

Township opts for new cable system

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It has lagged behind for a few months but Northville Township may soon jump onto a very select bandwagon, one that's trekking the cutting edge of cable television technology.

Township officials are working hard to conclude a cable service franchise agreement with Ameritech New Media, Inc. That's a subsidiary of the Ameritech telephone company and the firm which earlier this year cut a deal with Northville and Plymouth City and Plymouth and Canton Townships to provide new, high-tech cable services to their residents.

Northville Township will join them in making a piece of history if the board of trustees eventually approves a contract. It will be one of the first five communities in the United States to have more than one company competing to provide cable service and the first ever to have the choice of cable TV provided by a phone company.

The trustees expressed strong support for the concept in a study session last week. They voiced some concerns about specific provisions of the proposed contract that would affect quality of service and bottom-line price to consumers but those are likely to be worked out between the two sides' attorneys, Manager Tamara Hanlin said this week.

If all goes as expected the board will hold a public hearing on Nov. 9 on a formal contract. If it gives the deal the green light township residents could begin to choose Ameritech's cable service as early as summer 1996.

Having two companies duel for cable business is a win-win situation for the township, Hanlin said.

"We see this as an opportunity to introduce competition into a market that's been a monopoly for years and bring up the level of service for residents," she said.

"We want two companies in here and having to be on their toes to provide good services," township

Schools ready try for major bond request

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville Public School Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski has two major fears when it comes to planning for the high school of the future.

With a facility that is rapidly nearing capacity for student and teacher population, and an infrastructure that, on good days, performs adequately, Rezmierski, district board members, and the community must finally wrestle with a question that will define the learning environment for Northville kids into the 21st century.

What will be the future of Northville High School?

"My two greatest fears are the high school level," Rezmierski said. "I believe the high school changes must be designed and implemented now, for the present building. The district cannot wait for the promise of a new building."

At the same time Rezmierski maintains that if the community does not come together to form a consensus for a new high school facility, his worst nightmare will take shape.

"If we cannot form that consensus, if we are not convincing enough, nothing will happen, and come fall of 1999 we'll find that there will be no bond issue, no new building, and no new technology," he said. "At that time it will

Eyesore buildings finally coming down

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The days are numbered for the 17 abandoned buildings that sit on Wayne County owned land in Northville Township.

The county commission Oct. 5 voted to allocate $200,000 in federal grant money for their demolition. A contract for the job has already been awarded, an aide to Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, said, and the job is expected to start soon.

The buildings' removal is considered the first step on a long road for the county, which eventually wants to split up and sell an 856-acre parcel located between Five Mile, Six Mile, Beck and Sheldon roads.

Once the demolition and rubble removal is complete the next step would be removing 18 underground fuel storage tanks and cleaning up suspected environmental contamination on the site.

The land has been abandoned since the Plymouth State Training School and the Wayne County Child Development Center closed down some 15 years ago.

The commission is also expected to soon consider County Executive Ed McNamara's proposal to form a special public/private group to market the land once it's cleaned up and ready to be sold to the private sector. The so-called "dream team" includes several major area developers.

A big part of their job, should the commission approve the plan, would be to work with Northville Township officials, who have the ultimate power to zone the property and approve any development layouts for it.

County officials have floated a preliminary concept proposal that includes a golf course, homes and condominiums as well as a "modest" commercial and research and development area.

Folino offers 'vision,' Johnson 'focus' for city

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

There are some important similarities between the two candidates running for Northville mayor.

Both Chris Johnson and Paul Folino believe they have what it takes to guide Northville into the next century. Both are dedicated to serving this community, and both Johnson and Folino believe Northville's best years are yet to come.

That's where the similarities end.

In a campaign that has three weeks left, Folino believes in a vision he has for the community - a vision based on the experiences he has had living and serving Northville. Johnson, meanwhile, remains focused like a laserbeam on the issues facing Northville's future.

"I think we need to realize that we cannot, at this point in time, rest on our laurels," Johnson said last week. "There are plenty of challenges facing this community, and while we've come this far, there is still plenty for us to do."

To understand where Johnson wants to lead Northville, you first have to step back a few years to a time where the city was faced with dire circumstances. When he first became mayor, Johnson inherited a financial situation that found the city on the brink of bankruptcy.

"By keeping everyone focused we found our way out of a financial crisis that would have put most businesses in bankruptcy," he said.

During that period the city man-

Record takes honors in contest

The votes are in and The Northville Record has received three awards in the 1995 Michigan Press Association's Better Newspaper contest.

Among the honors was a first-place award for editorial writing. Other awards included a third-place finish for sports column by Sports Editor Scott Daniel and an honorable mention in the special sections category for the 1994 Victorian Festival insert.

The contest period covered the dates April 1, 1994, to March 31, 1995.

The entries were judged by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Association, which reviewed almost 3,000 submissions from Michigan publications.

The Record competed in the B division (10,001 to 25,000 circulation) for weeklies.

Sister publications in the HomeTown Newspapers chain also won several awards, including The Novi News which scored a first-place finish for lifestyle reporting by Carol Workens.

The Milford Times, another HomeTown product, was named Newspaper of the Year in its class.

The Northville Record was established in 1869. It is now owned by Suburban Communications Corp.

Plaque keeps memory of youth alive

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you happened to glance up at the sky on Saturday afternoon you might have caught a glimpse of a few white balloons suspended against a backdrop of gray clouds, fall's cold gusty wind quickly carrying them up and away.

The next time you're near the Northville High School baseball field you'll know the reason why.

Over by the bleachers, on a spot that overlooks the western side of the field, sits a red sugar maple tree. A stone lies by it, a plaque on its face bearing a simple tribute to

Trustees talk budget for fiscal '96 at study session

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township will see a budget next year that's slightly larger than last year and spends more than $1 million on equipment and facility purchases and upgrades.

The township board of trustees is expected to approve the fiscal year 1996 budget tonight. By law the township must adopt its budget for FY 1996, which runs along the calendar year, by Oct. 31.

The township will spend about $4.7 million this year on general services, which includes everything but public utilities. That's up from this year's projected $4.4 million in total expenditures and last year's $4 million.

Revenues have kept pace, expected to total $4.76 million next year. The excess $72,000 will be put into the township's fund equity account, bringing it to a projected $735,000.

The board has also given conceptual approval to a series of capital outlay expenses. Some $550,000 in general services new and replacement equipment purchases and facility renovations are planned and another $630,000 is earmarked for utilities.

The three biggest projects included in that total are:

- Fixing the old and corroding sewer system line that lies near Seven Mile Road.

- Constructing a new addition to the Public Utilities headquarters building on Beck Road.

- Funding the township's share of a controversial footing drain separation project intended to eliminate reported clear water flows in the Northville Commons and Northville Colony Estates subdivisions off of Six Mile Road

HEALTH NOTE

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

ARTHRITIS AND EXERCISE

Because osteoarthritis causes joints to become stiff and painful, most arthritis sufferers have a natural tendency to minimize their activity. However, this leads to a vicious cycle of pain and inactivity, as the muscles which stabilize the joints become weaker. On the other hand, studies indicate that many people with osteoarthritis can maintain flexibility by adopting (and adhering to) a well-designed exercise program. Professional advice from a physical therapist can assure that the regimen stresses the three essential components of stretching, muscle strengthening, and endurance. The exercise program may bring on some initial pain, but as long as it is implemented gradually, the discomfort should diminish.

Physical therapists are key members of the health care team, specially trained to improve movement and function, relieve pain, and to restore or achieve optimal recovery. At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., our philosophy is to treat each patient as an individual, working together to regain movement and function. Our areas of specialty include arthritic and work related injuries as well as neurological disorders such as stroke and traumatic brain injuries. To schedule an appointment, call 349-3816, or see us at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A.

P.S. Not only can a regular exercise program help osteoarthritis sufferers maintain flexibility, but it may help restore it to some degree.

Police News

Apartment dweller reportedly robbed by repairman

A Northridge Apartments man allegedly found out the hard way that the handyman who was supposed to make his home safe robbed it instead.

The man, 27, told police that he arranged for a complex maintenance worker to fix his broken front door deadbolt lock while he was at work. When he came home, the man said, the lock was fixed but a jar of coins and a credit card were missing.

The man, a 48-year-old South Lyon resident, denied taking anything from the apartment. A computer check, however, revealed that he had been sent to prison nine times for a variety of crimes, including larceny, fraud, forgery and receiving and concealing stolen property.

The man canceled his credit card and the handyman was fired, police said. The missing coins are valued at $25.

DOMESTIC DISPUTE: A man allegedly tried to hit his wife with their own car Friday night, Northville Township police say.

The woman, 37, called police to report an argument she was having with the man, 37, whom she is divorcing. Upon hearing that the police were coming, she continued, he got into their car in the garage in order to back out and leave.

The woman told police she then began to lower the garage door. That, she claimed, prompted the man to suddenly accelerate forward and then stop the vehicle "very close" to her.

The man left the scene before police arrived but denied the woman's accusations.

DOUBLE TROUBLE: A Country Knoll Drive homeowner had two cars broken into in the same evening during the night of Oct. 3-4.

Township officers discovered someone had tampered with both the man's 1987 Honda Accord and 1995 Ford Windstar, which were parked in his driveway. The Accord suffered $200 in damages to its ignition system but nothing but a garage door opener was taken.

The man's garage door was opened during the night but nothing was stolen from there as well.

VEHICLE OVERTURNS: A 21-year-old Northville man was charged with OUI on Oct. 8, after he flipped his vehicle in the parking lot of the Wagon Wheel, 212 S. Main.

The man, who was driving a Jeep, lost control of his vehicle and rammed a 1982 Ford that was parked in the lot. The Jeep then rolled over, coming to rest on its top, according to Northville Police.

When officers arrived they discovered the man had apparently been drinking, and a Preliminary Breath Test registered .18 percent. An additional breath test was administered at the police station and registered .15 and .17 percent respectively.

The suspect was held on $100. No injuries were reported.

Citizens with information about any of the above incidents are asked to call the Northville Police Department at 349-1234 or Township Police at 349-9400.

Exchange student hopes to stay on

Axel Von Freyhold, a foreign exchange student from Mallorca, Spain, needs a Northville family to welcome him into their home for the remainder of the current school year.

Axel is a friendly, cooperative 17-year-old youth who enjoys soccer, basketball, tennis, ping pong, skateboarding and skiing. He also plays bass guitar. He does not smoke, and he likes pets. Axel speaks fluent Spanish and German, in addition to English.

Axel's current host family is unable to continue hosting him after mid-October, but they have enjoyed having Axel in their home and will be happy to give him a good reference. Axel likes Northville High School, which he attends as a junior, and does not want to be relocated to another school. But he needs a Northville host family in order to remain here.

Axel has full medical insurance and enough money to cover all his personal expenses.

The host family needs to provide a bed, meals, and parental guidance.

Axel's year in America is sponsored by Program of Academic Exchange (PAX).

For more information about hosting Axel, call Lynne Levenbach at (313) 453-8562 or (313) 453-6851.

Non-profit food booths report good sales receipts

"They all did outstanding. We're jumping for joy."

That comment, courtesy of Northville Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs, sums up the thoughts of all those involved with worthy causes at the 1995 Northville Victorian Festival.

Held last month, the Festival featured some 34 individual booths which local non-profit groups put on to raise money. All are Northville-based or Northville-serving organizations and they posted "record donations," Marrs said this week.

Exact figures aren't yet available, she said, but a straw poll survey bodes well for the final tallies.

"Everyone I talked to just couldn't be happier," Marrs said. "Everyone worked very hard and a record attendance this year helped."

Organizations merge into single entity

Michigan Senior Power Day Inc. and Michigan Senior Coalition Inc. are proud to announce that effective immediately the two organizations are operating as one. The new entity, Michigan Senior Coalition (MSC), will build on the 21-year track record of Michigan Senior Power Day in creating awareness of the impact of a rapidly-growing population of people 60 years of age and older and expand its activities beyond planning the well-known single-day event held each May in Lansing. In a break from tradition, there will be no large Senior Power Day in 1996. Instead, MSC will concentrate its resources on building the network and increasing its efforts on tracking the issues covered in the platform of issues (formerly prepared by the planners of Senior Power Day).

'Madness' in woods of Maybury Park

Maybury State Park is normally a quiet, safe place at night but not for long.

The sixth annual Haunted Forest walk, known as "Maybury Madness," will take place Oct. 27 and 28 and consist of a guided tour along a path where participants will experience harrowing Halloween encounters.

The event will provide a unique, fun activity for the youths of Northville. The Haunted Forest is sponsored by the Northville Parks and Recreation Department.

Advance ticket sales are on sale. Space is limited. Tickets are $7 and include admission to the park. All profits will be donated to Northville Parks and Recreation projects. Only those with tickets will be admitted. Any remaining tickets will be available at the gate the night of the event.

Tickets will be on sale at the Northville Parks and Recreation center, 303 W. Main Street, during normal business hours.

Groups interested in participating in the Haunted Forest may do so in a variety of ways:

- Create and operate a Haunted Forest "scene." A reimbursement of up to $50 for supplies is available.

- Volunteer at the event. Security, guides, ticket takers and refreshment servers are needed.

- Financial contribution. Used to purchase masks, makeup, costumes, equipment, printing costs.

Call the rec department at 349-0203 for information.

Center seeks donations for upcoming season

The Information Center is calling upon its friends in the community to give people in need a "hand-up" during the coming holiday season. Last year, hundreds of individuals and corporate donors made it possible to assist 1,087 needy individuals during the holiday season. The center's Holiday Donation Program used the money to purchase food, winter clothes, prescriptions, toys and gift certificates.

There are a number of ways individuals can help make a difference in the lives of others. Anyone interested in participating should call the Information Center at (313) 282-7171.

Mill Race Matters

Mill race Village has three Sundays remaining in its summer/fall schedule. Village buildings are open on Sunday afternoon from 1 until 4 p.m. Docents are needed to finish off the season. Contact 348-1845 to volunteer to work one of the remaining Sundays. Fall provides a particularly lovely time to view the village garbed in its colorful autumn splendor.

The Village grounds located on Griswold north of Main can be toured during daylight hours, but the building interiors can only be viewed on Sunday afternoon. Another special opportunity for viewing all of the building interiors will take place on Saturday, Nov. 18, and Sunday, Nov. 19, during the Village's annual Christmas Walk.

Northville Mothers Club life members have secured decorators for some of the buildings. On those days only admission to the Village will be $1 per person when Mill Race will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

On Oct. 15 Karen Jania technical library assistant at Bentley Historical Library will talk about "Strategies in Doing Genealogical Research" at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting at the library.

The Historical Society thanks Michael and Sue Freedland for their new contributing membership. Thanks also go to Betty Omar, Rita Turnbull, Diane Rockall, Julie Fountain, and Sonia Swigart for filling in the Society's office which once more has a vacancy. Thanks also to Cheryl Gazlay who is bridging the gap by returning to handle bookkeeping and computer record keeping.

The office is staffed Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. The responsibilities of office manager include scheduling, acting as board recording secretary, bookkeeping, answering telephone queries, and keeping the organization on an even keel. Those interested should apply to President Carolyn Stuart, care of the Northville Historical Society, P.O. Box 71, Northville, MI 48167. Resumes can also be left with office substitutes during the 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. hours.

The Northville Historical Society hired its first paid office manager in 1986 when Sally Henrikson agreed to take the job. Sally remained with it, altering the position's shape and focus for eight years. She was replaced in the spring of 1994 by Renee Brown who was forced to leave after a very short stay due to illness.

Cheryl Gazlay became the Society's third office manager in the fall of 1994. She left to pursue a full-time teaching position this fall. Barbara Dingwall stepped in briefly, but decided the job was not for her so once again an office manager is being sought.

The community has many significant and interesting items from its past. This author would be interested in hearing what others might like to see appear. Contact 349-9005 with your suggestions.

— Diane M. Rockall

New community program offers parenting help

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Joe and Sue Smith could be considered your typical 1990s parents.

They both work - Joe is an engineer for an automobile company, and Sue for a local accounting firm - and at the same time they have the responsibility of raising two children, who attend a local middle school.

They all live in a big home with a huge mortgage, and even with both incomes times have become tight. At the same time, the couple begin experiencing some of the common problems parents face with growing children. They start small at first, but with Joe working overtime and Sue trying to juggle her schedule, communication begins to break down.

Before you know it, the small problems with the children have become big ones, and the couple becomes overwhelmed. Where do they go for help?

Well, if Joe and Sue Smith live in Northville they could take advantage of a brand new parenting assistance program, coordinated by Northville Civic Concern and the Northville First United Methodist Church.

The program, which was created by the Community Commission On Drug Abuse (CCODA) prevention network and piloted by the Family Resource Center in Westland, will help parents with problem solving skills and will act as a referral service for couples having parenting problems, according to CCODA representative Jacques Martin-Downs.

"A lot of times all people need is someone who will listen. Someone who doesn't have a vested interest," Downs said. "Sometimes all it takes is just allowing a parent to layout the problem and take the time to look at it. Just being able to talk can be a tremendous help."

The program will initially run for three one-hour appointments - from 9 a.m. until noon - on Tuesdays, according to Downs. The First United Methodist Church will donate the office space, and Civic Concern will handle appointment booking.

"Both organizations came forward and are very enthusiastic about the program, and they have been very accommodating," Downs said.

All consultations will be confidential, Downs added. If additional appointments become necessary, the program could be expanded to a second day.

"We, of course, want people to use this service, and if we need to expand it, we will take the necessary steps to do that," she said.

To schedule an appointment contact Civic Concern at 344-1033.

Eight Mile construction in full swing

The Wayne County Department of Public Services announced this week that road construction at Eight Mile and Center Street is ahead of schedule.

According to John Roach, public information manager, the road work could be completed by Nov. 15, or possibly earlier.

"The project was initially scheduled for 45 working days, but it looks like it's somewhat ahead of schedule," Roach said.

"We're looking at mid-November, but the project could be completed a little earlier."

Governments get protection from lawsuits under new law

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Local governments no longer will be "deep pockets" for lawsuits under a Republican tort reform law signed by Gov. John Engler.

Warmest in praise of the measure was state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, a former township clerk.

"There have been instances in Canton Township where tragic accidents have occurred, clearly at the fault of the plaintiff," Bennett said after the Sept. 28 vote. "But if the plaintiff is able to prove the township even 1-percent at fault, it opens a conduit for the plaintiff's family to sue for tens of thousands of dollars - or more - all at taxpayer expense."

Over Democratic protests, the Senate pulled House Bill 4508 out of the Judiciary Committee, fought off a series of Democratic amendments, then passed it on nearly a party-line vote, 20-18. Voting against it were two Republicans, David Honigman of West Bloomfield and Jon Clisky of Saginaw, and all 16 Democrats.

The new law, which takes effect April 1, 1996, will:

- Block "jury shopping" by requiring civil lawsuits to be filed in the county where the damage occurred. This is likely to block the flow of suits into Wayne County, where juries are allegedly more generous to those who sue.

- Deny non-economic (pain and suffering) damages to plaintiffs who are more than 50 percent at fault for their own injuries. This section most pleased Bennett and the bill's sponsor, Rep. Michael Nye, R-Litchfield.

- Abolish "joint and several liability," where a defendant who was only partly at fault can be required to pay 100 percent of the award if a second defendant is broke or lacks insurance. (An exception: medical malpractice, where "J & S" was retained.)

Business and government groups hailed the new law. Trial lawyers and labor deplored it.

One of the most vocal objectors was freshman Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield Township, whose district includes Pontiac and Southfield and contains one of the state's biggest concentrations of lawyers.

But Peters' amendment to restore "J & S" liability in cases involving wrongful death was defeated on a 19-19 tie vote. Honigman and two other Republicans joined Democrats in support.

Cafes resurrect tradition even as they leap into cyberage

I have never met Mark Dzicielewski. The only personal thing I know about him is his e-mail address - markdz@casynet.co.uk.

But when Charles Marshall, co-owner of Caffe Bravo, jumped on the Internet last week to bring up information on cyber cafes, Mark immediately provided us with a ton.

The reason I'm interested is that Caffe Bravo will soon change from a "traditional" coffee house to a cyber cafe. Hey, come to think of it, coffee and netsurfing represent two of my top ten favorite pastimes.

But I digress. Let's get back to our Internet pal, and the volume of information he provided me.

Dzicielewski, I learned, has been following the growing popularity of cyber cafes for some time now. He's compiled a list of all the establishments around the world and seems to know anything you could ever ask about the new cyber phenomenon.

We began our "cyber research" with a history lesson.

"(Traditional) cafes became popular at the start of the 20th century in Vienna, Paris and Berlin," Dzicielewski explained. "They were places for people to meet their friends, read the newspapers, discuss the important events of the day, and to read and answer their (snail mail) correspondence."

Artists, intellectuals and revolutionaries such as Picasso or Sartre used to publish their manifestoes from their favorite cafes, Dzicielewski added.

Today, the cafe culture has spread to all parts of the world, and with millions of people communicating with their friends and co-workers by computer - from their offices, or from the privacy of their own

NORTHVILLE TALK OF THE WEEK

By Robert Jackson

homes - the cafe has evolved to meet the needs of the information age.

Dzicielewski explained that artists, musicians, video makers, and yes even journalists, are waking up to the potential of multimedia computing, and with the growing popularity it is a natural to combine the computer connectivity with a public place "that serves a decent cup of coffee - or tea."

That, my networking friends, is what a cyber cafe is all about.

At last count Dzicielewski lists 17 cyber cafes in the United Kingdom; 30 cafes in Europe, 36 in the United States; 10 in Canada; and 13 in Asia, Australia and Africa.

That's not all. As of Friday Dzicielewski listed 26 cafes that will be opening soon, with another five or six "rumored to be opening" in the future.

The categories are quite broad, but I think that a real physical location that is open to the public and serves coffee or other food and drink, and has computers, are the minimum requirements for a cyber cafe," Dzicielewski said.

"Cyber cafes are even becoming the subjects of university dissertations for degrees, and projects for architecture and design students."

Oh, by the way, Caffe Bravo plans to "go cyber" next week.

Sort of makes you want to "link up with a latte," doesn't it?

OKAY CYBER COFFEE CONNOISSEURS time to uplink to that novelty network we call Talk of the Week. This week we open the cosmic doors to reveal some surprising - OK, maybe not surprising, but certainly revealing - facts and tidbits from the four corners of Northville (hey, are there four corners in Northville?).

Included in our coffee table talk will be some extremely bright students, the mother of all garage sales, and some comments from the set of a soon to be released video, produced by the Northville School District.

Not included in this week's java journey is anything to do with Halloween (it's still too early, although I do want to mention that Tyler Condon, the son of Novi staffer Sharon Condon, wants to dress up as a rattlesnake), nor will I mention the outcome of last Saturday's Michigan-Northwestern matchup (I just get sick thinking about it).

So, snatch that favorite sweater from the closet, it's time to bundle up with that special something we call Talk of the Week.

Which reminds me, Happy Birthday green eyes?

GARAGE SALE SUCCESS: Got a message from Charlie Stillec the other day regarding the Northville Early Bird Kiwanis group's garage sale conducted two weeks ago. Stillec reports that the group was able to raise about $900, which is a pretty big deal for the community - especially the youths who will benefit from the proceeds.

The Early Bird group's motto of "Youth

Priority No. 1," reflects the type of service we should all aspire to.

Great work Kiwanians, thanks for the effort!

SOME AWFULLY SMART STUDENTS: Dr. Tom Johnson, Northville High School Principal, invited me to breakfast yesterday to meet some of the best and brightest students at N.H.S. The breakfast was to honor 15 students who were named National Merit Commended Students and National Merit Semifinalists for 1996, and I'm proud to list them in Talk of the Week.

National Merit Semi-Finalists - Michael Clancy, Meredith Kremer, John McMahon, and Andrew Song.

These students, along with many of their peers, reflect all of the positive things happening within the high school and the school district. Congratulations!

LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION: Bob Sornson, Executive Director of Special Education for the Northville School District, premiered a video produced by the school district that will be helpful to parents facing special education testing for the first time. The video, created with help from Madonna University, stars several district volunteers - Joe Blake, Lori Dow, Mary Menghini, Patty Dow, Kate Devondorf, Patti Oliverio, Jan Wolyniak, Kathy Morhaus, and Bruce Tabashneck. Look in next week's Northville Record for a feature story on the video.

TALK SOUP: Randy Coble, he of Harley fame, has created yet another nickname for this column. "Whenever I think of Talk of the Week, I think of Talk Soup," he remarked a few minutes ago.

His comment, along with others the past few weeks, have me wondering. When people stop me on the street to comment on the column they refer to it in a variety of ways - Talk of the Town, Northville Town Talk, and my personal favorite, Toast of the Town (don't even ask me how someone got that name).

Considering the apparent mixups, perhaps I should let all of you decide what this column's name should be. It's just a thought, but if you've got a name I should consider, give me a ring at 349-1700.

A FINAL NOTE: Speaking of Randy and his Harley, I unfortunately have to be the bearer of bad news.

Despite his fiancée, Carolyn's, purchase of five tickets in the New Boston Rotary Club raffle, our wanna-be cycle rider didn't win either of the two Harley-Davidsons that were offered as the top prizes.

The drawing was held Sunday but Randy didn't learn the results until Tuesday.

Carolyn's phone - of all the times! - broke down over the weekend, leaving our township reporter sitting on pins and needles, hoping against hope that he'd won and the New Boston folks just hadn't been able to call with the news.

Thanks anyway to Roxanne at the Northville Chamber of Commerce for alerting Randy to the raffle. Keep those suggestions coming. We've got to get this man on a hog!

Woolly Bully's agrees to settle noise controversy

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials and Woolly Bully's have agreed to resolve alleged noise violations but the Seven Mile eatery will still find itself in court soon.

The so called "American Rock 'n' Roll restaurant" has caught flak from the township board of trustees and police department in recent weeks. They say a weekly Wednesday night gathering of classic cars in the diner's parking lot violates township noise and zoning ordinances.

Woolly Bully's owner Mark Roman has denied those allegations but has agreed to institute measures "to avoid any potential future problems."

Those include: keeping loudspeakers set up for the events on the eatery's patio area; maintaining their volume at a level mutually acceptable to Woolly Bully's and the township; and petitioning the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) for a permit to hold the gatherings.

Township police this week, however, said they will follow through on a noise complaint filed by a woman who lives near the restaurant. She has complained repeatedly to Roman and the police about the Wednesday events. Detective John Werth said, and several officers have noted "excessive noise" themselves.

On Sept. 28, for example, noise from the gathering could be heard 100 yards away, Werth said. That was part of the reason the complaint will be followed through on, he said.

"Mr. Roman has helped us to correct the problem but it's been one he's had for a year. He's taken care of this so that no further problems come but we have a valid complaint here and we have a responsibility to act on it."

Werth on Tuesday said that officials from the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office have agreed to issue a three-count misdemeanor warrant against Woolly Bully's. It will allege violations of three sections of the noise abatement ordinance, which prohibits any activity "which shall be so loud, noisy, boisterous or offensive in nature as to endanger the safety, health comfort or repose of the public."

The ordinance specifically cites noise from automobiles, loud speakers and gatherings, the three counts in the warrant. Werth said he plans to contact Roman and arrange for 35th District Court proceedings as soon he receives the paperwork from the prosecutor's office.

The eatery or Roman himself could face a $500 fine if convicted.

Roman had not heard of the warrant on Monday afternoon and The Northville Record was unable to contact him again before press time. At that time, however, he said that "I believe this has all been handled."

"The police came out this past Wednesday (Oct. 4) and said it was great. No problems," Roman said. He confirmed that Woolly Bully's has submitted the special use permit petition to the ZBA but said that he has not yet been notified of when it will be brought before the panel.

Township police also took exception to Roman's comments in a Sept. 28 Northville Record article in which he stated that no one from Northville Township had discussed the noise and zoning concerns with him.

"I don't know how he can say that. We've had several contacts with him," Werth said. "Our Director of Public Safety (Chip Snider) even spoke to him twice about this."

BACKWARD GLANCE

... at
by Randy Coble

We're in for a six-decade trek through time this week, a slice of Northville life from October 1935. After that it's a look at your Northville memories.

THE BIG PICTURE: That October were four weeks the world would not soon forget. Nazi Germany adopted the infamous Nuremberg laws. Mao Zedong completed The Long March. Gangster Dutch Schultz's life ended in a hail of bullets as did that of Louisiana legend Sen. Huey Long. Bruno Hauptmann, the convicted kidnapper of Charles Lindbergh's infant son, waited for the electric chair and the Detroit Tigers became baseball's world champions.

THE REAL STORY: The October 11, 1935, issue of The Northville Record is remarkable for what's not in it, news, and that's what truly tells the tale of the time.

Taking its place are legal ads, page after page of them, filling the space all the way to the end of the issue. Every last one bears a simple title, "MORTGAGE SALE."

They are littered with names, monikers like Milfred Brown and Joseph Grepel and Costas Anastos. The Great Depression which gripped America strangled these Northville people, costing hearth and home.

Need more proof? Check out the front page of the Oct. 18 edition. It noted that President Franklin Roosevelt's new Works Projects Administration (WPA) received more than 33,000 local letters from those needing a job.

ON THE UP SIDE: Not everything in Northville was going wrong, though. Local farmers were expecting bumper crops and area churches pooled their efforts to open up a community "leadership training school" of religious instruction for clergy and lay people alike.

Henry Ford himself paid a visit to Northville, getting a gander at his Main Street plant. Record writers described the under-construction facility as being "built along modern Ford lines and embodying the very latest in design."

Charles Rogers enthralled the Rotary Club luncheon with tales of a recent trip to Egypt, including his look-see at the loot of King Tut.

That couldn't compare, though, to the "freak stalk of corn" belonging to farmer E.C. Dickinson that Record reporters got to see. They described it as having "four ears, all on one side and as close together as possible."

