WAYNE COUNTY'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER ESTABLISHED 1869

Vol 128, No 51, Five Sections, 44 Pages, Plus Supplements | THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1996 - NORTHVILLE, MICHIGAN | Periodical FIFTY CENTS

Here we go again: New area code on the way

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

By mid-1998 Northville will get a new area code, one that is neither 313 nor 810. After a grace period to get customers used to dialing it, the new area code will become mandatory.

But as yet, Ameritech has not decided exactly what that code will be.

The announcement came Monday along with Ameritech's announcement that Oakland County will get a new area code next year, 248.

To Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall, the number selection could have been worse.

"Two times four is eight, that's easy to remember," he said.

Noting that Oakland County is one of the first counties in the U.S. to have it's own area code, Ameritech's Citizens Advisory Committee announced the new three-digit number Monday.

In spring 1997, 248 will replace the newish 810 area code. In Oakland County, for a grace period running until fall 1997, people will be able to dial either 810 or 248.

In late 1995, the phone company forewarned the public that both the 810 and 313 area codes would split, due to the proliferation of cellular phones, fax machines, computer modems, etc. Ameritech research indicated that most customers found a plan to give Oakland County its own code customer 'friendly' as it's easier to remember the district's boundaries when dialing.

Sometime in mid-1998, portions of the 313 district, including most of Northville, will get an as yet-undesignated new area code.

Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Redford, Lincoln Park, Ecorse, River Woods, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes will keep 313, the region's original area code. Administrators for the North American Numbering Plan will need to approve the change.

The remaining municipalities within Wayne County, and Washtenaw and Monroe counties, will split from 313 in two years.

In the near future, Ameritech is planning a major public education campaign. The corporation aims to assure customers that a local call today will still be charged local rates, even if the 248 code is dialed.

A QUESTION OF CONFLICT OR POLITICS?

Township race gets new wrinkle

■ The campaign for Northville Township supervisor has taken a new turn, as a controversy over a possible conflict of interest surfaces. The story appears on pages 4-5A.

The race to replace Karen Baja is heating up in Northville Township.

Supervisor candidate Bob Grant alleges that his opponent, Karen Woodside, faces a legal and practical conflict of interest if she's elected. Hogwash, says Woodside, who asserts that Grant is just playing politics in order to duck an issues-based campaign.

Grant and Woodside both want to win the Aug. 6 Republican primary. As no other candidate is in the race, the primary victor will probably cruise to an unopposed victory in November's general election. The supervisor serves as a member of and chairs the township board of trustees and is responsible for a number of administrative governmental duties as well.

Grant's claim orbits around the fact that Woodside, an attorney, works as an assistant prosecutor for Wayne County. Himself an ex-prosecutor from New York, Grant now works as a product liability lawyer for Ford Motor Co.

The township needs a supervisor free from any entanglements that raise questions about a real or perceived conflict of interest, Grant says. According to him, the township's code of ethics and Michigan law prohibit Woodside from simultaneously serving as an assistant prosecutor and township supervisor if Wayne County and Northville Township do business with each another.

Woodside asserts that her opponent is ignoring the facts which short-circuit the possibility of a conflict and adds that Grant is merely trying to avoid a horse race for the supervisor ship.

Northville Record Staff writer Randy Coble takes an in depth look at the issue in today's edition.

Addict charged with two B&E's

Rock cocaine drove a Redford Township teenager to burglarize two homes in Northville Township recently, according to police.

If he's found guilty of the offenses crack could cost Anthony Luke Lavin several years of his life behind bars.

Township investigators say Lavin, 18, stole more than $17,000 worth of cash and merchandise from houses on Pierson and Meadowbrook roads during the month of June. Both roads lie off Seven Mile opposite the Northville State Hospital property.

Lavin has allegedly confessed to the break-ins, claiming to have used his ill-gotten gains to feed his need for crack. If he's convicted of the two felony burglary counts he's now facing, the teen could spend the next several years in prison.

Arraigned on June 26 in 35th District Court, Lavin is being held in the Wayne County Jail on a $40,000 bond. Judge John MacDonald entered a not guilty plea on his behalf at his arraignment and set a figure of $20,000 cash bail for each charge. Lavin will be in court on Friday, July 5, for a preliminary exam on both counts.

Police arrested Lavin and and another teen on June 25 as they cruised the streets in the Pierson/Meadowbrook area.

Officer William Helke, on patrol near Seven Mile and Haggerty roads that morning, saw the two in the area in a pickup truck at about 6:30 a.m. According to Detective Fred Yankee, Helke said the pickup matched the one police suspect was involved in the two break-ins.

Township officers Charlie Cole and Sergeant Mike Panagiotides, later joined by Yankee, ended up discretely watching the truck as it drove through the streets in the area. Yankee said that Lavin and the other man, an 18-year-old resident of Farmington Hills, knocked on the door of several houses, asking the occupants of each if "John" lived there.

"That's a classic ruse," Yankee explained. "They were trying to find out who's home and who's

School officials seek city support on bond sale

By ROBERT JACKSON

Northville civic organizations and the city's Recreational Department could acquire new facility space if taxpayers approve a $61 million bond request by the Northville Public School District.

That's the message district Superintendent Leonard Reznmerski and Assistant Superintendent Dave Bolitho are sharing with community leaders as the district begins its push for the biggest bond request to go before voters in the history of the school district.

With the election a little less than three months away, Reznmerski addressed the Northville City Council Monday, and told councilmembers that should the bond pass and a new high school get built, the district is willing to open a portion of the existing high school to the community.

"If we build a new high school we will have plenty of available square footage for use, and we believe a partnership between the community and the school district in finding ways to use that space would benefit us all," Reznmerski said. "As we begin this dialog I want to ensure you that we are open to any and all ideas that would be appropriate."

According to a district proposed bond cost summary, $48 million will be spent on the construction of the new high school facility. The conversion of the current high school to a middle school and other upgrades have been estimated at $11 million, with an additional $5.2 million in technology upgrade costs are included.

Once the new high school is built the district will move Cooke Middle School to the existing high school facility. According to City commits DDA funds for downtown marketing consultant

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The Northville Downtown Development Authority is keeping true to its promise of taking slow, deliberate steps toward developing a plan for improving the economic vitality of the Central Business District and the downtown area.

After several months of debate, the DDA has selected a planning consultant that will critique the downtown area and possibly help downtown merchants become more successful.

Monday, the Northville City Council approved the DDA's recommendation to hire the Gibbs group for $25,000 to represent the needs of downtown Northville. Payment will come solely from DDA funds.

"The DDA has been wrestling with the question for some time now, and we believe that we need to begin looking at ways to make downtown Northville more viable long-term," said Mayor Chris

Rough life

The dog days of summer can get you down, especially when the thermometer reaches a fatigue-inducing 90-plus degrees. For young Alison Kozersi, the sun and excitement of watching her brother, Chris, play in a T-ball game at Cooke Middle School were a bit much, and a nap became the order of the day. The game took place June 28.

Downtown 'garage sale' still has room

Downtown Northville will be transformed into one big garage sale this month and residents can get a piece of the action.

The Northville Central Business Association is expanding its annual sidewalk sale this year to include individual sellers in addition to merchants.

"People can rent a sidewalk space and sell anything they would sell at a garage sale," said event chairperson Lorie Wyant of Salutations. "We're calling it a 'Bargain Bazaar.'"

According to Wyant, Northville merchants will discount their merchandise and display it on the sidewalk as in the past. But this year anyone who wants can set up a table and take advantage of the downtown traffic. The sale area will include Main Street between Hutton and Wing, and Center between Dunlap and Cady.

The event is scheduled for 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, July 27. Spaces go for $15. Availability is on a first-come, first-served basis. Call 349-3537 for information.

HEALTH NOTE

REASON TO THROW A FIT

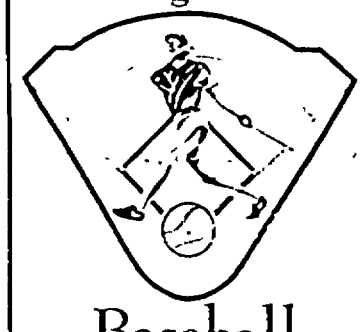

If a woman experiences foot problems due to ill-fitting athletic shoes, she is hardly alone In fact, a recent study by an orthopedic surgeon in California indicates that nearly three-quarters of women's athletic shoes are not designed for women's feet In fact, they are merely scaled-down versions of men's athletic shoes, which do not narrow as much from forefoot to heel as women's shoes do As a result, 73% of women are confronted with the problem of overly-roomy heel compartments, which they try to solve by outfitting themselves with smaller shoes An athletic shoe that fits a woman correctly should fit snugly at the heel

Since running shoes are the only investment necessary to enjoy running as a sport shoe selection should be made wisely In addition to fitting snugly, there should be a well-padded tongue, Achilles pad and a flexible mid sole If you are having problems with your feet contact Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc at 349 3816 We are located at 332 E Main Street Suite A Our staff now has three physical therapists including an athletic trainer and an exercise physiologist We have early and late business hours including weekends

Downs' land use plan approved

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

"The plan is a bit premature, and if the (race) track were to leave, the owners of the property would want more input into any plan that would be devised for the property."

–David Caroub
Northville Driving Club

It's always a good idea to have a next-best scenario in hand just in case your first idea falls through.

That was the stated philosophy of the Northville City Council in accepting a second land use plan for Northville Downs.

And as long as the fall-back provision stays out of the city's master plan racetrack officials say they don't have a problem with it.

The plan, drafted by city planner Don Wortman and approved by the city planning commission, indicates alternative uses for the Downs property should the track discontinue racing at the Center Street/Seven Mile location.

According to David Caroub of the Northville Driving Club, if the council decides to incorporate the study into the master plan sometime in the future, the Downs will challenge it.

"There are no plans at this time to use the property for anything other than a race track," Caroub said. "The plan is a bit premature, and if the track were to leave, the owners of the property would want more input into any plan that would be devised for the property."

According to Wortman the study is not intended to dictate land use or suggest a possible demise of the racetrack.

"Rather, the study is intended to offer alternative land uses in the event that another use for this property is necessary," he said.

Wortman did, however, recommend to the planning commission that the study be incorporated into the master plan.

"The planning commission has recognized that this is a very valuable piece of real estate with the city," he said. "If it were redeveloped, it could have serious implications to the city in terms of taxes, traffic, utilities, and impacts on the downtown."

The study examines and inventories existing resources and develops policies for possible future development and offers design options. It also emphasizes a complementary arrangement with the downtown area through pedestrian connections and commercial linkage.

Wortman explained that the preferred land use plan emphasizes residential development and includes both single family residential as well as multi-family or condominium type development.

"It would promote housing that is historically sympathetic with the Victorian theme of Northville and would also be sensitive to surrounding neighborhoods adjoining Wing and River streets," he said.

Unlike the first draft of the plan, racetrack officials were included in the second plan discussions, according to Wortman, who explained that the planning commission considered racetrack officials' preferences for commercial land uses at the northwest corner of Center Street and Hines Drive.

Some city officials contend that there is really no difference whether the study is or isn't part of the master plan.

"The track is still protected in that should the Downs decide to not use the track for racing the land could not be used for any other purpose unless rezoning was approved by the city council," said Mayor Chris Johnson.

City officials began developing the first draft of the plan more than two years ago and that started rumors that the sale of the track property to developers was immanent. According to City Manager Gary Word the city is only studying the potential uses of the property in the event the land ceases to be used as a horse track.

"All the plan indicates is that the city has looked at alternative uses and now has background information if a change is anticipated," he explained.

Caroub said that the Downs expects to be racing well into the next century, and he doesn't anticipate any deviation from that plan.

"There are no plans to do anything with this property other than what is currently being done," he said.

A QUESTION OF CONFLICT OR POLITICS ?

Grant alleges conflict in supervisor opponent

Karen Woodside would bring the baggage of conflict of interest with her if elected as Northville Township's next supervisor, the candidate challenging her for the job says

Bob Grant bases that claim on the fact that Woodside works for Wayne County as an assistant prosecutor. Supervisor Karen Woodside couldn't avoid the perception of, – and the real possibility for – a conflict of interest when the township and the county interact, he asserts. That's a risk Northville Township shouldn't take, Grant feels.

"The supervisor's office could be a real beacon of leadership," he said. "We shouldn't have anything going on that could raise questions of a conflict."

This isn't just an academic debate, according to Grant. He says that the township's official code of ethics and state law would prohibit Woodside from serving as supervisor if the township and the county do business with each other.

That situation is probably going to arise, he added, given the fact that Wayne County has just submitted a new development plan for its huge and valuable 942-acre chunk of land on the south side of the township.

"This land is worth a lot of money to Wayne County. It's one of their most important projects and it's clearly the biggest thing on the radar screen for Northville Township," Grant said. "We ought to be be bullet proof on this issue."

The ethics code forbids any township official from participating in discussions on or decisions about matters in which he or she has a "financial interest." The code defines that term in several ways, including working for any entity doing business with the township (see informational box).

According to Grant, Woodside as supervisor could not take part in the land plan or any other county-related matter.

"The language in the code talks about a moral imperative, a moral commitment, to maintaining the highest ethical standards. That includes avoiding anything that could even give the perception of a conflict," he said.

Beyond the ethics code, Grant claims that state law prohibiting people from holding "incompatible" public offices applies to his opponent as well. Incompatible offices present one person trying to do both of them with an unsolvable conflict of interest (see informational box).

That is exactly the situation which Woodside could face as both supervisor and assistant prosecutor, Grant alleges. There could, he says, come a time when Woodside's obligations would unavoidably clash.

As an assistant prosecutor she could be called upon to help prosecute Northville Township or its officials for alleged criminal violations of law, according to Grant. The county could also require her to work on legal issues related to the land plan or any lawsuit it could file against the township, he added.

By the same token, Grant continues, Supervisor Woodside might have to go after Wayne County for purported legal misdeeds, as the township is doing right now in connection with barrels recently removed from Fire Station No. 3.

While he admits the probability of her getting involved in such situations "is not that great," Grant says that the law doesn't allow for any leeway: The mere fact that she would be on both sides of a county/township relationship is enough to create incompatibility and thus rule Woodside out.

He quotes a 1992 Michigan Attorney General's opinion addressing incompatibility in office to back up that claim which states that "the degree of control is not a dispositive issue; the positioning of the two offices on opposite sides of a contractual relationship is the crucial factor."

"She can't escape that language, no matter how far removed she is from the process," Grant said. "She can't escape the fact that she's on both sides of the issue."

When you peel away the legal mumbo-jumbo, Grant says, the letter and spirit of the law are clear: you can't ride two horses at the same time.

"We have to look beyond the black letter of the law and consider what in reality is and isn't incompatibility and conflict of interest," he said. "She is a county employee. She gets paid by the county and she works for the county. If you start going down that slippery slope, where do you stop?"

Woodside issues sharp response to claim of conflict of interest

Karen Woodside hints that politics are being played.

"Nonsense" is the quickest way to sum up Karen Woodside's opinion of Bob Grant's claims.

Her opponent, looking to take out a political rival any way he can, has concocted allegations that ignore the facts, Woodside says.

"I think he's trying to find anything he can to circumvent a competitive, issues-based campaign.

"I think township voters are very intelligent and that they will see this for what it is," she said.

The law and common sense show that she wouldn't face a legal or practical conflict of interest if elected supervisor, Woodside asserted.

Grant's argument to the contrary amounts to nothing more than one attorney's opinion which is based on a selective reading of the law, she said.

While others may feel differently, she says she has two verbal opinions that conclude that her duties as an assistant prosecutor and supervisor would not clash.

Offering that assessment are Woodside's bosses, Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair and appellate division head Tim Baughman

"We're satisfied that she does not face a conflict as supervisor and with her duties as a prosecutor," Baughman told The Record.

The rationale which Woodside offers is this: she is completely removed from the "loop" of all county decision-makers who could conceivably conduct county business with Northville Township. For example:

- Lawyers in the prosecutor's office have nothing to do with the county team working on the development plan for county-owned land in the township or any other non-criminal county matter.
- Unlike virtually every other county in Michigan Wayne County has a corporation counsel's office to handle all non-criminal county legal business, including any legal matters related to the county land or Northville Township in general.
- As far as criminal matters go, the chances of Northville Township or its officials being investigated for wrongdoing is very remote. Even if they were, Woodside said, she is just one of 150 assistant county prosecutors who could theoretically be involved. In any case, she added, the Michigan Attorney General's office would handle such an investigation.
- Besides all that, Woodside said she is a civil servant with Wayne County and is legally protected from being unfairly fired or denied promotion in her job. That and her strong personal integrity, she says, rules out the possibility that county officials could strong-arm her as supervisor into doing what they wanted.

