Judge rejects motion to end suspensions

While they move only slowly most of the time the wheels of justice turned quickly for two Northville High School students who filed a lawsuit against the school district last week.

District officials suspended the teens for 10 days and booted both off the soccer team after they allegedly were caught with beer in their vehicle on the afternoon of Sept. 17. On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 23, just five days after the seniors asked a Wayne County Circuit Court judge to overturn that decision, they got their answer.

It was no. Whether the lawsuit - which alleges defamation of character. gross negligence and violation of the Michigan constitution for damages of more than $10,000 - will continue despite Judge Kaye Terzag's denial of the students' request remains to be seen.

Terzag denied a request brought by the seniors' attorney for a judicial preliminary injunction and restraining order which would have reinstated both students in school and back on the team immediately pending a hearing on the rest of the charges.

Sam Nardicchto Jr., the lawyer representing the plaintiffs in the case, said he was speaking for both of his clients when he refused to comment on the reasons they fled the suit.

'My clients don't want any more publicity. That's not why they did this," Nardicchio said.

He also wouldn't comment on whether the suit would be pur-

What got them into trouble

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

The incidents leading to the suspension of three Northville High School students took place after a half day of school last week, specifically on Wednesday, Sept. 17. What follows is an account of events according to Northville City police department reports:

Parking lot attendant Anna Gulledge approached a vehicle that was stopped in an aisle of the lot blocking traffic. Gulledge said as she neared the vehicle, she allegedly heard a male voice say Get out of here, there's beer in the car."

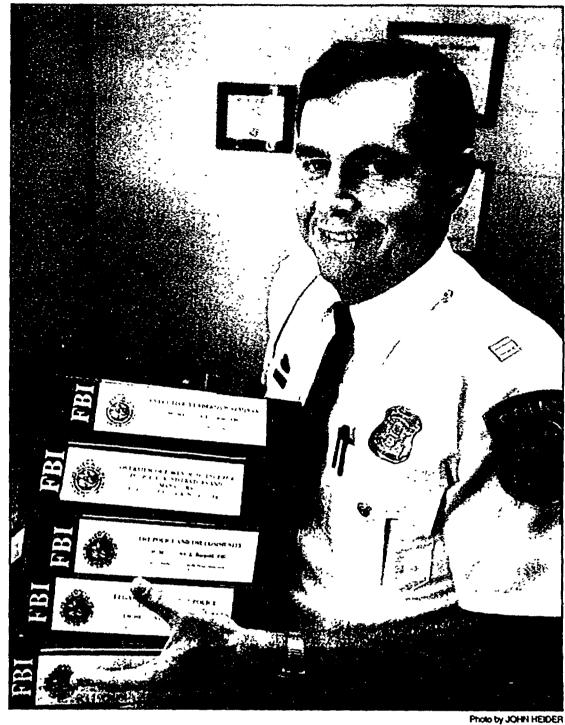

The pickup then drove to the far north side of the student lot

Residents may see more of Police Captain James "Pete" Petres on Northville's city streets thanks to management techniques he learned at an eleven-week training session at the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Virginia.

Petres said he had to delegate all of his duties while he was at the Academy, located about 40 miles outside of Washington D.C. Since he's been back he's kept it that way.

Now I have a chance to get out more and keep a better eye on what's going on instead of being buried in paperwork." Petres said.

The paperwork's added up during his 25 years of service with the Northville Police Department, Petres said. Today he stands as second in com-mand under Chief Rod Canon. who's set to retire in January.

Cannon chose Petres to attend the academy because he's in upper level management.

He's a fine officer with a strong academic background." said Cannon. 'In any job you sort of get rusty over the years. It gives you a chance to get some new ideas and put them in place.

The prestigious academy, known as the West Point of Law Enforcement," is designed to offer advanced investigative, management and fitness training for selected officers who have a proven professional record within their agency.

Township, schools settle on DARE

By RANDY COBLE

it's been a long time coming but DARE is coming to Northville's public schools starting next month.

A debate over the anti-drug education program that's gone on off and on for years between officials from Northville Township and the school district ended Monday night.

Starting Oct. 14 DARE (which stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education) classes will be offered on a voluntary afterschool basis for fifth and sixth graders at two schools: Silver Springs Elementary and Meads Mill Middle School.

"It's going to be great," said Matt Mayes, the township police officer who's going to teach the classes. "We haven't solved the drug problem here in the Northville community and this is another way we can fight that."

DARE aims to teach adolescents about the dangers of drugs and violence at a time in their lives when they're fist starting to become exposed to them. Mayes has been teaching the 17-week program in private schools in Northville for the last four years.

A hefty state grant and talks between township and district officials have brought him into the public school classrooms for the first time.

Northville Township's police department first offered DARE in 1993 but could only afford to have Mayes teach the program part-time. Most of his working hours were spent in a patrol car.

Then lightning struck earlier this month. Township officials received word from the Michigan Office of Drug Control Policy that they'd received a $36,000 oneyear grant to pay the cost of making Mayes a full-time DARE officer for the next 12 months.

But Lightfoot himself said he didn't seel a day over 37 as he enjoyed the birthday party his students threw for him.

This is a total surprise, said Lightfoot. I knew my wife had something up, but I thought it would be this morning in the lounge."

Instead, his students decorated their classroom with streamers. signs and balloons, with the help of the room mothers who also chipped in on pizza and pop for the celebration.

When Lightfoot returned from lunch, he was greeted by the sound of about 30 kids blowing horns and singing "Happy Birthday.

I liked how he walked in and then tried to walk back out," said Tessa Adkins, 10. This is fun because I got to do the streamers and balloons.

"I like Mr. Lightfoot because he makes everything fun," said Johnathan Gress, 10. "And I like turning everything in the room

Brookside Hardware suffered almost $1,000 in damages during a break-in on Sept. 19 but according to the owner nothing was missing.

That's odd considering the fact that silver bars, coins and antique and foreign currency were spilling out of a floor safe that had been pried open when he arrived at that

The owner, however, confirmed that his collection was all there, according to police.

An officer was patrolling the area around Brookside when they noticed a door standing open. The officer turned his lights off, called for backup and approached the building.

Outside, a yellow telephone line junction box was pried open and a number of wires were cut.

Upon entering the building after back-up arrived, the officer found the door to the office had been broken open.

Inside, the office desk and file cabinet drawers were standing open and papers were scattered rant out for his arrest.

In the main retail area of the hardware store a glass door pane was smashed and a small rock sat nearby.

The register's cash drawer was on the floor, empty except for the change left inside. A small metal file box was also pried open.

But the owner had stashed the money in pouches which he found intact. No merchandise appeared to be missing from the store, according to police.

A Livonia K-9 officer was called to the scene, but his dog Thomik didn't pick up any scents leading away from the crime scene.

There were no other break-ins in the area, police said.

Police claimed they spotted the man weaving from side to side in a red Ford Pick-up. According to police he struck the shoulder of the road and crossed the center line twice.

When he was pulled over, the driver allegedly said he was on his way home from Denny's and didn't think he had been driving badly.

Police said they detected a strong odor of alcohol coming from the vehicle, and also said the man's eyes appeared bloodshot. glassy and watery.

They put the driver through a series of field sobriety tests. They allege the following results:

• When asked to recite the alphabet, the driver got to "L" before asking to try again. The second time, he got all the way to "U." then stopped and said "I can't believe this."

 When asked to count backwards from 100 to 78, he said "100,99,98,99,90,89, Oh God."

• The man also staggered while attempting to walk a straight line and lost his balance while standing with outstretched arms.

• After 15 minutes of observation, the man consented to a breathalyzer test. He blew a .143.

At that point the man was arrested, cuffed, and searched. After allegedly sobering up in a cell at the station he was released with a $100 bond and a court date.

Undercover alcohol buyers bust 4 of 5 stores

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

An underage and undercover decoy allegedly bought alcohol without proper ID from four out of five Northville City stores during a sting operation conducted by police last week.

Arbor Drugs on Center St. was the only store that didn't sell beer to the 19-year-old on Sept. 18, according to Northville City Police.

The Arbor Drugs employee asked for ID, realized the decoy was underage and refused to sell." Detective Dave Fendelet said.

He commended the business because it also had refused to sell to a decoy in another sting operation earlier this year. Cashiers at the other four establishments were not so responsible, according to police.

They claim that an employee at Hamlet Food Mart on Novi Road sold the decoy a 6-pack of Budweiser without asking for ID as did the Northville Gourmet & Wine Shoppe on Eight Mile and the Good Time party store on Seven

A cashier in the express lane at

The Shopping Center Market on Center Street asked to see the youth's ID, police added. The decoy allegedly showed him his real driver's license, which revealed a 1973 birth date and also had the "Under Age 21" notation above the photograph.

The employee looked at the ID and sold to him anyway, according to police, who watched from a patrol car parked outside.

"We feel good our guys are doing the job of enforcing liquor laws but it's a sad commentary." Chief of Police Rod Cannon said of the liquor sales.

The volunteer decoy, a white male with glasses and a slight blond moustache, wore jeans and a maroon T-shirt on the night of the sting. He entered each store alone, went straight to the cooler to pick up a six-pack and then brought it to the counter.

He was instructed by police to offer his real driver's license if ID was requested. If an employee asked for his age, his instructions were to tell the truth or indicate that it was right there on his license.

If he was refused the sale, he was instructed not to argue or protest.

The employees of each establishment that allegedly sold beer to the decoy were ticketed on the spot for furnishing alcohol to a minor.

After that, charges were filed against each business with the Liquor Control Commission. A hearing will determine their punishments, which can range from a fine to the loss of their liquor licenses.

Recreation department asks public what facilities it wants

When it comes to public recreation, what does

Whether your answer is more baseball fields or a rollerblade rink a few hundred of us will have the chance to answer that question over the next couple of months. The responses could end up influencing next year's likely miliage vote to fund the Northville Parks & Recreation Department.

'It's a truly scientific, impartial way to find out what our community wants as far as recreation," said Traci Sincock, director of the department.

Northville's city council on Monday night approved a plan to hire a professional survey firm to conduct a telephone poll of Northville residents in coming

The survey's goal is to get a handle on what recreational opportunities the people who live here think this town should have. It will be run by telephone using trained questioners.

Running the survey will be Northville-based Barden

Kruman Associates. Sincock said she's meeting with the firm this week to work out a timetable.

Preliminary plans call for the survey to begin soon and it will be completed by Thanksgiving so figures can be tabulated by the end of December. We hope people will participate and give their honest opinions," Sincock said.

A committee of township, city, rec officials and concerned citizens will soon be formed to work out the exact survey questions. Once those are set a test survey will be conducted, then the full-blown version.

Barden Kruman earlier this year did the work on Northville Township's community census. That count showed a large enough population increase to warrant an additional $196,000 in state-shared tax revenue for this year.

According to the company's estimates the survey will see about 350-400 residents contacted. For the work Barden Kruman will be paid about $9,000.

The survey must be completed by Dec. 31, the deadline for spending the federal grant dollars paying Northville City is entitled to about $70,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds administered by Wayne County. That money, however, must be spent before the end of 1997 or the city would lose it.

The remaining money, about $61,000, will be used to buy and install 42 new window air conditioners for the Allen Terrace senior housing complex.

The results of Northville's survey could influence next year's millage election for recreation funding.

The Rec Department gets part of its operating money from a property tax millage in Northville Township that will expire at the end of 1998. City contributions, program fees and grants make up the rest.

Among recreation officials and supporters there's a debate going on over what should be done when the current millage expires. For example, should another millage be asked for?

If so should it be low, just enough to keep rec programs operating at their current levels? Or should it be higher, perhaps much higher, to fund a major

Possibilities that have been bounced around include everything from new lands for soccer and baseball fields to a community center building to a rollerblading track.

No decision on a miliage or uses for the money it would raise have been made yet.

Surveys are increasingly becoming a useful tool for gauging public opinion about recreation. A recent survey of Plymouth residents, for example, found that 72 percent of the folks living in Plymouth City and Township feel that local government should help fund public recreation to "some" degree.

About 17 percent favored complete government funding, according to the survey results, while just two percent felt the government should not fund public recreation at all.

Barely a majority of the 400 respondents would support new taxes for public recreation, however. Most of the opponents of additional taxes were senior citizens and Plymouth residents who did not have

The wranglers of Maybury

State park guides care for horses, and riders

Maybury State Park wrangler Dan Brown of Novi, right, prepares to take to the trail. At far right, wrangler Maryellen Werstine prepares a horse for riding. She has been a trail guide at Maybury for three years.

Wrangler Rachel Scott leads a group of horseback riding novices on the tralls of Maybury State Park, including Randy and Ramon Ross and Randy's wife, Bridget.

n the stables and on the trails of Maybury State Park, modern-day wranglers are at work, caring for over 30 horses and leading city folk through the great outdoors. Whether the wranglers are full-time. part-time or volunteer, their duties are the same. They must feed, brush and saddle the horses, train them to take visitors through the park, and teach people how to ride.

But unforeseen duties can crop up each day.

When Buster took a bite out of a plastic bag in eagerness to eat carrots last week, wrangler Jeff Lawler had to stick his hand into the horse's mouth

When that didn't work, stable owner Ron Gordon appeared with a tool to pry his teeth open.

They have a very delicate digestive system." Gordon said. "If you left it in there, it would cause all kinds of prob-

Gordon gets many of the Maybury stable horses from the Fenton Horse Auction, which he also owns. The Appaloosas, Paint, Morgan and Quarter horses range in size and personality, but they're all gentle.

We need really quiet horses that don't mind being ridden up and down hills and through the trails," wrangler Rachel Scott, 24, explained.

When each horse arrives, they're ridden by the wranglers first, who make, sure they'll fit in to the working.

If they do, they'll be ridden about an hour each day during the week, and up to five hours a day on busy weekends by visitors with very diverse abil-

"A lot of neighborhood people come, city kids come a lot to get a taste of the country." Scott said. She said many youth and church groups also sign up for lessons, as well as handi-capped riders who sit atop the horses while wranglers guide them with the reins.

'A kid with a wheelchair gets on a horse and all of a sudden they have legs," Scott said.

Freedom seems to be the motivation for visitors and wranglers alike. The horses require a lot of care, including weekly baths under the hose, and a scoop of grains and vitamins every

But according to part-time wrangler Maryellen Werstine, 25, it's all worth

"It's a fun job. That's pretty much why everyone works here. We like to ride," she said. "It's really hard work, but it pays off."

Riding is their reward. The wranglers get to explore the wild trails that wind through 1,000 acres of Maybury state park. At an average walk or trot, horses?

cover about 4 miles per hour. When they take groups out on the trails, wranglers take it easy, allowing visitors to enjoy the scenery, and sometimes catch a glimpse of deer, fox, rabbits and other wildlife.

But some wranglers take riding a step further on their free time.

Lawler, 28, is a part-time wrangler at the stables who has worked with horses for 15 years. Originally from New Jersey, he calls' himself an East Coast Cowboy. He was the first person in his family to take an interest in horses.

I always wanted to be a cowboy. I watched cowboy movies and I just got into it." Lawler said. He got so into it, he toured the rodeo circuit last summer, competing in the bull riding event. Between his rodeo riding, and breaking horses, Lawler said he has suffered everything from broken ribs to broken toes. "You can't do it without getting hurt."

You're dealing with an animal that has its own mind and is at least 10 times your weight," he said. "You always, treat a bull like he's a lit hand, grenade. They get kinda' nasty.'

This year he's going to teach his coworker. Dan Brown, how to ride bulls, beginning on "mellow" training bulls;

But he's goons have to cut his hair before he ever goes to a rodeo with me," Lawier said. There's a certain style that goes; along with being a wrangler. The cow-boy boots and hat, the suede chaps over blue jeans. And usually, short hair. Lawler said. But Brown, 18, hasn't cut his straight red hair in over six years.

Currently a Novi resident, Brown had a horse when he was growing up in Clarkston, and said he plans to go to Ferrier School next year to learn how to shoe horses.

"I love horses. I love being out in nature, away from the city as much as possible," he said.

If you'd like to get a taste of nature, the Maybury Stables will be open until the end of November. Rides are $14. per hour weekdays, or $18 on week-

Longer rides, hay rides, and evening rides complete with a bonfire cookout are also available with special arrangements.

There's a 54-inch height requirement, but children under that height, may opt to go for a pony ride.

The stables are located in the park off the Beck Road entrance, between Seven and Eight Mile roads.

Students learn business on job

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

Michele Totty is a senior at Northville high school but on any given weekday you may see her working at Art Source while other students are in class.

That's because she's part of a new program at the high school that allows students to work at area businesses in order to earn credits and retail experience.

