Out on his first day of bike patrol last week, officer Mike Carlson chats with Northville residents Louise Benvenuto (left) and Rose Chaldecott who said they think having an officer patrol town on a bike is a great idea. The program was started in an effort to raise public awareness and improve the city's community policing efforts.

In an effort to increase public awareness and improve the city's community policing efforts, the Northville Police Department has initiated a mountain bike police patrol.

Police officer Mike Carlson, equipped with a jet black, 30 pound, state-of-the-art mountain bike, began patrolling Northville streets this week, as the city's first ever mountain bike patrol officer.

Carlson, who has served on the Northville police force for three years, recently took part in an intensive one-week training course and officially "hit the streets" Monday.

"Utilizing a mountain bike to patrol is fast becoming one of the most popular new trends in community policing," Carlson said. "You are more accessible to the public and that presence makes for a better relationship between the officer and the community."

Police Chief Rod Cannon said the bike patrol is a positive step toward a better working relationship with the public.

"We're pleased with the response we've received," he said. "Mike has received plenty of positive comments."

Carlson explained that the patrol provides a better, and more positive, public image.

"More citizens are likely to approach a mountain bike patrol officer," he said. "I have been stopped so many times in these first few days that it became hard to patrol. In fact more people have stopped to talk with me in the past few days than in the previous six months when I was in my patrol car."

Cannon explained that Carlson is the only officer currently trained to perform the patrols, but that other officers could be trained in the future.

Carlson added that his training included pursuit and apprehension techniques. "The training included how to apprehend a suspect and how to utilize the bike in crowd control situations," he explained.

Carlson has not yet had to put those techniques into practice, but he has already made an impact on downtown motorists.

"I managed to pull over a vehicle for a traffic violation," he remarked.

Brass tacks time on land question

942 acre parcel at stake

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville Township and Wayne County get down to the nitty gritty this week of what the county's huge parcel of land on the south side of town will look like when it grows up.

"Vision" will be the word of the day on Tuesday (June 25) when the township planning commission considers the county's new development proposal for 942 acres it owns between Five and Six Mile and Beck Road and Hines Drive. What do township and county officials want to see built on the parcel, which is nearly as big as the entire City of Northville?

The county plan envisions a mix of uses from residential to commercial to industrial as well as a championship golf course and land for public uses like recreation or a new fire station. That blend may not please the palates of the township officials who must approve it, however, judging by their reactions to date (see related story).

The property is the largest single-owner parcel in Wayne County and has been the object of development schemes for years, none of which so far have panned out. This latest effort began last year and it takes an important step forward with the commission's first look this week at the county's new planned unit development (PUD) proposal.

The PUD is a tradeoff of sorts, a strictly optional alternative which would allow Wayne County to build things on the property that aren't allowed under the site's current zoning. In return the county must provide the community with a "substantial benefit" as judged by the board of trustees.

Current zoning on the site calls for entirely residential development except for the property which

Schools to take case before city officials

By ROBERT JACKSON

Northville Public School officials have begun their push to win approval of a $61 million bond issue.

District Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski and Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services Dave Bolitho are scheduled to meet with the Northville City Council at a July 1 meeting, according to City Manager Gary Word.

The nature of the discussion will center around the bond issue, slated to go before voters Sept. 23, and school officials are expected to make their pitch in the form of shared use of district facilities.

"Specifically, Rezmierski and Bolitho wish to explore conceptual ideas on possible community use of existing school facilities," Word said. "(Rezmierski) has indicated that the meeting will be informal with no action required by the council."

District officials have made similar overtures to the Northville Township Board of Trustees, but no meeting date has been scheduled.

According to a district-proposed bond cost summary, $48 million will be spent on the construction of the new high school facility. The conversion of the current high school and other school upgrades have been estimated at $11 million, with an additional $5.2 million in technology upgrade costs. The total package will cost taxpayers $61 million, an estimated increase of 2.35 mills.

The enhancement millage will increase the millage rate by 1.95 mills and will bring $1.9 million to the district. Rezmierski said the funds will be used to support personnel costs that will aid in the implementation of district technology over a five year period.

In order for the district to take advantage of the last year of allowable enhancement millage, voter approval must be obtained before October. The enhancement millage is a one-year-only levy allowable under Proposal A, which altered school funding in 1994. There is only one year left on enhancement millage availability.

Livonia planners say no to theater complex

The Livonia Planning Commission on Tuesday gave a thumbs-down review to a proposal for a movie multiplex in the Seven Mile/Haggerty Road vicinity.

Commissioners voted 5-2 to recommend against a zoning waiver for a 20-screen, 4,056-seat theater near the Northville Township border.

Residents of the nearby Windridge subdivision had lobbied against the proposal.

Waivers for other elements of the planned $25 million Paragon Centre Entertainment Campus were approved on recommendation, however.

"I just thoroughly believe that this is just too much of an impact."

-William LaPine
Livonia Planning Commissioner

The issue now goes to the Livonia City Council, which will schedule a public hearing on the issue. Council members have the option of accepting the negative recommendation or overriding the planning commission and approving the plan.

Developers Marvin Walken and

Gary Jonna had no comment after the vote. Asked if he would comment, Nestor Sanchez, director of design and development for the northeast division of AMC Theatre, said, "Only through our attorneys."

Spokesman Harold Dunne said the group's major concerns are the possibility of increased traffic congestion and crimes such as vehicle theft and larceny, as well as the money needed for police protection of the complex.

Windridge residents expressed reservations about the plan at earlier commission meetings. Several have been following the issue closely.

Commissioner William LaPine, who has been openly skeptical of the proposal, said his decision to vote against it was a tough one.

"I just thoroughly believe that this is just too much of an impact," LaPine said, citing con-

Council votes thumbs up to circus fund-raiser shows

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

It looks like the big top will be raised in Northville after all.

The Northville City Council will allow the King Royal Bros. Circus to conduct two July 5 performances, as scheduled, after receiving assurances that the circus is treating its animals humanely.

That decision has brought a sigh of relief to the Community Playscape Committee, which is using the circus as a fund-raiser.

The council had given the circus preliminary approval May 20, contingent upon city officials investigating whether King Royal had been cited for animal cruelty violations, according to City Manager Gary Word.

"City staff contacted the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) relative to any complaints about King Royal Circus animal cruelty," Word said. "The reports did not reveal any cause for concern."

However, last week, city officials found that a recent report on circus animal cruelty by television news magazine "20/20" aired apparent footage with the King Royal circus as the subject. That information caused officials to deny permission for the event to take place.

Additional investigations last week by city officials and Playscape Committee Director Tanya Bartello found that the "20/20" report was misleading.

Still time to get in on chamber golf outing

Summer is tee-off time and Northville-area enthusiasts can get into the swing of things at Tanglewood this month.

The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its annual fund-raiser golf outing Thursday, June 27. In addition to a great day on the links, golfers will get lunch, dinner, refreshments and a shot at thousands of dollars in prize money.

Drawing on the summer games for a theme, the event is called the Northville Olympic Open Golf Outing.

Activities get under way at 10 a.m. with the complementary use of the driving range at the course on Ten Mile in South Lyon.

At noon, the action begins with a shotgun start to the 18-holes of play.

"The 'putt for cash' contest has a prize of $10,000," said Chamber Executive Director Laurie Marrs. "There are also four hole-in-one and four closest-to-the-pin contests.

Registration is $120.

"This is one of the best golf bargains for what you get," Marrs added. "Besides 18 holes, you get lunch and dinner, including a pig roast."

Sponsors are always needed. There are seven different levels of sponsorships, ranging from $100 to $2,000.

The golf outing, the 15th annual, is a major fund-raising project for the Chamber.

'Art in Sun' comes to downtown

Art, food and entertainment will all be available at the annual Art in the Sun event in Northville June 22-23.

The city will come alive the tastes, sights and sounds of summer during the two-day activity.

During the weekend, the streets of the city will be closed to traffic but open to a brilliant display of arts and crafts. More than 130 exhibitors from Michigan and surrounding states will participate in the juried show.

According to Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Laurie Marrs, fine arts booths will be set up on Main Street, while arts and crafts exhibitors will display on Center.

Plenty of tempting food will be available, with service clubs and non-profit organizations selling sausage sandwiches, hot dogs, wing dings, caramel apples, flurries and ice cream treats.

The Rotary Club, Papa Romano's, St. Paul Lutheran Church, the Northville Moose Lodge and others will provide the food.

The Early Bird Kiwanis Club will offer a pancake breakfast from 7-11 a.m. Saturday, June 22, on the street in front of the downtown bandshell.

A husband and wife musical team, Collecting Consort, will entertain with harp and piano music.

Marrs added that many downtown retail stores will feature special sales to coincide with the event.

Art in the Sun hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday, June 22, and 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Sunday, June 23.

NYA needs PR volunteer to help promote program

Northville Youth Assistance (NYA) is looking for a few good volunteers to help work on a public relations campaign for the program.

NYA would like to publish a newsletter and run a public service announcement on the local cable station.

They know that there is a retired or current public relations director out there who would love to work on this project but just needs to be asked; or there is a person who is a budding writer who would love the experience of writing a newsletter.

If either of these descriptions apply to you, call Mary Ellen King at (810) 344-1618 and volunteer your time to a very worthy Northville cause.

Northville Youth Assistance trains adults to serve as youth role models, then matches them with youngsters from the community who are in need of adult mentoring and companionship.

No clowning around, circus to perform 2 shows

3-ringer to entertain on July 5

They're trained but not tamed. That's the way the King Royal Brothers is billing its menagerie of animals that will regale audiences during two performances Friday, July 5.

Following this week's approval by the Northville City Council, the Texas-based three-ring circus will come to town as part of a fund-raising effort by the Community Playscape Committee.

Shows will take place at 4:30 and 7 p.m. in the Northville Downs parking lot. Advance tickets are $4 for children, $6 adults. Tickets on circus day will go for $6 children and $10 for adults.

"People will want to buy their tickets in advance, not only because they're cheaper but because we (the playscape committee) get a higher percentage from advance ticket sales."

The committee is raising money to pay for the construction of a playscape, a large, wooden playset for children. Committee members hope to have enough money to build the playscape sometime next spring. The structure, which will be constructed entirely with volunteer labor, will go up on land near Ford Field off Griswold.

King Bros. says circus goers can thrill to aerial performers and internationally known acrobats, but will also see Princess Tanzania, a baby hippopotamus, Winkum and Blinkum, two pygmy midget-zebras, as well as dozens of jungle birds and other rare wildlife varieties.

An assortment of clowns, jugglers, elephants, lions, tigers, camels, ponies and dogs will also entertain, and an exotic petting zoo will be included.

Anyone wishing to obtain ticket information can contact Tanya Bartello at (313) 641-2100 or Kevin Hartshorne at (810) 348-6315. A ticket booth will be set up at Mill Race Village on July 4.

Clowns, acrobats, aerialists and exotic animals will delight audiences when the Texas-based King Bros. 3-ring circus comes to town Friday, July 5. The event is a fund-raiser for the Community Playscape Committee. For ticket information, call (313) 641-2100 or 348-6315.

and that the circus had not been involved in any animal cruelty violations.

"We had several communications with the USDA and found that the circus had not violated any animal cruelty laws, and that USDA officials stated that King Royal treated their animals humanely and are in full compliance with all regulations," Bartello said.

City officials also received USDA inspection results that show the circus exceeds all USDA regulatory enforcement and animal care standards.

The USDA is charged with the regular inspection of circus exhibitors and grades them based on the condition of facilities, primary enclosures, animal health and husbandry, and transportation.

The circus has been inspected twice in 1996 and, according to inspection reports obtained by The Northville Record, USDA inspectors gave King Royal high marks. In a report filed March 4, inspectors only found one discrepancy - failure to clean an outside grid panel on one of the animal trailers - and a follow-up inspection one month later found that the discrepancy had been corrected and no other problems existed.

"All of the reports we received from the USDA show no instances of animal cruelty," Bartello explained.

Even the national Animal Husbandry Society gives its endorsement to the King Royal Circus. Steven Kendall, vice president of the society's national programs, said the circus was unfairly targeted by the "20/20" report.

"The segments that were used were as old as 1976," he said. "Changes in the circus industry have made tremendous strides in the care of animals in the last 20 years. That's because public concern and consciousness have changed the laws to put much stricter guidelines on who can or can't exhibit animals."

"Animal activists are entitled to their opinions, but the facts should be known as to the true care these animals receive," he added.

The council voted unanimously to grant the permit, allowing the playscape committee to begin advanced sales of tickets. According to playscape officials the fund-raiser could bring in about $1,700 from tickets sold before the event.

Garden Walk tickets on sale

The Country Garden Club of Northville, a member of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, is finalizing preparations for its Third Annual Garden Walk.

This year's event will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, July 17. Guests are invited to tour eight beautiful private gardens and refresh themselves at tour's end with complimentary beverages and homemade cookies served at Cady Inn at historic Mill Race Village. The Village is located on Griswold near Main Street.

Pre-sale tickets are available at the Northville Chamber of Commerce, 195 S. Main, and at Gardenviews, 202 W. Main Street.

Mail order tickets may be obtained from Barb Williamson, 39614 Greenbriar Court, Northville, MI 48167. Call (313) 420-3562 for information.

Advance tickets are $7. Tickets on Tour Day will be $8, and will be available at Mill Race, Gardenviews and the Chamber of Commerce.

DON'T LET THE PARADE PASS YOU BY

Celebrate Northville, the Fourth of July parade organizing committee, invites you and your organization to take part in one of Northville's proudest traditions, the Independence Day parade.

This year's theme is: "One hundred years of the automobile."

Awards will be given in the following categories: Marching Bands, Theme Entry Floats, Senior Marching Groups, Junior Marching Groups, and Equestrian/Animal Groups.

The application deadline has passed but latecomers can still ride in the parade toward the end of the procession. The late entry deadline is June 24. For more information contact Karen Woodside, chairperson, at (810) 347-1919, or mail the completed application to: Celebrate Northville, P.O. Box 5258, Northville, MI 48167-5258.

A confirmation letter with rules and instructions will be sent.

To help defray experiences, an optional entrance fee of $25 is requested of parade participants.

Fourth party promises full day of explosive fun

From stirring parade marches to brilliant eruptions of color and light, July 4 will be packed with excitement and patriotic feeling.

Celebrate Northville, the Fourth of July planning commission, has a full day of special activities in store for area residents two weeks from today.

The festivities get under way at 10 a.m. with a downtown parade. The Northville Fourth of July parade tradition is over 125 years old and was attended by more than 10,000 people last year.

Following the parade, traditional activities will take place at Mill Race Historical Village, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Civil War reenactors will again make an appearance at the Village, and all buildings will be open for touring.

Simultaneously, across the street, Celebrate Northville will hold its second annual car show featuring classic cars at the R&D Enterprises building (formerly the Ford Valve Plant). This year's theme commemorates the 100-year history of the automobile, and show-grade cars 25-years-old and older are welcome. The cars will be displayed at Griswold and Main Street.

A second annual pre-fireworks concert is planned at the Beck Road Community Park, Beck Road near Five Mile. From 4:30 to 6 p.m., a young people's concert will feature the music of Baked Potato. Later, from 7 to 8:45 p.m., the 70-piece Schoolcraft Community Wind Ensemble will fill the park with patriotic themes.

The day will end with a fireworks show at dusk, displayed by the Zambelli Fireworks Co., the company that does the J.L. Hudson fireworks display in Detroit. The show takes place on the grounds of the BFI resource management center, Six Mile and Napier roads. Last year more than 40,000 people enjoyed the return of the fireworks show after a hiatus of several years.

This year watching Northville's Fourth of July fireworks display is going to be much more convenient for celebrants. In many instances, people can just sit on their deck or front lawn and be able to see the dynamic display. The reason: this year the fireworks are going to be set off at the very top of BFI's huge hill. This will minimize traffic jams

Fund-raiser T-shirts sport committee logo

Celebrate Northville, the organizing committee for the Fourth of July festivities, is in its second year of existence, but you might say it's just now been put on the map.

Why? Because T-shirts bearing the organization's official logo are available for the first time.

Emblazoned with the committee's distinctive lettering and striking compass wheels, the T-shirts come in adult and children's sizes. Proceeds from all sales will be used to help defray expenses associated with the July 4 events.

Adults shirts go for $25, while children's shirts run $20.

To order, send a check payable to: Celebrate Northville, P.O. Box 5258 Northville, MI 48167-5258.

Orders may be picked up at the office of The Northville Record three dates only: 5-7 p.m. Tuesday, June 25; 5-7 p.m. Thursday, June 27; and 5-7 p.m. Tuesday July 2. The Record is located at 104 W. Main.

Please pay by check only. Checks will be accepted on a walk-in basis during the evening hours stated above.

Anyone interested in volunteering his or her time to staff the office during T-shirt sale evenings can call 349-1919 to register.

and eliminate the problem of having just a few good spots from which to view the fireworks.

Karen Woodside, chairperson of Celebrate Northville, says there's no shortage of tasks people can help out with.

"We still need volunteers to work the day of the parade and to work on parade-related activities during the daytime hours over the next two weeks."

Both Northville city and Northville Township donated $2,000 to Celebrate Northville, and several companies have helped out with contributions. Some of the performers require payment to participate in the parade, while individual entrants are asked to pay an optional $25 entry fee.

Celebrities from Detroit radio and television will ride in the parade. Cynthia Canly from WKBD-TV, Jimmy Barrett from radio station WJR and local weatherman Jim Madus have all accepted invitations.

Northville Township Trustee Russ Fogg is in charge of the pet parade. Inquiries may be directed to him at 349-6656.

Northville centenarian Bill Klope will also ride through the parade route in a vintage model auto.

A farm breakfast at the Masonic Temple in downtown Northville will precede the events that morning.

Sponsors of the major events include BFI (fireworks), Woolly Bully's (car show) and Continental Cablevision (concerts and parade).

Celebrate Northville is always looking for volunteers and financial donors. Its next meeting will be held on Wednesday, June 26, at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

For more information contact Woodside at (810) 347-1919.

Court date awaits brawling suspects

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Three Livonia men involved in a February fight at a local watering hole will soon be in court to explain why it all happened.

Charged last week with misdemeanor aggravated assault in connection with the Feb. 3 incident was Kurt David Jankowski, 25. Northville Township police say he and another man, 20, kicked, beat and struck a third individual with a beer bottle shortly after midnight that evening at Sheehan's On the Green, a tavern located off Five Mile next to the Oasis golf center.

A warrant has been issued for the 20-year-old's arrest but to date he has not surrendered himself to police for arraignment on the assault charge, which carries a maximum penalty of up to a year in jail upon conviction. Jankowski surrendered on May 22.

He was arraigned June 13 in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald. MacDonald entered a not guilty plea on his behalf and released the man on a non-cash personal bond. Jankowski will appear in court on July 5 for a pretrial hearing.

According to township Detective Michael Wildt Jankowski and the 20-year-old assaulted a 49-year-old Livonia man just outside of Sheehan's because they thought he had given the barmaid "a hard time."

The man arrived at the bar that evening with friends. Jankowski told police he had been at the bar that evening ever since 6 p.m.

According to the alleged victim, he called a cab to take him home and it arrived shortly after 12 a.m. When he stepped outside to get into it, Jankowski and the second man accosted him.

They allegedly turned the man around and yelled at him, he told police, asking about the barmaid. The man denied any wrongdoing, telling them that he didn't know what they were talking about.

At that point, according to him, Jankowski and the second man began punching him, striking the man several times. When he fell to the ground they allegedly kicked him several times and the second man allegedly struck the 49-year-old in the head twice with a beer bottle.

When the cab driver saw what was happening he tried to intervene, the man told police, asking the two to stop and let him get the bruised, bleeding man into his cab and leave. They allegedly told him to "wait a minute," then hit the man several more times before leaving the area in a white 1996 Dodge pickup truck.

According to police the barmaid in question said she didn't know what Jankowski and the other man were talking about and that the 49-year-old wasn't giving her a problem.

Jankowski in a written statement to police admitted to following the man outside and arguing with him. The man tried to strike him first, however, according to Jankowski, who added that he had nothing to do with the second man using the beer bottle.

Township News Briefs

SUMP PUMPS DISCUSSED: The Northville Township Board of Trustees will hold a study session discussion of the sump pump situation in Northville Commons and Northville Colony Estates tonight (June 20) beginning at 7:30 p.m.

There will also be a special board meeting concerning the plan for the proposed Ravines of Northville subdivision tonight as well.

APPOINTMENTS: The board appointed Larry Aepelbacher to the beautification commission for a three-year term which expires in 1999. Sonja Windrich was reappointed to the commission for a three year term as well.

The trustees on a 4-2 vote rejected Supervisor Karen Baja's proposal to appoint herself as board liaison to the Zoning Board of Appeals, replacing outgoing liaison Rick Engelland. Board members voting against the move said they want to leave the position vacant until after the Aug. 6 primary.

After the primary the likely composition of the next board, which takes office in November, will be known, according to Clerk Sue Hillebrand. At that point the trustees may be able to choose a board member who will be around after November, thus allowing more continuity on the ZBA.

QUAD MEET SET: Members of several local bodies will meet to discuss common issues this summer.

The "quad" meeting will include the township and school district boards of trustees, the city council and members of the Chamber of Commerce. The public is invited.

The meeting will take place on Wednesday, Aug. 21, at Thornton Creek Elementary school, located on Nine Mile between Beck and Taft roads.

TOWNSHIP CENTENNIAL: According to Clerk Sue Hillebrand the first meeting of the township board of trustees took place on April 4, 1898.

Hillebrand said she plans to ask for a committee to be organized this fall to begin planning on a centennial celebration for Northville Township in 1998.

Police News

Thieves do number on two parked vans

Unknown persons stole $3,800 worth of goods from two minivans belonging to a Northville Township woman last week.

The woman, 35, told township police that someone took a computer, cellular phone and a purse from two 1994 Chrysler Town & Country vehicles parked in the driveway of an Old Bedford Court home during the night of June 9-10. No damage was done to the minivans.

FLOODING: A Lehigh Lane homeowner called 911 on the evening of Thursday, June 13, reporting a flooding problem. The woman told police she was doing some work on her toilet when the faucet handle broke and the toilet began "spewing water at a large volume," according to reports. An officer sent to the scene found the home flooding and considerable water damage. He contacted Highland Lakes security, which handled the situation.

BREAK-IN: Township police discovered a case of breaking and entering in a Lakeshore home last week.

Responding to a burglary alarm, officers arrived at the house at about 2 p.m. on June 13 to find the front door standing open. It had been forced open, according to reports, and the door frame itself was shattered. No one was around and nothing was apparently missing. Neighbors did not see anything unusual going on at the time of the incident.

THEFT FROM VEHICLE: A Northridge woman had the console from her 1994 Jeep Wrangler stolen on Saturday.

The woman, 24, told township police that the theft took place sometime between midnight and 1:30 p.m. as the Wrangler sat in the parking lot outside of her residence. No damage was done to the Jeep; the console is valued at $200.

STOLEN GOODS: An E. Harbourn Village Drive couple reported the theft of their wedding rings to township police but the trail to the thief may be cold.

Officers took a report from the couple, ages 39 and 42, on Friday. They told police that they noticed the woman's ring and two videos missing about six months earlier and the man's ring missing about one week earlier.

The two suspect a woman who may now be living in Arizona took the items, which collectively are valued at $1,330.

VILLAGE VANDALS: Someone isn't the safest of drivers behind the wheel.

The maintenance manager at Country Club Village on Six Mile reported a string of vandalism incidents to township police last week. Five lamp posts, three stop signs and one wall were damaged during the night of June 13-14, all by a motor vehicle.

Damage is estimated at $800.

UNDERAGE DRINKING: Some people just have to learn the hard way, even when given advice in advance.

Township police arrested a teenager for underage drinking just hours after an officer warned him not to drink and drive.

The reporting officer said he spoke to the 19-year-old man at about midnight on June 10 at a home in Northville Township that was the object of loud party complaints. At the time the officer advised the minors present about laws prohibiting underage drinking and drinking and driving. According to him, everyone, including the teen, said they would not do either.

About two hours later the officer stopped the teen's 1991 Jeep CJ on Six Mile Road after seeing it driving with only one working headlight. The man admitted drinking three beers and showed signs of alcohol use. Breath testing showed him to have a blood alcohol level of .03, above the legal limit for those under 21.

The man was given a citation and was scheduled to appear on court on Friday of last week.

MEIJER THEFT: Officers arrested a 55-year-old Farmington Hills man on June 11.

Store detectives said they saw him put a $55 pair of shoes on his feet and stuff a bag of pecans worth $9.50 down his shirt, then leave Meijer without trying to pay for either item.

He was released and faces a court hearing soon.

STALKER ARRAIGNED: A 31-year-old Plymouth man was arraigned on aggravated stalking charges at 35th District Court, Tuesday.

According to police the man's ex-wife, a 29-year-old Northville woman reported that the man was in violation of a court injunction by continuing to follow her and harass her.

The man turned himself in to Northville Police and was immediately taken to court for his arraignment.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal activities, contact Northville City police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

State gets tough on juvenile offenders

Michigan is moving toward more severe punishment of juveniles who commit serious crimes.

An appellate court upheld a life sentence for a 15-year-old killer. Gov. John Engler signed a 21-bill package making adult sentences mandatory in some cases, and the state Senate approved a "pump prison" bill and sent it to the House.

"For too long," said Engler, "violent juveniles have taken advantage of the leniency of the juvenile system, making a mockery of justice. Those days are over. Juveniles who murder, rape and commit armed robbery will be sentenced as adults."

A state Court of Appeals panel upheld a life sentence for 15-year-old Clinton Cheeks, convicted in a 1993 Inkster murder case. The sentence was handed down by Detroit Recorder's Judge Warfield Moore Jr. under a previous law granting the judge the option.

In a related development, new laws signed by Engler will remove the necessity for a trial judge to hold a separate hearing on sentencing the juvenile as an adult.

Finally, the Senate passed a bill that amends the juvenile code to add boot camp placement as a sentencing option for juvenile offenders.

Cable company seeks volunteers for Internet test

Internet fans who are interested in trying out a new high-speed access service could be lucky enough to get in on an experiment Continental Cablevision is offering.

The cable company will begin selecting participants to test the service free-of-charge. The test is scheduled to begin Aug. 1.

"This is yet another exciting feature of our next generation technology," said Bill Black, Continental's corporate affairs director.

"Our new two-way fiber optic telecommunications network is bringing our customers a clearer, more reliable picture, over 100 channels, and now, it will offer customers a glimpse into the future of telecommunications."

The primary benefit of Continental's new service is that it will allow customers to access the Internet hundreds of times faster than anything available today. Continental plans to test the new service for four to five months and will introduce the service to all residents in the Northville, Canton and Plymouth communities later this year.

Customers interested in participating can respond by e-mail at admin@continental.net, or by calling toll free at 1-888-339-1688. Approximately 20-50 customers will be selected for the trial.

Interested participants must have at least a 486 PC with 8 meg RAM or a Mac 68030 with system 7.1.

"Continental's high speed data services will ultimately be offered

The new service will allow customers to access the Internet hundreds of times faster than anything available today.

throughout the Metro Detroit area as we build our network of the future," said Black.