"Anything like that absolutely won't happen," Woodside said. "They can put no pressure on me."

If the rules of the ethics code bar her from serving as supervisor, Woodside said, it's only because they're so broad that just about anyone in Northville Township could be construed as having a "conflict."

"I don't feel at all that my situation is a conflict. If the code takes people out of consideration for things like this then I think it should be revisited. It can be construed very broadly, so broadly that it can be used against someone politically," Woodside opined.

A reasonable, common sense approach to this issue is what's needed, the candidate indicated. If you're willing to consider the facts, Woodside feels, you'll see that as supervisor she can and will make decisions as supervisor based solely on what's best for Northville Township.

Bob Grant say his opponent has a conflict of interest.

Township attorney brought into the fray

Karen Woodside claims that Bob Grant is using smoke and mirrors to knock her out of the supervisor's race and hints that he's found a helper in township attorney Jim Tamm.

It's a insinuation those involved strongly deny and for which Grant harshly criticizes Woodside.

At issue is a written legal opinion Tamm issued June 13. It recommended that Woodside, chair of the township planning commission, abstain from any commission review of Wayne County's new development plan for land it owns on the south side of town. Tamm based that conclusion on the township's ethics code and state law (see informational box).

Grant claims that the rationale the opinion is based on would apply to Supervisor Karen Woodside as well. Tamm himself has declined to speculate on that .

Woodside, however, in a written statement delivered to The Northville Record, is skeptical of the opinion's reasoning and implies that Tamm issued it to help Grant in his campaign.

"The timing of this 'opinion' is curious," Woodside wrote, adding that no one raised concerns about a conflict of interest over her serving on the commission before she decided to run for supervisor. "For what appears to be a suspicious reason, something has motivated the township attorney to act at this time."

Woodside has repeatedly refused to elaborate on just what that "something" might be.

"I think the facts will speak for themselves and people can draw their own conclusions," she said.

The facts, according to Woodside, are these:

- The township board appointed her to the commission in August 1995, knowing her job and that the county was preparing to submit its land plan.
- At no time was she given any indication that she might have a problem. As late as February, when she toured the county land along with the rest of the commission, no one said boo.
- It was Woodside herself who in a March 28 letter to township Manager Tamara Hanlin asked for a "legal opinion" on whether the township wanted her to abstain from dealing with the county plan. (In the letter she states that she feels she does not face a conflict.)

Woodside, however, says that township officials urged her to write the letter and that she expected the opinion to come from the township's ethics committee – which she says is responsible for interpreting the ethics code – not Jim Tamm.

- The opinion Tamm issued, Woodside wrote, "studiously ignores the fact that Corporation Counsel exists, that as an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney I have no responsibility in civil matters whatsoever, and that I have civil service protection."
- Finally, Woodside wrote that "my opponent brings up the matter of conflict of interest. It should be noted that he negotiated the rate and terms of Mr. Tamm's contract as Township Attorney at the direction of the Township Board, in addition to his Chairmanship of the Attorney Selection Committee."

Woodside refused to elaborate on just what those facts imply about Tamm and Grant.

"I did not have the relationship with him that Mr. Grant did," was her only comment.

Hanlin this week strongly asserted that Tamm did nothing but his job, providing his best professional legal advice when asked for it by the township.

"Jim Tamm was given no instructions on what to write or what conclusions to reach – period," she said. "As far as the timing of the opinion goes, it was totally a matter of workload. Northville Township is giving him stacks of legal work and this had to wait its turn in line."

Tamm also defended the motivation of his opinion.

"There was absolutely no political issue here. I was asked to give an opinion on Ms. Woodside's status as a planning commissioner and I did so. I would never, under any circumstances, color my opinion for any reason."

As to the Corporation Counsel and civil service issues which Woodside raises, Tamm said that he evaluated both but they don't solve the legal problems that the ethics code and state law present for planning commission member Woodside.

Hanlin said that no one asked Tamm for an opinion on Woodside's status before this because no one knew if the county land plan would actually be submitted for review or would, as has happened in the past, fall apart.

Grant as well repudiated Woodside's veiled accusation and harshly criticized her, saying that the way she's addressed this shows what kind of supervisor she'd be.

For starters, Grant points out, Woodside herself was a member of the attorney selection committee which recommending Tamm to the board of trustees in 1995. That committee specifically focused on finding an attorney firm with a high level of integrity and dedication to staying out of local politics.

"She's raised no concerns about Jim Tamm before this but now she's the one electing to politicize his legal work," Grant said.

"I find that unsettling. You can say what you want but as a responsible person you should have to provide evidence to back up your allegations about someone.

"You play like you practice," Grant continued. "Is this how Karen Woodside is going to act as supervisor, accusing people who disagree with her of having a personal bias?

"I think we've seen what that's done in the supervisor's office. This is not a good preview of a leadership philosophy."

> "The timing of this 'opinion' is curious. For what appears to be a suspicious reason, something has motivated the township attorney to act at this time."

Tamm: Conflict exists

Northville Township attorney Jim Tamm on June 13 issued a written legal opinion which states that Karen Woodside, chair of the township planning commission, should not take part in any commission discussions of or votes on the development plan recently submitted by Wayne County for land it owns on the south side of town.

Wayne County has proposed developing the land under a Planned Unit Development (PUD) agreement. That would require the Northville Township Board of Trustees to approve two things: first, the PUD application and later a formal PUD contract.

The planning commission will consider both the application and any contract which may result before either would move on to the board and make a recommendation of approval or rejection on each.

Woodside, an attorney, is an assistant prosecutor in the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office. According to Tamm, the township's code of ethics bars her from participating in any part of the PUD process as long as she continues to be employed by Wayne County.

The ethics code prohibits any township official from taking part in matters in which he or she has a "financial interest."

The code's definition of "financial interest" includes "any employment full or part-time" with an entity doing business with the township.

Tamm's opinion states that since Woodside is a county employee she "has a financial interest in the county's activities, as defined by the township's code of ethics ... her participation in the PUD review process may give the appearance that she is less than disinterested in the outcome."

In addition, the opinion says that state laws which prohibit a person from holding "incompatible" public offices also block Woodside from taking part in commission consideration of any PUD contract which may be proposed.

Woodside's roles as an assistant prosecutor for Wayne County and a planning commissioner for Northville Township "would become incompatible if contract negotiations or a legal dispute were to arise between the County and the Township," Tamm said.

That situation applies, the opinion says, "even where a corporation counsel has been appointed for the county" because the state says that "a prosecutor may act in civil matters."

"She would be reviewing a contract between the Township and the County while serving as a public official for both public entities," Tamm said, something the law does not allow.

Were that situation to arise, the law calls for Woodside to either leave the prosecutor's office or the planning commission.

Incompatibility in office: What is it?

The Michigan Incompatibility in Public Office Act, made law in 1978, and court decisions interpreting it (called "case law") prohibit any one person from holding two public offices that are "incompatible."

A public office is any governmental position – elected or appointed, full or part time, paying or volunteer – which gives the person holding it the ability to make or help make decisions about the public's business.

Some examples of "public officers" would be President of the United States, the head of the Michigan Department of Transportation, the presiding judge of the Wayne County Circuit Court or a member of the Northville Township Zoning Board of Appeals.

The law says that one person can't hold two or more public offices when those offices are incompatible. Incompatible public offices are ones which present anyone holding both of them with an unavoidable conflict of interest.

Put another way, public offices are incompatible when one person cannot possibly fulfill the duties of both of them. An example would be a man who is a member of both a city council and a school district's board of trustees which do business with one another.

Let's say the city owns a piece of land the school district wants to buy and the two sides are negotiating a price and a purchase contract. The council's job is to look out for the best interests of the city, in this case to get the highest price possible for the parcel.

The school board's job, on the other hand, is to promote the district's best interests, which here mean pushing for the lowest possible price. Under the Incompatibility Act, the man is faced with an impossible situation because he can't simultaneously fulfill the duties of both offices he holds.

The law says that public offices are incompatible only when an actual conflict of interest occurs. In the example here the man would not face incompatibility of office if the city council and school board did not conduct business with one another.

Code of ethics is unique policy

The Northville Township Board of Trustees in 1992 adopted a formal code of ethics which applies to every township official, appointed or elected, and employee. The code emphasizes that that ethical conduct must be the first priority of every township official and employee.

"Public office is a public trust," its introduction reads. "Persons in public service must recognize that a moral commitment to do the right thing is absolutely necessary."

Rules in the code set the standards for ethical conduct and prohibits any township official or employee from participating in any discussions of or decisions on matters in which a personal stake. A person in such a situation faces a conflict of interest, which the code defines as "a conflict between private interest and the official responsibilities of a person in a position of trust."

Here's an example: let's say a woman is a member of the board of trustees and also owns a car dealership. Let's also suppose that the township police department wants to buy new patrol cars from her dealership.

According to the ethics code the woman would have to abstain from any board discussion of or vote on the purchase proposal because she has a personal interest in the outcome: i.e., she stands to make a lot of money if the township buys the cars from her.

The code also says that officials or employees cannot "participate in negotiation or execution of contracts ... relating to a business entity in which the public officer, contractor, employee or immediate family has any financial interest."

"Financial interest" has several different definitions in the code of ethics, one of which is "any employment full or part-time."

Essad's 1991 opinion cites conflict of interest

Bob Grant has pointed to a township attorney opinion issued six years ago which, according to him, is further evidence that Karen Woodside faces a conflict of interest.

In November 1990 then township attorney Ernie Essad, based on information provided by Woodside, decided that she faced a conflict of interest as a Wayne County employee and member of the township planning commission.

Essad recommended that Woodside not take part in any commission consideration of the "Huntington Woods" proposal, the development plan then on the table for the county owned land on the south side of town That proposal fell through in 1991.

To Grant it's one more bite of the apple. Woodside, however, disagrees.

Essad's opinion, she says, was based on the fact that she was then working in the prosecutor's office merely as a contract employee.

That's different from today, Woodside continued, since she enjoys legal civil service protection. Comparing 1990 to 1996 is an apples and oranges situation, she argues.

Grant responds by saying that Woodside should back up that claim with a written legal opinion that cites passages in Michigan law that support it.

Unoccupied houses burglarized in new sub

A series of break-ins occurred last week in the under-construction Brookstone subdivision in Northville Township.

All of the unoccupied homes are on Abbey Circle in Brookstone, which lies off Six Mile. The first took place sometime between June 10-18.

Stolen, according to the construction manager at the site, was a furnace worth $1,000. The home's doors were locked and there were no signs of forced entry, according to police.

A second break-in took place at another residence sometime during the night of June 21-22.

Someone pried open the garage door and dragged the home's furnace out. It was also worth $1,000.

Yet a third burglary happened the same evening. Taken was a water heater worth $250. Police are investigating all three incidents.

JEWEL HEIST: Thieves recently made off with thousands of dollars of jewelry which belonged to a Champion Court couple.

The break-in took place sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. on June 17. Unknown persons broke in through the front door, damaging it to the tune of $300. Two jewelry boxes were emptied. The missing valuables are worth just under $8,000.

A neighbor remembers seeing an unfamiliar gray four-door vehicle by the home that day.

FAILED BREAK-IN: Someone tried to steal lawn care equipment from a Northville Township establishment recently but came up short.

The attempted burglary occurred sometime during the night of June 19-20 at a business on Five Mile west of Ridge Road where radio controlled aircraft are flown. A club member driving by noticed that the gate to the site was open.

On closer inspection he saw that the gate had been forced open, was bent and the post it was secured to was damaged as well. A container holding the equipment had been damaged.

The would-be thieves apparently tried to tear it apart using a chain attached to a vehicle, police said. The lawn equipment was found near the container but was undamaged.

Damage to the gate, post and container is estimated at $400.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE: A township man was arrested for domestic violence on June 26.

His girlfriend, 28, told township police that he punched her in the right leg three times when an argument the two were having grew heated. The man, 29, allegedly admitted to the punches and was arrested.

He faces a single charge of misdemeanor domestic violence. He was arraigned in 35th District Court before Judge John MacDonald on June 27, who entered a not guilty plea on his behalf.

The man was released on bond and faces another court hearing soon.

HUNTING BOW THEFT: A 36-year-old Northville man reported the theft of his hunting bow June 27.

According to Northville Police, the bow apparently was taken from the back seat of the man's 1996 Ford Thunderbird, which was unlocked at the time. The man told police that his neighbor had seen some kids hanging around the area, but could not positively identify them.

No suspects have been found. The value of the bow is $470.

VANDALS REPORTED: A 47-year-old Northville man reported that his car had been vandalized June 25.

According to police suspect(s) scratched both sides of the man's 1996 Mercury Villager and dented the hood.

Police have no suspects at this time.

The estimated damage to the vehicle is listed at $300.

If you have any information about these or other illegal incidents, please call Northville City police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

not."

Police arrested both men on the driveway of a Marilyn Road home at about 7:40 a.m. The two were found with a gas can, looking for fuel to fill up the empty tank of their pickup, Yankee said.

The detective praised his fellow officers for a job well done, calling their efforts "an outstanding piece of police work."

Lavin and his companion were taken to police headquarters and booked. According to investigators a chrome pipe used to smoke rock was found in Lavin's pocket when he was searched.

The Farmington Hills teen faces a misdemeanor charge of unlawful entry for allegedly going into the home's garage. MacDonald in June 26 arraignment proceedings entered a not guilty plea on his behalf on the count, which carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine. The teen was released on $100 bail and faces another court hearing soon.

It was during questioning Lavin that he confessed to the pair of burglaries, Detective Michael Wildt said.

The Pierson break-in took place on June 17. Taken was $7,200 worth of jewelry, cash, video equipment, handguns and a telephone. According to police, Lavin denies involvement in the theft of an $11,000 Mazda Miata from that home's garage, stolen later the same day.

Six days after the first burglary the Meadowbrook home was hit, Wildt explained, with more than $10,000 in money and jewelry stolen.

Neighbors in both cases say they remember Lavin walking in the area just minutes before the burglaries took place, police say, knocking on various door and asking whether "John" lived there.

Circus plans 2 shows

As if the day long series of Fourth of July events weren't enough, the circus will provide even more diversion and entertainment the very next day.

The Texas-based King Royal Bros. is bringing its menagerie of animals to Northville for two performances Friday, July 5. The three-ring circus will fly through the community as part of a fund-raising effort by the Community Playscape Committee.

Shows will take place at 4:30 and 7 p.m. in the Northville Downs parking lot. Advance tickets are $4 for children, $6 adults. Tickets on circus day will go for $6 children and $10 for adults.

"People will want to buy their tickets in advance, not only because they're cheaper but because we (the playscape committee) get a higher percentage from advance ticket sales," committee chair Cindy Buckley said.

The committee is raising money to pay for the construction of a playscape, a large, wooden playset for children. Committee members hope to have enough money to build the playscape sometime next spring. The structure, which will be constructed entirely with volunteer labor, will go up on land near Ford Field off Griswold.

King Bros. says circus goers can thrill to aerial performers and internationally known acrobats, but will also see Princess Tanzania, a baby hippopotamus, Winkum and Blinkum, two pygmy midget-zebras, as well as dozens of jungle birds and other rare wildlife varieties.

An assortment of clowns, jugglers, elephants, lions, tigers, camels, ponies and dogs will also entertain, and an exotic petting zoo will be included.

Anyone wishing to obtain ticket information can contact Tanya Bartello at (313) 641-2100 or Kevin Hartshorne at (810) 348-6315. A ticket booth will also be set up at Mill Race Village on July 4.

Celebration on tap for Fourth

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

The stage is set for another great Fourth of July party in Northville.

The Independence Day organizing committee, Celebrate Northville, has scheduled a full slate of events for July 4.

In addition to the traditional downtown parade, the classic auto show will make a return appearance this year after debuting successfully in 1995. The theme of this year's events is "One Hundred Years of the Automobile," so the show will take on even greater significance.

