

Contractor will replace bad sidewalks

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The contractor hired by the city of Northville to provide sidewalk repair services has been ordered to correct defects in the new sidewalk at no cost to the city.

That order comes one week after Northville City Councilman Chuck Keys charged the contractor, J.D.S. Trucking, with doing substandard work, and urged a review of the project by city officials.

In July the Northville City Council awarded the $35,000 construction project to J.D.S. Trucking. The project calls for the replacement of damaged sidewalks in Cabbagetown along with the Sherre Lane and Jeffrey Drive portion of Northville Heights.

Keys launched his investigation into the project after receiving complaints from residents on Dorisa Court that the new pavement was chipped, uneven, and hole-ridden. According to Keys, residents also complained about debris in the form of concrete chunks, littered several yards from the site.

"This entire project is an embarrassment to me as a city councilman, and to the city itself," Keys said this week. "It was poorly put together, poorly run, and I now wonder whether this type of work is indicative of other projects the city has contracted."

Keys also questioned whether the city's consultant, McNeely & Lincoln, was providing adequate inspection services on the project, which is already about 30 percent complete.

Bob Warner, president of McNeely & Lincoln, provided city officials with copies of daily observation reports stating that they had an employee at the work area for 36 of the 67 hours the contractor was on site.

First day back is like clockwork Enrollment up from year ago

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The first day of the 1995-96 school year came and went without incident, according to Northville School Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski.

School district officials were pleased with first day attendance figures that reflect an initial increase of 257 students. That's good news for the district because the state funding of public schools is based on student population.

Rezmierski reported to the Northville Board of Education that he was able to tour each of the seven district schools and was pleased with the enthusiasm of teachers and students.

"This has been the best first day of school I have experienced at this district," Rezmierski said. "I was pleased that we had teachers

Restrictions lifted on outdoor water

The water use restrictions that were in effect throughout much of the summer are discontinued effective today.

The Detroit Water and Sewerage department imposed limitations on the outdoor use of water, but those restrictions have lapsed due to the cooler conditions of late summer.

"The ratio of rain to heat was very low this year," said Mary Mazur, public relations spokesperson for Detroit Water and Sewerage. "We wanted to avoid possible service disruptions."

Under the restrictions, residents were asked to limit watering their lawns and washing their cars to every other day. People whose house addresses ended in even numbers were allowed to use outdoor water on even-numbered dates, while those with odd addresses could water and wash on odd days.

The restrictions went into effect on June 19 for customers in all 123 communities served by Detroit Water and Sewerage, including the Northville community.

Mazur said her department will consider reimposing the restrictions next summer as conditions warrant.

School chiefs get salary hikes

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The Northville Board of Education has renewed the contracts of Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski and five central office administrators.

At the same time, negotiations between the district and the Northville Association of School Administrators (NASA) - representing the district's principals and assistant principals - have broken off for at least the next two weeks, according to district Director of Personnel Roy Danley.

The district's board of trustees unanimously approved extending Rezmierski's contract through June 1998. With the new contract, Rezmierski received a 2.5 percent base salary increase, which puts his total salary at $123,416.

The contract renewal comes two months after the board gave Rezmierski a favorable performance evaluation, rating him 4.6 out of 5.0, for his overall performance of duties as superintendent.

The five central office administrators also received contract renewals by the board. David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional ser-

Commoners welcome at the ball To-do features dinner, show

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

In an affair already full of fun and frolic, a new event will make its debut during this year's Victorian Festival, Sept. 15-17.

Sponsored by Genitti's Hole in the Wall, the first ever Victorian Common Folk Benefit will take place Sept. 17 from 5 to 8 p.m.

The benefit, which will cost $25 per person and will include dinner and live entertainment - in the form of a talent show. Proceeds from the event will go to Northville Civic Concern.

According to Tom Genitti, the benefit is not meant to compete with the lavish Victorian Ball, scheduled for Sept. 16, but will be a great way to wind down the festival.

"Show up in your Victorian costume or regular clothes, it doesn't matter," she said. "We're just looking to have some fun, and at the same time contribute to a good cause."

Genitti said first prize for the talent show will be a $500 U.S. Savings Bond, donated by the Northville law firm Simkins & Simkins.

"I'm hoping we'll get about 15-20 people to take part in the talent show," Genitti said. "The more people, the better the show."

Genitti said she hopes to sell about 130 tickets to the event. Northville Civic Concern is a non-profit emergency relief organization run totally by volunteers. The organization relies solely on donations.

"We rely solely on the support of this community," said Marlene

Kunz, the director of Civic Concern. "Everything we get (in the way of donations) is a plus, and we are fortunate to have people like the Genittis in our community."

Kunz said the proceeds from the event will go toward food, housing assistance, and utility and medical assistance.

"The primary purpose of our organization is to ensure that nobody within our community will go without food or the basic necessities," she added.

Kunz said that people not able to attend the benefit but still wishing to donate to Civic Concern can contact her at 344-1033, or send donations care of Civic Concern, 215 W. Cady Street.

Tickets can be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce, 349-7640.

Old plant named to historical place list

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Another Northville building has been added to the National Register of Historic Places.

The building that once housed the Ford Valve Plant, 235 E. Main Street, received the nomination early this summer, according to state historic preservation officer Kathryn Eckert.

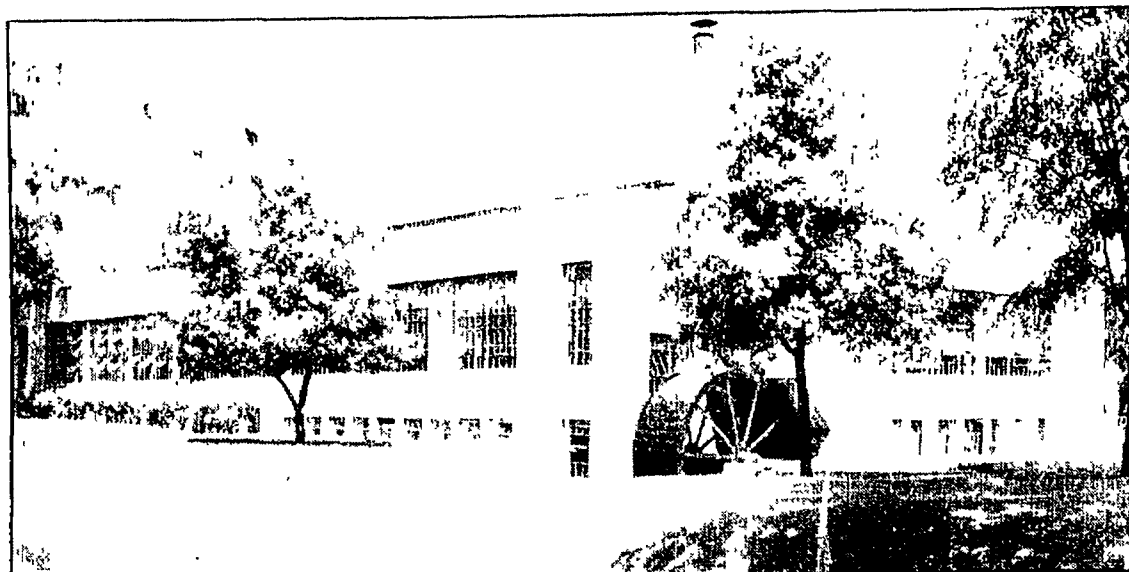

The building was officially listed on the historic register Aug. 1.

Eckert said the process to nominate a building is extensive.

"It requires the completion of substantial research to document the historical significance of the building," she said. "Once that is completed nomination forms are drafted and the nomination is sent to the U.S. Department of the Interior."

Jazz Ensemble has date at Montreux Detroit

For the fifth year in a row, the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival will have a distinctly local flavor. The top-notch, 20-piece Northville High School Jazz Ensemble has again been invited to perform at the acclaimed event. "For high school musicians to be able to share the same venue with internationally known artists is a real kick," band Director Mike Rumbell said. "We've had a tradition of great jazz ensembles. The band will be in full swing at 3 p.m. Monday, Sept. 4, taking over the Hudson's Bop Shop Stage on Hart Plaza.

The Jazz Ensemble won an invitation Montreux by earning a First Division rating at the annual Michigan School Band Orchestra Association competition in April.

It's the fifth consecutive year the band earned that distinction and the sixth time overall.

Rumbell said he's picked out the numbers for the Montreux appearance and said the tune "Hit 'N' Run," featuring the talents of drummer Monte Elias, will be a high point.

Musician Jeremy Abbey, voted top high school baritone saxophonist in the state, is another one to keep your eye on.

Rumbell, who plays the trombone, will perform with his own combo, Ken Kellet and the Bop Foundation, at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 3, on the main stage.

Teamsters get nod in township

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township has another municipal employees union to add to its growing collection.

Seven township employees on Friday voted unanimously in favor of joining the International Brotherhood of the Teamsters.

The results, tabulated by the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC), clear the way for the Teamsters to represent the seven as a unit and conduct collective bargain talks with township administrators on their behalf.

A date for those talks to begin has not yet been set and Teamsters Local 214 president Joe Valenti did not return phone calls to The Northville Record.

Nine township employees, including administrative department heads Mick Kruszewski and Bill Anderson, were originally included in the proposed bargaining unit. MERC, however, excluded the two department heads in a ruling issued early this month.

The MERC decision agreed with township labor attorney Paul Coughenour's contention that supervisory and non-supervisory personnel can't belong to the same union.

The seven workers who remain include all full-time and regular part-time employees of the building and public utilities departments.

News Briefs

MANHOLE REHAB: The Northville City Council last week approved a $119,224 contract award to S.O.S. Service Group Inc., for the 1995 Manhole Rehabilitation Program.

Six contractors bid for the project, according to consultant Bob Warner of McNeely & Lincoln, and S.O.S. was the lowest bidder for the project.

Warner said that reference checks verify that S.O.S. has successfully performed work similar in nature to the proposed work of the contract.

According to public works director Jim Gallogly, 97 manholes were found to be in need of rehabilitation to prevent ground and stormwater from entering the city's sanitary sewers.

WATER TOWER FACELIFT: The city's water storage tower will receive a fresh coat of paint and a new logo in September.

The city council approved a $40,000 contract award to Huron Painting for exterior painting and placement of cathodic protection on the city's water storage tank.

The council in July awarded a professional services contract to Dixon Engineering Inc. for inspection and design of the cathodic protection system of the tank. Dixon has completed the design and received permits from the Michigan Department of Public Health to proceed with the work.

The city received six bids from painting contractors for the work. Huron Painting was the low bidder for the project.

According to public works director Jim Gallogly, the work will begin after Labor Day and will be completed within 30 days.

BAGELS GETS PARKING CREDITS: The city of Northville has agreed to sell four parking credits to Motor City Bagels.

The new business, located at 250 N. Center Street - formerly the Detroit Savings Bank - requested the purchase of the four credits in a letter to city officials early this month.

According to City Manager Gary Word, the city zoning ordinance allows for the purchase of parking credits when a developer within the central business district is unable to provide on-site parking.

The city board of zoning appeals determined that the business is primarily a bakery with restaurant characteristics, and under the ordinance has sufficient parking to meet the bakery requirement. The board found, however, that four additional parking spaces were needed for proper compliance with the restaurant characteristics.

The price of the four parking credits is $2,350 per parking space for a total of $9,400.

Party store's license temporarily pulled following alcohol, cigarette sales to minors

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

State officials this week punished a local convenience store with a track record of selling alcohol to teens for two further alcohol violations.

At a hearing held Monday representatives of Michigan's Liquor Control Commission (LCC) decided that the Six & Park party store, located at the corner of Six Mile and Northville Road in Northville Township, had twice violated state laws concerning the sale of alcohol by minors.

Township Police Officer Michael Wildt said that the LCC, meeting in Lincoln Park on Aug. 28, fined Six & Park's owners $1,400 for the two incidents and suspended the business's license to sell alcohol for three days. When the suspension will go into effect has not yet been determined, Wildt said.

Officers say that in February the store was caught selling cigarettes to a 13-year-old undercover operative. Wildt and Officer Paul Sumner on April 19 also allege that Six & Park sold several quarts of beer to two teenagers, the first of the two LCC-cited violations.

Township Detective John Werth alleged a second violation, which occurred on June 23 when the store sold alcohol to an undercover police operative.

The LCC fined Six & Park $200 in 1991 for selling alcohol to an underage customer. If it determines that further violations take place in the future the LCC can suspend or even revoke the store's liquor license, Wildt said.

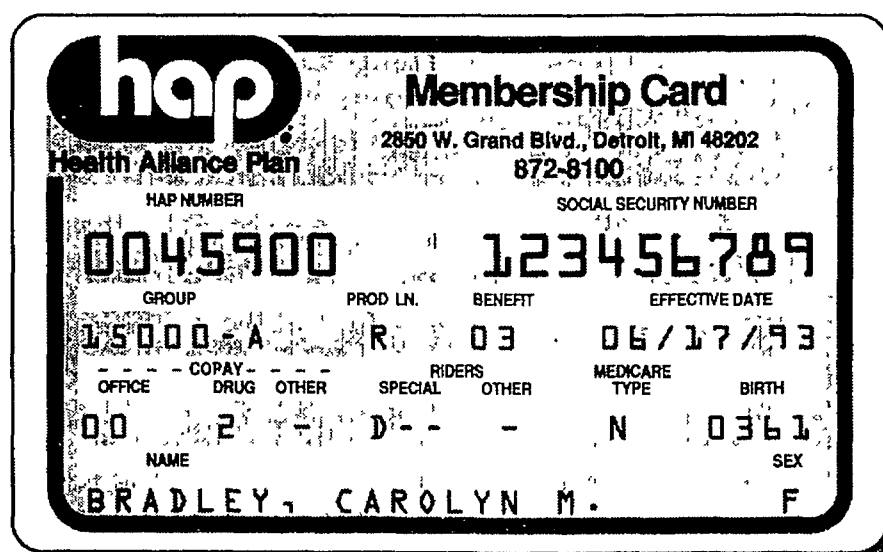

The LCC ruling puts teeth into Northville's "Zero Tolerance" anti-drug and anti-teen-drinking message, Werth said.

"This shows that we are not putting up with selling alcohol or tobacco to minors," Werth said. "We in the police department are, doing all we can to enforce the law and make sure it doesn't happen."

"This shows that we are not putting up with selling alcohol or tobacco to minors. We in the police department are doing all we can to enforce the law and make sure it doesn't happen."

Youth Assistance needs a few good men, women

It's one of those jobs that gives more than it takes but it faces a shortage of willing help just the same.

Northville Youth Assistance, the program that matches area youths with adult mentors and companions, is in need of volunteers to sign on with a training program that starts Sept. 14.

"Only eight people have registered with us so far and we usually have about 15," NYA Director Mary Ellen King said. "We're hoping more caring adults will come forward."

NYA training courses consist of three-hour sessions that meet once a week for five consecutive weeks. After that, volunteers are paired with area youths and asked to spend a couple of hours each week with their new friends.

Visits usually involve simple activities where companionship and understanding are the real goals.

Children are referred to the program by their parents, their schools or the police. Training is free and takes place at the Senior Center, 215 W. Cady.

According to King, seven boys are currently waiting to be matched with male role models. Women volunteers are also needed.

Pat Moylan of Northville, a single, career mother who works as a pediatric neuropsychologist at Detroit's Children's Hospital, said she is eager to meet the adult companion NYA will assign to her 6-year-old son.

"I've heard wonderful things about the program," she said. "What I want is someone to take him to the hardware store or play catch with him in the backyard - just guy stuff."

King said many of the youths on the NYA waiting list are the products of single-parent families. The program asks for a 1-year commitment of volunteers, but many mentors develop deep attachments to and long-term relationships with their youths.

Call 344-1618 for more information or to register for the class.

A garage fire in the 1600 block of Haggerty between Five and Six Mile produced some serious flames but, fortunately, no injuries last Thursday morning. Investigators say racing fuels in the building caused an explosion during the 4 a.m. fire. The garage was destroyed in the accident, an estimated $20,000 loss. A 1994 Cadillac and some automotive equipment were also lost.

Safety belt police patrol gets ready for weekend

When Wayne County law enforcement agencies joined together to get motorists to buckle their safety belts, the motivation was to save lives and reduce injuries suffered in traffic accidents.

Since the "No Excuses" campaign began in March, the Michigan State Police, Wayne County Sheriff's Department and 12 police departments have written 5,276 citations to motorists who neglected to strap themselves in.

The eighth special enforcement period is scheduled for the Labor Day weekend, Sept. 1-3.

"There's absolutely no reasonable excuse for not buckling up," said Lieutenant John A. Mitchell of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department. "Safety belts save lives, reduce injuries and their use is required by law."

"These enforcement periods help make people more aware of the law and its value in saving lives and reducing serious injuries to motorists."

Law enforcement agencies participating in the Labor Day weekend enforcement period include:

Northville, Belleville, Canton, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Detroit, Flat Rock, Highland Park, Huron Township, Redford, Taylor, Sumpter Township and Van Buren Township.

"We'll be enforcing all around the city," Northville Police Officer John Shier said, "especially throughout the Labor Day weekend."

The "No Excuses" public awareness campaign is funded by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning.

Why do so many babies get their start in life at a Mission Health birthing facility? Maybe it's that Mission Health offers families more options in birthing facilities than any other area hospital network. Like LDR and LDRP rooms. Short-stay options. And high- and low-risk settings to match your particular needs. Maybe it's the availability of doctors throughout Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and Oakland counties. Or nurse midwives available through Providence. Maybe it's the classes to help even first-time parents feel like experts. Or the options for pain relief, including labor epidurals, Jacuzzi tubs and other forms of water therapy. Maybe it's the commitment to quality care, where delivering healthy babies to healthy moms is one of our most important goals.

If you're considering a new addition, come see for yourself what Mission Health has to offer. Call to receive an information packet, to find out more about a tour or for a referral to a doctor near you.

Police News

Cops on alert after abduction try

A Northville youth may have been the target of a possible abduction last week, according to the Northville Police Department.

Northville Police Sergeant Dave Fendelet says officers are searching for a white male, 18-40 years of age, with wavy brown hair, in connection with the incident that occurred Aug. 25, around 6 p.m.

According to Fendelet, the suspect, driving a clean white four-door Buick — possibly a LeSabre — attempted to coerce two 4-year-old Northville boys into his car. The boys had been playing in the front yard of a home on Novi Street near Baseline.

"According to the parents, the suspect held a small puppy out of the car window and asked the boys to come over to get a better look at the puppy," Fendelet said. "When the boys approached the vehicle, the suspect pulled the puppy back inside."

Fendelet said that one of the boys partly pulled himself through the car window. "At that point in time the suspect told the boy he could pet the puppy if he got in the car with him," he said.

The boy's parents, spotting the suspicious activity, yelled at the boys and began running toward the vehicle, Fendelet said. "When the suspect saw the parents approaching the vehicle he sped off at a high rate of speed, running the stop sign in the process," he said.

Unfortunately, the parents weren't able to get the license plate number of the vehicle, Fendelet added.

The suspect was spotted again Aug. 28, near the same house, and when one of the parents went out to confront him, the suspect bolted again.

"The neighborhood networking has insured that most of the parents are informed about this situation," Fendelet said. "Amerman Elementary School has been notified, and teachers have been instructing the children not to approach strange vehicles."

If anyone has any information regarding the suspect, please contact Sergeant Fendelet at 349-1234.

OUT OF CONTROL PARTY: A late night party got a little out of hand Aug. 25, prompting Northville police to charge a 19-year-old Northville man with violating the city's host party ordinance.

Northville police also reported the arrest of another 19-year-old Northville man for obstructing a police officer in the performance of his duty.