I'm learning stuff about art, framing and stuff I never knew before. Totty said.

She works under the guidance of shop owner Barbara Davies, who agreed to become part of the program when she was approached by its founder, Northville high business teacher Mike Burley.

They help a lot and I think they get a good perspective of the business world," Davies said. "It isn't just standing at the counter writing up orders.

Totty also cleans, does mailings, organizes displays and installs art exhibitions. Davies said.

A couple of blocks down Center Street at Town & Country Cyclery Kim Hoblack works with "Doc," the owner. She checks in stock, arranges shelves and prices merchandise.

"I thought it'd be fun to do something besides class work," Hoblack said.

It's a partnership that works for the business as well.

It just sounded like a good idea to help out the school and I can use the hour of help for free. Doc Twenty-seven students are enrolled in the new Marketing Management class. When they signed up for the class last year they thought they'd be working at the school store.

However, the Hilltop Shop was closed this year due to timing changes brought about by the new block schedule format. Leftover merchandise is being sold at Chocolates by Renee and the class is now considered an internship.

"I went to the Northville Business Association last spring. They said, 'Hey this is great'," Burley said. This is really a unique com-bination with buses, block scheduling and businesses willing to participate."

At the beginning of third hour students board the school bus. They're taken downtown where they eat lunch at a restaurant of their choice. Then they go to work for about an hour before meeting at the bus stop to go back to

Over the course of the year students will work at four different businesses, rotating every nine

Burley said he has gotten positive feedback about the students' performance from store owners.

Some students have complained that they aren't getting enough responsibility. Burley said, and shop owners have said one hour isn't really long enough to teach the students in-depth tasks.

Even so, the program is getting some rave reviews, especially for the fact that it gets students out of the building for lunch, a privilege not many share on the closed cam-

Four more students named to merit finals

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL Staff Writer

Four more students from the Northville community have been named semi-finalists in the 1998 National Merit Scholarship Com-

The students graduated from Our Lady of Victory, among an eighth grade class of 25 students. and now attend private schools in the area. They join the four semifinalists from Northville High School announced last week.

The students will compete against 15,000 other students around the nation for a chance to be one of 7,400 students to receive Merit Scholarship status and $28 million in scholarships.

They are Sarah Townsend from Ladywood High School, and Tom Sirgedas, Rick Hoeg and Jeff Braztral High School.

The students were entered into the program after taking the 1996 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test as juniors, which served as a screen representing less than I percent of the state's high school graduating class, according to the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

To advance to the finalist level. students must maintain an outstanding academic record throughout high school, be endorsed and recommended by their high school and submit SAT I

The semifinalists must also fill out an extensive application with a self-descriptive essay and information about participation and leadership in school and community iunas from Detroit Catholic Cen- activities. About 90 percent of the corporate-sponsored scholarships semi-finalists will advance to the finals, the corporation estimates.

Three types of scholarships will be offered in 1998. Each finalist will be considered for one of 2,200 $2,000 National Merit Scholarships to be awarded on a state representational basis. The corporation said its own funds underwrite about 85 percent of the money. Grants from corporate sponsors fund the remainder.

Another 1,200 scholarships are to be offered by corporations, company foundations and other business organizations. Most of the are designated for children of employees of the company but some are reserved for other final-

A final 4,000 scholarships for finalists attending some 200 universities will be presented as Merit Scholarship Awards.

The corporation will announce the winners in April of 1998 to add to the list of more than 170,000 other students who have earned the Merit Scholar title since the first awards were offered in 1956.

Stilec presented a survey of Northville students conducted in 1996 which showed that 60.4 percent of Northville seniors admitted they had used illicit drugs in their lifetimes. The national average was 45.6 percent.

Marijuana was the most popular illicit drug with 55.9 percent of Northville seniors admitting its use, compared to 38.2 percent nationally.

Because she teaches art, a subject which allows students to talk during class, she said she overhears conversations about illegal substances from time to time.

She said she has learned that the question "Do you know when Jerry Garcia died?" is a code used by students to buy marijuana.

The phrase "Do you wanna come and hang with me? can be code for drinking, or causing a "hangover" in the morning.

Cavanaugh also said that every year in ceramics class a student will try to make a smoking pipe. She said one time a student approached her to explain that an object in the kiln was a "bong."

HELP FOR FROZEN SHOULDER

Frozen shoulder, also known as adhesive capsultis, is a painful condition in which the tough connective tissue (known as the shoulder capsule) that which the tough connective tissue (known as the shoulder capsule) that surrounds the shoulder joint becomes inflamed, stiff and sticky. Frozen shoulder may occur as the result of a fall or over-arm movements. In any case, the shoulder becomes so stiff that it can barely be moved. Ironically, that is exactly what must happen for gradual improvement and healing to occur. Exercises that gently stretch the shoulder are recommended in an effort to restore enough flexibility that the patient can once again resume everyday activities. These exercises, along with taking non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, are the usual prescription.

Are you experiencing shoulder pain? If so, physical therapy can help. At Northville Physical Therapy & Rehabilitation Inc., therapy programs are designed to address individual treatment goals such as reducing pain, increasing muscle strength, and improving function. To schedule a consultation for therapy, call us at 349-3816. We take pride in maintaining a positive attitude to help patients realize their full potential for functional outcomes. Located at 215 E. Main St., Suite B (across from our previous location), we have early and late business hours, including weekends.

P.S. White trozen shoulder can occur at any age, it is most common among people in their 50s and 60s.

Taking over 1,000 milligrams of calcium a day helps protect you against bone disease and osteoporosis. However, most American adults take in far less, especially women. How simple is filling the calcium requirement?

As simple as drinking three cups of milk a day. And when it comes to calcium content, skim milk is just as effective, as are other calcium-rich foods such as cheese, yogurt and calcium supplements. Are you at risk for osteoporosis? Botsford Hospital has a bone density test that's safe, non-invasive, painless and covered by most insurances when accompanied with a diagnosis from your physician. The test provides essential information to help your doctor assess the health of your bones. If you show signs of osteoporosis, your doctor can recommend preventative measures or therapy. Get a bone density test today at Botsford General Hospital. Then pour yourself a tall, cold glass of milk and drink to your good health!

Workshops aim to help parents find balance

For generations, the techniques of child raising were pretty straightforward. Parents simply demanded obedience, giving children few choices and backing their demands with harsh discipline and control.

When those children grew up, they in turn parented with the same methods.

But according to Denise Collins-Robison, an 18-year social worker who specializes in family counseling, that philosophy has changed.

In the 60's, things swung in the opposite direction. Passive or permissive parenting became popular," she said, but this method too, was ineffectual.

"Kids became too powerful within the family and they really can't handle that because they need those with children at Cooke, guides and coaches.

Since then, Collins-Robison said, parents have been struggling to find a balance.

According to her, the ideal parenting style is democratic in approach. It is based on the belief that parents and children have equal rights as human beings and deserve to be treated with respect. trust and dignity.

A series of workshops at the Northville Public Library aims to help parents of adolescents achieve more democratic methods of parenting. The workshops will all be led by Collins-Robison, a Prevention Specialist and counselor with Hegira programs in Livo-

The seven week series is free to parents, and especially aimed at Meads Mill, and Northville High School.

Topics to be addressed include creating long-range goals for parenting teens, and exploring reasons for teen misbehavior and power struggles.

The fifteen mothers who attended the first meeting gave various reasons as to why they were there.

"I just want to feel comfortable with my children. To hear what other parents are doing and to reaffirm that what I'm doing is right or change what's wrong." said Tamara, a mother of three.

Others in the room said they were seeking advice on how to set rules and limits without being overprotective.

'As my daughter has reached dating (age) and gotten her driver's permit I'd like to set rules without arguing." said Sue, the mother of two adolescents.

Collins-Robison says there are no concrete answers to parenting questions, but examining options is important.

"As we all know, parenting is challenging and it helps to have support. Someone to talk to and ask 'Is this normal? Am I going crazy?" Collins-Robison said.

During the workshops, she will lead role playing and personal assessments. She will also lecture about topics ranging from communication and family values to more specific topics that parents in the group wish to address such as curfews, dating, and addictions.

To register for this free discussion group, call Hegira Prevention at (313) 513-7598.

Girls Scout digs in to earn Gold Award

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

In order to earn the Gold, one Girl Scout had to roll up her sleeves and dig in the dirt.

As her final project after nine years as a Girl Scout Northville High School Senior Ashley Chandler revamped the culinary herb garden at Maybury State Park to win the organization's prestigious Gold Award.

The effort took a year of planning. After earning all her badges, Chandler was required to submit her proposal for the garden, a project she selected on her own.

"I really like the outside," Chandler said, "and gardening is a big part of my mom's life and it's a part of Northville.

After noticing that the herb garden at Maybury was "dumpy," Chandler set out to recreate it.

She approached local merchants a year in advance to request donations for the project.

Northville Lumber donated approximately $500 worth of cedar timbers, Black's True Value Hardware chipped in with over $55 worth of iron stakes, top soil and bone meal. The City of Northville gave Chandler $250 in dirt, which Take It Away Hauling moved for free.

Brookville Gardens, Chandler said, gave her 15 types of perennials to plant and Gardenviews donated 20 brass signs. Brickscape and Erb Lumber also chipped in.

"Last October, I made the budget," Chandler said, "I wrote the report for the Girl Scout Council in Ann Arbor and then waited for the snow to thaw.'

During that time, Chandler acted as an officer in the Girl Scout's governmental organization and wrote the papers required to earn the award.

In the past, Chandler has joined Troupe 122 on various outdoor and charitable activities. They've hiked through Rocky Mountain National Park, backpacked along the Appalachian Trail and camped out west.

Locally, they recently planted flowers and ran the children's games during the Victorian Festival for the Northville Historical Society.

"My troupe is just awesome," Chandler said. giving special credit to troupe leaders Val and Dave Troschinetz. They've been with us ever since the beginning. We use their house for meetings. They're really generous."

Chandler said she hopes one day to be a troupe leader herself.

For now, she is applying to premed programs at Emory University and the University of Michigan and brushing up on her third-year Spanish.

'I would love to go down to missionaries as an intern and work with kids in Guatemala. Venezuela, Panama, anywhere," she said.

For her Girl Scout Gold Award, Ashley Chandler planned, planted, weeded and cultivated a herb garden at the Maybury State Park farm.

News from Monday's meeting of the Northville public schools' board of trustees and upcoming events:

SCHEDULE SHIFT ALERT!: The sweet sound of the alarm clock will be ringing in the ears of Northville High School students five minutes earlier starting next week.

In order for school buses to make their middle and elementary school runs on time in the afternoon, the whole high school schedule has been bumped up five minutes.

As of Monday, September 29, Northville High School hours will be 7:25-2:05.

The bottom line for NHS students is that they have to be at the stop five minutes earlier - or else they'll miss the bus.

I LOVE A PARADE: The Northville-Novi Colts will be having its homecoming parade and games on Sunday, September 28. The sixty players and forty cheerleaders, together with their families, will parade through downtown Northville in their decorated cars.

They'll be joined by members of the Northville fire department. The parade begins at 10:30 a.m. at the west entrance of the Northville Downs parking lot and ends at Northville High School.

There will be two football games on Sunday. The freshman team plays at 1 p.m. and the junior varsity team will begin playing around 2:30 p.m. They will both be playing Canton Lions teams.

R.S.V.P.: The whole community is invited to ride bumper to bumper into this year's tail gate party at Northville High School. The party will kick off after the homecoming parade in the girl's softball field.

The 6 p.m. parade will end around 6:15 and if watching all that marching makes you hungry a mere $1.50 will get you pop, chips, a hot dog or a slice of pizza and dessert at the party.

A DJ will play music to pump up the school spirit for the homecoming football game at 7:30 p.m. The October 3 event is sponsored by the Northville High Parent Teacher Student Association. Parent Teacher Student Association.

A NICKEL MORE: The price of lunch for little ones is up by a nickel. The school board voted unanimously that children in the Early Childhood Care Program will now get the same portions and pay the same price for lunch as students in grades 1-5. That means lunch will go from $1.75 to $1.80. Other prices will remain the same. Breakfast is still 95 cents and snacks will stay at 65 cents.

Bachelder to chair 11th district

Chris Bachelder was elected chair of the 11th Congressional District Republican Party in a spe-

District Republican Party in a special election held last month.

Prior to assuming the top leadFrahip.position of the lith District, Bachelder seried as of treasurer. A Northwille resident, his term will expire at the end of calendar year 1998.

Dedication propelled Bachelder quickly through the ranks as a party stalwart. In addition to his support for Republican candidates throughout the 11th District, and on every level, he has served as a precinct delegate.

He made a bid for state representative in 1996.

'My first and foremost goal is the reelection of officials who have continued to move the state in the right direction like Congressman Joe Knollenberg and Gov.. Engler, Bachelder said. The focus of my administration will be those of policies and ideas. While we certainly are aligned with most party initiatives, we also welcome those who are willing to fight for what they believe and lack a cookie-cutter mentality."

Masterpieces were on display at festival slated for October

Some of the best artists from throughout the Midwest displayed their masterpieces at the Northville Art Market, which was Festival earlier this month.

Approximately 50 artists working in a wide variety of media were juried into the show, sponsored each year by the Northville Arts Commission.

As in past years, a designated juror inspected the art objects and awarded three cash prizes to the included as part of the Victorian cream of the crop among the exhibitors

Taking first place was Luciano Duse, a photographer from Petosky. Duse won a $500 cash

One of the two runner-up winners was Richard Larson, a watercolor artist from Holly, Mich. Larson won a cash prize of $250. The other runner-up award of $250 went to the clay pottery team of Denise and Norman Kleiner of Commerce Township.

Doing the judging was art expert Chris Melikan. Melikan is an artist who paints and runs his own studio. He also teaches and lectures widely throughout the area.

This was the 11th annual Northville Art Market, which actually started two years before the Victorian Festival began in 1989.

Care urged as hunting. season approaches

By RANDY COBLE Staff Writer

Snuck up on us, didn't it? Fall arrived Monday night (Sept. 22), putting an end to the summer but bringing with it the fun of everything from falling leaves to Something else that's synonymous with autumn arrives next week: deer hunting season.

That's right, folks, Michigan's 1997 season opens this Wednesday (Oct. 1). If you're planning to take part, it's important to know the rules about hunting here in our neck of the woods.

Bowhunting of deer runs from Oct. 1 through the end of the year. Firearms hunting will take place only from Nov. 15-30.

Not much of either is likely to go on in Northville. Firearms discharge is illegal within the city and township limits and bowhunting is carefully restricted.

Here's a rundown of the rules about hunting in Northville. Be sure to follow them: police say violators can face a misdemeanor rap bringing up to 90 days in jail and/or a $500 fine.

NORTHVILLE CITY

By law there is no firearm hunting or animal trapping allowed in

In fact, local ordinance prohibits the discharge of firearms for any reason.

While there aren't many suitable areas in the community to choose from, bowhunting is legal.

That's as long as people take reasonable steps to not endanger human life, cautioned Rod Cannon, chief of the city police depart-

Call city police at 349-1234 if you have any questions.

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP

Firearm discharge is also banned in the township. Bowhunting is allowed as long as reasonable safety precautions are taken and hunters receive the permission of the property owner to be on his or her land.

Contact the township police department at 349-9400 with any

The rules are different in Novi. Under local law the chief of police can issue 60-day hunting permits.

Those permits, however, are good only on private property with the landowner's permission. They're also only valid for bows or shotguns.

All other types of hunting within the Novi city limits is prohibited.

To apply for a permit you can contact the police department and fill out an application.

Be sure to bring a copy of your valid state hunting license and proof of written permission from the property owner. You'll also need a written description of the land parcel in question and a diagram showing its dimensions.

Local law sets restrictions on the minimum size of any property to be used for hunting.

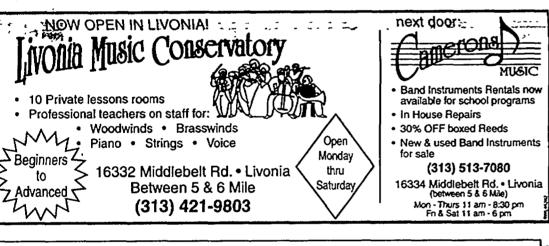

Specifically, it must allow at least 800 feet between hunters and any occupied land and at least 600 feet from the boundary line of any adjoining properties.

Call Novi police at 348-7100 with any questions.

Students shop to find that perfect college

The school year has just begun, but for seniors, it's already time to start thinking about leaving for

Northville High School counselor Betsy Sole said students' chances of being admitted to the school of their choice may improve if they get their applications in early.