Mill Race will open for children's games and historical reenactments. During the late afternoon and early evening hours, two free concerts will take place at Beck Road Community Park between Five and Six Mile roads. And the popular fireworks display will put the capper on the day's events.

Here's more on the major events:

• Farm breakfast, Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main

For just $3.50 ($2 for children under 12) you can get an all-you-can-eat breakfast of scrambled eggs, pancakes, hash browns, ham, orange juice, and coffee, tea or milk. Come and get it anytime between 6:30 a.m. and parade time, approximately 10 a.m.

• Pre-parade warm up

For the third straight year, the Flying Aces Pro Frisbee Team will be back performing their aerial wizardry near the Main Street clock area. The show runs from 9-9:50 a.m.

Following the demonstration the National Anthem will ring out from an amplifier and the day's activities will be officially under way.

• Parade

More than 90 floats, bands and specialty acts will loop through the city, beginning and ending at Northville Downs.

The parade will last about an hour and will feature a variety of marchers. Pet and bicycle parades will be included, and the best bicycle will win a bike from Meijers.

This year's grand marshal is Allen Terrace resident Bill Klope, who turned 100 earlier this year. Klope will ride through the downtown in an antique automobile.

Three Detroit media celebrities will also participate in the parade: WJR radio personality Jimmy Barrett; Channel 50 news reporter Cynthia Canty, and local meteorologist Jim Madus.

• Mill Race Village

Northville's own historic village will bustle with activity from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Parade goers will find a Punch and Judy show at noon, a performance by magician Ming the Magnificent at 12:125 p.m., and a ventriloquist's show by John Osborne at 12:45 p.m.

In addition, The 5th Michigan Regiment will perform in concert from 1-3 p.m.

Throughout the day, craft demonstrations will be offered by the Mill Race Basket Guild, the Mill Race Weaver's Guild, and by blacksmiths Owen Createau and Frank Cunningham.

Dulcimer music and children's games (with prizes) will also be featured.

The Northville Rotary Club, the Northville Historical Society, the Elmwood Station Questers and the Northville High School Cheerleaders will sell food.

• Pre-fireworks Concerts

Northville Community Park at Beck Road near Five Mile will fill up with the exciting sounds of concert performers. From 4:30-6 p.m., local group Baked Potato will rock the place during a Young People's concert.

The 70-piece Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble will take the stage from 7-8:45 p.m. for an evening of patriotic music. Admission to the concerts is free.

• Fireworks

Starting at dusk (9:45-10 p.m.) spectacular fireworks provided by the Zambelli Fireworks Co. will light up the night sky with a bursts of colorful explosions.

This year's launch site is the big hill at BFI's Arbor Hills Resource Recovery facility at Six Mile and Napier Road.

Northville Township police say the fireworks should be visible anywhere west of Sheldon Road. For good seats, go to the concert at Community Park and remain there for the fireworks show. Bring lawn chairs and blankets. Porta-johns will be available.

Others can park at the field on the southeast corner of Six Mile and Napier, or in the Midwest Radio Control Society Club Field on the north side of Five Mile between Beck and Napier.

All volunteers for the day are asked to report to the Northville Downs parking lot by 7:45 a.m. The parade will take place rain or shine. The concerts are subject to rain cancellation. The rain date for the fireworks is July 5 or 6.

Additional sponsors whose names didn't get included in last week's Northville Record parade insert are:

Highland Lakes Condominium Association; Metrographics; Phyllis Slattery; Town & Country Eyecare, Dr. & Mrs. Tim Kirk; Northville Historical Society; Tom & Sonia Swigart.

Condo owners could get tax break

All condominium owners would pay property taxes at homeowner rates rather than commercial rates under a House-passed bill waiting action this fall in the Michigan Senate.

Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, is the sponsor and Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, is the co-sponsor of House Bill 5706, aimed at correcting what they call a glitch in the Proposal A reforms approved by voters in 1994. The package calls for taxing homes at six mills and business property at 24 mills.

Most condominium owners pay the six-mill rate, but tenants who did not own stock were denied the tax break, Law said.

"One word seems to be causing all the problems. This legislation changes the wording from 'stockholder' to 'owner' and ensures that everyone gets the exemptions they're entitled to," said Law. HB 5706 is in the Senate Finance Committee.

School district officials ask city counterparts for support

Bolitho the current high school would have more than enough space to house 800 students - which the district projects will be the maximum population - and other community functions.

According to a preliminary blueprint plan unveiled for councilmembers, one of the two existing gymnasiums, along with the school's swimming pool, could be run by the Parks and Recreation Department. Other amenities like community meeting rooms and a community fitness center, along with storage and office space, could be used by civic groups and the senior citizens center.

Those spaces, according to Bolitho, would be set apart from the planned school area. "We have designated 51,000 square feet as possible community use, and all we have to do is collectively decide how best to utilize that space," Bolitho said. "We want to continue with the good partnership we have with the city and township and develop an agreement that will keep that community space permanent."

The remaining 211,000 square feet will be dedicated school area, according to the plan.

Bolitho also explained that moving Cooke to the current high school will allow the district to move its special needs facility from the Bryant Center in Livonia to the vacated middle school.

Although the expense and funding formulas need to be worked out, Rezmierski said he'd like to see the dialog continue.

"We're willing to explore every option available to make this work in the best interests of everyone concerned," he said. "The community has already paid for this building and if the bond is approved we will have the unique opportunity to put this space to the best possible use."

District officials are expected to appear at the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting July 11 to talk with officials about the plan. Rezmierski said school officials have taken part in preliminary talks with Township Manager Tamara Hanlin in the past few weeks.

The district bond election is slated for September 23. The total bond package is expected to cost taxpayers $61 million, an estimated increase of 2.35 mills.

The district will also be seeking a one-year, 1.95 mill enhancement millage increase, which will bring $1.9 million to the district. Rezmierski said the funds will be used to support personnel costs that will aid in the implementation of district technology over a five year period.

Service academies accepting applications

U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers has announced that Nov. 1 is the deadline for accepting applications to one of the United States Service Academies from qualified young men and women of the 13th Congressional District, which includes Northville Township and Wayne County Northville.

Application forms and full information may be obtained by writing Congresswoman Rivers at her Wayne Office: 3716 Newberry, Wayne, MI 48184.

Nominations will be available for the class entering in June 1997 to the military (West Point), Naval, Air Force, and Merchant Marine academies. Applicants must be at least 17-years-old, but no older than 22 by July 1996. They must be United States citizens, unmarried, and legal residents of the 13th District.

"In addition to these basic requirements, my nominations are based on a strong academic record, SAT and/or ACT scores, extra-curricular activities, and the recommendations of principals, counselors, high school teachers and coaches," Congresswoman Rivers said.

Once nominated, all nominees must pass competitive examinations given by the various academies. Those selected for admission will be notified early in 1997 and will report to the academy in June 1997.

"The 13th District has a proud history of sending the best young men and women to the service academies. I urge those seriously considering a career in the service to contact my office as soon as possible," Congresswoman Rivers said.

Suburban Detroit:
We have the leadership in readership!

SPRING delivers the suburbs with more weekday readers than The News and Free Press combined!

Now there are more reasons than ever to go home with SPRING Newspapers. SPRING continues to be the primary weekday newspaper for suburban residents of this suburb-driven market.* For example:

- 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area read SPRING weekly and daily newspapers.
- SPRING delivers, on average, 1 060 000 total readers every week.
- That means SPRING delivers 1167000 gross impressions for an entire week.

Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives: only 37% of adults in the SPRING survey area read the weekday Free Press or The Detroit News.

More suburban Detroit readers turn to SPRING.

- SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over $50,000.
- SPRING delivers more suburban homeowners (51%) than any other weekday newspaper.

Planners hear concerns over sports center

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

The weight room at The Sports Club gives members a chance to pump up.

It's a case of going back to the proverbial drawing board.

Under orders from the Novi City Council, the Novi Planning Commission did the best it could June 26 to piece together a recreation ordinance to take before a public hearing July 10. However, five hours of discussion and a dozen changes to the ordinance put the commission back where it started when it voted to recommend the city not adopt a recreation ordinance at all.

Much more research is needed, they said.

"What we have to say to the city council is we are your servant but we're not your yes man. I don't kiss their butts," said Commissioner Dr. Arthur Vrettas. "I tell them what they need to know. We're being forced to do something that's not in the best interest of the community."

Nearly two dozen Northville and Novi residents from the Eight Mile and Beck Road area attended the special meeting to express their concerns over the ordinance and particularly the site chosen for its first use.

City Manager Ed Kriewall has made it known the Sports Club of West Bloomfield and the city are interested in forming a public/private partnership to bring the sports club and an ice arena to the Meyer Berry Farm property between Eight Mile and Beck roads.

In order to take advantage of the opportunity, the city needed to draft the new ordinance – and quickly, the administration said.

But commissioners and residents felt the complex ordinance required more time.

"When things are done in haste in Novi the residents are the ones that suffer," said Cindy Gronachan, a Novi resident living on Garfield Road.

"Why do we need a special ordinance to accommodate such a venture?" asked Loretta Thur. "Why does it have to go in an area zoned for residential? Put it in a commercial or industrial area."

The residents are particularly concerned about compromising the rural character of Maybury State Park across the street and the horse farms down the road.

In keeping with that idea, the commission voted to approve a motion by Commissioner Vrettas that would prohibit the district from being placed within a one mile radius of any federal, state or county park. That rules out the Meyer Berry Farm property, which is located across the street from Maybury.

Although commissioners were instructed not to discuss the specific project described by Kriewall, commissioners appeared skeptical that there might have been another reason for the speedily drafted ordinance.

"It bothers me when deals are done behind closed doors and that's what this is all about," said Glen Bonaventura on his last night on the board. He is not reapplying for the appointed position.

Some commissioners said they felt the city had not demonstrated a need for a new ordinance.

Bonaventura pointed out during the course of the study session that ordinances are already in place for facilities like The Sports Club and city parks.

As it stands now, public parks can be located within residential districts. Private recreational facilities must locate within commercial or industrial zones. For example, the Soccer Zone facility planned for this fall is located in an industrial area off of Grand River.

But in order to allow such a public/private facility to take hold in a residential area, a new ordinance had to be developed.

City Planning Director Jim Wahl told commissioners they should listen to the Parks and Recreation Commission which is endorsing the ordinance.

The commission voted 5-4 to pass nearly a dozen amendments to an ordinance drafted by Dennis Watson, assistant city attorney. Bononi, Kim Thomas Capello, Hoadley and Gwen Markham voted against the long list of amendments.

Commissioners also voted to send a recommendation to council that a rec ordinance not be put to use at the current time. Capello was the only commissioner to oppose that motion.

The commission asked that more information be presented at a July 3 regular meeting regarding a special development district which could provide a better alternative to the rec district.

Mill Race Matters

Tomorrow, July 4, Mill Race Village hosts one of its largest annual events, the traditional July 4 picnic/celebration. Mill Race Village sits on land donated to the city of Northville by Ford Motor Co. in 1972. Members of the Northville Historical Society have agreed to operate the village on behalf of the community.

Activities get under way with the parade through downtown Northville at 10 a.m. Members of the Historical Society will meet at Mill Race at 9 a.m. to march in the parade together. They will assemble first at the Cady Inn then walk together to the parade staging area at Northville Downs.

The village opens at 11 a.m. as the parade winds down. Events include craft demonstrations by the Mill Race Weaver's Guild, the Mill Race Basket Guild, and rug hookers. Reenactments will be staged by the Michigan 17th and 21st Civil War regiments.

Additionally, blacksmiths Frank Cunningham and Owen Createau will demonstrate blacksmithing. Charlene Berry will provide dulcimer music, and Kathy Makstutis will recreate Victorian school life.

Entertainment includes: a Punch and Judy show by John Osborne, Ming the Magnificent and Barbara his assistant performing magic, ventriloquism by John Osborne, and music by the 5th Michigan Regiment Band.

All eight Mill Race buildings will be open throughout the day with docents on hand to discuss the building histories. Items have been added to some of the buildings in the past year while several changes have been made in recent years. Those who haven't visited for awhile will be pleasantly surprised.

Moms Offering Moms Support (MOMS) will sponsor games for children and prizes will be awarded. Yogi Bear and Boo Boo will also be on hand to meet children of all ages, compliments of Continental Cablevision.

The Village provides a host of activities for individuals of all ages and personalities. Make sure to make Mill Race part of your July 4 celebration! Food will be available for sale. Picnic lunches are encouraged as well.

Parking at the site will be extremely limited. Adjacent parking is available at the city lot just North of Main on Griswold.

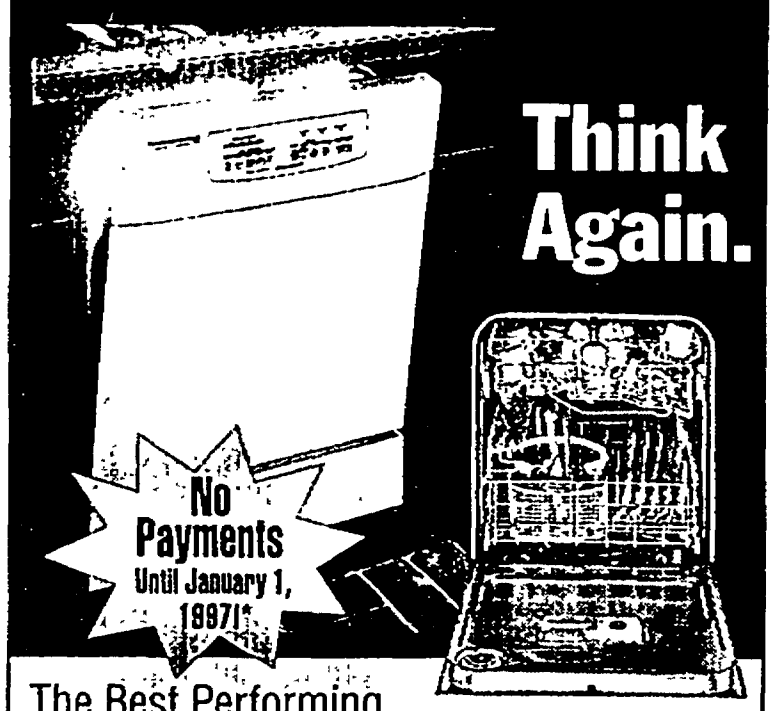

Mill Race Village is located on Griswold one block North of Main. It will be open from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on July 4. Village buildings are open to the public every Sunday from 1 until 4 p.m. There is no charge but donations are accepted.

Our Opinion

Finally, some unity on downtown progress

It's gratifying to see that the Downtown Development Authority is loosening the purse strings and following through on one of the recommendations that came out of the economic consultation with the Hyatt Palma firm this spring.

This week the Northville City Council approved a DDA recommendation to use the Gibbs Group to critique the downtown and help develop suggestions for possible improvements.

Strengths and weaknesses will be identified, market potential evaluated and building use examined. Parking and pedestrian circulation are other targets of the study.

The consultation will cost $25,000 and is set to begin sometime in September. A written report will follow shortly thereafter.

It's heartening that the DDA and city council are making a concerted effort to assist the central business district. More initiatives like this, combined with the work of the newly formed Central Business Association, can only strengthen the city's competitive position vis-a-vis other local shopping venues like Plymouth and Novi.

Many people are astonished to see how much Northville accomplishes with so little unity among its various merchants. Just think how much more could get done if a true sense of common interest develops.

Just one caution though: to study is one thing, to act another. The consultation is a good idea, but it's only a first step. In order for the venture to prove worthwhile, concrete results must at some point become visible. That means not only that the suggestions have to be workable, they must get implemented too. After the Gibbs Group has done its job and left with its check, it then will be incumbent on the city to hold up its end of the bargain.

Officials create chaos over recreational zoning

During a nearly five hour Novi Planning Commission session last week, commissioners picked apart a proposed recreational zoning (REC) ordinance that creates special districts and rules for both public and private sports and recreation facilities.

Member Jacque Hodges quickly nixed portions allowing for campgrounds, zoos and archery ranges. Member Kim Thomas Capello shook his head at allowing professional and semi-professional ball teams in.

And when it was all over, the commission still voted to send a negative recommendation on the ordinance to the Novi City Council. But some members said it didn't matter what they thought, they believe the council already has its mind made up.

There's no doubt about the reasons behind the new ordinance.

