City gears up for road work

With warmer weather settling into place. Northville city leaders are gearing up for the second and more significant phase of Center Street reconstruction.

It's one of the largest single capital improvement projects undertaken by the city in recent memory, dipping into road funding for fiscal years 1997-1998, 1998-1999 and 1999-2000.

Crews completed the first portion of the reworking of the major north-south artery through Northville last fall with the section of Center Street that runs north of Eight Mile Road to Maplewood.

City Public Works director Jim Gallogly said that portion focused primarily on the installation of new sewer lines.

By the end of this month, crews should begin repaving the northern stretch of Center Street. After that, Gallogly said. attention will be turned to the largest portion of the

City police request $37,000 increase in 1998/99 budget

With his budget prop sal completed. Northville police chief Jim tres is trying to drive home a message:

The place for police officers isn't in an office. It's on the street. And that's apparently the underlying theme in the seven pages outlining the police department's financial strategy for the next fiscal

The department's $1.76 million request for 1998-1999 funding is the single largest portion of the total city budget. The increase amounts to around $37,600 more than what was budgeted for fiscal year 1997-1998.

Petres said he believed the increase was necessary in getting officers out of the station and on the streets of Northville, thereby increasing visibility.

A good portion of the request is rooted in the department's need for a pair of new patrol vehicles, which Petres said would replace two members of an aging police fleet.

The two vehicles up for replacement are both 1994 models. Though at one time odometer readings served as a guide for when cars needed to be retired, that policy no longer is in place, he said. Under the budget proposal, the new vehicles would be acquired under a three-year lease. Visibility was increased three years ago by putting officers on two wheels instead of four, in the form of bicycle patrol.

"It's been a great program for us," Petres said. "People I've talked to have told me they like it quite a Dispatch operators - the first and very vital link between callers and emergency personnel - were also in high demand, Petres said. Though part-time dispatchers are valuable because of the flexibility they offer in scheduling, the high turnover rate in the field has made it somewhat impractical, he said.

Woodside gave high marks to the outgoing township employee.

"(Anderson) has been a solid contributor to the township." Woodside said. "We'll all sorry to hear he's leaving, but certainly wish him the best for the future."

Prior to being hired as the township's director of public services. Anderson worked for five years with the township's current engineering consulting firm of Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May. He has worked exclusively for the township for almost five years.

At his new position, Anderson said he would primarily be involved with project management. He said the firm he would be associated with is similar to Ayres in terms of size and philosophies, but works mostly with private, rather than municipal projects.

"I'm definitely leaving my com-fort zone," Anderson said. This is certainly the most challenging career change I've made. There are a lot of roots I'll need to pull up from around here.

The township began the search for a new public services director last weekend, running advertisements in the Detroit News & Free Press. Woodside said interviews would be conducted by township staff and approved by a vote of the township board of trustees.

Two friends take stage together for last time

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

For Nick Nerio and Laurie Boloven, romantic interest is just an act.

The two began the charade in middle school, when they were both cast in a production of "Heidi" at the Marquis Theater in downtown Northville.

After that they played a shoemaker and his wife in the "Princess and the Pea" then a prince and princess in the "The Pale Pink Dragon." They sang a duet in "Halloween Soup," and shared the part of the wolf in "Little Red Riding Hood."

Now, they're reunited as two characters enmeshed in a love triangle in the high school's production of "Oklahoma!"

"It's cool because we always get paired up as a couple but we're really just good friends," Boloven, 16, said. Nerio. 15, is east as Ali Hakim, an exotic peddler who comes to the small town to sell his wares. Bolovin falls in love with him in the part of Ado Annie. Well almost.

Ado Annie sings the song I'm Just A Girl Who Can't Say No." Boloven said. 'It's basically whatever scene I'm in.

that's who I like.' Nerio is just as aloof when it comes to being true to Ado Annie. *He only likes her because she gives him a good time," Nerio said.

Nerio has been acting since he moved to Northville from San Francisco at age 12. Ever since he saw a newspaper ad announcing auditions for "Heidi," he's been in numerous productions.

Right now, he's playing Hakim in two musicals at once. His part in Ladywood High School's production of Oklahoma! will wrap up right before Northville High's opening night.

They normally don't give the larger parts to freshman at Northville," Nerio said. I have all my lines memorized and the songs. The blocking is different, and the chorus, but I've been doing it so much it's just been coming to me.

Boloven's part has come easy to her as well, partly because she said she prepared before auditions by buying a CD of the score and renting the musical on video. She said she's had her eye on the part of Ado Annie ever since she saw the movie version in sixth grade.

It's a memorable character. It's the kind of part people will remember when they go home. It's fun because it's a comic part. There's a lot you can do with it. You have to be big, you get a lot of laughs." Boloven said. "I interact with the audience. I sit on a guys lap when I

After she graduates, she said she hopes to study acting at UCIA.

Nerio said he also hopes to stay involved in drama.

"It's just a lot of fun. Another person enters your body and it doesn't matter what people think," he said. This is one of the favorite plays I've been in. Even though we're still in rehearsals, I can tell it's going to be great."

Credit union office opens

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

But please, she said - just don't call the new building a bank. Groundbreaking for the new building took place earlier this month amid two dozen representatives from the township and the Michigan Credit Union League.

The center will be located on the east side of Haggerty Road, just north of Five Mile Road. The 55,000-square foot facility is slated for completion in December. Designers have said it will be two-story red brick building.

The center will be home to the League, a branch office of the Michigan Services Credit Union and a Novi Community Credit Union ATM.

Though the office will have member services at the location, the primary function of the building will be to house the necessary educational and legislative assistance office space for the

The League's existing office in Southfield will be demolished shortly, Zubalik said.

Though credit unions may look and feel like banks, they are two entirely different lending institutions, according to Zubalik. Credit unions are owned and operated by their members and exist not for profit. Banks serve the general public, whereas credit unions, pursuant to law, are restricted to serving groups of people who share a common bond, such as employment, place of worship or community.

Furthermore, most loans handed out by credit unions are for individuals and families, whereas bank loans tend to focus on corporate or industrial needs.

Zubalik said the League was attracted to the Northville Township area because of its proximity to several Interstate highways and Michigan is home to 507 credit unions and 4 million members.

"It's a beautiful part of the state to be in," Zubalik said. "You're close to so many vital parts of Michigan in Northville Township.

Bad eggs strike 2 township homes same night

were peppered with eggs the evening of April 18. The first incident occurred at 10 p.m. on Pickford Drive. Residents of the home heard the doorbell ring, but when they went to open the door, were hit with eggs which had been thrown at them. Other eggs cracked against the side of the house. The residents believed a dark blue Mercury Villager provided the transport for the vandals. Northville City police were said to be looking for a vehicle matching that description in a similar inci-

The second egg problem occurred 30 minutes later when a Rollingwoods resident saw her home littered with what appeared to be paintball starbursts, but turned out to be eggs. A dark-colored Ford F-150 pickup was the suspect vehicle. Police were still investigating the matters.

FEIGNING IGNORANCE: A vehicle occupied by two 18-year-old township residents was stopped at around 7 p.m. April 14 after township police saw that the car had gone through a red light and had a cracked windshield. Officers asked the driver if any drugs or alcohol were inside the vehicle, to which the driver responded 'no.' Officers then asked if a search could be conducted inside the car.

The driver agreed.

Two Northville township homes ter box containing a substance later identified as marijuana under the drivers' seat. Police also found a marijuana cigarette hidden among a carton of conventional cigarettes inside the car.

The occupant who had been sitting in the front passenger seat told police the manjuana was his. The driver told police he had no knowledge of the substances inside the vehicle, despite the fact the car, a 1988 Mustang, was his.

DOG BITE: An 11-year old Inverness Court boy suffered bruises on his buttocks when a female rottweiler bit him the evening of April 16. The boy told police he was walking around the west side of his home when he saw the unchained dog, about 50 feet away, growling at him.

The dog charged the boy and bit him through his T-shirt and sweatpants. The boy's father showed up moments later and scared the dog away.

Police cited the dog's owner with a violation and impounded the dog to a veterinarian for 10 days of observations. The owner will be in court at 9 a.m. on May 6.

SPEEDY DRUNK: The clock read around 1:45 p.m. April 17 when police were traveling northbound on Beck Road near Six Mile Road. The speed limit in the area was 45 mph, and reports said traf-Once inside, officers found a hit- fic was moving along at around posted speeds, except for a car directly in front of the patrol vehicle, which accelerated and passed a repair truck before then tailgating the next car in line.

Officers caught up to the errant driver and activated alert lights, to which the driver failed to respond. Warning horns were sounded, but the driver again did not stop. Finally, the officer strategically positioned his car and forced the suspect vehicle to pull over to the side of the road.

Reports said the officer almost immediately noticed a very strong smell of intoxicants coming from inside the suspect vehicle. The driver was asked to produce identification, but had none on his person. He was later identified as a 37-year-old Canton man.

The man performed extremely poorly on sobriety tests. A search of the suspect's truck turned up three bottles of schnapps (all of them nearly empty), an empty 12ounce can of beer and a nearlyempty 40-ounce can of beer. The man's breath alcohol test registered at .24. It was learned he was driving on a suspended license and had a prior conviction for operating under the influence.

The man will be in court May 1

ILL ON PILLS: The vehicle of a 44-year-old Northville woman traveling eastbound on Eight Mile Road was struck from behind twice - while she was waiting to turn northbound on Haggerty at around 4:15 p.m. April 17.

The woman told police she stepped out of her car to speak with the other driver, who paused for a few moments before driving away from the scene. The woman never lost sight of the other driver and telephoned police from her cellular phone. Farmington Hills and Livonia police located the suspect and returned him to the The man's behavior seemed unusual, though the man, a 48year-old Eastmanville resident, tested negative for alcohol intake. Police located a bottle of prescription pills inside the suspect's car which had been filled the prior day with 120 pills, though only 104 were counted inside the bottle. The prescription called for four pills to be taken per day. The suspect was asked if he could account for the excessive number of missing pills. to which he responded by saying he believed the prescription called for one pill, four times per day, or as needed.

The man was taken in for blood analysis and later cited for driving under the influence of narcotics.

SMASH, STOLEN STEREO: A 17.year-old Novi youth discovered $300 in glass damage had been McDonald Drive residence. Police done to his 1990 Oldsmobile Cutlass while it was parked outside a Red Oak home during the night of April 17-18. The youth made the discovery at around 7 a.m. April 18. After getting into the car. thieves apparently made off with a pair of $200 speakers, a $190 amplifier, a $120 AM / FM cassette player, a $150 portable compact disc player and a $100 cell phone. There are no suspects.

FUNNY MONEY: While walking in the Farmer Jack parking lot at 8:15 a.m. April 18, a 41-year-old Detroit man thought he'd made a modest fortune, but discovered the $20 bill he'd found was counterfeit. The bill was turned into township police for examination and investigation.

