

Absent voters: Candidates' voting records examined

Grant, Gans show poor poll attendance

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

They want to be one of the seven votes that run your local government but some candidates for Northville Township's board of trustees haven't voted in many elections.

The Northville Record recently reviewed the voting histories of the dozen people vying for spots on the board this year. While most have made it to the polls most of the time, there are some notable exceptions.

Just 19 days from now (Aug. 6) voters in Northville Township will choose the Republican nominees for the seven board seats from a field of 11 aspirants. Most if not all of the winners will likely go on to victory in the Nov. 5 general election since only one Democratic candidate is in the race.

Six Republicans are squaring off for the three board officer seats: Bob Grant and Karen Woodside for supervisor, Sue Hillebrand and Chris Schultz for clerk and Gini Britton and Dick Henningsen for treasurer. The highest vote-getter in each race goes on to November. Another sextet are competing for the four trustee slots on the board: Mark Abbo, Karen Baja, Russ Fogg, Marv Gans, Bill Sellinsky and Shirley Klokenga. Klokenga, the lone Democrat, is unopposed in the primary. She will face off with the four highest GOP vote-getters in the fall.

Historically voter turnout has been low in Northville Township. Elections often see less a third of eligible voters actually bother to go to the polls. The primary vote held two years ago, in August 1994, is one example, posting a turnout of just 32 percent. By contrast, the highest turnout in recent township history was the 1991 general election with 55.2 percent.

Against that backdrop, it's fair to say that every candidate in the race has a better track record than the average voter, according to information found in the files of the clerk's office at township Hall.

The Record analyzed election balloting from the present to November 1984, which is as far back as the township's computerized records go. They indicate that 20 elections have taken place since that date. That figure does not include school district elections, which the township does not administer.

Of the 12 hopefuls, half have been eligible to vote in all 20 elections; some, in fact, became registered township voters many years before 1984. The remaining six candidates all moved to Northville Township after 1984, meaning that they've been eligible to vote in

24-HOUR SWIMATHON NETS FUNDS FOR KIDS

Nine-year-old Lauren Walsh, above, of Northville was among more than 50 swimmers taking part in the Meadowbrook Country Club Swim Marathon 1996. The kids raised more than $8,000 for a local charity, Spaulding for Children, which provides troubled children with family support.

Some Northville and Novi kids have probably had their fill of swimming for the summer.

More than 50 kids, ranging in ages from 6 to 17 years old, spent 24 hours in the pool at Meadowbrook Country Club, raising money for a local charity during the MCC Swim Marathon 1996.

The group, which included swimmers from Plymouth and Farmington, raised more than $8,000 for Spaulding for Children. The organization helps troubled children to foster positive relationships with their families, and also places children with no families with adoptive parents.

The kids swam approximately 6,000 laps during the event, which ran July 12-13 from 9 to 9 a.m. Each swimmer solicited pledges and had to swim at least 100 laps during the 24-hour period, according to Kay Snyder, who helped coordinate the annual event.

Most of the pledges came from Meadowbrook Country Club members, she added.

"The kids really look forward to this event each year, and I have to give all of them credit for producing the event almost entirely on their own," Snyder said. "They should receive the credit because they put it all together."

The group has been invited to Spaulding's annual awards dinner, which will take place in September, where they will be recognized for their hard work. Hollywood actor Jeff Daniel is slated to be the master of ceremonies at the event.

District officials say no to 'Choice'

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

A sign on the school administration building might read: "No vacancy."

The Northville Public School District will not be opening its doors to students living outside district boundaries this fall.

The school district has decided not to participate in the state's schools of choice program, and the board of education recently passed a resolution to that effect, forwarding the message to the state Department of Education.

Meanwhile the education department extended the deadline to school districts considering taking part in the program. The original July 1 deadline was extended to Aug. 1 and, according to state school officials, by that date each school district must determine whether or not it will operate a schools of choice program in the 1996-97 school year.

According to state Superintendent of Public Instruction Arthur Ellis, districts offering a choice program must publish all the details including the buildings, grade levels, and specialized programs for which applications will be accepted, along with the number of student positions available.

"Although the July deadline dates have been extended until Aug. 1, districts are urged to comply with the requirements at the earliest date possible," Ellis said in a letter to school districts. "Parents should be given as much time as possible prior to the beginning of the school year to make their education choices."

"Even those districts that postpone publishing the details of their schools of choice programs until Aug. 1 should plan on notifying parents of student selections by Aug. 15," Ellis added.

The new program language, which was included in the school aid bill signed by Gov. Engler last month, allows school districts to enroll pupils from outside district boundaries and include those

City OK's lease deal; phone tower possible

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville residents may notice a change to the city's skyline within the next year.

A 100-foot wireless telephone tower, located at the city's Public Works yard, is expected to be erected by this time next year, according to Department of Public Works Director Jim Gallogly.

The city council approved a site lease agreement, with AT&T Wireless of Southfield, for a small parcel of land at the city yard. The land, which is located directly behind the Public Works office, is to be used to construct the tower to transmit wireless telephone signals for AT&T, Gallogly explained.

The Yards location was selected because it had previously been home to the City/Township dump.

According to Gallogly the city will receive a $1,600 payment for a 12-month option period, giving

AT&T time to secure site approval and necessary permits. If an additional six months are necessary to accomplish site approval, Northville will receive an additional $800 per month.

"Because of the height of the proposed tower, and set back requirements established in the city's zoning ordinance, AT&T will have to seek a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals," Gallogly said.

If the tower is constructed, AT&T has offered an $800 per month lease payment for the first five years, a $1,000 per month lease payment for the second five years, a $1,200 per month payment for the third increment, and $1,400 for the final five year increment.

The revenue is expected to be placed in the city's Building and Grounds account in the Equipment Fund.

ADA specs may force city hall renovation

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

City taxpayers can pay a little bit now, or possibly pay quite a bit later.

That's the reality facing city officials and a citizens committee, who are attempting to form some sort of consensus regarding $1.4 million in proposed renovations to city hall.

To compound the problem the city has missed the federal deadline that requires the city hall facility to be brought up to the specifications set by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). That could bring about a costly lawsuit and place the city, and consequently its taxpayers, in a pretty unhappy financial position, according to Assistant City Manager Nickle Bateson.

"Not complying at this point,

"I believe we are all convinced the city hall has serious problems that need fixing."

Phil Smith
City Hall Renovation Committee member would be considered a civil rights violation," Bateson said. "If somebody were to come into our building and find it unacceptable by ADA standards, they would have the means to seek damages or enter into some type of litigation that would force city compliance."

The deadline for ADA compliance was Jan. 26, 1995, and the requirement to bring the building to ADA specifications forced officials to place the renovation project as a high priority item this year. City officials also asked 10 community residents to serve on a committee to study renovation issues, including the ADA requirements.

The committee has met five times since its inception and still has quite a bit of work to do before it sends any type of recommendation to the City Council, according to Bateson.

"They're making progress in terms of coming to a consensus as to the criteria for making possible recommendations, but I don't think we're close yet," she explained.

Some committee members, however, think the renovation project is necessary. Member Phil Smith said, in a communication to committee members that city hall renovations are long overdue.

"I believe we are all convinced the city hall has serious problems that need fixing, and a lawsuit or adverse publicity could cost us many times the price of renovation," he said. "Any business or community has to constantly reinvest in itself to move ahead, because the only other choice is to fall behind."

Northville resident and committee member Sue Hooper disagreed, stating that some renovations may be necessary but that city hall is

Mobil robbery suspect found guilty

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Northville man accused of robbing the Mobil gas station at Seven Mile and Haggerty roads three months ago has been convicted of the crime.

Kenneth Michael Winters, 32, is expected to do time behind bars for his theft of $363 from the station's cash register on April 25. Just how much time will depend on whether he's found guilty of similar crimes in Farmington which occurred before the Mobil heist.

According to township police

Winters came into the station and asked to borrow 50 cents. When the cashier opened the register, Winters leaned over the counter and snatched a stack of bills inside the cash drawer and then high-tailed it out of the door.

That didn't sit too well with the cashier, however, who chased Winters. According to police the cashier, 19, caught up to Winters at the latter's car, a 1993 Ford Escort, and bear hugged him in an attempt to prevent him from getting in and driving away.

The teen hung on even though Winters managed to get into the car and begin driving away, letting go only after being dragged for 20 feet. The Escort then sped away eastbound on Seven Mile.

An hour and a half later Winters was in custody, arrested by Michigan State Police in Garden City who spotted him after the teen provided police with a description of the suspect and the car.

Winters was originally charged with armed robbery but was convicted on June 17 of larceny from a person over $100, a felony offense. He will be sentenced in Wayne County Circuit Court on Aug. 12.

Affecting the sentence will be whether Winters is convicted of a purse snatching and store robbery in Farmington, an incident for which township police had no information.

Mroz, Schrot set for Aug. 6 ballot

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Hey, Northville Township: betcha don't know that when you go to the polls on Aug. 6 you'll be picking your Republican candidates for constable.

Constable? Yep, constable. Constables, actually, because Northville Township elects a pair of them every four years. Ed Mroz and Jim Schrot, the incumbents running for reelection, are the modern-day keepers of a tradition that began in England in medieval times.

Back in Britain's Dark Ages "constable" was the specific title of a high military officer in service to the crown. Over the centuries constables became the common folks' policeman, keeping the peace and enforcing the law.

The tradition carried over to the New World with the Pilgrims: constables are, in fact, the oldest law enforcement agents in America. For centuries, rural areas that couldn't afford a full-fledged police or sheriff's department employed them to protect the public.

That's exactly what Northville Township did for most of its century of existence. When the township formed its own police department in 1969-70, however, the constables were no longer used for regular law enforcement duties. Instead they now tackle a variety of tasks from poaching patrol to election security.

Between them Mroz and Schrot have 32 years' experience in the job. They are running unopposed in next month's Republican primary for the township's two constable positions. If they win on Aug. 6 the two will be on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

As elected officials they are not in the chain of command of the township's Department of Public Safety, although Mroz serves as a reserve officer with the police department and Schrot retired from the reserve force two years ago after a 22-year hitch.

Both constables carry firearms and have several duties. They keep an eye peeled for illegal animal poachers and transport official polling results from Northville to Wayne County officials each election. Mroz and Schrot also provide assistance to area MDEQ (Michigan Department of Environmental Quality), the new name for the Department of Natural Resources) representatives and perform liquor control inspections.

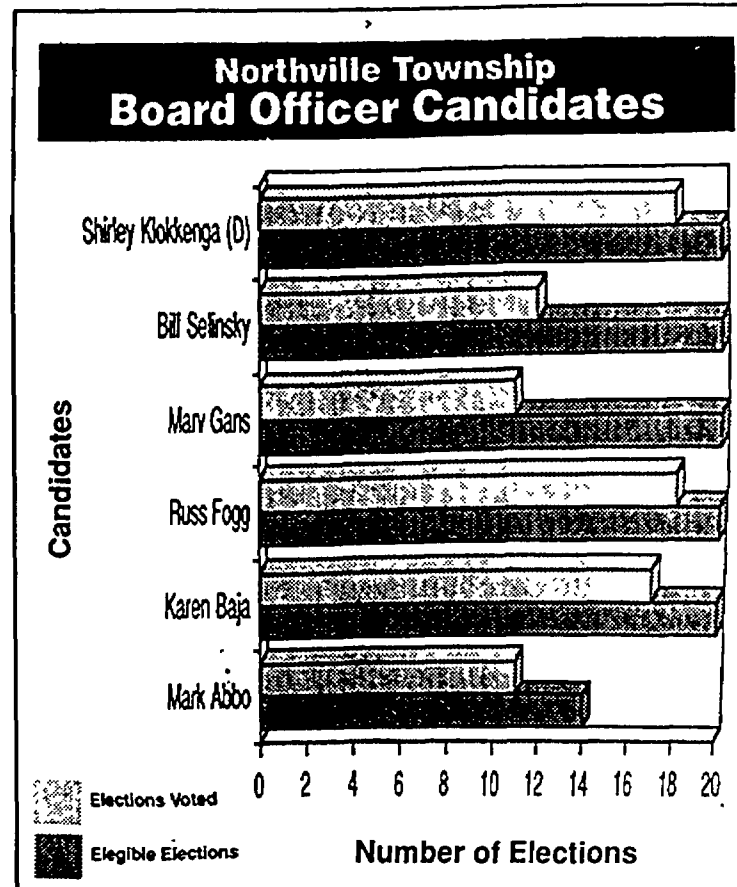

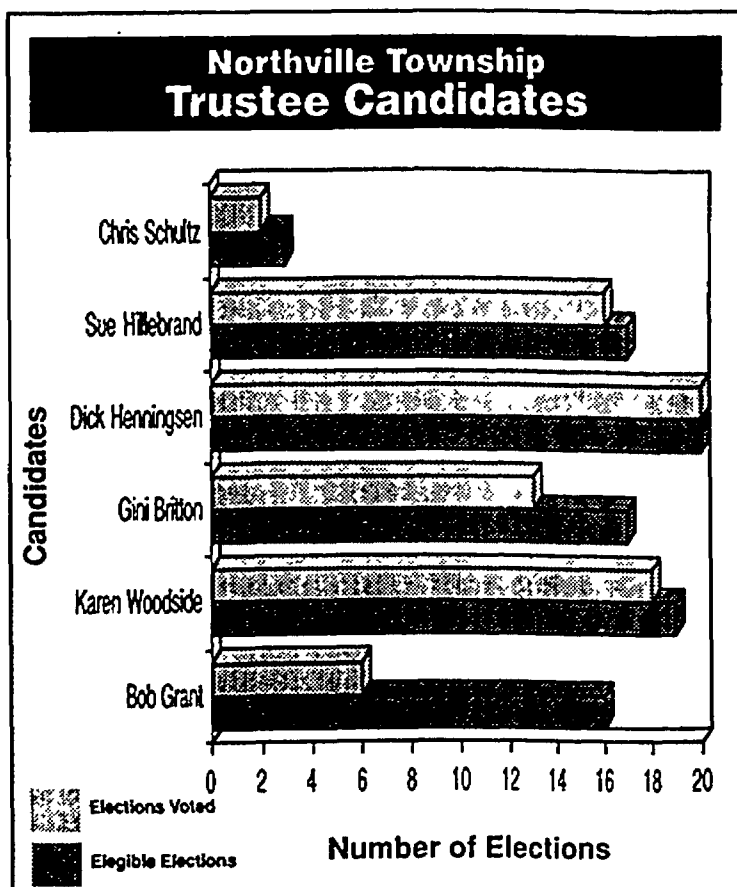

A constable since 1988, Mroz, 56, works as a shipping coordinator for an auto industry supplier.

"It's a 24-hour-a-day job. We try to assist people where we can," he explained.

Schrot, 63, is retired and served as constable since 1972. One of the people who helped create Northville Township's police department, Schrot got into the job after helping the constable before him work the Detroit riots in 1968-69. "It's been interesting, that's for sure," he chuckled.

Northville Township budgets $600 a year for both Mroz and Schrot, the money primarily going to cover the expenses of yearly winter and summer training seminars.

Both men belong to the Michigan Constables and Court Officers Association.

Candidates voting record sometimes poor

only some of the 20.

To determine a turnout figure for each candidate The Record compared the number of elections in which he or she has been eligible to vote since November 1984 to the number in which he or she actually did vote.

Leading the pack with a perfect score of 100 percent is Henningsen, who registered to vote in 1972 and cast ballots in all 20 elections held since 1984. At the bottom of the list is Grant with a turnout figure of 35.3 percent.

Registering in 1987, he has voted in just six of the 17 elections held since then. The candidate for supervisor declined to comment on that fact this week.

"It is what it is," Grant said.

Also on the low end was Gans, who registered to vote in 1968 and went to the polls in 11 of the 20 elections.

"I thought I did more than that but I don't keep records on every last thing like this," he said.

Fellow trustee candidate Selinsky fields a turnout figure of 60 percent, voting in 12 of the 20 elections. He registered to vote in the township in 1978 and chalked up some of his missed ballots to a busy business travel schedule.

Schultz, running for clerk, has been registered in the township for only the last three elections held and has voted in two of them, a turnout figure of 66.7 percent. He said he moved to Northville Township in 1993, a resident of Northville City for the five years before that.

Turnout percentages for remaining candidates are listed below:

- Abbo, 78.6 percent. Registered in 1989, voted in 11 of 14 elections since then.

- Baja, 85 percent. Registered in 1978, voted in 17 of 20 elections.

- Britton, 76.5 percent. Registered in 1987, voted in 13 of 17 elections.

- Fogg, 90 percent. Registered in 1972, voted in 18 of 20 elections.

- Hillebrand, 94.1 percent. Registered in 1987, voted in 16 of 17 elections.

- Klokenga, 90 percent. Registered to vote in 1978, voted in 18 of 20 elections.

- Woodside, 94.7 percent. Registered to vote in 1985, voted in 18 of 19 elections.

Absentee ballot deadline set for Aug. 3

If you want to vote on Aug. 6 but can't make it to the polls, plan on getting an absentee ballot so you can take part in the democratic process.

Tuesday, Aug. 6, is the day when voters across Michigan will cast ballots for Democratic and Republican nominees for political offices at the local, county and state level and for the U.S. Congress. The winners in each party will go on to face each other in the general election Nov. 5.

The polls will be open on Aug. 6 from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. If you can't make it, however, you can still vote via absentee ballot. There are several ways to do it:

- You can phone in a request for an absentee ballot to be mailed to you and then mail it back in or drop it off at either Township or City Hall.

Township Hall's phone number is 348-5800; City Hall's number is 349-1300.

- You can pick up a ballot in person from either Township or City Hall, fill it out on the spot and return it immediately, a process which can take up to a half hour.

Township Hall is on Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty roads. City Hall is on Main St.

- If you want to receive and return your ballot by mail, remember that you'll first be sent a short application form that must be filled out and return before a ballot is sent to you.

The deadline for requesting an application form is Aug. 3.

Election officials suggest you make your request as soon as possible, however, because there's a chance that applications mailed on Aug. 3 won't reach you in time.

- The township and city clerks' offices will be open on Saturday, Aug. 3, for absentee ballots. You can put in your request for a mailed ballot then or you can just fill one out on the spot.

The township office will be open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., the city office from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

- You can return your absentee ballot to Township or City Hall at any time before the polls close at 8 p.m. on Aug. 6.

McCotter, Schroder locked in heated primary race

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Whoever said primary campaigns are supposed to be benign affairs didn't tell that to Thaddeus McCotter and Jeff Schroder.

Incumbent McCotter and challenger Schroder are vying for the Republican nomination in the county's 10th District.

The district includes Northville Township and Wayne County Northville, in addition to several neighboring communities.

McCotter, a Livonia resident seeking a third term on the commission, and Schroder, a Northville Township college student with a serious interest in politics, are going toe-to-toe in their race for votes.

The two met for a joint interview at the Suburban Communications Corp. headquarters July 8, and the session turned confrontational when Schroder denied that his anti-affirmative action emphasis stems from racial prejudice.

"Commissioner McCotter doesn't come out and say these things - he's having his political cronies out in western Wayne County do it," Schroder snapped. "This is just an ad hominem attack to go after my credibility."

Schroder is a vocal critic of affirmative action and recently caused waves by attempting to overturn the minority grant program at Albion College, where is an economics and management major.

He charged McCotter with supporting affirmative action and no-bid contracts on the county commission.

"We should have a color blind government and a color blind society. It's that simple," he said.

McCotter agreed, insisting that he, in fact, is a truer affirmative action foe than his opponent.

"Are you soft on affirmative action in that you only oppose racial quotas, as opposed to racial and gender quotas, which I oppose?" he asked Schroder.

Schroder also accused McCotter of flirting with the Detroit faction on the commission by voting for Detroit Ricardo Solomon for commission chair.

McCotter responded sharply, calling the statement "a lie so big I can't put my arms around it because I'll suffocate."

McCotter admitted that some county projects include affirmative action components, but said the acceptance of federal dollars carries an affirmative action requirement.

Schroder is currently a senior at Albion College and a general partner in E.W.S. Golf Associates, a West Bloomfield golf club equipment firm his late grandfather owned.

He said he plans to graduate at the end of the fall semester this year, and would be free to serve as a Wayne County commissioner at the start of the next term.

Commission seats are considered part-time, though some commissioners put in enough office hours to constitute a full-time work week.

McCotter is a member of the state bar and earned a law degree from the University of Detroit. He was appointed to the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees in 1989, and was first elected to the Wayne County Commission in 1992.

Schroder is connected with state Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, and worked on her successful election campaign of 1994.

He is also involved in an effort to bring a ballot initiative before area voters to enable suburban Wayne County communities to branch off and form their own government.

"We disagree with the very foundation of Wayne County government," he said. "If you look at the county charter, it has affirmative action in it, it has racial gerrymandering. We also have a county government that enables no-bid contracts. We have the highest tax rates in the state of Michigan."

McCotter said breaking from Wayne County is a concept he has already explored.

"I've talked to leaders in western Wayne County about doing it. It's not a new issue," he claimed. "The biggest concern is what happens when we do it. For two years our tax rate will not change, according to the state constitution. And then what would happen to a lot of things such as road funds that are based on population?"

McCotter added that Schroder's secession movement is poorly organized, pointing out that there is no organization of record working to promote the cause.

Wayne County Commissioners make approximately $46,000 a year, a figure Schroder said should "probably be cut in half."

He also criticized the lifetime benefits program offered to commissioners.

McCotter said he declines benefits from the county and has introduced an ordinance to uncouple commission salaries from those of state lawmakers.

McCotter dismissed Schroder's campaign, saying the student entertains no real hope of winning and is really only trying to set up a 1998 bid for the Michigan Senate by Whyman.

The winner of the Aug. 6 primary will face Karl Burnett, who is running unopposed for the Democratic nomination in the 10th District.

Burnett is a General Motors employee and a UAW official who ran unsuccessfully against McCotter in 1994.

County commission terms run for two years.

There are 15 commission members, 12 Democrats and three Republicans

Republicans host candidates forum

The Northville Community Republicans invite the public to attend a GOP primary candidates' forum which will be held this Tuesday evening.

The forum will take place on July 23 in Genetti's Little Theater, located on Main Street, beginning at 7 p.m. Participating will be the eleven Republican candidates running for the seven seats on Northville Township's board of trustees. Also taking part will be GOP hopefuls in the 20th District for the Michigan State House, and the 10th District for Wayne County Commission.

Two Republicans apiece are running for the three board officer positions: supervisor, clerk and treasurer. Five GOP candidates are competing for the four trustee seats. The top vote-getters in the Aug. 6 primary will go on to the Nov. 5 general election.

The forum calls for each candidate to be granted a three-minute opening statement, then answer three to five questions, then give a three-minute closing statement. In a related note at its June 26 meeting the Northville Community Republicans organization voted to endorse the following:

- Bob Dole for President.
- Ronna Romney for U.S. Senate.
- Joe Knollenberg for the U.S. House 11th District.
- Joe Fitzsimmons for the U.S. House 13th District.
- Gerald Law for the Michigan House 20th District.
- Chris Bachelder for the Michigan House 38th District.
- Thaddeus McCotter for the Wayne County Commission 10th District.
- Mark Abbo for Northville Township trustee.
- Russ Fogg for Northville Township trustee.
- Gini Britton for Northville Township treasurer.
- Sue Hillebrand for Northville Township clerk.
- Robert Grant for Northville Township supervisor.

Board officers responsibilities vary

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

An informed vote is an intelligent vote. Therefore, here's a thumbnail sketch of Northville Township's governmental system for you folks out there who may not follow too local politics too closely.

The Charter Township of Northville is governed by a seven-member board of trustees whose members are elected every four years.

The board includes four trustee seats and three "officer" positions: supervisor, clerk and treasurer. Officers are voting members of the board but have specific additional administrative duties as well as defined by state law.

In other words, the board is the legislative body which sets basic policy and paints the "big picture" of what kind of community Northville Township is going to be. The township's administration, which include the three officers, implement that vision on a day to day basis.

The supervisor, for example is one of the township's agents for transacting legal business, which means the supervisor is one of the few officials who gets to sign checks and contracts and is usually the one named in any legal actions filed against the township.

State law calls for the supervisor to exercise other specific functions, such as chair all board meetings and seeing that proper parliamentary procedure is followed.

The supervisor also serves as the township's chief tax assessing officer and (with board approval) makes appointments to various bodies such as the planning commission. Beginning this November the supervisor will be paid $17,000 a year.

Like the supervisor, the township clerk is a jack of many trades,

State law charges him or her with properly maintaining the mountain of official municipal records that the township generates.

The clerk, along with the treasurer, are the two people primarily responsible for monitoring any and all payouts of tax dollars, including the signing of checks.

He or she is also charged with producing and maintaining the official minutes of all board meetings and the clerk administers each municipal election.

Beginning this November the clerk will be paid $15,000 a year.

"Guardian of the public's purse" is one way to describe the treasurer. He or she serves as the township's chief tax collector and keeps a close eye on the disbursement of any public monies.

Beyond that, however, it is the treasurer who monitors surplus "rainy day" funds which the township invests in banks or mutual funds and tracks how money that's actually in the budget is being spent.

Preparing the budget each fiscal year is another key function of the treasurer's position. Beginning this November the treasurer will be paid $12,000 a year.

The four trustee members of the board have an equal voice and vote in any discussion and/or vote the board may take. Beyond that, however, state law does not specify many job duties.

Generally speaking, though, the trustees are expected diligently seek to promote the township's best interests and be good stewards of the public's tax dollars. They should attend all board meetings and be prepared to investigate and study issues before making a decision.

Trustees can be assigned additional job duties by the board via a formal vote. Beginning this November each trustee will be paid $4,000 a year.

Cable firm to connect schools to high-speed 'Net

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville students may find that accessing the Internet on a school computer may be easier and a lot quicker in the future.

Northville Public Schools could enjoy Internet access via high speed modems under an effort by Continental Cablevision that will place new cable industry technology right at students' fingertips.

According to Continental Director of Corporate Affairs Bill Black, Northville is one of many communities nationwide that will enjoy the new technology free of charge.

The cable company recently unveiled its Cable High Speed Education Connection and, according to Black, the program represents Continental's commitment to provide elementary and secondary schools with high-speed Internet access via cable modems.