Police responded to a disturbance call at Yorktown Court, and when they arrived on the scene discovered that underaged partygoers were creating the disturbance and had been drinking alcohol at the party.

When police questioned the defendant, he admitted there had been drinking at the party and that his parents were allegedly out of town.

The defendant refused to allow police entry into the house, so officers began breaking up the party. As they were questioning people, a subject kept interrupting police. After warning the suspect to step aside, he then attempted to shove one of the police officers. The suspect was immediately restrained and transported to the Northville Police Department.

Both suspects must appear at the 35th District Court, Sept. 22.

HIGH SCHOOL HI-JINKS: Custodians at the Northville High School reported several instances of vandalism at the high school Aug. 26.

According to police, vandals spray-painted slogans and vulgar words on a wall at the west end of the high school.

No suspects have been identified. The high school estimates the clean-up cost at approximately $200.

DON'T ROCK THE VAN: A 52-year-old Detroit man allegedly tried the old switcheroo on township police in the early hours of Aug. 17 but ended up getting arrested instead.

An officer was dispatched to the parking lot of Meljer on a report of suspicious persons who were possibly driving drunk. He pulled over the man's 1985 Chevrolet Astrovan. The man got out of the driver's door of the vehicle and began walking to the officer's patrol car, but was told to return to the van.

As he got out of the car, the officer continued, he noticed that the van was rocking from side to side. When he approached the driver's window the man was sitting in the passenger seat. He alleged that he had not driven the van but instead had crawled over his girlfriend, who was also in the vehicle, when he got into and out of the van.

A store detective said he had seen the man driving the van, however. A computer check revealed three outstanding warrants for the man's arrest on probation and expired license violation charges, one of them a felony. He was held at police headquarters until a Wayne County probation officer picked him up. The man faces a hearing on Sept. 7 in 35th District Court on a charge of operating a vehicle without a license.

Citizens with information on any of the above incidents are asked to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

Wayne resident faces hearing on rape charge
Man could get 15 years

(Editor's note: The names of both the suspect and the alleged victim in the following story have been omitted in order to protect the identity of the woman.)

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The man accused of raping a Northville Township woman earlier this month faces court proceedings in downtown Detroit next month.

Northville Township police say the 33-year-old male sexually assaulted the woman, 26, in her home on the evening of Aug. 10.

He was arrested at his residence in Wayne after speaking with police by telephone that same night.

On Friday visiting 35th District Court Judge James Garber ordered the man bound over for trial to Wayne County Circuit Court on one charge of third degree criminal sexual conduct. He will be arraigned in that court on Sept. 8.

Garber allowed bond to remain the same, for the accused, $10,000/10 percent.

He posted the required $1,000 hours after his arrest and was released. The man would be legally liable for the full $10,000 bond if he failed to show up for any court proceeding.

Third degree criminal sexual conduct is a felony in Michigan and carries a penalty of up to 15 years in prison.

The man maintains he is innocent of the charge.

Investigators said the suspect admitted to having intercourse with the woman on the evening of Aug. 10 but claimed it was consensual and that they had engaged in such behavior in the past.

The woman, however, told police the suspect forced himself on her that night in what amounted to the culmination of a number of incidents of sexual abuse which have taken place in the past.

Mill Race Matters

Plan to visit Mill Race Village during the fall months. Spend a Sunday afternoon visiting the local cider mill and touring the Village.

During September and October children are invited to participate in 19th century games like still walking and hoop rolling. Alexis Troshchinez, a local girl scout working on her Silver Award, will be on hand to guide the activities. Her older sister will also be on hand for the following three Sundays showing the herbs she has grown to earn her Girl Scout Gold Award.

Special activities are planned for the Village during Northville's eighth annual Victorian Festival. The village buildings will be open on Saturday from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. A blacksmith will be on hand and there will be an old-fashioned soda sale.

On Sunday buildings will be open from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. In addition to a repeat of the Saturday events, Sunday features include: games of hoop rolling, hoop toss, apple bob and corn cob throw beginning at 1 p.m.; a hat judging to include most authentic, children's self made, children's professionally made, adult professionally made, day hats, and formal hats at 2 p.m.; the annual Duck Race at 2:30 p.m.; dulcimer music, a bulb sale by Scott Kunst at the Old House Garden featuring "period" tulips, daffodils and hyacinths; and crafters demonstrating weaving, basket making and herbs.

Volunteers are needed to assist with all these activities. If interested contact Marianne Barry at 349-5435.

The 22nd Michigan Antiquarian Book and Paper Show is scheduled for Oct. 1 from 9:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the New Lansing Center in Lansing. There is an admission charge. For more information call (517) 332-0123.

The first plat for the Village of Northville was created in 1840 by Daniel Cady and William Dunlap. They submitted their plat to Wayne County where it became part of Liber 19, pages 241 and 242.

That original plat outlined the village boundaries as Linden, which appears unnamed on the map, on the west; Randolph, also unnamed, on the north; a point beyond Griswold on the east; and a point midway between Cady Street and Seven Mile on the south.

It plotted 18 block plans with lots, but specifically identified only three homes or buildings. On their plat these three sites are identified as the mansion, the retreat, and the cottage. Because of their location on that map we know that the cottage was the Daniel Cady farm, the mansion was the William Dunlap home and the retreat was the resident site of the Robinson family.

Hiram died in 1830 before the plat was drawn, but the home was in the portion which became part of the widow's dower. Other community records and remaining existent properties indicate that by 1840 there were several other buildings within these boundaries. These three settlers were the owners of the property who deeded the land for platting and began the actual sale of property.

The only streets named on that first plat were Center, Main, Cady, Dunlap, Wing, High, West, Church and Randolph. Randolph, however, at that time was the name for the street which is today Hutton. Other early maps reveal additional interesting information about the development of this community. More about them in weeks to come.

Open your eyes to the facts about glaucoma.

Glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness among all adults over age 60. And, if you're Black and over age 40, you're up to five times more likely to develop glaucoma.

But, if glaucoma is detected and treated early, the risk of blindness is greatly reduced. So, get a dilated eye examination in which drops are used to enlarge your pupils. This allows your eye care professional to see more of the inside of your eye. It doesn't hurt, it's easy, and it could save your eyesight.

Library Lines

NEW ENTRANCE: The Wing Street entrance is open for public use. Parking on the west side of Wing Street is now available and will continue through the construction period of the new library.

DECORATE THE PICTURE BOOK ROOM: Help decorate the bulletin board in the picture book room. Draw your favorite character or scene from a favorite book. These will be used to brighten up the picture book room as we get ready to go back to school. Stop by the library for special drawing paper. This program will run until Sept. 15.

FALL STORYTIMES: Preschool stories are for children 3 1/2 to 5 years old, who are not yet in kindergarten. Registration begins Thursday, Sept. 7.

Additional information regarding Sessions I and II is available at the library or by calling (810) 349-3020.

LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES: The board will be meeting Thursday, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the city council chambers. The agenda will be posted just outside of the library door.

SUNDAY HOURS: Sunday hours resume on Sept. 10. In addition to the regular schedule - Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m.-9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. - the library will be open Sunday from 1-5 p.m.

The Northville District Library is currently located at 215 W. Main Street. For information on all programs and services, call (810) 349-3020.

Park clean up effort on tap for next month

The Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation will host its fourth annual Clean Up the Parks event on Saturday, Sept. 9, 8 a.m.-noon (rain date Sept. 10).

Clean up efforts will concentrate on Ford Field and Ford Park, cutting overgrown brush and debris removal from the area. Volunteers should bring rakes, trimmers, and saws. Appropriate clothing is recommended.

Hot dogs will be served to all workers. The entire community is invited to participate.

The Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation is a non-profit organization established to enhance Northville Parks and Recreation services.

Remind me never to walk out on a game again

Okay. Color me stupid!

I don't know what the rest of you were doing last Saturday, but I had the pleasure of joining 101,000 fans at Michigan Stadium to watch the kick-off of the college football season for the University of Michigan.

You see, my dad has had season tickets since 1969, and my family lives for autumn Saturdays in Ann Arbor. Heck, I've seen some of the greatest college football games ever played at the "big house," and I still save all of my ticket stubs.

With that said, I plead temporary insanity for the story I'm about to tell you.

As I said, myself and three friends made the trek to Ann Arbor on Saturday to watch Michigan battle Virginia in this year's Pigskin Classic. As the opening kickoff neared, the anticipation was electric. I always get fired up before the game begins - hearing 101,000 screaming Michigan fans will do that to you - and this game was no different.

An added bonus was that for one of my friends, advertising representative Robin Lawson, this would be her first Michigan football game. We told her about the history and tradition of this great football program and that the chances of a Michigan victory were about 90/10 or better.

Then the game started. In all my years of attending Michigan football games, I have never witnessed such a poor showing by the Wolverines. They were so bad I actually started hearing boos by the second quarter.

By the third quarter I was thoroughly disgusted, and when Virginia kicked a field goal early in the fourth quarter to

NORTHVILLE TALK OF THE WEEK

By Robert Jackson

make the score 17-0, I had seen enough, and I did something that I have never done in my life.

I talked my friends into leaving the game early!

I know what you're going to say. "Fair weather fan." But I figured with 16 minutes to go, there would be no way for Michigan to come back and win the football game.

So we left.

We heard the first roar of the crowd as we exited the stadium gate - Michigan had scored its first touchdown - and by the time we reached the minivan and had turned on the radio, we were able to listen to Michigan's second touchdown.

My friend Larry was about to kill me by that time. He also reminded me of the time I refused to leave the Michigan/Indiana game some years back. Faithful Wolverine fans still recall, with pride, Anthony Carter catching a pass and scampering 30 yards into the end zone to beat the Hoosiers with no time left on the clock.

Of course, you know the end of this story. With 2:37 left, Michigan drove 80 yards and scored the winning touchdown on the very last play of the game. We were driving on N. Territorial when Mercury Hayes hauled down that pass in the corner of the end zone, which just happens to be real close to where we would have been sitting had we have not left the game.

You can stop laughing now.

It turns out the the 18 points Michigan scored in the final 13 minutes was the greatest come-from-behind victory in the school's history. It also marked the first time I had ever heard the conclusion of a Michigan home game from the confines of an automobile driving out of Ann Arbor.

So, you're probably asking yourself, why is Bob admitting all of this? Well, the answer to that is simple.

The words penance or self-punishment immediately come to mind.

I figure if enough of you harass me for my stupidity, I'll never even consider leaving another football game before the final gun sounds.

OKAY PIGSKIN PALS, now that I've got you all in a football mood, we'll kick-off this, our latest offering of Talk of the Week. Not to be seen in our huddle will be any mention of sidewalks (boy, am I sick of writing about sidewalks!), or the words concrete, councilman, or contractor. We will include, however, some jazzy students, more dog-days, and a visit back to the Victorian era.

So all of you faithful tailgaters, pull up the minivan, break out the food, and tune that radio into the pure pregame pastime pleasure of Talk of the Week.

ALL THAT JAZZ: All of you jazz lovers, planning to attend the Montreux Detroit Jazz Festival on Labor Day weekend, will get to watch some locals perform.

The Northville High School Big Band Jazz Ensemble is scheduled to play during the festival. The students will perform Sept. 4, from 3 to 4 p.m.

The festival, which is billed as the largest free jazz festival in North America, will take place at Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit. Our high school students will perform on the Hudson's Bop Shop Stage, which will host presentations from 25 high school and college bands.

PET-A-PET NEEDS YOU: Being the animal lover that I am, I just couldn't turn away this next notice. For the past nine years, the Pet-A-Pet club has been bringing volunteers and their family pets together with people who can benefit from the special attention an animal can give.

Volunteers make regularly scheduled group visits to more than 45 different types of facilities, including hospitals, schools, rehabilitation centers, day care centers and nursing homes.

The club is currently seeking volunteers to visit Old Village School and Star Manor in Northville. Volunteers must bring their own pets, and pets must be friendly, well behaved and have current vaccination records. Visits are scheduled once a month and last about one hour.

If you're interested contact Cathy Totzkay at 348-7185.

ballroom of Queen Victoria. According to Laurie, volunteers only need two hands and some spare time to help decorate. The project is slated to begin Friday, Sept. 15, at noon. If you're interested give Laurie a call at 349-7640.

IN SEARCH OF A QUEEN: Laurie also wanted to remind all of you that the deadline is rapidly approaching for nominations to be submitted for Victorian Festival Queen. If you know of someone who could fill the shoes of Queen Victoria pick up a nomination form from the Chamber office. The deadline for nominations is 4 p.m., Sept. 1.

RANDY'S HARLEY UPDATE: Well, we've received a few new ideas for Randy and Carolyn, who want a big wedding and a Harley-Davidson. Melissa called to tell us that Carolyn should increase the wedding invite list to about 500 people. That way if everyone gave a cash gift of $25 - totaling $12,500 - Carolyn would have her wedding and Randy would be well on his way to riding off into the sunset.

Krista said the Sultan idea was a good one - she was wondering if Randy could include a photo of her in the letter - but Laurie Marrs provided a wonderful solution. It seems that the Northville Rotary Club is helping a local area rotary club by selling raffle tickets. First prize is, you got it, a 1995 Harley Road King. Tickets are only $5 - with the Northville Rotary Club getting $2 for each ticket it sells - and are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office. Randy informed me that he has already purchased the winning ticket.

ADD support group meets

. . . tunnels exist under the streets of Northville.

LEGEND HAS IT . . .

. . . residents used the tunnels to avoid inclement weather. Once during a terrible rainstorm in September of 1895, a weary miner took refuge in our historic tunnels while bearing a one carat diamond for his sweetheart. In an attempt to climb to safety when the tunnels filled with water, he lost this precious gemstone. His remaining years were spent searching for the diamond - only in vain! Even after death, his ghost annually returns to the vicinity of Hutton and Main Streets in downtown Northville. This year marks the 100th Anniversary of his heart-breaking loss. His ghost will not rest until the diamond is reclaimed! But, how will he find it?

Much is being said about the rigorous screening process we put our doctors through.
But don't worry.
Some survive.

It's a tall order. And maybe not every doctor is cut out for it. But then if we're going to make things easier for our patients, we must strive to provide quality doctors. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors, before they ever examine a single patient, they must first meet or surpass some rather lofty standards. Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against specific written criteria. (Quality of care is the thing we're measuring here.)

Moreover, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and the results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area.

Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care.

Blue Care Network also works with its personal care physicians to ensure that standards are met.

Oh, and one more thing. After meeting all these standards, the doctors who are selected have the pleasure of repeating this process all over again every two years. For as long as they're with us.

Blue Care Network

We screen our doctors so you get the best care.

City to probe possible soil contamination

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The city of Northville will investigate possible contaminated soil that lies near the entrance of the city's cemetery.

The Northville City Council recently approved a $17,615 contract award to Soils and Materials Engineers Inc. (SME) to prepare a hydrogeological investigation for property at the southeast corner of Rural Hills Road and Fairbrook Street.

According to City Manager Gary Word, previous investigations at the site showed a possible presence of residual hydrocarbons. Word said an investigation plan has been prepared and was recently approved by the state Department of Natural Resources.

The plan is designed to determine if the on-site fill material has impacted the property, or property to the west of the site.

The plan will also determine the extent of impact by hydrocarbons to the water table, Word said.

Bob Warner, president of McNeely & Lincoln, said some preliminary testing turned up traces of chemicals consistent with those used in dry cleaning. Those tests also found traces of motor oil.

"When (workers) dug holes in the soil to perform the tests, they could smell the oil," said public works director Jim Gallogly.

Mayor pro-tem Carolann Ayers asked if the clean-up phase of the project would include the entrance to the cemetery, which is part of the area that will be studied for environmental impact.

"Residents have expressed their concerns regarding the up-keep of the cemetery entrance, and I wondered when something would be done," Ayers said.

Some residents have expressed their dissatisfaction with the lack of attention to, and maintenance of, the cemetery entrance in recent letters to the editor in The Northville Record, Ayers added.

Word said the hydrogeological investigation would be completed first.

"This work is necessary to determine the source of the suspected contamination so that the (investigative) costs and the clean-up costs can be levied fairly against responsible parties," he said.

With DNR's approval of the plan, SME's investigative work should only take about two months to complete, Word added.

According to Gallogly, the cost of the project will come from the general fund for cemetery operations and maintenance. Because the amount of the project was not known when the city prepared the 1995/96 fiscal year budget, a first quarter budget amendment will be necessary to cover the cost.

Gallogly said an additional $700 - for transportation and disposal of the contaminants - could be tacked on to the project.

Ward development changed by planning commission

The Northville Township Planning Commission approved certain modifications in the Ward Presbyterian Church/commercial development plan Tuesday.

The changes will result in further setback for the church, with the building being 600-feet from both Six Mile and Northville Trails. In addition, the alternative concept plan provides for better parking lot screening from Six Mile Road and for potentially better parking distribution, commission chair Dick Allen said.

Ward planners wanted to alter their concept plan and reposition the church within the tract when they discovered unfavorable soil conditions.

The new plan also directs developers to spare woodlands areas in the construction of recreation facilities.

The changes were approved 5-0.

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

RUNNING UP AGAINST KNEE INJURY

Because of its complex structure and the great forces thrust upon it, the knee is particularly susceptible to injury. This largest joint in the body functions as a hinge, lever, and shock absorber and plays as instrumental role in the act of standing, walking, climbing, and kicking. It is no wonder, then, that one out of every four sports injuries involves the knee, the most common of which is runner's knee. This overuse syndrome is characterized by dull, aching pain in the area of the kneecap that is most noticeable when descending stairs or hills. The problem can be addressed at its source by strengthening the quadriceps. Muscle weakness otherwise contributes to improper tracking of the kneecap and runner's knee. Strengthening exercises are recommended.

At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., we stress simple common sense treatment techniques. Our therapists offer individualized treatment programs that focus on returning patients to their highest level of function. For more information, or to schedule an appointment, call us at 349-3816. We work closely with referring physicians and provide timely initial evaluations and routine progress correspondence. You will find us at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

P.S. "Runner's knee" is not restricted to runners. Skiers, cyclists, soccer players and those who engage in high-impact aerobics are also vulnerable.

Obituaries

STURGILL E. TRAVIS

Sturgill E. Travis died Aug. 14, 1995, in Plymouth Court Health Care, Plymouth. He was 94.

Mr. Travis was a graduate of the University of Kentucky. In 1947 he founded the S.E. Travis Insurance Agency in Detroit and was active in its operations until his semi-retirement in 1982. He continued in the insurance field at a reduced schedule until 1990.

Mr. Travis was an auxiliary policeman with the Detroit Police Department during World War II. His memberships included Temple Baptist Church in Redford Township for 57 years, Past Master of Phonicia-Waverly Lodge No. 527 F&AM, Scottish Rite Valley of Detroit, Shriners, Artes Grotto and the Northwest Detroit High Twelve Club, of which he was past secretary.

Survivors include a son, Raymond (Louise) of Northville, one sister, two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

A Masonic service was conducted by Phonicia-Waverly Lodge No. 527 on Thursday, Aug. 17. A funeral service was held on Friday, Aug. 18, at Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home in Northville with The Rev. Dr. Stanley Kruse, Temple Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in Acacia Park Cemetery, Southfield.

Memorial contributions to the Temple Baptist Church Calvary Class, 23800 W. Chicago, Redford, MI 48239, would be appreciated by the family.

ANNIE LESSARD

Annie Lessard died Aug. 20, 1995, in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Superior Township. She was 84.

Mrs. Lessard was born in Newton, England, on March 26, 1911, and was a resident of the area all her adult life.

