

School budget goes up 6.4%

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Amidst a cloud of financial uncertainty the Northville Public School District Board of Trustees adopted its budget Monday for fiscal year 1995-96.

The new fiscal year begins July 1.

The district will be able to add 11 new teachers to cover student growth, but that's about it, according to the district's financial director John Street. In his report to the board of trustees Street explained that the district must exercise financial restraint until the district has a clearer understanding of what the state's funding picture will look like.

The new budget reflects an estimated $30,255,325 in revenue for 1995-96 - an increase of 6.4 percent over the last fiscal year. On the expense side of the ledger, the budget estimates the district will spend approximately $29,934,440 - which represents a 6.4 percent increase as well.

But those figures could change if the state, once again, pulls the education funding carpet out from

Engler dashes track's hopes for electronic gaming machines

The speculation surrounding casino gambling in the state ended Tuesday when Gov. John Engler announced he would not support gambling anywhere in Michigan.

Engler put to rest any possibility of casino gambling at Northville Downs, and other race tracks, with his announcement. That message immediately had Michigan racetrack officials scrambling to figure out how they can keep their industry alive and viable.

"... I will not support off reservation Indian gambling in Detroit, Highland Park, Inkster, Pontiac ... or anywhere else," Engler announced at his afternoon press conference, ending months of speculation as to what he intended to do on the issue of gambling.

Meanwhile in Northville, Margaret Zayti, executive manager of Northville Downs, said Engler's decision might be the beginning of the end for horse racing in the state. "We could see, in five or 10 years, where (Michigan) may not have any race tracks," she said.

Church/retail development gets nod

After months of debate and mountains of information the Northville Township Planning Commission gave a unanimous thumbs up to the Ward Church property concept proposal Tuesday night.

Members of the commission voted 5-0 at their June 27 meeting to recommend that the township board of trustees approve the plan subject to seven conditions. The board is expected to give its say on the controversial proposal soon because of one of them.

Ward, now located at Six Mile and Farmington roads in Livonia, wants to build a new and bigger church on the 140 acres it owns at Six Mile and Haggerty Roads. The plan the commission voted in favor of calls for the church to share space with a 280,000 square foot commercial shopping center, 4,000 parking spaces and 84 acres of open space.

The open space makes up 60 percent of the site and includes tracts of preserved land and recreational ball fields. Ward has offered to let Northville residents use the fields and to build two tennis courts and give them to the Township government could see changes

By RANDY COBLE

The administrative branch of Northville Township's government may be in for a shakeup this summer.

Manager Tamara Hanlin this week confirmed that she recently floated a "reorganization" plan before the board of trustees that would privatize the planning department and make the building department a subsection of the public utilities department.

New school millage in district's future?

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

More dollars are needed to fund the Northville Public School District.

That was the conclusion of the last of three committees charged with plotting the future of the district.

The Citizen/Staff Committee on Enhancement Millage turned over its findings to the board of education Monday and offered recommendations as to how the district should proceed in its goal of funding "quality education" into the 21st century.

Committee member Barbara Moroski-Browne told board trustees the committee had concluded that there is a "demonstrated need" for additional financial resources to expand educational facilities, repair and improve existing buildings, enhance technology in the classroom, and acquire financial reserves for school openings and unanticipated expenses and revenue loss.

"To accomplish this, the committee recommends that the board of education seek community support through a single election, with two single ballot items - for an enhancement millage vote and a bond millage vote," Moroski-Browne said.

The committee recommended that the election take place on Sept. 25 or 26.

City cable TV agreement hailed as first of its kind

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The City of Northville, along with Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton may be the first communities in the nation to have their cable television services provided by a telephone company.

The cities, which form a cable television consortium, have been negotiating a franchise agreement with Ameritech New Media Enterprises for a cable television system.

The Northville City Council met in a special session Tuesday to discuss the proposed agreement, which according to cable consultant Larry Monroe, is the first of its kind - anywhere.

"I find myself in a rare position tonight. Very seldom do I speak in favor of a cable company," Monroe told council members. "Before you is an agreement that is historic.

Art undaunted

The cloud cover pretty much kept the sun out of the Art in the Sun weekend, but the heat and humidity didn't keep the crowds away. More than 130 arts and craft booths set up during the two-day outdoor event,

Care can keep A/C humming along

Many homeowners could save considerably on their air conditioning costs simply by watching their A/C "P's" and "Q's," according to air conditioning expert Dan Bergstrom of Northville.

"Let's start with 'P' by pulling the shades and draperies on the sunny side of your house. This can save 10 to 20 percent of the cost of cooling on a hot day," says Bergstrom.

"An important 'Q' is to quit leaving windows open while the A/C is on. A survey by Honeywell Inc.

showed 25 percent of homeowners do it," said Bergstrom, who owns Bergstrom's Inc., an air conditioning, plumbing and heating company in Livonia.

Another "P" is to put new furnace air filters in every month or two, if you use the inexpensive, replaceable kind.

Dirty filters slow the air flow and cause early equipment failures.

Electronic/electrostatic filters should be cleaned just as often for best efficiency.

Less than one-half of homeowners clean or replace filters as often as they should.

Just as important, the air filter around the outdoor compressor unit must be kept clear and clean, cautions Bergstrom.

Cottonwood tree "fluff" is a major outdoor filter clogger.

Another "Q" is to question whether or not you have the thermostat set too low.

For every degree "warmer" you set the thermostat, you can save about three percent in energy consumption. Raising the thermostat from 70 to 75 degrees could save about 15 percent on your energy bill.

"P" could also stand for the preventive maintenance of the air conditioning and heating system. It can save the homeowner money and the distress of surprise breakdowns during the hottest days.

A poorly-maintained air conditioner will often "short cycle" or run continuously.

In both cases the unit is inefficient and will likely break down sooner.

Chamber director given Rotary award

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Laurie Marrs' tenure as executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce started innocently enough. She was visiting the chamber office one day asking for permission to post a flyer advertising the Northville Historical Society's Tivoli Fair.

"I was just asking if we could post the flyer and I began chatting about the fair," Marrs recalled. "And the next thing I knew I was being encouraged to apply for the director position."

That was 10 years ago, and now Marrs has become a respected and integral part of the Northville community. As the executive director of the 270-member chamber of commerce, Marrs is a very busy person. So busy that her position, which began as a 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. job, is now full-time.

"I'm just lucky to be a participant in all that is going on within this community," she said. "It's a very exciting time for us and I feel blessed to be a part of it."

The former Detroit Public School teacher's efforts in keeping Northville in the spotlight haven't gone unnoticed. Last week she received the first ever Rotarian of the Year award from the Northville Rotary Club.

"(Laurie) is an activist. A doer. A mover. Everywhere I turn I see (her) proactive and standing tall in the saddle," said Rotary Club President Chuck Keys. "She is the personification of service - Rotary service. She encourages and fosters the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise."

"She has high ethical standards, she recognizes the worthiness and usefulness of all occupations," Keys added.

Keys said that Marrs applies the high ideas of service to her personal, business and community life and she understands the value and goodwill of international service.

"Her reputation is outstanding in this community and is more evidence of her worthiness for this award," he said.

Marrs was presented her award during the Rotary Club's annual awards ceremony June 20.

Her list of accomplishments includes serving on the executive board of directors of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, serving as a member of the City of Northville Strategic Planning Committee, former president of the Schoolcraft College Board of Governors, and chairperson of the Partnership for Education Finance Committee.

She is a member of the Rotary Board of Directors and a member of the Northville Public School District's Strategic Planning Committee.

She also chairs the Northville Victorian Festival and spends countless hours keeping the community in the public spotlight.

"Each year I fall more in love with this job," she said. "I work with wonderful people, and I receive strong support from the board of directors, who let me do my job."

Laurie Marrs won the first Rotarian of the Year award.

"The more positive recognition Northville gets, the happier I am," she added.

And when you talk about the future of Northville, Marrs gets visibly excited. "There is a great deal of change in our future, and I believe that will be exciting to be a part of," she explained. "I also enjoy watching more of our community becoming involved with the changes that are taking place."

"I love to see active people taking part in the building of community," she concluded. "That's the greatest part of my job."

Merchants nailed for serving decoy

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A batting average of .275 is pretty decent, but it's a much larger rate of failure than Northville Township police wanted to see when they checked local merchants last week for underage alcohol sales.

An underage undercover operative bought beer at four of the 11 businesses in the township licensed to sell alcohol, Detective John Werth said.

"Unfortunately, this was our most successful night for USAM (unlawful sale of alcohol to minors) operations yet," Werth said. "With the community's adoption of zero tolerance we're disappointed with so many violations."

Caught selling alcohol to the 20-year-old operative on Friday were the Cap 'n' Cork party store and La Metis restaurant, both on Five Mile, Woolly Bully's on Seven Mile and the Six & Park party store on Northville Road, Werth said.

The man bought a six pack of beer at the Cap 'n' Cork, La Metis and Six & Park and was served a beer at Woolly Bully's, he added.

Individuals who sell alcohol to minors can be held criminally liable and the businesses where the sales took place can be penalized by the state Liquor Control Commission (LCC). Police decided not to issue any violations but did pass the results of their investigation on to the LCC, which is expected to take action soon.

The department hopes that the ongoing USAM enforcement efforts will convince all Northville vendors to scrupulously enforce the law forbidding liquor sales to those under 21, Werth said.

While he didn't get a ticket, a bouncer at Woolly Bully's got bounced out of his job after improperly checking the operative's identification.

"He checked our man's ID, which had his correct age on it, at the door but let him in anyway," Werth said. "The bartender then served him a beer. We spoke with both of them and the manager of Woolly Bully's and he fired the bouncer on the spot."

One arrest was made during the June 23 incident, however. While following the operative into the Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty Detective Sergeants John Sherman and Fred Yankee allegedly witnessed three teenagers shoplift a pint of Absolut vodka. They stopped the females, ages 14, 15 and 18, outside of the store, Werth said.

The 18-year-old was booked at the scene and then released. She faces a July 14 hearing in 35th District Court.

If convicted she could receive up to 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine. Police contacted the parents of the two younger girls, both juveniles.

Police campaign to enforce seat belt laws over weekend

Special "no excuses" safety belt enforcement teams from the Canton Police Department will be on road patrol Saturday and Sunday, July 1-2.

The Wayne County-wide safety belt enforcement effort includes both roads and freeways in the county.

Special enforcement will include sheriff's patrols, Michigan State Police from the Detroit, Flat Rock and Northville Posts, and local police patrols from 12 communities.

Motorists in Michigan average 66 percent safety belt use, but that number drops to 56 percent in Wayne County.

Safety belt use is lowest in the 16-29 age group - although traffic crashes are the leading cause of death in this age group.

The "no excuses" campaign is funded by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning.

A Village Run Drive resident reported the theft of his Jose Canseco baseball card to township police on Friday.

The man, 19, said that someone had punched out the driver's door lock of his 1990 Ford Escort and removed the card, which is valued at $120.

I ONLY HAD A COUPLE ... HONEST: The Breathalyzer at the Northville Police Department certainly got a workout this week. Our first suspect was picked up on radar traveling 54 mph in a 40 mph zone on Eight Mile Road west of Taft, on June 23. Northville police officers pulled the 17-year-old suspect over and found he had no drivers license in his possession.

While the officer was questioning the suspect, he noticed an unopened beer can in the vehicle. Upon removing the can, the officer then discovered a "pipe-like device that had a bowl containing a small amount of blackish and grayish substance and smelled similar to residue left in the burning of marijuana," according to the police report.

The officer immediately called for the K-9 unit and continued to question the suspect, who claimed the pipe-like device belonged to an acquaintance, but he couldn't remember the person's last name or place of residence.

The suspect was then given a field sobriety test and he agreed to take a breath analyzer test.

The initial test registered the suspects blood alcohol content at 0.10.

The K-9 unit was unable to discover any controlled substances in the vehicle and the suspect was transported to the Northville Police Station where an additional breath analysis showed a blood alcohol level of 0.09.

The suspect was charged with operation of a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

OK, MAYBE I HAD TWO OR THREE: Our second suspect was observed June 21, making a left-hand turn without using his turn signal. A Northville Police Officer followed the suspect and noticed his vehicle crossing the center line on a couple of occasions. The officer decided to pull the suspect over when the officer noticed the suspect began driving the vehicle in the eastbound lane while heading westbound.

When the officer began questioning the sobriety of the suspect, the suspect admitted to having a few beers.

The officer then asked the suspect to perform a field sobriety test, which the suspect had difficulty achieving. The suspect then agreed to a breath analysis that registered 0.148.

Additional tests at the police station showed the suspects blood alcohol level at 0.16 and 0.17.

The suspect was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and driving a vehicle with a suspended license. He was held on $150 bond.

I HAD A FEW ... A COUPLE HOURS AGO: Our third suspect was taking a 1 a.m. drive June 26 when a Northville Police Officer observed him traveling on Eight Mile Road, west of Center, at a high rate of speed. The officer's radar registered the suspect's speed at 56 mph in a 40 mph zone.

Once the officer pulled the suspect over he noticed the odor of alcohol coming from the vehicle, and upon questioning the suspect said he had "drank a few beers a couple of hours ago." At that time the officer had the suspect perform several aspects of the field sobriety test, which the suspect failed.

The suspect agreed to a breath analysis and the test showed a reading of 0.165 blood alcohol content. Later readings registered at 0.17 and 0.16.

The suspect was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. He was released on $100 bond.

STOLEN 'STANG: Someone stole a Milan man's Mustang last Wednesday when he was staying at a house on East Northville Trail. The man, 27, told township police that he parked the 1989 Ford Mustang outside of the home and found it gone the next morning. It is valued at $8,100.

OPEN DOOR LEADS TO THEFT: Thieves stole $1,700 in merchandise from a Country Knoll Drive homeowner's car on Saturday.

The woman told township police that she'd left her 1993 Mercury Tracer unlocked in her garage with the garage door open.

Taken were a cellular phone, grooming scissors, a razor and leather pouch.

CLOSED DOOR LEADS TO THEFT, TOO: Another Country Knoll Drive resident suffered a break-in last week, this one on Tuesday night, June 20.

The woman, 19, told township police that someone got into her 1994 Mitsubishi Eclipse while it was inside her closed garage. Taken was the car's stereo system worth $900.

WHO NEEDS DOORS? A 16-year-old Novi boy reported the theft of nearly $1,400 in merchandise from his car to township police on Friday.

The boy told officers that someone had stolen his car stereo system, camera and watch out of his 1992 Jeep Wrangler when he stayed the night at a Richards Court residence. The Wrangler had no top on it.

YOUTHS NABBED FOR SHOPLIFTING: Township police dealt with two Northville teenagers whom Meijer store detectives allegedly caught shoplifting. One of the boys, 12, is accused of trying to steal an airbrush paint kit and a turkey call. The other, 14, tried to make off with a bicycle innertube and a pack of slingshot ammunition.

The boys were released to a family member. Police said they would refer the case to juvenile court.

PADDLER GETS COLLARED: The early hours of Sunday morning weren't the best ones of the week for a 21-year-old Dearborn woman.

Police say she and a friend, a 22-year-old man from Westland, took a Whitman Court resident's paddleboat for a little ride on Crystal Lake at about 3 a.m. that day. The woman spotted them and they returned the boat.

She asked township police to give the two a stern warning but said she didn't want to press charges.

A routine computer check revealed that Dearborn police had a warrant out for the 21-year-old, however, for failing to appear in court to deal on a traffic citation. She was arrested and booked then released on bond.

Citizens with information about any of these incidents are asked to call Northville Township police at 349-9400 or city police at 349-1234.

Traffic mishap develops into scuffle between 2 men

By RANDY COBLE

Staff Writer

A traffic altercation turned physical last week when a Hamburg Township man struck a Northville Township resident with his car, then fled the scene.

The resident, a 26-year-old man who lives in the Innsbrook apartment complex off of Seven Mile, was not seriously injured during the June 19 incident.

He told police the trouble began as he was driving his 1991 Ford Festiva west on Seven Mile the afternoon of June 19.

The Hamburg Township man, 60, was driving a 1994 Ford Explorer and tried to cross over into his lane, the man said. He wasn't able to, however, and soon the Explorer sped up and tried to force his car to swerve into oncoming traffic, the man continued.

At that point, the man reached the entrance to Innsbrook, pulled in and got out of his car to confront the Hamburg Township man, who had followed him. Instead of stopping, however, the Explorer accelerated, the man said, striking him and the Festiva's open driver's door.

The Explorer then drove into the Innsbrook complex.

The vehicle struck the man in his lower right leg but did not fracture it.

Knowing that there was no other road exit from Innsbrook, the man said he waited on the traffic dividing island until the Explorer drove back.

He got the vehicle's license plate, then went to his apartment and called 911.

As the Hamburg man passed him he said, "The next time I hit you I'll kill you," the man said.

The man was taken briefly to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. Township police continue to investigate the incident.

Court fight over double bunking to receive final decision in July

By RANDY COBLE

Staff Writer

Northville Township's court battle over prison double bunking will reach a head in two weeks.

Township officials are asking a Wayne County Circuit Court judge to hold the state Department of Corrections (DOC) in contempt for double-bunking prisoners at the Western Wayne Correctional Facility on Five Mile Road in Plymouth Township.

At a hearing held Friday, June 23, Judge Edward Thomas heard arguments for and against that action from township attorney Jim Tamm and a representative from the state Attorney General's office, which is representing the DOC.

Northville Township in 1990 obtained a court order requiring the DOC to maintain Western Wayne's population at 500 inmates, as provided in a law passed in 1986 by the state Legislature. State and township officials talked earlier in the year about allowing double bunking at Western Wayne and what it would take to get the township to void the court order.

The discussions fell through and in April the Legislature and Gov. John Engler agreed to a new law which allowed the DOC to increase the Western Wayne cap to 775 prisoners. Tamm told Thomas that the DOC's action is a violation of the 1990 order. State officials disagree, however, arguing that the order is no longer valid because the law has been changed.