Some of the schools have a rolling admission policy and they admit people as they have openings and as people qualify." Sole said. "Others have early admissions policies with a Nov. 1st deadline."

in the case of a rolling admission policy, the requirements may get more stringent as slots fill up and competition increases.

The traditional application deadline is Feb. 1, according to Sole. That may seem far away, but Sole said time flies during the last year of high school.

First there's the holidays, then midterms, and there are a lot of senior things going on," she said.
"it's good to get it out of the way."

Getting it out of the way means getting copies of applications from the schools of choice, filling them out, getting letters of recommendation from teachers or counselors, writing a personal essay and gathering official copies of high school tests and transcripts.

The process is daunting for some students and confusion is natural. Sole said, but a little preplanning may make it easier.

Last year, 89 percent of Northville High School graduates enrolled in two or four-year colleges. Here are some tips for following in their footsteps:

Narrow your options:

"If you do a good job of thinking about what school is right for you. you don't need to apply to that many." Sole said. The average student applies to about three schools.

Application fees range from $10 to $50, so sending out numerous applications can get expensive.

When selecting a school, Sole said, it's important to consider more than just a major or career

The size of the school, the number of students, it's urban or rural character, the distance from home, the costs, and the social setting are all factors that can affect the whole college experience.

Consult resources:

Many resources are available at the high school counseling office to help students hone in on the

A computer program called DIS-COVER lets students enter parameters to narrow down a list of schools that would suit their needs. The program also offers guidance on possible careers and majors through personalized skill and interest surveys.

In a more low-tech vein, two file cabinets in the counseling office are full of applications for schools in and out of the state, and bookshelves are loaded with school catalogs and reference books such as Barron's *Profiles of American Colleges" and Princeton Review's "Big Book of Colleges.

Students are welcome to look over the material after school or during Seminar.

• What parents can do to help: Not all students want help with the college selection and application process. It's a sensitive time for some students, according to

"It's real scary because all their lives things have been pretty much set for them, and all of a sudden they're faced with choices and leaving home," she said. "It can be a struggle, and you can't always

If a parent is called on for advice or encouragement. Sole suggests sitting down in front of a calender and mapping out a time line.

Decide when materials have to be in, and then create a plan to have all the elements of the application complete and mailed by Parents can also take students to visit college campuses.

• Letters of recommendation: Many colleges and universities require a letter of recommendation from teachers or counselors. These letters should not simply be a list of achievements and statistics about the student, but should give some insight into their personality

Counselors at Northville High School meet with each senior hroughout the year to make sure ill the classes are in order and help them plan an application

Sole said it is much easier for er to write a recommendation for tudents after she gets to know hem, and after they have made ieir goals clear to her.

• The personal essay: There have been tons of articles

lege essays," Sole said. But the bottom line is that colleges want to get a glimpse of who the students

You don't just list activities anymore, they want to know what you did in each position and how you made a difference." Sole said. They want to know how does this person learn, what's their motivation, their goals, what's unique about them?

The best way to do this is to write about specific personal experiences or goals. Students may write about what they foresee themselves doing in 10 years, a situation in which they made a positive difference, or what they contributed to family, friends or community during their high school years.

Essays also give students a chance to discuss things that may have had a negative impact on their grades.

It's important that essays be grammatically correct with proper spelling and precise punctuation. so they should be proofread by an English teacher or other trusted

The same essay can be submitted with every application. Sole said, unless a school requires a specific topic.

Upcoming events:

Representatives from many state colleges will be visiting Northville High School throughout the year. Students can check the counseling office for dates and times.

College, trade school and military branch representatives will also be on hand during College nar periods throughout the school it may be appropriate to call and year. The first one is Oct. 9 in the Academic Forum.

After the applications are completed and mailed off, some students will find they're put on a waiting list instead of being accepted right away. In that case,

Our Opinion

"Zero Tolerance" has to be a proverb, not just a slogan

Zero tolerance only works when 100 percent of us are vigilantly intolerant of teen alcohol, tobacco and illegal drug use.

That's the lesson we draw from the past week's events, a time which has seen the specter of teen drinking pop up all over

For starters there's the incident which took place at Northville High School last week. Police allege that a student admitted to skipping out of class to buy beer from a Livonia party store, adding that the 17-year-old claimed to have bought alcohol there at least 20 times in the past two years.

Then there's the 19-year-old Northville resident cited for underage drinking by Novi police on the night they arrested his 16year-old companion for drinking and driving. The investigating officer claimed he found a 12 pack of beer and a pint of gin in the girl's car and that she had a .11 blood alcohol

That's above the legal adult limit for drunk driving of .10 percent and miles above the .05 percent level that's legal for someone under 21 to have in his or her bloodstream at all, behind the wheel or not.

Finally there's the sad fact that four out of five Northville stores were cited by city police last week during a spot check for allegedly selling alcohol to a minor. The sting operation involved an underage police operative who tried to buy beer using his unaltered ID.

Almost all of these businesses sold the teenager what he wanted. Yes, the employees of each establishment were ticketed. Yes. charges have been filed with the Liquor Control Commission.

However, this incident begs the question: how many times has this happened for real? A lot, according to the statistics. A 1996 survey of Northville public school students reports these chilling facts:

· When questioned 15 percent of eighth graders admitted to using alcohol in the past 30 days. For tenth graders the figure was 49 percent. For high school seniors is was 70

 60.4 percent of those seniors admitted they had used illicit drugs in their lifetimes including everything from marijuana to heroin. The national average is 45.6 percent.

The pattern is grisly and familiar: most users report that they started with legal drugs like alcohol and tobacco and then "graduated" to harder stuff.

Northville, we are staring in the face of those times where's there's black and white and exactly a zero amount of gray. This has to stop, period.

Underage alcohol use kills thousands of people every year. The number one cause of death for teenagers is traffic accidents. Many saw booze as a factor. Just as heartbreaking but not measurable by statistics are the broken lives and wasted potential that come with teen alcohol use.

We are the only ones who can stop this. No law or policy on paper will do it. No politician's going to do it. To really eliminate underage alcohol use will take a true zero tolerance effort.

What does that mean? It means practicing what we preach. It means that as a society we have to stop glorifying alcohol use everywhere from TV to magazines to pro sports.

We as a society have to stop turning a benevolent blind eye to the "high jinx" of those darn kids who, after all, are only doing what we did at that age. In our homes, businesses, schools, churches, sports and any other place you can name we have to draw a line in the sand and demand that times

Short of that and we'll continue to merely reap what we sow.

Full staff and happy editor

Most businesses saddled with a loss of 37.5 percent of their workforce would be plunged into total chaos. But the good news

Well, I'm proud to announce that we at The Northville Record, when faced with that same situation, experienced only partial chaos.

And you thought we weren't good.

People close to our little enterprise here know that we've just come off some pretty tight times. First, Bob Jackson, who did a bang-up job as our school district reporter for two years. left to assume the editorship of The Milford Times; then Scott

Daniel, our sports editor for well-nigh seven turns around brother sun, resigned to pursue a career in

Bob was one of only two reporters writing for our Asection and Scott divided his time between doing sports for The Record and our sister publication, The Novi News. Counting Bob as one full-time equivalent worker and Scott as a half-staffer, that means we lost more than one-third of our office personnel in the span of only a couple of months.

On top of that, our long-time receptionist Diane Quint also left the company over the summer.

Oh, the joys of small business problem-solving I won't pretend that things have run smoothly in recent weeks. Reporter Randy Coble admirably stepped up to do double duty, but inevitably we

In Focus

By John Heider

But the good news is that we've come out of it with flying colors, having hired a couple of fine journalists to carry our standard.

By now, you've probably seen their bylines and glimpsed their mug shots in the paper. Wensdy White, our new school district reporter, comes to us straight out of a journalism program at Wayne State University, while Jason Schmitt, the new sports editor, joins our staff following a stint with the Gaylord Herald.

Wensdy has a hard name to remember and with a Wendy in the office already (Pierman Mitzel of The Novi News), more than one person has gotten confused. But the early book on Wensdy Is that she has sharp instincts, a solid work ethic and a real ability to humanize the news.

Jason possesses that wholesome, all-American look that immediately says "this guy has something to do with athletics." He writes with good clarity (a rare phenomenon nowadays) and goes about his business with quiet professionalism.

I guarantee, this town and this newspaper are going to be well served by both of these personnel additions.

Our new staff members are still getting their feet wet and things aren't yet humming along with cruise-control consistency. But it's only a matter of time before these two fast-learners are fully up to snuff bringing our readers engaging and colorful word pictures of their fair community.

They'll also bring their frazzled editor the chance to go back to aging at a normal pace and for that I'm truly relieved.

Lee Snider is the editor of The Northville Record.

Expo Day and Northville shine

Another week, another great community event in Northville. What a great town to live or work or raise a family in.

Two weeks ago we all enjoyed the 1997 Victorian Festival Last weekend hundreds of residents trooped out to Northville Township Hall to take part in the Department of Public Safety's annual Expo Day. This is the fourth year in a row that the police officers and firefighters of the DPS have offered this fun and educational event for the whole family to the community. It's the public's chance to meet the people entrusted to protect our safety and to get an up-close and personal look at the equipment we pay for that lets them do their job.

As always Expo Day organizers and participants did a bang-up job from start to finish. Kids clambered over fire trucks and got their pictures taken sitting astride police Harley-Davidson motorcycles. Everyone took a peek inside a $4.5 million high-tech medivac helicopter which flew in from U-M Medical Center.

The crowds watched with appreciation as Van Buren Township police put on a fascinating demonstration of the talents of their K-9 police dogs. Kudos to Judge, Badge and

The SWAT team's high-altitude rappelling show was well-watched. So was the demonstration put on by the fire department of how they can literally cut a car apart to rescue accident victims trapped inside.

A lot of people went away smarter and safer as well. Useful information aplenty was present in abundance at Expo Day.

Kids could tour the Fire Safety House to learn how to get out of a burning building. Parents had the chance to have the little ones photographed and fingerprinted as a precaution against abduction.

From the right way to use a fire extinguisher to the importance of using your seat belt we'd bet that the bevy of tips which public safety professionals offered will end up preventing a tragedy or two.

Things kicked off right on Expo Day with a very successful pancake breakfast.
It raised more than $900 for two very worthy local causes for kids: DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) and Northville Youth Assistance.

All of those 250 people who attended the breakfast and the hundreds more who turned out for Expo Day itself deserve a pat

So do the local businesses who generously helped to sponsor the fun. Those good folks include BFI, Home Depot, Meijer, Optical Imaging Systems and The Stitching Post.

Of course the biggest thanks should go out to all of the public safety professionals who gave a lot of time and effort to make Expo Day the dynamic, worthwhile community event that it's become.

We've said it before, Northville, and we'll say it again: what a town!

It's good – but tough – to be the king

the Palace?

Randy Coble

It's a great little ditty about a rich musician going out on tour who trusts his home to two housesitters. Like the peons of yore did when the king hit the road, these two ying-yangs barely wait for the guy's limo to drive away before they're shooting the lock off of his liquor cabinet.

Which brings me to the fun I've had for the past week while Lee Snider, our intrepid liccord editor, has been on a well-earned vacation. Actually, I've been a pretty good boy. I've had to: this editing stuff is actually work.

suppose I'm like anyone out there who's ever been an employee: sometimes I'm convinced the boss doesn't do a darn thing. You know the drill: we work hard, they hardly work. Me Tarzan, you Jane. That's especially true in this business. After all, what do editors do, anyway? Edit? Big deal. Take a few minutes to glance over a story some poor slob without an office of his own has tolled over for hours.

Then sometimes, adding insult to injury, these yahoos have the audacity to actually change a syllable here and there: search-and-destroy fanatics on a mission to hack and slash their way through reporter's brilliant, witty prose.

I myself have watched an editor's computer mouse running over my stuff about like the Iraqi Republi-

Ever heard that Jimmy Buffett song Gypsies in can Guard must have paled at the B-52s flying over their trenches during the Gulf war.

> Ah, but that was then, this is now, friends and neighbors. After walking a mile in Lee's moccasins I can truly say I'm a reformed man. This guy has a tough job.

Consider the fact that first off Lee has to read virtually every word that's printed in The Record each week. Try doing that once and see how long it takes you.

Now add to the fact that he's not just skimming it like most of us do. Lee has to read slowly, looking to catch grammar, spelling and diction errors. Then remember that he has to slow his pace even more in order to understand the full meaning of what he's reading in order to make sure it's clear and comprehensible.

You see, Lee's the gatekeeper between reporters like me and readers like you. He's the one who's sticking up for you, making sure that I'm answering the questions you'll end up asking. If there's something in a story that's he can't understand he has to stop everything and straighten it all out with the writer.

All of that's in addition to the hundred and one other things an editor has going each week, by the way. Lee's responsible for everything from writing editorials to laying out (arranging stories in) the paper via computer to supervising the work of an unruly bunch of wordslingers like us.

Aaah, so what? That's what he get's paid for. Besides, he's the boss and he's lounging today while I'm at work.

Enough of this love fest. Fight the power.

Randy Coble is the temporary Grand Poohbah of and permanent unruly staff writer for The Northville Record.

15-year effort to reform a ponderous, unresponsive, authoritarian state bureaucracy that at last has been brought to good conclusion by the Engler Administra-

It's a story totally ignored by the big city papers and TV. But it's a story that should be of concern to anybody who has ever been maltreated at a MESC office while trying to get an unemployment comp check or tried to work through the maze of the Employment Service to get job training or a better job.

Going all the way back to the 1980s when I was chair of the Job Training Coordinating Council in the Blanchard Administration, a major embarrassment of state government was MESC, the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The creature of both federal law and state statute and governed by a clumsy and contentious board, MESC had two tasks. One was to run the unemployment compensation system, which in practice mostly meant beating up on people trying to collect their checks. The other was to administer the Employment Service, which was supposed to help folks out of work to get their jobs and job training. It did both

Our thought back then was to wangle a way to get enough control over MESC to split the unemployment comp function

Here's a story of a away from the Employment Service. We will be combined with Job Training Partcouldn't pull it off.

But Gov.. John Engler and Doug Rothwell, the head of the Michigan Jobs Commission, kept at it. They hired the respected accounting firm of Plante & Moran to conduct an independent organizational analysis of the MESC, now renamed the MESA(agency).

*Despite agency improvements, business and labor representatives expressed significant concerns over an employment services process which is cumbersome and not available for a statewide job matching function," said the Plante & Moran report. In other words, MESA still doesn't work.

Engler agreed. Praising the report, he said: "We have an agency filled with good people struggling to both process unemployment benefits and find people jobs. As a result of trying to regulate on the one hand and find jobs on the other, they're not doing either as well as we need."

And the governor issued an executive order drastically reorganizing MESA. The unemployment comp side was moved to the Department of Consumer and Industry Services (CIS), while the job search parts were put under the auspices of the Jobs Commission, where they will be largely devolved out to Local Workforce Development Boards.

Even better, because the administration's early retirement buy-out plan for state employees left a lot of holes to be filled at CIS, there will be no layoffs of MESA employees when the work is trans-

And best of all, federal money from the unemployment service will got to Local Workforce Development Boards, where It nership Act funds and Welfare to Work money. There it will be administered by one organization, operating under one brand ("Michigan Works"), staffed by local people (not state bureaucrats), working under empowered local management.

Rothwell has got it right when he said, This reorganization will create a model system for other states to copy. It addresses the challenges posed by early retirement, and a smaller state workforce, through innovation and through empowering local communities. Job search will now be delivered at the local level, where it can be shaped to meet local needs.

This reorganization will allow us to have one integrated system for people looking for a job, regardless of why they're looking. Whether you've been laid off, or on welfare, or ready to enter the workforce after staying at home for a few years, you'll have one place to go for help. People won't be going through the wrong door any more, because there will be no wrong door."

Give credit where credit is due. This is a serious, far-reaching and innovative reform of a segment of state government that resisted change for years. It deserves widespread notice and approval.

Much would be needed to fix schools

As I understand it, MEAP scores rate individual schools but do not necessarily inform a parent of how his child is performing in skills that are necessary in the highly technical age we are entering.

The fanfare over the past few years over Charter schools show. according to Tim Richard writing in the Sept. 11 issue of The Northville Record, that learning by children in Charter schools is not all that it is cracked up to be. increasingly, many private schools, as Richard points out. jumped on the Charter-school bandwagon to feed at the public money trough. What next? Vouchers that will allow public funds to gravitate towards parochial schools at the expense of our public schools?

