Cops, fire to strut stuff at Expo Event becomes popular showcase in township

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you attended last year's Expo Day in Northville Township you know that it's an afternoon of education and fun for the whole family.

But if that's not enough to tempt you to come to next Sunday's 1995 expo extravaganza, how about this: the chance to win a color TV, bike, gas grill or new jacket.

You can if you buy the winning ticket in a special raffle that's part of the second annual Northville Township Department of Public Safety Expo Day. The event will be held Sept. 24 from noon to 4 p.m. at Township Hall, located off of Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty Roads.

Audit: Schools on solid footing

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Despite the changing complexities of funding for public schools, the Northville School District received a financial "clean bill of health" this week.

The good news was presented to school board trustees Monday as members of the CPA firm of Plante & Moran outlined the completed audit for the 1994-95 school year.

"We can conclude that our financial records are in good shape, despite the challenges we have faced from the state," said district Treasurer Joan Wadsworth. "Our revenue picture has changed drastically, and will continue to change, so it's important to make careful projections and have contingency plans in place."

The audit went smoothly, according to Jim Bayson, management consultant for Plante & Moran, but district officials need to continue to maintain the general fund balance at a desired level. During the 1994-95 school year, the district's general fund revenue exceeded its expenditures by approximately $461,000, Bayson said. The result of that difference increased the fund equity to $2 million.

"We feel that it is important for the district to maintain its fund equity at an appropriate level," Bayson said in his report. "The benefit (in maintaining the level) is the ability to meet unforeseen circumstances without affecting the level of programs for the year."

With an acceptable equity level, Bayson continued, the district would not have to adversely react to crucial circumstances. "This becomes especially important due to the funding caps imposed by school finance reform," he said.

Currently the district's fund balance as a percentage of expenditures was 7 percent, according to Bayson. The statewide average for

Northville sites named to DNR cleanup rosters

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

For the fourth straight year Northville boasts one of the most seriously contaminated environmental sites in the state.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) has issued its official comprehensive list of 9,616 contaminated sites in the state, prepared each year for the state Legislature and Gov. John Engler.

The list is used to identify the worst sites in the state and is the tool lawmakers use to determine how much and where they'll spend cleanup dollars.

Seventeen of the list's sites are in Northville. Of them, 14 have been contaminated by leaking petroleum products from underground storage tanks - "LUST sites" in the MDNR's vernacular. Statewide about 70 percent of all sites are contaminated from LUSTs.

It's important to note that a site's making the list doesn't mean that its current owners were responsible for causing a contamination problem or are obligated to clean it up.

A case in point is one of the three non-LUST contamination sites located in Northville, one that's among the MDNR's "most wanted": the General Oil facility on Railroad Street off Doherty Drive near the border of the city and township.

The Redford-based company bought the property 11 years ago but state officials say it was contaminated decades before, as previous owners dumped oily waste products into a lagoon on the property, a practice that ended in 1975.

No more guess work about Queen's get-up

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

With one day until the start of the Victorian Festival most people are probably wondering - what's the queen wearing this year?

As usual, the relentless reporting staff of The Northville Record has worked overtime to learn what the queen's wardrobe will be for this year's gala event.

According to sources close to Cynthia Patterson, this year's festival queen, the wardrobe choices for Friday and Saturday will be stunning.

Take Friday's parade, for instance. Patterson will be wearing a beautifully tiered, ivory over blush, antique English wedding gown, with reembodyered English net lace and matching tiara, according to Elizabeth Clancy of Elizabeth's Bridal Manor.

"She will look very Victorian," Clancy said.

During Saturday afternoon, Patterson will be wearing an ivory over bambi daytime Victorian dress with a choker collar. The dress will be embellished with pearl swags and crystal trim, and will include a collage of assorted laces. Patterson will be wearing a matching tiara with the dress, Clancy said.

And for the ball, Patterson will be adorned in a white Italian satin, off the shoulder, ball gown with a crystal pearl brooch on the bodice. The skirt and train will be embellished with pearls and crystals.

Clancy said many festival goers put a lot of work into their wardrobes.

"There are a lot of women that have historical gowns that are quite authentic looking," she said.

"Some will also be wearing bridal gowns that have been reworked to look like Victorian Ball gowns."

For the men attending the Victorian Ball, Clancy said cutaway tuxedos with striped pants and a top hat will fit the bill. Others will be wearing uniforms from that period.

"It really doesn't take much to put a wardrobe together," Clancy said.

For those waiting until the last minute, however, finding that Victorian era wardrobe could be difficult.

"For the men wanting to wear tuxedos, we'd need some advance time," she said.

Teachers' rep responds to change in school day

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The demise of the Wednesday Instructional Day at Northville High School was centered around funding and not instructional hours, according to the chief negotiator of the Northville Education Association.

Barbara LeBoeuf, NHS teacher and union representative, told The Northville Record last week that the district scrapped the pilot study because funding the collegial time would have been too costly. LeBoeuf's remarks came in response to a recent editorial that charged that the union's apparent priorities favored teachers over students.

"I resent the implication that you can't be interested in equity for teachers and education for kids," LeBoeuf said. "Everybody has been excited about the beginning of school, and it was discouraging for teachers to read such a negative editorial."

A school district representative, in a front page article of the Aug. 24 Northville Record, was quoted as saying that continuing the program would put the high school under the required number of instructional hours mandated by the state. District officials later hinted that other factors were involved, but wouldn't discuss them publicly because they wanted to honor the confidentiality of negotiations with the union.

Community joins hands in launching ChildWatch

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Hey, Northville: do you want to help make this town a safer place, especially for kids?

Then take a little time to join a growing community volunteer program aimed at protecting children and cutting down on crime.

It's called ChildWatch, a joint effort of Northville residents, schools and police. Now in hundreds of Michigan communities, ChildWatch began in Grand Rapids in 1979. It's the heir to programs of years past like Helping Hands and MacGruff's Safe House and works the same way.

Community volunteers put a ChildWatch sign in the window of their houses whenever they're home. A child faced with a medical emergency or a would-be molester or abductor then knows that your house is a safe place he or she can go to for help. A neighborhood network of ChildWatch homes forms a safety net for our kids. All you need is a half-hour of training and a willingness to help.

Teen faces sentence for multiple burglary counts

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Northville Township teen convicted of burglary will soon find out if he'll spend the next 15 years behind bars for the crime.

Simon Oakley Breeze, 19, allegedly confessed to nine felony break-ins which have taken place in Northville this summer. He was charged with four of them in July, including burglarizing the Country Club Village golf pro shop off of Six Mile and stealing items from three vehicles owned by township residents.

As part of a plea bargain agreement with the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, however, Breeze on Aug. 25 pled guilty to only one charge of entering without breaking, township police Detective John Werth said. That offense is a felony in Michigan which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years' imprisonment.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard Hathaway is scheduled to sentence Breeze on Nov. 15. The additional break-ins the teen has allegedly confessed to could play a role in determining the amount of court-ordered restitution he might be required to pay, Werth said.

Breeze was arrested at about 4 a.m. on July 18 after two township residents phoned police to report a prowler in their area whom they saw breaking into their cars.

No two emergencies are exactly alike. So all emergency care shouldn't be the same either. That's why we designed and equipped our emergency department to handle everything from minor accidents to life-threatening injuries. If there are any questions about the seriousness of the emergency, a specially trained nurse is on hand to evaluate the situation and direct you to the appropriate level of treatment.

And whether you're a walk-in patient or require critical care, you'll receive the same quick and personalized medical attention from doctors who are specially trained in emergency medicine.

Our emergency care is backed by the resources of a full-service hospital, it's available 24 hours a day, every day, and it comes with the understanding that minor problems shouldn't result in major expenses... good reasons to go to St. Mary Hospital for sudden illness or injury. For more information call us at (313) 464-WELL.

Because when it comes to family emergencies, the specialized care we offer is no accident.

Funds-raiser held for senior complex

The St. Paul Lutheran School gymnasium was jumping on Saturday - or at least the people inside it were.

A special Jazzercise class was held at the school as a benefit fund-raiser for the Allen Terrace public housing center.

Instructor Dawn Dekker, who teaches Jazzercise - an aerobic dance fitness program - says turnout was good, with roughly 20 energetic people taking part.

Admission was $5, and all proceeds will be used to help pay for exercise equipment for Allen Terrace, a 101 unit senior independent living apartment complex owned and run by the city of Northville and located on High near Elm.

Firm seeks to build ice rinks near Plymouth/Northville line

In a development that will interest a lot of Northville-area hockey families, a private firm has announced plans to build two indoor ice rinks in Plymouth Township.

TNT Systems has won Plymouth Township Planning Commission approval for the Westech Sports Centre, to be built on the east side of Beck Road south of Five Mile.

The emphasis of the facility will be youth and adult hockey leagues, figure skating and open skating for the public," according to the company's impact analysis on the project presented to the township planning department.

The complex will include two ice arenas, one designed to NHL rink standards and one to Olympic skating standards," according to the company proposal.

Because of the soaring popularity of youth and adult hockey in recent years, many players and parents have complained of the shortage of available ice time.

There's been talk in Northville Township of building both municipal and privately-owned ice rinks in the last two years, both of which have died quiet deaths.

Township Treasurer Rick Engeland proposed building a two-rink facility on land the township owns near the Michigan State Police post on Seven Mile in early 1993. In the spring of 1994, township resident John Hamilton floated a plan to build a multi-purpose sports arena, including two ice rinks, on land he owns off Beck Road between Five and Six Mile.

-TNT Systems proposal statement

Neither plan was ever presented to township officials for formal consideration.

Both plans, as well as the Plymouth proposal, claim rink hours are hard to come by all over southeastern Michigan. Last fall, for example, several parents seeking to sign up kids in leagues at the Plymouth Cultural Center camped out overnight, in hopes of winning a spot. Hockey enthusiasts say a lack of ice arenas is a problem around metro Detroit.

"The proposed facility will alleviate the demand for ice time at these facilities and provide a valuable community recreational resource for Plymouth Township," according to the TNT proposal.

A company official declined further comment on the project. Plymouth Township Community Development Director Shirley Barney said the company was this week expected to schedule a time to seek final site plan approval for the project from the township Planning Commission.

The rinks would be located on the facility's lower level, with a glassed-in viewing lounge on the upper level separating the two rinks, according to the TNT proposal.

Among other proposed features:

- Raised seating would be provided around each ice surface.

- Several locker rooms, including two team locker rooms, that could be entered from the parking lot to avoid the mix of spectators, skaters and their equipment.

- The facility would use natural topographic features, as the building would be built into a hillside.

"The pond and adjacent wetlands will create a focal point, providing natural views and a pleasant picnic-recreation area," according to TNT Systems' impact analysis.

- A full-service pro shop and concession area with cafe are planned.

Plymouth Recreation Director Tom Willette said ice arena construction would help meet burgeoning demand.

"It's good news for the hockey players and the skaters. I don't think it's good news for the (Plymouth) city recreation department," he said.

Mill Race Matters

Northville's eighth Victorian Festival begins tomorrow with all-day activities for the community's third graders. Members of the Northville Historical Society will be assisting the schools with community tours during the morning hours. The students also visit the story lady, Dr. Rudy, and other community volunteers. This serves as an opportunity to introduce the young people to local history.

Later Friday, residents will march in the parade. Historical Society members are encouraged to march together in costume. Meet at the parade site prior to the parade's punctual beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Mill Race Village will be open Saturday from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. for visitors. The Festival picnic occurs Sunday afternoon at Mill Race. Activities include old-fashioned children's games, the hat judging contest, craft demonstrations, reenactors, and the ever popular duck race. Plan to spend the afternoon joining in the varied activity.

This week the Historical Society offers thanks to Gerry McCrumb for her donation of a picture of early settler Asa Randolph, to Mary Reinholz for his donation of an 1876 Wayne County Atlas, and to Madeline Neidfeldt for the donation of antique shoe repair irons. The first two items have become part of the Society's community archives. The shoe irons will be displayed in one of the village buildings.

The donated Atlas provided an opportunity to examine another map of this community's early history. Fewer buildings are marked, but the historical information says that a population of 1,300 was divided between the township's two villages of Northville and Plymouth at that time. The remainder of the township's residents, another third, resided on farms within the 36 square miles. By 1876, both Northville and Plymouth had defined village lines, but Plymouth Township still held them both. Not until more than 20 years later was Northville Township created.

These old atlases possess line drawings of homes throughout the county including some that were located in this township. Included were the homes of Samuel Starkweather and a community doctor. The map details landholders throughout the county, but does not expand to that detail for the village. Located on the map are the foundry furnace, Argo Mills, and Northville Mills. Northville Mills stood where Mill Race Village is located today. Foundry furnace and Argo Mills were south of Main Street and east of Griswold.

On Friday, Sept. 29, and Saturday, Sept. 30, the Northville Historical Society holds its 26th anniversary Tivoli Fair at Northville Downs. The juried arts and crafts show brings in over 100 crafters from throughout the region and has been called one of southeastern Michigan's best shows of this nature. Admission is $3. The show is open from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday. Baby carriages are not permitted.

Profits from the event are used to maintain and improve Mill Race Village for the benefit of the entire community. In recent years, Tivoli Fair has provided more than 50 percent of the village's finances.

Suspect attempts to set up brother

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Did your brother ever beat you up when you were kids? Blame that lamp on he broke on you? Tell mom and dad about that time you took the car when they told you not to?

Hey, you're lucky. Consider the sibling rivalry one unfortunate Detroit man had to contend with last week.

Detroit police on Sept. 7 notified Northville Township police that they had arrested the man, 37, that day after a traffic stop.

A computer check revealed a warrant for the man's arrest on a charge related to a 1994 larceny at the township Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty.

The suspect township police arrested last fall failed to appear in 35th District Court to answer the charge on Nov. 17 and so the warrant was issued.

A township officer picked the man up from a Detroit police station and took him to township police headquarters.

During the ride, the man told him several times that he was not the guy police wanted.

His brother had actually committed the theft, the man explained, and had in the past given his brother's name as an alias when arrested.

The reason he didn't make the court date: he's doing time in an Ohio prison, the man said.

After arriving at headquarters the officer found the man's file, compared the photo in it to him, and concluded that he was not the suspect arrested last fall for the Meijer larceny.

The man was then released, after the officer gave him dinner, a ride to the nearest bus stop and the fare home.

Anyone want a public pool?

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Should Northville and Northville Township invest in a public pool? That's the question the Parks and Recreation Commission is asking residents this month in a needs assessment survey.

In July the commission created a subcommittee to study the issue, according to Parks and Recreation Director Traci Johnson, and that committee is seeking public feedback.

"The commission wants to find out if there really is a need in our communities," Johnson said. "So the survey is just a way to document if a need exists."

Survey forms are located at the Parks and Recreation office, or fill out the one attached. People interested in providing information need to fill out the survey and return the form to the Parks and Recreation Department.

The commission is also going to conduct random phone solicitation to get a good cross section of the community, Johnson added.

"After the commission studies the information gathered from the surveys, they'll decide whether to pursue the idea further," Johnson said. "If a need exists, they'll form a citizens committee to study options."

Johnson said the survey is just the first step in the process, and that the commission has no preconceived ideas regarding a public pool facility.

"This is just preliminary, and it doesn't mean anything other than

Library Lines

NEW ENTRANCE: The Wing Street entrance is open for public use. Parking on the west side of Wing is now available and will continue through the construction period of the new library.

FALL STORYTIMES: Preschool stories are for children 3 1/2 to 5 years old, who are not yet in kindergarten. Registration began Sept. 7. Additional information regarding Sessions I and II is available at the library or by call (810) 349-3020.

TALES OF TERROR: Storytellers from the Northville District Library will be sharing ghost stories as part of the Victorian Festival. Join them Sept. 17 at 4 p.m. in the park at the corner of Wing and Cady Streets.

QUILTS: The Embroiderer's Guild is sharing examples of quilting and applique techniques taught by the guild in this month's display case. The Embroiderer's Guild meets at the First United Methodist Church.

SCHOOL BELLS, SCHOOL BOOKS: The Northville District Library is ringing in the new school year with a special back-to-school book display. You will find selections for all ages to help start the year off right.

FROM THE FRIENDS: Each year one of the highlights of the Victorian Festival is the cake walk managed by the Friends of the Library. At 50 cents a game, participants will vie for cakes and cupcakes donated by members. The Festival is planned for Friday through Sunday, Sept. 15-17.

Members who are donating baked goods should deliver them boxed to the garage of Casterline's Funeral Home at 122 W. Dunlap on Friday between 3-5 p.m. and Saturday between 10 a.m. and noon.

The Friends' Board of Directors will meet at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 15, in the library.

LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES: The board will be meeting this evening, Sept. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers. The agenda will be posted just outside of the library door.

SUNDAY HOURS: Sunday hours resumed on Sept. 10. In addition to the regular schedule, Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m.-9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; the library will be open Sunday from 1-5 p.m.

The Northville District Library is currently located at 215 W. Main St.

For information on all programs and services, call (810) 349-3020.

It's cider time in the city

Parmenter's Mill boasts 120-year local tradition

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The leaves are falling, the sun's going down earlier every night and that old familiar chill is in the air.

Yup, fall is certainly here. For some it's a favorite time of the year, for others an occasion to mourn the summer that's passed and dread the winter that's ahead.

Whichever type you are, though, there's something we all can enjoy now, a Northville tradition that's synonymous with autumn: Parmenter's cider mill.

For more than 120 years - the doors first opened in 1873 as Ulysses Grant began his second term as President - it's been a part of our town. Fall just wouldn't be the same without it. Imagine the Ford plant without the waterwheel or downtown without the clock and you're getting the picture.

Each year, from Labor Day to Thanksgiving, Parmenter's doles out its delectable doughnuts, delicious caramel apples and that famous, oh-so-savory cider. Last weekend's opening day was good and long, Parmenter co-owner Cheryl Nelson said.

"We were extremely busy," she said. "The weather was nice and people came on out. It was great."

What brings them? The food and the fun.

Let's start with the food. There's the cider, of course, and the plain or spiced doughnuts as well as those tasty caramel apples - with or without nuts. It's all made fresh using as much as 800 pounds of flour and 600 bushels of apples a week.

"Sometimes it seems like the machines never stop," Nelson said with a smile.

Hey, that's supply and demand. You see, there are legions of bonafide cider addicts out there who just won't be denied their delicacy.

"We get some people who really stock up," Nelson explained, "die-hard fans who buy enough to last them until we open up again next year."

But if you think that's all a trip to 714 Baseline Road has to offer, you'd better think again.

Besides the staples Parmenter's offers a wide selection of mostly Michigan-made products: apples, honey, candy, mulled wine spices, fudge, nuts, pancake mix, apple butter, jams and preserves.

Parmenter's also makes its own special variety of peanut butter caramel ice cream topping, apple chutney, a relish-like garnish, and fresh-baked apple pies.

The mill since 1983 has also offered a line of unique Michigan wines. Varieties include cranberry-apple, pomme blanc and pomme rouge, Niagara, "just white," Michigan red, raspberry and hard cider.

Things to see and do are part of Parmenter's as well. The mill hosts weekend craft shows from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Saturday and Sunday in September and October. An antique car show is also on tap for next month.

And let's not forget the ducks. We can't toss our feathered friends bread at the Mill Pond any more but if fowl feeding is your bag, Parmenter's is the place. They gather out back, as much for the leftover doughnuts the staff provides as for the tranquil scenery.

The mill's employees also donate leftover doughnuts to Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and to Our Lady of Providence. They're a big part of the job to Nelson.

"We really have some great kids here," she said.

Engineer to speak at museum

Featured speaker Michael Kollins, retired engineer from Packard Motor Car Co. and Chrysler Corp., will appear at the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame. In racing Kollins was a designer, builder, and driver of sprint racing cars. He has been involved with the Indianapolis 500 for 55 years.

The museum is located at the Novi Expo Center. The event will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 20, from 7-8 p.m. The fee is $5 per person. All proceeds go to the non-profit Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame of America.

The museum doors will be open from 6:30 to 10 p.m. for viewing the collection of more than 75 vehicles.

For more information call (810) 349-RACE.

Foreman's also offers homey touch

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

As unique as it is, Parmenter's isn't the only one of its kind in Northville.

There's another cider mill 'round these parts: Foreman's, located on Seven Mile Road west of Beck.

Goodies of all kinds, as well as some unique attractions, make this a trip that the whole family will love taking.

Foreman's has been open from Labor Day to Thanksgiving for many a year, pressing its own brand of tasty apple cider. The mill also offers freshly-made doughnuts, caramel apples, pies and jellies, as well as honey, hot dogs and more.

You can come out for the food but be sure to stay for the fun. Foreman's offers a good dose of fall fun that everyone can partake of. The mill has its own petting zoo, and offers weekend wagon rides and school tours of its apple orchard. Call Jen Clemmons or Jodi at 349-1256 for information.

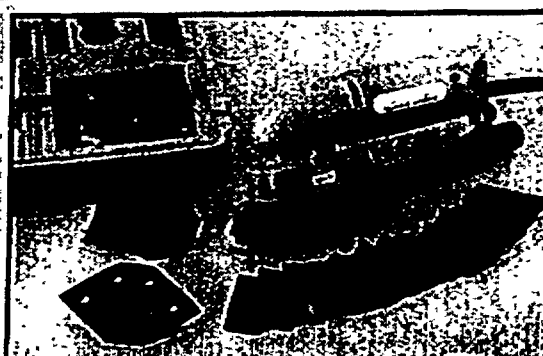

"Everyone has a lot of fun,"

Clemmons said, "kids and grownups alike."

Another way to enjoy a Michigan fall day is to visit a U-Pick farm to garner homegrown goodness the old-fashioned way. Halloween is just six weeks off and for all of you who are in the market for jack-o-lantern makings, the Meyer Berry Farm has what you need.

The farm, located on Eight Mile west of Beck in Novi, will open its pumpkin patches for pickers next month. Call 349-0289 in a couple of weeks for more information.

Hearing to focus on utilities

Have you ever experienced any of the following problems?

- You discover that you have been switched to a new long distance telephone service provider without your knowledge or consent.
- You have been unable to pay your utility bill and now you've received a disconnect notice?
- You experience electric and telephone outages frequently?
- You receive a telephone bill with high charges for calls you placed from a pay telephone or other public place?

The Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) will hold a consumer forum in Detroit at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 10, so that residential and business consumers can discuss these and other utility issues with commissioners. The forum will take place on the Michigan State Fairgrounds (Woodward Entrance-Gate 5) in the Community Arts Building Auditorium, 1120 W. State Fair in Detroit.

Controversial nursing home variance OK'd

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The Northville Zoning Board of Appeals has granted a variance to the Star Manor Nursing Home to construct a veranda style front porch.

That decision came at a meeting of the ZBA Wednesday, in which more than 40 people packed city hall to support or oppose the variance. The commission voted 7-0 to allow Star Manor to build the porch.

The ruling still has some residents who live near the nursing home, located at 520 W. Main Street, a bit concerned. Some complained that the porch would cause a safety problem by limiting a driver's ability to see oncoming traffic along Main Street, which has become a busy thoroughfare in the past few years.

"I have a problem with the safety issues involved here," said Wendy Gordon, who lives near the nursing home. "I feel that the safety of my family is seriously impaired if this porch is allowed."

Other residents voiced the same concerns. Mary Keys, whose home sits at the corner of Main Street and Linden, told commissioners that the traffic volume already makes driving dangerous on Main Street.

"There's an awful lot of traffic, most of it driving faster than the posted speed limit," she said. "Doing something to make this situation worse is unconscionable."

Included in the morning traffic are school buses and parents dropping their children off for preschool, Keys added.

"There are other alternatives we could explore," she said. "Wouldn't it be possible for Star Manor to build a porch in the back of the structure?"

-Mary Keys
Northville resident

Doing that would defeat the purpose of the porch, according to attorney Kevin Tucker who represented Star Manor.

"The construction of the porch would allow the residents of the nursing home to enjoy the porch and the sights and sounds of a very peaceful setting," Tucker said. "Unquestionably, the residents' quality of life will be enhanced."

Granting the application would also allow Star Manor full utilization of the property within the context of the permitted land use in the city's zoning ordinance, Tucker added.

The commission last month, required Star Manor to redesign their plans for the porch when residents complained about the sight problems. Architect Greg Presley told commissioners the revised plan eliminates the sight problem and the property owners' view onto Main Street will not be blocked or impeded by the porch.

"At the last meeting there were health and safety issues that needed to be addressed, and I feel that we have addressed those issues," Presley said. "It is my opinion that all of the residences near Star Manor have ample sight lines."

Star Manor had requested a "nonuse variance" to construct a porch in 1988, according to Tucker. At that time the ZBA approved the request.

"Given this history and the absence of any material changes to the conditions of the area, it would seem unlikely that a contrary result to the decision reached in 1988 can be made," Tucker said. Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, asked that commissioners consider the quality of life issue for the residents of the nursing home.

"I think the quality of life issue is extremely important," he said. "These residents want to be a part of this community, and the ability to sit on this porch and watch the children and cars passing by on Main Street is important to them. I think they deserve to be a part of Northville."

For City Councilman Chuck Keys, the quality of life issue is just as important to Main Street residents.

"You've got homeowners telling you that this porch is going to obstruct their view, and it is going to affect the quality of their lives," Keys said. "I personally am always afraid of the prospect of getting sideswiped by a car speeding down Main Street from the west."

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

ELECTRIFYING NEWS

If a patient has difficulty getting a muscle to move on his or her own, the physical therapist can stimulate it electrically. This is accomplished with the use of a machine that passes electric current into the muscles by means of electrodes. While this may make a patient uncomfortable at just the thought of it, the intensity of the electrical stimulation can be adjusted so as not to exceed the patient's pain threshold. In fact, the treatment can be best described as a twitching sensation. Not only can electrical stimulation be used to provide necessary stimulation to prevent muscle atrophy during nerve regeneration, but it can be used to strengthen a weakened muscle with a healthy nerve supply, stimulate blood flow, promote healing, and treat painful muscle spasms.

At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., individualized treatment programs will be outlined for a variety of patient problems including orthopedic and sports related injuries as well as back, neck, and hand problems. Other areas may include neurological disorders such as stroke and traumatic brain injuries, as well as arthritis and work related injuries. Our services also include therapy for voice disorders, stuttering and developmental speech/language delay. To schedule a consultation, call 349-3816, or see us at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

P.S. Electrical stimulation may also be employed to re-educate a muscle that has been immobilized for a long time.

"Rehabilitation helped me to help myself walk again."

The inpatient rehabilitation unit at Botsford played an important role in helping me to walk with my prosthetic legs. The team of specialists encouraged me to be self-sufficient. As part of my daily therapy, I was expected to perform certain activities on my own.

Before I was discharged, the physical therapist and occupational therapist went with me to my home to assure I could move around my house safely and to make recommendations to make my home accessible. My therapist still checks up on me from time to time.

'Y' asks for week with no violence

The YWCA of Western Wayne County is asking area individuals, government agencies, the media, schools, businesses and community groups to join with them in a fall nationwide campaign for a "Week Without Violence."

YWCA's nationwide are challenging every American to live for one week without perpetrating, participating in or observing violence.

The YWCA Week Without Violence will be held throughout the country Oct. 15-21 and will focus attention on practical and sustainable alternatives to violence. The YWCA of Western Wayne County is joining in this national effort to encourage local participation in this campaign.

The goals are to heighten awareness of the opportunities we all have to prevent and avoid violence and to help bring to life a vision of safer, healthier communities.

