Firm named to conduct traffic study

Review part of city road maintenance program

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Traffic flow in and around Northville will get a thorough review as a result of action by the Northville City Council on Monday. As part of voter approval last spring of a road repair and maintenance millage program, Bloomfield Hills-based Hubbell, Roth and Clark Inc. was awarded a $33,500 bid to complete a comprehensive study of Northville's road usage and needs, necessitated by the growing population both within the city and the larger demand being placed on Northville's streets.

It's hoped that the study will be completed by April. County roads will not be included.

City Manager Gary Word said representatives from Hubbell and city officials would need to get together later this week to develop specifics for the project, which should be under way by the end of the month.

"We know there's at least a perceived problem on the roads, and from time to time there's a real problem," he said. "For us, this is a matter of sorting out the fact from fiction."

Hubbell wasn't the lowest bidder for the project. The low bid - $19,500 - was offered by Midwestern Consulting of Ann Arbor.

Public Works supervisor Jim Gallogly explained that each of the four firms that submitted bids were evaluated on their qualifications and costs. Those elements were taken into consideration to determine overall company rankings.

Midwestern finished at the bottom of the qualification rankings, scoring 89 points out of a possible 120. However, its price estimates were a full $11,000 less than those of the second-lowest bidder, McNamee, Porter & Seeley, also of Ann Arbor.

A summary distributed to each council member said the dual criteria was "as objective and fair as possible," and said it had been used successfully in deciding consultants for Northville's Center Street project and the city's water system study.

New chief field narrowed to six

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

It's retirement time for the city's 20 year veteran chief of police Rod Cannon, and city officials are honing in on his replacement.

Cannon is set to leave the force in mid-January and City Manager Gary Word said he hopes to have someone hired by then in order to make it a seamless transition.

Word said he's winnowed the field of eligible candidates to six officers who are set to be interviewed this week.

Thirty three applicants responded to ads for the post published in The Northville Record and in Michigan's Chiefs of Police Magazine in September.

Word said the 12 candidates who survived the first cut took a general management test with the Michigan Municipal League. Using those test results he eliminated six more.

"I set out to find the best possible officer for the City of Northville. That's my goal," Word said. "I've tried to set up the most objective criteria that I could."

According to a profile released by Word, successful candidates must have strong supervisory skills, an understanding of small town policing and municipal government and "honesty and integrity above reproach."

Also required is a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice or a related field and five years experience in a command position.

Graduation from the FBI Academy is also recommended.

Northville's chief of police is in charge of 14 enforcement officers.

Northville Township Police Capt. Phil Presnell (seated) is filmed by Central Coast Crews camera man Wally Szczubialka Monday morning at township police headquarters. Presnell was being videotaped for a new story on his efforts in controlling diabetes. Presnell's doctor recommended him as a subject for the program, considering him a patient who has done well to control his condition.

A Northville Township police captain will share his strategies for coping with diabetes in a national news story taped this week.

A camera crew followed Capt. Philip Presnell throughout his day Nov. 17 and will conduct interviews with him in person and over the phone for a 14 minute "JAMA Report," a weekly health video that's distributed to media outlets around the country.

The program that features Presnell is set to be completed next month.

"We try to take information from studies which run in the Journal of the American Medical Association and personalize it," medical reporter Dr. Barry Kaufman said. "The studies are written for doctors but we put them in a video news report that's understandable to everyone."

Molter said Presnell was recommended as a program subject by Dr. Rodney Hayward. Hayward is one of Presnell's physicians at the University of Michigan Medical Center and is the principal author of the study which will appear in JAMA later this month.

"They asked me to do this because they feel I'm a good patient as far as doing what I should do to manage diabetes," Presnell said.

Presnell has Type II diabetes, which causes high levels of sugar in the blood. Type II has its onset in adulthood and is brought on by lifestyle, obesity, bad eating habits and lack of exercise.

Complications of the chronic disease can be severe, and might include stroke, heart and kidney disease and blindness. In extreme cases, amputation becomes necessary.

County health inspections assess cleanliness of local restaurants

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Most business owners wouldn't take kindly to a county official inspecting every nook and cranny of their business, yet that's what restaurant owners must endure at least twice each year.

But it's all for the purpose of safeguarding public health.

The Northville Record, using a Freedom of Information Act request, obtained the results of the latest health inspections conducted by the Wayne County Department of Health in 30 local restaurants.

According to the reports, Northville's cleanest restaurant was the Bushwood restaurant and Golf Course, 16377 Haggerty Rd., which scored 98 points out of 100. That was to be expected, since the inspection was conducted before the restaurant even opened for business on June 25 of this year.

Ranking second among Northville-area eateries was Charley's Grille, 16873 Haggerty Rd., which scored a 94.

Charley's, owned by the Martha family, has been open for almost two years. George Martha credits the restaurant's cleanliness to his mother, Josephine.

"She keeps everyone on their toes," he said, adding that when health inspections are finished, Josephine gathers all the staff together to hear the results.

"There's so many health issues we want to prevent. We ourselves eat here, so we want to make sure everything is clean."

Inspectors for the health department often begin their evaluations by posing as customers and observing employee practices. Then they go through the entire restaurant checking the temperature of food storage facilities, the structural maintenance of the restaurant, and the building's overall cleanliness.

Each restaurant starts with a perfect score of 100, but points are subtracted for each violation, based on health department criteria. For general violations restaurants lose 1-2 points, while critical violations take 4-5 points off a score.

"A score might be 95, which sounds like an 'A,' but those five points could be critical," said Chief Wayne County Health Inspector Donald Edmunds.

"You cannot use the 80s and 90s like you did in grade school. A place could receive a number in the 70s and just have dirty floors, while someone could have a score in the 90s and have a violation more injurious to public health. There's a lot of gray areas. This isn't black and white."

Edmunds said the main goal of

Curtain to open on Northville High stage production

Justin Messer (Bob Bennet) and Megan Hlemstra (Gwendolyn Ralston) rehearse "Nothing but the Truth."

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Northville High School's first play of the year opens tonight and the students involved promise to keep the audience in stitches.

Nothing But the Truth may sound like a courtroom drama, but there would be no truth to that.

"This is the first comedy we've done in a couple years," assistant director Laura Geist said. "It's the basis of Jim Carey's Liar, Liar."

That hit movie was loosely based on Nothing but the Truth, which was written by James Montgomery in 1916 and rewritten in the '40s.

"It's about a man named Bob Bennett who makes a bet with his boss that he can tell the truth for 24 hours, and about how he wins that bet," Geist said.

Northville High students will don zoot suits and two-tone shoes for their '40s version of the play, which uses a cast of 11.

Thirty more students have attended evening rehearsals since October as light, sound, set and advertising crew members.

"Of course, none of these kids were born yet (in the '40s), so it's all new to them. But I think they're having a lot of fun with it," said director Gary Sturm, who has been contracted to direct the high school's plays for the last seven years.

"That was my main goal, that they'd have fun and that the audience would have fun watching it."

The lead role, Bennett the stockbroker, will be played by freshman Justin Messer, a newcomer to drama.

"We normally don't cast the younger people, to honor seniority," Geist explained. "But Justin is an absolutely terrific actor."

Messer said his experience on forensics teams which led to two

Thanksgiving came a little early for Northville-area seniors this year. Some 70 people showed up for a low-cost holiday meal served at the Recreation Center on Monday. Seniors got to choose from a number of taste-tempting items laid out on the buffet table and were serenaded by an accordionist during the luncheon.

City parade to ring in holidays in grand style

Santa Claus is coming to town

The streets of Northville will be lined with spectators Friday as the annual holiday parade gets under way.

The fun kicks off at 6:30 p.m., with more than a dozen entries marching through the streets of the city's downtown.

The "Miracle on Main," as the parade is called, is sponsored by the Northville Central Business Association. Organizer David McKnight said Schoolcraft College will bring an elaborate float to the parade, and there will be equestrian and clown entries in the procession.

According to McKnight, the parade will start on Cady and move east to Center Street. From there, the marchers will head north to Dunlap, east to Hutton and loop around to Main.

Moving west on Main, parade participants will stop at the bandshell area where a three-person panel will judge the best entries.

The parade will then advance toward Wing, and proceed south to Cady.

Detroit radio personality Tom Ryan of WOMC-FM will serve as grand marshal of the parade, riding through town in a convertible classic car.

The parade is just the beginning of the fun on Friday. Afterwards, jolly ol' St. Nick will listen to children's Christmas wishes at the bandshell and reindeer will be on hand for the children to pet.

Performers from Center Stage Dance and the choir of St. Christopher's in Detroit will entertain with song and dance routines.

Many businesses will offer refreshments and special discounts tomorrow night. Santa will be a visitor in town everyday this weekend.

On Sunday, Nov. 23, the Northville Chamber of Commerce Christmas Walk will take place in Northville, with free carriage rides with Santa, children's games and more entertainment downtown.

Other special holiday-related events include three Candlelight Walk dates, Dec. 5, 12 and 19.

For more information about the city's Christmastime activities, call the Chamber of Commerce at 349-7640.

Village getting ready for Victorian-style Christmas

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

Mill Race Historical Village will glitter with holiday trappings this weekend. The Village will be open for its Annual Christmas Walk on Sunday, Nov. 23, from noon until 4 p.m.

For the first time, the choir from the First Presbyterian Church of Northville will perform Christmas carols at the event. The choir will sing in the Village church from 1 until 2 p.m.

The church was the first sanctuary for the Presbyterian congregation, according to Northville Historical Society member Melody Arndt.

"It kind of has a tie to their congregation," Arndt said. "The public is invited to enjoy the music."

This will be the third year that the Northville Life Members Mothers' Club has decorated the Mill Race buildings for the Annual Christmas Walk, since moving the group's December open house from individual homes to the Village.

The Life Members have chosen all new themes for each of the buildings this year.

Cady Inn is being decorated with an angel theme by Linda Clarke and Kathi Jerome.

The Yerkes House and New School are being decorated by Roxanne Casterline.

"It sounds really creative," said Life Member president Joan Sellen of the pierced tin ornaments Casterline has chosen this year.

"Every year she has a different theme."

First-time decorating participant Pat Wright has chosen to deck out Hunter House.

"All of them are using their own collections of Christmas decorations," Sellen said. "They do keep in mind the house they are dealing with and try to make it as authentic as possible."

Working in shifts, docents will be in costume to highlight the historical information pertinent to each building in the Village, located on Griswold off Main Street in Northville.

Charlene Berry, who is also a docent, will be returning again this year to provide hammered dulcimer music.

"It's nice because she knows about the buildings and she entertains with her music too," Mill Race Village Office Manager Diann Dupuis said.

Local craft guilds, including basket weavers, rug hookers and fabric weavers, will be demonstrating their crafts.

Northville Girl Scouts will be selling poinsettias. The Village Store will also be open for holiday gift shopping.

Holiday crafts available for children to make will be theirs to take home as a keepsake of the Christmas Walk.

Refreshments will be served.

THE LONG GOOD-BYE

The luxury tax has been the object of scorn by automobile manufacturers and car buyers alike since its inception in 1990. In 1993, the tax was lifted from boats and other luxury items, but remained firmly affixed to cars. Now, all that is slowly coming to an end. An amendment attached to the recently signed Small Business Job Protection Act/Medium Wage Bill calls for the luxury tax to be phased out by 2003. The bill lowers the tax rate for automobiles costing more than $34,000 to nine percent for the remainder of 1996, to eight percent on January 1, 1997 and lowers it one percent every year thereafter until the termination date of December 31, 2002. The bill contains a technical amendment to adjust the tax threshold (from the original $30,000 to $34,000 for inflation).

Today's luxury automobiles combine comfort and aesthetic appeal. As noted in this week's column, the luxury tax on these automobiles will be phased out in seven years. Regardless of your needs visit MARTY FELDMAN CHEVROLET at 42355 Grand River and browse through a wide selection of new and used vehicles. An attentive sales person will review your personal tastes, lifestyle, and budget in order to assist you in your selection. Showroom hours are Mon & Th, 8-9; Tues, Wed, & Fri, 8-6; and Sat, 10-4. HINT: The luxury tax was nearly repealed in 1995, when a repeal was attached to the balanced budget amendment, which was vetoed.

Police News

Slick surfaces cause run of minor mishaps

Icy conditions made for a grueling morning commute Nov. 12 and led to at least four traffic accidents in the City of Northville.

One collision occurred when a driver slid through a stop sign at the corner of Novi Road and Allen Drive.

Another took place near Horton Street when a driver who was unable to stop during a traffic back-up rear-ended a vehicle on Eight Mile.

A third accident resulted after a driver lost control on Eight Mile near Beck Road and struck another car from behind.

Yet another occurred near the intersection of Haggerty and Five Mile when a driver heading south on Haggerty lost control and hit a northbound vehicle.

SOFT TOP SLASHED: The vinyl convertible top of a 1995 Mazda Miata was cut in four places and had its rear plastic window punctured in the parking lot of a Northville restaurant Nov. 9.

A 26-year-old Fowlerville resident had parked her car overnight outside of Little Italy on 227 Hutton, and discovered the damage when she returned to her vehicle in the morning.

Upon closer inspection the owner found the driver's side window rolled down and the center console glove box tampered with.

Though nothing appeared to be missing from the car, damage was estimated at $1,000.

The black leather jacket had the Hard Rock Cafe logo printed on the back.

SUSPICIOUS CALLS: A Northville Township couple told police they had been receiving three to four phone calls a week in which the caller would remain silent on the line for several seconds until the recipient hung up the phone. The wife told police they believed the caller might be a woman who had a romantic interest in her husband. Police advised the couple to contact the telephone company to have a tracer installed on their phone line.

Anyone with information about any of these incidents is urged to call Northville police at 349-1234 or Northville Township police at 349-9400.

State offices announce closings

Secretary of State Candice Miller has announced that all 178 Secretary of State branch offices will be closed in observance of upcoming state holidays.

The offices will close for: Thanksgiving on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 27 and 28; Christmas on Wednesday, Dec. 24, and Thursday, Dec. 25; and New Year's on Wednesday, Dec. 31, and Thursday, Jan. 1.

Motorists whose driver licenses or license plates expire over any of those holidays should renew early. Customers can expect fastest service during midmorning, midafternoon, midweek and midmonth.

Secretary of State offices are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, with most branch offices open Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

For convenience sake, customers may renew vehicle license plates by mail or by fax.

1997 Leaf collection program

City, township schedule additional leaf pickup days

Collections to gather refuse for composting

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Although it seems like winter, fall isn't over yet.

Leaves are falling later than usual this year and Northville residents may find themselves raking through the snow in order to get their yard waste to the curb for compost pickup.

According to Northville Department of Public Works officials, leaf pickup in the city will undergo a second cycle beginning Dec. 1.

City residents should rake leaves from their yards into the street prior to the scheduled pickup for their area. Trucks will make one pass down each street to collect the leaves, which should be hosed down so they stay in place.

Branches, brush or garden waste will not be picked up at the curb.

City residents can also bag leaves. Although trucks will not pick up leaves encased in plastic bags, leaves in brown bags or cans clearly labeled "compost" will be picked up every Friday until Dec. 12.

For Northville Township residents, leaf collection will continue on regular trash days, Monday through Thursday, through the end of November.

According to Director of Public Services Bill Anderson, leaves should be collected and put out on the curb in compost bags.

After a brief hiatus, compost collection will resume for three weeks following Christmas, in order to dispose of Christmas trees.

"Leaf collection stops at the end of the month (in the township), so get all your yard waste collected and picked up," Anderson said. "In the worst case scenario the leaves won't sit all winter, but they'll sit three weeks."

Belles of the ballet

Light-footed ballerinas learn steps at Rec Center

By WENSLEY WHITE
Staff Writer

Even before the music began, Northville's smallest ballet dancers practiced in line, going over the routine they had been rehearsing for weeks.

And when their instructor, Stacey Orlandi, hit the button on the tape deck the children tiptoed into formation to the sounds of a classical symphony.

"I like dancing because it's fun to warm up your muscles and I like doing dances," ballerina Jordan Lapetz, 7, said.

"It's fun. We get to do turns," added Shelby Davis, 6.

Between distractions, the children practiced pas de chats, pirouettes and poses for their recital performance.

"They're excited to learn and a lot of fun to teach," Orlandi said. "They can't get enough. They always want to learn more. Every week there's new questions. Sometimes they take me off guard."

The children in the beginning ballet class at the Northville Recreation Center range in age from 4 to 7.

"I think that everytime I come here I learn lots of stuff and more steps," said Allyson Varley, 7, who recently switched from baseball to ballet.

"I like getting in formation," Katherine Gears, 5, said.

Katherine's little brother Zachary, 4, mirrors his sister's movements during class. Later, they will tell their mother to hold onto the furniture while they try to teach her what they've learned.

"They love it. When I pick them up I get the whole routine," their mom, Kim Gears, said.

Instructor Orlandi, 20, of Plymouth, started dancing at Zach's age and said that's the earliest children should take ballet, though they can be introduced to dance in a creative movement class at age 3.

"If that goes well and they enjoy it, they can take a ballet class at age 4."

Orlandi said children usually aren't ready for the faster pace of jazz dance until age 8 or 9.

"I think the most important thing they learn is a sense of body control and grace, and learning a little bit about how their body moves," she said. "We really emphasize learning about the muscles."

"They keep me on my toes."

The next weekly ballet class for 5- to 7-year-olds at the Northville Recreation Center starts Jan. 14, with registration beginning Jan. 5. The session costs $35 for Northville residents and $42 for non-residents.

Beginning ballet student Allyson Varley, 6, gracefully twirls around with her classmates at the Northville Recreation Center.

Arms outstretched, ballet instructor Stacey Orlandi (far right) leads her Wednesday evening beginning ballet class through a routine that the students will perform at the end of their five-week session.

"Though price is an important factor, the process is heavily weighed in favor of the firms' qualifications and understanding of the proposed project," the summary said.

The qualifications were determined by a four-person panel based on the bidder's organizational history, experience, references, employee ability, location and minority content.

Midwestern's bid seemed excessively low, according to Councilmember John Hardin. He expressed the belief that in making as low a bid as they did, Midwestern representatives may have overlooked some critical elements in their proposal.

That was also the sentiment of Mayor Chris Johnson.

"I'm significantly concerned that the price is so low that something may be forgotten," Johnson said. "I'm not generally an advocate of spending more money, but this may be a situation where it's worth paying more to get technical confidence back."

Despite the fact that the council decided not to go with the lowest bidder (no ordinance or state law requires it), Hardin pointed out that Hubbell's bid fell within the $30,000-$40,000 range city officials had originally anticipated for the project.

The summary indicated Midwestern was actively involved in developing a master plan for Ypsilanti, among other projects. The firm had worked on a traffic study for Northville in 1988, the summary said.

Johnson asked that the study also include an analysis of speeds used by drivers through city streets. Johnson asked that, if a speed study is undertaken, police officials remain in unmarked cars so as not to affect normal driving habits.

Public Works Director Jim Gallogly also said the study should search for ways to make downtown Northville a destination rather than a thru-route. Congestion along city streets was almost certain to increase unless alternate routes around Northville could be developed, he said.

City Council Briefs

News from the Nov. 17 meeting of the Northville City Council:

WATER METERS:

Northville city leaders opted to begin installation of new water meters at area residences to try to correct the growing problem of inaccurate water meter readings.

Public Works Supervisor Jim Gallogly told the Northville City Council that most meters start becoming unreliable after 10 years of use. Many of the city's meters have aged far beyond that, he commented.

A Waterford company was awarded the bid to install the meters, which only require workers to touch an electronic gun to an exterior sensor to obtain a reading.

Council member Kevin Hartshorne alone voted against the proposal on the basis of unnecessary cost.

TAX TIME:

Winter tax bills will be mailed Nov. 26, a city memo stated. Bills will be payable without penalty until Feb. 17. Individual millage rates will be printed on each tax bill this year in an effort to minimize the number of phone calls to city offices requesting the information, the memo said.

In addition, a barcode parcel number will be included, increasing accuracy in bill processing.

Red kettle drive needs volunteers for upcoming season

The Salvation Army red kettle will have a presence in Northville this Christmas season. Volunteers may commit to two-hour shifts beginning Nov. 28 and continuing until Christmas Eve at noon.

The locations are Shopping Center Market on N. Center, the Northville Post Office on Wing Street, the Great Harvest Bread Company on E. Main, and the Target and Farmer Jack stores on

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Concerned with what the final product might look like, the Northville City Council Monday tabled a plan to allow Ameritech to attach a cellular phone antenna to the city's water tower off Eight Mile Road.

Steve Wells, an Ameritech spokesperson, was joined by a handful of other representatives of the communications company in presenting the proposal to the council.

Wells said Ameritech needed to set up an antenna in Northville because the company's cellular phone service had pockets of interference, or so-called "dead" areas, in certain portions of the community.

Ameritech, Wells said, was planning to install a doughnut-shaped ring under the holding tank of the tower which would house nine cylinder-shaped antennae. Technical problems made it impossible to place the antenna atop the water tower, he said.

Along with the ring, Wells said Ameritech would need to build a 300-square-foot flat-roofed storage shed for the equipment. No advertising would be placed on the tower.

A similar project had already been installed in West Bloomfield, Wells said.

In return for giving up a portion of the tower and some ground space below, the city would receive $1,650 per month — one of the highest lease payments Ameritech would make, Wells said. Those payments could increase as much as 20 percent if the city extended its contract with Ameritech over the course of 25 years.

The terms of a proposed lease between Ameritech and the city were approved by the city's legal counsel.

Photographs of the ring design were distributed to officials, but that wasn't enough for Councilmember John Hardin. Hardin asked that Ameritech superimpose its proposed antenna onto a photograph of the city's water tower so councilmembers could see exactly what the completed project would look like. Hardin asked if other locations or ideas had been considered.

"Aesthetically, it's still less than desirable in my mind," Hardin said. "I'm concerned what the public would think when they look up in the air and see this doughnut up there." Other councilmembers, including Mayor Chris Johnson, gradually added their support.

Public Works Superintendent Jim Gallogly said he suspected cellular service wasn't going to disappear anytime soon. Gallogly said he believed that if the city wanted to continue leasing cellular space, finding space on an existing city structure, like the water tower, was the option with the least financial risk.

If the cell company was permitted to construct its own tower, Gallogly said, the likelihood was greater that difficulties would be encountered in having the entire cell tower removed, versus only a few components for antennas attached to a water tower.

Furthermore, Gallogly said, the water tower was something that would never decline in usefulness.

Wells agreed to the council's request, but asked to be placed on the agenda for the next city meeting, Dec. 1, since Ameritech wished to install the items as soon as possible.

If the project is approved, the terms of the lease will require Ameritech to pay any water tower maintenance costs.

The project would still require the approval of the city planning commission before work could begin.

ACORD discusses racial incident

By WENDSY WHITE
Staff Writer

Though the graffiti painted on the wall of Northville High school last week has been covered up, the slur has made a lasting impression on one local group that aims to promote diversity.

Some members of A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity (ACORD) initially took the position that the graffiti, which stated that a prominent high school student "hates niggas," was a kid's prank. But at the first ACORD meeting since the incident, some in attendance expressed the view that the group should take a stronger stand.

"It is one thing to spray paint of a random nature against a building. It's something different to paint a swastika or a Star of David which identifies a class as a target," said Roland Hwang, a Northville resident and an assistant attorney general for the State of Michigan. "There is a targeting of sorts which can be construed as going beyond a mere prank."

Hwang said the Northville group, which met at the First United Methodist Church of Northville Nov. 17, debated the issue at length.

Some members in attendance felt ACORD shouldn't take a strong stand on the issue in order to avoid blowing it out of proportion and attracting wider media attention.

Others argued that the incident provides an opportunity for a much-needed dialogue in the community.

Some also expressed concern that the investigation was turned over to the high school instead of pursued by the Northville Police Department.

High school officials said they haven't gotten any closer to identifying the vandal responsible for the graffiti because no evidence was left at the scene.

"We haven't closed the book," Assistant Principal Dennis Colligan said. "Many of the students are very concerned and I'm confident if anyone slips or brags about it, we'll find out."

For their part, ACORD is taking steps to organize activities that will educate students in the community about diversity.

"If we can reach these children at a really young age to educate them in diversity," ACORD chairman Al Qualman remarked, "as they grow up they'll celebrate people's diversity instead of questioning it."

The group is planning to obtain diversity teaching kits for early childhood educators that are published by a Montgomery, Ala., organization called "Teaching Tolerance."

Though the kits are valued at $325, Teaching Tolerance will provide one free kit to each elementary school in the district upon request.

