Sixteen submit petitions to run in township election

By RANDY COBLE

A veritable herd of candidates came out of the woodwork at the eleventh hour this week to join this summer's race for the seven open seats on the Northville Township Board of Trustees, a race that now features some stunning sur-

Topping the list is Supervisor Karen Baja's decision to run for the board, not in her current post. but as a candidate for trustee

"I feel that I have been misaccused or misjudged as being power. hungry and when I looked at what was best for Northville Township, I felt that it would be best to let someone else take a turn," Baja said Tuesday evening.

"It was an emotional decision but I feel that this is the best way to defuse the argument of being power hungry and show that I have the best interests of the community at heart," Baja continued

To be honest," she added, "I also did not want to put myself and my family and the good employees of the township through a bruising campaign. Altogether this is what's best for Northville Township and for Karen Baja 1 would have enjoyed being supervisor one more time but it wasn't worth the price.

Tuesday (May 14) was the filing deadline for those who wanted their names to appear on the Aug-6 Democratic and Republican pri mary ballots. Those who've filed can choose to withdraw from the race by 4 p.m. tomorrow (May 17)

Running for Baja's open seat will be two attorneys, Bob Grant and Karen Woodside. Grant is a lawyer for Ford Motor Co : Woodside is an assistant Wayne County prosecutor and chair of the township plan-

20-plex center raises protest

If you don't like the idea of a 20screen, three-restaurant theater complex going up at Seven Mile and Haggerty you're not alone.

Residents of Northville Township's WindRidge subdivision. located right across the street from the proposed "20-plex" in Livonia protested the move Tuesday night at a meeting of that city's planning commission. They went armed with the support of the township board of trustees.

The $25-million Paragon Centreok Entertainment Campus would include a 72.927-square foot AMC theater as well as two full-service restaurants and about 1,700 parking spaces. Retail space of over 40,000 square feet and a third restaurant are also being dis-

The entertainment center is proposed for just over 35 acres on Haggerty north of Seven Mile. The movie house would have 4.056 total seats and its 20 theaters would range in size from 497 seats to 102. One restaurant planned for the site. J. Alexander's, would have 230 seats. The other. Champpsok Americana, would seat 241. Both would serve beer, wine and liquor.

WindRidge is a still under-construction subdivision which sits next to Home Depot at the Seven Mile/Haggerty intersection, Many of its residents have signed a pelition which opposes the 20-plex plan and a spokesperson for the neighborhood submitted it to members of the board at the May 9 meeting.

The petition asked the trustees to speak out against the complex due to the harm it could do to the quality of life, including property ralues, of WindRidge residents.

*Right now, most of us come and go via Seven Mile/1-275," the spokesperson said. 'We're afraid that with Meijer at Eight and Hag-

Orr job evaluations took abrupt turn

Ratings were high before library board was seated

By RANDY COBLE

Conflict between Pat Orr and her bosses has existed since the Northville District Library's inception three years ago and came to a boiling point last month, a review of Orr's annual personnel evaluations reveal

The district library board of trustees put Orr director of the library since 1986, on administrative leave on April 25. She hasn't returned to work since and is not expected to. Negotiations between attorneys representing Orr and the district library continued this week without reaching an employment-ending separation The board's decision followed Orr's annual personnel evaluation, discussed in two nonpublic "closed" board sessions last month. The forthville Record on May 6 requested review of all of Orr's annual evaluations since she began work at the library 10 years ago. The Record's request was filed with the district library board under the terms of the Michigan Freedom of Information Act

Library officials complied with The Record's request, furnishing copies of the requested documents over the weekend. The annual evaluation forms cover the years 1989-95, including the time before the district library was created in 1993

Before then, the library was not a self contained entity. Instead Northville City and Township operated it jointly with the assistance of a volunteer advisory library commission.

The evaluations Orr received from members of that commission in the years 1989-92 differ markedly from those offered by members of the board of trustees in the years 1993-95.

Before Northville became a district library, Orr received consistently high marks on her evaluations. In the years 1989-91, library commissioners rated her overall performance and her performance on a series of specific job duties on a five-tier basis: outstanding, excellent, good, needs improvement or unsatisfacto-

In none of those evaluations did Orr receive anything less than a rating of "good." The vast

Controversial Edenderry plan gets board OK

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

! When it comes to controversial road connections in Edenderry. the ball is now in Wayne County's Smashing a legal and political hot potato over the net last week was the Northville Township Board of Trustees. At their May 9 meeting members of the board approved a design plan for the final phase of the under-construction Woods of Edenderry subdivision. That plan called for no road connections north into the Edenderry Hills subdivision.

The vote vaults the plan - and the heat - into the laps of county decision-makers and could at last lead to movement one way or another in the two-year-old standoff over the Woods subdivision.

The first design plan, put forth in April 1994, called for a 101-lot subdivision on 70-odd acres of land that lie northwest of the Six Mile/Sheldon Road intersection and abut the southern edge of Edenderry Hills. Three road connections between Woods and the Hills were called for, supported for safety reasons by the township Department of Public Safety and planning consultants for the township and Wayne County.

That led to a storm of protest from Hills residents, who argued that the connections would actually decrease their safety by bringing more traffic and crime into their quiet network of now dead-end drives Lawyers representing Hills residents, the township and the developer, Cambridge Homes, have been negotiating ever since.

Attempts to find a plan that's acceptable to everyone have failed. Cambridge attorney Joe Galvin told the board last week, and so the developer asked for a yes or no vote on two alternative Woods

"It's been a long and arduous process," Galvin said "I characterire it as like the game of paper. scissors, rock. If we present a planthat's satisfactory to the board, we believe that it won't be acceptable to the county. If we present one that's acceptable to the county, it won't be to the board."

Developer Mark Guidobono, Galvin emphasized, is willing to agree to any plan that both sides will approve, whether it calls for connectors or not. After waiting and working for so long, the attorney centinued, what Cambridge needs is a final answer from the board one way or the other so that the plan can move forward to Wayne County and/or a potential

The trustees gave their answer in two votes, the first rejecting the Woods plan that called for two road connections and the second approving one with no connections. The votes on each motion were 4-2 (Treasurer Rick Engelland and Supervisor Karen Baja in the minority) and 5-1 (Baja dissenting), respectively.

In September 1994 the board gave approval for the first phase of the Woods plan, some 60-odd lots on the southern portion of the par-

The no-connector plan calls for 39 more lots to be built along two cul-de-sacs extended from phase one and on an eyebrow-shaped "loop" that will connect two deadend Hills streets.

Both plans will now head to Wayne County for approval or rejection.

Alleged shoplifter seeks out spotlight an unusual case of alleged shoplifting last week.

Detectives called police on the afternoon of May 9 to say that they had detained a 25-year-old Highland man in the store. The man, they said, had taken a fifth of ilquor worth $21.50 off of a shelf. "waved it at the Meljer video cam-era" and then concealed it on his person and left the store.

Store detectives followed him into the parking lot, where he tried to "escape" several times, police reports said, and was "verbally resisting detectives after being handcuffed.

The man was intoxicated, police who interviewed him said, and would not answer booking ques-tions. Instead, the man would only make comments about how he was hiding liquor from his mother and later comments about the store detectives, police and government in general.

The man was taken to police headquarters and held in a cell until he could be booked. He was then released after posting bond and faces a May 30 court hearing.

Dearborn man who allegedly blazed new trails in obnoxiousness was charged with trespassing and drunk driving in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Northville Township police were dispatched to the Wayne County Child Development Center property a few minutes after midnight on May 11 on report of a fire there. The responding officers said they found two men trespassing on the property who admitted to building a fire there and drinking beer.

The officer said they found 12-19 beer empty beer bottles near the men and made the two put out the fire with the remaining beer. Both men are Dearborn residents, one 30 and the other 23. The 23vear-old admitted to driving his 1987 Nissan Sentra onto the property, police said.

When questioned about how much he'd had to drink the man said he'd had only four beers that evening. Police said he displayed signs of intoxication, however, and the 30-year-old admitted that the two had smoked a marijuana cigarette, something the younger level to be .11 percent, above the legal limit for driving of .10 percent. He was advised not to drive, the officers reported, but refused to take police up on their offer of a ride to a phone. Instead, the man told police he would wait in his car for the more than three to four hours he was told it would take for him to sober up.

The officers said they advised the man that he would be arrested if he was found driving the vehicle before then. Five minutes later he allegedly was, on southbound Sheldon Road near Five Mile. He was taken to police headquarters and held until he sobered up, then released on bond with a May 17 court date.

FIELD VANDALIZED: One of the soccer fields off Sheldon Road between Five and Six Mile was attacked by vandals last week.

, A Recreation Department supervisor called police after finding that a plastic fence surrounding the sield had been torn down and broken into pieces. The supervisor said it must have happened some-

A preliminary breath test time between May 6-8. Damage is showed the man's blood alcohol estimated at $200.

MARIJUANA USE: Two Farmington Hills men were ticketed for using marijuana in the early hours of Friday morning by Northville Township police.

· The reporting officer in the case said he saw a car parked in front of a closed business at about 2 a.m. on May 11 near Six Mile and Haggerty roads. Less than an hour later he saw the same car heading north on Haggerty and stopped it to identify the occupants.

The driver, 21, said he didn't bring his driver's license with him and was arrested. When he was searched, the officer continued, a small bag of marijuana was found in his pants pocket. He and his passenger, also 21, were both ticketed. They face a May 31 court

Poterala brushes up prior to taking seat

By ROBERT JACKSON Staff Writer

Northville Public School Board candidate Mike Poterala has his work cut out for him.

The 33-year-old Northville resident has spent the past month attending school board meetings and reading mounds of literature in an attempt to get updated on the key issues facing the school district. Currently on the plate of school board members is a possible late summer/early fall bond issue, making decisions on facility changes, and keeping the district fiscally sound.

That's no small order, according to Poterala, even for someone who has been following district business for the past few years.

I think the thing I'm struggling with is getting up to speed with everything that is currently happening within the district." he explained. "I'm in the process of digesting plenty of paperwork."

Poterala will join board incumbent Joan Wadsworth in the uncontested race for the two board seats on the ballot in the school board election slated for June 10. He has been a Northville resident since 1988 and is a civil litigation attorney for the Detroit law firm Butzel Long.

"I have been the general counsel in state, within the past few years. for anti-piracy matters for the Motion Picture Association of America," he said. In that position he has worked closely with the U.S. Marshall's office, stopping the sale of bootleg copies of major motion picture videos.

Mike Poterala

Poterala has been married for 10 years to Heidi Bulich. The couple have two children: Johana, five, who will be starting kindergarten at Amerman Elementary next year. and Andrew, who is 2-years-old.

He explained that he will be devoting plenty of time getting up to speed on the issues, adding that current school board members have been extremely helpful.

I want to hear all different points of view and sift through them and come up with some good judgments," he said. "Current board members have been available and helpful and they have been very gracious with their

The past month has given him a taste of what it will be like when he takes his seat on the board. He said he is committed to the challenge and the responsibilities that have been placed before him.

The amount of time needed to do this effectively seems much more than I anticipated, but I understand there are a broad range of issues that need to be dealt with," he concluded. "I know what it's going to take, and I am prepared to dedicate the time and energy necessary to be an effective member of the school board."

Tom Johnson receives award from association

By ROBERT JACKSON Staff Writer

Another Northville educator has been added to the growing list of school district awardees this year.

Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson was named the recipient of the Michigan Association of College Admissions and Counselors (MACAC) William Gramenz Award last week. The award is a yearly honor given by the organization, and Johnson is the first high school principal to receive it, according to MACAC President Pat O'Conner.

"(Johnson's) continued support of this organization and the students it represents has been exemplary," O'Conner said. "He is respected nationally for what he has done for students and high school counseling, and that is probably the major factors that were considered in his selection for the award.

O'Conner said that candidates for the award were evaluated for their service to students, the counseling field, and involvement within the organization. He will present the award to Johnson next week.

Johnson has been a member of the organization for more than a decade, and is a past president of MACAC.

This organization is the only one of its kind, bringing high school counselors and college admissions professionals together in the best interests of our kids." Johnson said. "Plenty of successful educators have received this award in the past, and I am honored to be considered for the

To be thought of in that regard is indeed a big honor for me, and reflects on the hard work our high school counselors do with our students," Johnson continued.

He added that the organization always keeps the kids first.

Upcoming local, state, and national elections are forcing school officials to slightly change the 1996/97 school calendar.

School officials are calling for Tuesday, Nov. 5, to be considered a staff development day, closing all eight of the district's schools.

The change is recommended: according to district Personnel Director Roy Danley, to alleviate the possible disruption caused by people casting their ballots on Nov.

All five of the district's elementary schools and Meads Mill Middle School have been identified as polling places for the election. According to Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski, all of the

Bullard wins GOP primary

By ROBERT JACKSON Staff Writer

State Rep. Willis Bullard is one step closer to capturing the 15th district senate seat vacated by former State Sen. Dave Honigman.

Bullard won the four-way Republican primary. Monday, with 8,168 votes. State Rep. Barbara Dobbs finished second with 6.215 votes; Farmington Hills city councilman Terry Sever posted 3,308 votes, and retired Northville pedia-trician Ed Cox captured 218 votes.

Bullard will face Farmington Hills attorney and Democrat Barry Brickner in a special general election slated for June 4. Brickner ran unopposed in Monday's primary and received 4,193 votes.

The senate district includes Oakland County Northville.

Bullard said that even though the district is a GOP stronghold. he'll still campaign hard.

Sure it's a Republican district but I'm still going to have to campaign hard in order win the confidence of the voters," Bullard said. Taxes, welfare and crime will be the focus of my campaign the next three weeks. I feel I need to continue to get that message out.

Committee plans spectacular 4th

By RANDY COBLE

Stop what you're doing right now, run to your calendar and circle July 4 in red. If you don't, you may miss the biggest and best Independence Day that Northville's seen in many a year.

"Come early and stay late" is the unofficial motto of Celebrate Northville, the non-profit group organizing this year's July Fourth celebration. They've got a dayful of activities in the works that the whole family should love, most of it right downtown so you and the kids won't have to walk far for the fun that awaits.

Believe it or not, our nation's birthday (number 220 if you're counting) is just six weeks away. A lot of work will go on between now and then as Celebrate Northville volunteers arrange all the details of old favorites like the downtown parade and the evening's fireworks show, as well as new additions to the lineup such as an afternoon rock concert at Beck Road Park.

There's a lot on tap for Independence Day, beginning with a morning farm breakfast at the Masonic Temple on Main Street. The parade comes next, including participants like the Northville High School marching band and the wouldn't-be-a-parade-without-

Also planned is another pair of favorites, the kids' bike and pet parades. Meijer has agreed to donate a bike to the winner of the bike parade.

Part of this year's Fourth also celebrates the 100th anniversary of the automobile, so after the parade is over make plans to mosey over to R&D Enterprises (the old Ford plant) on Main Street. There you'll have the chance to check out the collection of more than 100 classic autos that will be on display.

When that's done, don't forget to visit Mill Race Village, located just up Griswold Avenue from R&D. Take tours of the historic buildings on the site, watch performers like magician Ming the Magnificent dazzle the crowds or catch one of the historical reenactments being performed on the grounds.

The kids can take part in the special old-fashioned games that will be offered. When everyone's hungry and thirsty, don't worry: there'll be plenty of food and drinks to be had.

As it moves towards afternoontime, you know what's going to be on everyone's mind - fireworks. Before the pyrotechnics, however, plan to catch two concerts that will be held at Beck Road Park a few hours before the show begins.

"Come early and stay late" is the unofficial motto of Celebrate Northville, the non-profit group organizing this year's July Fourth celebration.

A youth rock concert will kick things off first, followed by a performance of patriotic music by the Schoolcraft College wind ensemble. Then, at dusk, Northville's July Fourth will cap off with a fireworks show.

The show will be held once again on the grounds of the BFI facility just off Napler Road.

Last year's show drew an estimated 40,000 people and a ton of traffic delays.

Not to fear. Celebrate Northville folks say they're working with the Northville Township Department of Public Safety to make traffic flow as smoothly as possible that night.

Major event sponsors include BFI (fireworks), Wooly Bully's (car show) and Continental Cablevision (concerts).

Celebrate Northville is always looking for volunteers and financial donors. Its next meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 29, at Northville Township Hall beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Township board votes to kick in for Independence Day festivities

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Celebrate Northville got what it was looking for from the Northville Township Board of Trustees, but only after a meeting and splitting and then a meeting of the minds

The volunteer group organizing this year's Independence Day celebrations came to the trustees' May 9 meeting to seek support from the board for planned July Fourth activities. Specifically, Celebrate Northville asked for a $2,000 donation from the township to help defray the day's anticipated $19,000 total cost.

That's $3,000 less than what the group asked for last year. Celebrate Northville chairperson Karen Woodside chalked that happy circumstance up to the group's fajita sale fund-raising efforts at the last Victorian Festival.

During discussion of the issue the board voted 4-2 (Trustee Mark Abbo was absent) to grant the donation request. Later in the evening, however, that vote was almost rescinded.

Trustee Gini Britton, who had voted in favor of the motion, questioned whether the motion was legal. Britton, quoting from a magazine she'd been reading during the meeting, said that according to the Michigan Townships Association (MTA) a township cannot donate to any community organization unless specifically approved by state law.

Britton then asked the board to rescind its approval of the donation. Trustee Russ Fogg agreed, and suggested that the matter be turned over to township attorney

Jim Tamm for further review. Tamm himself said that "I don't know of anything that would prevent this (donation)." Supervisor Karen Baja urged the board to let the motion stand. arguing that it's unlikely anyone would challenge it.

At that point, Britton, who continued to review the magazine. found an article on the next page which said that state law specifically allows municipal support of Independence Day celebrations. She then reversed her motion to rescind the donation.

Help sought for daylong celebration

Celebrate Northville, the nonprofit group that's organizing this year's Independence Day activities, is looking for community participation to make this year's Fourth the best ever. Call Karen or Ken Woodside at 347-1919 for more information on any of them.

Here are some ways to pitch in: Volunteer your time. Celebrate Northville can use help right now in planning and arranging its slate of July 4 fun. People will be especially needed to help out with the downtown parade. Make a donation, either from yourself or your business, to help cover the costs of this year's Fourth. No amount is too small, Celebrate Northville's organizers say. You can also put your money into one of the group's 'Fund the Fourth firecracker cans that are set up around town now.

A special parade viewing area will be set up as well for 100 $25 VIP donors. Your donation will include a July Fourth T-shirt.

Transferring ownership to Wayne County means that it will be responsible for key matters like road maintenance and potential insurance liability. County officials must still formally sign off on the transfer before it becomes official.

Meanwhile, the paving of Wallis Road is scheduled to begin "soon." according to Don Weaver, the township's contracted planning engineer. Once it starts the work should take one to two weeks to

Hoofers to pound the pavement to fight CF

Pedal power will work its magic at Maybury State Park this Saturday, May 18, when the Eighth Annual Great Strides Walk for cystic fibrosis helps raise funds to combat a deadly disease.

Sponsored by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, the 10K (6.2 mile) walk-a-thon is one of 170 similar events that will be taking place around the country that same day.

Last year the Foundation raised over $5 million nationwide, with $100,000 being raised in the Metro Detroit area alone.

The Metropolitan Detroit Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking both corporate sponsors and exercise buffs to help carry the torch for the cause.

We always have a good response from the Metropolitan-area community, CFF Special Events Director Angle Bevilacqua said. "We're hoping the generous outpouring that we've seen in the past will be duplicated - and surpassed - this year."

Cystic fibrosis is the No. 1 genetic killer of children and young adults in the country. The ailment causes a thick, sticky mucus to clog the lungs, leading to chronic pulmonary infections and damage. In 1993, research identifled the defective gene that causes the disease.

Northville resident Laura Tillman was diagnosed with a relatively mild form of CF within the last year. She said the Foundation has helped pay part of the cost of her medications.

"It's about 40 percent cheaper," she said of the prescriptions she

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation currently supports six landmark studies into CF treatment.

This year two local posterchildren, 4-year-old Anna DiPirro of Canton and 10-year-old Nicole Dishaw of Troy, will serve as Ambassadors of Courage," symbols of the long struggle against the disease.

