

Plan for Ford Park gets nod from city

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Not even the ducks could keep the Northville City Council from voting unanimously to approve the Ford Park Master Plan, which puts the wheels in motion for development of the park.

After months of meetings and planning by the Northville Parks and Recreation Commission, the council finally voted on the plan Monday.

City officials say the park will provide the community with a "significant recreation facility within the heart of the city."

The purpose of the plan is to act as a "guide" for the management and design improvements for the park, according to Jeff Dehring, consultant for Carlisle Associates Inc., an Ann Arbor-based firm hired by the city. He said the current plan has "something for everyone."

"This is your starting point. This plan is a guide and will be refined as the process continues," Dehring told council members.

That refining process began during a public hearing where a couple of Northville residents provided some insight into the park's design. Tom Swigert said that, while the overall plan was good, there may be a few flaws in the design.

"I am concerned that the north foot bridge may cause traffic problems," he said.

Swigert's biggest concern was that restroom facilities hadn't been worked into the plan.

"I was told that restroom facilities weren't considered because there was Rezmierski makes grade on evaluation

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

It may have taken four hours on a Saturday, but the Northville Board of Education was able to produce an evaluation for Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski that reflected positive change and future challenges for the district.

"(The evaluation) reflects the board's concern about the issues and challenges that are facing this district," Rezmierski said. "In evaluating my performance the board also evaluated the performance of the district as a whole. That includes administrators, teachers, and parents."

The evaluation was divided into two categories - the first dealing with the performance of Rezmierski as district chief executive, and the second dealing with the performance of the district itself.

A rating scale of one through five, with one representing "unsatisfactory" and five representing "excellent," was used in the evaluation. Rezmierski - and the district - scored a 4.6 overall.

The school district pays Rezmierski a salary of $120,344, which includes longevity, a tax shelter salary option, out of pocket expense, board pay retirement, and extra credit for having a doctorate.

The evaluation focused on several areas, including student safety and well being, facility management and planning, budget and financial responsibility, and public and community relations.

As far as Rezmierski's performance was concerned, the evaluation stated that he "adheres to policies of the Board of Education and recommends needed policies to the board; keeps the board informed of activities and decisions of the superintendent, as well as important problems and concerns of the district; and provides enough data and information to explain administrative recommendations, and facilitates the board's decision-making process."

But the report card reflects more than the superintendent's performance during the past year. Rezmierski said that the district has continued to improve in several areas.

"Despite the change in funding (the district) has continued growth in several areas," he explained.

In the area of instructional program improvements, the evaluation cites some significant efforts - integrated math, expansion of the Reading Start program, the technology report and technology staff development and beginning middle of dirt at the site during the morning festivities June 17. Folk signers Shannon and Julie Fountain sang songs during the event and board chairman William Brown emphasized the openness of the project, saying comments are always welcome. The new building is slated to open in the fall of 1996.

Sprinkling restriction in effect

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

You didn't have to check a calendar to know that summer started this week. One sure sign of it has already appeared: lawn sprinkling restrictions.

The sweltering heat wave that has enveloped Michigan in recent days is drying the state out. Record high temperatures have led to increased water use all over the metro Detroit area. That in turn has caused low water pressure problems in several communities.

Although Northville's not one of the low-pressure areas, the city and township will still have to abide by new water use rules put in place by the Michigan and City of Detroit Departments of Health.

Officials from the two agencies are asking citizens to eliminate all non-essential water uses such as washing cars or filling pools. If you need to sprinkle your lawn officials are asking for compliance with these rules until further notice:

- Lawn sprinkling is allowed on an odd-even basis. Properties with addresses ending in even numbers can water lawns on even numbered days of the month. Properties with odd addresses can sprinkle on odd numbered days.

- Sprinkling systems should be operated only during non-peak use times, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 8-11 p.m. This doesn't apply to hand-held hose sprinkling.

The water use restrictions initially were voluntary, but conditions forced officials to impose mandatory limitations on Tuesday.

Township residents caught violating the rules could be ticketed under a special ordinance and fined $100. City residents could be issued appearance tickets requiring them to keep a date with the judge in court.

Properties with addresses ending in even numbers can water lawns on even numbered days.

Properties with odd addresses can sprinkle on odd numbered days.

Officials say the restrictions remain in place for as long as water pressure remains low, even all summer if necessary.

Party store ordered to comply with city codes

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Nine years.

That's how long James Roth owner of Good Time Party Store, has been in violation of a site plan agreement with the City of Northville. And yet, he has been operating his place of business without so much as a stern warning from city enforcement officials, whose job it is to make sure city codes and ordinances are not violated.

The Northville Planning and Zoning Commission is giving Roth one more chance to comply with the terms of his 1986 site plan, and they are giving him about one month to do it.

Those terms were issued at Tuesday's Planning and Zoning meeting. Commissioners were in disbelief to learn that a process that usually takes months has instead taken nearly a decade.

"(Roth) has taken an extensive amount of time and he's still not in compliance with the original 1986 site plan," said commission Chairperson John Hardin. "I think this has gone on long enough."

Roth was before the commission attempting to receive approval for a change of building use to his site plan. Instead, he received an ultimatum to make the necessary changes - or else. The Good Time Party Store is located at 7 Mile Road near South Main.

According to City Manager Gary Word, this is a case of the city attempting to work with a business to achieve results beneficial to both. He admitted, however, that the city may have allowed the compliance issue to go on too long.

"The city has traditionally attempted to work with businesses, but I think this is a case where (Roth) has exhausted the good-

News Briefs

CORRECTION: A quote in the D-section business feature of last week's edition suggested that there was only one women's clothier in Northville, located on Center Street. In fact, Victorian's Place, in business for 10 years, remains open in its Main Street location.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION: The Wayne County Transportation Department says construction continues this week on Northville Road near Edward Hines Drive and Six Mile. Expect intermittent lane closures (controlled by flagperson) through next week.

The resurfacing of 0.8 mile of the road has an estimated completion date of Oct. 15.

The county also reports that a quarter-mile section of Bradner between Norham and Six Mile is undergoing resurfacing. The project has a probable Aug. 1 completion date.

NYA gets needed donation check

The Target store on Haggerty near Eight Mile continued its good neighbor policy recently by presenting a $1,500 donation check to Northville Youth Assistance.

Herb Vanderploeg, the manager of the store, or "team leader" as the company prefers to call him, made the presentation to NYA director Mary Ellen King following an announcement over the store's public address system.

"They have a policy of giving 5-percent of their profits back to the community," King said.

Though the store is located in Livonia, it lies just east of the border with Northville Township. According to King, Target feels a responsibility to the community because it draws many customers from the Northville area.

Northville Youth Assistance is jointly funded by the city and the township. The organization matches adult volunteers with youths who need adult mentoring and companionship. Volunteers must go through a 5-week training program consisting of one, 3-hour session per week.

The next program is slated to begin Sept. 14.

King says NYA has a waiting list for boys who are in need of male friendship and role models. Particularly needy is a 5-year-old boy who experiences little contact with his natural father.

Volunteers are asked to spend at least two hours a week with the youth with whom they've been paired.

Call NYA at 344-1418 for volunteer information.

Man struck in market parking lot

A 76-year-old Northville man was injured last week, and three cars were damaged during an accident in a shopping center parking lot.

The accident occurred at the Shopping Center Market located at N. Center when a 42-year-old Northville man accidentally backed into the man while leaving the parking lot of the center.

The victim received several lacerations to his arms and his left leg was crushed, the Northville police report stated.

According to police, the driver and a friend were leaving the center in the friend's blue Oldsmobile when the friend asked if he could drive. The two men switched positions and when the driver attempted to adjust the seat, the car "lurched backwards" at a high rate of speed.

At that point the Oldsmobile struck another car and then the pedestrian, "flinging him across the trunk to the ground." The car then continued backwards striking another car, sending it into yet another car.

The driver told police that the vehicle's engine was racing and despite several attempts to hit the brakes, the vehicle refused to stop. It was only after the driver turned off the vehicle that it came to a stop.

"The suspect did not recall putting the car into gear," the police report stated. "Upon further questioning, he was unclear as to whether his foot was on the brake or accelerator."

In a later statement to police the driver said that the gear shift lever may have been engaged while he was adjusting the driver side seat, causing the car to lurch backwards. The vehicle was running when the driver took control of the vehicle, according to police.

The driver was initially charged with reckless driving, but the charges have been dropped pending further investigation. The injured man's condition will be monitored by police department officials.

INJURY ACCIDENT: A woman was seriously injured June 14 after being struck by a car near Six Mile and Haggerty.

The woman's car had run out of gas on Six Mile near Haggerty, township police said, and she walked to the Mobil gas station at that intersection to get some fuel. As she pouring it into the tank of her car another car, trying to pass a third car on the shoulder of the road while traveling east on Six Mile, struck her.

The woman, 27, suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries. She remains in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia. The police investigation of the incident is continuing.

FAILED FLEE: A 13-year-old

Northville youth was arrested Sunday for operating a motorcycle without a license and attempting to flee police.

According to Northville Police, officers had been advised that a young man was operating a dirt bike motorcycle in the area of Beck Road and Elmsmere. A short time later a police officer observed the youth heading north on Beck, and attempted to stop him.

The suspect refused to stop and led the patrol officer on a chase that continued north on Beck at speeds of approximately 40 miles-per-hour.

The pursuit continued as the suspect ran a stop sign while making a left hand turn onto Nine Mile Road. Almost immediately, the officer lost sight of the suspect along a wooded section of Nine Mile, and continued to search for the motorcycle. With the help of a motorist, the officer then found the location of the suspect, who had abandoned his dirt bike and was hiding among the trees, according to the report.

The suspect was apprehended and transported to the Northville Police Station until he could be released into the custody of his father.

HAIR-BRAINED THEFT FOILED: A 36-year-old Northville woman was arrested for shoplifting two boxes of hair coloring products June 14.

The woman attempted to walk out of the store with the merchandise when the store alarm went off. Store employees immediately detained the woman, who claimed she had a store identification card and that the card set off the alarm.

When questioned about the products in her purse, the woman claimed that she had bought them "a few days earlier." Her story changed, however, when Northville police arrived and began questioning her. She then admitted that she had attempted to steal the items and that the theft was a "spur of the moment" idea.

The woman was charged with Retail Fraud II and was released on $500 bond. Her court date has been set for July 12 at 35th Judicial Court.

MULTIPLE VIOLATIONS: Township police cited a Northville woman for several violations of law after she was involved in a traffic accident June 13.

The reporting officer said that the woman accidentally drove her car into a Novi man's car that was stopped on Sheldon Road for the Six Mile light. The impact drove the man's 1992 Cadillac Eldorado into the 1995 Pontiac Grand Bonnevill in front of him, which belonged to a Novi woman.

The Northville woman said that the other two cars had stopped suddenly and that she was unable to stop her 1990 Ford Probe in time.

The officer found an open five-liter box of wine in the car and ended up giving the woman tickets for open intoxicants in a motor vehicle, improper vehicle registration, failure to show proof of insurance and failing to stop with due care and caution. The Probe was impounded.

DENTED DOOR DISTURBS DRIVER: The owner of a 1991 Ford Escort suspects two students were responsible for damaging his vehicle June 12.

The Northville High School student was attending school when the suspect or suspects dented the passenger side door and side mirror of his vehicle.

The car owner told police he has been having trouble with two individuals at school and he suspected them of committing the vandalism.

Northville police officers questioned the two individuals, who claimed they were not responsible for the damage, and that they have no idea who vandalized the vehicle.

Police have no suspects and they estimate the damage at approximately $400.

If you have any information about these incidents please call the Northville city (349-1300) or township (349-9400) police departments.

Seizures aid crime battle

Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair says neighborhoods in Wayne County are fighting back against vice-markets which compromise the quality of community life.

During May, the program known as Operation Save Our Neighborhoods, which combats prostitution by seizing the vehicles of the customers of prostitutes, or "johns," seized 221 cars, 67 percent of which were licensed to nonresidents of the impacted neighborhoods.

Johns made payments of $127,400 to redeem their vehicles. The money is used to recoup the costs of the enforcement activity.

May was a record-setting month, up 20 percent over the previous month, according to program director Fred Quijano.

The Prosecutor's Push-Off (when Purchasers Use Our Streets and Highways Opt For Forfeiture) program, which operates in a similar manner against retail and recreational buyers of illegal drugs, also had a record month. Authorities seized 307 cars from drug buyers in May, and $96,300 was collected in redemptions.

"Unless the wrongdoers believe us when we tell them they'll lose their cars, they won't be deterred," O'Hair said.

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

TURNING UP THE HEAT

It is generally recommended that ice be applied to a sprained ligament or strained muscle as soon as possible after sustaining an injury. Rest, ice, compression, and elevation (the acronym RICE) all serve to reduce pain and swelling, as well as lessen bleeding. On the other hand, the application of heat can also play a role in the rehabilitation process, but only once the swelling has subsided. Heat speeds healing, relaxes muscles, and reduces joint stiffness. With the help of the physical therapist, a patient can come to understand whether dry or moist heat will afford the best results. Whirlpools offer a particularly effective treatment option by combining heat and gentle massage.

As key members of the health care team specially trained to improve movement and function, relieve pain, and restore optimal movement, the physical therapists at Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. can help return you to your highest level of function. We instruct our patients in adaptive methods and home exercises that focus on improving muscle strength, function, and coordination. To schedule a consultation, please call us at 349-3816. Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. is located at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

PS Heat should never be applied for more than 20 to 30 minutes at a time.

Although a lot of my friends live down south, I wanted to be here, close to my family. One day, my son told me about the independent life-style at Botsford Commons in Farmington Hills. When he showed me the new homes in the beautiful, wooded setting, I had no problem deciding.

Because I grew up in a small town, the private, full-service community atmosphere really appealed to me. Everyone is so nice here—my neighbor can't wait until the coffee shop opens.

Being able to own my home, without paying an entrance fee, was very attractive to me. All of the condominiums and apartments are designed with special features, such as an emergency call service, for continued independence. At Botsford Commons, my lawn maintenance and snow removal are taken care of. And I can choose to purchase additional amenities, including health care services, when needed.

Art in the Sun goes off as planned, even when the sun forgets to show up as it did last year. Organizers are expecting better luck this year as temperatures are supposed to be more seasonable than they were earlier in the week.

Outdoor art fest to include food, entertainment

Two days of art, food and outdoor fun are on tap this weekend as the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce presents "Art in the Sun," a juried fine arts and crafts show.

The event will feature more than 130 artists, displaying and selling hand-painted clothing, bird houses and feeders, jewelry, furniture and wood products, wildlife cards and more.

Several area restaurants, including Papa Romano's and Caffe Bravo, will staff food booths. The Northville Rotary will sell hot dogs and the Kiwanis Club will sell its famous Italian sausage sandwiches.

In addition, the Rotary will hold a motorcycle raffle.

The Fruitopia truck will make an appearance and offer fruit juice samples. Several downtown merchants plan special sales to coincide with the event.

Art in the Sun is planned for 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, June 24, and from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday, June 25.

Main and Center streets will close down to accommodate the activity.

Clowns, face painting and a four-piece combo will also be on hand to provide entertainment.

ART IN THE SUN

What - Over 130 exhibitors showing a variety of arts and crafts. Food booths will be set up.

When - 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday.

Where - Downtown Northville, Center and Main Streets.

The Northville Early Bird Kiwanis Club will sell pancake breakfasts from 7-10 a.m. Saturday only. For $3, patrons can get pancakes, sausage, orange juice and coffee. The Early Bird booth will be on Main Street near the bandshell.

The exhibitors come from around Michigan and from surrounding states to take part in the arts and crafts exhibition. Come and enjoy their unique products and the Victorian atmosphere of the town.

For more information, call the Chamber at 349-7640.

Obituaries

GLEN L. BOSWELL

Glen Lloyd Boswell, age 72, died June 14, 1995, in Alpena General Hospital, Alpena. He was born on Feb. 4, 1923, to Glen and Rose (Johnson) Boswell.

Mr. Boswell served in the U.S. Army from March 2, 1943, to Nov. 12, 1952. He fought in Northern France, the Ardennes, the Rhineland and Central Europe. He received the American Theater Ribbon, the European African Middle Eastern Theater Ribbon with four Bronze Battle Stars, the Good Conduct Ribbon, the Victory Ribbon and one Service Bar.

Mr. Boswell is survived by a sister, Elsie M. Roberts of Northville, and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Glen and Rose Boswell, and a sister, Verda Badertscher.

Services were held at Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home in Northville on June 16. The Rev. Eldon Beery from the First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiated. Interment was at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery, Troy, Mich.

WILLIAM F. MARTIN

William F. Martin passed away in Naples, Fla. He was 75.

Mr. Martin lived in Northville for 27 years and moved to Naples in 1973.

He is survived by his wife, Lucile Graham Martin, a 1940 graduate of Northville High School; three daughters, Patricia of Canton, Kathleen of Naples, and Janice Hammond of Denver, Colo.; four granddaughters and one grandson.

A memorial service was held on Monday, June 19, at East Naples Baptist Church.

ROBERT L. GOTTS

Robert Lawrence Gotts, age 74, of Plymouth, died June 6. He was born in Plymouth on Sept. 5, 1920.

Mr. Gotts was a retired self-employed cabinet maker in the Northville community; he moved from Northville to Plymouth in 1994.

He was a member of the Northville First United Methodist Church and the Stu Rockefeller Ham Radio Club.

He also served in the U.S. Army during World War II. He graduated from Plymouth High School in 1938.

Surviving Mr. Gotts are his wife, Annabell of Plymouth; daughters, Kaye Marie (Allen) Horsfall of Montana; Linda Jean (Bernd) Freiny of Monroe; son, Richard Allan of Traverse City; brother-in-law, Howard R. Ebersole of Flushing; sisters-in-law, Audrey Gotts of Florida, and Betty (Robert) Barbour; and six grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by daughter, Jane Ann Gotts; brother, Arthur C.; and sister, Mary Ebersole.

A memorial service was held on June 10, at the First United Methodist Church in Northville, with Dr. Douglas Vernon officiating.

Arrangements were made by Schrader-Howell Funeral Home.

At the request of the family, memorials may be given to Arbor Hospice, 3810 Packard Road, Suite 200, Ann Arbor, MI 48108, or the First United Methodist Church of Northville.

Professional standards object of voc-ed bill

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Capitol capsules:

For the second time, the state House of Representatives has passed a high school voc-tech bill. Last year the bill died in the Senate.

House Bill 4196 would set up a state cabinet on professional and technical standards under the Jobs Commission.

Its tasks: an information system on what job skills are needed, coordination of training programs and creation of skills standards for various occupations. It also would work on pilot "school to apprenticeship" programs.

The bill was pioneered by retired Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, and carried on by Rep. Glenn Oxender, R-Sturgis.

They developed the idea after trips to Germany's hochschule system of vocational training students who aren't college-bound.

The House vote was 88-9. All area representatives voted yes June 13.

Stadium dollars

Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Deerborn, lost on an unrecorded roll call on his effort to prevent state highway funds from being used to develop a new Tiger Stadium in Detroit without approval of the Legislature.

Hart and Doug Carl, R-Mt. Clemens, tried to attach the amendment to Senate Bill 304, the transportation budget.

The Senate rejected House amendments to the bill and sent it to a conference committee for reconciliation of differences.

"The infrastructure is already there. There is an expressway that runs south of the stadium (site) and one that runs north," said Hart.

"Look at the new Cleveland Stadium ... the project is now $28 million in debt, and they just opened that stadium. Here is a team that is in first place, sold out for every game, yet they're $28 million in debt.

"You're going to find yourselves in a similar position here in Detroit," he added.

Youth gangs

A program called "Youth Gangs on the Move" will run from 6-8 p.m. Thursday, June 22, in Pontiac Central High, 300 W. Huron, with speakers from the Oakland County prosecutor's office and Madison Heights police department.

Said Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, who is promoting the program:

"Unless we become better educated and really start to focus on giving our youth an alternative to joining gangs, the problem is only going to get worse."

The program is designed to help parents and other adults recognize signs of gang activity and help in combating it.

City resident gets order: Take basket down

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Most ideas are usually acted upon with good intentions.

For Northville High School junior varsity basketball coach Scott Baldwin, erecting a basketball pole and net in front of his house was a good idea. He envisioned kids shooting basketballs, playing pick-up games, and having good old-fashion fun. Just like when he was a kid.

He saw no problem erecting the goal — his family had purchased it for him as a gift. He lived at the end of a dead-end street, so he figured there would be no traffic problem — no safety issues — for him or the kids to worry about.

So up went the pole and the net, and when the weather began to turn favorable early this spring, he and a majority of his basketball players — along with his and some of the neighborhood kids — began playing.

Soon there were pick-up games taking place. Just like Baldwin had imagined.

Then "the complaint" came, and the good idea went sour.

Monday the Northville City Council ordered Baldwin to remove his goal — a decision council members didn't necessarily want to make, but one that was required for a simple, basic reason. The basketball goal is in violation of a city ordinance.

Once the city received the written complaint that Baldwin had erected the pole at his residence, located at 333 N. Rogers, the city ordinance officer inspected the site and found the pole was actually located on Dubuar Street — which lies adjacent to Rogers.

"I wasn't aware I was in violation of the ordinance," Baldwin told council members. "I just figured it was a good place for neighborhood kids to play."

Baldwin received notice that his basketball goal was in violation when Northville police officers broke the word to him last week. The nuts and bolts of the issue is that Baldwin's pole is located a city easement, a fact Baldwin admitted he couldn't dispute. Nor could he dispute the council's concern regarding kids playing in the streets.

He appeared before the council to request a variance to the ordinance, which would have allowed him to keep the basketball goal.

"I realize that I have no right to ask for this variance, but I believe it is the right thing to do," Baldwin said.

"This is mine and my family's way of providing a community service. We enjoy sports, and we enjoy having the kids play there as an alternative to vandalizing park facilities," he added.

Council members were concerned that by granting the variance they would be endorsing an issue contrary to public safety.

"If we grant this request, we would be encouraging the violation of the city ordinance," warned council member Paul Folino.

Council member Chuck Keys said he didn't want the council to endorse an issue that contradicted public safety.

"We don't want to endorse that our kids play in the street," he added.

In a report to the city council, city manager Gary Word said that any obstruction in a public right-of-way increases the potential of possible vehicle conflict. He explained to the council that if a person was injured in a vehicle as a result of colliding with the pole the city could be liable for any damages.

Word added that allowing the pole to remain standing would set a dangerous precedent for other residents to follow.

Baldwin argued that he erected the pole with the complete support of his neighborhood, and that after receiving notice from police he contacted four of the five residents on the street to find out if they had any concerns.

The four neighbors were in complete support.

"I think this is a great way for kids to recreate and socialize in a positive environment," Baldwin said. "We work hard at being good neighbors, and feel that this had made a positive impact on our neighborhood."

The only outdoor basketball courts are located at school facilities.

According to Word, streets should not be considered playgrounds for children and young adults.

"Allowing the basketball pole and backboard to stay would be sending the wrong message to the children in this community," he said in his council report.

The council voted 3 to 2 to deny Baldwin's request. Mayor Chris Johnson and council member Mark Cryderman voted against the motion to deny.

The council's decision gives Baldwin two weeks to remove the pole.

Police tips can make for safe vacation

With summer here and families planning for vacation the Northville city and township police departments are reminding residents to make their homes secure before leaving on vacation.

According to Detective John Werth of the Northville Township Police Department the chances of your home being broken into are much higher while you are away. A home that looks vacant is an inviting target for the professional burglar or the amateur thief.

Werth added that burglars look for evidence of an unattended home and residents can minimize the chances of becoming a victim of burglary by taking a few effective precautions.

He said that residents should have a friend or relative do the following:

- Maintain yard work such as mowing the lawn
- Check your home daily for anything suspicious or disturbed in your absence.

Werth also explained that before leaving for vacation residents should do the following:

- Stop all deliveries such as mail, newspapers, etc.
- Secure the garage door from the inside, if at all possible
- Secure gates and other yard entrances.
- Leave lights on, preferably with light timing devices. If possible, alter the lighting pattern.
- Leave shades and blinds in their normal positions, as if you were home. If possible arrange to have them opened and closed daily.
- Secure all doors and windows.
- Notify your neighbors that you will be gone.
- Allow a neighbor to park his or her vehicle in your driveway.
- Notify the city or township police departments that you will be on vacation, for how long, who to notify in case of an emergency, and who may have a key to your home.
- Leave an emergency number that you can be reached at with a friend or relative.
- Make your home look lived in. Don't make it obvious that you are away.

Both city and township police departments provide house checks. You can contact the Northville Police Department at 349-1234 or Township Police Department at 349-9400.

Busy schedule of summer events on tap at library

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you think a library is a place only grown-ups can enjoy, you're in for a surprise.

The Northville District Library is offering a slew of programs for kids this summer that are educational, interesting and just plain fun.

Everyone's welcome but advance registration is required for most activities. Children five years old and under must be accompanied by an adult for any program. During storytime events adults are asked to wait in the library while the children participate in the program.

Here's what the library has planned:

- Registration for the "read-to-me" program is going on now through July 1.

- The program is open to children three and a half to five years old who are not yet enrolled in kindergarten.

- Storytimes will be held on four consecutive Sundays: from 2-2:30 p.m. on June 26 and July 10 and from 11-11:30 a.m. on July 3 and

- 17. Advanced registration is required.

- A juggling workshop will be held tomorrow (June 23) from 3:30-4:30 p.m. with juggler Patrick Persons. It's open to kids ages 8-12 and advance registration is required.

- Tuesday, June 27, is the date for a circus crafts workshop at the library held from 11 a.m. to noon. It's open to kids ages 6-8 and advance registration is required.

- A second circus crafts workshop for children ages 9-12 will be held on July 13 from 2-3 p.m. Registration begins June 28.

- The Detroit Science Museum program will bring its "magic school bus" to the library on June 28 from 2-3:30 p.m. Kids eight years and up can "visit" the Sound Museum. Advanced registration is required.

- Learn how to create your own clown face with a special workshop on June 30 from 11 a.m. to noon. It's open to kids ages 8-11 and advance registration is required.

- Take note: the library will be closed on Monday, July 4, in recognition of Independence Day.

- Thursday, July 6, is the day

for stories and songs at the library with Laura Pershin and Rosalie Koenig from 2-2:45 p.m.

- Learn about circus animals and performers through the library's "You be the Circus" workshop - and even do some performing of your own! Face painting with circus designs will be available as well. It's open to children ages five to eight and will be held from 11 a.m. to 12:125 p.m. on July 7. Registration begins tomorrow (June 23).

- Master storyteller Linda Day will entertain children ages six and up at the library from 2-2:45 p.m. on Wednesday, July 12. Registration begins June 28.

- Bo Regard the Clown will visit with kids ages three and a half to five years in the Read-To-Me program from 2-2:45 p.m. on Monday, July 18. Registration begins July 5.

- Thursday, July 20, is the date for "Boogie Under the Big Top" with Marcey Walsh at the library from 2-2:45 p.m.

- Mary Ellen, the clown show and The Moose-Wow Circus with Marc Thomas will have a big top party at the library on Wednesday, July 26, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

Geake faces obstacles with court reform

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

State Sen. Robert Geake and bipartisan colleagues have two major battles to fight in their effort to reform the Friend of the Court, the office which advises judges in divorce proceedings.

First, the senators want to take authority over FOC away from circuit judges, where it has been since 1919, and give it to general county government.

"That's our most unpopular recommendation," Geake, R-Northville, admitted in a June 14 news conference in Lansing. "The public wants a forum where they can complain and be heard. But the judges don't want to lose control. The Friend of the Court doesn't want change. And county commissioners don't want responsibility."

Second, they want to amend the Child Custody Act to state there is "no presumption against joint custody." Hundreds of unhappy divorced parents - particularly fathers - saw gender bias built into the system and told Geake's panel so in months of hearings across Michigan.

"I'll support any law keeping both parents in a child's life," said John Bauman, West Bloomfield resident and state secretary of the National Congress for Men and Children.

"We've destroyed fatherhood in this country. The system focuses on how we can get more money out of somebody. I'm the father of this child and I'm (treated like) a visitor. A visitor!"

Bauman, who works for an area development company, has a license plate saying "I MISS JW," a reference to his daughter.

Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, said the panel reached consensus on many changes: splitting of state aid between school districts in joint custody arrangements, making it a felony to file false charges of child abuse, changing the word "visitation" to "parenting time," abolishing the presumption against joint custody, and allowing the non-custodial parent access to the child's school and medical records.

"Friend of the Court offices are understaffed," Dingell said. "I called every day in Wayne County for three months and got a busy signal every single time. How can you deal with an agency you can't get through to?"

The 1994 panel consisted of Geake, Dingell and David Honigman; R-West Bloomfield. Honigman, who has not attended Senate sessions for more than a week, missed the press conference, too.

Lt. Gov. Connie Blinsfeld said she attended "a couple of hearings, and everything you (Geake's panel) said is true."

"It's a great step forward in the spirit of bipartisanship," laddled Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Deerborn.

"Most employees and judges are working conscientiously," Geake said, but hard work isn't enough in a society that is overburdened with divorces. While he praised Wayne County's Chief Circuit Judge James Rashid for making "a number of improvements," his subcommittee's report still advocated placing FOC under general

"The public wants a forum where they can complain and be heard. But the judges don't want to lose control."

county government because:

"Currently, the chief judges in many jurisdictions do not appear to be giving the FOC the attention it deserves and public access to complain to judges is very limited."

"In addition, grievances against the FOC are handled by the FOC. This makes people wonder if their grievances are getting a fair hearing since the party being complained about is the same party investigating the complaint."

Geake said the Senate panel considered, but dropped, the idea of creating a "Family Court." Meanwhile, Sen. William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, said the FOC discussion would have an impact on the Senate Judiciary Committee's discussion of reorganization of all four state lower courts into a single "trial court" and on proposals for full state funding of trial courts.

In hearings, circuit judges objected vehemently to losing control of FOC operations.

The Senate bills were unnumbered at press time. Refer to the August 1994 Findings and Recommendations of the Senate Family Law Committee on Friend of the Court Operations when writing to your state legislator.

The Northville Folk & Bluegrass Festival is a favorite summertime event in the community.

Banjo plunkin' gene splicer to play festival

When Northville's Annual Folk & Bluegrass Festival hits town next month, among the bevy of musicians taking the stage to raise funds for Huntington's Disease research will be one very special guest.

His name isn't a notable one in the music industry, but among the medical and scientific community he's definitely star material.

He's Dr. Francis Collins, and besides strumming a few songs to help raise funds to fight HD, Collins' contributions to the battle against the sickness are significant.

Collins is a nationally known physician and geneticist whose lab in the Howard Hughes Medical Institute at the University of Michigan Medical School was part of the collaborative team which discovered the gene that causes Huntington's, the dread disease best known for taking the life of famed folk-singer Woodie Guthrie.

The search for the defective gene was an exhausting and frustrating one that lasted more than a decade.

In the spring of 1993, researchers finally discovered the defective gene which underlies Huntington's Disease. The discovery is significant for helping to bring researchers one step closer to finding a cure for the disease.

When not conducting research in science and medicine, Collins is an avid folk and bluegrass fan and enjoys playing the banjo and guitar. It's those talents and not his scientific abilities that he'll display at this year's Folk and Bluegrass Festival.

