Clothing drive to help needy in community

You know how it is. The kids are growing like weeds, the way kids do.

The shirts and shorts, Jeans and shoes that fit perfectly just a few months ago are now getting shorter and smaller by the minute Time's coming to toss out the old and bring in the new

But what if you can't part with the old duds because you don't have extra money even for a takeout pizza, let alone some Levis or a new pair of Nikes for little Bobby or Suzie?

Unfortunately, this scenario plays itself out all too often, even around here. Many folks facing tough times just can't spare the cash to buy new clothes for them selves or their children. Instead they are left to mend the tears in an old dress and make that all fitting coat go another winter.

Or they pay a visit to the Community Clothes Closet, where people like Carol Ann Donnelly are ready to help

There's definitely a real need out there and we do our best to meet it. Donnelly, director of Christian services at Novis Church of the Holy Family and The Clothes Closet has been around for almost a quarter century, its volunteers collecting and distributing clothing to neighbors in need.

"We have clients from everywhere - Novi, Northville, South Lyon, even Pontiac," Donnelly explained, "About 800 people are on our mailing list and besides that we get new referrals weekly."

They all visit the Closet, located inside Holy Family, to choose from a large stock of clothing for children and adults.

It's all completely free and the entire enterprise is kept humming by a group of dedicated volunteers and people who take the time to give clothes and other items to the program

Don't be misled by the name though Located inside Holy Family the Closet is anything but a tiny room stuffed with cardboard boxes. Instead, the volunteers have worked hard to give the place a slick professional store-like feel

People who come to the Closet get there by various means. Some come directly from Holy Family parish, while others are referred by other churches, local civic programs, social workers, public health nurses and programs for battered wives and teenage mothers.

"Anyone who needs help is welcome." Donnelly said.

If you're interested in paying a visit to the Closet, call Donnelly at 349-8553.

You must make an appointment and the Clothes Closet is open every Monday from 9 a.m. to noon and 6:30-8:30 p.m. It's also open from 9 a.m. to noon on the first two Thursdays and last two Saturdays of every month.

Holy Family Church is located

Police News

Man injured by own revolver

A Northville Township man accidentally shot himself through the hand in the early hours of Sunday.

Police arrived at his home at a little after 1 a.m. to find him bleeding from the gunshot wound in his left hand. The man, 47, claimed to have been cleaning his .38-caliber revolver when it went off, the slug entering his palm and exiting through the back of the hand.

The reporting officer in the case expressed doubts, however, because no firearm cleaning kit was found and the man had been drinking alcohol.

NEAR MISS: The would-be burglar of a Woodcreek Boulevard home was interrupted before he could get on with it Friday morn-

A 16-year-old girl who lives in the house came home at about 11:20 a.m., a bare 10 minutes after her brother left the premises. As she walked in, the girl told township police, she noticed that the rear door was open and spotted a man running from it through the backyard.

Nothing was missing, according to reports. Police checked the area but were unable to locate anyone suspicious.

GAS SWIPED: A Northville Township business was the victim of a thief on Sunday afternoon.

The business owner was filling propane gas tanks when a man in his 20s drove up in a 1994 Pontiac Grand Am and asked him to fill his tank. The owner did so and the man then put the tank into his car and drove off without paying.

The gas is worth about $7.50. The Grand Am is registered to a 48-year-old woman who lives in Taylor.

CELEBRATION LEADS TO OUIL: A Northville woman's 21st birthday celebration was cut short when she decided to drive while intoxicated Aug. 12.

A Northville police officer noticed the woman driving east on Eight Mile at a high rate of speed, and the officer followed her onto Center Street before stopping her. When the officer approached the vehicle he reported the woman appeared to be confused and had slurred speech. She was asked to perform a field sobriety test and was then administered a preliminary blood test (PBT), which registered 0.14 percent blood alcohol content.

The woman was arrested and transported to the Northville Police Station, where a second breath test also registered 0.14. She was held on $100 bond. Her court date has been set for Aug. 19 at 35th JAIL STAY: A 29-year-old Waterford man booked a room at the Northville city jail after police arrested him for drunk driving Aug. 12.

According to police the man was speeding on S. Main Street when officers stopped him, and noticed the smell of alcohol.

The man was asked to perform a field sobriety test along with a preliminary breath test, which registered 0.18 percent blood alcohol content. The man was arrested and transported to the Northville Police Department where a second breath test registered 0.19 percent

The man was held on $100 bond. His court date has been set for Aug. 19 at 35th District Court.

NEED A FIX: A Plymouth man was arrested for allegedly shoplifting a nicotine-habit-breaking "starter kit" from Meijer on the afternoon of Aug. 6.

The man, 40, was booked and released at the scene.

He faces an Aug. 27 court hearing. The starter kit is valued at $33.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents you can call Northville Township police at 349-9400 or Northville City police at 349-1234.

Larceny suspect escapes sentence

By RANDY COBLE

The criminal case against the man accused of stealing $13,300 worth of Jewelry from a Northville Township home in February has been closed

Larceny charges were dropped recently against David Glen Christopher II. 20, the man prosecutors said took watches, pearls, bracelets and a necklace from a locked safe in the closet of a township woman's house the night of Feb. 21

The items were discovered missing after a party held by the woman's teenage daughter while she was out of town, an event

Christopher attended.

Originally facing a felony charge of larceny over $100, which carries a maximum sentence of up to five years in prison, Christopher agreed to a deal that dropped all counts against him and required the Farmington Hills resident to pay $8.500 in restitution to the homeowner. The arrangement was worked out with the Wayne County prosecutor's office and a county circuit court judge.

According to police, about $5,000 worth of the missing jewelry has been recovered. The rest remains unaccounted for Charges against David Christopher were dropped.

Council to look at woodlands ordinance

By ROBERT JACKSON Staff Writer

Saving trees just became a pri-ority in the city of Northville. The Northville City Council will consider an ordinance Sept. 3 geared toward regulating, maintaining, and protecting trees on private property within city limits.

The woodlands ordinance was drafted by the city's planning commission, which began studying ways to preserve and protect trees in Northville's "urban environment" for the next several years.

Progress on the ordinance was temporarily suspended in 1992. but was picked up again last November, according to City Manager Gary Word Word added that the proposal will be a companion measure to the city's existing tree ordinance that governs trees on public property.

(The ordinance) will not prevent residents or developers from removing existing trees. Word said. Rather, it provides a mechanism under which existing trees can be protected or replaced with new trees to maintain a quality urban forest

The ordinance requires the acquisition of a permit to remove and relocate any tree with a diameter breast height (DBH) of six inches or greater

Permits would also needed to remove historic or landmark trees. to remove trees within a forest. and for clear cutting or "grubbing" within a terest

Violations will be considered misdemeanors with fines not to exceed $500 per tree and/or 90 days in jail

City officials said adoption of the plan will highlight the importance of preserving and planting quality trees in the city. It also recognizes the importance of urban trees in terms of real estate values, energy savings, recreation, air quality and aesthetic appeal, Word said

The ordinance could however become an enforcement or admin istrative nightmare, and regulation of developed single family residential property could turn neighbor against neighbor, with the city caught in the middle, Word cau

"Resolution could require meet ings, negotiations, legal opinions. and possible court time, and could lead to dissatisfaction of city and residents

*All of this when tree removal on developed single family lots is not a problem in the city." Word added

Planning Commission Chairman John Hardin said the ordinance may seem intrusive but the goal is to protect an important Northville

Some of our trees began to grow before this country was even born," he said. "They are not replaceable, and once they are gone there is nothing we can do about it. The commission believes it is important to preserve those trees because it adds to the atmosphere of our community We understand that we retreading where we have not gone before, but we believe that if any problems arise from the ordinance we can address them within the first year," he added.

Word said that the ordinance may add substantial costs to developing forested property, and that the penalty provisions could be considered excessive

"It should be revised to exclude application of the ordinance provi sions on existing single family residential development within the city, he said 'All future lot splits, subdivisions, special uses or site condominiums would require preservation ordinance review.

The cities of Plymouth, Canton, Farmington Hills, and Novi all have similar ordinances protecting trees, Word said

• Tuberculin testing is no longer required for school entry. However, it is recommended for children in high risk situations, such as contacts with known cases, etc.

· If a health examination of your child is against your belief, then it is necessary that an objection (waiver) be submitted in writing and signed by a parent or guardian.

• A physical examination will be required each year for participation in sports activities. Contact the Office of Instructional Services, (810) 344-8442, if you have any questions.

The Wayne County Department of Health requires that each student file must contain proper immunization records as required by the state of Michigan.

Getting proper immunization for children gives them protection against various diseases. By requiring all students to be immunized, schools and communities statewide will be protected from outbreaks of contagious diseases.

State law and the Wayne County Immunization Code prohibit a principal or teacher from admitting children to school without the required immunizations.

Children cannot enter school without a record of one dose of DPT, polio, measles, rubella, and School children across the district, like seventh grader Kelly Anderson, are gearing up for the start of the 1996/97 year. School will be back in session on Monday.

Many private schools will also start the school year next week.

St. Paul Lutheran Elementary School will begin classes on Aug. 26. The school, 210 Elm Street, has a student population of about 210 students in preschool (3-years and older) through eighth grade.

Northville Christian School. 41355 Six Mile Road, will begin classes Aug. 27. About 475 students are currently enrolled in preschool (3-years to 5-years of age) through eighth grade. The school is a ministry of Northville Christian Assembly. It has been in existence since 1975.

Our Lady of Victory Catholic School, 133 Orchard Dr., will greet 365 students in kindergarten through eighth grade for the first day of classes Aug 26. The school is also planning an open house for parents at 10 a m. Aug. 25.

William Allen Academy will start the school year on Sept. 3 The school, 49875 W. Eight Mile Road. has a current enrollment of 83 students in kindergarten through fifth grade.

dent to the middle school or high school population we'd have a big problem on our hands within the next one or two years," said Polletta, who is a member of Continuing Excellence for Northville Children (CENC). a citizens committee pushing for the bond approval. "Start adding new kids to that equation and we'll have real problems when it comes to maintaining the high level of educational quality our schools have enjoyed."

Approval of the $61 million bond request would allow the district to build a new high school, move Cooke Middle School into the current high school facility, and make renovations and repairs to existing elementary and middle schools. The bonds will also provide new technology for classrooms as well as technology support and training for school personnel.

It is the potential overcrowding issue, for residents like Polletta, that needs to be addressed now.

"We can't afford to wait until our schools are bursting at the seams with kids before we do something about it," she said. "Not when the quality of education provided to children would suffer.

The district's student population will increase by more than 160 students this school year, according to statistics provided by Assistant Superintendent Dave Bolitho. With the current population hovering at about 4,800 students the new additions would increase the total population figure by about 3 percent and would result in the addition of more than six classrooms

District officials say projections show that the population will continue to increase, as more homes are built in Northville Township and the portions of Novi that lie within district boundaries. Overall enrollment will increase 24 percent over the next six years, according to district projections based on historical data, housing growth, and projected growth. Stanfred projections also show the following:

• Enrollment at the elementary level (grades 1-5) will increase 21 percent over the next six years.

• Enrollment at the middle school level (grades 6-8) will increase 28 percent.

• High school enrollment (grades 9-12) is expected to increase 30

nercent

Nowhere is the problem more apparent than at the high school, Polletta explained, where student population this year will most likely exceed the 1.400 capacity. "That facility wasn't designed to hold that many students." she said. "Remember we're talking about a building that was constructed in 1959."

Crowded classrooms and hall-ways aren't the only problems with the high school. Transportation, parking and an aging infrastructure are also effected by the increased number of students and teachers.

According to Mary Rupley, who has also spent the past three years studying the facility problem, adding on to the existing high school facility is not a viable option.

"You could never remodel that school enough to adequately address the future needs of students," she said. Rupley served as a member of the district's Bond Committee, which considered additions to the current high school facility. The committee dismissed that option because it would only serve as a "temporary fix."

"Adding onto the existing facility would only alleviate the over-crowding temporarily, and wouldn't address a lot of the concerns," she said. "Then when the student population grew to a capacity of 1,800 we would have to build another high school anyway.

"In the long run that option could prove almost as costly to the

The school district estimates it will cost $40 million to build a new high school on district property on Six Mile Road. Preliminary plans call for the original building to house 1,800 students, with the ability to expand to hold more than 2,200 students.

"(The bond committee) felt that recommending the construction of a new high school was the best way to go because it not only addressed student population, but curriculum changes, staffing concerns, as well as community use," Rupley said. "It also allows the school district to move Cooke Middle School to a bigger facility, which will alleviate their space problems as well."

Cooke's student population is expected to be at capacity this

2-high school option eliminated from plan

By ROBERT JACKSON Staff Writer

Would the Northville Public School district be better off with two high schools?

That's one of several questions tackled by the district's bond committee two years ago, and the answer was a resounding no.

"The committee felt that building a second, smaller high school would have polarized the community and would have caused an unneeded rivalry between the two schools," said Mary Rupley, who served on the committee. "It also would have forced the school district to build a third middle school to handle the growing number

instead, the committee recommended the district build one high school for approximately $40 million. The school would initially hold 1,800 students but could be expanded to hold more than 2,000.