To participate in the walk or to sponsor one of the Ambassadors, call the Foundation office at (810) 524-CURE (2873).

Volunteers are also invited to form their own teams, get their companies involved as sponsors or help out at the walk site. Walkers can earn incentive prizes by collecting donations from friends. family members and co-workers.

Donations of at least $50 will earn walkers a T-shirt for their participation.

Corporate exposure is available through name association with the event. Promotions can appear in the print or broadcast media or on signage the day of the event. Sampling, advertising, and distribution of flyers at walk sites is another avenue for companies. The walk at Maybury will get under way at noon May 18. Check-in is set for 11 a.m.

The main entrance to Maybury is off Eight Mile west of Beck Road in Northville Township.

Driving school voucher proposal shot down

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

The state House of Representatives slammed the door on a Senate plan to use state school aid in private driving schools.

I wanted a clear vote on the voucher plan," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. She feared the Senate plan would open further the door to using state aid for private schools - currently prohibited by the Michigan Constitution but sought by religious groups.

The House voted 76-28 to strip the driver training bill of most Senate amendments.

House Bill 4763, sponsored by Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, would toughen teen driving requirements by setting up a three-tier system of training and road experience.

Because House and Senate versions differ so greatly, the bill goes to a joint House-Senate conference committee, where Gustafson is expected to hang tough against Senate amendments.

Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, voted yes on removing the Senate amendment to let students have $100 vouchers to use in private schools instead of public school driver's education. Willis Bullard, R-Milford, voted no.

Debate was brief as the House took up the question of whether to concur in the Senate amendments. After adopting Berman's amendment to remove the voucher system, the House voted three yes, 102 against the Senate version and sent it to conference.

The House voted on two other amendments:

· By a voice vote, it shot down the proposal of Rep. David Jaye, R-Utica, to require students to maintain a driver licenses.

• It approved, 103-0, a bipartisan effort to require the Secretary of State to make an annual eightyear comparative survey of the accident and ticket records of drivers 17-25 and report it to

ROADRUNNER RACE SET: Northville's fourth annual Road-Runner Classic is set for Saturday, July 27, beginning at 4 p.m. More than 1,500 people are planning to participate, according to race officials. The race will start and end at the Community Center APPOINTED: The township board of trustees at its May 9 meeting appointed former planning commissioner Susan Vlangos to the commission again. Her term will expire on Feb. 13, 1998.

SCOUTS FLY HIGH: The trustees took time out to honor some local scouts who've soared above and beyond the rest.

Dan Pilarz of Boy Scout Troop No. 903 received Eagle Scout status on May 5. To get it Pilarz completed a community improvement project at Bartlett Elementary School in South Lyon. The scout constructed a hexagonal table with detached benches and landscaping and a rock garden for a school courtyard.

Andrea Troschinetz and Jessica Black each recently received the highest honor a Girl Scout can obtain, the Gold Award.

Troschinetz researched, planned, tilled, planted and cultivated and harvested an herb garden at Mill Race Historical Village. Her garden consisted of typical herbs grown in gardens during the 1800s. She will present her garden to Mill Race visitors while dressed in period costume on Sundays.

Black researched Native American shelters and constructed a wigwam similar to those used by the Potawatomi Indians while encamped along the Rouge River. She collected cattail stems and wove them together and her creation is now on display in Mill

PURCHASES APPROVED: The board gave approval to several equipment purchase requests from the Department of Public Safe-

· About $750 for "pocket masks" for all firefighters and police officers. The masks are used to administer CPR safely, reducing the chances of spreading infectious diseases such as AIDS. The devices were requested after a DPS member had to perform emergency CPR on a patient without full protective gear.

$2,000 for staff training on team building and problem solving skills.

$15,000 for two copiers and one copier/fax.

DRIVES GET NEW LOOK: You may have a little trouble getting in and out of Township Hall and Fire Station No. 2 soon but the pain will be worth the gain. The asphalt drives and parking lots of both will be coated and resealed this summer. The cost will be SIDEWALK SHELVED: Don't look for a sidewalk on Haggerty Road anytime soon.

Township officials have explored the idea of establishing a special assessment district (SAD) among property owners on Haggerty between Five and Six Mile to pay for the installation of a sidewalk. Director of Public Services Bill Anderson advised the board last week, however, that it's probably a dead issue.

Of the eight property owners surveyed, he said, six returned their forms and all said they won't support an SAD. Together the owners represent about 3,000 feet of frontage or 75 percent of the total length of the proposed sidewalk.

The board filed the memo on the subject without comment.

ASSESSORS GIVEN CONTRACT: The board agreed to a contract with the private firm that does tax assessing in the township. marking the first time the Wayne County Appraisal Co. has had a written contract in the six years they've been here.

The firm's services will cost somewhere around $66,000 annually, depending on the number of homes surveyed, Manager Tamara Hanlin said. She said the use of the contractor is better than the township having an appraiser on staff.

The vote on the motion was 5-1. Trustee Gini Britton voting no after expressing concerns over provisos in the contract for additional monies for special project work. The agreement will run through mid-April 1998.

Library board sessions meet legal guidelines

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

The Northville District Library board's recent actions regarding Director Pat Orr comply fully with the law, according to a legal Dawn Phillips is general counsel to the Michigan Press Association and a frequent consultant to the media on the Michigan Open Meetings Act. The Northville Record contacted Phillips this week, asking her opinion of the steps the board took in placing Orr on administrative leave.

Her conclusions in both cases are that the library board stayed within the rules of the law.

The Open Meetings Act provides that virtually all meetings of a public body like the library board be held under conditions that allow the public access to them. Rare, non-public meetings are allowed for a few specific issues, such as discussion of pending legal actions or employee personnel matters.

The library board has held five meetings since April 1. Three of them involved non-public "closed" sessions, including a two-hour affair held on April 17. All the closed sessions were held under the employee personnel exception of the Open Meetings Act.

During the board's public "open" meeting of April 25, the trustees without comment voted unanimously to approve actions taken at the special meeting" of April 17.

Following the April 25 board meeting. Orr met privately with the three-member board personnel subcommittee where she learned of the board decision to place her

According to Phillips, that procedure was legal. A public body like the board can hold a closed session regarding employee personnel matters if, and only if, the employee under review specifically requests it orally or in writing. The employee does not have to be pre-she had made such a request and was not present for either of the two board closed sessions regarding her.

The Open Meetings Act requires that the deliberations and decisions of a public body be done before the public. Phillips explained. That means that while board members could meet in closed session to discuss Orr's situation, they had to vote in an open session in favor of their chosen course of action.

"Public officials need to be careful of reaching a consensus on what to do in closed meetings." Phillips said. 'It's hard to draw the line sometimes but the public is allowed to know the reasons for their decisions.

"If somebody really cared about the public it's my opinion that you should at the very least state your reasons for a decision when you majority, in fact, are either "excellent" or "outstanding."

In 1992 the library commission used a numerical scoring system on Orr's evaluation. A 1-9 scale was employed, 1 being "inade-quate" and 9 being "outstanding." The director received an overall score of 7.1.

"Exceeds expectations" is a phrase repeated throughout the 1992 evaluation. Other comments made by library commissioners

• "She finds ways for our small library to be as up to date as pos-

• "High rating for (planning out) future objectives ... planning for the library's future within the context of today's extreme flux is next to impossible. Pat has as clear a vision as any of us can at this "Keeps library board informed in a detailed and timely manner.*

 Incredible and commendable. A person with less would not have survived.

 Above and beyond the call of duty.

Such high marks were not given in the evaluations Orr received from the district library board when its members evaluated her performance for the years 1993-95. Their opinion is not one that Orr shares, according to written responses she filed.

Included in the director's evaluations in those years were two things: numerical scores for her performance on dozens of specific job duties and a written report explaining why board members gave her the scores they did.

A five point scale was employed, one being "inadequate," three being "meets expectations" and five being "outstanding." In 1993 the average of Orr's scores was 2.9. In 1994 the average rose to 3.3, then dropped to 2.6 for the year 1995.

The written reports include a variety of criticism of Orr, such as:

• Being responsible for a poor personal relationship between herself and the board.

 Not keeping the trustees fully informed of what she's doing and failing to follow through on their orders to develop new programs or institute policy reforms.

Some of those include a longrunning board desire for improvements in customer service quality provided by library staff, Improving overall employee morale and planning for the short- and longterm future of the library.

Here's a sampling of board comments:

• *Employee concerns have not been adequately communicated to the board and board actions were not adequately explained to employees," the 1995 evaluation said, a subtle reference to library employees' vote earlier this year to form a union under the auspices of the Teamsters. We are still receiving unsolicited comments about poor attitude and service ... the board expects cheerful enthusiastic involvement of staff with patrons.

In the last year staff has shown little improvement in attitude. We expect to see more initiative and less complaining."

• "The board wants Pat to substantiate and defend her ideas rather than defend her personal integrity. The board expects disagreements to be settled by persuasive argument rather than loud decrees of 'the librarians have studied this and know best." Board more likely to move to Pat's position if they felt she wasn't fighting everything that comes up ... work with us. Don't spring new ideas without giving us substantiation for their implemen-

• "Recognize that we are all in this together. Staff and board together (emphasis added) constitute a team, working toward a common goal. For her part, Orr in written responses to the evaluations outlined steps she said she's taken to address the board's concerns. She also hinted that she felt the trustees have made mistakes. Here are some of the things Orr said: Some decisions made this year have not been well-received by staff. Concerns have been expressed that the board is becoming too active in the day-today operations of the library. . Many employees feel that they have lost more than they've gained thus far in the transition to District Library."

gerty and the development going on at Six and Haggerty that soon our only unclogged artery will be gone.

Traffic was a key concern of the trustees as well. According to township planner Brad Strader. Livonia has rezoned property in the Six Mile/Haggerty Road area from office development to com-mercial uses. That could be a continuing trend, some members of the board fear, leading to a huge increase in car flows in the already busy area.

Township officials have asked Livonia to hold off on making a decision about approving the complex until they've had the chance to review a traffic impact study which the 20-plex developer has prepared. The trustees agreed to send a letter to that effect.

Judge urges counties to curb Rouge pollution

A federal judge wants Wayne. Oakland and Washtenaw county officials to consider a regional approach to stopping non-point pollution of the Rouge River.

Judge John Feikens says they should look at Chapter 21 of the state Drain Code in setting up a watershed authority.

The approval of federal funds favors the development of a regional approach to the remedial efforts in southeastern Michigan." Felkens said in a letter to area officials and lawyers.

Three suburban legislators are battling a force hundreds of millions of years old as they seek to give townships the power to con-trol oil and gas drilling.

The lawmakers are state Reps.

Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Willis Bullard Jr., R-Milford, and Susan Munsell, R-Howell. They are teamed with Rep. Bill Bobier, R-Manistee County, and linked by an ancient layer of rock called the antrim shale.

Their four bills are a major unnecessary burden," said Martin Lagina, chair of the Michigan Oil and Gas Association. They sound OK, but they're unworkable.

"We drill in 61 counties. There are literally hundreds of townships expertise at the local level. The state (Geological Division of the Department of Environmental Quality) understands the industry and can regulate it.

*Everything they try to address is in the new rules," Lagina told the House Local Government Committee May 1 in Lansing.

DEQ will hold a pair of hearings on its proposed rules Thursday, May 9, at Hidden Valley Resort, 696 E. Main (M-32), Gaylord.

A GAS BOOM

The problem is that people build dream homes on land they bought in idyllic woods and hills. But they don't own the property totally. In the Great Depression of the 1930s, the state picked up millions of acres for unpaid taxes, resold the surface rights but kept the mineral

People say their pumps are ugly and make noise.

Cities may confine wells to industrial zones.

Townships may not. Rather than incorporate as home-rule cities, townships are demanding power to zone and control oil and gas drilling.

That's where the Law, Bullard, Munsell and Bobier bills come in.

Bobier made the case to the House panel: You can't deal with environmental problems without dealing with land use problems. We are blessed in Michigan with a great source of energy, clean, lowpressure. It comes in trends rather than at an isolated source.

'We now have natural gas production coming where surface owners get no royalty.

There's a problem of stewardship. There is no local zoning authority. It's like having a freight train in your backyard. We have an industry come in a rural, residential zone. I am amazed the industry has not gotten with its people to police themselves.

"There's no NiMBY-ism (not in my back yard) here," Bobier said.
"We want an orderly look at oil and gas production."

Committee Chair Robert Brackenridge, R-St. Joseph, held off action on the representatives' zon-ing bills to see if DEQ's new rules on the drawing boards since 1987 - can resolve the problems.

Roger Whitener of DEQ's Geological Division said the rules cover setbacks from public and private water supplies, three layers of public notices to residents and noise controls for compressors.

Whitener said local units could exercise control with truck traffic rules

Our authority ends at the property line," he told Brackenridge.

Cooke Middle School performed the nineteenth century comedy "Too Many Doctors". May 2.

Cooke thespian troupe romps through spring play

Quack doctors, lovelorn youths and a conniving woman and her hypochondriae husband invaded the Cooke Middle School stage May 2 when the school performed its spring 1996 play.

Called Too Many Doctors, the show offered a comedic look at a cast of eccentrics, many of whom were confused about the motivations of their family members

Too Many Doctors, written by Victorian-era playwright Harriet Dexter, was staged for one performance at the school. It focused on a hypochondriacal man who insisted his daughters marry doctors so they could tend to his many imagined illnesses.

The man's wife was a schemer only interested her husband's money, and the daughters had their own ideas about whom they should love

The tangled plot unwinds when the goodly housekeeper stages the man's death and observes everyone's reaction. With eyes now fully opened, the man drops his delusions of sickness, allows his daughters to pursue the men of their dreams and sees his wife for the golddigger she really is

The hypochondriac was portraved by Matthew Menghini, the servant was played by Sadie Vince.

and the daughters were portrayed by Kati Pryce and Jessica DeLos-

Katie Johnson was the greedy wife, and Deirdre Schwiring and Mike Pilarz the doctors. Sean Lanigan played the suitor of one of the daughters while Jessica Davis was the wife of a well-known physician

The play was directed by Jayne Headrick and the stage crew consisted of Kimberly Berlin, Tony Calardo, Sara Downey, Lauren Eathorne, Megan Maddaford, Lauren Reese and Georgie Walsh.

This year, all candidates for national convention delegates and alternates were for the incumbent Clinton-Gore team. No hassle over what proportion a minor candidate would get or who would pick

Altogether, 317 of the party faithful sought 47 at-large delegate slots and six at-large alternates. The problem of how to winnow them down was resolved Saturday at Brighton High School when party chair Mark Brewer unveiled a "unity slate" for the Democratic Michigan will send a total of 158 delegates and 21 alternates to the largely ceremonial national convention in Chicago Aug. 11-15. Brewer, a Mount Clemens attorney, will lead the delegation since Democrats don't own the governor's office.

Democrats this year boycotted the March 19 presidential primary called under a Republican-written law. Instead, Democrats held caucuses March 16 in which Clinton got about 6.000 votes against a handful of opposition votes. And the Democratic State Central Committee, instead of a state convention, picked the at-large delegates.

The state central meeting was held in the Republican bastion of Livingston County because Brewer wants "to rotate meetings around the state. It was Brighton's turn. On Saturday, May 25, Mill Race Village holds its annual spring plant exchange. Bring along excess plants and trade with others. The swap takes place from 8 a.m. until noon.

On Sunday, May 26, the Village opens for its summer Sunday season with a special event. Members of the Northville Historical Society plan to host their third annual Book and Author Day. Area historical societies will be on hand to sell their local historical offerings as well as a number of regional authors. All authors on hand will be happy to personally autograph any books purchased.

The day provides area residents with the first opportunity of the season to tour the buildings at Mill Race and the chance to see what's new and interesting in publications about this region. Representatives from Canton, Salem, Plymouth, and Novi have already agreed to join Northville representatives.

There is no charge for the event which begins at 1 and lasts until 4 p.m.

Volunteers are needed to assist in the showing of Mill Race Village throughout the summer. To volunteer or to learn more about the opportunity contact 348-1845.

For the next few weeks the history portion of this column will be curtailed to allow space for the calendar and news of current events. It will return as activities and events within the village subside. Lake access bill awaiting approval

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

Capitol capsules:

Private property owners will find it more difficult to shut out the public from lake and river access under three bills awaiting Gov. John Engler's signature.

The bills require counties to notify the public of plans to abandon road stubs that end at a waterfront. They give local govern-ments a chance to gain title and maintain them for public use before private owners can buy them and shut off access.

ouis neip mai all of Michigan's residents have recreational opportunities on our lakes and rivers, not just those people wealthy enough to own property there, said Senate minority leader John Cherry. D. Clio. He co-sponsored the package with Sen. Doug Carl, R-Utica.

Both chambers passed the bills unanimously.

This legislation should help stem the increasing tide of road ending abandonments that result in exclusion of the public from bodies of water," said Rick Jameson, executive director of Michigan United Conservation Clubs. MUCC attorney M. Carol Bambery drafted the bills. She has litigated many road ending cases for MUCC.

FREE TUITION

Children of police officers and firefighters killed in the line of duty will get free state college tuition under a bill that was hotly debated in the Senate despite its 37-0 victory.

Sen. Dianne Byrum, D-Onondaga, wanted to extend the benefit to state prison guards, local jail guards, DNR conservation officers and National Guard troops. Sen. Don Kolvisto, D-Ironwood, wanted to extend it to emergency medical service providers.

Both amendments were rejected on near party-line votes, Democrats for, Republicans

Said Byrum: "How can you say to police offices and firefighters. Your life is more valuable than your counterparts?

This will kill the bill, said Sen. Jon Cisky, R-Saginaw, of the amendments. That's what she wants to do.'

Unadorned with amendments. the House bill won Senate approval and was sent to Gov. Engler for signing.

WASTE BILL OK'D

Gov. Engler signed into law a bill requiring multi-source commercial hazardous waste disposal wells to maintain on-site treatment and storage facilities. The bill was sponsored by Sen.

Loren Bennett, R-Canton. It amends the Natural Resources(1919 (1919)) and the Natural Resources(1919) and the Natural Resource and Environmental Protection Code to require a construction permit and operating license for hazardous disposal sites.

Said Bennett: This legislation was needed to close a loophole in the law that allowed deep injection disposal wells to go virtually unregulated. After a lot of work with state and local officials, we have become successful in putting tighter regulations on permitting of these wells."

Added Engler: "It also ensures munity near a potential site of a proposed waste disposal will be informed about the well and will have an opportunity to comment in a public hearing."

'OVER-REGULATION'

Three pro-choice women state representatives fired a barrage at House bills they say are designed to "shut down abortion clinics" and "make abortion unsafe" through over-regulation.

Reps. Maxine Berman, D-South-field, Susan Munsell, R-Howell, and Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, called a news conference in the Capitol. They were joined by Wendy Waggenheim of the American Civil Liberties Union and spokeswomen for Northland Famiby Planning Centers, with clinics in Southfield, Westland and northwest Detroit.

"It would be a return to backalley abortions," said Berman.

'I'm old enough to remember when women with money went to Sweden, said Dolan. These restrictions are so severe there will be shutdowns (of clinics)."

Munsell, chair of Michigan Republicans for Choice, complained that one bill would have government collecting information for endless periods."

They objected to these Right to Life-backed bills: · House Bill 5798 (Terry Geiger, R-Lake Odessa) which will require governmental certificates of need. now required of hospitals, and forming abortions.

• House Bill 5799 (Michelle McManus, R-Traverse City. requiring other reporting of complications alleged to have resulted from abortions.

The bills are assigned to the House Health Policy Committee, chaired by Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomsleld Township.

Coincidentally, Berman, Munsell, Dolan and Jamian all have announced they aren't seeking reclection.

The theory of zero tolerance is that any community that passively permits drug abuse will inevitably end up with 'a drug abuse problem. This is demonstrably true. The atmosphere of moral permissiveness that grew out of the doyour-own-thing 1960s is greatly responsible for the alarming rates of divorce and illegitimacy our society is struggling to reverse. The current generation of parents is discovering that negative stigmas can serve a useful purpose after all.

Athletes who use misuse drugs and alcohol need to understand both that their studies must come first and that substance abuse and athletics don't mix. The point of stricter standards is not to exert control over young people but rather to create a climate in which the self-destructive nature of drug abuse is clearly recognized and strongly resisted.

