No violations in land deal

School board cleared by prosecutor

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

A clean bill of ethical health. That's what the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office has given the Northville Board of Education following a nine-month investigation into a recent land deal.

In a letter dated May 23, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank Bernacki wrote that the board did not violate any section of the of the Open Meetings Act when closing on a land sale with real estate company Cambridge Homes.

"In short, on the record as we have it, we do not see any criminal infraction," the letter stated.

The investigation began back in September after a Northville resident filed a complaint with the prosecutor's office regarding the $2 million sale of 77 acres of land from a 129-acre plot the district owned at Six Mile between Sheldon and Beck.

Developer Mark Guidobono of Cambridge Homes purchased the land to construct the Woods of Edenderry subdivision on the site. As part of the agreement, the school district obtained a 40-acre tract at $500,000 as a down payment from the developer at the corner of Eight Mile and Garfield roads.

In addition to the Eight Mile site, the district will receive $1.3 million for the full term of the contract, including a 7 percent interest on annual payments. By law, that money goes toward retuning district

Alleged gunman turns himself in

The Detroit teenager who allegedly made death threats in Northville Township Hall, sought for failing to appear for a court proceeding on that charge, surrendered to law enforcement officials last week.

Barring a plea bargain agreement, DeAndre Siebert's case will now be decided in three weeks.

Siebert, 17, allegedly threatened to shoot several people, some of them township employees, at Township Hall on April 27. Siebert has denied threatening anyone but admitted making angry comments after his mother, arrested the day before for shoplifting, claimed township police had mistreated her.

Township officers arrested Siebert minutes after the alleged threats were made. They did not find a gun on him or in the vehicle he was riding in.

Siebert faces a charge of misdemeanor assault in connection with the incident. During his April 28 arraignment, 35th District Court Magistrate Eric Colthurst entered a not guilty plea on his behalf and set the teen's bond at $5,000/10 percent cash.

Siebert posted the required $500 a few days later and was released.

The teen was scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing on May 12 at the court but did not show up. That led to the issuance of a warrant for his arrest.

On May 23, Siebert surrendered to 35th District Court officials and was given a new trial date of June 23. Judge Ron Lowe continued the suspect's bond and no charges were filed in connection with his failure to appear.

Record parks/rec budget approved

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville's elected officials have signed off on this year's budget for the community Parks & Recreation Department.

Both the Northville Township Board of Trustees and the Northville City Council formally approved the department's financial statement last month. The new budget reflects a trend seen in recent years: growth in demand for services that mirrors the community's steady population increase.

The Parks & Rec department is a joint city/township funded project, managed by nine commissioners appointed by the board and council.

Parks & Rec administers a wide variety of education and recreation classes, sports leagues and other special events. It's also responsible for the operation of the Northville Community Center on W. Main Street, two parks and 23 athletic fields.

This year's budget totals about $850,000, the highest figure yet for the department. Of that, only one quarter (about $225,000) comes from city and township contributions. The rest of the department's revenues come from prom-

So that we don't forget

Soldiers who fought and died in the nation's wars were remembered Monday as the annual Memorial Day parade brought hundreds of people into the city. Some 35 marching units, color guards and bands participated in the parade, highlighted by wreath laying ceremonies at the Cady Street and Rural Hill cemeteries. Grand Marshal Dale Brubaker of the Veterans of Foreign Wars District F Post (Michigan) joined other dignitaries in paying solemn tribute to fallen veterans, while the Northville High School Marching Band played the National Anthem and Taps. Above, a color guard stands at attention during quiet tribute, while VFW Post 4012 Ladies Auxiliary Past President Cathy Baker, left, lays a poppy at the grave of a World War II veteran. Northville American Legion Post 147 was the sponsor post of this year's event.

Library groundbreaking set for later this month

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Circle Saturday, June 17, on your calendar. That's the day when the shovel will break ground on the new Northville District Library.

The Friends of the Northville Library have a slew of interesting and fun activities planned to commemorate and celebrate the historic groundbreaking. They're encouraging everyone to take part.

We're trying to get the word out, Friends president Janne Bauehat said. "This is a very important event for the whole community."

Northville's library was formally established in 1889 but has never been housed in a building specifically designed as a library. Instead it's been a nomad of sorts, moving periodically from place to place, entering its current location inside Northville City Hall in 1980.

Until last year Northville City and Township jointly governed the library's operations. In 1994 Northville voters approved the creation of a District Library Board and gave the green light to a millage for a new library building. The design plan the board approved calls for a two-story library building on land just south of City Hall near the intersection of Wing and Cady streets, including part of the western end of the small park that exists there now.

The basic design plan has won almost all the necessary approvals. It will be 25,000 square feet (compared to the 6,500 square feet in the current facility) and offer more than 75,000 circulation items (compared to 40,000 currently).

Besides room for more books, videos, news papers, magazines and other materials, the building would provide the public with activity, meeting and quiet study rooms and much more seating than the current building.

Library officials are hoping to have the new library open for business by the fall of 1996. The June 17 groundbreaking will start the ball rolling.

Representatives of TMP Associates, the architectural firm that designed the building, will begin the day's program with a presentation on the library facility itself. The three-dimensional model of the new library will be on display that day at the site and inside the library thereafter.

A half-hour family musical concert will follow, accompanied by refreshments, courtesy of the McDonald's restaurant on Six Mile and U Take the Cake on Five Mile. Brief remarks by Northville officials will then precede the actual groundbreaking.

The Friends "are the only public service group that exists to support the library."

John and Michelle Engler have nothing on Brian and Liz Ralston of Dearborn, the proud parents of 8-month-old triplets. The Ralston triple header, Kyle, Samantha and Connie, were less than thrilled about the idea of accompanying their parents to the Flower Sale in Northville last weekend, but grudgingly waited it out. Other customers of the flower and gift bazaar were more enthusiastic, as Main Street was quite busy.

Strike up the band: Concerts start Friday

Downtown Northville will be a great place to spend Friday evenings this summer as the Northville Arts Commission will again sponsor its annual Clock Concert series.

The entertainment starts Friday, June 2, and runs all summer long, concluding on Friday, Aug. 25.

The following performances will be presented:

- June 2 Sheila Landis
- 9 Farmington Jazz
- 16 Plymouth Community Band
- 23 Novi Concert Band
- 30 Plymouth Community Band
- July 7 Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble
- 14 One Flight Up
- 21 Detroit Brass
- 28 Novi Concert Band
- Aug. 4 Ick and Erk
- 11 Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble
- 18 Roscoe The Clown/The Boys
- 25 Giffdler Music

All concerts take place at the Northville Bandshell on Fridays from 7:30 p.m. and are free.

Several companies and individuals have offered donations to the Arts Commission to help finance the concerts. Commission chair Sharon Rossow says some of the bands can get quite expensive.

I don't think people realize how much it costs to bring in a quality band. Some of the groups are over $500.

"It's a high expense for a small Arts Commission, but I really think the people enjoy the concerts. We're quite pleased about the number of people who enjoy the concerts for free."

Among those offering contributions were: BFI Inc., Cafe Bravo, Providence Hospital, Todd Knickerbocker of Edward D. Jones, Ms. Kramer of Margo's of Northville, Community Federal Bank and Long's Plumbing.

Anyone wishing to make a donation can send a check payable to the Northville Arts Commission c/o Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

Two behind wheel with weed arrested by township police

Township police arrested two men for marijuana-related offenses on Saturday.

The reporting officer said he pulled over a 1978 Oldsmobile Regency at about 2:20 a.m. because it was driving erratically. The car was eastbound on Seven Mile near Marilyn, the officer said, and was doing about 20 in a 40 mph zone. The Regency was also straddling the white line separating the two eastbound lanes, he added.

The driver, a 17-year-old Dearborn resident, showed signs of being under the influence of alcohol or narcotics, the officer said, but denied consuming either.

After failing a series of sobriety tests the youth admitted to smoking marijuana that evening. He denied that any of it was in the car but his passenger, an 18-year-old from Dearborn, admitted that some was located behind the ash tray, adding that it was his.

The car was impounded and both teens arrested, the driver for operating a vehicle while under the influence of drugs and the passenger for possession of marijuana. They face District Court hearings.

AUGER APPROPRIATED: Someone stole a $4,000 auger from a home on Village Run Drive last week.

Northville Township police say a 25-year-old employee of a landscaping firm reported the theft of the machine, used to drill holes for trees and shrubs. He said it was left at the side of the home while work was being done there.

The man said that a forklift or front-end loader must have been used to take the auger because it's very heavy. Police are continuing to investigate.

ASSAULT: Township police investigated a reported fight near Scenic and Rippling Lanes on Friday night.

Two Northville residents, an 18-year-old woman and a 19-year-old man, said they were walking along the shore of a lake in the Highland Lakes area when the woman's ex-boyfriend and his companion confronted them. The man, a 20-year-old Ann Arbor resident, and his friend, a 20-year-old Westland man, punched both of them in the ensuing argument, witnesses said.

The woman and man did not want to press charges. The two men were warned and released.

Off-duty FBI agent pursues thief

An off-duty G-man hunting for home improvement products spotted a suspected thief on Sunday in Northville Township.

An FBI agent and his wife were shopping at the Home Depot on Seven Mile at about 6:40 p.m. that day. The agent, 30, and his wife, 28, told police they saw a man walking out of the store with something inside his shirt.

The man went to a 1994 Mercury Cougar, put the unknown object inside and then got in. Believing he had just witnessed an illegal act, the agent approached the driver and identified himself.

The man then threw the car in reverse and sped off, almost striking the agent's wife, according to reports. The two gave a description of the man that matches that of the car's registered owner, a 39-year-old Taylor resident.

Police have been unable to locate the suspect or the car yet. They have learned, however, that Ford Motor Credit Company is trying to repossess the vehicle.

An officer spoke with the man's father, who said his son is addicted to several forms of narcotics and steals to support his habit.

What's missing from Varilux lenses? Only the annoying, unsightly lines of conventional bifocals.

What's been added is something you won't want to miss: the changeable tint of Transitions lenses.

Varilux No-Line Bifocals are progressive lenses that gradually alter your focus between near and far. So rather than refocusing every time you look above or below that annoying line, you're always in focus.

Transitions are plastic lenses that darken as you step outside into sunlight. The darkened lenses not only cut down on glare and squinting, they block harmful UV rays.

The combination is a pair of lightweight, scratch resistant lenses that offer the most in comfort and appearance. No lines. No squinting.

Just one pair of bifocals with all the features you want.

Mill Race Matters

On Sunday, June 4, Mill Race Village will begin its summer season of Sunday openings. The Village, located on Griswold one block north of Main Street, is open every Sunday from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m., June until October.

Mill Race is also open for special July 4 festivities and events on Saturday and Sunday during the Northville Victorian Festival in September. No admission charge is collected, but visitors are encouraged to leave a donation in one of the homes.

Mill Race Village, operated by the Northville Historical Society on city land, is a city park. Thus far its only expense to the city has been land maintenance, but costs continue to escalate as the number of volunteers declines. The group could use interested individuals to act as guides on Sundays, as well as volunteers to help on a variety of special projects throughout the year.

The support of members of this community will assist in the continued improvement and enhancement of a facility which adds attractiveness to Northville.

If you have never had the opportunity to see the buildings be sure to drop by one Sunday this summer or, better yet, bring friends several different times. Many have identified the Village as "Northville's Best Kept Secret." Let's get the word out - Mill Race Village is for the entire community.

During the spring months area school children fill Wash Oak School every weekday. Classes come not only from Northville, but from Plymouth, Farmington, Canton, Livonia, Southfield, Huron Valley and other distant points. The same activity resumes when classes start up for the fall.

In recent weeks early settlers have been discussed in this column. Many of those to whom this community owes its existence left little recorded information about their activities. Some stayed in the community only a brief time and then moved on to establish other communities. Many had families who remained in the area for generations. This week a brief summary of some of these people and families ...

Obtaining title to land in 1823 was Gideon Benton. In 1824 deeds were written for Ephraim Francis and Gardner Simmons. In 1825, Alanson Aldrich, Justus Andrews, William Bartow, James Beverly, David Crooks, Philo Crooks, John Dickerson, Hiram Fuller, Paul Hazen, Rosekrans Holmes, William Hubbard, Clement Leach, Abraham Leets, Henry Lyon, Abraham Markham, John Power, Ansel Deland, Constant Simmons, Silas Sly, Alvah Smith, Samuel Sterling, Ebenezer Stewart, Orval Stewart, Philo Taylor, Rufus Thayer Jr., Ezekiel Webb, Arnold Whipple, Henry Whipple and Joseph Yerkes swelled the ranks of community residents.

Adding to the group in 1826 were Morris Andrews, John Blanchard, Richard Boughton, Harvey Bradley, Daniel Cady, Samuel Cady, Salmon Kingsley, Ira Rice, Henry Whipple, John Yerkes and William Yerkes.

Many of these earlier settlers came first to claim land and then returned home to pick up their families. Some brought family members to their new homes first and then took legal title to land they had already claimed.

The order as well as the distance from the recording office in Detroit make it difficult to tell exactly who arrived when and who was homesteading at any one time. During these first years of community development a trip to Detroit was often a seven-day hard journey.

Sarah Cochrane, for whom the local Daughters of the American Revolution chapter is named, came with her parents while just a young child. Her remembrance was thus recorded: "It goes almost without saying that the roads were simply appalling and break downs and consequent delays were frequent ... For days we walked more miles than we rode, my mother carrying me on her hip with one arm while, with a long pole in the other hand, she tested the depth of the mud before each step."

"My father was obliged to lead his team over corduroy roads where the logs floated and rolled in liquid mud. The poor horse, frightened by the unstable footing, plunged and floundered and at times sank one or more legs between loose logs, their extrication proving to be a serious problem if no fence rail or other means of leverage was at hand. We bipeds could sometimes leap the gap or make more or less of a circuit through the adjacent field or forest ..."

Sarah's family did not arrive in Northville until her father Sylvester was called to serve as minister to the New School Church in 1845. This early trip was to Vermontville, of which her father was a founder, but the trip here was no doubt similar.

Three school board hopefuls care enough to show at polls

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

This year's Northville Board of Education candidates' enthusiasm for the district extends into the voting booth, according to school district records.

The voting records of all three candidates over the past five years show an almost perfect election attendance rate.

Board President Bob McMahon has voted in every school election since 1990, including millage proposals in September 1990 and April 1992.

Voters passed a 1.28 mill request in 1990, but defeated a request for additional 2.78 mills in 1992.

Vice President Richard Brown and Trustee Barb Bennett both missed the district's June 1990 vote, an uncontested board election with no other issues on the ballot.

The candidates, all running unopposed for their terms which expire June 30, expressed a firm belief in the civic responsibility to vote.

"Voting is very important," McMahon said. "It is one of the only opportunities you have to voice your opinion, not only at the local level but at the state and national level too."

A strong voting record is an indication that community members running for office are involved and stay on top of the issues, Brown said.

"If candidates are voting in elections, it shows that they know the issues and they are involved with the community," he said.

Voters will go to the polls June 12 in the school board election.

Northville Board of Education members serve without compensation.

Veteran McMahon returns

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Bob McMahon's long list of community involvement activities is evidence of his belief that volunteering is the perfect avenue for bringing about positive change.

"If you involve yourself in the community, you can make a difference," said McMahon, 55, the board's current president.

McMahon, who has lived in Northville for the past 16 years, is running unopposed for his third term as a board member in the Northville Public School election June 12.

McMahon was first elected to the board in 1987, then won a bid for reelection in 1991. During his tenure as an elected representative, he served three years as board treasurer, one year as secretary and one year as vice president. He has been president for the past two years.