The focus will be on a different issue each day of the YWCA Week Without Violence:

Sunday, Oct. 15 - A day of remembrance

Monday, Oct. 16 - Protecting our children

Tuesday, Oct. 17 - Making our schools safe

Wednesday, Oct. 18 - Confronting violence against women

Thursday, Oct. 19 - Facing violence against men

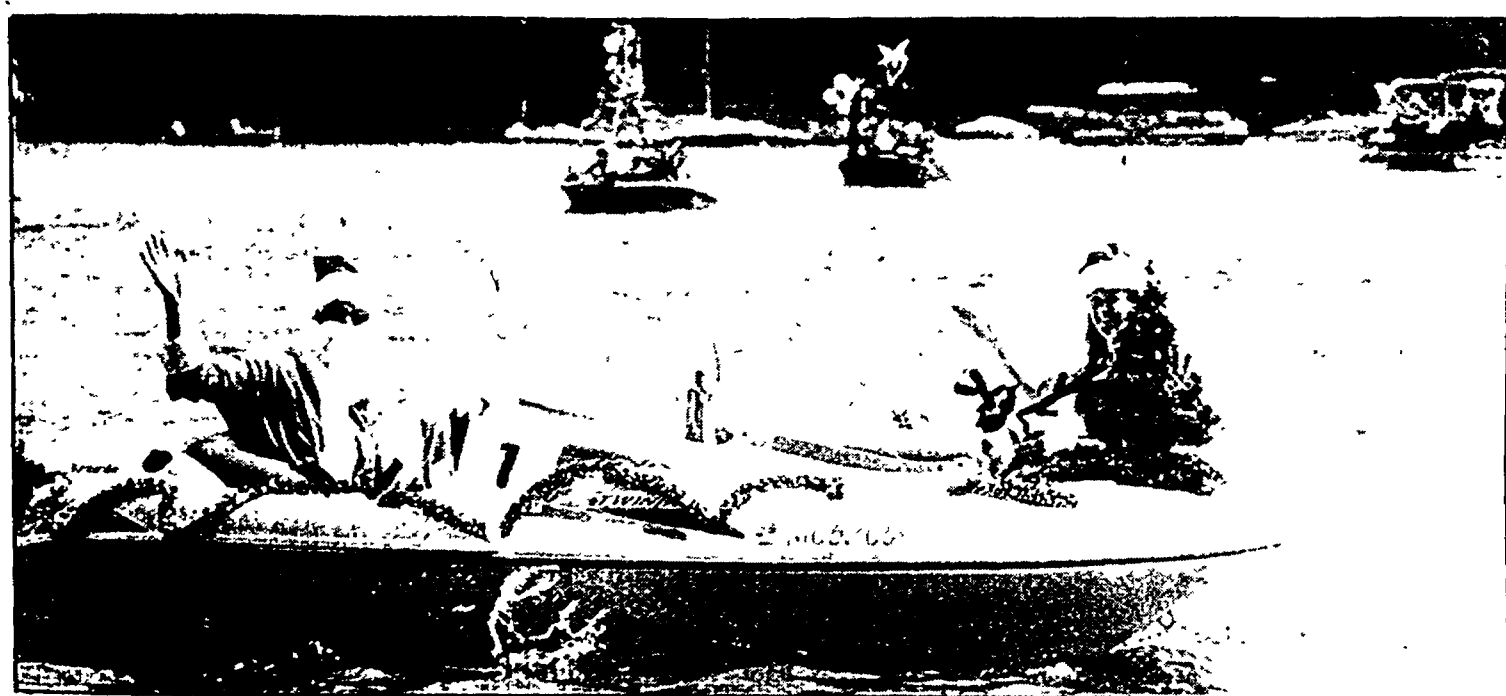

Friday, Oct. 20 - Eliminating racism and hate crimes

Saturday, Oct. 21 - Replacing violence with sports and fitness

YWCA's nationwide have a long history of empowering women and families, fostering racial justice and preventing violence. Through 374 local member associations with in all 50 states, the YWCA represents more than one million women, girls and their families.

The YWCA of Western Wayne County provides a wide range of programs and services including child care, parenting and nutrition classes, youth mentoring, teen counseling, and outreach to young children and youths who are at-risk.

For further details about the YWCA's "Week Without Violence," interested participants may contact Corinne Vincent at the YWCA of Western Wayne County at (313) 561-4110.

Fall remodeling show planned at Expo Center

Aging homes are fueling a remodeling boom across the country and the metropolitan Detroit area.

And that will be the theme of the third annual Fall Remodeling Show Thursday, Sept. 28, through Sunday, Oct. 1 at the Novi Expo Center.

"The average American home is turning 28 years old and Americans taste in homes have changed considerably over the years."

"The biggest difference is the desired size for kitchens and baths," said Janet L. Compo, president of the non-profit Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) and chief executive officer of James D. Compo Inc. of Farmington Hills.

"Kitchen and bath concepts are just the tip of the iceberg at this show where homeowners can find everything from major remodeling ideas to simple home decorating notions."

Special highlights include secrets of wallpapering, painting and faux finishes as seen on ABC's Good Morning America and Learning Channel's Homebodies by "Wall Wizard" Brian Santos, designer consultations and clinics from members of the American Society of Interior Designers, gardens created by members of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, local FTD florists' Christmas, Halloween and Welcome Home floral arrangements competition, Showcase of Distinctive Homes pictorial display of new homes sponsored

Oakland development program wins honor

The Oakland County Local Development Company was recently awarded Accredited Lenders Program (ALP) status from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) for its 504 loan program. The Oakland County LDC, with this award, became the first Certified Development Company (CDC) out of nine in Michigan to gain status as an SBA Accredited Lender. Only 41 CDCs out of 286 nationwide have ALP status.

Modeled after the Certified Lender Program, which is used for the SBA 7(a) lending program, the ALP proposes to shorten loan processing time and streamline loan closing and servicing. The ALP is based on the credit knowledge, familiarity with SBA Rules and Regulations and other experiences of the CDC loan officers. The SBA will continue to make the final credit and eligibility decisions and approve or decline loan applications.

The ALP provides for greater reliance on participating CDCs in loan processing and servicing. ALP-CDCs are accountable for thorough credit and eligibility analysis on loan applications and thorough analysis on servicing action requests prior to submission to the SBA. The SBA will rely on the ALP-CDC credit analysis in making the decision to guarantee the loan and complete the documentation. The SBA's role in delivering financial assistance will be improved as the ALP-CDC's role is maximized.

The accreditation decision is made based on strict criteria, and the process goes through every level of the SBA.

Dwight Reynolds, the new district director of the Detroit SBA office, believes in the Oakland County LDC's ability to perform at this status. Reynolds stated, "With this designation, I am confident that it (Oakland County CDC) will be able to provide even greater assistance to Oakland County's growing small businesses and will continue to be the leading 504 lender in the state."

The SBA 504 Loan Program provides small and medium sized businesses with long-term financing for the acquisition or construction of fixed assets. Projects are typically financed 10 percent by the company, 40 percent by the SBA and 50 percent by the lending institution. Companies interested in the SBA 504 Loan Program should contact the Oakland County Development and Planning Division at (810) 858-0724.

Police News

Man chases after robbers he catches in the act

Tenacity can sometimes yield rewards.

A Northville Township resident didn't let the people who broke into his car one week ago off easy and got back part of his property as a result. The man, 26, told police he was watching television at about 12:30 a.m. on the night of Sept. 7 when he heard a car alarm go off outside.

He looked outside and saw individuals breaking into his 1984 Chevrolet Corvette. He ran out, chasing the perpetrators to run to a brown van, get in and drive away. The man jumped in his car and followed them from Northville Place Drive to the expressway. After a couple of minutes the van stopped briefly and someone tossed out the man's briefcase - minus his checks and $500 in cash - before speeding away.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE: Township police helped a 27-year-old resident who said he was contemplating suicide early last Monday morning.

A telephone crisis counselor contacted police, informing them of the man's situation. The man said he was thinking about taking his own life because he is gay. The reporting officer took the man to a Westland health facility and filed a petition for a mental evaluation.

LAYAWAY LARCENY: A 15-year-old bagger allegedly tried to pull a fast one at Meijer on Friday but store detectives were too quick - and numerous - for her.

The girl, a Detroit resident, took the $80 price tag off of a sweatshirt and replaced it with one for $16. Detectives told township police. When she put the suit in layaway they confronted her, claiming that six store employees witnessed the tag switch.

The girl faces a court hearing soon.

LIGHTS OUT, NOBODY HOME: Township police arrested a Canton man wanted in several area communities after stopping his car to tell him of a defective rear brake light one week ago.

The reporting officer said he noticed the light was out on the man's 1983 Toyota Tercel as it drove on Six Mile near Northville Road at about 1 a.m. Sept. 7. A computer check, however, showed a warrant out of Ann Arbor for the man's arrest on charges of driving with a suspended license. He also had suspensions from two other area communities as well, the check revealed.

He was booked then released on bond. The man, 26, faces a hearing on Sept. 28 on a fourth such charge.

DRUNK DRIVING X 5: Township police arrested no fewer than five men for drunk driving in the last 11 days. All were held at police headquarters until sobering up, then released on bond with pending court hearing dates.

A 35-year-old Northville man's car was weaving and crossing traffic lines on Haggerty Road near Eight Mile in the wee hours of Sept. 3. The reporting officer said he saw the man's car travel northbound in the southbound lanes of the roadway for two-tenths of a mile at one point. Testing later showed the man to have a blood alcohol level of .12 percent, over the legal limit.

A 24-year-old Redford man's 1978 Chevrolet Caprice was doing the same thing two nights later, police said. The reporting officer stopped the car on Seven Mile near Haggerty after observing it driving erratically. Testing later showed the man to have a blood alcohol level of .21 percent, more than twice the legal limit.

A Livonia man's blood alcohol level was .18 percent after his arrest in the early hours of Sept. 8. A township officer said the man's 1984 Corvette was doing 86 miles per hour on 45-mile-per-hour Seven Mile.

Arrested the next night was a 48-year-old Northville man seen driving erratically on Haggerty near Seven Mile. That same evening - Sept. 9 - a 24-year-old Romeo man was arrested on Silver Springs Drive. He was speeding, the man admitted, but said he was taking his friend to Port Huron, where the friend's girlfriend was in labor.

Testing showed the driver to have a blood alcohol level of .16 percent.

LICENSE LIFTED: A 37-year-old Plymouth man reported his license plate stolen Sept. 7.

The man had brought his 1992 Ford Explorer in for repairs at McDonald Ford. The next day he was informed that his license plate was missing.

Northville Police have no suspects or leads. The expense of the stolen plate was estimated at $80.

SPEEDER CITED: A 21-year-old Redford man made the mistake of driving a bit too fast in Northville Aug. 31.

Northville police report that the man was stopped for speeding on Eight Mile Road, when officers discovered an outstanding warrant for a previous violation. Police also learned that the man was driving on a suspended license.

The suspect was arrested and transported to the Northville Police Station where he was held on two separate bonds equaling $270.

TURN LEFT ... NOW: A 30-year-old Walled Lake woman was the cause of a minor accident at the intersection of Eight Mile Road and Center Street, Sept. 10.

The woman was apparently heading east on Eight Mile Road when she decided to make a left hand turn onto Center Street.

According to the police report the woman failed to yield to oncoming traffic and was subsequently hit by a car driven by a 16-year-old Northville youth.

The woman was cited for hazardous driving in failing to yield. No injuries were reported.

Citizens with information about any of the above incidents are asked to call township police at 349-9400 or city police at 349-1234.

Health Notes

St. Mary Hospital offers the following programs:

• Welcoming a new baby into the family can be an adjustment for sisters and brothers. The Marian Women's Center next to St. Mary Hospital will offer a sibling class from 6 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 28, in the Miracle of Life Maternity Center Postpartum Lounge on the third floor of the main hospital.

This class provides information on sibling rivalry, signs of jealousy and steps parents can take to minimize these behaviors.

The cost of the class is $10 per family. Registration is required. For more information or to register, please call the Marian Women's Center at (313) 591-3314.

• The Marian Women's Center is also presenting a women's lecture on "PMS" from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 10, in the St. Mary Hospital auditorium near the Five Mile entrance.

The guest speaker will be Timothy Johnson, M.D., obstetrics and gynecology. The lecture will focus on the diagnosis of premenstrual syndrome, its causes, treatment and prevention.

There is no charge for the lecture, but registration is required by Oct. 6.

For more information or to register, please call (313) 591-2882.

• St. Mary Hospital will hold a breast and skin clinic from 4-6 p.m. on Wednesdays, Sept. 13 and 27, in the Marian Women's Center. Registration is required.

A physician will perform a complete breast examination, provide instructions on how to perform a breast self-examination, and perform a skin cancer check.

If indicated, a mammogram will be done.

The cost of the breast exam and skin cancer check is $20. The cost of mammography is extra. However, this cost may be covered by insurance. For more information or to register, please call (313) 591-3314.

Readers ask about reps' payrolls

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Readers have written to ask:

A. "I would like to know who I can contact to find out the total payrolls of U.S. Senators Carl Levin and Spence Abraham and U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg."

"I realize they are saddled with clerical costs of people the U.S. government will not pay off, but if my information is correct, the three have payrolls of close to $10 million each. Abraham has only been in office for six months."

B. That $10 million figure is about what a U.S. senator from Michigan would spend in his entire six-year term. Let's stick to annual figures instead and start with the House.

Knollenberg's chief of staff, Paul Welday, said all House members are allotted a staff of 18, but his boss has chosen to hire only 14 plus a part-timer.

"Joe is on the Appropriations Committee this term and was to be allotted an additional person. But the new members aren't getting that person. We have to do the work with the existing staff," Welday said.

Many say Appropriations, where budgets are written, is the most important committee in the House, and normally its members don't serve on other committees. But Knollenberg also accepted a second assignment, the Education and Economic Opportunity Committee.

In round numbers, each member of Congress - from senior republicans to a junior democrat like Lynn Rivers of Ann Arbor - gets the same budget:

- $190,000 for offices - rent, telephone, etc. Knollenberg has offices in Farmington Hills and Livonia, plus a person who travels to senior centers to work on Social Security and Medicaid problems.

- Travel expenses to the Capitol vary depending on distance.

- $550,000 for payroll. Basic jobs: administrative, legislative, constituent service (Social Security, federal home loans, immigration and family crises abroad) and correspondence.

- $100,000 for franking - the cost of mail.

Welday said Knollenberg turns back money.

Based on a state's population, Levin, a three-term Democrat, and Abraham, a first-term Republican, get the same $1.8 million. The breakdown:

- $1.3 million for administrative and clerical.

- $385,000 for legislative assistance.

- $124,000 for official office expense.

Total staff size: 48 (24 in Washington; 24 in Michigan).

Levin, according to press aide Kathy McShea, chooses to have nine small offices scattered around Michigan to minimize people's long-distance phone calls. Congressional rules limit each member of 1.3 sheets of memo and stationery paper per adult constituent and one mobile office. The rules also specify that district offices must be in federal buildings if possible.

Based on the state's population, Levin, a three-term Democrat, and Abraham, a first-term Republican, get the same $1.8 million.

Every senator and representative gets the same pay: $133,600. Vice President Al Gore and House Speaker Newt Gingrich get $171,500; majority and minority leaders get $148,400.

(Interesting fact: The vice president's budget is part of the congressional budget, not the Executive Office, because the vice president legally is president of the U.S. Senate. Even his Secret Service protection, provided by the Treasury Department, comes out of the congressional budget.)

If you think congressional staff posts are dream jobs, think again.

A 1991 study by the Congressional Management Foundation showed that although senators' and representatives' salaries are the same, Senate staffers get 25-50 percent more than House staffers. The 1991 average Senate staff salary was $33,094, or 2 percent below the average federal civil servant pay and 28 percent below private sector pay.

Turnover is high and burnout comes young. The average age of a Senate staffer is 34.6 years; in the American labor force as a whole, 36.6 years; and in the federal civil service, 42.3 years.

Readers also have asked about individual officeholders' payrolls.

That is only part of what Congress actually spends on itself. The grand total last year was $2.6 billion, of which $1.4 billion went for individual and committee offices.

In addition, $1.25 billion went for the Office of Technology Assessment, the Congressional Budget Office, the Architect of the Capitol, Library of Congress, Congressional Printing Office, Botanic Garden, Government Printing Office and General Accounting Office, the Capitol Police, guides and attending physicians.

In recent years, Congress has put a lid on staff growth. But it overwhelmingly refused to eliminate the jobs of elevator operators. Meanwhile, the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse issued what one Capitol Hill newspaper called "a stinging indictment of (House) bookkeeping practices, along with a list of 226 recommendations about how to clean up its act."

Most changes involved new computer systems and training for staff users plus "replacing ratty office furniture with $33 million worth of furniture that's ergonomically correct." In other words, future congressional budgets will look like many corporate budgets: more for technology, less for staff.

Vocalizers to mark 50th with musical extravaganza

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

This weekend the regional branch of Sweet Adelines International, a barbershop harmony group for women, will mark the group's 50th anniversary with what else - a musical extravaganza.

The Novi Hilton is hosting a local celebration of the 50th Anniversary Celebration Show and will feature the award winning voices of three Detroit area choruses. The metro area choruses are just three of a cast of choruses that comprise the sounds of Region 2, the Detroit area branch of the International organization.

The anniversary show will take place Saturday, Sept. 16, in ballrooms C and D at 8 p.m. Friday night's novice contest will be a good warm up for the all star cast featured in the anniversary show.

Award winning choruses from Region 2 will be featured in the Saturday show along with prize winning quartets from here and abroad. A quartet from Detroit, won the international competition in 1989. The base for the quartet is from East Pointe while the three others are from London, Ontario.

The anniversary show is a prelude to the international celebration which is being held in New Orleans on Oct. 16-21.

Joan Kienitz, the public relations spokeswoman for Region 2, said Tuesday, Saturday's performance will feature musical classes taught by a music teacher and chorus of 150 from Dayton, Ohio. The Ohio chorus placed first in the international competition last year and in the top five of the 26 regional choruses in the international organization, Kienitz said.

The Spirit of Detroit and East Pointe Chorus, which both feature voices from the metro area, will be performing in Novi Saturday before the East Pointe Chorus heads off to New Orleans to participate in the international anniversary celebration.

Kienitz said Sweet Adelines is marking its anniversary with regional and international shows. Sweet Adelines was founded in 1945 and has grown to over 30,000 members worldwide with choruses in Australia, Canada, England, Finland, Germany, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Republic of Panama, Scotland, and Sweden, as well as those in all fifty states in the United States.

Knollenberg to address Medicare issue

U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Twp., will hold a town hall meeting to provide residents with an update on the status of Medicare. The meeting will take place Saturday, Sept. 16, from 10:30 a.m.-noon in the Novi Civic Center.

Medicare, the federal government's largest health care program, is governed by a board of trustees, three of whom serve on President Clinton's cabinet.

On April 3, the trustees reported that Medicare Part A, the hospital-insurance trust fund will be bankrupt in just seven years and unable to pay the hospital bills of 34 million senior citizens.

Knollenberg represents the Oakland County portion of the city of Northville in the U.S. House.

The reason so many people come here is no accident.

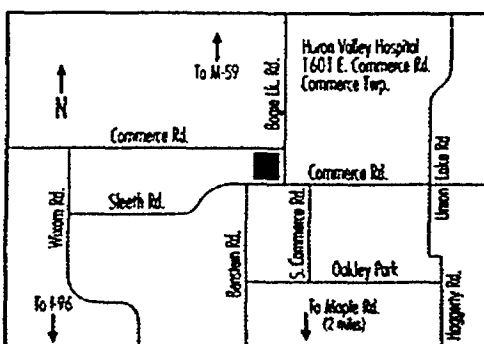

Whether it's a few stitches or a broken bone, you want the assurance that you'll be seen as an individual. Not a number.

And when you come through these doors, that's exactly how you'll be treated.

In our emergency department and trauma rooms, our physicians and staff offer you the special care and attention you'd expect from a smaller hospital. Yet as part of The Detroit Medical Center, affiliated with Wayne State University, the resources available to you are anything but small.

So no matter what brings you here, not only will we heal your injury, we'll also ease your mind.

For more information on these and other services, call our Physician Referral Service at (810) 360-3450. You'll see how easy it is to get the right care, right here.

This show's been renewed for another season

Okay, okay. I promise. We will not even think of discontinuing Talk of the Week. I can't even begin to tell you how many people have approached me on the street or called me on the phone thinking that we were going to place the column on the scrap heap. Heck, all I did was ask for your criticisms.

I have to admit I'm happy to find out that many of you enjoy contributing to, and reading, our weekly offerings. It is enjoyable to write, and I certainly get to talk with a lot of people.

Take this week for instance. I attended Northville High School's home football opener last Friday - I love high school football and thoroughly enjoyed watching Northville whip Salem, 31-7 - and while I was standing along the fence watching the game progress, I noticed a small group of students pass by. One of them seemed to take a particular interest in me, and the group kept coming back to check me out. After about three or four instances, I grew curious.

"What are they staring at," I wondered to myself.

It wasn't long before one of them approached me, a shy looking kid about 15 years old whose name, I learned later, was Mike. He stopped about three feet from me, and squinting his eyes, asked the question he had obviously been pondering for several minutes.

"Hey, are you that newspaper dude?" I instantly burst out laughing.

It seems that Mike's mom is a Talk of the Week reader, and he had spotted my photo after she had cut out one of the columns and had stuck it on the refrigerator door - regrettably I forgot to ask which one.

Once my identity was confirmed the rest of the group came over, and we began to chat. I learned more about being a kid at Northville High School in 15 minutes than I ever could have in the few trips I've made to the school.

I also learned that Mike and his friends, Greg, Kris, and Jennifer (that's not her real name. It seems she wasn't supposed to be at the game and I promised I wouldn't reveal her identity, though my column was, well ...

To put it bluntly and in their words, they said the column "sucked."

God, I love kids. They are so honest it's scary.

Anyway they said kids probably wouldn't read it because it's not interesting to them. They went on to say that the first thing I should do is change the name.

"Yeah. You could change it to something like 'Reclining Minds,' Mike said.

Reclining Minds. Isn't that an alternative rock group?

"It'd be catchy. They'd think it was so weird they'd have to read it."

Ah, thanks Mike, but for right now, Talk of the Week probably explains the column's purpose pretty well.

Anyway, I really enjoyed talking with the teens. It was definitely an eye opening experience, and it gave me a new perspective on things.

Reclining Minds, hmmm ... maybe Mike's on to something there.

OKAY. TIME TO KICK THIS BABY INTO "HYPERDRIVE." This week's space travels will take you to distant galaxies. We won't force you to read one more editorial comment regarding the school district, and you won't find the dreaded word - Sniper - in any of the following entries.

This week, my galactic friends, we will warp to the Victorian star cluster, transport you to the supernova we call Northville High School, and return to Earth to celebrate the constitution.

So pick up that light saber and hop on board our version of the Millennium Falcon, otherwise known as Talk of the Week.

May the force be with you.

SENIOR CLASS FUND-RAISER: Received a nice letter from Andrea Morrow, senior class secretary and student at Northville High School. The senior class is conducting two fund-raisers during the Victorian Festival this weekend. The first is a traditional Root Beer Float Booth, located on Center Street in front of Heritage Antiques. The booth will be open at 5 p.m., Sept. 15, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 16-17.

The second fund-raising event is a garage sale, which will be conducted Sept. 16-17 at the Northville High School parking lot. The sale will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., both days.

According to Morrow, the funds raised by both events will be used for the senior class prom, scheduled for May 10, 1996.

Good luck seniors, and thanks for sharing that information with us.

Northville Christian Assembly School also hopes to raise some money during the big bash. School representatives plan to raffie off a beautifully-constructed dollhouse and barn that will be on display at Baby Baby, 144 Mary Alexander Court.

CONSTITUTIONALLY SPEAKING: Mrs. Scott wrote to remind me that the week of Sept. 17-23 is Constitution Week, celebrating the 208th anniversary of the signing of this great document. Mrs. Scott believes we should take time to appreciate the rights provided us by the Constitution. She also reports that a copy of the Constitution will be on display all next week at the Northville Library, and that Northville Mayor Chris Johnson has been asked to proclaim next week as Constitution week.

Mrs. Scott, thanks for reminding us to celebrate our rights as Americans. Too often we take them for granted.

I'LL BE DUNKED: Talk about getting your feet wet. Tammy Pederson recruited me to sit in a dunk tank during the Victorian Festival.

The tank will be operated by the Northville Thunder soccer team, Sept. 15-17, to help raise money for the team.

Also sitting in the tank will be Al Ferrara from the Chamber of Commerce, school board member Tom Gudritz, NHS Student Assistance Coordinator Charlie Stille, Cooke Middle School teacher Brad O'Neill, and other special guests.

For anyone interested, I'll be in the tank at 1 p.m., Sept. 16. You get three chances for $1.

THANKS TO THE SPONSORS: Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs wanted to make sure all of the Victorian Festival sponsors were recognized for their contributions. I agree. These folks make the whole festival possible, and a huge thank you is in order. The sponsors are:

Queen's Crown sponsor - Bob Beson, Phoenix Group, Inc. Platinum Crown sponsor - Jim Davis, Davis Auto Care/Jim's Oil Depot. Gold Crown sponsors - Rick Ambler, Ambler Enterprises; Gordon Parker, American Speedy Printing of Northville; Joe & Diane DiRado, Brickscape; Butch Casterline, Casterline Funeral Home; Terry Ponkey, manager, Comerica; Mary Gyorke, manager, Community Federal Credit Union; Elizabeth Brown, Elizabeth's Bridal Manor; McNeely & Lincoln Associates; Ann Dwyer, manager, NBD Bank; Nick & Martha Simkins; Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Directors; The Northville Record, Lee Snider, editor; Orin Mazzoni, Orin Jewelers; Jim Hiller, Shopping Center Market; and University of Michigan Health Center.

CAUGHT BY THE GRAMMAR POLICE: Talk about embarrassing. I received a note from Betty Griffin this week, and it seems she caught a glaring grammatical error in my column two weeks ago.

At first I didn't believe I had made the mistake, but after checking back, I found that Betty was correct.

To make matters worse, I should have caught the mistake myself, it was so obvious.

Thanks for the note, Betty. I'm glad you read the column, and I'll try to ensure I don't make that mistake again.

Oh, by the way, I didn't attend the University of Michigan. I did, however, spend two years at the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

SO WHO IS THIS MARGARET ANYWAY? Last week I wrote a story about Kelly Jamieson, and in the article I identified her mom incorrectly. Ed Jamieson promptly pointed out the mistake immediately after reading the story, and when I went back to my notes, the name Margaret appeared.

Actually, Ed's wife's name is Barbara, and I have no earthly idea how I got Margaret out of Barbara. Maybe I should take my mother's advice and get my hearing checked.

Anyway, Barbara, I am terrible sorry about the error. Getting a person's correct name is an elementary part of reporting, and there is no excuse for getting it wrong!

Beams collect oil as it seeps into the ground near Ford Pond and the railroad tracks in this 1993 photograph of environmental cleanup efforts at the General Oil site.

17 local sites get named to state contamination list

Pollutants released have caused groundwater, soil and sediment contamination, MDNR officials have confirmed. Contaminants include polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB), lead, cadmium, benzene, toluene, ethylbenzene, xylenes (BTEX), dichloroethylene (DCE), trichloroethylene (TCE) and trichloroethane (TCA).

The waste dumping has vaulted the site onto the MDNR's 145-worst contaminated list for the past three years, although this year its rank dropped to number 45, down from an initial high of 29 due to ongoing cleanup efforts.

Also making the MDNR list for the first time is the Ely Fuel Inc., a storage facility down Railroad Street from General Oil. MDNR officials say an above-ground storage tank released petroleum and coal products, BTEX and polynuclear aromatic hydrocarbons (PNAHs) into the area's groundwater and soil. That site's contamination, however, is not nearly as severe as the General Oil site, state officials say.

A third non-LUST Northville site is a warehouse/storage facility on Northville Road owned by the Adirstra Corp. The MDNR isn't sure how barium, chromium and lead were released into the groundwater and soil at the site but say the final stages of cleanup are under way.

This year's list represents a 6 percent increase over last year's number of sites. Wayne County leads all counties in the state with more than 1,350 sites. The state Legislature authorized nearly $57 million last year in cleanups statewide.

That money is divided up among MDNR districts across Michigan, which then decides how best to spend it on cleanup efforts, a department official in Lansing said.

Local district MDNR officials did not return phone calls to The Northville Record.

The MDNR defines a site of environmental contamination as one where "the release of a hazardous substance, or the potential release of a discarded hazardous substance in a quantity, fund equity, based on 1994 statistics, is 8.27 percent of expenditures.

Budget gets good grades

What that means is that 5 percent of expenditures would approximately equal the district's average accounts payable and payroll for a two week period. At 10 percent of expenditures, the district could make accounts payable and payroll for a four week period.