The cable company is trying to obtain a representative cross-section of the population for the test.

Continental's high speed data services will be offered through Continental Online Midwest, a subsidiary of Continental Cablevision Inc.

Continental Cablevision Inc. is a Boston-based broadband telecommunications company with interests in domestic and international cable television operations, cable programming networks, consumer satellite delivery systems and other telecommunications services such as voice and data networks and Internet access. Continental serves over 348,000 subscribers in 74 Michigan communities.

They have announced a merger with U.S. West Media Group, a regional Bell operating company serving 14 states.

First there was one. Then three, and before it was over hundreds of people, mostly women, had converged on Hudson's at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Linda Danol of Northville was one of an estimated 600 women who came to see Donny Osmond on June 10 when he made an appearance at the store to officially open the return of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and hold an hour-long autograph session.

Osmond personally sold tickets for the show from a temporary, custom-made "box office" which had been set up near the electronics department, to the first two women in line who had arrived as early as 6:30 a.m. for the 10 a.m. appearance.

Although Danol saw Joseph three times during its last run in Detroit, she plans to see it again twice at the Fox Theatre and is already making plans to go to Chicago for the last night of the show.

"I never get tired of good theater. Forget Joseph, I like good theater," Danol said. "We saw Beauty and the Beast three times."

Danol first saw Osmond 23 years ago when she was 12-years-old and has met him several times.

"I'm one of these diehards," she said.

Toward the end of the hour-long autograph session, Osmond was only a few feet away from Danol.

Grasping a publicity photo Danol reached over a group of women trying to add one more autograph to her collection. Her hand was one of many waving publicity photos at Osmond as he tried to press through the crowd, signing as many autographs and posing for as many pictures as he could.

Danol's quest was successful. Osmond took the photo from her outstretched arm, signed it and gave it back.

"It's always fun," said Danol. "He's a good person."

Some people brought CDs, T-shirts, old albums and programs from Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat for Osmond to sign.

Joseph returns Sept. 6 through 29 for performances at the Fox Theatre in Detroit.

Court reform one item on legislative agenda

Court reform is likely to be a major topic when the Michigan Legislature conducts a cleanup session Tuesday, July 2.

The House rejected, 0-103, Senate Republicans' amendments to the House-passed bill late at night on June 7. Basic purpose of both versions is to shift powers of probate courts to circuit courts. The Senate version set up a new family division of circuit court and provided for phasing out funding Detroit Recorder's Court.

That forces the bill into a joint House-Senate conference committee. As House conferees, Speaker Paul Hillebrand, R-Holland, appointed Reps. James Ryan, R-Redford, Michael Nye, R-Litchfield, and Ted Wallace, D-Detroit. Nye is chair of the House Judiciary Committee.

Refer to House Bill 5188 conference report when writing to your legislator.

Mill Race Matters

Thanks go out this week to Tom Thompson for his donation of a family picture showing five generations. The families involved are Guthrie, Parmenter and Schoultz. Regular readers might remember that the Society recently received other photographs from the Schoultz family.

Additional papers and memorabilia on the Knapp family have also been received. Thanks to that donor who wishes to remain anonymous as well. The items include a photograph of Thad Knapp, one time Northville superintendent of schools, as well as an interesting commentary on education he wrote in 1926.

Mill Race Village is now open for public entrance to all buildings on Sunday afternoon from 1 until 4 p.m. There is no admission charge but donations are encouraged.

Upcoming at the village, as well as being on the city's agenda, is the community's traditional Fourth of July, beginning early and ending with fireworks. The parade through town starts at 9 a.m. Historical Society members are urged to participate in the parade. Contact Sonia at 348-2947 for more information.

After the parade, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., Mill Race Village hosts the community's traditional Fourth of July activities. In addition to providing an opportunity to visit all the buildings, a variety of craft demonstrators will provide educational opportunities. Reenactors will demonstrate traditions from the past. Food vendors will offer sustenance for those in need. Entertainment abounds as well. Join the community at Mill Race Village on July 4.

On Wednesday, July 17, the Country Garden Club of Northville conducts its third annual garden walk which includes the gardens at Mill Race Village.

Tickets are $7 in advance and $8 on walk day. They can be obtained from Gardenviews, 202 W. Main, or the Northville Chamber of Commerce, 195 S. Main, or by mail order coupon. Home-baked cookies and beverages will be available at Mill Race's Cady Inn throughout the day.

On Saturday, Sept. 7, and Sunday, Sept. 8, the Marshall Historical Society will hold its annual historic home tour.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting 1-800-877-5163.

On Saturday, Sept. 14, the Northville-Novl branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its second annual historic home tour in Northville in conjunction with the Northville Victorian Festival.

Tickets can be obtained from AAUW members, Bookstall on the Main, 101 N. Center, and the Chamber of Commerce after Aug. 1.

The Pontiac area Historical and Genealogical Society plans an opportunity for genealogists to meet author Lorna Duane Smith on Friday, June 28, from 1-4 p.m. at Baker College and on Saturday, June 29, at Pontiac Library from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Call (810) 857-7667 for more information.

Sweet Adelines to perform

The Oakland Shores Sweet Adelines will present a free concert of women's barbershop music at Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus Tuesday, July 9. The performance kicks off the 1996 edition of "A Little Night Music," the campus' popular summer entertainment series.

"A Little Night Music" features free performances by a variety of musical groups, Tuesday evenings through Aug. 13. All concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. In the new pavilion located on the campus' front lawn. In the event of rain, performances will move indoors to the Student Center arena.

The other groups scheduled for the 1996 season are:

- July 16, The New Coon Creek Girls (Bluegrass Music)
  - July 23, Mustard's Retreat (Folk Music)
  - July 30, Detroit Brass Society
  - Aug. 6, Blackthorn (Irish Music)
  - Aug. 13, Freddy Clark & The Clark Family (Country Music)
- All events are free and open to the public. The Highland Lakes campus is located on Cooley Lake Road in Waterford. Free parking is available in nearby student lots. For more information, call (810) 360-3186.

Mental health center loses funding

The new mental health appropriations bill is on its way to Gov. John Engler's desk after the House agreed 86-18 to a conference report pegging total spending at $1.15 billion.

"I voted 'no' because the bill fails to appropriate funds to maintain Fairlawn Center as an inpatient psychiatric facility for adolescents with serious emotional impairment," said Rep. Hubert Price, D-Pontiac. Price said it was an unfair blow to the Foundation for Mentally Ill Children, which "has contributed countless hours of volunteer service and over $650,000 for an 80-bed addition to the Fairlawn Center in 1993."

Also voting against the bill were Reps. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne, and Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

Senate approval came on a 35-1 vote with all area senators voting yes.

Among members of the Joint House-Senate conference committee were Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, Reps. Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, and Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak.

Rec land purchase considered

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Could a proposal to buy recreation land make the ballot this November in Northville Township? It's unlikely but members of the township board of trustees have agreed to a couple of baby steps designed to explore the idea.

The board is plumb the notion of buying the old Phoenix prison site, located on Five Mile west of Beck, from the state of Michigan. The prison itself was torn down recently and the 80-some acres of land that it sat on has been declared "surplus" by state officials.

That's the first step towards putting the parcel on the real estate market. State policy dictates that local governments get first shot at surplus land. Township trustees are interested in seeing if it would be possible for the township to buy the property for public recreation use. The Phoenix site abuts Beck Road Park on two sides.

If the state does sell the land and if the board decides it wants to buy it the trustees would have to tackle the question of how to come up with the money. One alternative would be to ask for voter approval of a dedicated millage or a bond issue, possibly as early as November.

To do that the township would need to submit ballot language to the state by mid-August, a deadline just 10 weeks away.

A special board subcommittee will consider the whole issue in the coming weeks, at the suggestion of Treasurer Rick Engelland. The committee includes Engelland, board members Sue Hillebrand and Barbara O'Brien, Rec Department Director Traci Snook and a member of the Parks and Rec commission.

The group will tackle three main issues. The first will be working with the state to see if there's an interest in selling it and determining an acceptable price. Assuming that comes together the committee would also research possible purchase methods such as a cash buy, a loan, bond or millage issues.

Some members of the board have expressed hope that the state will ask a lower price for the land because of two nearby prisons and a Detroit Edison power substation.

At that point, the group would come back to the full board for a formal decision on whether to buy the Phoenix parcel. If that's a go the committee would work on what to use the land for, a process that's likely to take some time and involve a lot of public input.

Supervisor Karen Baja expressed doubt that the state will make any kind of move with Phoenix for several months as the land moves through the bureaucratic pipeline to arrive on the real estate market. Despite that, other members of the board hope the committee might be able to lay the groundwork now for a deal later.

"The sooner we start meeting with the state and keeping Northville Township in their thoughts the better it will be," Hillebrand said.

Maybury State Park

PARK HOURS: Maybury State Park is open daily from 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Farm hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. A state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry to the park. Additional information about programs or facilities may be obtained by calling the park office at (810) 349-8390.

JUNE PROGRAMS

• Tree Identification Hike - June 27, 7 p.m.
Maybury State Park will host a tree identification hike on Thursday evening, June 27, beginning at 7 p.m. Join the park interpreter for a walk through the mature wood lot and open meadow areas of Maybury to look at some of the trees common to southeast Michigan. Meet at the park's Concession Building in the main parking lot.

JULY PROGRAMS

• Senior Stroll - July 3, 8:30 a.m.
Join a Maybury State Park naturalist on a special walk just for seniors. This leisurely stroll will follow the paved trails and will highlight some of the natural features of our park. Meet at the park's Concession Building on Wednesday, July 3, at 8:30 a.m. Insect repellent is recommended.

• Farm Stories - July 6 at 11 a.m. and July 7 at 3 p.m.
Maybury Farm's monthly storytime for kids will feature "Farm Chores." Join us in the Farm Demonstration Building for stories, then try your hand at some of the daily chores here on the farm. The program is offered on Saturday, July 6, at 11 a.m. and repeated on Sunday, July 7, at 3 p.m.

• Night Hike - July 11, 8:30 p.m.
Join us for a walk as evening turns to night on Thursday, July 11, beginning at 8:30 p.m. We will explore the woods and fields of Maybury State Park in search of "night life." Sky conditions permitting, we will also look for summer constellations. Meet at the park's Concession Building in the main parking lot.

• July Bird Hike - July 13, 8 a.m.
Maybury State Park will host its monthly bird hike on Saturday, July 13, at 8 a.m. We plan to walk some of the open meadows and fields in search of resident summer birds. Insect repellent is highly recommended. Meet at the park's Concession Building in the main parking lot.

• Summer Wildflowers - July 18, 7 p.m.
Maybury State Park's Thursday evening series continues this week with a look at summer wildflowers. Join the naturalist on a walk through field and forest in search of summer blooms. Insect repellent is recommended. Meet at the riding stable parking area on Beck Road, one-quarter mile south of Eight Mile road in Northville Township.

• Birds of Prey - July 25, 7 p.m.
Maybury State Park will host a program entitled "Birds of Prey" on Thursday evening, July 25, at 7 p.m. Learn about some of the habits and habitats of these fascinating birds using mounted specimens, photographs and interactive games. Meet at the Maybury Farm Demonstration Building.

• Farm Olympics - July 27, 1-3 p.m.
Celebrate the Summer Olympic Games "farm style" at Maybury Farm on Saturday, July 27, from 1-3 p.m. Events for all ages include the turkey trot race, bean bag shot put, hay hurdles, corn cob relay, rabbit hop race, water trough yacht race, and many others. Ribbons and certificates will be awarded. All events will take place near the Demonstration Building in front of Maybury Farm.

• Camping Preparation - July 27, 7-9 p.m.
What do you need for a camping trip? Maybury State Park will present a program on "Camping Preparation" for families and individuals on Saturday, July 27, from 7-9 p.m. Find out what to bring, where to go, and how to set up camp once you get there. Our program will finish up with a campfire and stories. Feel free to bring along marshmallows or s'mores.

Maybury does not have a campground, but information will be available on other state park campgrounds in Michigan.

Meet at the park's Concession Building in the main parking lot.

Walk for health of it

Join Novi Parks and Recreation in taking a giant "step" into health and fitness by participating in "Walk Michigan" events.

Not only will participants improve their health, but they can enjoy the Novi parks and community and have a chance to win a trip to Mackinac Island.

Each Tuesday through July 30 there will be lunch break walks at noon at the Novi Civic Center.

Those who come with their walking shoes can enjoy a peaceful stroll around Power Park. Walkers have a choice between one- and three-mile courses. Refreshments will follow each walk at the Civic center.

Kick-off Novi's concert season on June 20 with Novi's Steppin' to the Beat concert and walk. Meet at the Civic Center at 6 p.m., walk a choice of one to three miles, then enjoy the music of a Sounds of Summer concert at 7 p.m. Bring your favorite picnic, blanket and lawn chair.

"Stroll in the Park" Wednesday, July 10, at 9:30 a.m. Meet at the Civic Center with buggies and strollers for this morning walk through the area. After the walk, refreshments will be served and prizes awarded. (Strollers not required.)

Nuts and bolts time on land question is currently occupied by Optical Imaging Systems (OIS) at Five Mile and Beck. Most of the land is earmarked for R-2 and R-3 single family home development. Part of the parcel between Sheldon and Hines Drive is zoned for apartments.

A very different vision of the property is found in the county PUD proposal. That calls for several different uses to be allowed on the site, although most of it would remain residential:

- Most of that residential use would take the form of single family homes, many of them surrounding an 18-hole championship golf course and many with lots that are smaller than what's allowed under conventional zoning.

- An "adult lifestyle community" of condos similar to Country Club Village on Six Mile is slated for land off Beck, while space for apartments is planned for land near Five Mile and Sheldon. A senior housing complex is slated for land on the east side of Sheldon just north of Five Mile.

- OIS would be allowed to expand to the north of its current facility and a section of land on Five Mile would be set aside for new research and development (R&D) business use. Commercial shopping areas would be allowed on both corners of Five Mile and Sheldon.

- Eighteen acres would be set aside for recreation fields and/or public facilities like a fire station.

The planning commission will review the PUD proposal and eventually make a recommendation to the board of trustees as to whether that body should approve or reject it.

Ward Church downsizes plan

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Construction on Ward Church is slated to begin this fall but the worship center will now be slightly smaller than originally anticipated.

Ward officials have scaled back the size of their building and its adjoining parking, both of which the Northville Township Board of Trustees agreed to earlier this year. The reduction will amount to about 18 percent of the size of the original Ward "footprint."

The new Ward Church will occupy part of a 140-acre parcel located on Six Mile just west of Haggerty Road.

Ward folks say it's only temporary; done to cut construction costs for the Livonia churches new home from $30 million down to $25 million. That way, spokesman Bill Johnson said, Ward can finish the building completely debt-free.

At some point in the future, however, Ward will want to expand its church back to the borders of the original design. That will require approval from the board of trustees, which last week gave a green light to the footprint reduction.

tion.

Ward will maintain the development borders in the original plan. In other words, the church will not build all of the parking it originally asked for but intends to put up buffers and landscaping along the original site perimeter, so that the parking can eventually be "built out" to it. Grass will be put down in the meantime.

According to Johnson, Ward officials plan to hold a formal groundbreaking ceremony in August. Actual construction work will begin in September. Completion is expected to take several months.

Plans for land put on table

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

"Substantial benefit." The meaning of that phrase has sparked more debate in Northville Township in recent years than D.J. Simpson's murder trial and there's no end in sight, given Wayne County's new development proposal.

This two-word culprit lurks in the township's planned unit development (PUD) ordinance. The PUD is a strictly optional development alternative which the township and a property owner can agree to. The developer gets to build things on a site that aren't allowed under its current zoning.

In return Northville Township must receive a "substantial benefit," as judged by the board of trustees, that it wouldn't get with a conventional zoning plan. Debating just what is or is not a substantial benefit has taken many hours in several past PUD proposals, the most recent of which was the one concerning the Ward Church property on Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

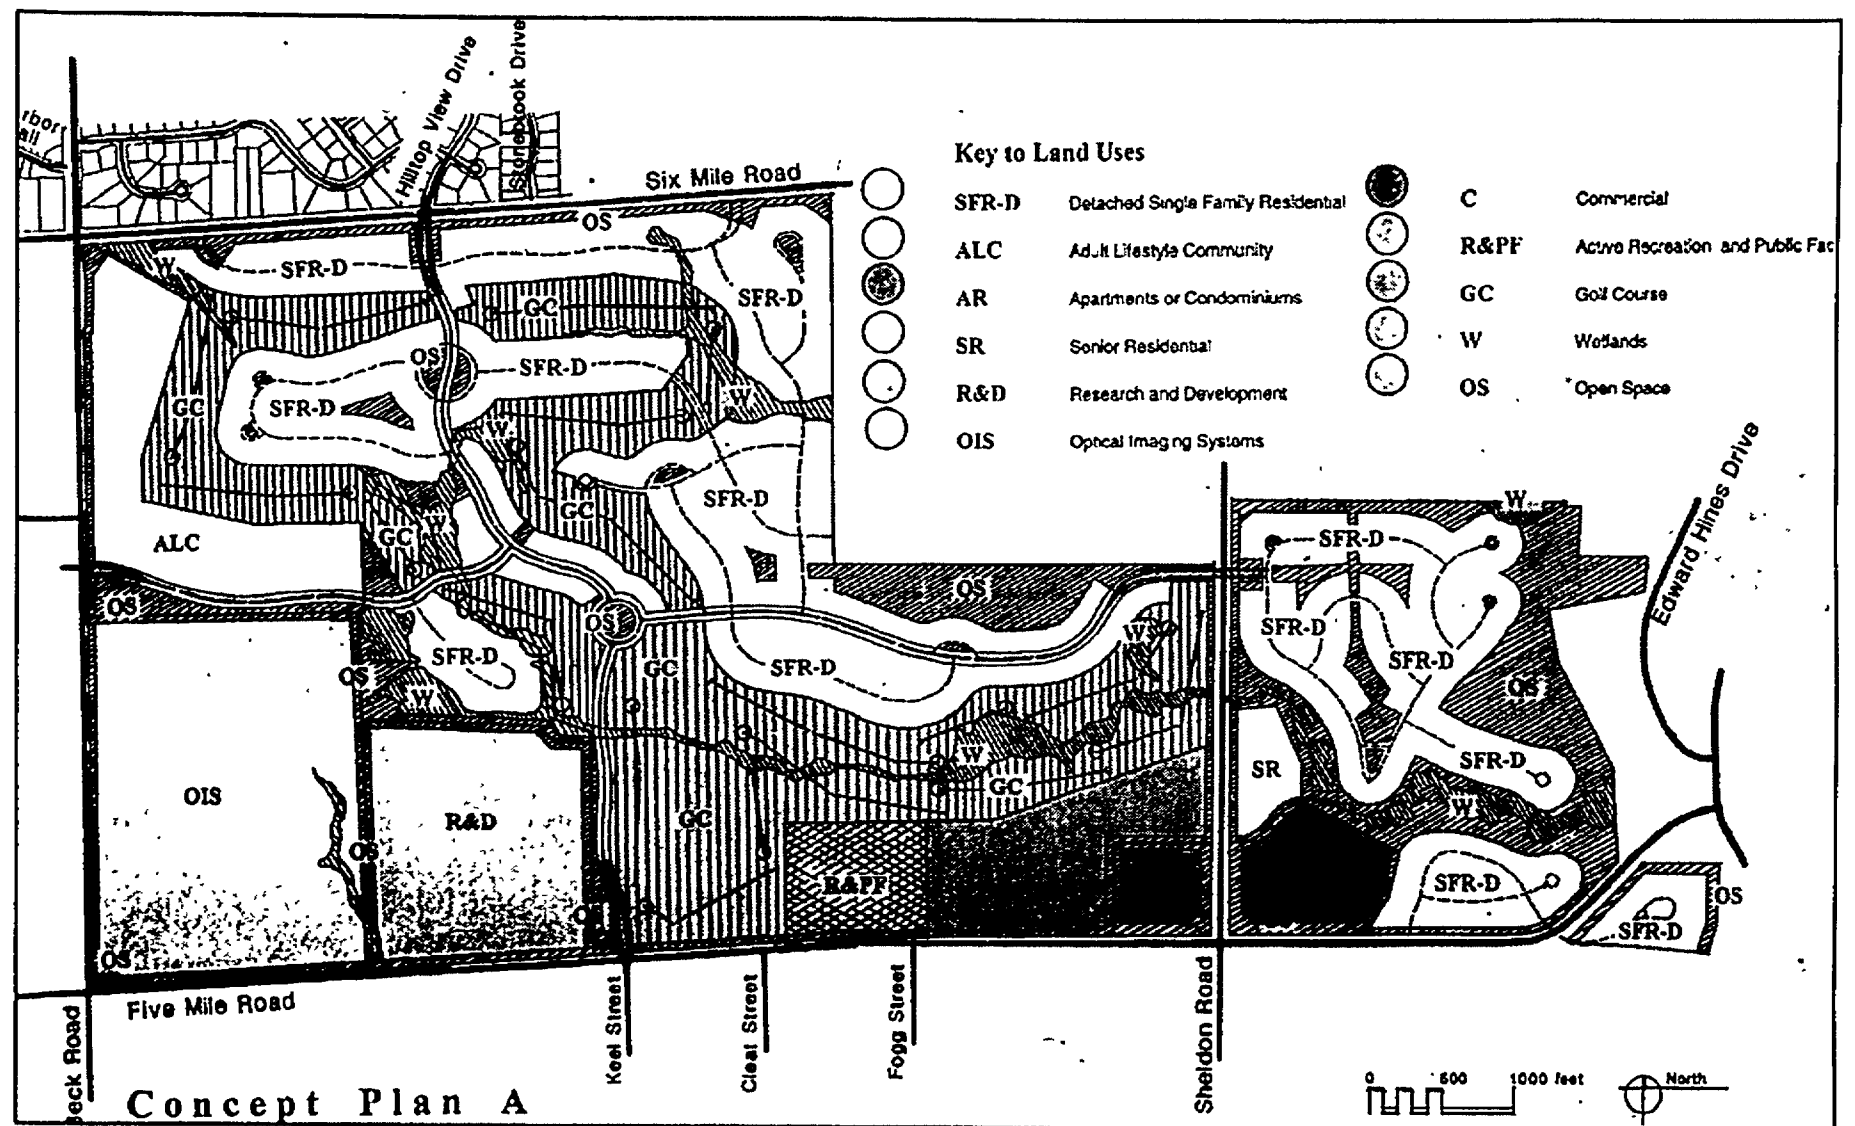

Wayne County's PUD proposal for the 942 acres it owns on the south side of town includes a mix of uses from residential to commercial to industrial. According to county representatives, the proposal offers the township that necessary "substantial benefit."

Most members of the board are less enthusiastic, however, judging by the reactions offered when the trustees had a look at the PUD plan last week. Many of them said the proposal's "benefits" are mostly things that the county should be doing anyway or improvements that's not very "substantial."

The mantra of a majority of the board is this: the land in question, abandoned and neglected by the county for 20 years, is valuable only because of the effort the township has made to become an attractive place for people to live. Therefore, according to the trustees, Wayne County should craft a plan that will make the community that's built on the land gel with what's in the township now.

To most of the board that means things like larger home lots, few to no apartments or condos or shopping centers and free or reduced-price land for public recreation or public facilities like a new fire station or schools. So far trustees don't seem to feel the current PUD plan makes it over that hurdle.

County representatives have disagreed with that characterization, maintaining that Wayne County

The Northville Township Planning Commission on Tuesday (June 25) will consider a new development plan submitted by Wayne County for 942 acres of land it owns on the south side of town. Wayne County wants to develop the land under a planned unit development (PUD) proposal. The PUD is a tradeoff that would allow the county to build things on the site not allowed by current zoning in return for providing a "substantial benefit" to the community in the eyes of the board of trustees. The PUD is an option; neither the township nor the county has to agree to it. But if both sides do an agreement would take the form of a written legal contract.

The township review process requires Wayne County to submit a plan that uses current zoning along with its PUD proposal so the two can be compared. CONCEPT PLAN Does not use current zoning to determine site uses; would require approval of a PUD contract between Northville Township and Wayne County.

Single family homes (SFR-D) would take up most of the site, many of them surrounding an 18-hole golf course. An "adult lifestyle community" (ALC) composed of condominiums would be located along Beck Road. In addition, land for apartments, or condos is earmarked for Five Mile and a parcel reserved for a senior housing complex sits on Sheldon Road. OIS would expand to the north of its current facility and a section of land would be set aside for new research and development (R&D). Commercial shopping would be allowed on both corners of Five and Sheldon. Eighteen acres would be set aside for recreation fields and/or public facilities like a fire station.

has offered a slew of valuable benefits. They've called on the board to compromise and have indicated that what they've offered so far might be as far as Wayne County will go.

Here's a list of the items offered to meet the "substantial benefit" requirement:

- Accelerated demolition of the abandoned buildings on the site, to be done after the sale of the first part of the property to a developer.
- Wayne County says it's willing to sponsor a special assessment district (SAD) with property owners on Six Mile to pave the road between Sheldon and Beck.
- Earmarking 18 acres of land for public recreation or facilities.
- Setting aside sites for seven soccer fields off Hines Drive.

- The 18-hole championship golf course which the county would own and lease to the PGA tour.

- Three hundred more acres of non-built-upon land than would be available in the conventional zoning plan.

- A linked pedestrian walkway system throughout the property.

- An innovative storm water drainage system that would use natural pathways, eliminating the need for pipes and drains.

- A range of housing choices to serve different ages and economic ranges.

- High-quality neighborhood shopping center to be built when demand exists from on-site housing.

- An attractive entry image for the township at the Five Mile and Sheldon intersection.

- A PUD gives the township more control over how the parcel will be developed, including many

- parts of the individual parcel site plan, that it wouldn't have under conventional zoning proposals.

Freshman makes mark in state elective position

Freshmen are rarely seen and even more rarely able to get bills passed.

Not so with first-term James Ryan, R-Redford, whose 1994 victory in a previously Democratic district gave Republicans control of the House for the first time in decades.

Ryan will be on the conference committee deciding the shape of trial court reform in Michigan.

He was given sponsorship of the widely-publicized bill to ban "partial-birth" abortions, signed into law at the state level by Gov. John Engler shortly after President Clinton vetoed a federal bill on the same topic.

And Ryan got another pat on the back when Engler on June 12 signed the "no-form, no-file" income tax option bill.

About one million state taxpayers would have the option of not filing a personal income tax form if their income is only from wages, with less than $100 coming from interest ($200 for those filing jointly).

Livonia planners reject multi theater complex

cerns that the complex would draw more traffic than the roads can handle.

Developers had pledged to pay for road improvements in the area, such as turning lanes, at an estimated initial cost of between $300,000 and $400,000.

Commissioner Patricia Blomberg said she personally favors the theater but that strong sentiment against it influenced her vote.

"I have not heard anyone want this who lives in Livonia," she said. Commission James McCann said he liked many aspects of the proposal but wants to see it scaled down.

