Feds probe prison incident

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Law enforcement officials from the Michigan State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are in Northville Township to look into charges of rape made last month by an inmate of the Scott Correctional Facility at Five Mile and Beck roads.

The female inmate claims that a male guard sexually assaulted her during the night of April 18-19, according to Michigan Department of Corrections (DOC) spokesperson Matt Davis. The corrections officer has been suspended from his job without pay while the allegation is investigated, Davis said.

DOC officials are not happy about the course the investigation has taken. According to Davis the inmate made her complaint to the U.S. Department of Justice, who then referred the matter to the FBI without ever contacting the Department of Corrections.

It was on April 24, five days after the alleged assault had taken place, that DOC officials learned about it, Davis said. Their source was an FBI agent who had showed up at Scott to begin his probe into the charges.

"The inmate and the officer could have had contact with each other during the period after the alleged assault," Davis said. "A simple phone call from the Department of Justice could have alerted us and we could have taken steps to prevent that. The Department (of Justice) really neglected its duty to protect people."

The DOC's normal procedure in cases of alleged sexual assault is to completely segregate those

Amerman students on mission of learning

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

In 1969 Americans watched in awe as astronauts Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin landed their lunar spaceship Eagle on the surface of the moon.

More than a decade later we heralded the triumph of the launch of America's first space shuttle, Columbia.

Last week at Amerman Elementary School more than 100 parents, teachers, and students cheered wildly as "Bobcat 1" safely

Fifty-one students from the combined fourth-fifth grade class of Janice Henderson and Wendy LaValle took part in a 40 hour simulated space mission to Planet ABC last weekend. Six student "astronauts" pitched camp in the Amerman courtyard where they conducted science experiments and experienced the rigors of a space mission.

The six astronauts were supported by 45 students, who manned mission control Friday night through Sunday morning in four and eight hour shifts.

The mission was a comprehensive educational program that emphasized math and science skills and team building concepts. While on the surface of the planet astronauts conducted soil sample experiments, monitored weather conditions, ran atmospheric tests,

Youth held in shooting

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Northville Township teenager was arrested Saturday morning for allegedly shooting at a police officer, though the 14-year-old boy's attorney calls the charge "totally unfounded."

No one disputes the fact that the boy fired a .22-caliber rifle out of a window of his home several times in the past few weeks, shooting at nearby garbage cans. What's in question is exactly what happened at about 11:30 a.m. on May 3 near Henningsen Park.

The park, which contains two little league baseball diamonds, is located off Six Mile Road next to Northville Township Hall. Township Police Detective Fred Yankee said the boy often shot at the two 55-gallon trash cans next to each diamond from the window of his house near the park.

One of the cans contains a pair of bullet holes, Yankee said, while the other has 78.

A township resident whose home borders the western side of the park called police on Saturday, saying that someone was shooting an air gun in the area. Township police officer Martin Patyna drove to the man's house to check things out.

While the two men were talking on the deck at the back of the house two projectiles impacted near them, according to Yankee, and Patyna "made a determination that this was not an air gun."

Additional police officers were then called in to check the area on the eastern side of the park, the suspected origin of the gun shots. One officer, William Helke, walked out of police headquarters, located inside Township Hall, to help with the search.

Helke said he saw a figure at an open window at the boy's home

Area code change takes place Saturday

It was only about three years ago that the last area code split took place in southeast Michigan, so less disruption is expected with the change that goes into effect on Saturday.

Beginning May 10, a portion of Wayne County will join most of Oakland County in shifting to the 248 area code.

A four-month grace period will permit people to use either the 810 or 248 area code when dialing numbers in the new telephone zone. The use of the new code will become mandatory on Sept. 13.

Northville and Northville Township are included in the new area code region. Local telephone prefixes that will make the switch are: 344, 347, 348, 349, 380 and 449.

As with the split of the 313 area code and the creation of the new 810 number, it is the proliferation of cellular telephones, fax machines and modems that is driving the search for new dialing combinations.

"This is happening all across the country," Ameritech spokesperson Sara Snyder said. "Since 1995, 70 new area codes have been created,

What you need to know about 248

Q. Which telephone users are included in the new area code?

A. People living and working in Northville and Northville Township will join most of Oakland County in the new area code region. If your telephone number begins with 344, 347, 348, 349 or 449, your new area code is 248.

Q. When must I begin using the new code?

A. Use of the new code is optional beginning Saturday, May 10. It becomes mandatory on Sept. 13.

Q. Will rate changes accompany the area code change?

A. No, what was a local call before will be a local call after

May 10; what was a toll call before will remain a toll call.

Q. Must I dial the area code for all calls placed from one area code to another?

A. Yes, if you live in the 248 region and you're dialing a 313 or 810 number, you must use the area code.

Q. Why can't the area codes stay the same?

A. There are only about 10,000 telephone number combinations per area code, and with the rapid increase in fax machines, cell phones and modems (all of which use phone lines), the phone companies quickly run out of new numbers to give out.

nine in the Los Angeles area alone." Snyder emphasizes that no rate changes are planned, and that all toll-free calls prior to the change will remain toll-free afterwards.

The adoption of the 810 area code became final on Aug. 10,

Often in school when others aren't, Northville High School senior Keith Morency hasn't been absent a day in his entire public school academic career.

No excuses

Senior prepares to wind up school career that features perfect-attendance mark

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Keith Morency is your typical, everyday high school senior.

Like many in his graduating class the 17-year-old Northville youth is looking forward to graduation, a fun summertime break, then college in the fall.

And just like every senior at Northville High School, Morency is counting down the remaining days until his high school experience comes to a close.

There is a difference, though, between Morency and the rest of his classmates. On June 4, the last day of school for graduating seniors, Morency will have accomplished something no other student in the history of the school district has been able to do - post a perfect attendance record.

Though hard to believe, Morency will have completed 13 years of schooling in Northville without missing one single day. That amounts to 2,335 straight days without an absence, and puts the good-natured teen in a class all by himself.

Adding icing to the cake, Morency has never been tardy, either.

Not even baseball greats Lou Gehrig or Cal Ripken Jr. posted those types of numbers.

"When you stop and think about it, it is pretty remarkable," Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson said. "I don't think this district has ever had a student go 13 years without missing

Local fixture, Mary Smith, dies at age 74

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

You probably knew who Mary Smith was even if you didn't know her name.

Like the downtown clock or the Main Street well, she was a part of Northville.

On a nice day you'd find her walking between town and her quiet house on Novi Street, pushing a bright orange shopping cart before her.

She'd make the rounds, stopping in here to pick up a paper, there for a bite to eat and somewhere else just to say hello.

Soccer, baseball tourney planned for May weekend

If you like youth baseball and soccer Northville is the place to be May 16-18.

The Northville Kiwanis-Early Birds organization is holding its third annual baseball and soccer tournament this month, providing an entire weekend of sporting events for people to attend.

Called the Ken Burch Memorial Tournament, the contest will feature several games at Community Park on Beck Road in Northville Township, with some spillover contests scheduled to take place at Fish Hatchery Park in Northville.

The contests will be played by youth leagues from throughout the region. Female under-10 athletes make up the soccer teams, while the baseball squads are composed of under-12 traveling boys' teams from southeast Michigan and Indiana.

According to organizer Jerry Kwas, the games will get under way at 5:30 p.m. Friday, May 16. Contests will take place all day Saturday, May 17, starting at 9 a.m. and running to 7:30 p.m. Sunday hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Some games will be played at both Community and Fish Hatchery parks at the same time. Fish Hatchery is located off Seven Mile in Northville.

Admission to all events is free.

The tournament is a fund-raiser for the Early Birds. All team entry fees and proceeds from concession sales will be used for Kiwanis projects such as scholarships and other youth-related services.

Kwas said this should be the best year yet for the tournament, which is still trying to establish a tradition for itself.

"The first year we didn't have much publicity and last year we got rained out," he remarked. "But this year we're much better organized. We've got T-shirts and printed programs.

"We're expecting it to be very successful."

Kwas said the T-shirts were designed specifically for the tournament and will carry separate designer logos for soccer and baseball.

The tournament is named after local resident Ken Burch, a Kiwanis-Early Bird past president who died in 1995.

Membership in the Northville Early Birds is open to interested community members. The organization meets Wednesdays at 7 a.m. at the Northville Senior Center, 215 W. Cady.

For information, call Stan Szostek at 421-1800.

Frothy pastry place opens in central business district

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A chocolate cake with raspberry liqueur and raspberry puree soaked into the layers, chocolate mousse spread between them. A layer of French butter cream brushed along the top and sides with delicate curls of white chocolate pressed into the cream as a final touch.

Taste buds in overdrive yet? If so, plan on paying a visit to Felicia's, one of Northville's newest businesses, located at 111 N. Center St. in the heart of the city's central business district.

The cake and pastry specialty shop boasts a bevy of delicious items such as the one described above, its "signature" chambord tort. Whether you're in the market for a wedding cake or catering or an individual sweet serving to calm that mid-afternoon craving, Felicia's has you covered, according to Colleen Meerschaert. She and her husband opened the business on April 25.

"A lot of shops do much more of a 'manufactured' style," she said. "We don't. We're very personal and we specialize in customized items that are made with the highest quality ingredients."

That includes everything from the freshest fruit to European chocolate.

Felicia's is named after the couple's 12-year-old daughter. She's part of the reason the Meerschaerts decided to move the shop from Clinton Township, where it's been located for the past eight years, to Northville.

The east side shop was much larger and was consuming so much of her time, Colleen explained, that the business was getting in the way of the family. The new, smaller Northville store will make for a better schedule. The Meerschaerts discovered Northville during frequent trips to the MAGS building on W. Main.

The store handles catering needs of all kinds, including 800-900 wedding cake orders a year. Despite all that, Colleen says she enjoys her work.

"I love it. I've always loved it," she said.

It all began for Colleen with a cake decorating class she took when she was just 8-years-old. More classes and endless experimentation followed. Then, when she was 21 and on a trip to Acapulco, she decided to follow her dream and start her own business.

"If you make it, you make it," a man told her, Colleen recalled. "If you go bankrupt, you go bankrupt. They don't kill you. So I started saving my money and went out there and did it."

Prices at Felicia's vary depending on size and ingredients. You can call the store at 449-7159 with your questions or stop by. Felicia's regular hours are:

Illegal alien detained by police

Northville Township police took an English woman with an expired visa into custody on Sunday afternoon at Maybury State Park.

A Novi man told police that the woman, 25, had been working as his nanny until a few days ago. She'd left her job, the man said, and therefore her work visa allowing her to remain in the United States was no longer valid.

The woman told police she'd purchase a ticket back to England and was planning to leave America later this month. She was held overnight at police headquarters until an agent of the U.S. Border Patrol picked her up.

CHILD NEGLECT: A Dexter woman who left her children alone inside her car while she shopped at Meijer received a ticket for child neglect on Friday afternoon.

A Northville Township police officer talked with two witnesses who said that the children had been left alone in the 1997 Jeep Grand Cherokee for 15-20 minutes before he arrived. Another five passed before the woman, 42, returned to the car, the officer said.

Inside were the woman's two kids and her niece, ages 1, 7 and 8. When asked why she'd left them alone, the woman said she thought it was "safe enough" and added that she did it all the time in Dexter.

"You're overreacting," the woman told the officer. She received a citation and a copy of the complaint was faxed to the Washtenaw County branch of the Michigan Department of Social Services.

STEE-RIKE!: Three homes on Farragut Court suffered damage from an unusual act of vandalism during the night of May 3.

Someone rolled five bowling balls down a nearby hill at the homes, causing the balls to crash into the wooden plank fences at the rear of their yards. The balls were taken from Novi Bowl. Police have sent out a special attention notice to area officers.

ON THE BLOCKS: Someone ripped off all four tires and rims from a brand-new 1997 Ford Explorer during the night of May 1-2, according to township police.

The thieves took the items from an Explorer parked at a Maplehill Drive home. The goods are valued at $1,100. The vehicle was left up on blocks.

DRUNK DRIVER: A 25-year-old Northville woman was arrested drunk driving in the early hours of Sunday morning.

The reporting officer in the case said he was driving east on Eight Mile toward Haggerty at about 2:30 a.m. when he saw the woman's 1991 Chevrolet pickup weaving in the road.

The woman at first denied having anything to drink, the officer continued, but later admitted to taking a few drinks from a bottle of beer. Tests later at police headquarters allegedly showed her to have a blood alcohol level of .14 percent, above the legal limit of .10 percent.

She was held until she sobered up, then was released on bail pending a court hearing.

DRUNK DRIVER ACT TWO: A 44-year-old Okemos man, apparently confused about traffic laws regarding red lights, was arrested for drunk driving May 2.

According to police the man was stopped in the eastbound lane of Eight Mile Road at the Novi Street traffic light when he decided to turn left on the red light. A Northville officer spotted the infraction and stopped the man a few moments later.

When the officer approached the vehicle he noticed a strong odor of alcohol. He asked the man to perform a series of field sobriety tasks then requested the man take a preliminary breath test. The results of the test registered .16 percent blood alcohol content.

The man was arrested and transported to the Northville police station where a second breath test registered .12 percent BAC. The man was held on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVER ACT THREE: A 33-year-old Wixom man was arrested for drunk driving May 2.

According to police the man was driving erratically on Taft Road and a Northville officer stopped him. The driver was asked to perform some field sobriety tasks and given a preliminary breath test, which registered .12 percent BAC.

The man was transported to the Northville Police Station where a second breath test registered .14 percent BAC. The man was held on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVING ACCIDENT: A 53-year-old Plymouth man, who was responsible with causing a minor three car accident, was arrested for drunk driving May 2.

According to police the man rear-ended two vehicles stopped at the traffic signal at Eight Mile Road and Novi Street. No injuries were reported.

When officers arrived the man was asked to perform several field sobriety tasks. When the man was unable to complete the tasks the officer asked him to perform a preliminary breath test. When the man refused the officer attempted to handcuff him the man became hostile and resisted arrest. The officer was able to transport the man to the Northville Police Station where a search warrant was obtained for blood samples. The samples were taken at Providence Medical Center and sent to the State Police Crime Lab for analysis.

TEEN VIOLATES CURFEW: A 13-year-old Northville Township youth was cited for violating the city's curfew ordinance May 4.

According to police the boy apparently was able to slip out of his house, eluding a babysitter and was riding his bike to a friend's for a sleep over when he was spotted by a Northville officer on Main Street.

The boy was cited for the violation and released into the custody of the babysitter.

STOLEN PURSE: An Innsbrook apartments woman left her purse by the side of her car by accident on Friday afternoon, driving off without it. When she returned a few minutes later, it was gone, along with $50 in cash. The woman told police she'd set it down to load some items into her vehicle.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents you can call Northville City police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

then heard a gunshot. Helke went back inside, ordered those in Township Hall to remain indoors, armed himself with a rifle then converged on the house with other officers.

They allegedly found the boy in the basement, Yankee said.

A friend also found in the house was taken back to his home by police.

The youth has been incarcerated since his arrest and is now being held in the Wayne County juvenile detention facility. The county prosecutor's office is expected to decide this week whether he will be charged with a crime and, if so, whether he'll be charged as a adult.

Northville attorney Michele Kelly is representing the youth. While she admits her client has fired his rifle out the window, Kelly flatly disagrees with police claims that he tried to harm anyone.

"There is absolutely no basis for these charges," Kelly said. "I've seen no evidence of any attempt on a police officer's life."

The shots Patyna reacted to, Kelly said, hit one of the park trash cans several dozen yards

Everyone's got a favorite recipe and the Northville Township Centennial Committee wants yours.

As part of its fund-raising campaign to finance a series of celebration events during 1998, the 100th-anniversary of Northville Township, the Centennial Committee plans to publish a cookbook called the Tastes of Northville.

The book will be spiral-bound and available for purchase by Nov. 1, but the recipes are needed by May 30.

"We want at least 300 recipes," said planning specialist Shari Peters. "People can send in as many as they want."

Needed are all type of recipes, including entrees, breads, desserts, cakes, salads and appetizers.

The cookbook will contain no illustrations, but the names of people submitting entries will be included.

Send recipes to: Great Chefs of Northville, c/o Township Offices, 16225 Beck Road, Northville, MI 48167.

Be sure to include your name, address and telephone number.

According to Peters, several major community activities are planned to mark the township's centennial. Included will be a township history book, an Octoberfest, a family picnic, a golf outing and several holiday happenings.

An estimated 10-12 volunteer committees will help organize the year-long series of events.

For more information about the centennial, call 348-1212.

Township officials urge quick decision on D.A.R.E.

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Will D.A.R.E. come to the classrooms of the Northville Public School District? Should it?

Those questions are still up in the air despite a meeting of school district and Northville Township officials last week. So is another one: how long will it take to find out the answers?

D.A.R.E. stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education, an anti-drug, anti-violence program taught by police officers in public and private schools all over the country. Since 1993 Northville Township police officer Matt Mayes has taught the 17-week program part-time to hundreds of kids in private schools in the community.

Last month, Northville Township applied for a state grant that, if approved, would allow Mayes to become a full-time D.A.R.E. instructor for the Northville public schools. The catch is that to get the grant the township must secure the formal support of the school district by mid-July.

Gaining that support was the objective of an April 30 meeting called by the trustees and attended by some school officials.

"We want a more proactive and a wider community approach (to battling drugs)," Supervisor Karen Woodside said at the meeting. "We want a partnership."

Whether that partnership comes about remains to be seen. The upshot of the conference is that the district will take another look at D.A.R.E. but officials aren't sure if they can give the township an answer within the tight time frame.

That was not the answer members of the township board were hoping for. They urged district officials to speedily approve D.A.R.E. so the grant won't be lost. If it is lost, the township will have to wait for 1998 to reapply.

That may be what will happen, given the fact that it normally takes a year or more for a complete review of curriculum changes for the 7,000-student, eight-school district.

The grant proposal calls for Mayes to teach five D.A.R.E. classes a day four days a week in the district. Figuring out how to fit a new program into the school calendar, as well as what may have to be deleted to make room for the new class, takes time, Executive Director of Special Education Bob Sornson said.

Sornson added that district administrators and board of trustees members will have to see exactly what "support" they'd have to offer in order to keep the grant ball rolling.

"Please expedite the process. It's a lot of money to us," Woodside asked him at the meeting.

Sornson assured trustees school officials would look at the proposal.

The main issue is not finding a place for the program, but deciding whether D.A.R.E. should be in the schools in the first place.

A special district committee made an extensive study of the D.A.R.E. issue in 1992-93 and recommended that the district not adopt the program for a variety of reasons. The Michigan Comprehensive Health Model includes an anti-drug and anti-violence curriculum, the committee concluded, and it is difficult, if not impossible, to "blend" its lessons with those of D.A.R.E.

"D.A.R.E. is a good program but that doesn't mean that D.A.R.E. is the right solution for the public schools," Sornson said. "If there was a magic program out there we'd all be rushing to it."

Township Trustee Marv Gans urged the district to avoid being "polarized" by past opinions about the program and urged the schools "to take a fresh look at this."

Chip Snider, Director of the township's Department of Public Safety, was more emphatic.