It would seem to me that a National Uniform Test, as is being propounded by the administration and designed by top professions in the education field, would be justified given the propensity of Americans to be exceedingly mobile. A student going from Alabama to Vermont would be required to satisfactorily pass tests on reading at the fourth grade level and math at the eighth grade level. It is the that National Uniform Testing would facilitate the transition from one state school to another. Furthermore, these tests would be overseen by the National Assessment Governing Board, an independent bipartisan agency created by Congress, and would insure that our students have some semblance of equality in education.

The editorial in the same issue of The Northville Record makes a reasonably acceptable assessment about matters pertaining to MEAP in Michigan it's one of checks and checks and checks. balances and balances and bal-ances. Little gets done to benefit the public, but politiclans sure make a lot of hay. Take the new mental health appropriations act. Gov.. John Engler announced early in the year his intention of closing three state mental hospitals: Detroit Psychiatric Institute, Clinton Valley Center in Pontiac and Pheasant Ridge children's center in Kalamazoo. Democrats no like.

House Democrats put money back in the budget to run them, although Pheasant Ridge had zero patients and the others lust 200 between them.

Michigan governors have what U.S. presidents would like to have - a constitutional line-item veto. So legislative Republicans simply agreed to restoring appropriations for the three institutions, figuring Engler would use his line-item veto.

He did. And there's no way in the world Democrats could raise a two-thirds majority in the House, which they control, let alone the Senate, which is in the GOP's grip, to override the vetoes.

So there is no appropriation to keep the and support public institutions.

They say ours is a three institutions open when the new budget year starts Oct. 1. There also is no money for additional tional staff and patient transfer. *House Democrats are posturing for political gain, using vulnerable individuals and their families. The safe and orderly transfer of patients must come before politics," said Scranton, in a rather mild press release. Another way to phrase it is that the Democrats did to the Engler proposal what U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Jesse Helms of North Carolina did to the William Weld nomination to be ambassador to Mexico. They just refused to hold hearing on it and take a roll-call vote. And without a roll call vote, there's no record for the opposition to point at derisively.

You'll remember that at the outset I used the term "checks and balances" three time - once for each of the three branches of government. Wayne Circuit Judge J.W. Callahan last week issued a permanent injunction to block the closing of DPI, CVC and Pheasant Ridge. He said the closing violates the state constitution's requirement to "foster

While there, he earned undergraduate and graduate level col-lege credits through the University of Virginia by taking five academic courses in behavioral and forensic science, law, communication and management.

In his forensics class, people from the FBI crime lab taught fingerprint, DNA, and gunshot wound analysis, as well as weapons and ballistics.

The details of high profile cases were used for review, such as the Polly Klaas kidnapping and murder in California.

Petres also took weekend trips during his stay, sightseeing in Washington D.C., visiting Gettysburg and touring the CNN studios in Atlanta. He even learned to shoot aerial photographs from a helicopter.

According to Petres, one of the most important things he gained from the experience, besides the drive to continue jogging more than a mile three times a week, was contacts.

263 officers from around the country graduated from the session he attended. Some international students were there as well, like Petres' roommate from the island nation of Sri Lanka.

Many of the officers are experts in specialized fields relating to police work. Petres said, and his graduate directory has already come in handy.

"I can pick up the phone and get information or pass some along," he said. "in business, networking is important and it's no different

Northville Township Police Lieutenant John Sherman attended the Academy prior to Petres. Having two officers from such small organizations attend the Academy in the same year is unusual, according to Chief Cannon.

Of the eight slots allowed for Michigan officers, two are automatically filled by State Police, and two by Detroit Police, leaving only four for the rest of the state's officers, he said.

A Northville resident who works for the FBI in Detroit may take some of the credit. She tipped Cannon off that there was a slot available for Petres, after another officer withdrew from the session.

Students from Northville Public Schools left their marks in the capsule. During the summer reading program, children decorated pages with their name, age, and drawings. The pages were then gathered in a three-ring binder along with a group picture of the kids.

"If someone wants to look back on this time, it's really a phenomenon how popular books on tape are," Anne Mannisto, assistant director of the library said.

But will people from the future be able to make sense of "tattle tape," those thin, anti-theft magnetic strips that are hidden in each book in the library?

"I don't know, but it'll be a good puzzle for them. It's a good plece of current technology. library director Julie Herrin said.

And if people still take the time to read novels, they might enjoy the two that will be hidden in the library time capsule.

A Goosebumps novel was unanimously chosen to represent the youth collection.

For adults Snow Falling on Cedars by David Guterson was chosen.

"Aside from being really popular, it was the first book discussed at the new library," Mannisto said.

There's no telling when the time capsule will be opened again. Records will show that it's there, but until the library undergoes a major renovation, it will most likely continue to gather dust.

"It will depend on the future of the building," Mannisto said. "It's up to future staff or boards to decide, many decades hence."

Township, schools settle on DARE

"It was a surprise," was how Chip Snider, director of the township's Department of Public Safety, put it at the time.

That's because Northville Town-ship had applied for it several times before, ending up each time with just a rejection letter because there wasn't enough work in the private schools alone to justify a full-time DARE instructor.

This time around for some reason state officials gave a preliminary OK to the grant pending the township's getting school district approval for some kind of DARE participation plan.

When the topic's come up before district officials have expressed concerns over including DARE as part of the regular school day curriculum. That included:

• The fact that the district address drug and violence issues already through its Michigan Model education program.

 Recent studies which suggest that DARE may not be effective in combating youth drug use.

Coldwell Banker Preferred HOMEOWNERS GAIN CAPITAL WITH 1997 TAX BILL

If you are a homeowner expecting to have a capital gain on the sale of your home. Uncle Sam just gave you a big present. The 1997 federal tax bill completely eliminates the traditional system of "rollover" deferrals of tax liability on home sale profits. Here is what the new rules are, for principal residences sold after May 6, 1997.

Married home-sellers filing jointly get to enjoy up to $500,000 in home sale gains tax-free, provided you occupied the property as your principal residence during two of the prior five years. Taxpayers who file singly (even if married) get a $250,000 capital gains exclusion. Home-sellers are eligible for the exclusions for gains made on sales as often as once every two years.

The new law allows capital gain exclusions whether you "buy up" to a more expensive home or "buy down" to a less expensive one. Should you have a gain above the limit, it will be taxed at the new 20% capital gains rate, down from the current 28% rate. And starting in 2001, your capital gains rate drops to 18% for taxable gains on a principal residence you occupied for at least and parked. Gulledge reached the truck and found three students inside.

What got students in trouble

She asked them if they had beer in the car. The owner of the vehicle, who was driving, said yes. Gulledge claimed that she then was shown a 30-pack of Miller in the rear seat behind the driver. The teens were detained until police arrived.

Upon questioning, two of the students, including the owner of the vehicle, maintained that they had no idea the beer was in the car when they were picked up by the third after school. After initially claiming a family member had bought the beer and put it in the vehicle one of the three admitted he had bought the beer.

The student said he had borrowed his friend's vehicle around 10:30 that morning, telling him that he was going to go home and "hang out" for awhile. He mentioned to his friend that he might try to get some beer, according to police.

The teen's parents were out of town and after spending some time at home he allegedly bought the beer from a party store in Livonia. According to police, the senior said he's been buying beer there for a couple of years.

The first 20 times he bought alcohol at the store, he used a fake

ID, he told police. After employees at the store came to know him they allegedly continued selling alcohol to him even after his father found the fake ID and took it away.

The student said he spent time this summer at a drug and alcohol rehabilitation facility and told police he had been clean and sober for four months.

After allegedly purchasing the beer, the student returned to school, where he picked up his friends. Both of them, according to police, maintain that they realized the beer was in the car only after they got inside, which was just seconds before Gulledge pursued them.

After questioning all three students and getting written statements from them, police decided to take action against only one.

"When it comes to criminal charges, we're pursuing the one student," Det... Dave Fendelet

Minor in possession of alcohol is a misdemeanor charge punishable by 90 days in jail or a $100 fine.

The school is doing their own punishment, Fendelet said.

The 10-day suspension the students face will have some impact on their grades, according to Northville High School principal Tom Johnson. Under the new block schedule, missing one class means missing almost an hour and a half of instruction.

But Johnson said a seminar alternative will minimize that impact by giving students a chance to make up tests, quizzes and homework. Schoolwork is being provided for them in the meantime.

"I feel badly for the students and the parents." Johnson said. "I hope we can put this behind us the students were pressing charges Monday morning when he heard it announced on the radio while driving to work.

In all, three seniors, all 17, were suspended under the district's "zero tolerance" alcohol policy because of the incident. Only one student claimed responsibility for the alcohol, however,: police allege he took full responsibility for purchasing the beer and putting it in the vehicle of another of the three.

The other two seniors told police they didn't know the beer was in the truck when they got in it after school. The third didn't take part in the lawsuit and his is the only one being considered for criminal charges, according to Northville City Police.

The students took legal action after they were informed they couldn't appeal the terms of their suspensions to the school board, police said.

The judge ruled in favor of the school district. (She) pointed out that the students had been given full due process," Johnson said. "(She) said if (she) ruled in their favor then we might as well shred our student code of conduct and our activity code of conduct."

The Northville code of conduct states that the minimum penalty for students found using, possessing or under the influence of any illegal substance will be suspended for a minimum of 10 days. Maximum punishment is expulsion from school.

"I feel that we were placed in a position where we had to apply the student code of conduct. We followed it to the letter," Johnson said, "not because we wanted to but because we have to to be fair and equitable to all students."

According to the judge's ruling the students' will finish their suspension and will not be reinstated on the team for the duration of the year, in keeping with the code of conduct.

Volunteers gearing up for annual benefit

By CAROL DIPPLE Feature Editor

Over the last few months, momentum for the volunteers working on Angela Hospice's tenth annual Light Up a Life Benefit has been picking up speed.

The gala event, sponsored by the Italian American Club of Livonia and hosted by Jacobson's, Laurel Park Place Livonia, will be on Sunday, Nov. 9. Last year's attendance numbered more than 1,000.

Northville residents involved in the benefit include the chairperson, Carolyn DiComo; and Toni Giles, Georgia Scappaticci, Barbara Whell, and Kathy Gallizzi, who volunteer on one committee or another from advertising to raf-fles, and from tickets to the auction.

Giles chose the Fashion Show Committee because of her experience as a former clothing store owner.

"I didn't know it was such a big event when I first started," Giles said. "I enjoy being there and helping as much as I can."

In 1989 the fashion show made a profit of $1,500. Last year, the special event at Jacobson's brought in $69,000. She has also sold advertising for

Author's book focuses on teen's self esteem

By CAROL DIPPLE Feature Editor

Sometimes it takes a lifetime to learn life's lessons. Sarah McChristian hopes to speed up and simplify that learning process for children and has written Smart Is As Smart Does - Emotional Self Help for Young People .

"Instead of me wringing my hands like everybody else I need to be constructive with my criticism, so that is my reason for writing this," she said.

The seed for Smart is as Smart Does was planted 20 years ago with a philosophy term paper entitled "An Application of Emotions." McChristian revised the paper over the next two decades but it took a back seat to being the single parent of two children and a career as ä registered social worker.

The most difficult aspect of this book was not only condensing these rather complex psychological concepts but trying to write down to junior high level," she said.

To aid young readers a glossary of terms and a vocabulary exercise has been included in the book.

"It begins somewhere in high school where you have the greatest need and are emotionally vulnerable where you will compromise your values for the sake of being part of the group," she said. "I think this is where many of the kids begin to get in trouble at that age having that great need.

At that age, kids still know who they want to be but they don't realize who they have become."

In this short, easy-to-read, 50-page book McChristian explains to children how to examine, take control off and apply emotions positively so they can achieve their goals.

"Our emotional capacity is limited." said McChristian, a long-time Salem Township resident and a Northville High School graduate. We can cause not only harm to the organism but enough negative emotion can be the cause of death.

"If you really look more closely at the kinds of problems the kids have today, you've got to realize they have it much more difficult that we did," she said. "We did not have to consider joining a gang to get to school safely. We didn't have the kind of drugs that are out there now."

McChristian is also involved in prison ministry and teaches Sunday school with her church.

Smart Is As Smart Does has received endorsements from Isalah McKinnon, Ph.D., Chief of Police for the City of Detroit, and from professionals in the fields of education, social work, and psychology.

"Kids are so hard to reach." she said. "One reason is that they always feel that there is such a distance between adults and them-

McChristian explains in book that the process of stereotyping which is a valuable part of the defense mechanism, is a process by which people establish personal preferences. This process begins at an early age. Associated to those personal preferences are values.

"The process is ongoing and children update their preserences as they mature," she said. "That is what I am teaching, that because during this socialization process. when we are moving from other directed to self directed, a lot of value judgments are made associated to personal preferences we had as children and therefore we need to reexamine these values and weed out anything that is not beneficial to us.

"A lot of things we like or dislike we don't have the power to change so we need to accept," she said. "It is necessary for human beings if they are going to maximize their abilities to get rid of the debilitat-ing kinds of negative ideas that we have especially associated to stereotyping.

Stereotyping is usually the correct way to categorize things in the environment which simplifies the thought process, according to McChristian.

"My reason for writing this is so that they can learn who they really are and make changes," she said. Hopefully they will have the strength to resist the temptations they are going to be confronted with."

People are always examining their environment, according to McChristian. They are always comparing themselves to other people less as they become adults.

"If we get rid of as much negative in this capacity we have to experience emotions, there is more room for positive thereby it is easier for

Despite mistakes, Mustangs hold on for 16-14 win

Rushing, passing attack help gridders overcome nine turnovers

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

A win is a win, no matter what it looks like.

That's what Northville football coach Darrel Schumacher must be thinking after his team fumbled the ball nine times and came away with a 16-14 win over Churchill Friday night.

Statistically we had a good night. We were running the ball well, but we kept shooting our-selves in the foot. Schumacher

On a wet, muddy field, luckily for the Mustangs, only three of those fumbles were lost and the offensive line gave themselves an opportunity to win the game.

After building a lead only to see It dwindle away early in the fourth quarter, the Mustangs put together a 55-yard drive that ended with a 36-yard Adam Tibble game-win-ning field goal with 2:38 remaining. Even that heroic play needed some Northville had prepared for a 31yard field goal, only to see an illegal procedure penalty before the snap push them back five yards. The ball had been snapped anyway and Tibble had missed the kick, but the self-inflicted penalty gave Tibble a second chance at it. This time he converted and gave the Mustangs (1-2) its first win of the season.

drive included a nine-yard run by Tibble and an eight-yard scamper by Roo Abbott.

The game shouldn't have been a close game at all according to Schumacher. Northville jumped out to a 13-0 lead midway through the third quarter after sustaining a 13play. 6:19 drive that ended with Rob Reel quarterback sneak for a

"At that point you think you only need another field goal to put away the game, but with the conditions the way they were, we kept giving them life and that will come back to bite you," the coach said.

After Churchill scored moments into the fourth quarter, the Mustangs fumbled the ensuing kickoff and three plays later the Chargers scored on a 22-yard pass on fourth down to take a 14-13 lead.

Northville got on the board early, scoring on their third possession of the game. Chris Whittington found the end zone to give the Stangs a quick 7-0 lead 5:33 into the game. The touchdown was set up after Churchill had a bad snap on the punt and Northville recovered on the 15-yard line.

The game was suspended for about 15 minutes in the second quarter because of lightning.

Offensively the Mustangs had no problem moving the ball, through the air and on the ground. Whittington carried the ball 43 times for 178 yards and one touchdown. Reel completed 13 of 25 passes for 126 yards and scored on the

Defensively, the Mustangs were led by Bryan Grider's five first hits. four assisted tackles and one caused fumble. Steve Jameson has five first hits, caused a fumble and recovered one. Geno Peters had a critical interception that stalled Churchill in the second half

The first win is the one you try to build on. Our schedule only gets tougher and tougher each week, and we're going to have to correct some of these mistakes," the coach

The Mustangs dominated the line of scrimmage and time of possession. They ran 79 plays to Churchill's 34.

Northville hosts Canton tomorrow. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p m.

Girls grab second, boys look respectable

Unable to catch front runner Novi, the Mustang girls' cross country team turned its sights to the rest of the 13-team field at the Walled Lake Western Invitational and easily dismantled them one by

The boy's cross country team had to overcome the absence of four varsity regulars and were represented well at the meet.

There were actually two races, one for the seniors and juniors and the other for the sophomores and freshmen.

Novi easily won the upperclassmen race with 31 points, but Northville easily topped the other. 11 teams to take home a runnerup finish at Willis Park. South Lyon finished third with 85 points.