"I think it's just a little too intense for that area," he said. McCann said he would be more favorable toward a proposal with fewer theaters and seats and more specific plans for possible retail space.

The commission voted in favor of recommending zoning waivers for two full-service restaurants planned as part of the Paragon Centre. J. Alexander's and Champps Americana. Waivers for using Class C liquor licenses at the planned restaurants were also recommended.

Developers have said the restaurants would not be built unless the theater is also built. But comments to the commission by Jonna seemed to open the door slightly to separate projects.

The Paragon site, 35.4 acres, is zoned for commercial use, but movie theaters and restaurants also require a zoning waiver from the council. If the Paragon Centre is built, developers say, a third restaurant and 43,000 square feet of retail space would be planned.

Higher speed limit measure approved

The Michigan House agreed to Senate amendments on the speed limit bill that knocked out failure to use seat belts as a primary offense. Police will be able to issue tickets for non-usage of seat belts only when they stop a driver for another, primary offense.

The House vote was 77-26. Voting no were area Reps. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, Susan Munsell, R-Howell, Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, and Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt.

Meanwhile, Sen. Doug Carl, R-Macomb County, chief Senate advocate of a 70 mph speed limit, announced the Michigan Department of Transportation's unofficial list of highways that will be used to test the 70-mph speed limit from Aug. 1 to Oct. 31:

• I-94 between M-59 and Port Huron.

• I-69 between Flint and Port Huron.

• I-96 between Lansing and Grand Rapids.

• I-75 between Standish and Grayling.

• I-75 between Grayling and Mackinac City.

• I-75 between Mackinac City and Sault Ste. Marie in the Upper Peninsula.

On-again, off-again hoop goal gets approval of city council

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Despite the concerns of a neighbor and a couple of Northville City Council members, Scott Baldwin's basketball goal will get plenty of use this summer.

The Northville resident and high school junior varsity basketball coach received approval, again, from the council Monday to keep his basketball goal that sits permanently anchored on city right-of-way on the dead-end portion of Dubuar Street.

The approval came by the narrowest of margins as Mayor Chris Johnson cast the deciding vote to break a 2-2 council deadlock, allowing the goal to remain.

It is the third time in one year that the council has made a ruling on the goal and the issue has had more bounces than a basketball rebounding off a backboard. Baldwin had been forced by city officials to remove the basketball goal last June because it represented a violation of a city ordinance, and council members were concerned about safety and liability issues.

Those concerns, for some council members, seemed to go away last month when the council voted 4-1 to allow Baldwin to re-erect the basketball goal. Mayor pro tem Carolann Ayers cast the dissenting vote.

At the council's regular meeting June 3, however, resident Jim Harris protested the council's "Streets are designed and intended to be used by the motoring public. Recreational activities should remain off-road on public and private streets."

-Gary Word
Northville City Manager

approval of the basketball goal. Harris is Baldwin's neighbor and told councilmembers that the pick-up games are dangerous to kids and block his only entrance to his home. Harris' concerns forced the council to revisit the issue Monday.

"I think approving this would send the wrong message to kids, and I think allowing kids to play in the street is unsafe," he said.

City Manager Gary Word, who has consistently recommended against allowing the basketball goal, cited the same warnings to city officials - that permitting children to play in the street adds an unnecessary liability to the community.

"Streets are designed and intended to be used by the motoring public," Word said.

"Recreational activities should remain off-road on public and private streets."

Baldwin's pole is located on a city easement on the dead-end portion of Dubuar Street, adjacent to his residence at 333 N. Rogers.

Addressing the council Baldwin said that playing basketball in the street is safer than other recreational activities which young people sometimes end up engaged in.

"I happen to believe that playing in the street with a bright orange ball is safer than a kid in the streets with rollerblades or bikes," Baldwin said. "I know that two wrongs don't make a right, but the truth is that kids are going to play in the street, and the kids that use (the basketball goal) are playing on a dead-end portion and are supervised by adults."

That, according to Harris, is not good enough.

"I had a daughter who was hit by a car on that street, and I don't believe that allowing kids to play basketball there is safe."

Harris said that he never approved of the basketball goal in the first place, and added that he was not one of the neighbors who signed a petition presented by Baldwin to councilmembers showing support from the neighborhood.

According to Parks and Recreation Director Traci Sincok, there are plenty of opportunities for basketball enthusiasts to use various city basketball courts.

"We provide open gym at the Recreation Center every day," she said. There are also four basketball courts located at Cooke Middle School, and in several neighborhood parks.

Former councilmember Paul Folino, who voted against the goal last year, said the city was taking on a huge liability.

"I don't think that this is what the city really wants. I have to believe that the city is more safety conscious than that," Folino said. "I just cannot see putting children in danger, and by allowing them to play in the street, that's exactly what the city is doing."

To protect the city from liability the Baldwins must purchase $500,000 in additional liability insurance and agree to hold the city harmless in the event of an accident.

"I don't think $500,000 is enough," said Folino, a former insurance agent.

"I would hate to see the city have to pay additional damages and be forced to raise taxes, all because of someone being hurt on that street. I think allowing the goal is dangerous to kids and to city taxpayers."

ON THE ROAD TO GOOD HEALTH, IT'S ALWAYS WISE TO BRING SOMEONE WHO KNOWS THE WAY.

No one is more qualified as a guide to healthy living than a primary care physician. And by choosing one from The Detroit Medical Center (DMC), you and your family will be assured expert care every step of the way.

To start, our primary care physicians specialize in one of four areas: family medicine, internal medicine, pediatrics or ob/gyn. This allows you to select one who best suits your needs.

And with seven hospitals, 45 outpatient centers and nearly 700 office locations, it's easy to get the care you need within minutes from your home or workplace.

Finally, and perhaps the greatest advantage of having a primary care physician from the DMC, is the wealth of resources available to you. For instance, anyone in your family can be quickly referred to a specialist if needed. The DMC provides care in 80 medical specialties and subspecialties. In fact, the DMC is renowned for specialized treatment in many areas including cancer, heart disease and birth defects.

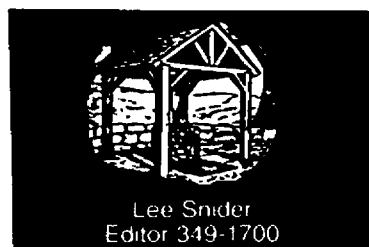

And, thanks in part to ongoing partnerships with the Karmanos Cancer Institute and Wayne State University School of Medicine, the DMC's role as a leader continues to grow.

In short, providing your family with some of the most comprehensive health care in the country starts with a primary care physician from the DMC.

Call us at 1-800-666-3466. It's the first step toward good health. And for every step that follows, we'll be there to guide you.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Tragedy, big liability could result from vote

"Don't play in the street!"

How many times, in how many neighborhoods across the country, have we heard parents admonish their children for endangering themselves during playtime?

Northville seems to be the lone exception.

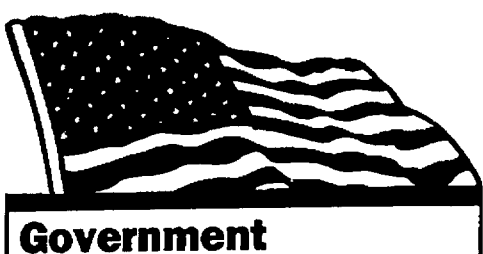

Monday, the city council narrowly approved, for the second time in one month, resident Scott Baldwin's request to erect a basketball goal in a city right-of-way on the dead-end portion of Dubuay Street.

The decision will allow kids to play pick-up basketball games in the street, and we believe the council is setting a very dangerous precedent for several reasons.

First, by allowing Baldwin to erect that goal on a city right-of-way the council is permitting an action that runs counter to its own ordinance. For that reason alone, the council should have expressed its apprehensions and told Baldwin to pack up the basketball goal. At the very least city officials should have forced Baldwin to request a variance from the planning commission or zoning board of appeals - the two committees that are charged with overseeing and enforcing city ordinances.

Then there are the safety issues. It doesn't take a degree in quantum physics to understand that when you mix kids at play, a city street, and moving automobiles, one of these days you are going to have an accident and the result could be a seriously - or even tragically - injured youngster.

No amount of adult supervision is going to keep an accident from happening. Just check the statistics on child drownings in family swimming pools and it becomes apparent - something is bound to happen despite all the safeguards.

Finally there is the issue of liability. If an accident takes place at this makeshift basketball court and there is a serious or fatal injury, who's responsible?

That question is simple to answer. The city is responsible because it happened on city property. A good attorney would drool hungrily upon learning that the city had, by its vote, endorsed the concept of children playing in the street.

That $500,000 liability policy the Baldwins were forced to purchase would be pocket change compared to a jury award to a grieving family who had lost a son or daughter while playing on city property.

And who would pay? You guessed it, the taxpayers would be forced to bear the cost. That would probably incense the very people who showed up at the council chambers Monday to voice their support for the Baldwins and the basketball goal.

It's true kids will continue to play in streets, and unfortunately a few will end up hurt. That doesn't mean, however, that we should endorse the idea. We believe the council was wrong to allow the basketball goal, and would encourage them to revisit the issue one last time and decline the request once and for all.

Confusion can lead to burnout at polls

Apparently Gov. John Engler heard our complaints. And he has responded.

Local communities complained pretty loud and long over the cost of holding a special election for the state Senate seat vacated by David Honigman, due to illness, and now filled by Willis Bullard.

All told, the cost of running the special election to fill the seat cost the communities of the district $500,000. The Northville clerk's office puts the cost to the city at $6,000. And the state has made the determination that it would not pick up those expenses.

Now that Bullard has been promoted, there's an empty House seat to think about. So this month, Gov. Engler announced that the special election would be held in conjunction with the regular fall primary and general elections.

The effect is that while voters are picking who will fill that seat for the coming 1997-98 term, they will also be voting on the replacement to fill the seat through the fall, during what is typically known as the "Lame duck" session.

The solution relieves the concern over costs. But it is also going to be extremely confusing to voters. They'll be in the position of having to cast ballots twice for the same candidate for the same seat in the same election - an act which would normally be a sure tip off that they were filling out their ballots incorrectly and in danger of having them invalidated. And there is the possibility that different candidates could win the two elections, giving one a term running only through January, and the other a two-year term not starting until January.

It seems almost as if this is a "damned if you do, damned if you don't" scenario where there is truly no good way to solve the problem.

But it makes you wonder if it wouldn't be wiser to let the seat remain vacant for the rest of the term, to be filled once the regular fall election has taken place. Somehow, that doesn't seem like the best possible solution, but the time involved in filling the seat during lame duck session is going to be short anyway.

Or maybe there should be an appointment system in place, just allowing the representative to be named to the seat until the normal election can be held. After all, that is the way they handle these things at the local level.

Another possible solution is to add some provision in law allowing an elected representative to take office early if the seat is vacant.

But the craziness that has followed the resignation of Honigman shows there is some need for attention to the question of how to fill seats when time is short before the next election.

The number of elections voters in this area face this year is sure to cause them to lose interest.

It's appropriate to try to keep the costs down, but the confusion these elections cause voters shouldn't be overlooked either.

Who's the grown up here?

Robert Jackson

I got a few comments from some upset parents, who stopped me on the street last week, complaining that we hadn't included all of the honors awarded Northville High School seniors during the recent Honors Convocation.

I have to admit I'm a bit baffled by the comments because we had published a full page listing the students that received awards. The only portion that was missing was the list of national scholarships that were awarded to various students.

I guess our full page effort wasn't good enough for some parents, who thought that all of their kids' awards should have been featured.

Hmmm, I wonder if any of those people decided to leave the honors convocation early to catch, let's say, a certain playoff hockey game on television?

Anyway, the most interesting part of the whole story is that the parents seemed more concerned about the awards than the students. Which brings me back to my opening statement, and a brief conversation I had with a Meads Mill Middle School student last week.

I was at the school to shoot a quick photo of some kids who fared well in a recent state industrial arts competition, and when I was through one of the kids walked up to me and made one simple statement - "I don't know what the big deal is. I didn't expect (the newspaper) to take my photo for something I should be doing anyway."

Brilliance.

Pure brilliance.

This particular student said in one sentence what I tried to convey to people in this town the entire school year. This young man understood that his reward for all of his efforts was not only the ribbon he won at the competition, but the feeling of accomplishment he received from working hard and giving his best effort.

This young man also realized that life does not just hand you an award for participating, and that sometimes even your best effort gets overlooked. He was telling me, in a sense, that he didn't necessarily need the local newspaper to tell him he had done a good job.

That understanding showed me more maturity than those parents who wanted to climb all over me for not publishing each and every award won by their sons and daughters at honors convocation.

Don't get me wrong, recognition for an outstanding performance - whether it be in the classroom or in the community - is an important thing, but when it becomes all consuming that recognition begins to lose its luster.

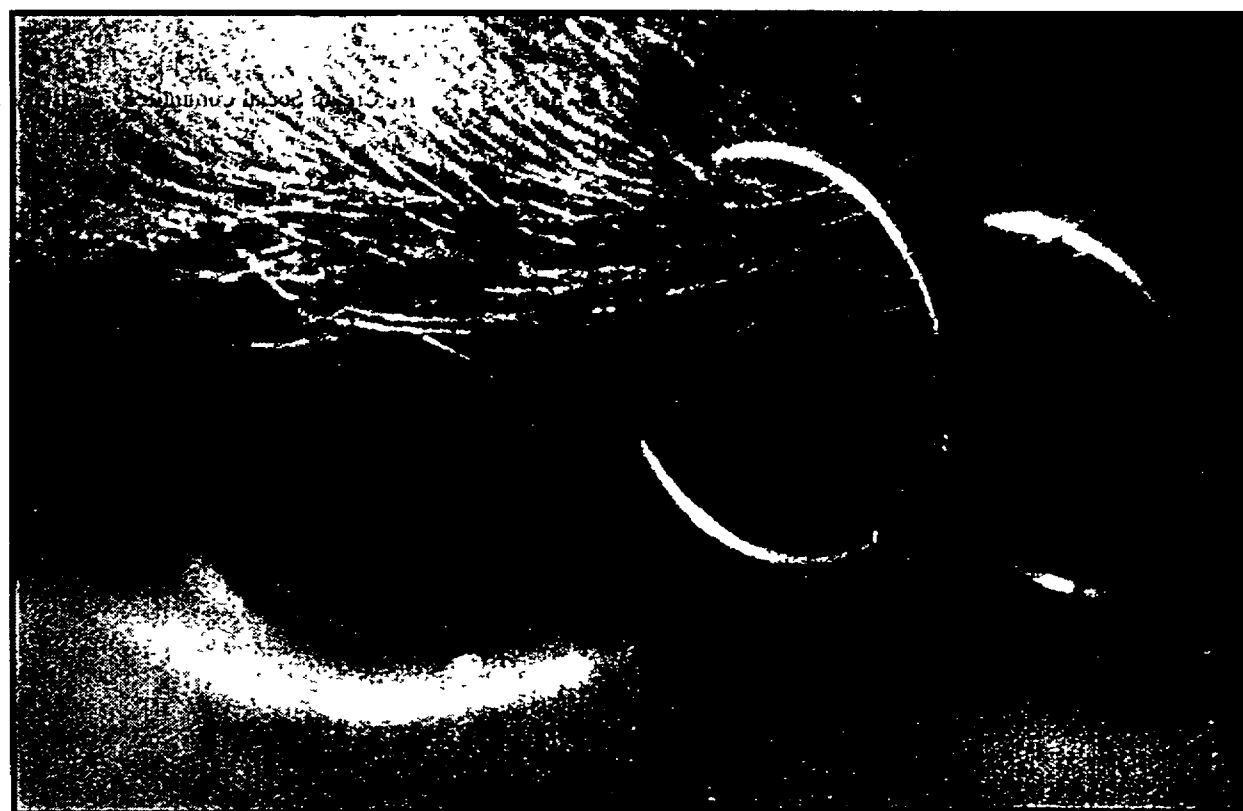

If we give out hundreds of awards for just participating, then the motivation to push ourselves to achieve beyond our expectations and the expectations of others is weakened.

When that happens life itself becomes average, and that's something we shouldn't allow to occur - for our kids sake.

Some impressions last forever

All right, bear with me, I'm going to get sentimental. Break out the tissues.

Wendy Pierman Mitzel

This month some of the teachers who taught me how to spell and calculate and write Haiku poetry retired from the Novi school district. I spent 13 years in those schools and now report on them.

At a district retirement party filled with both personal and professional family and friends, these educators were wished the best in their future endeavors and given a fond farewell.

It was just as sentimental for the local reporter as it was for many of the educators who've spent their life in the classroom.

It's true that teachers give you some of the best lessons of your life. And they all don't have to relate to paper and pencil or chalk and chalkboard.

One Orchard Hills Elementary School teacher has remembered me throughout the years as I've bumped into her out and around the city.

She refers to all her students, young and old, as "Our Betty" or "Our Michael."

This wonderful woman, Mrs. Ann Prine, was the first teacher to tell me that getting in trouble can teach you something.

It wasn't a big deal, looking back, but at the time it was my first brush with the principal's office.

You see, I got myself in a pickle in first grade when a friend and I got into an argument during lunch. On impulse, I threw the shredded cheese from his taco lunch at his face and he dumped chocolate milk over my head.

The lunch lady came running as I started screaming. Then I sat petrified and sobbing outside the principal's office waiting to be sentenced.

I'm not sure whether I thought I was going to get raked over hot coals or what, but when Mrs. Prine walked up and started laughing I couldn't figure out what was going on.

It's not that big of a deal, she told me, getting in trouble every now and then.

It teaches you something.

That was probably the nicest thing anybody ever told me, although I still had to eat lunch outside Principal (Joseph) Imrtek's office for some time with my partner in crime.

Another elementary school teacher at Orchard Hills, Mrs. Corrine Wedge, encouraged my love of reading. It was in her third grade class that I stayed inside during recess to read.

And from Del "Government is My Life" Munson, the retiring high school government teacher, I learned it's not so bad to be a Democrat.

To all of these teachers I say congratulations and good luck.

And most of all, I say "Thank You."

Sports center is no free lunch

I understand that Novi has a new Mini Grand Plan. This new venture sounds almost too good to be true. Can you imagine getting a free lunch? As we all know there is no such thing as a free lunch. People should be aware through The Northville Record of exactly what is going on with this new Mini Grand Plan.

An explanation is in order as to what this new plan entails.

As was published in The Northville Record on Thursday, May 30, written by staff writer Jan Jeffries, the Parks and Recreation director Dan Davis said, "The Sports Club could provide a good partnership opportunity for the city." Novi could buy land from the developer and continue with current plans for a joint public/private ice arena with the Community Sports Club.

In talking with Dan Davis, he said there was not a lot of pressure for this to come in front of the council now. But also said that he has been working on the ice arena plan for four years and this plan must be completed by the spring of 1997. Apparently, according to Davis, there is now only one site presently being considered by the city for an ice arena which is the Meyer Berry Farm property. Davis also indicated he did not want a lot of press on this issue as it could be negative. Could our parks and recreation director be under the gun?

For the benefit of those who don't have a clue as to what is currently in the works, and being hard pressed on every side, let me explain. The Meyer Berry Farm on Eight Mile Road is for sale. A private commercial enterprise called The Sports Club from West Bloomfield has made an offer to owner Larry Meyer, contingent upon City of Novi approval, to place a commercial venture in a residential district. Once the sale is completed, the City of Novi wants to purchase enough property from The Sports Club to build an ice arena.

The property in question is within the S.W.A.N. (South West Association Novi)... domain (between Beck Road and Napier, between Eight Mile and Nine and a half mile roads.) The current zoning on most of this section is (residential/agricultural) large lot or one acre parcels. With this new proposed venture comes a need for rezoning. With the need to rezoning comes a political battle.

Are you a resident with a well? Did you know that in order to build two such structures at that proposed site your water could be affected? There will obviously be a need to dig sewer lines to take care of things. According to JCK, city engineers, there is not even a proposal for sewers to service any of the proposed development in this section of Beck Road to Napier off Eight Mile Road.

What sort of sewer will service this area? Will we be seeing another deep sewer like the one at Beck and Nine Mile roads? What affect will it have on the water table of the wells of the residents in this area? Will it again affect the Garfield residents' ponds?

The city's answer to getting commercial buildings into residential districts is simply "just create a new zoning." If they create a zoning called "recreation," by golly they could put a sports facility anywhere. How about your backyard?

Recreational zoning doesn't even exist in Novi but to accommodate the sale of this individual property the City of Novi is urgently, and we mean urgently, trying to pull out all the stops to get this passed. As it now stands recreational facilities are only permitted in I1 and I2 (Industrial) zoning.

Lastly, just how is this an answer to the need to provide public recreation to the residents of Novi? True, we could sure use an ice arena and we're all for it. However, with an ice arena being connected to a private commercial enterprise and with hefty membership fees to both facilities (approximately $75 per month/$900 per year), could it be that only the rich and famous can afford it?

Just how is that serving the general public of this city? Only about 12 percent of Novi residents would benefit. Can this be "Berries" for the City of Novi? Or is the city turning into a "Pumpkin"?

The S.W.A.N. organization invites the city manager, the mayor, and the head of parks and recreation to come and explain how this venture will benefit them or any other resident of Novi. Please contact John Avdonlos, chairperson for S.W.A.N., at (810) 348-6236, or Bill Szur, associate chairperson, at (810) 349-0454 for the time and date of the next meeting.

I would like to give special thanks to Mr. Robert Taub and Mr. Glenn Bonaventura for showing concerns for the welfare of every citizen of Novi and encouraging the property owners in their formation of S.W.A.N.

Huge senior bash was huge success

To the Editor:

We'd like to thank everyone who helped make the "96 All Night Party" a huge success. This party is such a tremendous undertaking that without your full support it would not have been possible. It was so amazing to see how everyone rallied to our support and pitched in where they were needed.

Some of you gave hours of your time, others were creative geniuses, and still others gave generous donations. As we walked around that evening it was very clear how fortunate we were to have such motivated committees. We'd especially like to thank everyone who chaired committees.

Decorations: Gary and Elaine Morrow, Bill and Susan Hitchcock.

Entertainment: Joanne and Andy Dalziel.

Treasurer: Martha Nield
Buffet: Rosemary and Dave Bartlett, Mary Cutting, and Susie Rompel.

Casino: Bob Willerer.

Publicity and Tear Down: Ron McNeal.

Security: Phyllis and Pat Kennedy.

Breakfast: Kathi Jerome, Paula Rivard, Phyllis Heckemeyer.

Check Room: Judy McNeal.

Telephoning: Susan Redden.

Though there were ups and downs as the party evolved, we can honestly say all the time and effort was well worth it.

The kids truly had the time of their lives and were extremely grateful.

The memories they'll have of that evening will be with them forever. Everyone involved deserves a huge pat on the back.

Thanks.

Great people worked on social

To the Editor:

We would like to thank all the parents, students, staff, and neighbors who made the 1996 Amerman Ice Cream Social a huge success.

The weather was great, the games exciting (especially the dunk tank), the pony rides a hit, and of course the ice cream sundaes were delicious.

Please help us thank all these great people for their hard work and dedication to Amerman Elementary School. Without them Amerman Elementary School would not be the excellent school it is today.

Students grateful for pizza lesson

To the Editor:

One of the benefits of living in a still smallish town is the kindness and accessibility of many of the local merchants. The willingness of Papa Romano's to accommodate my class of 5-year-olds to tour their store and prepare pizza lunches demonstrates the very finest quality of community participation in the growth of its youngsters.

What follows is the students' personal message, but I would like the community to know that I, too, am most grateful for Papa Romano's example of fine business and awareness of the value of community.

Stephanie Rutter

To Mr. Rich and Mr. Rich:

Thank you for letting us make pizza. It tasted good and scrumptious! It was fun to choose our own drinks. We liked seeing how your store works. You worked very nicely with us. We would like to come back with our parents. You worked hard and we thank you.

Thank you goes to dance helpers

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all the parents, students, and school personnel who helped with the Cooke and Meads Mill eighth grade dance. Special thanks to the high school afternoon custodial staff who went above and beyond the call of duty to help us decorate the high school cafeteria.

Thanks also to Salutations for the use of their air machine.

This was a very special night for the students who will now become the Class of 2000. Thank you to everyone who made their first meeting as one group so memorable.

Whose economics text said that?

To the Editor:

Perhaps the fact that I didn't take any courses in the field of economics while in college accounts for my ignorance on the subject.

Robert D. Hershey Jr. writes in the June 8 issue of the New York Times that interest rates and inflation have a tendency to move upward because business activity is strong. Hershey goes on to say that because the economy is heating up the Federal Reserve might have to move to slow down the growth rate of the economy so as to prevent a jump in inflation.

I was under the obviously false impression that economic growth is good; that low unemployment rates were not at all bad; and that low interest rates were good because they stimulated the economy.

So, in the topsy-turvy world of economics, economic growth is bad; increased employment sets off volatile trading in the stock market; the bond market tumbles; and long-term interest rates surge upward.

One wishes that the "invisible hand" that influences economic matters was more visible so that one could learn why it ticks the way it does.

Civil, rational approach wins with us

The election season is approaching. Pretty soon the airwaves will be filled with sound bites and the TV screens with negative ads. Charge and counter-charge will be the order of the day.

Now, before all this overwhelms us, is a good time to pause and reflect on the state of our politics.

One way or another, I've been either covering or participating in American politics for 30 years.

I have never seen such negative and uncivil content infesting our political process.

It isn't enough merely to disagree with your opponent on the substance of policy. It seems necessary these days to intentionally malign your opponent's character, question his morality and distort his or her record.

Much of this, I submit, has come from the general emotional power of political advertising on television and, in particular, on its most recent manifestation, the negative ad.

Survey research shows clearly that most people get most of their information about politics from television. Political professionals distinguish between news - "free media" in their nomenclature - and "paid media."

Given adequate money, the pros by and large prefer paid media as the medium of choice by which to communicate with the electorate. If only because they thereby avoid having to deal with nosy and mostly uncontrollable reporters. This is especially so when they decide to "go negative," a tactic that usually requires the unchallenging environment of TV time, bought and paid for.

Moreover, the pros have discovered that the easiest way to get around the legal limitations on campaign spending is to collaborate with so-called "independent" committees - wink, wink; nod, nod - that have "no links" to the campaign. Independence makes them immune from reporting and disclosure requirements, while the lack of linkage provides the candidate with useful deniability when an outrageous lapse of taste or honesty takes place.

In parceling out blame for this downward spiral, the news media bear an important and largely overlooked share.

Most television stations, which charge premium rates for political ads, are reluctant to bite the hand that feeds them by subjecting these same ads to the fierce scrutiny of their newsmen before they are run. Some newspapers try to analyze the content and evaluate the distortions of TV advertising, but the stories usually run too late to immunize public understanding.

Given our tight local focus at this newspaper, we can't do much about presidential or senatorial elections. But we do cover - and have a clear responsibility to cover, with aggressive integrity - congressional and state legislative races, as well as various local contests. For the record, here's our policy with respect to political advertising:

- We will not accept political ads for our newspaper that we know are untrue. Where we are suspicious, we will check with our newsroom before running the ad.

