WAYNE COUNTY'S OLDEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER ESTABLISHED 1869

Vol 128 No 40 Five Sections 60 Pages Plus Supplements | THURSDAY APRIL 18 1996 - NORTHVILLE MICHIGAN | FIFTY CENTS

TOPS IN TAXES

Ever wonder who pays the most property tax in town? Well, here they are, the community's Top 10, as reported by the assessing offices of the city and township

Northville City (property owners listed by State Equalized Valuation, or SEV):

- Northville Downs – $4.8 million
- Detroit Edison – $2.4 million
- MainCentre – $2.2 million
- M.A.G.S. – $1.4 million
- Treetop Apts – $1.1 million
- McDonald Ford – $837,400
- Consumers Power – $810,000
- Northville Green Apts. – $679,500
- Fairbrook Apts. – $442,500
- Undeveloped parcel on Dubar St – $410,000

Northville Township (property owners listed by total taxable value):

- Optical Imaging Systems – $20.4 million
- Park Place Apts. – $14.3 million
- Wayne County – $7.2 million
- Consumers Power Co – $7.2 million
- Maybury State Park – $6.5 million
- Detroit Edison – $6.5 million
- Kings Mill – $6.1 million
- Meijer – $5.6 million
- Swan Harbour Apts – $3.9 million
- Vacant Ward Presbytenan Church land at Six Mile and Haggerty – $3.8 million

Figures don't indicate the amount of money property owners pay in taxes figures refer to the amount of property value on which taxes are calculated State Equalized Value was the basis for figuring property taxes prior to approval of reform measure Proposal A in March 1994, taxable value has been used as the basis since then

Track funds keep brisk pace

Revenues healthy in early phase of new formula

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The new funding formula for cities with horseracing tracks is in its third month and the city of Northville's average payment receipt from Northville Downs has been $40,000 plus

City officials received the third "breakage" payment from the Downs for $43,000 late last month That payment along with a $45,000 payment in January and a $48,000 payment in February brings the three month total to $136,000

That's good news for both race track and city officials and at its current rate Northville could receive more than $500,000 in racing revenue this year

Breakage is the money remaining after payouts for winning bets have been rounded down to the nearest 10 cents With a winning bet of $10.23 for example a track would pay $10.20 and retain the 3 cents as breakage

Although city officials are happy to be receiving the monthly checks they're still concerned that the racetrack revenue will not cover the cost of providing police and fire services That concern surfaced again at the first council budget hearing last week, as the police department budget proposal was presented to council members

City Manager Gary Word said that the city appreciates the direct payments from the track but recognizes that the impact of simul-

City Manager Gary Word made good on his promise this week, washing Township Supervisor Karen Baja's car. Baja bid on and won Word's scrubbing services at last year's Friends of Northville Parks and Rec dinner/auction.

Major players foot big tax bill in community

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The final numbers are in and they say that Northville taxpayers don't shirk their responsibilities

Northville City and Township have reported the conclusion of their efforts to collect the winter 1995 property taxes All in all it was a successful one with the township seeing a delinquency rate of less than 3 percent the city less than 1.5 percent

The tax bills were mailed out to Northville property owners just after Thanksgiving Property owners had until March 1 to pay their bills without penalty After that the city and township assessing offices turned over their unpaid accounts to Wayne County which pays them and then goes after the delinquent owners

Those who don pay the county the full amount of their bills as well as the interest which accrues on it monthly will see their property legally confiscated and sold at auction after three years

That's not likely to happen to many folks in Northville City as only $144,000 of the $9.37 million in property taxes currently remain outstanding according to Finance Director Mark Christiansen That's less than 1.5 percent of the total

Eat, drink and bid merrily at dinner/auction

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Hey Northville there's still time to take part in the fourth annual Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation's dinner/auction Saturday April 27 will be an evening of food and fun for all and it's all in the name of a good cause

Held at Schoolcraft College the dinner called A Taste of Northville will be prepared by local restaurateurs Featured in the auction will be a dizzying display of all kinds of interesting items to bid on

You don't even have to attend the dinner/auction to buy a ticket in a special raffle being held in conjunction with it The grand prize in the expense paid trip for four to Disney World

The Friends is a non profit group formed by volunteers who help promote recreation opportunities in Northville This year the group is hoping to raise at least $25,000 to further rec programs in Northville Some $10,000 of that amount is already earmarked for the construction of a Northville playscape once the committee working on that project comes up with an equal amount

Tickets for the dinner/auction are $40 per person or $300 for a table of eight bought all at once That buys you admittance food and drinks and the right to bid in the auction

This year the menu includes hors d'oeuvres and drinks served up by the likes of Edward's Caterer Rocky's of Northville, the Chesapeake Bagel Factory Wooly Bully's and the Good Time Party Store Dinner will include chicken noodle soup from Genitti's and a feast from Schoolcraft's culinary arts

Former drug addict becomes a success story

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

In 1986 Anthony Rigato was going through a divorce his credit cards were maxed out and the bank was about to foreclose on his house Worst of all he had a $2,000 a week drug addiction

It was the cocaine which set him off on the road to success Rigato says today Had he not bottomed out with it, he might have drifted through a career as an alcoholic industrial salesman

Instead, the Northville resident is the substance free owner of a $13 million a year industrial distribution business, a student at the Harvard School of Business and the Novi Chamber of Commerce's Small Business Person of the Year.

The turnaround is nothing short of amazing

"I thought I'd just spend most of my life smoking pot and drinking beer, then I got introduced to that little white powder," Rigato, president of MRM Inc, on Heslip Drive, said

You stop believing in everything except for the drug You don't believe in God There is no such thing as hope Love is something that is unknown to you I started to feel like I was a black hole

When it all seemed darkest friends had faith in him and got him into a hospital There he met a therapist who was convinced he was redeemable Rigato then threw his considerable energy into saving his own life He's been straight for nine years

He calls himself a product of his environment and era Alcoholism ran in his family He started drinking and smoking marijuana at age 12 He barely made it through high school, graduating in 1974

"The odds are very low, one-tenth of one percent of addicts and alcoholics who seek recovery make it in a year," Rigato said

"After being sober for two years, I was getting bored and I started looking for excitement, so I funneled it into the business I found I had a knack for this"

Former Northville valedictorian badly hurt

'92 grad serious after striking train

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

A Northville High School graduate is struggling to regain consciousness in a Wisconsin hospital following a car/train accident March 28

Jolie Graf, a valedictorian with the Class of 1992, was seriously injured when she was unable to stop in time to avoid crashing into an Amtrak train while driving back to campus in Appleton, Wis

According to her close friend, Lorraine Kasmiski, Graf lingers in a semi-comatose state at the University of Wisconsin's Trauma and Life Support Center

"She has some movement and sometimes she opens her eyes, but she's not awake," Kasmiski said "She's been upgraded from critical to serious "

Kasmiski explained that Graf lives on campus at Lawrence University in Appleton. During the weekends and on semester breaks she lives with her mother in rural Columbus, Wis , and works part-time with the MC Computer and Office Supply firm Now a senior, she was recently accepted into the University of Wisconsin-Madison law school

Graf was on her way back to Appleton from Columbus when she came upon a poorly marked railroad intersection at the bottom of a hill Unable to break before reaching the tracks, she struck the train and was thrown from her vehicle, a truck she had just purchased

She was not wearing a safety belt at the time of the accident

Graf's mother, Joan, said her daughter's auto insurance carrier has refused to provide reimbursement for the medical bills because the policy had not yet transferred to the truck from her old vehicle.

"They don't want to cover it because she was going on her car insurance," Joan said. "There's a 30-day clause and she hadn't signed any papers for the truck We're trying to look into it further and not give up on it right away "

A spokesman for the insurance company, American Family Insurance, said Graf's policy included only incidental coverage

"I don't know what Jolie's mother's concern is," said Bill Mentzer, district casualty claim manager for American Family. "Jolie's insurance provides medical expense coverage of $1,000, which we've already paid "

Mentzer said most people receive their medical insurance through policies provided by their employers. Auto insurance usually includes only supplemental coverage.

Wisconsin, unlike Michigan, isn't a no-fault state.

Joan Graf said the doctors treating Jolie are cautiously optimistic about the outlook for the 22-year-old woman

"They don't tell us much, but they said they're hopeful. They've indicated they expect her to come around in a few weeks."

Jolie attended Northville High School for three years. Her parents divorced a few years ago and her mother then moved into a farmhouse in Columbus owned by the family.

In 1993, Jolie went to live there with her.

Jolie's father, Dennis Graf, and brother, Kevin, live in Southfield but are now in Wisconsin to attend to the family emergency

Joan said her experience in Northville was a memorable one.

"I miss Northville very much. I still keep in contact with people there This (relocating) has been quite an adjustment for me."

Jolie's medical expenses have reportedly reached the six-figure level. A benefit fund has been established to help defray the high cost of hospital care.

Manager's phone strangely vanishes

If you want to get ahold of Northville Township Manager Tamara Hanlin, giving her cellular phone a ring is probably not the best way to go about it right now The township-owned phone assigned to her was stolen last weekend under very mysterious circumstances.

The manager said she last saw the phone in its charger on her desk before locking up and leaving her office on the afternoon of April 4. She was the last person to leave her side of township hall that day, Hanlin said, an area that's locked down outside of business hours

When she returned to work on the morning of April 8, Hanlin told township police, the phone was gone There were no signs of forced entry into the office, according to police and the phone was the only thing taken – even the charger was left undisturbed

The nameplate on Ha-'lin's door also did a Jimmy Hoffa Another township employee noticed it missing the morning of April 5.

PICKUP PILFERED: A Walled Lake man's pickup was stolen last week as shopped at Home Depot.

The man, 37, told police he parked his 1994 Chevrolet flatbed in Home Depot's parking lot at about 7:20 p.m. last Wednesday night When he came out of the store about 25 minutes later it was gone, he said

Also taken were a baby seat, sunglasses and money that were in the truck at the time. The missing vehicle and merchandise are collectively valued at $25,175

VCR RIPPED OFF: A Detroit woman who allegedly tried to make off with a VCR was caught by Meijer store detectives last Tuesday afternoon and arrested for shoplifting by township police

The woman, 27, took a VCR off the shelf then tried to return it for cash at the customer service desk, detectives told police. She also tried to do the same thing with a phone she had but Meijer doesn't sell that brand, they added.

The woman was booked at the scene, then released and faces an April 30 court hearing.

TEEN ARRESTED: A Northville Township teen was arrested last early Wednesday morning for attempted shoplifting at Meijer

Store detectives told township police that they saw the girl, 17, conceal several items on her person then leave the store without trying to pay for them The items include a bottle of self-tanning lotion, two lipsticks, three pairs of sunglasses, a Coke, a car freshener and a keychain – collectively valued at about $65 She was booked and released at the scene and faces a May 2 court hearing

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents, contact Northville Township police at 349-9400 or Northville City police at 349-1234

For drug-related offenses, leave an anonymous message with the Western Wayne Narcotics Enforcement Team on its 24-hour toll free tipline 1 800 769-0172

Prep time

Believe it or not, it's closing in on that time of the year already. Larry Kneisel, Danna Bowersox, Pat Vartanian (lower right) create a papier mache figure while working with the 100-parent committee that's organizing the upcoming 1996 Senior Class All-Night Party. The extravaganza, which parents do up in a big way for the teens, will follow graduation ceremonies Friday, June 7, at Northville High School. Students who haven't paid for their tickets are asked to send off $35 as soon as possible to organizer Martha Nield, 18234 Arselot, Northville, MI 48167. As always, this year's theme will be kept a closely guarded secret.

Con artists do number on unsuspecting shopper

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Ever heard the old saying that something which sounds too good to be true probably isn't?

A woman who visited Northville Township on Friday apparently hasn't. She became the victim of a couple of con artists who swindled the Detroit resident out of $1,250.

She was shopping at Meijer, township police say, when the woman, 26, was approached by another woman who said her name was "Lisa."

"Is this yours?," she asked the woman, holding up a small pouch

When the woman told her no, "Lisa" asked a third woman walking by who called herself "Fran."

"Fran" also said the pouch wasn't hers "Lisa" then opened it to reveal an apparently large sum of money, according to police reports

At that point "Fran" said that the three of them should split the money equally but that it would be best for them to discuss the matter first

The three left Meijer, got into the Detroit woman's car and drove to the parking lot of Big Boy on Haggerty just north of Eight Mile.

"Fran" counted the money, the woman told police, and claimed that the pouch had almost $100,000 in it.

By a convenient coincidence, "Fran" said that she worked at the nearby NBD bank on Eight Mile and that "she knew someone who could "launder" the money for them," police said. She left the parking lot on foot, walking toward the bank.

Fifteen minutes later "Fran" was back, saying that her contact had told her that it would be easier to "wash" the cash if an additional "large sum of money was mixed in with it."

"Lisa" claimed to have about $2,500 in her bank account, the woman said, and "Fran" said she had a good amount of cash with her as well.

When the two asked the woman what she had, the Detroit resident told them she didn't have much but that she could make a withdrawal from a nearby ATM machine.

The three then walked over to the ATM machine at the Comerica bank next to the Meijer gas station, where the woman withdrew $250 and went inside the bank with "Lisa" to get a $1,000 cash advance on her credit card

Everyone then proceeded to the parking lot of NBD, where "Fran" took everyone's money and went inside the bank Five minutes later she came back out, telling "Lisa" and the woman to go in one at a time and look for the man working who would give them each about $33,000

"Lisa" went in first and came back out a few minutes later. The woman then entered the bank but didn't see any man

After 10 minutes passed, the woman went outside to talk with "Lisa" and "Fran" but they were gone and so was her money.

Police continue to investigate the incident. "Fran" is described as a black female about 40 years old who stands 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds. She has black shoulder-length hair worn in braids and was wearing glasses and a dark leather coat during the incident.

The woman described "Lisa" as a black female about 25 years old who stands about 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs about 200 pounds.

She has black shoulder-length hair with blonde streaks in it.

City gets 'summons' from dissidents

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Northville Mayor Chris Johnson is a lawyer and he doesn't take it lightly when people openly vow to abolish existing government.

"Governments get their authority from the governed and when people stop recognizing the law you have real problems," he said. "That's what happened in Bosnia and now Liberia."

While not exactly beside himself with worry, Johnson was disturbed when an organized dissident group served papers on the city demanding that it give reasons why its authority as a political entity shouldn't be rescinded

"The Michigan People's Assembly and Grand Jury on behalf of the people, in and for Michigan Republic, hereby Command the defendants to Show Cause why the Emergency Statutes passed within this state should not be terminated ..." the document's conclusion states.

Johnson has received no direct communication from the group that mailed the printed demand to city hall and knows nothing about them other than the names that appear on the 32-page "summons."

The "Michigan People's Assembly" and "Country of Michigan" are mentioned in the pages of the petition, which has the appearance and formality of a legal proclamation.

Ingham County is identified as the original jurisdiction of the action and the signatures of 107 supporters fill the final pages of the thick packet

"If the defendants should fail in any way to Show Cause, then this Finding of Fact and Conclusions by Our Court of First and Last Resort shall become a Superseding Judgment, and upon failure of the public to protest said judgment, it shall become, Case Res judicata," the statement asserts

The petition names as "defendants" the state of Michigan and all its political subdivisions, and is being mailed to courts, cities and counties across the state, Johnson said.

"I don't laugh at this group," the mayor remarked. "This is the second step they've taken it to. Sending it to all the courts was the first.

"They haven't done anything illegal but if they take it to the next step and order the dissolution of government, technically that could be against the law."

Johnson said he forwarded the petition to state and local authorities, but added that he expected nothing more to come from the unusual situation.

> "I don't laugh at this group. This is the second step they've taken it to."

Determination turns ex-addict into role model

While he was abusing drugs, Rigato worked at MRM Inc., which was then owned by his father. But he was flirting with disaster when dealing with customers, something which bothered him acutely

"You almost become amoral. You create your own morals You start do do disgusting things you thought you would never do. You're about reduced to an animal-like way of living," he said.

After he came clean, initially he put in 12-hour days, seven days a week.

"I really try to keep moderate in my work. The more I got into recovery, the more I realized that balance and moderation is the secret to recovery," he explained.

Five years ago, he took over operations of the firm. From 1965 to 1991, Rigato said MRM was a mom-and-pop type of operation. The firm distributes pneumatic automation components, used by manufacturers, including the Big Three, to replace movements a human might make in manufacturing.

Back then, MRM did $4 million in business a year.

"My dad, when I told him we were going to do $10 million in five years, he thought I was crazy We ended up doing $13 million (in 1995)," Rigato said

By year's end, Rigato anticipates the firm will realize $20 million in sales. MRM also has a Toledo branch which did $4 million last year

"We've been strategic planning for six years and every year we have exceeded our target I think everybody has a gift. Mine is vision. I'm looking at the big picture, seeing opportunity," he said.

MRM stands for McDonald, Rigato and Moore. Rigato's father bought out the other partners in the 1960s. Now, with the younger Rigato holding the majority share of the firm, the staff says the initials stand for Mr. Rigato's Money

While his substance abuse problems basically kept Rigato from going to college, he's now networking with world business leaders at the Harvard School of Business's Owners, Presidents and Management Program. He's completed the second year of a three-year program which runs three weeks annually.

He is one of two local businessmen designated by the Novi Chamber of Commerce this year The other winner is Tom McSweeney, Sr., owner of McSweeney Electric

In September, Rigato aims to launch EPI, a second Novi-based company which will market a transfer and lift product here and in Europe. He's also expanding business with MRM Mid-Michigan.

But work isn't everything, Rigato said He's now ready to give back to the community That's why he's so open about his personal background.

"I want to tell my story. I believe it could make a difference. There's a lot of lost souls out there," he said.

Rigato is now trying to reach them. The father of four is a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Students Against Drunk Driving. He's spoken about his addiction to several church groups and is now willing to appear before church and civic organizations and schools

Making a difference in the lives of his 32 employees and his customers and building a business foundation his children and grandchildren can enjoy is what Rigato said matters most to him these days.

"As an addict, you're a self-contained person. Today my world revolves within 32 other worlds," he added

"I have a saying: 'work as if you don't need the money ' I'm just totally and completely satisfied with where my life is today "

If you are interested in contacting Tony Rigato as a speaker, call him at 348-2150

So far, so good with track revenues

casting on horseracing is not yet clear.