"Although we didn't have our best race of the season, we showed that we have the talent to compete anywhere." coach Chris Cronin

Northville finished sixth in the sophomore/freshman race. Novi also won that race with 41 points, easily outdistancing South Lyon's Christin Kolarchick led the Mustang upperclassmen with a fifthplace finish overall. Her time of 21:35 was a personal best at Willis Park. Karen Loeffler, ninth overall, ran a time of 22:36. Amanda Sprader was 12th in 22:58, Adrienne Monarina was 15th in 23:18 and Stephanie Flood was 19th in a tie at 23:33.

Michelle Britton, who finished sixth on the team and 26th overall. improved her time by 0:48 from her last race at the Park.

Among the underclassmen. Anna Schovers paced the Mustangs with a ninth-place finish in 23:08. Colleen Thompson, 10th overall, came in just behind at 23:12. Julie Bozyk was 24th in 24:26, and Hillary McCrumb (26:39) and Jeanne Myers (26:44) were 49th and 51st overall.

Cronin noted the improvement of Schovers and Thompson.

"Now that they have a couple of races under their belts I expect these two to take off," Cronin pointed out. "I think they'll be key against division rival Plymouth Canton Thursday." Although pleased with his team's finish. Cronin found a few things the team needs to concentrate on before the regional in another

"We need to work on surging during the race. We let others slip away early and we never caught up," the coach said.

Canton comes to town today in a critical Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) matchup. Cronin said he believes the race is crucial to the outcome of the WLAA championship. Tuesday the Mustangs host South Lyon.

The fourth time wasn't exactly the charm for Northville boy's cross country coach Ed Gabrys and his team at the Western Invitational, but he'll take a respectable finish

The Mustangs split in half, with the juniors and seniors competing in one race and the sophomores and freshmen in another, and challenged the course at Willis Park for the fourth time this year.

The upperclassmen finished fourth out of 12 teams, while the underclassmen took seventh of 12

"We had some good times and I was pleased how well we did despite having four of our runners out," Gabrys said. "I think it (Willis Park) lost a lot of its impact which was important. We had hoped for that after the last 10 days.'

For the juniors and seniors.

Tänkers look sharp in early season meets

By SCOTT DANIEL

One swimmer can't win a meet. But North Farmington's Hannah Pollowitz sure influenced her team's 106-80 home win over

The freshman is among the state's elite swimmers, according to Mustang coach Bill Dicks. Pollowitz forced him to alter his lineup by putting Northville's top competitors in different events.

*Pollowitz made it not be a close meet," said Dicks.

Meets between the Western Lakes conference rivals were usually within five points in years past. Dicks pointed out that North Farmington was stronger in general than the past few seasons and likely would've won even without the highly touted freshman.

I think we would've lost by 10 to 15 points instead of 26," he added. At any rate, Northville fell to 0-2 in the WLAA and 1-2 overall. The Mustangs swim at Canton tonight

(7 p.m.). Despite the loss, Dicks said his team was sharp. The swimmers are starting to get down to business and understand what it takes to compete at the highest levels.

The kids swam some good times," Dicks added. "We always have good meets with North Farm-

Most of the races were very close. But they went their way. Northville placed second in the 200-yard medley relay with Leah Voytal, Alice Callan, Kristin Warnke and Stephanie Sabo. Warnke was second in the 200 IM and Voytal third.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Sabo was second while Jessica Hrivanac finished third. Karen Fischer won the diving competition and Julie Kritch finished second.

Warnke placed second in the 100-yard butterfly while Hrivanac was fourth.

Sabo won the 100-yard freestyle and Kourtney Dwelley had Northville's best finish in the 500yard freestyle with a second.

Voytal finished third in the 100yard backstroke and Callan was second in the breaststroke. Northville finished the meet strong by winning the 400-yard freestyle relay with Warnke, Sabo, Hrivanac and Vovtal.

Dicks said tonight's meet with Canton will not be an easy one.

The Chiefs beat Northville last year and return almost the same lineup this time around

They're at least as strong as last year," Dicks said. "We're looking for revenge. But the girls are going to

STEVENSON NORTHVILLE 62

The Mustangs went up against the league's best on Sept. 16 and were soundly beaten. Livonia won all but one event, in fact.

They are such a powerhouse," said Dicks. They could've gone one, two, three in every event." Northville finished second in the 200-yard medley relay with Voytal. Callan, Warnke and Sabo. Monica Black was third in the 200-yard freestyle while Sabo finished third in the 50 freestyle.

In diving, Kritch was third. Warnke took a second in the 100yard butterfly and Erica Mohacsi finished third in the 100 freestyle.

Northville's lone win came in the 100-yard breaststroke with Callan.

WLAA SWIMMING RELAYS

The WLAA Swimming Relays, which were held Sept. 11. answered a few questions while raising a couple of others.

Livonia Stevenson, as expected, emerged as the league's top squad. The Spartans easily won the meet with 275 points, Salem was second at 227, Canton third at 199, North Farmington fourth at 195 and Northville took fifth with 156

Dicks was impressed with Livonia Stevenson, but somewhat astonished with the WLAA's overall strength.

*Salem surprised me with what they had," he said. "They had a whole ton of (good) swimmers.

"Even though we're stronger in some areas, the league has gotten stronger. I don't know if our improvements will show." The longtime coach said Stevenson will likely win the league championship in November. But he said it's a toss up as to where the rest of the teams shake out. Just because Salem, Canton and North Farmington finished ahead of the Mustangs in the relay meet doesn't mean they will in subsequent showdowns.

"I think that group (of four

What a difference a season or two makes.

Just two years after reaching the state finals, and one year removed since reaching the regional finals. Walled Lake Central looked like just another one of Northville's unlucky victims this season in a 61-44 loss to the Mustangs basketball team last Thursday.

Despite the wide margin of victory, it wasn't until midway through the third quarter that Northville began to take over the game. Trailing 34-27 with 4:32 left in the third, coach Pete Wright called a timeout and switched from a zone defense to a full court man-to-man

The move seemed to work. After a Lori Carbott steal and finish on the offensive end, Karla Kalso hit a three pointer to bring the Stangs to within two. Central then scored to make it a four-point game before Julie Flis hit a layup and was fouled. Her free throw brought Northville to within a point at 36-

After the Mustangs took a threepoint lead, Lauren Metaj was fouled on a three pointer and converted the free throw to push Northville to a commanding sevenpoint advantage.

The Mustangs outscored the Vikings 20-6 in the final stanza and 34-10 in the final 12 minutes to put an exclamation point on a terrific ballgame.

"It was really nice to get them early on in the season," Wright said, because this team is going to be a handful later on in the sea-

Early on the Vikings played a 3-2 zone and it took Northville two and a half quarters to break through it. When they did, the Mustangs were getting almost uncontested layups.

Metaj finished with 22 points to help Northville improve its record to 5-1. Janel Hasse and Flis finished with eight points apiece.

Earlier last week Northville beat Wayne Memorial 51-30 behind 22 points and eight rebounds from Metaj.

Northville will host Stevenson tonight and won't play again until next Thursday against Walled Lake

Netters perfect for the week

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

Northville cruised right along, as it has for much of the tennis season, with heavy thunder showers the only thing slowing them down Friday afternoon.

The Mustangs completed yet another week losing only one set, let alone a match, in wins over Churchill, Farmington, Plymouth Salem and John Glenn.

Against the Chargers from Churchill, two matches were suspended because of the major storms that overtook southeastern Michigan Friday evening. Both Mustang players were leading at the time of the suspension.

At number one singles, Kristin Smith won, 6-0, 6-0, quickly, avoiding the rain. Jessie Mills was leading, 6-1, 3-1, when the rain hit. Jenny Androne and Joanna Lee wasted no time in winning their matches, 6-1, 6-1.

Christina Chase and Kristin Potchynok played brilliantly at number one doubles, 6-0, 6-0, as did Anuja Deo and Angela Trapnell at number two, 6-0, 6-2.

Nicole Lindholm and Laura Delano didn't have a chance to finish their match, although they won the first set 6-2. Jessica McParland and Gina Halicki won at four doubles, 6-0, 6-4.

Thursday's makeup match with Salem saw little challenge for the Mustangs. Smith won, 6-1, 6-0. Mills and Kerry Woolfall smashed their Rock opponents, 6-0, 6-0. and Lee also won handily, 6-1, 6-0.

Filkin will have the chance to welcome competition this weekend when the team participates in the Holly Invitational. Teams in the field include Ann Arbor Huron, Port Huron Northern, Holly and St. Johns. Filkin said it will be a good chance for her team to play against some great competitors.

But before that tournament, the Mustangs face North Farmington tomorrow. Monday the team played Walled Lake Western and took on Stevenson yesterday (after Record deadline).

Golfers shoot well, but not well enough

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

Shooting perhaps its best round of team golf in coach Trish Murray's time at Northville, the Mustangs ran into a hot John Glenn team and fell to the Rockets in a tie breaker.

Northville and John Glenn shot an identical score of 201. But in golf-the tiebreaker goes to the team with the best sixth score, and the Rockets edged out the Mustangs in that category.

They walked out of there Friday really disgusted. Murray said. 'You don't mind losing when you've played bad, but it's tough when you play good." Murray said this was probably the best score her team has posted in a long time.

*Our won/loss record is not indicative of how good this team really is," she said. "It's hard for me to tell them that we can shoot a 201 again tomorrow without them saying 'and we'll probably lose.' But I have confidence in this team, and I think we'll turn it around."

Phil Cowles and Dean Conway led the way with 38s. and Chad Elledge also broke 40 with his 39. Greg Rankin and Raj Mehta had a 42 and 44 to round out Against Canton Sept. 17, the Mustangs lost 216-225. Olin and Cowles shot team-leading 43s and Elledge had a 45. Mehta shot a 46 and Rankin and Conway came in with 48s.

In a 210-220 loss to Walled Lake Central, Rankin and Cowles led the team with 43s, Olin shot a 44, and Elledge and Conway had 45s.

Northville played Farmington Monday and Churchill yesterday, and hosts Stevenson Monday afternoon at Tanglewood. Wednesday the team opens the month of October at North Farmington.

Most importantly, low-fat diets can fit anyone's lifestyle and should be followed by the whole family, so get the family involved. Not only does a controlled diet teach children to eat better, it prevents later heart disease and many Exercise does not have to cost money, cause distress, or be inconvenient or disruptive. It just has to be done. "Just do it" is more than a slogan. It's a possibility.

Aerobic exercise is any activity that raises your heart rate. Optimally, you need to raise your heart within 65-85 percent of your maximum heart rate. You can calculate your maximum heart rate by subtracting your age from 200. It is important to maintain that heart rate for 25 minutes.

Remember it takes about 10-15 minutes to raise your rate to that sume no less than 1,200 calories level, that means you need to set per day. Once you fall below 1,200 aside about 30-45 minutes, four-five times a week for cardiovascular conditioning and to accelerate weight loss.

The maximum weight loss goal should be about one to two pounds per week. This allows the body to adjust to the metabolic and weight changes, in other words to maintain homeostasis safely. Also, slow weight loss through lifestyle changes ensures that the change can be maintained throughout

Once you are down to your desired weight you only need to exercise three times per week to maintain your weight and cardiovascular conditioning. Remember to maintain a safe caloric intake and low-fat nutrition. That never needs to change unless you start competing athletically. It can hap-

Recent reports about diet pills such as Redux and Phen-fen have people thinking that these are miracle pills that will cause weight loss. These medications are intended for the morbidly obese who use a doctor's supervision and verv strict monitoring. There are various serious side-effects and they are not safe for everyone.

These pills cause appetite suppression to help individuals start a diet and exercise program and do nothing to speed metabolism. Often the effects are short-term and often there are no effects for individuals who take the medications for more than six months.

Also, these pills do not work for people who do not follow a diet and exercise program. However, for the vast majority of people, working with a doctor or nutritionist on weight loss is enough to reach the desired goal.

Lastly, you need to think about getting rid of some of those nasty nabits such as smoking and drinking too much.

What's too much? Any amount of tobacco is too much. Smoking can put you at risk for prostate cancer, breast cancer and colon cancers.

So don't quit quitting. There are many products on the market and free support classes to help you. You only need to call the Cancer Society for information.

Also, see your physician before using any anti-smoking aids. The most successful quitters are the ones who are highly motivated to quit regardless of what method they used.

Remember to eat properly and exercise and you will not gain weight once you quit.

Breast cancer survival rate is on the rise

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Women throughout the country will combine their efforts to focus greater attention on breast cancer, helping to educate women everywhere about the benefits of early detection.

Since breast cancer is most treatable when it is detected in its earliest stages, the five-year survival fate for localized breast cancer has riser from 18 percent in the 1940s to 93 per-cent today. In 1998 the occurrence of breast cancer grew to more than 184,000 new cases. Breast cancer will affect one in eight women at some time in their life. There is a significant increase in risk by the age of 50. The most common risks for breast cancer are being a woman and growing older.

Several risk factors have been identified to have 'a strong link to breast cancer. These

• A history of a female relative who developed the disease (e.g., mother, sister, daugh-

- A personal history of breast cancer;
- Having a child after age 30; Having never had children;
- Early menstruation;
- Late menopause; and · Obesity.

While family history is significant, women should understand that 80 percent of women who develop breast cancer have had no family history of the disease.

The most important self-care measures a woman can take toward early detection of breast cancer are a routine mammography, clinical breast examinations and breast selfexaminations.

The purpose of mammography screening is to find breast cancer before a woman notices any symptoms. Beginning at age 40, all women should have a routine minimography every year. If there is a family history, the physician may choose to conduct screenings at an earlier

The exposure to radiation is less than two RADS (radiation absorbed doses), which is regulated by federal mammography guidelines to protect women.

Women should be concerned about where they choose to have their mammography. The Food and Drug Administration approves a facility to perform mammography screenings only if it meets American College of Radiology standards. These assure that:

- The facility uses machines that are dedicated to mammograms:
- A registered technologist conducts the mammography screening;
- The radiologist is specifically trained; and · Mammogram machines are calibrated annually. Many health insurance plans pay for a portion or the entire cost of the mammography. Also, the Michigan Department of Community Health offers mammograms at no cost to women who meet federal guidelines. Call 1-800-922-MAMM to obtain more information about this service. The clinical breast examination is the second part of breast screening. It should be included in a woman's yearly physical exam. If the physician does not perform the exam, women should request it.

Breast self-exam is the third part of the screening. Women should perform breast selfexaminations once a month, about three to five days after the menstrual cycle has ended. If a woman is no longer menstruating, she should pick a certain day of the month and conduct the exam on the same day each month.

The exact role of diet in breast cancer prevention is still unclear. Maintaining a healthy lifestyle is recommended for lowering cancer risk and maintaining overall health.

In addition, recent research from the Nurse's Health Study and a 1994 report in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute suggest that curtailing alcohol consumption and engaging in regular exercise may be two ways of lowering the risk of developing the disease.

Day lilies are most versatile perennial

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Americans are rediscovering the beauty of perennials. Bursting back onto the scene with gusto are day lilies, a diverse group of perennial flowers unsurpassed for versatility in the landscape.

Anyone who associates the day lily exclusively with yellow or orange starshape blooms might wonder what all the excitement is about. The news is that this old-fashioned flower has a great new look. Blossoms now come in all colors of the rainbow, pink, purple, red, peach, apricot and all shades in between, including dramatic color combinations. Petals may be ruffled, twirled or flecked with eye-catching glitter called "diamond dust."

And there are lots of new sizes and shapes, ranging from giant spidery blooms a full 12 inches wide to biscuitshape miniatures barely 2 inches across.

Day lily plants may rise to a height of 4 feet or remain as short as 12 inches. The taller varieties make marvelous additions to traditional perennial borders, while low-growing varieties perform beautifully as ground covers. Day lilles can also be planted in naturalistic drifts in lawns. where they will multiply and spread like

The scientific name for day lily is hemerocallis, meaning "beauty for a day." Although individual blooms are shortlived, opening and fading the very same day, individual plants continue to blossom for weeks. Flower stalks of modern cultivars carry an average of 20 to 30 buds. On a given day, anywhere from one to six buds may unfurl. As one flower stalk becomes depleted, another takes its place, either immediately or a few weeks

With the advent of early, midseason and late-blooming varieties, gardeners now can have continuous blooms from spring into autumn. In fact, day lilles flourish with little care in almost every part of the country.

The old rule of thumb used to be that evergreen varieties do best in the South and dormant varieties-do-best-in-the North, but nowadays the vast majority of modern evergreens and dormants do well just about everywhere. Evergreen day lilies retain their foliage throughout the year, while the tops of dormant varieties die to the ground each autumn.