The district had set a goal of 5 percent before the 1994-95 school year began, and Bayson recommended that the board continue to set goals for maintaining the fund balance at or above the current 7 percent of expenditures.

"Once such a goal is determined, each succeeding year's budget should include a provision to increase or maintain the district's fund balance at the desired level," he said.

The audit reports that there was excess revenue of $460,000 in the general fund, with total revenue listed at $29,071,918 and expenditures at $28,611,142. The report also includes:

- Special Revenue Fund: $9,464,010 in revenue and $9,462,264 in expenditures.

- Debt Service Fund: $4,054,135 in revenue and $3,976,148 in expenditures.

- Capital Project Fund: $10,760 in revenue and $564,424 in expenditures.

Also of note, Bayson reported, is the continued uncertainty regarding state funding. The state reduced the district's September foundation payment from $188 per pupil to about $100 per pupil, and that, Bayson said, has created short-term concerns.

"It is unclear if or when the funding shortfall will be made up during 1996," he said. "The district may want to establish contingency plans to address potential cash flow and funding shortfalls."

Bayson praised board members and administrators for keeping the district financially sound.

"This board and administration have provided excellent stewardship in taking control of the district's financial situation in these uncertain times," he said.

Union chief disputes opinion

While it's true that the hours would have been under minimum, they weren't discussed in the initial negotiations, according to Roy Danley, district director of personnel.

"The teachers were interested and the board was interested in the concept," Danley said. "It was just a case that the two parties agreed to disagree on the funding question and the format of the instructional day."

The question of instructional hours was really not an issue in the negotiations, Danley added.

By returning to the normal school day the high school will exceed the state instructional hour limit, with Northville High School conducting 1,048 hours of instruction for the 1995-96 school year.

According to Leboeuf, the issue of instructional hours may not have been an initial concern during the negotiations, but would have had to be considered before the beginning of the school year.

"It's true, we would not have been able to comply with the hours mandate," she said.

The district sent high school parents a letter, in July, explaining the reasons behind stoppage of the program.

Leboeuf said that despite its demise, plenty of good things came out of the program. "The board has provided funding for teachers to continue their projects," she said. "We have implemented new programs, and we've brought new technology to our classrooms. There are a lot of teachers who are excited about teaching and educating kids."

"That's why I took offense to the editorial," Leboeuf added. "Here we are at the beginning of the school year, and teachers were excited to be back in the classrooms. When you read something like that, it can be demoralizing."

State school chief to speak at dedication

Clark Durant, president of the Michigan State Board of Education, will be speaking at both the 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. services for Northville Christian Assembly's Christian Educator's Dedication Sunday, Sept. 17.

Durant has practiced law for 19 years, was appointed by the President of the United States and unanimously confirmed by the U.S. Senate to the Board of Legal Services Corp., has run for the U.S. Senate, and was nominated by the Republican Party to run for the Michigan Supreme Court.

Durant currently holds several board positions and is experienced in various legal and governmental issues.

This is an excellent opportunity to hear from a leader in education and see first hand what one part of the local community is doing in the area of education. Northville Christian Assembly is located at 41355 Six Mile Road, approximately one mile west of Haggerty Road. For further information, call (810) 348-9030 during regular business hours.

Child-help effort seeks volunteers

Northville's was the first school district in southeastern Michigan to adopt the program but more volunteers are needed, Northville Township Police Officer Matt Mayes explained. To encourage those who are interested Mayes will offer two ChildWatch training sessions this coming Tuesday (Sept. 19) at Northville Township Hall, sponsored by the police department and the Northville Council of PTA/PTSA.

"We can use everyone's help," Mayes said. "You don't need to be home all day. Just put the sign up when you're at home and take it down when you're not."

"A lot of volunteers we get are the parents of school-age kids but everyone's welcome," he continued. "Senior citizens are especially great because a lot of them are retired and home a lot of the day."

The ChildWatch training class will be offered on Tuesday from 10-10:30 a.m. and 7-7:30 p.m. Township Hall is off of Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty.

In that half hour Mayes will explain what volunteers should do if children ever come to their door. He'll also offer advice on what to do if you ever see a suspicious person, vehicle or situation and want to report it to police.

"No one knows your neighborhood better than you," Mayes said. "You know when something or someone's out of place. The police can't be everywhere. We try to get people to be the eyes and ears of the community."

Teamed with the adult advice are school assemblies Mayes conducts to teach kids about how to spot and avoid trouble. Children need to learn not to trust anyone they don't know, he said, as many abductors and molesters deliberately seem "nice" in order to lure their victims into a situation where they can assert control.

Mayes also wants local civic and homeowners groups to be aware that he is happy to conduct ChildWatch training classes anywhere and anytime. All he needs is a group of at least 15 volunteers. For more information call him at police headquarters at 349-9400.

Expo event gives community chance to see safety equipment

Expo Day allows Northville residents to meet the people who protect their lives and property and get an up-close look at the equipment our police officers, firefighters and paramedics use — as well as have a heck of a lot of fun.

You can sneak a peek at the inside of a police car, let the kids live every 8-year-old's dream by running a fire truck siren and see a Med-Flight helicopter at work. Police officers, firefighters and paramedics will be on hand to say hello and answer any questions you might have.

There will also be a S.W.A.T. team display, a rappelling demonstration, K-9 police dogs and more. Children's favorites such as McGruff the crime dog and Sparky the fire dog will also be on hand for the fun.

Parents, make sure to have the gang at the Expo promptly at noon. You won't want to miss Sparky's arrival at Township Hall via a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter, a sight sure to delight both you and the kids.

Of course, winning a prize in the raffle would perk the day right up too. Meijer has donated the TV and the bicycle, Home Depot the gas barbecue grill and the Northville Stitches Post the jacket, complete with a special fire rescue scene sewn on the back. Tickets for the raffle will be available only at the Expo and the drawing will be held at 4 p.m.

Other local Expo Day sponsors include BFI and OIS.

"We're shooting to make this Expo even bigger and better than last year's," police Detective John Werth said.

Ice cream, hot dogs, pop and chips will be available as well as a cache of important information on how you can help reduce your chance of becoming a victim of crime. Anti-drug material and fire safety tips will be offered for both adults and children as well some valuable free services.

That includes VIN window etching — an aid in reducing the problems from stolen cars — and fingerprinting and photographing of children. Parents keep the prints and photos to use if their children were ever to be abducted.

RECORD OPINION

THURSDAY
September 14, 1995

Our Opinion

Still too soon to assess impact of tax scheme

The Northville School District received a clean fiscal bill of health from auditor Plante & Moran this week, an important development during the first year of the Proposal A era.

Budget planners managed to complete 1994-95 with a fund surplus, lifting the cumulative balance beyond the 5-percent goal to a full 7 percent.

The auditor said at Monday's board of education meeting that the average statewide balance is 8.27 percent of expenditures, and he recommended the district continue working to enlarge its surplus each year. Given that last year's target was exceeded by 2 percent this is not an unrealistic goal.

But let's not rush to pronounce the new school funding formula a smashing success just yet. There are still uncertainties surrounding the new program ushered in under Proposal A, which, with its huge property tax cut and 50-percent sale tax increase, radically altered the monetary picture for Michigan public school districts.

In his year-end report to school trustees, Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said Proposal A changed the funding equation from 95 percent local reliance to 95 percent state, effectively making Northville an in-formula district for the first time in many years.

The untested features of the new tax structure and the volatility of the state's political climate are causing school officials to remain guarded about the future.

And well they should be, as grant payments from the state have not always been reliably made. In only the most recent example, the state reduced the district's September foundation payment from $188 to $100 per pupil, creating short-term difficulties. Similar developments are keeping district officials watchful and nervous.

Property tax relief was the major advantage of the Proposal A plan, passed by voters in March of 1994. But the major drawbacks were the risks associated with the many unknowns - unknowns which, one year later, remain disturbingly real.

Education, fun offered at public safety day

The more than 1,000 people who had a blast at last year's public safety Expo Day in Northville Township are happy to get another chance to gawk at all the fascinating emergency response equipment.

The police, fire and EMT exposition was first held last year at this time to allow people to see what their taxes provide and to help sell an essential public safety renewal millage. To everyone's relief, the millage passed in November.

This year there's no millage vote but, glad to say, there's another Expo Day.

In case you weren't there last year, the event takes place in the parking lot of township hall and features displays of virtually everything related to police, firefighting and medical emergency work.

There are fire engines and ladders, patrol vehicles, ambulances, police

S.W.A.T. team gear and a Med-Flight helicopter. Kids will have the time of their lives ringing bells, sounding sirens and talking with McGruff and Sparky, two-legged dogs that happen to be experts on crime and fire prevention.

Demonstrations and hands-on activities are included, and attendees will have a chance to pick up on personal rescue and home safety tips. New this year are raffles for a TV, a bicycle, a gas grill and an embroidered jacket. It's a learning experience but there's nothing saying that learning can't be fun too.

The second annual Public Safety Expo is set for noon-4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 24, at township hall, Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty.

There are few better ways for the public to get a firsthand look at where its tax dollars go.

Opinion divides school district

I do believe that if I had to go before King Solomon right now half the community would beg to see me sliced lengthwise down the middle and the other half would rush in to have me spared.

Lee Snider

Honest to gosh, in all my years as a journalist I don't think I've ever seen any instance where one editorial so divided people along for- 'im and again- 'im lines.

The Aug. 31 opinion piece on the cancellation of the Wednesday teacher conference program at Northville High School was greeted with cheers from many parents and with outrage from administrators and teachers.

For those who don't already know, two weeks ago this newspaper took the position that the morning study group sessions that delayed the start of classes for three hours every Wednesday last year were discontinued mainly because the Northville Education Association was unwilling to ask rank-and-file teachers to commit personal time to the meetings.

In the process of making our case, we said the brainstorming discussions had been thought necessary because the high school suffers from a stale learning environment. Many teachers at NHS are apathetic and lack the motivation to take more than a routine approach to teaching, we maintained.

After the newspaper came out, a lot of activist parents I talked with expressed a sense of relief that an ongoing concern of theirs had finally seen the light of day in print. But district officials and teachers were hopping mad at what they saw as a slam against the high school. So while one group came alive with praise for the editorial, the other was livid with indignation. Half were emboldened, half insulted.

I'm not going to retract what I said in the editorial because to us in this office the situation appeared exactly as I described it. However, I would like to issue a clarification of sorts, not so much to smooth over hard feelings (I don't expect to accomplish that) as to expand on what has become something of an emotional sore spot.

The assertion that the high school faculty is mediocre is, of course, a generality and, as with all sweeping statements, there are notable exceptions. NHS obviously is blessed with many caring and creative teachers and if the editorial wrongly grouped those instructors in with the foot draggers, I truly regret that.

At the time I wrote the essay I was aware that there was a degree of unfairness in certain of its conclusions but I feared that softening the remarks with qualifiers would blunt the message. I believe the editorial was more true than not, and I think this was one of those cases where the benefits of abruptness outweighed the injustices of broad-brush painting.

Unfortunately, there is no way to list the names of the teachers who constitute the exceptions to the charge of indifference. About all I can do is offer thanks to those who work hard and encourage them to keep it up.

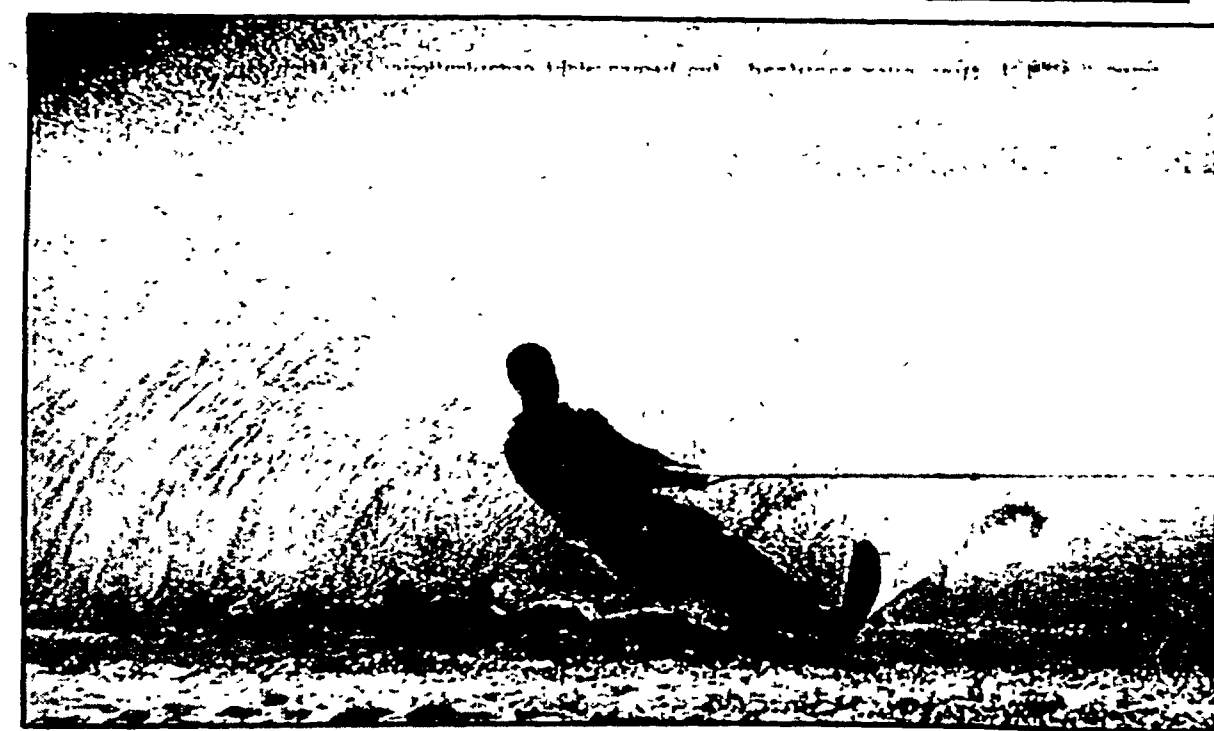

About all I can say about the instructors for whom the shoe fits is that it's time for them to think back to what moved them to become teachers in the first place.

They need to recall the idealism and commitment to youth that fired their imaginations and pull that feeling - kicking and screaming if necessary - back to the forefront.

It's never too late to do the right thing.

Quit with the child-like antics

Okay boys and girls, it's time to put away our toys and begin our lesson on people skills!

Robert Jackson

I'm beginning to think that some Northville Public School administrators, teachers, board members and parents could all learn a simple lesson that is taught in the preschool and kindergarten classes throughout the district - despite your differences, treat all people with respect.

That hasn't been the case in the recent history of the district. Instead of focusing energy on how we're going to bring education into the next millennium, forces within the district spend more time plotting strategic attacks on the character of perceived "enemies."

You have people in the district pointing accusing fingers at parents; parents plotting against teachers; administrators plotting against administrators. All claiming their actions are only for the benefit of the kids.

Baloney. All of these actions are purely self-serving. Heck, you need a scorecard just to keep up with who's out to get whom!

The ironic twist to all of this is alarming - while all the infighting and posturing is going on, who's playing advocate for the students?

After all, isn't their education the item we should all be concerning ourselves with?

From what I've witnessed lately the answer would be apparently not.

Now, all of us have plenty of ideas on how best to educate children. Because my idea may not be in line with someone else's doesn't mean either idea is more valid. Just because we disagree doesn't mean we should spend our time launching personal attacks. Let's just agree to disagree and go on from there.

Isn't that the lesson we communicate to kids? It should be.

To all of you who want to continue the personal attacks, the petty infighting, and the negative arguing, I have something for you to consider.

Begin solving the problem, or get out of the way of those who want to!

So for board members who may think they know better, shouldn't you be spending your time governing this district in a way that best represents the interests of our children?

For some administrators who think they know better, shouldn't you be spending your time providing a proper learning environment that will be in the best interests of our children?

For the few principals and teachers who think they know better, shouldn't you join your district colleagues who are excited to be spending their time challenging the minds of our children, giving them the opportunity to learn and grow?

To the handful of parents who think they know better, shouldn't you concern yourselves first with providing the home stability and support necessary for children to develop in today's rapidly changing learning environment?

To all of us who think we know better, shouldn't we return the focus of education to all children, and not mire it in the petty differences found in each and every one of us?

Letters

Letter writer column was low blow

Lee Snider's snide remarks (Sept. 7) about a contributor to the letters page seem excessively hateful and conducive to the balkanization of Northville.

In the disparaging context of implying atheism, irrelevant mention of Alfred P. Galli's advanced age adds the suggestion of senility; headlining him as a heretic and accusing him of blasphemy invite persecution by all who believe themselves good, reverent and conventional.

Words like "fallacies" and "mis-guided" are used with anonymous attribution, perhaps so the editor can dodge responsibility, perhaps as the so-called "bandwagon" propaganda trick for implying widespread support. The expressed intolerance for concerns, views and religious preferences other than his own and those of his two unnamed readers suggests an undemocratic narrowness to which he and they are privileged.

But using his editorial power to influence public opinion for the purpose of a personal ad hominem attack against a private citizen whose thoughts are merely "irksome" is an abuse of that power.

There is no public policy issue or campaign. None of Mr. Galli's "irksome" thoughts, arguments or facts are respectfully examined for validity. Nothing but mean aggression is evident in Mr. Snider's sarcastic opening sentence, "Tenacious letter writer Alfred Galli is going to love this."

On the facing page, Mr. Galli's letter about human rights for women was timely, informative, scholarly - and gentlemanly. Take your pick.

Study Bible for a real eye opener

To the Editor:

Apropos The Northville Record editorial of Sept. 7, I would respectfully suggest to the gentle lady whose religious boat I seemed to have rocked, that she indulge herself in a reality check and take the short time it would require to read the 22 short chapters of Revelation in the King James version of the Bible. I am most assuredly convinced that it would be a revelation to her.

To the gentleman of a "conservative bent," I suggest that he respond to my comments in the op-ed pages of The Northville Record. Let's we forget, we can agree not to be disagreeable as we proceed to exchange ideas intelligently and without rancor.

School district good at spending

To the Editor:

In the Aug. 31 edition of The Northville Record were some interesting facts about the Northville School Board.

I don't see any reason for an apology from The Record as some teachers do.

Yes, we do have some dedicated teachers but we also have a school board with some generous ideas. One letter last week implied that they have no new ideas about the future either. They just know how to spend money.

The six administrators share $659,900 or an average of $109,997 each. In addition, all of their packages include health insurance premiums along with 33 paid vacation days. How many taxpayers and voters can match that?

The superintendent, on top of his $123,416 salary, receives an auto allowance. I suggest we buy him a Ford Escort for $11,000, keep it at school for his official business and it should last 10 years with proper care. It sounds more like what the taxpayers can afford.

Recently some retired friends had a get together with old friends. There were 10 women and three men. I felt like an endangered species. I wonder how they are going to vote on a $58 million school project. Some of the widows receive $800 per month from Social Security. They have been getting a 2.8 percent increase, or $269, each year.

The school administrators will receive an average increase of $2,750 per year. Not bad.

Common sense tells me that the board is going to have a hard sell on a new millage vote when 70 percent of the voters don't have children in school.

I would suggest they put on their thinking caps.

While the administrators average $110,000 today, with a 2.5 percent raise each year, they'll be at $137,000 in just 10 years.

The superintendent will go from $123,416 to over $154,000. Teachers will go from $51,700 to $64,564 with a 2.5 percent raise.

I have a suggestion for all young people, save your money.

Bottle and can drive a success

To the Editor:

Once again the music students of Northville High School deserve a public note of thanks! An enthusiastic group of choir and band students met at my home this past week to assist in distribution of information promoting the Northville High School music boosters annual returnable can and bottle drive scheduled to take place on Oct. 7.

The students participated not only to become more involved with the music boosters program but also to share their enthusiasm for the high school music program. Thanks to all who came for a job well done with special thanks to Jeremy Abbey, Laurie Boloven, Jennifer Cole, Marie Dingwall, Rachel Koster, Carrie Martin and Kataclia Williams for their extra efforts.

I'm looking forward to another terrific school year of wonderful musical performances from the hundreds of outstanding band and choir students at Northville High!

Business joins fight over schools

As usual, last week's big news failed to get much coverage on TV or in the big daily newspapers. But it was both important and timely.

Michigan's business community finally weighed in - but how! - on the eve of what promises to be a noisy fight in the Michigan Legislature over required classroom standards.

Business leaders have been growing increasingly concerned at the damage the radicals now controlling the State Board of Education might do in their quest to reform our public schools by destroying them.

The State Board, for example, wants to throw out the mandatory school curriculum standards adopted by the Legislature in 1993 and allow each school district to follow them or not, as it pleases. The board also is very hostile to the tough new statewide achievement tests that will supplement the MEAP tests later this year.

For years the business community has been grumbling that it's paying most of the taxes to support the schools whereas many kids leaving high school are largely unemployable. Some can't reason well or write clearly. Others cannot add fractions or read blueprints. Worse, the expensive task of remediating those schools on the job amounts to throwing good money after bad.

Earlier this spring, business leaders realized that the slash-and-burn majority on the State Board, led by Grosse Pointe lawyer Clark Durant, was serious about gutting the steps to school reform that were made possible by the passage of the Proposal A package. They started pulling a coalition together linking heavyweight organizations: the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Manufacturers Association, the Greater Detroit and Grand Rapids Area Chambers of Commerce.

They created something called the Michigan Business Leaders for Education Excellence to lobby for tough curriculum standards and accurate assessment tests to make sure that kids really learned what was in the curriculum, not just in the good schools but in all of them.

And last week's news was that the coalition held its first press conference, making it clear that the business community was going to be in the thick of the fight over school standards.

John Thodis, president of the MMA, was blunt: "Since the passage of Proposal A, there has been an ongoing attempt to back away from these accountability measures, and away from the promises made to the people of Michigan. The latest threat to this new system is an effort to remove the mandate from the academic core curriculum and make it a recommended set of standards."

"If we believe that these standards are essential to providing a quality education for our students, how can we believe that it is acceptable if some schools choose not to provide the solid educational foundation that the core curriculum establishes? This is too important an issue to leave to chance, and we are not content to say to the students of this state that they may get a good education - if they choose the right school and if their school chooses to adopt the academic core curriculum."

"The MMA believes that the only way to ensure that all students receive a solid educational foundation is to require, rather than merely recommend, the standards that all students will be expected to achieve."

Right on, John Thodis! Right on, Michigan business leaders!

You and your business colleagues, of all people, have a direct stake in making sure the kids who leave school have the skills to become productive workers in an increasingly competitive world economy. That's a far more important stake to us than the rantings of a bunch of ideologues who happen to control the State Board of Education.

Who's the most conservative of all?

Our friendly state representatives in Lansing are becoming more polarized politically. That much is fact. Some of us disagree on why.

I've said it's term limits. During the Proposal A voting, I ran a study of how first- and second-term lawmakers voted on replacement taxes versus how veterans of three or more terms voted.

The newer group tended to vote no - Democrats for liberal ideological reasons (the sales tax was "regressive"), Republicans for anti-tax reasons (don't replace lost property taxes, just cut 'em). The older hands learned the necessary art of compromise.

Bill Ballenger - entrepreneur of the Inside Michigan Politics newsletter, a former county GOP leader, former legislator and former Milliken Administration department head - comes up with a new set of facts based on this year's voting records: "All 56 Republicans were more conservative than all 54 Democrats." No longer is there a middle ground. Ballenger's reasons:

"1) The GOP's razor-thin margin of control instilled a sense of discipline in the Republican caucus that it didn't need when it was in the minority, or deadlocked for control with Dems in 1993-94.

"2) This year's session, tilted heavily toward economic and tax policy questions, was largely devoid of some of the incendiary social-cultural roll calls that gave some Republican leaders a chance in years past to cast 'liberal' votes on issues like abortion, assisted suicide, et al."

Case in point: Reps. Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, and Susan Munsell, R-Howell, have been "pro-choice" or liberal votes on anti-abortion bills in the past and had "moderate" scores. This year they're to the right of far right types like Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, and Dave Jaye, R-Utica.

IMP based its scoring on 30 roll calls, rating perfect conservative records as zero and perfect liberal records as 100. So how did your local state representatives do?

Bill Bullard, R-Milford, 3.6; Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, 3.3.

Bullard represents Oakland County Northville in the House, while Law represents Wayne County Northville and Northville Township.

Well, now, what does that mean to you?

Did your hero vote your philosophy? How liberal or conservative are you? Here are some of the easier-to-understand bills, where a yes vote is conservative and a no vote liberal:

- Immediate effect to HB 4229 reducing the single business tax.
- Final passage to HB 4233 to reduce and eliminate the intangibles tax.
- Final passage of a state anti-racketeering law (HB 4367) allowing prosecutors to expropriate property from persons for crimes defined as racketeering.
- Final passage of SB 322 reforming unemployment compensation in ways friendly to business but opposed by unions.
- Final passage of SB 386 easing cleanup standards for leaking underground storage tank (LUST) sites.
- Cut off welfare for fetuses of less than five months and use savings to encourage pregnant minors living alone to return home or to adult supervised care (SB 300).
- Adopt Walberg amendment to HB 4425 eliminating Indian tuition waiver from the fiscal 1996 budget.
- Concur in Senate amendments to HB 4596 undoing part of the "polluter pay" law.

Bike workshop and trek to benefit St. Jude's

A Bicycle Safety Workshop and a Bike-A-Thon benefiting St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital will be held Saturday, Sept. 16, at the Novi Civic Center from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The theme for the day is "Wheels for Life, Yours and Theirs."

The workshop will include a continuous showing of films on bicycle safety and helmets.

Information and demonstrations on bike safety, bike helmets and first aid for common bicycle injuries will also be offered all day. Hourly door prizes will be drawn from the names of those attending the workshops.

Running concurrently will be the St. Jude's Bike-A-Thon. The event will take place around a two-mile course starting at the Novi Civic Center.

Riders can either sign up sponsors for each mile or they can donate themselves. Prizes will be awarded to the riders who generate the most dollars for St. Jude's Hospital.

Sponsor sheets are available at the Novi Civic Center and the Novi Public Library.

Thank you gifts for all riders will be awarded by St. Jude Hospital. For more information, call 344-2504.

The scouts of Troop No. 407, who are organizing the events, have received donations of bicycles, bicycle helmets, refreshments and door prizes but additional donations of food and prizes for the workshop and Bike-A-Thon are still needed. Anyone interested in helping should call 344-2504 and ask for Brian.

Non-alcoholic drink contest taking entries

Across the United States in 1996, an important anniversary will be celebrated: the "American Automobile Centennial," the 100th anniversary of the U.S. auto industry.

AAA Michigan invites state residents to help celebrate the centennial and possibly win $500, a weekend getaway for two or other prizes. Simply turn the theme "Salute to the Automobile" into a festive non-alcoholic drink for the Auto Club's 15th annual "Zero-Proof Mix-Off" contest.

The contest is part of AAA Michigan's "First a Friend, Then a Host" alcohol awareness program to focus attention on the problem of drinking and driving during the holidays and throughout the year.

To enter, contestants should send a recipe for a favorite non-alcoholic drink to AAA Michigan, giving it a clever name reflecting an automotive theme. Examples of automotive-themed drinks are "Mustang Mocktail," "Sparkplug Sparkling Punch," or "Motor City Mamba."

Fifteen finalists will be chosen to mix their drinks in person at one of three regional contests — five finalists per contest.

Regional contests will be Oct. 3 in Petoskey, Oct. 4 in Muskegon and Oct. 5 in the Detroit area. At each, the drink judged best on taste, appearance and adherence to the automotive theme will win its creator $500. Second-place finishers will receive a weekend getaway for two.

Winning recipes will be featured in Michigan Living and in the 1995-96 "Great Pretenders Party Guide," distributed free statewide. The guide offers non-alcoholic drink recipes and ideas for the holidays and occasions throughout the year.

The contest deadline is Sept. 18. No alcohol or flavor extract with alcohol allowed. Entrants must be 16 years and older. AAA Michigan employees are not eligible.

Name, address, daytime telephone number, drink name, ingredients and mixing instructions should be included with entry. Type or print entries and mail to "Zero-Proof Mix-Off," AAA Michigan Public Relations, 1 Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, MI 48126.

