Friends say he'll make an ideal politician or lawyer. I don't know if that's good or bad just yet. But the little guy is definitely not gun shy. He talks to everyone he meets on the street. Says hello to anyone who crosses his path and can talk a good story when he's in the hot seat.

I guess that's why it's so hard for me to accept that I have to toy with him to get him to do what I need and want him to do. This is a topic that's been on my mind for sometime. Oftentimes I wondered what, if any, impact my threat has had on Tyler and then again I worried what I would do the day it no longer works for me. I stewed over it until Monday night.

That evening I picked him up as usual at my sister's house. We argued the same point we do everyday. When we got into the car, I told him we had to stop at the drug store to pick up a few things. He said OK and asked if he could have some candy. I said maybe.

We picked up the things I needed and headed over to the candy aisle. He studied the inventory and picked out a pack of tiny Chicklets and brought them to me. I suggested we grab a bag of Valentine's Day chocolates but I couldn't make up my mind which tickled my fancy. Tyler waited patiently but soon abandoned the search and started down the aisle towards the register.

"Mom, I'm leaving," I heard him say after he turned the corner.

I stood there in silence. I smiled.

I took what I had in my hands and walked to the clerk.

As soon as he saw me he put his candy on the counter and said politely to the clerk, "It always works."

I don't worry about him anymore. He's just fine.

Appoint an official who shows up

Gini Britton's term on the Northville Township Board of Appeals expired Dec. 8, 1994. Now it's time to reappoint her to that same position or remove her and replace her with another member of the Township Board.

It was evident at the township meeting held on Jan. 12, 1995, that Township Supervisor Baja wishes to replace Gini Britton with Rick Engelland. Before this appointment happens, I would like to pass on some information regarding these two trustees and the positions they've held during their tenure on the board.

In 1993, the Township Board of Appeals held 15 meetings and in 1994, they held 16 meetings. Gini Britton attended all 31 meetings in the two years she represented the Township Board. Mr. Engelland has been the representative from the Township Board to the Recreation Commission which met 12 times in 1993 and 10 times in 1994. The February and April meetings in 1994 were not held due to a lack of a quorum. In 1993, Mr. Engelland attended nine meetings. Of the 10 meetings that were held in 1994, Rick Engelland attended five of those meetings, according to the attendance records of the Northville Community Recreation Department.

I believe the citizens of the township deserve better attendance than what Mr. Engelland has shown during his tenure on the Recreation Commission. History shows that what a person demonstrates in the past usually indicates what his future performance will be.

I would like to urge the board of trustees to stress to Supervisor Baja the necessity of appointing members to boards who are willing and able to give the necessary time to their position.

Why do teachers dislike Engler?

To the Editor:

In the past several months there have been a number of articles about how the teachers and the MEA hate Governor Engler.

I cannot understand where their feelings are coming from. Teachers in Michigan are the highest paid in the nation. They have a retirement plan that permits them to live a very comfortable life in retirement.

The reason I say the above is because I prepare the income tax returns for several teachers. They tell me that they don't feel underpaid with $55,000 to $65,500 salaries plus all the benefits.

My client from Grosse Pointe was given a bonus in 1994 of $60,000 ($6,000 per year for 10 years) to retire at 62. She is receiving $2,000 per month plus $927 per month from social security. She has her fringe benefits on top of her retirement. She also has $132,000 in her deferred annuity account. She has no complaint about her teaching career. A minimum of $41,124 for the next 10 years isn't all bad.

Yes, teachers work hard but I know of a lot of occupations that require a lot more hours for a lot less compensation.

Teachers would have a lot less stress if they had the discipline that I had 50 plus years ago. Ask your grandfathers who went through the Army Air Force Cadet programs about discipline. No one liked it but you did your best because you didn't want to be washed out.

I know the schools have their hands tied on a lot of issues but I think the superintendent could do better if he had the fortitude to stand up and be counted. We have a friend who stands five feet. She was transferred to an all black school and the community was up in arms because a black person wasn't appointed.

The first day of school she had the students in the auditorium. The students thought they could run over her.

She stood on the stage all alone, told the students what they were in school for, what she wouldn't put up with and the next year she received a reward for being the best principal in the Detroit system. There was a full page article about her in the Detroit Free Press.

It takes discipline and it starts at home

Rotary says thanks for help

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Northville Rotary Club I wish to thank you and your paper for the generous donation to our club's annual Goodfellow Paper Sale. We appreciate the printing of the Annual Northville Rotary Goodfellow Newspapers for this event.

On Dec. 10, 1994, we received donations totaling $6,500 in just six very cold hours outside throughout downtown Northville. The following week we gave every cent to Northville's Civic Concern Director Marlene Kuntz to assist those families or persons in need of food, clothing, etc., over the next 12 months.

We really appreciate the over 50 volunteers (Rotarians and other concerned community people) who assisted in this worthwhile project.

In every successful campaign there is always the "organizer," the one who carries the ultimate responsibility. Traci Johnson (Rotarian and Northville Parks and Recreation Director) was that person. She did a fantastic job. Her commitment and dedication to this community are apparent.

Rotary is a service association of 1,190,923 business and professional leaders united worldwide who conduct humanitarian projects, encourage high ethical standards in all vocations and work toward world understanding and peace. Throughout the world there are over 26,979 Rotary Clubs in over 185 countries and geographical regions.

The Northville Rotary Club meets every Tuesday at 12:05 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main Street, at Hutton. Our lunch meetings last approximately one hour. We feature a noted local, national or international guest speaker at each meeting.

Letter carrier is Good Samaritan

To the Editor:

I want to give a great thanks to our Northville letter carrier, Paul Dennis. He went beyond his duty to help me walk home after I took a very bad fall as I was taking a walk. I bruised both knees, my shoulder and right side of my face when I hit the pavement really hard.

He was very concerned whether I could walk the two blocks home as I was not sure I could since I felt weak. With his help, I got home safely and now, after several weeks of healing, I'm okay. So thankful he happened to be right there.

Dems passed many good laws

To the Editor:

John Byrni (1692-1763) is the recognized author of the words "Tweedledee" and "Tweedledum." Many have observed that there wasn't a dime worth of difference between the two major political parties, that it was a choice between "Tweedledee" and "Tweedledum" when voting for either the Democratic or the Republican party. There are many who differ with those who so assert.

When one reviews the outstanding legislation promoted and made into law by Democratic administrations in the past 60 or so years, it is plain that significant achievements were made in those years, benefiting, mostly, the majority of citizens - especially the poor. Democratic administrations, with strong opposition from members of the Republican Party, have had to engage in hard fought battles to advance programs that benefited the most vulnerable among us.

To mention but a few of those accomplishments, the following, come to mind: 1) Social Security; 2) Medicare; 3) Civil Rights legislation - lately, also rights for gay citizens; 4) Medicaid; 5) medical leave for workers with illness in the family, etc..

An important issue at this time, among many others, is the fact that the minimum wage, presently $4.25, has not been raised since 1991. Since then, four years of inflation have eroded substantially the purchasing power of those who receive the minimum wage for their work. Perhaps the present Congress will do the right thing and boost the minimum wage as is being proposed by the Democratic administration.

5th grader wants to learn about us

To the Editor:

I am a fifth grade student at Philip J. Reilly Elementary School. It is a tradition in fifth grade to write a state report. I chose Michigan as my state. I am interested in learning more about your state. I am writing to ask you to publish my letter in your newspaper in hope that I might receive a response from your readers.

I am interested in learning all there is about Northville. I know I can learn a lot from books, but I think to hear it from the people is the best kind of learning. Any letters with stories, experiences, feelings, etc., would be very helpful.

I'd like to hear about when people first moved to Northville. I would also like to hear from some who were born in your town. Children could explain to me what it is like to live there and what they do in school, for fun and on holidays. I would appreciate if people in Northville would help me experience a typical day, month, season or year.

By printing this letter I hope to receive information about Michigan and Northville to help complete my report.

And who knows, I might be lucky enough to make a few friends.

Please send letters, information and anything else you feel will help to make my state report a success to the address below.

Two rival concepts of education

Phil Power

The most important part of Gov. John Engler's state of the state speech last week had to do with our schools. His proposals range from the perfectly sensible to the hotly contested.

The governor wants to use the charter school law to open at least three skilled trade academies accessible to any student in Michigan by next fall and a total of 10 within the next four years.

This makes good sense. Any employer who has tried to hire labor within the past year knows that there is today an absolute shortage of highly skilled workers in Michigan.

University of Michigan Professor David Cole estimates the auto industry alone will need around 100,000 skilled new workers by the end of the decade. Skilled trades academies will help.

Engler also wants the 6-2 Republican-dominated State Board of Education to "examine the Department of Education from top to bottom." This also makes sense.

Dissatisfaction with the Department of Education's spongeline and immobile bureaucracy has crossed party lines for many years. A shakeup - big time - is sorely needed. Engler's executive order transferring financial aid for college students to the Department of Treasury should be just the first step in trimming back the department and ridding it of bureaucratic micromanagement of local schools.

The governor also wants to repeal the state School Code. Originally adopted in 1976 and now containing 330 pages of no less than 44 state requirements on school districts, the code details responsibilities of school boards and administrators. It also includes various regulations on calendar, school improvement, graduation standards and curricula.

Here the governor's proposals slide from the sensible to the controversial.

On one hand, the School Code certainly is proscriptive in a top-down way that makes little sense in an age requiring change and innovation. "The state needs to go back to trusting the people in their own communities to be able to make decisions in the best interests of their kids," said Justin King, head of the Michigan Association of School Boards.

On the other hand, merely relying on fine-sounding rhetoric about "local control" neatly ducks fundamental questions about just what quality standards our schools ought to meet and exactly how they intend to meet them.

For example, last year the Legislature passed and the governor signed laws that toughened the School Code to provide for core curriculum outcomes, new proficiency tests, state-endorsed diplomas and expulsion of gun-carrying kids. Together with Public Act 25 of 1990, these laws are to date Michigan's main vehicle for improving school quality. Now Gov. Engler wants all that done away with.

Troy school board trustee Becky Rader got right to the point: "There is so much involved in that code that sets up standards for the whole educational system. I just can't believe that he's thinking it will be just wiped out."

At the heart of the conflict are two very different philosophies of how best to improve schools.

One conception, set up in the School Code and in PA 25, frames school improvement as the outcome of a top-down change process driven by policy mandates. This model includes school improvement plans for each district, a statewide core curriculum, state proficiency tests, and state-endorsed diplomas for those who score well. It may be cumbersome and proscriptive, but it is also the only model now existing that details just how our schools are supposed to improve.

The other, a market-based model, is at the core of Gov. Engler's speech. The idea is simple: Do whatever possible to increase choice - charter schools, cross-district admission - and let parents vote with their feet. Poor schools will lose enrollment and, hence, funds; good schools will thrive.

Both models are flawed, interestingly, for reciprocal reasons. While the top-down model is clear about what educational standards our children should be held to, it simply ignores the actual dynamics of how fundamentally to revitalize a large and very complicated school system. And while the market-based model offers a clear dynamic of how change is to take place, it provides only pious rhetoric about accountability for actual learning performance.

Next week: A solution to this contradiction.

TENS SITUATIONS
The modality known as TENS, used by physical therapists to control pain, is an acronym that stands for "transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulation." TENS is accomplished by virtue of a small device that transmits a gentle current to the painful area. It seems to be most effective in treating muscle spasm, overuse injuries, lower back pain, joint problems due to arthritis, and peripheral nerve injury. TENS may also be used after some types of surgery to decrease pain and quicken recovery times. It is theorized that TENS' pain-fighting effectiveness comes from its ability to stimulate the body's own opiate-like substances that inhibit pain. It might also work as a counter-stimulant, much as rubbing a painful area does.
As key members of the health care team, physical therapists are qualified to test and measure the function of the musculoskeletal, neurological, pulmonary, and cardiovascular systems. At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation, Inc., individualized treatment programs will be outlined for a variety of patient problems including orthopedic and sports related injuries as well as back, neck and hand problems. For more information, feel free to call our office.
P.S. As TENS relieves pain, it allows muscles to heal and relax.

Resident psychics

Everyone has special powers, they say

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Anybody can develop their psychic powers according to Novi's resident psychics, Mark Andrews and Melissa Frederiksen.

"I didn't know that I had any ability at all," said Andrews. "My dreams always came true (when I was growing up). I didn't believe in any of this. I was totally against it. I just blew it off."

It was after a visit to a psychic that Andrews began to wonder if there wasn't something to this psychic business.

"I had met Joseph Tulle, who is a psychic," said Andrews, "and he told me a few things about my life and I knew he was right."

Tulle had been recommended to Andrews by friends as the psychic to see if he wanted a real reading. At the time Andrews saw Tulle, he had been working in a filter factory in Illinois for 11 years. One day, Andrews was sick and couldn't go to work. He told his girlfriend to call in sick for him. Andrews' girlfriend did call into work, but was not aware at the time that the company had two plants, and she had called the wrong plant. Andrews' boss never got the message and Andrews lost his job.

Tulle had predicted Andrews would lose his job during the previous psychic reading he did for Andrews. Tulle also told Andrews he would be doing psychic healing all over the world.

It was enough to convince Andrews to study under Tulle four years ago and to pursue channeling and healing full time. "He taught me to see spirits and to talk to spirits," said Andrews.

"The very first time was very strange," said Andrews of his first lesson. Tulle laid a regular card down on the table. Andrews knew immediately that it was the King of Diamonds. Tulle asked Andrews what the card was. "I laughed and said King of Diamonds," said Andrews. "He smacked me on the head and said no, look into that card and tell me what you see. I looked into that card and that card started talking to me," said Andrews. Tulle told Andrews to come back the next day and he'd teach him how to read cards.

"I thought this guy is really going to take me for a ride."

"He taught me to understand, how to focus. I didn't know that I had any ability at all," from then on, Andrews said, he started hearing voices and the spirits started coming to talk to him.

"It scared me the very first time the spirits came and talked to me," said Andrews.

"I would wake up in the evenings and they would be talking through me and I'll sit up and start doing prayers and different things," said Andrews of his first channeling experience. "I talk like an Indian and I don't know what I'm saying but I understand when I wake up."

Andrews has several guides, or spirits which direct him in his readings and healings. One of the Indian guides is Fool's Crow, another is a Sioux medicine man.

The spirits are using him as a channel because they Melissa Frederiksen (above) uses candles to sense energy in a room and also finds them relaxing. Mark Andrews (right) calls on his guides to help him in his work of channeling and healing.

Frederiksen said her psychic abilities go back to childhood. "I could see auras (the colors around people) blatantly," she said. Frederiksen, like Andrews, had dreams as a child that would come true.

"I could hear spirits walking around because we lived in an old farm house when I was real little," she said. "The owner of the house had a heart attack and I could hear him walking around and I would tell my mom and she would say, 'Oh no, it's woodpeckers.'"

"It wasn't just me, she said. 'My sisters heard things in the barn too.'"

Frederiksen plans to go into business for herself, but in the meantime she is employed as a legal clerk for a law firm and since June has been doing readings part time.

This past summer Frederiksen practiced under a psychic as part of a 10-week program. "It increased my ability tremendously," she said. "I was reading and meditating almost every night. I worked on it hard. It's constant you can never stop to improve and gain more ability."

Frederiksen doesn't use cards. She is clairaudient and clairvoyant. She uses the energy which surrounds the person who has come to her for a reading. If necessary she will feel the energy from handwriting or touching finger tips. "Most of the time I haven't had to use either handwriting or touching fingers," she said.

"I don't read minds," she said of the misconception that psychics can read people's minds. "I can't tell you what you're thinking."

If a person is throwing energy toward an idea, it makes Frederiksen's job easier.

Recently her brother had his VCR stolen and asked her to come in and see if she could find anything out. "They (the thieves) were friends of somebody who had been at the house," said Frederiksen.

"I could see them sitting on the couch playing with the TV," she said. "I heard a noise and think that's why they left."

"Some people crave psychic help, they enjoy it, they need the guidance," said Andrews. "A psychic should never keep someone coming to them all the time. They need to guide their lines and show them the way, don't tell them which way to go because that's not spiritually right either."

Frederiksen and Andrews both agree that their job is to show a person what's coming in life and then it's the individual's choice what to do with the information.

"They need to do their own work," said Andrews. "You don't need to be doing their work for them, or they're not growing."

Frederiksen and Andrews will be at the The Festival of Inner Light Extravaganza on Saturday, Jan. 28, at the American Legion Hall, 100 W. Dunlap at Center Street from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Readers, body workers, crystals, jewelry, angel books and tapes will also be featured. Admission is $5. Readings are $10. For more information call 532-8584.

A psychic should never keep someone coming to them all the time. They need to guide their lines and show them the way.

Mark Andrews

want to work through him. "They do all the healing," said Andrews. "I am nothing."

Andrews does readings, healing and exorcisms.

"We do exorcisms all the time on people and houses," said Andrews. "I've been literally picked up off the ground and thrown across the room."

In middle of January, Andrews was called in to help a family whose home had been invaded by spirits. The family was put in touch with Andrews who evaluated the home and family members to verify that what was happening was really spirits. He performed a three- or four-hour cleansing of the home and the family has since been free of problems since.