The music bash, held for 18 consecutive years, is organized by Northville resident Tom Rice whose sister died of Huntington's Disease in 1976. It will take place on Sunday, July 30, from noon to 8 p.m., at Ford Field.

In addition to an appearance by Collins, the line-up of talent includes headliners Claudia Schmitt, Josh White Jr., and Peter and Lou Berryman, as well as the Immigrants, Neil Woodward, Dennis Cyprian, Fred's Not Irish, Pat Donahue and the Hooked on Country Dancers.

New this year will be a pancake breakfast served at noon. The festival normally starts at 1 p.m., but Rice said he wanted to kick things off a little earlier than usual.

"We're really hoping a lot of people come out for the breakfast. We'll have entertainment on the children's stage during that hour, and the tables will face the stage so people can see the act while they're eating."

Rice said that, in addition to strumming out a few tunes on the guitar, Dr. Collins will take time out to address the crowd and speak about Huntington's Disease.

Rice owns the Gitfiddler music store in Northville.

Tickets to the 19th Annual Folk & Bluegrass Festival are $10 in advance or $12 at the gate. Call the Gitfiddler at (810) 349-9420 or Ticketmaster at (810) 645-6666 for tickets.

As part of a pre-festival event, two of the headliners, Schmitt and White, will perform on Saturday, July 29, at Genitti's Restaurant, 108 E. Main Street. Guests will enjoy Genitti's famous seven-course dinner and all the entertainment for $35, with proceeds going to Huntington's research.

Show are scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m. For reservations, call (810) 349-0522.

Maybury Park News

PARK'S OPEN: Maybury State Park is open daily from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. Farm hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m., daily. A state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry to the park. Additional information about programs or facilities may be obtained by calling the park office at 349-8390.

SUMMER EVENING HIKE SERIES: Join us on Friday evening, June 23, at 7 p.m., when our weekly series presents a look at the area's geology. A brief slide lecture will be followed by a walk to discover some of Maybury's geologic features. Meet at the Concession Building in the main parking lot on Eight Mile Road.

BIRD HIKE: There will be a hike to identify summer bird residents in the park on Saturday morning, June 24, at 8 a.m. Meet at the Concession Building in the main parking lot on Eight Mile Road to participate. Insect repellent is recommended!

NATURE WALK: A park naturalist will present a general nature walk on Saturday morning, June 24, at 11 a.m. Meet at the Concession Building in the main parking lot on Eight Mile Road.

TAKE A FRIEND FISHING: Weekly fishing clinics are held at the Maybury Fishing Pond each Monday this summer. An employee of the Fisheries Division of the Michigan DNR will be on hand to provide basic instruction in fishing, and answer any questions you may have. The clinic begins promptly at 6:30 p.m., with plenty of time to fish afterwards. Bring your own equipment, if available.

The Maybury Fishing Pond is located near the Ruding Stable parking area off Beck Road.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED: Fisheries Division is looking for a few volunteers who may be able to assist with the fishing clinics held at Maybury each Monday evening. If you are willing to donate some of your time, please contact the park office.

SUMMER PROGRAMS: Registration is under way for children's programs to be held at Maybury this summer. A variety of topics and activities will cover various aspects of farming and nature. To enroll or to obtain a brochure, contact the park office.

Kicking the Michigan State Fair out of Detroit would be worse than kicking out the Detroit Tigers and almost as bad as kicking out the Auto Show, said John Hertel.

"It makes no sense to move," said Hertel, State Fair manager since 1994, replying to Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer's suggestion that the land at E. Eight Mile and Woodward be redeveloped as an industrial park.

"We bring in two million people a year to this city. That's second to the Auto Show. In a good year, the Tigers bring in one million - and that's in a good year."

"We're within one mile of the point where Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties come together. They have half the population of Michigan. SEMCOG tells us we're within 45 minutes driving time of five million people."

"If you've got something good going for you, you don't throw it out."

Hertel is a former Wayne County commissioner, former state senator, now a Macomb County commissioner, sometime professor at Lawrence Tech University and a Democrat who's on excellent terms with his boss, Republican Gov. John Engler.

Archer put Hertel on the defensive with a suggestion to Engler that the State Fair be redeveloped for business. Engler formed a task force to consider the idea, with Hertel as a member, and gave it 45 days to report back.

"It's not the governor pulling the rug out. It's Archer," Hertel said. "It's particularly unfortunate that the mayor would bring it up now. It has done damage with the sponsors."

Last year's sponsors - Ford, General Motors, Budweiser, Blue Cross - are remaining faithful, but negotiations with new sponsors were hurt by Archer's proposal, made in conjunction with the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce's convention for state officials on Mackinac Island.

The best defense being a good offense, Hertel on June 15 staged a news conference with horse-drawn coaches from Northville, a free public relations assist from the Berlinc Group, food and token presents to sell his message: The State Fair is best off in Detroit.

Hertel's reasons: "We swayed public opinion last year when we doubled attendance (to 350,000). That's paid attendance - no smoke and mirrors."

"We had 15 years without any capital investment. I had no capital money. But we got donations and completely restored the buildings. We restored the buildings and the reputations and doubled attendance."

"For the agriculture industry, this is their 'auto show.' It's where city people meet to show off their industrial stuff and rural people come to show their produce and livestock."

He was unable to say how much private money Ford, GM and this year Chrysler had put into exhibits and sponsored events, but Hertel argued "it would take a minimum of $50 million to replace it. You'd have to question where the money would come from to replace it."

"I was born and raised in Detroit, went to Detroit public schools and Wayne State University. I've watched all the negative headlines about Detroit. Imagine the headlines. 'Oldest State Fair leaves Detroit.' This state fair started in 1849. The Smithsonian recognizes us."

The State Fair, currently under the Department of Commerce, has $4 million in state funds yearly. Hertel said the fair spent $6 million, leaving a deficit of $2 million - about the same as the last half-dozen years. While state fairs operate as a service, not as an enterprise fund, Hertel said this year he has a shot at breaking even.

"It's family values. A family of five can come here for $25 ($7 for each adult, $2 for kids, $5 to park). They can bring a picnic lunch and go to a concert. I'll stack up our entertainment against Pine Knob and the Fox," he said, reeling off a list of country and rock entertainers and promising a major new act announcement in mid-July.

"We don't have freak shows any more. We've reduced the carney (carnival) part." The fair emphasizes good entertainment, contests (from spaghetti eating to egg toss), traditional agricultural and auto exhibits, and home economics exhibits.

This year the State Fair will run 14 days instead of the previous 12. Newest feature: the Ejection Seat, a bungee jump affair that tosses two riders 120 feet upward at 70 miles an hour.

Detroit has plenty of other vacant land for industrial parks with plenty of infrastructure, and no need to kick out the State Fair, he said.

"The Farm Bureau has their convention here. The agriculture people want it here. Other state fairs are near population centers - Dallas (Tex.), Minneapolis-St. Paul (Minn.), Milwaukee (Wis.), Indianapolis (Ind.).

"We run all year 'round. Most weekends we have something going on here," Hertel said, pointing to the 5,800 seat Coliseum and listing:

- Shrine Circus - for 80 straight years.
- Motorcycle Swap Meet.
- Auto Swap Meet.
- Dog shows - Livingston Kennel Club, Oakland Kennel Club, Pontiac Kennel Club, Humane Society Mutt Show, Livonia Kennel Club, Progressive Dog Club of Wayne County, Saginaw Dog Show, pet shows.

• Detroit schools math-science fair.

• Rollerblading contests.

• Michigan Horse Show, rodeos, Arabian Horse Association, All-Morgan Horse Show, invitational draft horse show. (Hertel himself raises livestock on a Macomb farm.)

• Auctions, fashion and antique shows.

Hertel said he has discussed the use of the Fairgrounds by auto racing and soccer interests.

Casino gambling? Never. I wouldn't even talk to them. Family values," said Hertel.

Watch out for utility scams

Three people claiming to be utility workers appear at your door and say they need to check the meter.

This is the season for scam artists, and many take the guise of utility workers to gain unlawful entry to customers' property.

"Unfortunately, these unscrupulous people can strike at any time and have devised many seemingly legitimate reasons and diversions to gain access to our customers' valuables," said James B. Taylor, Detroit Edison's director of corporate security.

Detroit Edison cautions people to be sure there is reason for utility workers to be at their doors before allowing entrance or otherwise doing "business" with them.

"If you have not called Detroit Edison or the company has not been in contact with you, that's the first clue something may be amiss," Taylor said.

To avoid being victimized, Edison offers these suggestions:

• Ask for identification. All Detroit Edison employees and contractors carry ID cards displaying their photos. If you are not sure about an employee's identification, call Detroit Edison at 1-800-477-4747.

• Do not allow entry to people claiming to offer Detroit Edison refunds. Detroit Edison employees never deliver cash refunds or "rebates" to customers' homes. All account transactions are handled through the mail or at a Detroit Edison customer office.

• Do not pay for line clearance, or tree trimming, work performed by Detroit Edison. Detroit Edison does not charge for line clearance work.

Disturbed man seeks damages from store

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A former Westland man and his Southfield attorney could collect $1.9 million if the Michigan Supreme Court rules a drug store contributed to the man's drug addiction.

John J. Orzel, 37, now living in Garden City, is "psychotic and permanently schizophrenic," attorney Larry A. Smith told the high court recently. Orzel, a former General Motors factory worker who taught karate to Detroit police, will require lifelong care and intermittent hospitalization, Smith said.

They want Scott Drug Store, once located on Grand River in northwest Detroit, to pay a Wayne Circuit Court jury award. The jury put the figure at $3.8 million, but a judge cut it in half because Orzel's own "criminal activity" in taking illegal drugs contributed to his mental destruction.

Orzel himself said during his trial: "I sort of became a product of society. My environment was drug, you know, infested, so I became like the rest."

He has been in Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, Providence, Oakwood and other hospitals from 1982 to 1986.

"There is absolutely no evidence that Orzel ever obtained Desoxyn from the appellant (Scott) without a prescription," replied John Highland, a Southfield attorney representing the store's insurer.

"As a matter of public policy, this court cannot turn our civil and criminal docket into a chaotic, overloaded circus of litigation where drug addicts are no longer criminally responsible for their conduct," Highland said.

Constantine Kallas, a Bloomfield Hills attorney representing the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies, added in an amicus brief, that Orzel "cannot maintain a cause of action for damages arising out of plaintiff's own illegal, intentional and wrongful conduct."

"Insanity is not exception to the rule that a plaintiff may not bring an action to recover damages for injuries that result from plaintiff's own intentional wrongdoings," Kallas said.

A state Court of Appeals panel last year ruled for Orzel, saying his criminal activity should not bar his suit.

Smith admitted Orzel was "no angel" but contended the drug store was part of a system that fed his client's habits.

As an eighth grader in a Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic school, Orzel drank alcohol and used marijuana, LSD and mescaline, among other substances. By ninth grade he was on PCP and "angel dust." Orzel had a brief marriage during which he lived in Westland and consumed hashish and cocaine, according to Hartland's brief.

Orzel got off drugs, earned a 2.7 grade point average by the time he graduated from Cody High in 1976 and earned a black belt in karate in less than two years, Smith's brief said.

When Orzel worked for GM Hydramatic in Ypsilanti, co-workers introduced him to Desoxyn. Orzel in August of 1981 began going to Figure 8 Weight Loss Clinic where doctors gave him prescriptions. A co-worker's family owned the clinic.

Orzel had the prescriptions filled at pharmacies in Redford, Inkster and Detroit. Attorney Smith said Scott personnel knew the drug was for weight loss and could see that Orzel, at 5-feet-10 and 160 pounds, needed no such drug.

Hartland said Desoxyn's side effects were hallucinations, especially when Orzel popped 10 to 15 pills a day instead of the prescribed one - more evidence his problems were self-induced.

Smith said Figure 8 personnel wrote out prescriptions for Desoxyn, leaving the name blank.

"Figure 8 was really in the prescription business," he said.

Smith said federal Drug Enforcement Administration officials investigated Scott Drug "due to its status as the number one purchaser of Desoxyn in the nation" and made seizures there. The store was closed down.

Orzel's original suit also named Abbott Laboratories, Figure 8, two of its doctors and another drug store. Figure 8 went out of business about the time Orzel's suit was started. Court records indicated those defendants settled their cases for undisclosed amounts. Only the Scott Drug case is before the Supreme Court, which tries to rule within a year after hearing oral arguments.

Smith said Orzel today can do nothing but go to church, take walks, smoke and eat. He hears gunshots, bombs, foghorns and Morse code signals; thinks he's a prophet; believes the Russians are coming; and believes he knows a man who is Hitler.

Fireworks, music, parade and more planned for 4th

Bands will march, rockets will fly and Jags will shine during a full slate of events scheduled for Tuesday, July 4.

Representatives of Celebrate Northville, the committee organizing the Independence Day festivities, says most of their plans are falling into place, and that means such activities as a fireworks display, a music concert and a classic Jaguar show will all come off as hoped.

The centerpiece of the day, of course, will be the parade from 10-11 a.m. Featuring marching bands, entertainers and specialty acts, the parade will start at Northville Downs, make a loop through the downtown and stop at the race track.

"Freedom Alive in '95" is this year's theme, meant to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II.

At noon, patrons will be invited to attend a classic Jaguar auto show on the grounds of the old Ford Plant, now owned by R&D Enterprises at Main and Griswold. Approximately 25 Jaguars will be on display and awards will be given out in a presentation at 3:30 p.m.

As usual, Mill Race Village plans to offer Fourth of July activities from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Civil War reenactors will be on hand and the buildings will be open for touring.

The 70-piece Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble will perform a program of patriotic music from 7-9 p.m. in Henningsen Park, alongside Northville Township Hall off Six Mile near Winchester.

Northville poet Kathleen Ripley Leo will recite an original literary work before the start of the show, then the band will strike up such favorites as the 1812 Overture and marches by John Phillip Sousa.

The orchestra will perform on a portable sound stage.

A fireworks show will culminate the day's activities at dusk, roughly 10 p.m. The display, set off by the Zambelli Fireworks Co., will take place on the grounds of the Browning-Ferris Industries Resource Recovery Center at Six Mile and Napier.

The size of the show is dependent on funding, and more contributions are needed to meet the committee's $13,000 goal.

Those interested in contributing to the fireworks display can clip the form to the left and send it to: Celebrate Northville, P.O. Box 5258, Northville, MI 48167-5258.

Admission to all Fourth of July events is free.

Volunteers are still needed to help out. Call Carolyn Brown at 349-7640.

Northville Talk of the Week/ by ROBERT JACKSON

I've learned quite a bit about Northville after my first full week as the "new guy" at The Northville Record. My education began even before my first official day at The Record when my boss, Lee Snider, imparted some crucial words of advice.

"Don't feed the ducks!" Now usually when a new reporter comes to town, residents, club members, special interest groups and various other organizations take the opportunity to provide "the new guy" with helpful information. There are invites to functions, possible speaking engagements to a club or two, parents wanting increased coverage for their kids and lots of background information about the city and the people who live there.

My arrival on the Northville scene has gone just that way. And even though these activities have been extremely positive, I've never been welcomed by so many people in my life - it can be a bit unnerving.

"It would be great if the newspaper would print more good news about kids," one parent told me during a break at the school board meeting. "Our organization is big on community involvement, and we'd like the community to know what we are doing," commented another.

Lee's words echoed continuously in my head.

"Don't feed the ducks!" Now I'm probably one of the biggest proponents of community newspapers. I love the community aspect simply because what happens in a small community like Northville is important - whether it's a $50-million bond issue or little Suzy Smith's first piano recital - and should be found in our pages.

So when I started receiving requests for stories on kids and clubs, I began thinking of different ways we could include all of the interesting tidbits that could possibly come my way.

The solution I found was quite simple, but would require me to rethink the mantra that had been running through my head this past week.

It means I'm going to have to "feed the ducks."

With Lee's blessing, the newspaper will offer me a set amount of space each week to publish all of those items that, while important, are too short to get included in the normal coverage offered by the newspaper. Club news, piano recitals, poetry contest winners, award recipients and the like will be the weekly fare found in this feature.

Here are the ground rules - I will not deviate from them so listen up.

The deadline for information to be included in this feature will be noon each Monday - if you call after that, the information will be put on the list for next week.

Because space will be at a premium, keep your information short and to the point. Hand submitted information is preferred, but if time has got a death grip on you, and you can't make it by the newspaper office, a phone call is acceptable.

Our phone number is 349-1700. Ask for Bob.

If you would like to mail the info, our address is The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167.

Please address the envelope to Bob Jackson, Northville Talk of the Week.

Again, because of space limitations, if I have more information than space, the items not published that week will be placed at the top of the list for the next week.

Most importantly, I will show no favoritism. Each item will be given equal weight.

With that said, it's time to offer up our first ever, Northville Talk of the Week. In this first installment you won't find excerpts of Michael Jackson's interview with Diane Sawyer, nor will you notice any first name beginning with the letter "Z."

There isn't any talk of new math, old math, or future math for that matter, and you won't have to worry about being hit with flying octopi. We do include, however, a high school student with "eagle eyes," a few budding artists, and a couple of youngsters who rhyme with the time.

So place your bets, grab your binoculars and get ready ladies and gents, it's post time.

TALE OF TWO POETS: One of the very first phone conversations I had after the paper hit the streets was with Roxanne Edge, who had called to tell us that we had omitted her daughter's name from a list of poetry winners.

It turns out that the release from Meads Mill Middle School didn't include the names of Edge's daughter, Kym, who was a first place awardee, and Heather Astorini, who was a third place winner.

Wanting to make amends with the two talented youths, I talked with both briefly for a "take" on their poetry writing skills.

Kym is a 15-year-old who will be entering her freshman year at Northville High School. She loves writing poetry because it is a "short easy way to express my feelings."

She has been writing since she was 8-years-old and hopes to have her poetry published some day.

She also loves to paint, play soccer, snow ski, and hang out with her cat, Rojo. She plans to attend college after high school and hopes to study art and architecture.

Heather has also been writing for awhile and says she "writes for the fun of it."

The 14-year-old will also start ninth grade at Northville High School in the fall, and plans on attending the University of Michigan upon graduation.

The third place award is the first serious recognition she has received for her writing.

When she's not writing, Heather likes to play softball, rollerblade, practice her clarinet and spend time with her friends.

Once again, Kim and Heather, we're sorry you weren't featured along with your classmates.

COLOR MY WORLD: Those attending last week's Northville School Board meeting were treated to the works of several budding artists. Eight students from grades two through 12 donated artwork to the district.

Drawings and paintings of all sizes were displayed to the board, and the art will be placed prominently throughout the district offices and schools.

The artists donating their work were: Heather Zinser, second grade, Amerman School; Stefano Giammarco, third grade, Moraine School; Nataly Giammona, third grade, Silver Springs School; Araneh Amierskandari, fifth grade; Thornton Creek School; Shauna Waione, fifth grade, Winchester School; Heather Qualman, seventh grade, Cooke Middle School; Michael Addison, eighth grade, Meads Mill Middle School; and Zanolbia Shouair, 12th grade, Northville High School.

Congratulations artists.

FLY LIKE AN EAGLE: Also at the Northville Board of Education meeting, several teenagers received certificates of recognition for scouting accomplishments. First on the list was Paul M. Szarnowski, who recently earned his Eagle Scout Award from Northville Troop 755. Amanda Hallberg and Amy Thelen also received recognition for earning Girl Scout Gold Awards.

THANKS FOR THE HARD WORK: The Northville Public School District also honored three members of the PTA/PTSA. Caryn Doehler, co-council president, Jan Naigus, co-council treasurer, and Diana Stadtmiller, co-council secretary, received honors for their dedication and support of the students and staff.

Doehler and Naigus both served in their positions from 1993 to 1995, while Stadtmiller will return as co-council secretary for another year.

New home building continues rapid clip

Continued economic recovery in Southeast Michigan has led to a significant increase in new residential construction, according to the recently published Residential Construction in Southeast Michigan 1994 from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

"Strong employment levels, population growth, attractive mortgage rates and improved consumer confidence in a growing economy were major contributors to this residential development," said Jim Rogers, SEMCOG's DataCenter manager.

Residential building permits were issued for 21,176 units in 1994, up from 17,293 in 1993. The 22.5 percent increase in new housing permits is the region's largest annual percentage increase since 1985.

Southeast Michigan's seven counties reported increases in residential permit issuance in 1994. The increases ranged from 31.7 percent in Livingston County to 7.9 percent in Wayne County.

Oakland County registered the largest numerical increase with 1,623 units. Almost three-fourths of the new housing units were located in the counties of Oakland, Macomb and Wayne.

Of this new residential development, 74.2 percent of the permits were issued for 15,704 single-family homes compared to 23.4 percent for multiple-family residential units and 2.4 percent for two-family homes.

The number of single family homes increased by 19.5 percent across the region, which reflects the highest number of single family units since 1978. Two- and multi-family housing permits resulted in 5,472 units in 1994, 31.8 percent above 1993 levels.

Oakland County had the largest number of single family permits issued in 1994 with 5,583 units or 35.5 percent of the region's total. In the counties of Livingston, St. Clair and Monroe, 91.9 percent of residential development was for single family homes.

SEMCOG issues a residential construction report annually. Local government building departments report information to SEMCOG on a monthly basis. The Monroe County Planning Commission reports information to SEMCOG semi-annually.

A copy of the report may be obtained by contacting Jim Thomas, SEMCOG's Information Services Officer, (313) 961-4266.

THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDINANCE NO. 100 AMENDMENTS TO GRADING AND DRAINAGE

An ordinance to amend Chapter 81 of Ordinance No. 100, Grading and Drainage, to revise the various sections as highlighted and noted below:

81.010. Purpose. The purposes of this Chapter are: to regulate building and driveway grades, sump pump discharge, building downspouts and surface and ground drainage with respect to property within the Township; to provide for the administration of the requirements hereof; and to provide for the issuance of permits as set forth herein; to comply with federal, state and local law regarding the introduction of the drainage waters into sanitary sewers; to protect and enhance the public health, safety, interest, and general welfare. (Ord. 68, Sec. 2, 10-15-80; as amended, Ord. __, Sec. __, 5-__-95)

81.070. Protection of Sanitary Sewer System. No person shall permit the entry of any roof, ground or surface water into the sanitary sewer system or direct any roof, ground or surface water in such a manner that it enters the sanitary sewer system. Any building or structure having or suspected of having a foot drain and/or sump pump discharge line connection into the Township's sanitary sewer system may be assessed a footing drain/sump connection (FSC) surcharge, which is a penalty of $50 to be levied each bi-monthly billing period, deemed necessary to encourage property owners who are illegally connected into the sanitary sewer system to disconnect and replumb their footing and drain system in a lawful manner. Prior to instituting the FSC surcharge, the Township will make reasonable efforts to ascertain the validity of a suspected inappropriate connection source. The minimum procedures that shall be followed in validating a suspected illegal connection are as follows:

1. Upon notice from the community or detection on the Townships own accord of a suspected illegal connection into the sanitary sewer, the suspected building, or structure, address, and date will be recorded and an attempt made by the Township by telephone to contact the property owner to schedule an in-house inspection of the sanitary sewer lead and sump pump plumbing configuration within two (2) weeks time.
2. If, after two (2) weeks, an inspection is not successfully scheduled via telephone, a certified letter shall be sent to the property, requesting an in-house inspection of the sanitary lead and sump pump plumbing configuration or, in lieu of a acceptance of a certified letter, the Township may post the property with notice of request for inspection on the front door or other prominent area on the property. The property owner shall be allowed two (2) weeks to reply and schedule an inspection by the Township.
3. If, after two (2) weeks, no in-house inspection is scheduled or allowed by the property owner, a final notification, identified as a final notification, shall be sent via certified mail, requesting an inspection of the sanitary lead and sump pump plumbing configuration, or in lieu of acceptance of a certified letter, the Township may post the property with notice of request for an inspection on the front door or other prominent area on the property. The property owner shall be allowed two (2) weeks to reply to the final notification and schedule an inspection with the Township.
4. If the final notification is not responded to by the property owner within the allotted two (2) week time period, the FSC surcharge shall be applied to appropriate sanitary sewer account and notice given to the property owner that the FSC surcharge has been applied to the property and will be applied to their property until such time that the sanitary sewer lead and sump pump discharge connection has been inspected by the Township and it has been determined that an inappropriate connection to the Township's sanitary sewer system does not exist within the building or structure. All FSC surcharges assessed shall be made due and payable within the normal utility billing, in addition to the normal sewer service fees. All unpaid FSC surcharge costs assessed, and other normal sewer services fees, shall be subject to late payment penalties as well as any method of collection reserved by the Township consistent with the collection of delinquent water and sewer service account balances.
5. If, upon an actual in-house inspection by the Township, an appropriate plumbing connection is present, the owner shall be notified, and the FSC surcharge, if any has been applied toward the property, shall be removed from future billings.
6. If, upon inspection by the Township, an illegal and/or inappropriate connection is noted, a notice of violation shall be written up and provided to the property owner stating that the property owner has fifteen (15) days to cure the illegal connection. The FSC surcharge will be implemented at the end of the fifteen (15) day period and shall continue until the improper connection has been re-inspected by the Township and it has been determined that an improper connection to the sanitary sewer system does not exist within the building or structure unless the property was already being assessed an FSC surcharge in which case it shall continue until the connection violation is cured and inspected to the satisfaction of the Township.
7. All reports of any inspection and subsequent findings shall be recorded by the Township and made available to the owner.
8. All in-house inspections made by the Township shall be made in the presence of the homeowner, the property resident, or any other person designated by the property owner or property resident.
9. Any and all reinspection of a property shall be charged against the customer, in accordance with the Township's approved fee schedule. (Ord. 63, Sec. 7, 10-15-80, as amended, Ord. __, Sec. __, 5-__-95)
- 81.080. Penalties. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this Chapter shall be subject to the penalties specified for a violation of the Township Code in Chapter 1 of said Township Code, in addition to any other specified penalties noted in Chapter 81 of this Code of Ordinances. Each day that the violation of this Chapter is continued or permitted to exist without compliance shall constitute a separate offense punishable upon conviction in the same manner as heretofore prescribed. (Ord. 63, Sec. 8, 10-15-80, as amended, Ord. __, Sec. __, 5-__-95)

These Ordinance amendments may become effective upon the second reading of the ordinance (6-22-95 NR)

There is also continued emphasis on mastery learning and cooperative learning, according to Rezmierski. Business partnerships and service learning have also been expanded and are providing relevant learning experiences for students, he said.

Despite the current changes in education funding, the board stated that the district is in good financial shape. An annual audit indicated the district managed funds exceptionally well, allowing the district to set money aside for fund equity while restoring previously cut programs.

More importantly, the evaluation claims that persistence in the Durant Case could result in the district recovering funds from the state for mandated programs. The Durant Case was a lawsuit filed against the state in the mid 1980's for violation of the Headlee Amendment, which mandates a state level of funding for special educational programs.

"In the conversion to proposition A, this district is getting used to the change and we have adapted," Rezmierski added.

Other issues highlighted a busy year for the district, Rezmierski said. The district was able to concern the facilities might be vandalized," Swigert said. "I don't really consider that a good reason not to include those facilities."

Dehring explained that the majority of the area is located in a flood plain, driving up the cost of those types of facilities.

"The city could certainly add those facilities to the plan but we don't feel it is appropriate to add them currently due to the cost," he said.

Northville resident Steve Ball cited possible traffic conflicts in the plan that needed to be looked at before the park was developed.

"The pedestrian walkway (off of Griswold) could cause a conflict with vehicles that already travel that street at a high rate of speed," he said. "I'm concerned with the safety of pedestrians that will use that walkway."

Ball also expressed concern over the issue of park security.

"I'm concerned with kids hanging out," he said. "I'm concerned that we are not addressing the security problems and that we're creating the potential for mischief."

Dehring said that the roads built into the park design would allow police and emergency vehicles easy access to the park allow for patrols and response to emergencies. He said that gates, which could be locked after park closing hours, would promote better security.

The master plan, according to council member Paul Folino, is to "show what can be done with the area." The members of the Parks and Recreation Commission and the city council will take up these issues as they come along," he said.

"The public will also help us to resolve these issues," Folino added.

Parks and Recreation Commission Director Traci Johnson added that the Public Works, Police and Fire departments will all have input in the design and implementation phase of the plan.

Also of concern to the council was the question of parking. The master plan currently calls for 60 spaces to be constructed, but that number may not be sufficient, according to Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers. She called for the area designed as an open play field to be considered for additional parking.

"We don't know if the 60 spaces are going to sufficiently handle the volume," she said.

Currently people utilize the parking lot at Arbor Drugs, and according to Dehring, the 60 spaces were designed to alleviate parking in private lots.

will," Word said. "He is now in a position where he must comply, or the city will take action."

Word said legal action forcing compliance would be the next step should Roth decide to do nothing.

Roth told commissioners that nine years wasn't an unreasonable amount of time.

"I've been working 15 years to get a telephone pole removed, so I feel this is not a great amount of time to get this done," he said.

"I have made efforts to rectify these problems," Roth added.

According to R. Donald Wortman, the city's planning consultant, Roth has plenty of unresolved issues to address. He told commissioners that not only is

Roth non-compliant with the site plan, he has yet to complete paying that the city currently holds a bond for

Also of note, he explained, was that a final certificate of approval has not been issued for the Hungry Howie Pizza store, located on Roth's property next to the Good Time Party store.

"Other unresolved issues include insufficient parking, grading, drainage and erosion problems at the rear of the building," Wortman said. "(Roth) is also required to remove the residence at the corner of 7 Mile and River Street."

Roth's request to keep the house on the property was previously denied by the Zoning Board of Appeals, Wortman said.

"Our objective is to bring the planning commission up to date in these matters, obtain compliance from Mr. Roth and to review the latest site plan submittal," Wortman added.

The commission voted unanimously to table Roth's request for change of site plan, and ordered Roth to have made the necessary changes to bring him into compliance by the next meeting of the Planning and Zoning Commission, July 18.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations will conduct an accreditation survey of Hawthorn Center on July 10, 11, 12, 1995. The purpose of the survey will be to evaluate the organization's compliance with nationally established Joint Commission standards. The survey results will be used to determine whether, and the conditions under which accreditation should be awarded the organization.

Joint Commission standards deal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:

Our Opinion

Time's right to give go-ahead to Ward

The Northville Township Planning Commission Tuesday will once again give consideration to the proposed Ward Presbyterian Church/retail development for the northwest corner of Six Mile and Haggerty.

The proposal has caused quite a bit of controversy and consternation, as planners, residents and township officials have spent months discussing and debating the plan's various aspects.

We believe it's time - probably past time - that the planning commission forward the Haggerty Planned Unit Development (HPUD) concept to the board of trustees with its blessing.

No further alterations to the plan are necessary and no additional delays are justified. The commission should recognize the considerable benefits the plan offers and vote to recommend the proposal to elected officials.

The proposed development consists of three main components: a 240,000 square foot church, 284,000 square feet of retail space and approximately 83 acres of undeveloped open area.

The land is owned by Ward, and church representatives have every intention of constructing a new church to accommodate their burgeoning congregation. The church is currently located at Six Mile and Farmington in Livonia, but the building is bulging at the seams. The facility can't hold all the celebrants, and parking spill over is a problem in that intersection.

Ward will build on its Northville Township land eventually, as the current zoning in the vicinity allows for the construction of a church. It also allows for office and residential development, so even if the HPUD is ultimately rejected fall back plans could be brought into play.