Tiny Tots registration

The Tiny Tots preschool program offered by the Salvation Army of Plymouth is accepting applications for the 1995-96 school year. Your child is eligible for the program if he or she will be 3 or 4 years old by Dec. 1.

Tiny Tots is a non-profit, Christian preschool program. Tiny Tots also provides parents with an opportunity to learn and grow with children in a caring environment.

The Salvation Army is located at 9451 S. Main Street in Plymouth. Its service area includes the Northville community.

For additional information and registration call 453-5464

Mrs. Lessard retired in 1973 from Hydramatic after 19 years of service. She was the recording secretary of UAW Local No. 735 Retirees at the time of her death. Mrs. Lessard was past chairman of UAW Local No. 735, past recording secretary for Region 1-A of the UAW, and was also on the National Council of Senior Citizens.

Her survivors are her sons, David (Ruth) of LaPunta, Calif., and James (Marcia) of Jackson; sisters, Elsie Kerrick of Westland, Ethel Heck of Howell, Gladys Stefan of Chelsea, and Edith Carlton of Redford; brothers, Fred Watson of Florida, and William Watson of Livonia; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, William D. on Feb. 4, 1983.

Services were held on Wednesday, Aug. 23, at the Northrop-Sas-saman Funeral Home, in Northville. The Rev. Eldon Beery from the First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiated. Interment was at Grand Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

ROBERT V. FORDE

Robert V. Forde, a longtime public servant in Northville Township, died Aug. 18, 1995, at Providence Hospital in Southfield. He was 66.

Mr. Forde lived in Plymouth Township and was a 20-year employee of the Northville Township Department of Public Safety, working as a holiday and weekend radio dispatcher for the last 10 1/2 years.

"He was a dedicated public servant, who really cared about his job," township Detective John Werth said. "We're going to miss him and his contribution to our work."

Forde also worked full-time in the medical supplies field and owned his own business. His survivors include wife Lynn and children Kathleen, Patricia, Robert Jr., Michael, Ann, Thomas and Jamie, as well as five grandchildren, sister Grace and brothers Herb, Donald and Barry.

A funeral service was held at the Manns-Ferguson Funeral Home in Livonia last week. Memorial contributions may be sent to the American Cancer Society or Diabetes Association.

ALICE C. RITCHIE

Alice C. (Chrystawka) Ritchie of Northville died Aug. 22, 1995, at her residence. Born in Pennsylvania on Jan. 7, 1920, she was 75 when she died.

Mrs. Ritchie resided in Northville most of her life. Before retiring, she was a secretary for the City of Northville.

Surviving is her son, James C. of Westland, and one grandchild.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Harvey P., on Nov. 5, 1990.

A private service was held at Casterline Funeral Home in Northville.

The family would appreciate memorials to Angela Hospice, 14100 Newburgh, Livonia, MI 48154.

ODILE FAST

Odile Fast of the Northville area died Aug. 22, 1995, at Providence Hospital in Southfield. She was 75.

Mrs. Fast was born on Oct. 8, 1919, in Verwood, Canada, to Charles R. and Lena Mae (Johnson) Totton. She moved from Detroit to Northville in 1974 and was a retired, former self-employed accountant. Her memberships included the First United Methodist Church of Northville, Plymouth B.P.W. and I.M.A. Detroit Chapter.

Survivors include her husband, Andrew; son, Charles of California; daughters, Doreen Tress of Ypsilanti, and Katherine Kinney of Walled Lake; sister, Odette McLeod of Canada; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A service was held on Friday, Aug. 25, at Casterline Funeral Home in Northville with Rev. Thomas M. Beagan, First United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was at Glen Eden Memorial Park, Livonia.

The family would appreciate donations to the charity of choice

Company proposal to buy cable firm delayed

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville will allow a 45-day extension period before acting on a request by Continental Cablevision to purchase Omnicom Inc., the city's current cable provider.

That decision came at the Northville City Council meeting last week, and gives Continental more time to provide city officials with additional information on the proposed transfer.

According to City Manager Gary Word, the city became aware of Continental's proposed acquisition late last year. The company then signed a purchase agreement in early 1995 in hopes of completing the acquisition by this fall.

However, the Federal Communications Commission requires cable companies to undergo a review process with local franchise communities, before the sale can be complete. That review, according to Word, allows communities to evaluate the purchasing company's financial, legal and technical experience.

The FCC mandates that local communities must review the information and make a decision in 120 days.

With that deadline approaching, Word said, the city's cable consultant still had not received all the information from Continental, and his first recommendation to the council was to deny Continental's request.

"With the 120 day deadline approaching, the city attorney recommended denial of the application," Word said in his initial report to the council. "There is simply not enough information to properly pass judgment favorably on the transfer."

According to city cable consultant Michael Hunt, there are a host of concerns regarding the purchase including non-compliance issues with Omnicom.

"In the event the consortium communities press forward with suspected areas of non-compliance under the current franchise, which party - Omnicom or Continental - is responsible and to what degree?" Hunt asked.

Other concerns include whether Continental plans to keep the franchise or sell it after three years, or transfer the franchise in-house from Continental Cablevision Investments Inc. to Continental Cablevision.

Continental Senior Vice President Richard Weigand, at the last minute, requested an additional 45 days to provide the information.

"We believe an extension will permit (city staff) to review fully the information on the transfer," Weigand said. "We also hope (Northville and Omnicom) can conclude franchise renewal discussions during the extension period."

City officials and Omnicom representatives have been negotiating the new franchise agreement for the past two years.

Continental must also receive approval from Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township - included in the Omnicom service area - before the transfer of ownership is complete.

Mayor Chris Johnson, obviously frustrated with yet another delay, said the 45-day extension will be the last.

"I would recommend that if we do not get the necessary information within that time period that we deny (Continental's) request for transfer of ownership," he said.

Tennis screens approved

The Northville City Council has approved the purchase of wind-screens for the renovated tennis courts at Fish Hatchery Park. The purchase of the screens will cost $2,975, with funds coming from the Department of Natural Resources.

According to parks and recreation director Traci Johnson, the renovation project was $20,000 under budget, which allowed the DNR to give approval to the wind-screen purchase.

in every classroom waiting for their students to arrive, and all of the principals reported that everything went smoothly.

Monday was a half-day for students and teachers. The first full day of school was conducted on Tuesday.

Assistant Superintendent for administrative services David Bolitho reported that he received very few complaints from parents.

"Everything went as scheduled and we detected no problems," he said.

Bolitho also provided the board with a preliminary attendance report that showed the increase in student population. He explained that the numbers will fluctuate within the next several weeks and will even out within a month or so.

At the elementary school level (K-5), all five schools showed either an increase or the same level of attendance. Silver Springs and Thornton Creek had the highest increase in students with membership counts of 353 and 505 respectively.

Both middle schools also reported student increase, as did the high school.

Sidewalk repair project won't involve extra cost

Officially the project had run for eight days, with McNeely & Lincoln providing inspection services for about 4.5 days. The city is paying McNeely & Lincoln $250 per day to perform inspection services. The end result, according to Keys, is that McNeely & Lincoln would be collecting $2,000 in consultant fees for performing $1,000 worth of inspection work. "I really think we, as a city council, need to reexamine our process for contract letting and contract management," Keys said. According to City Manager Gary Word, McNeely & Lincoln has agreed to waive the inspection fees for the eight days of the project. The firm will begin billing for those services when work resumes on the project. Word also said that J.D.S. Trucking will make the necessary repairs to the defective work at no cost to city residents. Warner defended his firm's work on the project, stating that there were several instances where McNeely & Lincoln notified the contractor of defects, immediately following the placement of concrete. "In some instances, a temporary patch or wedge we placed to correct a hazard until the defect

"It may have been a case of the contractor may have experienced difficulty forming and tooling the concrete during the hot weather."

could be corrected," he told city officials. "It's easy to check the forms and the depth of the sand, but you really can't identify defects until the concrete is poured," Warner said. "It may have been a case of the contractor may have experienced difficulty forming and tooling the concrete during the hot weather." There were instances where the contractor completed his work before the inspector could arrive because of the hot weather, Warner added. All of the councilman's charges resulted in a meeting Aug. 25 between city officials and representatives of McNeely & Lincoln and J.D.S. Trucking. Warner said that the purpose of the meeting was to review the defects and put together a plan to correct them. According to Warner the three parties walked the entire length of Dorisa Court to review the work. "The contractor was completely cooperative during the review process," Warner said. "He wants to provide the city with quality work." In all, about 3,811 square feet of concrete will have to be removed and replaced, Warner said. The removal of the defective sidewalk could begin as early as Friday, with replacement of the sidewalk to begin next week. Warner maintains that the contractor has the capability to successfully complete the work, and recommended that the company be allowed to correct the defects and to "demonstrate his proficiency." Should J.D.S. be unable to correct problems, Warner said the contract would be terminated and another contractor would be sought to complete the work. According to Warner the contract specifies that the contractor has 60 calendar days to complete the project. After that, the contractor would be assessed damages of $125 per day.

ties to the national register are made by the State Historic Preservation Office at the Michigan Department of State. The building, which is currently owned by R&D Enterprises, is important both in the industrial history of southeastern Michigan and as a significant work of American architect Albert Kahn, according to Eckert. The plant was an integral part of Henry Ford's village industry experiment, Eckert added. Ford purchased the property in 1919 and reassigned all existing company employees who lived in the Northville area to the new facility. Ford employees renovated an existing mill and woodworking shop, and by 1920 the plant was manufacturing valves for Ford cars and tractors. In keeping with his specification that all village industry facilities should be as progressive as possible, Ford hired Kahn to draw up plans for the new building, Eckert said. Workers at the Northville plant continued producing valves until 1978. During the 1980s, the facility was used to manufacture fuel tanks. The plant was closed in 1988. Eckert said the plant was important in the development of the auto industry in the Detroit metropolitan area. "As an example of Ford's vision for his village industries, the Northville plant represents an interesting subcontext of the development of the automobile industry in southeastern Michigan," she said. The National Register of Historic places is the nation's official list of districts, sites, buildings, structures and objects significant in American history. The listing of the plant provides recognition that the property was significant in the heritage of Northville and the state of Michigan, Eckert said.

Queen for a Weekend

The Northville Victorian Festival is looking for a local woman to play Queen Victoria for the weekend of the seventh annual festival, September 15-17. Organizers ask that the queen be at least 18 years-old, provide her own costume and circulate during the festival, playing-up the role as much as possible. As a thank-you, the festival committee will give the queen free tickets for herself and a guest to the Victorian Ball on September 16.

The winner will be chosen by a drawing.

District administrators get salary, fringe hikes

vices, received a 2.5 percent increase on their salary base. Bolitho will earn $99,370, and McMaster $110,093 for the 1995-96 school year. The three district directors, Roy Danley, John Street, director of business and finance, and Robert Sornson, executive director of special education, received a base salary increase of 6 percent, along with a 1 percent increase in their salary option clause, a tax sheltered annuity. With the increase Danley will earn $87,467, Street $88,547, and Sornson $90,910.

Also included in all of the administrators' salary packages is 75 percent payment of health insurance premiums, along with 33 paid vacation days. Administrators also receive salary credits for advanced academic degrees. Rezmierski receives an auto allowance credit. Board trustee Martha Nield said that the increased salary recommendations for Danley, Street, and Sornson is in line with the plan outlined by the board three years ago. "These salary increases are in keeping with the previous years' recommendations and board of education support," she said. All five of the central office administrators' contracts will run to the 1996-97 school year. Meanwhile, Danley said contract negotiations with NASA have not yielded any results, and he doesn't know when an agreement will be reached. "Both parties are some distance apart as far as the negotiations are concerned," he said. "We've been conducting meetings, but they have requested that no meetings be conducted for another two weeks." The association represents the district's seven principals, four assistant principals, and the two administrators of Bryant and Old Village School.

ONE C-SECTION DOES NOT AUTOMATICALLY LEAD TO ANOTHER

Enjoying

A cesarean birth is surgery in which the baby is removed through an incision in the woman's abdomen and uterus. At one time, it was thought that once a woman had a baby through a cesarean, also called a C-section, she would have to have all future babies delivered the same way. Today, many women who have had a C-section can successfully deliver subsequent babies vaginally, and if no risk factors are present, they are encouraged to do so.

Decision should be based on several considerations

Whether a second or third C-section is necessary depends on the reason the procedure was used before, the size and position of the baby, and the type of incision that was used for the earlier birth.

Most cesareans now are done through a side-to-side incision on the lower portion of the uterus. The uterine incision may differ from the skin incision. It is less likely that this type of uterine incision will separate if the mother attempts labor and a vaginal delivery.

Improvements in technology that allow for continuous monitoring of both mother and baby during labor also help ensure the safety and success of vaginal deliveries. If a problem develops during the trial of labor, a cesarean delivery can be done.

Many reasons to consider vaginal birth

There are a number of reasons to consider a vaginal birth after a cesarean. There is less risk of complications with a vaginal birth; and because no incision is made, there is reduced risk of bleeding and infection or other problems that can occur with any surgery or anesthesia. It usually takes less time to recover from a vaginal birth, and the hospital stay is shorter. Mothers feel better sooner and there's an advantage for fathers, too. They can be more involved in the birth process, and in some cases even cut the umbilical cord.

If medical factors indicate that a second cesarean is not necessary, the decision on whether to try a vaginal birth is ultimately the woman's. She should discuss the matter with her doctor so she can make an informed decision.

RECORD OPINION

20A
THURSDAY
August 31, 1995

Our Opinion

Antiquated thinking doomed experiment

Few parents of teenage public school students will mourn the cancelation of the Wednesday teacher planning schedule at Northville High School this year, and we would join them in that sentiment.

At the same time, we do have some comments and thoughts about what probably led to the demise of the program.

Under the one-year experiment, teachers at the school met in study sessions every Wednesday from 7:30-10:30 a.m., delaying the start of school that day until 10:40 and reducing the classroom week by a full three hours.

Many parents were stunned by the prospect of losing that much classroom time and we added our voice to the chorus of criticism.

How, it was asked, could educators consider shortening the school week at the very time when a consensus was developing over the necessity of extending the school year? Why couldn't teachers hold their professional meetings after school?

By way of response, we were told that it would have been impossible for the entire school faculty to find common time to meet after school as many teachers are busy with other education-related duties or personal responsibilities.

Concerning the wisdom of the sessions, skeptics were informed - off the record of course - that the high school suffered from a peculiar problem that didn't affect other schools in the district to the same degree: faculty indifference. Too many instructors at the school had become isolated in their lairs and oblivious to the evolving world of education. There was no dynamism, no creativity, no passion. Something had to be done to inspire change and exposure to weekly brainstorming sessions might just hold the key.

A review of the success of the program last spring produced favorable results and included reports of positive teacher feedback and fun alternative time-fillers for the students. Everyone appeared ready to plunge into a second year of the program, but then in May, with little discussion and no comment, the experiment was scrapped.

What happened?

We don't know for certain what went wrong because the two main players - the school administration and the Northville Education Association - aren't talking. The issue of the Wednesday meetings is a negotiated contractual item, we're told, and therefore can't be broached publicly.

But what usually happens in these cases is that details seep out during conversations with knowledgeable observers and that was what took place in this situation.

Education

According to sources, the school administration was forced to ask representatives of the teachers union to agree to make up some of the classroom time that was sacrificed under the revised Wednesday schedule. The teachers association said no.

School districts are required to add classroom hours in order to comply with the terms of a new state mandate, and the minimum amount of instructional time couldn't be met without compensating for the abbreviated mid-week format.

Apparently that was too high a price for representatives of the Northville Education Association. The NEA leadership might have believed that weekly study sessions could improve the quality of education at the high school but the trade-off was too great. A better learning environment is fine, but don't think you can inconvenience teachers in order to achieve it.

We are not displeased with the decision to discontinue the Wednesday program but we're dismayed by the union's apparent priorities and by the school administration's silence on the issue, contract or not.

So what conclusions can be drawn from the brief experiment with the morning collegial sessions?

1) There is sluggishness in the NHS faculty;

2) The leadership of the NEA continues to think of its members first and the students second; and

3) The school administration is disinclined to make the union uncomfortable.

Sounds like much the same lazy approach to public education that we've seen so often in the past. Such a mindset is a part of another era when teachers could strike without penalty and millage requests routinely passed.

Educators, administrators and elected officials must begin to understand that a new level of expectation is poised to guide the course of public education in the coming decades and that those who are not in sync will be more of a liability than an asset.

We hope this new thinking will eventually permeate all levels of the Northville school district and help provide the students of this gifted school system with the best educational opportunities possible. They deserve no less.

Letters get the ball rolling

The many letters to the editor we've published concerning the poor condition of the Rural Hill Cemetery entrance appear to be getting the attention of City Hall.

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers brought up the subject of Rural Hill at a recent Northville City Council meeting, mentioning the letters and suggesting the city look into doing something to correct the problem at the otherwise peaceful resting place.

I drove through the gravel entrance one day last week to find out what all the fuss was about. The readers who wrote to the paper were right, the entryway is a shambles. To spare my car's suspension, I dodged a land mine of boulders and ruts before reaching the cemetery proper. Obviously, some type of upgrade is needed.

It's good to see the letters to the editor section of the newspaper being used as a springboard for action. Most of the time people write letters to offer opinions, say thanks or make announcements, but there's nothing saying they have to be limited to those purposes.

The letters page is fully available as a means of appealing for redress of grievances, so petition away.

Is he a keeper?

Well, it's getting about that time when we've got to decide whether to hang on to probation staffer Bob Jackson or cut him loose to fend for himself in the cold, cruel world outside.

Bob has worked for us for close to 90 days now, serving as our school district and city reporter. The 3-month probationary period that's drawing to an end for him is designed to give us a chance to see our new hires in action and find out if they can cut the journalistic muster. If, after getting a close-up look at our selections, we think they can't hack it in the fast-track community newspaper business, we can bid them adieu with no questions asked.

But if we let them cross that line and stay on with us after passing that 90-day point we're more or less committed to them. It's not like they're locked in with tenure (we're a non-union shop), but getting rid of them after that date usually takes a doomsday declaration or a high-and-mighty executive edit of some sort.

I think it's all but a given that we're going to keep Bob. If we don't, the large following he's amassed from his popular Northville Talk of the Week column might rise up in revolt.

Which has me thinking...

When Bob first proposed his Talk of the Week feature to me he said he thought it would serve as a good catch basin for small items of interest that couldn't find a home in any of the regular articles for that week. It sounded like a natural to me, but now I know his true motivation - job security.

First day is tough on mom

Dear diary,

This entry is a far cry from the words I put in here Sunday night when I was fretting about Monday morning, Tyler's first day at preschool.

Well, you'll be happy to know the day has come and gone and I pulled it off without a hitch.

He awoke at the crack of dawn and was ready and raring to go. He showered and got dressed in his new outfit and seemed excited about heading off to school. I tied his tennis shoes, he grabbed his backpack and hand in hand we headed out to the car.

He seemed older than four and a half and bigger than he was the night before.

There was excitement in the air for most of the drive in and he was bubbling with a thousand questions about school, his teacher and about the trucks, cars, and school buses we passed along the way.

Twice he asked how much longer and when were we going to get there. "A few more minutes," I would say as he lunged at the edge of his seat. We ran out of things to say and I feared talking too much about school might scare him off. The silence made me uncomfortable and my anxiety was starting to build.

We pulled into the parking lot and he jumped out the door saying he couldn't wait to meet his teacher. Up the stairs and through the open doors.

His classroom was on the right and there in front of us was his teacher. She welcomed him by name and showed him to his locker, mailbox, and then to the bathroom.

She invited us to tour the classroom while she greeted the others. Tyler fell silent as he looked around the room. He grabbed my hand as we strolled from one side of the room to the next.