AND IN SPORTS: A bicycle polo match between the Main Street Whozits and the Center Street Whatzits was ruled a draw after the scorekeeper, who doubled as the water boy, lost the game sheet with the goal tallies.

A LITTLE MUCH: Remember Carter's Little Liver Pills, the stuff that Mom made you take to be "regular?" News flash: that's not its only benefit, as a Record ad informed readers.

"If your breath has a smell you can't feel well," the ad proclaims, noting that Carter's can squash the embarrassing faux pas which regular irregularity can cause.

"When we eat too much our food decays in our bowels," it explains. "Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath."

YOUR MEMORIES: I've been very pleasantly surprised at the responses I've gotten to my column in last week's issue. In case you missed it, I recounted some of the ways I've seen this town change in the 15 years I've lived here and invited Record readers to do the same.

A bunch of folks have graciously taken the time to call me this week, many of them Northville natives and some putting me on to other longtime residents I now plan to call.

The response was so great that I'm spacing all the information out over the next several Backward Glances so don't worry if you don't see your Northville memory this time around.

Thanks again to everyone who called and don't forget that everyone's welcome to ring me up at 349-1700. Now let's head straight for memory lane.

One person led the pack in both quickness and quantity this week, so I'll devote the rest of this space to her.

I'll bet it wasn't noon on Thursday before Jane Hammond Leford gave me a jingle and a very enjoyable half hour tour of a town long since gone.

Jane is Northville to her bones. She was born in Sessions Hospital, or what is now Star Manor. While we don't want to give her age away, of course, for a frame of reference let's just say she went to high school after Korea and before the moon landing.

Northville was different back then, Jane told me. Outside of town "it was all just farms. We could hunt squirrel on Center Street."

Downtown had a whole different face, too. The original Guernsey Dairy was located across the street from the bowling alley that used to be where Main-Centre now stands. Another alley was located just across the street in a pool hall that now plays host to a travel agency.

Gunzel's Drug Store, located where the Williamsburg shop is now, boasted top notch soda fountain treats. Jane's favorite: the "mello-roll," which was something like a Drumstick, an ice cream cone rolled up in paper.

The five and dime store that in my time was where the Great Harvest Bread Company currently stands used to be located where Morrison's is now, Jane said.

It was a place where she bought fresh peanuts as a kid and scraped her knee on the mechanical horse machine.

The site of Joseph's Coney Island was a hotel/restaurant called John the Greek's. Next door was the Cottage Inn, a little restaurant that served really good food.

MacKinnon's was the site of the Old Mill restaurant, which moved where Main Street Hair Design is today.

That spot, by the way, once played host to a teenage jukebox joint.

A car dealership and a beauty shop stood on the MAGS property. MAGS itself I learned, was originally a two story shopping mall built in the mid 60s that closed down due to poor sales.

Jane had a lot more to say about this hometown of hers. More of her and other Northville memories next week.

Oakland anglers take honors

Oakland County anglers, including one from the local area, reeled in honors for the Oakland County Parks annual fishing contest.

The Independence Oaks County Park's Crooked Lake and Addison Oaks County Park's Buhl Lake were the sites of the Memorial Day to Labor Day contest. Anglers registered their catch with parks staff. The biggest "catches" were determined by multiplying the fish's length by its weight.

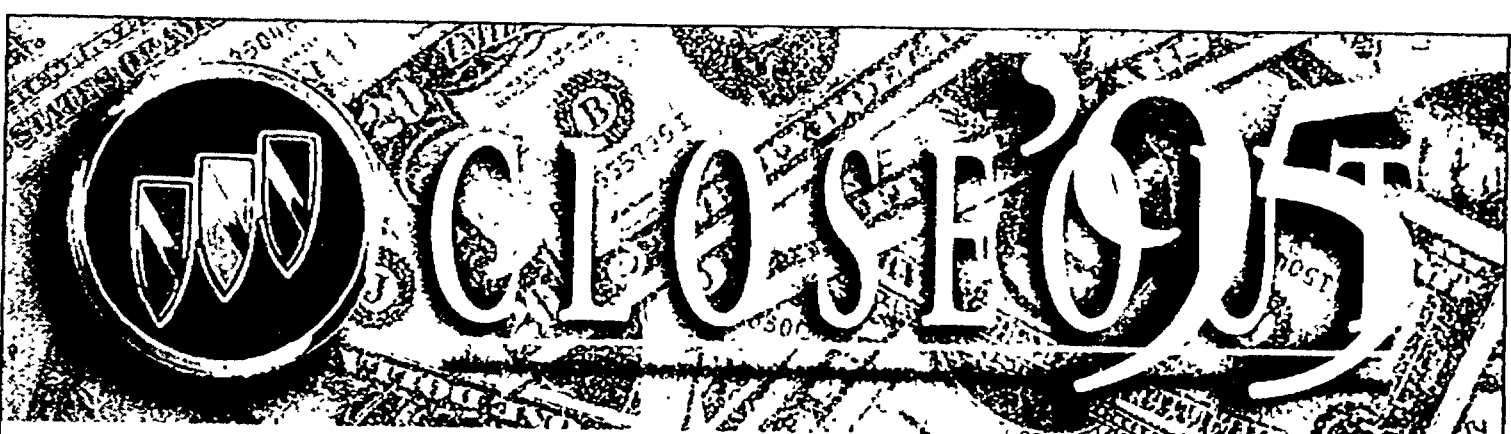

Winners at Addison Oaks were: Randy Robinson from Pontiac, northern pike (31.5 inches, 5 pounds, 14 ounces); David Kolodziej from Warren, bass (22 inches, 4 pounds, 8 ounces); and Ben Swiderski from Madison Heights, blue gill (19 inches, 8 ounces).

Winners at Independence Oaks were: Janet Nurmi from Northville, northern pike (32 inches, 6 pounds, 8 ounces); Rocky Castro III from Pontiac, perch (11 inches, 8 ounces); Donna Munger from Clarkston, rock bass (10.5 inches, 12 ounces); Fred Munger from Clarkston, large mouth bass (20.5 inches, 4 pounds, 10 ounces); and Robert Kleine from Waterford, bluegill (10 inches, 11 ounces).

aged to successfully redevelop the downtown area by attracting quality businesses. They also lured a quality enterprise into the Ford Valve Plant, and in the process benefited further by receiving a quality park and additional land to allow expansion.

"We were able to do all of this during the worst financial crisis in this city's history," Johnson said.

The city has found its way out of its deficit situation as well. This year was the first time in about six years that the city had a positive fund balance at the end of the fiscal year. A recent audit found the city's financial health greatly improved.

Folino, who has served 20 plus years on the city council, played a part in the recovery as well. He maintains there are still plenty of challenges to be met, and would like to continue to take an active part in the growth of Northville.

"I would like to lead Northville into the next century in a proactive way - not reactive," Folino said. "I love Northville and I enjoy working with the people of this community."

"By running for mayor I can continue to take part in the positive changes we've seen lately in Northville," he added. "I'd also like

"From the time I became mayor I focused on making Northville a better place."

Mayor Chris Johnson

Councilman Paul Folino

to lead a council that had plenty of ideas and worked towards building a consensus."

Folino also said that because he is retired, he would have more time and energy to devote to city business.

"I've seen this community grow, and I believe there's room for change and additional growth," he said. "I have a vision of what Northville could be, and I believe that I'm five years ahead of everybody as far as vision is concerned."

For Johnson, the differences between himself and Folino are clear.

"First of all, I deal with the reality of what we have to accomplish and my strong suit is being able to remain focused on the big picture," he said. "From the time I became mayor I focused on making Northville a better place to live. Not only for us, but for our kids."

Candidates to clash at forum

The event is set for 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 23, at Northville City Hall. Invited to attend are the candidates for mayor, incumbent Chris Johnson and longtime councilman Paul Folino.

Also expected to appear are the three candidates for city council: incumbent Mayor Pro-tem Carolann Ayers, and challengers Roxanne Casterline and Tom Swigart.

Only one of the three hopefuls will gain a seat on the Northville City Council.

be obvious that we are in trouble with not enough building space and we'll have to rely on portables. Then what do we do?"

It's not like the district, and the community, has a lot of time to debate the subject. With enrollment projections showing a sharp increase in student population, the high school could find itself beyond capacity within the next two years.

"We, as a district and a community, have to act now," Rezmierski said. "We need to put all of our ideas and differences on the table if we are going to make a difference in educating our kids."

Board members also want the discussion on the table. They recently hired the architectural firm of Fanning and Howie, which has plenty of experience designing and building schools. The district is also looking to bring aboard a facilitator and planning specialist Dr. William DeJong to help the district and community build a consensus as to the future of Northville High School.

The board will conduct a special meeting Monday, Oct. 16, to decide timing and implementation issues in hiring DeJong.

The district has already spent years wrestling with the future of the district, more specifically the high school. Countless hours of work from the district's citizen committees for bond, enhancement millage and technology, have already provided recommendations to the school board.

Group members spent nights and weekends sweating over data

and constructing plans of action for the district.

"This is the biggest issue we've ever had," Rezmierski said. "We need to see this through. We can't just keep discussing the issues. We need to act, and there needs to be a consensus."

The citizen bond committee reported that overcrowded hallways and classrooms and an aging infrastructure warranted a bond request for about $50 million - the largest ticket item the board has considered in the district's long history.

Included in the committee's final report was the recommendation to bond for $42 million for a new high school, $2 million to convert the existing high school into a middle school, $1.2 million to build an addition onto Silver Springs Elementary, $5.5 million for infrastructure repairs and $2.8 million for technology upgrades.

The proposed new high school building - recommended to be located on a 50-acre plot of land the district owns at Six Mile Road between Beck and Sheldon - and the converted middle school and elementary addition will house a projected 24 percent increase in students over the next six years.

Under the plan, Northville would operate with two middle schools, the current Meads Mill and the converted high school. District boundary lines would have to be redrawn to determine where students would be sent.

Teachers say NHS just too small

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

From the outside, Northville High School seems like a great facility that fosters accelerated learning.

It sits on a hill, overlooking Northville, amidst trees and foliage. At first glance it seems spacious, large enough to accommodate the hundreds of students who spend nine months of every year inside the building studying and learning.

Then you walk through the doors.

The hallways are cramped - students crush each other as they hurry from one class to another - and the classrooms are so small that sometimes students have to sit in chairs with no desks.

The students have to share lockers that are about 10 inches wide, 12 inches deep, and five feet tall, and in the late spring and early summer students and teachers literally sweat through the day because temperatures in some classrooms reach about 90 degrees.

An adequate learning environment for kids? Not if you ask some of the teachers who spend their days preparing students for the future.

"Ultimately the curriculum and student programs suffer when you have to squeeze more students and teachers into an already cramped space," said George Aune, an Northville High School social sciences teacher, who has logged 18 years at the high school.

"At that point you are forced to make adjustments and do the best that you can with the situation."

The clock is ticking for the district and community. If they cannot reach a consensus on the high school's future - whether to build a new, larger facility, or make do with the current building with additional renovations - Northville could face the possibility of having to use portable classrooms.

That reality could hit home within the next two years, when large classes of students in the district's middle schools end up at the high school already at capacity.

NHS social science teacher

my greatest fears," said Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. "We would not be providing a great learning environment, and we would definitely be in trouble."

NHS teachers agree.

"We've had bond issues that have passed to renovate this facility," Aune said. "But what we're faced with now is extremely crowded conditions."

"At sometime within the past few years, we've even had classrooms that didn't have a working public address system," he added.

The high school opened in 1959, and the district renovated the facility in the mid-1980s after voters approved a $9 million bond.

Doug Dent, who teaches humanities and social studies, has spent about 20 years at the high school. He has worked with the student congress to free up some "open air" space, and encourages students to walk outside the building as they go from one class to another.

French teacher Elaine Prestel said that an aging infrastructure has also posed a problem for teachers and students.

"The heating and cooling systems don't work the best and kids are always going from cold to hot rooms," she said. Prestel added that she was concerned that teachers would lose their classrooms during prep periods.

Other teachers cited problems with parking, leaking roofs, and cramped classrooms.

"In memory of Andy Smojver, 1975-1995, Class of '93."

He was just 19 years old, killed in a car accident in May. Not all of Andy is gone, though. He left something with those who knew him, a piece of himself that's survived in them despite his death. Maybe that's what brought more than 50 of his friends and relatives to that maple tree on a chilly Oct. 7 afternoon: to remember who Andy was and what he meant - and still means - to all of them.

"Andy is still with us, even though he's not here physically," Fr. John Kasza said. "With this tree he lives again in our hearts and minds."

It stands about 12 feet tall, overlooking the field where Andy and his brothers played many a game for the Mustangs. That was the place where Andy Genitti got to know him.

"He was a good kid and a good friend to a lot of people," Genitti said as Smojver's black and orange varsity jacket, hung from a branch, swayed in the breeze.

"Now anyone who plays on the diamond will be his friend, too."

Others remembered Andy, too, all those little things that stay with you over the years, memories of good times that time cannot steal.

Janet Collins won't ever forget how Andy, her son's friend, would always drink out of a vase at her house, never a glass. Maybe that's why "he was like my son," she said.

Some wanted their thoughts kept private, so they wrote messages to Andy on slips of paper attached to the balloons. Those assembled watched silently, a tear here and there, while they waited away as a lone trumpet played a sad, sweet song that embodied both the pain of loss and the healing of hope.

"It's hard to be a kid again now," Andy's brother George said. "You sort of can't go home anymore after something like this."

"We're crying for ourselves," Olga James, Andy's boss at Northville, Downs, said. "We know that Andy's in a better place."

Districts win suit against state but see no windfall

& ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writers

After 15 years, a lawsuit by the Northville School District and 81 other school districts against the state is nearing an end that may cost the Michigan treasury as much as $500 million.

While that may seem like good news to the district, Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski isn't putting much stock in it.

Gov. John Engler is sending the case to the state Supreme Court. Should the high court decide in favor of the schools - or not agree to hear the case at all - the result could be a major budget buster for the state. The case's price tag amounts to one-16th of the state's general fund budget, but Engler put an offer on the table that would settle it for 10 cents on the dollar - or $45 million.

Many districts like Northville rejected the offer.

"The case is that the state Supreme Court said that the state was wrong, and that money is owed to us," said Northville Public School Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. "However, the reality of the situation is that we'll be extremely lucky to get a nickel or dime on the dollar."

Should the ruling favor the districts, Northville could stand to gain approximately $5 million.

The state Supreme Court ruled in 1986 that school districts could challenge the 1978 Headlee Amendment to the Michigan constitution, which mandated school districts offer special education and other services. Under the amendment, the districts argued, the state must pay for the services.

But under three governors, the Legislature has "recaptured" some of that money from 84 of what were considered the wealthier districts.

The schools filed suit in 1980 in the Court of Appeals. The case - sometimes called "Durant" for taxpayer Donald Durant, sometimes called "Fitzgerald" for the Macomb County school district that started it - has bounced up and down the judicial system like a yo-yo. Attorney Dennis Pollard of Birmingham handled much of the plaintiff's work.

The Northville School District joined the suit in the late 1980s, according to Rezmierski.

"We joined the case about mid stream and I'm glad we did," he said. "Those districts that didn't sign on will not receive any of the monies from the settlement."

Rezmierski said that if the districts were to receive the full settlement, the state would definitely feel the "pinch." He added, however, that a full settlement would be unlikely.

"There are so many questions to be answered, and there are other forces at work here," he said. "With the Musselman case - having to do with state funded retirement - nearing oral hearings there's more to be considered."

"With all of the questions out there, I'm not overly optimistic about this district getting a windfall," Rezmierski added.

Last month a Court of Appeals panel, headed by Chief Judge Martin Doctoroff of Birmingham, had the next-to-final word: It accepted the report of its appointed "special master," retired Wayne County Circuit Judge James Mies of Plymouth, on how much state money should be forthcoming.

"It was a big accounting project," said Mies, who worked from February of 1994 to June of 1995 on the case. The tally: $492 million.

So now it's up to Engler's

Department of Management and Budget and state Treasurer Doug Roberts to show, if they can, "that these actual costs were not necessary costs ..."

In the year voters adopted the Headlee Amendment, state government paid 29 percent of special education costs, Mies' report said. It paid 70 percent of transportation for special education students, 42 percent of driver education, 6 percent of school lunch costs, and 60 percent of bilingual instruction.

A key question was whether special education was a state or federal mandate. The Court of Appeals said, in 1990, that the state mandate was stronger.

The Court of Appeals said the state had to pay for bilingual schooling if, in the 1978-9 base year, the district enrolled 20 or more children of limited English-speaking ability. That let the state off the hook with some districts which offered bilingual instruction voluntarily.

When the case was filed in 1980, the Court of Appeals told the schools to seek an administrative remedy. The Supreme Court promptly reversed that decision, saying the case belonged in the Court of Appeals.

Phone company says new area codes on the way

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Technology helps open up worlds of possibilities but it can also lead to maddening complications. Southeast Michigan residents will find out just how confusing it can be to use the telephone when two new area codes go into effect in 1997 and 1998.

"Explosive growth in the use of additional phone lines, cellular phones, fax machines, modems and pagers is rapidly depleting the number of exchanges in the 313 and 810 area codes," Ameritech Vice President Harry Semerjian said in announcing his company's decision to further carve up existing regions.

"We are starting the process early so customers have ample time to prepare."

The 810 area code was introduced two years ago and was phased in during an overlap period that ended in August 1994.

But that wasn't enough, the phone company says, and still more numbers are needed to accommodate the proliferation of new telecommunications devices.

"Exchanges for the 810 area code will run out by mid-1997 and for the 313 area code by 1998," according to company literature.

Ameritech says it hasn't yet decided on the boundaries for the new codes. As happened during the formation of the 810 area code, a citizens committee will be appointed to gather input and make recommendations.

The company says the additional area codes will involve no rate increases.

What was a local call before will be a local call after, representatives maintain.

The company reports spending about $7 million to implement the 810 area code, but says it attempted to recover none of that expense through higher charges.

The citizens committee will recommend the geographic boundaries for the additional codes. The committee will consist of representatives of the city of Detroit, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, and Wayne, Oakland and Genesee counties.

Ameritech plans to get the procedure moving soon, saying the committee will probably draw up the boundaries by early spring of next year.

A 6-month optional dialing period is envisioned with the new codes.

Customers with questions can call (1-800) 831-8989.

Township wants in on new cable TV system

attorney Jim Tamm said.

Before that happens, however, Ameritech under federal law must gain the board's approval. Before they're ready to give it, however, the trustees asked Tamm and Ameritech lawyer Stephen Wells to hammer out the details of a few key points of the contract.

A top priority, everyone agreed, is quality of service, particularly in responding to complaints and problems.

"Your cable goes out and you're working with these bureaucrats and you get so frustrated that you just want to give up," Trustee Mark Abbo said, summing up the feelings many cable customers have when they report a problem or loss of service.

"There will be quality assurance issues addressed in the contract," Hanlin said.

Ameritech's existing four-community deal includes provisions to do just that, such as a required 12-hour response time and the scheduling of service calls within four hours of the report of a problem.

Another key provision is that the cable companies, in accordance with federal law, provide money to set up live broadcasts of township government meetings, including those of the board of trustees, planning commission and Zoning Board of Appeals.

A fly in the ointment is that the new deal will mean headaches for township cable customers in coming months as both Ameritech and current provider Omnicom tear up ground to lay cable.

The Ameritech system will be a new branch of cable television technology, offering everything from entertainment to interactivity to shopping and banking by TV. Once the system goes 100 percent fiber optic/digital in the next few years, Wells said, the world will never be the same.

"Once that happens that (converter) box and your TV remote will be your access to the information superhighway," he said.

A recently concluded deal brings the Disney Corp. in as Ameritech's cable TV programmer, Wells said, adding that the Disney Channel will be included in the basic cable package offered to township customers.

Wells praised Ameritech's product before the board and was none too subtle about his opinion of Omnicom.

"With our system and their programming choices we feel we're unbeatable," he said, "and the other cable companies must be agreeing. Our showing up has caused them to have a change of heart and try to get on the stick."

Omnicom officials did not return phone calls to The Northville Record.

Wells fails to show in court

Roberson. It marked the third date that Wells, 25, has missed.

Roberson on Oct. 4 issued a warrant for his arrest. If convicted of failing to appear for a scheduled court proceeding Wells could face up to 90 days in jail and a $500 fine.

The Detroit resident pled guilty to one count of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in connection with a Feb. 8 attack on the woman, 23. That is a felony in Michigan with a maximum penalty of up to 10 years.

Wells failed to appear for sentencing hearings on Sept. 14 and 21. At the second one his attorney reportedly told Roberson that Wells was in the hospital suffering from an unspecified medical problem.

The victim said that Wells systematically beat, burned and abused her for nine hours after discovering what he thought was evidence of her seeing another man. The culmination of her ordeal came when Wells heated up a pair of scissors and used the blades to burn his tattooed name from her genitalia.

He initially faced three felony charges of first degree criminal sexual conduct, each of which carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. Those counts were dropped as part of a plea bargain.

"Northville," a framed, original watercolor painting by Northville artist Henry Caroselli, was presented to the city at the Northville City Council meeting Oct. 2.

The original painting, a European city scene, was the subject of the Art Market '95 poster.

"This is the first of the works we hope to present to the city," said Sharon Rossow, chairperson of the Northville Arts Commission, the organization that sponsored the Art Market and commissioned the piece.

"Each year we plan to commission an artist, purchase original work and reproduce the work in a high quality poster which is suitable for framing," she added.

The proceeds of the poster sale will benefit the city of Northville by providing art in public places.

The commission also plans to present a framed poster to the Northville District Library.

Rossow says people might want to start a collection of the commemorative posters or give them as holiday gifts. Copies of the posters are still available through the Northville Arts Commission.

The cost is $10 each, or $12 if a mail tube is required.

Call the commission hotline at 349-6104 or visit Art Source in the Main Centre building on Center Street with inquiries.

Art Market is a juried arts and crafts show which runs concurrently with the annual Victorian Festival.

Community outreach is good planning method

What is the future of Northville High School?

That's a question the school district and community must wrestle with in the coming months, and it's a question that must be answered this year if the high school is to continue providing high quality education.

It will be no easy task.

In the past few years an underlying level of tension has existed between the district and community due to changes in policy and curriculum. Some parents have complained that they've been left out of the loop in the decision making process, and have voiced those concerns to district leaders.

Fortunately, top district administrators and school board members have not turned a deaf ear, and are now encouraging further community involvement in the major education-related decisions.

Which brings us back to the subject at hand - the future of Northville High School.

There are two modes of thought. The first is that the district should simply take information provided by the bond, technology, and enhancement committees and call for voters to support a large bond issue to provide funding for a new school. This is the quick and easy way. No muss, no fuss.

And, most likely, no support from the community.

The second school of thought is a longer, harder road to hoe. Invite teachers, students, administrators, parents and community members to decide how education will be provided into the 21st century. Once that initial plan has been developed, then decide on the type of facility that would best satisfy the plan's objectives.

Education

The discussions would be open, honest, critical, and yes, even painful. But the end result would be what Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski calls "substance over form."

That is the best avenue to pursue. It is the only way to build a consensus in the community, and we are encouraged that the district has selected this route.

As a matter of fact the process has already started.

The district's Future's Committee, which will consist of 60 members of the community, met for the first time Tuesday. Community meetings are being planned in hopes of drawing hundreds of people to provide input and criticism.

We would encourage all those interested and affected to take part.

The more voices guiding the district and schools, the more benefit can be offered the students.

Skeptics might say that the district's attempt to use community members for long-term decision making is simply a token effort to give people a sense of involvement and increase the chances of support at the ballot box.

As enthusiastic proponents of the democratic process, we believe meetings and committee recommendations are invaluable sources of input.

Ultimately, it is the taxpayers of the district who must foot the bill and live with the results.

Time for club, township to learn to live together

The time has come for Northville Township and Woolly Bully's to bury the hatchet and live together the way neighbors ought to. That will mean that everyone will have to compromise: township officials, township residents and the "American Rock 'n' Roll restaurant."

Putting the past behind won't be easy, of course. There's plenty of animus to go around.

Critics have asked for two a half years how Woolly Bully's ever got approved in the first place. They've lamented its less than perfect parking and fretted about its "imaginative" facade.

Restaurant owner Mark Roman has been equally firm in his rebuttals of those allegations, saying in essence that the only people who oppose Woolly Bully's are those who don't know anything about it.

The latest page in this ongoing tale is being played out now.

The Northville Township Board of Trustees and police department are cracking down on the restaurant's weekly Wednesday evening classic car shows, saying the events violate zoning and noise ordinances.

Roman has denied those charges but did agree recently to take steps to prevent any "potential future problems." In the future, he says, loudspeaker levels will be kept at a set volume and Woolly Bully's has already submitted a petition to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a permit to hold the shows. Despite that, however, township police are following through on a resident's misdemeanor noise complaint over the car shows.

It's time for us to resolve this - all of this - like adults in four easy steps.

Northville needs to accept the fact that, like it or not, Woolly Bully's is here.

Let's leave our irritation with that fact behind and instead do our best to make it a good neighbor and to be one in return. Open and honest communication is the key.

That strategy is one Roman should adopt as well. To be frank, he strains his credibility and the willingness of this community to work with him by constantly trying to put his own peculiar spin on the facts.

He denies that the car shows are shows at all, instead implying they're virtually spontaneous get-togethers that aren't subject to zoning ordinance permit rules.

The restaurateur also indignantly complained that no one from Northville Township had ever contacted him about noise problems before the story went public.

When reminded of at least two discussions with police about it, however, Roman labeled them "informal" meetings that he couldn't "officially" respond to.

Third, the misdemeanor noise complaint deserves a fair and speedy trial, with everyone living by the results and working together in the future to make sure no other problems develop. Fourth, that same reasoning should also apply to Woolly Bully's permit application to the ZBA.

It's time for a fresh start all the way around.

An ad in time in olden style

In recent investigative research at Northville's new Knightsbridge Antiques Mall, I uncovered a treasure, at least to anyone who spends most of their waking hours in The Northville Record/Novi News offices - a battered and yellowed copy of the January 1, 1874 "New Year's Address" to the patrons of The Northville Record, published and edited (and founded) by Samuel Harkens Little.

Newspapering was a tad different back then. The tabloid includes a printing of Shakespeare's "Winter Song," with my all-time favorite line of poetry,

"While greasy Joan doth keel the pot."

But most of the copy, unless Northville had a Stratford-on-Avon beat, is one long poem dedicated by a local bard to the Northville Record's advertisers. That's service with style for you. It's larded with names most people familiar with local scenes will recognize and some they won't. Here's a few lines to consider:

"And by the way, if you'd a shave enjoy, Don't fail to call upon George M. McCoy. Lapham & Swift are offering bargains rare in dry goods; go and see beauties there ..."

"In buying Gifts, go search the whole town o'er; You'll pause at last at the Great Dollar Store, There everything is 'Gay and Pretty, too.' At panic prices we think and so will you." (Okay) "Clothing is down, at Randolph's; no mistakel A quarter discount he allows to make On former prices, now's the time to buy."

(Glad Sam Little clarified that one. Couldn't help but wonder why all that clothing was down in a Victorian town.) My favorite lines bring up an image of downtown Northville difficult to imagine today. (Of course the facade of The Northville Record building probably wasn't as bland-on-bland as it is with this week's new paint job.)

"Old winter's here with chilly wind and snow Over the road the merry sleighers go, All who would thus drive dull dark care away Should buy at once a strong and handsome sleigh. Hutton & Bedford have them all complete."

But did they provide the likewise strong and handsome driver?

Now for those of us who are filling Samuel Little's button-top boots, so to speak, it's tempting to wonder how well we'd do writing jingles to our advertisers today. I decided to try, drawing on patrons of The Novi News, the Record's kid sister:

"The Timber is thriving with its seafood grill. And Mr. B's Farm has lots of wet goods on chill ..."

"Clothing is down in the parking lot at Meijer. But the cops caught the guy, 'cause he had a flat tire ..."

"Everything is Gay and Pretty and straight and kinky. At Lover's Lane, which sells all garments slinky."

Nah. Ain't gonna work today. Better that Sam Little's professional descendants just stick to the who, what, where, when and why and leave verifying to the professionals.

Special week at district library

Pat Orr

repeated to our survey.

How has the library responded?

The library is open daily through Memorial Day, closed only on major holidays. Rebuilding a quality collection, neglected due to tight budgets for many years, has become a major project.

Book and video collections are expanding; in the travel section, we've added over 50 new titles alone. The videocassette collection has been increased by more than 65 titles in both entertainment and educational collections, with new videos arriving weekly.

Your suggestions for programs have been noted, and many suggestions are under development. We will have to wait for the new building to open before implementing some ideas, but all ideas are under review.

We've added three reference librarians to our staff, and more staff are scheduled to work during peak hours.

The length of borrowing periods has also been increased. As the collection increases we're able to relax strict limits to better meet your needs for information.

A new state-of-the-art computer system is being installed this week. Gone is the 10-year-old GEAC system, which was state-of-the-art in 1984, replaced by DRA systems. It's faster and more user friendly than the old system. The migration will continue through the month of October with additional services coming on-line through 1996.

Construction of the new building is right on schedule. One of the most obvious changes is parking around the library and city hall. The lot behind city hall has been torn up for installation of storm sewers, water lines, and gas lines. To ease the problem, parking is allowed on both sides of Wing Street, and the Wing Street entrance to the library is open. A bookdrop is located inside the entrance, available at all times for book return. Structural steel is scheduled to arrive in mid-October.

Providing access in information which meets the educational, cultural, and recreational needs of the community is the continuing mission of the Northville District Library. While we pay particular attention to this mission during Customer Service Week, it guides our efforts throughout the year.

Pat Orr is the Director of the Northville District Library.