We think the new athletic code of conduct is a positive step in the effort to combat a negative influence in the lives of the community's youth. The results of the 1996 Alcohol and Other Drugs survey at Northville High school suggest that actions of this type are sorely needed.

Voters loyal to Bullard, wherever he may live

Voters casting ballots in the special another reason as well: there is no Honigman' sent two messages Monday: 1) they like current state Rep. Willis Bullard, and 2) they don't care about the constitutional provision requiring lawmakers to live in the districts they represent.

Bullard, who won the Republican priimary handily, was involved in a controversy last year when a Milford Times investigation posed questions about where he lived. The newspaper disclosed that Bullard listed his father-inlaw's home as his place of residence Highland Township, outside the boundaries of the 38th District he represents in the Michigan House.

Bullard insists he sleeps at the home of his father-in-law, but that's more than a little peculiar given that he and his wife are newly married and apparently enjoy a close relationship. Bullard also had a third residence, in downtown Milford, but a store owner on the ground floor of the building said the Jawmaker was never anywhere to be

When questioned about his situation. Bullard at first put up a defense but later referred the inquisitive reporter to his lawyer.

The "where's Willis" issue is, in any case, moot because Bullard's Highland Township home is located within the Senate district he'll represent should be win next month's runoff election against his opponent. Democrat Barry Brickner.

But this question is a dead issue for Republican primary to fill the seat practical enforcement mechanism in vacated by the resignation of David - the residency requirement other than the ability of the voters to reject violators at the ballot box. And the voters. obviously, could care less.

It might come as a surprise to some that the state constitution contains what is basically an honors system law. But that's essentially what the residency rule is. The constitution does permit the Legislature to take action against sitting lawmakers who fail to make their homes within their districts but, realistically, that doesn't happen. You can't expect elected officials to even as his wife lived in a house in move decisively against a colleague in a case that concerns none of their own constituents.

The residency rule, then, is little more than a recommendation, albeit one that enjoys constitutional status. Ultimately, the decision about governmental representation rests with the voters. And what the voters said in this election is that it doesn't matter to them where their representative lives. as long as he or she does a decent job of serving them and addressing their concerns.

If we are not going to enforce a rule like the residency provision, why have it? If it is important that representatives live in their districts, then let's make sure they do by putting in place a workable enforcement procedure.

If the voters don't think it is important, let's get rid of it altogether. Then voters could decide on residency when they decide how to cast their ballots ... which is pretty much the way it works

Election shapes up nicely

Just a couple of weeks ago it looked like there weren't going to be any contested races in the 1996

Northville Township Board of Trustees election. Noticing this apparent lack of interest, we editorialized against such an eventuality, urging citizens to step forward and give the voting public a choice at the polls. Lo and behold.

As of the initial filing deadline

Tuesday, there were multiple candidates for all three officer positions (supervisor, clerk and treasurer) and for the four Snider trustee seats. Candidates still have until 4 p.m. tomorrow to change their minds and pull their petitions, so it's not known what the final version of the ballot will look like. However, the encouraging news is that there's a good possibility we'll see some real campaigning going on this summer. There are a number of genuine surprises in the tentative lineup. Perhaps tops on the list of unexpected developments is the decision of Supervisor Karen Baja to seek a trustee's post. After keeping everyone guessing about her reelection plans right down to the wire. Baja pulled a switcheroo and filed petitions for a demotion. Now the guesswork has turned to whether she'll remain on the ballot or withdraw before tomorrow's

The inclusion of Karen Woodside in the supervisor's race was another unforeseen development. Woodside has been active in local politics lately, mounting an unsuccessful bid for a district court judgeship in 1994 and recently gaining appointment as chair of the township planning commission.

But even her close friends were taken aback by her decision to enter the race for township supervisor. Her opponent. Ford Motor attorney Bob Grant, made known his intention to run as early as the middle of last year, but I think everyone believed he would waltz in unopposed. I know I did.

But barring a change of heart from Woodside, that will change in a big way.

Many other familiar faces submitted petitions for board positions. Incumbents Russ Fogg and Mark Abbo are opting for second terms and clerk Sue Hillebrand is also seeking a four-year return engagement.

Trustee Gini Britton has her eye on the treasurer's position, but she's up against former Township Manager Dick Henningsen. Britton was in on the decision not to rehire Henningsen as manager in 1992, and it'll be interesting to see if those two generate any fireworks in a head-to-head battle.

Other candidates who threw hats into the ring are Shirley Klokkenga (the lone Democrat). Mary Gans. Bill James, Chris Schultz and Bill Sclinski.

Well, we asked for it and, bygolly, we got it. No wimpy election for us this year. The primary is set for Aug. 6 and, because there's a Democrat running, there will be a contest in November too.

Congratulations to all who decided to become involved. Elections are not just an opportunity for voters to size up the candidates, they're a chance to clarify the issues and organize your own thinking about what's important.

As you can read on this week's front page, we've got a crowded race on our hands for the Aug. 6 primary. Among the board incumbents who've decided to throw their hats back into the ring and seek another four year term is Trustee Russ Fogg

There's no nice way to say this but it's my duty to - I can't support that decision because Russ does not belong on the board.

As an individual, I like and respect Russ. He's one of the most genial people you'll ever meet: always a genuine smile and a kind word when you run into him. As an elected official, he's got loads of energy and integri-

There aren't a lot of people who will give so much of their time, so much of themselves, to benefit their community instead of just number one. Moreover, unlike some other members of the board the only thing motivating Russ is a desire to do what he perceives to be in the best interests of Northville Township.

All of that, however, doesn't outweigh the negatives that Russ brings to the table. The unfortunate fact is this candidate has a serious problem taking in. comprehending and retaining information. Some days are better than others but it's something that happens regularly and can't be ignored.

It's my job to be the eyes and ears of you, the voting public. Part of that job is to tell you when a candidate simply isn't up to the job he's asking you to entrust him with. Russ wants to be one of seven people who will make decisions affecting tens of millions of public tax dollars and the way this community, which is less than half developed, continues to grow.

We can't afford to have someone at the controls who isn't 100 percent. While Russ could make a valuable contribution to Northville Township and play an important part in the work that lies ahead, it should not be as a member of the board.

This was not a fun column to write and I'm sure it wasn't a great one to read either. For whatever it's worth. I'd like to say that Russ sure has courage: he chose to get into this race despite knowing that The Record will make this a campaign issue. That took a Others, however, haven't been so impressive. I am disappointed in all of those "in the loop" out there who know how things are and yet still encouraged Russ to run. That was a disservice to both your friend and this community.

It seems that those of us involved in this past year's efforts to "define the future of Northville High School" are much like Alice.

Some of us on the Future Committee had high expectations of defining a direction for building a better learning environment at Northville High School. We did, indeed, draft a concept for a very flexible facility which would form a physical framework for such an environment. It was a necessary task.

But, unfortunately, little time was devoted to reflecting on the big picture." In what direction should secondary education move? How does our present "system" affect the learning of our children? Parenting laws likely to have impact

Just to get the wheels turning, here's a selection of quotes about last week's conviction of Anthony and

Phil Power

Susan Provenzino for violating the St. Clair Shores parental responsibility ordinance after their son, Alex, got into repeated trouble with the law: • "We did the best we could. We taught him right from wrong from the day he was born. There's only so much you can do. Once they are outside the home, they are really making decisions on their own." - Susan Provenzino. You don't ask your son to go (into counseling, which Alex had refused to do). You tell him what he's going to do." - An unidentified "Should every act that a child does become part of the parent's responsibility? I don't know if it sends fear into the heart of every parent that their neighbor will be watching." - Jim Murphy, village manager in Holly, which is considering an ordinance.

 "We spend an awful lot closing the door after the horse is gone. I think anything that puts the family on notice about responsibilities of parenthood is a positive thing." - Gov.

John Engler.

If your house is anything like mine. parental responsibility has been a hot topic around the kitchen table.

My wife, Kathy, is pretty strict about discipline. But she feels passing laws forcing par-ents to be responsible for their kids' behavior is, well, socialistic. "It's just another way for the government to stick its nose into places where it has no business," she said, putting her coffee mug down firmly.

Not only that, but "how in the world are they going to enforce ordinances like that? Lots of kids get into trouble, and who's going to decide which particular parents to prosecute?" she says.

Indeed, vagueness of the St. Clair shores ordinance may well be the basis for appeals, according to Howard Simon, director of the American Civil Liberties Union.

As I sat mulling the matter, it occurred to me that what really has happened over the past 30 years or so is a significant shift in the definition of the American family.

In the old days (whenever that was), the traditional family was regarded as the basic module of social behavior. Sins or offenses committed by one family member were regarded as the responsibility of the entire unit. This old doctrine led to demands for family vengeance, feuds between families that lasted for generations. And it defined people more as family members than as indeBut beginning in the 1960s, the idea grew and flourished that members of a family should be defined as individuals, fundamentally autonomous and therefore ultimately responsible for their own behavior. In this definition of a person, membership in a family was secondary to one's own individuality.

I suspect that in a subtle way, this shift in the relative conception of individuals in relation to families has undergirded the breakdown of the traditional family. And it is this breakdown that lies behind the concern for "family values" and is expressed today in fascination with parental responsibility ordi-

Certainly, the rise in juvenile crime is alarming. In Oakland County, for example, violent juvenile crime jumped 256 percent over the past 12 years, and national estimates suggest an increase of 100,000 violent juvenile offenders over the next decade.

Will parental responsibility ordinances have much weight in the mind of a bad kid like Alex Provenzino? I doubt it very much.

But properly written and applied with care. will they provide parents and police with a tool of last resort to suggest that people are. at the end of the day, family members and that their behavior needs to be affected by the family as a whole? I believe they will.

But Kmart's proxy statement (pg. 11) also tells us that Hall got "an effective 20 percent discount under the Company's Management Stock Purchase Plan." In other words, the stock Hall acquired in the $5 ballpark has doubled in price. He may not peddle it for two more years.

The page 7 salary chart says Hall's base salary was $660,300. Correction: He worked only part of 1995 for Kmart. On page 11, we find his annual base salary is $1 million. The proxy statement reveals him to be a warmhearted soul: "At his request, Mr. Hall did not receive a salary increase for fiscal 1996.

I was taught that a bonus is extra payment for a good performance. Kmart has bottomed out, but has yet to recover.

Instead of soaking up $1.4 million in bonuses, Hall's team could have kept 25 workers aboard at $30,000 plus benefits. They would have spent a chunk of their salaries on their families in a Kmart store.

Many left-wing writers say the issue is people versus profits." Not so. The shared enemies of both stockholders and workers are executives who milk the corporation for unearned bonuses.

The Kmart board has a mushily-worded alibi for its generosity to the top of the heap (proxy, page 11): "in the circumstance of hiring new executive officers during the past year - in order to compete in the marketplace for executive talent - initial compensation was of necessity less performance based than executive officer compensation has been on an on-going basis."

Well, Kmart's annual shareholders meeting is coming up at 10 a.m. Tuesday. May 21. It should be quite a show.

Edison A/C shutoff program returns

With summer's sweltering temperatures not far off, Detroit Edison has modified its interruptible air conditioning program to keep customers cooler while helping them save money.

More than 250,000 Detroit Edison residential customers are signed up for the program, under which they save 20 percent for electricity used for central air conditioning.

In exchange for a lower rate. customers allow Detroit Edison to interrupt their air conditioning service during periods of heavy electricity demand. This allows the utility to manage the load on its electrical system.

In the past, air conditioning interruptions have occurred occasionally on weekdays when humidity was high and temperatures exceeded 90 degrees. Interruptions typically occurred from 1-8 p.m. in 10-minute cycles.

This year, the cycling schedule will be 15 minutes, allowing homes to cool 50 percent longer.

"Because most air conditioners take from three to seven minutes to reach maximum cooling capacity, our customers will notice very little temperature difference in their homes when service is interrupted," said Jerry Goetz, product manager of Detroit Edison retail customer

We believe our customers will be more comfortable and continue to save money at the same time if they have a properly sized cooling unit."

For additional information about the interruptible air conditioning program, call (1-800)

Detroit Edison also suggests the following tips to obtain maximum cooling efficiencies:

- Before the cooling season begins, clean away any leaves or other debris from outdoor air conditioning units.
- · Have the cooling system

• Replace the furnace filter.

· Turn up the thermostat five to 10 degrees when leaving the house for several hours.

· Install extra insulation. weatherproofing and caulking to reduce heating and cooling operating costs.

· When hot, humid days are forecast, turn on the air conditioning the night before so it operates more efficiently.

Spring brings more than buds

Garage sale signs sprouting up all over town

By CAROL WORKENS Staff Writer

With all of nature around us pointing to signs of spring, other signs are pointing to garage sales

For some, spring cleaning also means selling what you and your family don't want, haven't used, or

The third annual Novi Spring Clean Up Sale on May 11 had 26 spaces for residents to peddle their property to others who came in search of anything from clothing to toys to household items

The day started off with a bang. with a rush of bargain seekers with greenbacks in their fists who were waiting at the Novi Civic Center up to one hour before the doors opened at 10 a.m. Due to the weather, this year's sale was held

Divided into booths, sellers' pricing came either from the gut or from carefully researching prices at resale shops and noting the prices at other garage sales

Marion Grigg based the prices of her like-new items at just above fifty percent of what resale shops are asking for similar items

"If someone else can use them. that's better than them sitting in basement, said Maureen Denzel of Novi, who was splitting the different between what the buyer offered and the price tag. "Haggling is not worth it," Denzel said. I'd rather go home with nothing.

Marion Karagozian, also a Novi resident, sold more in one day at the Civic Center than she would in three days at home.

"Everything is negotiable." Karagozian said. The one and two dollar items went real fast."

Things you want to get rid of you price real cheap," Grigg said

You can tell if someone jumps at it (an offer) they probably want to get rid of it," said Paula Reitz of

Although Reitz did a little shopping from other booths on Saturday, she was confident that even with the $25, 10 foot by 15 foot space rental, she would go home with money in her pocket. The fee included all advertising on cable television, and in daily and weekly newspapers. "A couple of subdivisions in Novi don't allow their homeowners to have a garage sale," said Scott Mercer, Novi Parks and Recreation coordinator. This is a way for them to have one. Children's toys were hot on Saturday while children's car seats weren't moving at all. One and two dollar items went real fast, according to Karagozian. Across the street from the Novi Civic Center, a subdivision garage sale was going on at the Jamestowne Green subdivision.

At Elaine Yocum's garage sale, all proceeds benefited the Spartan Swim Club. Added to the items that various swim club members donated for the sale were hot dogs and cupcakes.

Yocum slashed prices at 1:30 p.m. when she put everything at nail price for the remainder of the sale, which ended at 4 p.m.

Around the corner from Yocum, was Debbie Goldin. Goldin's customers told her they plan their vacations around the garage sales in this area, then they take the treasures back down south.

I never realized how popular garage sales are," said Goldin, who has participated in the sub sale for three years. Goldin estimates that about 150 people stopped into her thing, I'll offer half off," she said. Some people don't have time to organize a garage sale themselves.

garage during the sale. "If I see people looking at someBesides determining which items to feel comfortable walking in." stay and which go to the sale. there's pricing and manning the garage. Some residents had items from neighbors and relatives. On the plus side, is meeting the neighbors and cleaning your house. according to Goldin. Choosing which garage sales to frequent depends on what you're looking for. Goldin likes older neighborhoods because she looks for old lewelry and china. Grandmothers look for baby items for their grandchildren and choose areas with younger families. Men look for tools and electronic things. Some of the men are like scouts for their wives," Goldin said. The men glance at the goods and report back to the wives, who are waiting in the car. "Some people don't feel comfortable bargaining," said Goldin, who prices things to sell. "I want people

For Linda Margrave, who has not participated in the sale for four years, the annual Jamestowne sub sale went better than she had expected, considering the weather was a little on the cold and rainy

"There hasn't been a lot of back and forth," said Margrave of her prices. "Early this morning were the bargainers, the more experienced ones."

One of the dreaded decisions of the day is what to do with the things that don't sell. At the Civic Center, most would rather sell it than take it home.

When the time runs out at the end of the day, among the options for objects that remain on the table include charitable organizations. resale shops and another garage sale next year.

Former residents to market water

Pyden family's spring water may come to Northville area

By CAROL WORKENS Staff Writer

Ever wonder what happens to people after they leave Northville? Sherry and Ken Pyden raised their family in Northville for 20 years until they moved to Vermont in 1985.

For Sherry, Northville memories go further back to when she visited her grandfather's horse farm as a child.

"I loved those times and always dreamed of living in Northville." Sherry said.

Three of the Pydens' four children, Greg, Carrie and Kristi, were born while the family lived in Northville. The oldest, Jeff, was just a baby when they moved here in 1964.

The children attended Amerman Elementary, Cook Middle, Meads Mill Middle, Our Lady of Victory. Northville High and Catholic Central schools.

The Pydens chose Vermont as their next home because they had enjoyed vacationing on the east coast for many summers. Settling on the Northeast Kingdom, one of three of the most rural counties in the state, the Pydens bought an 80-acre piece of property that had 800 feet of footage on Lake Willoughby. which is also known as the "Lucerne of America."

The cottage revival structure on the property had been abandoned for 12 years. Established circa 1890 as a summer estate, it became a girls' camp for half a century. In 1988 the Pydens officially opened the Fox Hall Bed & Breakfast Inn.

"it is a very interesting business," said Sherry. "We meet peo-ple from all over the world."

Depending on where you're coming from. Fox Hall is 23 miles from the Canadian border of Quebec, eight hours from New York City, or just over two hours from Montreal.

The Pydens plan to open a hands-on nature center, the Northeast Kingdom Natural Resource and Science Education Center, this summer.

"It will be a much needed center for education for the community, schools and the tourist industry," Sherry said.

The Pydens hope their product. Vermont Springs Natural Spring Water, will make it to the shelves of local stores in the near future.

Frankel shares talents with kids

By CAROL WORKENS Staff Writer

Working with students at Old Village School in Northville gave Amy Frankel more than she expected.

I was considering doing something with mentally impaired children in special education and wanted to try it out first," Frankel

"I have learned how to be a lot more flexible and relaxed from the teachers, because that's the way you have to be at Old Village" she said.

Frankel began volunteering at Old Village School in September. Working Monday through Friday from 11:30 until 2 p.m. Frankel teaches dance class, music, singing, and instruments such as the recorder. The students have performed for a Christmas Show and at a talent show.

Frankel has also worked with the students on spelling and reading.

"It is also just fun for me to be with and talk to the kids," she said. "It is nice for the kids to have someone there that is close to their age (13 and 14) to talk teenager stuff, talk about boys and proms." she said.

Frankel comes with impressive credentials to teach the arts. She has been taking dance (jazz. tap and ballet) for 15 years and voice for two years.

You learn to just really be yourself, they can see through any type of mask," she said. "They are so true to themselves, they can pick out genuine people.*

Frankel has logged in over 100 hours since she began at Old Village School in September.

Every day that I'm there totally brightens my day," she said. "I love working with the children.

Frankel is also involved in volunteer work with her church. Ward Presbyterian in Livonia. She has been on mission trips, and part of hurricane clean up crews in Florida after Hurricane Andrew and in Mexico. Frankel has also been to Jamaica twice to work at a vacation bible school for orphans. "I learned to appreciate what I have here at home, even the shower, because in a couple of places

AMERMAN ELEMENTARY

Amerman started the month of May with Teacher Appreciation Week from May 6-10. The theme this year is 'We Treasure our Amerman Teachers" which uses pirates and treasure chests as logos. Small tokens of appreciation, letters and flowers are given by the students to the teachers, and parents are providing snacks and treats throughout the week. Thanks go to Karen Klimek. Tina Tomakowsky and Lynee Byal for organizing this event and thanks to the teachers for doing such a great lob of educating our children.

Three planting projects have recently been completed at Amerman. The students in Kid's Club wanted to beautify the rear entrance near their classroom and celebrate Arbor Day at the same time. Kid's Club parent Luci Klinkhamer and Amerman parent Tom Holden, a manager at Davey Tree Expert Co., arranged a tree planting with the students in Kid's Club. Davey Tree donated a white ash tree which the students helped to plant on April 26. Later in the spring, they will plant flowers and ground cover under the new tree.

