

Township approves higher water, sewer rates

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you live in Northville Township you'll soon pay more for water and sewer service.

The township board of trustees last week agreed to hike water and sewer rates for all customers on the recommendation of Finance Director Thelma Kubitskey and Bill Anderson, director of the department of public services.

They based their advice on projected increased prices for water from the City of Detroit and the rising cost of sewage disposal.

Another factor is the projected population increase in the township due to ongoing home development, reflected by this year's community census results, which showed a net increase of more than 17 percent since the 1990 U.S. Census was taken.

Going up as well is the capital connection fee property owners will pay from now on to connect into existing township water and sewer lines.

The increases take effect after meter readings performed in late September and include:

- A rise in basic water service rate from $2.20 per 1,000 gallons to $2.28. That's a 3.6 percent increase.
- A jump in basic sewer service, both metered and non-metered. The rate increases from $2.03 per 1,000 gallons to $2.19, a 7.9 percent hike.

The bimonthly rate charged to "flat-rate" sewer customers will increase from $50.75 to $54.75.

• Capital connection fees: water connections will increase from $2,000 to $2,100 per living unit (a 5 percent increase). Sewer connections will now cost $7,000 per living unit, up from $5,000 (a 40 percent hike).

Sewer capital connection fees will go up from $5,000 to $7,000 per living unit (a 40 percent hike).

In his memorandum to township officials outlining the increases, Anderson said it is likely that water and sewer fees will continue to increase in the coming years, averaging higher rates of 3.5 percent for water and 8 percent for sewer annually.

Mining operation given the go-ahead

By RANDY COBLE

A strip mine's on its way to the west end of town.

Members of Northville Township's board of trustees on Tuesday night (Aug. 19) gave a thumbs up to a plan for a sand and gravel mine on land located off of Ridge Road south of Six Mile. The lafrate Construction Company will use materials gathered from the site on its own projects and will sell sand and gravel to other building firms.

While the mine is expected to operate for as long as a decade, just when shovels will go into the ground isn't set yet. The lafrate Construction Company's development plan is now in the hands of the township planning and engineering specialists, who will huddle with lafrate representatives to resolve a list of concerns about the plan for the 176-acre site.

Tuesday's vote was a benchmark in a six-year struggle over the mine site which involved both lafrate and the construction firm that formerly owned the site. Both firms participated in a lawsuit against the township after a plan including the mine and an asphalt processing plant was denied in 1991.

lafrate dropped that lawsuit early last year in an effort to work out a compromise with township officials. Perhaps the biggest change resulting from that has been the elimination of the asphalt plant from the site plan.

Among the key issues township and lafrate planners will negotiate over in coming weeks are:

- The effect of the mining operation on people living nearby. The Details of OLV proposal unveiled

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The wraps have come off expansion plans for Our Lady of Victory.

The Roman Catholic Church, located on Thayer Boulevard, wants to add a half-dozen classrooms to its school, a gymnasium and a new parking lot on land it owns at the corner of Main Street and Orchard Drive.

Parking - or the lack thereof, to be exact - will be the key hurdle for the plan to overcome in gaining approval from the City of Northville. Local ordinances call for the expanded OLV site to include 484 parking spaces. The plan provides just 300.

That gap is why members of the city planning commission on Tuesday night (Aug. 19) voted to reject OLV's request for a green light on its plan. The move is just procedural: by denying the plans the commissioners allowed the church to legally appeal its case to the city's Board of Zoning Appeals (BZA).

That board will decide whether to grant OLV a variance from the parking space ordinance requirements. Without it, it's unlikely that the plan can win city approval.

Almost 100 people packed the Northville Community Center on Tuesday to attend the commission meeting and gain a firsthand look at the long-rumored expansion proposal. It includes the following elements:

- A 93,400 square foot, 166-car parking lot on the wooded parcel at the corner of Main and Orchard. A plan for a 187-space lot was presented to the commission in the fall of 1996, then withdrawn and reworked into its present form following comments from city officials and nearby residents.

A garage would be added to the rectory home there now, which would remain as is.

- A $2.7 million, 33,600 square-foot addition in two sections to the 3.4 acre OLV site.

• The worship center of the church will not be changed but the school next to it will be. An addition would be constructed on the south end of the building to house six new classrooms. The structure would be two stories but built partially below grade for a height above ground of about 26 feet.

• Along the eastern edge of the OLV property line would be a gym with a standard-size basketball court, meeting rooms built on a floor underneath it. The building would be 30 feet high at its highest point. Along the eastern property border would be a retaining wall ranging in height from eight to 18 feet.

• An old convent building in the southeast corner of the site would be torn down and the land left as greenspace.

• The existing parking lot would be realigned and a circular vehicle drop-off area would be created near the north side of the church building. Landscaping would be put in and greenspace added around the perimeter in most places to buffer the lot from surrounding homes.

"We have really worked on softening the impact," architect Fred Cieslak said of the plan.

A lot of that softening has come from replacing pavement with greenspace at a cost of parking spaces, contributing to the problem the church plan faces now. Commissioners suggested

Center St. repairs on track for fall timeframe

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville's main drag gets a facelift this fall.

Center Street is in for repair and resurfacing from Seven Mile north to Randolph Street. The work will begin soon and is scheduled to wrap up before the holiday shopping season begins in late November.

"We've been assured that the work will be done before the end of the construction season," Jim Gallegly, Northville director of public works, said.

The $394,000 construction project will mean some traffic headaches while the work goes on, Gallegly said. Lanes will be partially closed for a time and the Seven Mile/Center intersection will shut down for about three days when crews completely redo the pothole-ridden corner.

Members of the Northville City Council unanimously approved the project on Monday night. Still under review are construction plans for the most expensive segment of Center Street, Randolph north to the city limits.

An expensive and busy construction labor market has set back plans for that work. City officials originally budgeted about $1.37 million to repair and resurface the entire length of Center Street from Seven Mile to the city limits.

Last month, however, only one bid was submitted for the job, a $1.76 million offer from the Livonia firm of Peter Bastie & Sons. The problem is similar to the one facing the Northville City Hall renovation project: the construction industry has so much work now that many firms pass up municipal projects or charge higher rates for them.

City officials are trying to find a way around the problem and get Center Street rebuilt for at or near the original price tag. Monday night's contract award is a way to do that while still keeping the project on schedule.

The city bid the Center Street work out in four separate con-

By LINDA GAITHER ARNOLD

Increased enrollments again this year have necessitated the use of portable classrooms at both Cooke and Meads Mill Middle Schools.

According to Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, two classrooms will be installed at Cooke, and one will go in at Meads Mill.

Each classroom measures 900 square feet, and the two at Cooke have a common wall between them. They will be used primarily for foreign languages, English and social studies.

Overcrowding at both schools already means that not every teacher has a classroom - several operate from carts and move from room to room.

Going back in time Annual Victorian Festival just weeks away

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

The days of yore are upon us. Northville's annual street party, the Victorian Festival, is almost here. The city's time machine is revving up, and festivalgoers are getting ready to return to the glory days of Northville's historic past.

Now in its ninth year, the 1997 installment of the Northville Victorian Festival will feature all the glamour, fascination and fun of its eight grand predecessors.

"Everyone loves the Victorian Festival," said Laurie Marrs, the executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the event. "It's pure fantasy for the people who love to dress up, and a real treat for those who like to people watch and just have fun."

According to Marrs, the central

New shop caters to romantic types

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you're a hopeless romantic you'll love The Hopeless Romantic.

Kristi Colt-Roberts does. The owner of downtown Northville's newest business admits that her shop's name is a description of its proprietor. Its contents - everything from dried floral arrangements to Victorian and European antiques, furniture and collectibles - are the same way: one of a kind.

"I always want to be unique and different. I don't want to be like anyone else," Colt-Roberts explained as she sat surrounded by reminders of times gone by last week.

An antique dealer for years in Okemos, she moved to Northville three years ago and opened up The Hopeless Romantic last month.

"I've always loved anything to do with nature and antiques," Colt-Roberts explained. "I love the hunt. I'll go all over the place to find the best."

She brings it into her shop, too. There are tables and a garden bench, Victorian-era calendars, picture frames, mirrors, pillows and accent pieces. One-of-a-kind lamps from a featured New York City artist are available.

One of the most unique things to be found in The Hopeless Romantic right now is the work of Bessie Pease Gutmann, a noted artist who's better known as the mother of Humphrey Bogart.

Then there are the poetry and picture books: "that's the romantic stuff," Colt-Roberts admitted with a smile.

There's even an example of the 1800s autograph books she loves to collect. The volumes, exchanged by friends as a place to keep special thoughts and messages, contain exquisite handwriting as well as beautiful hand-drawn pictures and sketches.

"Every one is a poem. It's very sweet," Colt-Roberts noted.

The Hopeless Romantic also offers another distinctive product - custom-ordered dried floral arrangements.

Whether for the home or office or for special events like weddings, Colt-Roberts says she can create an arrangement which will match everything from your color scheme to your budget.

"We can do what anyone wants," she said.

The shop's open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and is located in the back section of Sparr's Florist at 156 N. Center Street. You can call The Hopeless Romantic at (248) 374-9124.

City hall renovation plan gets new lead architect

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A new team's in place to tackle Northville City Hall's troubled renovation project. But whether its members will be able to bring the project back to its original cost projection is still an open question.

"I don't know if we'll get to the budget number but that's our goal," said city resident David Mielock, the project's new architect.

Members of the city council voted unanimously on Monday night to hire Northville-based Mielock & Associates, who designed the new Hiller's Market at Five Mile and Haggerty, on the $1.4 million renovation project. Taking over the construction management duties is the George W. Auch Company, the firm which did the same work on the Northville District Library last year.

Earlier this month the council dismissed Allen & Laux, the firm which served as both architect and construction manager on the renovation for almost a year. The move came in the wake of bidding difficulties which showed up earlier this summer.

An expensive construction labor market has meant few and/or high-priced bids for the contracts for work on city hall, including a planned expansion of the fire hall. It would cost the city about $1.96 million to complete the job under current bid prices.

Deciding what to do about that is the task of the new project team, which includes city administrators, Mielock and the Auch firm. They plan to go over the proposal closely and make recommendations to the city council soon.

Among the options are: (a) finding more money; (b) cutting back the scope of the work to bring the cost of the work to the neighborhood of the original $1.4 million figure; or (c) both.

The choices will depend on how much, if any, additional money could be found for the project and/or what parts, if any, of the renovation project are expendable in order to save money.

In recommending Mielock and Auch City Manager Gary Word cited their reputations and past experience. Mielock, he added, is a former city planning commission member and also was part of the citizens' committee which worked on the renovation project last year.

He'll be paid according to the terms of a professional service contract which includes cost caps. The maximum the Mielock firm could be paid is about $63,000. Auch will receive a fee based on a percentage of final project costs.

Council Member Chuck Keys quizzed Mielock at the meeting over the architect's projection of 300-400 work hours to review and possibly redesign the renovation plans put together by Allen & Laux. Keys cited concerns that the total cost of the project may not decline despite that work.

"I'm afraid of spending (for) your fees and coming back with the same money (amount for the project)," he said.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED

Traditionally, drivers have been urged to grip the steering wheels of their cars at "ten" and "two" positions, with the numbers referring to the spots they occupy on the face of the clock. However, one look at today's steering wheels reveals that this hand positioning is no longer appropriate. Over the past 50 years or so, the average height of the driver's seat has dropped fifteen to nineteen inches, while the steering wheel has been lowered twelve to fourteen inches. The curious to either side of the hub of the steering wheel now indicate that the left hand should be positioned between 7 and 9 o'clock, while the right hand should be placed between 3 and 5. The lowered positioning is easier on the shoulders and helps reduce fatigue. The revised grip also keeps the hands away from the center of the wheel so they will not be thrust into the face by airbag deployment.

Hand position on the wheel is probably something you haven't thought about since driver's education class! Drivers of long standing who otherwise might never think about the need to modify driving habits because of changes in auto design (like the air bag on the steering wheel) might get some important driving tips by reading the owner's manual that came with the car. When MARKY FELDMAN CHRYSLER sells or leases you a new Chevy or Geo or a pre-owned vehicle, we make sure to share any pertinent information that we think will add to your safety in, or the pleasure you derive from, your new car. We care about our customers! Phone 348-7000, or stop by our showroom at 42355 Grand River, Novi.

Suspected abuser to face charges

A Northville man faces charges of domestic violence after allegedly assaulting his wife in an early morning incident last week.

The woman told police that the man, 55, came to the front door of their home at about 2:45 a.m. on Aug. 12, asking "if she still wanted him out."

When the woman replied "yes," the man allegedly grabbed her hand and tried to pull off her wedding rings. She claimed the man bent her hand back and shoved his elbow into her throat and face, threatening to kill her if she didn't give up the rings.

After the woman took them off, the man then allegedly demanded the checkbook.

She told police she said it was inside her purse, which was in her car. When the man went to the car to get it, the woman reported, she called 911.

As police were driving to the scene the man allegedly dumped the contents of the purse out onto the woman's bed and threatened to take all her belongings when she went to work and trash her car.

Police report that the man appeared intoxicated but calm when they arrived.

The woman was "shook up" and crying, officers said, and her neck and hand were swollen and red. Blood from her mouth was allegedly on the man's shirt.

He was arrested and taken to police headquarters. The woman's injuries were photographed and she was given a packet of information on domestic violence.

The rings were later returned by police.

The man was arraigned that afternoon on a misdemeanor domestic violence charge.

He was released on bond and faces a pretrial hearing tomorrow, Aug. 22.

LIQUOR STOLEN: Meijer store detectives say they nabbed a would-be thief the afternoon of Aug. 11.

They allegedly saw a 36-year-old Detroit woman put two fifths of cognac into her purse, then try to leave the store without paying for them.

The liquor is valued at $52. When police checked the woman's record via computer it turned out she is wanted by Detroit police on a narcotics charge.

She was arrested, booked and released on bond on both of the charges.

The woman faces a preliminary hearing on Sept. 11 in court.

ATTEMPTED AUTO THEFT: A Northridge apartments woman's car was damaged by what police suspect was a would-be thief last week.

The incident happened just after 2:45 a.m. on Aug. 12. The woman told police that she woke up after hearing noises in the parking lot. The sounds came from police officers examining her 1996 Ford Taurus.

They found that someone had done $250 in damage to the driver's side door lock, partially "punching" it out and prying at the frame around the lock. Police suspect that two men charged with breaking and entering another Taurus last week may have been involved in the case.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents you can call Northville city police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

Car theft ring suspects apprehended

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Two men could spend a long time behind bars if they're found guilty of breaking into a car in Northville Township last week.

Township police believe that Donald Eric Swinny and Donie Van Calvin, both 23, were part of a ring of five men who were cruising the Northridge apartments complex on Seven Mile during the early morning hours of Aug. 12, looking to break into vehicles for stereos and valuables.

All five were arrested after a resident heard the noise of their Dodge van, woke up and called police. The other three men allegedly involved range in age from 17 to 27 and are from Detroit and Highland Park. Police say they were inside the van when officers arrived but were released without charges last week.

Swinny and Calvin, whom police claim were caught red-handed breaking into a Ford Taurus at Northridge, aren't so lucky. They each face charges of breaking and entering a vehicle, a five year felony in Michigan.

Each also is charged with one count of being a habitual criminal offender, something which will bring additional prison time on top of the vehicle charge if they're convicted.

Swinny is a Detroit resident and Calvin lives in Highland Park. Both are being held at the Wayne County Jail after failing to make ball. Thirty-fifth District Court Magistrate Eric Colthurst set bail high during the pair's arraignment last week.

Swinny's bond is $25,000 cash and Calvin's is $15,000 cash.

Colthurst entered not guilty pleas for both men, who face a preliminary exam tomorrow, Aug. 22.

Police say they've recovered stolen property from the van and continue to investigate the case.

Shared service millage supporters speak out

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Those who want to see a millage funding youth, senior and recreation services in Northville put to the voters next year aren't waiting for 1998.

Backers of the Parks & Rec Department, senior citizen services program and Northville Youth Assistance took a public stand last week, calling for a millage to be placed on next year's election ballot which is slightly larger than the one currently funding the services.

The existing millage will expire at the end of 1998 and youth/senior/rec officials are working together to garner support for a new millage next year. They pitched their plan to the Northville Township Board of Trustees on Aug. 14.

The trustees' feedback: encouragement to ask for even more millage to fund big-ticket expenses like buying land for baseball diamonds and soccer fields - along with cautions to tread carefully.

The youth/senior/rec programs make up Northville's "shared services": that is, municipal programs paid for jointly with city and township tax dollars. Currently the costs of the programs are split roughly at 63 percent for the township, 37 percent for the city.

The township's share last year totaled more than $215,000, all of it coming from a 0.40 dedicated millage. That millage, approved by voters in 1994, will expire at the end of 1998.

Shared services officials have been meeting for the last couple of months to decide what to do next. The final decision on funding matters belongs to the board of trustees and the Northville City Council.

Last week shared services backers urged the board to put a four-year, 0.58 mill millage before voters next year. Of that 0.58 figure, recreation would receive 0.4 mill, Youth Assistance 0.1 mill and senior services 0.08 mill.

The proposed millage would generate about $406,000 a year and represents a 19.2 percent hike from the current millage levy.

"This is an operations-only budget," explained Doug Bingham, Youth Assistance commissioner and spokesperson for all three groups. "This is a way to operate these programs as well as people want them for the next four years."

That wasn't the best move to some members of the board, who urged shared services to increase the millage level in order to raise funds for costly but, in their view, needed improvements, particularly in recreation services.

"I don't think you've gone far enough," was how Trustee Marv Gans put it. "How are you going to put a ball diamond in if you don't have the money to do it?"

Getting a higher millage passed is a tough task, responded shared service supporters, particularly on the recreation side of things because so much is up in the air. Township officials are now negotiating possible deals for additional recreational land to provide badly needed baseball and soccer space, but so far nothing's been decided.

"It's very hard to plan when we don't know what's coming," was how Rec Director Traci Sincok said. "We didn't wish to tie those issues into the operating millage."

The trustees also advised against a possible second, capital-money millage be put to voters sometime in the year 1999.

"Do it in '98," was how Clerk Sue Hillebrand put it. "Go for four years, maybe even eight."

The political climate when it comes to taxes calls for a careful, well-thought-out approach, however. As Trustee Russ Fogg noted, "everybody's going to be asking for a lot more."

System makes video conferencing possible for police

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The wave of the future is here and the Northville City Police Department's hanging ten.

There's tech and then there's high-tech and the department's computer video conferencing system definitely falls into the latter category.

A terminal and two cameras resting on Detective Dave Fendelet's desk have brought local law enforcement on line.