Wooly's contributes to community

When my wife and I moved here from Ann Arbor three years ago the Highland Lakes Shopping Center looked rather grim most of the time.

There were rarely more than a few cars in the parking lot and there was a nondescript, empty building at the west end of the lot.

We watched with interest the remodeling of Wooly Bully's and the ensuing debate in The Northville Record about parking disputes which were rather quickly resolved by those parties directly involved.

We also watched the positive evolution of the shopping center, the fact that there seemed to be more and more activity as time passed, not only at Wooly Bully's but at other businesses in the center.

Curiosity finally overcame us and we went to lunch. We have returned several times to Wooly Bully's with friends and have enjoyed our experiences there, hardly the noisy uncontrolled environment we might have expected from what we had read in the local press.

When I noticed that classic cars were being displayed on Wednesdays this summer, I took mine and observed the activity first hand.

People there were like myself, car enthusiasts of a vintage who act like adults, have respect for others around them, and the money to support their hobby.

There was not excessive noise nor uncontrolled activity by participants, and when the sun went down the majority went home or stayed to eat (leaving dollars in the community).

The fact appears to be that Wooly Bully's has been a responsible business, at least as far as the Cruise Nights are concerned, and the resulting activity at the Highland Shopping Center is very likely to have had a positive longterm effect.

Yes, we enjoy our nights out at other restaurants in the area but we definitely believe that, now that it is here, Wooly Bully's offers a fun alternative to the MacKinnon's to Coney Island fare.

Perhaps The Record could spend less time on such items as Wooly Bully's, council arguments, and Meljer thefts, and more on items with impact on the community such as the development plans that Our Lady of Victory is heard to be considering.

John S. Marsh

Taken by surprise by church plans

To the Editor:

I was astounded recently to learn that Our Lady of Victory Church, located at Orchard Drive and Main Street, has plans to enlarge their facility by approximately 36,000 square feet.

This proposed expansion would be located on the opposite side of Orchard Drive from the present school and would involve the removal of the beautiful old Schrader house, built around 1920, and most of the woods at this corner. OLV has suggested closing a section of Orchard Drive for their purposes.

This is a residential area in which the church plans to place a very large "living center," i.e. classrooms, gym, meeting rooms, and kitchen. This would be a facility used daily.

Sunday morning and Saturday night traffic are presently a problem in the area. At these times parking overflows the whole neighborhood. Mothers in mini-vans along with school buses arrive twice daily weekdays and create considerable disorder and confusion at this intersection. Rogers, Thayer, Grandview and Eaton Drive are natural but inadequate feeder routes.

OLV officialdom is now planning to double their present classroom enrollment regardless of the situation they will make worse and unkindful of the residents whose homes they will impact. These homes are cherished by the owners and are the result of many years of hard work and loving care.

The city master plan indicates that this area should remain residential in use. The plan states, "The preservation of neighborhood areas is a paramount policy for the City of Northville."

Considerable property in the Northville environs is owned by the diocese and should be considered as a building site before imposing this structure on so inappropriate an area.

Colonial times were fun learning

To the Editor:

Eighth grade students and teachers want to thank the outstanding docents who helped create our Colonial Celebration Sept. 27-29. The quality of the demonstrations recreated that period in an impressive manner.

Our thanks go to Bill Pigott for the horse and buggy demonstration, to Jo Krause for quillmaking, to Al Smitley for colonial music, to Bob and Delores Prom for the history of toys, to Ron Meteyer for woodcarving, to June Giebel for basket weaving, to Kathleen Mroz for herb drying, to Dennis Faletti for cider making, and to Craig Roney for colonial storytelling.

Burt Schwartz created a wonderful afternoon of colonial dancing for the students who also ate pies and cookies from authentic recipes of the period made by the home economics students under the supervision of Kathy Montmorency. Other elective teachers who added to the fun of learning about colonial times were Gail MacDonald, Bryan Masi, Laura Murray, John Hamel, Rick Crossman, and Lynn Walter-shied.

The generous loan of cider equipment from bygone days was made by the Nelsons of Parmenter's Northville Cider Mill.

Evidence is with Bible's main event

To the Editor:

Thanks to Alfred Galli for his response dated Sept. 28 to my letter on the historical evidences for the resurrection of Christ. In my last letter, I had sought to list the historical evidences for the resurrection, the authenticity and longevity of the Christian faith in its endurance through the test of time and many skeptics.

I beg to disagree with you sir, in your opinion that Christianity merely arose out of man's deepest need to determine and understand his destiny.

If I were to "invent" a religion, I would invent one that basically makes me feel good and fulfills my natural human selfish desires. Something along the lines of: "Come to the Sivan Ashram, ponder and find answers to life's deepest mysteries for a lifetime fee of $10,000." I would try to rope in as many "devotees" as I can find and pad my pockets.

Christianity quite on the contrary commends me to: Love my neighbor as myself; visit prisoners and show love and compassion to widows and orphans; tithe away the first 10 percent of my income to the church and other charitable causes, to mention just a few.

Now, left to myself why would I want to do any of the above? The Bible and the teachings of Jesus in the Scriptures encourage us to do the exact opposite of what would be our most intrinsic human tendencies.

The Bible is true because Jesus Himself said that it is true and quoted from it frequently. I say that the Bible is true because Jesus (a character from the Bible) said so.

Now any person who has had a lesson in logic will say that that is circular reasoning and therefore not a valid argument.

That is why the resurrection is so foundational to the Christian faith.

The bodily resurrection of Jesus, not only did it signify the fulfillment of prophecies made centuries before his life and death on earth, but more importantly, gives Him the transcendent authority to authenticate the truth of the Scriptures.

In the words of the well known English social critic and writer G.K. Chesterton - The problem with Christianity is not that it has been tried and found wanting but that it has been found difficult and left untied.

Mr. Galli, I am an engineer by training. I seldom have made a subjective decision, practically everything has to be analyzed to death and undergo the test of logic and reason.

I can tell you with all honesty that Christianity is the most difficult thing that I have tried, but it is the most consistent, meaningful and purposeful thing that I have tried as well.

Gingrich all talk about frugality

To the Editor:

I'm inclined to believe that Newt Gingrich, the Speaker of the House, didn't really mean it when, in his Contract With America, he said he would work day and night to drastically reduce government spending.

Wait just a darn minute! Listen to this: Speaker Foley's 1994 last quarter expenditures for his office was $233,061. Newt's 1995 first quarter expenditures amounted to $301,783.70!

What kind of jabberwocky talk is this?

Incidentally, his spokesman, Tony Blankley, works for a paltry $2,342.97 a week!

Tighten standards for young drivers

My younger son, Nathan, is 13. He's already looking forward to driving a car. And my wife Kathy and I are ... well, nervous.

Phil Power

Any parent who has watched a teenager drive off into the gathering dusk has felt the gnawing dread of the late-night phone call that their child has had an accident and is injured or dead.

The fear is justified by the facts.

Nationally, drivers under age 20 make up around 5.5 percent of the driving population, yet they account for 12.6 percent of drivers in fatal crashes and more than 14 percent of drivers in all accidents. Fully 40 percent of 16-year-old drivers have an accident that requires a police report.

The Michigan statistics are similar. Drivers under 20 account for about 6 percent of the state's licenses. But these young drivers account for more than 12 percent of all crashes, 15 percent of crashes involving injuries and 13 percent of all fatality accidents.

How come? The most likely explanation is that young drivers simply lack the experience behind the wheel to deal effectively with difficult driving situations.

After all, under the current Michigan licensing system, a 16-year-old who has completed an approve driver training course - usually 30 hours class time and six hours behind the wheel - can get a full driving license. Getting a learner's permit for a 15-year-old is even easier: 10 hours in the classroom and two hours of driving instruction.

That's not much. "Parents have the mistaken notion that driver's education teaches kids how to drive," said Patricia Waller, director of the University of Michigan Transportation Institute. "All it does is give you the rudimentary training to learn how to drive."

And if state Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, has his way, young people will need to have a lot more experience before they are fully licensed to drive. Gustafson is the main sponsor of a bill reported out of the House Transportation Committee last week. It would:

- Lower the age to enroll in driver training from 15 years to 14 years, nine months.
- Require kids while enrolled in driver training to log 50 hours of driving with a parent or legal guardian in the car.
- Allow restricted licenses for 16-year-olds only after passing a state-approved road test. (The Michigan road test requirement was eliminated in 1980.)

• Raise the eligible age for an unrestricted license to 17, but only for those who have had no accidents for the prior six months.

Sounds pretty tough and, at least to my years, pretty good.

It also sounds pretty complicated and hard to keep track of, especially since most of the rules are on the honor system. I couldn't get a lot of police officials to comment on the bill. I suspect because they're reluctant to add a lot of detail when officers pull young people over for an infraction.

Doug Cruce, former state senator from the Birmingham-Troy district and sponsor of the state mandatory seatbelt law, had an interesting perspective for those parents who see driving around with their kids for 50 hours as a burden. "I don't see it as a huge burden. Any parent who says it is opens themselves up for an immature driver in the family to get hurt."

Despite its complexity, I hope Rep. Gustafson's bill becomes law.

Nathan won't like it. But Kathy and I do, and it just might make those long evenings dreading the late phone call a little easier to bear.

Sometimes nature is the best teacher

A Lesson from Geese written by Milton Olson contains a philosophy that families can strive toward.

Mary Ellen King

Healthy families have a common direction, common values, a willingness to accept help, share responsibility and stick together in hard times.

We can all benefit from the Lessons from Geese.

Lessons from Geese

• As each bird flaps its wings, it creates an "uplift" for the bird following. By flying in a "V" formation, the whole flock adds 71 percent greater flying range than if the bird flew alone.

Lesson: People who share a common direction and sense of community can get where they are going quicker and easier because they are traveling on the thrust of one another.

• Whenever a goose falls out of formation, it suddenly feels the drag and resistance of trying to fly alone and quickly gets back into formation to take advantage of the "lifting power" of the bird immediately in front of it.

Lesson: If we have as much sense as a goose, we will stay in formation with those who are headed where we want to go (and be willing to accept their help as well as give ours to the others).

• When the lead goose gets tired, it rotates back into the formation and another goose flies at the point position.

Lesson: It pays to take turns doing the hard tasks and share leadership. With people, as with geese, we are interdependent on each other.

• The geese in formation honk from behind to encourage those up front to keep up their speed.

Lesson: We need to make our honking from behind encouraging - and not something else.

• When a goose gets sick or wounded or shot down, two geese drop out of formation and follow it down to help and protect it. They stay with it until it is able to fly again or dies. Then they launch out on their own, with another formation, or catch up with the flock.

Lesson: If we have as much sense as geese, we, too, will stand by each other in difficult times as well as when we are strong.

If your family needs help talking to each other and is not communicating well call Mary Ellen King at (810) 344-1618.

On the way to Northville, we made some pretty exciting discoveries.

Deep inside the Venezuelan jungle, a genetic disease has plagued the inhabitants of a small village for generations. Moved by their plight, we went there to better understand the disease. Not only did we accomplish our mission, but our research led to the discovery of the gene that causes Huntington's disease.

Driven by a passion for improving health care, we've traveled to the far corners of the Earth. To places like the countryside of Japan and a small shipping town in Costa Rica. Even to outer space to conduct research.

Everything we've learned we've brought back to you, through the physicians and medical staff of the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Now we are pleased to announce that our next destination is a little closer to home. In fact, it's right in your neighborhood. Because now the U-M Medical Center has physicians and health care centers near you. So you'll not only have access to the U-M Medical Center and its world-renowned facilities and programs like C.S. Mott Children's Hospital and the Comprehensive Cancer Center, you'll also have a conveniently located primary care physician for your routine care.

There's no better time to take advantage of these benefits than during the fall open enrollment period where you work. So make sure your health care plan gives you access to the University of Michigan Medical Center.

A sewing machine is an appliance, a convenience. But for many people in the world's poorest countries, it means much more. A sewing machine means clothing. Clothing means money. Money means food for a hungry family overseas.

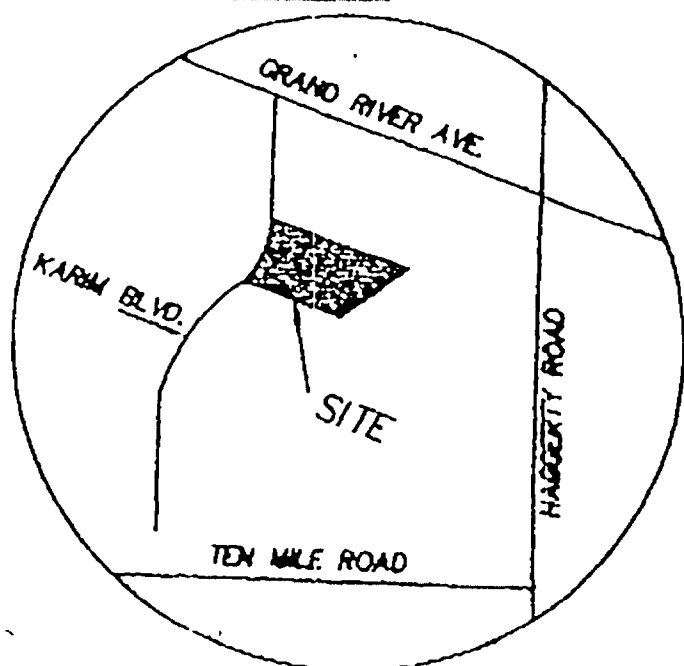

Whether it's a sewing machine, a well for clean water, partnering with a community to build a school, or teaching new ways to harvest the land, Childreach is helping people in the poorest countries in the world help themselves.

We've got the house.

We just don't have the living room.

Unfortunately, we're expecting company. In the coming months, more animals than ever will be arriving at the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society shelter, all needing care, food and lodging. But we may not have enough room for them. That's why we need to expand our shelter.

Our plans include a new animal evaluation room, a new cat room, and a renovation of our dog kennel. In the years ahead, these modifications will enable us to keep thousands of additional animals for longer periods of time, thus improving their chances for adoption.

But to make our dream home a reality, we need your help. With your tax-deductible donation, you can help us expand the Michigan Anti-Cruelty shelter. You'll be giving a lot of animals more living room. And for many of them, it'll be the only home they've ever had.

Twenty students named AP scholars

Twenty Novi High School students have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Examinations.

In addition, Joel Mitchell of Novi, qualified for the AP Scholar with Distinction Award by earning grades of 3.0 or above on five or more AP examinations, with an average exam grade of at least 3.5.

Eight students qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP exams, with an average grade of at least 3.25. These students, most of which are last year's graduates, are Shannon Colligan, Kimberly Collins, Tiffany DeVos, Lori DeWitt, Darlene Galido, Andrea Mione, Robert Mutch and Kevin Vicklund.

Eleven students also qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP exams, with grades of 3 or higher. The AP Scholars are Sara Blumer, Brandon Brown, Kirsten Hoffman, Samir Jasuja, Alice Lin, Kelley Lutes, James Rose, Andrew Schroeder, Kathryn Shaw, Eugene Wang and Amy Yang.

AP exams, which students take in May after completing challenging college-level courses at their high school, are graded on a 5-point scale. Most of the nation's colleges and universities award a year of credit to students with a sufficient number of qualifying grades.

There are 29 AP exams offered in 16 disciplines, each consisting of multiple-choice, and free response questions. The college board is a national nonprofit association that champions educational excellence for all students through a collaboration of nearly 2,900 members schools, colleges, universities, education systems and organizations.

The board promotes - by means of responsive forums, research programs and policy development

- universal access to high standards of learning, equity of opportunity and sufficient financial support so that every student is prepared for success in college and work.

Approximately 11 percent of America's graduating seniors have taken one or more AP exams. Only 12 percent of the more than 504,000 students took AP exams in May 1995 performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

WHY ORGANIC GARDENING ISN'T JUST A BUNCH OF MANURE.

Organic gardening is a lot more than natural fertilizer. And organic gardens do a lot more than make your yard look pretty. They help make the environment healthier. So let's dig in and see how you can help. The first step to creating an environmentally friendly garden is to compost.

Composting not only helps produce the bacteria, nutrients and mulch plants need, it also reduces the amount of solid waste your home creates.

Another easy way to help the environment in your garden is to change the tools you use. For instance, instead of using sprinklers, try using soaker hoses. They leak moisture into the soil at slow rates, so water gets absorbed instead of running off. You may also consider using a rake, instead of gas-powered blowers.

Rakes use no fuel and give you some exercise. Next, think about the types of plants planting perennials. Perennial beds provide refuge for animals and insects that will eat pests and reduce your need for chemicals. Finally, think about planting a tree in your backyard. Trees keep harmful carbon dioxide from entering the atmosphere and create lots of energy-saving shade.

So you see, when we say organic gardens are a good idea, it's no bull.

Can You Find The Drug Dealer In This Picture?

You live in a nice middle-class neighborhood. You don't see drug dealers on the corner. Your kids are only in grade school. Why worry? Because drug dealers don't necessarily look like the ones on television. In fact, studies show that your kids are more likely to be pushed into using drugs by someone their own age - someone they think is their friend.

So tell your children that anyone who offers them drugs is not a friend. Next, be an informed parent. Call 1-800-624-0100 and ask for a free booklet called Growing Up Drug-Free - A Parent's Guide To Prevention. Then - and this is really important - get to know your kids' friends. And their parents. Because with you in the picture, chances are a drug dealer won't be.

Locals featured in horse show

When the North American Horse Spectacular comes to the Novi Expo Center Nov. 10-12, there will be plenty of local folks making the show a success. Horsemen and women from across southeast Michigan will be featured speakers and presenters for this event.

Susan Stimson-Sugzda of South Lyon will present a seminar on Competitive Trail and Endurance Riding Saturday, Nov. 11.

Stimson-Sugzda and her husband, Ray, are active participants in these fast-growing sports and have worked closely with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources on the creation and preservation of horseback riding trails and campgrounds.

Dr. Joseph Hunt of Carleton will present a demonstration on "Driving the Mule Cart" on Saturday, Nov. 11 at noon.

Hunt is one of the Midwest's foremost experts and exhibitors of mules. His six-mule hitch is a perennial favorite in the Michigan Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Northville resident Nancy Harm is a parade veteran and she will share her expertise in the Sunday seminar, "Training the Parade Horse," at 1 p.m.

Harm, a noted educator and horsewoman, employs training principles such as imprinting to prepare her horses for the stress of parade conditions. Harm is a professor of psychology on the faculty of Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Mari Monda Zdunic, owner of Shine-A-Bit Farm in Brighton, has earned a national reputation as an instructor and rider in the classical art of dressage, but she's gained equal recognition with her entertaining haute ecote demonstrations, riding using "circus tricks" to add fun and dazzle to dressage.

Zdunic was a protege of Shine-A-Bit Farm founder Chuck Grant, often called the "Father of American Dressage." Zdunic's demonstration will take place at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 11.

Throughout the North American Horse Spectacular, members of the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council will host the Children's Activity Area, an interactive display where children can play games and solve puzzles while learning about horse safety and physiology.

The North American Horse Spectacular is a major industry event, including an extensive trade show, a juried art show, a carriage display, a fashion show and more.

Admission is $6 for adults, $2 children 5-12, and free for children under five. There is a $4 parking fee for cars and a $10 parking fee for larger vehicles.

Call (517) 468-3684 for information.

Seniors advocacy groups combine

Michigan Senior Power Day Inc. and Michigan Senior Coalition Inc. have announced that effective immediately the two organizations are operating as one. The new entity, Michigan Senior Coalition (MSC), will build on their 21-year track record of Michigan Senior Power Day in creating awareness of the impact of a rapidly-growing population of people 60 years of age and older and expand its activities beyond planning the well-known single-day event held each May in Lansing.

Michigan Senior Coalition will immediately begin to build a statewide grassroots network focused on disseminating information on legislation and public policy affecting seniors and promoting a variety of forums on these issues. In a break from tradition, there will be no large Senior Power Day in 1996. Instead, MSC will concentrate its resources on building the network and increasing its efforts on tracking the issues covered in the platform of issues (formerly prepared by the planners of Senior Power Day).

The Michigan Senior Coalition is guided by a board of directors representing a variety of senior citizen organizations in Michigan.

The board meets monthly in Lansing; the office and staff also are based in Lansing.

MARVAC brings RV show to Expo

The Novi Expo Center is home to the Detroit Camper and RV Show for the seventh time, running through Oct. 15. An area tradition for nearly 30 years, the show's move to Novi has brought rapid growth.

"The show's easy access and the fact that we are located in one of metro Detroit's major growth areas makes this an ideal location," said Bill Sheffer, show director. "We're seeing nice attendance increases every year at this show." Show sponsor is the Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds (MARVAC).

"The baby boomers are now in the prime RV buying years, 35-54, and they know the best prices are at a show," added Sheffer.

Nearly 30 Southeast Michigan RV dealers will be ready to deal during the five-day show. Industry-related booth exhibitors will feature RV and camping accessories, products and information.

MARVAC is a full-service, non-profit trade association representing member dealers, campgrounds, manufacturers, suppliers and service companies throughout Michigan. For more information, call MARVAC at (517) 349-8881.

Most insurances are accepted. New patients are welcome.

Kopicki, who specializes in Ob-Gyn, is a graduate of the State University of New York in Syracuse and completed her Ob-Gyn training at Sinai Hospital in Detroit.

CLF launches holiday gift drive

Annual plans to make the holidays brighter for hundreds of children coping with the effects of leukemia and related disorders are underway at the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan (CLF).

To help obtain the thousands of toys needed, CLF is now launching its annual Toy Drive.

CLF is asking civic groups, businesses and individuals around the state to conduct a toy drive in their area, or donate toys personally. CLF is hoping to gather over 3,500 donated, new toys for two agency programs.

One program is the Clinic Toys Program, in its 36th year. Hospitals and clinics throughout the state are provided with toys for children receiving painful cancer treatment procedures. Items for this program should be appropriate for use within the confines of a hospital bed, and for children ages 0-18.

The Holiday Toys program is in its fourth year, and provides toys to families dealing with a diagnosis of leukemia, lymphoma or related disorders. Children registered with CLF can receive toys for themselves and their siblings, and adult patients can receive toys for their children or grandchildren. For many needy families, this is the only Christmas they will have.

Donated toys are needed for all ages, infancy to 18. Items for teenagers are especially needed. Gifts must be new and unwrapped. Ideal items include books, arts and crafts, hand-held video games, Walkman radios, Barbies, manicure and make-up sets, playing cards, board games, gift certificates for teens, and coloring books with lots of crayons.

Thanks to the generosity of people in communities across the state, CLF has provided thousands of clinic toys to children, and last year distributed holiday toys to over 750 children in 250 families.

Those interested in participating may call CLF toll-free at 1-800-825-2536 for more information.

Flu shots to be offered at grocery stores

Somewhere between the milk and bread and laundry soap on the grocery shopping list, customers can now pick up a flu shot on their next trip to the supermarket.

Farmer Jack Supermarkets, in conjunction with the Visiting Nurse Service & Hospice Foundation's Annual Flu Immunization Program, is offering customers a bit of "health insurance."

During the month of October, the Visiting Nurses Association will administer flu shots within Farmer Jack stores throughout metropolitan Detroit. The vaccination is available to persons 18 years and older at a cost of $10 each. The fee is completely refundable for Medicare B cardholders.

The flu is not just a pesky bug, but a serious disease. Each flu season, more than 10,000 Americans die from complications related to the flu bug. The vaccination is recommended for anyone who wants to reduce the risk of catching the illness, especially people over age 65 and those with other medical conditions.

The immunizations program will be at the Farmer Jack store at Ten Mile Road and Meadowbrook in Novi on Friday, Oct. 20 from 6-8 p.m.

On Saturday, Oct. 14, shot will be given at Eight Mile Road and Grand River in Livonia from 2-5 p.m.

(The Centers for Disease Control suggest that some people should check with their doctor before vaccination, including anyone allergic to eggs, with a history of Guillain-Barre Syndrome, and women who are or may be pregnant, as well as those who are ill and have a fever.)

Much is being said about the rigorous screening process we put our doctors through.
But don't worry.
Some survive.

It's a tall order. And maybe not every doctor is cut out for it. But then if we're going to make things easier for our patients, we must strive to provide quality doctors. So, before any doctors become Blue Care Network doctors before they ever examine a single patient, they must first meet or surpass some rather lofty standards. Here's what it takes. First, all doctors (personal care physicians and specialists) are reviewed against specific written criteria. (Quality of care is the thing we're measuring here.)

Moreover, an on-site inspection is conducted by specially trained staff and the results are reviewed by Blue Care Network doctors in the area.

Patient satisfaction surveys are conducted by a professional, independent research company. Here, we ask patients to evaluate their doctor's technical skills as well as the basic level of service and care.

Blue Care Network also works with its personal care physicians to ensure that standards are met.

Oh, and one more thing. After meeting all these standards, the doctors who are selected have the pleasure of repeating this process all over again every two years. For as long as they're with us.

Blue Care Network

We screen our doctors so you get better choices.

Geared up & ready to serve

In the spring, Parent Teacher Associations (PTA) and Parent Teacher Student Associations (PTSA) in each of the Northville Public Schools sat down and set goals for the coming year.

In setting goals they took into consideration what and how they could strengthen parental involvement in a meaningful way, what programs they could provide that would enrich their children's educational experience and how they would be funded, and what programs would be helpful for parents to aid them in their jobs as parents and educational partners.

The board members for each PTA and PTSA are not alone in this endeavor. They have at their disposal through the regional, state and national PTAs resource material, workshops and newsletters.

All individual school PTAs and PTSAs are part of the Northville Coordinating Council. The council's goals for this year are to provide and participate in programs and activities which will benefit children directly or indirectly; to increase awareness of and participation in the Northville Coordinating Council; to provide support for individual PTA units; and to continue and increase cooperative involvement and participation at all levels of the Northville Public Schools.

Houren gets her wish to put on a carnival

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"I'd like to do the carnival," Diane Houren said at the organization meeting last summer of this year's Cooke Middle School PTSA. And she got it.

The carnival will be held at the school on Oct. 18 from 5:30-8:30 p.m., and at this date, Houren has it all detailed in print—on paper and organized on index cards.

After meeting with various committee chairs, reviewing reports from previous years and making a few telephone calls, Houren has everything all planned. It's a compilation of ideas from the veterans of past carnivals and input from those volunteers new to the carnival.

But what will the carnival be like?

"You can forget about dinner at home because we will have pizza, bread sticks, salads, subs and beverages," Houren said. "There'll be a candy shop, too, and a popcorn machine."

And over 100 have volunteered to bring a sweet treat for the bake sale.

There are three areas in the carnival - food, games with prizes and entertainment.

"We'll do nail painting for kids," she said. "A cake walk in which you pay for each round, and when the music stops you get nothing, or a cookie, or a slice of cake."

There's also a game for kids in which they see how many minutes it takes them to make somebody laugh? A silent auction for adults will have 34 prizes to be offered - prizes like tickets to ball games (Lions, Red Wings or Tigers).

A new fund raising option is a ticket raffle with a chance to win the top prize of "a two night care-free getaway package for two at a Grand Traverse Resort." This is an adult prize and the winners will be drawn at the carnival.

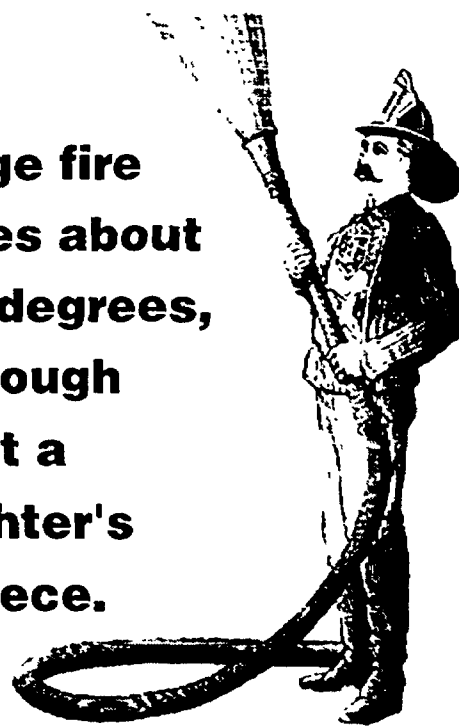

Houren has the whole evening detailed on cards. It's a matter of putting it into action.

This is one thing Houren has wanted to do. "I needed to see if I could do it," she said.

Sweethearts finally join as one after four decades of separation

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Jean Zwickey and Blaine Ballard were Northville High School sweethearts. He accompanied her to dances and the proms and always presented her with a corsage which included a gardenia.

But graduation came and after summer vacation both moved on to college, she to Eastern Michigan University and he to Michigan State.

For a while they kept in touch but finally Zwickey broke up with Ballard and each went his/her separate way. Ballard was devastated.

Zwickey married and had three children and stayed in the area. Being young, Ballard recovered and married, fathered three children and ended up in California.

Over the course of the next 44 years, Zwickey always imagined she'd run into him somewhere, thinking he was still in the area. She never did.

Ballard thought of his former sweetheart many times.

The Northville High School Class of 1949 only had one reunion, its 25th, and neither Zwickey nor Ballard went.

Then in 1993, Ballard was in town for the wedding of his daughter.

"I happened to be over at Twelve Oaks Mall and I thought I'd try to see if her brother was in the area," he said. "But I remembered the name of the person she married."

She was listed in the phone book and with not a moment's hesitation, he picked up the phone and for the first time in over four decades heard the voice of his former sweetheart.

Jean Zwickey and Blaine Ballard in 1949.

Blaine and Jean Ballard in 1995.

Both were single again. Zwickey was widowed and Ballard divorced.

"Why didn't you marry me?" Zwickey said was Ballard's first question.

"Well, you were just more mature than I was," she replied. "I wasn't ready for it."