In fact, City Manager Ed Kriewall has made it perfectly clear the ordinance needs to be approved quickly because plans are in the works for a joint venture between the city and the Sports Club of West Bloomfield. Although the current club is a health club for the most part, the city says it will be more than that in Novi. It could locate on Eight Mile and Beck roads on the Meyer Berry Farm property near Maybury State Park.

Several Northville residents have joined the chorus in opposition to the proposal.

Congrats to the city for finally being honest about it. Congrats also to the city for looking into alternatives to provide recreation for its residents, who have set a mandate for parks and recreation facilities.

However, during the the past few months of discussion and frustration over the issue several mistakes have been made on the part of the city, the council and the planning commission.

Now the city has a mess on its hands. Many residents are hostile about the ordinance and the city's push to get it approved. The commission doesn't like it either.

How did this happen?

Perhaps the city has misunderstood the mandate.

Local residents have said they want sports facilities and parks. They want an ice arena and a public pool, but not in their backyards. They want parks they can walk to and don't have to pay for, but not in their backyards.

Residents are either going to have to realize you can't have your cake and eat it too, or the city can do its best to avoid putting anything in backyards.

The worst offense of all is that the city appears to have thrown the planning process out the window.

Typically, an ordinance change or new ordinance goes to the planning commission and the commission's implementation committee for fine tuning. That body is set up to examine the ordinance carefully using its expertise. A smaller number of commissioners and other city and resident representatives nit pick it apart. Then it gives a recommendation to the commission that then studies it again.

All these little steps may take a long time, but the checks and balances are there for a reason. Ordinances can be tricky.

In this case, where so much is involved, the REC ordinance should have followed the same procedure. At least the community could feel more comfortable knowing the language and land uses had been scrutinized.

Instead, the consultants drew up a couple of quick drafts and presented them to commissioners who declared they needed some time for further study. Then, because of the supposed "time crunch" the city council ordered the commission, against its judgment, to speed up the process.

If it's such a great opportunity, why won't the developers wait? Even if they leave, another health club developer said he would be more than willing to jump into the game if the city is going to start creating ordinances tailored strictly for developers.

The point to remember is that measures already exist for health clubs to come into town. Like Vic Tanny in the Town Center, they can locate in commercial or industrial districts. Measures already exist for indoor recreational facilities.

Good planning takes careful consideration. It takes understanding what can and should be reasonably accomplished. It takes listening to the residents.

When the public hearing takes place July 10, commissioners and city council members shouldn't rule the REC ordinance out completely. But they should send it back to committee for more fine tuning.

Multiple movies in our future?

Lee Snider

A lot of people are talking about that huge-mungous 20-screen mega theater a development company wants to build in the Seven Mile/Haggerty vicinity.

The so-called Pentagon Centre Entertainment Campus, which would sport 4,056 seats on a 35 acre site, is intended for the east side of Haggerty and thus would be located in Livonia.

Just the same, the mammoth enterprise is awfully close to the Northville Township border and plenty of people in this neck of the woods are more than a little concerned about the possible effect on traffic in the area.

I had a chance to get the inside scoop about the prospects of the complex getting by Livonia city officials when I visited the Livonia Spree over the weekend. While riding over to the Farmington Road celebration site in a shuttle bus, a former member of the city planning commission hit me up for my signature on a petition opposing the development.

As we reported in the June 20 Northville Record, the planning commission is recommending the city council deny zoning waivers for the facility. This ex-commissioner, however, said the fight is far from won. He thinks the city council is poised to approve the waivers, setting the stage for a possible override battle.

Livonia has a strong mayor system, and this former commissioner, named Ray Tent, said he expected Mayor Jack Kirksey to veto the waivers. However, the council could override the veto with a 5-2 supermajority of elected officials.

Tent was hoping to collect 5,000 signatures to take to the council and convince fence sitters of the unpopularity of the proposal.

Though I live in Livonia, I respectfully declined his request to sign the petition, explaining that as the editor of a newspaper that's covering the controversy it probably wouldn't be a good idea for me to go on the record either for or against.

He said he understood and continued to emphasize his opposition to the chaos he felt would result from such an enormous commercial development.

Though I was sincere in my misgivings about signing the petition, I was a little relieved that I had a handy excuse not to commit myself.

I really don't know how I feel about the complex. I'm a movie goer myself and I'd love the opportunity to pick from such a large selection of theaters so close by.

But 20 screens seems on the ludicrous side if you ask me. I can't think of any movie house that contains that many separate showing places. Even the largest ones I know of, Dearborn and the Showcase cinemas, have no more than 12. I'm not sure I want something that big so close to where I live and work (it's about mid-distance between the two points).

It'll be interesting to see how this all plays out. Tent's predictions might come true, but I'm kind of hoping he turns out to be an unreliable prognosticator. (He also forecast the demise of Detroit Race Course in a year and a half.)

If he ends up being right, though, and Mayor Kirksey isn't able to sustain a veto of the waivers, we're going to see quite a transformation take place at the east end of the community. But will it be for the better?

Get ready for memories at festival

Jan Jeffres

Imagine you're in your late teens or early 20s and in a band. Suddenly you're an overnight sensation, grinding out top hit after top hit. Then, in a few years, it's all over. No more adoring crowds. Back to the everyday life. Maybe you manage to hold onto the money, or maybe you squandered it on flashy cars, fab clothes and illegal substances. Perhaps the dollars were swindled away by unscrupulous retainers.

I've always wondered how it is to descend from the top of the world to flat reality. Thousands of Americans from the 1950s on who were briefly TV stars or recording artists and weren't able to cling on, for whatever reason, must be out there living like everyday folks. Kind of the ex-child star now selling used cars syndrome.

Fortunately for many of the musicians, oldies remain goodies and events like the Michigan '50s Festival provide employment if the money's needed. And if it isn't, it's still a chance to feel the adrenalin hum while performing before an appreciative audience.

This year, the Michigan '50s Festival has pulled together an impressive line-up – The Marvelettes, Motown's first "girl group," Gary Lewis And The Playboys and The Grassroots. All three were chart busters at one time. Should be some memorable shows.

ANOTHER HIT

And speaking of oldies, in this case, not so goodies, for the first time since 1987, The Novi News/Northville Record has a redecorated bathroom. Some might think this does not merit public attention. But nine years ago, when the staff redid the facility in then-chic ditsy print wallpaper, they received and framed accolades from top Suburban Communications corporate leaders, as well as a congratulatory telegram from President Reagan. OK, maybe not the Reagan note, but it was such big news they wrote about it in the paper.

This time around, reporters Carol Workens, Wendy Pierman Mitzel, front desk field marshal Diane Quint and I created a look which will take us into the next century, if the nine-year design cycle holds. We went for a fin de siecle mood, just a plain blue on blue paper with white wood trim.

Although we did not get applause – it's an election year, President Clinton's busy – we got something better, support from the community.

Nelda and Tom Morrison, owners of Morrison's Antiques on Northville's Main Street, donated to the cause a big gold-framed print, with the appropriate blue colors, of an early 1800s, "Sense And Sensibility" kind of scene.

We've gone from low life to high style.

Not yet resolved is what to do with the bones of an ex-employee, found under the shelf paper when the closet was cleaned for the first time since 1987.

Expect bond rhetoric to be questionable

Congratulations to all those involved in producing the favorable graduation rate. But give us a break, Dolly McMaster. You are quoted as saying "I think the students have benefited by the work that has been done by (the high school Future's Committee and the new Coalition for Students Success) over the past few years."

Although the Future's Committee was formed two years ago, it has produced questionable results. The Coalition for Student Success was formed only months ago and has yet to propose any plans for implementation. Yet, the graduation results that you are crediting to these committees occurred long before either of these committees was formed.

There is only one obvious point to take from your comment. We should expect this same type of duplicity from you and the Northville Public Schools as you try to sell the voters on a $60 million tax increase.

Cosmos thank all those involved

To the Editor:

Thanks to our coaches.

The team members, parents and coaches of the Under 10 Northville Cosmos girl's soccer team would like to thank all of the women's high school soccer players who helped us learn the game this season.

Kyla Murphy, Nicolle Gellner, Chris Mellor and Katie Terakedis volunteered their time whenever asked. They worked with the team on the weekends, during the week and came to several of our games. They never said no.

They were able to teach the girls some really neat drills this season.

They made practice a fun learning experience and they also made it very easy for the coaches to coach and to have a great time too.

Thanks again.

State charter school concept gets twisted

Tim Richard

It was a "bad news" story, and yet there was an element of humor in a recent article in the Lansing State Journal.

A so-called charter school is in trouble. El-Hajj Malik El-Shabazz Academy has been placed on probation, "plagued by complaints of misconduct and mismanagement on the part of its governing board," the story said.

"They're in serious trouble," said Robert Mills, director of Central Michigan University's Charter School Office, suggesting the academy may "self-destruct." CMU, you may recall, is the charter mill that ground out most of the 43 charters in the state.

Let us peruse the LSJ story further:

"Mills' office is investigating a series of complaints of misconduct, including the dismissal of administrator Angela Scott and possible violations of the state Open Meetings Act.

"We're questioning the whole protocol of how hiring and firing were handled, why bitter complaints by parents were not being handled by the board and the abrupt resignation of board members," Mills said.

"Board member Larry Scott, who helped found the school with his wife, Angela, and board member Willie Davis resigned during the school year ...

"Mills said his office will work with the board to develop operating policies and guidelines. CMU officials also will interview new candidates to fill the board vacancies.

"'If matters do not improve, CMU could revoke the charter that allows it to operate,' he said." End of quotes.

Charter schools, according to the national literature, are supposed to be specialized schools organized by parents and teachers to promote specialized kinds of education, such as art, theater or science. That's the theory.

As implemented by Gov. John Engler and state Board of Education President Clark Durant, the concept has become perverted include to state subsidies for private schools.

The Shabazz tale suggests some pertinent questions:

• Charter schools are supposed to be competitive in the free market by catering to the demands of consumers – i.e., parents. But here we have the parents in revolt.

• A board member, Larry Scott, and the administrator, Angela Scott, are husband and wife. Does that not reek of nepotism and conflict of interest? You wouldn't see that in a real public school.

• Central Michigan University, located an hour north in Mt. Pleasant, will interview candidates for the board. What's wrong with having voters elect the board, the way we did with real public schools June 10?

• At the outset I noted there was an element of humor in the situation. It's this: Charter schools are supposed to be free of "bureaucratic red tape" – Engler's term when he proposed charter schools to the Legislature. And yet we have an unelected bureaucrat from a university with an unelected board probing Shabazz's management and board.

• Note Shabazz's "Afrocentric" curriculum. Glance through the Help Wanted classified ads of this or any other newspaper and find all the job opportunities for graduates with Afrocentric skills. The founders, administrators, Central Michigan University and parents of Shabazz students are playing a mean trick on the kids with such a curriculum.

• Yes indeed, charter schools are legally "public" schools subject to the Open Meetings Act. In the real world, however, no newspaper has the resources to cover all of them. In the real world, newspapers make most (though far from all) of the squawks about violations of the Open Meetings Act. I submit for your objective consideration the proposition that Engler and Durant want minimal media scrutiny because they want to nourish secret agendas, secretly implemented.

• Some, perhaps one-third, of so-called "charter schools" may be the genuine thing – specialized public schools. The majority are private schools lining up at the Proposal A feeding trough. And you wonder: How many other charter schools are as bad as Shabazz, just not exposed yet?

Economic consulting firm to study downtown

Johnson, who also chairs the DDA. "What is going on in communities like Novi and Plymouth cannot be ignored and we want to be well in front of them instead of losing our market share and be forced to play catch-up later on."

The contract also calls for the Green Group Inc. of Troy, to assist the Gibbs Group in the Northville study as part of the same fee, according to City Manager Gary Word, who said the study will commence sometime in September and a written report will be presented to city officials by late fall.

Word said the two groups will perform the following services:

• conduct a statistical analysis of Northville to determine market potential;

• evaluate current commercial activity and trade area;

• meet with community focus groups to ascertain needs, attitudes and perceptions of the community;

• define a trade area for the city retail development;

• analyze retail potential and make comments and recommendations on retailing strengths and weaknesses;

• evaluate existing buildings for possible retail reuse;

• make recommendations regarding potential physical improvement to the Central Business District area in relation to parking, pedestrian and vehicular circulation, building location and massing, streetscape, signage, parks;

• review and comment on the city Master Plan as it relates to potential improvements to the CBD;

"Essentially what we are going to do is take a look at Northville's strengths and weaknesses," said Bob Gibbs. "We'll look at your downtown from a retail point of view and identify what types of businesses are technically possible."

"We may all discover that there's not much that needs to be changed about your downtown area, because I have to say that it's pretty hard to criticize Northville's downtown," Gibbs added.

City councilman Chuck Keys wants all of the downtown area to be included in the study, not just the area identified within the Central Business District.

"I'd like to see Dunlap and Cady streets get some attention," he said. "Those areas have been ignored in the past and I think it's necessary for them to be included in any viable downtown plan."

Several members of the newly formed Central Business Association added that they would not only like to see a plan developed, they'd like to see the city follow through with the implementation of that plan.

• Traffic fatalities were up 8 percent in 1995 – 1,537 deaths versus 1,419 in 1994. It was the second annual increase in a row.

• Safety belt use is creeping up and is now at 69 percent. But 58 percent of fatalities involved people who failed to use seat belts. "Clearly, our most aggressive and at-risk drivers are not buckling up," said Betty Mercer, director of the Office of Highway Safety Planning.

• Drunk driving arrests increased in 1995 to 59,484, up 7.8 percent over the previous year. An anti-drunk driving campaign and more troopers on the road were credited for helping the increase. BOOM!

Fireworks:
Legal vs illegal

The word fireworks means a device made from explosive or flammable compositions used primarily for the purpose of producing a visible display or audible effect, or both, by combustion, deflagration (to burn with intense heat and light), or detonation.

It is illegal to sell, possess, transport or use fireworks in Michigan without a permit. Exceptions are listed on the left.

LEGAL FIREWORKS
(No permit required)

Flat paper caps

Toy trick noise makers
Party poppers, pop-its, fun snaps, toy pistols using flat paper caps, etc

Sparklers

Flitter Sparklers: A narrow paper tube attached to a thin wooden handle producing a shower of sparks

Fountains: Cone shaped or cylindrical shaped that emit a shower of sparks and sometimes a whistle effect

Toy Snakes: A pressed pellet that produces a large snake-like ash upon burning

Toy Smoke Devices: Smoke bombs, smoke pots, smoke grenades smoke balls etc., that produce white or colored smoke

Signal flares: Blank cartridges or blank cartridge pistols, and railroad emergency signal devices

The sale of fireworks, provided they are to be shipped directly out of state. (Selling fireworks in Michigan using signed statements that the purchaser will use the fireworks out of state is prohibited.)

Fireworks which do not fit among the above exceptions are illegal for sale use, or transportation without a permit. Violators are guilty of a misdemeanor

ILLEGAL FIREWORKS
(Examples)

Cherry Bomb: Looks like a small red sphere approximately 1 inch in diameter

Comet (or Mine): A cylinder containing a star and attached to a wooden base. Upon ignition the star is thrust 50 to 100 feet in the air and continues to glow as it slowly falls to the ground

Firecracker: A little noise making cylinder up to 1.5 inches in length, often strung together by a fuse

M-80: Up to 2 inches in length, the M-80 is usually a red cylinder with a fuse coming out the side

Bottle Rockets: A cylinder, frequently topped by a cone to stabilize its flight, attached to a long stick

Roman Candles: A 6 to 12 inch tube containing alternating layers of compacted black powder that shoots single stars out of the top when lighted

Silver Salute (M-100) A silver cylinder with a fuse coming out of the side containing large quantities of flash powder

M-250 and M-1000 (quarter-stick) They look like larger versions of the M-80 and M-100 and have extremely high risk factors for crippling and disfiguring injuries

Torch: A 6 to 12 inch tube filled with color composition and ending in a handle. When ignited streams of colors come out of the top of the tube

A firework that spins or twirls is a "wheel" and thus is neither a "cylindrical fountain" nor a "cone fountain." The sale, attempted sale, use or possession of these "wheel" type devices is prohibited in Michigan

Helpful hint: If it makes a loud bang or leaves the ground, it is illegal.

Matt Goode celebrates last year's Independence Day with a sparkler.