The Northville Country Garden Club also recently donated two maple trees for the kindergarten garden. On May 5, Wolf Den 2 from Cub Scout Pack 755 and their parents planted the trees. Amerman parent Janet Ford has taken over the care of that garden.

Finally, on May 3 and 6, Selena Browne planted a butterfly garden in the courtyard area of Amerman. Students from Holmberg's fifth grade class and Kowalkowski's third grade class helped with the planting. Amerman extends a big thank you to all the volunteers and donors who have helped to make Amerman more beautiful.

The annual Ice Cream Social is Friday, May 31. Games, the cake walk, face painting, the dunk tank, pizza, ice cream, and fun are all on the agenda so come early and stay late and have fun. Thanks to Cindy Atkinson and Linda Jones for organizing the event and thanks to all the staff and families who help run the games and work the booths.

Amerman kindergarten teacher Virginia Krictzs will be retiring at the end of this year after 30 years of teaching.

A retirement open house to honor Krictzs is planned for Wednesday, May 29, from 4-6 p.m. at Amerman. Families of students

The Amerman Talent Show has been scheduled for Thursday, June 6. Grades 4-5 will present their talent in the morning and grades 2-3 will perform in the afternoon. This is always a fun way to see the many different talents the students excel in and is a great chance for the kids to shine.

The Empty Bowls dinner on April 29 was a great success thanks to the work of the staff and students who made the bowls and the families who attended the dinner. Over $900 was raised and donated to charity.

On Thursday evenings, the Sun Messengers will perform through the end of May.

The group, which has been around the metro Detroit area for almost two decades, began concentrating on a more funky, rhythm and blues sound about six years ago.

Besides gigs around town, the nine piece group also plays for the Detroit Pistons and the Vipers.

Other changes at Oxford Inn Tavern is the addition of a beverage bar in the center of the room, where the entertainment is.

The back room has cozy booths and another bar for shucking oys-

"That room is all non-smoking," said Higgins. "You can still hear the music and be able to converse with the person at the table."

One of the reasons the name was changed is because the exterior of the Oxford Inn resembles a "I want people to feel comfort-

MODERN DAY VERSION OF CINDERELLA Picture paints Jane Eyre as nobody's victim

Based on the classic novel by Charlotte Bronte, Franco Zeffirelli's' "Jane Eyre" is a vibrant and visually stunning rendition of the celebrated story of a plain and penniless governess who overcomes seemingly insurmountable obstacles to claim the man she loves. Starring Charlotte Gains-bourg, one of Europe's most exciting and acclaimed young actresses, in the title role, and Oscar winners William Hurt and Anna Paquin as the Byronic Mr. Rochester and the spirited young Jane Eyre, the film also boasts an extraordinary ensemble that includes Joan Plowright, John Wood, Elle Macpherson, Amanda Root, Geraldine Chaplin, Billie Whitelaw, Fiona Shaw, Sam West and Maria Schneider.

Jane Eyre is a bold and intensely psychological story that is a departure from the polite fiction penned by most popular nineteenth century authors. Never one to study the social rituals of the drawing room or the issues of sense and sensibility. Charlotte Bronte is more interested in the hearts and minds of her characters — their passions, their fears, and their deepest desires. Largely based on incidents from her own life - a harrowing experience attending a school much like Lowood where both of her sister died, working as a governess, and a disappointing liaison with a mar-ried man — Bronte is well acquainted with the outcasts and outsiders about whom she writes. Her greatest theme is the search

Though created nearly 150 years ago, the character of Jane Eyre remains one of the most innovative, independent, and inspiring heroines in literary history. Orphaned early in childhood and forsaken by her well-to-do relatives, young Jane (Paquin) is sent to a grim girls orbhanage where. bereft of kindness, encouragement and love, she somehow manages to survive. Once grown, Jane (Gainsbourg) is a young woman of intelligence and education at a time when wealth and beauty were considered the only useful female qualities. Accepting a position as background. Strong and spirited, wise and warmhearted. Jane is more than equal to any of the challenges she faces. She commands and receives equal treatment from Rochester himself, and , when an unexpected romance

, when an unexpected romance between them blooms, it is Jane who has the upper hand, it is Jane who is free to make choices, and, ultimately, it is Jane who saves her own 'master.'

Jane Eyre is largely based on incidents from Charlotte Bronte's own life. She attended a foreboding school much like Lowood, where two of her sisters died, and also worked as a governess, and had a disappointing liaison with a married man.

Jane Eyre, Bronte's most acclaimed creation, is a character in English literature who has attained mythic proportions. A modern version of Cinderella, she wins her Prince Charming by steadfastly asserting her independence in a time when women especially poor women - were expected to be docile and subservient. Fascinated by Jane Eyre's strong and complex personality, as well as her amazing resiliency. Franco Zeffirelli sees her as an utterly contemporary heroine who was always ahead of her time. The character of Jane is extremely modern and full of texture." Zeffirelli explains. "She is also monumental in the history of women. She may not be the first feminist, but she is one of the first literary heroines to demand equality. Jane was a great revelation when the book was first published and I think she will be a great revelation to audiences today.

Zefstrelli became interested in Jane Eyre when he was a young boy in Florence. A British woman who taught English gave him Bronte's classic novel, which has not been out of print since it was first published in 1847. I was ten when Miss Mary O'Neal introduced me to the wonders of English Literature. That's how I discovered Shakespeare. Zefsirelli recalls. 'She was particularly in love with Jane Eyre, and, later on in my career when I began to think of those books of my youth, I remembered Jane Eyre as one of the greatest novels ever written. We all have projects we want to make that stay with us throughout our careers. Suddenly, two years ago, I found other people who were interested in the book and began to talk practically about making the

By RANDY COBLE

Shutout pitching and smoking bats have taken Northville High School's varsity baseball team to the head of the pack and that's where the Mustangs say they plan to stay as they take the field for the final games of the season this

Three decisive wins, one of them a key divisional matchup, have put Northville into a tie for first place in its division. Despite two losses sandwiched in between the victories. Mustang hurlers and hitters are looking solid as the chance for a championship approaches. according to Coach Mickey New-

"I think we've got an excellent chance of taking it all." Newman said Tuesday as his squad geared up for a double header against Livonia Churchill.

The trio of "Ws" gave the Mustangs a 5-2 record in divisional play and a 9-6 mark overall. Newman said the team will be pushing for a strong wrap up in its four remaining games, which included a May 15 contest with Livonia Stevenson and a season-ending tangle with Livonia Franklin set for tomorrow (May 17).

Once the final clashes are over. the matchups for divisional championship play - set for May 22 will be announced.

However it shakes out there's no doubt that the Mustangs have posted some impressive numbers all over the stat sheet, both lately and over the entire season. Most recent case in point: the Mustang's massacre of Plymouth-Canton on Monday afternoon.

The rain-marked game was called in the fifth under the mercy rule as the Mustangs stood 10.0 over the Chiefs. On both sides of the ball. Northville showed some Another Mustang pitched a complete game last week, his first at the high school level.

"We're all real proud of him for that." Newman said of hurler Tim Smojver who, despite a valiant effort, picked up an "L" when Northville lost to Farmington 4.0 on May 8.

The squad's second loss came two days before, on May 6, when the Farmington Harrison Hawks knocked them off by a score of 8-2. Mustangs Forney and Chris Schiftar displayed powerful performances nonetheless. Forney went three-for-four on the day and Schistar recorded a two-for-four performance, including a double and a triple.

The Walled Lake Western Warriors fell to the Stangs on May 3, courtesy of another Willerer complete game and a two-run dinger from Schiftar. Willerer fanned seven batters in the 4-2 win.

If you'd squinted your eyes at the scoreboard when Northville played Plymouth Salem two days before, however, you might have wondered what sport you were watching. The Mustangs picked up the win over the Rocks by the football-like score of 17-16.

They missed the extra point. Newman loked of the Salem squad. The high score meant lots of

A little cooperation from the weather and the Northville High School boys track team was off and running in its match against Livonia Franklin on Monday.

The contest - which was rescheduled from last Thursday when a downpour put a definite damper on things - ended in a Mustang triumph, 79-58.

The victory vaulted the track and field squad to 4-2 on the year overall. The team is 2-2 in the Western Division of the WLAA conference. Several players contributed to the win. In the 100 meter dash, it was Eric Moore leading the way. He finished first with a time of 11.2 seconds. Right behind him was Mustang Jim Clemens, who crossed the finish line in 11.3. Gino Peters got into the scoring column for Northville High by placing third in the 110 meter dash.

it took a total team effort for the Northville girls track team to get its first victory of the season.

Northville won 66 to 60 in a meet May 13 against Livonia Franklin.

Winning without a number of their top varsity players was a real challenge for the Mustangs. Monday's meet was a make up from the rain out last Thursday.

We did it with a somewhat reduced squad due to the last minute rescheduling of the meet. Coach Chris Cronin said.

Notable performers were Jaclyn Black, who came in third place in the discus with 76 feet 4 inches.

That is significant because it is the first time we have scored this year in the throwing events. Cronin said.

Team members are golden gals of alleys

Some of the faces have changed, but for the past 50 years there has been an Ely Fuel Company ladies' bowling team in Northville.

And while some of the girls are past social security age, it didn't stop them from taking second place in Novi Bowl's Thursday night league this season. Betty Feole, an original team member, says they won't stop coming to the alley until they take first place for Clancy Ely.

We can't quit until we get him a trophy," she said. "He's been waiting all these years.

Clancy's grandfather. "Pop" as the ladies called him, began sponsoring the team when Harry Truman was in the White House. Presidents, governors and local politicians have come and gone since 1946, but the Ely commitment to the team has remained the same.

Clancy Ely grew up watching the ladies roll frame after frame.

"It's a tradition," he said. Julia Stackhouse and Marilyn McClumphia started the team. They first sought sponsorship from Our Lady of Victory here in town.

Stackhouse said they got the cold shoulder from the priest at that time, Father Woods.

"He almost slammed the door in our faces," Julia joked. "He had other things to spend money on."

McClumphia just happened to work in the office at Ely's. When the church declined sponsorship, she approached Pop.

That's how the long association

Pop Ely was the greatest," said Feole, who was recruited from OLV to the team. Since that humble beginning, the company has paid the team's league entry fee and for bowling shirts.

"A small fortune," Clancy wisecracked.

The team, which originally consisted of Stackhouse, McClumphia,

Ione Kreger, Feole and Alice Ritchie, has been competitive over the years. Team Ely has won two championships and taken second and third numerous times.

Feole said the main emphasis has always been on fun. But that doesn't mean the girls don't want to win.

"Once we hit the bowling alley," she added, "we'll kill them all."

That's just about what they did to a group of college boys back in

A squad of University of Michigan football players made the mistake of taking the women on in matches of three games. The Wolverines managed to take slim victories in the first two games, but the Northville ladies won No. 3. Total pin count for the match was U of M 2,271, Ely's 2,183.

"We intimidated them." said

Besides bowling, team members have remained close by hanging out together over the years.

They've taken trips to downtown Detroit and stayed one night at the old Book Cadillac Hotel. Then there's the "Birthday Club."

Team members get together about once a month to celebrate birthdays.

Generally, the ladies each bring a dish for an old fashioned potluck dinner.

"It's fun;" Feole said. "We have a good time."

But there's always bowling. The league starts in September and runs through the end of April.

The girls bowled most of their 50 years in downtown Northville. A small seven-lane alley was located at the current site of the MainCentre building.

For the past six years, the team has competed at Novi Bowl. The season is fun, but can be long at

By the end of the season," said Feole, "we're ready to quit. But by September we're eager to start

A well-known group of drugs called antihistamines is found in most over-the-counter allergy pills and more recently in non-prescription eye drops. These help relieve symptoms already present. If your family doctor approves, taking oral antihistamines alone may control itchy eyes. If not, adding over-thecounter antihistamine eye drops may help. Real estate brokers zoom into cyberspace

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

The real estate brokerage industry has launched its communications operations into cyberspace in a big way. And that's directly affecting the way brokers serve property buyers and sellers.

Many computer systems and programs are keyed specifically to the needs of brokers, helping them quickly find the best possible properties for buyers and expediting the transaction-closing process.

The smallest of those systems are operated by individual firms or local multiple listing services. The largest is the worldwide Internet.

On the national level, the key system is the Realtors Information Network (RIN), a subsidiary of the National Association of Realtors. This contains a huge database of available properties throughout the country, drawing in property descriptions from regional MLS operations.

Recently, RIN made on-line services available to individual Realtors nationwide.

"A fragmented patchwork of real estate information systems and home pages just won't work in the information age where geographic and time boundaries are blurred," said Art Godi, president of NAR. "What we need, and what we now

If you're Bill Minier, you do it all the time.

Minier owns Al Furnace and the 'snake' is part of his heating duct cleaning system

*Duct work is the lungs of a house," said Minier, "Every bit of air in your house goes through the duct work." To clean a 1.500-square-foot into the main trunk line. Small holes are drilled in the ducts where the air snake line will be

The snake goes into the duct and air coming from the back of the ball on the tip of the snake propels it all the way up the duct to the register cap. As the snake is pulled back down it pushes air backward, toward the vacuum This process is called air washing. As the duct is being air washed, dust and debris are dumped into the main line where it is vacuumed out of the system. The holes are then plugged with air tight caps. 'It is a must for people with allergies." he said.

When the ducts are being cleaned, the sound of debris can be heard as it travels through the ducts to the vacuum.

When Laval and Esther Malphrus of Milford decided to have their ducts cleaned, Laval was curious about how much debris had accumulated since the last time they had the ducts cleaned about 25 years ago.

Laval reached inside and found one to one and a half inches of lint in the cold air return. The Malphrus's home was

"We thought everything was dirty so we decided to have it done," Esther said. "I have noticed a difference, it is cleaner. and my husband thinks he can breathe a lot easier.

The colorful lilac makes a durable accent for the yard

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Lilacs herald spring all over the world as they have since the 16th century by blooming early and showing off fabulous fragfant flowers. Lilacs make attractive hedges and durable landscape features Plants do best in sunny locations where soil is fertile: they grow leggy and bloom sparsely in dense shade. They need an alkaline soil, thriving best where winters are cold. The lovely spring blossoms vary in color: lavender, white, pink and purple in single or double blooms. The leaves are heart-shape. Bushes grow from 3 to 4 feet, depending on the variety. Although lilacs are mostly problem-free, use the following guidelines for growing great plants.

Plant bare-root stock in early spring. Fall to spring is the best for planting balled and burlapped stock and containerized shrubs. Water new bushes each week through the season if no rain falls. Keep in mind established plants will tolerate some drought. Lilacs take two to three years to begin producing full-size flowers in their

Pruning is most important the first three of four years after planting. Deadhead faded flower heads before seed sets to improve the following year's blooms

Over several seasons. gradually prune out remaining old stems and the suckers at the base of the shrub. After blooming, do your pruning: pruning too late removes next year's buds as lilacs set their buds by the end of July.

Disease and pests seldom bother lilacs.

Q. The leaves of my English boxwood have turned a reddish-bronze color. I noticed the problem last year, and it seemed to get progressively worse as time went by. How about the newly developed leaves? Will they turn colors, too?

Corn King pottery ware set is popular design

By Anne McCollam Copley News Service

Q. This is a photo of my cream pitcher and salt and pepper shakers that were made by Shawnee Pottery. They are in perfect condition.

Please give me an evaluation of my set.

A. Your set is an example of the "Corn King" pattern. It was the 1945 creation of Shawnee designer, Robert Heckman, and quickly became popular with consumers.

In the mid-1950s, the tones of the glaze were changed and the line was re-introduced as "Queen Corn." The value of your set would probably be $50.

G. I have a porcelain vase that has been in the family for years. Its height is 8 inches and there are handles on each side.

Maintaining healthy boxwoods and rhododendrons ever, spring growth should emerge a healthy green. If not, there are two possible reasons:

It may be caused by poor drainage or drought. Bronzing caused by drought can be reversed by giving your boxwoods ample water throughout the growing season, especially in late fall. Poor drainage is more difficult to cope with, but I suggest mulching around the plants.

Another cause of bronzing is a disease caused by the Volutella fungus. The problem is more commonly seen in boxwood varieties that have a light growth. Thinning interior branches and removing infected stems will slow the progress of the disease. Or simply pull out the diseased boxwood and plant a nonresistant variety.

9: My favorite rhododendron bush was damaged three years

it. I cut off the broken limbs and it seemed to do better. However, it produces lots of new growth but no flower buds. How can I encourage my rhododendron to bloom once more?

A: Perhaps your plant hasn't flowered because of the abundance of new shoots that emerged as a result of your pruning. Research has shown that an increase in the number of leafy shoots results in the production of fewer flower buds. In late spring, selectively thin out the weakest shoots on each branch to encourage flower buds to develop on the strongest ones.

Once the rhododendron blooms. don't forget to deadhead the spent blooms. This is the key to keeping your plant blooming profusely because if it goes on to produce seed, the plant may end up becoming too exhausted to develop flowers for next season.

Prepare yourself for college with U.S. Savings Bonds.

Today, parents shell out over twice what tuition and fees cost in the early 80s. Those $300 typewriters have been replaced by $1,900 computers. So what will it cost when your children are ready? And what will replace the computer — a virtual reality college simulator?

Better start saving now for those future college costs with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're guaranteed safe, earn Treasury-based rates, are guaranteed to earn interest for 30 years, and you can get them through most banks or through employers offering the Payroll Savings Plan. And families and individuals who use Savings Bonds for college tuition may qualify for a special tax exclusion.*

South Lyon tanning salon gets new attitude

By Anne Seebaldt Gogolin Ed and Lee Ann Tolinski seized a unique opportunity when they purchased a tanning salon in South Lyon. They turned Ed's long-time interest in tanning into a familyrun business.

Lee Ann. who is a realtor for Coldwell Banker, said that they had been looking for business they could go into together. Lee Ann had just listed the business. Both Tolinskis said they believed the existing business could be just the right opportunity for them. It had excellent equipment already in

We knew we wanted to get something of our own." Lee Ann Said. It was the right time and the right location. A lot of it had to do with Ed's tanning hobby becoming an actual way to make a living. How often does somebody get a chance to make a living from something they enjoy?...But we are lucky enough to have the opportunity to do that."

They did. however, change a few things. Before they took over. Ed said. "It was more of a party atmosphere than a relaxing atmo-

He added that they both believed the tanning experience can and should be a relaxing experience, a type of "mini-vacation." So they disposed with the rock music.

Another change is that Lee Ann and Ed require that children under 18 have the signed permission of their parent of guardian before permitting them to tan at the facility. They are, however, honoring packages sold by Cal Bronze (the name under previous ownership). Ed's second cousin, Nicole Binder, offers her professional services as an on-site nail technician. 'She does an exceptional job." Ed said. "She's very precise about what she does with your nails."

Other services that the Tolinskis hope to offer in the near future include facials and massage to add a spa-type atmosphere to their business.

Lee Ann explained that tanning inside can be a means to reduce stress. In addition, tanning inside under controlled conditions can help travelers to prepare for vaca: tions in southern destinations and to lessen their chances of "frying" while on vacation. Ed said that their business also provides busy people with the chance to build up a tan in as little as 20 minutes twice per week. Tanning, if done properly, can be safe and sometimes is used as a means to treat skin problems. Lee Ann explained.

It can be a healthy thing to do in moderation," she said.

Lee Ann said that Ed is present

Estimating value of your estate

People fall into one of two clearly defined categories for estate tax planning purposes: those with estates valued up to $600,000, which are free of federal estate tax, and those with estates over $600,000, which are subject to taxes. For estates over $600,000, the applicable tax rates begin at 37 percent and may go as high as 55 percent.

Taxpayers should not automatically assume that their estate is too small to need estate planning. To avoid making this potentially costly mistake, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants recommends that you calculate the market value of your

MARKET VALUE

In determining the value of your property for estate tax purposes, you must consider the current fair market value of your assets. This means that whether it's your home, stocks, or an antique brooch, you must estimate the amount a willing buyer would pay for the item today - not what you

ESTIMATING THE VALUE

Here's what to consider when assessing your estate's net worth:

 Your home. Start by determining the market value of your home and other real estate. If you're not sure how much your house is worth, consult with a real estate broker or check the selling prices of similar homes in your neighborhood. If you own a vacation home, include its value in your estate as well. In either case, however, your estate is reduced by the amount of any mortgages.