Thomas said he would issue his ruling on the request on July 11.

"The emergency team went above and beyond the call of duty."

My daughter, Alexis, has been asthmatic since she was three. So unfortunately we've been to several hospitals over the years.

One night, Alexis had an attack at ten o'clock. We needed to go to the hospital and decided to go to Botsford. The experience was good right from the start.

It began with someone opening the door for us at the new emergency department. Then we went to a room where Alexis was immediately triaged and cared for. I was really impressed with the quality of care. The Emergency Specialists were very adept in pediatrics.

Even though an asthma attack can be very scary, there was never any stress. Alexis was always treated like a person first — never like a number.

I felt the people at Botsford really cared about patients and the community. When we were leaving, the nurse in triage came back in to say good-bye and said, "Hope you feel better Alexis."

Investigation launched into deaths of geese

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The mysterious deaths of five Canada geese at the North Hills Village Apartments in Novi has some apartment residents upset.

So upset that a few of them have decided to place threatening phone calls to the apartment's manager, Jane Horan.

"It's got me quite scared. I'm taking the threats seriously," Horan said in a phone interview Monday. "The Novi Police officers told me to keep a cool head and not respond to the threats."

Horan replayed a portion of her answering machine tape, which captured some of the anonymous threats. In one portion of the tape a woman is heard screaming into the phone.

"You poisoned those geese, you (unintelligible). You're a killer."

At the center of the controversy are the geese, which began dying one by one last Thursday. Horan said that the Department of Natural Resources showed up during the weekend and removed the dead geese that had been floating in a pond located within the complex's property, located at 44840 North Hills Drive.

Bonnie Arthur, Secretary for Wildlife at the Livonia DNR branch, confirmed that the ducks had been removed. Two of the geese have been transported to the DNR office in Roselake where an autopsy will be done to determine what killed the animals.

"I don't have any idea how this could have happened," Horan said. "It's upsetting because we wouldn't do anything that would be so cruel."

Obviously some residents disagreed and began calling the newsroom of the Novi News and Northville Record anonymously early Monday morning to claim that the apartment manager had poisoned the geese.

As it turned out, the complex did spray the chemical Rejexit — or AG36 — around the pond on June 6, according to Horan, who claims the measure didn't work. "It didn't force them out, it didn't get the geese sick. It just did nothing," Horan added.

Rejexit is approved for use by the Environmental Protection Agency and the DNR, according to Arthur.

"It's a chemical treatment that is non-toxic," Arthur said. "You don't need to get our approval or that of the EPA, to use it."

Horan said that she contacted the DNR to let them know that they were going to apply the chemical, just to be on the safe side.

"We don't want to do the wrong thing," she said. "We just wanted to make sure we were following the rules and regulations."

"We've always taken the proper precautions," Horan added. "I just can't understand why some people would think we were capable of killing the geese."

The Rejexit spray is supposed to make the geese sick and force them from the area," Horan explained. She added that she didn't think the chemical, possibly mixed with some other type of chemical — like fertilizer, would have caused a "delayed reaction," causing geese to begin to die.

"From what I understand the chemical just effects the geese, the Mallard ducks have had no noticeable symptoms," Horan said.

And although some residents are angered over the incident others are a bit indifferent. Resident Merlin Gaut said he doesn't mind the geese but doesn't like them at the complex.

"I don't have any idea how this could have happened. It's upsetting because we wouldn't do anything that would be so cruel."

—Jane Horan

"If they just kept the place clean it wouldn't be so bad," he said. "There is so much goose (droppings) everywhere you can't walk."

"That's why I moved here. It has a great area to walk around."

Gaut said the geese are always getting into the gardens in the complex, despite the small fences that were erected to keep them out.

Horan said the geese have been a problem from the time she became apartment manager seven years ago.

"We've tried all sorts of things to encourage the geese to go elsewhere. Nothing seems to work," she said.

She added that residents had met recently to discuss possible remedies to the problem.

Saying the duck and geese population was causing pollution problems in their city, the Northville City Council this month voted to post signs in a city park asking residents not to feed the waterfowl.

Council members acted at the behest the state DNR in claiming that the feeding of the animals has resulted in overweight birds, excessive droppings and traffic problems on Main Street.

Elementary grading format approved by school board

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville students in kindergarten through fifth grade will be bringing home report cards with a new look next year, and according to district administrators and teachers the cards will "further enhance" the process of education.

The Northville Board of Education unanimously approved the new report card Monday. The new card will go into use beginning with the 1995-96 school year.

"This has been no small task with teachers and parents spending more than 100 hours refining the report card structure," said Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. "I'm pleased to report that although the process was difficult, everyone has had the opportunity to provide input."

The new report card's adoption culminates four years of work by the Language Arts Committee to revise the language arts curriculum for Northville Public Schools, according to committee member Barbara Sixt.

"Teachers have worked in collaboration with parents to reach this final form," she said.

According to Sixt three separate surveys were submitted to parents and teachers, and about 40 percent of the parents participated in the process in one, two, or three surveys.

The surveys were designed and tabulated by both parents and teachers, Sixt added.

Four major areas were identified after the survey's were tabulated and the "commonalities" were addressed in the design of the new report card," Sixt told board trustees. The streamlined cards offer several advantages:

- More detailed assessments in math, science, and social studies.
- More space has been allotted for comments by teachers.

- A clearer key/rating system.

The committee incorporated a benchmark page into the body of the report card at grade levels K-2. The page will provide teachers with a way to chart the student's progress.

The committee conducted 10 meetings with parents and 23 meetings with staff members to develop the changes, according to Sixt.

She said the new cards will allow teachers and parents to better identify where students are successful and where they are having difficulty.

"It is important to note that you cannot separate curriculum, instruction, and assessment from any reporting system to parents," Sixt said.

Board Trustee Martha Nield said she was impressed by the thoroughness of the committee. "This report card will provide a wealth of information to parents and teachers," she said. "I, for one, am impressed by the way this process was conducted, and with the end result."

Board Treasurer Joan Wadsworth agreed, but added that the new report card is just part of the "whole educational picture."

"I believe the heart and soul of language arts is the fine curriculum that has been developed by teachers," Wadsworth said.

"This process was held together by strong strategies. This group of teachers have done the right thing for our district and ultimately for our students."

Wadsworth pointed out several successful strategies in the language arts curriculum, but one that stands out, she explained, is the concept of student-led conferencing - where students take part in their educational evaluation with teachers and parents.

"I believe that student-led conferencing provides kids with a much deeper understanding about what they are doing," she said.

"It allows the student to become more involved."

Involving the community in the process was a key element in the new report card's development, according to Board Vice President Robert Brown.

"This is just another case of the community and the district working together towards a common goal - providing the best education for our children," he said.

Northville Talk of the Week/ by ROBERT JACKSON

I guess this week's leading topic would have to be the weather. In plain terms it's hot outside. In reality it's a furnace in our newsroom. That's because someone with the wisdom of a frisbee stuck a 2.5 ton unit on the roof instead of a 5 ton one.

Not that I'm complaining mind you.

But since this column is beyond just talking about the weather we'll change the subject, and I'll introduce a mom who is really going out of her way to get her 17-year-old son a job.

The mom is Roxanne Koche. Many business and community types probably know her as one of Laurie Marrs' hard working staffers. Well, it seems Koche has this problem.

She wants her son Jeff to work this summer.

And when I stopped by on Monday to talk with Marrs, Koche offered up an idea for my "Talk of the Week" column.

You guessed it, helping Jeff gain summer employment.

Now I know that usually something of this magnitude might find its way into the classified section of our newspaper, but sensing Roxanne's urgency I agreed. So listen up all you prospective Northville employers, I have a hot prospect to introduce you to.

Jeff, according to Roxanne, is a dedicated worker who's not fussy about the type of employment he manages to get - after all, it's just for the summer right? Roxanne tells me that he is extremely intelligent, always on time, a loyal employee, is goal oriented and works well in a team atmosphere. The bottom line, Roxanne explains, is that he would be an asset to any Northville employer.

Should you want to talk with Jeff, contact his agent (mother) at the Chamber of Commerce office, 349-7640.

Okay with that out of the way, it's time to get the tail waggin'. This week you won't find anything to do with racetracks, parimutuel betting or casino gambling. Nor will you read anything that has to do with cable television, water rationing or overpaid athletes. In this week's offering we correct, recognize, and honor - and yep you got it - honor some more. So plop yourself down in that easy chair, get out the lemonade and rest a spell. Talk of the Week is your cultural fare for the evening.

KIDS HELPING KIDS: During the Northville Public School Board meeting Monday three students from Amerman Elementary School were recognized by the board of education for taking part in a special ed program with Old Village School.

The three students, Allison

Loeffler, Steven Salinsky, and Jeffrey Minsch, spent a few hours, once a week, helping students at Old Village with their studies.

Allison expected the kids in the special education program to be less active and was surprised at what she found. "They talked more than I thought they would," she said.

Steven got a lot out of the experience. He too was surprised at how active the kids were. "I learned how to be more caring," he said. "I enjoyed teaching them different things."

Jeffrey learned a few things from the Old Village School students and admitted that he had "a lot of fun."

"It was a very good experience, it was a good way to spend my time," he said.

ARTFUL ACHIEVEMENT: Brendan is a student from Old Village School who possesses some promising artistic qualities. So talented is the youth, his teachers brought him before the board of education to show off his talents.

Brendan, who works with stained glass, presented the board with one of his favorite pieces of art, and cheerfully received recognition for his hard work during the school year.

THEY'VE COME A LONG WAY: Also present at Monday's school board meeting were representatives and students from Bryant School, who shared their successes with the board.

Three students were singled out for their achievements during the year. The students, ranging in age from 18 to 26, are taught basic skills and placed into community job sites, where they interact with the community.

Sarah and Shawn worked helping customers and doing different tasks at T.J. Maxx, while Jason worked loading trucks for ACO Hardware.

The three provided gifts to all board members and administrative officials at the conclusion of a presentation that all agreed "was a moving experience."

NOT TO BE LEFT OUT: The school board honored Mary Ellen Wolbers and Grace Traicoff for all of the volunteer hours the two spend videotaping the school board meetings for Omnicon Cable Co.

Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said the efforts of Wolbers and Traicoff are outstanding, and that the district appreciated the service they provided to the community.

AND THE AWARDEES ARE...: Besides honoring Laurie Marrs as the Northville Rotary Club's "Rotarian of the Year" (see this week's feature), the Rotary Club honored several of its members during the club's annual celebration.

The awardees are Sharon Ashley, Traci Johnson, Dave Rekuc, Scott Lowry, Peggy Anti, John Sassman, Leonard Rezmierski, Pat Bradley, Doris Purvis, Ed Hannah, and Chuck Spera. Congratulations Rotarians. We hope you and the Rotary Club have another successful year.

DID WE SAY THAT? On page 10-A of last week's paper we got a bit confused in the photo outline and reported that the 3rd Grade Advanced Composition Class at Thornton Creek School was using the internet to correspond with Novi High School students.

While students at the two schools did correspond in "pen pal-like" fashion, the Internet wasn't used.

We'd like to thank Northville High School teacher Sue Congress for pointing out the error.

OOPS DEPT. NEWS FLASH: Also in last week's edition, more than a slight omission occurred when the name of Kim Lang was left out of a photo caption of the talented Meads Mill student. Kim's picture appeared on page 14-A, and the caption boasted of her achievements in being named a finalist in the Michigan Inter-scholastic Forensics Association competition.

Fine as far as it goes. Unfortunately, Kim didn't get her due recognition because we left out her name.

Sorry, Kim, and congratulations again.

YES, THE PARK IS OPEN: I received a call Monday from a Northville resident who was concerned we hadn't publicized all of the "wonderful things happening this summer at Maybury Park."

I informed the caller that we publicize park happenings in "Maybury Park News," and told her where she could find it in the newspaper.

Her response was critical yet noteworthy.

She said she missed it because it looks "too much like an advertisement."

Perhaps she's right, and I'll make sure I mention that to editor Lee Snider.

To the caller, thanks for the comments, and to the readers, yes, the park is open and information regarding any and all programs can be obtained by calling the park office at 349-8390.

WE'D APPRECIATE HEARING FROM YOU: If you have a submission for Northville Talk of the Week, please contact Bob Jackson at 349-1700.

The deadline is noon on Monday of each week.

Any submission coming in after the deadline will be used in the next week's column.

Should you want to mail in your submission, please address it to Bob Jackson, Northville Talk of the Week, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, 48167.

You can also fax in your submission by calling 349-1050.

Mill Race Matters

On Tuesday, July 4, Mill Race Village will celebrate an old-fashioned Fourth of July.

Festivities begin when the parade in town ends (about 11:15 a.m.). All buildings will be open for viewing, a number of reenactors will be on hand to demonstrate and entertain. There will be a bake sale while homemade goods last. Members are asked to drop off donations Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m., or Monday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Members plan to participate in the parade. Meet at Mill Race at 9 a.m. in costume to take part. Everyone is welcome. The theme for this year's parade is "Freedom Alive in '95."

As usual the Village will be open on Sunday, July 2, from 1 until 4 p.m. Thereafter all buildings will be open on summer Sundays until late October. Docents are always needed to help keep all buildings open. Call 348-1845 if you would like to help.

On Wednesday, July 12, Country Garden Club of Northville holds its second annual Garden Walk which features six private gardens in the community as well as the gardens at Mill Race Village.

Tickets can be obtained from the Northville Chamber of Commerce or Bookstall on the Main for $7. The cost on the day of the walk is $8 and tickets can be obtained at Mill Race. In addition to the Mill Race gardens, buildings in the village will also be open for viewing.

Northville has been a town for parades almost since its inception. As early as 1875 The Northville Record reported on Memorial Day festivities. Again in 1877 a parade marked that holiday. The village began celebrating Decoration Day, now Memorial Day, just after the conclusion of the Civil War when the holiday began. Parades seem always to have been part of the celebration.

July Fourth festivities may have an even longer tradition in this community.

Many years ago a history of the community prepared by an eighth grade class contended that "Fourth of July celebrations have drawn interest ever since Northville was established. They lasted all day with baseball early in the day and fireworks after dark. The event has always drawn considerable interest and been thoroughly successful."

In 1877 and 1879 The Record recorded highlights of the long day. For the past 20 years the morning parade has been followed by the afternoon traditional picnic at Mill Race Village. Until recently the day was capped with fireworks.

Several years ago drought forced fireworks curtailment and thereafter they have been prohibited by cost. But this year will be different, with a display planned for 10 p.m. at Six Mile and Napier.

With or without fireworks this community's enthusiasm for this truly American holiday has not dimmed throughout the years.

Trustees vote to keep SMART bus service

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Dial-A-Ride is alive and well in Northville Township despite fears earlier this year that it might be no more.

Members of the Northville Township Board of Trustees at their June 22 meeting approved the allocation of $13,275 in SMART money for Dial-A-Ride services in the coming year.

SMART stands for Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation, a cooperative public transportation system funded by Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties.

The agency serves 31,000 general public bus riders and an additional 20,000 senior and handicapped individuals through a paratransport program that includes subsidized taxi rides that are just a phone call away.

SMART has hit rocky financial times in recent years, however, and last year labored under an operating budget deficit of $16 million. To eliminate it SMART officials this spring asked voters in a special election to create a new transit authority in each county to handle public transportation: the Wayne County Transit Authority (WCTA) in Northville Township's case.

The new authority would adopt SMART's debt so voters were also asked to approve a 0.33 mill tax levy for each of the next three years to eliminate the red ink.

Both requests passed in all three counties despite the fact that a slew of communities, Northville Township among them, decided to "opt out" of holding the election because they didn't support the plan.

SMART officials issued veiled threats before the election that opt-out communities would see their bus and Dial-A-Ride services discontinued. That brought counter threats of potential lawsuits against the agency.

SMART, however, ended up not withholding any money or services, which clears the way for the township's share of Dial-A-Ride dollars to go to the City of Livonia, which administers the program it participates in.

Man guilty of making threats at workers

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Detroit teenager who made death threats in Northville Township Hall two months ago was convicted of the charge last week.

DeAndre Siebert, 17, was accused of threatening to shoot several people, some of them township employees, at Township Hall on April 27. Siebert denied making the threats but admitted to making some angry comments after his mother, arrested the day before for shoplifting, told him township police had mistreated her.

Township officers arrested Siebert minutes after the alleged threats were made. They did not find a gun on him or in the vehicle he was riding in.

The teen failed to appear for a May 12 preliminary hearing at 35th District Court. That led to a warrant for his arrest. On May 23 Siebert surrendered to court officials and no charges were filed in connection with his failure to appear.

On Friday Siebert pled guilty to a single charge of misdemeanor assault. He is scheduled to be sentenced on that charge on July 20.

He faces up to 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine for the conviction.

Municipal workers to vote on union

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

"Look for the union label..."

The old song is apropos for Northville Township, which is soon likely to see yet another union formed among its municipal employees.

Teamsters Local 214, headquartered in Detroit, submitted a petition for election to township officials last Monday. The election will involve 10 township employees and will determine if they want to form a collective bargaining unit with the Teamsters acting as their contract negotiator.

Under guidelines established by the U.S. Department of Labor an election must be held when 30 percent or more of employees within a proposed bargaining unit request it.

The President of Teamsters 214, Joe Valenti, who Teamsters officials confirm is handling the election, was unavailable for comment.

The 10 workers comprise all full-time and regular part-time employees of the Building, Planning and Water & Sewer Departments, including the three administrative department heads. All of those asked declined to comment on the situation.

Township Manager Tamara Hanlin, who negotiates labor contracts on behalf of the township, said that no date for the election has been set.

If it succeeds it will mean that the last township employees outside of the fire department will be unionized. It is the first time, however, that department heads will have taken part in the process.

Committee suggests schools ask voters for millage increase

If the board approves the recommendation to bring the issues to a vote and voters approve the requests, Northville homeowners would see hundreds of dollars added to their tax bills.