"I kind of blew her mind," Ballard said. "I remembered her exact birthday and sent her a birthday card."

The following October Ballard set up a reunion of old friends from high school days and the two got together.

Over the course of the next couple of years they had an opportunity to renew their friendship.

On Sept. 23, in front of 300 family members and guests, the former high school sweethearts got married.

"We feel like we're 20 again," she said. "We don't think of each other as old. We picked up where we left off."

The newlyweds arrived at the reception in a horsedrawn white carriage.

Something they had given to each when they were sweethearts they recently shared with each other again.

"He gave me a great love — the love of Christ," she said.

"She certainly inspired me to get a higher education," Ballard said. "She was a motivating factor. Through her and the group of people that we were friends with college became the thing to do."

Ballard retired after a career with the federal government and is now doing consulting work.

Zwickey retired from the South Redford School District after 32 years as a kindergarten teacher.

"This is definitely the man I should have married," she said.

In Zwickey's bridal bouquet were three gardenias.

AMERMAN ELEMENTARY

Amerman students had a great time participating in the Victorian Festival last month. It was wonderful to see so many smiling faces and fantastic costumes in the Victorian parade.

Dr. Rudy is still the favorite of the third grade classes but the Dogs of the Wild West were a close second. The box lunches donated by the Amerman staff and the PTA to the Victorian Box Lunch Auction were delicious and helped PTA co-council raise its needed funds.

Amerman is proud of art teacher Gail Raben who recently received the "Outstanding Teacher Award" from Metro Parent magazine. Congratulations Mrs. Raben!

Our fund-raising efforts for the year are well under way thanks to the efforts of Lenore Monticello, Debi Lopez and Sue Anker. A total of 670 Gold C Coupon Books have been sold and orders for Sally Foster gift wrap are being processed now. The funds raised through this campaign will fund all our activities, including the Junior Enrichment Series, teacher stipends, and recess improvements for the year.

The Amerman Credit Union is being sponsored again this year by Community Federal Credit Union. Currently fifth grade students are interviewing for jobs with the student credit union and the first banking day will be later in October. The credit union is open to all third through fifth grade students and is a great way to teach the value of saving and money management.

Kindergarten teachers and parents had a very successful cleanup day in the kindergarten playground and garden on Sept. 23. Two yards of sand were added to the sandbox, and two yards of dirt were added to the garden. In addition, myrtle was planted along the fence.

A giant "Thank you" to Grounds Committee chairs Janine Baucht and Melissa Hannah and to all those who helped with the cleanup.

Dr. Anderson will again be offering classes for parents in the evenings. The current offering includes Children of Divorce, Parents Sharing Books, and the S.T.E.P. Parenting Class. Call the Amerman office if you wish to register for any of these classes.

The first issue of the PTA newsletter, the Am-A-Gram, has been issued and looked great thanks to the efforts of chairperson Debbie Hayes and her committee, including Elizabeth Sammut and Sue Kage. This newsletter is a great way to keep up with the activities around the school.

The following PTA committee chairpersons have volunteered their time and talents this year and would always welcome additional assistance:

Am-A-Gram, Debbie Hayes, Elizabeth Sammut and Sue Kage; A.M. Attendance, Tina Tomakowsky and Nancy Adkins; Appreciation Luncheon, Cindy Atkinson and Linda Dick; Art Appreciation, Barb Slubowski and Abbie Holden; Teacher Appreciation, Karen Klimek, Tina Tomakowsky, and Lynn Bial; Reflections, Sue Nido and Debbie Piet; Birthday Announcements, Jan Jameson; Campbell's Labels, Mary Ruppel; Disbursements, Barb Slubowski; Flower Sale, Marianne Tomask and Terri Myers; Fund-raising, Debi Lopez, Lenore Monticello, and Sue Anker; Grounds, Janine Baucht and Melissa Hannah; Holiday Shop, Kelly Williams and Jeannine Mochle; Ice Cream Social, Cindy Atkinson and Linda Jones; JES, Cathy Toth and Judi Fortuna; Kindergarten Round-Up, Barb Slubowski and Vicki Searly; Legislative, Jill Kurtz and Nick Petlicke; Membership, Diane DeVincent and Lynn Bommarito; Nominating, Nan Piekarski; Noon Hour, Laura Fulton; Parent Library, Lynn Bial; Pancake Breakfast, Patsy Johnson; Roller Skating, Carol Bernardo; Student Directory, Denise Anderson, Susan Tomes and Mary Reece; and Yearbook, Laura Kowalski.

The next Amerman PTA meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 9:30 a.m.

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Judging by the activities of spirit week, we hope that the 1995-96 school year will be met with the same success. After a short hot summer, we found that the students were eager to return to school and even more eager to participate in spirit week.

Class contests, pep assembly, float building, and the homecoming dance were the main attractions of a week full of fun.

A September PTSA meeting was held in the forum due to the high number of participants. After discussing many different issues, the attendees had an opportunity to have a question and answer session with people from the Northville Board of Education.

Mr. Bollito, Dr. McMaster and Dr. Johnson were generous with their time and thorough with their answers. This will be a new format to our monthly PTSA meeting.

We would like to recognize the following teachers for this month's "Teacher Pat on the Back." Cheryl Warner, Cathy Ooms, Deanne Sovereign, Judy Patton, Betsy Sole, Sandra Vala, Susan Couzens, Jan Smith, Steve Romba, Bo Hall, Chris Ford, Brian Balcoff, Judy Cammeraad, and secretary, Katherine Purcell. We applaud their efforts and dedication to our students.

The music department is going strong with over 170 students participating in one of the seven different performing groups. The students in all areas are working hard to prepare for their fall concerts which you are welcome to attend.

Jazz Band I kicked off the new school year with an outstanding performance at the Montreaux Detroit Jazz Festival.

During the summer of 1996, there are two overseas trips being planned. The French and German trip as well as the Spanish trip are sure to be informative and adventurous. Students who have been studying these various languages are invited to travel to these countries and experience the culture firsthand.

Northville High School counselor Betsy Sole was one of four educators from Michigan invited to participate in The International Educators to Japan '95.

She joined a group of 40 teachers, principals, and superintendents from the U.S., Canada, and U.K. for a 17 day tour which included visiting Japanese schools, discussion with students and educators, sight seeing and home stays.

Ms. Sole experienced a vast difference in philosophy of education between the U.S. and Japan and shared that at the PTSA meeting.

Learning how to resolve conflicts peacefully is one of the most important skills that one uses throughout life. The Peer-Mediation program headed by Ms. Patton, Ms. Sole, Ms. Borchert (NHS social worker) and Ms. Purcell will be selecting 12 students who will be trained in the proper format to use when resolving a conflict between students.

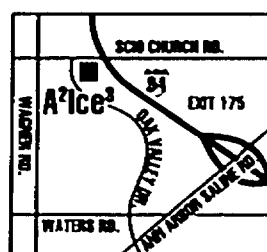

When a conflict arises between two students, they will come before the peer mediation group, and work will begin on how to solve the problem peacefully. We are hoping to have the program in place by December.

A select group of teachers is participating in a pilot program of student led conferences. The traditional conference between teacher and parent will be changed to a conference between student and parent with the teacher acting as hostess. The student and teacher will prepare a portfolio that will later be presented to parents at conferences.

While shopping at Twelve Oaks, don't forget to take your receipts to the little red schoolhouse located throughout the mall as they will give Northville High credit for the amount of dollars spent to go towards computer equipment, etc.

'He's just going to keep coming at you'

Michael Myers returns once more to terrify Haddonfield just in time for 'Halloween'

Welcome back to Haddonfield, where Halloween will never be just another holiday.

The townspeople have feared homicidal maniac Michael Myers since 1978, when as a six-year-old, he slaughtered his family. Michael later escaped from a mental institution and has taken to revisiting his hometown sporadically — always on Halloween and always with a premeditation for murder. Six years have passed since Michael was presumed dead in a fire. Haddonfield is finally ready to celebrate Halloween again.

But so is Michael Myers.

"Halloween: The Curse of Michael Myers" brings the cursed Michael back to Haddonfield to finish his life's work in the newest edition of the famed series of motion pictures that have proven to be among the most popular horror films ever made.

The film is being released under the Dimension label. Directed by Joe Chappelle, "Halloween: The Curse of Michael Myers" stars Donald Pleasence, Paul Rudd, Marianne Hagan and Mitchell Ryan.

Since director John Carpenter's original production in 1978, Michael Myers has terrorized Haddonfield, Illinois, and audiences around the world. Two major discoveries came with that historic first picture, the introduction of newcomer Jamie Lee Curtis and the revelation that movie audiences both loved and feared the mysterious pathological murderer Michael Myers, a villain with an almost ghostlike ability to surprise his victims at every turn.

Director Joe Chappelle called the original "Halloween" a "seminal movie."

"I saw it when I was 17 years old, and it blew me away. In some ways, it's the perfect movie. It succeeds completely in doing what it set out to do. So, being offered the opportunity to direct this installment was great. I wanted to honor the original film and the genre, but still do something different."

Moustapha Akkad, who has produced all six "Halloween" films said the series is known for its suspense, rather than blood and the gore. "It's simplicity ... stalking of a victim and not really random killing," he said.

"With 'Halloween: The Curse of Michael Myers' we are definitely going into new, fresh avenues, but without losing that simplicity, that basic simplicity of the original "Halloween."

Chappelle noted that Michael Myers is something that can't be rationalized. "You can't talk to him. You can't stop him with guns or fire. He's just going to keep coming at you. He's a force of nature ... or something beyond nature, that you just can't deal with," observed the "Halloween" director.

"It's like running from your worst fear. It's always going to catch up with you. You can never escape. It's primal. It's a cold chilly fear."

Whether it's the mystery of the mask or the terror experienced through the confrontation of an incomprehensible, unreasonable killer, the "Halloween" series has been haunting viewers for almost 20 years through its particularly successful marriage of suspense and psychological horror.

Immensely profitable, the "Halloween" series has grossed more than $200 million though less than $20 million has been invested in the six pictures.

Since Myers first stabbed his sister at age six, his killing sprees have eliminated more than 50 people. He has methodically murdered almost every member of his family, and anyone else who has gotten in his way or goes near the Myers home.

Each time he is pitted against his own child psychologist, and now arch-enemy, Dr. Loomis, the character originated by Donald Pleasence, who died shortly after filming. He is also pitted against several new and equally worthy opponents, among them Paul Rudd as Tommy Doyle and newcomer Marianne Hagan as Kara Strode.

Mustangs rally past Churchill for 26-21 win

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Bill Sekerka sacked Livonia Churchill quarterback Nathan Jerome on fourth down with 1:06 remaining to preserve a 26-21 Northville road victory Friday.

The Chargers moved from their own 47-yard line to Northville's 30 before Sekerka nailed the scrambling Jerome on fourth and 15.

"It was Bill's first start," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He did an excellent job."

Sekerka's sack capped off a sparkling Mustang comeback.

Down 21-7 late in the third quarter, Northville took the ball at Livonia's 33-yard line after a 30-yard kickoff return by Eric Moore. Six plays later he caught a four-yard pass from quarterback Scott Vigh to make it 21-14.

Northville got the ball back after four Charger downs. The Mustangs then drove 38 yards in four plays as James Zayit made a spectacular 13-yard catch in the end zone from Vigh.

Moore, however, missed the extra point and Churchill clung to a 21-20 lead with 10:16 remaining.

Later, Livonia punter Matt Hughes slipped on a punt and shanked it. Northville began what turned out to be the winning scoring drive on the Charger 47.

It was another quick drive, too.

Vigh tossed an incomplete pass on first down. On the next play, the junior hit receiver Luis Guajardo over the middle in what looked like an innocent play.

But a few broken tackles and moves later, he scored. The 47-yard pass made it 26-21 with 3:12 left.

The key to the play was Guajardo's speed.

"He's got enough speed to out run linebackers," Schumacher said. "He got it done."

Northville improved to 4-2.

It was almost quite a story for the Chargers. Livonia has won just one game, not this season, but this decade.

But you would've never known it by the way Churchill played in the first two and a half quarters.

The Chargers took the opening kickoff and proceeded to march 65 yards on 13 plays to take the lead. The big play came on fourth down at Northville's 31.

With eight yards to go for a first down, Jerome hit George Shanlikian for eight yards to keep the drive alive. Jason Kopchak caught an eight-yard pass from Jerome to make it 7-0 at the 5:30 mark of the first quarter.

"I would give Churchill all the credit in the world," Schumacher said. "They had a great game plan and executed. They just hit us."

Northville appeared ready to tie it on their first drive of the game. The Mustangs moved the ball from their own 34-yard line to the opposition's 8. But Kopchak intercepted a Vigh pass and the threat was over.

The teams traded possessions until late in the second quarter.

It takes more than a handful of stars to make a tennis team.

Northville High proved that point to Walled Lake Central Oct. 4 on the road. While the Vikings do have some fine individual talent, the Mustangs showed they had more depth.

"They have a bunch of rebuilding to do," coach Uta Filkin said.

She added that Walled Lake has three top-notch singles players, but not much else. In any case, Northville won the match 5-3.

Mary McDonald faced the area's best singles player in Becky Clanton and fell in straight sets 6-0, 6-0. Kristin Smith also went down in straight sets at No. 2 singles, 6-3, 6-0 to Danielle Gilhood.

"I thought Kristin could've played tougher," Filkin said.

Freshman Julie Glock dropped a 6-2, 6-2 decision to Amanda Kowal. Chrissy Kapusky got Northville on the winning track with a 6-3, 6-2 win over Amy Thirjung.

The Mustangs swept the doubles matches to take the match.

Lisa Cousineau and Meghan Connery split their first two sets with Sarah Clack and Ashley Parker but won the deciding set 7-5.

At second doubles, Amanda Nelson and Sarah Johnson were two-set winners. Julie Moak and Kara Anderson beat Katie Baumgarten and Becky Jacobson 6-4, 6-4.

Swimmers torpedo Farmington Hills, Brighton in dual meets

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A 124-61 win over Farmington Hills Harrison Thursday on the road capped the Mustang swim team's week.

Northville won all but four events in routing the Hawks. It was Northville's fourth dual meet win in five tries.

The Mustangs will go for No. 5 tonight at Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. Coach Bill Dicks wasn't too unhappy that it will be his team's lone meet of the week.

"Two meet weeks are a killer," he said. "Training wise, it's not real good."

Northville is putting in excess of 35,000 yards a week in the pool. Without the pressure of a meet, Dicks said he's able to include more work in practices.

That sounds like drudgery for the swimmers. But the better Northville's conditioning base is, the better its taper will be at the end of the season.

It could mean more athletes qualifying for the state final, in other words.

Speaking of state competition, Northville didn't have any cuts in the Harrison meet. Here's a run down of the results:

Rebecca Anderson, Gwen Osborne, Kristen Warnke and Jodie Brown won the 200 medley relay. Amy Cook, Alice Callan, Andrea Moretti and Beth Handley were second.

Amity Heckemeyer won the 200 IM while Amy Kohl was second. Anderson finished second in the 200 IM.

Northville swept the 50-yard freestyle with Brown, Kara Lyczak and Katie Rompel. Michon Slantina was first in diving with 172.7 points, Karen Fischer was second with 158.8 points and Alicia Doehler 133.85 points for third.

Warnke finished first in the 100 butterfly, Handley third and Brianna Jones fourth. Brown took first in the 100-yard freestyle, Leah Voytal was second and Rompel third.

In the 500-yard freestyle, Anderson was second. Northville won the 200-yard medley relay with Rompel, Brown, Voytal, and Warnke.

Heckemeyer won the 100-yard backstroke, Kohl was second and Cook fourth. Osborne was Northville's top finisher in the breaststroke and took second.

The team of Moretti, Rompel, Kohl and Heckemeyer was second in the 400 freestyle.

One reason for the blowout was Farmington Hills' low number of swimmers.

"Harrison is very small this year," said Dicks.

NORTHVILLE 103, BRIGHTON 83

The Mustangs swam a makeup meet at Brighton on Oct. 3.

Dicks said he knew the Bulldogs wouldn't challenge his team in the meet.

"I wanted the girls to swim as hard as they could," Dicks said. "They did that."

What was a challenge was Brighton's pool, which is in meters instead of yards. It ends up adding about 10 percent more length to each race, Dicks said.

"It doesn't throw you off as much physically as it does mentally," he said. "The kids see times are slower and think they're slower. In reality they're not slower. It's just a larger distance."

Anderson, Heckemeyer, Warnke and Brown won the 200 IM in 2:17.33. Anderson took first in the 200 medley in 2:37.4.

Heckemeyer swam a 28.7 in the 50-meter freestyle. Fischer won diving with 166.2 points.

Warnke was first in the 100 butterfly in 1:11.6.

Heckemeyer was first in the 100-meter freestyle in 1:03.6.

Anderson finished first in the backstroke in 1:14.8.

Runners take 2nd at Redford Union

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

What was supposed to be a big cross country invitational Saturday turned into a three-horse race.

Northville High was one of the few teams that showed up for the Redford Union hosted event at Cass Benton. The Mustangs made the most of the invitational by taking second place.

"It was a glorified triangular," coach Ed Gabrys said.

Dearborn Divine Child won the meet with 33 points, Northville was second with 44 and Redford Union was third with 45 points.

Eight or nine schools normally show up for the invitational. But those teams were pulled away because of Saturday's Oakland County meet, Gabrys said.

"They're going to schedule it for a different day next year so there's no conflict," he added.

A week's worth of rain made Cass Benton, which is in Northville, a bit sloppy. Accordingly, times were slower than normal.

It didn't bother Dwight VanTuy much. The senior wound up the overall winner of the race in 17:45.

"He led from beginning to end," said Gabrys.

Ravi Mujumdar placed sixth overall in 16:38 and Tim Schovers was eighth in 18:48. Jeremy C. Smith finished 13th in 19:22, Jeremy T. Smith was 16th in 19:44, Josh Smith was 17th in 20:06 and Kevin Morrow ran a 20:13 race.

The Mustangs squared off with Farmington Hills Thursday at Cass Benton and came up short 23-33.

"Going in," Gabrys said, "I thought it was even. But they were a pretty solid team."

VanTuy duelled Harrison's top guns and wound up with a second place finish in 17:49. Schovers was fourth in 18:49, Mujumdar seventh in 19:29 and Jeremy C. Smith ninth in 19:43.

Adam White came in 11th in 20:20, Jeremy T. Smith 12th in 20:20 and Morrow finished in 20:29.

The Mustangs are currently 1-3 in the Western Lakes Conference and race against Livonia Churchill today on the road.

GIRLS' CROSS COUNTRY

Just one point kept Northville from winning the Redford Union Invitational.

Like the boys' race, the invitational had a limited field. The Mustangs, however, were second among four schools.

Farmington Hills Harrison won the race with 34 points and Northville was second with 35.

"The quality of competition really dipped," coach Chris Cronin said. "It was not the most exciting meet."

The silver lining was that all the Mustang runners earned medals Saturday. The top 15 runners received hardware.

"I felt good about our performance," said Cronin. "Our top six runners were under 24 minutes."

Allison Murphy won the race. She ran a fast time of 21:28 on a sloppy Cass Benton course.

Karen Loeffler finished seventh in 23:05 and Erin Tovey was right behind for eighth in 23:14. Katie Spillane took ninth place in 23:25, Kajal Parikh was 10th in 23:26 and Amanda Sprader ran a 23:45 admitted. "We didn't have the big day we needed."

Murphy was Northville's top finisher in 22:32.

Loeffler finished fifth in 22:55, Tovey seventh in 23:17, Spillane was eighth in 23:19, Parikh was ninth in 23:41 and Sprader 10th in 24:20.

Sarah Warnke killed the Mustang basketball team Thursday night.

The Canton senior center scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the Chiefs 58-41 home win over Northville. The Mustangs fell behind 31-20 at half-time and never challenged the Class A top 10 squad in the final two quarters.

"They played outstanding man-to-man defense all night," coach Pete Wright said. "It's in your face."

The Chiefs were tough defensively keeping Northville in single digits in the second and third quarters. But it was the way they controlled the tempo that was critical.

The Mustangs have developed into one of the area's best fast-breaking teams. Northville has used its run-and-gun offense to average 55 points a game this fall.

After one quarter, Canton stopped the Mustangs cold and forced them to play at a more methodical pace.

"We would've liked to get them into a transition game because of our skills," Wright said. "But they got back (on defense). That's what hurt us."

Northville must be able to adapt when the situation calls for it, he added.

"The half court game hurt us the most," Wright said. "We're not used to playing that way."

It was Northville's second loss of the season against six wins. The Mustangs play at Livonia Franklin tonight at 7 p.m.

started off like a track meet.

Warnke, fittingly, scored the game's first points on a pair of free throws. Gina Chiasson tied it up for Northville less than a minute later.

The teams traded baskets until near the end of the quarter. Ahead 14-13, the Chiefs added baskets by Kristin Lukasik Nkechi Okwumabua and led 18-14 at the end of the period.

Canton pulled away midway through the second period. The Chiefs held Northville scoreless the final four minutes of the quarter and added six points to their lead to go up 31-20 at the half.

Warnke scored 12 points in the half. Samantha Leger did most of the damage for Northville with 11 in the half.

Neither team could find the basket in the third quarter. The Mustangs actually outscored Canton 6-5 in the frame.

But in the fourth, it was all Canton and Warnke. She established for a fake punt. But the ball was mishandled and Livonia recovered all the way back to Northville's 35.

Jerome scrambled for 30 yards on first down. Two plays later he hit Matt McCormick for a seven-yard touchdown at the 2:10 mark.

Northville finally got on track before halftime.

After starting at their own 36, Nate Forney ran 23 yards on second down. Anell Kersey followed with a 13-yard run to Livonia's 30. Forney then cut that distance in half with a 15-yard run.

Eight plays later, Vigh ran it in from four yards to make it 14-7 at the half.

Churchill got its final score on its first possession of the third quarter. The Chargers went 87 yards on 12 plays. Todd Wilson finished it off with a 35-yard run.

That was it for Livonia. Northville shut the door the rest of the way and wouldn't be denied offensively, either.

Schumacher said his team was lucky to escape with a win. Northville was particularly sluggish in the first half.

"I think Churchill just outplayed us in the beginning," Schumacher said. "When you come out and don't want to hit, it's going to be a long night."

The coach did praise his team for the comeback.

"At the end," Schumacher said, "our kids knew what they had to do to win and they did it."

For the game, Kersey had 84 yards on 23 carries. Forney had 41 on four carries. Vigh was five of 17 passing for 117 yards.

Garrett Carter led the defense again with 15 tackles and one quarterback sack.

Northville plays at home against Canton tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Salem edges golfers

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

You know life isn't fair when you average 40 strokes a man and lose a dual match.

But that was the reality. Northville High had to face Friday. The Mustangs played excellent golf but fell 194-201 to league rival Salem at Tanglewood.

It wasn't just any other dual match, either. Northville needed to beat the first place Rocks for a chance at a Western Lakes Activities Association title.

But it wasn't to be.

"A win would've meant a three-way tie," coach Trish Murray said.

The Rocks are now in the driver's seat to capture the league title. The WLAA tournament match was Tuesday (after Northville Record deadline).

Salem ate up the South Lyon course and posted three rounds in the 30s.

The Mustangs were almost as tough. Brian Glock shot a 39, K. Yoshida and James Damico each shot 40, Jeremy Sova, Mike Clancy and Brian Rankin all shot 41. Only two of the 41s counted toward the team score.

Northville continues its season tomorrow at the state regional. The 18-hole tournament will be played at Oakpointe golf course in Brighton.

The top three teams from the regional will move on to the state final. Northville's last trip to the final came in 1991.

Murray said it's one of the easier courses her team's played this fall.

"It's fairly short," she said. "The always have good greens."

Yoshida and Clancy led Northville with rounds of 37. Damico came in with a 38, Jamie Belanger a 39 and Sova a 40.

NORTHVILLE 220, HARRISON 221

Yes, it was the same team. Northville High was less than stellar Oct. 2 at Tanglewood, but good enough to get the win.

Sova led Northville with a 41, Rankin and Yoshida shot 44, Damico a 45, Glock and Eric Swietlik finished with 46.

Netters smash Rocks in dual

Shelley Morgan and Angela Bardon ensured the victory with a straight set win over Stephanie Altman and Alyson Rand 6-1, 6-0.

If Northville is to keep its season alive, the Mustangs must be one of the top two teams in tomorrow's state regional at Birmingham Marriott.

NORTHVILLE 8, SALEM 0

A once proud program has on fallen hard times at Salem. The Mustangs had no problems whatsoever blanketing the Rocks at home on Oct. 2.

"They're really down this year," Filkin said, "considering that they use to clobber us. It's the weakest they've been."

Northville shuffled its lineup a bit. But it didn't matter much as the Mustangs won every set.

Singles winners included Smith, Glock, Kapusky and Morgan. Connery and Cousineau, Nelson and Johnson, Moak and Anderson, Christina Chase and Sarah Arndt were all doubles winners.

Senior transit valuable tool

By CINDY STEWART
Special Writer

Tired of fighting all the traffic? Or perhaps you don't own a car. Well the good news for Novi seniors is that the Novi Parks and Recreation Senior Transit system is better than ever.

Mission Health Providence Medical Centers has donated a new mini-bus to the Novi Senior Center. All Novi residents age 55 and over, or physically challenged non-seniors who cannot access a regular car or cab, can get around Novi.

Novi residents are eligible to ride the senior "mini-bus" to the Novi Senior Center without charge. Drivers will pick them up at their front door and bring them to the Senior Center for lunch, a card game, bingo, arts and crafts or any activity that's going on Monday through Friday.

Donations are gladly accepted and advance reservations are necessary. Call 347-0114 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. 48 hours prior to needing a ride.

In 1988, special Recreation Coordinator Kathy Crawford saw a need for the operation of a senior citizens transportation program. The senior population has grown by leaps and bounds. There were approximately 5,000 residents over 55 in 1989 and the projections for the city's seniors population in the year 2000 are 12,000. Many people felt that a senior van would be a valuable asset to the Novi community.

Novi's senior citizen population grew at a very rapid rate and one of their major needs has always been assisted transportation," said Kathy Crawford. "Our program began in 1989 and in the past six years we gave 24,244 rides and put 150,000 miles on our first donated van. It was time for a new van and Mission Health-Providence Hospital came through for our seniors with a new mini-bus. Thanks to them we will continue to service more of our Novi seniors."

"If it wasn't for the van, I couldn't come to the Senior Center every day," said Frances Verardi. "I don't drive and I rely on the van to take me shopping, to the bank or a doctor's appointment and to the Center everyday for lunch and socializing with my friends. I say thank God for the van."

"I rely on the van during the winter when the roads are so bad," said Mary Craig. "The van drivers will even walk to your front door and help you to the van if you need the assistance."

"I love coming to the Center everyday to play cards and have lunch. I also use the van to go on day trips sponsored by the Center. It's so convenient and it gives me a chance to be with my friends," said Joe Butler.

These seniors who come to the Novi Senior Center are just a few of the ones who utilize the van on a daily basis (remember 24,244 rides from 1989 to June 30, 1995).

For seniors who can't or don't drive, it's difficult finding transportation with so many people working today. Seniors can't always rely on neighbors and family members to take them on errands whenever they need and it's a terrible feeling to be a prisoner in one's own home.

The Novi senior van will take people anywhere in Novi they need to go and also up to 10 miles outside of the city limits. It is a free service which is helpful to seniors on a fixed income, but donations are gladly accepted. Crawford wants to reach all Novi seniors with information about the transportation service.

"The senior van is an essential service that every community needs," said Crawford. "It gives seniors a sense of independence, they can take care of their shopping and medical needs without relying on busy neighbors and friends. They can get out into the community for daily socializing and fun, as well as taking care of the everyday errands we all have to deal with."

Novi Senior Transit has four part-time drivers: Jim Webster, Paul Menninger, George Lewis and Phil Sumner, who handle the daily van runs. The seniors who were having lunch at the center last week had nothing but praise for all of their drivers. They said they are the nicest group of men and look forward to their trips each day.

The Novi Senior Transit is available to all Novi residents age 55 and over, or anyone who is physically challenged. Crawford urges all Novi seniors who need a ride to the Senior Center, the grocery store or any medical appointments to pick up the phone and call 347-0414. A ride is only a phone call away. Don't let the lack of transportation stop you from enjoying life.

Chicken pox vaccine is available

Janet Gilsdorf

Through the ages, chicken pox has been as much a normal part of childhood as puppy dogs, ice cream cones and afternoons in the park. Now, after many years of testing, the chicken pox (varicella) vaccine is available and will change this familiar aspect of growing up.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that all healthy children receive the vaccine (one dose) between 12 and 18 months of age. For unimmunized older children or adults who haven't already had chicken pox, those between ages 18 months and 13 years are protected by a single dose while those over age 13 years require two doses given four to eight weeks apart.

Although this vaccine was tested extensively over a long period of time before it was licensed by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), questions remain about its use.

Is chicken pox a serious enough illness to warrant protection?

For the vast majority of healthy children, chicken pox resolves after about a week with no serious consequences. However, not all children in America are healthy and for those with a variety of chronic illnesses, chicken pox can be extremely serious or even deadly.

Widespread use of this vaccine among healthy children will dramatically reduce the prevalence of chicken pox and will minimize exposure to the virus among immunosuppressed children who cannot safely receive the vaccine.

How safe is the chicken pox vaccine? Like other live virus vaccines commonly used in children, the chicken pox vaccine is extremely safe and is much less risky than the disease it prevents. About 7 percent of children who receive the vaccine develop a mild chicken pox-like rash, with usually fewer than 10 spots.

About 20 percent of children complain of mild and transient soreness at the site of injection, and about 15 percent develop a fever.

Other extremely uncommon side effects include headache, fatigue and cold-like symptoms, although it is not clear whether these are due to the vaccine.