The tuberlike roots can be planted in spring or fall, preferably in spots receiving at least six hours of direct sunlight daily. Day lilles are not fussy about soil. although a well-drained loam is best. If soil is heavy, mix in some peat moss or compost at planting time. While it is best to plant the roots immediately upon arrival, they can be stored out of sun in a cool, dry area or in damp sand for a week or two. They should not be left in standing water for more that a few hours.

Day lilles should not be planted too deep. Instead of digging a hole, my method is to loosen the soil to a depth of I foot and then plant a cone barely below ground level. After spreading the roots over the cone, I cover them with about 1 1/2 Inches of soil and water thoroughly.

Spacing, of course, varies according to how they are used in the landscape. Whenever I do any mass planting, say with 20 or more day lilles per bed, I space the roots 12 to 15 inches apart. But when I want a dazzling display, I plant in groups of four or five, leaving just 6 inches between individuals.

Never fertilize newly planted day lilies for at least four to six weeks after planting. However, established plants should be fed with a low-nitrogen fertilizer (use half the amount recommended on the label) and only in the early spring and again in fall, when temperatures are cool.

New plantings should be kept moist for the first month. Although established day lilies are drought-resistant, they perform best if watered whenever the soil becomes dry. Beyond this, little care is needed. Every three to five years, day lilies become rootbound and should be divided. Simply dig up any overgrown clumps in spring or fall, shake off the loose dirt and then separate each clump by hand, or with a knife, into a few individual plants.

The divisions can be replanted or given away to friends. The roots are extremely hardy and do not have to be dug and stored for winter, even in the coldest cli-

I have a special tip on how to use day lilies as cut flowers. Pick individual blooms early in the day, when they are freshest, and then put them in the refrigerator to delay closing. Bring them out just before they are needed and pop each one in a waterpick inside the arrangement. Day lilles arranged at dinnertime will last until midnight.

Long Lake Pines, a new residential development in Hartland Township, is located on the site of a former summer resort.

By JANE BENSKEY

With the wetlands, woodlands, pine forests, rolling terrain and like nearby, its not hard to imagine that Long Lake Pines — a new development in Hartland Township - was once part of summer resort community.

Pleasant Valley Golf and Country Club Estates, situated on the south side of Long Lake, was developed in 1929 to attract vacationers willing to make the day-long trek from Detroit to the rural haven of Livingston County.

In the ensuing years, the Depression, World War II and later, the construction of U.S. 23 in the early 1960s which bisected the development, brought changes to the resort and it ultimately

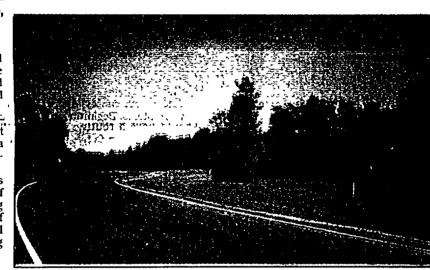

In the years that followed, a wooded and rolling site, now thought to have been the resort's golf course, remained untouched, reverting to its natural state.

Fast forward to the late 1990s — when a trip to Detroit averages about an hour —and the same site begins a new life as a 42-acre luxury single-family site condominium community.

Long Lakes Pines (located three miles south of M-59, east of U.S. 23, off Blaine Road) is being developed by Long Lake Pines Development Group of Farmington Hills. The first phase will have 24 homesites, on property ranging from .82 acres to 1.9 acres.

New condominium community offers open space and plenty of trees

In keeping with the trend of other openspace communities emerging in Livingston County, Long Lake Pines will feature 11 acres of open space, including wetlands and parks. The open space will be located in four different areas of the development and there will be nature trails. Residents will also have access to Long Lake from a private park.

For Eric Gold of the Slavik Company in Farmington Hills, one of the co-partners in the development, the major appeal of Long Lake Pines will be the property itself.

"It's a gorgeous site. Most of the other farms and so there's no landscaping or trees. So I think that's what's going to set this apart," said Gold.

Wayne Avis, also a partner in the development, concurred and said that preserving the natural features of the property was a big issue.

"We have taken down the absolute minimum of trees and left the landscape as natural as we could," Avis said.

That concern won't end once the property is sold. Avis explains that the developers have reserved the right to approve tree removal by property owners. Any tree four inches in diameter (or over) will require approval before being taken down," he said.

Of the 24 lots, the majority are wooded, some with dense pine forests, and many are wooded with wetland areas. Lot prices range from $60,500 to $93,500, and thus far, half of the lots have been sold to First Choice Builders of Brighton.

The minimum size requirements for the homes will range from 2,200 square feet for a ranch and 2.500 square feet for a two-story. but Gold predicts that most of the homes going into Long Lake Pines will be larger, with prices starting at $350,000. Construction is expected to begin this month.

Development improvements include underground utilities.

LET'S TALK

Real estate agents may be knowledgeable, skillful, and hardworking, but they are not alchemists-they cannot take a house that is unappealing and make it attractive to prospective buyers at a good price on the basis of words alone.

A lot of the responsibility for selling a home rests with the sellers ability to boost its curb appeal with proper landscaping, paint, and boost its curb appeal with proper landscaping, paint, and repair/maintenence. Unless they are looking for a fixer upper, most prospective buyers are drawn to homes they can move into with a minimum of fuss. If this means sellers must paint interior walks with a fresh coat of neutral color paint and remove worn carpeting, so be it. A neat house it easier to sea.

Some people suggest baking an apple pie white prospective buyers are visiting to make the house small thomey. Find: but if potential buyers see a missing shingle, a rotting board, or leaky faucet, pie aroma worst help. Finding inexpensive repairs that haven't been corrected toll the product of the content of the corrected toll the content of the co

the buyers that the house is neglected. They fil wonder: If you haven't fixed the minor problems, what major problems have you also ignored? Walk around your home, and try to view it with a "buyer's eye." I advise my clients on the repairs to make that count. Find me at Coldwell Banker/Schwetzer

Real Estate? 41860 W: Six Mile Rd., or phone 347-3050

HINT: By improving the appearance of their homes, sellers may increase the perception on the part of prospective buyers that their homes are worthy of prices in the upper level of their range.

"It's always been a dream of mine to own my own dance studio and have it in the town I grew up in," said Kristen Beck, co-owner of Milford Dance Academy.

The opening of the studio this June was a dream she and partner Megan Shoaff shared. And it took a family effort to prepare the former Sight and Sound building next to the Appe'teaser for classes.

'We completely gutted it out,' said Megan of the 100-year-old

Kristen's brother, Doug Beck,

Dick Beck, did the electrical work. Megan's brother did the carpet.

Although they're still putting on the finishing touches, they were ready for fall classes, which began Sept. 2.

'It's been really exciting and rewarding ... It's been a thrill being a part of Main Street," said Megan.

Kristen says they hope the studio gives more children and adults that opportunity to experience

"A lot of people wonder how can Milford support three dance studios. There are still thousands of and now they have the chance." Kristen said. "We have over 200 students registered for fall."

The instructor wants people to know she's not a newcomer to the community.

People wonder where we came from," Kristen said. "I grew up in Milford and went to all three Milford Schools; Johnson Elementary, Muir Middle School and Milford

High School." Kristen says dance can be beneficial to children in lots of ways.

"It's fun for the kids. It can be a good discipline as well. And it introduces them to music.

The couple enjoys inspiring their young clientele.

"Megan and I really love kids." Kristen said. "I know it's a joy for me and Megan as well, when you're able to give someone something and teach them something. It's the look in their eyes that said I did it. It's hard to put into words the feeling that you get."

Megan says that dance is a great

We're trying to build confidence in our students. Dance is really a positive experience ... We want them to walk away feeling confident and that they've accomplished something," she said.

Both Kristen and Megan are studying to become certified with Dance Masters Organization, which allows the students they teach to attend conventions and participate in competitions.

"It provides us with continuous training as well. It betters our students because it betters our teaching," Kristen said.

Academy is culmination | Timeless tips for investments

You don't need a million dollars to become a successful investor. What you do need is the determination and patience to follow some basic, proven investment strategies. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants offers 10 timeless investment strategies to get you started.

MATCH YOUR GOALS

The best investments for your portfolio depend on your personal goals and time frames, as well as on general market conditions. Safe investments with low price volatility may be appropriate for shortterm goals - such as saving for a down payment on a home in a year

For long-term goals like saving for retirement, you can select growth investments with less concern about short-term price fluctu-of investment. One of the easiest , formed other investment vehicles ways to diversify your portfolio is to invest in mutual funds, which allow you to own a range of stocks and bonds.

BUY GRADUALLY

Rather than trying to time the market, try dollar-cost averaging the process of investing a fixed dollar amount in a stock or mutual fund on a regular basis, typically monthly. When you follow this approach, your money buys more shares when the price is low and fewer shares when the price is higher. Over time, this strategy evens out the price you pay for your shares.

AIM TO BEAT INFLATION

Inflation steadily erodes the value of our money. As the cost of living goes up, your investments need to earn more than the current inflation rate to stay ahead of the game.

Investing in stock is the best way to beat inflation. Although there is the risk that you may lose part or all of your investment, over the long run stocks have out perby a significant margin.

KNOW YOUR RISK TOLERANCE

The amount of risk you are willing to take often determines your return. Typically, the more volatile an investment is, the more profit you can make, but also the more loss you may incur. Safe investments generally promise a specific but more limited return and don't always keep pace with inflation.

LADDER INVESTMENTS

When you ladder your investments, such as CDs or bonds, you vary their maturity dates so that you have access to your money at preplanned intervals. The strategy, used effectively, can provide you with a steady stream of income and protect you in the event interest rates drop significantly.

KNOW WHEN TO SELL

Sometimes, the difference between winning and losing in the stock market isn't knowing when to buy, it's knowing when to sell. When you buy a stock, set an upside and downside price target.

When the stock reaches your tar get high, reevaluate it. If it's still strong, hold onto it. If the stock price remains flat or drops, it may be time to sell and cut your losses.

INVEST FOR THE LONG TERM

If you have a well thought-out investment plan and the patience to stick with it over time, you are likely to fare better than investors who make purchases on hot tips and sell in a panic every time the market drops.

SHELTER INVESTMENTS

Not paying taxes on investment earnings can make a big difference over the long run in your total investment. To maximize your after-tax return, consider taking advantage of investments, such as municipal bonds and tax-exempt money funds, which provide taxexempt income.

KEEP TABS ON PORTFOLIO

You should periodically review your investments and asset allocation in light of your changing goals, tax laws and investment performance and opportunities. This will help to ensure that your money keeps working for you.

Pay structures changing

Despite the slowing growth of overall salary increase budgets in Southeast Michigan, salaried and hourly wage earners took home bigger paychecks in 1997 than in 1996, due largely to substantial increases in other company cash payouts, according to a recent survey by the American Society of Employers (ASE).

The findings of The 1997 and 1998 Salary Budget Survey-Southeast Michigan Region" cover 245 firms in the 13-county area surrounding metropolitan Detroit.

According to the survey, merit budget increases declined from 1996 to 1997 in the 142 companies that were tracked over the past two consecutive years. These reductions included a drop to 4.07 percent in 1997 from 4.11 percent in 1996 for nonexempt (hourly) employees; a drop to 4.09 percent in 1997 from 4.14 percent in 1996 for exempt (salaried) employees; and a drop to 4.13 percent in 1997 from 4.19 in 1996 for officer/executive employees.

that the 35 companies reporting payouts for the past two consecutive years increased their average profit-sharing distributions to $2,100 in 1997 from $729 in 1996. Similarly, average gain-sharing (group incentive) payouts among the 20 companies that offer this type of variable compensation jumped to $2,665 in 1997 from $1,500 in 1996. A total of 75 percent of the 245 companies surveyed in 1997 now offer some form of variable compensation.

There is a big shift in compensation away from base pay toward pay for performance," said Dave Girolamo, survey analyst for ASE. *Companies see this shift as a way to hold the line on base salaries and stabilize fixed costs."

Projections for 1998 indicate this trend will continue. General budget increases are expected to slip to 3.4 percent in 1998 for both nonexempt and exempt employees from this year's levels of 3.6 per-cent (nonexempt) and 3.5 percent falloff, dropping to 3.5 percent in 1998 from 3.6 percent in 1997.

Similarly, salary structure increases are expected to decline to 3.1 percent in 1998 for both nonexempt (currently 3.3 percent) and exempt (currently 3.4 percent) employees, with a corresponding decrease in officer/executive adjustments to 3.2 in 1998 from 3.7 in 1997.

Bucking an eight-year declining trend, merit budget increases are expected to rise slightly to 4.1 percent in 1998 from 4.0 in 1997 for both nonexempt and exempt employees, with officer/executive levels remaining constant. Girolamo speculates that the declining unemployment rate may have precipitated this reversal. In the past three years, unemployment has dropped to 4.1 percent from 4.5 percent in 1996 and 5.1 percent in

Minimum wage raise impacts unemployment

The increase in Michigan's minimum wage to $5.15 an hour on ept. 1, also signaled a change in the requirements needed to qualify for state unemployment benefits.

As of Sept. 7, the earnings an individual will need to qualify for jobless benefits will increase by $12 a week to a minimum of $154.50. Doug Stites, acting director of the Michigan Employment Security Agency said. The rise is being triggered by the state's minimum wage increase."

The higher earnings requirement will affect new jobless benefit claims filed for weeks of unemployment beginning on or after Sept. 7. Under the previous minimum wage of $4.75 an hour, the weekly earnings requirement was $142.50.

Stites noted that the amount of earnings required to qualify for Jobless benefits are tied to the state's minimum wage. By law, most individuals qualify for benefits by earning at least 30 times the state's minimum hourly wage in each of 20 weeks. The 20 weeks must fall within the 52-week period preceding the individual's application for benefits.

Summer sales are best of the year

Michigan retail sales rebounded in July as summer promotions helped produce some of the best numbers of the year, according to the latest figures available from the Michigan Retailers Association

Overall, 52 percent of the state's retailers reported increased yearto-year sales for July - the strongest monthly showing of 1997 and a 7 percent increase from June, according to the Michigan Retail Index, a joint project of the MRA and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. There was a significant increase in shopping activity in July. Sidewalk sales, clearance sales and other summer promotions helped drive up overall retail sales for the month," said Larry Meyer, MRA Chief Executive Officer and former director of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Retailers' projections for the next three months also rose. Sixty-nine percent said they expect to increase sales during the late summer and fall period. In June, 64 percent said they anticipated highmonths.

We're looking for July's positive numbers to extend through August and September's back-to-school shopping period and into the fall season," said Meyer.

Sales increased throughout all regions of the state except East Michigan (Saginaw, Bay City and the thumb area). Northern Michigan retailers reported a strong rebound in July, moving from June's 41 percent to 51 percent in

No, this isn't a joke. And yes, the decimal is in the right place.

We don't blame people for being skeptical. But you really do get things like dual airbags, dent-resistant bodyside panels, a steel timing chain and a stainless steel exhaust. All for an M.S.R.P. of about $12,000. That's the M.S.R.P. of this 1997 Saturn SL, including AC, retailer prep and transportation. Of course, total cost will vary seeing how other options and state-required equipment are extra, as are things like tax and license. # A road trip to Holland planted Pumpkinfest seed

by Janet Renwick Pumpkinfest Historian

It was a sunny spring morning when a group of South Lyon business people took a trip to the Holland Tulip Festival in Holland, Michigan.

During the trip the idea of something to bring the people of South Lyon together began to bring out ideas. We thought of other towns and what they did. It seemed that a festival would be something to look into.

Dean Sparks was most insistent that we not let the idea go without doing something about it. Thus, the pumpkin seed was planted, and on Thursday, January 31, 1985, Dean was chosen as our President, Bill Erwin, Vice President, Janet Renwick, Secretary and Helen Read, Treasurer. The Board of Directors were Tedd Wallace, Bill Bakhaus, Loren Read, Lonnie Potter and Janice Sparks.

With this team we set out to form the first Pumpkinfest Festival. The name of South Lyon Area Activities Association was suggested and those present made the motion unanimous, it was so named to include the whole South Lyon area. Our purpose was "to promote area historical societies, support area teen projects, to support the needy and handicapped."

Promotions Chairman and Clarence Harder, Activities. The first meeting was held in the basement of the Witches Hat Depot.

Our first fund raiser was a spaghetti dinner at the Centennial Elementary School and a Walk-a-thon. The following years included Donkey Basketball games, professional wrestling match, RV parking for the festival, antiques, dinner theater, ugly dog contest, barber shop quartet and Vegas Night ... and on until today.