Currently, residents pay on 10.3 mills for the schools - 6 mills to the state for general operating expenses, which in turn goes back to the schools in a per-pupil funding base, and 4.3 mills toward debt retirement.

If passed, the combined bond issue and enhancement millage could add up to 4.5 mills - 1.95 mills for enhancement and 2 to 2.5 mills for the bonds - for a total of 14.8 mills being assessed each household.

The numbers translate into an additional $450 for a home with a sale value of $200,000 - which equals an assessed value of $100,000.

Moroski-Browne applauded the district's "sound fiscal management," and the continued focus on quality education and student achievement. "However, significant community growth and statewide school finance reform place the district in a period of financial uncertainty," she said.

The 20-member enhancement committee met 18 separate times within the past seven months and worked closely with the district's Technology and Bond committees. According to district superintendent Leonard Rezmierski, the "weaving" of ideas provided the enhancement committee with a full perspective on the issues of enhancement and the impact that would be realized in different areas.

"Although the rules may be changing, we are planning to go the distance, no matter how difficult the road ahead may seem," Rezmierski said.

According to the committee's final report, voter approval of a 1.95 enhancement millage would yield the district approximately $3.5 million over a two year period. Moroski-Browne told board trustees that the funds would be used over a five year period and would be earmarked for specific enhancements such as:

- Technology software, technology training and technology staff - $2.4 million over five years.
- Reserved fund balance for costs of school openings and unanticipated expenses or loss of state revenues - $1.1 million.

The committee also recommended that the board endorse the recommendations of the Bond Committee, which will ask voters to approve a bond millage for approximately $56 million. The bond funds, Moroski-Browne reminded board members would also be earmarked for specific needs:

- Construction of a new high school - $42 million.
- Renovation of the current high school to house a new middle school, and expansion of Silver Springs Elementary School - $3.2 million.
- Purchase of technology hardware - $5 million.
- Provide improvements to the infrastructure - $6.1 million.

"This committee is strongly committed to our findings that these investments are critical to meet the future needs of students and the community," Moroski-Browne said. "These initiatives will help insulate the district from anticipated state financial crisis and

If passed, the combined bond issue and enhancement millage could add about five mills - two mills for bond debt retirement and three operating mills for the next two years provide students with an educational environment and the skills necessary for success in the 21st century."

Although the investments are "fiscally prudent," according to Board President Robert McMahon, gaining community support will not be easy.

"It's going to be a difficult sell to the community. We have to be able to demonstrate the need, and that is going to take a lot of work," he said. "The community needs to know that this district needs the enhancement and bond millage if we are going to provide the type of excellence in education that we are used to enjoying."

Moroski-Browne said that a successful enhancement millage and bond vote will require that the community receives full information on the critical need for the financial investments; why the needs would not be met through annual operating revenues; and most importantly the "precarious nature" of the state's financial commitment to fund public education in Northville.

Board Treasurer Joan Wadsworth treasured if the district had a sufficient amount of time to mount a successful public relations campaign, bringing the issue to the community.

"I think that in our study session we should look at the characteristics of other successful millage campaigns," she said. "We've got some real challenges in providing all of the pertinent information to the community."

New budget includes 6.4% revenue hike

"Then the state supreme court ruled that the advanced refunding of retiree medical costs would have to be funded. This led to the question of who would fund the cost, which could be as high as $950,000 for Northville."

The supreme court has recently agreed to rehear arguments on the refunding issue, Street added.

Further confusing the issue, Street explained, was the matter of $139.5 million that was appropriated from previous prefundings for the 1994-95 fiscal year.

"First, the district was going to have its June 1995 state aid reduced by $473,000, then it was not," Street added. "After several yes/no communications, the state decided to fully fund the June payment from the scheduled September 1995 payment."

That left the 1994-95 year unscathed, Street said, but puts the 1995-96 budget in a more "tenuous position," with no projected resolution until after school is under way in the fall.

What all of this means for the district, according to board treasurer Joan Wadsworth, is that continued good management - and a little bit of luck mixed in - will keep the district in good shape.

"When we look at what has happened this past year, I think it is extremely necessary for us to develop a contingency plan to protect the financial future of this district," Wadsworth said.

"Given the uncertainty in Lansing we can only afford to add the 11 new teachers to the budget. We shouldn't, at this time, be looking to add any additional items."

Street said the budget being offered accommodates student growth with the addition of the new teachers. He also reported that the district is somewhat insulated from a "severe financial crisis" by the fund balance that has accumulated in recent years.

"In the considerations given this budget it was recognized that this is at best a stop-gap measure and that it would be unwise to drain these savings in a year or two to address a long-term problem," Street said.

"For that reason the finance subcommittee has made a study of contingency plans a priority soon after the beginning of the year," he added.

Township reorganization considered

memo outlining the idea were shown to members of the board during a June 15 closed session "but it was decided that this was not the appropriate place to discuss it," Hanlin said.

The issue was then dropped, she added, and hasn't been discussed since.

The manager said she doesn't know when it will be taken up again.

"It's just nowhere at this point," Hanlin said.

A copy of the memo was mailed anonymously to The Northville Record last week.

The single page document asserts that privatizing the planning department, the first phase in the reorganization, would mean a "significant" cost savings to the township.

It would also presumably mean that Carol Maisie, head of the planning department, would be out of a job. Hanlin, however, declined to comment on how the proposal might affect township staffing.

The second step, the memo continued, would be to place the building department under the Public Utilities Department, requiring Chief Building Official Mick Kruzewski to report to the Director of Public Utilities.

The proposal aims at two objectives, Hanlin said Monday. The first is saving money through more efficient government.

"It's always my intention to improve the efficiency of this organization," Hanlin said.

The second, she added, is to "de-politicize" Township Hall.

"I think the position is too political," Hanlin said, declining to elaborate.

A related reorganization issue, the memo adds, would be a complete revision of the township's personnel manual.

The document proposed having the township's attorney firm compose a new manual "which would pay for itself."

Hanlin in the memo asked the board for permission to work on the proposal through the summer, presenting the final details and costs to the trustees by September.

Ward proposal gets recommendation from planners

Tuesday's meeting was largely spent clarifying a series of issues about the plan, getting more specific details in some cases and just making sure that both sides agree to what's been proposed in others.

The commission made several details of the plan into conditions of their approval. The biggest one could drive the board to vote on the Ward concept proposal soon.

Ward and the developer involved in the commercial center have offered to help pay for the widening of Six Mile for 2,000 feet west of Haggerty, the stretch that borders their property. Wayne County officials say they can obtain federal grant monies to pay for most of the $750,000 project if the township can come up with a local match of $150,000.

The church and developer Gary Sakwa have offered to kick in the entire amount if the Ward plan is approved. But Wayne County needs an answer from the township by Aug. 11, and that may force the trustees' hand.

If the board approves the concept plan Ward and Sakwa must then go back to the planning commission for a review of their site plan design, a process which includes a public hearing. If the trustees reject it the whole process could move back to square one.

Beating the heat takes a little doing

The first official day of summer was June 21, but warm temperatures and high humidity arrived in the State of Michigan several days ago.

To keep cool during summer months, Consumers Power Company offers these energy-saving tips:

- Operate stoves, ovens, dishwashers and clothes dryers in the morning or evening when it's cooler outside. These appliances add extra heat to the home and make air conditioners work harder.

- Avoid opening the refrigerator or freezer door unnecessarily to prevent cold air from escaping and energy costs from rising.

- To maximize cooling, close registers in unused areas.

- Set the air conditioner thermostat at 78 degrees during the day when you're home and even higher when you're away. An automatic thermostat will ensure energy savings.

- When shopping for an air conditioner, make certain the unit is the appropriate size. Buy an air conditioner with a higher energy efficiency ratio (EER) for maximum savings. A unit with an EER of 10 will cost half as much to operate as one with an EER of five.

- Eliminate or reduce air conditioning needs by installing an attic fan. Ceiling fans will cost even less. A room air conditioner that's on for eight hours costs about $1.68, compared to a ceiling fan at three cents.

"Practicing these energy tips will increase your comfort factor and maximize your energy dollar," said Steven L. Ray, energy delivery manager for electric distribution. "An energy-efficient household will help you to reduce your use and beat the heat."

Hotline helps in battle against abuse

Spousal abuse has life-long effects on children that can lead to violence in future relationships, even when the child is not the one being physically hurt, according to David Kurtz, Ph.D., Director of the Childhelp/IOF Foresters Child Abuse Hotline.
 "In the past, child abuse and domestic violence have been treated as separate issues," states Kurtz. "We are increasingly aware from our work on the hotline that the two phenomenons are related. More often than not we are talking about two different sides of the same coin."
 A recent study by the U.S. Advisory Board on Child Abuse and Neglect confirms that 50 percent of homes with domestic violence also involve child abuse.
 Kurtz states that child abuse and domestic violence are inter-generational, which means they are passed on from generation to generation.
 "Violence becomes a legitimate way to deal with conflict. Love and violence become linked. The children believe that if you love someone, it's OK to hit them," said Kurtz.
 The emotional impact of family violence can be more traumatic to children than experiencing divorce. He gives the example of a young girl who called the hotline to report sexual abuse by her father. When the crisis counselor asked if the girl's mother could be used as her ally, the girl stated that the father regularly beat her mother. In fact, the father would often make the kids witness the beatings. Together, the counselor and the girl called child protective services for help.

Kurtz offered tips on how to spot a potential violent relationship and how to stop the abuse before it starts:
 • At some point in the relationship there will be a conflict and it will usually end with a low level of violence such as a push or a slap.
 • Don't downplay mistreatment. "He said he was sorry," is not good enough.
 • Challenge the push or slap. If not challenged it legitimizes violence as a way to resolve conflict.
 • Understand that over time, the violence will increase in frequency and severity.
 • Set limits that this behavior won't be tolerated. Use comments such as, "I believe that you're sorry, but I need more than words. I need actions to prove you won't hurt me again."
 • Realize that taking a stand early in the relationship is easier said than done.
 Kurtz added that while these tips may sound simple, they challenge a lifetime of values and assumptions about what is permissible in a relationship.
 For more information or help with child abuse, call the Childhelp IOF Foresters Child Abuse Hotline, 1-800-4-A-CHILD.

Parades, patriots, pyrotechnics headline '95 Fourth of July

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

The Northville community is throwing America a huge birthday party and everyone's invited.

There will be bands, marchers, classic cars, a concert, games, music and more.

A day-long series of events will begin with a colorful parade through the downtown. The action will then shift to the Main/Griswold area, move on to the township for an outdoor concert and culminate in a spectacular fireworks display.

Those planning to make a day of it can enjoy a series of events scheduled back-to-back. Hardly will one activity come to an end than another will get under way.

"We're really excited about how everything turned out," said Karen Woodside, chairperson of the newly formed organizing committee, Celebrate Northville. "Everything is going as planned."

According to Woodside, some 90 units have been entered in the parade, with the usual complement of marchers, clowns, novelty automobiles and dignitaries taking part. The parade begins at 10 a.m. at Northville Downs and loops through the downtown before heading back to its starting point at the race track.

New this year will be a Classic Jaguar show on the grounds of the R&D plant at Main and Griswold and a music concert in Henningsen Park in Northville Township.

And, for the first time since 1991, a fireworks exhibit, always a popular favorite, will be staged.

"It'll be modest but I'm sure everyone will enjoy it," Woodside said of the display. "Everybody's really happy about the fireworks coming back."

Woodside said early this week that the committee was closing in on its fundraising goal of $16,300 to finance the day's activities. Of that amount, $10,000 was earmarked specifically for the fireworks.

Here is a rundown of the Independence Day highlights:

• Pre-parade activities: The Royal Arch Masons of Northville will hold an all-you-can-eat breakfast at the Masonic Temple from 6:30-10 a.m. Hungry revelers can feast on scrambled eggs, hash browns, pancakes, ham, orange juice, and beverages. The cost is $3.50 for adults, $2 for children under 12. The Temple is located at 106 E. Main.

For the second consecutive year, the Flying Aces Pro Frisbee Team will perform a saucer tosser act at the Main Street clock from 9-9:50 a.m.

• Parade: Marching bands, clowns, show cars, fire trucks, floats and equestrian units will parade through downtown Northville in an hour-long procession beginning at 10 a.m. Thirteen World War II-era veterans will move through the parade route in Ron Bodnar's authentic trooper carrier, as the community celebrates "Freedom Alive in '95, A Stars and Stripes Tribute to the Men and Women Who Fought to Defend Our Freedom 50 Years Ago."

Pet and bike parade segments will take place within the larger parade.

• Mill Race Village: Mill Race, Northville's Historical Village, will be open for tours from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. and will host a series of special activities, including demonstrations by a blacksmith, basket weavers, rug hookers and cottage weavers.

The 21st Michigan Infantry and 17th Michigan Infantry will conduct Civil War reenactments, and a children's program will include songs by Julie Fountain and a strolling ventriloquist. A magician, Ming the Magnificent, will also perform.

• Classic Jaguar Auto Show: The Jaguar Affiliates Group of Michigan will display several classic Jaguars on the grounds of the old Ford Valve Plant, now owned by R&D Enterprises, from noon-3 p.m.

A ballot box will be available for voting on "best of show," and a trophy presentation will follow at 3:30 p.m. Cars will compete in five different categories, and awards will be given out for first, second and third place finishers in each class.

• Pre-fireworks Concert: The Schoolcraft Community Wind Ensemble, conducted by Jim Nissen, will perform marches and patriotic songs by John Phillip Sousa at Henningsen Park, located behind Northville Township Hall, 41600 W. Six Mile.

Also scheduled is the debut performance of a special work entitled "Northville Summer of 1995," with lyrics by poet Kathleen Ripley Leo and music by Nissen.

A portable stage will be used for the performers. Bring a blanket or lawn chairs for seating.

The Ensemble is a 45-piece orchestra featuring wind and percussion instruments. The band rehearses at Schoolcraft under the direction of Nissen, an adjunct professor at the school, but is actually composed of adult members of the Metro-area community.

In addition to his involvement at Schoolcraft, Nissen is a faculty member at the University of Michigan-Dearborn and is a one-time Fulbright scholar.

• Fireworks: A stunning display of fireworks will be set off on the grounds of the BFI Arbor Hills Center for Resource Management, Six Mile at Napier.

Showtime is dusk or roughly 10 p.m.

Parking will be available at a site on the east side of Napier south of Six Mile. Enter through a gateway off Napier. Some parking will also be available on the shoulder of Napier Road.

A short walk down a mowed walk path leads to the grassy area for spectator seating. Don't mistake the hill on the southwest corner of the intersection for the staging grounds. The fireworks will be set off north of Six Mile.

The staging grounds for the fireworks is a recessed area, called the "rodeo pit." Only authorized personnel will be allowed into the pit area. Spectators will sit on a natural berm surrounding the grounds.

Bring lawn chairs or blankets for seating.

Overflow viewing is available on a raised area south of Six Mile.

Northville Township police will head up the public safety duties, along with members of the Northville City and Washtenaw County departments.

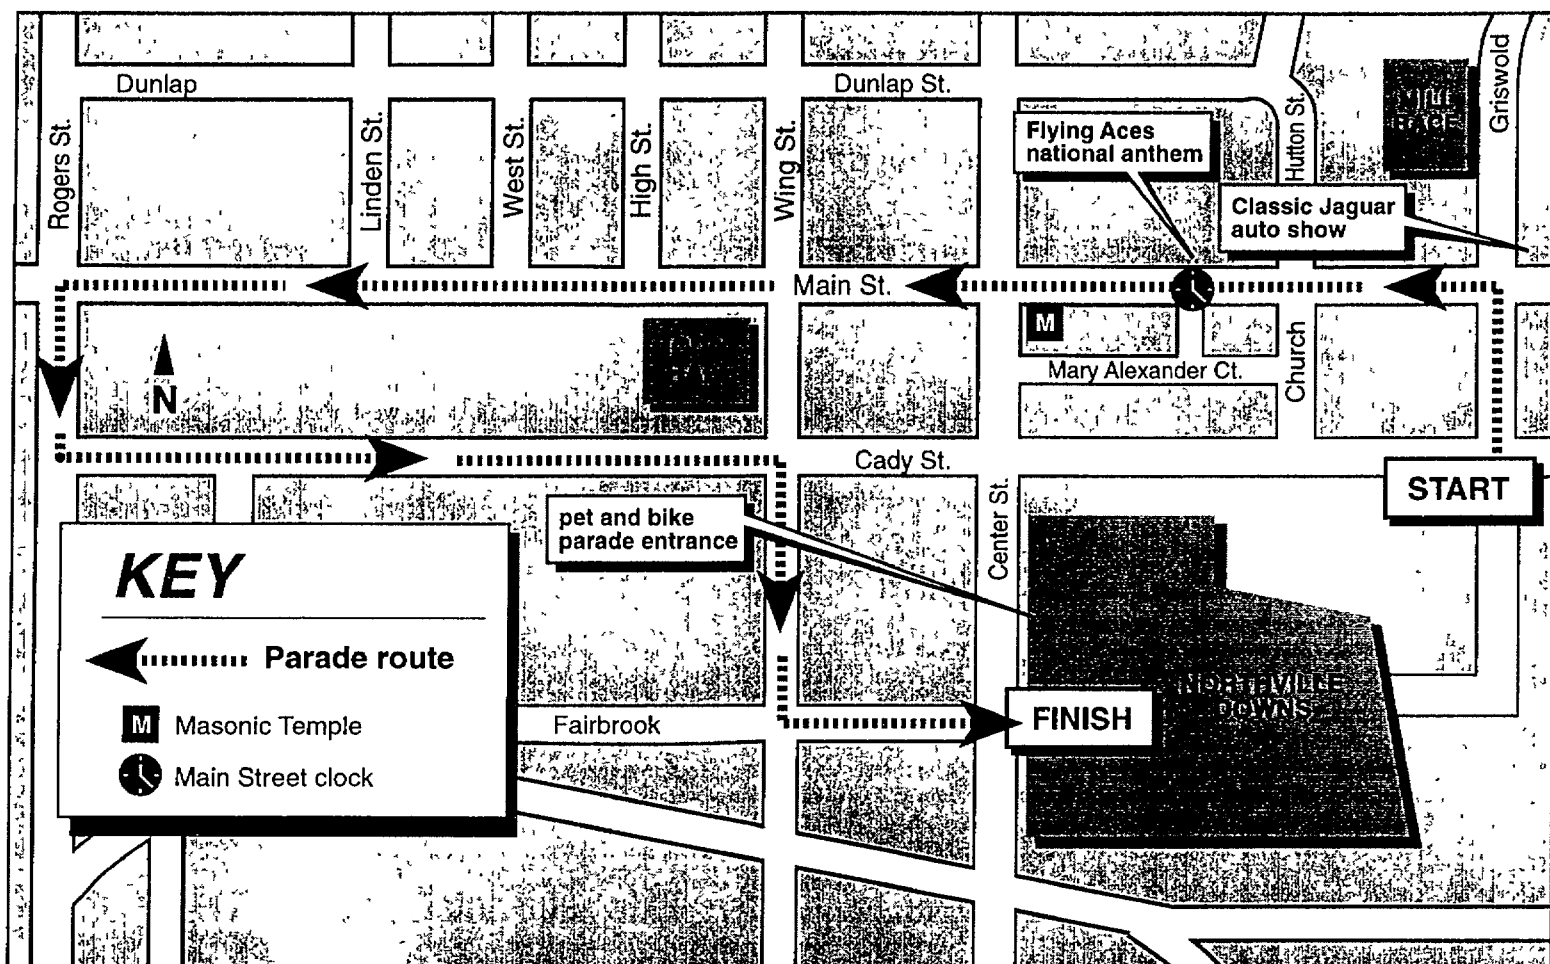

Porta Johns will be set up on Six Mile.