"Our goal through new generation technology is to empower people to do the things they never thought they could do," Black said. "The technology will help students and teachers explore a whole new world of information, including faster access to new products and services."

Beginning this year Continental will join other cable companies in introducing high-speed data services using cable modems to communities. Black said as the new services are introduced into communities like Northville, Continental will ensure that every consenting elementary and secondary school "passed by cable" will be equipped with a cable modem providing high speed Internet access.

Black said Continental originally announced its pledge to deliver the Internet access to schools in April. "We have consistently provided support to the schools since 1989, when we made the commitment to education with our Cable in the Classroom program, and we are proud of this latest initiative," Black said.

Northville schools can expect to be hooked up to the Internet via cable by the beginning of the 1997-98 school year.

Police News

Man blocks son's attempt to come home

Faced with the possibility of being charged with kidnapping, a man living in another country broke his promise last week to let his son, a Northville Township resident, return home.

The 7-year-old boy and his mother live here. The man and the woman are divorcing. Last month the mother agreed to allow the boy to visit his father in the man's country for a week.

The boy was gone for three days before the man told the woman in a telephone conversation that he would not return their son to her. She contacted township police, who spoke with the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

The township investigator then contacted the man by telephone, informing him of the potential for parental kidnap charges.

According to that officer the man agreed to return the child, a move scheduled to happen this week.

A BUSY WEEK: Meijer played host to a shoplifter's convention last week. If township police reports are to be believed, officers were called to the store on no less than six occasions to check out complaints of petty larceny.

All of the suspects in the following cases were booked at the scene and released on bond pending a court hearing soon.

Sunday morning saw the arrest of a 17-year-old boy in town from Utah. Meijer store detectives told police the boy took an electric razor out of its package and stuffed it down his shorts. The teen then took a beach towel from the shelf, threw it over his shoulder and headed for the exit. The items are valued at $70.

A Detroit teen, aged 18, allegedly stole a $20 ankle brace during the afternoon of Thursday, July 11.

Yet another teen, this one 19 years old, was arrested the evening before for allegedly making off with a carton of cigarettes and two music cassette tapes.

The elastic in a Redford Township teenager's shorts must have been stretched to the breaking point that same evening (July 10). Township police arrested the boy, 17, with two cartons of cigarettes, a compact disc and cassette tape stuffed into his shorts.

The boy also allegedly had three more cassette tapes in his pockets as well.

The handbag belonging to a 22-year-old Detroit woman was allegedly found to be stuffed with Meijer merchandise when store detectives stopped her outside of their doors on the afternoon of Monday, July 8.

In the bag, according to police, were an electric clipper, a pair of sandals, some soap, mouse, hair spray, shorts and a shirt collectively worth $89. The woman allegedly admitted the crime to the investigating officers.

PLATE RIPPED OFF: A final theft at Meijer occurred on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 10. A Northville City woman, 67, told township police that someone took the license plate off of her 1993 Chrysler LeBaron.

The plate was taken as she shopped in the store, sometime between 2-3:30 p.m. The theft was entered into the area law enforcement computer network.

PHONE, TEENS GONE: A Northville Place Drive man's cellular telephone was stolen Friday afternoon as he went for a dip.

The man, 28, told township police that he put his phone on a table at his apartment clubhouse while he went for a swim in the pool. When he returned it was gone and so were three teenagers who had been there minutes before.

The phone is valued at $171.

MOFFUP UP: Township police are trying to mop up an alleged shoplifter who's suspected of taking $1,100 worth of merchandise from Home Depot.

Employees at the store said they found the items in a mop bucket package worth $40 that the man had sold for and was carrying out police he was suspicious and thought the man had emptied the package's real items out, then shoved the merchandise into it.

The employee admitted that he did not see the man, an 18-year-old Wayne resident, actually do that, so he was released pending an investigation. The issuance of a criminal warrant is possible.

BIKE DAMAGED: Township police checked out an unusual case of a broken bike on Saturday.

A man, 43, told the reporting officers that a second man, 28, had picked up his son's bike and rode it around, then threw it at him when him to stop.

When questioned, the second man grew nervous, according to police, and asked to be arrested.

A relative told officers that the man suffers from mental problems and that he was recently delayed in taking medication that helps his condition.

The relative agreed to pay the repair bill for the bike's damaged rear rim, estimated at $75. No charges will be filed.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents you can call Northville City Police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-

Main St. repairs near completion

Work to finish within 2 weeks

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

The bricks that were so proudly placed in the crosswalks at Main and Center streets in 1978 are being removed.

Downtown travelers needn't worry, however, the removal is only temporary.

The City of Northville began making needed repairs to sidewalks and crosswalks along the downtown thoroughfare this summer, causing a slight impact on pedestrian and automobile traffic, city officials reported this week.

According to Public Works Director Jim Gallogly, La Rocca Inc. of Livonia began work on the $53,000 project last week to remove and replace segments of curb and sidewalk in the downtown area.

The project is slated to take place on Main Street between Center and Hutton streets, Gallogly said.

"This project is necessary to eliminate irregularities in the pavement and minimize city liability with regards to slip-and-fall accidents," Gallogly explained.

The Northville City Council recently awarded the contract to La Rocca, which submitted the sole bid on the project.

The firm's bid came in well under the $60,000 budget established by the city's Downtown Development Authority, which is funding the improvement project.

According to Gallogly, the project was scheduled to be completed within 45 working days, but because construction workers were able to accomplish a majority of the repairs the entire project could be complete within the next 10 days.

"They've been able to accomplish quite a bit of work in a small period of time, and if the weather holds they should be finished a lot sooner than anticipated," he said.

He said there will still be an impact to traffic on Main Street as replacement of the brick crosswalks on a new concrete base will require half the street to be closed at one time.

Traffic will be detoured accordingly with one-way traffic always maintained, he said.

Gallogly also explained that the project should not adversely effect any of the special downtown events, such as the Friday evening concerts through the next two weeks.

"As a matter of fact I believe the crews will be done with the work well before the sidewalk sale in two weeks," Gallogly said.

Work began last week on the $53,000 project to remove and replace segments of curb and sidewalks in the downtown area. According to Public Works Director Jim Gallogly the entire project, which was slated to take 45 days, could be complete sometime within the next few weeks.

Sidewalk sale draws near

Downtown Northville will be transformed into one big garage sale this summer and individual residents can get a piece of the action.

The Northville Central Business Association is expanding its annual sidewalk sale this year to include individual sellers in addition to merchants.

"People can rent a sidewalk space and sell anything they would sell at a garage sale," said event chairperson Lorie Wyant of Salutations. "We're calling it a 'Bargain Bazaar,' and everyone's welcome to join in."

According to Wyant, Northville merchants will mark down their merchandise and display it on the sidewalk as in past sidewalk sales. But this year anyone who wants can set up a table and take advantage of all the downtown traffic.

The sale area will include Main Street between Hutton and Wing, and Center between Dunlap and Cady.

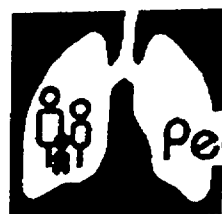

The event is scheduled for 8 a.m.-6 p.m. July 27. Spaces approximately 8-feet-by-10 feet will cost $15. Call Wyant at 349-3537 for information.

Summer activities continue at Mill Race Village as plans for Historical Society fall programs are formed. Two major events occur in the Mill Race calendar year during the month of September.

The Northville Historical Society major fund raiser, Tivoli Fair, occurs on the final weekend in September. The Juried Arts and Crafts show attracts artisans from throughout the Midwest. This year over 100 crafts persons will display their creative works on Friday, Sept. 27 from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. and on Saturday, Sept. 28 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. A $3 admission at the Northville Downs facility allows access to all exhibits. Food is also available for sale. Due to fire restrictions baby strollers are prohibited.

Northville Historical Society members operate Tivoli Fair to raise funds needed for the maintenance and continuance of Mill Race Village. For the past 26 years this one event has been a major source of revenue to keep the village operating and improving. All those who put this fair together work as volunteers to provide the community with the opportunity to enjoy its own history through Mill Race Village. Don't miss this important event in the community year.

Tivoli Fair began before the Historical Society even had a home for its proposed Historic Village. The first fair held in 1971, took place at First Presbyterian Church. A handmade quilt was raffled to raise funds.

Active Historical Society member, at that time, Marion Crump selected the name for the craft show as the result of a trip to Denmark. While in Denmark she visited that renowned Tivoli Fair, known as a gathering place for artisans. On her return to Northville she suggested the name for the organization's first fair. The name stuck.

In later years promotion pointed out that Tivoli spelled backward says I Love It. For a number of years that theme carried on throughout the fair.

After the first few fairs were held at the Presbyterian Church, a larger site was sought. One year the fair was held at Northville High School and another at the Northville Square Shopping Mall.

Before it was 10, the fair had moved to Northville Downs where it has remained. Two years ago the organization added booths on the second floor of the facility. Because of changes in the usage of the building this year the fair again will occupy only the bottom floor.

Use of the Downs facility has allowed the Historical Society to restore, renovate and continue to maintain all of the buildings at Mill Race. It has also helped to develop an endowed fund for the organization which is planned to assist in the continued maintenance of the site if and when the organization itself cannot do so.

Mill Race Village serves as a lasting legacy to the ancestors of early Northville and to the workers who help it live today. Make a visit to the village a summer priority.

City officials study renovation

not "ready for the wrecking ball either."

"Property taxes and water bills are both high and I don't understand how the citizens of Northville are going to feel that $1.4 million spent on city hall is going to benefit them personally," she said. "Especially when there are so many areas the money could be spent on to improve our city as a whole."

City administrators estimate the cost of the renovation will be in the neighborhood of $1.4 million, and is expected to be financed utilizing community development block grant funds, a public improvement fund allocation, and the issuance of building authority bonds. The cost to city taxpayers would depend on the taxable value of the resident's property, Bateson explained.

According to city figures the project would be financed over a 10-year period and would have a general fund budget impact of $113,503 per year. For a person owning a home with a taxable value of $100,000 the impact would be 0.54 mills or $54 per year. That translates to about .14 cents per day, Bateson said.

A conceptual analysis has been provided to the committee by city consultant Allen Architects Inc. According to Robert Allen, the proposed renovation project will involve three components - upper level renovation, lower level renovation, and a fire station addition. The project would be phased in over a 6-8 month period, Allen explained.

The plan, city officials reported, will accomplish several things:

- It will meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

- It will improve the building's heating, ventilation and air conditioning operating system, and significantly improve energy efficiency within city hall.

- It will improve customer service by making the building user friendly.

- It will increase public meeting space. According to City Manager Gary Word, there is a significant demand for meeting rooms at city hall and the senior building where scheduling conflicts are a problem.

A preliminary conceptual drawing furnished by Allen shows the city council chambers and three meeting rooms taking over the space currently housing the district library. The current council chambers could be renovated to fit the building and assessment departments, a conference room and four work stations. The fire department would receive two extra vehicle bays, and the police department would realize more storage space as well as a meeting area.

Other departments would be able to utilize more space as well, according to the plan.

District opts out of state program

pupils in membership counts without obtaining releases from students' resident school districts.

The Northville Board of Education passed a resolution in late June opting out of the schools of choice program.

According to Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski, the decision not to take part in the program had to do with simple mathematics. If the district participated in the program it could face the prospect of opening its doors to an unending stream of students, putting additional strain on school facilities that already suffer from overcrowding.

"We project our student count will already increase by about 160 students," he said. I expect we'll have a more accurate count by the middle of August, but we believe those figures are accurate."

More students would also mean the hiring of additional teachers and the school district is already planning to hire 10-15 new instructors to meet the demands of a growing student population.

According to Linda Forward, supervisor of the school development unit for the state education department, the new legislation does not require districts to indicate their plans to take part in the program.

"At this time school districts are not required to report whether they are opting in or out of schools of choice, so we really don't have any numbers as to how many districts are taking part statewide," she explained. "We do anticipate that the education department will ask districts to report whether they are opting in or out of the program sometime in late fall."

That, however, is contrary to what Northville school officials understand regarding the new legislation. When the school board voted to opt out of the program, Rezmierski said the district had to respond before the deadline or face a 10 percent penalty on per pupil funding.

The district sent the board's resolution opting out of the program the last week of June.

Rotary seeks host families

The Northville Rotary Youth Exchange Program is looking for families who will be interested in hosting a Japanese high school student.

The student, Yuka Omi, will arrive in August and attend Northville High School through June 1997, spending 3-4 months with each of her host families. Yuka plays the piano and guitar, and especially likes jazz. She is known for her cheerfulness and sociability.

Her interests include mathematics, chemistry, drawing illustrations and movies. She has studied English for ten years.

Host families are asked to provide meals and lodging along with love and understanding. Personal expenses such as clothing, entertainment, etc., are the responsibility of the student. The student is covered by a comprehensive health insurance plan she purchased herself.

For information contact Dick Milder, Northville Rotary Youth Exchange chairperson at (810) 348-3590 or (810) 478-7330.

Northville festival enters 20th year

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

For 20 years Tom Rice has been fighting.

The well-known Northville businessman and owner of the Giftfiddler has spent the past two decades on a personal crusade to battle the disease that took his sister's life. In that time he has amassed an army of faithful allies armed with guitars and fiddles, harmonicas and banjos.

Each July the battle is fought in Northville, on Ford Field, witnessed by hundreds who pay to hear the music. When the last verse is sung and the final note played, the army of musicians withdraws, hopeful that the battle is their last and that when they meet again next year, the music will be played in victory.

Yes, Tom Rice and his friends are fighting the good fight. But Huntington's disease, a degenerative brain disorder for which there is no known cure, is still out there lurking, and until it is gone Rice, in his own unique way, has vowed to continue fighting.

"When my sister died, I decided to fight the disease on my own terms," Rice said.

"So I put together this festival in hopes that the money raised would help in finding a cure."

Each summer, Rice lines up outstanding national and local folk and bluegrass talent to perform at a Folk and Bluegrass Festival and many of the performers agree to appear at reduced fees to help keep overhead costs for the event low.

The festival, now entering its 20th year, has become a treasured Northville summertime tradition and an important way to raise funds for Huntington's disease research, according to Rice.

This year the festival will take place July 28, from 1-9 p.m., and will feature well known folk and bluegrass artists like Matt Wotroba, Joel Mabius, Sally Rogers and Howie Burson, Neil Woodward, Michael Smith and Anne Hills, Ramblin Jack Elliot, and The Raisin Pickers.

For Rice, who plans and coordinates the event each year, producing the festival is time consuming work.

"When the festival begins and all the people show up and the dollars are going in the right direction, it's worth it," he said.

Proceeds from both events will benefit the Huntington's Disease Society of America, which provides support and services to patients with the illness. The disease claimed folk hero Woodie Guthrie. It also took the life of Tom's sister Donna back in 1976.

"When my sister passed away, I didn't know the first thing about Huntington's Disease or what I could do to help find a cure," Rice said. "This festival is the one way I can take part in getting rid of this disease."

During the past 20 years doctors have learned more about the disease. Last year Francis Collins a doctor engaged in the research of Huntington's successfully identified the gene that causes the disease. Now Collins and a team of medical researchers are involved in a program to pinpoint faulty genes and develop treatments for patients suffering from the debilitating disease.

That research needs funding, and money from Northville's festival helps to keep that research on track, Rice said.

Tickets are $10 in advance and $12 the day of the event. Tickets for children under 12 will be $6. Advance tickets can be purchased through Ticket Master at (810) 645-6666 or the Giftfiddler at 349-9420.

Facts about Huntington's

Huntington's Disease is caused by a faulty gene, which produces a protein called Huntingtin, and was discovered in 1993. In some way - which is not yet understood - the faulty gene leads to damage of the nerve cells in areas of the brain including the basal ganglia and cerebral cortex. This leads to physical, mental and emotional changes.

The symptoms of HD usually develop when people are between 30 and 50 years old, although they can start much earlier or much later. Symptoms can differ from person to person, even in the same family.

Early symptoms include sight, uncontrollable muscular movements, stumbling and clumsiness, lack of concentration and short-term memory lapses, depression and changes of mood, sometimes including aggressive or anti-social behavior. Presently, there is no treatment which can halt the progression of the disease but some of the symptoms can be treated. Various drugs can be used to control excessive involuntary movement, to reduce depression and to combat obsessive behavior.

The information was provided by the Huntington's Disease Society of America.

Northville's Ford Field will once again be the site of the annual Folk and Bluegrass festival July 28. Now into its 20th year, the festival brings top entertainers from across the country, who perform to help raise money to benefit Huntington's disease research. Festival founder and director Tom Rice hopes plenty of people will turn out for event, which has become a Northville summertime tradition.

TAKING THE HEAT

The standard rule for the immediate treatment of strains and sprains is spelled out by the acronym "RICE": Rest, Ice, Compression, and Elevation. However, whereas this advice will stand an injury in good stead for the first 48 to 72 hours after it occurs a switch in treatment strategy is called for thereafter. That is, once the swelling has subsided, it is time for heat. Why? Ice reduces blood flow and limits tissue damage that may result from internal bleeding in the immediate aftermath of a strain or sprain. Once ice does its work, however, it is time to call upon heat to increase blood flow and speed oxygen and healing enzymes to the injury site. Heat therapy should not be used if inflammation persists or if there is infection or loss of sensation.

As key members of the health care team, physical therapists are specially trained to improve movement and function, relieve pain, and to restore or achieve optimal recovery. For more information, or to schedule a consultation, call Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. at 349-3816, or see us at 332 E. Main Street, Suite A. Our staff now includes three physical therapists, including an athletic trainer and an exercise physiologist. We also have early and late business hours including weekends.

Our Opinion

Library board ignores public's right to know

Once again a group of elected officials has told the public it serves to mind its own business.

This time it happened when the Northville District Library Board discharged Director Pat Orr, then refused to give reasons for the move.

The final severance agreement between the board and Orr, which took effect last week, included a lump-sum payment of $23,000-$24,000 and, conveniently, a gag order preventing both sides from discussing the issue with the press. As a result, none of the principal figures involved in the situation will offer an explanation for the dismissal of the 10-year director.

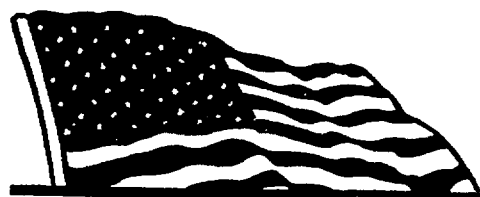

This is hardly the first instance of an elected board discharging a public employee and refusing to say why. Usually we're told that all sides wanted to protect themselves from the threat of litigation and therefore agreed to an "amicable" settlement of their differences.

We, however, don't buy it.

Pat Orr did not work for the Northville District Library Board, she worked for the people of the library district. Similarly, the severance amount of almost $25,000 was not paid out by a private corporation with money from the pool of profits - it was paid by the property owners whose taxes are used to support library operations.

The people employed Pat Orr, and the people are entitled to an explanation of her dismissal.

It is an unending source of consternation to us how public officials - people who run for office on the promise to serve the voters - consistently overlook their basic responsibilities to the tax-paying public. It's a simple concept, really: if you are involved in the public's business, you sometimes have to make public disclosures. This certainly applies to major hiring and firing decisions and to expenditures of tens of thousands of taxpayer dollars.

Government

Like so many other elected "leaders," however, the members of the Northville District Library Board have failed to come to terms with this fundamental concept of representative government. Instead, they've given us the usual "trust us, we know what's best" response.

Because we have no way of knowing if the decision to fire Orr was a sound one, we can only make a judgment based on surface appearances. To us, it appears that the timing of the move was questionable.

Whatever else might be said about Orr, she was a primary mover in the shift to district library status, and figured prominently in the millage election of 1994 that made the change possible. To fire her now, only a few months before the opening of the new library building, seems to us ill advised, perhaps even chaotic.

Our hope is that the handsomely new library will be a great addition to this highly literate community and that the board of trustees that governs it will soon consist of people who have a true appreciation of their public duty.

'Choice' legislation needs to be fine tuned

If it seems disappointing that the Northville Public School District opted not to participate in state's school's of choice program, there are some good reasons.

The primary ones given by district Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski and other top administrators are that there just isn't enough time to determine if the program is workable in the district for the coming year.

Northville is also dealing with significant growth in its student population, so accepting students from outside the district through the choice program could simply exacerbate that problem.

Not surprisingly, Northville was not the only area school district to opt out of the program. In fact the majority of districts in the area also choose not to participate. Considering that the state adopted the law last month and initially gave districts until July 1 to decide whether to participate, the reaction of school districts like Northville is pretty much what you would expect.

The program presents plenty of dangers lurking over the horizon, and there are going to be a number of significant problems should Northville decide to participate in the future.

For example, there is the question of filling classes with out-of-district students. The schools of choice legislation requires participating districts to accept students from outside the district, but who live in the intermediate school district boundaries, until the classroom space is full. Northville growth often means that new students arrive mid-year, and would the district be able to reserve space for anticipated growth if it did sign up for the program.

Then there is the question of money. Apparently the state aid allocated for the student who opts to move into the district comes with that student - or an amount comparable to tuition, whichever is less.

Somehow this seems backward. If the purpose of the choice program is to emulate business by injecting competition into the education field, districts should be able to command their normal price for these new students, not be held to whatever level of funding the student used to get.

Like a lot of things that pass through the state legislature these days, the impact of this law on districts like Northville weren't properly considered by lawmakers. The main point of this legislation should be providing the best educational program possible for each individual student.

Unfortunately we're not there yet and we don't necessarily want to see schools of choice scrapped, we certainly would like to see it fine tuned.

Keeping things in perspective

When I got the call from Suzie Castro of Northville that her former neighbor, Bill Norton, was going to be carrying the Olympic torch in Duluth, Ga., I thought, hmmm, Bill Norton, I used to work with a Bill Norton. Nahhh, couldn't be.

Carol Workens

I called Nelda Morrison, because Bill's wife Vena is her sister, and left a message on Nelda's machine asking how I could get in touch with Bill and Vena. When Nelda played back her messages, Vena was standing right beside her, she was up from Georgia visiting. Nelda put her on the phone and we had a chance to talk.

Then I followed up and called Bill at his office in Duluth. When I talked to him, I thought, I'll squeeze in the part about working with a Bill Norton at Ex-Cell-O Corp. and see what he says. But he wasn't there and I had to leave a message. Then the phone tag began. Bill returned my call. And I wasn't in.

Tom Morrison came in to the Record office shortly afterward and dropped off a picture of Vena and Bill Norton. I took a look at the snapshot. No memory joggers there. Tom said a better picture would be coming soon.

I called Nelda back to inquire about the second picture and left a message with Tom.

My next call was to Bill at his office in Duluth but he was not in his office.

Nelda called me back late in the afternoon and asked if I could send a photographer right over. Bill would be leaving in 15 minutes. It seems that Bill and Vena were in town and were flying/driving, they hadn't decided who was going to do what yet, back to Georgia.

The photographer had just left, so I grabbed the office camera and rushed right over to Morrison's.

Bill walked out from behind the green curtains which separate the back room at Morrison's from the store, and ambled toward where I stood near the cash register. I recognized him immediately - from the picture Tom had dropped off earlier. I shook his hand and introduced myself. Within seconds, he said I looked familiar. To make a long story shorter, he and I worked in the public relations department at Ex-Cell-O in Troy for five years.

We mentioned people we had worked with. We joked about his gray hair, and my mostly brown locks.

As I watched him, I noticed the familiar Bill Norton mannerisms. The same wit. It was hard to determine if the familiar pacing was due to nervous energy or that of a runner who is already warmed up and just waiting for the bang of the starting gun before a marathon.

He didn't seem interested in the publicity. He didn't think that the community work that he is involved in is out of the ordinary. The Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games, however, must not share his humble opinion. He wants to keep things in perspective, but you know darn well, he's gotta be pretty excited about carrying the torch. I know I am. Congrats Bill. Way to go Vena.

I support arts, not arts tax

I support the arts. In fact, I fancy myself a bit of an artist. When I can find the time, I very much enjoy picking up a No. 2 pencil or a piece of charcoal and a pad of paper. Oh, you'll never get to see my sketches. They're just for me. Just for fun. And they're not very good.

Perhaps they'd be better if I could spend more time at it. The pressures of holding a job and raising kids leave little time in my life for art. I get to sketch maybe one or two days per year ... at the tail end of my vacation when the kids - who normally crave all the attention I can give them - are sick of looking at my face.

Nonetheless, as a supporter of the arts, you'd expect me to be in favor of the arts tax the legislature is trying to put on the southeast Michigan area, right? Wrong.

Why should I spend more time making money so that I can pay this tax so that other people can participate in the arts when I'd be able to participate in the arts more often myself if I wasn't spending so much time trying to make money to pay all the other taxes the government already thinks I owe.

If you haven't heard about it, the state legislature is kicking around a proposal to put a half mill property tax on homes in the southeast Michigan region to create an arts fund. Of course, it would be on the ballot for voter approval.

The tax would come out to $25 per year for the owner of a $100,000 home. And that money would create a fund which would be used to give grants to artsy type institutions like the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Cranbrook Institute of Arts.

About the only portion of this little scheme I like is that 20 percent would be dedicated for local arts groups. Conceivably, groups like the Novi Arts Council and the Novi Concert Band could apply for grants, and yes that would be very cool.

But sorry, the rest of this is just lost on me. Why should I subsidize someone else's entertainment? You like the symphony? Fine, pay for it. But don't ask me to pay for you unless you're willing to put up a few bucks to help me with the price of tickets for, say, a Bob Seger concert at Pine Knob. What's the difference? Seger's a local artist. Pine Knob's a local concert hall.

Oh, I forget, we're talking the difference between art (hold nose very high) and entertainment. Art forms like the orchestra no longer attract the sales at the box office necessary to support them completely, yet we as a society have an interest in preserving them and making sure as many people as possible get to experience them ... or so the argument for taxpayer support of the arts will go.

Yet there are other local institutions trying to do the same thing with less well recognized art forms that don't seem likely to be good candidates for grants from an arts fund. For example, will the Sunset Grill in northern Novi be eligible for a grant to help it in its work to preserve the Blues? Will The Raven in Northville be eligible for its work to save Folk music?