But that's not part of the program, and residents should be pleased that it isn't. An earlier proposal consisting of offices and a subdivision was scrapped during the refinement process.

To say that representatives of the church and the Grand-Sakwa development firm have gone the extra mile to address township concerns is an understatement. In addition to reducing the total number of parking spaces by 1,000 and the retail areas by roughly 16,000 square feet, amenities have been offered that far exceed anything in the two other HPUDs in the township.

Developers have met the 60/40 open space/developed land requirement, but have sweetened the deal considerably. The open space included in the plan isn't just unimproved land. Several softball diamonds and two tennis courts are envisioned.

Under an agreement between the land owner and the township, the diamonds would be available for public use 3.5 days a week for the next 10 years. The facilities would be maintained by the church at no expense to the township. The tennis courts would be available to the public every day of the week, permanently.

The 10 year, no expense use of the diamonds represents a far more generous arrangement than anything the community now enjoys. At the end of the 10-year period, church representatives say they'll renegotiate the agreement, making changes only if adjustments are needed.

The Ward proposal would also result in the improvement of a stretch of Six Mile without the use of local funds. The $750,000 project to widen the road to five lanes would be financed through a federal grant of $600,000, while the local match would be paid for by the church.

But the offer doesn't stand indefinitely. The grant money must be earmarked before mid August or the dollars will be lost. All the more reason to move on the HPUD request without further delay.

As for the retail aspect of the proposal, it is top notch. The building will be done in Williamsburg style, with an all-brick facade. The main building, housing some 10 businesses, will make use of real cast stone with cupola, and screening materials will be used to hide mounted equipment on the roof.

The exteriors of the two outlot buildings for use by restaurants will match the main complex, creating a village-like appearance. As part of a deed restriction with Ward, no bars will be permitted in the establishment.

Some concern has been expressed that the retail tenants are chain varieties that will bring a blatant commercial look to the area.

The fact is that the stores - Barnes & Noble, Computer City, Office Depot, Bed, Bath and Beyond - are upscale businesses appealing to a professional class of shopper. Even the Farmer Jack is a new concept grocery with many specialty shops inside.

It appears to us that the people who have spoken out in opposition to this development have based their objections on a faulty premise. They seem to think that the Ward plan is less desirable than no development at all, and that rejection would result in nothing ever going in at that intersection.

But that assumes that the area can remain an open field indefinitely, and that simply won't happen. A more realistic approach would be to admit that some type of development there is inevitable and weigh the benefits of the Ward proposal based on what could come instead.

Given the fact that the green space would be highly beneficial, that the retailers have good balance sheets and that the buildings would be attractively styled, we believe the Ward plan is quite commendable and better than any alternative that is liable to present itself.

In any case, if the HPUD is not approved and the matter ends up in litigation, there is every likelihood that the township will lose some of the extra amenities the church and the developer have agreed to include.

Ward, we feel confident, will be a responsible and contributing township resident. But those who need reassurances can comfort themselves by knowing that, through this development, the church is building its own neighborhood that it plans to use for at least the next 50 years.

It's unlikely it would do anything to compromise the integrity of the area.

Jeans and genes at folk festival

Tom Rice, the owner of the Gitfiddler Music Store and organizer of the annual Folk & Bluegrass Festival, has outdone himself this year.

Lee Snider

Tom always books great name entertainment acts for his knee-slappin' gigs, but next month's to-do will feature no less a performer than (drum roll, please) - Francis Collins!

Impressed? Perplexed is probably more like it.

Collins, a doctor, is engaged in some of the most important work medical science has ever known. He and a team of researchers are involved in a program to identify every single gene in the DNA catalog.

Called the Human Genome Project, the massive endeavor is striving to plot out a biomedical map that will provide directions to every defective gene responsible for more than 3,000 known diseases.

Gene isolation is the first step toward understanding disease. Once faulty genes have been pinpointed, research brains can then go to work on treatments and, hopefully, cures.

So why has Collins decided to emerge from his think-tank cocoon in Bethesda, Md., and travel north to our little shindig?

A couple of years ago, the Genome Project succeeded in identifying the gene that causes Huntington's disease. Huntington's, most locals know through Tom's efforts, is what claimed folk hero Woodie Guthrie. It also took the life of Tom's sister back in 1976. Collins was instrumental in helping identify the Huntington's gene.

Proceeds from the F&B Festival are donated to Huntington's research.

But that's only part of the connection.

Sure, Collins will take a few moments and talk to the festival audience about Huntington's and the complex work involved in combating it. I'm sure he'll also use some six syllable words and high-sounding phrases to describe the dramatic discoveries he and his white-coated colleagues have come up with.

But then comes the fun part.

I mentioned that Collins is a performer and I didn't mean just with a splicing knife. He also plays the guitar, and he plans to take the stage and plunk out a few tunes on the old gitfiddle. They say he handles the banjo with surgical precision too.

I don't know about you, but I just think this is a hoot of a story. Here is this man who's involved in one of the most ambitious medical adventures of all time, and he's going to share a playbill with a bunch of guys who wear torn denim and look like they never heard of a razor before.

What a cool twist. It's given us a neat new angle for our pre-festival coverage (see story page 9-A).

I remember when Tom first told me they had identified the Huntington's gene. His voice carried true excitement as he delivered the news. Yet, even as he was genuinely hopeful over the prospects for Huntington's treatment, he was quick to point out that there's still a desperate need for research money. His labor of love, the annual F&B bash, is far from obsolete.

As near as I can tell from the reading I've done, gene identification has led to predictive testing for Huntington's, but little else. People with family histories of Huntington's can take a test to find out if they possess the gene that causes the disease. The procedure, however, is controversial.

If you've got the gene, time is not on your side. Unlike other illnesses where you can test positive and never come down with the symptoms, Huntington's genes eventually lead to Huntington's disease. There's no getting around it.

So why would you want to know something like that? Some people choose to take the test but others want no part of it. How can you live a normal life after finding out you're doomed?

In any event, the future can't look too bleak with people like Doc Collins and Tom Rice around. From their likes we get two essentials: medical research and sweet music.

Head games

The proper place for stadium

Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer came to town recently to talk to the Novi Chamber of Commerce and chambers of the surrounding communities.

Mike Malott

And it was a pretty impressive speech. I think he struck a cord with those in attendance when he noted that most people who live in the suburbs around Detroit grew up in the city and want to go back there if only for a visit from time to time. Certainly, they want the city to do well and they recognize, as Archer pointed out, that if the city does well economically, everyone - including the suburbs - will benefit. Archer got several standing ovations as he talked about the need for the city's development and cooperation with the suburbs.

But he also took the time to say he believes there is a need to build a new tiger stadium. Of course, Archer is not the only one. As soon as the professional ballplayers came back from strike this spring, the issue of a building a new tiger stadium came back too, and the Tigers owners were right back on the stump for their plan to use public dollars to help build the stadium.

Of course, much of the debate centers on the issue of where the stadium is going to go. Should it be in Detroit or in the suburbs? Archer would like it to be in Detroit, and he told the chambers so during his speech.

Some suburbs would no doubt love to get such a facility, even though some clearly would not. The Novi City Council is already on record saying it does not want such a stadium.

Frankly, I don't care where they put the thing. Here in a nutshell is the proposal - my version, not theirs. They want me and you to pay taxes from our middle-class incomes to help build a new workplace for a bunch of rich guys who make their living playing ball in the summertime, and they'll make more millions by continuing to charge prices for tickets to this new stadium that you and I can't afford.

Oh, yea, I can't wait to vote for that one (please no heavy dripping sarcasm). ... No, no, wait a minute ... I do have a pretty good idea where they can put it.

High school day was beneficial

As a parent and educator in Northville, I have always thought that the high school, half-day on Wednesdays was a good idea. Not only did it offer the opportunity for NHS staff to work together as a team (something which is prohibitive under their normal schedules) but it also allowed students to become actively involved in their own education.

For my son, sleeping-in was never an option. Every Wednesday morning I dropped him off at the school at 7:45; from that point on, it was up to him to determine how to use his time.

The computer lab was available, as were test preparatory classes, and study halls. He and several friends, however, chose to form a video production group. They're called "Generation Now," and their first half-hour series of skits is soon to be shown on the Omnicom channel.

I don't know if there will be any Emmy Awards, but the experience itself has been powerfully positive: my son's grades have improved, his participation in school activities has increased, and his levels of self-confidence and responsibility have grown. To be honest, there were times when we questioned the usefulness of this venture, but we allowed him to choose and to live with the consequences of his choices.

This year, with a little guidance from their parents, students at Northville High School have had the opportunity to make decisions regarding their own education. What a great learning opportunity this has been!

Perhaps some of the parents who protest that the Wednesday mornings as a waste of time are angry more at their own parenting than at the school.

Teachers can be proud of grads

To the Editor:

Once again you have not only printed another letter from Mr. Lenheiser in which he rambles on about teacher salaries, computers, gambling, parking lots, and his clients' retirement pay, but you gave it a big headline, "Teachers make off with sweet deal."

This month I attended the Commencement for the Class of 1995 at Northville High School. It brought back a lot of nice memories of my high school graduation 31 years ago.

Looking through the program caused me to also reflect on some of the achievements of my graduating class of around 800 students from Ann Arbor Pioneer High, and comparing them to the Northville High School 1995 class. I recall that we had one or two valedictorians and salutatorians.

The Northville High School Class of 1995 produced eight valedictorians and six salutatorians from just 262 graduates. When I got home I continued counting the academic awards listed in the program. It took a while, because there were 70 National Honor Society students, 72 President's Education Awards Programs students, 121 State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship Certificate of Recognition Students, and 146 Honor Students.

These awards and scholarships came from an unbelievable number of prestigious sources such as The State of Michigan, major corporations, major universities, and local and regional sources.

Mr. Lenheiser and the sources he quotes in his letter might not be impressed with the Northville High School Class of 1995 and their achievements, but I was not only impressed, I was proud and astounded that so few students could earn so many important and significant awards. I began to wonder what sort of pay and benefit cuts Mr. Lenheiser feels the teachers that educated these underachievers deserve.

I also wonder if Mr. Lenheiser really believes that after teaching and preparing students to perform at such a high level for 25 or 30 years, they deserve to retire in poverty, or maybe just keep on teaching until they die. That is if we don't come up with ways to get rid of the "lousy teachers." The recipients of these many awards were educated, not in a private or charter school, but in a public school system.

This country was built on public education, and if results count for anything, public education is serving the citizens of Northville exceptionally well.

In the few years I have lived in Northville Township, I have aware that Northville had a highly regarded school system, but until I attended my son's commencement, I didn't realize the truly superior level of academic excellence our students achieve in the school system here. I would bet my eye teeth that the class of 1996 and beyond will also achieve at this level and more.

I would also wager that The Northville Record will continue to print letters like the one Mr. Lenheiser wrote, regardless of the tremendous and continuous successes achieved within the school system in Northville.

And finally, a quote for Mr. Lenheiser. In a Frontline television documentary on education narrated by Roger Mudd, in his closing remarks he said, "Teachers work harder than you do, no matter what you do." I have known many teachers, and am married to a first grade teacher (not in the Northville system), and Mr. Mudd was 100 percent right! Teachers work very hard, but oh how proud and satisfied they must feel on a June commencement night. I would.

Clarification on school computers

To the Editor:

I appreciate the recent volunteer article that allowed me to represent the many citizens that have volunteered their time for the future of our school system. Many of them, including school staff members, have invested far more time than I in this effort.

The article portrayed our work in a positive light, but had a couple of errors in fact and in emphasis that need clarification. It is important that the citizens of Northville base their decision on accurate facts regarding what we propose for the school district. Our efforts as committee members are now directed toward informing the community of the decision they will make in the voting booth this fall.

The school district now has three computers in each elementary classroom. Based on the teaching staff's experience we are recommending adding computer labs in all schools because the lab environment proves very effective. The older existing PCs will be upgraded or farmed out to the proposed lending program.

The school district has access to the Internet right now. Many classes use the Internet regularly. It may be possible, with a coordinated effort, to provide Internet access to the community as a whole under the new proposal.

Five years ago the school district installed a wide area network whose technology is still very current and has ample expansion capacity. Its primary function is as a district computer network. A very cost-effective side benefit of the existing system is its use as the district's telephone system.

We propose community access in which telephone lines will be installed allowing residents to dial in view modem. They can use the libraries and other resources of the district. It is not a part of our current proposal to connect to the new library, although it is technically possible.

Again, it is crucial that the community understands exactly what the bonding, enhancement and technology committees propose. All we can ask of any individual is an informed decision.

Students well behaved on trip

To the Editor:

The eighth grade Meads Mill Middle School Band recently returned from a successful competition trip to Toronto, Canada. The students made an excellent musical appearance and represented our district in the most positive and enthusiastic ways.

We, as chaperones, were proud of them, and pleased to sponsor them. We could not have asked more of their performance or behavior.

The thrust of this letter is two-pronged. One, to let the board of education and the school district know that trips such as this one are rewarding experiences for students, teachers, and parents. That we can count on our students to perform and conduct themselves responsibly and represent our school district in the best possible way.

Secondly, we want to send a special message to the school board, Meads Mill administrators, and her peers, that Roxanne Minch is an exemplary teacher, a role model, a hard worker, and above all, one of the most positive influences that our children have had in their school experience. It was only through her extraordinary efforts that our students performed well and enjoyed an experience that happens only rarely for students.

Those of us who chaperoned are well aware that she spent her spring break finalizing plans for this trip, taking care that students had every opportunity to perform well, and to make the most of a true bonding experience: this, in addition to a number of fund-raisers, over the course of the school year and her full load of teaching responsibilities, competitions, and concerts.

We cannot express how much we appreciate Ms. Minch's dedication to her students, her positive influence on our teenagers, her enthusiasm for music, and her professional handling of an overwhelming task. We are very lucky to have her as one of our professionals in this school district.

8th grader gets memorial award

To the Editor:

At the Tuesday, June 13, Meads Mill Honor Night, Amanda Sprader, an eighth grader, was announced as the sixth recipient of the Jody Schwartz Memorial Award. Amanda plans to use the $200 award "to take music lessons to become more proficient at playing the clarinet."

Goals she has set for herself include joining the marching and symphonic bands in high school and then continuing on to play in the University of Michigan marching band. Amanda has participated in three years of band and jazz band at Meads Mill Middle School.

The award was created by donations from family and friends in memory of Jody Schwartz who died suddenly in the summer of 1989 before her eighth grade year at Meads Mill. This award is to be used for a summer enrichment activity such as a camp or lessons in music or art. Selection of each year's recipient is made by a committee composed of staff at Meads Mill, friends and Jody's parents.

Thanks to honest wallet finder

To the Editor:

On the recent Memorial Day weekend, I had the misfortune of losing my wallet. Upon realizing that I no longer had it with me, I retraced the route I had taken several times. My search produced no results, and I returned home with a heavy heart.

However, upon reaching home, I learned that my wallet had been turned into the City of Northville Police Department by someone who had found it on the side of the street at Main and Griswold. The contents were intact.

To that kind and honest person, I humbly offer my thanks. My family and I will be moving from Northville to Ohio soon, and I will miss this area very much. My recent experience only confirms the feeling I've had all along, of what a good place this is to live.

Thank you again.

Trustees remarks were on target

To the Editor:

I have just read Russ Fogg's letter in your June 15, edition. It is a very fine letter and reflects Russ Fogg's true character.

My relationships with Mr. Fogg have revealed him as a very astute member of the Northville Township Board of Trustees and a fair and reasonable politician.

When the day finally dawns, in some distant future, when the majority of public servants are deeply concerned with the needs of their constituents, as Russ Fogg certainly is, the world will be a much better place.

Duck feeding is harmless

To the Editor:

The "Please Don't Feed the Ducks" ban is not an issue of fat ducks, pollution or disease. It is an issue of the usurpation of the park for "people use."

Suddenly, city administrators and the Planning commission have concluded that the wild fowl must go. Although the ducks and geese do not make Northville, they do contribute to making Northville unique. Where else in Metro Detroit can youngsters and oldsters have the pleasure of feeding and touching "wild birds?"

Planned in their place will be another asphalt jungle—walking, bike paths, fishing docks, bridges, a gazebo. No one except the band uses the gazebo two blocks west of the park. There are bike and walking paths in Hines Parkway, a mile away.

The planners are concerned about overweight fowl. Any extra weight that outdoor creatures take on is because of the need to assimilate fat to sustain them through winter when food is scarce. I have yet to see a fat duck.

Pollution: hardly. I am able to walk among them without dirtying my shoes or clothing.

Rats: Never have I seen a rat or even a mouse in the vicinity of the park. Mrs. Kelly needs a course in animal biology. Yes, there are ground hogs and an occasional muskrat, but muskrats rarely venture far from water. A muskrat is definitely not a rat.

Infectious diseases: What diseases do ducks and geese carry? I've inquired and no biologist can provide an answer. Infectious, yes! They cause kids to squeal and adults to smile. They bring their babies for us "humans" to admire.

I've seen buses carrying seniors stop so that they could watch the ducks feeding. Remarkably close proximity to animals, touching and feeding them has a profound effect on human physical and emotional wellbeing.

Never have I witnessed the wild fowl in an attack mode toward people. More often than not, they wait patiently for the food to be distributed, even in winter, when food is scarce.

I wonder—what will people do with the fish they may catch from the docks that may be built. These are not food fish in the waters but rather scavenger fish. Will the fish be tormented, caught, released, caught again? I wonder!

Mary Braddock

Troop presence is unnecessary

To the Editor:

In a recent letter to Senator Carl Levin I asked the multi-billion dollar question: "Senator, what are our 100,000 American soldiers, presently located in Bavaria, doing there, what are they guarding against?"

Given the defunct status of Russia's power and influence in the world, it would seem that the billions spent in keeping our soldiers and their families overseas—plus the money they spend while living there—one is at a loss to understand why we don't consider relocating our soldiers along the California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas borders so as to halt the influx of illegal aliens who at present find our border with Mexico a veritable sieve.

Barbara Jordan, a respected former Congresswoman, has been commissioned to study immigration problems that confront our nation. Relocating our soldiers from Germany to our southwestern border with Mexico would make her task easier.

Though Russia remains militarily powerful, her decision to march in the direction of a free market, free press, and democratic principles, means that her threat to the world order has been drastically reduced.

Again, for what reason do we maintain 100,000 troops in Bavaria, at such expense?

It is to be hoped that the 30,000 American soldiers, stationed in South Korea for the past 40 plus years, will also be returned to the U.S. once South and North Korea settle their differences.

Lawmaker opposes Engler move to quit education cooperative

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Dorothy Beardmore, a State Board of Education member, is fighting Gov. John Engler's effort to pull Michigan out of the Midwestern Higher Education Compact.

Beardmore, R-Rochester, told a Senate Appropriations panel the eight-state group has saved higher education far more than the $58,000 annual dues it has cost.

"A telecommunications network was created. Institutions of higher education saved $3.5 million on purchases of $16 million for interactive video equipment and room design," she told senators in a hearing in Flint.

Lawmakers like interactive video, in which a teacher on one campus addresses students in another location — even an industrial plant — by two-way video. It is seen as making good use of valuable resources and cost savings.

"Property insurance costs have been reduced by group purchases," Beardmore said. "There have been enhanced loss control efforts."

Development of minority faculty, leadership programs for women in higher education and computer software packages for class scheduling are among other accomplishments of the compact, Beardmore said.

She was the only person to speak for or against the compact in last Wednesday's four-hour hearing. The rest of the session was devoted to budget presentations from university presidents and chancellors.

"I've supported that in the past," said Sen. John Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, chair of the Senate subcommittee on higher education appropriations. "You have my commitment to look at it."

Beardmore, a former member of the Rochester and Oakland Intermediate school boards, is in her second term on the State Board.

A moderate, she sometimes finds herself at odds with Engler and his conservative ally, Clark Durant, the president of the State Board.

Engler proposes to zero out the $58,000 dues figure, though his budget message doesn't give a reason. Michigan joined in 1990. Currently the compact has eight members: Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Wisconsin. Still out are Indiana and Iowa.

The House went along with Engler, dropping the item from this year's higher education budget. The $1.3 billion bill is now in the Senate.

"This will be the most hotly contested of the 18 or 19 budget bills," Schwarz said as the hearing opened.

"I have some disagreements with the bill as it came over from the House," he added in a major understatement.

Make that boating outing safe

Staying alert, using personal flotation devices and being aware of your watercraft's capabilities can head off most boating accidents this summer, according to AAA of Michigan.

Michigan leads the nation with registered boats, with more than 874,000 reported in 1993. In 1993, state boating accidents claimed 41 lives, more than any other state except California and Florida. Another 221 victims were injured that same year.

"Capsizing and falling overboard remain the leading cause of boating fatalities," said Jerry Basch, AAA Michigan Community Safety Services Manager. "But, many of these accidents can be prevented."

Even with your lifejacket or personal flotation device (PFD) on, staying alert is essential to safe boating, he said. Boaters should be aware that several hours in the sun, glare, waves and wind can double an individual's reaction time. Alcohol also slows a boater's response, impairing vision and balance.

Personal watercraft are subject to the same laws as all other boats, cautioned Basch. Because they are highly maneuverable, they are fun and easy to use, but, as with all watercraft, care should be exercised when they are operated.

Personal flotation devices also save lives. Michigan law requires one PFD for each person on board. New laws enacted in 1994 require children under six to wear PFDs on any boat, from canoes to sailboats to cruisers.

Legislators are also clamping down on drunk boating. Laws enacted in 1993 provide that a boat operator with a blood alcohol level of .10 percent or more who causes a death, faces up to 15 years in jail and a fine between $2,500 and $10,000.

Safety tips for boaters:

- Fire extinguishers are required on motorboats with enclosed engines and recommended for all watercraft.

- Check the weather forecast before leaving home and monitor a marine radio frequency for warnings while under way.

- Carry basic tools and a first aid kit.

- Give a trip plan with destination and expected return time to someone reliable and notify that person of any changes.

"A THRILL-PACKED JOY RIDE!"

There's no fun machine this summer that packs more surprises.

Mill Race Matters

On Sunday, June 25, local area authors will be on hand to sell and autograph their publications. In addition, publications of the Northville Historical Society will be available for sale along with light refreshments. The sale takes place during village hours from 1 until 4 p.m. Docents will provide escorted tours of the village buildings.

Every Sunday thereafter for the remainder of the summer village buildings will be open each Sunday, 1-4 p.m. Docent help is always needed. If you would like to volunteer to assist in showing the community's historic village contact 348-1845 Monday through Friday.

As always Mill Race Village will open after the July 4 parade until 5 p.m. In addition to all buildings being open a variety of activities will be presented for your "Old Fashioned Fourth of July" celebration. Guests are encouraged to bring picnic lunches and blankets so that they can spend the afternoon.

Because Mill Race is a Victorian Village participants are encouraged to leave vehicles at home. Parking is extremely limited in the area.

Country Garden Club of Northville presents its second annual Garden Walk on Wednesday, July 12, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Garden enthusiasts will visit six private gardens in the area as well as the gardens at Mill Race Village.

Tickets in advance are $7 and can be obtained from the Northville Chamber of Commerce, Bookstore on the Main, or mail order from 39614 Greenbrier Court, Northville, 48167 (810-420-3562). On the day of the event tickets will cost $8 and will be available at Mill Race.

Continuing with our local historical accounts:

William Ambler arrived in Northville in 1854 after having lived for 17 years in Detroit. He was born July 4, 1798, in Rutland, Vt.

On Jan. 21, 1826, he married Ursula Randall in Sodus, N.Y. They migrated to Detroit in 1837, where they began a fanning mill business which spread to Livonia and Salem. In Salem he built a steam saw mill where large quantities of fanning mills were produced.

William and Ursula became ardent abolitionists while in Detroit. Because of their stand on slavery they withdrew their membership from the M.E. Church and joined the Wesleyan Methodists who were strong abolitionists. During this period they are known to have participated in the Underground Railroad.

The Amblers arrived in Northville having sold their farm and business. They purchased the southwest corner of Main and Center (where Main Centre stands today) and turned the existing building into a hotel. Four years later, in 1858, the Ambler Hotel was erected on that spot.

On Jan. 1, 1859, a gala ball took place in the facility. Although Ambler later sold it, the structure continued to operate as a hotel until the 1920s when fire destroyed it. The hotel served as headquarters for the stage routes for Detroit. Ambler also bought the mill pond south of town, renaming it Ambler Pond.

JEWELS AND JUNK

go to the highest bidder

Saturday was the last time Max Roder climbed into the bed of a pickup truck and for six hours peddled lost or stolen property.

Roder, a property officer for the Novi Police Department, retires in January and the job of auctioneer for the Novi Police Auction will fall to someone else.

The auction, which is held in the Novi Police Department parking lot, increased from a biennial event to an annual event four or five years ago due to the increase in confiscated, lost or stolen property that accumulates at the police department.

Roder has acted as auctioneer for the last four or five years.

Most of the clothing auctioned on Saturday was found at Twelve Oaks Mall.

"People leave packages sitting there and security picks it up," Roder said. "They hold it 30 days and they turn it over to us and we hold it an additional 90 before we declare it auctionable." Property is kept at least 90 days before it is put up for the next auction.

Some merchandise is from outside the city and the stores just don't want to come pick it up, while other things are shoplifted.

"The law provides for the finder to recover it in 90 days," said Lt. Dave Butler. "That helps us if people come and get them then we don't have to handle them. So we don't make any money on them anyway."

"I sell it for whatever I can get," Roder said. "We're informal."

Some obsolete city equipment was also available such as a police radio console and a pool table from the Parks and Rec Department.

Of the assortment of bikes that ended up on the auction block, most are found but some are stolen and are untraceable.

Since the owners didn't have a good description or the serial number the bikes were never reclaimed. The police department has a disk with all the bikes that are registered with the police department.

Anything that is not sold, is given to charity or thrown out.

Roder began the auction bidding at 10 a.m. sharp with a little red wagon for 25 cents that quickly sold for $10.

Bidding on hot items such as roller blades, two Sega Genesis systems and telephones was swift.

A leather jacket, with the store tag that listed it for $300 sold for $50.

Irene Stebila bought a Liz Claiborne women's taupe jacket which retails for $110 for $2.

"If it doesn't fit me, it'll fit my daughter," she said.

People came prepared with coolers of pop which doubled as seats as the temperatures began to soar.

A tennis bracelet, went for $115, with a catch. Roder threw in the police radio console, so the lucky bidder also got to take home an added bonus.

Janet Hottum, a dispatcher with the Novi Police Department, was the proud owner of the bracelet and thought the equipment could be used for training. "If not, it's going to the dump," she said.

People thought not just of themselves when viewing merchandise which was hoisted up to Roder by his assistants Ted Clay and John Underhill, both are mechanics with the City of Novi, but of friends and family members.

The very petite LaReta Roder managed to scoop up a few silk blouses for only $1 a piece. The Novi resident, and wife of the auctioneer, paid only 25 cents for a blouse with a store tag of $76. She also paid $5 for a box of ladies' undergarments. Anything that didn't fit, she plans to donate to the battered women's shelter. She also scooped up a few baby items for her first grandchild which is due in two weeks.

John Hodges paid one cent for a bike which needed a few repairs. "It was a mistake," he explained to his dad.

A pair of white high heeled, thigh high boots brought cheers from the men and laughs from women but they went to Hottum for $1 who bought them as a joke.

Sometimes signals got crossed and spouses and friends mistakenly bid against each other. Other times, the highest bidders backed out, with a little encouragement from the audience, when it was clear that the competing bid was coming from a youngster with eyes sparkling with hope at the thought of a great deal.

People also knew a good deal when they saw it. An Eddie Bauer jacket which retailed for $175 went to the highest bidder at $45.

Jessie Lewis, who was with his grandfather, Robert, bought a pair of Fila shoes for 25 cents and a leather cassette case for $40, complete with cassettes. "I think he did excellent," his grandfather said.

Jessie was also the successful bidder on two sports jackets at less than half their original cost.

Wanda Edmunds, attending her first Novi Police Auction, walked away with a $150 pair of white Ferragamo pumps for $5. "They're a classic shoe," she explained to her husband. "I don't have to wait for the Lord and Taylor trunk show."

When the six hour auction was over, Roder began the paperwork. Every item had to be entered and accounted for. All money from the auction went into the general fund.

When Max Roder described a toast t-shirt it brought a chorus of laughter and a $3 bid.

At right, Janet Hottum was the highest bidder on a tennis bracelet which she shows to Irene Stebila. Robert and Jessie Lewis examine the newly purchased roller blade.

Kirk's eye car talks are a hit with the kids

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you think kids - kids like second graders - are squeamish about holding a real sheep's eye in their hands, you haven't met Dr. Timothy R. Kirk, an optometrist who puts on a demonstration for Partners for Education in the Northville school system.

He lets them hold it and squeeze it, even after it has been partly dissected.

"And their interest's are high. They really get excited," he said.

He knows because last year he talked to all of the 15 second grade classrooms in Northville. This year Novi has a similar program, called Partnerships in Education, and he talked to their 16 second grade classes on routine eye care and safety and helped with some sheep's eye dissections.

"That's close to 800 kinds," he said.

"They don't do the cutting themselves," he said. "I do the dissection, and they watch with interest as I tell them about the senses and the main parts of the eye."

"I discuss routine eye care," how the eye acts like a camera, and "I give each one a coloring book, describing the process."

Last year, Dr. Kirk spoke to all of the third grade classes on the solar eclipse and the importance of eye safety. He did a slide projection, showing the different parts of the eye and talked about the parts of the eye and general eye safety.

For the first graders he was host of the Teddy Bear Clinic for Moraine Elementary School and the University of Michigan Health Clinic.

But it was the third graders this year with whom tension ran the highest. Routine eye care and safety were there, but the sheep's eye dissections drove the point home and probably to the dinner table where squeamish adults didn't want to dampen the enthusiasm of their otherwise taciturn boy. He was excited and wanted to talk.

And it was all because Dr. Timothy R. Kirk, O.D., was involved as a volunteer for Partners for Education.

It's A Fact

Bat blues

Four rabid bats have been sighted in Oakland County although no bites have been reported. Bats are nocturnal, so if you see a bat during the day, chances are it's sick. If you see a rabid animal in Northville, call the police department at 349-1234. In Northville Township, call 348-9400 and in Novi, 348-7100.

Former resident wins makeover in New York City

Steve Ventura, a former Northville resident, has been selected as the grand prize winner of the Gillette Series "Grooming Your Guy" contest sponsored jointly by the Gillette Company and Bride's Magazine.

When fiancées, girl friends and wives across the country were invited to explain in 50 words or less, why their guys needed a grooming "overhaul", Ventura's fiancée, Amy Dowsett, 25, submitted a creative "Ode to Steve" in the form of an original poem entitled "My Cool Wave Man."

Ventura, 24 and Dowsett, who now live in Dowagiac, Mich., went to New York City where he had a head-to-toe grooming session. He toned his body at Peninsula Spa while he enjoyed spa treatments and a workout session with a personal trainer.

Damien Miano, co-owner of Miano/Viel Salon and Spa in New York City, conducted Ventura's grooming overhaul from hairstyle to skincare to wardrobe.

Bride's Magazine beauty editor Denise O'Donoghue was also on hand to provide Ventura and Dowsett with tips for a wedding day grooming.

Upon finding out he had won the contest Ventura couldn't believe it. "I'm a guy whose girl friend cuts his hair so spending the day with a professional stylist will be a real change," he said.