"I'm disappointed," he said. "We need to try the D.A.R.E. program and measure the difference (in drug prevalence from before)."

"We don't have to start slow on this," Snider added. "It's a just a matter of opening the doors and letting us in."

The award-winning Northville High School Jazz Band provides a big band sound to the Senior Prom affair at Cooke Middle School. Each spring the school hosts about 50

Carriers to collect food on Saturday

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Don't forget to leave a can of pork 'n' beans in the mailbox for the postal carrier Saturday.

No, the mail carrier isn't hungry, but many less fortunate residents could be.

May 10 is the National Association of Letter Carriers National Food Drive where postal carriers collect canned and non-perishable foods during their mail routes and then distribute the food to the less fortunate.

"We usually try to squeeze the stuff in (the carrier trucks) but sometimes the supervisors will come out there and pick up some of the stuff from us," said Randy Bylski of the Novi Post Office.

Residents can leave canned and non-perishable goods in or near their mailboxes for the postal carriers to retrieve during their normal route times.

The food goes to local charities. In Northville, food will be taken to Northville Civic Concern.

"The carriers like doing it because they know it's for the needy," said Bylski.

Jim Asher, postmaster of the Novi Post Office, said management is more than happy to work with the project.

"It benefits a worthy cause," he said. Bylski said he believes the tradition started in Arizona 20 years ago.

"The letter carriers there had such success that the NALC decided to test it in other cities," he explained.

New 248 area code effective Saturday

1994. As with the current situation, a grace period was used to help people make the adjustment. One difference between the last area code change and the current one is that special dialing arrangements are no longer possible. When the new 810 code went into effect, people in the new code region were permitted to dial certain prefixes in the 313 area without using the area code. People in 810 areas, for example, could dial the "Plymouth" codes of 420 and 421 without pushing 313 first.

Such "in-community" dialing will no longer be allowed, so all calls to different area codes will require the use of the code, according to Snyder.

"We need the numbers," she said.

Snyder added that changes in laws designed to promote competition also prohibit special dialing arrangements.

Snyder says, depending on the speed of technological advancement, the 248 area code should stay intact for 8-10 years.

Prior to the introduction of the 810 area code in 1994, the last area code change - to 313 - took place in 1947.

Market days are here again

The annual Northville Farmer's Market, located in the Northville Downs parking lot at Seven Mile and Center, began its 1997 season May 1. It'll be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Thursday through October. Farmers from throughout southern Michigan lease roughly 44 spaces in the parking area. Customers can expect to find a wide variety of flowers and plants, including perennials, annuals, herbs, bedding plants and hanging baskets. Many items are ideal as gifts for Mother's Day.

Suspect to undergo psychiatric evaluation

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The man accused of causing Livonia teenager Scott Brown to fall to his death from the top of a building in Northville Township in January will undergo psychiatric evaluation for the next month.

Joel Couch, 26, was scheduled to go to trial on April 28 on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of his friend Brown, 19. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Tim Kenney, however, scratched that plan and has referred the Livonia resident for the evaluation, according to the court clerk's office.

A final conference in the case is scheduled for June 13, according to a worker at the clerk's office. If he were to be tried and convicted of the felony offense Couch could face up to 15 years in prison and/or a fine of up to $7,500.

He, Brown and another friend were on top of the Fairweather building at about 2 a.m. on the night in question. The abandoned five-story building is owned by the state of Michigan and is located at the corner of Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

Michigan State Police investigators say the three were consuming alcohol and marijuana. According to Sgt. Gary Gray, at one point Brown and Couch got into an altercation that led to Couch striking or shoving Brown. That, in turn, caused Brown to stumble and fall over the side of the roof, Gray said.

The teen fell about 60 feet and was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia soon afterwards. No charges are pending against the third male involved.

Annual flower sale approaches

The tenth annual flower sale is coming to downtown Northville Friday, May 23, and Saturday, May 24, and brings with it a profusion of beautiful colors and varieties of vegetation.

Friday's hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday the sale will be going on from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Over 15 quality greenhouses, all members of the Metropolitan Detroit Flower Growers Association, will take part this year.

Main Street between Hutton and Center will be closed to cars to allow for leisurely browsing and shopping. Among the many blossoms for sale will be annuals, perennials, shrubs and herbs. For information, call (810) 348-0488.

Market was Chatham's and the parking lot next door was a Hard-ee's, she was one of the lunchtime regulars who'd sit down for a chicken sandwich and some conversation. Decades of Northville High School students knew her as one of the cafeteria's food service workers.

Mary Smith

A Northville native who lived her whole life here, Smith died last week in a nursing home in Livonia. She was 74.

Gone but definitely not forgotten, say her friends, many of whom lent her a hand now and again as problems cropped up.

Barbara Ross was one who helped out. They met at The First Presbyterian Church on Main Street where Mary was a member since 1956. Ross remembers a "very independent" lady who cut her own grass - with a non-power push mower - until just a few months before she had to move to the Camelot Hall Convalescent Center a year and a half ago.

Whether it was a ride to the doctor's or help with sorting out paperwork, Ross was one of the people who was there for Smith when she needed it.

"She was a good friend," Ross recalled. "Well-known and well-liked."

If you passed muster with Smith, the feeling was mutual, said Rosemary Hagge.

"She was very loyal," Hagge said.

"If she told you something, it was a promise she never broke."

As with Ross, Hagge and Smith became friends through church.

"I think she was fortunate to have lived in Northville. A lot of people sort of took her under their wing. That's what this town is like," Hagge said.

The kind of town where the local Arbor's let Mary use the shopping cart because she preferred it to a walker.

The kind of town where church members help renovate her property by tearing down an old garage.

Another friend who helped was Karl Peters, the director of Northville's Community Senior Citizen programs. He remembered the day 12 years ago when Smith came to the Senior Center, not long after Peters had come on the job.

"She came to welcome me and things went from there," he said. "She was a unique person. Mary was just so unique that you never forgot her. There are so many people that you meet in life and friends that come and go. For some reason, Mary just came and stayed."

It was Peters who served as Smith's legal guardian in her final months.

Every Sunday morning he'd take her to church at First Presbyterian then it would be time for a bite at Joseph's Coney Island or the Dandy Gander.

Carolyn Totten, the manager of Kacee's Hallmark store, was one of the people at the shop who used to help Mary put in her eyeglasses every morning when she'd stop by, parking her cart on the sidewalk outside.

"She was a very sweet person. She could be stubborn, though. She knew what she wanted," Totten remembered with a chuckle.

Future school district employee Mary Smith poses with her fifth grade class from the 1934-35 school year. Smith appears in the second row from the bottom, third person from the right.

Born downtown in an apartment above the shops of Main Street, Mary lived in Northville all her life, attending school here and later working for the schools as well. For many years her family lived on Rivers Street until their home was purchased by the owners of Northville Downs.

They later moved to an address on Novi Street.

Memorial service planned for May 17

A memorial service for Mary Smith will be held at First Presbyterian Church of Northville on Saturday, May 17.

The date would have been Smith's 75th birthday. The service will begin at 9 a.m. The church is located at 200 E. Main, which is near the intersection with Hutton.

Memorials for Mary Smith will go toward the construction of the Northville playscape children's play structure.

Send checks, made payable to "Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation/Playscape Committee," to: 303 W. Main St., Northville, MI, 48167.

Congratulations Graduate

John, We are very proud of all your accomplishments. Good luck at Michigan Love, Mom, Dad, Maria, Elleen and Nonnie.

Gifted seniors plan careers in medicine

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Northville High School seniors Jennifer Huang and Monica Prasad are used to excelling in school.

Both have posted excellent gpa's this year, both have met or surpassed every academic challenge put before them, and both are among the top 5 percent of the best and brightest students in the country.

Huang was selected as a National Merit Scholar and Prasad received National Merit commended status.

So it should come as little surprise that both Huang and Prasad have selected the same academic course of study in college, and consequently the same career path.

Both have chosen the field of medicine, and with their academic standing it isn't hard to believe that some of the best universities in the country want these two high achieving students in their classrooms next fall.

Fortunately, Huang and Prasad will be studying medicine in Michigan throughout their college careers, taking part in a University of Michigan degree program to which very few students gain admittance.

"These two students have been admitted to a program that is one of the toughest in the country," said Northville Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski, who honored Huang and Prasad at a recent Northville Board of Education meeting. "Judging by their high school accomplishments, I believe (Huang and Prasad) will be quite successful."

The program is called Inteflex and emphasizes the education of primary care physicians and the education of future physicians currently under-represented in the field of medicine, according to Inteflex Director Dr. Alphonse Burdi. "Inteflex addresses the emerging needs in physician education and health care for the 21st century," Burdi said.

Only 44 applicants are admitted to the program each year, and 88 percent are selected from within the state, according to Burdi.

Huang and Prasad will enter the University of Michigan's College of Literature, Science and the Arts in the fall and will receive either bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degrees. The two will then move on to their reserved spots in the School of Medicine.

Prasad explained that the requirements to stay in the program are tough. Advancement from the four-year liberal arts phase to the medical school will be based on the demonstration of an overall profile of successful academic performances, including faculty evaluations, a satisfactory cumulative undergraduate grade point average, and successful performance on the required Medical College Admissions Test.

"If you're weak in one area like grade point average, then you have to have above average scores on the MCAT," Prasad said. "The opposite is true as well. If you have average MCAT scores then you really need to have a high gpa to stay in the program."

Getting into the program was also tough, according to Huang. Students applying for Inteflex must have an SAT score of 1200 or a 30 composite score on the enhanced ACT test. The program requires a calculated high school gpa average of 3.5 and a standing in the top 10 percent of their high school class.

Applicants also need a strong background in math and science and must have at least two years of a foreign language

Varsity ensemble invited to perform at prestigious concert

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Some Northville voices have been judged as being among the very best in the state this week and will be showcased Friday at Western Michigan University.

According to Northville High School Choral Director Mary Kay Pryce, 15 high school students who make up the school's varsity singing ensemble will join 11 other high school ensembles at the Michigan School Vocal Music Association's Ensemble Invitational Concert.

That honor came after the Northville singers were named as one of the best ensembles by judges at a recent MSVMA state Solo and Ensemble Festival.

Pryce explained that the ensemble was one of three selected from four different sites across the state.

"Each site judge may select up to three ensembles that they feel are the best singers for that day," she said. "At our site there were about 35 performing groups and the Northville ensemble was selected."

This is the third year since 1992 that Northville students have been selected for the honor, Pryce said.

The invitational concert is held in conjunction with the Michigan Youth Arts Festival, which is a culmination of a nine-month search for the finest artistic talent statewide. According to MSVMA Director Roger Dehn, the process involves 40,000 students and only about 700 are invited to the event.

"They share their talents with their peers and the public through performances and exhibitions," he explained. "In addition, each student has the opportunity to attend clinics, workshops and master classes in his or her own discipline."

Festival Chairman Jon Fitzgerald said the festival is an extraordinary event that showcases young artists with exceptional talent.

"The participants merit recognition for achievement in the arts and education process," he said. "The Youth Arts Festival provides a unique opportunity to renew our commitment to the arts, to appreciate the contribution the arts can make to the growth of society."

Pryce said that the festival at the WMU campus in Kalamazoo is free and open to the public.

Greenhills students take awards in drama, speech

Students attending Northville Public Schools weren't the only ones to receive honors at the state Forensics Competition held last month.

Emily Presley and Abby Woodworth, both students at Greenhills private school in Ann Arbor, also received awards at the competition. Presley walked away with a plaque for general excellence in informative speaking and Woodworth captured a sixth place trophy for her efforts in dramatic interpretation.

Both students are from the Northville area.

Graduates awarded Schoolcraft scholarships

Two Northville High School graduating seniors have been selected as recipients of Schoolcraft College Trustee Award scholarships.

Beth Boginski was awarded a $1,000 scholarship and classmate Jeremy Abbey received an $800 scholarship award.

The Trustee Awards are available for first-year Schoolcraft students who will be enrolling full-time for the 1997-98 school year.

Mine proposal on planning agenda

Discussion set for May 13

On Tuesday night, May 13, The Northville Township Planning Commission will consider a proposal for a sand and gravel mine and an asphalt processing plant near Six Mile and Ridge roads.

Under consideration is the plan brought forth by the Dominic lafrate/Angelo lafrate Construction Co. The firm owns 177 acres near the southwest corner of Six and Ridge. It is seeking township approval to surface-mine sand and gravel for up to 10 years for its construction operations.

While the mine would be open, an asphalt processing plant would also be located on the site.

Township officials rejected a similar plan for the same land in 1992.

The meeting of the planning commission will be a "study session" only. The commission will only discuss the issue, not vote on whether to recommend approval or denial to the board of trustees. That vote could come at the commission's regular monthly meeting on May 27.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with an unrelated land rezoning request. The study session on the lafrate proposal will begin after the commission completes the first agenda item.

The meeting will be held at Northville Township Hall, located off Six Mile between Winchester and Haggerty roads.

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Northville Record recently asked readers to call in and express their opinions about the proposed sand and gravel mine/asphalt processing plant proposed for the west end of Northville Township.

We got quite a response, all of it opposing the plan and urging township officials to reject the lafrate Construction Co. plan. Here's a sample of the opinions we received:

• Carole Miller, who lives near Seven Mile and Napier roads, fears the lafrate site would duplicate her bad experiences with BFI's landfill site nearby.

"The truck traffic is incredible. It's unending. I have endless dust and I hear that beeping of trucks backing up all day long."

Miller also expressed doubts over the company's plan to "reclaim" (restore to previous condition) the site in 10 years.

"How do you reclaim a giant hole?" Miller asked.

• Eliane Zdawczyk, who lives near Beck and Six Mile roads, said she and her husband are "absolutely opposed" to the plan for several reasons, including noise and odor, traffic and environmental concerns.

• Bill Kondoff lives off Six Mile east of Sheldon Road but fears what the lafrate mine and plant would do to the township as a whole.

"It seems to me that we're getting the title of garbage dump of Michigan," said Kondoff, who worries that developments like the BFI landfill and the lafrate mine operation will damage the residential character of the community.

A good idea, he said, would be to put the issue to a vote.

• Blue Heron Pointe resident Bill Wood had many of the same concerns.

"We have a highly prized residential community here and they want to put a heavy industrial outfit here. It's an incompatible use," he said.

In other areas of the country, Wood said, housing followed the building of industrial plants. Here, he said, the reverse seems to be taking place and "I think it's an impossible approach."

There is no specific township zoning statute governing mining operations. Wood said he's worried that if a mine is approved, the entire zoning ordinance system will be weakened and the township will be less and less able to prevent undesirable land uses in the future.

• "We need to look at this in the long-term and consider the long-term implications," was the advice of Barbara Moroski-Browne, a township resident.

Whether you consider environmental or economic development factors, she said, the plan is not good. For example, what about the long-term plan for the land? If it were to be the site of future residential housing, as has been discussed, those homes wouldn't have anything to buffer them from nearby BFI.

• Jim Malecki lives on Docksey Avenue, which lies off Ridge Road. He worries about the sounds and smells from an asphalt plant drifting into his home and the homes that will one day be part of the 450-unit development proposed just west of Blue Heron Pointe. Property values will also take a hit, he added.

"Nobody in the community wants them here? Why in the world are they coming here?" Malecki asked.

Malecki added that he bets that the people who run lafrate don't live near one of their mine or asphalt plant sites.

Wooly Bully car cruises get permits to restart

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It took some doing but Wooly Bully's will host Wednesday night classic car cruises again this summer.

That was the upshot of Monday night's meeting of the Northville Township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). The board's unanimous vote in favor of granting a permit for the cruises capped nearly two hours of talks with Mark Roman, owner of the popular Seven Mile Road eatery, and Chip Snider, director of the township's department of public safety.

In keeping with Wooly Bully's vintage theme, the cruises are held from 5 to 9 p.m. every Wednesday from May to September. Classic car owners are given discounts on food and drinks and allowed to park their vehicles in a special area for restaurant patrons to look at.

Township police have received complaints in the past, however, about problems like illegal parking, traffic congestion and noise, Snider said. He recommended that the ZBA turn down the permit for the cruises.

As the evening went on, however, Snider assisted the board in working out a lengthy set of conditions which the ZBA tacked onto its approval of the permit, conditions which have to be met or the license could be revoked.

According to Snider, the cruises mean extra work, time manpower and money for his department that could be spent on normal police work.

"When our personnel are on the premises, everything's fine," Snider said. "It's no different than a schoolteacher in a classroom. When we turn our backs, the behaviors start."

Roman disagreed, saying the cruises were not grand events but just a way to bring more customers into Wooly Bully's.

"It's normal business flow. There's just more of it," Roman said. "What's the problem? You're in business to be successful."

He also strongly disputed implications that the cruises produce problems for police or nearby businesses and residents. Roman said the past two years don't reveal a history of problems and he and his staff have made every effort to solve the difficulties that did crop up.

"I'm not going to cut my throat for a couple of bucks," he said. "I'm a part of this community and I plan to stay a part of this community."

"Some of this may just come down to being a good neighbor," ZBA chair Marjorie Banner said.

The permit approval includes a series of procedures for the cruises to follow to prevent problems from developing, such as signs and parking lot attendants to improve traffic flow and reduce illegal parking.

Maybury State Park

PARK HOURS:

Maybury State Park is open daily from 8 a.m. until dusk. Farm hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. A state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry to the park.

Additional information about programs or facilities may be obtained by calling the park office at 349-8390.

MAY BIRD HIKE:

Join the park interpreter for a spring walk to look for the birds of the season on Saturday, May 10, beginning at 8 a.m. We will meet at the concession building in the main parking lot on Eight Mile Road to explore the woods and fields. This is a good time to look for songbirds, as spring migration should be at its peak. This hike is suitable for all ages and skill levels.

SHEEP SHEARING DAYS:

Plan now to visit Maybury Farm during our annual sheep shearing and wool spinning demonstrations on May 10, 11, and 18, from 1 to 4 p.m. each day. See Farmer John give the sheep their annual haircuts. There will also be wool processing demonstrations, including carding and spinning, and displays about sheep and wool.

CONGRATULATIONS!