"It is just fantastic," Fendelet said of the almost one-year-old system.

Through the system city officers can communicate via real-time audio and video images with prosecutors and judges on everything from issuing warrants in criminal cases to conducting arraignments of suspects right at police headquarters.

The advantage comes from better time management: instead of having to trek up to Pontiac to speak with Oakland County prosecutors or down to 35th District Court for arraignments, Fendelet and other city officers can do their business via computer.

"It helps a lot. It's much more time efficient," said 35th District Judge John MacDonald, who had a computer terminal on his courtroom bench for three years until July's court house fire. "There are no negatives to this as far as I'm concerned."

A few Oakland County communities got the technology in 1995 while participating in a pilot program set up by the county board of commissioners.

Novi was one of them and that's where Fendelet first had the chance to try out the new technology.

"It helps a lot. It's much more time efficient."

-John MacDonald
35th District Court Judge

By September 1996 every town in Oakland County, including Northville, had a video system. Best of all, the county provided the units at no cost: the city is responsible for the system only after it goes out of warranty.

Since getting the technology Fendelet estimates it's been used about 12-20 times, resulting in a lot of extra time for him to do other work instead of spending miles in a car.

"It's really worked out well," he said.

Darrel Palmer agrees. Fendelet spoke with the Southfield police detective over the system last week.

While the video images can be jerky and fuzzy, the fact that two people can speak to and see each other via computer screens is enough to bring out the sci-fi enthusiast in anyone.

A Novi resident, Palmer gave the system a "B" rating overall and gave a thumbs-up to its time-saving usefulness.

The video conferencing system includes a computerized phone book of similar law enforcement video linkup sites and features a split screen so the user can see the images both being sent and received.

A document camera allows up-close examination of any relevant papers or small items to be considered for evidence uses.

Staring down at his computer monitor, Northville Police Detective Dave Fendelet chats with a South Lyon Police Department member using the NPD's new video conferencing system. NPD personnel are able to see and hear other police departments through their state-of-the-art computer system.

The system is reserved for less weighty offenses. Serious cases such as a homicide would see police heading to prosecutors' offices or courtrooms for in-person proceedings. Fendelet said

Northville Township's police department is welcome to make use of the computer as well.

When it comes to summing the system up, MacDonald put it best: "it's the wave of the future."

City officials pass up shot at recreation grant

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Concern over a proposed shops/homes development on the slopes of Ford Field alongside Hutton Street put a plan for renovating the recreational park on the back burner this week.

That's where it's likely to stay following the Northville City Council's decision to pass on trying for a $400,000 state grant to pay for the renovation project.

Members of the council Monday night declined to vote up or down on allowing the Northville Parks and Recreation Department to apply for the grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR). Rec Director Traci Sincok needed council approval to file the grant request by the MDNR's Sept. 1 deadline.

Since the council's not scheduled to meet for the rest of the month it's likely that she'll now have to wait until spring 1998 to submit the proposal, assuming the grant application can win council approval next year.

Behind it all are concerns cited by city residents and at least one member of the council over the so-called Hutton Street plan. Proposed by Bob and Margene Buckhave, the proposal calls for parking below grade, four or five shops at street level and three to five condo homes above that.

Some people who live near Hutton Street oppose the plan, citing concerns over matters ranging from additional traffic through Cabbagetown to the loss of character of Ford Field.

"Once we build there it will never be the same," was how John Welsh put it.

He and others on Monday night

"The perception is the reality and the perception is that the city supports the (Hutton Street) development. You cannot separate applying for the grant and that development."

-City Councilman Chuck Keys

urged the council to not apply for the grant because of the Hutton Street plan. The two are linked because the Buckhaves have offered to put up $110,000 of the $160,000 the city needs to come up with in order to win the MDNR grant. That's one of the benefits to the city cited by plan supporters.

Some, including council member Chuck Keys, feel that applying for the grant would amount to a tacit endorsement of the Hutton Street plan, a conclusion others disagreed with.

"The perception is the reality and the perception is that the city supports the development," was how Keys put it. "You cannot separate applying for the grant and that development."

"It's not going to set very well with a lot of people in this community if we start doing business as if this plan's been approved," one resident said.

Council member Carolann Ayers, on the other hand, pointed out that the city has made no official decision about the Hutton Street plan. Sincok said that the grant application does not specify any particular source for the city's $160,000 match.

Supporters of the grant application said the city could decline it if the MDNR approved the grant or could try to find another source for the local match money, although that's unlikely.

The next opportunity to apply for the grant will come in the spring of next year, although Sincok cautioned that state bond money earmarked to finance recreation improvements will run out in two years or less.

The debate over the Hutton proposal resurfaced later in the meeting when the council considered a request from the Buckhaves to conduct soil and boring tests on the Ford Field site.

"It also lends credibility to that project moving ahead when in fact it's not," Keys said in voting against the move.

He was the only council member to vote against allowing the tests. The others said the move was routine, intended to allow the developer to see if the lot can actually support a building, and doesn't commit the city to anything in the future.

Council Member Tom Swigart voiced concerns over the position some people take toward any new development proposal, including the Hutton plan.

"How can you do anything when we have this kind of reaction to something like soil testing?" Swigart asked. "We might as well roll the place (Northville) up and let it atrophy."

City Council Briefs

APPOINTMENTS:

PETITION:

Residents living on W. Cady Street submitted a petition of signatures urging the council to make the road into a one-way thoroughfare in order to reduce traffic through the area.

Car levels have risen, according to people who live there, in the wake of the new district library and parking decks being built.

PUBLIC HEARING:

The council will hold a public hearing on Monday, Sept. 8, on a plan to use federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) money.

City officials originally planned to use $70,200 in CDBG funds allocated to Northville in 1996 to make City Hall fully handicap-accessible.

The renovations are necessary to bring the building into compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1995.

That project is now set to take place in early 1998, but Northville must use the 1996 CDBG money by Dec. 31 or lose it.

The council is considering two alternate projects for the funds, including:

- $9,000 for a community wide survey/strategic plan to gauge public feelings on future public parks and recreational facilities.
- $61,200 for replacement air conditioning units for Allen Terrace, the city-owned senior housing complex.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. and take place at the Northville Senior Citizen Center located on Cady Street.

STOP SIGN GONE:

The stop sign at the intersection of eastbound S. Chigwidden at Grasmere in the Northville Estates subdivision will soon be removed.

City officials determined it was not needed because of a city order issued in 1988 which closed all streets in Northville Estates intersecting with Beck Road.

The stop sign was recently damaged and due to the council's vote will now not be replaced.

STREET CLOSINGS:

Several residential streets will be briefly closed for neighborhood events in coming weeks, including:

- Scott Street from 2 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 7, for a block party.

• Church Street between Main and Cady streets from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Sept. 7, for a church picnic.

• The 800 block of Carpenter Street from 4 to 8 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 31, for a block party.

• Novi Street from Hill Street on Langfield Drive from noon to 10 p.m. on Aug. 31 for a neighborhood block party.

CABLE NEWS:

Cable television provider Ameritech New Media notified the city that effective Sept. 1 the cost of the Encore/Starz service will increase from $5.95 to $7.95 per month.

The company also noted that Ameritech will offer HBO beginning Jan. 1, 1998.

Classic car show planned

Gerald's Salon in Northville Township will be the site of a day-long celebration of classic cars.

On Saturday, Aug. 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., cars and costumes of the '40s, '50s and '60s will grace the front lawn of the salon. The show, entitled "Cruise On In," will be arranged by The Good Time Wanderers, a local classic car club.

Hot dogs and Vernors gingerale will complete the nostalgia theme.

"We thought it would be a fun event for clients visiting the salon that day and for anybody who loves classic cars," salon owner Gerald Haynes said.

"We try to do some unusual things to show our clients how much we appreciate them, but we also encourage anyone to stop by."

As many as 15 cars will be on display, including:

- 1940 Ford Deluxe
- 1955 Chevy
- 1969 Chevelle
- Ford T Bucket

Car Club members and salon staff will dress in '50s and '60s attire.

The salon will present two trophies as awards for Spectators Choice, chosen by a vote of the salon's clients who have appointments that day; and Salon Manager's Choice.

The event is open to the public. Area residents are encouraged to join the festivities that will be held rain or shine.

The salon is located at 41012 Five Mile Road.

The telephone number is (313) 420-0111.

Mining operation wins permit approval township wants strict programs put into place to minimize dust, noise and traffic through the area.

Haul trucks will travel to and from the site via a specific route: Ridge south to Five Mile, Five Mile to Beck Road and Beck to M-14.

• Regular monitoring of the mining to ensure that there's no contamination of local ground water supplies and no lowering of lake levels in the area when the mine goes beneath the water table in a couple of years.

• What might be built on the property after the mine shuts down. Lafarge has submitted a reclamation plan for industrial use, in keeping with the site's current zoning.

Board members called upon the company to consider other ideas such as residential development or even recreational uses like a golf course or baseball diamonds and soccer fields.

Mothers' Club organizing bridge groups

Marathon Bridge Groups for the fall-winter season are presently being organized by the Northville Mothers' Club. There are openings in the day and evening groups, but space is limited. Ten teams make up each group and play once a month from September to June.

Registration fee is $15 per person per group.

Prizes are awarded in June to the top three finishing teams of each group.

Contact Sharon Ferrara at 349-1781 for more information.

Proceeds from this project will be used to benefit Northville area children.

By LINDA GAITHER ARNOLD
Staff Writer

The days of switching classes every 55 minutes are over at Northville High School.

If a student dislikes a teacher, that person now has to be tolerated for 86 minutes - but only every other day.

Forget six classes a day - now it's four.

Welcome to the new world of block scheduling at the high school.

"Once the students get into it, I think they will be very pleased," Principal Tom Johnson said.

The week is divided into "A" days and "B" days. Periods one through four meet on "A" days, and periods five through seven, plus a seminar, meet on "B" days. To make the periods even in terms of class time, an additional five minutes has been added to the school day.

This will allow students to pick up an elective course they couldn't sign up for in the past. The seminar will be used for teacher conferences, study groups, independent study, band, chorus, etc.

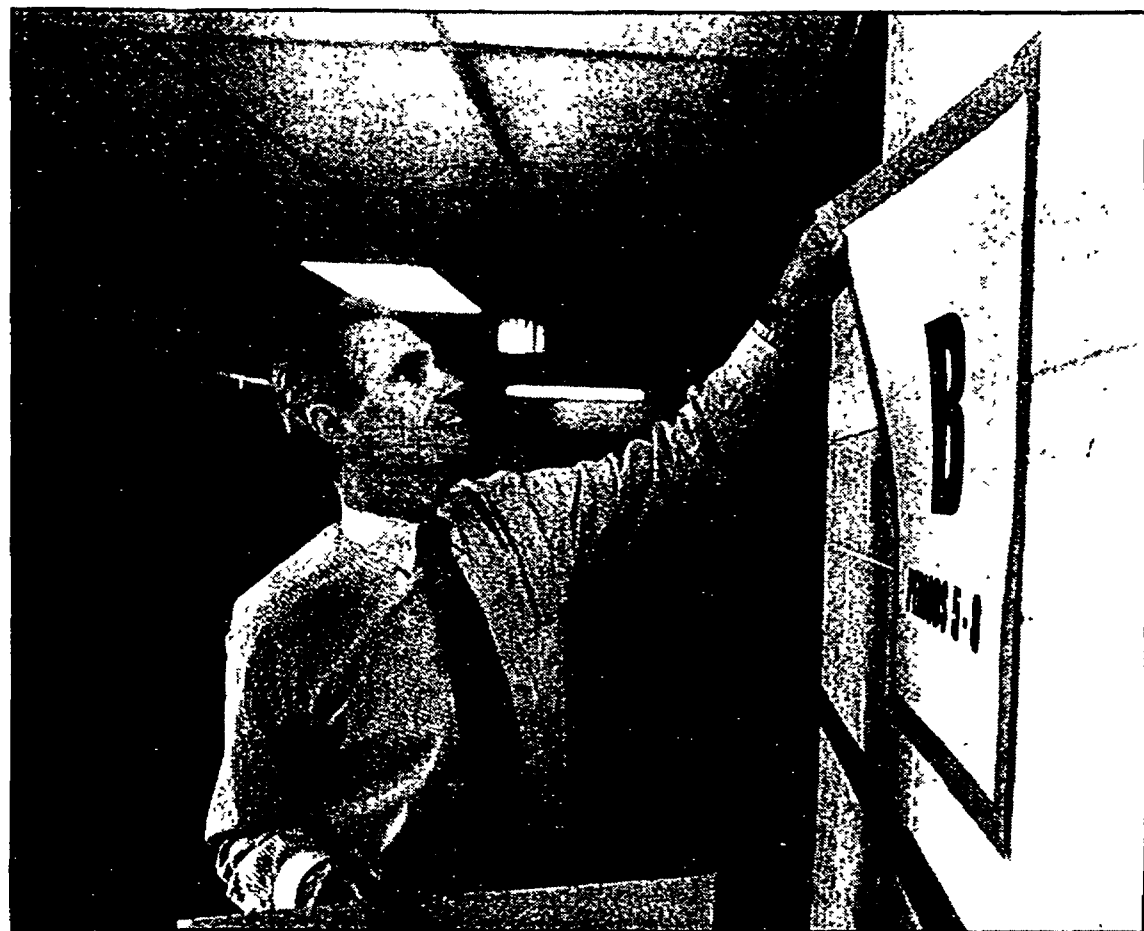

At the end of their high school career, this year's freshmen will have been able to take eight more courses than last year's graduating class.

"The schedule will not be as frenzied because students are only changing classes four times a day," Johnson explained.

He also added that students will have more time to prepare and do homework because the classes only meet every other day.

He is anticipating the entire school environment will be calmer.

"The key to the success of the program will be the student planner," Johnson said.

In order to get his 1,350 students on the right track, Northville High School Principal Tom Johnson will be posting signs throughout the school before the beginning of classes announcing the new block schedule format.

One will be distributed to each student at the beginning of school, and students will be instructed on how they should be used.

Johnson said each class will be predicated on the use of the planner. The first 20 minutes of every class will be introduction and review; the remainder of the time will be used to present new material or work on existing projects.

"Our goal is to not let kids fall through the cracks," Johnson said. "If they use the planner correctly, they will have to have personal contact with the teacher."

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETINGS

The second Monday of the month is designated as the regular meeting date of the Northville Board of Education, except in July when it will be the third Tuesday of the month and in August, when it will be the second Tuesday of the month. Those meetings will be held at Old Village School, 405 W. Main St.

The fourth Monday of the month is designated as the regular second meeting of the board, except in August 1997 and May 1998 when the board will meet the fourth Tuesday of the month. Those meetings will be held at school buildings or Old Village School.

In February, the board will meet the fourth Tuesday of the month and in April the board will meet the first Monday of the month. All meetings will commence at 7:30 p.m.

Portable classrooms in place at middle schools

dent and teacher traffic," Cooke Principal Jeffrey Radwanski said.

Despite the inevitability of cold, inclement weather, all administrators are optimistic the problems will be minimal.

Preliminary calculations at both schools place Cooke enrollment at 507 (up from 495 last year) and Meads Mill at 691 (up from 673 last year).

And enrollments are expected to continue to increase.

"We will be adding more portable classrooms next year," Bolitho said.

Bolitho anticipates the overcrowding will continue until the new high school opens in the fall of 2000.

Sue Meyer, the new principal at Meads Mill, said she believes the portable classrooms will help relieve hall traffic and classroom congestion.

"But I'm grateful it is a temporary, and not permanent, solution," she said.

Preschool plans open house

Northville Co-op Preschool will hold its Welcome Tea for all members on Monday, Aug. 25, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Boli Fellowship Hall, upstairs in the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, 200 E. Main St.

Those attending should complete and bring the forms that were requested in the August mailing.

All members should attend. No children please.

Also note that there are still openings available for 4-year-olds for the 1997-98 school year.

Call (248) 348-1791 with any questions or for information.

Montessori offers alternate approach

Northville Montessori Center, which is affiliated with the American Montessori Society and the Michigan Montessori Society, was established in 1976. It is a state-licensed private school offering alternative preschool and elementary education programs.

The curriculum consists of activities in practical living (self-help), sensorial experiences, language, math, science, geography, history and social studies. Special extras featured in the program are Japanese, music, art, motor/perception development, drama, dance, health and nutrition, yoga, poetry, cooking and fall, winter and spring sports. With the exception of Japanese, music and art, other "extras" may vary depending on available talents.

Montessori training involves a carefully prepared environment which allows the child to test his or her understanding through the use of materials designed to be self-correcting. This promotes a feeling of success which improves the child's self-image and encourages an appreciation of learning.

The Northville Center offers morning and afternoon sessions for preschoolers. Extended hours are available for working parents. It is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. It also offers elementary sessions, a continuation for those children with a Montessori background.

The Center wants parents - the child's first educators - to become involved. The more parents understand and reinforce the Montessori philosophy at home, the more the children will benefit.

The Center has a "parent library" at the school where books may be borrowed. All parents and interested friends are urged to attend adult study seminars held periodically at the school.

All parents of NMC students are members of the Parents' Group. The Group promotes the interests of NMC through participation in voluntary programs which enrich the quality of education for the students. These include such things as carpentry/building, materials making, animals, clerical and/or receptionist work, writing or editing for school newsletters and organizing after-school and community-related functions.

Parents are invited to visit NMC, located at 15709 Haggerty Road, and observe Montessori children at work. Call (313) 420-0924 to arrange a convenient time.

William Allan Academy still run by its founder

William Allan Academy is a small private school dedicated to the education of 4- to 11-year-old students in preschool through the fifth grade.

The curriculum includes core subjects such as reading, writing and arithmetic. Computers, art, music and Spanish are taught by specialists.

Also included are social studies, English grammar, history, geography, public speaking and gym, and a well-rounded program is offered.

Established in 1977 by the original owner, Valerie Hambleton, the school year follows the traditional calendar commencing Tuesday, Sept. 3, and running through Friday, June 12.

The school day begins at 8:45 a.m. and runs through to 3:30 p.m.

Day care is available from 7 to 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 to 5 p.m. Openings are available in first and second grades only.

For more information, contact Hambleton or Barb Lindner at (248) 349-5020.

Northville Christian School prepares to begin new year

A thousand little ways to show we care

A reassuring smile. A good ear. A kind voice. Caring has always been essential to curing, and that is especially true when it comes to our young patients. We care about children so we know how to care for them. At the University of Michigan Health Centers, we believe the only way to know your child and understand all of his or her health needs is to be in your neighborhood. It's the easiest way to help your child the most. Here's what else makes us ideal for your whole family:

- We have plenty of pediatricians, ob/gyns, family practice physicians and general internists in your community.