Some other ideas proposed by members include hosting a choral concert with students from different area schools, taking students to work at a soup kitchen or a homeless shelter, and bringing speakers or showing videos and having discussions during seminar periods.

"We're looking at a variety of different things and the schools are being really cooperative," Qualman said.

Minorities make up 7 percent of the student population at Northville High.

The next ACORD meeting will take place at the First United Methodist Church on Eight Mile at Taft Road Dec. 1 at 7:30. The public is welcome.

Art series to focus on American painters

The Northville Arts Commission has announced the dates of its 1998 Michael Farrell Art Lecture Series.

The lectures are to be held on Jan. 21, Feb. 11, and March 11. Entitled "Three Masters of American Painting," the discussions will focus on the works of Winslow Homer, Albert Bierstadt and Georgia O'Keefe.

The first lecture on Jan. 21 features Winslow Homer, who emerged from the horrors of the Civil War working as an illustrator for Harper's to become what some historians have called "the most American painter of the 19th century." His pictures often depict scenes of everyday life and New England landscapes.

A discussion on Albert Bierstadt will be presented on Feb. 11. Though European-born and trained, Bierstadt discovered the grandeur of the American West and exhibited for European and American audiences landscapes as great as those of the Alps.

The final lecture on March 11 will feature Georgia O'Keefe. At a time when women found it difficult to be accepted as serious artists, O'Keefe emerged as a singular, if not controversial, painter who created a uniquely American vision.

Farrell is an associate professor of art history at the University of Windsor, an adjunct curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts and a teacher at the Art House of Detroit.

All lectures will be held in the Forum at Northville High School at 7:30 p.m. Season tickets are $25 ($9 each at the door). For information, call 449-9945.

Some planning can help take the 'drop' out of shopping

Most people spend hours planning their gift lists but forget to set aside a few extra minutes to plan their shopping in a way that saves them time and money.

"Smart holiday shopping is all in the planning," says Karen MacDonald, communications manager for Taubman Centers Inc., which owns 23 shopping centers, including Fairlane Town Center, Lakeside, Twelve Oaks Mall and Briarwood.

"Taking just a few moments to plot one's course can save untold hours and stress during the holiday season."

MacDonald suggests the following 10 easy strategies to simplify your holiday shopping:

- Schedule shopping trips during off-hours. Traffic at most shopping centers is heaviest during the weekends and after dinner on weekdays. The most efficient times to shop are before 11:30 a.m. and between 3 and 7 p.m. on weekdays.
- Take advantage of shopping centers that open early during the holiday season to get a head start on the day and on your gift list.
- Shop early in the season. You'll find the best selections, the smallest crowds and the best sales early in the season. You'll also save - money because you'll have more time to comparison shop.

- Organize. Don't go shopping without a gift list that includes names, sizes and two or three suggestions for each person. But be flexible enough to take advantage of unexpected sales or novel gift ideas if you find them.
- Newspapers and advertising supplements make good sources for gift ideas - whether or not you shop at those particular stores - so keep a shopping list and pen beside you as you read them.
- Keep a running list. Throughout the year, whenever you see a gift you think someone on your list

- would like, buy it. If someone on your list mentions something he or she wants, write it down. By the time the holidays roll around, you'll be surprised how fast your list shapes up and how few gifts you have left to buy.
- Caution: Be sure that when you do buy a gift ahead of time, you've marked the name off your list and recorded where you put the gift. That way, you'll avoid shopping for something you've already bought.
- Choose a single shopping location. Save time and energy by picking a shopping venue, such as a large shopping center, that offers a variety of gift options for every-

- one on your list.
- Dress comfortably. On shopping day, make sure you wear comfortable shoes and non-binding, layered, apparel. That makes it easy to add or remove a layer of clothing for maximum comfort as you shop. Instead of a cumbersome purse, stash cash and credit cards in a belted fanny pack.
- Leave the kids at home. You'll accomplish far more and be on far better terms with your child at day's end. Hire a sitter or swap kids with another parent, and set aside another time to help your children shop for gifts from their own holiday lists.

- When you are ready for the kids, you might add some fun by taking them to a shopping center that has a children's area.
- Stop for frequent breaks. Food stops not only make pleasant intervals, they alleviate the fatigue, headaches and irritation that accompany empty stomachs.
- Take advantage of any services shopping centers and specialty shops offer. These may include special tables of gift suggestions, prewrapped gifts, shipping and gift wrapping at a central mall location, coat and package checking, easy-to-carry shopping bags, free stroller rentals and valet service.

Police captain made subject of medical piece

cessfully controlled through diet, oral medication and, ultimately, insulin.

Presnell, 50, has served on the Northville Township Police Department for 26 years. During that time he developed Type II diabetes, but remained among the estimated 5.4 million Americans who are unaware they have the disease.

Presnell said a severe auto accident prompted his diagnosis.

A few years ago he lapsed into a diabetic coma behind the wheel and crashed into another vehicle. He had been passing through Westland on his way home from a police function with Director of Public Safety Chip Snider.

Although Snider suffered only minor injuries, Presnell came away with a closed head injury. During treatment, doctors charted his blood sugar level at a whopping 684.

The normal range is between 70 and 120.

Although his mother died of Type II diabetes complications, Presnell said he misinterpreted his symptoms before the crash.

"I noticed some subtle things but I just sort of brushed them off," Presnell said. "I just didn't make the connection. I thought it was part of age."

He said he chalked up drowsiness to being worn out from night classes at Wayne State University where he was finishing up a bachelor of arts program in interdisciplinary studies.

And though he experienced frequent urination, he attributed that to recent kidney treatments.

Since then, under the care of a team of physicians, he has kept his blood sugar at normal levels.

The day of the documentary, it was at 105.

"I feel I have a responsibility not only to myself, but to my family and community to take care of this ... but it's a lot of work," Presnell said.

Presnell has to eat a specific diet at regulated times and must avoid sugar. Several times a day he must prick the side of his finger and take a blood sample to monitor his sugar level.

He carries a survival kit with him at all times containing the testing kit and glucose candies. He also wears a medical identification badge.

Exercise is a big part of Pres-nell's health regimen and he said he rides his mountain bike up to 50 miles a week as long as the roads aren't icy. When they are, he moves the bike onto a stand indoors.

"I still have to lose some weight, it's a constant battle," Presnell said. "But I feel great. Particularly the last couple years since I've been on this regime. I feel wonderful."

Presnell is currently on loan from the Northville Township Police Department and is working for a countywide police task force. But he returned to reenact police duties at Township Hall for the videotaping. The film crew also followed him through blood tests and to a visit to his doctors at U-M.

The footage will later be edited and distributed free of charge to media outlets for public education purposes. Local stations that opt to use a JAMA report usually reduce the footage to a two-and-a-half minute segment.

"Local stations will either run it with my narrative, have a local reporter recut it or use our footage and reconstruct it. We give them the building blocks for a report," Kaufman said.

Detroit's WDIV-TV health reporter Lila Lazarus said she

I feel great. Particularly the last couple years since I've been on this regime. I feel wonderful."

-Capt. Phil Presnell
Northville Township Police Department

sometimes uses the JAMA Reports during Channel 4 newscasts, but not at any specific times. She said she'll keep her eyes open for the one featuring Capt. Presnell.

"When we can relate a national medical story to someone local, we're definitely interested in that," Lazarus said.

Chief search narrowed to 6 candidates

10 part-time officers and four support staff members. The chief will also manage a $1.7 million 1997-98 budget.

According to the ad, the position offers a beginning salary of $55,000-$61,000 and "excellent benefits."

The six candidates will interview this week in front of a committee made up of five people including Word, Deputy City Manager Nicolette Bateson, city attorney Richard Connors, assistant superintendent of schools David Bolitho and Chief Rod Cannon.

He said the committee hopes to choose three candidates who will then go through an intensive personality and psychological test, a physical exam and perhaps a second interview with Word alone.

"There may be a one-on-one interview to make sure we could work together, that they understand the community's objectives and that they're a good fit," Word said.

Word will eventually make a recommendation to the city council for final approval.

"There's no perfect candidate out there but you just try to find the best one for the job," Word said.

Cannon said his replacement will need more than just management skills.

"It has to be a person that will fit into the Northville community. You have to think like residents because you are, in essence, a representative of the community," Cannon said.

There are a few loose ends Cannon said he hopes the new chief will tie up. First on the agenda is supervising the pending renovation of the police facilities at City Hall, which will include an officer training and meeting room for up to 35 people. The department is also set to hire an additional officer at the beginning of 1998 who will need to be trained.

Cannon said he would also like to see a police liaison established for the Northville public schools.

Fancy-dress Santa coming to Brickscape

Santa as he appeared in Victorian times will visit a local Christmas shop in this town. Victorian Santa will hold court at Brickscape Christmas Store on two Saturdays, Nov. 29 and Dec. 6, from noon to 4 p.m.

Brickscape is located on Brickscape Drive, which runs north off of Eight Mile Road, just east of Novi Road. The phone is (248) 348-2500.

Victorian Santa will be arrayed in a full-length red velvet frock coat trimmed in white faux-fur when he greets children at Brickscape.

His resplendent metallic gold and multi-colored brocade waistcoat will be encircled by a gold rope sash, and his luxurious green velvet pantaloons will be tucked into the top of high black leather boots.

Historic costumer Jackie Wakeling of Past Reflections in Flat Rock created the outfit for Brickscape Christmas Store using more than 16 yards of fabric.

Wakeling has produced costumes for Hollywood, television, historic national parks and Civil War reenactments as well as for Northville's Victorian Festival.

Maybury to host trail speaker

Wayne Mears of the Michigan Horse Counsel Trail Commission will be guest speaker at the Northville Library, 212 W. Cady St., on Saturday, Nov. 22, from 10 a.m. to noon.

If you ride the horse trails at Maybury State Park, your attendance at this informative meeting is encouraged.

For information, call (248) 340-3020.

Limbering up

A pair of tae-kwon do students perform some warm-up exercises during a beginners' class at Silver Springs Elementary. The class, offered by the Northville Recreation Department, gives students a solid grounding in the conditioning and discipline needed for martial arts study and is designed for youngsters ages 7-12.

Gitfiddler owner reflects on long run in community

By LEE SNIDER
Editor

Funny how things change yet stay the same.

Former Gitfiddler owner and long-time Northville businessman Tom Rice has a new career, selling commercial real estate. But after years of acting as his own boss in a business he created himself, Rice said his bottom line is really the same as before.

"When I look at real estate, the only difference is it isn't in a store. But I still have an inventory," he remarked.

Rice operated his Gitfiddler music shop for 24 years out of four different addresses in Northville. Last year, he realized a dream by moving into a new building and adding a performing house to his already successful music school and retail business.

But after only a year of operation, the enterprise folded, a development Rice attributes to his inability to secure a liquor license for the performing cafe, known as the Raven Gallery.

"I didn't fail," Rice is quick to point out. "I lived my dream and that's all anyone can ask for."

Rice's vision dates all the way back to 1973, when he was a 21-year-old guitar-strumming youth hearing an inner voice telling him to open his own guitar store.

Having no idea where to start, the then-Livonia resident decided to inquire about space in Northville Square on W. Main, which was under construction at the time.

"I called the number on the sign," he recalls. "I asked them about their least expensive space and they said they wanted $380 a month plus 10 percent of your net."

"I was so discouraged, I was heart broken. I thought, 'I'm going to be a doggone repair man for the rest of my life.'"

Despite the setback, he decided to stroll the streets of the city and continue his search. Though it almost escaped his notice, a small "for rent" sign in the storefront at 142 N. Center caught his attention and he sought out the landlord.

"I had no intention of renting a building. I just wanted to find out what it would take, how to start planning."

A few moments later, practically before he knew it, he was pulling a $10 bill from his wallet and handing it over to property owner Jim Spagnuolo as a security deposit. The rent was set at $130 a month.

"He gave me the key and I went inside and just sat there on that green shag carpet," Rice remembers. "I thought, 'Oh, God, what have I done? I've gone and started a business.'"

Feelings of excitement mingled with apprehension in Rice, yet he picked himself up and started planning. He contacted a guitar supplier friend of his from Ferndale, borrowed $100 from his dad, bought a display cabinet, some guitar books and picks, and was off and running.

"The business was born on Sept. 29, 1973," Rice reminisced.

But what to call the place? "I thought about 'Tom's Guitar,' 'Northville Music' ... nothing sounded good and I was looking for something different," he remarked. "Then I remember how my good friend Gordy Hilliard used to tell me, 'Tom, get out your git-fiddle.' And, bam, it hit me - The Gitfiddler."

"There were a lot of times when I thought about getting out, but something would always happen."

So with little retail knowledge and even less money, Rice began living his dream and never looked back. In just a short time, Rice had acquired a following and in 1974, only one year after it was founded, The Gitfiddler moved into larger digs, a converted house at 339 N. Center.

Things developed quickly after that and, in 1976, Rice met someone he couldn't stop thinking about. "She was one of his students, Rita McGuire, and after about six months of giving her guitar lessons he broke his own rule of keeping a professional distance between himself and his clients."

"It was driving me nuts," he said, "so I finally asked her out."

The rest, as they say, is history, and Rita and Tom were married in 1977.

The milestones continued unfolding and, in 1978, Rice started an annual tradition in the city, the Northville Folk & Bluegrass Festival. Meant as a fund-raiser for research into Huntington's disease - which claimed the lives of the legendary Woody Guthrie and Rice's own half-sister, Donna Jarski - the Festival was to enjoy a 20-run, ending with one final concert in July of this year.

"The Festival helped to keep The Gitfiddler's name out in the public," Rice said, "but it also distracted from the business. I had the whole staff working on it for months ahead of time."

In 1979, Rice moved his business yet another time, on that occasion into a former gas station at the corner of Main and Griswold. It was there that Rice really built his reputation, expanding the instruction portion of the business into a music school with as many as 600 students.

After 17 years of relatively stable profits, Rice made the biggest gamble of his professional life.

"It was my ultimate dream but it was also the ultimate risk," he said of his decision to open a folk music cafe in the former church at 145 N. Center. "There had been a tugging in my heart for a long time to go all the way with the Raven. I always wanted to do that."

Rice moved into the old church at Center and Dunlap in July of 1996. He planned to continue his retail and music school business, adding a restaurant and performing house as well.

But renovations to the long-neglected structure put him hundreds of thousands of dollars over budget, and his inability to secure a liquor license doomed the Raven as a viable night spot in town.

"Everything fell apart except the academy," he said of his multifaceted enterprise. "I looked at all the overhead and said, 'I gotta get outta here.'"

Rice called it quits in September, and Northville investors Margene and Bob Buckhave earlier this month announced that they had concluded a tentative agreement to purchase the old church and convert it into a building for retail and service businesses.

Despite hitting a career dead end, Rice is philosophical about his experience in Northville.

"There were a lot of times when I thought about getting out, but something would always happen," he reflected. "Either I'd have an incredible $10,000 day in sales or I'd hire a new employee who was going to help us move forward or I'd get a new line of instruments ... and suddenly I'd have a new mindset."

And the best part? The quality time he spent with his customers.

"There's was so much satisfaction in having someone come in and sitting them down and saying, 'Whatever kept you from learning the guitar before - time, your kids, your job - you don't have to worry about those things anymore. You want to play the guitar? We'll teach you how.'"

Rice said Northville is a difficult town for an entrepreneur to eke out a living in, but his nearly quarter-century run was infinitely rewarding.

"Knowing somebody well enough

"Knowing somebody well enough to know they take medium-gauge strings on their guitar ... that's how I ran my business."

-Tom Rice

to know they take medium-gauge strings on their guitar - you don't have to ask them; knowing that it's been two years and it's time for them to upgrade - that's how I ran my business for 24 years. I loved the people."

Students invited to apply for grants

Schoolcraft Community College students are encouraged to apply for scholarships offered by the Datatel Scholars Foundation.

Datatel, a leading provider of information management systems to higher education, established its foundation to provide assistance to deserving students. In 1997, Schoolcraft student Patricia Zachos won a Datatel scholarship. Awards range from $700 to $2,000 and applications are due in the office of Marketing and Development no later than Friday, Feb. 6, 1998.

Applicants must take at least six credit hours of class work per semester and 12 total hours in the academic year of the award. They are evaluated on the basis of a personal statement summarizing their educational goals.

Applicants must include official transcripts from high school and college and two letters of recommendation, one from an academic reference and the other from an employer or volunteer service coordinator. Applications are available at the Marketing and Development Office in the Administration Building. Schoolcraft College is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Library Lines

OPEN SEVEN DAYS A WEEK:

The Northville District Library is open Monday-Thursday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sundays, 1 to 5 p.m. For information on programs or services, please call 349-3020.

LIBRARY BOARD MEETING:

The next meeting of the Northville District Library Board of Trustees will take place Thursday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the library's meeting room. All are welcome to attend.

NAME THE ANIMALS CONTEST:

The youth area of the library is introducing two new lovable furry friends, moose and deer. Children of all ages can help the library give both moose and deer a name by entering this contest.

Starting Nov. 24 and continuing through Dec. 4, children can participate by meeting these new friends and by submitting a special name for each of them. Contest entry materials will be available at the information desk in the library beginning Monday, Nov. 24. The winning names will be announced on Friday, Dec. 5.

PART-TIME PAGE POSITION OPEN:

The library currently has an opening for a part-time page position, for approximately 10 hours per week, with availability between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on weekdays.

The main responsibilities will be shelving books and assisting with the processing of library materials. Anyone interested should fill out an application form, available at the library's information desk.

CARS ON DISPLAY:

Designs for the cards entered in the Northville Township Foundation Holiday Card Contest are currently on display in the showcase near the fireplace on the library's main level.

BOOK DISCUSSION GROUP:

On Monday, Dec. 8, the Book Discussion Group will feature a question and answer session with author Donna Woolfolk Cross. The topic of discussion will be Cross' novel Pope Joan, about which the author will respond to questions sent via e-mail.

To allow for adequate response time, all questions for the author need to be submitted to the library by Monday, Dec. 1. If interested, contact Maria Garcia-Bryson at the library or via e-mail, at mybryson@tin.lib.mi.us.

LIBRARY CLOSING DEC. 22-JAN. 5:

The Northville District Library will be closed starting Monday, Dec. 22, and continuing through Sunday, Jan. 4, to install new carpeting on the entire upper level.

The original installation has not performed to specifications during this first year of operation, and the manufacturer has agreed to replace it at no charge to the library. Since this is a product which was supposed to give us many years of good service, the library accepted the offer.

The project will take approximately 80 hours to complete. As it involves moving book stacks and furniture and applying new adhesive to the floor, the library cannot safely be open to the public while the reinstallation is under way.

After much consideration, it was decided that the 10 day period when the library experienced the least amount of use was during late December and around the New Year's holiday, since school is out and many people are on vacation.

We will be alerting our neighboring libraries to this situation, and we can count on their cooperation in serving you while we are closed.

Northville District Library cards entitle cardholders to service at Novi, Plymouth, Farmington, and most other public libraries within the Library Network.

tournament championship victories should help, but won't fully prepare him for opening night.

"I know my first line my voice is going to crack," Messer said. "But it's been a great experience for me. It's been a lot more work than I thought it would be and I hope the audience realizes that."

Audiences are often thin for the high school's fall performance, something other cast members hope to change this year.

"So much work goes into this and we really don't sell many tickets," said stage manager Sacha Baker. "But this is the funniest play we've ever done."

Cast member Kelsey Jenney agreed.

"We've worked for the last two months, so please come and bring smiles to our faces," she said.

Tickets for the play run $5 for adults, $4 for students and are available at the high school box office prior to showtime. Although cast members aren't expecting a sellout, tickets can also be reserved in advance by calling the high school at 344-8420.

Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 7:30 and Sunday at 2:30, Nov. 20-23 in the high school auditorium.

FOI needed to obtain reports

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

wording:

Although the health inspections of local restaurants are public documents, the Wayne County Health Department will provide them for viewing only with a formal request issued under the Freedom of Information Act.

The Michigan Freedom of Information Act, passed in 1976, regulates the disclosure of public records by all public bodies in the state.

"If someone wants to look at the records from their favorite restaurant they can come in and fill out a form or request the information by mail," Tom McNulty, information officer for the Wayne County Health Department, commented.

All written requests must be signed and include the following

This is a request for information under the Michigan Freedom of Information Act (MCLA 15.231 et seq.) (for Federal requests it would be 5 U.S.C. §552).

I am requesting the following information as permitted by law.

(Here detail as specifically as possible the records or information you are seeking).

You have five business days under Michigan law to either provide copies of the records or a detailed explanation why the records will not be disclosed.

Send requests to: Tom McNulty
c/o Wayne County Health Department at 5454 Venoy, Wayne, MI 48184.

Requests should also specify whether the documents will be viewed on site or whether they should be mailed to the requester. The department has a right to charge a fee for photocopying and postage, as well as the labor involved in gathering large amounts of information.

The Freedom of Information Act defines public bodies as agencies, councils and government entities "created by state or local authority or primarily funded by or through state or local authority."

Public records include meeting minutes, voting records or any written statements which implement or interpret laws, among other documents.

They can also include memos, videotapes, maps, discs or other means of recording or retaining meaningful content.

Inspection reports tell story of restaurants' cleanliness

the inspections is to educate restaurant owners and employees on how to keep the food they serve clean and free of bacteria.

"I'm looking out for your benefit," Edmunds said. "We go in there, find out what's wrong, educate and get compliance. We offer an unbiased set of eyes, seeing things that employees become accustomed to and overlook."

In cases of critical violations, follow-up inspections are scheduled within three weeks. Yet if the violations aren't corrected, the department has few enforcement options, according to Edmunds. Only under extreme conditions, such as a lack of electricity or water, can the health department close a restaurant. Neither do they have the power to levy fines.

If restaurant owners repeatedly refuse to make changes they can be called into a hearing where a board of Wayne County health officials sets up a compliance schedule. They can opt to restrict the restaurant's menu or call for only single service paper products to be used. In extreme cases, the board may request that their restaurant operator's license be revoked.

But Edmunds said media attention and the publication of restaurant scores often constitute the most effective motivator for compliance.

According to the latest reports, Wooly Bully's at 43333 W. Seven Mile Rd. scored the lowest of any Northville restaurant. The establishment was cited for three critical violations, including improper cooler temperatures that allowed ham to reach a potentially dangerous 58 degrees.

In addition, the sanitizer in the "They're pretty fair but some things are bothersome. If they see one or two flies in an establishment they take all five points off, the same as if there were cockroaches all over the place."

—Raymond Praedel
Owner, Sundowner Restaurant.

restaurant's dishwasher registered far weaker than it should have, and small flies were found in the kitchen area. The inspections took place at 2:30 p.m. June 6.

To make certain the critical violations were corrected, the restaurant was revisited by an inspector three weeks after the original inspection.

"They're giving (the inspector) pretty good compliance," Edmunds said. "The sanitizer was OK, the pest control operation was pretty well successful, and it looks like they've lowered the temperature of the coolers. It looks like they made some corrections, but she's keeping a close eye on them."

Wooly Bully's owner Mark Roman said his restaurant has scored far higher on past inspections, and the last one came at a bad time.

"I think that score can be very misleading," Roman said. "A lot of these inspections happen at lunch or dinner time when the restaurant's in full force. They walk in at critical times."

Roman insists he has made all the necessary corrections and continues to use a service company to come in once a month and make sure all the restaurant's equipment is functioning properly.

"We monitor ourselves. We don't wait for the health department to tell us what to do," he said. "I invite any of my guests to walk into my kitchen and see how we operate."

Sundowner Restaurant, 133 W. Main St., scored above average in the last round of inspections. But Raymond Praedel, who has owned the business with his wife Linda for the last six years, questioned some aspects of the inspections.

"They're pretty fair but some things are bothersome," Praedel said. "If they see one or two flies in an establishment they take all five points off, the same as if there were cockroaches all over the place. It's all or nothing."

Still, Praedel said his staff takes the recommendations very seriously.

"We know it's for our customers' benefit. We want our customers to have the best possible place to come and eat."

Edmunds admits the inspections aren't foolproof, but he believes they're necessary to protect the public.

"It's a snapshot of that day and that time. It does generalize," he said. "But it's an indication that there could be some poor practices."

GET CONDITIONED FOR SKIING

Speaker: Frank C. Kava, M.S., P.T.

Oakland Physical Therapy, P.C. is presenting a seminar for all individuals interested in skiing.

The information provided in this class will give an overview of musculoskeletal conditioning for skiing. The emphasis will be on stretching and strengthening exercises.

The class format will include a brief lecture on concepts, a slide presentation on biomechanical principles, and a live demonstration of exercise techniques.