Fire chief and police express concerns over fireworks

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

If it shoots, booms or leaves the ground, it is illegal

Novi Fire Chief Art Lenaghan has three words to say about fireworks – don't use them

"We're looking out for the safety of people, not to dampen any Independence Day celebration," Chief Lenaghan said. "People get hurt with these things."

Legal fireworks in Michigan are sparklers, toy noise makers, snakes and smoke devices.

Cherry bombs, 1.5 inch firecrackers, comets, bottle rockets, Roman candles and M-80s are among the illegal fireworks

"Our concern is that most people don't realize what's legal and what's not legal," Novi Police Lieutenant Tim McNamara said. "The other edge of the sword is the fact that when they get these illegal fireworks, is how they use them."

The weekend before, during and after the Fourth of July, the police department deals with an increased number of complaints.

"These are not confined to kids, most of the people that have these fireworks are big kids (adults)," McNamara said

Combine fireworks and alcohol, and there is an even greater problem.

A problem also exists when young people use fireworks with matches or lighters.

"Young kids, unsupervised, don't have the understanding of injury or damage to property," McNamara said.

Most people are aware of cherry bombs and M-80's, but people think firecrackers, or ladyfingers, are harmless.

The smallest bottle rockets can shoot several hundred feet.

"Fireworks come in all types of names from all different types of manufacturers," McNamara said. "The problem is that these are legal in some other states."

While on duty one Fourth of July holiday, McNamara noticed a van which was on fire roll off the road and crash into a car.

The men inside the van had been shooting bottle rockets through the sun roof from a coffee can in which they also were storing a supply of fireworks. A tail of fire from the bottle rocket ignited the fireworks. Once the fireworks ignited, it created a phosphorus chemical which could not be put out. Each of the men were burnt from head to toe down one side of their body.

"I can still smell their burning flesh to this day," McNamara said.

It can also be a nuisance. One neighbor doesn't want to call on another neighbor who is shooting off fireworks while they are trying to get their own children to sleep.

There are hundreds of variations of fireworks.

"If they bang or shoot or emit something they are illegal," he said.

"It is the composition of how much powder is in it (the firework)," McNamara said. "That is one of the things that make it illegal.

"Part of the problem isn't necessarily the spark, it is how much (powder) is in there and if it goes wrong," he said.

According to the Fire Marshal Bulletin No. 11, which was revised in January 1994, fireworks devices which contain pyrotechnic composition with no more than the following amounts are legal:

Flat paper caps must not contain more than 0.25 grain of explosive content per cap. Packages are supposed to be labeled with explosive content per cap.

Hospitals see increase in activity during the holiday

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Police departments are not alone when it comes to an increase in the number of reports received around the Fourth of July.

Hospitals usually see an increase in fireworks-related injuries during the summer holiday period.

"It really does pick up around July 1 and go for a few days after July 4," said Dr. Robert Suter, Director of Providence Hospital's Emergency Departments in Southfield and Novi.

"The most common thing to see is lacerations," Dr. Suter said.

"The legal fireworks are not really necessarily powerful enough – except with the small child – to amputate a finger," Dr. Suter said. "When they explode they will cause a bad cut and crushing type of injury most commonly to the hand because the blast effect crushes the tissue just as if it was hit with something."

A crushing type of injury is not a typical cut. The skin ruptures open and frequently healing is complicated by infection. There also can be long term complications.

"The worst kind of soft tissue injury are the blast injuries which are crushing injuries," Dr. Suter said.

When infection sets in, there is the possibility of losing the finger.

The most serious type of burns are to the eyes which are caused by some flying fireworks, according to Dr. Suter. Isolated burn injuries can be painful, frightening, and cause scarring.

The visual display of a firework is the result of white phosphorus, which is produced when the chemicals in the device burn.

"It is very difficult to stop white phosphorus fragments," Dr. Suter said. "They have to burn themselves out."

White phosphorus in legal fireworks burn out more quickly than in illegal ones.

"If people do have a fireworks injury it is important to have it evaluated, particularly if there is a cut involved," Dr. Suter said.

Children should not use fireworks and even older children should be closely supervised, according to Dr. Suter.

Alcohol and fireworks don't mix. The combination can turn an adult who would know better into someone rather irresponsible, Dr. Suter added.

Marguerite Durham offers support at Children's Hospital.

Durham ready to listen and comfort

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"When I've helped someone, I feel good about myself," said Marguerite Durham.

And for her, helping means spending time with parents when she sits in the surgical lounge with them while their children are having surgery at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

"I'm the only volunteer," one day a week from 9 a.m. to about 6:30 p.m. – but "sometimes I'll stay as late as 8 p.m.

"I try to make them more comfortable," she said. "Some want to talk. Some don't."

The patients can be "only hours old" to 18 years, she said.

"I have laughed, I've cried. It's an emotionally draining experience when you make a difference to someone else.

"And it's a challenge to know how to handle each case. Everybody is different."

Durham started in 1981. She knew she wanted to work with children.

"Our future is in their hands," she said.

"I feel strongly about children and I feel strongly about this hospital."

One of her daughters, who is in intensive care work at Children's Hospital, suggested Durham volunteer there.

"So I went down and asked what I could do. I said I wanted to work with children." Rehab was suggested. Then "they needed someone in the emergency room." Durham said. Finally she chose the surgical lounge.

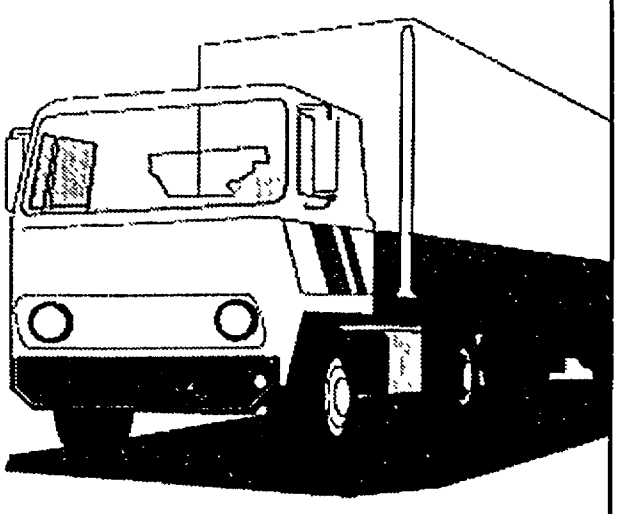

"It's exciting work," she said, when you consider the progress being made in children's health care. "At the end of the decade there will be heart transplants for children."

And Marguerite Durham is in the observer's seat.

If you want to feel especially good about yourself, consider calling the volunteer office at Children's Hospital of Michigan, (313) 745-5326.

Garden club is ready to dig in for another 60

On June 10, the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association celebrated its 60th anniversary with a potluck picnic

Instrumental in forming the Northville Branch on May 25, 1936, were Louise Tritten and her mother, Alma Spicer of Plymouth.

Clara Bryant Ford, wife of auto magnet Henry Ford, was their sponsor and their first president was Mrs. T. R. Carrington.

Since its founding, the club has had 31 presidents and there are currently 73 members.

The Northville branch, which is governed by the Michigan Division of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, has made contributions in various areas including holiday walks, annual greens sale, Northville clock funding, Adopt A Park and civic plantings (trees, bulbs and benches around town).

The branch has also established a garden at the Yerkes House and at the Allen Terrace fountain.

Donations include the City and Township Beautification commissions, Northville Parks and Recreation, Northville High, Cooke Middle and Amerman Elementary schools, Northville Historical Society, Northville Friends of the Library, Keep Michigan Beautiful, Matthaei Botanical Gardens, Frederik Meijer Gardens, Children's Garden, MSU and Charter House.

At the June meeting, officers of the coming year were also installed. New officers include Karen Brown, president; Donna Raney, first vice president; Suzanne Hansknect, second vice president; Ina Hacker, recording secretary; Nancy Vaghy, corresponding secretary and Jo Krause, treasurer.

Scoutmaster Joe Retzbach awarded the Life Rank to David and Scott Whitbeck (left) and Derek and Michael Swancutt.

Moving up the ranks two by two

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Requirements for the Life Rank are fulfilled by many of the boys in Boy Scout Troop 755, but it is not often that the rank is bestowed upon twins, let alone two sets of twins, at the same time

Scoutmaster Joe Retzbach awarded the Life Rank to Scott and David Whitbeck and Michael and Derek Swancutt, all of Northville

Scott and David Whitbeck have been in the scouting program since second grade. They will be freshmen at Northville High School in the fall and are the sons of Millie and Rod Whitbeck.

Among the requirements for the Life Rank are six hours of service to the community.

Scott completed volunteer work in his church and helped Matt Wally with his Eagle Rank project.

David's community service work included volunteering at the vacation church school at Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran Church in Farmington Hills.

Camping, canoeing, visiting the Warren Dunes in western lower Michigan and a cave in Indiana for the weekend, and attending summer camp in Michigan are among the activities Scott and David enjoy in the Scouting program.

Michael and Derek Swancutt are the sons of Bruce and Judy Swancutt.

The Swancutt twins, who will enter 10th grade at Catholic Central High School in the fall, joined the Scouting program in the first grade.

Although they work independently, they help each other out with badge requirements.

For their Life Rank requirements, they worked in a classroom with a student who has Attention Deficit Disorder and volunteered at soup kitchens.

Being around friends and learning skills which are available only in the Boy Scouts makes it all rewarding, according to Michael.

All four boys are looking forward to achieving the highest rank in Scouts, the Eagle Rank.

Know rules for revelry

Noise makers such as party poppers, pop'it's, fun snaps, etc., are devices that contain 15 milligrams or less of explosive composition.

The most common, sparklers, emit a shower of sparks up to a distance of about 6 inches from the device when lighted. Sparklers may not contain more than 0.0125 pounds or 0.2 ounces of pyrotechnic composition. A No. 14 or less sparkler will normally contain 0.0125 pounds or less of pyrotechnic composition.

Another type of sparkler is the flitter sparklers which are a narrow paper tube containing up to 100 grams of pyrotechnic composition attached to a thin wooden handle.

Cylinder fountains cannot have an inside diameter greater than three-quarters of an inch and contain more 75 grams of pyrotechnic composition.

Cone fountains are legal if they contain no more than 50 grams of pyrotechnic composition.

Snakes are packaged 12 per box and may not contain poisonous mercury. Smoke devices such as smoke bombs, pots, grenades, balls etc. are not suppose to burst nor produce external flame under normal operation.

"I wouldn't buy anything in a package for my kid," McNamara said, speaking from a parental standpoint and not as police officer.

Instructions on fireworks will caution that the device should be used only under parental supervision, on flat ground. Once lit, the user is told to get away fast.

"You don't know what you're lighting," McNamara said.

"These fuses are not the type we use in construction that are safe and regulated," he said, "(but are made by) some guy from another continent that could care less if your kid's finger blew off."

It is illegal to use, sell or transport fireworks without a permit. Permits are obtained from the city. The individual or group must also speak with the city's fire marshal and have a pyrotechnologist in charge and on site during the display.

"We encourage people if they want to see something like this go to one of these licensed programs," Chief Lenaghan said. "There are a lot of programs around, usually well run and very nice."

Wedding

Nancy and Jeffrey Hart

Nancy Patrice Doyle and Jeffrey Charles Hart were married Dec. 29, 1995, at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in Northville. Father Greg Deters performed the double ring ceremony with the bride's mother and father giving her in marriage. A reception for 200 guests followed at the Fairlane Club in Dearborn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doyle of Northville. She received a bachelor of science degree in apparel design from Michigan State University, and is manager for Ann Taylor stores in Chicago.

Attending the bride was matron of honor and sister, Susan Gannon of Livonia. Bridesmaids were Kristina Marlow of Alexandria, Va.; Elizabeth Brack of Royal Oak; Jennifer Araujo of Bloomfield Village; Caroline Hart of Canton, the groom's sister; April Rice of Livonia; and Paula Taylor of Plymouth.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of white tissue taffeta and alencon lace highlighted with crystals and seed pearls. The neckline was of a Sabrina design with long sleeves and a controlled bellshaped skirt extending into a full chapel train which was appliqued with alencon lace. Enhancing the front of the gown was a panel of alencon lace dotted with pearls and crystals. Her necklace of crystal beads, which was given to her grandmother by her grandfather on their wedding day, was also worn by her mother and sister at their weddings. The bridal garter was fashioned from the lace of her grandmother's wedding gown.

The bridal headpiece was an alencon lace covered bow holding a fingertip length illusion veil.

Her bridal bouquet was an all rose cascade in shades of white enhanced with the Genestra flower and Christmas greenery.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hart of Canton, Mich. He graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor of arts degree in humanities pre-law and from Loyola University School of Law in Chicago with a juris doctorate degree. He is an attorney with the law firm of Pinto, Burnes and Libman in Chicago.

Serving as best man was Bradley Cooper of Berkley, Mich. Groomsmen were James Sung of Hancock; Richard Moore of Hillsdale; Michael Doyle of Dearborn, the bride's brother; Ross Lyon of Seattle, Wash.; Christopher Hart of Westland, the groom's brother; and Roger Moore of Chicago. Acting as ringbearer was Adam Taylor of Plymouth.

The couple went to Montego Bay, Jamaica, for their wedding trip and have made their home in Chicago, Ill.

John Travolta delivers in spiritual drama

PHENOMENON

BY LORI BARNARD HOWELL

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

The values of honesty, intelligence and courage shine through in this summer's poignant, spiritual drama, "Phenomenon."

Deep within the heart of a small town called Harmon, George Malley (John Travolta) resembles the simple, everyday man. He enjoys his secure lifestyle in Harmon — George runs his neighborhood autoshop and chats with the locals.

However, the arrival of his 37th birthday sends his life on a journey full of twists and turns. Suddenly, George receives a thirst for worldly knowledge and thrives on learning the mechanics of the natural universe. Longtime pals begin to question his insights and beliefs about life.

Only with the guidance and support of Doc (Robert Duvall), Nate (Forest Whitaker) and Lace (Kyra Sedgwick) does George discover the truth about himself.

After playing ruthless, domineering men in the box office successes "Pulp Fiction" and "Broken Arrow," Travolta delivers a more sensitive and trustworthy portrayal. Moviegoers will strive to be his friend, desire to win his love and protect him from danger. George Malley tugs at your heart strings and leaves you with a beautiful outlook on the future. Doc and George form a bonding relationship, one that many fathers and sons would even envy.

Less open than in her "Something to Talk About" role, Sedgwick shows how a woman protects herself from love's uncertainties and harms.

The walls around her heart slowly begin to crumble when Lace witnesses the magic between herself and George.

Every explosive movie season needs at least one thought-provoking flick, and this one definitely weathers the waves of action duds.

THE CABLE GUY

BY HEATHER WADOWSKI NORTHVILLE

In Columbia Pictures "The Cable Guy," Jim Carrey takes a step away from the comedian he's known for in such films as "Ace Ventura: Pet Detective" and another step closer to the dramatic actor he wants to be known for in such upcoming films as "Liar, Liar" and "The Truman Show."

The only problem is, while audiences are waiting for the crazy Jim they're used to, they're greeted by another crazy Jim...

And this one is deadly.

Jim Carrey plays a lonely cable installer who "just wants a friend" in "The Cable Guy." While he sounds innocent enough, there's something about him that makes you nervous. If you don't agree to being his best friend, the cable guy could end up being your worst enemy.

Matthew Broderick soon discovers that fact when he decides to befriend the cable guy, and then decides not to be his friend anymore a few weeks later.

The cable guy doesn't take it very well, and sets out to get revenge.

"The Cable Guy" proves that Jim Carrey has a lot of talent. Jim makes the transition from the idiot everyone loves to the guy everyone's afraid of without a problem. While the movie proves he can play a psychopath, it doesn't necessarily prove he can pull off being the "straight guy" for two hours. For that, well, we'll just have to wait and see.

"The Cable Guy" receives four and one-half stars out of five. The movie isn't much to hoot and holler about, but Jim's performance is.

As a result of an extraordinary occurence on his 37th birthday, George Malley's (John Travolta) seemingly unremarkable life takes a wondrous turn in the film "Phenomenon."

"A REAL SUMMER FIRECRACKER." PETER TRAVERS, ROLLING STONE

Kevin Gilchrist shutout Windsor last week on three hits.

