

Trustees approve contract

Teachers receive 7 percent pay raise over 3 years, other benefits

By WENS DY WHITE
Staff Writer

Northville teachers are starting the school year with a brand new contract.

The Northville Public School District Board of Education approved a new three year contract for teachers August 25.

The contract was ratified by the 368-member NEA on August 19.

"Membership responded very well," said NEA president Barb LeBoeuf. "It was passed overwhelmingly, something like 85 percent."

Under the new agreement teachers will get a 7 percent pay raise over three years. The raise is based on the district's current $16 million teacher payroll, according to district finance director John Street.

The contract also provides teachers with an additional option on health care benefits and a generous early leave option.

But they'll also have to substitute teach during their planning hour one time each semester and give 48 hours notice if they need time off to take care of business.

The new three-year contract came after six months of negotiations that weren't always amicable, according to Roy Danley, school district director of personnel.

"Negotiations at times were difficult and at times a little stressful. At times we didn't fully appreciate each other but we stayed on task, which I think is a credit to both sides," Danley said.

Some highlights of the contract include:

A glance Back in time

Post card book illustrates history of Northville area

WE may not think of it as a vacation destination, yet since the turn of the century Northville has been marketed in a way normally thought to be reserved for holiday hot spots.

Picture postcards of the area have been produced for the last 90 years.

Individually, they offered people a way to send inexpensive greetings through the mail.

Now, viewed collectively, they represent a pictorial history of what's been considered important and beautiful in the area.

Thanks to longtime resident and Northville Historical Society volunteer Fran Gazlay, a collection of 116 Northville postcards dating back to 1906 have been published in a book.

"Greetings From Northville, A Post Card Album," is now available in local stores for $10 a copy, with all proceeds benefiting the Mill Race Historical Village.

"The purpose of the book is to show that Northville has a history, all kinds of history," Gazlay said. "The early postcards show automobiles and vehicular equipment. The most recent ones show the beauty of the place with flowers and all that kind of stuff."

On the first page of the book are postcards of homes on Dunlap Street (1908), a bird's eye view of the city (1910), a railroad depot (1915), and the Stimpson Scales manufacturing plant (1906), which was later converted to Stinson Aircraft.

The last postcards in the 28-page book show images of Mill Race and the Main Street clock.

None of the postcards contain people and the postcard captions are confined to titles and dates alone.

That leaves out an explanation of a postcard dated 1930 that shows a Cadillac Aircraft Corporation sign painted on the facade of the former Stinson Aircraft plant.

Gazlay suspects the company was a fraud because research turned up no record that it ever existed.

"It looks like people had a bunch of paper printed up to sell stock and a couple gallons of paint to put this sign up but they never manufactured an airplane here," Gazlay said.

The book's lack of text is purposeful, according to Gazlay.

"The reason is to collect a pictorial history of the town," he said. "A lot of people live and move through here but they don't take pictures. They don't bother."

Northville resident Fran Gazlay sits at Poole's Tavern and talks about his compilation book of historical Northville postcards.

Gazlay spent 40 years gathering postcards from antique shows and historical collections throughout the state. It was only in the last two years though, that he began to realize that he had enough to create a book.

He supplemented his own collection with postcards from local antique collectors and historical society archives for the final product, printed by News Printing Incorporated, in Wayne.

Williams, 77, was former township trustee

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The one thing Donald Williams missed more than anything else during his time in Florida were the trees.

"Autumn was his favorite season," said his wife, Sally. "He absolutely loved that Northville color. Down here, we've got all palm trees."

Williams, a former trustee and member of Northville's VFW Post No. 4012, died in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. on Aug. 29 after a lengthy illness.

He was 77.

Williams had been a resident of Palm Springs Gardens for six years after relocating from Northville. Sally Williams said her husband became involved in local government after expressing his unhappiness with the way things were being run in his community back in the early 1980s.

"I told him that the only way he was ever going to make things better would be if he got in there and did something himself," she said. "I never in my wildest dreams thought he'd actually run for office."

When he did decide to run, Sally Williams said her husband campaigned going door-to-door, believing strongly in getting to know the people he represented. He also got to know neighborhood dogs, she said.

The Williams family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Jupiter Kidney Center, 1000 South Old Dixie Hwy., Jupiter, Fla., 33458.

Work complete on high school retention pond

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

General construction was allowed to resume at the Northville High School building site last week after workers complied with a Wayne County requirement to finish work on the school's retention pond.

Torrential rains that fell on southeast Michigan Aug. 5 and 6 sent a cascade of water and mud from the school work site across the lawns of residents living in the nearby Woods of Edenderry subdivision.

Records from the Wayne County land resource office indicate that a request had been made July 22 by the agency for the school to install the detention pond outlet "per approved design as soon as (the) basin (was) complete." In addition, the report also said the basin needed to be permanently stabilized with mulch blankets to control slope erosion.

One day before the 10-day period window closed, the rains began falling. Northville Public Schools assistant superintendent David Bolltho said neither he nor the construction manager were informed that the basin request had been made.

"Had we known about that, this would have never happened."

MediaOne to hike local cable rates

By WENS DY WHITE

You'll be greeted with a higher cable bill each month if you are a MediaOne customer in Northville and Northville Township.

MediaOne raised the basic cable service rate from $22.95 to $24.99.

If you have additional movie channels, your bill will be even higher.

The cost of the Home Box Office channel went up a dollar a month, from $9.95 to $10.95 as did Cinemax, Showtime and The Movie Channel, which rose from $8.95 to $9.95 each.

The cost of converter boxes and remote controls also rose 40 cents a month, from $3.10 to $3.40 a month.

Granholtm secures Attorney General nomination

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Jennifer Granholtm, not Geoffrey Fieger, got the movie star treatment at the Democratic state convention - a nominating speech by retiring Attorney General Frank Kelley and a parade led by a drum corps and pom-pom persons.

"That loud welcome is going to shatter another glass ceiling," said Granholtm, 39, of Northville Township, as she was nominated Aug. 30 by acclamation for attorney general - the first of her gender to be picked by one of the major parties.

"I'll take your case," she said repeatedly as she talked about criminals, polluters and con men.

Kelley, retiring after 37 years and 10 elections, said Granholtm "has personally prosecuted and convicted hundreds of criminals. She has won 145 major drug cases. As Wayne County corporation counsel, she administers a budget of $10 million and has a staff of 70."

"She reorganized her department to make it more efficient and has wonderful morale," said Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, who appointed her and promoted her candidacy. Prosecutor John O'Hair also praised her work on his staff.

Mildred Jeffrey, grand old lady of the labor movement and the party, seconded her nomination.

LINK IN THE CHAIN

Granholtm touched delegates with her stories of prosecuting a 50-year-old man who took nude photos of a young girl he had contacted through Internet, and of unsupervised children playing outside a Detroit crack house where a bust had been made.

"I would have done that job for nothing (because) I worked for the people," she said.

With her were husband Dan Mulvern, a lawyer and administrator of a private high school, and her three children, aged 8, 7 and 1.

The Canadian-born former Republican described Kelley and Jeffrey as "links in a chain that extends back to (Gov.) Soapy Williams, (Sen.) Phil Hart and (UAW president) Walter Reuther. I hope to be the next link in that chain. I will take the chain that Frank Kelley helped forge and pull others along."

Granholtm was nominated without opposition. All other candidates, including Wayne Sheriff Robert Ficano and Macomb Prosecutor Carl Marlinga, dropped out days earlier.

NO UPSET

Democratic delegates passed up a chance to upset Fieger's appliement when they agreed to his choice of state Rep. Mary Lou Parks, leader of the House Black Caucus, for secretary of state.

Three-fourths carried delegates for John Austin, a Genesee County road commissioner who had been the leading candidate until Fieger decided he needed a black at the top of the ticket.

Austin backed off and made Parks' nominating speech, but clearly his heart wasn't in it. He noted he had been running for the post for 18 months. When he asked those in the delegation who had met him to stand, about two-thirds did so.

"Naturally, I'm very disappointed not to be part of the ticket," said Austin, who then spent less than a minute extolling Parks' virtues.

Fieger left the crowd cheering with his first major speech since winning the Aug. 3 primary.

'ROCKIN' THE BOAT'

"Many politicians told me, 'Sit down, Fieger, you're rockin' the boat.' But the people all said, 'Stand up, Fieger, you're rockin' the boat.'"

Fieger - who irritated many in his own party by calling Archbishop Adam Maida a nut, referring to Jesus as "a goofball who got nailed to a cross" and threatening to "kick John Engler's fat ass" - pledged that "you will see a gentler, kinder Geoff Fieger."

When delegates protested, "No, no," Fieger said, "OK, just so I can kick his (Engler's) gluteous maximus all across the state. See, I'm learnin'."

"I never attended the Specs Howard School of Political Doubletalk," Fieger said.

"I'm angry, and grieving for those workers in Flushing, killed in an accident that could have been prevented had not the governor vetoed a bipartisan bill to protect worker safety. That won't happen during Fieger time."

He referred to the Aug. 25 accident when a wall collapsed during work on a high school project. Under a 1937 state law, public school construction sites are exempt from state inspections. Four workers died.

"Republicans won't give money to protect job safety, but they'll give millions to corporate executives to learn to speak German or to learn stress reduction techniques. They're gonna need it with me."

"We'll wean business from government handouts. I will require drug testing of all corporate executives before they get corporate welfare."

"I will not give a penny of money to private education," Fieger said after ripping a voucher plan endorsed by many Republican candidates.

"Nobody owns me, and nobody can buy me out. I will serve without salary."

Fieger promised to end the single business tax and reduce the sales tax, gasoline tax, real estate transfer tax and fees "that are disguised taxes." He promised to fully fund special education.

Williams served as township trustee

for a number of years. Sally Williams said her husband never discontinued his affiliation with the Northville post.

"Don't have a huge heart," Sally Williams said. "He always wanted to do things for other people, but he preferred to do or contribute things anonymously."

Williams served as a trustee for more than 10 years, Sally Williams said.

Williams was also a member of the Detroit Yacht Club, the Thomas Edison Club of Dearborn and president of the Joint Council of Electrical Contractors.

Township public safety director Chip Snider remembered Williams as a strong backer of police and fire issues.

"As a trustee, he was no doubt one of the most supportive people in this community of public safety matters," Snider said. "If it related to police and fire, Don was there to give his support."

Williams is survived by his wife, his daughter, Janet Toth of Dearborn; step-brother Reginald Robinson of Williamston; granddaughter and grandson Alicia and Donald Toth of Dearborn; and several nieces and nephews.

A funeral service was conducted Wednesday morning at the Aycock Funeral Home. Williams was given military honors in his burial at Riverside Memorial Park in Tequesta, Fla.

Sally Williams said a Michigan memorial service will take place at a later date.

The Williams family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Jupiter Kidney Center, 1000 South Old Dixie Hwy., Jupiter, Fla., 33458.

IN NEED OF AN ALIGNMENT?