I have my doubts. Michael Malott is the Managing Editor of The Novi News and The Northville Record.

Big thanks for support with circus

First of all, we would like to thank all those who purchased tickets to the circus held on July 5 for their support of the Playscape committee. Your attendance under the big top helped to raise over $1,000 for the playground project. The City Council must also be commended for standing tall in the face of adversity, and The Northville Record as well for their generous advance publicity for this event. We appreciate the efforts of ticket chairman Steve Smith in lining up area merchants to help sell tickets including Mr. Roth of Good Time Party Store, Great Harvest Bakery and Baby Baby on Main Street.

A special mention goes to Bill Wisniewski of Leisure Time Pet Store on Seven Mile for selling all of his allotted tickets and Ron Bodnar of Copy Boy Printers for printing the handouts that were distributed during the parade. Rounding out the merchant outlets were: Mary at the Starting Gate, the Chamber of Commerce, Community Federal Credit Union, Marks Small Engines, Anthony Jackson, Mike D'Angelo, Catherine Weir, Cindy Buckley and Dee Hartshorne's nephew, Steve Dickelman, are to be congratulated for their individual sales of circus tickets.

We also proudly thank the Kwan-Mitch Deeb and company for purchasing 25 tickets for Sister Rhonda and the kids at Providence.

Finally we must not forget BFI's good neighbor policy in providing the dumpsters and of course, we sincerely appreciate the efforts of Margaret Zayll, Marshall Davis, Northville Downs and the Driving Club for the general use of their facility.

Art in Sun was great time

To the editor:
To let you know - what a delightful, wonderful day at "Art in the Sun." What a pleasure for residents and surrounding areas. Keep up the good shows.

Donna C. Skinner

Loved that outdoor event

To the editor:
I wanted to take a moment to compliment the Northville Chamber of Commerce and the local businesses for the well run and very successful "Art in the Sun." Everybody was so helpful and the customers so receptive that it was a lot of fun as well as profitable.

As an artist, I appreciate a warm reception (and good coffee) and I got it!

Deborah Stowell

More kudos about art show

To the editor:
Just wanted to let you know how much I enjoyed exhibiting in Northville's Art Fair, "Art in the Sun." The Chamber of Commerce did a great job. I'd like to thank them as well as everyone else involved. I'm looking forward to doing the show again next year.

M. Wengel

Artist enjoyed participation

To the Editor:
As an out-of-town watercolor artist who participated in Northville's "Art in the Sun" for the second year in a row, I'd like to warmly thank the local residents and businesses for generously sharing street and sidewalk space, for providing good food menus, and for holding additional special sales (and in many cases a welcomed artist discount) during the art fair.

Also many thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for all their hard work, excellent organization and event advertising, extreme cooperation, and helpful attitude regarding the show. Art fair committee members were available, concerned that things went well, and very amicable to deal with.

I'm looking forward to returning next year.

Susan Falcone

Hospitality of locals was great

To the Editor:

As a recent participant in your 9th annual "Art in the Sun" show, I would like to take the time to thank you for your hospitality.

Having had the opportunity to attend many shows as a crafter, I have come to appreciate all the hard work and dedication that goes into the organization of a well run event. I am also aware that it may be a challenge to the patience of both the citizens and the business patrons of Northville to optimally function in the chaos occasioned by these activities.

The payoff is the positive feelings that are experienced by those who have been able to sample the charm of your city and the friendliness and helpfulness of the business community and private citizens of Northville.

My thanks and congratulations to the organizers of "Art in the Sun" for such a well run show. I hope that Northville will reap the rewards of the goodwill sown by its populace.

Is local school district objective?

To the editor:
In defending the Northville School News last week, Ms. Parklan did an excellent job describing the function of the newsletter while avoiding the pending issue.

To reiterate, the law allows the Northville Public Schools to spend public funds to objectively inform the people on issues related to its function. It does not allow the Northville Public Schools to spend public funds in support of its ballot proposal.

We have known for more than two years that the Northville Public Schools wants to build a new high school and expand other facilities. To that end, several committees were formed, consisting of Northville Public Schools staff and parent volunteers.

The Northville Public Schools staff has a personal interest in the expansion of school district facilities. Their objectivity is certainly questionable. As for the parent volunteers, the general public knows little about them, except that they are parents, and they did volunteer. We do know that they were interested enough in the Northville Public Schools expansion decision to donate their time. We do not know to what extent they or their children stand to gain personally from the expansion. We do not know if they have friends or relatives who may be contract suppliers to the expansion. We do not even know if any of the committee members are qualified to make these decisions and recommendations. We just do not know.

The bottom line is that the conclusions of these committees will most likely lack objectivity. If you are not convinced, look at the spring 1995 issue of the School News. Nearly a full page is devoted to the Technology Committee's Recommendations, including eight bullet points listing what the committee believes to be the expected benefits. There are no potential drawbacks listed.

The findings do not even acknowledge whether or not there are any drawbacks.

Ms. Parklan says that it's the function of the local and regional newspapers to print the bad news and unfavorable opinions. The law says that it's not the function of the Northville School News to print only the good news and favorable opinions.

I ask again, when the Northville Public Schools spends tens of thousands of dollars telling us in countless different ways over the past two years that it wants a $60 million expansion, is it objectively informing the public on issues related to its function, or selling a tax increase?

Robert Bernard

Fourth fireworks fizzled in big way

To the Editor:
Just got back from the fireworks. My opinion, a big zero. Little kids were saying, "I don't get it, you can't see 'em!" I almost donated money to the fireworks. Seven degrees off the horizon for the Community Park viewers was a big let-down.

Mike Mack

Report on health of candidates

To the editor:

I believe there is a lesson to be learned regarding the health of presidential candidates. (Boris) Yeltsin, even though he is only 65 years of age, seemed ready in the latter days of the Russian presidential election for immediate medical attention in an intensive care unit.

Even though, as it turned out, Yeltsin won the election, there already is much discussion about who will succeed him should his health problems incapacitate him. I'm quite certain that such talk cannot be a sure-fire morale builder for him.

Given Dole's age, it would seem important that we pay serious attention as to who he selects for his running mate. Lest we forget, the latter years of Reagan's second term as president - and his obviously diminishing ability to function adequately - should caution us about electing someone to the job of president who has not the vigor, the alertness, the enthusiasm, and the physical stamina to stand the rigors of the grueling job that being president has become in these troubling times.

Is it not prudent that we demand that we be given a factual report on the health status of our two presidential candidates at this time?

Alfred P. Galli

Vets appreciate community help

To the editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the Northville residents who have supported the Vietnam Veterans of America Plymouth-Canton Chapter 528 over the years.

As the 1996 Color Guard Commander of VVA Chapter 528 I can assure you that our membership always looks forward to the Northville parades. We take great pride in having taken first place in the senior marching category of the Northville July 4 parade in 1995 and again in 1996. (It is always great to beat out the Marine Corps Color Guard.)

The cheers and applause that we receive from the folks in Northville is most appreciated. Among Vietnam Veterans the phrase "Welcome Home" is often mentioned. You folks always make us feel at home in Northville. Thank you again for your support of the Vietnam Veterans and our families.

A Farmington Hills teenager arrested last month with another teen accused of burglarizing two Northville Township homes has been found guilty of unlawful entry.

Mark Bruno, 18, will be on probation for some time to come after 35th District Court Judge Ron Lowe convicted him of the misdemeanor offense on July 5. Township police arrested him on June 25 for walking on the property of a Marilyn road home. Investigators say he was trying to find fuel to fill the empty tank of the pickup truck that he and Anthony Lavin were driving around the area.

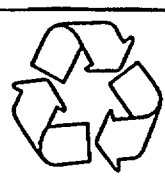

Lavin, an 18-year-old Redford Township resident, is charged with stealing more than $17,000 worth of cash and merchandise from houses on Pierson and Meadowbrook roads during the month of June. They and Marilyn road lie off Seven Mile opposite the Northville State Hospital property.

According to township police Lavin and Bruno were spotted cruising that area in the early hours of June 25. The officers involved say they recognized the pickup the two were driving as one seen in two break-ins earlier in the month.

Investigators said they watched as the two knocked on the doors of several homes to see if anyone was home. Lavin and Bruno were taken into custody when Bruno was found on the Marilyn home looking for gas.

Facing two felony burglary counts Lavin has allegedly confessed to the crimes, claiming to have stolen to get money for his crack habit. He is being held in the Wayne County Jail after failing to post a $40,000 cash bond and faces a court hearing soon.

Local quilters make good

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

What you sew is what you reap is very true for Novi Needlers, a newly-formed quilting guild which meets on the second and fourth Wednesdays from 10 am. until noon at the Novi Civic Center.

"We are getting as much out of it as we are giving," said Jo Bango, who founded the quilting guild in September 1995. Bango had been a member of the Farmington Embroidery Guild when she went with a friend to the city's quilting bee. They were donating their quilts to a charitable organization.

Bango, a Novi resident, immediately asked herself why was she doing this for Farmington, when she could do it in Novi.

Bango wrote a letter about her idea to start a guild that would donate their quilts to charity to Jan McAlpine at the Novi Civic Center, who agreed that it truly was a wonderful idea.

At the first meeting, one of the most important decisions which had to be made was to identify a group in need of the quilts. The group chose HAVEN, the shelter for abused women and children.

With scissors snipping and sewing machines humming, the group of about a dozen members completed 40 quilts by December which ranged in size from 2 foot by 4 foot for infants up to 4 foot by 5 foot for children 7 to 8 years of age.

"It went beyond our expectations and took off," Bango said.

By Easter, all the quilts had gone to children at HAVEN. To date, 90 quilts, made mostly from donated materials, have been given to HAVEN.

"I did not even think we could make that many quilts in nine months," Bango said. "They were just banging those quilts out like you couldn't believe."

Members use any pattern they want and also create variations on existing patterns.

"We are not wedded to any particular pattern," said Bango.

"We strive for diversity."

Once donated to HAVEN, the quilts are laid out so that each child gets to select the handmade quilt he or she likes best. The quilts are theirs to keep, even after they have left HAVEN.

Carefully sewn in the corner of each handmade quilt is a little label that reads "This quilt is made with love and is a gift from the Novi Needlers."

"So many of the quilts appeal to the little girls," Bango said, "so we are going to try to appeal to the little boys with themes that they like."

Membership in the group is open to anyone.

Although most of the members are seniors, the group is not limited to seniors nor is it for quilters only. To date, there are 22 members, and with the exception of one Commerce Township resident, all live in either Novi or Northville.

"We are hoping to build a membership and bring young blood into the group," Bango said.

Work to be done includes cutting fabric and then washing, drying and ironing the fabric before the quilting begins.

"If they are at all interested, this is a good place to learn," said Jan McAlpine.

There are still other jobs which include sewing the labels on the finished quilt, and writing thank you letters.

There is also a need for publicity to get the word out about donations, which are desperately needed.

Acceptable quilting supplies suitable for quilting include cotton, cotton blend and batting. Monetary donations are also needed.

Since the quilts are going into the washing machine and dryer, they will take some abuse and fabric must be durable, according to Bango. McAlpine will acknowledge any donation for income tax purposes.

"Right now we are self funding," Bango said. "When fabric stores have a sale on batting or anything usable, we take advantage of it."

People in the business community as well as residents can donate. All donated material is used for quilts.

During the meetings, members share ideas and hints. One day the group went to lunch followed by the movie, How to Make an American Quilt.

"It is a very enthusiastic group," Bango said. "We really enjoy the time that we spend together."

Durham singing for fun, charity

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Did you think barbershop singing went out with the old fashioned barbershop? Or were they ever really connected?

Whatever, Fran Durham, a retiree, can set you straight on it. It's his volunteer activity - singing in the barbershop style of four-part harmony - for personal enjoyment, community activity, and raising money for Heartspring, which is a residential school for communicatively impaired children in Wichita, Kan.

With 85 members locally - 45 active, he said - they meet to sing every Monday at 7:30 in the Starr Presbyterian Church in Royal Oak.

Durham belongs to the Gentleman Songsters - a 50-member chorus - which performs at various events, especially caroling at hospitals and senior centers at Christmas.

He started as chapter chairman, then went to district chairman and was appointed a member of the International committee (International because Canada is a member).

"We want to encourage singing as a recreational activity," Durham said, "have young people come into barbershoppping."

To do this, 300 participants from five states in the area will meet for a week at Ball State University in Ohio to get music teachers to sing "not just barbershop music, but all kinds of music."

Then in addition to singing for the fun of it and the enjoyment of being with others who enjoy singing in four-part harmony, the society does have a cause for which it raises money.

In August this year, Durham said, they'll raise about $10,000.

If you are a man who enjoys singing and wants to meet with others who enjoy singing, call this number: Frank Durham, chorus manager, (810) 344-4613.

Putting for tickets

ing Brickscape Gardens' putting contest July 12 through 14.
Successful putters placed their names in a hat for a drawing for tickets to the final round of the Senior Players Tournament (SPT). Ticket winners were Dale's dad, Dale Albright; and from Northville, Kerri Libbe, Linda Wareck and Doug Gibbons. Winners of official SPT merchandise such as t-shirts and hats were Joseph Boczar and Jeanne Draggo, both from Northville; Bob Lorente of Novi and Rose Wason of Livonia. Novi's Schweitzer family, Laurel, age 6, Betsy, age

9 and their dad, Charles, also were terrific putters and received either a t-shirt or a hat. Golf putting styles were cri-tiqued by professional golfing instructor Dick Gray of Oasis Golf Center. Co-sponsors of the event were Pro Golf In Livonia and Barvarian Village in the Novi Town Center.
Brickscape was chosen to be the special landscape provider for the tournament for the fourth year. This year they installed over 300 pots of flowers, 2500 geraniums, 1800 garden wall paver bricks and 240 cubic feet of mulch.

Girls learn pom, dance routines for Atlanta show

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Seven area girls will be performing for thousands of spectators and Olympians who visit Coca-Cola Olympic City in Atlanta, Georgia on July 27.

Novi High School's Tracy Bishop, Kelly Harfoot, Maria Hernandez, Margie Householder and Andrea Jarvis, and Northville High School's Lauren Bethell and Jennifer Cooley are among 75 members of the 1996 Mid-American Pompon All Star Team who will leave by charter bus on July 23 for this memorable event. The squad will be staying in the dormitories at University of Georgia in Athens.

The pompon squad will perform dance and pom routines to an all-American theme which will include "Coming to America" by Neil Diamond, "America" by Prince, "Kids in America" by The Muffs and "American Pie" by Don McLean.

The Mid-American Pompon All Star Team will also be performing in a full cast production number with the Coca-Cola professional dancers four times a day. This routine was choreographed by Coca-Cola Olympic City's entertainment staff.

The girls began practicing April 17 and have received a video of the routine they will perform in the production number which they will learn prior to leaving. Once in Atlanta, they will have a run through with the professional dance company for the first time.

"A lot of my friends are going to watch the Olympics but it is cool to be participating," said Maria, who is a junior at Novi High School and the daughter of Susan Merritt of Novi.

"It will be something I'll always remember, that I had something to do with it," said Maria, an All Star

"A lot of my friends are going to watch the Olympics, but it is cool to be participating."

—Maria Hernandez
Novi High School

Team member for two years and high school pompon squad member since her freshman year.

"I think I'll remember it for ever. It is a chance of a lifetime," said Margie Householder, a 1996 Novi High School graduate.

"It will be neat because I will be down in Olympic Village and see everything," said Margie, who has been in pompon since seventh grade and has been with the All Stars for three years.

Margie is the daughter of Jim and Sue Householder of Novi and will be going to Michigan State University in the fall.

Coca Cola Olympic City is located adjacent to Centennial Olympic Park in downtown Atlanta.

While in Georgia, the girls will visit Six Flags Over Georgia, Olympic Village, Hard Rock Cafe and the Underground Mall in Atlanta and attend an Olympic soccer game.

Kelly Harfoot, a Novi High School senior, plans to get in as much sight seeing as possible while in Atlanta. Kelly has been on pom teams since middle school. She is the daughter of Dan and Wendy Harfoot of Novi.

The All Star squad has been divided into three groups of 25 girls. Each group will perform for one day.

The routines for this event are more difficult than the pom routine learned for parades, according to Kelly, who has been on the All Star team for three years.

Each of the girls foot the cost of the trip, about $800 without spending money.

"It's worth it," said Catherine Bethell, who hopes her daughter, Lauren, has been putting aside some money from her part time job in the family's business. "It's a once in a life time opportunity."

Lauren is a Junior at Northville High School and has been in pom since her freshman year. She is the daughter of Catherine and Al Bethell of Northville.

The Mid-American Pompon All Star Team has performed at various parades including the Presidential Inaugural Parade for President Clinton, Fiesta Bowl, Citrus Bowl and Michigan Thanksgiving and Michigan's Parades into the 21st Century. They have also performed at Sea World, Walt Disney World's EPCOT Center and Cedar Point.

Karen Blazaitis, the former coach of the 7th and 8th grade pompon squad at Novi Middle School, is the president of Mid-American Pompon, Inc.

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Elaine Kaiser, Novi resident and one of the founding members of Heartland Theatre, will have her newest play, The Pender Arrangements, included in Playscape '96 at Meadow Brook Theatre on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

Playscape was established in 1994 to present new theatrical works as readings and full productions.

This year, seven plays by local and regional playwrights were selected for inclusion in the festival.

Two other of Kaiser's original dramas, Defect of Discretion and Rosemary for Remembrance, were presented in the Playscape '94 festival at Hilberly Theatre.

Heartland Theatre Company in Plymouth, which was founded in 1990 to produce plays and continue offering classes to actors and playwrights, grew out of the Detroit Actors Studio in Detroit and is composed of about 15 actors, writers and directors.

Concerts booked at bandshell, church

From organ to concert band to one man shows, there are a variety of musical programs offered in Northville and Novi throughout the summer both indoors and outdoors, weather permitting.

1996 CLOCK CONCERT

The 40-piece Novi Concert Band under the direction of Warren Ledger will perform in Northville's band shell on July 19 from 7:30 until 9 p.m.

The Novi Concert Band is conducted by Jack Kopnick, who was appointed music director in 1992. Kopnick is retired from the Allen Park Public Schools where he taught music and English. He also served that school system as the director of Fine Arts. As high school director of music, Kopnick's band and choral groups were recipients of many honors and awards.

The Novi Concert Band, a symphonic wind ensemble, was formed in 1982 under the auspices of the City of Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

The goals of the band are to provide adults having a musical background with the opportunity to participate in a musical ensemble, offer a supplemental musical experience to mature students, represent the City of Novi in performances throughout southeastern Michigan and support the revival of the community band movement in America.

ORGAN SERIES

Scott VanOrnum has selected

eclectic organ works from a wide repertoire of the baroque, romantic, contemporary and even humorous eras for Northville's First Presbyterian Church Summer Organ Series program on July 18 at 7 p.m.

VanOrnum has been the director of music and organist at the church since 1992. He began his music studies on the piano at age five and on the organ at age 10. VanOrnum attended the Interlochen Arts Camp from 1977 until 1984, plus four years of high school at Interlochen Arts Academy, where he graduated with high honors.

In 1984 he was awarded the Presidential Scholar In The Arts medal at the White House and a performance at the Kennedy Center. He has played on both American coasts and in several cathedrals in Germany and Austria.

Placement of the Casavant Pipe Organ in the center of the chancel enables the audience to see the keyboard.

VanOrnum was also featured on Robert Schuller's nationally broadcast Hour of Power, and is a frequent recitalist in Michigan, playing annual programs in Interlochen, Northville and Ypsilanti. In August, VanOrnum will participate in a special program for the dedication of a new organ at Mackinac Island's Little Stone Church.

After the program, VanOrnum will discuss some of the pieces played and also talk about the Casavant Pipe Organ and how it works. The organ has been moved to the center of the chancel with the keyboards facing the audience, enabling them to see the keyboards during each of the five concerts in the series.

The church is located at 200 E Main Street in Northville.

Other performers include Mary Ann Baldus, Aug. 8; and James Nissen, Aug. 15.

Free-will offerings will be accepted.

For details, call First Presbyterian at (810) 349-0911.

Broncos fall 7-3 to Bulls in LCABF play

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

The Northville Broncos played baseball the way it's supposed to be played Sunday - with heart.

The Mickey Mantle squad fell 7-3 to the Michigan Bulls. But the locals never gave up and never rolled over for the state's premier team.

"I'm very proud of these guys," coach Rick Bingley said. "We fought hard until the last out."

The game was closer than the score indicates, too.

The Bulls, which sit atop the Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation open division standings, led 2-0 through the first three innings. But the home squad got four more in the fourth to blow the game open.

Northville battled back with a run in the fifth and two more in the sixth. Bingley said his squad did a good job of keeping the bat on the ball.

"We only had five strikeouts," he said. "We were hitting everything."

Unfortunately, making contact wasn't enough. Northville managed just four hits as Evan Edwards, Kelly Bingley, Gordy McPhail and Suren Srabian each singled.

NORTHVILLE 15, GARDEN CITY 3

Northville.

The visitors walked 13 Bronco batters in just five innings. Northville pounded out six hits to win going away.

Bingley had empathy for Garden City. But, he added, his team was simply superior.

"We overmatched them completely," he said.

Kelly Bingley and Kevin Gilchrist led the offense with a hit and three runs scored each.

NORTHVILLE 5, SOUTHGATE 4
Perhaps Northville's most exciting game came on Thursday at Southgate.

The Broncos built a 5-2 lead after five innings then held on for the road victory. Northville got the win despite managing just three hits.

Edwards led Northville. He scored the game-winning run in the fifth inning by walking, stealing second and then moving around on two Southgate miscues.

Edwards, who's been a jack-of-all-trades by playing both the infield and outfield, had two of Northville's hits.

"He's our Tony Phillips," Bingley said in referring to the Detroit Tigers' former utility man. "He's a real pleasure to coach."

Mantle team crushes Andover

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It's amazing how things fall together for a baseball team when it's swinging the bats well.

Northville's Mickey Mantle B squad is about as hot as hot can be right now having scored 26 runs in its last two games. The Broncos pounded Bloomfield Hills Andover 12-3 Saturday on the road.

Mike Livanos had four hits and three runs batted in while Adam Webb and Ryan Gallogly added two hits each to lead the way. Northville totaled 16 hits.

"Everyone is hitting right now," coach Dennis Shields said. "Everyone is making contact."

The Broncos improved to 6-11. This is the final week of the season for the B squad.

The top four teams in the Little Caesars league go onto playoffs next week. The Broncos will not finish high enough to continue.

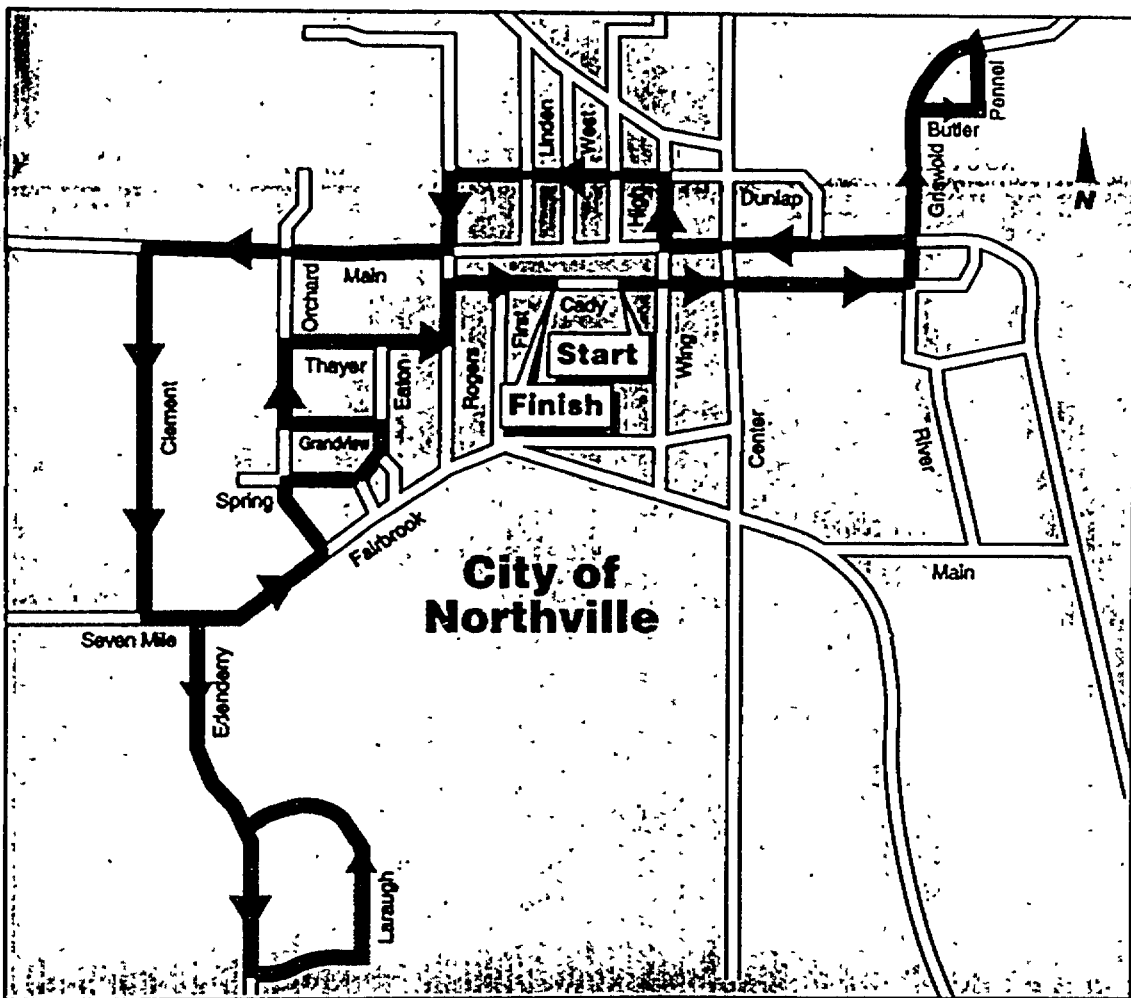

"I'm really happy with the kids," Shields said. "They never quite and always had a positive attitude. We made a lot of progress."