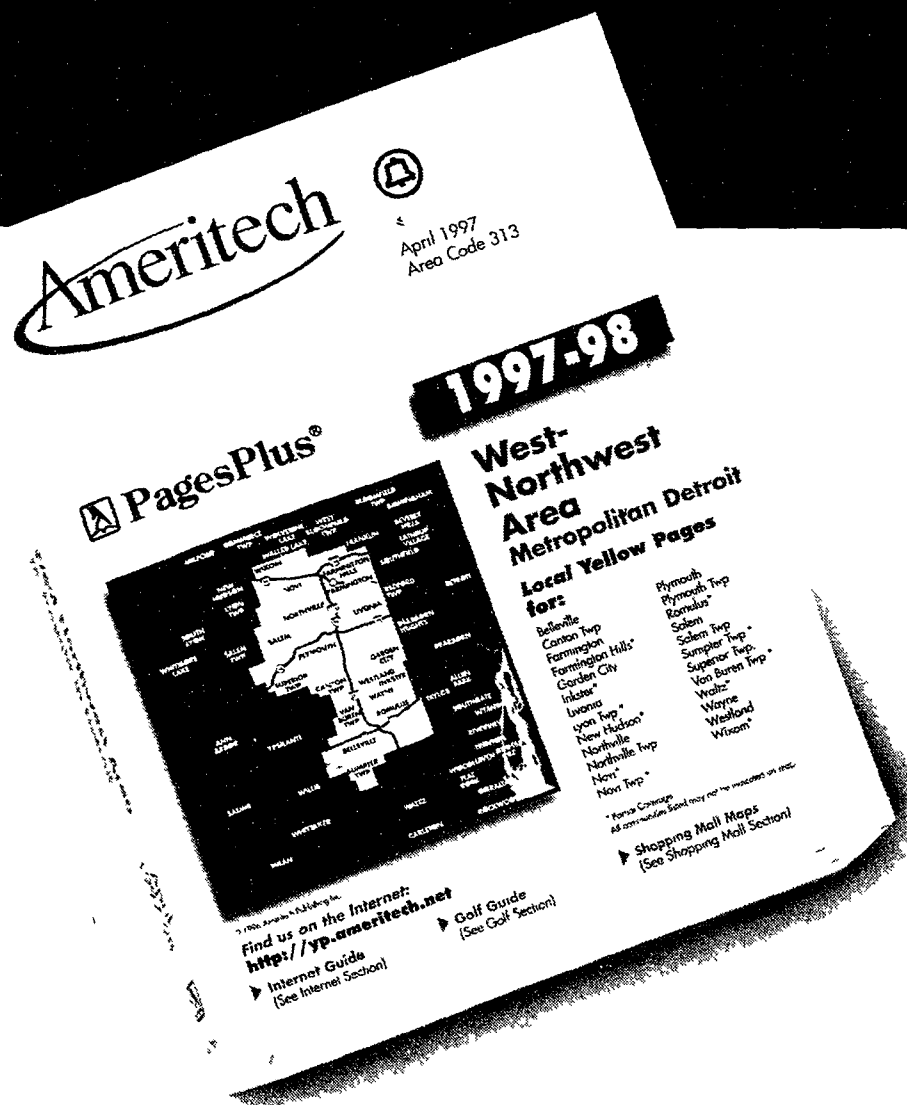

We are proud to announce the winner of the Maybury design-a-patch contest. Katie Kudyba is a fifth grade student at Thornton Creek Elementary. Her winning design, "Seasons 1997," was selected from over 100 entries.

This first-ever patch contest was planned as a follow-up activity for elementary students who have participated in the Maybury State Park/Northville Public Schools "Partnership in Education" program. Katie's design was made into a patch, which will be sold at the park this year. Congratulations Katie.

Simulated mission is top-flight learning experience

"What a wonderful activity for students to take part in," said school board vice President Joan Wadsworth, one of the many parent volunteers supervising the mission. "These kids learned a lot about working as a team and solving problems."

The mission was a culmination of about two months of planning and preparation by students and teachers. The idea for the mission came after Henderson visited the Challenger Space Center in Indiana.

The students and teachers received valuable assistance from parent Tandi Bagian, who was an actual astronaut trainer for NASA.

During the planning stages students had to calculate how much food and water would be necessary for the simulated trip, along with other items the astronauts would need.

According to student Colleen Moreland, who was part of the Health and Nutrition team, planning the meals posed some interesting problems.

"Not only did we have to figure out what type of food they were going to need, but we had to create directions on how they had to prepare it," she said. "One of the meals we had originally planned for were soft tacos, but we couldn't come up with a way to keep the shells from breaking apart so we had to scrap that idea."

Students also came up with science and math experiments the astronauts would have to perform. A simple communications experiment using binary numbers turned out to be more difficult than the students expected. Mission control specialists transmitted the binary code in a series of green and red flashing lights that were relayed to the astronauts' communications box. The binary code spelled out different words the astronauts were supposed to decode.

"The first time we tried it (the astronauts) got the first few words, but they weren't able to figure out the rest of the sentence," explained student communications officer Erin Gruley. "It worked a little bit better the second time we tried it."

The entire mission - from blastoff to touchdown 40 hours later - had the realism of a NASA space shuttle mission. More than 100 parents and students were on hand in the "gallery" when Bobcat 1 took off at 5:52 p.m. Friday.

The gallery was equipped with video monitors that showed the students running mission control and the student astronauts in the cockpit of the spacecraft. Spectators were able to listen to communications from the spacecraft to mission controllers at liftoff as well as the landing on planet ABC minutes later.

Spectators gave a thunderous applause when astronauts radioed that the craft had landed on the planet. A second round of applause came when the astronauts radioed that they were standing on the planet's surface.

"That's one small step for students and one giant leap for education," the astronauts reported.

The astronauts then planted a "planet earth" flag in the soil of the courtyard and began setting up their camp and preparing for their experiments.

"They were only allowed to bring in a certain amount of supplies and clothing," LaValle explained after a mission control briefing Saturday night. "They had to plan exactly what they would need for the entire mission."

The astronauts even had to plan for the possibility of inclement weather on the unexplored "planet." The planning paid off as the nighttime temperatures on Friday night dipped into the 30-degree range, and most of Saturday was rainy and cold as well.

According to Mission Specialist Denver Laab, an Amerman fifth grade student, the astronauts returned in good shape and reported that the most difficult portion of the mission was weathering the chilly temperatures and recording the weather data. All six agreed they'd like to make a return trip to the newly explored planet.

LaValle said the entire operation was successful because the students worked together.

"Everyone had a job to do," she said. "The mission wasn't just centered around the six astronauts, there was plenty of teamwork."

When the astronauts returned safely to earth they received communications from President Bill Clinton and state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, commemorating the historic event.

Selecting the six astronauts was a comprehensive process, according to LaValle.

Students interested in being selected to serve as astronauts were required to compose a resume, get letters or recommendations and be interviewed by a panel of three judges

Trivia specialists place high in annual Quiz Bowl competition

By ROBERT JACKSON
Staff Writer

Who was the last person to sign the Declaration of Independence?

What aircraft can fly faster than a speeding bullet?

Most students would have to check their high school history book, or make a trip to the local library to find the answers to those questions.

There are five Northville High School students, however, who could probably answer those questions without blinking an eye, or even opening a book.

That's because Jenny Huang, Robert Beier, Keith Droz, Charles Fan and Steve Traicoff have spent the entire year answering those types of questions and a whole lot more.

The five are members of the school's varsity quiz bowl team, and this year they placed third in the WLAA - higher than any previous Northville team - and went further than any Northville group in the state championships.

"I'm really proud of this group," high school teacher and team advisor Chris Ford said. "They managed to accomplish what no other Northville quiz bowl team has accomplished. We had never won two matches in the state tournament before."

The Northville squad defeated Port Huron Northern and Grand Blanc before being eliminated, Ford said.

The quiz bowl runs on a format similar to the popular television game show "Jeopardy." Two teams of three members compete by answering questions and receiving points for correct answers.

"It's one of the few academic sports where knowledge of useless trivia becomes extremely helpful," Charles Fan explained. "Each of us specializes in certain topics, but having a broad knowledge of different subjects helps a lot."

The group practiced each Monday after school and even scrimmaged against some high school teachers. "Unfortunately, the teachers won," Traicoff said.

This was the fifth year Ford served as the team's advisor. Prior to that the high school did not have an "organized" quiz bowl squad. "A teacher would just get a group of students together and take them to the state tournament," Ford explained. "The students didn't practice that much before the competition."

That all changed when Ford took over. The first year team members would practice by asking each other questions from a Trivial Pursuit suit game. They eventually were able to gather official quiz bowl materials and the team took off from there.

This year the team competed in seven tournaments.

"We've done pretty well the past few years," Ford said.

As for the students, they enjoy the practice and competition

"Quiz Bowl is a blast - it really builds your confidence," Traicoff concluded. "Not too many people know about the team, and I hope more people take part next year."

a day. That's an amazing accomplishment."

Morency's streak began with his first day in Kindergarten at Winchester Elementary School. By the time he moved through the middle school level at Meads Mill, Morency decided to make perfect attendance his goal.

"I didn't miss a day through elementary school and I thought that I probably would end up missing some days when I went to Meads Mill," Morency explained. "When I got through middle school and went up to the high school I really began taking it pretty seriously."

Morency's mother Sharon said she believes Keith's shyness as a child was partly responsible for getting the streak started.

"He was so shy and he really didn't talk to his teachers that much, so I think that he was afraid to be absent because he didn't want to miss anything," she said.

Keith also lived in the shadow of his older brother Darin, according to Sharon, who excelled in just about everything he did.

"(Darin) always got great grades and he took all of the honors classes and I think Keith wanted to achieve something on his own," she added.

"Darin was good in school, but Keith is no slouch when it comes to grades," said Bob Morency, Keith's father. "This year he is carrying a 3.6 gpa and he definitely has plans to attend college next fall."

Ironically, Darin could have unknowingly stopped Keith's streak four years ago. The elder brother came down with the chicken pox and the Morencys waited for the younger Keith to come down with the sickness too.

"It happened in the middle of April and we figured because Keith had been exposed, it would only be a matter of time before he caught the chicken pox," Bob Morency said. "We were surprised that he never got sick."

"I was lucky," Keith said matter-of-factly. "I've always been real healthy."

Sharon explained that even a fever couldn't keep Keith out of school.

"He'd come home on Friday feeling a bit sick and he'd have a fever throughout the weekend," she recalled. "I'd tell him that if he had a fever or was still sick by Monday morning I'd have to keep him home, even at the expense of his streak."

"It never failed. By Monday morning the fever would be gone and he'd be feeling normal and ready to go to school."

Then there was the time that one of Keith's middle school teachers inadvertently marked him absent.

"I got a call from the attendance person and she said that Keith had missed school," Sharon said. "I knew there had to be something wrong and when Keith went back to school the next day he asked his teacher why she had marked him absent. The teacher realized immediately that she had made an error and had mistaken Keith for another student."

Morency's perfect attendance streak meant the family only vacationed in the summer and the possibility of an occasional three day weekend was out of the question.

"He played hockey and there would be an out-of-town tournament scheduled during a weekend. And while everyone else took their kids out of school early on Friday, we waited until Keith got home."

Bob explained. "He didn't want to miss a minute of school."

Keith said his parents always stressed the importance of receiving a good education.

"Both my parents always wanted me to get the most out of school and I guess maybe I have," he said. "They always told me it was important to get a quality education."

Keith will begin work on a bachelor's degree in business from Madonna College next fall. Bob concluded that the future of his youngest son looks bright.

"I'm extremely proud of him and what he has accomplished. Keith wanted to be in school everyday and with so many outside forces working against youth today, I am happy that both of my sons put school and education first," Bob Morency said. "I believe that Keith's sense of accomplishment and responsibility will carry through his college experience and into his career."

For now, Keith will be happy to close out this chapter of his life.

"I've got (17 days) to go," he said, with a shy grin on his face. "I hope this story in the newspaper doesn't jinx me."

Northville/Novi written up in publication

By MEGAN SWOYER
Special Writer

Look out Northville and Novi.

Metropolitan Detroit's charming communities might notice an unexpected flood of visitors this spring and summer, thanks to a new marketing strategy that hopes to enlighten Michiganders about the many jewels in the area.

This month, Michigan Living magazine features the two cities in an advertorial that salutes metro Detroit's I-275 region. The advertorial, defined as a cross between an advertisement and an article (or editorial), is the first of three. Others will run in subsequent issues.

Marty Habalewsky, Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau's (MDCVB) marketing director, says the bureau now is marketing the I-275 metropolitan area along with six other metro-area regions. And Michigan Living magazine, the AAA Michigan publication with a circulation of 1.1 million, is the perfect vehicle, according to Habalewsky.

"We were looking for a credible editorial outlet and Michigan Living is it," Habalewsky remarked. "It goes to a variety of outstate and southeastern Michigan residents," he added.

Michigan Living Editor Ron Garbinski is excited about the feature.

"It examines many of the wonderful things in the I-275 region. Even those who live in the area need to remind themselves of all the treasures in the charming suburban communities," he added, noting that he spent many "fond hours at Northville's Guernsey Farm Dairy as a child and strolled the lovely streets of Northville."

The advertorial, titled "Metro Detroit's I-275 Region: A World of Fun Awaits," mentions the area's many attractions, from the Novi Expo Center and Twelve Oaks Mall to the 19th-century downtowns of Northville and Plymouth.

The Great Harvest Bread Company on Main Street in Northville, and Guernsey Farms Dairy on Novi's border near Northville are just some of the highlights.

Also featured is Vic's World Class Market in Novi where "Sunday brunches are tops." A list of upcoming events, a glossy color photo of the Motorsports Hall of Fame and a review of local golf courses round out the description.

The piece also includes a toll-free reservation line from which callers can get information about hotel accommodations and attractions," Habalewsky said.

The district advertorial, paid for by the MDCVB, is a first for the MDCVB and is part of a larger bureau program launched Jan. 1 of this year.

"Our goal is to increase visitors from outside the metropolitan Detroit area," Habalewsky commented. Those travelers include everyone from tourists, associations, conventions and more, he explained.

How will the MDCVB track the success of this program?

"By the number of calls we get via the toll-free line," said Habalewsky, who believes the advertorial also will draw metro Detroiters who are not booking overnight reservations.

School officials to discuss bond proposal

Voters will have plenty of opportunities to get answers to their questions about the Northville Public Schools bond election scheduled for Monday, June 9.

Superintendent Dr. Leonard R. Rezmierski has scheduled seven district-wide opportunities for voters to gather facts. A town meeting, two coffees, and three tours of Northville High School are scheduled throughout May during day-time and evening hours.

Northville Board of Education members will meet with interested citizens at a town meeting on Tuesday, May 27. The meeting begins at 7 p.m. and will include a brief explanation of the critical needs which prompted elected officials to schedule the election. Then the meeting will be open for questions from voters.

On May 8, 14, and 20, buses will depart from the parking lot behind the board of education offices for tours of Northville High School. Participants will board the buses at 11 a.m. and return by 1 p.m. Building and district administrators will guide citizens through the high school, providing opportunities for them to examine the building and ask questions about the June 9 ballot issue.

Those who would like to be included in one of the tours should call the office of Administrative Services at 344-8441.

Two local cafes will be the gathering places for informal question-and-answer sessions with Dr. Rezmierski, a board of education member and a building administrator. On Tuesday, May 13, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., school district representatives will join citizens at Caffé Bravo. Another coffee klatsch is scheduled to take place at Tuscan Cafe on Thursday, May 22, from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

Even voters who can't find time to come to a meeting can have their bond election questions answered. All they have to do is call the newly established Northville public schools hotline. Callers who record a question on the hotline will be contacted within 24 hours. The number is 349-8400. This service will be continued after the June 9 bond election.

Registration deadline approaches for June vote

Northville School District residents are reminded that the last day to register to vote in the June 9 school election is May 12.

Residents can register to vote either at Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main, Northville Township Hall, 41600 Six Mile, or at any Michigan Secretary of State office.

Mail-in registration forms are also available in the front offices of all eight school district buildings.

On the ballot June 9 will be a proposal to sell $61.5 million in construction bonds. Voter approval would enable the school district to construct a new high school, convert the existing high school into a middle school and use Cooke Middle School to house special education students.

The proposal also calls for major renovations at the other district buildings and more than $5 million in technology purchases.

Also at stake June 9 is one seat on the Northville Board of Education. Public school teacher Judy Handley is running unopposed for the four-year term.

Schools need poll workers

The Northville Public School District is seeking people to serve as election workers for the upcoming June 9 bond election.

According to district Finance Director John Street, 10 spots need to be filled by May 16.

The positions pay $90 for the entire day and no election experience is necessary.

Training will be provided to volunteers.

Those interested in helping out can contact Street at 344-8444.

Law introduces pain management bills

Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, has introduced six bills on pain management. The bills define "intractable pain," expand a state panel of pain symptom management, and define what health providers must provide, "including a full-time medical director certified in pain management."

Health insurers will be required to state that they do (or don't) provide coverage for pain management. Reps. Penny Crissman and Kirk Profit are co-sponsors.

Change the batteries in your smoke detector

Change the batteries in your smoke detector before the old ones run out. That way, your smoke detectors can warn you and your family to escape in the event of a fire.

Follow these tips to keep your smoke detectors in top working shape:

- Test your smoke detectors monthly and put in new batteries at least once a year;
- Vacuum over and around detectors to keep them free from dust and debris.

When it comes to smoke detectors, a little change makes all the difference.

IN STITCHES?

Runners who frequently fall victim to side stitches may be interested to know that this pain is nothing more than a spasm in the diaphragm, the muscle between the chest and abdomen. A stitch results from the muscle's need for more oxygen because expanded lungs and a contracted abdomen are blocking normal blood flow. This lack of oxygen allows lactic acid (a by-product of working muscles) to accumulate and initiate the spasm. Anyone who has experienced this confluence of factors will tell you that the best strategy for dealing with stitches is to prevent them. Those who experience side stitches on a regular basis should engage in stretching and deep breathing. Aside from stretching all the muscles that are obviously involved in running, those around the rib cage should also be attended to.

RECORD OPINION

Our Opinion

Township pushing too hard on D.A.R.E.

Where did all this talk about the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program come from all of a sudden?

We agree that the D.A.R.E. program is a valuable one and we're not saying we don't think the Northville school system should incorporate it into its curriculum.

But members of the Northville Township Board of Trustees seem to have gotten religion where D.A.R.E. is concerned and are asking school officials to drop everything and adopt it - now.

With the best of intentions, township officials are urging the school administration to abandon its usual review process and give its full weight and support to a D.A.R.E. grant the township is seeking. Without the formal support of the local district, the grant has no chance of gaining approval.

The problem is that school district support has to be obtained by mid-July for the grant to be considered, but it normally takes over a year to implement major curriculum changes in the school system.

At a meeting April 30, members of the township board, who were presumptuous enough to apply for the grant without consulting the school district in the first place, acted dumbstruck when Assistant Superintendent Bob Sornson told them these things take time. There are studies that have to be completed, Sornson pointed out, decisions that must be made.

The fact is that there are only so many hours in the school day. If a D.A.R.E. class were to be inserted into the curriculum then something else, unavoidably, would have to be taken out to make room for it.

Which upper-L course of instruction do you drop? Art, phys ed, foreign language? Clearly, the decision would be a tough one.

But can't you just, we don't know, pick something, and quickly? township board members seemed to ask. Time's getting short.

We certainly don't question the motivation of the township in pressing for adoption of D.A.R.E. By all accounts, this is a valid program that can help provide basic education on one of the strongest temptations youngsters face in our culture. But isn't it a case of putting the cart before the horse when you apply for a grant first and only later consult the people it would affect the most?

A citizen groundswell back in 1993 compelled the school administration and the Northville Board of Education to consider implementing the D.A.R.E. program at that time. After some review, school officials concluded that the local district is already providing sufficient drug instruction through the mandated Michigan Comprehensive Health Model. There was no need to implement yet another anti-drug effort for the schools, they decided.

Two Northville-community police officers have since become certified D.A.R.E. instructors, and teach classes to youths in local private schools.