Currently, he works as a manager of community and economic development for the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), a regional planning agency for the area's seven counties.

Of his lengthy list of involvement, McMahon has served on the Wayne County Association of School Boards since 1991 and is the group's current president. He also serves on the board of the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation and is a member of several committees for the Michigan Association of School Board Members.

The father of two sons, Kevin, 19, and John, 17, McMahon would like to see more networking between communities and governmental agencies.

"We can do so much more by breaking down boundaries," he said.

Brown thrives on service

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The long hours that go with being a Northville Board of Education member are well worth the time, for Richard Brown.

"I believe everybody should be involved in some sort of community activity," said Brown, the board's current vice president.

His first four years as a board member have been both challenging and rewarding for the 51-year-old Ford Motor Co. personnel manager, who has an unwavering commitment to public education, he said.

"I believe strongly in education," said Brown, who spent 26 years as an organizing and personnel planning manager at Ford. Brown is running unopposed for his second term on the board in the June 12 election.

Currently, Brown is the chairman of the administrative services subcommittee and has been the board's liaison to the Northville Parks and Recreation Department for the past two years.

He has also served on the board's policy and finance subcommittee and was an original member of the district's strategic planning committee during its inception in 1989. The group was formed to create a vision and plan of action for Northville Public Schools in the future.

Brown, who has lived in Northville for the past 17 years, is the father of three daughters: Laura, a senior at Northville High School, Kristen who graduated in 1993 and Lisa, a 1990 graduate.

An avid runner who has completed 13 marathons, Brown will participate in the Boston Marathon next year for the third time.

Bennett no stranger to post

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

When Barb Bennett was appointed to the school board earlier this year, hers was not a new face to Northville Public School meeting rooms.

It was Bennett's unrelenting involvement in the district, serving for years as a vocal member of the parental community, that helped win her the appointment.

The 38-year-old mother of four was named to the board in February after Secretary Pat Custer submitted her resignation. Bennett is running unopposed for the remainder of Custer's term — one year.

Being the newest member of the board, however, does not mean Bennett is a stranger to the public education process. Bennett was an active member of the district's Future Facilities Committee in 1994, the group that reviewed school facility use and recommended the opening of Thornton Creek Elementary for the 1994-95 school year.

Bennett continued her work the following year by serving as a driving force on the citizen bond committee, the group that recommended last week that Northville hold a $53.9 million bond election to help finance the construction of a new high school and other infrastructure repairs.

Bennett is a product of the Northville school system, having attended school here from kindergarten through 12th grade. She has four sons: Steven 7, Scott, 9, and Tom and Jeff, both 4 1/2.

Area 'Y' searching for a few good women

The YWCA of Western Wayne County has announced its fourth annual search for local women achievers. Nominations must be received by June 30, to qualify for the selection process that will culminate at the YWCA Women of Achievement Awards Luncheon on Friday, Nov. 3, in Dearborn.

The festive event recognizes women who have demonstrated qualities of outstanding leadership and excellence in both their professional and personal endeavors for the betterment of Western Wayne County, according to YWCA Executive Director Corinne Vincent.

Six awards will be made in the categories of Arts/Communication, Business/Industry, Government/Law, Professions, Volunteer Service and Young Women (ages 16-23).

Each winner receives an art piece created by Pewabic Pottery. All nominees and their sponsors receive recognition at the luncheon.

The 1995 chair, Margaret St. Andre of AAA-Michigan, points out that the annual event creates an opportunity for community leaders to recognize leadership among women.

Nomination guidelines and luncheon information are available by contacting the YWCA of Western Wayne County at (313) 561-4110.

Students lick sticky ice cream problem

Students at Amerman Elementary School proved they know all about the intricacies of eating ice cream cones.

The owners of Center Street Cafe recently asked the fourth and fifth grade classes at the school to submit essays on the subject of how to eat an ice cream cone and the youngsters came up with some great ideas.

Restaurant co-owner Lynne Beshara said managing a cone is trickier than you think.

"You'd be surprised how many times people drop their cones on to the floor," she said.

The restaurant awarded the two winning essayists Towering Tens, Center Street's giant 10-scoop sundae with any combination of flavors. All entrants received certificates for discounts on ice cream purchases.

There are the two winning essays.

How I Eat an Ice Cream Cone
First, I lick the ice cream in a circular motion going counter clockwise. Then I bite a hole in the bottom of the cone. I suck the ice cream. When done, I swallow.

"Great," I exclaim. I then carefully rip the cone apart. Then I put each piece in my mouth one by one. I keep the pieces in my mouth until they are soggy. I swallow.

The Story

Once upon a time there was a person named Peter. He went and bought an ice cream cone from Center Street Cafe for an excellent deal and this is how he ate it.

First he licked a little off the top and said "this is awesome ice cream." Then he ate it so fast he had a brain freeze. After it was over he ate the cone. Then it was gone.

The end!

OLV fifth graders get their point across during a skit performed for the audience during DARE graduation ceremonies May 22.

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

Two groups of Northville fifth-graders started down the path of continued drug- and alcohol-free lives last week, armed with the knowledge needed to steer clear from the harmful substances.

Fifth-grade classes from Our Lady of Victory and St. Paul's Lutheran schools graduated from a 17-week Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) program last week, with parents and a distinguished panel of guests in attendance.

Dignitaries included Northville City Police Chief Rodney Cannon, City Manager Gary Word, Student Assistance Coordinator Charlie Stilec and Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

The graduation not only marked a milestone for the some 40 students who completed the program, but also for City Police Sergeant and DARE instructor James Marks, who began teaching the course for the first time this year.

"This is a sad time for me because now I have to say goodbye to all the students," said Marks, who received his DARE certification in December after completing a two-week course taught by the Michigan State Police Department.

Over the 17 weeks beginning in January, Marks taught the kids about self-esteem, peer pressure the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse, and how to say no. The classes included a number of activities, including role playing, paper writing, book work and class discussions.

At the end of the course, students were quizzed and wrote essays on what they learned.

"I was impressed," Marks said. "I walked out of class saying, 'Wow, these kids really learned.'"

The schools' teachers offered their own positive comments. "I truly feel they have benefited from the program," said St. Paul's teacher Jennifer Beagan.

"I think it is so important for the kids to have a friendly face on the police force," said OLV teacher Linda Okasinski. "When we had the quiz program, it was so impressive to see how much they had learned."

Students received graduation certificates, T-shirts and DARE pins for completing the course.

Stilec was the guest speaker for both graduation ceremonies.

"It has to start with you," he told the students and parents.

The following is a list of the graduates.

Leader dogs would have universal access under law

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Dogs in training to aid the deaf and blind must be allowed in public and private accommodations under a House-passed bill that has unanimous approval of a state Senate committee.

"Some mall managers" still refuse entry, said Harold F. Smith, an instructor for Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester. "You have to get the dogs out in public so they are properly socialized," Smith told the Senate Local Government Committee.

The sponsor of the bill is Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, who said her town "was put on the map" by the Leader Dog school. With her besides Smith were Partner, a German shepherd in training; Michael Sapp Sr. of Paws with a Cause; and Hunter, a golden retriever.

In 1994 Leader Dogs trained and placed 39 guide dogs; Paws with a Cause graduated 124 dogs.

Chair David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, held a brief public hearing in the handicapped-accessible first floor of the Farnum Building across the street from the State Capitol in Lansing.

Then he and Sens. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, and Loren Bennett, R-Canton, gave the bill a 3-0 recommendation and sent it to the Senate floor for a final vote. Final action and signing by the governor are likely before the Legislature's summer break.

Sitting quietly in the audience were 54 elementary students from Cranbrook Schools Brookside, visiting Honigman and the Capitol.

The act would take effect next Jan. 1, said Crissman. Violators can be charged with a misdemeanor, fined $100 and jailed 90 days. Violations are rare, however, and the Senate Fiscal Agency estimated only a minimal impact on local government budgets.

Labor Secretary touts role of 2-year colleges

U.S. Labor Secretary Robert Reich told a group of Oakland Community College students what most already knew:

"Community colleges are the lynch pins in a new era of workforce training, and OCC is the model."

The former college professor who heads the Clinton Administration's job training programs made an hour stop at OCC's Southfield Campus last Friday prior to his appearance at the state AFL-CIO convention in Detroit. Reich was accompanied by Doug Ross, former state senator from Southfield and now assistant secretary in charge of employment and training.

On a political note, Reich said job training will be more difficult to finance if Republicans in Congress succeed in cutting that portion of the budget by one-third.

In turn, students told him their success stories at OCC.

Amy Enright, who worked in a social service agency while attending the college, plans to complete work on a bachelor's degree at Madonna University in Livonia.

Tim Wessell, a high school dropout who rose to manage a restaurant, earned a general studies degree at OCC, completed a business degree at Eastern Michigan University, and now works for a major accounting firm.

"I've had jobs before, but OCC gave me a career," said Lynn Thomas, a former secretary who doubled her pay after studying computer aided design (CAD) and auto body design at OCC.

Terry Bell spent 22 years as an iron worker, found the work too seasonal and graduated from OCC's nursing program.

Laid off by General Motors as a machine repairman, Edmund Nickerson went to OCC to study CAD and now has a white-collar job at GM. Nickerson and others credited OCC counselor Noreen Ruehs for guiding them into studies that resulted in better jobs.

After being on public assistance, Lisa McGee will graduate from OCC in June as a certified professional secretary.

A laid-off factory worker, Cliff Finney found work with a law firm as a paralegal after studying at OCC. He plans to attend Walsh College in Troy for a business degree.

James Perrine, laid off as a manager by Kmart after 23 years with the giant retailer, is studying computer courses and preparing for a new career.

OCC's star graduate was there, too - Wilma Garcia, once a welfare mother with eight children. She started at OCC in 1969, got a scholarship to Oakland University in Rochester Hills, later earned a doctorate at Wayne State University, and now is on the English faculty of OU.

Where families are born... close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE

Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

A UNIQUE APPROACH

From the moment you choose to have your baby with us*, you can feel comfortable knowing you'll receive personal attention from caring nurses, unrestricted visiting hours, prenatal classes, a neonatologist present at your baby's birth, and private visits to your home after baby's birth by a nurse and choreworker. What's more, you will enjoy a comfortable home-like atmosphere where your birth partner can stay overnight. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF

But don't take our word for it. Take it from the women who have already enjoyed a Providence Park New Life Center experience. Here are just some of the things they have to say:

- "We had no idea what to expect, but delivering here was the best experience of our lives. The personal attention we received made this a very positive experience."
- "My experience couldn't have been better. The staff was fabulous! They were so helpful, friendly and comforting. I really felt that they made my experience the best it could be. The room was beautiful, clean and comfortable. Everything was wonderful!"
- "Absolutely wonderful! I was so pleased I would rate it right off the charts!"

Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.

*Only pregnant women who have been pre-screened and assessed as low risk by a Providence physician are eligible to deliver at the Providence Park New Life Center.

Police unconvinced about robbery claim

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township police have their doubts about a Canton man's recent allegations that two men robbed him and knocked him unconscious Friday night.

The man, 51, came into police headquarters Sunday morning. He said that he had attended a bachelor party held at the clubhouse of the Cedar Lake apartments complex on Six Mile two days before.

He left the party at about midnight, the man explained, and was confronted by two men in the parking lot. They forced him to hand over his wallet containing $220 in cash, the man said. When he turned away from them to make for his nearby Lincoln Town Car he was struck in the back of the head, the man continued, which caused him to black out.

The following day, he added, he noticed that the spare tire from the Town Car was missing. The tire is valued at $150.

The reporting officer in the case seemed to express doubt at the man's story, noting that he seems to be "now suffering from severe memory loss." He could not recall what the two men looked like, the officer noted, nor what they said to him during the alleged robbery.

The man also could not remember anything between the time he was struck and when he arrived home at about 4 a.m., the officer said. In addition, the officer added that the man had no explanation as to why he didn't seek medical attention for his injury or waited so long to contact police.

Board of education cleared in land sale

bond debt.

Currently, the board is considering building a new high school on the remaining 50 acres of land the district owns at the Six Mile Road site.

The investigation centered around two meetings in 1993 — an Aug. 23 regular meeting when the board went into a closed session to discuss the pending contract, and a special open meeting Aug. 26 when the board agreed to the transaction.

The terms of the contract were finalized in March 1994.

Investigators looked into whether the board adhered to the Michigan Open Meetings Act, which states that elected governmental agencies must vote on such issues in public sessions.

"We knew up front that nothing was done incorrectly," said Vice President Richard Brown, who was interviewed in connection with the case.

Investigators met with board and administration members several times, requested affidavits and studied board meeting minutes before making the ruling.

"I think the letter speaks for itself," said Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services Dave Bolitho. "We acted in a legal and prudent manner."

Controversy surrounding the proposed construction of the Woods of Edenderry subdivision on the Six Mile Road site has centered around opposition from neighboring Edenderry Hills residents who do not want to see connector roads constructed linking the two subdivisions.

Edenderry Hills residents are opposed to any construction of connectors because many feel the roads will increase traffic through their subdivision, causing safety hazards for residents and contributing to a higher crime rate.

Although the case is closed between the Northville school district and the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, a dispute between Cambridge Homes and the district remains unsettled.

The two entities are battling over the amount of usable land that was originally designated as wetlands. Under the contract, Cambridge Homes is not obligated to pay the district for acreage that can't be developed.

A real estate consultant determined that 14.8 of the 77 acres are unusable. School officials, however, contend that seven of the 14 acres are suitable for building — representing a difference of about $165,000.

Cambridge purchased the land at $25,000 per acre.

The two parties have met once to discuss the dispute but no agreement has been reached.

"We are hoping to reach closure in the very near future," Bolitho said. "I'm hopeful there won't be a major conflict. Nobody wants this to be a drawn out situation."

gram user fees (accounting for about half the total with $424,000), facility rentals and government grants.

The department's budget has risen by a total of 19 percent in the last five years but still hasn't kept pace with the community's population, which has increased at a rate of 32 percent, Director Traci Johnson said.

In 1990, Johnson said, the department saw nearly 8,000 participants in its program. Last year the number hit nearly 10,500 people.

"Even though we've grown, our demand (for services) has grown as well," Johnson said. "We're hardly keeping up with user growth."

This year the department will see a slight staff increase, an office expansion and roof replacement and the purchase of a new field mower.

"We're pleased that the city and township have once again chosen to support and fund our program," Johnson said.

Tower eyesore comes down

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A community eyesore is no more. The old water storage tank on Beck Road in Northville Township was demolished a week ago.

"It looks so strange with it gone," Maureen Oisecki, a Northville Township Water & Sewer Department employee, said. The Water & Sewer department building sits — sat, rather — next to the tank.

The tank, located between Five and Six Mile, is a legacy of the Detroit Water & Sewer department and has been empty for some time.

Last year township officials decided it couldn't be used for water storage any longer. They considered other uses for the tank, such as storage space for equipment or official records, but found that the expensive modifications needed to make that fly weren't worth the effort.

In January the board of trustees voted to approve using $27,000 in federal grant funds to tear down the tank, located on Beck between Five and Six Mile.

The board gave the job to Richter's Contracting of Clinton Township.

Soon after the vote, however, township resident Jack McNeely filed a protest with Wayne County, seeking to block the move.

McNeely, the township's former contracted engineer, argued that the tank could still be used for water storage in the future. Township officials disagreed, writing a formal rebuttal to McNeely's claim which in turn led to his rebuttal of the rebuttal.

In the last couple of months, the matter has essentially withered on the vine.

"We haven't heard any more from him," Oisecki said this week.