He opted not to play with any of the three groups of kids that had been preoccupied with coloring, building blocks, or playing house.

Instead he picked a quiet table and rolled some modeling clay. I sat with him for a minute or two and then announced that I had to go to work. He offered a brief but blank stare and I stole a hug and a kiss.

I walked out without looking back and felt myself collapse on the inside. I walked to the car, but felt as though I had run to avoid the tears I expected to see from him and me.

But much to my surprise there were none. Not a one. Not this time.

I waited for them. But they never came.

I called the school several times that morning and that afternoon (several will suffice, you'll never actually know just how many times) to see how Tyler was adjusting. He's doing well they would tell me. You'd never know it was his first time.

Maybe not there, but you'd know it was my first here.

"Mom, I knew you'd come," he said jumping into my arms when I went to pick him up.

I breathed a sigh of relief knowing he and I survived the first day of school.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This newspaper welcomes letters to the editor. We ask, however, that they be issue-oriented, confined to 400 words and that they contain the signature, address, and telephone number of the writer. The writer's name may be withheld from publication if the writer fears bodily harm, severe persecution, or the loss of his or her job. The writer requesting anonymity must explain his or her circumstances. Submit letters for consideration by 4 pm Monday for that Thursday's paper. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity, libel, and taste.

The week prior to an election, this newspaper will not accept letters to the editor that open up new issues. Only responses to already published issues will be accepted, with this newspaper being the final arbiter. This policy is an attempt to be fair to all concerned.

Tacky signs are already around

Once again The Northville Record provides us with our weekly chuckle so the Northville Township Board of Trustees is now concerned about neon signs inside buildings, which can be seen on the outside by us, the customers, to let us know if the place is open or what services are provided, such as One-Hour Photo.

If these signs are "visual pollution," what exactly do you call Woolly Bully? Does Ms. Hillebrand consider Woolly Bully an example of "nice, discreet" visual design? Oh really?

Courts provide uneven justice

To the Editor:
Is our society sick, sick, sick? According to a recently released Justice Department report on the incarceration of lawbreakers in our society, over a 1.05 million people were in state and federal prisons - triple the number incarcerated in 1980.

Besides, there were about half a million people in local jails and 3.5 million convicts on probation or parole, a number fast approaching the 6 million full-time students in all our universities and colleges!

Are violent crimes on the upswing? Not all. According to the Justice Department, for example, in 1980, 33.8 percent of federal sentences were for violent crimes, compared to 13.2 percent in 1993. Drug abuse, a shamefully large population of poor people, institutionalized racism, and a failure to educate millions of our young people are at the root of the problem.

In 1980, 25.2 percent of convicts went to prison for drug abuse; in 1993, the proportion had risen to 59.8! Our prisons bulge with people who are poor, poorly educated, black or Hispanic.

Our state imprisonment rate of 387 for every 100,000 residents is five to eight times that for European countries.

Question: In what specialty of human endeavor is there a "doctor" who might help us overcome the deadly "virus" that is afflicting our society?

Alfred P. Galli

Great support on car wash

To the Editor:
The Northville High School girls varsity swim team would like to thank the community for their support in our car wash on Aug. 19. We appreciated your

Get in on golf outing action

To the Editor:
Attention all Northville High Alumni.

The 16th annual golf outing will take place Sept. 23 and you can't win unless you sign up to play. Not that you have much chance since the champs from last year (and 1991, and 1992) are returning.

Yes, the fabled Dream Team from the class of '64 will once again match slices and divots, laughs and curses with 14 other foursomes at Bogle Lake. And probably post the lowest score, again.

Erstwhile readers of the letters section may recall some gentle whining from the oft-defeated team from '67 led by Messrs. Long and Hill. And it is true that our '94 winning team had only two of the original DT members augmented, due to excused absences, by two non-'64 substitutes.

To eliminate any controversy we intend to be back to the original cast for this year.

And now I hear the '67 team may not show due to a) out-of-town bachelor party commitment (sure!) and b) back injury (yea, right).

So the field is open. Come and take your chance. You don't need a foursome, the organizers - Howie Ambinder and Tom Bingham, (810) 624-1531 - will put you in a group.

The $60 fee includes golf with cart, dinner, skins, and contribution to a scholarship fund (The Richard Lewis Scholarship Fund) for an upcoming high school graduate.

I know one shady CPA who thinks the fee could be mostly tax deductible. How often does the IRS help pay your green fees?

And it is a fun day. After golf is a social hour and you will see alumni from many different classes and maybe a few of the popular teachers and coaches, i.e. Longridge, Van Ingen. A decent steak dinner is usually followed by cards.

So do yourself and a high school kid a favor. Call Bingham and book a spot for the outing. Just don't expect to win.

Engler should work on governing

In case you were on vacation, here's a summary of the recommendations adopted by the State Board of Education at its July and August meetings:

Phil Power

Repeal the requirement for a tough, mandatory, core curriculum for all K-12 students.

• Permit new, autonomous school districts to be carved out of existing ones.

• Allow students (together with their basic education grant) to transfer from their home school district to another one.

• Remove the limits, currently 75, on the number of charter schools and make it easier to get charters approved.

Thoughtful readers of this column will be pleased that board president Clark Durant and his sidekick Marilyn Lundy backed away from requiring schools to teach creationism alongside evolution.

Durant wanted schools to teach "various theories" on the origin of life, not just scientific ones. Lundy argued that since there is no scientific evidence for evolution, claims that creationism is not supported by scientific evidence are irrelevant. (Adopting the device typically used by folks caught making silly remarks, Lundy later claimed she had been misquoted.)

Most troublesome was the board's rejection of a mandatory core curriculum, the necessary pre-condition for real school reform. Business leaders, particularly, have urged tough statewide standards geared to global skills competition, and in 1993 the Legislature adopted a package of school reform laws that required each district to follow a core curriculum.

Interestingly, the State Board's recommendation runs counter to its own public opinion survey, which indicated that 87 percent of Michigan residents think the state should set educational standards. So much for Durant's claim that the board's very conservative majority is "on the same wave length" as the public on educational standards.

What is remarkable overall about the State Board's continuing assault on school reform is that it flies squarely in the face of a set of compelling facts:

Item: Our 1995 high school graduates ranked 13th in the country on their Scholastic Assessment Test (SAT) scores. Michigan's scores in both the math and verbal portions of the SAT have been rising in recent years, although they are not up to the level reached in the 1950s and 1960s.

Item: The board's $620,000 public opinion survey indicated lukewarm (52 percent) support for more schools of choice and a strong (84 percent) endorsement for making charter schools follow the same rules as traditional schools. Yet the board majority wants more schools of choice and easier rules for charter schools.

Item: This school year marks the start of two more school reforms from the package passed in 1993. Instructional time will rise from 900 hours over a 180-day school year to 990 hours, while a new proficiency test will replace the MEAP assessment for 11th graders. The test is tough; it takes 11 hours and stresses reasoning over multiple-choice questions.

The chasm between the ideologically-driven irrationality of the State Board's majority and the steady progress of school reform and the common sense attitudes of most Michigan citizens has grown very wide. Even conservative members admit that their rush to save our public schools by destroying them is driven by fear that the board's right-wing majority may not survive next year's election.

I wonder whether Gov. John Engler, now enormously preoccupied with running for vice president, has any idea how much embarrassment he risks by allowing his hand-picked State Board of Education to gyrate unchecked into outer space. Maybe everybody would be better off if the governor got back to running the state and reining in some of his extremist friends.

Reformers show no proofs for claims

"Competition" and "choice" are two jargon words you'll hear repeatedly if you listen to the far right wing of educational politics.

Their hypothesis says that if schools must compete for students, and if parents have a choice of where to send their kids, then education will improve.

I call it a hypothesis, not a theory. A hypothesis is a glorified hunch about something that might be true, but so far there is little factual matter to support it. It should be distinguished from a theory, a general principle abstracted from a body of facts.

Under the right wing hypothesis, the State Board of Education, with the heavy-handed prodding of Clark Durant, has been advancing an ideological agenda that would undo many public school reforms of the past decade. On the sidelines, cheering, is Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus.

And so we are bombarded with recommendations for public school academies that would be free from rigid rules (we aren't told which rules are rigid and why the rules can't be changed), streamlined teacher certification, schools of choice, new forms of governance, and so on.

Durant even brought in a Wisconsin professor, Howard Fuller, who advocated a pell-mell rush into chartering. Naturally, Fuller had no results from his last job as Milwaukee superintendent to share with Michigan. Naturally, Durant invited in no one who disagreed with his hypothesis.

One gets the distinct impression they have no research, no experience, no facts to support their ideology.

"This has not been thought through," said Dorothy Beardmore, State Board member from Rochester and one of the few voices of sanity in the Republican Party. (Actually, the majority of the GOP probably believes Durant's hypotheses are inflated rhetoric, but only a few brave souls like Dorothy Beardmore will say so aloud.)

Julius Maddox, president of the Michigan Education Association, a union that is often selfish but sometimes wise, called for "sound, research-based" study before the state dives blindly into the depths of new hypotheses.

Rep. James Agee, D-Muskegon, minority vice chair of the House Education Committee, issued a rebuttal report to the Durant notions. Agee constantly stressed existing studies, quotes from expert testimony, and the need for research before the fate of 1.6 million public school pupils is sacrificed on the altar of untested "competition" rhetoric.

So why do Durant and his sheepish followers - Marilyn Lundy, Gary Wolfram, Sharon Wise and Ruth Braun - want to ram these hypotheses into law and practice?

A teacher from Zeeland may have put his finger on it. Dirk Koorstra expressed a fear that the kind of autonomous schools Durant advocates "can be controlled by special interests."

In other words, the goal isn't to change the way all 1.6 million public school students are taught. The goal is to bring a few thousand from private schools into the fold and change things under the stern gaze of the churches that guide these enclaves.

Clearly the Religious Right - a few fundamentalist Protestant churches that want to impose their sectarian practices on everyone through the force of school government - have been exposed and have had little luck taking over boards of education.

So they are endeavoring to fractionalize school districts with "charter academies," autonomous schools and such gimmicks, to create their little fiefdoms - at $5,000-plus a year per pupil from the state treasury.

All this stuff about "competition" and "choice" and "freedom" and "market place" is slick hypothesizing. They have their authoritarian agendas, and with God's presumed blessing, they see no need to do research for the rest of us. Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (313) 953-2047 ext. 1881.

U.S. Rep. to discuss several tax proposals

To make sure that citizens of the 13th district are well-informed about tax reform when Congress kicks into high-gear this September, Congresswoman Lynn Rivers is hosting a town hall meeting on Saturday, Sept. 16, 10-11:30 a.m. at Washtenaw Community College.

Rivers represents Northville Township and the Wayne County portion of Northville in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Rivers will be joined by a tax policy expert from the Congress-sional Budget Office in Washington, D.C., as well as by three U-M professors, who will explain various tax proposals currently under consideration by Congress. She and the panel will also answer questions from the public.

The forum will address such issues as a "flat tax," a national sales tax, consumption taxes, eliminating mortgage interest deductions, and the consequences of proposed legislation. Speakers will examine how the tax burden may shift under different proposals and who will benefit most. They may also discuss how local municipalities would be affected by changes in the tax code, and ways that the tax code could be simplified.

"I hope I can help my constituents get a jump on the issues Congress is sure to discuss," says Rivers.

Diane Rogers is the speaker from the Congressional Budget Office, which reviews all legislation involving federal spending.

Economist Paul Courant, professor Joel Slemrod of the Business School, and professor Edward Gramlich of the Institute for Public Policy are the speakers from U-M.

The event will be held in the Morris Lawrence Building, Washtenaw Community College, 4800 Huron River Drive in Ann Arbor. It is free and open to the public and press. For directions or more information, call the local 13th district offices at (313) 741-4210 or (313) 722-1411.

Secondary festival theme is fitness

This year's Victorian Festival won't be your usual sedentary affair, as two new programs will begin for people interested in getting fit.

On Saturday, Sept. 16, a Three-Mile Walk will be offered and registrations will be accepted for a month-long walking program.

Festivalgoers will have the opportunity to take part in a Three-Mile Fitness walk sponsored by the University of Michigan Health Center, M-Fit, Running Fit of Northville, and Northville Parks and Recreation. The walk will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Northville Senior Center, 215 W. Cady.

The measured, timed walk will take participants through scenic downtown Northville. Water along the course and refreshments at the finish line will be provided. Participants will also receive a T-shirt.

Registrations for the second health-related event, the Michigan Lighthouse Tour, will be available at the walk site.

The Lighthouse Tour is a walking and exercise incentive program designed and initiated by M-Fit, U of M Health Centers, Running Fit and the Northville Parks and Recreation department. It is meant to motivate citizens to walk at least three times a week for four weeks.

There are incentive gifts as each weekly goal is attained and a final drawing for prizes for those who complete all four weeks. Progress monitoring and the gift drawing will take place at Running Fit in Northville.

The contest takes place from Sept. 16-Oct. 20. You must read the lighthouse tour packet and sign up for the program at Running Fit in Northville or the Northville Parks and Recreation department any time until Sept. 22 or sign up at the kick-off walk.

There is no charge to participate in the Michigan Lighthouse Tour.

Preregister for the walk by Sept. 5 for $8 or register the day of the walk from 7:30-8:15 a.m. at the Northville Senior Center for $10.

Applications are available at Northville Parks and Recreation and Running Fit.

For more information call Running Fit at (810) 380-3338.

Health Notes

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will hold a Diabetes Support Group meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium.

Guest speaker Hector Rodriguez, M.D. urologist, will review, "Urological Problems due to Diabetes Mellitus."

There is no charge to attend the meeting and registration is not required. For more information, call (313) 591-2922.

Depression screening: If you feel sad or empty, if the pleasure has gone out of your life, or if you have trouble sleeping or eating, you may be suffering from clinical depression.

The Marian Women's Center next to St. Mary Hospital in the Marian Professional Building on Levan Road will offer free depression screening on Thursday, Sept. 14, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The free screening is open to both men and women.

A mental health professional will meet privately with individuals to help identify if they are experiencing depression. Registration is required. For information or to register call (313) 591-3314.

Aneil Kersey in action against Farmington Harrison last hopes to help Northville to a title this year.

FLASH BACK

Aneil Kersey found a helmet that fit and the Mustangs are glad Northville High's all-time rushing leader came very close to never playing a down. In the fall of 1990, Aneil Kersey was a seventh grader at Meads Mill Middle School. He loved to play sports, particularly soccer.

Football? If not for the coaxing of friends and his father, Kersey would've been content to kick a soccer ball instead of lugging a pigskin.

"I didn't want to play," the Mustang senior said. "I hated it."

There was a very practical reason why he hated football, too.

"I hated the helmet," said Aneil. "The helmet killed my head."

Fortunately for Meads Mill and Northville High, Kersey found a helmet that fit. In two years of varsity action, the 5-foot-11, 185-pound running back has electrified the Mustang offense with an assortment of darting, cut-back-until-you-find-the-hole runs.

"He's an excellent back," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He sees the field so well. It allows him to make cuts others don't even see."

Northville High is hoping Kersey will see enough holes to help it back to playoff contention. The Mustangs finished 5-4 a year ago and missed the state playoffs for the first time in three seasons.

Getting back to the post season will require an entire team effort, for sure. But make no mistake - Kersey must have a big year for the Mustangs to find success.

For his part, he realizes what's expected of him. But pressure is nothing new to Kersey.

Teammates and coaches have been looking for big things from him since his sophomore season. So has the opposition.

"Everybody knew to key on me last year," he said.

While defenses will be looking his way again, Kersey said his success will depend on the people in front of him.

"If my fullback has a good year, I'll have a good year," he said. "If my quarterback has a good year, I'll have a good year."

While some athletes tend not to get close to teammates, some of Kersey's best friends also wear the Black and Orange.

He spent a lot of time over the summer with receiver Eric Moore and fullback Mike Edwards. Whether it was playing volleyball or hanging out at the beach, the teammates were tight.

Kersey has a lot of confidence in Edwards' abilities. Besides that, he's just plain tough.

"He's a hard-nosed guy," Kersey said. "All he has to do is block for me and we'll be fine."

Good blocking is important for any back to succeed. But Schumacher said Kersey doesn't need much daylight.

"I tell the kids they have to keep on their blocks," the coach said, "because you never know where he's going to be."

Schumacher described his senior as a Barry Sanders-style runner, twisting, turning, cutting back and finding a seam in the defense where none should exist.

Smaller lineup faces tough schedule, uphill fight in '95

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Football teams, especially in high school, make transitions each year.

Personnel fluctuates forcing subtle and sometimes wholesale changes in how offenses and defenses lineup. For the past several years, Northville High has been a smash-mouth football squad.

The Mustangs had the strength and girth to run over rivals. But times have changed in 1995.

Instead of a power game, Northville will have to rely on technique and speed to carry it through. On the offensive line, for example, the Mustangs average less than 200 pounds - a real change from years past.

"It'll be more of getting the angles," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We can't blow people straight back anymore."

Northville went 5-4 last fall and missed the playoffs for the first time since 1991. Improving on that record won't be easy.

The Mustangs open the season tomorrow at South Lyon at 7:30 p.m. The Lions are rated by some as the best team in Class A.

Conference rivals Salem, Livonia Franklin, Canton and Farmington Hills-Harrison will all be tough, too. Schumacher said there are no easy games this time around.

"It may be the toughest schedule we've had," he said.

Northville will face that tough schedule with some veterans and quite a few new faces to varsity. A combination of both will play on offensive line.

Ahmad Nassar will start at center. The junior played JV a year ago.

At guard, seniors Mike Scappattee and Matt Woody will get the call. Derek Eckerly, a junior, should see action as well.

"For a little guy," Schumacher said of Eckerly, "he plays with tenacity."

The Mustangs will have size at tackle. Ryan Howe, 6-foot-2, 215 pounds, returns and junior Ross Baker, 5-10, 240, fills the other spot. Justin Stevenson will fill in at guard as well.

"We're young up there," Schumacher said. "But they've been working hard. We're very pleased."

Northville will average about 5-10 and 185 pounds.

"The mighty midgets," Schumacher joked.

Northville will have a new quarterback as well. Junior Scott Vigh takes the reins from graduated Shawn Connolly.

"He has good speed and a good enough arm to play at the high school level," said Schumacher. "He's got a lot of potential."

Another junior, Tim Burke, will back up Vigh.

Northville's main offensive weapon, of course, will be senior Aniel Kersey. The halfback, who owns the school rushing record, ran for more than 700 yards during a season marred by injury.

"Everybody knows what Kersey can do," said Schumacher. "The other 10 guys have to do their part on offense."

Matt Rouhan will serve as Kersey's back up. Seniors Mike Edwards and Nate Forney and junior Bill Sekerka will work at fullback.

"In our offensive scheme," Schumacher said, "he's the key guy."

The past few seasons, Northville has thrown a lot to the fullback. Schumacher said that trend will continue.

File photo by BRYAN MITCHELL

Aniel Kersey will be the focal point of the Mustangs' offensive attack this season. He holds Northville's all-time rushing title.

"We've had success with that," he added.

Eric Moore and Louis Guajardo will work at receiver. James Zayti and Burke will also be pass catchers for Vigh.

Mark Smith and Garrett Carter will play at tight end.

Defensively, Carter leads a fine group of linebackers. He'll play inside as will senior Nick Lomas.

"He'll throw his body at anything that moves," Schumacher said of Carter.

On the outside, Howe and Forney will start. Forney moves up from cornerback.

"He's a quality young man that does the job," Schumacher said.