Since 1993, two Alcohol and Other Drug surveys at Northville High School have shown that local students, despite high academic achievement rates, abuse drugs at levels exceeding national norms. Clearly this is a serious problem and there is cause for concern.

We tend to think that yet another anti-drug program would not be enough to stem the tide of youth drug abuse. A far more effective device would be greater parental oversight of children's recreational activities, with a decided emphasis on adult role modeling.

But the adoption of a D.A.R.E. program for the public schools is something that should be examined more closely. By now, there must be at least some preliminary data that can shed light on the effectiveness of the program. Why not initiate a formal procedure or appoint a committee to examine the issue? It can't hurt, especially since no other approach seems to be working very well.

But first things first. No one, however well meaning, has a right to expect or even hope for instant results.

Streak is amazing achievement

Northville High School senior Keith Morency is about to do something truly incredible.

Lee Snider

Come June 4 Keith will graduate from the public school system without having missed even one day of school during his entire K-12 career.

Not one absence due to illness, family vacation, skipping or just plain laziness. Unbelievable.

I remember how many times I got sick when I was a kid. Aside from the usual run of diseases every young person got back then, I was susceptible to countless colds, upset stomachs and fevers. There were long days when I lay in bed feeling like I was burning up from an elevated body temperature. It happened so often my mother still refers to Wednesday as my weekly fever day.

Then there were the really fun illnesses like the mumps, the measles and the chicken pox. I swear, sometimes I'd look at myself in the mirror and see something I barely recognized as human.

And, of course, there were the times that I'd fake being sick just to stay home for a day. I did this once or twice a year as a reward for all those endless weeks of dutifully plopping myself down at my desk in front of Barbara Dowling, who liked to falsify my answers on the assignments I passed to her when we'd have our "neighbors" correct our work.

Then came senior high school and ... well, let's just say I didn't always make it to the bus stop on time.

I think people underrate longevity streaks. When Cal Ripken of the Baltimore Orioles broke Lou Gehrig's record of appearing in more than 2,000 consecutive games, some people shrugged their shoulders and said, "so?" He's just showing up for work everyday, what's so remarkable about that?

What those people don't realize is that it takes an extraordinary amount of dedication to do something - anything - day in and day out without letting up. Motivation is a tricky thing. It occurs naturally in spurts, but it takes tremendous will power to sustain it over long periods of time.

Longevity record setters are almost always achievers because the very qualities that contribute to endurance lead to success in other areas as well.

Cal Ripkin is no mediocre athlete, otherwise he wouldn't have played in every one of his team's baseball games for more than 13 years.

And Keith Morency is no ordinary student. Besides going to great lengths to avoid catching viruses from other members of the family, the youth is an excellent student with a fine 3.6 grade point average.

Just one word of advice, though. Take senior skip day off, Keith. We promise it won't count against you.

Get involved, get out and vote

We'd like to remind residents of the Northville Public School District that the deadline to register to vote in the June 9 school election is fast approaching.

May 12 is the last day you can sign up to participate in the election.

On the ballot will be a $61.5 million board issue supporters say is needed to provide financing for a new high school and other major building renovations.

Whatever your view, we hope to see a high participation rate in the election. An involved, well-informed electorate stands at the core of any democracy.

No two people think quite the same

Don't say you weren't warned.

A familiar food causes death, disease and psychological ailments, and I'm here to tell you about it. I'm talking about the tomato, the innocent-looking tomato. It is a killer.

Here are the facts: 98.5 percent of people with cancer eat tomatoes. Over 99 percent of all convicts eat tomatoes. Some 97.9 percent of people in mental hospitals eat tomatoes.

If this doesn't convince you of the extreme danger of eating tomatoes, consider this: All people born before 1935 who eat tomatoes are showing marked deterioration in their health. Their eye sight is going, and they suffer from hair loss, hearing loss and general physical decline. And here's something else: Everyone born before 1865 who ate tomatoes is now dead.

Now, if you're still not convinced, I challenge you to duplicate an experiment. Fill two jars, one with water and one with tomato juice. Put a gold fish in each jar. You will find that the fish in the water will continue to swim happily, but the one in the tomato juice will die. Convincing proof of the dangers of tomatoes, right?

I heard this story somewhere several years ago and I told a version of it to my ninth grade composition class to make a point.

"Why are you laughing?" I asked. With this opening, they took the story apart and learned the importance of looking carefully at evidence before forming or accepting a conclusion.

I did what I set out to do, I "taught" them something without telling them. They learned from their own analyses and their compositions will be better for it.

A master teacher at work. Or so I thought. An irate parent phoned that evening.

Irate Parent: "What's this nonsense about the dangers of eating tomatoes? Jennifer won't eat anything with tomatoes in it because you said eating tomatoes was dangerous."

Me: "Oh, this is a misunderstanding, like the cat that gets burned by jumping on a hot stove. It will never jump on a hot stove again. Nor will it jump on a cold one. You see, I'm hoping my students learn from the story and learn the correct lesson."

Irate Parent: "What are you talking about?"

Me: "My tomato story was to get my students to think. I want my students to understand the importance of examining facts before drawing a conclusion. The cat story was to illustrate another point, that I hope they learn the lesson I'm trying to teach, and not a wrong one."

Irate Parent: "Then why didn't you say so? There's no need to scare kids about tomatoes and no need to babble on about cats on a hot stove. They have nothing to do with anything. Just tell them what they have to know."

I learned that day never to assume that all students think alike. Irate Parent and her child are concrete-sequential thinkers. They need to hear it spelled out, word for word. Forget the stories, the imagery, the abstract, the random. For them a carefully stated explanation must follow an analogy, for instance.

There's nothing wrong with being a concrete-sequential thinker, by the way. I am much more a concrete-sequential thinker than a random-abstract one.

So, will someone please explain again to me why it's really safe to eat tomatoes?

Honors students should get recognition

Is an "H" really the issue? That's "H" as in "Honors" English, the subject of public debate at the April 28, board of education meeting.

Sorry, Bob Jackson, but you missed the heart of the issue in your report and editorial in The Record.

The core issue is not whether an "H" appears on a student's transcript, but whether each student is provided challenging academic classes at his or her level. The debate, really, is about how to best meet the needs of high-ability students. Based on research and experience, many parents and educators believe that "one size" does not "fit all" in education. Students need choices among levels of curricula.

Currently, Northville High School offers an enriched English 9 (honors) class which is a creative, challenging course. The board of education has already made a commitment to provide such honors and advanced placement courses at the high school level.

The English Department can still make changes in the curriculum—that's not the issue. New books can be ordered, team teaching can be the norm, and the regular curriculum can be "beefed up," while still offering separate honors sections. Those sections could use the same basic textbook, while offering different supplemental materials as well as a faster pace of learning.

Should students who do higher level work receive an "H" designation? Sure, not because it matters (or doesn't) to Harvard, but because it recognizes and rewards student achievement.

Susan Mihalik

Columnist's criticism unfair

To the editor:

Neither the article nor editorial in the May 1 edition by Bob Jackson really gave an accurate picture of what happened at the board of education meeting concerning the English 9 proposal.

Mr. Jackson's articles failed to mention that the board supported the English staff's selection and recommendation to purchase a new textbook. The board also gave its support to team teaching. Therefore, two of the three requests by the staff were passed by the board. Only dropping the "honors" sections was denied. In the business world, getting two out of three proposals passed isn't bad.

Mr. Jackson's criticism of the board treating the staff in a "disrespectful manner" was unfair. The four board members who did not support the proposed honors English 9 issue recognized the staff's quality effort and gave a detailed explanation as to what they could not presently support in the proposal.

As a parent, I salute the staff's energy in working to develop new curriculum initiatives. I also support the board of education scrutinizing what is to go into effect and insisting that curriculum changes be carried out with the big picture in mind.

Tax dollars used for millage

To the editor:

How do the Northville public schools get away with using taxpayer dollars to promote a millage?

Last fall when Northville Township wanted to issue a publication stating the need for public open space, they were informed by the Michigan Township Association that state law forbids the use of tax monies to promote the millage.

I recently received a letter on yellow stationery from Dr. Rezmierski using the Northville public schools letterhead. Northville public schools return address, Northville public schools bulk mailing permit and a "Hotline" phone number which is the Northville public schools' general administration number. This letter clearly promotes the millage. It did not contain a disclaimer that it was paid for by someone else.

Every taxpayer is paying to promote this millage, whether you support it or not. Are the taxpayers also paying for the advertised bus tours and coffees? This is money not spent to educate our children.

Richard E. Allen

'Small' increase a lot for some

To the editor:

We all received a letter from Leonard Rezmierski, Ph.D., superintendent of Northville schools, explaining the need for a $61 million bond issue.

The part that amuses me is that it only cost $6.03 per week if you live in a house worth $200,000.

If I were making $2,442 gross pay per week, like Leonard is, it wouldn't bother me either. To me, the widow who is getting about $154 per week from Social Security plus a little interest, it is a lot for her.

The widows who purchased a house 35 years ago for about $25,000 and now finds out the assessor thinks it is worth about $200,000, she has problems with it. I guess at my age, 74, you are supposed to sell out and go to what we used to call the funny farm.

The $61 million bond issue isn't what is really bothering me. We are shortly going to be spending 90 percent plus for salaries and benefits. All the high tech equipment will need replacing in a few years and more millage will be needed each year. I see no end for more millage requests in the next few years.

There is no question that more classrooms are needed but building a new high school for 1,800 when you are only over capacity by a few hundred seems like overbuilding to me. I think Plan B should be looked at again.

I think like Professor Walter Williams does, we have been listening to the experts for too long and look at the mess we are in.

I would also feel better if I could read where the students weren't drinking and smoking, didn't dress like bums and act like bums. I would like to see more discipline in the home and school. I would like a majority of the voters deciding the outcome instead of about 22 percent.

I know my wishes won't come true but they are the same wishes that a lot of my old friends have.

Dean H. Lenheiser

Need for new school not proven

To the editor:

There are more factors entering into the needs of the new high school than enrollment. Another factor is high school capacity. It is placed at 1,435 and on 80 percent of the student state formula. Who says this is "optimal" capacity? Many studies show classroom size from 18 to 35 has little or no effect on learning, so increasing classroom size slightly would not hurt learning.

Another factor against a new high school is that it will increase school operating costs significantly. How much? The administration doesn't know. Dropping the 64,000 square foot Cooke and adding the new 372,000 high school will increase costs. There will be a lot more school to clean, heat, etc.

And busing costs may go up too. Very few students will be able to walk to the new high school compared to the present school.

I understand there has been some talk about the costs but no study has been made. It seems the system does not want the public to know about the higher costs. Where is the increased money coming from? They cannot come from higher millages. I expect busing will have to be cut back to the minimum state allowed.

A third factor against the proposed high school is traffic flow. Coming from the north we have busy Beck and hilly Sheldon. These don't look like good roads for school buses. And if busing is cut back, there is going to be a lot more car traffic down Beck and Sheldon too. Are we creating problems?

Well, what about problems with the present high school? Sure this means we need a new school. Parking is not the problem it once was because the swimming club parking lot is being used. Also a new parking lot could be built across the bridge.

Before we do anything on a new high school, we need a good longterm study of our school needs that tries to make maximum use of existing schools. If there is a real need for additional high school space consider enlarging the high school or returning to 9-12 high school, 7-9 junior high (many parents would welcome this change to get their ninth graders out of high school) and K-6 grade system.

The latter would require a new grade school and junior high school which could be added at a lower cost than the present proposal and have greater school capacity.

In conclusion, when you study the reports you find too weak a case for a new high school for the voters to say yes to the $61.5 million bond issue. A new committee with a wider community representation should take another look at the school situation. We all want the best schools for our children, but the school system could be a little considerate of the taxpayers and not always take the most expensive ways. It is important to take the time now to have excellent planning to build our school system right, otherwise we will run out of money and still have a shortage. So for now, let us unite and say no again to a poorly planned new high school.

Drop issue of pregnancy book

To the editor:

I have reviewed Mrs. Colter's book on her pregnancy that she showed to her second grade class at Amerman.

It is written at an appropriate level for the developmental phase of the average 7- to 8-year-old. It does not say anything about how a child gets into or out of a mother's uterus, leaving that to the parents. In its details of fetal development and activity, it answers questions that may well have been unasked, but pondered by her students.

Until pregnant teachers are banned from the classroom we must provide sensitive, developmentally appropriate facts to the children regarding pregnancy. Children at this age are keenly aware of differences in body size and configuration. Their ability to reason abstractly is limited; they solve mysteries using systematic logic based on what they can perceive. What Mrs. Colter's students perceived was her expanding girth.

Children in second grade are typically extremely attached to their teachers. It is not unusual for them to have intense fears regarding separation from the adults in their lives. At the same time, anxiety interferes with a child's ability to learn. Her book comfortably recites the facts in a calm tone. Therefore, Mrs. Colter's book was appropriate, as it could act to decrease their unspoken or poorly articulated concerns for her. I found it to be innocent, accurate and inoffensive.

These are my opinions as a reproductive health educator, certified teacher, population studies expert and senior nursing student. As a mother, I am saddened by the continuing harassment of Mrs. Colter, the Amerman principal and this newspaper by a zealous few who would cause Mrs. Colter to baselessly regret having ever shared this tender-hearted book with the children in her charge. I hope the matter will be dropped from discussion.

Family tech night was great success

To the editor:

I would like to thank the students of Northville High School for the quality time they donated to the children of Moraine Elementary School on the evening of April 24, for our Family Technology Night. It was a great pleasure to witness the enthusiasm and effort these teens demonstrated to enhance young children's learning. Our future looks very bright thanks to such active, concerned young people.

Of course, our joint venture with the high school couldn't have gotten off the ground without the involvement of a superlative group of high school teachers. Maureen Gorshak, Suzanne Omiatek, and Wayne Saunders volunteered their time and expertise to make the evening a wonderful success for parents and students alike.

Barb Fife, Terry Bowler, and co-op students Chris Strand and Ryan Velzy of our Educational Technology Department, also offered a workshop to parents. This informative part of the event included topics such as installing computer hardware and using the Internet.

If you have a chance to go online, please visit our new Moraine website and you, too, will feel the excitement of Family Technology Night. In addition to all this, "The Penguin Post," our collection of Moraine students' writings, got a jump start thanks to the student, teacher and parent volunteers of Family Technology Night.

Last, but certainly not least, I'd like to recognize the efforts of Judy Prain, parent. This project was her "baby." She worked on it from its inception and continues to offer support toward our goal of

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

Coldwell Banker's #1 Agent In The State of Michigan

DO YOU REALLY HAVE TO SEE EVERY HOUSE IN TOWN?

There are two basic types of buyers. The first kind of buyer is the one who thinks that the way a realtor makes house hunting easier is by eliminating all the houses that are either big or too small, too unattractive, too overpriced by unrealistic owners, or houses that are just not what they think their buyer wants. The second group of buyers is terrified that the realtor will miss the absolutely perfect house, and they want to see everything.

You don't really have to see every house on the market if you can establish good communication with the realtor with whom you decide to work. If the realtor encourages feedback and tries hard to listen to what you say and to what you don't say, and you feel he or she truly understands your criteria and will be able to narrow down your choice to the homes which would suit your needs, then there is really only one type of buyer to be.

Rule book won't solve college athletics issue

I've been reflecting on the extraordinary media attention recently given to the University of Michigan basketball program in general and to the decisions made respectively by junior Maurice Taylor to turn pro and by sophomore Robert Traylor not to turn pro.

Phil Power

I come to these reflections both as a U-M Regent and as a sports fan who has been watching the Maize and Blue play football since Bob Chappius and the "Mad Magicians" went undefeated in 1947 and basketball since Cazzie Russell was shooting the lights out at the old Yost Field House.

Certainly we have come to a strange place where games played by college students regularly command 72-point headlines and where a new journalistic sub-specialty—rating recruiting classes in football and basketball—merits regular coverage.

The reason: College sports have become a staple of TV programming. Especially now that professional sports appear to be over-populated by over-paid athletes often in competition for arrogance with over-wealthy owners, the sincerity of young men and women competing for their universities has a terrific emotional appeal that translates into great TV ratings.

Let me be blunt. Sporting events at NCAA Division 1 schools today constitute in too-large part entertainment programming fodder, just as many college sports programs amount to an unpaid farm system for the owners of professional sports teams.

These twin facts lie behind much of evils of big time sports today.

People in university athletic programs have always had a competitive incentive to win. But the incentives have been magnified by the effect of national TV. Winning teams—especially title winners—get watched more than losing teams. And winning on TV has all kinds of useful consequences: happy alumni; increased giving; continued success in recruiting the next generation of talented athletes.

This magnified pressure to win lurks behind the absurdity of today's college athletic environment: The NCAA rule book governing recruitment of student athletes now contains 538 pages! And athletic departments hire folks whose only job is to understand and interpret the exquisitely detailed NCAA rules!

Any rule book with 538 pages has no pages. Moreover, any human activity (excepting, possibly, the U.S. Tax Code) that requires 538 pages of rules is in serious institutional trouble.

Therefore a modest proposal: Scrap the NCAA rule book. Forbid any recruiting contact with high school athletes. Eliminate up-front, full-ride scholarships. Once students are admitted and in good academic standing on campus, allow them to walk on and try out for teams. If they make a team, give them a scholarship.

My second thought has to do with the relationship between college athletes, big money and the pro sports pipeline for talent through the campus.

The hope of big money motivates 18- and 19-year-old kids to quit college. The fact of big money encourages agents and boosters to festoon campuses in ways unrelated to their interest in Shakespeare and differential equations. The unseemly presence of big money potentiates charges of hypocrisy launched at universities, which like to talk about "student athletes" and then use the gate and TV receipts to balance the budget.

Big money has opened the yawning gulf between the purposes of universities—to educate kids—and the ambivalent reality of their athletic programs. Universities have tried for years to bridge the widening gap—most recently with 538 pages of rules—but it's getting tougher.

Frankly, I doubt anybody will ever legislate that kids can't leave college before they get their degrees in order to sign a rich pro contract. But at least some kind of connection between college athletics and university degrees would be established if the teams that sign players before they finish their degrees were to contribute the cost of their scholarships to a revolving fund.

Given the greed of both professional athletes and the owners, I'm not holding my breath.

Breakfasts were well attended

To the editor
The playscape committee appreciates the support we received from the community during the Sunday breakfast buffets at The Raven. Playscape volunteers including Sue Keast, Dons Purvis, Sue Evans, Sue Egan, Sharon Smith, Steve Smith and Ann Kuneman helped serve over 600 buffet breakfasts.

Sixteen hundred eggs are a lot of eggs, just ask June Golen, Julie Fountain, Bob Wierzbicki, Sheri Patrone, Linda Berryman, Lisa Sdao, Jacqueline Ukrop, Carol Peterson, Ken and Ann Acton, or Steve and Sheri D'Anna.

Each Sunday in March and April, volunteers including Barb Bennet, Barb Soyster, Rich and Judy Laut, Sandi Rogers, Dedi Lopez and Kathleen Nelson offered to help greet and serve coffee to our supporters. Also volunteering were Ruth Wright, Scott and Terri Denhoff, Al and Shelly Deane, Terry Allman, Marian Nelson, Anna Zatzough and Jan Christian.