Will children need an additional dose of vaccine later?

This is a difficult question to answer, as we cannot predict how long immunity from the vaccine will last. Most people don't get chicken pox a second time because their immunity is constantly boosted by exposure to others with chicken pox; this booster effect will be reduced with widespread use of the vaccine.

What effect will chicken pox have on shingles (herpes zoster)?

Some individuals, particularly those who are elderly or chronically ill, develop shingles, which is caused by the chicken pox virus. The virus, which can lie dormant for years, can be reactivated by a weakened immune system. Although experience with the vaccine extends for only 15 years, the likelihood of getting shingles after the vaccine appears to be less than after natural chicken pox.

Many pediatricians and public health officials applaud the availability of this vaccine and will integrate its use into their universal childhood immunization programs, looking forward to the time when chicken pox is as rare as polio is today.

position time and time again in the low post and scored eight points.

Northville never got closer than nine to the Chiefs.

Wright said his team's offensive woes in the middle of the game were the difference.

"We had a lot of good looks at the basket in the second and third quarters," he added. "But nothing fell. If we could've gone into the fourth close, it might have been a different game."

NORTHVILLE 69, JOHN GLENN 28

Westland couldn't stand up to the Mustang fast break and got crushed Oct. 3. Playing on the road, Northville held Glenn in single figures for the final three quarters.

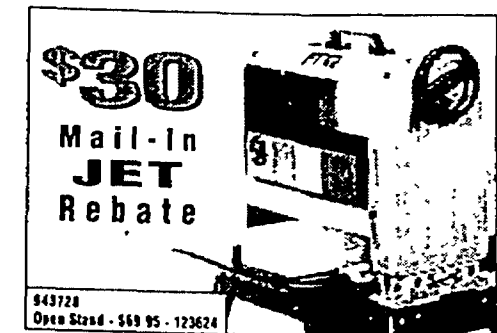

"We traded baskets until 10-10," Wright said. "After the first quarter we got after them better."

Northville got a lot of easy baskets in the final three periods off of solid defense. The Mustangs made 14 steals in the game.

Metaj led the way with six steals and 16 points. Leger had 22 points and six rebounds while Chasson added 10 points and seven boards.

Some Realtors catering to seniors' housing needs

Seniors who are actively buying and selling houses comprise a rapidly growing niche in the residential sales market. They have special needs in pursuing the purchase or sale of a house.

When searching for a house, most seniors look for a property with few or no steps to climb. Security is a high-priority consideration. If a condo or townhouse is desired, it should be in a gated development.

Murray fits the bill for privacy and a contemporary floor plan

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

If you are looking for a contemporary floor plan that will sit on a sloping lot, the two-story Murray will fit the bill.

Designed with the master suite on the first floor, and the rest of the sleeping quarters on the second floor, the Murray offers a solution to couples who like their privacy, but have older children at home who also need a certain amount of independence.

The gathering place on the lower level is the dining room/living room area.

Whether savoring a quiet meal, watching television or enjoying conversation with friends, the centrally located fireplace spreads warmth throughout.

When the sun is shining, take the barbecue and lounge chairs out on the back deck. Attractive deck railing stretches the entire length of the house.

The walk-through kitchen, complete with built-ins, will please the cook in the family. Meals can be easily served in the adjacent dining room or taken upstairs to the family/recreation room.

A handy utility room and the isolated master suite complete the first-floor layout. The spacious master suite has abundant closet space and the convenience of an adjoining bathroom.

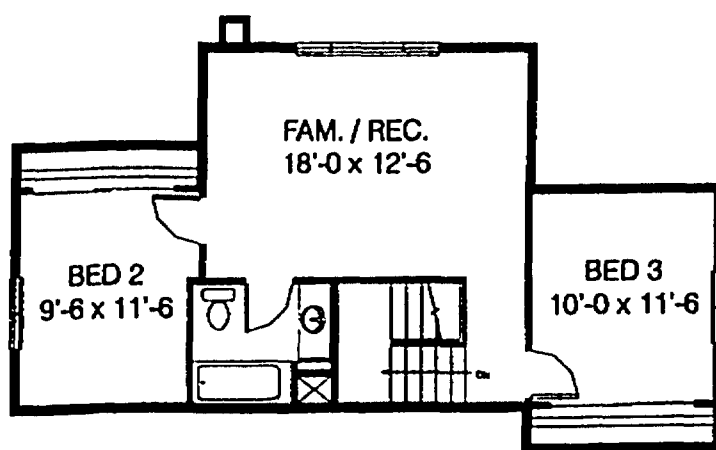

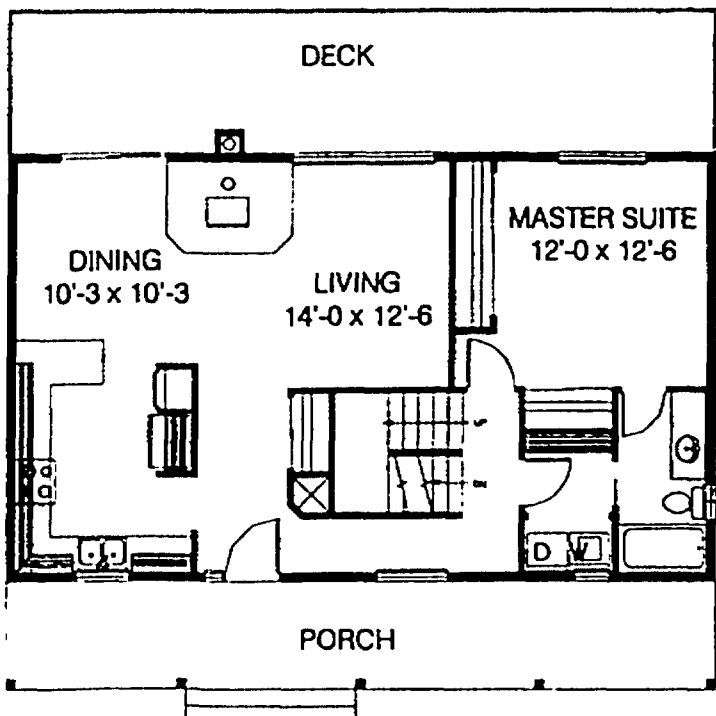

For households with teen-agers, the upper-floor configuration will work well. Here the decibel level of the CD player won't disturb those on the lower floor. Two good-size bedrooms, each with ample closet space, are on either end.

A huge family/recreation room occupies the center of the top floor. Put in a big-screen television, a couch, a couple of chairs and a pingpong table, and let the fun begin.

For the empty-nesters, the two bedrooms could be converted into a home office or sewing room.

And, beneath the first floor is a 905-square-foot unfinished basement.

For a study plan of the Murray (402 09), send $9 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

PERENNIAL HELP

By AMY KEMNIC
Staff Writer

Perennial gardeners can count on their gardens sporting continually blooming plants throughout the growing season without having to replant them each year, but those beautiful blooms don't just happen by accident.

The way the garden is prepared for the winter months has a big impact on how it blooms the rest of the year. Timing is one of the most important aspects of that pre-winter preparation, according to local gardening experts, and it's important that nature's timing take precedence over the gardener's convenience.

"The first year is the most important time to protect (young plants)," said Lori Meler of Meler Flowerland in Brighton. "The garden can be covered with straw, leaves, cedar mulch or peat moss for the winter, but it shouldn't be done until after the ground freezes."

"A lot of people like to do this at their convenience, but it's important to wait until the ground is frozen," she continued. "Otherwise, the critters nest in."

Gardeners should maintain good hygiene in the garden at all times by keeping it clean of weeds and dead plants, according to Amy Feekart of Wildlife Nursery in Brighton — particularly after the first frost.

"After the frost, you should start to snip off the plants as they begin to turn brown," she said. "If annuals in the garden are dead, clean them out of there, too."

"After the foliage and greens have died, snip them back to just above soil level, (but) don't do this until they are completely brown," Feekart added.

Now is the perfect time to plant additional bulbs in the garden, Feekart said, and fall is also a good time to transplant perennials.

"From mid-September until the ground freezes is a good time to do this," she added. "Bulbs will bloom in the spring if you get them in before the ground is totally frozen."

The next step is to apply a good fertilizer to the soil. Feekart recommends 5-10-5 multipurpose fertilizer that can be applied under or on top of mulch in the garden bed, according to the instructions on the bag.

"It's better to use a slow-release fertilizer as opposed to a water-soluble one," she said. "Organic fertilizer is great because it breaks down slowly and feeds the roots of the plant."

"(Organic fertilizer) develops the root and plant structure over a longer period of time," she added. "And especially at this time, you don't want the greens to grow."

If you don't already have mulch covering your garden bed, fall is the time to apply it, particularly a mulch made

GARDENING

Professional landscape designers use plants the way an artist uses paints on a canvas.

By mixing and matching, adding a splash of color here or a more subtle effect there, they use the living tools of their palette to craft a work of natural beauty.

Fall is the time to think about the design of the spring landscape.

This is the season to plant flowering bulbs such as tulips, narcissi, crocus and hyacinths.

Flower bulbs are nature's spring paintbox, they come in an assorted palette of colors, they're very easy to plant and offer you a chance to express yourself and let your imagination run wild.

That's the fun!

In garden design, as in painting, the skillful use of color is the key. People have very definite reactions to color. Tests have shown that looking at the color red, for example, can raise blood pressure. I say it's an exciting color; it reminds me of passion.

Advertisers and marketers have long known, and sought to make use of, our reactions to colors.

To create eye-catching color combinations in the garden, the more you know about color, the better you can use it.

ABOUT COLOR

Color exists only in the mind's eye.

It is the result of how our eyes receive and our brain processes the way light is reflected off objects. Sir Isaac Newton's work with prisms in the late 17th century was the first experimental evidence that "white" light could be refracted into many different colors like a rainbow.

It revealed the full spectrum of color within light. From his work, Newton created a color wheel.

Today, designers use cardboard color wheels to help them mix and match colors correctly. They are available at most art supply stores. Some find a color wheel a helpful tool when planning garden plantings.

Others prefer to rely on their "gut" feelings about color.

Whichever approach you choose, some basic knowledge of how the color wheel works will be helpful.

In fall, think spring color

■ Now is the time to plant flowering bulbs such as crocus, narcissi, tulips and hyacinths.

■ You may want to buy a color wheel at an art supply store to help you pick the best color combinations.

■ There are no real color mistakes. Flowers close in hue will have a more soothing, formal effect, while those complementary in color will be more striking.

■ Plant lots of bulbs and plant them fairly close together. Imagine that you are creating living bouquets. A common mistake is to plant a few bulbs far apart.

Resetting vinyl tiles; cleaning walls

By Gene Gary

HERE'S HOW

Q. About a year ago I installed vinyl tile on our kitchen floor using the self-adhesive square tiles. We were pleased with the results until recently. Numerous tiles have curled at the edges, turning loose from the subflooring. The tile edges will not stick again when pressed down against the flooring.

A. Is there some type of glue I can work under these edges to re-adhere these tiles?

A. This is a common problem. The source of the problem is usually moisture, which weakens the adhesive and loosens some edges. This can come from leaks or even from frequent wet moppings.

These self-adhesive tiles can often be taken up and reinstalled using a special vinyl tile adhesive available at some home centers and flooring dealers. The trick is removal without damage to the tiles. Removal requires heat from a heat gun or blow dryer to soften the remaining adhesive and make the tile flexible (cold tiles are brittle and will crack and break during the removal process).

Use a medium or low setting to thoroughly warm each tile to be removed. When the tile is warm, carefully work the edge of a prying tool, such as a paint scraper with a wide blade or a wide putty knife, under the curled edge and gently push the tool forward and to the side to loosen the tile. Remove only those tiles with curled edges.

If you damage a tile during the process, it is possible that you can find a replacement tile from some inconspicuous area such as under the refrigerator or stove. Use these tiles to switch with the damaged tiles.

Once the damaged tiles have been removed, carefully scrape dirt and adhesive residue from the floor underlayment. Use caution so that you do not loosen or damage the edges of the tiles still in place.

Vacuum the surface of the underlayment and scrub with a rag moistened with paint thinner. Be sure that the room is well-ventilated and keep the work area free of any flames or sparks. Turn off pilot lights on stoves or water heaters that may be located in the area.

Clean the adhesive from the backs of the tile the same way (scrubbing with paint thinner), working outdoors for safety. Leave the tiles to dry, adhesive side up.

When you are ready to replace the tiles, warm them to room temperature. Both the tiles and the floor should be about 72 degrees for a strong bond using the vinyl tile adhesive. The adhesive should be applied to the underlayment, not the tile, with a notched trowel that leaves ridges of adhesive 1/16- to 1/8-inch thick.

Follow manufacturer's directions. Be careful when spreading the adhesive, covering the entire area where the tile is to be re-adhered but protecting the edges of the existing tiles. Reinstall the tiles one by one, applying the adhesive and then pressing the loose tile in place.

It is essential to flatten the tiles and edges firmly in place. Use a wallpaper seam roller or a block of wood positioned over the tile seams and tapped firmly with a hammer or mallet.

Any adhesive that oozes out at the edges should be removed with a damp, soapy cloth. If some edges tend to curl, use weights to hold them down overnight.

Q. Is there any way to clean flat-painted wall surfaces that look dingy? I am afraid moisture will damage the paint.

A. If it's a poor quality paint, it might be easier to just apply another coat of paint. However, today's quality latex paints, flat or enamel, are more durable than paints of old. During the cleaning process they are less likely to streak and can usually be cleaned using a wet or dry method working from the top to the bottom.

Either method should be tested in an inconspicuous area to make sure the cleaning process does not damage the finish of the paint.

To wash the surface, prepare two buckets. Fill one with a neutral cleaning solution, diluted according to manufacturer's instructions. Use a clean sponge to dip into the cleaning solution and spread over the surface, wiping away any excess solution. Follow this by wiping the cleaned area with a soft cloth (white cotton terry cloth). Turn the cloth frequently to maintain a clean side.

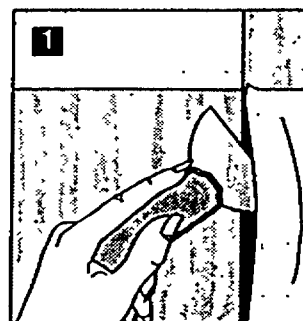

Work in sections of about 4 feet by 4 feet. Wring the cleaning sponge out into the empty second bucket to get rid of dirty water and dirt residue. Keeping the sponge clean is a key in avoiding streaks when washing the wall.

If the wet method damages the paint in your test area, use a dry sponge method for cleaning the walls.

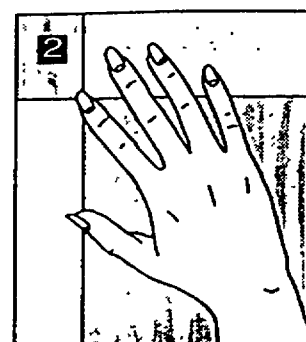

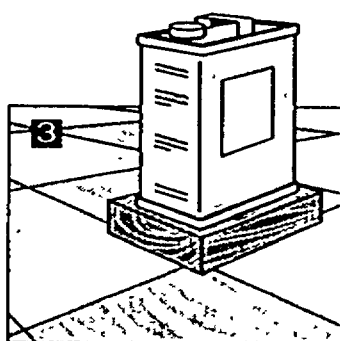

Home centers and paint dealers are good sources for the dry sponge. The dry sponge also is ideal for cleaning textured ceilings or acoustical tiles.

Resticking vinyl tile

Vinyl tile can curl up at the corners if moisture gets under them or if they were installed improperly. Frequent mopping also can create moisture, which makes them peel. Reinstallation is fairly easy.

1 Vacuum up loose dirt and glue. Clean the floor and the back of the tile with paint thinner to remove the old glue. Work outdoors or in good ventilation.

2 Warm a problem tile with a hair dryer. When the tile is good and warm, begin to peel it up using a wide putty knife. Use caution. If you damage a tile you may need to find another one from an inconspicuous place.

3 Making sure the temperature is above 70°F, apply a vinyl tile adhesive to the floor (not the tile) with a notched trowel. The trowel will leave the glue in little ridges.

4 Press edges down firmly. Remove any excess glue. Leave weights on the tile edges while drying if they tend to curl.

Every garden benefits from color that is well-planned and executed

The wheel divides colors into two main groups: "warm colors" (such as reds and yellows) and "cool colors" (such as blues and greens). The farther apart from each other colors are, the more contrast there is between them.

Colors positioned directly opposite one another on the wheel have the most contrast. These are called complementary colors. Complementary pairings are brilliant, intense and eye-catching. Blue paired with orange would be an example.

The eye-catching effect can be softened somewhat by choosing "split complementary" combinations. This involves choosing the color on either side of a color's complement, such as combining blue with red-orange or yellow-orange.

As colors get closer to each other on the wheel, the more soothing their effect when combined.

By bearing in mind how colors work together, you can achieve the effect you want. One reason that fall gardening is such fun is that tulips come in just about every color, size and shape except black (though some tulips come in such a deep, rich purple that they actually appear to be black).

PROFESSIONAL TIPS FOR GARDEN COLOR

Color is a very personal thing, since there is no such thing as a wrong choice, so long as you like it.

However, I feel that there are some tips to follow to get the most pleasing color combinations in your spring garden.

Spring gardens can be based on a one-color approach, a carefully selected combination of colors, or a wild riot of color.

It all depends on personal taste. The biggest mistake that people tend to make is to plant too few bulbs. Then they're disappointed come spring. One of the reasons is that, in fall, there is still summer color in the garden. It's important to imagine what the garden is going to look like after winter when there are no flowers in bloom.

The other mistake people make is to plant one tulip here and another there or to plant their bulbs too far apart. Lots of tulips together give a better show.

Whether you're planting 20 or 2,000, you'll get the greatest impact by planting bulbs close together in groups of "color blocks." Think of creating little (or large) bouquets in the garden.

COLOR IS AN IMPORTANT ASPECT OF ART AND LIFE

The colors that surround us definitely have an effect on our mood swings, and even our health. Color in the garden, especially in the spring garden after the long, dull winter, has the added vibrancy of being true living color; it lifts the spirit.

Being an avid gardener, I applaud the idea that it's almost impossible to make a color "mistake" in the garden, so long as you follow your instincts. Colors that might otherwise clash often look surprisingly good together in a garden setting. I find everything in nature goes with green.

What's most important to remember is that fall is the time to think of spring, and without a doubt spring is the most exhilarating time of the year.

When that first tulip, hyacinth, crocus or daffodil blooms in the garden, with nothing else around, it's quite a thrill!

Some Realtors catering to seniors' housing needs

Importance. Safety features in the house, particularly in bathrooms, also are important.

These and other features that are usually needed by senior home buyers can be quickly identified by a Realtor through the searching capabilities of his computer. Some progressive Realtors have incorporated a system to immediately spot currently available properties that meet the needs of mature adults.

A number of special housing options are now available to seniors. For example, in an increasing number of cases, two or more single seniors purchase a large home together and share the residency. This satisfies both the housing and companionship needs of the senior buyers.

Selling homes owned by seniors also calls for special expertise. Many of these homes have been owned by the senior for many years. The mortgage has amortized down to a low level or has been paid off, creating a mortgage carry-back opportunity in certain situations. This can expedite the sale of the property, often at a premium price.

Real estate professionals are channeling more of their time and effort to serving senior buyers and sellers than ever before. And for good reason: It's the fastest-growing demographic segment of real estate clients.

More than 6,000 Americans reach age 65 every day. About 2,700 turn 75. Baby boomers (those born between 1946 and 1964) are now mostly middle aged, and they will be healthier and live longer than any previous generation.

Next year, those baby boomers will turn 50 at the rate of one every 18 seconds. Generally, there will be a continuing shift toward senior residents. In this decade alone, the number of Americans over age 65 is projected to increase by 42 percent. In just 15 years, one in every five Americans will be over age 65.

With those figures in mind, Realtors, builders and developers are focusing more of their energies on services and products specifically keyed to the needs of mature adults. It's an essential element in the business plan of any real estate firm that wants to grow and increase its share of business in its marketing area.

Oyster plate holds its pearly value

This porcelain oyster plate was made in the late 1800s and is worth about $125

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a porcelain oyster plate that I have had for 60 years. It was given to me by a 90-year-old friend who said it belonged to her family. The indentations for the oysters are blue and the background is white.

Could you please tell me something about my oyster plate?

A. Oyster plates were popular in the late 1800s. They usually had six oyster-shaped indentations with a round center for dip. Oyster plates were made by a variety of manufacturers in Europe and America.

Your plate was made in the late 1800s. It would probably be worth $100 to $125.

Q. I was given a Stangl pottery bird years ago. It is a chickadee and stands 5 inches high. On the bottom are the words "Stangl Pottery Birds—3811."

Is my little chickadee worth anything today?

A. Stangl Pottery, Trenton, N.J., first produced its bird series in 1940. Many of the designs were inspired by Audubon prints. The birds were painted and decorated by hand.

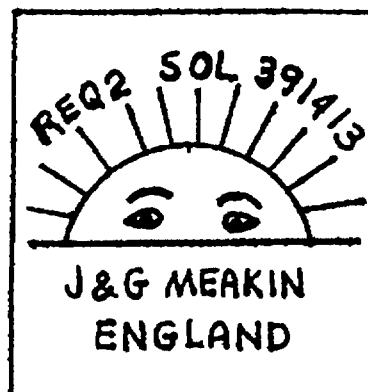

In the 1940s, the demand was so great and space so limited that people were hired to work at home.

Molasses was added to the glazes to assure that the paint wouldn't run when the birds were transported back to the factory. Firing burned off the molasses. By 1978 production of these delightful birds was discontinued. The number is the model number.

Your little chickadee would probably be worth $100 to $125.

Q. This mark is on the back of five cups and saucers that I have. They are decorated with dark-red roses against a white background. My husband thinks that these dishes may have some value either now or in the future. They are all in good condition.

Would you please let me know if they have any value?

A. Your cups and saucers were made by J&G Meakin, Hanley, Staffordshire, England. They have made ironstone and earthenware from 1851 to the present. "Sol" means sun. This mark was used circa 1912.

Each cup and saucer would probably be worth about $20 to $25.

Q. Forty years ago, an elderly couple I befriended while traveling cross-country gave me an electric coffee pot. It is nickel-plated copper and stands on three cabriole legs. There is a spigot for pouring and a green glass handle on the lid. On the bottom are the words "Universal—Landers, Frary & Clark—New Britain, Conn., U.S.A."

Any information you can provide will be greatly appreciated.

A. This model was characterized by its classical design, cabriole legs and green glass handle. Early electrical appliances are popular collectibles.

Your coffee urn was made circa 1914. It is currently listed in "Warman's Americana & Collectibles" by Harry L. Rinker at $35 in good condition.

Q. For 15 years, I have been collecting Limoges miniatures. Some of my pieces appear to be old and are marked "Limoges, France."

Others are marked with a crown and a shield and the words "Limoges Castel."

What is the difference between these marks?

A. Limoges is a place, not a specific manufacturer. It is located southwest of Paris, where a plethora of porcelain factories have been in business since the 1700s.

Usually the name of the manufacturer is included with the mark. Limoges Castel began producing porcelain in 1944. The mark you described was used around 1979.

BOOK REVIEW

"Westmoreland Glass, 1950-1984" by Lorraine Kovar (Antique Publications) tells the story of how this high-quality glassware was made. She traces and explains the evolution of the Westmoreland mark.

Her book contains tips on how to care for this handmade glass and how to spot reproductions, reissues and new glass from original molds.

There are hundreds of color photos along with detailed descriptions of each piece. A current price guide is included. After reading this book, it is easy to understand why collectors find this beautiful glass so appealing. The book is available in antique shops and bookstores.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

Perennial help is here

from shredded bark, cypress or cocoa bean. Feekart said. "Grass clippings and leaves are not a good (permanent) mulch," she said. "It's unsightly and (eventually) smells bad. "It's better to add lawn debris to the compost pile, stir it occasionally and let it completely decompose," she added. "Then it can be added to the soil in the spring." Shredded mulch protects the plants from freezing and holds in moisture, Feekart said, and the bonus to a gardener who has thoroughly weeded before applying mulch in the fall is the absence of serious weeds in the spring. "If you weed it first, and then use a good mulch, you shouldn't have tedious weeding to do in the spring," she said.

A good commercial mulch looks nicer, protects better and holds up longer in the garden, Feekart said.

"If you are going to spend money on a perennial garden, you should invest in a good mulch," she added. "If it is applied thick enough, it will last at least a year."

Roses require even more careful wintertime preparation to protect the roots and crown of the plant, both Meier and Feekart said. The crown is the place where the plant begins to branch out and if it freezes over the winter, the plant will not bloom well in the summer, Feekart said.

"Don't prune them back too much because that causes new growth," she said. "But do break off the dead canes and brown parts to prevent fungus from spreading through the soil."

Use a rose collar, not a cone, to protect the crown and roots, Meier said.

"The cone will protect the canes and you don't want to do that," she added. "You want to protect the roots, so fit the collar around the crown of the plant, and then fill it in with one foot of dirt."

A burlap screen erected around the plant once it is prepared for winter will provide a windbreak, Feekart said. Rhododendrons, azaleas and other tender plants also will benefit from a windbreak, she added.

Open your eyes to the facts about glaucoma.

Glaucoma is a leading cause of blindness among all adults over the age of 60. And, if you're Black and over age 40, you're up to five times more likely to develop glaucoma. But, if glaucoma is detected and treated early, the risk of blindness is greatly reduced. So, get a dilated eye examination in which drops are used to enlarge your pupils. This allows your eye care professional to see more of the inside of your eye. It doesn't hurt, it's easy, and it could save your eyesight.

Specialty is gifts for the hard-to-buy-for

By RICK BYRNE
Staff Writer

Everyone has a difficult-to-buy-for person on their holiday gift list.

Sometimes it takes professional help to find just the right thing for the person who has everything. Lori Bailey offers just that kind of expertise with her company, A. Lynne's Eccentrics.

"I look all over the country to find things that are unique that you don't find in any other store," Bailey said.

Bailey creates specialty gift baskets and custom florals from her location at 2650 Seven Mile Road in South Lyon.

South Lyon business people will get a good look at Bailey's work space on Thursday, Nov. 9, from 5-7 p.m. as A. Lynne's Eccentrics hosts the next South Lyon Area Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours mixer.

Bailey opened her unique business three years ago, and gave it her own middle name. The idea for A. Lynne's Eccentrics came to Bailey while selling title insurance to Fortune 500 companies. After making a sale, she would send unique gifts that always earned raves.

The corporate gifts seemed so much in demand that she got the idea to sell gifts instead of insurance.

When she moved to South Lyon in January 1992, Bailey put her idea into action. Local apartment complexes offered her baskets as welcoming gifts to new tenants, and the University of Michigan liked her creations as well. She started the business in her home but soon it expanded to her current warehouse. The shop is located in the former Tobin Lake Studios building on Seven Mile Road.

What was once a stark storage space has been warmed up with homey wallpaper and burgundy trim, and a bright, professional-looking office. Here customers can pick and choose exactly what they would like in their floral arrangements or gift baskets. They can even choose not to have a basket at all.

"As an alternative to sending flowers we provide upscale gift presentations," Bailey said. "A lot of our containers are hat boxes, steamer trunks and ceramics."

Even if the customer has no idea what to give, Bailey confidently chooses just the right item for whatever the customer would like to spend.

Food and drink are popular basket stuffers, and her stock of gourmet foods comes from frequent trips to food and gift shows around the Midwest.

One of Bailey's biggest sellers is something she calls Trail Blazer. It's a wooden covered wagon, filled with Lost Trail root beer from Kansas, trail mix, Tumbleweed candy and beef jerky. It's a popular gift for men, who can be so tough to buy for.

Bailey delivers throughout Metro Detroit and will ship packages across the nation and around the world. A. Lynne's Eccentrics provides gifts for all occasions, including weddings and funerals. To order a gift or for a private showing call 313-449 0352.

Daycare erodes gain from two jobs

Money Management

The need to care for children or elderly parents, among other reasons, has caused many dual-income households to seriously consider having one member walk away from a good job and a reliable salary.

According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, living on one income may not be as difficult as you think. That's because many two-income families overestimate the real value of a second income.

Much of the financial advantage of two incomes can be eroded by expenses associated with dual careers.

Here's how to estimate the value of that second income. First, determine the taxes you pay on the two combined incomes. Then, compute the taxes on the one income you would keep. Subtract the difference.

For example, take a couple with annual earnings of $35,000 and $15,000 who pay roughly $12,000 in taxes on their combined earnings. If only one spouse worked and earned $35,000, the couple would pay $8,000 in taxes. This would mean that the second $15,000 income incurs $4,000 ($12,000 minus $8,000) in additional taxes, reducing its real after-tax value to approximately $11,000.

Once you determine the after-tax value of the second income, deduct the costs associated with earning that second salary such as child care, commuting, clothing and lunch expenses.

You may also want to subtract costs associated with conveniences that help you cope with being a dual-career family. For example, many two-income families find themselves spending a great deal of money for housecleaning, laundry services, landscaping and restaurant and take-out meals. If a spouse stays at home, these expenses often can be cut by at least half.

Once these expenses are deducted from your second income, you may be surprised at what you're left with. The couple who thought they were bringing home an extra $15,000 in earnings, may discover that they end up with $5,000 or $6,000 of disposable income.

Of course, the effect of giving up a second income depends on your family's financial situation. It may mean you need to put your college savings and/or retirement funding plans on hold for a while. It may even require occasionally dipping into your savings.

CPAs offer the following learn-to-live-on-less strategies:

- Slash insurance costs by raising deductibles on your homeowner's and auto insurance policies. Drop collision coverage on a car that is paid for or more than five years old.