Objectives:

- 1) Identify common musculoskeletal weaknesses in skiers
- 2) Demonstrate proper exercises to strengthen key muscles used for skiing.
- 3) Demonstrate proper stretching techniques for muscles important in skiing

Participation in exercises is encouraged at the seminar. Comfortable exercise attire is recommended.

PLEASE NOTE: There is no charge for this class but we do require an R.S.V.P. by phone if you plan to attend. For additional information or to R.S.V.P. please contact Oakland Physical Therapy, P.C. at 248-380-3550.

Durant settlement due this school year

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

School districts, including Novi and Northville, that won a court decision in the so-called Durant case will receive their $211 million total in checks from state Treasurer Doug Roberts around next April 15.

Northville could get approximately $3.8 million under the settlement.

The Michigan Legislature last week put the finishing touches on bills to pay 84 mostly suburban districts the money Lansing owes them for shorting them on special education and other mandated services over 17 years. The bills await Gov. John Engler's signature.

It was a major bipartisan victory for House members, who fought Engler's and the Senate Republicans' plan to pay off the winners over three years. The state will use about one-sixth of the budget stabilization fund, known as the "rainy day fund," to make the payments. Engler and Senate Republicans wanted to use only the fund's interest.

Rep. Tom Middleton, R-Ortonville, won unanimous approval of an amendment requiring that school boards convene a public meeting within 90 days after receiving their settlements and before spending any of the winnings.

"After all the controversy surrounding this matter," Middleton said, "I insisted that the public have a strong voice when important choices are made."

The House on Nov. 13 gave final approval to a conference committee report on a vote of 99-7. State Rep. Nancy Cassis, R-Novi, voted yes.

The 84 plaintiffs, including the Novi and Northville school districts, filed suit in 1980 charging the state violated the 1978 Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution by failing to pay them for such state-mandated services as special ed, transportation for special ed and other categorical.

The suit, named for Donald Durant of Warren Fitzgerald School District, was decided in spring by the state Supreme Court. The court awarded local districts about 43 percent of the $492 million they were seeking.

Novi is to get $1.7 million. Northville is scheduled for $3.77 million.

Walled Lake is to get a bit more than $5 million.

South Lyon is scheduled for $1.7 million.

Oakland Intermediate School District is slated for $3.6 million.

The Supreme Court ruled 4-3 on the money damages, awarding $210 million of the $492 million sought by 84 school districts.

Last week's bills also dealt with related school finance issues. The deal:

- School districts which weren't plaintiffs in the suit, but could have filed claims, will get a total of $768 million - about $350 million from state-issued bonds, the rest in equal installment over 10 years from the rainy day fund. Engler and Senate Republicans had wanted to pay them off in one lump sum, restricting use of the money to capital improvements and not salaries.

- Programs for "at-risk" pupils will get $250 million in the current fiscal year and $260 million in fiscal 1998.

- Special education this year will get $66.7 million more and next year another $48.2 million. This avoids violating the court decision in future fiscal years.

- The per-pupil minimum school aid grant will rise $46 to $5,170 for the lowest-funded districts.

- A handful of districts with large numbers of at-risk students will get $20 million to reduce class sizes. Flint lawmakers, in particular, had pushed hard for this money.

- School districts will have to pay 3.54 percent less into the employees' pension fund for the next two years. Estimated savings: $246.6 million in fiscal 1998 and $252.7 million less in fiscal 1999.

- Adult education will be given $80 million despite Engler administration efforts to shift much of those funds to the Jobs Commission.

The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Precautions can prevent problems with turkey preparation

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Wayne County Health official Donald Edmunds says that as Thanksgiving approaches it's time to pay special attention to health precautions in the kitchen, especially when handling and cooking turkeys.

THAWING

Frozen turkeys are safe indefinitely, but as soon as they start to thaw any bacteria present before the bird was frozen can begin to grow again. The safest ways to thaw poultry and other meats include storing in the refrigerator, holding under cold tap water or cooking in a microwave oven.

A rule-of-thumb for cold water thawing is to immerse the bird for two hours per pound, changing the water every half hour. The bird should be kept in a leak-proof bag so that any bacteria present in its surroundings aren't introduced into the food.

To thaw a turkey in a 40 degree fridge, allow approximately 24 hours for every five pounds. Glass shelves, as opposed to wire shelves, may increase the thawing time.

STUFFING

Turkeys should be stuffed loosely with about 3/4 cup of stuffing per pound of turkey. The stuffing should be moist, not dry, since heat destroys bacteria more rapidly in a moist environment.

Cooking a home-stuffed turkey can be riskier than cooking one not stuffed. Bacteria can survive in stuffing which has not reached the safe temperature of 165 degrees, possibly resulting in foodborne illness.

Even if the turkey itself has reached the proper internal temperature of 180 degrees in the innermost part of the thigh, the stuffing may not have.

During the additional cooking necessary to bring the stuffing up to a safe temperature, the meat may become overcooked.

COOKING

Place the turkey breast-side up on a flat wire rack in a shallow roasting pan 2 1/2 inches deep with a half-cup of water.

In the beginning, a tent of aluminum foil may be placed loosely over the breast of the turkey for the first hour, then removed for browning. Or, a tent of foil may be placed over the turkey after it has reached a desirable golden brown.

USING A THERMOMETER

A stuffed turkey should be placed immediately in an oven set no lower than 325 degrees. Even if a pop-up temperature indicator is present, a conventional meat thermometer must also be used to test in several places, including the innermost part of the thigh and the center of the stuffing.

The bird is done when the thermometer temperature reaches at least 180 degrees at the thigh and the juices run clear.

The stuffing inside the turkey must reach 165.

STORING LEFTOVERS

Cooked turkey and other cooked dishes will keep in a 40-degree refrigerator for up to four days. Stuffing and Gravy will keep for up to two.

In the freezer, turkey slices or pieces will last four months, while turkey covered with broth or gravy will last six. Cooked poultry dishes will last six months and stuffing and gravy will keep for a month. Foods frozen longer will dry out and lose flavor although they will remain safe.

According to Edmunds, cooked food or food that will be eaten raw should never be stored within contact of raw meats. Although bacteria are killed when meats reach 180 degrees during cooking, they can survive and multiply in droplets of juice that end up in other foods.

"If you have poultry on one shelf and shredded lettuce underneath, juices could contaminate the lettuce with salmonella," Edmunds said.

CLEANING UP

Bacteria such as salmonella or E. coli can also be transferred via cloth, which is why restaurants are ordered to use rubber mesh to line shelves and employees must wash their hands with soap and water instead of wiping them on towels or aprons. All cloth towels used in the kitchen should be cleaned in a sanitizer and water between each use.

Wetlands legislation at issue in court case

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Six Michigan Supreme Court justices will have several sets of eyes on them as they decide the future of Michigan's Wetlands Protection Act.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, many environmental and two property rights groups filed amicus briefs in the case of an Oakland County landowner who won a $5.9 million trial court decision by saying the Department of Natural Resources denied him the use of his land.

"A regulation is the use of police power, not a 'taking,'" said A. Michael Leffler, an assistant attorney general who filed DNR's appeal brief.

"The government can outlast and outspend us. The state has the power to litigate us into the ground," said attorney Robert Bunting of Oxford, who represented Joseph F. Kosik Sr., his family and companies at both the trial and appellate level.

The fifth amendment to the U.S. Constitution's, best known for protecting people from testifying against themselves, also requires that government compensate owners when it takes their property.

This case, K&K Construction vs. DNR, is the latest in the property rights' movement to make government pay when it deprives owners of the use of their property through regulation. The 1992 and 1996 Republican national platforms support property owners.

The Michigan Supreme Court will be one justice short in its deliberations. Clifford Taylor, appointed Sept. 1, was part of the Court of Appeals panel which last year upheld Kosik's trial court award and was absent from Supreme Court deliberations. The high court tries to rule within a year of oral arguments.

Backing the DNR were the EPA; Michigan United Conservation Clubs; Michigan Municipal League and Townships associations; the Audubon Society; the American Planning Association; the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council; Michigan Natural Areas Council; and the Michigan Environmental Council.

Backing K&K was the Pacific Legal Foundation of Sacramento, Calif., and Michigan Peat, a division of Bay Houston Towing Co.

Packing the second floor courtroom in the G. Mennen Williams Building were students from the Thomas Cooley Law School in Lansing.

K&K'S SIDE

One central argument is how much land is at stake along the south side of M-59 between North Oakland and Airport Road in Waterford Township. DNR says there are 82 acres in four parcels.

Bunting says only the commercially-zoned parcel of 55 acres counts, and DNR's declaration that 28 acres are wetlands makes the property worthless for borrowing purposes. Besides, it's not wet, he said.

"There's lovers' lanes. Equipment can go everywhere. It's not obvious (that it's a wetland). You have two inches to two feet of organic soil. Our soil borings went down 15-16 feet and showed stable gravel," Bunting told the justices.

"There is nothing observable that would indicate a wetland. Heavy equipment has been driven over the property. It is mowed regularly without difficulty. It appears to be high and dry.

"The entire parcel is both buildable and saleable except for the fact that in 1988, appellant DNR designated the heart of it (28 acres) as wetlands. At no time prior to this action had any of the property been inventoried or designated by the state as being a wetland," Bunting said.

He said there are different ownership patterns in three adjacent parcels totaling 27 acres to the south. Kosik and his wife bought the land in 1986. The 55-acre commercial frontage is in a limited partnership called JFK, owned by their five children.

DNR'S SIDE

At stake, said assistant AG Leffler's brief, is the 1980 Wetlands Protection Act and "Michigan's entire wetlands protection program."

Letting the Kosiks collect $5.9 million, he said, would impair the ecosystem, aesthetics and vitality of lakes and rivers; affect groundwater storage capacity; harm flora and fauna, and upset flood control.

"The entire 82 acres of plaintiff's property must be considered as one unit," the state's attorney said.

"Title to the property does not allow the owner either to injure the rights of others by altering the natural character of wetlands or to violate state constitutional and statutory provisions.

"The plaintiffs' reasonable investment-backed expectations are limited by statutes that were in effect when the property was acquired."

In court, assistant AG Stanley Pruss said DNR's permit denial was not a "categorical taking" because "not all economic usage was extinguished." A taking occurs when government: 1) acquires ownership, 2) extinguishes all economic value, or 3) makes a regulation that "goes too far."

"There's still tremendous economic opportunity for the plaintiffs at this site," he said.

CHOW DOWN WITH SANTA:

Northville Parks and Recreation will host "Breakfast with Santa" on Saturday, Dec. 6, from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the Northville Community Center.

The charge of $6 per child includes a pancake breakfast, a picture, a small gift and a special story read by Santa himself. Adults may purchase breakfast for $2 each. The event is geared toward children ages 3-7 and there is a limit of 50.

Registration is being taken now. The registration deadline is Monday, Dec. 1. Sorry, no walk-ins the day of the event. Non-resident fees apply.

For more information call Northville Parks and Recreation at (248) 349-0203.

TURKEY SHOOT FREE THROW CONTEST:

On Sunday, Nov. 16, Northville Parks and Recreation held its fourth annual turkey shoot. Forty-two teams vied for the first prize of a turkey, second prize of a chicken and third prize of a cornish hen. Prizes were donated by Hiller's Shopping Center Market. All participants brought a donation of canned goods which will go toward Civic Concern.

Here are the winners from each age group:

- Ages 4-5
1st place - Joe Pennington
2nd place - Eric Sherrill
3rd place - Michael Wegzyn
- Ages 6-7
1st place - Patrick Sherrill

3rd place - Jimmy Cicala

- Ages 12-15
1st place - Carolyn Harrison
2nd place - Nicholas Dalsasso
3rd place - Kelly Harrison

Northville Parks and Recreation would like to thank Hiller's Shopping Center Market for their generous donation.

FRIENDS OF PARKS AND REC AUCTION:

Mark your calendars now for the 1998 Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation Dinner and Auction. Saturday, April 25, 1998, has been designated as the date for the sixth annual event that benefits Parks and Recreation projects in Northville. The dinner and auction will again be held at the Schoolcraft College Waterman Center. The ticket price is $48 per person.

Friends' treasurer Mark King indicated that auction volunteers have started soliciting auction items from area businesses.

"Anyone who can donate a unique item like a weekend in a condo, a round of golf at a country club or a specialty service, can call our procurement chair, Mike Weaver, at (313) 420-2513," King added. All donations are tax deductible.

In 1997, the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation donated over $10,000 to the Fort Griswold playscape project and $7,100 to the Ford Park renovation project.

Past contributions include improvements to Community Park and to the Fish Hatchery tennis court renovation project. The 1998 auction proceeds have been designated for Northville Community Park lighting and facility building construction.

Locals take on DOT over roads

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Local governments will unite to battle a Michigan Department of Transportation "divide and conquer" tactic to take over thousands of miles of local roads.

Working through the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, counties, cities, villages and even townships will swap information and combine strength to battle Gov. John Engler's plan to have MDOT take over 9,800 miles of their roads.

"They're pitching a grenade over your transom. Pitch it back," urged Birmingham City Commissioner Dante Lanzetta. "I'd rather deal with SEMCOG, where I have a vote."

Brighton Township Supervisor Andrew Wardach said MDOT director James DeSana wrote to each county road commission, city and village outlining MDOT's desire to take over certain local roads.

"You get only a map of your area. We're concerned that this is fragmented," said Wardach, who chairs SEMCOG's transportation advisory council.

SEMCOG staffer Carmine Palombo said townships, which have no authority over roads, weren't sent maps at all. "Regardless of who owns the roads going through townships, they should be involved," Palombo said.

SEMCOG General Assembly delegates agreed that it wasn't enough to look at which roads MDOT proposed to take over in one local unit; they should see the overall plan for neighboring communities and even an entire county.

The administration's plan is to take over 9,800 more miles of roads. As Engler put it during an Oct. 17 forum in Southfield: State government controls only 18,000 of the 118,000 miles of roads, "but we get 90 percent of the calls."

Engler's showcase exhibit: the Davison Freeway in Wayne County, which MDOT took over, rebuilt and reopened earlier this month. "The Davison is fabulous. It was a county road all these years (about 50). We took it three years ago and fixed it," Engler said.

Engler first floated the idea in May when he unveiled his gasoline tax hike plan to improve roads and bridges. Legislators passed the tax but balked at the administration's effort to take over more local roads. But the governor isn't giving up.

Palombo said SEMCOG will set up countywide forums and collect local units' responses to DeSana's one-town maps.

"Otherwise, there's no way to know what others have responded," he said.

The Michigan Municipal League reportedly will urge member cities and villages to tell DeSana they oppose the process and want the issue discussed in Metropolitan Planning Organizations, of which SEMCOG is the state's largest.

In other road matters, SEMCOG staffer Paul Tait said the U.S. Congress is far from an agreement on a renewed ISTEA - Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act.

Expected in fall, ISTEA is unlikely to be passed before spring of 1998, Tait said. "It's so crazy, right now. The Senate attaches a campaign finance reform amendment to every bill," he said.

For the first time in its 30-year history, Tait added, SEMCOG has retained a Washington lobbyist.

ISTEA is also important to Engler, who contends Michigan deserves $200 million more in federal aid considering the taxes it sends to Washington.

My Emergency. My Health. My Hospital.

"St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center now
of Prompt Care."

My daughter fell off the jungle gym a couple of weeks ago and broke her arm. I'm so glad we chose St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center, where she was treated in the new Prompt Care area. We didn't know it, but Carly also hit her head. The doctors — board certified in emergency medicine — were able to detect her minor concussion in time to prevent further damage.

St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center has dedicated x-ray equipment and a casting room where Carly's arm was taken care of quickly. While waiting, we appreciated the private Prompt Care area which shielded us from other people's emergencies. And the staff was professional, kind and compassionate.

It was also comforting to know that if Carly's injury was more serious or she needed to be admitted, we were already at our hospital of choice. Close to home.

Convenience in an emergency. That's why St. Mary Hospital is our hospital. St. Mary Hospital's Emergency Center is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. Prompt Care hours are 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day.

Our Opinion

Open health reports to scrutiny of the public

Twice annually, experts in the biology, environmental health and public policy fields descend on restaurants around Wayne County to evaluate the cleanliness of the businesses.

If they see practices or conditions that are potential health hazards, they record them in a detailed inspection report. Restaurant owners receive a copy of the report, but the general public remains in the dark.

Although the entire Wayne County Department of Health is maintained for the benefit of the public and is funded by tax dollars, the public, unfortunately, has limited access to restaurant inspection records.

To obtain the reports, a formal request must be filed under the Michigan Freedom of Information Act. The requests must be signed and submitted in writing. Though verbal requests are permitted under the act, even those must later be supplemented by a written statement.

The Freedom of Information Act, passed in 1976, regulates the disclosure of documents to the public. It requires that most information gathered or written by public bodies be disclosed, to give citizens unfettered access to their representative institutions.

Yet requiring an FOIA request implies a reluctance to release information in the first place. That's ironic, given that health officials have few enforcement options against a restaurant that refuses to comply with their guidelines.

Unless an establishment is lacking basic facilities such as electricity or water, officials are unable to move against it. Even if a restaurant is crawling with insects, for instance, they may only dock it five points and order the proprietors to correct the situation. If it still isn't taken care of, health officials must initiate a lengthy hearing process and the public might remain uninformed, unless a news agency picks up on the problem.

Health department officials concede that media attention and the publication of health inspections are an important motivating factor in getting restaurants to comply with health guidelines. And the media is in a position to gain access to the information because reporters and editors are schooled in the FOIA process.

Yet the public shouldn't have to rely on the media to inform them about the safety and cleanliness of their local restaurants. In many cases, newspaper staffs don't have the wherewithal to update the reports on a regular basis and never have the space to print all the details of the reports. Television newscasts offer even less complete accounts and often resort to dramatizing aspects such as the "best" and "worst" restaurants in the area.

Citizens shouldn't have to wait for incomplete and sporadic media presentations of inspection reports simply because they are unaware that the information is available or don't know how to go about filing a Freedom of Information Act request.

The folders that house the inspection reports should be open upon verbal request to anyone who chooses to visit the department's offices. Better yet, they should be logged onto a website and continually updated so citizens can make informed choices before they decide where to dine out.

Water tower or antenna holder?

Yet another request has been made to attach an antenna to an existing tower. In this case, Ameritech is asking for lease space on the water tower along Eight Mile so the phone company can wrap a cellular communications donut around the structure.

We're all for economic efficiency and retrofitting often does make more sense than building from scratch. But an antenna ring around a water tower? We're a bit skeptical.

Northville City Councilmember John Hardin, in this first meeting after winning a seat on the council earlier this month, brought his experience on the planning commission to bear on this issue. While stopping short of panning the idea altogether, Hardin insisted that Ameritech produce a rendering of the proposed antenna so he and others could get some sense of what the thing might look like after installation.

Good move. Hardin obviously has been around long enough to know that quality of life issues extend to the visual world and that eyesore pollution, like an ill-advised site plan, can damage the environment.

Economics, after all, isn't everything.

Zero tolerance for intolerance

Some Northville residents woke up Sunday morning, Nov. 9, to find perhaps the most controversial word in the English language scrawled across an outer wall of Northville High School.

Wendy White

A word so inflammatory that a local Detroit group recently started a campaign to have it stricken from the dictionary.

A word so disturbing I regretted using it in its entirety in a front page article I was called on to write.

The story was about a graffiti slur which accused a prominent high school student of hating "niggas" (oh, that dreaded word), in letters measuring four feet tall.

My editor and I decided that substituting the slang word with innocuous dashes would deflate the impact of the story. So we printed it, expecting the word and the article to generate controversy.

In trying to gain a perspective on the racial nature of the incident, my editor made me aware of a Northville group called A Community Organization Recognizing Diversity (ACORD) that claims to exist to promote diversity and tolerance.

Just the kind of group to put into words the outrage I thought the graffiti would incite.

To my surprise, though, a spokesperson for the group passed off the vandalism as nothing more than a prank.

At first, I thought that was a cowardly stance to take on an incident that revealed blatant racism in the community.

Even if it was just school kids with paint cans and nothing to do on a Saturday night, the fact that they didn't appreciate the implication of the word suggests a deep-rooted ignorance. The fact that they thought they were committing a slur against a student they resented instead of an entire minority group at the school is truly shocking.

And if, in fact, they knew the implications of what they were doing, the act is even more shameful.

ACORD has a responsibility to confront this incident and use it to start a dialogue in a community where there are only 37 blacks in a high school with 1,266 students.

To claim that there are no racial overtones in a word that carries such a devastating impact is to undermine the organization's purpose.

However, upon speaking to members of the group I found them reluctant to speak out for fear of bringing violence against themselves or their children. Incidents in the past led them to believe this was a real possibility.

It takes courage for a group to speak out on the sensitive topic of racism, but that is why organizations are formed.

Groups like ACORD gain their strength through numbers, and if some individuals in the 70-member organization choose to use the graffiti incident to speak out about racism, the others should stand up and support them.

Yet the possibility of violence is obviously a real fear. The capacity of some in the community for intolerance and racism is as clear as the writing on the wall.

SADD continues gathering support

Last weekend my co-advisor Judy Cavanaugh, her husband Kevin and I escorted 17 SADD officers and chairpersons to the annual SADD Leadership Conference at Shanty Creek Resort. They are as follows, along with Steve Purteill, who helped us out tremendously at our workshop:

Charlie Stilec

Suzanne George, president; Kelly Lanigan, vice president; Lauren Gunn-Boyar, treasurer; Jenni Taylor, secretary; Chrissie Matela, historian; Shannon McBride and Brett Johnson, peer resistance; Jessica McParland, Kelly Gatt and Jenn Moorhead, activity; Steven Cotterill and Heather Wadowski, publicity; Sacha Baker, Kunal Desai and Angie Banks, fund-raising; and Marcy Mag-nusan and Carrie Martin, communications.

Some history on SADD for your information:
Statewide Statistics
• SADD-MI is a student led organization committed to reducing underage drinking and impaired driving. Activities center around alcohol awareness, resistance skills, peer education, the .02 law, safe driving, and safety belt use.

• SADD is the largest youth leadership program in the state, with chapters in 615 high schools and colleges, more than any other state in the nation.

Some history on Northville SADD:
• The chapter began in the late 1980s with six students. So far in 1997 we have 17 officers and chairs and 400-plus members who have signed contracts promising: not to drive under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs; not to get into a car with a driver who is under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs; and to encourage friends to do the same.

• In 1987 we had no adviser, but we now have three: myself, Judy Cavanaugh, and Jack Wickens (on sick leave but we love him).

• In 1987, SADD was unknown. Now it is one of Northville High School's largest student organizations and is well-known and respected in the community and statewide. It is seen as a top chapter.

• There are monthly meetings bringing in speakers whose goals are to help students stay healthy and drug free.

SADD is an important part of a growing number of students' lives. It is a movement and a philosophy that, I stress, must be internalized for a lifetime. It's not only not OK for kids to drink and drive, but it's not OK for adults, either.

Please help SADD help your students. Ask them to get involved, sign a contract, attend meetings and help with activities.

For your information there is a SADD fund-raiser through Margo's, which will donate 25 percent of all services. Running Fit will donate 15 percent of revenue as well as Pizza Cutter, which is always a wonderful SADD sponsor.

Remember - Don't drink, use drugs and drive, stay alive!

Charlie Stilec is the student assistance coordinator at Northville High School and a prevention specialist with the Community Commission on Drug Abuse, an agency funded, in part, by Hegira Prevention Programs.

School incident was no mere prank

I am concerned that the statement attributed to ACORD's chairperson regarding the recent Northville "spray painting" incident may be misinterpreted by the readers of The Northville Record and dismissed as a prank. To say that this was not a racial incident is to say that the school building was not defaced.

If this was truly a "prank," then let all of Northville join together in laughter. Perhaps the next headline should read, "Northville residents are amused at the use of the 'N' word and laugh at school building defacing."

Defamation of school buildings is a crime. My guess is that the damage and cost to remove the graffiti is well over $100. That makes it a felony, a matter for the police. Yet the police, reportedly, deferred the investigation to school officials.

In the past, Northville's finest have been only too willing to respond to the urging of school officials to make examples of some "unruly" students.

If school officials identify the perpetrator(s), what are they to do? What recourse do school officials have to deal with felony perpetrator(s)? You guessed it, call the police.

Any use of the "N" word is racial and should not be tolerated.

The student whose name was used in connection with the spray painting is at risk. He has been labeled and is at risk. He will always be suspected as either a prankster or as a victim of another's sick joke (or sincere motive).

I guess the old building needed a facelift.

Honesty needed among politicians

To the editor:
What irony. What chutzpah. Talk about having the fox guarding the chicken coop.