- Many sites offer extended hours, including Saturdays.
- We have all the services you need to stay healthy. Many locations offer laboratory tests and X-rays, too.
- If you ever need a specialist, you're already linked with the U-M Medical Center and our hundreds of experts.
- Finding the right doctor close to your home is simple, and making an appointment is easy. Just call the number below and we will help you select a physician and even schedule your first appointment.

Education Notes

Schoolcraft College's Business Development Center will present a seminar on "NAFTA Today - Selling in the Free Trade Zone" on Thursday, Sept. 25.

A panel of international trade specialists will discuss NAFTA's impact on trade among the United States, Mexico and Canada and its effect on other agreements.

Speakers include Steve Johnson, international trade specialist with the U.S. Department of Commerce, who will address the increased potential for doing business in Canada and Mexico under NAFTA and how businesses can increase market share; William Joyce, director of the Canadian Studies Center at Michigan State University, who will examine Canada's role in NAFTA and potential repercussions if Quebec separates from Canada; Matthew Marko, vice president, international sales of Core Industries, who will talk about his company's business dealings with Mexico under NAFTA; and Frank Murphy, national technical advisor for the Norman G. Jensen firm, who will speak on NAFTA from an operational issues viewpoint.

A gourmet dinner, featuring foods from NAFTA countries, will be served during the seminar.

The seminar will be held in the Waterman Center, with presentations beginning at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and the panel discussion at 8 p.m.

The fee is $50.

For more information or to register, call (313) 462-4438. Schoolcraft College is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

• Rick Inatome, a computer industry pioneer and entrepreneur, will speak on Monday, Oct. 13, at the next Madonna University McManus Distinguished Business Lecture.

Inatome is the chairman of Inacom Corp., a Fortune 500 company and is the founder of Computer City, one of the country's leading computer superstore chains.

The presentation, titled "Knowledge Revolution," will be held at 7 p.m. in Kresge Hall and is free of charge.

For more information, call (313) 432-5356.

Madonna University is located at Levan and Schoolcraft Road in Livonia.

State panel hears concerns at senior town hall

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Predictions made last week about what local seniors are thinking about when it comes to state government were pretty accurate.

They're thinking about roads, just like everybody else.

But they are also concerned about senior housing and the quality of care in nursing homes. About 80 turned up for a Tuesday town hall meeting at the Novi Senior Center sponsored by State Rep. Nancy Cassis, R-Nowi.

Cassis represents Oakland County Northville in the Michigan House.

Novi resident Monika Jackson won the applause of her peers when she discussed her worries over the quality of care in nursing homes. Jackson's husband is an Alzheimer's disease patient in a nursing home. Jackson urged state legislators to pass laws requiring more nursing employees per patient in the homes, as well as a bill that would run criminal checks on the staff members.

"Their rights should not be violated just because they are demented. When their body aches, it is not acceptable that they have to soil their pants because no aides are available to take care of their needs," Jackson said.

"Most of the time, there is not enough help. It should be increased, especially around eating times."

Cassis, a member of the Republican Task Force on Senior Citizens, set up the local session with seniors in her district and state representatives Harold Voorhees, R-Wyoming, Patricia Godchaux, R-Birmingham, Judith Scranton, R-Brighton, and Andrew Raczkowski, R-Farmington Hills.

Ultimately, a report will be issued after similar sessions are held statewide.

"So often today people are feeling so disillusioned, disappointed and even cynical about their government because they see it so far removed from them, maybe not even listening to you," Cassis told the crowd.

"We want to get close to you, we want to hear from you, we want to listen, we want to learn."

There was plenty of opportunity to do so at the hour and a half long session.

Questions ranged from potholes to post-hospitalization housing for mental patients. Some wondered how cities and school districts could keep putting bond issues on the ballot until they finally passed.

"We've had some municipalities that have had nine elections in a year. If the school district doesn't get it the first time, they send it back a second time," Voorhees said.

Proposed legislation could restrict local elections to no more than three or four a year, he added.

Joe Knapp of Northville, who also owns a place at Higgins Lake, wondered about legislation restricting access to lakes.

Along with the elected officials, another Lansing figure attending the town hall meeting was Lynn Alexander, who was appointed director of the Office of Services For the Aging by the governor four months ago.

Alexander told the seniors the state is committed to keeping its older residents in their own homes as long as possible. New programs now promoted for nursing homes, she said, include humanizing the environment by creating a memory book about each resident, so their individuality isn't overlooked by nursing home employees. The state is also encouraging nursing home staff to "adopt" a senior.

"They feel more empowered to help that person individually and not just doing a job," Alexander said.

Posh golf course, eatery open

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

It's open to the public. That's what the people at the Bushwood restaurant and golf course say they want you to remember. You do that, and they'll do the rest by providing great food and golf in a relaxed, enjoyable atmosphere.

"Getting people here is the difficulty," was how general manager Apur Sheth explained it. "We're nestled in the (Country Club Village) condos here and people tend to think that we're private."

"We're not," he continued. "The public is very welcome and if you come here one time I'm very confident that you will be back."

Bushwood is located by the only stoplight on Haggerty Road between Five and Six Mile in Northville Township. Its nine-hole par-three golf course treks among the homes of Country Club Village. Diners can look out over the greens and ponds as they take in lunch on Bushwood's patio, enjoy a meal in the dining room or a drink in the lounge area.

Open since July 1, Bushwood's restaurant is open seven days a week for lunch and dinner year-round. The links are open for play during the full golf season, roughly April through November.

The restaurant aims at a personal, friendly atmosphere that welcomes either business people on the go at lunch or customers who want to stick around for the evening. You can linger over a long meal with friends in the quiet dining room or catch the big game on TV in a more bar-like setting.

"The diversity is there," Sheth said. "We let people be in the mood that they're in the mood for."

"We definitely don't want a table-turning, corporate atmosphere," he added. "This is the kind of place where if you want a table for the evening, you got it."

When you come you'll enjoy dishes made from scratch from the freshest ingredients: no trucked-in blocks of prefabricated products. That's the word from Jeffrey Sherman, Bushwood's executive chef.

Sherman, formerly of well-known area bistros such as Birmingham's 220 and the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn, said Bushwood breaks away from the chain restaurants when it comes to quality.

"You can forget what a really good homecooked meal is like," he explained. "We try to do that here every time."

The lunch and dinner menus include a variety of dishes to choose from.

One of Bushwood's unique lunch options is the "build-a-sandwich" selection, where you create your own sandwich by choosing your favorite bread, meats, cheeses and sauce.

Dinner entrees include everything from pasta to steaks and seafood and even rack of lamb. Lunch runs in the ballpark of $5-$9 per person. Dinner can go for as low as $8 a person to $20.

If you're just in the quiet din-

"We're nestled in the (Country Club Village) condos here and people tend to think that we're private. We're not."

-Apu Sheth
Bushwood General Manager

bite over a drink or after a round, Bushwood's lounge area offers a menu of favorites like burgers, sandwiches and appetizers.

"We can pretty much suit any palate that walks in," was how Sherman put it.

Bushwood's "executive" nine hole course can be played in about an hour, according to Sheth, and offers challenges for even the best golfers.

The course includes a pro shop and carts are available for rent. Fees run $10 during the week, $12 on the weekend and $7 after 6:30 p.m.

Kids under 15 and seniors over 60 pay just $6 at all times.

Bushwood's restaurant is open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and from 11 to 11 on Friday and Saturday. Extended hours are likely during the busy hockey and football seasons.

For tee times, reservations or more information call (313) 420-0144.

At Bushwood Restaurant and Golf Course, diners will be served by waitstaff members, like Kim Miller, wearing traditional caddy outfits with checkered knee socks.

Beverage contest under way

Attention all sports fans and non-alcoholic drink aficionados. Now is your chance to "score" by entering AAA Michigan's all-star non-alcoholic drink contest, which this year features a sports theme.

The winner of each of three regional events will win $500. Simply turn the theme "Salute to Sports" into a festive, non-alcoholic drink, giving it a clever name with a sports connection. Envision "Double Dribble Bouncer," "Home Plate Hummer," or "Stanley's Cup." State residents are invited to submit recipes by mail or at AAA's e-mail address: PR@aaaamich.com Finalists will be chosen to mix their drinks at regional contests held Oct. 7 in Traverse City, Oct. 8 in Lansing, and Oct. 9 in Detroit.

The winning recipes will be featured in the "Great Pretenders Party Guide," distributed free, and on the AAA web site.

The recipes cannot include any alcohol or flavor extract with alcohol. Entrants must be at least 16.

The contest deadline is Sept. 22. Name, address, daytime phone number, drink name, ingredients and mixing instructions should be included with the entry.

Neatly type or print entries and mail to "Zero-Proof Mix-Off," AAA Michigan Public Relations, 1 Auto Club Drive, Dearborn, MI 48126.

Forever blowing bubbles

You're never too young to step up and accept a challenge, as many preschoolers found out earlier this month. The Parks and Recreation Department sponsored a Preschool Challenge for youngsters, testing the agility and motor skills of the kids. Right, Taylor Doretti, 4, of Northville takes a commanding lead in the bubble-blowing competition. An egg toss challenge and other activities helped ensure that a good time was had by all.

Township Briefs

News from the Aug. 14 meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees:

HAZMAT CHECK:

Members of the board accepted a check for $2,336 from Inkster-based Painter & Ruthenberg, the township's contracted garbage hauling firm. Painter & Ruthenberg offered the check to keep a promise it made to donate $2 for every car that took part in Northville's first-ever household hazardous materials disposal day.

The event, a joint city-township project, took place on May 31. A total of 1,172 vehicles passed through the gates of the city DPW yard on Doherty Drive to drop off items not safe for ordinary landfills such as paint, fuel, pesticides and batteries.

In the township, officials estimated that about 11.7 percent of all residents took part. There was no charge to the public to participate. The $26,675 cost of the event is included in the fees paid for Painter-Ruthenberg's services.

The money will go toward public recreation and/or tree plantings.

REZONING:

The Golden Bear Golf at the Oasis property, located on Five Mile just east of Haggerty road, has been rezoned.

The site, long host to golf activities and baseball batting cages, was zoned for office use for many years. That required the owners to seek special permits for regular events on the site such as the yearly raising of the protective golf dome.

The property is now zoned under the township's commercial recreation district ordinance. The ordinance, which applies only to the land now occupied by Oasis, outlines recreational development uses acceptable under township zoning law.

STREET SIGNS:

Two special signs will soon be placed on N. Northville Trail to alert those traveling through the area that a hearing-impaired child lives there.

N. Northville Trail is located in the Northville Trails subdivision, which is located on the north side of Six Mile Road west of Haggerty.

BISTRO PLAN:

A proposal for a "Northville Bistro & Brew" at the corner of Seven Mile and Haggerty will make its way to the township planning commission next week.

Proposed by two Northville residents with backing from a Florida development firm, the plan is for a casual dining restaurant which would serve liquor. The eatery would be located on an out lot area near the Home Depot store at Seven and Haggerty.

TANK REMOVAL:

The board approved a plan to remove an old underground fuel storage tank from behind Township Hall.

Northville Township has four tanks which must be upgraded or removed by the end of 1998 according to state and federal regulations. One, a 2,000 gallon tank located underneath land in back of Township Hall, will be removed this year at a cost of $4,000. The board will consider whether to remove the remaining tanks or spend more money to upgrade them in soon-coming budget hearings.

NEWSLETTER:

The township's quarterly newsletter will soon be printed and mailed out to township residents sometime next month.

ZERO TOLERANCE:

A special public meeting will be held on Northville's zero tolerance program for underage alcohol and drug abuse on Wednesday, Sept. 17. The time and place will be announced soon.

Keeping kids away from drugs will also be the subject of a pancake breakfast to benefit Northville's D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program on Sept. 21. The event will precede the Northville Township Department of Public Safety's annual Expo Day at Township Hall.

ROUNDTABLE:

Township Supervisor Karen Woodside will hold a supervisor's roundtable meeting on Saturday, Sept. 6, beginning at 10 a.m. in Township Hall. The meeting is open to the public.

OCC has band openings

Oakland Community College's Highland Lakes campus has announced openings in the symphony band for the 1997-98 school year. Currently, the ensemble has 65 members comprised of OCC students and other musicians from 22 other communities.

Director Victor Bordo says "Prior experience is necessary and we are especially looking for players of the clarinet, French horn, trombone and percussion instruments." The band performs three concerts in the school year and lays a wide variety of the finest band music available. Rehearsals are held at the Highland Lakes Student Center.

The Highland Lakes campus is located at 7350 Cooley Lake Road in Waterford.

• Thursday, Aug. 28 - "Predator/Prey"
Meet at 7 p.m. at the Farm Demonstration Building. This final Thursday evening series program will take a look at predators and their prey. Find out how animals depend on others for survival in the complex relationship of a food web. Prey animals use many complex strategies to avoid being captured, making it no easy task for the predator to be successful.

Activities and a hike will be included in this presentation.

FAMILY FISHING:

Maybury's summer fishing program closes out the season with a final cast into the pond on Saturday, Aug. 23, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Maybury Fishing Pond.

A park interpreter will be on hand to demonstrate fishing techniques, equipment, and help in getting started.

Bring your own supplies if you have them, though a limited amount of bait and equipment will be available to use.

Meet at the Fishing Pond, south of the riding stable on Beck Road.

MICHIGAN BIRDS OF PREY:

Join us at Maybury for a program entitled "Michigan Birds of Prey" on Saturday evening, Aug. 23, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Members of Bird Rescue of Huron Valley, a licensed bird rehabilitation organization, will conduct a presentation with live birds of prey.

Learn about the habits and habitats of these graceful and majestic birds and meet some of them close up.

This program will be held at the Farm Demonstration Building.

MICHIGAN BATS:

Maybury State Park will present a program on "Michigan Bats" on Friday, Aug. 29, at 7 p.m. Learn more about these fascinating creatures and what you can do to help them. Our presentation will conclude with a hike to look for some of the park's resident bats. Meet at the Farm Demonstration Building.

SO LONG TO SUMMER:

Autumn is just around the corner. Help us say "So Long to Summer," exploring Maybury State Park as dusk turns to dark and summer turns to fall. The evening's walk will conclude with stargazing, stories, and a few surprises.

Meet at the Concession Building in the main parking lot and bring along some marshmallows or s'mores.

Prevent the slip. Prevent the trip.

More household accidents are caused by falls than by any other occurrence. Botsford General Hospital wants you to know because by knowing, you can take simple steps to prevent them. Steps such as eliminating area rugs or using only non-slip area rugs, installing safety handles in the bathtubs and showers of older adults and having rubber grips on shower and tub floors. Of course, an accident can still happen. If and when it does,

Botsford's continuum of care for bone and joint problems offers a depth and breadth of services that starts with prevention and includes diagnosis, surgery by board-certified orthopedic surgeons, rehabilitation and occupational medicine. So call Botsford now and let us give you information on all our bone and joint services by contacting our HEALTHMATCH referral service (248) 442-7900.

And just for calling, Botsford will send you a FREE set of rubber bath grips. Take simple measures to insure that your home is safe from preventable slip and fall accidents. And then think of Botsford Hospital — not because you're feeling bad — because you're feeling good.

Children's Physicals

Tax evader given hard time for offense

Resident gets jail term, fine for not filing

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Northville man found guilty of failing to file his income tax forms in 1991 is spending the next few months behind bars.

Jere Anthony Law is currently incarcerated in the Brooks correctional facility in Muskegon following his conviction last month in U.S. District Court in Detroit.

A federal grand jury indicted Law in December 1996 based on evidence obtained by the criminal investigation section of the Internal Revenue Service.

According to IRS spokesperson Elsie Maccari Law agreed to a plea bargain in the case with representatives of the U.S. Attorney's office. On July 30 Law appeared before Judge Patrick Duggan and pled guilty to a single count of failing to file.

Maccari said that investigators discovered Law didn't file income tax returns for eight straight years, 1988-95, and was originally indicted for failing to file in calendar year 1990 as well.

According to the IRS Law earned more than $112,000 and $165,000 in 1990 and 1991, respectively.

Conviction of failure to file can bring up to five years in federal prison and/or a $25,000 fine. Law received a sentence of four months and was ordered to pay back taxes, interest and penalties totaling $82,000, according to Maccari.

Sandy Palazolla of the U.S. Attorney's office declined to comment on the case as did Law's attorney, Raphael Villarruel of the federal defenders' office in Detroit.

Library Lines

LIBRARY HOURS:

The Northville District Library is open Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and closed Sundays through Labor Day. For information on programs or services, call 349-3020.

BOOK DISCUSSION GROUP:

Their Eyes Were Watching God will be the topic of the next meeting of the monthly book discussion group on Monday, Sept. 8, at 7 p.m. In this critically acclaimed novel by Harlem Renaissance writer Zora Neale Hurston, Janie, a proud and independent woman, searches a lifetime for happiness and identity.

LIBRARY BOARD MEETING:

The next meeting of the Northville District Library Board of Trustees is set for Thursday, Aug. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the library meeting room. The meeting will include a public hearing on the library's 1997-98 budget, which has been rescheduled from Aug. 19.

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY:

With Janine Bauchtat in charge, the Friends of the Northville District Library are working out details for the opening of their store in the fall. It's located just inside the library's entrance. Not only will the store be stocked with varied articles as T-shirts and pencils, but used books will also be available.

NOW SHOWING:

Currently on display in the library showcase are photographs of the textured artwork that Gerhard Knodel is creating for the clerestory of the library. Well-known in the art world, Knodel is the director of the Cranbrook Academy of Art. Brochures on the art work are available at the library's circulation desk.

OLV proposal examined in detail by commission redesigning the parking lot and adjacent landscaping in order to squeeze out some more spaces.

That's unlikely, though, to bring OLV up to the 484 number it needs. However, the BZA will take a look at the question of whether OLV should be considered as a "multi-use" site.

In other words, will the activities expected to take place at OLV - church services, athletic events, school, meetings - happen at different times of the day, thus spreading out the demand for parking?

Are those uses spread out enough to mean that the proposed 300 spaces would satisfy the site's real needs, even if the letter of the ordinance isn't met?

Commissioners voiced concerns over other issues in the plan as well, including lighting, the preservation and/or replacement of dozens of major trees on the parcel in the proximity of the gym and a heating and air conditioning unit to the homes just east of the OLV site.

"I have some sympathy for the neighbors," was how John Hardin, commission chair, put it.

If and when it wins a variance from the BZA the OLV plan would have to return to the commission and later the city council for consideration as a special land use permit for the parking lot and site plan approval for both the lot and the expansion.