"It is difficult to forecast the revenues at this time," he said

Northville administrators have made it clear to race track officials that the city will continue its policy of requiring the Downs and Jackson Trotting Association to submit yearly letters of understanding outlining the payment of police services in case the breakage amount did not cover the cost of services

In a March 21 letter to Downs officials, Word said that because of the increased hours at the track, the city council authorized the hiring of an additional patrol officer to augment the scheduling demands of the police department

"The city council directed that I remind you that, in the event the service costs to Northville Downs and Jackson Trotting Association exceed breakage revenues, the city may not be able to continue its traditional service to the track," Word wrote

According to Police Capt Jim Petres during police budget discussions last week the department has no uniformed officers stationed at the Downs

"The patrol units patrol the parking lot and barn areas as needed and they also stop and do walk throughs," Petres explained "The crowds have been rather small"

According to Petres when live racing takes place at the Downs the department has five uniformed officers at the Downs and three officers in patrol cars on the road When the simulcasting first started in January, the police department increased the number of police officers by two, but attendance at the Downs has been low and police officials have decreased the amount of officers to none on site

"Initially we were projecting a large (cost) increase because of the simulcasting at the racetrack but because of the size of the crowds, we've been able to cut the staffing levels down drastically," said Petres "We've cut down our staffing projections for the remainder of this fiscal year as well as the next We won't be spending what we thought we would"

"The racetrack portion of the budget is the way it has always been without the simulcasting," Petres added

Simulcasting is a closed-circuit, televised horse race being held at another track, on which bettors at the simulcast location may wager

According to the new state horseracing law host racetrack cities must provide police and fire services to tracks in order to receive its monthly breakage checks

According to past city estimates the cost of providing police and fire services to the Downs during its six month season averaged about $120,000 That covered the cost of six police officers additional equipment compensation insurance and other administrative cost

At the current rate the city could receive more than $500,000 in racing revenue this year.

City has history of inflating figures

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

How much money does the city of Northville spend on police and fire services for Northville Downs?

The answer to that question has varied over the years, and with the track open on a year-round basis, city officials are worried that the cost of providing those services will exceed the revenue paid to the city by the racetrack.

One thing is certain: Up until recent years, city officials exaggerated when they filed annual reports to the state Racing Commission, which are meant to verify actual costs of police and fire services

The Racing Commission requires host racetrack cities to file annual reports noting what the funds were used for. State law requires host cities to provide police and fire services in order to collect monthly racing revenue.

Reports released by the commission show a brief history as to how much officials have erred when it came to reporting those costs:

• Until he left Northville in 1991, then City Manager Steve Walters was responsible for submitting cost reports to the state. Copies of the reports dating back to 1990 seem to contain discrepancies on just how much it cost the city to provide police and fire services An analysis of the documents turned up some interesting findings

In 1990, Walters claimed in a city expenditures statement that it cost $515,346 for police services for the race track. That year there were 144 days of racing at the Downs, and the city provided six police officers who worked eight hour shifts at the track

In the report Walters explained that the six officers worked a combined total of 6,912 man hours. Simple division shows that police officers were pulling close to $70 per hour, according to the figures.

Walters also reported that the city spent $84,496 in fire services, $70,000 for a parking development on Cady Street which didn't occur, according to race track officials, along with other miscellaneous services The final expenditure tally to the state was $907,256.

The city was slated to receive $907,256 in pari-mutuel funds from the state that year.

• The same thing happened in Walters' final year in Northville. In his report to the state he claimed the city spent $558,043 for the same police officers. That season there were fewer racing dates but, according to the report, the city's costs were greater than in 1990

Walters also said in the report that Northville needed $121,298 for water main improvements, but track officials say such upgrades never took place.

• The discrepancy becomes more glaring when you look at the 1992 report filed by current City Manager Gary Word. His report to the state on cost expenditures incurred by the city was quite a bit different than the previous two years, with police services costing only $101,820 Reports filed subsequently have provided a consistent report of the city's police costs in providing protective services to the Downs

Since Word took over as manager the average cost of providing police and fire services for six months of racing at the Downs has been close to $120,000 amount billed to the city's 3 055 property owners

About $4 8 million of the total tax bill belongs to Wayne County property owners, the rest – about $4 5 million – is Oakland County

Most of the unpaid $144,000 (about $130,600) is for real property taxes About $13,800 lies in unpaid personal property taxes Those are property taxes paid on certain types of equipment or goods kept on a property that add to its value

In Northville Township unpaid personal property taxes account for about $10 100 of the total outstanding bill of about $624 000 Given a total billing of about $19 4 million, that's a delinquency rate of less than 3 percent according to Township Finance Director Thelma Kubitsky

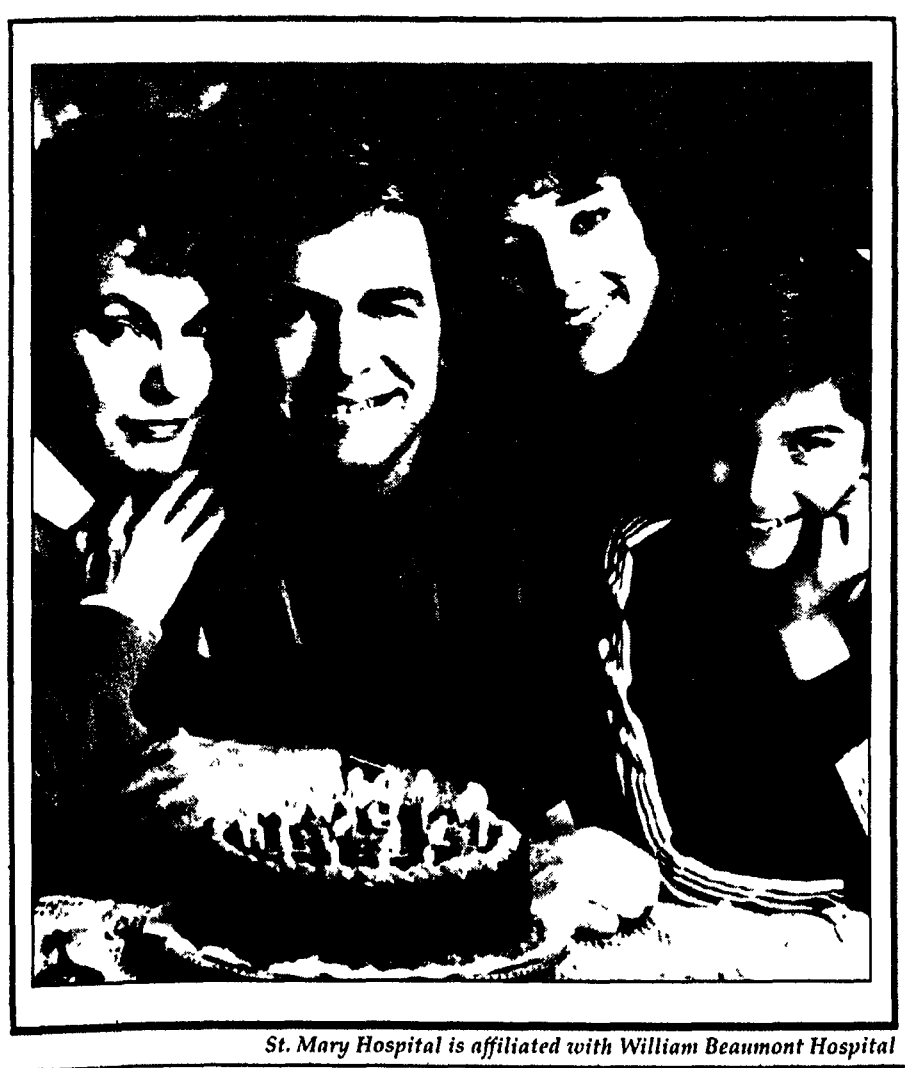
Family Tradition.



Every family has its traditions. Gathering for Sunday dinner. Marking anniversaries and celebrating birthdays. Unfortunately, some families share more than happy times ... they also share the risk of certain illnesses.

Breast cancer—which now strikes one in nine American women—is among them. If your mother, grandmother, aunt or sister has been diagnosed with this disease, your doctor probably has explained the added risk you face. But unlike women in past generations, you can put time and technology on your side.

We at the Marian Women's Center, St Mary Hospital, encourage you to see your doctor regularly whatever your age and, once you reach 40, to see us for a mammogram. Our mammography services are designed to give you peace of mind by bringing together certified radiologists and staff, personalized education and high-tech imaging equipment approved by the American College of Radiologists.

Make mammography and regular breast exams a new family tradition. For more facts on mammography services and other programs at the Marian Women's Center just call us at (313) 591-3314.

Community cable wiring continues

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Ameritech New Media now has more than 100 construction technicians busy hanging cable wires on telephone poles and burying cables underground throughout Northville and Northville Township and some city subscribers could be enjoying cable television within the next few months, according to Ameritech officials

At the same time, the new cable company has added an eighth community to its growing list of franchises, as residents of Garden City will be able to choose cable TV services from Ameritech beginning later this year, the result of a recently negotiated franchise agreement

The franchise is Ameritech's eighth in Michigan, and 13th overall in the Midwest. According to Donna Garofano, vice president of public affairs for Ameritech New Media, the company will provide viewers in Northville and Northville Township with plenty of programming options

"We'll offer residents exciting programming options that will be competitively priced and backed the with top-notch customer service," she said.

The "americast" cable services offered by Ameritech to Northville subscribers will initially contain 80 to 90 channels of video programming and information services with a basic package that will include the Golf Channel and The Disney Channel at no extra charge. Both are usually offered as premium pay channels on most cable systems, according to Garafano.

"Over the next few years, we plan to expand americast to include hundreds of channels and add interactive services such as home shopping, banking and games to make consumers' lives easier," she said.

The americast package is being developed by Ameritech's joint venture with The Walt Disney Company, BellSouth, GTE and SBC Communications.

Garafano added that the company is on track to begin offering cable services later this spring in parts of Northville, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton. Residents in sections of Northville Township, Fraser and Southgate will be able to order Ameritech cable services later in the year.

> The cable services offered by Ameritech to Northville subscribers will initially contain 80 to 90 channels of video programming and information services

"A real choice in cable TV is coming soon to Northville," Garofano said. "We are now finalizing our programming line-ups and pricing, and we'll be accelerating our construction efforts as the weather warms up."

The Northville City Council approved a franchise agreement with Ameritech July 11. It made national news as the first time a phone company will provide interactive cable service to a community.

The Wall Street Journal, New York Times, L.A. Times, and USA Today all had stories outlining the Ameritech agreement with the four communities, after the Northville City Council approved a first reading of the ordinance June 27

There are about 110,000 residents living within the four city service area of Northville, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton. The agreement will allow Ameritech to service that area for 15 years.

Ameritech also plans to begin construction in Garden City in the next few months and expects to offer city residents its americast home entertainment services beginning later this year

Northville High gains accreditation at yearly 'checkup'

Northville High School has once again waltzed through the yearly accreditation process.

According to Principal Dr. Tom Johnson, the high school's accreditation was extended through the 1995-96 school year by the North Central Association at the NCA's annual meeting in Chicago, March 27.

The association is the largest of the country's regional accrediting agencies, Johnson explained. It is a voluntary coalition of more than 7,000 schools and more than 1,000 colleges and universities in the 19 state region of the country.

The association works with schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of accreditation and evaluation, and currently accredits about 950 Michigan schools.

Johnson said the process is lengthy and intensive "Along with hosting periodic on-site evaluations by a visiting team of educators," Johnson said, "each NCA school is accredited on the basis of an annual report on conditions in the school, and on such supplemental information as the Commission on Schools requests

"The continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist at Northville High School," he added

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, receives a scrapbook from preschool teacher Heather Zoldak during Monday's Northville Board of Education meeting. The event was part of the Early Childhood Center's presentation to school board members, honoring the Month of the Young Child. Taking part in the ceremony was preschooler Connor Smentek, who was trying to attract the attention of audience members attending the meeting.

District preschool program begins push for accreditation

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

As the Northville Public School District celebrates the Month of the Young Child, the district's Early Childhood Center pre-school program is gearing up its effort toward national accreditation.

That news came Monday at the district's board of education meeting with Childhood Center Coordinator Pat MacIsaac unveiling the center's pre-school program that will be scrutinized by National Accreditation officials in May

MacIsaac said the push for accreditation began in earnest last year, and involved teachers and parents.

We began with two separate observations of the 16 different pre school classes within the program," MacIsaac explained. "Those observations were part of the self-study we conducted."

The results of the classroom observations were compiled and studied by parents and teachers, she added, and were used in developing an action plan for the program It was sent to the National Academy of Early Childhood Accreditation Agency, which will review the plan and perform onsite inspections of the program

"We're extremely proud of the effort and most importantly we're extremely pleased with the involvement from parents," MacIsaac said.

The results of the accreditation process could be in the hands of district officials sometime in June.

MacIsaac's presentation was highlighted by teachers and students of the childhood center, celebrating the Month of the Young Child – which recognizes the needs of children and their families. According to Heather Zoldak, a head teacher of the childcare program at the Childhood Center, the month celebrates the good things done for children

"It's not just celebrating what we do for young children, but it also celebrates what young children do," she said.

"It's important that we give these children quality time, because they represent the future."

The childhood center is sponsoring a parade through downtown Northville April 26 as part of the celebration.

More than 250 children and their parents are expected to participate in the parade, which will begin in front of the Main Street School, move up Main Street to the clock, and then travel back to the recreation center.

"Celebrating the Month of the Young Child is an excellent way of showing the support and care we all have for the children," Zoldak said.

"It's a great way to spread the good things we can do for the children

"It takes the whole community to raise a child, and it's important that we continue to be advocates for the needs of young children."

Defiant suspect ignores question about activity

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

"What the hell are you doing?"

That question, asked of a Farmington Hills man found looting a local woman's bedroom during a party two months ago, didn't get him to stop what he was doing, Northville Township police say.

In fact, according to investigators, David Glen Christopher II only grinned and then continued to look through a dresser drawer.

Christopher, 20, stands accused of stealing $13,300 worth of jewelry from the woman's home on Feb. 21.

If convicted of the felony charge of larceny over $100 that he faces, Christopher could spend up to five years in prison.

The jewelry was taken when the woman was out of town and her daughter decided to have some people over. According to township Detective Michael Wildt, Christopher was among them.

When the daughter, 18, left the house to go to the store, Wildt continued, Christopher was found in the home's master bedroom by another one of the visitors.

The man, 20, said Christopher was in the closet and that a dresser cabinet had been forced open. Seeing Christopher holding a gold necklace prompted him to ask "what the hell are you doing?," Wildt said.

Wildt learned of the incident soon after it happened and so far has recovered about $5,000 worth of the missing merchandise.

The rest remains missing

Prior contacts with police are on Christopher's record, according to Wildt.

Christopher surrendered to police voluntarily on April 10 and was arraigned the same day in 35th District Court before Judge Ron Lowe.

Lowe entered a plea of not guilty on his behalf and released the Farmington Hills man on his own recognizance

A preliminary exam in the case has been scheduled for tomorrow April 19, before Judge John MacDonald

Grateful purse owner offers repayment

Constance Wilson just wants to say thanks.

Wilson, a 42-year Northville Township resident, is trying to find the two young men who found her purse in the parking lot of the Haggerty Road Target March 28 and turned it in, completely in tact, to the customer service desk of the store.

"I'd like to give them $25 apiece or something. Honesty is such a passe thing," she exclaimed. "I just want to give them some recognition."

Wilson said a routine shopping trip with her daughter almost turned into a disaster when she left her purse in a shopping cart after leaving the store. When she got home she realized the purse was gone Her daughter called the store and received the good news that the purse was waiting to be picked up.

"I was thrilled,"Wilson beamed "There was just a little money in it and one credit card but all my important things were in there "

"I felt so stupid When I got home, I emptied it out and threw it away "

Wilson said one of the youths – Reggie Holmes – left his name at the customer service desk but she has no address or telephone number at which she could reach him

The two young men who found the purse are invited to contact The Northville Record office at 349-1700 and identify themselves to Editor Lee Snider

Township News Briefs

HONORING THE FALLEN: Tomorrow, April 19, is the one year anniversary of the Oklahoma City bombing. Remembering it was one of the items on the agenda for last week's meeting of The Northville Township Board of Trustees.

The board voted unanimously to fly all of the township's flags at half-mast that day to remember the bombing and its victims.

OFFICIALS GET A RAISE: The board also agreed to small pay increases for members of the planning commission and zoning board of appeals. Members of the commission currently receive $35 per meeting and each member of the zoning board gets $30 a pop.

The trustees hiked those sums to $50 per meeting for commissioners (excluding any member of the board who also serves on the commission) and $45 per meeting for the zoning board members (excluding any trustee).

ETHICS POLICY REVISED: The township's ethics policy, adopted in 1992, was modified slightly last week as well.

The trustees approved changes to the composition of the five member ethics committee that evaluates any complaints about township officials violating the policy.

Until now it consisted of three citizens at large, the township supervisor and a representative of the township employees.

To avoid potential conflicts of interest the board decided that from now on the committee will be made up only of five citizens at large

by Dennis E. Engerer, P.T.

HOW WE HEAL

Inflammation is the initial response to injury As blood vessels in surrounding tissues dilate a variety of substances are released such as white blood cells which arrive to remove dead tissue and other debris These and other vascular changes produce heat, swelling and redness while the subsequent pain and stiffness serve to immobilize injured ares A day or two after the injury, the body begins to replace injured tissue First, damaged cells are flushed for the air then a network of capillaries forms to introduce oxygen and nutrients into the injury site Then, for the next two to three weeks, collagen will grow into a puckered, inelastic scar that remains weak and can cause tightness and discomfort, particularly in muscles

At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc , we know nothing is more frustrating than losing mobility and full range of motion Using physical therapy techniques, we work closely with patients to assure a quick recovery and to inform them of how to prevent future injuries To schedule a consultation, call 349-3816, or see us at 332 E Main Street, Suite A Our staff now has three physical therapists including an athletic trainer and an exercise physiologist We have early and late business hours including weekends Insurance is welcome

PS When recovery from injury is attended to properly through physical therapy, the injured muscle or tendon can generally be expected to regain 80 to 95 percent of its original strength within three to six months

Northville Physical Therapy is conveniently located at

SMART CHOICE
Pick up a free copy of our Smart Choice Brochure and find out more on how you can make your home more environmentally friendly.

SMART CHOICES YOU CAN MAKE TO HELP OUR ENVIRONMENT
1) Why Wait To Insulate: Upgrading your insulation can dramatically lower energy costs
2) Clear The Air: Better home air filters can help improve indoor air quality
3) Reduce The Runoff: Use soaker hoses and drip irrigation to save water and decrease runoff
4) Enzyme Products: Biodegradable enzyme drain products keep drains flowing freely and are safer to use
5) Make Your Own Mulch: Compost leaves and organic waste and fertilize the natural way
6) Get The Lead Out: To reduce lead hazards in your home and protect your family during any home renovation, ask our paint department for a free information sheet
7) Practice Least Toxic Pest Control: Try birdhouses, bug lights, screening, citronella candles and insecticidal soaps as alternatives
8) Lower The Flow: Today's standard water saving shower heads reduce water usage to 2 5 gallons per minute or less, and today's water saving standard toilets use 1 6 gallons per flush or less
9) Use Ceiling Fans: Ceiling fans can make you feel cooler while reducing air conditioning costs by up to 40%
10) Plant A Tree: Landscape for energy efficiency and you can save up to 30% in home cooling and heating costs

HOW TO PLANT A TREE
1. Dig the hole a foot deeper than the height of the roots, and twice as wide as the root span. Loosen soil at the bottom of the hole to help drainage.
2. Fill ¾ of the hole with soil, water, and carefully place root ball in the hole.
3. Add soil around root ball, settling soil until soil is level with ground. Form a small circular mound around the plant.
4. For small plants, secure with stakes. For larger trees, secure with wire or rope

City planners turn down request for zoning change

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

When Nancy Darga moved into her home at 516 Center Street last July, she wanted to be a part of the neighborhood and grow into part of the community. The Dargas invested their life savings in renovating their new home just as many of her new neighbors had done.

