Thefts continue at local complex

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A Northville Township apartment complex suffered its second rash of car break-ins in as many months last week, according to Northville Township police.

The target was Park Place apartments, located at the corner of Eight Mile and Griswold Avenue. No less than 17 reports of vehicle burglaries during the night of Aug. 17-18 flooded the township police department last week. No one has been caught yet but police say they're continuing to investigate.

Those responsible for the burglaries would either open the door of an unlocked car or smash out a window of a locked one. Once inside the thieves took thousands of dollars in cash and merchandise, including many cellular telephones.

The take totals thousands of dollars, as do the damages done to more than a dozen vehicles.

The unfortunate part is that fully a third of the crimes might not have happened if car owners would have simply locked their

Board approves computer purchase

By WENSDY WHITE
Staff Writer

A set of new, high-powered computers is on the way to Northville High School, as the Northville Board of Education unanimously voted to approve the purchase of 90 new machines on Tuesday.

Increased enrollment in computer and business classes at the the high school this year brought about the need for a new computer lab, and for additional computers in the two existing labs, according to educational technology resource teacher Dr. Barbara Fife.

The increase in enrollment is due to the new block schedule format which allows students to take an additional class each semester. The increase was not anticipated, and has forced funds from the technology bond allocation to be used ahead of schedule.

The bonds were approved by school district voters on June 9.

Requests for bids were sent out to various computer companies, and five were selected for further review by the district's Educational

Glitches are minor first day back

By WENSDY WHITE
Staff Writer

It was smooth sailing for Northville students the first day back at school, that is until one Silver Springs Elementary pupil hitched a ride home on the wrong bus.

When the boy got on the bus with friends from his old neighborhood, no one noticed there was a problem – except his mom – who went to greet him at the stop near the family's new home only to find him missing.

When she alerted the school, "everyone acted instantly to find the child," School Superintendent Dr. Leonard Rezmierski announced at the first board of education meeting of the year on Tuesday.

The bus driver identified the boy, and he was soon found right where he had been dropped off. Silver Springs Principal Dr. Kenneth Pawlowski personally drove him home.

Aside from that minor incident, the biggest problem at the schools was that a handful of students showed up for their classes wearing caps, which is against school policy. But they

Swindler's light jail sentence angers merchants he victimized

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

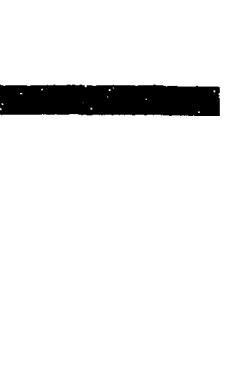
"I have to work a second job while he sits in the best jail we have playing cards for the next 11 months, eating food we pay for. Where's justice?"

You can hear frustration, anger and a hint of gallows humor in Gloria Sciberras' voice as she nurses a cup of coffee in Murphy's restaurant.

She mulls over a justice system that put a family member in jail for accidentally not paying a speeding ticket but could set convicted con artist George Meister free before the fall's out.

A three-time loser, Meister's worked as a con – and a good one – for the last 20 years. Dressing sharp and talking smooth, he paid for everything from food to furniture with a bad check. As he walked out the door with your merchandise, his victims and near-victims swear you'd thank him for stopping by.

"He was a totally amazing person. I was talking with his parole officer and he asked me if I'd ever seen a really good con artist in a movie somewhere," Gloria, one of Meister's victims, recalled: "He said to me 'you met one of the best.'"



George Meister

The 60-year-old man is sitting in jail today because of Sciberras and her husband, Maurice. Instead of eating the loss like so many others, they decided to fight back. In between the hours spent at a second job to make up the $4,000 Meister took the couple for, Gloria worked hard on assembling much of the information police used to arrest him in March.

Meister was convicted and sen-

Man gets 90 days for causing death

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The man involved in the car accident that cost a Northville pastor his life will soon spend time behind bars.

Mitchell Myers, a Northville Township resident, pled guilty to one count of negligent homicide on Aug. 5, according to police Detective Fred Yankee. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge William Cahalan will pass sentence on him on Dec. 3.

According to Yankee, the sentence is expected to result in Myers spending 90 days in jail and staying on an electronic tether for up to a year. That's less than the maximum sentence for negligent homicide, a felony charge which can bring up to two years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine.

Sam Backman, the associate pastor at the First Baptist Church in Northville, died on April 7 following a head-on car crash on Hines Drive in Northville. Myers, 47, was driving the vehicle which slammed into the car driven by Backman, a Westland resident.

The attorney representing Myers said the man can't remember how the accident happened but is emotionally distraught over the loss of life.

Myers' 1994 Dodge Stealth crossed the center line of Hines Drive as he was headed south that morning, striking Backman's northbound 1996 Chevrolet Corsica. Police say that no alcohol, drugs, medication or cellular phone were involved in the tragedy.

Until his sentencing date, Myers will remain free on a $25,000 bond.

Ball to make elegant return to Victorian Festival

The popular Costume Ball will again be the center of attention at the Victorian Festival.

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL
Staff Writer

Put away those cowboy boots and lace up those Victorian dancing shoes.

The Victorian Costume Ball is back.

After a short-lived attempt last year at providing a more diverse and less expensive opportunity to dance the night away with a Victorian Country Dance, the Northville Chamber of Commerce is back to its long-standing tradition.

"We tried it once for a change," Chamber Executive Director Laurie Marrs explained. "We just found everyone was still getting dressed up in ball gowns.

"It is supposed to be an elegant affair."

While Marrs and the rest of the chamber crew and the committee of volunteers are chipping away at the "to do" list in preparation for the big night, the time to buy tickets for the first dance of the 1997

Cinnamon and cider soon in season

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Starting to feel like autumn, isn't it?

The weather's cool and cloudy, the schools are back in business and September's a weekend away. Don't get down in the dumps, though. Remember, there's a lot of fun to be found in the fall.

Case in point: Parmenter's cider mill.

That's right, the Northville landmark will open its doors for the 1997 season this Saturday, Aug. 30. In business since 1873, Parmenter's will once again offer all the old favorites from now until the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

"Hopefully, we'll have a good fall and people will come out for some good cider and donuts," encouraged Diane Jones, who owns and runs Parmenter's with partner Cheryl Nelson.

There's a lot more to be found at the mill than just those two delectable items, however. Parmenter's features a wide selection of mostly Michigan-made products ranging from apples to honey, candy, mulled wine spices, fudge, nuts, pancake mix, apple butter, jams and preserves.

Made fresh on the premises are, of course, the cider and plain and spiced donuts, which last year required as many as 600 bushels of apples and 800 pounds of flour a week to make.

Then there are those classic caramel apples – available with or without nuts, of course – as well as Parmenter's own special variety of peanut butter caramel ice cream topping and apple chutney, a relish-like garnish. Don't forget the fresh-baked apple pies, either.

Since 1983 the mill has also offered its own line of Michigan wines. This year's varieties include cranberry-apple, hard cider and three other flavored wines.

"Prices on everything's going to stay the same as last year," Jones said. "We like to try to hold the line on that as much as possible."

More than just food awaits at Parmenter's, though. You can't feed the ducks at the Mill Pond anymore but folks still can toss bread or leftover donuts to the feathered fowl that gather near the stream behind the mill.

Also on tap are Parmenter's annual series of weekend craft shows. They're free and will be held every Saturday and Sunday in September and October from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Located at 714 Baseline Road, Parmenter's began operating the same year that Ulysses S. Grant began his second term as president.

For almost 125 years the business has been synonymous with Northville, continuously producing cider, vinegar or both. Not even a fire at the mill in the 1970s could shut things down: cider still went out of the doors.

Parmenter's will be open seven days a week until it shuts down for the season on Nov. 23. From this Saturday through the end of October daily hours will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In November the hours will change to 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Longtime apple orchard, Foreman's, to close

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

When it comes to cider mills, for the last 25 years there have been two names to remember in Northville: Parmenter's and Foreman's.

Unfortunately, now there's only one.

"I doubt very much that there will be a Foreman's Orchard from now on," said Ralph Foreman, owner of the well-known Seven Mile business.

Located west of Beck Road and surrounded on three sides by Maybury State Park, Foreman's has been a favorite of many for decades. Every year from Labor Day to Thanksgiving the mill, using apples from its own orchard, would press its own unique brand of tasty cider.

Donuts, caramel apples, pies, jellies, honey and hot dogs were also on the menu and families who came to eat often stayed for a dose of fall fun at Foreman's. That included visiting the petting zoo, touring the apple orchard, taking old-fashioned wagon rides and even gathering some delectable goodies on the U-pick farm.

The Foreman orchard was first planted in the early 1930s. For four decades it supplied fruit to wholesale dealers all over the area.

Ralph Foreman, "born and raised in the business," decided to expand things to retail customers in 1972, opening the cider mill.

A quarter-century later he's decided to hang it up. Now living in Ann Arbor, Foreman said that running the business has just gotten to be too big a job. He's worked out a tentative deal with developers to turn the orchard property into a residential development.

That will development will become Maybury Crossing, a subdivision containing about 15 one-acre or larger lot single family homes, according to plans submitted to the Northville Township Planning Commission.

While he says he's sorry to see the orchard and the cider mill go, Foreman is philosophical about it.

"Everything has to come to an end eventually," he said.

ELIMINATING THE BLIND SPOT
According to the visibility and controls division of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, there are some simple steps you can take to eliminate the blind spots in your rearview mirrors. For correct mirror adjustment, sit in the driver's seat and tilt your head to the left until you graze the glass. Then, turn the driver-side mirror until you can just see the edge of the left rear fender. Next, lean your head to the right about the same degree as you did to the left, and adjust the right-side mirror the same way (until the right rear fender is just visible). By aligning the side mirrors in this manner, you should be able to eliminate all the blind spots at once, as well as be able to see the fender when backing up and parallel parking by leaning a bit to either side.
MARTY FELDMAN CHEVROLET is pleased to pass along safe driving tips--we think of our customers like family, and that doesn't begin and end with safety tips. Do business with us in sales, service, or for auto body work, and you'll really feel the difference. We love watching first time customers come to our showroom: you can see them set their shoulders and march in ready for a battle of wits. We don't play that game. We respect our customers' intelligence: we know they'll know a fair deal when they hear it without any strong arm tactics. Sales is open Monday-Saturday, and our service department is open Mon.-Fri. until 7:00 p.m. for your convenience. Call 348-7000, or visit us at 42355 Grand River, Novi.
HINT: Drivers should also be careful not to place their own vehicles in the blind spots of truck drivers that precede them down the highway.

Thieves hit up house for second time, get away with major appliance heist

An under-construction home in Northville Township burglarized two weeks ago was hit again last week. Lost to thieves were appliances worth $1,700.

A construction company employee reported the burglary, which he said took place on Aug. 20 sometime between 2 and 7:30 p.m. The employee said he'd left the house with the garage door up and returned to discover an oven, range and dishwasher gone.

A neighbor told police she saw two white males in the area who "didn't seem to belong in the neighborhood" sometime during 6-7 p.m. but could offer no more information.

BIKE STOLEN: A mountain bike belonging to a Park Place apartments woman was stolen during the night of Aug. 17-18, according to police.

The woman's mother reported the theft. She said the 1994 21-speed Murray bike was chained to a carport pole. Police found the chain and lock left at the pole. Missing was the bike, which is black and has blue handlebars.

DRUNK DRIVERS: A trio of people were arrested for drunk driving in Northville last week.

A 36-year-old Livonia woman was taken into custody at about 7 p.m. on Aug. 18. A police officer said he clocked the woman's Dodge Stratus at 67 miles per hour on 45-mile-per-hour Haggerty Road. At one point, the officer added, the Stratus stopped in the middle of the Six and Haggerty intersection, then backed up to avoid being hit by cross traffic.

The woman allegedly hit a curb as police pulled her over and couldn't get her driver's license out of her wallet. The officer said he had to get it for her and that the woman showed strong signs of intoxication.

The woman was booked and then taken to police headquarters, where she was held until she sobered up. Breath testing there allegedly showed the woman to have a blood alcohol level of .16 percent, above the legal limit of .10 percent.

She was released the next morning with a Sept. 23 court date.

The first of two drunk driving arrests happened to a Detroit man shortly after 2:15 a.m. on Sunday.

The man, 34, was stopped while driving his Chevrolet Cavalier when police allegedly saw it swerve across the center traffic lane three times on southbound Northville Road near Six Mile.

The vehicle was also doing 55 in a 40 mile-per-hour zone, police said. The man, who denied having anything to drink, claimed he was on the way to his home in Detroit from the "Joy-Middlebelt area."

He didn't know where he was when asked, police said, and failed field sobriety tests. Testing later showed the man to allegedly have an alcohol level of .17 percent.

He too was held until he sobered up and will face a judge next month.

The week's final arrest was of a 43-year-old Ann Arbor resident. The man was taken into custody about 15 minutes after the Detroit resident.

According to police the man was driving his Nissan Sentra erratically in the area of Six Mile and Northville roads. An officer stopped at the light said he saw the man make a left turn from Six onto Northville Road, crossing all the way across the center traffic line then drifting back onto the right hand shoulder of the road.

Breath testing later allegedly showed the man to have a blood alcohol level of .13 percent. He'll be in court on Sept. 23.

If you have any information about these or any other illegal incidents you can call Northville city police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

Heads-up moves can prevent theft

Following a few simple tips can greatly improve your chances of keeping your possessions and avoiding insurance hassles.

You can't watch your car 24 hours a day, even if it's parked in your own driveway.

So there's no guaranteed way to eliminate your risk of becoming the victim of a vehicle break-in.

However, following a few simple tips can greatly improve your chances of hanging on to your possessions and avoiding insurance headaches that often come with damages done during car burglaries.

Northville Township Police Detective Fred Yankee offers these guidelines:

• Keep your car windows rolled up and doors locked whenever you leave the car, even if you're just making a quick stop somewhere, such as at a dry cleaner's or convenience store.

• Don't leave anything valuable in your car if you can help it. Take it all with you, especially overnight.

Keep in mind that this rule applies to presents purchased during the holiday season as well.

• If you have to leave something of value in your vehicle, make sure it's completely out of sight.

"Lock them up, preferably in the trunk or glove compartment," Yankee said.

• Park your car in brightly lit areas. If the street or parking lot lights near your home are out, demand that they be fixed.

• If you ever see anyone breaking into your car or someone else's call Northville Township police at 349-9400 or Northville city police at 349-1234 immediately.

It's important to call right away, police say, as seconds can mean the difference between catching and missing a criminal.

doors, according to township police Detective Fred Yankee. He added that none of the thefts might have taken place if people would either not leave valuables inside their cars or make sure the goods are out of sight.

Many of the items stolen were sitting in plain view, including several cell phones taken from the front seats of unlocked cars.

"We've got to use some common sense here," was Yankee's advice.

Taken from the 17 cars were everything from cash to cell phones and golf clubs, baseball equipment, compact discs and even a wedding ring. In at least five cases the vehicles were unlocked, according to a review of police reports.

A partial inventory of the night's burglaries puts the total value of the stolen goods at over $7,100. Damage done to cars totals more than $2,000 to date.

Park Place was hit a little over a month ago in much the same way. Police dealt with more than a dozen break-in reports over a span of 48 hours.

Those responsible used two methods to get into the vehicles: "punching" (damaging with a tool) the driver's side door lock or smashing in a window. Once they were inside the thieves sometimes ripped up dashboards to remove stereo systems.

Besides the stereos everything from cellular phones to laptop computers were taken. Together the break-ins totaled more than $2,000 in damages and a loss in goods in excess of $11,400.

Grant will help communities in fight against substance abuse

Residents of Wayne County will benefit from $1.3 million in federal funds awarded to help fight against drugs and drug usage, said state Senators Bob Geake, R-Northville, and Loren Bennett, R-Canton Township.

The funds are provided under the 1997 Byrne Memorial Grant Awards. The award is named after Edward Byrne, a young New York City police officer who was killed in the crossfire of a drug-related shootout while on routine patrol in 1974. Congress passed legislation which appropriates the Byrne Memorial money each year. The funds are used to educate young people about the dangers of drug use and to prosecute illegal drug manufacturers and suppliers.

This year the following grants were awarded for:

• Zero Tolerance offender drug Testing:

For the county of Wayne – three grants totaling $539,501 for several early release programs, which will include mandatory drug testing:

Thirty fourth District Court – $40,849 for a new project for drug and alcohol testing of defendants and probationers;

• Community policing strategies:

Canton Township – $41,674 to provide a community officer for the Canton Commons Neighborhood;

The County of Wayne – $186,771 for the Violent Juvenile Offender Apprehension Program to put in place a community policing initiative targeting delinquent juvenile state wards who have committed other offenses;

• Multijurisdictional task forces:

Downriver Area Narcotics Organization (D.R.A.N.O.) – $192,809 to help continue the program located in southern Wayne County that targets all levels of narcotics dealers;

Western Wayne Narcotics (W.W.N.) – $130,000 to help continue the program which focuses on stopping the flow of drugs and assets in 18 communities in western Wayne County;

• Prosecution:

County of Wayne/D.R.A.N.O and W.N.N. – $170,678 to help prosecute cases in which suspects are charged with the sale of over 50 grams of narcotics.

Geake said, "In addition to these grants, Livonia and Northville Township will receive additional D.A.R.E. funding. Livonia will receive $38,427 for lessons for 54 classes of eighth grade students in six schools. Northville will receive $35,959 for lessons for 33 fifth and sixth grade classes and visitation for 82 classes in nine schools.

"This money will go a long way to helping people, especially young people, stay away from illegal drugs," Geake said. "Programs such as D.A.R.E. provide an invaluable service in helping prevent young people from getting hooked on drugs."

Coldwell Banker's #1 Agent In The State of Michigan

IT'S A PAIN IN THE NECK!

Ideally we like the properties we market to look spotless, but even the most impeccable housekeepers find it difficult to keep the house in prime showing condition all the time.

Keeping the beds perpetually made, dishes washed, bathrooms spotless and the closets neat is a lot of work. Is it worth it? It is if you want to get your house sold in a reasonable amount of time for top dollar. Buyers often see normal clutter, and what registers is "this place hasn't been maintained." They see bathtub rings and think "plumber's bills." They see lint under the refrigerator and grease on the electric range and imagine having to replace all of the appliances. It isn't very logical, but people are often less than logical about buying a house. When making their final selection, they may be going on emotion and adrenaline rather than imagination. You can help your broker by minimizing the amount of imagination they will need to fall in love with your home.

Let them go without cake

Center Street bakery does mysterious disappearing act

By WENSDY WHITE
Staff Writer

A Northville bakery closed without warning this month after only four months in business, leaving the landlords and customers who had ordered specialty cakes in a lurch.

Felicia's moved out of the Veranda Center on 111 N. Center St. in the middle of the night without notification, according to landlord Gary George, who owns the building along with a partner. George said he visited the Center, which houses four retail stores and five upstairs offices, around midnight on Aug. 11 to check the locks.

Skid marks from wheels scraping across the floor of the atrium area which connects the suites alerted him to check Felicia's. That's when he noticed it was empty.

"It came as a surprise to me and my partner," George said. "We had no word they were even thinking of leaving."

Apparently, several customers who had ordered cakes from the bakery were not notified either.

Jim Ankofski, the owner of The Pastry Palace in Novi, says he received a frantic call from a woman last week who needed a cake for a bridal shower right away.

"She said she had tried to get ahold of Felicia's several times. She mentioned she had used them at their old location. We were really busy last week and we weren't going to take any more orders, but she sounded desperate, so we took it," Ankofski said.

> "It came as a surprise to me and my partner. We had no word they were even thinking of leaving."
> – Landlord Gary George

George said he also received a few calls from customers trying to reach Felicia's, but said he couldn't help them because the business line and the owners' home phone were disconnected.

One customer told George she had received a call from Felicia's former owners explaining that they had gone out of business and that they would refund her cake deposit. However, the landlords heard nothing until an attorney called to say the owners had officially left the site.

"It looks like we're not the only victims here," George said.

Now George and his partner, Tom Ginnico, who have owned the Veranda Center since 1988, are left with a vacant suite.

Felicia's, whose storefront billed them as "makers of fine pastries," was owned by Colleen and Steve Meerschaert. The bakery had been located in Clinton Township for eight years prior to replacing the Remembrance Doll Shop in Northville on April 25 of this year.

The owners of the former bakery could not be reached for comment.

The shop needed extensive renovations to function as a bakery. Plumbing had to be added to bring hot water into the suite. Partitions were erected, portions of the floor tiled, and ductwork was built to vent the new ovens into the chimney.

George said business seemed to be going fine, but as summer started the heat from the bakery ovens and the electricity used to run the freezers began to generate complaints from the other tenants in the building.

"It seeped up through cracks and crevices in the tin ceiling and the hardwood floors," George said. "When the heat started to become a problem, they started to bake during the evening hours so it wouldn't bother the other tenants."

To circumvent the problem, George said he proposed a deal with the owners to revamp the air conditioning. He said he offered to pay the initial estimated $15,000 to buy and install a new unit, which they could then pay back in monthly installments.

But by the time the unit arrived, the Meerschaerts were gone.

Now, George and his partner must foot the bill to ship the air conditioner back to the manufacturer, rip out the tile, refinish the floors, and remove the wallpaper and partitions to make the site rentable.

They are considering suing Felicia's for renovation costs, as well as for breaking their five-year lease and to recover August's rent from a bounced check.

Meanwhile, the shop is vacant.

"There was a lot of work done, and a lot of effort made both on our part and on Felicia's," George said. "We're very disappointed this has happened. I wish they would have worked with us instead of moving out in the middle of the night so we could have found a new tenant."

A leasing agent is now in the process of reviewing applications from retail and service outlets which might like to take over the site.

"We want to get the space leased out as soon as possible so it looks good for Northville and for the other tenants," he said.

Luck of the draw or drawn to luck?

Northville store keeps selling jackpot winners

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Edward Hanna's not sure if he's got the Midas touch or just a touch of luck.

Either way, he's excited that his store, The Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe, has given out good fortune to lottery players for a record-setting fourth time.

The Shoppe sold the winning ticket in the Michigan's lottery's Aug. 2 drawing. Six members of a Farmington Hills lottery club will spend the next 20 years splitting a $9.28 million jackpot.

Astoundingly, it's the fourth jackpot-winning ticket sold at The Shoppe since it opened decades ago. This month's triumph makes the store, located on Eight Mile just east of Taft Road, No. 1 in all of Michigan: no other outlet has sold more winning tickets.

Given that fact, you can understand why Hanna, who's owned The Shoppe for four and a half years now, is pleased.

"It's a nice feeling, to give people good luck," he said.

The six members of the Farmington Hills group kicked in a few dollars each week to buy Lotto tickets, agreeing to split any proceeds. The club last week received its first check for over $370,000. Each year for the next 19 it will receive installments of $371,000, before taxes.

All six chose to remain anonymous. In a statement released by the Michigan Lottery Commission, however, the member who bought the ticket confessed he'd never visited The Shoppe before.

"We checked the date and numbers three or four times but we didn't believe it," the representative said. "I couldn't sleep. I did a little dance and I don't dance!"

The club won on a "smartplay" ticket: buy five Lotto tickets for a drawing and you receive a sixth pick, chosen at random by a computer, for free.

Lotto tickets cost $1 apiece and drawings are held each Wednesday and Saturday. Players choose six numbers out of 49 and can win with four, five or six correct numbers. The last Lotto jackpot (drawn yesterday evening, Aug. 27) was guaranteed to be worth at least $4.2 million.

Club members say they'll use the money to make investments, take vacations and just generally live high on the hog, according to the Lottery Commission's Lisa Mitzelfeld.

Hanna's glad for them and hopes to keep on dishing up bonanzas in the future to his customers. He's also pleased that the fuss has drawn attention to the community.

"This is good for Northville because it's such a wonderful community," Hanna said.

Before he bought The Shoppe in April 1993 it had sold jackpot-garnering tickets for Lotto drawings for $2 and $25.8 million, as well as a $100,000 jackpot for the Lottery's "Cash Five" game, which is played five days a week.

"It's not which numbers you play but where you go," Hanna joked.

Apparently a lot of people agree. Since the news broke of the winning Lotto ticket, business has picked up.

"It was lucky for us, too," Hanna said.

Of course, the business of The Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe could have something to do with it as well. The Shoppe specializes in fine wines and unique foods and offers complete catering services courtesy of the skilled hands of Tariq, Hanna's son and chef.

The store can cater any affair or create special cakes for any occasion.

There's also a full selection of wines and Hanna said he's ready to help you select the one appropriate for your needs. His experience includes decades of wine buying, selling and enjoying in places as diverse as Europe and Africa.

The Shoppe's open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday 8-10, Saturday 9-10 and Sunday 10-6. Call 349-5611 or 349-3411 for more information.

promptly removed them when asked to.

Even the new block schedule at Northville High School was implemented smoothly. About 125 students faced brief confusion trying to locate their "A" classes, but that was no more than expected, Rezmierski said. Wednesday marked the first day students attended "B" schedule classes. It's too soon to tell how the block program will work out.

At the middle schools, students had a chance to test two new portable classrooms. The portables seem permanent already, Rezmierski said.

"Both were fully carpeted, lighted, all the stuff we needed was there on time. We're just thrilled with the way it all came out," he said.

The morning's anxious parents, hoping to preserve their children's first day at school, literally caused traffic jams in the parking lots and driveways of the elementary schools on Tuesday.

"I've never seen so many camcorders and cameras," Rezmierski said. "We were landlocked – the buses couldn't leave, the cars couldn't leave."

Administrators stepped in to direct traffic. The parents were guided out into the street, and gently prompted to drive away and let their children take the first big steps into the classrooms on their own.

"The kids were just thrilled to get back in school and get on with it. There wasn't one I saw at any of the elementary schools that was crying," Rezmierski remarked. "They really were excited to get back to school."

The humid, overcast weather didn't dampen the spirits of the returning students.

"It really was a fine opening day, and I hope that's a barometer of how the whole year will go," Rezmierski added.

Computer buy OK'd by board

Technology Department.

Of those, only Gateway and Interactive Distribution Center (IDC) submitted computers for evaluation.

"Our relative score for IDC is higher than our Gateway computer score," Fife wrote in her recommendation. "Further, IDC submitted the lowest bid for both models of computer."

IDC is a local company which agreed to build the computers out of specified components.

The specifications include 62 Pentium computers with 233 megahertz and 32 megabytes of RAM, and 28 Pentium II computers custom-built with 233 megahertz and 64 megabytes of RAM. New 17-inch Acerview 78ie monitors will also be purchased for use in graphics and multimedia classes.

The total cost is estimated at $202,522.

Before approving the purchase, some members of the board voiced concerns about the proposal. Board treasurer Tom Gudritz asked that the board not move on the issue until the Technology Subcommittee had a chance to review the plan.

"We need to reassure ourselves that the technology we are using now is correct," Gudritz said. "If the Technology Committee believes we need to go in a different direction, we'll need the funds to change and upgrade in the future."

One concern is whether the cables and wiring installed in the high school will serve the new middle school once it moves into the building. After a new high school is built in the district, the current high school will be converted into a middle school.

School board secretary Michael Poterala wondered whether custom-built, or so-called "Tier II" computers, are as reliable as those built to factory specifications.

"There is some chance of incompatibility between the components, but we have not had any major problems with other computers from this company," Fife said. "I do have some reservations, but if it is the will of the taxpayers that we spend their money frugally, we have to look at this."

Fife agreed to check with other companies that have made large purchases from IDC to see if they were satisfied with the company's support service.

If given the go-ahead, IDC has agreed to have all the computers in place for an open house event scheduled for Sept. 11.

Locals breathe easier now that UPS strike's over

By WENSDY WHITE
Staff Writer

In the aftermath of the United Parcel Service strike, local businesses are tallying their losses and packages are still coming into the Northville Post Office at near-peak levels.

However, residents need not worry about delivery delays, according to Tony Hubbard, the officer in charge of the local post office branch.