It may not always be obvious to drivers that their cars are in need of a wheel alignment, which is the position of the wheels relative to the car. When the wheels are properly aligned, they will not resist steering commands, or each other, as the car rolls down the highway. One of the first indications that a driver will have that a wheel alignment may be necessary is that the steering wheel must be turned slightly off center to get the car to track straight. There also may be too much free play in the steering wheel or other changes in steering response which indicate the need for an alignment, or it may be that the car drifts to one side on a straight, level road when the driver's hands are off the steering wheel. When any of these signs lead to a wheel alignment, the correction can spell improved steering and handling, as well as better gas mileage and more even tire wear.

If your vehicle resists steering commands and exhibits the symptoms described in this week's column, it may be in need of an alignment. MARTY FELDMAN CHEVROLET is committed to your personal safety and encourages you to have your vehicle checked every 3,000 miles. # A change of address

Mailboxes, Etc. moves to CadyCentre complex

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

In a manner of speaking, the address for your mailbox has changed.

That's because Northville's Mailboxes, Etc. store has leaped across Center Street to a new home in the CadyCentre building. It had been located in the lower level of the MainCentre complex, on the west side of the street.

The move was made effective Aug. 27.

Store manager Mike Ludwig said the move was made largely out of parking issues for customers who sometimes had to struggle with items they needed shipped.

"The parking wasn't good enough at our old location," Ludwig said. "A lot of our customers come walking in here with these giant packages and for them, lugging them across the street a long ways just wasn't practical."

ways just wasn't practical. This will make things much easier for them."

The CadyCentre complex has a parking structure located immediately to the east of the main building, which is slated for completion sometime late this month or early in October. Century 21 Real Estate will be occupying much of the upper floors of the building.

A walkway will connect CadyCentre to the parking structure.

"We've reconfigured our store layout to accommodate front door and rear door access," Ludwig said. "This is really all about making life easier on our customers."

Mailboxes, Etc. handles shipping and packaging, copy services and also offers post office boxes for customers. The new location 143 Cady Centre, just north of Mary Alexander Court. It has been a Northville business since 1993.

ON YOUR FEET AFTER HIP SURGERY

Because remaining inactive and in bed following hip surgery increases the risk of complications (blood clots and infection), patients who were able to walk prior to fracturing their hips are encouraged to get back on their feet within a couple of days after surgery. After a hospital stay of about a week, patients may continue to meet with their physical therapists with the goal of regaining their mobility. Patients will learn how to gradually place more weight on their hips, until they can bear their full body weight without experiencing pain. They will also learn how to walk, sit, and stand in such ways that they will not re-injure their hips or damage their prostheses (if they have one).

Physical therapy, a vital part of your hip surgery recovery, helps you regain your full potential for mobility. Gentle exercises strengthen the muscles around the hip and help restore its range of motion. At NOVACARE, our physical therapists can design a program especially for you and teach you how to perform specific exercises. To schedule a consultation, call 349-3816. Our patients are instructed in adaptive methods and home exercise that focus on improving muscle strength, function and coordination. Located at 215 E. Coldwell Banker Preferred

WHEN IT'S YOUR INVESTMENT

When you own an investment property, your goal is to get the highest monthly rental with the lowest vacancy rate and to keep quality tenants. How can you pull it all together?

It pays to keep your property in good condition, not only while you are trying to rent it out, but after the tenants move in. You obviously want the property to look its best while it is being shown, but if you work at keeping it in top condition when tenants are living there, they are likely to stay around for a while. When something needs to be repaired, be sure they know whom to call to get the job done. Arrange for periodic inspections of the property to check for leaking roofs or pipes, defective wiring or malfunctioning appliances. If you are an absentee landlord, it makes sense to hire professionals to keep a close eye on your investment for you.

Board decision ends start-date controversy

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

The outcry of district parents has been heard.

Due to overwhelming protests from parents who said the first day of school was too early in August, the Northville Education Association and school administrators bumped back the start date for next year.

"We went back and changed it because there was so much concern," said NEA president Barb LeBoeuf.

Instead of beginning on August 22, as the current calendar would project, school will start a week later, on August 29, 1999.

But that means the school year will end a week later, June 16 instead of June 9.

"I was surprised over the public reaction to the calendar because it really is the same calendar. If you superimpose it on last year's, it really is the same," LeBoeuf said.

She said teachers were torn when it came to setting the calendar during contract negotiations. About a third wanted school to begin later in the fall, a third wanted it to end earlier in the spring, and a third wanted to shave time off internal breaks to make room for extra hours mandated by the state in coming years.

They settled on August 24 for 1998-99, August 29 for 1999-2000 and opted not to set the calendar the following year until school day requirements were solidified by the state.

"The third year we're anticipating that the state will require (an additional) 51 hours. Had that not been hanging on the horizon we would have set the calendar for that year as well," said school board president Tom Gudritz. "Because we think they're going to require the extra hours we're going to hold off until then."

He said the board did consider the survey results before setting the calendar.

"It's in line with what the survey results showed us, that parents were not anxious to have the school year start earlier in the summer," Gudritz said. "The feedback from parents was certainly taken into consideration in terms of the questionnaire. As we said from the beginning it was taken into consideration and it was taken into consideration for the calendar next year."

Many district parents became outraged to learn on July 21 that the first day of classes was set two weeks prior to Labor Day this year.

Among them was Mary Rupley, the mother of three public school students who said the start date went against the results of two surveys conducted by Northville PTA/PTSAs.

In 1997 more than half of 900 parents surveyed said they wanted school to begin after Labor Day. Another 37 percent said they wanted school to begin in late August.

Rupley, who helped administer the surveys, said she is glad the protests led to school starting later next year.

"That's what the parents have indicated that they're more interested in having. That's a good sign. I think it's going back to the old calendar but I appreciate the fact that they did it," Rupley said.

Youth in need

Northville Youth Assistance seeks volunteers for mentoring program

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

In the mind of 11-year-old Kyle Manor, what he does with his mentor, Scott, isn't nearly as important as the fact that he gets to spend time with him.

"Sometimes we just go out for dinner," Kyle said. "But last week, we went out go-karting."

Scott crossed the finish line first.

"I didn't let him win — he just drove a bit better," Kyle chuckled.

Kyle is one of the hundreds of area kids whose lives have been helped by the presence of Northville Youth Assistance. The organization is gearing up for its autumn volunteer drive, slated to begin Sept. 30.

Kyle's mother, Mary, said Kyle has greatly benefited from the presence of male role model in Scott.

Kyle's father died eight years ago.

"A neighbor of ours told me not long ago that she's noticed a real change in Kyle," Mary said. "As a mom, I can talk to him from a mom's point of view and a female point of view, but I can't do it from the male point of view. Scott has really helped out in that way."

Mary said Scott's age, 31, makes him old enough to be a trusted confidante and young enough to keep up with Kyle's extensive athletic interests.

In fact, Mary said, Scott has indicated an interest in coaching Kyle's in-line-skating hockey team later this year.

"Scott's been very interested in coming out to see Kyle compete in sports," Mary said. "When you think about it, that's someone who's coming out on their own free time. And we all know how little free time we have these days."

The rules governing youth assistance programs allow kids and their mentors to speak in confidence with one another, unless something's been talked about that signals the potential of great harm to the youth. That openness in communication has given Scott and Kyle a chance to strengthen their relationship and learn about each other on a personal level.

"They've learned a lot about each other these last few months," Mary said, then laughed. "I also learned Scott doesn't like onions or tomatoes, either."

Mary also said Kyle has grown in his ability to think ahead and understand the ramifications of things he may say or do.

"Youth assistance has been an absolute blessing for us," Mary said. "It's simply a wonderful organization."

Arrowhead Alpines

With Michigan's Largest selection of... Perennials, Woodland Wildflowers, Rare Alpines, Dwarf Conifers, Unusual Shrubs, and Plants for Butterfly Gardens

Fall is rapidly approaching and it's a great time to add some late color to your garden or perhaps a few hostas or ornamental grasses. It's also the best time to plant trees and shrubs and perennials. Our shrub and dwarf conifer selection is outstanding and of course we have thousands of potted perennials to choose from, sun or shade, dry or moist, old favorites to rarities found nowhere else, we have it all with over 6000 species and varieties to choose from. We are a production nursery not a garden center and we propagate most everything ourselves so our inventory is at maximum in late summer. Why not buy direct from the source for the best selection and price. It's a huge place and we are always happy to tell you where to find something or offer suggestions, but we are a working nursery not a garden center and it's up to the customer to go and fetch it, so don't expect to be led by the hand (besides, exploring is half the fun).

We are rapidly becoming a Mecca for plant lovers from around the world, supplying everyone from the Smithsonian and New York Botanical Garden to some of the finest private gardens in the U.S. but surprisingly many local gardeners don't yet know about us. Come out and see for yourself the incredible selection we offer. The diversity can be a bit overwhelming, so you may want to bring reference books. Don't forget a camera for the display gardens and a checkbook because we don't accept credit cards.

Township cops cite erratic driver with DUI

Township police on patrol in the early morning hours of Aug. 30 observed a vehicle twice crossing the center line of Sheldon Road near Six Mile Road. After initiating a traffic stop, the driver — later identified as a 32-year-old Wayne man — showed signs of intoxication and said he was on the way home from a friend's house.

After performing poorly on several field sobriety tasks, the man's blood alcohol level was tested, registering at .20. Police handcuffed and frisked the man and located a baggie of marijuana in his front pants pocket.

Records checks also revealed the man's driving license had been suspended and that arrest warrants for him were outstanding from Wayne.

A court date is pending.

STOLEN: A 45-year-old North-Hills man told police someone apparently broke into his vehicle and took a $280 cell phone, $85 leather bag, $65 pager, $30 glasses case and $480 in cash, all of which had been placed in the car's center console.

There are no suspects.

EMBEZZLEMENT: Meijer store security arrested one of their own

Aug. 29 after an employee was spotted removing $163 in cash from a store register.

Computer records showed the employee, a 28-year-old Detroit man, had suspended cash transactions twice earlier in the week, once for $211 and a second time for $138. Police records showed the man was wanted in Southfield.

PRAY FOR PEACE: A 26-year-old woman and 24-year-old Detroit man's verbal argument escalated into a physical confrontation at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church on Aug. 27.

Police reports said the woman had apparently become vocal and vulgar while sitting in a room with the man, who responded by throwing her against a chair in the room and clutching at her neck, asking her to settle down.

A church sexton reported the incident to police, who spoke to the couple, and informed both parties to straighten out their behavior or not return to the church.

TIME FLIES: An unknown person snatched a customer's daily planner from the Meijer photo counter at around 5 p.m. Aug. 26. The owner of the calendar, a 35-

Police News

year-old Novi man, told police the day planner contained traveler's checks and special military papers.

CITY POLICE REPORTS

LOST CAUSE: A 20-year-old Livonia driver ended up at the dead end of Brickscape Drive around 3:30 a.m. August 29 after police pursued him from Eight Mile and Novi Road. He had been spotted driving 55 in a 40 mile per hour zone and told police he was lost.

Instead of citing him for speeding, police responded to the smell of intoxicants emanating from his car. After putting him through a series of sobriety tasks, they tested his blood alcohol level. When it registered at .12, he was jailed pending sobriety and a $100 cash bond.

WHERE'S THE DOUGH: A Jet's Pizza employee arrived around 9 a.m. and started making dough for the day before he noticed that there had been a robbery sometime overnight on August 24.