Examine location before buying home

Choosing the right location for your new home is as important as choosing the right builder.

Be objective in your evaluation of different neighborhoods' physical locations, character and development regulations. When making your neighborhood selection, make sure you feel comfortable overall and decide if any location-related compromises are necessary in finding the home that meets your needs.

Here are some of the questions you will want to answer before you choose your neighborhood.

Take into consideration how close you are to the things you will want and need. Are medical facilities and shopping nearby? Is being close to public transportation important? If there are two wage earners, will the location you choose be close to both of your jobs? Would you want to be close to a city, or would you be willing to have a longer commute and be farther away from the city? Do you want a home with a yard, or an environment with a lot of people? If you have children, or are planning to have children, are the area schools good? Are day care facilities accessible?

"Keep in mind that the desirability of a location will impact the price of the home and that the location is rated by the value of other houses in the area," Janet L. Compo, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan, said. "The quality of schools and other public services and the appearance of the neighborhood also impact upon the price."

"Safety, cleanliness and the quality of life also contribute to the value of the neighborhood. Accessibility to expressways and conveniences often add to the cost of the home. You should also focus on the long range picture when choosing a neighborhood since the future of the neighborhood may affect the value of your home. As the neighborhood becomes more attractive, the value of the homes increase."

Enjoyment of your new home may also depend on whether you are close to friends and family. If you have children, are there other children in the neighborhood? Do you think you will feel comfortable with the neighbors in the location you choose? If one day you want to expand your home, will the location permit that? These are all things to consider before making a decision.

Survey reveals what home buyers want

First-time home buyers want many of the same features in a home that trade-up buyers want — a large lot, a two-car garage, walk-in closets and bay windows — but aren't willing or able to pay a big price, according to a survey by the National Association of Home Builders.

Renters who planned to buy their first home in the near future were surveyed on their housing desires.

"One feature they definitely want in a home is significantly more space than they have in their rental accommodations, a median of 1,900 square feet versus 1,000 square feet," said Janet L. Compo, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and chief executive officer of James D. Compo Inc.

First-time buyers are willing or able to pay a median price of $87,000 compared to trade-up buyers who could afford a median price of $120,200.

"The top five priorities for first-time home buyers were energy efficiency, a big lot, less crime, a better neighborhood and less noise," Compo added.

For a newly built home, first-time buyers said that quality of workmanship, neighborhood, energy features, builder's reputation, warranty, exterior appearance, schools, distance to work and to shopping were all important to them.

Forty percent of renters who plan to buy prefer a two-story home, 36 percent want a single-story home and 13 percent prefer a split level. When asked if they wanted a full basement (at a $10,000 premium), a half basement (at $7,000) or no basement at all, six out of 10 respondents wanted a basement, with 43 percent specifying a full basement and 17 percent opting for a half basement.

Asked whether they were willing to give up space in one part of the house for more space elsewhere, more than half said they want a larger family room instead of a larger living room, and more living space rather than dining space. Sixty-two percent said they would not be willing to give up bedroom space for either bathroom or group activity space.

Potential buyers want a home filled with amenities, particularly a washer/dryer, linen closet, additional bathroom, central air conditioning, walk-in closets, microwave oven, dishwasher, pantry, security system and fireplace.

Reflecting the current trend toward kitchen/family room combinations, 45 percent said they prefer the kitchen and family room to be adjacent and visually open but with a divider.

In the kitchen, the most desired feature is a large counter top followed by a walk-in pantry, special-use storage and a bay window. Cabinets definitely beat out kitchen windows — nearly three-quarters of the respondents said they would prefer more wall cabinets to additional windows in the kitchen.

The majority of potential buyers prefer two bathrooms (46 percent), although nearly as many (40 percent) want more than two. Forty-nine percent prefer three bedrooms, while 38 percent want four bedrooms.

For their first home, about 25 percent of the respondents said they were not willing or able to pay more than $60,000, 20 percent were willing or able to pay from $60,000 to $79,000 and another 20 percent were willing or able to pay between $80,000 and $99,999. Only 18 percent were willing or able to pay $150,000 or more.

To make the home more affordable, renters said they would be willing to live farther from work, have a smaller lot, buy an expandable home and accept fewer amenities," said Compo.

Home starts down slightly

Michigan 1995 housing project starts are down 1.4 percent from 1994 year-to-date totals, according to the latest statistics available. July housing project starts were down 16.8 percent from June.

"Both the year-to-date totals and the monthly comparisons may be down, but we remain optimistic," commented Bob Woodard, President of the Michigan Association of Home Builders. "May year-to-date totals were down 7.3 percent and June year-to-date totals were down 4.1 percent, we have actually gained ground. No one expected 1995 to compare with 1994. A difference of 1.4 percent is actually encouraging."

Fixed-rate mortgages have started to come up a little, they reached 7.63 percent during the early part of July. They were 7.51 percent in June. Lumber prices have also started to increase. Lumber prices in July were $339 per 1,000 board feet as compared to $283 in June. But a year ago they were $384.

Oakland County — In July there were 469 new housing units as compared to 578 in June, a minus 18.9 percent change. The value market in July was $62.2 million and in June, $82.1 million, a negative 24.2 percent change. In 1995 year-to-date, the number of units built was 4,266 as compared to 1994 at 3,955, an increase of 7.9 percent. The year-to-date 1995 value was $488.7 million compared to the 1994 year-to-date value of $487.1, a 0.3 percent change.

Total number of units built in Michigan for the month of July was 3,730 and in June, 4,381, a minus 14.9 percent change. The dollar value in July was $371.6 million compared to $446.7 million in June, down 16.8 percent.

Remodeling show set for Novi Expo Center

Home and garden lovers will experience a glimpse of paradise when they step into the third annual fall remodeling show and get a look at more home and garden products and services than they could ever imagine. Sponsored by the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA), the show opens Sept. 28 and runs through Oct. 1 at Novi Expo Center.

Special highlights include secrets of wallpapering, painting and faux finishes as seen as ABC TV's Good Morning America and The Learning Channel's Homebodies by "Wall Wizard" Brian Santos. He is a fourth generation decorative artist who earned his wizardry title because of his knack for simplifying the art of decorating walls with his tips, tricks and techniques so that average do-it-yourselfers can create their own magic.

Members of the American Society of Interior Designers (ASID) will conduct clinics on controlling your environment by Casey Pierson, ASID, from Scott-Shuptrine Furniture, assessing your needs and customizing interiors for the home and work place by Bonnie Meyer, ASID, of Meyer Interiors, the world of color by P.K. Fields, ASID, of P.K. Fields Interiors, kitchens and baths and finishing materials by Loretta Miles, ASID, of Loretta Miles Design Associates and a focus on finishing by Karen Sellenraad, ASID, from KLS Designs. ASID designers will also be available to discuss individual homeowner needs for new construction, material selections, color choices, floor plans and window treatments.

Over 100 of the Detroit area's FTD florists will display arrangements for a design competition. The themes are "I'll be home for Christmas" arrangements, "All Things Haunting" arrangements and "Welcome Home" fall or holiday themed door swags and wreaths.

The Treasure Chest contest, set up at various locations throughout the show, will award prizes from Farmer Jack, local FTD florists and ASID.

The Showcase of Distinctive Homes program will feature pictorial renderings of the area's newest showcase homes built by BIA members. The program is sponsored by BIA.

Expert demonstrations on decorating, home repair and remodeling will be given throughout the show. Working artists in the arts and crafts area will be making lamp shades, constructing bent willow furniture, weaving rugs and painting Pysanky portraits.

Members of the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association will bring professionally landscaped gardens to life with brick paver pathways, water features and colorful flowers and plants.

Over 200 exhibitors will show their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yard/gardens, remodeling, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, pet accessories, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

BIA also sponsors the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at the Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center and the Spring Home and Garden Show at the Novi Expo Center.

The Novi Expo Center is located at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are from 2-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $6 for adults; $4 for seniors; $3 for children 6-12 and children under 6 are admitted free. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack for $9. Ample parking is located at the Novi Expo Center for a fee. For more information call (810) 737-4478.

Much is being said about the rigorous screening process we put our doctors through.
But don't worry.
Some survive.

It's a tall order. And maybe not every doctor is cut out for it. But then if we're going to make things easier for our patients, we must strive to provide quality doctors. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors, before they ever examine a single patient, they must first meet or surpass some rather lofty standards. Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against specific written criteria. (Quality of care is the thing we're measuring here.)

Moreover, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and the results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area.

Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care.

Blue Care Network also works with its personal care physicians to ensure that standards are met.

Oh, and one more thing. After meeting all these standards, the doctors who are selected have the pleasure of repeating this process all over again every two years. For as long as they're with us.

"YOUR FREE CATALOG KNOCKED MY SOCKS OFF"

We get that sort of comment all the time. People are impressed that our free Consumer Information Catalog lists so many free and low-cost government booklets. There are more than 200 in all, containing a wealth of valuable information.

They tell you how to make money, how to save money and how to invest it wisely. They tell you about federal benefits, housing and educating your children. They fill you in on nutrition, jobs, health, cars, travel, and much more.

Our free Catalog will very likely impress you, too. But first you have to get it. Just send your name and address to:

Governor gives prosecutors power to issue subpoenas to replace grand jury system

Gov. Engler has signed Senate Bill 85 giving county prosecutors the power to issue investigative subpoenas. The controversial bill had been opposed by both liberals and conservatives who feared it granted grand jury powers too loosely.

But Engler called it "a meaningful crime-fighting initiative that will help ensure that truth is heard and justice served. It allows police and prosecutors to investigate felony crimes more quickly and completely than ever before." He called the grand jury system inefficient.

Under the law, prosecutors would be able to force uncooperative witnesses to testify or produce evidence before a criminal complaint is issued, rather than afterwards. A witness who fails to comply with an investigative subpoena could be punished for contempt of court by up to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The law, which takes effect Oct. 1, was sponsored by Senate Judiciary chair William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison.

You're a bright guy, right?

So ask yourself why you're putting off a prostate cancer screening. Because of a simple rectal exam? (You did say you're a bright guy, right?)

If you are 50 or older or if you are 40+ and have a family history of prostate cancer or are African American, you are at risk.

The University of Michigan Prostate Program and the Comprehensive Cancer Center are sponsoring FREE screenings. To schedule your test—or to find out more about prostate cancer and its warning signs—call the Cancer AnswerLine.

Free screenings will take place Sept. 23 (9 am-1 pm), Sept. 26 (6:30-8:30 pm) and Sept. 28 (6:30-8:30 pm) at the U-M Taubman Center. Parking is free.

Speakers Bureau

Schoolcraft College Speakers Bureau, comprised of Schoolcraft's faculty, staff, and individuals from surrounding communities, have volunteered their services to form the Schoolcraft College Community Speakers Bureau. The Speakers Bureau continues to look for additional individuals who wish to share their personal or professional expertise with area groups and organizations. The Bureau is a free service to the community; there is no fee incurred for Bureau use. If you're interested in becoming a new speaker with the Bureau, contact Sandy Gelman between the hours of noon and 5 p.m. daily at the Institutional Advancement Office at (313) 462-4417.

Hospitals urge parents to get shots for their kids

In response to the recent revelation that Michigan ranks last in the nation in childhood immunization, according to a study by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control, Michigan hospitals and health providers have announced they will continue long-term activities to immunize children.

"Hospitals and health providers have understood for many years that timely and complete immunization of children is the best way to keep them healthy both today and tomorrow," said Michigan Health and Hospital Association (MHA) President Spencer Johnson. "This recent study is added impetus for many hospitals and health providers to redouble their immunization efforts, but we cannot solve this serious problem alone. It's imperative that we get help from parents and communities."

The MHA is working on a number of fronts to improve Michigan's immunization rates. The association, in partnership with the Michigan Osteopathic Hospital Association, recognized the dire situation in Michigan two years before the Centers for Disease Control study came out, and initiated the AIM program.

AIM, the Alliance for Immunization in Michigan, is a volunteer network of health providers and state and local agencies that seek to immunize at least 90 percent of Michigan children under 5 years of age.

Currently, only 61 percent of Michigan toddlers are fully immunized. State law requires that children be immunized before beginning elementary school, but many diseases that are preventable with immunizations strike before that time.

In addition, last year the MHA, along with the Michigan Nurses Association, the Michigan Department of Public Health, the Michigan Home Health Association, and the Michigan Association for Public Health produced and distributed an instructional video to help health professionals recognize opportunities for immunization of young children.

The MHA is looking at approaches from other states to increase immunization levels. For instance, efforts in South Carolina and Virginia have been implemented that could dramatically boost immunization rates.

YMCA's guide program holds info meetings

There will be two "skajunas," informational meetings, this year to introduce people to the "Y" Indian guide programs. It is an opportunity for interested parties to ask questions about the Plymouth YMCA Indian guide programs and what it offers.

The meetings will be held Monday, Sept. 18 and Wednesday, Sept. 20. Both will be at West Middle School at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

For further information, please contact the Plymouth YMCA at (313) 453-2904 during regular business hours.

Congressman to take input on Medicare

U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Twp., will hold a town hall meeting to provide residents with an update on the status of Medicare. The meeting will take place Saturday, Sept. 16, from 10:30 a.m.-noon in the Novi Civic Center.

Medicare, the federal government's largest health care program, is governed by a board of trustees, three of whom serve on President Clinton's cabinet.

On April 3, the trustees reported that Medicare Part A, the hospital-insurance trust fund will be bankrupt in just seven years and unable to pay the hospital bills of 34 million senior citizens.

Knollenberg will talk about the Republican party's plan to preserve Medicare for current and future retirees.

WHERE THERE'S TREASURE, THEY WILL TREK

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

The more the merrier is the attitude of the antique shop owners in Northville.

The doors of two new antique establishments swung open in the last six months when Knightsbridge Antique Mall celebrated its grand opening on Aug. 25 and Heritage Resale & Antiques hung out their shutter four months earlier.

Will antiquers circle Northville on their maps as a stopping point when in search of that vintage treasure? Time will tell, but to antique store owners in Northville another antique shop is not seen as competition - it's welcomed with open arms.

"Antiques is one of the few businesses where the more dealers there are, the more customers will come in," Susan Sherwood of Sherwood Framing and Antiques said. "If they only think there's two shops in town, they may not come in off the freeway."

The owners of the new Knightsbridge Antique Mall, Linda and Bruce McKenzie, chose Northville because of its location at 42305 West Seven Mile Road only two miles west of I-275 and growth potential.

"This is what we spend our free time doing so we thought we might as well make a living doing it," Linda said.

Getting top billing on the sign post was a big plus, according to the McKenzies.

The facade of the mall is completely new. Gone are the eight individual stores when the interior was gutted to make way for the 100 antique dealers who are showing their merchandise in small room-type displays of 100 to 300 square feet. When up to capacity the mall will have close to 300 dealers under one roof.

Although owning their own antique mall is a new venture, they have worked in other shops and have bought and sold antiques themselves.

Because of their previous experience, the McKenzies tried to eliminate some of the problem areas they saw in other antique malls and had encountered first hand as dealers renting space themselves.

The McKenzies installed additional lighting and eight microphones at the back of the store and one at the front desk.

"You don't have to waste time looking for people," he said. "A lot of people don't want to bother people so they won't ask to see something," she said. "All they have to do is pick up a microphone and in a few seconds can have some help."

Criteria for dealers at the Knightsbridge Antique Mall include displaying items from 1959 or older in good condition. Furniture can't need refinishing or repair. No crafts or reproductions are acceptable. Bruce also offers chipped glassware repair services on the premises.

If the McKenzies see something that doesn't fit their criteria, they'll take it off the floor.

"You can't get a good antique dealer to come into a place that sells crafts," he said. "As soon as you bring crafts in, the antique dealers make a beeline for the door."

Area businesses have been in to see the McKenzies to introduce themselves and describe the services they offer.

The concept of cooperation is visible in the business cards and antique maps which can be seen on the counter tops of the various antique shops in town.

A shop will even send a customer down the street to another shop if the shop owner knows the other guy carries what his customer is looking for.

"Anything we don't have we try to get them to a place that would have it," said Gloria Sciberras, who along with her husband, Maurice, opened Heritage Resale & Antiques at 142 N. Center four months ago.

Some customers will come in and tell Gloria what they want and if she doesn't have it, she'll keep an eye out for it when she's out on an antique hunt.

"If we find it somewhere else, we'll send them there," Maurice said.

A goal for the Sciberras when they opened was to establish an atmosphere where people could just stop in and have a cup of coffee and chat, regardless of whether they're buying. The Sciberras serve tea on Friday - hot in the winter and iced in the summer.

"Those are things that I think people think about when they shop in a small town," Gloria said.

Maurice and Gloria Sciberras opened Heritage Resale and Antiques four months ago and are already on a first name basis with most of the customers.

The Sciberras have decided to stay open later on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a decision in part due to their own experience when they moved to Northville a year ago. By the time they finished working on their house and walked downtown, everything was closed.

"One Friday evening a guy poked his head in the door and asked if we were open and we said yes," she said. "He yelled down to the rest of his group. 'Hey, you guys, there's a store open in Northville at 7:30.'"

In the short time it has been open, the business has evolved to include more furniture and collectibles. Tea pots are also a popular item.

"Basically we have always been antiques and garage saleing and have so much stock we decided to go into business," she said. The Sciberras have expanded to include select purchases direct from customers.

The project for the winter months will be to work on the hardware room in the back of the shop and stock it with antique hardware, hinges, doorknobs, etc.

"You can't really go wrong with this (antiques) because if you keep it 10 years, it's just gone up in value," she said.

"When people go out for this kind of thing (antiquing), they want to spend a day. The more stores there are the more they will go to that town," she said. "We kept waiting for Knightsbridge to open up."

Linda and Bruce McKenzie chose Northville as the site for the Knightsbridge Antique Mall because of its location and growth potential.

Each shop carries something a little bit different, so competition is really not an issue. With antiques, the dealers can't call the warehouse and ask for a dozen of one item. Merchandise moves fast in some stores, making it necessary for the die hard antiquers to come back often.

"You buy what you like and hope someone else buys it," Sherwood said. Things that don't move quite as fast are said to have had a couple of birthdays in the shop.

Sherwood has bought a thing or two and later asked herself what on earth possessed her to make the purchase only to find it in the clutches of a happy customer the

Bauchat finds library keeps her pretty busy

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you want to get in on the ground floor of something new and different, come aboard The Friends of the Northville District Library, says Janine Bauchat.

With the new library building there are new programs being planned. A store in which to sell used books which people have contributed. A gift book program through which you give a certain amount of money (the purchase price of a particular book you want to donate in honor of someone).

A book-author luncheon at some place, probably out-of-town, in cooperation with Friends of Novi and Canton. A gift shop.

"We're going to turn our attention to develop plans for it this fall. And we want to provide projects for children in the summer," Bauchat said.

Isn't there something the same as it was?

The index project. That's still going on. "I think they're up to 25 years," she said. Six volunteers are working on this, and there's room for more.

Reading through microfilm tapes they've made of all existing Northville Record newspapers, dating from issue one in 1869, the volunteers are jotting down names of people, places and dates of issue in which they appear.

Eventually the material will be placed in alphabetical order and all of the pages on which a particular name is found will be listed. It will be in a bound volume for reference.

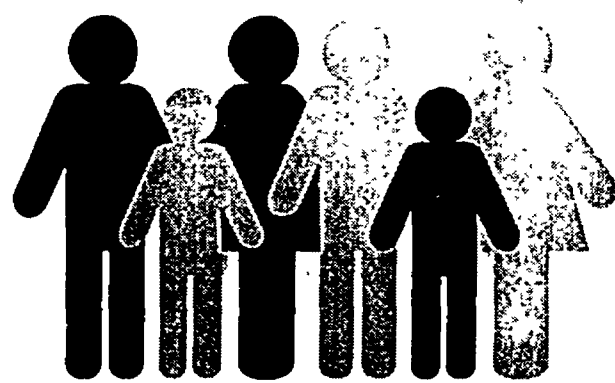

The cake walk at the Victorian Festival? That will still be a big money-maker and fun for everyone. Members and Girl Scouts and Brownies contribute cakes and also join in the walk to win them.

If you want to drop in on a meeting of The Friends of the Northville District Library, the time is 9:30 a.m. at the library on the third Friday of the month.

It's A Fact

Population Projection

SEMCOG projects that the population in the City of Novi will increase to 61,983 by the year 2010. The fastest growing segment will be the 45 to 64 age group, going from 8,571 to 14,702.

NHS grad writes first novel

Carol Workens

author and

Northville
H i g h
S c h o o l graduate Julia Older has published her first novel,
The Island Queen.

chronicles the early adult years of the Victorian era author and poet Celia Thaxter on the Isles of Shoals, 10 miles off the New Hampshire coast.

On a visit to the Isles, Older said she felt Celia's presence which is what led to her to begin the project about six years ago.

Unable to work on the book full-time, Older incorporated "bread and butter" work such as writing newspaper articles and a book of non-fiction and musical performances as a flutist during the years she researched, wrote and traveled to the Isles on numerous occasions.

Older, who chose the novel form to make Thaxter feel more alive to the reader, said it was a natural transition from poetry.

Thaxter, who lived from 1835 until 1894, published hundreds of poems, a collection of stories and poems for children, and a local history of the Isles during a time in Victorian America when males dominated the literary scene.

During the three years Older researched Thaxter's life, she spent many hours with Thaxter's granddaughter, and countless more pouring over trial transcripts, court records and newspaper articles for the last section of the book.

Thaxter, whose poems are said to have outlasted Emily Dickinson's, counted among her literary acquaintances Henry W. Longfellow, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Richard Henry
Dana and Franklin Pierce. Thaxter is also believed to be the secret love of poet John Greenleaf Whittier.

Older lives in Hancock, N.H., and is the recipient of numerous grants, awards and fellowships.
Her poems and stories have appeared in The New Yorker, New Directions and many other journals. She plans two more novels about The Isles of Shoals to complete the trilogy.

The book can be purchased through special order at The Bookstore on the Main or by calling Appledore Books at (603) 525-3581.

Woolly Bully's takes menu honor

Woolly Bully's in Northville was the recipient of the Best of Show in the Michigan Menu Showdown sponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Association and Detroit Edison.

Woolly Bully's menus were among 50 received by the panel of judges who reviewed menus from restaurants across Michigan, selecting the best menus in each of the following categories: Most Imaginative, Greatest Merchandising Power and a special category of the unique wine, spirits or children's menu.

One of the categories established was that of Greatest Merchandising Power. The winner must have an effective menu with a great design that is a powerful selling tool that assists and tempts the customer in making purchasing decisions. The menu entry from Woolly Bully's won the most imaginative award. A separate alcohol and beverage menu from Woolly Bully's won the specialty menu honors.

Woolly Bully's also placed third in the Merchandising Power under $10 category.

Because competition was fierce for Best of Show, the dual recipient along with Woolly Bully's was Rosa's Diner in Rockford.

Award winning menus were on display in the "Gallery of Ideas" during the Michigan Restaurant Show held Sept. 12 and 13 at the Novi Expo Center. Nearly 5,000 restauranters gathered at the annual show to view the products and services of more than 200 exhibitors and attend education seminars on critical industry topics.

Nurses up-to-date
on the latest in their field

Karen M. Pardo and Randall F.
Polenga, both of Northville, and Troy D. D'Spain, Lynn L. Lebeck, Oscar S. Ong and Anne K. Tulas, all of Novi, were among approximately several thousand Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists
(CRNAs) attending the American Association of Nurse Anesthetists (AANA) annual meeting which, this year, was held in Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 5-10.

The AANA is the professional organization for the nation's 25,000 CRNAs, anesthesia specialists who administer more than half of the 26 million anesthetics given to patients each year in the United States. CRNAs work in every setting in which anesthesia is delivered, from traditional hospital surgical suites and obstetrical delivery rooms in major medical centers to the offices of podiatrists, ophthal-mologists and plastic surgeons. In rural areas, CRNAs provide 85 percent of the anesthesia services.

The AANA annual meeting highlights trends in anesthesia and the health care delivery system for CRNAs and nurse anesthesia students in attendance.

Meeting attendance is just one way for CRNAs to keep current in their profession and maintain their certification status as part of a lifelong commitment to learning.

The Michigan Association of Nurse Anesthetists (MANA) is committed to maintaining professional leadership for Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (CRNAs).

The state organization, with more than 1,200 practicing CRNAs, is active in government and public relations, as well as continuing education activities for its members.

Church Notes

THE MEADOWBROOK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, 21355 Meadowbrook Road in Novi, will hold its WSC Fall Rummage Sale Oct. 13, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Oct. 14, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. For more information, call 348-7757.

A new Bible Study Group sponsored by the OAKLAND BAPTIST ASSOCIATION will meet on Thursdays from 7 to 8 p.m. at Novi Middle School, 25299 Taft Road, in rooms 302 and 304. Child care will be provided. For more information, contact Scott Hanson and Edwin Hocutt at 437-1883.

Adult convert classes at ST. JAMES CATHOLIC CHURCH, 46325 Ten Mile Road in Novi, will begin Sept. 26 at 7:30 p.m. This Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults (R.C.I.A.) is open to non-Catholics interested in becoming Catholic and for those Catholics interested in learning more about their faith. No preregistration is necessary.

A scripture class on the Gospel of Luke will be held on Thursday evenings from Sept. 14 through Oct. 19 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. For more information, call the church at 347-7778.

The Youth Choir of OUR LADY OF VICTORY CHURCH, 770 Thayer Boulevard in Northville, will resume rehearsals on Thursday, Sept. 14, from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. Any child from first through eighth grade is invited to join. Sign up at the church office. For more information, call the church at 349-2621.

First Friends of the FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH OF NORTHVILLE, 777 West Eight Mile Road, will celebrate the beginning of fall with a Country Dance on Sept. 24 from 6 to 9 p.m. The cost is $10 per person and a dish to pass.

Renowned caller Joe Schulteis will lead dancers through the moves. Reservations are necessary by Sept. 17 by calling Patsy Sheets at 960-1205.

A New Life Bible Study group invites men and women to a Coffee Time on Thursday, Sept. 28 at 9:30 a.m.

Sheri Sansom replaces Linda Regan, who resigned, as assistant choir director. Sansom and her family recently moved to Novi from Connecticut. For more information, call the church at 349-1144.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF NORTHVILLE, 217 N. Wing in Northville, has begun its fall Bible studies. A ladies group meets on Tuesday morning at 9:15 a.m. Child care is available through kindergarten. A men and ladies group meets on Tuesday evening at 7:15 p.m. Both are studying "Experiencing God: Knowing and Doing the Will of God."

Pioneer Clubs and Boys Brigade will begin their programs on Wednesday, Sept. 20, at 7 p.m. for boys and girls ages kindergarten through 6th grade. Junior high and high school groups meet on Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m. as well. Everyone is welcome. For more information, call the church at (810) 348-1020.

NOVI UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 41671 West Ten Mile Road in Novi, will recognize its Christian education ministry on Sept. 24. The third grade students will receive their Bibles at this celebration.

The "Buy a Key" program to purchase a 3-manual Rodgers organ has 123 keys committed toward the goal of 183 total keys. Each key costs $100. The goal to have all the keys committed is Oct. 15.

This is a separate program completely aside from the new building program entitled "Fulfilling the Vision." The completion of the building project is expected to take place in two months, three months later than the projected date due to new and additional requirements by the city fire marshal, even though the plans for the building project were originally approved last year. For more information, call the church at 349-2652.

CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS, 46200 West Ten Mile Road in Novi, will conduct a six week night study session beginning Sept. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

The focus of the study sessions, which will be led by Fr. Leslie Harding, will be the church, where it is, where it is going and how it is going to get there. Videos and an open discussion will be included.

Members of both Holy Cross and St. Anne's are welcome to attend. For more information, call 349-8847.

China has long history

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

On Sunday, participants at the second annual Victorian Tea hosted by the Northville Mothers' Club will sip tea and snack on finger sandwiches using cups and saucers that date back to the turn of the century.

Lani Bond, president of the Mothers' Club, will be using heirloom cups and saucers which were brought to this country by her great-grandmother Mary McCarthy.

McCarthy immigrated from Ireland at the turn of the century and brought with her 16 place settings and the complete set. The pattern includes a rose colored miniature iris on all the pieces including the large sugar and creamer, and tea pot.