"We are scheduling whatever overtime is necessary to meet the demand," he said. "We are delivering mail as scheduled once it has arrived in Northville."

Hubbard said he expects levels to decrease as the mail is worked through the system. Hubbard said some local customers will probably continue to use the Postal Service even though UPS drivers are back on the road.

Local business operators seem to have mixed feelings about the strike and the return of the UPS drivers.

Urban Optiks, in the Northville MainCentre building, gets a good portion of its eyeglass lenses from out of state, but owner Gary Reggish says he was only mildly affected by the strike. Reggish said he switched to shipping with Airborne and Federal Express when he heard a strike might occur. Now that the walkout is over, UPS has been stopping by his shop twice a day. But he still isn't happy with the company's customer service.

"The drivers are great, but I have been having problems with UPS's billing department," he said.

Reggish said he has received canceled checks in the mail, but UPS is threatening to cancel his service because their records show he hasn't sent in a payment in over a year.

"Here, in light of the strike and everything, it's driving me crazy and I've been thinking of switching carriers because of that."

Gloria Sciberras, the owner of Downtown Baskets at 136 N. Center, said that the strike made it difficult to keep merchandise on the shelves. Downtown Baskets offers gift baskets for all occasions as well as a full line of made-in-Michigan products. That means distributors are fairly close by, making it possible – though tough – for Sciberras and her family to pick up their inventory themselves.

"I think everyone got hit bad, especially the small businesses," she said.

The strike sent shipping costs way up for Kristi Colt-Roberts of The Hopeless Romantic.

Her shop, located in back of Sparr's florists on the corner of N. Center and Dunlap, sells dried flower arrangements and a variety of unique Victorian and European antiques and collectibles.

For Colt-Roberts the strike meant using other package delivery companies to send and receive merchandise.

Those firms charged double and even triple what she'd been paying before.

"What can you do? You have to keep doing business," Colt-Roberts said.

> "I was ecstatic. It was like Christmas in August."
> –Mike Ladwig
> Owner, Mailboxes, Etc.

Barbara Davies, the owner of Art Source which sells artwork and does custom framing, said she used Southfield Business Couriers to transport packages locally during the strike. Now she's using UPS again, but said it isn't quite as efficient as it used to be.

"Sometimes when I call things in they say it'll be a day or two extra because they're still cleaning things out," she said.

"It's just now getting back to normal."

Perhaps no local business was harder hit than Mailboxes, Etc., which relies on UPS for 25 percent of its business. Mike Ladwig has owned the shop on Center Street for four-and-a-half years, and owns another store on Five Mile and Newburgh Road in Livonia.

He estimates combined losses at the two branches at around $4,000 during the 15-day strike.

"A lot of people held back sending packages. We used alternate carriers, but they were more expensive. Some people would pay the price, others waited," Ladwig said.

The beginning and middle of August usually mark a busy time for the chain, with many back-to-school packages passing through his store on their way to the UPS vans.

"Once you lose that business, you don't get it back," he said.

Yet for all the trouble the strike caused Ladwig, he said he believes it made a stronger UPS customer out of him and many of his clients because they now realize that UPS offers better prices and faster service.

Ladwig said he was happy to see Bob Brown, his UPS driver for four years, back in the store.

"I was ecstatic. It was like Christmas in August, and he was like Santa Claus," Ladwig remarked.

Geake gets award for work on state fair

State Sen. Bob Geake, R-Northville, was awarded the 1997 Michigan State Fair Recognition Award for his support of the revitalization of the Michigan State Fair and Exposition Center and for his contribution to local communities.

"I am extremely proud to have received this award," Geake said. "The Michigan State Fair has a long, rich history in this state. I am delighted to be a part of it this year."

Geake was one of 14 individuals, and the only state legislator, awarded for outstanding contributions to the community and the state.

Each of the 14 honorees had a day named in his or her honor and was also named the honorary grand marshal for that day's parade.

The fair – which started Aug. 19 and runs through Labor Day – features a wide variety of entertainment acts including carnival rides, live shows and numerous special exhibits.

Sand mine operation raises environmental concerns

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Northville's new sand and gravel mine won't open for business for another year but that's still too soon for opponents of the plan.

The Iafrate Construction Co. won tentative approval last week from the Northville Township Board of Trustees to mine sand and gravel on 176 acres of land it owns off Ridge Road south of Six Mile. This week, company lawyer Allen Greene said it will be well into the summer of 1998 before shovels actually go into the ground.

"If all goes well and we get all of the conditions (attached to the tentative approval) worked out our hope is to do some site improvement work this (construction) season," Greene said. "There's a lot of work to be done out there before the mine could start."

That includes items such as building roads into the interior of the property and creating sight and sound buffering berms to shield surrounding homeowners from the mining operation. Additional work would be done next summer, Greene said, and if it all goes as planned the mine would open up shop about one year from now in August 1998.

Iafrate plans to use the materials it will scoop up for use in its own construction projects as well as selling some sand and gravel to other building firms.

Company officials say they can't pinpoint how long it will take to mine the property out but they expect the operation to last around a decade.

Elaine Zdawczyk is worried about that floating end-date. She lives near Beck and Six Mile roads, about a mile from the mine site, and has been a vocal opponent of the plan since it was first proposed.

"I still don't think that it's the best place to do it," Zdawczyk said. "I'm not going to like it now or 10 years from now."

While she's glad township officials managed to convince Iafrate to drop plans for an asphalt processing plant on the parcel, Zdawczyk said that they should have been more hard-nosed on other items, including setting a drop-dead date for the mine's shutdown.

"It was almost a partnership. It almost seemed like the township was bending over backwards at times for them," Zdawczyk said. "It's almost like a snowball. Nothing can stop it."

Despite that, she added that she also recognizes the narrow legal envelope within which the township had to operate. Barring a compelling reason that would stand up in court township officials could not legally have turned the deal down.

> "It was almost a partnership. It almost seemed like the township was bending over backwards at times for them. It's almost like a snowball. Nothing can stop it."
> –Northville Township resident Elaine Zdawczyk

More than a year of negotiations between township and Iafrate representatives resulted in a long list of conditions designed to minimize the mine's impact on the community. Strict regulations concerning truck traffic and dust and noise controls were put into place, for example.

Also planned is a program of regular monitoring of area lake and groundwater levels to ensure that the mine, which will dip below the water table for a time, doesn't lower lakes or contaminate water supplies.

A key issue that will be up in the air until the mine shuts down will be what comes after it. Iafrate has submitted a reclamation plan for the site calling for industrial use, in keeping with current zoning.

Township officials, however, have suggested other ideas such as home sites, a golf course or land for baseball diamonds and soccer fields.

Company officials have said they'd consider the proposals put forth by township officials.

Meads principal hopes to stay the course

By LINDA GAITHER ARNOLD
Staff Writer

If it isn't broken, don't try to fix it.

That's the philosophy Sue Meyer, the new principal of Meads Mill Middle School, will be following as she succeeds retired Principal Dave Longridge.

She's been assistant principal since 1993 and likes what she sees happening at the school.

"There will be no sweeping changes," she said. "We will remain kid-oriented and teacher-driven."

Teachers will continue to work in teams, and the students will continue to switch classes for four blocked areas. The fifth period each day is set aside for "academic enrichment."

"This extends the curriculum into areas that interest the students," Meyer said. "We're looking at areas that include animal care, current events, band, even a bridge-building competition."

Meyer is very proud of the school – from a fitness room with its donated equipment to the ceiling tiles that have been decorated by current and former students.

The seventh grade science class nurtures a greenhouse and provides plants for the entire school, and the school sponsors Colonial Days every fall where students learn what it was like to live in another era. Many of the teachers dress up in appropriate attire to get into the spirit of the event.

Meyer considers the locker area "private space."

"Kids need to have a sense of ownership," she explained. "Unless there's a real concern, we leave them alone."

The school prides itself on positive parental support, and boasts of an active PSTA.

"We're very proud of our PAL (Parents at Lunch) program," Meyer said. "Despite what the kids say, they like having their parents around."

How does Meyer size up her school?

"Our teachers are incredible, period," she said.

During her years as assistant principal, Meyer was involved with athletics, activities and the student council. While she had been the assistant principal at Meads Mill since 1993, she actually came to the school in 1990, when she became assistant principal of both Meads and Cooke middle schools.

"For all those years I traveled everyday for one-half day between both schools," she explained. "It was not fun."

Meyer grew up in Detroit, graduating from Holy Redeemer High School along with her six brothers and two sisters. She received both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Wayne State University. In 1993 she received a specialist degree in administration and leadership from Eastern Michigan University, and she currently is working on a doctorate degree in the same area from Wayne State.

Sue Meyer, a teacher and administrator in the Northville and Novi school districts for more than a dozen years, is the new principal of Meads Mill Middle School.

With a background in special education, she began her teaching career in Ypsilanti. She joined the Northville system in 1978. Besides her middle school experience, she was a special education teacher at Silver Springs Elementary.

Meyer said she will miss Longridge, who retired after serving the Northville district for 37 years.

"He was my mentor," she said. "He totally took Meads Mill from a junior high school to the middle school concept."

In her new position, Meyer will earn $82,845 annually.

Annual CROP Walk nears

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Take part in a legacy of hope that happens just six weeks from now.

Move your feet for a few hours one fine Sunday morning this October and you'll help to defeat hunger around the world and right in your own backyard.

The 10th annual Northville/Novi CROP Walk is set for Oct. 5 and organizers are looking for volunteers to sign up now. You don't have to be rich, smart or good-looking. All you have to do is care.

Hungry people don't just live half a world away, although this year's CROP Walk will help them, too. Unfortunately some of our neighbors and friends go to bed each night without enough to eat. Four local agencies which combat the problem will benefit from the dollers walkers raise as well.

"We hope to see as many people participate as possible," said Carol Ann Donnelly, a CROP Walk organizer and Christian services director at Novi's Holy Family Church.

This year CROP Walk's local drive is shooting for 350 volunteers to pull in $24,000 from pledges for the miles they'll trod through Northville and Novi.

CROP, by the way, stands for Church Rural Overseas Program. It's an umbrella organization made up of churches and relief agencies around the world who aim to sweep hunger into the dustbin of history.

For the 10th year in a row worship centers in Novi and Northville are a part of that effort. Organizers say they want 1997 to be the best year yet.

A 10 kilometer walk (6.2 miles) is planned through the streets of Northville and Northville.

Funds raised will be donated to the Indiana-based Church World Service (CWS), which sponsors hunger relief and other aid programs around America and the world. CWS will then return 25 percent of the money to four local agencies involved in hunger relief.

They include:

- Northville Civic Concern (7 percent).
- Novi Emergency Food Program (7 percent).
- South Lyon-based food distribution agency Active Faith (7 percent).
- First Step shelter in Canton for women and children who are victims of domestic violence (4 percent).

Walk organizers hope to add some fun touches to this year's event including everything from bands to face painting, picture taking and even a hot air balloon. Of course, an ice cream social will follow the Walk, which will begin at 1 p.m. at Novi Meadows School on Taft Road.

If you'd like to get involved in the 1997 Northville-Novi CROP Walk, here's how:

- Call Carol Ann Donnelly at 349-8553 or Diane Bancroft at (313) 459-9377 or Tom Anan at 347-2457 for more information.
- If you're looking for a way to do some community service as part of a requirement for church, Boy or Girl Scouts or even as part of a court sentence, the CROP Walk's the place. You'll receive a certification of your participation.
- The CROP Walk backers are looking for a celebrity or local dignitary who would be willing to serve as the event's grand marshal. Contact Donnelly, Bancroft or Anan if you're interested or have any ideas.
- The average walker raises more than $65. If you raise $100 or more you'll receive a special CROP Walk pin, so plan on scooping up pledges early and often.

Go on line to learn about county roads

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Access Wayne County government's Internet web site at this address: www.waynecounty.com

If you have a computer and a burning desire to get up close and personal with the roads you drive on everyday, Wayne County has got you covered.

A new Internet web site is now available to the public: www.waynecounty.com includes all kinds of interesting, engaging and useful information about Wayne County government, including an entire section on the roads that are handled by the county Department of Public Services.

"There's some pretty good information on our site. Give it a look when you get a chance," was the advice from John Roach, public information manager for the department.

You can visit the site to see which county roads are under construction and learn more about road services.

There are maps to get you where you want to go, road budget information and a variety of little-known facts about the road system, which stretches for an astonishing 1,900 miles.

Some niftier features of the site include a virtual-reality tour of a 70-year-old drawbridge, rare historic photographs and even an animated feature on "the birth of a pothole."

On a more practical plane, you can get information about the shape of specific sections of roadway around Wayne County and details on when and how they are scheduled to be repaired and improved.

There's a breakdown showing where the tax money that pay for the roads comes from and you can even calculate how much you personally pay using a table found in the site.

Ever caught a piece of a pothole in your windshield or had to get the front end realigned after hitting one of those bone-jarring monstrosities?

The county web site even includes information on how to file an official claim for vehicle damages resulting from a drive down a county road.

Roach reminded county residents as well that they can phone in reports of major traffic hazards to a new special 24-hour toll-free hotline.

1-888-ROAD CREW is the number to call to report things like downed power lines across a road, malfunctioning traffic signals or potholes large enough to present a public danger.

County officials will either dispatch a repair team themselves or notify the appropriate agency or municipality to get the problem fixed.

Northville High School freshman Christy Delano (right) and other members of the school's cross country team teamed up last Saturday at Amerman Elementary School for a fund-raiser car wash to help off-set some of the team's expenses. The school's National Honor Society was also participating in the car wash.

QUEEN FOR A WEEKEND

The Northville Victorian Festival is looking for a local woman to play Queen Victoria for the weekend of the ninth annual festival, Sept. 12-14.

Organizers ask that the queen be at least 18-years-old, provide her own costume and circulate during the festival, playing up the role as much as possible. As a thank-you, the festival committee will give the queen free tickets for herself and a guest to the Costume Ball Saturday night, Sept. 13.

The winner will be chosen by a drawing.

Costume Ball's back after one year hiatus

ball is ticking away.

Anyone wishing to purchase the $50 per-person tickets is cordially asked to do so by tomorrow Aug. 29. However, there will be an opportunity to purchase tickets in the next few weeks. Tickets are sold at the Northville Chamber of Commerce office, 195 S. Main Street.

The Chamber sponsors the ball, which is an important part of the Victorian Festival activities Sept. 12-14. The costume ball is set for Sept. 13.

Those interested in attending the event should call the Chamber of Commerce office at 349-7640 to register or to obtain additional information.

The evening begins at 7:30 p.m. with a horse and carriage ride from the MAGS parking lot to the Northville Recreation Center. A light supper will be served and a beer and wine cash bar available to guests.

Perennial favorite Glen Morningstar and The Olde Michigan Ruffwater String Band will provide the music.

The night draws more than 100 guests each year who dress up in Victorian dresses and suits and head out for an old-fashioned night on the town.

You can find such apparel at a swap, sell or trade trunk show being hosted by the Northville Historical Society on Sunday, Sept. 7, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Cady Inn in Mill Race Village.

Victorian costumes for children or adults will be available for anyone wishing to change or complete an existing outfit or begin putting together a new look.

There is no cost to participate, no preregistration and the community is invited.

For more information, call Mill Race activities chairperson and Northville Historical Society board member Sonia Swigart at 348-2947.

The Northville Chamber of Commerce also has instructions on how to turn old gowns into new Victorian dresses and how a proper gentlemen should dress for the affair.

SCC offers Internet for seniors

Internet for Seniors, a new class at Schoolcraft Community College, will introduce seniors to the World Wide Web and its vast information resources that are easily accessible with a little practice.

The class will focus on topics that interest seniors – sending electronic mail, perhaps to children or grandchildren; making travel arrangements; checking on investments; or finding people you might have lost touch with years ago.

Don't let the electronic age pass you by. Students should have some computer experience and will learn the basics of surfing the Net.

The one-day class is scheduled to meet Tuesday, Sept. 17, or Wednesday, Oct. 29.

The fee is $98, with a senior discount.

For information on the class or registration, contact (313) 462-4448.

A funeral mass was conducted on Tuesday, Aug. 26, at Our Lady of Victory Church of Northville. Interment was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

HELEN C. GARBER

Helen C. Garber of Plymouth died Aug. 22, 1997, at her home in the Plymouth Towne Apartments. Mrs. Garber would have been 99 on Labor Day. She was born in Detroit on Sept. 1, 1898, the third of five children born to Albert and Kate (Conner) Richards.

Mrs. Garber graduated from old Detroit Central High School and attended Albion College. She was active in several social and civic organizations including the Plymouth Woman's Club; the Plymouth Historical Society; the Plymouth Garden Club; the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Alpha Chi Omega and Panhellenic.

She loved poetry and American History. Until recently she regularly presented programs on those subjects to service clubs and senior citizen organizations.

Mrs. Garber was married June 24, 1920, to Ralph Garber. At the time of their marriage they were both students at Albion College and they became the first students ever to attend Albion as a married couple.

Shortly after their 60th wedding anniversary, Mr. Garber preceded his wife in death. Also preceding her was a son David and a son-in-law, George A. Cato.

She is survived by daughters Barbara Jean Cato of Hilton Head Island, S.C., and Lou Ann (John) Seely of Bloomfield Hills; son. James N. (Marianne) of Northville; sister, Marguerite Purse of Southfield; nine grandchildren, 20 great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild.

Services were held on Tuesday, Aug. 26, at Schrader-Howell Funeral Home in Plymouth. The Rev. Karl Trautmann of the Detroit Historic Trinity Lutheran Church officiated.

Memorial contributions to a charity of choice would be appreciated by the family.

HEALTH NOTE

GETTING TO A STITCH IN TIME

Probably all runners and joggers have experienced the painful side cramps known as stitches. Those who are looking for a way to deal with this problem, which has been known to stop runners in their tracks, might consider channeling their aggravation into a grunt. Some physiologists believe this action may free the diaphragm sufficiently to get rid of the stitch. Others suggest runners change their breathing patterns. Most people are right-handed breathers, meaning they breath in and out as their right feet hit the ground. Because this may stress the right part of the diaphragm, it may help runners to breathe in and out as their left feet hit the ground at the first sign of a stitch.

If you need personal help on breathing techniques or if you need physical therapy services to recuperate from a running injury, call Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc. at 349-3816. We specialize in orthopedic and sports-relateds injuries, pain management, and general rehabilitation. Located at 215 E. Main St., Suite B (across from our previous location), we have early and late business hours, including weekends.

P.S. It may also help to relieve stitches by slowing down to a walk and bending slightly forward at the waist while inhaling and exhaling deeply. Take care not to drop your head below chest level, however.

Arrowhead Alpines

With Michigan's Largest selection of.....
Perennials, Woodland Wildflowers, Rare Alpines, Dwarf Conifers, and unusual flowering shrubs

It's finally summer, and we have 20 greenhouses plus acres of potted stock; all overflowing with exciting new plants. We are pleased to be able to offer one of the largest selections of wildflowers and ferns in the U.S., including many trillium species and such rarities as yellow ladyslipper. There are thousands of potted perennials to choose from; sun or shade, dry or pond, old favorites to rarities found nowhere else, we have it all with over 6000 species and varieties to choose from. We are a production nursery not a garden center so our inventory is at a maximum in late summer. Why not buy direct from the source for the best selection and price. It's a huge place and we are always happy to tell you where to find something or offer suggestions, but we are a working nursery and it's up to the customer to go and fetch it, so don't expect to be led by the hand (besides, exploring is half the fun and you can find rare plants without having to eat yak jerky and dangle over 2000' cliffs.)

Our Opinion

Time for zero tolerance of 'non-violent' criminals

It's an all-too-familiar story. A career criminal racks up conviction after conviction yet just keeps on plying his dubious trade.

The victims tell their horror stories of deception, betrayal and lost income, but the bad guy always manages to fall through the cracks in the system.

It appears about ready to happen again.

Three-time convicted con man George Meister got your basic slap-on-the-wrist sentence of one year in prison for his most recent felony. Despite a trail of fraud charges extending back over 20 years, the man was given a relatively light term of incarceration and, with accrued good time, could be released this fall, only a little more than half a year after his most recent stay in the Big House.

Earlier this year, Meister was convicted of bilking Northville business operator Gloria Sciberras out of roughly $4,000 worth of goods.

How it could happen that this man with a vast reputation for professional deceit could be free to walk the streets in just a few short months is almost too depressing to relate. Basically, it's a story of too few people being willing to chase down a clever and elusive swindler, and a court system that views non-violent criminals much too casually.

Toss into the equation a confused law enforcement apparatus (some of our sources couldn't even tell us where Meister is serving time) and you've a recipe for real problems.

Yes, there are monsters out there – people who have no intention of playing by the rules – and you have to wonder how many of them are permitted to freely circulate among the law-abiding, workaday public.

This is an age-old problem and we're not going to resolve it in the small space available for comment here. But, as we see it, true change – substantive change – can only come when we as a society begin to demand that our courts treat "white collar" and non-violent criminals as the threats they are.

They might not use weapons in the commission of their crimes, but their misdeeds can be devastating and ruinous to honest, trusting citizens.

Don't let them take a bite out of your pocketbook

Is it just us or do too many people seem far too foolish nowadays? The question arises out of this week's report of another rash of car break-ins in one Northville Township neighborhood.

It's the second one in two months. Those responsible for 30-plus vehicle-burglaries hit the cars all in the same night, getting inside to steal whatever's there – cash, golf clubs and cellular phones.

Tens of thousands of dollars of goods have been taken in these two cases alone and thousands of dollars in damage done to the cars involved.

Nothing is perfect in this world and there's no way to guarantee that you won't become a victim of crime. However, we're staggered by the fact that in so many break-ins in this community so many of the cars have been unlocked.

It's also amazing that so many people will leave their valuable belongings in their vehicles overnight – everything from wallets and watches to wedding rings and laptop computers. Someone with a mind to steal sees the goodies, smashes in a window and is gone within 10 seconds.

Sounds hard to believe but in several cases last week people had actually left cellular phones worth hundreds of dollars lying right on the front seat of their unlocked cars all night.

Don't get too indignant: almost all of us have made an error in judgment like that at one time or another. We say it's time for the carelessness to stop and common sense to start.

Keep your car windows rolled up and doors locked whenever you leave the car, even if you're just making a quick stop somewhere like at a dry cleaner's or a convenience store.

Don't leave anything valuable in your car if you can help it. Take it all with you, especially overnight. Keep in mind that this rule applies to presents purchased during the holiday season as well. If you have to leave something of value in your vehicle, make sure it's completely out of sight, preferably locked away in the trunk. Also, be sure to park your car in brightly lit areas.

Most important: if you ever see anyone breaking into your car or someone else's call the police immediately. Seconds count – your hesitation can mean the difference between an arrest and a big-money loss for someone.

A little common sense will go a long way to shutting down the crooks, keeping insurance rates down and, most importantly, making sure that our stuff remains ours.

About that skin deep business ...

Appearances aren't everything, but how often are we deceived by them!

Lee Snider

As essentially visual creatures, we rely heavily on our sense of sight and our preconceptions of the way people ought to look and present themselves. But, as the old saying goes, you can't judge a book by its cover.

I had lunch with State Rep. Nancy Cassis the other day and got a chance to pick her brain about her early impressions of the Lansing political set.

As you know, Cassis, R-Novi, was first elected to the Legislature last fall. She now represents Michigan's 38th House District, which includes Oakland County Northville.

Anyway, we settled in for a casual lunch and it wasn't long before I went probing for her insider's view of state government.

She told me her first experiences have been positive ones, though learning to play hardball is a bit of a painful process. One of her first encounters with a strong-arm tactic came when she was abruptly gaveled down during a committee hearing then later told she'd "get over it" once she adjusted to the rules of the game. Seems as if public insults are business as usual up there, and after a while people know enough not to take them personally.

Cassis went on to mention that she was bowled over by President Clinton's visit to Lansing back in March of this year. She said the president was smooth as silk, delivering his address to the Legislature with flawless precision. He cut a figure as the "ultimate exquisite politician," to use her words.

Later, she met Clinton and got launched onto cloud-9 when he looked her square in the face and said "God bless you" with all the presidential warmth he could muster.

She was euphoric, she told me, but the glow faded quickly as she realized the president was just using the kind of charm that years of high-level diplomacy had polished to perfection.

I don't know why, but Cassis' story reminded me of my experience with the movie The Godfather. When I first saw the film 25 years ago, I reacted like everyone else – I was floored by the power of the images flashing before me on the big screen.

But, for some reason, my strongest memory was not of the horse's head that was planted in that guy's bed or the site of that other man getting shot through the eye while stretched out on the massage table.

No, my most enduring image was of Robert Duvall. Throughout the movie, he was always there, thoroughly lawyer-like in his pin-striped vest and white shirt. He looked as if he could have been a member in good standing of his local bar association, the type of authority figure you'd trust to draw up your mother's will.

But, while he dressed the part of a respected professional, he put his expertise to the service of a murderous Mafia don, who paid him a fee just as I pay my doctor or my investment broker.

Appearances, indeed. How hard it is to get beyond them, yet how much is hidden beneath.

Red tape wall surrounds name change

I didn't expect anything for at least six weeks. Daily trips to the mail box after that turned up nothing. Still I waited and waited.

Carol Dipple

A few weeks ago my accountant called to tell me that, oops, my old address was on my income tax return. Strike one.

Not a big deal she said, just give the state and federal governments a call and get things squared away.

Easier said than done.

In the first phone call to the federal government I was told that my Social Security number was also causing a problem. This year if the Social Security information doesn't match up with the information on the income tax return, no check is issued.

Since my divorce, I hadn't updated my last name. Strike two.

On my first trip to the Social Security office with the necessary divorce papers in hand I was told I also needed to bring in my immigration card. On a return trip the next day with my "green card" I was told that it was too old, and couldn't be accepted as proof that I was who I was, that I was in this country legally and that I was allowed to work. Strike three – I thought I was going to get sent back to Great Britain.

The government changed the codes on the green cards with no cross referencing to the new codes. I was told to go to an immigration office to get an official stamp on my green card before returning, but the soles on my shoes were wearing out so I called first. The phone number had been disconnected.

I called the main immigration office and was told I would have to go to the office in Detroit. Both proof of an application for a green card, $75, or citizenship, $95, would be accepted by the Social Security office, I was told.

With callouses showing on my dialing finger, I called the Social Security office back the same day only to be told they would not accept a citizenship application as proof and also that they couldn't help me that day because they were under construction.

By this time I was getting a little light headed. How could the office be closed, I asked. I vividly remembered my two previous trips to their office. My persistence paid off and she became the person in the know.

She at first came to the same conclusion – there was nothing they could do without the code, which they hadn't been able to find earlier. I squinted and turned the card this way and that and finally found a tiny code number. Bring it in we'll take care of you, you've been through enough, was her reply.

They were waiting for me this time. My new card arrived a week later.

I called the federal government to tell them of the changes.

The check would take about six weeks for me to receive. Turns out, he tells me, that billions have been bilked through phony names and Social Security numbers, hence the crack down.

I just had to change my address with the state but since returned checks are destroyed a new check would be issued and I should receive it in 30 days.

Somewhere between the calls to the immigration office and the Social Security office, I began to have daymares of standing on the pier waiting to be forcibly placed on the boat back to the mother country with three children tugging at my skirt, wailing.

Now that I "think" I'm official with two branches of the federal government, I'll be using my maiden name from now on.

Besides all those working for the government who don't know what is going on, there are a lot who do. It's just a matter of finding out who is who.

Political system proves money talks

In 1976, the Supreme Court, in Buckley versus Valeo, handed down the decision that interprets the First Amendment of the Constitution in a way that undeniably equates money with free speech. In other words, since free speech is guaranteed to all citizens, the freedom to spend any amount of one's own money in seeking office is also guaranteed by the ruling.

In the presidential and congressional elections of 1996, an estimated $2 billion was spent, double what was spent in 1992. It would appear that money as "free speech" would weigh most heavily in favor of a candidate who was well-heeled.

My College Edition of New Webster's Dictionary of the English Language defines speech as, "The faculty or power of expressing thoughts and emotions by articulated sounds and words."