After his New York Excursion, Ventura was fitted for a custom tux at After Six Tuxedo and photographed for an After Six advertisement. Ventura hopes the exposure will help launch a new career in sports marketing. "I previously worked in fiberglass manufacturing, but have always dreamed of a career in sports marketing," Ventura said. "I think now is the time to make that change. Who knows, winning this contest might help."

The Gillette Series "Grooming Your Guy" contest is a first for The Gillette Company who is the world leader in blades and razors and holds a major position in the sale of toiletries. The Gillette Series is a complete line of men's grooming products available in Cool Wave and Wild Rain fragrances.

Team builds best hybrid vehicle

Braden Robison of Northville and his team members Marcus Christensen, Ryan Lothian, Brad Ring and Jay Shipley beat out Iowa State, Sierra Nevada College and Purdue in the Scientific Safari Problem competition held during the 1995 Odyssey of the Mind World Finals recently at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville.

The five-man team representing GMI Engineering and Management Institute was required to design and build a hybrid vehicle for under $100 which would complete specific tasks in a safari setting (such as transporting animals, replicas, catching poachers, etc.). The team's trophy will be on display on GMI's campus.

Alumni club awards scholarships and a Northville resident, recently awarded Schoolcraft College student Amy Scharmen of Howell the 1995-96 University of Michigan-Northville Alumni Club Scholarship. The scholarship was given in cooperation with the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Scharmen received a plaque and a $700 stipend will be placed in her account to assist with her educational expenses at the University of Michigan, where she will be majoring in environmental engineering this fall.

Other recipients of scholarships were Novi High School graduates Emma Cartwright, Kimberly Collins and Darlene Gallo and Northville High School graduates Brad Borgia, Angela Groves and Monica Nayakwadi. In all, the alumni club awarded almost $5,000 in scholarship money.

Mary Katherine McConachie, the wife of the late John McConachie, an active member in the club and on the scholarship committee, had requested charitable donations be made to the club at the time of her husband's death and $1,000 of those donations went toward this year's scholarship awards.

Student receives educational scholarship

The MEEMIC Foundation For The Future Of Education is proud to announce that Devon E. Woodruff, the daughter of David and Patricia Neil of Northville, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship. The Foundation recognizes top high school students in Michigan whose parents are in the field of education. Patricia Neil is employed by Farmington Public Schools as a teacher.

Devon is first in her class at Farmington High School. She participated in varsity tennis, track and pom-pom and was elected by team members to be captain in both tennis and pom-pom. She was nominated by the school staff to attend the Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences Camp.

Devon was nominated by counselors to represent the school at Girls State. She served on the student council as secretary and senator and on the National Honor Society as vice president and executive board member. She served as secretary and vice president of the Spanish Club.

Devon will attend the University of Michigan this fall and will study Engineering.

Symphony announces piano and violin competition

The Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra is looking for piano and violin students to compete in the 1995 Youth Soloist Competition, to be held Oct. 16-17. The winner will receive $500 and the opportunity to perform as featured soloist with the Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra in our Mozart Birthday Bash concert on Jan. 27, 1996, at the Michigan Theater.

The Youth Soloist competition is open to all Michigan piano and violin students age 12-20. Competitors will be judged on their performance of either a Mozart piano concerto or a Mozart violin concerto.

Musicians should be prepared to perform the entire piece. Depending on the number of candidates, the soloist may be performing for up to 15 minutes in Round One on Oct. 16.

All competitors will receive written critiques of their performance by a distinguished panel of judges, including AASO Music Director and Conductor Samuel Wong. Other judges will include area musicians and professors of music from the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University.

The Competition will be held in Ann Arbor's Kerrytown Concert house, located at 415 N. Fourth Avenue. Deadline for entry is Oct. 1.

For further information and/or to register for the competition, please contact the Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra office at (313) 994-4801.

Amateurs have a field day communicating

From 1800 UTC (1 p.m.) Saturday until 2100 UTC (3 p.m.) Sunday, June 24 and 25, the Novi Amateur Radio Club (NARC) will participate in Field Day at Novi High School Practice Football Field to learn to operate in abnormal situations under less-than-optimum conditions.

Joined by more than 35,000 Amateur Radio Clubs across the United States and Canada, a premium is placed on skills and equipment of NARC which is carried to the field and operated to meet the challenge of emergency preparedness.

An example of this was during hurricane Hugo and the California earthquake. The world depended on radio amateurs using emergency power to get reports into and out of disaster areas. Emergencies like this require alternative power sources such as batteries, generators or solar panels and antennas assembled and erected in the field.

Other services performed by the NARC include verifying monthly siren tests throughout Oakland County and providing field communication for local parade coordinators on the Fourth of July.

Field Day provides Amateurs with a forum to fine tune their operating skills. The exercise also acquaints the public with the many capabilities of Amateur Radio. The public is encouraged to participate, too.

Births

Patricia (Trish) and Mark Simon of Lansing proudly announce the birth of their son, Jacob Carl Simon, on Monday, June 5, at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing. Jacob weighed 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Maureen and Don Settles of Northville. Paternal grandparents are Linda and Carl Simon of Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Lou and Betsy (Rosser) Roos of Laurel, Md., are happy to announce the birth of their daughter, Kellyn Elizabeth Roos.

Baby Kellyn was born March 27, 1995, at Greater Baltimore Medical Center. She weighed 6 pounds, 15 ounces and was 20 inches long.

Kellyn joins sisters, Kristin, 5, and Colleen, 3.

Her grandparents are Lou and Joan Roos of Lathrup Village and Jerry and Maureen Gadwa of Northville.

Reunion for symphony volunteers is scheduled

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra is looking for people who have been involved with the Symphony in the past 50 years.

"We want the opening concert of our 50th Anniversary season to be a celebration for past and present orchestra members," said Christa Grix, executive director. "We want them to 'Come Home to Plymouth' for the concert."

The concert will be Saturday, Oct. 14, in the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. Former board members league members or orchestra members are asked to contact the Plymouth Symphony Office at (313) 451-2112.

DSO musicians to teach and perform at summer camp

A longtime dream of the Lyric Chamber Ensemble and its Artistic Director, Fedora Horowitz, came to fruition in August 1993 with the inauguration of Summer Music Experience — a two-week day camp which offers free supplementary music education to students from low-income families living in the Metro Detroit area.

Over 50 percent of the participants attend on partial or full scholarships. The remaining participants pay a nominal tuition fee for two-weeks of classes which include music theory, composition, jazz improvisation, private lessons, chamber ensemble coachings, master classes, band, orchestra, and sports.

The 1995 camp will take place from July 10-21, at the Auburn Hills campus of Oakland Community College. The students will be treated to daily lunchtime concerts performed by faculty members and other local professional musicians, and a presentation by DSO Composer-in-Residence, Anthony Davis.

The Summer Music Experience faculty is composed of some of the area's most outstanding musicians, including Detroit Symphony Orchestra violinists Lenore Sjöberg and Joseph Striplin, and DSO double bassist Richard Robinson. Striplin will conduct the camp orchestra for the second year in a row.

The Concert and Jazz Bands will be led by Ed Quick, who is band director at the Detroit School for Fine and Performing Arts. Quick recently received the Newsweek/WDIV "Teacher of the Year" award for 1994-95. Spain Middle School Band Director, Victoria Miller, will act as camp director. The Camp Coordinator is Arthur Brown of Octavo Associates.

Summer Music Experience '95 is supported by the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, Gannett Communities Fund, Hudson's Stores, the McGregor Fund, and the Detroit Free Press Charities.

The camp will conclude with two final concerts on July 21. At 2:30 p.m., student chamber groups will perform and at 6:45 p.m., the concert band, jazz band and orchestra will present a concert for parents, sponsors and friends of the LCE. Both concerts will be held at Oakland Community College, (2900 Featherstone Road in Auburn Hills), Building J in the Gymnasium.

For more information about the student concerts, which are free and open to the public, call (810) 357-1111.

A reception for 200 guests was held at the Greencroft Senior Center in Goshen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacDonald of Northville, and was given into marriage by her father. She graduated from Northville High School in 1987, and from Grand Valley State University in 1991. She now teaches fourth grade for the Newaygo Public Schools.

She was attended by her sister, Heather Vermette of Sault Ste. Marie, as matron-of-honor. Her bridesmaids were Susan Mark Landis of Orrville, Ohio, sister of the groom; Julie Mark of Granger, Ind., and Summer Mark of Elkhart, Ind., both sisters-in-law of the groom; Jackie MacDonald of Caledonia, Mich., sister-in-law of the bride; Laura Landis, junior bridesmaid and Nicole Mark, flower girl, both nieces of the groom.

The bride's gown was of white silk satin with chapel train, fitted bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace and pearls. Her mid-length veil was attached to the headpiece with satin roses, pearls and sequins, and the bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses, gardenias, stephanotis and holly.

The matron-of-honor and bridesmaids wore tea-length hunter green velvet dresses and carried bouquets of white and red carnations with holly.

The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. George Mark of Elkhart, Ind. He graduated from Goshen College in 1987 and Indiana University Medical School in 1991. He is a physician in his fourth year of residency at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Attending the groom was his brother and best man, Scott Mark of Elkhart, Ind. Groomsmen were: David Mark of Granger, Ind., brother of the groom; Dennis Landis of Orrville, Ohio, brother-in-law of the groom; Douglas MacDonald of Caledonia, Mich., brother of the bride; Mark Vermette of Sault Ste. Marie, brother-in-law of the bride; Joel Landis of Orrville, nephew of the groom; and Eric Mark, ring bearer, nephew of the groom.

Their wedding trip was a one week Royal Caribbean cruise.

MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL

"A celebration of excellence" was held at Meads Mill on Tuesday, June 13, in honor of principal, Dave Longridge, the winner of both MASSP's 1995 "Outstanding Secondary School Principal of the Year" and "Middle School Principal of the Year."

The reception was well-attended by students, staff, parents, members of the school board, family and longtime friends of Dave. In addition to a number of speakers who roared and toasted Mr. Longridge, letters of praise were read from former students as well as a proclamation from Governor John Engler.

A framed Norman Rockwell print was presented to Mr. Longridge as a token reminder of how much he is appreciated and loved at Meads Mill. We're proud that Dave Longridge is the cornerstone of our school and are happy that he'll continue his position at the helm for many years to come.

Honors night was also held later in the evening of Tuesday, June 13, for all outstanding student achievements. A total of 738 honors were awarded to the combined sixth, seventh and eighth grade students.

We would like to applaud each and every student who received an award for a job well done. One of the most notable honors went to Amanda Sprader, a recipient of the 1995 Jody Schwartz Memorial Scholarship. Amanda will use her scholarship for private clarinet lessons this summer at the Giftedler.

Other prestigious awards included the Clark Kelly (former Northville Administrator) award, presented to Andrew Biddle, Andrew Buda and Jenny Choi for their outstanding effort during the school year.

The Joanne Cook Memorial English Award (named in memory of former Northville English teacher, Joanne Cook, who passed away in 1983) was presented to Precious Shah, most outstanding English student of 1995. Precious was also recently named one of the national "Promising Young Writers" by the National Council of Teachers of English. Angela Kovalak also received honorable mention by the NCTE.

Congratulations to all the students at Meads Mill who received honors on June 13, as well as throughout the school year. You've done a fine job, you've represented your school and community extremely well and we are all very proud of you.

Report cards will be mailed home today (June 22) and tomorrow (June 23).

Orientation packets for the new school year will be mailed home several days prior to the beginning of school in the fall.

To all students, staff and parents at Meads Mill, have a safe and pleasant summer.

The next Meads Mill PTSA meeting is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 9:30 a.m., in the "Pit."

Choir presents special evening

The Church of the Holy Family is presenting a very special program of sacred music performed by the Holy Family Choir and three guest artists on Sunday, June 25.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. the audience will have an opportunity to preview nine pieces the choir will sing at the National Pastoral Musicians Convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, in July.

The audition and performance for the NPM convention is a first for the 42 volunteer choir members.

The Evening Concert of Sacred Music will include performances by guest artists Laura Erickson, flutist, mezzo-soprano and Novi resident Dorothy Cormie and Evelyn Evon, pianist.

EVELYN EVON

Beth Kamish, music director, will conduct the choir in songs by Christopher Walker, Palestrina, Viadana, C. Courtney, Mendelssohn, Stradella among others. Janet Kass will be the accompanist.

Guest performers will play selections from J. S. Bach, Mozart and Mendelssohn.

At the NPM convention, which draws about 5,000 participants, Holy Family Choir will be among 400 voices from 12 choirs singing eight songs during the massed choir presentation which is the opening of the convention.

The morning of the convention, the Holy Family Choir will audition a song for the one or two solo performances to be sung after the massed performance.

The Church of the Holy Family is located at 24505 Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

In town

Submit items for the entertainment listings to The Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville, MI 48167; or fax to 349-1050.

AUDITIONS

MARQUIS THEATRE: Auditions for The Shoemaker and the Elves will be held June 24 from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the theater located in Northville at 135 E. Main Street. Boys and girls ages 8 to 15 are will be asked to recite a short poem of their choosing, not more than two minutes long. Also, they must provide their own sheet music and be prepared to sing eight measures of a song in their vocal range.

Call backs will be held on June 25 at 5 p.m. Rehearsals begin July 10.

Performance dates are Tuesdays through Fridays, at 10:30 a.m. Aug. 8, 9, 10, 11, 15, 16, 17, 18, 22, 23, 24 and 25; Saturdays Aug. 12, 19 and 26 at 2:30 p.m.; and Saturdays and Sundays, Sept. 9, 10, 16, 17, 23 and 24 at 2:30 p.m. For further information, call (810) 349-8110.

NEW HORIZON COMMUNITY CHURCH: The church is looking for actors and actresses to occasionally participate in Sunday morning dramas and skits based on topical issues.

Scripts are provided and minimal rehearsal time is needed. All creative input is welcome.

A local community church featuring a contemporary format, the church meets at the Novi Town Center General Cinema Theaters in Novi. Those interested should call Ann Marie Frey, (810) 348-3563.

SPECIAL EVENTS

BORDERS BOOKS: Upcoming events at Borders include a beach party with The Gratitude Steel Band June 22 at 7 p.m.; a rumpus with wild things from Maurice Sendak's book Where the Wild Things Are on June 24 at 1 p.m. and on June 27 at 7 p.m. bring your pajamas and pillow for bedtime stories.

Weekly events are the French club, La Table Francaise, on Tuesdays, and Chess Night on Wednesdays. Both at 7 p.m.

One to see this summer 'Crimson Tide' rides a tidal wave of adrenaline

CRIMSON TIDE
By Mike Kapusky
Northville

A "Red October" with a little less bite and little more tension? How would you like to have the fate of the world at your finger tips?

"Crimson Tide" is pure suspense, anxiety and mutiny, isolated into one nuclear submarine. When an emergency message is sent that gives orders for nuclear missiles to be fired at Russia and an incomplete message is sent immediately after, the battle over whether to start nuclear war begins between Denzel Washington and Gene Hackman. With a Russian sub on their tail and a mutiny brewing, the excitement has only begun.

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

"Crimson Tide" is solid acting, action and intensity. The reality that a nuclear submarine might actually have to make decisions as this is what keeps you on the edge of your seat. It takes a short time for this tide to get rolling, but once it begins it is a tidal wave of adrenaline that sparks havoc on your fears of nuclear war.

"Crimson Tide" throttles a four and one-half stars. It is a fantastic suspense thriller that never stops until the end. One to see this summer!

CRIMSON TIDE
By Mark Gibbs
Highland

The new movie titled "Crimson Tide" was wonderful. The effects that took place during it were so realistic. The acting was also superb.

Denzel Washington and Gene Hackman are the two main characters in this great movie. It started out when Denzel Washington, who played the executive officer, got promoted to the executive officer of the U.S.S. Mississippi.

The conflict began when the Russians took over some nuclear bases that housed nuclear submarines. The United States had to deploy its nuclear subs to ensure peace. When the Russian sub started to attack the United States sub, the captain, Gene Hackman, wanted to release the nuclear weapons. The RMA from the Pentagon okayed it, but then sent another order and it was cut off. The captain was going to go ahead and release the weapons, but the executive officer didn't want to.

In the end, the message that got cut off was the one to say they should not deploy nuclear warfare.

Taylor named new athletic director

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If anybody knows athletics it's Larry Taylor.

He was a four sport high school star and went on to play college baseball. Couple that with more than two decades of coaching and classroom experience and you've got a fine administrative candidate.

So good, in fact, that he's Northville High's new athletic director. Taylor, who guided the Mustang boys' basketball team the last three seasons, was officially introduced at last week's board of education meeting.

"It's always been a goal of mine," he said, "to be an athletic director. It just came a little sooner than I thought it would."

The position was left vacant over the past school year. Athletic Manager Ed Kricetz and Assistant Principal Dennis Colligan, the former AD, kept the department afloat.

Taylor originally applied for the position last fall. But interviews were delayed until this spring when school officials were satisfied enough qualified candidates had been garnered.

A total of 46 people applied, most of whom were from Michigan. An eight-member committee whittled the group down to 10 for interviews that were conducted in mid April.

The decision to hire Taylor, a physical education teacher for the past 12 years in Northville, was made a few weeks later.

"In my mind," committee member Trish Waldecker said, "I felt Larry could do the best job."

A teacher at Cooke Middle School, Waldecker said Taylor's familiarity with the program was another key factor in his hire. As a girls golf coach at the high school, she was also concerned about equity.

"Will the girls get the same shake as the boys," Waldecker said.

She added that she was more than satisfied that Taylor would be fair to all parties.

"He'll do a great job," said Waldecker. "Larry's very well organized."

As AD, Colligan hired Taylor to coach the basketball team three years ago. Since then, he said, Taylor's taken an active role in Mustang athletics.

"He's already worked a lot of events with me," said Colligan, who also participated on the committee. "He's one who's very familiar with our sports program at Northville."

Taylor wasted little time in getting started on the job. He began Monday searching for his replacement on the sideline.

Giving up the classroom and coaching was the toughest part of accepting the new position, he said.

"I've always been a coach or a teacher," Taylor commented. "That was the hardest thing ... not being in the classroom and not being with the students every day."

School guidelines wouldn't allow him to remain as coach once he accepted the AD's job.

Taylor had success as the Mustang mentor. Northville was better than .500 all three seasons, including an 11-10 record last winter.

As for his replacement, Taylor said if he couldn't find a suitable one quickly he would work with the team through the summer.

"I won't leave the kids high and dry," he said.

The Northville resident will certainly have enough to keep his hands full.

Taylor will arrange schedules for more than 20 high school teams as well as several more from Northville's two middle schools. Making sure those games come off without a hitch will be his next biggest task.

"It's an overwhelming looking job," said Taylor.

LARRY TAYLOR

He said he's confident he'll fill the position well, however.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge," Taylor said.

Queens of the Diamonds

They say that diamonds are a girl's best friend and for the members of the 1995 East All-Area Softball team that's certainly the case.

From the top to the bottom of the East first team lineup it's evident that these girls deserve the royal treatment. In every possible area this squad is solid.

"Dynamite power hitters like Lakeland's Erin Zwinck and South Lyon's Carolyn Kovala roll out the red carpet for the first-teamers and pitching gems like Mindy Dwyer of the Eagles and Erin Bjerke of Novi make sure to keep the court orderly."

"The crowning jewel for the diamond dandies is superb defense. On this squad the defense at all positions is tighter than security for the real royal family."

"Take a look at our regal first-team broken down by positions and see if you don't agree that these ladies would surely brighten any diamond."

KATIE SHAW

Novi senior catcher

At the most vital defensive position on the field, Shaw held the Wildcats together like the world's best glue.

The senior not only threw out base runners left and right, but she handled teammate Erin Bjerke pitches with style. Coach John Peace Shaw's stability translated into more victories for Novi.

"The big thing with her was her defense," said Peace. "We improved with her throwing."

Shaw also had decent numbers at the plate. She knocked in 12 from her leadoff position and compiled an on base average of .414. Shaw had three doubles and a pair of triples, too.

Peace said his senior had a good eye at the plate.

"She was patient enough to walk," he added.

Shaw was named to the all KVC second team.

ERIN BJERKE

Novi, senior pitcher

Despite back problems, the senior still put together a fabulous spring.

On the mound, Bjerke went 23-11 with an ERA of 1.38. She also struck out and amazing 294 batters in 229 innings.

Peace said Bjerke matured into a dominant pitcher this year with added velocity and new pitches.

"She's one of the hardest workers I've had," Peace said. "She made herself a good player. She's a very good competitor."

Bjerke, who'll pitch for the University of Detroit Mercy next year, was also tough out.

She batted .385 and knocked in 13 runs. Bjerke struck out just three times in 52 at bats.

MINDY DWYER

Lakeland, sophomore pitcher

Dwyer had the fire for the Eagles this year — especially in the postseason where the team made it all the way to the Class A finals before bowing out to Jenison.

Dwyer was phenomenal in the playoffs where her mixture of power pitches and off-speed throws kept opposing hitters off-balance.

For the year Dwyer posted a record of 27-7 and she struck out 232 batters while yielding only 1.34 runs in 219 innings. Where Eagles coach Kent Griffiths really felt the sophomore hurler improved this season, however, was in her control.

"I thought she really grew up as far as walks this year," Griffiths said. "Last year she walked maybe five or six batters a game and this year it was only two or three a game."

Dwyer, who received all-state honorable mention this season, was no slouch at the plate either. Her .400 average with runners in scoring position led the Eagles.

MELISSA PETROSKY

Northville, senior infielder

Petrosky was the silver-lining in the disappointing Mustang season. According to coach Frank Friemund, the senior could hit and field well.

"If I ever did a fielding video," he said, "I'd pick her (to demonstrate)."

Petrosky played second base for Northville and was selected as all-division in the WLA. A quick player with a lot of range in the field, she also led her team in most offensive categories.

Petrosky hit .348 and stole 24 bases leading off. Friemund said she was a supreme lead-off batter.

"The best we've had so far," he added.

LISA SALCZYNSKI

Lakeland, senior infielder

Making the switch from shortstop to second base this season was no problem for Salczynski, a three-year varsity starter.

"At first she was a little reluctant to make the switch," Griffiths said, "but she realized what a key position second base was and she came around quickly."

Salczynski, named Lakeland senior female athlete of the year, posted a .946 fielding average and also did yeoman's work on offense. She batted .275 for the season and she was second on the Lakeland team in runs batted in recording 18.

Leadership and the ability to keep the team focused were also two key areas that Salczynski brought to the Eagles run at a state title this year.

CAROLYN KOVALA

South Lyon, junior infielder

Kovala was definitely a bright spot in what was a pretty dim year for the Lions team.

She delivered a key home run in the team's only win of the '95 season against Northville.

Kovala caught a lot of the time for the Lions but she was also a valuable player wherever coach Don Reiff would put her on the diamond. She was the team's leading hitter and her power was often the center of attention in the South Lyon batting lineup.

"She's just got a lot of pop in her bat," Reiff said. "She's got great hand-eye coordination."

One of the Lions captains this season, Kovala was the squad's only all-KVC selection.

ERIN ZWINCK

Lakeland, junior infielder

Zwinck came through time and time again in key situations for Lakeland this season.

She was second on the Eagles in batting with a .354 average and was tops on the squad in hits with 46. She also led the way with 15 extra base hits and tied a school record by cracking five homers this past spring.

"She was one of our team leaders," coach Griffiths said. "She did a lot on the field but she also did lots of things off the field like motivating kids."

Zwinck's 22 RBI led Lakeland but she was also stellar in the field. Her powerful arm at third base often made the difference between a hit and an out and her field savvy also had a calming influence on the team.

AMY EDWARDS

Novi, sophomore outfield

One of the area's best young players, Edwards realized some of her potential this year.

While she batted .260, the sophomore made every one of her hits count. She knocked in 27 runs with her 26 hits.

"She's a good solid line drive hitter," said Peace. "She hit the ball hard."

Edwards also played well in right field.

She had three assists, including two at third base.

The sophomore earned all-district honors for her play in the state tournament.

WENDY KIBNER

Lakeland, senior outfielder

If the Eagles team were an automobile, Kibner would definitely be the spark plug.

She did her job as a leadoff batter posting an on-base percentage of .459 on the season. She led the team in runs scored with 37 and she was also tops on the base paths with 26 steals.

"What she really did is put pressure on the defense," Griffiths said. "They knew when Wendy was up there that they couldn't fumble it and they couldn't be slow picking it up because she would be on base."

Her blazing speed also helped her in the outfield where she was one of the leaders of the team with 39 put outs and six assists.

ANNE MADDEN

Milford, junior outfielder

Whether on the mound or in the field Madden was the chief of the Redskins team in her second year as a varsity star.

Because of injuries to other hurlers on the MHS staff Madden had to pitch more than coach Julie Hedding would've liked. She threw in 20 of the squad's 34 games, and played all over the outfield when she wasn't on the mound.

"She was our most consistent player," Hedding said. "She just has a great attitude to play anywhere."

A second team all-KVC performer and an all-district selection, Madden batted .317 this season and compiled a 10-10 record on the mound. She struck out 119 batters and walked only 19 on the year, while yielding 2.82 runs per game.

Record wants your ideas for features

The Northville Record wants your ideas.

This summer, the paper will be running a series of features we hope to call "Extremes." What we're looking for is people who practice and participate in alternative sports and recreation activities.

Mountain bike racing, rock climbing, sky surfing, barefoot water skiing—whatever—are all fair game. Camping, backpacking, scuba diving are good ideas for recreational features.

But we're open to your ideas. Call us with your thoughts at 349-1700 or drop us a note at 104 W

Main Street, Northville, MI 48167.

We're looking for ideas and we're looking for a little more, too.

Are you a wordsmith? Ever fancy yourself a sportswriter? Well, now is your chance to put your verbiage where your mouth is.

The Record is looking for a couple of freelance writers for assignments. From features to coverage of local teams, the summer months could be your chance to get a taste of journalism.

And what's more, you'll be paid. So get ready to show us your stuff and why you just might be the next Mitch Albom.

Moretti, Sheehan make second team

You better get used to seeing the names on HomeTown Newspapers East All-Area Softball second team, because they're going to be around for awhile

With only one senior, it's one of the youngest squads we've ever selected. Talented players like Novi's Lindsay Drury, Leslie Rosendahl of South Lyon and Andrea Moretti of Northville make our second team a who's who of rising stars.

So without further ado, let's meet the 1995 East All-Area second team:

KEELY POVLTIZ
Lakeland, sophomore catcher
 On a team full of offensive weapons, Povlitz still emerged as one of the biggest guns.

She led the Eagles in batting with a .357 average and her 18 RBI mark was good enough for second overall. She also displayed some good speed by swiping 15 bases this season.

When Povlitz wasn't knocking runners in she was busy keeping them honest on the base paths. She handled the LHS pitchers to perfection and when someone did get on base she had to respect the sophomore's strong arm behind the plate.

"Defensively I think she's one of the best catchers around," coach Kent Griffiths said. "Not many teams ran on us all year"

Povlitz had 37 assists this season and tossed out a pair of runners in Lakeland's big 2-1 win over Ann Arbor Pioneer in the state semifinals.

ANDREA MORETTI
Northville, junior pitcher
 Moretti could use the services of an attorney. That's because she could definitely sue her Mustang teammates for a lack of support.

Despite posting a 2.59 earned run average and striking out 99 batters in 146 innings, Moretti had a 3-21 record. Now, usually, 20-game losers don't make all-star teams.

But if she had gotten even a little help from Northville that record would've been far different.

Coach Frank Friemund said his team had fielding lapses. Indeed, of the 134 runs that Moretti allowed only 54 of them were earned.

At the plate, Northville scored less than two runs in 14 games. Sandy Koufax couldn't have won with such measly support.

Moretti may not need much help next year.

"She's on the verge of developing dominating speed," said Friemund.

LESLIE ROSENDAHL
South Lyon, junior infielder

Melissa Petrosky (left) made our All-Area first team this spring and played excellent second base for Northville High.

Rosendahl came on strong as the season grew older and she emerged as South Lyon's top pitcher and shortstop by the end of the year.

"She was always giving helpful hints to our younger players," coach Don Reiff said of Rosendahl's leadership ability.

Even with the troubles that the Lions had this season Reiff said Rosendahl's love for the game never wavered.

ANGIE LONGSTAFF
Milford, freshman infielder
 Longstaff was Angie-on-the-spot for the Redskins this season.

After starter Nicole Porter went out at the beginning of the season Longstaff stepped up and filled a big offensive role for Milford. She played shortstop for most of the year and her defense at the position improved as the season went along.

She was one of the squad's leading hitters batting .323, and she led the squad in runs (21) and stolen bases (13).

MHS coach Julie Hedding said Longstaff, who also pitches, always got things going for the 'Skins at the plate in her leadoff role.

"She's going to be a real solid ball player," Hedding said. "Whenever she gets on base she scores 9-out-of-10 times. She's a real spark on the bases."

LINDSAY DRURY
Novi, sophomore infielder
 Drury is, perhaps, one of the best young athletes at Novi High. Besides being an excellent softball player, she's one of the Wildcats best basketball players.

This spring, softballs looked a little like basketballs at the plate for Drury. She compiled a .340 batting average, nine doubles, two triples and a home run. She also drove in 24 runs.

"She's very solid at the plate," coach John Peace said. "She had a very good year."

An all-Kensington Valley Conference selection, Drury was a solid shortstop.

JENNY SHEEHAN
Northville, junior infielder
 Sheehan was actually Northville's everyday catcher this spring, but with the abundance of top catchers in the area HomeTown Newspapers felt she deserved a spot on the second team anyway.

Like our first team catcher, Sheehan is a defensive whiz. Blessed with a strong arm and a quick release, Sheehan was tough behind the plate.

"We wouldn't even have been in the game without Jenny," coach Friemund said.

Sheehan was voted Northville's top defensive player for the second straight year.

"She's the quickest catcher I've ever seen," Friemund said.

Sheehan stole 12 bases and was third on the team in batting average and runs batted in. Friemund said she'll be even better next year.

"I expect her to be the best catcher in the division," he added. "She's on the verge of realizing her potential."

DAWN HAMILTON
South Lyon, junior outfielder
 Speed, defense and a positive attitude is what Hamilton brought to the table this year with the Lions.

Hamilton was a team captain and acted like a vacuum in leftfield gathering nearly every ball that came her way. She made only two errors all season long and coach Reiff said her quickness and great glove allowed her to cover a lot of ground.

Volleyball camp for kids on tap

Do you know a kid who's itching to bump, pass and spike? If so, send him or her to the Northville Parks and Recreation Department's volleyball camp.

Volleyball camp is the first one the department's put on in years.

It's open to boys and girls in fifth through eighth grades. The week-long program is a great way for kids to sharpen their skills, especially those who are thinking about trying out for their junior high teams next year.

It all happens July 17-21 at the Northville Community Center, located in downtown Northville at 303 W. Main. Volleyball camp runs Monday through Friday. Fifth and sixth graders attend 2-3:30 p.m. Seventh and eighth graders go from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The fee for the camp is $35 for fifth and sixth graders, $45 for seventh and eighth graders. The registration deadline is June 30 but all who register before then will receive a T-shirt.

To register stop by the Rec Department, located inside the Community Center. It's open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Call 349-0203 for more information.