Broncos beat South Farmington 10-7 in 9 as Reel, Gilchrist star

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If it's true that good things come to those who wait, the Northville Broncos' patience was rewarded Saturday.

The Mickey Mantle baseball team needed nine innings but did outlast South Farmington 10-7 at home. Rob Reel knocked in a pair of runs and Kevin Gilchrist delivered another as Northville rallied for three runs in the ninth.

The win moved Northville to 8-4 in the Little Caesars Mickey Mantle league.

"We've even surprised ourselves a little," coach Rick Bingley said of his team's strong start. "The kids just don't want to lose. We've got very good team work going."

Saturday's game was a makeup. Despite being played at Northville, the Broncos were designated visitors.

South Farmington broke the game open in the bottom of the first with six runs. Starter Mike Christenson lasted just one-third of an inning.

Mark Olbrantz relieved him into the seventh

"He settled the team down," said Bingley, "and kept us in the game so we could claw our way back."

And that's exactly what Northville did. The Broncos scored single runs in the second and third innings, two more in the fourth and three in the seventh to tie the game at seven.

Kelly Bingley delivered a two out, two strike single to knock in the tying runs in the seventh.

Eric Arnold started the winning rally in the ninth inning. He lead off with a walk and advanced to second on a passed ball.

Nick Watts followed with a walk. A double steal moved the runners to second and third Gilchrist and Reel followed with their RBI hits.

Reel pitched the final three innings for the win in relief of Olbrantz.

NORTHVILLE 7, DETROIT 5

The Broncos played at home Thursday and beat Detroit easier than the 7-5 score indicates.

Northville, which stole 10 bases in the game, got three runs in the first inning and never looked back. Bingley and Gilchrist combined for all three RBI in the frame.

Coach Bingley described Thursday's game as uneventful. He came away impressed with the Detroit team.

NORTHVILLE 5, WINDSOR 0

Gilchrist dominated the June 25 home game.

The right hander tossed a three-hitter and struck out 10. More importantly, he didn't walk a single batter.

"He had incredible control," said Bingley. "He was in total control from the first pitch to the last pitch.

Northville scored two runs in the first. Watts and Evan Edwards both scored on Windsor errors after reaching base.

NFWB 11, NORTHVILLE 6

North Farmington/West Bloomfield led 8-0 after three innings and never looked back.

The Broncos rallied for four runs in the fifth inning and two in the seventh. But it was too little, too late.

Edwards led Northville with three hits.

Bingley said one of the strong points of his team this summer has been its ability to forget bad games such as the NFWB contest.

"It's one of the reasons we've been successful," said Bingley. "The kids are pretty even keel."

TRACKIN' THE BEST

Moore, Gordon make all-area track squad

Northville senior Eric Moore (center) posted the area's fast time in the 100-meter dash this spring.

Every spring, it seems, high school athletes get better and better.

Racing times are faster, throws are longer and people leap farther. But is it true or is it just our imagination?

HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Boys Track Team features numerous outstanding athletes. Truth is, though, performances were down slightly from a year ago.

Out of 17 events, this year's team eclipses our 1995 squad just four times. Many of the remaining events were relatively close between the two groups.

Now this isn't intended as a slam on this year's crop of All-Area tracksters. If you look at the ages of our 1996 team members, in fact, you'll see it's actually a compliment. More than half the squad (excluding relay runners) are underclassmen.

It should also be noted that poor weather this spring may have hampered performances. Mother Nature simply didn't cooperate with warm weather until near the very end of the season.

At any rate, here's a closer look at who earned their way onto HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area Boys Track Team in 1996 (Note: All selections are based on best performances from Novi, Northville, Lakeland, Milford and South Lyon high schools):

DISCUS
Bill Collins,
Novi senior

Collins rose from relative obscurity to take top honors in the area. The senior snapped off a 141-feet 3-inch throw in a dual meet against Howell.

As a junior, his best throw was nearly 20 feet less. Novi coach Bob Smith said Collins improved through good old fashioned hard work.

"He has a real good work ethic," he added.

SHOT PUT
Aaron Stanley,
Milford senior

Stanley was only beaten once in the shot put during the 1996 dual-meet season and he actually had a top distance of 47-11, taking third at the KVC meet.

But Milford coach Chris Ceresa felt that distance was a little aided by the downward slope of the shot put pit where the meet was held in Novi.

Stanley's best level effort of 47-8 was still the best in the area. He threw that distance at the Oakland County track and field meet where he placed sixth. The senior completed his high school track career by leading the Redskins in total points for the season with 99.

"He had a really nice senior year," Ceresa said. "He did very well as a thrower in both the shot and the discus."

HIGH JUMP
Bill Nash,
Milford sophomore

Even though nagging injuries plagued Nash for most of his sophomore season, he still emerged as one of the brightest young stars in the area.

He turned it on at the end of the season winning both the KVC title and the regional championship in the high jump. Nash won the league with an effort of 6-1 and he had his personal-best effort of 6-3 while winning the region.

Nash was one of Milford's most versatile performers competing in not only the jumping events but in the hurdles races and on several of the Redskins' relay teams as well.

"He's just an excellent athlete," Ceresa said.

LONG JUMP
Andy Gatt,
Novi junior

No more standing in the shadows for this Novi junior. Gatt took the spotlight as one of the Wildcats' top athletes this spring.

"He really blossomed," Smith said. "He was awesome this year."

Gatt nailed a 21-5.75 jump early in the season. Smith hopes to see his junior qualify for the state finals in the event next year.

"I'd like for him to stay consistently in the 21-foot range," he added.

POLE VAULT
Ty Fowler
Northville senior

The senior saved his best for last.

Having gone 12-8 earlier in the season, Fowler was looking to break Northville's school record at the state final.

He didn't quite make it that high, but he did post the area's top vault at 12-11.

Coach Dennis Faletti said he thought Fowler had a legitimate shot at the Mustang mark of 13-8. While he didn't get it, the coach said Fowler still ranks among the school's best ever.

"He's the best we've had in a long time," he added.

110-HURDLES
Brian Boyer,
South Lyon junior

If there were such a thing as a decathlon for high school students Boyer might be considered the Dan O'Brien of the prep ranks.

"He's one of those kids that could do good in a lot of different events," coach Janes said.

Whether it was running, jumping, hurdling or the field events, Boyer showed his wide range of skill this year. The Lions recognized his value to the squad by awarding Boyer the team's most outstanding runner honor.

His effort of 14.8 in the 110-meter hurdles was good enough to give him the league championship. He was also a good 300-meter hurdler taking third place in the conference.

300-HURDLES
Chris Resciniti
Novi senior

Resciniti came a long way in a short time.

Coach Bob Smith said Resciniti didn't "touch a hurdle as a freshman." But in just three short years, he became the school record holder and finished second in the Kensington Valley Conference.

Resciniti ran a 40.47 in the 300-meter hurdles to break Novi's year-old mark held by Eric Brandon.

Resciniti showed his versatility by running in several relays and the 100-meter dash.

"He turned out to be one of our four fastest kids," Smith said.

100-DASH
Eric Moore,
Northville senior

A captain for Northville, Moore might have been the Mustangs' best all-around performer. His time of 11.2 seconds in the 100-meter tied South Lyon's Joe Bridson for best in the area.

Dalziel, Howland represent Mustangs on girls' 1996 team

Despite a poor start to the spring track and field season due to inclement weather, the 1996 campaign turned out to be a pretty good one in girls track.

The HomeTown Newspapers' East All-Area track and field girls All-Area team represents just the right mix between youth and experience. With veteran competitors like Novi's Ursula Place and South Lyon's Nicole McMillan anchoring the squad, this unit can't go wrong. And raw young talent like Milford's Shawn Kemp and South Lyon's Cassie Teeple add some excitement to the team.

While the boys honor roll couldn't quite measure up to the standards set by last year's All-Area team, this season's girls harriers went above and beyond, even with Mother Nature throwing the tracksters a curve ball for the first few weeks of the season.

Now let's take a look at our 1996 girls track and field honorees:

SHOT PUT
Stephanie Uballe,
Lakeland senior

Uballe may not have had the top area distance in the shot put this year but she was certainly the most consistent performer in the event.

Roxanne Warner of Novi had the top throw of the season at 37-1 but it was Uballe who turned it on in the big meets for the Eagles. The senior athlete was one of the top weight-event performers in the area excelling in both the shot put and the discus.

"She progressed remarkably over the last two years compared to where she started out," Lakeland coach John Kababik said, pointing out that Uballe only threw in the low 30-foot range in the shot put in her freshman and sophomore years.

Uballe finished second in the KVC this spring setting a new Lakeland record in the shot put with a throw of 36-5. She also placed second in all of Oakland County going 35-7.75 and she topped it all off with a regional title throwing 35-7.

On a Lakeland team that frankly had a disappointing year without a dual-meet win, Uballe was certainly a bright spot.

DISCUS
Roxanne Warner
Novi, junior

Warner had an outstanding spring for Novi.

The junior set a pair of school records in the shot put and discus. No one else in the area came close to touching her mark of 110-feet.

Warner was second in the Kensington Valley Conference in the discus. She threw 106-10 at that meet.

LONG JUMP
Andy Desenzio,
Milford sophomore

Desenzio's top distance of 17-2 led a great year for long jumpers in the area.

After finishing as regional champion in the event as a freshman in 1995, Desenzio had a lot to measure up to this spring. She started the year a bit slow but she was strong down the stretch performing well in the big season-ending meets.

She won the league long-jump title and finished fourth in the Oakland County meet. That fourth-place performance trailed two of the top three jumpers in the state at the time, however.

Desenzio wound up producing the 17-2 effort at the county meet. It broke the sophomore class record at MHS and put her in third place on the school's all-time list. Desenzio also finished second in the regional before going on to compete at the state finals for the second straight year.

HIGH JUMP
Ursula Place
Novi, senior

Place had been one of the area's top high jumpers over the past several seasons then blew the doors off the competition early this year.

The senior cleared 5-6.5 in April in a dual meet against Milford. Place's previous best had been 5 feet.

She made the state final and won the Kensington Valley Conference meet in the event.

100-HURDLES
Cassie Teeple,
South Lyon freshman

Teeple showed the KVC what she could coming in as a freshman and making a name for herself around the league this spring.

She was not only a great hurdler, she was also a top long jumper setting the school record in the event for the Lions. SL coach Don Schwarck said her superb production in her first season is due to pure athletic talent and hard work.

Her top time of 16.31 in the 100-meter hurdles came against Brighton in a dual meet.

300-HURDLES
Sarah Elfring
Novi, sophomore

Elfring established herself as one of the area's top hurdlers this spring.

At the KVC meet in May, Elfring took third place in

SOCCER

The Novi U-10 soccer team recently completed the spring season in the Western Suburban Soccer League with an 8-0 record. The team scored 23 goals and allowed just three.

SWIMMER

Kathryn Kusuplos, age 8 of Northville who swims for Clarenceville Swim Club, swam at the Flag City Invitation in Findlay, Ohio, June 22 and 23. She placed first in the 50m butterfly and the 100m freestyle. Second in the 200m freestyle. Third place, 50m back stroke. Fourth in the 50m breaststroke and fifth in the 50m freestyle. She won the 8 and under High Point plaque. Early this year Kathryn placed third in the state in the 500 yard freestyle.

TRYOUTS

The Northville Soccer Association is announcing tryouts for a new Under 17 Boys Premier Team – the 1980 Northville Sting – which will be participating in the Little Caesar's soccer league in the spring 1997 season. The coaches for the squad will be Jeff Weicksel and Kevin Tuite. A tryout is scheduled for Tuesday, July 9, at 7 p.m. at the Northville Community Park, Beck Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads. Players must be born after July 31, 1979, to be eligible.

Please call (810) 380-7848 for more information regarding tryouts.

DODGERS

The Dodgers beat the Giants on June 25 by a score of 11 to 2. Game MVP's were awarded to: Manuel Bartolo and Victor Sultana for excellent pitching, and to Mike Karam and Robert Terrell for most runs batted in.

Northville dominates boys' track team

"This was his best season," said Faletti.

200-DASH
Tony Clemens
Northville junior

Clemens tied Moore for the best 200-meter time in the area with 23.1 seconds.

Clemens might have taken honors all by himself if not for injury. He was able to perform in the first and last two meets of the year.

"He's got a lot of ability," Faletti said. "But he needs to work hard."

400-RUN
Pat Gordon,
Northville senior

For the second straight year, Gordon posted the area's best time in the 400-meter race (50.7).

That time probably would've improved without the illness Gordon suffered near the end of the season.

"I'm sure he would've been under 50 seconds," Faletti said.

800-RUN
Lance Binoniemi,
Lakeland junior

Like most of the Eagles' distance runners, Binoniemi was able to turn it up a notch this year in the big meets.

He won the Lakeland Invitational title in the 800-meter run and finished fourth in Oakland County in the event. He saved the best for last, however, winning the KVC and regional title in the 800. And in the state finals he placed eighth behind mostly senior runners recording his best time of 1:58.01.

"I thought he had a real good year for us," Lakeland coach Randy Wilkins said. "He could have a chance to win (the state 800-meter title) next year."

1,600-RUN
Nick Gow,
Lakeland sophomore

If teams kept averages in each event in track and field Gow would be close to 1.000 percent for the Eagles in the 1,600-meter run.

He only ran the event four or five times during the course of the year because he was so valuable in the other distance events. But when he did run the 1,600 there weren't many people who could keep up with the durable sophomore.

Gow did run in the event in a dual meet against Brighton and he turned in his top time of the year finishing in 4:26. He also ran it at the KVC meet and won the league title in 4:28.7.

400-RELAY
Northville

The Mustangs repeat as the area's top 400-meter relay team.

The team of Moore, Jim and Tony Clemens and Aneil Kersey ran a 44.5. Faletti thought that time might have been a bit better if he could've kept the team together all spring.

The times they were together, Faletti said, "I thought they ran very well."

800-RELAY
Northville

Again, the Mustangs repeated as area champs.

Faletti's stable of sprinters were good enough to lead the area with a time of 1:31.5. Jim and Tony Clemens, Gordon, and Moore ran on the 800-meter relay team.

Northville missed the state cut by two-tenths of a second in the event.

1,600-RELAY
Novi/Lakeland

The two KVC rivals posted the exact same time of 3:28 in the mile relay.

For Novi, Chris Resciniti, Andy Gatt, Ty Clark and Adam Hagfors ran the event. Coach Smith said he had several more 400-meter runners who could've stepped in and done well on the squad.

"We had at least six (good) 400 guys by the end of the year," he said.

Dalziel, earns spot on girls track squad

the league with her area best time of 48.7 seconds. She also finished sixth in the high hurdles

100-DASH
Carrie Dalziel
Northville, senior

If you look up the word competitor in the dictionary you might just find a picture of Dalziel next to it.

The senior battled reoccurring thigh problems to post the area's best time in the 100-meter at 13 16.

"Whether it was a big meet or small meet she was always a premier 100 meter performer," coach Chris Cronin said

Captain of the Mustangs, Dalziel was a four-year letter winner. She placed second at the regional in the event for the second straight year in the event.

Only her drive as a competitor allowed her to run so well, said Cronin.

"It's the one thing that defines her as an athlete," he added.

200-DASH
Emily Howland
Northville, freshman

A record holder at the middle school level, Howland stepped right in to be a big contributor for Northville this spring

Despite her age, Cronin said the freshman was never intimidated. He said he recognized Howland's talent right away.

"You could tell at the beginning of the season she'd be a strong competitor," he said

Howland ran a 27.8 to capture the area's best time in the 200-meter.

"She's a good second half runner," Cronin said of her style in the event. "She's able to bring it on the last 100 meters."

400-DASH
Sharon Brzys,
South Lyon sophomore

It was almost a miracle that Brzys was able to compete this season, let alone at the level of the top runners in the area.

She had a severe arm infection prior to the beginning of the season but only missed a couple of races for SL and came back in excellent condition.

Brzys won the KVC title in the 400-meter dash for the second consecutive season and broke the one-minute barrier in the event for the first time at the regional. She wound up second in the region with a best time of 59.6.

1,600-RUN
Dayna Herr,
Milford freshman

Herr wanted to make sure she had the top 1,600-meter time in the area this year so she went out and did it twice.