Andrews works at Heart Light in Plymouth on Thursdays doing readings in the afternoon and teaching a psychic development class in the evening.

"I had a woman who came into Heart Light and she had a disfigurement on her body," said Andrews. "When I do a healing these different Indians come within in me and they do different ceremonies. This was a snake healer and he bit her with a snake on that spot. That spot shrunk down to nothing and turned white and there was no more cancer. She had just been to the doctor a couple weeks before that who said she had cancer."

"Anyone can develop psychic abilities. The gifts are just different per person," said Andrews. "A lot of people are healers. Almost anybody can be clairvoyant and know things with their awareness. They can open their awareness. The problem with opening the awareness is that if you cannot accept what you've opened up, you can have a mental problem. To know that there is a spirit sitting beside you, and know that and you can feel that and you may be able to see that, you need to understand that."

"You can do it on your own," said Melissa Frederiksen. "There are books, but it's easier if you see somebody. You can do some stuff back and forth."

For Frederiksen the realization that being psychic is her destiny came as a relief.

"It's one of the only things I enjoy doing as a job," Frederiksen said. "It just fit. It feels really natural. After you fight something for so long, it's a relief to finally realize what you're supposed to be doing."

Murphy on the go with the Jaycees

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Sit and watch the world go by - and it will - but if you're between 21 and 40, you don't have to, according to Karen Murphy, chairwoman of the board of the Novi Jaycees.

The Jaycees, she said, is a local, national, and international organization, and its purpose is to promote leadership training - that means in you - and to provide service in the community - here that means in Novi.

On the first Monday of each month members, men and women, meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Jaycee House, which is located at 43115 Sixth Gate, off Novi Road, south of Grand River.

Sometimes a speaker comes in to talk about "fun things," Murphy said, anything from handwriting analysis to cooking.

Sometimes members discuss ways to raise money for donations to charity - about $20,000 worth a year.

Their primary fundraisers are the haunted house at Halloween, which Jaycees operate in cooperation with the Exceptional Equestrians program, and the holiday arts and crafts show, in cooperation with the Novi Arts Council.

Who gets the money?

"We contribute about $6,000 a year to the needy family program," Murphy said. Then there are people Jaycees hear about who need temporary assistance, like emergency bills to pay, and there are children who need assistance to attend band camp at Interlocken.

As for an individual's participation, "You can pick and choose what you want to do," Murphy said.

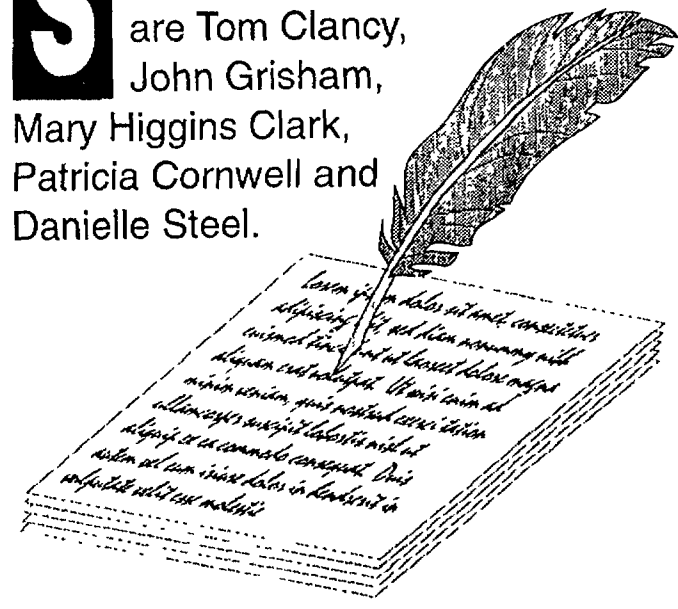

Karen Murphy got into the organization, she said, a few years back, "ever since women were allowed to be full partners," and it's a "good mix of white collar, blue collar, singles, and married couples."

"Take a look and see what we are," she suggested, and decide whether it's "what you're looking for."

Robert Lorenzo's interest in trains and photography led to his co-authoring Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, a tribute to Bessemer and its contribution to the steel industry.

Tribute to trains the result of three years of research

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

When Robert Lorenzo became fascinated with trains as a child he had no idea where it would take him.

Lorenzo's interest in the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad began during his vacations in western Pennsylvania. Lorenzo would spend six weeks hanging around with his cousins, aunts, uncles and trains in the Shenango Valley during the summer. By the time he was 18 or 19 years old he was thoroughly hooked on trains.

"The initial spark came from a Lionel train set as a child," said the Novi resident, who also builds scale models from scratch and kits.

Another love is photography. "Photography combines relaxation with nature photography and taking pictures of trains," he said. "It's a good way to clean the brain."

Lorenzo put a lot of things on hold when he undertook co-authoring Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad.

"We wrote off three years of our lives to put this book together," said Lorenzo of the leisure time he and Nathan S. Clark Jr. gave up. Lorenzo and Clark met as teenagers. Clark lived in the area where Lorenzo vacationed.

In about 1986 Clark's job took him to Dearborn, right across the street from where Lorenzo was working for Ford.

Both had the same interest in history, trains and photography so collaborating on a book which combined their mutual interests seemed logical.

Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad celebrates the 125th anniversary of the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad Company. Lorenzo and Clark focused on the railroad in action from the 1950s through early 1990s. The book takes the reader on a color tour of the line from the Lake Erie harbor at Conneaut, Ohio southward to the North Bessemer Yard.

"The book is meant to be a tribute to Bessemer," said Lorenzo, who made sure all the equipment was at its best when photographing. "My satisfaction will come from members of the railroad who said we did a really good job," said Lorenzo.

Although Lorenzo had 3,000 to 4,000 slides of trains in his personal collection, he chose to solicit photographs from other photographers. Lorenzo wanted a blend of photographic styles in the book. Several thousand slides came in from other photographers. Going through all those slides took about a year. Lorenzo and Clark then narrowed the selection to 500 to 600. Of those, 216 were chosen for the book. The pictures used represent every type of diesel locomotive the company has, according to Lorenzo.

One of the first things he did was tour the line. Attention to detail is a top priority with Lorenzo. He would visit the site of each submitted photo to verify its accuracy. Since over the years land around where some of the pictures had been shot had been developed, it was occasionally hard to verify the picture, but all were eventually personally verified. "My mom wondered if I was coming to see her or see the trains and shoot pictures," said Lorenzo.

"The photographs were always taken with safety in mind and with permission," said Lorenzo. The shots that look like the photographer was standing in front of a moving train were actually taken from a safe distance with a zoom lens, cautioned Lorenzo.

For the historical information about the trains and the stops along the line, he went to the public library in Greenville where issues of the Bessemer Bulletin from the 1930s through 1984 were kept. Lorenzo read every single issue.

"A lot was done by digging and talking to people," said Lorenzo.

"About 10 people from Bessemer proofread to make certain things we wrote were as factual as possible," said Lorenzo.

Finding a publisher was the easiest part. Knowing that Morning Sun published special interest books on trains, because he personally owned 20, he contacted them first.

A limited supply of books are available at Borders Books. Books can be purchased directly from the publisher, Morning Sun Books, Inc., 11 Sussex Court, Edison, NJ 08820.

Lorenzo, who is "fascinated with the raw power of machinery in motion" has a few last words about safety. "Don't try to beat trains across the crossing," said Lorenzo. "You can't always hear a train crossing now days. A 14,000-ton coal train travelling at 35 to 40 miles per hours can't stop for one mile."

THURSDAY

Scott Peerbolte and Lise LaCasse will star in The Frog and the Prince at Genitti's Feb. 18 through April 15.

Brothers Grimm comes to Genitti's

Scott Peerbolte of Northville and Lise LaCasse will star in The Frog and the Prince at Genitti's Restaurant. The Frog and the Prince is being brought to Genitti's by September Productions, a Novi production company.

Peerbolte's first performance with September Productions was about a year ago when he played "Skin Horse" in Velveten Rabbil.

Peerbolte attended Wayne State University for three years, majoring in theater. He is a graduate of Lakeland High School in Highland. Peerbolte plans to go back to WSU to complete his degree requirements.

Peerbolte has been acting in plays in elementary, junior high and high school. "I like old time musicals," he said. "They are my favorite."

He's not so fond of the new material and says that "Musicals will come back. Art usually runs in circles, everything old is new," he said.

Peerbolte has performed in A Christmas Carol at Meadowbrook and at the Marquis in Northville. In the fall he travelled to Germany to work for a friend's company, Quiddlers, where he was a guest artist on a children's game show doing a variety act.

Acting is not his only forte. He has written a book entitled Aladdin, an adaptation of the Arabian Nights classic which will be performed on March 18 and 19 at the Community House in Birmingham.

Peerbolte also teaches the Birmingham Popcorn Theater, a community education theater for ages 8 to 12 and up. He found so much that was not appropriate for children or unsuitable for a specific class he had, that he'd adapt another play, or write 10-minute plays for his classes. "It just grew into writing a full length play," he said.

The Frog and the Prince is a musical adapted from the fairy tale by the Brothers Grimm.

Genitti's will serve the Saturday lunch buffet which begins at 11:30, show starts at 12:15. Performances dates are Feb. 18, March 4, 11, 25, April 1, 8, and 15. Ticket prices for adults are $10.99; children, $9.99; and to see the show only, $6. Genitti's Restaurant is located at 108 E. Main in downtown Northville. For reservations, call 349-0522.

It's not easy to meet new people

...but the HomeTown Connection makes it easy!

"I was way too busy to get out and meet people. Then I saw an ad for HomeTown Connection in the Green Sheet and decided to take a chance! All it took was one phone call!! It was fun to write my own ad and before I knew it, I had messages in my voice mailbox from people who were interested in meeting me!

"I found someone special -- so can you!"

'Cobb' views inner drives of Tiger star

"The desire for glory is not a sin," asserts Tyrus Raymond Cobb.

For him, it is, in fact, salvation. And he found that salvation in making himself the greatest player the game of baseball has ever known.

Cobb began his career in 1905 as an outfielder with the Detroit Tigers and retired in 1929 with the Philadelphia Athletics, virtually owning the decade between 1910 and 1919 when he hit above .380 seven times and over .400 twice. His record of 892 stolen bases was unsurpassed for 50 years and his record of 4,191 hits was not beaten until 1985.

Sixty-six years after his retirement, he still holds the record for most career runs scored (2,245) and highest lifetime batting average (.367).

Cobb was much more than a brilliant and troubled baseball player. The son of a scholar and Georgia State Senator, he was a man who dined with presidents, hunted with Hemingway and swapped stock tips with masters of finance. He was driven not merely by a passion to succeed but to dominate in every endeavor.

Thirty-five years past the prime of his legendary career, Cobb, crippled by disease, age and spite, summons a sportswriter to help him write his autobiography and secure his reputation among those touched by glory. Al Stump, the most successful freelance sports journalist of his era, hopes to learn the secret of Cobb's greatness — perhaps even the nature of Greatness itself — from a seat at the deathbed of the ferocious man who had been both the game's most celebrated and its most despised player.

Driving cautiously up the ice-slicked mountain road to Cobb's home, Al Stump could not have known he'd soon be careening back down on the wildest ride of his life. As he travels with the legend to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, Stump dodges Cobb's drunkenly aimed bullets and withering verbal assaults and learns more than he ever wanted to know about Cobb — not only of his greatness but of his egomania, bigotry, misanthropy and rage.

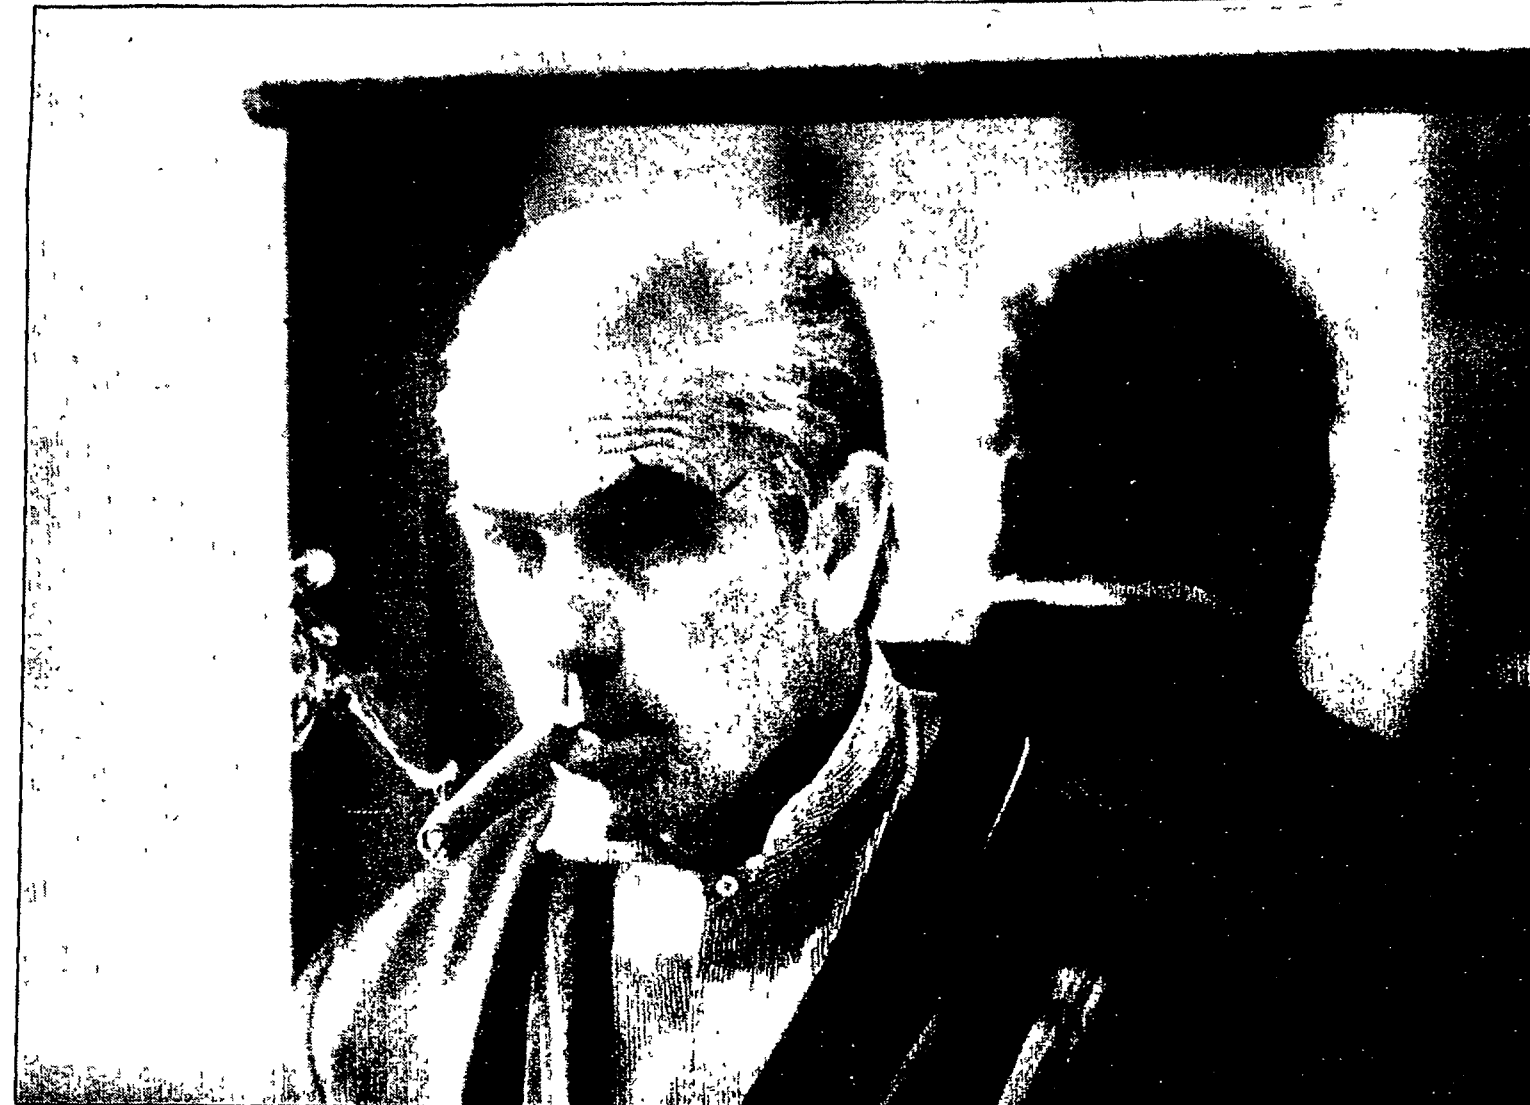

Disturbed by the contrast between Cobb's stunning achievements and his contemptible personality, Stump struggles to decide on the direction his book should take. Should he write the real story of the man? Or maintain the myth?

Tommy Lee Jones portrays Ty Cobb and Robert Wuhl is cast as Al Stump in "Cobb." The film is directed by Ron Shelton who also wrote the original script, inspired by the writings of Al Stump.