Healthy vacations can be fun, rewarding

Randy Step

Nobody wants to live an unhealthy lifestyle. Most of our vices are just products of our comfort zone. We are also creatures of habit - habits that are hard to change. The risk of leaving your comfort zone often seems greater than the benefit of the healthy alternative.

Life's a bit like the stock market: the greater the risk, the higher the potential return. Sure, you might enjoy your annual Las Vegas junk and the all-you-can-eat buffets. It might not be the healthiest vacation choice, but you know you'll always have a good time and besides, it's a vacation. It's not as if you live like this all the time, right?

Why not consider a bicycle tour through Vermont with nightly stops in charming bed and breakfasts? This might be way outside your comfort zone. You may ask yourself, "What if I can't ride as far as the tour calls for? What if I'm the slowest rider on the tour?" The mental picture of seating and working your body hard all day might be the image your mind conjures. The reality, however, might be surprisingly different.

The Vermont countryside is breathtaking. On a bicycle tour, you are not only a spectator of the natural beauty, but you become a part of it as well. The clean summer air energizes and invigorates your body. After a full day of riding, you may feel fatigued, but reflecting on the miles you have covered and the natural beauty you have taken in, a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction will undoubtedly wash over you. You will have lived this day to its fullest.

Following such a vacation, you will return to the familiar daily grind and something will have changed. You'll feel rested and recharged for the first time you have returned from a vacation not needing another vacation to recover from it. You will have eaten well, worked out more consistently and, as a result, have more energy than ever before. The thought of covering more miles on the next vacation will have you excited and motivated. Meanwhile, how do you feel when you get back from Vegas?

If bicycle tours are not for you, consider canoeing and camping trips through the Canadian wilderness, trekking in Nepal, sailing as part of a windjammer crew through the Caribbean or hiking to a backwoods cabin in a national park - the choices are endless.

To spark your imagination, pick up a copy of Outdoor Magazine or visit an adventure travel agency. Take the risk; enjoy the benefit.

Each year I arrange a winter fitness vacation in the Caribbean. Morning activities consist of a daily walk, run or hike up a volcano, through a rain forest or along an endless beach lined with palms. Sea kayaking, sailing or snorkeling on a breathtaking reef fill the afternoons. Evenings are spent with a rum drink in hand (or whatever reward system suits you) discussing the next day's adventures. This winter we will visit the island nation of St. Lucia from Feb. 18-25, 1996.

We will stay at an all-inclusive resort; the kind of place people go for so-called normal vacations, eating and drinking all they can while getting a tan. The only difference with us will be the contagious healthy lifestyle of the company.

Get obsessed; stay obsessed!

Summer concerts start in Novi

Tonight is the first of the 1995 "Sounds of Summer" concert series and we're starting out with a bang. For your listening pleasure we present Hugh Leal's Motown Classic Jazzband featuring Juanita McCray, blues vocalist, at 7 p.m. on the north lawn of the Civic Center.

The Motown Classic Jazzband was organized by Windsor Jazz Festivals at the University of Windsor and jazz promoter Hugh Leal in the fall of 1992 to play a concert for the Windsor Jazz Series. The premise of the band was to individually assemble a true all star Detroit based "trad" band in the strict 1920s style - using tuba and banjo for the rhythm instead of the more modern instruments.

The Motown Classic Jazzband also features the outstanding authentic blues and gospel vocal artist Juanita McCray of Detroit. Members of the band have played at jazz festivals across America and on national public TV. The Motown Classic Jazzband was featured at the 1994 Montreux/Detroit Jazz Festival and the past three Windsor Jazz Festivals at the University of Windsor and Capitol Theater.

Audiences of the Motown Classic Jazzband will enjoy authentic blues made famous by Bessie

Smith, Ma Rainey and early gospel stylings as performed by Juanita McCray, and instrumentals of the 1920s tunes associated with Louis Armstrong, Bix Beiderbecke and others.

The 1995 Sounds of Summer concert series is presented by Novi Parks and Recreation, Providence Medical Center-Nov, Ford Motor Company Foundation and Charter House of Novi. When you come out and enjoy the concerts, you are also eligible to win lunch for two from either Border Cantina, Olive Garden Italian Restaurant, TGI Fridays, Red Robin and Shields. There is also free lemonade, munchies and novelties for the kids.

Why not make every Thursday evening a special night for you and your family? Bring lawn chairs or blankets.

Homeowners stay put and remodel

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

When planning a home expansion or other major improvement project, be sure it's a constructive and financially sound remodeling plan — not a remodeling disaster.

Increasingly, boomers and other homeowners are staying put in their existing homes instead of moving to a larger and more desirable residence. And that decision is often coupled with a plan to add rooms or other improvements to accommodate a growing family and better lifestyle.

More Americans will make major improvements on their homes this year than ever before, according to the National Association of Home Builders. Residential remodeling work is expected to top $123 billion in 1995 — up from $115 billion last year and $49 billion 10 years ago.

A good remodeling plan can be wise and profitable for the owners. The added rooms and amenities can be strategically on-target for that particular family. They can stay in the same neighborhood with established friends. The kids can continue in the same school

And the remodeling cost can be more than recovered when the home is sold.

A bad plan will not satisfy the precise needs of the growing family. It could cause the house to become a neighborhood eyesore, dragging down property values. And the total cost of the project could be lost.

Generally, homeowners who plan a remodeling project are taking a very sophisticated approach. And they're very happy with the results.

A special challenge faces families who own historic homes. It's important that their remodeling plan preserves the original character of the property, according to a study by the Old-House Journal publication.

For example, a planned improvement project at the famed San Thomas R. Bard Mansion at the U.S. Naval Center in Port Hueneme, Calif., was carefully structured to retain and enhance the long-admired character of the residence, according to architect Larry Rasmussen.

HOME DESIGNS

The Hemming offers rooms with views

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The contemporary, single-level Hemming is a 2,196-square-foot home that features a C-shaped floor plan ideally suited to a lot with a view in every direction. Pleasing to the eye with its elegant outside stonework, the Hemming is equally as pleasing and functional on the inside.

The convenience of the arched, air-tight entry, with bench and closet, lets friends and family dispense with their coats and foul-weather gear before moving on to the main part of the home.

To the right of the entry is a large pantry with plenty of shelf space, which serves the adjacent kitchen. With all the built-ins, including a range and oven, dishwasher and trash compactor, the cook can prepare meals to be served either formally in the dining room, or informally at the eating center.

The vaulted center enhances the dining room and spacious living room that surround a stereo center for easy listening, and a woodstove with connecting storage box that will keep everyone cozy on long winter nights. Bookshelves are abundant for the readers in the family. For the warm-weather months, a wrap-around deck with easy access moves the fun outdoors, whether it be a snooze in the sun or a barbecue for the whole gang.

On one wing of the home the Master Suite sits by itself, affording maximum privacy. You won't have to worry about closet space here. There are two, with one being a generous walk-through that leads into the large bathroom with twin vanities.

On the opposite wing are two smaller bedrooms that share a full bathroom across the hall. Flanking the bath are a utility room with washer/dryer, laundry sink and counter for folding clothes, and a mechanical room that houses the water heater while providing shelves for storage.

For a study plan of the Hemming 401-08, send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843 (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

First & lasting IMPRESSIONS

When it comes to your entrance, image is everything

By Jane Benskey
Special Writer

We all know how important first impressions are because, quite often, first impressions become lasting impressions.

We also know appearances play a big role in first impressions. That's why we pay special attention to how we look for occasions like important meetings with a new client or a critical job interview.

First impressions are also important when it comes to your home — specifically the appearance of the entrance to your home where you welcome visitors as well as family and friends.

Because you pass through your home's entrance day in and day out, it is easy to overlook flaws or problems that might stick out like a sore thumb to a guest or visitor.

With that in mind, take an objective look at the entrance to your home — as if you are seeing it for the first time — and ask yourself what sort of impression it makes.

Does it show signs of neglect? Or is the entrance to your house so devoid of style, so totally bland that it's completely nondescript?

If you answered yes to any of those questions, odds are your front entrance could use a makeover to update and freshen its appearance or to add some character.

To Julie Blankenship of Brighton, the front approach of a house is the first thing she notices, and for her large Arts and Crafts style bungalow she wanted a look that was both welcoming and homey.

"Because the front approach is the first thing that people are going to see, I want it to look as nice as possible," Blankenship said.

To that end, when Blankenship and her husband, Bob, were updating the exterior of their home on Main Street several years ago, they paid special attention to the front door by adding a fresh coat of deep forest green paint, a new full view storm door, a brass door knocker and a hand-painted address plaque, all without breaking a budget.

For an extra touch, Blankenship likes to display seasonal decorative flags, which she says have really attracted attention. Said Blankenship, "When I tell people where I live, they say, 'Oh, you have the house with the flags.'"

The result of this attention to detail is attractive and distinctive, and, judging from the compliments from passersby, well worth the effort.

Carl Roberts of Carl Roberts Design, a Brighton home planning and design firm, agrees that front entrances are the focal point of your home's exterior. That's why in new construction "most builders pay a lot of attention to entryway of the front — it's what gets people in the door."

Roberts also agrees that sprucing up the front entrance in existing homes "is a worthwhile thing to do because it makes the house more attractive," and he offered a number of suggestions.

Let's start with the front door itself.

An old, beat up door, even with a coat of paint, will detract from the entrance of your home so a new door might be the best way to go.

In terms of new doors, Roberts said there are types and styles of that are Fertilize dogwood trees with epsom salts

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Q. My sister-in-law told me she read that if you give your dogwood trees a cup of Epsom salts, diluted in 1 gallon water in the fall, you will get fantastic results the following spring.

Is this true? Would acid fertilizer be more beneficial? Is this mixture applicable to all of my evergreens?

A. Very definitely. Epsom salts are the best fertilizer I know for your dogwood trees. Feed your evergreens with Miracle-Gro.

Q. My perennial beds are completely overrun with aggressive weeds. Violets are intertwined with my peony roots; if that isn't bad enough, large clumps of henbit, too. When I pull the weeds out, they return even stronger! Help!

A. Your best bet is to hack out the weeds with a sturdy trowel. Start in early spring (when the weeds are more tender), and continue all through the season. Where possible, use a sharp hoe to cut off the above-ground weeds as they grow, then dig into the soil no deeper than an inch and stir it up to expose weed seeds. They are the culprits!

When the seeds germinate, simply remove them. Later lay down mulch to discourage further weed growth.

Since violet is a perennial weed, you can help prevent its return if you eradicate the plants before they set seed, which occurs in both spring and fall. The henbit is a difficult customer as it's an annual broad-leaf weed, therefore, it must be removed yearly.

I don't believe in chemical control because you risk damaging other plants in the garden. But if you do decide to use one, please read the instructions carefully before using and follow them.

Do not use on a hot or windy day or within your peony clumps. It's best to just hack away!

Q. I have a problem with my azaleas. One large bush, over 20 years old, did not bloom (for the first time) this year. Also, another appropriate to certain types of architecture.

"An oval glass insert in a regular entry door, you'll see that more typically in Victorian-style farmhouses. Six-panel type doors you'll see on traditional type homes like Cape Cods and traditional two-stories. Contemporary homes will have flush doors with may be a little geometric pattern," Roberts said.

Whether you choose a standard six-panel door for just over $100 or you order a custom door, which Roberts said can cost thousands, naturally depends on your budget.

If your door is still in good shape, a fresh coat of paint may be all it needs to restore its appearance.

When choosing colors, resist the urge to cover the door with another coat of white paint as it makes very little impact. Think of it this way: Your goal should be to make the front door stand out, much like a bull's eye.

Therefore, look for an attractive accent color, one that is different from your house colors, yet complementary to the overall color scheme.

If you aren't adept at picking out colors, but want to try something different, ask your local paint dealer for suggestions.

A well-chosen color on the front door will draw the eye to the door. From there, other elements of interest can be added.

Consider adding a unique or unusual door knocker in gleaming brass. Replace uninspired or utilitarian looking door knobs with an elegant door handle along with a trim plate. A brass kick plate affixed to the bottom of the door adds instant style.

Also consider updating your storm door if your budget allows. Full view storm doors are a current popular choice because they provide the benefits of a storm door, but they are unobtrusive enough to allow an unimpaired view of the front door.

Should you decide to stick with your current storm door, give it a good cleaning to remove grubby fingerprints and grime from the elements.

Wash the screen, inspect it for damage and have it repaired if necessary before installing in the door. A piece of tape over a hole in the screen may solve the problem of flying insects invading your home, but let's face it, it looks awfully shabby.

Beyond the door itself, there are other elements that help create an attractive look.

For example: house numbers. They don't have to be those tiny black numbers that will barely escape notice. Other options include larger brass or black finish numbers, decorative ceramic tiles mounted in a frame, custom hand-painted address plaques like Blankenship found at the Brighton Farmer's Market and cast aluminum plaques personalized with the family name and street address found in specialty catalogs.

A new porch light will also brighten your home's exterior appearance, both literally and figuratively. Again, there are several styles and finishes to choose from. However, if your porch lamp is in good shape but grimy looking, a thorough cleaning may bring it back to life.

And believe it or not, a simple thing like a light bulb makes a difference. Use clear bulbs instead of the white bulbs so that you see the light fixture and not the bulb. And please save those yellow bug light bulbs for the back porch!

Adding a new mailbox, whether simple or ornate, will also have an impact.

Those of you with bigger budgets may want to consider adding architectural details, like moldings or millwork, for a more distinguished look to your front entrance.

A fan-shaped sunburst pediment over the front door of a colonial along with fluted pilasters on either side of the door will immediately transform a ho-hum entrance to one that exudes class and character.

These architectural embellishments come in a variety of styles whether contemporary or traditional as well as various shapes and sizes. While most trim and millwork is constructed of wood, Roberts said exterior moldings are now also constructed of high-density polyurethane that look just like their wood counterparts, but are much more weather-resistant.

Add these adornments with restraint, keeping in mind the old saying "less is more." The idea is to add just enough to give your house character, not to make it look overdone.

Roberts cautioned against mixing architectural styles or using details out of proportion to the scale of your house.

"Scale is crucial, especially with the trim details, things have to be in proportion to the house. You can overwhelm a home real easily with something inappropriate," Roberts said.

If you're not real knowledgeable about different architectural styles or what would look appropriate on your home, Roberts suggested consulting a designer or heading to the library to do some research before you get started.

For those interested in more information on architectural moldings, Roberts passed along several sources: Fypon Molded Millwork, 22 West Pennsylvania Ave., Stewartstown, Penn., 17363, (800) 537-5349; Custom Decorative Mouldings, P.O. Box F, Route 13, Greenwood, Del., 19950, (800) 543-0553; Ornamental Mouldings, 3804 Commanche Road, Archdale, N.C., 27263, (800) 779-1135.

So whether you opt for a slight touch up or a more extensive makeover on your home's entrance, one thing is certain, your home will be putting its best face forward.

Homeowners stay put and remodel; planning home expansion

Some of the most significant architectural elements in the Bard Mansion project include wood and glass panel doors in the entrance hall, leading to a wood staircase with ornamental wood banister. A wood and marble fireplace mantel and marble hearth have been retained and improved in the living room (now called the hearth room).

A house expansion project is often considered from the inside out, based only on current needs for the space being added, it was noted in the Old-House Journal report. That may be a mistake when it comes to well-proportioned old houses.

Instead, the placement, size and detailing of the new addition should respond to the home's exterior. Keep the size and scale of the addition secondary to the old residence. Recess the addition. Match the roof pitch. Keep all details simple with an appearance matching the style and form of the original structure.

For example, windows can be varied in size as long as the general proportions of the original windows are considered, the report suggested. Building materials — wood, brick, stone — should flow from old to new, but it's not necessary to copycat expensive old details. In fact, such slavish replications are actually discouraged by preservationists, the Journal noted.

Garages are a special problem because they're anachronistic on any house built before the heyday of the automobile. The report recommended building something that doesn't draw attention by siting it on a secondary or rear facade, and minimizing detailing. A garage is simply a service wing. It's possible to minimize the impact of the door by avoiding the exposure of the roll-up garage door with its prefab panels and punched windows.

TRENDS

When planning that home expansion project, keep current trends in mind — elements in new and established homes that are hot and growing in popularity.

Examples are "great rooms" instead of large living rooms, home offices instead of exercise rooms, reading nooks instead of overscaled spaces, cottage windows instead of Palladian windows, hardwood floors instead of wall-to-wall carpeting, handcrafted details instead of built-up moldings.

Natural colors and materials are hot in decorating trends. Earth tones and selected murals are particularly popular, according to a report in Custom Home magazine.

Homes are now being designed and redesigned for a lifetime, rather than for an average of seven years of residency, the magazine noted.

DISCOVER THE PRUDENTIAL ADVANTAGE!

This combination bookcase-secretary with applied carving from the early 1900s is worth between $1,000 and $1,500.

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. We recently inherited this oak secretary in the enclosed photo. Could you please give us any information about it, such as age, manufacturer and value?

A. Your combination bookcase-secretary or "side-by-side" was made in the early 1900s. The applied carving, and convex or "bent" glass mirror, are characteristics of these desks. Most had the bookcase to the right of the desk.

One that has the desk on the left was made for the left-handed writer. Without a label it is impossible to identify the manufacturer. Many were made in Grand Rapids, Mich., and Buffalo, N.Y.

The value of your secretary would probably be about $1,000 to $1,500, in good condition.

Q. I have a set of china with this mark on each piece. The set is a service for eight; there are 70 pieces, including the serving dishes. They are white and decorated with pink clover blossoms, green leaves and gold trim.

The set is in excellent condition and has not been used for the past 26 years. Could you give me a fair price for my dishes?

A. Your dinnerware was made by

ANTIQUES

Zapun Ceramics Inc., New York, N.Y. They were distributors and wholesalers of fine translucent porcelain. Taylor, Smith & Taylor manufactured some of the dishes that were subsequently decorated by Zapun.

This mark was used circa 1944. Your dinnerware would probably be worth about $500 to $600.

Q. My husband has had a Hopalong Cassidy plate since he was a child. On the front is a picture of Hopalong on his horse and the words "To My Friend, Hoppy." On the back is a cowboy boot with "Hopalong Cassidy — By W.S. George" written across it. Could you please tell me if this plate has any monetary value?

A. Your plate was made by W.S. George in East Palestine, Ohio, around 1950. Originally it was part of a set that included a bowl and mug. Depending on the condition of your plate, it would be worth about $35 to $75.

Q. I have a chocolate pot that has been in my family for many years. On the bottom is a red star above a green wreath and the words "R.S. Prussia." It is white porcelain decorated with pink roses and a wide gold band at the top.

The height is approximately 10 inches. What are the age and value?

A. Erdmann Schlegelmilch, Suhl, Thuringia, Germany, made your chocolate pot. This mark was used circa 1900. Large quantities of porcelain were exported by Schlegelmilch to the United States from 1870 to the early 1900s.

The value of your porcelain chocolate pot would probably be about $550 to $650, in mint condition.

Q. I recently received two pictures of cuddly babies by Bessie Pease Gutmann. The titles are "The Awakening" and "A Little Bit of Heaven." Could you please give me some information on my pictures.

A. Bessie Pease Gutmann was a successful illustrator of children's books in the early 1900s. Her work was so well liked that large quantities of tinted prints of her charming children at sleep and at play were widely reproduced.

Your prints would probably be worth about $75 each depending on the condition.

Q. In 1964 I was given a lamp by a lady who said that she won it playing bingo at an officers' club in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, in 1939. The lamp is 20 inches tall with a 12-inch metal figure of a lady wearing a grass skirt. When the lamp is turned on the lady performs the hula.

I hope you can give me some information on my "Hula Girl" lamp.

A. Novelty figurine lamps were popular in the 1940s. Your electric "Hula Girl" lamp is a fun collectible. It would probably be worth about $75 to $85 in good condition.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

A Problem with blooming azaleas small (second year) plant did not bloom. What could be wrong?

A. Most azaleas prefer a sunny location where they will receive direct sunlight for at least part of the day. Some varieties may be grown successfully under trees that cast high shade and provide filtered sunlight, but no azalea will grow well in dense shade. They require an acid soil, abundantly supplied with humus, retentive of moisture, yet well drained.

Two annual applications of acid fertilizer are necessary, one in early spring and the other between the middle of June or early July.

TIP

For vining crops, create a horizontal trellis by fastening chicken wire to a frame 1 inch above the soil.

Plant your seeds in well-enriched compost hills in the center and mulch amply under and around the racks.

As the vine grows, train them up through the wires onto the flat area. Soon the roots will be shaded — requiring less water.

By using this technique, suspending in the air fruits and vines will be less susceptible to soil-borne diseases and any pests lurking about will be easier to spot and control.

The racks are the perfect solution to keep fruits and vines above walking and weeding areas and out of harm's way.

U.S. Savings Bonds will help them do one thing with their retirement: Enjoy it.

U.S. Savings Bonds are helping millions of Americans save for their retirement — easily and safely.

When you buy U.S. Savings Bonds, you'll know your money will be there when you retire. Your investment is backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

U.S. Savings Bonds are an easy, affordable way to save. Buy them for just a few dollars each payday through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan or for as little as $25 each at your bank. What could be easier?

There are other advantages, too. The interest earned is exempt from state and local income taxes, and it can be federally tax-deferred. Bonds earn a guaranteed return, and they're eligible to earn competitive, market-based interest, compounded semiannually, when held five years or more. And you can redeem them anytime after six months from the issue date.

Whatever your plans for retirement, U.S. Savings Bonds can help you enjoy them. For more information, ask your employer or bank, or write: U.S. Savings Bonds Division, Department of the Treasury, Box 933 N, Washington, DC 20226.

Steve McGrath of Steve's Locksmith in Milford.

Steve's Locksmith is on-call for repairs 24-hours per day

By SAM BLACK
Staff Writer

In eighth grade Steve McGrath knew exactly what he wanted to be on career day.

And on March 1, 10 years after his eighth-grade vision, McGrath opened Steve's Locksmith at 212 Milford Road.

"I work on anything that locks - electronic locks, anything," McGrath said.

"If you lock yourself out of your store at 2 a.m., who do you call? You call me and I come out."

McGrath was 15 when he completed a correspondence locksmith course he read about in Popular Mechanics.

He bought an old van for $200 from money he had saved from working after school.

He slapped signs on the side of it and went to work, ordering the parts he needed from Peters Hardware in Highland.

After graduating from Milford High School, McGrath took a part time job as a locksmith for Washtenaw County Community College in Ann Arbor.

His four years of experience there helped launch new accounts for him and made it possible to open his own shop.

Recently, McGrath earned the Highland Township Volunteer Fire Department as a new customer.

Assistant Fire Chief Jim Crunk said he was dissatisfied with the service of the department's old locksmith, especially after the company charged $400 to install two combination security locks and one didn't work properly. McGrath fixed the lock and earned a new contract.

McGrath offers a 24-hour mobile service, burglary and fire safe sales and installation, lock repairs and security consulting.

He repairs car locks, automatic doors for stores and provides master key systems for businesses and institutions.

He also sells locks and lock parts to people and construction companies with experience to do the job themselves.

And McGrath bills his business accounts at the first of the month.

"I hope to turn this into a great business for me and I can do it until I retire," McGrath said.

"I enjoy what I do. As long as I get a lot of business, I'll be here a long time."

Steve's Locksmith is open Wednesdays through Sundays, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, call (810) 887-6011.

State's outlook is best in nation

Michigan's economic outlook is the best in the United States, according to a quarterly survey by Kemper Securities.

The state climbed into the top spot for the fourth quarter of 1994 after ranking second in the previous quarter. Michigan has now been in the top 10 for three consecutive quarters - an excellent indicator of continuing growth.

"This survey confirms that Michigan will keep on turbocharging the national economy," said Gov. John Engler. "Michigan workers and Michigan companies are earning more and doing better than their counterparts across the country. Most importantly, that good news is expected to continue."

The survey ranked the states in six categories: employment, home sales, mortgage delinquencies (decrease), mortgage foreclosures (decrease), unemployment (decrease), and building permits. Michigan was in the top 10 in four of the six categories.

"Employment in (auto and related industries) as well as other manufacturing sectors rose, adding not only more jobs to Michigan's workforce, but also better paying jobs, therefore infusing more money into the state's economy ... While its heavy reliance on manufacturing makes it more vulnerable to changes in interest rates, the health of its overall employment picture, its strong housing market, and recent gains in exporting leave the state in a better position to withstand changes in the economy," the survey said.

With Michigan's Largest selection of...

Perennials, Woodland Wildflowers, Rare Alpines, Dwarf Conifers, and unusual flowering shrubs

We are pleased to be able to offer one of the largest selections of wildflowers and ferns in the U.S., including many trillium species and such rarities as Shortia and Jeffersonia. We also have an incredible selection of Primula species mostly from China and Europe. There are thousands of potted perennials to choose from; old favorites to rarities found nowhere else, we have it all. Be sure to check out the dozens of new species of Campanulas and Gentians in the collectors corner this year. The miles of field rows will be open as soon as the plants are up far enough to recognize. We also have a fine collection of dwarf conifers and flowering shrubs in smaller sizes at very affordable prices for gardeners with taste and patience.

If you have kids, you may be eligible for deductions

If you have children, you may be entitled to important tax deductions and credits on your tax return, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Before filing your tax return, be sure you consider the following:

DEPENDENCY EXEMPTION

Generally, you can claim your children as dependents on your tax return as long as you provided more than half of their total support.

In addition, your children must be U.S. citizens and under age 19 or full-time students under age 24 at the end of year. However, you may claim exemptions for children over age 19 who are not full-time students, or for full-time students over age 24, if they have less than $2,350 of gross income for the year. Each dependent exemption is worth $2,350 on your 1993 tax return.

Be aware that children cannot claim a personal exemption on their own tax returns if either parent claims them as a dependent.

CHILD CARE CREDIT

If you paid someone to care for your child so you and your spouse could work or look for work, you may be entitled to a valuable tax credit. For parents with adjusted gross income (AGI) of $10,000 or less, the credit is equal to 30 percent of employment-related dependent care expenses. The credit amount is decreased by 1 percent for each $2,000 (or part thereof) of AGI in excess of $10,000, until it decreases to 20 percent for taxpayers with AGIs of over $28,000.

The maximum amount of employment-related child care expenses that can be taken into account for computing the credit is $2,400 for one child, and $4,800 for two or more qualifying individuals. employment-related expenses may not exceed your earned income. If married, employment-related expenses are limited to the earned income of the spouse who earns less.

CPAs point out that you may claim a credit only for amounts you pay to care for qualifying individuals.

Generally, these include children under age 13 for whom you are entitled to claim a dependent exemption on your tax return.

There are two other important rules to keep in mind: If you are married, you must usually file a joint return to claim the credit; and you must usually provide the name, address and taxpayer identification or Social Security number of the organization or individual providing care for your child.

EARNED INCOME CREDIT

Taxpayers with low incomes who had children living at home for more than half of the year may qualify for the earned income credit.

You may be entitled to a basic credit up to $1,434 if you have one qualifying child, and $1,511 for two or more children if your earned income and your AGI are less than certain limits.

Here's more good news: If the credit is larger than your tax, the difference is refunded to you.

You may also qualify for a 5 percent supplemental young child credit if your child was under age one on Dec. 31.

In addition, a 6 percent health insurance credit is available if you provide health insurance coverage for your qualifying children.

Be aware that claiming the additional credit for a child under the age of one eliminates the infant as a qualifying individual for purposes of the child care credit.

You cannot take a deduction for child care expenses incurred for that child so you can work.

MEDICAL EXPENSES

Finally, don't forget that your dependents' medical expenses can also be claimed as itemized deductions.

Since medical expenses are deductible to the extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of your AGI, accurately calculating your dependents' medical expenses, such as fees paid to physicians, costs for eyeglasses or braces, health insurance premiums and travel to and from medical facilities, may help you to exceed that threshold and qualify for a tax deduction.

The Michigan Association of CPAs points out that understanding the tax law can help parents adopt a smarter and more cost-effective tax strategy.

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

PRAYER to the Blessed Virgin. (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity. Now (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times) Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you Grateful thanks.GB&LB

You could pay three times as much and be just as satisfied.

It seems some tried-and-true automotive logic has been turned upside down. In fact, if recent customer satisfaction scores are any indication, you can get the same pleasant buying experience and reliable service as with a $50,000 luxury car—when you buy, say, an $11,000 Saturn. Seems a bit revolutionary, doesn't it? Well, maybe that's just Saturn logic.

Divers find treasures close to home

You're standing on the deck of the wooden schooner Sandusky, which went down in a September storm in the Straits of Mackinac 140 years ago—before the Civil War. Everything is perfectly preserved: the masts, winch, windlass, the bowsprit, wheel and figurehead—even the galley tableware and crew's personal gear.

As you explore the fascinating museum-like vessel, your imagination conjures what it must have been like to live—and die—on the Great Lakes.

But this is no museum. The ship lies where it sank—83 feet underwater. And you are underwater, too, on a scuba-diving expedition to one of the more than 150 preserved shipwrecks surrounding our state.

We all know the Water Wonderland for its swimming, fishing, and boating. But with over 100,000 certified scuba divers living here, Michigan is also very big on "wreck diving"—and if you have the desire and some simple basic training, then you, too, can enjoy a hands-on experience of history that few others have ever had.

"Our freshwater lakes make Michigan very unique for shipwreck diving," says Dave Trotter, an avid Great Lakes diving enthusiast. He should know. For the last 17 years, using library research and state-of-the-art sonar equipment, Trotter had made an obsession of finding undiscovered shipwrecks in our waters.

"In salt water, over time, the salt and marine life destroy both wood and metal," explains the explorer who has covered more Great Lakes bottomlands than any other human being. "But here in the fresh water, the ships can remain perfectly preserved. You can still swim down and put your hands right on the hull and rigging of a vessel over a hundred years old."

Today Michigan's underwater preserves include between 150 and 200 shipwrecks in good condition that the average diver can readily access and explore.

"There's probably no other place on the planet," says Mike Comsa, president of the Rec Diving Shop in Royal Oak, "where you have such direct, quick access to such concentrations of ships in pristine, undisturbed condition, all in one place, all within hours of where you live." And while the Straits of Mackinac and other northern venues provide a particular treasure-trove of wreck diving opportunities, Comsa says "there's some fantastic diving right in lower Lake Huron, just an hour and a half north of metro Detroit."

In the 1800s and early 1900s, the Great Lakes were one of America's major arteries of transportation and commerce, conveying farm produce, manufactured goods, and new midwestern settlers. With more than 5,000 schooners, wooden steamers, and early steel-hull vessels regularly plying our waters, frequent accidents and storm-related tragedies were inevitable.

The result is an estimated 4,000 shipwrecks surrounding our state today, the vast majority undiscovered and unexplored.

As its many adherents will tell you, wreck diving is a voyage not just to another era, but to another world. "You and your dive-buddy start at a marker buoys on the surface," Comsa explains, growing more and more animated as he pictures the experience.

"You follow the mooring line down . . . down . . . suddenly this dark object starts to materialize below you. And as you get closer, you start to see a mast rising above the hull . . . an anchor . . . a windlass . . . the heavy machinery. Finally you swim over the deck and examine the ship's wheel, the railings, the rigging, pulleys and deadeyes; the windlass, which they used to haul the anchor up and down; the bowsprit, with its heavy chains. And there's definitely the feeling, 'Oh, my gosh, this ship sank in 1814, and it's been lying here undisturbed ever since . . . and all of a sudden, here I am, just inches from it!' It really puts things in perspective."