That statement was evidenced Saturday.

The game was actually tied 3-3 after two innings. But Northville

13th RoadRunner Classic set for 7 p.m. start Saturday

By SCOTT DANIEL

Driving around Northville, it's not uncommon to see a dozen or more folks out running at any one time.

That number may increase ten fold this Saturday. That's because many of the area's top hoofers will participate in the 13th annual Roadrunner Classic in downtown.

Redford Roadrunners' spokesperson Yvette Michaels said more than 1,000 runners are expected for the event's four races.

"We promote the event as a fun run," she said. "It's a family event. We have face painting and balloons for the kids as well as the junior classic."

The running club was founded in Redford more than a dozen years ago by now Northville business people Randy and Kathy Step. As the years have gone by many of the members have migrated westward to the Northville area.

The Classic, which centers around an eight kilometer race, followed the club to town starting four years ago.

"We do it because we love to run," said Michaels. "This is our event to give back to the community."

Despite the laid back atmosphere of the Classic, good competition is found in the 8K race.

Ann Arbor's Laurel Park won her second straight Classic a year ago with a time of 27:38. Kerry Barnett of Saline was the men's winner in about 25 minutes.

While there is no prize money to be won, winners of the men's, women's and masters' divisions will receive Roadrunner Classic jackets, Michaels said.

The 8K, which will start at 7 p.m. on Cady Street near the Northville Recreation Center, isn't the only event planned Saturday.

A five kilometer walk is planned as well as a one mile fun walk/run and a one mile Classic Junior for 12-year-old and under racers.

Unlike last year, Michaels said the mile "Fun One" and Classic will be held simultaneously.

"We decided to combine the two to save time," she said.

The course for all the races has remained basically the same from a year ago. A loop was changed to send runners closer to Seven Mile instead of Eight Mile road.

"There was some traffic problems," Michaels said.

After all of the races are over, a party will be held at the Rec Center in Northville. Food, drink, dancing and prizes will be handed out until 11:30 p.m.

Registration for the races will go right up until 7 p.m. Saturday. For more information on the Roadrunner Classic, call Running Fit at 380-3338.

Dojo offers best in self-defense

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Having the knowledge is one thing. But being a good teacher requires more than facts, figures and concepts.

To educate someone well, a teacher needs empathy and compassion for their students. That applies to calculus, biology, and in Kevin Johannes case, karate.

The fourth degree black belt is hoping to use all of his knowledge and compassion to build a steady following at his new Task Karate Academy in Northville.

"I kind of have a knack for it," said Johannes. "But I had good teachers that taught me how to be a good teacher."

He opened his first dojo in Walled Lake in 1989. Since then, Johannes has concentrated on working with students and training his instructors in the ways of Koel-Kan Karate.

"This is the kind of business that grows slowly," he added. "You have to train people for years before they can become a black belt and instructor."

Having enough qualified instructors is what allowed Task to expand into Northville, Johannes said. Like himself, Task's instructors must have great regard for students.

"They have to have the heart of a warrior," he said, "but the compassion of a teacher. You have to care about people."

Johannes' search for a second dojo venue was a short one. He said he began looking in Northville this spring and quickly found the right spot in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center on Seven Mile.

"I like Northville," the fourth degree black belt said. "It's a nice little town. I thought it would be a good place to start our second school."

The Northville dojo will open officially Aug. 5. But Task will conduct open house sessions this Saturday and on July 27, both from 1 to 4 p.m.

Johannes has put a lot of work in on the Northville site.

A former office supply shop, he had to knock out walls to create enough space for the dojo. Full length mirrors and pads for the floor were also added for safety.

Safety is a key issue for Johannes.

Protective head and chest gear is worn by students during some training exercises. Much of the "fighting" at the school is also of the controlled nature.

That means moves are executed, but "punches are pulled," said Johannes. The Koel-kan style of karate is more than just punching.

Karate techniques focus on striking, kicking and punching. Students also learn Judo techniques, which emphasize take downs and throws. Aikido (restraints and reverse joint techniques) and Kobudo (traditional weapons) are also taught.

Students begin as white belts and can work all the way up to eighth degree black belt. There's no set formula of when a student can reach those marks, said Johannes.

"You go at your own pace," he added. "Everyone is taught on an individual basis."

The Sensei (instructor) said the idea is not to make you a Ninja Warrior. Koel-kan is strictly for self-defense and never to be used in "aggression," Johannes said.

Besides the one-on-one instruction, classes will be held at the Northville dojo.

Both beginner and advanced courses for kids are planned. Family and adult courses will be offered in the evenings.

For more information on Task Karate Academy, call (810) 380-2000.

TRIPLE PLAY

In a June 22 softball game, Jessica Casey made an unassisted triple play. With the bases loaded, Casey, who plays shortstop for the Blue Jays, made a running catch of a pop fly into short center field. She then ran to second base for a force out then ran to third base for another force and the third out.

SOCCER

Soccer players are needed to play on a girls under 16 premier team which will be participating in the Little Caesar's soccer league. This is a brand new team and is an excellent opportunity for players who are looking to play on a top-notch squad. We are looking for players who were born after July 31, 1980, and before Aug. 1, 1982. Recruiting is for all positions, especially goalie.

NBA's money brings tough choices for kids

Northville High basketball fans rejoice — your savior may have arrived.

Danny Smith will don the Black and Orange next winter. Who is Danny Smith, you ask? A 6-foot-8 high school All-American from Chicago, the 215-pound junior should help the Mustangs dominate the Western Lakes conference basketball scene for the next two seasons.

Blessed with uncanny jumping ability, a lethal jump shot and passing abilities that have drawn comparisons to Magic Johnson, Smith is the complete package. He averaged 31.7 points for Maine East High in Park Ridge, Ill. as a sophomore as well as 10 rebounds and eight assists.

A job transfer to Smith's father, Adam, brought the family to town.

The Northville Record recently sat down with Smith for an interview on the upcoming season. Here's an edited transcript:

Record: Welcome to Northville, Danny. How does it feel to be a Mustang?

Smith: My agent and I think this will be a positive move for my career.

Record: Agent? Aren't you a little young to have an agent?

Smith: Did I say agent? I meant my advisor, Mr. Greedy, of course. He's a close friend of the family.

Record: I see. Well, Dan, what are your hopes for next basketball season? You'll be a junior, correct?

Smith: I need to work on my inside game, I guess. I had a great year last year for Maine East, but most of my points came from the outside shootin' the three (three-pointer).

Mr. Greedy says I need to work on my post play and get stronger in the next two years.

Record: What about Northville High. Do you think the Mustangs can win the league title?

Smith: If I get the ball in the right areas of the floor and improve my rebounding, yeah, I think we'll win.

Record: Have you met any of your new teammates yet?

Smith: Nah, haven't got time. I'm workin' out four hours a day with my personal trainer. I've gotten a lot stronger, I think. He's really helped me improve my conditioning.

I'm also eating a lot better. My nutritionist has got me eating 75 percent complex carbohydrates and only 10 percent fats. I feel great.

Record: Geez, Danny, sounds like you've got yourself an entourage.

Smith: Well, you've got to protect yourself. Besides, I've got my future to think about.

Record: Like the junior prom?

Smith: Junior prom? Man, you're asking stupid questions. I'm not worried about no prom.

I'm preparin' myself for the NBA. Kobe Bryant and Kevin Garnett are nothin'. Those guys aren't half the player I am.

Record: Are you saying you want to follow Bryant and Garnett right out of high school to professional basketball?

Smith: It's what we've been workin' for my whole life.

Mr. Greedy says I don't need college. He thinks my game is advanced enough for the NBA.

Did you see what "Zo (Alonzo Morning) and Juwan (Howard) signed for? Zo was over $100 mil and Juwan got 95.

Record: So you're looking to cash in. Is that it?

Smith: Why not? Everyone else is.

The above account, of course, is fictional. But is it really so far-fetched?

Should we look down at the Smiths of the world or simply pity them? How many high schoolers will try to go to the NBA like Bryant and Garnett have done?

It's all craziness. The sporting world has gone nuts.

Before long, we'll have colleges paying football and basketball players to keep them from going pro. Think that won't have an effect on the high schools?

Think again. We'll have colleges bidding for top high school players. All the while these children, and that's what they are, children, will be forced to grow up sooner and deal with the Mr. Greedys.

broke it open with three runs in the third inning. Livanos knocked in a run and Gallogly added a two-run single to make it a 6-3 ballgame.

A six-run sixth inning put the game out of reach for the Broncos. Webb went the distance on the mound and allowed seven hits and two walks to Andover.

NORTHVILLE 14, WATERFORD 9

The Broncos played Waterford at home on Thursday and picked up an easy win.

Shields said the game just about ended up a mercy for Northville. It would have been the Broncos first of the summer.

"We scored early and often," said Shields.

Northville got four runs in the first. Five straight singles brought in the runs. Colin MacFarlane, Livanos and Ryan Morris picked up RBI.

Waterford cut the lead in half in the second inning. But Northville came back with six in the fourth and three more in the fifth.

Northville led 13-4 in the sixth before Waterford rallied for five runs.

Shields said the game was never in doubt. Besides excellent hitting, the team's defense has turned around.

"We've stopped making a lot of errors defensively," said Shields.

DETROIT 5, NORTHVILLE 4

Northville rallied from behind July 8 and almost pulled off the comeback.

The Broncos had the bases loaded in the seventh inning but failed to push the tying or winning runs across.

"They were a pretty good team," Shields said of the Detroit squad.

Trailing 5-2, Northville rallied for two runs in the seventh inning.

Gallogly and Justin Walneo singled to start the uprising. Walks to MacFarlane, Mike Bink, Livanos and Morris pushed two runs across. The bases were left loaded, as Northville struck out to end the threat.

Mystic Creek plays like mature course

This week's Novl News continues a series of weekly golf course reviews. Our focus is to provide you, the reader, useful information and tips on playing your favorite local courses.

Mystic Creek is the subject of this week's review. If you would like to see a particular course reviewed this summer, please contact us at (810) 349-1700 or by fax at (810)349-1050.

Sports Editor

Milford's Mystic Creek is enough to make golfers scratch their heads in confusion.

Not in how the holes are laid out or even in the myriad of challenges it presents. No, area golfers are going to wonder how in the heck Mystic Creek could be a new course.

Despite just opening in May, the 27-hole facility appears and plays like it has been around for years. According to owner Jim Dewling, that's not an accident.

"We've tried to work with the natural beauty of the property," he said. "We wanted to create something that would retain that natural beauty, but also retain playability."

Each set of nine holes at Mystic Creek has its own distinct character.

The Lakes forces golfers to shoot over water on eight holes. The Woods offers rolling hills with varying elevations of tees and greens while the Meadows is strategic golf at its best.

Dewling said he and partner Pat Conroy designed the 27 links to be a challenge for the average golfer, but not impossible.

"If you hit the ball straight you should be rewarded," he added. "We tried to be very fair."

Mystic Creek sits on 260 acres at Camp Dearborn in Milford. Dewling, who has built more than a half-dozen courses in the metropolitan area, chose Milford for his latest project for several reasons.

Having grown up in the area, he said he's familiar with west Oakland County. Growth in the Milford area was also very attractive.

"We thought it would be a spectacular venue for golf," Dewling added.

Like most holes at Mystic Creek, No. 9 on the Woods isn't long. But it requires precise shots by golfers.

Construction on the site began in 1994. Besides the typical type of land work done in making a golf course, Dewling said 50 structures had to be moved and about eight miles of roadway ripped out.

"We had to do an extensive demolition of roads and park infrastructure," he commented.

Looking at Mystic Creek, you'd never know it.

There are very few rough edges on the links. For a new course, that's saying a lot. It's not uncommon for new courses to need three or four seasons before its grown in.

Hole No. 1 on the "Woods" proves the point.

The teeing area is plush and all the golfer sees looking out over the fairway is beautiful green grass. A tall-grassed, 100-yard deep valley separates the teeing area from the fairway adding to that "natural" feel Dewling talked about.

From that first hole on, the golfer forgets they're playing a new course and can concentrate on shot-making.

The par 4, 360-yard fourth provides a fine example. The dogleg right requires a solid and straight tee shot.

Slices are knocked down by hill that runs to near the middle of the fairway. Second shots require an equally straight shot as a pond sits on the right side of the green and out of bounds runs down the left side of the fairway going into the putting surface.

If you tend to slice off the tee, No. 6 might actually offer a reward.

A short par 4 at 259 yards, golfers will salivate at the chance to "drive" the green. A fade at the end of your drive is required to do it, however. Hit the ball straight or hook it to the left and you'll wind up in a large fairway bunker.

At 463 yards, the par 5 ninth appears to be prime birdie territory. But the elevated green makes reaching it in two extremely tough. A long, high fairway wood is your only chance.

Water almost never comes into play on the Woods. But it's a different story on the "Meadows."

Six of the Meadows nine holes feature water that can snag a golf ball. The 374-yard sixth hole is the most prominent of the water holes.

Golfers tee off from an elevated area and hit to a medium sized fairway. Pushing your tee shot right puts the water into play - twice.

If your tee shot is lucky enough to avoid the pond, your second shot must make it over again to hit the green. Water runs the length of this hole to the right.

Perhaps the most enjoyable hole on Meadows is No. 1.

A tiny 111-yard par 3, golfers must loft their shot over a bunker in front of the green and a pond to its right. Use a wedge or a 9-iron and go target shooting.

Plymouth resident Wade Stevens walked away from the Woods and Meadows impressed. He said he'll be back to play Mystic Creek often.

"I think this is going to be something special in a few years," he added.

Suburban Detroit:

We have the leadership in readership!

SPRING delivers the suburbs with more weekday readers than The News and Free Press combined!

Now there are more reasons than ever to go home with SPRING Newspapers. SPRING continues to be the primary weekday newspaper for suburban residents of this "suburb-driven market." For example:

- 48% of adults in the SPRING survey area read SPRING weekly and daily newspapers.
- SPRING delivers on average 1,060,000 total readers every week.
- That means SPRING delivers 1,167,000 gross impressions for an entire week.

Compare these numbers to your other media alternatives: only 37% of adults in the SPRING survey area read the weekday Free Press or The Detroit News. More suburban Detroit readers turn to SPRING.

- SPRING delivers more weekday suburban readers with household incomes over $30,000.
- SPRING delivers more suburban homeowners (51%) than any other weekday newspaper.

To find out more about how the Detroit market has changed, and for information about our current audit, call the SPRING Newspaper Network at 1-800-382-8878.

Home-buyers to be have some concerns

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The proportion of people who own homes is on the increase, after declining for 15 years. After steadily rising from the 1940s to 1980, the proportion of owners (vs. renters) peaked at 65.5 percent — then started falling, until last year.

"This trend reflects a complicated mix of financial and demographic factors," according to a report from Freddie Mac, a major secondary buyer of home mortgages. "Yet, it is particularly disappointing, given the past decade of falling interest rates, stable housing prices and mortgage industry efforts to make home-buying more affordable and accessible."

Key problems for prospective home-buyers include acquiring the needed down payment and con-

Fresno combines charm and substance

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

The first impression of the 2,260-square-foot Fresno is a combination of substance and charm. Brick detailing affords a sense of permanence, while the covered porch and stylish entry accent the welcoming effect of this attractive home.

To the left of the vaulted entry, the hub of this roomy, family-oriented home begins. The comfortable living room, with a large front window to enjoy the view, is separated from the spacious family room by a two-way fireplace. Here, heat permeates the entire area as friends and family gather to watch television or relax and savor the good company and stimulating conversation.

Freedom of movement and an easy flow of foot traffic are integral parts of this unique floor plan.

The kitchen sits conveniently between the nook and dining room, an aspect that is sure to please the cook in the home. With a walk-through design, the kitchen's features include a walk-in pantry, double ovens, cooktop and appliance center. This central placement allows meals to be easily prepared and served formally in the dining room or more casually in the brightness of the vaulted, skylit nook.

The right side of this floor design is given over to the sumptuous master suite. Amenities here include a home security system, huge walk-in closet, separate vanity, private bathroom with spa, and access to a small back deck, where you can put a couple of steaks on the barbecue, weather permitting.

The opposite side of the home has a large home office, two bedrooms, each with ample closet space, and a full bathroom and half-bath at opposing ends of the adjacent hallway.

There also is also a utility room with access to the garage, which allows you to leave muddy shoes outside and soiled clothing right by the washer and dryer. The two-car garage has a shop/storage area and built-in work bench.

Added room is available in the 1,247-square-foot attic that runs the length of the house.

For a study plan of the Fresno (334-140), send $10 Landmark Design's, c/o HomeTown Newspaper, 323 E. Grand River, Howell, MI, 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.) For more information, call (800) 562-1151.

By CAROL WORKENS

"It is part of decorating," said Nancy Cragel of Novi. "It adds a little bit of character, hopefully it says fun people live here."

Dressed geese are being seen everywhere except the dinner table. The cement or plastic yard goose has been spotted on more and more porches over the last five years. Cragel received "Alice" as a gift from her mom about a year ago.

"I like the plastic better, you can bring the goose inside," Cragel said. "The cement are so heavy you can't move them."

Alice's wardrobe consists of a variety of holiday ensembles as well as a bikini and a dress.

"This is the girl's thing," Cragel said whose first child was due July 8. "If I have a little boy, I might have to change the goose to a little boy."

Cragel's mom, who has had hers for three or four years, bought a goose for each of her three daughters and for her mother. Both Cragel's mother in law and sister in law also have a goose.

A cement goose can range from $30 to $50. A plastic goose will go for less

Grow vegetables to enjoy in winter months

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

How can you enjoy fresh produce all winter long? By growing vegetables that can be stored after you harvest them. You simply have to know which varieties they are.

Onions are the ultimate grow-to-store food. For example, "Copra" (Northern Dwellers), an onion with dark, heavy skin, outstores all other varieties.

However, there's a new variety related to "Copra" called "Prince." It's a bigger, tastier onion that stores almost as long.

Stokes Seeds has a good one, too, called "Duration." It's a blocky, globe-shaped onion that stores through the winter without sprouting or softening.

Burpee swears by "Sweet Sandwich" (hybrid), a sweet-tasting onion that stores well — storing even gives it a milder taste! Keep in mind that most storage onions have a strong taste, while most sweet onions don't store well.

If you're going to store onions, you'll need to cure them before storage. If you dwell where the sun is really strong, you should probably cure the onions in partial shade rather than in full sun.

The key to storing your cured onions for long periods is keeping them dry. Hang them up if possible. If hanging isn't an option, you can stack them — as long as you keep them in a room with low humidity. The colder the room, the better: 32 degrees is ideal. Keep your stored onions away from stored apples because apples give off ethylene gas, which can trigger early sprouting and ruin your precious winter onion crop.

Shallots and garlic are other members of the allium family that also store well after harvest. These vegetables need to cure so they're nice and dry before storage.

Store garlic the same way you store onions. When choosing which garlic to plant, stick with soft-necked types like "New York," which keep better than stiff-neck types.

If you like leeks, you're in luck — all varieties are great

Storing vegetables a long time

■ Plant long-keeping varieties.

■ Onions keep easily. Cure them before storage in bright light but not harsh sun. Hang or stack them in a cold, unfrozen, low-humidity room. Do not store near apples.

■ Store garlic and shallots just like onions, but cut off their tops.

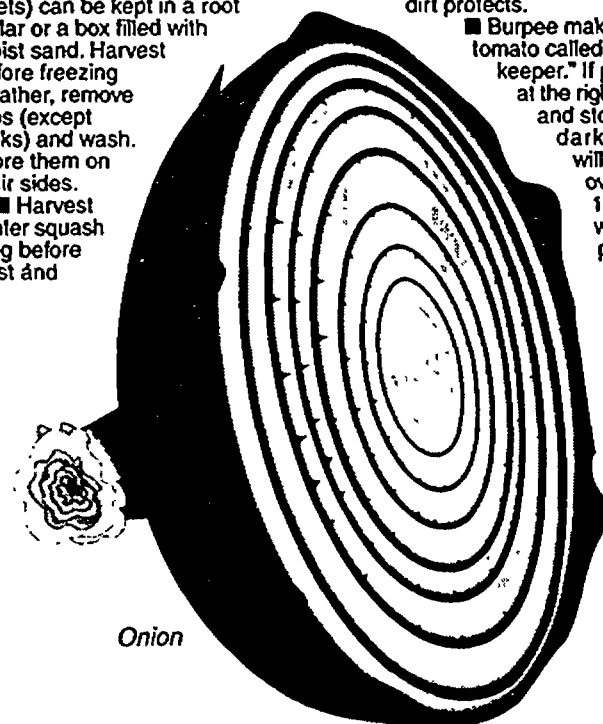

■ Root crops (leeks, carrots, beets) can be kept in a root cellar or a box filled with moist sand. Harvest before freezing weather, remove tops (except leeks) and wash. Store them on their sides.

■ Harvest winter squash long before frost and store on top of thick newspaper at about 50° F. They will keep for about 4 months.

■ Store potatoes in cool darkness with a high humidity. A barrel is a good container. Store only those free of nicks or damage — a bad one will hasten spoilage. Do not wash potatoes or bacteria may attack them. A coating of dry dirt protects.

■ Burpee makes a tomato called "long keeper." If picked at the right time and stored in darkness, it will ripen over a 12-week period.

Home-buyers to be have some concerns

cern about the economy and job security. Families don't want to take the plunge if they fear being unable to afford the continuing mortgage payments.

The highly publicized media stories about downsizing of major companies doesn't help build confidence to the point where a buyer signs on the dotted line. It's too easy to say, "Let's rent for a while longer."

Most people are aware of the disadvantages of renting vs. buying. There is no tax advantage, no equity buildup, no pride of ownership. And now it's even worse.

Between 1984 and 1994, the average cost of renting, including utilities, rose to 20 percent of a household's income. During the same period, the average cost of owning, including utilities, tax savings and expected property appreciation (increases), went from more than 33 percent of a household's income to 24 percent.

It's surprising that some people who are financially capable of buying a home still continue to rent. Maybe they feel uncomfortable with the home-buying and financing process, an obstacle that can prove as daunting as financial challenges, according to the Freddie Mac report.

"Many renters simply feel too ill-at-ease with either the risks or the complexities of ownership to undertake the necessary steps to find, finance and take legal title to a home."

Focusing on younger families and minority households, the picture looks more gloomy. Homeownership among young white households, age 25 to 34, dropped to 50.9 percent in 1990 from 57.4 percent 10 years earlier.

African-American and Hispanic ownership rates declined to 23.2 percent from 31.5 percent, and to 32.4 percent from 37.5 percent, respectively.

"Efforts to increase homeownership and mortgage-application rates are unlikely to have a significant impact unless they address the comfort issue," the Freddie Mac report said.

"To be effective, intervention strategies must include the specific aim of allaying the fears and concerns that unnerved renters about buying a home."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Grow some vegetables to enjoy the winter months

for storage. Store leeks as you would any root crop. Simply pull them out of the garden when the snow starts to fall and store them on their sides in damp sand with their tops still on. Another way to store leeks is to trim off all of the roots and most of the green tops and put what's left in the crisper drawer in the fridge. Leeks will keep for several months that way.

Ah, winter squash — another great long-keeping garden goodie that's high on everyone's list. Squash should be harvested long before frost and stored at about 50 degrees. It's best to place squash on the floor on top of thick pads of newspaper. Be sure to check them on a regular basis.

Butternut squash is best for flavor and quality and will store up to four months. It actually improves in storage, becoming sweeter over the winter.

How about a fresh-from-your-garden tomato when the growing season is over? Well, you can have one. The variety is called "Long Keeper" (Burpee). It has a gene that slows down the ripening process. They should be harvested when they turn from regular, unripe tomato green to a pale, whitish green. Wrapped in newspaper and kept in a cool, dark spot, the tomato will slowly ripen over the next 12 weeks, allowing you to eat home-grown tomatoes well into January.

Turning to potatoes, the russet type can be kept all winter without sprouting, given the right conditions. The important thing about winter potatoes is to store them in barrels, bags or someplace else where it's completely dark because light produces poisonous alkaloids that show up as a greenish tinge on and under their skins. Potatoes need to be in a cool, dark place with fairly high humidity to keep them from drying out. You don't want it too cold; nothing below 40 degrees or else the potatoes will start converting starches to sugars, which will cause chilling injury and make them taste funny.

You should make sure you store only disease-free tubers because, like apples, a few rotting potatoes can spoil the whole lot. This applies also to storing any kind of produce. The less damaged each individual is, the longer the whole batch will keep. And don't wash your spuds before storing them. If you have a lot of soil on your potatoes, simply let them dry, then brush the soil off and store. Potatoes are very susceptible to bacterial diseases that can spread to the whole crop if you wash them before storage. Commercial potatoes are washed with water containing chemical disinfectants that kill the bacteria.

Root crops are a cinch. They can be stored for a really long time in a root cellar, but how many of us have one of those? Most of us can make do with a box filled with moist sand placed in a cool basement to keep your carrots, beets and the like from going bad.

I harvest my root crops as late as possible just before the ground freezes. I remove the tops and then use a hose to wash all the soil off. Store root crops on their sides in boxes used to ship and store fruit. (Ask your local grocery store for any surplus boxes.) It's important to keep root crops moist, so trim the tops off before storing. If you leave the tops on, you'll lose moisture through the leaves, which will dry out the roots.

Clothes for every occasion help spruce the goose

than $10. Goslings and their outfits are less.

"We really do have a lot of fun with it," Cragel said.

The clothing which is available for every occasion or special event ranges in price from $15 to $25 for a 24 to 27 inch goose. Patterns for outfits are available but sometimes hard to find.

"If anyone sews it is a piece of cake to figure out," said Cragel, whose grandmother has made some of the outfits Alice wears.

Outfits for Christmas, St. Patrick's Day, Thanksgiving, New Year's Eve, Fourth of July are among the many holiday themes available.

Another well dressed goose is Brigitte (as in Bardot) who has become quite the celebrity in her Novi neighborhood. "The handicapped children on the school bus really like them," Joyce Strong said of the plaster goose she has had for about four years.

"I thought it was neat and the only person I knew had one was my neighbor," Strong said. When the neighbor moved away, Brigitte moved in.