Also, The New Shorter Oxford English Dictionary, 1993 edition, defines speech as, "Articulate sounds, talk, conversation, discourse. That which is uttered or spoken; written or printed copy."

Granted that "money talks" would it not follow that the more money one has, the louder his voice in gaining access to the centers of political power?

Some wag once explained the Golden Rule in this way: "He who has the gold, rules."

Candidates are already off and running

Phil Power

Even though the 1998 election is more than a year off, the usual stages of political evolution are already evident to the interested observer.

DIGGING IN: Breaking his pledge to serve for just two terms, Gov. John Engler signified his intention of running again via the unusual device of an interview between his wife, Michelle, and the (nominally Democratic) Detroit Free Press.

By digging in so early in the campaign, Engler eliminated any doubt about his intentions and thereby solidified his control over the Republican Party, still torn by factional fighting between (dominant) conservatives and (nearly invisible in the hierarchy) moderates.

SORTING OUT: Although organized labor's decision (by the UAW, Teamsters and Buildings Trades, so far) to endorse Democratic aspirant, lawyer and former East Lansing Mayor Larry Owen was unprecedentedly early, it produced an early sorting out of what had been a crowded field of challengers.

Gone are (energetic) state Sen. Jim Berryman, (bright and imaginative) state Rep. Jim Agee and (unknown) businessman Ed Hamilton.

Improbable and not taken seriously is the (well known but very odd) Geoffrey Fieger, Jack Kevorkian's lawyer. Probably out is former U.S. Sen. Don Riegle.

Still in and the "other man" in the two-man race is Doug Ross, the former Commerce Department director under Gov. James Blanchard.

PILING ON: With Owen now established as the early favorite, the usual process of piling on has started.

"The issue (for the primary) is who will decide for the party – a few political bosses in the back room or thousands of the rank and file?" asked Ross at a recent meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee.

Others have started asking whether the method Owen used to become the favorite in the primary (getting Big Labor's blessing) could also become the device of his certain defeat against Engler.

Examples abound, most recently including former U.S. Rep. Howard Wolpe, who benefited from labor endorsements to win a tight gubernatorial primary in 1994, only to be labeled as a tool of labor on the way to his crushing defeat by Engler in November.

SETTING OUT: I asked Owen to set out his answer to the charge that he could be pigeonholed as a single-constituency candidate. "Hogwash," he snorted.

"The people who make that argument are busy fighting the last war. There is a new generation of labor leaders who understand full well that unions don't run the entire state and that the interests of most folks – safe streets, good jobs, education for their kids – are the same as the interests of thousands of union members.

"An endorsement is not the end; it's just the beginning," continued Owen, who argues that he has plenty of credentials as a businessman and educator that will allow him to broaden the base of his campaign. He points to his announcement speech back in February which spoke of his commitment to the "sensible center," embraced by "middle class, poor and wealthy, Republicans, independents and Democrats alike."

ADDING UP: Various pundits and political insiders are now going to spend months trying to add up what all of this means before ordinary people will take an interest in the August 1998 primary, a process that usually begins sometime in mid-July.

Ross argues that organized labor endorsed Owen early in order to head off some real momentum he was building among the grass roots. He may be right.

But now that Owen has the labor endorsement, Ross will have to demonstrate he can excite enough passion to overcome his organizational setback.

Owen, for his part, will have to demonstrate by deeds to a skeptical media and disinterested public that he is the centrist he claims to be.

Con man's pending release upsets victims

tenced in June on one count of passing a check with non-sufficient funds.

That's a felony in Michigan carrying a possible term of up to 10 years in prison. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard Hathaway gave Meister just one year, in part because few of his alleged victims pursued formal charges.

"The reason why a person like George Meister survives is because most people won't bother to follow up. He usually hits wealthy people. I just couldn't afford what he did to me," Gloria said.

The victory was short-lived. Despite a criminal track record that stretches back to at least 1976, a plethora of arrests and convictions and several alleged victims, Meister will likely be released from jail soon – very soon.

People around here are worried that, as he's done in the past, he'll soon go back to what he does best.

"He'll do the same thing. It's his world. He'll just do it again someplace new," was how Louise Jabara of Plymouth's Wild Wings store put it.

> "The reason why a person like George Meister survives is because most people won't bother to follow up. He usually hits wealthy people. I just couldn't afford what he did to me."
> –Gloria Sciberras
> Owner, Downtown Baskets

THE STING

Driving a Lincoln Continental and wearing a thousand-dollar suit, Meister hit town early this year. At first he seemed to fit right in: a wealthy businessman with wide interests who was warm and congenial with everyone he met.

He made fast friends everywhere – credit unions, realtors' offices, restaurants. He even showed up to introduce himself at the Northville police station, asking officers to keep a watchful eye out on his new antique store until an alarm system could be installed.

Meister would arrive at The Timber Creek restaurant on Northville Road with a driver at the wheel of his car.

"He was slick, no doubt about it," said manager Jan Masciulli.

And he could talk at length about many different subjects – everything from aviation to transport shipping to construction.

"It's unbelievable. He can tell you stories for hours," Gloria recalled.

Meister, the people who met him said, claimed to own several businesses and was ready to drop some serious money on a new home in Novi and a downtown antique business on Main Street for his girlfriend.

"If he ever used his brain for something legitimate he could be a millionaire, but he doesn't want to work," was how Sciberras put it.

Meister wasn't a millionaire, not even close. When he left town, that Lincoln Continental pulled up in front of a dingy Pinckney home that sported bed sheets as curtains on the day that the sheriff's deputies took him in.

On a $25 deposit Meister allegedly set up a checking account. He rush-ordered business checks for the store space he rented out on N. Center.

THE SCAM

Meanwhile, questions began popping up among those who dealt with George Meister. His checks began bouncing all over Northville, Plymouth and beyond.

A $50,000 check to buy a Wyandotte bar. The down payment on a house in Gibraltar he'd proposed to buy. Roses for Valentine's Day from a Plymouth flower shop. Some $4,000 worth of baskets and antiques from Downtown Baskets, Gloria and Maurice's shop on N. Center Street.

"A lot of people were 'touched' by George Meister," Sciberras said, a grim reference to the old phone company ad.

To every call, every question, Meister allegedly would apologize profusely and explain about problems with his bank not wiring the cash into his local account, about how his grandmother had plans to will him a large sum of money.

When Gloria called and asked him point-blank if he was conning her, "tears came to his eyes. How could I ever think that?"

PAYBACK

After waiting and waiting, Gloria wouldn't wait anymore. She'd deposited his check and written some of her own to pay bills.

"I was excited. I needed that money," she recalled.

Then her own checks began coming back stamped "non-sufficient funds," forcing Sciberras to take a second job to cover the loss.

She wouldn't let it go, however. Gloria became the thorn in Meister's side, tracking down his scams, tracking down his victims and even tracking him down to the Pinckney home.

She discovered a man with a criminal record that includes no less than three check kiting/fraud convictions and two more misdemeanor convictions in Michigan alone. Meister had felony convictions for bad checks in Pennsylvania and Ohio as well.

According to Wayne County probation department records Meister, who was on parole for a bad check offense, hadn't reported in for more than three months when he was arrested and should never have had a checking account in the first place.

Sciberras discovered the trail of a man who'd spent at least 20 years taking advantage of the good will and blind faith of others. The only price he'd pay was to spend a few months in jail every five years or so: exactly what's happening in this case.

That doesn't sit right with one of Meister's victims – Masciulli.

"That stinks," Masciulli said upon hearing news of Meister's one-year sentence for check fraud. "Michigan's a big state. Unless he becomes known nationally this is going to happen again."

Jabara of Wild Wings agrees. She nearly "sold" Meister a large, beautiful handcarved wooden eagle crafted by a local artist.

Her family-owned store doesn't even ask for ID on checks, Jabara explained.

They still don't, despite Meister's abuse of trust.

"He puts you at ease and your guards are down. That's what he mastered," Louise said.

His skill almost got him the eagle, a sentimental piece carved by a man while he battled cancer.

"I would have been sick if he'd have ended up with it," Jabara said.

"Some things you can replace. That couldn't have been."

THE SYSTEM

"It's not even the money," Gloria agreed. "It's what he does to peoples' lives."

That's why she's so frustrated with the justice system and the many victims of George Meister who decided it just wasn't worth the effort to press charges.

The Sciberras were one of the only ones in Meister's most recent trial to not only file a formal complaint with police but also keep up with court proceedings.

"When you're not following up on it you're allowing it," Gloria said.

Meister's one-year prison sentence was due to a few reasons: victims not following through, the fact that it was a non-violent offense, jail overcrowding and an earnest promise to pay restitution.

"A long term of incarceration means less opportunity for restitution," said assistant county prosecutor Duane Brown in explaining a judge's reasoning for not sentencing criminals to long terms in jail.

Brown, the last prosecutor listed in court records on the Meister case, said this week he does not recall any details of the case. Gloria is convinced Meister will never cough up dollar one.

Actually Meister will probably be released well before his one-year sentence completion date in June 1998. He'll get credit for the three months served in jail before his conviction and he's eligible for "good time" as well.

Crowded lockdown facilities offer day-for-day credit to inmates who stay out of trouble. If that happens, Meister could be released from prison by Thanksgiving, serving the rest of his three-year probation on the street.

AFTERMATH

Despite that, life goes on. Gloria said she's received many a thank you from people who learned about Meister from her efforts. Maybe some of them are a little more cautious now. She still takes checks and doesn't always ask for ID, relying on her judgment of people to make the call.

"There's been some satisfaction but not much. I have a lot of faith in people. George is one out of a million.

"Most people aren't like that, fortunately."

THE CHANGING FACE OF THE WORKPLACE

Workers who have climbed off the corporate ladder are finding success in new endeavors.

Owning Kiddie Academy Child Care Learning Center allows Gene Granowicz to spend time with his daughter Stephanie.

New career comes one step at a time

Gene Granowicz is a man in transition.

He is currently an engineer with GT Automotive Systems in Livonia but he also goes to the Kiddie Academy Child Care Learning Center in Novi every afternoon, not just to pick up his two daughters but to work.

"There wasn't a need for a career change," he said. "It was a need to be independent. There is a lot of turnover, downsizing in the auto industry. Every two years I ended up changing jobs because of downsizing and buyouts. There is not a lot of security in working for someone else today."

Buying a small business was his first thought but nothing panned out. He also looked at a couple of other service related industries

Granowicz started spending a lot of time at the day care, playing with the children, Stephanie, now 5, and Paige, 2 and a half.

"One thing led to another," he said.

Granowicz made the decision to open the learning center in May 1994. His plans came to fruition in October 1996.

"I had been thinking about opening my own business for quite a while," Granowicz said.

In hindsight, Granowicz said his decision was a good one because GT Automotive has merged with other companies twice during this past year. Although his position has not been affected, others have not been so lucky.

When Granowicz was younger, he had originally wanted to be a pediatrician but his aptitude began

Fred Finzer doesn't think of his job as work anymore.

Switching fields meant more classes

When Ameritech downsized in 1993, Fred Finzer became a statistic.

Fortunately for the yellow pages sales and marketing employee with 20 years seniority, it gave him the opportunity he had been waiting for.

"That ultimately became the final catalyst that led me to switch careers," the former Novi resident said. "I had long since decided to change careers. By then it was a matter of when, not if.

"It was just one of those things," Finzer said. "There were little signs and finally I began to link them together."

Finzer can't recall exactly when, but somewhere along the line he went from having a career to a having a mission.

"Almost all the satisfaction I was getting out of life I was not getting during work but at the church," he said. "It was finally one of those things that dawned on me – you don't have to spend 10 hours to get through to go do what you want the last four hours of the day."

Because he was laid off, Finzer was able to enrolled full-time at the Ecumenical Theological Seminary located in Detroit where he studied for one year followed by two years of study at the Methodist Theological School of Ohio in Delaware, Ohio, just north of Columbus.

"Once you decide you're going to do it you look for ways and things to help," he said. "Severance pay from the phone company was critical. Without that the whole picture would have been different."

For two years, Finzer left early Tuesday morning for a three hour drive to Delaware, returning on Thursday evenings. On the weekend he was a part-time student pastor at a small Methodist church in Rochester Hills.

"That is not different than a lot of folks," he said. "Seminaries are set up to work three days at school and open to beginning preachers on the weekend."

With only five years to go before retirement, if Finzer had been able to stay with Ameritech his pension

Carol Bowdell earned her Mercedes in 18 months.

Business venture a wise financial move

Carol Bowdell stayed in her chosen career because it was secure and safe and she had an income she could count on.

"I felt like I was a slave to the paycheck," the Novi resident said. "It got to the point where it didn't matter. I just knew I wanted to leave and needed to be home."

Two and a half years ago Bowdell left a career of 20 years to spend more time with her four daughters.

After the summer, she had planned to go back to something, probably dental hygiene.

"I came home and had a ball. I felt free for the first time in my life," she said.

Once the girls were back in school, Bowdell knew she didn't want to get into a situation where her hours were going to be dictated again. At first thought she would just substitute, but she couldn't bring herself to pick up the phone to begin calling area dentists.

"I listened to my guts, literally," she said.

While flipping through a dental hygiene magazine, she noticed an ad in the career column and made a call.

"It seemed like everything I always wanted," she said. "The perfect career."

An information packet on Arbonne International, a company that manufactures Swiss skin care products, arrived a few days later.

She read the information and tried the product but it took her another six weeks to make up her mind.

Tom Charboneau became a builder two years ago.

Need for creativity leads to major change

When the opportunity presented itself, Tom Charboneau took hold of it and made the change.

Two years ago when United Parcel Service offered some of its employees buyouts, the Northville resident of nine years knew the time was right.

Charboneau gave up his job as a manager, leaving UPS after 10 years of service to become self-employed as a finish carpenter.

"It was a combination of wanting to do something more creative and having a little more freedom with my life," Charboneau said of his decision to leave. "I had been kicking around the idea of leaving the corporate job to do something on my own for probably five years."

Having always been interested in working on homes, carpentry and tools, his career move fit right into his plans.

"The biggest thing is your quality of life," he said. "When you work for a corporation, particularly a corporation that works around the clock, you're on call 24 hours a day. You have to conform to their lifestyle. I basically had 20 more years to go before retirement. To think about doing that for another 20 years was pretty hard."

Charboneau started out small and is now building and renovating homes.

"I wanted to start small so I could keep the headaches, so to speak, to a minimum and build up from there," he said.

Charboneau and his crew of six, who range in age from 18 to 62, make up Home Renaissance Inc.

"The freedom of not being controlled by a corporation is very nice," he said. "There's a lot of responsibility with having six people working for you but I love the reaction from people when we do a good quality job. To see things being built and know you built them is instant gratification. I have a good mix of people working with me."

Having made the break from corporate life to one of self employment, Charboneau is confident

Howard Kendall takes his helicopter through 3-D aerobatics for this weekend's show.

Model aircraft take to sky

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

Over 50 planes will be buzzing around a field in Northville this weekend being put through aerobatic exercises.

On Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 30 and 31, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Midwest R/C Society of Northville will host the Fifth Annual Big-Bird Fly In at the society's field located on Five Mile between Ridge and Napier.

A Big Bird event is planned for Saturday when area pilots are invited to bring quarter-scale and larger planes to fly.

Activities continue on Sunday with small to large R/C demonstrations by members and area pilots.

The two-day show includes demonstrations of all aspects of radio controlled helicopters, quarter-scale, electrics, gliders, and sail planes.

"Virtually the whole gamut of what you can do in radio control will be demonstrated that day," said the society's president, Howard Kendall.

Having just moved to Michigan from Illinois, Kendall became interested in radio controlled airplanes through his boss and coworker.

"From that point on I was hooked," said Kendall, who became a member of the society in 1979 and flies primarily model helicopters.

Although radio controlled model airplanes can be purchased already assembled, Kendall prefers to build his own from kits.

"I tend to build differently in my own style," he said.

His favorite plane is a one-fifth scale Extra 300 sport aerobatics plane.

"It is a very smooth, predictable airplane that will do every maneuver in the book," he said.

This weekend, society members and area pilots will demonstrate for the public the capabilities of the different airplanes doing scale maneuvers and 3-D aerobatics.

"Since some of the planes are scale WWI type aircraft they would be flying in a scale fashion," he said. "It's showing what the hobby is, essentially what the airplane would do in scale."

The DC-3 models will be doing scale fly-bys.

On the second day, attendees will have a chance to have free hands-on training on the trainer aircraft the society owns.

"They will get their hands on the sticks to try to fly," Kendall said.

The event is well attended, with 40 to 50 pilots, both club members and local pilots, flying 60 to 70 planes, according to Kendall.

A Novi resident for about eight years before moving to Northville six years ago, Kendall is married to Katina.

"My biggest enthusiasm is for the helicopters, for what they can do," he said. "They can do anything in a three-dimension arena – sideways, upside down – but you wouldn't think a helicopter could do that."

The cost to attend the event is a $3 donation per car. Food and beverages will be available at the field. Comfort stations will be on site.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. There is no landing or entry fee. All planes must have mufflers. All Channels are OK, NB Rx/Tx are required. There will be a mandatory safety inspection and AMA/IMAA rules apply.

For additional information about the show this weekend, call Richard Vukmirovich at (313) 537-2546.

The society, which meets on the first Monday of every month, is open to anyone with an interest in radio controlled model airplanes. At present, there are 125 members.

The next meeting of the Midwest R/C Society of Northville is on Labor Day at the field, weather permitting, at 7:30 p.m.

Minister enjoys going to work would have been much better.

"I was fortunate I knew what I was going to do with the downsizing," said Finzer, who was laid off on a Monday and started seminary school on the following Wednesday, just 54 hours out of work.

Finzer was ordained on June 4, his 51st birthday.

He's now in his second year as associate pastor at the Dexter United Methodist Church in Dexter, Mich., the position to which he was appointed by the Methodist bishop.

"I approach it with all the vigor and zest of a kid right out of college," he said.

Prior to their move to Dexter this summer, Finzer, his wife, Lois, and their two sons had been members of the Northville United Methodist Church for 16 years.

He came back and preached on June 15 at all the services.

The couple's youngest son, Brian, is a freshman at Dexter High School and Gary is a freshman at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

"I really never looked back," he said. "I draw sometimes from what I learned from 20 years at the phone company as part of my ministry. It's nice when you are 50 years old to know what you want to do when you grow up," Finzer said jokingly.

"I really hadn't realized how much I didn't like what I was doing. It came in increments."

Births

Danielle and Doug Popp announce the birth of their son, JACOB DOUGLAS, on May 22, 1997. He was born in Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, and weighed 6 pounds, 13 ounces.

His grandparents are Douglas Loomis of Northville and Rick and Linda Popp of Horton, Mich.

His great grandparents are Angel Baigrie of New Port Richey, Fla., Raymond and Betty Popp of Yuma, Ariz., and great great grandmother Nellie Baigrie of Wayne, Mich.

Daniel Reeves

Duane and Linda Reeves of Manchester announce the birth of their son, DANIEL JON, on July 17, 1997. He was born at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, weighing 9 pounds, 4 ounces. He was 21.75 inches in length.

to steer him in the direction of engineering in college.

"I've always loved kids, wanted kids, and wanted to be around kids," he said.

At 47, Granowicz is finally doing what he wanted to do in the first place.

"I like what I'm doing," he said. "The way I look at it, working in the auto industry means a lot of travel. I have two little girls that I adore and want to see everyday. I'll be the one to be there to pick them up and drive them to soccer practice. I'll be the one to be there for the school play. I don't want to be in Texas when it happens."

The Kiddie Academy Child Care Learning Center parent corporation provided Granowicz with background information, help with licensing his franchise and getting the building constructed, but he put a lot of his own work into it, too.

Although the basic exterior design is dictated by the company, Granowicz planned the inside, including room sizes, layout and amenities. The educational curriculum is provided, but Granowicz hires the staff and the director of the learning center.

"It is a lot more fun dealing with the parents and kids than it is dealing with the Big Three," he said.

"It is a fun job. There's tension, stress with any new business. The end-all is fun."

Granowicz, who lives with his wife Paula and their daughters in Bloomfield Township, hopes to open at least one more learning center once the Novi location becomes a full-time career in the near future.

Open just under one year, the center has grown from five children to almost 100.

The biggest problem facing Granowicz now is keeping up with the demand for more teachers. The ratio for the younger children is four to one and 12 to one for the older students.

The lead teacher in each room is degreed while the others are either students in early childhood development (ECD) or individuals with a background in ECD.

product," she said.

The former teacher of Nutricize, a nutrition and aerobics program for three years, was so impressed with the product and the company that she decided to go for it.

"I never pictured myself in skin care," she said. "It wasn't really the skin care that got me. Other than it was a great product, it was the business opportunity."

A network marketing company, Arbonne has five levels of achievement. Within 18 months, Bowdell was a regional vice president and had doubled her income.

"You can be very successful with 10 to 12 hours a week," she said. "You don't climb over anyone, there is room for everyone at the top (at Arbonne)," she said.

"Corporate America is nothing like that. What helps you get (to the top) is empowering other people, not stepping over them," she said.

Although Bowdell has personal clients, the bigger picture for her is helping people accomplish their goals and drive a white Mercedes, just like hers. The color white is for purity and the make, Mercedes, was chosen because Arbonne is international.

"I really believe that we are born to win – we just need a vehicle," said Bowdell of her choice of "Born to Win" as the name of her region.

Bowdell and her managers have exhibits at trade shows and conventions.

She also teaches seminars called "Face the Facts" on cosmetic label reading.

Bowdell was also chosen to be Arbonne's U.S. Ambassador to Korea and gave her first public speaking engagement to a mostly male audience of 1,500 with the help of an interpreter.

"As we get older we forget our dreams," said Bowdell, who has lived with her husband Gordon and daughters, Erin, 17, Brigid, 16, Lauren, 15, and Kelly, 10, in Novi for nine years. "I could never go back to working for someone else.

"I think that, as a dental hygienist, why you get burnout, or in any career, is because you work so hard and you are not rewarded for your efforts," she said.

"It is so motivating to be in charge of your own bonuses and raises and be in charge of your own financial destiny."

about the flexibility he has to change jobs or careers more often.

"I think that is going to become more of the norm than staying with a company for 30 to 35 years like people used to do," Charboneau said.

Charboneau and his wife Debby have two daughters, Danielle and Paige.

'Speed 2' lacks star power, still packs non-stop action

READER MOVIE REVIEWS

SPEED 2: CRUISE CONTROL
BY HEATHER WADOWSKI
NORTHVILLE

Sandra Bullock returns in the role that made her a star in "Speed 2: Cruise Control." But without Keanu Reeves by her side, can she pull off the sequel?

As long as Keanu-wannabe Jason Patric is with her for the ride.

Sure, I was disappointed when Keanu refused to jump aboard the "Speed" sequel. Personally, I thought that 20th Century Fox shouldn't have bothered with "Speed 2:" A) because, a sequel is usually a bomb plot-wise, and B) what's the point of a sequel without its star?

But after seeing "Speed 2: Cruise Control" I realized that Keanu wasn't the star of "Speed." The special effects and non-stop action were.

And even though "Speed 2: Cruise Control" has a lower rating than "Speed" (PG-13 vs. R), it definitely doesn't have less action.

From the opening sequence to the end, "Speed 2: Cruise Control" is non-stop action. Jason Patric keeps the movie racing, and between him and the never-ending action, viewers don't have time to wonder where the "star" Sandra Bullock is.

Unlike "Speed," where Bullock had a key role, Bullock's character seems like a third wheel in "Speed 2: Cruise Control."

Basically, the plot and Jason Patric were enough to keep "Cruise Control" afloat.

"Speed 2: Cruise Control" earns four and one-half stars out of five. As much as I wanted "Speed 2" to sink without Keanu, the action and humor kept my eyes glued to the screen for the majority of the movie, and I couldn't help but enjoy the movie.

Even if it is a sequel.

Seaholm nips Mustangs 2-1 in tourney finals

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

A 2-1 loss to Birmingham Seaholm Saturday in the finals of the Detroit Country Day Tournament was a bitter pill for the Mustang soccer team to swallow.

The Maples' Drew Starr got the game-winning goal with about 13 minutes remaining. Northville coach Henry Klimes said his team fought right up until the horn sounded.

"We applied pressure at the end," he said. "But we couldn't score. It wasn't meant to be, but I was proud that the boys made it to the finals."

It was the first time in years Northville has made the finals of the prestigious tournament.

"It was one of our goals for the season," Klimes said.

The Mustangs opened the tournament Friday with a 6-0 win over Grosse Pointe South. Forward Andy Weyer led the way by scoring three goals.

Klimes said his team dominated the game.

"With such seasoned veterans," he said, "we were able to dictate the play."

Northville led 3-0 at the half. Weyer scored a pair of goals and Nick Skotanis added the third goal of the half.

Adam Tibble, Weyer and J.R. Graff all tallied in the second half.

"It was a good way to start out the tournament," Klimes said. "You need to win that first game to put you into the winner's bracket."

Northville edged host Country Day 2-1 in game two.

The Yellow Jackets took the early lead with a goal 15 minutes into the first half. It stayed that way through halftime.

> HENRY KLIMES
> Northville High soccer coach

Sam Vida tied the game at the 20 minute mark of the second half.

"Once we scored the goal to tie," Klimes said, "we dictated play."

Detroit Country Day didn't surrender, though. The game went into overtime with Vida getting the game-winning goal at the nine minute mark. Eric Arnold assisted.

That set up a showdown with Seaholm Saturday.

Northville fell behind early once again with the Maples scoring off a penalty shot seven minutes into the game. Officials awarded the shot after the Mustangs were called for tripping inside the penalty area.

Northville didn't fall apart after the goal, however. The Mustangs, in fact, carried the play much of the way.

Matt Carroll tied the contest in the second half. He kicked in a rebound off teammate's Brandon Bethel original shot.

Starr closed the scoring in the second half off a nice crossing pass from teammate Ryan Mack.

Despite the loss, Klimes said his team played quite well. He said doing so well in the tournament will help the Mustangs down the line.

"Big-time," he commented. "Even though we lost, our confidence is way up."

Preview

Northville has a lot of reasons for optimism this season.

The Mustangs may very well be the favorites to win the state title under the new divisional format adopted by the Michigan High School Athletic Association last spring.

Northville will compete in Division II come playoff time in October. Klimes said playing in the always tough WLAA will prepare the Mustangs for the state tournament.

The coach's more immediate goal is to win the Western Division then play in the conference finals. Doing that would also lend credibility to a Division II state title.

"If we win our division and go to the league finals," he said, "no one will be able to say that we were not a good team."

Northville is coming off a 9-8-4 campaign from a year ago, which Klimes characterized as "inconsistent."

But with 15 returning players, many of whom are seniors, consistency shouldn't be a problem.

Start with goaltenders Dan Basse and Nick Bitell. The senior duo split time last year.

"Both have improved tremendously," Klimes said. "They're a little more consistent in their angles."

The Mustangs return all four starters on defense. Dave Terakedis, a senior, leads the way at sweeper.

"He's been a very solid player since I've had him," Klimes remarked.

Keith Droz will play stopper while Eric Arnold and Josh Brugeman will be the marking backs. All three are seniors.

"I think our defense is really solid," Klimes said. "We want to become a good defensive team. Last year we gave up too many goals."

Nate Goebel will also play defense. The senior is recovering from a knee injury and should return to the lineup in about a week.

Juniors Steve Chisholm and Luke Leftwich will add depth at fullback. Unlike past years, Klimes won't be afraid to go to his bench.

"I don't lose anything by using my bench players," he added. "We've always had strong starters, but this year it doesn't matter who I put in. The machine keeps rolling."

Northville is deep at midfield.

Tibble, Bethel, Steve Welcksel, Carroll, and Graff all have lots of experience. Gabe Cristoff, Skotanis and Tim Kelleher add depth.

At forward, Weyer, Vida and Jimmy Fermanis will see the bulk of the action.