"BFI has been wonderful with the amount of work they've put into this," Woodside said. "This would not have been possible without their support."

The Northville Fourth of July parade has been a favorite with audiences for years and draws hundreds of people into the city. Top, members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars advance the colors down Main Street, while, below, a young parade participant clutches Old Glory and waves to spectators along the route.

Neighboring school district gets go ahead for bond vote

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The State Department of Education has given Novi Schools a tentative green light to proceed with its $33 million bond election on Sept. 23.

School district officials received preliminary approval of the concept plan from the state department last week, but will seek final approval of the bond certification application this week now that the Board of Education has approved the concept and its $33.345 million price tag.

Board approval came Thursday night with a 6-0 vote from the board table.

Two-thirds of the total cost of the project will be spent to design and build a new middle school for seventh and eighth grade students. The remaining bond money will be used to renovate Novi Middle School and Novi Meadows for fifth and sixth graders and kindergarten through fourth grades, respectively.

Superintendent Emmett Lippe presented the bond sale for approval Thursday and said it was imperative the board approve it as soon as possible because there appears to be an increase in demand for bond approval at the state level.

"We need to move to election as soon as possible because there are 60 other applications before the state now," he said.

Interest rates are also at an all time low making the timing for the bond project more economically feasible for Novi school voters than ever, Lippe said.

James Koster, assistant superintendent of finance and administrative services, said the bond application is based on current interest rates of 6.5 percent, but rates could drop as low as 5.75 percent before voters are asked to pay the bill for the two-fold construction project.

As the interest rates drop, Koster said, millage rates will follow suit.

A year ago, district officials presented a similar building project to voters which the electorate rejected at the Dec. 13 polls. At that time the costs were about the same but it would have cost the district residents approximately two mills to get the project accomplished.

Today, a project of the same scale could cost significantly less — as little as .97 of a mill — if interest rates continue to drop, Koster said.

"It's a favorable time for us to do this," Lippe said.

Board members have discussed the revised bond proposal several times since the results of the Community Survey indicated a majority of voters surveyed would support the initiative as long as the fourth graders remained seated in the elementary schools. Lippe presented the revised plan two months ago along with a proposed timetable to get the issue to the ballot by Sept. 23. To do so, the board needs final state approval 90 days prior to the election date.

That deadline is nearing.

Board Trustee John Streit was concerned Thursday that the district needed to get the word out on the street that the election was coming.

"I'm concerned about getting the message out to the community," he said.

"We need to assure residents we are under a timing constraint and we are doing what they wanted us to do according to the results of the survey."

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.
OFF-THE-CUFF REMARKS

New research from England indicates that physical therapy and supervised exercise may be as effective as surgery for the treatment of rotator cuff injury. The study showed that each treatment diminished the pain from swollen tendons, as well as improved range of motion and function in the affected shoulders. Surgery accomplishes this by creating room for completely inflamed tendons. On the other hand, supervised resistance exercise serves to prevent rubbing and impingement that causes shoulder pain in rotator-cuff injuries by strengthening tendons and muscles so that pressure may be taken off the shoulder joint. In light of these findings, physical therapy should be considered as the first step in the treatment of rotator-cuff injuries.

A Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., our therapists specialize in returning patients to their highest level of function. Patients are instructed in adaptive methods and home exercises that focus on improving muscle strength, function, and coordination. Individualized treatment programs are outlined for a variety of patient problems including sports and orthopedic injuries as well as neurological disorders such as stroke and traumatic brain injuries. To schedule an appointment, call 349-3816. We are located at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

P.S. The rotator-cuff is a group of muscles and tendons that surround the ball of the shoulder joint, providing the shoulder with motion and stability.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Is governor singing swan song for tracks?

An effort to revitalize the state's floundering horse racing industry never had a chance to get out of the starting gate following Gov. Engler's announcement opposing the expansion of gambling in Michigan.

There should have been little surprise at Engler's decision. As early as last year, the governor publicly acknowledged he opposed casino gambling. And as far as the horse racing industry is concerned, yesterday's ruling was another nail in the coffin that the industry has been trying to avoid for years.

"It may not be possible to save that industry," Engler said.

This time maybe — just maybe — the governor is right, and his decision opposing electronic gaming at the tracks would be partly responsible for the industry's demise.

Attendance at Northville Downs, Ladbrooke DRC, and other Michigan tracks has been on the decline for years, and it might now be time to face a grim reality — a good percentage of the people in our state aren't interested in betting on the horses anymore.

"I suggested to (racetrack officials) the removal of the onerous tax burden. Their answer was that that was not enough," Engler said.

Yes, perhaps the governor could remove all, or a portion of, the tax the state collects from the tracks — a percentage of which finds its way into the city's coffers — but this measure wouldn't stop the bleeding. Even if tracks didn't pay a dime to the state, most would continue in decline. That's yet another sign the industry may no longer be viable.

How does this effect Northville? Well, beginning this year, the city no longer includes in its budget the funds it receives from the state tax on horse racing.

The city has done this because a few years back the state became stingy with those funds, causing Northville to take cost cutting measures.

Sadly, it looks like officials made a wise move in weaning the city away from reliance on race track dollars.

"I strongly support simulcasting and off track betting," Engler said.

This is the governor's way of throwing table scraps to the dogs. In reality simulcasting probably isn't going to offer the industry much relief. One would have to ask the question: if attendance is declining at race tracks because interest in racing is fading, how can you expect to generate interest by offering more races?

About the only advantage to this is that the state would allow for more race dates, but is that going to be enough to save Michigan tracks?

Probably not.

And that is sad, because Northville Downs is one of the many unique features that define our community. Its relationship with this city has been more than friendly for the 52 years of the track's existence. Most city officials will tell you that the Downs has been a loyal and contributing community member, and that we should extend a hand to help our neighbor.

We would urge the community to support them with their efforts. Unfortunately, though, that may be the only thing we can do.

Gaming machines probably would have helped the track remain in a competitive posture and the governor, we believe, was shortsighted in refusing to recognize this benefit.

Approximately 40,000 jobs statewide are tied to the industry, and, at last count, Northville received some $750,000 in property and state taxes from the Downs.

That revenue source would be hard to replace.

It's premature to declare horse racing completely dead but the trend is apparent and the diagnosis isn't good.

We hope we never see the day when we have to think that, where the track was concerned, we didn't realize what we had till it was gone.

Art and the unknown outdoors

I can think of a lot of other things to call Art in the Sun.

Art in the Heat, Art in the Electrical Storm, Art in the Unbearable Humidity.

Maybe event organizers should just face the fact that we live in changeable Michigan and call it Art in Whatever Weather We Get.

It was a sweltering two days that played host to the annual arts and crafts show over the weekend. The oppressive heat continued its stranglehold on the area, while a downpour trimmed an hour off the fair Saturday afternoon, forcing exhibitors to pack up their wares and draw the tent strings tight at 4, rather than 5 p.m. as planned.

We certainly needed the rain — just not then.

But if Art in the Sun failed to live up to its name, it managed to live up to its billing.

Scores of artsy, creative types displayed and sold their handmade items, and everything from swimwear to mantel clocks was available.

Entertainers made their way throughout the crowd and the aroma of gotta-have foods filled the downtown streets and sidewalks.

I myself bought a birdhouse and an Italian sausage sandwich at the fair. The former pleased my mother and the latter pleased my palate.

Anyway, I haven't heard any figures from anyone but it looked like the turnout was respectable both Saturday and Sunday.

But thinking late June is a safe time to expect cloudless skies and mild temperatures is a little like calculating your trip costs based on the price of gas six months before leaving. You might get a reliable read, but you're smart to make plans for a contingency day at home with a pitcher of iced tea and the latest Tom Clancy installment.

Big plans for a Tuesday

Speaking of outdoor events, how 'bout those plans for the fourth?

Karen Woodside and the new-this-year Celebrate Northville Committee have really succeeded in planning out a great menu of happenings for next Tuesday.

In addition to the usual (and great) fare like the parade and the activities at Mill Race, they've got a Jaguar show, a concert by the Schoolcraft Community Winds and a fireworks exhibit on tap.

I was panicked when the tireless Debbie McDonald decided not to continue acting as a one-person organizing committee earlier this year, but this new crew really rose to the occasion.

See 'ya everywhere around town next week.

Celebrate the day but honor the sacrifice

Two hundred and nineteen years ago in Philadelphia, a small group of representatives met under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin and John Adams to create a document that ended foreign rule in the colonies and began democracy in the New World.

The rest, as they say, is history. Our history.

And it got started to ensure freedom, justice and equality for all who lived here. Thanks to our brave forefathers and everyone who has fought and died to keep their dream alive, this is the greatest country in the world.

Make no mistake about it, our founding fathers paid dearly for bringing the United States into being. When they committed their names to the Declaration of Independence, they committed themselves and their families to lives of hardship.

Of the 56 signers:

- Five were captured or imprisoned with brutal treatment.
- Nine died of wounds.
- Twelve had their homes burned down and 17 lost everything they owned.
- Many had wives and children who were killed, jailed, mistreated, persecuted or left penniless.
- At one time or another, most were barred from their families.

• Each was named a traitor and nearly everyone was driven into flight and hunted.

• Most were offered immunity, freedom, rewards, or the freedom of loved ones to break their pledged word, but not one defected or renounced his stand, even through his darkest hour.

The Fourth of July is when we should reflect on the hard times our nation suffered to win the rights and freedoms we enjoy today. Since our hard-fought inception, millions of Americans have gone to war to protect and ensure these privileges.

As citizens of this great country, we owe it to generations too young to remember — and generations not yet born — to pass along the significance of July 4th. We owe it to them to pass along the reverence we have held and will always hold for our courageous forefathers who were responsible for today's birthday celebration.

We give profound thanks to all the steadfast, loyal and self-sacrificing servicemen and women whose contributions on behalf of the United States were responsible for making it and keeping it the greatest country in the world.

God bless them all and God bless America.

Life's all a matter of balance

Managing Editor Mike Malott jumps 4,000 feet out of an airplane and lands on the ground without a scratch.

I flip less than a foot into the air and loose more skin that I care to think about.

The difference is all in the technique.

For Malott, drifting aimlessly through mid-air comes naturally.

For me, falling flat on my face, ripping my knee and elbow to shreds, in front of my four-year-old takes talent and a real will to provide cheap entertainment.

Fellow reporter Jan Jeffres says Malott just has more coordination.

I doubt that.

But there must some truth to it somewhere because Malott is strutting around the office as if he never even endangered his own life.

I on the other hand am hobbling around on one foot, with caked blood and white puss spewing from my knee and elbow, and trying to avoid being a feed bag for every fly, and cotton ball in town.

My gluteus maximus is still sore from the tetanus shot the doctor gave me after ripping me up one side and down the other for not wearing knee and elbow pads when I was rollerblading last Saturday.

It's humiliating. And totally degrading when you take a fall of that severity with the grace of a buffoon and your four-year-old takes one look at you and says 'you should have worn knee pads, Mom.'

Worse yet. Try explaining the whole thing to a standing-room only crowd at a weekend family get-together where most of the guests are under age nine and more coordinated on their skates than you'll ever be.

It was a healthy dose of humiliation. I tried to tell people I passed on the street who stare at it and make ghoulish faces that I cut my self shaving. But they don't buy it.

They know. Everyone knows. A perfect stranger asked me Monday evening if I did it biking or blading. I didn't even dignify her with a response. I just ordered a Bud-Light and kept my mouth shut and my leg elevated. She knew.

You can't run. You can't hide. There's no escaping the looks, the stares, the giggles.

And then there's Butler. He just looks and bursts out laughing.

When did people get so insensitive.

When did I get so stupid?

I think it comes with age. They say wisdom comes with age, but then why would Malott jump out of an airplane at his age?

Really, I find it really ironic I never even as much stubbed a toe when I was blading before I turned 30. But then again Saturday was the first time I mounted my skates after 30 and shhhhaaaabooooommm. It hit me before I even knew it was coming. I picked up speed and took off out of control. I screamed for help but there was nothing anyone could do and I knew it. I know now what it feels like to be road kill. I know what it looks like, too.

I'm just thankful. It could have been worse, it could have been my head.

But then again I wasn't using it when I left the house that day.

What happened to vow of openness?

The entire Northville Township Board of Trustees ran for election with the vow to have an open relationship with the citizens of the township.

At the last two trustees' meetings, it has been necessary for a member of the audience to interrupt the adjournment process to request permission to speak since there was no agenda item to allow the public to express concerns directly to the board.

To their credit, six members did permit a last minute change to let the public speak. Both times Trustee Britton voted not to let the public be heard.

The trustees need to establish a policy to provide a place on the agenda at each open meeting for the public to express their concerns. This policy should apply to regular and special meetings or study sessions because if trustees' action is required, then by definition it affects public affairs.

For starters they might follow the procedure used by the Planning Commission where the public is given an opportunity to speak early on the agenda and again just at the close.

Open courts to TV scrutiny

To the Editor:

A recent TV program ("Day One") showed that a bribe, especially one of high dollar value, often sets free those who are financially able to meet the greed and price of the bribe.

In the O.J. Simpson case - which seems to drag on inter-minably - the matter of race, and/or the prominence of the defendant, may provide opportunities for justice to be compromised or unfairly determined.

Solution: Appointment of a three-judge panel to decide the innocence or guilt of a person accused of a capital crime, said trial to be subjected to public scrutiny via television.

Bottle and can response terrific

To the Editor:

Troop No. 798 put on a can and bottle drive in May. It turned out to be a wonderful success.

We would like to thank all of the people in Northville that took their time to collect and donate all of their cans and bottles.

From just their support, our troop of 15 girls is going to have a blast on our big Toronto trip.

A peaceful and quiet city

To the Editor:

Northville is a peaceful city in Michigan.

On Main Street, there are many cute little shops in a row. The shops are always decorated for the holidays.

Sometimes the streets are closed off and the shops have small outside bazaars with sweet candy and fresh popcorn.

Nearby runs a tiny spring where you can get fresh spring water.

Northville is usually peaceful and calm so it is quite pleasant. Everybody should be able to visit Northville.

Protect children from injuries

To the Editor:

Last year, I began working at the Northville law firm of Simkins and Simkins. The firm specializes in representing individuals with all types of personal injuries and a majority of the cases involve traumatic brain injury.

In the 11 months that I have been with the firm, I have met many individuals with traumatic brain injuries and have seen how dramatically their lives have been altered as a result of their injury. Many of these injuries are the result of automobile accidents or through participation in sporting events without the protection of the helmet.

Helmets are worn by bicyclists, skateboarders, rollerbladers, horseback riders, skiers, and are required in some contact sports.

Lately, I have noticed many kids in the area riding their bicycles in the streets without the protection of helmets. Many are concerned with comfort and fashion. I am writing this letter to let people know that wearing a helmet is a fashion for life.

I have also recently seen two episodes of Rescue 911 regarding head injuries suffered in the absence of a helmet.

One was a story about an eight year old girl who was seriously injured when riding her bike and being struck by a vehicle. She was in a coma for some period of time. Because she was not wearing a helmet, her head absorbed the impact of the fall, thereby causing swelling of the brain.

The parents of this child had to deal with their guilt in permitting their child to ride without a helmet and they urged all parents to mandate the use of helmets.

The other episode concerned a teenage skateboarder who, despite reaching speeds of 60 miles per hour, did not use a helmet.

When he took a bad fall and was thrown, he hit his head and was knocked unconscious.

Statistics and studies have shown that many of the individuals who are not using helmets are, in fact, helmet owners. Because the parents and the children have not placed enough importance on the wearing of a helmet, the helmet is simply a dust gatherer.

Traumatic brain injury has many causes and the only known cure is prevention. Our firm, along with other organizations, including the Brain Injury Association (formerly the National Head Injury Foundation) and its State Chapter, the Michigan Head Injury Alliance, work hard to campaign for helmets.

It is imperative that these prevention campaigns continue and that helmets are ultimately mandated for all sports.

What is more important for society is that the emphasis on fashion be replaced with an emphasis on safety.