- Change your health insurance from a traditional indemnity plan to a plan offered by an HMO (health maintenance organization) or similar organization.

- Watch your utility bills. Turn off lights and appliances when they're not in use.

- Limit the number of credit cards you use to one or two, and keep consumer debts and credit card charges to a minimum.

- Join a car pool or take public transportation to work.

- Develop new spending habits. Curtail your entertainment costs by opting for less expensive vacations and dining in more frequently. Instead of going to the movies, rent a video. Instead of buying books and CDs, take them out of the library.

Before you or your spouse relinquish a job, be certain you have set aside at least six months worth of living expenses in an emergency fund. You'll want to be sure you can easily withdraw money from the fund and keep it separate from your other savings.

Finally, CPAs also point out that it's especially important for the remaining wage earner to have sufficient disability coverage. Keep in mind that if disability insurance is provided by your employer, your monthly benefit is typically limited to only 50 percent or 60 percent of your salary after the waiting period has been met. In a one-income household, this limited benefit may make it difficult to meet day-to-day expenses. For this reason, it's often wise to obtain additional disability coverage on your own.

Remember, much of the financial advantage of two incomes can be eroded by the expenses connected with two careers. If you have ever wondered if your family could afford to get by on one income, CPAs advise you to get a true picture of the after-tax value of that second income.

Jobless rates drop in state for August

August unemployment rates were down from their July levels in all ten of Michigan's major labor market areas, according to F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

"Unemployment rates dropped in August as job seekers who were unsuccessful in finding summer jobs began leaving local job markets," Edwards said. "The decline in the number of unemployed accounted for the rate drop as employment remained fairly stable with generally minor gains or losses."

According to seasonally unadjusted labor force estimates compiled by MESC, work force levels were down in all areas but Kalamazoo/Battle Creek. Employment also fell in most areas during the month, except in Kalamazoo, Detroit and Jackson.

"The Kalamazoo area was the only area to show a measurable employment gain last month," Edwards noted. "Employment rose in area manufacturing, retail trade and services."

While overall employment levels were down across the state, job gains occurred in several industries. Manufacturing employment rebounded in several areas following worker recalls triggered by the end of short-term layoffs among auto industry suppliers. Most areas also had gains in their transportation, retail trade and service sectors.

These job gains were offset, however, by seasonal reductions in government employment as state and local schools either closed or trimmed operations during the summer vacation period.

Among the major labor markets, the Lansing area had the lowest August jobless rate at 3.6 percent, while Flint and the Upper Peninsula had the highest rate at 6 percent.

Three areas — Flint, Detroit and Lansing — reported substantial drops in their August rates, averaging more than a percentage point.

For the first eight months of 1995, all of the areas, except for Ann Arbor and Detroit, reported their lowest unemployment rates in August. And every area, but Ann Arbor, had lower jobless rates this August than they did a year ago.

In a recent statewide survey, employers gave the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) high grades for its administration of the state's unemployment benefit program.

"Eighty percent of the Michigan employers, responding to our survey, said that the overall service they receive from MESC's unemployment benefit operation is good," MESC director F. Robert Edwards said. "And 83 percent said MESC employees in our local offices are courteous, well-informed and helpful."

MESC also found that most employers think the agency issues decisions about unemployment benefit payments promptly. Eighty-nine percent said they receive claims decisions within 30 days.

Although employers must complete numerous forms related to jobless benefits, 86 percent said the benefit forms are easy to complete.

"Even more encouraging,"

Edwards said, "was the fact that they understand both the purpose and need for the forms."

The survey also pointed out services that employers like or would like to have from MESC. For example, 98 percent said they like doing business with the agency by mail and phone, while 90 percent said they like responding by fax.

A large number — 92 percent — said they value MESC's toll-free telephone customer assistance service for employers (1-800-638-3994). In line with toll-free assistance, 89 percent of the responding employers said phone access to MESC is "extremely" or "very" important.

MESC's Advocacy Program also received a very favorable response from employers with 89 percent wanting help in appealing benefit decisions. The Advocacy Program offers free consultation, information and representation services to employers and claimants who have appeals before MESC referees or the MESC Board of Review.

"The Secchia Report pointed out that state government must be more responsive to its customers, and I think our toll-free telephone help system and our Advocacy Program are two prime examples of customer friendly services offered by MESC," Edwards said. "Both services are popular with employers. Our toll-free help line, for example, averages 2,500 employer calls a month, while the Advocacy Program handles about 200 employer cases a month."

Although most survey responses are positive, some areas drew critical reactions from employers. Thirty-five percent of the responding employers said they have a hard time reaching the right person at MESC; 36 percent said the phones are not answered promptly and 14 percent believe the attitudes of some MESC staff need improvement.

"The survey results from employers and claimants are generally very positive toward the agency and its staff," Edwards said. "But we are not a perfect organization, and there is room to improve. I intend to use these survey findings in working with MESC staff to make refinements where they are needed."

Sent out in May, the survey went to 10,000 Michigan employers who have had unemployment benefit charges since January 1994.

"The survey gauged employer satisfaction with our operations," Edwards said.

"It told us what services employers want from MESC, how they view our existing services and what we must do to improve our education and information efforts."

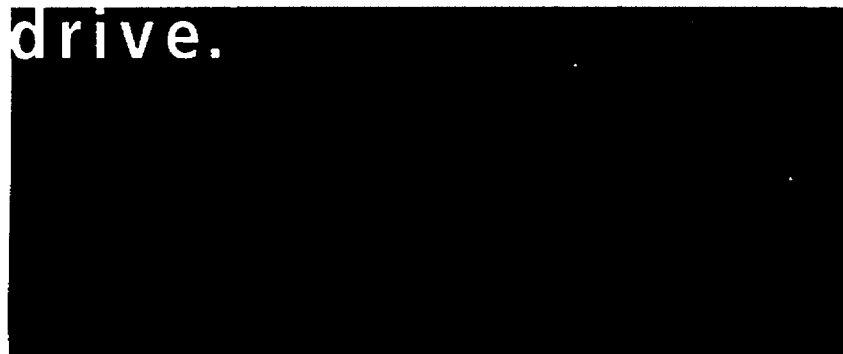

The benefit survey is the second in a series of four customer surveys MESC is doing.

IJO GUARANTEES
THE BEST POSSIBLE PRICES

Antwerp, Belgium - Most jewelers do not have direct access to the huge supply of loose diamonds available in Antwerp. Typically, only the largest importers can purchase diamonds in Antwerp. And it is these importers, who in turn, normally sell these Antwerp diamonds to local jewelers. But Eugene Fera and John & Lisa Okoniewski of F.A.O. Jewelers in Brighton, Michigan will soon be making a trip to Antwerp to buy diamonds for their clients.

How can they do it? "We're the exclusive charter member of the Master IJO Jewelers organization in this area. Since IJO is the largest Buying Group in the world, with more than 900 members world-wide and over $750 million in retail sales. Master IJO Jewelers like us are welcomed in Antwerp," says Lisa Okoniewski.

IJO is, in fact, larger than all other Buying Groups combined, which goes a long way toward explaining why Master IJO Jewelers can buy from direct diamond sources in Antwerp. IJO not only gives its members rare access to Antwerp diamond cutters, but tremendous buying clout as well.

As Eugene Fera says, "Being personal diamond brokers for our clients, we can choose from every diamond in Antwerp, purchase the exact gems our clients want and get deep discounts on their behalf. Clients are also assured of the highest standards of Cut, Color, Clarity, and Carat Weight, the famous 4 C's of diamond value."

ANTWERP IS THE DIAMOND

Antwerp, Belgium - Over half of the world's supply of diamonds is sold in Antwerp. It's the world's leading source for these precious gems, and that includes the finest, well-made diamonds from South Africa, India, Russia, Israel, and other diamond centers around the world.

But most jewelers never travel to far-off Antwerp to buy diamonds for their clients. However, one local jeweler who is now planning a diamond buying trip to Antwerp is Eugene Fera and John & Lisa Okoniewski of F.A.O. Jewelers in Brighton, Michigan.

"Even though it's a long trip, it's worth it," says John Okoniewski. "We expect to see more fine diamonds in Antwerp than we could anywhere else. And because we'll be acting as personal diamond brokers for our store's clients, we can negotiate better prices on the exact stones our clients want, and pass the savings directly on to them."

General Sales Manager Mike DeLong shows off the new Used Car Showroom being built by Brighton Ford-Mercury alongside the new car dealership.

Used cars are not an afterthought

In addition to their already well known slogan "customers for life", Brighton Ford-Mercury, at 8240 W. Grand River, is adding another. "Used cars are not an afterthought" is the new buzz phrase. In a major expansion, the newest addition to the already huge dealership is an impressive used car showroom, which opened beside the new car dealership earlier this month.

According to Mike DeLong, General Sales Manager, "Used cars are the tail that wags the dog." This is clearly a marketing strategy that makes sense today as the needs of the community are changing. More and more families are becoming two-income households with both parents commuting to work, making two or three cars to a family the norm.

While new car sales are obviously important to the dealership, DeLong says used cars do make "customers for life". A teenager who buys his or her first car from the used car area will likely come back to buy his first "new" car from the same dealership. By the same token, a family that needs three cars may not be able to afford three "new" cars, making a quality pre-owned vehicle a viable option.

At Brighton Ford/Mercury, they make a serious effort to create a comfortable environment for all of their customers. "We want customers to have a comfort zone," said DeLong. "A lot of our sales people live locally. It sets the stage for a comfortable sale." Brighton Ford-Mercury offers convenient sales hours from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

The string of computerized service bays, are open 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. Jeff Grantz, service director, says the department offers state-of-the-art equipment, and a caring and attentive service staff. Technicians are always available to answer any questions or wait on a customer.

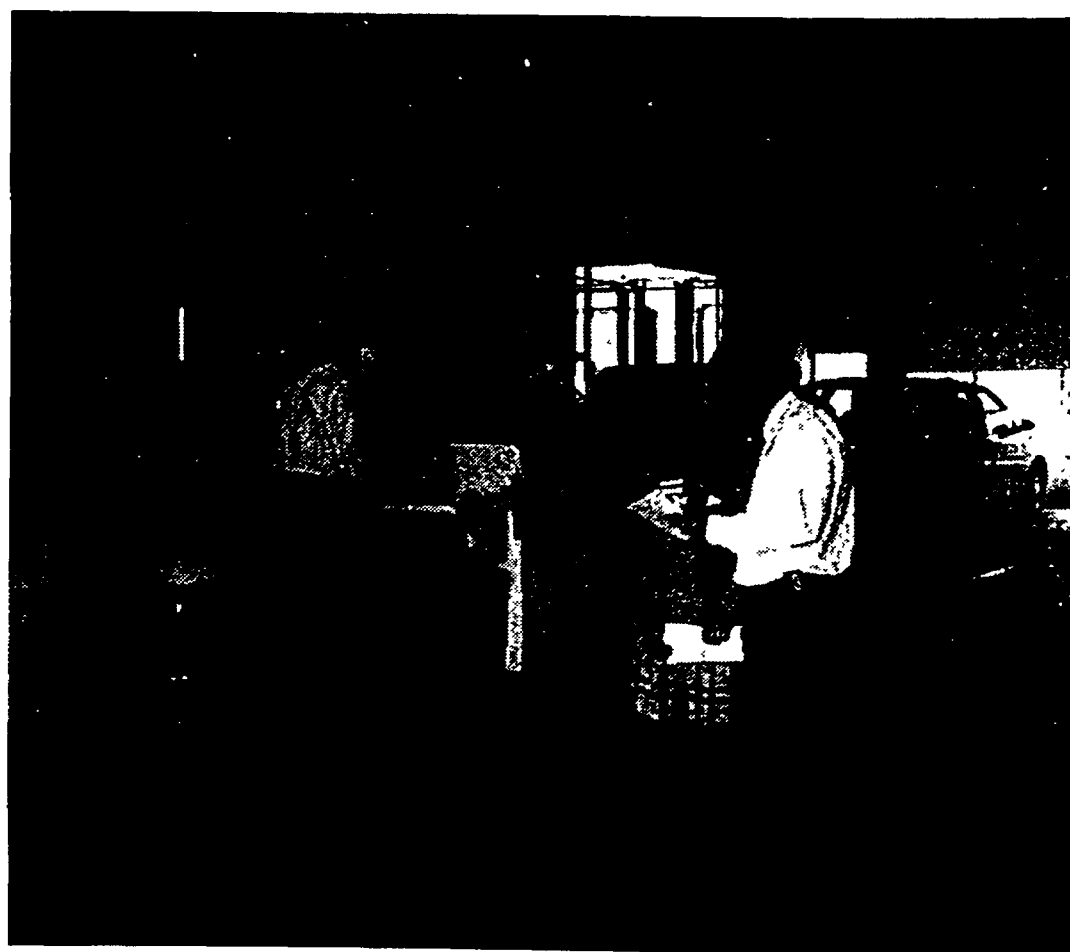

The dealership is currently selling 450 new and used cars and trucks a month. DeLong gives his 35 member sales staff credit for the large increase from last year's already impressive sales.

"We're still on the rise" in sales, he said. "Livingston County is a good area to do business because it's one of the fastest growing counties around," he said.

"We anticipate selling about 500 (new and used cars and trucks) a month by year's end. We'll continue to grow as the county grows."

Just as there have been many changes and improvements in the sales area of the dealership, so to has the quality of customer service. For instance, the dealership makes a special effort to involve and educate women about cars. Female buyers make up 50 percent of their sales.

Brighton Ford-Mercury is owned by Jerry Spittler. For more information on new or used car sales or service, call 810-227-1171.

F.A.O. JEWELERS

F.A.O. Jewelers consistently provides value

There has been a major change in the jewelry industry in our area during the past few years. F.A.O. Jewelers has quickly emerged as the leader in diamond jewelry sales, due mostly to their excellent customer service and commitment to finding the best diamond value possible for each individual customer.

With diamonds being their specialty, F.A.O. Jewelers concentrates most of their efforts on helping to educate their customers about valuable information that will make their purchase more comfortable, and fun! According to Eugene Fera, co-owner of F.A.O. Jewelers, "most people find buying a diamond somewhat frustrating, or at least a little awkward because it's not something that you do very often, and buying a diamond is quite a major purchase. Slight differences in the cut, color and clarity of a diamond can cause huge differences in that diamond's beauty and value. What we like to do is personally spend time with each client, and teach them how to better determine all the factors that contribute to a diamond's appearance and price. We use equipment from the G.I.A. (Gemological Institute of America) to analyze each diamond very strictly, and once we show people all these techniques used to understand diamonds better, they feel very comfortable and find it much more enjoyable to select a diamond."

Besides their efforts to help each client understand diamonds better, F.A.O. Jewelers success can also be attributed to their "VALUE BASED PRICING." "Our goal," says F.A.O. Jewelers other co-owner John Okoniewski, "is to find the best quality diamond for each client, and the best possible price; period. Our reputation has grown quickly in regards to the fact that we work within people's budgets, and help them select the most beautiful diamond possible. People want, and rightly expect, to get value for their money, and that's exactly what we give them: a beautiful diamond and a great price!" Okoniewski goes on to say that "We do not falsely inflate our prices so we can have a 50 percent off sale like so many other jewelers do. Our regular everyday price beats the competition 365 days a year. When people truly compare, they can easily see the value in the diamonds we sell."

The reason F.A.O. Jewelers diamond prices are the best in the area, is due to their exclusive membership in the IJO (Independent Jewelers Organization). This is a very prestigious and selective group that was formed over 20 years ago, that pools their resources together to the benefit of each member. F.A.O. Jewelers applied for membership, and was accepted as the exclusive jeweler in our area. With over 900 members and almost 750 million dollars in annual sales, the IJO has a lot of buying power.

With other members of the IJO, F.A.O. Jewelers buys diamonds directly from the best diamond cutters in Antwerp, Belgium, where over 60 percent of all the diamonds in the world get cut. This is something the average jeweler could never do. But because of the IJO's stature and success, F.A.O. Jewelers can buy directly from the diamond cutter, eliminating several "middle men", and passes savings on to their customers. "Our store can buy diamonds better than any of our competitors, even the larger chains, because of the clout of having over 900 IJO members buying together," says Okoniewski.

Besides specializing in diamonds, F.A.O. Jewelers also is known for their unique and beautiful custom designs they create right in their own store. They have the capability of creating any type of jewelry. First a wax pattern is made, and then cast into gold or platinum. Once in metal, the piece is hand finished and the stones are set into place. "We put great care and pride into each piece of jewelry we make," says Fera, "and our goal is to consistently create jewelry that is both beautiful and durable. Pieces that can be cherished for a lifetime and the passed on through the generations."

If you are considering purchasing any type of jewelry product: an engagement ring, a tennis bracelet, a pair of diamond earrings, an anniversary ring or necklace, you definitely need to see the experts at F.A.O. Jewelers. They will help you understand the different qualities available in diamonds, and make sure you get the most value for your money.

A country store and a whole lot more

Touch of Country Shoppe is a country store and a whole lot more, specializing in gifts, oak furniture and collectibles.

Owned by Gary and Gerry Anscombe, Touch of Country is a destination store with a friendly following of customers and friends — a place where people want to bring their family and company.

Nestled along a rural section of M-59 half way between Howell and Hartland, Touch of Country draws customers from miles around. However, Gary and Gerry believe many local residents are missing out, unaware of the extent of gifts, collectibles and furniture that lay waiting for them in the store.

Every nook and cranny of Touch of Country is laden with goodies and treasures, enough to keep customers' interests for hours.

"We have wonderful customers. A lot of them travel a long way just to come to our shoppe," Gerry says. "They're very friendly and seem to really enjoy being here."

Touch of Country keeps customers coming back by offering a plethora of gift items and family heirlooms, as well as items for displaying their cherished collectibles.

With more than 30 collectible lines available, five of the most popular lines are Precious Moments, Madame Alexander, Fenton Glass, Emmett Kelly and Anheuser Busch.

"In gift lines, we carry collectibles and many unique items that could be keepsakes or family heirlooms. Our most recent addition is Grandfather Clocks," Gerry says. "Since increasing our collectible lines, we have also become more aware of people's needs for display items, such as doll cases, plate stands, shelves and curios."

Solid oak furnishings remain an integral part of Touch of Country's inventory. Roll top desks, curios, hutches, rockers and hope chests are just some of the pieces offered. Other home decor items include a large line of Yankee candles, Clare Burke potpourri, chair cushions, lace curtains and doilies and more.

The Anscombes started out selling oak furniture in the the Bargain Barn, another store on their property. 11 years ago. They created Touch of Country to make a better atmosphere for the quality and convenience of items they were selling.

Within the last year, the Bargain Barn has been converted into an antique barn, plus continuing to sell Winston Cup Racing Collectibles. The two businesses provide an interesting mix for shoppers. Both men and women enjoy the wide variety of merchandise in the Touch of Country as well as browsing through the nostalgia of the antique barn. Often the wives will wrap up a long afternoon of shopping and not be able to find their husbands, who have lost themselves among the nooks and crannies of both businesses.

Touch of Country began as a family-run business. The Anscombe's daughter, Gail Batteese, has worked there for the past six years as bookkeeper and collectibles manager. As the business has grown over the years, Gary and Gerry say they have been blessed with exceptional employees. "We have employees who have formed almost a secondary family," Gerry says. "We care about them and they for us, personally as well as professionally. It makes it nice to come to work every day."

Touch of Country, 5640 M-59, is open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., except Thursday when the business is open until 8 p.m. (517)546-5995.

HEIRLOOM ORIENTAL RUGS

Art, beauty and function to last a lifetime

In fashion and home furnishings, there is some truth to the old adage that everything old is new again. One example is the rediscovery of the elegance and beauty oriental rugs add to a home. Heirloom Oriental Rugs, at 217 W. Main Street in Brighton, offers a wonderful array of unique, hand-made oriental rugs to suit the first time buyer to the collector.

Although Oriental rugs were very popular in the 1920s, they fell from favor in the fifties, when the ever-practical wall-to-wall carpeting became America's favorite floor covering. Now, with the resurgence of hard wood and tile floors, oriental rugs are back in demand. "People are now rediscovering what their grandparents knew about style and originality," says Maundy Miller, owner of Heirloom Oriental Rugs.

Homeowners are amazed when they put the right rug in a room for the first time. "It pulls the whole room together," says Maundy. "People say they never realized how empty the room was without it."

There are two kinds of customers for oriental rugs. Heirlooms is proud to cater to both of them. The "decorator" customer desires a rug to blend well with the furnishings in the home. They often prefer city rugs.

a plan designed by a master weaver. They tend to be intricate, colorful and often floral. The "collector" is less concerned about how a particular rug compliments

have geometric designs with bold colors. The design often exists only in the mind eye of the weaver. The origins of tribal rugs can often be traced by their traditional designs. Both types of rugs are very labor intensive to produce, taking a year or more to weave.

Maundy imports her rugs from countries all over the world, including China, Turkey, Afghanistan and Tibet. Heirlooms has become a regional resource for fine and hard-to-find pieces. The rugs I choose are unique, one-of-a-kind. I pick each rug individually. "I look carefully for color and quality when selecting a piece. I spend time with customers explaining the quality and craftsmanship of each rug." If a customer can't find exactly what they want in the store, Maundy has a network of suppliers to draw on to help find the right piece. If the rug still doesn't work out, there is no obligation for the customer to buy. It's just part of the customer service.

Heirlooms is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Maundy is in the store Fridays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and by appointment anytime during the week. For more information call (810) 227-4751.

This year's President is William Hamway of Hamway Homes. He feels the organization serves as an important resource for the community and is a good place for builders and tradespeople to come together. Members receive services ranging from legal advice to sample contract language, as well as educational seminars on ordinances and building codes and an opportunity to network with other companies in the building industry.

For residents of the community, the Association offers an annual membership directory which provides information on reputable builders and contractors in the area. Executive Officer, Carol Kull, encourages people looking for a builder, tradesperson or remodeler to call the Association for a complimentary directory before starting any building or remodeling project.

The Home Builders Association is also involved in several community events. The annual Cavalcade of Homes, a scattered site parade of new homes in the county, takes place the first two weeks in June. Thousands of people attend to compare price, style and trends in the Livingston County area. There is always at least one home featuring innovative building products, such as steel framing, energy efficient building products, barrier free design or home office technology.

The Ultimate Open House, hosted by the Association every spring welcomes folks to view homes in the area and includes a Home Buying Seminar where people can learn the details of purchasing the home of their dreams.

"Other events and services are ongoing," says Carol. A Fire Safety House was built for local county fire departments with labor and materials donated by members of the Home Builders Association. It is quite an event when a fire department pulls up to a local school with a miniature house on wheels to educate children on fire safety.

Another event in the community which the HBA proudly supports is Christmas in April-Livingston County, a volunteer organization which renovates homes for the elderly, handicapped, and impoverished. Members of the Association provide a majority of the skilled labor and materials for the annual event, and have also been a major financial supporter since its inception four years ago. The HBA now sponsors an annual Las Vegas Night the first Saturday in April to raise funds and awareness for this worthy cause.

Hammers and saws are also making noise at the Home Builders Association's new location in Brighton. The Brighton Area Historical Society is currently working with the HBA to help raise funds for the renovation of the 130+ year old building at 132 E. Grand River. The HBA has already raised over $100,000 in financial, material and labor donations, and will need approximately $100,000 more to finish the job. As a fundraiser for the renovation, the Association is sponsoring a raffle for a 1996 Dodge Avenger sports car, valued at over $20,000. Only 500 tickets will be sold at $100 each and can be purchased at the Association office, or at George Moses Co., Uber Drugs and G.L. # Accommodating night and weekend students

When it's time to move up in the business world or make a fresh start after high school, Cleary College has a caring faculty and flexible schedules to fit your needs. Finding a college that can work around your busy lifestyle is not always easy, but Cleary College does it every day. The classes and instructors cater especially to those who already have a tight schedule, and will arrange classes according to students' needs.

Cleary College offers day classes, but mostly accommodates night and weekend students. All of the necessary resources are accessible on campus, in one building. Classes, advisors, a child care center, a computer center, the book store and the library are all right down the hall from each other. Registration is also made easy, and can even be done over the telephone. "Our main focus is on the non-traditional business student who has a lot going on in their lives, and can't make college their first priority," says Assistant Dean Melissa Rensi.

Cleary College has two main campuses, one in Ypsilanti and one at 3750 Cleary Drive, just off Grand River in Howell. There are also five extensions of the school which use the facilities of community colleges in Oakland, Washtenaw, Wayne, Jackson and Livingston counties.

A student can hook up to the college with a modem, and in turn, can have conversations or class discussions with faculty members and other students. This is very convenient for people who need to stay home for one reason or another.

Alternative Credit is an option for students who wish to earn credits outside the classroom, by working or volunteering in the community. This is not only convenient, but also a valuable way to tie in schooling with the real world.

The Accelerated Degree Programs are the most acclaimed among students. These are designed for the student to finish his or her BBA (Bachelor of Business Administration) in one year. A student needs two years of college (60 credits) and three years of business related work experience to qualify for the program. Majors are offered in either Business Management or Quality Management.

Applied Research Projects are required for students working toward their BBA. Before they earn their degree, they are required to complete a year long project. Students must identify an actual problem at work, and by the end of the year, solve it using the knowledge they acquired at college. "Students like this option because they can take theory and turn it into practice. It gives them hands on experience," Rensi says.

Another favorable aspect of Cleary College is its instructors, who view themselves as facilitators rather than traditional teachers. Many instructors are working in the fields in which they teach, so they bring real world experiences to the classroom. Instructors are also very in tune with what students can offer to their classes. Many students are seasoned business professionals and bring their insight and experience into the classroom. The instructors really value what the students have to say, so class discussions become very enlightening. "Instructors see themselves as educated partners in the learning process," says Rensi.

Cleary College is open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturday.

Class times during the week and weekends vary from mornings to days to evenings. Weekend appointments are available with advisors, and the book store is open at night. For more information call (517) 548-3670.

NAYLOR CHRYSLER PLYMOUTH JEEP EAGLE

Naylor Chrysler Plymouth, at 2060 Stadium Street in Ann Arbor, was built by a local architect in the shape of a pentastar.

Distinctive dealership aims to simplify car sales

When you walk into the Naylor Chrysler Plymouth showroom, it immediately stands out as an impressive car dealership. Built by a local architect in the shape of a pentastar, the corporate symbol of Chrysler Corporation, the building is like a huge, wooden dome covering the finest new cars.

It's no coincidence that customers feel comfortable at Naylor Chrysler Plymouth. They are welcome to walk around or ask questions for as long as they wish — not pressured, but not left stranded either. There are two lobbies to relax in, one with coffee and magazines and another with kids' toys. There is even a miniature, children's car in the showroom for kids to play with and drive while their parents look at real cars. "We want people to come in whenever they want and just relax," says Lloyd Greer, general sales manager.

Naylor Chrysler Plymouth was started by Don Naylor 45 years ago on Washington Street in downtown Ann Arbor. He moved the dealership 20 years later to its current location at 2060 Stadium Street in Ann Arbor. Ten years ago, Don's son Phil Naylor took over the business. Through the years, the quality of the vehicles has improved, and so has Naylor's commitment to the community. They support many charities, particularly those involving the University of Michigan and United Way. Every year, Naylor Chrysler supplies two automobiles for the U-M hockey and basketball coaches. They also provide vans for the United Way Walkathon. This past July, they extended their tradition of caring even further by giving a van to a local woman, so she would have a vehicle to transport her ill son to Cincinnati for an operation.

The Naylor business philosophy is apparent at all times throughout the dealership. "The idea is to work with the customer, try to help them, and do it right the first time," Eloyd says. "Try to give out as much information as possible, and be as utmost helpful and friendly as possible. Basically, treat people the way you wish to be treated."

There are 11 employees on the sales staff. The team of four managers includes Mike McCarroll, business manager, John Moorman, sales manager, Jeff Banks, customer service manager, and Lloyd Greer, general sales manager. They are all very customer oriented and knowledgeable about the different aspects of cars. They maintain a comfortable, helpful atmosphere where customers' needs are top priority.

The new car department is very impressive, considering Chrysler distinctly changed all of its products in the last three to four years. Naylor Chrysler sells all vehicles at 1 percent over invoice, making it easy for a customer to buy a car. "We try to simplify the selling of cars. We sell quality, not play around with prices. We show customers the invoice and work from there, without arguing over price," Lloyd says. Leasing has also become a very popular option, taking up a large segment of the market.

The used car department is run by Mr. Stamper, one of the finest used car dealers in the county. He comes from a family of used car dealers, including his father and his uncle. The lot features a huge selection of over 200 cars, of all makes and models. They are all safety checked and repaired before a sale. If a car does not meet Chrysler's 50 point check list, they won't sell the car.

The service department at Naylor Chrysler Plymouth has won numerous awards, including the Five Star Award for the last six years. This is the highest service award that Chrysler awards. Even though they do an extensive volume of service, they take the time to work out problems with every customer. The service technicians are all state and Chrysler certified and attend school yearly to keep updated on changing technologies. "We all work hard to get service upgraded to the highest standards," Lloyd says.

The service department repairs all makes and models, and gets it right the first time. They keep customers happy by repairing cars quickly and efficiently. Naylor Chrysler has two shuttle busses that circulate around Ann Arbor daily, transporting people to and from their daily activities while their cars are getting serviced.

The Body Shop, under the direction of Don Morgan, is one of the best rated body shops in the area. Their repeat customers will confirm that they always do quality work. The parts department, managed by Tony Pietras, carries all the genuine, quality parts that a customer's car could need.

There is also an excellent support staff at Naylor Chrysler. Jim Neider, controller, Julie Bidol, office manager, and everyone who works with them are there to help customers at any given time — even if it is just to offer them a hot cup of coffee while they wait.