Jane Ledford, who lives right down the street, resides in the house her mother and father bought back in 1932. She, just like the Dargas, has invested funds into keeping the house in its original state.

Then there's neighbor Paul Diaz. He and his family converted their home from a multi-residential dwelling back to its original single family dwelling, sinking all the family funds into the project.

Three neighbors in the historic portion of Northville affectionately named Cabbagetown, all with the same purpose – preserving the natural history of their neighborhood.

That purpose brought Darga, Ledford, and Diaz, along with several other Cabbagetown residents, to Tuesday's Northville Planning Commission meeting to voice their disapproval of a rezoning application for a home located at 504 N. Center Street.

The applicant, Ted Mitchell, would like to see his property rezoned from R-2 (residential) to PBO (professional and business office). The property is located at the northeast corner of N. Center and Lake Streets.

The commission recommended that the rezoning decision be sent before the city council for a final decision.

According to Northville architect Greg Presley, who represented Mitchell before the commission, Mitchell currently conducts a precious metals brokering firm out of the first floor of the multi-family dwelling.

Because Mitchell does not live at the residence the city code does not allow him to conduct business from the property.

"A change in zoning (from R-2 to PBO) will allow this benign business to occur," Presley said. "The city would gain more taxes, and there would be less city services required if the property is used for commercial business."

> "The Master Plan states that non-residential zoning shall not be allowed to expand into existing residentially zoned neighborhoods,"
> –Don Wortman
> City Planning Consultant

Cabbagetown residents disagree. They believe the change in zoning will erode the residential flavor of their neighborhood. "Lake Street is the holding line for the neighborhood remaining along Center Street. To cross that line with rezoning will open the doors for all sorts of future non-conforming special uses for these homes," Darga said. "It will deter future homebuyers from renovating and improving the homes along Center Street.

According to city planning consultant Donald Wortman, the city's Master Plan, adopted in 1991, calls for Mitchell's property to remain single-family medium density residential use and that Lake Street represents the northern boundary of commercial and office use.

"The Master Plan states that non-residential zoning shall not be allowed to expand into existing residentially zoned neighborhoods," Wortman explained. "It is my opinion that further commercial encroachment into residential areas is to be discouraged and is an adopted policy established by the Master Plan."

Wortman recommended denial of the proposed rezoning for several reasons:

- The proposed zoning change is contrary to existing land use patterns and could adversely impact properties to the east and north.
- The proposed rezoning change is inconsistent with the 1991 Master Plan.
- The existing zoning boundaries are logical and appropriate for that particular area, according to Wortman.

Lake Street forms a dividing line between commercial and residential uses and commercial extensions to the north of Lake Street could lead to further fragmentation of residential areas.

- The proposed change could be precedent setting. If the change was approved there could be an effect which stimulates zoning requests on the north side of Lake Street.
- A change in zoning would contribute to the further commercialization of N. Center Street, bringing additional traffic and land use impacts.

Diaz agreed with Wortman's assessment and is concerned about the future if the rezoning were allowed.

"My family and I sunk quite a bit of money into our home, and if this property is allowed to be rezoned what's going to stop someone, 15 years from now, from demolishing the home and constructing another type of building," he said.

Darga added that allowing the rezoning will devastate the integrity of the neighborhood. "It will depreciate the real estate value of all our homes, and it will doom this block of vintage homes to commercial squaller and ill-suited uses," she said.

"There are numerous office suites and buildings for rent and sale in this city."

Resident Carolyn Todd said this is not the first time the property at 540 N. Center street has been up for rezoning.

"This commission denied the last property owner's request, and it should deny this request as well," she said.

The issue will move to the city council for disposition. The council could take up the matter at its first regular meeting May 6.

Plans for spring bazaar taking shape downtown

Spring is in the air.

It's nearly time for spring clothes, spring planting and spring cleaning.

While it's known that the Northville merchants can certainly assist you with the first two items, the last can now definitely be added to the list.

The Northville Central Business Association has finalized plans and fees for its first annual Bargain Bazaar.

The Bargain Bazaar will incorporate the sidewalk sale with the former garage sale, a favored event which hasn't taken place for several years.

The date is Saturday, July 27. Main and Center Streets will be closed to make room for booths with shop owners offering bargains from their stores.

They'll be joined by food vendors filling the air with mouth watering aromas and residents displaying "slightly used" merchandise culled from their spring cleaning marathons. Entertainment will take place in the gazebo area.

Reservations for booths are now being taken. Garage sale spaces will be located on Main and Center Streets.

The cost per 8 foot by 10 foot area is $15.

Food vendors from outside Northville may rent space for $100 and Northville merchants will be filling up the sidewalks for $20 each.

The theme of this event is bargains, bargains, bargains.

Seasoned garage sale attendees know that group sales always draw the best crowds.

Advertising is included in the fee.

Those wishing to take part should contact Lorie Wyant at Salutations (349-3537) to reserve a space.

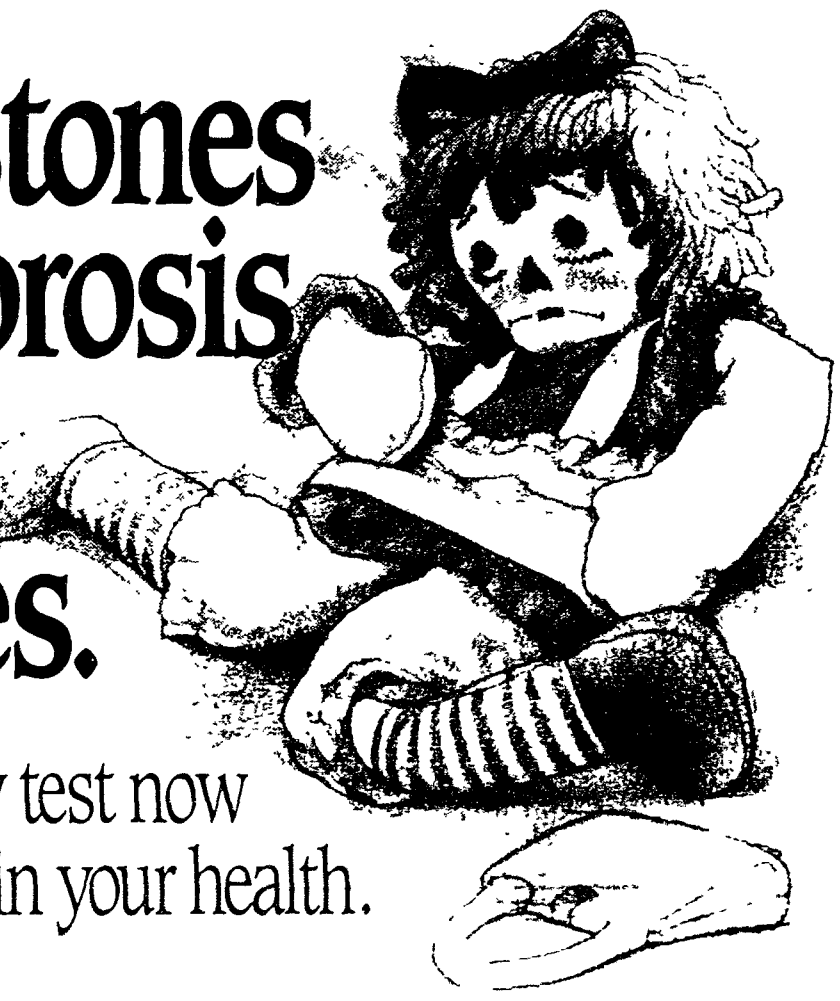
Sticks 'n stones 'n osteoporosis can break your bones.



A quick bone density test now can help you maintain your health.

Approximately 50% of women over the age of 50 have osteoporosis and are at risk of an osteoporosis-related fracture. A woman's risk of hip fracture alone is equal to the combined risk of developing breast, uterine, and ovarian cancer. Up to 20% of hip fracture victims die within one year of the injury. Maintain your health and independence by getting a bone density test at Botsford General Hospital. The test is safe, non-invasive, painless and is covered by most insurances if it is accompanied with a diagnosis from your physician. The test provides essential information to help your doctor assess the health of your bones. If you show signs of osteoporosis, your doctor can recommend preventative measures or therapy.

If you're a woman at or near menopause, don't wait for a fracture to find out that you have osteoporosis. For information on how to schedule an appointment for a bone density test, call (810) 477-6190 today. If you'd like a physician referral, call HealthMatch at (810) 442-7900.

The Northville Record

BACKWARD GLANCE ... at Northville's past

by Randy Coble

It's amazing what four days away from things can do for you. My whitewater rafting trip to West Virginia this past weekend with fellow Record news dudes Bob Jackson and Bryan Mitchell has given me fresher batteries than the Energizer Bunny

You'll be reading all about it in a future issue but for the moment just let me say that the sun, the rapids, the indescrib able beauty of the mountains and the good friends we made were all food for the soul

Now, as they say down South, less git down to bidness

The response to last week's question was tremendous, with Randy ending up owing coffee to no less than four people Much thanks to Tony Rizzo, Mary Ellen Patterson Hollis, Helen Gilbert and Carol Miller for calling me with the correct answer to what used to be where Allen Terrace is now

It was, in fact, the old Eastlawn convalescent center, which before being turned into a nursing home was the site of Northville's second tuberculosis sanatorium. It was also the place for an A-plus sled ride, I'm told

The first – and biggest – TB sanatorium was Maybury, of course, but Eastlawn has a fascinating history all its own sprinkled with wheeler-dealers and dedicated healers

The actual land was originally called Buchner's Hill after the man who owned it, John Buchner He was a big wheel in town back in the late 1800s and early 1900s The site of Allen Terrace/Eastlawn was first the spot where Buchner built one of the biggest houses in the county.

Buchner was the guy, by the way, who sold the then-Village of Northville a parcel of land on Main Street where the town jail and council chambers were built back in 1876

Buchner left his beloved brick home for California in 1923, selling to W.E. Scotten, the nephew of a rich tobacco businessman. Scotten lived there briefly, then sold the house to a man looking to ease the suffering of others.

That man was Dr. A.B. Wickham, a specialist in treating tuberculosis, which gradually closes down the lungs of its victims. Wickham wanted to build a place where TB sufferers could not only rest and recuperate but also live – and die – with dignity in a place that at least felt a little like a home.

The Buchner house became part of the Eastlawn TB sanatorium. Wickham remodeled the whole parcel, moving in some cottages from a Detroit TB center he'd been running, and living on the property himself. He took ill in 1930, prompting another doctor, Royce Shafter, to join the operation.

Wickham died and it was Shafter who ran the place until Eastlawn was converted into a nursing home in 1955. Just like Maybury, medical advances in fighting TB had made Eastlawn sanatorium a dinosaur.

By the time the 1970s rolled around, it looked like Eastlawn nursing center might soon go out of business as well. According to administrator Richard Vezzosi, who also owned it, state regulations were costing the home so much to operate that it wasn't turning a profit.

Like so many other businesses, Eastlawn might have just gone under and then sat around to decay. Fortunately, however, a third alternative was found: the City of Northville, hunting for land to build a senior housing complex on, bought Eastlawn in 1975. That killed the idea of building one on Wing Street just behind the post office, something the city had been considering up until then

Mr Rizzo handled the sale and told me that Vezzosi took the money and opened a Big Boy restaurant in then brand-new Fairlane Mall in Dearborn. He'd inherited Eastlawn from his aunt, who'd inherited it from her brother, Tony explained.

Several great artifacts were saved from the wrecking ball, he added, such as John Genitti's barbershop chair and a tractor picked up by the Lapham family

It restores a little faith in you to think that this land, once a refuge to thousands of people in need, is now the place many of our seasoned citizens can call home.

Randy Coble is always interested in your Northville memories. Call him anytime at 349-1700.

Marathoners seek sponsors for fund-raiser

On June 22 Kathy Konosky and Julie Booth, both Northville residents, will run the 26.2 mile Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon in Anchorage, Alaska, as part of the Leukemia Society of America's "Team in Training."

The "Team in Training" is a fund-raiser for the society where over 750 team members commit to training for the marathon and raising $3,500 each to help fight leukemia.

As part of their fund raising efforts they will be having a silent auction in Northville on May 4 at the Great Harvest Bread Co. from 7 a.m. until closing. They would appreciate any donations provided for the auction.

The money raised will be applied to the research, patient aid, public and professional education programs of the Leukemia Society of America. Each team member completes his or her marathon in honor or in the memory of a patient with leukemia, lymphoma, or a related cancer.

This year 1,100 Michigan residents will be diagnosed with leukemia Leukemia is responsible for the death of more children than any other disease. Twenty years ago there was no treatment for the disease

Today, thanks to research and many contributions, there is a 75 percent five-year survival rate of young patients with the most common childhood leukemia.

Join them in the challenge by donating an item for the auction or by making a monetary donation to the Leukemia Society of America. Questions regarding the silent auction, the "Team in Training" or the Leukemia Society of America, may be directed to Booth at (810) 344-9736.

Mill Race Matters

Spring may finally have arrived. Even if it hasn't, Mill Race Village begins its host of spring activities on Friday, April 19, with the first elementary school tour of the season.

Students from schools throughout the region come to the Village to spend the day at Wash Oak School recreating an 1873 school day This building moved to the Village from Seven Mile and Currie roads 24 years ago was built originally as a one room school in 1873

This year teachers from Amerman School have been working to redevelop the curriculum guide first written for Wash Oak over 20 years ago by members of the local branch of the American Association of University Women The Northville/Novi AAUW has spearheaded this revision as well. Thanks to both groups for their efforts to help local children bring history to life.

Martha Nield coordinates the Northville Historical Society/Northville High School effort to restore high school composite pictures

Some photographs are still missing If you have or know someone who has any of the following please contact either Martha or the Historical Society office at 348-1845. The following are still needed 1913, 1916, 1917, 1920, 1922, 1928, 1948, 1956, 1968 and 1975 Groups or individuals can donate to assist in the restoration projects as well.

Oakland County Cultural Council Brown Bag lecture series upcoming programs include: Contemporary Michigan Sculptors on May 16 and Detroit's Magnificent Movie Palaces on June 20.

The programs are held in the auditorium of the Information Technology building located at the Oakland County Service Center in Pontiac. Contact (810) 858-0415 for more information.

Waterloo Historical Society will hold an all out work day on Saturday, April 20 Volunteers should bring brooms, dust cloths or rakes between 10 a m and 2 p.m. to help prepare the Farm Museum site in Stockbridge. Leave a message at (517) 595-2254 to receive information about this or a brochure about alternative volunteer opportunities

Last week's segments of The Making of Michigan, edited by Justin Kestenbaum, which pertained to the Northville area are cited here Kestenbaum used diary entries from the 1820-60 period to highlight activities in the newly developing state, continuing from the 1835 account of John Gordon while traveling through the newly named Plymouth community.

"The country has been settled some 10 years and land near the road is worth, improved $20 to $25, and wood $10 to $15. Six miles from this place, (the village of Plymouth), we left the heavy timber and passed into a sandy soil with light Oak woods. The soil is like the Rappck, (Rappahannock River in Virginia) bottoms, of fair quality, but with too large a dose of same ...

" The settlements on the road are quite frequent. I was informed today by an intelligent man, with whom we rode for an hour, that he took up public lands at $1.25 an acre five years since, nine miles from Ann Harbour (which we pass through) and now would not be willing to sell them under $30 per acre. We had delicious potatoes and butter for our supper. Opposite me at the table I recognized some emigrants who were passengers in the Michigan

" I saw not one stone of any size between this place and D, the want of which will render turnpikes very expensive, if not impracticable though on the other hand, the perfect level of the country adapts it to the construction of railroads ...

" The country immediately around this place is heavily wooded Lots in the village of 1/4 acre each sell for $100 to $500. Every person with whom I converse tells me that government lands well selected must rise 500 to 100 per cent per annum ...

" The timer we saw today consisted of Oak, Walnut, Hickory, Wild Poplar, sugar tree, etc., etc., all of very large growth and clothed with the resplendent hints of autumn. Henceforward we traverse the region of Oaks which now becomes the predominating tree until we reach the lake "

Next week a little more from Gordon's diary as he leaves the Plymouth region to head further west

–Diane Rockall

Man claims he was carjacked

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Redford man told township police he was carjacked at Meijer two weeks ago

The man, 48, works at the Home Quarters store just across Haggerty Road from Meijer. He told township police that he picked up his paycheck from there on the morning of April 5, then drove to Meijer and went inside to cash it

He got his money, the man said, and returned to his 1990 Plymouth Sundance He got in, the man told police, rolled his window halfway down and was about to start the car when everything went wrong.

A man wielding a gun came to his door, the Redford man said, and stuck it in his ear He ordered him to slide over into the passenger seat. The man did so, whereupon the individual with the gun got into the driver's seat and two more men got into the Sundance's back seat.

They pulled his jacket over his head and ordered him to lie on the floor, the man said, while they drove to an isolated wooded area

There they dragged him out of the car and about 25 feet into the trees, the man told police, then demanded all his money The men kicked him in the leg and side and punched him in the face, the man said, and took his wallet containing more than $400 in cash

The three men then put him back in the Sundance, he continued, and drove it to a spot on Levan Road north of Six Mile in Livonia. There the three left him, the man said, and got into a late '70s/early '80s model black Chevrolet Camaro and drove off.

"I was upset and not thinking clearly," the man told police to explain why he drove home instead of reporting the incident. "I thought it wouldn't do any good to report it "

It was only after thinking about it and talking to his boss at Home Quarters, who urged him to call, that the man decided to contact police They are continuing to investigate The man suffered only a cut on his chin There are no fingerprints in the Sundance and no sign of the three men he described in Meijer surveillance videotapes

The three suspects are described as black males ranging in age from 18 to 25. The one with the gun is said to stand about 5 feet tall and weigh about 155 pounds He was wearing a dark blue hooded sweatshirt and red and black striped vest during the incident

The second man stands 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs about 180 pounds. The third man stands 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs about 220 pounds.

Local directory available soon

Plans to publish a Northville-Novi-Plymouth Community Telephone Directory have been announced by Michigan Community Directories, a Suburban Communications Corp company

Over 40,000 new telephone directories will be delivered to area residences and businesses beginning in late August.

The new directory will feature zip codes in the alphabetical residential, business and yellow pages sections Also included will be a convenient restaurant menu section from fine area restaurants following the restaurant classification in the yellow pages.