The committee maintained that two competing high schools would split the community and that the one high school concept would promote a stronger sense of community.

"The high school has always been a strong symbol of Northville and we did not want to endanger that," she said. "A second high school would have split the loyalty."

year as well, and Polletta maintains that if the district can't move the school to the existing high school, some students might have to be transported to the Meads Mill Middle School.

"Then you've created transportation problems and the potential for space problems at Meads Mill," Polletta explained. "And we'd be looking at having to build another middle school."

Welcome Wagon to hire 75 reps

Welcome Wagon International is significantly expanding its in-home greeting service in the Detroit metro area.

Over the next year at least 75 representatives will be hired to bring Welcome Wagon's trademark baskets - filled with civic information as well as free gifts and special offers from local businesses and professionals - to newcomers in metropolitan Detroit communities.

"With so many families moving into this area each month, the need for a greeting service has never been greater. That's why we're hirring 75 people to help those new movers settle in," said Sue Budding, Welcome Wagon regional manager for the Detroit area.

There are currently 24 Welcome Wagon representatives greeting hundreds of new movers in the Detroit metropolitan area each month

The hiring program, which should bring the number of metropolitan Detroit representatives to 100, is focusing on a number of communities in Wayne. Macomb. Oakland and Washtenaw counties

Those needing information about becoming a Welcome Wagon representative, or attending an open house, can call 1-800-77-WELCOME

Welcome Wagon's hiring program focuses on Northville, Novi, Bloomfield Hills, Clinton Township, Novi, Royal Oaks, Southfield, Sterling Heights, Taylor, Trenton, Walled Lake, Westland and other communities in southeast Michigan.

Welcome Wagon is also adding to its current group of representatives in Northville, Ann Arbor, Birmingham, Bloomfield, West Bloomfield, Canton Township, Dearborn, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Plymouth, and Rochester.

"Across the country, our representatives have discovered a perfect way to earn money while maintaining a flexible work schedule and that 'be your own boss' feeling," Susan Gross, Welcome Wagon's national vice president of sales, said.

"What's more, we all feel that becoming part of the Welcome Wagon family means sharing in a great American tradition."

Representatives spend much of their time making home visits to new movers, which typically last about one hour each.

During a home visit, a representative will hand out local civic and cultural information and make a personal presentation on behalf of local merchants and professionals which includes free gifts and special offers.

Founded in 1928, Welcome Wagon is a subsidiary of CUC International, a Fortune 500 membership-services company that provides a variety of consumer services to approximately 46.5 million

Get those shots for school

To stay in school children must complete all of the following required immunizations:

• DTP or TD - Four or more doses (shots).

Diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis or tetanus, diphtheria. Only three doses of TD are required if the series begins at 6 years of age or

A booster dose is required if the series is completed before the child turned four.

Polio - Three or more doses. A booster dose is needed if the series is completed under 4 years of age.

· Measles, rubella, mumps -Two doses.

Given on or after the age of 12 months and at least one month apart, with at least one of the doses on or after 15 months.

Measles, mumps and rubella vaccines are routinely administered at 15 months.

They must be repeated if given before 12 months.

Measles and mumps must be repeated if administered before Jan. 1, 1968.

Rubella must be repeated if administered before July 1, 1969.

The only acceptable history of having had measles, mumps or rubella disease is current laboratory evidence of immunity.

· HIB (Haemophilus Influenza-Type B) - A complete series of any HIB for children under 15 months. One dose of any HIB for children 15 months through 5 years.

Preparing to return / Helpful tips from U-M

LETTING GO OF YOUR LITTLE ONES: When preschoolers or kindergartners set off on the first day of school, parents should try to relax. Don't mistake your own worries for your child's.

Chances are young children aren't worried about whether they have the right lunch box or the wrong kind of sneakers. Those are the kinds of concerns that bother older children and parents. Most children starting out in preschool or kindergarten enjoy school, and parents who are worried should make it a point to visit the school before the first day so they don't transmit their own anxicties about separation to their youngsters.

TO WORK OR NOT TO WORK AFTER SCHOOL: An after-school job isn't necessarily the best way to learn the value of a dollar. Working after school and then blowing the money on clothes, CDs and entertainment, engenders a sense of "premature affluence," the development of spending styles teens can't sustain. Once they're on their own, away from the financial base of home, teens will have to unlearn the bad spending habits they've acquired.

And working too many hours after school can endanger their academic performance and schooland community-based extracurricular activities.

ENCOURAGING GIRLS IN MATH: Too much praise for effort can push girls away from math. In commending their daughters for "trying so hard" in the subject, parents are unwittingly telling them they must compensate for their innate interiority at math. With this mindset, girls will likely shy away from math as courses get more difficult

Focus on young female students' ability and competence rather than their effort. Both boys and girls must learn that failure is not an indication of a lack of aptitude, but an indication of what one needs to learn and to work on.

BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE: Save that photo of your first-born mounting the steps of the big, yellow bus on the first day at school for his or her wedding day. All photographs, from the 1850s to modern day snapshots, are susceptible to fluctuating temperature and humidity cycles. A closet in an air-conditioned room would be ideal. An attic is Frequently handled or displayed photographs should be copies, not originals. Storing negatives separate from their corresponding prints is another good idea, in case of disaster. Prints should be stored in acid-free enclosures or archival plastic sleeves within archival boxes.

Go flying at Beuter's as business stages casting demos

Don't take your rods to the river on Saturday, Aug. 24. Take them to Bueter's Outdoors, Northville's fly fishing shop, for an all-day casting demonstration hosted by pro anglers.

The event takes place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dave Halblom of Ross Reels and Trout Traps will join Bucter's pro staff in demonstrating casting form, accuracy, presentation mending and more. There will also be opportunities for friendly one-on-one conversations to improve skills or overcome casting sticking points.

It's a great event for enthusiasts to test out a number of rods. tions or fishing information. and to feel the difference a fine rod can make in casting and fishing abilities," owner John Bueter

The occasion will also feature sales on summer and fall technical apparel.

Refreshments will also be served. Bucter's Outdoors is open six days per week and is located in downtown Northville at 120 E.

Writer sends dispatches from San Diego

By TIM RICHARD Staff Water

Note: Lansing correspondent Tim Richard attended the Republican National Convention earlier this month and brought back these observations from the event.

San Diego is a great town to vacation in, but you wouldn't want to hold a convention there.

Within a short hop of the Holiday Inn on the Beach, the Michigan delegation's hotel, are the "Star of India" (a sailing ship) maritime museum, the Zoo, cruise ship terminals, a retired U.S. Navy warship, Seaport Village shops, the Museum of Contemporary Art and breathtaking promenades bathed in cloudless sunlight and cooled by gentle ocean breezes. Tijuana, Mexico, is a 15-mile, $1.75 trolley ride away.

BYE, BYE GUESTS

Guests with the Michigan delegation draw each day for credentials, which are actually tickets to the convention. A "Sail Area Guest" pass entitles one to sit outside the convention hall on a sail-covered roof and view a TV monitor.

Commented a Pennsylvania honoree:

inside, orator after orator blistered "bureaucratic regulations" and vowed to bring liberty to the governmentally oppressed American people, to the audible elation of the multitude.

At the gate, however, security guards poked into ladies' purses, all folded newspapers, laptop computer bags and every conceivable item a person could carry in their search for bombs, assault weapons and even compact sabers.

It was the most extensive security check this writer had witnessed since the fourth day acceptance speech of Jimmy Carter in New York City during the Arab-scare days of 1980.

But the officials, if slow, were all very, very courteous.

MICHIGAN'S DAY

Michigan delegates had lots of their own to cheer in the mid-Monday slot even if the home folks never say them on prime-time television coverage.

Senate nominee Ronna Romney and 10th District congressional nominee Susy Heintz had 90 seconds in the spotlight.

Gov. John Engler, as chairman of the Republican Governors Association, introduced several of the 32 GOP governors, and Secretary of State Candice Miller introduced part of the platform but didn't read it

And Michigan got to cheer former President Gerald Ford, who twitted the prevailing forces by speaking admiringly of moderates like Wendell L. Willkie and Dwight D. Eisenhower, and glowingly of the politics of inclusion as the key to victory.

City hall plan draws questions

$161,000, or 11 percent of the total project cost.

The project also includes enlarging the firebarn. renovating the police department, and moving the city council meeting room to the first floor in the space that the current library will soon vacate. Placing administrative offices where the current council meeting room is located is also included.

The plan also calls for approximately $90,000 to be spent in office furnishings, including $20,000 for a building inspector's office, $9,000 for the clerk's department, $18,000 for the Finance and Department of Public Works, a $7,000 training room, and a $6,700 storage room.

The original plan called for $187,000 in furnishings but the committee pared that down by reprioritizing.

City officials maintain that the renovations are needed to better serve the community and optimize employee productivity.

We do not need elaborate furnishings to improve service to our citizens," Keys said. "We don't need to be spending $9,000 on a council conference room. We could be putting that money towards Public Works equipment, recreation or our senior citizens."

Renovations to the facility's heating, ventilation and air conditioning system are also proposed.

The committee's recommendation states that there are several problems with city hall that need to be corrected, including:

 The building does not meet current ADA requirements – the restrooms don't conform to code and two story public buildings now require an elevator by law. • The HVAC system is expensive to operate and breaks down regularly, requiring an average of 30 service calls per year. The facility also needs a new electrical distribution system and lighting updates. · Some office areas are overcrowded, while a few have unusable space. There is insufficient storage space for city hard copy records and equipment, and some of the furniture needs replacement. • There is no sprinkler system or a fire or heat detection system.

decorate the Recreation Center." Glenn Morningstar and the Ruff Water String Band, playing original period instruments, will provide the entertainment and music for the dancing portion of the evening. Morningstar, Marrs said. acts as the contra-dancing caller. and his easygoing style plays well with festival goers.

Marrs said people attending the ball should park in the MAGS parking lot and ride to the recreation center in horsedrawn carriages. The event is set for 7:30 p.m. The Chamber of Commerce is selling 200 tickets for the dance.

Marrs said that this year, as in years past, there will be new activities and entertainment for young and old to enjoy. Free horse and carriage rides, storytellers, medicine man shows, strolling musicians and an antique show and art market are just some of the events planned for the weekend festival.

Of course the Victorian Festival celebration will begin with the traditional Victorian parade, which is slated to wind its way through Northville at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13.

Overseas Program, an umbrella organization made up of churches and relief agencies around the world with the aim of sweeping hunger into the dustbin of history.

Worship centers in Novi and Northville are a part of that effort again, as they have been since 1987 In that time, according to CROP volunteer Carol Ann Donnelly, they've helped raise money that has provided decent meals to people both overseas and right here in these parts.

And CROP backers want to make 1996 even better than the ones that have come before.

"Our goal is to see 400 walkers volunteer and to raise $24,000." said Donnelly, Christian service director at Novi's Holy Family

Some 350 walkers last year pulled in more than $22,000.

The "walk" in "CROP Walk," is what it's 'all about: families, neighbors and friends beating feet together on Sunday, Sept. 29, through the streets of Northville and Nova

Mill Race Matters

Thank you to Jean Hansen for her recent donation of Northville High School Palladiums to the Northville Community Archives. Hansen donated volumes from 1982, 1983, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1993, 1994, and 1995.

The Archives has been attempting to complete a full set of the publication which began in 1911. Still needed to complete the collection are: 1911 through 1920, 1926, 1934, 1935, 1937, 1939, 1941 through 1956, 1959, 1962, 1965-68, 1972, 1979, 1984-88, and 1996. Contributions are much appreciated.

Also sought are composite photographs of Northville High School graduating classes. Still sought are 1913, 1916, 1917, 1920, 1922, 1028, 1948, 1951, 1956, 1960, 1968, 1972-75, 1977, 1979, and 1980. The photographs are being restored and will again hang on the wall of Northville High. Contributions may be made to Composite Photo Restoration, Northville Historical Society, P.O. 71, Northylle, MI 48167 for all years.

In just a few short days September will be once more upon us. With the coming of September comes the opening of the school season. In Northville September also brings the eighth annual Northville Victorian Festival and the 27th annual Tivoli Fair.

This year's Victorian Festival occurs Sept. 13-15 throughout the city. On Friday members and friends of the Northville Historical Society are invited to march together in the community parade which kicks off the weekend. Meet behind the MAGS building, in the parking lot, at 6 p.m. in Victorian costume. Look for the Northville Historical Society - Mill Race Village signs.

Mill Race Village events occur between 1 and 4 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 14, and on Sunday, Sept. 15. All buildings will be open during these hours on both days. Music is planned throughout the afternoon both days. Craft demonstrations by basket weavers, fiber weavers, rug hookers, blacksmiths and on antique instruments will be offered both afternoons.

Saturday features croquet and crumpets from 2 until 4:30 pm. and the hat judging competition at 2:30 p.m. with prizes awarded in a number of categories. Sunday events include family games at 1. box lunches at the village (purchased in town at the PTO box luncheon sale), and the duck race at 2:30.

Two weeks later the Northville Historical Society holds its major fund-raising event of the calendar year, Tivoli Fair. The Fair runs Friday, Sept. 27. from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 28. from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Over 110 crafters will dis-play and sell handcrafted items on both days. The juried event held annually at Northville Downs is now in its 27th year. Admission is $3. Baby strollers will not be admitted.