He immediately paged the new owner of the shop on 1053 Novi Rd., who arrived to find $100 missing from the cash register and a metal box containing another $100 missing from a shelf below.

A person could have taken the money without force if they knew to hit the "no sale" button to open the register, the owner said, but he told police he didn't suspect any employees.

Three professional robbers held by Farmington Hills police were questioned, but since they consistently targeted ATM's, police determined it was highly unlikely they had taken the dough.

PRE-ARRANGED: The owner of Hopeless Romantic said she only took her eyes off the customer for seconds around 1 p.m. August 24. That was enough time for the woman to make off with a flower arrangement in a rust-colored vase shaped like a head of lettuce. The woman was wearing light colored shorts and a sleeveless top and most likely drove away in a dark sport utility vehicle, the owner told police.

The merchandise was valued at $35.

UNDERAGE: A 20-year-old Livonia driver was charged with violating Zero Tolerance laws and driving with a suspended license. A 20-year-old passenger from Canton was also cited with a misdemeanor for underage consumption.

A third passenger was not cited. After midnight on August 31, the driver saw police do a U-turn on Eight Mile Road in pursuit of her car.

She pulled over on the shoulder and stopped.

The driver's blood alcohol registered at .068. The passenger, originally asleep in the back seat and later complaining of sickness, had a blood alcohol level of .162.

They were both arrested.

DOUBLE TROUBLE: A husband and wife from Dearborn Heights left Woolly Bully's August 30 after finishing 4-5 drinks. Police said the man crossed the center line of Novi Road repeatedly, so they pulled him over around 3 a.m. One unopened beer and an empty beer can were found in the car. After the driver's blood alcohol level registered at .181 percent, he was arrested.

Since his wife, whose blood alcohol level registered at .144, was not fit to drive, she too was taken to the police station to await a ride home from friends.

Pending sobriety and a $100 cash bond, her husband was released.

FUNNY CIGARETTE: A bicycle cop on patrol in Hines Park spotted a couple sitting at a picnic table repeatedly passing something between themselves the evening of August 28.

When they noticed his approach, the pair quickly stashed a cigarette-shaped object under a cigarette box and told him they were just "smokin'".

The officer thought the smoke smelled unusual and confiscated the cigarette, which was later confirmed to be marijuana. A baggie the man pulled from his breast pocket was also full of marijuana.

The 26-year-old Westland man was charged with a misdemeanor for possessing marijuana, as was the 27-year-old Livonia woman. She also had a warrant out for her arrest from Gaylord.

DIABETES AND YOUR FEET

- If you have diabetes, you probably already know that you face special health challenges as the result of your disease.
- People with diabetes often suffer from poor blood circulation, which slows healing and may increase the risk of infections. Also, because of damaged nerves, many people with diabetes lose some of the sensations that make it possible to feel hot and cold, or the pain that might accompany an injury.
- As you can imagine, complications like infection and injury can be particularly serious when they affect the feet.
- People with diabetes are prone to ulcers, sores, nail problems, dry skin, nerve and circulation problems.
- You can prevent or minimize most problems with an easy to follow routine of Daily Foot Care. As your podiatrist at Foot Health Centers, we can give you an individualized plan for keeping your feet healthy. Diabetes should have a podiatrist care for their feet and should never cut their own nails. Diabetics should be seen approximately every two months by their podiatrist.
- At Foot Health Centers, we specialize in diabetic & senior citizen foot and ankle care. The latest and most current state of the art equipment and treatment for diabetics is available in our offices.
- When your feet tell you there's trouble, ask your podiatrist. We will work as a team with you, and other health care providers if appropriate, to keep you and your feet healthy and pain-free. Please call FOOT HEALTH CENTERS for Total Foot and Ankle Care for an appointment. Can't come to us? We make house calls.

Judith Minton poses with Jim Fay at a recent seminar. Minton will host a parenting seminar at Genitti's on Sept. 8.

Parenting seminar scheduled for Sept. 8

By WENDY WHITE
Staff Writer

Lauren Chlason's four-year-old daughter was diving her crazy with a new habit.

She said she hated everything, and no matter what Chlason did, her daughter would just get more emotional and upset.

"I was at the end of the line. I was fried," Chlason said.

The solution came when the Northville mother attended a lecture by Jim Fay of the Love and Logic Foundation at Northville High School last spring.

Fay told her to teach her daughter that there were consequences for bad behavior. Every time the girl relentlessly complained of hating something, he advised her, among other things, to say, "okay, bedroom time."

Chlason tried the technique as soon as she got home and said she saw an 80 percent turnaround within 24 hours.

After bedroom time, when she opened the door held out her arms and asked her daughter what she wanted to do next, her daughter had thought about her behavior and understood it was wrong.

"She knows what she did, I don't have to lecture her. This works so fast and it's so effective and easy. I'm sold," Chlason said. "If you are open to it can change your life and your child's life in a very positive, nurturing and empowering way."

At that age, consequences can be as slight as bedroom time, or removal from an activity, but as children grow consequences to bad behavior become much worse and may include teen pregnancy, drugs and injury.

If children learn early that their actions have consequences, they'll learn to make good choices and become responsible, healthy adults, according to the Love and Logic Foundation.

In an effort to give parents tips on how to share control with their children, set limits and design appropriate consequences for inappropriate behavior, Genitti's restaurant will host a series of workshops in September.

The "Becoming a Love and Logic Parent" workshops are based on the philosophies of Jim Fay and Foster Cline.

"Many families have come to me and said the program has improved the way they interact with their families. They feel less guilty about being working parents and it has helped parents deal with kids from toddler age all the way through to married children," said Judith Minton, a professional public speaker and the mother of two teenage daughters who will lead the workshops.

Her company, Voice Works Seminars, has already taught the Love and Logic principals to more than 700 people.

"It's been shown to work because children nowadays need an apprenticeship on life. They need to fail, but parents don't like to see their children fail, the American culture doesn't permit failure, therefore children are either afraid to try or become perfectionists," Minton said.

Classes will be held on Tuesdays, September 8, 15, 22 and 29 at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, from 7-9 p.m. Cost is $80 per person.

Work to continue on retention pond

Boltho said "This was a situation where we had significant volumes of water going overground. It was a very serious situation."

Boltho said the second rainfall may have dropped less water on the work site than the first, but ended up doing more damage because the ground had been so heavily saturated.

Woods of Edenderry resident Mary Beth Yakima approached both the Northville Township board of trustees and the Northville School board about the stormwater damage, showing photographs of the damage and offering to display a videotape of the water as it rushed from the site.

Boltho said he was perplexed as to why the board didn't install the retention pond in the subdivision after the first and made certain the detention pond was built. He said he was conferring with both the school's construction manager and Cambridge Properties to determine how best to make repairs or restitution for the damage done to front yards along the school site.

Boltho also said he had conferred with Woods of Edenderry subdivision representatives about the problem.

Construction, however, resumed at the work site Aug. 20 and has been going since, he said.

"This was truly unfortunate. I wanted this corrected, I wanted the detention pond installed and I wanted no other problems. We have a handle on the situation and we're monitoring it now."

Gazlay publishes historical post cards

Morrison's Antiques donated one of Gazlay's favorites, which shows a motor car, an interurban trolley and a horse and buggy on Main Street. The three modes of transportation were photographed on the dirt road in 1909 and the postcards were sold at the train stations, drug stores and trolley depots.

"That's one of the earliest ones I've ever seen," Gazlay said.

Because it's a "cross-collectible," meaning that it's attractive to collectors of postcards as well as different transportation memorabilia, the card is worth about $20, according to Tom and Nelda Morrison, who contributed about a half dozen postcards to the book.

The writing on the back reveals a message from a mother to her daughter, Ornia M. Zeilman of South Lyon. Aside from a very brief mention of oyster and pie forks, she asked if her daughter had made it home before the rain.

According to the Morrises, the mundane message reflects the fact that when mail was delivered twice daily, penny postcards were used like phone calls.

In the days before portable cameras, they were a marvel to many visitors who took the train from Detroit to see attractions like the Ford Plant at the Water Wheel or the Maybury Sanatorium.

"They'd pick up a post card and take it back to show what a small town looks like," Morrison said.

But although they were plentiful, many old postcards have been lost.

"They're really hard to find."

Tom Morrison said. The Morrises have sought Northville postcards as far away as Georgia, but the book makes them available to everyone.

"It's a wonderful walk down memory lane for anyone who wants to know what Northville was like," Nelda Morrison said.

"Greetings from Northville" is now available at Northville City Hall, Gardenviews, Morrison's Antiques, Stampdealer Plus and during the Sunday tours at Mill Race Historical Village.

MediaOne announces hike in Northville cable rates

in a year and a half," said Bill Black, a spokesperson for MediaOne. "The reasons include the costs that we pay the networks have gone up in that period of time and we also added some networks to the basic service."

Effective a year ago, Fox Sports Detroit and The Disney Channel were added to the basic cable lineup.

"We are continuing to invest a lot of money continuing to upgrade the network," Black said.

MediaOne is expanding its network to be able to provide local phone service within the year in addition to the services it already provides to Northville and Northville Township homes.

Among them is Digital Television and Radio, which brings 72 television stations and 40 commercial-free radio stations into homes. The service was launched a month ago at a cost of $10 a month.

OPINION

Board needs to consider valuable input from parents

This year, school started two weeks before Labor Day.

Next year, that will change.

School will begin just one week before the holiday that marks the official end of summer, just like it has in Northville for years.

The reason?

District parents demanded it, and school officials and teachers realized the concerns were well founded.

Yes, school is only starting one week later, but for some families, it was a week reserved for a precious family vacation.

For some students that attended summer school, driver's training or sports camps, it was one week out of a very short break.

And above all, the last week of August was one that parents didn't want to give up.

When the school calendar was announced in late June, many parents realized that week had been taken away and they were not happy.

They expressed their displeasure by making a flood of calls to school officials, registering dozens of complaints to the local newspaper, and by speaking out at public meetings.

Parents reminded the school board that it took hundreds of hours of volunteer labor to prepare school calendar surveys and tally the results.

It also cost money to mail the surveys to the entire school community.

They asked why the school board had commissioned the PTAs to conduct the surveys in the first place if they weren't going to act on the results.

At first, the board responded that the surveys weren't professional, the questions were vague and the results weren't meant to determine the start date anyway.

But the parents didn't relent.

One showed up at a special call board of education meeting in July toting all the surveys returned in 1997. From the stack of 900 responses, she read written comments from parents who complained that the 1995 survey wasn't heeded by the board and they doubted their responses this time around would make a difference.

They almost didn't.

But thanks to the efforts of local parents who stood up for themselves and held the school board accountable, officials and teachers set the start date a week later for the 1999-2000 school year.

We commend those parents for taking the time to involve themselves in this very public system. They may not have spurred a change this year, but through reasonable yet relentless discourse, they made it clear that it was unacceptable for the school board to ignore their conclusive survey responses.

We commend their diligence.

We also must commend the board for taking the responsible course. Without disrupting a new teacher's contract or perhaps making matters worse by revoking the start date and making a confusing change this year, they took swift steps to fix the real problem.

That real problem would have been losing the trust of parents who actively attempt to get involved with their children's education, yet get the sinking feeling they have no control.

ly have never occurred. He's acknowledged the severity of the problem, and within days after the rain, completed the detention pond. Mr. Bolitho has also indicated he wanted the problem rectified as quickly as possible.