CITY POLICE REPORTS

CAR HOPPING: A 15-year-old Northville High School freshman coined a disturbing phrase to describe a prowling activity that he told police was inspired by boredom. "Car hopping," he said, is the practice of checking for unlocked cars and then rifling through them for valuables, preferably money.

He was caught in the act around 11:30 p.m. on April 14 by police who saw him standing in an open doorway of a sports utility vehicle parked in the driveway of a

TOO YOUNG: An officer investigating a disturbing the peace complaint encountered a Northville youth who was intoxicated behind a downtown Main Street home around 6 a.m. Thursday April 19. Police said her ID showed that she was only 18 and a breathalyzer test showed that her blood alcohol level was .199, well over the legal limit for minors.

She was arrested on misdemeanor charges and released on a $100 bond with a court date set for May 18.

Township teens arraigned on firearm, drug charges

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

Two Northville Township youths pleaded not guilty Friday in connection with an April 4 drug raid at a Cedar Springs apartment.

Eric Alan Cunningham, 17, and Jason Marshall Bates, 18, stood before 35th District Court judge John MacDonald, two weeks after being led out of the Six Mile Road apartment complex by Wayne County special operations team members.

MacDonald advised the suspects of their right to remain silent, and told MacDonald a court-appointed attorney would be assigned to handle his case.

Cunningham, the main target of the bust, had supposedly been operating a lucrative marijuana business for some time.

After being arrested and advised of his rights, Cunningham told township detective Paul Sumner he had been averaging around 400 $17,500 in fines.

Detectives staking out the apartment a few days before the raid counted 30 people coming in and out of the residence within the two-hour period.

In addition to being charged with delivery/manufacturing of a controlled substance. Cunningham was charged with receiving and/or concealing a weapon. If convicted, he could face up to a total of 14 years in prison and $25,000 in fines.

The weapon Cunningham concealed, a .38-caliber pistol, was apparently given to him by Bates after he removed the weapon from the Eight Mile Road home of a family acquaintance.

Bates was charged with seconddegree home invasion and larceny of a weapon, which together constitute a maximum possible penalty of 20 years in prison and

Both suspects were released after their hearing on $10,000 personal bond each. Bates is due back in court April 22, while Cunningham will make his appearance

Northville Troop #755 Boy Scout and Eagle Scout-candidate Evan Demers pauses in the wooded and botanically diverse nature study area that he helped create just north of Ford Field.

Northville Scout converts lot into nature study area

Evan Demers has amplified the third point of the Scout Law.

That's because Demers, an Eagle Scout candidate senior at Northville High School, spent a week clearing out and improving a patch of land just north of the Ford Field baseball diamond and converting it into a nature preserve and weather study area.

"It was in pretty bad shape," Demers said. "There was a lot of work we needed to do for it."

In the seven days he spent working on the site. Demers and the help he enlisted removed overgrowth, created a small path of wood chips, planted flowers and small shrubs and installed meteorological equipment.

A trash bin and park bench. donated by Amerman Elementary, was also placed at the site. Demers said Amerman administrators expressed an interest in using the project area for outof-classroom learning.

Unlike the other six ranks within the Boy Scouts. Eagle candidates are required to organize and execute a service project done for the community.

Demers needed to gain the approval of several city agencies, including the Building and Parks & Recreation departments, not to mention the final approval of the Scouts' district leadership.

It was a lot of work, but I really enjoyed myself. Demers said. I was most satisfied being able to turn a place that had nothing into something nice. I hope people will be able to enjoy

Demers completed the project only two days before the deadline set by the Boy Scouts of America to complete all Eagle

Demers turned 18 on April 9.

The Eagle Scout candidate said he plans on attending either Northwestern University or Schoolcraft College to study culinary arts, which has been a fas-cination of his for the last six Though most scouts have somewhat limited cooking experience. Demers said camp food menus aren't constrained to hot dog cookouts when he goes camping.

"I've learned to make a lot of good stuff out there," he joked. "I find that I'm the one doing a lot of the cooking."

Scouting remains one of the largest youth movements in America, though less than one in every 100 Scouts ever attains the rank of Eagle.

It's an honor that often attracts the attention of local leg-Islators and usually a congratulatory letter from the President.

Demers will go before district leaders next month for final approval of his Eagle Scout

Winchester reading soars

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

When Winchester Elementary School students were told they could send their teachers up, up and away in a hot air balloon by reading for 5,000 hours, they rose to the occasion.

During "March is Reading Month," the students exceeded their reading goal, and the balloon took off over the schoolyard first thing in the morning on Monday April 20.

I just think this is so cool. They worked very, very hard from the first day to earn this. Winchester kids are just super," say Jay Hillard, the school's learning con-

The students gathered on the back field to watch pilot Craig Elliott and captain Ron Pethick unfurl the balloon and fill it with propane-heated air. Emblazoned with the outline of Michigan on one side and a robin and apple blossom on the other, the balloon was tethered to vehicles at three

After it was inflated, it rose about 100 feet into the sky, carrying four teachers at a time as the entire student body stood and

I think it's awesome, seeing a huge, huge air balloon and I'm very surprised," said third grader Natalie Mozier, who estimated that she read about 20 books to help the school reach its goal.

Third grader Kari Hartmann also marveled at the size of the balloon. Tve seen them in the sky and they're little tiny specks but this is huge," she said. Winchester principal Kathy Morhous took her camera up with her to get an aerial shot of the

"It was neat. It's beautiful up there, nice and smooth. Of course the kids are going to want me to tell you it's scary," Morhous said.

The balloon ride was chosen as this year's reading month reward by Hillard and funded by the school's PTA.

The enthusiasm from the children is a good thing." PTA president Cathy Ponder said. "It's a celebration of reading education.

To help them reach their 5,000 goal, students were given two hours of credit for every hour of non-fiction they read. As part of the school's Take Flight With Reading," theme students dressed like their favorite storybook character for a day, collected books for needy children and released helium balloons with notes on them The grand finale came when the Michigan Balloon Company arrived from Holly pulling the hot air balloon in a trailer behind them. Pilot Elliott said the company visits about 15 schools a year to give a demonstration and lecture about the aircraft.

Generally we just stand the balloon up and let the kids look up inside and get close to it. This is unique because we're actually taking the teachers up for a tethered ride," Elliott said. "We were blessed today with a beautiful, calm day. It should be a lot of fun for everyone."

New Supervisor of Maintenance and Custodial Services for the Northville School District Chris Gearns, relaxes for a moment in a tool shop at the district's early childhood center.

District hires new boss

Gearns to keep schools clean, buses running

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

School is a place for ideas and learning, but without the work of the district's maintenance, custodial and transportation crews, education would be uncomfortable at best.

Downright impossible at worst. To make sure the public schools are kept safe and warm, administrators hired on Chris Gearns as operations manager.

"We're looking forward to maintaining the district's infrastructure in the fine manner that it has been run in the past." said Assistant Superintendent David Bolitho.

Gearns will take turns between his desk at the board of education offices at 501 W. Main, the school-yards and the bus lots in order to supervise approximately 10 maintenance workers, 44 custodians and a crew of 33 transportation staffers.

Hired officially at a meeting of the board of education last month. Gearns came with high recommendations from the Plymouth-Canton school district, where he worked as a maintenance supervisor since 1986.

Before that, Gearns spent a year as a military police officer in the U.S. Army. He graduated from Canton High School and earned a bachelor of science degree in political science and psychology from Eastern Michigan University in 1992.

The management position was sought by 32 Job applicants, and seven candidates were interviewed on March 5 by a team that included personnel director Roy Danley, a bus driver and a school principal among others.

Gearns was the top choice to replace Tom Bailey, who left the district last year for a Job as a maintenance and custodial supervisor in Howell.

"We're confident Gearns will make an immediate contribution. We're confident he will get off to a very good start this spring," personnel director Roy Danley said.

"I've always heard great things about the Northville Public Schools and from the short time I've been here I see they're all true." Corpus said.

Novi water plan trickles to Mill Pond

The City of Novi has applied for an $895,000 grant to pay for half of the construction of two stormwater detention basins that would control flood waters and improve water quality.

As part of Novi's stormwater management plan, the total costs for the North Novi basin are estimated at $1.19 million and for the Dunbarton basin.

The grant money, if approved, would come from the Rouge River National Wet Weather Demonstration Program.

Minimizing sediments in the Dunbarton district is seen as a way to assist the City of Northville's plans to restore its Mill Pond, which is downstream of

The city's target date is to begin design and analysis work on the projects in May, begin building in May 1999 and complete the work by August 1999.

Located downstream of Walled Lake at the headwaiters of the Middle Rouge River, the North Novi basin would be built in part of the city's 400-acre North Novi Park. Currently, the discharge from the Novi/Walled Lake Wastewater Treatment Plant flows into wetlands in the park.

The Dunbarton project would increase the size of an existing basin on the Novi Civic Center, where development in Novi has led to downstream flooding and bank erosion along Miller Creek, Thornton Creek and the Middle Rouge River.

As part of the North Novi basin, an earthen dam and outflow would be built to control downstream flows. Constructed wetlands would be used to improve water quality from the treatment plant.

At the Dunbarton basin, an earthen dam and outlook are planned, as well as limited downstream bank stabilization along Miller Creek and Thornton Creek

District asks patrons for Durant advice

What would you do with $3.8 million?

The Northville public schools want to know, and they're opening phone and e-mail hot-lines to find

The money is Northville's share of a lawsuit settlement that lingered in court for 17 years.

The so-called Durant suit was filed by 84 public school districts that complained the state failed to fund special education and other mandated programs.

The check arrived April 15, with the condition that the public is given the chance to determine how it'll be best spent.

So far, Northville residents have discussed possible uses of the windfall at two Policy Subcommittee meetings. A third is set for April 20 at 8:15 p.m. in the third floor conference room at the Board of Education Offices, 501 W. Main.

Dr. Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent for the school district, has suggested the money fund instructional equipment, technology or building improvements. Another option would be to deposit the check directly into district coffers to cover unforeseen needs.

Hayes Lemmerz breaks ground for headquarters

Hayes Lemmerz International, the world's leading supplier of wheels and brake components to the automotive industry, became the first development to break ground at the site during a ceremony April 15.

Sunny skies provided the backdrop as more than 50 Hayes Lemmerz employees and township and county officials gathered for the ceremony on the north side of Five Mile Road between Beck and Sheldon.

We thought this piece of property we're standing on was the best spot for our world headquarters," said Larry Karenko, vice president of human resources for the company.

Bulldozers had already begun to dig the foundation for the $20 million building that will house Hayes Lemmerz corporate offices, as well as a state-of-the-art 65,000 square foot research and development facil-

7,000 employees and 20 manufacturing facilities in 11 countries worldwide.

The company's move was prompted because almost 1 million square feet of their Romulus location went unused after the company relocated its manufacturing division to plants outside of Michigan.

Developers chose the 14-acre site in Northville last June and expect to open the doors of the new 155,000 equare foot facility in early 1999.