- We will not accept for publication in the last edition before the election an ad that makes a new charge without contacting the opponent to offer an opportunity to rebut.

- We will review - for accuracy, taste and relevance - television ads run by candidates in our circulation area. In particular, we will assume that ads run by "independent" committees are controlled by the candidate unless offered compelling proof that this is not so.

- Our endorsements will be based in part on whether candidates contribute to a rational discussion of the issues and a civil tone to the campaign.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (313) 953-2047, ext. 1880.

SCC offers classes to beat those summer doldrums

Students who, though they might not admit it, are bored with summer vacation can take a variety of enrichment classes at Schoolcraft College, and learn about fire fighting, the theater, drawing cartoons or how to write their own book.

Schoolcraft College offers two summer programs for students 4-years-old through high school. Kaleidoscope presents classes in math, computers, the arts and science. A sampling includes "Are You Ready for Algebra?", "Keyboarding and Wordprocessing," "Cartoon Capers" and "Detective School for Kids."

All Kaleidoscope classes except the fire academy two or three weeks. Monday through Thursday, and begin July 15. Fees range from $71-78. For information, call (313) 462-4448.

Sidewalk lunches OK'd for Main Street restaurant

Care for a breath of fresh air with your meal?

Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant will soon become a restaurant with no walls at all. The Northville City Council has given Genitti's permission to set up dining tables on the sidewalk in front of the restaurant at 108 E. Main.

The famed eatery is awaiting the final OK from the state Liquor Control Commission, and when that comes through 12-15 two-person tables will be assembled and set apart from the pedestrian walkway by wrought iron fencing.

"We think it's time for this," owner John Genitti said. "Ann Arbor has about 55 restaurants with outdoor tables and now Royal Oak and Troy are getting into it, too. This is a good experiment for us and an important step for the city."

Edward's Caterers on Dunlap has outdoor tables but no Main Street restaurant offers outside dining.

Genitti said lunch is the only meal that will be offered outdoors at his place, but popular demand could change that in the future. Sandwiches and hors d'oeuvres will be offered on nights when the theater is open.

"We won't be offering our seven-course dinner, but we'll have light sandwiches and munchies on our theater days at night."

No one ever said fashion had to be limited to the clothes you wear on your back. Urban Optiks, 105 Main Centre, which approaches eyewear as if it were fine art, is preparing to unveil the Matsuda and Martine Sitbon collections as part of its 1996 line of fancy frames and extravagant eye decor.

The store will conduct a special preview of the designer glasses from 4-9 p.m. Friday, June 28. The showing will feature the entire Matsuda and Martine Sitbon collections.

Call 347-9058 for information.

Local residents still have time to take their garage sales to downtown Northville.

The Northville Central Business Association has decided to expand its annual sidewalk sale this year to include individual sellers in addition to merchants.

"People can rent a sidewalk space and sell anything they would sell at a garage sale," said event chairperson Lorie Wyant of Salutations. "We're calling it a 'Bargain Bazaar,' and everyone's welcome to join in."

According to Wyant, Northville merchants will mark down their merchandise and display it on the sidewalk as in past sidewalk sales. But this year anyone who wants can set up a table and take advantage of all the downtown traffic.

The sale area will include Main Street between Hutton and Wing, and Center between Dunlap and Cady.

The event is scheduled for 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, July 27. Spaces approximately 8-feet-by-10 feet will cost $15. Available is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Call Wyant at 349-3537 for information.

Summer school signup extends into next week

Registration for Northville Public School summer school classes will continue until June 26.

Students are encouraged to register early to ensure classes planned are not canceled due to lack of enrollment. No registrations will be accepted after Wednesday, June 26.

Register in person at the board of education offices (three blocks west of Center Street); Room 308, between the hours of 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. If registering by mail, please forward registration form with fees to: Northville Public Schools, Summer School Office, 501 W. Main St., Northville, MI 48167. Call 344-8442 with questions.

SCHEDULE

Classes will be held Monday through Friday. Classes will not be held July 4 and 5 due to the legal holiday observed on Thursday, July 4.

• Elementary classes begin June 26 and run through July 24. Class times are 8:15-10:15 and 10:20-12:20 (38 hours of instruction, 19 days).

• Middle School classes begin June 26 and run through July 31. Class times are 8:10-10:30 a.m. and 10:35 a.m.-1:05 p.m. (60 hours of instruction, 24 days).

• High School classes begin June 26 and run through July 31. Class times are 8:10-10:30 a.m. and 10:35 a.m.-1:05 p.m. (60 hours of instruction, 24 days).

ATTENDANCE

Attendance is very important in summer school. High school students are allowed to miss two class periods without penalty. They will be dropped from class on the third absence. When a student arrives 15 minutes after the start of class, it is counted as an absence.

Two tardies equal one absence. Fees - Due at time of registration.

Elementary: $120 resident/$135 non-resident.

Middle/High School: $130 resident/$145 non-resident.

REFUNDS

No refunds are given after the first week of class. Prior to this, a $10 charge is assessed unless the class is canceled. In this case, parents will be notified with fees returned in full.

TRANSPORTATION

No transportation is provided.

ROOM NUMBERS

Room assignments will be made the first day of class.

Madonna class combines academics and practicality

Beginning this fall, Madonna University will initiate two programs which, true to the institution's mission, combine a strong liberal arts foundation with solid career preparation and a commitment to serving others.

A new Health Care Career Options (HCCO) program offers students an intensive one-year exploration of the range of opportunities in health care and other service professions.

"At the end of the second semester, students determine where they want to concentrate their studies," said Dr. Mary Wawrzynski, dean of the college of nursing and health. "This can be in any health care or service career such as child development, health care social work, dietetics/nutrition or one of the university's other majors."

The plan of study includes courses in medical terminology, health problems, anatomy and physiology, to name a few. Each HCCO student will receive a certificate of completion for fulfilling the program requirements, a minimum of 30 semester hours.

Students must take a minimum of 24 semester hours in courses to complete the minor. Required courses may include: "Major American Writers: Beginnings to 1900"; "Classics of African-American Literature"; "Voices of Pluralism in American Literature"; and "Economic and Business History of the United States."

For more information call the Admissions Office (313) 432-5339, TTY: (313) 432-5643.

Obituaries

STANLEY E. CHRISTENBERRY

Stanley E. Christenberry died June 11, 1996, in Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills at age 83. He was born in Murray, Ky., on Aug. 18, 1912, to Sam and Beulah May (Kirkland) Christenberry.

Mr. Christenberry retired in 1995 as a salesman for the Smith Welding & Equipment Co. after 38 years of service.

He served in the U.S. Army during World War II, and was a member of Four Square Lodge No. 537, F&AM in Birmingham, Mich.

He was survived by his wife, Kathleen of Farmington Hills; daughter, Jean of Farmington Hills; brother, Dwight of Hazel Park; and sister, Bronzie Young of Murray, Ky.

Services were held on Thursday, June 13, in the Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home in Northville with The Rev. James P. Russell, First Presbyterian Church, Northville, officiating. Interment was at Glen Eden Cemetery, Livonia.

EDWARD BRUCE

Edward Bruce died on June 10, 1996, at Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills at age 78. He was born in Dubois, Pa., on May 21, 1918, to Paul and Stella (Lichner) Bogucki.

Mr. Bruce was a professional wrestler during the 1950s through the late 1970s. He began wrestling at the Kronk Boy's Club in Detroit before serving in the Navy during World War II.

After the war he teamed up with another wrestler and together they became the "Russian Kalmikoff Brothers." They won the World's Tag Team Championship and appeared in ads for Chevrolet and Smirnoff Vodka. After the death of his partner he wrestled solo as "Ivan the Terrible."

After his retirement from wrestling, Mr. Bruce worked for the city of Detroit. After retiring from work and moving to the Northville area, Mr. Bruce worked part-time at Novi High School.

He is survived by his wife of 55 years, Virginia; three sons, Gary of Daytona Beach, Fla., David of Northville, and James of South Lyon; three daughters, Penny Benton of Ocala, Fla., Pamela Jewel of Turners Falls, Mass., and Lisa Roberts of Baton Rouge, La.; sister, Wanda Jednak; four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

A mass was held on Thursday, June 13, at Holy Family Church in Novi.

Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery, Northville.

DOROTHY R. ROUSSEAU

Dorothy R. Rousseau, a resident of the Metropolitan area died June 14, 1996 at Harper Hospital in Detroit. She was 58. Mrs. Rousseau was born in East McKeesport, Pa., on April 10, 1938, to Clyde and Josephine Bales.

She had worked in nursing home office management. She is survived by her husband, Raymond F.; son, Michael; and daughter, Anne-Marie.

A visitation was held on Sunday at the Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home of Northville.

A service to celebrate Mrs. Rousseau's life was held at St. Timothy United Methodist Church in Detroit on Monday, June 17, with Rev. Sharon Niefert officiating. Interment took place at Grand Lawn Cemetery, Detroit.

Arrangements were made by Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home.

Bills aim to curb Kevorkian practices

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A group of suburban legislators has introduced a package of pain management bills aimed at cutting the market for Dr. Jack Kevorkian's services.

"People not able to have their illnesses treated adequately or who are in chronic, intolerable pain may seek out people such as Dr. Kevorkian out of desperation," said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Phymouth, referring to the retired West Bloomfield pathologist who has attended 28 suicides.

Rep. John Jamlan, R-Bloomfield Township, sees pain management as a key method of cutting the assisted suicide market. The Legislature's law making assisted suicide a felony has expired. Prosecutors in two counties have been unable to persuade juries to convict Kevorkian of anything under either statute or common law.

Other bill sponsors are committee members Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, and Michael Griffin, D-Jackson. The bills were unveiled at a June 5 news conference during the closing week of the regular legislative session.

Meanwhile, Gov. John Engler signed Law's House Bill 5490, a separate license measure for hospices. The measure exempts them from nursing home rules, such as types of care and limitation on visiting hours. Engler praised the bipartisan support for the new law.

"These are options," Law said of the package. "There are many experts in Michigan who can alleviate pain and make living more tolerable and less depressing."

Two experts endorsed the measures.

Dr. Howard Brody of the Michigan State Medical Society said, "If we want to reduce the number of people seeking physician-assisted suicide, the number of people who are so frustrated with pain that they would seek death as a better option, we need to make a difference. We can improve medical practice."

Dr. Joel Saper of the Michigan Head Pain and Neurological Institute of Ann Arbor, said, "These people suffering intractable pain can be helped. The Pain Commission will help advise and will provide input from the various important organizations and players."

Here is an outline of the package:

- House Bill 5939 - recognizes that intractable pain requires coverage under health care contracts and policies, and that use of controlled substances is appropriate in its treatment.

- HB 5940 - requires a physician treating a patient with intractable pain to advise the patient about the option of referral to a center for advanced care.

- HB 5941 - requires health insurers to cover evaluation and treatment of intractable pain at centers for advanced care.

- HB 5942 - same requirement for health maintenance organizations (HMO).

- HB 5943 - same for health care corporations.

- HB 5944 - defines "center for advanced care" as an accredited facility with pain management specialists; defines "intractable pain" as severe and persistent pain that is disabling and cannot be reduced by reasonable treatment efforts; and creates a 22-member "Michigan Commission on Pain" within the state Department of Community Health.

Library Lines

LIBRARY HOURS: Regular hours of the Northville District Library are Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

SUMMER READING PROGRAM: Attention kids of all ages ... Summer Reading Program 1996 "The Colorful World of Library Kids" is going on now through July 26. Travel the world as a summer reader of Read-to-Me Listener and visit exotic places through exciting books and programs featuring live animals from around the world, extraordinary magicians, magnificent musicians and master storytellers. Journey into an adventure with books and special programs at the library and sail into summer fun. Program calendars are available at the library. Registration started at the library on June 14.

FRESHMILK STORYTIME: Storytimes will be included in the fantastic summer reading program fun. Join us for stories and a whole lot more. Designed for children aged 3 1/2-5 who are not yet in kindergarten. There is a limit of 25 attendees. Please register at the library for the following dates:

- Monday, June 24, at 11 a.m. or 2 p.m. - Registration started June 14.
- Monday, July 15, at 11 a.m. or 2 p.m. - Registration begins Monday, June 24.

HOME PAGE: The library now has a home page on the Internet. Visit <http://tln.lib.mi.us/~nort/> to check on construction progress, learn about our programs and even ask the librarian a reference question.

FANTASY BASEBALL: Ninety-six general managers have entered team rosters in the library's sixth season of Fantasy Baseball. Current division leaders are Clara Fecht, Emily Doren, Brett Asher, Chris Jacobs, Mickey O'Brien, Rob Ryan, Andy Doren, Mark Sander, Kevin A.R. King, Big Daddy, Vic Vaughn, Mike Konopnick, Tambourines, Gary Kurgin, C.A. Richards and Tony Bryndza.

Top teams, overall are C.A. Richards, Vic Vaughn and Mark Sander. Updated stats and standings are posted weekly. Come in and see how your team is doing.

FROM THE FRIENDS: The Friends are collecting items for the library's summer reading program for children, which gets under way this week. Needed are brown paper bags, toilet paper rolls, magazines to cut up, metal washers and paper toweling. Articles may be deposited in a large cardboard box at the library.

The summer used book series is fast approaching. Book drop days are scheduled for July 6, 13 and 20. Please drop off your used books at the Senior Center, 215 W. Cady, on these dates between 10 a.m. and noon. The sale will be held on Saturday, July 27, at the bandshell area.

Support the Friends by volunteering a few hours of your time. Call Debbie Malinowski at (313) 454-6614 to volunteer. Come volunteer, it's a chance to meet new "Friends" and help support the library.

Bette Cahill, who heads The Friends' gift program, reports that so far this year $1,220 has been contributed for the purchase of books in honor of someone on a special occasion or as a memorial to someone who has died. Gift envelopes are available at the library and in local funeral homes.

NORTHVILLE DISTRICT LIBRARY BOARD MEETING: The library board will meet on Thursday, June 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers. The public is always welcome to attend.

Neighborhood to remain on well water

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A proposal to bring city water to Edenderry Hills, and fears of a lawsuit if the plan was successful, have both been put to rest.

Most of the residents in the 66-lot subdivision, which lies off Seven Mile west of Sheldon, will remain on wells for the foreseeable future. That's a boon to some, a disappointment to others and the end of a controversial process for Northville Township officials.

Some residents in Edenderry spent months working on a proposed Special Assessment District (SAD) to extend a water main into the sub. Last week the township board of trustee unanimously rejected their SAD petition, saying that the main which would be built would not meet engineering design standards.

Other issues weighed in on the board's decision, however, including allegations that the boundaries of the SAD had been gerrymandered to exclude opponents and promises of a lawsuit if the district were approved.

Trustee Gini Britton expressed the general feeling on the board as it considered what to do on June 13: "this is a tough one."

The proposed SAD would have extended an eight-inch water main from an existing 10-inch main. The main would have served 17 lots along Fermanagh and Laraugh Drives and Fermanagh Court. The plan pitted neighbors in and out of the SAD against one another as issues of quality of life, quantities of cash and the fairness of the process were called into question.

Supporters of the SAD say they don't like the taste, rust and potential health problems associated with well water. SAD opponents are just as strong in their dislike of the fluoride and chloride that a city water system would bring.

Then there's the potential cost of the whole ball of wax: $9,400 per lot for construction costs alone.

Plan opponents objected as well to what they alleged was an unfair SAD process, which they said was designed to eventually bring city water to all of Edenderry despite the fact that the vast majority of people there don't want it.

"That's what was done in this case. There's no doubt about it," said Thomas Schwarze, a lawyer who lives within the SAD and represented other opponents in it as well.

According to Schwarze, water main supporters at first tried to get an Edenderry-wide SAD but found that they had nowhere near the 51 percent support they needed. They then decided to get around that obstacle with a limited SAD which would lay the foundation for a second one in the future, Schwarze alleged.

"We were left out of the SAD because it was known that we would have voted no," resident Carol Graves Sassaman said.

The proposed water main would violate township design standards. Those standards say that a dead-end main can be no longer than 600 feet and must produce at least 1,500 gallons per minute of water flow for fire-fighting purposes. The proposed main would have been nearly 1,400 feet long and produced only 850 gallons per minute.

That was a decisive factor to members of the board.

"I'm very concerned about making exceptions to our design standards on something as important as this," Britton said.

Schwarze and other SAD opponents predicted that if the SAD were allowed, those who support it now would soon demand that the board mandate a subdivision-wide SAD to alleviate a public safety problem.

Township officials told the board that the SAD was engineeringly feasible but acknowledged that the flow problem would only be cured with major changes.

That, according to Schwarze, means that all of Edenderry should have a say about the SAD, not just the 10 people in the 17-lot district who support it.

Some in Edenderry, however, protested Schwarze's assertions. Proponents maintained they were above board and simply went forward with a district where there was broad support.

"This is a democracy. If it has majority support it should go forward," one woman put it.

Energy efficient future car uses hybrid power source

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

If you think all energy-efficient prototypes have to look like a VW Beetle with a solar panel, think again.

A team of students and faculty members from Lawrence Technological University is developing a futuristic car that sacrifices none of the spacious roominess or comfortable amenities the American consumer has come to know and expect.

Stereo sound and soothing air conditioning are all part of the package, even though the main objective is the development of a super efficient hybrid fuel/battery source.

Two Northville residents are among the 45 students helping to design the car. Two of the eight participating faculty members also live in Northville.

"They're using a heavily modified 1996 Ford Taurus," Director of University Relations Bruce Annette said. "The goal is to build a full-size passenger car with 80 miles per gallon and reduced tailpipe emissions."

According to Annette, Lawrence Tech is one of only 12 schools that qualified for the national competition, called the FutureCar Challenge. The event features a week-long series of competitive activities at the Ford Proving Grounds in Dearborn. The competition will conclude this Sunday and the winning entry should be known then.

The Big Three auto companies - Ford, Chrysler and General Motors - donated cars for use in the project. The U.S. Department of Energy also sponsored the competition.

"More than 100 colleges and universities applied for contracts (to participate in the competition)," Annette added. "We (Lawrence Tech) have had a good track record with electric cars in the last couple of years and that's why we were selected."

The Lawrence prototype uses two power sources, an electric motor and a diesel-powered internal combustion engine, linked together by computer. The car has the ability to run on either source independently or on both motors at the same time.

"If you were in the city where emissions are more of a problem you might want to use the electric motor," Annette said. "Out in the more open areas you could shift to the fuel-powered engine."

Power source changes can be accomplished with the push of a button.

The Northville members of the team include: Jake Sheehy, associate dean, College of Management; Pam Lowry, assistant professor of mathematics and computer science; and students Tom Skynar and Mark Hilfinger.

The appearance of the Lawrence Taurus was changed to accommodate the adaptations, Annette said. It was given certain drag resistance features, tire skirts and new lighting characteristics.

The FutureCar Challenge will extend over a two-year period and cars that were entered this year will undergo further modifications for the second year of the project. Technical innovations could be incorporated into future popular models.

Lawrence Tech is located on Ten Mile Road in Southfield and has a student population of about 5,000.

GOP gets razor thin win to cut Records court funds

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Despite two defections, state Senate Republicans won a bare 19-18 victory on trial court reform and sent the bill back to the House for concurrence in amendments.

The big change: Detroit Recorder's Court isn't eliminated, but its state funding would be scaled down to zero over 10 years.

Detroit and Wayne County could decide to fund it themselves or let the 139-year-old criminal court - the only one of its kind in Michigan - become part of Wayne Circuit Court.

"There were many reasons to vote no," said Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, who nevertheless voted yes on the June 6 roll call. "I got what I wanted - a change in the phase-out (originally at five years)."

But Geake said the race argument - that black Detroit candidates couldn't win in countywide races - "is absolutely not true." He cited William Lucas, who won races for sheriff and county executive; Teola Hunter, now county clerk; and six circuit judges, though some got on the bench by appointment.

We Deliver Families.

Some people think birth is a woman's concern. It is, of course, but it's also much more.

At St. Mary Hospital, we think it's a family affair, so we make it easier for the father and the whole family to share the wonder of childbirth, before, during and after.

Before you're due - when your anticipation is growing as quickly as your baby - our prenatal classes for expectant families such as Lamaze, breastfeeding and infant care and safety get your family ready for the new arrival.

And when your baby is born - after months of waiting come down to a single day - we make sure that day is everything you meant it to be. Our commitment to family involvement includes flexible visiting hours; time with your baby; and time for father, grandparents, brothers and sisters. And all the while, you'll enjoy private rooms that combine homelike comforts with the support and security of St. Mary Hospital.

Once you're home, we're as close as your phone, with follow-up and basic infant care information.

So, talk with your doctor about St. Mary Hospital. Or call us at (313) 464-WELL to help you find a physician who's right for you. Because when it comes to families... we deliver.

Don't know where to look for a quick getaway or discount tickets to amusement parks?

The Northville and Novi Parks and Recreation departments are at your service.

Extended trips are primarily for seniors 55 years of age and older.

"We do have non-seniors that go but for the most part they are seniors," said Karl Peters, coordinator for Northville Parks and Recreation Senior Center.

Travelers, whether new or experienced, who feel comfortable on the go, can take a daughter or granddaughter, for example, with them.

Kathy Crawford, special recreation coordinator for Novi Parks and Recreation, selects tour companies that have experience with more mature travelers and the destinations.

"They are picked up right in their own community and don't have to be concerned about going far away to catch a tour," Crawford said. Travelers are always escorted either by someone from the tour company or from the Novi Parks and Recreation office.

Travelers going by way of tour bus have such amenities as activities, restrooms, first-run movies on the VCR and refreshments, according to Crawford.

"When we take someone on a trip, we

"Why pay the gate price when you can do this?"

take good care of them," Crawford said.

On extended trips "set-on" guides who are familiar with the area ride along in the bus, according to Crawford.

"We count and double count so that no one gets lost," Crawford said.

"Travel for older people now is a real snap, it's wonderful," Crawford added. "A lot of seniors remember going on a bus. If they haven't tried it in a while it is totally different than it used to be."

Seniors can contact tour companies directly, but some deal only with groups and don't do individual businesses, according to Crawford.

Another advantage of group travel is the reduced rates.

"You could not go yourself, as an individual, to Mackinac Island and stay at the Grand Hotel for $410," Crawford said. Novi's trip to Mackinac in October is already full.

Novi does have several trips during the year for families, and usually quite a few day trips are scheduled for the fall.

On short trips of less than 100 miles, the Northville Senior Center uses its own transportation — a 24 passenger mini-bus and/or a 20 passenger mini-bus.

"It is a nice way to meet people in your own community," Peters said.

Northville's group travels in conjunction with the Plymouth Senior Center and trips usually fill up quickly.

Motor coaches seat 50, while Northville's bus seats about 20 and does not have a restroom.

"They are always going somewhere," Peters said.

The parks and recreation departments of both cities also offer discount tickets to amusement areas.

As members of the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association, they get tickets in bulk, enabling them to pass on the savings to residents and non-residents alike.

"Why pay the gate price when you can do this?" Crawford said.

Savings on tickets range from $1 for a child's ticket to Greenfield Village in Dearborn to $10.70 for a two-day adult ticket to Kings Island in Cincinnati.

Volunteer

Jon Dostal is a go-between for businesses coming to Novi.

Dostal acts as liaison for future businesses

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

If you ask Jon Dostal about his volunteering as chairman of the Novi Economic Development Corp., he starts to tell you about his participation in an assortment of unrelated areas.

You wonder how he has time for his "9 to 5" activity as manager of the Industrial Logistics Operation for Chrysler Corp., but let's stick to the Economic Development Corp. It's a committee composed of four men and two women, who are, as he said, "a well balanced blend of people" interested in banking, economic development, and real estate.

This volunteering "is not for everybody," he said. "We have the ability to assist companies to relocate in Novi or to build here. We're the go-between. We guarantee a favorable interest rate and we encourage the companies to use the service we offer."

"The benefit is to encourage industry to come here."

In other words, Novi is becoming less and less a bedroom community of Detroit. It is a city in itself.

Why does Jon Dostal do so much volunteering for Novi — serve on the Economic Development Corp. in particular — and still have time to work in his own garden as he said when he came home early one afternoon?

"I like the community," he answered. He's watched it grow. He remembers when there weren't roads. Now there's a lot of activity here.

"Fate," he said, told him to come to Novi.

"I've been successful. I want to give something back."

The Economic Development Corp. holds its meetings which are only three or four times a year — or more if needed — jointly with the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30.

"We're probably the only board," Jon Dostal said, "which meets in the morning. It's the most convenient time for all members."

Historic village is heart of town

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Time travel has never been easier. A wonderful way to step back in time without going too far is to visit Mill Race Village.

The Northville institution houses a glimpse of a 19th century village. The grounds are accessible year round, when not in private use, from sun up until sun down.

The buildings are open from 1 until 4 p.m. on Sundays from May through October.

There is no charge to visit the village, although donations are requested.

This year, seven new docents join the 50 who serve three or four times during the year from May until October. Training for new docents is provided by Marietta Rathbun and Elaine Elliott, who are co-chairing the docent committee this year. New docents also receive an information folder on the building or buildings in which they will be volunteering so they can help visitors understand the buildings, the people and the era of the 19th century.

Mill Race Village, which was formally dedicated 20 years ago on land donated to Northville by Ford Motor Co., was so named because the original owner of the land, John Miller, constructed the area's first grist mill on the site in 1827. The "race" part of the name refers to the water that turned the mill's water wheel.

The first four buildings in the Village were New School Church, Hunter House, Wash Oaks School and Yerkes House.

The gazebo, which was constructed from plans common in the later 19th century, was built just before the Village's dedication in 1976.

Cottage House, which dates from the 1890s, was the fifth building to be moved to the Village and is also known as Weaver House because the Mill Race Weavers Guild demonstrate and create textiles in the building.

In the 1980s, construction of the Hirsch Blacksmith shop began. This stone building, which is the only reproduction building in the Village, was constructed using photographs of the original shop. It was completed in 1987.

The Village's newest additions are the Cady Inn and the Interurban Station. Cady Inn dates from the early 1830s, making it the Village's oldest building. The Interurban Station was constructed in 1899 and used as a high speed, rapid transit system until the line closed in the 1920s.

The Northville Historical Society works to restore, maintain and manage the Village and its buildings, all of which were originally located within the city. The lone exception is Wash Oak School, which stood at Currie and Seven Mile Road near the Washtenaw and Oakland County border and served as a one room schoolhouse from 1873 until 1969.

The buildings at Mill Race Village, which was dedicated in 1976, are open on Sundays from 1 until 4 p.m. through October.

In all, the Village contains nine structures.

Descriptive plaques have been added to the buildings so that visitors throughout the year can learn about Northville's past.

Along with the building docents, there are wedding docents who act as consultants for the bride and groom, and other volunteer groups working to maintain the Village.

The Stone Gang maintains and repairs the buildings. The Archives Committee is organizing and processing a community archive. Volunteer gardeners continually work to enhance the Village.

Among the many social activities at the Village are the Progressive Dinner, Christmas party, Victorian Festival, Fourth of July events, Christmas Walk, and Children's Workshop which require countless volunteers.

