

Amerman set to face tough start to new year

By WENDSY WHITE
Staff Writer

With the first day of class approaching fast, Amerman Elementary School is a mess of displaced furniture, construction dust and exposed floor and wall structures.

Renovations at the school were delayed after high costs forced school officials to rebid some of the projects, which include expansion of administrative offices, window replacements and resurfacing of the gym floor.

lobby, and crews continuing to work on the site well into the year.

The construction noise and disarray has some parents worried.

"Many families are out of town and expect to come home to a beautiful new building. It's not going to happen," said Amerman PTA president Cindy Thompson.

Thompson said after many parents approached her with concerns, she set up a meeting with Amerman principal Dr. Stephen Anderson and Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services, to get some answers.

"The children's safety is what we're concerned about and that's what we're here for," Thompson said. "We had a list of concerns and we went down them one by one and walked through the school. It was a very positive meeting."

Thompson said parents and admin-

Adam Jones, a 17-year-old Northville High School student has big plans for the year 2024. That's when the Novi teen plans to capture the presidency. Jones has already begun campaigning for the office on his Internet web site.

High hopes

Adam Jones sets sights on America's highest office

He's not even old enough to vote, but one Novi resident and Northville High School student is so devoted to politics he's already made it a career.

And he's shooting for America's highest office.

Adam Jones, 17, is running for president in the year 2024, and he's already begun an Internet campaign.

"When he first said that when he was in Kindergarten, we said 'yeah right,' but seeing some of the things he's pulled off, I wouldn't put it past him. He has exceeded some of my wildest expectations," said his mother, Cheryl Jones.

"I remember one day I was doing the dishes and the phone rang and someone said 'Hello, this is Senator Dole's office, we're calling to speak to Adam Jones.' I thought, 'What is going on here?'"

It turned out Dole's assistant was calling to set up an appointment for Dole and Jones to meet.

The moment was captured on film, and now hangs on the wall of the home office Jones' has had since he was a child. The wall is plastered with snapshots of him shaking hands with congressmen and senators from across the country.

Through letter writing, phone calls and sheer persistence, he's met so many politicians that he has to remove old photos to tuck up the latest shots.

The mild mannered teen's quest for the oval office began when he entered a "When I Grow Up" speech contest as a fifth grader at Moraine Elementary School.

He won first place with his description of what he would do as President of the United States.

"The more I looked into it the more I thought politics was a way to change the world, as idealistic as that seems," Jones said. "It sounded like a great career path and my interest just blossomed from there."

He has since won state titles on the high school forensics team, and has built a two-page resume full of school involvement, leadership conferences and work on the campaigns of Dole, Gov. John Engler, Sen. Spencer Abraham, Sen. Bob Geake and others.

This year, he'll serve as a page in the United States Congress beginning in the fall.

His junior year will consist of morning classes in the Library of Congress and afternoons on the Senate or House floor, delivering bills or perhaps ringing the bell for votes.

He applied for the post through congressman Joe Knollenberg, and out of more than 400 applications, his was one of 60 approved by Sen. Newt Gingrich.

Not only is the education free, Jones will get paid $1,100 a month for the work.

Workers from the Northville Township and Wayne County water authorities, work on repairing a broken water main on Sheldon Road between Seven and Six Mile Road last week. As of Tuesday morning, the road was still closed to all but local traffic.

Broken water main causes flooding

Traffic affected on Sheldon Road as workers make repairs to water line

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Workers from Wayne County and the city of Detroit were continuing repairs Friday to a damaged two-foot water main along Sheldon Road.

The damaged line flooded Sheldon Road causing public safety officials to close the road to vehicular traffic.

Township public services director Don Weaver said the damage was caused when a contracting group installing sanitary sewer service punctured the main with boring equipment. Weaver said the contractor had been hired by a resident living on the west side of Sheldon Road.

MissDig, a public service designated to provide information to avoid hitting utility lines, had been contacted prior to the boring of the soil, Weaver said. However, Weaver stressed that MissDig — contrary to widely-held belief — does not storehouse utility line information. Instead, Weaver said, the agency acts as a liaison between the builder and the utility companies, and asks the utility providers to provide their own data on the location of lines.

The sanitary sewer line was being dug between Six and Seven Mile Roads, opposite the Ravines subdivision.

In this case, Weaver said all the utility companies came out to the work site to mark the location of their lines, except for the Detroit Water Department.

Weaver said only the linear location of the lines is marked by the utility companies summoned by MissDig. Determining the depth of the lines is the responsibility of the party doing the digging, Weaver said.

Within minutes of hitting the line, authorities from the city of Detroit, Wayne County and the Northville Township police department were contacted. Police were needed to shut down access to the road, as the leaking water posed a danger to weaken the soil under the road substantially enough to buckle under the weight of a passing car.

Township water director Randy Tillman said it didn't take long to figure out that a line had been struck.

"We could hear the line making some noise under the ground," Tillman said.

Tillman also said the repair crews responded in great numbers. At one point, Tillman said around 30 vehicles gathered near the site of the burst.

Subsequent reconstruction of the break required workers to dig out a portion of road

Residents seek relief from wild dog attacks

By WENDSY WHITE
Staff Writer

Residents in the area of Beck and Eight Mile roads want to know when the killing will stop.

Within the past year-and-a-half wild dogs have been blamed for the deaths of two pigs, four piglets, sheep, pregnant ewes, deer, a goat, geese and ducks. Despite the growing number of animal deaths, residents in this normally quiet and peaceful area of Northville Township and Novi are frustrated that the dogs, described as a beagle and a shepherd/husky type mix, haven't been stopped.

Oakland County Animal Control officials claim they can't identify the owner of the dogs, and Northville Township police officials say the case is still under investigation.

At the center of the controversy is James Zayti, a Novi resident, who claims he's being unfairly suspected.

And all the while, the mysterious animal killings continue.

"The possible owners of the dogs do live in our jurisdiction. We talked to the owners that were accused in this case. They denied it," said Deputy Jerry McNair, of the Oakland County Animal Control Department. "This isn't the first killing in this particular area. These people are being accused every time a killing has taken place."

McNair said that although eye-witnesses claim to have seen the dogs running away from killed livestock, they didn't actually see the killing take place.

"The thing that puzzles me, the amount of killing in this area, why hasn't anyone seen (it happen)," McNair said. "Somehow word has gotten out that (Zayti) owns those type of animals, so anytime something happens they get the finger pointed at them."

McNair has received reports that

Our unofficial count is 20 animal deaths. When does the killing stop? We believe it is time for officials to take action. See our editorial on 16A.

the shepherd seen running with a beagle is different from a husky type dog seen at Zayti's house. He said the dogs are wild and he is patrolling the area daily in an effort to find them.

"I'm grasping at straws trying to come up with clues, trying to come up with answers," McNair said. "If it is these dogs, maybe I'll see them. I don't know if we have the right people or not."

However the victim of the latest incident said the dogs are owned by Zayti and he has seen them in the Novi resident's yard since the latest attack.

On July 3, John Beemer, the resident farmer at Maybury State Park, was awakened by the sound of his Saint Bernard barking in the Local newspapers sponsor job fair

In an exploding economy, one problem persists for employers: a shortage of quality employees.

HomeTown and Observer and Eccentric newspapers hope to help solve that dilemma. The news companies — HomeTown owns the Novi News and The Northville Record — are sponsoring a Job Fair on Sept. 23 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The fair will include recruiters from various types of businesses: retail, manufacturing, engineering, professional, health care, trades, financial, office-clerical, organizational and more.

Home classified ad manager Grace Perry said recruiters are being sought to fill booths at the fair. About 50 are needed. Perry said about half the booths are already reserved.

"We're trying to meet demands of retailers from manufacturing to health care, to generate leads they need to have good, quality people," said Perry, who's on the committee organizing the event.

Perry said they tried to keep the cost of getting a booth low so all businesses could participate — even small companies that are also having trouble finding good workers.

In addition to a booth and free lunch for two employees, recruiters also get a quarter-page ad in the Job Fair tab that will have a circulation of about 250,000 and inclusion on a web site touting the fair and in all HomeTown and Observer and Eccentric newspapers fair advertising.

Perry pointed at Livingston and western Oakland counties as the fastest growing area of the state as proof the fair is needed.

"(Employers) can't afford not to be in it if they need help," she said. "I think it's something we really need."

Deadline for recruiters to sign up is Monday, Aug. 31. Call the HomeTown classified advertising department at 1-888-999-1288 to reserve a booth or for more information.

Host families sought in Northville area

David from Madrid, Spain, and Joao from Campinas, Brazil, are looking forward to spending the 1998-99 school year in suburban Detroit. Several area high schools have agreed to accept these two students. However, a local family must be found to host each boy before his year in America can begin.

David will be 17 when he arrives here in late August. He has been playing tennis since age 5. David also enjoys playing soccer. He is very strong academically and is looking forward to the challenge of spending his senior year in America. David is active in the Catholic church and regards his trip to Paris to see the Pope as one of his life's highlights. David is a sociable boy who enjoys going to the movies with his many friends and two younger brothers. David is eager to find many new friends in Michigan.

Joao is an outgoing and friendly 16-year-old who loves sports, especially soccer and basketball. He also has fun camping with the Boy Scouts. He plays the guitar, sings and enjoys listening to all kinds of music. Joao's hobbies are computers, cooking, and indoor games. His mother is a librarian, his father is a journalist, and he has a huge extended family. He has a great relationship with his younger brother with whom he shares a room.

Both David and Joao are sponsored by the Program for Academic Exchange, which will provide full medical insurance and money for personal expenses.

Lynne Levenbach of Plymouth is coordinating the search for families for David and Joao. She also has applications from additional boys and girls from about 20 different countries (including mainland China) who are eager to come to America for a year.

All families, with or without children, with any interest in hosting a high school foreign exchange student are encouraged to call. For more information, contact Lynne Levenbach at (734) 453-8562 or (734) 453-6851.

Center Street paving delayed

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The long-awaited Center Street reconstruction project is likely not to be completed this year because of difficulties in hiring quotas, city public works director Jim Gallogly said Friday.

The head contractor, Peter Basil & Sons of Livonia, agreed to undertake the mile-long project earlier this summer at a cost of $1.7 million. Because of the dollar amount involved, city leaders opted to seek state and federal funding for the project to help offset the cost.

However, Gallogly said that by accepting federal money, the contractor was required to subscribe to a hiring requirement, which mandated that approximately 15 percent of the subcontractors hired for the work come from minority or disadvantaged contracting companies.

Despite the best efforts, Gallogly said Basil representatives were only able to secure around 7 percent minority involvement. Realizing that to be the case, Gallogly said Basil and the state of Michigan have reached a special agreement which will permit construction to commence without the 15 percent quota in place.

Regardless of the socioeconomic make-up of the subcontractors, Gallogly said the month spent by Basil seeking minority involvement translated into 30 days of construction time lost. As a result, Gallogly said Center Street will be rebuilt, but would likely have only the portion from Seven Mile to Dunlap Streets completed in 1998.

"The worst thing we could do now is to tear up the road and then get caught having people drive over bare gravel in the middle of December," Gallogly said. "We're better off doing what we can now while we have some decent work weather remaining and tackling the rest in April of 1999."

Gallogly said the city would have to juggle scheduling of the first phase of the work with the upcoming Victorian Festival. Still, Gallogly said he hoped to have construction begin by the end of August.

The city had originally hoped to have the project begun sometime in early May. However, Northville's desire to use outside funding sources meant being required to have the engineering plans for the road drawn to specifications laid out by the Michigan Department of Transportation, and also having the project bid out by MDOT — two more stumbling blocks to progress.

As planned, the Center Street project would involve tearing up the existing asphalt, laying in new curbs and gutters, reconfiguring the northern portion near Eight Mile and laying new surface material.

The portion of Center north of Eight Mile Road to the West Northville/Novi city line was completed late in 1997.

TIRES, BY THE NUMBERS

The string of numbers and letters on the sidewall of automobile tires contains a good deal of information. The alpha-numeric string on the tire of the typical family sedan will likely begin with the letter "P," which stands for passenger car. After that, there is a number such as 215, which is the width of the tire in millimeters. A slash, followed by the tire's "aspect ratio," is the ratio of the tire's height to width, expressed as a percentage. The lower the aspect ratio, the lower the sidewall of the tire and the quicker its steering response. Since most tires are radials, an "R" then follows, after which there is a number such as 15. This is the diameter of the wheel in inches. This is almost all the information needed to find replacement tires.

MARTY FELDMAN CHEVROLET can take the mystery out of selecting the right replacement tires for your vehicle. Animal Control officials continue investigation middle of the night.

As he investigated, he said he saw a beagle and shepherd type dog run from the pasture, where four sheep lay injured. Three of them died or were put to sleep after the attack and one more is recovering.

He said he knows Zayti, who put a dog to sleep last year after Beemer discovered it worrying a flock of sheep in their pen.

"We've lost somewhere between eight and 10 sheep in the last two years," Beemer said. "I know which dogs they are and I know which they are. We don't want this to continue. I do not tolerate dogs that kill animals. They're getting to the point where they do it just for sport."

Zayti said he has been wrongfully targeted as being the owner of the wild dogs.

"I don't own any dogs," he said. "I believe there's a little bit of a coyote thing here. This is really getting to me because I'm being blamed for everything here and I don't think it's right. The last killing, the dogs that I had were locked up."

He said he merely feeds a beagle that strays into his yard from time to time, but doesn't know who owns it because it doesn't have any tags.

Although he said he is opposed to tying his dogs up, he does have a large white fence around his yard.

"They could jump over if they want to but they don't," Zayti said. "I've been in the country all this time and don't tie my dogs. I won't."

If they want to come after me they can come after me."

Zayti said he called a vet after a beagle and shepherd injured three deer at Maybury last year.

"My dogs were responsible for hitting three sheep at the pet farm but that morning I was up there taking care of it," he said.

Because of the pet farm incident, he said he put a dog to sleep.

"Believe me, I don't want my dogs killing anybody or anything. My dogs haven't done anything since then."

Lt. Ron Leake of Oakland County Animal Control confirmed that Zayti currently doesn't have any dogs registered to him.

In order to help Northville Township, which handles its own animal control, Leake said he would furnish live traps to catch the dogs without hurting them.

Although it is legal in Michigan for people to shoot dogs that kill or worry their livestock, he said that's an unlikely solution in Northville and Novi.

"They couldn't shoot them because there's too many houses and it's too populated around there," Leake said.

Oakland County Animal Control can only take action if someone sees the animals during an attack, a fact that doesn't sit well with Margaret Schmidt, a Novi resident who said she lost two sheep to the beagle and the shepherd in May.

Schmidt said she was awakened one night by a whining sound and found the sheep virtually torn apart.

It took Animal Control officials hours to get from their base in Pontiac to her small farm at Eight Mile and Wixom roads.

The next night, she heard the same whining and saw the beagle and shepherd.

"The big one beagle jumped our fence and the beagle just found a way out," Schmidt said.

She had borrowed the lambs from a friend to use in traveling educational programs at area schools.

"It was terrible. I had been bottle feeding them for two months," she said. "I'm angry because it's still continuing. This law that (someone) has to see it happening and can't take the word of other people, I think it stinks. It's not effective. What animal control officer is going to be in your backyard to see it happen?"

Canines of America reports that chasing and killing prey for food is a predisposed behavior in dogs.

The instinct surfaces if they are mismanaged by their owners or not managed at all.

According to the organization, predatory aggression can be directed toward small animals or children.

Although Schmidt and other residents said they are concerned that the dogs may sometime harm a child, they are reluctant to name the owners they suspect.

"If this were a child I would name names but I don't think I'm willing to do that over an animal," she said.