Mill Race buildings will remain open throughout October on Sunday afternoons from 1 until 4 p.m.

In recent weeks short highlights on some of the buildings have been featured in this column.

The first building placed on the Mill Race Village site in 1972 was New School Church. The building. constructed originally in 1845, gets its name from the New School Presbyterians who broke away from Northville's Presbyterian Church in that year and

The congregation lasted only four years and had only one pastor. Sylvester Cochrane. When the congregation disbanded most members returned to the resbyterian Church, which remains to this day in this community, while some of the founders moved on to the Salem Congregational Church.

Cochrane remained in town opening a private school on Randolph. He was the father of Sarah Cochrane for whom the local branch of the Daughters of the American Revolution is named.

The building served the community of Northville for the remainder of its life in a variety of capacities. It was used for township offices, school offices, by the Salvation Army to assist soldiers, and for 72 years as the community library.

During the 1960s city officials decided to tear down the structure and build a shopping mall. It stood originally where the MAGS building is today. Local residents banned together forming both the Northville Historical Society and the Historic District Commission to save the remaining community historic buildings from destruction.

The building is used as a logo for the Northville Historical Society because it served as the spearhead for the creation of the organization and ultimately of Mill Race Village itself.

Coalition off to good start in mapping school's future

When the Northville Board of Education approved the formation of the Coalition for Student Success last April we were skeptical as to how successful the group would become, based on the shortcomings of the recent High School Futures Committee and the DeJong .community dialog process.

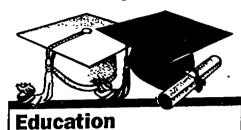

Five months into the coalition's short life we still have misgivings, but we've got to admit we're impressed by what we have seen so far.

The coalition, responsible for drafting a plan for the educational future of Northville High School, is now moving into high gear to accomplish the initiatives it was charged with by the Northville Board of Education in May.

The group began tackling several objectives that, when implemented, will change the way Northville teens are educated at the high school. According to Coalition Chairman and Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson. the group is excited about its charge and has put in quite a bit of work over

We have come together from a student oriented perspective, to meet the challenges that will carry the high school into the 21st century." Johnson

Excited about new challenges? We haven't heard that kind of talk come out of a district committee in some time. That's another sure sign that this committee is a bit different than its predecessors.

The Coalition has set its timeline to complete the eight initiatives it was originally charged with when the school board approved the organization's formation.

According to Johnson, the first initiative - developing and implementing mechanisms for effective communication and collaboration with parents, teachers and the community - was accomplished in May.

The group also completed the high school's vision statement that will serve as a yardstick to measure how well the school is doing in providing a positive learning environment.

Although there is still plenty of work ahead for this group, we want to give them an "early semester" grade of a Bplus for getting out of the gate with a great head start.

We hope that continued support from the school board and administration will keep their enthusiasm high and help them remain focused on the task at hand, which is to "challenge all students to reach their potential and to develop responsible citizens in a caring and supportive environment.

Charity to benefit needy right here in our community

It seems that causes are a dime a dozen nowadays, doesn't it?

Every conceivable group is asking you to give your money or your time to some endeavor or other. Save the whales. Ban movie popcorn. Elect Ralph Nader President (he became the American Green Party's nominee this that, though, we'll miss out on the chance to support a cause that's truly important: feeding the hungry, some of whom are our neighbors right here in : Northville.

The ninth annual Northville/Novi CROP Walk will be held in about one month to raise money for hunger relief both here and overseas. CROP Walk volunteers are shooting for 400 walkers to generate a total of $24,000 in pledges for the cause.

You can become one of them by attending the CROP Walk recruitment rally which will be held this Tuesday. Aug. 27, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Meadowbrook Congregational Church in Novi It's located on Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

Just what is a CROP Walk?

"CROP" stands for Church Rural Overseas Program, an umbrella organization made up of churches and relief agencies around the world that are aiming to stamp out hunger. Worship centers in Novi and Northville have been part of the effort since 1987.

This year's walk will be held on Sunlt's getting so we can't see the forest day, Sept. 29, a 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) for the trees and it almost makes you stroll through the streets of Northville want to tell them all to get lost. If we do and Novi. Most of the money will be donated to Church World Services, which sponsors hunger relief and other aid programs around America and the world.

> One quarter of the money will be given to metro-area hunger agencies, including Northville Civic Concern and the Novi Emergency Food Program.

Lee Snider

As you read in Bob Jackson's story in today's newspaper, the city council is getting ready to eyeball a proposal aimed at protecting trees and preserving the environment. Referred to as a "woodlands ordinance." the measure would require people to obtain permits before taking down trees that enjoy protected status, even if said trees are located on one's own property.

A violation would be a criminal, not a civil, offense, a misdemeanor carrying the usual penalty of up to 90 days in the slammer and a $500 fine. The city might want to be careful about this one.

I worked in a community that had a tree ordinance similar to the one Northville's considering when I edited the local newspaper in Grosse lle Township. Grosse lle is a unique place, a wooded island in the Detroit River that's surrounded by gunky downriver pollution. Despite its location, the township boasts many stately homes and the people there are environmentally sensitive and protective of the island's rural character.

One day one of the community's more successful real estate developers decided to challenge Grosse lle's tree ordinance, which read much like the one Northville will soon begin discussing. To make sure he got the ball rolling, he invited the township enforcement officer (and a photographer from my newspaper) to witness his illegal act of destruction.

The officer stood in watchful silence, pen and paper in hand, and as soon as the saw notched the trunk he dutifully scribbled out a citation. That's all the developer needed. He was off and running for court.

Some weeks later, the verdict came in: the tree ordinance was ruled unreasonably restrictive and was ordered off the books.

Because Northville is roughly 95 percent developed. there probably won't be too many real estate barons raising a hue and cry over the city's woodlands proposal. But judging from the reaction of the people of Grosse lle, most of whom seemed pretty incensed that they had to apply for a permit to cut down a tree on their own land, the proposal might still be greeted with something less than enthusiastic acceptance.

That is, unless the community's "green" faction turns out to be sizeable and vocal. But considering Northville Township couldn't pass a miniscule millage for open space acquisition two years ago. I tend to doubt that there are crowds of homeowners eager to press the council for passage.

Majestic, venerable trees are wonderful additions to any community - essential elements, really, that enhance the landscape and send a cleansing wind through parks, yards and fields.

But if there's anything people value more than natural beauty it's personal freedom. Whenever the government steps across residential property lines two centuries of homegrown civil libertarianism, stored away in the American ancestral memory, seems to well up in people and a defensive instinct takes over. I wouldn't be too surprised if it happens here too

The energy levels are building on the school front as students prepare to return to school. One special group of students is about to embark on what we are calling the Northville High School wilderness adventure

The outing is funded through a grant (Drug Free Schools and Community) and planned through the cooperation of the special education directors. Bob Sorenson, Northville Public Schools: the Student Assistance Program; and Jacque Martin Downs, Hegira Prevention Programs.

This energetic group of 11 students, two chaperones. Michelle Kelly and Charlie Stilee, and three facilitators from "Steps" as well as David Brassfield, director. Adventure Challenge Programs, Camp Tamarack, left on Monday, Aug. 19, and will return on Sunday. Aug.

Many of the students are newly appointed peer mediators at Northville High School for the 1996-97 school year. All the students are to be commended for giving up their free time, jobs, time with family, etc., to head into the northern coast of the Upper Peninsula for canoeing, backpacking and rock climbing experiences. The goals of the trip are team building, leadership training and self discovery.

We will travel from Northville to Camp Kennedy, an old hunting lodge on Nevins Lake east of Munising. and this will act as a base camp. Day two will feature canoeing on the Indian River. Days three, four and five will consist of backpacking along Pictured Rocks National Seashore. All students will carry what they need to survive with. Day six will be technical rock climbing on Marquette Mountain.

We in education are truly excited by being given the opportunity to participate in this adventure. Hopefully, this will be a stepping stone to future programs where students will:

Expand their experiences and communication skills and get excited about learning

- Share a common vision
- Confront challenges
- Build self esteem.
- Learn to work with others of varied backgrounds.
- · Take risks in a safe environment. · Accept responsibility for maintaining or changing
- patterns of behavior. Develop more effective methods of problem solving
- and communicating with others. Overcome perceived self limitations and experience the power of "the team."
- Encourage personal empowerment to affect self

Reinforce healthy values, morals and ethics to bring back to the school and community.

Education cannot only be informing but transforming. We need to engage students by using their own lives and realities as a point of departure. We can create an environment which encourages positive risks.

Get informed about school proposal

The Northville Public Schools letter our then 7-year-old niece Board of Education has decided to place a $61.5 million bond issue and a one-year, non-renewable 1.95 enhancement millage on the ballot for voter approval on Monday, Sept. 23. This decision was made after years of study by citizen's committees. administrators, and school board

The upcoming election will present an opportunity to make a crucial investment in our children, schools and community. The bond proceeds will be used for the following:

• $48.5 million to construct and equipment a new highschool for 1,800 students with the capacity for expansion to 2.200 students;

 $7.8 million for remodeling and renovations to other existing buildings, including the addition of a classroom wing at Silver Springs Elementary:

• $5.2 million for educational

• $3.8 million to renovate the current high school for use as a middle school.

The 1.95 one year enhancement millage would generate funds to be spent over five years to support our capital investment in computer hardware by training teachers and hiring sitebased technology support per-

If you are new to the community or have otherwise not registered to vote, we urge you to do so. The deadline for voter registration for this election is Aug 26. You can register to vote with the city or township clerk's office. We would like to thank you in advance for registering to vote. If you should have any questions on where to register or the ballot proposals for Sept. 23, our committee would be pleased to answer them. Feel free to contact

Where have all the voters gone?

I am really disappointed in the voters in Northville. When about 23 percent turn out on election day, it tells me that the average person does not give a darn about what is going on

The school has an election coming up in the next month and this tells me that 23 percent are telling me that they will raise my taxes about $600 per year.

I will not object to the raise if 50 60 percent voters turn out for the election. The majority rules and I'm always willing to go along with the majority.

The senior citizen can have a absentee ballot mailed to them with a simple telephone call to the township clerk or the city

I have mixed emotions about the election. Some experts from U of M say that you shouldn't have a high school with more than 800 students.

I have lived in the Northville School District for 39 years and I remember when Cook School was closed down for a few years because It wasn't needed. I remember after Thornton Creek was finished, it sat idle for a year because of a lack of funds to

That shows poor planning on Our family would like to thank the part of the school board. It cost plenty to maintain it while it

We spent $49,000 for an expert to tell us why we needed a new high school. I wrote before that we could have purchased 35 to Reflecting upon the almost 70 40 new computers for that the school board where 63.1 percent goes for salaries and 22.1 percent goes for benefits. That is 85.2 percent and no wonder the budget doesn't call for much in repairs when the roofs leak. When my roof leaks, it has to be fixed and some good times are forgotten to pay for it.

We have one of the highest paid superintendents in Michigan. No sacrifice will have to be made by him or the other high officials in the school system. Passing on their 2.5 percent raise would tell me that they really care. Anytime someone can better themselves, the door is open so the argument that they can receive more doesn't cut any ice with me.

I'm still wondering who the people are that are going to buy all the $325,000 to $500,000 plus homes that they are building. Two weeks ago I said to my wife that it looks like a 1929 build-up. I hope I am wrong but a lot of my friends have the same

When I read that 80 percent of the homes have two people working and the students need cars because they have after school jobs, that lead me to believe that the average voter is over his head. That is scary.

Poor Baja, blaming The Northville Record for her defeat. I wrote her a letter telling her to look into a mirror and be honest with herself. That is why she lost. She wasn't honest with herself or any one else. The seven Baja signs at Seven Mile and Beck just didn't do the trick.

Let's have an election where the majority are running the schools and township.

Priorities are hard to figure

To the Editor:

Casandra, a prophetess of long, long ago, was fated never to be believed although, invariably. her prophesies came to pass.

The centers for Disease Control (CDC) has for many years been involved n compiling data on all manner of subjects such as the incidence and morbidity of diseases in a given locality and universally.

In President Bush's administration. CDC began keeping data on something called the National Center for injury Prevention. It counted how many people were injured by a variety of means. including those caused by gun-

The question arises: Are the results of CDC's efforts in the collection of data on health problems and injuries credible?

According to Roger Simon, as reported in Creators Syndicate Inc., fascinating things were discovered with regard to guns, things that didn't please the National Rifle Association (NRA) one bit. Simon reported how each year 19,000 people have used guns to commit suicide in the U.S.: how 18.500 are murdered with a gun every year; how 1.500 more are accidentally shot to death.

Sadly, the House of Representatives recently voted to strip the CDC of $2.6 million so it could no longer study gun deaths.

Question: Was it really House members who did the dirty work. or was it NRA lobbyists who pour millions of dollars in the campaign coffers of those members of Congress who do their bid-

Question: If today CDC announced that 40,000 people died last year from a particular disease, would the public demand that something be done

It would seem appropriate and desirable that serious thought be given to setting up procedures that would immediately begin to deal with the problem.