Switching outfits takes a couple of minutes. Outfits are made to slip over the goose's head and are secured by hooks or velcro or have elastic around the neck. Hand washing and line drying is recommended for the clothes. Strong stores Brigitte's clothes by season in boxes.

"I look for things that are different," Strong said. Strong's sports outfits include a Lion's jersey, with built in shoulder pads, and a helmet; and a Red Wing's outfit, complete with an octopus. During June, Brigitte wears a green graduation cap and gown, and in September, a back to school ensemble. Law enforcement and the fire department are also represented.

Known as the goose lady in the neighborhood, seniors out for a walk will make a detour to include Strong's house just to see what the goose is wearing.

"I have met more people who stop and tell me 'We can't wait to come buy and see what you have dressed on that goose,'" Strong said. "Even the men will pull up (in their cars) and tell me they liked the outfit I had on (Brigitte) last week."

Some stitchers include more detail and accessories than others, which is something to consider when deciding on an outfit.

Included in Strong's collection is a golf outfit with a golf bag, club and ball and a visor with spare tees. The cowboy outfit has a brown and white fur vest with a holster and two guns. The fireman has a fire hose and the policeman has a pair of handcuffs. Most outfits also come with a coordinating hat.

The geese are available at some garden stores and at craft shows. The cement goose can range in weight from 40 to 80 pounds. Plastic geese can be weighted with sand or water to stabilize.

Brigitte has become such a landmark in the neighborhood the little children enjoy going by and looking at her and the neighbors miss her if she's not out.

Gaggle

The first issue of GAGGLE Newsletter was published in April 1996 and already Kim Belz has over 400 subscribers. GAGGLE translates into General Association of Gleeeful Goose Lovers Everywhere - not the two-legged kind, but the stationary lawn ornament.

Belz, a Northville resident and a yard goose owner herself, was prompted into publishing a newsletter at the urging of a co-worker at Channel 2 where she is a producer.

The quarterly newsletter contains an "Ask Mother Goose" column, helpful hints on protecting the goose's clothing, patterns for the clothing, letters from goose lovers in 12 states and Canada, and advertisements of where to get more goose attire.

Belz's two sons, Matt McBride, who will be a junior at Catholic Central in the fall, designed and does the layout of the newsletter, and Andrew Bell, an eighth grade student at Frost Middle School in Livonia, helps with the stapling and collating.

To subscribe to GAGGLE Newsletter, send a check for $9.95 to GAGGLE Newsletter, 16300 Brookwood Ct., Northville, MI 48167 or call (313) 420-1093.

Local grads start computer service

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

Two decades ago nobody had ever heard of Bill Gates.

Now he's a multi-billionaire and operates one of the world's biggest corporations, Microsoft. Northville residents Farb Nivi and David Marino are hoping to do for computer repairs and customer service what Gates did for software.

"We're setting down the foundation for a company that can really go someplace," Nivi said of Vision Computer Solutions, Inc. "Long term, I want this to be an international company."

That may sound like a lofty goal for a pair of 19-year-olds. But when you consider how barren the market is for a firm that makes house calls, does maintenance, training, networking and 24-hour consulting, perhaps it isn't.

"We see ourselves as (the new) Bill Gates," said Nivi.

Both Nivi and Marino graduated from Northville High in 1995. The duo came up with the idea for Vision a few years ago.

"We couldn't think of any company that did this," Nivi said.

Both grew up around computers and enjoyed working and playing with them. But the two friends experienced major frustrations in dealing with poor customer service departments at the computer superstores and so-called help lines that manufacturers offered.

"We got sick of how the computer industry handled people," Nivi said. "They've lost sight of the person."

With that in mind, the two local grads opened Vision Computer Solutions in December of last year.

"We decided to provide a service to people, families and small businesses, to fix computers and answer computer problems," Nivi said. "We want to provide a piece of mind to families and business, to take the fear out of owning a PC."

The duo put their money where there mouths are by keeping to a "no fix, no pay" policy.

"The heart of our company is continual support," Nivi said. "I'm not willing to make money if my customers aren't happy."

Neither Farb nor Dave have gotten rich off of their business thus far. But they have done well enough to hire an employee, fellow Northville High graduate Kevin Mooney, and reinvest in equipment for the company.

"We keep the money in our business," Marino said. "We don't see a lot of it."

Vision offers a variety of services. A single system discount package is provided for $250.

It includes a half hour consultation, which determines the client's needs in the short and long term, system purchase, installation (system set up) and start up orientation (answering of basic hardware and software questions).

For clients with existing systems, Vision can install and upgrade both hardware and software.

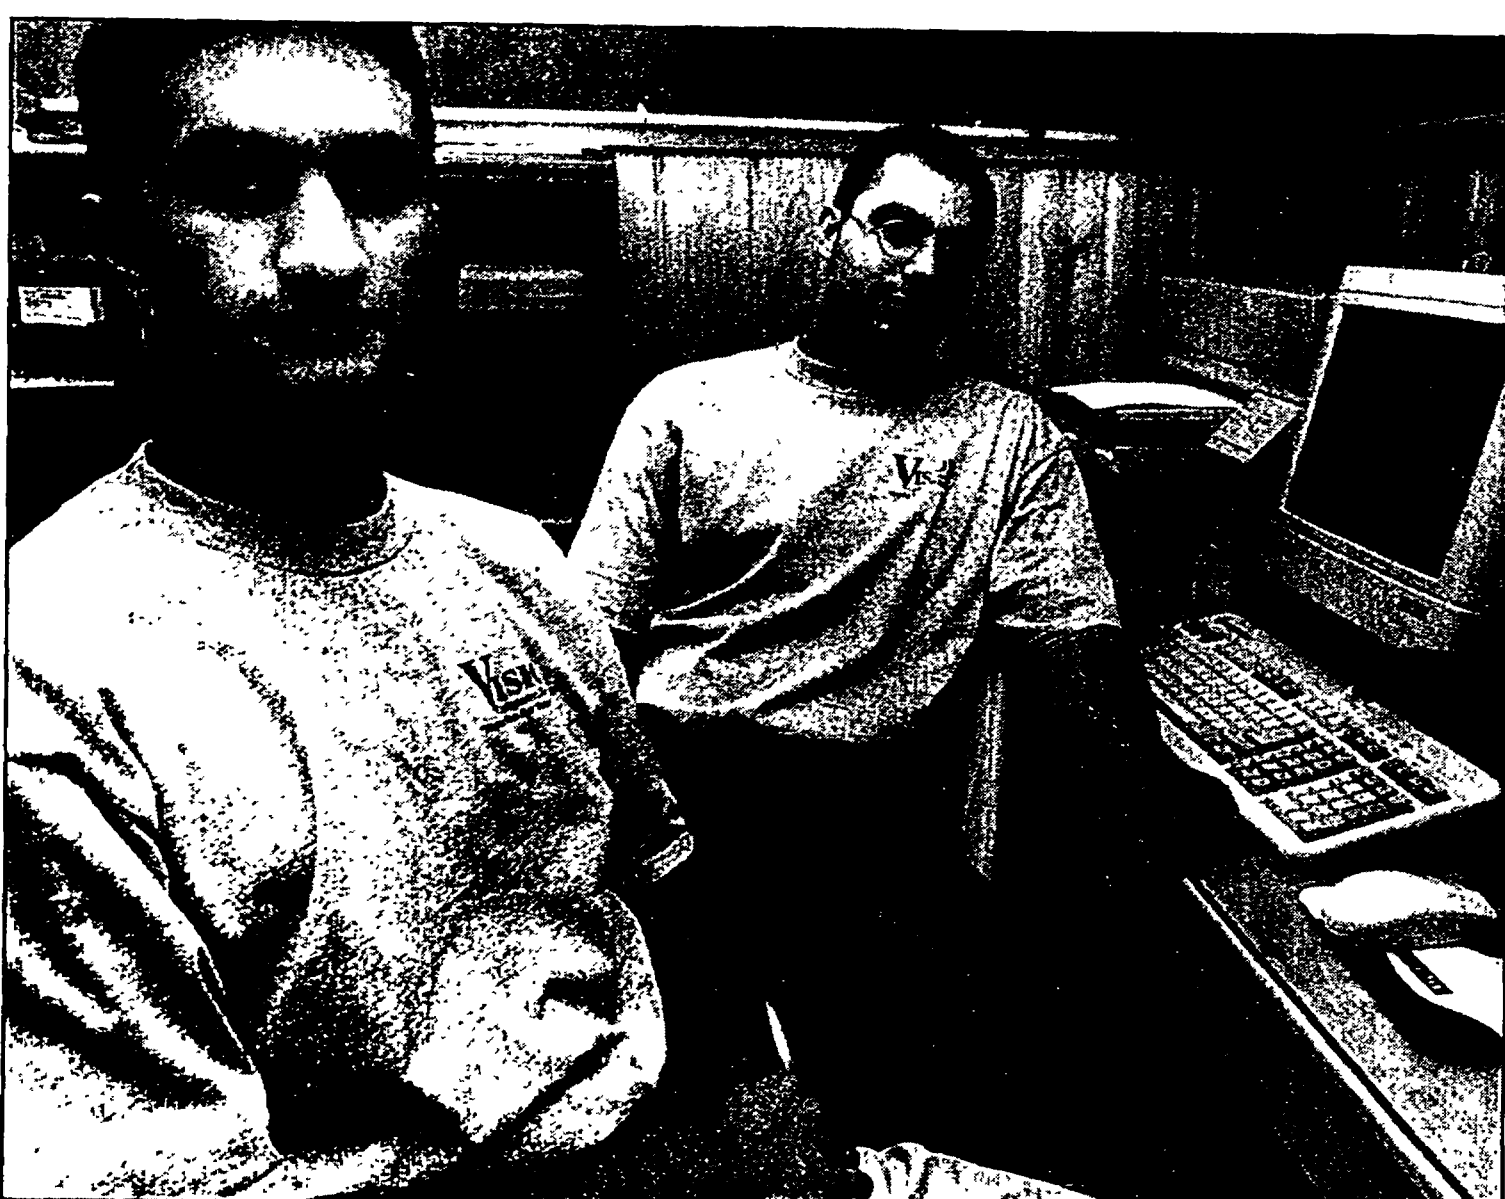

Windows '95 installation (one hour maximum) is $75 and other applications are done for $50. Hardware installations are done at the rate of $75 per hour.

Standard repairs for hardware and software are also $75 per hour. Nivi said appraisals are done for free.

Maintenance and networking for business is also done. Customized service contracts are done for each.

Vision can service both PC and Macintosh users.

For more information or for advice, repairs and service, call (810) 349-6115.

Farb Nivi and Dave Marino, of Vision Computer Solutions, found computer help services to be no help at all.

Job seekers say they recommend MESC

Michigan's public employment service is highly recommended among jobseekers who use the service.

"Among jobseekers who responded to a recent survey, 78 percent said they would recommend our Job Service program to others who are looking for work," F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), reported.

The MESC survey of 10,000 jobseekers who have used the agency's Job Service found that nearly two out of every three who registered for a job were referred to an employer for an interview, and more than a third of those sent to an employer were hired.

Local business people rename drive for school

Novi Expo Center president Blair Bowman and Vic Ventimiglia, owner of Vic's World Class Market, have a present for Novi—a newly-renamed street, Wildcat Drive, at the Novi Civic Center. The two won the honor at an auction to benefit the Novi Beautification Commission.

The new street sign was scheduled to be unveiled this morning at 9 a.m. The road accesses Novi High School from the city property. Also invited to the ceremony was everyone who has donated money or trees to spiff Novi up. # Planning for death can avoid taxes be in your family's best interest. For example, the state may split the money between your spouse and your children. However, even if your spouse needs the children's portion of the money to meet household expenses, he or she may not be able to obtain it.

assets could bypass the other spouse and go directly to other heirs. In this way, the surviving spouse's estate would not exceed $600,000 and heirs would benefit from the doubling of the exemption amounts.

control over it, to a trust and pay the premiums with gifts to the trust. On your death, the proceeds of the policy are paid to the trust and are not included in your estate. Your family can draw on the trust's income for life and your beneficiaries can eventually obtain the remainder.

KNOW THE VALUE

Don't assume that your estate is too small for you to be concerned about taxes and estate planning. It may be larger than you realize. Your estate includes your home and other real estate; stocks, bonds and other investments; interest in a closely held business; as well as your car, jewelry, antiques and other valuable. It also includes benefits from profit-sharing plans and the face value of your life insurance policies.

The MACPA points out that even if your estate is currently worth under $600,000, it may increase substantially simply because the value of your assets is rising. Developing an estate plan will enable your heirs to profit from your wise financial planning decisions.

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

MAKE A WILL

The basic element of any estate plan is a will. A will specifies how and when your assets should be distributed and names an executor who is responsible for managing your estate. Your will should also name legal guardians for your minor children. In the event that both you and your spouse die, Without a will, the court names an executor, to distribute your assets. In many cases, this is a court administrator who must be paid from your estate.

The court also selects a guardian for your minor children and, if family members fight over custody, your estate pays for the legal battle—depriving your children of yet more of your hard-earned assets.

Finally, the absence of a will allows state law to allocate your property among your heirs. But how your assets are split may not

ESTATE TAX EXEMPTIONS

Another important part of estate planning is ensuring that your estate is structured in a way that enables you to take advantage of available exemptions. For estates under $10 million, the first $600,000 of assets is exempt from federal estate and gift tax.

There is also an important marital deduction, which enables a married person to transfer an unlimited amount of property free tax to the surviving spouse. However, when the surviving spouse dies, only $600,000 of assets in the estate will be shielded from estate taxes. Amounts over $600,000 are taxed at rates ranging from 37 to 55 percent. Couples with modest estates could minimize estate taxes by dividing their assets so each spouse separately owns no more than $600,000 in assets. If one spouse dies, these

USE TRUSTS AND GIFTS

If you anticipate having more than $600,000 in assets, there are other steps you can take to reduce your taxable estate and pass more of your wealth onto your heirs.

• Establish a by-pass trust. This type of trust provides a mechanism for you to pass assets directly to your heirs. Without the assets being included in the taxable estate of your spouse. A typical by-pass trust would enable the widow or widower to receive income from the trust. At his or her death, the principal would pass to the children.

• Make Gifts. You can give any number of people a gift of up to $10,000 a year (up to $20,000 a year if you make a joint gift with your spouse) without paying tax on your gifts.

• Consider an Irrevocable Life Insurance Trust. You can give your life insurance policy, and all con-

50s Festival

MICHIGAN

Wednesday through Sunday July 24-28, 1996

Novl. Michigan

Dear reader:

Welcome to the Ninth Annual Michigan '50s Festival, and to The Novi News' special '50s Festival supplement, which serves as the official guide for the activities.

If you are not familiar with Novi or the festival, you should know that over the years, the festival has come to be the central event in the city's annual calendar. It provides the focal point for year ... that one event for which everybody who is anybody in town turns out.

It is comparable to the founder's day festivals so many other towns have. Since Novi's growth as a community really began in the 1950s, it is an appropriate theme.

It's just that our founder's day festival is so much more fun because it celebrates rock 'n' roll and hot rods, and because the main activity of many Novi residents over the five days of the event are socializing in the beer tent and dancing late into the night.

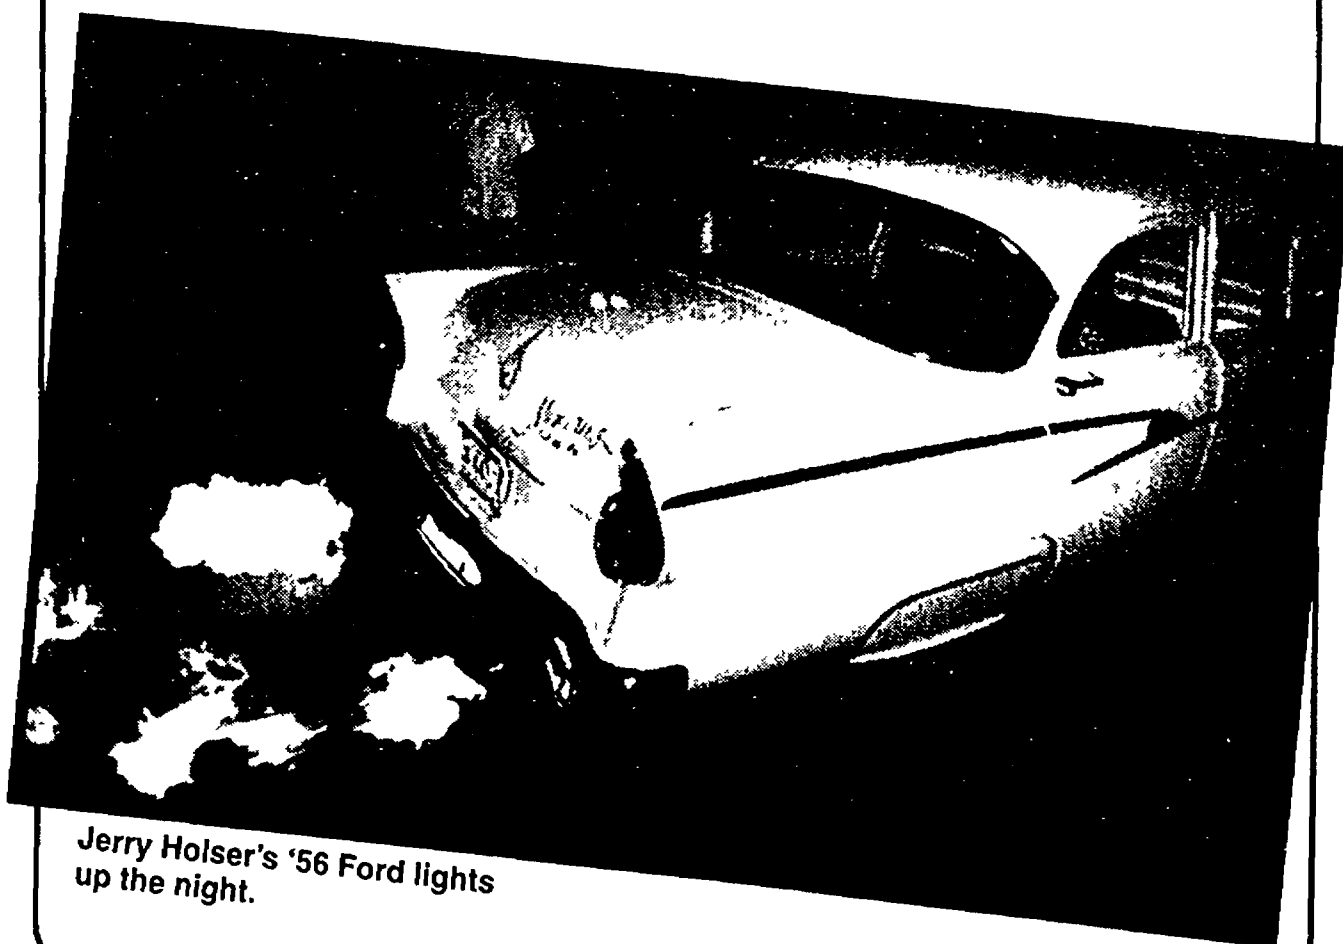

I don't want you to think we are too wild. The family tent provides an excellent place for parents to go with their children and hear the kinds of music they both like to listen to. At the same time, it has often been said that "the city of Novi really knows how to throw a party."

We hope you enjoy the festival.

Festival recalls era of peace, prosperity

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Ah, the Fifties.
What a time we had, huh? After twenty years of depression and world war America enjoyed a decade-long renaissance of sorts: unparalleled prosperity coupled (mostly) with peace.

It was an era of the highest heights and the lowest lows. We sent satellites into space and put the automobile on center stage. As the Korean war played out abroad, Joe McCarthy led the Red hunt at home.

We cruised those newfangled "highways" in chrome-encrusted muscle machines, maybe to take our minds off of living in the shadow of the bomb. We marveled at technological wonders like color TV and push-telephones and delighted in the blossoming of literature, art and music, including that newfangled sound which a Cleveland disc jockey coined "rock 'n' roll."

You can get a taste of those (no pun intended) happy days again during Novi's ninth annual Michigan '50s Festival. Once a year this town shuts down to celebrate the best of what America's middle decade had to offer and it's coming at ya this July 24-28.

Five fun-filled days and nights of food, drink, music and activities await you. There's something for everyone, right down to the little ones.

Let's talk vehicles. If you're a fan of those wuh-uh-uh-derful '50s cars, the Festival's your seventh heaven. From the Motorsports Hall of Fame to the classic car cruise, you'll see more sweet steel than you can shake a tailfin at.

The festival is chance to relive '50s era rock 'n' roll.

And don't even think of missing the music: from Danny Vann's Elvis tribute to traditional favorites like Rocky & The Rollers, it's a treat that your ears will thank you for. That's especially true when they learn that this year's headliners are none other than The Marvellettes.

Sit back and sip on a beer as you listen to the group who reminded every broken heart that there's just Too Many Fish in the Sea.

If all this tires you out, take a break with the kids and enjoy a lot of other neat stuff that will be on hand during the '50s Festival. There's a puppet theater and putt-putt golf, an ice cream social and visits from the likes of Max the Moose, circus clowns and your favorite Warner Bros. characters.

You can bet on having a good time at the Vegas tent or peruse the arts and crafts booths. Buy a ticket for the Rotary Club's raffle and you could win a restored '50s classic auto. Stop by the on-location broadcast booth of WOMC (104.3 FM) and see radio as it happens or check out the daily dog Olympics.

For all you dance fans there will be performances by local dance studios, clogging exhibitions and demonstrations of first-class country line dancing. A softball tournament and a model airplane show are both on the list of this year's Festival fun as well.

Needless to say, all of this is likely to work up your appetite. Fear not, friends and neighbors, because the '50s Fest has got you covered. More than a dozen different vendors will offer hundreds of tempting, tasty treats to satisfy the palate and fill the stomach.

Carnival traditions like cotton candy, burgers, coneys and corn dogs, French fries, caramel apples and pizza can be had. Elias Brothers Big Boy will be serving breakfast on the weekend and there's a special pancake breakfast to partake of too.

Besides all that, the Festival lets you experiment as well with ethnic delicacies such as Greek gyros and assorted Thai foods. When the heat and the spice get your thirst working, don't worry: there'll be plenty of cold pop, lemonade and juices for sale.

So what are we waiting for, Daddy-O? Let's rock around the clock 'til broad daylight.

Music makes Festival special

What's a festival without music?

Planners of the Michigan '50s Festival know that's one of the key ingredients for success, and they plan to spice up the five-day party with lots of tunes from the '50s and the '60s.

Held the week of July 24-July 28 at the Novi Expo Center on Novi Road just south of I-96, the festival will feature a variety of groups playing throughout the week.

The following groups are here to rock around the clock:

Wednesday, July 24 - Teen Angels at 7 p.m. in the Entertainment Tent.

Thursday, July 25 - The Grass Roots and Steve King and The Diddlies at 7:30 p.m. in the Entertainment Tent. Admission $5.

Friday, July 26 - Rocky and The Rollers Danny Vann in Family Show Tent at 7:30 p.m. (until 9:30 p.m.) Admission $3.

Friday, July 26 - Rocky & The Rollers and The Marvellettes (2 shows) in Entertainment Tent at 9 p.m. Admission $10.

Saturday, July 27 - Tracey Lynn in Entertainment Tent until 4:00 p.m.

Saturday, July 27 - Danny Vann's Tribute to Elvis in the Family Tent at 7:30 p.m. Admission $3.

Saturday, July 27 - Rocky & the Rollers and Gary Lewis & the Playboys (2 shows) at 9 p.m. Admission $10.

Sunday, July 28 - The Tracy Lynn Country Show in Entertainment Tent until 4 p.m.

Sunday, July 28 - Rocky & The Rollers perform in the Entertainment Tent at 7 p.m.

Many of the groups making the music for the festival actually came into fame during the 1960s.

The Marvellettes, Motown's first "girl group," was organized in 1960 by Inkster High School students. They hit the charts in the very first years of the decade, with tunes such as "Please Mr. Postman," "Beechwood 4-5789" (the date song) and "Playboy," as well as "Don't Mess With Bill" in 1966.

Also, Gary Lewis & The Playboys, came into their own during the '60s.

The group features Lewis, the son of the comedian Jerry Lewis. Produced by Leon Russell, several trade magazines voted the soft-rock group "the Most Promising Vocal Group of 1965" after their chartbuster "This Diamond Ring." Among other hits were "Save Your Heart For Me" and "Everybody Loves A Clown."

The psychedelic Grassroots crooned their string of top 45s in the late 60s including "Where Were You When I Needed You," "Midnight Confessions," "Things I Should Have Said" and "Sooner or Later."

Everyone comes to dance.

The cars in the Grand River Cruise are hot ... sometimes too hot.

Cruise celebrates the 'hot rod'

Owners get to cruise Grand River in their wheels again

To celebrate the 100th anniversary of the automobile, the Motorsports Museum and Hall of Fame will take over sponsorship of the '50s Festival Car Show and Grand River Cruise ... and will be making the show special.

To be located in the back lot of the Novi Expo Center, on the festival grounds near the museum itself, the car show this year will include the Novi Special and some 70 racing vehicles, along with the hundreds of vintage that enter the show to compete for awards. The show is reserved for cars 1974 and older.

Admission this year will be $2, but the price will include entry to the museum as well. The entry fee for cars in the show will be $15, but it includes the price of admission to the Cruise as well. Cars may begin arriving as early as 6 a.m., but they will go on display at 10. And they'll stay there all day until 4 p.m. Then it is time for the Grand River Cruise, from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

As always, viewing the 1,200 some cars which are expected to participate in the Cruise is free, but there is a $5 charge for those who want to drive in it.

This is the ninth annual Classis Car Show and Grand River Cruise. Awards are given in about two dozen areas, including such categories as Original/Restored cars by date starting with 1900, Street Rods both open and closed from 1900 to 1948, Trucks, Corvettes, Sports Cars, Classic Chevy, three subcategories for Street Machines/modified according to year, Mustangs, Muscle Cars, Special Interest/Kit Cars, along with Best of Show, Mayor's Choice and Ladies' Choice. All cars which arrive before 11 a.m. are judged.