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY
By John DiMora
Coldwell Banker's #1 Agent In The State of Michigan
NOT AT ARM'S LENGTH
A sale of a house is just a sale, right? Not necessarily. If you are selling your house to your children or transferring title outside the open market, then the transaction may be characterized as "not at arms' length". Since such a transfer may have tax consequences, you should discuss it with a tax attorney or accountant before taking action.
The transfer of title to a son or daughter may cause the parents to lose favorable property tax treatment, require the payment of state gift taxes, or have other unexpected consequences. From capital gains point of view, it may be more prudent for children to inherit property than to receive it as a gift. The disposition of any real estate should be considered within the entire framework of your tax and estate planning.
For answers to all your real estate questions, come to someone who has experience in the business and familiarity with this area.
For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, talk to me at Coldwell Banker Schwitzer. Please come by my office at 41860 Six Mile Road, Northville, MI 48167, or phone me at 810-347-3050.

entertainment act of this year's festival, set for Sept. 12-14, is a "circus without animals." Members of the famous Great Wallenda family will provide the thrills, with enough aerial artistry to make any spectator's head spin. But, unlike past years when the Wallendas entertained, no high-wire performances are planned.

"It's important that people know this is no Barnum and Bailey routine," Marrs explained. "One hundred years ago they didn't have elephants or anything. Whenever people would gather 'round in a semi-circle, they'd have a circus. That's where the name comes from."

Marrs said the Wallendas will perform their feats of wizardry in the bandshell area, and, in true turn-of-the-century fashion, will set up barrels for people to sit on and enjoy the show.

The performers will include Enrico Wallenda, his sister Rietta and her 14-year-old daughter Lyric.

Performances will be held intermittently on both Saturday and Sunday.

Back this year by popular demand will be the Costume Ball, the central showpiece of the weekend. In a departure from past practice, the Ball was replaced last year by a country dance, but Marrs said the elegance and splendor of the grand tradition will return.

"People told us they missed the formal dress-up affair and the Cinderella scene of arriving by horse and carriage," Marrs said. "So we're responding to the feedback we've received. The Recreation Center will be beautifully decorated, just like before."

Other additions will include an expanded children's corner, with more non-motorized games and activities for kids.

The stretch of Main Street between Wing and Center will be devoted to entertaining young festivalgoers.

Marrs said visitors can expect to see many downtown merchants dressed in period costume this year.

The Great Wallendas will perform dazzling aerial feats during Victorian Festival weekend, Sept. 12-14.

"We're having a contest. Secret shoppers will go around to the different shops at unannounced times and vote on the best costumed employees," she said.

The judges' top choice will win a free one-year membership in the Chamber of Commerce ($150 value).

Festival mainstays such as the Art Market, the antiques fair, the Box Lunch Auction and the costumed photo booth are also back.

The Northville Historical Society is planning a full slate of activities at Mill Race Historical Village, and non-profit food booths will fill the air with diet-busting aromas.

As always, the parade will kick off the three-day extravaganza at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 12.

QUEEN FOR A WEEKEND

The Northville Victorian Festival is looking for a local woman to play Queen Victoria for the weekend of the ninth annual festival, Sept. 12-14.

Organizers ask that the queen be at least 18-years-old, provide her own costume and circulate during the festival, playing up the role as much as possible. As a thank-you, the festival committee will give the queen free tickets for herself and a guest to the Costume Ball Saturday night, Sept. 13.

The winner will be chosen by a drawing.

Please answer the following questions:

tracts, including Seven Mile to Cady; Cady to Randolph; Randolph to Eight Mile and Eight Mile to the city limits.

While work commences on the two southern and least expensive parts of the project, city officials will decide what to do about the two northern segments.

Possible moves include finding more money for the work, cutting back the amount of work to be done and even rebidding the project this fall to see if better rates can be obtained.

The Seven Mile-to-Cady reconstruction will cost about $203,000.

Work on the segment from Cady to Randolph will run roughly $191,000. The $394,000 total is over the original budget for those two contracts.

The work is being paid for with money from the city's road millage, which voters approved in March of this year, and funds from the Downtown Development Authority.

Center Street will receive major joint repairs, new curbs and sidewalks and a double layer of new asphalt paving. In the downtown area pedestrians will enjoy a wider sidewalk on the hill at Main Street and new, rosier-colored brick paths from Main north to Randolph.

The Center/Dunlap Street crossroad is in for a full-sized three lane intersection, according to Gallogly. Work in the downtown area will not begin until after next month's Victorian Festival, he added.

EXCESSIVE PRONATION

Athletes commonly sustain overuse injuries because they have anatomic abnormalities that place stress on the surrounding structures. For instance, some athletes have naturally flat feet that excessively turn inward (pronate) as they run. While a certain amount of pronation is natural, excessive pronation can be harmful because it causes increased stress throughout the lower extremities. The result is overuse injuries such as stress fractures and posterior tibial tendinitis. And the problems associated with excessive pronation are not restricted to the feet. They may also affect the entire lower extremities, including the knee and hip. Once the underlying problem of excessive pronation is identified, steps can be taken to compensate for the abnormality.

Excessive pronation can be controlled or reduced. The most successful treatment is the use of prescription orthotics, which are medical appliances customized to correct the problem. To learn more about treating pronation, call Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. at 349-3816. We develop customized programs to treat problems resulting from illness, injury, developmental problems or the aging process. You will find us conveniently located at 215 E. Main St., Suite B.

P.S. High arches render the foot inflexible, making them increasingly susceptible to overuse injury

RECORD OPINION

THURSDAY
August 21, 1997

Our Opinion

Council fumbles chance for much-needed grant

Chances are you'll never see a football team punt on third down. The same can't be said for the Northville City Council, however.

There's no sense giving up on something until there's a risk in staying with it. Despite that, the members of the council on Monday night (minus Mayor Chris Johnson, who was not at the Aug. 18 meeting) pocket-vetoed a request from the Parks & Recreation Department for permission to apply for a $400,000 grant offered by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR).

The money would have paid for a long-overdue renovation of Ford Field. Now Northville has no chance for the foreseeable future of getting someone else's money to pay for this long-overdue project.

Why did this happen? Because the grant is linked to a proposed development of shops and homes along the slopes of Ford Field on Hutton Street. The couple behind the plan recently agreed to put up $110,000 of the $160,000 local match money Northville needed to win the MDNR grant.

A number of people living near the site in the Cabbagetown area don't like the Hutton proposal. On Monday they and council member Chuck Keys called for the council to drop the grant application, arguing that moving forward with it gives the impression that the city is endorsing the Hutton plan. That is just flat-out wrong.

While our jury is still out about the Hutton Street proposal, we can understand people who want to reject the grant because they don't like the plan which would necessarily come with the state money. Rejecting the grant application is nothing more than a wasted opportunity, however.

Nothing in the application put the city at risk. As Rec Director Traci Sincok pointed out it just means the city would come up with $160,000 if it gets the grant: it doesn't say from where. The council punted on third down.

Even those on the council who expressed support for the grant failed to call for a vote on the issue which would have put opponents of the plan on record.

We see a kind of scorched-earth attitude brewing out there when it comes to the Hutton proposal. People don't seem to want to let it move one inch forward, even on routine matters that are normally not a problem with other development plans. Example: Keys later that night voted against a routine request from the developer to do soil testing on the site, citing the same line of reasoning.

On the flip side of the coin was the behavior of Council Member Carolann Ayers. She served up some very gruff treatment to her constituents and even to Keys when they respectfully voiced objections to the grant application and the Hutton plan.

Neither extreme will help promote a civil, sensible debate on this critical issue facing the council and the people of the community.

A perennial problem in cities

I've been a city-dweller all my life. Wouldn't have it any other way.

Lee Snider

Sure, I enjoy the wide open spaces and the easy tranquility of a lakeside setting, but the 'burbs are where I grew up. It's in my blood. I'm not sure I could make it through the night without an occasional car alarm shattering the stillness of the sleepy neighborhood air.

But one of the truly maddening things about cities is that they just don't have enough parking. No matter if it's a sprawling metropolis like Detroit or a small satellite community like Northville, there's never enough parking. Ever.

I'm not sure I understand why parking always has to be an issue, but I've never lived or worked in a city where people didn't complain about a shortage. As a journalist on the lookout for an attention-getter, it's a natural. Find a good angle on a parking story and you've got 'em hooked.

I remember the time I attempted to keep a business appointment with someone in Ann Arbor. It was around mid-day during the Christmas shopping season and, try as I might, I couldn't find even one available parking spot in the city. I drove up and down the streets of that place for 20 minutes, looking everywhere for a vacant meter. And don't think I didn't check the parking decks either. Nothing, absolutely nothing.

I ended up going back to the office in Ypsilanti and rescheduling the meeting by phone.

Then there was the time I got a parking ticket in Dearborn. I was at work at the time. At work! I couldn't believe it.

"I'm a contributing member of this community," I thundered, venting my displeasure to a merchant I knew. "It's not as if I was loitering or looking for a 'Vette to hot wire."

"But the parking spots are for the customers," he politely explained. "There aren't that many spaces and we've got to keep the workers from taking them all. It's hard to make a living when your patrons can't get out of their cars to visit your store."

That's how it works in Northville, too, of course, and I can understand where the business owners are coming from. But if there were enough spaces to go around, we wouldn't be forced to make a choice. Everybody - customer and worker alike - could find a place to hitch their horse.

Now that the lot at Main and Wing is resurfaced and there are additional parking stalls in the business district, I expect the situation here will improve.

But there are always those MAGS (Michigan Association of Gift Sales) days when they come from far and wide to buy inventory for their gift stores.

Oh well, like they always say: that's life in the big city.

Lee Snider is the editor of The Northville Record.

Conduct open discussions before deciding to raise ante

Now that the Northville City Council has done the right thing and hired a new architectural firm to handle the renovation of City Hall, there's a possibility the project can get back on track.

The renovation plan was originally budgeted in at $1.4 million, but cost overruns forced estimated costs up to almost $2 million.

In a city with a small annual budget such as Northville, a $600,000 unexpected expense is nothing to sneeze at.

Hopefully, the new firm, the Northville-based Mielock & Associates, will find a way to scale back the project without impacting any of the key elements of the design.

It won't be easy, and our guess is that the budget will have to be adjusted upward to reflect the higher construction costs.

If that happens, we'd like to suggest that city officials make a concerted effort to seek out the input of their constituents. It's their money the city will be spending, after all, and any proposal for additional tax dollars should include a careful explanation of the unforeseen expenses and a detailed analysis of where the money will come from.

Cost overruns on major projects are not uncommon but should always be accompanied by open discussions.

Use that back fence to make friends

Tom the Patrolman died this month.

We called him that because the 80-some-year-old man would walk the five houses from his small ranch to the end of the street and back several times a day.

It helped his poor circulation, he said.

In the summer, he wore shorts and a white V-neck T-shirt. In the winter, a brown coat and a bright orange knit cap.

Steve, my husband, and I first met Tom when we moved into the old-style Livonia subdivision last year. The homes are close together, so it's easy to talk to your neighbors over the fence.

You can't help but wave across the yard when you walk out back.

Tom, standing in his driveway chewing tobacco, would hold his hand up high in a kind of salute each morning as I left for work and each night I came home. In the morning he'd yell, "Don't work too hard." In the evening he'd ask, "How's it going?"

Many times during our long weekends of painting the trim or cleaning the gutters, Tom would often tell us to slow down. "You work too hard," he would remark.

Tom the Patrolman kept an eye on all the neighbors. He got our mail and newspapers when we went out of town. Once, he watched my home from a chair on his driveway when the men came to refinish the wood floors. I didn't ask. He just did it.

A couple months ago, the Patrolman suffered a "near stroke" and was rushed to the hospital. He was supposed to gather the mail for several neighbors. "Make sure you get everyone's mail," he told his wife Helen on his way to the hospital.

Tom came home and after a few weeks began patrolling the end of the street again. Steve made it a point to go outside and talk a while with Tom each time he passed our front window.

We went on vacation earlier this month and returned on a Sunday night to bad news. Tom was out walking one day and as he got to the end of the street to turn right back around, he collapsed dead of a heart attack.

Steve and I told Helen that night how lucky we had been to have met her "Tommy" and now have a wonderful memory.

I bring it up because I've often heard Novi residents complain about their neighborhoods. That in the winter everyone stays indoors with the heat on and in the summer the air conditioning clicks on and the doors stay closed. I've heard many complaints about how residents don't know who lives next door to them. Or across the street.

If that's true, I suggest everyone go find out.

You may come to know someone like Tom the Patrolman. It may not be too late.

Speeding motorists must 'wake up'

Your opinion or article "Can't legislate respect for life and property" was well received and I agree that real change will only occur if we all commit to doing so. Change is difficult.

It is not only speed and avoiding 30 second delays, but getting back to basics for many. The law is clear for turns on red, after stopping and when clear, proceed. This legislation (right on red) originated in California, I believe.

How many do you see daily who roll well past the stop bar or line well into the intersection, blocking crosswalks and, you are right, "to heck with folks on foot or in vehicles." All to save time and never mind the rules of the road or common courtesies. Instead we get road rage and no margin for error. Some drive like there is no tomorrow.

While our officers are doing their best, they cannot be everywhere at once. And I'd be willing to bet that the majority of offenders won't even read or take time to read your editorials. Hopefully, a wake up call will be heard. For some, it's sad to say, there won't be a tomorrow.

Writer supports fire department

To the editor:

After the disastrous fire at the condos (Six Mile and Haggerty), there was a lot of criticism of our Northville Township Fire Department.

I would like to stick up for the volunteers who man the fire department. I am very grateful to each and every one of them even though I have never needed them. I know they are there if I ever need them at any hour of the day or night.

I am always amazed that their response time isn't longer. I am sure that a minute seems like 10 when you are watching your house burn.

This fire wasn't a kitchen fire. I have a cousin that lives near the fire and when the propane tank exploded, it was like a bomb had hit the house.

The volunteers spend a lot of their time in training. When they get a call they never know what to expect and they don't say, I just sat down for dinner and I'll be there when I finish. They run for their clothes and off they go.

I am sure the person who was responsible for this fire will never have a peaceful day the rest of his life. It is a warning to all of us to be more careful and when the label on the can says to keep away from flames, that is exactly what it means.

We can all be thankful that no lives were lost as no amount of insurance ever replaces everything that is lost.

To all the volunteers in the fire department, I say thank you for being there and I hope I never need your services. I for one appreciate you and I am sure that there are thousands more in the township who do, too.

Med technicians saved writer's life

To the editor:

On July 29, I had a near fatal reaction to medication. Thanks to the prompt and excellent care of our Northville Township E.M.S. people, I survived.

I would like to publicly express a heart-felt thank you to each person who worked on me.

We should all be very grateful to and proud of these very special people.

"The toughest job in the world isn't being President.

Its being a parent."

Every day, I work hard to meet the challenges that come with being President of the United States.

It's a tough job. But there's a tougher job than being the President. It's being a parent.

With drugs, crime and other problems facing our children today, it's tougher than ever to be a good parent.

It's a job that none of us can do alone. That's why 350 wonderful organizations have come together to form the Coalition For America's Children - to help good parents raise good kids.

The Coalition knows hundreds of ways that you can help. Whether you're a young adult who can serve as a role model for troubled teens or a retired person who can supervise an after-school program, the Coalition can get you involved.

To find out what you can do right in your own community, contact the Coalition. They'll help you find a role that fits your schedule and your interests. Whether it's a few afternoons a week or a few hours a month, any time you can give will make a difference.

Thank you.

Judge shortage looks like political plot

Something weird is going on in the invisible lairs of our federal judiciary. It is hurting the public. I would like to lay blame where it belongs, but so far I haven't determined the culprit.

There is a shortage of judges. Time magazine reported that 100 seats are vacant on the 844-person federal bench - almost 12 percent.

Federal judges - for the Supreme Court, Circuit Courts of Appeals and regional district benches - are nominated by the president and confirmed by the U.S. Senate.

Sen. Spencer Abraham, R-Mich., says he's not to blame because Bill Clinton has yet to nominate people for 78 of the 100 vacancies. In an interview, Abraham said he has worked to process the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals nominees in the Senate Judiciary Committee in a timely way.

What does it mean to you? Well, by federal law, criminal cases must take precedence over civil cases. Makes sense.

But consider the nature of some of the civil cases: shareholder lawsuits, product liability suits, medical malpractice, employment discrimination. One of the delays has involved a class action suit of former Ameritech employees in metro Detroit. The workers won before a panel of the Circuit Court of Appeals. Ameritech appealed to the full circuit bench.

The longer Ameritech can delay, the more it will cost the employees in legal fees, and the more likely they are to settle for less. If those cases are pushed back and delayed, who wins? Why, the defendant businesses, of course.

There are two ways to change public policy. One is to rewrite the law, which is difficult. The other is to starve an agency into ineffectiveness, which we have seen at the state and federal levels with environmental laws and workplace regulations.

Many judicial posts have been vacant as long as 18 months. The 6th Circuit Court of Appeals, which meets in Cincinnati and serves Michigan, used to dispose of cases in a year. Now it takes 14 to 18 months.

It's common for business managers to tell employees, loftily: "Do more with less." I would like to hear a glib management guru tell that to a federal judge.

What's going haywire? Here are a few clues: • In 1996 Senate Republicans may have been slow to confirm nominees in the hope that Clinton would be replaced in the White House in 1997.

• This year, according to Time, the Senate is taking a record 183 days on average to confirm. Wire services report senators are wary of liberal, judicial activism, and are trying to guess the rulings of cases before they vote to confirm.

Is this the Republican-controlled U.S. Senate's trick to achieve "tort reform"? Abraham says no. I think maybe.

• Senate Democrats have reportedly been pokey in recommending names to the White House.

• The White House has been slow to make appointments. Clinton reportedly promised to send two dozen names to Capitol Hill by July 4.

In the eastern district of Michigan, there are three vacancies: Julian A. Cook Jr. and Barbara Hackett have taken senior status, and George LaPlata has retired.

At the Circuit Court of Appeals level, Ralph B. Guy of Ann Arbor and Damon Keith of Detroit have taken senior status; H. Theodore Milbourn of Tennessee has retired.

When there's a 12 percent shortage of help, more pressure is put on the existing employees. And if over-65 judges work quarter-time on senior status, the pressure on the elderly gets worse yet.

It smells like a plot, but so far I can't name the perpetrator, just the victims.

Couple are batty over fabled flying creatures

Pair hope to change negative image

By JAN JEFFRES

Staff Writer

The bats aren't in the belfry. But Williamston couple Rob Mies and Kim Williams do have bats in the basement, 25 of them.

Six years ago, while still in graduate school at Eastern Michigan University, the couple began studying the much-maligned little creature, the world's only flying mammal. True converts, they started the Organization for Bat Conservation, which they run from their home in Williamston.