Ideology dominates state board

If you are still are complacent about the fate facing our public schools, a brief glance at the news reports of the State Board of Education's meeting last week should provide a wake-up call.

The board, now sporting a 5-3 conservative majority, clashed bitterly over a set of proposals for school reform that follows closely the famous dictum of the Vietnam War: "We had to destroy the village in order to save it."

The plan would redefine a school as any body providing primary and secondary education, thereby breaching the constitutional firewall between public and parochial schools. It would allow school districts to disregard state regulations, thereby eliminating state standards for teacher competence, curriculum and performance assessments. School aid would go directly to families, which would then pay tuition to whatever public school they choose for their children.

The logic behind this proposal - breathtaking in its sweep and radical scope - is simple: "The schools are bad because they are geographically based monopolies," controlled by the (evil) government. Schools have not improved - cannot be improved - because they are immune from competition and market forces.

The way to progress is easy, the argument goes. Erect a market economy for education. Give school aid to "customers" (parents and children) and free them to spend it in whatever school they wish. Make it as easy as possible to start new and "different" kinds of schools. Obliterate any state standards, such as core curriculum, uniform performance assessments or certification of teacher competency.

I calls 'em like I sees 'em: This is nothing less than a bunch of hard-right ideologues intent on revolutionizing the school system in Michigan and, in the process, willing to risk its destruction.

They don't care much for people who irritate them with common-sense questions.

How come, for example, poll after poll over the past 20 years indicates a large majority of parents are quite satisfied with their neighborhood schools? Is this evidence of public support for radical policies? I doubt it.

And, more importantly, what evidence is there that a pure market system is the only proper model on which to base educational policy for our children? I can take a pretty tough-minded approach when companies screw up and go out of business, but I'm not so sure that the educational fate of our children should be treated solely as the intersection of supply and demand curves.

Here's a worthwhile question for the State Board to consider at its next meeting at 8:30 a.m. July 19 in Lansing: Are there any existing models of how schools operating entirely in a market system really work?

I know a fair amount about one: the proprietary schools. They are the schools that teach truck driving and cosmetology. They're profit-making, run by the entrepreneurs the "right wing admires" so much. They market themselves to people who are poor, lack skills and are out of a job. Most of the revenue comes from the federal government - pell grants, job training programs. They are great feeders at the public trough.

Once again, I calls 'em like a sees 'em: Too often the proprietary schools are a scam.

I saw plenty of those babies when I was chair of the Michigan Job Training Council in the 1980s. We had to de-fund one bunch. They didn't teach what they claimed to and the jobs they promised never materialized. Another group would go out of business when we started asking questions and then re-emerge with a post office box address a few months later.

If the kind of market-driven school system the ideologues on the State Board of Education are pushing is anything like the proprietary schools, I don't want any part of it.

Maybe the few moderate members of the State Board could start asking some interesting questions before the meeting.

Court reform unlikely hot issue

The cat's out of the bag. The game's afoot! Play ball!

Tim Richard

Court reform, a long festering problem, is emerging in Michigan as a major issue, in the same ballpark with Wayne County reform in 1980 and school finance reform in 1993-4.

Let's define "court reform." It's a simplified structure - perhaps even a single trial court instead of circuit, recorder's, probate and district courts. It's the same revenue base for everyone - not state-paid courts in Detroit and locally-funded courts in the other 82 counties. It's administrative simplification.

Let's pull together what look like discrete events:

• Whyman - State Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, finally uncorked her common-sense bill to consolidate Wayne Circuit and Detroit Recorder's courts. The system is crazy, and always was.

Everywhere else in Michigan, circuit courts handle felony cases and major civil cases. In Wayne County, circuit court handles major civil cases, and 29 Detroit Recorder's judges, augmented by a handful (five) of circuit judges, handle felony cases.

To put it another way, Detroiters elect their judges and have half the votes to elect county-wide judges.

What's theirs is theirs, and half of ours is theirs. Naturally, the race batters in Detroit squawked that "they" are taking away Detroit's power. Bull.

• Geake - State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and a bipartisan crew of friends formally presented their plan to take Friend of the Court, which handles payments in our growing crop of divorce cases, away from the circuit judges and put it under general county government.

FOC is an administrative operation that doesn't belong under judges, who should be busy with judicial work. For some strange reason, circuit judges are the most pompous egomaniacs (look at the Oakland bench's annual report some time, with its fawning praise of every judge's every action) and don't want reform.

But the fact is that aggrieved men and women can't take their mounds of grievances with FOC to anyone. The Geake Team's plan makes sense.

• Kelley - Attorney General Frank Kelley gave the Geake plan backhanded support when he ruled that FOC chiefs are "employees" and "officers" of the court. That removes an imagined constitutional barrier to a reform.

• Brickley - After 12 years on the Supreme Court, James Brickley is chief justice. Brickley thinks in dynamic rather than static terms.

He studies major structural problems instead of tinkering around the edges with sandpaper.

As Lieutenant governor, Brickley was Gov. Bill Milliken's hammer in launching a charter chief executive in Wayne County. Brickley was active in school finance reform before most politicians.

As chief justice, Brickley holds a lot of levers. The Supreme Court's task force has recommended a single trial court as one option in reform. Brickley can be expected to push that option. He also will push the task force's recommendations for more centralized administration of courts and full state funding of trial courts.

• Mathieu - State Rep. Tom Mathieu, D-Grand Rapids, again is nagging the Legislature about state funding for the other 82 counties. Mathieu gets louder and louder every year. Bless him.

• Engler - Gov. John Engler last year made wise use of his veto power by threatening to block more judges for Oakland, western Wayne and Washtenaw counties until judicial operations are reformed.

• VanRegenmorter - Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Jenison, attending Geake's news conference, suggested that reforming the Friend of the Court is tied to reforming overall court structure.

The chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee also hinted, if I heard him correctly, that the money for full state funding of courts could come from what is now revenue sharing.

In other words, the state might quit sharing tens of millions with local governments in return for lifting the burden of court funding off the locals' backs.

The game's afoot! In bits and pieces, the debate over trial court reform has started.

With temperature and the humidity level vying for the top of the gauge, there are various ways to try to keep cool.

"Drink lots of Gatorade," said Jim Cerretani of J.M. Cerretani Inc. of Novi, who had landscaping crews working outdoors last week.

"We slow the pace down, take breaks whenever we need them and use sunscreen," he said.

"You have to keep the fluids going basically," said Sherry Humecky who runs the office in the family-owned brick and flat cement business, Morgan E. Humecky Contracting Inc. in Northville.

"They (the crews) want to head for the trees," she said. "They also went to work early and came home about 2 or 3 in the afternoon."

Homeowners who were seeking ways to boost the effectiveness of their central air conditioning systems went to local hardware stores like Damman Hardware in Novi.

"We only sold a few more fans than normal," said Earl Trombley, manager of the Damman Hardware Store in Novi, who attributed that to the number of homes in this area who had central air conditioning.

"We saw an increase in sales of boosters, which are placed on the registers and push air into the room," he said. Deflectors were also a hot item.

Deflectors are placed on top of floor registers and direct the air into the center of the room.

Guernsey Farms Dairy was a popular spot to go for ice cream.

"We saw an increase of 70 to 80 percent," said Rita Rice, one of the family members who own the dairy. "We love the hot weather."

The new Alaskan Classic line which includes Bear Claw, Mother Lode, Peanut Butter Iditarod, Moose Tracks and Caramel Caribou were the most frequently asked for flavors.

"It is a lot of fun to watch the customers come in a get their ice cream cones and go outside and sit on the rocks and under the big oak tree."

Northville Record/Novi News photographer Bryan Mitchell had many outdoor assignments last week and found a few ways to beat the heat.

"I sweat like pig in the car because it doesn't have air conditioning and I poured water over my head a lot," he said.

"I also had the air conditioner at home going full blast."

Staff photographer Hal Gould echoed the recommendations of others whose jobs take them outdoors during the day.

"Drink lots of water, wear the lightest clothes possible, in natural fabrics and long sleeves to protect from the sun, wear a hat and a bandana," he said.

"Keep the bandana wet to keep the jugular vein cool which will cool down the blood."

Reporter Jan Jeffres picked up a few tricks while on a trip to Bukhara in Central Asia.

"I learned how to walk in the shade" she said. "It was so hot there you learned to walk on the side of the street that was in the shade like the natives and you walk slower."

"I also drank many beverages," she said, "and wore more long flowing skirts, which kick up a breeze. The guys can try this too if they don't mind being teased."

Jeffres also noticed that her dog, along with Ruth Ann Jurasek's dog, know where the coolest spot in their homes is and take it over.

So, when it comes to beating the heat, slow down, drink lots of fluids, wear sun screen, and let your dog take the lead.

Cooling off at Lakeshore Beach on a hot summer's day, like Danielle Antuna is doing above, is still a popular way to beat the heat.

Volunteers

Rita and Bruce Turnbull

Turnbulls set the stage and dress the parts

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"It's a fun, fun thing," Rita Turnbull said about her "doing weddings" at Mill Race Historical Village. She and two other women take turns doing it. And so far she's scheduled for three weddings this summer - all on the same day.

Basically, the volunteering means opening and closing the place for the wedding and for the rehearsal if there's going to be one the evening before.

She sees that everything is in order - the restrooms are clean, the chairs are set up in the balcony if there are going to be more than 100 guests, which is the capacity for the church proper, and she has the cloth in place on the altar table.

She is on the scene one-half hour before the wedding and one-half hour afterwards - getting ready and then straightening up. If candles are to be burned during the service, she sees that the holders will safe-guard burning out of control. And when somebody has flowers put in place the night before and wants to water them, she says, "You can't do that on these hardwood floors."

Rita's husband, Bruce, parks cars for guests and monitors the parking lot.

Not all weddings are held in the church, she said. Half are in the gazebo, and for that the principals stand inside and the guests stand around on the outside. The bride and her maids gather at the church and then walk to the gazebo, and Turnbull comments, "They walk in high spike heels on the gravel," and that's not easy.

Oh, yes, her costume - it's Victorian style: a long, light blue skirt and a white blouse, the same thing she wears as a Docent for special occasions like the fourth of July and the Christmas walk.

"It's a fun, fun thing," as she said - seeing that everything is all right to please the bride and groom.

If you would like to get into this volunteering, call the secretary at Mill Race - 348-1845.

Senior vies for 1995 state beauty pageant title

Lauren Poole could be crowned Miss Michigan Teen USA 1995 on Saturday.

But if not, she hopes the exposure will lead to an exciting modeling career.

Poole, a senior at Northville High School, is one of approximately 100 Michigan teenagers, competing in the Miss Michigan Teen USA 1995 which is being held at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn June 30 and July 1.

"I've been told that it is an excellent way to get into modeling," Poole said of her reason for entering the contest.

The 5 foot 11 inch, 125 pound blue eyed blond was excited when she first learned of her of her selection by the pageant committee after her preliminary interview.

Within a week she received a packet containing information for getting sponsors.

"My parents were excited but wary because it's so unbelievably expensive," she said.

The life-long resident of Northville succeeded in getting six sponsors - Genitti's, Great Harvest Bread Company, The Bead Shop, Long's, Keford Collision, and Jack L. Doheny Supplies to help with the $695 entrance fee.

"My main goal was to get into modeling, broaden horizons, and reduce stage fright," Poole said.

The teens are judged in three categories - interview, bathing suit and evening gown. Each category carries the same total number of points.

Out-of-pocket expenses for Poole included purchasing a dress, a suit, a bathing suit, shoes, and a photo session.

The photos are for the portfolio each contestant must have and for the program books which are available for the girls to purchase.

It was at the photo shoot that Poole met a friend from John Glenn High School in Westland.

"I played volleyball with Kelly and we couldn't believe it when we met at the studio getting our photos done," she said.

Poole has been playing volleyball for six or seven years and also plays at Schoolcraft College in SOVA volleyball, which is an Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Club.

The pair will room together at the Hyatt on Thursday and Friday.

"The interview part is a round robin," she said. "You go from each judge who has three minutes to get as much out of you as possible."

"I took a speech class this year in high school," Poole said. My mom suggested it to me to better my speaking abilities. My final speech was an impromptu question.

"I do believe it has helped because I listen and try to pick up on different things and try to deter myself from doing them."

"I'm not that much of a nervous person speaking in front of a large group. I can talk away without fidgeting," Poole said.

The semi-finals will be held on Friday. The following day, the top 10 semi-finalists go through the whole process again before Miss Michigan Teen USA 1995 is crowned.

Poole has two younger sisters and is the daughter of Mary and Richard Poole.

"They are excited for me and wish me well," she said of her sisters.

"The boys (at school) kept teasing me and they started singing the pageant song down the hall," she said. "I was so embarrassed."

As if preparing for a beauty pageant was not enough, Poole just returned from a volleyball tournament in Chicago.

The winner of Miss Michigan Teen USA 1995 will go on to compete in the Miss Teen USA contest.

Student receives proclamation from the Governor

David Nay, a student at Our Lady of Victory School, was recently recognized at a reception in Lansing as a Michigan winner of the 20th annual American Junior High School Mathematics Examination. The reception was hosted by the Governor's Legislative Affairs Director, Jeff McAvey, and was attended by Gov. John Engler.

Nay tied for first place with 10 other students among the 11,631

Michigan participants.

Each winner received a proclamation from the governor and a plaque from the American Mathematics Competitions, the exam's sponsor.

Scholarship awarded to prep school senior

Jason Elliott, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Elliott of Northville, was the recipient of the Richard G. Peirce Award given at the Forman School. Jason will be a senior at the Forman School, a co-ed college preparatory boarding school in Litchfield, Conn.

The Richard G. Peirce Award is given in honor of the late Richard Peirce, headmaster of the Forman School from 1979-1986, who believed there is a kind of leadership which embodies an inner vision of community, a fine sense of integrity and, most importantly, an understanding of the humor to be found in human relationships.

Elliott is also a member of the Green Key Society which recognizes those students whose contributions to the community have been consistently positive. He is a member of the Forman Ensemble Players, helps to produce FTV (Forman Television Video) for a local cable station, works at the local soup kitchen, has served as head waiter at school and has written for the school magazine.

Resident steps down as president of garden club

Nancy Goulette of Northville has completed her term as state president of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan. At the state convention held in Novi earlier this month, Goulette officially turned over the gavel to incoming president Mariam Sanford of Belding.

Michigan has 7,200 members and 702 clubs. Nationwide there are 200,000 members.

Recent graduate receives four-year scholarship

Brian P. Buser, a recent graduate of Northville High School has won a four-year college scholarship from Thomas J. Lipton Co., a major manufacturer of food and beverage products.

Buser will be attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where he plans to study liberal arts and business administration.

During his high school years, Buser pursued a strong academic program, while earning varsity letters in baseball, golf and basketball. He also served as captain of the junior varsity and varsity basketball teams and as a member of the National Honor Society.

Active in his community, Buser coached the seventh and eighth grade baseball team at Our Lady of Victory School.

Buser, who is among four students nationwide who have been awarded Lipton scholarships this year, is the son of Charles D. and Mary Ellen Buser of Novi.

Recipients are chosen by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation on the basis of academic achievement and qualities of leadership and citizenship.

Movies begin tomorrow

It's summer showtime again as "Movies Under the Stars" begins its weekly performances on June 30 with Cool Runnings.

Movies will be shown each Friday through July, featuring Romancing the Stone on July 7; Footloose July 14; and Angels in the Outfield July 21. Back to the Future will wrap up the summer program on July 28.

All movies are shown on the back of the Northville School Administration Building, 501 W. Main Street. Admission to the outdoor showings is free.

Movies will start as soon as it is dark, sometime between 9 and 9:30 p.m., and end by 11 p.m. In case of rain, films will begin at 8:30 p.m. inside the Rec. Center, 303 W. Main.

Movie goers should bring lawn chairs, carpet squares or blankets and mosquito repellent. Food concessions will be open so all food or drink should be left at home.

Other youth-oriented activities are planned for the summer.

A student art and flea market will be held in the downtown bandshell on Main Street from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. each Saturday. Students are invited to reserve a table and offer their arts and crafts for sale. They will also have a chance to sell or trade sporting cards, CDs, and pogs.

The events will afford students the opportunity to advertise services such as baby sitting or lawn care.

Students who want to reserve a table should call Back Door Beads, 380-8215, the Thursday prior to the Saturday they plan to take part.

As if all that were not enough, the Northville Recreation Center will be open Saturday nights for special activities like volleyball, basketball, card games and board games. Organizers are hoping to line up a DJ to play music for the youths.

Activities nights will take place from 8:30-11 p.m. The first one is this Saturday, July 1.

PSO celebrates birthday with concerts in the park

Come and help the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and Canton Parks and Recreation celebrate America's birthday in an outdoor concert on July 13, at 7:30 p.m., in the Heritage Park Amphitheater at 1150 S. Canton Center Road behind the Canton Public Library.

"This will be our third concert of our weekly Concerts in the Park," said Bob Dates, Canton Parks and Recreation Supervisor. "We had the Symphony last year and are excited about this year."

Admission is free and concessions will have pop and popcorn for sale. Blankets and lawn chairs are encouraged. No alcohol is allowed and parking is free.

Story ideas, accomplishments, awards, trips, etc.? Don't keep them to yourself. Share them with us and we'll share them with Northville. Write to Carol Workens, The Northville Record, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, MI 48167.

Student has key roles in local production

Amy Frankel, a senior at Northville High School, will be performing in Jumpstart the Arts' production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Jesus Christ Superstar at the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium in Livonia. The show will open on Thursday, July 20, and includes several Broadway stars who are originally from Detroit.

Performing along with Amy are Les Miserable's Daniel C. Cooney, originally from Westland and Blood Brother's Kent Dalian, originally from Plymouth.

Frankel's roles include Simon Vocalist, Lead Tormentor and Dance Captain. As Simon Vocalist, Frankel will sing a solo.

The Lead Tormentor is the lead dancer in the show. Frankel and the other tormentors lead Judas throughout the show.