The Cruise will start and finish from the staging area on Eleven Mile Road. The loop will be between Twelve Mile Road and Ten Mile Road on Meadowbrook and on Grand River between Novi Road and Haggerty. Most of the cars registered in the Classic Car Show also participate in the cruise.

As always, all traffic laws apply during the cruise and will be enforced the Novi Police Department.

The Novi Special will be at center stage during the festival this year, as part of the 100th anniversary celebrations.

The Novi Rotary will be selling raffle tickets for giveaway car throughout the festival. The drawing for that automobile will be held at 9 on stage of the Entertainment Tent.

Car has long history in Novi ... and it wasn't always pretty

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Gridlock. Grand River Avenue. Novi Road. Twelve Mile Road. Geez, the traffic is terrible in Novi.

They say it now. They said it then. In the 1950s, the car had only been around 60-some years, but the roads were even more of a combat zone 40 years ago.

Grand River was known as "suicide row," according to Lee BeGole, Novi's police chief through the 1950s. Head-on collisions were common, as two cars trying to bypass the Walled Lake Casino crowd met in the center lane. The injured were carted off in a hearse, before an ambulance service was started by local resident Leo Harrawood.

"That was depressing to some of the survivors, who saw their loved ones leave in a hearse. I explained, as long as the red light is flashing, they're still alive," BeGole said.

Told over and over again is the story about how the interstate connecting Farmington and Brighton opened in 1957, making a Novi a viable suburb. Forget that. Once Henry Ford started cranking out cars cheap enough for Detroiters to afford, Novi was a regional center in the 1920s. They came for the Walled Lake Casino and Amusement Park, to boat on the lake, rent a summer cottage or pitch a tent in Dodge State Park, now Lakeshore Park. Giant picnics at the beach were a common feature for the big companies and unions such as the UAW.

Novi residents, like everyone else, were eager to own cars. To capture that market, in the mid-1950s, dealerships were springing up nearby.

In 1956, you could buy the cheapest Ford sedan, the Mainline Tudor for $1,533.07, white walls extra, at Marr Taylor Ford in Northville. Jack Selle Buick in Plymouth boasted in The Novi News that for $2,395 the dealership "Puts You In The Big Time": "Why hold back from the fun and thrill and pride of bossing a Buick when you can boss such a big and strapping Buick for the price of a smaller car?"

On the economy side, in March 1956 the old M. J. Moeren General Store at the northwest corner of Novi Road and Grand River was torn down to make way for Detroit car dealer Wes Coon's used car lot.

Locals had a new place to take those buggies in July 1956, when with a fanfare of publicity, the Walake Drive-In opened at Maple and Welch roads. The first movies to show at the "Lake District's Most Modern Drive-In Theater", with its "Brightest Picture, You Can't Strain Your Eyes," were "The Tall Men" starring Jane Russell and Clark Gable and "The Lieutenant Wore Skirts," with Sheree North and Tom Ewell.

Life really did change for Novi residents when the freeway came, lifting traffic off local roads. But Grand River Avenue merchants, who had been raking in bucks from motoring tourists, were nervous. One of the most popular businesses in Novi, Kathy's Buttermilk Stand - best buttermilk in the Detroit area - would go under after the east/west traffic dwindled away, BeGole said.

"Grand River Avenue was the major artery and it was overloaded. It far outnumbered the accidents today. The freeway was badly needed," he explained.

"When the freeway came, you could have fired a cannon down Grand River and not hit anything."

Novi had its first I-96 accidents 14 months before the expressway even opened. One Sunday in separate incidents, two Farmington drivers weren't perturbed by the fact that construction barriers blocked the entrance at their end. Both zipped west along the interstate at high speeds until their cars failed to hop over a 30-foot stretch of unpaved highway near Meadowbrook Road. One was seriously injured.

Leaf through the yellowed pages of the 1956 Novi News and what stands out are the photographs of the grim, convoluted remains of all those 1950s Chevs and Fords in the days before seatbelts, air bags and padded dashboards. Rollover accidents were standard fare. Compounding the problems, many 1930s cars were still on the road, in a bad state of repair.

June 1957 saw Novi's worst motor melee. That Sun-

Changing Tires Easy With New Auto Jack

The most revolutionary change in the design of the automobile jack since the days of high pressure tires is featured as standard equipment on all 1956 Buicks. The jack is similar in design to those used in garages, featuring two bases instead of one, and can be operated with the foot. Jacking points have been marked on the frame to eliminate any doubt about where the new jack is to be placed.

day, as everyone began to head for home from the amusement park and casino, the roads became slick with rain. Twenty-three traffic accidents ensued, and it took every cop, volunteer firefighter and wrecker on duty to pick up the mess. Even one of the tow trucks wiped out on the way to a rescue.

"Everybody was in a hurry and they'd go skidding out there. We couldn't transport the survivors. We brought them back to the township hall," BeGole said.

As a way to make money off all those tourists, Novi was a speed trap. Once apprehended, the culprit would be whisked before the bench at the township hall on Novi Road, where the judge would slap them with a $5 fine, $25 in court costs and three days in the Pontiac jail. The fine went to the state, but Novi got to keep the court costs, BeGole said.

"Judge Yerkes said go get them," he added.

Novi teens weren't the ones whooping through the place. They were a well-regulated crowd who held down after-school jobs, the former police chief said. Just in case the youngsters wanted to exorcise their speed demons, Novi Township held supervised drag races every Sunday on Napier Road. In the winter, motorcycle races were organized on Walled Lake.

Novi special runs again at MIS

City is home to one of Indy's fastest cars

Thirty years after it ran its last race, the Novi Special found its way back to the racetrack this spring.

The car that put the city of Novi on the motor sports map ran some parade laps around the two-mile oval at Michigan International Speedway before the running of the inaugural U.S. 500 on Memorial Day.

The car usually rests at the Motorsports Hall of Fame, located at the Novi Expo Center, and is viewed by hundreds of people each year. It will be part of a major exhibit celebrating 100 years of the automobile during the Michigan '50s Festival, according to Executive Director Ron Watson, who said the Hall of Fame will play an important role during this year's festival.

But it will be the Novi Special that will sit center stage. Anyone who had more than a passing interest in auto racing during the 1950s knew of the notorious Novis. The cars were noisy, they were powerful and they were almost always fast. But for some reason, the series of Novi Special race cars never made it to victory lane at the Indianapolis 500.

The car's history began near the onset of World War II. Lew Welch, a former Ford Motor Company employee started his own manufacturing company in what was then Novi Township. The Novi Equipment Company supplied a variety of components to the automobile industry over the years.

In 1939, Welch joined forces with three-time Indy 500 winner Louis Meyer to open a Ford reconditioning facility, and it was in that facility that Welch conceived the remarkable supercharged V-8 engine that was the heart and sole of the Novi.

Built for speed and power the race car was designed to run at Indy, where the carbureted four-cylinder Offenhauser engine was the dominant power plant of the day. The Novi engine was a powerhouse generating an unheard of 500 horsepower.

By 1953 the Novi Specials were the fastest cars at Indy, qualifying fastest five times, broke single and four lap track records three times, and led the Memorial Day classic on three separate occasions. Victory, however, eluded the Novi for a number of reasons, ranging from crashes, to parts failure, to running out of gas.

The Novi's racing days ended in 1966 when driver Greg Weld crashed the car during Indy qualification.

The car, along with 70 additional racing vehicles, will be featured during the Classic Car Show, hosted by the hall of fame this year. According to Watson the even will be held in the northwest parking area of the Expo Center July 28.

Watson said that for a two dollar ticket, show-goers will be able to see hundreds of vintage automobiles and will receive same day admittance to the hall of fame. For more information contact the Hall of Fame at (810) 349-7223.

Many of the issues were the same back then

Think the youth of today is out of control? Well, in 1957 two teens were arrested for breaking into Novi School and taking petty cash, $35, from the office. Also, the state legislature was dealing with an increase in the youth prison population.

"SOFT TOUCH" CHIROPRACTIC

Kathy Duncan had a satisfying full time career as a registered nurse in critical care when she decided to pursue a degree as a Doctor of Chiropractic. The career move came when Dr. Duncan found relief from her migraine headaches after being treated by a Doctor of Chiropractic. In chiropractic treatment, Dr. Duncan found her problem resolved when other methods of treatment failed.

This prompted Dr. Duncan to become a chiropractor. She graduated from Life Chiropractic College in 1986, where she was president of her class. In 1990, Dr.

Duncan opened Soft Touch Chiropractic in Novi.

Dr. Duncan practices a soft, gentle, non-invasive pressure point treatment for all types of pain or discomfort in the back, neck, head or legs. With the spine as the focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure on points along the muscles in conjunction with the spine. With the muscles relaxed, the spine can re-adjust itself naturally.

Tight muscles caused by stress, tension, strains or trauma can pull the spinal column out of alignment. This can produce many types of pain or discomfort in the body.

Located at 23895 Novi Road, Suite 400 in Novi, Soft Touch Chiropractic is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 9:00 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. until 6:00 p.m. Saturday hours are by appointment only. The phone number is (810) 348-2000.

What's Cooking?

(What's your favorite dish? If you will share it with other Northville housewives, please call The Northville Record's society editor, telephone 200.)

The eager on-lookers are Beth, 7 months; Patty, 2; David, 7, and Gregory, 6 as mom—Eugene King of South Rogers St.—prepares cream puff shells for a tasty salmon dish.

For more variations of this recipe, see the column by Mrs. Eugene King of South Rogers St. in the July 18, 1950, issue of The Novi News.—Editor

As the mother of four active children, Mrs. King finds it quite as well as attractive to be in the kitchen.

PUFFS

2 cups sifted flour
1/2 t. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup boiling water
2 eggs

Sift together flour and salt. Melt shortening in a large bowl. Add dry ingredients to boiling water, stirring constantly. Cook until mixture leaves sides of pan in a smooth, compact ball, stirring vigorously.

Remove from heat and cool for about one minute. Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each addition until mixture is smooth again.

Drop by rounded tablespoons into hot oil (350 degrees F.) for 10 minutes, then at 400 F. for 15 to 20 minutes. Turn over in the top of the pan and fry with a creamed sea food. Salmon is suggested here, but any bean or any seafood combination may be substituted.

CREAMED SALMON

1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 t. hot sauce
Pan fry celery and green pepper in shortening.
6 t. shortening
6 t. flour
3 cups milk
Melt shortening in top of double boiler and mix well. Add celery over direct heat. Stir constantly. Cook thick and smooth. Place on water.

Add

2 cups (1 to 2 in) fish salt
1 t. salt
1/2 t. pepper
1 t. chopped parsley celery mixture

Cook for about five minutes until vegetables are thoroughly heated.

Variations

Dessert Cream Puffs: Fill with ice cream, berries, or sweetened whipped cream. Top with berries or sliced fruit.

Tidbit Puffs: Make puffery (1/2" batter for each) with deviled ham, fish or shellfish, or cream cheese.

DOES THIS SATISFY YOU? Many girls have called this office to ask why we print pinups for the men and neglect to print heart-throbs for the girls. We aim to please with the above example of our most concentrated efforts... any comment? He is rated as "the handsomest lifeguard". Now please girls, don't ask where he does his life-saving, we want to keep Northville charmers in Northville this summer.

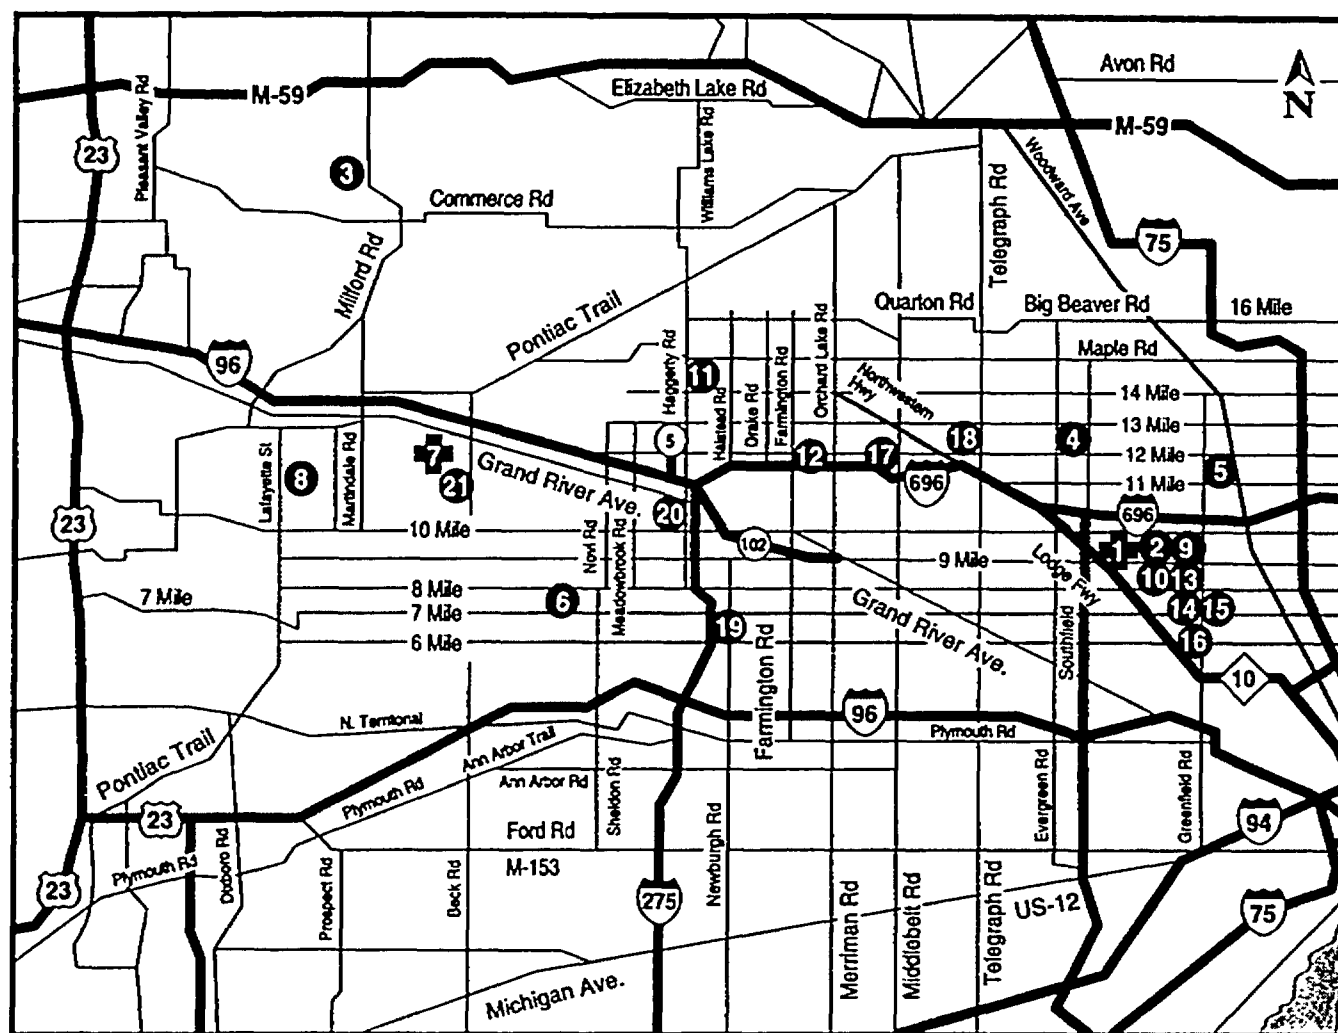

IT'S ANYBODY'S GUESS whether this picture was intended to promote southern vacations or sell Brownie cameras (such as the guy is happily using). But there is little doubt regarding the magnificence of the view.

Motown wowwed audiences in the '60s. And Doris Jackson of The Shirelles wowwed crowds at the '50s Festival last year.

Motown put Michigan on pop music maps

By HANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It's hard to talk about the Fifty's Festival without speaking of that musical phenomenon we know and love as rock and roll.

Rock, friend, and neighbor — you just flat can't talk rock without mentioning Motown.

The little U.S.A. — The Motown Sound. We're not just talking a record company here. This is the story of a dream factory. Motown is a marvel that defied business odds to propel to the top of the music industry while simultaneously bridging the walls between black and white in the process.

It had for the brainchild of an auto assembly line worker who started it all in 1959 with nothing more than $800 and a dream. Before it hit its teens Detroit's own Motown Records stood atop many a mountain, including:

- Being the largest independently owned music company in the world.
- Becoming the most successful black owned business in America.

• Serving as the driving force which brought black artists into the mainstream of rock, both here and overseas. Through Gordy's efforts, black performers and their musical styles — untapped by the big record labels — came much closer to center stage.

Groups like the Miracles and the Supremes and the Temptations just to name a few, blurred and eventually dissolved that line between black and white music, leading audiences to finally just cheer for just plain old rock and roll.

It all began back in the '50s with a man named Berry Gordy, Jr. An ex prizefighter turned record shop owner turned line worker, Gordy spent his off time doing what he liked — writing songs.

He penned hundreds, submitting his ditties to contests, or mailing a tune to the big New York labels. Hard work eventually paid off when rocker Jackie Wilson recorded four Gordy songs in the closing years of the decade.

It brought him a little notoriety and even less cash each, but the money, combined with $800 borrowed from his family, allowed Gordy to follow his heart and become a full time music producer.

Like an untapped oil field, a huge reservoir of black musical talent lay waiting to be released back then. All you needed was someone who knew where to drill.

Gordy was that someone. His knack was finding talented singers, songwriters and record producers. Even before Motown was born he'd shown that to be true, managing a little known group called the Miracles who were headed by a lead singer named William "Smokey" Robinson.

Before Motown, black performers had little shot at being seen by mainstream white audiences. True, guys like Elvis borrowed the energy of R&B or the vocal intensity of gospel, but very few of the big names in those black based styles ever even got to first base with white owned record labels. Fats Domino and Chuck Berry were the exceptions, not the rule.

In his office at 2648 W. Grand Boulevard in Detroit, Gordy sought to change all that. He was betting on the fact that his label's unique sound would win over audiences no matter what color they or the performers were. It took two years of hard work but then the dam began to burst.

1961 saw the Miracles' "Shop Around" become Motown's first million seller. The company entered music's major leagues on Dec. 10 of that year when

The Marvelettes took "Please, Mr. Postman" all the way to number one. A very good year was made even better with the signing of a gifted young singer named Steveland Judkins.

Just 11 years old and blind, Judkins would release his first record next year under the name Little Stevie Wonder.

It was in 1964-65 that Motown's rep changed from industry upstart to top-tier giant. Though the Beach Boys sizzled and the Brits invaded, Motown truly reigned Supremes.

It's funny in a way because Diana Ross, Mary Wilson and Florence Ballard started out at the bottom of the posters when they joined Dick Clark's Caravan of Stars tour in early '64. By the end of '65 they would have a record-setting string of five consecutive number one smashes behind them.

More hits, songs which would one day become immortal classics, followed in the ensuing years: Jr. Walker's "Shotgun" and The Temps' "My Girl" just to name two.

Motown had its share of bumps along the way, including ugly public legal feuds with the likes of Ballard and Temptations lead singer David Ruffin. As the '70s began to blossom, however, the company showed its strength anew.

L.A. became Motown's new home in 1972 and Gordy began to branch out into movies, such as "Lady Sings the Blues" with Diana Ross.

On and on it's gone ever since, with new names, such as the Jackson 5, churning out that same old string of hit after hit after hit. Today Motown has released thousands of rock, gospel, country and jazz recordings on thirty labels in two different continents, and along the way helped to shape rock and roll.

The festival always features lots of good food.

Vendors target your taste buds

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

It's hot, it's humid and you've been walking around the Michigan '50s Festival just long enough to work up an appetite.

So what do you do to stop those annoying hunger pangs? According to Festival Vending Director Vic Muscat, there'll be plenty of goodies on hand over the weekend to fill your bottomless pit.

"We try to get different foods in every year," he commented. "We try not to double up on any of the (types of food)."

Muscat has overseen food vending at the '50s Festival for the past nine years. He has extensive experience in the industry as a vendor himself.

"I use to work 28 festivals a year," the Novi resident said. "From her to Escanaba."

This year's Michigan '50s festival will feature 15-16 vendors.

A number of ethnic foods will be featured. The Greek sandwich or "gyros" will be served as well as assorted Tai foods.

Plenty of standard carnival fare will be on hand, too.

Cotton Candy will be in abundant supply for the kids. Hamburgers, coney dogs, corn dogs, French fries, caramel apples and pizza are other items that will be on hand for the festival.

Big Boy's Restaurant will serve breakfast on both weekend days, Muscat said. Besides being on the main festival site, he added, that the restaurant would also offer breakfast items at the car show.

Pepsi is the beverage supplier. Muscat said fresh lemonade and juices would also be sold.

The beer tent will not sell larger food products. But popcorn and peanuts will around to munch on.

Prices for all food items will vary from vendor to vendor.

"I expect most items will be in the $2.50-$3.50 range," Muscat said.

The Fifties saw a lot of 'food firsts'

1950 - New to the market are Sugar Pops, Minute Rice and concentrated milk.

1951 - The Kitchen of Sara Lee is opened by Charles Lubin, who names a frozen cheese cake and then a company after his little girl. Lubin also invented aluminum foil pans to serve up the stuff.

Meanwhile, to store all those leftovers, Earl Tupper comes up with the containers bearing his name.

1952 - Kellogg's brings out Sugar Smacks and Sugar Frosted Flakes, but Tony the Tiger won't accompany the flakes until 1955.

Calorie-counters get the taste of the first artificially-sweetened soft drink, Kirsch Beverage's No Cal Ginger Ale.

San Bernardino hot dog stand owner and ex-Marine Jean Bell decides to switch his menu to Mexican food and renames the eatery Taco Bell.

1953 - First instant ice tea poured, White Rose by Redi-Tea.

1954 - Peanuts are added to M&Ms. Swanson introduces the first frozen TV dinners, a blessing for "I Love Lucy" fans.

Burger King debuts in Miami, but not until three years later will founders James McElamore and David Edgerton create the flame-broiled Whopper.

1955 - First golden arches go up in Des Plaines, Illinois. Franchise owner Ray Kroc had purchased the rights to McDonalds in 1948 from founders Dick and Mac McDonald.

1957 - For the first time, margarine outsells butter.

1958 - Sweet-N-Low saccharine hits the shelves.

Dan and Frank Carney open the first Pizza Hut in 1958 in Wichita, Kansas.

1959 - The Coca Cola Company markets Fanta and General Mills introduces Frosty Os.

The way we ate

Curious fare made up the menu of the 1950s

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Most people in the 1950s enjoyed entrees like hamburgers, steaks and pot roasts and fried chicken. But with the soldiers and sailors home from the war and setting up new families, economy in the kitchen was a priority. Magazines and newspapers encouraged housewives to spice up the old regulars for exciting new taste treats.

Check out these mouthwatering suggestions from Everywoman's magazine, February, 1955 and from The Novi News, 1956.

California Fiesta Spam N' Yam Fiesta Loaf

Simply cut a Hormel Spam loaf in two crosswise. Between the two layers, spread canned sweet potatoes, mashed and seasoned. Surround with golden cling peaches from California. Top with "fan" of peach slices. Drizzle on peach juice seasoned with one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes.

"A Quickie That's Tasty and Thrifty"

Franks Oriental with Dawn Fresh Mushroom Sauce

Four cups hot, salted cooked rice (one-half pound raw)
One and a half tablespoons butter or margarine
One-quarter cup pickle relish
One pound franks, heated
Two six ounce cans mushroom sauce, heated

Combine rice, butter or margarine and pickle relish. Put rice on serving platter. Top with uncut Franks. Serve with hot mushroom sauce.

Yields five servings

"What food these morsels be"

Deviled Sardine Sandwiches

One can cream celery soup
Two teaspoons prepared mustard
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Four stuffed olives
Two four ounce cans of sardines
Two hamburger buns
Two slices processed cheese

Chop the olives coarsely. Open sardines and drain well. Mix soup, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, olives together. Mix in sardines. Heat for three minutes. Split buns and toast lightly brown. Spoon sardine mixture into bun halves. Cut cheese into strips and place on top of sardine mixture. Slide under broiler, three inches from heat and broil until cheese has melted. Makes four servings.

Vinegar Pie

One and one-half cups water
One cup sugar
Two tablespoons vinegar

Three tablespoons flour or corn starch
Two egg yolks
One table spoon butter

Bring water, sugar and vinegar to boil. Add flour or corn starch mixed with a little water and cook until thickened. Add egg yolks and butter. Let cool. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue and brown under grill.

Board of Directors makes it all happen

Group works year round to pull off week long event

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Good things just don't happen. Things don't magically fall into place. They take time, planning and manpower.

The Board of Director for the Michigan '50s Festival meets regularly throughout the year.

The board is comprised of a mix members, each lending their own expertise.

There are 11 board members, three of which are officers - Bob McCann, president; Gary Wyatt, vice president; and Cheryl Byerly, treasurer.

The board was designed in the beginning so that different aspects of the community would be represented such as community, business, government, and residents.

The board meets every two weeks throughout the year and weekly in July.

On the board's agenda during the first quarter of the fiscal year, which runs from October through September, is setting the budget for the festival, determining the ticket prices, planning and booking the entertainment.

Sponsor packages, and contracts with vendors and arts and crafts people are addressed during the second quarter.

Formalizing plans for the car show and the festival layout is placed on the agenda for the third quarter.

The festival itself falls during the last quarter, and the current board wraps up the year with the annual meeting, including deciding on where the funds for the next year will be allocated, and election of directors and officers.

Each board member has an area of responsibility such as food, entertainment tent, commercial vendors, publicity, food vendors, signage, Cruisers and car show committee.

"I stay because its fun and I like being involved in community things," Byerly said. "We do a lot of planning, we give a lot of money and exposure back the community."

The board allocates funds from the festival to a project each year. Last year the board was a major contributor toward the purchase of the portable stage, which is used in the family area and is also being used during Novi's 1996 Sounds of Summer concert series. Also last year, they purchased Christmas decorations for Novi City Hall.

This year's project is to purchase a bandshell for the Main Street project.

"It has grown magnificently over the years," said McCann. "We try to do a few things a little bit better every year."

A few years ago, the board booked one headline act. This year there will be three.

"That is a big addition," he said. "It costs a lot of money."