Mies blames Hollywood for much of the bad rap bats get.

"A lot of people think of bats as like vermin - they view them as pests. You're always told they'll get caught in your hair," Mies said.

"A lot of people are fearful, they think they all have rabies."

So one of the first things Mies does is dispel bat myths. Bats aren't blind; they don't want to run their wings through human hair. While just like any other mammal, a bat can get rabies, most don't. Those that do have the disease, typically sink away and die quietly, rather than becoming aggressive.

As with all wild animals, like them or not, don't touch them, don't pick them up. A frightened bat may bite for self-protection.

Except for a tiny South American species that preys on farm animals - Mies calls them souped up mosquitoes - bats won't bite other than in self-defense.

Williams is a naturalist. Mies was planning a career in environmental law when he got hooked by biology and figured there were enough lawyers around.

"We talk to between 50,000 to 100,000 people a year. In 10 or 20 years, we hope we'll be able to change things around and say most people don't like bats, instead of most people don't like bats," Mies said. "They're not scary. They're not bloodsucking."

Along with running some 600 public education programs nationwide each year, the organization is dedicated to research on bats, rescue of the injured and orphaned, and conservation. The Michigan couple have been called in as consultants for bat preservation programs in Costa Rica, Australia and Bob Mies palms one of the 25 or so bats he and his wife, Kim Williams, care for.

"In 10 or 20 years, we hope we'll be able to change things around and say most people like bats, instead of most people don't like bats."

-Bat expert Bob Mies

India. In many areas, the bat population is in decline as it comes up against development.

Locally, bats typically live in the bark of a dead tree. In regions with caves or mines, they'll congregate there. Some species of bats prefer to form colonies, while others go solo. Besides, humans, bats need to fear owls, hawks, blue jays and raccoons.

Mies quickly wins over converts when skeptics are presented with the simple fact that one Michigan bat can chomp down some 3,000 mosquitoes a night, the equivalent of their own body weight. They also find gypsy moths appetizing. Insect control is one reason backyard bat houses are becoming popular. The OBC sells bat houses in the $30 to $60 range, with a design that offers the bat mesh to grab onto when it lands, so it can easily back into the dwelling.

About 15 minutes after sunset, the bats come out for their nightly feeding. Mies' and Williams' country home is dotted with bat houses throughout the property and they net the bats for study.

"There is so much misinformation standing, so little information known. In some of our research, we're at the forefront," Mies said.

"Before, the way they studied bats was they'd go out and shoot one down and say, 'that's a red bat.' Now we can put tiny radio transmitters on bats with surgical glue."

Bats kept for the organization's programs include exotic species donated by zoos like the Egyptian fruit bat from the Bronx Zoo and the straw-colored flying fox bats donated by a zoo in Portland, Ore. Others are Michigan bats that are too badly injured to be released back into the wild and become teaching bats.

"We work with them for at least a year before we bring them before the public," Mies said.

The Michigan bats are micro bats. You can just barely hear the high-frequency noise they make when echo-locating, a form of bat radar that bounces sound impulses off objects.

A bat's wing, their equivalent of a human arm and hand, is amazingly and elegantly constructed. At the end of the wing, the slim bones are the bat's equivalent of a thumb and four fingers.

Without both wings, they die, unless they are in the hands of a rehabilitator. The OBC has two one-winged bats. Each had wings so badly damaged they had to be removed.

One of these is a hoary bat, found in a bush by construction workers, who played kickball with it, until observers intervened and called a nature center. At 5-years-old, this bat is now the oldest known of its species and has been retired from the teaching circuit.

Another was flying in someone's home and the resident attempted to push it out of the house with a broom, breaking a wing.

"They saw she was in pain and she was crying. They called a nature center. They felt bad," Mies said.

The larger fruit bats, or megabats, look a bit like flying puppies and are more responsive to their handlers. Unlike the micro bats, they live on fruit and nectar. Particularly appealing is the straw-colored flying fox bats, blonde with a four-foot wing span.

Emily Casterline

EMILY F. CASTERLINE

Emily F. Casterline died Aug. 14, 1997, at her residence in Northville. She was 75. Mrs. Casterline was born Dec. 23, 1921, in Highland Park, Mich., to Julius and Sophie (Huegel) Sander.

Mrs. Casterline, a homemaker, was a lifelong member of the community. She graduated in 1939 from Plymouth High School, and devoted many years of service to Casterline Funeral Home, the family business. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Northville.

Mrs. Casterline is survived by her son, Ray J. (Roxanne) of Northville; sisters Matilda (Tillie)

Schultz of Canton, Madeline Penney of Plymouth, and Shirley Brokas of Plymouth; and four grandchildren, Courtney (Erich) Ross, Kelly, Lindsey, and Whitney, all of Northville.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Fred A., in May 1992, and by one of her sisters.

Services were held on Monday, Aug. 18, at Casterline Funeral Home. Dr. Douglas W. Vernon of First United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Memorials to the First United Methodist Church, 777 W. Eight Mile Road, Northville, MI 48167 would be appreciated.

ELEANOR TAYLOR

Eleanor (Ellie) Taylor died Aug. 18, in St. Mary Hospital in Livonia. She was 80. Mrs. Taylor was born in Lansing on Nov. 5, 1916, to Arthur and Grace (Morgan) Hurd.

A resident of Northville since 1958, Mrs. Taylor was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville. She was a graduate of Michigan State University.

She is survived by her husband, Neal C. of Northville; son, Dan (Janet) of Petoskey; and grandson, Colin Taylor.

Services were held on Thursday, Aug. 21, at Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home with the Rev. W. Kent Clise and the Rev. James P.

Russell officiating. Interment was in Riverside Cemetery in Albion, Mich. Memorials to a charity of choice would be appreciated.

LYLE H. JOHNSON

Lyle H. Johnson died Aug. 16, in Northfield Place Nursing Home in Whitmore Lake. He was 57. Mr. Johnson was born Feb. 11, 1940, in Farmington Hills to Homer and Edna (Springer) Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was a lifelong resident of the area. He owned and operated the Dumont Taxidermy Shop until 1995.

He is survived by daughters, Darlene Johnson of Plymouth and Christine Schott of Acworth, Ga.; son, Glenn of Detroit; mother, Edna (Arthur) Hazen of Howell; sisters, Lillian Kileen of Honor, Mich., and Evelyn McLeod of Zephyr Springs, Fla.; and grandsons, Matthew Schott and Christopher Olson. Mr. Johnson was preceded in death by his father, Homer Johnson.

Services were held on Monday, Aug. 18, at Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home, with the Rev. James P. Russell of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiating. Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Memorials to a charity of choice would be appreciated.

Survey shows hike in salaries

Salaries in Southeast Michigan continued their upward trend during 1996, fueled by strong economic growth and easing unemployment, according to a newly released survey by the American Society of Employers (ASE).

The 1997 Salary Survey - Southeast Michigan Region reported a 3.6 percent average increase in overall base pay between 1995 and 1996. In addition, projections for 1997 indicate that increases in variable pay will more than compensate for an expected slight decline in merit pay both for clerical/technical and professional employees.

"If economic growth continues, as most forecasts indicate it will, the resulting demand for employees in Southeast Michigan will most likely boost salaries and wages," ASE Survey Manager Sal LoCicero said.

The 1997 survey, which covered 289 firms with 349,000 employees in the 13-county region surrounding metropolitan Detroit, also reported that 76 percent of the responding companies pay bonuses while only 7 percent pay cost of living allowances (COLA).

In other findings:

- The average overall variable compensation as a percentage of base salary was 3.5 percent among the 76 percent of respondents that currently offer some form of variable compensation (e.g. group/team incentives, profit-sharing, one-time individual "spot" awards, skill-based pay, and lump-sum bonuses).

- Turnover rates (which include separations due to resignation, discharge, retirement, death, transfers to other locations, etc.) are generally higher for clerical/technical employees (16.1 percent) than for professional employees (7.1 percent).

In a related study of 176 Southeast Michigan engineering firms conducted by ASE, findings revealed that overall salaries in the engineering field increased 3.6 percent between May 1996 and May 1997.

Chief engineers in the companies surveyed received the highest annual salary, averaging $98,787. Engineer I (higher-level) positions paid an average annual salary of $54,303, followed by engineer II (mid-level) positions at $45,200, and engineer III (entry-level) positions at $39,260. In addition, 65 percent of the respondents reported that staff engineers are eligible for additional cash or non-cash compensation.

For more information or a copy of the surveys, contact Sal LoCicero at the American Society of Employers, (248) 353-4500.

SAME TIME NEXT YEAR?

Reunion is like a convention when the numbers are in the thousands Gillian Mashni, the owner of the Gi Gi and Co. salon in Novi, recently attended one of the country's largest family reunions in July.

Four thousand of her relatives, a group called the American Federation of Ramallah, Palestine, met in Dearborn in July.

Reunions began with just a few families 39 years ago. All are descendants of a father and his sons from Ramallah, Palestine.

"In the beginning, a few families used to meet somewhere annually and it kept growing and got more organized," Mashni said. "This one, we broke all the records. This is the biggest one we've ever had."

Also called conventions, the annual celebration begins with a welcome dinner and party on Wednesday and continues with a variety of activities through Sunday morning. On Thursday an event is planned outside the hotel and on Saturday, a big family night is planned.

"Every night there are receptions," Mashni said. "One for the younger group and one for the older group with a deejay for the kids and a band for the adults."

"The big parties are at night and everybody attends," she said. "They stay up all night long. I don't think I got to bed before 4:30 a.m. and that was early for me."

During the day optional activities like sightseeing or shopping are planned.

"I used to go to every function they planned, just to go," she said. "The lobby is kind of a congregat-

Family passes torch to the next generation

Barbara and Emerson Dewhirst, residents of Northville for 10 years, have planned plenty of family reunions in their day and now the "children" have taken over.

One of eight sisters and a brother, Barbara said their days of getting the troops together are over.

"It was time to turn it over to the next generation," she said. "Because we've done it so many times years back, it's the next generation's turn."

So Brighton residents Ginger Edison and David Wilson, the children of Barbara's sister Bobbie, organized the whole thing.

"Now we're the older ones sitting around watching our children and grandchildren," Barbara said.

Wearing colored-coded T-shirts, 130 family members, all descendants of Fred and Estella Groves of Redford Township, converged on Chilson Park in Brighton on July 6.

Keeping in mind the six men in her family who wouldn't be caught dead wearing pink, including Emerson, their two sons and three grandsons, Barbara got her reservation in early and chose turquoise T-shirts. For the late-comers, the pickins' were slim.

"We were running out of colors. We had at least eight," Barbara said. "It was just like a fashion show, all these colors running around. Everyone stopped and wondered what was happening."

"They did a heck of a good job," Barbara added.

The reunion began at sun up with a big cookout breakfast dished up by Barbara's brother. It ended at sun down.

Family members received updates during the month preceding the reunion.

"I thought that was kind of neat," she said. "The young people on computers can do that kind of stuff."

Each family brought their own food and drinks, unlike in the past when each family brought a dish to share with a meat entree.

"We found that this worked out very well," because so children are selective eaters, she said. "With everybody cleaning up their own table, it cleared up real fast."

Torrential rains had everyone scurrying for the shelter of the pavilion at one point during the day. The cost of pavilion rental had been split between Barbara and her siblings. Throughout the day, the games for children were announced by age group and the prizes were handed out.

"All these shirts came running," Barbara said. "It was so adorable."

Games for adults were available for those who wanted to participate. Under the pavilion, card games were going on. One participant brought out the golf clubs and it didn't take long before a group of men were hitting plastic golf balls.

Not something that was organized by the family but that was available for any park visitor to take advantage of, were horse and buggy rides.

FAMILY REUNION ACTIVITIES

• Make a family tree. From a simple chart to a complete pictorial genealogical map, relatives will get a kick out of finding their branch and looking up other family members.

• Bring old photos that were never properly identified. Have everyone take a look at the pictures to see if they can identify the relatives in the snapshot. Indicate who brought each picture to avoid any confusion.

• Reunions may be a good time to return any borrowed items. Even if you don't remember, the lender may recognize the lost tool, etc.

• Remember the name tags, especially at large family gatherings. It helps people relax if they don't have to worry about not remembering a name. Childhood photos can be added to name tags. Color-coded name tags can help sort out from whom a member is descended.

• Make a video or audio recording of the reunion and family members, especially older relatives, so that others can enjoy, remember or learn about their background.

• Begin a time capsule of memorabilia, like photos, audio and visual tapes and a scrapbook, which can be brought to future reunions and added to year after year.

• Cookbooks and family history books can be great options to generate money to help fund future get-togethers. Their own recipes are also a nice way to pass on traditions. Priced to sell, other items imprinted with the family tree can also be sold.

• Research all the ethnic groups in the family and celebrate the ethnicity through themes, activities, and food.

Ron Ehlert has been volunteering for NYA for 10 years.

Ehlert hoping to make a difference

A boy doesn't have to be fatherless to benefit from the Northville Youth Assistance program.

Ron Ehlert, who has been a resident of Northville along with his wife, Catherine, since 1974, has volunteered for the better part of a decade with the NYA program. In that time, he has been a mentor to two boys - the first for about three years until the boy and his mother moved away when she remarried, and the second who is now a junior in high school.

"In many ways you are doing things a parent would do but in many other ways you are doing things a friend would do," he said. Ehlert met his current client when he was about 10-years-old.

Both boys have fathers. The first didn't see his father very often and the second sees him every other weekend.

With his daughter grown and married, a nice job and a lovely home, Ehlert became a volunteer as a way to give back to the community.

"Northville has been very nice to me," he said.

When it was his client's mother's birthday, Ehlert asked the boy if he had ever made a cake. When the answer came back no, he suggested they go to his house to make a birthday cake to take to his mother.

"His mom was on cloud nine," Ehlert said. "That's where you get your little rewards."

Other activities Ehlert has enjoyed with the boys include a visit to the Toledo Zoo, to the library, miniature golf, and a University of Michigan basketball game. Sometimes they have gone to Hines Park and sat on the swings and talked, played cards, helped with homework, or gone out to supper.

"There's a thousand different things you can do with kids, things I hadn't even thought about with my daughter that you learn," he said.

until 4 p.m. at the Cady Inn in Mill Race Village.

Victorian costumes for children or adults will be available for anyone wishing to change or complete an existing outfit or begin to put together a new look.

There is no cost to participate, no preregistration, and the community is invited.

For more information, call Mill Race activities chairperson and Northville Historical Society board member Sonia Swigart at 348-2947.

Resident wins free groceries

Northville resident Cynthia Caporale won $103.39 worth of groceries on the house during the first week of Vic's World Class Market's "VicTory Wednesday" promotion.

"It was a great surprise," said Caporale, who was not aware that the store was holding a contest. Caporale, along with her husband Thomas, have lived in Northville for eight years.

Caporale usually packs wine, fruits and vegetables, and flowers into her weekly shopping bags at Vic's, located at 42875 Grand River in Novi. Caporale said she spent "a little more that week" than usual.

Every Wednesday through the month of August, a shopper from each Vic's store will be chosen at random.

Cashiers at the Vic's markets in Southfield and Novi will be handing out entry forms at the check-out counters on Wednesdays. Customers register their name, address, phone number and receipt total and drop the form off at the customer service desk before leaving. The winners will be selected at the end of the day and will be notified the following day. The winners will then be asked to bring in the original dated store receipt and proper identification to cash in on VicTory Wednesdays.

The customer's photo will be featured at the check out lane that handled the order.

Participants need to register for parade

Anyone interested in entering the Northville Victorian Festival parade this year will be required to register in advance.

Registration is necessary for this, the ninth annual parade, which is scheduled for Friday, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p.m. The increasing size of the parade prompted the registration requirement.

All groups, including bands, school groups, businesses, civic organizations, marching and equestrian units, and antique automobile owners are required to register.

Only costumed individuals can show up without registering. People interested in assisting in parade planning, organization and line-up are also needed.

To reserve a spot in the parade line-up, to volunteer, or to receive more information, call parade chairperson Donna Pallas at (248) 348-3767 no later than Friday, Sept. 5.

Reunion is planned for former residents

Former residents of Detroit's Twelfth Street have a chance to catch up on what their old neighbors are doing at these yearly get-togethers.

This year's celebration will be held from 6 p.m. to midnight on Sept. 27 at St. Mary's Cultural Center, 18100 Merriman Road in Livonia.

The cost is $29.50 per person and includes dinner and dancing to the music of Solitaire. There is an open bar.

To reserve a spot, send a check by Sept. 6 to Vince Tobia, 1132 Concord Ct., Northville, MI 48167. For more information, call Tobia at (248) 348-2951.

If you have information for the In Our Town column, call Carol Workens, Feature Editor at 349-1700.

Reunion is leisurely event for couple

"Everybody had something to do besides all the chit chatting," Barbara said.

It had been seven years since the last reunion.

The Grand Master Family Reunion, as it was called, was held in 1990 when Barbara's father, fondly called the Grand Master, was still alive.

"He was our key," she said. "We still had a parent. He would kick the ball around and play soccer."

He wore a shirt with "Grand Master" silk screened on it.

Prior to 1990, the family had met every three or four years.

"We decided to do it every two years now instead of waiting so long," she said.

Barbara's siblings range in age from 50 to 76. Two sisters died within the last year - Marion and Marge - and were remembered by family members.

Marge's family had "Marge Brown's Division" on their T-shirts.

"We talked them into coming," Barbara said. "They are part of it." Most family members had customized their T-shirts.

Sister Nancy, who has 17 family members, had the name of each family member silk-screened on the front of the T-shirt and a number on the back. The numbers began with Nancy's husband at number 1 and Nancy at 2, all the way down to the youngest grandchild at 17.

The reunions have always been held in Michigan. The big ones, as Barbara calls the reunions prior to 1990 when her aunts, uncles and parents were alive, were held at Kensington Park. Other reunions were held in Farmington and at Hines Park in Northville.

Sister Nancy Lambrix of Roseville brought along a scrapbook she had put together with pictures of her mother and father from the time they were young up to the present.

"Everyone spent all kinds of time looking through this scrapbook that Nancy made up just for this occasion," Barbara said.

Family members who live locally in Michigan get a chance to see each other more frequently, but for relatives who came from other parts of Michigan, as well as Florida, Georgia, and Arizona, it was a great opportunity to meet for the first or get caught up on the last seven years.

With a little encouragement, Barbara's shy 12-year-old granddaughter met an equally bashful 12-year-old cousin who was sitting by her grandparents. Soon the pair were joined by more cousins.

"They needed encouragement and then they had a great time," Barbara said.

"No catastrophes happened," she said. "That's the way we want it."

ing area during the day and a way to visit with people."