A special Internet section also will be included to assist those who wish to "let their fingers do their surfing."

Michigan Community Directories' (MCD) new community telephone directory will give local advertisers a more logical and complete marketplace to sell goods and services, according to MCD General Manager Mike Needles Instead of dividing their message and advertising dollars in two different Ameritech directories (West Northwest-Detroit and Plymouth neighborhood), they can place one ad to reach the entire local market at a realistic price.

This is another way that Michigan Community Directories is enhancing its marketing position and customer service while being the preferred telephone directory information source in the communities it serves, Needles said

For information about advertising in the new directory call 1-800-632-6810.

Michigan Community Directories is owned by Livonia-based Suburban Communications Corp., which also owns HomeTown Newspapers, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Press Community Newspapers, Community Newspapers and Camden Publications

Our Opinion

Planners' decision avoids bad precedent

The Northville Planning Commission provided a great service to this community this week when it denied the request of a city property owner to rezone his land from residential to commercial.

The property, which sits at the corner of Center and Lake streets, is right at the boundary of the historic neighborhood of Cabbagetown.

It is also a boundary that, according to the city's 1991 Master Plan, separates residential from commercial and was written into the master plan to keep business from encroaching on residential areas.

What the commission did has validated this important document. By granting the rezoning request, the commission could have set an abominable precedent – allowing business to eat up important residential blocks, leading to the erosion of a neighborhood that is attempting to keep its historic charm.

The promise of collecting additional business taxes should never be a leading reason for making zoning changes, and we endorse the decision of planning commissioners who looked past the easy money and made the correct long-term choice.

We certainly hope, and heartily recommend, that when the Northville City Council takes up this rezoning request in the not-too-distant future, that it too bases its decision on the Master Plan. That document ensures that Northville will continue to evolve in an orderly and proper fashion, and it should be followed by city planners when considering similar requests.

Checkered area roads need capital infusion

Western Wayne County motorists can give thanks to an obscure federal bureaucrat and their hang-tough local officials for saving the 1996 road construction season and preserving money for local roads.

Northville area drivers wish there was more cash to come their way, of course, but at least a major portion of the county road improvements program has been salvaged.

Rodney Slater of the Federal Highway Administration last week got leaders of the Michigan Department of Transportation and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) to reach something resembling an honorable agreement on how road fix-up money would be spent. SEMCOG unanimously approved the deal Friday.

We say "something resembling" honorable because it employs today's greatest labor-saving device – tomorrow. Stripped of its rhetoric, the scheme – with the lofty appellation of "advanced construct" – means that the state and local communities will use today's money to pay for projects that Uncle Sam will reimburse tomorrow.

SEMCOG negotiators included some potent and effective western Wayne County residents: deputy county executive Mike Duggan, SEMCOG executive director John Amberger (known as the "chief worrier" in some circles), and SEMCOG transportation planner Carmine Palombod.

Gov. John Engler saves some face through all this because the big freeway projects he wants will stay on course. SEMCOG and Wayne County officials bring home far more bacon than Engler wanted to let them have from the federal hog, however. Altogether, projects worth $2 billion can be funded over three years.

On balance, then, Engler emerges looking bad. He announced last December he intended to commandeer a ton of money for state projects and the heck with local needs. He balked at endorsing a much-needed fuel tax increase for roads unless the state could eat the lion's share.

The governor reportedly made political threats against freeway exits in the new Tiger Stadium area in Detroit if he didn't get his way. He threatened the political future of L. Brooks Patterson, a fellow Republican and Oakland County executive. He also set off alarm bells when he talked of spreading southeastern Michigan's money across the rest of the state.

Even his press secretary, John Truscott, got into the act, making smart-aleck comments about things being influenced by "Wayne County politics" going on within SEMCOG, although clearly the two counties were on the same bipartisan track.

SEMCOG, under the cool guidance of Amberger, held its collective temper and responded with dignity, tact and fact. It is, after all, a planning organization, not given to the Engler-Truscott brand of bombast. Moreover, SEMCOG's clout has been enhanced under the new federal ISTEA (InterSurface Transportation Efficiency Act), making it a partner of the governor, not a subordinate to be bullied.

All this means that many projects will proceed on schedule, including extension of the Haggerty Connector, a Northville Road bridge over the Rouge River bottleneck and widening of Eight Mile Road along the Livonia-Farmington Hills border.

Motorists should rejoice. No, the paving of Six Mile west of Sheldon still isn't on the program, but its prospects are improved.

While a federal bureaucrat helped resolve the disagreements between Engler and SEMCOG, a major chore still needs to be accomplished. Anyone with eyes and a sensitive spine knows our roads are full of potholes; many need widening, turn flares and improved signals. Federal CAFE (fuel economy) standards mean less fuel is burned per mile, and less road revenue is generated.

Therefore we call on Gov. Engler to support a fuel tax increase that helps both state and local roads. We call on state Sen. Bob Geake of Northville and Rep. Gerry Law of Plymouth – Engler's fellow Republicans – not to fear gubernatorial rhetoric and threats.

As SEMCOG showed last week, this governor can be forced to listen to reason.

If the headline fits, go with it

Lee Snider

We kind of took it on the chin on the op-ed (facing) page this week. It seems that a group of Northville High School government students needed a topic for an assignment pertaining to politics, so they decided to draw up a petition asking us to keep the "untruthful garbage" we print "every week" out of the newspaper.

I have a hunch the students received some coaching from a disgruntled adult or two, but we'll set that aside for now.

The lengthy cover letter to the petition, I was able to confirm, was meant as a letter to the editor, so we published it in its entirely. We also talked about the possibility of printing the names of the 86 people who signed it, but many of the signatures were difficult to read. Instead of trying to track down all the spellings, I placed a tag at the end of the letter indicating that there was an accompanying petition with signatures.

I won't comment on the content of the letter – I'll leave it to the readers to decide whether our young critics made a case for themselves. But I did want to address one issue that comes up with semi-regular frequency in discussions having to do with journalistic procedure – letters to the editor headlines.

For those who don't know how this works, the person responsible for laying out the page (usually the editor) writes the headlines that appear above all letters. The editor's responsibility in composing headlines is to summarize both the intent and the inflection of the letter writer. When the writer includes harsh criticisms in his or her letter the editor is obligated to repeat that same tone in the headline

The headline, then, does not reflect the opinion of the person who wrote it, it suggests the viewpoint of the writer whose words follow. I don't really believe, for example, that The Northville Record needs to clean up its act, yet I headlined the students' letter that way because I think it fairly represents their opinion, at least within the limited space available for such a brief summary.

I used to believe that this procedure was self-evident, but there seems to be a substantial segment of the readership that misunderstands it, just as there is a goodly number of people who routinely confuse the guidelines used in articles, editorials and columns

Among the many harsh judgments of the student petitioners was the assertion that the letters to the editor headlines in The Record are often mean-spirited I won't dispute the point but I would respectfully submit to our high school commentators that if a headline has an edge to it, the likelihood is that the letter itself contains sharply worded opinions.

I am willing to listen to the criticism that I may have failed in an attempt to accurately reflect a letter writer's point of view in a headline, but I can't accept the notion that I was wrong in headlining a pointed letter with pointed verbiage

That, after all, is the idea

Get into spirit of Library Week

Pat Orr

As libraries across the United States observe National Library Week through Saturday, April 21, the Northville District Library has much to celebrate this year.

The construction of our new, state-of-the-art library is entering its final stages. As we continue to meet the original schedule, a grand opening in early fall is in the planning stages. A special "Opening Day Collection" of print and nonprint items such as books-on-tape, compact discs, and videocassettes will be featured.

You can find the Northville Library on the Internet. As part of the library network site (http://tln.lib.mi.us), Northville District Library has a home page offering information on service hours and programs, progress on the new building, activities of the Friends of the library and information just for kids.

The library network site will also enable users to access the shared catalog of member libraries and provide a link to resources throughout the state of Michigan and the United States. It's a terrific, easy, and useful way to learn to use the Internet.

New programs, collections, and services continue to develop. Our Youth Services Department has doubled the number of storytime programs, and participation has also doubled. Tot Story Time for children ages two through three and a half with an adult is just one of the new activities at the library.

Workshops such as bead-making and bookmark design have brought youngsters into the library for fun and introduction to the wonderful information the library offers on crafts and art. Visits to the library by school groups and scout troops have also increased.

Tours of the present library and an introduction to our new computer catalogs are available any time.

The Adult Services Department has offered services to the Scott Regional Correctional library, renewed its services to the residents of Allen Terrace, and offers delivery of books to home-bound residents of the Northville community.

A technology specialist has joined our staff this year to help integrate computerized reference services into all collections and services of the library.

The commitment of the board of trustees and staff to provide quality customer services has generated increased use of the library. Circulation of all library materials is up 6 percent over previous years, reversing a downward trend.

Library patrons borrowed 114,279 items last year and asked 6,898 questions. Through the first three months of 1996, 32,661 items have been borrowed and library staff has answered 3,063 questions.

We cordially invite you to visit the current library and make use of the new books, materials, and services arriving daily Even as we prepare for the move into the new building, programs including the annual summer reading program for children continue on schedule.

More detailed plans for the move to the new building will be announced later this spring. Celebrate National Library Week with a visit to your library, and share the excitement as we continue to construct the future.

Pat Orr is the director of the Northville District Library.

Letters

Petition: Record needs to clean up its act

As you are the editor of The Northville Record we feel the need to point out to you some very disturbing facts about the articles you choose to print and the letters you allow to be printed in your paper.

We are both frequent readers of The Northville Record and usually enjoy all the positive articles written about the community. However, over the past few years, mainly this year, we have both become very displeased and appalled with all the negative articles and letters you have printed

Examples of these kind of articles and letters are as follows: the two letters about Karen Baja submitted by Russ Fogg and Dean Lenheiser on Feb 1 with the awful titles you included, the impolite article on Aug 31, 1995, about Northville High School teachers slacking off last year, and the letters about the Northville High School cheerleaders on Feb 15 submitted by Carol Workens and on Feb 22 submitted by Bob Jackson

We would like you to consider keeping your articles truthful and positive instead of the negative untruthful garbage you print every week Even though you are not part of this community, you do write for the community and you influence the community Why do you feel the constant need to print such criticism in your paper?

Is it for the publicity? Is it to sell even more papers the National Enquirer way? Constantly criticizing the township supervisor and trustees seems to be a weekly theme with you What seems fantastically unreal to us is the articles and letters you print are usually false and have no facts to back them up

Instead they seem to be based on your personal bias or the bias of your underpaid reporters, and on hearsay and gossip In particular your choice of headlines, often being inflammatory and sensational is even more unfair than the articles

Printing letters such as the ones from Dean Lenheiser that continually bash Karen Baja and other members of the community is wrong His letters are hurtful, unsubstantiated deceitful and untruthful Yet you still print them

We understand that they are not your letters but expressions of the letter writer's opinions Yet the headlines you choose once again inflame and set an overall negative tone Why are you determined to make this community center around all the negativity? Our community is full of great people and wonderful happenings, Karen Baja included. Why can't the paper concentrate more on the good and the positive?

Your article about the Northville High School teachers, accusing them of being "sluggish" during the 1994-95 school year was one of the worst articles we have ever read We are surprised and shocked that you would actually write it

Do you know how hard these men and women work every day? They often have to put up with rude, selfish students 180 days a year

On weekends they correct papers and tests for as long as six to seven hours straight. Worst of all their extra effort often goes unnoticed and unappreciated by their students

The editorial and letters you allowed to be printed about the Northville High School cheerleaders were appalling and simply not true.

These young women (and newly included men) put tons of time and effort into their sport and still manage to do well in school and many hold part time jobs.

Then you turn around and print an article about how they should be wearing tights?

Why not print an article about how they won their league championship title instead?

And what about other sports such as gymnastics where they wear even less than the cheerleaders do?

No, we're not saying gymnasts should be wearing tights but we believe you personally attacked the cheerleaders and should apologize for your rudeness

We understand that it is your right to put whatever you feel is appropriate in the paper

However, we circulated a petition within the high school and township offices asking people if they too are tired of reading the negative untruthful articles and letters you print in The Northville Record

After two days over 80 people signed saying they are tired of all the bashing and rudeness involved in your editorials

Please for the welfare of the community, stop all the negativity and start getting the facts straight Why not get out and participate with the community and talk more with the residents?

Why not try being more like a real community paper that reports all that goes on in the community instead of focusing on the gossip, half-truths and the negativity? It would be greatly appreciated.

Easter ticketing was shameful

To the Editor:

I hope you print this. I think the folks who live and work here should be aware of what kind of people are in our midst.

I was late for church on Easter Sunday My daughter had a temperature of 103 and I had slipped earlier that morning, aggravating a chronic ankle injury But it was Easter and it was a Sunday I didn't have to work so my fiancee watched my daughter, and I hobbled off to church

When I arrived, there were no parking spaces within two blocks so I squeezed in at the end of a row in the parking lot of the church and went inside. People come out of the woodwork on Easter and Christmas who don't normally attend church and it was standing room only

The church and church basement were full so it was no wonder parking was a problem.

After Mass, I got to my car to find a parking ticket for parking on the sidewalk

Yes, one tire was on the sidewalk but still I couldn't believe a ticket was issued for overflowing a church lot on Sunday – Easter Sunday

I went to the police station to ask what kind of officer would do that and was informed by the desk sergeant that the officer normally wouldn't do that on a holiday but that someone called to complain about the church

I am shocked and appalled that in this country of religious freedom and tolerance someone would have the ill grace to call the police on people attending church on a Holy Day

It's not like the lot is filled like that every Sunday.

Is this really the kind of person we want as a resident in our town?

I can only say "shame on you" to whoever it was who called

Life will be financially better when I remarry in July but now that $15 ticket is not only appalling but a small hardship.

That money would be gas money for a week and next week's contribution to the collection plate.

I can deal with the money, what I can't deal with is this anonymous person who felt such spite on a Holy Day, to a complete stranger. Shame on you – but God bless you anyway.

Karyn Hanser

Police basher's way out of line

To the Editor:

This is in response to the individual from OLV who was crying foul last week about Easter Sunday when he or she received a parking violation.

Do some think they are above the law or that laws only apply to a few? How do you feel about those who park in a handicapped space without qualifications? Or park facing oncoming traffic, or park and sit in a fire lane or no parking zone? How do you feel about "Scofflaws?"

Please don't tell us about Gestapo techniques. This is a great country in which we live – count your blessings and take your case to court if you disagree.

I'm glad our law officers are there enforcing the laws and making this a nice community to live in.

Walter Juterbock

Take lawyers out of dignity decision

Jury selection in Dr Jack Kevorkian's third assisted suicide trial is under way

Phil Power

At this point, the sequence of events is beginning to sound like deja vu all over again

• Dr Kevorkian and his publicity-seeking lawyer, Geoffrey Fieger, put on quite a show for the media during the first two trials Dr K showed up for the start of the third in 18th century costume, apparently to suggest the unfairness of the proceedings

• Richard Thompson, the Oakland County prosecutor whose major contribution to upholding law and order appears to be an obsessive interest in prosecuting Dr. Kevorkian, already has lost twice trying to convict under state law. For his third try, he's relying on an even more vague legal doctrine called "common law."

• The first two trials were marked by repeated attempts by the Oakland County prosecutor's office to bludgeon presiding judges by appealing instructions to juries and leaking comments about supposed judicial bias Last week saw Larry Bunting, chief assistant prosecutor, asked Circuit Judge David Breck point-blank whether his personal views on assisted suicide could interfere with his fair conduct of the trial. "No," responded Judge Breck

Reflecting on these repetitive shenanigans confirms my original thought that how families deal with the awesome reality of approaching death is a subject too intimate and too subtle for the blunt instruments of intrusive laws enacted by a politically-motivated Legislature or dubious prosecutions brought by ambitious prosecutors

I have now been through two cases – my father and my mother-in-law – where a close relative was terminally ill and wished compassionate assistance in dying with dignity In both cases, much of my activity involved various officious representatives of the state from getting their grubby hands on the matter.

In my father's case, I had to keep drafting and re-drafting the living will instructions to be posted on his refrigerator door in case some well-intentioned ambulance attendant tried to put in an IV tube The point was that he wished to die, quietly and with dignity, at home and without any heroic measures being taken Once an IV was put in, however, sensible people advised me that the legal system would insist it stayed there, regardless of his explicit wishes

And while Dr. Kevorkian is mugging before the cameras and as lawyers keep preparing briefs and whining about judges, something real and sensible is going on in the ultimate court of public opinion The idea is gradually taking hold that the wishes of terminally ill people who want to die quietly and with dignity deserve to be respected

Once that idea has fixed itself in the public mind as sane and proper, all the legislative and prosecutorial huffing and puffing in the world simply will not matter Juries won't convict Obsessive prosecutors will look silly. Lawmakers attempting to legislate codes of morality will look, at best, irrelevant.

The process has now gone far enough to be nearly irreversible.

And, indeed, the law may eventually catch up with reality

In the last days of the 1990 session, Michigan lawmakers approved legislation that permits people to designate advocates legally empowered to make medical decisions for them if they become incapacitated. In the five years since that law was passed, patient advocates have succeeded in gaining the authority to withdraw food and water to allow patients to die.

And on April 2, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals struck down a New York law that banned assisted suicide on the grounds that if it's legally OK to bring about death by withdrawing food, it cannot be illegal to achieve the same result by prescribing medicines that hasten death

I expect the U.S. Supreme Court eventually will rule on the matter. But in contemplating all the legalistic mumbo jumbo that has already infested this matter, I tend to hold with Justice Antonin Scalia, who said recently in response to a question about whether the high court should tackle the issue of doctor-assisted suicides: "Why would you leave that to nine lawyers, for heaven's sake?"

Court to decide issue of airport parking tax

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

You need to fly from Metropolitan Airport. You park your car on a long-term lot outside the county-owned airport. You return and pay your parking bill – plus a 30 percent tax

You won't pay that tax anymore if the Michigan Supreme Court declares it unconstitutional, as Airlines Parking Inc. wants. The parking lot operator, after a loss in the Court of appeals, last week took its fight to the seven top justices

On the defense: Attorney General Frank Kelley, representing the state which passed the $7 8 million tax in 1987, Wayne County and the city of Romulus, which split the revenue by legislative act

"It's unconstitutional because it s a local tax that wasn't put up to a vote of the people," said attorney Philip A Gillis, representing the parking lot operator Gillis argued that the Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution requires voter approval of what is essentially a county tax

Gillis said the tax amounts to unfair competition because the county operates lots inside the airport boundaries and pays "no tax whatsoever"

He quoted an 1886 treatise on taxation by Thomas M. Cooley, the famed state Supreme Court justice from 1863-85. He said that it is who uses the tax that determines whether it is state or local. Although the tax was passed by the Legislature, its revenues go to Wayne County and Romulus Thus, it should be considered local and therefore it required a vote of the people, said Gillis

Ross H Bishop, handling the case on appeal for the attorney general, said the argument that it's a local tax is "without merit" because it was imposed by the state

Many other taxes are imposed by the state for local government, Bishop said, citing 60 percent of the sales tax which goes to school districts, 15 percent of the sales tax which goes to municipalities, and general revenue sharing. He noted the Headlee amendment requires 41.66 percent of all state revenues to be returned to local units

Bishop said Airlines Parking Inc. lacked standing to sue because it isn't a taxpayer but merely collects the tax from parking patrons. He said the company's request that it get a refund would "unconscionably enrich" it. (The company also wants to collect its attorney fees)

Finally, the assistant attorney general said the Revenue Act's one-year statute of limitations had run out because the suit was filed more than four years after the tax was imposed.