A respectable response, we say. Now it's a matter of ensuring that communication woes don't cause any other problems. The safety of all involved — including neighbors to the high school work site — should be the first priority of the district.

Mother Nature doesn't care about the price or location of homes. She doesn't care about municipal governments, zoning ordinances, construction guidelines or project controls order deadlines. She just comes and goes as she pleases. Usually quiet, but sometimes in a fit of rage, as was the case last month.

Wherever the communication breakdown existed, it must be corrected. While it's not likely we'll see rains like we had Aug. 5 for a long time, Northville School administrators and construction supervisors would be well-advised to eliminate as many opportunities for problems as possible.

City's broken promise unacceptable

I'd hate to be in Jim Gallogly's shoes right about now.

Gallogly, the city's public works director, was recently given the order to remove the tree guards from most of the trees downtown, along Main and Center streets.

It seems the problem was that the guards, which were erected during Northville's Main Street '78 project, weren't big enough and many of the trees had begun to grow into the wrought iron.

Eventually, city officials claimed, the trees would die. So the guards would have to be removed.

So with orders in hand, Gallogly instructed his crews to begin cutting away the wrought iron. Unfortunately the crews were required to remove the cast iron memorial plaques as well.

That's when Gallogly's problems began.

You see, in planning the Main Street '78 project, city fathers allowed citizens to purchase the tree guards. In return for their donations, a nice plaque was placed on the guard. Many citizens made the donation in the memory of a family member or close friend who had passed away. Some simply had their own name inscribed on the 4 inch by 4 inch piece of cast iron. And still others had the names of their entire families inscribed on the memorial plaque.

Regardless of the inscription, those who made the donation were promised the plaques would remain at the desired location forever.

Forever, judging by the recent removal, has obviously come and gone in the minds of city officials.

So understandably, there are some citizens who are extremely upset. Mary Ellen Peterson, who purchased three of the tree guards, was shocked, and then outraged, that the city would commit such a heinous act.

"I was told those memorials would be there forever, and to have them just remove them like that was quite a shock," she said.

Others were outraged as well that the city would remove plaques that call to memory people with last names like Allen or Folino — people who helped shape this city and are a part of its rich history.

Gallogly says he understands, and is sympathetic to, the hurt feelings. He also admits that the city probably made a mistake in placing tree guards that weren't large enough to accommodate the growth of the trees.

"The tree guards east of Hutton Street to Griswold remain because they are bigger," he said. "The city obviously learned from their mistake."

The tree guards Gallogly references were placed in 1991.

And there is a blessing in the midst of this public relations fiasco. When the tree guards were removed, public works crews collected the plaques. They currently are located at the public works office, where Gallogly has been trying to come up with a solution that won't be costly and will be accepted by residents.

"We still have those plaques. We're not going to throw them away, but we don't really know what to do with them at this point," Gallogly said. "Anyone who wants their plaques can have them. Short of that the best idea we've come up with is to create an honor board with all the plaques and place it in the town center."

"We're open to any suggestions."

Now I can understand Gallogly's predicament. Simply put he's just trying to save the trees. But what I can't understand is why city officials didn't have a plan for the disposition of the plaques, once the guards were removed.

Even more upsetting is that city officials were either not prepared for the adverse reaction of residents, or didn't consider the ramifications of their decision.

Either way, somebody needs to rectify the situation, and they need to do it quickly. According to Peterson, placing the plaques on an honor wall is not an adequate solution. "The plaque refers to the tree guards, it wouldn't make sense to put them on a wall," she said.

I agree, and even though it would cost the city money to affix the plaques back onto their rightful place — in this case the trees — that's exactly what they should do.

Because in the final analysis city officials had no trouble accepting the money from citizens who wanted to beautify their downtown. More importantly, they now need to keep the promise they made to those residents — that those memorial plaques would be on display, forever.

Forever, by the way, doesn't necessarily mean infinite, but surely means longer than two decades.

Teacher's act can have adverse effect

Second grader Michael was big brother to his five-year-old first grade sister, Barbara, initiating her navigation of their three grades in one classroom, reading to her and helping her learn the alphabet. They were seated side by side at the big kitchen table in their rural home making valentines for their classmates. Their mother had bought red construction paper, paper lace, crayons, glue, and string, everything needed to make valentines, and had organized them on the table. The children learned to fold the red paper in half, draw half a heart, then to cut it out to make a whole, evenly-balanced heart. They had to make 30 cards, so they folded, drew, and cut, mass-producing hearts of all sizes.

Barbara, new to all this, wanted to make the very best cards for each of her classmates. Michael showed her how and she followed directions carefully. She cut carefully, she copied Michael's printing carefully, and she wrote "Love to Eric, from Barbara," just as Michael showed her how to.

Michael helped Barbara until she had a card for each of her classmates, then he busied himself at making his own cards.

While he worked, Barbara had a brilliant idea. She would make the best, the biggest, the most perfect card ever. She cut. She pasted. She cut and pasted some more. Her card grew and grew. She pasted hearts on top of heart son top of hearts until her card was bigger by far than any cards she'd made before. Still she cut and pasted until the card grew to over a foot in diameter. Then she excitedly pasted string, lace, and colorful candy bar wrappers to her evolving masterpiece.

Michael at first paid no attention. Bit by bit he couldn't help but notice, but he ignored his little sister. It didn't occur to him what she had in mind until she announced that she was going to give the card to someone tomorrow at school.

Michael instantly saw the problem. Whoever would get the card would be mortified. The big third graders would laugh and get everyone else laughing at his sister's grand offering. His sister would be hurt and would probably cry.

"No. You can't," he said. He couldn't tell her the card was so...so...ridiculous. So he said, "Only regular sized cards are accepted."

"Nonsense," said their mother. "Anyone would be glad to get a card that someone put so much time and effort in making."

"It's my best one. I'm going to give it to the teacher," Barbara announced.

"Oh, no. You can't do that. It's just not the kind of card you give a teacher."

"Yes it is, and she'll like mine best of all," shot back Barbara.

"Of course she'll like it dear," said their mother.

Michael dreaded the looming Valentine's Day. Everyone put their Valentines in a huge box. Barbara folded hers and put it at the bottom so that the teacher would find it last. The teacher drew them out one by one quickly naming each student. Students held up their cards proudly as they walked to their seats.

All too soon the teacher found the huge extravagantly-decorated card Barbara had made for her. She pulled it slowly out of the box and held it by an edge with two fingers as though it were a smelly shoe. Michael had seen this expression a year earlier, when she had stepped into something in the playground. He slunk into his seat. The teacher held it up and turned slowly to each side of the room for all to see. Laughter rocked the room. Then she dropped it into the waste paper basket and wiped her hands.

Michael shot a look at Barbara. She looked confused and he knew she needed him, but there was nothing he could do. Michael hated that teacher.

There may be a race for governor after all

I attended the Michigan Democratic Party's state convention in Lansing over the weekend.

I wanted to see what Geoffrey Fieger was really like and what kind of ticket he could put together to counter the blizzard of negative publicity he experienced ever since he won the Democratic nomination for governor.

(Let the record also show that I also went to be nominated to run statewide for another term on the University of Michigan Board of Regents. Perceptive readers should be alert for any hint of bias in what follows.)

To my ears at least, Fieger is, indeed, a great speaker. He's passionate, emotional, articulate — sometimes eloquent and sometimes merely loud. He does have the capacity, so rare these days, of truly moving a crowd, especially younger people. If he ever succeeds in getting John Engler onto the same platform with him, watch out!

Fieger also made a smart move in picking state Rep. Jim Agee, a former teacher and school superintendent from Muskegon, to join the ticket as lieutenant governor. Agee is well respected as a low-key, decent and smart fellow, an expert on education and on the state budget.

Talk in the aisles at the (very nice and new) Lansing convention center was that Fieger intends to meld his rhetorical firepower with Agee's deep knowledge of Lansing minutiae to launch a wholesale assault on the wrongdoings of the Engler Administration.

The strategy makes sense. Harsh ad hominem attacks on John

Phil Power

Engler's character and genetic antecedents may have helped Fieger score his big upset win in the Democratic primary. But they won't help him in a general election where he is already regarded by the media, at least, as a bombastic loose cannon. Better merge passion with substance between now and Nov. 3.

And, certainly, any administration that has gone on for eight long years will have plenty of skeletons in the closet that any incumbent governor would prefer not see the light of day. I'd bet there will be much ferocious talk between now and Election Day about school funding, the state Accident Fund, lax oversight over charter schools, lucrative state contracts let to big Republican Party contributors and so forth.

There is some evidence (mostly from Kent and Oakland counties, normally Republican, where Fieger ran unexpectedly well) that the state GOP organized the faithful to cross over and vote for Fieger in the Democratic primary on the theory that he would be easiest candidate for John Engler to defeat.

This may prove to be so, but I keep wondering about the old line that you'd better not wish for something too hard or you might wind up actually getting it. If the delegates to the Democratic convention are to be believed, the election for governor might wind up much tighter than the experts think.

Two concluding footnotes from the weekend in Lansing:

1. Jennifer Granholm, Northville Township resident won nomination as attorney general, could be a real star. She's smart (Harvard Law School), experienced (top civil lawyer for Wayne County), attractive and a good speaker. When the assembled Democrats heard the Republican convention had dumped Scott Romney, Gov. Engler's pick for AG, for John Smetanka, big grins broke out all around the hall.

2. On grounds of the continuing labor dispute between labor and management, the Democrats continued to ban reporters from the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News from covering the convention. For a party desperate to showcase its nominees and ideas, continuing this symbolic feud with the largest circulation newspapers in the state is silly and self-destructive.

Election '98: small minds discuss personalities

They say large minds discuss ideas, medium-sized minds discuss events, and small minds discuss personalities.

By that standard, Americans and the media serving them have teeny-weeny minds with their noses buried in Monica's wardrobe or snickering at Fieger's kicking foot.

Michigan voters have major decisions to make on state education posts this year. It's not a matter of voting a straight ticket to "support" the gubernatorial candidate. These boards get their power from the Michigan Constitution, not a party platform or executive orders.

The two major parties met this past weekend, Republicans in Grand Rapids and Democrats in Lansing, to nominate two candidates each for State Board of Education and the governing boards of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University and Wayne State University.

Let us follow Deep Throat's advice to Woodward and Bernstein and "follow the money": The state general fund budget is $8 billion-plus; the three universities have combined budgets nearing $4 billion.

State employment is in the 60,000 ballpark. The three universities have enrollments totaling more than 120,000 (counting U-M's Dearborn and Flint campuses).

Tim Richard

That is a ton of money and a lot of young and emerging minds.

The State Board of Education has rule-making powers that many of its members don't grasp. The incumbent governor is striving mightily to steal its potential thunder and gut its powers. He knows how important that board is, even if the small minds of the voters and news directors are limited to what part of Engler's anatomy Fieger wants to kick.

So what are the issues:

- Openness - Two of the university boards have been plagued by open meetings problems and document secrecy.
- Tuition - Parents and self-supporting students can't understand the long history of tuition and fee hikes in excess of the federal consumer price index. • Bias - One university is prepared to fight all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court to defend its "diversity" admissions standards that others consider anti-white and anti-Asian bias.