Every year, a vote is taken on where the convention will be held in two years, which gives the families in the hosting city a couple of years to make plans. Next year the convention will be in Houston. In 1999 the Cleveland group will be the host and in the year 2000, the reunion will be held in Ramallah.

"It is a family reunion because we are all connected," she said.

Usually held the weekend after the July 4 holiday, other convention sites have included San Diego, Calif., Washington, D.C., Nashville, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala.

"I remember going when I was a child - it was huge to me then," Mashni said. "There is generally well over 2,000 people."

Conventions held in the Detroit area are the biggest, because there is a larger group of descendants here. But people come from all over the country and world.

uncles come in, they'll ask 'what is your name and who is your father?' Mashni said. "Oh, yes we knew your father and your grandfather" they'll say. They know the history really well."

Gillman, 37, has one sister and four brothers. She also has two sons, Joseph 10, and Robert 14.

"Our family is very close," she said. "Most people say the immediate family is brothers and sisters," she said. "Ours is more like all my aunts and uncles. We see our cousins pretty regularly."

Every morning there are meetings which are attended by committee members and those who have an interest in voting for the next president and meeting site.

"The hosting group in that city bids for the convention," she said. "It gives the city two years to plan."

Mashni's uncle, Samir Mashni, is president of the American Federation of Ramallah, Palestine this year. To stay in touch with everyone, the group has a monthly newsletter and a directory.

Garden of the Month

Cottage garden overflowing with vibrant color, fragrances

By PATRICIA ZIELKE
Staff Writer

At the home of Sue Boss on Brookwood Drive in Brookland Farms, I was greeted by Mutt and Jiff who, either by design or by circumstance, are English spaniel/husky/lab mix breeds.

The energetic duo led me up a curving stone path to an amazing English cottage garden which is embraced by a 3-foot high pre-Civil War gated iron fence endowed with a patina only time and the elements could have produced.

Towering above a fenceline of east bonnet alyssum (integrated purple/white) are plump yellow snapdragons peeking through the twisted fence grill. Flowers are everywhere.

The home, built three years ago, is a handsome Cape Cod with an English accent, and the garden's design punctuates the English influence. Flowers abound on both sides of a path leading to the front porch.

Some of the plantings include shasta daisy, varieties of bush roses, gooseneck loosestrife (an old timer), lithrum, rudbeckia, spiderwort, mallow, balloon flowers, spider plant, red, pink and white phlox, and obedient plant (Sue said, "The reason it's called 'obedient' is when you gently move any small part of the flower to another position, it will 'obediently' stay").

There are coral bells, purple palace, dwarf astilbe and galardia. Also, according to Sue, garden rue, planted near the home's entrance, brings good health and good fortune. Moving away from the more traditional window box plantings, Sue has combined creeping Jenny and violas with very attractive results.

The entire landscape is vibrant with color and architecturally pleasing. My attention eventually rested on old-time hollyhocks and delphinium planted along the walk and close to the porch.

Nostalgia - a gentle nudge back in time when I was a small child in my mother's garden making dolls from wood clothespins and Holly-hock "dresses."

And the sentimental journey continued as I spotted a worn, but vintage, combination wood and iron lounge chair standing in a corner of the porch just waiting to hold an exhausted gardener on its comfortable old lap.

At the sides of the porch, two Japanese maples stand in the company of holly, cone flowers and lady's mantle. Between stepping stones is lemon thyme, almost every ligularia known to man, hot pink yarrow, Johnson's geranium and ornamental grass called trembling heart.

Moving around the side, a waterfall spills over large flat rocks into a 3 1/2-foot deep pond kept clean by a biological filtering system. The pond, within hearing distance of the master bedroom, is home to frogs, toads, gold fish and a big turtle who roams the neighborhood.

The pond's inhabitants live among pickerel weed, parrot's feather, four-leaf clover, iris, ligularia, snake grass and marsh marigolds. If insomnia hits, the family doesn't count sheep - they count "croaks and ribblits, ribblits, ribblits."

Not only amphibians are cared for there. Bird feeders, butterflies and bird houses have been placed throughout the garden to accommodate transients or permanent guests. And a variety of plants, such as teasels, comprise a growing banquet table for the flying feathered.

Now we're closing in on vigorous vegetable and herb gardens which continue to produce wide selections of garden treats. The family has already enjoyed an abundance of sweet strawberries. They must harvest the fruit quickly, however, before Jiff (who thinks he's a human) runs through the patch chomping off the berries he wants for lunch.

Another tid-bit from Sue: Plant

chamomile between walk stones, and when you stray from the stones pressing the chamomile underfoot, (ouch!) the plant produces a pleasant aroma.

Along the back path is a small hidden cove with an entrance stone inscribed "secret garden." Wild ginger, trillium, Jacob's ladder, bouncing bet, fern, iris and a number of other wild flowers grow there, plus plants started from seeds.

Many of the plants will be transplanted to the main garden.

Just when you think the garden journey has ended you can almost hear the Boston ivy climbing up the chimney, while close by, trellises host moon flowers and passion flowers on their long ascent. Along with a 130-year-old bonzai and an akebia vine purchased from Matthal Gardens are cupid's dart, blue morning glory, astors, a butterfly bush, love in a mist and menarda.

In front of steps leading to a spring porch and sun room, Sue is nurturing patches of Irish moss, which are very durable and growing in decomposed granite. A collection of violets and pansies find protective shelter near an east wall and bloom throughout the winter. The area seems to be a micro climate insulated from the killing frost.

This enchanting garden began three years ago after excavating 2 1/2-feet of dirt which was replaced with rich workable soil.

Much has been accomplished in a short time, but Sue's garden plans are still unfolding. Beds will be added and some will be changed.

However, from my point of view - it's just perfect as it is.

It's worth dropping everything to consolidate your bills to just $71* a month.

Eating isn't important. Not when you can consolidate your bills into an incredibly low monthly payment. For example, borrow $10,000 with our "Prime for Life" Home Equity Credit Line and pay just $71* a month. In fact, you ought to open a checking account so you'll have some place to put all that extra money.

For details, call 1-800-628-7074, or visit any banking office.

Student finishes at top in program

Stefanie Russell finished as the first runner-up in the Distinguished Youth of Michigan Scholarship and Recognition Program held in Kalamazoo in May.

Stefanie, an eighth grade student at Cooke Middle School, also received first place trophies in the modeling and sportswear categories and placed first in the essay category for her paper entitled "President for a Day."

As a first runner up, she received a $200 scholarship for college.

The daughter of Sheryl and Robert Russell of Novi raised $400 to enter the event through several sponsors, including Consignment Clothiers and Interiors; Gaylord Thomas of McDonald Ford; gardenviews; and Mike Kerr of Varsity Lincoln Mercury.

Sheryl Russell didn't know why they were selected to receive the Distinguished Youth of Michigan program notice, which came in the mail. It was Stephanie's first time entering the contest.

The program is designed to recognize girls who rank high academically and are strong leaders in their schools and communities. The judging criteria used to select the two state representatives from Michigan includes scholastic record, service to school and community, personality projection and interview.

Stefanie's community service work includes volunteering on a high school project to help clean up the Northville's Rural Hill Cemetery, involvement in a multiple sclerosis fund-raiser and work for the Plymouth Church of Christ Youth Group.

An all-A student, her favorite subjects include English, writing, reading and science. Her top three choices for a career are teacher, architect or neonatal doctor.

In her spare time, Stephanie babysits.

Stefanie competed against 50 girls in her age group.

With his first client, Ehler sometimes just shot basketballs.

"The purpose of this program is to be a friend, and what do friends do? Play basketball, go to the Northville Library to do research on school papers, help with math problems and concepts," he said.

Ehler tries to give his client the benefit of his experience in terms of looking at things in his life that are happening that he can't really explain.

"The approach you have to take is be a friend, listen, point out alternatives, try to get them to see the direction they want to go in," he said.

"If you've been a parent to somebody it's hard to put yourself in the position of friend," he said. "What these kids need is somebody to listen to without being judgmental. As a volunteer it's hard not to talk sometimes, it's hard to listen, but that's what you have to do."

NYA has optional monthly meetings where volunteers can share different insights into what works with kids.

"It is interesting to find out how other volunteers treat different situations," he said. "Each volunteer is different, each client is different. The primary thing is you have to be willing to share a part of your life."

"I think the program is a terrific program. You get them when they are very young and you sort of release them or they naturally gravitate away at 14, 15, or 16," he said. "All you can hope to do is to give them a little different perspective."

The NYA has a booth at the Victorian Festival every year and Ehler and his clients have worked the booth.

"You go where your relationship leads you," he said. "It's what you as a volunteer feel comfortable with."

"If I can do it an hour a week or so," he said. "It's time well spent."

The next volunteer training session begins Sept. 29. For more information, call NYA Director Mary Ellen King at 344-1618.

In Service

NAVY LT. THOMAS P. O'DOWD is halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea with Fighter Squadron 14 (VF-14), embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy.

During the first half of the deployment, O'Dowd and shipmates volunteered their time to paint, landscape or repair schools, orphanages and churches while visiting France, Slovenia and Spain.

Home based at Naval Air Station Oceana, Virginia Beach, Va., O'Dowd's squadron flies the Navy's F-14B Tomcat, a supersonic fighter capable of intercepting enemy aircraft. The Tomcat is also used in reconnaissance.

O'Dowd, the son of Dr. Kathleen L. O'Dowd of Northville, graduated from Livonia Stevenson High School and Kalamazoo College.

Cop has to choose: uphold the law or protect his idols

In the city of New York, a crime is committed every eight seconds. But just across the river in New Jersey lies a quiet town called Garrison, where some of New York's finest return home. It's a place where the local sheriff wears the badge — but the big city cops own the town.

Garrison Sheriff Freddy Heflin (Sylvester Stallone) always dreamed of becoming one of them — but now he's discovered something that could force him to choose between protecting his idols and upholding the law.

Directed by James Mangold (from his own original screenplay), "Cop Land" is a gripping police drama about a community of corrupt cops and the local sheriff who is pushed by a big-city Internal Affairs investigator (Robert De Niro) to take them on.

"Cop Land" opens as NYPD officer Murray Babitch (Michael Rapaport) is hitting the road after a night on the town in New York City.

Babitch is just one of many NYPD cops who work and play in the big city by day, but return home to Garrison, New Jersey — a quiet little town across the George Washington Bridge so overflowing with cops they call it Cop Land — by night.

Driving home across the bridge, Babitch gets sideswiped by a pair of guys on a wild late-night joy ride. In a fury, he races to catch up to their speeding vehicle, only to find they're pointing what he believes is a gun in his face. Out of instinct, Babitch grabs his own weapon, shoots, and winds up firing into the joyriders' car, killing them both.

In no time, the bridge is wall to wall cops, including Babitch's uncle, and one of the ruling officers of Cop Land, Ray Donlan (Harvey Keitel). One look inside the wreckage reveals the object pointed at Babitch was no gun, just a steering wheel lock. Banging together, the cops devise Babitch's way out: plant a gun in the front seat of the wreckage and have Babitch "disappear" into the cold waters of the Hudson River. Now, the newspapers have an entirely different story to tell, as the morning headlines recount the courageous exploits of the missing, and presumed deceased "Hero Cop."

As time passes, what really happened to Babitch and the two deceased motorists becomes the subject of an intense media frenzy, bringing big-city internal affairs investigator Moe Tilden (De Niro) onto the scene. He's certain there's a cover-up going on, and he wants to pull onto his side to help prove it.

So Freddy (Stallone) joins forces with Tilden to uncover the secrets that will expose the corruption, change the rules and alter the entire landscape of "Cop Land."

For thousands of years, man has been evolution's greatest creation... Until now.

Torrence grabs wrestling silver at Jr. Olympics

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Rick Torrence is a silver medalist.

The Northville High senior took second place in wrestling at the Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics earlier this month in North Carolina. He made it all the way to the finals of the 123-pound weight division before falling.

"Every match was like wrestling a semi-final state match," Torrence said.

He qualified for team Michigan back in May. Torrence had to finish in the top two of his weight class in a qualifying tournament held in Roseville to make the squad.

"I won the tournament," Rick said. "It was great competition."

It was quite an achievement considering the tournament was freestyle, which is substantially different from school competitions.

Torrence said many more points are scored on throws. Wrestlers actually get more points on a throw than a take down, which is the primary way wrestlers score in school matches.

It's a much more dangerous style of wrestling from an injury standpoint, Torrence said.

"In freestyle," he added, "you're on your own. It's like a free-for-all."

In all, Torrence won five matches at the qualifying tournament.

Team Michigan was formed a few weeks after the Roseville event. Rick said the new squad began practicing in June leading up to the August Junior Olympics.

The week-long series of games were held at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. Torrence came away impressed with the South.

"It's beautiful," he said. "I met a lot of friendly people."

A total of 24 teams competed in the Junior Olympic tournament. Squads were divided into pools of 12.

Pool teams wrestled each other round robin. Michigan compiled a 9-2 record and advanced. The locals made it to the finals before losing to a conglomerate of states, Team Mid-Atlantic.

Torrence did well enough in all of those matches make it to the individual championship. Rick made it to the finals before falling to a wrestler from the Mid-Atlantic squad.

The Mustang wrestler was proud of his effort despite the loss. He thinks it will help for the school season this winter.

"I wrestled all summer," he said.

Torrence competed at 112 pounds last year. Wrestling at 123 in the AAU tournament gave him a different challenge.

"When I wrestled kids at 112 I overpowered a lot of them," Rick said. "Here I was forced to use more technique than power."

For now, he's just cherishing his silver medal.

"I'm very happy about it," he said.

Lauren Metaj (above) led Northville in most statistical categories last fall. She's the Mustangs' captain this season.

Opening Act

South Lyon tourney up first for Mustangs

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If you're looking for high-caliber high school basketball this fall, look no farther than your own backyard.

With experience, depth and plenty of talent, Northville High will feature one of the state's best hoop squads. Coach Pete Wright said the Mustangs will have a very versatile lineup and a good measure of size as well.

"We could potentially put four six-footers on the floor at one time," he commented. "We've never been able to do that."

Northville is coming off one of its best seasons in school history.

The Mustangs went 17-6 a year ago and won the Western Lakes Activities Association regular season title for the first time ever. Northville also made it to the district final before losing to Canton.

"We had an excellent year," Wright said.

The Mustangs lost Lyndsay Huot and Gina Chiasson from that squad via graduation. But Wright believes he has players ready to step in and take over for those two starters.

"We will have a different look," he added. "But we'll miss having a big girl (Chiasson) that could handle the ball and we'll miss Lyndsay's leadership."

Northville opens the season Tuesday against New Boston Huron at the South Lyon Tournament.

In preparation for the season, the Mustangs played an extensive summer schedule. Northville played tournaments in Chicago and Davidson as well as attending summer camp.

In all, the squad played 29 games. Wright said the Mustangs won more than 20 of the games.

"We had a nice summer," he added. "We won the Davidson Tournament, which included Canton and Salem."

Despite the loss of Huot and Chiasson, Northville will not lack for experience. The Mustangs return six seniors.

Christine Herndon and Julie Flis will be two vital cogs. Together they will take the power forward and center positions and look to provide scoring, rebounding and interior defense for the Mustangs.

"Herndon and Flis started half of our games last year, and played well," Wright said.

Herndon averaged 6.7 points and more than five rebounds. Flis averaged 5.2 points and 3.7 rebounds.

Wright described Herndon as a tough inside player with good low-post moves. Flis, he said, is a bit more versatile in her offensive game.

"She's more of a fluid player," he said. "She has several moves around the basket and can shoot

Herndon also has range on her jump shot.

"She can shoot the three (point-er)," Wright said.

Having big players who can score from the perimeter makes it tough on opposing defenses, he added.

"It clears out the middle and allows Lauren (Metaj) to create," Wright said.

Metaj, without question, is the catalyst of the team. A third team All-Stater last year, the senior can do it all.

"She might be the best player we've ever had at Northville," Wright said.

Metaj averaged 16.4 points per game, 4.7 rebounds, 4.3 steals and 3.4 assists in her junior campaign. She led the Mustangs in nearly every statistical category.

"I think she can take it to another level," Wright said. "She's in the best shape she's ever been in."

Metaj and many of her teammates worked out all summer to get in that kind of shape. Wright said her conditioning will allow her to play at a high level the entire game.

"She'll be our point guard," he added. "She gets everyone involved."

Senior Karla Kalso will take the other guard slot.

"Her game has improved a lot," Wright said. "The offensive end is where her strengths are. Her mid-range shot off the dribble is improved."

Lori Carbott will likely take the other starting position. The senior will play guard in Northville's three-guard offense.

Senior Lecta Harmer will also see plenty of action.

The coach will rely on his seniors this year.

"We have six seniors that will play and contribute," Wright said.

The Mustangs have a solid group of underclassmen, too.

Sophomores Meredith and Janel Hasse will see their share of action. At 6-1 and 6-0, respectively, the twins will give Northville a defensive presence near the basket.

"They're both very good defenders," Wright said. "They're both learning, offensively."

Freshman Emily Carbott has also made the team. A 5-3 point guard, Wright said she'll help take the heat off Metaj when Northville faces a pressing team.

"She works and works and works at the defensive end," Wright said.

Emily Moak joins the team as well. The junior will play guard.

The WLAA race should come down to five teams. Wright said Northville, Canton, Salem, Walled Lake Central and Farmington Hills Harrison should be the top clubs.

Golfers hope for better start in '97

By SCOTT DANIEL

The Mustang golf team is hoping history won't repeat itself this season.

Northville High didn't have a terrible 1996 campaign, but the Mustangs did get off to a rocky start before coming on strong.

"We started off 0-6 but finished at 5-7 overall," coach Trish Murray said. "We were 5-5 in the WLAA."

Northville lost its top two players from that squad, Eric Swietlik and Rob Rankin. But with a few veterans returning and some promising newcomers, the Mustangs may jump over the .500 mark this fall.

"I'm hoping that we're a better dual match team this year," Murray said. "If the kids shoot their averages or a stroke or two better, we'll be OK."

A total of 40 youngsters tried out for the team. Murray was able to keep just 13 on the varsity.

"The numbers are growing every year," she said, referring to the try-outs.

Phil Cowles heads the list of returning players. The senior played varsity a year ago and should be even stronger this season.

"He played a lot of tournaments over the summer," Murray said. "I expect a bad day for him will be 42 (for nine holes)."

Raj Netha moves up from junior varsity. The senior should fit into the Mustangs top six.

Four juniors will also battle for spots.

Brett Johnson has shown flashes in practice so far, but needs to develop consistency, Murray said. Marc Olin could make an impact, too.

"He's worked on his game a lot," Murray remarked. "His swing has improved."

Greg Rankin and Adam Webb are Northville's other juniors. Both played some varsity a year ago.