We are still wondering whether the grease came out of Ruth Meja's slacks (from Early Bird Kiwanis) but we most certainly could not have peeled over 450 pounds of potatoes without her and Donna Thompson, Diane Lahiff, Carol and Chris Bernado, Deniz and John Strenski, Kristin Anderson, Lori Golani, Sandy Maston, Denise Johnson, the Seldons, Lynn Manzi and Laurie Deasy.

The Northcutts - Kathy, Sarah and Caitlin - and the Hartshornes - Dee, Katie, Kevin, Harry and Neal - also contributed to the effort that raised over $3,000 from the sale of T-shirts, raffle tickets, breakfasts and picket sales. The Crydermans, Bruce Lentz, Danny and Lori Cort (of Gourmet Express) as well as Wande Altese, Deane Carol, Tony Rigoto, and Don and Sally Rigo all contributed mightily to the breakfast campaign.

One-hundred and ten pounds of bacon practically cooked itself with a little help from Steve Kazerski, Ken Koslowski, Mike Mueller and Garret O'Connell and Adam from The Raven staff.

Many thanks to Tom and Rita Rice for the generous use of their facility. We thank you all for becoming a nucleus of volunteers that will make the children's dreams a reality June 4 through 8.

ACORD (A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity) holds its annual Multicultural Festival at Cooke Middle School on Tuesday, May 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Wendy Washington

Cooke is on Taft Road, just north of Eight Mile.

The event is both entertaining and educational, so mark your calendar and plan to join us. ACORD especially encourages families with school age children to set aside time to come out to experience the various cultures that are representative of the members of our community.

At the door be sure to pick up a passport that will be stamped at each display booth, then check out the book displays, participate in the craft events if you wish, or just meander, sample the food and enjoy the live entertainment.

After you have visited each booth, and have the passport to prove it, you may enter a drawing for the evening's prize, compliments of Al and Connie Qualman. The American booth will have its usual "Popcorn and Coca Cola" contest, with the winner taking home popcorn and pop for a bedtime snack.

Here is a sampling of what you will find at this year's festival: booth displays on Native Americans, African Americans, Mexico, Korea, Greece, West Africa, Teaching Children to be Peacemakers, an American display, Bookstall on the Main books (available for purchase), entertainment by Suzanne Murray's foreign language students, Irish step dancers, songs from around the world sung by Mary Kay Pryce's choir students, piano music, and many crafts and activities going on throughout this event.

If you would like more information on the festival, call Al Qualman (ACORD chairperson) at 349-1343.

Are you concerned that in your community and in school your children do not have much exposure to people of other cultures? It is true that, without intervention, such children will not develop an appreciation of other cultures. Because we are certain that you want your children to thrive when they enter "the real world" of our multicultural society, we stress the need to celebrate diversity. By doing so, your children can grow up rejecting prejudice, hatred, and intolerance - and, just as important, they can learn to be comfortable with curiosity about people who are different, not fearing them.

ACORD suggests this active role you can take with your family - designating certain evenings as cultural nights. Start with a country that has always intrigued you. Prepare dishes native to that country and have each member of the family bring a bit of information to the gathering to share.

The gathering could also include guests, people of different backgrounds who can share their culture. If nearby museums offer exhibits that further explain the cultures you study, consider incorporating field trips into your cultural nights.

Most of all, enjoy the cultural nights. That, above all else, will be the impression left upon your children.

Wendy Washington is a member of ACORD and publishes ACORD's monthly newsletter. For more information on this organization, please call chairperson Al Qualman at 349-1343.

RECORD OUR TOWN

THURSDAY
May 8, 1997

Top and above: Terri can be confused with daughter Cat Waller, a Novi High freshman – quite easily. From their hair styles to smiles, the two look eerily alike.

Mother-daughter look alikes Ruth Ann, right, and Arlie Jirasek pose in their Willowbrook home recently. Ruth Ann Jirasek has four daughters and Arlie looks most like her.

Like Mother Like Daughter

The votes are in for the Mother/Daughter
Look Alike contest

The judging wasn't easy. Selected by the staff at The Northville Record and Novi News, the top three pairs were Terri and Cat Waller, Ann Marie and Angela Ramsey, and Ruth Ann and Arlie Jirasek, all Novi residents. Nine residents responded to our plea for photos of mothers and daughters. Our mothers and daughters say they turn a lot of heads, both within the community and within their own families.

Terri and Cat Waller

It was at a family reunion and Cat Waller was about 8-years-old when the resemblance was first noticed by an aunt who thought that Cat, which is short for Catherine, looked like her maternal grandmother, Donna.

But that's not the only generation experiencing a close family resemblance.

"In the last two or three years, there is no one place we go together that someone doesn't make a comment," Cat's mother, Terri Waller, said. "It's kind of fun. I think she gets a kick out of it."

The likeness goes beyond a purely physical resemblance.

"We were walking up an escalator together and at the exact same time in unison we put the same foot on the same step and looked at each other," Waller said.

A former cross country runner herself, Waller still likes to try to keep up with Cat, who runs cross country. Riding bikes and rollerblading are also common interests.

"Our personalities are incredibly similar," Waller said. "Everything I like I can be pretty sure that she will like and vice versa."

The similarities don't end with Waller and Cat. Cat, a freshman at Novi High School, and her older sister, Emily, a junior, sometimes are also hard to tell apart.

When Waller and Emily were roller blading recently, some boys hollered out of a passing car, "Hi Cat," at Emily.

"I'll see the two of them and get them mixed up at a quick glance," Waller said.

During family discussions, Cat and Waller see it the same way while Emily and her dad are on the same wave length.

Waller couldn't help but notice recently when Cat was getting help from Emily in math.

"I watched her sitting listening to her big sister and, knowing she wasn't catching on a bit, I told both the girls that is exactly what I would do with my dad. It was like a deja vu," Waller said.

Even Waller's husband Mike has to do a double-take occasionally because their voices sound alike.

"It won't be too much longer before the similarities begin to disappear," said Waller, who just turned 40. "I remember looking at pictures of my mother and seeing some similarities. As I got older I wasn't quite as close as Cat and I."

The Wallers also have a 3-year-old son Billy who is just like his dad, according to Waller.

Mike and Waller were classmates since fifth grade but did not date until after high school.

"Mike has fun," Waller said. "It's scary for him, watching her grow up knowing that she is so much like I was and am."

Mike frequently tells his wife of 18 and a half years, "It's like looking in the past except it's in the present."

Barbara Campau, volunteer coordinator for the Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft

College, and Arlene Frank, program coordinator of the Women's Center of Oakland Community College, will discuss center programs. Students Deborah Arndaeng from Schoolcraft and Gayle Lucas from OCC will tell about their experiences and what the scholarship has meant to them.

For reservations, call Diane Rockall at (810) 349-9055.

The Orchard Ridge Campus is located at 27055 Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills.

Marquis hosts fundraiser

The Marquis Theatre has donated 300 specially-priced tickets for the opening night performance of The Shoemaker and the Elves to benefit the Jane and David Meyers family.

The opening night performance is set for Friday, May 9, at 7 p.m. The special $5 discount tickets, which are good for any performance of The Shoemaker and the Elves, may be purchased at either the Marquis Theatre box office, located at 135 E. Main, or the Our Lady of Victory Church at 770 Thayer Street in Northville.

Jane Meyers, a parishioner at OLV, has Lou Gehrig's disease, a terminal illness which attacks the motor neurons that convey the body's messages throughout the body.

The Marquis Theatre asks that you refrain from bringing children under three to the benefit performance.

For more information, call the Marquis Theatre at (810) 349-8110 or Our Lady of Victory Church at (810) 349-2621.

Plant sale date changes

The Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will hold its annual plant auction on Monday, May 12, at noon. Guests are welcome. Members are asked to bring plants from their gardens or white elephant items to auction.

The hostess for the day will be Carol Pappas. The social committee includes chairperson Kathleen Mitchell, and Evelyn Johnson, Charlotte Lenk, Joan Monahan and Tina Sellas.

Look alike contest deadline nears

It's up to the mothers now. Grab that picture of your husband and son and bring it to The Northville Record office right away.

We're looking for pictures of dads and the sons who get told more often than they'd probably like that they're "a chip off the old block." Submit your pictures to us for an upcoming feature story about fathers and sons who look alike.

Submit a picture either with father and son or a separate picture of each to Carol Workens, Northville Record/Novi News, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, MI 48167, by Friday, May 9.

Include your name, address and phone number. Our staff photographer will take a professional black and white picture of the fathers and sons selected for the story. The photograph will be theirs to keep following publication.

If you have information for the In Our Town column, call Carol Workens at 349-1700.

ANN MARIE AND ANGELA RAMSEY

When Angela was born, the resemblance between the newborn and her mother, Ann Marie Ramsey, at the same age was immediately apparent to Ann Marie's mother.

Five-and-a-half years later, people are still commenting on it.

"Almost everybody who looks at us says, 'Oh, you look like carbon copies,'" Ann Marie said.

Ann Marie and her husband, Patrick, also have a 2-and-a-half year old daughter, Sara, who takes after her paternal grandmother, Teresa Rumpitz.

A nurse practitioner in Ann Arbor, Ann Marie is like Angela in that both are athletically built and enjoy the water. Ann Marie was on swim teams while growing up and Angela takes swimming lessons during the summer.

Both prefer to be outside, walking, going to the park and taking bike rides. Angela has just learned to ride a two wheeler without training wheels.

"She is very proficient at it," Ann Marie said.

When indoors, mother and daughter read and sometimes sit together and play computer games, a favorite pastime for Angela.

"We are not big TV people and prefer to read stories in the evening time," Ann Marie said.

Residents of Novi for just a year, the Ramseys previously lived in Northville for five years.

A kindergarten student at Parkview Elementary School in Novi, Angela looks forward to the family's yearly trips to see her maternal grandfather.

RUTH ANN AND ARLIE JIRASEK

When Ruth Ann Jirasek asked her 10-year-old daughter, Arlie, if she minds looking like her mother she replied, "Well, it's OK you know."

But it was Arlie's dad who wasn't at all surprised when he received a phone call from his granddaughter saying they had placed in the newspaper's mother/daughter look alike contest.

"Well, of course," was his reply, according to Ann.

Arlie also knows firsthand what it's like to grow up and see a mirror image of herself everyday.

"My mom's a pretty lady, so I thought this is good. At least I knew what I was going to look like," she commented.

Ann and Arlie also have the same voice and mannerisms and a similar sense of humor.

"Mike will tell you how spooky it is because we are so much alike," Ann said.

When Ann was at lunch with her sister, Mary, recently, she used a phrase like one their mother would use and Mary jokingly picked up the table cloth and asked, "Mom, are you under there?"

"With my mom, I'll know exactly what her response will be to things," Ann said. "I think it's a mom-daughter kind of thing."

Of the Jiraseks' other three daughters, Stephanie and Elizabeth are a strong mix of both of their parents, while Andrea is a lot like her father.

"Arlie is pegged as my daughter from a mile off," Ann said. "Like mother, like daughter is the (phrase) in our house."

Jamie shines at area florist's

By CAROL WORKENS
Staff Writer

There is no official take your pet to work day. Jamie doesn't need one anyway.

Greeting customers is all in a day's work for the 7-year-old golden retriever at Donna and Larry's Flowers on Novi Road.

Owners of the florist shop for 14 years, Donna and Larry Podpora of Dearborn Heights first brought Jamie to work when he was 6-months old.

"He's like a little social butterfly," Donna Podpora said. "He just has that warmth."

"We decided to bring him to the store in the first place because we didn't want to leave him at home," Larry said. "He's the first one ready to go in the morning and leave at night."

"We tried to make the store a little homier," Donna added.

Jamie's personality is low-key and he never runs wild through the store.

"People think he's trained, but he came that way," Larry said.

Florists sometimes work through the night, especially around holidays such as the upcoming Mother's Day. Jamie naps right next to Larry's work bench on one of two cushions in the back room, and is oblivious to the petals and leaves that cover him like a blanket as Larry creates arrangements to fill customers' orders.

"He is a tremendous trooper," Larry said.

When Jamie hears a customer come into the store he picks up a flower that has fallen to the floor in the back room or his Dopey rubber toy and, stepping sprightly, greets the customer in the show-room.

Regular customers have come to know that Jamie never gives those things up, he just brings them to show the customer.

Jamie has a way of sharing information about new customers with Larry. Jamie heads for the back room and in a low, conversational tone tells Larry all about a new customer he has just met. He never "yells," and only barks a few times a year.

"When he knows somebody likes him he shares it with Larry," Donna said.

"This is Jamie's time to shine," Larry said. "We take it for granted because he's here all the time."

Jamie is quite a salesman, too.

"He brings in his own customers here," Larry said. One day a customer called and checked to make sure that he had called the right shop, the one with the golden retriever, before placing his order for a dozen roses.

Some customers come in just to see Jamie, who can recognize certain people by the sound of their voices.

When not at work, Jamie enjoys nature shows on television, according to the Podporas. His favorite program is Lassie.

Vic's marks anniversary with fund-raisers

Vic's World Class Market will be celebrating its second anniversary during the week of May 13-18 with a variety of activities.

First there's "Stogies for Charity" on Tuesday, May 13, from 6-9 p.m.

Proceeds from the $15 per person ticket price will be donated to the Community Living Centers, a residential program for adults with developmental disabilities.

Founded in 1968, the centers serve 150 people with a waiting list of over 100 to provide housing, personal care, transportation, skill training, supervision and job placement.

The evening will include a discussion of the 500-year history of cigar rolling from one of Miami Cigar's most experienced cigar rollers from the Dominican Republic. Included in the ticket price is a hand-rolled Dominican cigar to take home.

Next, there's a silent auction to benefit the Tim Pope Memorial Playstructure.

Sealed bid auction forms are available at Vic's throughout the week. Among the many Detroit Tiger autographed collectible items will be 500 Detroit Tiger tickets as well as an exercise bike and a barbecue grill.

Bidding is over at 5 p.m. Sunday, May 18, and the winners will be announced at 5:30 p.m.

One hundred percent of the proceeds from this auction will go to the construction funding of the playstructure.

Finally, the Detroit Tiger mascot "Paws" will be making a personal appearance to greet all little leaguers in the area on Saturday, May 17 from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m.

Celebrate

Mom

At first we gave Mom handmade cards and dandelion bouquets.

Later, when we earned an allowance, there was a dollar or two to buy something.

And no matter what, Mom always made us feel like it was the greatest gift she ever received.

So why not give her something truly special this year?

You'll find it at the Park...Laurel Park Place.

Monkee takes last train to Northville

James Lee Stanley and Peter Tork will perform at the Raven Gallery Thursday, May 8. If the name Peter Tork sounds familiar it should. He is a former member of the Monkees who has his own solo album, Stranger Things Have Happened, which he co-produced with Stanley.

Stanley has 12 albums to his credit, the most recent being Domino Harvest.

Long-time friends, the duo has produced Two Man Band, a recording with just the two voices and the two guitars of Stanley and Tork. The songs come from the solo efforts of Tork and Stanley.

Each performs solo portions during the show and come together for inspired harmonies.

Stanley, an excellent musician with a dynamic, yet sensitive, voice is also a comedian, a writer and an actor. He has appeared in Star Trek: Deep Space Nine and Born Security Guard.

Peter Tork (left) and James Lee Stanley are scheduled to perform at The Raven Gallery and Acoustic Cafe in Northville on Thursday, May 8.

Tork plays equally diverse songs on keyboard, banjo and guitar during his solo portion. The Raven is located at 145 N.

Crystal, Williams team up for comedic adventure

Jack Lawrence is a successful Los Angeles attorney. He's got a good job, a lovely wife, a nice home, a great car — aside from a limited amount of patience, Jack has pretty much everything he wants.

Dale Putley has been on the brink of despair for so long that he's starting to enjoy the view. A would-be writer scraping out a threadbare existence in San Francisco, Dale is a bundle of neuroses just waiting to unravel. Dale needs something to worry about in life besides himself.

Suddenly, before you can say "romance from the past," Jack Lawrence and Dale Putley, two complete strangers and polar opposites, are sharing a car, pooling their wits and rethinking everything about themselves as they try to track down a teenage runaway that each believes might be his son.

Robin Williams and Billy Crystal, two of America's funniest people, star together for the first time in "Father's Day," a comedy directed by Ivan Reitman and produced by Joel Silver.

The catalyst that brings the two men together is Colette (Nastassja Kinski), a beautiful woman with an interesting past. Seventeen years ago she was having a romance with Jack Lawrence (Billy Crystal). Even though it didn't work out, they parted on good terms.

But suddenly Colette pays Jack a visit. She's been married since they broke up, she says, but her 16-year-old son, Scott (Charlie Hofheimer), has recently run away and she wants Jack to know something — she's not sure but Scott may be his son. She needs Jack's help in finding him.

Jack is stunned. He's also skeptical that the boy could be his. And he doesn't want to cause an upheaval in his well-ordered life for this dubious mission.

So Colette tries again. This time she calls Dale Putley (Robin Williams) in San Francisco with the same confession. Colette and Dale shared a fling at Berkeley, also about 17 years ago. When he receives her news, Dale is thrilled at the very thought of paternity. After imagining a gratifying encounter with his son, he immediately sets out to find Scott.

In the meantime, Jack has been suffering second thoughts. What if he is the boy's dad? While he's on a business trip to San Francisco, he tries checking into Scott's whereabouts. And it's not long before he runs into Dale, following the same trail.

Jack tells that he's looking for his lost son; Dale, amazed by the coincidence, says the same. It isn't long before they discover they're looking for the same lost son.

But somehow, instead of walking away from the entire situation, they team up to locate Scott. On the road, Jack and Dale are the least likely of partners. And the lunatic adventures they're about to encounter will strain their partnership even more.

Scott is sampling the wild life as he trails a rock group around California and tries to cope with the motley group of characters populating his new existence. As the rockers and their entourage move from city to city, Dale and Jack are amazed to find themselves continuing their pursuit, increasingly drawn to this rebellious but basically endearing young man. In the process, they nearly drive each other crazy and come face to face with the elusive meaning of fatherhood.

One of the attractions of "Father's Day" is, of course, the comedic pairing of Crystal and Williams. From every point of view, the movie seemed tailor-made for the two of them.

The story had substance and heart, with meaty parts for both men.

The action contained elements of classic comedy, and the plot dealt with universal conflicts between men and women, parents and children, and boys and girls.

Best of all, the story allowed Crystal and Williams to function as a classic comedy team, moving them forward from their appearances with Whoopi Goldberg on the "Comic Relief" television specials into the realm of sustained narrative comedy.

The film is produced by Joel Silver, whose hits include the "Lethal Weapons" films, the first two "Die Hard" films and "Executive Decision."

The screenplay was developed by renowned comedy writers Lowell Ganz and Babaloo Mandel, whose credits include "City Slickers," "Parenthood" and "A League of Their Own."

Jack (Billy Crystal) tries to talk his way out of a situation to bellhop (Ricky Harris).