POOLED RESOURCES

For some time now, physical therapists have recognized the value of water as an ideal exercise medium. Those who exercise or undergo rehabilitation in pools find that water is both gentle and demanding. On one hand, it displaces the body's weight to eliminate stress on joints, and it provides a cushion against injury. On the other hand, water creates twelve times more resistance than air. Thus, it takes substantially more energy to perform a movement in water than it does on land. These factors enable those with arthritis, paralysis, fractured bones, and torn tendons to exercise sooner, and recover more quickly, than would be possible if they were exercising on land.

At NOVACARE, we specialize in therapeutic evaluation and treatment plans for musculoskeletal and neurological problems. Personal attention is given to each patient, and to promote recovery in the best ways possible, all the equipment at our facility is state-of-the-art. WHAT ABOUT WARTS?

It's often the little things in life that get you down. Take plantar warts. These hardened reddish "dots" that sometimes appear on the soles (plantar area) of the foot can be painful and even disabling, affecting a person's ability to walk. Plantar warts must be diagnosed and treated professionally. If the growth is in fact a wart, they can spread very fast and become very painful and cosmetically unacceptable. Warts can be treated with lasers, which we have in our office, strong acids which cannot be purchased in a store, curettage and freezing. These procedures are often done quickly and virtually painlessly in the doctor's office with the patient able to resume normal activities immediately after.

Do you have a nasty foot problem like warts? Don't hide behind these five dangerous words - maybe it will go away. Feet are vulnerable and prone to complaints, but most problems don't just disappear on their own. Your podiatrist can treat them effectively with medication, surgery, or other, less invasive procedures such as exercise or orthotics. Don't take your feet for granted - call us at FOOT HEALTH CENTERS For Total Foot and Ankle Care, for a free exam and consultation.

P.S. Because plantar warts are caused by a virus, they may appear in groups and can recur from time to time.

Northville mourns death of former fire chief

By WENDSY WHITE
Staff Writer

Every time you drink from the famous artesian well on Northville Road, think of Bud Hartner. He's the one who dug it.

And as the Superintendent of Northville's Department of Public Works, he also laid many of the water main pipes and sidewalks around town.

Ever since his family moved to Northville when he was three years old in 1920, Herman "Bud" Hartner Jr. grew with the town.

And without ever graduating from Northville High School's old location on Main Street, Hartner built two careers in public service and remained in Northville until the day he died.

That day was August 14, 1998.

At 80 years of age, after strokes had left his left arm paralyzed and illnesses had left him in pain, Hartner had a massive heart attack at his Randolph Street home around 1 p.m.

He was pronounced dead at Providence Medical Center in Novi soon after arrival.

His daughter, Gail LeVan, lamented the history that slipped away with him.

"That's what we said was the greatest shame. There was so much information in his head that's gone now. He knew every street, every house. He had so many memories," LeVan said.

Among them the mischief of throwing apples against the tin roof of an old man's house in Cabbage Town with the Cabbage Town and Beal Town Gangs of the day.

Or driving through downtown streets in the yellow public works truck emblazoned with the Village of Northville logo for 32 years.

Or the time he fell through the ice on a road grader, when he tried to clear an ice rink on Mill Race Pond a bit too early in the season.

Hartner grew up in a home on Main Street that was removed when the city cut Griswold Street at the site that's now a credit union.

It was moved to the Mill Race Historical Village where it is now known as the Hunter House, an example of modest living that docents compare to the more extravagant Yerke Mansion.

He married Marguerite Norton in 1937 and although the two enjoyed dancing at the Walled Lake Dance Pavilion throughout the big band era, the couple became estranged in later years, according to the family.

Together, they had two children, Gail LeVan of Northville and David Hartner of DeWitt, Michigan.

During his life, Hartner served as a volunteer firefighter, and became chief of the city's fire department in 1964, a post he served for 14 years.

During his tenure, he trained the firefighters to serve as professionals, ushering in the full-time department Northville enjoys today.

"That was his greatest love. He just loved putting out fires and helping people," LeVan said. Current fire chief James Allen, who succeeded Hartner, remembered him as a hard working, honest man and a fair boss.

"He never asked you to do anything he wouldn't do himself. He was almost like a second father to me," Allen said. "He'll be sadly missed by many."

Hartner, a history buff and family man, suffered deeply the death of his sister Ethel, who passed away last year leaving her Horton Street home empty to this day.

Although his health waned in his last days, LeVan said her father never failed to comment on the beauty of the day.

Two weeks before his death he enjoyed a holiday with family members at his property on Intermediate Lake in Central Lake, Mich.

Forty years ago, LeVan said, Hartner bought the wooded lake-front property, cleared the trees himself and then tore down a building at Dunlap and Center board by board and used the materials to build a vacation home by hand.

Although he later had a more permanent home built on the site, his relatives said they wish to preserve the original structure in his memory.

Hartner is survived by his wife and brother Ray Hartner of Northville, son David Hartner and daughter Gail LeVan.

He was a grandfather to eight, including Tim, Terry, Tom, Kris, Kim and Ted Hartner and Daniel and Andrew LeVan, and 15 great grandchildren.

LeVan said Hartner left his grandchildren with the gift of taking apart and building anything, or at least not being afraid to try.

"Until the day he died he was still trying to work on his tractors. He lived for his grandchildren and a sense of humor," LeVan said. "Everyone was okay with him and he just wanted everyone to be happy. He believed you should be kind to everyone and that everything has a humorous side. That's what really describes my dad and that's how all the old people remembered him. I will live my life till the day I die the way he taught me. He was the kindest man."

A vintage fire engine led Hartner's funeral procession August 18 from a service at Our Lady of Victory Church, where he was a member, to his interment at Rural Hill Cemetery.

The family asked that gifts be sent to the City of Northville Fire Department Memorial.

Police station renovations promote access, aesthetics

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The second major phase of renovations to Northville's municipal building were completed earlier this month, allowing the city's police department to return to the lower level of the building at 215 W. Main Street.

Police chief Jim Petres said he was pleased about finally having his office back.

"The temporary office wasn't too bad, really," Petres said. "Obviously, we like this new place much better, but for six or eight weeks, we made out pretty well."

Since early November, workers have been making $1.7 million in renovations to the 30-year-old facility to bring it in step with guidelines set forth in the Americans With Disabilities Act.

For now, the main entrance to the police station comes from a door which opens up onto a police fleet parking lot off of Wing Street. The police dispatch center has been opened up with new windows to allow dispatchers a more complete view of people in the space.

The detective bureau and records division of the police station has been placed on the north side of the police alcove. Prior to renovations, Petres said moving between the dispatch center and detective bureau was difficult.

"This new alignment lets our records people see what's happening over in the dispatch area and vice-versa," Petres said.

Sergeants on the force have been given new workspace, while all officers will be able to take advantage of renovations to the locker room space.

Petres' office is in the same location as the old one, though it, too has been renovated and stocked with new furniture. Petres' office opens up into a kitchenette and break room.

"Beforehand, we'd sometimes have to run around to one of the other locations in the building to get water or ice, but with the sink in place, we don't need to do that anymore," he said.

Also for convenience sake — staff bathrooms have been placed in the center of the police station, a very short walk from the dispatch room.

Special safeguards have been put in place to ensure the separation of prisoners from the police staff. Petres said special security doors have been installed to segregate holding cells from the main police area. The original cells have stayed as they were.

A video arraignment room, made possible with funds made available by the city's insurance carrier, has also been completed. Petres said a few bugs in the circuitry and wiring need to be worked out before the system becomes completely operative.

"We're going to be using this room to our advantage," Petres said. "There are those times when you don't have all the manpower you need to take people to court for arraignment, so this is going to be a big plus for us."

The upper level of the facility was completed in early June, which permitted city staff and various city departments to be housed in the upper level of the building. An additional truck bay and showering facilities were added for the fire department, which sits on the west side of the building.

The city is shooting for Labor Day weekend as the time when the final phase of renovations in the building are completed. Those renovations will convert space in the lower level into meeting and conference rooms and storage space.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

by John Goodman
Coldwell Banker Preferred

WHEN WE REALLY GO TO WORK

First, the willing and able buyers show up with an offer on your home, and then the negotiations begin, hopefully culminating in a meeting of the minds. The Realtor cannot just sit back and relax at this point because the "glue" that holds each transaction together often seems formulated to self-destruct and fly apart.

We hope there are no surprises during the home and also the termite inspections. Then we hold our breath and pray that the appraiser thinks the house is worth as much as the buyer and seller do. As the buyers make their loan application, we cross our fingers that the credit report reveals they are compulsive early bill payers. Rarely is a transaction completed without a few problems. A Realtor's professional skills come into play primarily during the time between contract ratification and the closing. At this point, we use our creativity, patience and negotiating skills to give your sale a happy ending.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact John Goodman, one of the top 9 sales agents internationally out of 60,000 Coldwell Banker agents for 1994, 1995, 1996, and 1997. Call 810-908-2799.

Tent spike in tire latest vandalism to resident's truck

A 52-year-old Taft Road resident found a miniature wooden tent spike pounded into the driver's side rear tire of his Ford Windstar, according to police. He reported that the damage, estimated at $85, was done sometime overnight on August 16. He also told police it was the latest in a rash of suspicious incidents.

In the past month, he has had several flats to the vehicle and he told police someone recently loosened the lug nuts on one wheel causing him to nearly lose it on the expressway, he told police.

The man reported that his family hadn't received any threats and that he had no idea who might have done it.

RECORD RECORD: Speeding 39 mph in a 25 zone on Main Street was just the latest in a string of traffic violation committed by a 29-year-old Northville man, police found.

After pulling him over for the offense, they discovered that his license was revoked as a result of a three page driving record beginning with an accident in Lansing in 1989.

Also detailed were speeding and signal violations, a drunk driving charge and two unlawful body alcohol content charges, among others.

Northville police impounded the man's car, arrested him and charged him with a misdemeanor for driving without a license.

Getting away with merely a warning for the original speeding, he was released on $100 bond.

SUSPENDED LICENSE: A Royal Oak 32-year-old was cited for a misdemeanor for driving with a suspended license and a civil infraction for running a red light around 12:30 a.m. on August 16.

Police Reports

Police pulled him over after he first blew through the yellow light at Eight Mile Road and Randolph and then ran the red light at Eight Mile Road and Taft.

The man told police he thought the light was yellow, but he was nonetheless arrested and taken into the station where he was released on a $100 bond.

His driving record showed three license suspensions out of Standish, Troy and Woodhaven, Michigan.

STOLEN VEHICLE: Northville police assisted the Plymouth Police Department in recovering a stolen vehicle just after midnight on August 12. Plymouth police called to report that a Chevy Beretta that had been reported stolen had been traced to a residence on the 400-block of Gardner Street.

When Northville police drove by, the car wasn't in the driveway, but it coincidentally passed them on the road.

Police arrested the 17-year-old driver and resident of the home and held him in custody until the Plymouth police picked him up.

NO SOLICITING: A 22-year-old Yuma, Ariz. resident was arrested for soliciting in downtown Northville without a permit. A resident on the 21000-block of Chig-widden Drive called police to report that a salesperson was peddling magazines.

Upon finding the salesperson sitting on a neighboring porch and talking with another resident, they questioned whether he had a permit. He didn't know what city he was in and said he hadn't obtained a permit.

His boss, representing Total Dedication, Inc. out of Michigan City, Ind., had no idea.

The salesperson was charged with a misdemeanor and then released to round up the sales team and head out of town.

GREEN LIQUID: A 76-year-old resident called police to his home on the 46000 block of Dunsany Road after he reportedly heard explosions in his front lawn around 6 p.m. on August 11. The next morning he had awakened to find three plastic beverage bottles in his yard.

One had exploded and the other two were filled with an unidentified green liquid.

Police assisted the man in dumping the substance. There are no suspects or witnesses to the mischief.

AMERMAN VANDALISM: A window at the elementary school at Eight Mile Road and Center Street was broken sometime overnight on August 10, according to police. The damage was estimated at $50.

TOWNSHIP POLICE REPORTS

UPLOADED: Two unidentified black males estimated to be in their mid-30s eluded Computer City store security but left behind $4,500 in computer equipment the afternoon of Aug. 13.

Township police reports said the first man went to the back of the store and loaded a pair of Compaq Presario computers onto a flatbed cart. The second approached the sales counter and struck up a conversation with a sales clerk, in a manner the report indicated was diversionary in nature.

As the man with the computers neared the store exit, an employee called out for the man to stop, at which time the conversationalist joined his companion in jogging out the door.

The employee grabbed hold of the cart, which sent the two computers falling to the ground. The men then ran to a waiting 1998 Plymouth Voyager, which police later learned was a rental vehicle.

The first man was described as being 6 feet 4 inches tall, 190 pounds, with black hair, brown eyes and a medium complexion. He was last seen wearing black pants and a white T-shirt.

His companion was described as being around 6 feet 1 inch tall, 230 pounds with black hair, brown eyes and a stocky build. He was wearing dark pants and a gray polo shirt when he was spotted by store security.

FAST MONEY: Thieves who allegedly stole a wallet containing a credit card made purchases totaling $3,500 in the four hours the card's location was unknown.

The owner of the wallet, a 67-year-old Livonia woman, told police she had left the wallet in her shopping cart at Meijer around 4 p.m. Aug. 15. At some point during her shopping, the wallet disappeared.

The card issuer was contacted to cancel the card, at which time a company representative told the woman the charges had been made.

MUSICAL MEN: Meijer store security questioned two Garden City men Aug. 16 after they were spotted concealing compact discs and leaving the store without paying for them.

The first man, age 40, placed four Beatles CDs in his waistband and made his way toward the store exit. He was detained by store detectives for questioning.

Upon arrival, Meijer personnel informed township police that an accomplice in the heist was apparently waiting in the store parking lot. Officers questioned the man, who at first denied any knowledge of the theft. Moments later, police spotted four CDs in store cases lying on the bottom of the car floor. Half a bottle of beer was also in the vehicle.

The driver then said the CDs had been purchased from another location, but eventually admitted to taking them.

BAGGED: Township police on duty near Six Mile and Sheldon Roads Aug. 15 observed a 1980 Ford car dragging a brake cable on the ground, generating sparks. Police initiated a traffic stop and spoke with the driver, later identified as a 28-year-old New Hudson man. The stop was made at around 1:20 a.m.

The man was unable to produce any identification. Police later learned the man gave a false name when questioned. Police arrested the man for driving without a license and commenced a search of his vehicle.

A bag of marijuana and smoking pipe was found inside the car. A check on the man's criminal history revealed his drivers' license had been revoked and that numerous outstanding warrants existed for his arrest.

The man will be in court Sept. 4.

WILD WEDDING: While on road patrol in the early morning hours of Aug. 16, officers were told by pedestrians of a scuffle between a man and a woman in a 1995 Dodge Intrepid.

Police caught up to the vehicle, which had pulled into a parking spot in Innsbrook Apartments. The driver, a 30-year-old man, told police he and the passenger in the car, his 26-year-old wife, were returning from a wedding earlier in the evening.

He told police he knew he should have walked home from Woody Bully's — where he had been only moments earlier — but believed that because of the short driving distance between the bar and his apartment, it would be a safe trip to make. He told the officer he would be retiring for the evening.

Minutes later, police dispatchers received an emergency call from elsewhere in the complex from a neighbor who said a man had kicked and hit a woman on his front porch. The caller also told police the man was attempting to leave the scene in his car and managed to ram his car into the carport.

Police returned to the complex and saw the man standing outside the vehicle, which had been visibly and recently damaged. The man's wife, reports said, came running out of the house, intoxicated and rattled, but showed no signs of physical abuse.

The wife asked police not to arrest her husband, but police handcuffed the man and asked him to submit to a breath alcohol test. He refused, but a warrant for a sample of blood to be drawn was obtained. The man later willingly submitted to a breathalyzer test, which registered at .155.