In order to garner a spot in the PUD, Hayes Lemmerz purchased the land from Wayne County and then secured permits at the township, county and state levels.

Originally slated to begin construction within six months of acquiring the land, it took longer because the company was forced to tweak the building plans to fit the visions of each entity.

Tears of joy, loss and relief flowed from the family and friends of the Brighton man killed Nov. 14, 1996 in the Ford Wixom Plant Shooting after Gerald Atkins was found guilty of first degree murder

Atkins, however, showed no emotion and left the courtroom with no reaction.

The conviction means a mandatory life sentence for the 32-yearold Wixom man. Atkins will be officially sentenced April 30 at 8:30 a.m. in Judge David Breck's courtroom in Oakland County Circuit

Atkins was convicted of first degree murder for the killing of 57year-old Darrell Izzard and on 24 other counts. ### Hearing implant gives child ability to speak and listen

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

The contents of Kelly Heinonen's hot pink Mickey and Minnie Mouse fanny pack are so precious that the 5-year-old will only part with it to sleep or shower.

Inside is an electronic speech processor the size of a beeper, which is Kelly's lifeline to the world

The device is part of a high tech cochlear implant that translates noise into digital impulses allowing Kelly to hear.

Kelly patiently tilts her head so her mother, Lynn, can show others now the device works.

A microphone wrapped around the girl's ear picks up sound. which travels by wire to the speech processor at her waist. After the sound is converted to digital impulses, it is sent back up to a coil near her ear, which is held magnetically to a receiver surgically implanted in Kelly's skull. The coil sends the signals across her scalp via FM radio frequencies to the implant, which then stimulates her auditory nerves.

Underneath Kelly's blond curls. a careful observer will note the oval shaped implant, which is When they turned them all on at surgery for more than two years. Because she was born profoundly deaf and conventional hearing aids failed to help her, Kelly's audiologist. Dan O'Hara at the Providence Park-Novi Medical Center, recommended the cochlear implant.

After talking to other families who had success with the device, Heinonen and her husband Bruce, 33, agreed.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Jack Kartush, with the Michigan Ear Institute in Farmington

Although the operation was slated to take three hours, it stretched into five, but according to Heinonen, the family was convinced it was the right thing to

Bus driver shares gift of conversation with girl new to world of sound

By WENSDY WHITE Staff Writer

The best gift that Jeannee Morris got last Christmas was from one of the eight students on her Northville district bus route.

Five-year-old Kelly Heinonen came flying out of her home one morning waving a yellow piece of paper. On it, she had drawn a school bus and written a special message for Morris.

"It was a Christmas card that she made herself. Kelly knows that I'm trying to work with her," Morns said.

Morris, known to her friends as "Sam." goes out of her way each day to find out what Kelly did at Pearson School for the hearing impaired in Redford.

That way, she can greet Kelly with familiar words.

Deaf since birth, Kelly lived in silence until medical technology gave her the power to hear a year ago. Now, with a digital hearing aid implanted in her skull, she is slowly learning spoken language

For a deaf child, words are like gold," said Kelly's mother, Lynn. "Sam talks to her every day. It's not easy. Kelly doesn't understand everything. There's a communication barrier. Some people are intimidated but Sam just jumps right in there. She gets papers from school every day so she can form a relationship with Kelly. Sam's not just a bus driver. She's so much more than that.

On her route, Morris makes a stop at four special education schools in Livonia and Redford.

"I felt that Kelly needed someone to try to communicate with her. She's got a problem but it's not a problem that she can't deal with with a little help. Kelly is talking and doing great things. She's making great progress.

But Morris said she doesn't single out any of her students for special attention. She tries to go out of her way to make them all feel special.

"All the kids on my bus need special attention." Morris said. "I have a belief that in my lifetime if I only help one child, improve them in any way or make them feel better about themselves, I've done my mission here. I picked this run because I like working with special education children. I'm real positive so I think my positive attitude will help them.

A bus driver for 24 years, Sam has three children and three grandchildren. Amber. 10. Stephanie, 8, and Jason, 1. During her career, she has driven a bus in four area school districts.

Sam got her nickname from her first boss in Plymouth-Canton. who couldn't remember her name.

But Kelly has no trouble remembering her bus driver. She works Sam's name into her homework assignments almost every night, according to Lynn, and pronounces it very clearly despite her difficulty with lan-

"I like Sam," Kelly said. "I like the bus."

Even though Kelly faces an hour-and-a-half long bus ride each way. Lynn said she rests

'It's really hard to find goodquality part-time dispatchers. Petres said. "Hopefully, this will free up time for our patrol officers to be getting back out on the road."

The current operating budget provides for the hiring of one additional patrol officer.

Petres said the position was filled after making a budget request one year ago, but the individual hired to the position left to pursue other endeavors. Petres said he hoped to fill the vacancy in the near future.

And in the process of reshuffling personnel. Petres also noted the growing need for investigation by the department in his synopsis of the police department's budget.

(Investigation) work includes follow-up interviews, crime scene processing, delivery and pick-up of evidence at the crime lab, presenting cases to the prosecuting attorney and making necessary court appearances. Petres wrote. "A sergeant is assigned as the primary investigator. In recent years, nearly half of his time has been allocated to investigations.

In this budget, the time allocations has been increased to about 80 percent."

The city's budget will be reviewed at a special meeting April 27, before a hearing on adopting the budget at the establishment of the 1998 millage rate will be held on May 18.

Tentatively, the city's operating millage is proposed at 13.48 mills, an increase of just under one-half of 1 mill from 1997. One mil is equivalent to $1 for every $1,000 of assessed value.

So it is with the annual Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation Dinner/Auction.

That is indeed a sad commentary.

Because what the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation has managed to do with the funds they've raised is incredible. Over the past five years, close to $125,000 has been raised, and to see the results of that effort one only needs to go to Ford Field, Fish Hatchery Park, or Northville's Playscape.

Tragic case taught valuable lesson

I'll never forget the look in Claudia Berry's eyes.

Claudia and her husband Michael had allowed me into their spacious Glendale. Ariz. home for an interview. Unlike hundreds of other interviews I had done in my career this one was different, and I was extremely ner-

I was nervous to be talking to the Berrys because I was writing a followup story about their daughter Samantha, who had been shot to death 10 days earlier by Samantha's boyfriend Timothy Hardin.

We made small talk about the weather at the very beginning - summertime in the deserts of Arizona can leave you soaked in your own sweat and although you could feel the cold draft of the air conditioner I felt sticky and clammy.

Then Claudia Berry began telling me about Samantha, and although I listened attentively, scribbling her words in my reporter's notebook, I couldn't get past her eyes. She seemed to be looking right through me, and the pain that registered in that gaze was something I was neither prepared nor could provide comfort for.

For the first time in my professional life, I didn't know what to do. "Is this really necessary?" I asked myself. So during a break in the conversation I put down my pen and apologized to the Berry's for taking up their time.

Robert Jackson

"There is no need for you to have to go through this," I told them. What Claudia Berry said next astounded me. She told me that she wanted me to know about Samantha. what type of person she had become, what her aspirations were.

"I want you to tell Samantha's story to our community," she told me. "It's important that people know what type of person she was.

Claudia Berry was a brave and courageous woman. Having spent about a quarter of my professional career covering tragic events I can honestly say I've not met another person like her. In that one afternoon I learned more about my job as a journalist than I ever did in a college class-

Claudia Berry taught me about life that day. It was through her pained eyes that I found the balance necessary to report human tragedy in a fair and responsible manner.

You see, Claudia Berry knew it was important for the newspaper to report her daughter's murder. But she also insisted that it was equally important to allow victims a chance to "set the record straight."

In her case that meant explaining to our readers that her daughter was a caring, giving member of society. It put a face on the facts, and readers were able to come to terms with what had happened in their community.

There was no need to sensationalize. no need to embellish facts. Claudia Berry just wanted me to tell her daughter's story - plain and simple. The lessons I learned that day have served me well throughout my career.

This week our community is mourning the loss of three of its residents. As unpleasant as the job is, we contacted as many people as possible to report the story without sensationalizing or embellishing facts. That is part of our job. It's our responsibility to help this community make sense of tragedy.

And thanks to the lessons taught by Claudia Berry more than a decade ago, I believe we have done the job in a responsible and compassionate manner.

Language is fascinating on its own

I knew I would attract the language police by criticizing pedantic and mindless traditional grammar. But my best friends? My own mother? At least my wife's still speaking to me. Barely.

Winston Churchill once responded to a member of Parliament who was sputtering with rage: "The Honorable Member has apparently mustered up more indignation than he can contain." I wish I'd said some version of that in response to the sputtering rage I encountered. I was too busy cower-

What is there about criticism of traditional grammar that brings on such emotional responses? From the comments I've received, I suspect it has something to do with our views of what education and intelligence should be. An attack on traditional grammar is an attack on our own education and intelligence.

This all can be traced back to the mistaken Renaissance idea that English descends from Latin. The scholars of the day tried to impose Latin rules on a Germanic language. You don't think that English descended from Germanic languages? Find the tree of language in an *Encyclopedia." Note that English, while a cousin of Latin, nevertheless directly descends from the Teutonic or Germanic branches of the language tree. Complicating matters is that 56 percent of the words of English have Latin origins, but it nevertheless has a Germanic structure.

Hence, it's a Germanic language. Some language scholars believe that the historical reason for this mix explains our infatuation with Latin. and therefore, traditional grammar.

Now, dear friends, let me suggest two better ways of understanding the English language. These are just samples from libraries full of information.

Structural Linguistics. Rather than prescribed and illogical rules, structural linguists attempt to view the language in observable, provable ways. Here are just three examples. First, linguists examine the noise of language, the intonation patterns that communicate different things. Consider, "He has a very pleasant personality." Say it as a statement of fact, and the person referred to is flattered. Say it as a question, with the voice rising at the end, and the person is insulted. Same words, opposite meanings.

A second example is that linguists examine word order in English, something that matters a great deal in English, but is ignored in traditional grammar. "The man bit the dog" means something quite different from "The dog bit the man." Since word order is important, words can be classified by their position in a sentence: seemed good," any word that fits the position can be a noun. Finally, linguists study word endings, which they also use to classify words.

Transformational Grammar. Noam Chomski's fascinating contribution to language study is a look at how we process information. A shorthand way to distinguish it from structural linguistics is that structural linguists study language that occurs between the mouth and the ear. Chomski studled what occurs from the ear to the mind or the mind to the mouth. His studies resemble complicated mathematics, so be warned. It's much too complicated to even begin here.

Language is part of us. It is fascinating in its own right. So, even though studying it doesn't help us directly to write or think or speak better, it helps us know ourselves better.

To my critics: We should all be on a journey to self knowledge, a noble goal. But let's remember, we are nomads. We will never completely get

Fieger brings entertainment to race

At the very least, the entry of Geoffrey Fieger, Dr. Jack Kevorkian's flamboyant lawyer will bring some theater to the so far relatively moribund Democratic race for governor.