ANACONDA
BY DOUG MASON
NORTHVILLE

Imagine the crew of Gilligan's Minnow lost on the Amazon River instead of that tropical isle.

As unlikely a group is on board ship in "Anaconda," ostensibly to find and film a mythic tribe known as the "people of the mist." Crew members include Eric Stoltz, Ice Cube and Jennifer Lopez. Jon Voight later joins these documentary makers as the repellant Paul Sarone, who commandeers the boat and crew to go snake hunting.

This is a formula monster movie — think "Jaws" — which attempts to build suspense and fear by way of a monster stalking human prey. In "Anaconda," as in other films of its type, the cast serves as bait. The monster here is a 40-foot anaconda snake. Unlike "Jaws," this monster movie is NOT suspenseful or frightening. The heart does not pound. The adrenaline does not flow.

The movie is as predictable as the anaconda's choice of food. Only the morally undeserving die. All name stars survive. Not that we care. Eric Stoltz spends most of the movie unconscious. The computer-generated anaconda itself is rubbery in appearance and cartoonish in movement. This is NOT state-of-the-art visual effects.

Unforgivable given the movie magic available in 1997.

Jon Voight provides the film's sole point of interest. His sinister snake hunter Paul Sarone from Paraguay — think a psychotic Desi Arnaz — is a comedic delight. His regurgitated wink is laugh-out-loud funny.

As for the rest of the cast, even movie stars have mortgage payments. And, after all, many a Hollywood career has begun in monster movies — think Steve McQueen in "The Blob."

This B-horror film should have gone straight to video. Rated PG-13, it's really for the 9-14 year old crowd. If you must see it, wait for matinee prices.

SON-IN-LAW
BY HEATHER WADOWSKI
NORTHVILLE

Pauly Shore ("Encino Man,"

"Jury Duty") shines as Crawl, a college student who's the resident advisor at a co-ed dorm. He's spent his whole life in Los Angeles and has no plans to move (or drop out of college) any time soon.

Along comes Rebecca Warner. She's from South Dakota and isn't used to the fast paced L.A. scene. But Crawl takes her in and soon she looks as though she's lived in L.A. her whole life.

And that causes a few problems...when Rebecca comes home for Thanksgiving break (with Crawl) her family doesn't even recognize her. And to make matters worse, Rebecca's boyfriend plans to propose to her. What will she do?

Simply tell everyone Crawl and her are engaged.

The next thing you know, Crawl's moving in. Her family is growing to love him and he's trying to run the farm.

Then, disaster strikes.

Rebecca's ex-boyfriend is jealous of Crawl's newly gained popularity and drugs him. Rebecca finds him the next morning in bed with her high school friend, Tracy (Tiffany-Amber Thessin). The wedding is called off. No problem, right?

Wrong. Rebecca and Crawl really do like each other now. But can true love overcome these odds?

"Son-In-Law" receives a shining five stars out of five. You will laugh until your sides hurt. I suggest you rent it today.

Golfers fall to Central by seven

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

It's one thing when you play poorly and lose. But it's quite another when you play well and still lose.

That was the case for the Mustang golf team April 28. Northville High played well, shooting a 214 at Bogey Lake Golf Club.

Host Walled Lake Central was a bit better, however, and won the match by seven strokes. Coach Trish Murray said the Vikings are a much better team than a year ago.

"They're a team that improved drastically from last year," she added. "They came in with some good scores at the league meet last year. I knew they'd be tough this season."

It was Northville's first conference match. The Mustangs, who host Farmington tomorrow at Tanglewood, are 1-2 overall.

Jennie Church led Northville in the Walled Lake match. The sophomore finished with a round of 51.

Senior Monica Prasad finished with 53 strokes, Katie Kulp a 55 and Sara Church a 57.

Murray believes each of her players will cut their scores by three to four strokes by the end of the season. She said the Mustangs have really been concentrating on chipping and putting in practice.

"We've been playing four or five holes then doing 45 minutes of putting and chipping," Murray commented.

To be competitive, Northville will need all that hard work to pay off. Just a few years ago, Murray

Runners cruise by Walled Lake in WLAA duel

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

For a team that's supposed to be rebuilding, Northville High's women's track team sure is winning a lot.

The Mustangs improved to 4-2 overall Thursday by thrashing conference rival Walled Lake Western 72-56 at home. A 27-5 point advantage in distance events was the difference.

"We controlled all of the (distance) events," coach Chris Cronin said. "That put us in a really good position."

Northville, which faces Canton at home today (3:30 p.m.), is now 3-1 in the Western Lakes conference.

Cronin said his team has performed just about the way he thought it would this season. But, he added, the league hasn't been as strong as he thought it would be.

"There's such a gap between the excellent teams and the rest of the pack," he added.

Canton, Salem and Westland John Glenn are the WLAA's elite teams. The other nine conference schools are more even.

"We've been able to stay a notch above the pack," Cronin said.

Besides dominating distance events against Walled Lake, Northville was able to hold its own in most other events.

Christina Mimikos won the shot put (28-feet 2 1/4-inches), while Jessica Poole was second (27-11). Rachel Gorshak took second in the discus with a throw of 78-1.

"We really seem to be developing some strong throwers," Cronin added. "Gorshak, for example, has nearly doubled her distance in the discus since the start of the year.

Northville won the 3,200-meter relay in 11:35 with Amanda Spradler, Julie Bilyk, Karen Loeffler and Lori Delano. Missy MacRae finished second in the 100-meter hurdles (18.54) and Mimikos was third (18.83).

In the 100-meter dash, Christina Chase was second (13.59) and Jenny Rohlfis placed third (13.8). Northville swept the mile run with Christin Kolarchick (6:15), while Amanda Spradler was second (6:27) and Allison Murphy third (6:27).

Delano took second in the 400-meter dash (1:08.5) and Erin Bahl was third (1:11.9). A time of 54.4 was good for first place in the 300-meter hurdles for Chase and Mimikos was second in 54.6.

In the 800-meter run, Kolarchick was first (2:44). Lauren Metaj was second in the 200-meter dash in 29.4 and Amy Selle was third in 29.5.

Loeffler took first in the 3,200-meter run and Stephanie Flood, placed second in 13:25.

NORTHVILLE 72 MARION 56

The Mustangs faced Marion at home April 29 and won in much the same way they did in the Walled Lake meet.

Northville again dominated distance events. The Mustangs also did very well in several field events. "We camp up big where we are strong," said Cronin.

Mimikos won the shot put (26-10) while Nikki LaLonde was first in the discus (77-6). Northville took first and second in both the high and long jump events.

Kickers tie Huron; fall to Stevenson

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

No matter how hard you try, sometimes things just don't fall into place.

The Mustang soccer team did everything but throw the kitchen sink at Ann Arbor Huron Friday at home. But a great effort by the Hurons' goalie kept the game a 1-1 tie.

"She was a very good goalie," Northville coach Doug Lyon said. "That was their main strength."

The Mustangs peppered Ann Arbor's goal, especially in the first half. But shots were either hitting goal posts, sailing over the net or going right at the Huron keeper.

"It was like she was a magnet for the ball," Lyon said.

It was Northville's first tie of the season. The Mustangs entered play this week with a 6-4-1 overall record and a 5-3 conference mark.

Northville's game Monday with North Farmington was rained out. The Mustangs host Base Line Road rival Novi tomorrow at 7 p.m.

"It should be an excellent game," said Lyon.

As for the Ann Arbor contest, Northville dominated the first half but couldn't score. The Mustangs finally broke through about 10 minutes into the second half.

Brigid Bowdell scored as Lisa Tolsted assisted. Northville kept the lead for just 10 minutes, though.

Huron scored on a fluke play in front of the Mustang net. Ann Arbor lofted a shot in and the ball pinballed around for a few seconds with Northville unable to clear.

The ball finally ended up at the side of the Mustang net where a Huron attacker kicked it in.

Northville pressed the final 20 minutes of the game but couldn't score.

"It was a disappointment," Lyon said of the game.

STEVENSON 3 NORTHVILLE 1

Despite the score, the Mustangs played one of their better games all season against Livonia Stevenson April 30 on the road.

Northville started off in a whole of sorts in the first half. Lyon said a strong wind in Livonia's favor made it very difficult for his team to get any offense going.

The Spartans used that advantage for the half's lone goal. With about 25 minutes gone by, Livonia sent a high shot at Northville's net. The wind helped carry the ball over goalie Meghan Cauzillo and into the net.

Considering the conditions, Lyon was happy to be down just a goal at the half.

Northville got the wind advantage in the second half but it was Stevenson that found the net first by scoring early. Northville dominated the game for the next 20 minutes.

Northville blanks Livonia Franklin 1-0

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Justin Stevenson isn't a flashy pitcher. He doesn't throw 90 miles per hour. His breaking ball doesn't fall off the table.

But somehow, some way, "Bubba" Stevenson gets people out. Friday, the senior right hander tossed a two-hit 1-0 shutout of Livonia Franklin at home.

"He has been outstanding," coach Mickey Newman said. "He has a natural sinker and has been getting a lot of pop ups."

Northville scratched out just three hits. The Mustangs got their lone run in the fifth inning.

Scott Vigh singled and John Rohrhoff walked to start the inning out. Suren Srabian then sacrificed the two runners to second and third with a bunt.

Tim Burke followed with a ground ball to third. The Livonia third baseman fired home, but hit Vigh in the back and the senior scored the game's lone run.

Stevenson's biggest test came in the fifth inning. He walked the bases loaded with one out. But he got two Franklin batters to pop out to end the threat.

"He said after the game he wanted to have a little drama," Newman said of Stevenson.

Vigh pitched the seventh inning to pick up his fourth save.

Northville improved to 5-8 overall and 2-4 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

CENTRAL 5 NORTHVILLE 4

The Mustangs hosted Walled Lake April 30 and trailed from start to finish.

Central scored three runs in the first inning and added a solo home run in the second to take a commanding lead. Newman was proud that the Mustangs made it close.

"We never gave up," he said. "We kept fighting but came up a little short."

Kevin Gilchrist started and took the loss. The 6-foot 3-inch right hander pitched five innings.

"He's starting to pitch better," Newman said.

Northville scored two in the second inning. A pair of groundouts brought home Gilchrist, who had doubled, and Phil Kozdron. Eric Swietlik and Vigh picked up the RBI.

The Mustangs added single runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Gilchrist scored on a wild pitch in the fourth and Kelly Bingley on a similar play in the fifth.

CANTON 6 NORTHVILLE 4

Poor defense cost the Mustangs against Canton April 28 at home.

Down 3-2, Northville allowed three Canton runs in the seventh. Three Mustang errors added fuel to the visitors' rally.

Lori Carbott scored a goal against Walled Lake Western.

Amanda DeKoker finally got her team on the scoreboard about 15 minutes into the half. The Mustangs had several chances to tie the game after her goal, but couldn't.

Livonia got the game's final goal off a direct kick with about 10 minutes remaining.

"It was a very good game," Lyon

Mustangs seventh at Observerland

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Just how competitive was Saturday's Observerland Relays in Livonia?

Let's put it this way, Northville High's four runners in the distance medley each ran their best times of the season. The team was sixth in the event.

"I was shocked at that," coach Dennis Faletti said. "It was a very good meet with a lot of great times."

Northville finished seventh out of 16 schools at the meet. The final results were not in by presstime, but Faletti said Farmington Hills Harrison, Redford Catholic Central and Westland John Glenn were the top three teams.

The team of Luis Guajardo, John Julow, Matt Carroll and Jon Woodsum posted a time of 8:22. Both Julow and Woodsum ran their best times of the year.

"It was a great race," Faletti said.

Tony Clemens was third in the 10-meter dash. He ran a 10.99 after winning the race in the qualifier at 10.9.

In the mile relay, the team of Guajardo, Carroll, Woodsum and Tony Clemens were fourth in 3:32.3 and took fourth. Marshall Knapp, Matt Hare and Carroll teamed up for sixth in the high jump at 16-feet 4-inches.

WESTERN 78 NORTHVILLE 58

The Mustangs traveled to Walled Lake Thursday and had an off day, according to Faletti.

"We didn't run very well," he said.

The coach didn't know exactly why. He thought it might have been a let down after the big meet with Harrison the week before.

Whatever the reason, Northville fell below .500 in the Western Lakes Activities Association at 2-3. The Mustangs are 2-3 in the Western Division.

Unlike past years when a few schools dominated, Faletti said party has hit the league.

"It has really evened out," he said.

Northville can get back to .500 today with a win over Canton. The road meet begins at 5:30.

"The improvement in girls' golf in the last five years has been incredible," Murray said.

PINCKNEY TOURNEY

The Mustangs traveled to Pinckney Friday to play in a best-ball invitational. Northville finished ninth out of 20 teams.

Each school was allowed three teams of two-players. The top two teams' scores then comprised the school's score.

Northville finished with 185 strokes.

Prasad and Becky Rankin combined for a 93. Kulp and Andrea Troschinetz finished with 92 and the duo of Jennie Church and Marie Dingwall totaled 101.

NORTHVILLE 7 WESTERN 0

The Mustangs opened the week April 28 with an easy home victory over Walled Lake.

Northville led 1-0 at halftime then broke through repeatedly in the second half. Lyon said the Warriors were an improved team, though.

"They have a new coach," he said. "She, I think, has done a good job. They were very disciplined and tried to play well."

Bowdell led Northville's attack with three goals. Lori Carbott, Lynsay Huot and Kerri Wasalaski were among those adding scores.

Franklin pounds Mustangs

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A tough season got a little tougher for the Mustang softball team Friday.

Livonia Franklin pounded Northville 16-1 in a game called after five innings due to the state mercy rule. It was the Mustangs' 14th loss in 17 tries.

Coach Karen Baird says her team is staying upbeat despite all the losses.

"They're not giving up," she said. "They seem pretty high spirited."

Baird listed Franklin and Canton as the Western Lakes Activities Association's top two teams. The coach said Livonia does every phase of the game well.

"They're a very veteran team," she added.

Last week was probably the most difficult of the season for Northville in terms of its schedule.

Besides Franklin, the Mustangs face conference powerhouses Walled Lake Central and Canton. Northville also played a double-header with Novi.

Central took the Mustangs to school on April 30 with a 12-2 home victory.

Amanda Rice was one of Northville's few bright spots. The catcher notched two hits and added a run batted in.

innings. The mercy rule is invoked if a team is ahead by 10 runs or more after five innings.

NOVI DOUBLEHEADER

The Mustangs hosted Base Line Road rival Novi and earned a split. Baird was proud to get a victory.

"I felt good about competing with them," she said. "They've done well against some of the best teams in the state."

Novi took the opener 16-6. Northville managed just seven

Northville took the night cap 16-10.

An 11-run first inning was the difference for Northville. Rice, Michelle Menghini and Kellie Reichard each knocked in runs. Erin Tovey smacked a three-run triple in the frame.

Northville put the game on ice in the fifth with three more runs.

MUSTANG NOTES

The Mustangs lost outfielder Christine Connolly in Friday's loss to Livonia Franklin.

One of the Mustangs top hitters, she broke an arm after colliding with Tovey. She'll miss the rest of the season.

"It's going to hurt us big-time," Baird said.

meet season Wednesday at Livonia Franklin.

"I think we can win both of them," Faletti said. "But it's going to come down to whoever runs the best that day. We'll have to perform our best to win."

As for last week's meet with Western, Northville fell behind in the field events and never caught up.

took third with a throw of 43-4 1/2.

The junior took second in the discus with a throw of 134-0. Northville's Ryan Downing won the pole vault by clearing an opening height of 8-0. Eric Retzbach was second, also at 8-0.

In the long jump, Jim Clemens was third at 18-1.

Clemens, who is also one of the team's best sprinters, twisted an ankle in the event and was unable to compete further. Faletti said the injury definitely made a big impact on the meet.

Knapp took second in the high jump by clearing 5-8. The team of Julow, Carroll, Woodsum and Marc Russell won the 3,200-meter relay in 9:15.

Geno Peters finished third in the high hurdles with a time of 16.8. Tony Clemens won the 100-meter dash in 10.9.

Kevin Arbuckle was second in the mile. He ran a 4:52.3.

Northville was second in the 800-meter open race as Woodsum ran a 2:06.2. Carroll was third in the event at 2:07.6.

Tony Clemens was first in the 200-meter race in 22.47 and Linker took second in 24.0.

No shortcuts to getting in shape

Americans are spending over $30 billion a year to lose weight. We search for the answer in books, pills, drinks, the latest diet or magic machine on the infomercial.

Most will not reach their desired goal. The few who do will probably not maintain it.

There are plenty of myths about how to get in shape. Unfortunately, without proper public education on the subject, people are constantly looking for the easy way out, and as long as talented sales people and manufacturers can write a good story, there will always be myths.

The good news is, there are also plenty of truths. Unfortunately, many people don't want to hear them. There is ample hard evidence, substantiated by well constructed studies, that truly follows the laws of human physiology. The trick is assembling the truths and separating the myths.

To begin, the overall goal should be focusing on altering your body composition (between lean muscle and body fat), not just losing weight. There are five key factors that must be addressed to accomplish and maintain your goal, while achieving overall health. Having the perfect measurements does not necessarily make one healthy. Energy level, sleep patterns, stress levels, etc., contribute to overall wellness.

The five areas include:

- Proper food intake - Consume calories that are below an individual's maintenance level. This creates a need to use stored fat for energy (body fat). Age, gender, genetic capabilities, physical activity level, lean body mass, personal lifestyle and fitness goals are all key factors when addressing this area.

- Proper cardiovascular prescription - Cardiovascular activity is needed to mobilize the stored fat in order to help supply the missing below-maintenance calories. However, this creates the need for more nutrients to perform the added exercise. These nutrients must come without the calories because the addition of calories to acquire these nutrients will hinder or halt fat loss.

- Proper food supplementation - This will supply the above maintenance level of nutrients now needed without the calories. This allows the body to use its own stored calories.

- Proper weight training prescription - This will create the need to preserve or increase lean muscle tissue and will be accomplished if all nutrients (food and supplements) and calories (food and body fat) are made available.

- Systematic application - As the body changes and adapts, the prescription must also change. When all variables are properly controlled for the individual, genetic predisposition will determine the rate of change and amount of work needed to make this favorable change.

So remember there is no secret. But if you have a goal and the desire and you apply these five factors, you can have the body you want, feel great and maintain it for life.

Asthma a major public health problem

Asthma is a significant public health problem that affects one in 10 Americans and costs more than $6.2 billion annually in emergency room visits, hospitalization and time lost from work.

Despite the availability of effective treatment, the incidence of asthma is sharply increasing. The number of children with asthma has doubled since 1980, and those experiencing the greatest increase are African Americans in polluted urban areas.

Deaths from this respiratory disorder also are on the rise. In 1976, one person in 100,000 died from asthma. Today that ratio is 3.5 in 100,000. That equals about 15,000 asthma-related deaths a year.

Asthma doesn't have to be fatal, and it doesn't have to keep people from going to work, school or otherwise leading a normal life.