Court dates are pending.

Happy feet the rule at dance studio

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Whether they come for relaxation, recreation or better communication, couples from around the area swing into Northville Township to rumba, cha-cha, fox trot or waltz the night away.

But you have to be invited to join the fun.

On the guest list are all the students who take classes at Northville's own Arthur Murray Dance Studio, which is tucked away behind a set of office suites at 42000 West Six Mile Road.

The studio's dance parties, held every Friday night, are designed to give students a chance to practice the steps they've learned during private and group lessons at the school.

"They go out and they practice together. There are 40 other couples on the floor so they learn how to drive," said Anne Marie Olson, who owns the studio with her husband Steven.

A disc jockey carefully selects songs with rhythms that inspire the guests to begin different steps, including the tango, mambo and hustle.

Olson said many couples come to the studio interested in learning dances for an upcoming occasion. Others to embark on a hobby that they both can share.

Most find dancing offers an opportunity to forget about the rest of the world, if only for a couple of hours.

"Mainly people come in because they want to have a good time when they go out, instead of ending up watching other people dance or sitting at home. Others look at it as a date night. This is something they find they can do together and focus on each other," Olson said.

For Northville resident and physician Vijaya Kumar, dance beat golf as a pastime to enjoy with her husband Anil, an engineer. She said dancing has helped their relationship in other ways.

"We're able to relate to each other better. We're able to understand each other's temper," Kumar said. "There's a lot of intimacy when you dance. It brings us closer."

The Kumars began dancing together during a Latin cruise vacation and have since convinced friends to join them at Arthur Murray.

"It teaches you a lot of grace and confidence. Your self-esteem gets so much better," Kumar said.

For another Arthur Murray couple, ballroom dance has become a competitive art. Gary and Joanne Walters of Novi have traveled as far as Toronto to participate in ballroom dance competitions.

"I think part of the reason I started was I liked the movie Dirty Dancing. I came a couple of years after I saw that, not knowing what we were getting into," Gary Walters said.

That was eight years ago. Since then, the couple has danced in more than 40 competitions, once garnering a first place trophy at a national competition held at the Ohio Star Ball in Columbus, Ohio.

Joanne said she enjoys competing and spending Friday nights dancing with her husband because "It's very clean. There's no drinking or smoking."

But buying the sequined and feather dresses, traveling to competitions and paying to continue lessons at private studios has gotten expensive for the couple.

"This is a really expensive hobby and most people don't understand it," Gary Walters said. "You can't even explain it to someone who doesn't understand it."

Flying, golf, this surpasses all of them."

Olson said that many of her students are professional people, but any couple can benefit from taking just a few classes.

The studio offers a four lesson crash course, for example, which also includes group lessons and the Friday night parties. In just a month, most couples master the steps of at least three dance styles, while those quicker to catch on can learn up to five.

"Most people just want to learn the basics so they look a little classier. That happens pretty quickly," Olson said.

Olson's parents met at an Arthur Murray Dance studio and she grew up around the art. Although she went on to study ballet and jazz, she continued ballroom and now owns seven Arthur Murray studios with her husband.

Aside from the one in Northville Township, they are all located in Toronto.

"I really like this because I like dancing with someone. These days it doesn't happen much anymore, just holding someone and dancing," Olson said.

Northville's Granholm sets sights on AG office

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

With the state's Democratic convention slated for the end of this month, a Northville Township woman is hoping she'll get the nod for her party's candidate for Michigan attorney general.

Currently serving as corporation counsel, 39-year-old Jennifer Granholm has added her name to the list of potentials for the state's highest-ranking law enforcement official. Current attorney general Frank Kelley announced earlier he would be stepping down effective the end of this year.

Granholm has been a township resident for four years. She said she's been able to gain the experience necessary to be attorney general by working in her present position.

"Most of the parts of the job of being attorney general are essentially what I do now for Wayne County," she said. "I do for this part of the state what Frank Kelly does for all of Michigan."

In her job, Granholm said she oversees 35 attorneys and 75 assistant staff members. Prior to coming to Wayne County, Granholm worked as a federal prosecutor.

Granholm said she's vying to be the nominee for the Democratic ticket, which would likely have her running alongside gubernatorial candidate Geoffrey Fieger.

Granholm is the second local resident to seek office at the state level.

Northville Township resident Carol Poensich secured the democratic nomination for the state Senate 9th District seat earlier this month. General elections are slated for Nov. 4.

Study compares Northville, Florida parents

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

If the secrets of student achievement could be bottled, parents would be the first to request the product.

In an effort to find the recipe, Dr. Stephen Anderson, the principal of Amerman Elementary School, initiated a study to determine whether a parent's involvement in their child's life has more bearing on test scores than the economic status of the family.

"The classic thinking is that it depends on how much money your parents make, so I was looking at demographics but I was also looking at other things," Anderson said.

Using funds from a Kellogg grant, Anderson and a colleague in Jacksonville, Fla. surveyed parents of third grade children and asked them about their parenting style.

The demographics of each area in the study were as different as their test scores.

Of the 33 Northville students surveyed, the mean achievement was in the 79.7 percentile in reading scores and the 83 percentile in math on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills.

The 24 Jacksonville students surveyed achieved a mean percentile of 33.8 in reading and 31.8

in math on the Metropolitan Achievement Test.

The 117 questions in 16 categories surveyed such things as the family activities, aspirations, expectations, number of events attended by parents and their beliefs.

Here are some of the findings:
•The mean household income in Northville was more than twice that of Jacksonville. In Northville, mothers were older and more families were intact with a father present. The educational level of parents in Northville was higher.

•Parents in Jacksonville knew more of their children's friends by name, but belonged to fewer clubs and organizations. They also consulted fewer parenting instructional materials, 3.5 sources as opposed to the seven used by Northville parents.

•While 82 percent of Northville parents responded that their child's school was interested in their opinion, 58 percent of Jacksonville parents felt the same way. Both groups reported that they trusted their child's teachers.

•While 61 percent of Northville parents responded that they had a desire or need for approval as a parent, 33 percent of Jacksonville parents responded the same.

•Both groups indicated a range of beliefs about educating children but saw their parental role as that of disciplinarian. Northville parents believed less in direct instruction and more in developmental and experiential instruction. More Jacksonville residents saw the responsibility for education residing mainly with the school as opposed to parents.

•When asked to list values, both groups had the same lowest five, among them fun and excitement, past is as important as present, sacrificing present for future and material possessions.

But, while Northville ranked morality and ethics first, Jacksonville parents listed it fifth, with respect for family number one. In Northville, respect for family was third. Security was ranked second in Jacksonville, while a harmonious family was second here.

•Almost 70 percent of all respondents reported that their child performed above average or at the top of their class as opposed to 25 percent of Jacksonville parents, though an almost equal number of parents believed their children were performing at their ability, around 56 percent.

•Fewer Jacksonville parents responded that they aspired that their child go to college.

•Northville parents reported participating in more educational activities and changed their routine less often than those in Jacksonville.

•There was a slight indication that Jacksonville parents were more angry with their children or had arguments.

•While both groups used day care almost equally, Jacksonville children spent almost one hour less sleeping and more time playing outside.

•Northville children spent less time watching TV, reading and working on homework.

•Jacksonville parents responded with more authoritarian and permissive parenting styles, while Northville parents had a more democratic approach.

•Northville and Jacksonville moms reported spending about the same amount of time on sports, art or hobbies, but Northville mothers reported less time on chores, less sleep, less TV, less class attendance, less shopping, less time in group meetings and volunteer work and less time on household conversations.

•Both groups reported the same number of parent-teacher conferences, class visits and teacher contacts, but Northville parents attended more PTA meetings, volunteered more in the classroom and attended more school events.

•Both areas ranked six factors pertaining to their child's performance in exactly the same order, with luck attributed as having little or no effect by both groups: 1) Child's ability, 2) Training at school, 3) Training at home, 4) Child's effort, 5) A love of learning, 6) Luck.

Anderson conceded that the small number of parents surveyed makes it difficult to draw conclusions regarding what affects student achievement.

Another problem arose because the survey that Anderson used was modified before it was distributed in Jacksonville. The wording of questions in the two drafts generated different information in some cases.

The study will be conducted again during the upcoming school year with a select group of parents who volunteer.

NORTHVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS BACK TO SCHOOL INFORMATION 1998-99

Welcome back

Refurbished classrooms, new technology greets students

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

As enrollment in Northville Public Schools continues to increase, students will be returning to classes August 24 in a district growing in both size and opportunity.

"We're anticipating a very great start to the school year," said Northville Public Schools Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. "We're in good shape as a school district goes. We're moving full steam ahead on renovations in full cooperation with staff, parents and the community. Financially we're enjoying good management as well."

Technological and structural improvements funded by the $61.5 million bond issue passed by voters in 1997 are well underway.

The money has brought a fully networked computer lab to every elementary school in the district, allowing students to e-mail each other, access software from other computers in the district and conduct research on the Internet.

Another technological advance will bring a phone and voice mail to every classroom in the district, enabling students to call for homework assignments and parents to leave voice mail messages for teachers.

After years of requests from teachers and 1989 and 1997 bond issues that promised their installation, the Northville Board of Education allocated $203,000 to buy and install the phones and voice-mail.

"They will enable teachers to do what they need to do throughout the course of the day, talk to parents and so forth instead of lining up for phones in the staff rooms or in the principal's office where they have no privacy," said assistant superintendent David Bolitho.

In addition, a voice mail system will take calls for teachers and office staff in individual mail boxes.

A "Homework Hotline" option will allow students who forget their assignments or missed class due to illness to call, key in an extension and hear their teacher's voice going over the day's homework.

"This is something we've been working on for a long, long time and it's finally happening," Bolitho said.

More than 80 construction and renovation projects will continue at the district's eight school buildings, while construction on a brand new high school on Six Mile Road between Beck and Sheldon Roads will proceed. The new high school is set to open in the fall of the year 2000.

District may expand TV coverage

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

To get the scoop on the Northville Public Schools, television viewers need only push two buttons on their remote controls.

Channel 19 on local cable has carried school news for years.

As part of the district's new $50,000 communication plan though, the way the school district utilizes the educational access channel on MediaOne cable television may be upgraded.

"We really didn't think we were getting the most out of cable," said assistant superintendent Dr. Linda Farr, who helped to develop the communications plan.

The plan was formulated to provide the community with updates on the construction and renovation projects funded by the $61.5 million 1997 bond issue.

In addition to publications and outreach efforts, the plan includes an allocation of $1,900 over the next three years for production of weekly stories for the cable station.

Right now, the programming is limited to lettered announcements across a single colored background. These announcements are often outdated because there isn't a reliable system for inputting school news, according to Lynn Parklan, who was contracted to handle the communications on a project-by-project basis.

"It's kind of a boring cable angle at this point but I'm going to meet with the people at MediaOne and talk about the opportunities," Parklan said.

As part of MediaOne's franchise agreement with Northville city and township, the company must provide a public and educational access channel.

"Its purpose in general is to give a voice to people who wouldn't otherwise have one through media and to try to reflect the particulars of the locality and what activities and events might differentiate it from any other locality," said MediaOne studio coordinator Gary Grace.

For years, Northville High School students have programmed the announcements into a computer that fed the information directly to the MediaOne station in Canton where they were routed onto the airwaves.

The students received credit for their work through a co-op program at the school, which also offers a broadcasting class.

"Students have a drop in the copy room at the board office to the cable station. Once a week I gather announcements, write them up, and give them to the co-op students. They enter them into the system," Parklan said.

But Parklan said she is looking at expanding the possibilities for the cable station, perhaps by incorporating photographs or video, interviews with the superintendent and the weekly program.

"We have opportunities in our equipment at the schools to videotape lessons. There are so many dynamic things happening in the classrooms. I know there must be a way to get them on the station somehow but I don't right now know what that is," Parklan said.

Although equipment in the high school broadcasting class is limited, she said there's no reason students can't put the station to better use. She said a few years ago Northville High students formed a video club and did shows on a regular basis for the station, which they produced in the MediaOne studio in Canton.

"I think their interest was sparked and developed by the broadcasting class and they went off on their own and created this sketch comedy show," Parklan said. "My interest is to have high school kids really be the directors, the production people, get a script worked out. We want to use the cable programming more effectively for those people in the community who watch the cable. The purpose is to have it be another educational opportunity for our students who I think would shine on this."

In any event, the announcements will be more professionally supervised than they have been in the past, Parklan said.

MEETING COVERAGE:

Meanwhile, the district is seeking high school students to take over the task of taping Board of Education meetings for broadcast on MediaOne's public access channel 18.

At the end of September Advocates for Quality Education volunteers Mary Ellen Wolbers and Grace Traicoff are set to retire from taping the meetings, which they have done once a month for the past seven years.

So far no one has stepped up to take their place.

"We were hoping someone from the high school would take over but nothing's happened yet," Traicoff said. "I'm sure Mary Ellen and I would be willing to help whoever comes forward. It's just a matter of finding the bodies."

Responsibilities for taping the show include attending training sessions to learn how to operate the video and audio equipment.

Once a month, the equipment must be picked up at the MediaOne studio in Canton, set up at the Northville Board of Education meeting room on Main Street and operated during the meetings, which last up to three hours long.

After that, the equipment must be returned.

Students can get credit for the community service through the National Honor Society.

For more information call the Board of Education offices at 344-8440.

Novi Ice Arena slated for weekend grand opening

With the construction snafus repaired, new skating facility is ready to open its doors to the Novi public

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Skaters are expected to hit the ice at the new Novi Ice Arena next week. Monday, August 24 is the now official opening date.

"It looks pretty good," Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall said.

Earlier, a July 6 opening date was set, but a building inspection found that the front wall of the ice arena was shifting under the pressure of fill dirt placed around the recessed building.

Over the past few weeks, work to replace the dirt with sand and brace the wall has been underway and was close to completion by Tuesday.

Novi Public Information Director

Lou Martin watched some of the construction.

"It's amazing. They sunk rods into the wall, almost all the way the way to the parking lot. Then they poured cement in," he said.

"A typhoon could hit it. It wouldn't go anywhere."

Novi Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis said the final costs of rehabilitating the structure are not yet in. Attorneys for the city, the arena's designers, Archemonics Architects and the builders, Rudolph/Lippe Inc. are now reviewing the contract to determine how charges for the extra work will be distributed, Davis said.

"We haven't received a cost report.

We asked them to track it separately," he added.

"It's not anything that's going to be over the final contract."

The contract guarantees the arena will cost no more than $6.998 million, but the city authorized an additional $68,000 for an upgraded electrical installation and roadwork.

While the hockey players are already signed up and ready to go, registration is now on-going for those who want to learn how to ice skate.

"We can't wait to get it open," Davis added.

Here's the schedule for the two-rink facility.

Weekend Public Skating:

Times are for Aug. 24 through Oct. 1. The arena will be closed on Monday Sept. 7.

Friday evenings: 8 p.m. to 9:50 p.m.

Saturday afternoons: 2 p.m. to 10:50 p.m.

Saturday evenings: 8 p.m. to 10:50 p.m. Sunday afternoons: 2 p.m. to 3:50 p.m.

Admission is $6 for adults and $5

Perennials, Woodland Wildflowers, Rare Alpines, Dwarf Conifers, Unusual Shrubs, and Plants for Butterfly Gardens

Fall is rapidly approaching and it's a great time to add some late color to your garden or perhaps a few hostas or ornamental grasses. It's also the best time to plant trees and shrubs and perennials. Our shrub and dwarf conifer selection is outstanding and of course we have thousands of potted perennials to choose from, sun or shade, dry or moist favorites to rarities found nowhere else, we have it all with over 6000 species and varieties to choose from. We are a production nursery not a garden center and we propagate most everything ourselves so our inventory is at maximum in late summer. Why not buy direct from the source for the best selection and price. It's a huge place and we are always happy to tell you where to find something or offer suggestions but we are a working nursery not a garden center and it's up to the customer to go and fetch it, so don't expect to be led by the hand (besides, exploring is half the fun).