Juniors Andy Fee and Sekerka will play at outside linebacker as well.

On the defensive line, Scappaticci will take the nose guard position. Baker and Edwards will play tackles on Northville's 3-4 alignment.

Kersey, Guajardo, Zayti and Moore look to be the starters in the defensive backfield. Schumacher said the group is fine with run support but untested on pass coverage.

James Kyle and Matt Minard should also see time at DB.

The kicking game is always important. Adam Tibble will handle the place kicking chores while Kersey will serve as the punter.

Family provides strong support for Northville runner Kersey

"He'll press the hole," he added. "He has tremendous vision that allows him to make something out of nothing."

"My running is natural," Aniel said. "Usually I cut back towards the middle. I love running people over. That's great."

He's certainly got the strength to do just that.

Two exercises, the bench press and squat, are generally standard measures of strength for football players. Kersey excels at both by benching 375 pounds and squatting over 400 pounds.

"Coach says I like to work on my beach muscles," Kersey joked.

"He's one of the strongest kids I've had a chance to work with," Schumacher said. "He's the strongest kid on our team."

"I love to lift weights," said Kersey, who would often would go to the weight room after playing games as Northville's varsity point guard last winter.

As devoted as he is to weight training and football, Kersey's family is to him.

day night during the football and basketball season video taping Aniel's games. His brother, Rick, is one of his best friends as well.

The two had a chance to play together for the Mustangs a few years back.

"It brought us closer together," said Aniel. "He's always there for me. He's a great brother."

Rick's in college already. Aniel will be there next fall, no doubt, carrying the football for someone. Kersey isn't sure where he'll end up. He likes Michigan State University, but will consider Mid American Conference schools like Toledo and Eastern Michigan.

"I've received over 100 letters (from recruiters)," said Kersey. "I'd like to go to State, but I think in the MAC I'd get more playing time."

Schumacher said whoever gets him will get a fine player and a good young man.

"I really expect him to be at a MAC school," the coach said. "I'm certain they'll be getting a good tailback."

Best wishes to the student athletes of

Cagers could be among state's best squads

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Top 25 polls are nice for fans and sports writers.

It gives them something to talk and write about. But most coaches and players don't sit around hoping and praying they'll be on one.

So while it's nice that the Mustang basketball team has made a couple of those lists in the preseason, it isn't that big of a deal, according to coach Gary Schwan.

The third-year coach is more concerned about his team improving on a daily basis.

"No matter where you're ranked," Schwan said, "you have to get better everyday."

It really shouldn't come as a shock that Northville is ranked. With the likes of Samantha Leger, Gina Chlasson and Lauren Metaj back, the Mustangs have a powerful lineup.

Northville continued its improvement under Schwan last season. The Mustangs won 13 games, up from nine in 1993 and five in 1992.

About the only downside to last season was the team's quick exit from the state playoffs. Livonia Ladywood ended the Mustangs season in mid-November during districts.

"We didn't let that destroy what we had accomplished," said Schwan.

The coach said his team wants to get further into the playoffs this year.

"We just want to play longer," said Schwan. "We might have peaked a tad early."

If Northville is to improve and stay around longer in November, a lot will depend on Leger. According to Schwan, she's up to the task.

"Her commitment to playing is fabulous," he said. "She's always playing."

Leger played most of the summer and played in several national tournaments. Schwan said her entire game has been upgraded.

Injuries have slowed Leger down in the past. But everything looks good so far.

"Physically it's the best she's been for us," Schwan said.

Metaj, who was sensational as a freshman, has also improved. She's added range on her shot, Schwan said.

"The perimeter is the strength of her game," he added.

Metaj will start in the backcourt with Lyndsay Huot. The junior will likely handle the point.

Like Leger, Chlasson has had injury problems. She missed about half of last year.

Schwan said she did a lot of weight training since then and has added 30 solid pounds.

"We didn't have her enough last year," the coach said.

Chlasson, who stands at 6-feet, adds rebounding and scoring to the mix when she's healthy.

Karla Kalso, a sophomore, is battling for the final starting spot. Freshman Bridget Bowdell might also get a look.

"She's an exceptional athlete," Schwan said. "She has great speed and jumping ability."

Senior Carrie Dalziel is Northville's Miss Hustle. She'll play in the backcourt.

"She's a very steady player," said Schwan.

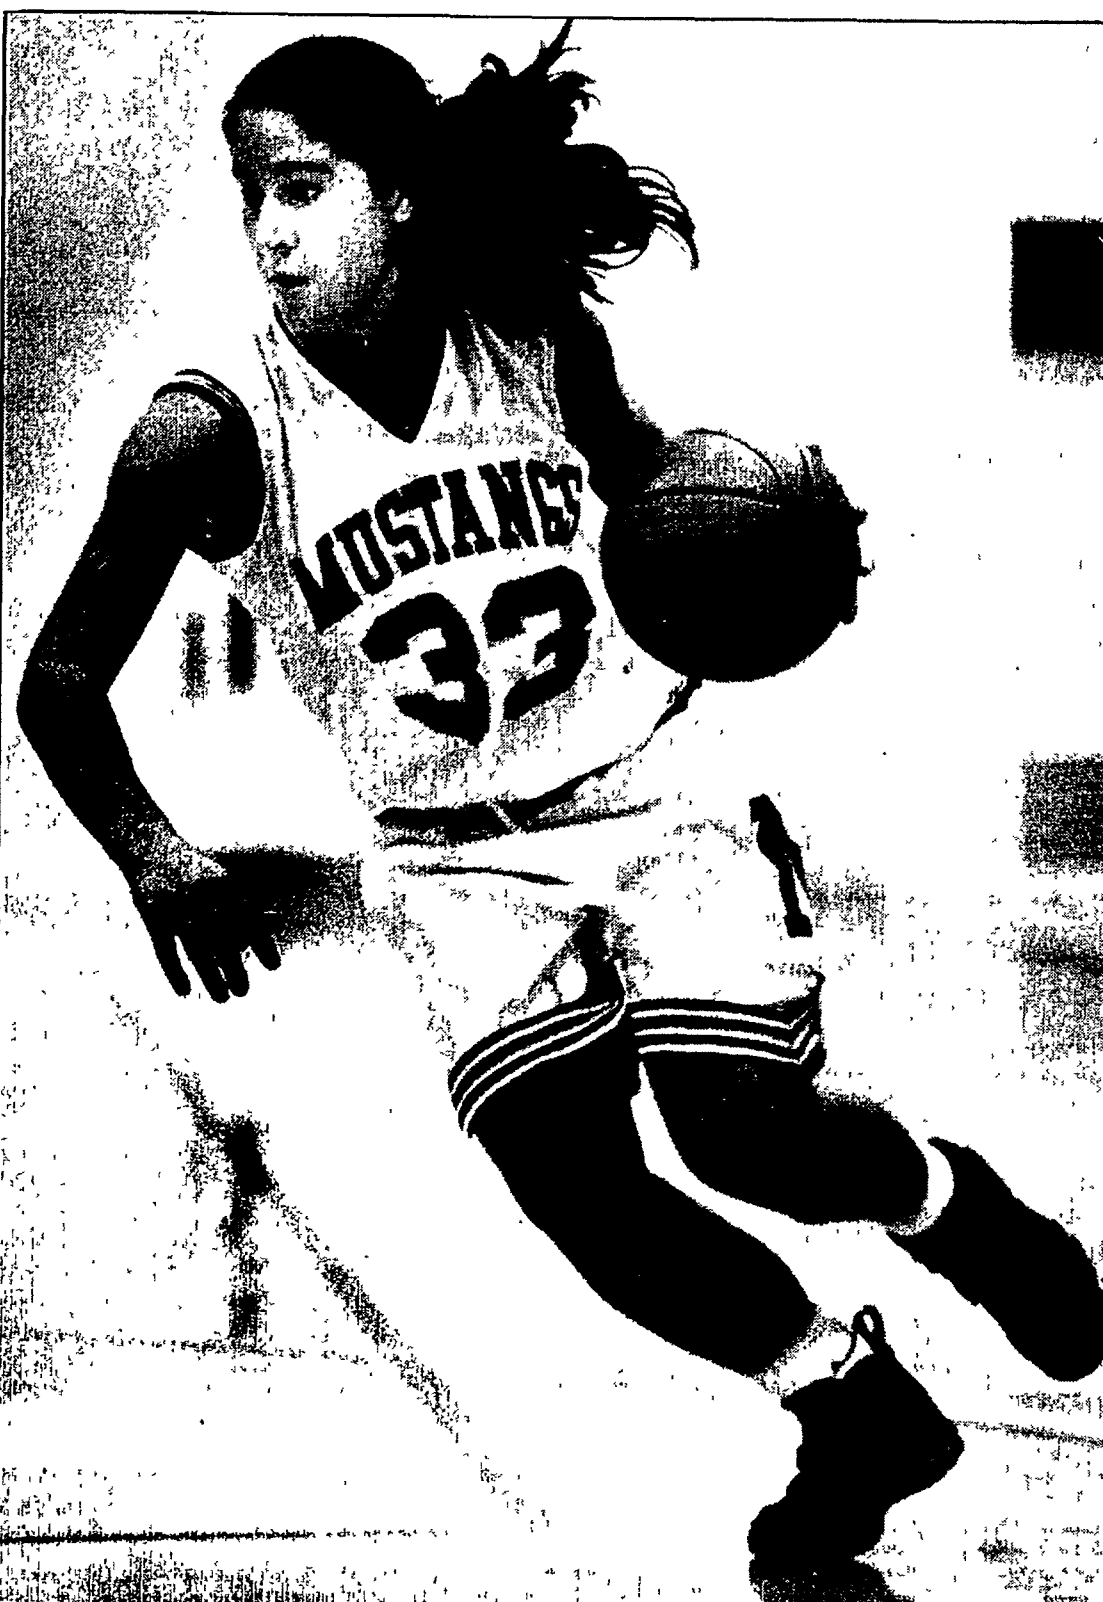

Tami Taylor, a senior, and Christina Herndon will come off the bench. Junior Laurie Albertson should also see action for the Mustangs.

A key to Northville's year will be its health. So far, so good, Schwan said.

"We're better going in physically than we have been in three years," he said.

Northville will need all of its guns because unlike past years, it won't sneak up on anybody.

"This year people expect us to be good," said Schwan. "It'll be interesting to see how our kids handle it."

Sophomore Lauren Metaj contributes both offensive and defensive skills.

Northville isn't the favorite to win the Western Lakes Activities Association despite its elevated standing in the press.

Walled Lake Central won the league and returns most everyone.

Canton, Salem and Farmington Hills Harrison are other fine clubs, Schwan said.

Cross country team features influx of young talent

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Never let it be said that Chris Cronin isn't ambitious.

The second year Northville High girls' cross country coach is aiming high. He thinks the Mustangs, in fact, can come close to perfection this fall.

"I'd like to see us go 5-1," Cronin said of the dual meet season.

Northville went 4-2 a year ago. Top runner Adrienne Browne has moved on to college.

With Browne gone, Cronin originally thought this year might be a long one. But a strong turnout and surprising talent renewed his confidence.

"I'm amazed we'd be rebuilding," said Cronin, "and be lucky to compete. But I was surprised about the number of seniors that came out."

The Mustangs will carry 18 members on the team. About a third are seniors.

Kajal Parikh and Kathryn Mittman are captaining Northville. Cronin said the duo has shown great leadership thus far by running summer workouts and organizing other events.

"I think one of the reasons we'll be strong is because of their leadership," he added.

Both will figure strongly in how Northville does on the field, too. Parikh is coming off an excellent track season while Mittman should make the top seven.

Jenny Dowdell is another senior who should contribute. She also had a good track season last spring and was Northville's top two-miler, Cronin said.

Kristen Wasalaski is a newcomer. The soccer standout has a lot of natural running ability.

"She's quick," Cronin said. "She'll be our No. 3 runner."

Carol Lloyd and Kate Riebling are other seniors.

"Kate's a tremendous athlete," said Cronin.

Northville's top runner this year will be junior Erin Tovey. Cronin thinks she might be ready to emerge as one of the area's best runners.

"She's going to be close to making it to the state final this year," he commented.

Allissa Nadeau is back for another season. The junior "has lots of potential," Cronin said.

Stacey Vlisides, Chrissy Buser and Kristina Derro are also juniors for the Mustangs. Derro has the ability to place in Northville's top seven.

"She's got a lot of work to do," said Cronin. "But she's got the talent to do it."

Alison Murphy is Northville's lone sophomore. The sky's the limit for her, according to Cronin.

"She could be our second runner," he said.

Freshman Katie Spillane has looked good in practice.

"She's been working hard," the coach commented. "She's been in the top four or five."

Kristen VanTuyl is another youngster to watch.

"She's getting strong and in better shape," said Cronin.

Karen Loeffler, Amanda Sprader, Precious Shah and Kristy Cardinal round out the roster.

"I think we can go nine deep," said Cronin, "and there won't be a big dip (in talent)."

He isn't sure where his team will wind up in the conference race. But he's pretty sure of who's going to win it all.

"Livonia Stevenson is the cream of the crop," said Cronin.

Rompel, Kohl lead swimmers

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Every year, the Northville High swim team losses several excellent athletes to graduation.

This year was no exception. Jill Walro, Many Van-Horn, Tammy Cook and Katrina Heckemeyer have all moved on.

Fortunately, the talent pool never seems to dry up for the Mustangs. And with the likes of Katie Rempel, Andrea Moretti, Amy Kohl and Amity Heckemeyer returning, 1995 should be another fine season.

"We've still got some quick sprinters and good distance people," coach Bill Dicks said. "We have some state qualifiers on the team."

The 200-yard freestyle relay and the 500-yard freestyle are just a couple of events where Northville should be strong.

"We have a specialist or two in every stroke," said Dicks.

The Mustangs are coming off yet another successful season.

Northville placed second in the Western Lakes Activities Association and went 9-2 in dual meets. The team sent nine members to the state final as well.

The Mustangs start the new season today at the Plymouth Relays at 5 p.m. The Brighton Relays come up on Sept. 9.

If Northville is to repeat its success of a year ago, the senior class will have to lead the way. Jodie Brown, Alicia Doehler, Kate Gudritz, Heckemeyer, Kohl, Moretti and Rempel give the Mustangs an edge over most opponents.

"It's probably our strongest group overall," said Dicks.

Northville also has a strong junior group.

Amy Cook will work in freestyle and backstroke events. Amy Glogowski and Beth Handley will do freestyle while Kara Lyczak does all the strokes well, Dicks said.

"We've still got some quick sprinters and good distance people. We have some state qualifiers on the team."

BILL DICKS
Swimming coach

Gwen Osborne, Michon Slanina and Sarah Heckemeyer round out the list of juniors. Slanina, a diver, has caught the coach's eye.

"Michon looks like she's got a lot of promise," said Dicks.

The Mustangs will feature large sophomore and freshmen classes.

Michelle Buffton, Alice Callan, Karen Fischer, Kara Guminiski, Andrea Morris, Erin Taylor, Jenni Taylor and Kristen Warnke are sophomores on the team.

Amanda Brackel, Elizabeth Eule, Leah Voytal, Amy Morris, Amber Kent, Brianna Jones, Keri Hofmeister and Jordan Elliot make up the freshman class. Dicks said Voytal may be one freshman who contributes right away.

"She does everything," he said. "She's a hard worker."

Without having seen other squads yet, Dicks said it's hard to predict where his team will finish in the conference race.

But if hard work counts for anything, Northville should be fine.

A majority of the team came into the start of practice in good shape. Consequently, workouts have been more efficient.

"We're doing more yardage in less time," said Dicks. "They're in better shape than we expected."

Netters crush Novi in season opener

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A complete mismatch. That's about the kindest thing that could be said about Friday's tennis match between Northville and Novi high schools. The Mustangs coasted to an 8-0 win over the Wildcats.

"Either we were really strong," Northville coach Uta Filkin said, "or they were really weak."

Novi took just three sets in eight matches. Northville completely dominated in singles.

Mary McDonald needed only 25 minutes to dispatch Jackie Gabriel at No. 1. She won the match 6-0, 6-1.

Kristen Smith was perfect against Jenny Diedzic, 6-0, 6-0, and freshman Julie Glock won her third singles match by beating Christen Garden, 6-0, 6-2.

Filkin was impressed with Glock. She said she'll likely hold the No. 3 singles position this season.

"I think Julie's correctly placed," said Filkin.

Chrissy Kapusky closed singles action with a 6-1, 3-6, 6-1 win over Jenny Cowley.

Novi was a bit more competitive in most doubles matches.

Lisa Cousineau and Meghan Connery, however, had no trouble with Jenny Buckman and Jessica Roemer. The duo won the doubles match, 6-1, 6-0.

Sarah Johnson and Amanda Nelson defeated Akiko Shiratori and Shannon Andrews, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2. Shelley Morgan and Angela Bardon had a slow start but rallied to beat Carol Wyman and Amanda Curley, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4. Jenny Moak and Kara Anderson closed the match with a 6-0, 6-0 win at four doubles.

PREVIEW

With any luck at all, the Northville High tennis team will have a healthy fall.

The Mustangs have seen more than their fair share of injuries and illness over the past few seasons. Filkin thinks this year might be different.

"We're hoping we aren't as injury or illness prone," she said. "That's what did us in last year."

Northville finished with a 7-4

"Either we were really strong or they were really weak."

record last season and placed fourth in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Top Mustang singles and doubles players went down with various ailments during the campaign.

Filkin said the injury bug kept her team from winning the Western Division of the WLAA.

"The Farmington Hills Harrison loss was strictly due to injury," she said. "We had three or four people out."

Unlike previous years, the Mustangs don't have a clear-cut No. 1 singles player. Filkin said three candidates are currently vying for the spot.

Smith spent time in the top slot last year as well as playing at second singles. McDonald has put wrist and knee problems behind her and Glock has been impressive in practice thus far.

Filkin said she wasn't sure how the top three positions would shake out. Whatever the order, she said it should make for a solid lineup.

"I'm looking at a strong singles combination there," Filkin commented. "The fourth spot is wide open."

Kapusky and juniors Morgan and Bardon are fighting it out for the last singles slot. Filkin has been impressed with Bardon.

"She's improved a lot over the summer," the coach said.

Northville will return several experienced players to its doubles teams.

Captains Meghan Connery and Cousineau head the list. Moak, also a senior, and juniors Johnson and Nelson are other doubles veterans.

Chrissy Kapusky won her match at No. 4 singles Friday. Northville had little trouble beating Baseline rival Novi in the season opener as the Wildcats featured a very young lineup. The Mustangs return to action Sept. 11 at Canton High School against the Chiefs.

Anderson may make an impact on the Mustang doubles scene, too.

"She's a nice little player," Filkin said. "She has good ground strokes and an aggressive volley. I think she'll do well."

Sarah Arndt, Emily Howland and Christina Chase are other youngsters competing for a doubles spot.

Filkin said she'll carry 12 to 14 people on the varsity roster.

"I wouldn't mind keeping 14 or 16 on varsity," she said. "But they should be able to play matches."

For that reason, the coach will send extra players down to junior varsity.

At any rate, Filkin wasn't sure what to expect from the season. A WLAA title may be unrealistic, but she thinks her team has a legitimate shot at a division crown.

"I really expect us to win the division this year," she said.

Boys' x-country rebuilding

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Jim Morrison is playing in Northville this week.

No, the 1960s rocker hasn't been resurrected. But Mustang freshman Jim Morrison is hoping to light a fire under his cross country team and open the door to a successful season.

Morrison joins a host of other young runners trying to improve upon Northville High's fortunes in 1995.

"We don't have a lot of experience," coach Ed Gabrys said. "But we do have terrific attitudes."