Tony Gramer agrees. When he's not at his job, repairing machines at the Ford Dearborn assembly plant, Gramer is out on the water looking for undiscovered shipwrecks. Past president of the Ford Seahorses, one of the area's oldest and most active scuba clubs, he chairs its annual Great Lakes Shipwreck Film Festival, which for 19 years has attracted up to 1,000 diving devotees from all over the U.S.

In 1981, Gramer and Dr. Chuck Feltner found the schooner Sandusky in the Straits of Mackinac. "It's a perfect wreck for the novice diver," he notes. "It's in 83 feet of water, it's open, and it's perfectly intact . . . even the bow figurehead, which just a handful of wrecks still have."

Gramer, too, feels the strong pull of history when diving Michigan's shipwrecks. "What fascinated me is the things people brought to their new-found land that show the way they lived: shoes, watches, clay pipes, tableware . . . and of course all the machinery and technology in those days. It's just amazing the things people made, how they lived."

But what he loves to do most is hover over the middle of the deck and "walk" backwards to take in as much as he can see. "And as I survey this ship that was swamped in the storm, I can almost hear the captain yelling to the first mate, 'Pump the bilge pumps harder! . . . and there's nothing happening. You can almost hear the crew yelling, 'We're going down! There's nothing we can do!' You can almost feel that. It's really eerie."

If exploring whole new worlds underwater sounds like your cup of tea, it's easy to get started. Scuba, as many know by now, stands for Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus—the air tank and the regulator, which transports the air to your mouth. Because of the technicalities of the equipment, as well as requisite underwater skills for safety and comfort, you'll need some formal instruction, as well as certification by one of the major certification agencies such as PADI, SSI or NAUI.

Virtually every shop that sells scuba gear is affiliated with one of these agencies, and offers introductory courses. There are three components to scuba instruction: classroom sessions, swimming-pool training, and an open-water certification test.

Typically, the classroom and pool training take place in either seven weekly sessions or on a full weekend. Then, once you've demonstrated a familiarity with the basics in the pool and passed a written exam, you are ready to be certified in an open body of water.

(You can either do this close to home or at most popular diving resorts. I took my initial classes in the Detroit area and my open-water examination by an approved instructor in Cozumel, Mexico—just before a spectacular week of reef diving.)

As for equipment, students are generally asked to buy and bring their own personal mask, fins, and snorkel

to the class. The heavier gear, such as air tank and regulator, inflatable buoyancy-control vest, and weight belt are provided as part of the overall course package. After that, occasional divers may continue to rent the heavier (and more expensive) gear from the dive shop or resort, while more frequent divers usually end up buying all their own equipment.

The cost for all this?

Depending on the facility, $300 to $350 for the basic course (including equipment rental), plus another $150 to $350 to buy a quality mask, fins, and snorkel. A call to your local dive shop will get you on your way.

Of course, once you become a certified scuba diver, you are by no means restricted to wreck diving in your own "back pond." A trip to the Florida Keys, the Caribbean, or Cozumel—to name just three of the many popular warm-water dive spots—will bring you nose-to-nose with indescribably exotic fish and other-worldly coral life.

But for Michigan's true-blue Great Lakes divers, nothing compares to the adventure and fascination of exploring the sunken treasures beneath our own waves. With 4,000 or more shipwrecks waiting patiently to be discovered, there's plenty of pioneering left to do.

So, Michiganians, if you seek a pleasant peninsula . . . look underwater!

ARTWORK IS ALL WET— Carol Shahbaz' watercolor "My Boat is on the Right" will be one of the featured works at the Cook Energy Center exhibit.

This exhibition features 50 oil and acrylic landscapes, portraits and figure studies, New England coastal scenes, still lifes and urban scenes by the Midwestern regional artist Tunis Ponsen (1891-1968).

On view through Sept. 3, the exhibit showcases the work of a critically-acclaimed painter of traditional and modern works.

The last major exhibition of Ponsen's work occurred in 1938, so most of the artworks in the current show have been largely unknown for more than 50 years.

Sault Ste. Marie: All seasons, all reasons

Dorothy
Webster

You can look at Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, and see a different facet with every glance—depending on what you're looking for, and at.

There's the historical perspective—Michigan's oldest city, first visited by Etienne Brule in the 1620s, with a mission established by fathers Marquette and Dablon in 1668, with white water rapids dropping 22 feet and attracting Indians to the famed fishing waters.

There's the geographical distinction - the St. Marys River linking Lake Superior and Lake Huron, forming a boundary between Canada and the United States.

There's the attraction of the Indian-run gaming casinos that draw hundreds of travelers each day.

To others, maritime lore is the main interest - with the Soo Locks (all four of them), passing more than 95 million tons of water-borne freight every year. There are ocean-going ships, lake freighters, working tugboats, Coast Guard vessels of two nations, pleasure boats of all description, and excursion crafts gaily bedecked to be seen every day during the shipping season.

Travelers and vacationers enjoy interpretive attractions such as the Tower of History, the S.S. Valley Camp, and the newer River of History exhibits. There are also train-boat excursions through the Soo locks and into Canada, and evening dining cruises along the St. Marys River.

Sportsmen appreciate the reputation of the area's waters, with whitefish, perch, trout, ducks and geese, deer and small game—each in its own season. Many use the area as a jumping-off point for fly-in fishing and hunting camps in the Canada bush. Winter enthusiasts roar down groomed snowmobile trails or glide silently along cross-country ski trails.

Boaters are familiar with the scenic St. Marys River—from the upbound and downbound shipping channels, the island-strewn bays, reaching from the Soo to DeTour at the head of Lake Huron.

In all seasons, for all reasons, Sault Ste. Marie has something to offer.

You can spend a week or a weekend at the Soo and find something interesting to do with every minute of your time - surrounded by intriguing scenery, plenty of places to dine, clean accommodations and the ever-present Soo Locks.

The locks themselves form a passage for deep-draft vessels around the rapids, which early Indians (called Saulters by French explorers), dubbed "Bawating". They portaged their birchbark canoes up the 22-foot drop, spread over quite a distance. As larger, decked vessels appeared on the lakes, they were unloaded, the cargoes were hauled around the rapids in wagons, then reloaded in other boats at the opposite end of the falls. Some vessels were rolled on logs from one end to the other - quite a feat.

A few daring captains tried running the rapids in their decked vessels, but few succeeded. In 1797 a canal with a lock that would raise the water 9 feet was constructed on the Canadian side of the river, enabling canoes to avoid the tedious portage, but it was too small for sailing ships. And, during the War of 1812, the Americans partially destroyed the canal, rendering it useless for the British.

The locks as we know them today have seen the old and the new, from tired old schooners with leaky bottoms and worn rigging to gleaming new steam-driven passenger ships, from grimy, coal-blackened freighters, known as Upper Lakers, to private yachts with spit-polished brass fittings. Today, of course, you can add the ungainly but cost effective, 1,000-footers that haul ore and cargo upon the Upper and Lower Great Lakes. And, there's word that a new lock may be built in the future to accommodate even larger freighters.

You can see the locks by several means: A close-up view at the Army Corps of Engineers Information Center in Government Park beside the locks, an overview from the Tower of History, from a tour train that circuits both the American and Canadian sides of the river, and from a cruise through the locks. If you're short of time, by all means, try the actual cruise through the locks. Call 800-432-6301 for information.

To almost touch the ships locking through, visit the parkland paralleling the locks. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers provides an Information Center (no admission charge), with exhibits about the locks that will give you a detailed understanding of the system. There's a short, interesting film and a working model of a lock that will aid youngsters and their parents. You'll also enjoy photographs of the construction that may make you marvel at what determined engineers can accomplish. The center is open daily, mid-May to mid-November, but get there early as parking is limited along Portage Avenue.

One special attraction centers along the St. Marys River - the Soo Locks Dinner Cruise. You'll enjoy the sunset as your captain pilots you through Sugar Island's Old North Channel, through the Soo Locks all while you're dining on a delicious buffet-style dinner, including dessert. Take a sweater, as it's often cool as dusk descends. Telephone 800-432-6301 for times and prices.

The area history is amply explained in the newer River of History Museum on the first floor of the restored Federal Courthouse at 209 Portage Ave. More than 8,000 years of St. Marys River history is portrayed, from the Anishnabeg (Chippewa) Indians through the French fur-trading days to modern-day industrial and environmental issues. There's an audio system recreating the sounds of history, even the excavation of locks. Telephone 906-632-1999 and allow at least a half-hour for your tour. You may extend that considerably as you become swept up by the breadth of what has taken place along these shores.

With everything conveniently located along Portage and Water Streets, you won't want to miss visiting the Museum Ship Valley Camp. Its 550-foot long expanse gives you an experience like no other - and there isn't a stair to be climbed. A series of ramps makes everything accessible, from the pilot house and captain's quarters to the Marine Museum and aquarium.

You'll be silenced by the two crushed lifeboats from the Edmund Fitzgerald, which sank in a November gale on Lake Superior in 1975. Gordon Lightfoot's unforgettable melody provides a suitable, if eerie, audio backup. Plan on spending at least two hours here, more if you're a real marine buff. Call 906-632-3658 for details of admission and hours.

If you're planning to wage a bet or two at the gaming tables, telephone 800-KEWADIN before leaving home. The Vegas Kewadin has special packages that include lodging, coins for the slot machines and more.

At the tables, you'll be able to try blackjack, roulette, craps, poker, bingo, $100,000 keno, and slot machines are everywhere. There's a good restaurant, The Dream Catcher, and a lounge, The Dream Maker, in addition to fine displays of Indian arts and crafts. Best of all, there's a never-ending parade of people to watch, from gray-haired grannies to hip young adults - all intent on having fun and winning jackpots.

Perhaps your travel intentions are more scholarly. You might enjoy a tour of the city's historic churches, remembering that the first church service held at Sault Ste. Marie was in May, 1641, under Father Jogues and Charles Raymbault. You can visit St. James Episcopal Church, First United Presbyterian Church, St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral, St. George Greek Orthodox Church and Central Methodist Church.

Well-designed brochures with a walking tour map that's explicit and easy to read are available through the Sault Area Chamber of Commerce. Telephone 800-647-2858.

Where life's the pits and everyone celebrates

You never know what will happen when you plant a seed. Or, in this case, a cherry stone.

It was 1924 when a newspaper man named Jay P. Smith proposed a new public event in the Traverse City area: The Blessing of the Blossoms. The idea was to celebrate the cherry harvest and attract a few visitors to Grand Traverse Bay.

I think of him now as we approach the 69th annual cherry festival, now the National Cherry Festival, rated by the American Bus Association as one of the top 10 festivals in the United States. Could those early festival planners have imagined cherry sausage and the Milk Carton Boat Regatta?

They've had boats on Grand Traverse Bay for centuries of course. The sailing boats came in the 17th and 18th centuries, the lumbermen came in with their axes and saws in the 19th century and the pleasure boats come now.

The boats in the Milk Carton Boat Regatta only sail during the National Cherry Festival, but they have their own distinction: most of them sink before reaching the finish line.

A map of such distinguished tourist activities spreads for 50 miles in every direction now because the supported by milk cartons, is great fun, but look at the other activities being launched in the area on a single day, July 1:

You could start at Haserot Park in Northport, on the Leelanau Peninsula, where Harbor Days is celebrated July 1 to 4. Several dozen artists will display and sell their crafts at the Northport Art Fair. Young sailors will build small sailboats for the Popeye Boat Regatta. And you can get in on Northport's famous fish boil.

Fish boil's were common quarter of a century ago, but it's pretty hard to find a public fish boil today. Go early and watch them layer the potatoes and onions and fish, while your mouth waters.

The 1995 Parade of Homes shows custom homes all over the Grand Traverse area July 1 and while you're driving around you can stop at the Ole Farm Museum in Buckley or swap sports cards at a collectibles show in Grand Traverse Mall.

If it rains, try the Dennon Museum Center at Northwestern Museum College, where they have mounted several good exhibits: antique toys from the Detroit Toy Museum, the Lost Paintings of Michigan artist Tunis Ponsen, a close view of Ansel Adams photographs, and the works of Leelanau county artists Hans Anderson and Clarence Brauer.

Things start to heat up when the World Youth Symphony Orchestra plays at Interlochen July 2 and an aquatic learning adventure, Family Schoolship, is held aboard the schooner Inland Seas July 3. Of

You have the most fun at Open Space, ...where people get stains all over their tee-shirts...

Traverse City Convention & Visitors Bureau includes Antrim, Grand Traverse, Benzonina and Leland counties.

If you haven't been to Michigan's gold coast recently, even you might be surprised at the activities going on in Jay Smith's "home town," which is now promoted as an area that stretches from Traverse City west through the Leelanau Peninsula and Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore to Crystal Lake, south to Interlochen, north and east past Bellaire and Mancelona to Ellsworth.

The Milk Carton Boat Regatta, in which all sailing vessels must be course there are fireworks and Independence Day celebrations July 4 in Beulah and Frankfort and other places.

That's just the first weekend in July. You should see the second weekend: Cedar Folk Fest July 6-9 in Cedar, Strawberry Festival July 8 in Benzonina, the Elberta Art and Crafts Psychic Fair July 8 in Elberta and, of course, the "main event."

The week-long National Cherry Festival, held this year July 8 to 15, is what grew out of that small seed that Smith planted when he started the Blessing of the Blossoms. They grow 100 million pounds of cherries a year in the Grand Traverse area now, and they seem to have attracted a tourist for every blossom in the place!

You can start July 9 with the National Cherry Festival Bike Tour, the National Cherry Festival Air Show or the National Cherry Festival Arts & Crafts Fair or you can listen to the Traverse Symphony Orchestra Concert held in conjunction with the National Cherry Festival.

There is a long list of festival events, but anybody who has ever been to Traverse City during festival days knows that you have the most fun at Open Space, a spread of grass where people get stains all over their tee-shirts while eating cherry pizza, cherry pie, cherry mustard and cherry barbecue sauce.

You will probably see Ray Pleva, of Pleva Meats in Cedar, Michigan presiding over his new cherry product Prevalean. It was Ray who brought us cherry sausage. Prevalean is a lean cherry hamburger. Coming up: cherry Canadian bacon.

You can eat cherry products while listening to musical groups like Da Yoopers on stage at Open Space. If you would rather listen to Amy Grant, Clint Black, or Ringo Starr and his All Starr Band, you need a schedule of musical events held during the festival at Grand Traverse Resort.

The resort is two miles northeast of Traverse City in Acme, which is also home to the Music House, "Emporium of Old Tunes and Good Times." They have a great collection of automated musical instruments built between 1880 and 1920. The star of that show is the huge organ built in Antwerp, Belgium, in 1922 by Theofiel Mortier for the Victoria Palace in Ypres, Belgium.

And if music doesn't interest you, tour nearby Amon Orchards, where they bless the cherry industry every day of the week.

The 69th annual National Cherry Festival begins and ends with cherries, but the two main events in my book are the Cherry Royale Parade and the Milk Carton Boat Regatta. The parade is of course a big affair. There are floats, marching bands and other fun, but my favorites are the kids who sell cherries from wagons along the route.

Please note that locals put their folding chairs along the parade route the night before and the chairs are still there in the morning. Jay Smith might not think that is strange. It was probably a common occurrence in 1924. Those of us who live in 1995 think it's a miracle.

You will sit on the sandy beach, or on the grassy bank of the bay, to watch the other miracle, the Milk Carton Boat Regatta. Boats are built on gallon-sized plastic milk jugs, so they don't go far from shore. They start out across a stretch of water, their crews paddling madly, and most of them begin to sink very slowly along the way. The winner is the one that gets to the other side first, but the real winners are those that get to the other side at all.

You're only half way through July by the time you finish with the cherry festival. If you want to know what's going on the rest of the summer, call the Traverse City Convention & Visitors Bureau toll free at (800) TRAVERSE and they'll tell you all about it.

The Bureau's Central Lodging and Tee-Time reservations allows them to check the availability and rates at area accommodations, and book you a room or a tee-time.

The lake where the northland begins

Julie Candler

Allan Hayes

Back in the '80s, when they headed their car northward along the state's western coast, Cheryl and Howard Whelan were searching for the first port that seemed like northern Michigan. They found it at Whitehall, about 12 miles north of Muskegon.

"This little town," says Cheryl Whelan, "is the southernmost place we could find that feels the way it does up north. You can smell the cool winds, and hear them in the tall pines. We think it's lovely here."

After discovering the southernmost port with the northernmost mystique, the Whelans moved their big sailboat to a slip on White Lake, which is bordered on one side by Whitehall and on the other by its twin city, Montague.

"Everything we liked to do was here," says Cheryl. "We came here every weekend to sail."

Eventually the Whelans moved their residence to Whitehall from their home base in Mason, near Lansing. Then they began operating "Tankbark Sailing Adventures." From 1989 until this year, they offered charter cruises on Lake Michigan aboard their handsome 46-foot Bayfield double-headsail ketch, the Shiloh. No one knows more about boating conditions on, or from, White Lake than the Whelans.

We lunch with them at the Crosswinds Restaurant to get information for boaters contemplating a visit to Whitehall.

"White Lake is a great sailing lake," says Howard. "It's five and a half miles long and a mile wide, with good overall depths and plenty of wind. A channel gives you easy passage to Lake Michigan."

"One of our favorite things to do," says Cheryl, "is to anchor out instead of being tied up to a dock in a marina. A nice spot on White Lake is northeast of Dowie Point, near the old Hooker chemical plant pilings. Or you can anchor on Lake Michigan in the lee of the White Lake pierhead for a swim."

"White Lake can get crowded on a major weekend," says Howard. "But there's a lot of places for transients."

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources lists a hard-surface launching ramp with a good depth of sheltered tables. Its motto: "Our sunsets are worth the trip."

An organization called Parkland Properties has developed two large facilities in Montague on White Lake. One is the Ellenwood Landing-Condominiums, at 4525 Dowling, and the other is Harbor Hill Landing, at 8166 Old Channel Trail. Transient slip rentals are available in both.

Whitehall Landing, at 4120 Lake St., Whitehall, has 180 slips including transient, a clubhouse with galley, a fish cleaning station, a heated pool, ice, indoor and outdoor plumbing, a picnic area with grills, and what they advertise as "beautiful" restrooms.

White Bay Marina, 216 S. Lake St., Whitehall, offers 83 slips including transient, a club room, TV lounge, restrooms, picnic area, fire pit, water on White Lake at Montague.

The municipal dock at Whitehall is six blocks from the nearest restaurants and stores. The harbormaster is on duty from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and welcomes transients (call 616-894-9689). Amenities include showers and electricity.

Crosswinds Marine Service at 302 S. Lake St., Whitehall, has 101 slips, a nice restaurant that is a favorite of the Whelans, and also welcomes transients.

The Crosswinds Restaurant (and the Lakeside Inn) offer free dockage for customers. Crosswinds overlooks White Lake and has an outdoor deck covered with umbrella-and a fish cleaning station.

From any of the marinas, you can walk to downtown Whitehall or Montague, both pleasant little towns. There are antique and gift shops, bakeries and many good restaurants, both for fine dining and for a come-as-you-are atmosphere.

In Montague, we make an exciting new discovery in our unending search for old-fashioned ice cream sodas. We discover the Todd Pharmacy and Lipska's Drug Store, both of which have soda fountains behind which are scooped out delectable ice cream sodas in eight different flavors. Lipska's even has those wire chairs and little round wire tables that once were fashionable in drug stores everywhere.

At Whitehall Landing we meet a young couple who keep their sailboat, a Tartan 3500, in White Lake, Stewart and Barbara McElyea hail from West Lafayette, Indiana and make the 200-mile drive to White Lake every summer weekend.

"We live aboard every weekend," says Barbara McElyea. "This is our summer cottage. We like the fact that we can stay on White Lake where it's protected if we have guests who don't set well on a boat in rough waters."

The McElyeas do most of their cooking on their grill at the dock, and eat at their picnic table. Occasionally, however, they eat at their favorite restaurant, the Old Channel Inn in Montague.

Whitehall, the Whelans tell us, is also a fishing mecca.

The first time we see a fisherman named Troy Gallihugh, he's standing on a curb in Whitehall, apparently gazing with great excitement at nothing at all. Intrigued, we stop to look, but have no idea what the man in the white baseball cap is looking at, other than across the street.

"See there?" he tells us, pointing. "It's trout flies."

And sure enough, now we see little specks dancing nearby in the air. "They're arriving in droves," he enthuses. "The fish will have a feeding frenzy. It's a fisherman's dream."

Gallihugh, it turns out, is manager of Lake Land Outfitters at 116 W. Colby and an ardent fisherman.

"There's steelhead, brook and brown trout and walleye in the White River," Gallihugh tells us. "White Lake has walleye, bass, northern pike, perch, panfish and catfish. In Lake Michigan it's trout, mainly, salmon in the fall, and walleye. It should be a great fishing season, especially if we have a warm summer."

The old White River Light Station, which was built in the 1870s shortly after the channel was cut through, now serves as a museum. You can visit it from 11 to 5 Tuesday to Friday, and 12 to 6 Saturdays and Sundays through the summer.

After six years, the Whelans have reluctantly decided to discontinue the Tanbark charter operation.

"We didn't get much time to enjoy the boat ourselves," explains Howard. "We had no weekends."

The Whelans have now built a home on a pond at Montague, and are looking forward to enjoying it, with more leisure time. Shiloh is for sale and their future boating plans, at least for now, are to get a canoe for adventures around Brown's Pond, the location of their new home. "After the major responsibility of cruising a 46-footer with four to six passengers all summer long," says Cheryl, "we decided it's time to call it quits — and to enjoy northern Michigan."

MASS ASCENSION— Nearly 200 balloons will set sail above Battle Creek July 1-8 during the World Hot-Air Balloon Championship.

It's all hot air!

Battle Creek, Michigan—

Battle Creek... the cereal capital and more, becomes the hot-air balloon 'Capital of the World' July 1-8.

The 12th World Hot-Air Balloon Championship will be held at the W. K. Kellogg Airport west of town. This is the most prestigious hot-air balloon event a city can host, and this year Battle Creek becomes the only city to host the world championship three times.

The hot-air balloon is the oldest form of manned flight, with the first ascent taking place in Paris in 1783. Today, The Federal Aviation Administration counts 7,980 licensed hot-air balloons in the United States, with 7,946 licensed pilots.

Nearly 200 balloons are expected in Battle Creek this year, most of which are about seven stories high, spectators will be in awe over the amazing special shapes...Disney's Mickey Mouse; Kellogg Company's Tony the Tiger; Noah's Ark; Santa Claus; a clown, a birthday cake; Post Cereal's Sugar Bear; Garfield the Cat; a huge flying insect; and more! Special shaped, non-competitive balloons will be featured July 5-7. However, some of these balloons will be flying daily.

Balloon launches are scheduled at 6:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. each day (weather permitting, the times when breezes are usually lightest, balloons are not launched in strong winds.

Balloonists will take part in several competitions, such as landing in a predetermined location, during the championship.

Between the morning and evening launches, and late into the night, organizers have myriad events planned, including performances by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds at 4 p.m. July 2-4.

There will be daily air shows with 11 acts from noon to 5 p.m. July 1-4, with fireworks shows at 10:30 p.m. on July 1, 4 and 8. Sean Tucker will be doing night aerobatic flights before the fireworks displays, doing rolls and loops with bursts of fireworks being released from his plane.

At 10 p.m. on July 2 and 7, plan to attend the balloon night illumines. The darkness will disappear as the balloons begin to glow.

Don't miss the magnificent Budweiser Clydesdale Eight Horse Hitch. The entire family will enjoy watching the perfectly-matched team pulling a bright red Budweiser wagon. This event traditionally draws an additional 70,000 people per day to any show!

Brought to us by Kellogg Arena, country, pop, jazz, rhythm & blues, rock and top 40 hits will be performing on center stage each night.

There are arts and crafts displays, July 1-4; entertainment; and five dozen novelty and specialty food booths, as well as a 42-ride amusement park.

Admission on July 1-4 is $4 and anyone 3 feet or less will receive free admission. Gate admission drops to $2 for the last four days of the event, which traditionally are the least crowded. Parking is $4 per day. Don't miss the discount gate admission with Kellogg Company box tops, Archway Cookie labels, or Ziploc Brand baggies box tops. Collect all three and receive $3 off the $4 gate admission price on July 1-4. Each person must have their own set of proofs to receive discount.

Antiques go alfresco in summer

Day

As much a part of summer in Michigan as picnics, outdoor theater and baseball are the antiques markets held throughout the state in county fairgrounds almost every weekend.

While the markets in fairground barns and stalls have been around for some 25 years, their popularity may be peaking this year.

The third weekend in May found most markets in full swing. When we visited the Marshall Antiques Market then, promoter Donna Tear (with husband Ted) expressed concern that there were seven scheduled that weekend.

In its third season, the Marshall market is one of the newest on the scene and is staged in the Calhoun County Fairgrounds, Michigan's oldest fairgrounds dating from 1839. Located just south of town on Fair Street off Michigan Avenue, the grounds offer a pleasant wooded setting.

The market is one of the smaller ones, with about 60 dealers on hand in May. On the opening market the day before Easter, however, Tear said, every barn was filled. The Tears sign dealers for individual shows so the number can vary at each. Begun as a two-day market, the Tears switched this year to a one-day market on Saturdays.

One dealer said she liked the new format, as it meant she also could show at the Ionia Market the following day.

Those attending the market wore casual clothing—blue jeans and comfortable shoes. Comfort is essential to this kind of antiquing as purchases usually have to be hauled back to the parking areas and some markets, such as the Centreville Market with more than 500 dealers, can be all-day outings.

Most dealers at the Marshall Market brought a general line of goods. We spotted a five-and-a-half foot Flexible Flyer sled for $225. An antique wooden washing machine in the Dison/Horton booth was priced at $195.

In all, there were several booths with furniture, including a school master desk for $150, and a country marble), much more elegant than ordinary mosaic work, depicting classical views of Italy. It was priced at $1,500.

The booth of Bill and Margaret Wallace filled with very collectible Wedgwood drew much attention at the Marshall Market. Choice pieces were on display in black basalt as well as the familiar blue, sage green and lavender. They also brought a collection of Royal Doulton bone china figurines, now collectible as many made in the 1940s and 1950s are no longer produced by the English factory. A small figurine of a young girl, "Babie," was priced at a reasonable $85.

Bailey's Antiques booth was impressive for its early American pattern glass. Bailey displayed a goblet in the hard-to-find Westward Ho pattern (priced accordingly at $110) as well as pieces in Actress pattern. The Baileys have a shop in Homer, but pack up glassware, steins and other Americana to do the markets.

Visitors to the markets often are browsing for inexpensive items that are not major purchases. One Marshall dealer filled the bill with a large assortment of glass salt containers. In days past, the open salt dishes were placed at each person's place at the table, accompanied by a tiny silver salt spoon. Today they range in price from $5 to about $25.

For less than the price of a movie, you can attend a summer cherry drop leaf table for $595. There was wicker furniture plus a potty chair on display.

"Comfort is essential...as purchases usually have to be hauled back to the parking areas..."

There also were some specialists at the show. We were drawn to the jewelry booth of Keith and Nancy Mills of Indianapolis. A dozen cases held antique and estate jewelry. Nancy Mills said she has exhibited in the show since its beginning.

As we admired a gold sunburst pin of pearls centered with a quarter-carat diamond, Mills said such pieces were becoming hard to find. At $375 it was a good buy. Mills also exhibited such unusual pieces as a pair of jade dangle earrings for a special $40.

An absolutely stunning piece that you might not expect to find at a summer market was an Italian gold necklace with Florentine mosaic (inlaid work with vari-colored market and spend a few hours immersed in nostalgia. Markets also usually have dealers with reproduction hardware and refinishing supplies.

Part of the fun in visiting the Marshall Market was visiting the town famous for its historic homes and the Honolulu House, now a museum. There are two antique malls in the downtown as well as 11 antique shops and fine dining. We found there was no waiting for lunch at Schuler's on Saturday. The famous restaurant which had its beginnings in Marshall in 1909 is located at 115 S. Eagle Street.

The next Marshall Antiques Market will be July 15 with the final one of the season scheduled for Oct. 14. Hours are 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Admission is $3 with parking free. The Tears also are promoting a

Marshall opens private gardens

Marshall, Michigan—

July 8 and 9 have been chosen as the dates for the Marshall Area Garden Club's fifth annual "Welcome to My Garden" tour of seven local gardens, according to co-chairpersons Shirley Clutter and Rosemary Ham.

The tour will take visitors to six private gardens, some of which grace lovely old homes in Marshall's Historic Landmark District, and the colorful gardens at the Marshall Credit Union.

The Marshall area is well known for its beautifully preserved 19th Century homes, fine dining, and unique shops and lodging facilities.

Visitors may also view the gardens at the U.S. Post Office, the Honolulu House Museum and the Circle Fountain beds which the club maintains.

Jackson Jubilee bags 60 balloons

Jackson, Michigan—

The 1995 Hot Air Jubilee begins Friday, July 14 with the "Good Morning Jackson" flyover, officially starting the pilot competition. Early birds get the view when nearly 60 hot air balloons launch at approximately 6:30 a.m. from various sites around Jackson and soar over the community.

At 4 p.m. the action adjourns to the Sparks Foundation County Park for preparations for the evening's exciting key grab. Entertainment will be provided and the beautiful Cascades Falls can be viewed for free (although donations will be accepted).

At approximately 6:30 p.m., the pilots will launch from various sites around Jackson County hoping to catch a breeze that will take them straight to the key which is held aloft by a crane above the colorful Cascade Falls. At nightfall, the pilots return to the park for a beautiful Night Glow. At ground level, the balloon envelopes are inflated, reflecting their glorious color in the surrounding ponds.

Saturday's events begin with an early morning mass balloon launch at approximately 6:30 p.m. from Ella Sharp Park. The park's open space allows for a rare opportunity to see the balloons up close as they are inflated. At 9 a.m., Saturday's full day of fun begins with the second Jubilee Jaunt, a 5K race through scenic Sharp Park. One lucky runner will win a ride pass for the evening's mass balloon launch.

The weekend's events move to Jackson County Reynolds Airport for the final day. An early morning launch begins the day, with daytime activities including Cottonwood Cloggers and a karaoke contest. This year there will be lots of extra attractions at the airport, including, static aircraft displays, and plane and helicopter rides. At 6:30 p.m., the event's last launch is scheduled, as the pilots say good-bye in the "Farewell Jackson Flyout".

Make sure to park at the Jubilee lot for convenience. You can easily bring coolers from your car to the launch viewing area for a picnic. Parking passes cost $7 per day or just $10 for the entire weekend.

Log Cabin Day showcases rustic, refined

Welcome mats will be out for visitors at 59 places in Michigan on June 25 to celebrate the state's ninth annual Log Cabin Day, of tours and festivals. Admission is free at most places.

A brochure available upon request lists many types of log structures: new log homes, historical pioneer log cabins and museums, and log villages such as the Bad Axe Pioneer Log Village. The ideal family trip, more than 10,000 visitors are expected to participate this year, choosing their itinerary from the map of the Great Lakes State.

In southwest Michigan, Berrien County has 11 events, including a one-room log cabin near Galien with rustic handmade furniture located over a creek. There will be a log building demonstration by Dale Campbell, his 11 year son Forrest, and his father George. Phone 616-695-1063 for more information.