Doug Ross and Larry Owen, the two other

Democratic contestants, are both skillful and experienced political pros. circumspect in what they say and careful in the ways they say it.

Fieger, by contrast, is an absolute loose cannon, as likely to blow in your ear as he is to slit your throat. His speech to Kalamazoo County Democrats a couple months ago offered enough profanity-laced attacks on fellow Democrats to leave some angry locals wondering whether Fieger had been drinking.

Up to now, the race for governor has been about as interesting as watching paint dry on a cool day. Both Ross and Owen have been busily raising money (about the same amount). harvesting endorsements (Owen getting most of organized labor. Ross getting much of what's left) and trying to convince the news media that they have any chance of defeating incumbent Gov. John Engler.

With Fieger in the race, Michigan's political reporting corps might just get interested in the Democratic primary and start writing about the race instead of how big Engler's lead is lately. "I know Owen and Ross would make John Engler look good," said Fieger in his announcement speech last week, "That's why I'm in this race. I

Most hurt by Fieger's entry is Ross, whose campaign strategy has been to narrow the race for the nomination down to himself and Owen. At that point, Ross planned to argue he was Engler's most dangerous opponent - a point. interestingly, agreed to by most Republicans I

Phil Power

Owen, the analysis held, was vulnerable to charges of being under the control of organized labor, which in turn was no longer able to turn out the votes the way it did in the 1950s and 1960s. Ross, on the other hand, was well equipped as a "middle class Democrat" to appeal to moderate voters in the middle and forge new coalitions including many pro-choice Republicans who feel increasingly alienated from the GOP.

Both Republicans and Democrats agree that early polling numbers indicate Engler has something like 45 percent of the likely vote. with something like 15 percent of the electorate in the middle, not exactly in love with Engler but waiting for another candidate to turn them on. Because this 15 percent is mostly middle class. Ross' determinedly New Democratic message has some chance to playing well - a fact that underlies the Engler camp's concern about Ross' candidacy.

But with Fieger in a three-person primary race. Owen's main liability turns into an asset. Even though organized labor can't turn out the masses the way it used to, it still has enough of a grip - especially on older union families - to get something like 40 percent of the Democratic votes in a three-way primary race. That's enough to win, assuming Fleger takes a chunk of Ross' vote.

Of course, the big question is whether Fieger's candidacy will turn out to be a shortlived, self-destructive flash in the pan. He's leading in some polls now, but most experts think that has entirely to do with the notoriety gained by being Dr. Kevorkian's lawyer.

He's not likely to raise a lot of money from the big givers. But Fieger says he's prepared personally to lend the campaign $1 million. more than enough to mount a serious primary.

A greater risk is Fieger's passionate intensity coupled with his tendency to shoot from the hip. He seemed under reasonable control at his announcement last week in Lansing. But a couple more speeches like he gave in Kalamazoo would really get people laughing. And I'd bet anything that Geoffrey Fieger likes nothing less than having a lot of people laughing at

So here's the morning line: If you want thrilla-minute entertainment politics. Fieger's your guy. If you want the old, predictable Democratic Party, solidly under the control of established leadership, vote for Larry Owen. If you want a new kind of Democratic Party, try Doug

Residents have concerns with school plans

We attended the March 31 meeting of the Northville Township Planning Commission at which Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent of Northville Public School District, presented the proposed site plan for the new Northville High School. The articles in the April 9 and 16 editions of The Northville Record outline some of the concerns we and other residents of the Woods of Edenderry Subdivision have with the plan. There are several points we would like to emphasize.

We do not understand why school officials would present the plan for comment and then at the same time state that it is too late to change the plan? Why even ask for comments then? If timing is so important for this project, why did not the school district operate in a proactive fashion and invite comments earlier in the process?

We were not nor are we aware of any Woods of Edenderry resident who was contacted by the school district for input or comments. Several months ago, township authorities offered to assist the school district in contacting the residents but no action was taken in response to this suggestion.

We are also puzzled by Northville Schools position that Northville Township's zoning ordinances do not have jurisdiction over this project. While a lawsuit between the school district and township may ultimately resolve this issue, there is no legislation that prevents the school district from voluntarily agreeing to abide by local zoning requirements and making the whole issue a moot

We are sure that school officials want to construct a first class high school. Yet the very organization that educates and enriches our children plans on building a high school to a lower standard than any other structure in the township. Should not construction of the high school be held to the highest standard, not the lowest? We find it ironic that Northville Schools would elect to ignore the zoning regulations enacted by the very community that it serves.

When the bond request to fund the new high school was held, the school district's informational pamphlets stated that the Eight Mile Road stadium would continue to be used for games. Now, the plan for the new high school includes a soccer field with lights. public address system and bleachers that will be used exclusively for 20 soccer games each year. When Mr. Bolitho was asked why the games could not continue to be played at the current field, he stated that it would be too expensive to transport the team. Yet, on the other hand, the school district can afford to duplicate existing athletic facilities at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars?

Some individuals may believe our concerns and questions example of "not in my backyard" mentality. This is not the case. One of the primary reasons we moved to Northville is because of its excellent school system. We have two young children who will attend this high school. We support construction of the new high school and would like it to be a first class facility that the school district and community can be proud of for many years to come.

Eric and Laura Hanpeter

Zoning ordinances exist for a purpose

To the editor:

As homeowners backing up to the proposed high school, we are very concerned about the current plan presented by Mr. Bolitho on March 31 to the Township Planning Commission:**

Our major area of concern is the disregard by the school district of local zoning ordinances. Zoning ordinances exist for a purpose, to protect residents and local business now and into the future. Without adherence to these laws, the high property values we experience in Northville Township will not continue, our children's physical safety will be at risk, and the beautiful and thoughtful way commercial and residential sites have been integrated will also be in feopard

When we purchased our home, we were comfortable with the possibility of the new high school being built on property behind our home, but only because of the township's strict zoning ordinances. To allow the state of Michigan and Northville Schools to override local laws will affect not only residents that border the high school but all residents of Northville and Northville Town-

Did governor make wrong choice

To the editor:

I found Phil Power's article (Northville Record, April 16) on school charters most interesting. He reports that the Michigan State Board of Education is checking up on charter schools because many employ teachers who do not have state teaching certificates.

I recall an article written by Tim Richard, written quite some time ago in The Northville Record, indicating that *One-fourth of charter schools turned in better MEAP performances than the intermediate and local districts around them. Three-fourths were worse."

Was the governor wrong in making charter schools an important part of his platform? Not necessarily. Perhaps, as Power suggests. politically appointed state university board members, who supervise the performance of charter schools, may not be the best way to protect their integrity.

How autopsies differ

Forensic autopsy is different than a hospital autopsy.

A hospital autopsy is basically an inventory of the different diagnoses. what the person had and it's quality control for the doctor," said Dr. Som-

When you do an autopsy in a hospital you know who the person is. there is no identification problem." Dr. Somerset said. "Usually you don't ever say why they died, it is not the purpose of the hospital autopsy.

In a forensic autopsy quite often we don't know who they are." Dr. Somerset said. "There's trauma so the external exam is very important in a forensic autopsy and not in a hospital.

An external exam includes noting the condition of the teeth, the color of the eyes, any identifying marks such as a tattoo or scars that would confirm the person's identity.

Sometimes an external can take longer than an internal examination if multiple trauma needs to be documented.

"It also shows you're thorough when you have that (information) in there," he said. "In a hospital autopsy you probably would not mention a tattoo. It makes the external much more important. In a hospital, there's almost no external and then you start opening."

Any items of clothing and possessions are documented as well as the deceased's height, weight, development, rigidity, and lividity are also included in an external exam.

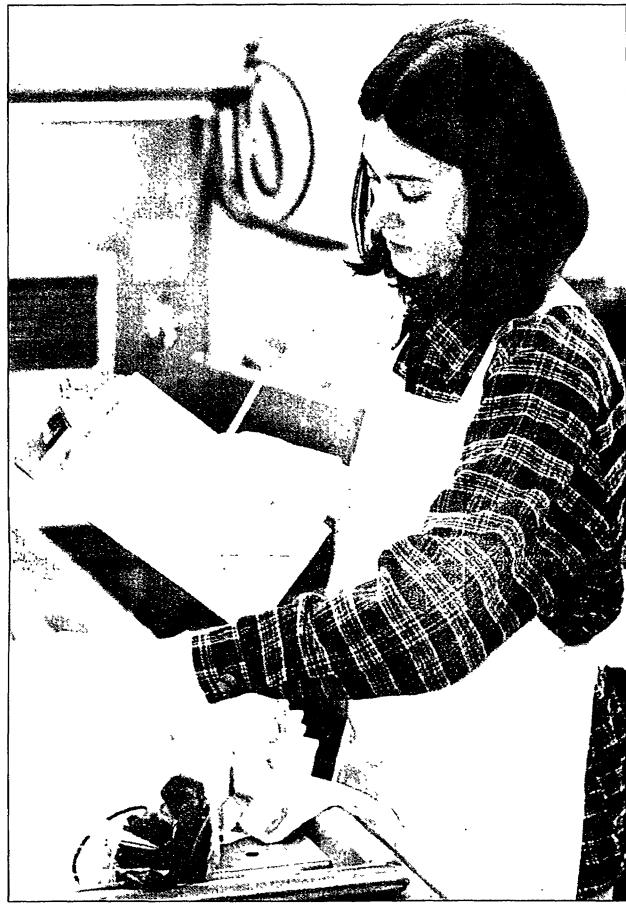

Different agencies also come into the medical examiners offices to do singerprinting and collect trace elements like clothing.

We determine the cause and manner of death so we're more interested in why they died," Dr. Somerset said. "Our mission is not to list everything they have if we see it we'll say it."

Cases which are wheeled into the Office of the Wayne County Medical Examiner usually include homicide, suicide, natural or accidental causes.

Magee finds equestrian program very beneficial for the participants

By CAROL DIPPLE Feature Editor

Bill Magee has been a volunteer with the Exception Equestrian Foundation Therapeutic Horseback Riding program for close to seven

It's not his love of horses that keeps him coming back, it's his love of the riders.

When working with the riders. Magee, a Northville resident for 14 years with his wife Lynda, leads or walks next to the horse while the disabled person rides on the horse.

I find it rewarding to see some of the kids that show an improvement over the course of the program," Magee said. "A couple of years ago there was one young boy who got around in a wheelchair. After being in the program two summers he was able to get around on crutches. It is gratifying for me to see that happen. There is a lot of benefits to be derived for these kids

Volunteers need to be 14 years of age or older and physically fit enough to walk for one hour at a time. Students from the National Honor Society can get credit for their volunteer work with the program or receive community service hours, according to program director Cindy Richards

Church celebrates 40 years

On Sunday, April 26, members and friends of St. John Lutheran Church, 23225 Gill Road, Farmington Hills, will celebrate the congregation's 40th anniversary.