The drugs and other interventions necessary to manage symptoms and prevent recurrent attacks of wheezing and breathlessness aren't new - anti-inflammatory medications and bronchodilators have been around for 20 years. What is new is the idea of patient self-management: teaching asthma sufferers the best way to use these tools and customize their treatment plans to fit their individual needs and lifestyles.

For example, studies have shown that 80 percent of patients don't use their inhalers properly. By teaching and reinforcing the proper techniques, and by simplifying their drug regimen - both in quantity and frequency - patients are more likely to comply with their treatment and enjoy better long-term results.

At the University of Michigan Medical Center's Asthma Airways Clinic, specialists in pulmonary (respiratory) disease, allergy, public health and patient education have developed a self-management program for people with moderate to severe asthma.

During the course of four office visits spaced out over a year, patients learn how to assess their asthma symptoms and, using a customized treatment plan, administer the proper amounts of the right medications. They also learn how to identify and avoid asthma "triggers" such as dust and animal dander by keeping a detailed diary of their symptoms; control panic through the use of biofeedback techniques; recognize when it is appropriate to go to the emergency room; and how to effectively communicate with their primary care doctors who are also considered an integral part of the treatment team.

By having patients participate as partners in their care, we've seen dramatic improvement in their quality of life. One year after completing our self-management program, our patients have been able to reduce their annual hospital stays from five days to one, decrease their emergency room visits from 12 to one, and cut their missed days at work from 80 to 15.

It's not magic, nor is it blinding insight. Self-management means learning to recognize and modify one's exposure to asthma triggers and being able to anticipate problems and head them off before they escalate into full-blown attacks. It means listening to your body talking, then knowing what to do when you hear it.

For more information, call the U-M Asthma Airways Clinic at (313) 998-7207, or U-M Tele-Care, 1-800-742-2300, ext. 5455.

Progressive firms consider quality of life

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Your next home may be in a community that was selected by your employer, and for very different reasons than factors that were considered a few years ago.

In order to attract high-quality workers, major businesses - particularly the newer and more progressive firms - are placing an increasing emphasis on quality of life when researching and selecting a site for their operations.

Now, using new communications technology, business executives have more latitude in selecting communities for their operations. And employees are placing more importance on quality lifestyle for their families when seeking new employment.

"Business leaders today are seeking locations where the quality of life will help them compete for talent," said Dan Malachuk, with the accounting and consulting firm of Arthur Andersen. "Most firms today realize the importance of locating in communities where employees can enjoy a high quality of life, if the location costs are manageable."

The Andersen firm recently concluded a study to determine the "Best Cities for Business."

Copley News Service

The Renken is a spacious, elegant home, designed to meet the needs of couples who like to entertain. It includes 3,609 square feet of living space, with an additional 832 square feet in the combination garage/shop; the latter features a built-in workbench and cabinets to hold tools and materials. There is a darkroom in the garage, allowing for easy unloading of supplies.

Interesting angles abound throughout the house. The vaulted dining room is octagonal and has French doors that open onto the landscaped patio. The parlor is a modified octagon; the rest of the rooms defy classification.

The main gathering spot in the home, the vaulted family room, is quite generous. Sliding glass doors open onto a substantial back patio, where summertime will find you at the barbecue.

The kitchen adjoins the family room and allows the cook to take part in the conversations during family gatherings. Kitchen features include a work island, an eating bar, cook top, built-in ovens, microwave, dishwasher and walk-in pantry.

The utility/hobby room includes a sewing area, pull-down ironing board, trash compactor and space for a freezer. This room is large enough to accommodate the various materials needed for a multitude of crafts.

Guests will have the feeling of home when visiting. The two guest suites are large and private. Guest suite No. 2 has a living area and private entrance. It could be used as an in-law's suite or a college student's area, with access to the rest of the house.

The master suite is nothing short of elegant. Luxury amenities include a walk-through closet, office area and controls for a security system. The master bath features a raised spa tub, oversize shower, twin basins and a vanity for the lady of the house.

Strictly for the BIRDS

Spring's a busy season for gardeners, as they go to work cleaning up left over leaves from the fall, preparing beds, planting flowers and mulching.

It's also a bustling time for birds. Our feathered friends need more energy for territorial defense, courtship, nest building, egg laying and raising their young. Their natural food supplies such as seeds, nuts and berries have been exhausted and most insects still are dormant.

Now's the time for the 63 million Americans who feed backyard birds to give the feeder the once over to make sure it's free from winter grime and debris. After emptying the feeder of any old, caked-on seed, wash the feeder with warm soapy water using a long-handled brush in the hard-to-reach corners. Shaking hot water to which raw rice has been added will also get to those hard-to-reach spots. A 5-percent bleach solution can be used to disinfect the feeder and the perches. Rinse twice and dry thoroughly.

Liz Bonaventura of Novi finds that finches are the most common bird dining on the finch black gold food in the feeder she hangs from the corner of her house beside the squirrels.

The squirrels climb a tree close to her house and jump onto the roof and hop down the rope of the feeder. After they have dined, they jump to the ground and scurry off.

"It took about a week for them to figure out (how to get to the feeder)," she said.

Bonaventura recently added a clear dome to the top of the feeder to discourage squirrels from feasting on the finch food, which is a mixture of Niger thistle seed, sunflower hearts, peanut hearts and millet seed.

Bonaventura estimates that she goes through about 25 pounds of sunflower seeds every month.

Morning doves, blue jays, chickadees and cardinals enjoy the sunflower seeds which are piled high on the kitchen window sill as well as several small heaps on the deck.

Bonaventura has also noticed woodpeckers and robins stopping to feed on the wild berry bushes in the nine-acre conservancy behind the colonial when the flowers are in bloom later in the summer.

Taking the annoying squeaks out of stairways is easy

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. The stairs in our home have developed annoying squeaks, even though they are fully carpeted. Is there any way I can correct this problem without calling in a construction professional?

A. Most stairway squeaks are relatively easy to repair. An understanding of stairway construction is important. Basic components of a staircase are the treads (the flat part where you put your feet down), risers (the portion that elevates the step or tread), and stringers (the sideboards that support the treads and risers). If any of these parts work loose, squeaks develop.

Methods of correcting the problem vary, depending on whether the staircase is closed or open. Sometimes simply lubricating stairs with powdered graphite or talcum powder can correct the problem. Forcefully blow the powder into the joints, especially where the backs of the treads meet the risers.

If that doesn't help, there are other solutions.

Open staircases, like basement stairs, can be repaired from underneath. It's best to work with a helper who can slowly walk up and down the stairs while you watch from below. This way you can identify where the stairs squeak and mark the area with chalk. Often, wedges inserted in the joints during initial construction may have worked loose. These can be replaced or reglued and reset.

Staircases usually have hardwood blocks attached to the joints between the treads and risers. If the blocks are loose, replace or refasten them. Glue each block to both surfaces of the joint.

When the glue has dried, reinforce the block by driving wood screws through the block and into the wood construction of the stairs. This should be done from both directions, i.e., through the block and into the tread and through the block into the riser (pre-drill pilot holes and keep screw ends at least 1/4 inch beneath the surface).

Another method of reinforcing the support of the steps is to use metal brackets instead of blocks, installed under the tread and behind the riser. If the stairs are enclosed on the underside with plaster or drywall, you will have to correct the problem by working from above.

Carpeting must be removed to gain access to the joints between the treads and the risers. Locate the squeaks by walking slowly up and down the stairs, marking the problem areas with chalk.

Treads that are loose at the nose (front of the tread) can be secured with screws or ring-shank flooring nails driven through the tread and into the riser at slight angles to each other. Drill pilot holes first and countersink the screws or nailheads and fill the holes with wood putty.

Loose joints at the rear of the tread can be treated in two ways. One option is to drive small hardwood wedges or shims into the joint crack to force retightening. Dip the wedges in wood glue first, then drive them in with a hammer and block. Trim away the excess when the glue has dried. Another option is to use quarter-round molding. Nail this in place against the tread and the riser. Alternate nailing into both the riser and tread along the length of the molding.

Follow these easy steps to grow your best tomato crop ever

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

Follow this easy system and harvest your best tomato crop ever.

To eat the tastiest tomatoes possible, you have to start your own plants from seed. And best of all, when you start from seeds, you can schedule things so that the transplants are ready for the garden when you want them to be.

Start your seeds about eight weeks before you plan to transplant them outdoors, which, of course, will be when the soil and air temperatures are warm and all danger of frost has passed. Otherwise your little transplants won't grow properly, since they are a warm-weather fruit.

Start seeds in a commercial seed-starting medium where everything is prepared for you - experts advise against using ordinary garden soil because it is not sterilized, and don't ever use soil or plant where tomatoes have been grown in the last couple of years. You don't want any insect or disease build-up, which can easily happen if you don't follow my advice.

TEMPERATURE

For the best germination, keep the temperature of your seed-starting soil around 80 to 85. But once the seeds sprout, turn down the heat to 60 to 75. Give your seedlings all the bright light they can get each day. If you use fluorescent light tubes to grow seedlings, 1 or 2 inches away from the tubes is OK.

PRACTICES

When it's time to plant the tomatoes outdoors, plant them deeply - 3 inches at least. The buried stem will sprout additional roots which will help feed the growing plant.

Feed your transplants well but don't make the fatal mistake of overfeeding. Tomatoes thrive in a soil that's rich in humus; if you add too much nitrogen, you'll get lush foliage and not much fruit. Go easy on the fertilizer.

MULCH AWAY

Mulch can warm or cool your soil, block pesky weeds and retain moisture. You can use straw, leaves (oak is best), pine needles or bark. In short-season areas, don't add mulch until the soil warms up. But if you live in an area with long, hot summers, mulches cool the soil - a big advantage - so pile it on.

STAKING

As for staking, I like the 5-foot wire cages supported by stakes. These are found in most garden centers and can be used year after year, if you put them away properly in the fall. They are designed especially for tomatoes. However, I've found another use for them - they are perfect for dahlias. Try it and you'll see the results. These cages keep the leaves off the ground so you get better results.

PRUNING

Prune your plants, but only do it once! Remove all branches (stems) that form at the base of the plant, except those immediately below the first flower cluster. This will encourage fruiting higher up where tomatoes are easier to pick.

TOMATO TYPES

Determinates. These are bush-type tomatoes that bear most of their crop at one time, usually earlier than indeterminates.

Indeterminates. These are vining-type tomatoes that bear all season long. Plants are larger and need more support than determinates. If you live in the south or in a coastal area, be an early bird and order your tomato seeds in December to get the plants out and producing before the hot, hot days of summer.

Always garden for the area you live in. I can't stress it enough. And be sure you read the seed packets carefully, because they are a fountain of information on how and when to plant.

Attracting birds to your yard birds and other critters year-round since moving into their Roma Ridge home seven years ago.

Not all the emphasis should be on the feeder, though. A clean bird bath is critical to the good health of the birds that use it. Scrub the bird bath with a stiff brush to remove dirt, algae and mineral deposits. A weekly scrubbing is imperative because dirty water can breed diseases which are easily transmitted. Keep the water clean.

Art Porcelain style is similar to handcrafted Irish Belleek

Copley News Service

Q. We recently found the vase in this photo in our mother's home. I can remember seeing it on display when I was a child at least 60 years ago. It is in perfect condition. On the bottom there is the image of a twisted snake and the words "Belleek - Willets."

I am interested in learning more about it and its value.

A. The mark you described was used by Willets Manufacturing Co., Trenton, N.J. Their Belleek porcelain, made from 1879 to 1912, was called Art Porcelain. Stylistically, it was similar to Irish Belleek. Each piece was handcrafted by talented designers and usually marked.

The value of your vase would probably be about $495.

Q. Enclosed is the mark on a small porcelain perfume bottle I've owned about 50 years. It is 3 inches high and has a cork-covered stopper with a glass applicator. The bottle is decorated with delicate multicolored flowers and gold trim.

I would appreciate your comments.

A. Your perfume bottle was made by Carl Thieme Saxonian Porcelain Factory, Dresden, Saxony, Germany. They made a variety of pieces in the style of 18th century Meissen porcelain.

Your early 20th century perfume bottle would probably be worth about $75 to $125.

Q. I have two large Fiesta-ware bowls, each about 8 inches in diameter. One is light green and the other is dark blue. They are marked "Fiesta - Made in U.S.A."

Do my bowls have any value?

A. Homer Laughlin China Co., located in Ohio, introduced their Fiesta-ware line in 1936. Frederick Rhead designed the clean uncluttered shapes in bold colors. A design of concentric circles in relief was the only decorative feature.

Red, ivory, dark blue, light green and yellow were the first colors used. Turquoise was added in 1937. Over the years some of the colors have been replaced or discontinued with new versions added. Your circa 1936 bowls would probably be worth about $50 each.

Q. I am seeking information on five very old porcelain buttons. They are decorated with the face of an 18th century woman, and the scalloped edges are trimmed in gold. Each is marked

"Limoges, France."

Although I have asked an antique dealer about these buttons and looked in several books, I haven't been able to find any information on them. Can you provide any background on my buttons?

A. Porcelain manufacturers in Limoges, France, did make decorative buttons around the turn of the century. Your set of five buttons would probably be worth about $85 to $100.

Q. I purchased a brass-and-wood-lined coal box that was made in England. The height is 11 inches, and the width is 18 inches. It is decorated with an embossed scene on the front of a man on horseback and an English cottage on the lid.

Could you please tell me its age and value?

A. Coal boxes were also called slipper boxes and were popular with American and English families. The boxes were placed next to fireplaces to store kindling wood.

gets more sophisticated, some companies think they can locate wherever their executives choose," Malachuk said. "However, since attracting and retaining a top-flight work force is a priority, many realize they must look at all the key factors like good schools, safe neighborhoods, short commutes and career opportunities for both spouses - not just a CEO's preferences."

The Andersen study focused on four categories - business environment, costs, family lifestyle positives and family lifestyle negatives. It underscored the importance of business location and its effect on performance.

"Where to locate a company and its business units can have broad impact on how well the organization performs," Malachuk said. "The best communities for businesses tend to be areas with strong lifestyle positives, yet large enough to build vital and diverse economies."

Companies facing a location quandary would do well to state simply the work force attributes needed to implement their key strategies, the report stated. An organization with a large number of family-oriented employees, for example, should probably opt for a medium-sized city or smaller metro area. If the company's work force needs a steady stream of younger employees, the amenities of major urban centers may be more desirable, the report noted.

But regardless of specific company needs, selecting a community offering a high-quality lifestyle is vitally important in today's market. And for that reason, buying a home in that type of area is now a particularly good investment. As demand for housing continues to grow in those communities, values will rise.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Highland firm taps potential of magnetic fields

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
Special Writer

Unless you happen to take a long winding drive off Milford Road, north of M-59, you might miss Magnetic Industries Inc. Tucked back into the woodlands near the Beech Tree Farm the company sits on a 15-acre lot. President Keith Rhodes, founded the manufacturing facility in 1981 in Walled Lake with the help of loans from the Small Business Association.

Three and a half years ago, a new 25,000-square-foot, $1.45 million facility was built in Highland, also through the SBA loans. An additional 15,000 square feet was added in 1994 through a third SBA loan for a $1 million.

Rhodes credits the Small Business Association with his success.

"They're helping make the American Dream come true ... I absolutely believe we wouldn't be where we are today if it wasn't for the SBA," Rhodes said.

"And I have to credit the Oakland County Local Development Company, who was instrumental in bringing our business to Highland. The SBA 504 Loan Program provides small- and medium-sized business with long-term financing for the acquisition or construction of fixed assets. Funding of the program is financed by a 10-percent down payment from the company, 40 percent by the SBA and 50 percent by NBD Bank. As you can guess from their name, the company's product line features magnets, but you might not guess their wide variety of uses, or the shapes and sizes offered. We basically sell two types of product, one for the food and feed industry, and industrial conveyers," explains Ed Goodman, Marketing Manager of Magnetic Industries Inc. At last count, the company manufactured approximately 75 different kinds of products, according to him. In the food and feed industry, magnets remove contaminants. These include ferrous or metal materials that can potentially occur during processing. In the grain industry, magnets are used to remove contaminants before they run the product through the mills. This way, it prevents damage to some of the equipment which might happen. With any metal to metal surface, you'll have metal filings it will pick up called fines," Goodman said. The purpose of the magnets are to remove these filings. Grades or specifications for the food and feed industry are particularly stringent, he adds. The magnets used for this purpose must be encased so that no metal contaminants will occur in the food. The conveyor type magnet might be used in recycling, or an industrial sheet metal operation to move heavy sheets of metal, or in cooling baths, to pick up fine shavings after metals are ground. You might think magnets would only work in separating solids, but the company also produces magnets that work in liquid or pneu-matically, by air. One thing we do that none of our other competitors does, would be desktop demonstrations. That's where we go to their company and make a presentation using either video or slides. It shows them what the product can do. We explain what product would work best for their needs," he said. Magnetic Products Inc. also features an on-site laboratory for testing. Customers send in product samples, and the lab then determines which magnet would best suit the potential customer's needs. Many of the magnets produced and sold are made to manufacturer's specifications.

Magnetic Products Inc. will also certify all magnets in use at a particular company, whether manufactured by them or not.

How precise are these instruments?

"Industry standards dictate that we have less than one half of 1 percent magnetic loss over 100 years," Goodman said.

The Highland company distributes products throughout all 50 states, Canada, Mexico and in South America as far as Chile.

"We are breaking into new ground, our next goal is to break into the European market," Goodman said.

Recycling is also a relatively new and potentially lucrative growth area for the company.

Goodman says that Rhodes' knowledge of the business makes him a leader.

"In his business, he's the most knowledgeable and has the most hands on experience with magnets and separation. If you have a problem, he'll give you a solution. I haven't seen him stumped yet,"

Goodman said.

Currently Magnetic Industries, Inc. employs approximately 45 people.

Filing status is a critical decision

Most taxpayers don't put enough thought into determining their filing status. That's a mistake that could cost you extra money in taxes, cautions the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. Your filing status affects certain filing requirements, such as the amount of your standard or itemized deductions, eligibility to claim certain credits and deductions, and your correct tax liability. So, it's important to choose the most appropriate filing status to suit your individual circumstances.

MARRIED TAXPAYERS

If you're married, you and your spouse may choose to file either jointly or separately. In most cases, a joint return will result in a lower tax bill, but there are a number of reasons why you may want to file separate returns instead.

For example, spouses who are no longer living together may choose to keep their financial affairs and their tax bills separate for personal reasons. You might also seriously consider filing separately if you have reason to question the amount of income your spouse is reporting or think he or she may be overstating deductions. When you file jointly, the IRS can hold you personally liable for the full amount due on a return—even if it's your spouse's activities that led to underpayment.

Although there is an innocent spouse rule, which may limit your liabilities in special cases, filing separate returns is an easier way to avoid problems.

Filing separately also may make your itemized deductions worth more, particularly when both spouses have comparable incomes and one spouse has high medical expenses, miscellaneous itemized deductions, or casualty losses. That's because these deductions are subject to an Adjusted Gross Income limitation—that is, only those amounts exceeding certain percentages of AGI are deductible. When you file separate returns, you reduce the AGI on which the deduction is based and, in turn, increase your deduction. Medical expenses, for example, are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 7.5 percent of AGI. So, if you and your spouse file a joint return with a combined income of $100,000, only those medical expenses that exceed $7,500 (7.5 percent of $100,000) are deductible. If, however, you file separately and your income is $40,000, your medical expenses threshold drops to $3,000 (7.5 percent of $40,000).