Northville went 3-3 last fall. Nate Kirmis, Jeff Zwiesler, Scott Lloyd and Sean Hollister led a veteran team in the tough Western Lakes Activities Association.

None of those familiar faces are back this year. Gabrys admits his team has an uphill battle this year. A 500 season would be a good accomplishment, he added.

"That would be real successful," Gabrys said.

While Northville is short of experience, it's not short on effort. Many of the Mustangs started running in June and recently had their team camp.

"We've got good team cohesiveness," said Gabrys.

Dwight VanTuyt will be Northville's No. 1 runner. The senior held that spot most of last year as well.

"I think he's a state meet guy," Gabrys said.

VanTuyt will co-captain the team with fellow senior Ravi Mujumdar. He should fit into the top five this season, Gabrys said.

Adam White, a junior, is back for his third year. Sophomore Tim Schovers is another promising runner.

Kevin Becker and Kevin Morrow should also make Northville's top seven. Junior Julow might also sneak into that top group.

The Mustangs' freshman class includes Morrison and a trio of Smiths.

Jeremy T. Smith and Josh Smith are identical twins. Jeremy C. Smith is no relation to either.

He is unsure of how much they'll be able to contribute this fall, though.

Dave Cook, a sophomore, rounds out the roster. He was injured as a freshman.

“Pocahontas” ranks among Disney’s best

As I waited in line at the Fox Theatre to see Disney's "Pocahontas," I realized that families were spending hundreds of dollars to see the "Pocahontas" premiere. I knew that the question every person waiting in line was wondering ... "Is 'Pocahontas' going to top 'The Lion King'?"

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

"The Lion King," but it doesn't outshine them.

music. Besides "Just Around the Riverbend" and "Colors of the Wind," the songs are hard to understand, pointless and not very catchy, like "Hakuna Matata." Viewers keep wishing the song would end and the action resume.

of humor and you'll even cry. It's definitely one of Disney's best.

JUDGE DREDD
By Mike Kapusky

"Duuh — lam da law." It's lines like this that Sly is perfect for. This is not an Arnold movie, not a Jean-Claude movie, it is truly a Stallone movie. "I knew yewd say dat."

er comic book hero from paper to person in "Judge Dredd." The future is a vast, desert and only crime plagued "mega-cities" provide a suitable habitat for the human race. The government has collapsed, and only an elite force of peace keepers provide the protection, order and judgment.

"Judge Dredd" has the cheesy lines, drab plot, and pointless screaming to make it a really bad action movie, but great music, spectacular special effects and decent action save it from execution. The city scenes, costumes and futuristic vehicles are exceptional, and even Rob Schneider provides a little humor for the cold-hearted Dredd.

IT'S A HECK OF A JOB, but someone's gotta do it

Labor Day is not just the reason to give the last biggest party of the summer. The Labor Day holiday was created to honor workers.

And there are a few workers in Novi and Northville that most residents probably take for granted.

Take for instance, the guys that were assigned to keep the sewers flowing freely this summer.

Or the employee who finds that being able to help people is what she likes most about her job, but it can be a thankless one most of the time.

And did you know about the person who puts the finishing touches on your loved one when the time comes for them to depart this world.

For these and all the unsung employees in the work force, this day's for you.

SCOTT ROSELLE
and
DAVE GOODNOUGH

For two guys on the City of Novi payroll, the object is to come home from work as clean as they go in.

Scott Roselle, 26, and Dave Goodnough, 46, have been assigned to the Vactor truck cleaning the sanitary and storm sewers around Novi this summer.

Both have worked this duty on and off during their four years with the city, but this is the first time they have been assigned the job for the entire summer together.

The city has tried to set up a preventative maintenance program, said Roselle of the summer long program. Previously the job was done on an on-again off-again schedule.

Working permanently with each other during the summer the two felt they were more productive and made a good team.

"We work out pretty good because neither of us wants to get dirty," Goodnough said. "We try to be careful enough so that nothing's gonna splash back."

"I like working with Scott," Goodnough said. "Some people aren't quite as careful and you can get dirty doing this job. With this stuff, Dave Goodnough, left, and Scott Roselle are careful to keep their truck, and themselves, spotless even after a day's work.

Ten years after she first picked up the phone, Kelly Pigeon has made it to supervisor.

KELLY PIGEON While on a three-month temporary assignment in Livonia, she heard about an opening back in Northville Township.

She jumped at the opportunity to come back to Northville in 1990 and now, ten years after she first picked up the dispatch phone, she has been promoted to Administrative Assistant to the Chief/Dispatch Record Supervisor.

Part of the reason she couldn't shake police work is because it's in her blood. Her father was a former police officer in Detroit for 25 years until his retirement.

The chief of police at the time was hesitant to give a still wet-behind-the-ears kid a job in dispatch. Finding out she came from a police family was all he needed to know she could handle the job because she'd heard enough stories from home and other officers.

But her mom was not happy at first. "She sat me down and said, 'We have one we don't need any more,'" Pigeon explained. "She was afraid I would get into the dispatching in uniform."

Against the advice of her fellow employees on the force, she left and took a position with an insurance company. Since they knew she worked for the police department she was given the job of reading driving records. She hated it and in 1990 she was back in uniform.

Volunteer

JOANNE DEWEY

Dewey befriends youth organization

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"You take a training course for Northville Youth Assistance volunteering," according to Joanne Dewey, a library assistant - 15 hours in five sessions, largely on communicating with people.

And then having studied you and your interests, Mary Ellen King, director of NYA, calls and says, "I have a match for you."

That was a year and a half ago, said Dewey. "She's a young girl and has just finished 6th grade."

Her problem? It's a common one. "She just needs extra adult support."

"My husband and I have both been in the program since 1990, and he has had two boys in that time."

Dewey had another girl at first. She moved to California, but "we kept in touch. It's more of a friendship. You don't terminate a friendship for any particular reason," she said.

Then she took on the girl she now has. The two do a variety of things together - shopping, picnics, reading together, coming over for dinner.

"We've done math assignments and flown kites, played croquet. She plays a flute and a friend of mine who also plays flute has helped her in the summer-time."

"You set goals in the beginning," said Dewey. "Ours is to provide friendship and support."

There are monthly meetings of volunteers. "It's helpful to discuss and exchange ideas," she said.

If you are interested in this volunteering, call Mary Ellen King at Northville Youth Assistance at 344-1618.

There are more people being referred to the agency all the time.

There is no shortage of young children who need personal attention.

University women celebrate anniversary at dinner

The Northville-Novl American Association of University Women begins its 20th anniversary year with a potluck dinner on Tuesday, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p.m. The autumn buffet and meeting will be held at the Northville Methodist Church on Eight Mile Road at Taft Road.

The featured speaker will be Paula Blanchard of the Paula Blanchard Companies. Her planned presentation is entitled "Five Keys to Success."

Blanchard has experience in communications, public relations, fund-raising and teaching. Her firm specializes in communications consulting with offices in metropolitan Detroit and Washington, D.C.

Blanchard speaks frequently before community and civic organizations on topics of public relations, politics and women's issues.

In addition to the presentation and the potluck dinner, the Northville-Novl branch of the AAUW will take time to celebrate its 20th anniversary with a display spanning the past two decades. All members are encouraged to attend and prospective members are welcome. Prospective members must have a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university.

For additional information, call (313) 207-1942.

Teen wins world championship in equestrian event

Rhianna Horan, a 17 year old Northville High School senior, recently won the World Championship title in the Hunter Under Saddle event, at the American Junior Quarter Horse Show held in Fort Worth, Texas.

Rhianna prevailed over a field of 104 entries qualifying for the event by accumulating winning points at AJQHA shows held over the previous one year period.

Rhianna is currently leading the nation in total points for her event. Over 30,000 youths ages 10 through 18 compete in AJQHA sanctioned events across the U.S., Canada and around the world.

The show featured 1,953 entries from around the world competing for 30 world championships, making this the largest youth world championship horse show.

"This is the highest honor a youth exhibitor can earn in American Quarter Horse Association arena competition," Bill Brewer, executive vice president of the association, said. "Rhianna Horan should be congratulated for this prestigious accomplishment."

Rhianna, the daughter of Bill and Laura Horan, is an honor student and has lived on Seven Mile Road in Northville Township all her life.

She started showing quarter horses six years ago under the training of Jim Brown at Hilltop Stables in South Lyon. In 1991, she became the student of Judy and Wayne Davis of Ortonville, Mich., and is still training under their guidance.

Rhianna's quarter horse, "Now Hold on a Minute," is a 4-year old bay gelding. Her next goal is to win

Scout chosen to attend world event in Europe

Ryan Velzy recently returned from Holland where he was among 30,000 teenage youths from more than 100 countries who attended the XVIII World Jamboree in Holland Aug. 1 through 11 near Dron-ten, Flevoland, which is approximately 40 miles north of Amsterdam.

With the theme "Future is Now," Velzy tested his skills with teenage youths from many lands, taking part in competitive events and enjoying the fellowship and pageantry of world Scouting. Jamboree activities included touring while en route to and from Holland.

Ryan and three other Scouts from Northville Troop 755 joined with Scouts from across Michigan and formed Troop 323 under Scoutmaster Bruce McCrea for the trip.

Ryan is a junior at Northville High School and the son of Jerry and Barb Velzy of Novi.

Three decades, two careers

Marge Tyler does what the guys won't do. Not because they didn't learn it in school just like she did, but because she's had enough opportunities over the last 30 years that she has perfected her technique and can perform a hair replacement in less than an hour.

Tyler does hair replacement, hair styling and makeup for O'Brien Chapel of Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Homes in Novi and other area funeral homes.

Tyler began her career as a funeral director in Detroit after graduating from Wayne State University with a certificate as a mortician.

The funeral business was not completely foreign to Tyler, who has funeral directors in her family and had babysat for a family who, because of the nature of their family business, lived in a funeral home.

But it didn't take Tyler long to realize that advancement possibilities in the funeral business were limited unless she opened her own funeral home, which at the time was beyond her financial means.

"It keeps me connected with the funeral business. This is my creative work."

Marge Tyler
Part-time mortician

So she went back to school, this time receiving a certificate as a registered nurse from the Nursing School at Providence Hospital.

Tyler has managed two part-time careers for 30 years.

"Part-time nursing keeps you from getting burnt out," she said.

Tyler works for Botsford Hospital in what is now called the Progressive Care Unit, which is primarily a cardiac diagnostic unit.

The reasons for keeping her ties with her former career are simple.

"It keeps me connected with the funeral business," she said. "This is my creative work."

Although a cosmetics class and a hair reconstruction class was required when she was studying to be a mortician, she picked up the hair dressing on her own. A license is not required of those who do hair styling for funeral homes in Michigan, according to Tyler.

Tyler works from a photograph to carefully recreate the hairstyle of the deceased, for viewing by the surviving family members and friends.

When head surgery necessitates hair replacement Tyler uses wax, hair spray and the deceased's original hair which the hospital saves for the funeral home.

Tyler, who only does the hair and make up for women and children, averages about 200 jobs per year.

Tyler did the hair and make up for both her aunts.

"Who knows better than me," she said. But she draws the line there. She will not do her mother or her sister.

"Most embalmers will call in someone else," she said when it comes to a close family members.

Some jobs are in your blood

aspect and because I was only 17, I would get a taste for it and want to be an officer."

Initial training for Pigeon 10 years ago consisted of 10 days of on-the-job training with another dispatch officer.

The dispatchers have just completed two hours of training on the new 9-1-1 system the township purchased and hopes to have operating by mid-September.

A dispatcher in Northville Twp. answers all the business lines, 9-1-1 lines and dispatches police, fire and ambulance when needed. When not busy with the phones, a secondary responsibility is typing police records.

"Right now we're a one-man dispatch center," she said.

"We're hoping with the new budget we will increase to a two-man center."

"Especially on days and afternoons, we really do need two dispatchers."

Calls on the 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. day shift average about 15. The majority of the calls received by the afternoon shift between 4 p.m. and midnight, will include parties, bad accidents and domestics and number between 20 and 25. While the midnight shift from midnight to 8 a.m. will receive on the average only five to 10 calls.

"On days it's usually switchboard type work. Afternoon is your busier run shift because you get more problems, fights and midnights you get the 'drunks' she said. "Every now and then you'll get one (a drunk) on days. It's very odd. Occasionally on afternoons. But for the most part the drunks are on the midnight shift."

The 9-1-1 line is a separate line and it takes priority over everything except for an officer on duty, according to Pigeon.

Weekends are busier because more people are out drinking," she said. "Conditions are nicer for people to be outside during the summer so they are busier than winter."

Runs have tripled since she started 10 years ago, but a lot of them are lockouts and are people-oriented, according to Pigeon.

"A dispatch officer has to be very level-headed," she said, "but have to be able to be compassionate for these people and be able to detach from the situation or they'd be emotionally drained all the time."

Like a call Pigeon got several years ago from a grandmother in Novi who couldn't reach her daughter in Northville Township. Pigeon called the daughter's home and the granddaughter answered the phone. Kelly told her to check on her mother and to come back to the phone and tell her if her mom was breathing. The girl and her siblings rolled the mother over and discovered that she wasn't just sleeping, she was dead.

Pigeon had to assure the children who were alone in the home that help was on the way.

"I couldn't do anything to save her," she said.

Another time Pigeon was asked to be the female to sit in on a briefing of a young girl who had been molested. The youngster was crying and Pigeon wanted to cry for her too, but she remained level-headed and was compassionate, while she tried to distance herself emotionally.

"I had the support at home," she said. "If I got a bad call I could call my dad and he understood. I had support both here and at home."

"Some don't want to take it home because they don't want to worry their families so they decided to be a support group for each other."

"We're a very good support group for each other because we understand because we all do the same things. We're like a big family," she said. "We fight, we yell, kind of like brothers and sisters, kick, pull hair, call names, get over it."

Usually the officers and firemen will tell the dispatch operators the outcome of a 9-1-1 call.

"It's hard not to get wrapped up in it," she said.

"Sometimes it would be good to know the outcome of a call, but if you had a week where it's all bad, sometimes you don't want to know."

"Every now and then we'll get letters from people (thanking them for what they did) and that really helps."

"It's almost always negative," she said of her feedback from the public. "It's very rare that you get a letter where they're saying 'thank you, you did a great job, I appreciate you being there,' because they just expect us to be there," she said.

Unlike the television show Rescue 9-1-1, where the show portrays everything turning out OK once the dispatcher has been notified, dispatch officers do only what they can, according to Pigeon.

Being able to help people is what Pigeon likes most about the job.

"I've found for the most part people want a female to answer the phones and a man at the door," she said. "They feel that women are more compassionate so they want us on the phone but it better be a man who shows up at the front door."

Pigeon has three men and four women dispatchers reporting to her.

"Ours (men) are very good," she said. "You have to be really dedicated or you won't stay. We've gotten lucky because we have a really dedicated group here."

Goal for pair is to stay clean

I don't want it on me."

"It's not a matter of not wanting to do the work, it's a matter of doing it so you don't get sewage on you," Roselle said.

"I haven't gotten any of it on me yet this year and I hope to keep it that way," Goodnough said.

Sewer jetting and cleaning sewers and catch basins is what the job entails.

"All the action takes place down below," said Goodnough.

When there are blockages due to rough spots in the pipes and things get up hung up, then it builds up. "You have to go in once in a while and run the jet through and blast it out," Goodnough said.

Storm sewer cleaning is necessary mainly due to gravel, which builds up in the catch basin.

In the City of Novi the sanitation and storm sewers are two separate systems.

The big blue Vactor truck has the capability to suck and jet. "It pulls all the nasties that are in the sewer, any of the solids that might block the sewers," Roselle said.

The hose on the front of the truck will blast water into the pipe at 1,200 pounds per square inch. "It really does a good job of cleaning it out," Goodnough said.

"We only have to suck it out if we get a lot of stuff built up," he said.

Roselle installs water meters on new houses, does service work in response to complaints, fixes existing meters and remotes on the systems and maintains the water system which involves fixing hydrants or doing water main break repair when not assigned to the Vactor truck. He is also a volunteer firefighter in Highland, where he lives with his wife and 8-month-old daughter.

Goodnough, who works for the Department of Public Works (DPW), and Roselle, who is employed with the Water Department, were auxiliary firefighters with the City of Novi when they heard about the job openings with the city four years ago.

Like Roselle, Goodnough is also a volunteer firefighter in his hometown of Milford. He is the father of two grown children.

Goodnough will return to road maintenance and snow plowing after his special assignment with the sewage sludge is over.

Weddings

Heather and Mark Powell

Former Northville resident Heather Ann Capote married Mark Edward Powell on Aug. 28, 1994. Heather is the daughter of Marie-Louise and Baltasar Capote of Plymouth. The bridegroom is the son of Diane and Charles Powell of Taylor.

The bride and her family lived at the Bruce Turnbull family home on Fairbrook from 1976 to 1984. They moved to the Chicago area in 1984 due to her father's job relocation.

Rev. Gene Sorensen of Unity of Livonia officiated at the ceremony. The location was by a pond with a water fall in the garden of the Capote home. A harpist played strains of Cannon in D as the bride was escorted by her father down a brick path. The wedding followed a 1920s theme.

The bride wore an ivory chiffon dress with handkerchief hemline and butterfly sleeves. Her mid-length veil was held by a band of Rosepoint lace that was taken from her great-great-grandmother's dust cap. The lace band was worn by her mother on her wedding day. She carried a bouquet of ivory roses, baby breath, tree fern and caspia on her arm.

Maid-of-Honor, Elaine Gurka, and bridesmaid, Angela Boismler, wore mauve tea length dresses with draped neckline and flared hemlines. Also in attendance for the bride was Chelsea Gibson, flower girl and niece of the groom.

Attending the groom were best man, Steve Nicolich; groomsman and brother of the bride, Gregory Adam Capote; and Matthew Gibson, ring bearer and nephew of the groom.

The groom recited Shakespearean verse before placing the wedding band. A pair of white homing pigeons was released before 125 guests.

After a champagne toast the couple was chauffeured in a 1940 Lincoln Zephyr to their reception at Weller's Carriage House in Saline. Strolling musicians entertained guests on the grounds. The groom's mother and maternal grandmother, Evelyn Hanlon of Cleves, Ohio, designed and made all of the bouquets, corsages, and boutonnieres as well as the flower arrangements of heather and ivy for the table decorations.

The bride and groom met as a result of their mutual interest in theater. They are both communication graduates of Eastern Michigan University. The couple honeymooned in Toronto.

Linda and Joseph Kupsky

Linda Ann Amlotte and Joseph Lawrence Kupsky were married Sunday, May 28, 1995, at the Alumni Chapel, Michigan State University, East Lansing. Arlo Peterson officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 175 guests followed at Hannah Center Ballroom in East Lansing.

The bride is the daughter of Ken and Norma Amlotte of Wyoming, Mich. She received her bachelor's degree in child development from Michigan State University and is now teaching preschool.

Attending the bride was maid-of-honor DeLynne Vail of White Plains, N.Y. Her bridesmaids were Tanya Austhof of Grand Rapids, Dawn Johnson of Wyoming, Mich., and Deborah Trabin of Northville.

The groom is the son of Larry and Eve Kupsky of Novi and Susan Kupsky of Brighton. He is currently a student at Michigan State University.

The best man to the groom was Robert Kupsky of Brighton. Groomsman were Jason Degillo of Plymouth, Douglas Amlotte of Hudsonville, Mich., and Matthew Beemer of Northville.

Following a cruise to the Bahamas and a visit to Disney World, the couple now reside in East Lansing.