"We lead him to betray Jesus and lead him to kill himself in the end," she said.

"We are his anti-conscious," she said. "The audience will hate us by the end because they want us to leave him alone."

Susan Mouser, who is performing in Miss Saigon on Broadway in New York City, flew in to Detroit to do all the choreography for Jesus Christ Superstar.

When Mouser has finished with the choreography she will fly back to Broadway, and the Dance Captain is in charge.

As the Dance Captain, Frankel will have the responsibility of keeping track of all the choreography.

Frankel began dancing at the age of two at the Piazza Dance Company where she currently takes lessons and teaches. "I like character jazz a lot. That's a lot of fun," she said. "It is jazz dancing to Broadway songs."

Frankel has won first place awards at numerous dance competitions including a special overall award at the Gold National Dance Competition. She also enjoyed dancing at Frank Hatchett's Dance Showcase in New York City.

"I've thought about going to Broadway and now that I worked with people from Broadway it doesn't seem so unreachable, so maybe that's something I'll do after college," she said.

Along with singing and dancing, the daughter of Eli and Ann Frankel also plays the piano. Other members of the family include a youngster sister, Sarah, who plays the guitar, and an older brother, Aaron, who plays the piano.

"Aaron has really been encouraging me to go to school in New York City," she said. "He has big dreams for me."

The show, spearheaded by Jumpstart the Arts, is part of an outreach program created and designed to bring young local professionals, Broadway performers and others in the performing arts industry together. Its mission is to create a supportive and educational environment for both students and professionals to express themselves creatively.

The curtain rises for Jesus Christ Superstar on Thursday, July 20 for eight performances at the Clarenceville Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium, 20155 Middlebelt Road in Livonia. Performances are scheduled for July 20, 21, 22, 27, 28 and 29 at 8 p.m. and July 23 and 30 at 3 p.m.

Tickets are available through Ticket Master. For more information, call (313) 425-5782.

Holy bat humor, Robin

Jim Carrey's Riddler brightens the third 'Batman'

BATMAN FOREVER
By Heather Wadowski
Northville

It was no surprise that "Batman Forever" was sold out opening weekend.

It was also no surprise that the audience wasn't there to see Batman, but that they were there to see Jim Carrey as the Riddler. (They proved the point when the preview for "Ace Ventura: Pet Detective" came on and everyone applauded).

But the question that remains on everyone's mind who wasn't lucky enough to get tickets is, "Is 'Batman Forever' the best Batman yet?"

Truthfully, no. "Batman Forever" has the most explosions, the most laughs, the best music and the most stars, including the highest paid actor around, Jim Carrey. But "Batman Returns" has a more detailed plot, while "Batman Forever" just jumps in.

"Batman Forever" is the second best Batman. ("Batman" comes in last).

This time Michael Keaton doesn't return as the Caped Crusader. Val Kilmer takes over and does a good job at being Batman. But you don't pay much attention to Batman. Your attention is drawn toward the Riddler.

Jim Carrey plays the wacko Riddler, a part that seems to be made for him, yet is so scary you wonder if someone with more of an edge

Other actors in "Batman Forever" include Drew Barrymore, Chris O'Donnell, Nicole Kidman and Tommy Lee Jones.

"Batman Forever" receives four and one-half stars out of five. You just can't help wondering that if Jim Carrey weren't in it, would it even be worth watching.

BATMAN FOREVER
By Joe Tracz
Northville

Though "Batman Forever" is the third installment in the Batman movies, it could easily stand as a story in its own right. With Val Kilmer replacing Michael Keaton as Batman and Joel Schumacher taking Tim Burton's place in the director's chair, the movie seems to have a personality that was missing in the first two, "Batman" and

"Batman Returns."

The movie's plot revolves around two new villains terrorizing Gotham City. Harvey "Two-Face" Dent (played by Academy Award winner Tommy Lee Jones) has a split personality and a grudge against Batman. He joins forces with Jim Carrey, appropriately cast as the Riddler, a computer mastermind with a taste for puzzles and unanswered questions.

Meanwhile, Batman has his hands full with a new sidekick Chris O'Donnell appearing as Robin. Batman's partner-in-crime-fighting, and a new love interest, a beautiful psychologist, who Nicole Kidman plays to perfection.

"Batman" fans will be pleased that the movie follows the comic books, and moviegoers will like the up-to-date special effects and fine acting jobs. If you're looking for a movie that will make you think, as well as one with both humor and suspense, "Batman Forever" will be the movie to choose.

ALL THAT JAZZ
By Helaine Binstock
Novi

Now that Broadway musical theater is so scarce, here's a 1979 film that fills that lingering void. Devotees, like me, who can't find sufficient good theater these days should be gratified. Be warned, it's not a family musical — rated R.

"All That Jazz" is replete with extraordinary staging and dance numbers.

Directed by Bob Fosse, it's a behind-the-scenes look at Joe Gideon (Roy Scheider, undoubtedly depicting Fosse), a self-destructive director/choreographer. Not aware of this being done for stage, I wonder why. It seems more appropriate for a live production but I highly recommend it in this form too.

Gideon is obsessed with his work, a perfectionist who drinks, womanizes and takes uppers to keep pace. The Angel of Death (Jessica Lange) pursues him, inviting and enticing ... Gideon's daughter, former wife and newest love are bound by their mutual love and respect for his work product. Together they witness his daily deterioration.

Nominated as best picture, best director, best actor and best screenplay, "All That Jazz" is food for starving musical theater fans, who these days can't get enough to quench their hunger!

When it's finished, like all good stage musicals, the viewer is left with the exhilaration of live theater.

FORREST GUMP
By Katy Bretz
Highland

Along with a look into our past, the movie "Forrest Gump" excites the hopes and dreams of one's own future. The movie shows the life of Forrest Gump, played by Tom Hanks.

The beginning Forrest, as a child, is shown going through the obstacles that a child endures if they don't quite fit in. He gets called stupid, and the other boys his age like throwing rocks at him.

Forrest is different from anyone else his whole life. He has problems with school and doesn't have many friends, except for Jenny. The two friends grow up together, but end up splitting up to accomplish what they want in life.

Even though Forrest has no clue of what he would like in life, he ends up living the life of a dream. This movie reminds us that even though we do not fit in, we still can do anything imaginable.

Val Kilmer and Chris O'Donnell are cast as Batman and Robin.

Mustangs place two on All-Area baseball 1995 first squad

Each and every year, HomeTown Newspapers East All-Area Baseball first team is stocked with a fine assortment of talented players.

But this year just may take the cake. We're talking loaded with a capital "L."

Start with the battery
South Lyon's Jason Hoorn intimidated batters all season long in notching eight wins and posting an ERA of less than two. Catcher Jason Rice, an all-stater, slugged better than .400 and gunned down enemy base runners at an alarming rate.

Want more offense? Look down our lineup and you won't find an easy out. We've got more .300 hitters than you can shake a bat at.

So let's meet HomeTown Newspapers' 1995 East All-Area first team:

JASON RICE

Northville, senior catcher

To put it simply, Rice accomplished everything that could be accomplished this year.

Let's see. He hit better than .400, stole more than 20 bases and knocked in more than 20 runs.

"Defensively he was outstanding," coach Mickey Newman added. "He only gave up two or three stolen bases all year."

Rice made all-state and all-conference. Next season he'll wear Spartan Green and White for Michigan State University.

DAVE MCCULLOCH

Northville, senior pitcher

The right hander did everything but drive the bus to away games for the Mustangs.

As a pitcher, McCulloch had a fine 2.05 earned run average. He also averaged more than a strike out per inning.

"He pitched in most of our big games," said Newman. "He battles every time out."

When he wasn't pitching, McCulloch played right field for Northville. He hit .422 and had five runs batted in limited action.

JASON HOORN

South Lyon, senior pitcher

Hoorn gives new meaning to the term "complete ball player."

Besides being named all-area player of the year, Hoorn also received all-KVC, all-district and all-Oakland county honors.

One of the Lions' tri-captains, Hoorn was a double threat on the field.

He was a true force on the mound where posted a perfect 8-0 record with a 1.42 ERA and 79 strike outs. But at the plate he was nearly unstoppable. He led the team with a .455 average and he also paced SL in RBI (33) and home runs (6).

"He's just a great kid," said South Lyon coach Mark Thomas. "One of the best athletes I've ever coached."

Teams couldn't get much by him at third base either where he led the team in fielding percentage with .978.

STEVE VERNIER

South Lyon, junior infielder

The positions and roles that Vernier had to take for the Lions changed several times during the season, but his production remained steady.

The Lions were forced to move the junior into the starting shortstop position early in the year after a projected starter quit the team. Vernier had some problems adjusting at first but he eventually settled into a groove before being moved to designated hitter late in the year.

Superb hitting and an aggressive style is what Vernier brought to SL no matter where he was at, however.

He battled Hoorn for the team lead in hitting, winding up second with a .440 average. He also drove in 20 runs and scored 20 for the season as well.

"Once we moved him to DH he just really excelled," Thomas said.

A hard worker who'll look to continue his defensive improvement next spring, Vernier was named to the all-KVC second team and was an all-district playoff performer.

Northville's Rice star among stars

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

He stood in the very spot where Dimaggio, Mantle, Greenberg and Kaline had once been.

And with echoes of all the great ones who had gone before whispering in his ear, Jason Rice took a mighty swing on a warm Monday morning at Tiger Stadium.

An instant later the ball crashed against the top of the left field fence some 365 feet away and caromed back on to the field. The Northville High slugger trotted into second base with a three-run double.

"I was all over that one," said the recent Mustang graduate, who was voted game most valuable player.

Rice was one of 36 players selected to play in Monday's 14th annual Michigan All-Star Classic. He played six of the nine innings of the game, which his east squad lost 9-5.

"It was a once in a lifetime deal," Rice said after the game. "It was great."

The all-star game proved a mixed-bag for the catcher/third baseman.

He had one hit in three at bats plus a walk. Rice, who will go to Michigan State University this fall, knocked in three of the east's runs with his long double, which missed being a home run by about a foot in the third inning.

In the field, Rice started at catcher. He played three innings behind the plate and then moved to third base for the rest of his stint.

In the fifth inning, Rice made a nice stop of a sharply hit ground ball. But he threw high over the first baseman's head for an error. The west squad went on to tie the ball game 4-4 in the inning.

A little too much adrenalin might have caused the over throw, Rice said.

"I haven't played third in a month," he added.

He had a chance to push his team ahead again in the sixth with a pair of runners aboard, but struck out. With teammates like J.J. Putz, Jake Lawson and Luke Bonner, Rice was a little surprised that his team lost the game.

"I thought we had the better team," he said.

The game was the culmination of two days of activities.

The east and west teams assembled Sunday afternoon and then practiced briefly. A team banquet was held at Zuccaro's and meetings with coaches rounded out the day.

Players arrived at Tiger Stadium Monday morning about 9 a.m. Teams then took the field.

Practicing and playing where so many legends had been was a little overwhelming.

"It didn't sink in for awhile," said Rice.

Broncos compete in Mt. Morris tourney

Despite roaring heat, the Northville Broncos played good baseball in a recent tournament.

The team, which is composed of 13-year-olds, participated in the Mt. Morris Tournament June 16-18 and won two of five games.

In game one, Livonia shutdown Northville's bats 3-0.

Matt Hare started on the mound for the Broncos and pitched three scoreless innings. Kip Szostek and Jason Santieu finished the game and allowed Livonia three runs.

Offensively, both Szostek and Hare had two hits. Northville had runners in scoring position more than once in the ball game, but failed to push a run across.

The Bronco offense was more productive in game two, but Flushing pulled out the big lumber to win 10-4.

Flushing rallied for most of their runs in the early innings. Doug Konst, Hare and Szostek led Northville at the plate.

Game three was the squad's first win of the tournament, 12-0 over Clio.

Northville scored three runs in the first inning and nine more in the third to get the blowout. That nine-run outburst was marked by six singles and four walks.

Pitchers Andy Borda and Eric Cooley combined for the shutout and benefited from the offensive explosion. Szostek and Tim Edick each had two runs batted in.

Northville made it two straight with a 7-5 win over Hartland.

Defense was the difference in the contest as the Broncos made several nice stops. Third baseman Marc Olin snagged a line drive in the third inning while second baseman Andy Doren caught another liner and then nailed the runner at first for a double play.

Cooley, Edick and Hare pitched. Santieu had two hits and two runs batted in while Matt Zumstein added a single and an RBI.

NORTHVILLE 17, BLOOMFIELD 10

On June 15, the Broncos got involved in a slugger's duel and came out on top.

Zumstein was one of the studs at the plate. He had four hits and four runs batted in. Teammates Doren and Borda had two RBI as well.

the top freshman players in the state last season.

The three-sport star athlete pushed a little too hard at the plate early in the spring managing only a .187 average midway through the year. In the second half Hardin relaxed and got his stroke back, though, winding up with an impressive .341 average.

He also cracked six doubles and drove in 23 runs and he was a top fielder for the Eagles playing at shortstop, first base and in the outfield when he wasn't on the mound.

"His arm got a lot stronger in the off-season," coach Jerry Ganzel said, "and he turned out to be the best pitcher we had."

Hardin went 6-1 on the year with a 3.00 ERA and he fanned 44 batters. Next year the first team all-leaguer will be the leader on the young LHS squad.

NATHAN DIESCH

Lakeland, senior infielder

Diesch was like a pesky weed for opposing teams this spring. He was always popping up where they would least expect him.

Whether it was on the mound, in the batter's box or at his natural first base post, Diesch managed to put his mark on a game nearly every time out for LHS.

He was the team's top fielder, posting a .972 average between the lines and his .324 average and three home run total were also among the Eagles' leaders. He got plenty of opportunities to hit in the team's potent lineup and he often made the opposition pay.

"Teams that tried to pitch around Tom (Hartley) had Diesch coming up right behind him so that made it pretty tough," Ganzel said.

Diesch was 3-3 on the year as a pitcher for Lakeland after taking a year off from pitching last spring due to a nagging shoulder injury.

JIM ROSE

Novi, senior infielder

The anchor of our infield is Rose. While he's not the kind of player who's going to hit the ball out of sight or steal bases left and right, the senior is the kind of player every coach loves.

Rose established himself as one of the area's hardest workers this spring. All of the hard work paid off, according to coach Ernie Bastian.

"He does the job and does it well," he said.

Rose played second base for the Wildcats.

"He's got one of the best gloves I've ever seen," said Bastian, who played minor league baseball.

Rose was also solid at the plate with a .313 average overall. He led Novi with 20 runs, 14 walks and four sacrifices.

"The bulk of the season he hit line drive singles and doubles," said Bastian.

JON WROE

Novi, senior outfielder

Wroe was as complete a player as the Wildcats had this season.

In the outfield, the senior patrolled center field without peer in the Kensington Valley Conference. Wroe had great range and often caught balls that left and right fielders normally catch.

Bastian said Wroe isn't blessed with a great throwing arm from the outfield. But he more than makes up for it by positioning himself correctly.

Offensively, Wroe was a solid contributor. He batted third and lead off during the season and managed a .400 overall batting average. He led Novi in hits and was third in RBI.

"He always put the ball in play," said Bastian.

TOM HARTLEY

Lakeland, senior outfielder

Mr. Everything proved he was the real deal again this season for the Eagles.

The first-team all-KVC center-fielder was the top hitter in the area batting a blistering .500 for the second consecutive season.

In his fourth year on the LHS varsity squad he also was the team leader in hits (35), RBI (24) and runs (24). He also stole nine bases and struck out only six times in 70 at bats.

Early in the season Hartley tinkered with his already sweet swing and he wound up going into a mild slump. He took a more relaxed stance at the plate and Ganzel said he knew that Hartley was officially okay when he smoked two home runs in excess of 440 feet at Troy Athens.

"He swings as hard - if not the hardest - of anyone in the league," Ganzel said. "He's got just great arm strength."

Hartley, a valedictorian at LHS, was also named second-team all-state and he hopes to continue his success next season playing for the Michigan State Spartans.

JOHN WITHROW

Milford, junior outfielder

He may not have realized it yet, but this was the year that Withrow slowed down.

It didn't happen suddenly. Gradually he slowed to the point where his potential, which in the past had always seemed to breeze past his performance on the field, caught up to him.

Coach Paul Sullivan, who also coached Withrow in his freshman and sophomore seasons, said that last summer the right fielder settled down and worked on his game and the improvements were noticeable this spring.

"To see him play as well as he did was no surprise in terms of his ability. He has tremendous ability. Sullivan said of the player who led the Redskins in six offensive categories. "He was just much more focused and aggressive this year."

Withrow, the team offensive MVP, led Milford in batting (.352), hits (23), runs (18), triples (3), home runs (2) and RBI (17).

In-line skating mobile on its way

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Everybody's on a roll. On blades, that is. And now Oakland County and the City of Northville are getting in on the act. On Friday, July 7, and again on Friday, July 21, the two governments are bringing the in-line Skatemobile to Northville, at the First United Methodist Church, 777 W. Eight Mile Road.

What the In-Line Skatemobile does, Northville Parks and Recreation spokesperson Tracy Harris explained, is bring heaps of in-line and traditional roller skates to town, along with the much-needed safety equipment.

A chance to try out the blades if you haven't already bought the things, the two sessions also give kids who can't afford the equipment a chance to get in on the skating craze.

For a fee of $2, you can wheel around the church's parking lot and participate in a lot of fun for two hours, while the music blasts away. The event includes dance and slalom contests.

Hours for the In-Line Skatemobile are 10 a.m. to noon.

People of all ages are invited, but children must have a signed liability waiver from their parents before they participate, to avoid any lawsuits over skinned knees and elbows.

Skaters must rent their equipment; there is no bring your own skates permitted in this event. Harris said, even though many Northville kids already have been careening around town in their boots and blades.

"It's become one of the biggest things going," Harris said.

"They're always out here skating around in the parking lot."

Northville residents will get a chance to try in-line skating next month. In the past few years, in-line skating has gained in popularity. Here, Dan O'Halloran gives it a try.