With his dynamic portrayal of Cobb, Tommy Lee Jones continues the series of riveting characters that have earned him a recent Best Supporting Actor Oscar for his role as the driven U.S. Marshal on the trail of "The Fugitive" and a previous nomination for his role as flamboyant alleged conspirator in Oliver Stone's "JFK."

By writing and directing a biography of the complicated Cobb, Ron Shelton furthers his exploration of sports and their demands on the individuals who play them that he began with "Bull Durham" and continued with "White Men Can't Jump."

Combining Shelton's insightful script and Jones' complex characterization, "Cobb" creates an unforgettable and sometimes unsettling portrait of an often infuriating but always captivating personality.

The origin of Shelton's interest in Cobb dates back to the filmmaker's childhood in Santa Barbara. "My Life in Baseball" by Ty Cobb with Al Stump was the first hardback I ever bought with money I earned from moving lawns," said Shelton. "When I read the book, I thought it was great, but I had a vague notion that there was more to the story. Then, around 1980, I saw an article written by Al Stump. It told about a Cobb that wasn't in his book."

"The first book was about a great hitter and daring base runner — it was a baseball book."

continued Shelton. "The second story was about a reckless, incorrigible man who was refusing to die quietly. And I thought about the writer who had written both versions of a truth."

Cobb was breaking records on the diamond in an age when the media made sports heroes in the mold of legends of the Old West: a champion of good facing his nemesis with a Louisville Slugger instead of a Colt .45. Still, it was commonly known that Cobb's personal traits included bigotry, misogyny and an uncontrollable temper.

"Cobb was among the first sports superstars, the first sports millionaires," noted Shelton. "He fought for players' rights. He supported several old ballplayers who went broke, and he did it anonymously. Yet most of his rages were public and defied any sense of 'public relations.' His whole life, he didn't care what people thought about him. Yet, facing death, he seemed to care too much."

"There is something unknowable about Cobb, something about him that won't let anyone get too close — no second baseman, no teammate, no wife, no member of his own family. And yet there is something compelling about him, about his excellence, his refusal to accommodate and the sheer bullheadedness of his will."

Cobb's take-no-prisoners approach to life is what drew Tommy Lee Jones as well. "Some people say that to be successful or great you must be compassionate," said Jones. "Some say the only thing that matters is a man's achievements. I'm an actor, hired to play a role, not to pass judgment."

"But I love Ty Cobb. I love his achievements. I love his willingness to be alone, his endurance of the antagonisms. I love people who have a lot of athletic desire," Jones continued. "The athletic heroes that I have had have meant a great deal to me. One of the themes of this movie is American athletic desire and its value independent of an individual's weaknesses."

'Cowboy Way,' it's Crocodile Dundee with spurs

THE COWBOY WAY
By Mike Kapusky
Northville

Yeehaw! It's "Crocodile" Dundee with cowboy boots and spurs!

Woody Harrelson and Kiefer Sutherland play a couple of New Mexican, cattle wrestling, rodeo champs who travel to The Big Apple searching for a lost friend and his daughter.

Now Harrelson and Sutherland may not be at the top of the list of actors to go see, but they are outstanding as a couple of small-minded cowboys and gallop through a darn tootin' good flick as they try to adjust to "them city folk" and fight off a few bad guys.

Some scenes may become a little risqué, however, for the most part, it is a knee slappin' good time with comedy, suspense, great chase scenes and lots of surprises.

"The Cowboy Way" ropes in a wild four stars (out of five twinklers with five being the brightest). A western hoedown that rattles the funny bone and struts its way to your local video store. This is a movie to rent even if you shudder at the thought of line dancing.

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

SCENT OF A WOMAN
By Helaine Binstock
Novi

Extraordinary performances stand out — like Anthony Hopkins in "Remains of the Day" or F. Murray Abraham in "Amadeus." Such distinguished achievements traditionally connect with a great script ... not the case in "Scent of a Woman."

Al Pacino won a well-deserved Oscar as a drunken, embittered and blind, retired Lieutenant Colonel. His performance "makes" this film! He's spectacular — the story is preposterous. Yet, with all its flaws, it's enjoyable — all due to Pacino.

The colonel resides behind his niece's home in a cabin. She badly needs a recess from this home-bound relative and advertises at the wealthy prep school nearby for a Thanksgiving Holiday replacement.

A timid Charlie attends the institute on financial aid and really needs the $300 offered. He (Chris O'Donnell) shows up for the job, and is completely intimidated by Pacino. But Pacino's niece promises Charlie her uncle's bark is worse than his bite.

Charlie soon learns the colonel plans a shocking agenda for those few days and, yes, as you guessed, Charlie begins to see him under a new light.

The seasoned colonel is good for the inexperienced lad who has innocently managed to get himself into a mess. Pacino admires his principles regarding the situation, and Charlie certainly can use some assistance.

DUMB AND DUMBER
By Isaac Perry
Milford

From the opening scene, all the way to the credits, "Dumb and Dumber" is the perfect comedy for the lower-educated, immature person in a masculine frame of mind, like me.

Jim Carrey is hilarious, as always, and Jeff Daniels is the perfect match up for this movie. It's full of great one-liners, ridiculous situations and a dream sequence unlike any other.

This is definitely a movie that must be experienced in order to be appreciated.

DUMB AND DUMBER
By Heather Wadowski
Northville

When I first saw the previews for "Dumb and Dumber," there were two things I noticed first.

The first thing was that since Jim Carrey was in it, the movie would be stupid.

And the second thing was that since Jim Carrey was in it, the movie would be an instant hit.

And after seeing "Dumb and Dumber" for myself, I noticed that I was right on both occasions.

"Dumb and Dumber" definitely deserves its title. It happens to be one of the dumbest, sickest and most pointless movies of 1994. But "Dumb and Dumber" also happens to be one of the funniest movies of 1994.

Filled with great one-liners, "Dumb and Dumber" will have you laughing so hard you will be gasping for air.

"Dumb and Dumber" receives four and one-half stars out of five, with five stars being the highest. It can't compare to the greatness of "Ace Ventura: Pet Detective," but it's still a great movie.

Tankers beat Novi for first win

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It isn't often that a swim meet turns on one event.

But Northville's home 54-46 win over Novi last week certainly did. Tied with four races to go, the Mustangs took first and second place in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

"That was a big event for us," Northville coach Mark Heiden said. "It was the turning point." That pushed the Mustangs ahead by five. Jim Johnston's victory in the 100 yard breaststroke sealed the win for Northville.

Novi coach Bill McCord was somewhat surprised at Johnston's swim. He said the Northville athlete hadn't done the breaststroke all year.

"(Heiden) had an ace up his sleeve," said McCord.

Heiden said he believed his team could score points in the freestyle relay and breaststroke.

"I was hoping our relays would come out on top," he added. "We wanted to make up points in the breaststroke and relay."

McCord described the Baseline match up as an exciting one.

"It was interesting until the end," he commented. "I thought it was a great high school meet."

For Northville, the victory came none too soon. The Mustangs were 0-3 going in. Novi dropped to 4-2 overall.

The two schools duel throughout the meet.

"I was hoping our relays would come out on top. We wanted to make up points in the breast-stroke and relay."

MARK HEIDEN

Take the 200-yard medley relay, for example.

Northville won by less than a second as Craig Sieving, Sean Hollister, Johnston and James Elssesser finished in 1:50.43. The Novi team of Erich Kelly, Rob Mutch, James Galford and Ryan Bush had a season best time of 1:50.69 for second place.

Evan Whitbeck won the second race for Northville as well. He swam a 1:58.58 in the 200-yard freestyle while Novi's Henry Newton was second in 2:00.53.

Kelly made the state cut in the 200-yard IM. The Wildcat tanker won the race in 2:03.88, which was less than a second faster than the state cut time, and Johnston was second for Northville in 2:19.19.

Jeff Sieving took an easy victory in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 23.06. Mutch had his career best for Novi with a 24.69 for second.

Northville's Chris Anderson won the diving competition with 237.35 points. Novi's Eric Brandon was second at 200.6.

Mutch had another career mark, this time in the 100 butterfly. He swam a 58.1 for first place while Craig Sieving of Northville was second in 1:00.66.

Jeff Sieving won the 100-yard freestyle in easy fashion with a 51.89. Newton grabbed second for Novi (55.46) and Northville's Elssesser was third (55.99).

Kelly swam an usual race for him, the 500-yard freestyle, but did nicely to win in 5:10.48. Whitbeck was second for the Mustangs in 5:14.97 and Chris Bond was third in 5:38.34.

Next up was the 200-yard freestyle relay.

The team of Johnston, Jeff Sieving, Whitbeck and Elssesser won the race for Northville in 1:37.65. Grabbing the critical second spot was Hollister, Anderson, Andy Stewart and Jim Mal-loure in 1:41.68. Novi's Newton, Galford, Ken Myers and Brian Leroy were third in 1:42.20.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Craig Sieving was first in 1:00.59. Mike Diclaudio was second for Novi in 1:04.93.

Johnston swam a 1:07.52 to win the breast-stroke and Hollister was second with a 1:08.49. Galford placed third for Novi.

The Wildcats won the meet's final race, the 400-yard freestyle relay. The team of Newton, Mutch, Leroy and Kelly swam a 3:35.40. Jeff and Craig Sieving, Elssesser and Whitbeck were second in 3:37.01.

Spikers beat Falcons in four; fall to Glenn

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Life is strange sometimes.

Northville High lost one of its top volleyball players, Erin Hornberger, before its Jan. 18 home match with Farmington. The senior, who acts as the team's "setter," or quarterback, on offense, sprained an ankle during warm ups.

That being the case, you'd figure the Mustangs were in big trouble against Farmington. Not so.

Northville took a relatively easy four-game victory over the Falcons. Junior Tami Taylor stepped in for Hornberger and led the Mustangs.

"She did a really good job," said coach Laura Murray. "I knew she was a talented player."

The win improved Northville's Western Lakes Activities Association record to 1-1. The Mustangs are 3-8-3 overall.

According to Murray, Hornberger was participating in a spiking drill during warm ups. She jumped up and came down on a ball, rolling her ankle.

"She was in a lot of pain," the coach said.

Murray wasn't sure how her team would react to losing Hornberger.

"She's the one who does it all," she said and added that the senior will be out for two to three weeks.

Taylor helped Northville get off to a fast start in Hornberger's absence. She served for four straight points to put the Mustangs up 4-0.

Farmington rallied back to take a 9-6 advantage. Lauren Poole then put her team on top to stay by serving for six straight points, including three aces.

"When she's on," Murray said,

"she's hard to serve-serve."

Northville won the game 15-12.

The Falcons owned game two, though. Northville was only able to send two servers up and, as a result, lost 15-8.

The two teams battled hard in game three.

Farmington fought to a 9-7 lead after one complete player rotation. The Mustangs edged back to take a 13-12 lead.

After falling behind again, Poole put Northville on top for good with three straight serving points. Jodie Brown closed the game out at 16-14.

The Mustangs dominated game four and won 15-8. Taylor starred with six assists, two kills and two serving aces.

Sarah Gregerson, Angie Groves and Renee Olin also played strong games by serving for several points each.

WESTLAND GLENN def. NORTHVILLE 6-15, 15-12, 15-10, 15-13

Northville opened its conference season Jan. 16 on the road against the Rockets.

It looked like the Mustangs would make mincemeat out of Westland early on. Northville took a 15-6 victory in game one.

Poole started out by serving bullets and the Mustangs went up 6-0. John Glenn rallied briefly but, led by the serving of Jill Holloway and Groves, Northville won.

The final three games were frustrating. Northville led in all three, but could not hang on.

"We just can't maintain something," said Murray.

A long game two saw the Mustangs 6-4 lead evaporate.

Gymnasts place second at Hartland

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Never let it be said that the Northville/Novi gymnastics team doesn't have depth.

The combined squad proved just how talented it is Saturday by taking second place at the Hartland Invitational - minus three lineup regulars. According to coach Barb Winn, several girls stepped up with top-notch performances and won medals.

"A lot of them had several," she said. "That was really exciting."

Saturday's meet closed a hectic week for the squad. Northville/Novi had a pair of dual meets early in the week and also had finals to deal with at school.

"It was a tough week," Winn said.

It didn't show in performances, however. Northville/Novi scores were consistently eight or higher in each event.

Gina Spagnoli, for instance, scored an 8.1 in the vault for third place. Dana Ghedotte notched a 7.75 for fifth.

The duo scored even higher in the uneven bars. Ghedotte took fourth place with an 8.5 while Spagnoli was fifth with an 8.45. In Division II, Robyn Wehab was fifth in the uneven bars with a 7.7.

Spagnoli won the balance beam competition with an 8.7 while Ghedotte scored a 7.3 for fifth. Wehab was second in Division II with an 8.65 and Stephanie Manza was third with an 8.2.

Northville/Novi finished strongly in the floor exercise.

In Division I, Spagnoli was second with an 8.6 and Ghedotte was fifth with a 7.35. Wehab scored a 9.0 for second in Division II.

High school gymnastic performers are divided into two divisions based on experience level. Those who have competed at club level seven or higher are placed in Division I and all others are in Division II.

Salem 137, Northville/Novi 133.4

The combined team suffered its first loss Jan. 17. Winn wasn't disappointed despite the setback.

"Salem was really pumped up," she said. "I think they did just about as good as they can do."

"We can do better. We haven't peaked yet."

events, the balance beam, gave it problems against the Rockets.

"Everybody fell that night," said Winn.

Grapplers last at Brighton; beat Canton in dual meet

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A tough season got a little tougher for the Mustang wrestling team Saturday.

Northville High finished dead last at the Brighton Invitational. Co-coach Garnet Potter didn't mince words.

"Nothing really good happened," he said. "It's hard to go in when you're giving up five or six (weight classes)."

Northville was able to fill only eight of 13 weight divisions most of the day. A total of six schools participated in the meet with host Brighton taking first.

The Invitational was actually a series of dual meets. Each school took turns wrestling every other school.

The Mustangs started the day off by falling to Fenton 40-26.

Josh Tarrow and James Kyle were two bright spots in that dual. Tarrow (100 pounds) and Kyle (126) both scored pins.

Round two saw the Mustangs drop a 48-22 decision to Ann Arbor Pioneer. Potter was particularly happy with freshman Rick Torrance's win at 106 pounds.

"He had an all-around good week," the coach said.

Tarrow won his match at 100 pounds by injury default. Other Northville winners included Nick Sriraman, Mike Scappaticci and Brian Grider.

Northville's final three matches became progressively less competitive.

Jenison beat the Mustangs 52-24. Sriraman, Kyle and Mike Scappaticci had pins. Grider won by a void at 185 pounds.

Northville won just two matches in a 58-12 loss to Ann Arbor Huron. Freshman Eric Staples was a winner at 100 pounds and Torrance scored another victory at 106.

A 60-12 loss to Brighton closed the day. Torrance and Sriraman had victories by decision and a pin, respectively.

Potter said Sriraman was tough all day Saturday.

"He wrestled well," he said. "His only loss was after I bumped him up (a weight class)."

NORTHVILLE 39, CANTON 21

The Mustangs started the week off on a high note by beating Canton on the road Thursday.

Potter said his young guys were the difference.

"My freshmen were getting pins," he commented.

At 100 pounds, Canton's Tom Greenwald pinned Staples. Tarrow lost a heartbreaker, 11-10, at 106 pounds.

Torrance was a 19-4 winner at 112 pounds. Sriraman dropped Eric Pianowski 9-4 at 119. That win was impressive considering Sriraman was wrestling in a weight class higher than normal.

"That's a big jump (from 112 to 119)," Potter said.

Kyle got himself a first round pin at 126 pounds. Mike Vertrees fell in 2:37 at 134.

At 142 pounds, Mike Scappaticci beat Brad Keeling 12-5. Brian Wall won by a void at 151 for Northville.

Joe Scappaticci fought his way to a 2-0 victory at 160 pounds. Wes Morland grabbed a pin in 1:48 at the 172-pound weight division.

Grider was Northville's final winner of the day as he stopped Dan Pinion in 2:35. Heavyweight Nick Bowersox lost by a pin.

Canton drops Northville by 7

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Ever feel like your climbing out of a bottomless pit?

That was the way the Mustang basketball team was feeling Friday night at home against Canton. Trailing by 15 points early in the third quarter, Northville High rallied in the fourth.

Senior Brian Buser led the charge by hitting a number of long-range shots. But it was too little, too late and the Chiefs won 52-45.

"They were a good team," coach Larry Taylor said. "We might have been a little overmatched in this game."

Understandably so. Injures have left the Mustang lineup thin in areas.

It was learned last week that forward Scott Anderson will be lost for the season. He tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his knee against Novi two weeks ago.

Garrett Carter, another forward, is also out and center James Holman has been slowed by injuries as well. Canton took advantage of Northville's woes Friday night.

Canton killed the Mustangs on the boards. Northville had just seven rebounds in the game, which is less than half its usual game total.

The Chiefs, as a result, got too many chances offensively and held Northville to one shot defensively.

"We didn't do a good job of blocking out," Taylor admitted.

"They got quite a few offensive rebounds."

The game was close, however, until late in the second quarter. Ahead 11-10 after one quarter, the Chiefs got hot in the final few minutes of the second to take a seven-point lead into halftime.