It would be hilarious if it wasn't for the fact that Dan Burton, chairman of the House Government Reform and Oversight Committee, is being investigated by a grand jury for a complaint made by Mark A. Siegel (according to the New York Times) that Rep. Burton threatened him with loss of business if he did not raise at least $5,000 from Pakistani-Americans.

Then again, Burton will be rehearsing the same ground covered by Sen. Thompson, when his committee looked into the shenanigans of Democratic and Republican fund-raising activities in the last presidential campaign - let alone that millions of taxpayer dollars will have been expended before his committee exhausts itself in looking into the dead-end cul-de-sacs of campaign financing.

It is amazing to what depths of duplicity and disingenuousness some politicians will descend to as they try to pull the wool over the eyes of an increasingly alert and cynical public.

Not until politicians clean up their act and are honest with the American people can they earn their respect and confidence. Only then will they see the decline of voter apathy and a resurgence of a willingness to take time out and vote their preference as to who is to represent them.

Alfred P. Galli

Link prison plan to cost-effectiveness

So Gov. John Engler wants to build five new prisons.

Phil Power

In a special report to the Legislature last week, the governor argued that Michigan will exhaust its prison capacity as early as next month and needs right away to start construction on 5,400 new beds.

That's fine. No red-blooded politician dares oppose locking up murderers, felons and drug dealers. And, just maybe, our prison system is up against court orders prohibiting overcrowding.

But sooner or later, somebody is going to have to start paying tough-minded attention to costs, efficiencies and priorities.

State Rep. Donald Gilmer, vice chair of the House Appropriations Committee, is off to a good start: "I'm personally convinced we could build a hundred new prisons and we'd never have enough. If we continue this way we will eventually spend every dime we have on corrections."

Predictably, the governor's message did not estimate the capital or operating costs for the new facilities he wants. Best guess around Lansing is that debt service and additional operating costs, mainly for guards and other prison staff, would add up to an extra $150 million each year.

Currently, the Department of Corrections spends more than $1.3 billion annually to house around 43,000 inmates at state prisons, camps and halfway houses. That's something like 15 percent of the general fund budget for the whole state, way up from the 5 percent that went to Corrections in FY 1982-83, when the prison budget was $228 million.

Over the past 15 years, the growth in spending for the Department of Corrections has far outstripped the growth in any other state department.

State Rep. Kirk Profit, who was undersheriff of Washtenaw County from 1980-84 and is, hence, immune to charges of criminal coddling, has been grumbling about excessive spending on prisons for years. He makes some mighty interesting points:

• Michigan's average daily cost per inmate is $53, whereas the average daily cost per inmate in Ohio is $37. If Michigan's prisons were run as cost effectively as Ohio's, our state would save more than $250 million per year.

• Michigan incarcerates 430 people for every 100,000 residents. Indiana's rate of incarceration is 279 inmates per 100,000 residents. Should Michigan choose to imprison our residents at the same rate as Indiana, taxpayers would save more than $400 million per year.

Another way to look at Michigan's prison policy is as a matter of relative priorities as defined by the way our government spends its money.

Michigan's priorities are these, in order: We spend an annual average of $25,000 per inmate in prison, $5,500 per student in our K-12 school system, around $4,000 per student in our state colleges and universities, and an average of $2,000 per mental health recipient.

The conclusion is simple. State policy, as reflected in actual spending, considers warehousing felons four times more valuable than educating our kids. That's ridiculous, of course. But thinking about priorities in this way helps highlight the enormous amount we are spending on our prison system.

My guess is that Engler is right to argue that our prison system is dangerously close to overcrowding. And the political reality, with an election year coming, is that the Legislature will make sure it is all for locking up criminals.

But it might be a good idea to link building new prisons with creating a serious blue-ribbon commission to take a searching look at the cost-effectiveness of Michigan's prison system and make recommendations. Just why is it that Ohio's costs are $16 per day per inmate less than Michigan's? How has it come about that a bunch of federal judges are effectively micro-managing our prisons in matters ranging from the number of inmates per cell down to the kinds of basketball shoes the taxpayers are required to buy?

Sometimes commissions of this sort can be very effective, especially in a highly charged political environment. And with $1.3 billion to look at, I'm sure some hard-headed folks could ask a lot of questions, shed a lot of light and, just maybe, find some good ways to save a lot of money.

Many mayors qualified to serve as governor

TV is tough to do because you have time to ask just one-third of the questions or make half the remarks you prepared.

Tim Richard

So it was on the pre-election Channel 7 Spotlight show when we discussed mayoral races. I observed that no mayors I could see had the credentials or interest to run for high office such as governor.

Historically it has been like that. Detroit mayors Albert E. Cobo in 1956, Frank Murphy in 1936 and Hazen M. Pingree in 1896 ran for governor, with Murphy and "Ping" making it.

Livonia Mayor Ed McNamara in 1970 made a bid for lieutenant governor. Somewhere around 1958, a Huntington Woods mayor was the GOP nominee for state treasurer.

For three or four years, Democrats have talked about Detroit's Dennis Archer as a ticket leader, but Archer has too full an agenda at home to think about.

Gov. Fred Warner (1903-08) started as Farmington village president but rose politically through the Senate and Secretary of State offices.

Michigan Lt. Gov. Jim Brickley (1970-74 and 78-82) started his career on the Detroit City Council, but was U.S. attorney and president of Eastern Michigan University when Gov. Bill Milliken tapped him as a running mate. More on Brickley later.

Other states have had governors who came up through city hall. California's Pete Wilson was mayor of San Diego (before going to the U.S. Senate).

Ohio's George Voinovich and Frank Lausche were mayors of Cleveland. Florida's Bob Martinez emerged from Tampa.

Former Livonia Mayor Bob Bennett, who had no yen for higher office, reflected on the scarcity of Michigan mayors who ran for statewide office.

Mayors are oriented toward doing a job for home folks rather than puffing up themselves for a statewide audience, he believes.

Many of our progressive cities, such as Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo, have city manager systems, where the mayor does little more than chair council meetings.

(The home rule act says every city must have a mayor, whether or not he has any independent power.)

Bill Clinton was governor of a state with 1 percent of the U.S. population when he was elected president. So why couldn't a city with 1 percent of Michigan's population (94,000 plus or minus) produce a governor?

That would make Dearborn, Westland, Livonia, Southfield and Warren farm clubs for the State Capitol.

Yet it isn't happening.

This is not just about political machinations. There is a gut reason that it would be desirable to have a governor with first-hand experience running a municipality. The reason is urban sprawl.

Urban sprawl occurs when you pave over land faster than your population increases. Urban sprawl isn't "growth." In Michigan in one decade, we paved over the equivalent of the entire area of Washtenaw and Livingston counties with little rise in population.

Urban sprawl raises our taxes (new roads, schools) and depletes natural resources.

With urban sprawl, we pave over farmland for big-lot housing, industries and mega-malls. So we must ship food from a greater distance. Food shipped a long distance loses freshness, has more preservatives, and is handled by more people.

Think of all the tainted food news stories you've read or heard in the last few years. Why did those Battle Creek school kids get sick from strawberries? Because the strawberries were imported from Mexico. Whatever happened to Michigan strawberries?

Govs. John Engler and Jim Blanchard, whatever their other merits, didn't grasp the meaning of "urban sprawl." Milliken, influenced by Brickley, did understand it and actually took steps to preserve old downtowns.

Urban sprawl is a gut issue, literally, and a more important problem than teen gangs, parental control of the schools, and many junk issues that gubernatorial candidates will discuss in 1998. And it's why city halls, with their knowledge of land use planning, should produce more candidates for high state office.

Tim Richard reports on the local implication of state and regional events. His Touch-Tone voice mail number is (313) 953-2047 ext. 1881.

Years of music making were unforgettable

When I was 5, we sang Christmas carols in three-part harmony. I sang boyhood soprano, carrying the melody.

Tom Rice

When I was 12, mom and dad went to Sears and Wards and bought me my first guitar. It had a picture of a cowboy stenciled on it. It cost $29.95. To me, it was the best guitar ever made. The only problem? It was nearly impossible to play - the strings were a good 3-inches off the fretboard.

When I was 14, I bought my first real guitar from money I made shoveling snow. It had soft nylon strings. On it I heard my first perfect chord followed by a three- and four-chord progression. When I sang the melody of "The House of the Risen Sun" while playing those chords, a love affair began.

My guitar and I were inseparable from that point on. Eventually, I dreamed of a friendly guitar store where people counted more than sales and profits. The Gitfiddler was born and what a rich lifestyle it has been for the last 24 years. The richest part has been experiencing you the people, finding the love of music in you and knowing that our business, The Gitfiddler Music Store, played a part in it.

The business was a warm and cozy place. It had a heartbeat from so many unique and wonderful customers, teachers and loyal employees. I could have stopped at 302 E. Main where we had some financial security, but I had been passed a torch from the old Raven Gallery for live acoustic music to live again in a live performance format. That passion was briefly realized in the 1985-vintage Methodist Church at 145 N. Center.

For a short time we had under one roof "The Gitfiddler" - a great musical retail store - a 16 student music academy teaching 600 students and employing 40 teachers, and a beautiful sanctuary to hear the finest in acoustic music.

As we all know, it failed financially but it succeeded in fulfilling my long-time dream. If I hadn't done it, I would have always wondered "what if?"

So, in conclusion, I first give a heartfelt thank-you to all who supported this crazy dreamer's dream for 24 years. I challenge you to keep music alive and rich and to share this gift with others. I also pray to those who I left short and disappointed that you'll someday forgive me. My intentions were honorable.

To capture the magic of the Folk and Bluegrass Festivals, the immense pride and joy watching the parents experience the performance of their children in our student concerts; the intimacy of a Raven concert where people hear every note in crystal clarity and love every moment; getting to know a family down to everyone's name, sometimes even including their dog's name, during a typical day at The Gitfiddler ... there were so many rich experiences.

I could never fit in this column everything I hold in my heart, so someday I hope to write a book sharing all this in words that everyone can relate to. I think I'll call it The American Dream - Blue Collar Style.

God bless all of you.

Tom and Rita Rice and family

Tom Rice ran the The Gitfiddler Music Store at three different locations in Northville. In September, the business folded after 24 years of operation.

Beanies still hot commodity

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

They don't have a license to hunt, but some zealous Beanie Baby groupies have been known to actually stalk delivery trucks.

"I know of people who follow the UPS truck to see if it has boxes. They have red hearts on them and say 'Ty.' It's crazy," said Rhonda Chase, Beanie Baby collector turned Novi Expo Center show impresario.

There's big money in the craze, for now at least. Some of the hottest little "retired" critters are going for as much as $1,500.

Why spend this money on a handful of fake fur and beans?

"It's the chase. It's hard to get. It's like a challenge. You want to beat everybody else and get them. You want to be the first to have them," Chase explained.

Check out your favorite fuzzy friends at the Nov. 29 Beanie Baby & Toy Show (and swap) Chase is bringing to the Expo Center. Some 50 vendors will offer the latest numbers, as well as the high-demand retired models.

Chase said the shows are common in her hometown of Ypsilanti, but there didn't seem to be as many in the Novi area. That's why she's bringing an event there.

She was dragged into the quest early last winter by her son, Derek, 7. Her mother, Carmen Swafford, became a vendor.

"We would go to Beanie Baby shows all the time. I guess it's even getting worse," Chase said.

Like many toy crazes, the kids may have started it, but the adults are muscling in - and they've got credit cards.

So far, 105 variations of the Chinese-made stuffed animals are available.

New models include a 1997 Christmas teddy, as well as Batty the Bat, Spinner the Spider and Gobbler the Turkey. A Princess Di Memorial Beanie Babie Teddy Bear, in purple with a white rose, is coming out on Dec. 1.

But it's the retired models that really draw the big spenders. While new beanies sell in the $4-$8 range, many older models - and in this business, old can mean a few months to a year - are up to $20-$75.

Any dinosaur may be in the $500 to $600 range. Slithers the Snake is in that price range too, while Humphrey the Camel goes for $600.

Most sought after of all is the royal blue elephant, which Chase has seen sold for $1,500.

"Everybody keeps saying it's going to calm down, but it's as bad now as when it started," she said.

Other collectible toys will be available at the event, mainly those focusing on Star Trek and NASCAR.

"I hope it turns out and people get what they want," Chase said.

The Beanie Baby & Toy Show will be held on Nov. 29 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Parking is free and admission is $3 per person.

Train show steams into Novi this week

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Toys, they're not just for kids anymore.

Proof of that is two shows coming to the Novi Expo Center this month, just in time for Christmas shopping. On Nov. 22-23, it's the Greenberg Great Train, Doll House and Toy Show, followed on Nov. 29 by the Beanie Baby & Toy Show.

Sure, children are welcome, but most won't have enough in their little piggy banks to buy some of the costlier stuff.

While the Beanie bash will feature some prices as high as the three-figure range, the train show is where some serious carriers of plastic may show up.

"There will be things that will lend themselves to the train hobbyist, but it's for every member of the family," Greenberg spokesperson Dina Cook said.

About 70 percent of the show will feature trains and train accessories with manufacturers such as Lionel, Marx and American Flyer. Lots of newer, high-tech extras will be available, like realistic sound systems and remote controls so a would-be Casey Jones can kick back in an easy chair and run that train.

Prices can vary from $200 to $300 for a whole train set to $1,000 to $3,000 for a single engine.

"It's a very affordable hobby. But there is also a lot of money in it, collectors who buy for investment. In an auction in October, we sold 13 pieces for $40,000," Cook said.

"That was quite impressive for a toy train."

The big money went for a rare 1920s Volt-Amp set. At the Novi show, some prewar trains will be available, but most are of post-World War II vintage.

Vendors that specialize in doll houses and miniatures are also included in the event, and not just because train hobbyists who set up elaborate layouts can raid doll houses for little items.

"The reason the promoters targeted doll houses - this might sound sexist - but women are more interested in the doll house hobby and we were trying to bring the whole family together," Cook said.

Three very detailed doll houses will be displayed at the show: a brick townhouse, a farmhouse and an English Tudor residence. Lots of tiny furnishings will be available for purchase.

Train collectors have several things they can do with their treasures: set it up and run it, shelve it and admire it and build their own layouts. For those who are the creative types, Engineer Ed will be on hand conducting workshops on how to make realistic miniature pine and hardwood trees, plus easy scenery maintenance. He'll also teach how to repair cross-bucks, whistles and transformers.

One of the show's attractions for kids may be the huge train layouts that can leave some tykes in awe. Tiny miniatures to big, G-scale trains roaring down the track should keep them busy, while there's even a chance for youngsters to play engineer at the Lionel Kiddie Express.

Parents in need of peace and quiet might consider purchasing a model train set as a babysitter, said Cook, who saw a toddler so hypnotized by a train at one show that he fell asleep on his feet.

"There's a lot of excitement. I'm amazed at the children. They watch the trains. They just stare at them going around," she said.

The Maryland-based Greenberg has done 43 shows a year since 1994, two of them annually in Novi.

"It's been a good location for us.

There's a lot of train people in the show area," Cook said.

The Greenberg Great Train, Doll House and Toy Show runs Saturday, Nov. 22, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 23, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Admission, which includes parking, is $6 for adults and $2 for children and is good for both days.

For more information, call the show's company in Maryland at (410) 795-7673 or the Expo Center at (248) 348-5600.

Library Link-up

New system enables libraries to share database statewide

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

No more trudging through the snow from library to library to search for specific reference material.

The Northville and Novi public libraries are up and running with state- and federally-funded programs enabling libraries to gain online access to the full text of more than 1,000 magazines and periodicals, plus newspapers, indexes and more.

The project, which kicked off in July, gives library patrons access to these materials at no cost.

The Michigan Library Consortium (MLC) will administer the database system. MLC is a non-profit corporation formed to facilitate information sharing among Michigan libraries.

"What the Library of Michigan decided to do with this money is fund Internet access to databases for every public library in the state," said Andrew Mutch, who provides electronic services support for the Northville District Library during the one-year trial program.

It also saves the Northville library $10,000 to $15,000, the cost to subscribe to three search bank databases for one year. Novi was not previously paying for those database services.

"Thousands of dollars that we previously spent on these we can now reallocate for other resources, which might mean more databases or other products such as information on CDs," Mutch said. "One of the things we are exploring is how to improve our Internet connections so that not only can people have access to these resources but it will be faster and more efficient."

Databases with information on agriculture to medicine, business to general are all available. Some of the information could previously only be found in university or medical libraries.

Information from a database is more current than that found on a CD-ROM.

"We couldn't spend the money or have the space to do a quarter of what's available here," he said. "It's really impressive."

That means no more rifling through paper indexes for a citation, then searching for the newspaper or magazine before heading over to the copy machine.

The databases are divided into categories and some citations are full text while others are in the form of abstracts. Information can be sent from the library's computer to the printer or e-mailed to the patron's home computer.

"If you use a mouse and understand how to click, it's so user friendly," Mutch said. "We're getting several hundred searches a month and our numbers have just been going up and up."

The program is available to all public libraries, which has the effect of leveling the playing field between libraries with Internet access.

"It was a self-initiated project," Mutch said. "They made the resources available and it was up to your library to make it assessable to your patrons. We had it up the first day they had it available to the public."

Accessing the databases is pretty straightforward, according to Mutch. Using the mouse, the patron clicks on the magazine database icon.

"It is saving (patrons) a lot of work and effort," he said. "In the past you probably spent half of your time in research. Literally in minutes you can have a list longer than you know what to do with. Something that would take 15 to 30 minutes can be done in seconds. The slowest thing here is the printer."

Previously, federal funds for the program went to building projects.

"With the emergence of the Internet there has been a refocusing of how those monies are going to be allocated," Mutch said. "There has been a focus on technology as opposed to bricks and mortar type of projects."

Probably within a month the Novi Library will have one public computer work station which is automatically pointed at the Statewide Databases, according to Novi Public Library Director Brenda Evans.

"These would be preset to log into these new services," Evans said. "We want to make it as painless and as easy as possible."

Library staff members attended day-long training programs to learn how to use the databases because they all have different searches.

If a patron needs a travel magazine or an article from a periodical, it can be printed out on the library's printer.

For example, the New York Times, which is updated daily and is available dating back for 90 days, is now included in the statewide database project.

"Any kind of international news you can find in the New York Times," said Donna Hollis, head of reference services at the Novi library.

Patrons can give librarians a subject and they will be pointed in the right direction.

The difference between using a search on the Internet and using a search on the Statewide Database is that, on the Internet you would find information about the subject, but on the Statewide Database you have access to many indexes which direct the user to full text or abstracts of articles.

"We have more ways to look for magazine articles," Hollis said.

Jean Gordon has found there's plenty to do when retired.

Retiree receptive to volunteer activities

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

Jean Gordon is as busy as ever, but in a different way than before.

Gordon taught high school horticulture and botany for the seven years just prior to her retirement 10 years ago from the Livonia Public School District.

"When I was teaching I taught school all day and I knew there'd be papers to do at night," she said. "But now some days there are four different things to do."

Which is not a problem at all for the Northville resident of 24 years, because she is volunteering for activities she very much enjoys.

A listener of the University of Michigan's radio station, WUOM, Gordon found out that the station was looking for volunteers and gave them a call.

"I was thinking it was a good way to support them - to keep them on the air," said Gordon, who answers the phones during the station's fund-raising pledge drives several times a year.

Most of her volunteer work involves interacting with people and doing hands-on work.

As a volunteer with Habitat for Humanity, Gordon helped an electrician wire three houses and is on the public relations committee for the Huron Valley chapter of the organization.

"I didn't retire for a long time because I didn't think there was anything out there," she said. "Now I am finding there are more opportunities to do things than there are people to go around."

Gordon volunteers in the gift shop and as a docent with the Matthaei Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor, leading tours of the outdoor trails and explaining plants and the water purification system, which treats the run-off from the conservatory and the five green houses.

"I like taking the tours because I like to go on hikes," Gordon said. "I like to take the young people out and get them excited about the outdoors. Some of them don't get a chance to do that."

It's A Fact

OH DEER!

Deer-car collisions - about 60 in Novi and 30 in Northville Township each year - do an estimated damage of $1,600 per incident.

In Our Town

All Aglow benefit continues

The Northville Mothers' Club fund-raiser, "All Aglow," is in full swing.

Carol Dipple

The club, which sells lights to decorate the Christmas tree in front of the Main Street bandshell in downtown Northville, donates the money raised to Northville public school projects.

Lights can be purchased by donors and dedicated in honor or in memory of a loved one, a friend, a teacher, or a coach.

The children of Northville PTA presidents will have the honor this year of lighting the tree on Friday, Dec. 12, at 6 p.m.

Choirs from Cooke and Meads Mill middle schools will perform at the tree lighting ceremony.

The All Aglow tree lighting event is open to the public and coincides with other downtown holiday activities that are planned for the evening.

Holiday meeting/auction planned by OWL chapter

The Farmington OWL's Annual Holiday Brunch will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Botsford Inn. The cost is $20 per person and includes a brunch in the Founders Room.

The speaker will be Kay Duncan from the Detroit Institute of Arts who will discuss "Women in the Bible."

There will be a silent auction and raffles of a handmade Christmas stocking, wreaths and a $100 gift certificate for Shadowline lingerie.

Paid reservations must be received by Dec. 2 and can be made by calling Doris O'Connell at (248) 348-8012.

Target store donates to symphony

The Livonia Target store at 20100 Haggerty Road awarded a grant of $4,500 to the Plymouth Symphony on Thursday, Nov. 6.

The symphony's honorary chairpersons include Northville Mayor Chris Johnson, Novi Mayor Kathleen McLallen and Northville Township Supervisor and Karen Woodside.

If you have information for the In Our Town column, call Feature Editor Carol Dipple at (248) 349-1700.

On Campus

KRISTEN E. DAVIS and KEVIN S. VAN NOORD, Northville residents, both received bachelor's degrees in marketing from Western Michigan University at the end of the summer session of the 1996-97 school year.

University of Michigan student KELLY LUTES of Northville has been awarded a scholarship to be applied toward studying abroad. The Office of International Programs (OIP), which administers U-M study abroad programs, has awarded scholarships to students participating in their programs.

Lutes is participating in the York Academic Year Program, OIP Award.

DAVID EULE of Northville has been accepted by the Youth For Understanding (YFU) International Exchange as an international exchange student. Eule will live with a family in New Zealand on the YFU 1998 summer program. He currently attends Northville High School.

YFU was established in 1951 as a private, non-profit educational organization dedicated to promoting international understanding and world peace through exchange programs for high school students.

Now, more than 40 years later, YFU operates exchange programs in more than two dozen countries and has 10 regional offices in the United States.

KARA LLOYD and CHRISTA PILAT, students at Olivet Nazarene University, have been selected to receive the Detroit First Church Scholarship for the 1997-98 academic year.

Lloyd is a sophomore majoring in history education. She is the daughter of Stephen and Pamela Lloyd of Northville, and a 1996 graduate of Northville High School.

Pilat, a senior, is majoring in family and consumer science at Olivet Nazarene. She is a 1994 graduate of Southfield Christian High School and the daughter of Ronald and Sharon Pilat of Northville.

Also in receipt of an award was JODI FISCHER, a junior English education major at Olivet Nazarene University. She has been selected to receive the Dr. Carl S. and Eunice McClain Scholarship for the 1997-98 academic year.

Fischer, a 1995 graduate of Northville High School, is the daughter of Gary and Stacy Fischer, also of Northville.

MICHAEL GARABELLI, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Garabelli of Northville, was selected Scholar-Athlete from Our Lady of Sorrows School in Farmington.

Michael was presented with an award on Sunday, Nov. 2, at the Pontiac Silverdome during the Catholic Youth Organization (CYO) Prep Bowl.

CHRISTINA A. LOMBARDO, a senior majoring in speech communication and theater, has been selected as a member of the Albion College Concert Choir for the 1997-98 school year. The singers are selected each fall by audition. This year's 68-member choir will be under the direction of Dr. Douglas Rose.

Lombardo is the daughter of Judith Lombardo of Northville and is a graduate of Northville High School.

Fountain lit for night viewing

Decorating one of the historical buildings for the Christmas Walk at Mill Race Village are (from left) Kathi Jerome, Roxanne Casterline and Pat Wright, all from the Northville Life Members Mothers' Club. Cady Inn is being decorated with an angel theme by Linda Clarke and Kathi Jerome. The Yerkes House and New School Church are being decorated by Roxanne Casterline. Pat Wright will decorate Hunter House. The Village will be open for the Annual Christmas Walk on Sunday, Nov. 23, from noon until 4 p.m. Members will put on the finishing touches for the group's Open House to be held at Mill Race on Dec. 6. Anyone interested in attending the Open House can call Joan Sellen at (248) 348-9072.