Women not preparing for pregnancy

Timothy Johnson

Despite scientific information and recommendations from experts, many women are not taking the right steps to prepare for pregnancy. Prenatal care has become well established and most women know that it is an important part of their overall well-being. However, recent data also suggest that there are specific things that women should do before becoming pregnant. This is because much of the development of the newborn occurs very early, even before the time that pregnancy may be recognized. This early developmental period is critical to human growth and development since many factors can impact subsequent developmental and behavioral abnormalities.

For the average healthy woman, it is important that good health habits be established prior to pregnancy. Folic acid supplementation should also begin before conception. A recent study from Europe has shown that normal women who received folic acid supplementation in the months prior to becoming pregnant had a lower risk of neural tube defects. The current recommendation from the Centers for Disease Control is that all women should receive folic acid supplementation (0.8 mg). This amount of folic acid is not available in over-the-counter prescriptions and is best obtained from prenatal vitamins.

In addition to folic acid, all women benefit from screening for risk factors. Optimal preparation for pregnancy includes being at appropriate weight, since women who are both underweight and overweight going into pregnancy are at risk for premature or growth-retarded babies. Well-known adverse behaviors such as smoking, alcohol, and drug use (other than medications prescribed by a physician) also should stop prior to pregnancy.

Also, there are women with specific problems who benefit from individual management in order to reduce their risk in pregnancy. It has been shown that women with diabetes benefit from tight diabetic control around the time of conception, which reduces the risk of delivering children with birth defects. The same is true of women with an unusual disease called phenylketonuria who need to begin a special diet in order to avoid brain damage to their babies. If she's taking prescription medicines, a woman should consult with her provider before conception to be sure usage is safe.

The importance of preconception care has been recognized by many groups including the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the American College of Nurse-Midwives and the American Academy of Family Physicians. As part of routine well care, women should think about asking their health care providers what special things they should do as they plan for pregnancy. Hopefully, health care providers will raise the subject with women of reproductive age.

The important thing to remember is that it's estimated that anywhere from 40 percent to 60 percent of pregnancies in the United States are unplanned. Many people stop taking birth control pills and do not know how quickly conception will occur. It is advisable that all women who have the potential to become pregnant should behave as if they are. Often the best things you can do for your baby are around the time of conception - in other words, plan ahead.

Wenzel, Hitchcock make All-Area baseball second team

The members of the 1995 East All-Area Second baseball team are simply victims of circumstance.

The players are second-teamers in name only. Each one of our selections had seasons deserving of special recognition and they might all qualify for first-team honors in any other given year. But there were such great individual efforts by the first-team stars this spring that the other top players just had to take a back seat.

That doesn't mean that the second-team sensation's efforts were anything short of outstanding. Dynamite hitters like South Lyon's Cory Sargent and superb fielders like Milford's Eric Delaney could serve as the backbone for any solid team. And when it comes to pitching it wouldn't be bad to have two great arms like Novi's Mitch Jabczynski and Bob Mason of the Lions to hold the opponent off the board.

Yes, the second-teamers might not like their label but they know that their talent and desire will take a back seat to no one.

Here's a look at the second-team all-area baseballers as selected by the editors of the South Lyon Herald, the Milford Times and the Northville Record and Novi News newspapers:

IAN GALDES

South Lyon, senior catcher

Galdes is one of those kinds of players coaches have dreams about.

"He'd run through a brick wall for you," Thomas said. "And there'd be no questions asked. He'd just say 'You're the coach.'"

Galdes had some big shoes to fill this season replacing one of last year's top players - Dayne Copeland - behind the plate but he did it well.

He handles the SL pitchers to perfection and he was a surprise at the plate where he batted .340 with 19 RBI. He also stole five bases and his motivating force was a big key in the team's success.

Galdes was named second team all-KVC and first team all-district this season.

BOB MASON

South Lyon, senior pitcher

Mason, despite having a bit of a down year, was still one of the top hurlers in the area.

He posted a 5-4 record and a 2.10 ERA with 48 strikeouts but the Lions rarely put up much offense during his outings.

"Sometimes we just didn't hit at all behind him," coach Mark Thomas said. "But when his confidence is high he's a great pitcher."

Mason's strength as a pitcher was his wide repertoire of pitches. He had great control of his curve, fastball and change-up and he was always trying something new on the mound.

When he wasn't pitching Mason played second base for SL and excelled there as well as at the plate where he hit .265 for the season.

MITCH JABCZENSKI

Novi, senior pitcher

A lefthander, Jabczynski was Novi's ace. He won four games for the Wildcats while posting a 2.03 ERA.

Bastian said Jabczynski had a good year but could've been stronger with better conditioning.

"He had to be fresh to be on his game," the coach said. "If he was tired or sore you could get after him."

Jabczynski struck out 78 batters in 62 innings.

JASON WENZEL

Northville, senior infielder

Wenzel wasn't the world's flashiest player. But he gave Northville rock-solid play at second base.

Coach Mickey Newman said Wenzel worked very hard in the off season. The result was striking.

"He improved from last year defensively 100 percent," said Newman.

Wenzel combined with shortstop Mark Sander to give the Mustangs an excellent keystone combination. "We turned a lot of double plays," said Newman, "probably 11 or 12."

Wenzel also batted a smart .302 at the plate. He smacked a pair of doubles and triples as well.

BRIAN SIEGWALD

South Lyon, senior infielder

Siegwald was the vocal leader of the South Lyon club and he always found a way to boost the team's spirits.

Along with third baseman Jason Hoorn, Siegwald anchored the corners of the infield from his normal first base slot. He made some excellent plays at first this year and was very agile for someone of his size.

Siegwald was tagged to be one of the top Lion pitchers this season as well but he struggled at times on the mound recording a 1-3 record with a 4.87 ERA.

"He struggled on the mound but he found other ways to help the team," Thomas said. His defense was solid and his hitting was timely as well. Siegwald batted .273 for the season.

ERIC DELANOY

Milford, junior infielder

It's been said that it takes a special kind of attitude to play third base and Delaney must've been born with that attitude.

Soft hands, great hand-eye coordination and a fearless style made Delaney one of the top fielders in the area this spring.

"He's as good a defensive third baseman as you'll find," said MHS coach Paul Sullivan. "He plays that position to perfection."

Delaney was the Redskins' defensive MVP and his performance had to be particularly satisfying because he missed almost all of last year after suffering a broken leg.

The season started slowly at the plate for Delaney as he went 1-for-17 to open up the year but he got back on track and really came on late in the season to finish hitting at a .281 clip.

CHRIS DEMAR

Lakeland, senior infielder

Lakeland coach Jerry Ganzel was hoping Demar would be the ace of his pitching staff at the beginning of the season but as the year developed Demar claimed a different role.

He had his troubles on the mound going 1-5 on the season without much run support from his teammates, but he turned into the spark plug of the team on offense.

He batted .310 as a leadoff hitter for the Eagles and scored 22 runs during the course of the year.

"He's a great athlete," Ganzel said, "and he really did an excellent job as our leadoff hitter."

Demar also displayed some deceptive power tying for the team lead in home runs with three.

In his third season on the Lakeland varsity club, Demar also was strong playing second base and shortstop for LHS and Ganzel said the team's only lefthanded thrower will be sorely missed next year.

JERRY AYERS

Novi, sophomore outfielder

One of the area's up and coming players is Novi's Ayers. He moved up from freshman ball this spring to fill in an outfield hole for the Wildcats.

Ayers batted at various positions in the lineup and managed to produce. He hit a respectable .274, scored 17 runs and drove in 13.

Coach Ernie Bastian said Ayers will improve on those numbers in his final two seasons.

"He's got the potential to blow the ball out of the ballpark," he said.

KYLE HITCHCOCK

Northville, junior outfielder

The Mustangs liked to run and Hitchcock was a main weapon on the basepaths.

The junior stole more than 20 bases and along with teammate Jason Rice drove opponents crazy. Allowing Hitchcock to reach first with a walk or single was like giving up a double because he almost always wound up on second base.

And he was on base a lot. Hitchcock hit better than .300 for Northville.

The how and why of reverse mortgage loans

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

With the growing number of home-owning retirees, it's no wonder I'm receiving an increasing number of inquiries about reverse mortgages. There have been some significant developments in this area.

First, a brief definition: A reverse mortgage is a special mortgage for seniors over age 62. Instead of making monthly mortgage payments, the senior receives a monthly payment that can continue for the senior's lifetime.

It is a loan, like any mortgage, and is secured by equity accumulated in the senior's home. But instead of receiving a lump sum to finance or refinance a home, the funds are loaned to the senior in monthly increments. In some cases, it's coupled with an annuity that makes it possible to continue payments for the life of the senior.

Typically, the loan, along with accrued interest and costs, are repaid from the senior's estate after death, or at the time the senior sells or moves from the home. In some cases, the lender also receives a proportion of, or all funds generated by the sale of the home.

The amount received each month by the senior depends primarily on two factors — the senior's age and the amount of equity he or she has in the home. It also depends on the precise type of reverse mortgage plan selected, and terms specified in the contract.

The concept certainly is not for every senior. But for many it's a viable way to tap the equity in their home to increase seniors' tax-free income and enhance their quality of life.

A profile of the typical reverse mortgage borrower was recently determined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. It shows the median borrower age to be 76 years old. Their median annual income is $10,400 — 44 percent less than the income of all elderly homeowners.

The median value of their homes is $102,000, or 45 percent greater than the value of homes owned by all elderly homeowners. Six out of Contemporary Wallace wastes no living space

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

A family with school-age children, or those who like to have room for visiting guests, will find the contemporary style Wallace very much to their liking. The 1,726-square-foot of living space has been utilized in a manner that leaves no wasted areas.

Having the garage in front leaves plenty of room for a verdant landscape that will accent this attractive home. To the left of the raised entryway are the sleeping quarters. Two almost identical bedrooms, separated by a full bathroom for privacy, grace the long hallway.

Closet space is ample, with a large window in each to filter in the sunlight.

At one end of the hallway is a utility room that opens inside, allowing groceries to be brought easily in regardless of the weather, or soiled clothing to be placed by the washing machine.

At the back of the home sits the spacious master suite. A large closet and a full bath with separate vanity are among the highlights.

Access to the back deck lets you soak up the sun in privacy. A complete linen storage area runs the length of the adjacent hallway.

The Great Room effect is evident in the right front portion of this house design. Vaulted ceilings are everywhere, enhancing the dimensions. The living room, where folks can congregate in front of the centrally located fireplace, serves as a gathering place for family and friends to enjoy each others company.

The handy U-shaped kitchen, with built-ins galore, allows the cook to prepare food without having to miss any of the festivities. A garden window, perfect for a view of the front, sits above the sink. Meals may be served casually in the neighboring nook with windows on two sides or in a more formal setting in the dining room.

For a study plan of the design mentioned in this article, send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI, 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

DECK

When you walk out of your house, do your feet hit grass? Are ants a regular part of your barbecues? Does laying out in the sun involve a lawn chair?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, chances are you don't have a deck.

Local comedian and carpenter Jim McLean says that his mantra is "Wood is good, pine is divine."

While that is not one of his funniest lines, building a deck is no laughing matter, either.

A deck can provide you outdoor living space, a place to entertain, barbecue and sunbathe. It can also provide you with a walkout area to second story exits and basically get you off the ground.

The first thing you want to choose when building a deck is the material. This decision can influence not only the appearance of the deck, but how much maintenance you will have to apply.

Wolmanized wood is the most recommended by builders and most popular. Wolmanized wood is treated lumber. It takes stain and varnish well and holds up longer and lasts longer than other woods.

Cedar wood decks and considered the best deck, but require high maintenance. Cedar needs to be treated every year to keep from weathering, buckling, spacing and to keep the water off.

Recycled plastic decks require no maintenance but are very expensive. Fiberglass decks is also low maintenance and go on like aluminum siding. The fiberglass for building decks is available at Fowlerville Lumber.

The price per square footage ranges from eight dollars for wolmanized wood to $12 or $13 for fiberglass. The average size of a deck is around 16 by 20 feet. The overall pricing for a deck is around the same in the long run. The trade off between different types of material is whether you want

Use specimen trees to enhance interiors

By C.Z. Guest

GARDENING

Many of today's houses and apartments bring the outdoor look inside by incorporating large trees to enhance the interior. These specimen trees do have a place if they retain their vigor and beauty.

However, all too often they begin looking seedy shortly after they are placed indoors. Leaves start yellowing or become marred with spots and blotches or they may even start falling in great numbers. Thus, this costly investment doesn't seem justified.

Important prerequisites to keep specimen plants going include proper plant placement and selecting a plant that will adapt and survive best in that location. This involves degrees of light and possible temperature.

Try to obtain specimen plants that have been conditioned or acclimatized prior to garden center or nursery sale. Usually this is done by the grower. The plant can then adapt better to the low-quality growing environment of indoor surroundings. Rarely can you grow specimen plants for use as interior decor.

You must consider the maintenance of the plants, because they generally grow best when there is plenty of light, proper humidity and good air circulation. All things rarely found indoors. If you grow your own plants outdoors, you can water and feed more frequently.

In other words, push them and they will react satisfactorily. Try to do that with limitations indoors and the opposite will occur. You simply can't push a plant when limiting factors exist, so emphasize minimum growth. Keeping the plants healthy looking and alive is about the best you can do.

If you accept that limitation, the plants will last a great deal longer, put out some very limited new growth and remain good, healthy specimens.

Concerning fertilization, one or two applications per year will suffice. Care with watering is very important.

Specimen trees indoors

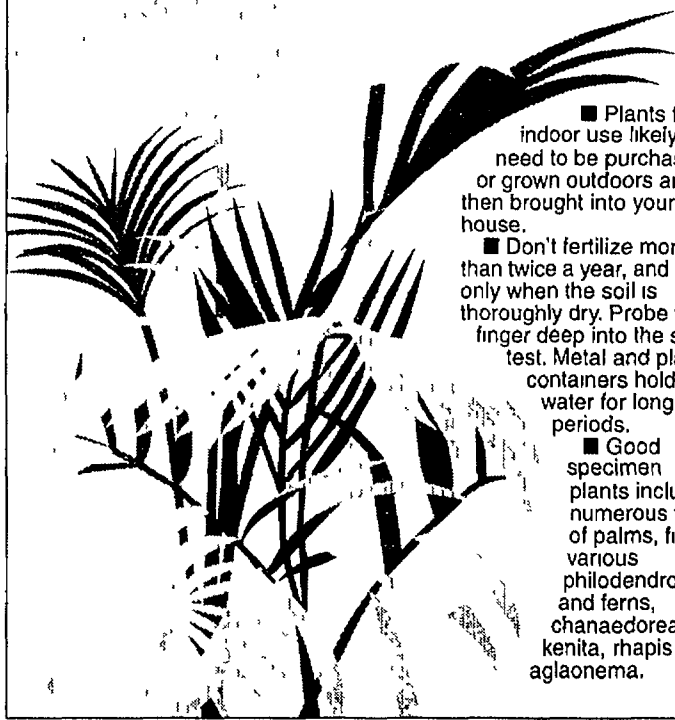

Keeping large trees and plants indoors, though attractive, is tricky business. It is unlikely that there will be rampant growth. The wise indoor gardener will settle for live plants at minimal maintenance levels.

■ Most large plants need plenty of light, the right humidity level and good air circulation — things not often found indoors

■ Plants for indoor use likely will need to be purchased, or grown outdoors and then brought into your house.

■ Don't fertilize more than twice a year, and water only when the soil is thoroughly dry. Probe your finger deep into the soil to test. Metal and plastic containers hold water for long periods.

■ Good specimen plants include numerous types of palms, ficus, various philodendrons and ferns, chanaedorea, kenita, rhaps and aglaonema.

Remove stains from your deck

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. We purchased an older home that has a spacious wooden deck overlooking a canyon. The deck is weathered and grimy, and stained with dark rings where the previous owner had set outdoor plants in pots. We would like to clean the wood. If possible, rather than paint the decking, but we don't know where to begin. Do you have any advice on this subject?

A. Clear the deck of all furniture and plants. Cover any surrounding vegetation and begin by sweeping the surface thoroughly. Remove general dirt and loose debris by hosing down the surface with the hard spray from a garden hose.

If there is a buildup of dirt and grime between the decking boards, use a putty knife to dislodge this matter. If the boards are too narrow, use an old saw to run along the cracks to open a space. Your deck needs good air circulation between the boards and adequate water drainage.

There are cleaning solutions you can mix using trisodium phosphate mixed in warm water. However, I would recommend using one of today's commercial cleaning solutions developed specifically for wood cleaning of this type. They are safer and easier to use. The commercial cleaners often contain such ingredients as mildewicides, fungicides and bleaches.

Applications vary. Some require wetting the surface prior to application, others are used on dry wood surfaces. It is important to follow manufacturer directions carefully.

If you still have stains and markings after cleaning, treat the deck with a mixture of 4 ounces oxalic acid crystals dissolved in 1 gallon of water (use a plastic container and pour the acid into the water).

Use rubber gloves and wear old clothing and goggles. Apply with a sponge or mop. While solution is still wet, scrub into the deck with a brush or deck broom (do not use any wire brushes or steel wool that will create rust marks). Hose off with plain water.

This solution should not be applied in direct sunlight. It is best if applied on a cloudy day and left to set a few hours before hosing off. Let the wood dry thoroughly.

Now inspect your deck. Replace any broken or rotting boards, treating joists or beams with wood preservative before nailing and wherever new wood will contact supports. Refasten railing and stairs as needed. Sink any protruding nails. Use sandpaper to remove any markings, such as grade stamps left on wood.

Once your deck is clean and looks good, apply a water repellent, preservative or stain to keep it looking nice and to protect the wood from absorbing water and damaging ultra violet rays.