That cleared the way for the tank to come down on May 25 and it came down quickly. Demolition was complete by Friday morning and now only piles of rubble remain.

But they won't sit there long. Oisecki said. Crews have begun sorting through the remains and will soon haul everything off. The site will then be seeded for a grass area.

Art Market to offer variety of media at Victorian Festival

By Jacquilyn Murray
Special Writer

Art lovers will be able to find many of their favorite decorative pieces at this year's Art Market.

Wildlife photographs, serigraphs, clay art, jewelry and whimsical glass art have already been accepted for the annual event, which is held in conjunction with the Victorian Festival. Main Street and the bandshell area in downtown Northville come alive with artistic activity the weekend of Sept. 16.

"By inviting some of last year's most popular artists back without them going through the jury process, we were able to get some artists to commit to the Northville show early," said Lauri Rodriguez, event co-chair. "And they knew they were accepted and could make their plans accordingly."

Photographic art by internationally renowned wildlife photographer Carl Samms II and last year's award winning serigraphs by Barbara Ragalyi will be available.

The ever evolving clay art of Irene MacDonald, who has been with the show from its inception, and Judy Buresh's unique ceramics will be available for pottery enthusiasts. Whimsical glass clocks and jewelry will be offered by Paul Banish and Shoal Southworth, who have added colorful bird houses to their repertoire this year.

Of course an art show is incomplete without original jewelry. Art Market shoppers will find the creativity of Lavana Shurtuff and Sherry Svoboda enchanting.

Many other artists have submitted applications for Art Market '95. The show is expected to attract between 50 and 75 artists.

"We can be very proud of our Art Market," adds Rodriguez. "Some of our artists are finding the Northville Art Market is one of their most successful. The word spreads among the artistic community, and the show just gets better."

Artists wanting applications can call (810) 348-2557, but must do so quickly as deadlines are approaching soon.

The Art Market is sponsored by Northville Arts Commission.

Volunteer Notes

ST. MARY HOSPITAL in Livonia honored 233 volunteers during its 15th Annual Volunteer Day of Appreciation April 20 at the St. Mary Cultural Center in Livonia.

Sherri Fletcher, director of Volunteer Services and Fund Development, noted that in 1994 the volunteers gave more than 36,000 hours of service. In 1994, "your efforts, translated into dollars and cents at $7 an hour, realized $252,000 in savings for the hospital," she said.

Among those honored for donating 2,500 hours was Jean Morrison of Northville. Those who have logged 1,500 service hours included Mary Pilar of Northville, and Ernie Meloche of Northville Township.

Volunteers donating 500 hours included William Houghton of Northville.

If you or a friend would like to volunteer at St. Mary Hospital, please call Volunteer Services at (313) 591-2912.

THE DETROIT INSTITUTE OF ARTS: Gallery Service volunteers are urgently needed to greet and assist visitors in the museum galleries. You can make a difference in assuring the galleries are open during museum hours. Afternoon weekend volunteers are especially needed.

A training session is scheduled for Saturday, June 3, in the Holley Room. The DIA is located at 5200 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, MI 48202.

The event will take place on the Amerman school grounds located on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Center Street. Parking is available at the high school across Eight Mile.

June 17 set for library kick-off

Bauchat said. The organization handles a number of library-related programs and raises money to enhance library services.

For instance the group has a "Welcome Baby" service offering Northville newborns a packet of information about the library, complete with an application form for a library card.

Then there's the "Gift Book" program, where you can place a book in the library in the name of someone you want to honor, such as a senior citizen or recent graduate.

The Friends also raise money to improve the library and have raised over $5,000 for enhancement of the new library, Bauchat said. They're still welcoming community help to raise more money, she added. The money raised, she stressed, does not pay for the library building or its basic services, which are covered by the millage Northville voters authorized last year. Instead, Bauchat explained, the funds pay for "extras" that improve the library for the community. To date, she added, no specific use for the money has been determined.

For more information on the Friends and its programs call Bauchat at 348-6872.

"The emergency team went above and beyond the call of duty."

My daughter, Alexis, has been asthmatic since she was three. So unfortunately we've been to several hospitals over the years.

One night, Alexis had an attack at ten o'clock. We needed to go to the hospital and decided to go to Botsford. The experience was good right from the start.

It began with someone opening the door for us at the new emergency department. Then we went to a room where Alexis was immediately triaged and cared for. I was really impressed with the quality of care. The Emergency Specialists were very adept in pediatrics.

Even though an asthma attack can be very scary, there was never any stress. Alexis was always treated like a person first — never like a number.

I felt the people at Botsford really cared about patients and the community. When we were leaving, the nurse in triage came back in to say good-bye and said, "Hope you feel better Alexis."

Carrier career comes to an end

Senior Donald Watson, who has delivered The Northville Record to homes in the Kings Mill neighborhood for several years, is retiring as a paper carrier. Every Thursday, morning from 6-9 a.m., residents in the neighborhood could see the friendly Watson pulling almost 200 newspapers in a small, red wagon. The venerable worker says while he's all done with his paper route, he doesn't plan on remaining idle. Next, he'll try working as a handyman around Kings Mill.

Bill allowing dove hunting stalls out

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Michigan hunters face a dim chance of shooting mourning doves this fall despite state Senate approval of a bill allowing it.

The Senate vote was 21-12, one more than a bare 20 needed for passage. It means a tough fight in the House, which has until June 22 to place the bill before Gov. John Engler.

"There is no reason for slaughtering a backyard song bird other than sport," said the Michigan Audubon Society. "The dove can be easily confused with several of our smaller hawks, the American kestrel in particular."

The Michigan Humane Society also denounced shooting of the "gentle" bird that often visits home bird feeders.

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, won passage of an amendment to prohibit shooting at doves perched on utility wires. But he voted against the bill on final passage.

Supporters included Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who represents the Oakland County portion of Northville.

Support for hunting the mourning dove has grown with declines in the pheasant population.

Noting the Audubon Society's opposition, the bill's sponsor, Sen. Phil Hoffman, R-Horton, remarked that John James Audubon, the 19th Century naturalist for whom the society is named, "shot as many as 100 in a single day."

"Thirty-eight other states allow a dove season. Ohio started last year. Folks in Ohio predict it will be an economic boon to them if we do nothing," Hoffman said.

Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, explained the June 22 deadline: "This is a migratory bird. The federal government also regulates it. We have a deadline of June 22 to notify the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service" of any action Michigan will take.

The Hoffman bill doesn't establish a season or bag limits for doves. Rather, it allows the Natural Resources Commission to establish rules.

Refer to Senate Bill 529 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909. The speaker will probably assign the bill to the House Conservation Committee.

Dale Edwards named Mason Grand Master

Northville resident Dale Edwards was installed as Most Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons of Michigan, on Saturday, May 27. He will hold the office until May 1996.

Edwards has served as the vice president of the Dearborn Heights Jaycees and as president of the Dearborn Jaycees. He has assisted with numerous community projects and he and wife Judy have acted as Deacons and Elders in the Presbyterian Church. They are active members of First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Edwards became a Master Mason in 1958 when his father was Master of Northwestern Lodge No. 529. In 1982, he became an officer in the Northwestern Lodge and was installed as Worshipful Master in 1988 and 1989. He was elected Master of the Year in the Northwestern Lodge in 1989.

Having been initiated into the Dearborn Order of DeMolay in 1950, Edwards held several offices and served as Master Councilor in 1953. He and Judy moved to Northville in 1984. They have two daughters, Deborah and Patricia.

In 1989, Edwards served as the President of the Masonic Masters Association when the new organization team implemented and strengthened the group, eliminating outdated programs, committees and responsibilities. The lodges in the Masonic Masters Association raised $18,886 which was donated to the then new Juvenile Diabetes program at the Grand Lodge Session in 1989.

Earlier this year, Grand Master Edwards became a member of Northville Lodge No. 186, F&M. He also holds membership in Michigan Lodge of Research No. 601, and holds honorary memberships in Dearborn Lodge No. 172, Lake City Lodge No. 408, Ortonville Lodge No. 339 and Mid-Michigan High Twelve No. 602.

Edwards has been employed by Ford Motor Co. for 30 years and is responsible for customer satisfaction. He is a graduate of the University of Detroit with a bachelor's degree in business administration, finance major.

Among his various Masonic associations, Edwards is a member of the Valley of Detroit, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite. He is a Noble in the Moslem Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and is a member of Aries Grotto M.O.V.P.E.R., Union Chapter No. 55, Royal Arch Masters; Northville Council No. 30, Royal & Select Masters; Northville Commandery No. 39, Knights Templar; Michigan SCRIF; York Rite College; Crusader Council No. 142, Allied Masonic Degrees; and National Sojourners. He is also a Past Patron of Orient Chapter No. 77, Order of the Eastern Star in Northville.

Edwards has served as the chairman of the Advisory Board for Northville Rainbow Assembly No. 29 and became one of the early sponsoring chapter advisors in the Walt Disney Chapter Order of DeMolay, when it was formed in Northville a year ago.

He was also named by the International Supreme Council as an Active DeMolay Legion of Honor and has been named a recipient of the Grand Cross of Color from the International Order of Rainbow.

For five years Edwards has represented Michigan on the Masonic Renewal Committee of North America that was instituted by the Conference of Grand Masters in 1991.

Edwards is presently coordinator for Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. In addition, he serves the Conference of Grand Masters as a member of the Commission on Information for Recognition and will serve as chairman in the year 2000.

Anti-drug group gains momentum

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

The saying that there's strength in numbers couldn't ring truer than in the community's quest to combat alcohol and substance abuse.

Northville Youth Forum's Zero Tolerance Committee for youth substance abuse, a group that has brought together diverse facets of the community in an effort to lower the alarming rates of substance abuse among young people, has recently published goals for several plans of action in a pamphlet.

The group, composed of representatives from the schools, students, parents, local churches, and the city and township governments and police forces, has laid the necessary groundwork to battle a problem that officials say is worse than many people realize.

"A lot of parents in the Northville community don't want to admit that (drug abuse) can happen to their kids," said

Northville Township Police Detective John Werth at the group's third annual Community Task Force meeting earlier this month.

The Alcohol and Other Drugs (AOD) survey that Northville middle and high school students completed in 1994 revealed significantly higher levels of nicotine, alcohol and drug use than the national average. The survey, conducted by Western Michigan University, was the second time students completed the questionnaire. The first survey was taken in 1992.

The responses sparked alarm and made the community stand up and take notice, according to high school Student Assistance Coordinator Charlie Stilec.

"The first one made some scary conclusions but there were a lot of skeptics," Stilec said. "After the second AOD survey, I think it added some reality."

Of the goals set forth by the group, members hope to increase awareness and eliminate tolerance of substance abuse through, among other measures, designing stickers that will be displayed in businesses as reminders that Northville is committed to zero tolerance; installing a police liaison officer and offering peer counseling at the high school; having both city and township governments adopt resolutions endorsing the group's vision statement; and strengthening the bond between schools and the community through the district's business partnership program.

The group also wants students committed to staying drug free to sign the zero tolerance contract that appears in the pamphlet. The contract asks for further suggestions in battling the problem.

Two pioneers in the fight against drugs were honored at the task force meeting. Former Northville High School students Lisa Chomiuk and Joel Hamp received plaques from the group, recognizing them for telling their stories of drug involvement to classrooms of students.

"I thank God every day I didn't die because that was where I was headed," said Chomiuk, 19, a recovering drug addict. "There's a problem out there and if we band together, I think we can solve it."

A comprehensive approach is the key, said Bob Sornson, committee chairman and special education director for the Northville Public Schools, as any drug problem is directly reflective of the community's level of tolerance.

"We hope the work is something that will continue to put a considerable dent in the problem," Sornson said.

The group will continue its efforts to raise awareness and minimize substance abuse at another meeting scheduled for Wednesday, June 14, at 10:30 a.m. in city hall.

Stilec said he is happy with the group's progress so far, but added that its task is far from complete.

"There's more in-depth work to be done, but it's good, solid work," Stilec said. "We're closer than we've ever been."

Fingerprinting bills get thumbs down

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

State senators put the brakes on bills to allow fingerprinting of ordinance violators, a step that if taken would put defendants into the Law Enforcement Information Network.

"My concern is big government," objected Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion. "The distinction between a misdemeanor and a felony is becoming more and more blurred."

"I've never heard my sheriff's department or any of my police departments say we have a problem. After one arrest or in 72 hours, their fingerprints are all over the system," Dunaskiss said.

"We'll look at these again in fall," said the Senate Local Government Committee chair, David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield. Honigman's panel met Wednesday during the last week on which Senate committees may act on House-passed bills before the summer break.

The bills say little but trigger a number of devices in other state laws that would allow local police departments access to records of defendants with convictions elsewhere in the state.

The bills allow cities, townships and villages to enhance the penalties for certain ordinance violations to 93 days instead of 90 days in jail. That would trigger a law requiring those violators to be fingerprinted and placed in the LEIN system.

As written, the bills list only domestic assaults, bad checks,

"The distinction between a misdemeanor and a felony is becoming more and more blurred."

-Sen. Mat Dunaskiss

second-degree retail fraud (minor shoplifting), and food stamp fraud. Later, however, the list could be lengthened, another point that bothered Dunaskiss. "Are we going to be picking up a 14-year-old for lifting a $1 candy bar?"

Bruce Timmons of the House Republican staff tried in vain to soothe Dunaskiss' doubts. "This is aimed at adults. Juvenile offenses are a separate list."

Sgt. Patrick O'Toole of the Michigan State Police added, "The criminal history system is conviction-based, not charge based. You have to have a certified record of conviction" before the fingerprint law would be used.

O'Toole said the bills are aimed at offenses that tend to be repeated - domestic abuse and bad checks, in particular. Once those offenses are in the LEIN system, it will be easier to charge a violator for a second offense elsewhere in the state and mete out a stiffer sentence.

A Senate Fiscal Agency analysis said the bills, if enacted, would generate more record-keeping by the state but called the cost "minimal." Dunaskiss had his doubts about that, too.

The bills are part of a House-passed package to upgrade penalties. Among the bipartisan list of sponsors were Reps. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, James Ryan, R-Redford, Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Lodge, and Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti.

Refer to House Bills 4302-4306 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

TENDON TENDENCIES

A tendon is the tough, rope-like material that connects a muscle to a bone. It does not stretch, nor does it contract as a muscle does. Tendons have very little blood supply, and can take a very long time to heal after an injury. They are also one of the most commonly injured structures of the body. When a tendon is injured, some of its fibers actually tear, although rarely does it tear altogether. The higher the proportion of fibers torn, the more severe the tear and accompanying pain. By submitting to physical therapy, patients with torn tendons can best facilitate proper healing. Otherwise, incomplete healing can lead to re-injury and prolong convalescence.

At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., our objective is to promote optimum health and function. As key members of the health care team, physical therapists are specially trained to improve movement and function, relieve pain, and to restore or achieve optimal recovery. Our special areas include orthopedic and sports injuries, neck and back rehabilitation, pain management, and general rehabilitation. If you suffer from injuries or problems that inhibit function or movement, call 349-3816. We are located at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

P.S. Strengthening the appropriate muscles and tendons can help avert tendonitis, inflammation of the tendons.

Our Opinion

Technicality gets supervisor off hook

The Northville Township Ethics Committee did what it had to do in finding that there was no evidence to support allegations that Supervisor Karen Baja violated the very policy she helped write.

Baja was getting heat from several members of the township board of trustees for allegedly accepting an honorary membership in the upscale Meadowbrook Country Club. Such a gift is worth thousands of dollars, but a township policy Baja herself helped draft prevents elected officials from accepting gratuities valued at more than $25.