"Wayne County has absolutely no role in the imposition, collection or levying of the parking tax. The county merely receives a portion of its revenues pursuant to a discretionary annual appropriation authorized by the legislature," Bishop said.

Arguing for Wayne County, Jay B. Rising and Carl VonEnde of the Miller Canfield law firm said the county didn't levy the tax. So if there were to be a vote, would it be conducted by the county, the city of Romulus or both?

The case is likely to be decided before Dec. 31, when Justice Charles Levin leaves office.

It's similar to a class action lawsuit won by a taxpayers group against Wayne County. In that case, a circuit judge on March 31 declared unconstitutional a 40 percent surcharge on the real estate transfer tax.

In the case, however, both the Legislature and the Wayne County Commission authorized the surtax. In the airlines parking case, only the legislature acted.

Law designed to prevent absentee ballot tampering

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

If it's not your absentee ballot don't touch it, don't move it, don't even think about it.

A new election law sets out new stipulations for absentee voter ballot applications and ballots and makes it a felony for unauthorized persons to handle either.

"There's parts of it that really steam you," said Novi City Clerk Tonni Bartholomew. "It annoys us because it's costing us money and it puts controls on that don't control."

There are parts of PA 261, the new law signed in January and now in effect, that Bartholomew knows are just part of her job as a clerk. Then there are parts that have her playing a cop to voting citizens

One change in particular limits who can possess and return signed absentee ballot application or voted or unvoted absentee ballot to·

•the applicant

•a member of the applicant's immediate family

•a person residing in the applicant's household

•a person whose job normally includes handling the mail

•a registered elector asked by the applicant to handle the application

•a clerk or other authorized election official

The new law stipulates that a person illegally in possession of a absentee ballot or application is guilty of a felony

"It used to be you could bring back the ballot as a good neighbor deed," said Bartholomew

Northville City Clerk Delphine Gutowski said there used to be a form for people to fill out when dropping off someone else's ballot but that option doesn't even exist now

"I'm going to have to turn in my residents," said Bartholomew "I'm going to be called the bad cop when people get a call from the Oakland County prosecutor."

Bartholomew recently received clearance to use the drop box out side of city hall to collect the completed ballots Now people don't even have to get out of their cars "Just drop it out there, I'll get it," said Bartholomew, who hopes the solution can defray any problems

The Novi clerk explained there were 800 absentee voters in the last election and the numbers are growing, so the law could affect many people. In addition, she estimated about 25 percent of residents return neighbors' ballots for them.

According to Bartholomew, election fraud in a downriver school district began the push for the revamped legislation. But she was quick to point out that the trend is already heading toward consolidation of elections, making cities the only entities allowed to hold them.

Making the illegal possession a felony could bring a stiff fine or even jail time, according to Bartholomew.

"It's a ridiculous law and the state itself agrees," she said.

"I think the legislators are treating the constituents like morons," said Gutowski.

In accordance with all the new changes, the applications and ballots must be reprinted to include the new regulations. "This law has cost us a great deal of money," said Bartholomew who had to step on it to have local printers on the case before the May 13 state senate election.

Another portion of the law also has city clerks around state at a rolling boil City clerks are now required to be available to pick up ballots from people who request the service. Neither Bartholomew nor Gutowski is unhappy about the intent, to make it easier for homebound voters, but says there are no restrictions written into the law.

There's no regard to time of day, location or need. She explained according to the law she could be required to drive to Lansing to pick up a ballot if a voter so requested.

"I could run out 700 times on election day," said Bartholomew "And that's not what the city is paying me to do."

Gutowski agreed "We get 1,000 absentee voters in a presidential election. Where am I going to be on election day then? I'm going to have to get a ballot can on the back of my van and drive up and down the road," she explained.

She said unfortunately, clerks are expecting people to use the service more for convenience than necessity.

"They're not helping the people who really need it," she said.

"I don't know what they're doing up there (in Lansing) except not talking to us," said Gutowski.

Loophole frees up road funds

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Federal, state and regional officials used a gimmick called "advanced construct" to break the logjam over $2 billion in road funding

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments voted unanimous approval Friday of a three-year plan that puts an additional $27 million in federal aid into local projects this year

It ended a four month shootout with Gov John Engler's administration over who would get the lion's share of federal road aid

Instead of "pay as you go," said SEMCOG executive director John Amberger, some projects will be funded in advance by state and local units – "a system the feds call advance construct

That means paying for some projects over a period of time instead of immediately in a lump sum," said Amberger, a Livonia resident

"While new to local governments in southeast Michigan, advanced construct has been used by Michigan and other sta es for some time," Amberger said

Bob Willkie, new director of the Michigan Department of Transportation, explained it this way:

"We can spend our money this year and use next year's (federal) money to replace it."

State and local units will put up to $30 million of their own money in anticipation of $822 million in future federal aid, he said.

There was no debate but much applause from local delegates on the SEMCOG executive committee.

"After the last meeting," said deputy Wayne County Executive Michael Duggan, "there was talk (in Gov. John Engler's administration) about moving southeastern Michigan's money to other parts of the state."

Duggan, of Livonia, hailed the deal, reached last week by MDOT and SEMCOG leaders with the help of a federal official, as "putting $27 million back in for all (local units). We (Wayne County) got $8 million of that and Oakland $14 million."

Duggan said many suburban projects will now be pushed forward as a result of the change.

Power of the party comes from delegates

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

"You don't have to be a Rockefeller or a Kennedy to have a place at the political table George Bush started out as a precinct delegate Susy Heintz started out as a precinct delegate."

The speaker is Susy Heintz, who holds the current rank of state chair of the Michigan Republican Party

Part of her job is encouraging the faithful to run for precinct delegate so they can become workers and decision makers.

It was the way Heintz rose to position she enjoys todays.

As a young matron in Northville Township, she was a precinct delegate who rose to rub shoulders with presidents, governors and first ladies and all the while still stayed in touch with her old friends

Fred Durhal agrees. He's political director of the Michigan Democratic Party and works on recruitment of precinct delegates.

These are the folks who are first elected to serve at county conventions. From there they'll head off for duty at the party's state convention, held this year in Detroit.

There they nominate state ticket candidates, and "interface with everyone in the precinct – talk to them, distribute literature, recruit them to the Democratic Party, and cover the polls on election day," Durhal said.

Precinct delegates are the grassroots workers who determine the tone of a political party for years, even decades

A particular union or doctrinal group that wants to take control of a party will start by electing its people as precinct delegates.

Precinct delegates are the reason the UAW and public employees unions dominate the Democratic Party and why Pat Robertson's Christian Coalition came so close to control of the GOP in 1986 and may gain a majority this year

"A lot of groups try to do that," said Heintz.

"The battleground is at the county convention "

She insists precinct delegates are more important to her party than to Democrats because the GOP lacks heavy input from organized labor.

In the 1950s, rival union groups actually carried baseball bats at Democratic conventions in Detroit.

Today, many conventions are spirited, but fortunately are no longer physically threatening to their participants.

A major deadline is 4 p.m. Tuesday, May 6, when candidates for precinct delegate must file nominating petitions.

Today it's easier than ever to take part in the process. The candidate must be a registered voter as of the Aug. 6 primary and a resident of the precinct.

A 1994 law says a candidates must file at least three but not more than 20 petition signatures from registered voters with the county clerk.

The old law, now superseded by the new one, required at least 15 signatures.

The candidate must be age 18 by the Aug. 6 election date, which means persons now age 17 could qualify.

Also, while state law generally prohibits a person from holding two offices, a precinct delegate can also run for a governmental office.

For example, precinct delegate Heintz also served as township trustee, clerk and supervisor.

She then put in a stint as a Wayne County commissioner before becoming the director of the governor's southeastern Michigan office.

Only the Republican and Democratic parties have qualified by past performances to elect their precinct delegates at the general Aug. 6 primary election

In cases of ties, there are no recounts, but the county clerk picks a winner through a flip-of-the-coin process.

A person getting at least three write-in votes also could be elected.

Heintz's aide, Lori Tomek, said the GOP set a record in 1994 when 4,000 precinct delegates were elected.

Durhal said he didn't have the Democrats' figures

Every voter precinct in the state may elect at least one Republican and one Democratic delegate.

Larger precincts may elect four or five. Here is their work schedule:

• Late in August delegates attend their party's county conventions (or congressional district conventions, in metropolitan areas).

The times, dates and places of the county conventions are still to be announced.

They pick delegates to the state convention and listen to candidates seeking state office nominations

(Democrats usually adopt an "open" rule· Any elected precinct delegate or dues-paid party member may be a delegate to the state convention.)

• The weekend of Sept 6-7, both parties hold state conventions. The Republicans will hold theirs in Lansing while the Democrats will go to Detroit.

This year they will nominate candidates for the state Supreme Court, State Board of Education, U of M Board of Regents, MSU Board of Trustees and Wayne State University Board of Governors.

(In gubernatorial election years, they'll also nominate candidates for lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general.)

Those conventions are likely to draw a presidential or vice-presidential keynoter

• After the election, delegates are expected to attend a second county (or district) convention to pick local party officers

• Early in 1997 they will pick delegates to a February state convention where the party chair, vice chairs and State Central Committee members are selected

One thing the 1996 crop of precinct delegates can't do, however, is help nominate the presidential and vice presidential candidates

The 1994 crop of delegates got that honor, based on the turnout at the Democrats March 16 caucuses and the Republicans' March 19 primary

It all makes one thing perfectly clear in order to get a place at the table, you have to start early

Novi chief wants beefed up force

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Twenty-three percent of the crime which hits Novi takes place within the 1 3 square miles of the city bounded by Novi Road and Interstate 96

Overall, the city's crime rate has gone up a far from whopping 0.67 percent over last year

However, for fiscal year 1996-1997 Police Chief Douglas Shaeffer has asked the Novi City Council for six new officers, a $284,000 expense. Shaeffer reported that his request, supported by the police union, is a by-product of the city's growth and the department's non-growth over the past five years.

"They are very concerned about their personal safety. They are afraid they will leave themselves in a vulnerable position," Shaeffer said.

One of the officers would replace an individual who was promoted to sergeant. Two detective positions remain unfilled and the department does not at present have a street narcotics officer.

While crime levels have stayed almost static, the volume of calls to the police has gone up 12 percent. The consequence of this is stacking, the police department's version of call waiting. High priority incidents, such as to damage to person and property, pull officers away from events of lesser priority or delay the response to such calls, Shaeffer explained.

Response times for the police department average 8.5 to nine minutes, the chief said.

"It depends on the type of call. Nine minutes on a personal that is in progress is an exceedingly long time. Nine minutes in a larceny for people who were on vacation, doesn't make a bit of difference," he added.

The department seeks to meet FBI standards of 1.5 officers per each 1,000 citizens, but is currently at the 1.19 level

"If you give me no people, we will do the best possible job with that. If you give me six people we will do better than if you give me no people," he told the Novi City Council at an April 10 budget hearing.

Also sought is $2 47 million in improvements to the aging police building.

The department has a proposed budget of $5.898 million, the largest in the city estimated annual budget of $15.706 million.

The chief also proposes keeping the police department building open later, from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.

Mayor Pro Tem Hugh Crawford suggested the department hire police cadets, to take some of the work off the sworn officers. Shaeffer said the Novi Police Officers Association opposes this approach.

Crawford continued. "I've heard several complaints that it's really not a user friendly building in the evening hours. You're trying to provide a community service. Perhaps they need to look at it with an open mind. It's not a threat to their job security."

Shaeffer's also asking for $297,000 in vehicles, including seven patrol vehicles. Replacement of police cars is dictated by the police union contract.

Also requested is $226,000, part of a phased upgrade of the dispatch center and $110,000 for data processing

The council is expected to make a final decision in May

Hats off to volunteers

National Volunteer Recognition Week, April 21 through 27

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

You're never to old or to young to be a volunteer

Paige Caldwell is only 7-weeks old, and although she doesn't know it, she is a volunteer, thanks to her mom Janet

Janet is a member of Formerly Employed Mothers on the Leading Edge (FEMALE)

Once a month the members of FEMALE and their children visit with residents of Charter House of Novi

Even though the moms and their children have been visiting with the residents for about a vear it still takes a while for the youngsters to warm up to the residents

"You can see the glow in their (residents) faces and the wonder in his " Eva McCormack of Novi said of her son Tyler, who is 2 years old

Tyler and resident Cyril Novotnv played catch toward the end of the one hour visit

"I love kids " said Novotnv "I love to watch them play "

Debbie Whitson and her son 3 year-old Joshua are more comfortable with the seniors because Joshua s great-grandfather is in a nursing home up north "He s a lot more comfortable dealing with his grandfather after coming here " Whitson said

For others like first time particl pant Tammv Ware of Highland and her 17 month old daughter Emma it s a chance to make friends

"She doesn t get a chance to see her grandparents " Ware said "because we just moved here from out of state "

For Ware joining FEMALE a national support group for mothers who stav home with their children was a way to meet people

Some residents are more eager to interact with the voungsters than others

"At first thev are naturally shv " said Novotny who has two grown sons a daughter and one grand child "Thev get a kick out of it and I get a kick out of it "

Charter House along with manv other groups such as retirement homes hospitals civic groups schools and churches recognize the countless hours their volun teers put in

The Novi Girls Shouts recognized the efforts of their volunteers bv holding a Leader and Volunteer Appreciation Breakfast on March 16 Six volunteers were honored with awards for distinguished ser vice to scouting Sherrv Dingman Genie Dupell Marv Reichel Sally Collins Maria Caruso and Jeri Sunisloe received the Green Angel Award for outstanding service

Charter House will honor its vol unteers during volunteer appreci a tion week, April 21 through 27, with an appreciation night "Thanks for the Memories" on April 25

About 140 volunteers work in areas such as secretarial duties, religious services, entertainment, arts and crafts, and library ser vices at the nursing home

Charter House will present Holy Family Catholic Church with a plaque honoring the religious services they have provided to nursing home residents during the past year

Providence Park in Novi has volunteers in their 20s through their 80s working the information desk, as escorts, in the emergency room running errands, in physical therapy doctor's offices, health education library and gift cart

"The greatest majority of volunteers are over 60 " said Karen Wiley the director of volunteer services "They are an extra pair of hands and feet "

Mission Health Providence Hospital and Medical Centers honored 135 volunteers this week, including 75 from the Northville and Novi area at a recognition luncheon at Glen Oaks Country Club with service award pins for number of hours worked

More volunteer opportunities are available at the newest Mission Health facility which is opening in Livonia as greeters at the informa tion desk and in urgent care

"Typically volunteers work four hours a week " Wiley said

"There is something for every one " said Marie Bologa the man ager of community health services at Providence Park "They are a support system for us They come in through the snow and ice it is amazing at their commitment

"They contribute to the service and friendly atmosphere that the center is acknowledged for " Bologa said

One of many young children who accompanied their mothers to the intergenerational hour at Charter House of Novi was Tyler McCormak (right) who warmed up to Cyril Novotny for a game of catch with his mom, Eva McCormak.

Donna Raney is studying to be a master gardener.

Raney nurtures buds to full bloom

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Kids jump up and down on the planting around the clock," said Donna Raney, who is a member of the Beautification Commission, and older people 'drop beer bottles in the tubs around town They steal flowers, too."

But the 11 commission members keep on planning and planting each year to make Northville a place of beauty - 120 tubs, the clock planting, and that on South Main all the way to Seven Mile.

They make annual awards - they and the Township Beautification Commission - to businesses which landscape their property attractively.

And in the spring the two commissions give out seedlings of shrubs and trees to any one who wants them.

"Last summer people called me crazy," she said, "because I watered all of the 120 tubs one week I did it in three eight-hour days - alone - and I enjoyed it." But 'I was paid for it '

She's studying to be a master gardener, too, Raney said, and for that "you have to give 40 hours of volunteer work.' And so her activity on the Beautification Commission counts in the 40.

"I want to give back,' Raney said of her work on the commission.

"I've always done gardening - since I was 2 years old in my parents' garden. Then at school there was a garden for horticultural students."

But back to the Northville Beautification Commission, Raney said. "We need more members - men and women both "

They're still looking for a color scheme for this year's flowers. And they've decided to reduce the number of pots

"Once we had a budget of $18,000," she said. "It's now down to $8,000."

If you have ideas and want to consider joining the commission, come to the city hall on the second Tuesday of the month at 7 p.m.

It's A Fact

Schoolcraft offers gift to high school graduates

Graduates traditionally get many gifts — some useful and some not. Schoolcraft College has a special and very useful gift for any high school student who is a June 1996 graduate. The college will extend a $50 credit toward tuition costs for any three-credit summer course to June high school graduates.

Schoolcraft offers almost 60 credit courses during the July 2-August 19 summer session. Classes range from accounting through computer graphics technology, economics and philosophy to sociology.

Graduating seniors headed for college in the fall might get a boost by taking "College Notetaking" or "Learning Power" in the collegiate skills division. Taking "Principles of Economics" this summer might get a challenging class out of the way or lighten up a student's fall schedule.

The only requirement Schoolcraft imposes is that the student be a June high school graduate. The student may register for credit classes available during the day, the evening or via television. The gift also is available to students admitted to Schoolcraft for the fall term who want a head start on their studies this summer. There are no residency restrictions.

"This is a great opportunity for graduating seniors because they can get a jump on the college experience, develop skills necessary to succeed in college, and earn transferable college credits," said Julie Tobin, director of enrollment management. "This experience at Schoolcraft College will give first-time students a clear advantage."

For information call the Schoolcraft College Admission Office at (313) 462-4426.

The youth group at FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 200 East Main Street in Northville, will host a silent auction and picnic on Sunday, April 28, after the 11 a.m. service until 2:30 p.m. to raise money for their high school work camp in Boulder, Colo. There will be games, food and fellowship.

The Women's Association annual rummage and bake sale will be held in the Williams Room on Thursday, April 25, starting at 9 a.m. Rummage may be brought to the church starting Sunday, April 21. Clean, usable clothing, bric-a-brac, toys, household items, small appliances, garden tools and children's and paperback books are needed. No shoes, boots or canning jars. All proceeds from the sale go to the missions.

For more information, call the church at 349-0911.

The video titled The Man Who Had to Sing and an interpretive reading of "General William Booth Enters into Heaven" head the alternative, non-traditional service at NEW LIFE LUTHERAN CHURCH, which worships temporarily at the Masonic Temple, 730 Penniman on the square in downtown Plymouth. The service takes place at 11 a.m. New Life is a forming congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in American (ELCA).