The day's celebration will carry the theme: Forty Years of Faith. Retired Pastor Emeritus Charles Fox will preach at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services. Senior Pastor Daniel Cave and Associate Pastor Mary Olivanti will serve as presiding ministers.

At 10 a.m. there will be a special tree planting and dedication on the church grounds. This gift is being provided by some of the original charter members who helped organize the congregation on April 27, 1958.

The congregation will show its thanks to God for "Forty Years of Faith by giving a special offering to a new Lutheran church which is starting in Macomb Township.

The monetary presentation will be made at the anniversary banquet scheduled for 1:30 p.m. at the Novi Hilton. All members and friends are invited to attend. Call the church office (248) 474-

0584 for information and tickets. St. John Lutheran Church held its first worship service Nov. 17, 1957 in the gymnasium of the old Farmington Junior High School. From the original 35 worshipers. the congregation has grown to a baptized membership of nearly 600

Pastors Cave and Olivanti now serve the congregation.

During preparation for the 40th anniversary, there has been much reminiscing about the early years when Gill Road was only dirt and gravel, the church parking lot was often a sea of mud, and the leaking flat roof consumed hours of discussion. Church facilities have been enlarged and major improvements have taken place over the 40-year history. Plans are now being studied to accommodate future growth.

Regular worship services are Sunday at 8:30 and 11 a.m. with Sunday School classes for all ages

Everyone is welcome and invited If there is a need for pastoral services, call the church at (248) 474-0584 anytime.

Brownie earns life saving medal

By CAROL DIPPLE Feature Editor

What started out as a typical vacation day full of excitement for a Northville family turned painfully sobering after dinner.

Following a day at Sea World in Aurora, Ohio last August, the Krafft family had dinner, changed into swimsuits and went down to the hotel's outdoor pool.

Jim Krafft had been in the shallow end of the pool with 7-year-old Meghan and 10-year-old Michael while splashing water on the feet of then 3-year old Nicholas who had decided not to go in but rather sit on the side of the pool.

With the sun going down, an evening chill was settling in so Jim went over to the table where his wife, Susan was sitting, to get a towel to wrap around Nicholas's shoulders.

When Meghan, a second grade student at Amerman Elementary School, turned around to talk to Nicholas, she discovered he wasn't

Not all the bodies are assigned for an autopsy, some are only inspected if death is thought to be from natural causes and there is no trauma or foul play suspected. Autopsies are performed to rule out cause of death. Death certificates are signed by the medical examiner on duty.

Mitchell supervises the autopsy attendants, fellows, and interns who attend the physicians. Mitchell supervises the six autopsy attendants who remove the organs (from the tongue to the rectum) in one piece. They also remove the brain. Under the assistance of the medical examiner Mitchell goes through the organs separating them from each other. Organs are weighed before dissection to look for disease, trauma. etc. and samples are taken.

Since they first brought him to the big screen in 1918, filmmakers have continuously returned to the rich lore of Edgar Rice Burroughs' timeless tale of the boy who grew up to be Lord of the Apes. The fan-tasy, the action and the exotic settings have inspired filmmakers for decades; now, in this latest adventure. Tarzan returns to his jungle home to thrill legions of fans worldwide.

With the production of Warner Bros.' successful 1984 film. Greystroke: The Legend of Tarzan. Lord of the Apes." filmmaker Stanley Carter, who produced the film with Hugh Hudson, had realized a long-held dream. The road to completion of the motion picture took 12 years for Canter to travel, and almost as soon as the film had made it to the big screen, the producer immediately began to envision a sequel. Canter acquired the rights to the sequel in 1991 and worked on the evolution of the story for the next six years.

Since Greystroke: Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes had seen Tarzan's return to civilization and England, Canter's challenge was to conceive an idea that would see the now Lord Greystroke return to

The legend of Tarzan has been brought to both the large and small screen countless times and the hero has been embodied by a seemingly endless parade of athletes and actors. The film makers of this latest version knew their greatest challenge lay in finding the perfect Tarzan for the '90's.

Producer Michael Lake remembers. "When I saw Paul Verhoeven's 'Starship Troopers,' I was struck by Casper Van Dien's per-formance and his physical appearance. He had the brains, the brawn and the charm to be our

Terakedis makes all-area first team, Bingley and Reel land on the second team

HomeTown Newspapers covers an area full of tough athletic competition. Basketball is no excep-

This All Area First Team of Basketball boasts a league champion and two district champions.

One of the top teams throughout the area, Milford's athletes earned two spots on the five-man squad.

The Redskins finished up the season with their second-consecutive Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) title and their second-consecutive Player of the Year Award. Justin Williams won the award, beating out the infamous Drew Henson. Williams led Milford to its 21-3 record with an average of 13.6 points per game while shattering the 3-point record at MHS.

He was not alone though. Bill Nash was there to average more than 10 per game in one of the best seasons the Redskins have seen.

Northville came out of nowhere to claim its first district championship in 17 years. The Mustangs topped highly-touted Plymouth Salem before running into eventual state champion Detroit Central in the regional semifinals. The 'Stangs finished 12-11 while faring well against KVC foes. Northville beat Brighton, Novi, South Lyon and Howell to finish a perfect 4-0 against the conference.

Although young, Novi surprised everyone by finishing fourth in the KVC with a modest 6-6 record. The Cats will only lose three players, making them one of the contenders in the conference next season.

Nash led the Redskins with 112 rebounds.

We thought a key this year was that Bill had to play consistent and had to play steady, which he hadn't done in previous years," Palmer said. In addition to being the second leading team scorer and top rebounder, he hit 19 triples. Palmer said Nash has always had a flair for the dramatics and has come up big when it counted, including the league clincher. Against Howell Nash was responsible for two big steals in the final KVC game. One lead to a bucket by Nash and the second led to a triple to put Milford out

Mustangs place second at Novi, top Franklin in divisional meet

With a team depleted of many of its athletes away on spring break, the Northville girls track team finished a respectable fifth place at the 16th annual Novi Relays Saturday afternoon. Novi won its own invitational with 94 points. Northville accumulated

The meet included some unusual relays and the field events were judged on total distance, time and height of the top three girls on each team.

The 4 x 1,600 meter relay team of Karen Loeffler, Stephanie Flood, Laura Delano and Kristin Kolarchick finished second for the second-straight year. Their time of 24 minutes, 27 seconds was second only to Novi.

The same four won the 4 x 800 relay in a time of "This is our top relay so far this season," coach Chris Cronin said. I see a big drop in time just around the corner for this group. They work hard and they all have one goal."

Northville's distance events carried the load, outscoring Franklin 28-4. Loeffler won the 1,600 in a time of 5:51 and Kolarchick was second in 6:02.

Amanda Sprader, Loeffler and Nicole Walters made it a Mustang sweep in the 3,200. Sprader's winning time was 14:07, edging Loeffler by a second.

Hillary McCrumb and Laura Sherbert finished first and third in the 800.

Northville's hurdlers fared well, winning both hurdling events. Erica Winn took first in the 110 hurdles, winning in a time of :18.4. Jessica Anchor won the 300 hurdles in a time of :54.1. Missy MacRae was second to Winn in the 110.

The discus proved to be another strong event for the Mustangs. Rachel Gorshak, Christy Mimikos and Jennifer Moorhead finished 1-2-3 to sweep the event. Mimikos took second in the shot put.

MacRae came back to win the high jump (4-8) while Anchor finished second. Valorie Walker was second in the long jump (13-2).

Mustangs play hard, but fall to Western in eight

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

Northville always seems to have trouble in its first baseball game following spring break, and this year

The Mustangs dropped just its second game of the year, this one in extra innings against division foe Walled Lake Western.

The Warriors used a two-run homer in the top of the eighth inning to grind out a tough-earned 5-3 win. Despite the loss. Northville coach Mickey Newman was pleased with the way the game was played.

"it was surprisingly a well-played game out there," the coach said. "Sometimes the first game back after break can be a circus."

Junior Andy Borda pitched 5 1/3 strong innings before being relieved by Justin Waineo in the sixth. Western scored the go-ahead run in that inning to take a 3-2 lead. After Waineo struck out the side in the top of the seventh. Northville rallied to tie the game and send it into extra innings.

Brian Horn drew a leadoff walk to start the seventh One out later Andy Deacon had a pinch-hit double to center to tie the game. Deacon's drive was just short of clearing the fence and winning the game for the

The celebration was short lived as Western scored a pair of runs in the top of the eighth on a two-run

The Warriors took a 1-0 lead on a solo homer in the first. Northville came right back in the bottom of the inning to score a pair of runs and take a 2-1 lead. Kelly Bingley drew a walk and stole second and third. After Evan Edwards walked to put runners on the corners. Newman called for the double steal, scoring Bingley and tying the game. Rob Reel then singled in Edwards to give the Mustangs their only lead of the Northville's only other threat came in the second. when it loaded the bases with two outs. Edwards hit a hard line drive to right field, but the Western outfielder made a great catch to stop the threat.

'Had that got by him, it would have easily cleared the bases." Newman said. "It was just one of those days where everything they hit seemed to find the holes and everything we hit found a Western defensive

If some of those hits would have been five feet either way, we'd have won this game."

Northville's bats went silent from the third inning through the sixth. The Western pitcher retired 13straight Mustangs.

*Borda and Waineo pitched outstanding." the coach said. They pitched great against a team, Western, that Mercied North Farmington. I think we can take a lot of good things out of this game."

The Mustangs traveled to North Farmington yesterday (after the Records' deadline) and host Harrison tomorrow. Monday Churchill will visit for a divisional

Bingley, Reel make second team

A five-player first team wasn't enough to honor area cagers and their season accomplishments.

HomeTown Newspapers' Second Team basketball players are stars in their own right.

The Lakeland Eagles are represented by two players, Dan Bahr and Chris Martin, both of whom averaged more than 10 points per game this season. The Eagles had four players hovering around the 10-point mark, making it a mystery how Lakeland didn't finish higher in the ranks of Kensington Valley Conference basketball

But, that just goes to show the level of competition. Novi found a way to win six games and have just one player average double digits in points.

Northville used a balanced offensive attack to win a dozen basketball games and a district title. Kelly Bingley and Rob Reel were often times number one options for the Mustangs

Here is a closer look at the All Area Second Team:

Dan Bahr Lakeland junior guard

Bahr won the Eagle Award for being the all-around best performer on the team. He was a second team Kensington Valley Conference selection and was Lakeland's team captain this season.

Bahr led the Eagles with 11.9 points per game. He was third on the team with 86 boards and had 50 assists, averaging 2.5 per game.

"He had a real nice season for us," Coach Randy Wilkins said.
"We're real proud of him and real pleased. We're looking towards next year. But, unfortunately a lot of other good players are coming back from other teams.

Chris Martin

Lakeland senior center

Not coming back next season is senior Martin. He was by far the most improved Eagle this season and earned a KVC honorable mention for his efforts.

Martin averaged 10.2 points per game, second on the team behind Bahr. He lead the team with 155 rebounds.