But while several board members felt Baja had followed through on her decision to accept the membership - a supposition apparently confirmed by Baja's own hand-written entry in a disclosure log - the supervisor maintained she was only considering taking the gift.

The Ethics Committee was brought into the fray when an opinion was needed as to the validity of the trustees' complaint.

Lacking irrefutable proof that Baja had crossed the blurred line between intent and action, the committee stopped short of declaring the supervisor in violation of the ethics policy. Committee members said only that honorary membership in the country club would contradict the policy in the hypothetical instance where acceptance had been finalized.

In the absence of proof positive that Baja had become a member of the club without regard to the ethical implications, the committee could only conclude that there was insufficient evidence of wrong doing.

We believe that the supervisor dodged a bullet here solely on the strength of a technicality. Five members of the board of trustees were of the understanding that she had, in fact, agreed to become an honorary member of the club and in a March 3 memo she even said, "I plan to accept this offer and have disclosed such."

When contacted by a reporter of this newspaper, a Meadowbrook spokesman was evasive, refusing to give a direct answer when asked point-blank if Baja had accepted the membership offer.

Instead, he told us only that the supervisor "was not a member of this club," which left open the question of whether membership had been pending and only got delayed when the controversy hit the front page.

ing and only got delayed when the controversy hit the front page.

Now, Meadowbrook memberships have traditionally been extended to township supervisors so this offer didn't represent anything unprecedented. Furthermore, Baja indicated her intention to accept the gift in both a memo to the board and in her disclosure log, so it's not as if she was trying to keep anything a secret.

But if this situation doesn't provide an example of unethical conduct it does point up the climate of suspicion and combativeness existing between the supervisor and a majority of the members of the board of trustees. Her foes on the board have seen enough instances where the supervisor has artfully covered her tracks and they're distrustful. Baja is a studious and knowledgeable person and it's hard to catch her with her guard down.

We would like to use this opportunity to renew our call for a more open and trusting relationship between the supervisor and the other elected representatives of the township but the cynic in us tells us not to bother. By now, the interaction between the two main camps has been so corrupted, everyone is carrying around so much political baggage, that making a fresh start seems, if not impossible, at least highly unlikely.

It's a shame, too. In the final analysis, no one on the Northville Township Board of Trustees is a fundamentally flawed or dishonest individual and all have sacrificed a lot of their personal time and private comfort to make decisions on behalf of their constituents. If only they could see past their own interests and take the larger view, the government of the township could become the efficient, well-meaning body every municipality ought to have.

Hopefully, we're wrong in thinking it's too late for a new spirit of cooperativeness to begin to guide the discussions and decisions of the board. What is needed is a new candor and a new commitment to set aside differences for the sake of the overall good of the township. A tall order, indeed. Will they rise to the challenge and meet it?

Just 1 caveat with candidates

This is the second year we've published the recent voting histories of the board of education candidates leading up to the annual school board election.

Lee Snider

Simple put, we believe that the same thing some of our readers were puzzled by the report, and I used my column to try to give our reasons in the next edition of the paper. I think maybe a few words on the same subject might be worth the verbal investment again this year.

Simple put, we believe that the same thing some of our readers were puzzled by the report, and I used my column to try to give our reasons in the next edition of the paper. I think maybe a few words on the same subject might be worth the verbal investment again this year.

Perhaps the most useful purpose voting records serve is in helping to weed out single-issue candidates, people who decide to run for school board only because they're angry about cuts in the athletic program or the content of class materials.

We don't see that kind of thing very often around here but it can happen, and, in any case, voting history is relevant even in elections where there is no immediate focus of controversy.

Which leads me to the current situation.

As you know, three incumbents are running, unopposed, for reelection this year. Two of the hopefuls, Bob McMahon and Richard Brown, know the ropes and have served with competence on the board of education for several years.

The third candidate, Barb Bennett, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of former board member Pat Custer, who stepped down last February. Bennett has been active in the district for a long time, and has served on high-profile volunteer committees.

The recent voting histories of all candidates are good, as a table on page 6-A shows.

I feel confident we're in good hands with these folks, but I was a little bothered by a suggestion two of them made last month.

It seems McMahon and Brown approached school district reporter Yvonne Beebe at a board meeting and asked her if it would be possible for the candidates to pool their answers to the issues questionnaires we sent them.

They explained that because the election was uncontested, they thought it might be a good idea for them to collaborate in filling out the forms! I told Yvonne to convey an emphatic no, and they ending up submitting separate responses. We'll publish the answers in next week's paper.

I don't know about you but I was put off by this suggestion, which would seem to indicate a lack of independent thinking on the part of the board members who made it. I hope trustees aren't in the habit of conferring with each other and working out a collective response before casting their votes.

Cooperation is a useful thing, but if taken to extremes it can result in uncritical rubber stamping, and that serves no one well.

Leaving friends is hardest part

Before a year ago, the sight of a police car on the road would instinctively cause me to hit the brake pedal whether I was speeding or not.

Yvonne Beebe

Well, a year at The Northville Record has changed me somewhat - at least where police are concerned. Now when I see a Northville City Police car cruising down the road, I'm more apt to hit the horn and wave than to hit the brake.

This has been the best part of my job here at the newspaper, meeting and working with the countless people who keep the community running in one form or another. At the same time, it is those same people who will make my leaving the Record so difficult.

Next Friday I will pack my meager belongings that have added to the clutter of my desk - a Webster's Dictionary and Associated Press Stylebook, my lucky French coin and the Stephen King book I bought around the corner last fall and haven't gotten around to reading yet - and leave the office. Not too long after that, I will pack just about everything I own and move on to other endeavors in Chicago.

The physical task of packing is a tedious one. The mental task of closing a significant chapter in your life is all the more difficult, which takes me back to the people.

I would love to make this column like the lengthy speeches of academy award winners, where the victors rattle off the name of every person who helped them to get where they are, but I won't.

I do want to mention, though, one person in particular, whose first name I didn't even learn until after about six months of covering Northville City Council meetings, and his last name I still don't know.

Sitting in the front row of city council chambers every other Monday night, sometimes the only one in the audience, I knew Angelo was a dedicated community member. I don't think he missed more than one meeting all year.

Every other Monday night when I would walk into city hall, there he would be, eagerly awaiting the council's business that night. He always greeted me with a friendly smile and a simple hello in his raspy voice. His enthusiasm for the city's current issues never seemed to dissipate, and he always offered comments on one issue or another.

The reason I never learned his full name, I think, is that Angelo is such a regular that whenever he stood up to offer input, he never stated his name for the record because everyone already knew it.

His enthusiasm and friendly demeanor often served as a bright point for me during the week, even though we never exchanged more than a handful of words at one time.

It's not easy leaving the town you grew-up in - good friends, familiar streets, comfortable routines.

In the past year I've learned several valuable lessons that were most likely impossible to learn during my years as a student at Northville Public Schools: You won't like all of your teachers, but you can learn just as much, if not more, from them; silence is sometimes the greatest compliment; and the truth is often difficult to handle - especially when you're the one dishing it out.

These lessons and countless memories I will take with me to Chicago. Who knows what experiences and new faces the city will throw in my path. I just hope somewhere down the line, I meet another Angelo.

Yvonne Beebe, for another week at least, is a staff writer for The Northville Record.

Committee deserved better write-up

Yvonne Beebe's irresponsible analogy equating our students to rats is a prime example of extremely poor journalism.

The flippancy of her opening comments can only serve to diminish the integrity and professionalism with which our committee meetings were conducted over the past several months. I wonder how she can accurately report back to the public what was decided and the spirit in which it was decided when she did not attend a single committee meeting, nor was she in attendance at the presentation to the board May 22.

To set the Record straight, we met weekly (sometimes biweekly) since Nov. 8 to reach our recommendation. We spent over 1,500 hours researching options. This alone suggests the level of commitment of our committee.

We were extremely conscious of the academic, safety and financial ramifications of our decision. We never once worked in the trifle manner her opening comment seems to suggest.

I have been in education for 24 years, and I have seen the unfortunate results of individuals who do not take the duties of parenting, educating and informing seriously. The opening tone of her article represents just that.

Our committee made a recommendation which will have a tremendous impact on all of our futures — especially those of our children. When reporting a story of such magnitude, perhaps she also should work with such integrity and professionalism.

Stamp out Nixon postal likeness

To the Editor:

First off, I want to commend The Northville Record for opening its pages for readers to express their opinions, asking only that writers disagree — if they must — without being disagreeable.

Recently I expressed my objection to the Postal Service decision to portray Richard Nixon's picture on our first-class stamps. In a lengthy rebuttal, peppered with caustic remarks regarding my "ignorance" in the matter of Nixon's worthiness for the recognition, a reader strongly objected to my stand on the subject.

I still maintain that when a president, for the first time in history, must resign in disgrace and subsequently, abjectly rely on a pardon from his successor to avoid a possible prison term, it would seem to me that the honor of glorifying the prominence of former presidents is somewhat demeaned by so honoring Nixon.

A study of political history will show that Nixon used dirty tactics and false accusations against Helen G. Douglas in the 1948 House elections and against Mr. Voorhees in the 1950 Senatorial race. Read your history, sir.

Has the respondent forgotten the ill-conceived order Nixon gave for the invasion of Cambodia, a neutral country?

Perhaps Nixon forgot, or chose to ignore, that Article II (4) of Chapter I of the U.N. charter states that "All members shall refrain in their international relations from the threat or use of force against the territorial integrity or political independence of any State or in any other manner inconsistent with the purposes of the United Nations."

Certainly, thumbing one's nose at international law is much more than a simple misdeed — meanor!

How about this gem regarding Nixon's pick for Vice President: The May 21 issue of the Detroit Free Press reports that $40,000 is being spent for a bust of Spiro Agnew (remember him?) that is to be placed outside the Senate Chamber in the Nation's Capitol. The writer of the piece suggests that "that's a bit like putting a bust of John Dillinger in a bank lobby!"

Appropos the Vietnam debacle, one must go back to Truman for the beginning of the quagmire we stepped into when he supported the return of France to Vietnam after World War II, again as its colonial master.

Foster Dulles (like's secretary of state) withdrew U.S. support from the agreed upon 1954 Geneva Accords, which were intended to result in free, supervised elections between North and South Vietnam.

Kennedy didn't help much either by dispatching tens of thousands of "advisors" to Vietnam in the early '60s.

Then Johnson came along with his lie about the Gulf of Tonkin, misrepresenting the facts in that event.

Senator Fulbright, in his book, Arrogance of Power, concluded that the Johnson administration was "hellbent on disregarding all civilized rules of international conduct."

MEA undermines tax reform plan

To the Editor:

Proposal A had restricted the use of bond mills to only major construction of new school buildings but school superintendents in Michigan have discovered a clever strategy to circumvent this restriction.

Not surprisingly they are promoting bond millages for computers, minor repairs, and new equipment.

Clearly this nefarious end-run approach violates the original intent of Proposal A but state legislators have permitted this mischief to allow school districts to recover property tax revenues lost when huge deductions emerged in operational mills. Thus school authorities have discovered another underhanded technique to pick the pockets of middle class homeowners.

Gleefully the Michigan Education Association and goose stepping pro-millagers have pounced on this opportunity to foment their romance with the property tax upon an apathetic public.

Isn't it wonderful how school superintendents, state reps, and the Michigan Education Association work together to destroy tax reform proposals?

Our commitment is to the community

Here's the mission statement I wrote a while ago for hometown newspapers like The Northville Record:

Phil Power

"Because we publish community newspapers, we think about community journalism in a fundamentally different way than do the big daily newspapers and TV stations.

"They consider themselves to be independent from the stories and communities they cover, swooping in to write the unusual or sensational and then dashing off to cover something else.

"We regard ourselves as both accurate journalists and as caring citizens of the communities where we work."

I got to musing about this in connection with last week's story about the bankruptcy and liquidation of the Foundation for New Era Philanthropy. That's the Pennsylvania outfit that could cost Michigan charities like the Detroit Institute of Arts and Southfield Christian School millions of dollars. It turned out that New Era's claim to big yields — through earnings on investments plus matching anonymous donations — was nothing more than a fraudulent pyramid scheme.

The Birmingham Eccentric's headline on the local angle of the story said, "Local organizations caught in New Era web." The article went on to describe how, in particular, the hometown Johnson Foundation might be out as much as $4 million when New Era went under.

Created by well-respected Birmingham real estate investor Paul Johnson, the foundation has a distinguished local record of charitable giving. Losses of the New Era sort sadly diminish the small but enormously valuable amount of capital set aside for philanthropies, and so the Eccentric wanted to cover the story both as an accurate newspaper and as a caring citizen of the community.

Joe Bauman, editor of the Eccentric, went about the job just right. He called Johnson's office to get a quote and, finding that he was out of town for a wedding, faxed him a letter describing the story he planned to write. "As the community newspaper for Birmingham," Joe's fax said in part, "we believe it is important to get your input on the story so that the local angle is completely, fairly and accurately perceived."

Eventually, Scott Melby, a spokesman for Johnson, called the newspaper and gave a thoughtful and insightful interview which helped local readers to understand how things stood. Joe's memo to me pointed out that Johnson is familiar with the Eccentric, hopefully seeing it as a "legitimate, accurate newspaper ... not out to ridicule him about being caught up in the scam. We simply wanted the factual story."

That's the way community newspapers like this one try to carry out their responsibilities.

On the other hand, I wasn't at all surprised to learn from Joe that some reporters from the Detroit newspapers had turned up, uninvited, at Johnson's front door on the day the story broke. The door was shut in their faces, without comment.

This is just a small local example of what is becoming a large national problem: the gulf between the big national news media and the folks whom they are supposed to inform and serve.

The Times Mirror Center for the People and the Press surveyed 515 journalists and 2,000 readers. Released last week, the survey revealed a yawning gap between the way journalists and their customers view politics, social issues and the news business.

"The public is saying the national media is part of the problem," said Andrew Kohut, the center director. "They identify more of the 'gotcha' journalism and out-of-control journalism with national news organizations."

This survey validated one of the more striking observations about our business made by somebody in a position to know. Mary Caperton Bingham, widow of the late Barry Bingham, whose family used to own the Louisville Courier-Journal, got up to give a speech last month. She collapsed and died just before she was to give these lines:

"I think another and understandable reason for the public's growing distrust and dislike of the media — and not only of the talk-show rabble-rousers, and the primates on the far religious right, but of the formerly respected mainstream media — is the media's self-righteous pomposity and their sneering and contemptuous coverage of all public figures."

Religious Right report is pure fantasy

It was Pat Robertson Day in our capitals. In the nation's capital, the TV evangelist's political operative,

Tim Richard

Ralph Reed, unveiled a national agenda that included some standard conservative dishes (welfare reform) along with the Religious Right's formula for using government to jam its brand of fundamentalism down everyone's throat (school prayer, an end to alleged persecution of religion).

In Lansing, committees in Dick Posthumus' state Senate are looking at school prayer measures and bills to facilitate the Foundation for Traditional Values' sale of religious books and tapes to teachers, the goal being to introduce the purported religious writings of the Founding Fathers (a term not legally defined) into history and civics classes.

America has seen nothing like it since the 1920s effort to incorporate the Bible into the U.S. Constitution, a movement that collapsed over its own left feet in the case of People v. Scopes, the "monkey trial" in Tennessee.

Over at the Hannah Building in Lansing, the scene in the State Board of Education is a bit quieter but still bizarre. Copies of Michael David Warren Jr.'s draft report to W. Clark Durant are leaking out. It's wild.

Warren, you'll recall, was the fledgling lawyer with virtually no civic experience who sought a state Senate seat in the Pontiac-Bloomfield-Southfield district last year. He lost 3-2.