We're tired of waiting for action on dog attacks

What's it going to take to get officials to take action in the animal killings in western Novi and Northville Township?

By our best count — an admittedly rough estimate — more than 20 animals, mostly livestock, have been killed by wild dogs in the past two years in the vicinity of Beck and Eight Mile roads.

Increasingly, the killings are being attributed to two dogs, always of the same description — a larger black and tan dog described as a shepherd/Husky mix and a Beagle.

Will a human have to die?

According to the interest group Canines of America, dogs can become aggressive if they are mismanaged by their owners or not managed at all. Wild instincts can take over, especially in a pack situation. Once dogs become predatory, they may direct that aggression toward smaller animals or a child.

Will residents of the area have to take up firearms themselves to protect their animals?

Officials acknowledge that Michigan residents have a right to shoot animals that are killing or worrying their livestock, but they're urging restraint. The area is too crowded, too densely populated for residents to start shooting off guns at these stray dogs.

That much we can agree with. We'd hate to see local residents have to resort to gunplay. So we'd suggest the officials take action so that local residents don't have to.

The responsible officials — Oakland County Animal Control north of Eight Mile Road and Northville Township police to the south — seem strangely reluctant to act. They cite jurisdictional problems when killings occur on one side of Eight Mile Road and the dogs come from the other. They say no one knows where the dogs belong. They say no one knows who owns them. They say there are no witnesses to the killings. They say the dogs can't be found.

But we can only attribute their inaction to bureaucratic laziness.

Neighbors point to Novi resident James Zayti as the owner of the pooches. Here's a sampling of Zayti's comments about the matter, made to this newspaper this week:

"I don't own any dogs."

"This is really getting to me because I'm being blamed for everything here and I don't think it's right. The last killing, the dogs that I had were locked up."

"They (the dogs) could jump over the fence around his yard if they want to but they don't."

"I've been in the country all this time and don't tie my dogs. I won't. If they want to come after me they can come after me."

"My dogs were responsible for hitting three sheep at the pet farm but that morning I was up there taking care of it."

"Believe me, I don't want my dogs killing anybody or anything. My dogs haven't done anything since then."

Now, the average reader is likely to spot some inconsistencies in those statements. But amazingly Oakland County Animal Control is apparently willing to accept those denials hook, line and sinker.

"We talked to the owners that were accused in this case. They denied it," said Deputy Jerry McNair, of the Oakland County Animal Control Department. "This isn't the first killing in this particular area. These people are being accused every time a killing has taken place."

McNair went on to claim that no one has seen the dogs in action. But that isn't true. John Beemer, who runs the farm at Maybury State Park, scared the two dogs away from his sheep just this past July. He found four sheep wounded in the pen that night. Three died.

In fact, residents say they have repeatedly seen the animals in the vicinity of killings. Margaret Schmidt reports the dogs showed up in her yard the night after several lambs were killed.

That might not be enough to convict a human killer perhaps, but any farmer knows predators return to the site of a successful hunt.

Still McNair insists the dogs are feral. Well if that is indeed the case, and if Zayti indeed is not the owner, a resolution of the matter should actually be easier — no legal citations to hassle with, no court dealings necessary. Just round up the dogs and ship 'em off to the pound.

But McNair claims he has been patrolling the area daily and can't find them. We strongly doubt that. Residents tell us they call whenever they spot the dogs roaming free and get no response.

It would not be the first time time Oakland County officials couldn't be bothered to get out of their Pontiac offices to drive all the way down here to deliver the services they've collected taxes for.

The inactivity of Northville Township police is equally baffling. In the July incident, the best sighting yet tying the dogs to a killing, Northville police took better than a week just to finish the report.

It's getting to the point officials are working harder at deflecting inquiries than dealing with the problem. Oakland County Animal Control informed us this week we'd have to file Freedom of Information requests to get dog registrations in our attempt to track down the owner of these dogs.

That's right, we'd have to file an FOI to get dog license information.

Well, Northville Township police and Oakland County Animal Control may not take the situation seriously, but we do. Beginning next week, we'll run a weekly tally of the animals killed over the last two years in dog attacks. We'd ask area residents to report incidents, with specific numbers of lost livestock, to us so we can keep exact numbers.

The numbers will serve as a weekly reminder to public officials that we expect action to resolve the killings, that it's time for action.

And we'll continue running them until they decide to do something about it.

This is still a free country, right?

There sure has been a lot of talk about Jim Nield in township circles lately — and none of it has been good.

Nield, who recently retired from Diamond Industries, apparently decided to exercise his First Amendment rights by placing close to 250 signs urging township residents to vote 'no' on the recent township millage request, during the early morning hours of Aug. 3.

How do we know Nield was the sign planter? Well, it seems some off-duty township firefighters happened to drive by as Nield was hard at work. Thinking the township resident was stealing "Vote Yes" signs, the firefighters alerted township police, who in turn went out to investigate. What the patrol officer found was Nield working busily installing his signs — and that he hadn't touched a single "Yes" sign.

So the township patrol officer returned to his routine patrol — and later wrote the incident up in a police report.

The next morning, as one might imagine, things got ugly.

Irritated that Nield would try such a thing, township officials submitted the police report and additional information to the Wayne County Bureau of Elections. According to those officials, Nield had violated campaign finance laws, which require a disclaimer to be placed somewhere on the sign that identifies the person or committee responsible for the message. That is, of course, if the party responsible spent more than $500. And it seems that Nield must have spent that much on his signs.

What is bothersome to me about this whole incident isn't what Jim Nield did

Robert Jackson

— it is the way some township officials have reacted.

You see, Jim is married to Martha Nield, who happens to serve as a member of the Northville Public School Board of Education — the very board entangled in a legal battle with the township over the construction of the new high school.

Apparently, after word got out that Jim Nield had placed the signs, several township officials began spreading the word that the sign campaign was tied directly to Martha, and subsequently the school board.

Hang on, the plot gets better. As word of Jim's nocturnal escapades began to make its way through some township circles a nasty rumor began to grow — and with it some animosity towards Jim and Martha.

Now remember, we're talking about a private citizen choosing to express an opinion on a public issue going before voters in an open election, by placing signs in a public right-of-way.

And for that action officials chose to challenge the reputation of a school board member, who happens to be married to the private citizen exercising his right of free speech.

Hmm...I only thought that happened in third world countries.

First off, I don't believe all the talk that Jim was acting on orders from Martha. If there's one thing I've learned about Jim during the past four years it is that he has a mind of his own — Hey, he might march to the beat of a different drummer, but I'm not one to judge; my drummer has been beating differently for years.

And although I disagree with his message — I endorsed the millage after all — I will be the first to defend his right to communicate that message to others.

If he violated campaign finance laws, then it's up to Wayne County to take appropriate action.

Quite frankly, township officials should be more concerned with the real reason the public voted down portions of the millage instead of wasting energy on Jim Nield and his signs.

Because regardless of the message, Jim Nield had the right to do what he did. He, like the rest of us, is protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution, an amendment that allows us to speak in protest against our government's policies.

And although I may not care for the voice Jim Nield used to convey his message, I will fight any person or body preventing his right to use that voice.

Fieger or Engler: great choices, eh?

More random thoughts and observations on life...

• The popularity of gubernatorial candidate Geoffrey Fieger seems to have little to do with his intellect or perceived ability to be chief executive of Michigan. I'm convinced people are flocking to him because he's got the same kind of bizarre star power as Jerry Springer: he loves putting on a show where obnoxious behavior and four-letter words set the tempo.

Essentially, then, my November choices are either John "I-Said-Two-Terms-But-I've-Got-A-Good-Thing-Going-Here" Engler, or the guy who makes Andrew Dice Clay look like Mother Goose. Great.

• There are some times when you need to fight through your fears and overcome your laziness to do what's right. Case in point — giving blood. I've heard a million times how people are afraid of needles or don't like pain or they don't have the time or blah blah blah. I gave blood for the 18th time last week. Did it sting? Just a smidge. Was I inconvenienced? For an hour, once every four months, yes...very slightly. Do I feel good about what I did afterward? You bet. It's like Bill Cosby said: you may not be dying to give blood, but someday you may be dying to get it.

• Not many people know this, but my first job out of college was as the Sunday business editor of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News. You can imagine the shock when I learned of the fatal shooting at the office July 23. I spent many an hour in the darkroom where the employees hid during the ordeal and had talked periodically with Tony Gillespie, the circulation manager who was shot.

To me, the incident is a tragic illustration of how small towns aren't quite so safe and cozy anymore. My condolences to the staff of the Arlington Street newspaper. They are friends of mine who I will always hold near and dear in my heart.

• Another excerpt from the Bachelor's Guide to Living: girlfriends do not appreciate it when you determine the likelihood of future weekend plans solely on football pairings.

• My dad is a real model train buff. As a little kid, I remember thinking how neat it was to see the little box cars roll along the track. Let me be the first to tell you that those "little" box cars are rather large and bulky in real life. I know this to be the case after climbing a hill and seeing the derailment of the CSX train in Northville Township earlier this month. Exactly how the cleanup crews were able to move those masses of steel and iron is beyond me, but I can tell you it's not as easy as simply picking them up and setting them back down. They did a great job in terrible conditions.

• It happens every time around this year. I have these awful dreams that the calendar reads Oct. 28, it's about 38 degrees outside, the trees have fallen bare and there's a chilling hard rain stinging against my face. You can't imagine the relief I feel when I wake up and see sunny skies, 82 degrees and a light breeze out of the south. Just the same — when does the Northville Cider Mill open?

• Pray you don't have to deal with Wayne County government anytime soon. My experience has been that the facilities are antiquated and the level of professionalism or helpfulness shaky, at best. While we all wait for this wonderful new Metro Airport renovation to be completed, I'd suggest Mr. McNamara and company come up with some ways to streamline their efficiency. When the county records department has four rusty tables in a corner of the basement, you know it's time for an upgrade.

• ...and the award for Most Overlooked, But Best-Tasting Northville Family Restaurant Food goes to Casel's Family Restaurant. It's cursed because of being set so far back from Seven Mile Road, but I'm here to tell you the tuna melts in that place are simply to die for. And maybe I'm just lucky, but I've never seen a lineup when I stop in, meaning my wait is nil. The moral of the story? Drive the extra 200 yards and do your appetite a favor.

We should invest in the skills of workers

The piece in the Sunday paper got it right: The productivity gains in the auto industry that have fueled a ten-year run of increased output and improved profits are just about to run out.

Following the trail first blazed by Toyota, the American auto companies — Ford, Chrysler, General Motors — started introducing all kinds of snazzy technology to the assembly line. Computers managed "just in time" parts deliveries and monitored quality control. Robots replaced workers in all kinds of tasks, ranging from welding to painting.

As the UAW knows all too well, the net effect of all this investment was to increase productivity and reduce the need for labor. While output has remained high, the number of labor hours required to make a car has dropped all across the board, resulting in historic high profits for the auto companies.

But most of the "low-hanging fruit" of productivity increases has been picked, now that the computers and robots have been on the line for a while. Any further increases will have to come by the slow, cumbersome process of working effectively with the labor force to see what tiny steps in the manufacturing process can be continuously improved.

"Ah, yes," as they say at GM headquarters, "the labor force." With unemployment at all-time low levels, Michigan is now facing an absolute shortage of skilled labor. Moreover, thousands upon thousands of skilled workers are going to be retiring from work on the line over the next ten years. Companies are beginning to wise up to the fact that getting and training productive workers will be among the greatest challenges over the next decade.

So it's with some astonishment that I noticed that the Congress actually did something sensible this month and passed something called the Workforce Investment Act. The product of five years of bipartisan work, the new law will recast the country's job training system to encourage individual workers to get the skills they need to get and keep high-paying, productive jobs in the new economy.

Gone will be the 60-odd programs that used to produce a bureaucratic maze. It will be "one-stop" job training centers — anybody ever see a simple, easy-to-use listing in the local telephone directory, "Job Training?" — located in local communities, supervised by consolidated local workforce boards.

During the 1980s, I served as the chair of the Michigan Job Training Coordinating Council, the main state body dealing with job training, at one point becoming (inadvertently) the nation's longest-serving JTCC chair. It was frustrating work because of all the unbelievable bureaucracy produced by the Federal law. But it was exciting, because we got to focus on the big issue — investing in human capital — that underlies all gains for both workers and corporations.

At one point, a number of us realized that the Federal law had things backward. In traditional top-down thinking, it assumed that if you inflicted job training on workers, eventually they would want training. Wrong, of course. Because there was no incentive, there was no buy-in from workers.

Some of us even argued at that time that a better way of doing things was to re-jigger the unemployment compensation system and provide workers that had lost their jobs with vouchers that could be spent on training that could get them back to work. Possibly because it included use of the dreaded word, "voucher," the idea provoked a lot of resistance.

But just after Bob Reich was appointed President Clinton's first Secretary of Labor, some of us went to see him to pitch the idea of incentive-based job training vouchers. He bought the idea, and it has at last emerged in the new bill as "Individual Training Accounts."

As is the case with any large piece of Federal legislation, there are lots of complicated provisions in the Workforce Investment Act. But the fact that the act focuses on the key thing — investing in the skills of our workers — is altogether worthy of praise and admiration, especially at a time when cynicism toward the political system abounds.

That's why the conference on labor force training and productivity, jointly sponsored by Oakland University and Public Policy Associates, is so timely. It will take place on Sept. 2 at the Northfield Hilton in Troy. I'll be giving the luncheon keynote. If you want more information, just call (248) 370-3125.

Engler joins attack on 'government' schools

Say it ain't so, John.

The young baseball fan's words to Shoeless Joe Jackson during the 1920s "Black Sox" scandal come to mind as one peruses Gov. John Engler's campaign pamphlet attack on the Michigan Constitution.

For six years Engler has wrestled quietly with the Religious Right intrusion into his Republican Party. Now he has given in, adopting their devious tactics in attacking "government" schools.

Distributed in Detroit, Engler's pamphlet stoops to this kind of reasoning: Suppose a government restaurant put only one dish on the menu; suppose a government auto dealer offered you only one kind of car; well, that's how public schools are operated. "The government has decided where your child will go to school," it says. "It's too important to trust the choice to you."

The Engler pamphlet then offers this gratuitous slur against public schools: "Sorry if the school is dirty and crime-ridden."

Of course, government isn't in business. If it were a business:

You could select which building inspector from which township could check the construction of your house.

You could select which judge would hear your case (as Geoffrey Fieger tried to do in his judge-shopping suit — for which he was fined $7,500).

Your subdivision association could select which police officers it wanted to patrol the area.

Anyone should be able to see the point: Government isn't business. And yet it offers Michiganians several educational choices: neighborhood public school, public school of choice, private school (if you pay for it), parochial school (if you pay for it), home teaching and some (frequently inferior) charter schools.

Now, you have to read the Engler pitch in context. A sinister, Midland-based group that calls itself "School Choice Yes" is pushing, in a totally dishonest way, a change in Michigan's long-standing prohibition against state money to a religious denomination.

Since at least 1908, the Michigan Constitution has declared, "No money shall be appropriated or drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious sect or society, theological or religious seminary; nor shall property belonging to the state be appropriated for any such purpose."

A 1970 voter-approved amendment was just as clear: "No public monies or property shall be appropriated ... directly or indirectly to maintain any private, denominational or other nonpublic pre-elementary, elementary or secondary school. No payment, credit, tax benefit, exemption or deductions, tuition voucher, subsidy, grant or loan of public monies or property shall be provided" for any nonpublic school.