Closer to home, Gordon is a docent at Mill Race Historical Village and this year is president of the Weaver's Guild.

She will be on hand for Northville's Christmas Walk at Mill Race on Nov. 23, but only for a short time because she is also volunteering with the Detroit Story League. The league is having a celebration at the Civic Center Library in Livonia the same day. The Detroit Story League is a service organization which fills requests for storytellers.

The night before Halloween, Gordon was telling stories around a campfire at Maybury State Park for students from Farmington's Our Lady of Sorrows. Not one for gore, Gordon chose to read Black Bubble Gum.

"It's as spooky as I get," she said. "It's clever spooky."

Gordon also periodically returns to her former high school in Livonia to continue working with the student assistance program, which she was involved with before she retired.

Working with at-risk students, Gordon mostly helps with academic subjects.

"So few young people get treatment these days because of lack of insurance that I help anyone who needs it in whatever they need help in," she said. "Sometimes it's TLC which they need the most."

As a weaver and spinner, Gordon occasionally gives demonstrations at area parks, including Maybury.

"The opportunities are there," she said. "It's just being open to listening and going ahead and doing something about it."

2000 years later, Christianity's biggest competition is still the Lions.

Before you sit down for an afternoon with the Lions, Bears, Dolphins, Rams, Cowboys or Vikings, come spend an hour with some very nice Christians in the love, worship and fellowship of Jesus Christ

*Who are the Presbyterians and why is there

Is a Michigan MBA that important?

Should we tell the world how important our MBA program is by changing the University logo?

We probably couldn't get away with it, but many graduates (and even more potential employers) think that a Master's Degree in Business Administration from the University of Michigan is among the strongest in the field. Good news for you.

The School of Management now offers two graduate degree programs at the Dearborn campus.

There is a dual-degree program leading to both the Master of Business Administration and Master of Science in Engineering—Industrial and Systems Engineering. Then there is the MBA program which is designed for those whose undergraduate degrees are in areas other than business administration.

Of course, with the Dearborn campus, things are even more convenient for many students.

Not easier, just more convenient. After all, this is the University of Michigan. Go Blue!

From UofM-Dearborn. Two great choices for one great future!

For further details and an application portfolio, please call the specific office of your graduate program.

Angela and Gardner Klaasen II

Bill and Pam Butterfield of Northville announce the marriage of their daughter, Angela Marie, to Gardner Jack Klaasen II, the son of Gardner and Janice Klaasen of Traverse City. They were married July 19, at The Shrine-Chapel of Our Lady of Orchard Lake in Orchard Lake.

The brother of the bride, Bill Butterfield of Walled Lake, served as a primary reader during the ceremony. Friends of the bride and groom, Shana Vinegar of Bloomfield Hills and Dan Elliott of Boulder, Colo., also served as readers. Trumpet and organ selections were played throughout the ritual.

Immediately following the ceremony, 200 guests attended a formal dinner and dance reception at Bay Pointe Country Club in West Bloomfield. Guests from Chicago, Ohio, California, Colorado, Arizona and Florida shared in the celebration. A garden theme prevailed throughout the wedding ceremony and reception.

The bride is a 1983 Northville High School graduate and received her bachelor's degree in advertising from Michigan State University. She is currently employed as vice president of marketing and sales with DP Fox Sports & Entertainment L.L.C. in Grand Rapids.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her friend, Lisa Ballo of Royal Oak. Her bridesmaids were Janice Lerg (Irwin) of Farmington, formerly of Northville, Sandra Biebel of Farmington Hills, and Susan Sunsen of Phoenix, Ariz.

The bridegroom earned his bachelor of fine arts degree from the Center for Creative Studies, and is a senior industrial designer for Steelcase Corp. in Grand Rapids.

Serving as best man was brother of the groom, Trevor Klaasen of Grand Rapids. Attending as groomsmen were brothers of the bride, Bill Butterfield and Brad Butterfield of Brighton, Tim Weiss of Traverse City, Fred Seeburger of Columbus, Ohio, and Dan Elliott.

The couple honeymooned in Negril, Jamaica, and currently live in Ada, Mich.

Engagements

Michele Andrikides/Douglas Cadaret

Mr. and Mrs. Dimitrios Andrikides of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Michele Lynn, to Douglas Cadaret, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cadaret also of Northville.

The bride-elect is a 1994 graduate of Northville High School and will graduate in December from Western Michigan University with a degree in elementary education.

The groom-elect is a 1991 graduate of Northville High School. He graduated in 1995 from Western Michigan University with a degree in public relations, and is currently employed at Concord Financial in West Bloomfield.

A May 2, 1998, wedding is planned.

Spencer Brown/Kathleen Pearce

Dr. Edward and Betsy Pearce of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Elizabeth, to Spencer (Skip) Harold Brown, the son of David and Nancy Brown of Wheaton, Ill.

The bride-elect graduated in 1995 from Southfield Christian High School.

Kathleen is currently a junior at Wheaton College in Illinois, majoring in elementary education.

The bridegroom-elect is a 1994 graduate of Wheaton Warrenville South High School.

Spencer is currently a senior at Wheaton College majoring in business/economics.

In Service

Navy Lt. j.g. KEVIN A. JANKOWSKI recently departed on a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea aboard the destroyer USS John Rodgers.

Jankowski and crew members prepared for the deployment by participating in an Atlantic Joint Task Force exercise off the eastern coast of the U.S. The exercise involved U.S. forces testing their ability to respond to situations they may encounter during their six-month deployment.

Jankowski is a 1989 graduate of Detroit Catholic Central High School in Redford. He graduated in 1994 from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis with a bachelor of science degree.

He is the son of Charles A. and Joyce K. Jankowski of Northville.

Wreath sale to benefit children

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

Everything came together for three members of the Country Garden Club of Northville before the last leaf was in place.

Kathryn Novak, Shirley Kiefhaber and Ann Renucci knew they wanted something different for their club's entry in the 13th Annual Festival of Trees event, but they didn't quite know where they were headed at first.

Things fell into place, though, and the result was a 26-inch grapevine wreath made of several leaf varieties. The wreath, named "Williamsburg Christmas," uses leaves from magnolia and fern plants, as well as pepper berries, almond pods, and pomegranate in green and cranberry with a gold pineapple.

The Country Garden Club of Northville, a branch of the National Farm and Garden Association, has been entering the Children's Hospital of Michigan fund-raiser for seven years. This is the third year Novak has worked on the club's entry.

Last year the garden club's entry, "Victorian Christmas," sold for $225 and received a silver ribbon in the Victorian category.

The Country Garden Club entry will be among 69 wreaths in the show. The theme this year is "A Celebration of Angels," and will include 28 wreaths in the Yuletide category; 12 in Decorative; three in Seasonal; nine in Victorian; 10 in Children's Fantasies; and seven in the Rustic category.

Over 100 trees have also been entered this year.

"It is a real interesting day to go down there," said, Novak who, along with other members of the Country Garden Club, make the annual trek to Cobo Center. "It is always nice to go down there and get ideas of what everybody's doing."

Entries arriving from area garden clubs, floral shops and interior decorators as well as individuals, will be judged on Nov. 22.

The Festival of Trees raised $550,000 in 1996. Proceeds are given to the Evergreen Endowment Fund, which supports research into treatments, causes and cures of diseases that afflict children.

The focus of this year's fund-raiser is the Positron Emission Tomography Center, which is dedicated to the study of childhood disorders.

Besides trees and wreaths, there are also children's activities and entertainment, including a Teddy Bear Tea on Nov. 23. Tickets for the event include the price of admission to the Festival of Trees.

Categories for judging include best of show, first and second place, and honorary mention, as well as best of theme and best of show. Prizes will be presented at the gala black-tie optional Preview Party on Saturday, Nov. 22.

Prices for each of the entries are determined partially by the costs involved in making the wreath, according Novak.

"Usually our wreaths have been priced around $300, and they sell," Novak said.

Along with wreaths and trees, stockings and other holiday decorations will be displayed and available for purchase.

Over 30,000 people visit the Festival of Trees each year.

The Festival of Trees opens Sunday, Nov. 23, and runs through Nov. 30. Tickets are $6, $4 for seniors, $2 for children 12 and under, and children under 2 are free.

For details about the Festival of Trees, call (313) 966-TREE.

Symphony, ballet unite for 'The Nutcracker'

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra and the Plymouth-Canton Ballet join together to tell the story of Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker on Friday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m., and on Saturday, Dec. 13, and Sunday, Dec. 14, at 3 p.m. All three performances are at Plymouth Salem High School, 46181 Joy Road in Canton.

In the ballet, the part of Clara will be played by Hilari Smith, 12, of Canton. Hilari has been dancing for 10 years.

Dawnell Dryja and Mark Nash, both of the Cincinnati Ballet, will return this year to dance the parts of the Sugar Plum Fairy and the King.

Among the 50 children in this year's performance of The Nutcracker are Northville residents Kimberley Lang, who has been cast as a reed doll, Pamela Lawrie as a dew drop fairy, and Deidre Defazio as a snow fairy.

Novi residents include Bethany Andres as the Spanish Doll, Eric Resconich as the King Rat, and Kristen Kern as a soldier in battle scene. Rich and Brenda Kern, also of Novi, return for the third year as parents in the party scene in the first act.

The Sugar Plum Fairy Tea, where children can have a tea party with the Sugar Plum Fairy, the King, and other performers, will be held after the concerts on Saturday and Sunday.

Tickets for the Sugar Plum Fairy Tea are $5 in advance and $6 at the door.

New Disney movie offers interactive web site

It jumps, it flies, and it's headed onto the Internet! Flubber, that anti-gravity green goo that makes anything fly, from bowling balls to cars, has landed on the World Wide Web at www.flubber.com. Complete with the top-secret formula for the famous flub, notes from Professor Brainard's lab notebook, and the tools to flubberize your very own computer, this Web site captures the wacky spirit of the highly-anticipated holiday movie, Disney's "Flubber."

MAKE A LITTLE FLUB

Somehow you've gained access to the professor's lab, and he's left everything ready for you to make up some flubber. First, you must concoct the correct color. Mix a few vials of this hue and a couple drops of that one to end up with the right color — the color of flubber!

Then with a quick heat-up over the Bunsen burner, you've got yourself some flub! If you have some trouble determining the exact formula, don't worry, the Professor's Notebook in the Club Flub section can give you some pointers.

CLUB FLUB

Visit the Club page and flub your friends by simply clicking on your favorite Flub-O-Gram and e-mailing these cool digital postcards.

Also, play the Bounce Game! Keep a trampoline on the move to stop a stream of falling flubber from hitting the ground. Bounce the green goo into the professor's beaker to win. And, check out the Professor's Notebook to copy the flubber formula (including the solutions to the Make Flubber game), and get the scoop on all the film's actors, like Robin Williams and Marcia Gay Harden

WEEBO'S WORKSHOP

Flubberize your computer desktop! With cool screen savers, wallpapers, a Windows 95 Flubber pointer, and a Windows 95 desktop theme packed with sounds, icons and cursors, Weebo's Workshop transforms your computer into a world of flub!

FLUBBERVISION

Weebo has digitized clips from the film and is ready to beam them to you. You will get a sneak peek at some of the film's best scenes, the trailer, and a special behind-the-scenes feature with outtakes from Robin Williams.

WIN A PIECE OF FLUB

Enter the official Flubber sweepstakes, currently in progress, for the chance to win one of several weekly prizes including "Flubber" soundtracks, read-alongs, mouse pads, pens, hats, t-shirts and more.

Robin Williams stars as Phillip Brainard, the quintessential absent-minded professor in Walt Disney Pictures' live-action comedy "Flubber." A Great Oaks Production, "Flubber" is produced by John Hughes and Ricardo Mestres. The film is directed by Les Mayfield from a screenplay by John Hughes and Bill Walsh. Buena Vista Pictures distributes.

'Stangs lead all-area team

It's no secret that southeastern Michigan has some of the best soccer talent in not only the state of Michigan, but also throughout the entire Midwest. It's also no secret that with as much talent that is dispersed throughout the area, teams are going to beat up on each other the entire season.

Brighton and Novi were the class of the Kensington Valley Conference, but were challenged each and every time they took the field. Northville played against some of the best teams in the state in the Western Lakes' Activities Association, including Plymouth Canton and Salem. This experience helped the Mustangs to a Division II state quarterfinal appearance.

Milford was a much improved team this season. The Redskins went from winning just two games last season to winning 10 games.

DAN BRENDL LAKELAND SENIOR

His supporting cast left little to be desired in a winless season, but Brendel played his heart out in goal for the Lakeland Eagles.

Brendel saved 130-of-155 shots that came his way and kept the Eagles in many games they might not have been in. Brendel received All-KVC honors for his efforts.

"A lot of our games went down to the end because of him," Lakeland Coach Matt Sullivan said. "The one comment other coaches had was that our sweeper and our keeper kept us in the games."

Brendel was a senior co-captain and one of two Most Valuable Players at Lakeland.

ERIC D'ANDREA MILFORD JUNIOR

D'Andrea spent the first half of the season at the sweeper position before being moved to the midfield to utilize his speed. Because of this his stats are too impressive but he did put two goals and three assists on the record books this season.

"Nobody in the league is a better one-on-one defender," Milford Coach Dave Poniatowski said.

D'Andrea made the grade as a member of the All-KVC team, all-district and all-region teams. He has also been named Milford's Most Valuable Player.

Soccer team's success shows in HomeTown's second team

Playing in the shadows of nearby powerhouse soccer teams isn't easy. Most teams have a hard time with the likes of Plymouth Salem and Brighton, but even HomeTown Newspapers' All Area Second Team could give them a run for their money.

As always, the talent of the area's first soccer team spilled over to the second team. Milford leading scorer Kerry Kramer makes the grade as does Northville's David Terakedis and Novi's Derek Ornekian and Bill Galloway.

Getting the nod between the pipes is Northville's Nick Bitell.

GRANT TOPIJ LAKELAND SENIOR

Topij, a senior co-captain of the Eagle team, was one of a two-person tandem keeping the winless Eagles competitive.

With Topij at the sweeper position and Dan Brendel in goal, the two kept Lakeland in many games. Topij never came out of the game and played both in the backfield and up front on the attack.

Topij was one of two Most Valuable Players for the Eagles, along with receiving a KVC honorable mention.

JUSTIN WOODBECK LAKELAND SENIOR

The only person on the Lakeland team to put goals in the net was Woodbeck. He scored nine goals and had six assists for the Eagles in his final campaign, including two against Brighton.

"Our whole offense was centered around him," Sullivan said. "Nothing was really started on offense unless he touched the ball."

KERRY KRAMER MILFORD SOPHOMORE

As a sophomore, Kramer led the Redskins with seven goals. None of which were scored on penalty kicks.

"We've been looking for somebody who is a natural goal scorer, that's Kerry Kramer," Milford Coach Dave Poniatowski said.

Kramer returns to the team for his junior season and is going to be the force behind the Milford offense next season.

NATHAN PONIATOWSKI MILFORD SENIOR

Poniatowski moved to the sweeper position after the start of the season to create a defensive tandem with Troy Sakis.

"Nathan and Troy created great leadership," Coach Dave Poniatowski said. "Both are outstanding positional defenders."

Poniatowski provided the team's vocal leadership on the field. Coach Poniatowski said his brother has one of the strongest legs in the conference.

"He's a real solid defensive-minded player and an outstanding leader," Poniatowski said.

Poniatowski received an honorable mention from the KVC as well as being named the eighth player on the All District Team in District 12.

TROY SAKIS MILFORD SENIOR

If Poniatowski was the vocal leader on the team, Sakis was the silent leader, doing more by example than vocal encouragement.

Sakis kept the team loose and made sure the atmosphere was light. He scored two goals as a defender and was a KVC honorable mention. Sakis was also a member of the All District team.

"He always had a real good attitude and he really enjoyed just playing the game," Poniatowski said.

Poniatowski said Sakis was the better one-on-one defender of the duo and was sent ahead to the forward attack quite often.

DAVID TERAKEDIS NORTHVILLE SENIOR

The senior defender was on just about every post-season team around.

Terakedis earned all-division honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association and all-district and region honors in the post season. Terakedis was a second-team selection in 1996.

NICK BITELL NORTHVILLE SENIOR

No team is complete with a top-notch goalie, and Bitell was no exception. The senior helped Northville to eight shutouts.

His strong performance was no more evident than during a six-game winning streak at the end of the year which catapulted the Mustangs all the way to the state quarterfinals.

BILL GALLOWAY NOVI SENIOR

Galloway finished the season with seven goals and six assists and did a nice job of controlling the left wing position for Kensington Valley Conference runner-up Novi this season.

"He's very fast and puts a lot of effort into the whole scheme of things," Novi coach Brian O'Leary said.

Galloway was a honorable mention all-conference pick this year and was also on HomeTown's second team as a junior.

DEREK ORNEKIAN NOVI JUNIOR

If consistency were a name, Ornekian's name may have to be changed.

"He's not a flashy player, but he scores some big goals," O'Leary said. "He's always in the right place at the right time."

Ornekian had five assists and eight goals, none more important than the game-winning goal in overtime against conference champion Brighton.

MARK CASHEN SOUTH LYON SENIOR

Cashen led the Lions in assists in his senior campaign with eight. He spent the season at both the midfield and forward positions and was also a co-captain of the South Lyon team.

Cashen received All-KVC honors and was also a member of the All Academic KVC team.

Churchill, Central are no match for upbeat Mustangs

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

After a disappointing loss to North Farmington in the first round of the Western Lakes' playoffs, the Mustangs took out their frustration on Churchill and Walled Lake Central last week.

Northville topped Central 56-39 in the championship game of the consolation bracket. Lauren Metaj connected for 19 points and Lori Carbutt, whom coach Pete Wright praised for her best performance of the year, also reached double figures with 12 points.

"We got them in transition and we were able to throw the ball over their big kids' heads and get some easy looks from five or six feet out," Wright said.

The transition game was evident in Northville's 20-2 advantage after the first stanza. The Vikings scored the game's first basket after the Mustangs ran off 20 straight. Carbutt scored eight of her 12 in the quarter.

Northville had to overcome Central's two big threats in the middle. Leah Douglas, a 6-foot-senior, scored 21 points, but 15 of those came in the fourth quarter after the game was decided. Six-foot-3-inch Michelle Bortz added 15.

The Vikings played a 1-2-2 zone trying to stop Northville's excellent guard play, but Metaj, Emily Carbutt and Karla Kalso were able to dump the ball down low and had 10 assists between them.

"We did a real nice job defensively," Wright said. "Their post players were really aggressive and very physical, but we denied them their cuts and were just as physical back."

Northville shot 53 percent from the field to improve to 14-6 in the regular-season finale.

The Mustangs were awaiting the winner of the Novi/Churchill game in Monday's district opener at Novi. The winner advanced to play Northville yesterday (after Record deadline) in the district semifinal. The winner of that game will advance to tomorrow's district championship game against either Plymouth Canton or Plymouth Salem. The game will start at 7 p.m. at Novi High School.

NVILLE 52, CHURCHILL 35

Northville opened the game with a 19-8 run and three Mustangs finished in double figures in this consolation-bracket win.

Senior Julie Flis scored 16 points and grabbed six boards and Christine Herndon added 14 points while pulling down a season-high 11 rebounds.

"We had a nice first quarter.

Christine Herndon avoids fouling an opponent last week.

Every team we've beat this year we've got out quick," Wright said. "For the most part, if we can get out of the block quick, it creates confidence for us."

The Mustangs had their best rebounding effort of the year, collecting 52 boards. Meredith Hasse had nine rebounds and Janel Hasse and Metaj pulled down eight each. Metaj also added 12 points.

"They didn't get any second chances. We definitely had the size advantage over them," Wright said.

Postseason awards continue to pile up for the Northville High School girls tennis team.

The first doubles team of Julie Glock and Kara Anderson received first-team all-state honors from the Coaches Association last week.

The duo posted a 26-3 record en route to a conference and regional onship. Glock and Anderson received a bye in the first round of the state meet and won their second match before falling to Grand Rapids Christian in three sets in the quarterfinals.

"They had a tough time getting started this season, but once they did they did very, very well," coach Uta Filkin said.

The pair were kind of a surprise prior to the beginning of the season.

Glock played singles last year and Anderson was one of the team's best as well, but Filkin decided she would solidify her depleted doubles lineup and play them together.

"We've always prided ourselves on our tennis teams," the coach said. "They had a lot of pressure on them, but I knew they definitely had the talent to do well."

The juniors were one of just six doubles teams to receive the honor.

Northville finished fourth in the state tennis tournament in Midland after dominating the regional tourney.

The Rockers also defeated the Hot Spurs 7-3. Gates had four goals in the win and Lance Dehne had two. Melonio had the other goal.

Four Mustangs earn WLAA honors

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Seniors Lauren Metaj and Julie Flis received Western Lakes' honors as selected by conference coaches last week.

Metaj earned her second-straight all-conference team and has been honored each of her four seasons on the varsity squad.

Flis earned all-division honors in the Western division. The senior forward averaged 10.3 points and 4.1 rebounds and was the go-to player as teams often double teamed Metaj.

"She was a really pleasant surprise," coach Pete Wright said. "She certainly deserves the honor and it was nice to see that the other coaches recognized her for that."

Metaj, up for the Miss Michigan basketball award, is netting 14.8 points per game in her senior campaign. Her value to her team is even more apparent by her 4.5 rebounds, 4.3 assists and 4.2 steals per game.

"The entire all-conference team is made up of very good basketball players bound for college and she definitely belongs in that group," her coach commented. "When you think about 12 teams and over 150 players in the league, it's really a big honor.

Seniors Lori Car-bott and Christine Herndon were also honored as a bl e mention picks. Car-bott shot 52 percent from the field and Herndon led the Mustangs with 4.8 rebounds per game.

Northville finished the season 14-6 overall.

TIGERS SPONSOR ESSAY CONTEST

The Detroit Tigers have teamed up with the Western Wayne County Branch NAACP to sponsor an essay contest entitled "How to Effectively Go About Healing the Racial Division in the Country."

The contest is for students in western Wayne County School Districts, grades 5-12.

The purpose of this essay contest is to suggest what course of action they would recommend to leaders of today, especially President Clinton, on how to go about healing the division.

Winners will receive a Tiger six-pack, which includes four tickets to any six games (except opening day), and an autographed baseball. Prizes will be presented at a 1998 Tiger game in April or May. All participants will receive a certificate and an invitation to attend the awards game.

To enter, contestants must submit a completed entry form, letter of recommendation by schoolteacher or pastor and a completed essay. The essay should be typewritten and double spaced according to the following requirements:

—5th and 6th graders—125-150 words

—7th and 8th graders—200-250 words

—9th-12th graders—300-375 words

Completed essays should be mailed to: Mrs. Jessie Shelby, Contest Chairperson, P.O. Box 203, Inkster, MI, 48141. All entries must be received by Wednesday, Nov. 26, 1997. To obtain an entry form or for more details, students should see the English or Language arts department head at their school.

VARDAR TEAM STATE CHAMPS

The VARDAR III, Little Caesar's "A" division, U-14 girls' premier soccer team won the state championship with a 1-0 victory over the TPSA Dynamics. The team also completed it's fifth season of league play as league champions.

The team finished with a 9-1 record and pushed its five-year record as an "A" division team to 46-1-4.

As state champions, the team will represent Michigan at the regional tournament in June 1998. Northville resident Lindsey Dunmead is one of 18 girls on the team.

the toughest forwards around to stop. He put six goals in the net and had five assists, leading the Redskins with 11 points.

"He's probably the most talented skills player we have on our team," Pomatowski said.

Oliverio made the All-KVC team and was a member of the all-district team.

ERIC ARNOLD
NORTHVILLE SENIOR

The senior had just three points, but was much more valuable to his team than the stats indicate. The senior defender helped Northville collect eight shutouts and earned all-division, all-district, and all-region honors this year. He was on HomeTown's second team in 1996.

MATT CARROLL
NORTHVILLE SENIOR

Carroll scored six goals and assisted on five other scores in 1997.

A second-team all-area pick a year ago, Carroll earned honorable mention honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association this season.

ADAM TIBBLE
NORTHVILLE SENIOR

A two-sport star, Tibble received first team all WLAA honors in football and honorable mention status in soccer.

Tibble scored three goals and had nine assists this season.

He was also named to the all-district team, and is a first-team returnee on the all-area squad.

SAM VIDA
NORTHVILLE SENIOR

The heart and soul of the state quarterfinalists, Vida collected 15 goals and assisted on 10 other scores.