Warren has never taught school, never served on a school board, never had any non-student experience with public education. Nevertheless, Durant, the president of the State Board of Education, hired him to draft a legal framework for a "quality education plan."

Durant has a similar lack of experience. It's as if I, a non-lawyer, were to walk into the State Bar Association and hire a brilliant geologist to rewrite the canons of ethics for judges and lawyers.

In short, the Durant-Warren team is long on ideology and brass but short on facts, knowledge and experience.

Warren began his report with a fundamental blunder: He addressed it to Durant. Now, anyone who knows anything about public bodies knows a board member is only a fraction of a team — in this case, one-eighth. Durant has not a crumb of authority the other seven don't have.

Warren's second blunder is to assume what he intends to prove: "Our educational system is failing." Perhaps he never has heard of Rand's report on "Student Achievement and the Changing American Family," which explores our deteriorating family structure as a cause of poor achievement.

Perhaps he is unaware of Herrnstein & Murray's The Bell Curve, which reports our average IQs are declining and again zeros in on deteriorating families.

How to reform all of this? Warren advocates an "internal" strategy — top down, insiders only — so the debate can be carefully controlled. The State Board would listen to "parents, teachers, students, administrators, politicians, business leaders, religious leaders, etc."

It's a kick in the teeth to the industrial, financial, utility, commercial and labor leaders whom the State Board has been consulting in recent years as it seeks to establish clear standards and attain the goal that every high school graduate will be literate, employable and a civic asset.

From there Warren moves to a concept, part Alice-in-Wonderland dream world, part Rube Goldberg contraption, called "The Plan."

The state would issue "shares of Public Education Stock (PES). School districts would become Public Education Corporations (PECs). Some folks, like certain parents, might get more than one share of stock. "Shares could be easily transferred, sold, or given away." Shares also could be accumulated, a scary point he fails to develop.

Shares could be "sold to individuals and corporations wishing to educate our children. An explosion of entrepreneurship and wealth would instantly occur." Warren suggests in an understatement. As I read it, even the Branch Davidians and the Jim Jones cult, late of Guyana, could get into the act, along with every ethnocentric moron not in an institution.

The Michigan version of the Warren Report uses one word frequently: "could." Wonderful things could occur. And it's possible a few fine arts and science academies could emerge from The Plan. More often, however, we're likely to see schools without qualified, screened or well-prepared teachers. More often we're likely to see zealots on ego trips masquerading as concerned parents, eager to toy with their kids' minds to further a fanciful "vision."

Vets piece together past of fallen WWI soldier

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Who would have ever imagined that Scott Harrison Dunham's face would end up on the lapel of Novi City Council Member Joseph Toth's suit jacket?

Seventy-seven years later - and with our knowledge of his fate - the faded photo of the young man looks tragic. His image now adorns a campaign button, prepared by those who want to use the past to save the future of the Fuerst Farm in Novi.

Private Dunham, a dispatch runner, was just 10 days short of his 25th birthday when he became possibly the first and only Novi man to lose his life in combat during World War I. He is buried in northeast France, along with thousands of almost forgotten soldiers, near the village of Romagne-sous-Montfaucon in the Argonne American Cemetery.

Unlike Northville's first doughboy to fall on the battlefield - Lloyd H. Green, who has an American Legion Post as a namesake - Dunham's memory has languished.

Today, two veterans of another generation, Duane Bell and Robert Pohlman, are busy digging up Dunham's past.

At a recent Novi City Council meeting, Novi Historical Society president and Preservation Novi board member Kathy Mutch presented the campaign button to Toth, a former Marine. Fuerst Farm supporters contend that Dunham adds a citywide historic significance to the property.

Dunham's family owned the farm immediately before the Fuersts. Their home was torn down to the foundation to make way for the existing house.

Pohlman and Bell, founders of the Novi Veterans Alliance, pulled Diana Calvin, a Veterans Counselor Supervisor at the Veterans Services Division of Oakland County into the quest.

Since March, the three have gone from just knowing the soldier's last name to drawing up the outline of his life.

While Calvin, a Novi resident, researches veterans' records as part of her job, this was one of the few times she's dealt with gathering data on a World War I soldier - although she has helped a World War I widow find her way through veterans' services.

"It's kind of neat, trying to put those pieces together," Calvin said. At least six men from the Northville and Novi area perished in the European conflict.

The first Novi doughboy to die apparently was Joseph Yerkes, 27, who was laid low by pneumonia on March 13, 1918. The Northville Record announced his end with the line, "The stern reality of World War has come home to Northville," and described Yerkes as "as a quiet, homeloving young man." He was a member of Company B, 126th Infantry of the Allied Expeditionary Force.

Dunham was born in Novi in October 1893. His parents James and Minnie Dunham were farmers who came from Ypsilanti, the research report prepared by Bell and Pohlman says.

He entered the army on September 20, 1917, at Camp Custer, Mich., and was assigned to Company H, 126 Infantry Battalion, 32nd Division, the Red Arrow Division. He was eventually assigned to Battalion Headquarters as a runner.

Dunham was hit on Oct. 15, 1918, while carrying dispatches. He was part of the Allied push in the Meuse-Argonne region.

News of his demise didn't make the front page of The Northville Record until Dec. 6, when Dunham's picture ran with the caption: "Another Northville soldier boy is reported killed in action."

Bone marrow drive is this weekend

A Red Cross Donor Drive is scheduled for June 3 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Northville in an attempt to locate a bone marrow donor for Ron Mastej, who was diagnosed with leukemia in March.

"It turned up in the routine blood test in late February and then was confirmed later when they did the bone marrow biopsy," the 53-year-old St. James parishioner said.

"I knew what they were testing for when I saw the counts keep going up," the father of two daughters said. "It was a question of which kind of leukemia."

Mastej was diagnosed with chronic myelogenous leukemia (CML).

"The transplant is the only cure offered right now and 50 to 60 percent of the people who have a bone marrow transplant are cured," he said.

The initial test for donors is a simple matter of drawing blood. The names of volunteers whose marrow is not found to match Mastej's will be entered in the registry of the National Marrow Donor Program for others awaiting transplants. Volunteers must be between the ages of 18 and 55 and in good health.

First United Methodist Church is located at 777 West Eight Mile Road. For further information, call Bonnie St. Thomas 349-4091.

Chess club members bring home the trophies

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

For one hour each week, a group of boys and girls have been meeting at Winchester Elementary School learning strategies and developing concentration.

As members of Winchester Elementary School's first Chess Club they have just wrapped up a successful year.

When the Poenisch family moved to Northville a year ago from Dearborn, their son, Kevin, who entered second grade at Winchester Elementary School last fall, found there was no chess club. He had previously been a member of a wonderful chess club at Henry Ford Elementary School.

Volker Poenisch, a computer engineer with Ford Motor Co., who had played chess all his life but had never coached, decided to find out if there was any interest in a chess club at his son's school.

Twenty-five students signed up for the club, and 10 to 15 have become hard core players, meeting in the art room every week for one hour.

"The club was meant for elementary school but we had a few older children, which was fine," said Poenisch. "We encouraged siblings to come from other schools too."

During their first year, five children went to the state tournament.

Kevin competed this year at the State Championship and was named best second grader in the state and second overall in the K-3 category.

Paul Rabahy, a first time chess club member, took third place among first graders at the Michigan State level in Flint recently. In the K-3 category, he took third place among the first graders.

Paul's dad, David Rabahy, the "self-appointed assistant coach" who himself competed when he was 13-years-old, began teaching his son to play chess when he was about four.

"Paul loves every kind of game," said Rabahy, a Northville resident since 1989. Paul's first competition was the 7th Annual Wayne County Chess Tournament in Allen Park where he placed first among the first graders.

"I personally think there are benefits in concentration and accuracy," Poenisch said of chess. "They learn general sportsmanship similar to baseball and learn to compete but not be overly competitive."

A typical one hour meeting involves individualized teaching because there are different levels of play, from good players to beginners.

The more experienced players help the beginners. Players who learn a move one week will teach it to someone else the following week.

"They are very eager teachers," Poenisch said.

"One of the best ways to learn chess is to play," Rabahy said.

Monthly meetings also include drills, where the players can practice getting checkmate, and free-form tournaments allowing everyone a chance to play.

"Children like it best if you are as formal as possible," Poenisch said. "They want to have the feeling that they are in a real competition and taken seriously."

"Fun is in the foreground and not achievement," Poenisch said.

"Chess exercises their self discipline in concentrating and making a plan," Rabahy said.

"The better players are an inspiration to the other kids," Rabahy added. "One will learn some moves such as pinning a man's piece and will try to share that with the other kids."

"In chess the girls go head to head with the boys."

"We are very thankful to Winchester Elementary School for being supportive and putting our meeting notices in the newsletter and making a room available," Poenisch said.

"We hope to compete as a team next year," he added.

There are a number of scholastic competitions, as well as state competitions which are well organized by volunteers Peter Nixon, president of the Michigan Chess Association, and Tim Sawmiller, founder of the Novi Chess Club.

Back...with a vengeance

Bruce Willis returns with another 'Die Hard' adventure

On the streets of New York, police officer John McClane has just about seen it all. He's got a nose for danger, a penchant for being in the wrong place at the wrong time and a talent for overcoming incredible odds.

But this time, danger is looking for him.

Seeking a very personal and mysterious revenge against McClane, a malevolent genius named Simon is forcing the heroic cop to play a deadly game.

The stakes — New York City itself.

The game begins when a phone call from Simon sends McClane to Harlem where he unexpectedly forms an alliance with the very unwilling Zeus Carver. McClane and Zeus soon find themselves careening across The Big Apple, pursuing the deadly Simon, who's always one step ahead of them.

In the past, McClane has had his share of bad days. But on this blisteringly hot summer day in the city, Simon says John McClane is about to have a really bad day.

"Die Hard With a Vengeance" marks the re-teaming of Bruce Willis and director, John McTiernan, whose collaboration on "Die Hard" resulted in a film which has become a benchmark for cinematic action and adventure.

According to Willis, McTiernan created a whole new genre with the original "Die Hard." "He set a mold with the first film that probably eight or 10 films in the last five years have knocked off and have done very well," said Willis. "It's the same formula that John (McTiernan) created."

Not wanting to repeat the now-familiar genre elements which sprung from "Die Hard," Willis and McTiernan found the freshness they were looking for in an original script by Jonathan Hensleigh titled "Simon Says." The story was about a white New York City cop who, in a game of Simon Says, is ordered to go to Harlem by a psychopathic criminal. There, the cop meets an African-American named Zeus Carver who aids him in his battle against the madman.

When he read Hensleigh's screenplay for "Simon Says," McTiernan realized that the story's New York City cop could easily become John McClane of "Die Hard." After rejecting several earlier scripts which would have brought John McClane back, McTiernan and Willis discovered that the story had all the elements to entice them to return for another "Die Hard."

They were particularly intrigued by the script's clever solution to the challenge of creating an exciting and new "Die Hard" adventure. "What I liked about the story," said McTiernan, "was that it was entirely different and fresh. It fulfills the genre requirements of 'Die Hard' stories while standing them on their heads."

Willis and McTiernan were particularly intrigued by Hensleigh's clever solution to the challenge of finding a new and different "Die Hard."

In the new movie, McClane no longer stumbles into a do-or-die situation; it comes looking for him.

In transforming "Simon Says" to "Die Hard With a Vengeance," McTiernan, Willis and Hensleigh made significant changes to the original story and to some familiar "Die Hard" situations. For example, McClane's wife is not put into peril as she had been in the previous "Die Hard" films, but is instead an off-screen presence; McClane is feeling the pains of their separation. "We tried to make the emotional stakes between two very disparate characters — McClane and Zeus — and make that more the emotional core of the movie," said Hensleigh.

The casting of the key role of Zeus marked another re-teaming for Willis. Samuel L. Jackson, who starred in "Pulp Fiction," with Willis portrays the man who unwillingly, yet brilliantly, helps McClane in his battle against Simon. Zeus and McClane, each with his own brand of street smarts, are forced to play the criminal's deadly games.

With all the variations that McTiernan, Hensleigh and the film's cast and crew brought a to "Die Hard," the main constant and key to the popularity of the films is Bruce Willis' tough and wisecracking New York City cop, John McClane.

"I've made the choice of playing him as a guy who doesn't want to be doing what he has to do in these films," said Willis. "I think the interesting thing is that McClane is in situations where he has absolutely no other choice but to do the things he has to do — jump off a building, swing in the window on a hose, jump on the wing of an airplane, jump onto a train that he knows is about to explode."

Yet McClane is one of the real film heroes of the eighties and nineties, a policeman with a sense of duty to the public. "What heroes in films do is protect innocent people and try to hold out the image that there are men out there who are watching over us and protecting us," said Willis.

Bruce Willis plays New York Police Detective John McClane.

"SUPERB. THE STARS SHINE THE WAY THE STARS ARE MEANT TO SHINE."

Meryl Streep gives a fierce, funny, shattering performance. Clint Eastwood is both daringly vulnerable and invincibly masculine. These incomparable pros demonstrate what chemistry is all about.

Casterline leads golfers to second place in WLAA

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Lindsey Casterline and Emily Baldwin are all-conference golfers.

The Mustang duo earned that honor Thursday at the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament at Braeburn golf course in Salem Township.

Casterline, a senior, was crowned conference champion as she shot a 94 — including a 45 on the front nine. Baldwin finished fifth in the league with a round of 105.

It was a good day for Northville all the way around. The Mustangs didn't win the title but came in a solid second.

Salem rocked the field with a 410 while Northville shot 420. Livonia Stevenson finished third at 423.

"I figured it would be between Salem, Stevenson and Northville," coach Trish Waldecker said.

As has been the case all season, the weather was downright nasty. A rain storm made conditions soggy to say the least.

"It just poured," Waldecker said. "But my team is a bunch of mudders."

Three other Mustangs earned honors at the tournament as well. Monica Prasad, Kiley Mills and Heather Nix made all division.

Prasad was ninth overall with a 107 and Mills was 14th at 114. Nix wound up 15th at 116

Northville was the defending champion of the league.

NORTHVILLE 219, WESTERN 263

The Mustangs closed the duel meet season May 23 at the Links of Pinewood in Walled Lake.

Northville went undefeated in the WLAA. Waldecker wanted to keep it that way, too.

"I told the girls, 'Let's go out on a high note,'" she said.

The Mustangs didn't disappoint.

Casterline shot a 52, Baldwin a 54 and Nix a 55. Prasad also shot a 58.

Northville closed at 7-0 in the conference and 11-1 overall.

That success should come as no surprise. Northville has won league championships in 1993 and 1994. Western Division championships were won in 1992, '93, '94 and this season.

"I had a great group of kids," Waldecker said. The Mustangs' lineup was strong from top to bottom. Waldecker said when one player had an off round someone always picked up the slack.

"We didn't depend on one or two kids," she said. "It was a great season. We had hard workers that put it together when they had to."

Mustangs' Rice lands with MSU

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Jason Rice symbolizes everything that's still good about baseball.

The Northville High senior doesn't complain, doesn't whine and doesn't make life difficult for his teammates or coaches. What he does do is lead by example, play hard and play well.

So well, in fact, that Michigan State University has awarded him an athletic scholarship. The captain of the Mustangs will don Spartan green and white next spring.

"I'm thrilled about it," he said. "I love playing baseball."

Rice signed with MSU a few weeks ago. According to Mustang coach Mickey Newman, it's quite an accomplishment for his player.

"An athletic scholarship to a major university is very rare," he said. "I don't think a Northville kid has ever got one to Michigan State."