• Expansion - One university is having major problems with its $1 billion-plus hospital system. Another is hell-bent on expanding into academic areas justified by its yearnings for prestige more than the market's need.

• Charter schools - Between them, the three major universities have chartered just one public school academy of the 100 or so. What is their thinking?

Clearly these contests are far more important than who issues license plates and who hire the assistant attorneys general who actually try the cases. But you can guess what kind of coverage you'll get and what your friends will be gossiping about at lunch.

Into the breach is stepping the American Association of University Women's Livonia chapter. AAUW is inviting all the candidate - yep, Libertarian, too - to answer the tough questions on Sept. 2.

Letters to the Editor

Same issue should not be placed on ballot

To the editor:
If we, the voters, so naively rejected the shared services request and parkland acquisition, then logic dictates the public safety millage which was approved should also reappear on the November ballot for reconsideration. (Don't hold your breath.)

The reality of the situation is that the voters will now be badgered, threatened, cajoled, etc., at taxpayer expense in the hope that these needless issues will be passed on the second-go-round. Will the forthcoming hyperbole mention the thousands of new tax dollars generated by newly constructed homes? Or, the new tax dollars from existing homes when the assessment is increased each year by the maximum allowed by law? Will it mention the fact that, in conjunction with Northville parkland, the residents already have access to Cass Benton Park - literally miles of recreational facilities - or Maybury Park? (Again, don't hold your breath.)

Will there be a guarantee that the three-quarters mill amount for park improvements will drop back at the end of four years? Probably not.

I think it's about time that officials understand that the taxpayer well has been tapped too often. It is time that local officials learn to live within an existing budget and stop trying to play "keep up with the Jones" of other communities.

Finally, I would like to see local officials understand that a "No" vote is just that. They should not be allowed to continue placing the same issue on succeeding ballots until beleaguered voters give them what they want through sheer tiredness.

John Bullington

school, I can't believe that schools aren't subject to inspections when under construction.

We have voted for state legislators that are losers. Not all of them are but enough of them to control laws that are passed.

When safety of our children is suppose to be No. 1 priority and they pass a law that they do not have inspections, it boggles my mind.

The contractors have insurance against something like this happening but I believe insurance companies shouldn't issue insurance policies where inspections aren't required. This to me sounds like suicide.

The Northville School Board insists that they don't have to abide by any local laws but I would sure hate to think of something like this happening to our new high school.

Everyone in Northville should think about this as who pays the bills for tragic accidents like this? The taxpayers.

Dean H. Lenheiser

Police millage was vital

To the editor:
I beg to differ with Mary Brad-dock, "A 'no' vote for millage means just that - no." I voted "yes" on all millage requests because I hope Northville and Northville Township will continue to be a safe, desirable and attractive community which shows compassion for young people and the elderly. I would rather support the needs of the fire department now, rather than say we have so few fires, let's cut cuts. I would, however, ask The Northville Record again to spell out, very simply, the uses and impact of the millage issues.

Regarding the proposal "7-11" for the southwest corner of Seven Mile and Beck: It is true, as Marv Gans says, the intersection of Seven and Beck is deserted at midnight. Why not? Seven Mile east and west of Beck is largely residential. Beck north of Seven is largely residential, and Beck from Seven to Six Mile is entirely residential. Build a 7-11 however, and you build a magnet destination for the intersection and a reason to be there. It's easy enough for 7-11 to say, 24-hour operation is vital for business. Is it vital for the safety and traffic pattern of a residential neighborhood?

Rosemarie G. Anderson

Where's distinction between lies?

To the editor:
There are lies, and there are lies. A married man (President Clinton) lying about sexual indiscretions is worlds apart from lying about, e.g., the Gulf of Tonkin non-incident (President L.B. Johnson), that resulted in the deaths of over 47,000 American soldiers, and over 2,000,000 deaths among the people of Vietnam.

No question about it, President Clinton, before and after becoming president, has behaved inexcusably and abominably. Even though some of us would prefer that he do the right thing and resign, we must make a clear distinction between lies that result in loss of respect for, and humiliation of, the prevaricator, and those that result in thousands of deaths and utter destruction of property.

Addendum: Should a distinction be made between public and private morality?
Alfred P. Galli

City wrong to remove tree guards

To the editor:
I was very shocked to discover that city manager Gary Word authorized removal of majority of tree guards and plaques throughout the downtown area by James P. Gallogly, director of Public Works. The plaques are now in a cardboard box and the wrought iron guards are thrown in a pile at the DPW yard.

As part of Main Street, 78 people were asked to buy trees, guards and benches. This was to make downtown Northville more attractive and most agreed it did just that.

I purchased two trees and plaques. The tree on the southwest corner of Dunlap and Center for my children and myself and the second tree from said corner in memory of my late brother, a veteran of Korea and two tours in Vietnam. I was told by the city manager at that time that if my trees died, replacements would be planted and my plaque(s) would always be on the guard(s). We would always be able to walk around Northville and read all of the plaques.

I called Councilman Kevin Hartshorne on Aug. 22 and talked about this matter. He directed me to Mr. Gallogly. On Aug. 24, I conferred with Mr. Gallogly. He said trees outgrew guards. This is only true for very few trees. Present guards could have extensions welded onto same and put back where they belong. He said city was thinking of putting plaques in a wall by the bandshell. This makes no sense. Bands read Tree, Guard, or Tree and Guard donated by ---. What guard - what tree? Mr. Gallogly told me I could have my plaques. He further told me that if guards were returned that I would be notified, could bring plaques back and same would be installed at the trees I bought.

I am writing this letter to the editor since apparently the city thinks the public should not know about this terrible deed. While finding my plaques, I saw plaques for many people (Folino, Allen, etc.). These removals should never have occurred. This wrong needs to be righted by the city manager and guards and plaques returned to trees. The area looks so naked without same. These trees/guards cost people hundreds and hundreds of dollars. Many were bought in memory of, or for family or business. Whatever the reason, we expected them to be there for as long as we were told they would be there when bought - always.

School board approves teacher contract

A 3 percent raise for teachers this year, and a guarantee that salaries will be increased by at least 2 percent the following two years.

The parties agreed to renegotiate salaries after they have a better understanding of the school calendar mandated by the state.

The state said it's going to add 51 hours and 51 hours is a week and a half of work," LeBoeuf said.

The salary increase this year will help Northville attract high-quality teachers to the area, according to LeBoeuf.

Part of it was trying to keep pace with the surrounding districts because I think you're probably going to see a shortage. Especially in certain areas, it's getting more difficult to find teachers," LeBoeuf said.

Formerly paying one-quarter of one percent of their salaries for health care coverage under Blue Cross Blue Shield or HAP, teachers will now pay one-half of one percent for the same coverage.

However, the district gave them the option to switch to a Blue Cross Community Blue HMO at the former cost.

"It is an option and especially for teachers who have new babies, I don't think it's necessarily a good option for people who have a serious illness and their doctor or specialist that they would like to continue to see is not a member," LeBoeuf said.

If 16 teachers at the top of the pay scale decide they'd like to leave their job, perhaps to change careers, they'll all receive $30,000. The early leave option will give them $20,000 the first year and $10,000 the next.

Last time when we offered this six years ago, there weren't enough people and so we did not benefit, but we're closer to the number now," LeBoeuf said.

The number of sick days granted to teachers wasn't increased, however the number they can use to care for ill family members was increased.

An extra business day mandated by the state beginning next year may be achieved in the district when teachers attend professional growth or technology workshops, which they are normally paid for.

Six more hours required by the state this year will be achieved by adding two minutes of instruction onto the Elementary School day. The minutes will be shaved off lunch or recess.

Middle and High schools in Northville do not need to make any changes to achieve the mandate.

To alleviate problems finding substitutes, teachers will be required to give 48 hours notice when they want to use time off allocated for taking care of business. Formerly they only needed to call in the morning.

Teachers also agreed to substitute during their planning hour once each semester when necessary.

"I don't think once a semester is a lot but I do think you need your preparation time, and we do realize that there's a real problem getting substitutes now," LeBoeuf said.

Other changes were mainly to the language of the contract as the parties tried to eliminate legalese and put into words some practices that have developed in response to the block schedule and other curriculum changes.

The district also increased the number of assistants, elevated the positions of many extra-curricular coaches and offered a stipend to high school department chairs.

Both sides agreed that the negotiation process took a long time because of finances.

"I think that's what takes the longest time naturally. The district needs to figure out what they can pay, which is never exactly what we want but that's what negotiations are all about," LeBoeuf said. "It's always their goal to slow down the cost and it's always our goal to improve our wages and working conditions. Somewhere in the middle we iron out a compromise."

Contract negotiations began in February and ended with a tentative agreement July 20.

Danley represented the district, along with David Bolitho, assistant superintendent of administrative services, and John Street, director of business and finance.

The 368-member NEA was represented by LeBoeuf, chief negotiator Greg Bergin, executive director Joyce Casale, Elementary School representative Judy Higby, middle school representative Kathleen Mroz, high school representative Vicki Zidell and special education representative Al Rose.

Five Fine Homes

Annual tour scheduled to coincide with this year's Victorian Fest

Left: The Italianate architectural style of this home built in 1875, was popular in America from 1840 through 1885. Above: This cedar-log home was built in 1995 and was included in the Northville Historical Home Tour the following year.

Since its beginning in 1994, the Northville Historical Home Tour has been a smashing success. All 800 tickets available for the first tour were sold out by the time the doors opened the morning of the event.

Five homes within a two mile walking distance have been selected to be on this year's tour which is sponsored by the Northville-Novl Branch of the American Association of University Women.

The fifth annual home tour will be Saturday, Sept. 19, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and coincides with the Victorian Festival.

The architectural styles of the homes on this year's tour, which were built between 1875 and 1995, include Italianate, English, and Arts and Crafts, as well as a log home and a frame farm house.

Only one home on the tour is a newer construction. Three are over a hundred years old and one was built in 1935.

Four of the homes have had between one and four additions.

Remodeling to one home, said to be the most most expensive new construction in Northville when it was built in 1893, added a family room and sunroom on the first floor and master bedroom suite on the second.

Renovations to a 988-square-foot cottage-style home on the tour, which was built in 1935, added 1662 square feet in the last three years.

A farm-style home, the oldest on the tour, might be unrecognizable to the original owners if they were time travelers. Four additions, which include adding the downstairs guest room and bath; enclosing two porches to expand the living room and make a sunroom, and, two years ago, the addition of the front porch, have seen this house change dramatically from its original frame structure.

The Italianate style home has seen two additions spaced roughly half a century apart. The first in the 1930s when a living room and master bedroom were added and the second when the kitchen and Savannah porch were added in the 1980s.

The newer home, a cedar log home

This home was built in 1893 and stood on what was then the outskirts of the small Village of Northville.

built in 1995, is also the only one which has been on the tour twice.

The 32-foot long, half-cedar logs are combined with local stone, copper eaves and woven cedar twig railings with real chinking.

Built up on a hill among some of the original trees on the lot, this home has been featured in "Log Home Living."

Many of the 100 or so volunteers who will staff the home in two shifts have served as hostesses every year. Some are AAUW members, others are friends from the community.