Retirement account benefits. Next, consider the value of your retirement benefits, including pensions, and IRA and Keogh plans. For many families, retirement benefits are their second greatest asset after their home.

• Insurance policies. Add the value or death benefit of all life accidental death). Also, include those group insurance policies that you acquire as a fringe benefit through your employer.

• Investments. Next, add amounts in savings and checking accounts and money market funds. Then include the current market values of any stocks, bonds, or mutual funds you own. You also may need to include the amounts of any assets held in trust or custodial accounts for which you are the trustee or custodian.

• Business interests. If you own a business, or are a partner in one. the value of your share of the business must be included in your personal estate.

Personal property - The market value of any art, jewelry, antiques, cars, and other collectibles you own also are tallied and included in your estate. If you are unsure of their value, contact an appraiser.

· Future holdings. If you are certain you will be receiving a large inheritance or other assets in the near future, you may want to consider these when valuing your estate. However, it's wise not to include. purchases you plan to · Liabilities. Once you've calculated the asset side of your estate. the next step is to subtract your liabilities. These include your mortgage, other personal or business debts you owe, any charitable bequests made in your will, money allocated for funeral burial expenses, and the estimated costs of administering your estate. The resulting amount is the net value of your taxable estate.

Once you know the estate's net worth, consult a CPA with experience in estate planning to determine an appropriate estate planning strategy. Keep in mind that your estate can face taxes of up to 55 percent on amounts in excess of $600,000. To avoid such taxes, take action today to reduce your federal estate taxes and transfer more of your assets to your heirs.

To learn more about estate planning, send a stamped, selfaddressed envelope to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, P.O. Box 9054, Farmington Hills, MI 48333-9054 and request a copy of the brochure, Estate Planning: Protecting Your Family."

Save for retirement with U.S. Savings Bonds.

They'll mature before you do.

You're as young as you feel. And you're feeling "groovy." Which explains why you prefer Motown LPs over rap CDs. Why you prefer to call them "my comfortable jeans," not "my loose fit jeans." And why you still haven't started to save for retirement.

Exactly what are you waiting for? The first day of your retirement, when you find yourself with no more job and no more paychecks?

Give your retirement savings program a solid foundation by investing in U.S. Savings Bonds. They're backed by the full faith and credit of the United States and guaranteed to earn interest.* And they're easy to buy for just a few dollars each payday through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan. Or buy them at your bank.

Plus, the interest earned on U.S. Savings Bonds is exempt from state and local income taxes and can be deferred for federal income tax purposes for up to 30 years.

Ask your banker or your employer about including U.S. Savings Bonds in your retirement savings program. And who knows? Your bonds just might mature before you do.

* Currently issued Series EE Savings Bonds have a final maturity of 30 years

Just because something is old doesn't mean it isn't valuable.

I can relate to that. Maybe that's why I'm never in a rush with these old guys. Soon I'll have all the time in the world for them. And now that retirement is almost here, I'm grateful that I started planning early -- with U.S. Savings Bonds. I started buying Savings Bonds through a Payroll Savings Plan. They're guaranteed safe and earn interest up to 30 years.

> Ask your employer or banker about saving with U.S. Savings Bonds. For all the right reasons.

Our forest lands... manage them wisely and they'll go on forever, meeting our nation's needs.

Fortunately, trees are a renewable natural resource. Trees can be harvested, used for products we all demand, and re-grown. Foresters call this "Sustainable Forestry."

Like an investor who only uses the interest that he earns on his investment. The principal is never depleted. In Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, we only use 50 percent of the annual growth (or interest). In fact, we continue to add more to the wood base (principal) every year.

Managing our forests today... for tomorrow's value and enjoyment.

Maureen LaFontaine • LaFontaine Pontiac Cadillac GMC Highland (810) 887-4747

Just like anything else in life, a team effort is better than an individual one and the same holds true at LaFontaine Pontiac Cadillac GMC.

Maureen LaFontaine has used this approach at the LaFontaine dealership since purchasing it with her husband in 1984. "You are only as good as the people around you. To make us the best, we hand pick our employees. We want to ensure quality customer service."

This dealership is not like most others. From the road, several towering pillars give it a look of stability and distinction. On the inside, the dealership is as unique as the exterior. Walls are adorned with wallpaper and the showroom is carpeted and filled with a variety of antiques. Maureen says it makes the customer feel at home. "Whether a customer is shopping or getting their car serviced, we want them to feel at home. We go the extra mile to make sure the customer is satisfied." One of the ways they do this is having cookies and toys available for children.

Maureen believes that a dealership should go beyond just selling a car. "Buying the car is only one area of our dealership. We also service vehicles as well as offer a parts department open to the public. Taking care of the customer is our No. 1 concern," says Maureen. "We are very fair and honest with our customers and we've built our reputation from this."

Barb Cooper • Corner Paint and Decorating Center South Lyon (810) 486-4910

It's always been Barb Cooper's dream to have her own business.

Her dream, however, didn't seem anywhere in the near future until a twist of fate, or faith, made the dream a reality. In March, Barb and her husband, Tom, purchased the paint and decorating store at 390 S. Lafayette in South Lyon after wanting to own a business for years. The Coopers, of Northville, came upon the store when, on a whim, they decided to have breakfast in South Lyon one morning instead of their usual place in Northville.

While in South Lyon they stopped to see a friend who owned the paint and decorating business. As they were leaving, their friend mentioned she was interested in selling the business due to her daughter's illness.

A few months later, the Coopers became the owners.

Tom has a background in the construction industry and Barb has experience in retail and interior decorating so the business was a natural fit.

"We found this by accident, but I really don't feel it was an accident," Barb said. "I feel the Lord directed us here. We try to listen to what the Lord is saying and this is how the business came about."

Since acquiring the store, the Coopers have expanded the paint inventory and home interior and gift selections, as well as in-home services. They also extended hours to better service contractors and customers.

Debra Herr-Dempsey • Main Street Wine Shoppe Milford (810) 685-7191

Change is constant.

The Main Street Wine Shoppe is a fine example of this. Since 1987, when Debra Herr-Dempsey opened the store, change hasn't been a rule, it's been a guideline.

"We're constantly changing to meet the customers needs. That's where you get customer loyalty," says Herr-Dempsey. "We're continually finding other things the customer is interested in."

Such is the case now, as Herr-Dempsey is working on expanding the store. "We want to concentrate more on expanding our gourmet food and wine sections. We are changing our kitchen into a cigar humidor. We also want to move our coffee bar to the front of the store," Herr-Dempsey says.

The Main Street Wine Shoppe will continue producing gift baskets, which are more popular than ever. "For Secretaries Day, we were swamped with orders for gift baskets. We find this common for almost any holiday," she says.

Herr-Dempsey believes in a team approach. "Our store wouldn't run as smoothly without the employees I have. They understand the customer's needs and go out of their way to meet them."

The one constant at the Main Street Wine Shoppe is wine. "People should make wine a part of their everyday lifestyle rather than just for special occasions. I will help the customer find the wines that will fit their budget."

The "Women In The Know" story

Women In The Know has been a success story since it first rolled off the press at this time three years ago.

Now we're back at it again, offering another glimpse at some of the area's most successful-and powerful-women, from small business owners and attorneys to dentists and sales professionals. How did they get where they are today? What do they like about their chosen careers? And how do some of them manage to handle the delicate balance between career and family? The answers to these questions and many more are in the pages that follow.

This section is a culmination of efforts from many people and departments at HomeTown Newspapers, and we would not be doing our duty if we didn't mention some of them. A skilled crew of writers took on the challenge of writing more than 100 stories in just under a month's time. Contributing to Women In The Know are Special Writers Lisa Barton, Novi; Diane Iles, Brighton; Annette Jaworski, Wixom; Carol Watkins, Milford; and Jeanne VanWieren, Williamston. The HomeTown Staff Writers who helped out on the project are Katie Bach, Matt Bach. Lori Barnard, Brad Hundt, Aaron Korte and Linda Neff.

Accompanying the women's short stories are the award winning photographs of Staff Photographer Hal Gould. He has been producing beautiful photos for the Women In The Know section from the beginning, and each year he amazes us with his talent and dedication to the profession.

Many other departments play a role in the success of Women In The Know. They are ad sales, graphics, special sections, composition, printing and post-press operations.

HomeTown Newspapers would like to thank our advertisers the men and women— who have made this annual publication possible by recognizing the vital contributions of women in the work force.

We hope you save this section and read it at your leisure. You'll come to know some of the women behind area storefronts, businesses and industries who helped keep the area's economy growing strong. Despite their busy schedules, many of these women also spend much of their time volunteering in their communities. Whether it is a gift of time to the United Way, helping out with church youth groups or planning a community event — these women are there and ready to help.

We suspect there are some women who would like to be a part of the next "Women In The Know" section. If you're a "woman in the know," or if you're a business owner who would like to pay tribute to some of the women who make your company prosper, give your advertising representative a call to make arrangements to be part of the next one — May 1997.

Colleen Tiscornia, Alicia Albert and Elizabeth Boatman would like to help you plan your next business trip or vacation.

Colleen Tiscornia • Tiscornia Travel Service, Inc. Milford (810) 685-0055

Colleen Tiscornia's philosophy is simple and straightforward: support local business. Apparently, plenty of folks in the Milford/Highland area agree, particularly when it comes time to plan an individual vacation or corporate trip.

Colleen is pleased to report a steady, measured growth in business for Tiscornia Travel Service, which she has operated for the last six years. Colleen also reports a steady, measured growth for her daughter, Abigail, who is also six years old. Tiscornia Travel Services is located at 653 Highland in Milford.

"We focus our efforts on designing trips that will run smoothly and are hassle-free," Tiscornia said.

"From airline, hotel and care rental reservations, to cruises, specialized trips, chartered buses, individualized travel and travel insurance, we have the expertise and capability of getting the latest information and best rates for our clients," she added.

While being very thrilled to operate her own business, Tiscornia prides herself on also being very active with several area organizations. She will soon be President of the Milford Rotary Club (effective July 1), is a member of the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce, participates in Milford Memories and is active with the Milford Downtown Development Authority.

Pat Guy • Pat Guy & Company South Lyon (810) 486-1110

In the pink Victorian charm of the Cabbage Rose shop at 31- N. Lafayette in South Lyon, the Pat Guy & Company interior design firm is using 21st century technology to put the art of interior design on-line. Pat Guy & Company is a full-service interior design firm specializing in custom window treatments, flooring, and designer wall coverings and fabrics. Eight designers, all with degrees and a wide range of experience, offer expert, friendly assistance in the selection of home furnishings and accessories.

The showroom has been recently remodeled and expanded, to provide a comfortable atmosphere for clients. The studio is well supplied with samples, but an exciting new sampling program takes the shopping process to a whole new technical level. Pat Guy & Company now has the complete Waverly/Schumacher wallpaper and fabric line on CD-ROM. Clients can view the complete line, but can also save time by doing a search for the colors and styles they particularly like. Then, the program gives browsers the option of putting the wallpaper or fabric selection in a room rendering. Penny Anne Edwards, left, and sister Catherine Edwards provide a friendly, comfortable atmosphere at Pebble Creek Golf Club.

Penny Anne Edwards • Pebble Creek Golf Club South Lyon (810) 437-5411

As part owner and manager of l'ebble Creek Golf Club, at 24095 Currie Road, South Lyon, Penny Anne Edwards does many of the same things she did when she owned her own accounting firm, but now she has a much better view.

Pebble Creek is a beautifully landscaped 18-hole golf course with a warm, friendly atmosphere. Leagues and golf outings are a specialty. Banquet facilities can accommodate up to 160 and the club's tavern is in the process of being converted into a sports bar.

What's special about Pebble Creek? "Our Customers," replies Penny Anne without hesitation. "We have a nice variety of people and we pride ourselves the most on the comfortable, friendly atmosphere. It's kind of like a 'Cheers' environment. We really go the distance working for our customers."

Pebble Creek is family-owned. As manager, Penny Anne handles the budgeting and oversees customer service. Her brother is the talented landscaper who created the beautiful setting. "All of us work very well together." said Penny Anne. An expansion is currently in the works to serve the Pebble Creek customers even better.

Hours are 6:30 a.m. to 10.00 p.m. "Or until the customers feel like going home," said Penny Anne good naturedly. "Frequently that's until 2:30 in the morning." If you like the idea of golfing, dining and relaxing where everybody knows your name, join the family at Pebble Creek.

Pamela Armon • Brookwood Farms South Lyon (810)437-9959

Located at 132 Aspen Way in South Lyon, the Brookwood Farms leasing community blends the ease and attractive qualities of a rental complex with the warmth, attractive setting and stability of small town life. Property Manager/Leasing Agent Pamela Armon says that makes her job enjoyable. "I'd hate to have to go back to work," she jokes when explaining how pleasant her job is. "I come to the office and just enjoy this job thoroughly."

Brookwood Farms combines apartments and single family homes. That mix attracts all kinds of families and individuals, from young couples just starting out to families with children and retired couples. The grounds are maintained by the complex, so lawns and landscaping are always attractive and well cared for. The buildings feature natural materials, like brick, stone, siding and cedar shakes to blend gracefully with the setting. "When you drive by," explains Armon, "it doesn't look like a typical apartment complex, it looks like a pleasant subdivision. All of the apartments offer private entrances and are available with one, two, or three bedrooms. The single family homes are offered in approximately 1100 square feet to 1600 square feet.

As pleasant as Brookwood Farms is now, ground breaking will take place soon for the clubhouse, which will include an indoor and outdoor pool, library and fitness center. On completion, the community will include 265 units with 19 single family homes.

I want to find them exactly the right place."

Patty Gronow • Kensington Motors Brighton (810) 437-4163

Sometimes women can be a little intimidated by the prospect of searching for a quality used car. Coowner Patty Gronow and her husband/partner Steve encourage them to come to Kensington Motors. With a strong emphasis on customer service and a national reputation for quality, Kensington Motors will provide the extra care and information to help each customer make a good selection.

Located at 7428 Kensington Road in Brighton, the business encompasses an automotive recycling facility and body shop as well as very high quality used cars ranging from approximately 1994 models to 1997 vehicles. Kensington Motors moved to this complex five years ago, with a state-of-the-art facility designed by Steve. It is recognized as one of the finest in the country.

Patty and Steve began Kensington Motors at their country home 20 years ago and have grown to a 48-employee business through hard work and a common sense approach. "We are strong believers in balancing work with home and personal life," says Patty.

Twenty years ago, Patty was a nurse with most of her education in health care. "I wanted to help with the business," she explained, "and so I learned about accounting and working with employees as the company grew. If people don't close their minds to the fact that they don't have to have specific training to do something they want to do, they can achieve it just from hands-on experience."

Kensington Motors stresses customer service in every facet of the business. "We maintain a high customer service level," said Patty. "It's one of the reasons for our success."

Becki Kroll • Kroll Secretariai (810)486-1803

For Becki Kroll, owning her own, home-based business was initiated after the birth of her son in August 1994. With 10 years of experience in office work and an associates degree with a business emphasis, she thought she'd be very capable of doing good work for clients. What she didn't know was how wide ranging her services would be and how much she would enjoy her home office.

"I'm a much happier person and that helps me do quality work," said Kroll. Projects for clients have included such far-ranging tasks as preparation of bulk mailings, design and production of business cards and brochures, research, phone follow-ups, government contract work and more. Turn-around on projects can be amazingly fast. "When you have this type of business, you become more aware of how positive working with a home-based individual can be."

A definite benefit for clients is Kroll Secretarial's office equipment inventory, including a Pentium computer, color laser printer, fax machine, etc. Software includes Excell, WORD, ACT, Power Point and much more. Kroll is a member of the South Lyon Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan Business and Professionals Association.

Her rates are negotiable and she tries to be very flexible in meeting clients' budget needs. Office hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, although she can be available at almost any time convenient for the client.

Anne Quinn-Walling • Orphan Annie's Novi (810) 349-8890

Anne Quinn-Walling, owner of Orphan Annie's isn't really an orphan. Just ask one of the many customers of her donut shop, who knows that the business is loaded with relatives that work for her.

"I have my 80-year-old grandma and grandpa and my aunt working for me," she said.

Quinn-Walling appreciates her family's and employees' help, adding that Fred Stram is her current "Employee of the Month." "He's the guy that opens up every morning at 5 a m. so I can sleep in," she said. Quinn-Walling decided to name her Novi donut shop Orphan Annie's because when she was little her sister used to joke about her being adopted. But there's more to the shop than donuts and her popular cinnamon rolls. "People really don't know that I carry a full line of bagels, gourmet coffee and sandwiches." Two favorites are raisin bagels and vanilla nut coffee.

Quinn-Walling is a hometown girl, having grown up in Novi, she attended Novi schools. After graduating from high school she enrolled into Madonna University. During that time she worked at the donut shop in the morning and attended class in the afternoon. When she graduated from Madonna, she was certified to teach kindergarten through eighth grades, but she still felt drawn to the donut shop.

"I found out that I just couldn't leave this place," she said. Four years ago, she and her husband, Michael Walling, bought the shop.

Quinn-Walling is active in the Chamber of Commerce, and participates in many other activities throughout the community. She takes care that her extra products never go uneaten. Extra goodies are donated to soup kitchens or to local senior centers.

Diane O'Neill • BABY BABY Northville (810) 347-2229 or (810) 348-7398

There's a new place on Main Street, but nonetheless familiar to many downtown shoppers. BABY BABY, a children's/maternity clothing and equipment consignment store, has relocated to 153 East Main. This is the third move for Diane O'Neill, owner and longtime Northville resident, since starting the business six years ago. The new location is 3,700 square feet, which is three times larger than her former location. "I was pretty surprised that we filled the space up so soon," commented O'Neill. "We simply didn't have enough room at our old location, but now we're able to carry more clothing and larger items such as cribs and Little Tykes toys."

The new location and larger space was prompted by increased consumer demand for quality clothing and equipment. "Moms and grandmas are very happy to discover that they can buy name brands such as Gymboree and GAP at one-third the original price," notes O'Neill. The trend also reflects a large increase in the number of consignors, who are able to recoup money spent on expensive clothes and equipment by reselling them.

Along with these trends, BABY BABY has grown to become a well-recognized part of the downtown district. O'Neill believes that the store fills an important niche. "It's the only children's clothing store, and we've helped attract families from all over the metro area." The store has over 1,500 active consignors, and O'Neill hopes to reach more with the increased visibility from the new location. "They save money by shopping here, and they make money by consigning here — it's a value either way."

Jane Swayze • Your Nesting Place Milford (810) 685-7314

From antique china to a new leather recliner by Flexsteel, to a long-forgotten, crackle-finished dresser, you will find these and more at Your Nesting, Place.

Jane Swayze opened Your Resting Place in October to fill a need in Milford. "I think there is a need in Milford for a store that presents different decorating ideas. Also, we're the only store in the area that carries Flexsteel furniture."

Your Nesting Place has a mixture of consignments, new furniture, and treasures galore. "We have a selective combination of consignment and recycled pieces. Our store style is the way it makes sense to decorate homes, blending some older, or restored or cherished pieces with new furniture. It makes for a beautiful room," says Swayze.

Another unique feature at Your Resting Place is the floral arrangments, at which Jane has been working for years. Handmade grapevine wreaths, on which many of the arrangements are placed, have found their way into many homes from Hartland to Grosse Pointe.

Your Nesting Place also offers classes in faux finishing. "Once a person catches on to some of the newer techniques for recycling an old attic item or giving a room a whole new look, their imagination takes off. We're able to help them with that by offering some basic painting and stencilling supplies," says Swayze. "We carry both elaborate designer stencils, and also those for the beginner level."

Your Nesting Place, at 546 N. Main Street, is open Tuesday through Friday 11-5 and on Saturday from 10-4 and by appointment only on Monday. Look for the flags on the front porch.

Diane Roest • Diane's Doll House South Lyon (810) 486-0450

"To the true doll collector, there are only two kinds of dolls — those we have, and those we want," says Diane Roest, owner of Diane's Doll House in South Lyon.