In a rational world that is what would be done.

Hearing focuses on drilling rights proposals

When residents in Commerce Township were concerned about oll and gas exploration in their community this spring, they picked up the phone and called Novi resident Frank Brennan.

Because when it comes to battling oil companies, it's "been there done that for Brennan. who lives in Echo Valley subdivision. In 1991, when Novi attempted to block the Southern Michigan Oil Company (SOMO-CO) from drilling one-quarter mile west of his neighborhood. one problem was that the local government had limited regulatory powers over oil and gas opera-the first of four public meetings. The series opener, hosted locally by the South-East-Shawood Homeowners Association, was took place at the Novi Civic Cen-

In 1996, four reform bills that aim to give local governments more power to control oil and gas exploration and processing within their borders have been introduced into the state House of Representatives, said coalition member Hans Voss.

"We've been looking at the issue for a number of years in northern Michigan," said Voss. who is associate director of the Benzonia-based Michigan Land Use Institute.

"Several southeast Michigan legislators and township and communities want the right to regulate oil and gas wells.

Key issues for residents are the impact of such operations on their property values, possible pollution of groundwater and air.

A number of the proposed bills would give local municipalities the power to police everything from where the wells are drilled to the noise and odor from regulating stations.

The meeting in Novi brought together legislators sponsoring the reform bills, including State Senator Willis Bullard, R-Milford. local government officials, coalition members and a representative of the state Department of Environmental Quality.

Previously, Echo Valley Estates homeowners, led by then-association president Brennan, said their concerns were that the SOMOCO well's close proximity would endanger their well water, undermine property values and inundate the area with unpleasant odors.

The last is what Joan Seamster said is happening now in Commerce. Seamster, a MERC member. lives in Pine Cover Villas, by Lower Straits Lake and near the Birmingham Gun Club, where Wolverine Gas And Oil was flaring off gas from a new gas well last week. Residents there fear possible pollution to the lake due by the operations.

The township approved it. The township has no rights." Seamster, said.

The flare was 40 feet high, it lit up the surrounding area. I thought it was a windstorm. The first day the odor was very bad. We knew there were some problems with sour gas."

Wolverine Gas and Oil Co. in past years has looked for potential oil deposits in Novi.

Legislation in some 11 bills on this subject would strengthen the authority of landowners who do not own their mineral rights and increase protection from drilling for sensitive land.

New guidelines for school lunches makes debut

Holly Kellogg, 9, tastes watermelon.

By CAROL WORKENS Staff Writer

Students will be offered more breads and grains and fruits and vegetables this year for lunch That's not to say they are going to be eating them, though

The new guidelines set by the Michigan Department of Education have increased the present three quarters cup serving of two fruits and/or vegetables to include an additional one-half cup per week for grades K through six and one cup for grades seven though 12.

In the grains/breads group, students will go from being offered eight servings per week to 12 servings for students in

K through six, and 15 servings per week for students in grades seven through 12. One grain/bread per day may be dessert. The change won't happen overnight, but gradually over the next couple of years.

Servings which stay the same are the two ounces of meat or meat alternate and the 8 ounces of milk per day.

We will serve the same type of foods but more of those two items to meet the guidelines of 30 percent fat or less," said Robin Taksony, food service manager for Northville Public School.

The school lunch programs in both the Novi and Northville school districts are an offer, as opposed to a serve, for-

They may choose the items for a balanced lunch or they may not." said Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent of administrative services.

Bolitho who monitors the lunch programs when he pinch hits for elementary school principals, sees some students who choose the pizza lunch option, which comes with juice or milk and vegetable, only take the pizza.

The food service person or cafetena assistant who's there encourages the kids to take a variety for a well-rounded lunch, but some of them don't.' Bolitho said.

National brand fast foods go to school

By CAROL WORKENS

The school lunch program is not what it used to be.

Besides offering in-house lunches, schools offer national brand names like Hungry Howie, Pizza Hut, Taco Bell, and the food items offered must head toward an average weekly fat content of 30 percent or less.

"We are a fast food society these days," said Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent of administrative services, who expects to contract with more of the national brand names, as long as they meet the federal require-

Six years ago, when Bolitho inhented the Northville School District's lunch program from the business department, he had to deal with a deficit situation.

"This program has to be a breakeven program, and it wasn't." he said. "We are now."

The profit of $1.300 last year went back into the school district's general fund.

The lunch program at Novi public schools operates at a break-even point with just enough profit to cover operating expenses, according to Mary Claya, food service director.

To get out of the red, every facet of the lunch program in Northville was reviewed. Contractual changes – some full-time positions were split to part-time to save benefits costs – reduction of staff through attrition, menu selection and pricing structure were some of the things that helped bring the program out of a deficit situation, according to Bolitho.

During the improvement process it was discovered that, at the secondary level, participation was effected by the length of time a student stood in line. The goal for three years was to decrease the time spent in line.

Staff members can also play a positive or negative role in the program, and in Northville's case they were a hindrance. After educating the staff and inviting them to lunch, student participation in the program improved.

Two years ago. Northville started a first-grade orientation and developed a big book showing how to select and what to select for lunch. Parents were invited to come in and go through the first day with the kids.

"That reduces the parental anxiety," he said. "It helps the child."

Popular Lunches

Some of the favorite lunch items offered by the Northville School District are listed below along with the fat content. The Novi School District has found that similar selections are best-sellers in their schools too.

Both district's goals are to get down to the recommended 30 percent fat as set by the Michigan Department of Education. To get the percentage of fat in a meal, the total fat grams are multiplied by nine, then divided by the total number of calories, and then multiplied by 100.

Mernle Hines has been indexing The Record for 10 years.

Indexing is second nature for Hines

By CAROL WORKENS Staff Writer

The Northville Record indexing project was handed over to The Friends of the Library shortly after it began 10 years ago. Mernie Hines has been with the indexing project since day one.

The emphasis of this (the indexing project) is that the Record is such a valuable paper in this southeastern area. Hines said.

"A lot of people don't know what a special paper it is," she said. "It published news from about 15 other communities."

Hines had been retired only six months when she volunteered to help with the indexing project.

A retired librarian, Hines has worked an average of three hours a week on the project over the last decade. With pencil in hand, Hines and eight to 20 other volunteers view each microfilmed page of the newspaper, and jot down the names of individuals, groups and businesses, sometimes with a brief notation, which they then turn over to a data entry person. The data entry person is paid to work up to 10 hours a week, entering all the information collected by the volunteers. Each year is stored on a computer disk.

The Friends were able to buy computer equipment for data entry with a recent grant they received from the Chrysler Corporation Fund.

After the data entry is completed, an index is printed. Fifteen hardbound copies of the index are sent to various libraries in the area including the Library of Michigan in Lansing and the Burton Public Library in Detroit.

The volunteers started with the first issues of the Record in 1869, and have completed everything up to 1918. Al Smitley, co-founder of the project along with Pat Orr, is keeping up with current issues dating back to 1990.

"We are working down from the top." Hines said.

Schools move toward healthier lunches

At the elementary level, students have a choice of one of two entrees, then they can choose fresh fruit or mixed fruit, or they can choose fresh vegetable sticks or another vegetable. Snack food items like fruit roll-ups are available. Milk or Juice is also available for those students who bring a sack lunch. All elementary schools in Northville have the same menu. although salad days may differ.

Secondary schools have four or five entree selections a day which come with fruit/vegetable. grain/bread and milk.

State and federal statutes permit schools at the middle and high school levels to offer ala-carte items, according to Bolitho, Students can buy just two pieces of pizza or a hamburger.

As long as those items meet the do - they can choose those items. Bolitho said.

At Northville High School there are three major choices - school lunch. Taco Bell and, this year. Hungry Howie's pizza instead of

have a choice of pizza from either Pizza Hut or Dominos, which is delivered fresh and ready to eat, in addition to the school lunch.

There are some favorites that we prepare that the kids really like," he said. "Our people like preparing those kinds of meals. That's what they are there for."

One of the items in Northville with the highest fat content is the meat and cheese nachos which is prepared in-house by the schools.

We find that to be an interesting debate, because that is the government recipe," he said. "Our goal is to get below the 30 per-

Bolitho has evaluated the market through taste tests and surveys from students and parents.

The parents want all the veggies, grain items and the kids want the high-fat items," he said. "Parents usually rely on us to force this food down kids' throats which they won't eat at home.'

Eat the cookie first, pitch the apple, maybe a bite of the sandwich." Taksony said of the brown baggers. I don't know what they tell their mom and dad they eat on their lunch."

said. They just want to get out there and play.

Surprisingly. I find that in the elementary level they do a good Job of selecting," said Mary Claya, food service director for the Novi School District. They take all the compo-

When you creep up to those older grades, the less of the fruit/vegetable components the students take. Claya said.

Foreign born students, if they are new to the United States, generally eat very slowly, sometimes taking 30 minutes, and tend to take all the components, according to Bolitho.

"After a couple of years they are in the pattern and are zooming out the door," he said.

The average, over the course of a week, is 30 percent fat," said Claya. "We want to increase carbohydrates and, certainly, lower salt and sugar falls in there too.

The foods that are offered by the schools are the items found to be most popular with the students. High fat foods are balanced with lower fat foods in a given week.

They would like us to add more breads and grains and more fruits and vegetables and they (the students) don't eat all that they're getting now." Taksony said. "So trying to get them to eat even more is going to be challenging." Prices for lunches remain the same this year for both districts. In Novi, a full lunch is $1.50 for elementary school: $1.75 for junior high and senior high and $2.50 for

In Northville the elementary school lunch price is $1.80, while at the secondary level there are three choices of school lunch program lunches - $2.05, $2.25 and Š2 50.

Both districts also offer the ala carte items.

Schools are reimbursed from the federal government for each inhouse meal they serve at the rate of 17.7 cents. Hungry Howie, Taco Bell. Pizza Hut, etc., do not qualify for reimbursement. A reimbursable meal is considered three out of five components, for example a main entree, fruit and milk

Free and reduced meals are available for students who qualify

Dream of clone turns to nightmare in 'Multiplicity'

MULTIPLICITY
BY HEATHER WADOWSKI
NORTHVILLE

It's everyone's dream come true. Having a clone that can do all the hard work you're supposed to do, while you just sit back and relax. But for Doug (Michael Keaton) it's his worst nightmare. Because there isn't just one clone, or even two, but three clones.

And that means four Dougs living one life, and lots of laughs for all those watching.

Clone #1 is the macho Doug. Clone #2 is the Doug who's in touch with his feminine side a little too much, and Clone #3 was copied from Clone #1 and definitely has problems

"Multiplicity" keeps viewers smiling but not necessarily laughing, throughout the whole

READER MOVE L REVIEWS

movie which is "Multiplicity's" down side. Four times the Michael Keatons equals four times the laughs, but in "The Nutty Professor" there were seven Eddie Murphys, for a total of seven times the laughs. And that's a lot more laughs.

And that's a lot more laughs.
"Multiplicity" earns four and one-half stars out of five. It's tute and worth seeing, but it's no "Nutty Professor."

Animated film 'Ghost in the Shell' carefully probes artificial intelligence

Based on an acclaimed series of comic books (or manga) by the artist Massamune Shirow, celebrated for his work on such anime titles as Appleseed and Dominton comes Mamoru Oshii's "Ghost in the Shell," the most eagerly anticipated anime event of the season.

In the year 2029, the world is made borderless by the net; augmented humans live in virtual environments, watched over by law enforcement that is able to download themselves into superpowered, crime busting mecha.

The ultimate secret agent of the future is not human, has no physical body and can freely travel the information highways of the world, hacking and manipulating whatever and whenever required.

The agent, created by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, is designated code name Project 2051 and distanced from them under the pseudonym "The Puppet Master," 2051 seems to be the perfect solution to their international espionage requirements. Everything runs smoothly until this prototype virtual agent concludes it is a life form in its own right born in a sea of information" and requests political asylum and true physical existence in defiance of its creator.

The race is on to recapture the Top Secret Project 2051 before it succeeds in finding a host body and escapes for good and escapes for good.

What the Ministry of Foreign Affairs hasn't counted on is the Puppet Master's cunning and reserve. It has threatened to expose their illegal creation (itself) to the Internal Bureau of Investigations who are unaware of its source, and regard the Puppet Master as a Grade A priority security threat.

The two agencies maneuver discreetly against one another in a violent, high-tech race to capture the ever changing omnipresent Puppet Master.

The Internal Bureau is unaware of the Puppet Master's persuasive ability to offer seductive hints at true freedom to their semi-cybernetic human agents, who are forced to question their validity as human belngs. One of these agents, Major Motoko Kusanagi, is a highly trained female Internal Bureau agent sent to counter the Puppet Master's threat, will have when the Puppet Master suggests a merger with her.