To volunteer contact 348-1845 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday. Mill Race Village is located on Griswold, north of Main.

Church Notes

OUR LADY OF VICTORY CHURCH, 770 Thayer Boulevard in Northville, will honor Father Paul Kreimes for his many years of service on June 23 after the 9 a.m. Mass in the social hall. The Archdiocese of Detroit has reassigned Father Kreimes to St. Thomas a Becket in Canton.

On June 30 at the 11 a.m. Mass, OLV's choir will be joined by St. Leo's choir.

For more information, call the church at 349-2621.

NOVI UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 41671 West Ten Mile Road in Novi, moved to a summer schedule on June 16 with services at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. The 9 a.m. service is informal and lasts 45 minutes. The 10:30 a.m. service is traditional. Between services there is a fellowship/greeting time with coffee and tea available.

Children are encouraged to attend the earlier service. Nursery and toddler care are available at the 10:30 a.m. service. For more information, call the church at 349-2652.

There will be no Adult Bible Study in the gym for the rest of the summer at ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH, 201 Elm Street in Northville. There is a family oriented time called "God's Word Served Family Style." At least one parent is asked to attend with his or her children for the program which begins at 10 a.m.

For more information call the church at 349-3140.

Vacation Bible School at FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 200 East Main Street in Northville, will take place June 24 through 28. The Summer Organ Series II begins on June 27 with Todd Sager followed by Jeffrey Biersch on July 11. Scott VanOrnum will perform on July 18 followed by Mary Ann Baldof on Aug. 8 and James Nissen on Aug. 15. All performances are at 7 p.m. The June 11 performance has been canceled. For more information call the church at (810) 349-0911.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH OF NORTHVILLE, 777 West Eight Mile Road in Northville, offers Vacation Bible School Aug. 5 through 9.

The church will be hosting a LOGOS/Youth Club Leadership School Aug. 15 through 17. Those interested in housing out of town guests, providing lunches and dinners, decorating the dining room, working in the kitchen or participating in the training program are asked to call the church.

For more information, call (810) 349-1144.

CHURCH OF THE HOLY FAMILY, 24505 Meadowbrook Road in Novi, will have a Farewell Reception for Father Andrew Tomasko in the Activities Building after each Mass on Saturday, June 22, and Sunday, June 23.

For more information, call the church at 349-8847.

The summer schedule at NEW LIFE LUTHERAN CHURCH, which worships temporarily at the Masonic Temple at 730 Penniman on the square in downtown Plymouth, will be an alternative, non-traditional worship at 10 a.m. and a traditional worship at 8:30 a.m. Both services offer a children's message and a supervised activities area for young children. The summer schedule will be in effect until Labor Day.

New Life is a forming congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA).

For more information call Pastor-Developer Ken Roberts at (313) 459-8181 or (313) 451-2965.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF NOVI, 45301 West Eleven Mile Road at Taft, has a new time and name for Sunday morning services. The Family Praise and Celebration Service will take place from 9 until 9:45 a.m.

As the name implies, families will worship together at the service. There will be group singing, special music, drama and messages from God's word that will be spiritually uplifting and entertaining. Casual dress will be allowed.

Regular Sunday School will be held from 9:45 until 10:45 a.m., immediately following the 9 a.m. service.

A traditional worship service will be held from 11 a.m. until noon. A nursery is available at both services should children get fussy.

For more information call Pastor Gary F. Elfner at (810) 349-3477.

Send church information to The Northville Record and The Novi News, 104 W. Main St., Northville, MI 48167.

Garden of the Month

Betty Clagg has put a great deal of creativity and work into the shade-loving plant garden in the front yard of her home.

Years in the making, garden now a showcase for shade-loving plants

By Patricia Zielke
Special Writer

Spring in Michigan ... or maybe we're in a fifth season, something between mid-spring and late winter. Sprinter?

Whatever we're in, the land is alive with energetic little plants working their way up from the depths of the dark earth into spring's bright light where the heady fragrances of Honey Locust blossoms and Lilies of the Valley fill the air. And romanced by a warm southerly breeze, the mellow golden Forsythia petals have long since deserted their branches to join the waxen tulips which have melted away unto the earth's pallet.

But the beat goes on - Spring is alive and well in the garden of Jim and Betty Clagg on Mayo Drive in Connemara Hills. Their tree-filled front yard is a showcase for a wide variety of shade-loving plants which include: Forget-me-Nots, Hosta, Sedum, Tulips, Pachysandra, hot pink and purple Azalea, Trillium, Jacob's Ladder, Creeping Phlox, Snow on the Mountain, Lilies of the Valley, Iris, Day and Ornamental Lilies, Gay Feather, Astilbe, Bleeding Heart, Ajuga, Gloxinia, Impatiens, Obedient Plant, and Sweet Woodruff - to name a few.

Some of the groupings are surrounded by curving borders of rocks, while other plants roam at random. A quaint wood carriage, holding baskets of Begonias, sets picturesquely on a thick carpet of Myrtle amidst a stand of Black Walnut trees that hosts lively climbing Japanese Spurge.

I have watched this garden develop over the past several years, and know the amount of creativity and work that shaped it. Healthy amounts of time and energy were invested here and the results are very rewarding.

Besides gardening, the Claggs enjoy many outdoor activities, especially visiting with friends and family in Gaylord where they explore wooded acres for wild flowers and Morel mushrooms. Family gatherings are enjoyable and energizing, but individual interests are important as well. Jim is an avid antique Biplane enthusiast, and Betty designs and makes large character bears and soft sculpture dolls which she markets with great success at Tivoli Fair and specialty shops.

This year she joins other artisans and vendors at Mill Race Village on July 17 for the third annual Garden Walk presented by the Country Garden Club of Northville. Betty's handcrafted creations are as unique and impeccably designed as her garden.

On Campus

KELLY HOSKIN of Northville, a first-year student at Carleton College, recently performed in the spring benefit concert "Ebony II, Totally '80s." The production showcased 85 dancers including Dean of Students Mark Govoni, in a variety of dance styles including salsa, hip-hop, tap, jazz, ballet, and modern.

The last piece, "A Decade to Remember," involving all the members of Ebony II, featured the favorite styles and tunes of the '80s in a high energy finale.

Ebony II is a student directed and choreographed dance group that's open to all students, regardless of previous dance experience. Each spring the group elects an organization or scholarship fund to benefit. This year nearly $1,000 was raised for the Laura Baker School and the Northfield Arts Guild. Hoskin is the daughter of Roland and Kimberly Hoskin of Northville.

JODI FISCHER of Northville was named to the Dean's List at Olivet Nazarene University during the recently completed spring semester. To achieve this recognition, a student must attain a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Fischer, a sophomore majoring in English education, graduated from Northville High School in 1995. She is the daughter of Gary and Stacy Fischer of Northville.

Named to the Honors List at Ferris State University for the winter semester were Northville residents CHARTIER D. AIMONE and KEVIN M. FLYNN.

To qualify for inclusion on the Honors List, students must compile a 3.5 grade point average in at least 12 semester hours of work.

KARIN J. ZITZEWITZ of Northville Township, a member of the Livonia Franklin High School class of 1992, graduated May 27 from Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, with highest honors in history. Zitzewitz received her honors for her undergraduate thesis about the events leading to the independence and partition of India and Pakistan, a project begun under a 1995 Young Investigator's Grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. She was one of 100 college seniors in the country who were awarded the prestigious Mellon Fellowship for further study in the humanities.

In September, Zitzewitz begins graduate studies in history with a specialty of South Asian Studies at the University of Michigan, which awarded her a three-year Regents Fellowship.

University of Evansville student BARBARA CAMPBELL of Northville has been named to U-E's Dean's List for outstanding academic achievement during the 1996 spring semester.

To attain the Dean's List, a student must earn a 3.5 grade point average while carrying 12 or more hours of credit.

Campbell is the daughter of Keith and Nancy Campbell of Northville.

Pipes resound with melodies

First Presbyterian Church of Northville will open its second annual Summer Organ Series on Thursday, June 27, at 7 p.m. with Todd Sager.

Sager is the minister of music at Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church in Bloomfield Hills. His program will include selections from Bach, Dupre and Guilman.

Sager, along with each of the performers in the series, will discuss his selections in detail during the program.

Sager began his study of the organ at the age of 15 and has received numerous scholarships and awards. He finished his undergraduate studies at the University of Michigan where he also acquired the Master of Music degree. As the music minister at Beautiful Savior, he oversees three adult choirs and is organist for all services. He also promotes such special musical endeavors to enrich the parish as recitals and concerts, including the Beautiful Savior Senior Choir's performance of Vivaldi's Gloria this past Christmas season.

For the Summer Organ Series, the First Presbyterian Church of Northville's Casavant Pipe Organ will be moved to the center of the church with the keyboards facing the audience, enabling them to see the keyboards during each of the five concerts in the series.

"This series is enjoyable for both the audience and the performers."

SUMMER ORGAN SERIES 7 P.M.

- June 27, Todd Sager
- July 11, Jeffrey Biersch
- July 18, Scott VanOrnum
- Aug. 8, Mary Ann Baldof
- Aug. 15, James Nissen

First Presbyterian Church,
200 E. Main Street, Northville

For more information, call the church at (810) 349-0911.

said Scott VanOrnum, music director at First Presbyterian Church of Northville. "The 1990 Casavant Organ is considered one of the real music treasures in the area and organists are always eager to play this fine instrument."

Listeners will be able to meet the performers, ask questions about the music and see the organ "up close" at the end of each concert.

Other performers include Jeffrey Biersch, July 11; Scott VanOrnum, July 18; Mary Ann Baldof, Aug. 8; and James Nissen, Aug. 15.

The summer organ concerts are part of a year-long Fine Arts Series sponsored by the church. The remaining programs include the fourth annual juried art show.

Todd Sager performs at a Northville church on June 27.

"Sharing the Gift," Oct. 5 through 11; The Detroit Brass Society on Nov. 3 at 7 p.m.; and the annual presentation of Handel's Messiah with The Michigan Sinfonietta and conductor Scott VanOrnum on Dec. 8 at 7 p.m.

Free-will offerings will be accepted.

The First Presbyterian Church of Northville is located at 200 East Main Street.

TRIPLE PLAY

Pitching, hitting and defense are hallmarks of this year's team

Pitching and defense wins in baseball. But hitting is a heck of a lot more fun.

Fortunately, Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area Baseball first team can do all three. Perhaps never have we picked a more complete squad than for our 1996 edition.

Let's start with our pitching.

Lakeland's Eric Hardin was the dominant pitcher in the Kensington Valley Conference this season. He finished near or at the top in wins, earned run average and strikeouts.

At the plate, all Hardin did was lead the area in batting. For all of those reasons, Eric Hardin is Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area Player of the Year.

A pair of excellent right handers come out of our bullpen. Northville's Tom Willerer put together an undefeated season for the Mustangs and averaged about a strikeout per inning. Novi's Conor Krause drew raves around the KVC and won more than half of the Wildcats' games.

Defensively, our squad is rock solid.

South Lyon shortstop Lance Siegwald anchors the infield with teammate Steve Vernier over at third. The area was so loaded with quality infielders, in fact, that we had to add an extra position.

In the outfield, Northville's Kyle Hitchcock is outstanding, as is University of Michigan-bound Cory Sargent.

At the plate is where this team shines, however.

Our squad features the area's top three hitters for average and four of the area's top five for runs batted in. It's Murder's Row all over again.

Now let's take a closer look at each member of Hometown Newspapers' East All-Area Baseball first team selections as chosen by the sports editors of The Milford Times, Novi News, Northville Record, and South Lyon Herald:

Player of the Year

Eric the Great

Lakeland's junior Eric Hardin comes through in the clutch time after time

By Merrill Cain

There aren't many things that can rile Lakeland's Eric Hardin, Hometown Newspapers' All-Area Player of the Year.

The junior athlete who emerged as one of the top basketball and baseball players in the Kensington Valley Conference this year has been in too many pressure situations to let things get to him.

Time running out on the clock, his team trailing by one and who fights off a big power forward to get the key rebound? Hardin.

Bases loaded, bottom of the ninth and the Eagles desperately needing a key hit and who wants to be up to bat? Yep. It's Hardin again.

Those kind of high-tension moments don't phase Hardin. What does get under his skin? When teams don't give him the opportunity to come up with the big play. That really ticks him off.

And because of Hardin's ability to come through in the clutch for the KVC-champion Lakeland baseball team this spring, teams started to get the idea that not pitching to Hardin might be the best way to beat the Eagles.

Several times this year Hardin, who batted an amazing .700 for the first part of the season before falling off to a mere .552 by the end of the year, was walked in key situations. Now the all-KVC first-teamer who happens to have a keen baseball mind understands that strategy. Hey, if he were a manager he'd probably walk him too rather than pitch to a guy who gets a base hit more than half the time with runners on base.

But he doesn't see the need to get a free pass on just an average at bat. Yet some schools elected to just let him trot to first base this season.

"I like to be up there in pressure situations with guys on," Hardin said. "But some guys walked me for no reason. Like when there was a runner on first or second. That does get me kind of upset. This is high school baseball and you're out there to have fun, not just to win."

But winning was fun for Hardin and the Eagles this season. He, along with the rest of the LHS team had a disappointing 1995 campaign. Hardin, coming off a dynamite freshman season, batted .368 and he went 5-0 in the league as a pitcher but the team struggled.

Most people, including LHS coach Jerf Ganzel, didn't think that this year's squad was even as good as last year's Eagles. But early in spring practice Hardin said he felt the team would be all right.

As Eric tells it, his father, Jeff Hardin, was helping out with hitting in the Lakeland gymnasium. Ganzel had been worried about the bats on the team but Eric said his dad saw something special in the Eagles after only a few hitting drills.

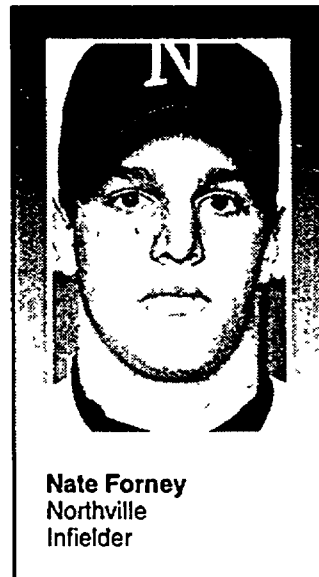

"He said those guys could really hit," Eric said. "And he's been around baseball all his life. He told me that we could have a pretty good season the way he saw those guys hitting."

Mr. Hardin's prediction proved correct as the Eagles turned it on at the plate led by his son's assault on area pitchers. Eric was also remarkable on the mound. He went 9-0 in the KVC and 9-2 overall. Keyed by an off-season weight-training program and an arsenal of new pitches that included a change-up, a new curve and a sidearm fastball, Hardin became one of the most dominating pitchers in the area.

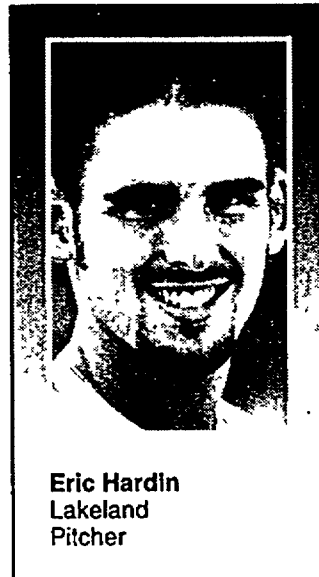

And while Hardin's pitching was mainly the result of natural improvement, Ganzel said he knew the junior's hitting was bound to come around this year.

"The biggest thing was we had more people in scoring position," Ganzel said. "But he's played so much and worked so hard he had to improve. And he's physically much stronger (than last year.)"

Northville places three on All-Area baseball second squad

This year the Hometown Newspapers' all-area baseball teams have all the bases covered.

While the first-team provides fireworks at the plate, this spring's all-area second-team is tighter than a drum in the field. While most of the members of the second unit also provided some significant offensive punch to their respective squads, the one thing that binds them together is the way they feather the leather.

From the shotgun arm of South Lyon outfielder Tim Watts to the spider-like efforts of Northville first baseman Doug Minke. This unit could conduct a workshop on proper fielding techniques.

Yes, the sports editors of The Milford Times, Novi

News, Northville Record and South Lyon Herald had a tough time containing their excitement when choosing the members of the all-area teams. After all, who wouldn't want to take a couple of squads like these on the road to challenge any kind of all-star team.

With the first-teamers providing the offense early in a game situation there's little doubt that a unit like

SOCCER

Soccer players are needed to play on a girls under 16 premier team which will be participating in the Little Caesar's soccer league. This is a brand new team and is an excellent opportunity for players who are looking to play on a top-notch squad. We are looking for players who were born after July 31, 1980, and before Aug. 1, 1982. Recruiting is for all positions, especially goalie.

Call (313) 464-9114 for details and tryout information.

BASKETBALL CLINICS

Northville High will play host to the Tom Cooper Basketball Camp on July 9. Mustang varsity basketball coach Tim Turner will conduct two sessions in the one-day camp: A three-point shooting session from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a session on post play from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Both sessions will stress fundamentals and proper techniques. The cost is $35 per player. To register, call (810) 344-8420, ext. 248.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Over 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships are available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. Contrary to popular belief, students don't have to be all-state to qualify. Much of this money goes unused.

MICHIGAN DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION NOTICE OPEN HOUSE MEETING

I-96 INTERCHANGES WITH BECK AND WIXOM ROADS IN THE CITIES OF NOVI AND WIXOM, OAKLAND COUNTY

The Michigan Department of Transportation in cooperation with the Oakland County Road Commission and the cities of Novi and Wixom will hold an Open House meeting Thursday, June 27, 1996. Representatives from the Department, county and cities will be available from 3:30 to 6:00 and 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. at the Novi Expo Center's Adell Hall. The Expo Center is in the southwest quadrant of the I-96/Novi Road Interchange (Exit 162). The entrance to Adell Hall is on the northeast side facing the freeway eastbound exit ramp.

The purpose of the Open House is to provide the opportunity for the public to give its input at the earliest possible stage of the study. The project calls for future improvements to the I-96 Interchanges with Beck and Wixom Roads in the cities of Novi and Wixom. Additionally, the Oakland County Road Commission in cooperation with the cities of Novi and Wixom is considering future improvements to Beck and Wixom Roads and Grand River Avenue between Beck and Wixom Roads. Please feel free to drop in anytime during the advertised hours. The location is accessible to individuals with mobility impairments. The center's parking lot has Accessible parking clearly signed.

It is the intent of the Department not only to invite, but also to encourage citizen involvement and participation in the study. It must be stressed that this is not a public hearing of recommended highway improvements, as there have been none selected. The objective of these meetings is to gain input, at the earliest possible stage of the study, from local residents and to stimulate communication and cooperation.

Upon advance notice of seven days, The Public Hearings Officer can make materials for this meeting available in alternative formats such as large print or audiotape as well as accommodation for sign language interpreter and/or assistive listening devices. Please call (517) 373-9534 (voice) or (517) 373-2090 (TDD) to request accommodations.

Broncos make tourney playoffs

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A 5-3 loss to Sylvania, Ohio, closed the Northville Broncos Home Plate Classic run Sunday in St. Clair Shores.

Ahead 3-1 in the fifth inning, the Ohio team rallied for three runs to take the lead. The Broncos failed to mount a comeback in the final two innings and were eliminated from the tournament.

Despite the loss, coach Rick Bingley wasn't disappointed with his team's showing. He was proud that Northville made it to the tournament playoffs.

"The kids showed a lot of heart," Bingley said. "They deserved to come home with a trophy."

Only eight of 28 teams in the St. Clair Shores tournament made it to the playoffs.

As for Sunday's game, it was Northville's fourth in three days and seventh of the week. "The kids were all whipped," Bingley said.

The Broncos sure didn't play like it against Ohio, however. Northville jumped to a 2-0 lead in the third inning. Kelly Bingley and Ryan Ossenmacher each picked RBI singles.

The Broncos added a run in the fourth and led 3-1 going into the fifth. Ohio rallied off Bronco starter Rob Reel to take the lead. Matt Olbrantz relieved him in the fifth and did a good job over the final two plus innings.

Northville opened the tournament Friday with a 5-3 loss to East Lansing. Pitching dominated much of the way.

Northville's Kevin Gilchrist pitched five shutout innings. The Broncos gave him a 3-0 lead in the top of the sixth.

Ossenmacher, Gilchrist and Reel each collected RBI in the rally.

East Lansing came right back for five runs in its half of the sixth. The Broncos were nearly out of the inning with two outs and two strikes on the batter.

But East Lansing walked and subsequently scored five times.

"The wheels kind of came off," Bingley said.

The coach said it was a good effort by both teams, though.

"It was the best game of the tournament," he added.

On Saturday, Northville won a pair of games. The Broncos beat host St. Clair Shores 10-0 in the morning game. Gilchrist smashed a pair of home runs, including a grand slam, and Reel added a three-run shot to lead Northville.

In game two of the day, Northville whipped Mt. Clemens 12-2. Ossenmacher and Reel each hit home runs to pace the Bronco attack. Ossenmacher had seven runs batted in during the contest.

NORTHVILLE 15, BRIGHTON 6

The Broncos closed Little Caesar's league action Thursday with an easy home win. Northville scored in every inning but the first and seventh.

Nick Watts, Ossenmacher and Gilchrist paced the attack with four hits each. The win moved Northville to 4-2 in the league and 6-4 overall.

The Broncos played two other league games last week.

Northville beat Bloomfield Hills 8-6 on June 11. The Broncos pounded out 12 hits in that game.

Northville lost to Allen Park 6-3 on June 10. Gilchrist, Eric Arnold and Andy Deacon each knocked in runs.

Mantle squad wins 7-5

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If Colin MacFarlane doesn't already have a nickname perhaps "Bulldog" would be appropriate.

After 100 pitches and warm temperatures on Saturday, you'd figure the young right hander would've been ready to come out of the game against Plymouth-Canton. But, no, not Colin MacFarlane.

Instead, Northville's pitcher finished what he started and led the Broncos to a 7-5 win.

"Colin gutted it out," coach Dennis Shields said. "He shut the door the last two innings."

The win moved Northville's Mickey Mantle Closed Division squad to 2-2 on the summer.

"I think that's as many division games as we won last year," said Shields.

The Broncos play at Birmingham today starting at 5 p.m.

Trailing 1-0 after the first inning, Northville rallied for four runs in the bottom of the second inning. Armand Samouelian and Ryan Morris each had RBI singles while Justin "Juice" Walneo knocked in two with a single.

The Broncos went up 5-1 in the third inning as Adam Webb knocked in a run with a single. What turned out to be the winning run came in the fourth.

Dave Schulte smacked a single that scored MacFarlane and Walneo.

Plymouth-Canton got to MacFarlane for three runs in their fifth inning. But he settled down to shutout the visitors over the final two innings.

MacFarlane allowed three earned runs and struck out seven in going the distance.

RIVERVIEW 11, NORTHVILLE 0

The Broncos faced a veteran Riverview squad Thursday at home and were merced in five innings.

Northville managed just one hit in the game. Bryan Shields singled in the fourth inning.

Mike Wheeler tossed the shutout for Riverview.

"He had a good curveball and fastball," coach Shields said.

NORTHVILLE 9, WAYNE-WESTLAND 8

The Broncos rallied from behind on June 10 to win a road game played in Livonia.

Willerer signs with Indiana

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Mention Indiana University and most folks think of Bobby Knight and basketball.

Not so for Tom Willerer. The recent Northville High graduate will head to Bloomington to play baseball instead of the hardwood sport.

Willerer signed with the Hoosiers earlier this month on a partial scholarship. Michigan State, Central Michigan and the University of Florida were other schools courting the tall right hand pitcher.

"I was really impressed with the campus," said Willerer. "It's a beautiful area."

His decision came down to academics, however. Indiana offered the best business program and a chance to play with a highly competitive program in the Big Ten.

"I dreamed of it," said Willerer, who's now playing summer ball,

"but I was not sure if it would happen."

The teenager is proud of his accomplishment.

"I thought I could do it if I worked hard enough and got the chance," Willerer said of his scholarship.

A 6-foot-3, 185-pounder, Willerer developed into a fine pitcher over the past two seasons with the Mustangs.

Professional and college scouts began looking at him a year ago. This season solidified their interest as he consistently threw in the mid 80s and posted an undefeated Mustang campaign.

Major league baseball held its amateur draft a few weeks ago. Willerer went undrafted and said he wouldn't have gone pro anyway.

But that's not to say he wouldn't like to pitch in the majors some day.

At any rate, Willerer isn't sure how much he'll pitch for Indiana next spring. A lot will depend on how he does in fall practice.

"I will pitch my freshman year," he said.

Getting to this point wasn't easy for Willerer.

Many hours were spent working with his dad, Bob, and brother, Chris, on improving his technique and pitching mechanics.

"I've been blessed with a tall, lanky body," Willerer said.

"Through good coaching, I've developed a good curveball and change up."

Willerer will carry many fond memories of his high school days to Indiana with him. He made a lot of great friends playing baseball with guys like J.J. Zayti, Chris Schiffrer and Jeff Sieving.

"This year was one of the most fun years at Northville," Willerer said. "We had great chemistry."

Northville places 3 on area's top team

the area, batting at a .552 clip. The impressive average set a Lakeland record.

Hardin was also Lakeland's top pitcher going undefeated in KVC games for the second consecutive season and posting a 9-2 overall record. He had a 2.20 earned run average and he struck out 71 batters in 73 innings of work. The impressive numbers helped him earn a spot on the all-KVC first team.

"He's just a great leader," Lakeland coach Jerry Ganzel said. "But there's nothing cocky about it. He knows he can go out there and do it and the other kids know he can do it too."

DOUG WATKINS

Millford, catcher

When talking about Watkins, Millford coach Paul Sullivan uses the old "two-Ts" — tremendous talent.

After giving the Redskins a lift as a freshman, Watkins emerged as a true star in the KVC this year. He led MHS in batting with a .477 average and he was also tops on the squad in home runs with three. And the sophomore only struck out four times this year.

"Out of all the hitters I've seen at this level he probably has the best eye," Sullivan said. "He just gets so much tougher with two strikes on him."

Watkins, whose father is an assistant coach with Millford, also showed what he could defensively this year. He was a rock behind home plate, throwing out 19 runners in 21 games this season.

Sullivan said if Watkins, an all-KVC first teamer, continues to improve, he could be scary by the time he's a senior.

TOM WILLERER

Northville, infielder

The Mustangs seem to produce a star every spring. This year, it was Willerer's turn to take the spotlight.

The tall senior, who'll play college baseball at the University of Indiana, actually made his name as a pitcher this year. Willerer was Northville's ace and dominated opponents to the tune of a 7-0 season.

"He kept getting better as the spring went on," said Northville coach Mickey Newman. "He got better as it got warmer."

A fastball pitcher until this year, Willerer developed a good breaking ball. He used that and his fastball, which was clocked in the high 80s, to overpower batters.

When he wasn't pitching, Willerer played first base. He compiled a .394 average, 21 RBI, a pair of home runs and seven stolen bases.

Willerer was an All-Western Lakes Activities Association first team pick.