Watch how Gary Glenn, president of School Choice Yes, attempts to deceive voters with his presentation: "Do you support providing parents of younger children a Parental Choice Tax Credit ... ?" (Italics added.)

Then Glenn resorts to the big lie technique: "Do you support amending Michigan's Constitution to remove the discriminatory language that specifically prohibits offering a tuition tax credit to parents ... ?"

The constitution, you know, doesn't "specifically" prohibit a tax credit to "parents." It prohibits your state tax dollars going to private and denominational schools.

We in the media have been slow to report on this issue. We get so tangled up with candidates' name-calling, or who's to blame for potholes, that we place an inadequate spotlight on the Religious Right's agenda. We focused so much attention on the gubernatorial primary that we haven't watched the way freshman state representative candidates are phrasing the school money issue.

Allowing state aid to private and parochial schools is at the top of their dishonestly-worded agenda.

And John Engler, who has kept the Religious Right under a tight leash for six years, has finally joined it.

Et tu, Johannes?

Letters to the Editor

Another area strip mall is not necessary

To the editor:

I thought I'd seen it all until I heard about the proposed strip mall planned for the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Beck roads. We do not need another strip mall sitting on the Northville/Novi border. To rezone the property after all the development that has been planned for and accomplished assuming a residential area, will certainly ruin the original intent and atmosphere of the setting. The additional traffic and congestion on Eight Mile and Beck roads will certainly not be welcome. There are two schools within a mile of the intersection. Maybury State Park is across the street. There is a new playground just to the west of the proposed site. People, wake up.

There is no way to blend a strip mall into this environment. We already have two Meijer stores nearby (one at Eight Mile and Haggerty, and the other on Grand River near Wixom). There is a Hiller's Shopping Center Market in Northville, Vic's Market in Novi, and Busch's in Plymouth which serve our communities well. If you want to add to the mix, why not go where you can already get commercially zoned land and leave the current land as is. Novi is already building a Main Street. Why not allow the original intent of the city planners to be realized?

Douglas J. Lewandowski

Rezoning for mall should be denied

To the editor:

The proposed rezoning of the 23 acres at Eight Mile and Beck roads will change forever the tranquil, rural lifestyle and character of the surrounding neighborhoods, thus resulting in a lowered quality of life for us all. We moved to this area, as I'm sure most all of us did, seeking a less hectic and urban way of life.

The purpose of a master plan must certainly be to assure harmonious controlled growth and development. The proposed change would appear to be a classic case of "spot" zoning as it flagrantly violates the city of Novi's master plan and would certainly have a negative impact on the citizens of Northville as well.

It is obvious that the surrounding roadway network cannot support a development of this magnitude. This development will significantly contribute to the continued deterioration of the surface of Beck Road. The increased traffic generated by the development will compound an already congested intersection. Safety issues are also a grave concern for parents of schoolchildren as well as the many hikers, bikers and other users of both parks in the immediate area.

Readers, please continue to solicit the understanding and cooperation of the city of Novi's Planning Commission and City Council in denying this proposed change.

Volunteers made World Series a success

To the Editor:

Thanks to The Northville Record for providing some highlights of our Northville World Series team and the NABF Junior World Series held in Northville recently.

As the chairpersons of the NABF World Series picnic and concession we would like to recognize our families who provided the necessary behind-the-scenes work to make these two major aspects of the series run smoothly. This was a considerable undertaking to be put together by volunteers and it never would have happened without the enthusiasm and willingness to work that our families so graciously provided.

Our families cooked hot dogs, hauled ice and pop, sold souvenir shirts, served up a fabulous picnic, and helped anywhere they were needed — always cheerfully. We would like to recognize the Borda family, the Boyes family, the Doren family, the Edick family, the Hughes family, the Jenney family, the Justusson family, the Olin family, the Reibling family, the Santeiu family, the Swafford family, the Sebastian family, the Thomas family, and our own families. A special thank you to other baseball families who worked the concession stand during our Bronco games.

Our concession and picnic had several sponsors we would like to thank: Unisys, Leon's Family Dining, Hygrade Family Meats, Cap 'n Cork Party Store, Meijer's at Eight and Haggerty, Nabisco, Mobil and Eight and Taft, and Pizza Cutter. Their contributions to our concession and picnic helped make it possible. We would like to thank the anonymous donor who provided complimentary dinners for all World Series players and coaches who attended the picnic. We also appreciated the cooperation of Northville Parks and Recreation and Northville Public Schools Operations Department.

Galli's letters provide contrast to ignorance

To the editor:

Your front page story about Alfred Galli goes a long way toward making up for the previous editor's personal attack depicting him a crackpot nuisance and suggesting his letters to the editor were not welcome. It is encouraging to see an increasing glimmer of tolerance for intellect and classical knowledge and appreciation for a man who vigorously pursues self education into his 85th year and shares it with his community.

What a contrast to the parents who gang up against having their vacation play interrupted by requiring their children to go to school and learn something. Too bad that for so many, their bliss contributes to ignorance.

Northville teen to make presidential bid in 2024

Span and CNN all the time, to see behind closed doors how they really are, get a first hand look at our political system," Jones said.

When he returns, he said he may run for senior class president. Then, he plans to get a bachelor's degree in political science at the University of Michigan, Georgetown or Yale, then attend law school.

After practicing law for a while, he'll run for lower level seats, working his way to the Oval Office.

"I think law would make a great stepping stone because that's all I think politics is, one step after another," Jones said. "You have to get some years under your belt, some experience before you can make a profitable run."

In the meantime, he said he'll continue to stay abreast of politics by watching the news, reading Newsweek, Time, Detroit newspapers and even The Northville Record. He'll also continue to visit his favorite conservative political sites on the Internet.

He'll still have to rely on his parents to drive him to political events, and try to sway them to vote republican on his behalf.

People often ask the Jones' why they push their son to achieve so much.

"Push him? We can't stop him," Cheryl Jones said. "He just, on his own, became enamored with politics. It was out of the blue for his father and I, who have been politically neutral so we've never quite understood it. All four of his grandparents were Republican so we think he must have got a mutant gene."

Cheryl Jones and her husband James, a self-employed landscape designer, moved to their five-acre parcel in Novi 16 years ago.

A marriage and family counselor, Cheryl Jones said although she often told her clients that they could do anything they dreamed, she didn't wholeheartedly believe it until she saw her own son's achievements.

"With drive and spunk you can make things happen, just because you have the desire burning in your soul," Cheryl Jones said.

"With drive and spunk you can make things happen, just because you have the desire burning in your soul."

Cheryl Jones

"Adam is an inspiration to me."

Jones' brothers, Ross, 13, and Tyler, 7, don't share a love of politics, although they may have similar career paths.

"Ross wants to be weatherman and Tyler wants to be a clown so we're all pretty much going into the same business. We're all kind of acting," Jones said.

"As a politician, you're trying to get other people to believe what you believe in so you have to put on a face sometimes."

Described by his mother as "very serious," Jones' interests include playing trumpet for the Northville High marching band, working at the Northville Swim Club and involvement with the First United Methodist Church youth group.

But politics are his true passion, and that is where he differs not only from his family but his peers.

"I'm in the minority in high school. Really no one has an interest in politics. I just run for student council and congress. They just respect my opinions and beliefs and I think I have their votes now," Jones said.

By posting his views, a short biography and an open e-mail response line on the Internet, Jones has connected with Republican teens across the country.

His website has received almost 14,000 hits.

Of those, he has found a business manager for his presidential campaign in Texas and a campaign manager in California.

Although he said all his views will likely change when by the time he runs for president 26 years down the road, Jones' platform is outlined on his webpage, which also has links to other political sites.

Jones calls for a ban on abortion except in cases of rape or incest, an end to affirmative action and institution of a national flat tax.

He also believes in prayer, or a moment of silence, in schools, an end to term limits and "Workfare" as a replacement for welfare.

12 feet deep and 30 feet across, Tillman said.

"It was a pretty good-sized hole," he said.

As of Friday afternoon, Weaver said the contractor and the Detroit water department were in the midst of determining liability for the break and subsequent repair. The township, he said, has no involvement with the break, as the water pipe is maintained by Detroit and Sheldon Road by Wayne County authorities.

Another underground utility in Northville Township was damaged last month when a buried gas line was hit by a Brighton contractor working on behalf of Detroit Edison. That incident resulted in the cordoning off of a one-square-mile area of land near Five Mile and Beck Roads. No one was hurt in the accident, though authorities said the situation could have been devastating.

Physicians stress need for youth bike helmets

Head injuries are the leading cause of death in motorcycle accidents. According to the Michigan State Medical Society, a motorcycle helmet is the best protection against head injuries.

Michigan state law requires all motorcyclists and passengers to wear a helmet. Although a motorcycle helmet may not always save a life, it is 67 percent effective in preventing brain injuries.

Here are some things to remember when choosing a motorcycle helmet:

- Buy a helmet that offers the most protection without being uncomfortable.

- Make sure the helmet meets the Department of Transportation's Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 218. (Look for the DOT symbol on the back of the helmet. Also helmets that comply with these standards will have a firm Styrofoam inside liner).

- Make sure your helmet can be seen. Bright colored helmets or helmets with reflective tape on the back are the most visible.

- Make sure the helmet fits properly. It should feel snug, and not move back and forth on your head. However, it should not prevent you from turning your head to look for traffic.

- Always fasten the chinstrap: an unfastened helmet will fall off in an accident.

- Do not use a damaged helmet: replace the helmet if you have been in an accident.

The Michigan State Medical Society is the professional association of medical doctors in Michigan.

Amerman set for bumpy start

 istrators formulated a 'plan of attack' that would ensure the safety and supervision of the children in worst case scenarios.

For example, if the new gym floor isn't laid in time to accommodate students during lunch hour, they'll hire aides to supervise children while they eat in their classrooms.

"I'm keeping my fingers crossed that we won't have to do that," Thompson said. "One thing we wanted out of this meeting was a letter to all the parents. My goal was accomplished. I feel good."

A letter sent home this week to all Amerman parents outlined each project at Amerman, which includes:

- A new library, not quite as big as the current one, being constructed from the ground up at the west side of the school. Chain link fencing has been installed to protect students from the work site, and all construction equipment and materials will be stored within the fence.

The library will be completed by the fall of the year 2000.

After all the books are moved, the current library will double as a cafeteria and large group meeting room.

- The installation of a new gymnasium floor, which will force teachers to hold physical education classes outside or elsewhere until it is completed.

The wooden gym floor at the school has been ripped up and a layer of concrete was poured in its place on Tuesday.

After the concrete sets for 45 days, a rubberized surface will be poured on top of it, to provide a state-of-the-art surface for physical education.

The waiting period ensures that no crack or water seepage will occur under the rubberized surface, but school officials said children should be able to walk on the surface long before that, allowing them to continue to use the gym as a cafeteria.

"The first day of school the halls will not only be cleared but cleaned. We will make sure it is safe for kids to enter the build and have a good school experience. Even in a week's time the building will look significantly different."

semester. One, possibly two, trailers will be rented to hold furniture and supplies currently housed in an Amerman classroom. The room will then be converted into an auxiliary classroom, which teachers will use while workmen replace their windows.

Cabling for a new computer lab has already been completed at Amerman. The new computers have arrived, and phones in every classroom will soon follow.

"The first day of school the halls will not only be cleared but cleaned. We will make sure it is safe for kids to enter the build and have a good school experience," Anderson said. "Even in a week's time the building will look significantly different."

Bolitho echoed his sentiment.

"There will be some noise, some interference, disruption, but the plan will work," Bolitho said. "By winter break everything should be quiet here. If we all work together and cooperate, the kids will benefit from this sooner."

For parents who still have concerns, Anderson has scheduled another informational meeting after the first half-day of school on August 24 at 7 p.m. at Amerman.

As the big yellow buses pull into the school yards, what will students have tucked away in their backpacks?

Will there be virtual pets, Beanie-Babies, computer games or Yo-yos along with the pens and notebooks?

Now is the time of year to buy and stock up on school supplies.

Some things are a given like pencils, pens, notebooks. Then there's the things children would like to have.

Cashier Jessica Jozwiak of South Lyon worked the back-to-school sale at Toys R Us last week and said she saw "all the things you would think would be back to school stuff" like pencils, markers, backpacks lunch boxes, and coloring books.

But there were some things on the counter that may or not have been going into backpacks.

"A lot of stuff they convinced mom and dad to buy for them you could tell," Jozwiak said.

"Yo-yos, jump ropes, the virtual pets, candy, all the stuff they wouldn't normally buy unless their kids begged them," she said.

Sticking to the school's supply list can save a little money.

"Anything licensed is going to cost more," said Jennifer Kesner, manager of Toys R Us in Novi.

Supply lists may have come home during the summer, be posted with class lists or will be handed out during the first week of school.

Anna Gordon from Livonia has all her family's school shopping done so she was in Northville shopping with daughters Ashley, a first grader, and Marisa, a fifth grader, on Tuesday.

When the Gordon girls go back to school Aug. 31 they will be all set with red checking pencils, highlighters, and crayons. Marisa has a new Trapper Keeper and a new backpack. Ashley got notebooks, pencils, and a backpack.

"Boxes of Kleenex are always requested by the teachers," Gordon said. "I always stock up on any of arts and crafts things like popsicle sticks, construction paper, poster board, art supplies for projects," Gordon said.

"They like to put the key chains on their backpacks," Gordon said. "That we kind of got used to."

An experienced mother of school aged children, Gordon can pretty much predict what will be needed and stocks up.

"Last year we got caught with some of the Shout sticks," Gordon said. "The art teacher requested those to help keep some of the paint stains to be able to pretreat them. That's the only thing I got caught off guard with last year. I don't know what we might get thrown this year."

Also in Northville shopping was Livonia resident Linda Porter and her eighth grade son Caleb, but not for school supplies.

"Most of it is done, we just need a Trapper Keeper, pens and pencils, and folders," Porter said.

Caleb did not talk his mom into anything, just stuck to the list.

Porter likes to stock up on the folders which this time of year are 10 for $1.

"They are great for reports," Porter said. "Even if he doesn't use them, just to carry them to and from school so his report doesn't get squashed."

Gail Elenbaas from Canton and her sixth grade daughter Carissa have not started their shopping yet.

Carissa's friend Christy a sixth grade student in Northville was all set. After a shopping trip with her brothers and mother, she now has all the essentials like pencils, pens, paper, folders, and markers.

With a back to school date of Sept. 1, Elenbaas plans to do the supply shopping next week, as well as stocking up on lunch-type snacks.

Carissa said she doesn't really have a preference in the way of novelty supplies but is thinking about getting a few toys to keep in her backpack.

"We should be school shopping right now, but we're not, we're trying to pretend it is still summer, which it is," Elenbaas said.

Triplet's mother vies for title

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

Lori Hug has had a busy summer, and it's not solely because she is the mother of 18-month-old triplets Joseph, Victoria and Hannah. Although that in itself, can have a mom running in three different directions at the same time.

Hug, 26, has been preparing for the Mrs. America pageant. Results of the August competition will air on the Family channel in October.

Lori and Rick Hug were married five years ago and have lived in Novi since 1995.

Lori had already been doing a little modeling when the two met on a blind date, but it was Rick who got the ball rolling.

He submitted a few snapshots to Swimwear Illustrated a couple of years ago and the rest could become history.

"When you're a spouse you always think your wife or husband is the best and you have confidence in them," Rick said. "There were some good competition. I figured she finished in the top three, but when her name was finally called I was overly excited."

Lori competed in the Ujena Bikini Jam 12 and won the titles of Ujena 1998 Mother of the Year and Swimwear Illustrated Calendar Girl and was first runner-up in the overall competition for the 1998 Miss Swimwear Illustrated.