The dream for tomorrow is to have our very own fairground from which to have all the room we would like and grow even more.

YOU CAN HELP BE A PART OF THAT DREAM ...

Pumpkinfest parade kicks off weekend

The 13th annual Pumpkinfest parade will start at 10 a.m. on October 4th and end around noon. Line up is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. in the parking lot of Bartlett Elementary School at the north end of Warren.

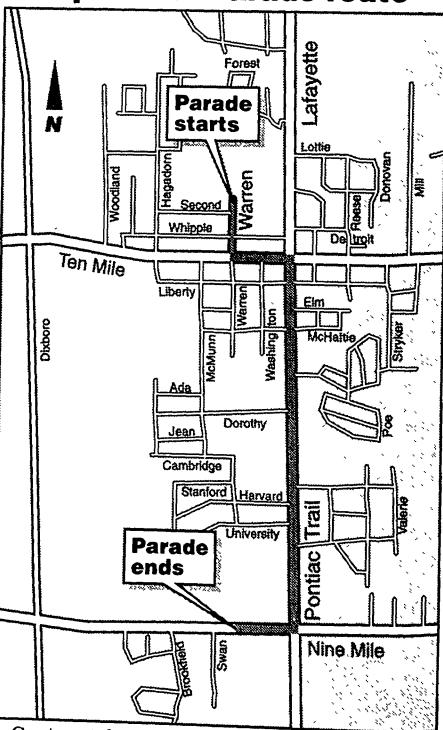

Participants who would like to be judged should plan on arriving at 9 a.m. to give the judges plenty of time to make their selections. The following categories for selections will be; best car, best float, best theme and a judging for non-sponsored horse participants.

For those participants with horses, we require that all children seven and under have a lead line attached and ages eight through eighteen have escorts. This is for the safety of both the riders and spectators.

Once started the parade will travel south on Warren to Whipple, east to Pontiac Trail, south to Nine Mile, west to South Lyon

Gordon Showerman serves as parade's grand marshal

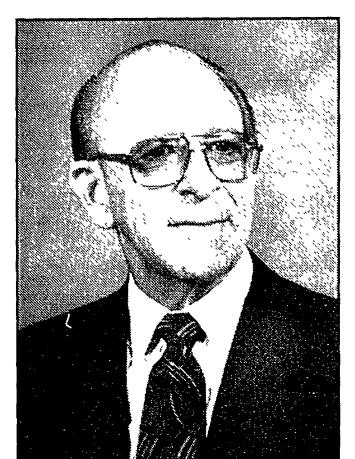

This year the parade Grand Marshal is Gordon Showerman.

He was born on a farm operated by his father near Silver Lake. At about age 5 the family moved to a white house on Ten Mile Rd. across from Tanqueray Hills I. His father along with Gordon and his brothers farmed the land around that house.

When Gordon was 14 years old he got his first job, other then farming, at a grocery store named St. Clair Hamlins Market which was located where Norm Somers store is on the corner of Pontiac Trail and Ten Mile. Later a new store was built across the street where the Bum Steer is located, Gordon continued to work at the new store.

Gordon heard about a store that was for sale just down the street, the one you know as the RCA store. In January of 1941 his father helped him purchase it and that was the start of Showerman's IGA. He later had his store in the building that is currently the South Lyon Post Office.

Mr. Showerman and his wife raised two sons and three daughters, who all work at the current Showerman's store in Brookdale Square. They also have ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He enjoys spending what spare time he has working in his yard. Mr. Showerman has been a part of South Lyon all his life and was in business from 1941 until he retired in 1974. When asked when he retired he stated with a chuckle " I started in 1974 and was done with retirement in 1975 or '76." He still visits the store to keep in touch with "What's going on."

When asked, what do you see for South Lyon in twenty years he replied, "Another Novi, South Lyon is growing by leaps and bounds."

Parade showcases many groups

will be the South Lyon Radio Club, South Lyon Fire Department and others. With everyone's support and energy this will be the best parade in the history of Pumpkinfest.

Leading our parade this year will be Mr. Gordon Showerman as our parade Marshall. Also for your pleasure we will have cars, horses, floats, marching bands, clowns, and many local children. The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps and a Tom Mix impersonator will also add variety to the parade.

Please remember that by order of the Police Department there can NOT be any candy thrown from parade participants. People along the street are advised to keep children back so marchers and floats have all the room they need.

Thank you to all those in our 1997 parade and to everyone that is helping. I hope it will be an enjoyable time for everyone.

Please call Ole Hagen for parade application and information at (248) 437-9158. For questions regarding horse participation contact Nancy Harm at (248) 437-5672. You may also pick up parade applications at the Herald Office or Chamber of Commerce Office.

Salt Bath Hardening

Salt bath (convective heating) is preferred over other methods of heat treating due to unsurpassed temperature uniformity of bath (typical +/- 2°F) and the ability of heating and quenching uniformly thin and thick sections of the same part or mixed loads. In a salt bath, parts simply cannot exceed the prescribed salt temperature. Desired properties are achieved on a highly predictable and repeatable hasis lontriding is a method of surface hardening producing nitrided cases, using the glow discharge technology to generate nitrogen ions to the surface of a metallic part for diffusion. This process can be applied to finished ferrous metal parts and is done in a vacuum vessel at low temperatures (750-1040°F or 400-560°C). This diffusion based process improves resistance to wear, fatigue and corrosion. Extends the life of tooling and machinery components used in the metal forming, plastics, forging and die casting industries up to 10 times, depending on application.

lonWearsm.

This surface treatment process combines the benefits of lonitriding and Steam Treating. It provides a highly wear and corrosion resistant ceramic in nature structure. The aesthetic blueblack oxide finish enhances its ability to retain lubricants. May be applied to any ferrous metals.

Kiwanis loyally support Pumpkinfest from the start

Kiwanis was one of the first organizations that jumped on the Pumpkinfest bandwagon.

Dean Sparks, one of the founding fathers of Pumpkinfest was a Kiwanian. When it was time to promote the first Pumpkinfest, he came to our organization for assistance. We helped with setting up, parking of cars and setting up the entertainment tent that was on the Kiwanis property next to the Kiwanis Hall.

The Kiwanians used their facilities for pancake breakfasts, lunches and we served dinners for about three years. At that time a couple of the local churches started serving dinners and our club opted to do away with the dinners in favor of the churches.

The Kiwanians still are very active with Pumpkinfest and has a member on the Board of Pumpkinfest. We are located with our food concession in the 6th grade Cafetorium of the school and feature our pancake breakfasts, lunches and snacks on Saturday and Sunday of Pumpkinfest.

All Profits that the Kiwanis Club raises flows back into our community. A few of the benefactors of the proceeds are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Senior Citizens, Active Faith, Scholarships, Community Education, South Lyon Choirs, and the National Honor Society.

Your continued support of our food concession during Pumpkinfest helps us meet our goals in serving our community. WE THANK YOU ALL...

Custodial staff at SLMS merits special thanks

As we draw closer to this year's Pumpkinfest we are reminded of a special group of men and women, the custodians and engineering staff of South Lyon Middle School. These people take time out of their busy lives to help us.

Without their help and dedication over the years it would have been very difficult to put our show on. They rearrange their cleaning schedule on Friday night so that the downstairs is available to Pumpkinfest. This is especially important now that the crafters can check in on Friday evening.

There are also custodians and an engineer who arrive bright and early Saturday and Sunday morning to open the school up for us, they are also available during the day to keep the school clean and to help us with any problems that arise. Then there are the custodians who stay late on Saturday night to lock the school and get it ready for Sunday's craft show. They also come back again on Sunday night to get the school presentable for the students and teachers on Monday morning.

Thanks also goes to Charles (Charlie) McGinnis and William (Dan) Hock for their help and cooperation. They meet with us throughout the year to work out any problems encountered during the previous festival and any anticipated changes with us. We, the Pumpkinfest Committee, would like to thank all these people for their hard work and dedication over the years. We would like you to know we appreciate all of you.

South Lyon Ambulance: Always ready to faithfully serve

By Dennis Timmermann

For many years, ambulance service in the South Lyon community was provided by the Phillips Funeral Home. When an ambulance request was received, a stretcher, first aid equipment, and a red rotating light would be added to the hearse for the call.

As state regulations increased, most Michigan funeral homes stopped offering ambulance service in the late 1960's. South Lyon's funeral home was no exception and stopped providing services in 1969.

The City's fire department began operating the community's ambulance with a white panel van, donated by a local bump shop. Shortly thereafter, the City purchased its first real ambulance, a used Pontiac high-top station wagon.

The City's first new Ambulance, a 1972 Chevrolet van was purchased under a federal grant, and the white panel van was retired. The Pontiac station wagon was also retired, following the purchase of a second ambulance in 1974.

During this period, the corps of ambulance volunteers grew, and in 1976 the service was detached from the fire department, into its own division of the City's Department of Public Safety. In 1977, a home was purchased next to the fire/ambulance station and volunteers began staying at the house during their shifts. The service following a successful fund raising drive purchased new ambulances, a 1978 modular unit and a 1980 van.

On January 26, 1982, SLA began providing paramedic advanced life support service to the community. It was only the fifth ambulance service in Michigan to do so with a totally volunteer staff.

Attracting volunteers continued to be a challenge to the City, and in 1984 the first full-time EMS coordinator was hired by the City to manage the ambulance service. A number of changes and enhancements were made during this period, including the purchase of two new modular type ambulances. A second set of paramedic equipment was purchased enabling volunteers to manage two patients at this level.

Always on duty, hopefully never used: South Lyon Ambulance.

Volunteer recruitment reached a problematic stage in 1989 when the City's EMS Coordinator quit the service. The City asked Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) to manage the service in December, and in June 1990 formally transferred the operation to HVA as a subsidiary unit, in a cooperative effort with Lyon Township in which HVA provides three Senior/Training Paramedics to staff the station on a 24 hour basis along with volunteer EMT's and paramedics.

Following two successful fund raisers in 1993 and 1996, SLA purchased two state of the art modular ambulances.

Since then SLA has been used as a model by HVA to create community-based EMS systems in Chelsea, Tecumseh, and Cambridge (Irish Hills).

SLA offers safety demonstrations, CPR classes, station tours, and blood pressure screenings.

SLA provides service to the City of South Lyon, Lyon Township, as well as parts of Salem, Northfield, and Green Oak townships.

Each year SLA provides support to Pumpkinfest by standing by during the hours of operation of the festival.

Knights committed to service

The Local COUNCIL of the KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS is located at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in South Lyon and named after the first pastor of the Catholic Church in the area, Father Edmund Battersby.

FATHER BATTERS-BY COUNCIL received its charter in 1980 and has continued to grow in number and its charitable activities.

Membership in the Knights is open to practical Catholic men, who shall not be less than 18 years of age on their last birth-day.

The Council contributes financially to help support Boysville, a not-for-profit child caring and family preservation agency headquartered in Clinton, Mich.

Due to the generosity of the people of South Lyon and neighboring communities, during its annual Mental Retardation Drive, (MR-Drive, known to many as Tootsie Roll Sales), the Council has been able to distribute funds to the Special Education Department of South Lyon, ARC of Oakland County (an organization serving the mentally handicapped), Special Olympics of Oakland County and others.

The current "Blood Drive" being held on Saturday, October 5th, at Pumpkinfest in room 140 is sponsored by the Local Knights. They also sponsor Free-throw competition which is held for children of various ages in the community, at no cost to the participants.

If you and your family are attending the Fest, stop by and say HI to this group of fraternal/charitable men, maybe even have a hot dog and Pepsi.

We sincerely thank the community and local businesses for their generosity and hope that they will continue in supporting our endeavors.

There is no better exercise for the heart than reaching down and lifting people up! That is the purpose of that charitable organization known as the Knights of Columbus.

What would Pumpkinfest be without pumpkins?

That was the question asked of Chris and Jo Ann Williams, Driver's Berry Farm by the President of the Pumpkinfest, Dean Sparks, back in 1989, when they brought a load of big pumpkins to the parade.

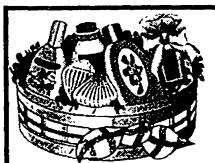

The Kiwanis Club purchased two truck loads of pumpkins from them that year to sell at Pumpkinfest. A few days later Dean called and asked if Driver's would grow Pumpkins to sell at the festival each year. So after thirty four years of growing summer raspberries, blueberries and fall raspberries and eight years later, they are still growing pumpkins to sell at the festival as well as at the farm.

They have moved this year from Doane Road to a short distance around the corner at 9191 Silverside Drive where they also sell the pumpkins, winter squash and gourds, and to decorate your yard for Halloween, they have straw, Indian corn and corn stalks.

Last year Driver's Berry Farm began sponsoring the pumpkin carving contest being held at the pumpkin tent. So go visit your favorite pumpkin patch and find that great pumpkin. Get creative: you can paint, carve and/or decorate them. After you have created your masterpieces bring them to the pumpkin tent for judging.

If you grow them your self and have great big'un's, bring them to the pumpkin tent to be judged for the biggest or tallest in all the land. There will be ribbons awarded for best painted, best decorated, most creative, biggest (around) and tallest.

You must have your pumpkin at the pumpkin tent to be entered in the contests on Saturday morning between 8 am and 10 am. judging will be at 1 pm Saturday.

Always on guard.

Small-town police force stays up-to-date

By Lt. Steven SharpeThe South Lyon Police provide full law enforcement service to the eight thousand (8,000) residents within the corporate limits of the city. They provide this service twenty four (24) hours per day, seven (7) days per week. In other words, they are ALWAYS prepared to serve.

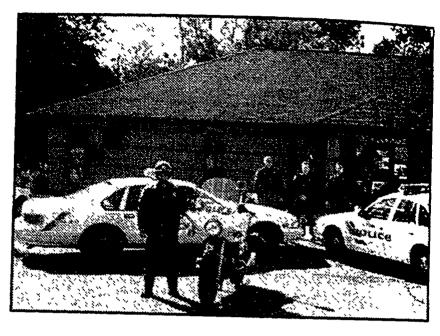

The department is staffed with fifteen (15) regular officers. This number includes the Chief of Police, a Lieutenant, two Sergeants and eleven Patrol officers. In addition two part-time officers currently augment the regular patrol force by providing extra manpower when needed. The department also employs two full-time service aides who provide clerical duties. Crossing Guards are also funded by the Department to keep children safe while walking to and from school.

Calls for police service are automatically routed to a central dispatch center at the Novi Police Department. When you dial 911 or the non-emergency number, the person answering your call is likely to be a Novi dispatcher.

If your call requires a police officer, the Novi dispatcher will notify South Lyon City Officers via radio. The Novi Police Department provides this service on an annual contractual basis and it has proven to be extremely cost efficient.

The Police Department's Command Staff has divided the city geographically into two patrol sectors. One sector consists of the area which lies to the north of Ten Mile Rd. (Lake Street), and the other sector includes the area to the south of Ten Mile Rd. One officer per shift is assigned to each patrol sector.

. The sector officer is primarily responsible for all law enforcement duties in his or her assigned area for their tour of duty. Back-up is provided by the other sector officer, and/or by a third officer, which in many cases is a supervisor. The Patrol Sector System has been instrumental in facilitating more efficient police response to calls for service.

Lloyd T. Colllins is the Chief of Police and serves as the department's administrator. Collins retired from the Southfield Police Department as a Deputy Chief prior to his appointment in South Lyon. He enjoys the unique challenges offered by a smaller, progressive city.

Chief Collins is particularity proud of his officers' reputation for quick arrival at the scenes of urgent or emergency situations. In many cases, officers are on the scene within one minute of receiving the call. That kind of response is tough to beat.

South Lyon City Police Officers respond to requests for assistance. They work day, afternoon and midnight shifts. They must work on Christmas Day, New Years Day, Memorial Day, Easter and on ALL of the other holidays. They are subject to call-in during their vacations and leave days for emergency situations. court appearances, and to fill staffing needs. They accept this because they understand that it is part of being a Police Officer.

They deserve the support of the public that they serve. So, when you see them providing security for the 1997 Pumpkinfest activities, give them a friendly wave, and let them know that they are appreciated.

Civil Air Patrol's Six gate Composite Squadron of Novi flies a Cessna 172.

CAP gets youth to aim high

Are you interested in airplanes, rockets, aerospace education, leadership skills and just plain fun? If you are, then, Civil Air Patrol (CAP) wants to talk to you.

Hi, I'm Second Lieutenant Larry Harrell and I'm in Civil Air Patrol, and I love it.