Universities generally do most of their recruiting in warm weather states. Players get a chance to compete more and become more polished in the sun belt.

Even then, Newman said, colleges don't usually give money to position players such as Rice.

"Pitchers usually get (scholarships)," he added.

The East Lansing school wasn't the only one that wanted Rice, who catches, plays third and the outfield.

"I heard from just about every school in the state," Rice said.

His choice came down to several factors.

Rice said he liked the MSU campus and its proximity to home. But in the end it came down to feeling wanted.

"I like the coaches the best," he added, "and they expressed the most interest right away."

Michigan State started sending letters to Rice last season. Newman said the Spartans stepped up their efforts this spring. "They came to a lot of our games," he said.

There's a good reason why MSU wanted the two-time all-conference star so badly — he's one heck of a player.

The 5-foot 10-inch 190-pounder has all the tools. Rice is blessed with good speed, power and a "major league" arm, Newman said.

"He's not the fastest runner on our team," the coach added. "But he's an excellent base-stealer and is a very smart base runner."

Stats back up the coach's comments.

Rice leads the Mustangs with 26 stolen bases. He's also compiled a .462 batting average, a home run, six doubles, 21 runs batted in and scored 16 times.

Not bad for a guy who's been ill all spring. Rice has had pneumonia, strep throat and mononucleosis.

"I've been playing sick all year," he said.

Rice's versatility also makes him valuable on the diamond.

For Northville, he's played mainly at catcher and third base. But because of his throwing arm, Newman said the Spartans will likely make him an outfielder.

"I still feel his best position is catcher," he commented.

"I can play just about anywhere," Rice said.

Away from the field, he'll major in business. Rice said he isn't exactly sure what he wants to do at this point.

He hopes professional baseball is in his future.

"If it does come I'll go for it," Rice said.

As for this summer, he's hoping to get healthy and continue to work on his baseball skills. Rice will play in a collegiate league with players 19-years and older.

"It should be great competition," he said. "I'm really looking forward to it."

"It's a different year."

That's what someone remarked after Northville High's 3-1 loss to Novi May 24 in the district semi-final. A season after making it to the state semi-final, the Mustangs couldn't survive their second play-off game.

"It was kind of disappointing," Northville coach Doug Lyon said. "But you've got to give them credit. They have good talent. They're an up and coming program."

Novi went on to win the district title after beating Milford 1-0 in the final.

Last week's second round match up was a story of two halves.

The Wildcats carried play for much of the first 40 minutes. Novi played opportunistic soccer and got all three of its goals in the half.

Northville dominated the second half. But the Mustangs were unable to score when they needed to.

"We had so many opportunities in the second half," Lyon said. "I think if we could've got that second goal they would've come apart."

But it wasn't to be. Balls bounced off of goal posts and sailed wide when they needed to be on target.

"It's frustrating to lose," said Lyon.

Novi was on target in the early stages of the game.

With just about seven minutes gone by, the Wildcats were awarded a penalty kick. Erin Vogel sent the shot toward the left side of the Northville net, but it bounced off the post.

A scramble then ensued. Novi's Nicki Borashko collected the loose ball and kicked past Jessica Jones to make the score 1-0 at the 32:47 mark.

Northville tried to retaliate. But rushes down the field were broken up by Novi defenders playing near midfield. The Wildcats' Becky Pylar stopped a potentially dangerous rush with about 13 minutes gone by.

The squads took turns making offensive rushes midway through the half.

Northville's Katie Kohl kicked one just over the Novi net at the 20:26 mark. The Mustangs carried the play for most of the next 10 minutes.

The Wildcats then capitalized. With Northville unable to score, Vogel hit Lydia Raburn with a pass.

The Mustangs recovered deep in their zone. After kicking the ball out of bounds, Novi got possession.

Borashko tossed a long throw-in at the Mustang net. Teammate Jessica Kenny made a perfect header to beat Jones and make the score 2-0 at 12:50.

"We weren't clearing the middle," Lyon said.

Novi made it 3-0 about five minutes later.

Officials called Northville for interference in the penalty zone. Novi got an indirect kick and Kenny scored her second goal.

The Wildcats nearly made it 4-0 with 4:13 to go. Jones attempted to clear the ball with a kick from the Northville net.

But Novi blocked the kick and then booted it just wide of the empty net. The half ended with the Wildcats up 3-0. Northville turned up its play a big notch in the second half.

The Mustangs kept the ball in Novi's end for much of the first five minutes. Finally with 34:39 remaining, Kristin Baja made a perfect shot to beat Lisa Antuna.

Coming up the right wing, the sophomore sent a hard shot across the field. The ball landed just inside of the left post and went in to make it 3-1.

"Things settled down after half-time," Lyon said.

Katie Kohl (top) was stunned after hitting her head on the ground against Novi last week. Heather Huizing and Kristin Baja (below) console each other after the game.

Softballers drop 3 at Novi tournament

When you're having the kind of season the Mustang softball team is having, it's hard to catch a break.

Take Saturday's Novi Tournament. Northville played its best game of the day against Adrian.

The Mustangs took them to extra innings, in fact, but Adrian won the ballgame, 6-4.

"We played a good game," coach Frank Friemund said. "The first two games we were kind of stinky. But we hit, we fielded and we pitched well in this game."

A total of 20 schools battled it out Saturday at Novi. Kensington Valley Conference power Hartland won the tournament and didn't allow a run in the process.

Northville dropped its first two games then met Adrian in the last round.

Michelle Menghini made a rare start on the mound for Northville and pitched well. She pitched the first four innings and allowed three Maples runs.

Adrian scored twice in the second inning. Northville countered with two of their own in the frame.

Mandy Sabo singled to lead things off. Kelly Riechard then drew a walk to put runners on first and second.

Ashley Ossola, who was called up from junior varsity for the tournament, followed with a single to knock in Sabo. Gina Chiasson then delivered the tying run with a double.

Salem regained the lead in the fourth with a run. It stayed that way until the seventh.

Jenny Sheehan, Northville's catcher, singled home a run to tie the game at three and send it into extra innings.

The teams played the international tie-breaking rules. That means each team started its half of the inning with a runner at second base.

Salem loaded the bases off of reliever Andrea Moretti. With one out, Northville snagged a Salem line drive. The Mustangs then went for a double play, but the ball went into the outfield and three runners scored.

Northville got one back in its half of the eighth inning.

The loss ended the regular season for the Mustangs (3-20). Northville was to open the state tournament Tuesday against Novi in a pre-district matchup.

As for the remainder of the Novi tournament, Northville opened with Bloomfield Hills Marian and lost 12-0 in five innings.

The Mustangs made five errors, allowed five hits and walked six in the first three innings as Marian ran away. Northville had two hits, singles by Sarah Roth and Ossola.

Game two was an 11-1 loss to Salem.

Defense again hurt Northville. The Mustangs made four errors.

"Good teams can play over mistakes," Friemund said. "But when you get one run in two games every mistake kills you."

Petrosky was the lone bright spot against Salem. She had two of Northville's three hits and also drew a walk.

In years past, Northville's Rouge River clean up has drawn the help of residents like Jeremy Johnson.

Rouge River clean up this Saturday

By YVONNE BEEBE
Staff Writer

This Saturday Northville residents have an opportunity to help put a brighter, cleaner face on the portion of the Rouge River that flows through the community.

The Northville Community Center is organizing efforts to participate with at least 10 other cities in Oakland and western Wayne counties in the 10th annual Rouge River Rescue. Other cities involved include Novi, Melvindale, Dearborn, Detroit and Farmington Hills.

The clean-up initiative will take place from 8-11 a.m. this Saturday rain or shine. Community-minded residents who would like to help should meet in the parking lot of the former Ford Valve Plant, located at the corner of Main Street and Griswold, at 8 a.m.

Northville residents have participated in clean-up efforts almost every year since the initiative began back in 1986. The Rouge coils through a large portion of the community, most notably behind Parmenter Cider Mill off Baseline Road, near Mill Pond and behind Ford Field and the former Ford Valve Plant.

Each year, Community Center officials designate areas that are in dire need of help. Efforts have included picking up trash, bank establishment, planting trees and bushes to diminish erosion and clearing away brush.

The new city park, located east of the former Ford Valve Plant, the current home of R&D Enterprises, is this year's clean-up concentration area.

Recreation Department Director Traci Johnson said efforts to clear away accumulated brush, clear up log jams in the river and trim overgrown tree limbs will be the focus of Saturday's efforts.

Volunteers need not register in advance but must sign-up in the Ford plant parking lot at 8 a.m. Johnson recommends volunteers wear long-sleeved shirts, long pants, work gloves and heavy-duty boots. Also volunteers must sign a waiver identifying the risks of the river, which is known to pose possible health problems due to contamination.

Children under 12 must be accompanied by a parent.

In the past Northville has had as many as 80 volunteers come out to help, Johnson said. If at least that many people show up this weekend, a second team will be formed to concentrate on the portion of the river behind Ford Field, she said.

Past efforts by Northville volunteers have helped make vast improvements in the river, Johnson said.

"We've hauled out old cars and there was a pig found once - just incredible things," she said.

Cold, canker sores affect large population

Dr. Kathryn
Hoppe, D.D.S.

Cold sores (herpes simplex) and canker sores are common oral disorders that affect 20 percent to 40 percent of the population. Most are painful and recurrent and last about eight to 14 days. The ulcerations are superficial and occur inside the mouth or on or near the lips.

Cold and canker sores erupt as a result of trigger mechanisms, meaning something triggers or brings them about. These triggers may include: sunburn, emotional stress, systemic illness, allergic factors, fever, menstrual cycles, immunosuppressive therapy, cancer chemotherapy or trauma from some dental procedures.

Just pulling a patient's cheek out to clean the teeth may activate a cold or canker sore. Both disorders can be activated year-round and are not associated with the seasons.

There is no known cure for cold and canker sores. We are only able to treat the symptoms, not cure the disease. Because the sores are triggered by a variety of things, it is hard to prevent and control them. There are, however, a number of creams, solutions and ointments that can be used to alleviate the symptoms. Some may be purchased over the counter, while others require a physician's or dentist's prescription.

For canker sores, some prescription medications include antibiotics, while for cold sores corticosteroids or antiviral medications can be prescribed.

When you find a treatment that works for you, it's probably a good idea to stick with it. What works for one person may not work for the next.

For example, when I get a cold sore, I find the best treatment is to do nothing. I have tried the whole gamut of things and doing absolutely nothing works for me. But, my brother insists the best treatment for his cold sores is a prescription of Zovirax ointment (from the pharmacist only).

Cold sores are caused by viruses, not bacteria (which are the cause of canker sores). They may occur on the lips or in the mouth. In either location, the lesions are often preceded by a burning sensation along with a feeling of tightness, swelling or a slight soreness at the site where the sore will develop.

The cold sore develops into vesicles or fluid-filled sacs. These sacs are generally small (one millimeter or less in diameter) and tend to occur in clusters, forming a larger lesion. These gray or white vesicles rupture quickly, leaving a small red ulcer area.

On the lips, the ruptured vesicles or sacs become covered with a brownish crust. The degree of pain one may experience varies. The sores or lesions heal without leaving a scar.

Canker sores are only found inside the mouth, most commonly on the cheeks or under the tongue. They are characterized by painful single or multiple ulcerations covered by a gray membrane and surrounded by a red halo.

A person may experience anywhere from one to 100 canker sores in the mouth at one time. More than 90 percent of people with canker sores, however, will have six lesions or fewer during a single outbreak. The lesions will vary from two or three millimeters to 10 millimeters in diameter. Interestingly, women get canker sores more often than men.

Kathryn Hoppe, D.D.S., has a dental practice in the Novi Professional Village, 23985 Novi Road, Suite B103. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell on staff at the U-M Health Centers.

Some advice on second mortgages

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Planning a summer vacation often spawns thoughts of owning a second or vacation home — which could be a good and timely investment.

Financing is readily available for purchasing a second home. Mortgage interest payments and property taxes are still deductible on income tax returns. But that may change if proposed legislation is passed.

"The demand for second homes is now picking up after this market niche virtually dried up for a three-year period," said Bob Krakover, broker-owner of a brokerage firm that specializes in the sale of beach-front second homes.

If mortgage financing is for a second home, the required down payment might be a bit more than 10 percent, but the interest rate for qualified borrowers will probably be the same as loans set up for a primary residence. In some areas, it will be higher.

Lenders normally require borrowers to qualify for the combined mortgages for the primary and second home. Typically, the borrower's total housing expenditures cannot exceed 28 percent of income. And total financial obligations must be 36 percent of income or less. Requirements vary from lender to lender, so shop

HOME DESIGNS

American Beauty has popular modern features

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

A homey country facade and a contemporary interior include all of the features most popular with modern home buyers. It's the American Beauty.

With two bedrooms and a bathroom upstairs, this charming full-sized home is equally well-adapted to a family with older children, or empty nesters who wish to have space to accommodate grandchildren and to entertain without feeling cramped.

If built over an optional full basement, there are numerous possibilities for expanding storage and living spaces.

Stepping into the vaulted entryway, the first impression is one of elegance. This area, and the formal living room, are vaulted to the second floor. In fact, the landing at the top of the curving stairway overlooks the living room.

An impression of spaciousness expands throughout the home as you step through to the kitchen, a bright, open area any cook will find enjoyable. A bay window in the nook enhances the routine morning breakfast. With a built-in desk this area will be well-used throughout the day. Whole families of cooks can work together in this area, without bumping elbows, while participating in family happenings in the adjacent family room. The walk-in pantry will hold more than enough supplies for the holidays. In addition, there also are plenty of cupboards.

This design makes excellent use of interesting angles and spaces. A hutch is tucked into an angle in the dining room, a fireplace in another in the family room, and a small half-bath is conveniently close to everything.

The master suite, graced with a large walk-in closet and French doors leading to the outside, also is equipped with a spa tub and a shower, both brightened by glass blocks. A sliding door provides privacy and steam containment for the shower and toilet. Double sinks are outside this area, convenient for the couple on the go.

For people who work at home, this design includes an office roomy enough to include multiple bookshelves and a wide desk.

The utility room has all the amenities: laundry sink, appliances, and a window that looks out at the front porch. The two-car garage includes extra space for a workbench and/or storage space.

For a study plan of the American Beauty (401-18), send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

A NEW LIFE for an OLD QUEEN

A building can change foundations, but it can never change its roots.

And that is true of a Methodist parsonage in Northville. Originally believed to have been built in 1890 as the parsonage for the Methodist Church at Center and Dunlap, the building was scheduled for demolition in the mid-'70s to make way for a parking lot. It received a second chance at life when it was moved to its current site on Franklin Road in 1976.

In came Kathryn Peltier and Richard Ambrose, who bought the century-old Queen Anne style home about 15 years ago.

The previous owners, under whose careful eyes the home was placed on its new foundation on Franklin Street, had updated the house after it was moved. They took it down to the studs and replaced all the systems.

"It's like an old, brand new house as far as the systems go," Peltier said.

They also did a 1970s renovation of the kitchen and bathrooms. But Peltier and Ambrose had something else in mind for those rooms that would be more in keeping with the style of the rest of the home and began the renovation on the kitchen about a year ago.

The first consideration was to return it to its Queen Anne style charm.

The story about the renovation is a featured story in Better Homes and Gardens Kitchen and Bath Ideas, Spring 1995 issue.

The couple decided to tackle most of the year-long project themselves with the help of carpenter Don Hansen of Northville and furniture and cabinet maker Michael Camp of Plymouth.

Ambrose, a podiatrist, worked side by side with Hansen shingling, sawing and hammering.