While the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Internal Bureau of Investigations are engaged in direct explosive confrontation. Kusanagi must decide it she will fulfill the Puppet Master's ultimate objective to become truly human and exist outside of the Electronic

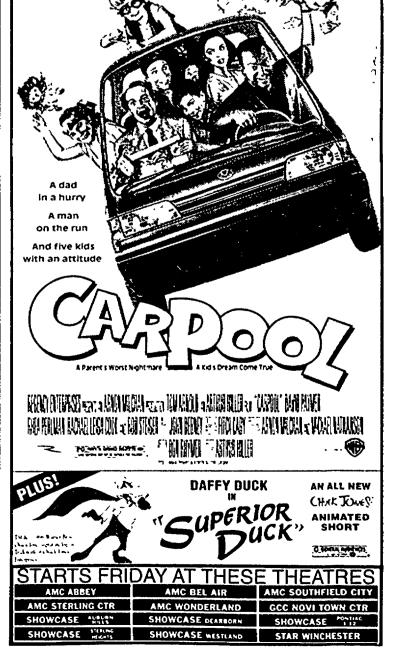

This intense and carefully thought out work realistically probes the potential uses and abuses of Artificial Intelligence (Al) and "direct interfacing." Questioning where mankind's technological and medical process will lead it.

New attitude, new season for kickers

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

In years past, the Mustang soccer team has been as predictable as the sun setting in the west.

Northville High would beat the teams it was supposed to beat and lose to the teams it was supposed to lose to. A game above or below .500 is where the Mustangs would Coach Henry Klimes is hoping to transform boring predictability into something more exciting this fall.

We're coming in with a new attitude," he said. "It doesn't matter who we're playing, we're going to play hard. No flaking off.

*Our key is not to play down to the level of the competition. We need to play our style and go."

The second-year mentor says Northville need no longer doubt tangs outplayed eventual state champ Salem in the district last fall before losing.

Klimes wants his team to approach every game the way it did against Salem. Thus far, in practice, the Mustangs are doing just

"These guys want to be ranked." the coach said. "We want to prove we're as good as Salem. Canton [and Churchill."

Many Mustangs played all summer in various leagues. But Klimes said they were chomping at the bit for the fall high school season to

"There was an eagerness to get going," he commented. "It'll be easier to pick up where we left off last

A very young Mustang team struggled early on last season, but improved as the year went along. It all added up to a 7-8-5 record and

J.R. Graff, a junior, will be counted on to score goals for Northville this year.

Speaking of fullback. Northville should be solid. Josh Brugeman replaces all-conference performer Ryan Winn at sweeper, which is akin to quarterback on defense.

Swietlik, Rankin lead golf squad

By SCOTT DANIEL Sports Editor

Graduation has hit Northville High's golf team hard heading into the 1996 season.

More than half of last year's starting lineup has graduated and a total of six Mustangs have moved on to greener pastures. Despite the influx of newcomers, coach Trish Murray is confident her team will be competitive.

I don't think anybody should count us out," she said. We won't go 0-10 or 10-0. But I think we'll be in contention and give people a run for their money.

A veteran Mustang squad finished third in the Western Lakes Activities Association last fall Livo-nia Churchill took the league title while Salem finished second.

Those two schools will be tough to beat again, Murray said. Teams like Walled Lake Western and Farmington Hills Harrison will push Northville for a top WLAA fin-

The Mustangs will get a chance to see several league rivals today when they open the season at the Plymouth Salem best-ball tournament at Hilltop Golf Club.

"It'll give me a chance to see other teams in the conference." Murray said of the tournament

For now, only two lineup slots are set. Seniors Eric Swietlik and Rob Rankin will lead the Mustangs and be counted on to play consis tent golf.

"They're both very capable of staying in the 30s," said Murray
"A bad day for them will be 41."

Depth of talent is important in any sport.

When a front line player goes down with injury a coach has to be able to fill the hole with another quality athlete. Having that luxury often means the difference between a championship and a so-so season.

In tennis, depth is even more critical. Having a few good players just won't cut it even at the high school level.

Fortunately, the Mustangs have a whole stable full of good tennis players.

"I think we're looking very strong this year," coach Uta Filkin said. "We'll be very solid in singles. I also have a lot of experience in doubles." Northville returns three out of four singles players and more than half of last year's doubles competitors. That bodes well for the Mustangs, which finished third in the WLAA and won the Western Division.

"I think we should be as strong as last year or stronger." Filkin said.

This week's South Lyon Herald continues a series of weekly golf course reviews. Our intent is to provide useful information and tips on playing favorite local courses.

Like many new golf courses. The Links at Whitmore Lake is struggling for an identity.

When you're a course that's barely a year-and-a-half old in the golfing-rich area north of Ann Arbor you have to try and carve out a niche. But the identity for the links-style 18-hole course located just off of the Six Mile Road exit on US-23 lies within its own borders.

The Links at Whitmore Lake is simply a course of contrasting styles. It is both the Yin and Yang of local courses. Golfers will get a taste of both the nasty and the nice when they play the complete course and they'll walk away feeling both proud and humbled.

Six Mile Road acts as the divider between two forces at The Links at Whitmore Lake. The front nine lies on the north side of Six Mile. This is where the "links" term hails from in the name of the course. The front nine is a picturesque. flat and friendly wide-open course that appeals to long hitters.

Once you cross Six Mile, however, you've entered into a different zone. The back nine at The Links at Whitmore Lake requires every ounce of bravery in the average hacker. That and a few extra sleeves of golf balls will get you through the challenging course that features long board walks and more marshland than a Louisiana

This is really two totally different golf courses," Lowell Weaver. the director of golf at The Links at Whitmore Lake said. 'You have to play it differently and you have to think differently. We've had some people come back to the clubhouse who've just played the front nine and they tell us they don't know if they'll come back because the course is too easy. Then they play the whole course and they say we get even with them on the back

The course that was designed by Bill Newcomb opened in the spring of 1995. Weaver said The Links of Whitmore Lake hasn't had problems keeping friends, it's making new acquaintances that the course has struggled with.

"A lot of people just don't know we're here," Weaver said. "So far everybody who knows us is very happy with the course. Most people have a hard time believing that we're a young course.

For the most part the course is and-rip-it kind of course." Weaver said.

Water comes into play in eight of the nine holes but there are few serious wet worries. There are three par 3s on the front nine and each hole is prettier than the one before. The 188-yard, par-3 third hole plays very straight with small bunkers on either side of the side of the fairway but par is within reach with a straight shot off the tee. The 162-yard seventh hole is the gem of the front nine. Golfers must hit their tee shot over the water to an elevated green with a bunker on the left side looming

Walking the front nine is easy at The Links at Whitmore Lake, but if you venture to the back nine a cart is a must. With over a half-mile of boardwalk through marshy areas.

The first real challenge on the back comes at the par-4 13th hole. Golfers hit off an elevated artificial grass tee and they must hit over an intimidating marsh land that hides the fairway. After negotiating the long bent-grass fairway, linkers must make another cautious approach over a second marsh area to the well-bunkered green.

The 373-yard, par-4 16th hole is also monster. The hole demands a crisp, high tee shot over an endless marshland to the left of the tee. An ideal drive would die just over the marsh at the edge of the fairway leaving a straight approach to the small green

Golfers may feel like they're touring a state park up north while traveling on a quarter-mile boardwalk between the 16th and 17th holes. Weaver said deer and a family of foxes have been spotted in the heavily wooded area in the

"The front nine definitely has some easy holes," said Fred Bensyl of Champagne, Ill. who played the full course three times in two weeks. "But I love the back nine. It may be short but it's a real challenge."

For those who haven't lost confid dence in their swings by the 18th hole, it provides the final challeng of the course. Once again hitting over marshes, linkers need to kee their tee shot to the right, but no too far. A dirt road runs alongside the fairway and it's easy to skip a ball over the road into no man's

A cautious approach is also recommended here and be wary of the long and winding green. Long putts can easily jump up and bite you if you don't temper your tap.

While the back nine may frustrate a few, the mental challenge of the course is intriguing and the blend with the wide-open front nine gives The Links at Whitmore Lake just the right mix for its developing identity.

HRT may help ease menopause

As a primary care physician, I take care of and sexual function. many women who are going through menopause or their "change of life."

Menopause signals the end of the menstrual cycle due to the decreased circulation of the hormone estrogen. This relates to the aging process which over time allows the depletion of the number of follicles produced by the ovaries.

Over the years there have been changing views about hormone replacement therapy (HRT) and certainly one must always consider a treatment where the benefits outweigh the Research today has demonstrated that HRT can protect a patient from osteoporosis and heart disease in many cases. Ideally, physicians need to work with and educate each individual patient to make a good decision in regard to the treatment and consequences of menopause.

Many women may look to family members or magazines to get information about menopause. They may feel uncomfortable discussing certain issues with their spouses or their doctors, i.e. sexual issues, or the physician simply does not initiate the discussion

Often women have concerns about breast cancer or vaginal bleeding so they prefer not to be on hormones. However, every woman should discuss menopause with her physician so she can become better educated about individual treatment options and to address concerns about osteoporosis, heart disease, depression

Menopause is associated with many symptoms women may experience. These may include hot flashes which occur because of the rapid fall in estrogen, vaginal dryness, urinary symptoms, mood changes or depression, sleep disturbances and sexual dysfunction or a decrease in sex drive which is regulated by hormones called androgens.

The long-term risks associated with decreased estrogen production include cardiovascular (heart) disease and osteoporosis (thin or brittle bones). Osteoporosis may result in hip fracturing and a 20 percent mortality in women over age 80 due to complications from infections or heart attacks.

In order to diagnose menopause, the physician needs to obtain a complete history and perform a physical exam including a breast exam, and a gynecologic exam with a pap

Blood work may be helpful to assess the status of hormone levels. Other important tests include cholesterol levels and thyroid tests, liver tests, kidney tests, electrolytes, urinalysis and mammogram.

Since menopause can affect a women's physical and mental health, treatment may be a preventive health benefit and ultimately may have an impact on a woman's quality of life. Diet, exercise and vitamins, i.e. calcium and vitamin D, as well as various regimens or forms of HRT ford General Hospital at (810) 442-7986.

may provide long-term benefits to women and reduce the complications from the lack of estro-

Ideally a woman needs to be educated about her options and individual needs. Some of the newer regimens for HRT are as simple as taking one pill per day. It is important to note that there may be contradictions to taking hormones which include suspected or known breast cancer, undiagnosed abnormal vaginal bleeding. pregnancy, active liver disease and active phlebitis (blood clots).

Menopause needs to be viewed as a natural process in a woman's life and each woman will experience this change in a different way.

Hopefully, if a woman works together with her physician, the "change of life" can be a smoother transition and one that may ultimately enhance a woman's quality of life.

Consult your physician (family physician. gynecologist or internist) for more information and an individual treatment that may be right for you. It's never too late to start.

Group B streptococcus causes problems during pregnancy for mother, newborn

A bacteria called group B streptococcus, or GBS, in pregnancy has been associated with urinary-tract infections, premature rupture of membranes, premature delivery and serious intections in the newborn.

This bacteria can be found in the vagina of 5 to 25 percent of women. Mothers who have GBS can pass this bacteria on to their infants. Infants who are at particular risk for GBS infection are those born prematurely or in cases where the mother's membranes surrounding the fetus have been ruptured for a prolonged Testing the mother prior to delivery with a culture might miss the presence of GBS. And if the bacteria is detected, it is often disficult to eliminate, even with appropriate treatment.

For these reasons, a couple of strategies recently have been developed to prevent GBS infections in the newborn. One method of prevention involves treating mothers in labor who have the following risk factors for GBS: Rupture of membranes for more than 18 hours before delivery.

· Fevers in labor greater than or equal to 100.4 degrees Fahrenheit · The prior birth of an GBS-infected infant. The presence of GBS bacteria in the urine.

The other prevention approach involves culturing the vagina and rectum for GBS during the last trimester of pregnancy. Mothers with a positive culture would then be treated during

The most effective treatment for GBS during labor is the intravenous administration of a penicillin antibiotic until the baby is born. For mothers who are allergic to penicillin, clindamycin is given intravenously instead.

Using either of these strategies significantly reduces the risk of GBS infection in the new-

ST. MARY HOSPITAL

The following classes are coming up at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Anxiety screening

If your heart races every time you try to leave your home, if you are fearful of social encounters of any kind, or if you are constantly redoing the same task to be certain you did it right, then you may be one of more than 28 million Americans who suffer from an anxiety disorder.

Anxiety disorders are treatable illnesses and do not have to ruin your life. If you think you or a loved one may be suffering from an anxiety disorder, St. Mary Hospital will offer free anxiety screening on Thursday, Aug. 22. The screening will be held from 9 a m. to 6 p.m. in the Center for Counseling Services by appointment only.

A mental health professional will meet privately with individuals to help identify if they are experiencing anxiety and give advice on how to seek relief from the symptoms.

Registration is required. For more information or to register for the screening, please call the Center for Counseling Services at (313) 655-2936 or toll free at (1-800) 494-1654.

Cardiac overview

St. Mary Hospital will offer a free program titled "An Overview of Cardiac Disease With an Introduction to Diagnostic Testing Procedures" from 1 to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 11, in the St. Mary Hospital auditorium.

The program will be presented by Brad Hubbard, M.D., cardiologist, and staff members from St. Mary Hospital's Department of Cardiovascular Services.

Registration is requested as scating is limited.

Freddie Mac restrictions may hurt condo sales

By James M. Woodard Cop'ey News Service

Condominiums offer an appealing type of housing for many families and singles lies and singles.