A first-team selection last year, the midfielder was named to the all-state team in Division II as well as the all-conference, all-district and all region teams. He was the only Northville player on the all-WLAA first team.

NOVI SOPHOMORE

Based purely on scoring alone, Irimescu was a unanimous selection to the first team. The second-year player scored a team-high 14 goals and added six assists. Described by his coach, Brian O'Leary, as having a quick, hard shot and speed, Irimescu earned first team all KVC honors.

"He's a hard worker, probably the hardest worker on the team," O'Leary said. "You've got to be happy with 20 points, but I think he's capable of doing more than that next year."

MARK CHURELLA
NOVI SENIOR

This senior midfielder earned not only all-conference, but all-district and all-region honors in his final campaign. Churella finished with five goals and 10 assists and proved to be the most stable force on the Novi squad.

"He's our most physical player, and he sets the tone for the team," O'Leary said. "He's the guy that does the dirty work for the team."

ALAN LYSKAWA
NOVI JUNIOR

Coming off an impressive sophomore season last year, Lyskawa didn't slack off this season. The junior co-captain led the team with 18 assists and 28 points, earning him all-conference, all-district and all-region honors. O'Leary expects his midfielder to receive all-state credentials for the second-straight year.

"He's our best ball-control player, our best passer and overall our MVP," O'Leary said. "He's a rare player who can just dominate a game."

AARON CASH
SOUTH LYON SENIOR

South Lyon's leading goal scorer put eight in the net and assisted on another three.

Cash was one of the top forwards in the league and a leader all season in that position for the Lions.

He was received an honorable mention from the KVC and also made the league's All Academic team.

Eating out takes a toll on the body

Q. I am concerned about my health and appearance but I eat out often and find it difficult to stick with any kind of plan and get results. Can you offer any suggestions?

Chris Klebba

A. You are not alone. Each day Americans eat an average of one meal away from home, many up to three. Most restaurant food contains a significant amount of hidden fat and calories. This can have a dramatic impact on reaching or maintaining your fitness goals.

Many restaurants add fat to foods to enhance the flavor inexpensively. This makes it imperative for the health-minded individual to ask how the food is prepared. Just one extra teaspoon of oil or lard adds about 50 calories of pure fat to your meal. That may not sound like much, but that extra 50 calories daily can result in a 5-pound weight or body fat gain over the course of a year.

You also want to become aware of energy input and output, and their effect on your body.

In food energy is measured in calories. This becomes important as you make your selection when you eat out.

Let's take the typical "American lunch," a cheeseburger, fries and a shake. Remember, if I take in more energy (calories) than I expend in a 24-hour period, I have an energy surplus (more calories than expended). This will result in a weight or body fat gain.

An average 150 pound person, who consumed the "American lunch" and wanted to remain stable in body weight would have to walk about five hours, or bicycle at a brisk 9 mph for three hours. That is not including breakfast, snacks and dinner that day. A choice of a sandwich or submarine type fast food with a diet drink would only contain a third of the over 1,000 calorie input of the other meal, thus would require less activity to use up.

In summary:
• Always ask how the food is prepared.

• Become aware of your individual energy needs and how they affect your fitness goals.

• Choose restaurants that cater to special requests and have a diverse menu of low fat, healthy foods.

• Avoid buffets and all-you-can-eat restaurants. Foods offered on buffet steam tables are generally high in fat content (fats are added to help food taste fresh longer).

• Ask that sauces, cheeses and salad dressings be served on the side so you can control your portions.

• Instead of a regular omelet with cheese, order an egg white omelet with mushrooms, green peppers, tomatoes, etc.

• Order chicken, fish, or turkey instead of fatty beef, hamburger, pork, or lamb.

Good luck, and remember there are many little things you can do to help keep you on the right path.

Small changes in diet help immensely

Obesity has reached epidemic proportions in the United States. One-third of our population is obese (more than 20 percent above ideal body weight).

In 1980, it was 25 percent. We Michiganians also have the distinction of being the most overweight people in the country.

Obesity has given rise to a $30 billion diet industry. At any one time, about one-third of the adults in this country are dieting.

There are many factors that play a role in our being overweight. Certainly our diet is one part of the picture. Calories are readily available and inexpensive at every corner and gas station. These snack foods are usually high in fat content while being low in nutritional value and fiber.

Moreover, the portions served to us at restaurants are approximately twice the amounts served in Europe. Also, we often finish our meal and take a "doggy bag" home for additional nourishment. Our fast food restaurants encourage us to just say "supersize."

Other lifestyle issues are equally important. For example, public transportation is virtually nonexistent. We sit in our cars and drive to our destinations, usually resuming the position at work. In other areas, people ride buses and subways and walk to the appropriate stations.

Anxiety and depression are frequent causes of overeating. Without addressing and treating these conditions specifically, the success rate of dieting is basically zero.

Large increases in obesity rates can be seen among children and adolescents. Currently 20 percent of adolescent boys and 22 percent of girls are overweight, up from 15 percent a decade ago. This is particularly worrisome because three-fourths of them will become obese adults. In fact, people who experience obesity as children have a much harder time losing weight than those who gain weight in adulthood. This is because they make more fat cells, rather than merely adding fat to the cells already formed.

Gender, race, age and poverty status are important factors. Women are more likely than men to be overweight. Poor and minority women in the United States have obesity rates of greater than 60 percent, while for men it is more prevalent above the poverty line.

Genetics is another part of the obesity picture. There are studies showing that some twins raised in different households are obese while the adoptive parents are not.

It is ironic that we are becoming a more obese nation as our society idealizes thinness and discriminates ruthlessly against obese individuals. In adolescents and young adults this can lead to eating disorders such as bulimia and anorexia nervosa, with complete destruction of the individual's self esteem and health.

I have twice admitted adolescent girls to the intensive care unit in near cardiac arrest from bulimia.

So how do we teach these young people healthy eating and exercise habits short of self destruction?

The best way is to exhibit such behaviors at home. Don't obsess about weight. Instead, generally be active and serve lower fat meals in smaller portions. TV viewers are twice as likely to be obese as non-viewers.

The adult stomach only holds 2 1/2 cups of food. Further eating just causes overdistension of the stomach. When reducing portions you will initially feel hunger. But after just two weeks the stomach shrinks to its normal size and you will feel full sooner. Warm beverages are also helpful in creating volume in a low-calorie way.

Maintaining small changes in lifestyle helps immensely. This is far superior to an extreme or fad diet. For example, skipping one slice of bread daily will cause one pound of weight loss monthly, even if nothing else in the diet changes.

Many of us are too busy with our daily tasks of work and family to have free time for formal exercise. Dusty sports equipment abounds in our homes. My sister refers to her Nordic Track as her "Nordic Rack," as clothes hang on it conveniently.

For me, walking 20 minutes each day before work serves a useful purpose. It is peaceful, easy and inexpensive, without being damaging to the body as are some other types of work-outs.

Our bodies are made to walk and shape up nicely with regular walking. Walking also meets the aerobic exercise guidelines of the American Heart Association for getting a heart rate up and keeping it there for 20 minutes.

Other good exercise options include jogging and swimming. But adding exercise to our already overfilled lives will not occur without a specific time commitment. Ask your doctor about safe exercise if you don't yet exercise. Sometimes a cardiac stress test will be ordered to assure your safety.

Why all this bother with weight loss? Obesity can cause many debilitating illnesses, including heart attack, stroke, hypertension, arthritis, gallstones, diabetes, and cancer of the breast, cervix, endometrium, uterus, ovary and prostate. Even a modest weight reduction of 10 pounds can greatly reduce such medical risks.

Medications for weight loss have come into vogue. However, most carry some risk. Phen-fen (phentermine-fenfluramine) has been in the news recently for being related to heart valve diseases and pulmonary hypertension, two potentially deadly conditions. In carefully selected people who are committed to making the necessary lifestyle changes medications can be a significant resource. Otherwise medical risk is incurred with no benefit.

New diet medications are also on the horizon such as Orlistat, which does not allow digestion of fats, or Slimpatch, which contains homeopathic herbs to quell the appetite. Without a weight loss plan, they will prove useless. But with the appropriate lifestyle changes they may be a helpful adjunct.

I like to think of dieting as having a blueprint for a project before breaking ground. Without a master plan, the project could tumble, wasting valuable time, money and health. Resources to help devise a plan can include a doctor, dietitian, counselor or commercial diet plan with support services.

BLOOD DONORS WANTED

Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital, in conjunction with the American Red Cross of Oakland County, is recruiting donors for its holiday blood drive on Friday, Dec. 12, from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the hospital's Conference Center.

Some areas of the country use more blood than they collect and Southeastern Michigan is one of those areas.

Hospitals of Southeastern Michigan provide some of the most advanced medical procedures in the country. As a result, blood and blood product needs of patients in Southeastern Michigan is greater than our inventory. Therefore, our blood supply must be supplemented by other Red Cross regions.

During the next several weeks special circumstances will interrupt our blood supplies from other regions. We need blood donors to overcome this deficit.

Blood donors must be at least 17 years of age, weigh more than 110 pounds and be in good general health. The donation process takes a little more than an hour.

Community members can pledge a blood donation by calling the office of Community Health at (248) 360-3314. Walk-ins are welcome, but appointments are encouraged to prevent lengthy waits.

Marty Agents, Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital blood bank group leader, urges people to become donors. "The importance of donating blood during this critical time cannot be stressed enough. We need your donations to overcome a blood shortage. Collections from 'O' donors must increase to meet our needs."

WEIGHT ON THE RUN

Conducted by an exercise physiologist and a nutritionist, this 12-week program starts with a fitness assessment and nutritional consultation, followed by three weekly monitored work-outs and weekly nutritional support. Day and evening classes are available.

A $300 fee includes enrollment in the class "ABC of Weight Loss." For more information and to register, call (248) 473-5600.

GARDENING

Now's the season to work on irises

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

The iris has always been one of my favorite flowers because of its exquisite form and color. They can be easily divided and planted in different areas of your garden. Of course, the ideal time to do this is in the late summer or early fall, after the plants have bloomed. This can easily be accomplished, providing the roots are kept out of the sun and they are replanted immediately.

Iris should be divided and transplanted whenever the rhizomes are growing over one another because of overcrowding.

Dividing an iris is easy, but there are a few basic steps for you to follow.

- Select the clump you wish to divide, then cut the foliage down to a height of about 6 to 8 inches.

- Next dig up the clump, but do so carefully, taking care not to break up the rhizomes or roots. Wash the roots and rhizomes thoroughly, but be sure not to let the roots dry out while separating. Using a sharp knife, separate into clumps of three or four fans. Now the fans are ready for planting.

- Prepare your soil, to a depth of 10 to 12 inches, with compost or peat moss. Be sure to dig a hole large enough so that the roots are not overcrowded. The rhizomes should be planted just below soil surface.

- Finally, cover the iris, making sure the rhizome is tightly packed and the soil is evenly moist, not soggy.

Don't make the iris divisions too small - it delays blooming a year.

WHAT A COLD FRAME IS

A cold frame is usually a rectangular, bottomless box with soil - almost always with a cover of some sort - often transparent or at least translucent! A cold frame is very different from a hot bed in that a cold frame receives no artificial heat. Frames with bottoms derive heat from the earth, naturally the deeper, the warmer!

The wind can be trouble, because it blows covers away, even when secure. It also injures tender parts of plants when covers are lifted. It's best to build your frame with some protection from prevailing winds, both the cold winds of winter and the dry ones of summer. A fence, hedge or building is best, never blocking out the sunlight, of course!

For success, make sure you have well-drained soil, then build and dig with abandon!

WINTER TIPS

The first step in winterizing an herb garden is pruning. Cut off old flower stalks, damaged areas of herbs and dead limbs. Pull up and discard any diseased plants. You should shape and prune everything. Be ruthless. Then, just before frost, pull up all annuals and tender perennials which you are not going to bring indoors.

After your pruning is finished, rake leaves and other trash from the beds and then let your garden get some air for a week or so. After airing, spread an inch of compost over the herb beds, remember, mulch is not meant to keep the soil warm, but to keep the temperature even!

FALL TIP

Examine your houseplants carefully if they've been outdoors all summer. Pests such as mealybugs, aphids and mites may hitch-hike indoors, so wash off suspect plants gently with a mild soap solution or use an insecticidal soap to clean them up.

Now is the time to force your holiday cactus for Christmas bloom. These plants are "short day," which means that flowering is triggered by light and temperature. They should receive no more than 11 hours of light each day. Night temperatures must be 50 to 55, and day temperatures below 70 will trigger bud formation. Until buds appear, keep on the dry side.

COLD WEATHER COMING

Store all leftover pesticides in a cool, dry location for the winter.

Store liquids in an area where the temperatures won't fall below freezing, because if the temperatures are too low, the liquids start to break down. If they fall below freezing, the glass containers usually break.

Remove and destroy diseased plant debris in the flower and vegetable gardens. Plow under or remove other debris so the garden doesn't provide a winter home for insect pests.

Check stored bulbs, fruits, vegetables and tubers, and discard any that show signs of decay or mold.

Collect dried weed seed pods, meadow grasses, cones and nuts and other dried plant material for winter craft projects.

If the weather has been dry, water your shrubs and trees weekly until the soil freezes. Evergreens, particularly, need to go into winter very well watered, otherwise they'll continue to lose moisture from their needles after the winter freeze limits their roots' ability to absorb water. Needles and leaves can become severely dried, this situation causes death to many trees.

the Birds

By Annette Jaworski
Special Writer

Now that old man winter has a grip on the garden, it might be time to consider the second most popular outdoor hobby - bird watching.

If you're not already one of the more than 80 million people who enjoy watching birds, now is the perfect time to try it, according to Georgeanne Kruchko and Ernie Kramer, partners of the new Backyard Birds in Milford.

"Now is a great time to set up feeding station," Kramer said. "The bird's driving force is food. With the days becoming shorter, there is less time to forage and it's this time that they establish their range. If you want the birds to stay, it's time to establish an ongoing food source."

Most seed eating birds stay throughout the winter, Kramer explained. Setting up feeding and watering areas will help bird watchers reap the rewards of an entire winter of watching cardinals, snowbirds, morning doves, chickadees, finches and more. And now many of the feeders, bird houses and accessories are designed to be functional as well as decorative, enhancing your backyard or natural surroundings.

"We like to strive for the unusual in garden accents. People like to decorate outside as much as they do inside," Kramer said.

Feeders and bird houses come in a variety of styles and shapes. Kruchko explained, such as cedar shake for the more rustic look. There's a home that looks like a white Victorian style gazebo and even one like a Japanese style pagoda.

"We have homes to house the littles bird from the smallest little wren to purple martin boxes," Kramer said.

Tired of squirrels eating your seed? Try their squirrel bafflers or a squirrel proof feeder.

"This summer there was a big demand for butterfly roosts. We've never sold so many. It makes a statement in the garden as a decorative piece also," Kruchko said.

Statuary has also become more popular than ever, according to Kruchko. Many new designs are replicas of old English gardens, such as angels, bird-baths, bunnies and gargoyles. Backyard Birds carries a selection of items made out of a resin material for a marbleized look that have particularly fine detail.

Kruchko explained that windchimes are another nifty way to spruce up you surroundings. They offer high quality musically tuned windchimes by J.W. Stannard and Woodstock. "There's something soothing about wind chimes. You can tell what's happening with the weather," Kruchko said.

The store also carries a variety of children's gifts that are unique, educational and fun including books, hummingbird feeders, nature stickers and binoculars.

"We're really a good gift store for people that are hard to buy for. Often they end up buying seed too," Kruchko said.

In fact, Backyard Birds is proud of their seed mix. They move about 2 million pounds per year. They also have a program called Store and Save, where you can purchase all your seed at sale prices, typically in April and October, and they will store it until you need it.

Kramer provided some basic bird-

Stressing the importance of home-buying education

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Consumer home-buying education has never been more important than it is in today's market. And that education should start with teen-agers.

Buying a home has become a complicated process. There are more options to consider than ever before. And those options involve more money than ever.

Computerized information systems have made the process easier and faster in some ways - more complicated and frustrating in others. It creates questions, like: How do you access those programs? How do you know which programs are best? How should those programs be used to maximize its benefits?

But before even reaching the point of needing computerized information systems, consumers need to the basics of today's home-buying process, including what it takes to qualify for and obtain the right home-financing mortgage loan. There are more types of mortgage loans and qualification requirements than ever.

An increasing number of real estate and lending firms are helping to educate consumers by holding free seminars on the subject of home-buying. One organization believes that education should start with teen-agers, and has launched a series of seminars at high schools.

The firm - Sunshine Mortgage in Georgia - started and sponsored an educational program last year for high school students, focusing primarily on budgeting and credit issues.

"One of the main reasons we did this is that many of these students are just two or three years away from getting a mortgage for a home purchase, but they have severely damaged their credit. No one every told them what the consequences would be of running up their credit," a company spokeswoman said.

About 20 percent of the students had already established a credit record.

"They did not realize they were establishing credit by having cellular phones and phones in their names in their parent's homes," she noted. "These kids were also unfortunately very aware of what bankruptcy was because many of their parents had filed bankruptcy."

A lack of knowledge about resources available is a big part of the problem, particularly in lower-income communities, it is noted in a special feature carried in the current issue of (beginital) Mortgage Banking (endital) magazine.

The seminars at high schools are presented by volunteers from the mortgage industry. In most cases, they are held for individual classes - not an assembly with all students present. So the sessions are often back-to-back for a full day.

"We could sure make a lot more money by solely focusing on making loans," the Sunshine Mortgage spokeswoman said. "But the seminars provide a good balance between making money and helping others."

Other types of consumer seminars are offered by real estate brokerage firms, associations of Realtors and other professional groups. Most of the sessions are well-attended. The need for home-buying knowledge is very apparent.

Q. Are bankruptcies a major problem for people trying to obtain a mortgage loan to finance a home purchase?

A. Yes, bankruptcies are a big and growing problem. Personal bankruptcies are rising ominously - now up to more than 1 million per year. And that creates a major problem for individuals and families trying to qualify for mortgage financing.

The primary factor leading to bankruptcies is overextended credit. Other major causes are job loss, medical and health reasons, and divorce or separation.

The "final straw" leading to a decision to declare bankruptcy was collection tactics used by debtor firms, according to a recent survey. Most frequently, those tactics included repossession, wage garnishment, foreclosure and collector harassment.

Q. Where are the highest average home prices in the United States?

A. A good candidate for that distinction is Aspen, Colo. The average home price in that Rocky Mountain community is now nearly $650,000, according to its Multiple Listing Service records. Last year it was about $550,000. The highest price paid for a home in Aspen is $19,750,000 - paid this past summer for the Lovett residence on top of Red Mountain. Several homes were listed during the past couple of months for prices like $6,950,000 and $9,900,000, according to Bob Ritchie, broker-partner with Coates Reid & Waldron, an Aspen brokerage and property management firm.

"Where is our market going? Well, we have a two-year inventory of available properties. New listings are showing up sparsely to replace those that sell. As inventory continues to sell, the stage is set for more significant appreciation in values," Ritchie said. For more information, call Ritchie at (970) 920-0565.

German Art Deco lamp dates from circa 1920

By Anne McCollam

Q. Enclosed is a picture of my Art Deco electric lamp. It measures 14 by 4 inches, and the base is marble. The female figure is metal with a matte green enamel finish. On the back of the figure is the word "Germany."

When was my lamp made, and what is its value?

A. Your lamp was made around 1920. Its value would probably be about $225 to $325.

Q. I have a plate that I believe is an example of an early Adam's Rose pattern. It is decorated with large burgundy flowers and hunter-green leaves against a white background. On the back of the plate it is marked "Adams." The plate measures around 9 inches in diameter and has a scalloped edge.

What is its current value?

A. Adam's Rose pattern was introduced in the early 1800s by William Adams & Sons, located at Stoke-on-Trent, England. Adams potteries were scattered in seven different Staffordshire locations. They often marked their pottery with just the name "Adams."

D.G. Jones & Son in England also made a similar pattern known as "Late Adam's Rose." It can be distinguished from the original by duller colors and the gray-white background.

Your middle 1800s plate would probably be worth about $125 to $200.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a porcelain tankard that belonged to my grandmother. The tankard is decorated with pink and red flowers and gold trim. There is green shading against a white background. Ornate curves form the base and the top.

I hope you can tell me something about the manufacturer, age and value.

A. This mark was used by Reinhold Schlegelmilch in Germany on china imported to the United States by the Wheelock Co. in Illinois. The molds and decorations are the same as R.S. Prussia porcelain.

The Collector's Encyclopedia of R.S. Prussia, Second Series, by Mary Frank Gaston, lists a similar tankard at $550 to $650.

Q. Before my son died, he bought my mother a beautiful silk crazy quilt. It has a label with the words "Mining Congress, Medford, February 1912."

He chose this quilt because the date is the same as my mother's birthday. It is in very good condition and extremely well made.

What can you tell me about this quilt?

A. Crazy quilts were so named because of the irregular colorful shapes of silk, satin or velvet used to make the design. The pieces were embroidered together and then sewn onto a fabric backing. The result was a colorful design with no specific pattern.

As a rule, a group of women would gather together to work on one quilt. Most were made from the late 1800s to the early 1900s.

watcher's do's and don'ts. Don't let bird droppings foul up the area. Clean the feeders every couple weeks. With mild detergent and a stiff brush. All the droppings and shells should be raked up, as they can harbor potential disease. Place your feeder near shrubs or shelter for protection. For example, cardinals like to nest in pines and evergreens. Don't forget a source of water.

Most importantly, Kramer explained, don't forget consistency.

Continue to feed through the winter, because birds become dependent on a food source. If you live in a neighborhood and you plan to leave for a few days, have someone fill your feeders.

Kruchko added that the store has a complete selection of books and field guides which are extremely popular. There are currently five Backyard Birds stores, located in Commerce, Troy, Farmington, Plymouth and their newest venture at 1100 E. Commerce, in Milford.

Mom Loves Me Best.

Chevy Venture was just ranked Most Appealing Minivan by J.D. Power and Associates in the 1997 APEAL study.

Nah-nah-nah-nah-nah. Mom loves us. Dad loves us. Heck, everybody loves us.
We don't mean to brag, but even before our first birthday Chevy™ Venture® tied as "America's Most Appealing Minivan." But what makes this award so special is that the awardee wasn't determined by anonymous automotive journalists or stuffy corporate-suit types. This award is based on the responses of actual Venture owners — moms, dads, just regular people across America who recognize a great minivan when they see one. We just want to say thanks and let you know we'll keep up the good work. Hey, you gotta keep the judges happy.

Dixon gives curbing for gazebos

By JIM TOTTON
Staff Writer

South Lyon's five gazebos now have an "edge of distinction."

Residents will see a concrete edge has been installed around the gazebos in order to highlight and enhance their looks.

Tom Dixon, of Green Oak, did this work for the city and charged not a single penny.

This work was valued at about $2,000.

"I just thought it would be a good thing to do," said Dixon, who owns Dixon Decorative Landscape Edging & Curbing.

Dixon was raised in South Lyon and lived here until he left 17 years ago. He recently moved back to the area to be closer to family members.

Dixon said concrete edging is very popular out West in states such as California and Utah. He installed a lot of this decorative concrete while he worked out there.

He recently installed some concrete edges in Northville and Novi and decided his hometown should also have it.

While he admits the decorative concrete serves as a type of advertisement, Dixon said the main reason he did it was to make South Lyon unique.

Dixon originally left South Lyon because economic times were tough in Michigan, and he knew a lot of people who were losing their homes. He moved west with his wife and son.

He returned because he has a lot of family in the South Lyon area.

South Lyon city council members recently accepted the donated work by Dixon and expressed their appreciation.

South Lyon Mayor Jeff Potter suggested the city place a plaque at one of the gazebos to acknowledge who did the work. He said this would show that citizens from the surrounding areas - not just the city - want to take care of their community.

Evans named to medical board

John Evans D.P.M. was elected to the Board of Directors of Michigan Podiatric Medical Association (MPMA), the statewide organization of physician specialists of the foot and ankle. Dr. Evans was elected to the two-year term in office by his peers of the Southeastern Division to represent them at the state organization.

Dr. Evans have been involved with the MPMA for seven years and was a member of the Annual Conference Committee and Contract Advisory Committee. He is also on the board of directors for the Southeast Division of MPMA and is on the Liaison Committee to Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan. A graduate of the University of Connecticut and the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine, he is board certified by the American Board of Podiatric Orthopedists in Primary Podiatric Medicine, the American Board of Podiatric Surgeons, and is a fellow of the American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons. Dr. Evans is also an adjunct clinical professor at all of the podiatric colleges in the United States. He practices podiatric medicine in Allen Park and is on staff at Kern, Oakwood Annapolis, Hutzler, and Wyandotte Henry Ford hospitals. Dr. Evans and wife Karen live in Milford with their daughter Michaelene.