"We had some turnovers against their pressure," Taylor said, "and it led to some easy baskets."

Canton stayed hot early in the third period and went on an 8-0 run. Northville was down 36-21 before it could get going again.

Buser, who finished with 20 points, brought the Mustangs back in the fourth. He scored 10 in the period including a pair of three-pointers late.

But Northville never got closer than seven points. Taylor said a key factor in not being able to close that gap further was free throws.

He said his team had to commit four fouls before it could start putting Canton on the line and stopping the clock.

"It wasted a lot of time," said Taylor.

Canton hit just two of five from the charity stripe in the quarter. Poor free throw shooting also hurt the Mustangs. Northville went 8 of 17 in the game.

"We've been down below 50 percent a couple of times," said Taylor.

Northville dropped to 5-4 overall and 1-2 in the conference. The Mustangs have dropped three of their last five games.

THURSDAY
January 26, 1995

Daddy-daughter dance slated for next month

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

The Chilly Willy Winter Festival was a huge success even without much snow. You don't need snow to enjoy mouth-watering chili from great restaurants in Novi and the surrounding cities.

You don't need snow to enjoy coloring, face painting, euchre, bridge or listening to the special family entertainment that took place at the Novi Civic Center last Saturday.

Now it's time to plan for those other great Parks and Recreation activities and events to help get us through winter and move into the great spring weather that's not far off (only 55 days until spring is officially here).

Valentine's Day is less than a month away - time to be thinking about hearts, flowers and candy. But more importantly, it's time for all Novi dads to polish their dancing shoes and take that special sweetheart to the Annual Valentines Daddy Daughter Dance, Friday, Feb. 10, or Saturday, Feb. 11.

Every year this Parks and Recreation event gets more popular. In addition to the Friday dance (6:30-8:30 p.m.) is the Saturday dinner/dance, catered by Maria's Italian Bakery. It includes chicken, pasta, salad, roll, beverage and dessert. Dad's dinner is $8 and daughter's dinner is $6.

The dance ticket price is $5 per person and includes refreshments, a memorable photo of dad and daughter, flowers, gifts for all participants, great music by DJ Willie and comfortable seating for everyone. (You can attend the Saturday Dance without dinner.)

The limit for each dance is 250 people, and each year they have sell-out crowds. Better hurry in to Parks and Rec and purchase your tickets now because they always sell out. It's a special evening neither Dad nor daughter will soon forget.

And Moms don't feel left out. The Mother-Son Dance is scheduled for Friday, March 17.

The Jan. 31 deadline is almost here for the annual Novi Photo Contest presented by the Novi Arts Council. Entry forms are available at the Parks and Rec office. There is a $100 cash prize for Best of Show in both the adult and youth categories, as well as first, second and third place awards for black and white, color and Novi (Out Town) categories in both adult and youth (17 and younger) categories. Judging takes place in February.

The Novi Arts Council also sponsors the Performance Showcase held in the Novi Civic Center Atrium at 7:30 p.m. prior to all city council Meetings. The upcoming calendar includes: Jan. 23-Plymouth Symphony Soloist Al Takeuchi (age 8) on violin accompanied on piano by Yoko Takeuchi; and Feb. 27-the Four Seasons Brass. It's a great way for local entertainers to perform for their community and wonderful free entertainment for our residents.

Remember to keep your Parks and Recreation brochure handy and check out all of the upcoming activities, classes, leagues and trips offered. There's still tickets for Walt Disney's World on Ice presentation of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" at Joe Louis Arena on March 9. The $15 includes bus transportation from the Civic Center and back.

It's also time to register the kids for spring soccer and spring karate. Auditions for the Youth Theatre Children's Annex are scheduled for Feb. 7 and 9. All this and activities for Novi Senior Citizens, day and extended trips, and clubs for almost any interest you can name are available through Novi Parks and Recreation.

Chickenpox can be serious for children

By MARY ANN KOMARINSKI
Special Writer

Chickenpox is a highly contagious childhood illness seen this time of year.

Chicken pox are

- Multiple small, red bumps that become thin-walled water blisters, then cloudy blisters or open sores, and finally dry, brown crusts (all within 24 hours)

- Repeated crops of these sores for four to five days

- Sores or crusts that are usually less than one quarter of an inch across

- A rash on all body surfaces that usually starts on the head and back

- Sores in the mouth, eyelids and genital area
- An accompanying fever (unless the rash is mild)

- Evident after exposure to a child with chickenpox 14 to 16 days earlier

Chickenpox are caused by exposure to a highly contagious virus. New eruptions continue to crop up daily for four to five days. The fever is usually the highest on the third or fourth day.

Children start to feel better and stop having a fever once they stop getting new bumps. The average child gets a total of 500 chickenpox sores.

Chickenpox rarely leave permanent scars.

unless the sores become badly infected with impetigo or your child repeatedly picks the scabs. Normal chickenpox, however, can leave temporary marks on the skin that take six to 12 months to fade. One attack usually gives lifelong immunity. Very rarely, a child may have a second mild attack.

To prevent the sores from becoming infected with bacteria, trim your child's fingernails short. Also wash the child's hands with an antibacterial soap (such as Dial or Safeguard) frequently during the day. If you have a young baby who scratches badly, you may want to cover the hands with cotton socks.

Children with chickenpox are contagious until all the sores have crusted over, usually about six to seven days after the rash begins. To avoid exposing other children, try not to take your child to the physician's office. If you must, leave your child in the car with a sitter while you check in with the office receptionist. Your child does not have to stay home until all the scabs come off (this may take two weeks).

Most adults who think they didn't have chickenpox as a child actually had a mild case. Only four percent of adults are not immune. If you lived in the same household with siblings who had chickenpox, consider yourself protected. Siblings will come down with chickenpox in 14 to 16 days. The second case in a family always has many more chickenpox lesions than the first case.

Call your doctor's office immediately if:

- Your child develops red, tender skin
- Your child develops a speckled, red rash
- Your child becomes confused or difficult to awake

- Your child develops trouble walking
- The neck becomes stiff
- Breathing becomes difficult or fast
- Vomiting occurs three or more times
- Bleeding occurs into the chickenpox
- Your child starts acting very sick

Call your doctor's office within 24 hours if:

- The scabs become larger
- The scabs become soft and drain pus (note: use an antibiotic ointment on these sores until your child is seen by a physician)

- The fever lasts more than four days
- A lymph node becomes larger and more tender than others

- The itching is severe and doesn't respond to treatment

- Your child begins having severe pain when urinating

- You have other concerns or questions

'Active rest' can help reduce fatigue

By BARRY FRANKLIN
Special Writer

Sometimes after strenuous exercise, you may feel not just fatigued, but exhausted. Paradoxical as it seems, light exercise at this point can actually reduce fatigue better than passive resting.

Research suggests that an "active rest" when you're feeling fatigued will revitalize you faster than plopping down motionless. In the early 1900s, scientists discovered that after fatigue was produced in a subject's arm by strenuous exercise, the arm recovered faster if the other arm or the legs continued exercising rather than resting.

Several years later, it was shown that when the post-exercise activity was "moderately" intense, the fatigued muscles recovered faster. But when the activity was "too" intense, recovery was delayed.

Physiologists have now shown that rhythmic physical activity immediately after exercise helps to remove and utilize the waste products of exercise metabolism - specifically a body chemical called lactic acid. High levels of lactic acid cause muscle fatigue. Thus, if your blood circulation remains increased, removal of lactic acid is enhanced, and you recover faster and more comfortably.

In contrast, if you stop moving immediately after vigorous exercise, there is no muscle pump action to send blood back to the heart. Blood may become trapped in those muscles which have stopped moving - particularly the legs.

You plan this birthday celebration.

For women, every birth is a once-in-a-lifetime experience. Every new family member is special - every woman and every birth unique. For this unique, exceptional experience, consider the care of a Certified Nurse-Midwife. Certified Nurse-Midwives focus on the physical as well as the educational, emotional, cultural, socioeconomic and other needs of women and their families. They work closely with women and their partners to achieve the birth experience they want. In addition, their services are comprehensive and include family planning, preconception counseling, care during pregnancy, labor and birth; referral to physicians and other health care providers as needed, well-women gynecological care, and care during the perimenopause.

Patients may be seen at the A. Alfred Taubman Health Care Center in Ann Arbor, U-M Brighton and Plymouth Health Centers and in Ypsilanti. Most types of insurance are accepted.

For more information, please call the Nurse-Midwifery Service at (313) 763-2311.

REAL ESTATE

Home-improvement loans easy to come by

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Sprucing up homes in a neighborhood can generate a chain of positive effects. Recognizing the value of improving homes, many cities and counties now offer financial help to homeowners who want to repair or remodel their homes.

When homes are improved, things start to happen in a neighborhood — physically, economically and socially. Everyone living in the neighborhood takes more pride in their home and give it more care.

They're more inclined to socialize and discuss further improvements. Crime usually declines in these neighborhoods. And home values increase significantly.

But if neighborhoods are allowed to steadily deteriorate, they can become like a spreading cancer throughout an area. The cycle of degeneration is accelerated.

Considering these factors, many governmental groups now offer programs to provide money for homeowners who want to improve their home. The money can be in the form of grants or low-interest loans.

In many cities and counties, money is available through the Community Development Block Grant fund program, administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Santa Paula, Calif., for example, provides from six to eight low-interest loans each year to qualified, low-income families who want to improve their owner-occupied homes, according to Steve Stewart, the city's building and safety director.

"The loans, up to $25,000, are actually funded by Citizen State Bank in Santa Paula, but the city guarantees payment. Therefore, the interest is very low," Stewart said. "We also provide counsel to these homeowners, advising and holding their hand through the entire process."

In many cases, these families

HOME DESIGNS

The Hazel is prime for an active lifestyle

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Two large outdoor living spaces expand home utilization opportunities in the Hazel, a contemporary country home designed to suit the lifestyle of an active family. A welcoming wrap-around porch adds charm to the front of the home, while a raised deck at the back is large enough to accommodate a picnic table, lounge chairs and even a pingpong table.

All of the family living areas are bright and spacious, but the octagonal green room is even more richly illuminated. A large spa reflects the shape of the room, which is accessible from both the living room and master suite. Tropical plants put on luxuriant growth here, nourished by light and moisture.

Vaulted ceilings increase the sense of openness in the living room, family room and dining room. In the living room, a wide bay window fills the front and more light filters down from a half-round clerestory window in the overhead dormer. In the family room, French doors open onto the deck.

A see-through fireplace provides partial separation between the family room and dining area while allowing appreciation of flames from both sides. Tile flooring defines the entry and keeps mud from being tracked into the rest of the house.

The large country kitchen has everything, including an exceptionally spacious walk-in pantry. Sink and dishwasher are built into an eating bar. Utilities are tucked behind pocket doors, and the nook is suffused with light from bay windows. There's even room for a freezer, just a few steps away in a two-car garage that's outfitted with cabinets and a long workbench.

Amenities in the master suite include a security system, walk-in closet with shelves, and private bathroom with a shower, twin lavs and a tub brightened by the suffused light of the green room.

More storage space lines the hallway outside the two secondary bedrooms.

For a study plan of the Hazel (333-150), send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

CLEANING CLUTTER

By Jane Benskey

Clutter. It's an insidious interloper that creeps into everyone's lives.

Whether it's toys and clothes strewn throughout the house, towering piles of magazines and newspapers or miscellaneous stuff on every available flat surface, clutter can threaten the sanity of us all at one time or another.

The key to winning the battle against clutter is organization. But the question for some is, how to start?

Maybe repeating the old saying "a place for everything and everything in its place" over and over like a mantra, will help, or hopefully, so will the following tips.

Deniece Schofield, a home management consultant and mother of five, won the war against clutter and wrote a book sharing the tips and strategies that helped her organize her life. Her book "Confessions of an Organized Homemaker: The secrets of uncluttering your home and taking control of your life" is packed with ideas to arm yourself in your battle against clutter.

On the subject of old magazines that many people seem to have trouble discarding, Schofield says there is no reason to let them accumulate.

If you're keeping the magazine for a particular article, rip out that article and place it in a subject file you've created, like home, health or parenting for future reference. Then get rid of the magazine.

Schofield suggests recycling or donating old magazines to hospitals, nursing homes, beauty shops, barber shops, dentists or doctor's office.

As a way of controlling the accumulation of magazines, Schofield recommends designating a basket or shelf to store current magazines. Once the basket or shelf is full, get rid of some magazines before buying more.

Anyone who receives daily delivery of a newspaper knows how quickly those can pile up. Since most communities now recycle newspapers, it is fairly easy to eliminate newspaper clutter in the house by setting up a recycle bin in either the basement or garage.

Every few days or once a week put all the papers in the bin. Once the bin is full, either set the papers out to the curb if you have curbside recycling or drop them off at a recycling center.

Paper — in the form of bills, sales circulars, junk mail, receipts, school work — is a big source of household clutter for many families.

GARDENING

Order your vegetable seed for spring planting. Be sure to select disease-resistant varieties to avoid some problems next summer. Also, select a few new varieties; they may turn out to be better than the "oldies" that you have always grown.

Prune old, neglected apple trees. Pruning the aging apple trees is largely a job of renovation followed by renewal of fruiting wood. The pruning must be moderate and be spread over a two- or three-year period to avoid excessive growth (or injury) to large limbs from sudden overexposure to sunlight.

Such pruning consists of gradually lowering tree height to 18 feet or less, removal of surplus scaffold limbs and the elimination of weak wood.

Houseplants often need repotting when they become pot-bound. You can easily tell when this has happened to a plant: It produces little or no new growth, and it dries out quickly even after frequent watering. The roots of such a plant usually protrude from the drainage holes.

Use a pro-mix soil when repotting your plants, available at most nurseries and garden centers.

To prolong the life of a flowering poinsettia, keep it evenly moist and protect it from becoming chilled or sitting in any draft. It delights in full sunlight and a temperature range of 65 to 72 degrees F.

When the colorful bracts begin to fall, set the plant in a lighted place where the temperature will not fall below 55 degrees, and keep the soil barely moist. When the danger of frost has passed in the spring, sink the pot up to its rim in the soil outdoors in a location where it will get full sunlight, preferably morning sun.

Q. What is the best time to spray dormant oil on plants, such as for fruit trees, roses and perennials?

A. It is best to spray in late winter (March) on a windless day before any of the leaf buds begin to open. A dormant spray should control all insects and pests that have wintered in the garden or orchard. Read the label carefully before spraying.

In late winter, there is no better way to lift your spirits than with flowers. By creating spring conditions, you can force the cut branches of certain trees and shrubs to flow-

Repotting plants

Houseplants often need repotting when they become pot bound.

Repot houseplants when they:

- Produce little or no new growth.
- Dry out quickly, even after frequent watering.
- Roots protrude from drainage holes.

Use pro-mix soil when repotting plants.

Cleaning clutter means organization is the key word

One of the quickest ways to begin dealing with clutter that comes from your mailbox is to get into the habit of opening your mail by a wastebasket. As you go through your mail, toss what you don't need or want (that doesn't include bills) into the wastebasket.

Whether you have a home office or not, it is a good idea to develop a home filing system for bills, financial statements, receipts or warranty information to keep all your household business organized and in one area.

File cabinets, accordion files, box files, and folders can be used for your filing system and are available in the office supply sections of discount stores or at office supply stores.

Some files come pre-labeled with household management categories or you can create your own categories such as current bills, medical, financial or car insurance.

Set aside some time each week to deal with your current bills and paperwork. Once completed, file paperwork in your indexed files for future reference.

As for your children's schoolwork, resolve to go through it as soon as it comes home or at least once a week.

Schofield recommends using a dish pan, vegetable bin or a portion of a shelf for each child to place their school papers or notes when they come home from school.

Once you look over your children's papers, discard them, except of course for potential keepsakes or gems like an A paper or inspired artwork to display on the refrigerator.

If you do use your refrigerator to display schedules, appointment reminders or school papers don't forget to periodically discard outdated information or your refrigerator will soon resemble a very large bulletin board.

If you are a sentimental sort and wish to keep some of your children's schoolwork as keepsakes, Schofield suggests taking a few seconds to label them with the child's name and date and an explanation of what it is if necessary. The items can be placed in a large manila envelope and stored in a box labeled with that child's name.

With children come toys, there's no getting around it, but they don't have to be in every room of the house.

If at all possible, confine toys in one area. If it's not possible, keep a basket in the room to toss the toys in for a quick clean up.

While throwing toys into a big toy box is the quickest way to clean up, it is probably the most self-defeating because the first thing a child does when encountering a toy box is to empty it looking for just the right toy.

Using a system of low shelves and bins is perhaps the best way to keep toys organized.

By using clear storage bins, you can separate Legos from Tinker Toys and Barbie Dolls from Power Rangers and because the bin is clear it will be easier for your child to see what's inside and the toys will be more accessible.

Children's coats, hats, mittens, boots and shoes are another source of clutter to contend with. Once again, establish one area to accommodate all the items.

Make it easy for young children to hang their coats by placing coat hooks within their reach. A separate bin for each child will help keep hats and mittens in one place and, with any luck, prevent last minute searches for a lost mitten or hat.

If you have a limited space for storing shoes and boots, plastic stacking shelves will provide more room.