Wilkins was also pleased with Martin's season. The center was second on the team with 46 blocked shots.

Greg Hix Milford senior center

Hix led the Redskins with 4.9 rebounds per game and was third in team scoring, averaging 8.1 points per game.

He did all that playing on one

Not really on one leg, but Hix did play injured for most of the season. What doctors thought was a stress fracture in his foot turned out to be ligament damage. A cast was recommended but Hix chose to finish the season, in pain.

"He pretty much played half the year on one leg." Coach Don Palmer said. "His foot injury took away his jumping. He played in pain but played pretty effectively. He's a crafty interior post guy with some nice moves. We're not sure we could have done what we did without him. Maybe with him healthy we could have done more."

Kelly Bingley Northville senior guard

Despite battling his way through injuries the entire season, Bingley still managed to average 10 points and dish out five assists per game. A perfect backcourt mate to Dave Terakedis, Bingley was the ringleader for Northville at point

Bingley earned honorable mention status in the Western Lakes

Activities Association. "He was the hardest worker we had," coach Scott Baldwin said. He was asked to play point for us and he worked hard over the summer to improve his game. He's a rabid competitor.

Rob Reel Northville junior forward

With the talented backcourt duo Northville possessed this season, Reel joined Bob Allan and Marshall Knapp to form a solid front line for Baldwin. An all-area selection in football, Reel proved he could dommate under the boards as well. scoring 6.5 points per game while pulling down 6.4 rebounds per contest. Reel is expected to lead a strong front line next year for Northville.

"He's a big guy with point-guard instincts," Baldwin said. "He's a strong rebounder and he's good enough in the open court to handle the ball. Next year we're hoping for him to be a leader for us

Area basketball talent soars

the career leader list with 137 3pointers.

"He ran cross country and got stronger," Palmer said. But even in the beginning of the year he still had a little bit of a hitch in his run. As the season went along he rounded back into form. This is my 20th year as varsity coach and we've had some great players. I don't think we've ever had a better pure shooter.'

Williams also led the team with 2.8 assists per game. The team complimented him and he complemented them." Palmer said. Things just fell into place. Sometimes you coach seasons and everything is a nightmare and sometimes everything just works

Dave Terakedis

Northville senior guard

Terakedis leaves Northville as one of the best guards ever to don Mustang uniform. After averaging 16 points, four steals and four assists this year, the senior garnered all Western division honors in the Western Lakes. Last year he earned all-conference honors.

By far his best performance came in a district final win over Salem. Terakedis poured in 39 points to lead his team over the highly favored Rocks. He leaves the school as the leading scorer in school history, surpassing the 1,100 point mark.

The most impressive thing about David Terakedis is his heart," coach Scott Baldwin said. He's not big physically, but his heart and desire makes him able to achieve things others can't do.

Yoga classes offered

Those interested in attending Yoga classes now have an outlet.

Diane Siegel-DiVita is a past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit and Northville resident.

She is a student of the lyengar method of Yoga, which pays strict attention to body alignment in the Yoga postures. She will be conducting classes on Mondays and Thursdays for both continuing students and beginning students.

The classes will run from Apr. 20 through June 11 of this year. Classes are held at the Northville American Legion Hall from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Continuing student classes will be held on Mondays and beginning classes on Thurs-

Students may register for seven classes ($28), eight classes ($32) or a special hectic schedule. This allows the students to attend any six classes for $24 with a $4 per visit add-on option. There will be no class on Memorial Day.

Potential students, who are new to Siegel-DiVita's class, may attend one no-obligation class. Students may begin at any time.

To register or get further information, call Siegel-DiVita at (248)

Can drive

The Northville Baseball-Softball Association travel teams will be going door-to-door for a can and bottle drive Saturday morning.

These youngsters will be trying to collect cans and bottles to help offset expenses for out-of-town baseball and softball tournaments.

The Association has 15 teams with approximately 200 kids competing.

"He had one goal, and only one goal all season long. That goal was to win districts.

Larry Drury Novi junior guard

Drury was the catalyst for a surprising Novi team. He led the team in scoring (11 points per game), rebounding (5.0), assists, steals and blocked shots. He also shot an amazing 60 percent from the field to lead a Wildcat team which hit 52 percent of its shots.

The junior shooting guard was named to the all-KVC first team.

"Larry had a very good year," his coach Pat Schluter said. "He has great ball-handling skills, but he needs to get a little stronger for next year. If he works hard and gets into the weight room, he'll again be an all-KVC player.

Gary Neighbors

South Lyon junior guard Individual efforts aren't always indicative of the team's accomplishments. This is certainly true of Neighbors and South Lyon.

The Lions only won one contest this season, but Neighbors was among the leaders with his 17.1 points per game.

He did begin the season slowly. but he caught fire after the first Lakeland game, and the first win. Neighbors went on a three-game tear where he scored more than 30 points in each game.

"He really ignited offensively." Coach Daren Clayton said. "Over the season he continued to improve his defense and his leadership in helping his teammates on the floor. He really made great strides in both those areas."

Neighbors also led the team with 24 triples, 36 steals and shot 47.5 percent from the field.

This guy loves basketball." Clayton said. "Just about any free time that he's got he's playing basketball. His scoring is what gets him his publicity but he really improved defensively and leadership-wise. If he can develop his leadership skills a little bit more and develop his defense he's going to be a really tough player."

Car restraints save childrens' lives

We all want to protect our children from harm, including the ever-present dangers of alcohol, drugs and violence. Their greatest threat, however, is from a traffic

That's right. A child is more likely to die or be seriously injured as a result of a car crash than from any disease or other type of accident.

It's crucially important, there-fore, to protect your children every time they ride in the car.

Most of these injuries are due to a child being improperly restrained. With so many different types of car seats, booster seats and seat belts, however, it can be confusing for parents. Here is some advice to help eliminate the

· All infants and toddlers should ride in a car seat placed in the back seat of the vehicle. Make sure your car seat is approved by the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standards and that the seat has not been recalled. Also, carefully review the installation instruc-

The harness needs to be adjusted so there is a space the breadth of two fingers between the child and the harness. Also, the seat should be secured properly to the vehicle. You can test this by trying to rock the car seat back and forth and side to side. It should not shift from the vehicle seat. Finally, you may need to attach a locking clip if your seat belts move freely until the vehicle makes a sudden stop.

· Infants must be placed in a car seat that faces toward the rear of the vehicle, when a child reaches 1 year of age, the car seat should be turned so it faces forward. There are many convertible-style car seats which are used in the rearfacing position for infants and the forward-facing position for toddlers. If you have an infant-only seat, then you need to replace it with a toddler seat when your child is I year old.

· Toddlers may begin to resist being put in the car seat so you'll need to be firm about making them sit in the seat during every car ride. This also helps your child to better behave during a car ride.

• When children reach 40 pounds or about 4 years of age. they should ride in a booster seat. Without a booster, the car's seat belt won't fit them properly. The shoulder belt will go across their neck or face instead of their chest. and the lap belt will cross the stomach instead of the hips. The best booster seats use both a lap and shoulder belt and, therefore, result in proper positioning of the vehicle's seat belts.

• Children over 60 pounds or 8 years of age may be restrained by the vehicle's lap and shoulder belt. These are safer than a lap belt alone. Children should always sit in the front seat of a car equipped with a passenger-side air bag, but they also must wear a lap/shoulder belt and their seat should be adjusted as far back as possible.

If you have any questions about how to best secure your child while riding in the family car, please ask your child's doctor.

Remember, up to two-thirds of injuries and deaths due to car crashes can be prevented by using proper car restraints. Help protect your child.

Troublesome wood mold can be stopped with bleach

By Gene Gary Copley News Service

9. Our new home features rough-sawn beams in the living area. A couple of these beams have developed dark, blackish areas. These discolorations seem to be spreading to other beams. Do you know what could cause this and how to get rid of the prob-

A. The blackish areas are probably mold. To kill the mold and bleach out the area, clean with a solution of chlorine bleach and trisodium phosphate (TSP available in paint

Add one quart of chlorine beach to one cup TSP dissolved in three quarts warm water. Wear rubber gloves and goggles. Sponge the liquid onto the stained areas. Then scrub with a brush. Rinse with clear water. Dry with a cloth or hair dryer. You need to dry the wood thoroughly.

If any staining remains, treat with a solution of oxalic acid (a stronger wood bleach available at paint stores) and mixed in the same proportions with water and TSP. Apply the same way. For seriously stained wood, more than one application my be necessary.

Q. We have three toilets in our home and the one upstairs seems to smell. The other upstairs toilet and the downstairs toilet do not have this problem. Do you know what might cause this?

A. The first thing I would check is the vent pipe. If this pipe is obstructed, sewer gas can not vent to the atmosphere and the gases back up into your bathroom where it escapes. Another common problem is often the trap under a drain or toilet, which is designed to hold water to block sewer gas from entering the room. If this trap is impaired, the gases will back up into the room. If the toilet fixture gets little use, it could be that the water has evaporated in the drain trap. If this is the case, you can rid of the foul odor by simply pouring water into the drain to fill the trap. If this doesn't correct the problem, have someone with plumbing knowledge inspect the pipe and venting system for a blockage.

Your plumbing system has vents and traps located between each fixture and the city sewer or your septic tank, so that sewer gas, which is methane, will have an easy way to get out of the pipes before it can exit through one of your fixtures. For your safety, it is important that hese vents work properly, as methane is highly explosive substance and proper venting

Q. I have a bathroom which receives very little ventilation. As a result mildew forms on the surface of the walls and ceiling and causes the paint to peel and flake off. What would you recommend to treat the walls to kill and retard the growth of mildew. What type of paint would you recommend for use in such an environment?

A. To remove the existing mildew and mold, wash the walls and ceiling with a solution of two cups household bleach mixed with a gallon of warm water. Scrub the mildew with a stiff brush, rinse with clear water and wipe

Before applying any new paint, scrape all flaking paint off the wall and lightly sand it smooth. You can add a mildewcide to the new paint, which will inhibit growth of mildew somewhat.

A more effective deterrent would be to use a mildew-proof paint marketed by William Zinsser & Co., Perma-White Bathroom Wall & Ceiling Paint. The manufacturer guarantees that walls and ceiling painted with this product will remain mildew-proof for five vears. This is a waterbased, self-priming paint that forms a finish unaffected by mildew. Key to its moisture resistance is a new resin with excellent wet adhesion and breathability. It allows moisture to freely pass through the paint film without causing adhesion loss. This makes it blister-proof, as well as mildrew-proof on bathroom walls and ceilings. Two coats are required for the guaranteed maximum mildew protection. Follow manufacturer's directions for wall preparation, primer and paint application. If you have trouble locating this product, contact Wm. Zinsser & CO. Inc., 323 Campus Drive. Somerset, NJ 088873.

Another protective measure which will help prevent mildew is to install a small vent fan to provide increased ventilation. There are vent fans designed for installation in an outside wall as well as the ceiling.