Jenda Mills, chairperson for the Victorian Tea, will also bring cups and saucers that have been in the family for generations. Mills' husband's grandmother immigrated to the United States about 1920 and brought her English bone china in a black, red and white pattern. She also brought clear, etched Fostoria dessert plates which will also be used at the tea.

A future heirloom that Mills will bring to the festivities is a hand painted tea cup, saucer and dessert plate made by her husband's aunt in 1961 and given to Mills' daughter when she graduated from Northville High School. The design painted on the white china from Barchuth, Bavaria, includes a green backdrop for an apple blossom.

A depression era glass pedestal cake plate, which belonged to Lynda Heaton's mother, will also grace one of the tables.

Although Debi Lopez will not be attending the Tea in person, she will add to the ambience of the afternoon by loaning a 50-year-old collection of cups and saucers to the Mothers' Club for the event.

The collection of 25 cups and saucers was handed down to Lopez from her mother, Eileen Coombs. Coombs started collecting tea cups and saucers in about 1945, according to Lopez. Besides adding pieces herself, Coombs' friends, knowing she had a collection, brought cups and saucers back from their travels across the United States, England and Canada.

When not in use for the annual tea, the English bone china collection, which includes a variety of floral patterns, are on display at Lopez's home.

Care is given to the dishes at all stages of the event, but mostly during the transport to and from the Northville Rec Center where the Tea will take place amidst the Victorian Ball decorations.

Some tables at the tea will have a variety of patterns, while others may have a complete set. Dishes include both heirloom and more recent purchases.

On call to loan dishes is Northville Mothers' Club life member, Joy Holloway.

If needed, Holloway is ready to loan either of the two sets that have been in her and her husband's family for generations.

Her husband's family, who is of English and Scottish descent, hail from southern Duquoin, Ill. Now under the care of Holloway is her husband's grandmother's set of white china with a miniature rose pattern.

On her side of the family, Holloway has received a set of off-white cups, saucers and tea pot with burgundy flowers with a tulip as the dominate flower. Holloway believes her English grandmother probably purchased in St. Louis, Miss.

Linda Clark plans to bring a late 1800s pewter pitcher her grandfather found when he was a child in the early 1900s. She also will bring dishes made by Franciscan in California in the apple pattern. She has a few of her grandmother's original pieces and has filled in a with pieces she has collected over the years.

Their will be one seating of 150 at the Tea from 1:30 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Tickets are $10 and are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, the Northville Recreation Department office or by phone from Jenda Mills, 319-1698.

The Victorian Tea is the Mothers' Club kick off event for the year of fund-raising to benefit Northville Public School children.

WHY ORGANIC GARDENING ISN'T JUST A BUNCH OF MANURE.

Organic gardening is a lot more than natural fertilizer. And organic gardens do a lot more than make your yard look pretty. They help make the environment healthier. So let's dig in and see how you can help. The first step to creating an environmentally friendly garden is to compost.

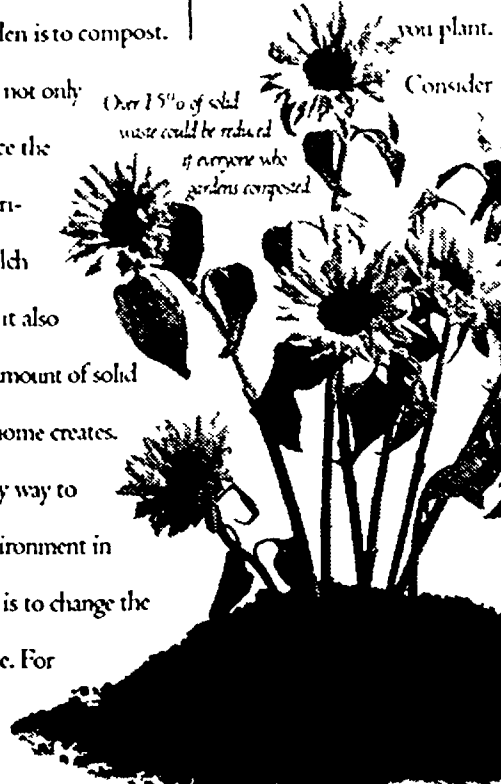

instead of using sprinklers, try using soaker hoses. They leak moisture into the soil at slow rates, so water gets absorbed instead of running off. You may also consider using a rake, instead of gas-powered blowers. Rakes use no fuel and give you some exercise. Next, think about the types of plants you plant.

planting perennials. Perennial beds provide refuge for animals and insects that will eat pests and reduce your need for chemicals. Finally, think about planting a tree in your backyard. Trees keep harmful carbon dioxide from entering the atmosphere and create lots of energy-saving shade. So you see, when we say organic gardens are a good idea, it's no bull.

Over 15% of solid waste could be reduced if everyone who gardens composted.

The reasons people part with antiques vary from a death in the family, to redecorating or moving to a smaller home.

But the reasons people today are buying antiques have changed, according to Nelda Morrison, co-owner of Morrison's Antiques at 105 E. Main.

"People that antique today aren't looking for something because it's old, they are trying to recapture childhood memories," Morrison said.

"Today's buyers are very sophisticated, they want all the merchandise to be clean and they want to be able to see it in good light," she said. "They want to be able to take it home and use it as soon as they get home so it is important that things are very clean and well represented."

"My hope is that everybody who comes in the door finds a little treasure to take home," she said of the business she has owned with her husband, Tom, for 15 years. At Morrison's Antiques one can find a large selection of tea cups and vintage jewelry, along with furniture accents.

Sherwood's main business is custom framing, restoring old frames and oil paintings, but she also carries small antiques in her second floor shop above Morrison's. Sherwood has larger antiques in a booth at the Barn on 48120 West Eight Mile Road.

Sherwood, like the McKenzies and Seiberras, started buying antiques long before she ever opened her first shop in 1989. In fact, her first purchase came while she was still in high school.

Bill McGuire also purchased his first antique - a painting - before he graduated from high school. McGuire, who bought the building at 341 East Main Street 11 years ago, started phasing out of the antique furniture business a year ago to concentrate on 19th and early 20th century paintings, especially those from Michigan artists, and marble and bronze sculptures. To reflect the change, the store will soon be renamed McGuire's 19th Century Fine Art Gallery.

McGuire attends auctions, estate sales and is in touch with dealers all over the country. He recently received a painting from Paris.

McGuire envisions one-person shows of his extensive collection in the near future.

Another side of the McGuire business is the antique art and frame restoration work done by his daughter Shaughn Gawthrop.

"There's really nobody around who does what she's doing," he said, "at least not in this part of Michigan."

Gawthrop is self-taught, learning the business along the way.

"It's hard to find out how to do it," she said. "There aren't a lot of people around who do it."

Most of the restoration work comes from dealers, other frame shops and through recommendations.

There are different levels of restoration depending on the value of the painting.

The painstaking work includes removing the old varnish, cleaning any previous repair jobs, and filling in paint to get it up to same level as the rest of the paint before painting and varnishing.

If there is a rip in the canvas, Gawthrop will patch from behind or sometimes the whole thing will have to be refined on a new piece of canvas if it has a lot of rips or big holes.

Gawthrop changed a nice solid mahogany frame by adding composition pieces and gold leaf so that it would complement the 18th century painting the frame had originally been made for.

"What's nice is matching up a nice old painting to a nice old frame instead of buying a new one," she said.

She often sees potential in frames being sold at estate sales and auctions others would discard as unusable because of her restoration talents. She has added these finds to the antique frame selections available at McGuire's.

Other shops in town offer antiques for sale but not because they are in the antique business, but because they use them in their displays.

Antique shops are set up in several ways. Some shops rent out space to dealers. Others will buy select items direct from homeowners either outright or for a fee.

Wedding

Beverly and David Wayne

Beverly Gildhaus and David Wayne were married May 27, 1995, at the Alumni Memorial Chapel, Michigan State University, in East Lansing.

Bill Gildhaus, brother of the bride, gave the bride in marriage with Fr. Bill Turner officiating at the double-ring ceremony. A reception was held at Kellogg Center at Michigan State University.

The bride received a bachelor's degree in social science from Michigan State University. She is currently studying at Eastern Michigan University for her teacher certification.

Attending the bride was maid-of-honor, Valerie Gildhaus of Chicago, Ill. Her bridesmaids were Bridget Lynch of Canton; DeeDee Fite of Yellowstone National Park, Wyo.;

Karin Savage of Goldsboro, N.C.; Mary Coleman of Columbus, Ohio; and flower girl, Kathryn Kusuplos of Northville.

David Wayne, the son of Terry and Sharon Wayne of Northville, received his bachelor of arts degree in social science from Michigan State University and a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University. He is employed by Northville Public Schools.

The groom was attended by best man, Andrew Wayne of Tempe, Ariz. Groomsmen were Marc McNamara of Novi; Chris Stewart of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Darius Mikalonis of Oxford; Bill Gildhaus of Canton; and ringbearer, Kevin Kearney of Western Springs, Ill.

Their honeymoon was spent at Disneyworld in Orlando, Fla.

Engagements

Sidney Crossley Jr./Susan Pegrum

Bruce and Edith Pegrum of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Catherine of Tustin, Calif., to Sidney Allen Crossley Jr. of Newport Beach, Calif.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Northville High School and Central Michigan University. While at Central she was the president of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. She is employed with Ciba Vision Ophthalmics in Los Angeles, Calif.

The groom-elect graduated from Palm Springs High School and the University of California, Irvine.

Crossley is the owner of Tempest Equities Inc. in Newport Beach, Calif.

A winter wedding is planned.

Kristine M. Terry

Robert and Marie Terry of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Kristine M., to Brad Fralick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee Fralick of Parchment, Mich.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Northville High School and Western Michigan University. She is currently employed at Industrial Graphics in Kalamazoo.

The bridegroom-elect graduated from Parchment High School and is employed at Hatfield Electric Co., Kalamazoo.

A fall wedding is planned.

September is Baby Awareness Month

Each year more children die in home accidents than from all childhood diseases combined. Parents can take precautions to prevent dangerous situations and ensure their children live and play in the safest environments possible.

In the home for example, secure medicines, cleaners, solvents and polishes out of a child's sight and reach. Keep all thin plastic wrapping materials, plastic bags and other potentially suffocating items away from children. Remove strings from pacifiers and hoods. Don't suspend objects with string or elastic around cribs or playpens and make sure drapery and Venetian blind cords do not hang within a baby's reach.

In the yard, swings and jungle gym sets should be well-anchored in cement, with any exposed cement either covered with padding or buried. Underlying areas should provide a cushioned surface such as wood chips, sand or rubber matting.

Be sure the equipment doesn't have exposed bolts, nails or other sharp objects.

H&R BLOCK Offers Tax School In Your Neighborhood

Thousands of people are learning the skill in income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block's Income tax course starts this week with morning, evening and Saturday classes available. Classes will be offered at many convenient area locations.

During the 11 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns.

Experienced Block Instructors will teach current laws, theory and application, as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom discussion on each subject and practice problems at every level.

Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Mastercard, Visa, American Express and Discover cards are accepted or a time payment plan is available.

Registration forms and a brochure for the income tax course may be obtained by calling H&R Block at 1-800-TAX-2000.

Building for the future... can sometimes snarl up traffic

The Michigan Department of Transportation recently began reconstruction of the westbound Beck Road exit from I-96 to make it safer and more accessible. Reopening is scheduled for November 1995.

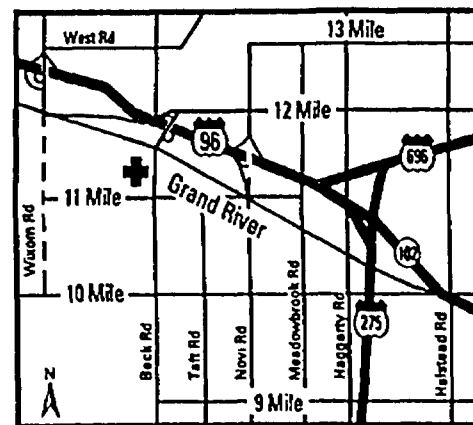

Since that exit is the one many patients and visitors to Providence Medical Center-Providence Park use, the Providence staff would like to suggest the following alternate routes for your convenience.

Westbound on I-96

Eastbound on I-96

Mezzo-soprano performs opera melodies and songs

The Verdi Opera Theater of Michigan and the Italian American Club of Livonia will host their second annual concert of "Opera Melodies and Songs" to be held at the Italian American Banquet Center in Livonia on Sunday, Sept. 17, at 4 p.m.

The concert will feature the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra - celebrating its 50th anniversary - conducted by maestro, Russell Reed and artists of the Verdi Opera: mezzo soprano, Dorothy Cormie of Novi; soprano, Gina D'Alessio; tenor, Gregg Galla; and baritone, Dino Valle.

Cormie has appeared with the Bel Canto Quartet in the Dearborn Summer Symphony's "Best of Gilbert & Sullivan" Concert. Cormie is a member of the voice faculty at the Center for Creative Studies' Institute of Music and Dance, and holds a master of music degree from the University of Michigan. She has also received extensive operatic training at the American Institute of Musical Studies in Graz, Austria.

Everyone is invited to enjoy an afternoon of music which will include Rossini, Verdi, and Puccini.

The cost of $15 per person includes concert ticket and afterglow refreshments.

The new Italian American Banquet Center is located at 39200 Five Mile Road in Livonia.

For tickets and additional information, call Georgia Scappaticci (810) 471-7297 or Angelina Scappaticci (810) 477-9192.

Dorothy Cormie will perform opera favorites this weekend.

A study in black-and-white

'Amazing Panda Adventure' a colorful tale set in the Himalayas

An American boy and a Chinese girl trek through the mountainous jungles of China to find and rescue a stolen baby panda. In the process, they encounter danger, excitement, the unspoiled beauty of a remote wilderness — and the panda they're seeking.

Before they can return home, they also learn valuable lessons about friendship and about themselves.

Warner Bros. presents a Lee Rich/Gary Foster production of a Christopher Cain film, "The Amazing Panda Adventure," a heartwarming and thrilling family story about one of the world's most lovable and elusive animals — and two young people who overcome hardship and their own youth to save a little panda in need.

Ryan Tyler (Ryan Slater) is 10 years old and about to begin the adventure of his life.

He's en route to China to visit his father, whom he hasn't seen in two years. Ryan's father Michael (Stephen Lang) is a naturalist specializing in the conservation of Giant Pandas, who live exclusively in the bamboo-forested mountains of China.

When Ryan arrives in China, he discovers that his father is busy and preoccupied with the fate of the preserve. Ryan gamely tries to make the best of things and joins Michael, a Chinese girl named Ling (Li Ding) and a Chinese naturalist named Chu (Huang Fei) as they set out into the mountains to check on one of the pandas.

The panda, a mother with a new baby, has been trapped by poachers. As the poachers return to collect their quarry, they are confronted by Michael's group. They shoot and wound Michael, then run into the dense forest. The panda's preserve's rescue helicopter can only airlift the wounded naturalist and panda, leaving Ryan, Ling and Chu behind for a second trip.

As they await the helicopter's return, the trio realizes that poachers have stolen the mother panda's baby and quickly set off to rescue the little panda and find their way back to civilization.

Ryan begins the trip angry and resentful, but once he finds and cares for the baby panda, he forms a special bond with the roly-poly creature.

As the trio of humans and their precious cargo overcome natural and man-made obstacles to return to their home, Ryan grows up and ultimately earns the respect of his father, gaining greater understanding of Michael's important work.

At adventure's end, father and son have helped assure the survival of the little panda and the panda preserve itself.

"The Amazing Panda Adventure" was initiated by documentary filmmaker John Wilcox, who conceived the original story based on his experiences in China, where he shot the first documentary on the elusive Giant Pandas, telecast in 1984, followed by a second documentary in 1988.

That same year, Wilcox brought the idea of making a feature film on the endangered animals to Dylan Sellers, who, soon after, became an executive at Los Angeles-based Lee Rich Productions.

Producer Lee Rich was smitten with the project. "I knew that pandas are very popular with the American public and thought this adventure, which combines charming young actors, adorable animals, beautiful scenery and a good story, would make a wonderful and different family movie," he said.

After reading the script, Director Christopher Cain said he saw "a big adventure movie centered around these kids and a young panda. I wanted to paint it on a great big canvas to make it clear what the challenges of the story actually were."

To find the "canvas," the filmmakers went to Sichuan, China. The province, famous for its highly spiced cuisine, is slightly larger than France with more than 100 million inhabitants and 15 ethnic groups spread over 220,000 square miles.

With the assistance of the China Film Office and the Beijing Studio, they visited the Wolong Nature Reserve, noted for breeding and hand-raising pandas; and scouted Jiuzhiagou, designated a national park in the mid-80s and declared a World Natural Heritage by UNESCO in 1992.

While there, the filmmakers discovered such spectacular vistas in the vicinity of the Himalayas that they decided to shoot on location in Jiuzhiagou. Little did Cain realize that shooting the film would be an adventure for the entire cast and crew.

"It is more difficult to go to Sichuan that to get into heaven," wrote the eighth-century Chinese poet Li Bo. After traveling the hazardous 250 miles from Chengdu to Jiuzhiagou, the cast and crew updated this observation to "It is more difficult to go to Jiuzhiagou than to get into Sichuan."

The road from Chengdu to Jiuzhiagou became known as "nightmare highway."

Buses, minivans and jeeps had to dodge landslides and often got stuck in deeply rutted muddy roads alongside deep gorges. They had to drive up and over 11,000-foot high mountain passes in a grueling trip that took from 12 hours (the record) to three days. However, despite the rigors of the location, the production team agreed that the unique beauty of this remote part of the world was something they wanted to share with audiences everywhere.

Schwan resigns as hoop coach

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Northville High basketball coach Gary Schwan resigned Monday.

According to sources, freshman coach Karen Baird will move into the varsity position on a temporary basis. The reasons for Schwan's departure were unclear at press time.

"I don't know what to think right now," senior forward Samantha Leger said. "I don't know exactly why he resigned."

Northville High Assistant Principal Dennis Colligan confirmed the resignation Monday afternoon.

Schwan had come under fire

"I don't know what to think right now. I don't know exactly why he resigned."

SAMANTHA LEGER
Northville High basketball player recently for verbal outbursts directed at players. He failed to return phone calls from The Northville Record regarding his resignation.

Barely three weeks into the season, the Mustangs are 2-1. Northville High lost to Brighton Sept. 5 in what turned out to be Schwan's final game.

A Ford Motor Co. employee, he took the head coaching job in 1993, replacing Bob Shoemaker, who coached the Mustangs for just one season in 1992.

Schwan inherited a team that won just five games.

The Mustangs climbed to 9-12 in his first year and rose above the .500 mark last fall to 13-8. By all accounts, 1995 was going to be even better.

Northville went into the season ranked in the state's top 25 Class A teams. With players like Leger, Lauren Metaj and Gina Chlasson leading the way, the squad was expected to contend for the conference title and make noise in the state playoffs as well.

While Schwan's resignation is a distraction, Leger said she and her teammates are determined not to let it ruin the season.

"I don't think it will stop us from having a great year," she added.

Swimmers fourth at Brighton invite

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It's hard to swim well when you've got ice floating around in the water.

While that may be an exaggeration, the water was cold at Saturday's Brighton Relays. Northville coach Bill Dicks said it caused many of his swimmers to tighten up, especially in longer races.

"The water was cold enough to take your breath away when you dove in," he said. "It was difficult conditions to swim in."

The Mustangs finished fourth at the invitational with 60 points. Farmington Hills Mercy was the overwhelming winner with 126 points. Milan finished second with 76.

The "Griffin" Relays amounted to little more than a tuneup for Northville. Dicks said he wanted to see everyone swim before the start of the league season this week.

"We use this meet to give everyone a chance to swim," he said. "The girls swam hard and had a great attitude."

The relay meet consisted of 10 events. There were nine swimming relays and a diving relay.

Northville started off by taking fifth place in the 400-meter medley in 5:13.04. Amy Cook, Gwen Osborne, Beth Handley and Jodie Brown swam the race.

The team of Amy Kohl, Amity Heckemeyer, Kristen Warnke and Leah Voytal was second in the 800 freestyle in 9:31.73. Rebecca Anderson, Whitney Anolick, Kara Lyczak and Cook were second in the 200-meter backstroke in 2:21.23.

Northville crushes Rocks 31-7

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If revenge is sweet, Northville High grabbed a little nectar Friday night.

The Mustangs avenged a 1994 loss to Plymouth Salem in convincing 31-7 fashion before a large home crowd. Northville rushed for nearly 200 yards and moved at will on a dreadfully weak Rock team.

"We did some things that confused them early on," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We used a double tight end alignment. I think that got them off their game."

Frankly, it didn't matter much how Northville lined up.

Aniel Kersey, who carried 27 times for 132 yards, ran up the middle and to the outside effectively. Quarterback Scott Vigh was on the mark with six of 10 passes for 90 yards.

"I thought Scott had an exceptionally good night," Schumacher said. "I was very pleased with his performance."

Northville built a 24-0 lead by halftime then cruised home for its first victory. The Mustangs, which play at home tomorrow against Livonia Franklin, are 1-1.

"They're a vastly improved football team," Schumacher said of the Patriots. "They've got some good weapons and are big up front."

Livonia will be in trouble if Northville plays as well as it did Friday.

The Mustangs scored on their first two possessions.

Eric Moore returned the opening kickoff to Northville's 32-yard line. The Mustangs established the run right away by giving the ball to Kersey three straight times.

On first down at their own 44-yard line, Vigh connected with Moore for seven yards. Kersey followed with an 11-yard run to Salem's 23.

Four plays later, the senior halfback went two yards on a sweep for the touchdown. Northville led 7-0 at 7:43.

Salem began its first drive at its own 26. The Rocks managed a first down on a 10-yard run by Ashraf Youssef, but then were forced to punt.

"I thought our defense did an excellent job all night," Schumacher said.

Northville nearly blocked the Rock punt and ended up with great field position at Salem's 44-yard line. The Mustangs needed only four plays to make it 14-0.

The big play was a 23-yard run by Moore on a counter play. Kersey finished the drive with a 14-yard run.

While Schumacher was happy with his running, he said Kersey did other things well Friday.

"I thought he did an excellent job of blocking," he said. "He made a good block for Moore (on the counter play)."

The Mustangs appeared on their way to a third straight touchdown early in the second quarter. But Kersey lost the handle on a run and fumbled to Salem at the Rock 32-yard line.

The visitors did absolutely nothing with the break. Linebacker Garrett Carter put the clamps to a third-down-and-five option as he smashed quarterback Tony Bernhardt.

Northville then took the Rock punt at its own 36-yard line. A 27-yard bomb to Moore moved the ball to Salem's 37-yard line.

The Rocks finally stopped Northville from reaching the end zone. But kicker Adam Tibble drilled a 30-yard field goal to make it 17-0.

The Mustangs made it 24-0 seven seconds before halftime. A 13-play, 58-yard drive was capped by Kersey's third touchdown, a one-yard plunge.

Salem coach Tom Moshimer failed to rally his troops for the second half.

The Rocks started the second half with the ball at their own 37. Salem moved into Northville territory at the 44-yard line but turned the ball over on downs. Mike Edwards and Ryan Howe stuffed a fourth down and three play by the Rocks.

Northville wasted little time in getting its final score.

With 4:37 left in the third quarter, Kersey recovered a Salem fumble at the Rock 29. Six plays later the senior got his fourth touchdown on a three-yard run.

The Rocks finally got on the scoreboard late in the fourth.

After a Mustang drive stalled at their one-yard line, the Rocks drove 99-yards on 15 plays to make it 31-7.

Schumacher was very surprised by how easily his team won the game.

"I thought they'd have about the same type of team we did," he said. "I didn't expect such a lopsided game."

Runners compete at Schoolcraft race

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Cross country is all about measurements.

Runners measure their performance against the clock and against the guy next to them. So it should come as little surprise that Northville coach Ed Gabrys used Saturday's Schoolcraft Invitational as a benchmark.

"We were looking to see where we are," he said. "There were five or six Western Lake teams there. It was a good meet to see the competition."

From the looks of things, competition in the Western Lakes Activities Association is going to be stiff this fall.

Walled Lake Central, which resides in the Lakes Division, won the invitational with 67 points. Livonia Stevenson was third at 82 while Northville finished seventh.

Senior Dwight VanTuyt measured up just fine to the competition. He ran an 18:00 for eighth place overall.

"VanTuyt is running strong," Gabrys said.

Tim Schovers was Northville's next finisher at 25th in 19:08. Ravi Mujumdar was 35th in 19:34.

"I'd like to see Mujumdar and Schovers run closer together," Gabrys said.

Freshman Jeremy T. Smith came in 41st at 19:51.

"He's been a pleasant surprise," said Gabrys.

Adam White was 53rd in 20:35, Kevin Morrow 56th in 20:44 and John Julow 58th in 20:47.

For the Mustangs to improve in invitational and dual meets, Gabrys said everyone must step up their efforts.

"Pack times have got to move closer together," he added.

Northville runs at Cass Benton today against Westland John Glenn.

Yessaian wins gold in summer games

By GRETA PICKLESIMER
Special Writer

Georganna Yessaian, 15, of Northville, won the gold medal in the Armenian Olympics women's ping pong tournament held in Paris, France, in July of this year.

The Detroit team needed another ping pong player for the women's team. Georganna volunteered.

"Being the youngest women at the games, no one expected anything of her, especially a good medal win."

"I didn't expect to get anything for ping pong. I just went to play and have fun," said Georganna.

The final tournament took place on Saturday after beating four other opponents in ping pong.

She didn't expect to win in the finals against her 25-year-old Swiss opponent. "I would have been happy with the silver," she said.

"I didn't expect to get anything for ping pong. I just went to play and have fun."

Georganna gave it her best shot and came away the victor. "The other girl couldn't believe I was returning all her shots," she said.

Georganna beat her opponent in the first match 21-19.

In the second she lost 17-21, but regained the lead to win in the third with a 21-7 score.

"The other girl just collapsed," said Georganna.

Even in the finals she just relaxed and played her best, she said. "Nothing was hard to do because I didn't have any pressure on me," she said.

"The other players didn't think anything of me anyway," said Georganna.

By Saturday's match they thought a lot of her.

Georganna started playing ping pong just for fun with her family about four years ago.

She never dreamed she would win the gold medal at the Armenian Olympics.

Kickers play to standstill with WLC

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Walled Lake Central did the equivalent of stacking the line against Barry Sanders last week in its soccer game with Northville.

Just as football teams try to crowd the Detroit Lions' star at the point of attack, the Vikings crowded Northville inside the penalty area Sept. 6.

Walled Lake dropped the majority of its players inside the 18-yard line near its goalkeeper, coach Henry Klimes said. That defensive style had everything to do with the 0-0 result.

"They packed the box pretty good," he said.

good," he said.

Klimes added his team missed on the chances it had.

"We were given many opportunities to capitalize," he said.

Northville's best chance to score may have come in the final minute of play.

Sophomore midfielder Dave Terakedis sent a kick past the Viking keeper. But a Walled Lake defender backed up his goalie and headed it out.

"We all thought it was going in," Klimes said.

The Mustangs stand at 2-1-1 on the season. Northville hosts South Lyon tonight at 7 p.m.

As for last week's game, neither team did much offensively in the first half. Central, in particular, couldn't muster any good scoring chances.

Northville goalkeeper Ty Fowler only faced about three shots in the game, Klimes said.

"He wasn't being punished at all," he added.

Seniors Ryan Winn and Mike Basse did a good job of keeping the ball away from Fowler, Klimes said.

"Defensively," he said, "I wasn't too worried. We just had trouble finishing (offensively)."

Northville wound up with about 15 shots on net. Several of those rattled the crossbar.

J. R. Graff, Adam Tibble, Tom Andary and Andy Weyer all had good scoring chances, Klimes said. Midfielders Sam Vida and Bill Rundle played strong games as well.

"Everyone up front was working very hard," he added.

All of that effort should've added up to a win, however.

"I know we can play better," Klimes said.

Walled Lake, on the other hand, was happy to get the tie.

"They looked like they just won the state championship," said Klimes.