The showroom is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. The Body Shop is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Service Department is open from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday, and 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. ## THE HOME STORE

Providing a fresh alternative to traditional furniture stores

Not all of us were blessed with impeccable decorating style. Fortunately, those who draw a blank when it comes to beautifying their homes can be inspired by the stylish furniture, creative atmosphere and unique home accessorizing ideas at The Home Store.

Owners Susan and Tim Cutting started the first Home Store nine years ago, creating a fresh alternative to traditional furniture stores. They sway away from the repetitiveness found in department stores and large furniture stores. Because they don't buy their merchandise in mass quantities, they can pick and choose the most appealing and original pieces. Typically, small furniture stores are too expensive for the average shopper, but Tim and Susan make sure their quality furnishings are also affordable.

The original Home Store started in Northville. It was such a success there that last year the Cuttings opened another store in Novi, which is also experiencing success. "People love to look at our eclectic selection of home accessories, and our reasonable prices," says Susan. The store does not just display furniture, it shows decorating styles and ideas. The showroom looks like 20 different rooms melting together, filled with charming and unusual decorative pieces.

Susan, who has a degree in Fine Arts, has always enjoyed decorating. She has put on several successful art shows, and because of their popularity she was able to develop her own line of gift accessories. Susan sold her designs to various stores for six years before going into business for herself.

Tim and Susan realize that furniture is an important aspect of a home. People need to contemplate what they want before buying something so major. "Customers deserve a lot of personal attention because their purchases are so unique," says Susan. Employees Priscilla, Cheryl, Linda, and Brenda are all knowledgeable about fabric, selection and style. They listen to customers' ideas and do what they can to help. "My customers get treated really well, and my employees are incredible," says Susan.

Susan describes the Home Store as "a shopping experience." Whenever she goes to other furniture stores, she modestly notes, "Ours is not the typical. Our furnishings and accessories are displayed in a decorative fashion."

Tim and Susan have lived in Northville for 20 years and feel it is a great community. They enjoy its nice atmosphere and Victorian style homes.

The Northville location is at 446 S. Main Street and the Novi location is at 26179 Novi Road. Both Home Store locations are open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. The Home Store in Novi can be reached at (810) 349-7955 and the Northville location at (810) 348-9620.

Jewelry store excels in custom work

"I like to carry unique items that our customers will not find at other jewelry stores," says Orin J. Mazzoni, Jr., of Orin Jewelers in Northville and Garden City.

"The strongest part of our business, and an area we excel in, is our custom work," he continued. "We can even have gemstones specially cut for our customers." Four jewelers work at Orin Jewelers' Garden City store, doing custom work, repairs and appraisals.

Mazzoni personally supervises all work. "We make sure our customers know what they're getting," he said. "It is very important to us. We take them through the '4-cs' — color, clarity, cut and carat weight."

Orin Jewelers has a "master diamond set" — something very few jewelry stores have.

"I stress training and education of the staff, too," said Mazzoni. "We have meetings on product and gemological knowledge."

Each member of the staff has an average of seven years experience. David Beyer is a registered jeweler. Beyer began working for Orin Jewelers as an engraver when he was 15 years old and has been manager of the Northville store since it opened in 1983.

Store assistant is Carole Urban, who joined the team when the Northville store opened.

The third generation of Mazzonis is already being trained in the office — learning about gems and cleaning stock, just like their parents before them.

"My daughter, Gina, has also made jewelry in high school," said Mazzoni.

Orin Jewelers is the only member of the Independent Jewelers Organizations (IJO) in Western Wayne County. IJO is the largest diamond buying group in the world. There are only 41 jewelers in Michigan who are IJO members. IJO strictly monitors the caliber and number of its jewelry businesses in a given geographic area.

Mazzoni is a certified gemologist appraiser with the American Gem Society and a graduate of the Gemological Institute of America. He learned the business while living above the family's original store at the corner of Ford Road and Middlebelt.

The first Orin Jewelers was opened by Orin Mazzoni, Sr. in 1933 in West Virginia. In 1953 the family moved to Ford Road and Middlebelt, living above the store. The Mazzoni children began learning the business "from the bottom up." In 1965, the present Garden City store was opened.

Mazzoni, who stepped into the family business in 1969 along with his brother, Michael, and sister, Joyce, strives to maintain the dedication to quality, service and integrity initiated by his father 62 years ago.

Orin Jewelers prides itself on its customer satisfaction above all else.

Serving the customer includes adding the personal touches. "We call to remind our customers about anniversaries and birthdays," Mazzoni said.

Corporate sales and school fund-raisers are becoming a larger part of the business. Local companies want custom logos for their awards programs and gifts.

Another service is appraisals, which can be done on any type of jewelry. Orin Jewelers is also an authorized Insurance Replacement Center.

Located on the corner of Main and Center streets in downtown Northville, Orin Jewelers, Inc. is open Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A decade of quality design in Novi

If you have noticed buildings in the area that have elegant details, graceful forms, and functional and friendly spaces, you are probably looking at the architecture of Mamola Associates Architects, PC., a firm noted for creating quality designs that reflect the dynamic needs of businesses and industries.

For over a decade, Mamola Associates Architects has been making a unique contribution to the vitality, growth and development of Novi. The firm has completed over 100 projects in the city, including the well-known Rossi Office Building, the Novi Library interiors and the Wonderland Music Store.

Current work in progress, such as Cort Furniture, the Milford Banquet Facility, West Oaks Veterinary Clinic and the renovation of an industrial facility for Programmed Products, continue to demonstrate Mamola Associates' talent and capabilities.

Mamola Associates Architects' own headquarters is recognized from the road by its white picket fence surrounding the property. Once you've entered into the driveway, the scenery changes.

With a masterful blend of contemporary architecture and traditional detail, the office building takes the appearance of a modernized, yet old country resort, inside and out.

Lee Mamola, owner and principal architect, has been dedicated to Novi for many years. He was a member of the Planning Board for three years, a volunteer for the Historic District Study Committee, former President of the Chamber of Commerce, current President of the Novi Rotary Club, and Treasurer of the Michigan Architectural Foundation. Mamola is proud to have formed such a close tie with the Novi community, and hopes to continue to offer his services for years to come.

Though Novi remains his central base, Mamola is expanding his practice to other communities as well. His work for Blue Water Plastics in Marysville recently received a design award from the Construction Association of Michigan, and he has completed other successful projects in Plymouth, Livonia and Milford. Mamola Associates Architects specializes in obtaining various municipal approvals, land use planning and zoning variances.

"That specialization leads us into a variety of commercial and light industrial projects," Mamola says. An expert at determining how a project affects the surrounding environment, Mamola notes, "We are often able to secure difficult approvals for our clients when they need them." Mamola Associates Architects strives to maintain excellent client relationships. "We develop over time a sense of trust with them, and they with us. This mutual respect allows us to bring creativity and uniqueness of clients' evolving needs, whether large or small."

Novi Chamber keeps area businesses moving toward future

Connie Mallet has been the driving force behind the Novi Chamber of Commerce for the past nine years.

For the past nine years, Connie Mallet has been the driving force behind the Novi Chamber of Commerce. Since she was hired as Executive Director in 1986, the Chamber has flourished dramatically, quadrupling in size.

When Connie first started, the Chamber had one part-time secretary in a one-room office on the second floor of an old building. The Chamber of Commerce now has two full time employees and a large, three room office full of hustle and bustle. Connie and her daughter Dawn Mallett, work in an expansive, three room office on the first floor of the Novi Expo Center. "There is always so much activity going on around here," says Connie. "We keep very busy."

Connie worked for Parents Without Partners, a non-profit organization, for three years before accepting a job with the Novi Chamber of Commerce. She was hired for her administrative skills, but remembers feeling challenged with membership recruitment. "We got busy in the community and started recruiting," says Connie. Within three years, the Chamber had doubled in size, progressing from 91 members to 200 members. Five years later, the Chamber has doubled in size again, reaching nearly 400 members.

The Novi Chamber of Commerce is a business/civic organization where business people and community groups work to enhance the quality of life within the Novi community. Information and resources about community issues and trends are readily available for people. Connie describes the Chamber as "an opportunity for businesses to network with each other and keep up on current issues and trends that might affect them. It is also a place for people to get information about community events and activities."

The Novi Chamber of Commerce has pioneered many community events in its long history of service. In recent years, the Chamber has initiated or helped to promote a wide variety of activities, including Business Mixers, Michigan 50's Festival, Business Seminars, Novi Expo Center, Convention and Visitors Bureau, Annual Charity Auction, Taste of Novi, Annual Golf Outing, Country Fest and Focus Health Week.

Connie personally implemented the Michigan 50's Festival in 1987. She pulled key people in the community together, like the mall business owners and the city manager, to pursue the merits of a citywide festival. At that time, the Chamber was too small to take on such a large project, but Connie went ahead with it anyway. She was president for the first two years, and then managed it for three. Now it is an enormous event celebrated annually by thousands.

Various committees within the Chamber take responsibility for particular business and community issues. These committees include Business Development and Training, Chamber Ambassadors, Community Affairs, Convention & Visitors Bureau, Economic Development, Legislative Affairs, Membership, Partnership in Education, and Special Events. Members meet intermittently to plan activities, arrange newsletters and develop educational programs.

The Chamber of Commerce has a monthly membership luncheon meeting where members discuss programs of business interest. It is a common misconception that the Chamber is a city organization supported by tax dollars. Connie would like the credit placed where it belongs, with the Novi business people, who actively care for their community by supporting the Chamber and its activities.

The Novi Chamber of Commerce, at 43700 Novi Expo Center, is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and can be reached by calling (810) 349-3743.

We're Growing With Novi!

The Chamber of Commerce is a business organization. Its mission is to preserve, protect, promote and help businesses in the city of Novi, as well as sponsor and help businesses enhance the overall quality of life in Novi.

The Chamber has pioneered many community events in its history. Among these are: Michigan 50's Festival, Business Mixers, Taste of Novi, Novi Expo Center, the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

We are proud to play an active role in the business activity of Novi.

The Creative edge in kitchen and bath design

Considering a kitchen or bath remodeling project? Stop by Creative Kitchens & Baths, Inc. at 227 N. Barnard in Howell and watch your ideas become a picture perfect reality. The business has the products, services and experience to coordinate any remodeling project from start to finish.

Creative Kitchens & Baths is a full service store that has everything needed to achieve your remodeling goals. Aside from quality cabinetry, the business also offers countertops, ceramic tile, plumbing products, flooring, wallpaper and appliances.

Products for the bath include showers, tub enclosures, shower doors and the stylish and popular glass blocks. Kitchen or bath, Creative can replace one or two items or take everything out and redesign a new room. They can also put a bath or kitchen in where there was none. To ensure customer satisfaction, installers are on the payroll with a minimum of 10 years experience and are certified Corian fabricators.

Owner Dennis Nussle has been in the home remodeling business for 30 years. His wife Sharon joined the operation in 1980 and their children also work for the family business. Dennis started Creative Kitchens & Baths in Old Redford, before moving to 119 N. Michigan Avenue in Howell, where the business remained from 1975 to '88. After outgrowing the original Howell location, Creative Kitchens & Baths moved a few blocks away to its current home on North Barnard Street. Customers enjoy the new location because of its ample parking and larger showroom displaying the latest in kitchen and bath features.

Creative offers cabinets in a variety of price ranges to suit the customer. There are two lines of stock cabinets, the semi-custom Pioneer cabinets, and the Pen-nville and Decora lines of custom cabinets — all of which are factory direct. "We are not connected to any brand or product, which allows us the freedom and ability to offer customers options to fit their needs, tastes and pocketbooks. We always try for the best dollar value," says Sharon.

Dennis and Sharon are particularly proud of Creative's relationship with Pioneer. The business has offered Pioneer's semi-custom cabinets since the Davison-based company's inception in the early eighties. "They are committed to quality and service," Sharon said. "Because of Pioneer, we are able to offer semi-custom cabinets at stock cabinet prices." Pioneer carries a wide variety of cabinetry options in wood selections, door styles and finishes and has just introduced two new door styles and another wood species — pine.

"Customers base their cabinet buying decisions on more than price. Whether you're remodeling or building a new house, your kitchen and bath represent your individual tastes. We design according to those tastes," Sharon said. "When a customer comes in with an idea, we work with them as much as possible and within the limitations of the cabinet company to get them what they want." From hand sketches to extensive computer designs, Creative consults with the customer to make sure nothing is left to chance.

Although the bulk of their work is in kitchens and baths, Creative is not limited to remodeling in those two rooms. They will work anywhere in a home where cabinetry is needed. Creative can even help finance such remodeling projects as well as new home construction.

Sharon does interior decorating and helps customers with their wallpaper and color coordination. Her expertise in that area has led Pioneer to ask her to help design their displays for expos and trade shows. Along with Pioneer, she is also aiding in the design of the set for a new Michigan State University PBS show called "Michigan Gourmet." She arranged the set decoration and countertops and Pioneer provided the cabinets.

Creative Kitchens & Baths has always been a Howell Area Chamber of Commerce member. Dennis was instrumental in helping reinstitute the chamber's Home Show several years ago, and every year Creative designs an excellent award winning display for the show.

In business for 30 years, Creative Kitchens & Baths enjoys a tremendous amount of repeat business and warmly welcomes new customers.

Optometrist offers quality personalized health care

Quality eye care is the top priority at Town & Country Eyecare. Owner and Doctor of Optometry Tim Kirk, and his experienced staff, strive to provide two things: quality personalized health care, and fashionable, upscale frames.

Town & Country Eyecare has a convenient and easy-to-reach location in the Oakpointe Plaza on Novi Road and 9 Mile.

The staff of four allows customers to feel remembered and cared for by the same trusted people every time they have a question or a problem.

"My staff was picked for experience and congeniality," said Dr. Kirk. Kristie Everett, a certified ophthalmic assistant, has over three years' experience. She is involved in pretesting and visual field testing in addition to teaching patients how to use contacts. Opticians Sheila Connors and Jill Vella both have more than 10 years' experience helping patients select the best lens-materials and most attractive frames.

The inventory of frames at Town & Country Eyecare includes unique, hand designed frames chosen by the staff for outstanding quality and complementary shapes. The 400 to 500 frames in stock include Calvin Klein, Giorgio Armani, Fendi, Laura Ashley, European styles, and Eyeota frames, which are hand crafted with a nature theme. Custom orders are also available.

"My patients love the comfort and convenience of our disposable contacts, even bifocal wearers and patients with astigmatism that may have failed in the past," notes Dr. Kirk.

Services available at Town & Country Eyecare include thorough eye exams, treatment for infections and minor eye injuries and expert contact lens fittings. Dr. Kirk and his staff emphasize preventive eyecare and focus on keeping patients happy and healthy.

Dr. Kirk displays a genuine care for his eyecare practice. He graduated from Ferris State University in 1985 with a Doctorate of Optometry. From 1984-88 he became involved in foreign volunteer eyecare missions. He traveled to Central America and the West Indies with the group VOSH (Volunteer Optometric Services to Humanity), which he was state director of from 1989-91.

In addition, Town & Country Eyecare is active in Partners in Education with the Novi School District. This year Dr. Kirk spoke to almost 400 second graders about routine eyecare and safety, and helped with sheep-eye dissections. They also sponsor T-ball and soccer teams in town and support Novi High Athletic Boosters.

"Since I live in Novi, and the community is supporting my practice and family, I feel a strong obligation to give back to my community," says the doctor.

He is a citizen sponsor for the Rouge rescue of Thorton Creek, which includes

Theme jacuzzi suites make motel a favorite

Kevin and Nancy Dinkel are sure that once you visit their Grand View Motel, you will want to return again and again. The motel, nestled along Grand River Avenue between Brighton and Howell, features five spacious jacuzzi suites that are gaining in popularity with each visitor's stay. Each suite is unique in its own way, boasting a different theme, from the highly romantic Sweetheart Suite to a psychedelic blast from the past in the Oldies Suite. Depending on your personality, the motel has something for everyone, and offers gift certificates to people who want to give a one-of-a-kind gift.

Each suite stay comes with an in-room continental breakfast, coffee, tea and a refrigerator stocked with your favorite pop. Complimentary microwave popcorn is supplied too, so be sure to bring your own movies to play on the VCR and 25-inch color television. The suites are immaculately kept, making you feel as if you are the first person to ever stay there. And each jacuzzi has been installed with comfort in mind. They're huge — big enough to fit two large people comfortably. And you won't find any "postage stamp" size towels here either. Large plush towels can be found in each suite's bathroom, in colors to match the decor.

country tunes. The suite's cedar walls send you back to a cabin nestled in the woods. A patch work quilt lays over the queen size bed and reads "warm and inviting". And the spotless brass fixtures gleam in the night.

If you were at Woodstock or just want to pretend you were, visit Grand View's Oldies Suite. Nancy and her son strung more than 32,000 beads to dangle from doorways, archways and closets in the suite to create a truly groovy pad. A peace banner is positioned over the jacuzzi and visitors can "trip" over the black lights and posters.

Want the feeling of outdoors? Make a reservation for the Jungle Suite where murals cover the walls, creating a rain forest effect. Plush green trees, exotic birds and a dreamy sky add to the fantasy. To carry the theme even further, the base of the jacuzzi and nightstands are covered with stone.

The Sweetheart Suite looks like a honeymoon suite. Everything is crisp, clean and fresh looking, right down to the eyelet curtains, white wicker furniture and cherry woodwork. The suite is tastefully decorated in burgundy, mauve, white and floral prints. A heart-shaped lattice and flower wall decoration adds abiance to the jacuzzi area.

The Fiesta Suite takes you South of the border, with decor featuring festive woven patterns in warm colors. But a ceiling fan and air conditioning make the suite crisp and cool. To enhance the look, the bathsuite door has been rounded and looks like the entry to a cantina.

The Grand View Motel has many rooms — 29 in all — in all prices for visitors. From a simple sleeping room for the weary traveler to efficiencies, studios and one bedrooms up to the unique jacuzzi suites, Grand View has it all.

No matter what room or suite you choose, Nancy and Kevin are sure you will want to come back. "We have had people say this is the nicest place they have ever stayed," Nancy said. The motel has developed a lot of repeat business from as far away as California and Italy with people attracted to the clean rooms and kitchens which make longer stays easier.

For reservations, information or gift certificate options, call Kevin and Nancy at 517-546-2690.

VARSITY LINCOLN MERCURY

The 1996 Mercury Sable is one of the hottest vehicles at Varsity Lincoln Mercury due to its quality workmanship and redesigned shape.

Good, honest service at a fair price

The Stanford brothers of Varsity Lincoln Mercury in Novi have found their niche. They have proven their talents lie in building car dealerships that are both trusted and resourceful. In the 1980s, Lou and Hank Stanford started Varsity Ford in Ann Arbor. The business started as an empty building and developed into the second largest Ford dealer in the U.S.

"It was good, honest service at a fair price that made Varsity Ford so successful and durable," says manager Don Smith, "and we plan to maintain these same business standards at Varsity Lincoln Mercury in Novi."

Lou and Mike Stanford opened Varsity Lincoln Mercury last year at 49251 Grand River, right off Wixom Road and I-96. After just one year, it has grown to be the sixth largest Lincoln Mercury dealership in the country. In the years to come, they hope to expand it even more, to offer the most advanced services available in the industry.

"We value and take care of our customers long after they buy a car," Don says. "This characteristic makes us stand out from the rest."

Lou and Mike opened their dealership in Novi because it is a growing community that needs a Lincoln Mercury dealer. They feel the dealership fills a void in the marketplace, and that their location will soon become a major intersection in Novi. "Some people don't realize that we're here yet," says Don, "but when they do, they're glad to have us around."

Varsity Lincoln Mercury is in the process of building a new body shop, which will open in January. With 40,000 square feet of floor space, it will be one of the largest body shops in Michigan.

"We want to provide the best for our customers," Don says of the new facility. "With the volume we expect to do our prices and service will be the best in town."

The Service Department at Varsity Lincoln Mercury has 50 certified technicians available. They work with state-of-the-art equipment and get cars and trucks repaired right the first time. A new computerized system diagnoses cars' problems quickly, so customers don't have to wait very long for service.

While customers are waiting, Varsity Lincoln Mercury provides them with service loaner-cars or free shuttle service to work, home or the mall. When customers get their cars back, they are often pleasantly surprised to discover that Varsity Lincoln Mercury washes every car it services. "We take good care of our customers and get them on their way as soon as possible," says Don.

Having a fully stocked parts department at Varsity Lincoln Mercury allows for faster, more efficient service. It is convenient for the service department to have parts right on the premises. Don says, "It's convenient for customers, too, because they don't have to wait for a part to be ordered and delivered before their car is fixed."

Varsity Lincoln Mercury is known for its huge inventory of quality used cars and trucks. People come from all over to buy used trucks because most dealerships don't offer the selection. Salespeople, specifically trained in the used car field, can provide information about warranties and on-the-spot financing. There are about 500 reconditioned cars and trucks on location at a time, all in good shape. "We are very particular about the vehicles we keep on our lot," says Don.

A used car and truck showroom is under construction and should be ready by the end of the year.

Varsity Lincoln Mercury has an enormous selection of new Lincolns and Mercurys in stock. If a certain model or color is not on the main lot, it is most likely nearby in the storage lot. If by some slim chance a particular car is not on the premises, the dealership can obtain it within 24 hours. Don says "If we don't have it, it's probably because they don't make it."

The new 1996 Mercury Sable is the newest feature at Varsity Lincoln Mercury. With its quality workmanship and redesigned shape, it is a very popular item.

The sales staff at Varsity Lincoln Mercury treats customers like kings and queens. "Customers should have a good experience when they come here," says Don, "and should leave feeling completely satisfied with our services."

The sales staff is available for all kinds of questions, and they never apply pressure for a person to buy. Don describes the sales staff at Varsity Lincoln Mercury as "polite, educated professionals who's goal is to satisfy the customer and help them buy a quality vehicle at a good price."

Varsity Lincoln Mercury would like to extend its gratitude to Novi and the surrounding communities for their business and support. Don speaks for the entire staff when he says, "We're glad to be here, we appreciate the community's high standards, and hope to accommodate them for many years."

Varsity Lincoln Mercury's showroom is open from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

The service department is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information call (810) 305-5300.

SCHONSHECK, INC

Offering full-service design and construction

Ian Schonsheck built his business, Schonsheck, Inc. 10 years ago.

Ian Schonsheck built his business 10 years ago with a basic philosophy: "To continually improve the quality and efficiency of the way we build and hopefully achieve the highest customer satisfaction."

Using past performance as a guide to what Schonsheck is capable of, it appears the company has a bright future ahead. Starting as a two person design/build business with his wife Lori, the company has grown to include 30 employees, including a registered architect, along with project managers, engineers, superintendents as well as three AutoCAD stations making it possible to produce full architectural drawings "in house".

Schonsheck, Inc. has expanded its architectural department considerably in the last year realizing that growth and a strong architectural department were synonymous with success. Since the newest BOCA codes are complicated and difficult to work around, it is comforting for clients to have architects on staff who can efficiently expedite site-plan approvals and building permits.

Another big change this year is the additional constructing of "speculative buildings", which are buildings that don't yet have a buyer. Schonsheck, Inc. constructs the buildings with the confidence that someone will buy or lease them when completed. The company currently has one 39,200 S.F. and one 26,880 S.F. building sites in Kensington Pines Industrial Park in Brighton and one 13,800 S.F. building in Beck-Tec Industrial Park in Wixom.

The northwest corridor of Metropolitan Detroit, including Brighton and Wixom, is currently booming because of the access to I-96 freeway and reasonably priced land. When a client comes to Schonsheck requesting a new building, they can locate a piece of land, evaluate usability of land, do preliminary studies (surveys, soil borings, and environmental studies), obtain site plan approval and building permits. Schonsheck, Inc. can further benefit the client by establishing a firm price before drawings are done. This prevents the the discovery of surprise expenses after the plans are completed that the client might not be able to afford. Because there are design professionals on staff, Schonsheck, Inc. considers value engineering an important factor of their company. Mr. Schonsheck says, "If there is a less expensive way to build something without affecting quality or value of the project, we'll find the way to do it."

Schonsheck, Inc. maintains a certain amount of vacant industrial land inventory that can be sold at a reasonable price for a building project. All of the land in inventory has been pre-evaluated for any site problems that might affect the cost of a project. Schonsheck has current land inventory in Brighton, Howell Township, Fowlerville, Wixom and Farmington Hills. Some of these sites have already been site-plan approved to save time if a user has an immediate need.

Some recently completed projects by Schonsheck include the 88,000 S.F. Chrysler Pentastar Aviation Hangar in Waterford; 15,845 S.F. for Creative Machine Co. in Wixom; 65,000 S.F. for Dunnage Engineering in Brighton; 60,150 S.F. for Fashionwall Products Company in Wixom; 42,450 S.F. for Molmec, Inc. in Hartland; and 26,800 S.F. for Quality Steel Products in Milford.

Projects under construction include 35,000 S.F. for Bamal Fastener Corporation office and warehouse in Farmington Hills; 9,000 S.F. for Continental Linen in Brighton; Co-op Services Credit Union in Walled Lake; Shuman Motor Sales Expansion in Walled Lake; and Hamburg Professional Office in Hamburg. Only a third of the 12,000 S.F. Hamburg Professional Office Building has been leased, so there is still plenty of building space available.

Schonsheck, Inc. is located on Pontiac Trail just west of Wixom Road in Wixom. Their office hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information call Ian Schonsheck at (810) 669-8800.

INDEPENDENCE VILLAGE

Unmatched experience in retirement living

Nina Keen says the sooner you get on the waiting list the better.

Independence Village is a senior retirement community designed for seniors who would like to enjoy an exceptional experience in retirement, unmatched in comfort, security and value.

The decision to get on the waiting list at Independence Village is not necessarily a "now or never" situation, but very much a "sooner the better" one. The waiting list, properly called the Preferred Apartment Option, is the Village's primary source of new residents since the retirement community has been at a full-up status for a long time.

Rarely is an apartment available at Independence Village to someone other than a waiting list participant. A reservation allows apartment seekers to receive priority access to the apartment of their choice — apartment style, sun exposure and floor plan. Staffers suggest that you seriously consider getting your name on the waiting list. Submit your deposit, which secures you a position on the Preferred Apartment Option list. Then let the friendly Independence Village staff work for you!

Ruby Merrion, a new resident from Port Charlotte, Florida relates how well the waiting list worked for her. "After I first toured the Village over a year ago, I knew I wanted to live there when the time was right. I took the steps to get on the waiting list this past May, never knowing when my home would sell. My leasing counselor worked to find an apartment that met all my requirements — and just in time for my move."

Ruby's enthusiasm about her recent move to Independence Village is evident as she shares with friends and family about all the "pluses" in the Village's Rental Plan Plus program.

Is now the time for you to get on the waiting list too? Independence Village philosophy is "the sooner the better!"

"We frequently receive calls from those with no prior waiting list status who plan to move here once their home is sold," relates Marketing Director Nina Keen. "We no longer can offer an immediate move now that our occupancy level is consistently high."

Therefore, the staff suggests that you seriously consider getting your name on the waiting list. Phone ahead for an appointment to assure ample meeting time with your personal leasing counselor. Make a list of questions regarding the rental plan so you can free yourself of unnecessary concern.

Independence Village, at 833 E. Grand River in Brighton, can be reached by calling 810-229-9190.

THESIER EQUIPMENT COMPANY

Thesier's still serve their customers well after thirty years

Bill, Carol, Tom and Jim Thesier have kept customers satisfied and returning for farm, lawn and gardening equipment for 30 years.

In the last 30 years, the Thesier family business has gone through three major stages of development. In 1965, Tom and Carol Thesier started Thesier Equipment, which primarily sold farm equipment to farmers in the area. In the 1970s, the South Lyon area became residential, prompting the Thesiers to carry mostly lawn and gardening equipment. In the last 10 years, Thesier Equipment has expanded to service many commercial associations, such as school systems, city parks and golf courses. Thesier Equipment provides service to "anybody who's mowing grass," says Jim Thesier.

Thesier Equipment has sold John Deere equipment since the beginning, and in 1990 received an exclusive contract from John Deere to sell their golf course equipment to half of Michigan. "We have been growing steadily," says Jim. In the last 10 years, retail sales have more than doubled.

The business also expanded with the integration of Tom and Carol's sons, Bill and Jim Thesier. Because Thesier Equipment Company was a major aspect of Bill and Jim's upbringing, it is only natural that they are experts in the business. Jim explains that "Dad wanted to buy the business because he wanted his kids to be familiar with a work environment." Maybe this is why Thesier Equipment has been successful for so long, and why it continues to prosper through the years.

Another reason for Thesier Equipment's success is their dedication to customer service. "We are willing to bend over backwards to take care of a customer's needs," says Bill. The brothers view retail sales as the customer doing the retailer a favor. Therefore, they strongly believe in making a customer happy whether it means a sale or not. "If I can take care of a customer and meet his or her needs, someday when they need something, they'll come back."

Thesier Equipment continues to serve their customers well after a sale is made. "Dad always said, 'if you can't service what you sell, there's no reason to sell the product,'" explains Bill. Many years ago Tom developed the Thesier business motto, "We service well with the things we sell." This motto continues to hold true.

When customers enter Thesier Equipment, they are always greeted in a casual and friendly manner. The Thesiers are always working at the store during the day, so they are available for the customer at all times. Jim says, "People always comment on our friendly, family atmosphere, and say that it's a fun place to shop and do business."

The Thesier family is proud to be a part of South Lyon and the surrounding communities.

Because they grew up in the area, they feel a close tie with all of the residents. Bill speaks for the whole family when he says "We are thankful for all of the support given by all the local residents throughout the years. We hope to continue to serve the community the best we can for many more years to come."

Thesier Equipment is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and can be reached at (810) 437-2091.

WHY ORGANIC GARDENING ISN'T JUST A BUNCH OF MANURE.