A collection of pioneer artifacts and stuffed birds, including a passenger pigeon along with fiddle music and people demonstrating old crafts will be found at the Cassopolis Pioneer Log Museum. (616-445-3087.)

In Springport, northwest of Battle Creek, there is Ilene Moss' Basketry, a log cabin shop with flowers and herbs and many artists demonstrating their crafts, music provided by a dulcimer group and a bagpiper. (517-857-3628.)

Flint's Crossroads Village plans to celebrate their first Log Cabin Day with a 1840 log cabin just moved from Greenfield Village, with a pancake breakfast fundraiser, a fiddlefest, line dancing, and herb and historical gardening. (800-648-PARK.)

The southeastern part of the state has a log cabin at Wyandotte on the Detroit River, a Barna Log Homes tour of new homes, and at Pearl Beach at the St. Clair River, an 1830's log cabin. (810-794-4209.)

Many events are planned along Lake Huron, at Port Huron, Port Sanilac, Parisville (oldest U.S. Polish settlement), Bad Axe, and Elkton. In the northeastern part along Lake Huron, a strawberry social at Mikado and a celebration at Jesse Besser Museum, Alpena are planned. (517-356-2202.)

A long awaited new log home is being finished at Boyne City, a handcrafted square-hewn log cabin from a Canadian log supplier. (616-582-2917.)

There are eight places in the U.P. also.

For the brochure, call 616-944-5719.

'Talkin' 'bout the boy from Novi City'

Novi, Michigan—

Grease up that pompadour and put on your poodle skirt because it's time to rock around the clock in Novi for the 8th annual Michigan 50's Festival.

After Novi's Mayor Kathleen McLallen hosts the opening reception for all of the many sponsors at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 26, the Entertainment Tent opens to the public at 7 p.m. as the "Teen Angels" kick off the festivities.

The Entertainment Tent hours and line-up include:

—Wednesday, July 26: "Teen Angels."

—Thursday, July 27: "Johnny Tillotson."

—Friday, July 28: "The Shirelles."

—Saturday, July 29: Noon-4 p.m. "Tracey Lynne," 7 p.m. "The Diamonds."

—Sunday, July 30: Noon - 4 p.m. "Tracey Lynne," 7 p.m. "The Fantastics."

There are admission charges Thursday - Saturday and you must be over 21 to enter the Entertainment Tent in the evening. Thursday - Sunday evening there will also be a Las Vegas Night 50's Style in the Entertainment area.

Don't forget to visit more than 170 arts and crafts and commercial exhibit booths outside and inside the Novi Expo Center. There will be more than 20 food vendors outside of the Entertainment Tent with tempting, mouth-watering treats.

On Sunday, July 30 things will wrap up with the Classic Car Show, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the Town Center Office Building (Town Center Drive and Grand River) and the Grand River Cruise from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Last year more than 550 cars were entered in the car show and over 1200 cars paraded down Grand River between Novi and Haggerty Roads and on Meadowbrook between Ten and Twelve Mile Roads.

After the Car Cruise it's time to head back to the Entertainment Tent for the 50's Festival finale "The Fantastics."

Novi Expo Center is located at Novi Road and Interstate 96. Call 810-349-1950 for more information.

Over-50 pros shoot for 60s...

Grand Rapids, Michigan—

The three most recent players to commit to the 1995 First of America Classic provide the ultimate example of the Senior PGA Tour's diversity.

One of the three, Mike Hill, will travel less than 100 miles to the Classic from his Jackson, Michigan home. Another, Graham Marsh, resides 10,000 miles away in Australia. The third, Simon Hobday, is nicknamed "Scruffy" because of his disheveled appearance.

The trio joins defending champion Tony Jacklin and top Senior moneywinners Jim Colbert, Dave Stockton, Jim Albus and George Archer as the early frontrunners in this year's Classic field.

Jacklin, Hobday, Hill and Marsh will compete in the $10,000 International Skins Challenge presented by Amway. The nine-hole event is scheduled for Tuesday, July 18, at 2 p.m.

"We always encourage fans to come and see the greatest senior golfers in the world at the First of America Classic," said co-chairman

Roger Meyer. "And this year is no exception. This group represents the finest players on their respective continents."

Hobday enters the tournament as the reigning U.S. Senior Open champion. His one-stroke victory over Marsh and Albus last July at Pinehurst captured the hearts of America's golf fans. They quickly adopted the casual demeanor of the affable South African. The victory highlighted a stellar year for Hobday as he earned $634,721.

Other than Lee Trevino, Hill is arguably the Senior Tour's top player over the past six years. He's won 16 tournaments on his way to nearly $5 million in earnings since joining the circuit in 1989. Remarkably, he has finished in the top ten final money list every year.

Marsh may be the best player in the field who has yet to win a tournament. Since turning 50 last year, he owns 11 top ten finishes and has earned $664,000.

Marsh was a first round leader at last year's Classic and earlier in the s, SENIOR STAR— Dave Stockton hopes to add to his substantial tour winnings at the First of America Classic July 17-23.

Tickets for the event are on sale at First of America Bank offices. Call 800-748-0476 to order tickets by mail.

Egypt Valley Country Club is the tournament site.

...LPGA yells 'hole-y Toledo'

Toledo, Ohio—

Michigan-native Kelly Robbins is set to defend her Jamie Farr Toledo Classic title at Highlands Meadow July 7-9. Robbins, one of the LPGA's leading money-winners this season, was eighth on the money list last year.

This year's activities run from Monday, July 3 through Sunday, July 9. With Pro-ams and parties, the whole week is packed with places to go and people to see.

Daily tickets can be purchased at the front gate for $15 and weekly grounds badges can be purchased at Toledo area Kroger stores. Seniors over 60 receive a 50 percent discount on grounds badges when they purchase the badges in person at Kroger's. The public may also receive a 25 percent discount on grounds badges when purchased at Kroger's.

For those golfers interested in participating in tournament activities, they can play in the MVP Putting Pro-Am. Putt 9 "holes" with four of your friends and an LPGA Pro. The LPGA Pro can provide hints and tips, and it is a fun way to relax during Independence Day. For more information, call the tournament office at 419-241-GOLF.

Celebrities in attendance will include Jamie Farr, headline entertainment. The Captain &

Tennille, Tom Dreesen, John Ashton (Sgt. Taggart from Beverly Hills cop), David Doyle (Charlie's Angels), Ron Masak (Murder, She Wrote), Lee Meriwether, and Bruce Weitz.

Established in 1984, The Classic has evolved into a premier stop on the LPGA circuit. The money raised, over $700,000, has gone directly to Toledo area children's charities.

Judd Silverman, tournament director, had ideas of bringing a golf tournament to Toledo in 1982 when he caddied for leading pro Craig Stadler. While caddying for Gary Koch in Houston, he contacted the LPGA offices conveying interest in a Toledo-based tournament.

John Laupheimer, LPGA commissioner at that time, approved the idea and Silverman began raising money back in Toledo. Local McDonald's restaurant owners agreed to underwrite the inaugural Classic with the understanding that any profits generated would stay in Northwest Ohio.

A special touch was still needed to spark the take off of the tournament. Judd felt Toledo native Jamie Farr was a perfect celebrity to market the tournament. Silverman was denied initially, but persisted until Farr agreed to be affiliated with the tournament.

SOUTH COURSE— Wide open fairways and postage stamp greens mark the venerable South Course at Lakeview Hills.

Lexington, Michigan—

A breathtaking view of one of the Great Lakes.

Two championship-style courses that test the skills of golfers, regardless of handicap.

Top-flight accommodations and a luxurious condominium development.

Lakeview Hills Country Club and Resort offers these northern Michigan amenities and it's located just 90 minutes from metro Detroit.

Lakeview Hills North Course and South Course are situated on opposite sides of M-90 and are connected by a tunnel. A beautiful view of Lake Huron is evident from several holes on each course.

Some of the South Course holes date to 1927 and were designed by the legendary Walter Hagen. But regardless of age, all offer a true test of golf.

The South Course measures 6157 from the blue tees and features "fast, postage stamp greens," according to head pro Dennis Fabbri. The fairways are wide open and golfers can use a driver off most of the tees with little trouble left or right, Fabbri said.

The North Course was opened in 1992 and nominated by Golf Digest for best new course. The North Course boasts more water and trouble than the South and plays to 6652 yards.

Jeff Gorney designed the new 18, a shot-maker course with challenging greens and just enough trouble to keep golfers on their toes. The North Course plays through the woods and is especially picturesque during

Course is bird of another feather

Tom Weideman is accustomed to birds and eagles on his new course at Houghton Lake, The Quest. That's birds as in one under par, and eagles as two under par.

Weideman is even accustomed to seeing the bird Benjamin Franklin wanted to make America's national symbol: wild turkey.

But Weideman was startled recently to see a colorful, full-fledged peacock strutting around The Quest.

"I've seen lots of deer and lots of wild turkey," Weideman said, "but I never thought of a peacock. Then, a couple of weeks ago, I was walking around the course and I saw an honest-to-gosh peacock, strutting along like he owned the place.

"I told my superintendent, Jim Bagett, and he broke into a big smile and gave me a high five. He said he'd seen it two weeks before but didn't tell anyone because they'd say he had been drinking," Weideman said, laughing.

"Apparently the peacock belongs to a farmer around here and he flies in for an occasional visit."

The Quest is one of the flock of new birds, or golf courses, in northern Michigan. The name relates to Weideman's quest to be his own boss on his own course after working for other folks, most recently as golf director at Shanty Creek Resort.

The Quest was a late summer opener last year.

"We wound up with 7,000 rounds for less than half a season and we were very satisfied with that," Weideman said.

Until Weideman came along, the north central corridor along US-27, below Grayling, was devoid of new courses despite boasting two of Michigan's biggest and most popular inland lakes, Houghton and Higgins. Those two lakes have hooked many fishermen and now Weideman is banking on them hooking some golfers as well.

"I felt this was a natural for a quality golf course," Weideman said.

He didn't have the money for a Fazio, Dye or Nicklaus to design it so he went for one of the young upcoming designers he met in Florida — John Sanford.

The name should be familiar if you're a baseball fan. Sanford's father, Jack, pitched for the New York Yankees.

Sanford linked with PGA Tourist Ken Green on several golf course projects and Green's major contribution, the ninth hole, was selected one of the best 18 by Midwest Travel magazine.

Like Green, it definitely is different. It's a shortish par 4 at 374 yards, but it has the biggest fairway bunker in the state. The sand starts on the right side, 180 yards from the tee. It moves 50 yards farther on the right and then meanders across the fairway to the left side and all the way up to the green.

"The tee is 25 feet above the fairway and you look down from the fairway and see Houghton Lake," Weideman said. "And there's a pond on the left side which is reachable. It isn't our most difficult hole — it's the No. 9 handicap hole — but it's picturesque and it's our signature

Open celebrates 10 years at Bear

Acme, Michigan—

The Bear, designed by Jack Nicklaus, this year will celebrate its 10th anniversary as home course for the Detroit Newspapers Michigan Open, the state's oldest Michigan Section PGA tournament.

144 of Michigan's finest amateur and professional golfers will compete for a record $110,000 prize purse in the four day championship, June 26-29.

In 1994, Tom Gillis of the Indianwood Golf & Country Club in Lake Orion, shot a four day tournament record for The Bear, with a final score of nine-under-par, 279, taking home $13,000.

Stacy Mansion proprietors share sweet dreams with guests

Tecumseh, Michigan—

Judge and Mrs. Stacy would be proud.

The new owners of the impressive Italianate home built in the mid-1800s by the Stacys have rescued and painstakingly revived the ailing building which was only 5 years ago a dilapidated, abandoned old apartment building. It is now a bed and breakfast known as Stacy Mansion. And it is a grand place.

Before the massive custom-made blue velvet draperies and period reproduction wall paper were ordered, or the original house furniture and other antiques located, Joyce and Sonny Lauber put in long hours repairing badly damaged brickwork, a "disaster" of a roof, warped floors and rotten windows.

With all the beautiful homes in the area, why this one? "A couple of crazy fools fell in love with this place and decided to renovate it," remembers Joyce. "We looked at homes in other states, but Tecumseh had the atmosphere we wanted for our bed and breakfast. Sonny had always liked the house, and it went up for sale and well...it was a challenge."

They found kitchens and bathrooms in odd places throughout the house. Whole walls had to come down and were rebuilt. The 4-year project had its share of nightmarish moments. But the Laubers are quick to point out several renovation "miracles" as well.

"We have some of the original furniture, including Judge and Mrs. Stacy's cherry bedroom set," Joyce says, showing off the northeast bedroom. "And this pedestal sink and claw foot tub are original," she points out in another upstairs bedroom.

Joyce tells the story of a last minute rush to complete the dining room which yielded another miracle. "The carved wood molding in the dining room is original to the house. We stumbled on it in the attic and amazingly it fit! We only had a few inches of it left over."

The Laubers don't believe in half-doing things. They studied the Victorian era and guests will appreciate the authenticity of the furnishings and decor throughout the home. "Each room combines pieces from the different periods the Stacy family owned the mansion. As with any home, not all the pieces were purchased at once. Newly acquired pieces take their places next to older pieces," Joyce explains.

The Victorians had some interesting beliefs that were reflected in the way their homes were decorated. "You'll notice that the dining room is decorated in dark, muted colors rather than light and airy," Joyce points out. "The Victorians felt that this scheme would aid digestion."

Faux painting, also prevalent in the Victorian era, has been reproduced throughout the home in the form of faux marble floors, wood graining, murals — including one particularly large mural in the downstairs guest lavatory — and so on.

A working antique toilet (not a reproduction) and a 150-year-old Rosewood Square grand piano (chosen because "the Stacys always had one" Joyce explains) add to the home's authentic feel.

Stacy Mansion offers five unique rooms, each with a private bath. Two of the bedrooms share a private sitting room. For the enjoyment of all guests are the library/den, music room, grand room, formal dining room, and upstairs sitting room.

Perhaps most important to the success of the Stacy Mansion as a bed and breakfast are the Laubers themselves. Sonny and Joyce are the perfect host and hostess, able to make visitors to their home feel like honored guests. Even 6-year-old son Pat is in on the fun, serving as bell hop when duty calls.

Guests appreciate the extra steps taken — 300-count cotton sheets for a heavenly night's sleep, and sinfully indulgent breakfast dishes dreamed up in the Lauber's cozy kitchen — and love the personalized service, from sharing stories about the mansion to helping plan a romantic weekend.

The guest book is brimming with glowing praise for the Laubers and their elegant yet warm and inviting Victorian home. Here, too, Joyce and Sonny's studious efforts paid off. "We also studied bed and breakfasts," Joyce says. "We tried to bring to this bed and breakfast all the things we enjoyed about the bed and breakfasts we stayed in. We're still learning, still improving."

Stacy Mansion has been featured in magazine and newspaper articles, most recently gracing the pages of Victorian Homes magazine. It has also been featured in Tecumseh's annual Promenade the Past historic home hour.

For more information on the Stacy Mansion Bed and Breakfast, write to Sonny and Joyce Lauber at 710 W. Chicago Blvd., Tecumseh, MI 49286; or call 517-423-6979.

Cool stuff for kids this summer at Michigan Historical Museum

Lansing, Michigan—

Parents whose school age children complain "there's nothing to do" this summer, should head for the Michigan Historical Museum in Lansing, which has announced its most ambitious summer schedule yet. In addition to the exciting new 20th century exhibits, the following free programs will be held on Saturdays:

—June 24, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Riding the Rails into History—The Durand Union Station Railroad Heritage Museum brings Michigan's railroad heritage to Lansing.

—July 1, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Corsets and Cant Hooks—Find out how families lived in Michigan's lumbering era from costumed interpreters of the period.

—July 8, noon and 2 p.m., Ventriloquists Tim Salisbury—Tim Salisbury and his dummy, Jeb, bring back the days of this popular family entertainment.

—July 15, noon to 3 p.m., World War II Aircraft Nose Art—Rick Herter demonstrates and interprets WW II aircraft nose art for visitors.

—July 22, noon, When Jazz was Jass—Hear the music of the giants of the era as interpreted by the Vee Nash Jazz ensemble.

—July 29, noon and 2 p.m., We're on the Air: Radio Days—Try your hands (and mouth) at making sound effects for a radio broadcast from the era when radio was king.

—August 5, 11 a.m., Sailing into Michigan's Past—Enjoy Michigan's maritime past as presented by South Haven's Michigan Maritime Museum.

—August 12, noon and 2 p.m., Dr. Thelonus Balthazar's Traveling Medicine Show—History plus huckstering equals hilarity as the doctor presents "miracles of the medical world."

—August 19, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tin Cups and Hard Tack: A Civil War

Encampment—The Michigan Historical Museum commemorates the war that divided a nation with exhibits of private Civil War collection, videos and hands-on activities, and an encampment presented by the 24th Michigan reenactor group. This program is sponsored in part by La-Z-Boy Chair Company of Monroe.

—August 26, noon and 2 p.m., The Motown Sound: A Revue—In the 1960s, Motown put the Motor City on the map. Tyrone Pickens performs his interpretations of Motown.

The Michigan Historical Museum is located in the Michigan Library and Historical Center, 717 W. Allegan St., Lansing, two blocks west of the State Capitol. Admission and weekend parking are free. Hours are Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Sunday 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

For information telephone (517) 373-3559.

Bloomfield Hills, Michigan—

Eight-legged creatures will overtake Cranbrook Institute of Science this summer as SPIDERS!, a fascinating exhibit organized by the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History, makes its Midwestern debut on July 1.

The exhibition explores the wonders and mysteries of spiders, one of the most unique life forms on Earth, through hands-on activities, colorful displays, videos and live spiders.

Scientists estimate that there are as many as 170,000 different species of spiders, yet only 34,000 species have been identified to date. Spiders thrive in nearly every habitat, including forests, deserts and seashores. Though very different from humans, arachnids face similar challenges in the quest for survival. They need to communicate, find food, produce healthy offspring and fend off danger.

"Arachnids have devised such fascinating ways of surviving, one can't help but be intrigued by them," explains Dr. Dan Appleman, director of Cranbrook's Institute of Science. "SPIDERS! will revolutionize the way visitors look at these ingenious creatures, as it encourages them to look beyond their fears. Far from being creepy, the exhibit's examination of the world of the small and hairy is humorous, interesting and educational."

SPIDERS! offers insight on the life cycle of spiders, their elaborate courtship rituals, their many habitats and the methods and means by which they snare their prey. Exhibits such as "Weave a Web" and "Silks of Every ilk" allow visitors to test the effectiveness of various web designs and silk strengths through interactive devices.

Spider anatomy is examined in "A Hairy Situation", while "Good Vibrations" uses vibrating cords to illustrate what a spider feels when an insect lands on its web. In one of three outstanding exhibit videos, a charming clay-animation tarantula named Tallulah reveals "SENSE-sational" spider secrets, such as their ability to use their extra-sensitive feet and hairs to hear, smell and taste.

SPIDERS! also explores arachnid venom and its increasing role in pharmaceutical research for epilepsy, stroke, and Alzheimer's disease. An elaborate exhibit on the role of spiders in folklore, literature and art features artifacts such as a Native American pendant adorned with a spider icon dating from 700 to 1200 A.D.

"Spider Lab", a hands-on activities center, utilizes puppets, computers, puzzles and games to create an exciting learning environment for children. Several live spiders, including a black widow and brown recluse, will be on display in the exhibit and at the Institute's Nature Place. Spider-themed programs, planetarium shows and laser-light shows will be presented daily in July and August. A variety of special events also will take place in connection with SPIDERS!

Cranbrook Institute of Science is open Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. - 10 p.m., and Sunday from 1 - 5 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and $4 for children 3-17 and senior citizens 65 and older. Children under 3 are admitted free. Planetarium shows are an additional $1 and Lasera shows an additional $2. Call (810) 645-3200 for more information.

Burn off energy at museum

Ann Arbor, Michigan—

Kids with energy to burn (and their parents) will enjoy a special exhibit at the Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum — Energy at Your House.

Consisting of 15 participatory modules, the exhibit covers the topic of energy from production to its many uses in the home.

Museum visitors will be able to see where their energy dollars go by discovering how much it costs to operate common household appliances. They can actually generate electricity using a bicycle generator to power a TV, a fan and a floodlight. Children will especially like playing a game with Mega-Watt, the Energy Dog, to find ways to conserve energy in the home.

Other activities include: exploring hydroelectric power by pumping water to turn a simulated turbine which operates a radio; and discovering how electricity arrives at the home at the Pathway to Power module.

The exhibition occupies approximately 1000 square feet and continues through Aug. 31 during regular museum hours — 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday; 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Museum admission is $2.50 for students, seniors and children; $4 for adults.

The Ann Arbor Hands-On Museum, situated in a renovated historic firehouse at 219 E. Huron St., is an interactive science center. There are 250 innovative, participatory exhibits which make science fun for all.

Swiss flavor is sharp

Gaylord, Michigan—

In the heart of Northern Michigan lies a charming Swiss-style community where family and fun mix to become the annual Gaylord Alpenfest.

The 31st Alpenfest, July 11-15 promises to be the biggest and best yet. Fun and entertainment each day will provide lasting summer memories of the Alpine Village.

It all begins with the transformation of Main Street (M-32) into the picturesque Alpenstrasse. Two blocks of the street are closed and lined with booths displaying unique hand-made arts and crafts.

Residents and visitors are invited to don traditional Swiss garb — a blumenkrantz (head wreath of flowers) and dirndl (flowery dress) for women and girls; lederhosen (leather shorts) and hiking boots for men and boys.

The five day festival kicks off Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. with the "Willkommen" (welcome) from the city's Mayor Ernie Grocock, the introduction of Der Buergermeister (Festival Mayor), the Parade Marshall and the 1995 Queen Candidates.

Old favorites remain on 1995's schedule, such as the Tuesday night dusk-time "Burning of the Boogg". The Boogg, a giant Swiss figure made of cotton wool, is set afire after locals and visitors have jotted their troubles onto slips of paper and deposited them into the Boogg. Legend holds that, as the Boogg goes up in flames, so do the troubles. The Lampion Parade, festival-goers escorting the Boogg through the heart of the Alpine Village, is expected to attract an enormous crowd.

European Master Chef, Chef Hermann, originally from Vienna will be conducting the "Der Grande Kuchen School" (cooking school). He has served as a personal chef to the king of Nepal and has worked in Thailand and the Carribean Islands. Come see and learn his preparation methods for Austrian Cuisine.

Gather around the Alpenstage to indulge in more family fun. Straight from Nashville, singer Jeff Carson will perform hot new country and The Young Americans will pump up the audience with their energy and talent. Young and old alike can take part in the many different contests. Jump to it and enter the jump rope contest or maybe the stilt walking contest. If food is more up your alley, try the pizza or pie eating contests.

Take a break—a coffee break that is, as the Die Groste Caffe Pause (World's Largest Coffee Break) takes place on the Alpenstrasse. The whole city shuts down and enjoys a delicious cup of free coffee.

include: the pet parade, the costume walking parade, and of course the Alpenfest Grand Parade on Saturday afternoon.

For more information on the festival or accommodations call the Gaylord Information Center at (800) 345-8621.

Gaylord is located on Interstate 75, about 225 miles north of Detroit.

DIE GROSTE CAFFE PAUSE— The World's Largest Coffee Break, an Alpenfest tradition, offers free coffee and donuts to all who participate PLACE OF TRIBUTE— Mementos left at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial are often personal or military, not just the flags and flowers associated with other memorials.

Special expressions of love

Grand Rapids, Michigan—

"A Place of Tribute: The Vietnam Veterans Memorial" has opened at the Gerald R. Ford Museum and will remain on display through Jan. 21, 1996.

Over 2.5 million people visit the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C. annually. Each has a special reason for their visit, perhaps an expression of love, a goodbye, a show of patriotism, or simple curiosity. Many of those who come to pay tribute also leave a personal remembrance at the Wall.

"A Place of Tribute" presents a glimpse at the impact the Vietnam War continues to have, expressed through these many and varied offerings left at the wall. Made up of over 600 letters, poems, and objects the exhibit illustrates, in a very personal way, the human losses in the longest war in our nation's history, and the role the Vietnam Veterans Memorial is playing in the healing process.

The exhibition was organized by the Gerald R. Ford Museum and National Park Service. All items are on loan from the National Park Service.

United States veterans will be admitted to the museum free of charge while "A Place of Tribute" is on display.

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated on Veteran's Day, 1982, a tangible tribute to those who served — a veterans memorial, not a war memorial.

What began as a spontaneous response to this Veterans Memorial is now a formal collection of well over 25,000 objects, cared for in the same manner as all museum collections. Items left at the Wall are now picked up each evening by Park Rangers.

The Gerald R. Ford Museum is open daily, 9:00 a.m. - 4:45 p.m. It is closed New Year's Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas Day. Admission is $2 for adults, $1.50 for seniors, and free for children under 16.

For more information, call 616-451-9263.

 autumn when the trees start to turn color and the heather begins to grow, Fabbri said.

To complement the North Course, a new hotel, health club, handball courts, bowling alley and condo project was built.

The hotel features 29 rooms plus executive suites with half the rooms overlooking the South's 18th hole. The suites are available for business meetings or larger groups.

The clubhouse and restaurant feature three banquet halls and is a popular site for golf outings and business seminars.

Luxury golf course condominiums start at $155,000. Each 1480-square-foot condo is constructed from brick with stone entrance located on the north course near Lake Huron. The floor plan includes two bedrooms, two baths, complete kitchen and full basement.

Lakeview Hills Country Club and Resort is located one mile west of the traffic light in Lexington on M-90, about 20 miles north of Port Huron. Call 810-359-7333 or 800-865-4600 for more information.

Each year the Livonia Anniversary Committee presents Spree, commemorating Livonia's birthday celebration as a city. This year, Livonia celebrates its 45th anniversary as a city; hence, "Spree 45."

The celebration grew out of an annual builders show that used to take place at the racetrack, according to William Fried, president of this year's Livonia Anniversary Committee. It included a carnival and fireworks, but as the city became mostly developed, there got to be little point to having a show geared to developing large tracts of homes.

"The city fathers thought it would be nice to somehow continue the fireworks and things to kick off the summer, and also pull the various subdivisions together." And so the Spree birthday celebration was itself born, timed to commemorate the founding of Livonia as an incorporated city.

Nowadays, the Spree motto is to promote Livonia as "Michigan's finest city in which to live, learn, work and play." And the function of the festival is really quite broad.

Fried, one of a group of longtime Spree volunteers, explained that Spree serves several purposes. For one, it's a sort of neighborhood event — put on by Livonians, for Livonians, and bringing together a very large city as a community.

Yet at the same time, Spree also showcases Livonia to people who do not live here or work here — possibly attracting future residents or businesses, encouraging them to consider locating in Livonia.

"It's hard to find a town of this size that has the various things that we do," Fried said, and it's all because of the cooperation among residents, businesses, and the city that is showcased at Spree.

In addition, since Spree marks the anniversary of Livonia's becoming a city, the festival also serves as a reminder of the area's long history. "We're not just a town that sprung up after World War II," Fried noted. (For a history of the area leading up to its cityhood, see page 8.)

There is also a financial purpose to Spree.

Since 1979, Spree has provided an exciting, fun, relaxing, interesting and innovative time for Livonia residents while enjoying significant support from the residential and business community and providing an outlet for almost 300 volunteers to raise funds to improve the community.

As a nonprofit organization, Spree has been able to contribute more than $364,000 for such community projects as: the Beverly Park playground project, the local senior high schools' graduation night parties, equipment for many Parks and Recreation programs, St. Mary's Hospice, and the annual Spree scholarships.

"They're the extras," Fried said — the little (and not so little) things that might not get done if it wasn't for Spree.

Beyond the community donations, Spree also provides, every year, an opportunity for participating civic organizations — such as the Livonia Firemen Association, the Livonia Family "Y," the Italian-American Club, the

So Spree serves all those various purposes at once. And as anyone might guess, it takes a lot of work to get it done — both from longtime volunteers and newcomers. "There's a lot of experience involved in putting on the event every year," Fried said. But "you've got to have the new ones coming in."

Leading the charge: The tremendous amount of work that goes into Spree each year involves many people in the community, but the officers of the Livonia Anniversary Committee fill an especially important role. Officers overseeing Spree 45 are, from left, Rick Scaggs, secretary; William Fried, president; Charles Smith, first vice president; and Elizabeth Todd, treasurer. Not pictured: Karen Kapchonick, second vice president.

Long history led to cityhood

Livonia has grown and prospered through the years despite the fact that it was originally "officially condemned" by the federal government, an oversight which obviously has been corrected.

Early Livonia traces to the 1780s, when the federal government sent survey agents to determine if there was a potential for survival in the wilderness area surrounding the seaport of Detroit.

The Washingtonians said "no way" — and in their report put down the Livonia area as a particular waste, stating that it "was swampy, sandy and unfit for agriculture or habitation."

The area was part of the Northwest Territory, which was established by the famous ordinance of 1787. It was a heavily forested wilderness, and many westward-moving families passed through from the original 13 colonies.

First came the adventurers, then missionaries and trappers; finally, the pioneer families who cleared land, built cabins, and set about to establish farming communities. Settlers also began migrating from Detroit — a two-day trip on a horse. Historical accounts indicate that what would eventually become Livonia was sparsely populated by 1800.

There were enough settlers in Livonia in 1827 to establish a township. It was called Bucklin Township, after Justice of the Peace William Bucklin. Two years later, the area was divided into Nankin and Pekin townships.

It was the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825 that gave the Livonia area a shot in the arm. From Buffalo, pioneer families either made the overland journey in wagons, or boarded a boat and made the journey to Detroit.

Birthday party: Fairgoers enjoy last year's Spree. The annual event commemorates Livonia's incorporation as a city, the culmination of a long history.

History from page 8

Historians say the early settlers came from New York and New England, and that many came directly from Ireland, Scotland and Germany.

As family groups banded together, they created small neighborhood settlements. The earliest recorded include: Newburgh, at Newburgh and Ann Arbor Trail; Elm, at Middlebelt and what is now the railroad; Livonia Center, at Five Mile and Farmington; and Livonia Station, at Stark Road between Plymouth and Schoolcraft.

Newburgh apparently got its name because it was known as a "new burg" in the small community.

Out of this "boom," Livonia Township officially came into existence in 1835. The name, Livonia, was taken from a historic Russian province that is now comprised of the Baltic countries of Estonia and Latvia and which had been seized by a German military-religious order known as the Livonia Knights. Also, there is a town of Livonia in New York State, and it is possible that early settlers who came from that area in the westward migration brought the name along with their possessions and families.

By this time, the wilderness area had been converted to tiny hamlets or villages; and when the area assumed township status, it was a growing farming community which produced corn, wheat, oats, fruit, sheep and dairy cattle.

The first township meeting was presided over by an elected Board of Trustees, no doubt the forerunners of the city council as we know it today. Their first meeting, held April 6, 1835, produced its first action — an ordinance barring animals from running loose.

When Michigan became a state in 1837, Livonia was an orderly little community. Each village area had its school, post office, church, blacksmith shop and general store.

Livonia's recorded history began to take shape around the time the area became a township. Although there were many families in the various villages, available documentation indicates that at least five were to have a special niche in Livonia's past.

They are, with the dates of their arrivals in what was to be Livonia: the Klumps (Nelson in 1825 and Jeremiah in 1836); the Kingsleys (1825); the Ryders (1827); the Wilsons (1836); and the McKinneys (1839).