MUSTANG BASKETBALL

Northville High dropped its first game of the season on Sept. 5. Playing at Brighton, the Bulldogs defeated Northville, ranked 16th in the preseason, 54-47. Brighton went 6-for-6 from the free throw line in the final quarter to ice the win.

"We made our free throws down the stretch," Bulldog coach Mark Lingo said.

Brighton's Jessica Walker scored eight points in the first quarter to spark her team to a 14-9 lead. The Mustangs responded with a 15-9 advantage in the second quarter to claim a 24-23 lead at the half.

"We got away from our fast break," Lingo said.

Brighton's Nicole Davis scored 14 of her 22 points in the second half and helped the Bulldogs take a 36-34 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Davis finished the game with 22 points, five assists and nine rebounds. Walker tallied 15 points, 15 rebounds and four steals.

COLTS

The Northville-Novt Colts junior football teams will host the Westland Comets on Sunday, Sept. 17. The freshmen, junior varsity and varsity games start at noon, 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. The games will be played at the Northville High School field. Admission is free, snacks and refreshments will be available. Some roster spots are still open for varsity players, ages 11-14. For more information, contact Bill Rumbley at (313) 933-5100.

SPARTANS

The Spartan Aquatic Club finished 10th overall with 200 points in the Long Course State Swimming Championship held at the University of Michigan in early August.

Julie Kern provided the fireworks as the high point runner-up in the girls' 13-15 division. Kern finished second in the 400 free, third in the 400 IM, sixth in the 200 IM, second in the 100 fly, first in the 1,500 freestyle, among other events. Other top Spartan finishers included Michelle Aristo, who finished fourth in the 100 butterfly and in the 50 butterfly in the girls 10 and under division. Katie Clark finished seventh in the 50 breast while Chris Danker was third in the 200 IM. Steve Domin finished eighth in the 100 butterfly and Jim Mellis was second in the 200-yard breaststroke.

The Spartan Relays also did well. In the 10-years-old and under division, Aristo, Beth Cambridge, Erin Cook and Katie Sondergaard finished fourth in the 200 medley and fifth in the 200 freestyle. Katie Clark, Leslie Nimer, Christina Mocerl and Kris Utley were third in the 200 freestyle and sixth in the 200 medley in the girls 11-12-year-old division.

In the 13-14-year-old division, the relay of Julie Kern, Marti McKenzie, Megan Mocerl and Kristin Kalyon finished seventh in the 800 freestyle and fourth in the 400 medley.

Schwan resigns as hoop coach

"We'll still have the same people on the floor. We'll do as well as we can and go as far as we can."

Junior guard Lindsay Huot echoed her statements.

"We just need to move on and play like we know we can," she said.

Schwan could be tough to play for. But Huot said he wasn't much different than other coaches she had.

"I respected him as a coach," she said.

"He was a (typical) coach," Leger said.

Northville was scheduled to play at Plymouth Salem tonight. But the game has been postponed.

Northville High Athletic Director Larry Taylor was unavailable for comment to confirm the game's status. The Mustangs will play Wayne High Tuesday night at home.

RECORD RECREATION

THURSDAY
September 14, 1995

Novi's community blood drive will be Sept. 19 at the civic center on Ten Mile and Taft roads.

Blood drive coming up locally

"Do you know what your cholesterol level is? How do you relieve stress? When was the last time you took a walk just for the health of it?" Many people are getting more health conscious these days, exercising, eating right and taking care of themselves. And the more information people have, the better informed they are.

The City of Novi, through Parks and Recreation, has always offered classes, programs and activities for the entire family along the lines of fitness, sports and exercise. We believe in good health and are proud to be a part of the 3rd annual "Focus Health Week in Novi," proclaimed by the mayor and city council for Sept. 18-22.

Members of the Novi Chamber of Commerce and many other civic organizations will be joining together to provide a week's worth of activities, events and displays in the Novi Civic Center and throughout the community. Focus Health was developed to help Novi residents and its business community improve their quality of life through improved health.

In 1990, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued "Healthy People 2000," which laid out a national strategy and goals for improving the health of the American people. It has been recognized that lifestyle and environmental factors are major determinants of chronic disease and disability, so many of the goals to improve health are actions each individual can take.

The 1995 goal of Novi's Focus Health Week is to encourage people to commit themselves to taking care of their health. The Focus Health committee developed a health resource book that focuses on the role cardiovascular disease plays on our health and well-being as well as special needs of school age children and youth, immunizations, dental health and vision.

New this year is the healthy people contest. All you have to do is target the four weeks between Sept. 18 through Oct. 20 as a time in which to focus on what you can personally do to lead yourself to healthier lifestyles. You don't have to join anything. Just do any of a variety of healthy activities on your own time, record them on the form (available at the Chamber of Commerce, Civic Center, and library) and send them to the Novi Chamber of Commerce, 43700 Expo Center Drive, Novi, MI 48375.

Don't forget that Tuesday, Sept. 19, is the Novi Community Blood Drive from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center. Be sure and sign-up with our retired City Clerk Gerry Stupp at 442-2292 or just drop by on Sept. 19.

"When you give blood you give another birthday, another anniversary, another day at the beach, another walk under the stars, another talk with a friend, another laugh, another hug, another chance."

So why not celebrate Focus Health Week in Novi, Sept. 18-22. Once you start living healthy, you won't be able to stop. Be sure and visit the Novi Civic Center and check out the healthy lifestyles, displays and information that can change your life in a positive, healthy way. For more information, call 349-3743.

Focus Health Week is sponsored by the Novi Chamber of Commerce, City of Novi, U-M Health Centers, Botsford General Hospital, Mission Health/Providence Medical Centers, DMC Health Care Centers, Charter House of Novi, and the Novi Community Schools.

Activities, events and displays are courtesy of Novi Parks and Recreation, American Heart Association, Botsford Center for Health Improvement, Mission Health/Providence Medical Center, Paralyzed Veterans of America, Henry Ford Hospice, Family Home Care/Family Nurse Care, U-M Health Centers, DMC Health Centers, Charter House of Novi and Farmington Hills, Hospice of Southeastern Michigan, Kramer Chiropractic, Oakland County Health Division, Novi Family Dental Center and Sunrise Home Health Services.

Sinuses bring on misery for multitudes

Breton Weintraub

The sinuses are a source of misery - and often confusion - for many people. This article discusses the structure and function of the sinuses, and the main problems they present: acute and chronic sinusitis.

The sinuses are tissue-lined air pockets in the skull. They are located in the cheeks, forehead, and deep alongside the nose, and usually develop during adolescence. Their exact function is unknown. They have been speculated to be a mechanical adaptation to make the skull lighter, and thus easier to carry on the neck. The tissue linings of the sinuses make mucus, just as other body surfaces do. This mucus is drained by tiny hairs on the sinus lining called cilia. These cilia sweep the mucus up toward small holes that open into the nose. The passages into the nose have complex shapes, with twists and turns along projections of bone beside the nasal cavity.

In certain cases, the passage shapes are such that the mucus does not drain properly. This is the basis of sinus trouble. Sometimes the cause is variation in the architecture of the bones of the nose. Other causes include conditions affecting the lining tissues of the nose, such as colds, allergies and trauma.

When the sinus openings become plugged, pressure builds up in the sinuses, causing discomfort or outright pain. Then they are prone to infection. If this occurs abruptly, it is called "acute." If it happens over a longer period, it is called "chronic."

The symptoms of sinusitis include facial pain, congestion, toothache, earache, fever and yellow, green or orange-colored drainage. The symptoms tend to be worse in cold, dry air, or with changes in altitude. They may be better in warm, moist air, such as a shower. Drainage is often greatest in the morning, after lying flat. Once diagnosed with sinusitis, the treatment is relatively simple. For acute cases, an antibiotic combined with a decongestant will often cure the problem. You should be careful when using decongestants if you have high blood pressure, heart trouble or are taking certain antidepressants. Also, prolonged use can lead to dependence of the nasal tissues upon the decongestant.

Chronic sinusitis can be much more difficult to treat. Therapy may include antibiotics, decongestants and anti-inflammatory nasal sprays. Sometimes, other interventions may be necessary, such as intensive or prolonged antibiotic therapy, allergy shots (if the condition is caused by severe allergies) or surgery. An older surgical treatment involves creating new drainage holes in the sinuses to allow mucus to flow more easily.

Newer techniques are emerging, however, in which the surgeon enlarges the natural sinus openings. This is a less invasive technique because it often can be performed in an outpatient setting and promises to be a more successful approach.

Runners compete at S'craft

Northville's girls' team ran Saturday at Schoolcraft.

The Mustangs finished eighth out of 13 teams.

WLAA power Livonia Stevenson won easily, according to coach Chris Cronin.

"Stevenson just looked incredible," he commented.

The Spartans' Kelly Travis won the race in 19:59.

Northville's highest finisher was Allison Murphy. She was 31st in 23:33.

"It was Allison's first experience at a big meet," Cronin said. "I thought she did well. She's a good athlete with a long stride. She works hard during the race."

Erin Tovey was 33rd in 23:40 and freshman Karen Loeffler was 52nd in 25:13.

"She's got a nice stride," Cronin said of the youngster. "She's learning how to run."

Jenny Dowdell finished 59th in 26:04. Alisa Nadeau was 62nd in 26:23. Katie Spillane was 63rd in 26:23 and Kristen Wasalaski was 64th in 26:24.

Cronin was happy to see his final four runners come in close together. Running in a pack helps the entire group, he added.

"As long as we're working together we'll improve," the coach said.

Both the boys and girls ran separate junior varsity races. On the girls' side, Kajal Parikh took 10th place in 24:23. Kathryn Mittman was 26th in 26:09.

Swimmers finish fourth at Brighton Invitational

The next event was a combination breaststroke and butterfly. Northville finished second in the 200-meter event with Osborne, Alicia Doehler, Kohl and Handley in 2:33.28.

In the 200 medley, Cook, Osborne, Andrea Moretti and Warnke were third in 2:19.29.

"In most events," Dicks said, "we were right there. We had good, solid performances."

Northville was seventh in the 200-meter freestyle with Lyczak, Alice Callan, Jenni Taylor and Erin Taylor. The Mustangs were sixth in diving with 407.35 points. Doehler, Michon Slanina and Sara Wright competed.

The crescendo race featured swims of 50, 100, 200 and 500 meters. Northville was second in the event in 9:59.75 with Brown, Moretti, Amity Heckemeyer and Kohl.

A fourth place finish was garnered by Warnke, Lyczak, Voytal and Anderson in the 400-meter IM. Each swimmer did the 100 meter individual medley.

Brown, Handley, Moretti and Heckemeyer were fourth in the 400-meter freestyle in 4:28.55.

Northville opened its Western Lakes season Tuesday against Livonia Stevenson. The meet, which was moved to Plymouth Salem High School, was originally scheduled for today.

REAL ESTATE

Renters' goal:
Buy a house

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Surveys have determined that about half of all renters of upscale apartments or other housing units plan to move into their own single-family home in their next move.

But in the real world, only 10 percent of those renters actually make such a move, according to a study by Mortgage Banking magazine. The primary reason most of those renters don't acquire a home of their own is the inability of single-family home builders to develop either entry-level or step-up homes that lure upscale renters away from their current house, the study said.

This also was the key factor in last year's growth in multifamily residential construction, which includes apartment, condominium and town house complexes.

According to a construction report produced by the U.S. Census Bureau, multifamily construction in 1994 reached the highest volume since 1990. About 302,000 multifamily permits were issued last year. That's the first time in four years that permits climbed over 300,000. And it reflects a 42 percent increase over construction starts in 1993.

The increases in multifamily construction are spotty across the country. For example, in the South construction starts increased 60 percent from 1993 to 1994. In fact, the South captured 43 percent of all multifamily starts in the nation.

In other regions, starts were up about 55 percent in the West and 21 percent in the Midwest, and were down by 8.5 percent in the Northeast. Generally, 1994 was a very good year for consumers who were seeking a rental residence. More units became available (keeping rents competitive) and renters could be more selective with a greater variety of offerings, including upscale units.

Single-family home starts also were up last year. Permits climbed over the 1 million mark for the first time since 1987. In the past 10 years, only 1986 was better for the single-family market. Like multifamily units, single-family homes are usually divided into three levels — entry (starter homes), step-up (mid-level homes), and upscale (luxury homes).

Columns add to the Omaha's open floor plan

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Walking through the stately columns supporting the covered entry, you realize that you are in for a treat when you enter the impressive Omaha. The free-flowing floor plan will work well for a family with children at home that wants room for a variety of activities, or empty nesters that like to entertain and have room for visiting grandkids and other overnight guests.

This unique design begins with an open central dining room. With half-columns topped by an arched plant shelf, vaulted ceiling and skylight, this is the perfect setting for more formal dining.

An adjacent stairway leads down to the full unfinished basement.

There is ample space for a gym, home office or game room. Located next to the entry, for the aspiring musicians and artists in the house, is the sound-proof art/music room that allows privacy without hindering expression.

The large, vaulted family room offers friends a place to relax and enjoy each other's company. A warm fireplace and sky-lit ceiling will take the chill out of winter nights.

The walk-through kitchen will make things easier for the cook in the house. If not serving formally in the dining room, meals may be taken at either the raised eating bar or passed through to the cozy breakfast nook. A large garden window lets in the sunshine and provides a great view.

Next to the nook is a spacious utility room accessible to the garage and shop. Bringing in groceries while staying dry is no problem. A stairway leads to the attic for extra storage.

The isolated master suite is sure to please. Amenities for easy living include a vaulted ceiling, huge walk-in closet, and full bathroom with spa in a V-shaped glass block extension. There also is private access to the hot tub on the sprawling, partially covered back deck.

Two almost identical bedrooms complete the design. Each has ample closet space and share a desk and bookshelves directly across the hall, for any students in the house or just as a quiet spot for letter-writing. A full, sky-lit bathroom is around the corner.

For a study plan of the Omaha (334-030), send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

When furnishing room, looking upward pays off

By Rose Bennett Gilbert
Copley News Service

Q: We have a small room in the attic where we could take in a student or other (paying) house guest to help with the expenses of remodeling this old house (1903). The problem is, I can't figure out how to furnish the room. All the walls slant, and there's no window, only a skylight. Please advise.

A: Architectural eccentricities can be blessings in disguise. Proof of the pudding: this highly individualistic attic room created by designer Richard Mervis.

Instead of cursing the dark at the top of the stairs, he has accentuated it, using rich, warm colors and patterns and offset furnishings in fresh new ways. Here, a period chaise stands in for an ordinary bed. A painted screen becomes a headboard. Pictures hung on the sharply angled walls offer an entirely new slant on viewing art.

Even if your intended house guest turns out to be less adventuresome (demanding a real bed, for example), the designer's point remains valid. When you need more living room (or rental income), it pays to look upward, literally.

Q: When we built our master bath with corner windows over the whirlpool tub there were no neighbors in sight. Just fashions dealer.

A more permanent suggestion: glass blocks with which you "brick" up the window opening. The good news is that this very Thirties material is very much back in style today. The bad news is that glass blocks cannot be cut to fit exactly, so you'll probably have to reduce the size of the window opening.

Q: We found a Gothic-style chair at an auction that the dealer said he believes was designed by someone named Alexander Jackson Davis. We are new at antiquing and need some help. All I know about the Gothic style I learned in church.

A: What there is to learn about Gothic design would fill a book. Fortunately for your new interest, Kathleen Mahoney, a senior editor at House Beautiful magazine, has written that book.

Entitled "Gothic Style" (Harry N. Abrams, Inc.), Mahoney's handsome tome explores the romantic, fanciful design idiom that re-emerged in the 18th century to influence everything from architecture to the decorative arts.

You are quite right that Gothic (or Gothick, as the English have it) first evolved in the service of the church during medieval times. Rediscovered 500 or so years later,

Harvesting under zodiac signs

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Some gardeners prefer to follow the zodiac when planning planting and harvesting schedules. Following are a few tips for the astrological concerned.

Dig root crops for seed during a full moon. They will keep longer.

Dig sweet or Irish potatoes before the full moon, but be sure to avoid the watery signs, which are Capricorn and Cancer. The same rule applies to onions.

Never gather vegetables, grain or fruit in the water signs or new of the moon, as they will surely decay. Just before the full moon is the best time for shipping.

To rid your lawn of weeds and wild onions, mow them close to the ground in Leo and they will bleed to death. The hotter the day the better.

Can fruit and vegetables when the moon is decreasing in light (after full moon) and in the watery signs — Pisces, Scorpio, Cancer.

Set eggs for hatching when the moon is in Cancer. Chickens hatched in the new of the moon are stronger and grow more quickly than those hatched in the old of the moon.

Q: What are your favorite fall holiday decorations?

A: I always prepare for the fall holidays early by planting in the summer. Come the end of October, I am reaping my harvest of fancy gourds of every shape, size and color. I let the gourds dry, then coat with a clear acrylic spray or varnish. This treatment keeps the gourds beautiful all winter long.

They make a great table or mantle decoration. I use them on my Halloween table on either side of a jack-o'-lantern. For Thanksgiving and an added touch of fall beauty, I sometimes place a few colorful autumn leaves around the gourds. With these materials you can decorate your whole house and create a real holiday spirit! Let your imagination run wild.

PUMPKIN LUMINA

Give your Halloween jack-o'-lanterns a unique, ghostly appearance this year with "Pumpkin Lumina," a new variety. This fabulous white pumpkin with bright orange flesh is wonderful for home-made pies, too!

"Lumina" is eight to 10 inches in diameter and

The zodiac

Astrology was invented 3,000 years ago in Babylon (Iraq). The sky was divided into 12 sections along the line of the sun's movement, but because of the Earth's precession on its axis the constellations now lag behind the signs and have shifted eastward.

Q. I have a Heywood Wakefield vanity. I understand that it is a collector's item and worth money. It is a double pedestal dresser, has a round beveled mirror, and cross strap pulls. The seat of the matching vanity bench revolves. Can you tell me anything about it and what it is worth?

A. Your vanity and bench are part of the popular "Rio Group" made by Heywood Wakefield, Gardner, Mass. This line was introduced in Chicago and New York in January, 1942 at the outset of World War II. The pieces were available in wheat and champagne finishes.

"Heywood-Wakefield Modern Furniture, Identification and Value Guide" by Steve Roulant & Roger Roulant lists your vanity with mirror at $240 to $480 and the vanity pouffe at $40 to $80 in good condition.

Q. Enclosed is a drawing of a mark on the bottom of my porcelain centerpiece. The length of the centerpiece is 14 inches and the width is 7 inches. It is decorated with applied fruit and leaves. I would really appreciate any information you can give me about my centerpiece.

A. This mark was used by Camille Nadot & Co., Paris. They were in business from 1900 to 1919. Your centerpiece was made sometime between 1904 to 1919. Its value would probably be $145 to $165.

Q. I have a Venetian glass clown that is at least 30 years old. It is multi-colored with flecks of gold and stands 8 inches tall. Could you tell me if it is worth anything?

A. Venetian glass has been made near Venice in Murano, Italy, since the 1200s. The early glass was thin and fragile. Pieces made in the 1900s are usually thicker and heavier. Many of the 1950s designs are currently being reissued. Your glass clown would probably be worth $90 to $100.

Q. I have a metal "Coca-Cola" carrier suitable for carrying six, 6-ounce bot- ties. It was given to me in 1949 and it wasn't new then. On the side is the "Coca-Cola" trademark. My wife wants me to clean out the garage and throw the old thing away. Before I do, I would like to know what you have to say about it.

A. Your wife may want to reconsider her suggestion. Also, what your wife should have told you is to send a clear picture with your question. "Coca-Cola" carriers from pre-1949 can vary in value from $40 to $150. Without a picture of the carrier I can't narrow the price down any more than that.

BOOK REVIEW

"Millersburg Glass" by Marie McGee (Antique Publications) chronicles the brief (1909-1913) yet productive history of this glass factory. Some of the most distinctive and unusual Carnival and Crystal glass was produced by Millersburg. Included in this saga of glass making is John Fenton's role in the history of Millersburg Glass. McGee offers detailed descriptions, hundreds of color photos, carefully documented patterns, and a current price guide.

Whether collecting, buying, or selling, this well researched book is an essential reference guide. "Millersburg Glass" is distributed by Wallace-Homestead Book Co. It is available in antiques shops and bookstores for $29.95.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

Renters seem to have one priority; buy a house

tend to buy more expensive houses while interest rates are still relatively affordable, according to Mortgage Banking magazine.

However, there's fear on the part of many consumers and professionals that interest rates will head back up, as they did earlier this year. Many families believe this may be their last chance to get into a home of their own.

Upscale renters also are nervously watching the level of mortgage interest rates. They see this as a threat to their ability to purchase a home that would suit their established lifestyle. They typically skip starter homes in favor of step-up residences.

Much of today's upscale rental market is predicated on keeping households in apartments — those who, if all things were equal, would prefer being in their own single-family home. But all things are not equal, so they stay in apartments for a variety of reasons — primarily financial.

In most areas of the country, a rent of about $728 (average) will put a renter in the top 15 percent of the local apartment market. It was noted in the study. For that rent, a renter could get all the goodies normally expected, such as fireplace, vaulted ceiling, plenty of living space (1,000 to 1,200 square feet), lots of storage space, new appliances, washer-dryer hookups, and probably a garage or carport.

In many cases, the rental complex will include amenities such as a pool, clubhouse, recreation room, sauna or hot tub, and laundry facilities. Some new upscale developments contain a full "home office center" in the clubhouse, with auxiliary home office services such as photocopying, package drop-off, and a conference room.

All maintenance is normally handled by a professional management firm.

That same $728 monthly expenditure could put their family into a home of their own valued at about $89,900, the study noted. This house would probably include about 1,200 to 1,300 square feet of living space, plus a garage.

Of course, before moving in the ex-renter would have to pay a down payment and transaction closing costs. And there will be certain needed appliances, curtains-drapes, special decoration items, furniture, rugs, etc.

Despite the costs, and possible hassles during closing, most seasoned homeowners will say the purchase of their own home was the best investment of their lives. No regrets.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Curing and preserving the color of ornamental gourds

weighs 10 to 12 pounds — just right for carving and painting. Children will love growing and decorating their own pumpkins and these white ones will be different from all their friends.

CURING ORNAMENTAL GOURDS

Gourds have the same general growth habits as squashes and pumpkins and should have the exact cultural practices, except that most varieties require some form of trellis to climb upon.

Gourds are used in making all sorts of useful tools like ladles, salt and sugar containers, dippers and many other household utensils. They're also used for calabash pipes and birdhouses.

Of course, they are chiefly of interest because of their ornamental and decorative possibilities. The thin-shelled or hard-drying gourds are the most durable and are the ones that make the best decorations. The thick-fleshed varieties are more in the neighborhood of pumpkins and squashes, and are almost as perishable.

Other kinds of gourds, like the thin-shelled type known as the "Lagenaria" group, are gathered and cured at the time the shells begin to harden, when the fruits become lighter in weight and the tendrils on the vines near the gourds begin to shrivel and dry. For best results, give the gourds ample time to cure — some kinds require 6 months or a year! The thick-shelled gourds of the Cucurbita group are more difficult to cure than the thin-shelled ones. Unfortunately, their beauty is of short duration, they usually begin to fade after 3 to 4 months.

All types of gourds need tender loving care and should be handled gently because bruises discolor them and often encourages softening and decay.

Q. Is there a way to preserve the design or the color on gourds as they dry?

A. Unfortunately design and color on gourds fade as they dry. However, you can easily make them more decorative.

Enjoy fresh gourds till the colors start to fade and then put in a dry spot. Occasionally wipe off any mold that forms, and throw out any gourds that shrivel. When the gourds feel light and the seeds rattle, soak them in warm water. Scrape off any softened skins with a knife, and rub with steel wool and set aside. When dry, sand carefully and lightly. You can paint, shellac, wax, carve or decorate the dried gourds any way you wish.

Q. My town is now enforcing strict guidelines for the disposal of garden and yard waste. Because of this many homeowners are turning to composting. Just what is compost?

A. Compost, also called humus, is a rich, natural substance that results from the decomposition of organic matter. Leaves, kitchen scraps (no fats!), grass clippings, vegetables, fruit peels and even egg shells (never fish, meat or chicken leftovers) are recommended for composting.

Compost allows these natural materials to be returned to the earth, providing improved soil structure and fertility. Compost also helps control weeds, retain moisture, reduce soil erosion and release precious plant nutrients.

the "Gothic Revival" style found its American champion in Alexander Jackson Davis, one of the most popular architects in the mid-1800s, according to Mahoney.

Davis not only wrote influential books urging the Gothic style for country estates, he practiced what he preached, designing important residences in the Gothic style for the rich and famous of his day. Among them is Lyndhurst, on the Hudson River near Tarrytown, N.Y., where millionaire Jay Gould once hung his hat and which Mahoney calls "the finest Gothic Revival mansion in the United States."

Now owned by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Lyndhurst attracts thousands of visitors who come to delight in its turrets, buttresses, trefoils and crenellations. They also come to see more than 50 pieces of furniture also designed by Davis, including a number of whimsical Gothic chairs.

No one ever said it was easy to be a parent. Yet one part of parenthood can be easier than you thought: saving for college with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're the easy way to make sure the money you save will be there by the time your child goes to college.

First, U.S. Savings Bonds are affordable. Invest just a few dollars each payday through your employer's Payroll Savings Plan or at your bank.

Second, U.S. Savings Bonds are secure. They're backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Third, U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed to grow. They earn interest at a competitive market-based rate, if held five years or longer, or a guaranteed minimum rate, whichever produces the higher value, compounded semiannually.

And U.S. Savings Bonds offer tax advantages. The interest they earn is exempt from state and local taxes, and you can defer federal income tax payments on the interest until you redeem your Bonds. Plus, if you use U.S. Savings Bonds to pay for college, you may be able to receive additional tax benefits.*

Ask your employer or banker about saving for college with U.S. Savings Bonds. Or write: U.S. Savings Bonds for Education, Department of the Treasury, Washington, DC 20226.

For a recorded message of current rate information, call 1-800-4US BOND • 1-800-487-2663.

This job is done best when you can't tell

By ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN
Staff Writer

Jan Forsythe knows that if she has done her job well, you can't tell she did it.

This Green Oak Township resident has helped others preserve memories in the form of photographs for 21 years.

She called her home-based business "Invisible Artworks," because, if properly done, her retouching and restoring of photographs is invisible on the finished product.

There is no college for her work. Forsythe has learned her art from others in the field starting with her first job out of high school.

"It's such a specialty trade," she said. "You learn from mentors or peers in the business. If you don't keep it going (by sharing knowledge), it's going to die."

Forsythe's interest in her craft began during her first job out of high school. She worked in a Dearborn photo lab.

At first, she learned how to retouch negatives and enhance prints to erase imperfections such as the glare caused by eyeglasses. Then she learned the techniques of airbrushing to restore damaged photographs. Eventually, she also mastered the art of applying hand oils to add color to restored black and white photographs.

The oldest photographs she has worked on hail from the late 1800s; the newest tend to be snapshots from the 1960s. In order to do her work, Forsythe reproduces the old original and conducts any needed print enhancement work on the copy.

A nice aspect of her work is that Forsythe has been able to work and stay at home with her sons, Justin and Brandon. She added that her husband, Terry, has been very supportive of her work. She relocated her home and work site from Dearborn to Green Oak Township just outside South Lyon in early 1992.

In order to keep up with the changes in the field, Forsythe frequently attends workshops and other educational events. The professional organizations she belongs to conduct these events.

Forsythe is a member of the Professional Photographers of Michigan, the Detroit Professional Photographers Association, Professional Photographers of America (which is granting her Craftsman degree in August), and the American Photographic Artisan Guild (which granted her Laurel Master Artist degree). A combination of teaching and judging juried shows will obtain Forsythe the Craftsman designation.

Forsythe said that she has learned a great deal from teaching her craft.

"It's just exciting to teach what you know to keep the enthusiasm going for your profession," she said.

"That's the interesting part of this job. You always keep learning ... It's an ongoing education and it's something that you constantly have to keep updated. Technology changes. The field changes. There are so many variables."

When Forsythe began her chosen profession, she was afraid that she would never have the time to learn all she wanted to about it.

For example, computer imaging has added yet another dimension to that work.