To Diane, a doll is more than a toy, it's an art form.

"I love dolls because they're a piece of art," she said. "People don't realize when looking at a doll that someone at some point had to sculpt this little face. The realism of the dolls is unreal."

Since she was a little girl, Diane collected dolls. She still has every doll she's ever owned since she was three-years-old.

Today, through her store, Diane caters to doll collectors and lovers of all ages and all sizes of pocket-books. Her store has dolls ranging from $4 to $4,000, for a handmade German doll, with human hair and glass blown eyes.

In addition to having a large selection and variety of dolls, like Ginny and Madame Alexander, Diane offers a full-line of doll accessories, including clothes and shoes. But she also sells gift items, Camille Beckmen lotions, Muffy Bears, American Girl Clothes, music boxes, animal coat hangers, wooden and paper dolls, children's books, children's games, puppets and many other items.

"People are surprised when they come in," she said. "They say, 'Oh, I thought you just carry dolls.' I'm definitely a doll store, but I have gift ideas too."

Maryann's staff has expanded over the years to meet customer demand. The salon opened in 1981 with just three people, and the staff is now up to 14. #### Linda Dettore • Linda's Hair and More Novi (810) 349-0730

Are you tired of salons that charge you an arm and a leg to do your hair? Linda Dettore of Linda's Hair and More in Novi thinks beauty should be affordable. So when she opened the salon with the pink awning on Grand River, she wanted to focus on affordable prices and a comfortable atmosphere. Dettore sees her shop as a neighborhood salon where people frequently run into friends and chat over coffee.

"We do everything; color, highlighting, perms, tinting, men's hair, children's hair, electrology, nails and facials, waxing, cutting and styling," she said. Last but not least, they feature the ultimate indulgence, a pedicure.

Bridgett O'Brien-Watt • O'Brien Chapel Novi (810) 348-1800

Bridgett O'Brien-Watt knows it takes a special person to work in a funeral home. She admits it's not an easy role. And although she's not a funeral director, she plays an important role at the O'Brien Chapel in Novi.

"Someone once wrote that this is not a profession, it's a vocation," she said. "Knowing you're helping people through one of the toughest parts of their lives" is what keeps her going.

Her father began working at what was the Sullivan Chapel 47 years ago, so she's spent a lifetime in and around the business. She points out that sometimes people think that the people working in funeral homes are not affected by death, but not so. She knows the grief of losing a loved one from firsthand experience. Ten years ago she and her husband Michael buried their stillborn baby. Bridgett has since found a special role in the business, helping others who experience the same tragedy. Although she is not a grief counselor, she is able to relate to those feelings which is invaluable to people in crisis.

"If it's a baby, usually they refer the couple to me. I try to talk to them, let them know my husband and I have experienced the same...I try to offer my support and tell them it's going to be okay," O'Brien-Watt said. "I have people that we've become friends with. It's like your own support group. When we went through the loss of our baby, you need to hear that 'you'll get through it, and it won't always hurt this much.'"

Bridgett has spent 18 years at the chapel in a support staff role and is also a busy mother of three.

Judy Lester • Consignment Time Pinckney (313)878-3852 or 1-800-868-9335

Judy Lester is a lady who likes a challenge. That's good news for Lester's students and customers. Lester owned a successful consignment shop in South Lyon for many years, but about three years ago, she decided she needed a change. "I wanted something with new challenges and opportunities," said Lester.

She attended the Midwest Beauty School in Brighton, where she prepared to become a licensed cosmetologist. "following in my mother's and grandmother's footsteps," she added. She became an instructor at the Brighton cosmetology school, as well as a stylist at the Budget Hair Salon in Brighton.

While this would be enough to keep most folks busy, Lester got the urge to start a new consignment business, one on a smaller scale than her South Lyon store had been, where she could emphasize personal service to the customer. She found the perfect location in downtown Pinckney. "a fantastic small community," she said. "We've met some great people."

At the store, Consignment Time, located at 113 E. Main in Pinckney, shoppers can find women's children's and men's clothing, small household items and crafts, all 'gently used' and in excellent condition. Items are held for 60 days and, if the they haven't sold at the end of the period, can either be reclaimed by the consignor or go to a charitable organization. Shoppers can take advantage of Consignment Time's layaway policy to purchase items.

Hours are Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday 10 to 5, and Thursday and Friday 10 to 7. Consignment Time is open Sundays noon to 5, May through August.

Nikki Noroyan worked in other sales fields prior to joining the Varsity team. A figure skater and roller blader, she enjoys conquering a field where women have not had a strong presence in the past.

Erica Prince worked in auto sales at other dealerships, loves working with and meeting new people, and explained that the job is matching the customer (and their needs) with the proper vehicle; consulting, rather than selling.

When customers visit the dealership, they can expect a high level of customer service. Each woman is highly trained, certified in product knowledge and versed in company standards and gladly shares this knowledge with the customer.

Lisa Vanderhoof • Allstate Insurance South Lyon (810) 486-2800

Lisa Vanderhoof's career in insurance started with a job application at... Sears.

Fresh with a marketing and business degree from Michigan State University, Vanderhoof applied for a retail or marketing job at the newly-opened Sears at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. A representative from an Allstate agency that had a booth at Sears thumbed through the applications for possible recruits and gave Vanderhoof a call.

That was 18 years ago. Now Vanderhoof owns and operates her own Allstate agency in South Lyon. She said she enjoys the flexibility that comes with owning the firm.

"Everything is what I make of it," Vanderhoof said. "I like the idea of making the decisions about what happens here."

One of the primary elements of selling an insurance policy to someone is keeping them educated and informed, Vanderhoof said. In that respect, customer service is of prime importance to Vanderhoof.

"I've had people say that customer service is worth the extra dollars because I feel safe," Vanderhoof said.

Along with owning the Allstate Insurance Agency, Vanderhoof is also on the board of directors of the South Lyon Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Kathy Duncan • Duncan Soft Touch Chiropractic Novi (810) 348-2000

Several years back, Kathy Duncan was a registered nurse suffering from migraines. Chiropractic treatments both cured her and inspired her in 1983 to go to Life Chiropractic College in Atlanta, Georgia and earn the designation "Doctor of Chiropractic."

"I practice a soft, gentle, non-invasive pressure point treatment for all types of pain or discomfort in the back, neck, head or legs called Bio-Energetic Synchronization Technique," said Dr. Duncan.

"With the spine as the focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure along the spine. With the muscles relaxed, the spine can readjust itself naturally. Tight muscles, caused by stress, tension, strain or trauma, can pull the spine out of alignment and cause pain," she added.

Dr. Duncan opened her first practice, Duncan Soft Touch Chiropractic, in Novi in 1990 because she felt Novi was a very friendly community. Located at 23895 Novi Rd., the office is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 2:30 to 6:30 p.m. The office is also open on Saturdays by appointment only.

In the community, Kathy is active as president of the Novi Oaks Chapter of American Business Women's Association and sings in the Livonia Community Chorus.

Brigid Lynch • Mary Lynch Howell Lynch & Sons Funeral Directors Milford (810) 684-6645

Brigid G. Lynch and Mary Lynch Howell are very close — professionally and personally. The two women are sisters and both work for the family business, Lynch & Sons Funeral Directors.

Brigid is the director of Pre-Need and Aftercare Services and Mary handles the financial end of things as the Bookkeeper. Although they have many differences, they both share the work and benefits of a strong sense of family.

The sisters share a lot of affection and laughter, but they're not afraid to speak their minds or to disagree.

It may seem that dealing with people at the most difficult time of their lives would require a great deal of strength. Brigid and Mary were raised in a family that nurtures that strength.

They were also raised by parents who believed in a strong work ethic. They speak of love and admiration for their parents, who passed away not long ago. The experience of losing them has helped to bring a new sensitivity and awareness to their careers that comes with knowing such a difficult experience firsthand. It is this sense of compassion and love for each other that makes these sisters so special.

Brigid Lynch and Mary Lynch Howell help run the family business.

Right from the outset of her career in real estate, Beverly Gilbert has had a unique philosophy: "I approach real estate from a different point of view — YOURS!"

Those who know Beverly know this is much more than catchy advertising. "I always try to put myself in my client's shoes," says Beverly. "I treat them the same way I would want to be treated myself, thoroughly, with patience and understanding."

An associate agent with Rymal Symes, Novi, Beverly has found that her philosophy has spelled success for herself and her clients. As Beverly says, "A majority of my new business comes from recommendations of satisfied clients. I can't think of a nicer compliment."

Mary Mansour • Read It Again Books Novi (810) 474-6066

The emphasis is on service at Read It Again Books. This is not surprising when you know that the owner, Mary Mansour, a "down-sized" manager from Michigan National Bank, has always enjoyed working with people. An avid reader herself, Mary says that opening her own book store has been the "opportunity of a lifetime." She opened the store in November of 1995, and has enjoyed the reception that she and the store have received in the area. She loves the contact with customers and fellow store owners.

Read It Again Books, at 39733 Grand River, just west of Haggerty Road in the Pheasant Run Plaza, offers a wide variety of new and used, fiction and nonfiction books. "The store also offers books for rent, a frequent reader program and used audio books!"

Mary welcomes used books for trade, and the prices on all books are reasonable with or without books to trade. A used paperback book is normally 40 percent off the original price, and 60 percent off if accompanied by a trade-in. Hard cover books are offered at least half off the original price, and half off again if accompanied by a trade-in of similar value.

Mary is happy to search for specially requested books, checking her sources weekly as well as keeping an eye out for new trades coming in. She will even pre-order new books for customers at a 20 percent savings. And if you enjoy having relaxing music on while you read, the store offers Sugo instrumental, new age and classical music, at a discount as well.

Dr. Diane Galper • Galper Eye Center Novi (810) 380-3900

Carlee doesn't need glasses yet, but she has been a full time member of the Galper Eye Center since she was 11 days old. She was born into the Galper family in December and was there to celebrate the center's one year anniversary in January.

Dr. Diane Galper, Carlee's proud mother, runs the Galper Eye Center with her husband, Bruce Meyers. In addition to personal service, the center offers a varied selection of optical products. Featured are specialty contacts in a variety of colors, as well as designer frames, many imported from Europe, that can't be found at most optical chains.

"Our specialty is personalized care through the entire process of eye exam and eyewear selection. You will always have a large selection of optical products to choose from and you will see the same doctor," says Dr. Galper. "Of course, outside eyeglass prescriptions are always welcome."

Another specialty of the Galper Eye Center is honest opinions. "Bruce can not only tell people which frames look good, but whether or not a specific frame will go with their prescription," she says. "Glasses are not only a necessity, but should be used as a fashion statement."

She chose 27800 Novi Road for the office location because she felt Novi was in need of a specialty optical shop. "Novi offers us a nice size community in which to work and build our customer base. We get the opportunity to get to know our patients and provide them with personalized attention. You won't find our kind of care at other optical businesses."

Anne Marie Bond • Karen Cirka Visions Salon

Novi (810) 344-9944

Anne Marie Bond and Karen Cirka cater to customers at Visions Salon.

Anne Marie Bond and Karen Cirka met 18 years ago and worked together at Hudson's as hairdressers. Eight years ago they combined their experience and started their own business — Visions Salon on Grand River in Novi. Their fame continued to grow and two years ago, they expanded the business and moved to their present location at 22002 Novi Road.

"The salon has experienced tremendous growth. We just added two new stations and find ourselves always busy," said Karen.

Visions Salon offers a full beauty experience: hair, nails, massage therapy, facials, make-up and electrology. Full day and half day combination treatments are available, with a light lunch on the full days.

Specialty certificates are available, and discounts are given for three or more services performed on the same day.

Seven different lines of professional products are used and are available for purchase. The atmosphere is relaxed and friendly...a good place to de-stress.

The business is very impressive, with 29 employees, including seven stylists, four nail technicians, five receptionists, two massage therapists, one facialist and one electrologist. Hours of operation are Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Mondays from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"We are always striving to go overboard to please the client," said Karen. "We go that extra mile with mints, coffee, unexpected services that are designed to deliver a complete service package to our customers."

The staff at Visions Salon are very well trained, each having at least four years of experience before starting to work at Visions. Everyone receives yearly training to maintain and update their skills and certification.

Visions Salon is unique since it was first in Novi to offer massage therapy. Another unusual experience is the Hydrotherapy Pedicure in which the chair vibrates as your feet relax in a whirlpool bath — makes you unwind just thinking about it.

Karen and Mary Anne both serve on the Novi Chamber of Commerce and sponsor the annual Women's Choice Award. In addition, they sponsor baseball teams, hair shows and do charity work for the community. Both women have three children each.

On May 11 the salon hosted its Two Year Anniversary celebration. From 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. the salon offered complimentary tours, food, raffle prizes and samples of products.

"We like working with the public," added Karen. "It brings us great satisfaction to make someone look nice, feel special and enjoy the experience."

Pam Burke • ERA Rymal Symes Novi (810) 349-4550

ERA Rymal Symes is one of the most technologically advanced companies in the State of Michigan, offering its real estate clients the most modern computer services available. The company has also won the "First in Customer Satisfaction" Award. These are just a couple of the reasons Pam Burke is proud to work there.

As a former corporate manager in a Fortune 100 company (in the computer industry), Pam finds the real estate business a wonderful change of pace. She loves working with people. It is her goal to provide stress-free transactions for her customers, whether buying or selling.

Pam has earned three designations in the real estate industry, the GRI (Graduate Realtors Institute), the CBR (Certified Buyer Representative) and the CRS (Certified Residential Specialist). Less than 3 percent of Realtors in the country hold the CRS designation.

In her home community, Pam is very active in all school activities, has been a past officer of the PTA, and sits on the Strategic Planning Committee for Northville Schools. She also supports, with the company, the fund-raising events for Muscular Dystrophy.

No stranger to awards, Pam has recently earned the Western, Wayne/Oakland Association of Realtors Golden Circle Award in Educational Achievement and the Presidents' Award.

Laura Helwig and Elaine Aittama • Milford Baking Co. Milford (810) 685-2200

Many mornings just before 5 a.m., Monday through Saturday, the sleep and sugar-deprived gather at 408 N. Main Street in Milford to get their fix. When the door of the Milford Baking Co. opens, owners Laura Helwig and Elaine Aittama are ready for them. The two women are proud of the hometown bakery they have owned and operated for six years. The shop itself, however has been a beloved fixture in Milford for almost 60 years.

The women have made many good friends along the way. When a fire swept through their shop four years ago, they were amazed and deeply touched by the support they received from their patrons. One person brought in a check for $10, another brought in old fashioned cookie cutters to replace antiques that were destroyed. These gestures, and their own love for the community, are what makes them dedicated to carrying on the tradition.

They extend that love into the fun and fanciful cookies that line their shelves for children to enjoy when mom or dad brings them in for a special treat. To many, the real treat is entering the bakery through the back to see the kitchen and baking process in action.

This is where Elaine and Laura, along with their creative employees, Scott the baker, Greg the donut maker, the Night Manager Heidi, Elsie, Retha, Sherri, Teddy and Nancy make their customers' sweet dreams come true.

Marcy Birch • Our Blessings Milford (810) 684-1594

One of the definitions of the word bless is "to make happy or successful." Marcy Birch, owner of Our Blessings, a consignment clothing shop at 328 Summit Street in Milford, knows the meaning of both. Her shop has doubled in size since she opened 4 years ago. "Everything just fell together," she says.

Marcy studied design and was always very creative. She says she also grew up shopping resale. "I' never believed in spending a lot of money on clothing."

From the beginning Marcy has been very particular about the items her shop would accept. That selectivity helped Our Blessings establish a good reputation.

Our Blessings carries designer clothes for women, men and children, including plus and petite sizes. They also carry jewelry, accessories, maternity wear, infant clothing and furniture, and toys.

Marcy relies on her employees. "They really make a big difference," she says. Her store has also made a difference to people in need. She donates clothing to various charities.

Marcy plans for Our Blessings to become even more selective and to continue to provide customers with beautiful and inexpensive additions to their wardrobes.

Renee and Marcy say you don't have to spend a fortune to be in fashion.

Marion Betts • Main Street Art Milford (810) 684-1004

Main Street Art is Milford's very own art gallery. Owner Marion Betts has been creating and show-casing local and national artwork in her shop at 432 N. Main Street for 14 years. She and Manager Susanne Gilbert do everything from corporate art to heirloom and memorabilia framing and preservation.

"Marion and I both like to do a lot of design work," Susanne says as she gestures to the work area in the back. It is filled with various works-in-progress.

They incorporate objects like clothing, sports memorabilia and wedding mementos into beautiful antique shadow boxes and colorfully matted frames.

Marion believes part of their continued success is the fact that she stays abreast of new methods to add to their repertoire. Through her travels around the States and Canada, she keeps up to date on new techniques and ideas. Environment-friendly methods like conservation framing and the use of acid-free materials are just two examples that this forward-thinking shop owner employs.

Marion believes this knowledge benefits her customers by making the work they do for them even more beautiful and longer lasting, as all memories should be.

Over the years the only thing that hasn't changed at Main Street Art is the old-fashioned service. This is a magical place, and each person who walks through the door can feel it.

Nancy Smith and Jan Lilly • Wind River Gallery Milford (810) 684-6044

Step into the Wind River Gallery and you notice a whole new look for Spring. The gallery has been remodeled to set off the arrival of new and exciting artwork.

"Most people know our store but there are still many who look at me and say, "Is this Wild River?" says Nancy Smith, Co-owner of Wind River. "I just smile and say, "No, it's Wind River, but we are a little wild here!"

Now they aren't really that wild, but while providing quality work and service they do like to have fun and enjoy working together. In the past year the gallery has grown and three new employees have been added. All women by the way!

Jan Lilly, who is in charge of framing, is assisted by Kathy Boonstra. Jan emphasizes that the quality and care that goes into their framing keeps their customers coming back. Ginnie McDowell, Debbie Benear and Krista Johnson all help Nancy in the gallery with sales.

Nancy and Jan are quick to stress that partnership and teamwork are what they're all about. The women don't like to use titles, they say everyone does a little of everything. "We all take out the garbage," laughs Nancy.

Everyone does have their own special talents, though, and have a wonderful chance to be creative, especially with helping customers choose framing or find a special piece of art for their home.

The gallery at 400 N. Main Street encompasses both the front and back sections of the first floor of the Village Center Mall. The women say a lot of people think they are two different stores because there is a wall between them. Although the wall divides them, they consider themselves, "separate but equal."

The artwork at Wind River is noted for its whimsy, fun and beauty. The team at this gallery believes in constantly bringing in new things so people can't possibly get bored, no matter how many times they come in.

Stop in - Tim (Nancy's husband and co-owner) may have his Harley parked in the gallery promoting the hot Barnhouse print "King of the Road."

Boring is definitely not the word that comes to mind when thinking of Wind River.

She runs the front desk, doing billing and record keeping, setting appointments and greeting patients, many of whom are like old friends to her. "We have some of the nicest people here in Milford," she says.

The people in Highland must be some of the nicest too, for that's where Sue calls home. She works full time, but she's also a self-admitted full time grandmother. "My grandchildren come first," she laughs.

Working with people is the best part of the job for Sue. She gets a great deal of satisfaction helping her patients as well as getting to know them. She also enjoys working for Dr. Arends. They hold each other in high esteem.

Every day holds one crisis or another for Sue, but to her being needed is what is most fulfilling. She can't imagine leaving. She would miss it so much. "We're one big happy family here," she says with a smile - then she's back to work.

Jackie, Char, Karen and Jane • Physician's Eye Care Milford (810) 684-7337

Physician's Eye Care, 320 W. Commerce Road, has an incredibly dedicated staff. "They are the heart and soul of this practice," their boss, Dr. Arends, says, "Sometimes it seems the patients come to see them rather than me."

Jackie is a front desk receptionist. She welcomes patients and takes care of insurance paperwork.

Char has been a Refraction Technician for almost 10 years at Physician's Eye Care. Karen is also an experienced technician. They take care of the patients before they see the doctor. They take the patient's history, do a vision refraction and check their eyeglass prescription.

Jane is the office optician. She does the eyeglass fitting and repair. She helps the patient select glasses that are the right color and shape for their face. She also makes sure the glasses are adequate to hold their prescription. Jane has more than 15 years experience as an optician.