Though we've only touched on a few of the sources of household clutter and some possible remedies, there is certainly more you can do. Many discount stores, specialty stores and catalogs offer a wealth of items to help you organize practically every aspect of your home and life.

But once you have freed your house from clutter, it is important to remember that diligence is required to keep it clutter-free, that and cooperation from your family.

Otherwise you will wind up where you started — cursing as you impale your foot on a Lego as you and your daughter search frantically for her homework assignment, minutes before the morning bus is due.

Chores to do during winter

er indoors one or two months before their usual flowering time. Great candidates include viburnums, holly, dogwood, lilacs and pussywillow.

Throughout most of the country, February is the best month to do this, so cut and force early bloomers such as quince, forsythia, plum, cherry and willow, while March is best for dogwood, lilac, viburnum and apple. Of course, less forcing time is needed the closer you get to the plant's natural flowering time.

A few basic principles to follow for success:

Choose a warm day to cut branches. It's best during the warmest part of the day when buds have most sap. Leave no stubs but don't disturb the shrub's natural shape.

By treating the cut branches properly you can encourage beautiful flowers. To ensure ample water uptake, mash the bottom inch or 2 of the stems. Place the branches in water. Be sure to change the water every few days throughout the forcing period, and keep the container in a cool, dark area until buds begin to swell.

Home-improvement loans are easier

gain much more than just an improved house, Stewart said.

"By being guided through the process and meeting bankers and other business people, they learn valuable business methods and establish contacts that help them in other aspects of their lives."

There are many such federal and local programs available for homeowners who want to repair or remodel their property, according to a report from the Consumer Information Agency. In many areas, utility companies will either perform free or low-cost energy conservation work.

Sometimes homeowners can obtain money at no interest to pay the contractor of their choice for needed work, the report stated. And there are tax incentives to promote efficient energy use.

These programs are not always restricted to low-income families or urban neighborhoods. Owners of single-family or multi-family dwellings are eligible for some programs regardless of income. Most of the loans offer long-term repayment plans.

ROBERT BERG was recently named as director of operations for MATT BRADY'S TAVERN in Southfield and BRADY'S FOOD & SPIRITS in Farmington Hills. He will oversee day-to-day operations for both operations and supervise more than 100 employees.

Northville resident DOUGLAS TEUBERT ranked first among more than 1,800 LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD district representatives nationwide in the amount of life insurance, annuities, variable annuities and mutual funds issued in December of 1994.

JERVIS B. WEBB COMPANY, which has a plant in South Lyon, recently named its quality achiever for January. Commerce Township resident JOHN JAYNES received the award. A chief engineer in the estimating department, he is directly involved in developing all price quotes submitted for competitive bid. The quality achiever award is presented monthly to one of the company's nearly 2,000 employees in 45 operations world-wide.

TMP ASSOCIATES, INC., was awarded a certificate of merit in the specialized facility category for the design of Novi Instructional Technology Center by the Association of School Business Officials International. A select jury of architectural experts entries in the areas of architectural solution to stated educational program, efficient space utilization, integration of innovation technology, overall design concept and overall exhibit presentation. Located in Novi, this center was designed to reflect and facilitate state-of-the-art technology teaching and practice.

The judges called this project a "transition building from school element, the middle school, to the elementary school. In approximately 37,000 square feet of technology center, the building not only adapts to the educational program of the youngsters, but also is strongly oriented toward community use of the element of the building complex."

The R.A. DEMATTIA COMPANY, a Plymouth-based design, construction and land development firm, recently announced a design-and-build construction project for the winter of 1995, a 101,000 square foot manufacturing facility for Rowe Thomas Displays III. Rowe Thomas makes displays for industry.

MS disability spurs a stylish invention

Diane Harmon displays the Cane Cover she selected to match her outfit.

Phillip B. Winberry, Managing Partner of FOSTER, PEPPER & SHEFELMAN, announced ROBERT J. RILEY has become a partner of the firm effective Jan. 1, 1995. Riley practices in the firm's Seattle office, and is a native of Milford.

Riley's practice emphasizes intellectual property litigation and employment litigation. He has significant experience litigating and resolving disputes involving trademarks, trade secrets, copyrights and all other forms of intellectual property.

Riley also has substantial experience in employment and civil rights matters, including defending all types of discrimination claims and other civil rights claims. He received his law degree from the University of Michigan.

Even when she was very young Diane Harmon had an interest in "looking like a lady." Now, beset with adversity, she's channeled that interest into becoming an inventor and a business woman.

Six years ago, Harmon, a first-grade teacher in the Novi school district who lives in South Lyon, was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis.

The condition eventually worsened to the point that she needed to use a cane to help her walk but she hated to use the cane because she thought it looked terrible.

"I had this quite fashionable outfit and this ugly brown cane. Instead of anyone looking at my outfit they will be looking at my cane," she said she thought as she prepared her outfit for school the night before the annual Christmas assembly.

She decided to go without the cane at the assembly but she had to drag her leg to walk. Afterwards, she decided that the attention that she drew to herself by not using the cane was just as bad as it would have been had she used it.

Then she had an idea: what if there were colorful coverings that could be put over the cane? Harmon had always enjoyed coordinated outfits, like shoes and purses and ear rings that match. What if canes were treated just like another accessory?

She decided to turn her idea a product. She and her husband, Jerry, dove into the business world by themselves. They sent letters to manufacturers asking if they were interested in her idea. They also began applying for a patent.

Their method has included a good bit of trial and error, but they have received help from many people.

"We have met many people who say, 'I am not sure I can help you, but let me try,'" Diane said.

Eventually, the Harmons found a manufacturer who was willing to make their product. And, with the help of a persistent attorney who is married to one of Diane's teaching colleagues, they were able to get a patent.

Diane said that the cane covers had to be shiny plastic, weather proof, and thin enough that they could be easily cut with household scissors to fit to the length of the cane.

Diane found a manufacturer in New Jersey who was willing to produce the cane covers to her specifications. They are produced by a process called "extrusion," Diane explained. The plastic comes out of the machine in tubes, like a straw. The tubes are then slit lengthwise, so they can be wrapped around the cane.

The process leaves the plastic with "memory," which means it contracts to hold onto the cane. The covers only fit the length of the cane, not the handle. That way, the covers do not interfere with the cane's functionality, Diane said.

Because Diane insisted that it was important to have a wide variety of colors, the manufacturer said he would produce nine different colors, while only charging her the rate he would for three colors. In short, Diane said he was willing to take on the project even though he didn't stand to make money on it.

"I do believe that for all the bad people you hear about there are good people," she said. "It restores your faith in human beings."

The Harmons have also gained an education in the other facets of producing a product, such as packaging it, marketing it and readying it for sale. They chose a company to produce bags for the cane covers, which come three to a bag. They found a company to produce a display box. And they contracted with a graphic artist to produce a flier and a "header," the logo-bearing piece of cardboard that binds the top of the covers' plastic package.

The cane covers come in three packages of three. The Harmons have produced 500 of each color group. Each case sells for $12.95.

Their next step is to get the product on the store shelves. They have a manufacturers' representative, but have yet to find a buyer who is willing to put the cane covers on the shelves.

Diane keeps dreaming: "It gets my heart excited. It keeps my mind active," she said. "I just sit there and I think I want to see the cane covers out there."

If you are interested in purchasing a cane cover, you can do so by calling 1-800-636-7364. A percentage of the profits will be donated to the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

PLAY TO WIN ON OUR TURF.

The lawn care industry is one turf that's becoming increasingly lucrative. Especially if you work for TruGreen-ChemLawn—one of the largest, fastest growing and most motivated leaders in the field.

We need a SALES REPRESENTATIVE to share our motivation. A bright go-getter takes total control of an assigned territory, pulls out all the stops to develop new accounts and carefully maintains current accounts. Well established client base.

To do this you'll need a college degree or at least 2-3 years sales experience, strong organizational and communication skills, a proven sales record and an ability to get on well with people. A lawn care or related industry background is helpful, but not required.

If you want a competitive base salary, advancement opportunity, performance based incentives and a winning benefits package, then make TruGreen-ChemLawn part of your game plan. For information or an interview, call the Sales Manager—your area SCS.

Artifacts bring 'Honest Abe' to life

Jean Day

On Feb. 17, just five days after the 186th birthday of our country's 16th president, the community of Plymouth, Michigan, will present "A Lincoln Portrait - a multi-arts celebration of the American Hero."

That evening, the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra in the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium will present Aaron Copland's Lincoln Portrait with the noted Lincoln scholar/collector Dr. Weldon Petz narrating.

At the afterglow following at the Plymouth Historical Museum, the concert audience will be invited to meet Dr. Petz and to view a Lincoln Portrait Exhibition featuring more than 1,000 artifacts from his collection.

Dr. Petz selected the items for the exhibit from his massive collection of Lincoln memorabilia, which totals some 37,000 items. Curator Beth Stewart notes that the exhibit focus is on giving visitors a glimpse into the life and character of the Civil War president. The exhibit opens Feb. 8 at the museum and will be on view through September.

As part of the gala opening celebration sponsored also by the Plymouth Community Arts Council, a Lincoln Heritage Enrichment Program will be offered in the schools.

"We started working with the schools last summer," Stewart explains, adding that the Lincoln exhibit dovetails perfectly into the school's study programs on both heroes and conflict resolution.

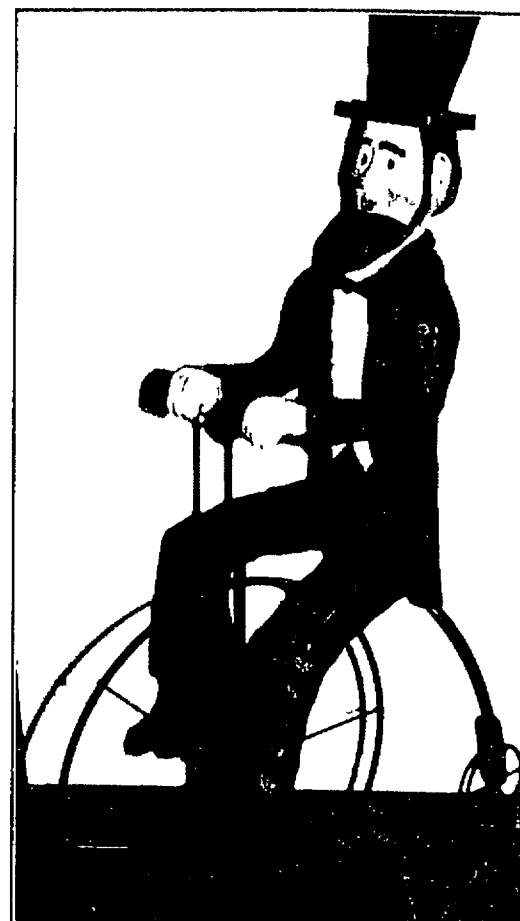

Students and their parents will be admitted to a dress rehearsal of the symphony concert Feb. 16 for $1.

The Plymouth Community Arts Council will be offering a Lincoln Portrait contest in the schools with the winner to be announced at the concert Feb. 17.

Visitors to the concert will be greeted at the door by volunteers in period costumes. They will be Dr. Petz' escorts to the podium as he narrates Copland's Lincoln Portrait.

The reading includes quotations from Abe Lincoln...when he spoke of democracy this is what he said. He said, 'As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master. This expresses my idea of democracy. Whatever differs from this, to the extent of the difference is no democracy.'

Dr. Petz, a West Bloomfield, Michigan resident known as one of the largest private collectors of Lincoln artifacts and papers in the Midwest, is now in his seventies and a

FOLK ART ABE— Weldon Petz' collection of Abraham Lincoln memorabilia includes hand-carved pieces such as this high-wheeling Abe retired administrator of the Farmington Public Schools. He is Lincolniana consultant to the Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee and to the Henry Ford Museum.

"Auction houses like Ernest Dumochelle's in Detroit and others in the East consult him for evaluations of things pertaining to Lincoln," Stewart adds.

She says she considers Petz a "true collector" because, while his collection contains extremely valuable and rare items (such as the copies of the life mask and hands of Lincoln by Leonard Volk in 1860) it also contains Lincoln memorabilia that can be purchased today.

She reports that the Plymouth Historical Museum, which also hosted exhibits of Weldon Petz' collection in 1985 and in 1990, is hoping to acquire the collection for its permanent exhibit. Dr. Petz concurs that this could happen, "hopefully, down the line."

While universities would like to acquire some of the Lincoln manuscripts and books for scholarly research (including a legal brief from a case tried by Lincoln on the 8th Judicial Circuit with his notations) the appeal of the Plymouth museum exhibits is that they are open to students and the general public, Stewart says.

She points out that Petz began collecting as an educator to make the story of the Civil War a human one

"Scholarly research was not why he collected," she emphasizes. That is why the museum at some point hopes to be able to acquire the collection to continue Dr. Petz' work in making it "authentically available to children."

The collection fills 27 file cabinets and 90 running feet of bookshelf space as well as vaults for portraits and statuary, including the John Rogers piece, "The Council of War" featuring Lincoln, Grant and Stanton.

"When a single Lincoln autograph can sell at auction for $5,000, the value of Dr. Petz' collection is hard to imagine," notes Stewart.

Petz gives 15 different lectures on the life of Lincoln, ranging from "Eyewitnesses to the Gettysburg Address" and "Women Who Influenced the Life of Abraham Lincoln" to "The Musical Note in Lincoln's Life."

The March 1995 issue of Michigan History magazine will have an article by Dr. Petz, "Abraham Lincoln's Michigan Connections."

In addition to Copland's Lincoln Portrait, the concert program will include Copland's Quiet City, and Ives Variations on America and Dvorak's Symphony No. 9 (New World).

While the Plymouth Salem High School Auditorium is a large one, sponsors of the Lincoln Portrait evening are expecting a sellout crowd and advise making reservations as soon as possible.

Tickets for the Lincoln Portrait concert at 8 p.m. Feb. 17 include the reception following at the Plymouth Historical Museum and are $12 for adults and $5 for students kindergarten through 12th grade. The concert is at the Plymouth Salem High School, Joy and Canton Center roads. The museum is located at 155 South Main in downtown Plymouth.

The museum will have blocks of tickets on sale and may be contacted at 313-455-8940.

Special tours of the exhibit, which runs through September, may be arranged with the museum. The museum is open Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 1-4 p.m. and Sunday from 2-5 p.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults; 50 cents for students, under five free, and families $4.

'Alpine Village' basks in snow

Gaylord, Michigan—

Family fun and frosty activities blend to become the 12th annual Gaylord Winterfest Feb. 3-12.

Gaylord, the Alpine Village, is a paradise for winter sports and the Gaylord Winterfest offers something for everyone.

Snowmobilers can enjoy a series of fantastic safaris including an evening ride under the stars stopping for a bonfire and hot dog roast. Women only are invited to the safari on Feb. 12 when they will take on the beautiful and plentiful trails in the Gaylord area. If you prefer a faster pace, head for Lakes of the North on Feb. 11 and enter your sled in the Winterfest Radar Run.

Children will delight in the youth fishing derby sponsored by the Northland Sportsman's Club as well as tubing, ice skating and many other exciting games and contests. New for 1995 is a Fun Day sponsored by Marsh Ridge Resort. Special events for teenagers include a teen dance and a Karaoke night for teens.

Memories of summer will come alive as you play a winter golf course or participate in the outdoor Softball and Volleyball Tournaments.

Skiing enthusiasts will find an abundance of activity during Winterfest. Giant slalom racing is on the agenda at Michaywe' slopes and three cross country tours are offered during the festival.

You can warm up during Vegas night, Feb. 11 at the Eagles Hall or at Indoor Sidewalk Sales where you'll find plenty of bargains Feb. 3-5. While shopping stop by the Courthouse lawn and see the sparkling ice sculptures or feast at the Chili Cookoff.

Believe it or not most of the events are free if you are wearing a Winterfest pin! Entry into a raffle with a Polaris Indy Lite snowmobile as the grand prize is included with the purchase of the $2 pin. Proceeds from the festival benefit Special Olympics.

Get ready for some wintry fun and head for Gaylord, Feb. 3-12. For more information, call 1-800-345-8621.

Cedar, Michigan—

Visitors to the Traverse City area now have the option of choosing an exciting add-on to their northern Michigan ski getaway. Sugar Loaf Resort will offer midweek package guests $45 in casino action for only $25 during the winter season. Simply add $25 to existing ski packages and guests come out $20 ahead even before they leave for the Leelanau Sands Casino.

Sugar Loaf's popular Deluxe Midweek Getaway Package is targeted as a best seller. The Deluxe Midweek Getaway Package is priced from $79 per person, per night, double occupancy and includes one night resort lodging, lift tickets, breakfast, dinner and dining gratuities. This midweek package offers major savings, and when combined with the casino add-on it becomes even more attractive.

The combination of the Leelanau Peninsula's legendary beauty, resort facilities and the Las Vegas-style gambling have helped to make the area the "Lake Tahoe" of the Midwest. The Leelanau Sands Casino offers over 13,000 square feet of Las Vegas-style gaming including blackjack, craps, roulette, money wheel and Caribbean stud poker. Next door there is the Leelanau Super Gaming Palace with 200 new slot machines (450 total), live keno as well and video poker machines.