"I never thought it would amount to this," said Rick who is an area manager with a trucking company. "I am just bubbling with pride on her accomplishments."

Lori has come a long way from jogging less than one block to being about to cover three miles every morning in preparation for those first few pageants.

"I couldn't believe I was so out of shape," she said.

When she's not able to get in her early morning jogs she misses it although she admits she's "still not keen on the whole physical activity thing."

But having 30 minutes of total silence to think is something she does look forward to.

This summer, the Hugs moved in with Westland residents Tony and Mary DeGiulio, directors for Mrs. Michigan America Pageant, to prepare for the Mrs. America pageant.

"This year with Lori, we feel she can win the whole thing," said Mary. "We just want her to focus on taking care of her family and taking care of herself to get ready."

Lori has already lost over 50 pounds since the premature birth of the triplets through exercise and diet and weighs less than her pregnancy weight of about 125 pounds.

"She needs to get a little bit tighter into shape," said Mary. "All the women there are (former) Miss USA contestants."

"Rick is just so proud, before we even went to the bikini jam he told me 'just know you're always Mother of the Year to me and it doesn't matter if you win or lose,'" Lori said.

"I am just bubbling with pride on her accomplishments," Rick said.

The Hugs are also involved with two support groups for parents - one a bereavement group for parents who have suffered the loss of an infant or child and the other for infertile couples. The Hugs twin daughters died at 21 months.

"It not only helped us heal inside but now we're helping others," she said. "We could not imagine seeing past the next day when it happened and to be able to see other people that come in that same situation and through our story gives them a little extra hope means the world to us."

There is no talent category in Mrs. America and no bakeoffs.

Lori will be competing in four categories - beauty, poise and personality, swimsuit, and evening gown.

"Every woman that looks at her and reads her story can identify with her," Mary said.

Former champ regains the title

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

No pasta eating record was broken but Make A Wish Foundation will receive a nice chunk of change as a result of the Pasta Eating Contest which was held Aug. 12 at Santino's Place for Pasta in Novi.

Steven Spiegel, who held the record of six pounds of pasta in 1996, regained the title from Mike Stutzman, an account manager with Johnson Press in Novi, who had eaten seven pounds in 1997.

Spiegel consumed five and a quarter pounds of pasta.

Cary Anderson of Southfield was ahead of Spiegel and was beginning his sixth pound of pasta when he stood back and lost it all, so to speak.

"That was still a big decrease from last year," said Santino's owner Scott Longas. "Mike had lost some weight so I think that had some affect on how much he could eat. He was rallying late, but he couldn't come close."

Contestants were allowed to put anything they wanted on the pasta to make it palatable for the 30-minute contest. The pasta was cooked with a little olive oil and butter substitute.

Employees donated the day's wages, along with 100 percent of the restaurant sales, to the fund-raising event to raise $1,310.

Lisa Willard, Novi Chamber of Commerce, stopped by not to eat any pasta, but to drop off a check for $100 for the Make A Wish Foundation.

"It was nice of her to do that," Longas said.

Last year's pasta contest fund raiser raised $1,200.

Longas said chose this charity because 83 percent of the monies it receives goes to the cause.

This year's celebs included Bob Rouse of the San Jose Sharks, Michigan State University hockey star Mike Donnelly who is with the New York Islanders, and Terry Foster, a sports columnist with the Detroit News.

"It was fun. (Terry Foster) had them cracking up," Longas said. "He was telling jokes while they were trying to eat. A couple of the guys pooped out. They were laughing more than they were eating."

Weddings

Amy and Thomas Reiber

Amy L. Baxter and Thomas M. Reiber were united in marriage on May 16 at the Popponesset Inn of New Seabury, Mashpee, Mass., where a reception was held following the ceremony. Justice of the Peace Royden C. Richardson officiated the wedding. The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Beth Baxter of Brewster, Mass., and Donald Baxter of Ortonville, Mich., both formerly of Northville. She is a 1989 graduate of Northville High School and a 1993 graduate of Central Michigan University. Amy is owner of The Potting Shed in Brewster, Mass.

Dawn Leland of Sterling Heights was the bride's honor attendant. Serving as bridesmaids were Beth Thompson of Harper Woods and Cheryl Reiber of Pembroke, Mass.

The groom is the son of Gene and Kay Reiber of Pembroke, Mass. He is a 1991 graduate of Cape Cod Community College, and is currently employed as a shipping manager for E.S. Ritchie & Sons.

Attending as best man was Mark Sullivan of Pembroke. Jon Noris, Matt Costello and Gene Reiber, also of Pembroke, served as ushers.

After a honeymoon trip to Disney World, they made their home in East Sandwich, Mass.

Katy and Marc Van Soest

Katy Ann Murphy and Marc Arnold Van Soest were wed June 27 at Mulder Chapel, Western Theological Seminary in Holland, Mich. The Rev. Steven Dudek officiated at the double ring ceremony. Giving the bride in marriage was her father, David W. Murphy. A reception for 200 guests followed at the Holland Country Club.

The bride, daughter of David W. and Linda L. Murphy of Northville, is a 1993 graduate of Northville High School. She received her bachelor's degree in 1997 from Hope College and is currently teaching third grade at East Elementary, Grandville, Mich.

Attending as maid of honor was Jaime Lees. Serving as bridesmaids were Amanda Flowers, Brooke Sherrod, Laura White, Nicole Flinn, and Sarah Smith.

The bridal gown was designed by Oleg Cassini and was candlelight in color, as was the fingertip veil attached to a headpiece of raw silk rosettes. A sprig of seed pearls was encased in each raw silk rosette accenting the open back and waistline of the full-length silk gown. The sleeveless gown was further accented by satin piping and a cathedral length train.

The bridal bouquet consisted of a dozen fresh cut white tulips accented with greenery and cascading white satin ribbons.

The groom is the son of Carol L. Van Soest of Farmington and the late Marlow J. Van Soest. He also graduated in 1993 from Northville High School and was awarded his bachelor of arts degree last year from Hope College. Marc now teaches world history and civics at Holland High School.

A. Todd Lennig served as best man and attending as groomsmen were Jason Stringer, Thomas Murphy, Aaron Frank, Mark Byland, and Robert Morford.

The couple took a wedding trip to Portland, Ore., and now reside in Holland, Mich.

Kelly and Christopher Handyside

Kelly Borcherts and Christopher Handyside were married Aug. 16, 1997, on the terrace at Western Golf & Country Club. Officiating the ceremony was the Rev. David Blake of Sterling Heights, Mich., dear friend of the Borcherts family. Following the ceremony, a reception for 248 was held in the club's dining room.

The bride is the daughter of Frederick and Claudia Borcherts of Northville. She graduated from Northville High School in 1990, and received her teaching degree in dance from Columbia College, Chicago, Ill. She is currently employed with the University of Michigan-Flint's dance department and Performing Arts of Novi. She also received a certificate in massage therapy and using her skill, works part-time at the Senior Citizen Center.

Attending as matron of honor was her friend, Tonray Ho of Chicago. Bridesmaids were Kirsten Zarembo, cousin of the bride; Lindsay Ferguson, cousin of the groom; friends of the couple, Nancy Henry, Megan Berry, and Liz Deatherage. Flower girl was Kerriann Koss, cousin of the bride.

The bride's gown was full length with yards of tulle and Italian embroidered lace embellishing the bodice and short sleeves capped with organza. A detachable train was edged with individual lace rosettes as patterned in the bodice, which was designed and sewn by the bride's mother.

The bride wore a lace rosette headpiece with seed pearls and elbow length veil. Her bridal bouquet was an arrangement of Gerber daisies, roses and delphiniums surrounded with soft fern.

The groom is the son of Thomas and Linda Handyside of Northville. He is a 1990 graduate of Northville High School, and received a degree in journalism from Wayne State University. He is currently employed at Metro Times.

Brother of the groom Matthew Handyside served as best man. Groomsmen were Kurt Borcherts, brother of the bride; Mike Ferguson, cousin of the groom; and friends of the couple, Greg Siemasz, Tim Purrier, and John Szymanski.

Garden of the Month

Couple transforms garden

By PATRICIA ZIELKE
Special Writer

Herein unfolds a Cinderella story ... an exciting transformation from a raggedy-taggedy plot of ground to a beautifully planned and elegant terraced poolside garden. Like Cinderella, the basics were present, but she needed a lot of help in reaching her full potential.

The story begins when Bill and Sheryl Signorelli moved into their handsome home on Greenridge Drive three years ago in December. From the large kitchen window overlooking the garden, Sheryl could see the fluffy white snow-covered landscape while anticipating spring when the earth would yield long-awaited colorful perennials, sturdy trees and healthy shrubs. However, as the snow slowly melted and winter grudgingly conceded to spring, the view from the kitchen window changed to reveal a dismal array of scrub trees, scrawny unidentifiable bushes and a thriving population of weeds. Added to this woeful reality, the original retainer walls supporting a terraced garden were on their way to taking a dip in the swimming pool. Dreams were replaced with reality, and with reality came the challenge. So, the Signorellis laid down their gardening gauntlets and eagerly accepted the challenge.

It would be fair to say, however, that the entire area was not a total disaster. The huge free-form deck and attached gazebo were in good shape and the lazy-eight swimming pool looked fine. The black wrought iron fence surrounding the garden was stable and would provide an interesting and useful background for the new shrubs and flowering vines that would soon be winding through its grills. Research, careful planning, and attention to detail followed and the work began. Bill removed debris, shrubs, weeds and other debris. Together, the couple added rich top soil and mulch. The gardens were smoothed, contoured, and in some places, elevated. Bill straightened the retainer walls and added concealed wood supports to prevent further movement. He then constructed a wood stairway at the garden's south end using 6 by 6 planks.

Influenced by the grace and subtlety of Japanese design, the Signorellis incorporated a number of plantings, artifacts and strategically placed stones to reflect the culture and add interest and another dimension to the terrain. The terraces are beautifully done - with plantings of varying heights, colors and textures, and enough space between plants, creating a clean, uncluttered display. The top terrace, with a mix of sun and shade, holds hostas, vibrant red gladiolas, oriental evergreens, perennial geranium, seedum, daylilies, blackeyed Susan, yucca, astilbe, Colorado and blue spruce, weeping snow fountain cherry, weeping beech, two weeping oriental trees (cheer up already). In addition to tri-colored beech, lamium, Mediterranean pink heath, and burning bush, butterfly bush, honeysuckle and monarda, provide a delectable banquet for hummingbirds, bees and butterflies who feast at nature's table. Plans are underway to add a walkway of Michigan slate to the upper level.

The second and ground levels contain rounded cedar shrubs, dwarf oriental pines, and weeping Norway pines interspersed with colorful perennials including a variety of miniature rose bushes such as Meidiland scarlet roses, azaleas, pink hydrangea, cleome, juniper spreaders, impatiens, tanyosho, Japanese blood-grass, red and pink carnations, and veronica. Yellow potentilla cascades over the wood terrace with delphinium, Japanese lacecut maple, cone flowers and purple gay feather as neighbors, while Gaity bugleweed, planted off the pool deck, hugs the wood retainer wall. There is an Enoki pine, cardinal plant, galardia and veronica, along with seedum, moss roses, phlox, speedwell and coreopsis. In corners of the garden are hypericum frondosum sunburst, lady's mantle, ornamental grass and silver mound. Hens and chicks, moved from Sheryl's parent's garden, nest contentedly between rocks along the walkway leading to a chiseled message on a flat stone: "How lovely is the silence of growing things." And a collection of rocks, some salvaged from an indoor fireplace that Bill replaced, others from Sheryl's family home as mementos, and the remainder, unearthed from the garden, are used very effectively among plants and to define specific areas such as an herb garden from which the Signorellis select savory pieces, adding them to summer salads and other dishes.

Both Bill and Sheryl have very responsible and often demanding careers. Bill is general manager for Spearhead Automated Systems in Novi, and Sheryl is a psychiatric social worker specializing in child and family therapy at Hawthorn Center in Northville.

Sheryl said: "We both agree that coming home and putting around in our 'little garden paradise' is both therapeutic and energizing" and I think most gardeners would agree with that statement. It's healthy and liberating to wind down, refocus and regenerate.

Sheryl and Bill feel their garden is still a work in progress. Bill is currently hand-stamping the names of all trees and perennials on brass stakes - in addition to creating a bronze garden sculpture around in our 'little garden paradise' is both therapeutic and energizing" and I think most gardeners would agree with that statement. It's healthy and liberating to wind down, refocus and regenerate. new beds and "liberating" some shrubs and trees.

Although I think the Signorellis' garden is perfectly beautiful as it is, Bill and Sheryl are not quite ready to place the glass slipper on Cinderella's foot just yet.

'Dance with Me'

Chayanne, Williams heat up the screen

A broken-hearted former dance champion working as an instructor at a faded Houston dance studio struggles to revive her career.

Miles away, in Cuba, an enterprising young man leaves for Texas, equally determined to make his dreams a reality.

Fate brings this unlikely two some together in Dance With Me, where their passions ignite to the rhythm of a hot Latin beat beneath a glittering world spotlight.

When the handsome young Cuban, Rafael Infante (Chayanne), arrives in Houston his energy and enthusiasm immediately breathe new life into the Excelsior dance studio, a shabby local favorite on the verge of exhaustion.

Through the studio's owner, John Burnett (Kris Kristofferson), has grown weary of the daily one-two-cha-cha-cha grind, the establishment manages to stay afloat, buoyed by the Texas sized dreams of its students and teachers.

At the Excelsior, Rafael meets the beautiful but emotionally cool Ruby (Vanessa L. Williams), a dance instructor determined to recapture her standing as a top Professional International Latin Ballroom competitor.

Ruby fights her attraction to the handsome newcomer, whose vibrant, soulful, but unschooled Cuban salsa dancing style seems too spontaneous and somewhat inferior to hers.

But soon, the amateur is teaching the professional how to loosen up her disciplined method and feel the music.

Afraid of what Rafael's honesty and sensuality stir in her heart, Ruby heads for the World Open Dance Championship in Las Vegas with her former partner and lover.

But Rafael follows her, and in the heat of international competition the romance between Rafael and Ruby finally blooms.

Ruby learns what Rafael has known all along...sometimes the most important thing to follow isn't a partner, it's your heart.

Directed by Randa Haines, "Dance With Me" is a story of grand dreams and implausible romance moving between two electrifying worlds: the spicy salsa club scene and the elegant, high-stakes atmosphere of professional competitive ballroom dancing.

"What initially attracted me to this script was the human drama," says producer Lauren C. Weissman, who confesses to having little knowledge of the burgeoning dance sub-culture prior to her current project. "Then I discovered this spectacular, hot, young, sexy, smooth flamboyant, elegant dance milieu."

Movies can entertain us with thrills, drama, comedy—but this one inspires you to get off the sofa and participate in life. It says that if you don't have a family, you can find one. And if you find your family, then you never dance alone. This movie is about living your dreams."

Producer Shinya Egawa concluded, "The emotion, passion, energy and excitement are so intense. I think it would be impossible not to enjoy watching it, and even more thrilling to participate."

Ruby Sinclair (Vanessa L. Williams) and Rafael Infante (Chayanne) hit the floor at a Las Vegas salsa club in the Columbia Pictures/Mandalay Entertainment presentation of "Dance With Me."

The hills are alive at Dunham Hills Golf Club

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Anyone watching the PGA Championship played last weekend at the Sahalee Country Club in Redmond, Wash. had to wonder why golfers would want to take on the challenges of such a course. Well, aside from the money and prestige of the tournament, it's exactly the challenge factor that makes it a great course.

At Dunham Hills Golf Club in Hartland, local golfers get a firsthand look at one of the tougher challenges southeastern Michigan has to offer. With its trademark rolling fairways and tree-lined holes, Dunham Hills is not a course for the weak.