NATE FORNEY

Northville, infielder

What a year this second baseman had.

After a so-so junior season, Forney busted his backside to improve for the 1996 campaign. Newman said the senior spent hours hitting off of a batting tee to improve his stroke.

"He's a very hard worker," he added.

It paid off in a big way. Forney batted .543, slugged three homers and knocked in 38.

Even more amazing than those stats was Forney's ability to get the bat on the ball. He struck out just four times in 70 at bats.

"He put the ball in play," Newman said, "and usually hit it hard."

The coach said Forney, an All-WLAA pick, more than held his own at second base, too.

"He was a rock at second," the coach commented. "He made all the easy plays and tough ones, too."

KYLE HITCHCOCK

Northville, outfielder

An excellent all-around athlete, Hitchcock was outstanding for the Mustangs.

The All-WLAA selection excelled as a batter this senior year. Hitchcock hit .480 with 12 doubles, 18 stolen bases, scored 29 runs and hit two out of the ballpark.

"He hit the heck out of the ball," Newman said.

Hitchcock was a terror on the bases. He had a knack for reading pitchers and getting an excellent jump to steal second base.

"He's so aggressive on the bases," Newman said, "but smart."

Defensively, Hitchcock played well in left field. Enemy base runners knew not to try and take an extra base on the senior.

"He's got a cannon for an arm," Newman said.

LANCE SIEGWALD

South Lyon, infielder

Siegwald emerged as an offensive star for the Lions this year and, like Hardin, he keyed his team's run for a share of the KVC crown.

He also set a school record for batting this season with a .528 average.

Lakeland's Hardin named top player

Ganzel said he saw something special in Hardin the moment the confident young player stepped onto the field at his first spring practice. The coach said Hardin, only a freshman, calmly stepped up to the starting junior shortstop and asked him his position.

When the player answered him Hardin just said, "Oh, then you're the guy who's job I'll be taking by the end of the year."

Sure enough, by mid season, the starting shortstop job belonged to Hardin. But while some people might call that cocky, neither Ganzel or Hardin's teammates perceive him that way.

"He just wants to succeed in everything he does," Ganzel said. "He's a great leader. With him, everything is about the team."

That same kind of confidence propelled Hardin's hunger at the plate this year. He said he entered this season with two individual goals.

"One of my goals was to top (former Eagle Tom) Hartley's average," he said. Hartley hit .500 for two consecutive seasons and held the LHS record until Hardin shattered it this year. "Making all-state was my other big goal," Hardin said.

As of press time he hadn't heard whether he'd met that goal but he was nominated and he certainly had numbers deserving of the honor.

Even with all of his accomplishments this season, Hardin hasn't received all the attention one might expect. Part of that may have to do with his quiet nature.

Sander, Schiflar named to 2nd unit

GORDIE CULVER

South Lyon, pitcher

"Gordie was the surprise of our team this season," Lions' coach Mark Thomas said.

Culver, a left-handed hurler, had a bit of a rough start to the year but he finished strong as the Lions won 11 straight games finishing in a tie with Lakeland for the KVC championship.

Thomas told Culver after last year that he needed a strong No. 2 pitcher and the senior proceeded to put his nose to the grindstone in the off-season.

JOE GARRITY

South Lyon, infielder

If the Lions were in need of a spark it was often Garrity who struck the match.

A solid fielder at second base, Garrity also had some pop at the plate this season swinging for a .380 average. He had a .925 fielding percentage and he and shortstop Lance Siegwald made up one of the deadliest double-play combinations in the KVC.

"Joe gets rid of the ball so fast and he knows what to do with it," coach Thomas said. "They turned at least one double play per game."

MARK SANDER

Northville, infielder

Injuries slowed the senior down during the early parts of the season.

But with a little rest, Sander came back strong for Northville. The shortstop finished with a .389 batting average. He closed the year by getting 16 hits in his final 27 at bats — a .593 average.

"He was amazing," Northville coach Mickey Newman said.

Like teammate Kyle Hitchcock, Sander was a demon on the bases. He stole 15 bases despite his time being out with injuries.

Always an outstanding defensive player, Sander's mobility was hurt early on by the injuries. But as he healed, his range returned and he was once again the "Hoover" at shortstop.

Sander earned All-Western Division honors from the WLAA.

JEFF SIEVING

Northville, infielder

Known more for his accomplishments in the pool, Sieving had himself a fine spring on the diamond.

Newman said his team had a lot of early season injuries that made fielding a regular lineup in the infield difficult. But Sieving was the one constant, always playing, always contributing.

"Defensively," Newman said, "he held us together."

Sieving came on strong late in the season at the plate. He finished with a .353 batting average and 15 stolen bases. His best game came in the district against Walked Lake Western when he had four runs batted in on a triple and homer.

CHRIS SCHIFLAR

Northville, outfielder

The senior saved his best for last.

Schiflar had a rough junior season, but worked hard to make 1996 a better year. The outfielder batted .333 with three home runs, three doubles and eight stolen bases.

"I knew Chris had the potential," said Newman. "He just had to get some confidence. He's always had the ability, but never put it together until halfway through (this) season."

Vitamin-A derivative may cure cervical precancerous condition

Retin-A, the same product used to treat acne and smooth wrinkles, also appears to be effective in reversing a precancerous condition called cervical dysplasia. Researchers at the University of Michigan Health System are recruiting women for a $2.9 million National Institutes of Health-funded study to find out why this cream, which contains the vitamin-A derivative retinoic acid, coaxes precancerous cervical cells back to normal in some women.

About 55,000 Americans are diagnosed with dysplasia annually via routine pap smears. The condition is classified, according to severity, as typical, mild, moderate or severe. Patients with mild dysplasia usually are advised to take a "watchful waiting" approach, since about 40 percent of such cases return to normal without treatment. Women with moderate to severe dysplasia experience a lower spontaneous regression rate, so they may be advised to undergo minor surgery to remove abnormal tissue.

Recent studies indicate that those most responsive to Retin-A, which is applied with a cervical cap daily for four days, are women with moderate dysplasia. With no treatment, only about a quarter of such cases return to normal on their own; with Retin-A, the regression rate is nearly 50 percent, says principal investigator Mack T. Ruffin IV, M.D., assistant professor of family practice. In contrast, with severe dysplasia, the regression rate falls to about 30 percent - with or without treatment.

Ruffin and colleagues suspect that the degree of responsiveness to such treatment might have to do with the presence of the human papilloma virus, or HPV - a known risk factor for cervical cancer - and the degree to which it has set up shop within the woman's system. It is estimated that 20-40 percent of women under 50 are infected with this sexually transmitted virus and may not know it, Ruffin says.

"Our theory is that if you can intervene with Retin-A when the level of HPV is high, before it has been incorporated into the cellular DNA, that's probably when you can block any progression to cervical cancer," he says. "We're not sure how wide that window is, but we hope to find out. We're also hoping with the treatment to see the amount of HPV come down, because one of our goals is to find a way to treat HPV and cure it."

If Retin-A treatment indeed influences HPV's cellular foothold, Ruffin plans additional studies to see whether such changes relate to the progression of dysplasia; whether it holds steady, retreats entirely or develops into cancer.

"If, using HPV as a biomarker, we can predict whether the dysplasia will stay the same or get better with Retin-A, then we could look at other treatments, whether that's taking a certain amount of vitamin A orally or even changing the diet," Ruffin says.

For more information about enrolling in the Retin-A study, call (313) 747-4748 or (313) 647-4748.

Understanding structure, function of bone

Osteoporosis is a common disorder with potentially serious health consequences. It weakens a person's bones, increasing the risk of fractures.

To understand osteoporosis, you must first understand the normal structure and function of bone.

Bone is a living tissue which provides both mechanical support and a repository for minerals. Your bones actually get their strength from a structure that resembles reinforced concrete. Hard calcium crystals, called calcium hydroxyapatite, are reinforced with strands of a tough protein called collagen.

But bone is more dynamic than concrete is, thanks to those same calcium crystals - which respond to jarring mechanical forces generated during our daily activities. Whether you're strolling around the block or straining to lift a heavy box, your bones respond by constantly reinforcing and remodeling themselves.

Bone remodeling, in fact, is a continuous, lifelong process. It involves two steps, drilling and building. Cells called osteoclasts will dissolve an area of bone, followed by other cells, called osteoblasts, that build it anew. The process resembles road repair, where an old street is torn up, only to be replaced by fresh pavement.

Osteoporosis occurs when the drillers outpace the builders - and bones lose substance, weaken and become susceptible to fracture (the key problem with this disorder). Theories abound about the causes of osteoporosis, but none have been proven. Medical experts do know that risk factors include menopause, old age and family history.

Menopause affects the bone replacement process in two ways. It stimulates the osteoclasts (the "drillers") in the first couple of years after menstruation ceases, leading to large losses of calcium from the bones. And while both men and women lose bone strength as they age, menopause accelerates that loss in women's later years.

How can you prevent osteoporosis? Weight-bearing exercise - including walking, jogging and aerobics - will help, because any activity that gets you on your feet and moving will stimulate bone and help strengthen it. And because muscles are attached to bone, weight-lifting will have a similar effect.

You can also help retain bone mass through your diet - by including milk and other dairy products, along with calcium-fortified orange juice and dark-green leafy vegetables. Even then, it can be difficult, however, to get all the calcium your bones need. Calcium supplements will help provide bone with its basic building blocks (read the product label for dosage indications or consult your doctor).

There are medical options as well. For menopausal women, the first preventive medical remedy for osteoporosis was hormone replacement therapy (HRT). While it will not replace the calcium a woman has already lost, HRT can prevent the sudden surge in the rate of calcium loss that comes with menopause. It will also slow down post-menopausal loss of bone.

There are now additional choices when it comes to medical treatment of osteoporosis: Medications are now available that actually build bone. They stop the osteoclasts from drilling and over time, allowing the "builders" to catch up. Treatment results can be monitored through a test called bone densitometry.

Meanwhile, other therapies to slow or reverse bone loss are under development. For now, though, the best prevention strategy against osteoporosis is to include regular weight-bearing exercise in your life and to eat a diet rich in calcium, using calcium supplements as an additional source.

If you think you may be at high risk for osteoporosis, or you have questions about this disorder, you should consult your physician to see if any of the medical treatment options is right for you.

"Baby beeper" rentals are being offered by Providence to help labor partners stay in touch during those critical last weeks of pregnancy. The rentals are available through Providence Hospital, 16001 W. Nine Mile, Southfield, and Providence Medical Center-Providence Park, 47601 Grand River Avenue, Novi. Pagers can be rented for one or two months at a time at a cost of $30 for one month and $40 for two. A security deposit is required. Call (810) 424-3332 for further information.

• Volunteers
There is an ongoing need for volunteers to assist patients and/or staff at Providence and Medical Centers. A variety of opportunities are available at facilities throughout our network. Call (810) 424-3300 for further information.

• Free Blood Pressure Checks
Providence is offering free blood pressure checks the first Thursday of every month. The free service is available at Providence Medical Center-Providence Park at the corner of Grand River Avenue and Beck Road from 1-3 p.m. in the Cardiopulmonary Department. Call (810) 380-4225 for further information.

• Health Education Library
Providence Hospital and Medical Centers is now making its health education library open to the public.

The library has books, video tapes, computer databases, pamphlets and anatomical models available to the public which can be used to learn about illnesses, medications, parenting skills or other health issues.

The library is located at Providence Medical Center-Providence Park, 47601 Grand River, and is open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Call (810) 380-4110 for more information.

• Prostate Cancer
Providence offers a free monthly support group for men with prostate cancer.

"Man to Man" meets the second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at Providence Hospital in Southfield.

The purpose of the support group is to provide men with educational information on topics relating to prostate cancer and allow them to verbalize feelings, concerns and problems with others who are having similar experiences.

For additional information on "Man to Man," Providence's Prostate Cancer Support Group, call (810) 424-3175.

• Eating Right
Providence is offering individual appointments with a registered dietitian to assist in losing weight, lowering blood pressure, lowering cardiovascular risk factors and providing positive dietary changes. The dietitian will assess the participant's health status and nutritional goals. After the evaluation, a diet plan is developed.

Day and evening appointments are available. There is a $40 fee for the initial visit and $30 for follow-up sessions. If indicated, a specially designed weight modification program is also available. Call (810) 424-3385 for further information.

• Surgery Star
If your child is scheduled for surgery, it can be a very frightening experience for them. Providence Hospital and Medical Centers continues its "Sally the Surgery Star" program to help little ones deal with a hospital stay.

The child is taken on a tour and is familiarized with the surgical experience. A variety of educational materials and supportive teaching tools are used to help the child deal positively with the idea of a hospital stay. At the end of the tour, the child is honored as a "surgery star."

Tours are offered at both Providence Hospital in Southfield and Providence Medical Center-Providence Park in Novi. Call (810) 424-3978 to arrange a tour at Providence Hospital and (810) 380-4170 to arrange a tour at Providence Park.

WELL CHILD CLINIC
Oakland County Health Division's Child Health Conferences provide free ongoing care to keep children well from birth to school-entry age. Families that do not have an HMO or Medicaid may be eligible. Clinics are held at 14 locations throughout Oakland County.

Services include: heights and weights; head-to-toe physical examination; immunizations; vision, hearing and lab testing; growth and developmental screening; and counseling with referrals to physicians and area resources as needed.

Appointments are required. For more information, call 424-7066 or 424-7067.

BREAST FEEDING BASICS
This workshop covers the "how to's" of breast feeding - how to start and maintain successful breast feeding, as well as answering the questions and concerns of women who are already breast feeding.

Classes are held at the Health Development Network at Botsford in Novi. For more information and to register, call (810) 477-6100.

Home warranty contracts are gaining popularity

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The value of purchasing a home warranty contract when acquiring a previously owned residence has passed the test of time.

When this column was launched in the 1970s, a small proportion of home sales included a warranty contract. Most buyers didn't think it was worth the premium cost. And brokers doubted its value in enhancing the marketability of the property.

Today, the majority of resale homes are sold with a one-year warranty contract. The number of pre-owned homes sold with warranties reached 801,255 during the past year, according to a study by the National Home Warranty Association. The report also indicated an increase in the number of claims made on the service agreements.

During the past year, nearly 1.3 million claims were paid. That translates into 1.6 paid claims for every home warranty sold. That's up from 1.5 claims paid per warranty during the previous year.

"More Realtors are offering the home warranty product for pre-owned homes to their clients than ever before," said John Kinker, president of the NHA. "Buyers see the home warranty agreement as a protection for the pre-owned home they've purchased, while the sellers realize the added marketability home warranty agreements provide in the sale of their home."

Another key reason why Realtors strongly recommend a home warranty contract is to ease liability risks for themselves and their seller client.

Typically, a home warranty service contract covers the home for one year following its purchase. The buyer usually has the option of renewing the coverage for subsequent years, if desired.

Most contracts cover all operating systems of the home, including plumbing, heating, electrical and appliances — systems that tend to break down due to normal wear

Blackberry is economical

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

If yours is a family that is searching for a floor plan that will give you more for your building dollar, the 1,260-square-foot Blackberry might just fill the bill. Economical to build and maintain, this three-bedroom home combines excellent use of the available space with an easy flow of movement throughout the entire floor design.

An attractive covered walkway takes you into the recessed entry. Here the sleeping areas are all concentrated on the right side of the house. Two identical bedrooms face the front. They are close enough to the master suite for concerned parents to easily check on younger children.

For a young family, perhaps one of these bedrooms can be made into a nursery and the other into a sewing room, musical study or a small home office.

A full bathroom separates the two front bedrooms from the handsome master suite. Amenities here include a good-size walk-in closet, private bathroom with shower and the convenience of an independent vanity. There are extra storage areas in the hallway.

The remainder of this floor design conveys an openness not usually found in a house this size. The spacious living room gives you plenty of space to arrange your furniture and entertain friends and family. The big walk-in kitchen has lots of room for the cook in the house to maneuver while preparing meals. An eating bar is handy for those informal times, and adjoining the living room is a more formal dining area.

When the weather gets warm enough, fire up the barbecue on the back deck, which is accessible through sliding glass doors.

An added advantage is the door from the garage to the kitchen. You can drive right in and unload directly into the kitchen area.

A small utility space is positioned at the rear of the garage.

For a study plan of the Blackberry (404-13), send $9 to Landmark Designs c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI, 48843 (Please be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Rolling, wooded lots are typical of Ravenswood

RAVEON

This Brighton subdivision is for the birds

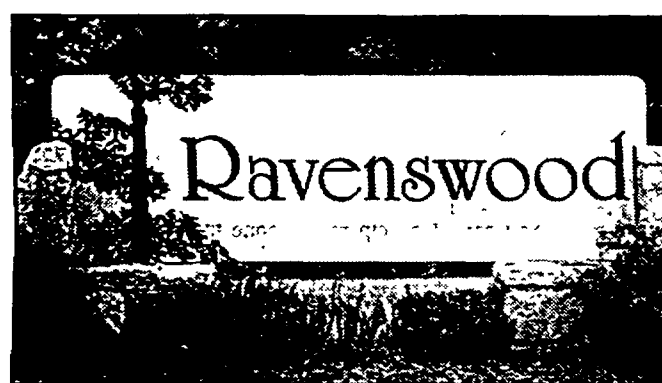

In the late 1980s, the Ravenswood subdivision became one of the new kids on the block when the big building boom hit Brighton.

Developed on a scenic 120-acre parcel, Ravenswood offered large, high-end homes on expansive lots, making it one of the premier neighborhoods in the area.

Today Ravenswood — located off Old U.S. 23, north of Hilton Road — is still considered one of the best examples of quality building in the area and has settled into maturity very nicely.

The spectacular homes notwithstanding, perhaps one of the most attractive attributes of Ravenswood is the property itself. Gently rolling terrain, mature trees, preserved wetlands coupled with homes situated on large lots has made for a most lovely neighborhood.

Developed by B&V Construction of Novi beginning in 1987, Ravenswood offered a total of 94 lots. Although there are several homes currently under construction, every lot has been sold for some time.

From the start, Ravenswood exceeded the expectations of everyone involved.

"In all honesty, it built bigger than we anticipated when we began development," said Dave Park of B&V Construction. "The builders came in there and it was such a pretty piece of property that they built larger than we thought the market would bear, but they were right."

Although B&V Construction set minimum square footage standards at 1,800 for ranches and 2,400 for two stories, the homes in the subdivision averaged 2,400 to 3,000 square feet, with a few homes at 4,000 square feet.

The lot sales also exceeded expectations. Kevin Gerkin, who spearheaded the marketing of the development with four other real estate agents from the Michigan Group of Brighton, recalls that the timing was perfect when Ravenswood was being marketed in 1988.

"It hit the market at a perfect, perfect time," says Gerkin, who now is an associate broker at Re-Max All-Stars in Brighton.

A big factor, he said, was that there was a shortage of homes in the $240,000-$290,000 price range, especially for the transferee market.

Gerkin estimates that one-third to one-half of the people who purchased in Ravenswood were out-of-town transferees from California, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Georgia and New York, with the balance coming from Metro Detroit area.

Calling it a "home run for all of us who worked in there — the developer, the builders and the Realtors," Gerkin also believes that the people who purchased homes in the sub-

Mow your way to a good lawn

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

Q. How much grass does the average lawn produce?

A. A half-acre lawn yields about 3 tons of grass clippings per season. That's enough to fill over 450 bushel bags. In fact, clippings and other yard waste make up 20 percent to 50 percent of what's dumped into the nation's landfills.

To eliminate waste, I suggest using a recycling mower, which cuts and recuts clippings into tiny pieces which are injected deep into the turf where they form a nutrient-rich mulch.

Q. What should I do with all my grass clippings?

A. Your best bet with grass clippings is to simply leave them where they lie. Grass clippings less than 1 inch long filter down to the soil surface and decompose swiftly while forming a nutrient-rich mulch.

It's the longer clippings that tend to remain above the lawn, giving the yard an unsightly appearance and smothering the grass beneath. This is where a recycling mower comes into play. It is a must for the home gardener.

A. It varies by regions and by grass type. For instance, creeping bent grass should be below 1/2 inch long. If you mow this variety too high, thatch problems may develop.

Canada bluegrass won't tolerate close cuttings and needs to be kept about 2 inches high in order to survive.

Recommended mowing heights for cool-season grasses:

Kentucky bluegrass, 3 inches.
Tall fescue, 2 inches.
Annual ryegrass, 2 inches.
Recommended mowing heights for warm-season grasses:
St. Augustine, 2 inches.
Centipede, 2 inches.
Bermuda grass, 1/2 inch.
Zoysia, 1/2 inch.

Q. Is it possible to cut my grass too low in a single mowing?

A. Yes! Never remove more than one-third of your grass height at one time. Cutting your grass too short can severely limit its ability to manufacture food and resist invasion of weeds.

Smart mowing

■ A mower that recycles is best. If you do not have a recycling mower, mow frequently enough that the clippings will not exceed 1 inch in length. Lawn clippings make great mulch.

■ Never shear off more than 1/3 of the height of the leaf blade of your grass, so mow high and mow often. Don't mow low and infrequently.

■ Mowing frequency varies by season. Be careful not to overmow in the hot season.

■ Early evening is the best time to mow — grass can recover before the next day's hot sun.

■ Keep the mower blade sharp and do not mow wet grass.

Q. How low should I cut

Home warranty contracts pass the test of time

and tear. They do not cover pre-existing conditions, do not replace homeowner's insurance, and don't cover foundations, roofs or structural defects.

Examples of specific items covered include dishwasher, cook-top oven and range, garbage disposal, trash compactor, water heater. Some companies provide additional coverage for pools, spas and other systems for an added fee.

The highest proportion of warranty buyers in a single state is in California, where eight of 10 resale home buyers purchase warranty protection. Annual premiums generally range from $240 to $350, higher in other states.

The one-time fee is usually paid by the home buyer at the time of closing the sale transaction. In some cases, the seller or broker pays for all or part of the coverage.

"The alternative is to individually obtain warranty coverage on every appliance and system through major retailers," said James Ripley, president of the Home Warranty Association of California.

When compared to other warranties for such products as air-conditioning compressors, which can cost $20 a year alone, or out-of-pocket costs of plumbing repairs or replacing appliances, home warranties become an unrivaled value, according to Ripley.

"The likelihood of realizing value from a home warranty is far greater than other product warranties, particularly over a three-year period," he said. "Industry figures reveal that, on average, we perform service on over 90 percent of the contracts we write."

"The potential need to use a home warranty policy to repair or replace a malfunctioning system in a home is far greater than most consumer insurance programs, notably homeowners and auto."

To further promote warranty coverage, Ripley noted that the minimal deductible cost to users of home warranties has remained consistent over the years. Without a warranty, replacement of a heater furnace, for example, would probably cost the owner from $500 to $3,500.

For systems and appliances covered by a warranty, the homeowner pays just $30 to $50 when service is performed.

Questions may be used in future columns: personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Subdivision's homeowner's association adds to its appeal

divisions also benefited in the sense that the appreciation of their homes has proven to be quite high.

He characterizes the appreciation rates of homes in Ravenswood as "extraordinary" and estimates the appreciation rates range from a minimum $50,000 to almost $100,000 per home.

"I know one house in there...I sold it for $248,000 and I re-sold it last year at $310,000, and that was over a five-year period," Gerkin said.

Marge Everhart, who was on The Michigan Group marketing team with Gerkin, is still impressed with the quality of workmanship that went into the homes.

"The quality that went into that project was amazing...everything was top-of-the-line," says Everhart, who now works out of the Ann Arbor office of The Michigan Group and owns her own building business, The Building Company.

Everhart also gives B&V Construction a lot of credit for its preservation of as much of the natural landscaping of the land as possible.

The large lots and abundance of trees was particularly attractive to Jon and Sue Savoy, who moved to Ravenswood nearly two years ago, especially since they had lived on a very small lake lot in West Bloomfield.

The Savoy's originally wanted an older home in the City of Howell, but couldn't find anything to suit their needs. A client of Jon's told them about the Ravenswood subdivision and soon thereafter, the Savoy's, who have two young children, purchased their 4,000-square-foot Victorian-style home.

Sue Savoy is pleased that the neighborhood offers a mixture of families, from those with young children to retirees, and says that the events planned by the subdivision's homeowners' association give the neighbors an opportunity to get to know each other.

"The homeowners' association is very strong and they plan activities like picnics in the summer and Easter egg hunts as well as an annual subdivision garage sale," says Savoy.

Each year, the homeowners' association also plans a Christmas or winter gathering, such as caroling or progressive dinners says Eleanor Jugle, a member-at-large on the homeowners' association board of directors.

For Jugle — who moved with her husband, Tom and their two children to Brighton from Chicago seven years ago — the social functions are one of the most important functions of the homeowners' association.

"Most of the new people coming in say that the reason they buy is because they hear we have an active homeowners' association. They hear that we have activities and that is a plus factor for them," says Jugle.

Like Savoy, Jugle is pleased that there is a mix of families in the subdivision, but she is also gratified that the neighborhood has remained fairly stable since she's lived there.

"We were worried that it (the neighborhood) would be more of a moving executive-type thing, and we were pleasantly surprised that there are a fair number of younger families," Jugle said. "There's been some turnover, but not any massive turnover."

She adds that many of the most active members of the homeowners' association are still the original residents.

Though new subdivisions continue to develop throughout the Brighton area — some bigger, some more exclusive — Ravenswood continues to be a shining example of how the right elements coming together at the right time can produce a quality neighborhood.

Tips for a properly mowed lawn

Q. How often should I mow my lawn?

A. Mow often enough that only a small portion of the grass is lost at any one clipping. Ideally, mow once a week so that no more than one-third of the leaf blade will be removed.

Q. Do I need to mow my grass as often in the spring as in the fall?

A. No, mowing frequency varies by season. In the spring, most established lawns should be mowed as soon as the grass turns green and begins to grow. In summer, close mowing (especially during the hot months of July and August) can weaken some grass types.

As autumn approaches, cool-season grasses begin to grow faster and produce more clippings, while warm-season grasses begin to slow down.

Simply adjust your mowing habits. In warm climates, grass should be mowed at the normal heights throughout the winter months.

Q. What is thatch?

A. Thatch appears right at the soil surface and looks like a layer of straw. It's composed mostly of grass parts that live underground, but it also includes lawn clippings and other undecayed material.

In healthy soil, plant parts decompose quickly into humus. However, in soil that is compacted, overfertilized, overwatered or underpopulated with soil insects (the good guys) or earthworms, you end up with thatch.

Q. How can I remove my thatch?

A. You'll need a mower that has a dethatching attachment. The large amount of organic material brought to the surface from using a dethatcher should be immediately removed from the lawn. This will eliminate raking and get your lawn off to a healthy start by removing thatch buildup. Then reseed the lawn, and water.

Reproduction desk and chair worth thousands

By Anne McColam
Copley News Service

The desk and chair in this photo were recently given to me. They are in excellent condition.

I would like to know their style, age and value.

A. The style of your desk and chair is Louis XV Revival. The curving lines, cabriole legs, decorative carving and inlay were inspired by 18th century French designs.

These pieces are reproductions that were made around 1900. The value would probably be $1,800 to $2,200 for the two pieces.