What is Civil Air Patrol? We are an all volunteer, civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force. We teach boys and girls ages 12-21 leadership skills and discipline. We learn how to fly airplanes. Cadets actually fly a Cessna 172 with a qualified instructor. We teach cadets first aid (including CPR) and emergency services. We teach Search and Rescue. CAP has been called out to look for lost children, downed aircraft including Northwest flight 255 and disaster relief. CAP does all this and more.

Civil Air Patrol was formed on December 1, 1941, just six days before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Yes! Civil Air Patrol has been around that long and we are getting bigger and better every day.

Now that you have an idea of what CAP is. let me tell what CAP is not.

WE ARE NOT THE MICHIGAN MILITIA

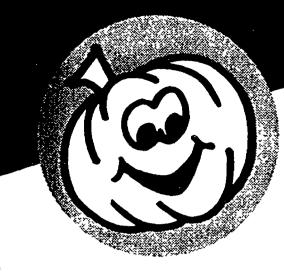

WE ARE NOT MILITARY WANNA BE'S
WE DO NOT GET PAID FOR OUR TIME
WE ARE NOT A MILITARY ACADEMY
OR SCHOOL

WE ARE NOT PART OF THE BOY/GIRL SCOUTS

WE DO NOT HAVE LAW ENFORCE-MENT CAPACITY

WE ARE a group of dedicated men and women, boys and girls who share a common interest: aviation, aerospace education, search and rescue and cadet programs. All of those include possible college scholarships. This year as in years past, CAP Cadets and Senior Members will assist with Pumpkinfest. We will have a booth, help with loading and unloading of crafters, traffic control and parking. So, if CAP sounds good to you, and you are age 12-21 stop by our booth and our cadet and senior staff will be happy to answer your questions.

We are always looking for new cadets and senior staff. Stop by and chat. You will see CAP members in action. Go with the best and fly like the rest with Civil Air Patrol.

Thanks from Pumpkinfest committee

The Pumpkinfest Committee would like to take this opportunity to express their appreciation for all the years of support from the community.

We would like to thank all of the businesses that have donated time, money or merchandise. These donations help to make the festival a success. We give a special commendation to all of the businesses around the site of Pumpkinfest for any inconveniences they may endure on behalf of Pumpkinfest.

We would also like to thank all of the South Lyon Middle School staff, custodians, students and parents, as well as the South Lyon Community School bus drivers for their patience, understanding and cooperation during the week leading up to Pumpkinfest. Thank you also to the South Lyon Board of Education for their support and guidance.

The committee would also like to express their gratitude to the South Lyon Kiwanis, South Lyon Knights of Columbus, South Lyon Lion's Club, Lyon Singers, South Lyon High School National Honor Society, South Lyon Boy/Cub Scouts and Sixgate Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol. These organizations have been faithful in providing assistance through the years.

Our biggest thank you goes to the entire community of South Lyon for their continuous support, participation and patronage of the Pumpkinfest. Because of all of you, Pumpkinfest continues to grow and be more successful each passing year. It is this success that allows us to continue helping and giving to the community.

The Pumpkinfest committee would like to invite all of you to participate in this years festival. Hope to see you there!

I rank Dziabuda's custom homes are extraordinary visions from a century long past. Inspired by the Victorian era, his carefully researched plans incorporate many of the best 19th Century architectural features; roofs with steep pitches and multiple gables, bay windows, cozy verandas and porches, multi-colored trim accentuated with gingerbread detailing. "We specialize in turn of the century homes," says Dziabuda, president and CEO of Unique Style Home Builders, Inc., in Howell.

This passion started with Dziabuda's own family. "When we were first married, my wife and I were seeking a Victorian style home," says Dziabuda. The couple visited several possible homesites, however, like many older structures each house was in dire need of repair and restoration. "We decided instead, to build our own Victorian home," says Dziabuda.

Focusing on the Queen Anne style, the Dziabuda's read all the books and articles they could find on period architecture and researched the subject thoroughly.

By the time their replicate Queen Anne home was completed, it had created quite a stir in their rural neighborhood. "A real estate agent even left a note on our door saying, Thank you for making the world a better place," Dziabuda recalls. Shortly after that, Dziabuda, a second generation tradesman in the construction business, designed a spec home that quickly sold. In 1988, after a third house was commissioned, Unique Style Homes was founded.

Today Frank Dziabuda approaches each new project with the same care and dedication as he did his very first home, focusing on the importance of blending authentic turn of the century architecture with today's amenities. "We pay a lot of attention to detail of the interior and exterior," says Dziabuda. In fact, Unique Style Homes still relies so heavily on research for accuracy that they often refer to their own in-house Victorian library. "We'll review 19th century books to get authentic detail," says Dziabuda. "It's a lot of fun."

Unique Style Homes even mills and designs their own interior trim to ensure homeowners are getting exactly what they want. "We're currently working with a home using cherry and walnut trim," says Dziabuda. He explains that this would normally be difficult find, however, these pieces can be created to spec right at the shop.

Such personal attention from a builder is very rare these days, but not at Unique Style Homes, where customers come first. "Regardless of whether we're working on a $140,000 home or a half million dollar home, we are committed to the same care and attention to detail," says Dziabuda.

Before Frank even bids on a job, he takes the time to meet with the customer to determine exactly what their needs are. "We have a questionnaire for the client to fill out and we ask them to bring in pictures and ideas. It's important that we see their view of the home they want to create. If they don't have plans, I recommend a designer that can help them," says Dziabuda. "We're building their dreams, not what we perceive their dreams to be."

While Dziabuda

will construct almost any period style or custom home on a client's lot, his unique homes can also be found at Orchard Village, a quaint community located in Hamburg Township near US-23.

Designed with family and friends in mind, Orchard Village is the ultimate traditional neighborhood," says Dziabuda. With 1/2 acre lots and homes set close to the street, Orchard Village offers a peaceful, close knit community atmosphere. All of the homes are designed to include an intimate front porch perfect for conversing with family members or passing neighbors. There are plenty of walking trails throughout the community and several play areas for children. "Family is the forefront of this community," says Dziabuda.

Buyers can select designs from one of three builders or bring in their own plan. Homes in Orchard Village range in the affordable $170's to $200's.

Frank's enthusiasm for fine architecture has been projected to every member of his skilled team and even his family, who often help in the woodworking shop. "At Unique Style Home Builders, Inc., it is our belief that a home is much more than brick and mortar, wood and stone," says Dziabuda. "A home provides a strong feeling of security, serenity and accomplishment. It is a place where family and friends find acceptance and love."

ROO Jack ar

aster baths are larger, more luxurious and more accommodating than ever before. These days, being accommodating means the bathroom must fit the needs of two different types of people at the same time.

Appropriately named Jack and Jill bathrooms, these lavish lavatories are designed with both the husband and wife in mind. What doesn't come in twos is often oversized. For example, many homeowners opt for giant tubs, 72" x 42" or larger. Garden, whirlpool and Jacuzzi tubs are very popular. They come in a wide range of comfortable amenities including back jets, neck jets, massage pillows, mood lights, multi-speed pumps, heaters and sheet flow faucets.

Homeowners are also selecting larger showers, including those specifically designed for two. According to Jeffrey Moss of Advance Plumbing in Walled Lake, these showers have separate nozzles, valves and temperature controls. "Two people can get ready at one time," says Moss. These systems are pressure balanced, so there is no fluctuating of hot and cold water.

There are also shower systems equivalent to a stand-up (vertical) whirlpool with jets set along the wall, enclosed steam bath showers, and combination whirlpool/bath steam shower systems. "Two people can be using two different portions of this tub at the same time," explains Frank Mathison of Mathison Supply Company in Livonia, Garden City and Canton.

Many bathrooms for two would not be complete without two sinks. But the double sink has come a long way from the small, matching ones you might remember. Nowadays sinks come in such a wide range of sizes, shapes, colors, depths, etc. And just because they are both set in the same room, doesn't mean they have to look the same. Kohler, for instance, has created a line of sinks with different configurations for the two sexes, with the woman's version being larger than the man's. Vanities can also vary. Different elevations not only accommodate people of varying heights, they can also add depth to the room. According to Beverly Hersh of Allied Cabinets Distributors Inc., in Lathrup Village, the sinks don't necessarily have to be next to each other. "They can even be placed outside the bathroom."

Certainly, today, master bathrooms are designed as much with aesthetics in mind as function. Fancy tiles, mirrored walls, wall sconces, skylights, and carpeted areas add a lot of intrigue to the master suite. Homeowners are selecting much more elaborate materials including marble, granite and Corian. Faucets can be purchased in satin nickel, satin chrome, gold and sterling silver. Even the cabinets are found in the richer, glazed woods.

Bathrooms from pg. 9

No matter what your style, the choices in bathroom products are almost endless. Homeowners are adding banks and banks of drawers for storage and a lot of counter space. As far as sinks, both overmount and undermount are popular choices. Overmounts are more artistic than ever before, undermounts are very aesthetic, they also offer more counter space and make cleaning easier.

Even faucets are available in as many as thirty different colors and come in every imaginable shape. "The sky's the limit," says Moss. "One handle, two handles, sheet flow faucets."

According to Moss, the majority of fixtures are sold in white, but cream colors, such as alabaster, and the ever popular biscuit are new favorites. "Warm is in," says

Hersh. "Warm tones add to the luxuriousness of homeowners you probably don't want much emphasis to be on your toilet. If this is the case, Kenneth Cantor, General Manager of Herald Wholesale in Oak Park recommends selecting an elongated one-piece low boy tank. "It's not obtrusive," says Cantor. For those that are considering a bidet in the bathroom, there are two basic options to select from, according to Cantor. The under the fill bidet, has valves on the rear and fills from straight up inside the bowl. The over the rim bidet fills from the rear. Since this bathroom must accommodate the needs of two people, it is best that you and your spouse come to a complete agreement on all of the plans before you get started. With the endless array

Carpeting Your Castle By Susan Graham

There's just something about carpeting that helps make a house a home. It exudes color, warmth and comfort all at the same time.

t is also one of the most affordable types of flooring you can buy. "Carpet is still a tremendous value," says Mike Kramer ⊥of A.R. Kramer in Livonia. Often carpeting can be purchased and installed for less than hardwood, ceramic tile and even some vinyl.

When it comes to a particular style of carpet, consumers are selecting what best suits their decor. The formal/traditional homeowner will still stay with velvets, plushes, and saxonies. The eclectic is looking for more pattern pieces and cut-andloop styles. Someone who has a contemporary home may go with a Berber or a contract style look. "Berber used to be segregated between one or two rooms, but now people are using them throughout the house," says Tim Scanlan of Donald E. McNabb Company in Milford. Berber carpets are generally care free, and wear very well. So do contract carpets, originally designed for commercial use, but now available in a wide assortment of styles for homes.

Kramer has noticed that many consumers are applying more unique carpeting to the lower levels of their homes. Texture and patterns are making a come back, including floral patterns, the floral trellis designs, and even plaids.

Carpeting your Castle from pg. 11

Another big trend includes the sisal stitch, a very textured, very flat carpet. It's great for traffic, but is a bit more daring as far as texture. This texture can help hide soil, however, the shortness of carpeting may show seams easier.

While beige and neutral toned carpets will always remain strong, Amy Chaims of Bloomfield Carpet and Flooring in Walled Lake sees greens, golds, and more muted tones as the new color choices of today. Natural straw colors are also big. According to David Ohlinger of Riemer Floors in Bloomfield Hills, those homeowners that move a lot are sticking with the more common beige. Those that plan to stay in their home longer are trying the bolder textures, colors, designs and prints.

Area rugs are a fun addition to any home and are perfect for protecting the high traffic sections of hardwood and ceramic floors. Homeowners also like to put rugs right over carpeting, such as underneath the coffee table. This is a great way to bring some additional color to a room especially if you have a cream sofa and cream carpeting.

Patterns from drapes, artwork, chandeliers, floral displays and wallpaper can be recreated in a rug. In fact, the possibilities are almost endless as far as customization. "Rugs are available in all different shapes and sizes, and also what we call free-form design," says Chaims, which means they can cut the rug in shapes to complement unusual patterns and furnishings. "The sky's the limit. It's almost like they're artwork for your floor."

"We can take anything that would normally be wall to wall carpet and turn it into a rug," says Ohlinger. They even offer leopard and zebra skin styles. "These are great for kids to play on," says Ohlinger.

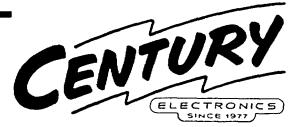

There are so many rug choices to select from, it might be difficult to make a decision. Ohlinger suggest taking home a sample of the rug for the night so you can see if it matches the current colors in your home.

Just like rugs, carpets can also be customized. Peggy Neilson-Beattie of Canterbury Carpets and Floor Design in Shelby Township does complete floor covering but specializes in borders and inset designs. Neilson-Beattie can sketch a custom design for the customer after considering the existing colors, designs, and patterns in a home. Once a border or inset is agreed upon by the customer, it can be added to most existing carpets and any new carpeting in about two to six weeks.

Carpets are long lasting products, and if properly cared for, won't need to be replaced for seven to twelve years. The best way to make a carpet last is to have it professionally cleaned twice a year. Dirt is trapped under fibers and when you continue to walk across fibers it causes the matting and crushing that destroys carpeting.

Good padding is also key. "The pad must share the traffic with the carpet," says Ohlinger. Select firm over soft, like felt or heavy rubber padding. Rubber adds feel appeal, while felt is very firm. If your carpet requires a certain pad, make sure that is what you select for underneath.

If you have special holiday plans, now may be the best time to consider replacing or sprucing up your carpet. Consider such issues as floor traffic, lifestyle, budget, and decor to help you make your decision.

Get Locked Before You Shop

Who would have guessed it_interest rates fell in July to the lowest they've been in 16 months.

So you decide now is a good time to move. You've heard that you should start by getting "pre-approved." This is the process where the mortgage lender verifies your credit history, employment and savings, and tells you what loan amount you quality for. A "preapproval" should not be confused with a "pre-qualification." A "pre-qualification" is the process in which you tell the lender how your credit is, how much you make and how much money you have to work with. After your lender verifies all the information, it is then they can approve you for a loan amount. (No guarantee as to mortgage approval is given during the pre-qualification time.) You don't want to be looking at $200,000 homes if you're only qualified for a $150,000 home.

Now you are ready to start to look for a house. But what happens if interest rates go back up while your looking for your perfect home? Is there anything you can do?

Yes, says Cathy DeLeo, owner of DeLeo Mortgage of Brighton. When shopping for mortgage lenders to get pre-approved for a loan, go with one that will lock in the interest rate (for a pre-determined amount of time) while you look for a home. For example, DeLeo Mortgage has a program called "Lock to Shop". "It gives the consumer 45 days to secure a purchase agreement, and we guarantee the interest rate for that 45 days, plus we'll give them another 30 days after that to close," stated Cathy DeLeo. Other Lenders have different programs, so it's in the best interest of the consumer to call around and find the best program for them. Also, ask the lender if they charge a fee to lock in the interest rate.

But what if interest rates drop down more since you locked in and started looking around? Can you get the lower interest rate? It depends on the policy of the lender, DeLeo stated. That's another question you should ask the lender, along with asking about any fees they charged to drop the rate once it's been locked. You should also ask them their policy as to what happens if you don't find a house within the amount of time they have given you. Mortgage lenders are required to disclose to you in writing their rate lock policies. Make sure you get this! Verbal promises aren't as secure.

It's also important that you make sure to keep your real estate agent advised of the time frame you are working with. It's important they know ahead of time. You don't want to find out that in the purchase agreement you just signed that it states you agreed not to close until Oct. 31st and your rate lock expires on Oct. 20th causing you to lose your rate lock.

If you take the time to compare mortgage lenders, ask the pertinent questions, you'll be able to lock-in that low interest rate before you start your house hunting.

WHO WE ARE:

We're not landscapers washing on the side. Nor are we a fly-by-night operation—here today, gone the next.

We are fully insured. We have been in operation for 4 years with 6 years prior pressure cleaning experience.

Our crew is all handpicked and well-trained to perform the highest quality work available.

WHAT WE USE:

PENOFIN - It's a penetrating oil finish "like no other wood finish in the world."

COLORS - PENOFIN colors result from the use of strategic metal pigments ground microscopically small. So small, in fact, they're virtually transparent.

PROTECTION - The colors do more than add color to the wood. They protect against UV rays and they seal the wood to preserve its beauty.

Brazilian Rosewood oil base

This exotic transparent oil penetrates deep into the wood, hardening and stabilizing the fibers, yet allows the wood to breathe. PENOFIN doesn't yellow or darken with age. There's no film to trap moisture, or to crack or peel.