The Leelanau Peninsula is where mother nature and lady luck meet. For more information and reservations please contact Sugar Loaf Resort at 1-800-968-0576.

Citizen skiers hit their stride...

Traverse City, Michigan—

One of the country's most popular cross country ski events, the 18th annual First of America Vasa, will take place on the streets of downtown Traverse City and through the woods of the surrounding countryside this Feb. 10-12.

The Vasa has become a celebration of cross country skiing where over 1,000 friends from throughout the country congregate to compete and pay homage to their sport. The event provides an opportunity for citizen skiers of all abilities to compete alongside some of the best racers in the country. With outstanding scenery, many fine hotels, restaurants and shopping areas in the Traverse City area, the Vasa is a favorite venue for racers.

For more information, call 616-938-4400.

The North American Vasa in Traverse City is inspired by the venerable Swedish Vasaloppet, an 85 kilometer race attracting 12,000 skiers each year.

The Vasaloppet celebrates the prowess of Gustav Ericksson Vasa, who skied to freedom from Danish invaders in 1518 and rallied the resistance to liberate his country, earning him the Swedish crown. The race is regarded as an historical and political event as well as a great sporting spectacle and challenge.

The first Vasaloppet, in 1922, was won by 22-year-old lumberjack Ernst Alm, who topped a field of 119 skiers by arriving at the finish line a full hour ahead of the time organizers expected.

The first racers to lead the 12,000 competitors across the finish line are welcomed by the sound of traditional birch bark trumpets and the cheers of thousands of spectators.

NORDIC RACERS— There's still time to register for the Vasa, which annually attracts more than 1000 athletes of all abilities.

...all skill levels can compete

Mancelona, Michigan—

The Perry Drug White Pine Stampede, can say proudly that it is the only Point-to-Point Nordic event in the Midwest.

What does a Point-to-Point Nordic event mean? Fun for racers of every ability. The event is slated for its 19th running on Saturday, Feb. 4, 1995.

Whether skiers want the element of strong competition found in the 50K, the self-challenge of the 25K, or the "just pure fun" of the 10K event, every race participant will find the course of the White Pine Stampede to be new at every crest.

The course, beginning in Mancelona, has finishes at Shanty Creek's Summit Village and Schuss Village and is about 80 percent protected from some of mother nature's "irritating" elements like wind, blinding snow fall or bright sun which can melt the course.

The Point-to-Point event features a traditional Nordic trail: 30 percent up, 30 percent down, and 30 percent flat, leaving a 10 percent variance on the trail.

Racers can expect a near perfect course again this year. The advantage of lake effect snow coupled with Shanty Creek's state of the art grooming system can almost guarantee first-class race conditions for both the diagonal striding and skating skier on race morning.

There's a great "photo op"; too....the first 500 skiers to register will receive a free roll of Perry Brand film along with Perry film developing coupons.

Winter's a great time for bird watching

Dorothy Webster

You can't get out and enjoy the ski slopes this winter?

Enjoy luxury condominiums with views of Northern Michigan's finest slopes, Boyne Highlands & Nubs Nob!

weekends - there's one winter activity you can enjoy from the comfort of your easy chair, at little expense. It's also one that you decide how involved you want to be, but I'll bet you'll find your interest piqued and each year you will become more curious until finally you are another full fledged "birder".

Bird watching is becoming one of the country's fastest growing pastimes, with retail stores specializing in bird-related products proliferating and sales of birdseed skyrocketing as more people discover how addictive the hobby can become.

For it's a pursuit that can be enjoyed by any one at any age in any income category, and it can be practiced year around in almost any locale, with the satisfaction of knowing you're helping birds and wildlife survive bitter winter weather here in the Great Lakes region. In the late springtime, you'll be rewarded by seeing adult birds bring their offspring to your feeders - which almost guarantees another generation returning from the south if they're migrating birds.

Those who winter-feed only are missing some of the greatest treats of bird behavior as more observers relate the appearance and antics of fledglings at the feeders. (There's nothing stranger looking than a partially feathered blue jay. Talk about awkward teenagers!)

Indeed, you may wonder why the robin was selected as Michigan's state bird when it simply appears as a summer tourist, then heads south as soon as the frost comes. Perhaps you'll be tempted to nominate the cheerful, friendly black-capped chickadee in its place. I know you'll seriously consider it the first time one lands on your outstretched hand and daintily selects a sunflower seed from your palm. It's a real thrill to discover a trusting wild creature perching on your thumb for its breakfast.

You can begin as simply as tossing some bread crumbs or sunflower seeds onto a cleared space in the snow. Then sit back and watch. Or, you may elect to install a bird feeder in a nearby tree. Even if you're an apartment dweller, you can attach a simple feeder to the outside of a sliding window (held in place by suction cups) or provide a more elaborate feeder on a balcony.

allows space for about two cups of birdseed. It attaches easily, comes off quickly for refilling and it's under $10. It's a good starter feeder for a beginning birder of any age.

With several grandchildren, I've found feeders with seed, a simple bird identification book and a pair of "junior" binoculars can start a child on a life-long interest that can be pursued almost anywhere. Even tiny tots can begin with a child's book "Feathers for Lunch" that sparks their imagination and helps them identify the usual birds that frequent backyard feeders.

Recently bereaved friends may welcome the newly discovered wonder of a bird feeder placed near their favorite window. It may also lead to friends through a local Audubon group.

Whatever your circumstances, bird watching can be an occasional pastime, a deep and abiding interest or a passionate pursuit - it all depends on you.

Beginning birders ask, "But what kind of seed do I put out?"

It depends on what kinds of birds you want to attract. Often, bird seed mix found at grocery stores isn't the best choice. Go for quality. If you select just one seed, start with black oiler sunflower seeds. Put them in a protected feeder that will shed rain and snow and it won't be long before the chickadees find them. Add an onion bag half full of fresh kidney suet, or a suet cake, and hang it from a nearby limb high enough that other wildlife creatures can't pull it down.

You might try a seed "bell". Add a hanging tube feeder with niger (thistle) seed for finches. Scatter some sunflower seed and cracked corn on the ground.

From that effort, you should attract chickadees, house and purple finches, goldfinches (they aren't yellow in winter), tufted titmice, cardinals, blue jays, mourning doves, woodpeckers and nuthatches. Blue jays and nuthatches especially appreciate peanuts in the shell. In fact, blue jays appear at my feeding stations within 10 minutes of peanuts being placed on stumps, in feeders, on the ground or half hidden. Yes, half hidden. In nice weather, when survival isn't an overriding factor, I play with the birds.

Blue jays are particularly smart and sometimes I think they smell out the peanuts. They've found them underneath leaves, half under an aluminum pie plate, hidden under an orange half or under sunflower seeds. And watch when they have two or three from which to choose. They'll often lift them up in their beaks as if weighing them, then fly off with the largest or heaviest. They often cache them for later retrieval - and sometimes lose them to squirrels who are even smarter than the blue jays - as you'll learn. For if you feed birds, you'll also feed squirrels, whether that was your intention or not.

Squirrels can be a source of enjoyment and fascination or a cause of frustration, depending upon your attitude and temperament. Personally, I decided decades ago that any wild creature that is hungry or thirsty is welcome to whatever food and water I've provided. And that decision has lead to wildlife encounters that have enriched my life - and provided amusement (and sometimes astonishment for my two indoor cats, who are delighted by the antics they observe through the windows).

All creatures have their place in the great circle of life, preying on others, being preyed upon. It's saddening to come upon freshly scattered mourning dove feathers in early spring, but remember that a female hawk has probably found food for her young.

Take what precautions you can to provide safe havens near your feeders. Thick spruces are wonderful, brush piles are excellent. Yes, they're unsightly, but partially covered with snow they're outdoor sculpture. (It helps to have a laid-back attitude when dealing with wildlife).

A used Christmas tree or two, laid on their sides, will provide a safe retreat until you cut them up for the compost pile in spring.

Raccoons, opossums, skunks (leave them alone and they won't spray you), foxes, rabbits, feral and neighborhood cats, hawks, owls, shrikes, chipmunks (lots and lots of chipmunks), sometimes a coyote may appear at your feeders. You may have deer visiting, too. A doe with triplet fawns was one of the first to welcome me at this house...

Observe carefully what happens at your feeders and you'll soon establish a routine for refilling, cleaning, raking up spilled food, replenishing a water supply. I don't have a birdbath heater yet, but it will probably be my next purchase - not just to provide the birds with much needed water (I do that now with a steaming teakettle twice a day) but because some birders have observed them using the rising steam for warmth.

During the bitterest winter weather when the temperature hovers at zero or below, try to make it as easy for the birds as you can. I routinely offer food early in the morning and throughout the day, cracking walnut halves, breaking bread into small bits, dicing apple, crumbling cookies, crushing peanut shells - anything to reduce the amount of energy a bird must expend to get at the food. This is a good time to offer sunflower hearts (without the seed covering). Sunflower seeds and suet are the two most popular foods at my feeders during extreme cold. Even the squirrels will eat suet.

I also make suet cakes with leftover kitchen fats, grains, raisins and nuts.

Just collect fats from the frying pan (I use all kinds, even bacon fat) in a clean coffee can and keep it covered in your refrigerator, adding to it as you can. Do the same with leftover bread, crackers, cookies, raisins, dates and currants after holiday baking is finished. I also clear out my spice shelves of sesame and poppy seeds when making suet cakes. When peanut butter is offered at "buy one, get one free" specials, stock up and add that.

In a deep, flat pan, melt the fats over medium to low heat. Add peanut butter (about 1/3 of the amount of fat), perhaps cornmeal, cracked corn, rolled oats, wheat germ, walnuts or any nutmeats, raisins, currants or chopped dates, potato chip crumbs - you get the idea. When the mixture is a thick slurry, scoop it into a smaller container (yogurt cups or cottage cheese cartons are good) that you can run a doubled thick wire through for hanging later, and cool in your garage.

Don't be afraid that birds will rely solely upon your seeds for food. Careful observation will show you that when food is plentiful, they use it as a supplement only. They still teach their young where to find food - and that includes your feeders.

In springtime, try to visit some local birding "hot spots" where returning migrant birds put on quite a show. Here in northeast Michigan, Tawas Point, a spit of land at the top of Saginaw Bay, is a prime observation spot. Birds flying across the bay stop at the first bit of land they find to replenish their reserves and you'll find many dedicated birders, clutching bird books, binoculars and spotting scopes, enjoying themselves.

Ask about a local Audubon Society group and join. They present programs that will add to your knowledge, increase your pleasure, and offer you supportive companionship. They also plan birding excursions - sometimes to Whitefish Point on Lake Superior for the hawk watches in spring and autumn.

You'll find, if you have an inquisitive mind, that birding can be an infinite source of pleasure for you, far from the ski slopes and the howling winds.

Boat show popularity at high tide

Julie Candler

Allan Hayes

It's boat show time, and people who love being on the water will soon be walking up and down the aisles at the boat shows looking for new trends and new products. The object of their search is to find boats and accessories that can add to their fun when the big season arrives.

They'll find that many new boats have bigger cockpits and more family-pleasing amenities. They will find PWCs (personal watercraft) like the jet-propelled "ski" boats with more power and versatility. Also there will be outboard motors that are more fuel-efficient and cleaner-burning.

It promises to be a good season for the industry.

"Things are looking up," says Bob Giesler, owner of All Seasons Marine, a family-operated boating facility in South Haven, Michigan.

"There's a strong rise in new boat sales, and the 1995 boat show at Cobo Hall is close to overbooked."

Giesler is a director of the Michigan Boating Industries Association and a member of the MBIA Hall of Fame.

The 37th Annual Detroit Boat Show is scheduled at Cobo Center from Feb. 4 to 12. Three hundred exhibitors from all over Michigan will participate, and a thousand boats or more will display the latest trends in boating. Every boat and motor on display will be a 1995 model, the sponsors say.

From March 15 to 19 at the Novi Expo Center, the Novi Boating Expo will feature hundreds of current model boats.

For information on the Detroit or Novi shows, contact the MBIA, (810)-344-1330, or toll-free 1-800-932-2628.

"For somebody looking to buy a new boat," says Pete Matta of Lake Fenton Marine at Fenton, Michigan, "his best bet, by far, will be the winter and spring boat shows. You can find some surprising deals there."

It's too early for us to know exactly which new boats and features will be on display at the boat shows. All we know for sure is that we have been seeing less and less sailboats in recent years.

Says Matta, "Sail has been nearly dead in the last few years, but it shows signs of coming back."

Here are some of the developments you might want to watch for at the shows.

"The main trend that I see," says Marge Rennie of Cruise Out Marine, Inc. in Pontiac, "is that everything is getting more deluxe. People these days want everything—all the extras—on their boats."

"People want more amenities," agrees Wendy Bellard of Grosse Pointe Woods, a specialist in interior decorating for large boats. "Boating used to be something the guys did to go fishing. In the last 10 years it's changed. It's more of a family function, more appealing to the wives. I think women were getting tired of the men being gone."

"More and more families are boating," she goes on. "People are using their boat for a floating summer cottage.

"When my customers tell me they have kids and dogs, they want the boat to be an extension of the family room—pretty and stylish, but a place where the kids can come in and enjoy themselves."

"They want washers and dryers on their boats, and air conditioning, larger refrigerators, extra built-ins, freezers, more water capacity and comfort."

She points out that many new boats come with central vacuums, microwave-convection combination stoves, wet bars on aft decks, larger galleys with more storage space. "People are doing more complicated cooking. They aren't just taking a bucket of chicken along. A lot of people go out on Thursday and come back on Monday."

The smallest boat Bellard has redecorated is a 24-footer. Yet the average size of a boat in Michigan, says Van W. Snider, Jr, is 16 feet.

"The image of the boater as a fat cat with a huge yacht is wrong." Families are enjoying the smaller boats too, says Snider, who is president of the Michigan Boating Industries Association, of Northville, sponsors of both the Detroit and Novi shows.

"There aren't many sports that the entire family can enjoy together," says Snider. "Families are one of the reasons boating is becoming more popular. Everybody in the family can get outdoors, get out on the water and see what nature has to offer. And it's reasonably priced."

The family aspect, says Snider, is one of the reasons manufacturers now are tending to produce boats that are thoroughly equipped.

After 37 years with Cruise Out Marine in Pontiac, Jack Rennie has stopped believing that he can spot trends. "But I can say that the biggest trend in the past four or five years has been toward the jet-propelled personal watercraft."

Cruise Out Marine will be featuring a new and ingenious sort of combination boat at the Detroit boat show called the Windjet (tm). It's a beamy 18-foot craft designed for use in conjunction with personal water crafts. It looks like a wide and roomy runabout, but is so designed that two PWCs can fit into slots at the Windjet's stern.

The PWCs furnish the power to run the Windjet, in which people can sit and ride comfortably between spins on the PWCs. The Windjet weighs 650 pounds and fits most PWCs with hulls under 42 inches wide, and can also be sailed, they claim. It can also be mounted on a trailer with the PWCs in place, so that one trailer will transport all three water vehicles.

The popularity of jet-powered boats has expanded from one-seater floating motorcycles to conventional hulls that seat three to five people. They are relatively inexpensive, in the $8,000 to $9,000 dollar range. The number of manufacturers has grown in recent years to more than two dozen, according to Van Snider.

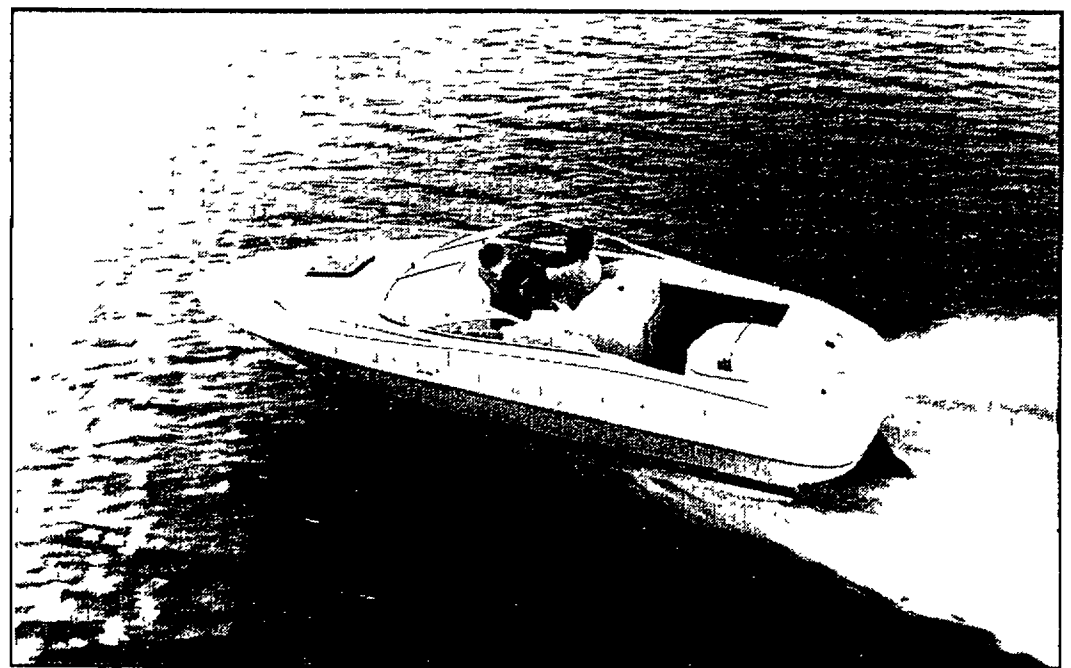

Yamaha now offers jet outboards from 28 to 140 hp, and Mercury Marine from 20 to 140.