The staff of talented women at Physician's Eye Care are more like partners to Dr. Arends. This group effort is proof that teamwork and dedication make all the difference. Just ask any one of their longtime patients — and friends.

Barbara McGrew • The Hibbard Tavern Milford (810) 685-1435

Barbara McGrew is a little wistful. She's leaving a business and lifestyle that she has absolutely loved and found successful as well. The Hibbard Tavern, Milford's only historic bed and breakfast, is for sale. The beloved and charming B & B has been so successful for Barbara, she has gotten involved in many offshoot business opportunities.

Barbara teaches classes in innkeeping at Oakland Community College and Schoolcraft College and does consulting work and inn-sitting at bed & breakfasts all over the country. It is because of her success with the Hibbard Tavern that she is able to pursue these other interests now. "This has been the most creative time of my life," she says about operating the inn. She has hosted holiday and theme parties and even weddings in the fire-lit front room and garden.

She says taking care of such a historic part of Milford's history has made her feel like a curator.

With the busy summer season approaching. Barbara feels this is the optimum time for new owners to take over the helm.

Deciding to put the Hibbard Tavern up for sale was difficult for Barbara. She only hopes that the new owner, whoever that might be, will find as much happiness in this memory-filled inn as she has.

Donna Phillips • Merle Norman A Cut Above Milford (810) 685-0810

Donna Phillips, owner of Merle Norman A Cut Above salon at 338 N. Main Street in Milford, knows what she's doing. As a Merle Norman salon owner, she has that company's high standards to maintain and extensive training to back her up. When Donna took over the salon one year ago, she went through an intense training course in California. Merle Norman trainers come to her now to keep her and her staff updated. "Every season they add new colors and products to the line," Donna says.

Donna also has great confidence in her staff. "Everybody is an asset," she says, "We work well together." Manager Lisa Hamilton has been doing hair for 11 years. Her new nail technician, Wendy, was trained by the company that has designed the latest, lightweight, non-yellowing product in acrylic nails - Volpe. A Cut Above is the only salon in Michigan that is using this exclusive Volpe product. This summer they will be offering a free gift with purchase, which is unique among the salons in this area.

In addition to nail artistry and hair design, A Cut Above offers complimentary skin care and makeup lessons, makeovers, paraffin facials and hand treatments. To really pamper a loved one or yourself, consider a gift certificate or their special service, a Day of Beauty, which is all about being pampered and includes a light lunch.

Donna believes that pampering and relaxation is what sets her salon "a cut above" the competition.

There's many a person out there who dreads going to work. Dawn Colston-Frink is not one of them. She thoroughly enjoys her career selling real estate for ERA Rymal Symes in Novi.

"It's fun getting paid for this; it's a fun job," she said.

Colston-Frink was ready to try something new once her two children, Shelby and Beth, became older. She decided it was a perfect time to try her hand at real estate, something she wanted to do for a long time. The transition was easy, she said. "I love working with people, I love homes and I love the hours." she said.

"ERA was wonderful," she said of the transition from home to work. "The staff is supportive, and there was great training, and a lot of teamwork. They shared a lot of ideas and made it easy to get started." she said.

She began by making a lot of cold calls. "The first thing you have to get by is being able to take rejection," she said.

Now that she's established, she works with many referrals and anticipates repeat customers.

"Right now I'm working with a lot of young people, and young married couples. That's why I think I'll have a lot of repeat business, when they're ready to move up, they'll give me a call."

When she's not on the job. Colston-Frink spends a lot of time at New Horizon Community Church as a Junior High Coordinator. She strongly believes in giving today's youth a Christian exposure.

Katherine Lawrence • Brighton Animal Hospital Brighton (810) 227-4351

Katherine Lawrence was an art major at Michigan State University when she came to the conclusion that she would be putting her financial future in serious jeopardy if she continued to place that same future in her artistic hands.

Knowing she was also extremely talented in the sciences and loved animals, she switched her major to veterinary medicine. Following graduation in 1974, she came straight to Brighton Animal Hospital, owned by Tom Anderson, D.V.M. He was her friend and her mentor, and later, he became her husband. Dr. Anderson had been the local veterinarian for 20 years. But four years after their marriage, he died and Katherine found herself in the unexpected position of being the owner of a business instead of an employee. While initially this was a challenge, she now enjoys the varied aspects of running the animal hospital. However, her first love is still the animals and the people who own them. Dr. Lawrence feels especially proud when she can find solutions to difficult-to-diagnose cases, and enjoys seeing animals and their owners that, over the years, have become good friends. She now has a partner, Dr. Steve Aubry, who takes some of the pressure off of her. However, in her own words, "Most days around here are a zoo."

She married last summer and became mom to three sons. Her husband, Ed Copp, also owns his own business, and she finds they often share the same types of problems. Dr. Lawrence and her family live in an older farm house and will soon begin the process of remodeling.

A Wish I ist registry also allows customers to list the items they would most enjoy as a special gift.

Both Sandi and Jennifer share a love of fabric and textiles, and have combined their experience in sewing, weaving, and handpainting in selecting their merchandise. In their spare time they enjoy doing fiber related crafts, going to the movies, reading, and playing a little golf. While the new store doesn't leave them with a lot of spare time, they have been having so much fun, in all aspects of the business, that they don't seem to mind. They especially appreciate all the help and support their families have given them over the past few months and have promised a home-cooked meal soon.

"Image is everything. And these days, when all businesses face fierce competition, you've got to sell your ideas to succeed." Sue Dillon knows what she's talking about. With a highly successful business of her own, Graphic Visions, located at 15115 Northville Road in Plymouth, Sue has become an expert at

"Graphic Visions is unique because we combine three aspects of visual communication: graphic design, print and signs." Sue notes that it is very unusual to get all these services at one company. Prior to using Graphic Visions, many of her clients felt that the only way to obtain a high impact corporate identity was to dig deep in their pockets and use an ad agency. But with Graphic Vision's staff of designers, copywriter, and sign craftsmen, clients find that they can have their corporate image needs taken care of by one company, saving them time and money.

Sue Dillon started her business in 1987 as a sign company. Graphic Visions later expanded its staff, software, and hardware to meet an exploding demand for logo design and print work. Sue feels that she has found the perfect combination: her love of graphic and sign design and marketing supported by a talented staff. Success, in any sense of the word, is something everyone hopes for, no one turns away from, and few people achieve. Looking the word 'success' up in the dictionary it would not be unexpected to find it defined in a few words. It would be even less surprising if the words that appeared were simply these: Gina Agosta.

Early in 1995 Gina Agosta relinquished her title as partner of a thriving business endeavor that spanned over two decades. Armed with 21 years experience in the art of hair coloring and the Midas Touch, Gina boldly embarked on a new vision. The result was a salon aptly named Gina Agosta Hair Color and Design. The new concept was grounded in an unconditional commitment to the ideal of teamwork. As a result, the new salon has been, once again, visited by success.

The success of her Novi salon, Gina finds, does not lie in her hands. This she proudly and modestly admits has truly been a cooperative effort. Gina finds an indebtedness to her staff—the people she affectionately calls her family. After only one year at her new location at 39831 Grand River in the Pheasant Run Plaza, Gina graciously accepts this latest accomplishment on behalf of her staff.

Based on a system of intricate departmentalization, Gina Agosta Hair Color and Design is an ensemble whose uniqueness lies not only in their departments but rather in the integration of those departments. The components of this effective system range from the cleaning personnel to the desk staff; from the management team to the color group; from stylists to manicurists; from estheticians to assistants.

A model of camaraderie and expertise, each in their specialized way works to insure every guest a complete beauty experience. For all these people Gina is most graciously full of thanks.

Gina, also, offers her sincere gratitude to all the people who have visited her salon in the past year. Without these people, she is happy to admit, her vision would be incomplete.

The formula for her success is a simple one: surround yourself with talented people, provide a warm, all-encompassing environment, appreciate everyone for who they are, and the rest will fall into place.

Gina Agosta is not only a woman in the know, she is also a woman versed in the practical application of that knowledge.

Oakland Township Comes of Age

riving under a spectacular canopy of trees along a meandering road, you might for a moment wonder if you've taken a detour into an enchanted setting. Yet, vistas of tranquillity are experienced with regularity by those who live in Oakland Township.

Discerning families are relocating to Oakland Township in increasing numbers, drawn by the unspoiled woodlands, rolling hills and close proximity to the many international corporations with headquarters in northern Oakland County. They are also discovering two classic neighborhoods which cater to the needs and tastes of today's sophisticated homebuyers - The Hills of Oakland and Kingspointe are truly "world-class" communities created by Moceri Development Corporation.

Brothers Dominic, Frank and Mario Moceri, partners in the company, have set the new standard for Oakland Township beyond expectation. "We simply saw the need of today's buyers for homes that compliment their families' sophisticated lifestyles," commented Frank Moceri. "The Hills of Oakland and Kingspointe were created to meet that need and the response has been overwhelming. We are now in our final phases for both neighborhoods."

At both, The Hills and Kingspointe, homebuyers receive far more for their investment when compared to Bloomfield Hills or Birmingham. Grand homesites provide the setting for magnificent custom homes that showcase Moceri Development Corporation's attention to detail. At The Hills, extraordinary homes offer 4,600 to 8,000 square feet. Walkout levels may expand square footage by as much as 2,700 square feet of additional living area. Priced from $625,000, these exquisite homes feature classical details, 3,500 to 5,500 square feet starting at $485,000. State-of-the-art technology provides residents the option of controlling their home's lighting, heating and security from any touch-tone phone. The new model center at Kingspointe, featuring three fresh new designs, has received international praise with local and national awards. Premium wooded and walkout sites are still available.

Oakland Township is a natural location for growth. Education is a key factor for today's homebuyer and children living in The Hills and Kingspointe attend Rochester schools, ranked top in the state. Nearby, historical downtown Rochester and the quaint Village of Goodison offer some of the area's best shopping with unique boutiques, antique shops and a wide variety of local merchants.

Oakland Township also offers a wealth of outdoor recreation. Residents are virtually surrounded by private and public golf courses in every direction, Bald Mountain lies to the west, Stony Creek Park east, Addison Oaks park to the north and Rochester park to the south.

Indeed, it's easy to see why discerning homebuyers are moving up to Oakland Township. And, with the fabulous homes offered in The Hills of Oakland ome buyers today are looking for three things: quality, value and service."

And for Bob Katzman, president of Abbey homes, Inc., that's exactly how his company earned it's reputation.

"In today's competitive home building industry, we are dealing with very intelligent buyers, and frankly, that gives us an advantage over our competition," explained Katzman. With his partner and cousin, Peter Burton, they have one of the most successful and respected companies in the area – Burton-Katzman Development Company of which Abbey homes is a residential division.

Our family began building in southeast Michigan in the early 1900s. Over the three generations that we have been in business, we have built well over 10,000 homes.

along with a significant portfolio of commercial, office, industrial and multi-family—developments. The reason this is important to our customers is that it shows that we have a strong financial foundation and experience in all aspects of real estate."

Today, Abbey homes is involved in over 50,000 acres of single family developments. "Building high quality homes with real value requires a team approach, an organization that can quickly respond to the homeowner's needs, desires and concerns," says Larry Goss, Executive Luxurious custom great room in Bloomfield Hills, by Abbey homes.

Vice President of Burton-Katzman. Two impressive communities are currently underway: Pine Creek Ridge in Brighton and The Woods in Oakland Township. "Pine Creek Ridge has become the most desirable place to build a home in the Brighton area. People love the incredible natural surroundings with two lakes, tall pines and ravines together with award winning schools and the exceptional quality of the homes in the development," says Goss. Pine Ridge was formerly a 700 acre Boy Scout camp and has maintained an exquisite "up north" quality that has proven to be extremely popular. "You can live 20 minutes from Novi and feel like you're on vacation when you get home," Goss says.

The other major development Abbey homes is now offering, The Woods, is located on Adams Road north of Silverbell Road in Oakland Township. "Many people are calling Oakland Township the next Bloomfield Hills," remarks Katzman. "The demand has been even better than we had anticipated. We're seeing a lot of executives moving into the area."

The Woods offers half-acre and larger homesites with homes in the mid $500,000 price range. But for those looking for just a homesite, The Woods may be one of the few opportunities in the area. Individuals can purchase sites and choose among several builders approved for construction in the development, or bring their own builder. "We maintain architectural control and our deed restrictions are designed to create a harmony of designs-no two homes can look the same-and the materials we allow are very specific. We protect the homeowner's investment this way." Abbey homes currently has a furnished model under construction at The Woods. "We believe that we can better demonstrate our commitment to quality and our ability to serve our clients in this manner," points out Bob Katzman. "Once a potential home buyer has the opportunity to learn about our organization, they see the value of our experience, capability and integrity. Our best advertising is our reputation. because buying or building a home is a decision you have to live with for a long, long time."

Three-season room by Patio Enclosure

LET THE SUN SHINE IN... To Your Own Sunroom

Florida rooms, solariums, and elaborate room additions, homeowners are always on the lookout for ways to bring the light and warmth of Mother Nature into their homes.

Fortunately, the "sunroom" options available today can not only meet any need, but can also live within the means of any pocketbook.

The whole point of creating a "sunroom" is to enjoy the outdoor benefits of a deck or porch without the invasion of bugs – or during months when being completely outdoors can get a bit chilly.

The solution for the first need, of course, is the mere addition of a roof and side screens to an existing deck or porch; the roof keeps off the rain, the screens keep out the bugs.

The inherent limit to such an application, is that the roof also shades the room from the sun itself. Another limitation to a simple screened porch or deck is the fact that it can only be used during the same months as the deck could by itself: about five or six months.

The logical step up, then, is to somehow introduce solar power into the equation. And that means creating a true sunroom that uses solar heat to extend the usable season well into early spring and late fall.

For this step, the solution will inevitably come from people like Gary Kade, Rick Hadad and Terry White – and the enclosure companies they represent.

"To create a three-season sunroom," said Hadad, a sales representative with the Warren-based Mr. Enclosure, "you're adding windows, instead of just screens.

"The idea is to trap the solar heat and extend the use of the room to nine or 10 months. "And because it's still a three-season application, you'd want to keep a door – a slider or maybe French doors – between the sunroom and the rest of the house," he said.

A four-season room, however, is a different creature and can come in degrees of usage – from an actual extension of the rest of the home or as a limited use extension.

The key, according to White, general manager of Patio Enclosures in Novi, "is how the homeowner is going to use the room."

"We can build anything," he said, but is the homeowner actually going to use this room all year 'round, or just sometimes during the winter.

"If it's really all year 'round – which might mean removing a connecting door – then you're probably talking about adding another heat source to the room for those really cold days when the sun isn't out.

All three men agree that the type of room installed is completely dependent upon how the homeowner plans to use it.

"Otherwise, even a well-insulated four-season room might still be used only on certain days," he said.

And for Kade, owner of Additions Unlimited in Clarkston, another key to making a four-season room really livable all year long is to install the right kind of glass to begin with.

"A sophisticated, all-glass solarium works when you pick the right glass for the right job," he said.

"For example, are you using single or double-pane glass and do you want to consider heat mirror glass that also acts to reflect the heat inside back into the room?

"Then you also need to answer some other questions, too," he said: "Is this room for growing (plants) or for a living area? Is it for passive heat exchange? Is it sitting on the west side (of the house) or the south?"

All three men agree that the type of room installed is completely dependent upon how the homeowner plans to use it.

From there, the remainder of the choices have to do with construction materials, styles and shapes and budget.

"The basic four-season room," Hadad said, "is a combination of an aluminum mainframe and thermal vinyl windows.

"In this way you combine strength with insulation value.

"What you need to look out for, however, is someone who says by adding storm windows to screens you can create a four-season room," he said. "That's misleading."

Looking at a four-season room from another angle, Kade said he often suggests a "cool roof" solarium – a Four-season vinyl sunroom by Mr. Enclosure

"The basic four-season room," Hadad said, "is a combination of an aluminum mainframe and thermal vinyl windows."

sophisticated form of construction in which the major glass wall curves at the roof and extends part way to the house, connecting with an insulated roof several feet from the top.

"This is a very effective way of allowing the sun to enter the room even when it's overhead, yet provide some solid insulation above," he said.

In the three-season application, Kade said his most popular installation is a "three-season plus" in which four squat single-pane windows are stacked on top of each other, but sitting in their own tracks.

The homeowner can then raise or lower any or all four windows on each wall in order to control heat and airflow within the room.

White said the ultimate choice of sunroom style is decided by "what the homeowner wants to get out of the room and how much he wants to spend."

"Roughly speaking, a four-season room can cost as much as 40 percent more than a three-season room — so it's critical to think through how you're going to use it.

"Once you've made that decision," he said, "the next critical question is the design and materials – the kind of glass, for example – that you want to use."

For homeowners agonizing over the choice, though, one thing is clear: The first decision should be to talk to an expert.  $\blacksquare$

Add A Little Awning...

Remember that great awning your parents – or even your grandparents – had over their front porch?

Maybe it was green canvas, flapping in the summer breeze. Or maybe it was aluminum with wrought iron rails, echoing raindrops on a stormy night.

Regardless of the style, awnings were almost required equipment on front porches otherwise open to the elements.

But not today.

No, the awnings are still the rage – but they've moved: from the front to the back of the house. And whereas the awnings of old were limited to two materials, to-day's awnings come in at least four materials, and in colors never even dreamed of a generation ago.

Finally, even the way in which the awnings are handled has changed – dramatically.

"I think one of the most innovative developments in porch awnings is the retractable type," said Mike Falahee, owner of American Roll Shutter & Awning Co. in Livonia.

"While they utilize 100 percent acrylic fabric, they can be retracted during bad weather and during the off season.

"In fact," he said, "you can even motorize the unit and install sensors that will automatically retract the awning when the wind increases to 55 mph."

The arrival of the retractable awning isn't the only development in porch and deck covering: the use of '90s aluminum products and advanced vinyl and acrylic fabrics has given homeowners of today options their predecessors never imagined.

"Yes, canvas is still available, but it's not the kind of canvas of several generations ago," said Bill Bellinger, owner of Marygrove Awning in Livonia. "Today's canvas comes painted on one side – but it's just not the seller it was 30 years ago.

"Instead, we've gone to washable vinyl and acrylic, which has the best properties from a sun-fading standpoint.

"The installation, though, is about the same: a galvanized steel pipe frame on which the fabric is lashed," he said.

The final option – aluminum – also has changed over the years, according to Mike Koonce, owner of Thrifty Aluminum Products in Farmington Hills.

"And that's reflected in the fact that we offer eight different types of aluminum awnings," he said, "with them now featuring built-in gutters.

"We also can offer 16 different colors in baked-on enamel – which just wasn't the case years ago.

"The bottom line is that today's aluminum products are far superior to anything on the market in the '60s," he said.

While all three men offer variations on a theme when it comes to awning types and materials, one thing they have in common is where the awnings are going on today's homes: the rear deck and patio.

"No question," Koonce said, "in the old days, awnings were on the front porch — and we still do a great deal of those.

"But the greatest growth has been in rear decks, porches and patios – with the average size having about a 12-foot projection and being 16 to 17 feet wide.

"Some of our business is with homeowners who have a front porch awning and now want the same thing in the back," he said.

The idea of projecting over an open deck or patio can present some interesting challenges for today's awning supplier. The span requires support, but homeowners often don't want the openness intruded upon by posts.

The solution for Bellinger is to install a channel frame that attaches to the rear of the house and then extends horizontally, much like the retractable awning on a travel trailer.

"Some people like the traditional pipe-type installation, though," he said. "Many people like to hang outdoor plants from the frame, so it's really not a problem.

"But if they want the open look, we can install our channel and leave the rest open.

"It's really a matter of preference," he said.

The solution for Falahee is nearly the same, but with a twist: Create a horizontal, spring-loaded collapsible framework that can be extended or retracted as the weather – and seasons – change.

"This is slowly becoming the awning of the future," he said. "And in the last 10 years it's really begun to grow in popularity.

"What makes it really unique is that not only can you retract it when the winds kick up, but you can also adjust the pitch to follow the sun as it rises in the morning and descends in the afternoon.