The traditional service – based on the Lutheran Book of Worship – has moved to 8:30 a.m. The theme this week is "God's Gospel Geography." Youth and adult education begins at 9:45 a.m. The adult class is studying the parables of Jesus.

Both worship services will offer Holy Communion. A light reception is also available between the services.

Donations of food for the food shelves at the Plymouth-Canton unit of The Salvation Army will also be accepted this weekend.

For more information, call Pastor-Developer Ken Roberts at (313) 459-8181 or (313) 455-1436.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF NOVI, 45301 West Eleven Mile Road at Taft, has a new time and name for Sunday morning services. The Family Praise and Celebration Service will take place from 9 until 9:45 a.m.

As the name implies, families will worship together at this service. There will be group singing, special music, drama and messages from God's word that will be spiritually uplifting and entertaining. Casual dress will be allowed.

Immediately following the 9 a.m. service, regular Sunday School will be held from 9:45 until 10.45 a.m

A traditional worship service will be held from 11 a.m. until noon. A nursery is available at both services should children get fussy.

For more information, call Pastor Gary F. Elfner at (810) 349-3477.

The annual rummage sale at MEADOWBROOK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, 21355 Meadowbrook Road in Novi, will be held April 19 and 20.

COOKE MIDDLE SCHOOL

The Cooke PTSA Nominating Committee is pleased to announce the following nominees for the PTSA executive board for the 1996-97 school year: President, Dale Otterman; vice president, Carol Bernardo; secretary, Susan Hayes; treasurer, Debbie Reisman. Elections were held at the April 4 PTSA meeting in the Media Center We would like to extend our thanks to these nominees for their commitment to the student's school.

Congratulations are in order for the Cooke-Meads Mill Odessey of the Mind (OM) team who recently competed successfully in the regionals and will now advance to the state competition. Good luck.

The following students were "Caught Being Good". Steve Beson, Jim Drouillard, Mike Pilarz, Tyler Sedam, Catherine Timco and Georgie Walsh.

The Cooke "Citizen of the Month" are·

Sixth Grade Team — Megan Foley, Emily Shebak, and Jimmy Wolbers.

Seventh Grade Team — Bobby Gulewich, Carrie Hosman, and Lauren Schmidt.

Eighth Grade Team — Kim Berlin.

Elective Team — Erica Peterson and Lauren Schmidt

Academic Support Team — Chris McIntyre

— Robin Polletta, Publicity

MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL

Congratulations to the seventh grade teaching staff consisting of Mrs. Baird, Woodrich, Irish, Klokkenga, Stover and Hicks, Messrs Demski, Wickens, and Hannewald who won the coveted Michigan Association of Middle School Educators "Team of the Year" regional award.

Special recognition was also given to Mr Sutherland by the Northville Board of Education for being Northville's Middle School Teacher of the Year As always, it is wonderful to see Meads Mill teachers get the recognition they so deserve

During the week of March 3, also known as Drug Awareness Week, red ribbons and banners helped to convey the message that "Friends don't let friends do drugs." Activities during that week included a visit by John Foley, a former Meads Mill student, who spoke about his recovery from a serious alcohol-related automobile accident. Collin Jex and Noel Korowin of the Detroit Neon Soccer team also visited Meads Mill students and talked about healthy life choices.

Later in the month, students learned another lesson in drug education through a demonstration by the canine unit of the Department of Immigration. Many thanks to our guest speakers for sharing their insights and for their help in spreading the message about substance abuse.

Hats off to the following members of our Meads Mill Science Olympiad team who placed second out of 23 middle schools at the Wayne County Regional Tournament: Shalene Jha, Nathan Gudritz, Kyle Wargo, Joanna Lee, Sara Sarkisian, Justin Messer, Steven Selinsky, Jim Beson, Tim Calkins, Blake Robertson, and Rebecca Frimenko. Best of luck to our team which will now move on to the state tournament to be held on April 20 at Michigan State University.

Jenna Marquart, who passed away April 7, was also part of the team. She will be missed by all who enjoyed her company and benefited from her participation.

Congratulations to our Citizens of the Month for February: Michael Ansara, Kathleen Chenoweth, Jason Grimm, Apoorva Kelkar, Michael Modlin, Kathleen Ochmanski, Kyle Wargo, Tiffany Blackford, William Dalton, Jeanette Hoefer, David Kovalik, Emily Monforton, and Philip Santer.

Many thanks to the 60 Meads Mill students who gave of themselves and voluntarily participated in the St. Jude Mathathon. These students completed a workbook of math problems, solicited sponsors who made a monetary pledge for each problem solved correctly and, as a result, collectively raised $3,010 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital

We would like to remind all eighth grade students to polish their smiles and be ready for their class pictures scheduled to be taken on April 23 Also, a reminder to our eighth graders that the application deadline for the Jody Schwartz Scholarship is May 1. This scholarship can be used to pay for lessons, summer camps, or additional instruction in an area of interest. This award will be presented at the Honors Assembly on June 11. Call Dr. Pernia if you have any questions.

The results are in for the winter 1996 sixth grade Knowledge Master Open. Out of 22 competing middle schools in Michigan, Meads Mill placed third. Out of 541 competing middle schools around the world, Meads Mill placed 76th. Congratulations to our team members: Tim Calkins, Monica Catanach, Beth Duey, Kristin Freeman, Rebecca Frimenko, Cheryl Gaitley, Amanda Grimm, James Hay, Helen Johnson, Tim Kirkman, Adam Lawrence, Esther Ling, Ethan Lube, Emily Monforton, Nick Moroz, John Petlicke, David Rohlfs, Joshua Runner, John Sannar, and Stephen Selinsky.

The seventh grade class requests that you please start saving your shoes. During the middle of April, the students will be collecting old (or new) shoes that your family no longer needs. With the help of a company called "Second Chance Shoes," these shoes will be ground down or melted to produce new products. Last year the seventh graders collected over one ton of recycled shoes that would otherwise have gone to our landfill If you have any shoes to donate, please bring them to the science room.

On March 5, for the first time, students form Meads Mill, Cooke, and Northville High School performed on the same stage. Congratulations to director Jill Gabler and her seventh and eighth grade choir and to the morning stage crew on a wonderful performance.

Also during the month of March, Meads Mill students continued to showcase their musical talents On March 6 the jazz bands and sixth grade band, under the direction of Roxanne Minch, performed to a standing room only crowd. On March 18 the choir and stage crew groups, under the leadership of Jill Gabler, had yet another entertaining show. The effort and dedication of our students and teachers was evident in both successful performances.

The next PTSA meeting is scheduled for May 16 at 9:30 a.m. in the "pit." Please join us.

–Kathy Houslander

'Diabolique' is full of intrigue

"This is a really unusual story, full of intrique. The murder occurs in the beginning of the story and we all know who did it — the real story here is what happens afterward, and that is what's interesting to watch."

— James G. Robinson

Producer of "Diabolique"

Sharon Stone as Nicole Horner and Isabelle Adjani as Mia Baran join forces in Morgan Creek Productions' suspense thriller, "Diabolique."

"Diabolique" is a suspense thriller featuring Nicole and Mia They are two very different women but they have something in common Both of them are sleeping with Guy Baran (Chazz Palminteri) — and both of them are sick of his domination over their lives

Nicole (Sharon Stone) is Guy s mistress. Sexy and self-assured, she was first drawn to Guy s magnetic appeal — and then disgusted by his lies and selfishness Now she's caught between desire and frustration, unable to leave Guy but equally unwilling to endure him

Mia Baran (Isabelle Adjani) is Guy s wife A timid former nun with a weak heart she is nearly suicidal over Guy s blatant infidelities, his constant cruel humiliation of her and his arrogant sexual demands But something about him is irresistible to her She s drawn to him even though he despises her

Then one day Nicole and Mia decide to free themselves from Guy s sadistic embrace once and for all The forlorn wife and the furious mistress decide to murder Guy together — to end his power over them permanently Nicole devises a scheme that seems foolproof and, despite her fear and fragility, Mia manages to carry off her part The murder occurs virtually as they d planned Life for the two women once again has the promise of peace

In the aftermath of the murder troubling events occur Nicole and Mia each discover things about Guy — and about each other — that they d never imagined The relationship between wife and mistress begins to evolve in ways neither would have guessed Then a brash unconventional detective (Kathy Bates) starts looking into Guy s disappearance Finally a terrifying series of clues begin to suggest that Guy may not be dead after all and he may be coming back to deal with both of them

"Diabolique" blends the acting talents of Sharon Stone, Isabelle Adjani Kathy Bates and Chazz Palminteri, with Jeremiah Chechik directing from a screenplay by Don Roos Marvin Worth and James G Robinson produce the film, which is based on the novel Celle Que N Etait Plus by Pierre Boileau and Thomas Narcejec, and the classic French film, "Les Diaboliques "

Gary Barber Bill Todman Jr Jerry Offsay and Chuck Binder serve as executive producers on the Morgan Creek Production Gary Daigler is the co-producer "Diabolique" has been released domestically by Warner Bros and overseas by Morgan Creek International

Several years ago veteran producer Marvin Worth decided he wanted to make a thriller "It's a kind of movie I hadn t done before and I started to come up with ideas for a story One idea was a mistress and a wife getting together to kill the mutual lover/husband Then I remembered Les Diaboliques which I hadn t seen in years So I rented the film watched it and was amazed how well it worked It actually fooled me once again! However, I felt it would be more interesting if we could explore the characters more and examine what makes the film tick "

For that reason screenwriter Don Roos who had written the thriller "Single White Female " as well as "Boys on the Side" and "Love Field" — all stories with strong well delineated female characters was selected to write the adaptation "I d never seen the original movie but I'd heard of it before And when I looked at it I absolutely loved it The relationship between the two women was so interesting so fascinating And the plot worked beautifully "

Chechik director was attracted to the project "because I liked the story and the idea of doing a kinetic thriller with some psychological complexities I also wanted to make a movie that explores a relationship between two women "

And producer James G Robinson, Chairman and CEO of Morgan Creek Productions agreed to make the film knowing that the strong female roles would attract some top notch actresses "This is a really unusual story full of intrigue " he says "The murder occurs in the beginning of the story and we all know who did it — the real story here is what happens afterward and that s whats interesting to watch It offers some roles that are too good to resist "

"The main thing was to bring the story and characters into the 90s " says Robinson and in bringing it into the 90s you think of Sharon Stone Sharon is the epitome of the '90s kind of person and the actress perfect for the role of Nicole And it clicked in our minds that Isabelle Adjani was the actress to play opposite her "

Sharon Stone, who most recently received a Golden Globe Award and Oscar nomination as Best Actress for her performance in Martin Scorsese s "Casino," has been one of Hollywood's most sought after actresses since her star making role in "Basic Instinct," one of the top-grossing films of 1992

Isabelle Adjani one of the most respected actresses in France, is a four time Cesar Award winner and two time Academy Award nominee for Best Actress She has mesmerized audiences worldwide, from her haunting performance in the title role of Francois Truffaut's "The Story of Adele H " through last year s award-winning lead portraval in "Queen Margot "

Romantic drama is loaded with chemistry

UP CLOSE & PERSONAL

BY DR GAIL MAJCHER
NORTHVILLE

An unpolished, street smart beautiful young woman wants to be a television star with the intent of acquiring fame and fortune She creates a bogus audition tape of her experiences as a reporter and sends it out to television stations throughout the country One station in Miami offers her a position as a basic gopher

Eventually she is given a shot at doing the weather and although she fails miserably the station manager notices how she "eats the camera " He decides to give her a chance

The beautiful wannabe is Michelle Pfeiffer and the station manager is Robert Redford And what an intriguing couple they make

With time he teaches her to respect news reporting for its inherent value rather than for the fame

And she makes him come alive with love

The chemistry between them builds slowly and realistically In addition to the romance, the story of her rise to reporting at the national level (shades of Jessica Savitch) is anything but boring This is a substantial, emotion-provoking movie that is worth seeing

Musical a first for area chorus

Rose and Joe Todaro of Northville will be among the Livonia Civic Chorus members at the 31st Annual Spring Concert Entitled "Island Magic," the event is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4, at 8 p.m. at Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middlebelt Road in Livonia.

Written by director, Jim Whitten, and Mark Sweetman, who also plays the role of Kirby, Island Magic is the first mini-musical for the choral group

The magic begins when Herbie, a terribly misunderstood husband, discovers a magic bottle with (what else?) a genie inside. In order to aid Herbie in his quest to return to his wife's good graces, the genie transports him and his wife Wendy to a most romantic setting, a south seas cruise ship and, of course the fun loving Livonia Civic Chorus is aboard

Other crazy characters of Island Magic are the "stuffed shirt" captain, the perky cruise director who's madly in love with the unaware captain; the greatly respected witch doctor, Dr Gruff and his busy-body assistant who "doesn t want to leave the Congo "

Among the familiar music that will be performed is "Jamaica Farewell," "Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea," "Blue Moon," "Stardust," and the LCC's favorite from The Little Mermaid, "Under the Sea."

Island Magic tickets are $4 for seniors and students, $6 for adults Advance tickets are available at the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department at Five Mile and Farmington roads. Tickets will also be on sale at the door on show nights at 7:30 p.m.

For more information about "Island Magic," call (313) 261-2260

Mustangs clip Falcons 2-0

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Monday's 2-0 road victory over Farmington won't go down as the best game in Northville High history.

But playing in a steady second half downpour, the Mustangs deserve a lot of credit for hanging tough. Halfback Sue McQuaid scored both Northville goals in those final 40 minutes

For the Mustangs, it was their fifth win of the season without a defeat. Goalkeeper Meghan Cauzillo collected her fourth shutout

The sun tried to peek through the clouds at the start of the game. But the overcast soon spread over the field at Farmington High Playing under those ominous first half clouds, both teams struggled early.

Ball movement was choppy and neither squad could mount much of an attack The Falcons played extremely cautious soccer in the first 10 minutes and rarely crossed the midfield line

About five minutes into the game, though, Northville started to pick up its tempo

McQuaid snapped off a nice right wing shot at the 35 33 mark But Farmington keeper Katie Adams was there to making a sprawling save

The Falcons didn t get a shot on Northville s goal until seven minutes had gone by. A lazy, lofting shot was easily caught by Cauzillo

> Finally at the 35:05 mark, McQuaid broke the scoreless tie. She took a pass from Lyndsay Huot and streaked up the right wing. Despite having a defender right on her, the senior placed a perfect shot in the left corner along the ground.

Farmington started to become more aggressive 10 minutes into the half. But it was Northville that had the quality scoring chances.

Freshman sensation Brigid Bowdell made a steal and charged up the middle for a shot at the 29 30 mark The shot went wide right, however

About six minutes later, McQuaid put a strong shot on net from right wing again The ball curved back toward the center of the net but Adams jumped to stop it.

The teams pretty much battled to a standstill the rest of the half. Cauzillo, though, was never really tested.

A cold rain began to come down just as the second half got under way. It didn't matter much to the Mustangs, however.

Northville came out and executed much better. Passes began to click and the Mustangs' superior skills began to stand out.

Despite having a defender right on her, the senior placed a perfect shot in the left corner along the ground.

The Mustangs missed a golden opportunity to make it 2-0 just a minute later

Adams bolted far from her net in an attempt to get the ball McQuaid beat her to the ball and sent a crossing pass across the net Northville got the ball but kicked right into a group of Falcons

The Mustangs did make it 2-0 near the midway point of the half Amanda DeKoker sent a shot off the crossbar The ball bounded right back to McQuaid, who then headed it in for the score

Northville continued to dominate the game But the contest ended without any more goals

The Mustangs played an important game with Livonia Churchill last night Northville plays a non-conference game tomorrow at home against Troy Athens

GETTING THEIR KICKS

Anderson takes over for Schwagles at No. 1

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Few sports seem to bring out emotions the way tennis does these days.

Players, both professional and amateur, are pumping their fists and abusing their rackets at an alarming rate. While Northville High No. 1 singles player Dave Anderson is passionate about the sport, you'll never see him lose his cool.

"I never throw my racket," he said. "I'm pretty poised."

The Mustangs will need Anderson to be calm, collected – and winning – this spring.

Northville is going for its fifth straight Western Lakes Activities Association title. The Mustangs also have a string of 53 consecutive regular season matches without a loss.

If the netters are going to continue down that golden path, Anderson must lead the way. According to coach Dick Norton, the junior is up to the task.

"I think Dave will win most of his matches," the longtime mentor said. "He's a smart player and works hard at the game."

Anderson has already had a fine career at Northville High School.

As a freshman, he posted a 24-1 record at fourth singles. He also won conference and regional titles as well.

Last season, Anderson moved up to No. 2 singles. He won 17 of his 23 matches and took another WLAA title.

An aspiring writer, he hopes to author another successful campaign this year. Anderson said competition is tougher at first singles.

"There are a lot of good players," he commented. "But I played there a couple of times last year."

Anderson often filled in for injured Matt Schwagle at No. 1. That made the transition from second singles easier, he said, and should allow him to do well.

"I want to compete in the conference," said Anderson, "and maybe even win it."

The Mustangs have had a death grip on the conference and first singles championships, in particular, for years. That's due, in large part, to Mark and Matt Schwagle.

Mark arrived first on the scene in 1990 and ended up a state finalist for three straight years. After he graduated, brother Matt kept up the family tradition at No. 1 for two more seasons.

That left mighty big shoes to fill for Anderson.

"I was nervous at first," he said. "The Schwagles were there for so long."

The junior said he's beginning to accept his role and relax, however.

"I have a lot of good guys behind me," Anderson said.

Norton said he saw Anderson's potential as a freshman.

"I knew when he came in he'd be our No. 1," he added.

The coach said Anderson is a talented player. But that comes from hard work and not just natural ability. As good as he is now, Norton said he'll be even better by the time he's done at Northville High.

"I think Dave will improve more," he said, "because he's willing to work. He's willing to do more to get better."

Anderson hits year around either at Schoolcraft College or Sports Club in West Bloomfield. Most of the time that's with several of his Mustang teammates.

His dedication to the sport began early.

Anderson started playing at about 6-years-old. By fifth grade he was competing in tournaments.

Of course he had a pretty good teacher back then. His dad, Richard, played college tennis at Purdue.

It wasn't until recently that the pupil could beat the master, though.

"I started to beat him last summer," said Dave.

The younger Anderson would also like to play Big Ten tennis.

"I want to go to Michigan," he said.

To his credit, the teenager realized he had to change his game to make it to that level.

Whiteley earns coaching position

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Laura Whiteley never thought about coaching back when she was a star midfielder for Northville High

But just four years after her Mustang career ended, that s what she's become. Whiteley, who grad uated in 1992, recently took over the varsity job at Kalamazoo Loy Norrix and is loving every minute

"I've been coaching at Loy Norrix for the past three years as an assistant," she said "The first year was kind of strange because my age was so close to them "

But after working with the team for awhile, she said players grew to respect her for her coaching abili ties Her age is no longer an issue

"There's no problem with authority," said Whiteley

The Northville native has guided the Knights to a 2-3 record thus far. She described the program as being in the building stages

"It's been encouraging," she said

Whiteley enjoyed great success in her playing career in Northville.