One of the five houses that have been completed in the Golfview Estates development on M-59 between Howell and Hartland.

Location is key for Golfview Estates

By Buddy Moorehouse Managing Editor

The three most important words in real estate? Location. location and location.

Conveniently situated on M-59, the new Golfview Estates development in Oceola Township has all three of those words in abundance.

It also has these words: quality, affordability and beauty.

Golfview Estates is located next to to the Ironwood Golf Club, about midway between Howell and Hartland on the north side of M-59. The 22home development broke ground last fall, and thus far. about five houses are up.

"Things have been going really well there," said Bob Rainko of Antek Custom Building; one of the main developing companies Golfview Estates. The location of this neighborhood is what's really helped sell it. It's right off M-59, and we're just a few minutes from I-96 and

Most of the lots in Golfview Estates are three-quarters of an acre, and because it's an open-space community, a lot of land has also been set aside for a neighborhood park. "I'll tell you another thing that's nice about this development," Rainko said. "There are a bunch of walkout sites here. You don't normally find that many walkout sites in a development of this size."

Here are the specifics for Golfview Estates:

· The homes range in size from 1.750 square feet to 2,300 square feet.

The homes range in price from about $190,000 to $239,000.

· Antek Custom Building

has five basic home styles from which to choose, but the builder will work with the buyer to add any custom features.

• In addition to Antek, Culver Builders Inc. is also building homes in the development. • The sites all have well and

Gas stoves help make kitchens more livable

By Anne McCollam Copley News Service

Q. The gas stove in the enclosed picture has been in our family 25 years. It is green and off-white enameled porcelain, and it stands 37 inches high. There are three cast-iron burners, and the top lifts up when in use.

I would appreciate any information you can provide on its age and value.

A. No one would ever call Victorian kitchens efficient or cozy. The large castiron wood-burning stoves were grim and dirty. Kitchens were large and inconvenient. Women weary of the daily drudgery of preparing meals needed a change.

Designers and industrial engineers began focusing on streamlining kitchens. Step-saving colorful kitchens that eliminated fatigue and made cooking easy became the focus. Gas and electric stoves replaced the sooty wood-burning ones. More windows were added to kitchens, letting in light. By the 1920s and 1930s, the homey quality of built-in cupboards, breakfast nooks and brightly colored linoleum brought families into kitchens.

Your gas stove was made around 1930 and its value would probably be about $200.

Q. Can you help me identify my plates and their value? They came from France and each has this mark on the back. The plates are decorated with scenes of men and women in Victorian

ANTICUES SEE

A. Utzschneider and Co. used the mark you provided. It has made porcelain and majolica since the 1770s.

Your plates were made in the early 1900s and each would probably be worth about $100.

Q. I have a Windsor armchair that I would like to know more about. Branded on the bottom of the seat are the words "Bent & Bros. Inc. - 1867 - Gardner.

When was it made and what is it worth?

A. S. Bent and Bros. are listed in "American Cabinetmakers" written by William C. Ketchum Jr., along with the Museum of American Folk Art. From the 1880s to around 1910, it mass produced Colonial Revival Windsor-style chairs.

Your armchair would probably be worth about $250 to $350.

9. I have some questions about my Godey Lady plate. Does the name refer to the style of clothing she is wearing or the

What can you tell me about Godey

A. The ladies you describe are called Godey's Ladies and are seen in prints and on plates. They are reproductions of illustrations from Godev's "Ladies' Book."

It was a publication that featured the latest fashions for ladies. The books were published from 1830 to 1898. In the early 1900s, transfer prints of the ladies were reproduced on dishes in large quantities.

Your plate would probably be worth about $25.

g. I still have a set of the three hand puppets, Snap, Crackle and Pop. I received them in the 1950s when I was a child. Each has a rubber, head and cloth body and is eight inches tall. They are still in great condition.

As I remember, they were a promotion for Kellogg's Rice Krispies. They were inspired by the snap, crackle and pop sounds the cereal makes when milk was poured on it.

Are they collectible?

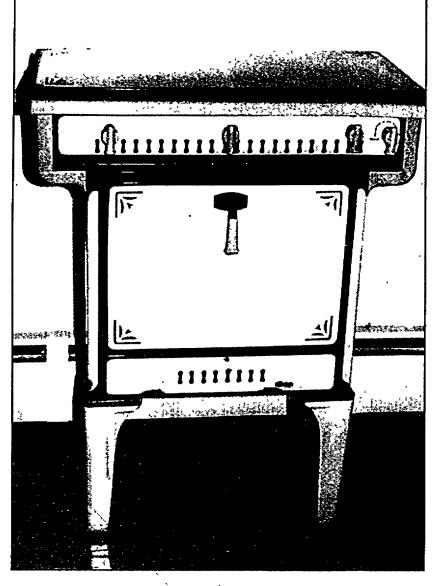

A. Advertising collectors have been known to snap up these cheerful guys at a crackling $35 a pop! Your circa-1950s puppets were introduced by Kellogg in 1933.

U.S. home sales keep on building

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

After writing on real estate news and trends for some 27 years, it's a special pleasure to focus on the current robust market.

Many of those past years were in slump periods, when home buyers and sellers were suffering and brokers were starving. Today, almost everybody is busy and happy.

Sales of existing homes are jumping to record high levels -· higher than the previous optimistic projections of the research folk at the National Association of Realtors. The association reported an annual sales rate increase of 8.7 percent at this point over a year ago.It's now running about 13.1 percent ahead of last year.

The market is phenomenal," said association President Layne Mornll. We had expected demand to stay strong, but this is really exceptional. These incredibly strong numbers reflect a number of factors - a inflation, relatively stable home the knowledge-based economy of prices and robust economic conditions.Buyers now feel comfortable taking that additional step, either to make a first-home purchase or to move up.

New home sales are also blossoming.Builders expect significant growth in sales this year - for the sixth time in seven years. The four metro areas reporting the largest growth in new-home sales are San Diego, Houston, Orlando and Los Angeles, according to a report from Hanley-Wood Inc.

Employers added more than 2.6 million names to payrolls last year the nation's biggest one-year job gain since 1994, the report stated. Encouraged by this and other positive economic trends, lenders generally have been openhanded in their funding of residential construction.

*Clearly, this economy is about as good as it gets," said John Tuccillo, economist for the National Association of Realtors."The speed of change from the manufacturgood employment picture, low ing-based economy of the past to in the world now is in the future is proceeding with little harm to our well-being.

Of course, it's easy to get carried away with all this economic goodwill. Hunting for signs of a downturn or a reversal of fortune in the economy seems to be a challenge of titanic proportions, Tuccillo noted.

While the real estate market in the United States is showing the most dramatic growth, the intermarket is also national thriving. 9. How long will mortgage interest rates continue dropping?

A. Those rates have been dropping almost steadily since they peaked at 8.14 percent a year ago (April 1997). Much of the drop in recent months can be attributed to investors' flight to the safety of U.S. Treasuries as a result of the Asian crisis, according to Jason Altman, senior economist for the Real Estate Outlook publication.Recently, the financial markets (and mortgage rates) seem to have stabilized somewhat, but not before setting off a frenzy of refinancing activity.

Altman noted. 1 As for the future, 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage loans are expected to remain in the 7.0 percent range at least for the next few weeks As the year progresses, a slowing economy, coupled with an extremely favorable inflation outlook, will likely force rates even lower.Long-term rates are expected to drop to the 6.7 range by the third quarter, while 1-year adjustable rates hover between 5.3 and 5.4 percent, Altman predicted.

Q. What should be considered by a corporate employee who has the opportunity for a promotion tied to being relocated to a new community?

A. Many factors should be considered.For example, the employee should compare the cost of homes in his present location compared those in the proposed new community - and compare the general cost of living in both areas. This will help determine whether or not the offered compensation package really justifies the relocation.

according to Runzheimer International, a management consulting

Whether you work for a company that sponsors your relocation, or make an independent move, you should examine living costs in the area to truly understand the full impact, a Runzheimer report noted.And it's not sufficient to take a one-dimensional approach and merely look at housing, one of the. most visible expenses.Local taxes, transportation costs and the cost of ; food, medical-care, recreation, day care and a host of other goods and services should also be part of the

Don't lament over marble, laminate your floors

By Rose Bennett Gilbert Copley News Service

9. I'd really love to do the floors in my entrance, back hallway and kitchen/eating area in a black-and-white marble checkerboard. My European grandmother had marble in her house, and I remember being in love with it from childhood on. The sad thing is that we can't afford real marble, so I'm thinking about a vinyl floor, unless you have something else to recommend.

A. One of the real joys of living in the almost 21st century is modern technology and its cheerfully relentless search for new ways to fill our oldest wishes. In its time, vinyl flooring was exactly that, a less-expensive, hard-working stand-in for natural materials like wood and stone, including marble.

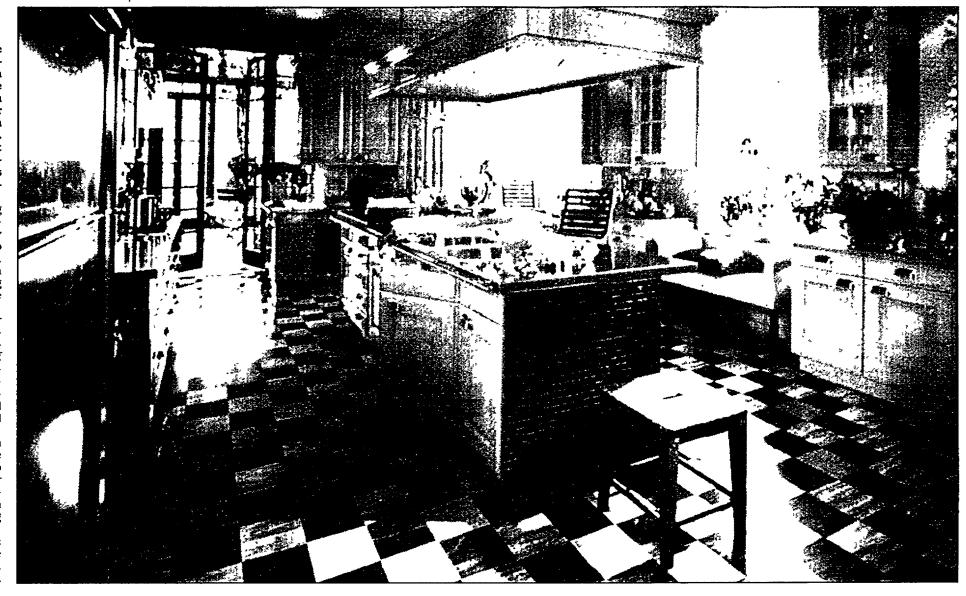

Now there's something newer under the sun - and under America's roofs: laminate flooring. Laminates offer man-made versions of all the naturals, rendered superreal through photography and virtually impervious to such household threats as burns, alcohol spills, furniture dent marks and Europeans have been living with laminates for decades, but they are just beginning what promises to become a major impact on our floors. A number of familiar American manufacturers have jumped on the laminate bandwagon, among them, Wilsonart and Formica.