I am curious about my advertising thermometer. It is made of tin and has a picture of a "Mission Orange" soft drink bottle with the thermometer in the bottle. The words "Mission Orange" are in relief.

It is in excellent condition. I would appreciate any information on when it was made and its value.

A. Your thermometer was made in the mid-1900s. Advertising-related items are very popular with collectors.

Its value would probably be $25 to $35.

I have a head vase of a sophisticated lady that I picked up for a couple of dollars at auction. She is 6 inches high. Her hair is blond, she is wearing a hat, has a pearl necklace, bracelet and earrings. Her eyes are downcast and she is holding her hand to her face.

"Napco — 1956" is marked on the bottom. There is also a paper label that state "National Pottery Co. — Made in Japan." I've seen smaller versions in antique shops in the $35 to $50 range.

How much do you think mine would be worth?

A. Lady head vases with flower arrangements sprouting from the top of their heads were popular in the 1950s and 1960s. These planters were perennial favorites with many florists. They were made in the United States and Japan.

These alluring ladies were adorned with imitation jewelry and represented women of fashion and sophistication. Your vase would probably be worth $65 to $85.

We recently purchased an old house and found in the basement a jukebox that the owner left behind. It is a model 1422 "Rock-Ola."

To our surprise, when we dusted it off and plugged it in, it worked! It has a record player with 20 selections and revolving colored lights. There is an ornate grill on the front with a speaker at the bottom. It's wonderful.

Could you tell us when it was made and what it is worth?

A. Get ready to rock 'n' roll! The 1422 model "Rock-Ola" jukebox was made in 1946. It would probably be worth $2,000, possibly more to a serious collector.

REAL ESTATE FACTS

Watch With Confidence!

It has been said that "home buyers make up their mind in the first five minutes, then spend the rest of their time justifying the decision." If that is so, it would seem that home buying decisions are based more on emotion than on factual information.

Does that mean buyers aren't interested in receiving accurate details about the homes they are considering? Not at all. They expect reliable answers to all their questions.

If you have ever watched an experienced real estate agent in action you may have questioned the sales approach taken. During the buyers' first visit to a home, the agent rarely launches into a tirade of descriptive adjectives about the home. Often, the agent follows behind the prospects, saying little, while watching closely their reaction to the home.

To sellers, this may seem like dereliction of duty on the part of the sales agent. After all, isn't the agent supposed to be trying to "sell" the home to the buyers?

Not to worry. From experience, agents have learned that questions from buyers are a strong buying signal. First, buyers absorb the atmosphere of a home, then they begin justifying the option formed by asking questions. At this point the agent begins to provide factual information which either validates the positive opinion already formed, or dissolves any concerns which may be raised.

When selling your home, choose your agent carefully. Once you've made that choice, stand back with confidence as the agent goes to work providing you with a qualified buyer.

Vital Power Gym expands to South Lyon area

By ANNE SEEBALDT GOGOLIN
Special Writer

Dan Jett turned a lifelong interest in health and fitness into a successful business. Make that two successful businesses.

At the age of 11, Jett began taking karate lessons.

"By the time I was 16, I was getting ready for my black belt test, but I was extremely skinny," he explained. I started working out to build a body like Bruce Lee. Then the body building bug hit me. I was hooked. At 19, I started out as a personal trainer and I was managing a health spa."

In addition, between the ages of 19 and 22, Jett competed in several national body building shows. Jett, the owner of Vital Power Gym and Fitness Center in Novi, has expanded his horizons. He bought his Novi-based business with a partner when he was 21 and bought the partner out a year later. More recently, he expanded the scope of his business when he purchased an existing gym in South Lyon and has tripled the number of regular customers since taking over in March. "One thing I definitely push is a steroid-free environment for the kids to train in," he said.

"One of the things that we do at Vital Power - which no other clubs (in the area) do - is provide a personal trainer for free. That made people comfortable from the get-go."

Dan Jett
Owner of Vital Power Gym and Fitness Center

According to Jett, many gyms have "drug-filled environments" where steroid use is rampant. "It's a dead end road (using steroids)," he warned. "They get addicted to gains. I can help the kids achieve their goals naturally."

Jett allows students ages 14 and older to work out in his gym provided they meet certain legal requirements. At 14, their parent or guardian must accompany them during the workout. At 15, they must have a written letter of permission from their parent or guardian. After the age of 16, children do not need parental permission. Although a lot of students work out at his facility, Jett's clientele ranges in age from 14 to active seniors in their 80s.

"It's just a great mix of people," he said. Jett said that he liked South Lyon as the site of his second gym for several reasons.

"It's similar to Novi in a lot of respects," he said. "It's a community-oriented town with lots of really friendly people. The family comes first in South Lyon, Novi, and Wixom."

He feels comfortable with the area's atmosphere and is pleased that the community has accepted him. He added that former owner Doug Smith, who owned the business when it was dynamic fitness, was very well-liked in the community.

"I had some big shoes to fill when I came in," Jett said, and he emphasized that he will honor existing memberships contracted with Smith. "I knew that to have the gym grow with the community, one of the first things I would have to do is bring in new equipment," Jett said.

Since March 1, he has brought 10 new machines on board and plans to acquire more in the near future. Both Vital Power sites feature extensive cardiovascular equipment, machines that work all major body parts such as Cybex select rise machines, and free weights for working out the various muscle groups. After an initial consultation with a client, Jett helps them to set goals and develop a training schedule to achieve them. Three to four days a week, they concentrate on two areas a day, such as the back and biceps. Abdominal muscles get exercised during every workout.

Jett credits his lengthy interest in body building the natural way, and previous experience as a personal trainer for another fitness center as a key part of bulking up his business.

"One of the things that we do at Vital Power - which no other clubs (in the area) do - is provide a personal trainer for free," he said. "That made people comfortable from the get-go."

He said he thinks this level of service makes clients realize that both he and his staff have a personal interest in their health and fitness. One of the things Jett likes most about his work is helping clients improve their fitness levels.

"When they start reaching their goals, it makes you feel good," he explained. "Their achievements are your achievements." Vital Power Gym and Fitness Center in South Lyon is located at 22886 Pontiac Trail in the King Plaza. Call 486-0550 for more information.

Earning money costs you money

Earning money inevitably costs you money. Professional journals, union dues, business meals and continuing education are expenses typically incurred in the line of duty. However, you may be able to offset your out-of-pocket costs by deducting a portion of those expenses on your federal income tax return, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Most unreimbursed employee business expenses can be itemized as "miscellaneous deductions." Included are expenses for items such as job-related education, travel, meals and job hunting. However, they can be deducted only to the extent that they total, when combined with your other miscellaneous deductions, more than 2 percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI). Unreimbursed employee business expenses are subject also to an overall limit on itemized deductions for taxpayers with AGIs in excess of $114,700 ($57,350 for married taxpayers filing separately).

EDUCATIONAL EXPENSES

As an employee, you may be entitled to a deduction for unreimbursed monies spent on job-related education. Among the expenses you can write off are the cost of tuition, books, supplies, lab fees, certain costs for travel to and from your studies, and even the wages of a tutor or typist you used in connection with your educational pursuits.

However, your curriculum must meet one of two IRS-imposed requirements: (1) your education must be required by your employer or by law to keep your current job; or (2) your courses must help you maintain or improve your present work skills. You're not allowed a tax deduction for courses that qualify you for a different kind of work, nor can you deduct the cost of courses needed to meet the minimum qualifications of your present job.

AUTOMOBILE DEDUCTIONS

If you use your own car for business and aren't reimbursed by your employer, there are two ways to claim a deduction. You may deduct your actual costs for gas, oil, insurance, repairs and maintenance, in addition to depreciation, or you can use the standard Internal Revenue Service (IRS) mileage rate, which is 31 cents per mile. In both instances, you also can deduct the cost of unreimbursed, business-related parking fees and tolls. Most people come out ahead by keeping track of their expenses, but this method requires a little more detailed recordkeeping.

Keep in mind that you can deduct 100 percent of your actual automobile expenses only if you use your vehicle exclusively for business. If you use your car for both business and personal purposes, you must allocate your expenses between the two.

EATING OUT

You also may deduct 50 percent of the cost of meals and entertainment expenses that are directly related to or associated with the active conduct of your business. And, the business-meal deduction applies whether you're dining with a client or eating alone. Just be sure to keep thorough records of your expenses.

TRAVEL WRITE-OFFS

When you travel strictly for business, you may deduct your unreimbursed travel expenses. Deductible expenses include the costs of transportation and lodging, 50 percent of meals, and incidental expenses, such as the cost of dry cleaning and laundry, that you incur while away from home.

JOB SEARCH DEDUCTIONS

If you looked for work during 1995, you may be able to claim deductions for related expenses, as long as you were seeking a position in your current line of work. Deductible expenses include costs for resume preparation, printing and mailing, career consultants, travel to interviews, telephone calls, and publications purchased to review employment ads.

DON'T FORGET LITTLE THINGS

According to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants, there are many business expenses that are often overlooked. For example, other deductible employee expenses may include subscriptions to business periodicals, annual dues on credit cards used for business, business gifts (up to $25 per recipient), phone charges for business calls made from or billed to your home phone, and office supplies and furnishings that you purchase yourself.

Eucalyptus Mulch™

■ Eucalyptus Mulch has a beautiful deep red color that adds a visually striking accent to any landscape. Due to the natural oils in the wood, Eucalyptus keeps its color longer than other mulches. ■ 100% Pure Grade A Eucalyptus Mulch is shredded not chipped, with no sawdust or junk mulch ever mixed in for filler. Shredded mulch binds together, stays in place, and will not wash or blow away like chips. ■ The natural oils in Eucalyptus serve as a deterrent to insects. Pests such as fleas, ticks, roaches and aphids just don't like it at all! ■ Eucalyptus Mulch is completely biodegradable. Our generous 2 cubic foot bag will go further and last longer so the user gets all of the exceptional benefits it provides, at a surprisingly reasonable cost. ■ Since landscaping is designed to beautify an area, doesn't it make sense to use a beautiful mulch?

PRAYER to the Holy Spirit, Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who showed me the way to reach my ideal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and who you are in all instances of my life with me. I in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Say for 3 consecutive days without mentioning your petition and your prayer will be answered. Promise to publish this prayer. Also wish to thank Blessed Mother, St. Joseph and St. Jude.

PRAYER to the Blessed Virgin, (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful Bower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity. Now (make request) There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (3 times) Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks DH

NOVENA to St. Jude, May the sacred heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved, and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer 9 times a day, by the 9th day, your prayer will be answered. Publication must be promised. DH

NOVENA to St. Jude, May the sacred heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved, and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

"They take care of you until you are taken care of."

What is it about the Saturn service experience that people find so darn appealing? Is it that you're treated courteously? Is it that any work to be done on your car is explained thoroughly? Is it that things are done right? On time? As promised? Or is it that your car is returned clean, with flowers on the seat or mints on the dash or some other small token that says we really do appreciate your business? Yes, it is all these things. And that's just for an oil change. Hope to see you soon.

THE SIDEWALKS AREN'T THE ONLY THING BEING ROLLED UP AT NIGHT IN SMALL TOWN AMERICA.

Believe it or not, for a lot of small-town teens, marijuana is a very familiar sight. So are crack, cocaine and inhalants.

In fact nearly one in two teens have experimented with drugs.

Some are even dealing the stuff. So, talk to your kids and get them to talk to you. Find out what they know and don't know about drugs. And then, set them straight. For help, call us at 1-800-624-0100 today for a free booklet, "Growing Up Drug-Free: A Parent's Guide to Prevention." Because when it come to drugs, the worst mistake you can make is leaving your kids in the dark.

CAMP TONQUISH - For Children Ages 6-12

The YMCA knows that a day camp experience should open the door to a wide variety of healthy activities and positive experiences for your child to participate in. Educational learning, new experiences and fun activities shared with others help to develop a happy and well-adjusted child. We want your children to have lots of safe and healthy fun this summer at Camp Tonquish. Come share in the "magic" that summer day camp offers. All campers receive a T-shirt.

Fee: Weekly (includes Trip Fee):
Full Members: $87

Each camp is divided into one-week sessions. Camp hours are from 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Extended hours are available on an hourly basis, 7:00-9:00 a.m. and 4:00-6:00 p.m. Fee is $2.00 per hour per child or $3.00 per hour per family.

A $20.00 deposit per session will hold a spot for your child.

CAMP JELLYBEANZ - For Children Ages 3-5

Camp Jellybeanz assures growth of spirit through grace at snack and value study time. Growth of mind by providing educational experiences through outdoor education, crafts, special projects, stories and songs. Growth of body through fitness activities. All campers receive a T-shirt. Children may bring a nutritious snack.

"Y" SKIPPERS

30-Minute Classes
Full Member: $25 • Program Member: $35

SKIPPERS - AGES 6 MONTHS TO 5 YEARS OLD

The Skippers Program is designed by the National YMCA in cooperation with the U.S. Coast Guard. Skippers is comprised of two class levels. SKIP is a parent-child experience that offers an introduction to the water and beginning swim skills through the use of games. PERS is our preschool-age program. This class is conducted without the parent in the water. The components of the program include personal safety, stroke development, games, personal growth and rescue.

***Children in diapers must wear cloth diapers and rubber pants.

SKIPS: Ages 6 months to 36 months

A water adjustment class for the infant and small child. Stresses activities and safety skills for both parent and child. Lays the foundation for future swimming.

PERS: Ages 3 to 5 years old

Pike - A water adjustment class that emphasizes exploring the environment. Children will be taught beginning swimming skills. Prerequisite: None.

Eels - The major part of the class will be spent on rhythmic breathing. Independent swimming will be encouraged. Basic swimming safety skill.

Prerequisite: Paddlestroke one width of the pool with flotation device.

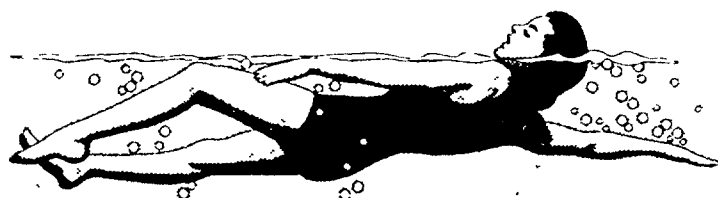

Rays - We will work on endurance, diving from the side of the pool, treading water, and pool games. Prerequisite: Paddlestroke one width of the pool (50 feet) without flotation device.

ADULT WATER EXERCISE

Full Members: $22 • Program Members: $35

A wonderful wet workout!! You don't need to be a swimmer to exercise in the pool. The buoyancy of the water takes all the impact away. Increases flexibility and muscular balance.

BACKYARD SWIMMING LESSONS

Session 1: July 1 - July 12 (omit July 4 & 5)
Session 2: July 15 - July 26
Session 3: July 29 - August 9
Session 4: August 12 - August 23

Days: Monday-Thursday (Friday make-up day)

** Teacher may decide to go Monday through Friday the first week and Monday through Wednesday the second week.**

Times: Classes offered between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. and after 6:00 p.m. Class times will be assigned approximately one week before classes begin. Please specify 9:00-12:00, 12:00-3:00, 3:00-5:00 or after 6:00 p.m. on enrollment form next to "Time."

Location: Pools will be available in Plymouth, Canton, and Northville. We try to place you in a pool nearest your home. If you have a neighbor whose pool you want to be placed in, please specify on enrollment slip.

YOUTH PROGRESSIVE SWIM

45-Minute Classes
Full Member: $30 • Program Member: $38

Progressive Swim is for 6-14 year olds. The National YMCA Youth Progressive Swimming Program consists of six levels of ability. Each level has its own skills to be completed, ranging from the basic to the most advanced. Our primary concern is learning based on safety and fun... not fear of failure!

POLLIWOG:

BEGINNER - For the child just learning to swim. Time is spent on water adjustment, safety skills and beginning swim skills. (Ages 5-12)
Prerequisite: None.

GUPPY:

INTERMEDIATE BEGINNER - Will learn rotary breathing, treading water and sculling on back. (Ages 6-12) Prerequisite: Paddlestroke one width (50 feet) of pool without flotation device.

MINNOW:

ADVANCED BEGINNER - Introduces back crawl and diving. (Ages 6-12)
Prerequisite: Front crawl one width (50 feet) with rotary breathing.

FISH/FLYING FISH:

BASIC WATER SAFETY:

Ages 12-14 years. Emphasis on basic lifeguarding skills and building endurance of rescue strokes. Prerequisite: Fish/Flying Fish

How it came to be

Spree's roots grew from city's history

The history of the Livonia Spree is directly linked with the history of the city of Livonia.

Spree has its roots in a builders show that was held each spring at the DRC at Middlebelt and Schoolcraft. Livonia had undergone a major residential building boom during its first 25 years and the builders show with carnival rides and fireworks had become a very popular event.

That the builders show became the community festival was fitting not only for its location but also because one of the city's motivations to become a city initially was to gain the income from the racetrack that cities received — an amount to grow to $500,000 annually.

In the early days of the city, most of the city's growth was south of Five Mile and Schoolcraft and Plymouth roads were major thoroughfares of community life.

The celebration of 1996 as the centennial year of the automobile in America is cause to remember the significant impact auto plants and auto-related businesses have had on Livonia's early development.

The contribution of the automotive industry early in the community's history enriched the tax base, provided jobs, and made Livonia an attractive residential community.

Livonia incorporated into a city in 1950 and was ready to celebrate its Silver Anniversary as a city in 1975 when the festival at DRC was converted into a community-wide celebration

The first official city birthday celebration festival became "Spree 25" to mark the city's 25th year. Thus, Spree in 1996 is "Spree 46" as it has been 21 years since that first anniversary festival celebration was held

By 1975 the builders show at DRC had fallen on hard times because the explosion of new subdivisions by now had slowed considerably. The builders show would have passed on had it not been for the anniversary celebration. Anniversary planners wanted a community-wide gathering to celebrate the 25th birthday and the festival seemed a perfect vehicle.

The first official city birthday celebration festival became "Spree 25" to mark the city's 25th year. Thus, Spree in 1996 is "Spree 46" as it has been 21 years since that first anniversary festival celebration was held.

In 1975 Spree was moved to Ford Field and staged from June 25-29. City and school officials squared off in a softball contest with opposing pitchers being Mayor Ed McNamara and Superintendent George Garver.

There were 18 rides then, a Bavarianfest, two bands, helicopter rides, a skydiving exhibition, and, of course, fireworks.

But a community festival was certainly not the only thing added in Livonia in the first 25 years of cityhood. From 1950 to 1975, the population grew from 17,734 to 115,000, the tax base from $15 million to $955 million, and the number of homes from 450 to 30,000 in 1975.

Spree 46 serves as a reminder that the city's Golden Anniversary is but four years away — in the year 2000.

Greetings from the Mayor

Speaking for the city of Livonia, I welcome each of you to Spree. Spree is Livonia's birthday celebration as a city. This year "Spree 46" marks our 46th anniversary as a city.

The celebration grew out of an annual builders show that took place at the DRC race-track, according to William C. Fried, president of this year's Livonia Anniversary Committee. It included a carnival and fireworks, but as the city grew and developed, it was decided to move this annual event to Livonia's Ford Field.

Spree is a time for the family to have fun, and share a number of enjoyable activities.

This year's Spree is sponsoring 45 fun-filled rides. A number of free events are offered such as a circus, the Granpa Cratchet Show and, of course, our spectacular fireworks display. There will also be picnics, concerts, a classic car show, a sand volleyball tournament, and a host of other entertaining events.

We are proud of the city of Livonia and consider it to be one of the finest cities to live, work, be educated, and raise children. We are also proud of the Spree Committee that plans this annual event. It is an awesome task to attend to all of the details that make Spree one of the finest festivals that takes place in the state.

Under the leadership of Chairman William C. Fried, the committee meets on an average of twice a month, all year long. Without the tremendous effort put forth from the citizen volunteers, we would not be able to enjoy the fine Spree celebration that we have each year.

Spree is also an opportunity for approximately 300 volunteers to raise funds for this non-profit organization. Spree has contributed more than $380,000 for community projects, such as the Beverly Park playground project, local senior high schools' graduation night parties, equipment for many parks and recreation programs, St. Mary Hospital, Hospice, and annual Spree scholarships.

Beyond the community donations, Spree also provides every year an opportunity for participating civic organizations — such as the Livonia Firemen Association, the Livonia Family "Y," the Italian-American Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club — to raise thousands for dollars for their respective community organizations.

Anyone interested in volunteering — or in information on the festival itself — may call the 24-hour hotline number, 427-8190. Or, for a schedule of daily events, call 953-2003.

I hope you enjoy Spree and join with me in wishing a happy 46th birthday to the city of Livonia at Spree 46!

Jack Kirksey

Spree ends with bang Sunday

Spree 46 is off to an early start Sunday, June 30, with the Spree 1, 3 & 5 Mile Runs at 8 a.m.

Actually, registration begins at 7 a.m. at the Livonia Family YMCA on Stark north of Schoolcraft.

The charge of $15 per person includes a t-shirt, awards, and a breakfast. The runs are sponsored by Livonia Family 'Y' and Livonia Community Federal Credit Union. For information call the race hotline at 261-2161.

There are two worship services Sunday morning at Spree, both on the Main Stage. St. Aidan Catholic Church of Livonia will conduct a Catholic service at 8:30 a.m. and Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church of Livonia will conduct a Protestant service at 10 a.m.

Spree goers can meet their elected city officials from 9-11 a.m. at the Pancake Breakfast in Eddie Edgar Arena. The charge of $3 for adults and $2 for children provides all the pancakes you can eat, sausage, juice, milk and coffee.

The Family Foot Rally is a new event to the Spree. Much like a road rally "scavenger hunt", the Foot Rally involves teams of two searching for items throughout the Spree grounds. Teams will consist of one adult and a youth age 6-12.

The charge of $5 per adult/child team will provide the youth with a t-shirt, awards, and prizes. Teams are limited for the Foot Rally, sponsored by Melody Farms, and so persons will want to register soon. Registration will open June 25.

The Chili Cook Off, sponsored by the Livonia Firefighters, will be 1-6 p.m. Sunday in the Eddie Edgar Arena. The charge of $10 includes the food and a band.

Sunday's Fireworks Display will fill the skies for 30 minutes beginning at 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

Circus times 3:30, 5:30 and 9 p.m.. Sunday, Granpa Cratchet will entertain at 2, 4, 6 and 8 p.m. Sunday, and carnival rides will be from noon-11 p.m. Saturday.

Avoid parking congestion by using shuttle service

Avoid the congested parking and traffic conditions near the Spree grounds by taking advantage of the Spree shuttle.

The shuttle service departs from the Civic Center Library, City Hall, and Court House Tuesday through Sunday.

The hours of operation are 4 p.m. to midnight Tuesday, 2 p.m. to midnight Wednesday through Friday, and noon to 1 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

For out-of-towners unfamiliar with Livonia's landmarks, the city hall is on the south side of Five Mile east of Farmington Road, the Civic Center Library is but one parking lot further east, and the court house is on the east side of Farmington Road south of Five Mile (if you've come to the fire station, you've missed it; turn around and face north).

Most Spree events are held on the grounds of Ford Field, where the Eddie Edgar Arena is located. Ford Field is at Farmington Road and Lyndon, which is the light halfway between Schoolcraft and Five Mile.

Some events are at the Bentley Center which is at Five Mile and Hubbard further east of the library.

Fire department celebrates 55 years

The Livonia Fire Department dates back many years to the township days when it opened as a volunteer department under the direction of Fire Chief Calvin Roberts.

The first fire truck was a 500-gallon pumper delivered to Livonia Township on Nov. 1, 1941. It was housed in a service station owned at the time by Chief Roberts, also a volunteer firefighter.

A fire station was built by the township in 1945 near the northeast corner of Merriman and Plymouth Road. That station serviced the entire township until 1948 when the second station was built on Seven Mile at Middlebelt. A second truck was added at that time.

By the beginning of 1947 Township Supervisor Jesse Ziegler and other township officials realized the need to form a full time, paid department for protection from fire and disaster.

By the time Livonia became a city in 1950 it already had a fire department equipped and trained to serve the 36 square miles of the community.

Since 1950 the city has hired professional firefighters, and carried on all phases of training in the science of fire fighting, extinguishing tactics, fire prevention, and conducted a comprehensive study of all potential fire hazards and methods to combat them.

In 1952, a third station was added behind the old city hall on Five Mile and a new 1000 gallon pumper was purchased for the department of 14 full time firefighters. Next Chief Roberts formed a Fire Prevention Bureau and put Lt. Larrand Perry in charge.

At the present time this full time division consists of fire inspectors John Bunk and Robert Newstead and Captain Perry and inspects old and new businesses, schools, industrial buildings and proposed subdivisions as well as handling public relations and public education.

By 1954 with 32 full time men, the department added another 1000 gallon pumper which was housed at Station 2 at Plymouth and Farmington roads. The department purchased another new 1,000 gallon pumper and a 100

Sand's ideal for volleyball

The Livonia Spree fourth annual Sand Volleyball Tournament will begin 10 a.m. Saturday in Veteran's Park next to the Livonia Family Y at Stark and Lyndon roads.

Registration will close one-half hour before play begins.

The tourney, sponsored by Lakepointe Yacht Club, involves two-person teams of 18 and older.

There is a $10 donation per team, with proceeds donated to the University of Michigan Burn Center.

All participants will be asked to sign a release of liability for each event prior to the start of play. Entry forms are available at Lakepointe Yacht Club on Ann Arbor Road just west of Newburgh, the Spree Office, or Livonia Parks and Recreation.

Or participants can call the hotline number of 473-3966 and leave a message.

Family fun: Volleyball is a sport for all ages. This year a Sand Volleyball Tourney is on Saturday's fare on the YMCA courts.

In May 1960 Mayor William Brashear appointed Joseph W. Drost as director of public safety.

In 1996 there are five stations in operation, five pumpers, an aerial truck and five rescue trucks — all equipped with two-way radios.

Children's entertainment grows at this year's Spree

Two additions to the entertainment schedule at Livonia Spree 46 are children's musician Julie Austin and the First of the Maheeguns.

Song Sister Austin and the Maheeguns both will appear in Family Concert on Thursday, June 27, at the Main Stage — the Maheeguns from 6-7 p.m. and Austin from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Both are free, as are all Spree concerts.

Austin, a specialist in children's music from Ann Arbor, sings to the sounds of guitar, auto harp, the jew-harp and an assortment of percussion instruments including the nose flute.

She has appeared in concerts in the U.S. and Canada for more than 25 years and was granted a "Best Children's Entertainer" Family Choice Award by Metro Parent magazine.

As half of the popular Song Sisters duo, she has recorded five recordings, the last of which,

"Hello Sun, Goodnight Moon," received a Parents' Choice Award.

As a Wolftrap Artist-in-Residence, Austin works with preschool children and teachers and has presented several workshops for parents and educators. She is completing a master's degree in teaching early childhood education.

Her presentations are a mixture of songs, stories movement, and audience participation. Among her favorites are humorous renditions of folk tales and adaptations of old favorites.