They have also expanded the family area to include more attractions for children and teens.

Festival proceeds contributed to the community

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Where does all the money go? The Michigan '50s Festival Board of Directors know.

The 11 board members meet year round and have specific agenda items during each quarter, which runs October through September. During the last quarter of the year, which is immediately following the festival, one of the items on the agenda is where to spend the money generated by the festival.

"All the money gets right back into the community," said Bob McCann, president.

The board allocates funds to a project each year. Last year the board contributed $51,000 toward the purchase of a portable stage, which is used in the family area during the festival and is also being used during Novi's 1996 Sounds of Summer concert series. Mission Health provided $10,000.

Also last year, the board approved the purchase of about $13,000 for Christmas decorations for Novi City Hall.

Funds from the 1996 festival have been earmarked for a bandshell for the Main Street project, which could be about $90,000.

"We are hoping we will make great headway into the purchase of that this year," McCann said. "It is going to be a tremendous addition to the Main Street project."

The festival also is a great avenue for community groups to raise money. Groups such as the Novi Newcomers and Neighbors, Boy Scouts, Chamber of Commerce, Sixthgate Cloggers, Tollgate Cloggers, Motorsport Hall of Fame and the Lions Club working in areas such as parking, car show, set up and cleanup, and entertainment tent share in a percentage of the sales for the event they host and work.

"We try to accommodate as many groups as possible on a first come first served basis," McCann said.

Local civic groups raised a total of $30,000 last year.

The Sixthgate Cloggers, a senior citizen dance ensemble, used the dollars it earned working at the festival to assist lower-income local seniors in purchasing their medications, as well as to help maintain the city's van. The Novi Newcomers raised about $2,000, to be used in part for scholarships and holiday baskets.

"We have never had an instance where we have had a shortage of volunteer groups," McCann said. "It is a fun event to work on."

Volunteer Cruisers put party altogether

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

Cruiser: (kroozer) n., pl. -siers 1. One of a group of volunteers at the Michigan '50s Festival in Novi, Mich. who are easily recognized by the red shirts they wear.

A Cruiser may be one of the first volunteers Michigan '50s Festival attendees meet.

The Information Booth at the entrance to the festival is one of the locations that utilize the volunteer power of the Cruisers. Sporting red shirts, Cruisers work a minimum of six hours up to 40 to 50 hours, but on average work 18 hours during the five day festival which runs July 24 through 28, according to Cruiser coordinator, Cindy Kopczynski.

This year, about 50 volunteers have signed up to be Cruisers.

Among the valuable information Cruisers have are the answers to the location of bathrooms, telephones and ATM machines. Cruisers are also into retail sales of festival attire which is available in the Information Booth.

Outside the Family Show area, there will be a Cruiser manning the ticket sales desk at each performance.

Festival goers planning to gain admission to the Entertainment Tent will be greeted by a couple more Cruisers who are on duty at the ticket sales booth at the entrance to the tent.

Hard work aside, being a Cruiser comes with a few benefits like complimentary parking and entertainment tickets. And Cruisers earn beverage tickets, but only after they have done their tour of duty.

Watch a Cruiser in action this year, and if you'd like to apply for a position for 1997, call the '50s Festival office at 349-1050 or stop by the information booth and give them your name and phone number.

Rhonda Gage moving on after term as manager

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

While Rhonda Gage may be old enough to have a pair of grandchildren, she's still young enough to enjoy playing dress up.

So if you see the Michigan '50s Festival manager walking around in her Route 66 waitress outfit this weekend, don't be surprised.

Organizing and orchestrating the metro area's third largest festival is hard, time-consuming work. But according to the 48-year-old, it's still plenty of fun.

"I just love that kind of thing," said Gage. "I like the people, the atmosphere. It gets in your blood."

It doesn't hurt to be enamored with the 1950s, either. "I have a '50s room in my house," said Gage. "I love to dress up in my poodle skirt and I'm growing my hair long to put in a ponytail."

The Kentucky native came to Novi back in 1992. She volunteered for the festival as a cruiser and immediately got hooked on the community gala.

"I've enjoyed seeing it grow," said Gage, who'll leave her post as manager this fall, "and how it has improved the overall welfare of the city."

Gage moved to town from Indiana. She said she saw an add in The Novi News soliciting volunteers for the festival shortly after arriving.

"I worked in the beer tent, the information booth, folded T-shirts," Gage said. "I did pretty much anything they wanted me to do."

Within a year of first signing up as a volunteer, she became director then manager of the Michigan '50s Festival.

Since taking that position, Gage has worked to expand and improve the festival. It's year-round work and involves almost endless detail.

"Everything is contracted out," said Gage. "From entertainment and food to garbage bags."

Of course, she wasn't a rookie at festival operations when she came to Novi. Gage worked at the Three Festival manager Rhonda Gage assists Mayor Kathleen McLallen with the Rotary car drawing.

Rivers Festival in Indiana for a decade.

That previous experience helped tremendously in running the '50s festival, she said. Keeping things going smoothly over the past four years has been a team effort, however.

"I've gotten a lot of help from the board of director's," Gage added.

The event's venue, for one, is different. The '50s Fest moved from the Town Center to the Novi Expo Center a year ago.

"We have room for growth at the Expo Center," said Gage.

And, indeed, it has grown.

Since first becoming involved with the festival, Gage said the number of craft and commercial booths have doubled.

She points to the addition of the family and teen activities areas, more and better entertainment as positive steps forward in her years as manager.

Gage noted that attendance has grown as well. Close to 200,000 people came to Novi a year ago for the festival.

Despite all of the growth, she feels the festival "could be improved upon." But that will be the job of the new, as-yet-unnamed manager.

Gage recently moved from Novi to a small town near Brooklyn, Mich. She has also taken a full-time job with the Ypsilanti Area Visitor and Convention Bureau.

"This will be my last festival as manager," Rhonda said.

Novi City Manager and board member Ed Kriewall said Gage will be hard to replace.

"We're going to miss her," he commented. "Rhonda fits the image with what we were trying to do with the '50s Festival. She was perfect for the job, very organized, high energy person."

Her job and the long drive from Brooklyn forced Gage to step down.

"I didn't want to leave," she added.

Cybertravel to the '50s in the 1990s

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Still looking to immerse yourself in '50s nostalgia. Fear not, the technology of the '90s have made it easy to travel back to fins and fondues, hula-hoops and hip skirts, beatniks and Barbie.

All you need is a personal computer with a link to the World Wide Web and plenty of spare time - cybertraveling back to the '50s can be time consuming.

There are several ways to get to the '50s information you are looking for. Good Internet search engines, such as Webcrawler, Yahoo, Magellan and Lycos will allow you to simply type your topic into a search window. The problem with entering a topic like "fifties" is that you're more than likely to pull up thousands of possibilities to wade through.

It's also nice if the computer you're using has good graphics capabilities. Many web sites are constructed with photos and other interesting graphic art. Having a sound card is also a must.

For the armchair cybertraveler, here is a short list of web addresses for some of the more popular items and subjects every 50s enthusiast will enjoy. Most of the following sites have links to other related topics, and should prove to be enjoyable.

Here goes:

• Fabulous Fifties Car Clubs of America. <http://www.carclub.com/fifties/fabulous.html>

- Whether you love Chevys or Fords, this web page will be the delight of any '50s auto enthusiast. The pages are full of interesting topics, car club addresses and other miscellaneous treasures.

• Twentieth Century Fox Films of the Fifties. <http://www.tcfhe.com/decades> - Film buffs in general will get a kick out of this web site, which breaks down the all time favorite films produced by this well known movie making company. When you enter the page, you can select films from several decades, but there is a huge offering in the Fifties decade.

• That Crazy Beat. <http://www.bart.n/%7Estraycat> - Care to find out what's happening with the '50s style Rockabilly craze? The Stray Cats page promotes the Stray Cats band, but also will be including links to other Rockabilly web sites, including a site currently under construction featuring the legendary Buddy Holly.

• Pez Museum of Memorabilia. <http://www.spectrumnet.com/pez> - For those of you who remember Pez candy and the cute containers, this page is right down your alley. Anything and everything you ever wanted to learn about Pez can be found in the many colorful - and sometimes interactive - pages provided by the Burlingame Museum of Pez Memorabilia, located near San Francisco. It almost makes you yearn again for the five-and-dime store.

• The Barbie page. <http://darwin.clas.virginia.edu/~tsawyer/barbie> - Did you know that the world famous Barbie doll was first introduced at the American Toy Fair in New York City in February, 1959? Read all about the doll that is now worth thousands of dollars - a vintage 1959 Barbie could earn upwards of $100,000. The page chronicles the dolls history and has links to several other Barbie collector sites.

• Joseph McCarthy web site. <http://webcorp.com/mccarthy> - prepare to restock that old bomb shelter, this web site provides film and sound clips from the famous McCarthy hearings of the 1950s that will bring back the chill of the cold war.

• Sports memorabilia. <http://pages.prodigy.com/AYoung/mem/htm> - Want to buy a 1950s Phil Rizzuto comic book? It'll cost you $15, probably the cheapest '50s sports memorabilia found at this web site, that includes mementos from Mickey Mantle, Joe Dimaggio, Hank Greenberg and Stan Musial.

• American Graffiti. <http://www.geocities.com/SoHo/2455/graffiti.htm> - Revisit Ron Howard and the rest of the cast from this popular movie. The site provides the movie plot and talks about how the film was conceived.

• Fondue. <http://www.gigaplex.com/food/index.htm> - It's baack! That's right if any further proof is needed that we've indeed returned to the '50s, consider the return of the quintessential '50s dish - cheese fondue - according to food critic Merrill Shindler, who admits that it's hard to believe that one of the blandest concoctions to ever be foisted upon the American palate is making a sweeping comeback. To learn the recipes for cheese fondue, punch up this web address: <http://www.grfn.org/%Ejsfrog/fondue.html>.

• American YoYo Association. http://www.socool.com/socool/you\_ayya.html - Before the hula hoop Americans were fascinated with the yoyo. This page tells you all the ups and downs - as well as walking the dog - of this popular toy for all ages. The site also provides information on the various types of yoyo's currently manufactured today.

Brokers Welcome!

One of the finest private golf course developments in southeastern Michigan, Prestwick Village not only offers championship challenges for golfers of all levels, but also features some of the finest home living in the state.

Prestwick Village

Most observers would be hard pressed to decide which aspect of Prestwick Village is more impressive: the development's housing or its amenities.

"I've seen other communities with golf courses where the course was an afterthought," said Roy Gaddey the managing general partner of limited partnership behind the development.

"But here we worked hard to make the golf course equal in importance.

"Quite frankly, Prestwick Village is designed for people who take their golfing seriously," he said.

The development is designed for people who also take their housing seriously. Ranging in price from $250,000 to $600,000—the average 3,400 square feet in size—the homes in Prestwick Village are purely custom designed, with only five builders having been selected to do work on the site.

"We looked for those builders who only work in custom homes," Gaddey said.

"Who only build 20 or 30 homes a year.

"We didn't want anyone who dealt in volume construction," he said.

The result of such selectivity has meant that prospective homeowners are free to bring in their own designs and have something constructed to their personal specifications.

Within limits: Gaddey said his company retains the right to enforce certain architectural standards, but said that such standards are actually designed to prevent a mis-match of styles within the project.

Sitting on 426 acres—with 205 acres set aside for the golf course—Prestwick Village features 306 half-acre building sites, although Gaddey said that many homeowners have opted to purchase more than one lot. (One person bought three).

And purchase they have: in the months since the project has been on the market, half the lots have been sold and more than 70 houses have either been approved for construction, are under construction or have already become homes to new families.

But what these families receive for their well-spent dollars is more than just a new home, they also have a whole new lifestyle.

As part of the purchase price of each site, new homeowners become members of the Prestwick Village golf club—which gives them lifetime access to every amenity in the development: the golf course, 26-acre golf learning and practice area, 20,000-square foot clubhouse, pool and tennis complex and even a nine-hole putting course.

"Altogether," Gaddey said, "we're putting in $8 million worth of amenities in this project.

"And a lot of it we're putting in up front, so that everyone can see that we're delivering our promises."

The 7,240-yard championship golf course was actually the first part of the project undertaken by the partnership. Construction began on the Ron Garl designed course in November 1994, and the entire course is expected to be open this year.

At the same time, Gaddey said, both the pool and tennis courts will be finished during the summer.

"Other developers wouldn't think about putting in a golf course, pool and tennis courts this way," Gaddey said.

"They would want to have some money coming in from home sales first."

And what the partners have in mind is now becoming a reality. Situated in the midst of 150 acres of mature woods plus an abandoned nursery area, Prestwick Village now sports four man-made lakes and a rolling landscape with an overall 90-foot change in elevation.

In addition, great pains have been taken to carefully blend the golf course with home construction. Of the 18 holes, only two have homes partially on both sides of the fairways and greens, 14 have homes only on one side and two have no homes at all along their borders.

This, Gaddey said, ensures "the integrity of the course."

"Many projects put in courses as an afterthought," he said.

"And that means they are forced to cut back," he said. "Often less than 150 acres—compared to the 205 acres in our course."

Not surprisingly, the future of Prestwick Village is more than just selling the rest of the lots; its future is indelibly tied to the future of its golf course.

Already, Gaddey said, plans are being eyed to create the "Prestwick Cup," a golf tournament that would be played on private courses named Prestwick around the world. ■

Alternative Homes: Manufactured and Modular

There is quite a difference between manufactured, mobile and modular homes. And with today's homebuyers more "consumer conscious," the quality has also changed dramatically.

Manufactured housing is defined as a structure built on a permanent chassis which is designed to be used with or without a permanent foundation when connected to the required utilities. It is constructed in a factory with federal standards enforced by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Modular homes, also factory built, meet codes regulated by state and local agencies. In Michigan and most mid-western and eastern states, this is the Building Officials and Code Administrators International, Inc. (BOCA) code.

Manufactured homes are single-story, and are delivered to the homesite in one, two or occasionally three sections. Flooring, cabinetry, fixtures appliances, and plumbing have been installed at the factory. Modular homes can be one- or two-story dwellings and are delivered to the homesite in two or more sections, often as a shell of a house. Some of the interior amenities may be installed at the homesite, therefore, governed by local codes.

"Mobile home" is the now outdated name for manufactured housing. The term was mandated by the federal government in 1976. As described by the Manufactured Housing Institute, manufactured homes are more residential-like and larger than traditional "mobile homes." Today, a very small percent of these homes are ever actually moved,

These standards make manufactured housing competitive with site-built homes in terms of physical performance and comfort. A recent University of Michigan study noted that the manufactured housing industry has been a leader in developing and implementing new technology that has eventually made its way into site-built housing.

Today's manufactured housing offers more space than ever before. Multi-section homes are available with floor space ranging from 1,200 to over 2,400 square feet. With vault ceilings, garages, and landscaping, these homes are often indistinguishable from single-section homes, 64 percent vs. 56 percent, an increase of 11 percent in the last three years.

Aside from being more aesthetically pleasing, a manufactured home sells for a price that is attractive to many potential homebuyers. Datacomp Appraisal Systems, a Grand Rapids research firm, reports that in 1994 the average single-section home in Michigan sold for $26,009 and the average multi-section home sold for $40,506 (figures do not include property purchase or lot rent). The National Association of Home Builders reports the median 1993 site-built home in the Midwest costs $125,000 (including land).

If it has been decided that a manufactured or modular home is your best choice, the process will take far less time than a site-built home.

A typical modular home arrives at the home site 90 percent complete. It is delivered, set on the foundation, and made weather tight in one day. The average time for on-site field finish work and customer move-in is three to five weeks depending on the services provided.

It is very common for modular manufacturers to market their homes through local builders or developers. The manufacturers rely on the experience of builders to assist the homeowner in many areas including lot selection, site preparation, garage construction and other finishing touches. Most times, the modular manufacturer selects a builder in a specific demographic region to act as the exclusive representative for the product in that area.

Today's modular home plants are state-of-the-art manufacturing facilities capable of providing traditional on-site stick builders with custom design expertise. With perfect climate and a controlled environment, these plants operate year-round.

When the labor, material, and time savings are added up, the price of a modular home is generally lower than a traditionally site-built home of comparable size. Still, expenses like land, basement and foundation construction, garages, porches decks, driveways and walkways are not included in the price of a modular home. These things enter into the total equation of home completion and can easily be negotiated and built by local "modular" builders, giving even more flexibility to the home buyer.

For more information on manufactured housing, contact the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association, 2123 University Park Drive, Suite 110, Okemos, Mi. 48864, (517) 349-3300. ■

The Versatility of Granite, Marble & Tile

When it comes to building materials, Mother Nature has always led the way in form and function.

First, there was the simple cave—followed a millennia later by wood and even sod.

Today, of course, Mother Nature's products still comprise a major portion of most homes—wood frames and the stone used in concrete, but man is slowly replacing such materials with new technology and techniques.

Steel is replacing 2-by-4s, molded plastics are replacing stone, and vinyl has replaced aluminum that long ago replaced wood-framed windows.

Yet in one area of home living, Mother Nature holds her own with the efforts of man: the covering of floors, walls and accents with granite, marble or other stone vs. man's alternative—ceramic tile.

Of course, for hundreds of years, the stone floor has been a mainstay of fine living. From castle to cottage, from farm to foyer, such floors provided the durability and luster desired by so many.

And the same is true in 1996.

Natural Stone

"Marble and granite are two of the most beautiful natural materials you can put in your home," said Mary Kay Pascucci of Pascucci Marble and Granite.

"It really brings an elegance into every room.

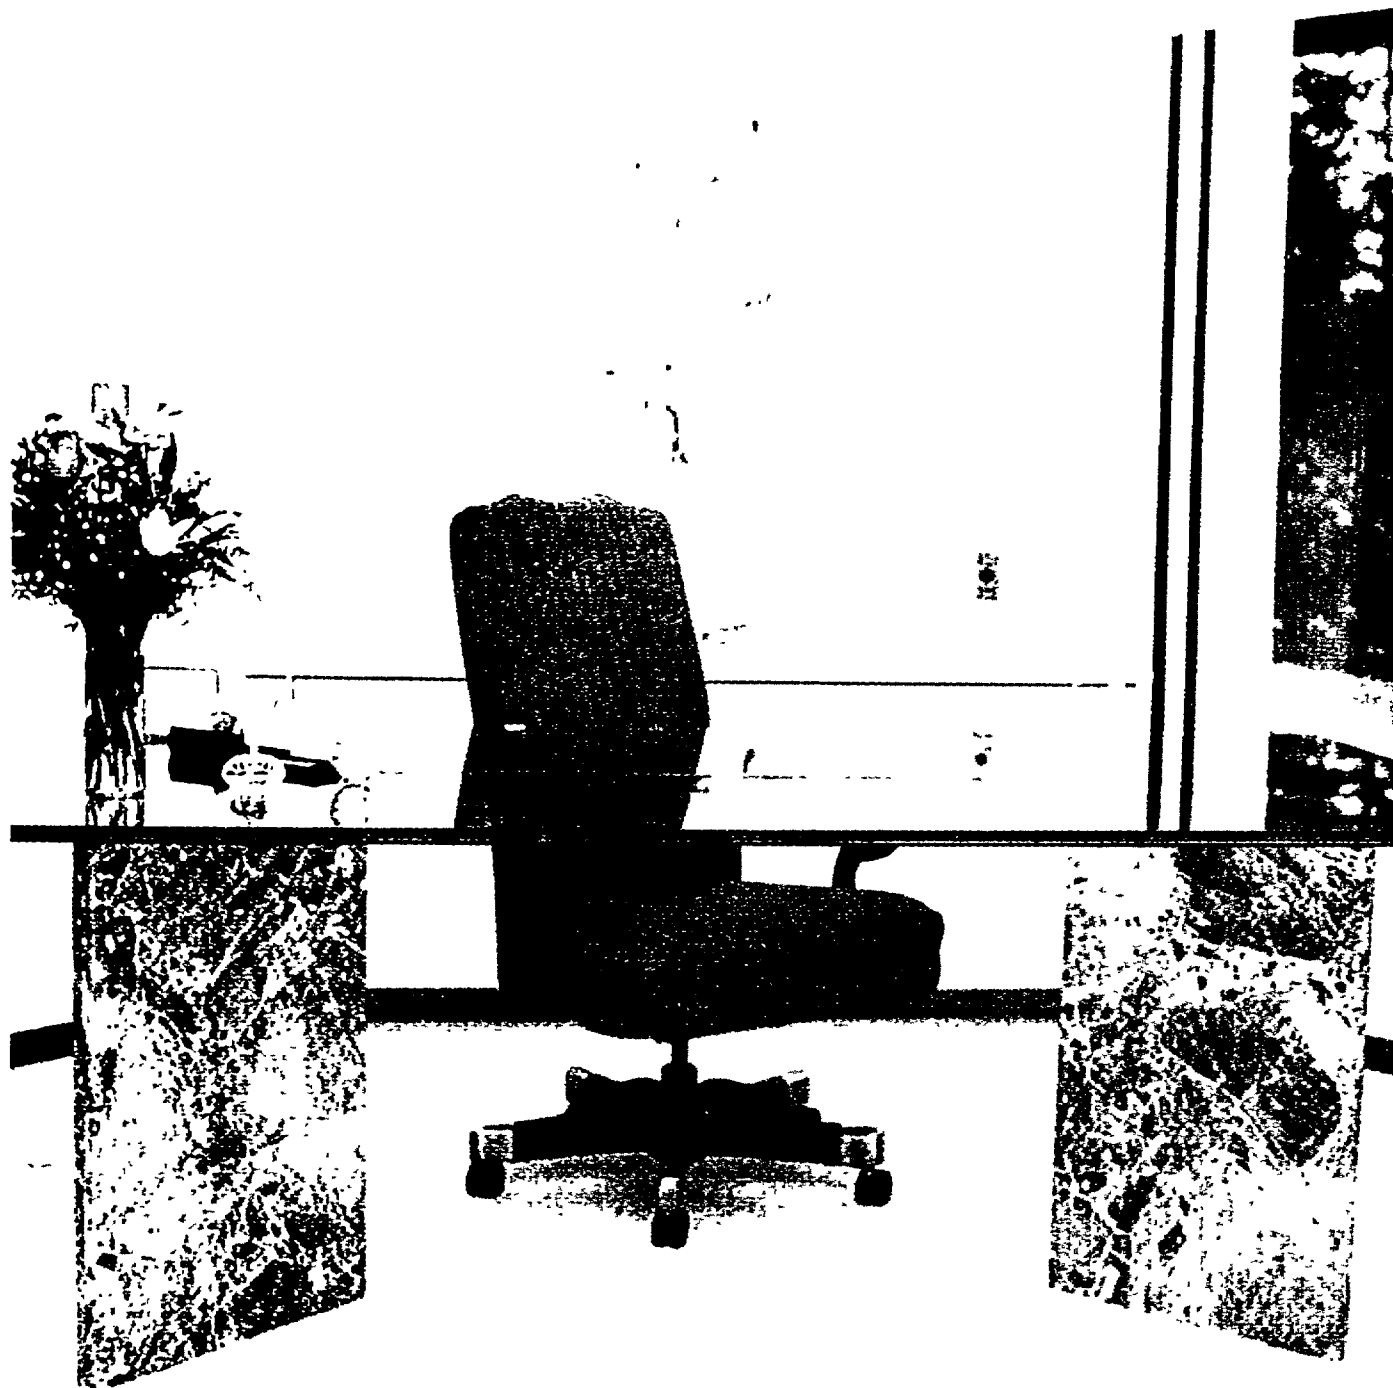

"And the uses are actually quite unlimited," she said.

Indeed, Pascucci's Walled Lake-based company—which she owns with her husband, Massimo Pascucci—not only sells and installs stone for traditional applications, such as floors, counters and fireplaces, but also incorporates certain stone into furniture, such as tabletops.

"We've cut marble for floors, coffee tables and even a company's conference table," she said.

Granite, she added, is the stone of choice for kitchen counters where food comes into contact with surfaces: granite won't absorb liquids. (In fact, restaurants were required to change from wood to granite chopping blocks years ago to stem cross-contamination.)

When it comes to other parts of the home, however, various kinds of stone can work in almost any setting, according to Kriss Hilborn, president—and partner with her brother, Fred Blackwell—of Beaver Distributors, Inc. in Farmington Hills.

"There's been a growing demand for limestone and slate in the home," Hilborn said.

"And that's part of a trend away from shiny surfaces to something softer, more natural looking.

"We've even had calls for honing or cross-cutting marble in order to tone down its sheen," she said.

The allure of limestone, Hilborn said, is that while it maintains certain characteristics of marble, it has "movement"—a dimensional texture that gives the stone a constantly shifting visual feel.

For those familiar with limestone, however, Hilborn offers one qualification: the limestone she works with is not the type most would recognize. "This limestone is from France and while it won't actually shine, you can polish it to give it a softer, finished feel."

When it comes to household applications, Hilborn said the final choice of what to use is ultimately one of personal taste.

"Essentially, the durability of marble, granite and limestone is the same," she said, "although there are some marbles I wouldn't recommend for a floor."

In addition, she mentions that should limestone be used for flooring, a sealer is mandatory to prevent staining.

For marble and granite, both Hilborn and Pascucci said that only one thing needs to be done: when it gets dirty, wash it with water—never

Man-made Ceramic

Where natural stone certainly might be the material of choice for some, ceramic tile has long been the predominant covering—especially for bathroom walls and kitchen countertops.

But even here the landscape has changed.

"Ceramic tile is more versatile than ever," said Sharene Smith, owner of Laurels, Inc. in Brighton.