Meanwhile, Pergo, the Swedish company that created the laminate category, is already into its third decade and celebrating with a number of new designs.

One might turn your head: Pergo's laminate checkerboard floor imitates painted wood, with squares that come in a rich blue and white (or brown and beige). It's a variation on your black-andwhite marble theme, but the price difference - plus the easy care laminates offer - just might cure your love affair with marble.

Q. We have just moved to the East Coast after being Californians for two generations. Both of us are absolutely blown away by New England antiques and artifacts. Every weekend is an expedition to some country auction or antiques mall ... or at least a tag sale or two. This we love! But the problem is, we need some real furniture to live with while we're building our new collection.

Large and lively country-flavored kitchen is based on a laminated floor that pretends to be painted.

If we have to settle for some reproductions, can you suggest a store or manufacturer?

A. Better yet, I can suggest an infallible resource for authentic reproductions: the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities - known as SPNEA - in Boston, Founded in 1910, SPNEA bills itself as a "museum of cultural history," reflecting life in New England from the 17th century on.

Most important to you. SPNEA owns 33 historic properties and more than 100,000 objects in five New England states, many of which it is licensing out for manufacturers to copy. You can buy everything from historically accu-rate wallpapers to the leopard bergere whose original sits in the Ogden Codman house in Lincoln. Mass. (Ogden Jr. was the somewhat underappreciated architect who wrote "The Decoration of Houses" with Edith Wharton, and influenced designer Elsie de Wolfe.

You can join SPNEA, participate in its programs, buy its authorized reproductions and, when you are ready, take a private tour (by appointment) of one of their 10 study properties to see firsthand how things really were done in the good old days. Check it all out at (617) 227-3956.

Q. My wife is having a fit because I don't want her to hang anything over the sofa. I like the empty look. She's a collector, however, and wants every possible space "decorated."

Can you recommend anything to help make peace between this minimalist and his Maxi-Mrs?

A. I can appreciate your pun. but I'm loath to take sides. because above my own sofa that rectangle has been bare for years. I, like your wife, have lots of other spaces decorated to the gills, but I object to all cliches in decorating, including the proverbial painting

We're talking art for art's sake

here, not paintings that match the sofa. Besides, you turn your back on the art every time you sit down. I say put any artworks you love on another wall where you can actually look at them

WHAT'S THE STORY? One decision that homebuyers must make concerns whether they would rather live in one-story or multi-story homes. This is a personal choice that centers on lifestyle considerations and economics. Still, it may interest some buyers and sellers to know here others stand on the subject According to the most recent National Aletta Holmes Association of Home Builders (NAHB) survey based on data collected from nine geographic regions, the majority of consumers prefer living in two-story homes (49%).

nother report by the Census Bureau shows that between 1971 and 1996, the share of single-family one-story homes completed eclined from 73% to 49%, while the share of two-story dwellings built rose from 17% to 47% In choosing a particular style of home, there are many vanables to consider. A professional Realtor knows all the pros and consict various home designs and can greatly assist a first time buyer in many ways. "My daughter, Regina, suffered a cerebral aneurysm. She was 35 years old at the time. There was nothing the doctors could do. We had discussed organ and tissue donation together as a family and Regina told us she wanted to become a donor. I miss Regina very much, but every day I find comfort in knowing I did what she wanted."

DONATION

Share your life. Share your decision.8

Coalition on Donation

Here's the fact:

more than two-thirds of all women on welfare have recent work experience. They also have the determination to provide stable futures for their families. With new welfare reform laws, many have already proven this by re-emerging into the work force as productive, loyal, and even model employees. Many more would like their chance. To learn how your company can benefit by hiring someone who truly wants to work, call

The Welfare to Work Partnership at 1-888-USA-JOB1. Or visit us at www.welfaretowork.org.

Joanie's Coneys serves up lunch

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI

Tired of the brown bag? Are you in a rut for lunch? If you're craving something that tastes more like homemade food, Joanie's Coneys in New Hudson would like to serve you up a hot breakfast or lunch.

And if you don't have a lot of time, that's okay, too. You don't need a drive through to be fast.

"Everyone knows they can go to a coney and get a good sandwich or soup or breakfast. And they know it's going to be quick," owner Joanie Dobrik said.

She aims to give good food at a good price with quick service.

A look inside her diner gives you that warm and cozy feeling. The interior was completely redesigned into a bright, clean '50s motif in black, white and red. She started with a new menu, and a totally new look with totally new colors.

"My goal is to keep my customers happy, offer certain special-ties and to always keep busy, she What's popular for lunch? She sells lots of coneys and burgers. Gyros are another item she offers that you don't find just anywhere.

And what's better than a hot bowl of soup on a chilly day? It's one of the restaurant's more popular items. She favors the northern bean, and serves a lot of vegetable beef and chicken dumpling also. The fish and chips have been a popular menu item on Friday. It was a hit. We had to keep two of us going. (cooking) We served dipped cod with fries and coleslaw Good food starts with good ingredients, said the cook. She uses Dearborn spiral sliced ham in Dobrik brought her years of experience with her to produce the kind of food and service she thinks a restaurant should deliver.

"If it looks good, it tastes good ... It's a matter of having the right thing and keeping things organized. That way you make sure it stays fresh.

She admits that she's a fanatic when it comes to neatness.

For centuries, hardy American oak has been the cabinetmaker's choice for craftsmanship of enduring beauty.

Oak Traditions combines the beauty of this most valued of wood species with American traditional design elements.

- The classic burnished oak finish is subtly hand distressed to lend a much appreciated time worn appearance.
- Generously scaled tops and undertop mouldings on occasional and case pieces.
- Fancy inlays of hand selected oak veneers.
- Relief carving motif on base rails.
- Premium Accuride® extension guides, used on many of the doors and drawers of home office collection items, offer smooth opening and closing and superb weight bearing capability.

Announcing the Grand Opening of the CHAPEL OF PRAYER

At Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens

Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens has been serving Oakland County families since 1929. Families have learned to trust us with their most important decisions... The final resting place for their loved ones.

One of life's most difficult decisions should be made now - before the time of need while husband and wife are able to consult together calmly, and decide sensibly what would be best for all. If this obligation is faced before need, there is time to compare and consider the facts.

Above ground burial saves all of these costs:

- Cost of Cemetery Lots
- Cost of Interment
- Extra cost of Vaults
- Extra Cost of Family Monument

If you currently own cemetery lots and would now prefer mausoleum crypts, there is a trade-in policy available.

Get all the facts by mailing the attached (postage paid) post card today.

New Chapel of Prayer

...The very finest preferred above ground entombment, the New Chapel of Prayer, overlooking the lake, at a cost which compares favorably with ground burial...In many instances even less. Many families have already reserved their crypts in this building .It costs you nothing to get the facts! WHY WAIT!

Look Inside for Sports Medicine Information!

WE'RE PART OF YOUR COMMUNITY

What is Sports Medicine?

We hear about athletic or sports injuries on television and radio, see advertisements for "Sports Medicine" services and products during the half-time of a football game and we have all seen the concern and fury of activity that surrounds the superstar athlete when he or she is injured. But, what is this thing called "Sports Medicine"?

Sports Medicine is the field of medicine dedicated to the care of the athletic or active population. It began with a group of health care professionals, including physicians, athletic trainers, and physical therapists, all with a common interest in sports and in caring for those individuals suffering sickness or injury while pursuing their favorite pastime. Their knowledge grew out of experience treating the problems that they began to recognize as common to a particular sport or activity. Since the field was so new, however, there was no wealth of research-based medical knowledge available to them to direct their treatment.

From these pioneer efforts grew the foundation of what was to become a popular and much needed discipline. Today, Sports Medicine services are provided in a wide variety of settings by an increasing number of providers. Often, a physician's office or physical therapy center serves as a site for the treatment and evaluation of sports related injuries. Some practices are affiliated with a hospital or university, and may have affiliations with local sports clubs or teams. Recently, professional organizations have begun to recognize individuals with expertise in Sports Medicine through a certification process, allowing the public to better evaluate the variety of programs available.

Providence Athletic Medicine is a hospital-based provider of Sports Medicine services to the surrounding communities. Staffed by a multidisciplinary team, including fellowship-trained Family Physicians, Orthopedic Surgeons, Certified Athletic Trainers, Physical Therapists, and Nutritionists, Providence Athletic Medicine located at Providence Park in Novi and at Providence Medical Center in Farmington Hills is dedicated to providing the highest quality services to an athlete or active individual.

Utilizing the expertise of its providers, and their access to advanced physical therapy, diagnostic and surgical facilities, Providence Athletic Medicine is able to address the wide and varying needs of active and athletic community members. Sports Medicine physicians diagnose and treat sports related injuries and illnesses. On-site athletic trainers are available to provide home exercise programs and educate athletes on their safe return to sports participation and proper exercise technique. Physical therapists take the athlete through rehabilitation in a safe and timely manner. Nutritionists are available to provide counseling and specific recommendations to achieve an athletes particular goals. A leading cardiac program, including exercise physiologists, can provide exercise testing and prescription with the assistance of the medical staff. All of these specially trained professionals work together to assure that the athlete or active individual is able to perform their chosen activity in a safe and effective manner, focusing on prevention, early detection and treatment of injury or illness.

Aside from providing traditional office-based services, the Providence Athletic Medicine program can provide access to physician directed weight loss and cardiac risk altering programs, team and mass event coverage, and community education initiatives. For further information about the services provided by Providence Athletic Medicine, please call 248-380-4782.

See pages 6-7 for special programs offered by Athletic Medicine.

This time of year brings thoughts of outdoor activities and certainly one of our favorite pastimes - sports. Two popular sports that can cause troublesome sport injuries for athletes even in the best of shape are tennis and golf. Lateral epicondylities, or tennis elbow as it is more commonly known, is an inflammation of the muscles and tendons that extend the wrist. Sufferers complain of pain over the outside of the elbow especially when lifting, such as picking up a carton of milk. It commonly occurs in movements practiced by tennis players, carpenters, or any one that repetitively extends their wrist. Medial epicondylitis, or golfers elbow, is an inflammation of the muscles and tendons that flex the wrist. Pain is noted over the inside of the elbow and is commonly found in golfers or anyone that repetitively flexes their wrist. Tennis and golfers elbow are treated with several measures to try to return the athlete back to regular activity including rest from the offending activity, ice applications for 20 minutes for the first few days, compression with a wrap or a counterforce brace, heat applications for 10-15 minutes, etc. If some of these treatments don't alleviate the problem then a trial of physical therapy or a cortisone injection should be tried. In rare cases, surgery is necessary to treat the tendinitis. If you think you suffer from tennis or golfers elbow, contact your physician or the Providence Physician Referral Service at 1-800-968-5595 to schedule an appointment with a Providence Sports Medicine specialist.