It definitely challenges short hitters to club up and long hitters to think twice. This is a course where club selection and course management must be observed.

"It's kind of sneaky and tight in some spots," says its head golf professional Dave Fisher. "The best way to golf this golf course is just to get out there and golf it. You'll get to a hole and think it's wide open, but there will be some overhanging trees in the way."

The first few holes on the front nine are straight and tight. The golfer must be able to keep the ball in the fairway to have a decent look at the greens. As a whole, the front nine are tighter than the back, although there are more holes where water may come into play.

The toughest holes on the course are the par-threes, which range from 158-233 yards from the back tees. Every one requires the strength to reach the greens and the precision to hit them as well.

"The par-threes are definitely the toughest holes on the course because the shots are so long," Fisher said.

The first such challenge comes on hole number five. The golfer must hit to an elevated green from 192 yards.

The elevation makes the hole play an extra 20-30 yards and the golfer can not see the surface of the green. The green isn't anything tricky, but for many, two shots will be needed to put the ball within par range.

The green at the 10th hole over looks a picturesque view of holes number 11 and 14 at Dunham Hills Golf Club.

From there, the par threes keep getting longer and longer in distance, until hole number 16.

As the golfer makes the turn, the beauty of the course can be seen as it opens up. A blind tee shot on hole number 10 leads downhill to a large, round green which is surrounded by a giant willow and swamp to the right. A misjudgment to the right can spell disaster, so keep the ball left of the hole if possible.

Hole numbers 11-4 are long and picturesque. Back-to-back par fives on 12 and 13 require big clubs. The last four holes are shorter, and require delicate club selection.

The par-three 16th hole measures 158 yards from the back tees and requires the golfer to clear 130 yards of water.

"You can pretty much go through every club in your bag," Fisher said. "We have a good variety of lengths in our par fours to go along with long par threes and par fives."

"We have a lot of people out here who feel it's a very good challenge," Fisher said.

The popularity of the course has grown since management redid and reshaped some of the bunkers, changed some of the severely-pitched greens and changed a few holes.

The course measures 5,310 yards from the women's tees, 6,291 from the middle tees and 6,715 yards from the back tees, providing the golfer with the challenge of his or her choice.

Greens fees are $48 on weekends and $40 Monday through Friday. The cost is $23 for nine holes weekdays and $28 on weekends. All of the preceding costs include a cart. The twilight rate after 5 p.m. is $24 with a cart and $14 to walk. The twilight hours will be moved to 4 p.m. after Sept. 2.

Monday through Friday there is a senior rate of $25 for those 55 years of age or older for 18 holes and a cart.

Dunham Hills is located at 13561 Dunham Road. Take Milford Road north to M-59 and head west. From there, take Tipsico Lake Road north until you hit Dunham Road. The course is 1/4 mile west on Dunham.

For more information or to reserve a tee time please call the course at (248) 887-9170.

Fall practices, competition begin for Northville fall sports teams

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

As the summer winds down for most of us, the fall practices have begun for Northville high school athletes. Most began Aug. 10, but some started shortly thereafter.

The Northville tennis team will begin defense of its Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) title when it hosts North Farmington Wednesday Sept. 9. The netters open the season with a tough match against Novi tomorrow at the Northville High School tennis courts. That match will begin at 3:30 p.m.

Trying to win its second-consecutive district championship, the soccer team opens its season at the Country Day Invitational tomorrow and Saturday. The conference schedule will kick off with a Monday, Aug. 31 matchup at Plymouth Salem.

The gridlers will try to retain the momentum they gained with a season-ending 35-6 romp over Baseline rival Novi in the battle for the jug. The 'Stangs finished the season with a 4-5 record and finished fifth in the WLAA. Their season opens at home Friday, Sept. 4 against the Bulldogs of Brighton. The conference opener is the following week at Walled Lake Central.

The basketball team will have to recover the loss of all-time scoring leader Lauren Metaj if it wants to bounce back from a district semifinal loss to Novi. The team will get its chance for revenge against the Wildcats when the two teams matchup Oct. 17 at Northville. The season opener is Tuesday when the team plays in the South Lyon Tournament.

Boys' cross country coach Ed Gabrys is hoping his team can build on a successful 1997 campaign, which saw the Mustangs finish fourth out of 12 teams at the WLAA meet. Although the team did not qualify for the state final meet, returning senior Kevin Arbuckle will try to better his 26th-place finish at the state meet in 1998. The team will face Novi in the season opener Thursday, Aug. 27 and open their WLAA schedule at Walled Lake Western Sept. 17.

The girls' team hopes to build on its strongest finish in nine years. Last year coach Chris Cronin's team placed fourth in the WLAA and return a slew of seniors to better than finish this season. They will get their first chance in the season opener with Novi next Thursday.

Participating in the first meet of the fall season, the golf team gets its season underway today at the Eastern Michigan University Invite at Huron Golf Club. The team finished ninth at the WLAA meet last year and 17th at the regional meet.

The girls' swim team qualified five to the state meet last year at Michigan State University and finished sixth overall at the WLAA meet.

They will get a chance to better their finish when their conference schedule opens up at the WLAA relays Sept. 10 at Plymouth Salem High School. The lone home meet of the season will be Oct. 15 against Walled Lake's combined team.

Look for each sports' season schedule in next week's fall sports preview in The Northville Record.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association has announced rule changes in basketball, football and soccer for the 1998-99 season.

— Two safety issues are addressed under National Federation of State High School Associations (MHSAA) rules changes in football. The first prohibits the use of eye shields with less than 100 percent light transmission; the second prohibits defensive players from using their hands to slap a blocker's head.

Additionally, the MHSAA Representative Council took action in May which requires that all varsity football games involving Michigan teams ending in a tie score after regulation play be decided by the MHSAA-approved tie-breaking procedure.

The Council also revised the mercy rule in football so that a running clock will be used at all levels, for regular-season and playoff games, whenever a 35-point differential in the score is reached after the first half of play. The clock will run continuously except during called timeouts; the break between the third and fourth quarters and following a score; during penalty enforcement; and for safety reasons, such as injuries. Normal timing procedures resume if the point differential is reduced to less than 35 points.

— Notable National Federation rules changes in basketball include a change in substitutions during multiple free throw situations, and how a team calls a time-

During multiple free throw attempt situations, substitutions may only be made before the final attempt of the sequence and after the final attempt has been converted. With regards to calling a timeout, a player or the head coach may now orally or visually request a timeout.

The MHSAA Representative Council voted in May to institute a mercy rule in basketball, which will be in effect at all levels for regular season and tournament play. When a differential of 40 points is reached after the first half, a running clock shall be used, with the condition that the running clock shall revert to regular time schemes when the differential is reduced to 30 or fewer points. In all cases, the clock shall stop for called timeouts and breaks between quarters.

— In soccer, National Federation rule changes include: that a goal may be scored from a kickoff or goal kick; that a goalie may no longer touch the ball after receiving it directly from a teammate or throw in; an allowance for lateral movement by a goalkeeper during a penalty kick; and an adoption for a provision that the placement of the ball on the line for corner kicks is legal.

The F-League Cardinals posted a perfect 20-0 record in league and tournament play in 1998, but fell to Frankenmuth in the semifinals of the state tournament held in Clarkston.

Cardinals post undefeated season

The F League Northville Cardinals (13-14 year-olds), coached by Bill Deacon, Bob Sasena, and Jim Hepler were 20-0 in league and tournament play this season. They qualified for the state tournament held in Clarkston. The Cardinals beat Livonia and Eastpointe before falling to Frankenmuth in the semifinals.

"This team has played together for two years. Last year we only won one game in the regular season," Deacon said. "To see them grow and progress to the state championship final four is quite an accomplishment. I know the parents were very proud of the team and it is something these kids will remember for the rest of their lives."

The Cardinals hosted the champions from Livonia and pulled out an exciting 7-6 victory. Tony Puzzuoli pitched six innings, keeping the game tied at 4-4. Some outstanding defensive highlights came from Jimmy Deacon with a backhand stop on a ground ball deep in the hole at shortstop and a diving catch on a two-out fly ball by Danny Kuriluk.

The deciding seventh inning started for the Cardinals with three straight hits by Billy Adkins, Deacon, and Puzzuoli. All three scored. Deacon pitched the seventh inning to close out the victory.

"The pitching performance by Tony showed the heart of this kid," noted coach Sasena.

Other outstanding performances were turned in by Aaron Gallogly, Jon Patton, Jack Kelly and Mike D'Amico.

In the Cardinals 5-4 win over Eastpointe, Jimmy Deacon and Jimmy Wolbers pitched the first six innings, giving up only 4 hits. Tony Puzzuoli closed out the game pitching the seventh inning.

The offensive attack was led by DH Aaron Gallogly going 2 for 3, and Mark Batchik's double.

The Cardinals made some mistakes in the field and could not overcome them with their bats in a 10-4 loss to Frankenmuth that ended the season in the state tournament semifinals. The offense was led by Tony Puzzuoli and Jon Patton, who each had two hits. Despite early lapses, there were also some outstanding defensive plays but none better than a double play turned in by Jimmy Hepler.

"The players worked hard and really played as a team. They should be proud of their accomplishments," noted coach Hepler.

Proper training guidance can decrease prolonged cuff injury

I have been having on and off pain in my right shoulder area for some time now. I think it is my rotator cuff. What exercises are best to help this area, or should I not work out at all until the pain is gone?

Chris Klebba

This is by far the number one injury complaint we as professional trainers hear with our clients. Unfortunately many of our clients are looking for a quick answer and as with most issues relating to our fascinating bodies, there is no quick answer but let's try to help. The shoulder joint has more freedom of movement than any other single joint. The fact that it is relatively unstable. The stability of not only the mobile shoulder joint but all joints are critical factors to be considered during weight training or any other movement. This unfortunately does not happen most times. Most people want to use muscle to move a given resistance from point A to B to reach a goal with little or no concern about their joints.

Muscles move joints. If the joint is beyond its normal range of motion or impinges during resistance movements, you are asking for trouble. Unfortunately, improper training usually does not correct itself immediately, like saying putting our hand on a hot burner. We usually learn that one pretty quick.

Improper training will weaken or strain a joint area over time and a trigger movement like golf, baseball or starting a pull lawn mower will be blamed as the cause, when actually the improper training or movement over the last six months, a year, or whatever is the culprit. I realize that is a lot without answering the question, but if we can get to the source and not treat the symptom alone, we would all be further along.

The rotator cuff is actually a group of four muscles in the shoulder area. As Philip Schmitt D.O. orthopedic and sports medicine states, "These muscles of the rotator cuff often get overlooked in strength training because they're not a visible group of muscles like the chest, arms, or back, but are of great importance since the rotator cuff are functional muscles involved in training most all of the other upper body muscles." Dr. Schmitt goes on to explain "there are three levels of shoulder injury - rotator cuff tendinitis, impingement syndrome, or a muscle tear."

He recommends ice initially when an injury like this is discovered, then heat or ice for the next 48 hours, whichever helps it feel better. Assure you have the proper training guidance, cut back on the level of intensity and if you do not notice an improvement in about a two-three week time frame, you may want to seek the next level of medical assistance.

Dr. Schmitt states, "The types of treatment include activity modification, anti-inflammatory medication, physical therapy, injections, and in extreme cases, surgery. Most injuries of this type do not require surgery and should recover with the application of one or a combination of the earlier treatments."

I hope this helps you with some next steps. Once you're okay, be sure you get some professional guidance on incorporating specific rotator cuff exercises to help avoid these injuries in the future.

HOW TO

Use caution when dealing with asbestos-laden tiles

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. We want to replace the linoleum tile floor of a basement guest bedroom with ceramic tile. We have consulted several contractors who have disagreed as to whether they will first remove the linoleum tile or apply the ceramic tile directly on top, lifting only the linoleum tile pieces that are broken or worn. Since our house is 40 years old and because of the way the floor looks now, it sounds more reasonable that the linoleum tile be removed. We are concerned, however, about asbestos as a potential health hazard if we do remove it. How viable is this concern? Should we tile on top of the linoleum or just abandon the whole idea and carpet over the existing tiles?

A. Since your flooring predates 1979 (when flooring manufacturers ceased using asbestos in vinyl and linoleum flooring, including backing, underlayment and adhesives) it is wise to be concerned about asbestos.

If some of the tiles are deteriorating and damaged, it would be best to encapsulate the existing floor by gluing 1/4-inch plywood over your floor and then putting down the new tiles. Asbestos-containing materials left undisturbed are not a hazard. Only when friable asbestos is deteriorating over a broad area or when asbestos of any kind is likely to be disturbed by a repair or renovation project should removal be undertaken, only by a trained contractor who is qualified and certified for such removal. This would include the removal of any damaged tiles as well as the entire flooring.

The presence of asbestos can be determined by laboratory analysis of materials likely to contain asbestos in a home. Most local health departments are able to refer homeowners to trained inspectors who make both a visual inspection and take samples for laboratory testing. However, this can be costly and you may prefer to proceed by installing the new flooring over the old.

If the existing tile is not damaged and tiles are still firmly set (not loose or uneven) you can install the new tiles directly over the old linoleum flooring without the addition of plywood. However encapsulating the old flooring with plywood would be playing it safe and would assure a solid, even substrate for the new tile.

Q. I acquired some furniture with heavy coats of paint at a recent yard sale. These pieces are some 30 to 40 years old. I plan to strip the existing paint and refinish. My neighbor cautioned me that the existing paint may contain lead and I should take precautions. Is this a real problem? If so, how can I refurbish this furniture?

A. There is a very real possibility that the paint could contain lead. Paint that was manufactured even as late as 1978 - when the U.S. government finally banned the use of lead in paint - often contained lead. If you are dealing with a surface you are unsure of, it's wise to test first. Testing kits are available at paint stores, hardware stores and home centers. One such product that is easy to use is Lead Check Swabs. When applied to the paint, the swab tip turns pink if there is lead present.

It's a simple and easy test to make. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. If lead is present, you need to take steps for protection while stripping the old paint. Wear an approved breathing device, rubber gloves, eye protection and old clothing that can be thrown away. Use plastic or plenty of newspapers as drop sheets to cover the area where you are working and dispose these with the paint residue from the stripping process in sealed plastic bags or containers.

Q. We have a window air-conditioner which is about five years old. Recently the unit started dripping water from the front panel. Do you know what causes this and how it can be corrected? Do these units need to be overhauled periodically?

A. If a room air-conditioning unit makes a gurgling noise or if water drips from the front panel, the problem is often with the condensate drain. Turn off the power to your unit. Using a level, check to make sure that the cabinet's outer section slopes toward its condensate drain located at the back (outside) of the unit. If your window unit is not pitched away from the house, condensation created during operation can't run out. A plugged condensate drain could also be the problem. Clean it out or replace with a new one.

Most room air-conditioners do not need periodic lubrication as they come from the factory with permanent lubrication. However, they do need routine cleaning of both the filters and the coils. Some types of filters are vacuumed; others should be washed or replaced. Clean or change the filter every two to three weeks during operational periods. Vacuum the condenser coil at the back to remove excess dust and dirt whenever you clean the filters.

May Dubuc will include perennials to have blooms throughout spring and summer in her Northville garden.

A Work in Progress

Although this garden in Northville is already a rainbow of color and foliage, gardener May Dubuc says that it's far from finished

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
Special Writer

Like a good cook, sometimes a great gardener has to start from scratch.

That is the case with May Dubuc, who spent 12 years on her first garden in Northville, only to start over again. Her latest efforts, also in Northville, certainly don't look like she began only this summer. However, they are far from finished according to this lady's grand plans.

The gardens were inspired by the Butchard gardens in Victoria, British Columbia.