The First of the Maheeguns is led by Bob Brosko, an assistant scoutmaster for a troop sponsored by Our Lady Queen of Martyrs Church in Beverly hills.

The Maheegun program features Native

American interpretive dancing and colorful costumes. Participants are an elite group of 15 boys ages 11-15.

The original seven are Christian Bergsma, Reid Brosko, Nick Nickerson, Chris Boyle, Kevin Fender, Aaron Sanko, and Mike Maly.

The Maheeguns received a standing ovation at the troop's Blue & Bold banquet in February and had performed the day before at an elementary school. In March the group also performed before the Detroit Area Boy Scout Council at D-Bar-A Scout Ranch in Metamora.

Before these appearances, the original seven underwent 400 hours of practice, spent 150 hours in meetings, and 200 hours in workshops to make their costumes. They average four hours a week on their Maheegun work.

The Spree 46 Entertainment schedule, in addition to the Family Concert on June 27, is:

- Friday, Country Western Night with Denim and Lance, Tracey Lynne and Heartland Band from 7-11 p.m. at the Main Stage; Ron Coden from 8-11 p.m. at the Midway Tent.

- Saturday, The Larados from 7-11 p.m. at the Main Stage.

- Sunday, Karaoke plus Steve King and the Dittilies from 5-10 p.m. at the Main Stage; Ron Coden and Steve Hunter, 3-10 p.m. at the Midway Tent.

Circus and Thrill Show adds to Spree excitement

The Livonia Spree Circus promises a thrill a minute to those who are up to so much excitement in such a short period of time.

The Fearless Flores present the Circus and Thrill Show each day of Spree 46.

The hours are 5:30 and 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, 3:30, 5:30, and 9 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

Circus goers will see the Victory Riders perform motorcycle stunts inside a 14-foot globe.

The Victory Riders also will perform motorcycle high-wire stunts 50 feet above the ground.

And while looking skyward, look for Los Titos doing comedy antics 30 feet in the air with his Spacewheel.

The circus performance includes animal, aerial and ground acts.

The Flores Family consists of parents Victor and Linda, children Victoria, Ricardo and Frances who produce and perform the 12 acts.

Pie eating wars just for kids

An addition to this year's Livonia Spree, in keeping with the emphasis on family activities, is a Pie Eating Contest sponsored by the Livonia Observer.

The Pie Eating Contest will begin 3:30 p.m. Saturday, June 29, immediately following the Family Fun Free For All.

The contest is for ages 7-8, 9-10, and 11-12. There will be ten contestants in each group competing for prizes.

Livonia youth are encouraged to join in the fun by filling out the registration form below and mailing it to Pie Eating Contest, Livonia Observer, PO Box 3004, Livonia MI 481501-5910. Applications will be accepted on a first-come basis.

Foot Rally new to Spree

Fun runs and road rallies are a traditional part of Livonia Spree but this year's birthday celebration has a first-time rally — a Family Foot Rally.

A Family Foot Rally is, of course, a road rally on foot. The entire Spree grounds will be used for the course of the Foot Rally which is sponfirst place winning team will receive $200, second place $100, third and fourth place $40, fifth through eighth places $5. Place money is guaranteed and will grow with entries.

All proceeds will benefit the Livonia Heart Fund and Multiple Sclerosis.

Supporting sponsors are Livonia Anniversary Committee, Action Distributing, Jammer II, C&M Dart Distributing, Inc.

Other events include: a Bullshoot, tickets $1 or seven for $5, winning tickets drawn before semi-finals; 50/50 Skill Shoots, four events, tickets $1, enter as often as you like, ties decided by sudden death.

For information call C&M Darts at 810-685-2533.

sored by Melody Farms.

Teams will consist of one adult and one non-adult ages 6-12.

The foot rally will begin 1 p.m. Sunday, June 20, at the main stage on Ford Field. Registration will begin Tuesday, June 25, at the Spree Trailer. Only a limited number of teams may participate so interested persons will want to sign up soon on Tuesday.

The charge is $5 per team. The fee includes a t-shirt for the non-adult, awards, and door prizes.

46 candles to be lit for city birthday

The mayor will blow out 46 candles on a birthday cake signifying the 46 years Livonia has been a city. The event will take place at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 27.

The cake was donated by Awrey Bakeries, Inc. The celebration will take place on the Miller entertainment stage. The line up for the evening includes the Maheeguns from 6 to 7 p.m., followed by the birthday celebration with the Mayor. The Songsisters will take the stage shortly thereafter.

Officers fill important role

William Fried is president of this year's Livonia anniversary committee, which oversees Spree 46. Other officers leading the charge are Charles Smith, vice president; Rick Skaggs, secretary; Elizabeth Todd treasurer and Harold Hoyt serving as second vice president.

William Fried

A tremendous amount of work goes into Spree each year and involves many people in the community, but the officers fill an especially important role.

Welcome Home to Community Federal.

These days there are more and more banks with more and more ways to keep you out of their offices. Is this their way of offering personal service?

At Community Federal Credit Union we believe it takes friendly, helpful people to provide personal service, and we don't think it should cost you extra. And if you choose to handle your financial transactions through ATMs or Direct Dial 24, our telephone service, we provide those too. Free of charge.

So isn't it good to know that you can still come home to a place that offers a full range of affordable financial services in a friendly, community conscious atmosphere. A place like Community Federal.

Liberty fest offers family fun

In 1995, approximately 40,000 people filled Heritage Park to help celebrate the annual Liberty Fest.

When June 20-23 comes around again, a larger crowd is expected as the Liberty Fest celebrates its fifth year and is increasingly becoming a major summer event in western Wayne County.

"The fifth year is a landmark in my way of thinking," said Bob Dates, Canton recreation supervisor and chairman of the Liberty Fest committee. "It didn't die out. And it's growing in popularity. We are on our way to making longterm history."

Every year of the festival's five years, something new has been added. 1996 is no different. Of significance is the addition of a fourth day to the Liberty Fest weekend.

This year, the festival begins Thursday, June 20. "We took one of our more popular summer activities and incorporated it into the Liberty Fest," Dates said.

The night of free activities for families begins with an outdoor concert featuring the "Earth Angels" - a variety show - followed by the outdoor showing of "Pocahontas."

"This is definitely a family night. We found that with the outdoor movies, we attract a lot of families," Dates said.

Music will also set the tone for Friday night with a performance by "Bobby Lewis and the Crackerjack Band." Following the concert, the evening will be filled with more music by "Mulligan's Stew," a strolling guitar group.

Adults will be delighted with other Friday night events, such as the return of Vegas Night, a fundraiser hosted by the St. Thomas A'Beckett Booster Club, and Bingo, hosted by the Canton Chamber of Commerce and Canton Community Foundation.

The Vegas Night will begin at 7 p.m. and feature the classic games of chance, such as Black Jack and Roulette. The fundraiser will run until about midnight in a tent between the Canton Public Library and the Heritage Park amphitheater.

Right next to that tent will be one where guests will try their luck with Bingo, a fundraiser for scholarship money for Canton residents. The tent will be open 7-11 p.m.

Saturday is when the ball really gets rolling. It will be a day filled with music, activities for children and adults, good food, good games and lots of camaraderie. The evening is topped off with a colorful and loud fireworks display.

Art is always a mainstay of the Liberty Fest and this year is no different.

America's Most Wanted car club will again present shows both Saturday and Sunday.

Kids will be delighted with the mid-midway rides on both Saturday and Sunday, as they will be with paddleboat rides and "Fun Inflatables" that include a variety of inflatable games and rides. Attractions include the Acme Sports Challenge Maze, a Dino Bounce and two Boulder Mountain Superslides.

A new activity this year will be the "Extreme Games" event co-sponsored by Continental Cablevision and ESPN. The games include inline race skating and tricks skating.

Art is always a mainstay of the Liberty Fest and this year is no different. Visitors will see a variety of arts and crafts at both the Fine Arts Show, as well as the Arts and Crafts Show - on Saturday and Sunday. Kids haven't been forgotten, either. Again, they will get their chance at creativity at art workshops Saturday and Sunday.

The festival committee has made sure there's a perfect lineup of music at the amphitheater Saturday and Sunday. Kids will have some special guests - such as Marc Thomas and Max the Moose, a magician and Ronald McDonald-to meet both Saturday and Sunday on soccer fields north of the amphitheater.

To add to the fun, festival-goers, especially kids, will get a kick out of the Flying Aces, a group of Frisbee professionals who will show off their own particular talents.

As in past years, the Liberty Fest will also be synonymous with food - all kinds - including the popular D.A.R.E. and Outback Steakhouse offerings, as well as a Taste of Canton. Throughout the weekend, visitors can imbibe on their favorite festival treats, such as cotton candy, popcorn and other refreshments.

The Summit on the Park community center will close at 2 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday. But don't miss the dessert special - mini hot fudge ice cream sundaes - offered 2-4 p.m. The Pheasant Run Golf Course also will close early during the festival weekend.

Paddleboats to be afloat at main pond

The popular paddleboat rides on the main pond of Heritage Park will return again this year to the Liberty Fest.

Because of the popularity of the rides, Canton Township has increased the number of boats to six to allow more fest goers a chance for a relaxing ride.

Rides will be on the main pond behind the amphitheater and will be available 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday and noon-5 p.m. Sunday.

Rides are $1 and last 15-20 minutes.

T-shirts boast five years of festival logos

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

To celebrate the Liberty Fest's fifth successful year, a T-shirt has been designed that will feature all of the past year's festival logos.

"It will be a limited edition," said Bob Dates, Canton parks and recreation supervisor and festival committee chairman.

The T-shirt will feature each of the past four year's logos in a box across the front of the shirt.

The logos in 1993 and 1994 were designed by Dates, while the logos in 1992 and 1995 were designed by local artist Sharon Dillenbeck.

"Bob and I went back and forth on doing the T-shirts," Dillenbeck said.

The white T-shirts will be on sale throughout the Liberty Fest weekend for $10.

Kids lineup grows every year

Kids will certainly be thrilled with the lineup of entertainment just for them on the main soccer fields north of the Heritage Park amphitheater throughout the festival weekend.

"Our children's entertainment stage area is growing every year," said Bob Dates, Canton parks and recreation supervisor and Liberty Fest committee chairman.

Starting with Saturday, June 22, kids will be treated to Marc Thomas and Max the Moose beginning at 12:30 p.m. At 2 p.m. kids will see a special magic act by Philip Leja, followed by Julie Austin at 3 p.m. with music just for children.

Youngsters can become entertainers themselves at 4 p.m. when time is devoted to a kids karaoke.

The Michigan Opera Theatre will perform 5-6 p.m. with a version of Aesop's Fables, a charming musical featuring four of the timeless tales of Aesop. This show is sponsored by Canton Project Arts.

The Ronald McDonald show kicks off Sunday entertainment for kids at 12:30 p.m., followed by more magic by Gordon Russ at 1:30 p.m. At 2:30 p.m. singer Jim Perkins will take the stage. At 3:30 p.m., kids karaoke will be offered.

A special treat is scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday when Frisbee professionals, known as the Flying Aces, shows off their brand of sport for an hour. The nationally recognized tour team is based in Howell but the pros come from all over the country.

"They gear their program toward youth," Dates said.

Throughout the festival weekend, kids will be entertained by the myriad of characters they will bump into while walking around the park.

"We've made a conscious effort to book walk-around characters so kids can have their photos taken with them," Dates said.

Some of those characters are Chuck E. Cheese, Kool Cat and Paws, Ms. Wendy and the Detroit Tigers mascot.

A feast of fests

Liberty fest not Canton's first

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Every community festival has a history and reason of its own. The Canton Liberty Fest is no different.

Before the Canton Liberty Fest dawned five years ago, Canton had a couple other tries at festivals.

In Canton's farming days, there was the Canton Country Festival - a chicken and corn roast in Griffin Park. "It was to showcase Canton as the farm capital of the world," said Bob Dates, Canton parks and recreation supervisor and Liberty Fest Committee chairman.

In its day, the country festival was a success. But times changed in Canton as the farming community gave way to suburban Canton. "The festival was successful in its day," Dates said.

For awhile there was no annual festival in Canton. Then finally a group of residents got together and decided to sponsor a Canton Challenge Fest. "The idea's more sports and to showcase Canton golf, soccer, baseball and cow chip flings," Dates said.

Unfortunately, the sports fest never really took off as a successful event.

Then about five years, another try was given for an annual Canton fest. This time, however, the township government got involved.

"None of the previous festivals had the full backing of the township. They just weren't backed strongly," Dates said.

When organizers decided to try another festival Dates said there were several important ideas that had to be followed.

First, the festival had to showcase Canton's 105-acre Heritage Park, behind the township hall on Canton Center Road.

Second, the festival had to have a family theme. No alcoholic beverages were to be served and activities had to involve kids and adults.

The next job was to figure out when a festival could be held. Surrounding communities had most of the summer months booked already. "We liked the Livonia Spree idea," Dates said. "So we came up with late June."

Fireworks has bigger bang

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

STAFF WRITER

The fireworks display is one of the most popular events in the annual Liberty Fest and this year organizers are promising an even larger explosion of color and noise.

"It will be about 40 minutes. We have increased the size of show each of the five years of the festival," said Bob Dates, Canton parks and recreation supervisor and festival committee chairman.

Sponsored by the Community Federal Credit Union and put on by Liberty Fireworks, the show will blast off from near the baseball diamonds on the west end of Heritage Park.

It doesn't matter where you are near the Liberty Fest, you'll get a good look at the fireworks, Dates said.

A musical performance at about 8 p.m. will precede the fireworks that start about 10 p.m.

To ensure that all visitors to the fireworks remain safety and worry-free about traffic, festival organizers advise that you get to the festival grounds early to get a good parking spot and good seat.

Canton police will direct traffic throughout the evening. They are expected to block roads into several of the major subdivision surrounding Heritage Park, while restricting entrance to others.

Sparklers will not be sold on the festival grounds this year, but neon necklaces and flowers will be sold, Dates said.

"The fireworks are getting increasingly expensive to put on," Dates said, adding that Liberty Fest workers will be asking visitors to make small donations to off-set the costs of the display.

Artists display talents at art show

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Many of your favorite fine artists will showcase their talents at the expanded Fine Arts Show Saturday and Sunday.

"It's been growing. We have more interest because we are now in our fifth year," said Plymouth-Canton artist Sharon Dillenbeck of D&M Studio in Old Village, who coordinates the show with Northville artist Julie Giordano.

The Fine Arts Show is juried and is open 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Saturday, and noon-5 p.m. Sunday.

"We have ended up with a wonderful showcase," Dillenbeck said, referring to the 70 artists who will display their works.

Visitors will also be able to see the artists - water colorists, jewelry makers, oil painters, pastelists, sand artists, woodcrafters - at work during the show. "I ask all artists, if possible, to demonstrate their work," Dillenbeck said. "Our booths are more of a gallery look. This is really a fun show."

Visitors will be treated to fine art by Plymouth-Canton middle and high school students. The display is of no cost to students, plus they receive the benefit of Dillenbeck's expert eye on what pieces they should show.

"There's no place for them to showcase their work other than in the schools," Dillenbeck said.

Visitors will see many artists whom they will recognize from previous years at the Liberty Fest, including Hugh Burley, an oil painter and one of the founders of the Michigan Art Guild and Norma McQueen, owner of an art gallery in Garden City. New to the show this year is photographer Kelly Dobson.

"We have handpainted clothing to fine arts and photography," said Giordano of Julie Giordano Studio, Northville.

Dillenbeck and Giordano jury the show. "Our criteria is that all work must be handmade by the artist. No work from kits is allowed," Giordano said. "We have a real nice mix this year."

Visitors will have a chance to watch artists display their talents with sand art and candle art. Both mediums will be displayed outside the fine arts tent.

Also on hand for the show will be artists from the Potters Guild, Plymouth and Canton senior artists and the Three Cities Art Club. Students of both Dillenbeck and Giordano's will do face painting for children at the festival.

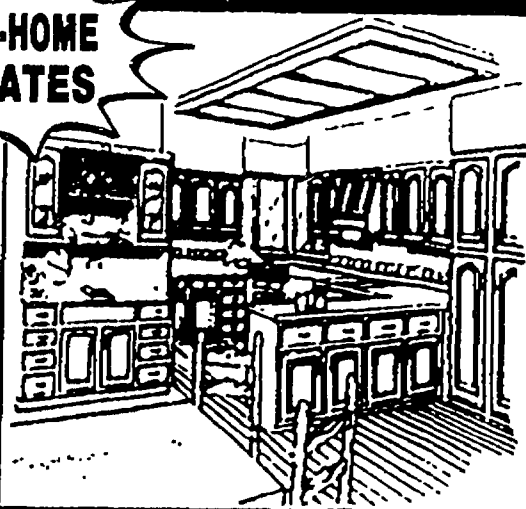

Throughout the show, Canton Project Arts will man a booth to offer information. "They will encourage everyone to get involved," Dillenbeck said.

Medical assistance for fest goers will be right around the corner throughout the festival weekend.

Mission Health will provide service at its health station on Saturday, while Oakwood Healthcare Center will provide help Sunday.

Both organizations also plan to offer free medical testing, such as blood pressure and cholesterol tests.

FESTS from page 14

Next job was finding a name and a theme. "We wanted something patriotic and spirited," Dates said.

It was appropriate then that since the new festival would be designed to showcase Heritage Park - a park that was almost called Liberty Park- that the event should be called the Liberty Fest.

'I think the one quality aspect of the festival is Heritage Park.'

Bob Dates

When it came to forming a committee to plan the fest, township employees, as well as community organizations, were included. "They either supply volunteers or they have representation on the committee," Dates said.

And off the committee went.

"By just word of mouth and the quality of the events, the festival has grown in attendance each year," Dates said. "I think the one quality aspect of the festival is Heritage Park. I get comments about Heritage Park all the time. The events are spread around so people can walk throughout the park."

This year's festival committee includes: Dates, Sharon Dillenbeck, artist; Dianne Neihengen, Canton senior coordinator; Donna Theeck, Canton employee; Anna Stump, canton employee; Marianne Stewart, Canton employee; Barb Adkins, Canton employee; Michelle Murch, Canton employee; Ken Voyles, Canton employee; Linda Shapona, Canton resident and former chamber of commerce executive director; Joan Noricks, Canton Community Foundation executive director; Kathleen Salla, Canton employee; Lew Stevens, Canton police; Brian Lawrence of the America's Most Wanted car club; Lisa Lenaghan, Canton employee; and Joyce Murphy, Canton employee.

Amphitheater dominates as the place to be

The Canton Liberty Fest and music have always gone hand in hand.

Throughout the festival weekend, the amphitheater - near the biggest of Heritage Park's ponds - is where much of the music will dominate. The amphitheater can comfortably seat 2,500-3,000 spectators.

The amphitheater is where the festival will get underway... The Earth Angels variety show will debut, followed by a showing of Walt Disney's Pocahontas

The amphitheater is where the festival will get underway at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 20. The Earth Angels variety show will debut, followed by a showing of Walt Disney's Pocahontas.

At 7:30 p.m. Friday, the amphitheater comes alive again with the popular and oldies music of Bobby Lewis & The Crackerjack Band. After the concert and during the Vegas Night and Canton Chamber of Commerce Bingo, visitors will be entertained by the sounds of strolling guitar music performance at 11 a.m. followed by the Spiriters cheerleaders from Canton's Parks and Recreation program at noon. Irk & Erk, a singing duo will take the stage at 1 p.m., followed by the rockabilly sounds of George Bedard & the Kingpins 3-4:30 p.m. Oldies by Benny & the Jets will fill the amphitheater 5-7 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. Saturday, the Marc Phillips Band will perform until about 9:30, just before the big fireworks show.

On Sunday the amphitheater will boast a line dancing performance and demonstration by Country Time Productions, followed by the Satin Doll Dancers,ed by Mulligan's Stew.

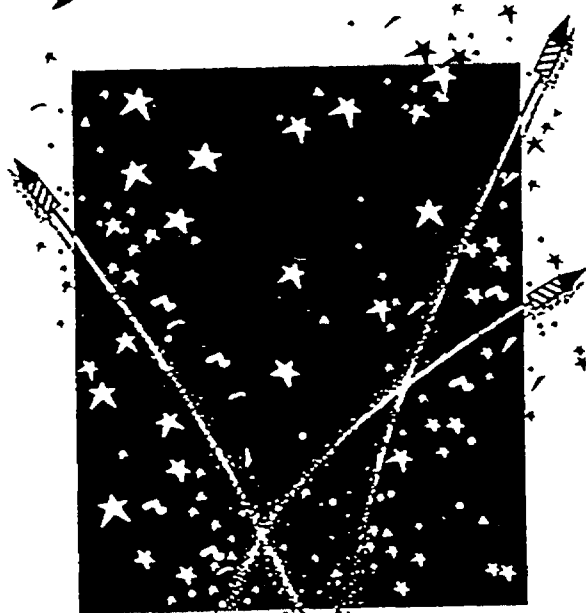

Saturday at the amphitheater is kicked off with a karate demonstr a group of senior citizen performers 1-2 p.m.

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps. also is expected to perform both Saturday and Sunday.

Finally at 3 p.m. the stage will be turned over to the Fantastics for about two hours of popular music.

Two eating events fill festive days

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

What would a summertime festival be without food? You can bet that you won't go hungry at the Canton Liberty Fest.

Two special eating events - Taste of Canton and the Plymouth-Canton D.A.R.E. Picnic in the Park - are planned for the weekend.

'Come and eat and enjoy the whole day.'

Donna Theeck
festival committee

"Come and eat and enjoy the whole day," said Donna Theeck, festival committee member.

Ten restaurants are participating in the Taste of Canton, which offers a variety of menus from which to choose. Taste of Canton is open noon-9:30 p.m.

Saturday, June 22, at the shelters on the north end of Heritage Park, just off Proctor Road.

"Hopefully we will have menus on each restaurant board," Theeck said.

Here's how Taste of Canton works: you check out the menus for each of the participating restaurants. Menu items cost anywhere from one to five tickets. Tickets may be purchased for $1 each.

"You're really getting more than a taste. You're getting a good portion," Theeck said.

Restaurants that are participating include: Rose's, Mountain Jack, Damon's, Applebees, Marco's Pizza, Buck Jones Deli, Thai Bistro, Baker's Square, Brueggers Bagels and Good Food Co.

"We look for a good mix in the menus," Theeck said.

A beverage station will be near the Taste of Canton area. Guests may eat at open picnic tables in the area or in two sheltered food tents.

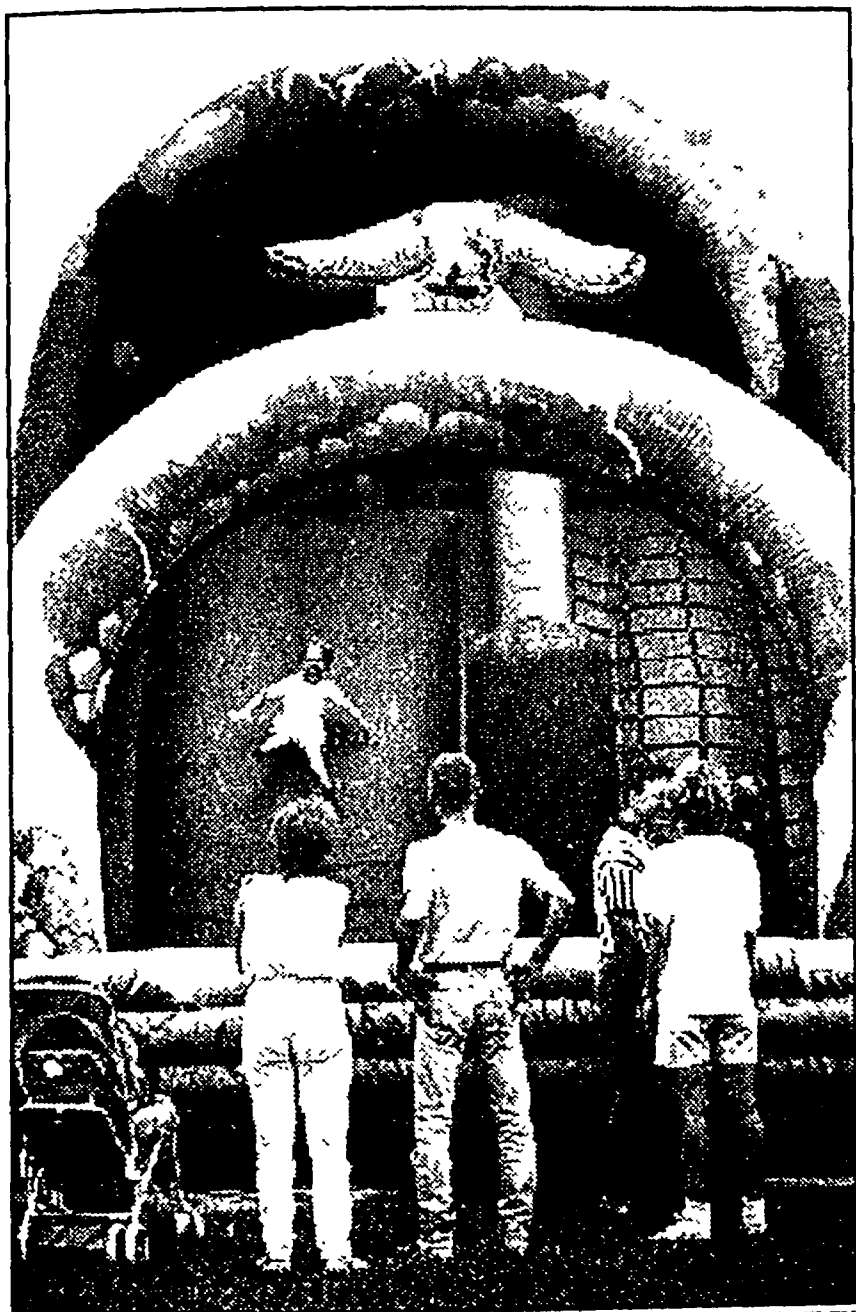

Sunday, June 23, brings Picnic in the Park, which is a fundraiser -the fifth annual - for the D.A.R.E. board.

The dinner of chicken, ribs and fries is provided by Outback Steakhouse. Dinners are served noon-4 p.m. in the shelter on the north side of the festival grounds.

You may buy tickets in advance or the day of the dinner. Pre-dinner tickets are $6 for adults and $2.50 for children. On the day of the picnic, tickets are $7 for adults and 43 for children.

Eating from page 20

Tickets are available at the Outback Steakhouse on Ford Road, as well as at a number of the elementary schools in Canton.

Of course, there's plenty of festival food, such as cotton candy, popcorn and hot dogs at concessions stationed throughout the festival grounds.

The Canton Seniors, for example, will man their own beverage station throughout the festival, beginning with Friday night and running through Sunday.

Festival-goers will be treated to an old-fashioned Good Humor cart pushed by someone dressed up in old-fashioned clothing. The original strawberry shortcake bars will be served.

Dunkin' Donuts will be selling coffee and doughnuts 8-11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. J&J Concessions will again offer roasted almonds and fruit smoothies. At least five Bain's concessions stands will be set up around the festival grounds.