The median price of condos is considerably less than the median price of single-family homes in all regions. Thus, many buyers, particularly singles and young marrieds, select a condo for their home purchase

However, there's a problem with the sale or purchase of condos in California, and that problem could quickly spread to other states quickly spread to other states

Freddie Mac, a major purchaser of existing home loans (a secondary buyer), announced it would not purchase loans on condos in California if located in zip code areas designated as high- and moderate-earthquake risk area unless the affected condo associations maintain earthquake insurance and have reserves in the amount of the insurance

This makes it difficult to sell or purchase one of these condos. Primary lenders typically don't want to grant home loans if they can't subsequently sell it to a secondary lender. And if you can't finance a home, you usually can't sell it

The contemporary Napa is a dwelling to take pride in

By James McAlexander Copley News Service

Contemporary styling, stucco exterior and outstanding floor design make the 2,444-square-foot Napa a home you can take pride in Not only is it pleasing to the eye, but the available space is well-allocated, allowing ease of movement throughout.

The graceful columns in front of the large porch impart a regal bearing as your guests step into the vaulted entry. Directly in front of the entry, partitioning the various living areas, is a coat closet with a china hutch on the diningroom side, and backed by a fireplace that warms the family room

To the right, the vaulted living room, with a bank of windows to admit the sunlight and provide a pleasing view, offers a quiet place to sit and talk or just spend an afternoon with a good book

Three good-size bedrooms occupy one side of the home. Each has closet space and lots of windows. This sleeping arrangement would be beneficial to a family with teenagers. Loud music over here won't disturb the rest of the household. In fact, one bedroom could be made into a music room or perhaps an exercise area.

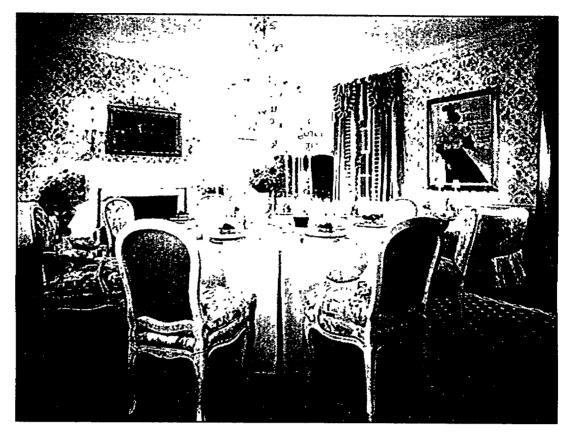

A full bathroom, with twin basins, and a small home office also share the hallway.

The placement of the kitchen is a valuable asset to this plan. Featuring a central cook top, pantry, double ovens and mixing center, the cook in the house will appreciate the ease with which meals can-be prepared and served informally in the adjoining sky-lit nook, or more formally in the equally proximate dining room. When the weather is good, have breakfast or a barbecue on the back deck.

The luxurious master suite has it all. In addition to a huge sleeping area, it features a spacious walk-in closet, shower, oversize tub, separate basins and private access to a walled-in deck with spa.

The two-car garage has a shop/storage area with two built-in work benches, recycling center and door to the utility room, where you can drop off muddy shoes and soiled clothing before entering the house.

For a study plan of the Napa (334-160), send $10 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand Rwer, Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering) For more (information, call (800) 562-1151

TABLE DRESSING

Dressing up a table can serve your style well

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q. Our dining room is quite large and our round table looks sort of lost in the middle of it. Maybe I should keep all eight of the chairs around the table? Most of the time, I leave just two chairs there and keep the rest against the walls.

We use the table for large family dinners several times a month, but with all the leaves in place, the table is too big the rest of the time. Do you have any suggestions, or is this a silly question?

A. My father would assure you that there is no such thing as a stlly question ... and I agree. If something troubles your eye, there must be a problem; hence, a solution.

Try keeping the table dressed so it becomes a real centerpiece for the room. What I have in mind is more than a bowl of flowers and a lace cloth, however. Take inspiration from this photo, borrowed from "Showcase of Interior Design" (Vitae Publishing). For this large, handsome dining room, designer Sylvia Schulman has made a conversation piece of a tablecloth, a real attention getter that is custom-tailored to the table. And to the room's country French blue-and-white color scheme. Notice the inverted pleats, laced at the tops but left open enough to show off the blue lining.

Another option: have a floor-length cloth made to match your draperies and chair cushions so your table becomes an important part of your overall decor. A round of glass will keep you from getting heartburn over stains. Or have a square throw made to match so you can use it over solid-color undercloths between meals. When you are ready to set the table for food, fold the throw and stash it safely away.

G. There is an ugly column in the middle of our apartment living room. In a way, it separates the living area from the dining area, but it is still ugly. I've tried hanging pictures on it, even a long Chinese scroll, but I hope you have something better to suggest.

A. Consider a curtain, a variation on the traditional portiere so beloved by Europeans and Victorians. Mount a decorative rod as close as possible to the ceiling, then hang a really attractive fabric curtain, something substantial like brocade or taffeta,

Create a wonderful herb garden in about an hour

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Parsley, sage, rosemary and thyme — whatever your favorite herb, it is quick and easy to grow at home. In about an hour, you can fill a beautiful planter with a handy supply for all your cooking needs. Here is what you'll need:

A decorative planter. A strawberry pot is ideal. The protruding pockets allow herbs to cascade from all sides for an attractive display.

Potting mix. To make sure your herbs grow, you need to create healthy soil. Use a top-quality potting mix containing peat moss. Yard soil tends to retain too much water and can lead to rotting roots. Poor-quality mixes allow water to drain too quickly, which can dry roots out.

Herbs. Approximately eight different kinds.

Small stones. A cardboard tube.

Once you've gathered these supplies, creating the herb planter is easy. Just follow these steps:

Add about 2 inches of peatbased potting mix to the bottom of the strawberry planter. Stand the cardboard tube upright in the center of the planter. Work it into the potting mix so that it remains upright.

Fill the pot with mix up to Fill the pot with mix up to the first pockets. Insert plants in the first tier of pockets, then fill with mix up to the next tier. Insert the next row of plants and repeat the process until all the pockets are planted.

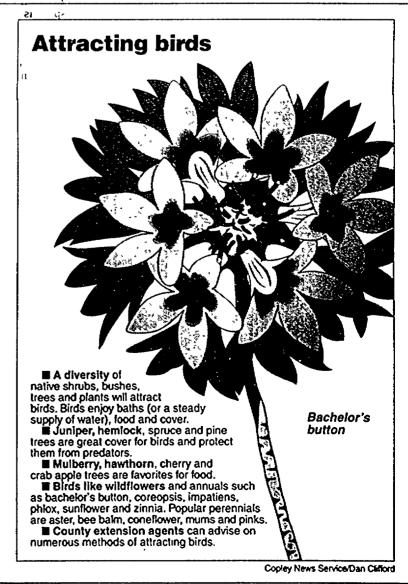

Save the tailest herb, such as chive and parsley, for the top of the planter. Leave about I inch between the potting mixture and the planter rim to allow for watering. Fill the cardboard tube with small stones and then carefully pull the tube out. The remaining column of stones allows the water to reach all of the herbs.

Most herbs are sun lovers, so place the pot in a sunny spot on the patio that is nearby and convenient for picking. The herbs should be ready within a few weeks. Remember to water the planter frequently to keep the soil moist, but not wet to the touch, and sprinkle them with a fertilizer every two weeks.

Freddie Mac restrictions may hurt condo sales; steel vs. wood construction

Real estate professionals and consumer groups in other states are closely watching the situation. It could be a precedent for limitations on condo lending in other states prone to natural disasters (earthquakes, hurricanes, tornadoes).

Reacting to pressure from real estate practitioners and consumers. Freddie Mac has offered a fee alternative to its policy. But this boosts the costs involved in purchasing a condo to a level that makes it unaffordable for many indicated it would impose a surcharge on all California condominium loans delivered to the corporation on or after Sept. 7, 1996. The delivery fee equals 1 percent of the borrower's unpaid principal balance.

This fee can be reduced or waived, depending on the characteristics of the condominium complex involved. Freddie Mac said the decision to waive or reduce the fee will be based on a risk assessment system.

The California Association of Realtors opposes the move because the surcharge applies to all California condo loans, not just those in high-risk areas. All condo buyers would be penalized by this discriminatory requirement.

Victorian folding chair a real find at auction

Purchased at auction for $15, this Victorian folding chair is worth $250 to $325.

By Anne McCollam Copley News Service

9. Enclosed is a snapshot of a folding chair my husband and I found at an auction and bought for $15. It has the original carpet upholstery. On the back is a green label with the words "E.W. Vaill, Patentee and Manufacturer, Worcester, Mass - Patented January 6, 1868 -Reissued May 17, 1870."

What can you tell us about this chair?

A. E.W. Vaill, Patentee and Manufacturer, is listed in "American Cabinetmakers," by William C. Ketcheum Jr. as being in business from 1868 to 1876. The business made Victorian walnut folding chairs with carpet backs and seats. A chair similar to yours is currently in the Margaret Woodbury Strong Museum, Rochester, N.Y. Because this type of chair was portable, they were often used by generals on military campaigns. The value of your chair would probably be about $250 to $325

Novi firm assists in renovation of Detroit

to supporting the vitality of a Detroit neighborhood, JBS Co. of Novi is renovating the site of Dexter Chevrolet on Eight Mile Road near Lahser on Detroit's northwest side. Richard Noel, president of JBS, said the company is committed to ensuring that the property is

JBS took control of the site on

A suburban firm has committed June 1 after Westside Chevrolet closed. The renovation of the body shop is nearly complete and it is one of the most well-equipped body shops in the city of Detroit. The facility is approved by most major insurance companies. Plans for the nearly two-block area include exploring the possibility of building six new homes near the rear of the property.

"We are planning to have ongo-ing discussions with residents in the neighborhood to let them know what we are doing at the location." said Noel. "Our goal is to sell or lease the property so that it continues to be an asset to the area."

According to one longtime neighborhood resident, "Mr. Noel seems to be doing a good job of getting the property into shape." In fact the only African American femaleowned truck-towing service based in Detroit is currently leasing space at the site.

JBS is a privately-held company that owns and operates a number of enterprises including Atlas Auto Leasing Co., various apartment complexes, strip malls and commercial properties. The company employs more than 30 people.

If you don't stop someone from driving drunk, who will? Do whatever it takes

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.

If you think drug deals only go down in big cities, think again. Chances are, they're going on right under your nose in that quiet, safe little town you live in.

It's true. Nearly one in four teens are using drugs like marijuana, crack and cocaine. And inhalants. To them, it's no big deal. They get it from friends and use it wherever . . . in a car, at a dance, after a pep rally.

When it comes to drugs, no teen, and no town-no matter how small-is immune. So you need to find out everything you can about drugs. And then, you need to do everything you can to talk to your kids about them. For help, call us at 1-800-624-0100 today for a free booklet, "Growing Up Drug-Free-A Parent's Guide to Prevention." And help protect the most precious commodity you have: your kids.

13HIONUSTE EVER

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

think I was born loving beautiful clothes

My appreciation of fine fashion was instinctive — just ask my mother or my two younger sisters. They won't hesitate to bore you with the details of how I corralled the family clothing budget for hats, purses and shoes to match every coat and dress I owned while they went without! Ha. Ha. Ha.

Well, I will admit that in the winter of 1968, I just had to have that kelly green, double-breasted princess coat with the big gold buttons even though it meant Nancy had to wear dad's old navy peacoat and Karen had to squeeze into her snowsuit a few more times . . . Hey, they looked adorable, while I the precocious preteen, needed to look sophisticated . . .

Back-to-school shopping in the fall was always a favorite time. I carefully compiled my list of must-haves from the writings of the biblical Seventeen magazine, while my more cautious siblings waited for the first days of school to see what everyone else was wearing. And since I knew what I wanted (and as the eldest was free from hand-me-downs to cramp my style), I usually got it

And time hasn't changed things! We fashion lovers still thrill at the first sighting of the rich fall plaids. And we're known to pause in the accessories department to try on ribboned straw bonnets every spring. Each change of season brings a renewed interest in clothing and amazingly, there's always something new — even when it's old, if you know what I mean.

Fashion is fun. It's conversational. It's what drives the retail marketplace. It's a part of you every morning when you open the closet and pull on something for the day. In many cases, clothes make the man (and woman) so you better get them right!

The trick is knowing what's right these days of corporate casual, vintage retro and urban chic. In season after season discussions with fashion directors, I've derived these certainties. Right is clothing appropriate to the setting and activity. Right is clothing that compliments the customer through color and coverage.

Right is fashion that is contemporary in fabrication and design. Right is clothing that let's your unique personality come through. Right is clothing priced affordably.

And there is much that is right with the fashions of fall 1996. Designers have learned from the disappointing sales of recent seasons that they better listen to their customers and create clothes for real people, not reed-thin runway models with spiked green hair and rings through their noses. Real people want to look good. They want clothing that is comfortable They want the expensive garments they buy to last.