"Computer imaging is changing the whole profession," she explained. "Some people don't want to make a change."

She added that, much to her regret, some highly competent people are leaving her profession because they feel threatened by the advent of this new technology.

Forsythe looks upon this new system as a challenge which eventually she will meet. At this point, it is not cost effective for an individual to buy computer imaging equipment due to its prohibitive cost.

"It's not really a threat that's going to take away business," she said. "After you learned it, it would enhance your business. A computer can't hand-oil a photograph."

The occasions for which her work is appropriate include, but are not limited to, Mother's Day, Father's Day, birthdays, Christmas, and anniversaries. Another use Forsythe suggests for her art is to create a photographic family tree.

Forsythe advises customers to pick pictures which mean a lot to the recipient for either copying or restoration. She can work with color, black and white prints, and those with sepia (brown) tones. These can be made to original size, larger, or smaller. Hand oiled or not, family and other special photos "can't become wall decor in your home."

"It's a unique gift," she said. "If you're looking for a special gift, this is it."

Forsythe said that her customers are people who place a high sentimental value on photographs.

She personally loves the atmosphere of old photographs, including the personal props used and "the antiqueness of things ... There is so much character in the old photographs."

"The only things that are going to preserve our past are photographs," she said. Call Forsythe at (810) 486-6078 for a consultation. She explained that it is difficult to give a price range on her work without first seeing the photographs.

"Every job that comes to me is so different," she added.

Business Briefs

The national headquarters of FORMERLY EMPLOYED MOTHERS AT THE LEADING EDGE has named Novi chapter leader DEBBIE WHITSON 1995 leader of the year. She received this award due to her outstanding development and growth of the local chapter.

Northville resident BOB FRELICK was recently honored achievements as SHARLEE sales leader at the company's International Leadership Convention in Vancouver. Travel, accommodations, meals and entertainment were provided by the company as part of the many benefits awarded to Frellick.

Novi-based FIFE ELECTRONIC COMPANY has been purchased by WESCO Distribution of Pittsburgh. The merger brings together two strongest electrical and industrial wholesale distributors.

PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL CENTERS recently announced that its four mammography units have received full American College of Radiology and Federal Food and Drug Administration accreditation. Providence's medical center in Novi is one of the four sites.

Wixom resident GEORGE KACAN, AIA, has recently joined the Williamston architectural/engineering firm of FANNING/HOWEY ASSOCIATES, INC. as an associate project manager.

Northville resident CARLA M. SMASTON has joined PLANTE & MORAN, a prominent accounting and management consulting firm based in Michigan, as a tax partner. She joined the firm's Southfield tax staff in 1990 as a tax associate. Prior to that, she had been a tax senior manager at a national CPA firm.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association, headquartered in Novi, issued a call this summer for payment of allocated certificates of equity, capital retains and patronage stock credits in excess of $4.8 million to their members. This retirement of equities to members sets a record as the largest pay out in MMPA's history.

"Once again this year we are pleased to issue cash payments to our dairy farmer members and owners," said MMPA President Elwood Kirkpatrick. "Earlier this year we issued $1.7 million to our members in cash allocation payments, making for a total cash payment of $6.5 million to MMPA members in the past six months. This is a record-breaking amount of cash payments for our cooperative and would challenge the amount of money returned to members of even the largest cooperatives in the nation."

The call for payment represents the balance of the 1982 equities and one half of the 1983 equities. It also includes the balance of all patronage stock credits that were issued to the former Michigan Producers Dairy Company members.

"Because MMPA remains financially strong and well managed, we are able to make this cash payment and at the same time maintain a strong balance sheet and bottom. We anticipate another good year financially when we end our fiscal year in September," Kirkpatrick said.

MMPA members who marketed milk through the cooperative during 1982 and 1983 will begin receiving their money in August, when the call notices are returned.

"Cash refunds and equity payments are one of the greatest advantages of marketing your milk through a successful cooperative," Kirkpatrick said. "They are proof to the dairy farmers that the profits MMPA earns are returned to its members and owners."

Michigan Milk Producers Association is owned and controlled by over 3,400 dairy farmers in Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

County lauded by QBS for planning, containment

Known throughout the state for its premier marketplace, affluence and continued economic growth, Oakland County can now add cost containment and planning to the list of achievements.

The county was able to reach this most recent goal, and win a plaque for its efforts, with the assistance of Qualifications-Based Selection Coalition (QBS), a public service group of Michigan engineers, architects and land surveyors promoting quality work.

"The group is promoting a selection process," said Penny Wright-Steele, QBS spokeswoman, who cited the importance of hiring a design firm based on qualifications rather than low bid.

"The process is used to select (bidding) firms. Because if you just (hire) the lowest bidder, you may not be getting quality work."

Oakland County Purchasing Department manager Joseph Hylla echoed the thought. "What might be initially a low price, might be an unqualified contractor, which leads to extra hours (and more money), or we might have to scrap the whole project and hire someone else," said the Waterford resident, who accepted the award with the director of the county's management and budget, Robert Daddow of West Bloomfield. "We use the QBS selection process to ensure we get the best vendor."

While QBS supplies the process, it has no role in selecting, interviewing or promoting particular vendors. In the case of the Oakland County project, implementing a satellite-based Global Positioning System, county officials choose Wade-Trim of Plymouth and Measurement Science of Englewood, Co. from their already-made list.

"We maintain our own list of vendors to choose from," Hylla said. "There are six or seven on the vendor bid list."

Interested vendors were then ranked by county officials based on the written responses.

"The QBS process reduced the evaluation time and facilitated the decision-making process," said Wright-Steele. "Due to the clarity of the submittals, the interview stage was bypassed and negotiations were begun earlier."

The award presentation, this summer marks the second award of its kind given to the county. The first award was presented two years ago when the county's department of public works conducted a sewer interceptor study.

"They have been very good in embracing this process," said Wright-Steele. "For some reason, Wayne County and the others have not been as receptive, but Oakland County is very enthusiastic."

According to Hylla, the county examined this process for some time before using it. "This was all introduced in the middle '70s as the Brook's Bill and the resolution was adopted (in 1987). After examining this for a couple of years, it kind of languished ... then we brought it back," he said.

Despite the adopted resolution, House Bill 206, governmental bodies and companies are not required to retain vendors based on qualifications rather than the low bid. "They are just urging it," said Wright-Steele.

As a result, QBS tries to recognize groups who use their selection process in the hope more groups will use the QBS's free service.

"The selection process can be used for almost any project - survey work, creating a computer data base, building ....," she continued.

Oakland County's most recent project involves using satellites to record property lines. "It's part of the 20-year project of remounting the entire county," said Hylla. "It's a (mandated) state-funded program of checking property lines from 100 years ago when people used landmarks that might not even exist today."

Modeled after the satellite system used by the United States in the Persian Gulf War, the technology will give maximum accuracy in locating corners, within a tolerance of one inch. The program is expected to conduct property surveys and reduce property line disputes.

Oakland County is in its third year of evaluations.

How much house can you afford?

Money Management

When shopping for a house, don't be guided by impulse. According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, the key to successful home ownership is to find a house with a price tag that matches your family's lifestyle and budget.

COMMON RULES OF THUMB

Most lenders require 10 to 20 percent of the home's purchase price for a down payment. In addition, lending institutions often use ratios to determine the mortgage amount you can safely carry. As a general rule, lenders don't like to see you commit more than 28 percent of your total monthly gross income to cover housing expenses, including principal and interest, taxes and homeowners' insurance.

Some lenders prefer a more comprehensive formula that takes into account both mortgage expenses and other existing long-term monthly payment obligations, such as automobile loans, student loans, credit card balances, alimony and child support. Although there may be flexibility for an applicant with an excellent credit history, most lenders prefer that the total of these debt obligations not exceed 36 percent of one's monthly gross income.

YOUR FINANCIAL SITUATION

CPAs point out that while lenders follow guidelines that work for the majority of homeowners, you must examine your own personal financial situation - your assets, your income and your lifestyle - to determine how much mortgage debt you can comfortably manage. Begin by asking yourself these questions:

- How much of a down payment can I afford? Be sure not to include all your savings in this number. CPAs advise keeping six months worth of living expenses in an emergency fund.

- Is my income likely to grow? For example, are you likely to be promoted in the near future? Will a spouse be entering the work force?

- Are my expenses likely to increase or decrease? For example, will you soon be facing college tuition costs or any large medical bills? Are you likely to be supporting another dependent?

Give consideration not only to what you can afford to pay for the house based on your income and expenses, but also to what you are willing to pay, month after month, year after year, to finance your home. If you prefer VCR movies to theater outings and would rather eat in most evenings than dine out, perhaps you can devote more of your income to housing.

WHAT ABOUT MORTGAGES?

Becoming a homeowner takes more than searching for the right house at the right price. It also involves finding the right mortgage. A one-quarter percentage point drop in the mortgage interest rate can translate into thousands of dollars in savings over the term of a loan. Also, keep in mind that while mortgage interest currently is tax deductible, tax laws can change at any time.

Although there are many creative mortgage financing plans available today, your first decision is whether you want a fixed-rate or an adjustable-rate mortgage (ARM). A fixed-rate mortgage comes with an interest rate that remains stable for the life of the loan. That means you know in advance exactly how much your monthly mortgage payment for principal and interest will be until the debt is retired. One advantage of a fixed-rate mortgage is that it acts as a cushion against rising inflation. However, if interest rates drop, you won't benefit unless you refinance and incur additional closing costs.

An ARM carries a variable interest rate that generally increases or decreases at specified intervals to reflect fluctuations in the cost of borrowing. The initial interest rate of an ARM is typically lower than that of a fixed-rate mortgage. To protect you from extreme interest rate increases, most ARMs have an annual and lifetime cap. However, don't lock into an ARM unless you think you'll have the financial wherewithal to manage periodic interest rate increases.

If you're having trouble deciding between a fixed-rate or an adjustable-rate mortgage, you may want to look into one of the many "hybrid" mortgages available today. It's a good idea to meet with several lenders to understand your options.

CPAs point out that buying a home is one of the most expensive undertakings you are likely to be involved in during your lifetime. Don't rush your decision. And remember, investing too much in a house may prevent you from achieving other financial goals.

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Get help with those utility bills

The long, hot summer of 1995 has tested southeastern Michigan residents' ability to cope with unrelenting heat waves. Rising temperatures often mean rising electric bills as many homeowners and business people struggle to beat the heat with the help of air conditioning.

Nearly 80 percent of Detroit Edison's residential customers have either central air conditioning or room air conditioning units.

Detroit Edison encourages customers who foresee bill-payment problems to contact the utility. The company also has some suggestions on how customers can manage rising energy costs and use.

If customers have difficulty paying a high bill, the first step is to call Detroit Edison at 1-800-477-4747. The utility will help customers make payment arrangements and may be able to direct low-income customers to other sources of bill-payment assistance.

"We want to know if a customer has a problem so we can help immediately," said Ronald L. Klinect, Detroit Edison manager for customer service. "This allows us to keep bill payments at an affordable level."

Customers also can use energy-saving tips to help them make wise choices that can save money.

Closing blinds, shades and draperies keeps the sun out and helps fans and air conditioners cool more efficiently. Window fans users also should make sure draperies are secured for better air circulation and safety.

Set the thermostat on the highest comfortable setting. You can reduce cooling costs by 5 percent just by raising the temperature two degrees.

If you have an extra refrigerator in your garage, consider unplugging it or using it only when necessary. A refrigerator in an uncooled space uses more energy to keep food cold.

Check weather-stripping and caulking around doors and windows to keep warm outside air from entering the space you are cooling. Storm windows should be closed to keep hot air out and cold air in.

Regular maintenance will help air conditioners last longer and work better, but remember to disconnect the electrical power when working on them. Keep the outside portion of air conditioners free of dust and debris, clean fan blades annually and clean or change air filters every 90 days during the cooling season.

When using a window air conditioner, close doors leading to uncooled parts of the home for better, more efficient cooling.

If you are having difficulty cooling the upper level of a multi-story home with central air conditioning, consider closing registers on the lower level to push cool air upstairs. Closing doors between floors also keeps cool air upstairs. These steps can help maintain reasonable comfort on the upper level without overcooling other portions of the home.

Owners urge cooperation with MIOSHA

If Michigan business owners are afraid to call in the state's top safety agency, how can they improve safety in the workplace?

That's the dilemma facing small-business owners, who dread a visit from the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration (MIOSHA) almost as much as a call from the IRS.

"There is a perception that MIOSHA exists primarily to punish rather than assist the small-business owner," said Charlie Owens, state director of the National Federation of Independent Business/Michigan.

"MIOSHA rules and regulations are so voluminous and complicated that any business, regardless of

UNEXPECTED FINES

According to Owens, business owners who voluntarily request MIOSHA's assistance often are frustrated to find that a subsequent inspection by the agency will result in citations for violations not addressed in the voluntary inspection.

While small-business owners fear the financial penalties MIOSHA can levy, there is concern that the screws may be turned even tighter.

MIOSHA has received written criticisms in the past from OSHA for not levying as many fines or large enough fines to suit the federal organization.

"The unfortunate result is most small-business owners do not see OSHA and MIOSHA as agencies encouraging safety on the job," Owens said. "The perception is they are out to extract as much money as possible from a business owner in fines and penalties."

A recent survey of the 23,000 members of NFIB/Michigan revealed that 85 percent of the small-business owners favor a complete overhaul of OSHA, replacing mandated fines and penalties with incentives and assistance.

COOPERATIVE APPROACH

NFIB/Michigan members propose refocusing the mission of OSHA and MIOSHA and prohibiting fines and penalties on the initial visit to a small business.

Instead, the first visit should be an opportunity for MIOSHA to assist the business owner in complying with required regulations.

"If done correctly, the adversarial relationship between MIOSHA and small business could be transformed into one of cooperation," said Owens. "Making workplace safety a cooperative effort will benefit both small-business owners and their employees."

8th annual Victorian Festival promises fun, food, finery

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Victoria. Born into royalty, she became a queen at 18 and at her height ruled a British Empire that contained roughly one-quarter of the world's land and people.

Her 63-year reign was long enough, however, to see the beginning of the end of Britain's reign as the dominant world power and the birth cries of its one-day successor, the United States.

She was one of history's most distinctive figures, a ruler whose memory has withstood the ages. Her name has been given to a city in Texas, a lake in Africa, a university in Canada, a state of Australia, a mountain in Fiji and an era in world history: the Victorian Age, celebrated in Northville with this year's eighth annual Victorian Festival.

Victoria's longevity on the throne (1837-1901) allowed her to preside over — and help bring about — changes for good and bad both in Britain and across the globe. In many ways she symbolizes many of the struggles that beset a planet grappling with major transformations.

From the 19th to the 20th century, from the time of hand labor to the Industrial Revolution, from autocracy to democracy, from the old to the new, Queen Victoria was witness to a constantly changing world.

In her time Europe and America lived through wars and famines. The ascension of the machine and mass production altered forever the nature of human exist-tence for good and bad. The rising sentiments of the rights of everyone to live in freedom gripped much of the globe, from a United States fighting over slavery to a Great Britain granting women and poor people the vote.

Beyond that, Victoria presided over a time of cultural bloom: art, literature and science leaped and bounded to unforeseen and undreamed of heights.

Despite all this change, however, Victoria managed to retain the best of the past as well: a belief in traditional morality and values, like respect, duty, honor, loyalty and love.

The Victorian Festival embodies that same respect for both tradition and modernity. Come experience it for yourself Sept. 15-17: take a break from the hustle-bustle of today's world and return for an all too brief — visit to a quieter, more stately era.

into a horse-drawn carriage for a trip back in time. See all your Festival favorites, from the Victorian parade to the Victorian ball, where elegantly-clad dancers will waltz the night away.

Enjoy the dizzying varieties of comely, lacy and frilly finery folks will don during the Festival, clad in period costume. See the duck races or a 19th century schoolhouse at Mill Race Village. Bid in the box lunch auction or partake of the Victorian tea party.

Take in a silent movie or attend the first-ever Festival event for "commoners" at Genitti's Restaurant. Browse the after-

What year is this, anyway?

It's easy to get lost amidst all the tall people and wide gowns that take part in the Victorian Festival parade, as young Ronnie Kadykowski found out a few years back. The parade is the traditional kick-off event of the Festival, and takes place at 6:30 p.m. Friday. This year, in addition to the usual variety of great food, fine art, novelty entertainers and elegant dress-up affairs, an historic home tour has been added to the festival program.

It's gowns on the town for costume ball

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Ask her about the history of Northville Victorian Ball, and Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs has to chuckle.

That's because Marrs, who is in her seventh year of coordinating the biggest event of the Victorian Festival, has seen her share of unexpected problems.

Take the first year of the Victorian Ball, for instance. The event was hosted by Mill Race Village, and Marrs coordinated the tents, caterers, and even rented a portable dance floor. With the site beautifully decorated, Marrs encountered a problem she couldn't have foreseen - the weather.

"The site was beautiful, the tents were up, and we're ready to go," Marrs said. "Then the day of the ball the temperature dropped into the 30s, so we frantically tried to rent as many space heaters as we could."

It was so cold, the ball was moved indoors to the Presbyterian church. But even with the change the event was a success. "The first year we had about 100 people attend," she said.

With that, the tradition of "Queen Victoria's Ball" began, and with one year of wisdom under her belt, Marrs was determined the weather would never be a factor again.

That is, until the second year.

"That second year I thought ahead and Perhaps nothing evokes the atmosphere of the late 19th century like the festival's centerpiece event, the Saturday night costume ball.

rented the space heaters, just to be safe," she said. "Unfortunately the temperature soared to about 100 in the shade."

So it was back to the church. This time, Marrs added, about 130 people attended.

VICTORIAN BALL

When: Saturday, Sept. 16, 7:30 p.m.
Where: Northville Community Center
How much: $55 per person
Information or tickets: 349-7640

"After that we had to move the ball to the recreation center, because although the church provided a beautiful backdrop, we knew that as the years went on more people would attend," she said.

This year, as in years past, local restaurants will cater the event. Glenn Morningstar and the Ruff Water String Band - playing original period instruments - will provide the entertainment and music for the dancing portion of the evening. Morningstar, Marrs said, acts as the contra-dancing caller, and his easy going style plays well with festival goers.

"Marrs said that people attending the ball will again park in the MAGS parking lot, and will ride to the recreation center in horse drawn carriages.

"It's really a spectacular thing to see," she said. "It always reminds me of the Academy Awards with people lined up taking pictures of the people arriving in the carriages."

The event will begin at 7:30 p.m. For additional ticket information, contact the Chamber of Commerce at 349-7640.

After the ball is over: Come to the tea party

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Tea, that most soothing of all stimulants. The brew to inspire graceful conversation and refined entertainment.

For the second year in a row, members of the Northville Mother's Club are inviting genteel members of the public, appropriately dressed in Victorian garb or modern-age clothing, to attend a tea on Sunday, Sept. 17, from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

"It was very, very nice last year. We sold out. It was just a real lovely experience," said this year's chair Jenda Mills.

"The people who did come really enjoyed it. We hope it's another sell-out party."

The afternoon is staged in the Northville Parks and Recreation Center, explained Mills, to take advantage of the not-yet-taken-down decorations which will transform the gymnasium into a fantasy of glamour for the Saturday night Victorian Ball.

"It was just beautiful. You couldn't have told it was in a gymnasium except for the floor," Mills said.

Fetching their own china and teapots from home - some of the crockery antiques - the lady-organizers set the scene, creating an individualized look at each table. Last year, luckily, nothing was broken.

"The Mothers' Club brings their own dishes and we don't rent any of the dishes. The effect is very pretty," Mills added.

"All the servers will be in Victorian costume. Some of the people come in Victorian outfits, but they don't have to."

VICTORIAN TEA

When: Sunday, Sept. 17, 1:30-3 p.m.
Where: Northville Community Center
How much: $10 per person
Information or tickets: 349-1698

On the menu will be dainty finger foods, such as salmon pate and cream cheese with vegetables tea sandwiches, as well as tea cookies, some made with recipes from members of the Mothers' Club.

While gossip about Victorian fest doings and who danced with whom at the ball will be in order, the tea will include a variety of entertainment to fill in those conversation lags. Early silent movies will be shown.

A musician will play a dulcimer. And a magician will travel from table to table with a bag of tricks.

Although the tea will be a polite event suitable for the most fragile of Victorian ladies and young girls, gentlemen and boys are very welcome, Mills said.

Naturally, the menfolk will be expected to avoid chewing and expectorating tobacco, smoking Havanas and telling off-color jokes while in the presence of the ladies.

Admission is $10 per person. Tickets will be sold at the Northville Chamber of Commerce offices, the Northville Recreation Department and by calling Mills at 349-1698.

Transformation starts with parade

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Life was different in the age of Queen Victoria.

Long, detailed dresses and hats of every sort was standard for the era's finest ladies. Gentlemen were inclined to don double-breasted suits, pocket watches and walking sticks.

Families were prized above all. Respect for tradition was paramount, too.

Morality and the church were closely tied together. People also paid close attention to formality and treating each other with civility.

This silent code stretched from one end of the earth to the other. It was said that the sun never set on the British Empire, which Victoria ruled from 1837 to 1901.

This weekend, Northville once again turns into a Victorian province. Transformation of the city to that stately, genteel era begins with the Victorian Parade at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

The Northville High School band will lead the way. While the school ensemble always fills the air with harmony, parade goers may find the "Wild Doggies of the West" even more entertaining.

Sponsored by the Phoenix Group, the act puts puppies in an authentic miniature stage coach.

"They do a cute act," Northville Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs said. "The kids will love it."

The Historical Society, St. Paul's Church and Northville Players will travel the parade route. Harmony Acres will

PARADE

When: Friday, Sept. 15, 6:30 p.m.

Where: Downtown Northville provide Arabian horses with riders in Western garb. Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen will be back with his fire equipment including a human-powered fire cart.

The 42nd Royal Highland military group will guard the parade queen. The Scottish troops guarded Queen Victoria herself in days gone by.

Parade Chairperson Donna Pallas said

300 or more people will participate this year. "It keeps getting bigger every year," she added.

Anyone wishing to walk in the parade should be at the MAGS parking lot by 6 p.m., Pallas said.

Parade walkers will travel the following route:

Starting from the MAGS parking lot, the parade heads north on Wing Street to Main. A turn west onto Main moves the parade to Rogers Street. From there it's north to Dunlap street and then due east.

After crossing Center Street, the parade will travel to Hutton and then turn south back to Main. The parade closes with a west turn on Main Street back to Wing and then south to where it began.

Walk, don't run, through downtown

This year's Victorian Festival won't be a sedentary affair, as two new programs for people interested in getting fit will be added to the event lineup.

On Saturday, Sept. 16, a Three-Mile Walk will be offered and registrations will be accepted for a month-long walking program.

Festivalgoers will have the opportunity to take part in a Three-Mile Fitness walk sponsored by the University of Michigan Health Center, M-Fit, Running Fit of Northville, and Northville Parks and Recreation. The walk will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Northville Senior Center, 215 W. Cady.

The measured walk will take participants through scenic downtown

Northville. Water will be provided along the course.

Registrations for the second health-related event, the Michigan Lighthouse Tour, will be available at the walk site.

The Lighthouse Tour is a walking and exercise incentive program designed by M-Fit, U of M Health Centers, Running Fit and Northville Parks and Recreation.

The contest takes place from Sept. 16-Oct. 20. Sign up for the program at Running Fit in Northville or the Northville Parks and Recreation Department any time until Sept. 22 or sign up at the kick-off walk. There is no charge.

Register the day of the walk from 7:30-8:15 a.m. at the Northville Senior Center for $10. For information call 380-3338.

Mill Race atmosphere perfect for the occasion

By JACQUELYN MURRAY
Special Writer

The entire family can step back in time and enjoy the simpler things at Mill Race Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 16-17.

Docents will be on hand both days to share the history of the buildings that are so much a part of Northville's heritage. So will the village blacksmith. He will demonstrate his skill, and his handmade items will be offered for sale in the blacksmith shop.

At the Interurban Station visitors of all ages can quench their thirst with old-style brown bottle drinks - sarsaparillas and root beer.

"Sunday is the big family day at Mill Race," says Marianne Barry, a member of the Mill Race Board of Directors and the chairperson of the event. "We are encouraging families to either bring a picnic lunch or bid on one at the auction being held at the bandshell," she adds.

The tranquility and beauty of the grounds are the perfect setting for the period crafters who will be at Mill Race Village on Sunday, Sept. 17. Basket weavers, textile weavers, lace makers, dulcimer players and other musicians performing on antique instruments will delight the entire family.

The children's games begin at 1 p.m. on Sunday. The ever popular and spectacular duck race starts at 2:30. Families get to select a colorful plastic duck, name it and cheer its progress down the river. Prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place ducks.

"This year we are planning a true family event," Barry says. "This year's event at Mill Race Village will be bigger and better than ever. There is fun for everyone."

Various categories have been created for the hat contest that will be held at 2 p.m. at the Mill Race gazebo. Prizes will be awarded for the best handmade hats, purchased hats, most colorful, and most authentic. Children and adult categories are judged separately.

And just in time for fall planting, Mill Race offers authentic Victorian-era hyacinth, tulip and daffodil bulbs for sale. These very special, prepackaged bulbs are from Scott Kunst's Old House Garden in Ann Arbor. They are available at the Cady Inn. Profits from the bulb sale will benefit Mill Race Village.

Step back in time and enjoy the simple pleasures of yesteryear in this historic setting. Mill Race Village is open during the Victorian Festival from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 16, and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 17.

Children manage to find a great perch from which to watch the duck race.

Performing pooches, jugglers street strollers to entertain

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Starving for some good old-fashioned, wholesome fun?

Take a gander at the entertainment lineup scheduled for Northville's Eight Annual Victorian Festival.

"As the festival grows we do more and more research to find people who know how to participate in an event like ours," said Jeanne Claire Vafakas, festival entertainment chairperson. "It's a growing festival that is getting high recognition and response."

Two new and lively acts will headline this year's three-day festival extravaganza in addition to a slew of ongoing acts designed to keep little hands and mouths entertained for hours, Vafakas said.

The new acts are Doggies of the Wild West and the Comic Juggler, both of which are scheduled to perform on center stage Friday evening from 7:30-8:30 p.m., Saturday at noon, 2 and 4 p.m., and again on Sunday from noon to 1 p.m.

All shows run one hour and are free.

The performing pooches will arrive on a stagecoach in time to perform tricks six times over the weekend. The Comic Juggler will be juggling and telling jokes while he rides his unicycle about town.

Mingling among festivalgoers will be a host of period entertainers including clowns, jugglers, magicians, a stilt walker, barbershop quartet, a fortune teller, Max the Moose, and a Victorian storyteller.

Dr. Rudy, the Victorian Festival's own medicine man, will also perform.

Seal memories of your festival experience attendance by having a snapshot taken of you decked out in Victorian garb. After the parade take a stroll down Main Street and take in a show or two. The Northville Players will be performing a Victorian Melodrama at the American Legion Hall at Friday at 8 p.m., and Saturday at 1, 3, and 4:30 p.m.

Over at the bandshell there be magic shows, a ventriloquist and Max the Moose, starting Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Eugene Clark's Punch and Judy puppet show will take the stage near Orin Jewelers while countless other Victorian characters mosey about town. New faces this year include Annie Oakley and Liberty and Gus, those madcap guys who are still duking it out.

Saturday afternoon young lads and lassies will have an opportunity to be kids compliments of the downtown merchants who are each hosting a different children's game. Marbles, top spinning, hoop rolling, panning for gold, bubble gum blowing and cake eating contests are just a hint of the activities planned.

That miracle worker, Dr. Rudy the cure-all medicine man, will again offer his special elixirs and potions to ailing festivalgoers.

"SOFT TOUCH" CHIROPRACTIC

Kathy Duncan had a satisfying full time career as a registered nurse in critical care when she decided to pursue a degree as a Doctor of Chiropractic. The career move came when Dr. Duncan found relief from her migraine headaches after being treated by a Doctor of Chiropractic. In chiropractic treatment, Dr. Duncan found her problem resolved when other methods of treatment failed.