Northville returns to action Wednesday at Livonia Franklin. The Mustangs will have their home opener Sept. 8 against Plymouth Salem at 7 p.m.

Netters beat Novi in season opener

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

So far, so perfect.

Northville High began its tennis season Friday with an 8-0 road victory over Novi. Despite the shutout, coach Uta Filkin said it was a good match.

"We really had some good matches and good points," she said.

The Mustangs opened the home schedule yesterday against South Lyon. Northville plays at the Rochester Invitational Sept. 6.

As for last week's match with Novi, Filkin wasn't sure she would get a chance to use her full lineup. The Wildcats didn't know until match time that they would be able to field a full lineup.

Filkin had planned to sit top singles player Kristin Smith and move everyone else up a notch. When Novi was able to field a full lineup, the coach had to scramble to get Smith ready to play.

The confusion didn't affect Smith's play. She beat Amanda Curly in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

At second singles, Jessie Mills, a sophomore, defeated Sarah Pipas 6-4, 6-1. Mills moved up to singles from doubles play a year ago.

"She's greatly improved," Filkin said.

Freshman Kerry Woodfall outlasted Novi's Judy Namm, 6-2, 7-6. That second set included a 14-12 tie breaker, which took a long time to play out.

"It ended up being the last match of the day," Filkin said. "Everyone was watching."

Anuja Deo played at fourth singles for Northville. The senior beat Jessica Roemer, 6-4, 6-4.

Christina Chase and Kristin Potchynek teamed up to beat Novi's Carole Wineman and Rebecca Rittner in straight sets at top doubles. Julie Glock and Kara Anderson also won in straight sets at No. 2 doubles.

Jenny Androne and Angela Trapnell played at third doubles. They beat Emily Waller and Lindsay Pohl, 6-1, 6-0.

> "We're going to be a good team. I think we'll be as good as we were last year."
> UTA FILKIN
> Northville High tennis coach

Sarah Arndt and Laura Delano completed the sweep by winning in straight sets at fourth doubles.

It was a good start for the Mustangs.

"We're going to be a good team," Filkin said. "I think we'll be as good as we were last year."

And that's pretty good.

Northville put together a perfect 12-0 season and won the Western Lakes Activities Association title. The Mustangs missed making the state finals by a single point at the state regional as well.

Gone from that team are the likes of Mary MacDonald, Sarah Johnson, Amanda Nelson and Shelley Morgan. But Filkin is confident that her returners and newcomers can fill the void.

The coach is carrying one of her biggest teams in years in terms of numbers. The Mustangs will have a roster of 16, a couple more than usual.

Filkin said Northville's lineup is far from being set. She had a difficult time making out her lineup card for the Novi match, in fact.

"We had a lot of practices rained out," Filkin said, making it tougher on her to determine roles. "We were about one step ahead of drawing sticks (for Novi)."

Smith, Woodfall, Deo and Mills figure to get most of the singles action. But doubles are another story.

Besides the eight who played against Novi, the Mustangs have more players who will see doubles action.

Sophomores Gina Halicki and Nicole Lindholm will compete as will freshman Joanna Lee and senior Jessica McFarland.

Glock played singles last year. But she dropped down to doubles to make the Mustangs stronger overall.

"I was concerned that we would have a hole there," Filkin said. "Now we have strong doubles."

North Farmington figures to give the Mustangs their biggest challenge in the WLAA.

"I think it's between North, Stevenson and us," Filkin said.

The coach said beating those two teams during the regular season will be very important if Northville is to repeat as champions.

The WLAA champion is determined by counting teams' dual-meet record and the league meet finish. Each counts 50 percent.

Filkin said teams that finish with a better dual meet record get higher seeds in the WLAA tournament.

"It's very hard to improve your standing in the conference tournament," she added.

Northville seventh at best-ball tourney

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

Some teams jump into the frying pan to start their season.

The Mustang golf squad, on the other hand, eases into it. Northville opened its fall campaign Thursday at the Plymouth Salem Best Ball Tournament.

Coach Trish Murray said it's a nice, low-pressure way to begin the year.

"It's for fun," she admitted. "I'd rather have this for a first tournament than have a duel meet."

Northville finished seventh out of 15 schools at the tournament. WLAA rival Livonia Stevenson took first at Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth.

Each school was allowed to enter three teams of two players each. In a best-ball format, each player hits a shot, but the team plays the ball that winds up in the best position.

Stevenson's top team finished with a 71. The Mustangs had two teams come in with 79 for 18 holes.

Marc Olin-Raj Netha and Brett Johnson-Justin Temple each finished with 79. Phil Cowles and Greg Rankin came in with an 80.

"For best ball," Murray said, "I would've like them to come in at 75 or lower."

The coach said playing conditions were less than ideal, however.

"It was a typical rainy day," she said.

Northville opens its duel meet season Tuesday at Novi. No matter what the circumstances, the Wildcats always seem to have Northville's number. That's something Murray wants to change.

"I want to beat Novi," she added. "We never have."

A win may depend on how smart the Mustangs play, Murray said.

"We've got to think course management," she said. "You don't always have to use a driver off the tee."

Shot-making key at Links of Novi

This week The Northville Record concludes a series of weekly golf reviews. Our purpose was to provide the reader with useful information and tips on playing favorite courses in the area.

The Links of Novi is the subject of this week's review. If you would like to see a particular course reviewed next summer, please contact us at (810) 349-1700.

At $48 a round on the weekend, the Links of Novi isn't cheap.

But in terms of value, the 27-hole facility has few peers in the metropolitan Detroit golf scene. Immaculate fairways, true-rolling greens and beautiful scenery spotlight the 198-acre site off of Ten Mile Road.

"The course is in good shape," said PGA Golf Professional Tom Sheldon, who has run the Links since it opened in 1991. "I think the course has matured a lot in the last few years."

Shot making is at a premium on all three nines, which range from 2,805 yards (blue tees) on the south course to 3,209 on the east and 3,288 on the west.

"This course is tough," golfer Neil Geoghegan said of the west nine. "You have to hit it long, but accurately. There aren't many easy holes."

Golf Architect Jerry Mathews designed the course, which was built on about 175 acres. About 20 acres of the site are wetlands, which couldn't be disturbed in the building process.

"Matthews is the well-known architect in Michigan," Sheldon said.

The PGA pro said work has continued on the course to refine it.

"We've done a lot of drainage work the last few years," Sheldon commented.

Several teeing areas on the east and south nines have also been rebuilt. Sheldon said a little length was added to a few holes to make it more challenging.

Like many area courses, the Links of Novi is considering making spikeless golf shoes mandatory.

"I think we'll put a good push on that next year," said Sheldon, who noted that it saves a lot of wear and tear on greens, especially. "An unbelievable amount. People can play all day and it looks like nobody's been there. It's much easier on the course."

For sheer playing fun, the west course may be the Links of Novi's best nine.

Golfers jump right into the frying pan on the par 464-yard par 4. A dog-leg left requires two big hits to reach the green in regulation. Bunkers on either side of the green collect any errant shots.

The 521-yard third hole is rated and plays the toughest on the west nine. A dog leg right, the par 5 features a narrow fairway that's surrounded by trees on all sides.

Assuming a safe tee shot in the fairway, golfers must decide whether or not to go for it on their second shot. Cattails jut out into the fairway from the leftside about 80 yards from the green.

Golfers must decide whether they can carry the cat-

Coyote GC fine tunes in first full season

This week's Northville Record concludes a series of weekly golf reviews. Our goal was to provide you, the reader, useful information and tips on playing favorite courses in the area.

Coyote Golf Club is the subject of this week's review. If you would like to see a particular course reviewed next summer, please contact us at (248) 437-2011 or (810) 349-1700.

By JULIE KEMPAINEN
Sports writer

When projects turn out right, there is little need for improvement.

That's why South Lyon's Coyote Golf Club has done little more than fine tuning in its first full season.

Coyote opened its doors for its first full golf season this spring and has made only a few subtle changes to the course. The most prolific change from last year was turning a drainage ditch into a bunker near the green on the sixth hole.

"The whole idea of the course was to set up a championship layout," PGA Professional William Jayne said. "Being our first full season, people are pleasantly surprised at the condition of the course."

Coyote is laid out over 200 acres of land with a great deal of room between holes. In some areas golfers will see rough spots, but not on the actual holes themselves.

The Golf Association of Michigan rated the Coyote's degree of difficulty as just above average. So, technically the course isn't extremely difficult. Although there are challenging holes, four tee boxes allow golfers to choose their game.

"A golfer can customize the course to his or her length and ability," Jayne said.

Fairways are narrow and designed almost in a target fashion. For instance, hole four, the course's toughest hole at 373-yards from the blue tee, hits 233 yards to the end of the fairway from the blue tees, much longer from the gold and black. Long grass and marsh come into play before hitting the remainder of the fairway. Longer hitters can choose to hit from the blue and hit over the marsh, or hit from the back tees and come up just short of it.

Also coming into play is the elevated and narrow fairway. The fairway and green are lined by trees and the shots must be accurate.

Another example of making the course fit golfers' needs is the 18th hole. From the blue tees, it's 242 yards to clear the wetlands. In front of the green is 50 yards of water. Longer hitters can reach the green in two. Shorter hitters choose to layup to the water and hit on in three. The 492-yard par five is ominous upon approach, but treats all golfers differently.

"Number 18 is really a mixed blessing," Jayne said. "It depends on the tee that you play and it depends on the wind that day. Some hitters can get to the green in two and in other people it beats them up. They know they can play the hole better and can't wait to come back and play that hole again."

The 18th hole will change soon, getting a new elevated tee box to the left front of the wetlands. A new tee box is also being built on four.

Jayne's tip to golfers new to Coyote is to practice putting.

Greens at Coyote average 7,500 square feet while most courses average about 5,000. "Ours are extremely huge," Jayne said. "You are going to hit some greens and you're going to have some long putts."

The greens can also be rather fast, but Jayne said none of them are impossible to sink a putt on.

One isn't so easy to hit though. Coyote's second hole, a 144-yard, par three features a large sand pit in front of the green. Just behind the green is very murky water. A well positioned shot is advisable and not at all impossible. If you can't do that you have to decide whether or not to hit out of the sand, or hit uphill back onto the green from the water's edge.

tails or layup. There's also very little ballout room on the right side of the fairway.

The nine's first par 3 comes at No. 4. A 130-yarder, it features a huge three-tier green. A pin placement in the middle or front tier means golfers best not hit it long.

Golfers emerge from the woods at No. 5, a 450-yard par 4. Sheldon said the key to scoring well on the west is surviving early.

"If you play the first five holes well," he added, "you're home free."

An accurate assessment. The remaining four holes are relatively open and are somewhat shorter.

No. 7 and 9 are 317 and 362-yard par 4s. No. 6 is a 481-yard par 5 and No. 8 a 206-yard par 3.

STREETBALL CHAMPS

Matt Emmenecker and Chris Lewis of Novi, along with Adam Konst and Brian Gutkowski of Northville, recently won the Brighton Streetball 3-on-3 basketball tournament. Jim Lewis coached the 13-year-old and under division team to victory. The team compiled a 6-1 record.

CORRECTIONS

An article in last week's Northville Record about the Mustang golf team identified Dean Conway as "Steve." Dean Conway is a freshman at Northville High.

A second article, a review of Brentwood Golf Course, referred to the facility as "Edgewood" in a headline. This was incorrect.

We regret both of the errors.

INLINE CHAMPS

Northville resident Ryan Bond helped lead the 10 and under Michigan All Stars to victory at the USA In Line national championship in early August.

The Michigan squad, which is based in West Bloomfield, went 7-0. Bond scored numerous goals to help lead the way.

NHS ALUMNI OUTING

This year's Northville High alumni golf outing will be held Sept. 20 at Bogey Lake Golf Club. Tee times start at 10 a.m. Golfers receive greens fees, carts and dinner for $65. Proceeds benefit the Richard Lewis Scholarship Fund.

The team is coached by Tom Daigneau, Dave Kurtz and Ron Fortuna.

Average diet short on vitamins

Do you need to be taking vitamins?

There is no simple answer. According to most health authorities you don't need vitamins if you eat a "balanced diet" or a "variety of foods." That's just another way of saying that you don't need vitamins in a pill if you get enough vitamins from your food.

But do you?

As stated in the Nutritional Action Health Letter (a publication from the Center for Science in the Public Interest), "Only a painstaking analysis of what you eat in an average week or so could perhaps – answer that question."

Today's hectic lifestyles, and fast food, snacks, etc., certainly poses a challenge to the average American in meeting the traditional food pyramid. Remember the 6-11 servings of cereal, bread, rice and pasta; the 2-4 servings of fruit, the 3-5 servings of vegetables, etc.

In a recent government survey of individual diets of 21,500 Americans (i.e. Anarem report), not one of the diets met the RDA (Recommended Daily Allowance) for each of 10 key nutrients.

To complicate matters further the set RDA standards are intended to apply to those people whose physical activity is considered light and live in temperate climates, and are not meant to be final, minimal, or optimal.

The issue is quite confusing as it is controversial. The Nutrition Action Health's Letters advice "Take a multivitamin for insurance. There is no proof that most people need to, but as long as you don't overuse or overpay, or use it as an excuse to eat poorly there is little to lose."

HERE'S HOW

Painting over wood paneling

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. I moved into a mobile home and I detest all of the paneling, which is too dark. I would like to paint over the paneling. Can I fill the lines with Spackle? Do I need to put on a primer first? What type of paint should I use, and how many coats?

A. Painting wood paneling is not a difficult job.

The problem with painting paneling in a mobile home is that most often you are not dealing with real wood. Usually, the product will be simulated wood, which is vinyl or plastic coated.

Regular paint will not adhere to these coatings. However, if the paneling is in good condition the surface can be prepared for painting by using a product called Industrial Maintenance Coatings DTM Bonding Primer (distributed by Sherwin-Williams). This is a waterborne, adhesion-bonding primer that can be applied directly to the surface without any sanding.

It can be tinted any color to provide a durable base coat, which then requires only one coat of the final finish. You can use either a latex or oil-based paint as the final coat.

Be sure to use a quality paint recommended by your local paint dealer (don't try to save with an inexpensive product that will lack durability).

Prior to applying the primer, you can fill the cracks in the paneling with Spackle. However, the Spackle may be subject to cracking with the minor flexing you often experience in a mobile home. I would recommend that you simply paint the surface and leave the walls as painted panels, rather than trying to smooth them out.

Q. I have a flagstone patio (20-by-20 feet) that is stained and covered with a green mold that has resisted removal. I tried using household bleach diluted with water and applied with a large brush. Can you recommend a method of cleaning flagstone and preventing the regrowth of this unsightly mold?

A. Copper sulfate, also called bluestone or blue vitriol, is a chemical you can use to get rid of moss with a minimum chance of harming grass or garden plants nearby. Sold at feed stores and some nurseries, it is available in both powder and crystal form.

The powder is the easier to dissolve in water: mix 1 pound in 20 gallons of water, and spray over the mossy area. Copper sulfate may seem to be staining the flagstone, but the color is easily hosed off.

If the flagstone remains stained once the moss has been removed, you can give it a deep cleaning with dry sal soda concentrate. Hose the whole area thoroughly, preferably in the evening, and then sprinkle the entire surface uniformly with the dry sal soda concentrate. Allow to stand overnight.

Then go over the stones with a broom or, even better, a stiff-bristle scrub brush. Hose off the area and repeat as necessary.

If grass grows at the edges of the patio area, it will be necessary to mop up the wet sludge after scrubbing. Don't hose it off into the grass.

Wear rubber gloves when cleaning up the sludge. Protect your eyes from splatters. After removal, flush the area with clear water.

Check either a chemical supply company or a janitorial supply house that handles cleaning chemicals as a source for sal soda concentrate.

Once the flagstone is clean, apply a good masonry sealer over the surface for future protection. If the area is shaded, it is very likely you will experience the regrowth of moss during moist weather conditions. This would require another treatment with blue vitriol and reapplication of a masonry sealer, but shouldn't require the deep-cleaning process with sal soda concentrate.

Q. I have white paint stains on the brick under my windows and shutters. I have tried to remove these stains with muriatic acid, bleach, paint remover, paint thinners and other commercial cleaners, brushing with a steel brush each time, but the stains still remain.

I went to a paint store and talked with an experienced paint representative. He informed me there was no way to remove this type of stain from brick. Can you help me?

A. There are some effective products on the market for the removal of dried paint from porous masonry surfaces, including brick.

ProSoCo Inc. has developed a line of products for use on masonry surfaces. One of them is Sure Klean Heavy Duty Paint Stripper. This stripper is nonflammable and water rinsable.

It is best used with pressure-rinsing equipment, but a garden hose with an adjustable nozzle can be substituted. The standard grade is designed for brush or roller application. Window frames (wood, metal, vinyl, etc.) may be damaged by Heavy Duty Paint Stripper. The manufacturer recommends polyethylene secured duct tape for masking these surfaces. Masking tape is not recommended.

Another paint stripper marketed by ProSoCo Inc. is Sure Klean 859 Stripper, which is less toxic and more suitable for interior use because of the absence of aromatic hydrocar-

All the comforts of home in one room

By Rose Bennett Gilbert
Copley News Service

One-room livingt calls for colors that are shared and activity areas that are separate.

Q. I'm trying to take a large upstairs bedroom in our Victorian house and turn it into a self-contained apartment for my husband's stepdaughter (from his first marriage). She's a 26-year-old graduate student with a lot of friends, so we thought a "room of her own" would be a good idea. We're furnishing from the attic, but will buy whatever we need to fill in. Please make suggestions.

A. Since you're working within generous space, you can divide the room into different activity areas, using pieces of furniture to suggest separate "roomlets" for sleeping, dining and relaxing. At the same time, you'll need coordination within the overall space, a trick most readily accomplished with repeated color and patterns.

For example, the room we show here is a kind of wall-less apartment, psychologically divided but visually united because the same colors - white, red, yellow - are reprised throughout in sometimes subtle ways, like throw pillows, artwork and accessories. The way you arrange the furniture is also key.

Here, a large four-poster bed becomes a self-contained bed "room," its boundaries set by the bedposts themselves. It's dressed in colorful, tailored linens - so it doesn't speak of intimacy; indeed, visitors relaxing on the living "room" sofa would barely be aware that they're also in the bed "room."

Ditto for the dining "room," which is claimed by a table surrounded with chairs that can be turned and pulled into the seating area. Here's hoping your attic offers equally flexible furnishings to work with; if not, you'll want to know that these all came from Ethan Allen.

The company, which has some 300 stores here and abroad, is celebrating its 65th anniversary this year, by the way. (Should you decide to shop there, add an area rug to your purchases to breakup the floor space. Either the seating or dining area would benefit from a touch of color and pattern underfoot.)

Q. My husband is set on putting an elevated whirlpool tub in the corner of the master bath in the new house we're building. The room is almost all windows. We don't have close neighbors yet, but I'm not going to be comfortable anyway, knowing anyone could look right in. What can I put on the windows for privacy that won't block all the light?

A. Think upside-down shades, either roller or pleated, that can be mounted on the windowsill and hoisted to whatever height meets your modesty level, leaving the tops of the windows open to the sunshine.

Or, as you're still in the building stage, a solution may lie in the windows themselves. Ask your builder about new technology that lets you turn clear glass into frosted privacy glass at the flip of a switch. The windows are wired into standard household current, which activates liquid crystals sandwiched between two layers of glass. Now you see out, now no one sees in ... but you still get light along with your privacy.

The logical name of this modern miracle is Viracon Privacy Glass (3M and Viracon, the glass fabricators, put their heads together to come up with this one). Reach them at (800) 533-2080.

Trend indicates home sales remain robust

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

In the highly sophisticated process of predicting real estate trends in today's high-tech communications era, sometimes it's still just a guess.

Many real estate analysts were predicting a downturn in the sales market for existing homes this year. So far, sales have been up - substantially in some areas. In fact, records are being broken in some regions.

On the other hand, new home construction has slowed somewhat this year. This also has surprised many analysts, considering that employment trends throughout the country are very strong and consumer confidence in our economy is at historically high levels.

New home sales, however, are running solidly ahead of figures reported a year ago, according to a report in U.S. Housing Markets. And California, once the busiest home-building state in the nation, clearly is back on the road to housing recovery, the report noted.

"Ongoing regional shifts in the economy - and therefore shifts in home building - are evident," said Brian Bragg, editor of U.S. Housing Markets.

"Most of the Northeast is rebounding nicely, while growth in the Midwest is slowing. California is bouncing back to center ring in the West, stealing some of the spotlight from the Mountain states."

Rising interest rates will bear watching, the report cautioned. "Even so, small movements in mortgage rates no longer have the deleterious effect on sales they once had. Modern creative financing techniques tend to smooth the bumps."

Florida is still the most active state in the nation for home building. In California, the San Francisco Bay area and Orange County in Southern California are the most active markets.

As for the booming sales of existing homes, those analysts are now predicting about 4.24 million units will be sold this year - up from an estimated 4.06 million predicted in April.

"Given the robust activity earlier this year, we had expected sales to ease off, but the current volume reflects sustained consumer confidence, strong employment figures and some pent-up demand in the trade-up market," it was stated in a report from the National Association of Realtors.

"Although we are well into a period of very strong housing activity, we expect fairly stable sales for the balance of this year. Because mortgage interest rates remain so favorable, slight changes in mortgage rates are having no effect on home sales."

Existing home prices have increased about 5 percent over the past year.

"Currently, existing-home price increases are running about three points over the rate of inflation," said John Tuccillo, NAR economist. "This shows a lot of activity by trade-up buyers, many of whom have been on the sidelines over the last few years."

Q. What is the largest single source of residential properties on the Internet?

A. The Web site owned by the National Association of Realtors, called Realtor.com. That's basically its address on the Web: www.realtor.com

The site, now containing information on nearly 825,000 homes currently on the market, is operated by RealSelect Inc.

In a recent development, one of the other major sources of Internet real estate information - California Living Network, operated by the California Association of Realtors - joined forces with Realtor.com.

"By combining the strength of the two largest Realtor sites, consumers will be able to view virtually all property for sale in California, as well as homes in thousands of cities across the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico," it was stated in a report from (beginital)RealSelect.(beginital)

Also, the two companies will work together to develop new Internet-based technology, the report noted.

Q. Where can I obtain information on the new Money Back Home Loan - the mortgage that's tied to a universal life insurance plan?

A. This mortgage, similar to the long-established "home loan of choice" in the United Kingdom, is offered in the United States by Investment Mortgage Corp., based in Charlotte, N.C.

This firm recently developed a graphic-oriented Web site to explain how the loan works. The Web address is: www.moneyback-loan.com

Information on the loan also can be obtained by calling (800) 806-6222.

Q. What's the reaction from real estate professionals about HUD's current proposal to curtail FHA-insured Title 1 home improvement loans originated by remodeling contractors?

A. A letter recently sent to HUD Secretary Andrew Cuomo and signed by real estate industry leaders and seven congressmen states:

"We are concerned that HUD is considering adverse action against a program that improves and preserves the nation's housing stock. We ask that you, prior to issuing any such rule, first explore other steps to strengthen the overall program."

Never use a steel brush, which can leave fragments in the brick and eventually rust and stain the surface.

Japanese porcelain imported by Lefton

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

Antique or junque

Q. My aunt left me her collection of porcelain birds.

The bisque figurine of two robins in this photo has a mark that I have not been able to identify. On the bottom is a "C" superimposed over a "N." Above it is a crown with the words "Lefton China - Hand Painted - Reg. U.S. Pat. OFF."

Can you tell me anything about the mark, and the value of my figurine?

A. The mark you described is listed in the "Collector's Encyclopedia of Lefton China" by Loretta DeLozier. It was used from 1949 to 1955 by the George Zoltan Lefton Co. located in Chicago.

Lefton, a native of Hungary, was an innovative importer of porcelain objects. He quickly recognized the marketing opportunity in importing high-quality porcelain from Japan.

Lefton's imported porcelain soon was available in gift shops around the world.

Your figurine would probably be worth about $25 to $45.

Q. I would appreciate any information you can provide about my vase, which was given to me by an elderly neighbor.

Copley News Service

I have enclosed the mark that is on the bottom of it. The vase is 13 inches tall and has a scalloped top. It is decorated with sprays of golden and rust nasturtiums and green leaves. At the top is a little bird.

A. Your vase was made by Warwick China Co., Wheeling, W.Va., which made semiporcelain and porcelain from 1887 to 1951. This mark was used around 1944.

The value of your vase would probably be about $150 to $225.

Q. I was given my great-grandmother's porcelain covered tureen. It is white and trimmed with gold. The handle is in the shape of a bow. The mark on the bottom is an eagle and the letters "C.T. - Germany."

What can you tell me about my tureen?

A. Your tureen was made by C. Tielsch & Co., Silesia, Germany, which has been in business since 1845.

Your tureen was made around 1900 and would probably be worth about $125.

Q. I have a solid-oak dresser. On the left is a cheval mirror and on the right is a cabinet for a hat with a drawer below. The dresser has one long drawer with two above. The frame holding the beveled mirror is decorated with applied carving.

Could you tell me when it was made and its value?

A. Your golden oak dresser was made around 1900. It would probably be worth about $1,200 to $1,500.

Q. Please tell me the value of a Mickey Mouse ventriloquist doll that I have.

On the back of the neck are the words "Walt Disney Prod. Horsman Dolls Inc. 1973." Mickey is 30 inches long and in his original outfit.

A. Collectors have been known to pay in the $225 to $235 range for a Walt Disney Mickey Mouse ventriloquist doll in excellent condition.

Q. When I was going through some boxes that have been stored for ages, I found a tin litho-truck that I got from a Cracker Jack box around 1940. It is red, white and black. On the side are the words "The Cracker Jack Co."

Is it just "junque" or does it have any value?

A. Don't let collectors hear you use the "J" word when you refer to Cracker Jack prizes! They are extremely popular collectibles.

Cracker Jack was invented by the Rueckheim Brothers and owned by Reliable Confections. The crunchy munchy was introduced in the 1890s.

By 1912 a free prize was included in the package. Song books and paper dolls were several of the very early prizes.

Toys often reflected the times. For example, during peacetime, the prizes were benign toys such as whistles, yo-yos and tops. In contrast, military tanks, planes and soldiers were some of the favorite toys found in the 1940s.

If your truck is in excellent condition, it would probably be worth about $75 to $100.

This bisque figurine was imported by the George Zoltan Lefton Co. from Japan. The figure is valued at $25-$45.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped self-addressed envelope and $5 per item (one item at a time).

REAL ESTATE FACTS
The "Original" Real Estate Column

Get the Facts!

Are you familiar with the Latin term "caveat emptor"? You should be – if you plan to buy a home.

Caveat emptor taken literally means "let the buyer beware." It's obviously a term from another age, yet it offers meaningful advice to today's homebuyers as well. In the real world of home buying, it might be interpreted more meaningfully as "Take responsibility for your actions."

When buying a home, sellers (and their agents) are obligated to treat you honestly and fairly. They must also disclose any known material defects in the property being shown. That being said, it is also wise for buyers to know how to ask the right questions.

Before beginning your home search, prepare a list of questions. The list might include the age of the home, construction concerns, recent repairs, local zoning, or plans for future development in the area. Take along a note pad, and ask the real estate agent or owner for clear, concise answers. The time to learn details about a home's suitability for your family is before you buy – not later.

A home inspection, performed by a qualified individual, is well worth the modest cost involved. The inspection may reveal previously unnoticed flaws or needed repairs, or provide reassurance that the home is well worth the asking price. Either way, homebuyers become well-informed about their future home, making the purchase decision easier.

THE VALUE OF TITLE INSURANCE

Home buyers may consider title insurance to be an unnecessary expense, especially if the county records show the deed of ownership to be clear of any liens or claims from other parties. The Council of Better Business Bureaus, however, insists that even a thorough search through public records cannot guarantee that claims or other problems do not exist. There can be mistakes in the record, undisclosed heirs, unreported liens and judgments due to a previous owner's debts, allowances for the construction of roads across the property, as well as actual fraud and forgery. An "owner's title insurance" policy protects against financial loss arising from claims against the property that are not apparent in the records. "Lender's title insurance" covers only the lender's interest in the property and decreases as the mortgage is paid off.