On the following pages, we present the clothing our local retailers have in store for the many occasions of your life. The models are people from your neighborhood, your friends, and co-workers. We hope you see a few things that are right for you! **

PS The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers offer a special note of thanks to all the area residents who posed for this fashion supplement and all the businesses and merchants providing clothing and photo locales. We couldn't have published such a special edition without you!

On the cover: Glamorous grins from good sports Linda O'Scallan, (from Kathryn Scott women's apparel in Birmingham) and Birmingham-Bloomfield Chamber of Commerce president Arnold Krieger. O'Scallan models a silk pantsuit from Augustus with a silk mock-tee underneath. Krieger shopped at Maxwell's in Birmingham for the jacket from Tallia. Great looks for casual style.

Staff photographer Dan Dean shot the fashion photography for the cover. Observer & Eccentric photographers Sharon LeMieux, Steve Cantrell, Dan Dean and John Stormzand, intern Tom Hoffmeyer and free-lancer Maureen Electa Monte took the other fashion shots. O&E fashion editor Susan DeMaggio and free-lance writer Judith Doner Berne wrote the stories O&E sales representatives Michelle Lyon and Nyree Ardash handled advertising. ## But Sensuous

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

It will be a long, lean fall with body-hudging fashion sind letter that pay tribute to the timilar of the second s

And this gas will be simple. Clear: Understated eledance thirting with minimalism for all the busy people who do not have time to fuss with accessories.

The fabrics are locations—velvets, cashmeres, sills, but new on the scene are mixtures of leather and plastic (pleather), neoprene, metallics and fleece, which add the modern touch that sparks our interest

But, just when we're getting used to those shorter skirt lengths, the maxi returns in calf- and anklefength coats and skirts. Long makes fashion sense, after all, to keep legs warm during our long, cold, damp M chigan winters. Furthermore, longer skirts look fabulous with all the wonderful the wonderful boot styles this season more Michigan must-haves!

Layering continues to be a smart way to dress for both men and women across all age groups, as Lynne Bay, buyer at Don Thomas Sporthaus in Bloomfield Hills explained, "Layering turtlenecks, vests and fleecewear jackets is a big part of our Town and Country look here in Oakland County. And layering is so practical and comfortable for busy lifestyles of people on the go."

Faux fur trims and animal prints appear in many designer collections this fall, along with more man-made fabrics that are easy to care for.

Velvet and matte jersey seem to be the fabrics-of-choice for the holidays and beyond

Deep, dark brown is the new black, according to Hudson's fashion director M J. Burns. Pair brown with blue, you've got one of the hottest color combinations of the new season. Jacobson's Pam Rock said she believes this fall/winter to be one of the most colorful to date. There's so much more than black out there.

The cigarette pant remains on the scene, carried over in heavier fabrics from spring collections. Turtlenecks are tops, and those with ribbing and shine are the updated versions of this garment classic for 1996. A sweater or jacket that zips up is ultra chic - as are shoes with buckles

Dresses and coats follow the A-line silhouette, narrower at the shoulders and flaring out at either the knees or ankles. The A-lines are found in both streamlined and swingy versions

Dapper Dans

Men's fashion continues to focus on the business casual look, challenging each guy to be more inventive than the new uniform khaki trousers and an oxford blue, buttondown collar shirt

When nothing but a suit will do, shop for the threebutton front, or the very European-styled, four- or sixbutton Suits have less padding at the shoulder and lapel, they're more fitted to the body, but still unstructured.

Mock turtlenecks and knitted polo shirts work well under sport coats for fall, but things get fancy for the holidays — lots of velvet dinner jackets and colorful blazers.

Forget cookie-cutter expressions, said Edward Kaminow, president of Lord West Formalwear. The blacktie world is changing. Silhouettes are different, lapel treatments are unusual and choice of shirts, vests and other accessories provide men with unlimited freedom to exercise their options in good taste

This season, according to Kaminow, tuxedos with satin. shawl, notch and peak lapels are still dominant. He said there's a resurgence in formal wear sales, crediting Hollywood productions like Sabrina, the return of James Bond in Golden Eye and award ceremonies on television that spotlight entertainers wearing individual interpretations of black tie. &

shows his fall collection at the DIA

Ladies man: Oscar de la Renta poses with models after his fall collection show at the DIA, July 30.

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

If it were not for a very understanding mother, international designer Oscar de la Renta would have followed his father into the insurance business in his native Dominican Republic, and there would be a deep void in the history of modern fashion

"I was the only boy in a family of six girls," he smiled handsomely "I wanted to be an artist. My mother prevailed. At 18, I left for Madrid to study painting I soon found work as a fashion illustrator to help pay the bills."

de la Renta came to town recently to present his fall '96 collection on a runway set up in the Diego Rivera room of the Detroit Institute of Arts. His visit was hosted by Saks Fifth Avenue de la Renta's couture collection, true to his style of creating very feminine ensembles in the most beautiful fabrics, drew a standing ovation from the audience that included Mr and Mrs. Alfred Taubman, Mr and Mrs. Elmore Leonard, Mr and Mrs. Mort Crim, Mr and Mrs. Alan Schwartz, Mr and Mrs. Thomas Schoenith, Mrs. Ted Wasson and other patrons of the annual Evening Under The Stars benefit.

"I began my signature ready-to-wear label in the United States in 1966," he said "Before that I apprenticed with Cristobal Balenciaga in Spain and the House of Lanvin in Paris These days, I do two collections, for my company in New York and for the French couture House of Balmain. I travel a great deal, and when I can relax, It's at home in Connecticut working in my gardens"

de la Renta's first wife of 18 years, passed away leaving him with an adopted son who is now 12 years old Eight years ago, he remarried acquiring a step-daughter who enjoys working in the world of high fashion and recently appeared on the cover of Town and Country magazine.

Last month, de la Renta introduced "Oscar," a lifestyle collection that revved up the bridgewear market

"I did this for all the working women

Making an entrance: This gown could be worn in any season, a timeless look.

who tell me they love my clothes but can't afford to wear them," he said. "Before coming out with Oscar, I studied the bridge market. It is saturated with designers, but I thought the clothes were either young or matronly. I offer sophistication."

"I realize the audience for my collections is diminishing, diminishing," he continued "Now working women are

ibrary essons: KIDS REALLY (ARE AROUT WHAT THEY WEAR

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

With grunge gone, it's the "As-if-90210-Friendly-at-Melrose Place" look: sophisticated, smooth.

Thanks to sitcoms like "Seinfeld" and "Friends," the bowling shirts and pleated pants worn by Kramer and Chandler will be prevalent in teen collections too, this fall.

The preppy, country club looks of the 1980s are also making a comeback with more of a retro look, including A-line shapes and checked pants. Wide-legged jeans are the rage (cut fuller in the thigh and knee) and as always, baggy is best

For the younger set, OshKosh B'Gosh's Barbara Widder-Lowry explained that adult lifestyle trends trickle down to children's wear. So watch for gardening, outdoor and sport motifs in kids apparel. She said to find a happy fashion medium that pleases both children and parents, there needs to be a forum for fashion discussion at home.

"It can be tough to balance kids' tastes in clothes with your own feelings about what looks good, what's practical and appropriate. But if you don't take your children's fashion opinions into account, you could end up with an expensive drawer full of clothes your kids don't want to wear," she warned

Back-to-school shoes will be mini versions of grown up looks. Hush Puppies, Mary Janes, Doc Martens work boots, and chunky loafers lead the way.

Cheryl Hall's fashion advice

- · Assess yourself, almost painfully What's your body type? Best colors? Lifestyle?
- Assess your wardrobe. What's there that you wish you never bought? Give it away Let go of the past
- Figure out your personal style. Are you cutting edge; like heads to turn, get attention when you enter a room? Or are you interested in blending in by wearing conservative styles?
- Don't buy anything you can't see yourself wearing five years down the road. Will you be willing to give it away when the trend passes?
- · Working wardrobes evolve and must be updated seasonally with separates
- You need less help with fashion choices at 20 than 40. When you're competing, style is a plus on your side
- Casual can't be glamorous

If you position yourself in the lobby of a Southfield office building, or peoplewatch on the streets of Birmingham at funch time, it's clear that for both women and men, there's no way to succeed in business dressing without really trying

Retailing expert Fred Marx predicts that "the Gap look has run its course" for the office "Certainly casual is there, but individuality is where it is " And, he adds, "many people are headed back to investment dressing "

This fall's business collections, whether classic or the slightly upgraded casual, are colorful Monochromatic looks are giving way to a much broader spectrum of colors. Vivid blues, purples, greens, reds and rusts are prominent in apparel for women and in accessories for men. But remember, it's important to choose colors that aren't just appealing, but actually flatter us

And it's important to determine what styles are out there and what works for us as we work

Because the seasonal silhouette of the past, dictated by some designer somewhere in France or Italy, has been replaced by the luxury of choice Women's hemlines are long, mid-calf and short while men's jackets sport anywhere from one to four buttons. With individuality such a key, the small-box retailers we talked with suggest they're stocking what will appeal to their clientele since one "look" no longer fits all

BUTTONS::

Fashionable, fun and fasten-ating (attachments)

By Susan DeMaggio Staff Writer

'Button up your overcoat, when the wind is free take good care of yourself - you belong to me
—— DeSylva, Brown, Henderson 1928

There's nothing he a trip to the old button wall at Haberman Fabrics in downtown Royal Oak

Here, 10,000 buttons are on display, buttons with personality that remind you of people. The little plastic carshaped buttons worn by your energetic toddler, Pete. The pearl buttons rimmed by rhinestones that fasten your Aunt Edith's suits. The wooden toggles that dangle from the stadium coat your brother-in-law Bruce wears to the U. of M. games every fall.

Did you know there are 400 classifications for buttons? They've been fashioned out of every material on the planet from bone and wood, to clay and brass. They've even been banned! The Puritans in New England and the Amish of Pennsylvania thought them "extravagant" and instead used hooks and eyes.

"Buttons are the focal part of a garment," said Toby Haberman "New buttons on an old garment can give it a fresh, new look and feel. They can take a piece of clothing from casual to formal or vice-versa. We've had customers from Neiman Marcus bring in a new $1,700 jacket and ask us to change the buttons They're that important to some people."

Haberman's buttons start at 10 cents and go to $25.50 for hand-set jeweled or mother-of-pearl buttons. According to Haberman, it's not unusual for women to buy buttons and have their jeweler make them into earrings.

"We deal with about 50 different button makers all around the world," Haberman said. "We carry the big names like LaMode, Streamline, but we also buy from artists and a wild little shop in New York where a little grandmother sits at a table and hand-sets rhinestones into custom buttons."

New York contacts also sell the Haberman's designer buttons from the workrooms of people like Donna Karan, who

A brief button history:

An tie in dists have four dipretist incibilitions. Ancient Greeks and Ethiologys are thought to have used buttons and maps to talter darments at the shoulder Early Persians buttoned the notions.

The nothern mass produced button was born in the 13th centur, when the invention of the button hole replaced loop fastening 14bbity adorned their clothes with buttons of precious metals and jewe's ipeasantry wore more functional fabric or thread buttons.

In Paris, button in alters formed guilds by specialty — base metals, Lony, Form bone and glass. By the 14th century, the luxury of craffsman-made buttons, was an established part of the economy.

Framelind techniques were first applied to buttons in cimoges. France in the 6th century. Then, buttonmakers were batronized by royalty. Francis I of France wore a garment decrated with 13 600 buttons of gold. Scenes were often painted on porcelain and ivory buttons, set in glass or metal frames, and sold in silk-lined cases. Valuable buttons were not secured with thread. Instead, shanks were pushed through holes on the garment's button band and fastened with a metal strip threaded through the back. This way, buttons could be moved form garment to garment.

The military began using metal buttons on their uniforms in the 16th century

By the 18th and 19th century, advances were made in the mechanical manufacture of buttons in Britain In 'The Book of Buttons," by Joyce Whittemore, these machines and manufacturing techniques were so quarded by the British, "that only the migration of metal workers and industrial espionage enabled the U.S. Army to have domestically produced gilt uniform buttons for the War of 1812," made in Connecticut on imported British machinery

During World War II, when raw materials were scarce, buttons were utilitarian and in short supply. One manufacturer bought up plastic windshields from obsolete bombers, another made plaster buttons in gelatin molds on his bedroom floor.

When French designer Coco Chanel reopened her salon after the war, she made her hallmark distinctive gold buttons, reviving a voque from the 16th century ®

E ach of us is forced to be an artist every day

We take a canvas — our body — and decide how we will garb and decorate it.

We try to pick colors, fabrics, shapes and styles that compliment us based on what is shown in our favorite stores and what we see in fashion magazines. But there are those who take fashion a step further

They may defy trends, seek out oneof-a-kind, handmade garments or put unusual items together. We say they are artsy or free-spirited, and may define what they wear as art clothing

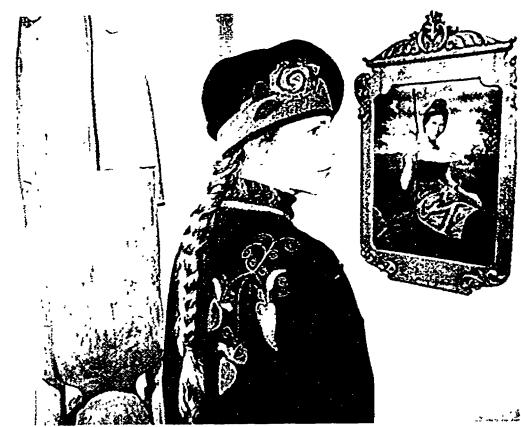

'I see it more as clothing with an attitude, a sense of humor and clothes that have some sense of architecture to them,' says Seglinda Pritchard of Franklin. She says she is happiest "in any kind of peasant clothing — the clothing of daily life '

I like clothing that has heritage and presence to it," says
Pritchard, who chairs the Franklin Arts
Council — I wear a lot of layers, like I ll wear maybe a long T-shirt with a jumper of Lisa's + t-wear designer as Parks over it."