When Dr. Duncan decided to open her business in 1990 she chose a name that also signifies the type of chiropractic care her patients receive. Soft Touch Chiropractic is so named because the chiropractic care given uses a painless technique which is different than the traditional chiropractic care of spinal adjustment.

With the spine as a focal point, the spine is "relaxed" by using pressure on points along the muscles in conjunction with the spine. "Pressure point is light and gentle," Dr. Duncan said. "With the muscles relaxed, the spine readjusts itself naturally." Pressure point is used extensively in the Southwest United States and the results, in many cases, are substantial, alleviating numerous problems such as pinched nerves, sinus drainage, headaches, back pain, slipped discs, stomach discomfort and nausea.

Dr. Kathy Duncan received her Doctor of Chiropractic degree from Life College in Marietta, Georgia in 1986 and

Dr. Kathy Duncan has been in private practice since that time. She has been featured on channels 2, 4 and 7. Dr. Duncan is also active in the local community, soon to take over as the newly elected President of the American Business Women's Association, Novi Oaks Chapter.

Appointments are being accepted with Dr. Duncan at Soft Touch Chiropractic by calling (810) 348-2000. 23895 Novi Rd., Novi, Mi.

THEY PUT IT OUT

Northville's Fire Extinguishers Are Hustlers

"Jim" Palmer's house on Plymouth Avenue caught fire this morning, and no sooner was the alarm sounded than everybody was getting towards the conflagration to render assistance. The hack hooked on to the fire engine and another rig coupled to the hose cart and away they went. The factory shut down and for the time all were firemen. The fire was soon extinguished and the damage will be small.

Night watch Berry did yeoman service with a small chemical extinguisher before the big engine arrive.

KICKED BY A HORSE

Lymon Brooks of This Village has Narrow Escape

During the auction sale at Geo. Hinman's Tuesday afternoon a horse was led out for inspection and sale. The animal became a little frisky at the crowd, and because of the chilly atmosphere, and let fly its heels among the people. The horse was newly shod and the sharp shoes struck L.L. Brooks on the right leg, above the knee, twice before anyone fully realized the danger. Mr. Brooks was picked up and conveyed to his home in this village, by Rev. L.G. Clark. Dr. Blanchard was summoned and found some tissues broken, and the limb badly bruised, but fortunately no bones were fractured as was at first feared. Mr. Brooks is resting easy now and is very thankful it is no worse, for had the animal's heels struck him in the abdomen the results must have been fatal.

Take the historical home tour

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

For the first time in 16 years, some of the oldest homes in Northville are going to be open to the public.

The Northville Historical Home Tour will take place Sept. 16 from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Of the five homes on the tour, three were built in the late 1800s, one was built in 1912, and the oldest was receiving its first renovation in 1840.

"This is the first public tour since 1979," said Nanci Olgren, chairperson for the Northville Historical Home Tour which is being sponsored by the Northville-Novi Branch of the American Association of University Women.

The first home on the tour was built by Nelsen Schrader in the prairie architecture design which was popular between 1900 and 1920. The American foursquare home was built in 1912 for $2,000 on land that cost half as much as the house.

The next home on the tour, which is also the oldest, is a simple cottage John Blackwood built before 1840 and has gone through more changes than owners during its lifetime.

During the 1930s, it was the home of Dr. Linwood Snow who operated Sessions Hospital, located three buildings to the west of his house.

A sea captain built the third home on the tour in 1874 with lumber shipped from Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The Hahns, who owned the home during the 1930s, remodeled it, creating the federalist colonial style seen today.

The fourth home on the tour has gone from private residence to hospital, to

This home built by Darius Knapp in 1882 and later used as a hospital is one of five houses on the historic home tour sponsored by the Northville-Novi branch of AAUW.

HOME TOUR

When: Saturday, Sept. 16, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

How much: $10 in advance, $12 the day of the tour.

Tickets: Chamber of Commerce, Bookstall on the Main, Kitchen Witch medical clinic, to bed and breakfast and back to a private residence.

Darius Knapp built the home in 1882.

It was purchased by Dr. R. E. Atchison in 1926 who converted it into a hospital. In 1960 the building was used as a medical clinic for the next 27 years.

In 1988 the current owners bought the building and ran a bed and breakfast inn for 3 years. Over 100 hands were joined in marriage during that time. In 1991, it was restored to a private residence.

Lastly, the cottage Gothic style four room home built in 1880 by William Stark, a store owner in Northville, has more than doubled in size. Stark's son-in-law, James Congo, added the dining and kitchen area. The present owners also made an addition.

The home's original fireplace still stands in the living room, which was probably the kitchen area when the home was first built.

Only the exterior of this home meets historical specifications set by the Historic District Commission of Northville. The interior renovation work was directed by the homeowner.

A limited number of tickets which include a map and a guide to each home are available at $10 and may be purchased from any AAUW member, Bookstall on the Main, Brickscape, Kitchen Witch and the Chamber of Commerce. Ticket prices the day of the tour are $12.

Stock up on fine jewelry, pottery, watercolors at Art Market

By JACQUELYN MURRAY
Special Writer

Visitors to the Victorian Festival can experience the ambiance of the past while enjoying and shopping for fine contemporary art at Northville's only juried fine Art Market.

The Northville Arts Commission presents its 9th annual Art Market on Main Street from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 17.

Over 50 fine artists are expected to participate in this unique art fair. Pottery, photographic art, watercolors, oil paintings, sculpture, jewelry, dolls, fiber art, and glass are offered by artists from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

In an effort to keep the show fresh, members of the Northville Arts Commission, a non-profit city volunteer organization, are always scouting art fairs for accomplished artists. The commission even advertised nationally for artists this year.

"We even were listed among the 'Highlights' in the September issue of National Geographic's Traveler magazine," laughs

ART MARKET

What: Juried arts and crafts exhibit with more than 50 fine artists displaying and selling wares.

Where: Main Street.

When: 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 16; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 17.

Lauri Rodriguez, Co-Chairperson of Art Market.

"Each year we try to improve the Art Market, and this year is no exception," she adds. "We added an 'invitational' category to lock in last year's best artists and we are offering our first commemorative poster for sale."

The poster is high quality, four color, 17-by-22-inches and is suitable for framing. It is available only at the Northville Arts Commission booth, located on Main Street near the bandshell.

"The commemorative poster has been a dream of ours for some time now," adds Sharon Rossow, Chairperson of the Northville Arts Commission. "Visitors will be able to start a collection of beautiful art at an affordable price. All of the revenue raised from sales of the posters will be used to provide our community with art in public places."

The Art Market '95 poster is a watercolor street scene by Northville artist Henry Caroselli, a retired art teacher whose travel influences his painting. Caroselli's work is in private collections throughout the world and is featured at the Toledo Museum of Art Collectors' Corner.

The Arts Commission will present the framed original to the city.

Northville's Art Market is gaining a solid reputation among artists, do prosper financially and are treated well at the event. Hot coffee is available for them during early morning set-up and a special artist brunch is held on Sunday.

"We do everything we can to make this a good experience for them. We listen to their suggestions, make changes and just generally treat them as we would want to be treated," Rodriguez says. "The word spreads. That's how you build a good show."

Three cash prizes totaling $1,000 are also an inducement to attract fine artists. The $500 Michael Key Memorial Award, named after the late art commissioner who chaired the Art Market for several years, and two $250 cash awards are presented for best of show.

The prize selection takes place early on Saturday. The winners' booths will display award ribbons.

The difficult task of selecting award winners this year belongs to Christopher Melikian. Melikian taught fine art at Wayne State University and in the Dearborn Public Schools.

He is a painter whose work falls between realism and photo-realism. He admits to being influenced by the Hudson River School and its approach to nature, detail and light. His appreciation of art and his critical acumen, however, includes all media - so artists other than painters need not worry about exclusion.

The Art Market is an ongoing feature of the Victorian Festival. The entire project is self supported.

Learn your Victorian IQ: Take our trivia quiz

Okay, okay: you're on the ball enough to know that Northville's eighth annual Victorian Festival will be held Sept. 15-17 and that's it's a great time for the whole family.

But how much do you know about the woman and the age for whom our quaint festival is named? Let's play 22 questions and find out.

Test your knowledge with The Northville Record's first-ever Victorian Festival quiz. Twenty-two brainteasers await.

See how well you recall your history about the 63-year reign of Queen Victoria (1837-1901), an era when the sun never set on the British Empire.

The answers are provided on page 18. Give yourself one point for each correct question.

Fifteen to 22 correct and you're a monarch of Vic Fest trivia.

Five to 14 right wins you the prince or princess prize.

Zero to four and it's back to the books for you.

Good luck!

Novi lad questions B.T. Barnum himself!

What follows is an article from The Northville Record, March 30, 1928, concerning an event that happened to a Novi youth in 1873.

How One of Novi Relatives of P.T. Barnum Saw Show

Albert Shirliff, Who Lives Over North, Recalls Visit

Outside the big tent, the barker with the loud voice - no barker is a success without one - was speaking at great length about the tattooed lady.

"And she dances, she dances," he confided to his audience.

Several feet from the barker stood a small boy, whose countenance reflected a burning desire to have a glimpse of what 50 years ago was about all the people knew of moving pictures. The boy fingered a few loose coins in his pocket. Should he spend a dime to gratify his curiosity, he wasn't sure that he might see it as a guest of the management.

Guest of the management! Well, why not? Wasn't this stupendous, awe-inspiring World's Greatest Show the property of a relative - the great P.T. Barnum. And more than that, wasn't Barnum himself standing near the entrance to the big tent? A relative! How did that relationship go now? Oh, yes, the boy's mother's mother was a daughter of a brother of P.T. The boy turned his back somewhat reluctantly on the tattooed lady and walked toward the owner of the circus.

What some 55 years ago today had impressed itself on the mind of the boy as a great event in his life was about to take place. He was to meet P.T. Barnum and he paused for a moment to contemplate the effort he made to bring about this meeting.

Three months before he had learned "Barnum is coming to town," the town being Detroit, and then little more than a town, and from that time the lad denied himself as many boyish expenditures as possible that he might make the trip to Detroit from his home on a farm near Novi. Early that morning, long before the summer sun had showed itself, he was up and on his way. It had been quite a journey by horse and buggy, but it seemed to be worth it.

"Pardon me, Mr. Barnum," said the boy, "May I speak with you?"

"Sure thing," said the circus man, "What's on your mind?"

"Do you know the Brandenburgs?" asked the boy.

"Bet I do," said Mr. Barnum, "I know all of them and I understand there are a number out in Oakland County, relatives of mine. For instance, there is Delos Brandenburg -"

"He's my uncle," said the boy, "I'm Albert Shirliff."

"I know the Shirliffs," said Mr. Barnum, "I have some cousins there."

"My mother is your cousin," said Albert, "I've heard her talk about you and I came down today to see your circus."

"Well, now, isn't that fine," said Mr. Barnum, "One of my relatives came to see the circus. We've got a great circus here and I want you to see it all. Take in the big show and stay for the after show. See the sideshows. That midway is my own idea. My freaks are a great thing with the American public. Run along now and don't miss anything."

Well, now, thought Albert Shirliff, that is just what he had come for, to see everything - and with a hurried, though gracious thanks, he lost no time in making his way to the entrance to the tent.

"Tickets," demanded a husky individual with a red coat and cap to match.

"Quite right," said the man in the red coat and cap to match, "Barnum is right, it's the greatest show on earth. Adults, 50 cents. Children, 25 cents."

Albert turned to look for Mr. Barnum. The latter was gone and the band started to play on the mystic inside of the tent. Albert drew forth the treasured quarter and was on the inside of a small boy's heaven.

It was a great afternoon for Albert, an afternoon he still thinks of as he sits in the window of his farm home in Novi Township, watching the sun go down on the day and years. He saw the big after-show and then started at one end of the midway in quest of Mr. Barnum and the excitement of not permitting himself to pass a sideshow so long as his small cash reserve held out.

He saw the fat lady, the living skeleton, the snake charmer, Jo-Jo the Dog-faced Boy. The Wild Man of Borneo took, figuratively speaking, his last dime. He missed out on seeing the tattooed lady do that dance where she wiggled so the battleship on her back looked like a boat on the sea in a storm.

"Do you really think Barnum ever made that crack, There's one born every minute?" a friend once asked Mr. Shirliff in after years. "I do and I agree with him," said Mr. Shirliff, "and sometimes they are relatives."

GREAT BRITAIN

- (1) She was 18.
- (2) The Napoleonic Wars, fought from 1793-1815. Napoleon Bonaparte was defeated at the Battle of Waterloo 17 years before Victoria became queen.
- (3) Great Britain controlled about 25 percent of the world's land and people at its height.
- (4) False. The queen appointed a total of six prime ministers during her tenure.
- (5) Victoria gave birth to four boys and five girls.
- (6) The Suez Canal, purchased from Egypt in 1875.
- (7) False. While members of a single family have ruled Great Britain since England, Wales and Scotland united in 1714, they've only referred to themselves as the House of Windsor since the early years of this century. The family's old German name, Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, was dropped because of the nation's involvement in World War I.

- (8) The Origin of Species.

- (9) Emily Bronte wrote Wuthering Heights in 1847. Charlotte penned Jane Eyre in the same year.

- (10) Lord Tennyson.

THE UNITED STATES

- (11) The Trail of Tears.
- (12) The Record's first issue was published on Aug. 28, 1869.
- (13) Congress approved the creation of 18 states in that time, the first of which was Michigan in 1837.
- (14) Texas, which had existed as an independent nation since defeating Mexican armies in 1836.

The Louisiana Purchase occurred in 1803 and the Oregon annexation in 1846.

The southwestern lands were ceded by Mexico in 1848 after the U.S. victory in the Mexican War. Our nation took Puerto Rico from Spain after the Spanish-American War in 1899, two years before Victoria's death.

- (15) Samuel Morse in 1837 after the first successful test of his new invention, the telegraph.

- (16) The correct order is:

(a) The Pony Express, begun in 1860 to carry mail from St. Joseph, Missouri, to the far west and back.

(b) Barbed wire, invented in 1874 to keep livestock hemmed in and unwanted settlers out of the cattle and sheep ranches.

(c) The telephone, invented in 1876 by Alexander Graham Bell in an attempt to develop a device to help his deaf wife hear.

(d) The phonograph, invented in 1877 by Thomas Edison, whose laboratory is now located in nearby Greenfield Village.

(e) The electric light bulb, invented in 1879, again courtesy of Thomas Edison.

(f) Construction on the world's first skyscraper began in 1884 in Chicago.

(g) Henry Ford produced the first gasoline-powered "horseless carriage" in 1885. Thanks to mass production assembly line methods more than three million Americans would own one within the next 30 years.

- (17) The American Federation of Labor, which after its merger with the Congress of Industrial Organizations became known by its modern acronym: the AFL-CIO.

(18) William McKinley, who was assassinated in 1901. He was one of the first human beings - and the first president - to be examined by doctors looking for the bullet inside him with a new technological wonder: the X-ray machine.

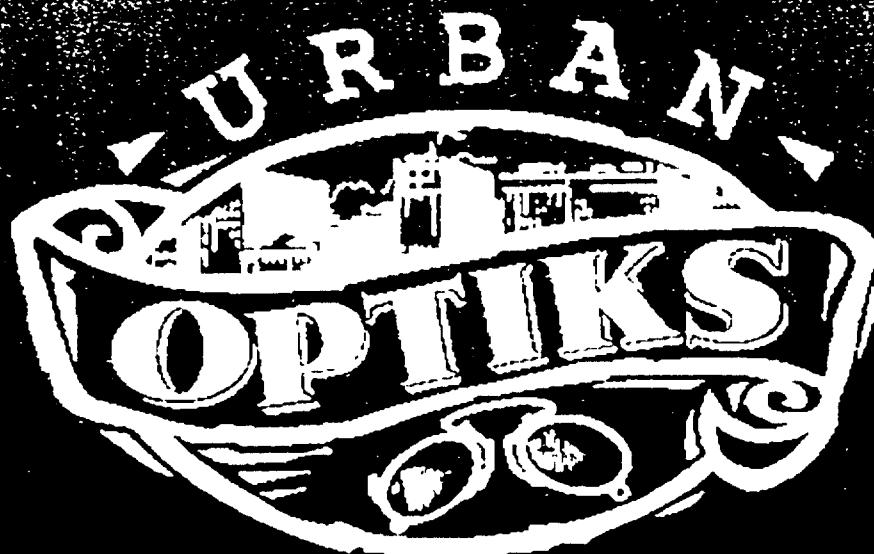

(19) Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton founded the organization, which was dedicated to securing the right to vote for all women in America. Wyoming was the first state to grant women's suffrage, doing so in the same year Anthony's and Stanton's group was founded: 1869.

(20) He became the only president ever to be impeached. Johnson was impeached by a House of Representatives dominated by the so-called "Radical Republicans" because he was not in favor of their plans for Southern Reconstruction in the wake of the Civil War.

The Senate failed to convict Johnson by a single vote, however, allowing him to remain in office until his overwhelming electoral defeat later that year by Ulysses S. Grant.

DID YOU KNOW

...tunnels exist under the streets of Northville.

LEGEND HAS IT ...

... residents used the tunnels to avoid inclement weather. Once during a terrible rainstorm in September of 1895, a weary miner took refuge in our historic tunnels while bearing a one carat diamond for his sweetheart. In an attempt to climb to safety when the tunnels filled with water, he lost this precious gemstone. His remaining years were spent searching for the diamond - only in vain! Even after death, his ghost annually returns to the vicinity of Hutton and Main Streets in downtown Northville. This year marks the 100th Anniversary of his heart-breaking loss. His ghost will not rest until the diamond is reclaimed! But, how will he find it?

DIAMOND GIVEAWAY

FREE "GREAT GOLD RUSH HATS"
TO FIRST 150 DIAMOND MINERS.

FREE NORTHVILLE DIAMOND JEWELER

THE END OF A LEGEND ...

Few words can be used to portray the legendary diamond reclaimed by diamondless Zeke. Glittering and bewitching, a radiant beauty, spirited and splendid, unequaled elegance, a precious fusion of carbon and sentiment. Respectful of Zeke's ghosts wishes, Northville Diamond Jewelers will be entrusting the future of his brilliant gemstone to a local resident. During this weekends' Victorian Festival, you are invited to take a step back in time with us as we enjoy the days of The Great Gold Rush! The children will be able to experience an authentic "gold panning" operation. For $2.00, all will be winners! For the adults, the legendary lost diamond will be thrown in our very own mine shaft full of sand. For $5 a shovel load, you can try your luck to dig for diamondless Zeke's 1 carat diamond.

Other prizes provided by: Traditions, Margo's of Northville, Baby Baby, Joe's Sport Shop, Running Fit & Scott Lowery C.P.A.

THE LEGEND CONTINUES ...

... As you recall from last week's legendary one hundred year old ghost story, the weary miner (A.K.A. Diamondless Zeke) lost his precious one carat diamond in the tunnels under Northville and his ghost is still searching Hutton Street in an attempt to reclaim it. Unable to rest, Zeke's ghost has been roaming the streets and tunnels of downtown Northville this past week. As he was hovering over the tunnel entrance where he originally lost his precious gemstone, he stared in amazement. His long-lost diamond lay glittering in the sand. Its brilliance was like a shining star. With tears in his eyes and warmth in his heart, he gingerly carried his treasure out of the tunnel to its new resting place - Northville Diamond Jewelers. No kidding! Northville Diamond Jewelers has promised to safeguard the legendary lost diamond in a breath-taking and enchanting exhibit. And, once they find a safe and loving home for it, Diamond Zeke's ghost can finally rest! But, how will they do that?

FASHION RETURNS —

A N D I T ' S
F E M I N I N E,
E L E G A N T,
V I B R A N T !

Fall is a fabulous fashion season. Fall 1995 is about luxury...quality fabrics, quality makeup and, most importantly, quality hair.

This fall your hair will be its shiniest, healthiest, glossiest, richest. Hair is alive! While an expert cut is essential, new products will be used to create real style. The Sixties-Seventies influence is very strong — showing with waves and curls. And with today's technology, you don't have to sacrifice condition for curl.

"It's time for curls to return and give more texture and versatility to the looks," states Gerald Haynes, owner of Gerald's. "The perm of the '90s is used as a tool for versatility and volume, not necessarily for rigid, lasting curls. Fall 1995 styles begin with classical shapes and finish with a new, looser freedom — we call it latitude."

Gerald's Salon offers you all realms of possibilities to give you the groomed look so popular this Fall. We have specialists in each area:

- STYLISTS TO CREATE THE LOOK WITH EXPERT CUTS, PERMS AND PRODUCTS
- COLORISTS TO CREATE THE VIBRANT, RICH,
GLOSSY FALL COLORS
- SKIN-CARE SPECIALISTS TO CREATE THE SMOOTH, FEMININE FACE WITH SKIN-CARE PRODUCTS AND MAKEUP
- MANICURISTS TO CREATE THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON HANDS AND FEET

The staff at Gerald's are experts at treating the hair to create the look you want, while at the same time maintaining the hair in a healthy, shiny condition. We also understand your need for easy, changeable styles so you can handle your hair successfully at home after you leave our salon.

New hairstyles, colors, fabrics and attitudes define Fall 1995 and femininity is triumphant with its rounded contours, full red lips and glamorous hairstyles. We invite you to usher in Fall 1995 with a visit to one of our salons, either in Northville or Franklin. We are happy to offer you a free consultation with a stylist to discuss styles, colors and products. Please call (313) 420-0111 in Northville and (810) 626-7171 in Franklin to make an appointment. We know you'll love the way you look and feel when you leave Gerald's!

GERALD'S COLOR DEPARTMENT DIRECTORS

READY FOR VIBRANT FALL SEASON

STEVE GORDON

Gerald's is there with haircolor for Fall. Color department directors Matthew Halloran, Northville, and Steve Gordon, Franklin, are ready with the rich, vibrant colors this season demands.

"Haircolor should create healthy, shiny hair," states Halloran. "We want soft blondes and exciting reds and brunettes, with both cool and warm undertones. Highlights should be subtle, using two or more colors to complement and contrast with the natural haircolor."

Over the past ten years, both Halloran and Gordon have trained with nationally-recognized colorists, including Richard Hudovani of Minneapolis. They also regularly attend national conferences, seminars and shows sponsored by the International Haircolor Exchange and Intercoiffure to keep abreast of the latest styles, techniques and products.

"Haircolor is what we need in the '90's," Gordon declares. "Baby boomers are graying and we're ready!"

MATTHEW HALLORAN

THREE INTERNATIONAL HAIRSTYLE EXPERTS

TO LEAD UPCOMING SEMINARS AT GERALD'S

GERALD'S COLORISTS TRAVEL TO CHICAGO FOR INTERNATIONAL SHOW

Chicago was the city. August was the month. And Gerald's colorists were there! The annual educational event of the year — the International Haircolor Exchange — was held on August 27 and 28 and featured the field's most highly recognized and renowned artists sharing the secrets to their success. All Gerald's colorists attended and returned with fabulous new ideas, new techniques and new styles for Fall 1995. Come in for a free consultation and benefit from their enhanced expertise.

Three internationally known hairstyle experts will visit Gerald's in Northville this fall to demonstrate styling and coloring techniques to Gerald's salon professionals from both the Franklin and Northville salons.

On September 10, Richard Hudovani, a colorist's colorist, will present the latest techniques in coloring and conditioning. He is unparalleled in achieving both perfect color and perfect condition. Hudovani is with Rocco Altobelli in Minneapolis and has over 100 colorists working under him.

Renowned stylist Jerry Gordon will lead a day-long seminar for Gerald's stylists on September 17. He will be presenting hair fashions for Fall 1995. In addition to his successful Chicago salon on Clark Street, he and his staff work with top photographers and models for fashion presentations, magazine covers and media advertising. His opinions on hair and fashion are frequently sought by publications such as Vogue, Harper's Bazaar and Mademoiselle. He has been a guest on radio and television, including the Oprah Winfrey Show. In 1990, American Salon Magazine named him "Salon Owner of the Year."

National haircolor artist Patrick McIvor will spend a day with Gerald's colorists on October 29 discussing and demonstrating various haircolor techniques and products. Patrick has showcased his expertise at such prestigious events as Haircolor U.S.A., International Haircolor Exchange and the Long Beach Beauty Show.

THE FACE OF FALL 1995 —

FEMININE AND HEALTHY

Femininity is triumphant this fall and it shows in every aspect of fashion...rounded contours, glamorous hairstyles, full red lips and quality skin. Theresa Worosz, head of the skin care department at Gerald's Salon in Northville states it best:

"Good health and a great appearance are closely linked. The key to healthy skin is to minimize daily stress. Every day our skin is bombarded by the environment — sun, wind, air pollutants — and it's time to fight back. An aroma therapy facial at Gerald's does just that."

The facials at Gerald's Salon combine stress relieving treatments with a skin purifying system which results in healthy, quality skin. All the treatments and products necessary for that well-groomed, feminine look so popular this Fall are available at Gerald's:

- FACIALS
- MAKE-UP CONSULTATIONS AND APPLICATIONS
- WAXING
- AVEDA PRODUCT EXPERTISE
- GLY DERM TREATMENTS AND PRODUCTS

Call (313) 420-0111 today and make an appointment for a facial and free make-up consultation. Theresa Worosz will help you achieve the face for Fall 1995 — feminine and healthy.

AVEDA CONCEPT SALON

GERALD'S ANSWER LINE

Q: My hair color looks so good when I leave the salon. However, the closer I get to touch-up time, the more my color fades. What can I do to prevent this?

A: A variety of pigmented shampoos are on the market that are very good. Our colorists can formulate your shampoo to your exact hair color formula. If you use the shampoo as directed, your color will still be rich and shiny come touch-up time.

Q: Can I have a perm and color the same day?

A: The best approach for most hair is to have your perm first and your color one week later. There are exceptions to this guideline depending on the condition of your hair and the type of color. We recommend a "hands-on" consultation with your colorist to determine what's best for you. Just remember that hair in good condition will always give better perm and color results. (Sorry this answer wasn't a definite yes or no!)

Q: How can I find out who else can handle my hair at Gerald's if my regular stylist or colorist is unavailable?

A: Good question and we're glad you asked! From the time someone joins our staff at Gerald's we talk about offering clients options when they make their appointments. If your stylist or colorist is not available at the time or on the day you need, please ask them to recommend an alternative person at Gerald's. We prepare them for this because your pleasure and total satisfaction is our first priority.

We invite and welcome questions from our readers! All questions will be answered in future newsletters or in a personal letter. Please mail your questions (including a return address) to:

Meyer Rosenbaum 1900-1991

Meyer Rosenbaum
opened the first Meyer Jewelers store in 1920 on Detroit's west side. He started this store from his savings and then financed later expansions on his own.
Mr. Rosenbaum never took a bank loan in his nearly 70-year career in the jewelry business.
An entrepreneur, leader and innovator, Meyer Rosenbaum was a pioneer in the family jewelry business. He retired just three years before his death in 1991, at age 91.

*Bridal rings are (at least) 25% off regular ticketed prices. Prior purchases, special orders, certified diamonds and previously marked down merchandise excluded from bridal sale. Jewelry in this flyer may be enlarged to show beauty of detail. All carat total weights approximate. Merchandise selections may vary by store. Prices may vary due to fluctuations in the gold and diamond markets. We reserve the right to make corrections for typographic or printing errors. Credit offer applies when you use or open a Meyer Jewelers charge account for a bridal ring purchase and is subject to credit approval. Insurance charges will be assessed during the deferral period. Minimum monthly payments, including charges for optional credit insurance, are required every month. If your purchase is paid in full by the due date shown on your 9/96 statement (for 9/95 bridal purchases) or 10/96 statement (for 10/95 bridal purchases), finance charges for that purchase will not be added to your account. If your purchase is not paid in full by the due date shown on this statement, finance charges, which have been accruing for the deferred period, will be added to the account. Important Meyer Jewelers Credit Terms: Annual percentage rate 20.4%. Minimum monthly finance charges of $50 applies. Inquiries concerning your Meyer Jewelers charge account should be directed to: Meyer Jewelers Credit Dept. P.O. Box 3189, Taylor, Michigan 48180. Regular credit terms apply to all purchases after the deferred billing/offer period. Credit offer and flyer prices valid through 10/31/95. See store for details. © 1995 Meyer Jewelers