Stationed throughout each of the homes, they deliver an informative narrative on not only the history of the home but of the owners and some of their collections to the visitors who are allowed to enter the home in small groups every few minutes.

Floral arrangements in the homes are being donated by Carmine Bossio Interiors and Sparr's Flower Shop and Greenhouse, both in Northville; flowers & more in Novi; and Bea's Flowers and Gifts of Plymouth Township and Emerald City Designs in Plymouth.

Tickets, which went on sale Aug. 21, can be purchased at gardenviews, 202 W. Main Street; Kitchen Witch, 134 E. Main Street; and from any AAUW member.

Tickets for the Northville Historical Home Tour are $10 per person presale (must be 12 or older) and $12 the day of the tour. The number of tickets are limited to this well-attended event. The ticket is also the program guide and includes a map showing the location of each home, highlights of each of the homes, as well as a short list of restrictions.

Monies from the fund raiser to go towards Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center, Oakland Community College WomenCenter, AAUW National Educational Foundation scholarships, local community education and equity programs and programming and leadership training for the branch.

Midwest R/C members and the newest jet turbine aircraft will be at AirShow '98 Sept. 5 and 6 at the group's flying field on Five Mile Road one mile west of Beck in Northville.

Aircraft take to skies for show

Looking for some interesting and exciting family fun on Labor Day weekend? Try AirShow '98 where you'll find two days of action-packed, inexpensive entertainment for the entire family while watching some of Michigan's top radio control airplane pilots perform for you.

Midwest Radio Control Society Inc. of Northville will again present the annual airshow on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5 and 6, at its flying field on Five Mile Road one mile west of Beck. This event, which has become one of the largest radio control model aircraft fly-ins in the state, will feature two days of giant model aircraft flight demonstrations by pilots from all over Michigan, surrounding states and Canada as well as several local pilots.

Last year's show attracted almost 100 pilots and aircraft and several hundred spectators. The rapid growth in popularity of this airshow is a combination of growth in the giant-scale aircraft hobby as well as the club's beautifully manicured flying site with 600 foot of runway.

The airshow will begin at 10 a.m. each day and continue through 6 p.m. on Saturday and 4 p.m. on Sunday. Pilot registration and model safety inspection will begin at 8 a.m.

A food concession will be in continuous operation during the show. Plenty of parking is available at a $3 donation per car to help offset expenses. Comfort stations, including handicapped, will be available at the site. Spectators will be continuously informed during in-flight activities and special attractions by a public address system narrated by a master of ceremonies.

Flight activities will be continuous, with up to three aircraft in the air at one time. Special attractions will include model aerobatic demonstrations by nationally-known aerobatic and helicopter pilots, jets with actual turbine engines, and a special demonstration of electric powered models.

Also featured will be flight formations of giant scale WWII aircraft such as P-51 Mustangs, P-47 Thunderbolts, Japanese Zero, British Spitfires, Navy Corsairs, P-61 Black Widow, and other aircraft of the European and Asian theaters.

Giant means that a model aircraft must have a wing span of at least 80 inches minimum or must be certifiable as a one-quarter scale model of the original full-size aircraft. Biplanes must have a wing span of at least 60 inches. The average weight of most aircraft are between 25 and 55 pounds.

The airshow is hosted by Midwest R/C Inc., a Northville-based club with about 200 members from 8 to 80 years of age from all over the tri-county area. Midwest has been in continuous operation since the 1950s. The club has a well developed flight instruction program and trains up to 20 new pilots a year in all age groups.

Seniors qualify for nationals

By CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

They got the gold. Connie Cronin, of Northville, and her partner in the Mixed Doubles, South Lyon resident Paul Sochacki, received gold medals in the 19th annual Michigan Senior Olympics, which was held recently in Frankenmuth.

Receiving a gold or a silver at the Michigan Senior Olympics, qualifies athletes to attend the National Senior Olympics, which will be held in Orlando, Fla. in October 1999.

Nationals are held every two years. Qualifying state events are held on alternate years.

This will be Sochacki's second national and Cronin's third.

Cronin and Sochacki met through the South Lyon Senior Tennis League.

Cronin plays three or four times a week and also plays on the travel teams with the club.

"I kinda got into (tennis) later on," Cronin said. "I was in my late 40s before I really became serious about it. I played a little bit before then."

Sochacki began playing tennis in 1934 first for Hamtramck High School and later while attending the University of Detroit. He now plays five times a week. Sochacki was just asked to be the assistant tennis coach for the girls team at South Lyon High School.

In the Ladies Doubles, former Northville resident Marge Smith, who moved to Bloomfield two years ago, and Nancy MacPherson of Livonia won gold medals. Cronin and her partner Farmington Hills resident Eunice Kennedy Gurunian received a silver medal in the Ladies Doubles.

Smith enjoys tennis twice a week.

Sochacki and Jim Sayers, also of South Lyon, won gold medals in the Mens Doubles.

Cronin and Sochacki play in the 75 to 80 year old group and Sochacki and Sayers play in the 80 to 85 year old group.

"Just go out there and practice and keep going," Cronin said is the best way to get started in tennis.

Both recommend getting a professional tennis coach right in the beginning to avoid getting drilled in some bad habits. And buy a good racquet from a tennis club's pro shop.

Other medal events include archery, badminton, 3 on 3 basketball, bowling, cycling, golf, horseshoes, racewalking, racquetball, road race, shuffleboard, swimming, slowpitch softball, table tennis, track and field, triathlon, and volleyball.

Men and women 50 years of age as of Dec. 31, 1998 were eligible to compete.

Ties that Bind

Drama "Return to Paradise" raises questions on friendship

Return to Paradise is about the transformation of a lost soul, a man who rescues himself while desperately trying to save another, and the important choices that define—and perhaps save—a life.

College grads Sheriff (Vince Vaughn), Lewis (Joaquin Phoenix) and Tony (David Conrad) meet by chance and become close friends while touring Asia on vacation. They close out a month-long trip to Penang, Malaysia with a reckless spree that two years later would test the bounds of their friendship and tragically alter their lives.

Sheriff and Tony would be pressed to return to paradise to save an imprisoned Lewis' life—a decision that would imperil their own lives.

At the heart of director Joseph Ruben's crisis of conscience thriller, is Lewis, the gentle idealist who stayed in Malaysia to study endangered orangutans. Tony is a reflective, quiet structural engineer, determined to fill New York City's skyline with even more skyscrapers. Sheriff is a cynical protagonist, brandishing a cool, comedic indifference and who forfeited ambition long ago.

It is Lewis' committed attorney Beth Eastern (Anne Heche), who disrupts Sheriff and Tony's lives with the dire proposition, complicated by the grave interference of an ambitious reporter, M.J. Major (Jada Pinkett Smith).

Sheriff and Tony are forced to come to grips with their paradise lost. Faced with a difficult dilemma, they must decide if they will go back and share responsibility for the drug charge all three committed, yet left only Lewis with

"This story could easily have been about you or me. It could happen to anyone. This film is about the choices we make...but it really boils down to one essential question: Would you put your life at risk for someone you know for five weeks?"

-Joseph Ruben, director, "Return to Paradise"

Lewis (Joaquin Phoenix), Sheriff (Vince Vaughn) and Tony (David Conrad) wrestle with human sacrifice in "Return to Paradise."

prison and a death sentence. "This story could easily have been about you or me. It could happen to anyone," says director Joseph Ruben. "This film is about the choices we make, about two friends facing a life and death decision—choices that call for major sacrifices. But it really boils down to one essential question: Would you put your life at risk for someone you knew for five weeks?" While Lewis' life literally hangs in the balance, it is Sheriff who becomes the focal point of the film. Casting Vince Vaughn in the role of such a layered, complex individual was a no-brainer, insist Ruben and producer Steve Golin. "When I saw 'Swingers,' I knew he had the chops to play Sheriff," Golin recalls. "He brings humanity and a sense of humor to the role that ultimately defines Sheriff."

In short, Vaughn sees this as a film that is "about something very unfair and tough happening to three fairly young guys. They are faced with extremely adult situations and how to deal with them. I think it's a feeling most people can relate to."

Exploring the depths of that feeling, that level of trepidation and fear, is exactly what attracted Ruben and writer Wesley Strick to this dramatically updated and altered retelling in the first place. It was Ruben who brought on Strick after reading Bruce Robinson's original script. Robinson wrote "The Killing Fields," based on a true story.

"With this, I wanted to do something that was loosely based on reality," says Ruben. "It is a fictionalized account based on 'What If.' The reality is, 'What If' is not that far from the truth. Who doesn't remember the American flogged in Singapore for graffiti? It shows how easily westerners can run afoul of the law."

Picking the right Lewis was critical to the overall texture and believability of the film. "Joaquin has that vulnerability Lewis needs...that same vulnerability he showed in 'To Die For' and 'Inventing the Abbotts.' We needed a character the audience would root for...one who would eventually break their heart."

For Phoenix, playing Lewis meant playing an innocent.

"There is something very pure and optimistic about Lewis." Passionate about a gentle man being treated so unjustly, "I kept asking myself, 'Why Lewis?'"

On the flipside, it faced with Sheriff and Tony dilemma, Phoenix continues: "I would go back for my friend. But I also understand the reluctance and trepidation."

Snipes as vamp killer 'Blade' shows little bite

By Kasey Everly
MOVIE EDITOR

In the super hero movie hall of fame, "Blade" would definitely get the reward for best dressed—and maybe best toys. Beyond that, the only thing existing beneath the exterior of this bad attitude comic book hero is, well, more attitude.

The trouble with "Blade" is, while you know the filmmakers are trying to take you to a sort of noir world of demons and evil at every turn, you aren't sure whether to cover your eyes or laugh out loud.

Here's the lowdown: Wesley Snipes ('New Jack City') stars as the film's tragic hero Blade, a human/vampire hybrid whose human mother gets a tough break when she is bitten by a vampire right before she goes into labor.

Blade survives this encounter and becomes an orphan, spending much of his teenage years snacking on homeless people until he meets his only friend, Whistler (Kris Kristofferson), who adopts him and turns him into one mean, lean, vampire slaying machine. It's a perfect super hero partnership—Whistler makes the toys, Blade uses them.

Blade devotes his life to finding the one who bit his mother and protecting our poor, clueless world from evil swarms of vampires who lurk around every corner and apparently include everyone from corporate suits to the guy behind the counter at Seven Eleven.

Along with the Blade encounters a blood specialist—the beautiful Dr. Karen Jensen, who is saved by Blade after being bit herself. To return the favor, she goes on a mission to create a cure for Blade's vampire tendencies.

Everything is seems to be going pretty well for Blade in his vampire war, until vampire party-man Deacon Frost (Stephen Dorff) shows up with his band of not-so-merry Gen-X vampires. Frost has an agenda for world domination (of course!) and needs the blood of his new arch-enemy Blade in order to execute his plan by calling on the powers of the mighty Blood god.

The film peaks with a final showdown between Blade and Frost that includes some great visual effects that keep you on the edge of your seat.

The really gory scenes in the movie are reminiscent of some of the B-movies we all grew up watching as kids, which kind of clash with the dark, serious mood that the movie is trying to convey.