Farks, whose fore or Maple Road in Birningham teature ther hand-knit designs, doesn't really like the term "art clothing" says "It has a hippy or high-price tag connotation. I try to make a very beautiful, very functional piece of clothing that will make people feel really special in it."

She draws on designs of the past but makes certain they're in keeping with what's going on in fashion — or they simply aren't saleable, Parks says

You may have seen Jennifer Sly Kirk's washed-wool, hand-appliqued coats, jackets, vests, hats, scarfs and purses in some of the area's juried art shows. But in late June, Roz & Sherm hosted the young designer's premier trunk show for three days at its Bloomfield Township store. It was billed as "Art clothes to quicken the spirit."

Art clothing, such as Sly Kirk's, "requires a customer who has a sense of fun about them and a knowledge of what they're wearing," said Roz & Sherm store manager Marilyn Scobel

Sly Kirk's creations feature hand-made buttons of polymer clay by Birmingham artist Marie Johannes, whom she met taking classes at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association, where Johannes teaches

Birmingham is also where you might see Shirley Marley glide across Townsend Street from her eclectic boutique to create the flower arrangements for the Townsend Hotel

"Our main thing is flowers," Marley says, but she also wears and sells artistic clothing created from hand-designed fabrics by the New York husband-wife duo, Staley-Gretzinger

Marley, a one-of-a-kind herself, acknowledges. 'We've always sold to hotel guests from Chicago and New York But local people are starting to pick up on it."

At Eleganza in West Bloomfield, "wearable art" is the key to the collections of Boston-designer Donna Jessica, says boutique owner Sue Lucia-Hickey

"She uses a lot of different fabrics and interchangeable pieces," Lucia-Hickey says

Donna
Jessica's fall collection features
Russian-inspired
tunics, jackets,
vests, skirts,
pants and dresses in combinations of black, wine and gold

"Art clothing is for a woman who works to look different," Lucia-Hickey says.

But what about a man?

Birmingham importer, haberdasher and clothier Thom Leffler carries some hand-painted ties, hand-knit sweaters and vests made from unusual fabrics and with attention to detail.

But "any clothing as art has a limited audience," he says. And, if 20 percent of women seek it out, he would guess that only about 5 percent of men would do the same. At the same time, the custom-made clothing both men and women come to him for certainly could be considered one of a kind.

"The whole idea of having anything made allows you to have it your way," Leffler says. &

Layered look: Flounced jacket, $350, features a variety of pattern by Staley-Gretzinger. Model Shirley Marley, carries it at her Birmingham boutique, down the street from the N'Namdi Gallery.

Artful pair: Elon dons a rust cash-

Giunta, who says she coined the word "day spa" 15 years ago, but unfortunately didn't trademark it, says the boomers "don't want to age "

For many years, a spa was an exclusive getaway, a resort where the few who could afford it would be pampered, exercised and nourished, Giunta says "Enter the day spa: a local place where a stressed-out, exhausted client goes for a quick, refreshing treatment that puts the world back in perspective They brought luxury, health and relaxation where it was desperately needed "

The true day spa offers relatively affordable, accessible, results-oriented services — generally including massage, facials, wraps, waxing, water treatments as well as manicures and pedicures and sometimes hair care in luxurious surroundings. But it's a fine line between these full-service spas and the skin care centers that feature many of the same services — particularly facials, massages, waxing, manicures and pedicures

'We all do facets of it," says Faye Lybeck of the Janine Adams Skin Care Centre Inc. in Southfield, which advertises facials, massage, electrolysis, manicures, pedicures and waxing. "A majority of our clientele are working women. They don't consider it pampering."

"People have found out that maintenance is important," Lybeck says. "Your skin lasts longer than your house or car."

"It's pampering plus, ' says DiMaria of Capelli. 'A massage fee's good but it's also healthy

Laura Kantgias of Bloomfield Township and her daughter, Amy Kavadas of Bloomfield Hills, are regulars at Capel'i. 'This is my stress reliever,' says Kavadas. I come at least once or twice a month. I'd come more often but my three kids won't let me.

"Every magazine you pick up has something about day spas," Kantgias reports. A lot of people can't get away for 5-10 days. Now, they can come in for a treatment or a day. This is the coming thing."

And they're not for women only Farmington Hills accountant Henry Rosenfeld is among the men who make up 25 percent of Capelli's clientele

"I have a very stressful job. That's why I come here," Rosenfeld says. "I try to get here at least once a week. I'm not a workout, gym-type person. And I'm not embarrassed to come here."

"Men and women do all the same things these days 1 do the hydrotherapy, the dulse scrubs, the pedicures. My family teases me because my feet are so soft "* get reborn. It's a bubble of excitement, like the first day of school all over again. Yes, I admit, I've got a clothes Jones. That's the nature of this game."

But, CHL sees the need to balance the 'Jones'

'You can get so caught up in the superficial," she's ghea. You need to keep sight of what's really important your family, your friends. Lenjoy my fashion career but it will never be my master.

CHL a scussed the impact of the Somerset Collection North in Troy on fashion in metro Detroit

The mall will raise the standard of retail for everyone in town," she predicted "Luckly, for Saks Fifth Avenue, our standards already exceed what is expected. We are the couture headquarters. The spotlight's on bridge collections across the street.

But the fashion world has become so financially or ented that talent and design ability doesnit a ways guarantee success lit's financial backing, the market must produce it can't imagine retail without computers for tracking inventory, locating merchandise. The compettion is so stiff. Who would have ever though Macy's or Bonwit's would close? That companies would be bought and sold by investors? So many designers are going public — Donna Karan, St. John Everyone must keep pace with profit.

CHL sad her challenge is to choose events carefully, bring in designers that match organizations. She must strategize now like never before, and relies on advance information and videos from designers to keep current

When I was a little girl, I dressed up in chenille bedspreads. My mother bought me a pair of those plastic heels with elastic straps and I loved them so much I used to sleep with them under my pillow," she reminisced

'My mother handled so much, a part-time job, a husband and home, three daughters and three sons. She's still there for all of us. She's my inspiration. I can be like that. Granted fashion isn't brain surgery, but it helps raise money for charities, spreads goodwill among people, and helps make people feel very special for the special occasions of their life. That's pretty important, wouldn't you agree?

fall Business casual, he reminds, is more than just taking offitne tie. Both Birmingham clothiers say banded collar shirts have beaked and won't be as strong for fall.

Narrowing silhouettes

Fall career dressing is well under way at Janet Varner in downtown Rochester with a grouping of ensemble pieces for women in olive and black. They feature both short and longer jackets, again more fitted than in the past, confirms sales associate Linda Meissner. Vests and a straighter, narrower pant are an important part of the collection.

Sole support

Let's not forget the bottom line — shoes. In keeping with a dressier casual look, Mario Bulgarelli, merchandise manager for Sherman Shoes, sees a return to dress footwear for men at the office. That includes classic wingtips and tassle loafers as well as the more casual, fashion-conscious shoe that Cable & Co is advancing.

Women on the job will be sporting more powerful heels and more substantial, extended soles this fall, says Paula Becker, manager of the shoe department at Roz & Sherm in Bloomfield Township

"Pumps on crepe in rich colors such as mahogany will be big," she predicts "Comfort is the key" *

THE TRUMPET

News from

WHITE RABBIT TOYS

Ann Arbor 313-665-1555

Novi 810-449-6000

GOING TO SCHOO6!

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24

School is about to start (and it's the first time for some of our little customers), so we're having a special celebration at White Rabbit Toys!

CREATE A CHIC & UNIQUE ART SMOCK

We have everything that the budding artist needs to create an original, wearable work of art. Whether you want to bring a cotton shirt or buy one of our smocks to personalize, we guarantee lots of fun and a completely unique fashion statement. Advance sign-up is recommended. There is a non-refundable $2 materials fee. Parent assistance may be necessary.

Ann Arbor: 11 am Novi: 1 pm

He's going to school, too! He will be at White Rabbit to celebrate with all of his friends. We'll have a snack and storytime, and lots of hugs from our special guest of honor.

Ann Arbor: Noon Novi: 2 pm

20% OFF SANRIO!

Something for Mom and Dad to celebrate! 20% off our wildly popular and huge selection of Sanrio, including backpacks, lunch boxes, pens, pencils, notebooks and pencil cases. One day only.

Two-Time Parents' Choice Award Winner!

GeoSafari has been one of our most popular learning games ever. It was re-designed last year, to include a game show format option.

White Rabbit Toys has been given the opportunity to offer the original GeoSafari at a very reduced price. And crazy as it sounds, we can also offer you the Junior GeoSafari at an additional $10 off, without the box. (Who needs the box!) Regularly $99.95.

GeoSafari $59.95 Jr. $49.95

A GIFT FOR THE TEACHER

Stickers, blocks, science projects, posters... do you know that the average teacher spends over $300 of his or her own money for supplies each year?

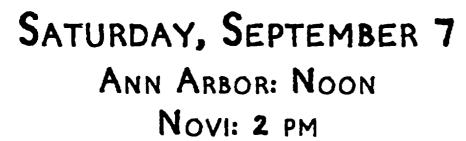

When you shop at White Rabbit now through the end of September, we'll send your favorite teacher a gift certificate, worth 10% of your purchases, to use for the classroom. (As always, teachers receive a special discount for classroom purchases. See us for details.)

WINNIE THE POOH COMES VISITING

IN WHICH We are Introduced to Winnie-the-Pooh and Some Bees

Edward Bear, known to his friends as Winnie the Pooh, or Pooh for short, is coming to visit White Rabbit Toys just in time for a little something. We are inviting our very many friends and relations, of different sorts and sizes, to come to our store and say "Hallo."

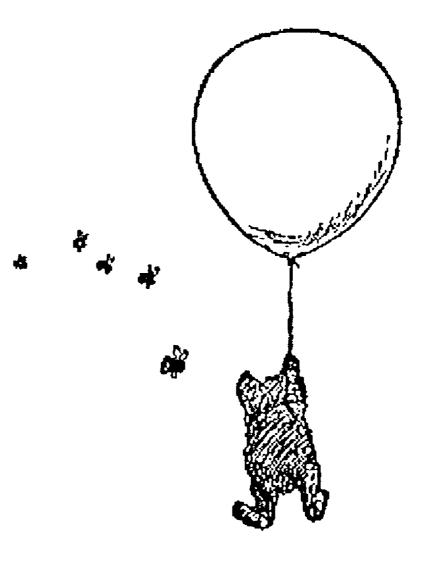

And to be quite sure that Pooh finds our store, we are going to make some bees. Because Pooh will begin to think "The only reason for being a bee that I know of is to make honey. And the only reason for making honey is so I can eat it."

Please come Very Early, to make a bee for Pooh:

PRE-SCHOOL

Gym & Sport

TOT GYM – Fun for the child up to three years old. Parents are involved in this class that uses games and activities to work on large muscle groups and hand-eye coordination. Let your child explore up, down and around on mats and obstacle courses. Work with them to build confidence and enjoy themselves.

TINY TUMBLERS – Get your little ones involved! This class is for three and four year olds. Creative games using the parachute and balls, imagination practice with animals and sounds, refining tumbling work on the mats and balance beam introduction are all part of this class. Get your kids off to a great start with Tiny Tumblers.

PRE-SCHOOL GYMNASTICS: BEGIN-NER & ADVANCED – Don't stop with Tiny Tumblers! Keep your children growing and learning with our Pre-School Gym program. We'll progress to more work on the mats and beams to other gymnastics apparatus. Motor skills and fine tuning of coordination and balance will help your child be more successful in everyday tasks and concentration. Plus – they'll have fun! Children will be taught at their level of skill.

GYM FUNTIME – A supervised time for parents and children to use the gym equipment for free play and activity.

PRE-SCHOOL BALLET (Ages 3-6) – An exciting introduction for your child into the world of ballet. Learning the basic steps and discipline of ballet encourages your child's interest, along with providing fun.

PRE-SCHOOL BASKETBALL – An instructional program designed to teach the children the basics of dribbling, passing, and shooting held at the YMCA.

PRE-SCHOOL FLOOR HOCKEY – A class for the little ones to learn the basics of stick handling and shooting. A fun class with lots of action.

SPORT SAMPLER – This is a great class for the pre-school child to be introduced to a variety of sports: T-ball, basketball, hockey and soccer!

PRE-SCHOOL SOCCER – For the preschooler who is not ready for the league. Major emphasis is on dribbling, passing and teamwork. Classes will be held indoors. Shinguards recommended. No cleats please.