Can you find the $200 worth of cocaine?

It's here. Disguised as a dinner. Hidden in tips. Recorded as cab fares. Unfortunately, drug users have creative ways of paying for their habits. And this is just one way they're cheating American business out of billions of dollars a year.

To find out how much a drug-free workplace program can save your bottom line, call 1-800-WORKPLACE.

It's sure to be white!*

With all the weather predictions we hear concerning Michigan's winter — El Niño will bring a warm trend; the Farmers' Almanac predicts more snow; wind blowing across the Great Lakes will bring "lake effect" snow and colder temperatures; the Alberta Clipper will bring cold snow; warm; cold; snowy; wet — it is difficult to know what to believe.

One thing is for certain though, there will be plenty of snow on Michigan's ski slopes. With new snowmaking techniques and more snow guns shooting out the white stuff at ski areas across the state, the winter of 1997/98 will certainly be white.

“More” seems to be the word to use when describing what’s new on Michigan ski slopes. Certainly more snow, but also more ski lifts and considerably more skiable terrain.

A new ski area will debut this year — Silver Ridge in Farwell. Created on the site of the former Mott Mountain, the new owners have completed a total face lift, reshaping some of the slopes and opening new runs. The new ski area is larger - with vertical feet added to the top of the slopes and terrain cleared by removing trees. They also doubled their snowmaking capability, and built a two-story slope-side restaurant and lounge that includes a loft area for private parties. Silver Ridge is also equipped with new rental equipment, including shaped skis and snowboards.

With all the new slopes that have been cut at Shanty Creek in Bellaire, they could have just as well opened a new ski area. The big news this winter is the major expansion to Shanty Creek's Schuss Mountain slopes. Four new quad chair lifts have been added to service 12 new runs. When construction is complete the new area, called Cedar River Village, will include a conference center, Weiskopf golf course, condominiums and homesite.

But that's not all, clearing land for the new golf course and slopes, Shanty Creek moved a lot of dirt...up the hill. They reformed their existing slopes, adding 40 feet of elevation to Schuss Mountain. Three hundred thousand cubic yards of dirt were plopped on top of the slopes and to keep all those runs white all winter long, Shanty Creek also quadrupled its snowmaking capacity. If that wasn't enough, lights were added so that night skiing is now available on both Shanty Creek's ski areas - the Summit slopes and Schuss Mountain.

Nubs Nob in Harbor Springs has been busy too. Their biggest expansion ever debuts this winter as Nubs opens 12 new runs on Pintail Peak. The new area offers panoramic views of Emmet County, two new beginner runs, eight intermediate and two expert. Pintail Peak is not a ridge or part of an existing hill, but rather a totally new skiing area, accessed from Nub's Nob South Ramblewood Slope. To service Pintail Peak, a new four-place chair lift was installed. Nubs Nob also increased its snowmaking capabilities, added another high-powered grooming machine to its fleet and cut eight kilometers of additional cross-country trails.

Skiers at Mount Holly in Holly will fly up the hill almost as fast as they come down. New for this year is the Mach I Express, the first high speed detachable quad chair lift ever installed at a metropolitan ski area in the Midwest. It may sound a bit daunting - "high speed" and "detachable" are both terms most people wouldn't want associated with a motorized chair hanging from a cable that moves skiers up a hill, 30 feet off the ground. However names are deceiving. This state-of-the-art lift is much easier to load and although it travels up the hill twice as fast as conventional chairs, it slows for an easy exit.

In addition Mt. Holly, Pine Knob in Clarkston, and Bittersweet in Otsego have all increased snowmaking capacity.

At Alpine Valley in White Lake, skiers will find a new triple chair lift that replaces an existing chair - the first one installed at the ski area in 1960.

The Disciples Ridge area at Boyne Mountain in Boyne Falls has received considerable attention over the summer. Disciples Ridge is a new area at Boyne Mountain that debuted last season. This year new luxury condominiums will open at The Village at Disciples Ridge.

Also new for this season at both Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands is a program that allows all 10-year-olds the opportunity to get a

'White Gold' found on Michigan hills

For the fourth winter the Michigan Ski Industries Association (MSIA) has produced a card that allows you to ski at 22 different ski areas for $149. Called the MSIA White Gold Card, purchasers are entitled to ski one time at each of the participating ski areas across the state during the 1997/98 ski season. Purchasers are also entitled to one free ski tune-up (edge sharpen and wax) at participating MSIA ski retailers.

"The White Gold Card is an extremely exceptional value," says Ken Griffin, president of the MSIA and general manager of Nichol's Ski & Sports in Dearborn and Waterford. "If you paid for a lift ticket at each of these ski areas and brought your skis in for a tune-up, you would be spending about $640."

The purchaser takes the White Gold Card to the ski area's lift ticket window, where the square corresponding to that ski area is punched out. White Gold Card skiers are allowed to ski one time at each ski area, midweek or weekend. The card is valid for the entire ski season, except Dec. 25, 1997 through Jan. 4, 1998.

MSIA developed the White Gold Card as a fundraising endeavor and limits its production to 400 cards.

Participating ski areas include: Alpine Valley, Apple Mountain, Bittersweet, Boyne Highlands, Boyne Mountain, Cannonsburg, Cross-Country Ski Headquarters, Crystal Mountain, Indianhead Mountain, The Homestead, Marsh Ridge, Mt. Brighton, Mt. Holly, Nubs Nob, Pine Knob, Shanty Creek, Snow Snake, Silver Ridge, Sugar Loaf Resort, Swiss Valley, Timber Ridge and Treetops Sylvan Resort.

White Gold Cards are sold at participating MSIA ski shops throughout the state. They are also available through the MSIA offices. For more information call MSIA at (248) 620-4448.

complimentary gold season ski pass valid for unlimited skiing or snowboarding. To start kids off on the right foot, the 10-year-olds receive three free one-hour ski or snowboard lessons. Rental equipment is reduced too. In order to receive the gold pass, kids must mail a 1"x1" photo and a copy of their birth certificate to Boyne. The pass will then be mailed to the child. For more information, call 1-800-GO-BOYNE.

At Mt. Brighton in Brighton, a new rope tow services the brand new ski and snowboard terrain park.

Cadillac's Caberfae Peaks turns 60 this year. To celebrate, the ski and golf resort added a new snowboard park and built a new 7,000-square-foot ski equipment rental facility, the largest in Michigan. Caberfae moved 100,000 cubic yards of earth to expand the north peak and increased their snowmaking capability by 12 percent as well.

Cross-Country Ski Headquarters in Roscommon, celebrates International Cross Country Ski Festival Day on Jan. 11. For $5 per person, skiers receive a group lesson and all-you-can-eat pig roast. Skiers can also enjoy picnic potlucks on Sunday afternoons in January and February.

Those who plan to vacation at Crystal Mountain in Thompsonville will find 29 new suites at the base of the slopes with the addition of the new Inn at the Mountain. And every overnight guest who checks in at the resort will be able to check out the new digs, since the resort's front desk and reservations area are located in the new building. The Inn at the Mountain features suites that accommodate up to four guests with a private bedroom, living area with queen-size pull-down bed, wet bar and snack kitchen, bath with two-person whirlpool tub, and a private deck.

Crystal also expanded its Nordic trail network by five kilometers and the ski area will be the site of the third annual National Women's Ski & Snowboard Festival, Feb. 2 through 8.

Swiss Valley in Jones has come up with an interesting season pass program. If five people purchase a pass together (three must be new pass purchasers) the passes are reduced to $120 per person.

So what's there to do après ski? After an exhilarating day of cross-country skiing at Marsh Ridge in Gaylord, cross-country skiers can catch a lift at night on a horse-drawn sleigh. Special packages also include lodging and meals.

Skiers at Nubs Nob and Boyne Highlands are encouraged to "Turn Right Saturday Night" and head into Downtown Harbor Springs. On Dec. 27, Jan. 3, Jan. 17 and Feb. 14,

Ski fashions mix past with present

Ski shops are full to the brim with the latest fashion offerings and solutions for staying warm and comfortable on the slopes.

Clothes for kids offer some of the freshest new fashion ideas. Boomer parents buying ski clothes for their children will be reminded of the styles and colors that their own parents dressed them in. While these new clothes have the look of the '50s, '60s and '70s, they have today's comfort in mind.

A big favorite with kids, clothing from Backhill Snowboarding Co. available at Bavarian Village stores, is showing dark colors accented with black that has a look parents will recognize from their childhood. Remember those stripes that went across the chest and down the arms? The stripes are back!

The difference will be in the wearing as the new outfits stress comfort and mobility. None of those stiff, uncomfortable stuffed jackets to contend with that got wet, stayed wet and frozen on the outside. Today's model has insulation placed where it counts; on the jacket body, knees, cuffs and seat.

Obermeyer features a line of kids clothes in hot fashion colors that are CUTTING EDGE AND COMFORTABLE— Adult ski wear stresses high fashion and mobility with plenty of insulation on the jacket, knees, cuffs and seat.

'70s style with the daisy flower motif and purple/lime/hot pink color combinations. "Kids love this retro look which is totally new to them," says Martha Matthews at Bavarian Village, Bloomfield Hills. "And parents love seeing their children look so cute in the same style they once wore."

Adult ski wear seems to fall into two distinct categories: high tech or high fashion. Yet both are fashionably cutting edge and at the same time are comfortable, durable and hard

Predominately unisex are the hi-tech outfits from Patagonia and The Northface. They feature fabrics that are coated or laminated. Lynne Bay, of Don Thomas Sporthaus in Bloomfield Hills, calls them "bulletproof." Eric Pearson, of Bill & Paul's Sporthaus in Grand Rapids says, "The newer, thinner insulation materials are much more effective than ever before with moisture control linings and thin insulation that don't 'bulk up'."

"Some styles are so versatile that they are designed for the extreme skier that doesn't ride the lift and carries the skis up the mountainside and out of bounds. Hefting the skis to the padded, rugged "cordura" shoulder of the jacket, an extreme skier can shoulder the load without concern for the durability of the outerwear. The appeal is in the image of the rugged, all-around technical skier but these fashions are also for everyone else who wants to be included in that category," says Bay.

These garments are waterproof on the outside and soft on the skin side as the inside layers are frequently fleece. Fleece continues to be the "hottest" commodity in the skiwear industry. Bay adds.

Fleece is available in several weights this year. The thinnest is used for undergarments including all-in-ones. Thicker weights are used for turtlenecks, vests, and all-purpose tops that can be used as a layer and also be adapted for après-ski and streetwear.

"Using a component system, or layering as it is commonly referred to can get you through the whole season in just one outfit," says Bay. "That is a good value."

in just one outfit," says Bay. "That is a good value."

Fashion makes a statement when these fleeces are combined with micro fibers. The two fabrics have such a luxurious hand, when combined, that no one would ever want to take them off. Prized for their flexibility, warmth, and comfort, you'll hang on to items made of these.

"Bright colors are back," says Bonnie Orr of Don Orr Ski Shop in Traverse City. Bay agrees, "Skiwear has come out of 'mourning'. Colors are bolder, brighter and more vibrant than ever. Classic colors such as red, yellow and royal are the base, but watch for purples, pinks, and greens to complete the spectrum."

In fact, one new line, PostCard, features a pistachio quilted micro-fiber jacket paired with navy stretch pants or the same jacket in powder blue paired with brown. For a more daring look, both jackets are shown with an ivory stretch paint that is "new" and yet "retro."

Another direction backward is in the silhouette. The shorter belted jacket is an important look, taking over for the longer anorak. The trend is towards a figure flattering, closer fitting shape, usually achieved by using a stretch fabric or stretch inserts.

There are also plenty of classics, tried and true. Sweaters are still popular, in spite of the influx of fleece. Some are exact copies of Demetre and Roffe sweaters from the '60s. Down insulation is still a favorite of many skiers. Silk is the choice for some in undergarments as opposed to the newer fleece or polypropylene.

And although the technical look is hot, Bogner can still be counted on to provide the classic elegant look to their customers. All this proves is that in skiwear, manufacturers are striving to keep us in the comfort zone while they give us a myriad of fashion looks to choose from.

LAYERED LOOK— Trim vests and heavy fleece shirts are also appropriate for streetwear.

Discover skiing the affordable way

For the sixth year, ski areas across the state have teamed up with Michigan McDonald's restaurants to offer an exciting and affordable introduction to the sport of skiing. The program includes lessons in downhill skiing, cross-country skiing and snowboarding.

Called Discover Michigan Skiing, the program includes a 90-minute beginner lesson, ski or snowboard rental equipment and an all-day beginner-area ski lift pass or cross-country trail pass. Twenty-two ski facilities are offering the package, which will be honored from Jan. 5 through Jan. 31, 1998. The price for the Discover Michigan Skiing program - downhill or cross-country skiing - is $25 for adults and $15 for children seven to 14 years old. The snowboard price is $35, regardless of age.

Sponsored by Michigan McDonald's restaurants and developed by the Michigan Ski Industries Association (MSIA), the program debuted in January, 1992 and it has grown each year. Since its inception, Discover Michigan Skiing has introduced over 44,000 people to Michigan's ski slopes and trails.

"We developed this program to encourage people to give skiing a try," says Ken Griffin, MSIA president and general manager of Nichol's Ski & Sports in Dearborn and Waterford. Griffin stresses Discover Michigan Skiing is for beginners only. "Participants usually learn enough in our 90-minute lesson to enjoy the slopes or cross-country trails for the rest of the day on their own," he adds.

The lesson normally covers basic maneuvering on skis or snowboards, including stopping, turning, riding the lifts, and getting up from a fall.

To sign up, interested beginners must have a Discover Michigan

Skiing Value Voucher. They will be available in late December at Michigan McDonald's restaurants and also at participating MSIA retail ski stores and ski facilities throughout the state. Value Vouchers are also available by sending a self addressed stamped envelope (SASE) to: MSIA, 7164 Deer Lake Court, Clarkston, MI 48346.

The voucher lists all ski facilities involved in the program. Participants choose the place they wish to visit and then must call to preregister. Ski facility personnel will give instructions on what to wear and when and where to meet. Griffin suggests calling as early as possible, as many lesson times fill quickly.

As a special bonus, everyone who completes the program receives a coupon valid for $20 off the purchase of $100 or more in ski-related merchandise at participating MSIA retail ski shops.

Ski facilities participating in Discover Michigan Skiing are listed here. We have provided information on what types of lessons, downhill, cross country or snowboarding that each ski facility will offer.

Skis show shape of things to come

The trend toward "shaped" skis for downhill skiing has gathered momentum over the past two years and has now taken over as the industry standard. Over 90 percent of new skis available for sale in ski shops today are of the shaped variety.

"For most skiers, shaped is really the only option," says Ken Griffin, of Nichols Ski & Sports in Waterford and Dearborn and president of the Michigan Ski Industries Association. "Customers really love them," Griffin adds.

Sometimes referred to as "hourglass" or "parabolic," the shaped ski has a center or waist that is narrower and allows the skier to maneuver and turn easier, while still keeping the stability of the conventional ski. "Typically, shaped skis are sized 10 to 15 cm shorter than the length that a skier would normally use with a conventional ski," says Griffin.

Shaped skis with extreme side cuts are great for beginners and intermediate skiers. The cut enables the ski to turn faster and sharper with more control and less vibration. The advanced and faster skier might want to try this hot new ski with a less severe side cut.

"It is the evolution of the shaped-ski revolution," says Bob Thomas of Don Thomas Sporthaus in Bloomfield Hills. The shaped ski revolution began with as few as five models designed for the intermediate skier.

The shaped ski helps skiers to carve a turn," according to Paul Hansen at Bavarian Village in Bloomfield Hills. "They do not have to rely so much on weighting and unweighting — just get the ski on edge and let the shape of the ski take over, he adds. "It takes less energy to initiate a turn when skiing on shaped skis," adds Scott McBain of MC Sports.

New boots and bindings maximize the performance of the shaped ski, according to McBain. The new boot design allows for easier "forward flex." "They are stiffer laterally with more cant to the upper cuff of the ski boot to help get the skier on edge quicker," says Thomas. "The newest bindings lift the boot about 1 cm off the ski, giving the skier more turning leverage and eliminating boot drag," says McBain. According to Bob Thomas, "Racers need this technology to avoid 'boot out' (boots dragging in the snow during turns). It works for average

skiers, too."

Possibly as a marketing ploy to capture sales to Generation Xers, many of the skis have names like eXtra, eXtreme, viperX, eXact. One boot bears the name eXplosion. Graphics are all over the spectrum and feature bright blues, red and some darker tones, too. These all have a high tech, performance look targeted to appeal to a younger market.

While not new, Bob Thomas considers helmets worthy of mention. It is a natural move from a bike helmet to a ski helmet and it is trendier and warmer than a hat. And helmets are not just for kids or racers, Bob's father-in-law wears one too.

Frankenmuth: St. Nick's second home

Frankenmuth, Michigan—

Experience German Christmas hospitality on Nov. 28 at Frankenmuth's Annual Holiday Lighting Celebration.

The celebration begins at 6:30 p.m. in Edwin L. Zehnder Park (Main Street in Frankenmuth between Zehnder's Restaurant and the Cass River) with music provided by bells and local choirs. Free hot chocolate and cookies will be distributed.

After a reading of the Christmas gospel and singing of traditional Christmas carols, the park and riverbank will be "officially" illuminated and the Candle Walk procession will begin. An estimated 2,000 persons are expected to participate in this walk.

Hand held torch candles will be sold - $2 each. After the candle walk, don't forget to visit Santa at the Frankenmuth Chamber of Commerce building just a block north of Zehnder park.

Your evening wouldn't be complete without a stop at the many shops that will be open to welcome you.

More than three million visitors come to Frankenmuth each year for very good reasons. The delicious food, friendly Bavarian hospitality and superb shopping have put this small German town at the top of Michigan's list of popular attractions. More visitors come to Frankenmuth each year than any other destination in Michigan.

Nowhere else will you find a community as immersed in ancestry. Religion, a strong German work ethic and local pride are traditions that have never faded here. Instead they are the mainstay that have kept the community of 4,400 a showplace of German heritage since Frankenmuth was founded in 1845.

The Frankenmuth Bavarian Inn and Zehnder's Restaurants anchor the business district. Their solid reputations are based on the more than 700 tons of chicken served each year.

Frankenmuth's two mile stretch of specialty shops begins at Bronner's CHRISTmas Wonderland at the southern city limit. In this magnificent 1-1/2 acre showroom of glitter and gifts, it's Christmas all year long.

There are tours and tasting at the Black Forest Brewing Company, St. Julian Winery and Frankenmuth Pretzel Factory. Woodcarving studios, a weaving shop, 18th century flour mill, and many other specialty stores line Main Street. The former Lutheran school is now a shopping mall with classrooms full of interesting items.

In Frankenmuth you'll find four hotels, several bed & breakfasts and an RV Park (open year round.) The accommodations and RV Park are all located close to the major attractions. Spend a day or extend your stay - almost 700 rooms in town and 2,400 rooms all around!

Within Frankenmuth's city limits you'll find more than 110 acres of park land containing a 2 mile long 18 station exercise/fitness trail. This trail was designed to accommodate any individual's fitness level and offers its users a complete body workout. In the winter, cross-country skiers use this trail, as well as take advantage of the additional park lands available for skiing. Ski rentals are available at the Frankenmuth Parks and Recreation office.

Frankenmuth offers public ice skating and sledding in Memorial Park. The 50 x 30 yard natural ice skating pond features a warming house. Located adjacent to the skating pond are two 50 ft. sledding hills. Both the skating pond and sledding hills are open to the public and free of

The community is conveniently located just minutes off I-75 between Flint and Saginaw, Michigan. For additional information regarding Frankenmuth's attractions and activities, please contact the Frankenmuth Convention & Visitors Bureau at 1-800-FUN-TOWN (1-800-386-8696).

Fair Lane in bloom for holidays

Dearborn, Michigan—

The Henry Ford Estate is excited to announce "Christmas at Fair Lane" holiday programs.

Visitors can tour the buildings and grounds of this National Historic Landmark. The residence of the estate is decorated for the holidays by participating area florists.

Public and group tours are welcome from Dec. 2 through Dec. 31. Special programs include holiday luncheon concerts; tea, tour and Christmas treasures; candles & carols dinners; Santa's breakfast; Santa's workshop; and candlelight tours.

Public tours are available during December, Monday - Friday at 10, 11, 1, 2, and 3 p.m. Saturday tours are available hourly from 10 - 3 p.m. Sunday tours begin at 1 p.m. and are available every half hour until 4:30 p.m. Banquets, catering and group tour/meal packages are available.

For tickets or more information, contact (313) 593-5590.

Holiday lights inspire wide-eyed wonder

Battle Creek, Michigan—

Every holiday season, something magical comes over the greater Battle Creek area. When night time falls, a warm glow radiates from the city. Families relish their time together as they indulge in a holiday fantasy, and children's eyes are wide with wonder as they try to absorb all of the holiday sights. Battle Creek will soon be transformed into a magical winter wonderland as the 6th annual International Festival of Lights gets underway.

The International Festival of Lights is a six-week celebration of holiday activities with more than a million holiday lights shining throughout the city. The Festival features more than 400 sculpted lighting displays, ZooLights Festival at Binder Park Zoo, Trees Around the World, Christmas Train Village, a visit with St. Nick, a Children's Creativity Area, and Knappy the Talking Tree! The fun and magic continues with the special effects of a spectacular laser show to be presented through this year's International Festival of Lights.

Beginning Saturday, Nov. 22 at 6 p.m., the 1997 International Festival of Lights officially kicks-off. The downtown area will lighten up when the "switch is flipped" and the brilliance of the lights shine through.

The Battle Creek Holiday Parade immediately follows the Grand Lighting Ceremony. This year's parade, themed "Magic of the Season" features more than 100 parade entries including area marching bands and holiday floats.

The power of light will be concentrated every night throughout the six-week event as the International Festival of Lights proudly presents its Holiday Laser Show! This exciting and spectacular addition will provide the magic and fantasy to make the holiday just a little brighter! Spectators may view this beautiful dance of light at Mill Race Park in downtown Battle Creek.

ZooLights Festival at Binder Park Zoo has long been a tradition during the holiday season, and this year the animated animal displays will be dynamic! ZooLights features over 170,000 sparkling lights, live animal encounters, and visits with Santa through December 23rd. Admission to ZooLights is $3 for adults, $2.75 for seniors, $2.25 for children 3-12, and children under 2 are free!

The Festival Warming House has a new location at the corner of McCamly Street and Michigan Avenue in the heart of downtown Battle Creek. Hot chocolate, coffee, and other refreshments will provide warmth from the cold night, as visitors participate with the Festival tradition of Karaoke! The Festival Gift Shop — featuring holiday gifts and International Festival of Lights memorabilia — will provide that special holiday gift for yourself or a friend.

A visit from Santa has become a tradition at the International Festival of Lights! After his sleigh ride during the annual Holiday Parade, Santa will make his home in SantaLand, located in the Warming House. Throughout the six-week Festival, Santa (and sometimes Mrs. Santa!) will be on hand to greet visitors, and children may write their Christmas wishes on special stationary to send to the North Pole!

The International Festival of Lights will wrap up with Midnight at the Creek, a substance-free, family-oriented New Year's Eve celebration. This year's entertainment includes singing and comedy acts, as well as dancers, storytellers, and instrumentalists.

International Festival of Lights indoor activities are open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. nightly (outdoor displays are lighted throughout the night), Nov. 22 through Dec. 30, with Midnight at the Creek concluding the Festival on Dec. 31.

Marshall rolls out red and green carpet

Marshall, Michigan—

There's good reason why visitors from all across Michigan come to Marshall's annual holiday parade.

It's a kid-oriented delight that's highlighted by colorful bands, dozens of floats, horses galore and lots of marching units—all out to help usher in the holiday season.

The highlight of the parade, which steps off Monday, Dec. 1 at 7 p.m., is the arrival of Santa Claus. He'll also take time off from his toymaking duties to appear in Marshall every Friday evening until Christmas.

Christmas decorations, bright lights, and strolling musicians and carolers make Marshall's retail Christmas open house a magical evening. During the open house, planned for Dec. 5 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., shop keepers welcome visitors with free refreshments.

Marshall's glorious Christmas decorations, lighted Nov. 28 through Jan. 2, are famous state-wide. Arches of fresh evergreen garlands help make JOYFUL TIDINGS—Illuminated angels harken visitors to downtown Marshall for the holiday season.