Reunions

Musical comedy comes to Plymouth

The Plymouth Theatre Guild is presenting Nunsense, a musical comedy, on Sept. 15, 16, 17, 22, 23, 24, 29, and 30. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. and Sunday performances are at 6 p.m.

Tickets are $10 at the door and $9 in advance. Performances are at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of the Northville Regional Hospital, 41001 West Seven Mile Road, one mile west of I-275.

A special benefit performance for the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute will be held Sept. 19.

The Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute is the newly integrated cancer system created by a partnership among The Michigan Cancer Foundation, The Meyer L. Prentiss Comprehensive Cancer Center of Metropolitan Detroit, The Detroit Medical Center and Wayne State University.

The Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute will carry forward both the partners' common goal and purpose and their coordinated approach to patient care, education, outreach and research in the fight against cancer.

The Children's Fund of the Karmanos Cancer Institute has been established to offer extraordinary support for children with cancer who are being served by the Institute's Home Care Program.

Money raised by the Plymouth Theatre Guild's benefit performance of Nunsense are used in a variety of ways. For instance, when a 2-year-old boy with leukemia wanted to have "the purple dinosaur" come to his birthday party, his home care nurse rented the life-size costume, learned the moves and thrilled the preschoolers invited to the party.

For more information or group rates call (810) 349-7110. For information or tickets for the benefit performance, call (313) 833-0715, ext. 737.

Church youth rally kicks off new year

To begin the 1995/96 church and school year in a positive upbeat way, the Northville First United Methodist Church is sponsoring a rally for junior and senior high school youth.

The theme for the first annual rally is "Called to Belong" and will emphasize the important role youth plays in the Christian community.

The rally will be held on the front lawn of the church located on Eight Mile and Taft roads on Saturday, Sept. 9, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. The evening will include a free concert featuring the band CAMP performing music from Amy Grant's Songs from the Loft.

The powerful message emphasizes respect for others, being a Christian model in the Novi/Northville community and, most importantly, the support network available to teens through the Christian community.

"We are looking for the support of parents to make this rally a success," said Michael Czarniecki. Help will be needed with concessions, cleanup and supervision.

Letters were sent to all parents of senior and junior high church youth but the invitation to attend is open to all teens and their friends from any denomination.

"Our hope is for 200 to 300 youths to participate in this event," Czarniecki said.

Invitations have also been sent to churches in Plymouth, Farmington, Livonia, Northville, Novi, South Lyon and Brighton.

The concert will take place under a canopy, rain or shine, but young people may want to bring a blanket to sit on.

Planning is the key to a good vacation

Hurried and hectic schedules, unexpected problems, poor nutrition and cramped living quarters often combine to make the family vacation a stressful rite of summer. But, if properly planned, the family vacation can be a little closer to the ideal of time devoted strictly to pleasure, rest and relaxation.

If traveling by car, avoid stressful problems on the road by giving your car a pre-vacation tune-up, which includes checking the tires and air conditioning. Bring a map and use it. Check with the Automobile Association of America (AAA) before leaving to ensure the route you plan to take is not under construction.

Packing a cooler full of healthy food, low-calorie drinks and snacks is a healthy, convenient alternative to fast food. Is exercise a regular part of your routine? Be sure to bring exercise clothes. You can still jump rope, take brisk walks or use hotel fitness centers.

Most importantly, don't pack too many activities into your vacation. Realize that minor problems are unavoidable, but those problems don't have to ruin your entire trip.

don't have to ruin your entire trip. Upon returning, spend the last day of vacation at home unpacking, doing laundry, reading your mail and resting before you head back to work.

Clients must cooperate to receive good service

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Why do some people always seem to receive productive service from real estate brokers, while others constantly complain of minimal service?

In many cases, the answer lies in how the client (a home buyer or seller) works with the broker. There are ways the home owner or buyer can maximize the effectiveness of your broker's service.

"One of the most important ways a home seller can help the broker in marketing the property is to be realistic about its current market value — being receptive to market data provided by the broker," said Realtor Roger Kida, co-owner of a regional Century 21 office. "Overpricing is the key reason for a property remaining on the market for a long time."

Kida also said that owners should be open to the broker's suggestions for making the property more salable, and cooperate when arrangements are being made to show the property to prospective buyers.

"Prospective buyers should provide the broker with full and accurate financial information when beginning a home search," Kida said. "A lot of time can be saved in home searching if the buyer is candid and up front with the broker regarding his financial capabilities."

The buyer also should be specific during the initial discussion with the broker about preferences for certain types of locations, architectural styling, proximities, etc.

Said broker Ron Rothenberg: "David Ogilvy wrote 'Confessions of an Advertising Man,' a classic book on the advertising business. The book defines what makes a good client. And some of those points could directly apply to working productively with a real estate broker."

Here are some of the points made in the book, designed to extract the best service, coupled with specific suggestions for working with a home selling or buying broker:

Select the right agency in the first place. Be sure the broker has a success-proven track record in selling or finding the type of property you have or want.

Hey, Abbott! This plan offers a diverse layout for a large home

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The Abbott offers a number of distinct living environments, while avoiding the redundancy seen in some large homes.

Lots of windows and a good-sized, railed front porch bid you welcome to this unique home. Immediately inside is the high-ceiling living room with a built-in woodstove to warm family and friends as they sit and enjoy conversation or admire the view through the almost entire glass front. The central stairway, with pantry and double ovens on the far side, acts as a partition without impeding the traffic flow.

The U-shaped kitchen presents a full range of appliances and a garden window. When the ballgame is on the television, or snacks are in order, informal meals can be served across the functional eating bar into the large skylighted family room. More formal occasions can be served in the adjacent dining room.

One entire side of the main floor is occupied by the master suite. Isolated for privacy, this room features a huge walk-in closet, separate bathtub, shower, vanity and access to the back deck, where you can relax with a good book or savor a barbecue with good company, weather permitting.

Tucked in the front corner, near the entrance, is a small, well-lit den that can be used as a sewing room, music room or home office.

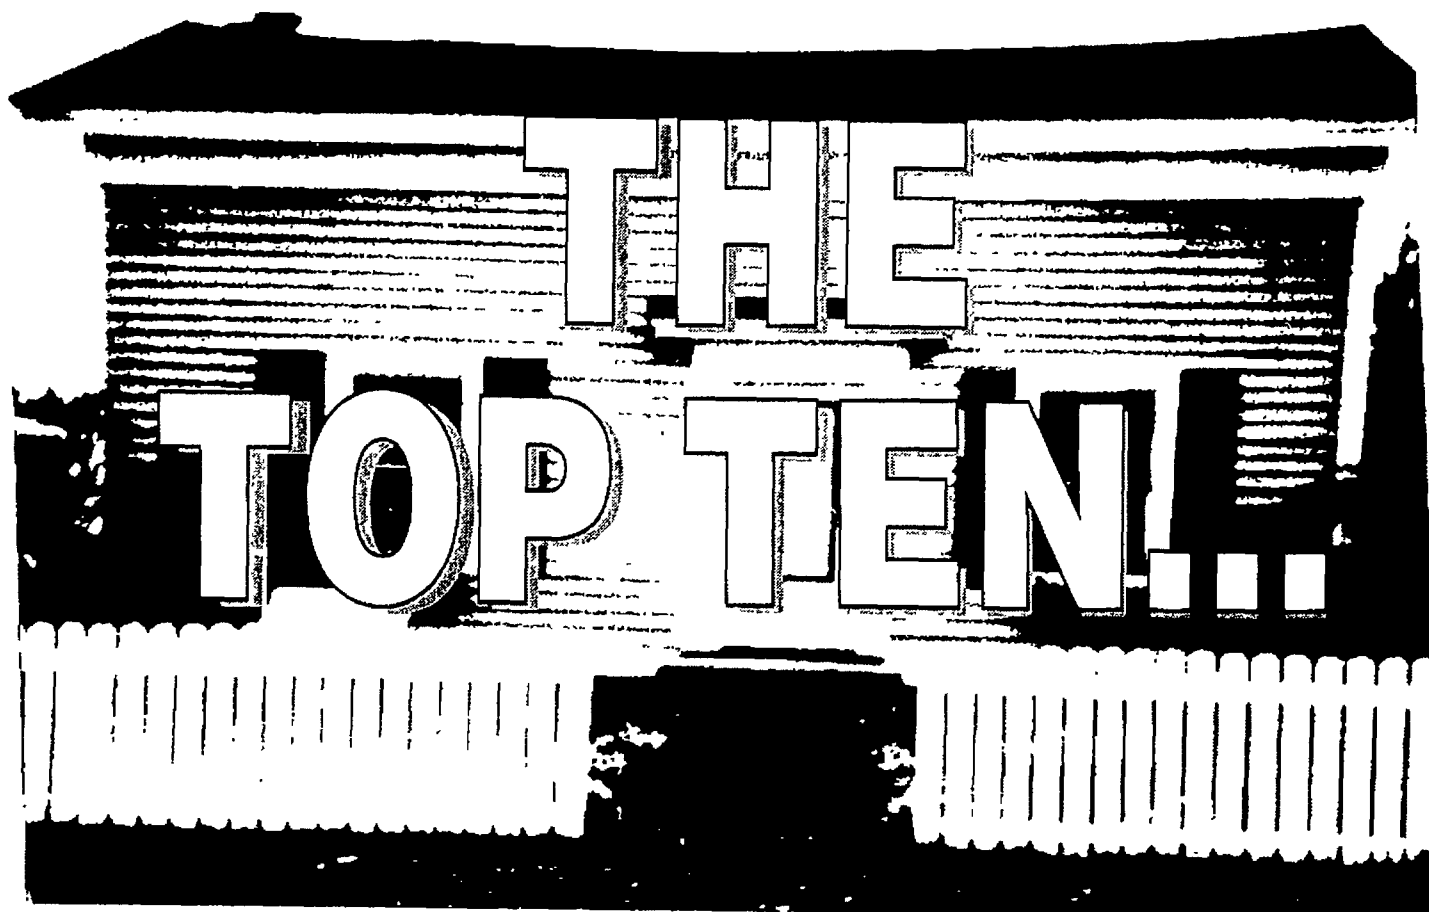

Completing the first-floor design is a full bath, linen closet and utility room equipped with a pull-down ironing board and convenient laundry chute from the second floor. The utility room opens to the two-car garage, allowing groceries to be easily brought in, regardless of the weather outside.

The stairway to the second floor is open to below, emphasizing the height of the ceiling. Three bedrooms of varying sizes, each with ample closet space, and a full bathroom finalize the upper floor of this 2,458-square-foot home.

For a study plan of the Abbott (401-58), send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

...ways to increase home value

By Brad Hundt
Staff Writer

OK class, put all your books under your desk and take out a pen and half-sheet of paper. It's time for a pop quiz.

There are two homes. Both are for sale. Which one will sell more quickly, and with a higher price tag?

A) This home has weeds creeping up throughout the unmowed grass that the beloved family St. Bernard, Chowder, is charging through. In between trying to avoid the slurping canine greeting, you notice that the homeowners still have not taken down the Christmas lights ringing the house, some eight months after the holidays.

Inside the house, a stereo is blasting Metallica while a 16-year-old sprawls on the couch munching Cheetos, and watching a "CHIPS" rerun with the sound down. The air seems a little hot and stagnant, and you notice some cracked plaster and crooked light fixtures. All the shades and curtains are drawn.

You also see that the homeowner has accumulated all of the issues of "National Geographic" from the Roosevelt administration onward and stacked them in the guest room.

In between your cruise through the house, the owner constantly nudges you in the arm, repeating over and over: "Wanna buy it? Wanna buy it, huh? It's a gem, eh? Wanna buy it?"

B) At this home you are greeted with a well-manicured lawn, with the present owners out of sight and out of mind. Discreet piano music from a Windham Hill compact disc wafts through the light, airy family room.

The walls are creamy white, smooth, solid and spotless. A lone copy of "Home Beautiful" sits on the glass coffee table, next to a vase of freshly picked flowers. Plush furniture sits in rooms carpeted in equally plush beige, illuminated by the opened curtains and shades. The fact that a black labrador named Gustav has lived here for six years is not evident.

Now, what's the answer to this pop quiz...If you picked A, you are...incorrect.

Yes, the answer is B. Though both descriptions are idealized, or even a bit exaggerated, they both represent opposite ends of the spectrum of ways homeowners can present their homes for sale, and either add or detract from its value.

Even if your home isn't going on the market imminently, most area real estate agents and home brokers point to cosmetic changes and common sense repairs as being effective ways to maintain or increase the value of a home. They all suggested that a $150,000 home located in a neighborhood of other $150,000 homes, will likely maintain a price tag of $150,000, unless the home has sustained significant damage or deterioration.

Adding pricey additions, or installing things like swimming pools, hot tubs or satellite dishes may add little or even nothing to the overall value of a home. Homes located in neighborhoods with a predominance of other $150,000 homes will likely sell in the same range. In fact, some buyers may find things like pools or hot tubs to be a minus rather than a plus.

"It's real important to stay in tune with the surrounding neighborhood," said Margaret Funk of Real Estate One in Brighton. "To me, a home is something that requires on-going maintenance. You have to keep up with it all the time."

Funk also cautioned against "over-improving" a house, unless the owners are planning on settling in the house for a long time.

"You don't want to put more in a home than you can get a return on," Funk said. So, from the home office in Howell, Michigan, here are the Top 10 ways that homeowners can maintain or increase the value of their homes. Number 10...

No. 10: Keep the yard in good shape. First impressions count. All area real estate agents emphasized the importance of "curb appeal," the first impressions a home makes

...and Top 10 Things That WON'T Add Value to Your House:

10. Keeping your son's live hornet collection in the living room.
9. Covering the kids' bedrooms with Urkel wallpaper.
8. Encouraging the neighborhood teens to practice their skid-outs on your front lawn.
7. Tearing down your two-car garage to build a full-size outdoor art farm.
6. Replacing your Kenmore stove with an Easy-Bake Oven.
5. Leaving a full litter box around at all times.
4. Letting your 4-year-old re-caulk the bathtub.
3. Giving yourself a home perm right before a prospective buyer comes over, thus filling the house with that wonderful smell.
2. Starting a petition drive to get a new landfill located behind your property.
1. Forgetting to flush.

Picking the right watermelon

By C.Z. Guest

PICKING TIPS — WHEN A WATERMELON IS RIPE

When a watermelon is ripe it loses the high glossy color and the spot where it touches the ground turns a darker yellow. Also, the tendril (vine) nearest the melon dries up. Then I rap the melon with my knuckles — the more hollow it sounds, the riper it is. Lower pitch helps, but it's not the only thing. There's a resonance when you rap.

Now, if you hear a real dull sound, simply pick up the melon and chuck it — it's rotten inside!

Watermelon (king and queen) need to stay on the vine as long as possible to develop their fabulous flavor. Only the largest and most mature fruits keep well.

TIP FOR STORING A HARVESTED MELON:

Wash the outer surface with a 5% solution of water and bleach. Each time you cut into the melon, dip your knife into the solution and then insert the knife in plain water. Otherwise the bacteria on the outer rind spreads to the fruit and the melon spoils almost immediately.

GARDENING

"SHINE ON, SHINE ON HARVEST MOON"

So goes the refrain of the popular song. But city people, and country ones, too, don't know what the harvest moon really is, or why it's important.

The harvest moon is defined as the full moon occurring nearest the autumnal equinox, which normally falls on September 22nd and marks the beginning of autumn. Since equinoxes and moon phases are not synchronized, this full moon occurs either in late September or during the first 3 weeks of October.

The name harvest moon stems from 2 things. First, of course, is that in most of the Northern Hemisphere, it occurs near the annual harvest time. But the harvest moon holds an even deeper meaning, especially for gardeners and farmers.

In our part of the world, the moon rises an average of 50 minutes later each night. But in September, the moon's orbit makes a very shallow

Watermelon: picking and cutting tips

■ Ripe melons will have a hollow sound when thumped. A real dull sound means it is rotten. The rind will have lost its sheen and the bottom will be yellow. Also, the vine attached to it likely will be drying up. Choose a symmetrical melon that is heavy for its size.

■ Watermelons, both king and queen, should be left on the vine for as long as possible until ripe. Immature fruits will not keep well.

■ Before cutting a watermelon, rinse it in cool water.

■ When cutting, dip the knife in a 5 percent solution of water and bleach. Bacteria from the outer rind, which will hasten spoilage of the red fruit, are killed by the solution.

■ Watermelon is a good source of vitamin A, vitamin C, potassium and fluids. It is cholesterol- and fat-free.

Share all information that will help the broker sell or find your home expeditiously.

Don't haggle with your agency. Keep all discussions with your broker in a positive, supportive mode. If you feel you've made a mistake in selecting a broker, make a change as soon as possible.

Be candid and encourage candor in your broker. Unless pertinent information flows between you and your broker, the wheels of progress will probably slow to a sluggish pace.

Set high standards for your working relationship. Expect positive results and prepare appropriately for them. Make it a winning team effort.

"It's true that some people get great service from professionals due to their attitude and collaboration with their broker," Rothenberg said. "Others attract horrible service wherever they go."

Q. Do home inspectors need a license to operate?

A. People who perform home inspections for a fee are, for the most part, unregulated throughout the country. Anyone can hang out a shingle saying they are a home inspector.

Proposed legislation in California (SB 258), introduced by Sen.

Jack O'Connell, could set an important precedent nationwide. It would screen out unqualified people from inspecting homes and would establish professional guidelines for the field.

"It is the intent of the Legislature to assure that consumers receiving home inspection services can rely upon the competence of home inspectors," states the introduction of the bill.

One of the biggest concerns facing the real estate industry is liability.

"It's estimated that about one in every 300 real estate transactions results in a lawsuit. So how do real estate professionals achieve better risk management?" said

Geoff Lunt, a past president of the California Real Estate Inspectors Association.

Increasingly, the answer lies in comprehensive home inspections and warranties, he said.

"Unfortunately, the liability doesn't end there. The attorneys are now trying to hold real estate professionals more accountable for referrals. When an agent provides a name or even a list of names of home inspectors to a client, it can imply that the agent has qualified those inspectors. And therein lies another liability risk."

Lunt recommends that people needing the services of a home inspector check an inspectors qualifications themselves. He suggests asking questions, including those covering these four specific areas:

What professional affiliations does the inspector hold?

How much experience and training does he have?

Does he use a high quality report form, with a format that is complete and understandable?

What type and how much professional liability insurance does he have?

"The protection afforded by a professional home inspection service and home warranty, with appropriate options, usually achieves a high degree of customer security and satisfaction," Lunt said. "It also provides better risk management for the broker."

Q. What is the American Homeowners Foundation?

A. It is a nonprofit consumer-oriented foundation set up 11 years ago as a research and educational organization.

It now has about 5,000 active members nationwide. The annual dues are $9.95 for individuals, $19.95 for businesses. Its primary activity is publishing books and other educational materials related to home ownership.

For more information write American Homeowners Foundation, 6776 Little Falls Rd., Arlington, VA 22213, or phone (703) 536-7776.

Tips and more tips for the harvest moon season

angle with the eastern horizon causing a delay in the moonrise. Because of this delay, the bright harvest moon rises about the time the sun sets, lighting the way for gardeners and farmers working late to finish their harvest.

The full moon that follows the harvest moon is usually called the hunter's moon. As the name implies, it falls during the hunting season in most areas.

TIPS

You probably already know that sunflower seeds are one of the most nutritious products of your garden. Sunflower seeds are rich in zinc, potassium and magnesium; 3 minerals your healthy body can't do without. The major healing factor in sunflower seeds is the oil, 70% of which is unsaturated.

Generations of Eastern Europeans and Chinese have used pumpkin seeds, which contain more protein and iron than sunflower seeds. Pumpkin seeds are also rich in zinc and magnesium.