Two of these pioneers fought in the Revolutionary War and are buried in Newburgh Cemetery along with a third settler who also served in the conflict.

Going back to township days, private developers attempted to speed up traffic to and from Detroit by building a plank road along the route which is now known as Plymouth Road. This was in 1838. They charged one cent per mile for a horse and rider; one cent per mile for 20 cattle; and one-half cent per mile for 20 sheep.

The toll road did not catch on, and the builders took an economic bath. As a result, most of Livonia's roads remained dirt trails throughout the century.

But even though Livonia Township remained isolated from Detroit, it flourished as a farming community and took on some unique characteristics of its own.

Cider mills flourished; so did cheese factories.

Many get-togethers and athletic tests were generously laced with the donations of jugs of cider. Livonia, during the 1870s, boasted the largest apple orchard in Michigan. It was at Seven Mile Road and Haggerty and was owned by John Welsh.

The township's five cheese factories, all operating before the turn of the century, produced more than one million pounds of cheese annually, giving the township status as the "cheese capital of Michigan." Cheese sold for 7 cents per pound wholesale and 10 cents per pound retail.

Locations of the cheese factories were: in the Elm district; at the Power farm at Newburgh and Eight Mile; the Pierson farm at Seven Mile and Farmington; the Kator farm at Seven Mile east of Levan; and at the southbound Smith farm on Six Mile east of Merriman.

Livonia Township marked the turn of the century with little fanfare. Even as late as 1925, its population was approximately 1,500.

Its first residential subdivision, Rosedale Gardens, was established that year.

Wagon wheel and dirt roads were gradually giving way to asphalt and cement. Those new machines which Detroit called automobiles were replacing the horses and buggies. The legendary blacksmiths were coming to the end of the line; and in their place the early entrepreneurs started opening gas stations.

The townships' farmers were in a state of transition by then. Machines of various names were being manufactured to speed up the harvesting and cultivation, and spare many of the farm owners the long hours of back-breaking labor.

Now that there were roads leading from Detroit out into the "boondocks," many families from that area spent their Sunday afternoons driving out into the country and looking for places to build homes.

Neighborhood communities began to emerge to join Rosedale Gardens. Among those early clusters were Clarenceville, New Detroit, Coventry Gardens, Alden Village, and West Point Park.

However, there was still no big rush by new residents to establish themselves in Livonia. In 1940, Livonia Township was still rural in nature and character.

It had a population, in 1940, of only 8,714, and an assessed valuation of real and personal property of only $6.5 million. The township government was operating on $22,000 per year.

World War II, like World War I, did not create any great exodus to Livonia. The "boom" came in the late 1940s, when manufacturers sought property in rural Livonia which would give them an opportunity to locate facilities on the C&O railroad, and with ready access to a labor market which surrounded the core city of Detroit.

Along with the larger plants came the smaller manufacturers. For better or worse, the transition was upon this small community which was once accessible only by horse and wagon. The placid country-like atmosphere was to disappear with the influx of industry; residents of other areas looking for "breaking room"; and land developers who "discovered" Livonia and began to purchase and subdivide substantial acreage.

But it was the horses, once the method of transportation and the backbone of the farming community, which were to kick Livonia into abandoning township status and becoming a city.

When the state Legislature ruled, in 1948, that horse races could no longer be run on state property — and they were then running at the Michigan State Fair Grounds in Detroit — the Detroit Racing Association was formed, and it build its one-mile track in Livonia. As a city, Livonia would be entitled to a share of parimutuel betting, up to $500,000 annually.

A township, with limited services, would no longer suffice. The leadership had to meet the challenge. In the summer of 1949, a strong movement to incorporate as a home rule city was started. Many people, and groups, had diverse ideas on how to accomplish the transition. Finally, the logical method seemed to be to incorporate the entire 36 square miles.

On Feb. 6, 1950, the residents of the township voted to incorporate the new city of Livonia. The voters also elected a nine-person Charter Commission to draft a proposed charter.

On May 23 that year, the citizens approved the charter; they also elected the city's first mayor and council. Jesse Ziegler, who had been a township supervisor for 28 years, was elected mayor. The members of the first City Council were Harry S. Wolfe, president; Wilson W. (Eddie) Edgar, vice president; Raymond E. Grimm; Nettie M. Carey; Harvey R. Jahn; William J. Taylor; and John W. Whitehead.

The votes were officially tabulated by 10:50 p.m. on May 23.

Livonia's 36 square miles then made it the second largest city in Michigan. The city leaders were forced to start from scratch: drafting ordinances and resolutions, hiring personnel, acquiring buildings and equipment.

New events highlight schedule

A laser show is a new highlight added to Livonia Spree 45 from 10-11 p.m. on Friday, June 23, at Ford Field.

Another addition to the Spree is the Dart Tournament beginning 7 p.m. Saturday, June 24, at the Midway Tent for ages 18 and older.

The charge of $10 per two-person team will be used as a donation to the Michigan Burn Center. The dart competition is sponsored by LakePointe Yacht Club of Livonia. Teams may register by calling 591-1868 or 261-2260.

The Spree Parade, which traditionally has been on Tuesday, has been re-named Parade on Wheels and moved to Saturday.

A beer garden has been added on Thursday night, and in-line skating is another new event on Saturday.

Two big new events on Saturday are the race day and family day; see separate stories for more details.

Tuesday's opening day is the first day of the Livonia Police ID Program which will be 4-8 p.m. in the police trailer. The program will be offered at the same times Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and 2-5 p.m. Saturday.

The circus and thrill show presents two shows on Tuesday, at 5:30 and 9 p.m. Korky the Clown Prince of Magic entertains at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. And Granpa Cratchet and his Puppetmobile return at 6 and 8 p.m.

On Wednesday, an event that was new last year and is returning is the Senior Citizen Picnic from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Eddie Edgar Arena. A charge of $1.50 per person will buy a hot dog, salad, watermelon, chips, beverage, ice cream and entertainment. Advance tickets are required and may be purchased by calling 522-2710.

The other Wednesday activity, with a new sponsor this year, is Toarmina's Pizza Jambo-ree beginning at 5 p.m. in Eddie Edgar Arena. The charge of $2 per person includes pizza, pop, chips and ice cream on a first-come, first-served basis. There also will be a magic show,

The charge of $2 per child and $3.50 per adult includes all-you-eat pancakes and all-you-can-meet officials plus sausage, juice, milk and coffee.

Sunday ends with the 25-minute fireworks display scheduled to begin at 10:15 p.m.

In between the worship and fireworks is the Chili Cook Off from 1-6 p.m. in Eddie Edgar Arena sponsored by the Livonia Jaycees and Livonia Firefighters. The charges are $1 per child, $2 for senior citizen, and $3 general.

Sunday also hosts the 1-, 3- and 5-Mile Spree Run beginning with registration at 7 a.m. and racing at 8 a.m., at the Livonia Family Y. The charge of $15 per person includes a T-shirt, breakfast, and awards. The race is supported by Livonia Family Y and the Livonia Community Credit Union. Call 261-2161.

The circus and thrill show presents three shows, at 3:30, 5:30 and 9 p.m. Korky the Clown Prince of Magic entertains at 2:30, 4:30, 6:30 and 8 p.m. Granpa Cratchet and his Puppetmobile return at 3, 5, 7 and 8:30.

Sunday's free music includes, on the main stage, from 4 to 10 p.m.: Earth Angels, karaoke, and Steve King and the Dittilies. In the Midway Tent will be Ron Coden and X Dream between 3 and 10 p.m.

The Spree hours are 4-11 p.m. Tuesday, 2-11 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The major sponsors are Miller Genuine Draft, Pugh Shows, Pepsi, Top Value Muffler, Toarmina's Pizza, Hygrade Brands, Valvoline Instant Oil Change, Budget Truck Rental.

Other sponsors include: Livonia Family Y, the Livonia Observer, Lake Pointe Yacht Club, Rousch Industries, Midwest Guaranty Bank, MetroVision, Looney Baker, Livonia Trophy, Good Humor Ice Cream, Comau Production System, Communication Concepts, and Auto Metal Craft.

Many events at festival feature free admission

One of the great things about the annual Spree in Livonia is that many of the attractions are free.

Admission to the grounds is free; so is parking. The shuttle service to make getting around easier is also free. All of Saturday afternoon's family activities are free as well (see related story).

The Dynamic Laser Show, a new attraction of Spree from 10-11 p.m. Friday, features free admission. And the annual fireworks display, at 10:15 Sunday night to close out the festival, is free again this year.

Granpa Cratchet and his Puppetmobile, a popular attraction of last year's Spree, returns again for Spree 45. "Granpa" tells jokes, stories, and anecdotes, and has appeared at hundreds of events nationwide over the past 10 years. He is supported at Spree by Top Value Muffler. His shows are scheduled at 6 and 8 p.m. Tuesday; 4:30, 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday; and 3, 5, 7 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Korky the Clown Prince of Magic also offers free entertainment, combining comedy, magic and vaudeville in a great family event. Korky's show has been featured in television commercials, children's shows and ESPN's "Great American Event." The shows are scheduled at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. Tuesday; 4 and 8 p.m. Wednesday; 4, 6 and 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday; and 2:30, 4:30, 6:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday focuses on family

This year more than ever, Saturday is Family Day at the Livonia Spree.

All afternoon Saturday, June 24, will be a Family Fun Free-For-All at the Ford Field Baseball Diamond 2, Lyndon and Farmington roads.

One highlight of the family activities is the popular annual Parade on Wheels. Kids (and parents) are encouraged to decorate a stroller, Big Wheel, tricycle or anything else on wheels. Line-up for the parade is at 1 p.m.; report to Frost Junior High, 14041 Stark Road. The parade begins at 1:30 p.m.

Along with the parade will be a variety of entertainment including clowns and a clown band.

Another fun activity for kids on Saturday afternoon is free in-line skating. Supported by MGM Bicycle and Fitness Equipment, this takes place in the air-conditioned Eddie Edgar Arena from 1 to 5 p.m.

Skates and equipment will be provided free. All skaters must have parents sign a waiver/release form. Safety gear is required.

The Family Fun Free-For-All, featuring a variety of kids' activities, runs from 2 to 6 p.m. Saturday. This is geared to all ages of children, from "crawlers" on up. Features include a penny dig, duck pond, clowns, contests, face painting, games, crafts, favors for all, a monster bean-bag toss, a giant Velcro target throw, the Amazing Maze, and a balloon typhoon. A Diaper Derby takes place at 3:30 p.m.

Along with all this activity comes free live entertainment including Grandpa Cratchet's puppet show, Korky the Clown Prince of Magic, the Circus of Thrills, a petting farm, remote-controlled helicopters, and pony rides.

Rounding out the family activities Saturday afternoon, the Livonia Police Child ID program will run from 2-5 p.m. at the police trailer.

Love a parade: Parents and kids get ready for last year's parade. The popular event returns to Spree this year.

Spree offers day at the races

Racing events of all types and for all ages will keep things moving Saturday at Livonia Spree. The Spree this year introduces a day at the races, with a pedal pull, slot cars and roadsters.

All racing activities will take place at the Eddie Edgar Arena, Lyndon at Stark, under the sponsorship of Valvoline Instant Oil Change.

Slot car racing will be 4-7 p.m. for all ages with the $1 per race donation going to Drug Abuse Resistance Education programs. No registration is necessary.

The race is open to children and adults. Skill is what counts here, not age! Everyone Checkered flags: Expert drivers testing their skills against each other in a classic race along the track's speedy straightaways and tricky curves — has the Grand Prix moved to Livonia? Even better — because anyone can participate — are the slot car races coming to Spree 45. Start your engines!

walks away a winner.

The Pedal Power Tractor Pull is for ages 3-10 beginning at 4 p.m.

Designed just like the tractor pulls you see on television, the Pedal Power Tractor Pull gives kids a chance to use leg power to pull a wagon as they can down the race way.

In the race, the children ride a "tractor" which is hooked to a "wagon" loaded down with weights. As the competition progresses, judges add weights.

The race is broken down into four age classes, 3-4, 5-6, 7-8 and 9-10.

Pedal tractor pulling has become a popular activity nationwide in which kids pull on a 70 foot long by six-foot wide track, trying to go as fast as they can. Some kids spin out, others simply run out of power.

At the end of some pulls, the front wheels of the tractor may come off the ground as the kids put their best into the pull. The child who can move the skid the greatest distance wins.

The Roadsters Race for ages 18 and older will begin at 7 p.m. with the $10 per team charge going to Livonia Police DARE.

The Roadsters Race features a team of one driver and four runners. At least two of the five member teams must be female. The team members race against the clock by steering and pushing the race vehicle around the 500-foot race track.

By filling out registration forms, teams can compete for Valvoline jackets, free oil change certificates and other prizes.

Pugh returns with exciting rides

The amusement rides at Livonia Spree this year will again be handled by Pugh Shows.

Growing up in Ohio, Richard T. Pugh harbored a fascination for the outdoor amusement industry. Eventually giving in, Pugh went to work for the Giant Goodling Amusement Company which at the time had a virtual monopoly on the carnival business in the Midwest.

In 1967 Pugh and his sons formed Pugh Shows, which after experiencing fast growth acquired Gooding Amusement Company in 1979 to become the largest carnival company in the U.S.

Among the adult rides that will be available at the Livonia Spree are:

- Musik Express, an import from Germany which stimulates an out-of-control sleigh ride through the mountains augmented by thousands of lights and a disc jockey;
- Screamer, an Italian import offering a 360-degree upside down ride;
- Bumper cars, the largest portable bumper car ride in America with 100 cars;
- Tilt-a-whirl, a family favorite;

Taken for a ride: Pugh Shows will again provide the rides at this year's Spree.

- Giant Gondola Wheel, a 100-foot high ride into the sky so large that 160 people can ride at one time;
- Sea Dragon, the largest swinging pirate ship in Michigan;
- Sky Wheel, the famous double ferris wheel;
- Starship 2000, a wild ride in a flying saucer;

- Video fun house, a room that moves while you watch and listen to rock videos;
- Ghost train, scary fun;
- Hurricane, speed and weightlessness of a space ship;
- Moonraker, a wild ride into space;
- Thunderbolt, sideways fun;
- Zipper, up, down and all around.

Young tots will enjoy these rides at Kiddieland:

- Century Wheel, a smaller version of its big brother, the Giant Gondola;
- Americana Carousel, a true work of art with ornate animals and beautiful scenery;
- Merry-go-round, some 36 jumping horses and two chariots make up this reproduction of a 1912 carousel;
- Flivver, a miniature scale of Model T automobiles driven in an area about 40 by 80 feet;
- Helicopter, flying up and down and round and round;
- Go Gator, a ride on the back of the alligator;
- Country Cadillac, pick up trucks and 4 x 4s;

- Motorcycle Jump, a breathtaking jump into mid air;
- Giant Slide, slippery fun;
- Rio Grande Train;
- Raiders, fun in the jungle;
- Ferris Wheel, a traditional 50-foot ferris wheel;
- Mini Himalaya, a kid-sized version of the Musik Express;
- Fire Chief, imported from Italy, a 360-degree ride in an out-of-control fire engine;
- Balloon, an Italian import that simulates a hot air balloon.

Pugh Shows also will bring an array of game concessions with plenty of prizes.

Midway food will be available at the midway concession trailers, including popcorn, corn dogs, fajitas, and chicken sandwiches.

Ride tickets are 50 cents each with rides taking two, three, four or five tickets. A pay-one-price wristband allowing unlimited rides from opening until closing also will be sold.

Groups' food spices up Spree

A variety of food can be found each day of Spree at the various booths and concessions operated by local organizations.

Taste sensations include:

- Livonia High Nooners Lions Club: corn on the cob and ribs.
- St. Matthew's United Methodist Church: kielbasa, sloppy joes, hot dogs, chips, pop.
- Livonia Firefighters and Toarmina's Pizza: pizza.
- Rainbow Station and Livonia Symphony: pretzels, nachos, snow cones, veggies.
- Hawk Volleyball Club and Dobos: elephant ears, funnel cakes, corn dogs.

- Wayne County Sheriff Explorers: popcorn, cotton candy, caramel apples, caramel corn.
- Kiwanis Early Risers: lemonade, fruit drinks.
- Nativity of Virgin Mary: sweets, shish kabob, gyros, pop.
- Italian American Club: subs, sausage sandwich, canollis, pop, chips.
- Clarenceville-Botsford Basketball Authority: Hawaiian shaved ice.
- Livonia Rotary: French fries and Hawaiian chicken.

Festival is prepared for emergencies

Because accidents sometimes do matter how careful everyone is, Spree is prepared.

An EMS unit will be there. St. Mary Hospital's care station next to the EMS unit, and bandages will be provided as needed.

Lost and Found is at the police trailer.

The Livonia Police will also present their Child I.D. program at the police trailer. The program is scheduled from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday; and 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Free shuttle aids parking

Spree visitors who want to avoid congested parking and traffic conditions near the Spree grounds do so by taking advantage of the Spree shuttle.

The shuttle service departs from the Civic Center Library, City Hall, and the Courthouse Tuesday through Sunday.

The hours of operation are 4 p.m. to midnight Tuesday, 2 p.m. to midnight Wednesday through Friday, and noon to 1 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

For out-of-towners unfamiliar with Livonia's landmarks, the city hall is on the south side of Five Mile just east of Farmington Road, the library is only one parking lot farther east, and the courthouse is on the east side of Farmington Road south of Five Mile (if you come to the fire station you missed it; turn around and face north).

Most Spree events are held on the grounds of Ford Field, where the Eddie Edgar Ice Arena also is located. Ford Field is at Farmington Road and Lyndon, which is the light halfway between Schoolcraft and Five Mile.

About this section

This guide to Spree 45 was produced by the Livonia Observer, the city's community newspaper.

Advertising sales were handled by Nyree Ardash, coordinator, and Audrey Roof. Layouts were done by Linda Rigdon and Lynn Sharpe.

Glenny Merillat designed the cover. Bob Needham coordinated editorial copy and design.

The Livonia Observer is published every Monday and Thursday. It is located at 36251 Schoolcraft Road, at the corner of I-96 and Levan. The main phone number is (313) 591-2300.

Liberty Fest provides fun for all

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

This year's Canton Liberty Fest, Friday-Sunday, June 23-25, will feature more opening night activities and festivities than previous years.

"In the past we had an outdoor concert. This year we'll have the concert and a lot more for the Friday night opening," said Bob Dates, Canton recreation supervisor and chairman of the festival committee that plans the three-day event in Heritage Park.

As in the past three years, the festival will open with an outdoor free concert at 7:30 p.m. featuring a two-hour performance by the Willow Creek Band. To get the festival off to a roaring start, two new events are planned for Friday night, including a Las Vegas Night at 7 p.m. hosted by the St. Thomas A'Becket Booster Club, and bingo, hosted by the Canton Chamber of Commerce with cooperation from the Canton Community Foundation. Bingo will run 7-11 p.m. and is a fund-raiser for scholarship money for Canton residents.

Attendance at the festival has grown over the past three years. But there will be plenty for the larger crowds to see and do this year. The Taste of Canton has been expanded to include cuisine from 10 local restaurants. The Canton Chamber of Commerce will continue its business EXPO tent where businesses can display their wares. The chamber will have a second tent devoted to health and fitness and feature local health organizations, hospitals and doctors.

Kids will be drawn to the festival with an enlarged area of activities for them. Another soccer field has been devoted to kids' activities, including rides.

America's Most Wanted car club will enlarge their show with about 100 cars each on Saturday and Sunday. A tent will be devoted to the Summit on the Park community center, which won't yet be open when the festival rolls around. Activities and equipment targeted for the Summit will be demonstrated, as will desserts by the center's catering staff.

The Pheasant Run Golf Course also will be featured during the festival. "Demo Days" is scheduled on the grounds of the new practice

Classic Car Show will feature local hosts

The Classic Car Show returns to the Liberty Fest this year under the organization of Canton's very own America's Most Wanted Car Club.

The new club will play host to the two-day event. Fest goers will find the show spread out around the Heritage Park ponds.

The show will be Saturday and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. each day. To show a vehicle, it must be registered from 8 a.m. to noon.

Trophies will be offered on both days. On Saturday: best paint, best interior, best 50s look, club participation, Liberty Fest director's award. On Sunday: first, second and third places, best of show, Canton's best, club participation, township supervisor's award.

The show will feature 30 different classes of automobiles to be judged by the participants and Canton officials. Cash will be awarded to the top winners. Some 130 trophies and 100 plaques will be given out to participants over the course of the show.

There will also be a Car Corral on both days of the event when owners will have a chance to Community organizations highlighted at fest

Liberty Fest will be a time for local clubs and organizations to put their best "feet" forward.

A special tent will be set up for groups to show the public what they do.

The Canton Historical Society, the Canton Rotary Foundation, the Friends of the Canton Public Library, the Plymouth-Canton Civi-tans and the Canton Beautification Committee will be represented.

Other groups likely to take part in the festival include the Canton Homeowners Advisory Council, the Canton Goodfellows, the Canton Business and Professional Women's (BPW) group, and the Kiwanis.

Fireworks light up sky

Fireworks will light the sky starting about 10 p.m. Saturday as the Liberty Fest turns skyward.

The display takes place over Heritage Park at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads as soon as it is dark.

The display sponsored by the Community Federal Credit Union and staged by Liberty Fireworks will last about 45 minutes. The show will blast off from near the baseball diamond at the west end of Heritage Park and can be viewed from anywhere in Heritage Park or spots surrounding the park. The performance by the 70th Division Army Band will precede the fireworks effort beginning at 8 p.m.

Last year more than 25,000 attended the display.

The budget for this year's fireworks has been increased so residents can expect an even bigger and better display.

A large crowd is expected and organizers urge early arrival for good parking spots and viewing locations.

Performer: The Amphitheater in Heritage Park is the venue for music during the festival on Saturday and Sunday. This year, the 40-piece 70th Division Army Band will perform patriotic tunes starting at 8 p.m. on Saturday. Above, Spence Spencer performed for the crowd last year.

Sound of music will entertain fest visitors

Canton's Amphitheater will be filled with the sounds of music during the Liberty Festival.

The Spiriters Cheerleaders from Canton's Parks and Recreation Program, open Saturday's shows with a 1 p.m. performance.

The next event is Second Stage, a variety band performing at 2 p.m. and followed by the Plymouth Fife & Drum Corps at 3 p.m..

At 3:45 p.m., the Earth Angels bring their lip-synching brand of oldies to the stage. Then at 5:30 p.m. Chila Dogs will perform popular music.

That evening the 40-piece 70th Division Army Band will perform patriotic tunes beginning at 8 p.m. and leading up to the big fireworks display Saturday night.

Summit on the Park included in summer event

Canton's $13 million community center, Summit on the Park, won't open until the fall, but residents will get a taste of what's to come during the Liberty Fest.

The Summit on the Park catering staff is planning "An Elegant Peek at Summit Sweets" as a fund-raising event for the Community Playscape project.

The event will be 7-10 p.m. on Friday and feature samples of desserts from the Summit caterer. Coffee and punch will also be served. The sampler plate and beverage will be available at a minimal cost.

Special Summit giveaways and prizes will also be available. The Summit tent will be near the front of the festival, across the walkway from the Bingo and Las Vegas Tent.

Arts part and parcel of Canton gathering

About 100 artists from across Michigan are expected to grace the Liberty Festival Saturday and Sunday for the expanded Fine Arts Show.

Festival goers will view art in a variety of mediums, buy art, or watch it being created at the show in tents beyond the Heritage Park gazebo on the soccer fields.

The Fine Arts Show, a juried show, will run from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The art demonstrations — including clay marbling and drawing will take place inside and outside the tent at posted times.

Great Lakes craftspeople travel to Canton

The Antique Show and Arts and Crafts Show will have expanded hours on Saturday and Sunday.

More than 80 craftspeople from Michigan and the Great Lakes region will display their handiwork, and festival goers will have a chance to enjoy the creations, maybe even make a purchase and watch craftspeople while they work.

The two arts and crafts tents will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

For the second year an Antiques and Collectibles Show is part of the festival. Staged in two tents, the show will feature about 40 vendors from across the metro Detroit area and offer festival goers a chance to hunt for a one-of-a-kind collectible or antique item.

The antiques show will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Chamber of commerce front and center at fest

One of the key sponsors of the Liberty Fest, the Canton Chamber of Commerce, will also take part with several events and activities during the Liberty Fest this year, including the annual Canton Wide Sale throughout the community from June 18 through July 5.

The biggest sale of the year will feature outdoor sales throughout the community. The sale will be coordinated by the chamber. Look for the red, white and blue pennants on all businesses.

The chamber will issue free permits, in cooperation with the township, to any business that wants to participate. Call the chamber at 453-4040 for more information.

Also, the chamber will host a Business Expo tent to introduce residents to the local business community.

Businesses will offer discount coupons, free samples, giveaways and offer free drawings to help showcase what they do in the community. No selling is permitted at the Expo. The booths will be staffed by business owners and their employees.

The Expo will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday and again from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on

Games on tap for kids

New this year to the festival is "Kids Mania" featuring inflatable games and rides for children.

The inflatable games will be open from noon to 6 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

There will be a small fee for children to use this fun event.

Course tours planned

Canton residents can take a look at the new Pheasant Run Golf course during the festival.

A golf cart will be available on a regular basis to shuttle festival-goers from the Summit tent on the main festival grounds to the practice range, where they can try out new equipment from vendors, meet with vendor representatives and participate in special events.

The range will be open for regular business in July. Rates for the range are: small bag, $2; medium bag, $4.50; and large bag, $6.50.

Young golfer: There is plenty to do for kids. Above, David Hutchison played miniature golf during a previous festival. This year there are more games and rides in a midway, including a moon walk.

Special pin

SHERRIE BUZBY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Thanks: Shirley Wood of Canton Lions Football gets a pin from Bob Dates, township recreation supervisor, for helping at a previous Liberty Festival. Dates is this year's festival committee chairman.

Every Sunday, millions of Americans confuse greener lawns with greener pastures.

This Sunday, come and join us in the love, fellowship and worship of Jesus Christ. You may be surprised to find the grass is actually greener on our side of the fence.

History is coming to the Canton Liberty Fest.

A new program, History at the Gazebo, is being put together by the Canton Historic District Commission, led by Virginia Parker.

The event is a sample of living history, and will start at noon on Saturday and continue until 6 p.m. in the gazebo at Heritage Park.

Festival goers will have a chance to chat with costumed interpreters representing various eras. Mme.

Cadillac, portrayed by French-born author Annick Hivert-Carthew, will tell people about life in 1901 when she and her husband arrived by canoe in the wilderness to establish Detroit's Fort Pontchartrain.

Also, a bobbin lace demonstration put on by Canton lacemaker Karen Foland Marion will be part of the historical action.

Civil War re-enactor John Gibney, an extra in the movie "Gettysburg," will also be on hand.

Proceeds from 'Picnic in the Park' will combat drug abuse

Sunday's festival food choice includes the return of a very special dinner - a "Picnic in the Park" - being sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton D.A.R.E. Board with food provided by Canton's Outback Steakhouse on Ford Road.

The third annual fund-raising meal for D.A.R.E. will be served from noon to 4 p.m. in the shelter at the northside of the festival grounds. Tickets are on sale now at a pre-dinner price of $6 for adults and $2.50 for children. Tickets are $7 for adults and $3 for children on the day of the picnic. Dinner includes chicken and ribs and fries.

Tickets are on sale in advance or on that Sunday. Call Sue Davis at 455-4090 for further information. Tickets are also on sale at the Outback and at the various Canton elementary schools.

range where visitors can try out new equipment.

The Canton Community Playscape, Heritage Hideout, will be available during the festival.

Here's a sneak preview at some activities planned for the weekend festival:

■ A new program this year, "History at the Gazebo," will provide guests with a sample of living history, featuring costumed interpreters representing eras of American history.

■ The Heritage Park amphitheater will be filled with music throughout the weekend, while a special stage will be set up on the main soccer fields for children's entertainment.

■ Saturday's festival lineup will be closed with the annual fireworks display over Heritage Park. A performance by the 70th Division Army Band will precede the display, sponsored by the Community Federal Credit Union.

■ As in the past, artists will display their talents at an expanded Fine Arts Show on Saturday and Sunday. An arts and crafts show and antique show also will be featured.

■ Paddleboat rides on the main pond in Heritage Park will be offered again this year.

■ Picnic in the Park, sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton D.A.R.E., will offer visitors meals by Outback Steakhouse.

sell their vehicles. The cost is $10 to register.

All of the proceeds from the two-day show will be donated to the western Wayne Civitans for the Special Olympics.

Registration fees are as follows: pre-registration, two days, $15; pre-registration, one day, $10; registration at the gate, two days, $18; and registration at the gate, one day, $15.

There will also be a swap meet as part of the car show. Automobile lovers will have an opportunity to wander through displays by car part vendors and auto memorabilia vendors. There is no charge for the swap meet and it will be held both days.

For more information, call Sharon Dillenbeck at 453-3710. Dillenbeck designed this year's Liberty Fest logo which is used on t-shirts sold during the event.

As part of the arts program there will be art workshops for youths during the festival. The free workshops will be from noon to 4 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday and include "make and take" home art projects for young people.

Four face-painting booths will be set up throughout the festival grounds. The charge is $1. The painters are young artists from the community.

For information on booth rental during the Expo, call Bruce Guastella, Retail Committee chairman, at 453-4653.

The Canton Chamber will sell raffle tickets for a chance to win a Cruise for two from Key West to Cozumel along with several other special prizes. The raffle tickets will be drawn at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 25. Winners need not be present to win.

Raffle tickets will be sold during the festival for $2 each or 3 for $5. For information call the chamber at 453-4040. The chamber will also be raffling off a Ford Escort this year in a separate drawing.

The chamber is also working on the Bingo Night and the Taste of Canton.

Also new this year and sponsored by the chamber will be a Health Expo, located next to the Business Expo.

Safety's in the spotlight

Canton's Public Safety Department will display its equipment during the festival Saturday and Sunday.

The Children's Fire Safety House will be opened for youngsters to learn about fire safety. There will also be a fire engine, police scout cars, the command unit, and even police motorcycles for festival goers to inspect.

The equipment will be in the parking lot south and west of the police station. Officers will be there to explain the equipment.

Also, children can be fingerprinted at the same site.

Parking bans enacted

Because of expected heavy traffic at the Canton Liberty Fest June 23-25, parking will be prohibited in areas around the festival grounds in Heritage Park.

Effective 11 a.m. Friday, June 23, parking will be prohibited along Canton Center Road, between Cherry Hill and Palmer, as well as on Proctor Road, west from Canton Center Road.

The emergency traffic order, issued by Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro, will remain in effect until 9 a.m. Sunday, June 25.

Taste of Canton's tasty

The popular Taste of Canton is on tap again for this year's Liberty Fest. The number of local restaurants participating in the event has increased from six to 10 this year. They will be selling food items from noon to 9:30 p.m. Saturday at the shelters on the north end of Heritage Park, just off of Proctor Road.

Festival visitors can buy tickets for $1 each to use toward their purchases. Food items may take several tickets to purchase. There will also be a beverage station nearby the Taste of Canton area.

Participating restaurants will include, Mountain Jacks, TC Gators, Olive Garden, Rose's, Buck Jones Deli, Damon's, the Thai Bistro, Marco's Pizza, Applebees and Baker's Square.