As a freshman, she played on a Mustang team that went to the state final against Troy Athens. Whiteley didn't play much that year.

"All of the freshman sat that year," she added

That changed dramatically her last three years.

In a system that placed a premium on ball control and passing, Whiteley was the equivalent of a point guard in basketball

"My role was to get the assists," she said, "not to lead us in scoring."

The Mustangs won a district title her senior year. Whiteley made All Western Division that season and was also a first team All-Area pick

African champion to teach shotokan karate at local dojo

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Ask someone about karate and they're likely to mention everything from Bruce Lee to Mortal Kombat.

But according to Pierre Mouele, the ancient Japanese martial art is much more than kicking, punching and blocking. Karate can help most everyone achieve focus in their life.

"The main thing in karate," said Mouele, who is a native of Gabon, Africa, "is that it teaches more than self defense. It's everything.

"People have to come and train to find out. Karate is good for everyone."

The 1991 All-African champion recently joined the staff of the Novi Shotokan Karate Dojo. Owner and sensei Scott Maczuga said it's an honor to have Mouele as an instructor.

"I've never seen anybody move like him," he said.

Maczuga opened the Dojo, which is located in northern Novi at 30610 Beck Road just south of Pontiac Trail, more than two years ago. It took nearly that long to get the 700 square foot facility exactly the way he wanted it.

"We finished construction about seven months ago," Maczuga said. "We started from scratch. We didn't even have heat or water when we started."

Since then, the Troy resident has been able to build up his client base to about 70. Students range in age from 4- to 54-years-old.

"A lot of people started for physical fitness and self-defense," said Maczuga.

The 27-year-old has practiced karate most of his life. But he didn't get serious about it until his early teen years after a pretty frightening episode.

A resident of Tampa at the time, Maczuga stumbled upon a drug deal in progress. One of the people involved ended up threatening him and extorting money.

That convinced him to get more serious about karate. The incident actually worked to his benefit in the long run.

"It was the best thing that could've happened to me," Maczuga said.

Self-discipline, confidence and physical fitness have all come as a result of his involvement with the martial art. It's also provided him with a pretty good living.

Being a karate teacher is actually a dream come true, said Maczuga. He added that he enjoys helping people discover the good things about karate.

"It's one of the healthiest you can do," said Maczuga.

Mouele agreed.

"You can start doing it anytime," he said, "no matter how old you are or what kind of shape you're in."

Mouele began training in karate as a youngster in Gabon. He said he was a shy child who had a hard time dealing with his anger.

His uncle took him to a local dojo to learn to control his temper. By the time he hit 15, Mouele was already winning tournament championships.

He has won titles in Africa and the United States. Mouele has also had the opportunity to travel to places like Japan to compete and study.

"I learned a lot in Japan," he added.

Both Mouele and Maczuga are able to apply all of those years of learning and competing when teaching their Novi students.

Class are held at the Beck Road dojo every day but Sunday.

Students are taught everything from basic stances and blocks to kicking and punching. Both Maczuga and Mouele stressed that becoming proficient in shotokan karate isn't an overnight process.

"It takes about four years," said Mouele.

Maczuga said his friend is excellent in teaching beginners. "His basics are so superb," he added. "He's untouchable."

For more information on the dojo or to sign up for a class, call (810) 960-1999.

Former Mustang now a head coach

by The Northville Record.

She played pretty much the same role for the Hornets as a midfielder. Kalamazoo won its conference Whiteley's first three years and was ranked in Division III's top 20

"I'm finished competing at Kalamazoo now," said Whiteley, who made all-conference last fall. "I really enjoyed it I'm very happy with the choice I made. I had a great experience with school and playing in a Division III program "

Being an athlete actually helped in her studies, Whiteley said It made her manage her time better

"It's more demanding, time-wise than high school," she said of playing college ball "But not too much I thought it would be tougher than it actually was "

Whiteley will graduate this June with a degree in psychology She plans on going to graduate school to study sports psychology or sports administration

She will continue to coach the Knights as well

"I'd like to keep coaching as long as I can," Whiteley said

You could say her entry into the coaching ranks came out of the blue

> "I'm finished competing at Kalamazoo now. I really enjoyed it. I'm very happy with the choice I made."
> LAURA WHITELEY
> Northville High graduate

Whiteley was working at Rolling Stone Magazine in New York on an internship when she got a call from her coach, Scott Forester, at Kalamazoo He asked if she'd like to help out with his girls team at Loy Norrix She said yes

"It was totally out of the blue " Whiteley said "When you're in high school you don't think you're going to be a coach But once I started doing it I wanted to continue at the high school or college level "

Having been a player for so long made the transition to coach easier

"My strong point as a player was my tactical knowledge " she said "where to be at the right time Coaching is the same as that except you re concerned with 11 people instead of just yourself "

Steroids can cause many side effects

The following article is reprinted from February Bulletin issue of the Michigan High School Athletic Association

Today s adolescents hear the messages from all sides - get in shape, be muscular Advertisements and TV commercials show muscular people selling perfume cologne cars weight and muscle gainers - even beer Programs like Muscle World Body Shaping and even Baywatch inundate them with the idea of the beautiful body being the accepted way of life

Adolescents are always pressured by peers cliques or school groups, now they have the "fast food fast cars fast everything" attitude that is invading the health and fitness arena Teens are trying to reach the goal quickly but at what cost?

History of Steroids

Anabolic steroids were first used in World War II to make German troops more aggressive Later Soviet and Eastern Bloc athletes particularly weight trainers, began using them A U S team physician Dr John Ziegler noted the results and began to use anabolic steroids on U S athletes He later wished he could remove that chapter from his life when he saw the terrible side effects and abuses athletes were exhibiting

Soviet athletes paid high prices for steroid abuse Male athletes had to use catheters (a tube inserted in the penis) to urinate while female athletes became disfigured with ugly male characteristics Many suffered long term health problems

The Natural Effects

To understand why anabolic (meaning "to build") steroids affect the body as they do we must first see what testosterone does naturally in the body In males testosterone and androgens

- Affect sexual characteristics Effects at puberty include larynx enlargement heavier vocal cords for a deeper voice broader shoulders, muscle that grow heavier, and oily skin secretion that can lead to acne
- Stimulate the growth of target organs
- Promote protein building reduce protein breakdown
- Increases the size of seminiferous tubules and testes.
- Stimulate sperm production
- Assist in developing and maintaining accessory sex organs, enlargement and secretory functions, and increases in external genitalia and tubule structures

Without androgens, these atrophy and cease to function

- Have metabolic effects on muscle bone and skin
- Close epiphysis in long bones (growth potential)
- Lead to patterns of aggressiveness and libido

Types of Steroids

While androgenic steroids are manufactured in the body naturally two other types of steroids can be introduced into the body Anabolic steroids come in liquid form (taken by needle injection) and pills (taken orally)

- Corticosteroid manufactured in laboratories for medicinal use against anemia, breast cancer and osteoporosis
- Anabolic laboratory-produced synthetic testosterone

The Perceived Benefit

Medical doctors may advise telling young people that steroids do not work but they do work - only too well They will make a person bigger faster and stronger Telling students otherwise is futile - they know better They see that steroids helped Ben Johnson win an Olympic Gold Medal and kept Lyle Alzado in shape for pro football Your credibility will suffer if you don t tell students both sides about the dangers of steroids

Major Side Effects

The following list of side effects was compiled by Dr Bob Goldman director of the National Academy of Sports Medicine in Chicago a recognized expert in anabolic steroids and author of three books and more than 200 articles on the subject

- Balding in males and females

Females develop irreversible hair on the face, shoulders and back

- Yellowing of eyes or skin due to liver malfunction
- Aggressive behavior and "roid rages" in both males and females A 180-degree change can occur in a few seconds
- Anxiety fever impotence, sterility
- Cancer in the brain kidney, pancreas prostate
- Clitoral enlargement
- Edema (water retention) - many try diuretics
- Frequent urge to urinate.
- Gallstones
- Decrease of HDL (good cholesterol)
- High blood pressure and resultant nose bleeds

Anderson takes over at No. 1 singles

Until recently, Anderson was pretty much a baseline player. He's trying to become more aggressive.

"I'm trying to do more of a serve and volley style," he said.

But college is still a ways off. For now, Anderson is simply going to enjoy being a high school student and playing tennis for the Mustangs.

Avoid sex before testing for PSA

Men who undergo annual PSA (prostate-specific antigen) blood screening for prostate cancer should abstain from ejaculation for 48 hours beforehand to ensure the most accurate results. Otherwise, they could be setting themselves up for the anxiety of a false-positive PSA reading – and an unnecessary prostate biopsy, according to University of Michigan Medical Center researchers.

Their findings, which appear in the April issue of Urology, represent the first published report of the effect of ejaculation on PSA levels in older men.

"We found that among older men, ejaculation temporarily can cause the PSA serum concentration to become abnormally high," says principal investigator Joseph E. Oesterling, M.D., professor of surgery and director of the Michigan Prostate Center. The PSA spike was so significant among those studied, he says, that 15 percent would have qualified – wrongly – for a tansrectal ultrasound and prostate biopsy, invasive diagnostic procedures that together cost about $1,200.

For the study, Oesterling and co-investigator Marie-Blanche Tchetgen, M.D., a urology resident, obtained baseline PSA levels in 64 healthy men, ages 49 to 79, who had abstained from ejaculation for a week. The subjects' PSA levels again were measured at various post-ejaculatory intervals, ranging from one hour to a week, during which time the subjects also refrained from sex.

The researchers found that PSA levels peaked an hour after ejaculation, when 87 percent of the men experienced a 60-percent increase. After two days, PSA levels were back to normal among 97 percent of the men.

Older men experience higher PSA levels after sex because the tissues that contain the enzyme within the prostate, where it is manufactured, deteriorate with age. "There are several layers of tissue that keep the PSA inside the prostate. As a man gets older, these tissues lose their tightness. When a man is ejaculating, the muscle of the prostate is contracting and relaxing – basically massaging the gland. In older men, this activity can allow PSA more easily to escape into the general circulation," Oesterling explains.

"We conclude, and recommend, that men abstain from ejaculation for 48 hours before they get a PSA test," he says "This is going to make the test more accurate and reliable, so that if there's really a PSA increase going on, we'll know it's due to something other than ejaculation."

Co-authors of the study also included James T. Song, M.D., and Myla Strawderman, M.S., of the U-M; and Steven J. Jacobsen, M.D., Ph.D., of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Sore throats are frequent in childhood

Susan Engert

Sore throats are a frequent complaint during childhood and one of the more common reasons for consulting a doctor. Most sore throats are caused by a viral infection and can be accompanied by other symptoms like a cough, laryngitis (hoarse voice), a runny nose, or muscle aches. Some of these viruses may also cause diarrhea or rash. About one-third of sore throats are caused by the germ known as the streptococcus. Children with strep throat may also have a fever and complain of headache and stomach ache or develop a fine rash.

The only way to tell whether a sore throat is due to a virus or to the streptococcus bacteria is by obtaining a throat culture. Most doctor's offices now provide a "quick test" for strep throat that can given an answer during the office visit. If the test says that the strep bacteria is present, an antibiotic can be prescribed. If the test says that strep is not present, a culture that takes 24 to 48 hours is required. There is no harm in waiting for the culture result to return from the lab before starting an antibiotic. The main goal in treating strep throat with an antibiotic is to prevent the complication known as rheumatic fever.

Two viral infections causing sore throats have special characteristics that make them stand out from the others. The first is common in toddlers and preschool children. Often they cannot complain about a sore throat, but a parent or sitter will note that the child does not want to swallow or cries when taking a bottle. A look at the back of the mouth shows small blisters on the back of the mouth as well as redness. Some of these children may have a rash on their buttocks or on their hands and feet. When the rash includes the hands and feet, this illness is recognized too as hand-foot-and-mouth disease.

A second virus is more common in older children and causes the illness known as infectious mononucleosis. These young people often complain of sore throat, congestion and tiredness. They may have a fever. Their strep throat culture is negative, but they do not get better in the five to seven days expected for other viral illnesses. It is important to let your doctor know whether an illness is lasting Blood tests can be done to see whether infectious mononucleosis is the cause of the illness.

These infections are spread by person-to-person contact, and children are infectious shortly before they become sick and during the early stages of the illness. Children should be kept home from school or day care until they have not had a fever for 24 hours. Children who have strep throat are able to return to school once they have taken the prescribed antibiotic for 24 hours and have no fever.

Tylenol in an appropriate dose for the child's weight or age is helpful in easing the discomfort of a sore throat. Encouraging the child to drink a lot of fluids is important, even if there has been a loss of appetite. Sources of fluid include juices, soup, sherbet and popsicles. Be sure to consult your own doctor for additional recommendations.

PROSTATE CANCER AWARENESS

Health Development Network at Botsford Hospital is conducting its sixth annual prostate health awareness program in May.

This prostate education and screening program is free, comprehensive approach aimed at giving men the information they need to understand prostate cancer and prostate disease. It includes a free presentation by board-certified urologist Steven Roth, D.O., on the risk factors, signs and symptoms, diagnostic techniques and treatment options and an opportunity to ask questions. In addition, registered dietitian Judy Swancutt will discuss the link between nutrition and prostate cancer. Following the lectures, men over 40 can schedule free digital rectal exams and prostate-specific antigen blood tests the following week.

Presentations on prostate cancer are scheduled for May 13 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Botsford General Hospital's Community Room, 28050 Grand River Avenue in Farmington Hills, and on May 15 from 1 to 3 p.m., at the Botsford Inn, 2800 Grand River Avenue. Attending one of the lectures is mandatory for men interested in receiving a free screening, which will be conducted on May 20 and May 22 from noon to 6:30 p.m. at Health Development Network, 39750 Grand River in Novi.

ST. MARY HOSPITAL

The following classes are coming up at St. Mary:

• Childbirth Class

Learning what to expect during pregnancy, labor and delivery can make the entire experience more rewarding. The Marian Women's Center at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia offers a Childbirth Preparation Class based on the Lamaze method that increases expectant parents' knowledge of the birth experience.

A six-week class from 7 to 9 p.m. at a cost of $50 is offered on an ongoing basis. A one-day class held on Saturdays at a cost of $75 is also offered. For more information about class dates and times or to register, please call (313) 655-3314 or toll free at 800-494-1615.

• Breathers' Club

St. Mary offers a free Breathers' Club support group meeting each month on the third Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m This educational program is for people with chronic lung disease. A guest speaker gives a presentation each month.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, April 18, in the hospital auditorium near the Five Mile entrance. This meeting will include a presentation by Janice Wheeker, R.N., on stress and relaxation techniques.

No registration is required. For more information, call (313) 655-2924.

• Alzheimer's Disease

St. Mary Hospital will offer a free lecture on "Facing the Challenge of Alzheimer's Disease" at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 23, in the hospital auditorium. The guest speaker will be Kelley Fulkerson, director of education and training, Alzheimer's Association, Detroit Area Chapter.

The program, presented by the St. Mary Hospital department of social work, will present an overview of Alzheimer's disease, how the family can decrease difficult behaviors, how to prepare for future needs and available resources.

Refreshments will be served, and registration is requested as seating is limited. To register, call (313) 655-3333.

• St. Mary will hold its second annual Women's Health Day from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 20, at the Holiday Inn in Livonia. Women's Health Day will include a keynote speaker, a variety of one-hour workshops on health topics of interest to women, continental breakfast, lunch, a fashion show by Jacobson's and exhibits from local merchants.

The keynote address for the event will be "Walk-on-Water Women" presented by Melodie Chenevert, R.N., of Gaithersburg, Md.

Workshop topics include "Stress and You," "Abuse and Domestic Violence," "Creativity and Innovation," "Coping with the Loss of a Relationship," "Mid-Life Changes," "Building Self-Esteem," "Fabrics of Friendship," and "Women's Cancer Issues for the '90s."

REAL ESTATE

In search of homes with good karma

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Most prospective buyers focus on basic criteria when selecting a new home — things like space for recreational activities and hobbies, proximity to shopping, schools and churches

However, a different type of selection criteria is emerging Reflecting a long-standing practice in Asian countries, home buyers in the United States are becoming

The Sunset is ideal for empty- nesters

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The 2 492-square-foot Sunset is a two-story house ideally suited to empty nesters and families with teen- or college age children

The lower level, which may be closed off when not in use can house older children who desire a certain amount of privacy or serve as an apartment for elderly par ents

This arrangement allows space for everyone, while still sharing the family setting Two large bedrooms are available on this level Each has plenty of closet space with windows on two sides They share a full bathroom and linen storage

A large family room dominates this floor Put in a big-screen tele vision and a pingpong table for hours of fun

A covered patio is nearby for use in warmer weather

A huge utility room with washer/dryer fold down ironing board and built in sewing table com pletes the lower level

Take the stairs up to the main floor and view a master suite that is sure to please Along with a roomy sleeping area master suite amenities include a large bay window spacious walk-in closet private bathroom and two separate vanities Another half-bath is in the adjacent hallway

The vaulted walk-through kitchen is the focal point of the main floor A cook top, located in the middle of the kitchen, allows meals to be prepared with ease and served formally in the vaulted din ing room For a more casual atmosphere use the eating bar or the vaulted breakfast nook A walk-in pantry holds all your canned goods

Family and friends can gather for pleasant conversation in the vaulted living room Here the corner wood-burning stove keeps everyone warm and cozy

A large covered deck is easily accessible for those enjoying the outdoors

Along with the two-car garage there is 84 square feet of extra storage space handy in the attic

Mike and Betty Needham's log home sits on a hill south of Pinckney

Romantic & ROBUST

Log homes offer coziness, efficiencies and style

By Jane Benskey
Special Writer

Ever since they were first built by the early settlers, log cabins have best exemplified America's rugged, independent character Built by hand using raw materials from the country s virgin forests log cabins were like the people who built them — strong and solid

Through the years the lure and romanticism of log cabins have remained etched strongly into many people s consciousness For example, what sort of getaway do people who are fed up with the rat race dream about? More than likely, a log cabin nestled deep in the woods

Part of the attraction may be romantic and visceral After all, who can argue about how cozy and charming log homes are?