If anyone in your family suffers from gastric or duodenal ulcers, plant an extra row of cabbage. Raw cabbage juice will soothe the pain and aid in the healing process.

Garlic, like its cousin the onion, also has anti-cholesterol, anti-bacterial and anti-coagulating effects. Garlic will help bring down your blood pressure and keep it there.

To keep your dogs worm free, chop garlic into their food, especially young dogs, once or twice a week (they love it!).

Don't throw away seeds from watermelons; you may be throwing away the best part. The fruit itself is high in potassium and low in sodium, but the seeds can make a tea (1 cup of seeds to 1 quart of water) which has been used successfully to relieve cystitis and bladder infections.

Sauerkraut can be made with mixed vegetables, instead of all cabbage. If you have an abundance of zucchini and beans, this method will come in handy. Chop the cabbage as usual, salt lightly, pack into a jar, pressing until the juice develops, then layer the chopped beans and zucchini in turn. It will be very tasty and delicious eaten raw.

Cultivating too deep and too close to a fruit tree can cause the fruit to drop. Not many people know this hazard.

After a summer's drought, many plants are apt to show premature shedding of leaves. They must be properly watered. Most plants should be kept moist at a soil depth of 5 to 6 inches, but with trees and shrubs, a greater depth is necessary. The "key" is thorough penetration.

MORE TIPS

Make giant dahlias develop exhibition flowers by allowing only one main stalk to grow. When the flower buds appear (in clusters of 3), pinch off the 2 side buds and allow only the central one to grow. New lateral shoots will appear. Pinch off all of them but the 2 lowest ones and restrict them to one central flower bud each.

To make solar mint tea, you'll need fresh mint leaves. Fill a jar with water and add a handful of mint leaves to the jar. Cover the jar with aluminum foil. Place the jar in a sunny spot and let it sit for at least 2 to 4 hours. Add ice and honey when serving. With this method you can make all sorts of other herb teas.

There is no way to keep poison ivy (urushiol resin) from spreading from pets or farm animals to humans other than by scrubbing the animal with soap and rinsing it off. When doing this chore, be sure to wear gloves and an apron.

Cucumbers: On a warm day, the inside of a cucumber is about 20 degrees cooler than the outside air. So the expression "cool as a cucumber" is absolutely true! And did you know that cucumbers are 95% water, making them the perfect thirst quenchers on a hot day?

Garlic: Ancient Romans believed garlic had magical powers to increase human strength and courage. We now know that garlic isn't magical, but it is high in Vitamin C and can help lower cholesterol, reduce blood pressure and fight diseases like cancer.

Melons: Contrary to popular belief, shaking and thumping a melon won't help you pick a winner. The ripest, best tasting melons have a creamy-yellow or white background color and a blemish free smooth skin.

Tomatoes: From a horticulture's point of view, the tomato is a fruit. However, there is another story. An 1893 Supreme Court decision reclassified the tomato as a vegetable, ending public debate on the subject!

Oranges are believed to be one of the first fruits discovered by man. Oranges were mentioned in the writings of a Chinese scholar in 2200 B.C.

Introduced to the New World a mere 500 years ago, oranges are now America's third most popular fruit behind apples and bananas.

Top Ten ways to add value to your home

on a potential buyer rolling up the driveway.

"You can't change the design of your house, but you can keep it up," said Dan Mulvihill of Remax All-Stars in Brighton.

Regardless of the season, the grounds should be properly maintained. The lawn should be well-maintained and raked, shrubs should be trimmed, driveways and sidewalks should be swept or shoveled. Any debris or litter that wanders into the yard should be picked up.

Also, if a car you or a family member drives drips oil, get the oil up off the driveway.

If you have neighbors who are on the untidy side, you might want to ask them to clean up the exterior of their home as much as possible, and deal with any problems with their yard.

No. 9. Get thee to a paint store. A fresh coat of paint can work wonders. It can make your home shine. It's also a part of "curb appeal" idea. Also, if there are any cartoon characters, clowns or animals painted on children's walls they should be painted over in a neutral color. Pin holes from any rooms that have had posters hanging in them should be painted, then sealed.

Beige or off-white colors are preferable. Any loud colors should be painted over.

No. 8. Get rid of the clutter.

Because you're a busy person, you may have copies of the newspaper laying around from six months ago that you still need to read. Well, it's time to fish or cut bait on this one. Either wade into them and get them read, toss them, or somehow store them.

Mulvihill stated that potential home buyers "don't envision something different," from what they see on the initial tour.

So, where clutter is concerned, less is more.

No. 7. Redecoration. While this is related to Nos. 10 and 9, it can also include rug or carpet shampooing, or adding different shades of wallpaper, etc.

No. 6. Let the light shine in. Shades should be arranged to let

as much light as possible into dark rooms. Light colored furniture can add a nice touch to rooms that tend to be dark, like kitchens.

No. 5. Repair, repair, repair. This is related to No. 7, but this includes items like leaking faucets, replacing light switches, patching the roof, and more. That door handle that your Uncle Ned broke back in the '40s may have its charm to your family, but it will be a meaningless annoyance to a stranger interested in buying your house. Caulking around tubs and fixing noisy toilets are also wise moves. Refurbishing heating and/or cooling systems is also wise.

No. 4. Put those carpentry skills to work. If you're adept with hammer, nails and a level, you might want to consider adding an extra bathroom or upgrading the kitchen. But, again, don't overdo.

No. 3. Clean the bathroom. It's never fun, but cleaning the bathroom is a must. Keep the lid down on the toilet and add a sanitizer. Bathroom rugs should be washed and fresh towels hung. Adding scented soaps to the air can also add a nice touch.

No. 2. Clean the kitchen, too. This isn't exactly a barrel of thrills either, but cleaning the oven inside and out is a should-do. Running a lemon through the garbage disposal for a fresh smell is also recommended.

No. 1. Stay out of sight if buy- ers come by. If, in fact, you have your house up on the market, staying out of the way of realtors and prospective buyers is the best bet. Keeping noise to a minimum is also a plus. And though you may love that family pet, keep them away from the possible buyer. They may not like animals as much as you, and could be a major distraction.

Mulvihill said homeowners need "objectivity" when assessing a home's value, especially when it's time to put it on the market.

"You don't need to be a brain surgeon," Mulvihill said. "People just need to think, if I were buying a home, what would I be looking for."

Gerald's still a success after 20 years of styling

The Gerald's Hair Salon crew, including Mathew Hajloran, color director; Luzanne Holtz, stylist director; and Theresa Worosz, skin care and cosmetic director.

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

The world has changed a great deal in the past 20 years.

Five presidents have lived in the White House. Inflation, disco and personal computers have all played their parts over the last two decades.

Fortunately, not everything is different.

Take Gerald's Salon, for example. The Northville business has been providing patrons with the same quality hair-care and personal services since 1975.

According to Manager Shari Pilukas, Gerald's has been a success over the years and continues to thrive. Its location, at 41012 Five Mile Road, is one factor in that success.

"We're doing wonderfully," she said. "We have easy access from the freeways and our parking is good."

Gerald Haynes opened the Northville salon in August of 1975. His first shop, which was started in the early 1960s, still operates in Franklin Village.

Solid work from experienced stylists has helped keep the business strong, Pilukas said.

"(Clients) can't get these kinds of services unless they come to us," she added.

While Gerald's hires highly qualified applicants, Pilukas said they all go through training at the salon as well.

"Our clientele expects a certain level of being taken care of," she commented. "There's a level of service expected when you come here."

More than half of the shop's workers have been with the company for 20 years, Pilukas said.

"They commit to a career when they work for Gerald," she added.

Pilukas has worked with Haynes for the better part of two decades. She managed a salon for him in Dearborn then came to Northville when the shop closed in April.

"It's a great business," said Pilukas. "He's a great guy to work for."

Since coming to town, she's been getting acquainted with customers and other Northville businesses.

"It seems like a really friendly community," Pilukas said.

While the community is friendly, it's also competitive. The manager has been learning which services Northville patrons prefer and what they expect to pay.

"I'm always price checking," she said, "not to go above the market."

Prices vary sharply at Gerald's depending on the service.

Hair coloring starts at about $30 for tints and goes up to $80 for bleach, toner and shading. Stain coloring is also $30.

Cuts range from about $20 to $40. Perms start at $49.

Other common services include lip/brown waxing for $8, nail wrap for $40 and pedicures for $27. Manicures start at $12.

"We have the best facialist bar none," said Pilukas.

Theresa Worosz is Gerald's facialist and does skin care and

Business Briefs

The R.A. DEMATTIA COMPANY, a Plymouth-based design, construction and land development firm, has announced three design/build projects. The company will be constructing a 220,000-square-foot light truck frame assembly plant in the Plymouth Oaks Business Park in Plymouth Township for A.O. Smith Automotive Products Company and a 100,000-square-foot manufacturing facility for AutoLiv North America in the Metro North Technology Park II in Auburn Hills. AutoLiv is a manufacturer and designer of automotive occupant restraint and protection systems.

Additionally, the company will be modernizing the College of Engineering Building for the University of Detroit Mercy. The renovation project includes new offices, lecture rooms and bathrooms.

Recent additions to the R.A. Demattia Company include JENNIFER ANGOVE, Administrative Assistant; RON BRUNELLE, Accounts Payable Clerk; LORRIE EWING, Receptionist; and BOB MacGILLIS, Chief Estimator.

The JERVIS B. WEBB COMPANY is pleased to announce that TOM EDDINGTON has been selected as the Webb Quality Achiever for August, 1995.

Eddington, a Walled Lake resident, has been employed at Webb World Headquarters in Farmington Hills for 11 and a half years, including seven in his current position as export logistic director for Webb International.

In this capacity, Eddington is responsible for ensuring that material handling equipment is delivered to customers in an efficient and cost effective manner.

"Eddington's 'zero defects' attitude and meticulous attention to detail are equally evident in his other activities," the company said, from the preparation of documentation for Letters of Credit to forming and heading up a Quality Work Group designed to improve Webb International's operating procedures.

COBB-HALL INSURANCE agencies of Milford and Howell were recently honored by the CITIZENS INSURANCE CO. with inclusion in its Key Agents Club.

Citizens' award criteria include exceptional production and underwriting results and overall excellence in performance by agencies. The company reviews the performance of nearly 650 independent agencies in Michigan and Indiana that write property and casualty policies for Citizens.

W.B. DONER & CO. has announced the promotion of Milford native CHRIS GRANDIS to account supervisor in the agency's public relations division.

In this position he will be responsible for supervising, implementing and servicing a variety of the division's client accounts including F&M, Holiday Rambler, The Pet Practice, Frank's Nursery & Crafts and Gly Derm.

Grandis joined Doner Public Relations in 1994 as a senior account executive working on Frank's Nursery & Crafts and The Pet Practice.

Grandis is a member of the Public Relations Society of America. He received his bachelor's degree in public relations and advertising from Grand Valley State University. He now lives in Pleasant Ridge.

Among the estimated 9,000 ACE HARDWARE retailers, store managers, corporate employees, vendors and guests at the annual Spring Ace convention were a team from a local Ace store. MARK and VICKY GREYERBIEHL, JOHN and KID LUCAS and MARTY and MARILYN KUR attended the convention in Orlando, Fla., representing FIVE STAR SUPPLY of Highland.

Five Star Supply is at 1135 S. Milford Road. Call (810) 887-3741 for more information.

Being charitable needn't be costly

Money Management

While your financial resources and personal interests should play a large role in your charitable giving, don't overlook the tax deductions you may receive for your generosity.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants points out that when you donate to a qualified charity, either through lifetime giving or through charitable bequests, estate taxes are avoided and you may qualify for an income tax deduction.

To claim the deduction, you must make the contribution to a tax-exempt charity. Gifts made to federal, state and local government for public purposes; or to religious, charitable, scientific, literary, cultural and educational organizations are normally deductible. Although the definition seems broad, it does not encompass every non-profit organization. Check "Cumulative Lists of Organizations," IRS Publication 78, for those that qualify.

DONATING APPRECIATED PROPERTY

You may be able to save substantial tax dollars by arranging to bestow property that has increased in value rather than donating cash. When you contribute appreciated stocks, real estate or other investments that you have held for more than a year, you can generally deduct the current market value of the property and avoid paying long-term capital gains taxes. From an estate planning viewpoint, your gift reduces the size of your taxable estate.

Here's how it works. If you write a check for $10,000 to a charity, you get a $10,000 deduction and the charity receives a $10,000 gift. Suppose, instead, you donated some stocks that you bought two years ago at $5,000 which are now worth $15,000. By offering the appreciated stock, you avoid paying the capital gains tax that would be due on the $10,000 if you sold the stock yourself. As a tax-exempt entity, the charity incurs no capital gains tax on the sale of the share, so it receives the full benefit of your contribution. In addition, you get to deduct the investment's current market value of $15,000.

Keep in mind that there are some limitations on charitable deductions. In general, you are allowed charitable deductions of up to 50 percent of your adjusted gross income for gifts of cash. When contributing appreciated property, your deduction is limited to 20 percent to 30 percent. Also, some types of appreciated property may yield reduced deductions.

USING CHARITABLE TRUSTS

A charitable remainder trust enables you to avoid capital gains taxes, increase income for you and your family and at the same time benefit your favorite charity. When you place assets that have substantially appreciated in value in a charitable remainder trust, you qualify for an immediate charitable income tax deduction (based on that period, the assets in the trust are then returned to you or your heirs.

Although these trusts provide a tax deduction for the donation, the trust must comply with governmental guidelines and the amount of the deduction can be different from the actual amount of the gift.

If you have the desire and resources to make large charitable gifts, it's wise to explore all your options with a tax adviser, such as a CPA.

A CPA may help you find ways to make larger gifts at a lower cost.

make up, primarily. People like working make the salon special," Pilukas said.

"There's a lot of good salons around," she added, "but not a lot that specialize in as many areas as we do."

In celebrating its 20th year in the community, Gerald's is hosting several special sessions.

Today, Aug. 10, the salon will have computer imaging hairstyles. Customers can see how 16 different styles will look on them without actually having it done.

"It's very true to life," Pilukas said.

Other activities include complimentary consultations and free nail polish (with nail or pedicure service).

Gerald's is open Monday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesday through Thursday from 8 to 8; Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

$12 ServicePlus parts & labor coverage or replacement available. See stores or call 1-800-435-5826 for details. Replacement on qualified product you will receive replacement with same or equivalent product for 1 yr. after mfr. warranty expires. If your product is found defective, you must call 1-800-435-5826 for return procedures, and return product to ServicePlus Replacement Center. ServicePlus is not available in non-licensed states.

Items marked "Sale" are at sale prices, all others are at our everyday low prices. Our policy is to have each advertised item readily available at the advertised price at each store. If a shortage occurs, we will issue a backorder. We may offer a substitute of equal or better value, but you may still choose a backorder. We may fill a backorder with a similar item of equal or better value. "Manager's Special" items are limited to current inventory; no backorders available.
Some items are not available by mail. Check Mail Order Assistance for availability. For warranty info, check your local store or write, P.O. Box 25130 Nashville, TN 37202.

*LOW PRICE GUARANTEE-We will match the price of any competitor on the identical, name-brand, in-stock product. Also, if you should find a lower advertised price (ours or a competitor's) on the identical, name-brand, in-stock product within 30 days of your purchase from us, we will refund the difference. A competitor's current ad showing the product and its price is required. A competitor's retail store must be within 25 miles of the Service Merchandise store at which the customer makes a price-matching request. We will not match prices for close-out, discontinued, floor sample, special order, free, or distress products sold by us or a competitor; in mail order catalogs; for non-retail competitors such as liquidators, salvage stores, wholesalers, and the like; in percent-off ads; for our products which are not in inventory.

HOW TO MEASURE FOR YOUR REPLACEMENT WINDOWS:

- WIDTH: Measure the distance between the jambs behind the trim or stops, as shown. Measure at the top, middle and bottom of the window opening. Use the smallest of the 3 measurements.
- HEIGHT: Measure from the bottom of the sill to the head jamb above the trim, as shown. Make 3 measurements at 3 points and use the smallest height. Ignore all pulleys, hardware and parting strips; they will be removed before installation.

PAINT, STAIN or

HERE ARE SOME
PAINTING
EASY

• Cut your painting time in half. Use a high pressure washer to clean the surface first. Paint adheres better and lasts longer on a clean surface.

- To find out if your old paint is latex or oil-based...dip denatured alcohol onto a rag and rub it on the wall. If the paint comes off, it's latex and if it doesn't, it's oil-based paint. Remember, you can paint oil-based paint over latex but you can't paint latex over oil-based.
- Make sure to use the right roller for your house's surface. The rougher the surface, the longer the nap of the roller. For example, a smooth surface should be roller with a flat, short nap.

HERE'S HOW TO PREPARE AND STAIN YOUR DECK

- Waterproofing sealers offer protection from sun and water damage, splitting, splintering, warping, cracking, mold, mildew and graying.
- Before applying a stain or sealer to wood, clean the surface with a pressure washer using a cleaner or restorer. Ask our paint pros about pump sprayers for applying stain and sealer. It's fast, easy and economical.
- The Depot's got everything you need to do your project from strippers, scrapers and brushes to stains and sealers.

GREAT OUTDOOR PROJECTS for FALL!

BULB GROWING TIPS:

- Plant Spring blooming Tulip, Daffodil, Hyacinth and Crocus bulbs now before ground freezes.
- Mix soil amendments with your existing soil to a depth of 12" to establish a planting bed.
- Group bulbs according to flowering height and blooming time. You'll find both on the bulb package
- Planting depth should be about 2-3 times the diameter of the bulbs.
- Cover bulbs with amended soil, water well and add a 2" layer of mulch.
- We'll help you select bulbs, design your garden and show you how to plant 'em!

FALL is for PLANTING!

- Our warm days, cool nights and moderate rainfall are perfect for growing conditions.
- Good time to set out shrubs and spring flowering bulbs.
- Fresh stock arrives regularly from reputable nurseries chosen for their consistent high quality.
- Feeding your lawn now encourages root growth, prepares grass for winter rest and speeds up Spring greening.
- Our specially trained lawn & garden experts can show you how.

HERE ARE QUICK TIPS FOR LAYING INSULATION

- Precut batt insulation is easier and faster to install than continuous roll insulation.
- Overpacking or flattening fiberglass insulation into a wall cavity actually reduces the R-value.
- The Kraft Paper (vapor barrier) side of fiberglass insulation always gets installed toward the heated side of the structure.
- Baby powder works terrific in relieving the "itch" from installing fiberglass insulation.

CARPET HEADQUARTERS

SOME QUICK
CHOOSING
CARPET

- Formal saxony - The elegant velvet-like appearance of formal saxones in designer colors make them a great carpet for rooms with a sophisticated look.
- Sculptured - This cut-loop carpeting with high and low combination of tufts creates a sculptured pattern suitable for informal settings.
- Textured saxones - Made to resist "foot prints", textured carpets have been styled for casual rooms with some traffic.
- Level loop - A popular commercial carpet, durable level loop carpets are appropriate for high-traffic areas and informal rooms.
- Berbers - Perfect for high traffic areas, berbers are available with high resistance against "foot prints".

HERE ARE SOME QUICK TIPS ON HANGING WALLPAPER!

- Thoroughly clean painted walls and fill all cracks and holes. Prime walls with a wallpaper primer.
- Mark a straight line on the wall where you plan to start papering.
- Cut wallpaper, place in water box to moisten.
- Hang paper along line marking. Smooth out bubbles, wipe off excess glue and trim top and bottom edges. Repeat process, butting paper edges together.