For those who like speed, some of the new boats can boil the water. The 1995 Checkmate 26 hits 62 mph. A new Apache 36 reaches a top speed of 72 mph with its 415-hp Magnum MerCruiser engine. A Baja 38 tops that, at 73 mph, with optional performance features. An Excel 21 reaches plane in 3.1 seconds and tops out at 47 mph.

Headroom is expanding, too. The Baja 38 provides six-foot headroom and a Black Thunder 43 allows 6 feet 6 inches below. For people who hate climbing ladders, some new boats, like the Carver 35 and Cruisers 35, provide steps in their place.

The new Boston Whaler 21 offers a fiberglass nonskid transom gate that protects children against going overboard, but folds down to make a swim platform.

The Whaler can handle up to 11

FORWARD THINKING— The Excel 21SL features a cabin forward design with a galley console that includes sink, ice box and stove.

people in its roomy cockpit. The cockpit of the Excel 21 includes a galley cabinet, with icebox, sink and stove.

A Wellcraft 26 Eclipse is a bowrider/sportboat with open air seating plus mini-cruiser talents, with a mid-cabin that sleeps two and a 185-mile range.

Asked about trends, Pete Matta foresees little change in boat design or configurations, but sees important changes in outboard motors.

"The big deal now," he says, "is electronic fuel injection systems, and how they will affect emissions control in two-stroke outboards."

Earlier this year we talked about the efforts of Honda and other manufacturers to develop four-cycle outboard motors. Their purpose is to reduce noise as well as air and water pollution—and to meet the marine-engine emission standards the government is in the process of imposing.

"The four-cycle engines," says Matta, "are weak on low-end torque,

"My name is Paul Mettes and I'm a firefighter."

Paul is demonstrating the historic fire hose reel on the main floor of the Toledo Firefighters Museum.

"Can we slide down the pole like the real firemen do?" a kid calls out.

"Yeah! Let's slide down the pole!"

"You can slide down the pole when we get upstairs," Paul says. "Listen up now while I tell you how they used to fight fires with horses."

Paul is the Public Information Officer of the museum and he has a joke a minute.

Firefighter Dave Wernert, the Public Education Officer, is on the second floor, getting things ready for the onslaught of kids. Every single one of them will want to try on his firefighter's helmet, so he has a pile of plastic helmets ready for the kids to try on and take home.

wants to teach them a few things that they can use at home if they are ever caught in a fire: how to roll out of bed, keep low in case of smoke, feel the door for heat with the back of a hand. How to plan an escape route from the house and designate a common meeting place outside.

A few parents and a couple of teachers are standing around, nodding their heads, congratulating themselves on the day trip they have chosen for the kids. A weekend afternoon at the Toledo Firefighters Museum may be fun and games, but it could literally save their lives.

The Toledo Fire Division goes back to 1837, when bucket brigades fought fires only at home that displayed the right sign beside the door. Fire fighting was a private operation then, if you didn't pay you didn't get the service.

The Museum was founded in the Old Number 18 Fire House in 1976 and preserves the 150-year history of one of the earliest fire departments in the United States and to educate citizens about fire safety.

"There are fire museums in San Francisco, Baltimore, Mobile and other cities, but this is the only one I know of that is used for education," Paul said.

Adults are just as intrigued as kids when they explore the lovingly-restored 1830 Neptune, Toledo's first fire pumper. It is a hand-pulled, hand-operated machine that required a 20-man crew and could deliver about 300 gallons of water a minute.

The exhibit includes a 1927 La France pumper, a 1929 Pirsch pumper, a 1935 Chevrolet pumper and a 1936 Schact service ladder truck. There are also hundreds of antique fire toys, old uniforms, speaking trumpets, sweat sticks once used to sweep lather from the horses, fire gongs, bells, buckets and badges.

But nothing beats having a fire helmet all your own that you can wear while sliding down the pole!

Firefighters keep the museum open at 918 Sylvania Ave. from noon to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays during the winter, midweek by appointment. (Telephone 419-478-FIRE). Everybody goes home with information about how to react in case of fire.

The Home Fire Escape Drill pamphlet, and a coloring book, provide a natural way for fun to become education when you leave the museum. It tells you how to plan and practice two escape routes from your house during a fire, a normal route down hallways and stairs and an alternate route via window or roof.

Here are the rules to follow if you ever suspect a fire in your home:

1) Test the closed door of your room by sweeping the back of your hand back and forth across the upper portion of the door to feel for heat. If the door is hot, don't open it! Use the alternate route you planned. If the door isn't hot, open it a crack to see if there is any smoke.

2) No smoke? Get out of the house. Heavy smoke? Use your alternate route, probably through a window. Remember to go to the outside meeting place that your family has chosen. If you don't, nobody will know that you escaped. Somebody might go back into that burning house to rescue you; they will be in danger but they may go in anyway if they think you are still in the house.

Boat show spotlight trends

compared to two-stroke engines. It takes them longer to get a boat up on plane."

"The main trouble with 4-stroke outboards," says Bob Giesler, "is their vicious weight to horse-power ratio. A new 50-horse four-stroke outboard can add about 200 extra pounds to the stern of your boat. A four-stroke motor has to be heavier—it's the sheer physics of adding eight valves, a camshaft and an exhaust."

Giesler cites the new technological improvement that can make two-stroke engines burn cleaner. "With the introduction of direct electronic fuel injection," he says, "the new two-strokes will have crankcases but no valves, and a much better weight-to-hp ratio. It won't meet the emission standards of the four-stroke right now, but it will have 100 percent combustion and will burn no oil."

"The industry is working with the federal Environmental Protection Agency on this," he adds. "That's the only way these problems will ever be solved."

The added weight of a four-stroke over a two-stroke engine may not always be so dramatic. Jack Rennie calculates that a 50-hp four-cycle Yamaha weighs 212 pounds, but a 50-hp two-cycle Yamaha weighs 185 pounds, a 27-pound difference.

So, at the moment, "you pay your nickel and takes your choice." Outboard Marine Corporation (OMC, builder of Johnson and Evinrude) believes that a four-cycle technology is only suitable for smaller motors, and has limited its four-cycles to an 8, a 9.9 and a 15. Honda disagrees violently, and is expanding its numerous line of four-cycles to include one at 90 hp. Meanwhile Mercury Marine and Yamaha will each offer two four-cycles (9.9 and 50), which they developed together.

The good news is that no matter how many cycles you may choose, it appears that the environment will benefit.

Avid anglers open season at Expo

Auburn Hills, Michigan—

A recent survey indicates that many of the 1.8 million anglers who fish in Michigan each year attend winter shows for several reasons:

Most say they need an outlet, as they anxiously await spring openers for steelhead, stream trout, walleye and bass.

Many need to stock up on tackle and gear.

Others want the latest information on equipment, catching tactics and where-to-go hotspots.

Still others hope to book a dream fishing vacation.

"Anglers that told us these things at last year's show confirmed our beliefs," said Chris Fassnacht, president of Expositions, Inc., and show manager for the Greater Detroit Sportfishing Expo. "That's why for 7 years now, we've built Michigan's biggest, pure fishing show around these needs."

Dates for the Palace of Auburn

Hills event, which draws more than 50,000 fishermen, are March 2 to 5.

More than 300 exhibitors include dozens of direct-factory exhibits from America's major tackle manufacturers, downstate Michigan's biggest outdoor sport retailers, and lodges, outfitters, guides and charter captains from the Yukon to the Yucatan.

Jimmy Houston, national TV star, heads up a list of experts who will conduct more than 50 nonstop seminars on three stages. According to Fassnacht, Houston's March 2 appearance is a Michigan exclusive. He joins legendary light-line guru Dick Swan and smallmouth bass aces Dr. Ned Fogle and Bob Collins—all of whom are making their first-ever Palace appearances.

Walleye anglers interested in new tackle, tips and techniques won't want to miss seminars by Bud Riser and Gary Parsons.

Outdoor writers Spence Petros (Fishing Facts) will discuss crankbait tricks, Tom Huggler (Outdoor Life) will detail best Michigan rivers, and Eric Sharp (Detroit Free Press) will demonstrate flyrod methods for panfish.

GONE FISHIN'— Exhibitors at the Greater Detroit Sportfishing Expo include tackle makers, outdoor sport retailers and charter captains.

The 7th annual event, held in conjunction with the Oakland County Sportfishing Assn., is bigger and better than ever. Hours are Thursday, March 2 from 4 to 10 p.m.; Friday, March 3 from 2 to 10 p.m.; Saturday, March 4 from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.; and Sunday, March 5 from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Tickets cost the same as last year: $6.75 for adults and $3.50 for children aged 6 to 12. Kids 5 and under get in free. Dunham's sporting goods stores have discount coupons worth $1.25 off ticket prices.

"We're expecting another huge crowd and a successful show," Fassnacht said. "Exhibitors booth space is nearly sold out already."

Toll-free call updates trails

Cross-Country skiers can call 1-800-MI4-SNOW to get up-to-the-minute trail conditions for all Northern Michigan Nordic Ski Council properties.

In cooperation with the Michigan Travel Bureau, the Council will provide a number of kilometers open and groomed for traditional stride skiers as well as the availability of skating lanes. In addition to the kilometers open, the amount of new snow on each trail will be recorded. Skiers will also learn about the numerous special events which are happening throughout Northern Michigan each week.

Are you hardy enough for UP 200?

Marquette, Michigan—

A reawakening of Upper Peninsula pioneer heritage awaits spectators brave enough for the UP 200 Sled Dog Championship and Midnight Run.

Mushers and their teams of canine athletes will race from one Great Lake to another over snow-covered trails originally laid by trappers and Native Americans. In the 19th century, sled dog teams were often the only means of long distance winter transportation in the Upper Peninsula.

The sixth annual UP 200 and Midnight Run offer a unique opportunity to see sled dog racing up close and experience the friendly "Yooper" hospitality of central Upper Michigan. From Marquette, on Lake Superior's shore, to Escanaba on Lake Michigan, contestants are treated like heroes. Hearty spectators are treated pretty well, too.

Race headquarters opens Feb. 14 at the Holiday Inn of Marquette and features many informational displays on sled dog sports. Headquarters is open 24 hours a day until Monday morning.

Excitement really heats up on Thursday, Feb. 16 at the pre-race banquet held in honor of the racers. Spectators will enjoy watching the mushers draw their starting positions.

Friday's activities start with the vet check where more than 300 sled dogs receive a pre-race physical by veterinarians. There's plenty of time to visit the nearby town of Chatham for its Winter Carnival and ice sculptures display.

After a full day, head back to Marquette for pre-race festivities and the start of the 10-dog UP 200. More than 15,000 spectators are expected for the fast-paced start, with teams hitting the trail at two-minute intervals beginning at 8 p.m. Then it's time to go to Chatham for the start of the 6-dog Midnight Run, a sort of race within a race.

At 6 a.m. Saturday, fuel up with a pancake breakfast at the Rapid River Lion's Club and check on the progress of the teams entered in both races as they head toward Escanaba. Join in the fun at Escanaba's Snofest 95 and top it all off with a late lunch at the Midnight Run Awards Banquet.

After catching a few hours of sleep, meet the UP 200 mushers early Sunday in Gwinn and share a pancake breakfast in the VFW Hall. Then race up to Marquette for the exciting finish of the UP 200. The Glacier Glide art show is another pleasant diversion.

Make your weekend complete on Monday, Feb. 20 by celebrating with the musher at the UP 200 Awards Banquet at the Holiday Inn of Marquette.

Call 800-437-7496 for more information.

Marquette is located about 450 miles from metro Detroit via Interstate 75 to US-2 in St. Ignace, then north and west on US-41.

Outdoors show hits target

Novi, Michigan—

The latest in hunting and fishing equipment, boats and recreational vehicles, outdoor gear and travel destinations will be on display at Outdoorama '95.

Set for the Novi Expo Center Feb. 24-March 5, Outdoorama also features:

— Shark Mania (world's largest great white shark caught on rod and reel.)

— The Backyard Habitat display and learning center.

— Wildlife Encounters Display and trout fishing pond.

— "Da Yoopers" musical comedy troupe (second weekend only.)

Nationally renowned outdoor experts will conduct seminars on a wide range of topics, including fishing, bow hunting, sporting dog training and deer hunting.

Outdoorama is presented by Michigan United Conservation Clubs and proceeds are earmarked for MUCC conservation and education efforts.

Admission is $6.50 for adults; $3 for children 12 and younger; children under 5 admitted free. Parking is $4.

Novi Expo Center is located at the junction of Interstate 96 and Novi Road. Call 517-371-1041 for show hours and more information.

Cedar Point mixes wet, dry attractions

Sandusky, Ohio—

Cedar Point has announced plans to invest $17 million in capital improvements for its 1995 season, the largest expenditure in the history of the Sandusky, Ohio, amusement park/resort. The year of 1995 will also mark the 125th anniversary of Cedar Point, the third oldest amusement park in the United States, with a heritage dating back to 1870.

The slate of projects includes a new wing of accommodations at the Hotel Breakers, a major expansion at Soak City water park and several activities centered around the park's 125th anniversary celebration.

With these additions, Cedar Point will have spent more than $93 million in capital improvements since 1986.

The addition to the park's beachside Hotel Breakers property will be a massive $10 million expansion. Named Breakers East, the new wing will exhibit examples of Mediterranean resort architecture that will blend in with the classic turn-of-the-century charm of the original Hotel Breakers. Showcasing 205 units, which will include 102 regular rooms, 95 lakeview suites and eight tower suites, Breakers East will sit on a five-acre site just east of the Hotel Breakers' lobby. The new wing will bring the total count of guest rooms at the Hotel Breakers up to 496.

Other amenities at Breakers East will include a conference/meeting center, an outdoor swimming pool, an outdoor spa and complimentary shuttle service to other Cedar Point attractions. Room rates will range from $105-270 per night and most units will accommodate four to six people.

Built in 1905, the Hotel Breakers is a monument to Cedar Point's early years. It has registered such guests as President Eisenhower, comedians Abbott and Costello, bandleader John Philip Sousa and sharpshooter Annie Oakley.

Cedar Point's adjacent water park, Soak City, will more than double in size when $4.3 million of state-of-the-art water attractions splash into its complex. The centerpiece of the six-acre expansion will be a high-action water slide that features huge circular rafts with the capacity to hold up to six sliders at one time. The rafts will twist, turn and speed down a 13-foot-wide flume with steeply banked sides, and at times will shoot up the sides of the channel, cresting at a nearly 90 degree angle.

"This will be the thrill ride of water slides," said Don Miears, executive vice president and general manager of Cedar Point. "It will be something a family or group can participate in together."

Also at Soak City, an adventurous inner tube river will refresh guests with a 1,300-foot-long stream where riders will sit in inner tubes and float along its course. At one point, guests will have the option to choose between two water paths: one will lead through gently flowing waterways; the other will cruise through, under and around cascading waterfalls, spraying geysers and wave

"The top two things our guests request over and over again are roller coasters and water rides," revealed Miears. "The addition to Soak City will give us a world-class mix of both dry and wet attractions."

Cedar Point's 125th anniversary year will also include several special projects, all of which will be announced when details are finalized.

What began in 1870 as a humble bathhouse along Lake Erie has evolved into one of the largest and most historic amusement park/resorts in the world, internationally renowned for its famed and unsurpassed collection of thrill rides and roller coasters.

"We are very proud of our rich history," remarked Kinzel. "The entire summer of 1995 will be a celebration of our past, present and future."

Rockford is located about 15 miles north of Grand Rapids and is easily accessible via US-131 to Ten Mile Road.

Free shows energize collectors

Bridgman, Michigan—

The Cook Energy Information Center has announced its 1995 schedule of free shows and events.

The Cook Center, a service of the Indiana Michigan Power Company to help people learn more about the future of energy, holds its annual series of shows in spacious exhibit rooms overlooking Lake Michigan. The shows attract artists, crafts people, collectors, and hobbyists from around the region.

Days and standard times for the events are Saturday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., except where noted. Admission to all shows is free.

Here is the schedule of coming shows and events:

Sports Card and Comic Book Show, Feb. 25-26. A big success last year, this show kicks off the 1995 season with a wide selection from X-Men comic books to Chris Webber basketball cards. Serious collectors, nostalgia buffs, and interested fans can buy, sell or trade with exhibitors or just browse through the collections and swap stories. The Cook Center also offers free energy shows, hands-on science exhibits, and electronic games to make this a fun weekend for all ages.

Amish and Country Show, March 18-19. Cook Center takes on a gentler, simpler pace with the fine work of regional Amish craftsmen and women. The exhibit includes traditional, hand-crafted wooden furniture, hand-forged ironware, wheel-thrown stoneware, and Amish folk art. Visitors can buy a variety of hand-braided rugs, fine furnishings, quilts, wreaths, baskets, and country toys to start or add to their collections.