Are you unsure about the necessity of such insurance? This is just one of the issues that may arise at the closing on your home. The bank's attorney will be present, but that attorney is there to protect only the bank. Well trained Realtors are knowledgeable about everything you're likely to need to know at your closing. Though I am not a substitute for an attorney, if I helped you buy or sell your home, I will attend the conveyance with you, ready to calmly handle the kinds of small surprises that arise just when you think the last of the t's have been dotted. Call me at 347-3050, or stop by the Coldwell Banker/Schweitzer Real Estate office at 41860 W. Six Mile Road.

HINT: When buying a home from a seller who has only owned the property for a short time, see if owner's title insurance can be purchased at the reissue rate, which may be offered because the insurer has to do less research into the title's background.

Helping students with skills

Sylvan Learning Center passes 10 year mark

For the last 10 years at the Sylvan Learning Center in Novi, students have received help to improve their reading, writing and math skills.

There are programs designed to prepare students for college and taking the act or sat.

Other classes teach study skills and Algebra and Geometry.

But Laura Kaplan, the center's director of Education, said the most important things the center's lessons teach are confidence and how to learn.

Programs are for both remediation and enrichment, depending on the student's needs. Usually students are asked to come for a one-hour session two times a week.

Improving a student's self-esteem is a key component of the center's programs.

"Self-esteem brings motivation which in turn brings success."

Laura Kaplan

"Self-esteem brings motivation which in turn brings success," Kaplan said.

The center tailors a program around the student's needs, said Kaplan. When the student comes to the center, a series of tests are given to determine the student's level of ability and a program is designed from there. The center also contacts the student's teachers and advisor to get a clearer picture of the student's strengths, weaknesses and goals.

The Novi Sylvan Learning Center is part of the worldwide network of more than 600 Sylvan Learning and Technology Centers. It provides individualized supplemental educational services to students at all skill levels form kindergarten through adulthood. Sylvan's focus is on building a strong foundation of academic skills upon which students can build a lifetime of success.

The curriculum provides enrichment and remediation in beginning reading, academic reading, Sylvan clear writing, basic mathematics, Algebra, Geometry, study skills, academic enrichment and SAT/ACT college prep.

The Sylvan instructional program is based on six elements: diagnostic assessments (Sylvan Skills Assessment) that accurately pinpoint skill strengths and weaknesses; an educational prescription based on the assessment, and specifically tailored to each student; individualized instruction, with a low student-teacher ratio; personal motivation and rewards for achievement that build self-esteem; and close interaction and cooperation among Sylvan instructors, school teachers and parents.

Consistent quality and uniform delivery of educational services across all centers in the network; instruction provided by certified teachers; and guaranteed success - Sylvan guarantees academic growth.

Weingarten named to Providence post

Jeffrey Weingarten MD, a board-certified otolaryngologist, has been appointed director of Providence Hospital and Medical Center's new Voice and Communication Center in Southfield. The Center, which officially opened July 1, provides comprehensive medical, vocal and speech analysis for children and adults experiencing voice or nasal resonance disorders.

The Voice and Communications Center is designed to benefit the individual by providing a team approach to the diagnosis and treatment of voice disorders. The entire team, including physicians, a speech therapist, a voice coach, and the patient may be involved in the care of the patient. Teachers, clergy, lawyers, sales people, actors, and others who regularly use their voice are at risk for voice problems caused by strain, overuse, misuse or developmental abnormalities. The new center provides state-of-the-art technology for the diagnosis and care of these voice difficulties.

Dr. Weingarten is on the medical staff at Providence Hospital, Sinai Hospital and Bon Secour Hospital. He is associated with the American Academy of Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgery, the Michigan State Medical Society, the Wayne and Oakland County Medical Societies, and the Michigan Otolaryngological Society. Trustee Scott named to college association

Oakland Community College Trustee Anne V. Scott has been elected to a one-year term as president of the Michigan Community College Association during the organization's annual conference in Traverse City. She is the first OCC representative to hold this position in the MCCA's 27-year history.

"Anne Scott is a dedicated trustee and an active member of the MCCA," said OCC Chancellor Richard T. Thompson. "Her overriding concern for students, and her interest in the opportunities presented by new technologies will serve Michigan's community colleges well as she takes her new post."

Based in Lansing the MCCA represents all 28 schools in the Michigan community college network. Its purpose is to influence state and federal legislation; provide a variety of services to member colleges; maintain a forum for the exchange of ideas and information; and make the benefits of a community college education more widely known among the citizens of the state of Michigan.

Elected to the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees in June 1992, Scott was voted OCC's delegate to the MCCA shortly after taking office. She has also served on the organization's executive board for the past three years.

Scott is president and owner of the Scott Group Inc., a Royal Oak-based firm that provides office support personnel to companies throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Scott earned her baccalaureate (magna cum laude) at Defiance College in Ohio. She taught school, served as an employment counselor, and directed a Head Start program before founding the Scott Group in 1976.

Active in civic and philanthropic organizations, Scott is past president and life member of the Greater Royal Oak Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Boys and Girls Club of South Oakland County, and past co-chair of the Michigan Women's Political Caucus. In addition to her service as an OCC trustee she is chairperson of the Royal Oak Downtown Development Authority.

Keep overall money picture in mind

Money Management

Everyone loves the thought of lower monthly mortgage payments. But before you refinance your mortgage, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (MACPA) suggests that you take a careful look at how refinancing fits into your family's overall financial picture. What works for your neighbor might not be the best financial strategy for you.

KNOW YOUR BREAK-EVEN POINT

Homeowners who decide to refinance should be aware of the costs involved. When you refinance, you pay off an existing mortgage and take out a new one. Since, in effect, you are applying for a new mortgage, you're required to pay many of the same expenses associated with a new mortgage, including fees for application processing, a credit check, appraisal, title search and title insurance, attorney fees and other related closing costs. In most cases, you'll also pay points.

To determine whether it makes sense for you to refinance, you'll need to do a few calculations. Start by adding up the costs of refinancing. Next, determine the amount of your new monthly payment by asking your lender or by using one of the many on-line mortgage calculators available on the Internet. Then, divide your total refinancing costs by your monthly savings. The result tells you how many months it will take for you to reach your break-even point. If you pan to stay in your home for at least the break-even period, it may make financial sense for you to refinance.

CHECK WITH YOUR CURRENT LENDER

Before you start shopping around, it's a good idea to check with your current lender. Your lender might be willing to waive certain closing costs or agree to "modify" your current loan without a complete refinancing. But watch out for trade-offs; a mortgage with low up-front costs usually comes with a higher interest rate. The right alternative for you depends on your financial situation. If you are in it for the long term, you're probably better off going with the lower-rate option.

CONSIDER AFTER-TAX IMPLICATIONS

On an after-tax basis, refinancing may not be as good a deal as it appears on paper. Interest on a home mortgage is one of the few significant tax deductions left. When you refinance your mortgage, the lower interest rate translates into a smaller mortgage interest deduction. That means some of the money saved in lower monthly mortgage payments will be offset by the additional tax you may pay on income that is no longer sheltered. Generally speaking, the higher your tax bracket, the more you have to gain from making larger interest payments and the less you have to gain from reducing those payments. In addition, if you refinance your current mortgage for more than the existing balance, the deductibility of the interest on the excess amount depends on how you use the funds and the amount of the refinancing.

SHORTEN YOUR MORTGAGE TERM

When interest rates drop, refinancing can allow you to switch from a 30-year to a 15-year mortgage without a major increase in your monthly payment. Doing so is an excellent strategy for homeowners who want to pay off their mortgage before retirement or before the children's college tuition bills start rolling in. With a 15-year mortgage, you can save tens of thousands of dollars in interest and pay off your mortgage faster. Fifteen-year mortgages are especially beneficial to individuals who have already made a big dent in paying off the balance and don't want to be saddled with a 30-year loan.

BEST WAY TO "CASH OUT"

If your primary reason for refinancing is not to take advantage of lower interest rates, but rather to "cash out" some of the equity in your home, you need to decide whether refinancing your mortgage or taking out a home equity loan is the better alternative for your situation. A home equity product is usually a much cheaper and simpler alternative. It's also more flexible in that you can borrow only what you need, when you need it, and pay interest only on the amount you actually take out. On the other hand, refinancing generally results in a lower interest rate and a fixed-rate mortgage offers less interest-rate risk than a home equity product, which typically has a variable interest rate.

Before you rush into refinancing, take a careful look at your family's present and future financial position and assess, as best as possible, how long you plan to reside in your home.

Fall Remodeling Show returns to Novi Expo Center for fifth annual event

The fifth annual Fall Remodeling Show will be open Thursday, Sept. 25, through Sunday, Sept. 28, at the Novi Expo Center.

"Kitchens and baths are the two most popular remodeling projects," said Scott Jacobson, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan (BIA) and of S.R. Jacobson Development Corp. in Bingham Farms. "In third place are decks and patios, followed by bathroom, family room and living room additions. The show has a great many ideas for these and other projects in time to get homes in shape for the holidays." The non-profit BIA is the event sponsor.

For a special highlight of the show, hilarious grilling buddies Mad Dog and Merrill offer professional tips and demonstrate cooking everything on the grill from hors d'oeuvres to grilled desserts as seen on programs like CBS' "This Morning."

Additional show features include the National Kitchen and Bath Association members garage sale of cabinets, counters and other discontinued items to benefit Habitat for Humanity, the pictorial display of the third annual Showcase of Distinctive Homes sponsored by bia, which will kick off at the show, demonstrations on decorating, home repair and remodeling and a Treasure Chest contest with daily prizes.

Over 200 exhibitors will show their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, home offices, doors, windows, yard/gardens, remodeling, interior design, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

bia also sponsors the Builders Home and Detroit Flower Show at Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center and the Spring Home and Garden Show and the Home Improvement Show at Novi Expo Center.

Novi Expo Center is located at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are from 2-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m.-7 p.m. Sunday. It seems selling a Saturn is as rewarding as buying one.

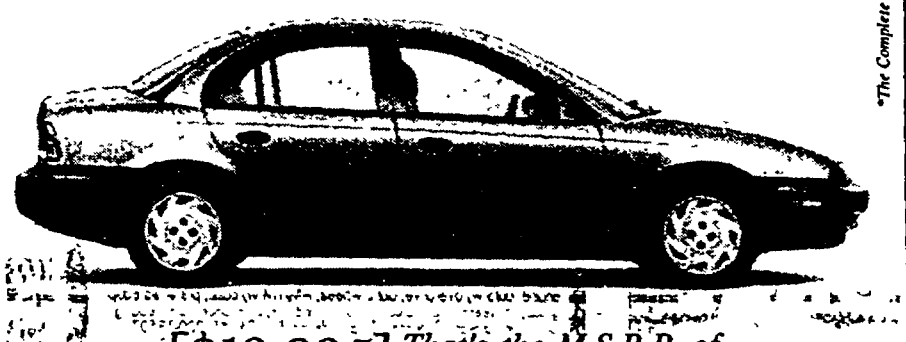
Saturns come with a bunch of neat things that help them maintain their value. For one, the polymer bodyside panels resist dents, dings and corrosion. It probably explains why so many Saturns stay looking new five or maybe even ten years down the road and have some of the highest resale values in their classes.* Of course, keeping the inside looking as good is up to you. SATURN.

*The Complete Car Cost Guide, 1997, IntelliChoice®, Inc., Campbell, CA, Compact and Small Wagon classes.



[$12,895] That's the M.S.R.P. of this 1997 Saturn SL2, including, retailer prep and transportation. Of course, total cost will vary seeing how options and state-required equipment are extra, as are things like tax and license. Each retailer sets its own price, which may differ from the price above. ©1997 Saturn Corporation.

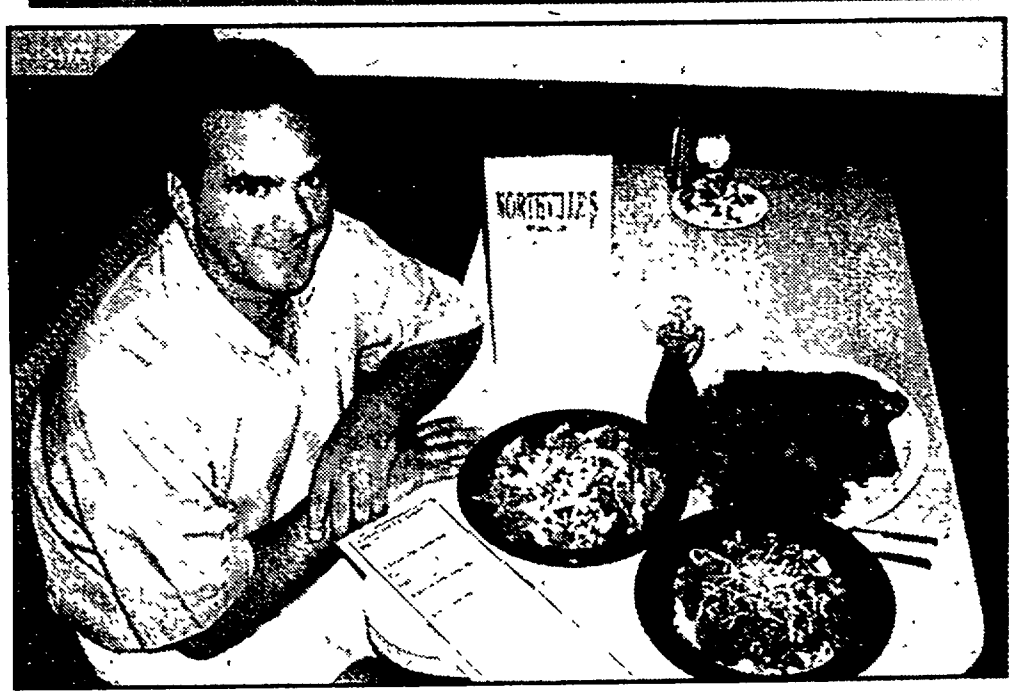
Uptown Cafe
(248) 449-4040



Sam Savedes, owner of Uptown Cafe, provides quality food and substantial portions, Italian style.

As you scan the menu at Uptown Cafe, you'll notice something unique about the names of the dishes — they're all named after family members of owner Sam Savedes.

Aleko's Angel Hair Marinara is named for Sam's father, who passed away last March and inspired his three sons to expand their food business, which now includes three restaurants.

Pappas' Piccata Pasta, a popular dinner of pasta in a light lemon sauce with chicken, is named after Sam's uncle, James Pappas, who Sam said has been like a second father to him.

"Every time we get a new child in the family, we have to change the menu, which we'll have to do soon because I've got one on the way," said Sam, who is expecting a baby girl in October.

With new dishes constantly being added, eating at Uptown Cafe is never the same. Sam has more than 190 specials that he is constantly rotating to keep people coming back for more.

Uptown Cafe provides casual dining with quality food and substantial portions, Italian style.

The lunch menu consists of a variety of sandwiches and salads, including the Pomidori Salad that patrons have taken a liking to. "We sell more Pomidori Salads than anything else," Sam states.

The dinner menu includes pasta, ribs and chicken prepared in a variety of ways to satisfy anyone. The entire menu is also available for carry-out.

Sam also offers a complete catering service. With one call, your party can be a done deal, from tents and tables to great food.

Your Michigan Connection
(248) 380-9292

Gloria Sciberra shows off some of the great Michigan-themed merchandise at Your Michigan Connection, in Northville.

Novi has one. Plymouth has one. Ann Arbor has one. And now, Northville has one, too!

Formerly Downtown Baskets, Your Michigan Connection specializes in custom gift baskets and boxes made only with Michigan products.

Gloria Sciberra, who owned Downtown Baskets with her husband Maurice, said they recently moved to a smaller space within Northville. Wishing to change the business to suit the new space, they remembered how popular their Michigan-themed baskets were with customers. And voila — Your Michigan Connection of Northville was born!

"We feel real positive about this," Gloria said. "My husband and I and our family are just up north nuts!"

A cherry basket, a Michigan birdhouse basket and a Sanders basket are just some of the irresistible offerings at Your Michigan Connection. "Fun" Michigan-themed items, such as kitchen mitts and totebags, are also available.

Visitors will surely be charmed by the store's homey "up north" atmosphere. Items are displayed in apple crates and apple baskets, and the walls are covered in Michigan memorabilia. And to give deliveries an extra "Great Lakes" feel (the store delivers locally and out-of-state), they wrap packages in Michigan wrapping paper.

This warm, "small-town" attitude is also reflected in the Sciberras' love of all things Michigan — especially the people.

"Out of everything that is great in Northville, the people, their kids and their dogs are the best," Gloria said.

Your Michigan Connection is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

Briarpointe Veterinary Clinic
(248) 449-7447

Doctors John Parker and Ron Studer with Office Manager/Assistant Jude Howison, Groomer/Assistant Teri Brennan and Jude's dog "Daven."

Scores of patients walk through Dr. Ron Studer and Dr. John Parker's door.

The only difference is, they walk through on anywhere from two to four legs.

At Briarpointe Veterinary Clinic, the doctors of veterinary medicine see a variety of pets, from dogs to iguanas. "We'll treat many 'pocket pets,'" Dr. Parker explained. "That includes any pet small enough to fit in a pocket, such as birds or hamsters."

Briarpointe is a full service medical, dental and surgical clinic. They also offer grooming and behavioral counseling.

Both doctors bring a wealth of expertise to the Novi clinic, which was established in June of last year. "We brought experience from day one," Dr. Studer said. Dr. Studer has been a veterinarian for 24 years and Dr. Parker has been practicing nine years.

According to the doctors, their spectrum of interests and experience create a wide range of services. "We perform all of the more common procedures such as spaying and neutering," Dr. Parker said. "But we both have an interest in surgery and other special areas, such as dentistry, goastroenterology and internal medicine."

Ron added that they perform a lot of preventative medicine. "It has really come to the forefront of the profession," he said. "Prevention and early detection are very important."

Both men should know — they each care for pets of their own. Dr. Studer has a Golden Retriever named Max, a cat named Domino, and a black Labrador named Tyler who is being trained for the "Paws with a Cause" program.

Dr. Parker also has a Golden Retriever who goes by "Major" and a cat named Bob Dole. "My son named him," he said. "He just didn't seem like a 'Kitty' or a 'Fluffy.'"

Barn Antiques
(248) 349-0117

Owner Judy Elvy poses with some of Barn Antiques' diverse pieces, such as this handmade wagon and birdhouse.

Science may not be able to build a time machine, but at Barn Antiques, customers can relive old memories and pick up reminders of the past.

Barn Antiques, started three years ago by Judy and Russ Elvy, has a variety of pieces from a wide range of periods. All are housed in a historical two floor barn built 65 years ago. The barn's lumber dates back to 1856, when the owner of Northville's burned out Ambler Hotel gave away the building's remaining wood.

The shop was called Weather Vane Antiques for over 25 years when it was run by Sherry Meyer of Meyer Berry Farm. Judy and Russ worked closely with the Novi Historical Study Committee for four months to restore portions of the barn.

Today, Barn Antiques rents space to 28 antique dealers, offering many diverse collections. Everything from lamps and fine china to jewelry and primitive furniture are displayed corner to corner.

The oldest piece currently at the shop is a love seat that was converted from a hired-hand rope bed from 1810. The shop also has a Cricket table and chair set from 1816. Judy said the barn once had a handmade tavern table dating back to 1780. Barn Antiques also takes consignments from customers.

The most enjoyable part for visitors is having memories return to them in the shop's nostalgic atmosphere. "They come in just curious of what [the shop] is, but they leave rehearsing all the memories they had from their childhood," Judy said.

Urban Optiks

(248) 347-9058

Co-owner Gary Reggish poses with his favorite pair of Freudenhaus glasses.

Original and captivating eyewear provides Northville-area residents with a clearer perspective and a brighter outlook, thanks to the knowledge and assistance of Urban Optiks.

At Urban Optiks, clients can select the perfect pair of glasses to fit their mood, their personality and their face. Eyewear has become a fashion accessory for many individuals, and co-owners Gary Reggish and Dr. William Koppin have combined their services to give the community a high-fashion alternative.

Urban Optiks, located at 105 Main St. in Northville, carries a broad selection of exclusive designer frames from around the world, including Bada, Koh Sakai, Lunor, Matsuda, Martine Sitbon. One line that only Urban Optiks has, Freudenhaus, hails from Germany and emphasizes thin, lightweight frame designs. Since each piece is handmade from shedded Buffalo horn, no two frames are ever the same. A technical eyewear line called Killy is available for customers who enjoy an active lifestyle. Gary and Dr. Koppin travel to Los Angeles, New York, Chicago, Paris and Italy to bring their superior products to Northville. "The trips to Europe are always very exciting because we're able to...stay on the cutting edge of fashion design," Gary said.

Eyewear styles are shaped with detailed temples and intricate handmade bridges for higher quality. Colorful and creative frames reflecting a modern flair bring out the best in customer appearance and satisfaction. "Shame on that individual [who] thinks eyewear is purely functional," Gary said. Sunglass clips are a wonderful addition to new frames to keep out harmful ultraviolet rays.

The full service eye boutique also features the latest lens technology that provides customers with comfort and clarity. All prescriptions are made with the thinnest and lightest weight lenses available, so even those clients with stronger corrections can wear them. "Eyeglasses today are more of an accessory," Gary said. "These are the most comfortable pair of glasses they've ever worn, and customers have never imagined they could have lenses so thin."

Before starting their own business, Gary and Dr. Koppin received abundant training in their fields. Gary has been a certified optician of the American Board of Opticianry for over 12 years. He is also a fellow member of the National Academy of Opticianry and serves as an executive director for the Opticians Association of Michigan. Dr. Koppin attended Indiana University and has been a well-respected optometrist for 10 years.

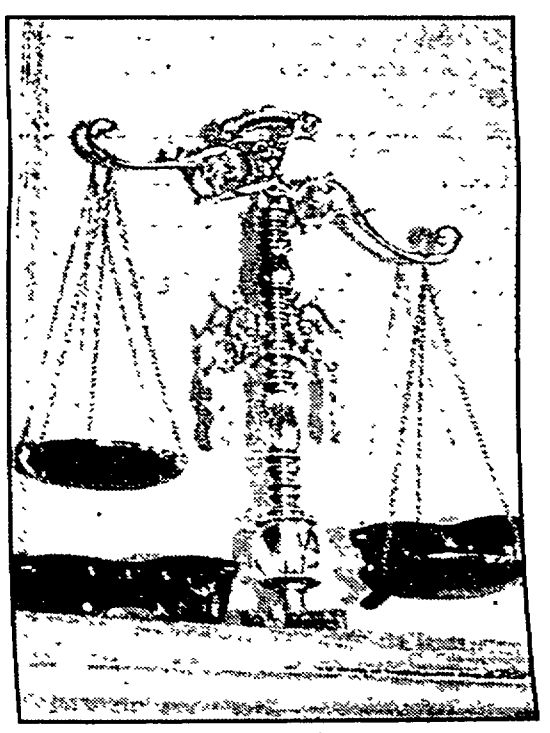
Besides glasses, one important eye care need Urban Optiks meets is contact lenses. Dr. Koppin, who specializes in this area, tries to assure every client that he or she can wear contacts comfortably. "We have many customers that have gone to other doctors and were told that they couldn't wear contact lenses. Dr. Koppin can make that happen," Gary said. "Dr. Koppin is not afraid of new technology and of difficult cases. He likes to take the time necessary with customers."

Dr. Koppin is available for thorough eye exams with morning and evening appointments. Urban Optiks also has a laboratory at its Northville location, to assist patients with their in-house eyewear needs. However, Gary stressed Urban Optiks' main goal is not rushed service, rather providing quality, good looking eyewear. "We're all about customer service and making people happy," Gary said. To him, seeing satisfied customers with their glasses is the best part of his business. "Northville is a very quaint town, I like the fact of being able to walk down the street and see our customers," he said. Gary also mentioned how he enjoys the influx of new residents.

Even local business owners and customers are thankful for the boutique's large variety of frames and friendly customer service.

Chuck Keys, owner of Keys Financial Group, said the exceptional service and informative eye exams at Urban Optiks differentiates the boutique from other vision centers. "The personal service from Gary and the eye examination were perfect. They explained everything," he said.

For more information or to set up an appointment, please call (248) 347-9058.



Urban Optiks balances its boutique's selection with everything from designer frames to prescription contact lenses.

Running Fit of Northville
(248) 380-3338

It's more than just a shoe store.

Running Fit of Northville brings the community together for walks, runs and other exercise outings.

Owner Randy Step describes Running Fit of Northville as an event-oriented retail store. He has stores in Ann Arbor and Novi, and opened his third store at 141 E. Main Street in Northville in February 1994. He is especially pleased about the newest location because he has been a Northville resident for 14 years.

Randy has been a competitive distance runner for many years, and in 1989 was voted Michigan Runner of the year by Michigan Runner Magazine. He considers himself more of an exercise person than a business person. The reason he got into sports retail was to interact with other walkers and runners, and to possibly have a positive influence on people who are just starting out. Randy says, "We know what to sell because exercise is a huge part of our lives and the customers know that."

Lora Lazur, the store's manager, is also very involved in running and competes in numerous marathons and road races.

The store not only retails in running and walking items, but swim and inline skate supplies as well.

Running Fit of Northville sponsors monthly local events, produces a newsletter and organizes walks and runs around Northville. Anyone can meet at the store for weekly walks Tuesday mornings at 9:30 a.m.

Running Fit of Northville is open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. For more information, contact Running Fit at (248) 380-3338.

Duncan Soft Touch Chiropractic
(248) 348-2000

Dr. Kathy Duncan can relieve many aches and pains with her gentle pressure point treatment.

Dr. Kathy Duncan, R.N., D.C. is a former registered nurse who changed career paths after learning about the benefits of chiropractic care through a personal success story.

Dr. Duncan suffered from severe migraine headaches, which physicians attributed to stress. As a last resort, she sought chiropractic treatment. The chiropractor informed her of a misalignment in her neck, corrected the source of her pain, and eliminated her migraine headaches. She's been a believer in chiropractic ever since.

Dr. Duncan so strongly supported the achievements of chiropractic, she decided to pursue a degree as a Doctor of Chiropractic and attended Life Chiropractic College in 1983. Three years later, she graduated from the college and was president of her class. Dr. Duncan established the successful Soft Touch Chiropractic Clinic in Novi during 1990.

Dr. Duncan practices a soft, gentle, noninvasive pressure point treatment for all types of pain or discomfort in the back, neck, head or legs. With the spine as the focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure on the points along the muscles in conjunction with the spine. Once the muscles are relaxed, the spine readjusts itself naturally.

Tight muscles caused by stress, tension, strains or trauma can pull the spinal column out of alignment. This can produce many types of pain or discomfort in the body. "There are no chemical or drugs masking any symptoms," she said. "We treat the cause, rather than the symptom."

Soft Touch Chiropractic is open four days a week and offers Saturday hours by appointment only. Dr. Duncan can be reached at (248) 348-2000.

The 124 E. Main St. boutique is in the perfect location to participate in the community's annual Victorian Festival. "It's just like the town is transported to the Victorian Age," Joyce said.

On the day of the parade, the store is packed with people shopping for costumes and accents. This year, Sweet Dreams has a special line of Victorian hats for the Fest, as well as vintage and new clothing, long velvet capes and coats, parasols and gloves to transform men, women and children into Victorian citizens.

The boutique carries a wide variety of items, including pillows, bears, antique furniture, Victorian reproduction wicker furniture and dried florals, as well as new and vintage jewelry that Joyce often models.

Many of the items they carry can also be special ordered to better suit your needs. The inventory is constantly changing to remain one of the most unique boutiques in the area.

Task Karate Academy

(248) 669-8275 or (248) 380-2000

The Task Karate Academy is operated by Sensei Kevin Johannes. Johannes began his karate career in 1977. He is a student of three top ranking Koei-Kan Karate instructors: Inasio Anzures, Jack Sabat and Brian Frost. Sensei Frost is one of the first pioneers to bring Koei-Kan to the United States. He trained directly under the Master of Koei-Kan, Eizo Onishi.