The outstanding freshman distance runner placed fifth at the regional finishing the event in 5:24.8 – just one spot away from qualifying for the state track and field finals. The following week she came back and posted the same time while winning the Freshman Oakland County title.

Herr also placed third in the conference in the event. Milford coach Glen Edwards said it was no mistake that Herr had such a fine spring campaign after the hard work she put in during the winter training period.

3,200-RUN
Shawn Kemp,
Milford freshman

While Herr hit the ground running in the spring, Kemp, the Redskins' other freshman sensation, had a bit of a tougher start.

She was slowed by injuries and didn't train very hard in the off-season, but once she had a few dual meets under her belt she started to dominate in the distances.

Kemp placed second in the KVC meet and was runner-up in the 3,200 in the regional as well, qualifying for the state finals. She turned in her best time of the year in the state meet finishing in sixth place with a time of 11:25.4.

400-RELAY
Northville

The 400 team qualified for the state finals for the second straight year with its area best time of 51.5 seconds.

Injuries kept the unit of Nicole Weyer, Christina Chase, Katie Rompel and Dalziel from running together for a full season. Cronin said if they had their area best time would've been even better.

"I think they would've pushed 50 seconds," he added. "They didn't reach their potential because of injury."

New treatment could make surgery for enlargement of prostate obsolete

By MICHELLE DONALDSON
Special Writer

Men who undergo traditional surgery for non-cancerous enlargement of the prostate can experience a variety of complications, including post surgical impotence, stress incontinence and retrograde ejaculation.

Such side effects can be virtually avoided – at half the cost – with a new, minimally invasive, catheter-based technique, according to University of Michigan Health System researchers.

Results from a year-long, multicenter study that compared TUNA, or transurethral needle ablation, with traditional surgical treatment suggest that the new procedure is a safe and effective treatment for benign prostatic hyperplasia, or BPH.

Joseph E. Oesterling, M.D., professor of surgery and director of the Michigan Prostate Center, in May presented the results of the randomized clinical trial during the annual meeting of the American Urological Association. In addition to the U-M, the study was conducted by researchers at Stanford Medical Center, the University of Texas-Southwestern Medical Center, the University of Florida, the University of Wisconsin and the University of Maryland.

"The preliminary results achieved from this study indicate that TUNA compares extremely favorably to the traditional surgical approach that has been the mainstay of treatment for the past 50 years," Oesterling says, referring to a procedure called transurethral resection of prostate, or TURP. The two techniques were compared with regard to a variety of factors, including safety, efficacy, cost and quality of life.

TUNA relies on low-level radiation, or RF, energy to selectively target and shrink prostatic tissue. Performed under local anesthesia, the urologist uses a fiber-optic image to direct a special catheter into the portion of the urethra that passes through the prostate gland.

Two needles, covered by protective shields, are deployed from the catheter into the prostate. The shields are retracted to expose the needles, which then deliver the RF energy to specific locations in the gland. Because the needles are covered, the urethra itself is protected; only the prostatic tissue is destroyed.

TURP, in contrast, involves passing a heated wire through the urethra, which is used to cut away obstructing prostatic tissue. The irritation caused by the cutting wire can lead to a variety of post surgical complications.

Of the 92 men who took part in the study, half were treated with TURP and half were treated with TUNA. Of those who underwent traditional surgery, 5 percent experienced post surgical impotence, 4 percent had stress incontinence and 31 percent developed retrograde ejaculation. Also, all of the patients required a post-procedure catheter.

Virtually none of the above side effects were reported by the 46 patients who underwent TUNA, and fewer than half needed post surgical catheterization.

"Based on the data, TUNA offers markedly fewer side effects. In terms of relieving the symptoms of an enlarged prostate, TUNA is as good as surgery," says Oesterling.

As for the cost, the minimally invasive procedure costs roughly $3,000, or less than half of TURP.

"TURP is still the gold standard in terms of improving a patient's peak urine flow," he says. "However, an enormous amount of progress has been made in recent years to develop minimally invasive procedures, like TUNA, that are effective, safe, and associated with minimal hospitalization and a short convalescence."

Surgery to correct an enlarged prostate is the second most common operation, after cataract extraction, in men older that 65. Approximately $5 billion is spent annually on surgical treatment for BPH.

Tongue is most common cause of snoring

Kathryn Hoppe

When people consider the causes of snoring, they probably don't think of the tongue. Yet that's actually the most common cause – snoring will occur when a person's tongue relaxes too much during sleep and gets sucked back into the airway with every breath.

The underlying cause of snoring is a narrow airway; other physical problems that can contribute to that include large tonsils, a long soft palate or uvula, or simply an excess of flabby tissue in people who are overweight. In all of these cases, rapidly moving air (which travels faster through a narrow tube than in a wider outlet) causes the tissues of the throat to vibrate. Tonsils, soft palate and uvula set up a "symphony" that can keep spouses – and even neighbors – awake. It's like putting a flag in front of a fan: the faster the fan, the greater the flutter.

While snoring itself may be harmless, it can develop into or be a symptom of a more serious medical condition known as obstructive sleep apnea (OSA). Obstructive sleep apnea occurs when the tongue is tucked completely against the back of the throat. That, in turn, blocks the airway breathing momentarily stops. In a vicious circle, the harder the sleeper tries to breathe, the tighter the airway seal becomes. It's like trying to drink through a straw that's stuck in a lump of ice cream: The harder you suck, the flatter the straw becomes.

Unfortunately, once the airway is closed, it won't clear until the brain's oxygen level falls low enough to partially awaken the sleeper. The tongue then returns to a more normal position, breaking the airway seal – which is usually signaled by a loud gasp from the OSA sufferer. This cycle typically continues throughout the night, often leading to daytime drowsiness and lack of concentration.

Lifestyle changes can alleviate mild or occasional snoring and the symptoms of obstructive sleep apnea. Patients with these problems should:

- Lose weight.
- Get regular exercise.
- Within three hours of bedtime, avoid alcohol, heavy meals and medications that make you drowsy.

When symptoms are more severe and the lifestyle changes listed above don't solve the problem, other treatment options include.

- Surgery on the nose, throat, tongue or jaw
- Nasal continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) in which patients wear a nose mask to bed. The mask is connected to a machine that forces air into the nose anytime the airway closes.
- Dental appliance therapy – the simplest and least expensive way of treating snoring and OSA.

With dental appliance therapy, patients use a small plastic device, similar to an orthodontic retainer or an athletic mouthguard. They wear it in the mouth during sleep to bring the lower jaw and tongue forward, and lift the drooping soft palate to keep the airway open. In contrast to the other medical remedies, treatment with this type of dental appliance is reversible and non-invasive (it does not involve surgery).

Best of all, this simple device is effective in 70 percent of the cases treated – a good bet to turn the sometimes awesome sounds of snoring into the healthy sound of silence.

Manufactured homes gaining in popularity

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

In the not-too-distant past, manufactured homes were considered as flimsy excuses for the real thing.

They were thought to be particularly vulnerable to wind, fire and earthquakes. And they primarily appealed to the "newly wed or nearly dead" buyer market.

That mindset still exists, but manufactured home products are definitely appealing to a wider scope of buyer. Many current buyers are still young singles and senior retirees, but there has been a dramatic increase in the number of professional and other white-collar married people who purchase a manufactured home, according to a report from the United Homeowners Association.

"We're seeing a more upscale buyer," said Dick Berry, president of Home Folks Housing Center, Inc., a manufactured home marketing firm. "We once sold mostly to blue-collar workers, but now a lot of professionals are buying manufactured homes.

"Also, we're seeing a greater number of middle-age buyers. In fact, the increase in those brackets is very substantial."

Another growing segment of manufactured home sales is the senior market.

"As America continues to gray, the empty-nester will be our market," said Richard Rand, president of Asset development Group, Inc., a major residential developer. "In the mid-'80s, most were first-time buyers of manufactured homes. Now 80 percent are empty-nesters and 20 percent are first-time buyers or single parents.

"Most buying couples are age 45 or older. They're selling their larger homes and moving to 1,300- to 1,600-square-foot multisection manufactured homes. For this

Wood post and beam construction home give flexibilty for interior design

By Kimberlee Charchan

When searching for a new home did you ever wish there was another bathroom?

A larger closet in the master bedroom?

Or perhaps a bigger living room?

Custom home builders say all those wishes could come true.

How?

Design your own home.

Officials from Lindal Cedar Homes report that their homes are built to your specifications, and that their unique construction allows great flexibility in design.

Post-and-beam construction allows the walls to be located in a variety of configurations. Unlike conventional home construction, the posts and beams support the roof and the weight is not on the walls, says Chris Grajek, owner of Cedar Crest Homes — a seller of Lindal Cedar Homes — in Highland Township.

"The interior walls don't bear any weight, which gives you unlimited design possibilities," Grajek said.

The homes range in size from a country cottage to a multi-room mansion and can come in one, two and three levels.

There are also three main types of roof lines, including chalets with soaring roof lines and cathedral ceilings; gambrels with sheltering, energy efficient roofs; and contemporaries with lower roof lines and beamed ceilings.

You can create a 750-square-foot romantic lakeside cottage or build a three-level traditionally styled 3,500-square-foot home.

"The price we give our clients is predicated on what they want instead of fitting them into what we have," Grajek said.

He added the price is based on what the customer wants in the home. With a total package ranging from $70 per square foot to more than $200 per square foot.

"I went to the basic package that was in their design book, nothing too different," said Elaine Thayer, who bought a 2,200-square-foot Lindal home being constructed in Waterford. "I like the ceilings ... the lower level is planked so you don't have a normal drywall type of ceiling, which I think is very pretty."

She said she owned a similar home before and decided it was the best way to go for her new home.

"I was really impressed with the quality, the wood particularly," Thayer said. "They do their own windows ... the package was really complete and I liked the idea (that) they did everything themselves."

Western red cedar is the predominant building material in the homes, and manufacturers say it acts as a

Wood exterior enhances the Huckleberry's finish

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The 1,218-square-foot Huckleberry would make an excellent purchase for the first-time home buyer.

For a family with small children, the floor design of the Huckleberry offers a substantial amount for your building dollar.

The handsome wood exterior projects a solid permanence and adds greatly to the curb appeal. The covered front porch leads to a recessed entry that has a vaulted ceiling and a roomy coat closet for the convenience of your guests.

To the left of the entry are the sleeping areas. The master suite, for a home this size, is quite spacious and features a large walk-in closet with plenty of shelves, window to the back yard and a private bathroom

Across the hall, in perfect proximity for those with youngsters needing close attention, are two good-size bedrooms. Each has sufficient closet space, and one contains a built-in desk. This room, if not needed for use as a bedroom, could function as a sewing room, den or home office.

In the hallway are a full bathroom and a linen closet.

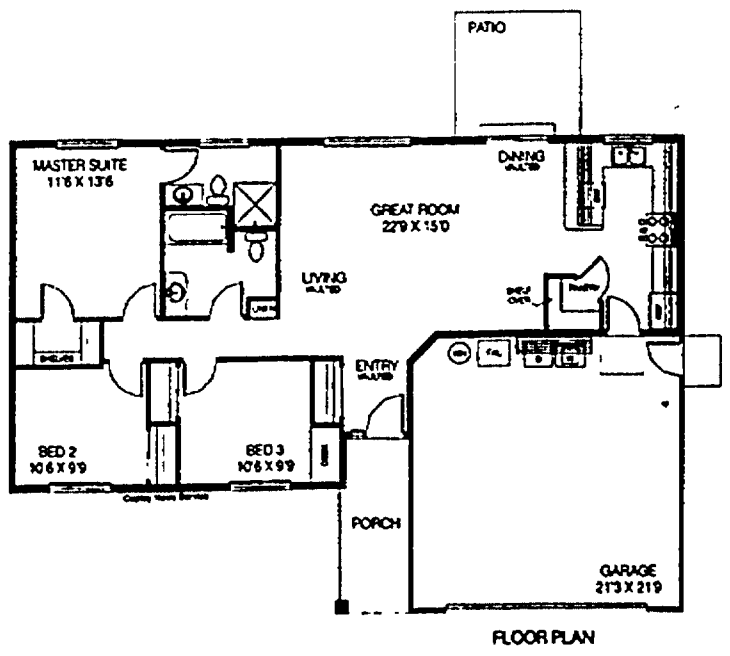

The main section of this floor plan, where family activities and entertaining are centered, is designated as a great room. It combines the living room, family room and dining room into one huge uncluttered expanse. Here, you and guests can enjoy a movie, board game or good conversation.

The adjacent walk-in kitchen is placed for maximum efficiency. Along with all the appliances, there is a step-in pantry and garden window. Meals are easily served in the dining area or, weather permitting, you may open the sliding-glass doors and dine on the back patio.

An added feature is the direct access to the kitchen from the garage, which allows you to carry groceries into the house without worrying about the climate outside.

A utility area is at the rear of the garage.

For a study plan of the Huckleberry (404-10), send $10 Landmark Design's, c/o HomeTown Newspaper, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI, 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.) For more information, call (800) 562-1151.

The crabgrass battle

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

GARDENING

It's that time again to give some thought to preventing crabgrass from invading our lawns. We must fight back!

The best way to combat this problem is to know what to do before the enemy invades your lawn. For starters, long-term grass control depends on the use of the right grass in the right place, planted at the proper time with adequate mowing, fertilization, watering, and disease and insect control. Having a healthy, vigorous lawn is the first line of defense against crabgrass.

Keep in mind that not all crabgrass preventers can be used on all varieties of grass. As for timing, it's best to apply a preventer when the forsythia bushes are in full bloom. Using a pre-emergent crabgrass preventer is the best way to prevent the invasion of crabgrass.

If your grass is growing under drought conditions, it's advisable to water the lawn the day before applying the application. You must always read the label carefully and follow the manufacturer's instructions. To be on the safe side, ask your garden center or extension center for advice on what products are best for you in relation to the variety of grass you have.

WEEDS RATED NO. 1 GARDENING MENACE

If you'd like to spend more time smelling the flowers instead of weeding between them, then you're not alone. In a recent survey of 700 homeowners, more than one-third rated weeding as the lawn and garden chore that gives them the biggest pain in the neck.

Weeding doesn't have to be a dreadful, backbreaking task because there are easy solutions to make pulling weeds quicker and easier. One of the best ways to alleviate weeding woes is to add plenty of sphagnum peat moss to the soil. Peat moss makes pulling weeds easier because it balances the amount of water and air in the soil.

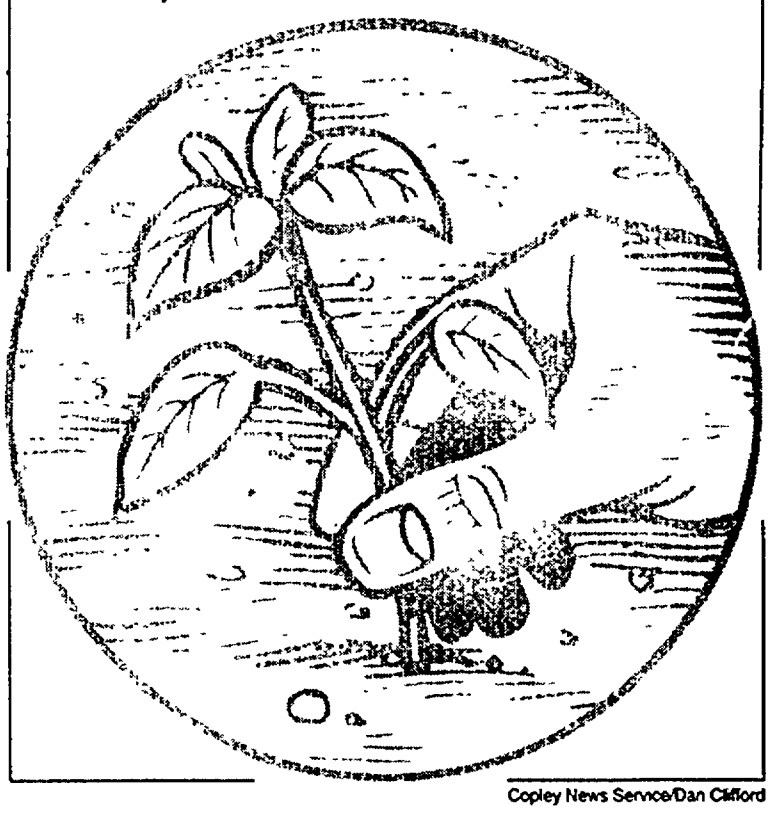

Dealing with insects and watering rates second and third, respectively, on the list of most-hated lawn and garden chores. A few simple tips can save time and effort spent on these tasks, as well. Some guidelines:

Spread several inches of mulch around to help conserve moisture so you can

Painful gardening chores

- A survey of gardeners found that they consider weeding to be the worst gardening chore. Insect troubles and watering were the next two most-despised chores.
- Several inches of mulch in the garden will retain moisture and cut down on weeds.
- Keep soil healthy so plants will be healthy. Insects and disease rarely attack healthy plants.
- A small pond will attract toads, frogs and birds. These animals will ward off insects naturally.
- Keep lawn and garden nutritionally well balanced with the proper fertilizers. Have soil tested by your local extension service to determine the fertilizer needed.

market, low-maintainance counts a lot. They want a small yard and their own garage."