Michiana Orchid Society Show, April 22-23. This weekend, the Cook Center magically transforms into a tropical garden when orchid growers display hundreds of these beautiful, ornamental flowers for national judging. Avid and beginning gardeners will find a wealth of information on how to successfully grow these floral treasures in the Midwest. Cameras are welcome.

Spring Antique Show, April 29-30. Antique collectors and nostalgia lovers will walk down memory lane this weekend. Vintage toys, tools, clothing, rare estate jewelry, and collectibles are available to complement period decors or collections.

Model Trains, Planes and Automobiles Show, May 20-21. Model train collectors and remote-control car and plane enthusiasts will convene to display and demonstrate their craftsmanship and collections. Visitors can learn new techniques, get answers to technical questions, and advice from hobbyists and hobby shop experts on how to start or expand their personal collections.

Berrien Town and Country Quilters, June 3-4. New and old patterns, machine and hand-stitched quilts — this show is one of the coziest of the year. Quilters will offer demonstrations ready-made quilts and quilted items for sale, plus a chance to win a raffled quilt.

These special events, however, are just part of the entertainment available at the Cook Center. Visitors can also see three, free energy shows. Theater I looks into the future of energy through the eyes of lifelike, humanoid robot newscasters. Theater II uses a rotating model with light animation, mechanical movement and sound to show how nuclear energy is produced at the Cook Nuclear Plant. Theater III provides a dramatic, widescreen video tour of the Cook Nuclear Plant.

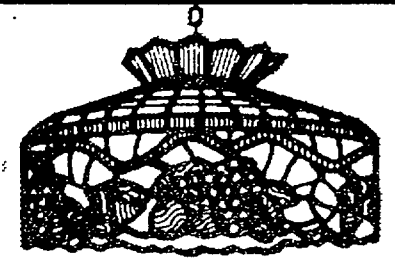

Visitors can also test their energy knowledge and skills on several electronic games, hands-on science activities, and displays of electric inventions in the lobby.

Outdoors, the Cook Center continues its emphasis on making science fun for all ages. Three scenic nature trails wind through the sand dunes, forests, and wetlands formed when the last glaciers retreated into what is now Lake Michigan. Well-marked, the trails offer views of native wildlife and plants. Visitors can also enjoy the breathtaking view of Lake Michigan by just stepping onto the Center's terraced patio.

Easy-to-find, the Cook Energy Information Center is located in Bridgman, Michigan, I-94 Exit 16, 3-1/2 miles north on Red Arrow Highway. The Cook Center is open from mid-January through mid-

December, Tuesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Closed major holidays. Tour buses and school groups are welcome. Indoor snack and outdoor picnic areas are available.

For more information and free, illustrated literature, contact: Dolly Krieger, Cook Energy Information Center, P.O. Box 115, Bridgman, Michigan 49106; 1-800-548-2555, 616-465-6101. or 616-983-2028.

Crossroads Village harvests cool crop

Flint, Michigan—

Ice was an important crop in Michigan in the 1800's and the winter ice harvest was an annual event. Flint's Crossroads Village will re-enact this traditional activity Saturday, Feb. 4 as massive blocks of ice are cut from Mott Lake and stored in the village ice house.

Visitors can participate in the harvest and will be able to use authentic turn-of-the-century tools to cut and haul the ice. The blocks of ice, some weighing as much as 200 pounds, are then packed in layers of sawdust in the ice house where they will last throughout the summer.

Other scheduled activities include an ice skating party, demonstrations by the Flint River Spinners and Weavers, a model train exhibit by the Mid-Michigan Historical Railway Association, and a display of sleighs by the Michigan Horse-Drawn Association.

The school house will be open for a children's Valentine-making party and the village's 1912 Parker

Carousel will be operating. If weather permits, the colorful 1910 Parker Ferris Wheel will also be running. Hot foods and baked goods will be available in the cafe and the General Store will be open for shopping.

Harvest hours are 11 a.m.-4 p.m. However, there must be at least eight inches of ice to conduct the event. Please call 800-648-PARK to check on ice conditions. The Huckleberry Railroad will not be in operation and the majority of village buildings will be closed.

Crossroads Village is located just north of Flint, off I-475 at Exit 13.

Condo more than place to stay

Harbor Springs, Michigan—

Trout Creek Condominium Resort isn't just a place to stay, it's a deluxe vacation destination site with year round activities. In the winter, Trout Creek plays host to skiers from all over the Midwest who enjoy the resort's indoor fitness center complete with pool, whirlpool, sauna and workout area. Skiers may also enjoy a dip in Trout Creek's heated outdoor pool and hot tub with its view of the snowy slopes. New this winter is the Nubs Nob shuttle bus, which transports Trout Creek guests from the condominiums right to the nearby ski hills.

For those guest who don't downhill ski, Trout Creek offers miles of cross country ski trails and the evening sleigh rides are a family favorite. The quaint towns of Harbor Springs and Petoskey are nearby, offering visitors terrific shopping and dining.

In the summer, guests enjoy two open-air pools, six tennis courts, and some of the finest golf courses in Michigan located just minutes away.

Rental condominiums beautifully furnished with fireplaces, in-room spas, full kitchens, and washers and dryers. Step outside on the exterior decks and enjoy panoramic views of nearby Nubs Nob and Boyne Highlands downhill ski areas.

Trout Creek is located about five hours north of the metro Detroit area at 4749 Pleasantview Road. For rental information, call 800-748-0245.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN HEALTH CENTERS • WINTER 1995

U-M health care is everywhere!

Managed care has changed the way health care is delivered, and the University of Michigan Health Centers are responding by employing more primary care physicians and revising the Medical School curriculum to enhance their training.

In addition, the U-M Hospitals are acquiring a number of primary care and specialty services. The most current acquisitions are listed on the back inside cover under HealthCare Associates. According to Ellen Gaucher, senior associate director of U-M Hospitals, during the next 20 months, we'll be integrating 40 physician practices in Ann Arbor and nearby communities.

Our patients tell us that access is a problem; they want to get their care at flexible hours in convenient locations. As a result, we're revamping existing facilities, building new sites and extending our hours into evenings and weekends.

We now operate primary care centers in Ann Arbor, Brighton, Chelsea, Northville, Plymouth and Ypsilanti. We recently opened, along with Oakwood Health Systems, a center in Livonia that offers primary care and specialty services such as obstetrics and gynecology, ophthalmology, dermatology and general surgery.

We're changing and growing to meet our patients' needs

U-M Chelsea Family Practice will move into a new building at the end of 1995 on the Chelsea Community Hospital campus. This successful partnership between U-M and Chelsea Hospital has resulted in a healthy primary care practice in which 13 faculty and 21 residents see almost 30,000 patients a year. Patients at this center will receive a complete range of services including general and preventive medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, family planning, sports medicine, geriatrics, mental health, minor surgical procedures and specialty consultations.

Finally, a new ambulatory care medical campus will be built near Plymouth and Earhart roads in east Ann Arbor. The campus, which will be used for teaching and patient care, will be designed in phases, the first of which will involve relocating the current Northeast Health Center and several other existing primary care programs. The new medical campus will open in 1996. ■

Women's health in family practice

By Barbara Apgar, M.D. Family Physician

Family practice understands the family in wellness, promotion of good health and disease. Their women's programs enrich and promote female patients' health through infancy, adolescence, adulthood and the postmenopausal years.

The Department of Family Practice provides women's health programs through clinical, educational and research activities. Clinical offerings include gynecological services, family-centered obstetrics, sports medicine for women and related office procedures. A full range of outpatient gynecological procedures include lower genital tract biopsies and colposcopy.

Family practice educational programs teach resident physicians to evaluate and treat diseases in female patients and to manage normal pregnancies. The departments of Family Practice and Obstetrics and Gynecology jointly sponsor continuing medical education programs through the University to teach practicing physicians about women's health.

Department faculty engage in clinical research to identify better ways to prevent and treat health problems of female patients. Research programs relating to women's health include gynecology, sexually transmitted disease, UTI, depression, family-centered obstetrics and sports medicine. The family practice faculty bring a sophisticated level of expertise and dedication to understanding the issues and health concerns of women.

Family-centered obstetrics includes obstetrical care for the mother and newborn care for the infant. The program focuses on the family as a unit with individual needs as well as larger needs that include the extended family as it functions in the community. ■

The Department of Family Practice faculty is based in the Chelsea, Briarwood, Plymouth and Ypsilanti Health Centers; obstetrical deliveries are performed at the Maternal and Child Health Center at the U-M Medical Center. Adolescent health care, including maternity services, is also offered at The Corner Health Center in Ypsilanti.

A Guide for Women

TAKE CHARGE OF YOUR HEALTH!

More than 700 women from the Metropolitan Detroit area recently demonstrated their concern about health issues when they attended a luncheon in Dearborn to hear New York Times columnist Jane Brody tell them to "Take Charge of Your Health."

The luncheon capped a WTVS Public Television series that addressed women's health problems such as breast cancer, osteoporosis, cardiovascular disease, depression, domestic violence and substance abuse. The program was cosponsored by M-CARE, the University of Michigan's health plan.

The Medical Center's participation in the WTVS women's health series demonstrates our commitment to this important issue. Its popularity shows us that we need to maintain our leadership role in helping women manage their health needs.

That leadership began in the 1800s, when the University of Michigan became one of the first medical schools in the United States to admit women, and continues today as we train scores of female researchers and clinicians.

In addition, our women's programs are staffed with some of the best providers in the country, many of whom were trained right here. As our physicians are all faculty of the U-M Medical School, you can be assured of quality care.

We have a broad range of programs for women, from gynecology and oncology services to care for expectant mothers and geriatric medicine. And these services are available in a variety of settings, many of which are close to your home.

You can also call U-M TeleCare, our 24 hour-a-day resource for health education and hospital information. Using your touch tone telephone, you can tap into more than 200 women's health and education listings at the Medical Center. Call 1-800-742-2300 and enter category 5200.

This is just an introduction to the U-M's Women's Health Program.

Inside, you'll find more information about some of the many services we offer, including the Women's Health Resource and Education Center, which is staffed by a registered nurse and others, who will answer your questions about health care quickly, completely and confidentially. You can reach the Center by calling (313) 936-8886 from 9 a.m.- 4 p.m. After hours, leave a message and your call will be returned promptly.

WOMEN AND WELLNESS

Women's health providers available near you The Department of Family Practice provides primary medical services to women and their families, emphasizing an integrated approach to medical and psychosocial care. Services include routine office care; gynecologic, obstetric and well-baby care; preventive care; minor outpatient procedures; hearing and vision screening and community health services. For information or an appointment, call (313) 998-7128.

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology has a team of excellent providers. They specialize in normal and high-risk obstetrics, as well as routine care, geriatric gynecology, infectious diseases, menopause, premenstrual syndrome counseling and operative laparoscopy, among others. Call (313) 763-6295. For information about specific providers in your community, call the Primary Care Community and Public Relations Office at (313) 998-6493.

How to sport a healthy heart MedSport is a national leader in the treatment and prevention of cardiovascular health problems. Services include heart disease consultation and treatment, treatment of high cholesterol and high blood pressure, nutrition analysis and counseling, smoking cessation, weight control, exercise testing and counseling. Call (313) 998-7400.

Better health through better nutrition The Nutrition Counseling Center offers counseling for women's health issues, including prenatal care, normal or high-risk pregnancy care, weight management, allergies, osteoporosis, heart disease, eating disorders and the nutritional needs of family members. Individual counseling or enrollment in Lifesteps, a weight management program, can be scheduled. Call (313) 936-7527.

Culturally diverse care The North Campus Nursing Center provides services to women from the many ethnic groups now in this country. Translation services are available with an emphasis on providing culturally appropriate care. The Center offers primary health care, preventive and maintenance exams, and care of minor illnesses. Call (313) 747-1636.

REPRODUCTIVE HEALTH SERVICES

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology has all the reproductive services a woman needs, including preconception counseling, pregnancy screening tests, infertility treatment, pregnancy care, and labor and delivery. Call (313) 763-6295.

Planning before taking the parenthood plunge Avoid problems during pregnancy by changing some health habits now. Preconception counseling helps families recognize and limit their risks and encourages a healthy pregnancy. Periodic seminars on planning for pregnancy are offered. Call (313) 936-8886.

Nurse-midwives offer a health care alternative Certified nurse-midwives focus on the needs of the individual woman and her family, providing physical care as well as emotional and social support. U-M's nurse-midwife program offers family planning services; preconception counseling; services during pregnancy, labor and birth; access to physicians and other health care providers as needed; well-woman gynecology care; and care during perimenopause. Call (313) 763-2311.

Overcoming infertility As one of only two national centers for infertility research in the country, the Reproductive Endocrinology and Infertility Division offers treatments that can give hopeful parents their sole chance at child-rearing. An array of infertility treatments such as a low-cost, less-invasive method of in vitro fertilization can be done in our clinic. Call (313) 763-4323.

BREAST CARE SERVICES

One phone call reaches all breast cancer experts One telephone call to the Breast Care Center sets in motion all the appointments a woman with breast disease needs. Experts—including medical, surgical, gynecologic and radiation oncologists, plastic surgeons, nurse specialists and social workers—combine their efforts to focus on the care and treatment of breast cancer. Call (313) 936-6000.

Better breast reconstructive surgery Breast surgery is available for cosmetic reasons, correction of functional problems or reconstruction after breast cancer. Reconstruction may be done using implants or the patient's own tissue. Call (313) 936-7007.

Breast Cancer Detection Center For routine care or more information, call (313) 998-7490.

A glimpse of menopause Many women nearing menopausal age do not know how hormones affect their physical condition and emotional state. Concerns include menopausal symptoms, hormone replacement therapy, alternative therapies, sexuality and general well-being. Our providers offer compassionate health care to the mature woman. Call (313) 936-8886.

Cosmetic surgery options The Department of Surgery offers cosmetic surgery performed by board-certified surgeons. Facial cosmetic surgery includes face and eye lift surgery, facial peels and liposuction. Body contouring surgery includes the use of liposuction to remove localized fatty deposits. Call (313) 936-7007.

Help for women with bladder problems The U-M Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology offers an excellent program for women who have bladder control problems during their daily activities, while exercising or who experience post-surgery incontinence. In addition, the U-M is one of the leading institutions in the country for surgical treatment of pelvic organ prolapse (involving the bladder, uterus, vagina or rectum). Call (313) 763-6295.

MATURE MATTERS

Turner offers services for older adults Turner Clinic treats health problems that become more common with aging, such as arthritis, depression, diabetes, incontinence, memory loss and osteoporosis. Health promotion programs, support groups, creative activities and learning opportunities are available. Turner also provides information and referral services to assist women who are primary care givers for older adults. For medical services, call (313) 764-6831. For counseling, learning programs and community resource information, call (313) 764-2556.

Housing Bureau helps seniors find homes The Housing Bureau for Seniors assists older adults with finding appropriate, affordable housing. The group provides speakers, workshops and presentations on all issues related to senior housing. Call (313) 763-0970.

Endocrinology and metabolism services offered The Endocrinology and Metabolism Division provides services for a variety of conditions, including thyroid problems. The Osteoporosis Center specializes in determining causes and optimal treatment of bone loss diseases in menopausal women. Call (313) 936-5504.

Treatment for pain, arthritis and lupus available Women with rheumatic disorders such as arthritis and lupus can receive care through the Rheumatology Division of the Department of Internal Medicine. The division also offers a new Pain Syndrome Program. Call (313) 936-5561.

MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

Mental health programs reach women The Department of Psychiatry has specialists who treat health problems such as anxiety, depression and eating disorders which may be more common in women. Our treatment programs include medication, nutritional counseling, behavior therapy and psychotherapy focusing on relationships, roles and feminism. We also have specialized treatments for women who are victims of sexual abuse and assault. For more information, call (313) 764-9190 or 1-800-525-5188.

Social Work provides assessment, counseling and other services As a member of your health care team, your social worker can provide assessment, counseling (individual, family and group) and information on community resources, financial assistance and transportation. Call (313) 764-3140.

Chelsea Arbor offers hope for substance abusers Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center provides high-quality assessment and treatment for substance abusers and their families. Services are offered in Chelsea, Ann Arbor and Jackson. Call (313) 475-4100.

Violence against women Violence is almost epidemic in this country. For help with this serious matter, call the Women's Health Resource and Education Center at (313) 936-8886. Your questions will be answered quickly and confidentially.

ADOLESCENT CARE

A clinic for teens and young people The U-M Teenage and Young Adult Health Program addresses primary and preventive health care; care for chronic illnesses and disabilities; evaluation of problems related to growth and development; issues related to sexuality, birth control and sexually transmitted infections; evaluation of school difficulties, care for depression and other emotional difficulties, and management of eating disorders and substance abuse. Young people or their families can make appointments by calling (313) 936-4225. Patients also may be referred by physicians, school nurses, counselors or other health care providers. To speak with a physician, call (313) 763-9400.

WOMEN'S HEALTH RESEARCH

To maintain our leadership role in women's care, we must keep investigating new methods of treatment and potential cures. To find out about current studies, contact the Michigan Initiative for Women's Health, a U-M program designed to promote research and education on issues affecting women's health. Call (313) 747-0472.