Organic gardening is a lot more than natural fertilizer. And organic gardens do a lot more than make your yard look pretty. They help make the environment healthier. So let's dig in and see how you can help. The first step to creating an environmentally friendly garden is to compost.

Composting not only helps produce the bacteria, nutrients and mulch plants need, it also reduces the amount of solid waste your home creates.

Another easy way to help the environment in your garden is to change the tools you use. For instance, instead of using sprinklers, try using soaker hoses. They leak moisture into the soil at slow rates, so water gets absorbed instead of running off. You may also consider using a rake, instead of gas-powered blowers.

Rakes use no fuel and give you some exercise. Next, think about the types of plants you plant.

Consider

planting perennials. Perennial beds provide refuge for animals and insects that will eat pests and reduce your need for chemicals. Finally, think about planting a tree in your backyard. Trees keep harmful carbon dioxide from entering the atmosphere and create lots of energy-saving shade.

So you see, when we say organic gardens are a good idea, it's no bull.

Customer satisfaction is top priority at KSI

More than 20 years ago, Don Fisher and Don Ziegler founded Kitchen Suppliers, Inc. in Brighton. Over the years, the business has branched out to include seven locations, and has earned an outstanding reputation for quality service.

KSI Kitchen & Bath Showrooms in Brighton has an inventory of 15,000 Merillat Cabinets and a staff of five experienced designers. Though they specialize in selling Merillat Cabinetry, they also carry Amera, Fieldstone and Worldwide cabinets and other brands of countertops, sinks and faucets. They feature free design service, an expansive showroom with the latest designs, and a computer CAD system to show what a particular design will look like. The KSI mission is "to provide our customers with the best service and quality products through teamwork."

The staff follow set guidelines to maintain customer satisfaction and positive feelings throughout the company. They strive to treat everyone in a fair, honest and respectable manner. Each "team member" is trained, certified and entrusted to make the necessary decisions to solve customers' problems quickly. Training is an important aspect of KSI's growth. Management realizes that through training, employees can continue to expand their knowledge, improve skills and increase productivity. "We focus on maintaining a sensitive balance between profitability, community involvement and the well being of team members, and their personal and professional fulfillment," says showroom manager Linda Burtraw.

KSI is proud of its many notable achievements. Last year Merillat granted the business the Presidents Award for being the third largest Merillat distributor in the country. The award commends KSI Kitchens for exemplifying the concept of team spirit and commitment to good work. The award also applauds sales performance and excellent showroom displays. The plaque states, "Since 1971 this company and its founders have continuously demonstrated what it means to think ahead and be positioned for tomorrow."

Merillat cabinetry is the preferred product at KSI. The store stands behind Merillat's quality, durability, selection and affordability. "Merillat products vary in price and design, from basic and affordable, to upgraded and more expensive," Linda says.

KSI's corporate office and main warehouse remains at the original location, 9325 Maltby Road in Brighton. Six other stores have opened in Ann Arbor, Birmingham, Southgate, Mt. Clemens, Livonia and Waterford.

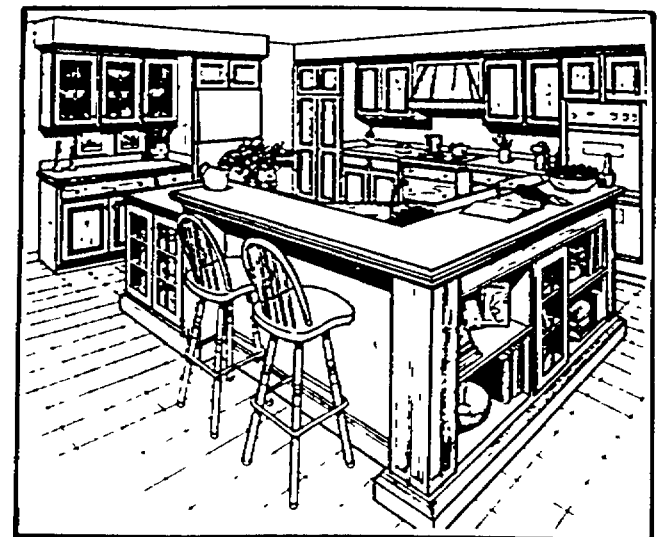

KSI has showroom hours from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and is open until 8 p.m. on Thursdays and can be reached at (810) 229-9554.

The office has always been a place to get ahead.

Unfortunately, it's also a place where a lot of natural resources start to fall behind. Take a look around the next time you're at work. See how many lights are left on when people leave. See how much paper is being wasted. How much electricity is being used to run computers that are left on. Look at how much water is being wasted in the restrooms. And how much solid waste is being thrown out in the trash cans. We bet it's a lot. Now, here are some simple ways you can produce less waste at work. When you're at the copier, only make the copies you need. Use both sides of the paper when writing a memo. Turn off your light when you leave. Use a lower watt bulb in your lamps. Drink your coffee or tea out of mugs instead of throwaway cups. Set up a recycling bin for aluminum cans and one for bottles. And when you're in the bathroom brushing your teeth or washing your face, don't let the faucet run. Remember, if we use fewer resources today, we'll save more for tomorrow.

Drink out of mugs instead of throwaway cups.

It takes 95% less energy to manufacture products from recycled materials.

Which would truly be a job well done.

MISSION HEALTH

Mission Health: Making a difference in our community

A mother welcomes her first child to the world.

Two of southeast Michigan's most trusted health care organizations have come together as a community-based health care network and will be jointly managed under the new name of Mission Health. Providence Hospital and Medical Centers and the three hospitals in the Catherine McAuley Health System (St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, McPherson Hospital in Howell and Saline Community Hospital in Saline) will be aligned to provide quality, accessible health care to residents across southeastern Michigan.

Mission Health will offer virtually every medical, surgical, therapeutic and rehabilitative service with the same outstanding quality and compassionate care that have always hallmarked our individual hospitals.

A caring mission for those in need

Mission Health is committed to being a health care system that makes a difference in the community—a difference based on our mission and our commitment not only to provide traditional patient care but also to develop programs to keep the community healthy.

The McAuley system is sponsored by the Religious Sisters of Mercy, Regional Community of Detroit. Providence is sponsored by the Daughters of Charity National Health System, Inc. Both of these religious orders have always made it their mission to care for the sick and the poor and to make their communities better places to live.

Both congregations of sisters are committed to providing health care to people regardless of ability to pay. It's their mission. So, in addition to the $15.2 million our two organizations currently provide in charity care, Mission Health will commit to spend an additional $2 million annually during each of the next five years—a total of $10 million—on the special needs of the poor in our area.

We've already enlisted the assistance of people on our own staffs and throughout the region to help us plan the best use of these funds to aid the greatest number of people.

Among the charity care projects our organizations currently support are the Michigan Catholic Health Systems Infant Mortality project, sponsored by six religious congregations; the Neighborhood Health Clinic in Ypsilanti; the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center for Children in Farmington Hills; and numerous programs to provide health and transportation services for the elderly, and access to primary care health services for low-income children and seniors.

Meeting all of your automotive needs

The new Champion Chevrolet GEO, at 5000 E. Grand River in Howell, was once described as "the auto environment of the future." With its sleek, modern exterior design and spacious, well-lit showroom and sales area, it's easy to see why. Champion Chevrolet GEO is a fantastic place to go for all of your automotive needs.

Owner, Len Nadolski, sees to it that customers are treated with respect and consideration. The friendly staff is happy to help customers in any way, by answering questions and explaining options. All salespeople are trained and certified, which lends credibility and knowledge to their position. They realize that people do not always know what they're looking for when they walk into a dealership. At Champion Chevrolet GEO, there is no pressure or obligation to make a rushed decision.

Champion Chevrolet GEO specializes in used cars, which is a great buying option. There are over 200 cars and trucks to choose from at a time, and a financing plan can be arranged for anyone.

"Even if you have a poor credit history, we can create a plan for you," says Len. All used cars come with a warranty and are inspected previous to sale.

The New Vehicle Department is also very impressive, and a nice place to browse and ask questions. Champion Chevrolet has an array of exclusive new vehicles which are currently on display in the showroom. "We are excited to announce our 4-door sport utility Tahoe into the marketplace, in addition to the brand new Cavalier with an innovative body style," says Len. They sell more new van conversions than any other product, and have recently been named the leading Suburban and Tahoe dealership in Michigan.

Customers can take advantage of Champion Chevrolets' short term, low pay lease programs. "You can drive double the value of a car for half the cost of buying it," explains Len.

Service and Body Shops are a less exciting aspect of an auto dealership, but equally as important. Champion Chevrolet's Service Department offers complete servicing in a quick rate of time. Their facilities include tune-ups, tire rotations, balances and oil changes. For customers' convenience, the Service Department provides free shuttle buses, and a children's playroom. "Kids can just pop in 'Pochahontas' on the VCR and watch it while their parents wait for their car."

The updated Body Shop at Champion Chevrolet is a state of the art body and paint center. The entire service staff is I-Car Certified, which entails many hours of rigorous and sophisticated training. The Body Shop is certified by most insurance companies for direct representation. This means that when a vehicle is in a collision, Champion Chevrolet GEO works directly with the the insurance company while the car is being restored to its original condition. "It is a very convenient system for customers," says Len, "and customers are our most important asset."

hey also play a big role in the community. "We are proud of the accomplishments of our employees, and strive to extend our support to the people in the community," says Len. The dealership donates a certain percentage of auto sales to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization during the annual Big Brothers/Big Sisters Tent Sale. Last year, Len was thrilled to present the organization with a check for $7000. "The Tent Sale is a great time to buy a car," says Len, "not only do you buy something you need and love, but you also contribute to a noble cause."

Champion Chevrolet GEO also offers a $10,000 Student Scholarship every year based on a written and verbal test. Last year, Len was proud to grant the scholarship to a local Fowlerville student. "We are proud to contribute to the good causes of our community," says Len.

There are two other Champion Used Car Connection locations; one on Grand River Avenue in downtown Howell and another is in downtown Brighton. "We strive to maintain the same quality service and customer satisfaction at all of our three locations," says Len.

The Champion Chevrolet GEO sales department is open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. ## Using creative energy in kitchen and bath design Cindy and Rick Snyder love their line of work. They provide the ideas, resources and expertise necessary to create beautiful, practical and affordable kitchens and bathrooms. "I wake up excited to go to work every day," says Rick.

Rick worked in kitchen design and installation for 20 years before starting Care Crafted Kitchens five years ago. He felt confident in his ability to branch off on his own with the help of his wife, Cindy, who is equally involved in the business. They are both pleased with the company's growth, and find their work fulfilling. "We have an energy and excitement about kitchens and bathrooms that you won't find anywhere else," says Cindy.

Care Crafted Kitchens specializes in kitchen and bath design, cabinet sales and cabinet installation. They also supply tile and hardwood flooring, Corian solid surface and Granite laminates (countertops) and hardware for cabinetry. A large variety of magazines and books are available for customers to look through, even if they're just thinking about remodeling. Rick and Cindy are always available to help find the best plan and best look for every client's home.

Rick and Cindy offer personalized, one-on-one, educated service for their customers, which huge warehouses can't provide. They also have a computer CAD program to show customers what a kitchen or bath will look like when it is finished. "We work closely with the clients and their chosen builder or remodeler. We cost about the same as larger warehouses, but go out of our way to offer more," says Cindy.

If a client is remodeling, Rick and Cindy visit their home to work on the preliminary layout and pricing. If a client is building a new home, Rick and Cindy study the layout of the house, make necessary changes, and draw up a plan for the builder to follow. The couple makes it a point to get to know their clients very well while planning a design. They ask questions about their lifestyle, motivations and values, as a way of qualifying them. "We want to know exactly what they're looking for and what they need," says Cindy. "Some people take pride in the appearance, some just want a functional kitchen. Some do a lot of cooking, others do entertaining, some want a two-cook kitchen, and others want safety features for kids. We give loads of information about every option because we care more about satisfying customers than making an easy sale."

it-yourselves. Rick and Cindy offer advice and resources for folks tackling their own projects, and will soon offer classes on installation. "We always tell people to give us a call if they need help. Sometimes we may even go out and make sure they're doing it right," says Rick.

Rick and Cindy are longtime Brighton residents. They love the area and enjoy raising their children in the small, friendly community. Erin, 17, is a senior in high school, and Samantha, 12, is in middle school. Rick and Cindy are often touched by their daughters' show of support for the work they do. "Sometimes I come home after a long day, and my kids pat me on the back and say 'Dad, you and Mom are doing a great job,'" says Rick. Given their record of quality service, customers probably echo those sentiments too.

Whispering Pines Golf Course in Pinckney has recently completed its 22,000 square foot clubhouse that rivals any in the area.

And the best news is, while the facility offers a "private club" atmosphere, the course, which has been open for four years — and the new club house — are entirely public.

Fine dining is taken to new heights in the Sunset Room of the clubhouse, overlooking the golf course. It's not your run of the mill restaurant — it's a high caliber restaurant with excellent food and great service.

To prepare its delicious dishes, Whispering Pines has obtained the services of Executive Chef Louis Shatrau, formerly with Opus One of Detroit. He and a talented staff prepare delectable foods that get rave reviews. McDuffer's Bar and Grille, overlooking the #1 fairway and #8 green, has a relaxed atmosphere for lunch and dinner. # Dealership moves for convenience of customers

As you are driving west on I-96 in mid-October and the huge 12' x 18' American flag comes into view, you will know that the new Waldecker Chevrolet Oldsmobile GEO dealership is now open in Fowlerville. The flag, a symbol of all things American, will be easily seen from the expressway.

Waldecker's current Fowlerville facility has had two very successful years. As Fowlerville itself becomes more developed, Waldecker is adding to its growth.

According to Teri Best, a spokesperson for Waldecker, "We were in need of updating our downtown facility and with Chevy's implementation of the Image 2000 buildings, the move was a natural choice."

The Waldecker commitment to the community has clearly been established. The dealership is involved with the Fowlerville Business Association, Howell Area Chamber of Commerce and many other Fowlerville area activities, including the Livingston County Fair.

The new location was chosen for several reasons, according to Tom Waldecker. It is more convenient for customers, with ample parking and easy access. Further, the new location is simply a logical extension of the growth in the city of Fowlerville. Everyone involved is anxious and ready for the move.

However, plans for the previous location downtown are important to Waldecker's as well. It will be used as a new car prep facility for not only the new dealership, but also the sister store, Waldecker Pontiac Buick in Brighton. They will also show used cars there downtown.

The owners of both Waldecker's are Tom and Jerry Waldecker. Tom Waldecker, an on site vice president, states "The new store represents Tomorrow's technology for today's service."

The hours are Monday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Service department hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

you get results, not promises.

OAK POINTE COUNTRY CLUB

Country Club offers the finest amenities

If you are a native of the area, then chances are you have some special memories of days spent at the historic Burroughs farm in Brighton. Since the early 1900s and for over a half a century, Burroughs Corporation provided its employees and their guests a beautiful and relaxing recreational retreat they called Burroughs Farm.

Now that special place is the site of Oak Pointe Country Club, which has quickly become recognized as a spectacular new home for golf, tennis and recreational enthusiasts of all ages. Club Corporation of America, the nation's oldest, largest and most prestigious developer and operator of private clubs entered into a partnership to create a private club environment for the benefit of the surrounding communities and their residents. The result is magnificent.

"In addition to the over 250 clubs internationally that are part of our membership, our members also have full privileges at The Renaissance Club in Detroit, the Skyline Club in Southfield, The Fairlane Club in Dearborn and Shanty Creek Resort in Bellaire, along with golf and dining privileges at Bay Pointe Golf Club in West Bloomfield and Pointe West Golf Club in Windsor, Ontario," said Marie Soltis, Membership Director.

The Oak Pointe Country Club concept offers the finest in all amenities, beginning with the breathtaking 18 hole, par 71 Honors Course. The pristine natural beauty of the hills, lakes and streams seem undisturbed thanks to the artful talent of golf course designer Arthur Hills. Members and guests alike enjoy playing this signature course for the variety it presents, the quality of maintenance and the relaxation afforded by spending time with friends and associates in such an environment.

The club house, which opened in 1993, combines culture with formal elegance and casual informality, thus accommodating both the Members business and social needs. Dining areas include a grill, bar and several private dining rooms that are attractively positioned to overlook the beautiful natural environment. Since opening, Oak Pointe Country Club has established a tradition of fine food and service.

With the vision to exceed member needs and build for the future, Oak Pointe offers its Tennis/Swim Complex—lighted tennis courts, a heated junior Olympic pool, snack bar and locker rooms. Oak Pointe's full service Fitness Facility also exceeds member expectations.

Since its inception, Oak Pointe Country Club has been guided by its prestigious Board of Governors, comprised of business, professional and social leaders in the community. Oak Pointe Country Club recently hosted a successful "Symphony on the Green" with over 500 Members and guests in attendance. "Everyone enjoyed hearing the DSO perform their pop series while dining on Shish Kabob and champagne on the Honors Course driving range," said Soltis.

Each year the Club hosts a Las Vegas Night to benefit local charity. Last spring, the Club raised over $8,000 for the Imagination Station. Upcoming events include a limo road rally, a comedy night, country line dancing, Halloween week and loads of holiday events. "We also have a Kids Club 'Just for Kids' and are hoping to have daycare provided for our Members in the near future," Soltis said.

Located only four miles south of Interstate 96 in Brighton, Oak Pointe Country Club is unique. The highest caliber of Members, unparalleled amenities, fine food and friendly yet refined service all await the Members and guests of the Club. For membership information, call 810-229-4554.

Expert advice and help for do-it-yourselfers

Beaversmith Tool has the expertise and resources to make a woodworker out of just about anybody. Whether you're building a house or carving a wood sculpture for the first time, Beaversmith Tool can help.

Larry Smith and Steve Beavers started Beaversmith Tool three years ago. With their 34 years of combined experience, and the skill of employee John Nicholas, they can answer any question imaginable about woodworking.

John, the resident woodworker and instructor, particularly enjoys carving. One of his creations, a unique Christmas ornament, was requested by The White House, making him somewhat of a local celebrity.

The staff also provides woodworking seminars and books to teach customers various techniques and guides them through difficult projects.

"We are all woodworkers and tool men," says Larry. "We can offer the best advice available about woodworking and tool-related supplies."

Beaversmith Tool has grown rapidly because, as Steve says, "the community has a great need for our services."

A wide range of customers value the store for many different reasons. As one longtime customer says, "They have every tool you could possibly need for woodworking."

Woodworkers, home shops, do-it-yourselfers, contractors and building trades people all look to Beaversmith Tool for expert advice, services and quality products.

Beaversmith is expanding its showroom and adding an extended supply of items, such as cutting tools, abrasives, saw blades, bandsaw blades, lamination supplies and router bits. New product lines include Makita power tools, Performax sanding centers, and Jet woodworking tools. The showroom will continue to grow as a user friendly area. "Our main goal is to please the customer and maintain a high level of expertise," says Larry.

Dealership is growing with the community

The story of Brighton Chrysler Plymouth Dodge Jeep & Eagle is truly one of success. Ed Boltz and Jim Ritz took a leap of faith when they bought the dealership 13 years ago. Chrysler was at the bottom of the market, and it could have continued to sink from there. However, since the purchase, the Chrysler corporation has maintained a steady uphill climb and now stands tall as a time-honored corporation.

Before buying the dealership, Ed and Jim worked for the Chrysler Corporation as district managers and dealer placement specialists. When Bill Teasley was ready to retire, the pair took the opportunity to buy his 30-year-old Brighton dealership. It was an ideal location because Jim grew up in Brighton and knew a lot of people. Ed liked the area as well, so he and his family moved there, and couldn't be more pleased. "We love it here," says Ed. "It has a nice, small-town feeling even though the population keeps growing."

A small-town dealership is what they planned on, and they are thrilled that it turned out to be so much bigger. The company started with seven employees and one building, but the dealership has expanded over the years to more than 50 employees and three updated buildings.

Since adding Jeep Eagle to Chrysler Plymouth Dodge and Dodge Truck, business has really boomed. "We have gone from selling a couple hundred cars a year to selling 1800 per year," says Ed.

Because of the phenomenal growth, Ed and Jim have had to expand the property a few times. A couple years after opening, they bought Bob Rogalski's Brighton Auto Ed Boltz and Jim Ritz work want to put you behind the wheel of a new car.

Sales and built it into their used car operation. Then they bought the house next to it to use as a display area. Before long they outgrew their original service facility, so in 1990 they opened up their new, 15000 sq. ft. parts and service facility. Another plus for customers is the heated "delivery area", which accommodates up to four cars or trucks. Here, buyers can pick up their new cars in the middle of winter or on a rainy day, and be protected from harsh weather. Ed and Jim are committed to pleasing the customer and keeping a friendly atmosphere. There are never high-pressure tactics used to sell a car, and salespeople are happy to answer all kinds of questions. Brighton Chrysler blends up-to-date products and small town values. "We offer a good product at a good price and make certain that we are here to service what we sell and take care of our customers for years to come," says Ed.

Brighton Chrysler's dedication to longevity is apparent in its employees, many whom have been with the company since day one. Delores Eberth, office manager, Sam Fiani, service, Bill Ceresa, used car manager, and Mike Ryckman, sales manager, have all been around since the beginning. "We create a comfortable atmosphere where customers feel recognized and appreciated," says Ed.

Brighton Chrysler's sales hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. The service hours are from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday and Thursday, and 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. The dealership can be reached at (810) 229-4100.

It is a friendly town with great people," says Karen. "We are happy to be providing our services to the people in the area and we greatly appreciate their business."

Ann Marie and Karen have been working in the Novi area for the past 16 years. Seven years ago they created Visions Salon. With their growing success, in June of 1994 they relocated to 22002 Novi Road in the Oak Pointe Plaza and turned Visions Salon into a full service salon.

Gina Agosta's highly trained, professional staff works together as an artistic team for the benefit of clients.

Gina Agosta's is not your ordinary salon

In April of this year Gina Agosta founded her new Novi salon. She and her dedicated staff took some courageous steps in leaving their successful Northville location to embark on a new vision. Gina, supported by her artistic team, continues to challenge and lead the industry to new and greater plateaus.

Gina Agosta Hair Color and Design offers a complete line of salon services. Some clients arrange appointments to last an entire afternoon, treating themselves to a day of renewal and tranquility. "You will leave with the incredible feeling of being miraculously transformed," says Gina.

Her salon services include exciting hair color, classic and contemporary hair styles, full nail services, pedicures, paraffin treatment for hands and feet, European facials, and European back facials.

Gina, in her ongoing commitment to excellence, provides her staff with aggressive, continuous education. This allows opportunities for personal growth, refinement of technical skills, and the guarantee of unsurpassed service. Recently, four stylists attended a technical academy in Dallas; three colorists, meanwhile, traveled to Chicago to refine their skills through advanced training. In the very near future, seven employees will go to Toronto for further education.

The uniqueness of Gina's salon lies not only in her education program but also in her large, specialized hair coloring department. Staffed with eight color specialists, the hair color department is known throughout Michigan, and is recognized in major cities outside the state. Their close work with the design team allows the finest services available. The experience at Gina's begins with a warm welcome from the front desk. Led by Antoinette Mikolon, desk manager-coordinator; a dedicated employee of Gina's for 19 years, the reception staff proves to be a model of competency and efficiency.

The services are then enhanced by finishing touches by the skin care, make-up and nail departments. Gina, too, is identified as a respected member of the National Cosmetology Association, Americanif Michigan, and the International Hair Color Exchange.

The staff's care and professionalism provides a winning combination for success which benefits the hair care profession as well as the community. Gina adores her unique group. "I go home every night and think to myself 'I love these people,'" she says.

Gina's salon brings new meaning to the phrase "family affair," not only does she consider the entire staff family, several employees actually are Agostas. Joseph Agosta, Gina's husband, works as a stylist. Daughter-in-law Lisa Carnes-Agosta is Gina's business manager. Son, John Agosta, is the salon's style director. John, for whom hair dressing is a passion, keeps the salon abreast of the latest hair trends. He also orchestrates the advertising photos for the salon, like the one on the opposite page. For the ad, he both designed the hair style and directed the photo shoot.

Gina Agosta Hair Color and Design is part of a network of elite, high quality salons in the country. Gina chose her Novi locale because it provides easy, immediate access to interstates 696, 275 and 96. She provides a central location for her clients in Oakland County, the metropolitan area, as well as Lansing, Grand Rapids, Grosse Pointe and Milford. Gina services clients from many cities including Chicago, Boston, Cleveland and Aspen. She also offers clients references for top-rate salons to visit when they are out of town.

Gina feels strongly about her business and soon hopes to open salons in other cities, possibly in Milford. "We are unconditionally committed to setting a model image of how salons can operate in the future," she says.

A visit with the Gina Agosta Hair Color and Design Team is an experience that transcends what you've come to expect of a salon. Gina's salon is about progress. It's about style. It's about definition. It's about luxury.

The salon is at 39831 Grand River, in the Pheasant Run Plaza, Novi, and can be reached by calling 810-477-2266.

Gina, her husband Joseph and son John work together at the salon.

NEW HUDSON LUMBER

Don Cash, Michelle Wanke, Rick Bouse, Pat Currier, Dan Klanowski and Don Moody provide a wealth of knowledge for customers.

Better equipped to meet the area's needs

After an expansion of products and services, New Hudson Lumber is even better equipped to meet the needs of remodelers, builders and do-it-yourselfers.

"We are a full service lumberyard, with everything for a do-it-yourselfer to a contractor building a house," says manager Rick Bouse.

New Hudson Lumber has been serving customers, under three different owners, for almost 50 years. Current owner Darlene Carveth bought the business last May. A licensed builder, she has been in the business for 20 years and is constantly looking for ways to improve service.

Under her management, New Hudson Lumber doubled its lumber inventory, added a propane fill station and built a special department to display and sell power tools. She also created an area for paint and a small sports center for fishing and hunting.

Rick, who has also been in the home improvement field for 20 years, does just about everything and is in charge of day-to-day operations at New Hudson Lumber. He also writes a home improvement column for Hometown Newspapers called "Hammer Time."

Assistant manager Don Cash has worked at New Hudson Lumber for 10 years and customers benefit daily from his vast experience. In fact, the combination of employees' diverse backgrounds provides "a wealth of knowledge" for customers.

Five years ago, under a previous owner, New Hudson Lumber underwent some major renovations. In addition to the new offices and increased space, the inside of the store went from "dirty and grungy to efficient and consumer friendly," says Rick.

In the past year, Carveth and her crew have continued to make New Hudson Lumber more customer friendly. Floor space outside of the building is being utilized for maximum benefit, and they have expanded the paint, plumbing and electrical departments, added power tools and sporting goods, added a kitchen cabinet display, and utilized two new buildings for lumber storage.

New Hudson Lumber, offering construction grade, treated and cedar lumber, delivers seven days a week and has an outside salesperson to facilitate business for contractors.

New Hudson Lumber is also one of few places offering a propane fill station for barbecue grills and recreational vehicles. Employees have been provided special training in refilling tanks.

New Hudson Lumber hopes to be a valuable asset to New Hudson and surrounding communities.

"The South Lyon, New Hudson, Milford, and Brighton areas are the best areas in Michigan to live," Rick said. "Whether we are taking part in community activities or just offering good business, we are focusing our efforts in these areas."

New Hudson Lumber is located at 56601 Grand River Avenue in New Hudson. Hours are 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The business can be reached by calling (810) 437-1423.

Wellness Center Expands; Responds to Membership Needs

The City of Livonia has recently received accolades for its high rankings as an excellent place to raise children. In part, it was the children and youth who brought the adults to the Livonia Family YMCA. Say the acronym YMCA, and many, if not all people, immediately fix in their minds thoughts of swimming pools filled with children. Or, they may recall the Y as their first camp experience. The Livonia Family YMCA has been present in the community for over 25 years. Swimming and day camp are just a few ways we have been of service.

As children began participating in Y programs, staff began to wonder what they might do for the parents standing around waiting for their children to finish. As a promoter of healthy body, mind and spirit, a YMCA Wellness Center seemed a natural addition. Not only did it meet the fitness needs of a growing adult community, it also cemented the concept that this YMCA really was for the entire family. Membership grew, and today, as many as 400 members utilize the current Wellness Center each day during the summer months. At peak times, the number of wellness enthusiasts increases to 600 per day. Often, at 5:45 a.m. there is a waiting list for use of the treadmills. Free weights have grown in popularity too, especially among the women, placing a priority for additional space in this area as well. Bursting at the seams and fully committed to quality service, the YMCA has responded by expanding the Wellness Center to meet the needs of its membership.

Wellness Center Expands

Assistant Physical Director Robn Grace says the staff has listened to its members and tried, wherever possible, to provide them with the center of their dreams. Obviously, space was first on the list and space is exactly what they are getting. Upon completion, the Wellness Center will have an additional 4100 square feet, and the Free Weight area, an additional 1600 square feet. There will now be designated stretch areas. "No more stretching behind the front desk or around the drinking fountain," says Grace.

Grace adds, "They were tired of staring at the walls as they worked out, so we made certain there were more windows. "The equipment will face out, so they can enjoy the seasonal changes." And, speaking of equipment, it will be new and improved.

Grace indicated that all Nautilus equipment will be replaced by Cybex and all Pyramid equipment will be reconditioned. In the Free Weight area there will be more benches, bars, dumbbells, and racks. There is a new pleasing color scheme with bench equipment color coordinated to carpet and walls. Even the staff will have a new look. Everything will be fresh and inviting.

The grand opening is scheduled for mid October. "We owe this special addition to our membership. The Livonia community has been extremely dedicated to the Y and we want to give them a place where they will feel good about working out," says Executive Director, Hwa Stacy.

More details about opening day festivities including Member Appreciation Day, a Ribbon Cutting Ceremony, and more will follow. So check your mail and don't miss out on the exciting grand opening.