Just when you think you might start feeling sympathy for the vulnerability of this poor vampire/human who spends his life killing people at parties instead of going to them, he'll turn a vampire into a crispy critter with a flashlight bulb.

"Blade" is packed with exploding vampires, melting vampires, decapitated vampires, vampires en flambe, impaled vampires—even toothless vampires. It makes your stomach turn at first, but once you get used to it those scenes just become funny after awhile.

The plot is a bit laughable as well. Gen-X vampires calling on a Blood god does summon a chuckle when you think about it, but I guess even vampires have to have something to pass the time.

All in all, "Blade" really is a fun movie, especially for the 18-25 year old crowd. The effects make it worthwhile, with excellent photography and visuals that combine to give it a sort of animated feel.

The great costuming add to the gothic mood of the film. If only the story line would catch up, "Blade" would continue the legacy created by the dark comic-book based movies "Spawn" and "Dark City." "Blade" is definitely too violent for children, but for adults who like their movies with a little bite, this one will do just fine.

Vicious schedule awaits Northville

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

With a good portion of the offense returning and an athletic defensive roster, Northville may have one of its best football teams in quite some time.

But their record may not show it.

The Mustangs face a brutal schedule in 1998. With the likes of defending Class A champion Farmington Hills Harrison, Kensington Valley Conference champ Brighton and the rest of the Western Lakes powerhouses, not many teams will see a tougher schedule.

"Our first three games we've just got to survive," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We'll sure know what we're made of. Our character will have to come into play."

OFFENSE

Northville returns a good portion of its offensive line, and it also returns its deadly passer/receiver combination of Rob Reel and Ben Keetle.

Reel was HomeTown's first-team quarterback last year, completing 92 of 213 passes for 1,064 yards. Both he and Keetle benefited in Schumacher's 50-50 passing-running offense. Keetle caught 34 passes for 467 yards and three touchdowns and will start at one of the wide out positions this year.

"Rob has taken leadership of this team," Schumacher said. "When the game's on the line, he's the guy who likes to win it. He's just that kind of kid."

Along with Keetle, Reel will also throw to Aaron Redden, a sophomore who has shown great promise in early practices.

Schumacher said that with the loss of Chris Whittington to graduation and starting tailback Chris Ceane to an injury, the running back position will be by committee.

Junior Dan Scappaticci has earned the starting position for the season opener, but senior Bryan Shields will see equal time.

"He's a tremendous athlete and will be a key player on our team," the coach said. "You put a challenge out there and he will want to do it better."

The starting playfield will rely heavily on the back of the offensive line, which returns four starters. Senior captain Jeff Scott will again start at center and will be surrounded by guards Chris Lebeis and Nell Patterson. Lebeis is a returning starter, but Patterson is the lone newcomer to the line.

Another captain, Ted Bowersox, and Eric Foster return at the tackle positions. Schumacher said Bowersox is the key to the line and is a Mid American Conference candidate next year.

Senior Marshall Knapp will be the starting tight end and multi-purpose back Justin Dilley will round out the starting lineup.

"When we lost Chris Ceane, we lost a game breaker," Schumacher said. "My other two guys will have big shoes to fill."

"The potential is there to score points. This is one of the stronger offensive teams we've had in a while."

DEFENSE

The defense is less seasoned, but with several players playing on both sides of the ball the team will have a decent amount of experience.

Senior Ryan McCracken and Lebeis will get the nod at the tackle positions. Bowersox and Foster will each start at defensive end. Senior Aaron Leger will also see time at end.

Junior Steve Jameson is returning at the inside linebacker position. "Steve is very strong and he can run. He can move well from side to side," Schumacher said.

Starting on either side of him is senior captain Nick Spasovski and senior Joe Sabin.

In the defensive backfield, Colin MacFarlane will start at strong safety and Shields will play the free safety spot. Brian Roth will also see time at free safety.

Dilley and Redden will be the starting cornerbacks and will be backed up by Eric Cooley and Steve Klein.

"We are going to make some mistakes," the coach said. "But the best part about this group is that they won't quit."

SCHEDULE

Playing three playoff teams from a year ago and another who nearly missed, Northville all but has its work cut out for it.

After the season opener tomorrow against Brighton, the Mustangs face Walled Lake Central and Harrison back-to-back on the road. The middle of the schedule "lightens up a bit," but Western and a cross over game late in the season should test the team's stamina.

The annual Baseline battle with Novi will be played Oct. 30 at home. That game will begin at 7:30 p.m., as will all of Northville's Friday night games.

"This is one of the better teams we've had in years, but we do have to get through a tough schedule," Schumacher said. "We just have to be aggressive defensively and score with our offense."

Tomorrow's home opener will include a pair of special events for Northville fans. There will be a tailgating party before the game at the Northville girls' softball field. For $2 you can get a hot dog, chips and pop. The festivities begin at 6 p.m. Also, there will be a reception for the 1958 undefeated football team in the high school library. The reception will be held after the game.

Netters win at Rochester

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Northville tennis coach Uta Filkin was upset when her team received bad draws at the state tennis tournament last year.

So this year she toughened up her schedule to give her team some head-to-head matchups with some of the teams she'll have to face at the end of this year. And so far it has seemed to work.

Northville won the Rochester Invitational Saturday over a tough host squad and a top 10 Traverse City Central team. The Mustangs won the round-robin tournament, which also included Utica Eisenhower, with 19 points. Rochester was second with 15 points and Central tallied 14. Eisenhower was shut out.

Three flights went undefeated in three matches and four flights took home championships.

Second-singles player Jessie Mills edged out Courtney DesForges of Central 2-6, 6-3, 6-2 in her first match before breezing past Eisenhower 6-0, 6-0 and Rochester 6-1, 6-0.

Lauren West didn't lose a set in her run to the third-singles championship. The freshman defeated Eisenhower 6-0, 6-0, Central 6-3, 6-3 and Rochester's Andrea Driscoll 6-3, 7-6 (4).

Northville's other flight winners came at three and four doubles. Christina Chase and Nicole Lindholm were taken to three sets twice, falling once and winning the other en route to their title. The team defeated Rochester's Missy Meroz and Lauren Chutorash in their first match 6-2, 6-7 (5), 6-1. They then topped Eisenhower 6-0, 6-1 before losing to Central 4-6, 6-4, 2-6. Rochester, Central and Northville all tied with 2-1 records, but the Mustangs took first by virtue of a tie breaker.

The fourth-doubles team of Joanna Lee and Lauren Farris finished 3-0 to take home first place. They topped Central's Amanda

Kara Anderson (above) and partner Julie Glock finished second at the Rochester Invite Saturday.

Alward and Emily Bowerman 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 in their first match. Eisenhower was a breeze for the pair 6-1, 6-1 and Rochester was a straight-set victim 7-6 (4), 6-1.

Northville's other four flights each won two matches to gather much-needed points for their teams.

Kerry Woolfall fell to Rochester in her first match, but came back to defeat Central 1-6, 7-6 (5), 6-1 and Eisenhower's Julie Costanza 6-1, 6-1.

Freshman Marta Walasek lost her opener to Rochester 3-6, 0-6. She too came back strong and beat Central's Katie McClatchey 6-4, 6-0 and Eisenhower 6-1, 6-0.

Julie Glock and Kara Anderson lost to Central 2-6, 4-6, but fought hard in a 6-3, 7-5 win over Rochester's Jillian Sherwin and Molly Armistead. A 6-1, 6-0 win over Eisenhower rounded out the day for the first-doubles team.

Kristin Potchynok and Angela Trappell beat Eisenhower 6-2, 6-1 and Rochester's Erica Hischeke and Beth Malis 6-3, 6-4 before falling to Central 4-6, 4-6.

"If we would have played Central in a dual match, we would have lost," Filkin said. "But we're going to see Traverse City again in the Holy tournament, so I think they're going to be out to get us. I don't think they expected it to be that close."

Traverse City finished fourth in Division I last year and Northville was fourth in Division II.

N'VILLE 4, SOUTH LYON 4

While the varsity was scrimmaging Birmingham Marian last Wednesday, the junior varsity squad was holding its own against the Lions varsity team.

Sabina Khilnani and Shalene Jha picked up singles wins and Jennifer Tucker and Lindsay Crammond along with Neelam Vashi and Renu Goyal won at third and fourth doubles.

Although the JV team played the match, it still goes down as a tie on the varsity team's record.

Girls' team good, but not good enough

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Against a pair of teams who both finished in the top 10 in the state last year, all the Northville girls cross country team could do was hold its breath.

But despite the overwhelming odds against them, the girls finished strong and placed their top five runners among the top 14 finishers in the race.

Northville finished the tri-meet with 53 points. Livonia Stevenson took first with 34 points and Novi was close behind with 36 points.

Northville's top finisher was sophomore Alyson Flohr, whose time of 21 minutes, eight seconds was the eighth fastest time for a Northville runner at Cass Benton. She finished fourth overall behind Stevenson's Andrea Parker and Novi's Kristin Echols and Brittany Albright.

Lori Delano, running in her first cross country meet, was second on the team and 10th overall in a time of 22:03. Northville's next three runners finished back-to-back-to-back. Christin Kolarchek (22:47) was 12th, Amanda Sprader (22:49) was 13th and Karen Loeffler (22:54) was 14th overall.

Adrienne Manarina (23:36) and Hillary McCrumb (23:38) finished sixth and seventh for the Mustangs. Anna Shovers and Stephanie Flood each broke 24 minutes as well.

"We had a nice start to the season," coach Chris Cronin said. "Despite the heat, the girls ran well and showed me that they are right on schedule for a good season."

Northville's next meet will be a quad meet Sept. 10. The Mustangs will compete against Stevenson, Salem and Franklin

Cagers fall in finals of South Lyon Tourney

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

The Northville basketball team stopped South Lyon's best player, but let another scorch the nets in a 41-31 loss in the finals of the South Lyon Tournament last Thursday.

Brooke Raths finished with just six points for the Lions, but guard Kristin Ramsey scored a season-high 19 to lead her team to the win. Northville had just one player score more than five points (Kelly Anderson 6).

"We played a really good first quarter," said coach Pete Wright. "But after South Lyon scored the first two baskets of the second half and went up by 10, we had to play from behind."

Northville held an 11-10 advantage after the first quarter, but South Lyon outscored the Mustangs 16-9 to take a 26-20 lead at the half.

South Lyon held a 14-4 advantage from the free throw line and fed off of 23 Mustang turnovers. "Those two things were the difference in this game," Wright said.

"For us to be successful we have to cut down on our turnovers."

Anderson hit 3 of 4 shots from the field and was one of only two Northville players to shoot better than 50 percent from the field. The team shot 34.3 percent of its field goals. Emily Carbott and Sara Cox each had five points for the Mustangs.

N'VILLE 42, NBH 21

The Mustangs dominated the entire game, until it was called with three minutes left to play. Coaches and officials agreed to call the game midway through the fourth quarter when New Boston Huron's Amber Clelland went down with an injury and had to be taken away in an ambulance.

Huron's coach wanted to go with his player to the hospital, so both coaches agreed to call the game, which Northville had well in hand.

Wright's team took a commanding 27-7 lead at the half and cruised to the victory. Every Mustang played and eight scored. Anderson again led the team with 10 points and Janel Hasse added nine. Northville had as many steals (17) as it had turnovers. The team also shot the ball better, connecting on 18 of 39 shots.