Justin Temple, Mike Heyer and Brian Arndt are sophomores who made the team. Murray said their varsity playing time will depend on how well they perform.

That's true of every player on Northville's roster, the coach added.

Freshman Steve Conway could also crack the starting lineup. Murray said he has played a lot of competitive golf.

"If he stays where he's at," she said, "he could see some varsity time."

Freshmen Kris Betker, Brandon Caverly and Steve Mills are all slated for junior varsity this season.

Livonia Churchill, Salem and Walled Lake Western will be the teams to beat in the Western Lakes Activities Association, Murray believes.

SOFTBALL

The Northville Diamondbacks recently completed a strong season. In the 7-8-year-old league, games are usually four innings and an inning ends when each team has scored five runs before the other team obtains three outs.

Teams usually score five runs before the outs are gained by the defensive team. However, in one of the Diamondbacks' last games, they had three innings in which they got three outs before all five runs were scored against them.

Some of the great defense this year consisted of pop-ups caught by Christy Badeen, Stephanie Chun and Samantha Wuerfel.

Additionally, one-hoppers to the outfield were turned into force outs at second and third on great throws by Afton Absalom and Lela Ostrowski. Other players making strong defensive plays were Krysta Cicala, Catherine Gomersall, Rachel Gzellik, Brittany Birdsall, Nicole Lockwood, Kelsey Whelan, Robyn Baldas and Lisa Thomas.

The team was coached by Mary Cicala, Stacey Badeen and Gail Chun.

MICHIGAN HAWKS

The Michigan Hawks under-12 premier girls' soccer team, coached by John Buchanan, obtained the only perfect score at the St. Louis girls' Friendship Cup Tournament Aug. 8-10. The Hawks, sponsored by the Livonia YMCA, competed against teams from Missouri, Iowa, North Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee. The Hawks were the only team in the tournament to go undefeated and score a minimum of three goals per game.

NHS ALUMNI OUTING

This year's Northville High alumni golf outing will be held Sept. 20 at Bogey Lake Golf Club. Tee times start at 10 a.m. Golfers receive greens fee, cart and dinner for $65. Proceeds benefit the Richard Lewis Scholarship Fund.

For more information, call Howie Ambinder at (248) 788-9626 or Tom Bingham (248) 624-1531.

SOCCER

Soccer players are needed for a very talented, established, girls Little Caesars Premier Soccer League team. The squad has top-level players and is being trained by a professional trainer and player from England. This is an excellent opportunity to play with a top team with excellent training resources.

Players with birth dates of Aug. 1, 1978, through July 31, 1982, please call (313) 464-9114 for more information.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE WOMEN'S SOCCER

This year there will be a new look and format for one of the premier programs in college soccer. Openings are still available in all positions from goalie to forward for Schoolcraft College. Scholarships and financial aid are available.

If you are interested in playing, please contact Bill Tolstedt at (313) 462-4000, extension 5255, or (313) 248-3733.

This week, The Northville Record continues a series of weekly golf reviews. Our goal is to provide you, the reader, useful information and tips on playing favorite courses in the area.

Brentwood Golf Club is the subject of this week's review. If you would like to see a particular course reviewed this summer, please contact us at (248) 349-1700.

By JULIE KEMPAINEN
Sports Writer

If you are looking for challenging golf in beautiful surroundings, Brentwood Golf Club is the place to visit.

The 18-hole course looks as if it were carved out of its natural settings, and it was. There are no ponds colored greenish blue and aside from the bunkers most other hazards are wetlands and tall grassy areas.

In its second full summer, the course is still under some construction in the final stages of its three-year building phase.

One can hardly tell, though. Most noticeable is the implementation of four tee boxes on each of the holes.

"In some places, because the subdivision had not been developed yet, we couldn't put some of the final tees in until the roads were done," owner Steve Chaplin said.

Once all of the tee boxes are completed and in use, set to happen next spring, Brentwood will have the Golf Association of Michigan back out to measure and redo the scorecard.

"The course appears short on the card," Chaplin said. "But until such time as GAM comes out and remeasures it will remain short on the card."

The course, currently 6,054 yards from the back tees, will measure approximately 6,500 yards next summer.

Four or five of the boxes are already in play, though not on the card. Also, all cart paths have not yet been poured, but are due to be completed next summer.

"It's very topographical," Chaplin said. "We tried to work with the natural features of the layout in building the course."

The front nine, opened four months after the back, is a very different course. You will understand why Brentwood is a cart-mandatory course after playing the open, links-style front nine holes.

A day at Brentwood can start out very ugly as golfers approach the ominous first hole. From the back tees it is 213 yards to clear the wetlands. From the middle tees it still takes a shot of 189 yards to clear the tall, grassy mess. And once the ball is in, there is no getting it back.

Beyond the tall, grassy mess is a gently rolling fairway approaching a green protected by a large bunker. Actually, there is only one hole on the front nine not protected by one or several bunkers.

Chaplin said the bunkers are made with stark white sand, brought in from Ohio. The different sand is used so bunkers stand out and makes the course more esthetically pleasing, he said.

The next hole to give the golfer trouble is the fifth, a par four which plays like a par five. Chaplin called it the most difficult hole on the course.

The fifth hole plays uphill and usually into the wind. "Getting to the green in two is difficult," Chaplin said.

Six is a par three with about 75 yards of water to clear before hitting the grass. It's not too difficult, but will prepare you for the even trickier 18th.

Unlike the front, the back holes are closer together and a little less forgiving. And you definitely want to stay in the fairway.

"We were trying to work with the land and not to alter things too much," Chaplin said of the differences in the front and back. "The back" is a very different nine for the length that it is."

The back is a few hundred yards shorter than the front measures and features more water and much more challenging conditions.

A master's degree by choice... not necessity.

It probably didn't happen to you, but it may have happened to people you know. The undergraduate degree taken because of a business requirement...or in preparation for medical school...or law school. Doesn't anyone take a degree for the joy of learning? For the thrill of academic discovery? That's what education used to be about. Well, now it still can be. The degree is a Master of Arts in Liberal Studies.

We won't say it will be easy. After all, this is the University of Michigan-Dearborn. But it will be fascinating. The interdisciplinary courses will develop your critical thinking skills and intellectual flexibility. You will be ready to consider career changes or just be happily more aware of subjects you were always curious about. Offered primarily during the evening, with individualized programs if that's the way you want to go.

Novi Dojo changes styles

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Scott Maczuga is a glutton for punishment.

As owner of Novi Karate Dojo, he decided early this year to switch from Shoto Kan to the Ashihara-style of the ancient Japanese martial art. But it wasn't just a change of names.

Maczuga put himself through months of grueling training to prepare for black belt testing this summer. He took his test, a two-hour marathon of fighting, as part of an international summer camp in Denmark last month.

"I had 20 fights back-to-back with fresh black belts," said Maczuga. "It was full contact. By the end, I felt like a punching bag."

But he survived the test, which was the goal, and earned his black belt in Ashihara. Maczuga led a group of six Americans, several from Novi, to Europe for the camp.

Each of the students had a chance to compete and swap notes with other Ashihara practitioners. Robb Wickham, an assistant instructor at the Novi dojo, Mick Brown and Chrissy Kay all earned honors in competition on the trip.

"It was an excellent camp for

everyone," said Maczuga.

Besides the competitions, students participated in training sessions each day. As many as four sessions were held per day for up to two hours at a time.

The aim is to build a team for next April's Ashihara World Championships. Maczuga said only one other dojo in the United States is dedicated to the style of karate.

"We've become the U.S. contact (for Ashihara)," he added. "Our dojo is putting the international team together."

After more than a year with the Shoto Kan affiliation, Maczuga decided to change to Ashihara in January. He said he wanted to go to a style of karate that would be more practical in real life for students.

"Shoto Kan is more robotic," Maczuga added. "It concentrates on forms and how it looks."

"Ashihara is much more fluid and a natural kind of movement. It's a much simpler style of karate."

Shoto Kan took years of intense study and practice for an average person to be able to apply it in self-defense. People can begin using what they learn in Ashihara in a few months.

"It's a system where everyone can benefit from it in a short period of time," Maczuga said.

Like Shoto Kan, Ashihara does have basic stances and forms for punches, kicks and blocks. But they're easier to pick up and perform, said Maczuga.

So far, his students have liked the switch.

"It's been unbelievable," he said of the response. "Especially with the women. I think it's because it's something they can use to protect themselves."

Health Notes

HEALTHY COOKING
On Thursday, Aug. 28, Chef Larry Janes covers the basics of canning and preserving in this fun, informal session. Sponsored by Botsford Health Development Network (HDN), attendees will also have the chance to sample several imaginative (and light) recipes, using "stored" ingredients, they can use to delight their families and friends.

Another session in the HDN's Food Talk series, "Storing Summer's Bounty," will be held at the Botsford Center for Health Improvement, 39750 Grand River Ave. in Novi, at 7 p.m. There is a $6 fee and, because seating is limited, pre-registration is required.

For more information or to register, call (248) 477-6100.

GIVING BLOOD

Give the "gift of life" by donating blood at a Community Blood Drive, held 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Aug. 28, in the St. Mary Hospital auditorium.

Area residents are encouraged to join St. Mary Hospital employees and volunteers in donating blood at this Community Blood Drive, sponsored by the American Red Cross.

St. Mary is located on Five Mile Road at Levan. Please use the Five Mile Road entrance for the blood drive.

NEWBORNS

Learn about caring for newborns at St. Mary Hospital's new infant care class on Thursdays, Aug. 28 and Sept. 4, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the West Addition Conference Room A. Participants can attend one or both classes.

Taught by a registered nurse, the first class, "Getting to Know Your Newborn," focuses on the care of your well infant, including feeding, bathing, sleep and activity habits. The second class, "Caring for the Sick Infant," features infant safety, such as how to child-proof your home, immunizations and signs of illness. This class is not just for parents but anyone who cares for an infant.

The cost of the class is $18 for one session or $35 for both.

For more information or to register, call (313) 655-1100 or toll free, 1-800-655-1615.

FOR FATHERS TO BE

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will offer a class for new and expectant fathers, "Just for Dads... Childbirth and Beyond," from 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 21. The class will meet in the first floor Conference Room near the north entrance off Five Mile.

The class helps fathers understand feelings and changes associated with the birthing process, how to become an active participant in childbirth, and the new role of fatherhood.

The format includes open discussion on attitudes and beliefs about fatherhood and lifestyle changes. The cost is $15 per person.

Mesh fencing keeps deer away from gardens

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

The deer problem in the United States has accelerated in recent years due to the ever-increasing suburban sprawl. With their once-bountiful grazing areas rapidly diminishing, deer are being forced to find alternative sources of food.

This in turn puts many people in areas with high deer populations in an awkward position because their estates and gardens are at risk of being damaged and/or destroyed.

Benner's Gardens has come up with an amazing polypropylene plastic mesh fence that keeps deer out. The lightweight, high-strength fencing is virtually invisible, and has solved the deer predicament without detracting from the appearance of the land.

It should also be mentioned that in areas where there are few or no trees, pressure-treated 2x4s, 4x4s, fiberglass or metal posts can be installed for support.

Distances between these types of posts will of course vary. The fencing is staked to the ground with metal pins every 12 feet to keep the deer from pushing their noses underneath.

To ensure the immediate success of a newly installed system, it's recommended that 12 long, white streamers be attached to the fencing (at a height of 4 feet) at 12-foot intervals. The streamers need only be left up for a month or so, but are most important because they warn the deer that there is now a barrier present, and keeps them from running into the fencing. The deer will then reroute their paths to bypass the protected area.

By providing a unique product that keeps the deer out without changing the appearance of the property, Benner's mesh deer fence has helped many gardeners maintain their sanity and continue to enjoy their one positive in the U.S.A.

The most common questions asked:

Q. Where should deer fencing be installed?

A. The Benner's deer barrier fencing should be situated around the perimeter of the area you wish to protect. The barrier should be attached to existing trees when possible. Additional wooden, fiberglass or metal posts can be added for support where necessary.

It's very important to completely enclose the area you are protecting. If this is not done, the deer may reroute their paths and enter the property from the unprotected direction. They will then be trapped inside the fenced area and, of course, attempt to escape.

Q. Is it possible for deer to damage the fencing?

A. If deer suddenly become frightened, and do not see the fence and run into it at full speed, they could damage it. This is a very infrequent occurrence, however, and typically happens when the entire area has not been enclosed.

In this situation, the deer enter from a portion of the property that has not been fenced, become scared, and attempt to escape by running in the other direction, and into the barriers.

Virtually no damage to fencing or plant material has been reported by property owners who have completely enclosed the area to be protected.

In North America, there are several species of mole crickets. They are closely related to field and house crickets, but they live underground and have wide frontal legs perfected for digging.

Peak egg-laying season is in May and most hatch in June. By October, the crickets are mature and over-winter as adults. Adult crickets die soon after they mate and lay their eggs.

Mole crickets do their damage by tunneling through the earth, leaving trails of dead grass. Their tunneling disturbs the soil around grass roots. During drought periods they will tunnel as deep as 2 feet! Crickets feed at night in warm weather and after rain. During the day they retreat to underground burrows.

In spring, to attract mates the male cricket makes a trilling sound. Male crickets love to spread their wings and fly mostly in spring during the mating season. They can fly more than eight miles a night.

Mole crickets like to dine on the dead roots of turf grass, seeds, insects and dead plant debris. The Southern mole cricket is also cannibalistic! Mole crickets, especially the Southern and tawny species, are very destructive when they form in large groups, as they do in sandy soils along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts from Texas south to North Carolina, Georgia and Florida. These states really take a beating!

They wreak havoc in vegetable gardens - where their tunneling uproots young plantings - yards, golf courses and athletic fields.

Suggested control: Apply Steinernema, a species of beneficial nematodes, in spring or

Q. We're redoing our kitchen to make it as sleek and contemporary as possible. We are an older couple (second marriages, both) who love to cook and entertain, but prefer contemporary design. We both grew up with all the Victorian clutter and corny (we think) stuff everyone else seems to want these days. Maybe you have some ideas on how to make a kitchen both contemporary and convenient.

A. Believing that a photo is worth a thousand words (to coin a phrase), I want you to take a good look at the kitchen we show here:

It's been designed around cabinets anyone can go out and order (from Wood-Mode), but the point is, you can work them into whatever ambience suits your personal taste and lifestyle.

This kitchen is contemporary - with a capital "C" for cool and convenient - from its sculptural center island to the lighting panel that hovers not unlike a spaceship overhead. Steel accents come naturally in such a setting, which should be sleek enough to satisfy even the most confirmed anti-clutterites.

The point: seek out and consult a professional kitchen designer (it's a good sign if you see the initials CKD - "Certified Kitchen Designer" - behind his or her name). Such an experienced pro will know exactly how to work all the basic ingredients into a kitchen that suits your personal needs and taste.

Q. When I went shopping recently for a new floor for an addition we're putting on our home, I was surprised to come across a wood floor made of mesquite. At least, that's what the label said. I understand mesquite for the barbecue, but for the floor?

A. Equally puzzled, I admit, I'm relying on an industry report based on interviews with a dozen of the largest wood-flooring distributors in the country.

Yes, Virginia, they say there is such a thing as flooring made from the same mesquite tree we love to burn.

But because mesquite is more shrub than tree, it's relatively scarce, compared to many other wood floors, and the boards it produces are never more than

Downtown districts experiencing a rebirth

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Some of the hottest real estate markets in the country are now downtown districts of cities across the country.

These markets are outstripping the popularity of suburban areas in many cases — for users of residential as well as commercial real estate. That hasn't happened for decades.

Currently, the most active area of development is in the "transitional areas" of cities — the area just outside the central district where many new office and other commercial structures have been built.

Just beyond those shiny, well-occupied buildings is an area of older and often dilapidated structures where the tenants in the new buildings used to be.

Here, the vacancy rate is very high, along with the level of deferred maintenance. However, the buildings are often very sound structurally.

This area includes not only old buildings, but also glass skyscrapers built in the 1960s, medium-size concrete office boxes, abandoned warehouses and contaminated manufacturing plants, according to a report from the Urban Land Institute.

These structures have become functionally obsolete. They are no longer able to meet the needs of today's tenants.

Therein lies an opportunity for innovative developers. They are bringing life back to these buildings by reusing them for alternative uses.

And if those uses are well researched and meet a genuine need in the current marketplace, the projects can be very successful and profitable.

"Success depends on understanding the conditions that drive the opportunities for converting existing structures to economically feasible new uses and on understanding the outlook for future opportunities," the ULI report said.

An increasing number of highly successful projects are now being reported.

In Washington state, a developer became interested in entering Seattle's hotel market. He scoured the area for a well-located site. He finally acquired and converted a vacant, 20-story former bank headquarters building in downtown Seattle into a midpriced 300-room hotel.

In many cases, surplus commercial buildings are being converted to residential uses. In fact, housing appears to be one of the most feasible reuse opportunities for obsolete buildings, according to the ULI. Interest in living in urban areas has been steadily increasing in cities across the country.

The suburbs still represent the lifestyle of choice for most middle-class American families, but a growing percentage of the population does not fit this standard. Many people in this segment — singles, one-parent families, empty-nesters — are attracted to the city for its conveniences, cultural amenities, entertainment and diversity.

Some of those old, deteriorating office buildings are being totally renovated and remarketed as a new class of office space. Sometimes it's renovated for smaller tenants looking for efficient, less-expensive office space.

Customized, moderately priced office space can also be created from industrial buildings of all types, the ULI noted.

Market demand for unconventional office space could increase in coming years. The nation's economic growth is expected to come from start-up and smaller companies, especially in high-tech industries.

Such firms often need to be in urban locations, near major research centers. And they need to attract younger, highly skilled employees. But a lack of lower-cost office and research-and-development space near downtown generally forces them to opt for suburban space.

Needs and demands in the real estate marketplace are constantly changing. But current trends point to more interesting, revitalized downtown areas — both in the central core of cities and surrounding areas.

Q. How will the new tax law affect homeowners and home sellers?

A. The new tax legislation, recently approved by Congress, should be another boost for homeowners. For existing homeowners, the bill will increase to $500,000 the amount of tax-free profit they can receive from the sale of their home. That could strengthen the already strong home selling market.

The bill applies to taxpayers filing a joint return, and could be used as often as once every two years. Single filers could exclude up to $250,000 in profit.

For first-time buyers, the new law would permit penalty-free withdrawals of up to $10,000 from tax-deferred retirement savings to be used for home purchases. These tax provisions are part of a package to reduce the federal deficit and balance the budget.

The legislation, when enacted, will remove taxes as a consideration for most home sellers by giving them flexibility to trade up or down, it was noted in a report from the National Association of Realtors.