However, local markets and consumer demand vary from region to region. Ted Novak, owner of a home-building firm in California, noted that 70 percent of his manufactured home buyers are under 40.

"Most are first-time buyers, but there are now second-time buyers making that first upgrade to a better house in the mix as well," Novak said.

The primary appeal of a manufactured home, over a site-built house, is the lower price. The reason for the lower price is mostly due to efficiencies of factory construction.

Not considering the cost of the land, the construction cost per square foot for a typical 1,565-square-foot multisection manufactured home is $27.41, according to a report for the Urban Land Institute. For a typical 2,115-square-foot site-built house, the construction cost is $54.65. In both cases, land is additional.

Many buyers locate their new manufactured homes in planned developments where they typically own the home as personal property and lease a home site from a corporation or partnership responsible for maintaining the community.

Nationally, just over half of all manufactured homes sold are placed on individual lots owned or rented by the buyer, and the proportion is currently increasing, according to ULI. Most of the remainder are located in land-lease developments.

The development often includes special security, clubhouses, pools, spas and full maintenance of common areas.

As the manufactured home product improves and more options are offered, more buyers are purchasing larger, multisection homes. Those residences now come in a variety of architectural styles and interior designs. And they offer a wide choice in floor plans, amenities and upgrades.

The most common method of financing a manufactured home purchase is with a personal property installment loan. This is often arranged through the retailer, or in some cases the buyer arranges a loan directly with a financial institution.

Terms typically range from 15 to 25 years.

Conventional real estate mortgages also are available for manufactured homes when they are affixed to real property.

For more information about manufactured homes, contact the American Homeowners Association — phone (703) 892-4663, or fax (703) 979-1128.

Q. Is mortgage lending increasing or decreasing in the current real estate market?

A. A buoyant housing market and low interest rates so far this year have pushed up mortgage lending in major metro areas throughout the country, according to a report from TRW REDI Property Data, a real estate information company.

The figures, based on the total volume of recorded deeds in representative metro areas, show originations for home purchases increased by 22 percent while nonpurchase lending (including refinance loans) went up by 140 percent.

Second mortgages and equity lines of credit account for much of the growth in non-purchase lending, the report noted. With home values stabilizing in previously depressed markets, lenders have been able to capitalize on opportunities in the equity mortgage sector.

water less often. Mulch also will help control weeds.

Use a small pond or bath to attract birds, frogs and toads to your lawn and garden. These animals will happily eliminate many unwanted pests. Insects are their favorite diet.

Periodically add fertilizer to your lawn and garden. Nutritious soil will grow more vigorous plants.

The bottom line is that you need healthy soil. Healthy soil is like an immune system. It keeps the whole plant stronger so it's better able to ward off unwanted pests and diseases, which don't attack healthy plants.

SHOPPING BY MAIL

Garden shopping by mail is as convenient as dialing the phone or mailing a letter. It saves money, time and fuel. And besides, it's fun!

Many of the latest plants and equipment on the market today are offered exclusively by catalog and are not available in retail stores.

Mail-order gardening catalogs are a source for unusual plants found in fabulous gardens, read about in books or heard of in seminars. Working closely with professional researchers, hybridizers and breeders, mail-order gardening companies are committed to offering the newest varieties with better color and form, as well as disease- and pest-resistant stock.

Many mail-order gardening companies specialize in one specific plant or product, offering the gardener a vast selection of species in a wide variety of sizes and colors.

And many are actively involved in recycling programs in their hometowns, as well as donating plants and material to help replenish the earth.

For a source guide, write: Gardening and Landscaping by Mail, Mailorder Association of Nurseries, P.O. Box 2129, Columbia, MD 21045. Or call (410) 730-9713.

RECYCLE LAST YEAR'S POTTED PLANTS

Fuchsia, geraniums, begonias and other outdoor bedding or container plants that have been living indoors all winter should be attended to now. Whether growing in a greenhouse, sunny window or under lights, my advice is to propagate new plants from these. No matter how good they look now, the plants that result from the new rooted cuttings will be far healthier and better-looking than the old ones.

HOW TO TAKE CUTTINGS

Take 3 to 4 inches of vigorous terminal and lateral shoots with a sharp knife and dust the cut ends with rooting power. Insert several of these cuttings into sterile rooting media such as vermiculite and peat, and place in a sterilized container with a drainage hole.

Enclose the plant in a plastic bag to simulate a greenhouse effect. Make sure the media is moist, but not wet. Place the little greenhouse in ample light, but out of direct sunlight, and wait for several weeks for the cuttings to root. Once rooted, move to maximum light and coolish temperatures.

Scout The Territory!

Why is a real estate representative so important when selling a home? What can an agent do that homeowners can't do for themselves?

Remember the old TV westerns with the wagon trains heading west? They always had a "scout" who went ahead to find the best route and avoid the dangers of the trail. The scout was usually a rugged individualist who knew the territory and had a reputation for protecting the innocent travelers.

On the surface, selling a home may seem like a simple act while, in fact, it is a complex process. At stake is the owners' valuable equity. Protecting that equity is the role of the real estate professional: one who knows and understands the territory to be covered in a real estate transaction.

Consider the steps to be taken. First comes research - determining an appropriate market value which attracts buyers. This is followed by creation of a strategic marketing plan to locate prospective buyers. Next comes the use of negotiating skills to provide the sellers with the best possible terms of sale and a written contract which is both valid and enforceable.

Key contacts with mortgage lenders, home inspectors, surveyors, and attorneys are another trademark of the active real estate agent. Knowledge of property taxes and zoning/subdivision ordinances helps round out the information needed to insure a smooth transaction closing.

Why do wise sellers insist on being represented? Perhaps it's because they understand the vital "equity protector" role played by the representative. The agent knows the territory leading to the final destination - a successful sale.

Post and beam is nice for design natural insulator, is stronger than steel pound per pound, is naturally resistant to pests and is sound resistant. They said the wood is kiln dried and shrunk so the timbers fit tightly.

The company operates its own sawmill, which officials say allows them to select only small cedar logs with superior strength and stability. Personnel visually inspect every cedar log and every piece of lumber to ensure they meet the criteria for quality and appearance.

Company officials say a lot of the lumber which they reject and sell goes into other homes.

The 50-year-old company is the world's largest manufacturer of custom cedar homes sold throughout the world.

"When you sell your product throughout North American, the economy is always better in some areas than in others, which helps stabilize your company, said Douglas Lindal, president of Lindal Cedar Homes.

"You're better able to buffer the effect on overall sales that a few rough spots have in one or two sectors when there are other potential well-honed markets."

Grajek said people who walk into his office can build the home anywhere they want. He said "people walk in here who have property in Traverse City, in the U.P. or somewhere up north ... (we) can deal with them locally then work with a dealer in their area where they construct," Grajek said.

The homes can be packaged and sent to a location to be built by contractors or they can be built locally by company personnel.

And the homes can cater to everyone's taste with stains from dark mahogany to light colonial gray.

Grajek said the exterior is rugged and endures in all climates, and the stain will last as long as you choose a good quality stain with good ultraviolet protection.

One home owner is happy with her choice of cedar home.

"I do like the open balcony effect and the airiness of the home," Thayer said.

Custom-built homes, especially for those looking for something very specific, could be the wave of the future.

New phase on Ford Road South of M-59

Every parent should take a drug test.

Learn about inhalants, America's newest drug problem.

The kids using inhalants today are getting younger and younger, and the use is approaching epidemic proportions.

If you're going to protect your kids, you'd better know something about this growing problem.

Here's a chance to test yourself. The answers are printed below.

1. How many substances can make you high if inhaled?
   a. 10 - 15
   b. More than 25
   c. More than 100
   d. More than 500
   e. More than 1000

2. By the eighth grade, how many kids have tried at least one inhalant?
   a. One in a hundred
   b. One in fifty
   c. One in 25
   d. One in 5
   e. One in 2

3. By the eighth grade, how many kids can name at least three inhalants that will make you high?
   a. One in twenty
   b. One in ten
   c. One in five
   d. One in three
   e. One in two

4. What is "huffing?"
   a. Sucking on an aerosol can.
   b. Blowing into a bag, then inhaling the fumes.
   c. Inhaling a chemical by panting.
   d. Putting a rag soaked with a chemical up to your mouth and inhaling the fumes.
   e. Pouring a chemical directly into your mouth and breathing the fumes.

5. What percentage of inhalants can be toxic?
   a. 10-15%
   b. 15-20%
   c. 25-50%
   d. 50-75%
   e. All of them.

6. A danger of inhaling chemical substances is:
   a. Brain damage
   b. Liver and kidney damage
   c. Suffocation
   d. Death
   e. All of the above

7. Of the inhalants that will make you "high," how many can cause permanent brain damage?
   a. One or two
   b. A dozen or so
   c. Almost a hundred
   d. Nearly all of them
   e. None of them

8. As in most drugs, risks are related to use and abuse. With inhalants, the difference between use and abuse is approximately:
   a. Once
   b. Three or four times
   c. A half dozen times
   d. A dozen or more times
   e. At least 20 times and probably a little more

9. What is SSD?
   a. Sweet Sniffing Dreams
   b. Sudden Sniffing Desire
   c. Sudden Sniffing Death
   d. Sure Sniffing Damage
   e. Shaky Sniffing Dancing

10. The best approach to prevention with kids is:
    a. Threaten them – e.g. "I'll break your neck if I ever catch you using inhalants."
    b. Talk with them, tell them how you feel about inhalants, and warn them of the dangers.
    c. Ignore the problem. What your kids don't know can't hurt them.
    d. Tell your kids you want them to talk with their guidance counselor in school about inhalants.
    e. Talk with the guidance counselor yourself and get his or her advice.

Answers: 1(e); 2(d); 3(e); 4(d); 5(e); 6(e); 7(d); 8(a); 9(c); 10(b) or (e).

You don't need to score 100% before you talk about this problem with your kids.

You simply have to let them know how you feel about the problem and warn them of the dangers.

Don't be put off if your words don't seem to register. What does register is not so much what you say, but the fact you care enough to be concerned. Kids have a name for this kind of parental involvement. Love.

A good first step is simply to clip this test and put it up on your refrigerator.

Your kids may make jokes about it. But they'll get it.

U.S. Savings Bonds will help them do one thing with their retirement: Enjoy it.

U.S. Savings Bonds are helping millions of Americans save for their retirement — easily and safely.

When you buy U.S. Savings Bonds, you'll know your money will be there when you retire. Your investment is backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

U.S. Savings Bonds are an easy, affordable way to save. Buy them for just a few dollars each payday through your employer's U.S. Savings Bonds Payroll Savings Plan or for as little as $25 each at your bank. What could be easier?

There are other advantages, too. The interest earned is exempt from state and local income taxes, and it can be federally tax-deferred. Bonds earn a guaranteed return, and they're eligible to earn competitive, market-based interest, compounded semiannually, when held five years or more. And you can redeem them anytime after six months from the issue date.

Whatever your plans for retirement, U.S. Savings Bonds can help you enjoy them. For more information, ask your employer or bank, or write: U.S. Savings Bonds Division, Department of the Treasury, Box 933 N, Washington, DC 20226.

Michigan sales on the rise

Michigan retail sales improved in May for the second month in a row. Fifty-two percent of retailers reported increased year-to-year sales for the month, while 14 percent saw no change and 34 percent experienced a decline, according to the Michigan Retail Index, a joint project of the Michigan Retailers Association and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago

May's figures demonstrated further improvement from April when 47 percent reported year-to-year increased, 18 percent saw no change and 35 percent experienced a decline. April improved from March's 43-15-42 figures

"Sales demonstrated some positive momentum in May after showing signs of new life in April," said Larry Meyer, MRA chief executive officer and former director of the Michigan Department of Commerce. "We're cautiously optimistic that this late spring momentum will produce positive results for the second half of the year."

Sixty-nine percent of retailers in the monthly survey said they expect to increase sales during June, July and August That figure was up from 65 percent in April

Class of '80 average cost: about $10,800 for four years of college

Class of '95 average cost: about $26,000

Class of '10 projected cost: about $60,000

Reality is expensive.

Prepare yourself for college with U.S. Savings Bonds.

Remember all those college costs when you were a student? Sure, tuition was expensive. But the bill for room and board was often higher than tuition. Plus there were books, a bike, typewriter...all those things college students needed to survive on campus.

Now, a mere fifteen years later, parents shell out over twice what it was in the early 80s. Those $300 typewriters have been replaced by $1,900 computers. So what's it going to cost when your children are ready? And what will replace the computer — a virtual reality college simulator? How much will that be?

Start saving now for those future college costs with U.S. Savings Bonds. They're guaranteed safe, and earn Treasury-based rates. You can get them through most banks or through employers offering the Payroll Savings Plan. Plus families and individuals who use Savings Bonds for college tuition may qualify for a special tax exclusion.*

For your copy of the Savings Bond Investor Information pamphlet, write U.S. Savings Bonds, Washington, DC 20226.

*Maximum income and other limitations apply; read IRS Publication 550 and Form 8815 for details.

Don't know where to start? Here are the basic steps of wood fence installation:

STEP 1:
Use string to plot the location of the fence line. Calculate space between posts and stake out location of fence posts.

STEP 2:
Dig postholes and set posts. Use a level to make sure the posts are set perfectly vertical.

STEP 3:
Attach fence panel sections to posts. Use a level to be sure the fence sections are horizontal.

STEP 4:
Install gates and any accessories. Protect wood with paint, stain, or sealer of your choice.

We have everything to get your deck project squared away!

White Rabbit Toys

Ann Arbor Traver Village

Summer Sale!

Our biggest sale of the year

Wednesday, July 10th

through Sunday, July 14th

Reductions on hundreds & hundreds of toys!

SuperStar Birthday Club

It's the hottest thing at White Rabbit Toys! We are having so much fun watching kids fill their Birthday Bins. Friends and relatives are having a great time choosing what they want to buy, right from the bin. What an easy way to shop! Have your child stop by about two weeks before the big event and fill 'er up!

Cures for the Travellin' Blues

As veterans of many vacations with our kids, we take backseat survival VERY seriously. From the Car Seat Gallery for the tiniest travellers to Toddler Totes, feltboards, and Duplos for the young squirmy set, we have some truly toteable & time-consuming toys.

The more mature backseat traveller will appreciate a selection of Klutz books including Draw A Super Hero, String Games and the quintessential Travel Book. Don't forget tapes -- lots of tapes!

Everyday, Ordinary, Anybody Olympics!

Everyone is a world champion at something... it's just a matter of finding out what. White Rabbit Toys proudly presents a day chock-full of immature activities.

You'll rule the sidewalks after learning such critical life skills as Fake Sneezing, Shoelace Tying, Spoon Barging and much more. ATTENTION MOMS! Don't miss the special Barbie hurling event, just for you! (BYOB -- Bring your own Barbie.)

Novi: Saturday, July 20th, 11:00 am to 2 pm
Ann Arbor: Saturday, July 27th, 11:00 am to 2 pm

Camp Care Packages

Kids can't wait to get mail at camp, and packages rule! Here are a few suggestions from our daughter Jordan, veteran of many happy summers at camp:

- A big squishy stuffed animal to hug
- Glow in the dark stars, for near your bunk
- Beads for bracelet and necklace making
- Stationery
- Sanrio pens, markers, anything
- Klutz games for rest hours
- Mad-libs for bus trips

Whether you send one package or one a week, we'll be happy to wrap and mail them for you. What an easy way to surprise your camper!