You can use either a clear penetrating finish or an ultraviolet resistant stain. If the cleaned wood still has spotted and blotchy areas, a stain will help hide these blemishes and give your deck a more uniform finish. It is best to wait two to three days before applying the final finish to make sure the wood is thoroughly dry.

Both deck cleaners and protectants are available at hardware stores and home centers. The Flood Co. maintains a consumer help line (800) 321-3444 that provides information and tips on wood finishing problems.

Deck cleaning and refinishing

To get a grimy deck looking new, give it a thorough cleaning followed by minor carpentry work and resealing. Follow directions with any chemical use.

■ Hose down the deck to remove loose dirt. Sweep if necessary. Remove dirt between boards with a putty knife or old saw.

■ Modern commercial cleaners are recommended for a deep cleaning. They will contain mildewicides and fungicides.

■ Oxalic crystals mixed in water will remove deep stains. Wear goggles and rubber gloves for this. Scrubbing will be necessary. Do not use wire-bristled brushes.

■ Do any carpentry work after deck dries (two or three days): board replacement, joist replacement, nail sinking, sanding. Apply a preservative wherever the new wood will meet other wood.

■ Buy a clear sealer or ultraviolet stain for longevity. Some staining may be required to hide blemishes or discolorations.

10 loans are made to women living alone. Three out of four borrowers have no children.

The volume of issued reverse mortgages has tripled since 1993. Loans have been issued in 46 states, but nearly half of all reverse mortgages have been in five states — California, New York, Illinois, Colorado and New Jersey.

This information was provided by Ken Scholen, director of the National Center for Home Equity Conversion and one of the nation's leading authorities on reverse mortgages.

The most important new development, according to Scholen, is the forthcoming reverse mortgage program structured by the Federal National Mortgage Association — the nation's largest buyer of existing mortgage loans. Fannie Mae's reverse mortgage product has been in the planning stages for two years and is expected to be available to consumers by the end of the year.

Fannie Mae's plan will make reverse mortgages much more accessible from a broader range of primary lenders throughout the country, because lenders will know they can sell the mortgage to the secondary market (Fannie Mae). It will also make them more competitive, to the senior's advantage.

Also, the maximum allowable equity will be increased, probably to $203,150. And needed paperwork will be lessened, compared with mortgages now offered through HUD.

Another development: A Truth-in-Lending law now requires lenders to disclose the total annual cost of reverse mortgages. The disclosure reveals that their true cost can be much greater, or much less, than the stated interest rate on the loan, Scholen said.

As defined by the Federal Reserve Board, the "total annual loan cost" of reverse mortgages include all costs, including interest and servicing costs. The rates generally are greatest in the early years of the reverse mortgage, then decrease over time.

The costs decline for two reasons. First, the fixed-loan costs charged at closing are spread over more years and become a smaller part of the total amount owed. Second, if the rising loan balance catches up to the home's value, the total debt is then limited by that value.

The true cost of a reverse mortgage depends on how long the borrower lives in the home. Costs are greatest if the loan is repaid after a few years. But if borrowers live to or beyond their life expectancies, the total annual average cost can be moderate or low, Scholen said.

"The total annual loan cost report makes it possible for consumers to compare the real cost of reverse mortgage programs with very different types of itemized costs," he said.

Scholen has written a book on reverse mortgages, "Your New Retirement Nest Egg: A Consumer Guide to Reverse Mortgages." For information, write: NCHEC, 7373 147th Street West, Suite 115, Apple Valley, MN 55124.

Q. Instead of moving to a retirement home, why don't more seniors simply stay in their old house and fix it up to

Don't be tricked by assuming you need to water every time the top layer feels dry. Poke your finger deeper into the soil before watering.

It's easy to overwater since most specimen trees are sold in metal or plastic containers. These dry out far less rapidly than wooden tubs or clay pots.

Some good specimen plants include several types of palms, chanaedorea, kenita and rhaps and ficus. There is always a wide assortment of philodendrons, ferns such as holly fern (cyrtomium) and aglaonema.

THE WAY TO GO

I have joined New York and 25 other states (and the District of Columbia) in moving to ban the landfilling of yard waste — leaves, grass clippings and tree trimmings.

Since composting is the only responsible way to deal with the material, literally hundreds of municipalities around the nation have started their own composting operations.

That means that gardeners and landscapers can enjoy an almost unlimited supply of a beneficial soil amendment (if they are aware of it).

A dramatic illustration of the growth of back yard composting. Open up any home or garden catalog and you'll see compost bins, compost starter packets, compost turning tools, compost primer and even some compost (like the famous Zoo Doo!).

Closing the recycling loop on a lawn or garden with mulching mowers and home composters has become big business, prompting garden companies into offering composters and related equipment.

More and more cooperative extension services from Ringling Bros. Circus to city governments are teaching residents proper back yard composting techniques, such programs are popping up from Seattle to Miami to Pennsylvania and many points in between. In these programs, extension agents teach residents the basics of composting and these "master composters" then teach those techniques to their neighbors.

In the corporate world, composting is being accepted as a way of life and as an effective waste-management tool.

Even government is becoming convinced of the need for more composting. In addition to yard waste bans, many states encourage compost purchases by state agencies.

And, inspired by the example of the governors of Georgia and Maine, Congressman George Hochbrueckner, from Long Island, wrote the Executive Composting Act, urging the president and all 50 state governors to compost yard waste from their official residences.

Punch bowl depicting Abbey Church is quite valuable

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

ANTIQUES

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a punch bowl and underplate that is at least 100 years old. They are marked with a castle and the words "Metlach — 2087."

The bowl is decorated with a scene in relief of people dancing. What is the value of these pieces?

A Your punch bowl and underplate were made in Metlach, Germany, by Villeroy & Boch around 1900. The castle represents the old Abbey Church in Metlach. The number "2087" is the model number.

Most of the Metlach bowls included a lid, sometimes a plate and rarely a ladle.

The value of your bowl and plate would probably be $900 to $1,200 in good condition.

Q. We have a floor model Edison Amberola phonograph that is in top condition. There are seven drawers containing cylinders in their original cartons and two extra stylus heads.

The copyright date is 1904. What is its value?

A. Thomas A. Edison invented the phonograph in 1877. The early models had cylinders. Sound waves were recorded onto grooves on cylinders.

The sound was then reproduced when the phonograph needle ran along the grooves.

Depending on the area, the value of your phonograph would probably be about $1,200 to $2,000.

Q. My mother gave me a pair of matching ceramic figurines that she had for over 40 years. Each is marked "Japan." They are dressed in 18th century costumes and trimmed in gold and are in very good condition.

Could you please tell me if they are worth anything?

A. Matching figurines dressed in period costumes were widely produced by many Japanese potters in the mid-1900s. They were frequently trimmed in real gold.

Recently, interest has been on the increase in novelties made in Japan.

Your figurines would probably be worth about $40 to $50 for the pair.

Q. I have a metal button imprinted with the profiles of W.S. Hancock and W.H. English. They were running mates in a presidential campaign in the 1800s.

I would like to know if it has any significance or value.

A Judging from your description, you have a political campaign clothing brass button. Clothing buttons with the names and profiles of candidates were popular in the 1800s.

William S. Hancock and William H. English ran in the 1880 presidential campaign against James A. Garfield and Chester A. Arthur. Garfield and Arthur won.

These sturdy brass buttons are nifty political collectibles. Your clothing button would probably be worth about $25 to $45.

Q. I still have and use my grandmother's wooden rolling pin. The wood is maple and it is carved from one piece of wood. It measures 21 inches long. My grandmother bought it around 1915.

I would never part with it, but I would like to know if it is worth anything.

A. Kitchen collectibles from the early 1900s are quite popular. For many they bring back comforting memories of the fragrance of wonderful things baking in their grandmothers' kitchens.

Your rolling pin would probably be worth about $150 in good condition.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

This German punch bowl with intricate design is valued at between $900 and $1,200.

to pay it all up front or over time for maintenance costs.

Once the materials have been decided, you need to figure out the design of the deck. Some possibilities are handrails, a gazebo, benches, seating pits, picnic tables and stairs. However, choosing the extras should not be taking lightly since the price can mount quickly depending on the type of material. For example, the spindles for handrails must be placed every four inches so that a child's head can't fit through. The amount of wood needed for a spindled handrail can add significantly to a bill.

Decks by Dawn in Hamburg is a husband and wife operation which Dawn and Mike Samples formed five years ago. Dawn is the carpenter, owner and contractor while her husband, Mike, is the builder. Mike's father was a carpenter and Mike followed in his footsteps. Mike became a certified high school teacher after doing his student teaching in Puckney.

The benefit of working with a business like Decks by Dawn may be price.

"Our pricing is cheaper due to less overhead and we don't have to pay out a lot of workman's comp," Dawn said.

The draw back to a smaller operation may be time. While Dawn and Mike take a week to two weeks to build a deck, a crew of men can crank one out in a day or two.

To get started on your deck, look in the yellow pages for a licensed contractor and call. It's never too soon to get your project off the ground.

Q. We are constructing a deck using pressure-treated wood. I have been told to put a preservative finish on it in order to make the deck last longer. Is this important with pressure-treated wood, or is it largely decorative? If it is useful, what type of finish do you recommend?

A. Unfortunately, it is a common assumption that pressure-treated wood is treated to resist all types of damaging elements. Although the treated wood resists damage from wood-boring insects, it is still vulnerable to water damage.

There are treatments that will help protect the wood and enhance the appearance. Most treatments should not be applied immediately to newly installed pressure-treated wood. New, "damp" wood should be allowed to season for one to three months. An exception would be the application of Seatonite Stabilizing Treatment, developed by the Flood Co. for application on all new exterior wood surfaces. This treatment will provide some protection while the wood is curing.

Following the curing process, a water repellent or stain is recommended for further protection. The Koppers Co. produces two such products: Rain Coat is a sealer designed for use on pressure-treated wood, and Deck Stain (which contains a water repellent) is formulated to tint and protect all types of wood used outdoors, including pressure-treated lumber. Thompson's Water Seal and Wolman's Rain Coat also are popular water repellents used to help prevent damage.

Your deck should be treated with a water repellent approximately every two years. You can test the surface by splashing a glass of water against the wood. If the surface absorbs the water making the wood noticeably darker, then the wood is vulnerable and needs the immediate protection of a waterproofer. If the water beads up, or doesn't absorb into the wood, the surface is protected.

Old time service at Victoria's Boutique

Shop specialty is what the customers want

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Times have changed in retail apparel.

Head to a store in the mall and you'll be lucky if someone says "hello" let alone tries to help find what you're looking for. Ah, but there's hope.

Victoria's Place in Northville still believes in good old-fashioned customer service. Whether it takes 15 minutes or an hour, owners Joanne Eisele and Josephine Watson will help locate just what you're shopping for.

"That's one of the reasons (patrons) come in," said Eisele, "they get a lot of help they don't get in the department stores."

The shop, which shares 118 E. Main Street with Genetti's Marketplace, specializes in fashionable women's clothing, accessories and jewelry. Watson said she and her partner have a pretty simple philosophy in stocking Victoria's.

"If we like it," she said, "we buy it."

Eisele started the store, with a different partner, nearly 11 years ago at a different Main Street location.

Eisele, a Northville resident for more than three decades, worked in apparel for years before starting her own shop. Along with that experience she raised four daughters, which gave her plenty of buying experience.

"We still let her get our clothes for us," said daughter Sally.

Victoria's moved into its current location last summer after three years on Center Street. Business has improved since the move, Eisele commented.

"There's more traffic on Main Street," she added and noted that the proximity to Genetti's has helped, too. "Business is at least 25 percent better this year than last."

"This is where it's at, on Main Street."

store in late 1993. She said she had shopped at Victoria's for years before joining Eisele in the venture.

"I like fashion," said Watson, "and it beats watching soap operas."

When Victoria's Place, which was named in honor of Northville's affiliation with that era, first opened Eisele carried a limited line of clothing. Sweaters, sweatshirts and t-shirts comprised the bulk of items.

Since the mid '80s, however, merchandise selections have grown. You'll still find hand-crafted sweaters, T-shirts and sweatshirts, but you'll also find a lot more. Take Victoria's jewelry.

Contemporary and antique pins and earrings are available. Check out the hand-blown glass earrings as well.

"We sell a lot of jewelry," said Eisele.

Shorts, slacks, blouses are on hand, too. Victoria's carries every size from average to plus.

"You have to go with what people want," Watson said. "We try to get different things."

"We have a wide range of customers," said Eisele, "from 20 to 80."

As for the future, both owners think it's looking brighter.

"I think downtown Northville is getting better all the time," said Eisele.

Victoria's Place is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays the shop is open 10 to 9 and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Call 349-2290 for more information.

A free directory is now available from the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) to provide prospective homeowners with information on new homes and locations in southeastern Michigan and remodelers for existing homes.

The directory, which will be updated quarterly, lists homes and building sites by city for Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and St. Clair counties. Each listing includes when available, number and placement of bedrooms and baths, style and design, price range, school district and other amenities. Special features are also provided, such as barrier-free design, use of non-allergic construction materials, special warranties and whether a builder will construct on the homeowner's lot.

A special section of the directory also lists remodelers throughout the area and their price range. A separate booklet is provided with tips on how to choose and work with a remodeler.

All the builders listed in the directory are members in good standing of BIA. Homeowners are encouraged to check the licenses, references and previous workmanship of all prospective builders.

To obtain a copy of the directory, call the BIA offices, (810) 737-4477, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Advantages buyers can only get with new homes

Shopping for a home involves a lot of decisions. Should you buy a traditional single-family home or a condominium-style townhouse or apartment? Do you want to live in the city or the suburbs? How many bathrooms and bedrooms do you need?

Another key question involves whether you should buy a new home or an existing one. New homes cost more on average, but they have numerous advantages

Among these are:

- Better designed kitchens with new appliances.
- More energy efficient heating and cooling systems, resulting in lower monthly energy bills.
- Better insulation.
- More electrical outlets.
- Safety glass in safety-critical areas.
- Warranty protection on the house itself, and the appliances and goods within the house.

"Many features of today's new homes were either rare or unheard of a few decades ago," said Janet L. Compo, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and chief executive officer of James D. Compo, Inc. in Farmington Hills. "For instance in the mid-1960s, there were no home computers. There were no VCRs. There were no microwave ovens. Central air conditioning was very uncommon. Houses built in that period have far fewer electrical outlets, because there were far fewer devices to plug in and no safety provisions for ground fault outlets."

"Tastes and needs of homeowners change over time," she added. "Successful builders study changes in consumer lifestyle and incorporate features into their new homes which accommodate the changes."

For instance, houses built in the 1960s catered to the needs of people in the 1960s. At the time, a much smaller percentage of couples had two wage earners, while households were likely to have a larger average number of children.

In the 1990s, household sizes have fallen, and there are more two-income families.

To accommodate the needs of a 1990s household, a house might need two bathrooms off the master bedroom or a bathroom with two sinks to allow both members of the couple to get ready for work at the same time. Fewer children might mean that the house would have fewer but larger rooms.

Each year about six times as many existing homes are sold than new homes. One reason is that people who move into a new home often come from an existing home. When they sell their existing home, which in turn must be sold. The chain stops only when someone

SQUARE FOOT

Just be sure you know — and travel by — the rules

If your job or business has you sleeping in a different city every night of the week, chances are you have incurred substantial travel expenses.

According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, tax law subsidizes some of your business-related travel costs in the form of a tax deduction. Just be sure you know, and travel, by the rules.

How much you can deduct depends on whether you are self-employed or an employee. Employees must treat unreimbursed business expenses as miscellaneous itemized deductions, which are deductible only to the extent they exceed two percent of the employee's adjusted gross income. Self-employed workers are not subject to this limitation.

BUSINESS VERSUS PLEASURE

Generally, you are eligible to deduct travel expenses if your purpose for traveling is strictly business-related and you can prove it. This doesn't mean you can't take time on your trip to meet with old friends, but it does mean a business purpose must be dominant.

Whether you're on an overnight business trip or a long-term assignment, the amount you spend for lodging and transportation to and from your business destination is deductible. You can also deduct the cost of getting around at the location, as well as tips, laundry and dry cleaning, and baggage handling. In addition, Uncle Sam allows you to deduct 50 percent of your qualified business meals and entertainment expenses.

If the reason for your trip is primarily personal, you cannot deduct the expenses of traveling to and from your location, even if you conduct business once you arrive. You may, however, deduct any business expenses you incur during the trip.

BUSINESS AND PLEASURE

Suppose you fly to Palm Beach for a five-day business meeting, then extend your stay for four days to relax in the sun. The cost of the flight would be deductible, as would your expenses for food (limited to 50 percent) and lodging during the business part of your trip. However, the cost of the food, lodging and other expenses on the personal days cannot be written off.

FOREIGN TRAVEL

When it comes to foreign travel, a different set of rules apply. Those rules depend on how long you are away. As with domestic travel, your costs, including transportation, lodging and 50 percent of meal expenses, are deductible if the primary purpose of the trip is business. If your business trip is for one week or less, or when the time spent for personal reasons is 25 percent or less of the total time away from home, your travel expense is considered to be entirely for business. Also, the trip is considered entirely business if you had no substantive control over the trip or a personal vacation was not a major consideration. You could not, of course, deduct any personal expenses.

If you don't meet the rule above, you must allocate part of your business expenses as non-deductible.

WHEN SPOUSES GO ALONG

The rules governing the travel expenses spouses on business trips were made more stringent by a 1993 tax law change. Before 1994, you could deduct a spouse's travel expenses if you demonstrate that there was a significant business reason for your spouse to accompany you on your trip. Congress no longer allows deductions for spousal travel unless your spouse is an employee of your business (and the expenses incurred would otherwise be deductible) and has a bona fide business reason for accompanying you on the trip.

CONVENTION COSTS

Finally, the MACPA also points out that if you want to deduct the costs of attending a convention on your 1994 tax return, be sure you can show that your attendance is of general benefit to your job or business. If the convention is overseas, it's even more difficult to qualify for a deduction. You must prove that the convention was directly related to your business.