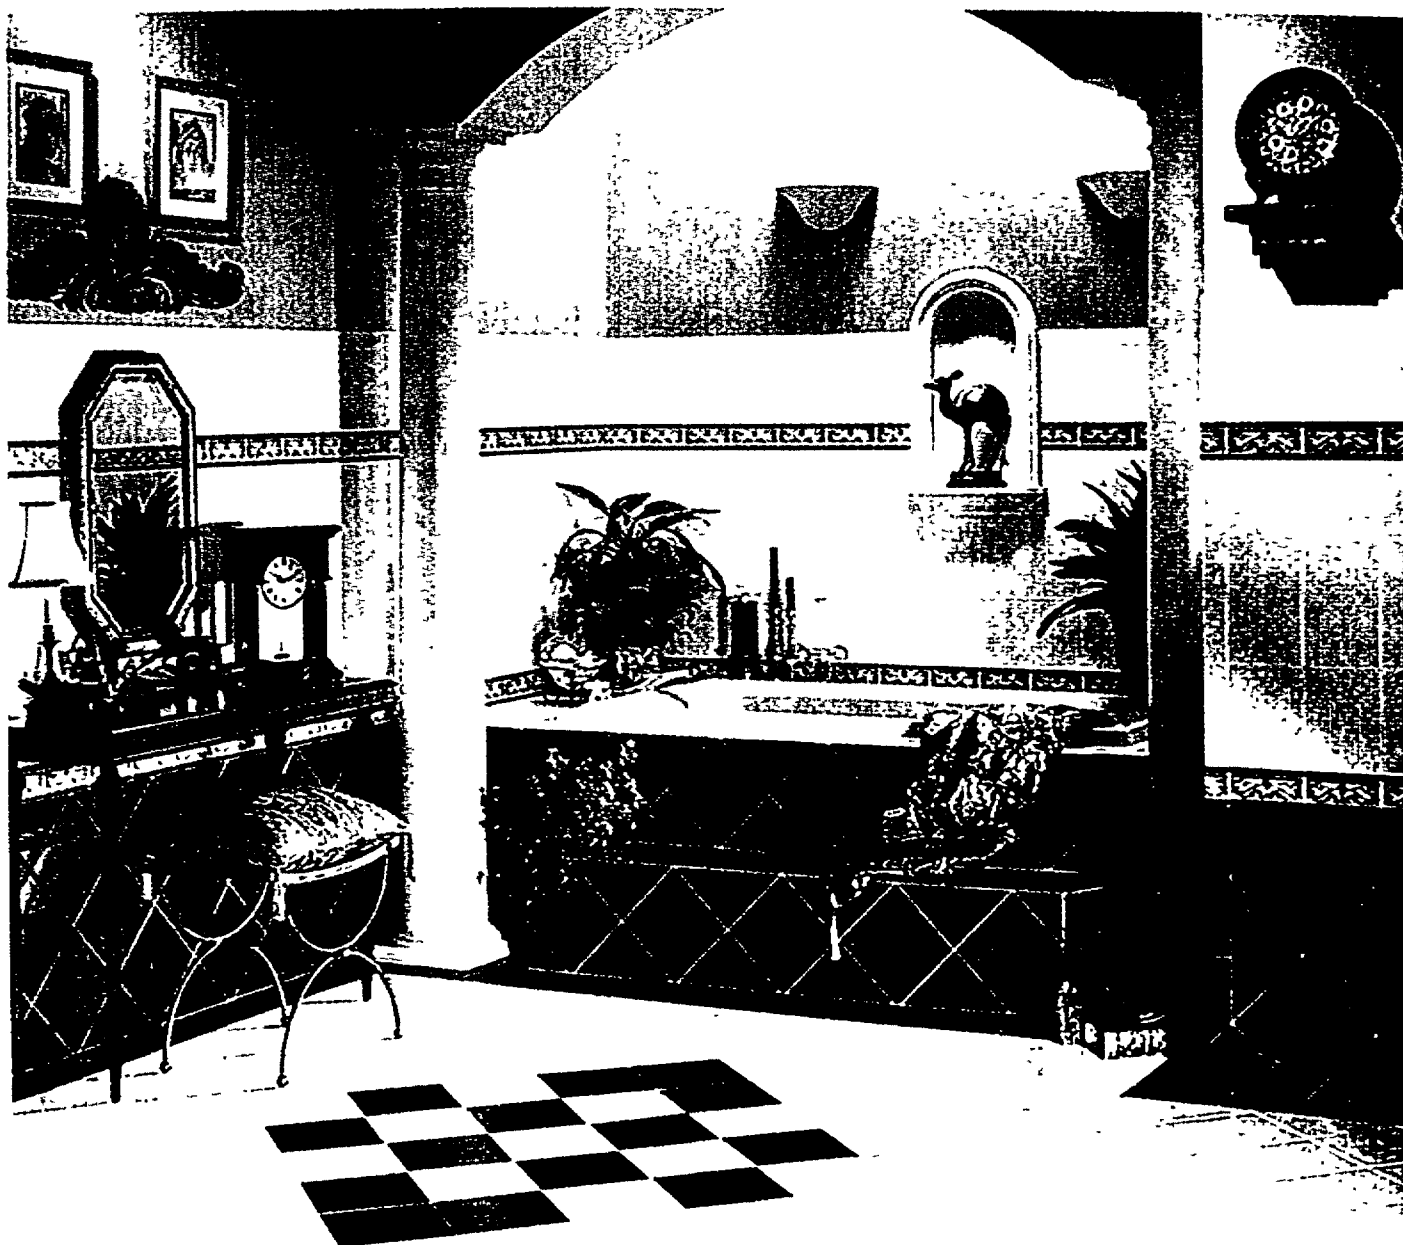

"It comes in shapes and sizes that were unheard of years ago.

"And compared with stone, it's literally maintenance-free," she added.

It's also no longer limited to the primary colors: today's ceramic tile comes in a rainbow of colors to match and compliment any decor.

In addition, some tile even mimics the look and texture of natural stone, effectively neutralizing its basic glazed appearance.

As a result of these developments, Smith said ceramic tile has long since left the narrow confines of the kitchen and bath.

"We're dealing with homeowners now who are seeking the hardwood floor atmosphere—without the upkeep—in wide open areas," she said, "and we're putting ceramic tile there."

"We're seeing more and more people covering an entire living room or great room in tile and then putting down an area rug in the center.

"The effect," she said, "is quite stunning."

Available in sizes ranging from 4-by-4 up to 16-by-16 squares, today's ceramic tile also comes in certain limited shapes as well, such as octagons and elongated hexagons.

But one of the more appealing methods of installing a pattern, according to Smith, is to mix sizes.

For Rick Mularoni, vice president of Novi Tile Sales, the ultimate in ceramic tile is found beyond America's shores in Italy.

"Italy is the major supplier to the world," he said, "and because there are so many manufactures there, the research and development in ceramics is far beyond anything you can find here.

"They have developed some of the most beautiful ceramics in the world, with colors ranging from traditional off-white and beige to deep greens with flecks of actual gold.

"It's this kind of quality that can really set off the look of a home," he said.

In terms of home application, Mularoni—who runs the family business with his father, Dick, and his brother, Greg—said that today's imported ceramic tile can be placed nearly anywhere.

"Kitchens are still big," he said.

"But foyers and hallways, and any high traffic area, are also popular.

"Because ceramic is maintenance-free and durable," he said, "it's the perfect choice for these areas."

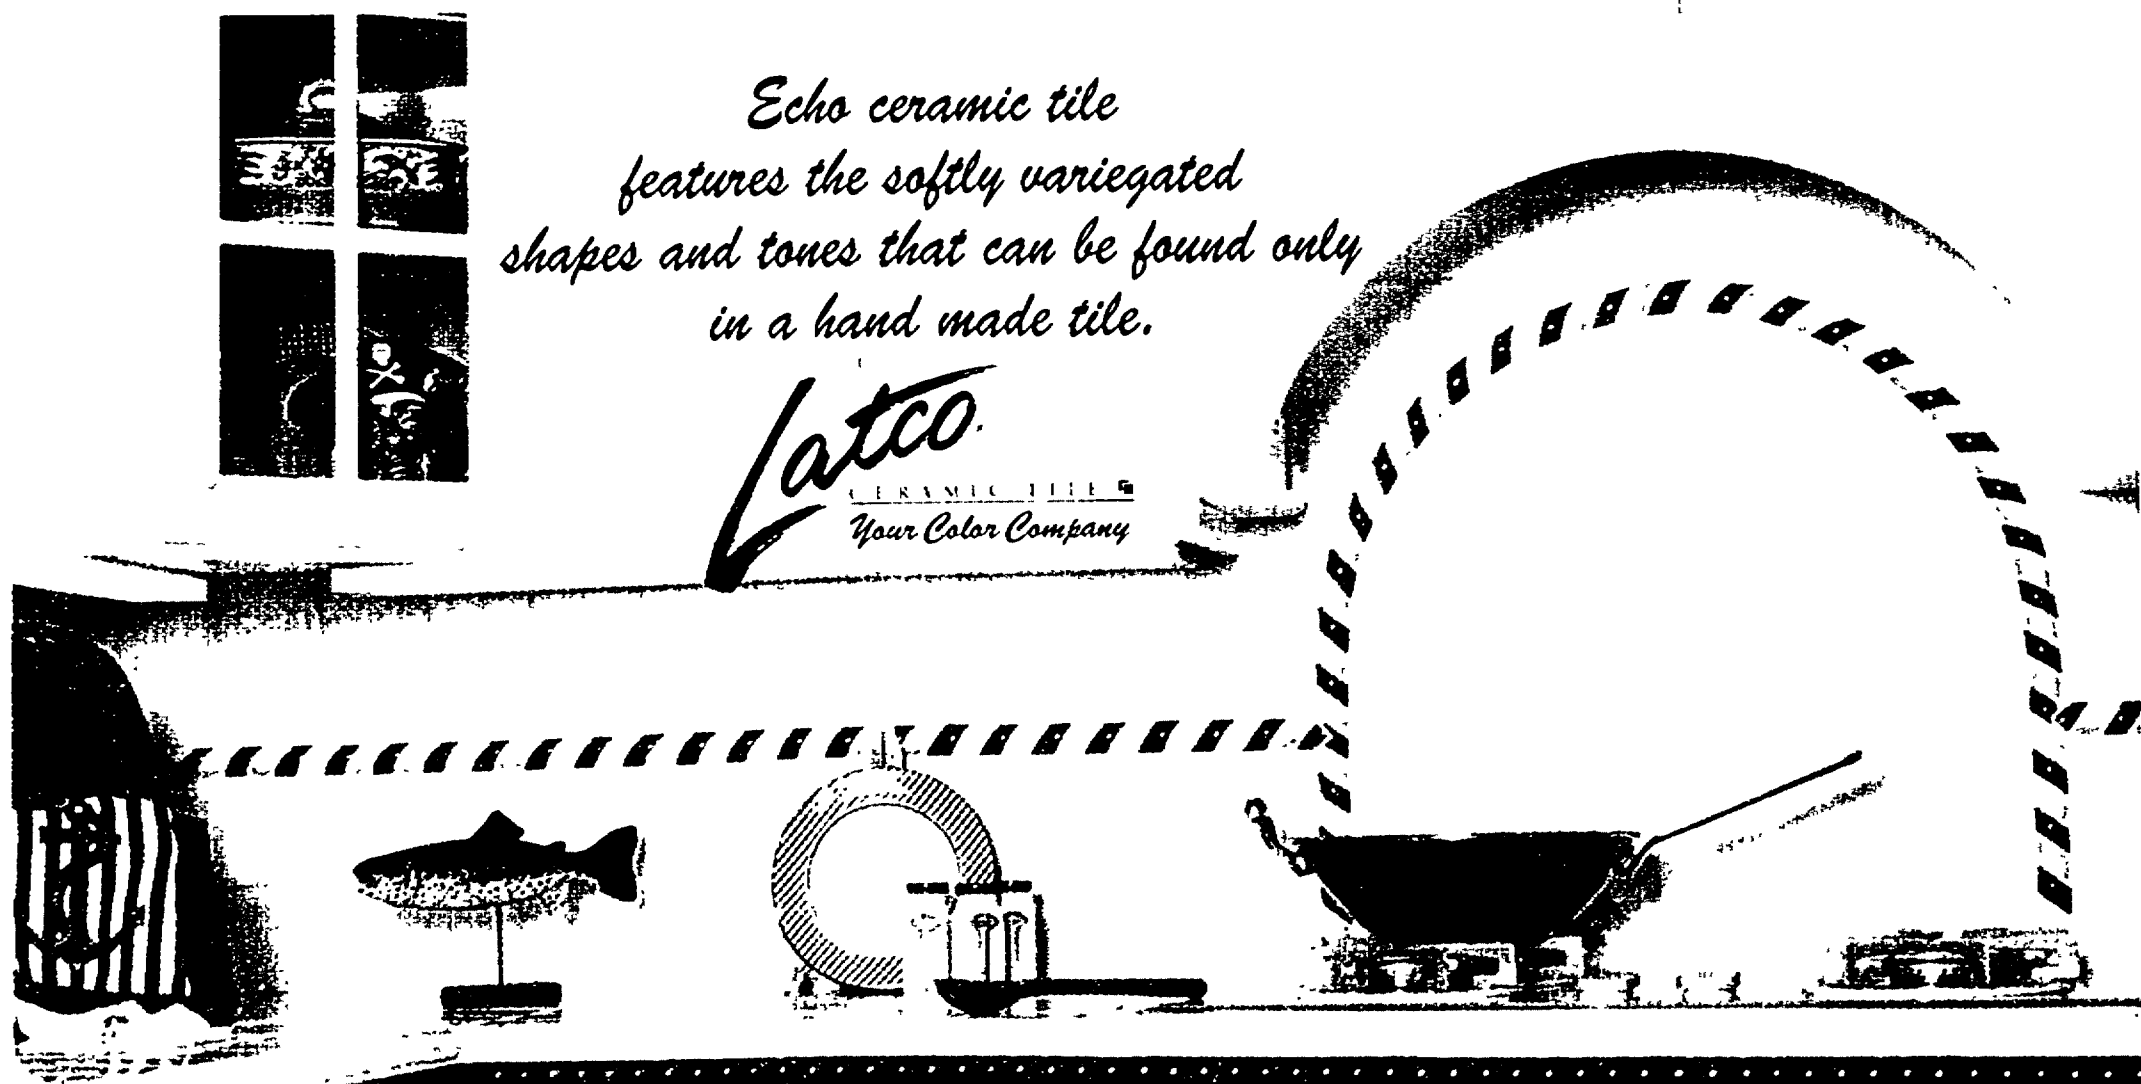

Ultimately, the choice between stone and ceramic tile is one that each homeowner must make based on price and preference.

But even here, the differences are slim. According to the experts, the cost difference between all the materials gives ceramic tile an edge, but all the other materials ring in immediately thereafter.

Which means the difference between man-made and Mother Nature remains in the eye of the beholder. ■

Everything You Need to Know Before Buying Your First Home

It's still the American dream—to own your own home. But the dream can too easily turn into a nightmare without the information necessary to make wise decisions. Buying a home is the single most expensive purchase you will ever make.

It's not only the initial down payment and closing costs. Once you own it, you must maintain it, or you will lose your hard-earned investment.

Before you begin your house hunting in earnest, you should consult with a bank to see how much you can afford. Many banks offer free pre-qualification counseling. You set up an appointment with a mortgage expert make an appropriate purchase offer on a house.

With guidance from a real estate broker or agent, you can form a reasonable purchase offer. You should be prepared to complete a purchase agreement and leave a deposit to indicate your seriousness to the sellers. The rule of thumb is to put three percent of the asking price down as a deposit.

It's wise to consult an attorney before you asked to pay for the credit check and the appraisal fee. All banks and lending institutions require appraisals to make sure that the house is worth the money you are asking to borrow.

The bank will verify your employment, check your bank deposits and loans and run a title search on the house. A title search uncovers other liens on the home and confirms the current owner. A lien is a legal claim against the property.

When you apply for a mortgage, the bank will run a credit check. Your credit report shows how much you owe to the creditors listed, whether who will ask you a few questions about your employment and gross income. For instance, if your gross monthly income is $1,000, then your mortgage payment should not be more than $280 a month. Bankers are required to follow guidelines such as this one, but some banks will work to meet individual needs and unique financial situations.

In determining how much you can afford, the mortgage representative will ask about your other monthly debts. Also, as a guideline, your total monthly debt should not exceed 36 percent of your gross monthly income.

Now that you know how much house you can afford, real estate agents can be very helpful in finding the right house. They can provide valuable information about neighborhoods and schools and the cost of homes in the area. The latter is important in order to sorry. An attorney can add "contingencies" to your purchase agreement, allowing you to terminate the agreement and get your deposit back under certain conditions. As examples, there should be a contingency allowing the buyer to walk away from the deal if he or she cannot get a mortgage at a reasonable rate or if the house does not pass an inspection. It's also very helpful to have your attorney at the closing.

Your mortgage representative will have you complete an application. You will need to show your purchase agreement, tax returns and W-2 wages and income statement for the last two years, your pay stubs covering the most recent month and your last quarterly bank account statement. You'll also need a complete list of all current debts with account numbers, balances and minimum payments required.

At application time, you will be sign any official papers for which you could later be your payments have been timely, if you have ever been bankrupt or if one of your loans has been foreclosed. If you've had credit problems in the past, you're not automatically denied a mortgage. Your mortgage representative can help you identify options.

Banks offer several different types of mortgages, because one doesn't fit every customer's needs. In an adjustable-rate mortgage, the interest rate fluctuates with the economy. This type of loan is the most attractive when interest rates are generally high, because the rate on your loan can be reduced as general interest rates come down.

Fixed-rate mortgages allow a customer to lock in the rate for the term of the loan. There are also convertible mortgage loans that allow you to convert an adjustable to a fixed interest rate at specific times during the term of the loan.

The length of the mortgage also affects the amount of interest you pay.

Commonly, mortgages are offered for 15 or 30 years. With a 15-year mortgage, you pay off the loan in less time, but your monthly payments are higher than with a 30-year loan. With a 30-year mortgage, you pay more in interest over a longer period of time.

Down payments are usually a percentage of the cost of the house. In most cases, the least amount you can put down is five percent of the total cost of the house.

Like the down payment, closing costs are required up front. They include property taxes, mortgage insurance, loan fees, the appraisal, title insurance, credit report fees, escrow (a portion of the monthly mortgage payment set aside to pay for taxes and insurance) and points. A point is one percent of the mortgage amount paid to the bank to service the loan and lower the interest rate. It is prudent to work with a loan representative to determine if paying points makes sense for you.

If people earn enough money to make monthly payments on their home, but don't have enough money for the down payment and closing costs, government programs are an option.

You should discuss this option with your mortgage representative.

The time it takes to approve a mortgage depends on several factors and differs with financial institutions. One way to move the process along is to have ready all the documents and information discussed above when you make your application.

Once the loan is approved, the legal documents are in hand and mortgage insurance has been ordered, it's time for the closing. At the closing, a warranty deed, which transfers ownership of the house, a bill of sale will have to be prepared for the closing.

With a little forethought, and preparation, buying your first home can be a relatively smooth process. Of course, you then have to move... ■

Top It Off: Questions on Roofing

... that is a good type of material to use when installing a roof on an existing house.

... the roof structure is sound and the shingles are in good shape, you can install a new roof on an existing house. The shingles should be removed and the roof structure should be inspected. If the roof structure is sound, you can install a new roof. If the roof structure is not sound, you should repair it before installing a new roof.

... the roof structure is sound and the shingles are in good shape, you can install a new roof on an existing house. The shingles should be removed and the roof structure should be inspected. If the roof structure is sound, you can install a new roof. If the roof structure is not sound, you should repair it before installing a new roof.

Q. Is it worthwhile to upgrade to a custom shingle roof when having your new home built?

A. The answer is yes, if you can afford it. A custom shingle roof is a good investment because it will last longer than a standard shingle roof. It will also look better and it will be a good example of the quality of the construction.

When having a new home built, the roof is a good place to start. If you can afford it, a custom shingle roof is a good investment. It will last longer than a standard shingle roof and it will look better.

Q. Why are shingle roofs not lasting as long as their predecessors? It seems with the new technology that the shingle systems would have a longer life span.

A. The shingle products available today are better and should have a longer life expectancy. One of the leading causes of shingle roof failure is due to improper venting.

The energy crisis in the 1970's prompted an increase in the use of insulation in building residential homes. Most of the insulation is installed in the attic. This insulation makes proper venting much more significant.

Q. What are the requirements for proper venting for the roof structure?

A. The requirements for properly venting a roof structure varies depending on the municipal codes. One source that has been adopted in many of the City Codes is FHA-HUD guidelines. These guidelines are:

a.) One square foot of venting in the roof and soffit structure is needed for every 300 square foot of attic space. This is provided that the insulation in the attic has a vapor barrier to the warm side of the structure.

b.) If that insulation does not have a vapor barrier as indicated above, the venting requirements increase to 2 square feet for every 300 square feet of attic space.

c.) Both above conditions assume you have balance venting between eave and ridge vents.

Q. Should my insulation in the attic extend to the building line or to where the eave and attic meet?

A. If the insulation extends beyond the building line and you have soffit vents then a baffle system had to be used to allow free circulation of air. Typically, it is good to have the insulation stop at the building line. This will allow for free-flowing air.

Q. I have a manufacturers warranty or a contractors guarantee, why should I care about venting?

A. The Manufacturers Warranty has a disclaimer about improper venting as it relates to shingle performance. Typically a Roofing Contractor (especially in new construction) can use this as a rationale for not enforcing his warranty.

Q. What about power ventilators?

A. The power ventilators are fine for the summer, but not effective at all in the winter months. The reason is that most are temperature controlled. You need the type that are temperature and humidity controlled to prevent winter time condensation. Even at that we feel that a passive air venting system with ridge venting and soffit venting is definitely the most effective.

Q. How do I know if I have a venting problem?

A. Shingle buckling and shingle curling in relatively new roofs under 7 years old, is a good indicator of improper venting. ■

On The Move

By Evelyn Allen

There really is no other phrase that is as well known, or needs as little explanation as the words, "we're moving." In that little statement, a vision of boxes, cover sheets, and labels amongst complete disorder may come to mind.

Most people, if asked, will have some type of story to relate to when the discussion of moving comes up. There doesn't seem to be too many people who say, "Oh, I had a wonderful experience when I moved." And expectedly not. When you think about it, what could be more disrupting than taking everything a family owns, personal and necessities, and stacking it in a van, hoping nothing breaks, and then taking it to a new place and expecting it to have the same immediate comfort as the home you previously lived in.

And how many times has it been said that we wish we could just hire someone to do it all for us—just call when it's all in place.

Believe it as a dream-come-true, there are new companies today that offer that exact service.

Just ask Ruth Schwartz.

Being an interior designer for 38 years, Schwartz began House-to-House EZ Move, in Southfield, as an offshoot of her own design company, Interiors By Ruth Schwartz Inc. She began this moving venture originally as a moving service for her clients. Today, she works with everyone from builders, real estate companies, moving companies, and the everyday family that needs this type of service to survive a move to a new residence.

Schwartz's service includes everything from packing and unpacking, to ordering carpeting, rematting pictures and organizing your kitchen cupboards.

Clients contact Schwartz a minimum of two weeks before the moving date at which time she will set up an appointment for a free in-home consultation to assess the cost to complete the move.

Perhaps you have already hired a moving company, but if not, Schwartz will do it for you. House-to-House EZ Move works with several reputable, cost competitive companies.

As a member of the American Society of Interior Designers and the International Furniture Design Association, Schwartz, for an additional fee, can help her clients create a space that is aesthetically pleasing as well as functional. She will put together an accurate layout which will place furniture to fit your living space. This eliminates that awful question of, "where should we put the TV?"

As with every new home, walls need painting, carpet needs replacing, and if you are lucky, you may only have to buy a few new pieces of furniture. Schwartz has the expertise to work with her clients and cater to their needs and finish the job with all the final touches.

And as if that were not enough, her Deluxe Move includes a candlelight dinner for two for your first dinner in the new home.

With kitchen drawers lined and clean linens on all of the beds, it is not unreasonable for the clients to be able to come to their new home at the end of the move, and crawl into bed without boxes sitting in the living room. And that is what this service is all about: the least amount of stress possible.

So, when or if there is a move scheduled in your life for the near or distant future, remember these companies that can do the worrying for you.

For more information on these types of services available in your area, check with your local real estate company. ■

New showroom has it all —including the sink

After selling plumbing supplies wholesale for more than 70 years, Advance Plumbing and Heating Supply Co. has opened a retail showroom in Walled Lake.

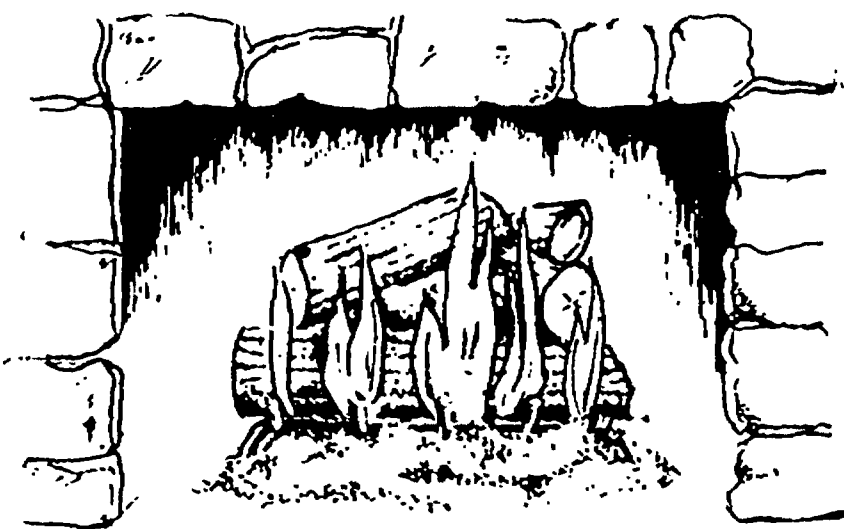

The 3,000 square-foot store at 1977 Maple Rd., between Decker and Haggerty, features hundreds of faucets and displays of working showers, whirlpools, toilets and sinks. "You can actually see how everything works," says Jeff Moss, vice president. High end brands include Kohler, Grohe, Delta and Moen.

A licensed master plumber can assist do-it-yourselfers and answer installation and maintenance questions.

Moss' Grandfather, Harry Chernick, founded the business in Detroit in 1920. Chernick's son-in-law and the current president, Ron Moss, joined in 1957. Advance expanded to Walled Lake in 1990 when it purchased Franklin Plumbing Supply.

Store hours are 8:30-5 Mon.-Fri., 8-3 Sat., or other times by appointment. Phone 1-800-560-7474.