"As you walk in, you stand and look down to see a waterfall garden with a garden path. I looked at it and realized what could be done here," Dubuc said.

Her dream to have a waterfall in her garden, as well as a fountain and foot bridge leading to Elizabeth Lake came true. The lake feeds the fountain and waterfall.

Northville woman creates a garden masterpiece

To begin with, she and her husband Roger put in what she calls the bones. Roger's specialty is the stonework. For this area, he suggested shale or grindstone rock. He trucked in over 50 tons to form the retaining walls and flower beds.

Then 30 blue spruce trees were planted by landscapers with the grindstone used as a retaining wall. Landscapers also planted ground cover such as sedum between the spaces in the rocks. She credits A & K Landscaping of Troy for their contribution.

Dubuc planted the remaining bushes and most of the flowers this year.

The secret is to plan so there's something blooming throughout spring and summer, according to Dubuc. For example, in spring the yellow forsythia and lilac bloom. She's also planted cherry trees for their spring blossoms. Burning bush will turn bright red in the fall.

Her plan is to convert as much of her garden to perennials as possible, filling in a bit here and there with annuals for color. This isn't only attractive and convenient - it's also practical for Dubuc, who is concerned about the labor involved with planting lots of annuals. She used to plant 100 flats in her gardens at her home in Edenderry.

"Right now we're just anxious to get everything growing. It looks like it took," she said.

Dubuc has planted bright orange trumpet vines and wisteria, in hopes they will cover walls and arches. She has hostas and lilies in various colors, including yellow peach and mauve. For ground cover, she used myrtle, ivy, and mountain phlox.

To create a natural look, Dubuc blended woodland greenery and flowers along the shore of the lake, including golden rod and Queen Anne's Lace near the cattails. A row of yellow and white daisies line the border between the garden beds and the lake.

As you stroll the gardens, you'll also find a peony walk and a rose garden where a rose of each color is planted. The woodland area will be planted with Jack in the pulpit, columbine and daffodils. Bird houses and feeders are sprinkled throughout the garden.

One special area is dedicated to what she calls a friendship garden. Here Dubuc puts in all the plants that she receives from her friends. She plans to put in markers with their names to identify from whom the plants came. Right now there's light purple cleome and delphinium, and yellow snapdragon, to name a few.

The stone path that currently exists will be replaced with crushed white stone for a more polished look. A walk-out basement also leads to a brick paver terrace and sidewalk leading to the front of the house. The couple enjoys entertaining their children and grandchildren here.

Dubuc's gardening skills came from her father, who named her after the month of May, when their flowers are their prettiest. She returns to her hometown in Victoria, British Columbia frequently and visits the Butchard gardens there as well.

"I go back every few years to visit family. I think it's my very favorite place in the world," she said.

Her word to the wise about a work in progress - It doesn't happen overnight and be prepared to make adjustments.

"I have to say it's a testing ground for a least a couple of years," she said.

Dubuc is a member of the Country Garden Club of Northville, a branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. The gardens at her home in Edenderry were featured on the Northville Garden Club Garden Walk in 1994.

Years of experience as a gardener will guide her as she draws out a plan this fall for next year's lay out which will include pinks and orchids.

She'll be busy getting her new gardens ready to be featured in next year's Northville Garden Club's Garden Walk in July, 1999.

The secret is to plan so there's something blooming throughout spring and summer, according to Dubuc.

This Lux clock is worth about $1,000 in mint condition.

This little clock gets a big hand for value

By Anne McColam
Copley News Service

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a windup clock that has been in my family for years. It measures nine inches high. It is in the shape of the face of a man, which is made of wood, and his tie is made of metal. The eyes move back and forth in coordination with the movement of the tie. On the back of the clock are the words "Lux Clock Mfg. Co., Inc., Waterbury, Conn. USA." The patent number is "1928296."

Can you please tell me anything about my clock and its approximate value?

A. Your Lux clock is recognized by several names, including Pickanniny Pendulette, Dixie Boy and Black Sambo. It has a crossover value, appealing to collectors of Black memorabilia and clocks.

The patent number shows it was patented in 1933. "Schroeder's Antiques Price Guide, 1998" lists this clock at $1,000 in mint condition.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a pottery vase that I have. The vase stands about 12 inches tall and is decorated with colors of rust, cream, blue and chocolate that appear to be swirled together. It is my understanding that it was made in Arkansas in the early 1900s.

Could you tell me if this type of pottery is still being made and if my vase has more than minimal value?

A. Niloak Pottery Co. was located in Benton, Ark., from 1910 to 1947. Owner Charles Dean Hyten started out making stoneware crocks and jugs. As demand decreased for stoneware, he and former Rookwood potter Arthur Dovey began experimenting with native Arkansas clay. He swirled several colors together and then put the clay on the potter's wheel. The result was a marbled appearance that he named "Mission Swirl."

Although there are some rare exceptions, early pieces can be recognized by the rough exterior textures and the waterproof clear interior glazes. Niloak is Kaolin spelled backward. (Kaolin is a fine white to gray clay used in ceramics.) Due to the success of the Mission Swirl line, the pottery introduced umbrella stands, tankards, lamps, pitchers and candlesticks. In 1928, Hyten patented the swirl technique. Mission Swirl's heyday lasted until the Depression.

ANTIQUES

Your early 1900s vase would probably be worth about $400 to $700.

Q. I have in my possession seven Children's Play

Mate Magazines from 1939 to 1940. The A.R. Mueller Printing Co. of Cleveland, Ohio published them. Each magazine is in good condition.

Any idea of what they might be worth would be greatly appreciated.

A. The popular magazine for children, ages 4 to 14, was introduced in 1929. It featured stories, craft projects, paper dolls and games.

Collectors are willing to pay $10 to $20 depending on condition and rarity for single copies in very good condition.

Q. About 20 years ago I purchased a cookie jar at a garage sale in New York State. The price was under $2. I bought it because it depicted the nursery rhyme, "Hey Diddle, Diddle, the Cat and the Fiddle."

The jar represents the moon. A cow is on top of the moon and serves as the handle for the lid. A little dog is playing a bass fiddle and a dish and spoon are running away. On the bottom are the words "R.R.P. Co., Roseville - Ohio."

I would appreciate any information about my cookie jar.

A. Robinson-Ransbottom Pottery has been in business since 1901. They made around 25 different cookie jars from the early 1900s to the 1960s. Cookie-jar collectors have been known not to fiddle around when the prices are in the $225 to $250 range for "Hey Diddle, Diddle" cookie jars.

Address your questions to Anne McColam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

Vacation home-swapping is becoming increasingly popular

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

One of your homeownership perks can save you thousands of dollars. And an increasing number of owners are taking advantage of it.

These homeownership families are temporarily swapping their home for another in their chosen vacation locale. Instead of spending thousands on a hotel suite or resort accommodations, they move into another person's home in the same area, while permitting their own home to be used by the family who owns the residence in the destination point.

If you'd like to spend three weeks in Victoria, B.C., Canada, you would simply arrange with a homeowner in that area to exchange homes for a mutually agreeable time period. No money is exchanged. In some cases, even the family car or boat is included in the swap agreement.

Several thousand dollars can be saved by each party with such an arrangement. And, surprisingly, very few problems are reported by those who have utilized this money-saving vacation plan. In fact, it often results in new lifelong friendships.

Another special advantage: The participants enjoy their vacation area from the perspective of a resident, not a tourist. They can taste the real lifestyle of people in that area of the world.

The first step in arranging for such a swap is to connect with a homeownership family in your desired destination community. This can be accomplished on your own, via newspaper ads or communicating with friends or relatives in the area. Or you can subscribe to home-swapping directories, typically costing from $50 to $80 per year.

This will give you several directories per year, with descriptions and pictures of available homes in specified areas throughout the world.

A couple of the largest home-swapping directories are Homelink at (800) 638-3841, and Intervac U.S. at (800) 756-4663.

These directory firms normally will not take any responsibility for lining up arrangements between parties. That's up to the parties themselves. The directories simply show properties that are current swap possibilities.

Several information sources are now strictly on the Internet. International Home Exchange Network, for example, has a Web site at: www.ihen.com. Membership in this group is only $29.95 per year.

"Our membership has been growing at a rate of about 40-50 percent per month during the past few months," said network principal Linda Allen. "Every month, we receive about 80,000 file requests from over 40 countries."

Home exchanging on a formal basis goes back 50 years to a time when a group of Dutch school teachers wanted to trade homes and formed the first exchange network, Allen noted. With the growth of the Internet, the printed directories are now losing market share to organizations that use the Internet to communicate information.

Recently, this column focused on the new Gold Alliance Program initiated by the National Association of Realtors - a program in which participating multiple listing service (MLS) groups must agree not to submit their database of listed property descriptions to any Web site other than Realtor.com, the site owned by NAR and operated by RealSelect.

The column primarily expressed the viewpoint of real estate leaders who maintained competing Web sites on the Internet. It spelled out their objections to the program and how it could have an adverse impact on consumers and brokers. Now we'll look at the other side of the coin.

"We feel this (Gold Alliance Program) arrangement helps to maintain the value of the property data provided by the MLSs," said Michael Keller, vice president of marketing for RealSelect, the firm that operates NAR's Realtor.com Web site.

"There is risk of the property data being devalued if it is widely distributed on many sites. It's like an auto manufacturer that limits the number of distributors to protect the integrity of its marketing plan and its potential."

"From the consumer's perspective, the new program makes it easier to search for a particular type of home. In effect, it provides a one-stop information resource site," Keller said.

The Realtor.com site is by far the most used real estate site on the Internet, Keller said. "Over 400 MLS operations nationwide participate in exposing their listed properties on the site. It includes about 90 percent of all listed residential properties."

"It's already a viable one-stop information source for home buying and selling consumers. The new program will make it even more valuable for brokers and MLSs by making it easier for consumers to obtain information they need."

MLSs that choose not to participate in the Gold Alliance Program may still submit their listed property information to the Realtor.com site, but they will receive a lesser amount of financial benefit from the site, Keller said. "If they go along with the new program and agree to an exclusive arrangement, thus making a higher level of commitment, they will benefit from a greater revenue share."

Data on listed properties, and how it is disseminated and exposed, is at the heart of the real estate brokerage business, Keller noted. "The Realtor.com site helps the Realtor preserve the value of that data, while boosting the marketing potential of the properties."

Questions may be used in future columns; personal responses should not be expected. Send inquiries to James M. Woodard, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 120190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Doctor practices 'gentle medicine'

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
Special Writer

Patients who have been dissatisfied with the traditional approach to medicine have other alternatives, says Dr. Mary Bunker, of Milford.

Bunker is a new face to the business community specializing in what she likes to call "gentle medicine."

Her approach to healing is a little different. She understands there are patients who feel they don't get quality time with their physician, and believes her most valuable asset is a good listening ear.

Bunker taps into her listening skills early, beginning with setting up the appointment. She discusses concerns with the patients and also lets them know how long the office visit should take. Long uninterrupted visits can often cure the patient faster, she believes. An initial appointment can be anywhere up to an hour and a half, depending on concerns.

She takes time to review a patient's lifestyle, and prefers to look for ways to improve wellness, or search for more natural, less toxic cures to illness. Homeopathic medicines work to balance the system, according to the doctor.

"I like to see where a person is and try to get them to a total state of wellness. Everything I do, whether osteopathic or homeopathic - both schools believe the body can heal itself ... I like to try the less toxic things first," she said.

She is concerned with overuse of prescription drugs. For example, antibiotics are among the most over prescribed medicines. People are beginning to realize that there isn't always a cure for everything in a prescription bottle, she said.

"We're more complex than that. For example - why do we catch a cold? Most likely we're under stress which lowers our immunities," she said. "We're all interrelated, mind, body and soul."

People don't need to be sick to benefit from Dr. Bunker. A regular health evaluation can help prevent future problems.

"I like to see where a person is at, and try to get them to a total state of wellness," she said.

After a consultation, Bunker may recommend changes in lifestyle, and give the patient the reason behind the changes. However, the choice to change is up to them, a patient's health is their responsibility.

Although the homeopathic approach to medicine is less toxic than prescription, it is also more complicated. More importantly, there are no side effects. Bunker doesn't automatically take people off their prescription medicine, at least not immediately. She evaluates the situation and what is necessary. And if health is improved, only then does she consider taking the patient off the prescription.

The part of the Hippocratic oath that I take most seriously is to maximize health and to do no harm. I feel that's a really important part of my job."

Keeping current with the latest medical publications and research is an ongoing and essential part of her profession. Bunker believes the homeopathic approach is on the cutting edge of medicine, citing the fact that in 1994 the New England Journal of Medicine noted that Americans were spending more money out of pocket for alternative medicines than primary health care. In addition, 40 per cent of Americans are using some form of alternative medicine.

Who are her patients? Everyone who needs my help, she says. As a family practitioner, she sees young and old alike.

For those who are looking for an alternative to hormone replacement, Bunker has seen great success with natural replacements. She works in conjunction with a compounding pharmacy in Southfield to provide natural hormone replacements with great results.

Children diagnosed with ADD can also benefit from homeopathic medicine. It's been very effective in helping the child become more balanced, according to Bunker.

"They're very bright learners, but they're tactile learners. Often they make good engineers."

She feels very honored to have studied under Dr. Fulford, whom she considers one of the great healers of our time. She is a practitioner of the Fulford and craniosacral techniques.

Dr. Mary Bunker's office is located at 317 Union Street, Suite D. Call (248) 684-1080 for an appointment.

EXPERIENCE CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT AT THE YMCA

Through the youth sports arena the Livonia Family YMCA is exposing its participants to Character Development. The four core areas of character development are Caring, Respect, Responsibility, and Honesty. It is our hope that in addition to a parent volunteer coach for each team, we can recruit a parent Character Development Coordinator for each team. The YMCA will train the coordinators in exercises that teach the children the four core areas of character development. Exercises will include team circles and group projects.

At the YMCA, we care about the development of a child as a person as well as an athlete. Our sports leagues will always emphasize fun over winning. We welcome participants of all abilities and guarantee every child will play at least 50% of every game.

EATING OUT HEALTHFULLY

01801-08 General, 01801-09 American, 01801-10 Mexican, 01801-11 Italian, 01801-12 Chinese.

The goal of this program is to educate individuals how to make healthful food choices while eating away from home. It will focus on ways to reduce calories and fat in meals. Five topics offered are General, American, Mexican, Italian, and Chinese. These classes are all held within the YMCA facility. In order to pay for resources there will be a fee of $20 per class. If you sign up for all five topics, then your cost per topic is only $15. Participants will learn to:

- ✓ Describe two challenges to eating out healthfully
- ✓ Identify lighter-side (lower fat and calorie) and heavier-side (higher fat and calorie) food choices when eating away from home
- ✓ Identify lighter- and heavier-side cooking methods
- ✓ Describe two strategies for cutting calories and fat in meals when eating away from home

FAT BUDGETING . . . The NutriSmart Way

01801-13

The goal of this program is to reduce total fat in the diet with an effective strategy for eating healthier. Using the Fat Budgeting technique, individuals learn how to eat better without depriving themselves of favorite foods. This program is also offered within the YMCA facility and will cover information in two class periods. These are broken down as follows:

First Class

- ✓ What is fat budgeting?
- ✓ Why fat budgeting is a useful tool
- ✓ Examining your current eating habits

Second Class

- ✓ Skill building
- ✓ Planning an individualized fat budget
- ✓ Developing a personal health strategy

To cover resource fees there is a charge of $20, which covers both classes.

Note: For the first class you sign up for of your choosing, you will get a free Nutrition T-shirt from the YMCA and for the third class you attend you will receive a free cookbook - "Fast and Easy Recipes" written by the American Dietetic Association, from the YMCA.