In addition to earning a Fourth Degree Black Belt in the Koei-Kan style of karate, Sensei Johannes has also studied the art of Aikido under Katsumi Niikura, founder of Ryokukai International. Johannes has also trained and competed in kick-boxing (full contact karate) coached by Inasio Anzures under the direction of Kerry Roop, a former world champion.

In 1980, Johannes first experienced the thrill of performing his art at the Silverdome Self-Defense Spectacular, produced by his teachers Sensei Sabat and Sensei Anzures. This exhibition is the major influence behind Johannes' annual Martial Art Spectacular held at the Walled Lake Community Education Center.

His most recent demonstration was for the Clash of the Titans sponsored by the IMAC (International Martial Art Circuit), directed by Richard Plowder. This event was held at U. of M. Dearborn this past July.

In 1981, Johannes had the opportunity to assist Sensei Sabat in establishing a dojo in Santa Barbara, California. This experience set the ground work for his teaching skills. Among his students were local police officers and celebrity families, including Adam West (original Batman).

Johannes' first experience as a black belt competitor was at the 1983 National Koei-Kan Karate Championships in New Jersey where he placed second in the nation in Bogu Kumite (full contact sparring). Since then he has participated and placed in numerous competitions, including the 1997 Novi Tang Soo Do Open Tournament where he took first place in sparring and first place in Kata (forms).

"Competition is fine for those students that want to compete, but I promote the more intrinsic values of the martial arts rather than karate as a sport," Johannes said.

In January of 1989, Johannes established the first Task Karate Academy in Walled Lake. Since then, hundreds of students have benefited from the training. Working with Community Education, Johannes developed special programs such as Parent & Child Karate and Kinder Karate, allowing kids to start at a young age. Also, Ladies Kick Boxing classes have been very successful in introducing women to the benefits of martial art training.

In addition to offering karate classes, Johannes has also taught swimming for the past three years in the community education summer program. "This has been an excellent means of refining my teaching skills and building rapport with students as young as four years old," Johannes said.

The second Task Karate Academy location was established in August of 1996 in Northville for the purpose of offering the same opportunities to a new generation of black belts and beginner students alike.

"My assistant instructor, Jackie Rioux has been training with me for over eight years and has become an excellent teacher. She is testing for her third degregree black belt sometime this year," Johannes said.

The benefits of martial art training is far greater than just self-defense! Patience, confidence, self control, skill and good health can be achieved.

"It is my goal to share my experience with those individuals that have the desire and fortitude to develop in the tradition of this time honored art," Johannes said.

Northville Diamond Jewelers

(248) 348-6417

The brilliance of a properly proportioned diamond has endeared the stone to millions of people worldwide. It has become a symbol of eternal strength and love.

Husband and wife team Debbie McDonald and Alan LaVine, owners of Northville Diamond Jewelers, have made the precious stones their life.

Although tons of diamonds are mined from the earth, Alan said only a small percentage can be cut into gem quality stones.

Debbie explained that there are many factors involved in the value of a diamond.

The whiter a diamond is, the more precious it is considered, with the exception of fancy color diamonds, which have hues such as pink or blue and are worth more.

Lack of inclusions, or carbon deposits, also enhance the quality of a diamond. Northville Diamond Jewelers, at 201 E. Main St., is a full service jewelry store that specializes in high quality, dazzling diamonds. They use certified diamonds in their jewelry to assure customers the highest confidance in the quality of their diamonds in the country. For diamonds to be certified, they must be thoroughly graded for color and clarity by an independent laboratory.

Princess cut diamonds, which are fully faceted square diamonds and have the brilliance of round diamonds, are growing in popularity, although round diamonds are still the biggest sellers. Marquise cuts are also frequently requested.

"Most people are pretty traditional," Debbie said, although many other cuts are available.

Northville Diamond Jewelers also carries precious and semi-precious gemstones to add a little color to your life. Independent certified gemologist services are available to customers who seek appraisals or advice.

The newest trend in jewelry is platinum and white gold mountings, which Northville Diamond Jewelers now has in stock.

To bring out the full beauty of the gemstone, Northville Diamond Jewelers also make exquisite, hand-crafted settings in house. All repair work is also done in house. Customers can custom design their own settings as well.

Northville Diamond Jewelers stand behind their work with service and product guarantees. All 14 karat gold has a lifetime guarantee and watches are supplied with a lifetime battery upon purchase.

Debbie and Alan are residents of Northville Township, and are very involved with the community. Debbie is currently serving as president of the Northville Chamber of Commerce and was the charter president of the Northville Kiwanis Early Birds.

"I like to stay involved in the business community," Debbie said.

Debbie and Alan are opening a second jewelry store in South Lyon at the corner of Ten Mile and Pontiac Trail. The store, which will be called South Lyon Diamond and Gold Mine, will be decorated like a gold mine. They will use a lot of the original charm of the historic building in their remodeling.

"You will be transported to the early 1900's in the days of the gold rush," Debbie said.

After the new store opens, Alan will oversee the South Lyon store, while Debbie will remain in Northville.

Northville Diamond Jewelers holds special promotions for their customers throughout the year.

Debbie said they enjoy doing fun promotions, such as Dig for Diamonds during the Victorian Festival, during which they give away a one carat diamond. They also set up a mining town for kids to mine for gold.

Debbie sends information about promotions to about 12,000 people on her mailing list.

Trader Tom's
(248) 348-8333

Jan Zuyus has personally sampled almost every type of cigar in Trader Tom's humidor.

Three generations of women share the same love at Trader Tom's — smoking cigars.

With 20 years of experience in the tobacco business, Nancy, Jan and Larissa Zuyus take the art of cigar smoking seriously.

At Trader Tom's they take the time to educate their customers on all their purchases, like pipes, cigars and humidors.

"We educate our customers about cigars and the art of cigar smoking," Larissa explained.

Trader Tom's has an extensive variety of cigars in their walk in humidor, such as Arturo Fuente, Punch, Dunhill, Butera and the new Play Boy cigar by Don Diego. The humidor is currently 19 feet long and about 8 feet wide, but it will soon be expanded to another 8 feet in length.

"We're like the cigar smoker's candy store," Larissa said. Trader Tom's also carries clothing, cigar lighters and numerous other toys for cigar smokers.

"We offer a masculine atmosphere with feminine hospitality. Our customers can relax on the leather couch, watch TV or read, enjoy a cup of coffee, but most importantly they can smoke a great cigar," elaborated Jan.

Mike Ames, a regular at Trader Tom's, commented, "It's a good break location. It provides a comfortable, friendly atmosphere to get away, smoke and meet other people."

Jan remarked, "It's a fun job because everyone is happy when they walk in here, and they're even happier when they walk out with their favorite cigars!"

Northville Hearing Aid Center
(248) 349-0657

As an increasing number of people with hearing disabilities become aware of advances in hearing aid technology, more are visiting Northville Hearing Aid Center to end their communication difficulties.

Northville Hearing Aid Center, formerly known as Cannon Hearing Aids, was established nearly 40 years ago by Ms. Ruth Cannon. The business, at 113 E. Dunlap, changed its name seven years ago and is now co-owned by Lin McNair and Marguerite Fuller. Approximately 2500 clients from the entire area have come to know and trust Northville Hearing Aid Center, the only one of its kind in Northville.

Marguerite and Lin, who both have extensive experience in the hearing industry, said newer clients are taking advantage of small, more efficient hearing aids. Some fit right in the ear canal, making them virtually invisible. Having celebrities involved in hearing loss prevention and technology also makes it easier for others to seek professional assistance, Marguerite explained. "Nationwide," she said, "we're becoming a country more aware of our...hearing problems and doing something about [them]."

At the Northville center, clients receive a hearing test and consultation. If a hearing aid is required, a silicone mold of the ear is made, from which an appropriate device is ordered. Marguerite and Lin said their clients are of all ages. In September, the center will be hosting a series of group seminars for patients so they can learn more about recent advances in the hearing industry.

Hungering for unique, tasty food that's also good for you?

Then Edward's Cafe and Catering in Northville is just what you're looking for.

Owner Edward Postif said the restaurant at 116 E. Dunlap has been specializing in "healthy, gourmet items" since 1986. Their menu consists of a variety of salads, sandwiches and baked goods (including reduced-fat items). One of their specialities is European-style pastries, such as scones and muffins. Postif said all the pastries are prepared at his other business, Edward's Bake Shop, in Plymouth.

One of the most unique aspects of the cafe is the fact that the menu changes daily.

"Every day there's something different," Postif said. "There's an ever-changing list of items."

In addition to serving fresh, healthy dishes in-house, the restaurant has an extensive catering business. Postif said the restaurant's catering manager, Denise Albright, helps customers arrange and prepare for their party or event, whether it's a business lunch, casual gathering or a grand wedding.

"That's a big part of our business that people don't know about," Postif said of their catering services. "They just come in to buy a muffin, but they don't know we can cater their wedding."

Chocolates By Renee

(248) 349-6362

Ripe, juicy strawberries dipped in rich dark chocolate. Crunchy caramel corn drizzled with dark chocolate.

Welcome to Chocolates by Renee, where your sweetest dreams come true.

The store specializes in nearly every kind of treat imaginable, from chocolates of all kinds to Jelly Bellies and "penny" candy. Owner Stephanie Acho said almost all the chocolates in the store are handmade. They also carry a wide variety of sugar-free chocolates.

She said one of the store's biggest sellers is their delicious caramel corn, available in three varieties: plain, drizzled with dark chocolate, and drizzled with chocolate and Traverse City cherries. Chocolates by Renee also carries chocolate novelties such as chocolate greeting cards, and custom-molded chocolates, available in a variety of designs.

In addition to providing goodies for casual snackers, Chocolates by Renee also caters to businesses, weddings, birthdays and anniversaries. They also offer college care packages, all occasion trays and baskets. Shoppers may notice the proudly displayed photos of stars who enjoyed some basket-treats. Stephanie said many times customers, often husbands and boyfriends, give her a list of important dates in their sweet-heart's life (birthday, anniversary, etc.), and she mails out boxes of goodies on those dates.

Hordes of hungry customers grab for some of Stephanie Acho's yummy caramel corn. "You can't get enough!" Stephanie says of the treat.

Rita Acho (left, behind counter) and Nan Bonnici provide service with a smile to all the customers at Chocolates by Renee.

Chocolates by Renee recently moved from its old location on Center Street, and has been at its new address at 118 E. Main St. since May.

"We needed a larger location so we could offer more varieties of products," Stephanie said.

Stephanie graduated from the University of Michigan in 1993 with a background in business. She worked toward her masters, and spent a month in Africa through Michigan State University. Many of the collectibles she found in Africa are now sold through Global Gifts, which shares floor space with Chocolates by Renee, also featuring Christmas ornaments by Palonaise.

Stephanie's philosophy is "Work as if everything depends on you and pray as if everything depends on God." Of course, it never hurts to have some help from your family — something Stephanie certainly has.

Both Stephanie's mother, Rita Acho, and Aunt Nan Bonnici, help out behind the counter, providing friendly service to customers. Although Stephanie's father, Ron Acho, is often busy in his law practice, he too, often stops in to chat with the customers. Even Stephanie's brothers, Jim and Greg, and boyfriend David occasionally lend a hand at the store.

Stephanie's summer hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., every day except Friday, when it is open 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. The store is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the winter, but Friday hours are the same throughout the year. Customers can reach Stephanie and the rest of the staff at (248) 349-6362. They can also fax orders to the store, at (248) 349-MMMM.

(248) 380-8881

The gentle harmony of sweet music and trickling water will calm your soul as you wander through this beautiful garden of unique items.

Gardenviews is a garden accent store with items for inside and around the house, as well as in the garden, that you would normally have to order from specialty catalogs.

As they enter their third year of business, the world of Gardenviews continues to grow. This year, they added about 2500 sq. ft. to the store when they acquired the former bump shop and joined it with their building.

The new addition, fondly referred to as Central Park, houses larger pieces including furniture, urns and gazebos. It will be turned into a winter wonderland at Christmas time.

The store is set up so that it looks small, but as you wander, each turn brings a new surprise.

"If you constantly give [people] more than they expect, they'll love you, they'll come back and tell their friends about you," Lou explained. "When I go home at the end of the day, I am turned on because people say, 'Lou, I love your store.'"

Susan Latimer, a Farmington Hills resident, said Gardenviews is worth the drive because of its distinctiveness. The first time she came to Gardenviews, she was looking for something particular for her daughter's birthday. Although they didn't have it in, they ordered it for her. "They're just really nice people," Susan said.

Greg and Lou are always on the lookout for new items to carry and welcome customer suggestions. If Gardenviews does not have the accent you are looking for, Greg and Lou will put the search on to find it and special order it.

They were one of the first stores to bring terra cotta fireplaces into Michigan out of Mexico. The portable fireplaces enhance the relaxing atmosphere of a cool evening sitting outside.

The store features a wide selection of garden decor.

"I do a lot of gardening at home and am always looking for different accents," Greg said. Among his favorites are gargoyles, birdbaths and sundials — items Gardenviews has available all year long.

Gazing globes are also a trend right now. "You can view your whole garden by looking in the globe," Greg explained.

Gardenviews' theme is "where you open your home to nature," because nature works year-round to add beauty to lives and homes.

Lou explained, "In the spring and summer, we believe in opening up the patio doors and making it another room. In winter, you don't just close that up — you bring it in."

Indoor fountains and solar wind chimes are a couple popular items at Gardenviews that help bring the peaceful sounds of nature in.

"We're trying to find unique, fun items to add a little something to your life," Lou said.

That's why customers enjoy shopping at Gardenviews, wandering amongst glimmering fountains, cute bird feeders, charming figurines, silk flowers, cuddly stuffed animal puppets and an endless list of beautiful pieces that help add that finishing touch to any home or yard.

Although they have had offers to franchise or to open stores in other locations, they prefer concentrating on Northville to care for customers personally with their friendly, knowledgeable crew.

Rita Kochan, who has worked at Gardenviews since the beginning, said it is a fun, relaxing place to be. "We get a lot of good ideas from the customers, as well as giving good ideas," she said.

Free gift wrapping with all natural products and dried flowers is another unique touch at Gardenviews.

A web site should be up before the holiday season and Lou is considering starting a catalog, as well.

Northville Vision Clinic
(248) 348-1330

At the Northville Vision Clinic, patients deal with experienced doctors and a friendly staff.

Dr. Martin Levin has been practicing optometry in Northville since 1973. Dr. Levin and his partner, Dr. Dale J. Malinowski, make sure the office in a 100-year-old building at 335 N. Center Street is a friendly, familiar sight to area residents.

The hometown atmosphere at the clinic extends to service as well. When patients come to Northville Vision Clinic, they are served by the same doctors and opticians every time they make a visit.

"It's just a small town atmosphere in here," said Mary Keros, an optician with 28 years' experience. "We try to make everybody feel special."

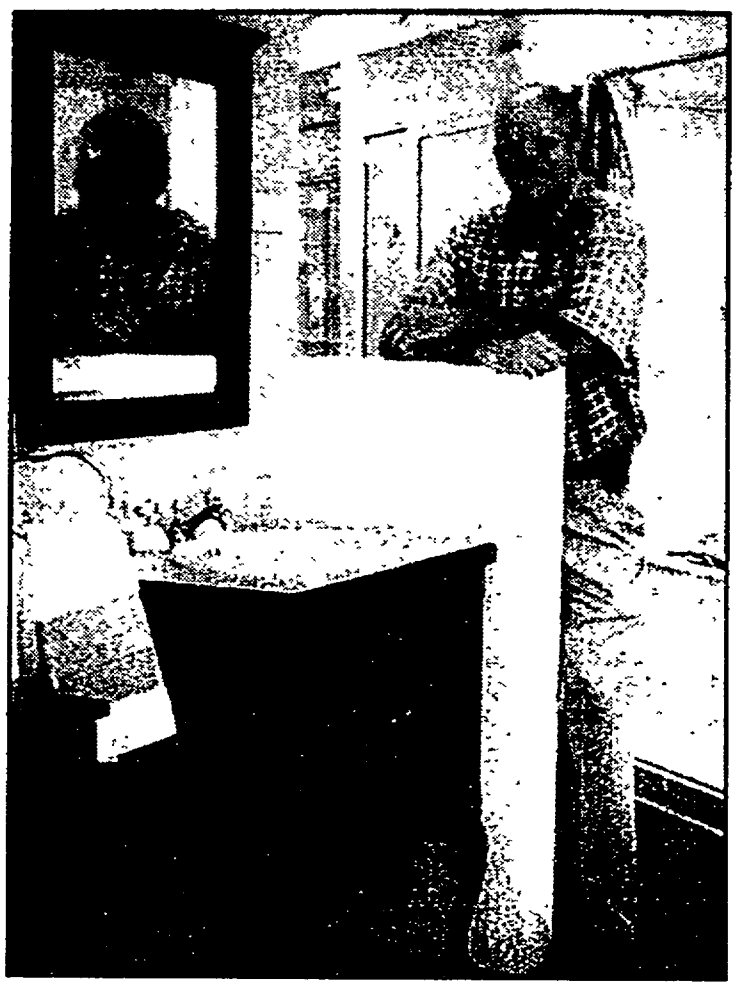
Service at the clinic is flexible as well. Keros said the staff is more than happy to order different frames for people who need a special size, color or shape.

"Being able to work with people and see the results of that work is a great feeling," said Dr. Levin. "Helping people with their visual needs is very rewarding."

Changes in recent health care legislation now permit optometrists like Dr. Levin and Dr. Malinowski to dilate and medically treat eye problems after proper licensure is achieved. Both doctors have recently completed 170 hours of training and passed the required examinations to achieve this licensure. The ultimate result is that patients save time, money and the inconvenience of frustrating referrals.

Northville Vision Clinic can by reached by calling (248) 348-1330.

Long Mechanical
(248) 349-0373



Ronald Jones manages the sales, service, and remodeling at Long Mechanical & Bath Boutique.

Glenn and Lois Long began a tradition of customer courtesy in 1949 when they opened Long Mechanical, a bathroom service and parts store in Northville. Long Mechanical has since remained a family business. Jim Long and his wife Virginia became the successors of their parents' well-founded business in the late '70s.

Long Plumbing Co. gave birth to Long Mechanical, which installs plumbing and piping for a variety of commercial and industrial clients. This newer branch of the company focuses primarily on residential plumbing needs and repair.

Long Plumbing, at 190 E. Main St., also specializes in complete bathroom remodeling and renovation. A showroom for the Bath Design Center and the Fancy Bath Boutique in downtown Northville features whirlpools, showers, vanity cabinets, plumbing fixtures, soaps and many more accessories.

"The key to our business is that there are no sub-contractors," said Ronald Jones, sales and service manager. "We do everything in-house and we do the work ourselves."

Services offered by the Bath Design Center include free on-site consulting prior to submitting an estimate and product review in the showroom by knowledgeable sales consultants.

"We find what will work for the customer within their price range," Virginia said.

Ron added, "It's all about service—how you treat people. That's what matters."

But great food and drinks aren't all the store has to offer. Jim, who has owned Good Time Party Store since 1970, knows no store can be successful without great service.

"We're very friendly here," Jim said. In fact, Jim said the friendly atmosphere has lead a lot of local young people to choose to work for him for their first job.

Even if you're not a party person, you might want to head over to Good Time Party anyway. The store sits right next to Custard Time, a soft-serve ice cream parlor that Roth also owns. Their creamy, tasty refreshments are sure to provide a pick-me-up during the sweltering final days of summer.

"It's a high-class area," he said. "I've always liked Northville."

Mike said he felt that, because Middle Eastern food appeals to such a wide variety of appeal, a restaurant like Aladdin's had a good chance of succeeding in an ethnically diverse area such as Northville.

Apparently he made the right choice. Although restaurant has only been in business for about half a year, Mike said the combination of unique, delicious cuisine at a competitive price has caused quite a stir in Northville. They've already had more than 23 request for catering, and the restaurant continues to gain steam as a carry-out and sit-down restaurant — so much so that Mike said he is planning to expand the restaurant's balcony to accommodate seating for 150 more customers.

"People love the food, love the service — love everything!" Mike said.

Aladdin Cuisine is open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Sundays.

ERA Rymal Symes

(248) 349-4550

"We're selling Houses," one of ERA's most recognized slogans, is back and the company is stronger than ever. With a new logo and an emphasis on strong consumer recognition, ERA is a company poised for the future.

The new logo and ad campaign symbolize the significant changes ERA has undergone in the past year and the giant steps forward the company has taken to ensure that consumers receive the best possible products and service to buy or sell a home.

As more technological advances become available, ERA Rymal Symes continues to create an informative and communicative relationship with its clientele and the surrounding communities.

The agency serves single family residential homes, condominiums, corporate accounts, third party relocation and transferring employees. A closing department and an in-house mortgage company are featured within the business as well.

Nearly one mile of voice and data lines link all of the agency's work stations and individual offices to the internal computer network. This allows clients to retrieve information through confidential electronic mailboxes, pager loans, multiple listing TV book, CD-ROM, a mortgage qualify, a news ad, in-house desktop publishing graphics and VCR tapes. Interested buyers can examine houses by a large-screen television and eliminate time consuming trips to the property location.

In addition, clients can shop from their own homes when an agent brings a lap-top computer.

Broker and owner Conrad Jakubowski, who has more than 30 years experience in the business, said the agency strives to make buying and selling homes easier for their clients. "Our customer relations are the focus of what we do."

"We're selling houses:" The staff at ERA Rymal Symes in Novi.

"Our new logo says that ERA is a company changing with the times. And it still stands for the ERA network of real estate professionals known for their dedication to customer service and satisfaction," said Judy DePollo, associate broker-manager.

To further assist clients, ERA Rymal Symes offers a home protection plan which covers the mechanical aspects of the home one year after the purchase. The agency will buy a persons home if they can't sell it, thanks to the seller security plan.

The 27 friendly agents ensure client satisfaction and a sound investment once an individual has bought or sold a home. Jakubowski said many members of the sales team, including 20 agents from the South Lyon office, are certified residential specialists.

"Purchasing or selling a property is very emotional, and there's a focus on training to better serve our buyers and sellers," said Jakubowski. "We have all full-time sales people, and many of our staff members have been with us for an excess of 20 years."

ERA Rymal Symes moved its operation to Novi in 1971, where it has grown and maintained an influential position in the area. The full-service brokerage firm moved into its location on Novi Road three years ago. The business began 76 years ago in Detroit under the partnership of Charles Rymal and Jay Symes.

Jakubowski claims, "We've grown with the communities, and they've grown so rapidly."

Davis Auto Care & Jim's Oil Depot

(248) 349-5115

Davis Auto Care is in business to solve all of customer's car care concerns, including engine repair and brakes.

COMPLETE CAR CARE FACILITY

"Our business is repairing cars, but our job is solving customers' problems," says Jim Davis, owner of Davis Auto Care. "That's why we're here, and why our customers depend on our services."

Established in Northville in 1979, Davis Auto Care fulfills Jim's vision of providing customers with a convenient "one stop," all-inclusive repair facility.

From simple oil changes and preventative maintenance to electronic computer diagnostic procedures, Jim makes certain Davis Auto Care can provide it all, including tires.

Just a few of the many services they provide are: Brakes, Shocks, Tune-Ups, Exhaust, Alignments, Batteries, Air Conditioning (both Freon 12 and new Freon 134), Engine Repair, Radiator and Cooling Systems, Computerized Engine Analysis, Electrical Systems, Computer Systems, Transmission, Suspension Components, Tires and Tire Repairs, Fuel Injection Systems, Carburetors, Belts, Hoses and much more.

"Aside from collision and painting, there isn't much you need on a vehicle that we can't take care of here at Davis Auto Care," Jim said.

At Davis Auto Care, customers and their vehicles are in good hands. All clients have a computerized customer service history so that routine maintenance is tracked, and downtime for repairs is kept to a minimum. Thanks to this computerized history, customers are notified by mail when it is time for routine maintenance on their vehicles.

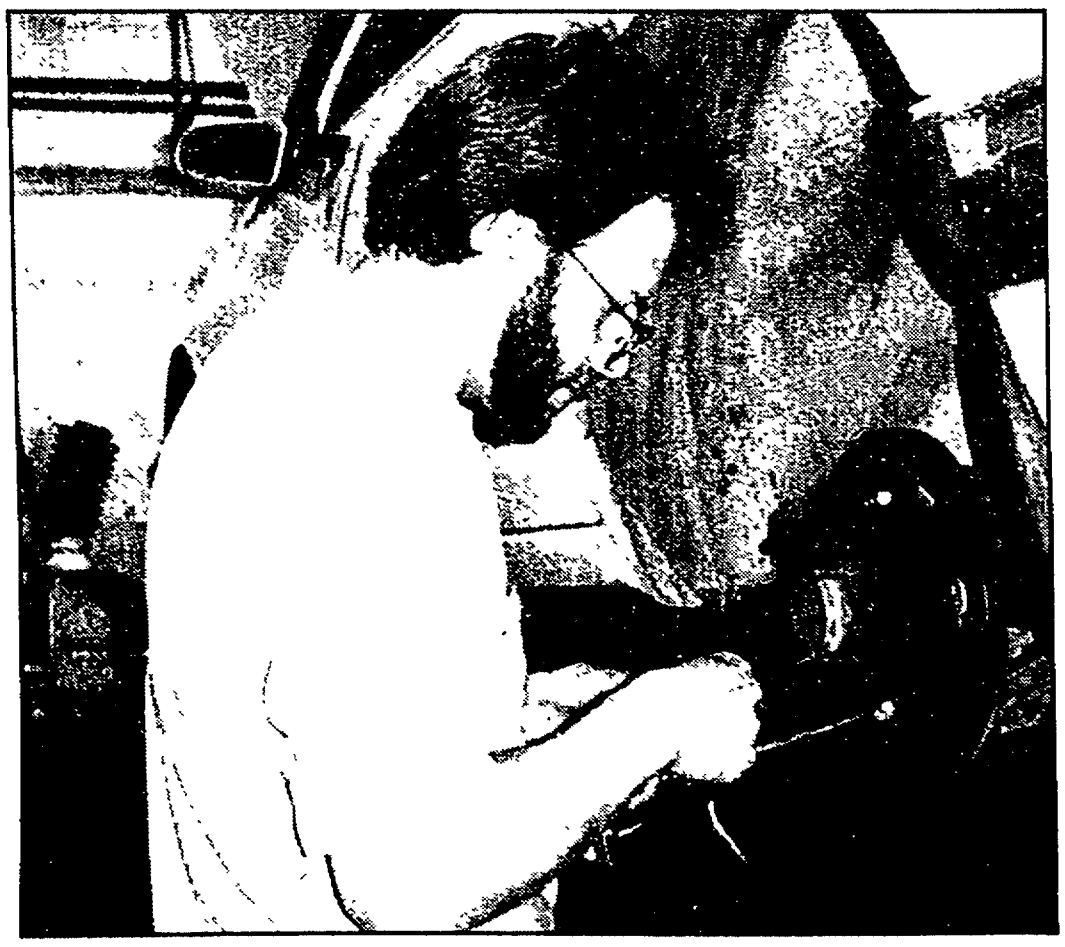
"We realize our customers are busy and don't have time to worry about preventive maintenance. That's why we track it for them," Jim said.

In addition, a large parts inventory is maintained so cars are taken care of right away.

Nationally recognized name-brand parts, such as Interstate batteries, Bendix brake parts, Monroe shock absorbers and Mobil lubrication products assure lasting quality.

Davis Auto Care takes care of customers right down to the last detail. Shuttle service is provided to and from your home or business. Telephone pagers or cellular phones are available to aid in contacting customers who are away from the phone. Follow-up letters ensure that you're satisfied with the service provided.

Owner Jim Davis (left) and Service Advisor Dave Massel are equipped to handle all repair needs quickly and professionally.