But other features — like energy efficiency, structural soundness and excellent fire resistance — also lend to a log home's appeal

Once the province of weekend getaways or resort lodges log homes are now being built for year-round living According to the North American Log Homes Council, nine out of 10 log homes built today are used for primary residences

And as a result, log homes have evolved from the primitive, backwoods cabins of years past to the larger, more sophisticated models seen today

Today's log homes still retain that rustic look, but they are large enough for growing families, and include features found in conventional homes such as multiple baths, great rooms, laundry rooms, studies, even attached garages

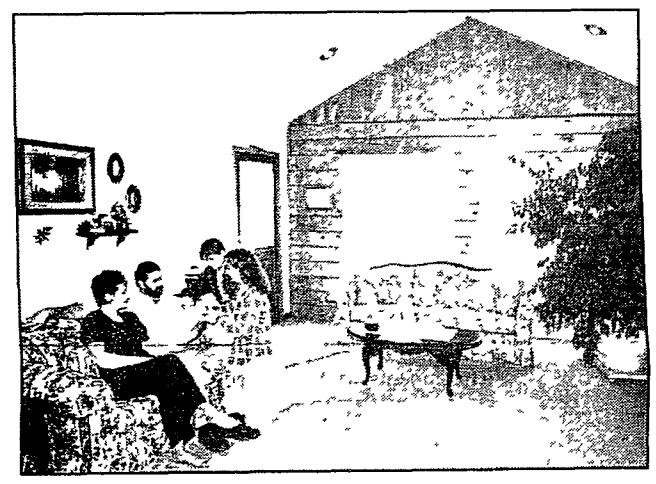
Not only are log homes larger, but there is more variety and flexibility in the designs available From ranches, to A-frames, to loft homes, to classic two-stories, there are any number of variations on the log home design. Also, log homes can be custom built or constructed from a kit supplied by a manufacturer.

Because log homes are being used for primary residences, they are no longer confined to areas like "up north." They are increasingly showing up in areas like Livingston County, where someone can "get away from it all" every day after a reasonable commute from his or her job

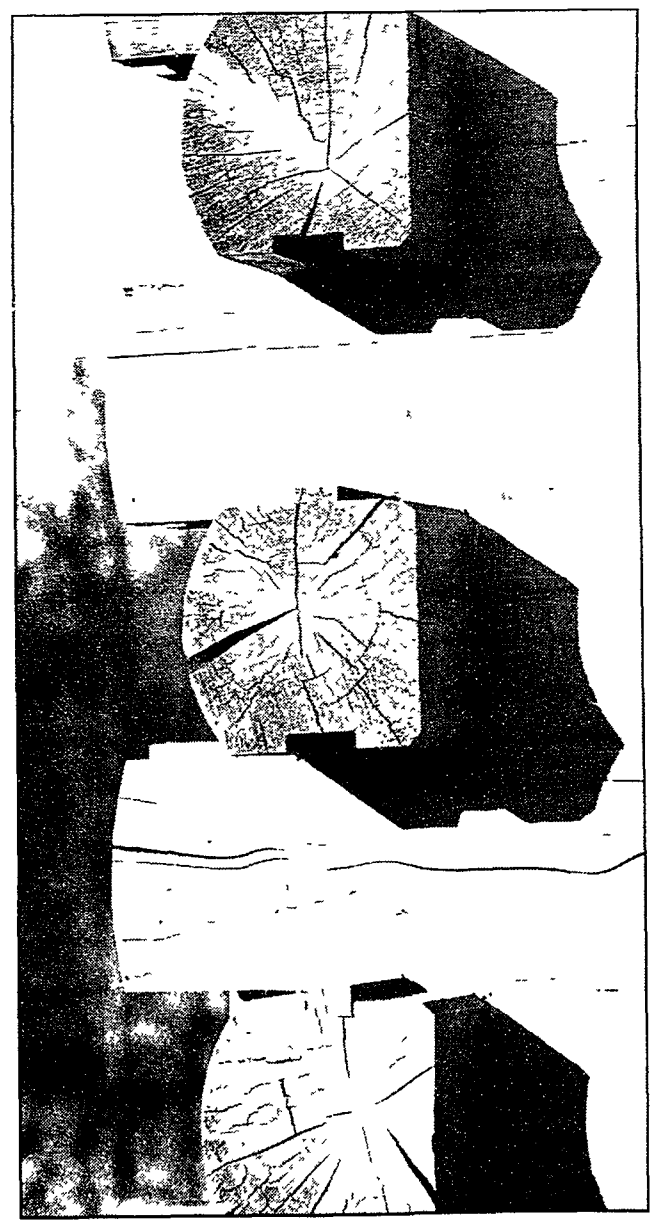
When Ron Godair, owner of Godair Builders Inc. in Brighton, started out building log homes 12 years ago, there were only two log home builders in the area In recent years, Godair says, that amount has tripled.

One of those newer to the business is Ken Tyler, owner of Cheyenne Log Homes in Brighton, who has been in the log home building business for two years.

Although both Godair and Tyler agree that log homes are gaining in popularity, perhaps as a result of the strong housing market, they also point out that log homes are still a very small percentage of the total market in home construction



The Needham family enjoy their living room with traditional drywall except for the outside walls.



Rough corner joints add to the rustic feel.

Godair, who also builds conventional homes, estimates that log homes only account for about 2 percent of the market and says that he has built five log homes to the 80-90 conventional homes he's built.

In addition to being owner of Cheyenne Log Homes, Tyler is an authorized representative of the West Virginia-based company Appalachian Log Structures Inc His company has completed two log homes and is set to begin construction on a third this spring

If log homes seem to be so popular, or as Tyler says, "Everyone wants a log home," why, then are they such a small percentage of the housing market? It's that same old bottom line-price

An average log home will cost about 10 percent more than a conventional home, says Tyler. So while both Godair and Tyler have numerous inquiries about log homes (Tyler says he can average 10 calls a week), the cost of building one eliminates a lot of people from the market.

Godair cites two factors that contribute to the higher cost First, building a log home is very labor-intensive Where a conventional home averages four to five months to complete, a log home will take at least seven months to complete.

Second,the cost of wood is sky-high and still climbing

Because a log home is a big investment, it's important to do some research before choosing a builder. Both Godair and Tyler stress that because of the difference in construction between conventional and log homes, not every builder is qualified to build a log home

Learning as much as possible about the company that supplies the logs is also very important, but Godair recommends that the buyer concentrate more on the person who is going to construct the home

"They probably should spend at least as much time with the person who is going to actually, physically build this thing, as the people who are going to sell them the product," says Godair.

In checking out the company that sells the product, many of which are located down south, Tyler recommends making the investment in time to visit the business' headquarters and even take a tour of the factory that manufac-

'New' real estate trend emphasizes natural elements

sensitive to elements in a home that harmonize with nature.

If a house has harmonizing features, it will assure good health and prosperity for the occupants, the Asians believe

Real estate industry leaders in the United States are finding an increasing concern for those features in this country. Home builders and developers have hired consultants (particularly on the West Coast) to advise them on these principles, according to a report from Criterium Engineers.

People who have studied the Asian markets have noted the similarity between the Asian home selection practice and beliefs of Southwest American Indians who built their pueblos to harmonize with the Earth's energy Their term is "powaha," meaning that wind, water and breath is the essence of life

If you subscribe to this new sensitivity trend when seeking a new home, you will be looking for elements that just feel good and natural instead of purely practical considerations.

According to the Criterium Engineers report, some of the basic Asian principles include:

A stairway should not lead directly to the front door. Avoiding this direct connection signifies an outward flow of wealth and good fortune

A home should not be located at the end of a road where it is vulnerable to the negative energy of traffic driving directly at it.

The home interior should be open and light, signifying good health and good fortune

Mirrors should not be placed in front of a bed. This would absorb life force

White should be avoided because it symbolizes mourning and death

Red is the most auspicious color, denoting happiness and power Green symbolizes tranquility, growth and good health.

A new data field in computerized descriptions of listed homes throughout the country may need to be added in the near future. It might be headed, "Nature Harmonizing Features "

Q. Are reverse mortgages becoming more popular with senior homeowners?

A. Mature adults (over age 62) are expressing an increased interest in reverse mortgages — the special type of mortgage loan that can generate added income for elder homeowners In some cases, that income can continue for the lifetime of the senior

Consumers should be aware that reverse mortgage plans vary. The difference can translate to tens of thousands of dollars from one plan to another, according to the National Center for Home Equity Conversion.

In general, the federally insured "Home Equity Conversion Mortgage" provides the most cash at the lowest cost if your home's value is near or less than the median value in your area, the NCHEC report stated

If your home value is greater than the median, then the Fannie Mae plan might provide greater cash advances. If it is substantially greater than the median, then a private, proprietary plan might provide the greatest cash advances

The report pointed out that the federal truth-in-lending law now requires lenders to disclose total annual loan cost (TALC) rates for all reverse mortgages This is really the only way to compare the true cost of these loans.

These and other key facts about the current crop of reverse mortgages are addressed in NCHEC's book, "Your New Retirement Nest Egg· A Consumer Guide to New Reverse Mortgages " For information, write NCHEC, 7373 147th Street West, Suite 115, Apple Valley, MN 55124

Q. What's the best source of simple, easy-to-understand information for first-time home buyers?

A There are many books and tapes on this subject Check with your local library book store or Board of Realtors office

A particularly useful new book on the subject is "Buy Your First Home Now" (HarperCollins) by seasoned real estate writer Peter Miller. It's a revised and updated edition of Miller's first book by the same name.

It's a book for and about first-time home buyers, and outlines simple steps a buyer can take to achieve homeownership. Sections include finding the right house, financing it, and getting the best possible deal in the purchase

Other sections offer advice on finding the right community, discovering income alternatives and how a buyer can protect his interests

For information, write HarperCollins Publishers, 10 East 53rd Street, New York NY 10022

Log homes offer choices

tures the logs

"You have to be careful and not just get somebody who is going to ship you a bunch of logs that don t fit together,' says Tyler

For those who are determined to build a log home, but are on a tight budget, there are ways to cut costs

One option to help offset costs is to do a shell home, in which the builder can take the home from excavation to a water-tight structure (the roof is shingled, doors and windows have been installed and it can be locked) The homeowner then subcontracts out the balance of the project

Or, if you have a bit of the frontier spirit you can take on the task yourself, like Mike Needham of Pinckney did

Needham had always loved the look of log homes and long wanted one, but didn t think he could afford one "But by building one myself, I knew I could," says Needham

After traveling down to Tennessee to check out the company he planned to deal with, Needham began construction on his 1,700-square-foot home in the fall of 1988 He worked on the house each day after his job at Ford Motor Company, and all day on the weekends with his brother

Mike s wife, Betty who took photos detailing the project, remembers being amazed at the sight of the semi-truck delivering the load of 17-foot timbers to the site and says, "It took two weeks to stack the logs for the walls "

The electrical and drywalling were subcontracted out but Needham handled the plumbing on his own

After about 10 months the house was complete and the Needham family — including children, Steve and Jamie — were able to move in Their cozy log home set on picturesque property, is now eight years old and is still serving the Needham family, which is due to expand by one any day now very well

ANTIQUES

Q. I would like to have any information you can provide on the Bombe secretary in this photo. It is beautifully decorated with wood inlay that forms the floral and scrolled patterns.

A. Your secretary is an example of Louis XV (1715-1774), Rococo Revival furniture. Bombe is a French term for furniture with a rounded front and sides. Many good reproductions of Louis XV furniture were made around 1900.

The value of your secretary would probably be $2,000 to $2,400.

Q. My aunt gave me her collection of figurines. One that I am especially interested in knowing about is marked "Royal Doulton — Giselle — H N 2139 — 1953."

She is ballerina seated on a wooden bench. Her gown is light blue, trimmed in white and her headdress also is blue. I would be grateful for any information you can give me.

A. Your figurine was made by the British firm, Royal Doulton. Giselle was designed by Peggy Davies and was made between 1954 and 1969.

It would probably be worth about $350 to $400 in mint condition.

Q. I have a Wave Crest covered box. It is decorated with enamelled daisies against a pale sea foam green background. The lid is hinged and the inside is lined with beige satin.

The box is round and is approximately 3 inches high and 5 inches in diameter. It is in flawless condition.

What is it worth?

A. Wave Crest is the name given to opaque opal glassware produced by C.F. Monroe Co., Meriden, Conn. They purchased blown molded blanks from Pairpoint Manufacturing Co., New Bedford, Mass., and other glass makers.

Your covered box was made around 1900 and would probably be worth $350 to $450.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

Jamey Kramer's REAL ESTATE FACTS

Whats Included?

When buying a home what is included in the purchase price? Does the deed describe all of the property being conveyed? Are the drapes and refrigerator part of the transaction?

Details of a home purchase are spelled out in the written purchase contract signed by both buyers and sellers. This agreement in writing includes the price and terms, and details of any personal property to be included in the transaction. A legal description of the property being conveyed is also cited and it includes any improvements such as a home.

Since real estate is considered to be the land, and any permanent improvements on the land, personal property is considered to be everything else. A general rule is that everything, permanently attached, i.e. drapery rods, TV antenna, built-in range is considered part of the real estate. Items not attached such as drapes, refrigeration, picnic table, etc. are personal property.

When in doubt, always include a specific reference to items of personal property in the purchase contract. Specify whether the items are included at no additional cost and if not include the price.

Trees, shrubs, and bushes because they are planted, are considered part of the real estate. A free standing range, washer, and dryer, are considered personal property.

When buying a home, ask the real estate agent what, if any, personal property is being included. You are free to negotiate for any additional items, however the sellers are not obligated to include them. The best assurance for all parties is to include all items agreed upon in the written purchase contract.

HICKORY CREEK

$5,000 DISCOUNT

Think buying a new home has to empty your pockets? Think again. If you purchase an S.R. Jacobson inventory spec home at Hickory Creek before April 30, 1996, you will receive a $5,000 discount. How's that for a nice bonus?

This community of detached site condominium homes in Northville Township is a neighborhood of maintenance-free residences designed to be appealing to your lifestyle. A wide variety of ranch, 1 / and two-story plans feature soaring vaulted and cathedral ceilings, wood-burning fireplaces, intriguing art niches, plant shelves and many other custom details designed for today's lifestyles. Homesites ideal for walk-out designs with water or woodland views.

At Hickory Creek, you'll know you are getting a home of impressive styling, enduring beauty and superior quality, because every S.R. Jacobson home is built to meet the highest standards...yours. After all, we didn't become one of Michigan's largest builders by delivering empty promises.

Salon combines old fashion roots with new philosophy

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

It's not everyday you get a chance to be your own boss.

But that chance came Laurie York Anderson and Jacqueline Justin's way almost two years ago Both had worked as stylists at Main Street Hair Design for several years before getting an opportunity to buy the business

Now they're learning that being the boss can be rewarding, but tough, too.

"Owning a business is a lot of fun," said Justin

"But we didn't realize the amount of stress," added York Anderson

Having a good staff helps, though

"We really work as a team," York Anderson said "We have a wonderful staff."

> "We're a part of Northville, and Northville is where it's at."

> Main Street Hair Design

The downtown Northville salon has been around for more than a decade But it's hardly the first business that's been housed by the Main Street shop

The building dates back to the middle 19th century, York Anderson said, It was first used as a grain and feed store Since then, it's been a library, dance house and pizza shop, among others.

"It's the oldest commercial building in Northville," said York Anderson.

To look at it now, however, you'd never know. The two owners hired John Winters, who also did Garden Views in Northville, for a redesign.

Work began last winter and is nearly complete. York Anderson said changes made to the shop, which previously belonged to Justin's sister, have been subtle.

"It use to be quite dark," she said. "We've added a lot more lighting."

While the shop is just 900 square feet, it looks much larger, due in part to Winters design.

"He calls it industrial country," York Anderson commented and noted that Winter has included natural colors and plants in his design.

"We wanted to make a comfortable place," she said.

Nice surroundings are great for atmosphere. But, let's face it, people go to salons for a good hair cut and style.

Not to worry Main Street Hair Design, which will soon change its name to Justin-York Salon, knows how to take care of its patrons.

Together, Justin and York Anderson have more than three decades of experience.

"We still work behind the chair four days a week," said York Anderson, who lives in Novi.

Both of the owners put in more than 40 hours a week at the salon. Business has been very steady since they took over, York Anderson said. Being in the heart of downtown helps, of course.

Companies make salary changes

Employers in southeast Michigan have reduced the amount of merit increases paid to their salaried employees over the past decade, but trends indicate that more employers are offsetting that reduction by increasing variable pay, according to an annual salary survey released by the American Society of Employers (ASE).

"More companies have implemented a variety of compensation plans that risk all or a portion of pay to individual, group or company performance," says William A. Sebastian, president of ASE and HR Management Group Inc. in Southfield, Mich. "This practice can produce substantial rewards when annual goals are achieved and can surpass annual pay increases granted under most traditional pay practices "

The 1996 Salary Survey – Southeast Michigan region, effective as of Dec. 31, 1995, covers more than 150 salaried positions representing 263 area companies employing approximately 395.000 employees. The participating firms are located in an 11-county area surrounding Detroit and range in staff size from one employee to several thousand employees The Salary Survey has been conducted every year since 1942 and is one of six annual ASE benchmark compensation surveys

According to the survey, firms that give only merit increases to their employees reduced the average rate of increase for those merit adjustments for exempt professional and managerial employees from 6 07 percent in 1985 to 4 22 percent in 1995, with a further decline to 4.14 percent projected for 1996 Similarly, ment increases for non-exempt clerical and technical employees were reduced from 5.93 percent to 4.12 percent over that same time period, with a further reduction to 4.02 percent expected in 1996

"As annual merit increase percentages decline, we have found that more companies are increas ing other forms of variable compensation, such as bonuses," says Sal LoCicero, ASE survey adminis trator.

According to LoCicero, in a con stant sample of 117 southeast Michigan companies, the percent age of firms in which employees are eligible for some form of vari able compensation, such as bonuses, profit sharing or other cash incentives, increased from 56 percent in 1993 to 65 percent in 1995

Other findings include the fol lowing.

- In a constant sample of 161 southeast Michigan companies salaries increased 4.23 percent in 1995
- In the survey group of 263 companies, firms that offer only general salary increases gave exempt salaried employees a raise of 3 67 percent, non-exempt salaried employees a raise of 3 71 percent, and officers/executives a raise of 3.98 percent. Those firms that offer a combination of general and merit increases boosted the pay of exempt employees by 4 42 percent, that of non-exempt employees by 4 47 percent, and that of officers/executives by 4 49 percent

Family Favorites

"We have a lot of wonderful memories as a family and a lot of Precious Moments figurines to remind us of those memories."

–Kim Salt
(Fontana, CA)

"You Are Always There For Me"

These are the first of a new series, featuring moments that mean "family" to us. Mom kisses it and makes it all better, and Dad gets Jr. into the swing of it. Both make memories out of these moments, as only Precious Moments can.

#531138 SRP . . . $50

Easter Seals

Bringing the message of loving, caring and sharing to those less fortunate is just one reason Enesco has been a proud National Corporate Sponsor of Easter Seals, raising nearly $15 million since 1987. Each year, everyone participates. Sam Butcher designs a commemorative figurine, and thousands of others — Club members, retailers and sales representatives — give from their heart to support this special cause.

"You Can Always Count On Me"

She's counting on us to care. This little girl and piggy bank is the 1996 Easter Seal limited edition figurine. To assist children and adults with disabilities, a donation is made to Easter Seals in conjunction with this figurine offering.