Bear in mind that if you itemize deductions on a separate return, your spouse must itemize as well. He or she cannot claim the standard deduction. Also, certain tax benefits, such as the earned income credit and the Individual Retirement Account deduction for nonworking spouses, cannot be claimed when you file separately.

UNMARRIED TAXPAYERS

For tax filing purposes, you can qualify for household status if you're unmarried or legally separated as of the end of 1996 and you paid more than half the cost of maintaining your own home, which was also the home for more than half the year of a child, grandchild, parent, or other relative whom you can claim as a dependent. (If the relative is a parent, head of household status can apply if you paid more than half the cost of maintaining your parent's home or the expenses of a facility caring for your parent, and the parent qualifies as a dependent.)

A lower tax rate schedule applies to heads of household versus single filers. However, if you are unmarried or legally separated from your spouse and you are not eligible to file as a head of household or a qualifying widow(er) with a dependent child, you must file as a single taxpayer.

When a spouse dies, the surviving spouse generally is eligible to file a joint return with the deceased spouse for the year in which the spouse died, as long as the surviving spouse did not remarry before the end of the year. A special filing break allows some widows and widowers to file a joint return for two years after a spouse's death. You qualify if during the year you furnished more than half the cost of maintaining a home for a dependent child. After two years of filing as a qualifying widow(er), you may be eligible to file as a head of household if you continue to maintain a home for your dependent child.

CPAs recommend that you carefully evaluate your filing options and estimate your tax liability under each status for which you are qualified to determine which is most advantageous.

Unemployment dropped in the month of March

For the second straight month, unemployment rates in every one of Michigan's 10 major labor markets dropped in March, according to seasonally unadjusted work force data compiled by the Michigan Employment Security Agency.

"Although the unemployment rate declines were rather modest last month, they were declines nonetheless," said Thomas Malek, MESA acting director. "The largest rate drop in March was half a percentage point in the Benton Harbor area, while the smallest decline—one-tenth of a point—occurred in the Upper Peninsula."

Among the major markets, the lowest March jobless rate was 2.9 percent in the Ann Arbor area, and the highest rate was in the U.P., where the rate fell to 9.8 percent.

"As unemployment rates dipped in March, employment levels climbed in eight areas and were unchanged in the remaining two," Malek noted. "Labor force levels in all of the areas showed only negligible changes from February."

Industries reported job gains in March. Employment in construction, retail and services was up, while manufacturing held steady despite losses in the auto industry.

Ferry captains Lee Liebetreu and John Meissner prepare "the Princess" to transport golfers across Lake Walden at the Majestic golf course in Hartland.

Ferry Nice

The Majestic offers golfers pleasure rides to tees

By Cal Hodgson

Sports Editor

Usually when you're playing golf, you want to stay out of the water. That's not necessarily so at The Majestic at Waldenwoods.

The Majestic, located in Hartland, has 27 picturesque holes, 18 of which surround Lake Walden. Players who play 18 holes have the option of starting on hole No. 1, No. 10 or No. 19. The problem: Hole No. 10 is 4 1/2 miles around the lake from the clubhouse. The solution: Use a boat.

The Majestic has started a ferry boat ride for players starting on No. 10. The ferry will take golfers for a pleasure ride across the lake to their first tee. Golfers who end their round on No. 9 also get a ferry boat ride back to the clubhouse. The boat rides started last May and have been extremely popular.

"It has worked out real well," Majestic owner Bill Fountain said. "We've had a lot of people request it."

Playing holes 1-18 plus the nine holes on the north side can take you over 11 miles with 160 feet of elevation change.

"You cover a lot of ground," Fountain said. "Every hole is by itself. You don't see other golfers and people really enjoy that."

Every hole is a treat at The Majestic at Waldenwoods

"Every hole is a treat," Fountain said. "There is not a lot of repetition."

The course plays between 5,000 and 7,000 yards depending on which tees you hit from. The forward tees carry a slope rating of 111, while the back tees have a slope rating of 137.

"That really allows us to cater to a lot of different needs from a beginner to an advanced-type golfer," Fountain said.

The Majestic offers banquet facilities at Waldenwoods on the lake and is also building a house by one of its docks.

Each of the nine holes is a par 36, and each nine is equally challenging and rewarding. Depending on which nine you start on, there are three different ways to play an 18-hole round.

The summer rates for the Majestic are $55 on Monday through Thursday, which includes a cart. The greens fees for Friday, Saturday and Sunday are $50. Twilight rates are $35 and start at 4 p.m. during the spring and 4:30 in the summer.

Playing on a piece of history

By Aaron Michael Korte

Staff Writer

Oh, give me a home where the cattle once roamed, where horses were bred and golfers now play.

You can't play a round at Downing Farms without being reminded of the history that preceded the golf course. Soon golfers will be driving through an old cattle pass to play on the newest part of the course. The pond on hole #17 (where you hope your ball will not land,) that's where livestock and wildlife once drank. After shooting a round, someone can enjoy a meal at The Club House, located in an old horse barn.

The Downing Farm history dates back to 1939, when Burrell Downing bought the property and used it for a dairy farm. In 1963, the cattle were sold in favor of horses. More specifically, Downing Farms became a standard bred horse farm. In 1983, James Downing Sr. decided he wanted to pursue a dream — a dream to open a nine hole golf course. Downing Sr. loved golf and wanted to one day build a course on the Downing property. With that goal in hand, the family sold out of the horse business. In the spring of 1990, construction began on Downing Sr.'s dream. The fall of 1992 marked the opening of the nine hole course that area residents have come to enjoy.

This season will mark another exciting chapter in the Downing history. On July 1st, the course will double in size, opening up a new nine holes bringing the total to 18 for the course.

Chuck Downing, who runs the course with his mother Mary Lou, said the whole experience of seeing the land develop has been very rewarding. "It's been gratifying to see it change from what it used to be," said Downing.

He won't take all the credit though. One man that was very instrumental in the transformation was course architect Harry Bowers. This gentleman is the brains behind famous courses like The Rock on Drummond Island, Pierce Lake in Chelsea and Crooked Tree in Petoskey. He also worked with Raymond Floyd on the Captain's Club in Grand Blanc.

Downing said Bowers has gone way above and beyond the call of duty working on this course. "He was here a lot more often than he needed be," said Downing.

He gives Bowers credit for the finished product, especially considering what he had to work with. "It's easy to make a course challenging when you have length, but with less room it's more difficult," said Downing of the 127 acre course. "He didn't have a large budget to work with either."

The new nine holes will be incorporated with the old nine. The property is split by railroad tracks. For golfers to reach five of the new holes, they'll have to pass under these tracks. They'll use an old converted cattle pass that Burrell Downing used to run cattle through.

The pass will take golfers to what superintendent Mike Fouty believes is the most gorgeous hole on the course, #14. "It's well bunkered and for the average golfer, it will be a good challenge," said Fouty.

Downing believes the par-5 hole #14 will become Downing Farms signature hole. The hole plays about 480 yards and features eight sand bunkers.

Another hole that will become quite popular is the par-4 #17. This hole will play about 290 yards. For golfers to get to the hole they'll have to play around a few large trees and bunkers. After conquering that challenge, a few balls may be lost to the water as golfers will have to find the green that hugs the pond's edge.

One can't leave out hole #6 though. It's probably the most picturesque hole. The short par-3 plays about 130 yards and the green is guarded by a pond and sandtrap. It leaves many golfers going back to their bags to retrieve another ball.

It is these simplistic things that make Downing Farms a special course. It's what Charles Austin, who has worked at the course since it beginning, likes about it best. "It's a tough course for a small course and it's away from the city which makes it more relaxing," said Austin.

The course has an up-north feel to it. Many of the holes play through woods or water and a lot of the new holes have elevation changes that leave the player breathless. It's not uncommon to see a deer or other wildlife on the land.

The finished product will play about 6,000 yards from the blue tees, 5,600 yards from the white tees and about 5,000 yards from the reds. When all is said and done, Downing Farms will carry a par-71 for the course.

Downing said that plans are already in the works for renovation of the old nine. He would like to enlarge the teeing areas and refresh some of the holes. One the luxuries of the new holes is the large greens but they play a lot tougher, he added.

"When the 18 are in, it will be a course that has a lot of challenge to it and it will be affordable to play," said Downing. "I think players are going to come off the course scratching their heads. I think the people are going to be pleased."

Fouty concurs with Downing. "The new nine holes are going to add consistency and give it a new challenge," said Fouty. "There are some very unique holes."

Also new this year is The Club House, Downing Farms new restaurant. The building also holds a piece of the Downing history. It used to be the horse barn for the standard bred horses. One can't tell though from the inside. The Club House has an old-fashioned golf appeal to it and it's a great place to get a bite to eat.

The establishment has a full service bar which includes a whole line of imported and domestic beers. Mike Heslip, who runs the restaurant, says that even though The Club House serves liquor, the focus will be elsewhere. "I want to keep it a restaurant and golf oriented rather than bar oriented," said Heslip.

The menu at The Club House is offers variety. The most popular item is the Big Bertha. This sandwich is 1/2 lb choice beef served with lettuce, tomato and onion. Other popular choices are the Cordon-Bleu Burger and Grilled Breast of Chicken. On Fridays, The Club House has a Cod fish fry.

Downing Farms has so much to offer golfers: wonderful atmosphere, good food and a great game of golf. This is because the Downings have always taken pride in what they do, whether it was raising cattle, breeding horses or creating a challenging place to golf. This is just another part of the family's history and they want to share it with everyone.

A Pointed Question

Modern golfers embrace trend toward spikeless shoes

By Julie Kempainen

Staff Writer

Take a look out on the golf course and you'll find a bunch of men wearing silly pants and golf shoes, right?

Wrong. Times are changing and not only are there more people on the course besides the old men in the silly pants, but traditional golf shoes are on their way out.

In recent years, Michigan golf courses have made the turn towards a spikeless policy. Spikeless, meaning golfers are no longer wearing metal spikes in their shoes and no longer leaving a plethora of holes in the greens.

Milford's Mystic Creek Golf Course is on its way to a totally spikeless golf club. This season the course is running a promotion to spread the word about spikeless golf and a promotion to encourage it, and in 1998 the course will be totally spikeless.

Mystic Creek offers its golfers two Mystic Creek logoed golf balls for playing with soft spikes or no spikes at all.

"It's already showing immediate results," Mystic Creek Managing Partner Jim Dewling said. "The guests here at the club are appreciative that we have rewarded those who are already spikeless and you can see it in the condition of the greens. The greens are in much better shape."

Anyone who has been out on a course in the afternoon can see how rugged the greens become when 50 or so golfers have come through wearing metal spikes. Dewling said the greens remain smooth for putters with the soft spikes.

"This has been a very positive public relations tool for us and it's paying dividends in better course conditions and green conditions," Dewling said. "The traditional steel spike seems to either rip the surface or to indent and raise the surface, creating bumps and unfair conditions for the players. With a spikeless policy, the putting surface can be maintained with a smooth surface and last all year long."

The course will make soft spikes mandatory in 1998 and saw this season's promotion as a transition.

"To do it all in one sweep would be a little too difficult as far as the general golfing public is concerned," Dewling said. "In increasing numbers our golfers are coming out spikeless, but it's very difficult in the public sector to get the word out. We are rewarding people this year and moving to a totally spikeless policy in 1998."

Bill Jayne, head golf professional at the new Coyote Golf Club in Lyon Township, would like to turn his course into a spikeless facility, but is hesitant because of the limited means of reaching the public sector.

"We are going to go spikeless, but we haven't decided when," Jayne said. "From a golf course stand point, we would love to have a spikeless course. The negative is being a new facility, people are coming to us every single day, not knowing the rules and our policies."

On a good day, Coyote will see more than 250 golfers and in order to maintain a spikeless policy, the course would have to hire someone to remove and replace golfer's spikes.

Though the course doesn't have definite place to go totally spikeless, Coyote is doing what it can to promote soft spikes.

When the course opened last season, Jayne ordered a huge amount of soft spikes and left them on the counter, selling them at cost, for just 10 cents each. The course sold 15,000 spikes last year and Jayne is doing the same thing this year.

"Everyone was realizing that we were selling them at cost to promote them," Jayne said. "It really worked out as a great situation, promoting their use and the golfers appreciated it. What we need to do is inform the public. This is our first full season and this would be the time to put up notices about going spikeless. In a few years every golf course is going to go spikeless. It's just a matter of time."

Dewling estimated that 30 percent of the private sector was now totally spikeless and that nationally, some 2,000 clubs have gone to soft spike policies.

In 1996, the Golf Association of Michigan found that 48 percent of the approximately 287 public golf courses belonging to the GAM were promoting non-metal spikes. Only 2 percent of the public courses in the study required the use of soft spikes.

In the same study, the GAM found that of its 100 private courses, 88 percent promote the use of soft spikes and 48 percent require the use of the non-metal spikes.

Michigan PGA Tournament Supervisor Kevin Helm said that although national PGA events are not required to be spikeless, the Michigan PGA has gone spikeless this season.

"In the Senior Tour, quite a few players have made the decision to do it, but it's not a policy of theirs," Helm said. "But, just this year we made it mandatory for all of our section events."

Helm said the first event to go spikeless occurred in 1995. "Only a couple of courses did it, but it kind of snowballed over the last two or three years."

Soft spikes can be purchased in most pro shops and sporting good stores. At Mystic Creek, if a customer purchases a pair of golf shoes, the pro shop offers a complimentary pair of soft spikes with the shoes.

Futures Golf Classic coming to South Lyon in June

By SCOTT DANIEL

Sports Editor

Professional golf is coming to South Lyon this summer.

Cattails Golf Club will host the MedHealth Wellness Centers Futures Golf Classic June 27-29. The three-day tournament, which will feature 120 of the nation's best female professionals, will benefit Our Lady of Providence Center in Northville Township.

According to MedHealth President and CEO Jack Moores, the tournament will become an annual event.

"We are committed to this tournament," he commented. "My goal is to raise $500,000 within five years."

Shelley Sanders, a Futures Professional Golf Tour veteran, is looking forward to competing at Cattails.

"It's in better shape than most of the courses we play," she said. "It's a target golf course with a lot of trouble. The tour will be thrilled to play here."

Putting the tournament together has been a major undertaking for Moores and MedHealth over the past few months.

Originally, the event was going to be a professional-amateur outing this year. Moores said he was working toward bring a Futures tournament to Cattails in 1998.

But a tour event was canceled about two months ago leaving a gap in late June. Moores snapped at the opportunity of getting the Futures tour in town a year ahead of schedule.

Since then, the logistics of the tournament has come together quickly.

Moores said he has received excellent support from the business community in terms of sponsorship. Still, he added, it's been a lot of work.

"This is a major thing to put together in four months," Moores said.

The CEO hopes to raise about $30,000 for Our Lady of Providence Center this year.

MedHealth, which is based in Plymouth and specializes in orthopedics, cardiology, physical therapy, sports medicine rehabilitation and wellness programs, has been involved with the Northville Township facility for several years.

Our Lady of Providence provides residential, educational and vocational opportunities for about 60 developmentally disabled children and women. After touring the facility a few years ago, Moores decided to get involved and help raise funds.

"My heart just went out to them," he said.

While monies raised from the tournament will go to help the Center, golf fans can look forward to an excellent tournament in late June.

The Futures Professional Golf Tour is the primary developmental tour for the LPGA. Since its beginning in the early 1980s, more than 100 Futures players have graduated to the LPGA.

Sanders, of Florida, first joined the Futures tour in 1988. A winner of six events, the Pennsylvania native is the tour's second all-time leading money winner.

She played on the LPGA tour in 1990 after surviving qualifying school. Sanders didn't fare as well on that tour, but had a great time anyway.

"It was a wonderful experience," she said. "The tournaments are highly professional and you compete against the best players in the world."

Sanders returned to the Futures Tour in 1991 and stayed through the 1995 season. She took last year off to work on teaching golf professionally.

Now she's committed to playing full time on the Futures tour again this summer. She has dreams of getting back to the LPGA some day.

"You're really not out there for the money," Sanders said of the Futures tour. "You're out there for the experience and to get into the qualifying school."

BEACH BILLIARDS

In 1922, a Swiss cabinet maker by the name of Gus Adams began working for the J.M. Brunswick Company. For the next 25 years Mr. Adams learned the ins and outs of the pool table industry as he moved up through the ranks of Brunswick. In the late 1940's, Mr. Adams assumed ownership of a West coast Brunswick franchise which ultimately led to the birth of his own manufacturing company in 1964.

Thirty years later the craftsman's tradition of Gus Adams continues on at Beach Manufacturing Company. Through the leadership of his grandson and president Tim Flathers, the vision of traditional Swiss "hand-made" quality flourishes now as it did at the hand of Mr. Adams over 72 years ago. beach has gained a national reputation for outstanding quality in the manufacture of its pool tables, gamesets, game chairs and barstools. With a meticulous attention to detail and an emphasis on traditional production methods, Beach is a class above throughout the gameroom product industry.

Today, the saying "you get what you pay for" is especially true. You can see and test the benchmark quality of Beach products for yourself on display at all of Billy Bob's locations. Billy Bob's realizes that quality is priority when it comes to outfitting any gameroom; that's why Billy Bob's carries Beach. After all, you get what you pay for, so why settle for second best?

MONTGOMERY WARD GUARANTEED PRICE PROTECTION

We'll match any store's current advertised price at time of your Montgomery Ward merchandise purchase! If you find a lower advertised price at any other store, within 30 days after purchase, we'll cheerfully refund the difference. Simply bring in the ad and your Montgomery Ward receipt. In Electric Avenue, Auto Express and for other specific items identified in our advertising and/or in our stores, we'll beat our competitor's price by creating or refunding 110% of the difference—and during special events, for specified items, even greater amounts, up to 150%!

Details: Guarantees of 110% or more refer to our price as compared with a competitor's price, not compared with our own price at a later date. In the Electronics department, the competitor's product must have the same manufacturer's model number as our product. In other areas we will match the price on the same name brand item even if model numbers are different, if shown on our comparable model charts. On many items we will also match our private label item with our competitor's comparable name brand or private label items. Our sales associates in the Appliance department, Auto Express, Rooms & More and our Seasonal Shops have comparable model charts of matchable items. Price matching policy does not apply when on additional Bonus/Free Item is part of our purchase price, to items with special financing programs or to sales of floor samples, one-of-a-kind, damaged or clearance goods, closeouts, limited quantities, special order items, manufacturer's rebates, services, sales by other than local stocking retailers or merchandise sold in mail order catalogs.

NO PAYMENT TIL NOVEMBER 1997

FINANCE CHARGES APPLY DURING THE DEFERRED PERIOD.
Offer good through May 31, 1997 on Montgomery Ward retail credit card purchases of $150 or more on all fine jewelry and made-to-measure window fashions. See APR credit details at left.