Davis Auto Care boasts top-notch repair technicians.

The size of the facility (15 repair bays) allows them to service vehicles quickly, with most repairs being handled in one day. Additionally, their size allows Davis Auto Care to buy parts in volume and to honor most extended warranty plans. "And, of course, all of our work comes with a written guarantee," Jim said.

From minor maintenance to high-tech computer and electronic diagnosis and repairs, Davis Auto Care is your best choice for automotive services.

QUALITY SERVICE

When looking for top mechanics, customers can rely on Davis Auto Care to provide them with quality help. All their mechanics are not only certified by the state, but by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence as well. This certification requires that the technicians take tough written tests to prove their competence, as well as meet significant hands-on criteria. The ASE tests are administered by ACT, the organization which conducts college entrance and professional exams.

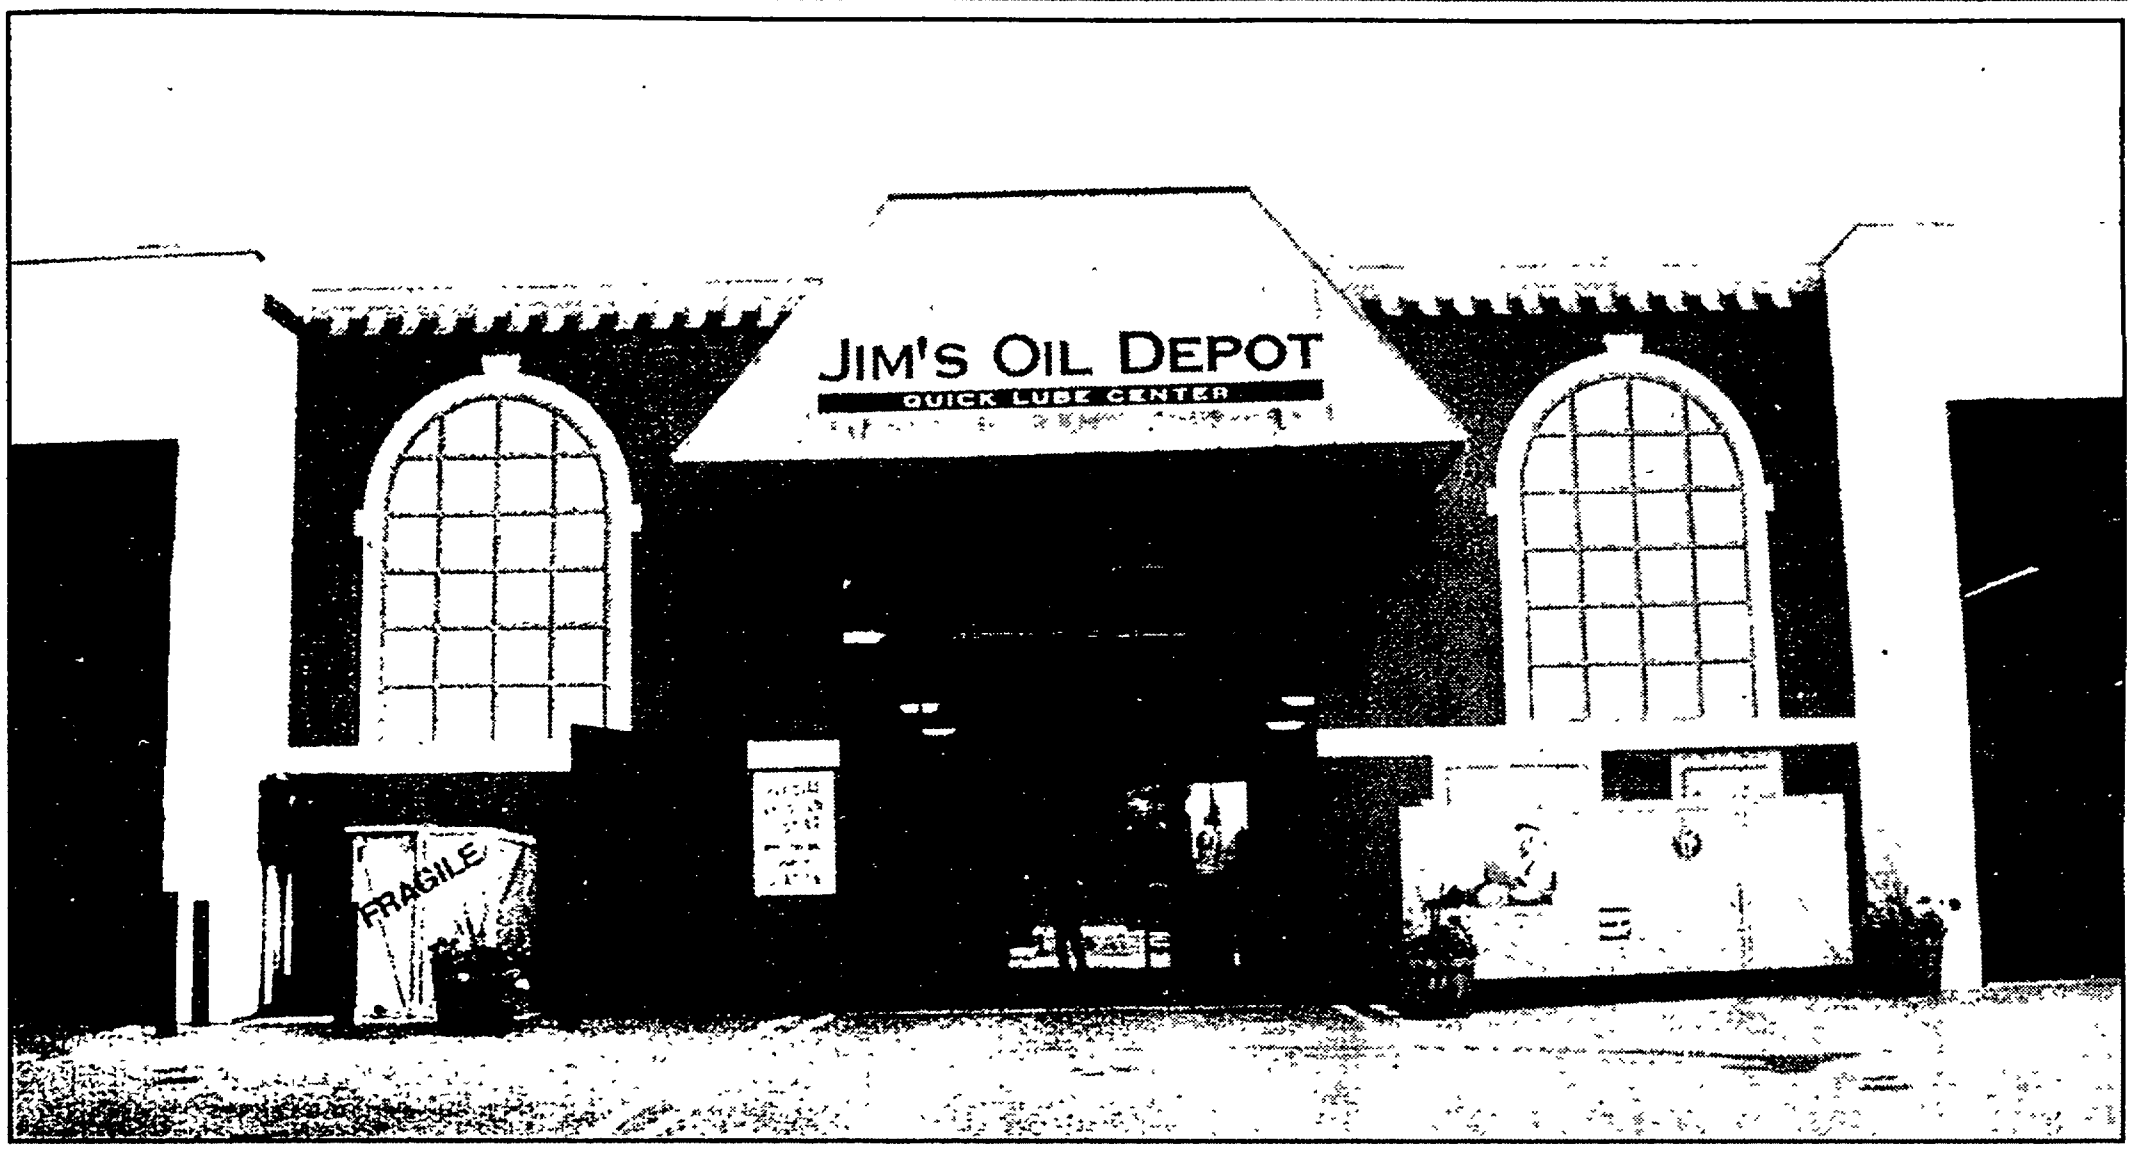
"It separates the good from the best," Jim said. "It really makes a big difference. ASE certification shows that a technician has dedicated himself to professionalism in this field." To make certain his employees are top notch, Jim only hires ASE certified technicians.

To keep up-to-date, mechanics are continually attending seminars and continuing education classes. "Our commitment to ongoing training is one of the most important aspects of our business," Jim said.

Additionally, Jim is very proud of the fact that five of their technicians have passed even more stringent ASE tests, and have been awarded the new Automobile Advanced Engine Performance Certification. "Automotive Engine Technology is advancing so rapidly that it became apparent that not all engine repair technicians were keeping up with the skills necessary to work on complex computer controlled systems. This new advanced engine certification has been awarded to fewer than five percent of the technicians in the country, and we couldn't be more pleased that our techs wanted to be among the first to prove themselves to be the Best of the Best."

Davis Auto Care & Jim's Oil Depot

(248) 349-5115



Jim's Oil Depot was built beside Davis Auto Care, creating a one stop auto care experience for Northville area residents.

Jim's Oil Depot reflects the nostalgic atmosphere of Northville.

HIGH TECH ANALYSIS SAVES CUSTOMER TIME

"More and more, customers experience a problem with electronics on the car," Jim said. "We have the best and latest diagnostic machines to take care of this."

With Davis' ABS-TECH system, and the SIMU-TECH computer systems, car repair is no longer a frustrating, lengthy process. ABS-TECH reduces the need for time-consuming pinpoint test of actuators and sensors. The TECH computers quickly diagnose today's anti-lock brake systems down to the component level by sweeping every ABS sensor, actuator and signal circuit quickly and efficiently.

The SIMU-TECH system diagnoses on-board computer systems with the same sweeping technique.

"You can actually take a look at all the connections going into the computer," Jim said. "It allows us to actually see what each one of the systems is doing on the car."

With both systems, hit or miss diagnosis is eliminated.

In addition, data computer systems at Davis Auto Care can provide print-outs of the parts needed for repair, model recall information and much more.

JIM'S OIL DEPOT

Added in 1993, Jim's Oil Depot is fast and fun.

"We had always offered oil changes, including a 15-point maintenance inspection," Jim explained, "but we knew that our customers were becoming more and more time conscious. We looked for a way to speed up the process, without sacrificing quality."

Jim's Oil Depot, which is located right next door to their main facility, filled the bill. Customers can get an oil change in 10 minutes without leaving their car. The Oil Depot also performs minor items such as headlight replacement and wiper blades while you wait.

A new addition to the depot is tire repair, rotating and balancing service. Many of these services are performed by trained staff members using a special tire-care machine. This machine relies on a touchless tire suspension system that avoids rim damage. As Jim said, "Tire rotating is the same type of maintenance that people want done quickly."

But it goes much farther than that. Jim's Oil Depot has been decorated to resemble a Victorian Train Depot.

"Being just underneath the railroad bridge, it seemed a natural," Jim said. "After we got underway with the theme of the place, I learned that there actually was a Northville train depot, just a few yards from our building, many years ago."

Both exterior and interior are painted in a trompe l'oeil technique, and once inside a huge mural depicts a view through "windows" onto a train platform with the train ready to pull out. Children of all ages love to watch the large-scale model trains running on the opposite side of the shop, as they circle the little town at the far end, cross bridges and trestles, and then disappear through a "tunnel" into the waiting room to turn around and head back again.

The theme is carried right down to a train whistle sounds as each car is raised into the air. What more can we say, except, "All aboard!"

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

A long-time resident of Northville, Jim has always been involved in his community. He is an active member, and Past President, of the Northville Chamber of Commerce. The company was a Major Sponsor of the Fourth of July Festivities in both '95, '96 and '97 and Jim has been a contributor to the Northville Victorian Festival since its inception.

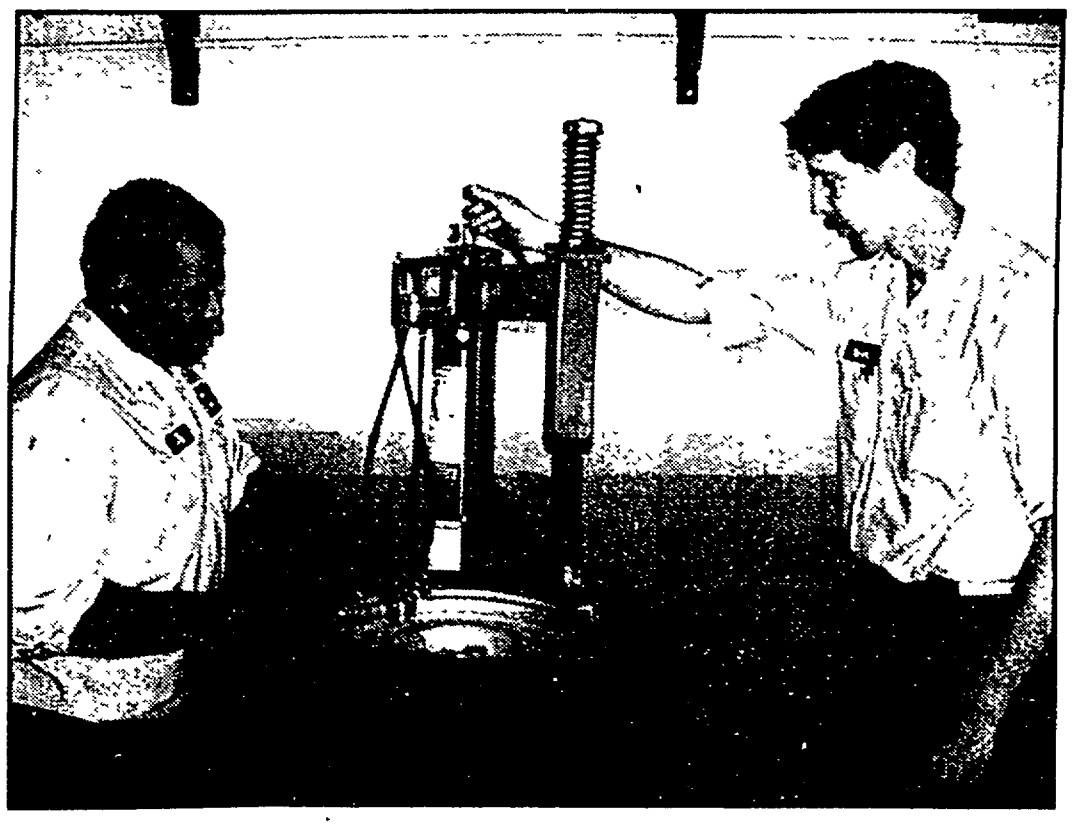
He has served as the State Chairman of the Board of the Automotive Service Association of Michigan. In this organization, Jim works to promote professionalism among those in the automotive repair business.

"I am very involved in the industry, and want to do everything I can to promote it in a positive way." Jim's participation has included testifying at state hearings on environmental issues and working with the EPA on pending industry regulation. He has also appeared on local television promoting awareness of automotive maintenance, and has given seminars at recent automotive job-fair events.

In the future, Davis plans to continue providing excellent and convenient auto repair service to his community.

Davis Auto Care is located at 807 Doheny Drive in Northville (in the Northville Industrial Park) right off of East Main Street (Northville Road).

Office hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. There is also a Night Owl Drop Box for leaving cars at the customer's convenience.



The Oil Depot's new tire machine uses a touchless suspension system to avoid rim damage.

Papa Romano's

(248) 347-9696

Pizza is the favorite dish of many Americans, and few restaurants do it better than Papa Romano's.

John Grimm, operator of the Northville Papa Romano's said his restaurant is dedicated to carrying on the Papa Romano's tradition by offering quality food at a reasonable price.

The restaurant offers a full service menu, including not only pizza but pasta, subs, salads, chicken and ribs. Customers can also check out the great "Papa"Tizers at Papa Romano's, which include their delicious steak fries and famous Bambino Bread (both of which are included in all chicken and rib dinners). Cheese-loving diners might enjoy Papa Romano's "Three Cheese" Bread, smothered with Mozzarella, Feta and Parmesan cheeses. The restaurant also offers a seasonal soup of the day.

Grimm said their wide variety of entrees and appetizers is what helps set Papa Romano's apart from other pizza eateries in the area. "Not too many pizza places have chicken and ribs," he said.

In addition to being kind to your tummy, Papa Romano's is easy on the wallet. The restaurant has daily specials, and customers get a free pizza if they get a green gumball from the gumball machine. Coupons are also available.

Papa Romano's specializes in both pick-up and delivery, as well as limited in-house dining. Grimm said the restaurant also provides full catering for any event, regardless of size.

In addition to Grimm and manager Sue Mack, the team at Papa Romano's includes Cameron Grahl, a marketing representative for the company. Grahl said his job is to make local businesses aware of the advantages of having Papa Romano's cater meetings.

"As a pizza business in Northville, there's a lot of competition," Grahl said. "I'm here to let people know what we have to offer."

Papa Romano's of Northville is open 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. For more information, or to place an order, call Papa Romano's of Northville at (248) 347-9696.

While exploring enthusiasts everywhere are hiking to Bueter's Outdoors to fish for top quality outdoor gear, brides and grooms-to-be are also headed there for alterations on their wedding attire.

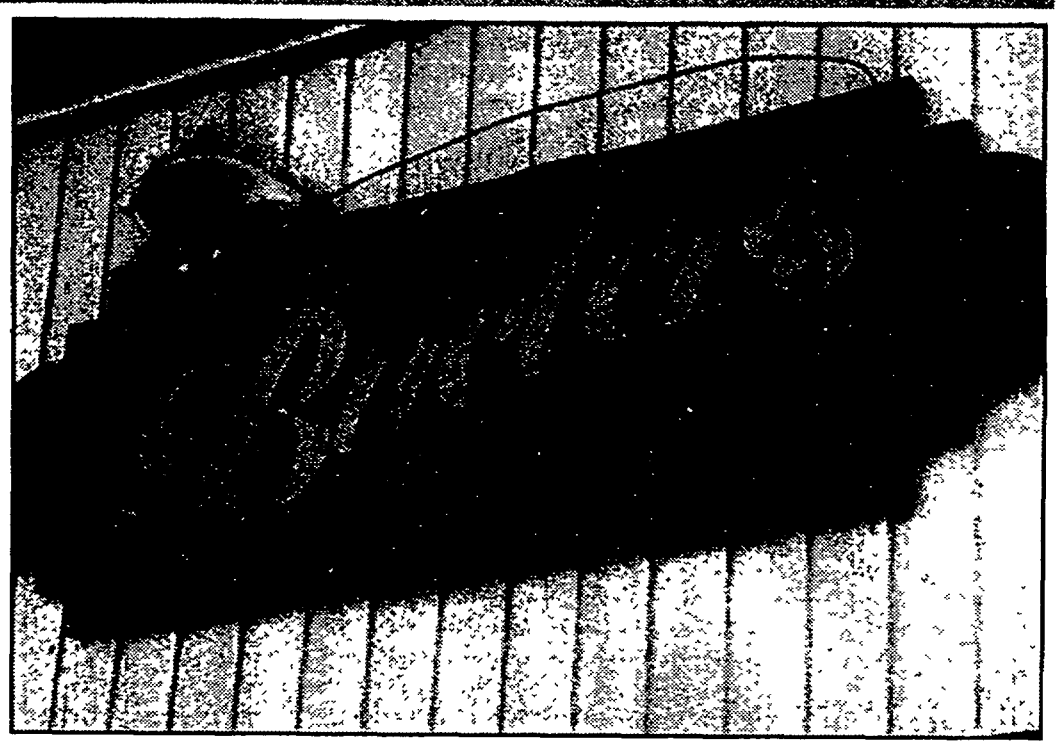
Bueter's takes pride in being a jack-of-many trades. Not only do John and Terry Bueter operate the largest fly-tying department in Southern Michigan, their store also specializes in men's and women's full tailoring.

Bueter's offers fly fishing, tying and casting lessons. On staff are four fly-fishing instructors and three fly-tying instructors. The store carries a complete selection of on-water equipment and outdoor wear. Bueter's also has an extensive nature library.

"Being an independent store allows us the ability to bring to market what we feel is the absolute best product for the job," said co-owner and founder John Bueter, an avid outdoorsman all his life.

Both Terry's heritage and John's passion for the outdoors are interwoven into the history of Bueter's Outdoors. He and his wife Terry established the store two years ago.

Terry, John and their children, Jennifer (15), Brandon (14), and Brett (11), are the fourth generation to operate the business, which originally began as a dry goods and millinery shop in 1910. Since the store's debut 87 years ago, it has been in continuous operation by Terry's relatives, the Ponsfords and the Laphams.



John Bueter enjoys talking fish as he assists his customers.

"It's a quirky union, a tailor shop and and a fly fishing shop, but it works. There's a solid demand for both," said John.

The Bueters have added fly-fishing trips to their store's attractions. Whether you want a weekend adventure or a month-long get-away, Bueter's has something in store for you. Currently, weekend destinations to choose from include Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Montana, or even Canada. New Zealand or Europe are great locales to venture to for longer trips.

In the near future, John intends to explore the areas of up-land hunting, featuring the beautiful and famous upland shotguns and mountain rifles, both of which can be collectors items.

Bueter's gathers customers from as far as Toledo, Chicago and the Canadian Soo. The community response to Bueter's has been excellent. "We are tickled to death to be here," said John, "and I think the community likes us being here, too."

Bueter's Outdoors can be reached at 120 E. Main St., Northville, or by calling (248) 349-3677.

Town & Country Eyecare

(248) 347-7800

Clear vision allows us to enjoy the world around us, and it is the goal of Dr. Tim Kirk, O.D., to improve the quality of life of his patients with the finest eye care available.

"Our main focus in the office is the quality of care that we deliver," said Dr. Kirk.

From the accuracy of the prescription to the quality control of frames and lenses, Dr. Kirk makes sure each patient is getting personal health care. He gives complete eye exams to detect focusing problems and rule out eye diseases and also gives treatment for infections and minor eye injuries, with an emphasis on preventive eye care.

"Dr. Kirk does a very thorough exam," said Jennifer Guck, optometric assistant. "You're not just in and out. He spends a lot of time with his patients."

Christy Krall, optometry intern, added, "He's the kind of doctor that's going to take the time if you've got questions. ... He's very in tuned to patients and their needs."

With an inventory of about 500 high-quality, fashion frames, Dr. Kirk and his staff will help you find a pair that looks good and fits properly. They are so confident of their glasses' quality that they stand behind them with an exclusinve 2-year warranty. They are also skilled in fitting contact lenses to meet your needs, including bifocal contacts, and offer a free contact lens trial and guaranteed success program.

Dr. Kirk has been involved in refractive surgery in Canada for the past four years, and since it was approved in the U.S. two years ago, he has been offering excimer laser refractive surgery as an option for qualified patients.

Refractive surgery has been used to successfully correct nearsightedness and astigmatism and is starting to be used on farsightedness as well.

Among low prescription range patients, Dr. Kirk said there is a 95 percent success ratio of enhancing vision enough for patients to pass a driving exam without corrective lenses.

Dr. Tim Kirk, O.D. peers closely into the eyes of a patient.

Dr. Kirk provides co-management, preoperative consultation and post-operative care for refractive surgery in his Novi office, so patients choosing this option only have to leave the area to have the actual surgery at a select center.

Dr. Kirk said of the seven patients who had refractive surgery under his care in the last year, all are doing well.

Community involvement is important to Dr. Kirk, a resident of Novi. "We have benefited by the support of the community, and we want to give our support back to them," he said.

Dr. Kirk helped raise funds for the Northville playscape, which he personally helped build. He also helps sponsor the safety town for the Northville kindergartners and has been involved with Partnerships for Education with Novi and Northville schools, personally visiting 34 classes to talk to students about routine eye care and eye safety.

Dr. Kirk informs students about the importance of having eye exams and teaches them to look for symptoms of struggling vision, such as headaches, squinting, distant blurriness and trouble reading.

He also teaches children safety including carrying scissors properly and protecting eyes from UV light with quality sunglasses.

Town & Country Eyecare, located at 22112 Novi Road in the Oakpointe Plaza, has early morning, evening and Saturday appointments available. The office can be reached by calling 347-7800.

Timber Creek Restaurant

(248) 449-6770

Cyndi and Genesio Mascuili serve a variety of seafood, pasta and exotic game at the Timber Creek Restaurant.

Venison and elk — oh my!

That's what customers are likely to say after glancing at the menu at the Timber Creek Restaurant. The Northville eatery offers a variety of exotic game dishes, from their 12-ounce Elk Steak, char-grilled and served over sweet mashed potatoes with vegetables, to their Hunters Dream, a combination of venison and quail served with wild rice, potato pancakes, ratatouille and a red wine sauce.

Genesio Mascuili, who co-owns the restaurant with his wife Cyndi, said he plans to add even more delicious wild game dishes to the menu, at the request of their customers.

"They wanted to see more duck and pheasant on the menu," Mascuili explained.

The restaurant is designed to look like an old-fashioned hunting lodge or cabin, with a brick fireplace and trophies on the walls. But don't let the rustic motif fool you — the exquisite menu at Timber Creek is not limited to wild game. The restaurant also serves many seafood and pasta dishes, as well as beef steaks. Mascuili said the restaurant has also added a T-Bone and filet to the dinner menu, and more sandwiches to the lunch menu.

Timber Creek just celebrated its one-year anniversary in July, and the Mascuilis want to thank customers for making the business a success.

Timber Creek, 18730 Northville Road, is open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday. Mascuili advises calling ahead for reservations at (248) 449-6770. Proper attire (no cutoffs, sleeveless shirts, etc.) is required after 5 p.m. Timber Creek's new menu starts on the first on September.

All Star Gymnastics

(248) 380-5330

Every child is a star.

At All Star Gymnastics, children learn to shine through teamwork, discipline and personal achievement — lessons they will carry with them through adulthood.

All Star Gymnastics is owned and directed by Gina Blazo, a longtime gymnastics coach. She founded All Star Gymnastics in November of 1995. She wanted to open a place where all children would be given the opportunity to experience the thrill of gymnastics in a fun and safe environment.

"We try to help all kids feel good about what they learn and what they do while promoting general fitness," said Gina.

Her venture has been widely accepted by the community, with an enrollment last fall of 750 students. Parents seem overjoyed to have a place where their children can explore their natural physical abilities of strength, flexibility, coordination and balance while learning lessons to carry with them for a lifetime. Children enjoy having a place to have fun and make new friends.

"It teaches kids ... teamwork, discipline, focus, camaraderie, the value of hard work; all these things come from being a gymnast," Gina said.

The staff of All Star Gymnastics is fully capable of giving students the appropriate training at the appropriate levels. Gina has 17 years of experience as a successful competitor, coach and USGF judge. She is certified with USA gymnastics in safety, and accredited at the highest level as a coach.

Additional coaching staff consists of experienced gymnasts and judges, including three past internationally competitive gymnasts. Recent additions to the staff include Olga and Vassili Mokhov, who have coached many Olympic gymnasts and served as head coaches of the Russian national gymnastics team for nine years.

The professional and knowledgeable coaching staff help students achieve higher levels of excellence in an enriching environment.

All Star Gymnastics has programs that suit every child from any age or skill level, including their own competitive team for advanced gymnasts, the Rising Stars Gymnastics Team, which has placed in top five rankings in state competitions.

Gina's extensive dance background prompted her to open a dance studio inside the gym, offering ballet and dance classes designed for gymnasts. Classes in tumbling and cheerleading are also available.