Peltier and Ambrose wanted an area that was bright and open, not the long, narrow dimly lit kitchen which was ill suited for their '90s lifestyle.

Remodeling the kitchen in their century-old Queen Ann style home from a narrow dimly-lit room into a bright open space took Kathy Peltier, above, and her husband Richard Ambrose about a year.

Secret to growing bountiful vegetables

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

Have you ever wondered how to grow big, hearty tomatoes, luscious eggplant or pungent onions? With proper planning, it's now easier than you might think.

The vegetable garden of the '90s is vastly different than that of past generations. Gone are the days of repeated watering and fertilizing to grow meager vegetables; here are the days of using drip irrigation and fertilizing season-long to create a big, bountiful harvest.

To get your garden started right, choose a planting site that receives at least six to eight hours of sunlight a day. Equally important is soil that drains well and is full of organic matter.

If the garden site is deficient in organic matter, nurture it by applying 3 to 6 inches of peat moss or compost over the existing soil. Then, till or spade all materials to a depth of 8 to 12 inches.

Vegetables come in all sorts of varieties. Some will grow better in sun than in shade. Others grow better in the Northern part of the country than they do in the South, West or East.

Do you want large vegetables or are you interested in growing miniature vegetables? Will you be starting from seed or with a seedling? If you've chosen a vegetable plant that spreads, do you have enough room for it to do so without choking off the other vegetables in your garden? These are all important thoughts to consider when contemplating what you will grow and where.

Before going any further be sure to do some research and consider contacting your local county extension service agent for advice. They're just waiting to hear from you.

Then, select the vegetables for your garden. Nurseries and garden centers stock a wide variety of seedlings that can be placed directly into the garden soil. Set seedlings just slightly deeper than they were in their original container.

If you choose to grow vegetables from seed, ask a garden center representative to recommend planting depths Growing bountiful vegetables...

■ Choose a planting site that receives six to eight hours of sunlight per day.

■ Soil rich in organic matter is a must. Mix in 3 to 6 inches of compost or peat moss if the soil is lacking.

■ Be sure the soil is worked to a depth of 8 to 12 inches.

■ Do you have the right varieties to grow well in your area? Seek advice from your county extension service.

■ Are plants properly spaced in your garden? Should you start from seeds? Garden centers or seed packets may provide the answers.

Second mortgages; real estate firms go high-tech

Second home mortgage interest is deductible if the combined total of mortgages does not exceed $1.1 million. There's no cap on deducting real estate taxes.

Currently proposed legislation would out that maximum combined mortgage amount down to $250,000 to fully deduct the interest payments. State and national Realtor associations are actively fighting that proposal. If enacted, it could remove a key incentive for buying a second home.

A negative factor in owning a second home is related to capital gains (profit) on the sale of the property. It is immediately taxable. It cannot be deferred, as it can with a primary residence.

Also, insurance coverage for a second home is usually more expensive than a policy covering a primary residence. However, an owner can lower those premiums by installing fire and burglar alarms, selecting a home in a gated development, showing proof that the local fire department has access to a stream or other natural water source, and other steps that can minimize risks and activate a premium discount.

Some insurance companies offer "umbrella coverage" on several homes and cars, all covered under one policy with an overall discounted premium.

Many second-home owners rent their property to others during periods they're not using it. If the home is rented for fewer than 15 days per year, it's considered a personal residence by the IRS.

If the owner spends no more than 14 days in the vacation home each year or less than 10 percent of days for which the property is rented, the IRS considers it rental property. In that case, all rental income must be reported. But operating expenses, such as utilities and insurance, can be deducted for the portion of days used by renters.

Renting the property is a way to recoup some of the cost of ownership. But most people don't buy a second home for financial advantage. They buy it to enjoy, and enhance their family's lifestyle.

"I particularly like selling second homes because the buyers tend to be more sophisticated than most buyers of primary homes," Krakover said. "You're usually dealing with affluent people, and the transaction is more apt to be problem-free."

Q. Are newly developed high-tech communications making it possible for real estate firms to handle more international transactions?

A. Definitely. Real estate professionals are pushing back the horizons of their marketing arena. In the past they focused on their local or regional marketplace — or in some cases, the national real estate market.

Today, progressive real estate leaders are looking at a worldwide market. Computer telecommunications, access to the rapidly growing Internet and other high-tech advancements are opening doors to international transactions.

A major move was recently announced by Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service, a national broker network including about 700 brokerage firms and 1,400 offices.

This group recently became an international network with plans to begin operations in Japan. The network will soon involve a major Japanese real estate company that will become the master license operator and nucleus for expanding business activities in Japan, according to Allen Sabbag, president of Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service.

The Better Homes and Gardens franchise, owned by Meredith Corp., has been studying the growing potential of international expansion for the past two years.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Secrets of the bountiful vegetable garden; Growing sunflowers for each type of seed; directions are on all seed packets. Also, be sure to place each plant or seed 8 to 10 inches or more apart to allow for room to grow.

Whether you start from seedlings or from scratch, remember to read the directions, and always choose plants that grow best in your area.

Q. I have tried growing sunflowers this spring, but cannot seem to get many of the seeds to germinate, and the ones that do, the plants and flower heads are tiny and have few seeds. What's my problem?

A. Competition from weeds, or among the seedlings, could have reduced the size of your plantings. Rodents may have dug up the seed before it had a chance to germinate. Your best bet is to thin out the seedlings at planting time and select only the strongest-looking ones and space them about 18 inches apart.

If your soil was too dry between flowering and maturity, that could explain the small flower head size. Small heads may also be the result of planting seeds too late in the season. Most sunflower varieties need approximately 100 to 110 days to mature.

To get a jump on the season, I suggest starting seeds indoors and transplanting seedlings into the garden two weeks after the last frost date in your area. If you are growing hybrids and saving the seeds, your plants may be small since hybrids will not reliably reproduce, or because your plants are crossing with wild species.

Finally, poor pollination could be the culprit. It can decrease seed production. Heavy rain may be washing pollen from your flowers or you may not have enough pollinating insects in your garden. The latter would be an unusual situation but it could occur if you are using chemicals for spraying purposes.

Chemicals are poison, never use them! Instead, use an insecticidal soap spray. Please read the label carefully on the container and follow directions accordingly.

Q. I've read there is no difference between a seed-started geranium and one taken from cuttings. Nevertheless, I do know from experience that seed strains shatter badly and do not make good houseplants. The plants grown from cuttings are better. What do you think?

A. Geraniums from seed offer beautiful brilliant colors, but when the heads begin to fade, the blossoms shatter and make a terrible mess indoors. Spent blooms can't be removed without a shower of florets falling everywhere.

Geraniums from seed are perfect for planting in a bed or flower containers outdoors. They are, of course, less expensive, put on a fabulous show and the wind blows away the messy florets.

Geraniums started from cuttings are the result of years of hybridization, having been chosen for their many characteristics, including their ability not to scatter, and faded flowers can be nipped off indoors without triggering an avalanche of petals. Besides, the flower heads remain pretty longer than the seed strains.

Geraniums grown from seed are a more recent development and were selected for their ability to produce identical, sturdy plants from seed in record time. Whether the flowers shatter or not was never a factor. As a result, they are not shatter resistant.

This difference is in the genetic background of the plant. Even if you start a cutting of a seed geranium, the flower will still shatter since the cutting is absolutely identical to the parent plant.

Q. A local riding stable gives away manure for the hauling. How can it be used in the garden?

A. Although manure is a valuable soil amendment when composted, most riding stables spray their stalls with disinfectants, fly repellants and other toxic chemicals — all toxic to plants.

This is where common sense comes in. Unless the manure comes from your own stable, and you know it is uncontaminated with toxic chemicals, please be careful.

DISCOVER THE PRUDENTIAL ADVANTAGE!

Check for lead before refinishing that old furniture

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I have recently taken to refinishing furniture for our new home. I have found some wonderful items at garage sales and through newspaper ads.

My neighbor has cautioned me about stripping previously painted furniture, because often older furniture will have paint that contains lead. Is this true and is it a health problem?

A. Your neighbor is wise to caution you. Some paint manufacturers still used lead as late as 1978, the year the federal government banned its use in paint. As a precaution, it is wise to test any used piece of painted furniture before you proceed with refinishing.

The test is easy and inexpensive. Lead Check Swabs, usually packaged in two- or four-swab packs, are found in home centers and hardware stores. Rub the tip of the swab on the existing paint. If the tip turns pink, the paint contains lead. Be sure and read the manufacturer's directions, which include instructions on how you can test further for any false readings.

Furniture with lead-based paint can still be stripped and refinished. However, you'll need to take some safety precautions, which include wearing an approved breathing device, eye protection and old clothing that can be discarded when the project is completed.

If you have trouble finding Lead Check Swabs, write the manufacturer, Lead Check, P.O. Box 1210, Framingham, Mass. 01701, or (800) 262-5323.

Q. I have a large, heavy mirror that I hung on the wall above my bed. One day I returned home to find that it had fallen off the wall (fortunately, I was not in bed). The wall brackets on which

HOW-TO

It was hung were pulled out of the wall.

I want to rehang this mirror. This time I want to make sure that it is safely secured. The wall is drywall construction. Can you advise me on how to safely anchor it so this accident will not be repeated?

A. The wall fasteners need to be secured to the studs or beams in the wall to sustain the weight of heavier pictures and mirrors.

Start by marking off the spot where you wish to hang the mirror. Take a piece of plywood that measures inch by 12 inches deep. The horizontal length of this piece should be 3 to 4 inches shorter than the horizontal dimension of the frame to be hung.

Center the plywood over the spot where you have decided the hanging brackets should be positioned. Drive one nail (1 inches with head) diagonally through the center of the plywood piece and into the wall. Position a level on top of the plywood strip and adjust to make sure that the plywood piece is level. Then secure it to the wall with several more nails.

Once this piece is secure, you can begin the process of finding the location of wall studs behind the plywood strip. Starting from the right, under the plywood, drive a nail into the wall. If you feel the nail sink into wood, you know you've located the stud. If this is the case, make a straight line (use a T-square or level) upward onto the face of the plywood. If you have missed the stud, nail into the wall one inch to the left of the previous hole. Repeat until a stud is located.

Once a stud is located, measure 16 inches to the left and drive in another nail. It, too should be embedded in a stud (most studs are located 16 inches apart, but some vary 14 to 18 inches apart). Again measure upward, marking a straight line on the face of the plywood strip. If the piece you are hanging is 40 to 45 inches horizontally, you may want to locate a third stud by continuing the process of measuring to the left and nailing into another stud.

As a guide, use the vertical lines you have placed on the plywood strip, and drive nails through the plywood into the studs. Next, using two 1-inch wood screws, mark off two locations for these screws that will carry the weight of the picture frame or mirror.

Spacing of these screws will depend on how your particular frame must be hung. Some frames hang on a wire, others by hooks. Drive the screws into the appropriate place. You now have a secure foundation, and can safely hang a heavy picture or mirror.

Northville home keeps its roots as it gets new lease on life

The first move was to add about 90 square feet to the kitchen which added a western and a southern exposure to the work core area. Resizing the adjoining mudroom contributed the extra space needed for the kitchen while the addition of a smaller mudroom provides an indispensable catchall for coats, boots and recyclables.

The existing seven-foot ceiling, which was covered with acoustical tiles, was torn out after a new roof was in place revealing the new skylights and raised ceiling.

The custom-made cabinets are outfitted to meet every conceivable storage need. Pullout appliance garages, floor-to-ceiling cabinets, even a low drawer that stores the cat's food and water with open shelves above, one for the cat's bed.

Wanting something light but not stark, Peltier, a commercial interior designer, chose cream as the main color with moss green as the secondary color. The countertops are dark green laminate with etched-glass backsplashes. Peltier splurged on granite for the island and bar top surfaces in a similar shade.

Money saving areas were garage sale finds such as the kitchen chairs and light fixtures and the use of fabric remnants for valances and seat covers.

Creating a living space that combines today's lifestyle requirements with yesterday's architecture requires some planning.

Determining the home's architectural roots is foremost. The home's period details should be used in the addition to tie it to the rest of the home.

The best addition is one that blends in so well it is indistinguishable from the original home.

Stephanie Moretto displays the magnetic insoles that she says relieve stress and pain.

Malady leads Novi woman to new business venture

After reading a few books on the therapeutic use of magnets, Moretto learned that there was a lot of published information on the benefits of medical magnetism as a

Dennis Theodore's work was part of a five-person team to restore the ceiling of the Great Hall, and the Woodward Lobby to its original 1927 appearance. Theodore grew up in Brighton and attended Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids. At the DIA, Theodore worked as a subcontractor with EverGreene Painting Studios Inc. out of New York City. The studio opted to work with Theodore because of his background in faux finishes, gilding and glazes. Another major project he worked on in this area was to restore the ceiling of Rackham Auditorium at the University of Michigan.

MICHIGAN JOBS TEAM

Tax break given for domestic help

If you hire someone to care for your children, clean your home, or maintain your yard, you may have gotten a tax break from Uncle Sam.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants explains that Congress recently changed the nanny tax rules. The new law requires fewer people to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes on behalf of their household employees and simplifies the filing procedures for these taxes.

WAGE THRESHOLD

Previously, individuals who paid child-care workers and other domestic employees at least $50 in wages during any calendar quarter were required to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes on their earnings. In theory, this meant that if you paid a babysitter $150 a quarter (or $12.50 weekly) so you and your spouse could go out to dinner and a movie once a week, you were responsible for paying Social Security and Medicare taxes of 15.3 percent on your babysitter's earnings (or paying 7.65 percent and withholding the other half from your babysitter's pay).

Under the new law, you needn't pay Social Security and Medicare taxes on the earnings of any domestic employee, including a domestic farm employee, unless that pay totals at least $1,000 annually.

As a result, many people who hire occasional babysitters, handy-men or house cleaners no longer need to worry about the nanny tax. The $1,000 threshold will be indexed after 1995 for increases in average wages, but it will rise only in $100 increments.

The new law also eliminates the need to pay taxes on earnings of domestic employees who are under age 18, unless they work full-time as household help.

TAX REPORTING

Despite these changes, many people who retain full-time child-care providers or other domestic help are likely to find they are still responsible for paying the nanny tax. However, the rules affecting how and when you pay that tax have been changed to simplify procedures and minimize paperwork.

For example, you no longer need to make quarterly tax filings. Instead, through the 1997 tax year, you can report and pay your employees' taxes - including Social Security, Medicare and Federal Unemployment Tax (FUTA) - on your own Form 1040.

Beginning in 1998, employers can either increase their quarterly estimated tax payments or increase the taxes withheld from their own wages to cover their share of domestic employee Social Security tax.

ADDITIONAL TAX

Although you are not required to withhold income tax from your domestic employees' wages, you can do so at his or her request. If you decide to withhold, you must obtain Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate, from your employee.

As an employer, you also must give your domestic employees who earn at least $1,000 annually a Form W-2 by Feb. 1. Among other information, this form shows how much you paid them during the year and the amount of federal income taxes withheld.

Finally, the MACPA points out that when you hire someone to work in your home, you need an employer identification (ID) number. If this is the first time you've hired domestic help, don't worry about your employer ID. The IRS is developing procedures to assign one to you automatically the first time you file a required employer tax form.

Let a CPA do the talking - at no cost to you. The MACPA Speakers Bureau can match a club, civic group, educational organization, and/or chamber of commerce with a CPA speaker who is qualified to discuss a variety of tax, business and personal financial issues. Available statewide, our CPAs will speak on any of the topics listed below or will tailor their presentations to meet your group's specific needs.