"And while they come standard with a hand crank,

QUALITY, VALUE AND DESIGN!

From selecting sites to service years after the sale. "Quality" is the cornerstone of Pulte Home Corporation. It was upon that philosophy that William J. Pulte built and sold his first home back in 1950. That event signaled the birth of what was to become the largest and most successful residential home building corporation in the United States. Bill Pulte knew then, and knows now, that the road to success depends on providing people with a quality home, at an affordable price.

LOCATION LOCATION

Before the first shovel is dug into the ground for a new community, a great deal of time and energy is spent on each future Pulte home. Pulte's goal is to offer the best neighborhoods, with the best schools, in the best communities possible.

AMERICA'S MASTER BUILDER

Pulte has earned the title of America's Master Builder for three very good reasons - Quality, Quality, and Quality. Every Pulte home is a complete home, without hidden charges or surprises. When it comes to quality design, construction, materials and workmanship, no one can match Pulte. Home buyers moving from one area to another know that Pulte's reputation for quality is well deserved. Pulte maintains an inventory of immediate occupancy homes to specifically serve the needs of relocating families.

When it comes to aluminum, though, the support posts are unavoidable – but for good reason: aluminum stays up year 'round, in all kinds of weather.

Nevertheless, Koonce said that today's support columns are nothing like the wrought iron treatments of yesterday.

"The posts today are much more decorative, come in all kinds of colors and can easily blend into the treatment," he said.

In the end, the selection of one material over another, one application over another is going to come down to three things: style, upkeep and cost.

In terms of style, the options are materials - canvas, vinyl, acrylic or aluminum - and colors: virtually any color you want.

In terms of upkeep, everything needs TLC sometime in its life, but aluminum certainly has a life expectancy far beyond that of any fabric. Nevertheless, if canvas, vinyl and acrylic coverings are taken down – or retracted – and periodically cleaned, they can last 30 years.

The final criteria, then, is cost. According to Bellinger, for the same size awning, vinyl would cost about 5 percent more than canvas and acrylic would cost about 10 percent more than vinyl.

Koonce said that aluminum is slightly more than acrylic, but would outlast everything.

"And there's something about a warm summer day with rain clattering on the roof."

Of course, there's something to be said for a day with any kind of roof – aluminum, canvas, vinyl or acrylic – it's over your head.

Q: We are building a new home and we want to include a large, outdoor deck area. We do a lot of outdoor entertaining during the spring and summer and both my husband and I enjoy spending all of our spare time outdoors reading and relaxing. What are some special design elements that we should consider in creating a functional as well as beautiful deck?

Ms. D. Shaffer

- A: Today, outdoor decks are considered an integral part of a family's living space and their design must therefor be integrated with the overall design of the home. Here are some specific style guidelines to consider:
- Select a specific design detail or motif from your home and then repeat it in your deck.
- Consider creative locations for outdoor lighting fixtures (such as tucking them in between the posts and/or perimeter railings on your deck).

- The more simple and sturdy the deck detailing is, the easier it will be to maintain. Transparent or solid strains require less maintenance than other finishes.
- Try to have the materials and finishes blend in with your home. If your house is painted, finish part of the deck (i.e. the posts and/or railing spindles) in the same color.
- For particularly sharp drop-offs, consider designing a multi-level deck that steps down following the grade.

Q: We have a couple of cracked ceramic wall tiles in the shower in our master bathroom. I have a small stack of replacement tiles at home and would like to try to tackle this job myself. Where do I start?

Mr. L. Chamberlin

A: It usually isn't too difficult a job to replace damaged tiles if you follow these guidelines:

• Use an old screwdriver or similar tool to remove the grout around the

- cracked tiles. Take care not to mar or damage any adjacent tiles.
- Use a carbidetipped bit to drill a hole into the tile. Insert your screwdriver into the hole to free the tile.
- Spread tile adhesive on the back of the replacement tile using a serrated trowel and press the new tile into place.
- After the adhesive has set and the tile is firmly bonded, use a sponge or a rubber-faced trowel to force grout into the joints. Wait 10 to 15 minutes, then tool the joints with a rounded toothbrush handle. Use a wet sponge to scrub off any excess grout (make sure to rinse and wring out the sponge during this process).

Q: Our garage door binds every time it starts to open. I've examined its tracks and they appear to be parallel and tight. Before I call in a handyman, is there anything else I should check?

Mr. R. Paul

A: You might want to check to see whether the edges of the door are rubbing in the inside surface of your trim molding. Abrasions along the edges of the face of the garage door can indicate if this is your problem.

If it is, remove the outside trim molding and reinstall it a little bit farther away from the face of the door to provide additional clearance. Another possible solution would be to relocate the vertical tracks farther away from the trim molding. Check your brackets to see if they are adjustable. If they are, just loosen the bolts and make the necessary adjustments. If the brackets aren't adjustable, one at a time, remove the lag screws holding the track brackets in place. Then reinstall them with wood or metal shims which should be inserted between the brackets and the framing members.

Robert R. Jones was named Best Small Builder in America in the first annual Builder's Spotlight Awards program and was honored as one of the 15 best Custom Home Builders in America in the first annual 1995 National Pacesetter Awards program. He is a past president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan and is secretary of the Michigan Association of Home Builders.

At The Movies... In Your Own Home

Illustration by Avio

ou've heard the term "home the ater" and you've seen the ads in the newspaper for all the various kinds of equipment you need to have one of your very own.

But there is more to creating your own in-home movie house than simply running up to your corner appliance store.

The fact is that for several thousand or even hundred - dollars, you can put together a rather modest, but pleasing audio-visual system that will reproduce something more than simple stereo sound along with something larger than a 19-inch TV screen image.

And for many homeowners, that's enough.

But for others, enough just isn't good enough.

Instead, they're looking for incredible sights and sounds that approximate the quality levels found in the best movie houses.

And they're willing to pay.

So where to start?

Well, because a home theater is a blend of sight and sound, it's foolish not to improve in one area without improving in the other.

Therefore, let's start with the television, a rectangular box whose dimensions have grown astronomically over the past several years - as Cot Davis, director of sales and marketing for Wholesale Builder Supply in Wixom, can attest.

"Big screen TVs are definitely the way things are going today," Davis said. "And for us, we're selling a lot of 52-inch and up.

"And once we get into 61-inch, we're working exclusively with rear projection TVs - many of which we're building right into the walls.

"In fact, about 75 percent of our business is new construction," he said, "in which the builder frames out the opening and then we take care of the rest - from the TV to surround-sound speakers."

The remaining 25 percent of Davis' business deals with retrofitting existing rooms or adding entertainment centers to remodeled areas, such as a finished basement.

In both cases, he said, his company frames out the enclosure and then installs the TV to fit within the new walls.

In all cases, he added his company utilizes a built-in ventilation system to help dissipate the heat generated by the system. (In order to service the TV, a roll-out platform is built in to the project.)

"By the time we're done, there's no big, ugly box standing in your room," he said. "It's all hidden away and all you're left with is the picture."

On the sound side of the equation, a good Dolby Pro-logic tuner and amplifier, coupled with at least five speakers (and often six), will more than satisfy the homeowner looking for something more than simple TV viewing.

For truly custom projects, however, even a built-in TV and off-the-shelf tuners don't go far enough: For those searching for the ultimate home theater system, the only solution is state-of-theart audio components and a theater-sized picture screen.

And for that, you need to talk to people like Dale Pacynski of Custom Design and Jeff Kocher of Avio. Dale Pacynski, president of the Livonia-based Custom Design Security and Sound, specializes in high end custom home theaters and whole house audio distribution. This includes in-wall speakers as well as rear and front projection TVs.

They also incorporate the latest gencration of surround theater sound.

"The picture quality of a front projection TV is truly incredible." Pacynski said. "When a conventional TV has only 200 to 250 lines of resolution and the Runco frontal projection TV has 600 to 1000 lines of resolution, you can imagine the elevation in viewing pleasure," he said. "These extra lines of resolution and the increased size of the TV will give you a life-like, almost 5-D viewing experience," Pacynski said.

The location of the projector is open to the homeowner's preference, Pacynski adds, with the option of it being overhead on the ceiling or on the floor in a coffee table. In fact, Pacynski's operation can make both the projector and the screen retract into the ceiling, and with in-wall speakers, your theater can disappear out by AVIO experts of a touch screen comof sight when not in use.

Sales manager of AVIO in Troy, Kocher specializes in tying together all the components of a home theater - plus any other home electronics - into a userfriendly package.

"We sell everything - audio, video and home theater systems," he said, "but we specialize in tying everything together.

"In fact, you could say the future is here today because of what we do.

"we've either done it or we'll figure out how to do it."

A case in point is the development puter monitor that includes all the home one step further: The icon-based controls are displayed on the home theater screen and the homeowner makes a selection by using a wireless computer mouse.

The lengths to which Kocher and his company will go is limited only by the needs of his customers - many of whom have requested an installed dedicated home theater rooms complete with theater seating, sound insulation and automatic window shades.

"Sometimes a project is as simple as adding speakers and a surround sound system," he said. "While other times it may require us designing a room from the ground up."

And in the company's commercial arm, that's exactly what occurred when AVIO designed and installed a 100-seat theater at the Wildlife Interpretative Center at the Detroit Zoo.

In addition, the company is also working with builders to incorporate entire home theater rooms and applications in the original construction plans.

Hints For Homeowners

Pitching In For The Environment

(NAPS) If you are among the 50 million homeowners trying their best to maintain a healthy, weed-free lawn, you're also an environmental steward. Most people don't realize it, but healthy lawns add not only attractiveness but also positive benefits to the environment.

In fact, a healthy, weed-free lawn:

- Reduces Soil Erosion. Dense grass is the best natural surface for trapping precipitation and reducing soil erosion. This excess water nourishes grass and trees before soaking through the topsoil and replenishing groundwater supplies.
- Increases Air Quality. Healthy grass areas trap almost 12 million tons of dust and dirt from the air annually. Just one acre of grass can absorb hundreds of pounds of fossil fuel-created sulfur dioxide in a single year.
- Increases Property Values. A well-maintained lawn increases the value of a home by as much as ten to 15 percent.

• Restores Nutrients. By grasscycling (leaving clippings on the lawn and allowing them to decay), you return a large amount of nutrients to the lawn that help it grow.

But just how do you maintain a weed-free, healthy lawn? Remember to:

- Cut grass to proper height. Taller grass filters out light that weeds desperately need, making it easier for grass to choke out weeds. Contact your extension service for mowing heights of your turfgrass type.
- Leave grass clippings on the lawn. (Again, this is a built-in fertilization program every time you mow.)
- Water your lawn deeply and infrequently. On average, lawns need about one inch of water a week. This one inch soaks to a depth of four to six inches, which allows the water to reach deep into the root system.

• Prevent weeds right now. Instead of fighting grassy weeds after the fact. stop them before they emerge with a weed prevention product containing Team* pre-emergence herbicide. Team sets-up a "weed prevention zone" around weed seedlings which stops the weeds from germinating. The weeds die before they ever reach the soil surface.

Team can be found in a variety of brand-name weed prevention products available at local garden and hardware stores. Simply look for the Team herbicide logo or the word Team on the front or back of the bag, and you'll be on your way to a weed-free lawn this season.

Always read and follow all label directions carefully when using lawn care products. ■

Q: We are having a 3-season room put on the back of our home. This room overlooks a river in the woods and is mostly comprised of glass. What kind of furniture would best be suited for any longevity?

A. Longevity is truly the key consideration. You are looking for furniture for 5 seasons. However, if you store the furniture in the same room during the winter, even the most durable wood or rattan can suffer from cold and moisture. Therefore, it is advisable to think wrought iron or similar quality for the frame. Removable cushions and pillows are practical. If you have room in the attic or basement, store them. If not, cover them. On a hard floor, a sisal rug can be attractive, which you can also store rolled up, or leave in the room. The colorscheme needs to be pleasantly agreeable with your personal taste. Mother Nature can be honored by soft blues and greens that go well with wrought iron with a wide range from white to black frame colors. Whatever your lifestyle, from contemporary to traditional, a faux of real stone architecture element is always a nice "finishing touch." This can be a column for a coffee table base, or a whimsical gargoyle on the wall.

Q: Choosing the perfect patio furniture is confusing. Our deck has a partial navy striped awning. What kind of fabric and color should I purchase? Does this furniture need to be covered?

It would be nice to know if you take any of this furniture inside of your home. For example, if it is raining during a barbecue, or if you are just short of seating. Perhaps this furniture goes down to your recroom and is used during winter? In most cases redwood is easy to blend. Natural wheat color linen or off white is always elegant indoor and outdoor. You can look around for ready-made furniture. However, you may need a professional upholsterer to make you removable cushions, etc. Having a zipper on them and using washable fabric is a bonus. You might want to try to find a nice plaid or floral tablecloth in white or gold. Who knows, maybe a good red one if you get lucky!

Q. Please evaluate the possibilities regarding the rebuilding of my screened porch. I wish for more than the usual "Florida room."

A. Dear Wishful- First determine a budget. Look around your block. Call the real estate agent who sold you the house and check comparable values of homes in your area. A beautiful bungalow in Huntington Woods can only increase in resale value, but you need to control expenses. You need to have this project designed by a professional. Consider the foundation, structure, heating, cooling and ventilation since you are asking for the year 'round use of this room. Most importantly, the roof line of the house needs to accommodate your newly rebuilt addition. Changes of the roof line are often times costly mistakes! If you need to extend more than the roof line allows, consider a greenhouse type glass covered expansion. Since you have wonderful exposure, you might develop a fondness for orchids. They are quite sturdy. An indoor herb garden can be fun too! A nice tiled floor and wicker or wrought iron furniture can bring the outdoors in, and enjoy it all year long.

Patio and Pool Furniture Maintenance Tips

With pool season in bloom, the condition of your pool and patio furniture can contribute to the overall image of your property. In the beginning of the season, take a good look at your furniture and take the steps necessary to give it new life. Some tips for cleaning and maintenance are as follows:

- The worst enemies of vinyl are Chlorine and suntan oil. The best way of prolonging the life of the vinyl is frequent cleaning. Wash the furniture at least weekly with mild soap and water, followed by rinsing with the hose. One easy method is with a long handled soft brush dipped in a bucket of soapy water.
- Twice yearly do a more thorough cleaning with a vinyl cleaner or any product made specifically for vinyl strapping. This will condition the materials and possibly prevent fast aging.
- If you want to touch up on scrapes and scratches, good preparation is essential. The area to be painted must be completely clean and should be sanded and feathered smooth. Use a fast dry spray paint on a calm day to avoid over-spray. Mask off the vinyl strapping with an old sheet of plastic, or cardboard. Remember, a bad touch up job will often look worse than the original scrape.
- If the frames are structurally sound and normal maintenance won't work any more, it may be time for restrapping and/or refinishing. This is a practical and economical way of giving a fresh, new look to your pool furniture at a fraction of the cost of buying new.

The Facts: Things to consider when building a new home Where do I start?

- 1. First-and most important-start by pre-qualifying your-self for a mortgage. This will give you a more realistic understanding of the price range of your dream home and what you can afford.
- 2. Zero in on a location where you want to reside. Take into consideration the time it will take you to commute to jobs, schools, church, as well as proximity of grocery stores and major malls, etc. If this is a new area, buy a local newspaper and visit businesses, entertainment facilities, etc., that will affect your lifestyle.
- 3. Start shopping, keeping in mind that model home hours are generally 1-5 or 6 pm daily, closed on Thursdays. Try not to bring your children or any other uninterested party with you to distract, discourage or influence you.
- 4. Make a rough map on paper and pin-point the house/builder sub, etc., to help identify what you saw. This will serve as a tool for keeping a clear and concise picture of where each model home that you looked at is located and why you liked it, or if in fact you plan on going back to it for another look.
- 5. Eliminate those homes that are not in your price range as quickly as possible because they only cloud the issue and tend to confuse you. You may go back to them for special reasons like window treatments, decorating ideas, etc. Looking at these homes only make realistic comparison shopping more difficult for the buyer.
- 6. Once you have determined what you think is your "dream" home floor plan, keep at least two other back-up candidates by different builders. These plans could possibly fit your "ideal concept" make possible through some minor changes.
- 7. Visit the model at different times of the day. This will give you a more realistic idea of lighting, temperature variations, window exposure, sun exposure for landscape, etc. (Remember NO ONE really lives in a model house!)

- 8. Keep foremost in your mind that a model home is a "builder's grocery store." Here you can pick and choose some of the types of "extras" or special features that can be added to your base price and your wish/want/have to have list all for a cost to you!
- 9. The most frequently asked question in a model home sales office is, "As this house stands, how much would it cost?" This is not always an easy question to answer for the following reasons:
- A. There is no existing inventory price worked up until the house goes on sale either as is, furnished or unfurnished.
- B. Prices on extras might have increased several times since the house was built.
- C. You yourself might not actually duplicate things you don't readily see.
- D. Generally you could ball-park a figure for extras of between $14,000 $24,000 in a home, base priced at $150,000 $195,000.
- 10. Now that you have the literature on any/all the models you are really interested in, sit down in a quiet, comfortable location. Take each brochure and highlight the base price and items included in this price. Attach a separate sheet with questions on features and necessities that your house might/should/has to include.
- 11. Once this is complete, check your brochure to see whether an option and price list is included. If it is, fill in the want list with prices and add this to your base price. This, then will be the basis for your "rough idea" of what the final cost will be to you.
- 12. Assuming you have completed your home work, go back to the model/building site and ask to see the sales agent. Many builders now use hostess personnel several days a week. These hostesses cannot/do not have prices on options/extras, etc. They will put you in touch with the sales agent.

Get Your Gas Grill Set For BBQ Season

(NAPS)The crack of a bat connecting with a baseball and the quiet whoosh of a gas grill being fired up are signs that warmer weather has arrived. Baseball players use spring to prepare themselves for their regular season. Outdoor gas grill chefs need to prepare for their barbecuing season as well.

When you first wheel out your trusty gas grill from storage for another season of food and fun, there are some steps you can take to make sure your grill is ready to go. Char-Broil, the country's oldest manufacturers of grills, offers this advice on the cleaning and maintenance of your gas grill, which might mean the difference between striking out or hitting a home run at your next backyard barbecue.

- Before you begin, turn the gas off at the LP (liquefied petroleum) tank and the control knob.
  - · Clean the interior of the grill including each individual part. You might want to spread some newspapers underneath the grill while you clean.

- Disconnect the igniter wires and wrap them in foil to protect them. Scrub the inside top and bottom with soapy water and a brush. Use a nylon or plastic pad on the grids; remember that some grease left on the grids will help preserve the metal.
- Check the burner for cracks. If you see any, replace the burner. If you don't see any, use your hose to force water through the venturi tube (the flexible extension from the burner). Over the winter, insects may have nested in the gas tubes and created obstructions which could prevent proper gas flow. If water doesn't flow out of the burner ports, open the clogged ones with a wire.
- Reassemble the grill once everything has dried in the sun.
  - Check the automatic igniter. If it no longer sparks, clear the tip of the electrode (the spark plug-like piece) with rubbing alcohol. Let it dry. If it still doesn't spark, replace it.

- If you decide to paint the exterior, wash and sand it lightly first. Paint it with heat-resistant paint and allow it to dry before using the grill.
- Test the LP tanks for leaks. Turn on the gas at the tank and brush a 50/50 water and soap solution on the connections between the valve, regulator, hose and tank. If bubbles appear, there's a gas leak and you must replace the part that's leaking.

Replacement parts are available at many of the same retailers who sell grills. Some parts have a specific grill brand name, like Certified Parts and Accessories from Char-Broil. But these are universal parts and things like burners and igniters fit most brand of grills. Carefully read the labels and you'll find the right part for your grill.

Harmony Mowers

The Harmony line gives you the perfect balance of price and performance. And right now, they are even more of a value with our exciting financing incentives.

Steps 1 & 2 Honda's unique twin-blade system cuts each blade of grass into two pieces.

Step 3: Then, because the deck is tilted rearward, a third cut is made as the blade revolves to the rear.

Step 4: The unique deck design circulates these pieces through the deck housing where they are cut Steps 5 & 6: The tiny clippings are then deposited at the front of the deck. Lift created from the twinblades draws larger pieces back into the deck to be mulched again.