All Star's gymnasium is unmatched in both equipment and design. The 8000 sq. ft. gymnasium features all the latest in Olympic regulation equipment, including a full 42' x 42' spring floor, three sets of uneven bars, seven balance beams, two in-ground loose foam and resi-pits, an in-ground tumbling trampoline, boys equipment and a separate preschool area. Sunnyday Barbecue Inc.

(248) 449-8062

Charbroiled Burgers. Hot dogs with sauerkraut. Meaty spareribs smothered in Barbecue Sauce.

For many, these are the tastes of summer. And what better way to create these delicious treats than with a new grill from Sunnyday Barbecue Inc., 543 Seven Mile Rd., in Northville.

The store, owned and operated by Canton resident John Cullen, is in its second season. Cullen opened the store in April in 1996, after being downsized out of a position as a field engineer at IBM. The decision has paid off, and Sunnyday Barbecue, the only store of its kind in Northville has been a great success.

The store carries a variety of commercial and residential coal and natural/propane grills, rotisseries, pig roasters, towable grill — to name just a few. Grills are made with stainless steel, and guaranteed not to rust. Models are available in all the popular brand names, including Ironworks, Dynamic Cooking Systems and Lazyman.

Cullen also provides rental, delivery and pick-up of a wide array of grills and pig roasters, along with a 30 pound propane tank and a barbecue tool set.

Custom built grills — free-standing or built-in — are available as well. Grill can be constructed to fit nearly any yard, patio, pool side, gazebo or any other location of choice. The custom-made grills are made of stainless steel, like the rest of the grills at Sunnyday, and would-be cook-out artists can choose from a variety of options, including single or dual side burners.

Cullen's knowledge of building grills often leads to fascinating and highly useful new products. His latest innovation? The Beer-B-Cue — a combination portable outdoor grill and draft beer dispenser. Built by Ironworks, the Beer-B-Cue comes with either a quarter- or half-keg insulated cooler, and has been available since early June. But already, the Beer-B-Cue has made such a smash that it was recently written up in Homestyle Magazine.

The store is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, contact Sunnyday Barbecue at (810) 449-8062.

Dan Novelly carefully kneads the dough by hand to ensure a great loaf.

Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation keeps growing to offer better service to their patients.

They recently moved to a new location at 215 E. Main St. , which provides larger facilities that are better suited for their work.

They are now affiliated with Novacare, a national rehabilitation corporation, which allows them to provide enhanced services and products. They will soon be changing their name to Novacare to reflect their affiliation, although it will still be the same people providing the same quality care.

Northville Physical Therapy is a certified outpatient facility offering full-service physical, occupational and and speech-language pathology services. The clinic treats patients of all ages and injuries, providing personalized care to address individual treatment goals, such as reducing pain, increasing muscle strength and endurance, improving functional ability and upgrading communication skills.

The staff can provide local treatment equal to or better than larger hospital-based programs. "We have the latest treatment equipment," said Dennis Engerer, P.T., "but we don't substitute that for personal, human, one-on-one care."

Since the physical therapists and physical therapy technicians work with patients over an extended period of time, they are able to become involved with patients. "You get to know them, their job, their family," Dennis said. "You see the totality of the patient."

They work with patients in the office, in their homes or in assisted living facilities and provide local transportation if necessary.

They encourage family members to get involved in patients' treatments and they stay in close contact with referring doctors.

Northville Physical Therapy has a staff of three physical therapists, three physical therapy assistants and four physical therapy technicians, as well a speech therapist and an occupational therapist. The fully licensed, professional staff provides individual, friendly care.

It is a certified Medicare and Blue Cross rehabilitation agency and welcomes all other insurance plans.

Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation is open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday to provide flexible scheduling for patients.

Downing Farms Golf Course

(248) 486-0990

They say the family that plays together, stays together. That saying has certainly proved true for the Downing family.

Their love of golf inspired the family (which includes Mary Lou Downing, her sons, Chuck and Jim, and her brother Charlie) to build the Downing Farms Golf Course in September of 1992.

Five years later, their dream is still growing. Downing Farms recently expanded from a nine-hole course to an 18-hole course. Mary Lou Downing said response to the enlarged course has been terrific.

"Our business has doubled," she said. "Everybody loves it."

The course has a truly unique, old-fashioned design, from the beautifully designed holes to the passageway that runs under a set of railroad tracks. Mary Lou likened the course's atmosphere to that of a golf course up north.

"It's really private," she said of Downing Farms. "There's not a lot of houses build around it. It's all woods. Certain fairways are lined with woods."

Her son Chuck, whom Mary Lou said "really got the ball rolling" on building the course, calls Downing Farms "an affordable public course — one that's not too long or too tough. It's got all the features of a championship course."

But Downing Farms is more than just a great place to golf — it's also a great place to eat. Their clubhouse, which opened for business in April, offers a wide variety of traditional American cuisine, including buffalo wings, and burgers.

"People who don't golf usually don't there's also a place to eat here that's open to the public," said restaurant manager Mike Heslop.

He said the restaurant's signature offering is their Big Bertha burger, which consists of a half pound of choice ground beef served with lettuce, tomato and onion.

The restaurant also has a fish fry every Friday, which lasts all day.

Downing Farms Golf Course is open 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 6:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekends.

Call (248) 486-0990 for tee reservations or for more information on league time available for 1998.

Community Federal Credit Union

(248) 348-2920

"To serve all community members with competitively-priced, efficiently-delivered financial services." That's the mission statement at Community Federal Credit Union, and it's a statement that's pursued vigorously.

Generally, credit unions provide higher dividend rates on checking and savings accounts and offer lower interest rates on loans. In addition, they charge fewer service fees than banks. Yet, Community Federal offers all the services you'd expect from a bank. For example, in the past two years, the credit union has enhanced its home equity credit line product and has upgraded customer service by offering members a convenient Loan-by-Phone program that can be accessed 24 hours a day.

Community Federal Credit Union is a non-profit, full-service financial institution owned and governed by its community members. In the past 45 years, the credit union has grown from a one room office with 250 members to seven offices with over 27,000 members and more than $150 million in assets.

Today, Community Federal is the 12th largest credit union in the Metropolitan Detroit area, according to results listed in Crain's Detroit Business' 1996 book. It operates local offices in Plymouth, Canton and Northville. Community Federal's first Northville office opened in 1977. In 1990, the office was relocated to 400 E. Main St. and now offers ATM and drive-thru services.

Other services include savings accounts, checking accounts, 24-hour ATM access, direct dial 24-hour telephone banking, direct deposit and a large variety of consumer loans, including home mortgages. Community Federal Credit Union has even taken a stake in the information superhighway. Those who access the page at http://www.cfcu.org can apply for loans over the Internet.

Community Federal Credit Union also plays an active role in educating young students on fiscal matters. Community Federal helped open a student credit union in conjunction with the Partnerships for Education program at Amerman Elementary School. The project educates approximately 150 third, fourth and fifth graders by teaching money-saving skills. "The best way [to learn] is through repetition," said Northville branch manager Mike Haggerty. This year, 32 Fifth graders were hired as computer operators, bank managers, tellers and marketing specialists. All students who open accounts get account numbers and receive dividends which are recorded in monthly statements. Mike said students set goals for savings and try to meet them by the end of the program. He added that along with financial lessons, working students "are learning a life skill as well, which is how to treat people in a business situation." These situations include submitting a job application and being interviewed and selected for bank positions. Community Federal also displays drawings and paintings by Amerman students.

Mike said people sometimes have misconceptions about credit unions and are unsure if they are eligible for membership. Community Federal Credit Union is easy to join and welcomes clients with all levels of income. Anyone who lives or works in the community may open an account. The credit union can be reached by calling (810) 348-2920.

Orin Jewelers

(248) 349-6940

The jewelry business has been a way of life in the Mazzoni family for more than 64 years. The first Orin Jewelers was opened by Orin Mazzoni, Sr. in 1933. A watchmaker and jeweler by trade, Orin Sr. devoted his younger years to building his reputation as a fine craftsman dedicated to quality work and service at a fair price.

In the early years, the Mazzoni children grew up in an apartment above the Garden City store, which became a natural playground where they learned the jewelry business from the ground up.

By 1969, Orin Jr. was ready to run the family business. With new ideas and the same dedication to fine quality and service that had become a family tradition, a new era began. With the help of his sisters, Joyce and Carolyn, and brother, Michael, a constant upgrading of quality and service continued.

In 1983, Orin Jewelers opened a store on the corner of Main and Center streets in downtown Northville. A major expansion of the showroom in Northville took place in 1994.

"Your family diamond store where fine quality and service are affordable," is the mission statement of Orin Jewelers.

"We are a REAL 'customer-oriented' store. Quality, personal service and customer satisfaction are what we are all about," say Orin Mazzoni, Jr., President and owner of Orin Jewelers. "It is very important that our customers understand the quality of the jewelry that they're buying because of today's purchase is tomorrow's heirloom."

A strong part of Orin Jewelers' business is their custom-design capabilities. Orin's has their own design and repair shop (at their Garden City store) that can create a finished piece of jewelry from a customer's drawing or ideas or make modifications to an existing piece of jewelry to make it a more personal item for the customer.

"A lot of times when customers are shopping at jewelry stores, they must choose between taking an item just the way it is in the showcase or not buy it at all," says Mazzoni. "But we realize the everyone has different tastes and styles of jewelry that they like. Frequently, we make modifications to a piece of jewelry — changing to a different gemstone or metal composition, for example — to acheive the style and appearance the customer is looking for."

Orin and his brother Michael travel to all major jewelry shows to find independent designers to offer his customers unique and one-of-a-kind pieces they won't find anywhere else, as well with creating a lot of their own designs. Along with the major cutters of the most beautiful diamonds at best prices, Orin travels to Antwerp, Belgium to pick from the world's greatest supply of the most beautiful diamonds at the best prices.

Orin Mazzoni, Owner

Special events promoting color gemstones, gold jewelry, estate jewelry and an in-store "silent auction" (taking place this month) are all part of Orin Jewelers' calendar, making it easier for customers to tailor their jewelry collections to their liking.

Orin Jewelers also has a highly trained, professional staff to assist you in your diamond purchasing. Orin Jr. graduated from the Gemological Institute of America He is a certified gemologist with the American Gem Society, a profession society of fine jewelers throughout the United States and Canada which promote a high standard of business ethics and continued education among jewelers. In order to maintain his title, Orin must pass a rigorous exam every year. There are only about 30 to 35 certified gemologists in the state. This continued education keeps Orin on top of new innovations. It also allows him to be more precise and exact in the diamond grading process than a jeweler who is not certified.

Orin personally guarantees that any diamond you buy is guaranteed to be the quality stated on your sales receipt and appraisal.

Orin Jewelers' professionally trained staff anxiously awaits your visit so they may have the opportunity to show you some of the most beautiful and unique jewelry you'll ever see.

Orin Jewelers is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, 10 a.m. 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. For more information, please call (810) 349-6940.

Northville Camera & Pictures Plus Gallery

Jennifer Helner, Bill Richardson, Carol Groves and Rollen Williams are the professional staffers of Northville Camera/Pictures Plus Gallery.

As their motto says, " Pictures are our business."

Bill Richardson became the owner 17 years ago , and ten years ago he expanded the camera shop into an art gallery and offered custom framing. One side of the store is Northville Camera, and the other side is Pictures Plus Gallery. The two concepts blend together nicely.

Judy's Curtains & Decorating Shoppe

Judy Gulian likes to help her customers make sense out of home fashions.

With two Judy's leading the creative path to fashionable gifts and items for the home, Judy's Curtains inspires the interior decorator in all of us. Judy Bradley and Judy Gulian ventured into store ownership during 1983 when they opened the curtain shoppe in the basement of Green's Wallpaper. When the wallpaper store performed its final curtain call, Judy and Judy moved their store upstairs. Judy's Curtains & Decorating Shoppe has since found a home at 105 N. Center, still in the charming downtown quarters of Northville.

"We used to make our own curtains," said Judy G. "This [shoppe] is something we both really wanted to do."

The walls of the shop are lined with knick-knacks and other fun decorations. Every corner beholds another endearing treasure to enhance the beauty of your home.

Judy's Curtains specializes in curtains, of course, and wallpaper. In fact, there are over 1500 books on hand to help with your decorating decisions, including a wide selection of Schumacher, Robert Allen and Waverly designs.

Linda Hyman and Julie Toth are part-time employees at the shoppe and love to lend their decorating expertise to customers, whether it's on curtains, wallpaper or styling techniques.

Judy's Curtains is proud to offer its customers custom work.

"Our shoppe really has a comfortable feel to it," Judy Bradley said. "We have really high-quality items."

Judy's Curtains & Decorating Shoppe is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. For more information call (248) 348-3520.

Help-U-Sell

(248) 348-6006

Whether you are buying or selling a home, Help-U-Sell of Northville offers specialized and individual services to handle your real estate transaction professionally.

Established six years ago by owner/broker Jim Perkins and his wife Sue, Help-U-Sell provides a menu of services to allow the homeowner to participate in the sale of his or her home. The Northville agency, located in a historical home at 209 S. Center St., assists the client in all phases of the sale from qualifying buyers to contract negotiation. The real estate counselors, who do not charge up-front fees, follow through on all aspects until the deal is closed.

"We can operate just like everybody else or we can give the option to participate and to save money," said Jim. "We help you sell your home, townhouse or condominium with major savings to the homeowner. As licensed professionals, we provide the alternative to home sales and purchases with our menu of services and homeowner participation — the potential savings are great."

Counselors at Help-U-Sell can market a home for a buyer or seller. The marketing system is distinctively designed for each home and allows the homeowner to actively participate in a partnership.

Furthermore, Help-U-Sell will place any home in a multiple listing service upon client request.

"You could almost call us Help-U-Buy because our marketing system brings us a phenomenal amount of buyers," Jim said.

The agencies eight experienced counselors — Tim Walker, Linda Linder, Patti Jensen, Maria Worden, Sue Perkins, Brenda Molnar, Kellie Preston and Tonya Brannon — sit down with each person individually and explain the marketing and selling process. All of Help-U-Sell's counselors are licensed with the State of Michigan and are fully trained to help both buyers and sellers in all phases of home purchasing.

Help-U-Sell associates know that buying or selling a home is an emotional thing and help in every way to assist you through the process.

Jim has been a broker since 1983 and has over 20 years experience in his field. He also is a licensed real estate appraiser and certified buyers agent.

Established more than two decades ago, Help-U-Sell has 13 offices in the state with more planned during the next year.

The business also holds membership with the Board of Realtors (MLS), Michigan Association of Realtors and National Association of Realtors.

As for the future, Jim said the Northville-based firm hopes to open a second office in either Novi or South Lyon within the next year.

Casterline Funeral Home, Inc.

(248) 349-0611

Northville area families have had the benefit of assistance from the Casterline family in times of need for three generations.

Ray Casterline established Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. at 122 W. Dunlap in Northville in 1937. He was followed by his son, Fred, who retired in 1980. Now Ray II runs the funeral home, and has been a licensed funeral director for 28 years.

Now a fourth generation is preparing to continue the tradition of easing the burden on families while they cope with the loss of a loved one.

Two of Ray's daughters are studying mortuary science and will be joining their father in the business within the next couple years. Courtney Ross is studying at Wayne State University and Lindsey Casterline is in her third year at Bowling Green.

Building on their formal educations, Courtney and Lindsey will also be able to draw on their father's experience in the business.

"I enjoy working with people and helping people through what may be the most difficult times in their lives. I find that rewarding," Ray said.

Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. is experienced in taking care of the details of funeral and memorial services for families.

"It's a sensitive business where you become a good judge of people and of what approach to funeral arrangements will suit them," Ray said.

Preplanning is an option that eases the burden for many people. Ray acquired his life insurance license in order to offer preplanning with life insurance.

By this means, people can make arrangements in advance for their funeral services priced at current costs. They can then purchase a life insurance policy for that amount. The policy guarantees that the chosen arrangements will be paid for regardless of their price at the time of death.

Ray Casterline helps people during difficult times.

Casterline Funeral Home has been part of the Northville community since 1937.

"It's reassuring emotionally and financially for people to know that everything is taken care of," Ray said. "In many cases, long term health care costs have depleted a person's savings to the point where state assistance is required. The Forethought program is set up in such a way to be protected and will not effect the amount of assistance the state provides."

While funeral arrangements are basically the same today as they have always been, regulations concerning pricing have improved customer knowledge.

"People are much more aware of the variety of services provided by a funeral director now," Ray said. "But many people didn't want to know exactly what those services were and choose among them. It's a difficult time to force decisions on people."

Ray said he has noticed a change for the better in the public's attitude toward funeral directors and their business over the last few years.

"The profession has opened up more, too, and as a result, we have quite a few young people, especially from churches, coming through the home on tours. It helps to remove the mystique associated with the profession. We answer questions and help change some of the very strange impressions young people have."

Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. has a staff of five, and like Ray, they are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, 365 days a year.

The funeral home can be reached at (248) 349-0611.

Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe

(248) 349-3411

After traveling and living on four continents, Ed Hanna decided to open up shop in Northville with his family.

Ed, originally from Iraq, and his son Tariq, own and run Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe at 680 W. Eight Mile, serving the community fine pastry and wine with a classic touch.

He said he feels connected to the people in the community, especially after the death of his wife, whom he was married to for 34 years. "They did something unbelievable for us to make things easier," Ed said. People planted flowers all around his shop, showing their care and support.

Ed and Tariq have returned that care by satisfying the sweet tooths of this "sweet community" for almost five years.

Tariq is a master chef and baker. In 1994, Metro Times cited Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe for having the best pastry and desserts in its annual Best of Detroit Awards. The Northville Business Showcase also awarded them Best of Show two years in a row.

Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe offers catering for all occasions from birthdays and weddings to office parties. Fresh prepared salads and pastas, incredible pastries, cakes and tarts and a variety of other dishes can be arranged to fit any budget. Some favorites are lemon bars, canolli and fruit tarts.

Tariq personally handles all catering orders to make sure everything comes out perfectly.

Ed Hanna stocks a wide variety of wines from around the world.

Tariq Hanna puts a personal touch into every fine pastry he creates.

Ed stocks foreign and domestic wines and beers. Michigan and California chardonneys and cabarnets, Portuguese Port, Rosemount Estate vintages from Australia and Chianti from Italy, as well as French champagne, decorate the shelves and genuine German beer is frosting in the cooler.

For more daring people, Ed also carries Dave's Insanity Sauce, a sauce so hot, Ed requires people to sign a waiver before he'll let them buy it. The waver says Northville Gourmet & Wine is "not responsible for incidents that may occur as a result of the using this sauce" and recommends that people have plenty of chocolate milk on hand.

They also stock a variety of party supplies, including other sauces and dips, chips, cheeses, crackers, ice cream, plates, cups and napkins.

Northville Wine & Gourmet plans to increase their variety of wines, beers and baked goods to offer more temptation for taste buds.

Northville Wine & Gourmet Shoppe, located at 680 W. Eight Mile, is open seven days a week. For the finest catering and pastries in town, call 349-5611 or just stop in at lunch time.

McDonald Ford

(248) 349-1400

If you want a quality dealership for all your automotive needs — at McDonald Ford, "It's a done deal!"

At McDonald Ford, none of the salespeople have desks. But don't feel sorry for them. They have abandoned their desks in order to talk with customers sitting at a round table, so it feels more like sitting around the kitchen table.

General Manager Dave Rekuc emphasizes that McDonald Ford does not believe in high pressure selling tactics.

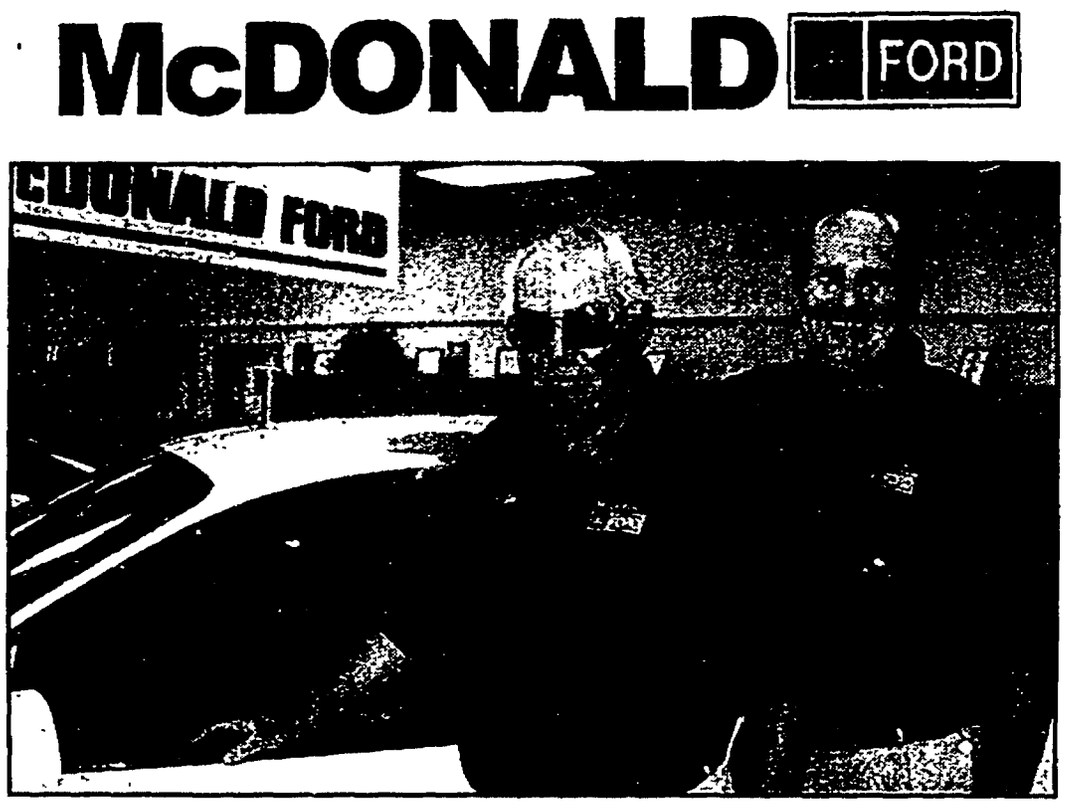
"We want to be able to look you in the eye when we are with our families and run into you at the grocery store, or at the baseball diamond, and not worry that you had a negative experience at our dealership," he said.

This concept of fairness and integrity has been the McDonald Ford hallmark for 15 years, ever since T.J. McDonald opened the dealership at 550 W. Seven Mile in Northville. He has been a Ford dealer for the past 29 years. When he saw an opportunity to acquire a dealership in Northville, he took it. Since that time, he has expanded the business to include many impressive people, departments and services.

McDonald, who started out as a used car dealer in the '50s and '60s, is now chairman of the board; Ron Bleckmann is president of McDonald Ford. Bleckmann worked as the advertising director for Ford Dealer Advertising for more than 20 years before becoming president of McDonald Ford in January of 1995. Rekuc has been with the company for 12 years.

McDonald Ford is happy to be a part of a supportive Northville community. Rekuc says, "Our employees are very active in the community or surrounding areas." The staff is active in sports programs and churches in town, and Rekuc himself is the past president of the Northville Rotary Club. Because of their close ties with the community, McDonald strives for friendly, dependable service.

The majority of the sales staff has been with the dealership five years or longer, which shows its dedication to the company. "We don't believe in hiring people who will be there to take your money today, but won't be here for you down the road," Rekuc said.



T.J. McDonald and Ron Bleckmann are proud of the new Ford lineup.

The showroom, where you will always receive a warm welcome, was remodeled in the spring of 1994 at a cost of almost $1 million. They "freshened up the exterior, brightened up the interior and tried to make it more customer friendly."

McDonald Ford is made up of six large departments — new cars, used cars, parts & service, heavy trucks, and automobile rental.

The dealership carries a full line of Ford automobiles. They have approximately 500 cars on the lot at a time, and carry everything from Escorts to big trucks, new and used.

McDonald Ford recently signed a lease to take over the old (Newsprinting building) at 560 S. Main St. in downtown and is in the process of getting city approval to turn it into a commercial truck showroom and add service capacity.

Everyone at the dealership is very excited about the new Ford lineup. "They're beautiful state-of-the-art vehicles," Bleckmann said. McDonald has earned Ford's "Distinguished Dealer Award" for 28 of his 29 years in business.

Only about 10 awards, which recognize dealerships for their customer service satisfaction, are handed out in each state every year.

During the summer of 1995 the "McDonald Ford preferred Customer Plan", unique to McDonald Ford, was introduced. When a customer buys a new car from McDonald Ford, they receive a card identifying them as a preferred customer. This gets them priority scheduling in the service department, certifies them for free loaner cars while their vehicle is being serviced and earns them a service discount valued at over $500. Bleckmann says the program has been a tremendous success.

McDonald Rentals is one of the largest independent rental car companies in the country. They rent Ford, Lincoln and Mercury vehicles, from Escorts up to over-the-road tractors. They have locations in Northville, Taylor, Detroit and Grosse Pointe. Their rental slogan is "McDonald Rentals — cars, trucks, and vans — we have them all", and they do. "Whether you want a luxury car for a special occasion, or a van for your large-group vacation, we try to live up to our slogan," Rekuc says.

The service department is a key aspect of the dealership. McDonald Ford offers a "quick lube" oil change. They use only factory approved, first rate oil and filters, the price is competitive, and it takes 29 minutes. The service department also has a Service Bay Diagnostic System, a computer that plugs into the car's computer to help identify problem areas. McDonald Ford services all Ford and Lincoln vehicles.

"When your car is in our service department, 90 percent of the time, if it is in by 9 a.m., we can get it out that day," says Rekuc.

The Body shop has a state-of-the-art, down-draft paint booth. It is large enough to paint two cars or a tractor and a trailer at the same time. McDonald Ford custom blends paint to get a good match on evry vehicle. They also repair car and heavy truck bodies, from anything as minor as a burned out light bulb to anything as major as a complete diesel engine rebuild.

McDonald Ford is able to work on all heavy truck engines. "Not a lot of dealers can work on those, where we can," says Rekuc.

The showroom is open 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday and Thursday, 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday. The service department is open from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Monday, and 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Rental hours are 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday. The Body Shop and Truck Center is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday For more information call (248) 349-1400.

Remember — if you want a quality dealership for all your automotive needs — at McDonald Ford, "It's a done deal!"

Mechanics at McDonald Ford can repair any size truck.

MONTGOMERY WARD GUARANTEED PRICE PROTECTION

We'll match any store's current advertised price at time of your Montgomery Ward merchandise purchase! If you find a lower advertised price at any other store, within 30 days after purchase, we'll cheerfully refund the difference. Simply bring in the ad and your Montgomery Ward receipt. In Electric Avenue, Auto Express and for other specific items identified in our advertising and/or in our stores, we'll beat our competitor's price by crediting or refunding 110% of the difference—and during special events, for specified items, even greater amounts, up to 150%!

Price Matching Guarantees of 110% or more refer to our price as compared with a competitor's price, not compared with our own price at a later date. In the Electronics department, the competitor's product must have the same manufacturer's model number as our product. In other areas we will match the price on the same name brand item even if model numbers are different, if shown on our comparable model charts. On many items we will also match our private label item with our competitor's comparable name brand or private label items. Our sales associates in the Appliance department, Auto Express, Rooms & More and our Seasonal Shops have comparable model charts of matchable items. Price matching policy does not apply when an additional Bonus/Free Item is part of our purchase price, to items with special financing programs or to sales of floor samples, one-of-a-kind, damaged or clearance goods, closeouts, limited quantities, special order tires, manufacturer's rebates, services, sales by other than local stocking retailers or merchandise sold in mail order catalogs.

NO PAYMENT 'TIL FEBRUARY 1998
FINANCE CHARGES APPLY DURING THE DEFERRED PERIOD.
Offer good through August 31, 1997 on Montgomery Ward retail credit card purchases of $150 or more on all fine jewelry and made-to-measure window fashions. See APR credit details at left.