Tax planning tips, tax-saving ideas, personal finances, careers in accounting, financing for small businesses, estate planning tips for individuals, controlling your credit, starting a business - the necessary accounting records included on the list of subjects CPAs can address.

Magnetic insoles relieve stress, pain healing force. For example, Kathy Birkner, CRNA, Ph.D. had been successfully using magnets therapeutically for nearly 10 years at the Pain and Stress Therapy Center in San Antonio, Texas.

Moretto read that people who use magnets as a healing tool often reported feeling warmth and reduced pain within minutes - the effect of increased local circulation created by the magnets.

"There was a good deal of evidence to convince me to at least try the insoles," said Moretto.

Within days, she claims to have felt more energized and rested.

"It was pretty amazing. I hadn't been able to get through a day without feeling a lot of discomfort and very fatigued. Now I can play golf everyday, not to mention put in a full day at the office."

It didn't take long for Moretto to apply the "Harvard Rule of Four" to the magnetic insoles she could no longer do without.

"I had found a product that everyone needed, very few people had, that was priced for profit, and definitely also priced to sell," she said.

Offered through Nikken, a Japanese corporation created by Isamu Masuda, Nikken's "Mag-step" insoles have helped the company grow into a $1.2 billion business that boasts over 30 million customers around the globe.

Along with Magsteps, Nikken offers complete sleep systems (magnetic-lined pillows, mattress pads and mattresses), as well as an assortment of magnets for direct placement on various parts of the body.

As an alternative to traditional methods of relieving discomfort and fatigue, biomagnetism is nothing new. In a recent article appearing in The Body Magnetic written by Dr. Buryl Payne, some specific factors involved in magnetic healing are: "increased blood flow leading to increased oxygen-carrying capacity, both of which are basic to helping the body heal itself, and changes in migration of calcium ions to heal a broken bone in half the usual time or help move calcium away from painful, arthritic joints."

For Moretto, all she knows is that she feels a lot better and has had great success as an independent distributor of Magsteps and the complimentary products offered by Nikken.

"It's been great to see people obtain the same relief I did by using the same products," she said.

1995 Cavalcade of Homes shows new trends

By Fred Menko
STAFF WRITER

The Cavalcade of Homes will offer Livingston County residents a chance to look at the latest designs in homes by the county's homebuilders without a lot of hassles, said Carol Kull, executive director of the Livingston County Homebuilders Association.

"It's a scattered site parade of new homes throughout the county," Kull said. "Builders have open houses at the same time. They've built the homes with the idea that they're showcase homes."

The homes in this year's show will feature innovative ways to heat a home as well as some of the most prominent features of homes in the '90s.

"It's a nice way for people who are looking for a new home to shop for a home or a builder in a nice, concise way," Kull said. "Every year we try to have some homes that have items in them that may be of interest. It's just a real good way to educate the public about what's available out in the county."

This year, Consumers Power Co. sponsored a home entirely run by gas in Pinckney and Detroit Edison Co. sponsored a home which uses geothermal temperatures to control the interior climate in Brighton.

Some of the trends for the '90s which will be featured in homes along the tour include three car garages and home offices.

The Home Builders Association is celebrating its 25th anniversary during 1995.

The association, made up of builders, subcontractors and suppliers, stresses professionalism amongst its members.

The county's growth has helped the association grow in recent years. In the past five years, over 100 builders have joined the association. The association has a total 410 members, an overall growth of 35 members in the past year.

The association is located in Brighton's Lavan building which has been renovated with donated materials and labor in along with the Brighton Historical Committee.

Who is the Home Builders Association?

The Home Builders Association of Livingston County is a group of more than 400 member builders, suppliers and sub-contractors who promote home ownership and professionalism in the building trades.

What does the Association do?

The Home Builder's Association is proud to serve Livingston County through various programs and events:

- Supporting CHRISTMAS IN APRIL - a home renovation project for the elderly, handicapped and impoverished - through members donations of skilled labor and materials and through financial contributions. Also hosts the Las Vegas Night to promote C.I.A.
- Contributing to Brighton's Community - built playground - THE IMAGINATION STATION
- Constructing of FIRE SAFETY DEMONSTRATION HOUSE, and dedicating it to Livingston County Fire Department to teach school children fire safety procedures.
- Ultimate Open House - an event to promote home ownership and education for potential home buyers. The event includes free seminars for the public featuring a panel of industry professionals made up of lenders, a realtor, a title company and a builder to help people make informed choices about home ownership.
- Recently formed a partnership with the Brighton Area Historical Society to help renovate the Association's "new" headquarters in Brighton dating to pre-1870. The HBA is renovating the building with the help of donations of labor, materials, and financial support from its members and the public, and with the expertise of the members of the Brighton Area Historical Society. When complete, the 4,800 sq. ft. building will house the Association offices, and lease space to area businesses. The HBA is proud to be part of the revitalization of the downtown Brighton shopping district.
- Holds monthly meetings with educational speakers who promote professionalism in the building industry. Topics include contracts and sworn statement information, job site safety, customer service, home design & economic trends to name a few.
- Annual Golf Outing to promote member participation and networking - 1995 event to be held August 24th at Dama Farms Golf Club in Howell. Call (810) 227-6210 for details.

Welcome to the 1995 Cavalcade!

Welcome to Livingston County and thank you for attending the 1995 Cavalcade of Homes. This is the fourth year that area builders proudly present their new designs and techniques for your enjoyment and information. There are various architectural styles, sizes and locations of homes on the tour yet, they all share the quality workmanship which has come to be expected of a member of the Home Builders Association of Livingston County. The builders and their sub contractors work closely together to put the puzzle of a fine home together. Their many talents have been developed through years of experience and education. The builders and associate members represented in the 1995 Cavalcade are professionals dedicated to their industry and customers. I salute them for their commitment to the homeowners and communities of Livingston County.

On behalf of the Home Builders Association of Livingston County, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to our co-sponsors Consumer Power Company, Detroit Edison Company, Standard Federal Bank, Central Michigan Lumber and John Colone Chrysler Plymouth Dodge Eagle for their continued support and generosity.

The 1995 Cavalcade committee members are to be commended as well for their outstanding efforts. I am most grateful for their time, talents and support throughout the past year.

As you visit this year's collection of homes, I'm sure that your time will be well rewarded. I hope that you enjoy the excitement of discovery as you open the door to each of these exceptional homes. Every home offers design and decor possibilities unique unto itself. Thank you for coming and may you find the new home, builder or design concept which is just right for you.

Sincerely,
Victor J. Lisabeth

Victor and Nancy Lisabeth, of Lisabeth Builders, Pinckney, stand outside this "all gas home" that they built. The house is one of over 20 new homes being featured in the Cavalcade of Homes Tour sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Livingston County.

Gas efficiency on display at new home

By Matthew Bach
STAFF WRITER

Dubbed as an "all gas home," a Lisabeth Builders creation in Pinckney serves as an example of how efficient gas can be.

The home at 2105 Cooper Cove behind Pinckney High School is one of 26 newly built homes featured in the Fourth Annual Cavalcade of Homes Tour on June 3.

Pinckney-based builders Victor and Nancy Lisabeth said the house, sponsored by Consumers Power Co., will have capabilities for a gas stove, gas hot water heater tank, gas furnace, gas dryer, gas barbecue grill and even a gas-operated lantern in front of the home.

"Cost-wise, it is more cost efficient (than an all electric home)," said Nancy Lisabeth. "While gas stoves may cost a little more in the store, you make that up in the cost of running the stove."

The home also has flex gas lines rather than the traditional steel pipes. The lines help the gas run more efficiently, Victor Lisabeth said.

In addition to being equipped with gas, this four-bedroom, two-and-a-half bathroom home has many other unique features.

Each bedroom, for example, has its own walk-in closet.

Another unique feature is a 17-foot high ceiling in the great room on the main floor of the two-story house. The ceiling is boxed and accented with wooden beams.

The master bedroom, also located on the first floor, has a raised ceiling of its own. The bedroom ceiling is 10-feet high, but its outer edges have been lowered to 9 feet to make room for recessed lighting.

The bedroom's lighting helps give this traditional home a contemporary feel, Nancy said.

"It's a traditional home with a contemporary flare," she said. "The outside looks traditional while the inside of the home has a contemporary look. It really has a lot of character to it."

Another contemporary feature includes ceramic tile and contemporary lighting found throughout the home.

The three other bedrooms are on the second floor.

In addition, the lower level of the structure has complete plumbing capabilities and can be easily converted to have a fifth bedroom, family room and an additional bathroom.

The house, surrounded by pine trees on one acre, also has a two-car garage and a deck off the back.

The asking price is $239,900.

1995 CAVALCADE OF HOMES

What will the next house be like?

By William Hamway
President, Home Builders
Association of Livingston County

According to a panel of residential architects at the recent Builders' Show of the National Association of Home Builders, the houses built during the next five to 10 years will enhance our quality of life dramatically.

The architects agreed that the biggest single factor affecting design will be in how technology changes the space needs in the home. With the option to telecommute expanding throughout the country, people will need dedicated home office space with appropriate telephone, fax, modem and computer service.

While this will create a more fluid workday with less rigid lines between professional and personal lives, it will also affect the use of space in the home and family dynamics. In addition, people are looking to the home to be their center for entertainment. Many homes will have media rooms with sophisticated sound and video systems built in or retrofitted to suit the owners.

Life cycle housing is another trend in home design. Many people are moving less, and they want their homes to grow and change with them as they go through different stages in their lives. For example, a builder may offer a home with three bedrooms today, but he'll give the new owner the option to finish an attic or garage area as needed to accommodate a new child or a parent that comes to live with the family.

Other homes will be placed on a lot so that there will be plenty of room to add an addition for a family room or sitting area, and the owner can see the plans for that addition when the original house is purchased. This will also help when the owner wants to sell the home since the floor plan is flexible and can meet the needs of many potential buyers.

Garages are likely to be set back from the street and be attached or detached depending on the market. In addition, the space above the garage can also be flex space for later additions such as an in-law suite or home office.

Garages are increasing in size to an average of three berths both to accommodate more vehicles in the household and to provide more storage space.

We will see more features designed for casual entertaining such as front porches and expanded kitchens and family rooms with formal areas like dining and living rooms becoming multi-purpose rooms. For example, many new custom homes come with bookshelves built into the dining room so the area can be used as a substitute home office or study area when it is not needed for formal entertaining.

The architects also called for all-season rooms in a finished basement to allow for specialized areas for exercising, hobbies and other projects. The rooms will have light shafts from the ground level to allow for natural lighting, floors designed to cushion an exerciser's feet and specialized storage for tools and hobby supplies.

Home owners will continue to ask for homes that use energy efficiently and are easy to maintain. More and more homes will come with flat ceilings, vinyl windows and use glass strategically to enhance natural lighting without creating glare.

The architects also are forecasting a decline in the use of closets and a greater use of furniture such as chests and armoires to hold clothing and personal items. This will allow for greater flexibility in furniture placement in a room since the owner would not have to worry about blocking access to a closet.

Geothermal home only different on inside

By Brad Hundt
Staff Writer

At first glance, the house at 7688 Wisteria in the Fisher's Glen subdivision in Brighton is really not startlingly different than any other home in the area.

However, there is one aspect of the ranch-style home that will be on display in the Livingston Cavalcade of Homes that is quite unique — the home is heated and cooled by a geothermal system. Touted by developers and utilities for its efficiency and eco-friendliness, it uses underground soil and groundwater to heat and cool homes.

And though the up-front costs of installing a geothermal heating and cooling system are a little higher than conventional gas or electric systems, its proponents insist that there is an eventual payback in using it in the form of significantly reduced gas and electric bills.

"It's very comfortable and liveable," said John Rudziensky of Paragon Development in Brighton. "It's a great system. There's no question in my mind about that."

A geothermal system is electrically-powered, and uses heat stored in the soil or groundwater. For heating, the system collects and concentrates heat from a well, or from buried pipes that collect heat from the soil. The heat is then transferred to a forced-air heating system and distributed throughout the house.

The system is reversed for air-conditioning. Heat is taken from the air inside a home and transferred back to the earth. A geothermal system also provides for some hot water needs in the home.

This ground-source heating and cooling system would be unaffected by Michigan's sometimes punishing winter weather or broiling summers, as the soil and groundwater maintains a constant temperature of 55 degrees at a certain point. A home heated or cooled by a geothermal system is divided into four zones, and a resident of the home can set a constant temperature that is comfortable for them, and the system will respond automatically by either heating or cooling the specific zone.

Both the heating and cooling is handled by one unit. The system also scores high marks for dependability, since there are fewer parts involved and no outdoor equipment. Fuel delivery and storage problems are also eliminated.

Another plus a geothermal system has in these environmentally-conscious times is its status as a "Earth-friendly" way of heating and cooling because it uses the renewable, thermal energy of the earth.

Where a gas-based home heating system uses combustible fuel to make heat, the geothermal system moves heat. It is estimated that a geothermal system provides four units of energy for every one used to power the system.

All of this might be fine in the abstract. But how does a geothermal system stack up in dollars and cents?

Initial installation costs are higher than they are for conventional furnace or air conditioning systems; however, a geothermal system can eventually yield a savings of up to 60 percent on energy bills. Reduced maintenance costs and the longer life span of a geothermal system can also put more money in a homeowner's pocket.

"The true test is not cost, but how it actually functions," Rudziensky said.

Home building plays big role in the our economy

By William Hamway,
President
Home Builders Association of Livingston County

Housing is vital to the nation's economy. It accounts for millions of jobs, about 5 percent of the Gross Domestic Product and billions of dollars worth of goods, services, wages and taxes each year and is essential to any economic recovery. In fact, housing accounted for as much as 33 percent of the growth in the Gross Domestic Product during the early quarters of the current economic rebound.

Construction of 1,000 new single-family homes generates $60.5 million in wages and $33.2 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees while creating 2,097 worker-years of employment.

Construction of 1,000 multifamily units generates 800 worker-years of employment, $23.3 million in wages and $15.8 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees. In 1994, the nation's home builders constructed a total of 1.45 million new homes, providing jobs for 2.7 million people and generating $78.3 billion in wages and $43.8 billion in tax revenues.

New home construction and remodeling typically account for between four and five percent of the total domestic economy — or about $250 billion a year. In 1994, home building and remodeling accounted for 4.3 percent of the U.S. Gross Domestic Product.

Housing's contribution to the economy goes even further: According to a recent National Association of Home Builders survey, a family spends an average of $6,500 to furnish, decorate and improve its new home during the first 12 months of ownership. That means buyers of the 1.1 million new homes forecasted to be built in 1995 will pour an estimated $7.15 billion into their local economies when they furnish and equip those homes. That is quite a lot of sofas, blinds and tools.

Because of stronger than previously anticipated demand for new homes during the remainder of the decade, the housing industry will continue to play a crucial role in the nation's economy. Between 1.3 and 1.5 million new homes, including multifamily units, will be needed annually to meet demand created by formation of new households, demand for trade-up homes and pent-up demand caused by four years of stagnant economic growth.

Other growth sectors in the industry include seniors' housing and remodeling. The demand for housing for the seniors population is projected to increase by 10 percent over the next decade with the double impact of the aging of the baby boom generation and the fact that people are living longer, healthier lives. Similarly, the remodeling sector will continue its meteoric growth with expenditures for remodeling estimated at $120 billion in 1995 and $200 billion by the turn of the century driven by a growing tendency to age in place and the aging of housing stock from a median age of 27 years in 1990 to 32 years by the end of the decade. In addition, by that same time, the sheer number of homes in the country will rise from more than 100 million to 110 million. That's a large number of homes that will need maintenance or improvement.