It would also allow them to preserve the savings value of a home when they sell.

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

3 feet long (most run between 10 and 12 inches).

Still, mesquite is said to have a pleasing color, somewhere between a light brown and a dark reddish brown that's akin to Brazilian cherry.

Not a bad fate, I'd say, for a bush that was once the bane of every rancher in the Southwest.

Q. Can you find out the name of the dinnerware that's used on the banquet table during a scene in the Broadway musical "Titanic?" And was this really the same design that was actually used on the Titanic?

A. The answers to your questions in order are, yes and almost. Yes, I happen to know that the dinnerware that's playing in the Broadway version of "Titanic" is called "Celestial Cobalt" and it's made by Muirfield (the American subsidiary of Japanese firm ICI Ceramics Inc.).

And no, it's not the actual design from which first-class passengers dined in the Titanic's luxurious A La Carte restaurant some 85 years ago. With its lavish midnight blue border and 22-karat gold embellishments, however, "Celestial Cobalt" comes close enough to satisfy the history-minded producers of the Tony-winning show. You, too, can dine on "Celestial Cobalt" for about $70 per five-piece place setting.

Time for a change?

Diapers.
Oil.
Smoke detector batteries.

Change the batteries in your smoke detector.
Change the batteries in your smoke detector before the old ones run out. That way, your smoke detectors can warn you and your family to escape in the event of a fire. Follow these tips to keep your smoke detectors in top working shape:

- Test your smoke detectors monthly and put in new batteries as they expire.
- Vacuum the area around detectors to keep them free from dust and debris.
- When it comes to smoke detectors, a little change makes all the difference.

fall when mole crickets are in their adult stage. These nematodes are available from catalogs and garden supply stores.

It's also a good idea to consider planting St. Augustine in areas of infestation because it stands up better and does not show the ravages of mole crickets like other turf grasses.

Natural enemies of mole crickets: birds, spiders, fire ants, red foxes, raccoons, skunks and armadillos.

GARDEN TIP

Repelling deer humanely

■ Benner's has a polypropylene plastic mesh fence that is made to turn deer. It can be attached to trees or can be hung on posts.

■ If fencing out deer, be sure you completely enclose the area to be protected. If deer enter an enclosure and then cannot find their way out, they will become startled and attempt to escape.

■ Attach bright streamers every 10 feet or so to any new deer fence. This will help the deer be aware of the fence if it is hard to see. The streamers should be 4 feet off the ground.

■ Do not put out poisons for deer. A nonaggressive dog also will deter deer.

LET'S TALK Real Estate
with Aletta Holmes

THE BUYER'S BROKER

Agents who list themselves as buyer brokers are solely responsible to home buyers. In an effort to help buyers make informed decisions, buyer brokers will (among other things) research sellers' motivations for selling. This valuable information can help buyers in their price negotiations with sellers. In addition, buyer brokers negotiate with sellers on the buyers' behalf and keep all of the buyers' financial information confidential. In most cases, the buyer's agent fee comes out of the transaction amount. Buyer brokers who do not work under this arrangement may ask for a flat fee. The use of buyer brokers is becoming an increasingly popular option as buyers look for agents who will take their side in the home-buying process.

If you're looking for a Buyer's Broker, I am experienced and qualified. As a buyer's agent, I will negotiate a home price in your favor and will provide you with information on all properties available, including unlisted properties (FSBOs, probate, foreclosures, and bank owned) When you do business with me, whether I represent you as a seller or as a buyer, you can be assured that you are dealing with a professional whose integrity and business ethics are above reproach. Please call me at the Coldwell Banker/Schwitzer Real Estate office at 347-3050, or stop by to see me at 41860 W Six Mile Road.

HINT: Unless otherwise specified in a contract, real estate agents basically work for the people who are selling their homes.

NORTHVILLE

It's a Blue Ribbon Winner - Approximately 3500 sq. ft. Quality built colonial with lots of curb appeal and much interior charm. From the minute you enter you will be impressed. It has been meticulously cared for and shows like a model. Fabulous kitchen with granite island and maple floors. Wonderful wainscoting great room and enormous Feldstone fireplace and cathedral ceilings. Hardwood floors in living room, dining room, stairs, hall and all bedrooms. It's hard to find an in-town Northville home like this. Call for further details. Only $369,900.

Just Listed - Present owners searched for the home a long time before they found it - they just didn't want an ordinary lot - so they found one with approximately 2 acres with a country atmosphere and within easy walking distance to downtown Northville and they have never been stopped improving the lot and home. Some of the improvements are as follows: Beautiful white kitchen with Andersen doors, and garden window and new flooring. Refinishing of hardwood floors throughout, complete renovation of master bath with skylight, cathedral ceiling, new shower, cabinets, floor, etc. Newer roof, brickwork, central air, adding of additional trees and landscaping and brick walks, invisible fencing, hot tub, HURRY, it won't last $319,900.

Just Listed - One of Northville's best kept secrets - prestigious Tall Colony Sub. You'll feel like you are in the country but you are only approximately one mile from downtown Northville. Lovely 4 bedroom colonial. Hickory Schroed kitchen cabinets with sub zero refrigerator. Newer vinyl triple pane windows upstairs, finished basement, brick retaining wall, deck. Don't miss seeing it $272,900.

Side Door offers all you'd expect of small beauty shop

By RICK BYRNE
Staff writer

Two former sidekicks at a beauty school and a hair salon are now getting their kicks in a place of their own.

Judy Lester and Phyllis Alexander opened the Side Door Salon at 8741 Main Street on the south end of Whitmore Lake. For three years, the two knew each other from teaching at a local beauty school, and working together in another salon.

Opening their own salon has been a dream come true for both of them.

The shop is located, as the name suggests, in an office building whose entrances all face sideways from Main Street. The site offers ample parking.

Phyllis and her husband Al, live in Whitmore Lake. Judy and her husband Kent live in South Lyon. Phyllis felt the need to be closer to home, and Judy, whose mother and grandmother had both been salon owners, wished to follow in family footsteps.

All felt the Whitmore Lake area was really growing and expanding.

"With all the new houses, the town is starting to grow to the south," said Lester. "We're seeing restaurants open up, and there really isn't any way they can grow to the north."

Putting their salon at the south end of town puts them right in the path of the growth, and that's the way they like it. The customers enjoy the convenience, too. Many of their customers come from places along Six Mile and North Territorial Roads.

"People are really pleased, because of the problem with no parking uptown," Lester said. "We don't have that problem."

The salon offers what you might expect from a smaller salon: haircuts, razor cuts, styles, perms, coloring, eyebrow waxing and ear piercing. They also carry products by Nexxus and offer Sunlightz and Malibu treatments.

The owners have also seen to it that the needs of working people and seniors are answered. The shop is open until 6 or 7 p.m. weekday evenings.

"We do that for people who work. We work too, you know," she quipped.

For the seniors, every Monday is discount day, with seniors getting 82 off cuts and styles and 85 off perms and color.

Side Door Salon is open Mondays through Wednesdays 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursdays and Fridays 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturdays 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Visa and Mastercard are accepted. Walk-ins are welcome, but appointments are preferred. Call 313-449-2811.

Phyllis Alexander and Judy Lester now have a place of their own, the Side Door Salon in Whitmore Lake.

Recycle HOME TOWN™

THE BRAND NEW DEVILLE. FOR THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE.

The kids have grown. Your career is on track. It's about time you recharged your batteries in something comfortable. Like the brand new DeVille Concours. This Cadillac gives you lots of room to stretch. Plus things that set your mind at ease. Like new side air bags. StabiliTrak, a new, world-class suspension system that uses a computer to help you stay in control. And OnStar, satellite and cellular technology that makes sure there's always somebody around to look out for you, whether you need your door unlocked, or just need directions. So check out the new DeVille with the Northstar System. And have the time of your life. After all, you always said the best was yet to come.

Low As $42 Per Month*

Payments vary with account balance; taxes not included; optional Chargegard insurance premiums itemized separately.

*Offer only for purchase of IBM Aptiva computer system made on the RadioShack Credit Card issued by Hurley State Bank. Subject to credit approval. Minimum purchase of $999 required. Finance Charges will accrue during the 6-month deferred period from the date of purchase and will be added to your account if you: (i) do not pay the full amount of your purchase by the end of the deferred period (within 6 months from date of purchase), or (ii) fail to make any required payment on your account when due. At the end of the deferred period (if you have not paid for your purchase in full), or on the date you fail to make a required payment on your account, you will be required to make a minimum payment each month on your purchase of 1/45th of the balance that you owe, including Finance Charges, plus the monthly premium for any credit insurance that you may have purchased. If the prime rate exceeds 11%, the minimum monthly payment on your purchase will be 1/40th of the balance that you owe. As of June 1, 1997, Best Rate APR: 22.85%, Standard Rate APR: 24.85% (rates may vary). Minimum Finance Charge 50¢ (except PR). Offer is for individuals, not businesses. Offer valid 7/16-9/1/97. while you check out! Subject to credit approval.

We Welcome

Super Buy items are outstanding bargains — at our lowest prices every day and are not reduced. Sale prices are reductions from our Low Prices and regular prices. All other items are not at sale prices. Some items available at larger stores only. We reserve the right to limit quantities to normal retail purchases.
Regular prices may vary by geographical region.
Items designated "Lowest Prices" are at or below our lowest prices of the year, season or event. However, special incentive offers such as early birds, coupons, etc., may have resulted in temporary lower prices.
Clearance items are excluded.

ENJOY YOUR PURCHASES NOW WITH LOW MONTHLY PAYMENTS

On any extended terms purchase of $400 or more, excluding Apparel, or on any add-on purchase of $200 or more made on your Montgomery Ward Credit Account, upon your request your minimum payment will be 1/30th of the highest balance attributable to such purchases(s) plus any insurance premium (unless you have a balance subject to the regular 1/40th repayment terms). Your purchase(s) may change your Montgomery Ward monthly payment depending upon your highest balance. Sales tax, delivery charges and finance charges (if any) may cause your monthly payments to be higher. See store for details.

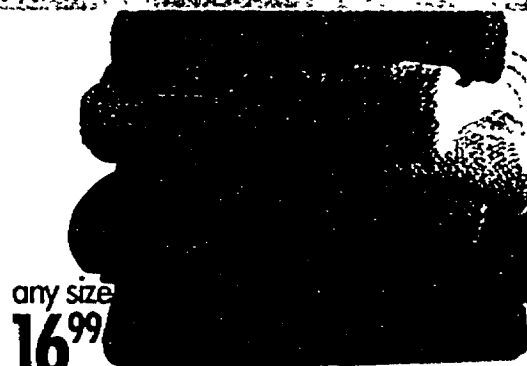

MONTGOMERY WARD CREDIT TERMS ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE:

Annual Percentage Rate for Montgomery Ward credit accounts, all of which are owned by Monogram Credit Card Bank of Georgia, is 22.6% unless you reside in states shown below: 19.8% for IA; 18% for WI; 10% for AR extended terms purchases.
NOTE: Minimum monthly finance charge of 50¢, except in AR, DC, HI, MD, NC, NE or RI.
For starter accounts, APR is 27.9%, except for IA, 19.8%; WI, 18% (minimum finance charge 50¢, except in AR, DC, HI, MD, NC, NE or RI. Rates as of July 1, 1997.

MONTGOMERY WARD GUARANTEED PRICE PROTECTION

We'll match any store's current advertised price at time of your Montgomery Ward merchandise purchase! If you find a lower advertised price at any other store, within 30 days after purchase, we'll cheerfully refund the difference. Simply bring in the ad and your Montgomery Ward receipt. In Electric Avenue, Auto Express and for other specific items identified in our advertising and/or in our stores, we'll beat our competitor's price by crediting or refunding 110% of the difference—and during special events, for specified items, even greater amounts, up to 150%! Details: Guarantees of 110% or more refer to our price as compared with a competitor's price, not compared with our own price at a later date. In the Electronics department, the competitor's product must have the same manufacturer's model number as our product. In other areas we will match the price on the same name brand item even if model numbers are different, if shown on our comparable model charts. On many items we will also attach our private label item with our competitor's comparable name brand or private label items. Our sales associates in the Appliance department, Auto Express, Rooms & More and our Seasonal Shops have comparable model parts of matchable items. Price matching policy does not apply when an additional Bonus/free item is part of our purchase price, to items with special financing programs or to sales of floor samples, one-of-a-kind, damaged or clearance goods, closeouts, limited quantities, special order items, manufacturer's rebates, services, sales by other than local stocking retailers or merchandise sold in mail order catalogs.

NO PAYMENT TIL FEBRUARY 1998

Finance charges apply during the deferred period. Offer good through August 31, 1997 on Montgomery Ward retail credit card purchases of $150 or more on all fine jewelry and made-to-measure window fashions. See APR credit details at left.

It's the most famous brand the world has ever known. Coca-Cola® has been refreshing millions of thirsty customers for more than a hundred years. So you can be sure that in 1938, as Americans danced to the new hit song, "You Must Have Been a Beautiful Girl," and rejoiced to the establishment of the forty-hour work week, they celebrated with the delicious taste of Coke®.

Getting millions of bottles of Coke® delivered to a thirsty nation required the service of a huge fleet of stout-hearted vehicles. Coca-Cola® had the perfect truck for the job. With its powerful engine and rugged construction, this workhorse could handle even the roughest of roads. Now, you can own an authentic die-cast metal model of this great American classic... the 1938 Coca-Cola® Delivery Truck.

The gauges and dials on the dash are exactly replicated.

The six-cylinder engine is reproduced in intricate detail.

The turn signals flip up and down.

The Danbury Mint
47 Richards Avenue • Norwalk, CT 06857

Authentically detailed!

You'll be astounded by the incredible detail and many working features. Each large 1:24 scale model features workable steering, genuine rubber tires that spin, engine access and opening doors. The interior, exterior, engine and undercarriage are exquisitely detailed. The vintage advertising signs are reproduced in authentic colors. Each model contains 136 removable cases of Coke® — enough to fill all visible slots!

Satisfaction guaranteed.

You can acquire the 1938 Coca-Cola® Delivery Truck from the Danbury Mint at the attractive price of $129, payable in five convenient monthly installments of just $25.80*. Your satisfaction is guaranteed. To order, simply return your Reservation Application today!

Sunday 7:00 a.m.-9:00 p.m.

BUILDING CLOSINGS:

Aug. 23-Sept. 2, Annual Maintenance will require partial closure of certain facilities during this time frame. Please check with front desk for possible closures of certain areas. We apologize for any inconvenience.

GUEST FEES:

Only Physical and Fitness Members may bring a guest. The same guest may be brought 3 times in a year. No guests are allowed during open basketball.

Adults: $6
Youth (under 18): $3

REFUNDS:

Fees are not refundable unless the class is cancelled by the YMCA. If you find it necessary to withdraw from a program due to a medical reason, a credit slip will be issued on a prorated basis from the date that the YMCA receives the doctor's note. Doctor's note must be turned in prior to the end of session for a refund.

There are no makeup sessions for missed classes. No refunds or credits will be issued because of severe weather or other conditions. If the Livonia Public Schools are closed, classes will be cancelled at the YMCA. If possible, the building will be open for member use.

SPECIAL NEEDS:

If you would like to participate in one of our programs and require special accommodations because of a disability, please contact the Livonia Family YMCA, and we will do whatever we can to make the appropriate arrangements.

Parent must remain in building.

Use of nursery/babysitting is free for Livonia FAMILY Y Full Building Members and LIVONIA Tennis House Members. Program members pay $2 per hour per child.

Pre-registration for time and space is required each session. Reserve your spot beginning Aug. 18 at 8:00 a.m. or anytime thereafter until full, in the nursery, during nursery hours, for Fall Session.

A Letter From Our Executive Director

Dear YMCA Friends,

As your new executive director, I am excited to join the community in furthering the mission of the Livonia Family YMCA. We have a proud history, strong present standing and bright future. The partnership between the YMCA and the people who live in our neighborhoods is very positive and beneficial to all involved. Many thanks to all who have helped position the YMCA for the enjoyment of thousands of people of all ages and backgrounds. Your YMCA is truly on course to help build strong kids, strong families and strong communities.

My job as leader of professional staff is to make certain that our YMCA programs and services are meeting the needs of our members and participants. To this end, I am very open to discuss any matter that may be of interest or concern. In our conversations, you'll soon learn that I believe the YMCA can do great things in fostering a safe, wholesome environment in which community members, parents and children can learn to communicate and care about each other. And although each YMCA branch is unique, we all share the same goal - peace through understanding, building one world, one family. As a member, you are part of this world wide mission!

A brief introduction of myself includes first and foremost, my family. I have a wonderful wife and son who will be joining us soon from Houston, Texas. Alice Jo and I are anxious to involve our one year old, Richard in all the activities the YMCA offers. He is just learning to walk and this is a highlight in our family. My career in the YMCA has been centered in Houston for fourteen years, although, I am a native of Montana and have lived in Illinois as well. I love the outdoors and am eager to explore this great state of Michigan and all the recreation it offers. I am a lousy golfer but love to play. Additionally, we love snow skiing and will rediscover the sport of ice skating as well as ice hockey. Go Red Wings!

I look forward to meeting you soon and learning more about what the YMCA can do for our community. Please don't hesitate to come by for a visit or call on the phone. Together, we can continue to make great strides in making our area one of the finest for work and play. I'll see you soon.

Sincerely,

Rick Rainville

Executive Director

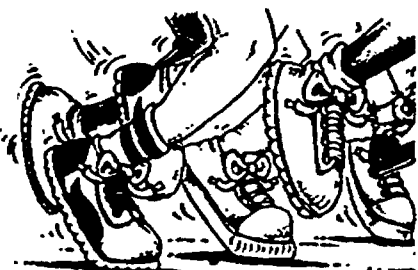

New At The Livonia Family YMCA!

Many exciting things are happening this fall at the Livonia YMCA. We've added a variety of new programs along with the old favorites that we hope you will participate in and enjoy.

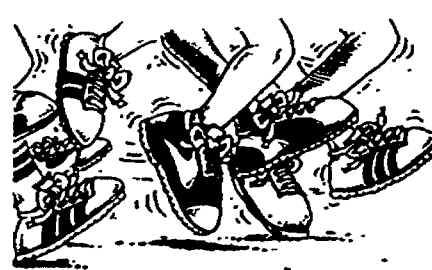

The brochure also has a new look. Class days, times, and prices are now listed directly below the class description. The hope is that this will be easier for people to read. "Mem." is the member fee; "P.M." is the program member fee, and "Ten." is the tennis member fee. Check out the new fitness classes, make an appointment for a MASSAGE, or attend one of our new nutrition classes. Please take a moment to look over the brochure and check out what's new!