Holiday fest a tree-mendous celebration

Muskegon, Michigan—

The eighth annual Festival of Trees in Muskegon will officially open at noon on Saturday, Nov. 29 at the Frauenthal Center for the Performing Arts, located in downtown Muskegon at the corner of Western Avenue and Third Street.

The Festival features over 100 custom decorated trees and wreaths in a spectacular display of holiday celebration designed for the entire family.

Displayed during the Festival will be custom decorated trees and wreaths, many available for auction purchase. The Festival also features one of the finest displays of gingerbread houses in West Michigan. All the wreaths, trees, and gingerbread houses have been individually decorated by talented and creative people from throughout the greater Muskegon area.

Gift ideas for keeping boaters high and dry

Julie Candler

Allan Hayes

Michigan boaters have now put their toys away for the winter and are looking forward to Christmas again.

We talked about the upcoming holiday with Frank Cliff of Bloomfield Township. Cliff qualifies as an "old goat." He has sailed 27 Port Huron-to-Mackinac-Island races, usually in his 35-foot Morgan, Courage. Now in semi-retirement, Cliff works as a specialist in boating equipment and as part-time salesman at 789 E. Big Beaver in Troy, one of West Marine's 360 stores nationwide.

"Great Christmas gifts for boating people," he tells us, "range from very expensive to remarkably cheap." The gifts he tells us about can be found in most boating equipment stores, including the West Marine stores and catalog.

Cliff hauls from his pocket a glow-in-the-dark sailing knife secured to his belt by a lanyard. It's French-made by Wishard, with a serrated stainless steel blade that Cliff finds useful for cutting ropes, and also has a bottle-opener and a device for twisting a shackle-pin.

"This is the best sailor's knife I've ever used," he says. "Any sailor would be delighted to have it, and it only cost $17.49."

From our discussion with Cliff and other boaters, electronics are high on everyone's Christmas list. Cliff is especially enthusiastic about his navigational device, a hand-held Lowrance GPS (global positioning system) unit called the Global Map Sport GPS which sells for $649. (Other less-sophisticated GPS hand-holds are available for as little as $150).

Cliff claims these devices are matchless for finding exactly where you are. No compass or other navigation aide is built into them. They rely solely on signals from government satellites to determine their position, and are accurate to within 100 meters. Speed, direction of travel and distances are all automatically calculated.

Cliff's Lowrance unit can take postage-stamp-size chips that brings him charts for anywhere in the world. He inserts whatever chart-chip he wants to use, brings it up on the screen, and can see exactly where he is on it by a small X-mark which moves as his boat does. Amazingly, the unit is small enough to hold in one hand or slip into a pocket.

We watched Cliff play with his GPS on his boat, Courage, which he obviously enjoys. "This thing will run for about five hours on six AA batteries," he tells us. "Or you can get an adapter and plug it into your boat's 12-volt electrical system. A chart-chip costs about $25, and would make a nice gift for anyone who already has this GPS unit."

"It sounds like a wonderful plaything," we comment. "You sound just like my wife," he says.

To get the most out of the system it is necessary to enter the latitude and longitude of whatever land-marks (called waypoints) that will be of use to you. For example, Cliff's unit contains his home dock, Huron Point, the St. Clair light, and Paris, France, a whimsical entry, the first one he made.

"There's a book I can recommend as a gift for anyone that's into GPS. It's called Great Lakes Waypoints and it's by Dennis F. Whitaker, who's a captain in the USCG. It costs $25 and it's published by Sea Dog Marine, Inc., North Olmsted, Ohio. It saves going through the charts and figuring the longitude and latitude of the waypoints. There are separate editions for Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair."

Once the waypoints are entered, the GPS will give you a course to a waypoint, speed over the ground and tacking angles.

The trend toward ever-smaller electronic equipment continues. You can now buy a hand-held VHF (very high frequency) marine radio, ideal for use in a boat too small for a 12-volt electric system, or as a backup to a built-in boat radio. Says Cliff, "You can use it at the tiller and send messages from there."

Cliff likes the IC-M15 5-watt hand-held VHF by ICOM because it's waterproof ($399.95). It has a calling button to make the local calling channel easily accessible. It lets its owner keep an ear on channels 9 and 16 when it's necessary to monitor a third channel.

The smaller 3-watt ICM10 VHF by ICOM costs $179.95. It is relatively waterproof and has a 12-hour battery life. Fixed-mount VHF radios with antennas and a much larger range cost from $129 to $400.

Fairly new is Garmin's COM 170 ($699.95), a 7-inch long combination VHF and GPS. It's an all-in-one electronics tool, ideal for the small-boat user who doesn't want to install a lot of power-cords and antennas.

If there's a fisherman or woman on your Christmas list you might consider an electronic fish-finder. For $98.99 you can get a Humminbird Wide 100, which is ideal for smaller boats. If it's a serious fisherperson who wants to know everything that's going on in the water, a high-quality forward-scanning sonar (Interphase Sea Scout) is available for $1,049.

Other items Cliff recommends for gifts are boat shoes. "People will try to get along without a good boat shoe, but they find out, when decks are wet, that substitute shoes don't work," he says.

He recommends Sperry Top

Good books, the yule log and you

Dorothy Webster

Whether they're coffee table size or tiny enough to fit in a carefully hung holiday stocking, books can be a perfect gift—if they're chosen with care and consideration.

This year's assortment timed for the holidays includes some sumptuous-sized volumes, a slim edition or two, and cover a variety of interests and hobbies. Many of them are specific to the Great Lakes area, perfect for Michigan readers.

My personal favorite is SAND DUNES OF THE GREAT LAKES by Edna A. Elfont with photographs by C. J. Elfont (Sleeping Bear Press, 144 pp., $34.95).

What a stunning book!

Any person who treasures the sheer beauty and ever-changing complexities of sand dunes would be overwhelmed to receive this beautiful volume for the holidays. Indeed, it's so sumptuous, you could just add a satin ribbon and card, for the dust jacket photograph itself features an evocative image by C.J. Elfont, whose work has been exhibited in galleries and museums in the United States and in Canada. A teacher and workshop instructor as well as a superb craftsman, he is a founder and director of Midwest Photographic Workshops.

Edna Elfont's unusual cinquain poetic style proves thought provoking and insightful and is a grand counterpoint to her easy to read text explaining dune ecology.

The collaboration succeeds because each person is individually gifted to a high degree and their talents combine to highlight obvious concerns for the environment and the world in which they live.

Showcasing their words and images, the book's design is a thoughtful setting for the subject matter, neither overwhelming the fragility of the sand itself, nor underestimating its force as part of the natural world.

IMAGES OF THE WILD: THE PHOTOGRAPHIC ART OF CARL R. SAMS II AND JEAN STOICK (Sleeping Bear Press, 132 pp., $45), is another coffee table format guaranteed to appeal to fans of the pair who have been popular on the art fair circuit in the state, and whose images appear in wildlife magazines throughout the world.

The photographs are engaging and personal recollections of how some were made add even more interest, but I found pencil sketches distracting, wishing that space had been allotted to photo captions which were missing throughout the book. I found myself wondering also why there was no indication of which photographer had taken which image, for I realize that only one eye can peer through the viewfinder and only one finger can click off the shot, however much a team the pair may be Technical information, along with area credits were found at the back of the book but by then a reader's curiosity has been thwarted repeatedly - and few will want to turn back and forth repetitiously after finding the hidden data.

Still, these are relatively small criticisms and surely won't prevent Sams and Stoick fans from fully appreciating a behind the scenes peek at how the pair pursue that "perfect" photographic moment.

LADDIE OF THE LIGHT by Jane Briggs-Bunting with illustrations by Jon Buechel (Black River Trading Co., 48 pp., $17), is a story of Jesse, an 11-year-old girl whose parents are divorcing. She spends a summer with her grandfather near a Great Lakes lighthouse (thinly disguised Sturgeon Point, near Harrisville, where Briggs-Bunting has a summer home), and learns to rely upon herself. A Cairn terrier named Laddie plays an important role in the tale, which will keep youngsters interested.

Briggs-Bunting is a professor of journalism at Oakland University and her collaboration with Jon Buechel is an inspired one, for his lighthearted illustrations are a perfect foil for the serious theme of the story. Readers will recognize his work from the Detroit Free Press, where he and Briggs-Bunting were employed. He continues to be featured in the Sunday newspaper.

It was surprising to see the word lightning misspelled as "lightening" throughout the book, despite the number of people who had edited it...

WHOOOP FOR JOY - A

CHRISTMAS WISH by the same author and illustrator (Black River Trading Co., 28 pp., $13.95), is another Michigan-set tale of a retired race horse that should delight children from ages 6 to 12.

As reading skills in that age group vary so widely, and interests cover a wider field, it's difficult for parents and grandparents to select books that will appeal to most of them. This story will. Young readers always sympathize with sick animals, and Whoop for Joy is a most appealing character. He is, in fact, a real horse that lives on Briggs-Bunting's Oxford farm.

What would the holiday season be without books for gardeners?

Here in Michigan we cope with late frosts, early snow and sleet, unexpected summer floods, spring droughts and all sorts of extreme weather conditions that require not only growing skill but unlimited faith, and the folks at Timber Press recognize that we need all the help we can get. They've come through again with several winners.

TRILLIUMS by Frederick W. Case, Jr. and Roberta B. Case (Timber Press, 285 pp., $29.95) celebrates those harbingers of springtime that so renew eternal hope. It also celebrates a Saginaw couple whose interest in the species goes far beyond mere casual pleasure. For the pair are renowned worldwide and play host to professional horticulturists, garden clubs, botanists and casual potterers who visit their five acres devoted to 35 species of trillium.

Their garden, among the most complete display of trillium species in the world, is protected from deer destruction by a double electric fence and is the star attraction of the couple's 35-acre homestead. It's also a learning and scientific garden - the base for Roberta Case's trillium crossbreeding program.

This first available field guide to trilliums, is also a handbook for gardeners wishing to grow these delicate, desirable wildflowers. And, as in all Timber Press publications, the production methods are first rate, from paper quality to color reproduction.

New and much appreciated, DIRR'S HARDY TREES AND SHRUBS: AN ILLUSTRATED ENCYCLOPEDIA by Michael A. Dirr (Timber Press, 494 pp., $69.95), includes 1660 color photographs by the author who is also a master with the camera as well as the great American plantsman. He has compiled a handsome volume of the best woody plants adapted to cooler climates for those who garden in USDA Hardiness Zones 3 to 6.

It's an informative source, showing both habit and details of more than 500 species with an additional 700 cultivars and varieties. Dirr has helpfully added 36 tables listing the best plants for specific characteristics and purposes.

Besides admirably fulfilling its intention, it's a pleasure to read for Dirr's perceptive comments.

Well done, Timber Press! To order a catalog, telephone 1-800-327-5680.

Add to those impressive books PEONIES by Allan Rogers (Timber Press, 384 pp., $34.95) and you'll have a good start to a reference library.

For years, Alice Harding's volume, The Peony, (also still available from the same publisher), has been the standard resource for the beloved garden perennial that may outlive its gardeners. Rogers, who has been growing peonies since childhood, has detailed much of his 60 years' experience in this wonderful book that includes 143 color photos and 14 line drawings. He recommends the truly superior cultivars of the thousand-odd listed, both herbaceous and tree peonies, and discusses promising recent introductions. Now, if he could just provide us with a fragrant tree peony...

Dorothy Webster, former magazine and newspaper publisher, lives quietly in Michigan's lower peninsula and shares her home with two rambunctious cats - each younger and more agile than she is - that wield more influence on her lifestyle than she cares to admit.

Gift ideas for keeping boaters high and dry

Siders and Sebago brand deck shoes. He also likes Teva AQ Dactyl sandals, and shows us the white stripes on his tanned feet revealing where the sandal-straps were during last summer's boating season.

He says, "If your feet get wet when you're wearing the sandals, they dry out fast. They're $59.99 a pair, and easy to fit to the feet of the person on your list because Tevas have adjustable back and toe straps that fasten with Velcro."

The Teva line of boating sandals started with river rafters, he tells us, as a solution to their problem of feet that were wet for days. "These sandals have the same razor-slit soles that keep you from slipping on wet decks, and made Sperry Topsiders so popular," says Cliff.

He also recommends Pelican flashlights, particularly its Super Duper Light at $15 which has a narrow-focusing Laser spot beam. It runs on two AA batteries which are included. Its only defect is that if you drop it, like most good flashlights, it will go right to the bottom. Nevertheless, it makes a nice gift.

"If you have a dog that you take out on your boat, West Marine carries a pet flotation vest for under $17," says Cliff. "Quick-release buckles make it easy to put on or take off, and there's a webbing handle on top to tether the animal or to lift it into the boat. If you give Christmas presents to a dog who goes boating, this would be ideal."

For the boater who has everything, and if cost is no object, you can get a microCOM-M portable satellite telephone on which you can call anywhere in the world, from anywhere else in the world. The cost is only $7,995.

The catalog for West Marine (now merged with E&B Discount Marine) can be obtained by calling 800-538-0775. For the BOAT/US catalog, call 800-937-2628. For Boaters' World

Dealer has seniority at Goodwill antique show

Jean Day

In 1958, a young Detroit antique dealer named Leonard Berry decided he would like to be an exhibitor in the Junior Goodwill Antiques Show which was beginning its second decade of very popular shows.

As Leonard Berry sets up his booth at the 50th anniversary show at the Michigan State Fairgrounds this November, he will have the distinction of having done the shows longer than any other dealer.

"The antique business has changed in 40 years, and so has the show," Berry reminisces, adding that the Junior Goodwill show has survived to become the oldest such charity event in the state because it is a good show and "affordable - those attending can find things they can buy."

Berry was just one year out of high school and a fledgling furniture refinisher who found he liked antiques better than refinishing when he asked to be in the 1958 show.

"I had been to the shows twice and decided I wanted to do one," he relates, "so I called Emily Reichle (the show co-chair) and told her I would like to be in it. I could just feel her drawing herself up as she informed me that you 'have to be invited' to exhibit." Berry then asked for and received an invitation - and has been invited ever since.

In the early days (1948 until 1972) the show was held in the Goodwill building on Brush Street in downtown Detroit.

The show then did not open with a Thursday evening preview gala but with a ribbon-cutting ceremony with dignitaries doing the honors at 2 p.m. on Sunday afternoon. "We called it the diamond and mink coat day," says Berry, noting that show goers would line up around the building and down the street waiting to get in.

The show continued Monday through Wednesday, always the week before Thanksgiving, Berry remembers, relating how dealers would restock their booths two or three times during the show as sales were so brisk.

"Of course," he adds, "antiques didn't cost as much in those days and this was considered 'the' event of the fall season."

The show moved to the Sentinal Building on East Jefferson for two years and then to the Masonic Temple. From 1975 to 1984 it found a home at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. Since 1985 it has been held in the Michigan Mart Building at the State Fairgrounds on Woodward Avenue at Eight Mile in Detroit.

"It certainly works out well," Berry observes as visitors find the 28,000 square feet of floor space transformed by hardworking Junior Goodwill volunteers who decorate lavishly.

This year will be no exception: the show will be held Friday through Sunday, Nov. 21 - 23, with the preview benefit Thursday evening Nov. 20.

One thing that has not changed through its 50 years is the size of the show, which is about 46 dealers. This is the second year that Robert C. Lawler will be managing the show. In the early days, Berry recalls, the Junior Goodwill members signed dealers themselves. Professional management, he says, does ensure the show's quality.

As the show moved to various locations through the years, so did Leonard Berry's shop. For the first five years it was on Charlotte behind the Masonic Temple in Detroit. He then moved to Royal Oak where he shared a building with two other Junior Goodwill show veterans, Jorgen K. Andersen and Robert D. Logsdon of Rare Old Prints. This will be their 28th year as exhibitors in the show.

Berry moved to a Woodward Avenue location in Birmingham and then to his present shop at 251 Merrill on the upper level of Birmingham Place in downtown Birmingham.

A recent visit to his shop was a preview of some items he will have in his booth at the show. Specializing in 18th and 19th century English and American furniture and accessories, Berry has been working on creating custom lamps from antiques, including a pair of Staffordshire dogs, Oriental vases, barleycorn and other brass candlesticks, a Sweet Burley tobacco can and a stack of books.

FORTY-YEAR VETERAN— Birmingham antiques dealer Leonard Berry has the distinction of exhibiting at the prestigious Goodwill show longer than any other dealer.

Berry admits that, like most dealers, he tries to save some special antiques to exhibit in the show. It's a good bet that Staffordshire dogs will be among them as he has just purchased a collection of 37. In his shop a full-figure silhouette with a watercolor background dominates a wall. Berry says he's sure it is the work of August Edouart although it is not signed. Silhouettes are antiques that Berry personally has collected for his own home.

Many of the longtime dealers at the Junior Goodwill show are friends of Berry's. He mentions Bette and Melvyn Wolf whose booth is filled with 18th and 19th century pewter and notes that they are considered the premier collectors and dealers in American pewter in the country.

Other longtimers include Thomas Forshee of Stockbridge, Michigan with Chinese export and American furniture and bookseller James M. Babcock.

Show hours at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Woodward at Eight Mile in Detroit, are 11 a.m. - 9 p.m. Nov. 21; 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. Nov. 22; and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 23. Tickets are $57 for adults and $6 for seniors.

Thursday, Nov. 20, preview night tickets are $125 benefactors, $100 patrons (6 - 10 p.m.) and $75 friends (7 - 10 p.m.) For reservations or more information call 313-886-6787.

Searchmont Resort IS the Answer to a "Midwest Vertically Challenged World"

Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada -

From programs designed to improve your sport ability at any level to an incredible range of recreation and adventure options, Searchmont Resort, The Mountains of the Midwest promises to be a haven for outdoor enthusiasts of every sort this winter.

Searchmont is a year-round outdoor sports and recreation resort located just 90 minutes north of the Mackinac Bridge. For those living in a "Midwest Vertically Challenged World," Searchmont boasts terrain akin to the western Rocky Mountains with higher vertical, natural variability, long cruises, drop offs and treed trails. These features are powerful accents to 18 trails up to a mile long for alpine skiing and snowboarding, and 30 miles (50 km) of trails for Nordic skiers, groomed for skating and classic.

Heading the top of the list for exciting and innovative new additions are the Longest Snowboard Park and the Longest Green Run in the Midwest.

Snowboarding has brought a new spirit of enthusiasm into alpine sports and a new generation of riders to slopes all over the world. Searchmont has taken advantage of its extraordinary terrain and created the Longest Snowboard Park in the Midwest. A half mile of hits including spines, 1/4 pipes, rollers and table tops have been designed. Hit after hit, Searchmont has the vertical to translate into longer and farther in a snowboard park that's a "shredder's" playground.

While some enjoy being strapped to a single board with sculptured edges and cool designs, many more still prefer being balanced on two boards. Shaped skis constitute 90% of new skis sold because of the fun and maneuverability they provide. Searchmont understands the importance of wide open novice skiing and boarding, a new willingness to try new ideas.

This new population of riders and skiers won't find a better place to start than at Searchmont, where the Longest Green Run in the Midwest will allow novice sliders to take a 3/4 mile run from the top of the mountain to the base of the lift. This run is named Cloud 9 because it gives riders a sense of no stress, lighthearted abandon and confidence to take the next run.

Searchmont is known for its versatility in appealing to all ages and all members of the family with its wide variety of outdoor recreation. Boot sliding, tubing, snowshoeing, ice skating, and the enjoyment of Searchmont's outdoor spa while staying slopeside in the Villas and Chalets are a few of the most popular features that draw tens of thousands of visitors to the resort throughout the winter season. The expanded Sports Center rentals and a demo program offering shaped and conventional skis, cross country skis, snowboards, snowshoes and boot sliders mean it's easier than ever to rent or sample a new sport. The Sports Team is always on hand with their "FunAbility" attitude which is just as contagious as the spirit of true Canadian hospitality when it comes to skill refreshment and improvement.

And don't forget the snow itself! Whatever the weather conditions may be, Searchmont will always have plenty of powdery white snow on its mountain terrain, especially when you consider the powerful snowmaking system at Searchmont, which comes alive each season around November 1.

PRICE GUARANTEE & RAINCHECKS

*If, within 30 days (14 days for computers, monitors, printers, notebooks, camcorders, digital cameras and radar detectors) of your purchase from Best Buy, you find a local competitor offering a lower price on an available product of the same brand and model, we'll refund the difference plus another 10% of the difference. Bring us verification of the lower price, plus your original Best Buy receipt to claim your refund. Does not apply to special, bonus or free offers, and in California cellular phones and pagers. Does not apply to products with special financing offers. For complete price guarantee details, please see a customer service representative. Some product in this ad may be slightly different from illustrations. Correction notices for errors in this advertisement will be posted in our stores. Rainchecks are available on most items specifically advertised in this insert, except where noted. We reserve the right to limit quantities. See store for complete details.

IMPORTANT CONSUMER FINANCING INFORMATION

Not valid on previous purchases. This is a same-as-cash offer. Financing is subject to credit approval on the Best Buy Card. Offer is for individuals, not businesses. As of 10/27/97, the Best Buy Card Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is 22.90%. APRs may vary. Minimum monthly finance charge of 1.00% may apply. Credit is provided by Bank One, N.A. or Beneficial National Bank USA. January 1999 Financing Financing is a Deferred Interest, With Payments program. If balance is not paid in full by the plan expiration date, or if minimum monthly payments of 2.25% of balance, or $10 (whichever is greater) are not made, interest will be assessed from the original date of purchase on the average balance. The following qualify for January 1999 financing: all appliances $299 and up, all TVs $299 and up, all camcorders (no minimum purchase amount required), all treadmills (no minimum purchase amount required), and all computers 233MHz and faster (no minimum purchase amount required). 6-Month and 90-Day Financing: Financing is a No Payment, Deferred Interest program. If balance is not paid in full by the plan expiration date, interest will be assessed from the original date of purchase on the average balance. Minimum total purchase of $299 is required for March 1998 financing. No minimum purchase required for 90-day financing. For complete financing details please refer to your credit application, credit statement or Best Buy in-store customer information.

PARING AND UTILITY KNIFE — 3 GREAT SIZES

They're used for paring vegetables, coring apples, dicing mushrooms, and performing a host of smaller tasks requiring the close control of the blade.

BEAK PARING KNIFE

TOMATO KNIFE

Serrated blade glides through fresh tomatoes for perfect results.

SANDWICH KNIFE

CARVING & SLICING KNIVES — 3 GREAT SIZES

COOK'S KNIVES — 3 GREAT SIZES

Perhaps the most important knife in the kitchen, this classic knife, with its wide blade, lets you dice and chop without your knuckles touching the cutting board.

BREAD KNIFE

This knife's scalloped edge enables it to cut through the crust of soft bakery products, without mashing the pastry or bread. Sharp enough for bagels, too.

BONING KNIFE

Perfectly contoured to cut around bones of meat or poultry. Also Available ...

FLEXIBLE BONING KNIFE

CLEAVER

Perfect for butchers. The flat side is perfect for pounding. Heavy, well balanced cleaver, strong enough to cut through bone and sharp enough to cut meat and poultry.

COOK AND SERVE SELECTION

COLORFUL DESIGN & CONSTRUCTION

- A variety of brilliant colors — such as Cobalt Blue, Forest Green, Chili Red, and Classic White — spice up any kitchen or table. Unique three-step enameling process guarantees that the colors remain true for a lifetime. Chantal is guaranteed not to fade.
- Engineered with a carbon steel core for faster heating on all stovetop surfaces, even magnetic induction cooktops.
- Tempered-glass lids allow you to see the food as it cooks, without lifting the lid. The lids can be used in the oven up to 375°F, typically higher than what most recipes for covered cooking call for.

STYLE AND CUTS ABOVE THE REST!

ALL-CLAD STAINLESS COOKWARE

Three-ply construction combines an outer layer of magnetic stainless steel and an inner stainless steel cooking surface with a core of aluminum. This design helps food cook more evenly by distributing heat up side walls of the pan. Food does not react with its permanent stainless steel cooking surface, making it easier to maintain. Sparkling stainless steel lids complement the design. Stay-Cool, stainless steel handles provide excellent stability and control. Designed for use with conventional gas and electric ranges as well as induction cooktops.

◀ NUT CRACKER!

Handsomely detailed in cast aluminum, Nutty Squirrel will happily crack any nut you put in his mouth — Pecans, Filberts, Almonds, even Walnuts! Place the nut in his mouth by lifting his tail, then when his tail is pressed down ... the nut is cracked! Nutty Squirrel is a delightful character that is both functional and fun. A friendly squirrel who prefers to share his nuts rather than bury them in the yard. Measures 5 3/4 tall.