"That game again proved that Kelly (Anderson) can play at the varsity level," Wright said of his starting freshman guard. "The whole team played good in the first half."

Northville faced Brighton Tuesday (after The Northville Record's deadline).

Mustangs get feet wet in opener

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

If last Thursday's scrimmage against Novi told boy's cross country coach Ed Gabrys anything, it's that his team is able to run a good pack time and that the injury his superstar suffered will only hold him out for a week.

Kevin Arbuckle pulled up after the two-mile mark with an injury, but was later informed by doctors that it was tendinitis of the knee and that he would only miss a week of practice.

"It's not terrible news," Gabrys said. "I was figuring he would miss at least two weeks."

As for the conclusion of the race, Novi took the top six positions and eight of the top nine. Brian Bilyk was the first Mustang to cross the finish line. The sophomore finished the race seventh in a time of 18 minutes, 40 seconds.

Ben Flood was 10th overall at 19:45. The next five Northville runners all finished within 11 seconds of each other.

Phil Santer came in at 20:01, followed by Jim Morrison (20:06), Eric Nadeau (20:09), Matt Glogowski (20:10) and Brian Wilson (20:12).

"We had some decent times," Gabrys said of his team's performance. "It was nice to see these guys come in a nice pack time, but we need to get their times down to the mid-18s for that to be effective."

The scrimmage does not count against Northville's record, but Gabrys said the two schools have been running against each other early in the season for a long time.

"It's nice to have someone else there to make it feel like an actual meet," he said.

Northville's next meet will be against Livonia Franklin Sept. 10. Salem and Stevenson will also be running, but they will compete in a dual meet with each other.

Hepatitis numbers on the rise

The spread of hepatitis is on the rise and millions of Americans have contracted the virus. In the past decade new information on hepatitis has surfaced that allows physicians to diagnose and treat the infection. In addition, several vaccines have been developed.

Hepatitis causes the liver to become inflamed. The liver's function is to process nutrients and hepatitis damages the liver so it cannot perform this activity. Hepatitis can be caused by infection, a drug reaction or excessive alcohol consumption. The effects of hepatitis can be as simple as flu-like symptoms or as serious as cirrhosis or liver cancer.

Six types of hepatitis have been identified. They are referred to as A, B, C, D, E and G. Only hepatitis B and C can cause chronic liver disease which can lead to cirrhosis and liver cancer. It's possible to have hepatitis and experience no symptoms. But most patients suffer from fatigue, body aches, nausea and loss of appetite. Some patients experience yellowing of the skin and eyes. In acute or mild hepatitis, treatment includes liquids and bed rest.

Mild cirrhosis is also treated by relieving symptoms. If cirrhosis progresses to serious liver disease, a transplant may be necessary.

Chronic hepatitis B and C can be treated with interferon-based therapy. While there is no cure for chronic hepatitis, treatment may cause the disease to go into remission.

Vaccinations for hepatitis A and B are available but the best advice is to try to avoid contracting the virus. Some lifestyle activities increase the risk of infection. Those activities include:

- Drinking untreated water.
- Eating uncooked fish, fruits or vegetables in foreign countries.

- Sharing toothbrushes, razors, or drinking cups with someone who is infected.

- Unprotected sex with someone who is infected.

- Using unsterile needles.

For more information about hepatitis, vaccinations or ways to avoid the virus, contact your family physician.

HOW TO

Here's the trick to cleaning brick

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

Q. Our brick patio has grease stains caused by spills during barbecue activities. I have tried detergents, but these have failed to remove the spots. Do you have any suggestions?

A. Grease is difficult to remove because it penetrates the porous brick. However, you can try cleaning with one of the commercial cleaning preparations recommended for brick and masonry, available at dealers in masonry supplies, some home centers or hardware stores. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully. Or you can use the following do-it-yourself mixture effective in removing numerous stains on brick:

Dissolve a half-pound trisodium phosphate (available through paint dealers) in two quarts water and mix with powdered whiting to form a paste. Spread a layer 1/2-inch thick on the stain. After it dries, scrape it away and flush the area with water. If the stain is not completely removed, apply a thick paste of powdered whiting and a non-flammable liquid spot remover, covered with a sheet of plastic or glass to retard evaporation. When paste is dry or discolored, replace with a fresh application and continue until the spot disappears. Flush with clear water once the stain is gone.

Q. Tar was splattered on our concrete driveway during a reroofing project. I tried a solvent to remove some of the dried-on tar, but this was not successful. Can you recommend a method for removing tar from concrete?

A. Unfortunately, tar tends to penetrate the porous concrete surface, and it is very difficult to remove. However, the Portland Cement Association offers these suggestions in dealing with staining caused by bitumens (asphalt, tar or pitches). Do not use solvents that can tend to increase the penetration of the stain in the concrete, making spots impossible to remove.

Before applying any treatment, scrape off the excess tar and scrub the surface with scouring powder and water. When molten tar is spilled on concrete, it is best to cool it with ice until brittle and chip off the tar with a chisel. Then proceed with the scouring powder treatment to remove residue. Rinse with clear water.

If the staining is a cutback bitumen (a solution of bitumen in a solvent), it is possible that it has penetrated deeply into the concrete and may be impossible to remove. You can try a poultice impregnated with toluene (toluol) or benzene (benzol), which is derived from coal tar and not to be confused with benzine (an extremely volatile substance). After the poultice is removed, scrub the surface with scouring powder and water.

If staining remains, you can have your driveway sandblasted. However, the sandblasting must be carried very deeply or the bitumen that has migrated deeply into the concrete will give the surface a salt-and-pepper look. If you do sandblast, the surface will remain more textured than the smooth concrete finish you now have.

Q. The windows in our kitchen and family room are covered with a tinted film which has become scratched over time. It also makes the rooms too dark. What type of solvent should I use to remove this plastic film?

A. Solvents won't work. They simply create a sticky, smearing of adhesive rather than removal. The answer is warm, sudsy water. Add a dish detergent to fairly hot water. Sponge the window surface and allow to soak 20 to 30 minutes. The enzymes of the soap will loosen the adhesive. Use a razor blade (three-to-four-inch blades are available from janitorial supply houses) to scrape the film from the window. Usually it will peel away in large strips. Be careful not to scratch the window pane in the scraping process.

If you have any glue residue remaining, use an adhesive removal product such as Lift Off, Goo Off or De-Solv-It, or even denatured alcohol, to finish cleaning the glass.

Q. We are remodeling our front entry and I want to install a wood door in a natural finish. My husband would rather have a steel door, which he believes is more durable. Is there a type of wood that would prove as durable?

A. Wood, although very attractive with a stained and varnished finish, is not as durable as either steel or fiberglass. Wood requires more upkeep with periodic re-varnishing, and does not have the insulating value of the other products. Wood is also more expensive.

Hardwood is more durable than softwoods, but very expensive. You might want to consider a fiberglass door as a substitute for wood. They are as durable as steel, and replicate wood fairly closely.

Some products can even be stained to match your woodwork. Most high-quality fiberglass doors come with a lifetime warranty, compared to warranties on wood doors which are typically one year. If you do decide to go ahead with wood, your door will last longer if protected with an overhang which shields it from weather and does not expose the finish to direct sunlight.

The Jacobsons' Victorian-style home on Lake Street in South Lyon combines the stately style of its period and the comforts of modern day.

Laid back Victorian

South Lyon couple redecorates for Victorian elegance while maintaining relaxed lifestyle

By Annette Jaworski

Can a busy young family find happiness in a Victorian decor? The Jacobsons of South Lyon are proof that you can adapt a Victorian decor to a relaxed lifestyle. Kevin and Mary Jacobson loved the Victorian look and feel of the home, but they didn't want to compromise comfort and what he calls a "laid back lifestyle."

"The home was lovely before I got here, we just made it pretty," said designer, Louise Pulsone, from Pat Guy Interiors in South Lyon. The couple had some great ideas and antiques to begin with, she said.

"Louise laid out what we could and couldn't do. The neat thing about working with her is that she wanted to work with our style," Kevin said.

Pulsone did a lot of research about Victorian decor, according to the couple. The result was a comfortable yet classic look with a Victorian touch.

"They didn't want to feel like they were living in a museum," Pulsone said.

However the Jacobsons did want to respect the heritage of the building, which was built in 1870-1871. The home is an East Lake Victorian style, according to Kevin. An appropriate coincidence, he points out, since the home is located on East Lake Drive in South Lyon.

"It's a very bold type of style with the sawn off type of arch. (the woodwork in the archways)," he explained.

For starters, they wanted to restore was the beautiful woodwork made of black walnut throughout the interior of the home, which had been painted. Their goal was to bring it back to its original condition. It took Dale A. Muir from Antique Restorations in Ann Arbor about eight to 10 months to strip everything down to the original black walnut. In the process, she discovered a large panel of black walnut underneath a window in the living room, which was covered with wallpaper.

Some renovation choices were hard for the couple. Like the decision to give up functional and uniquely decorative cast iron radiators. Lack of space and a desire for central air conditioning were the deciding factors for them — the radiators were removed.

The walls are done in mustard gold and antique white tone on tone stripe and the ceiling was finished in aglyptic paper. The paper is a rich looking embossed pattern, resembling Victorian tin ceilings.

This Victorian-style house on Lake Street in South Lyon has been decorated to maintain its heritage, yet given modern touches for a more comfortable living space.

Trophies incorporated into front parlor's golf motif

Rich looking art reproductions with ornate frames were added to the walls.

Another elegant touch was the addition of leaded glass to two front doors, which also gives the family more privacy when visitors call. They also added ornate brass hardware including the handle and a circular bell ringer. Decorative medallions over the light fixtures are an original feature of the home.

Many of the fabrics Pulsonse chose have lush textures, she calls a damask pattern. Texture is used widely throughout the entire home, on the ceiling in the curtains, as well as in fabric for furniture and floor coverings.

"They used a lot of patterns in those days," she notes.

The window in two adjoining rooms were accented with swags style drapes with jabots. In the dining room they chose a rose hue, for the living room, a mustard gold. Pulsonse suggested lace panels made of imported Italian fabric and fringe to the swags for a romantic look.

A simpler style was used on the stately windows in the front parlor. Here a bold stripe in hunter green, burgundy and cream was used, minus the lace panels and fringe.

Kevin's expertise in golf inspired the theme for the front parlor. Three period reproductions of golf scenes hang against one wall. His impressive trophies from Oak Pointe Country Club worked in well with the decor. Accent pillows with a golf motif were added that coordinate with two rocking recliners. Other seating includes a sofa and chair in tobacco colored leather, appropriately purchased from the Arnold Palmer Collection.

Mary added several pieces of her own, with an antique look, such as cherry end tables from Lexington. To soften the masculine tone, Pulsonse added a multi colored floral area rug in florals.

Some pieces are decorative and functional as well as decorative, like Kevin's antique cradle for their newborn daughter Katlin. And the large overstuffed chairs in china blue and a coordinating striped sofa in the living room.

The Jacobsens and their two dogs have been comfortably settled in their Victorian since 1993. Louise Pulsonse decorated in 1997. She can be reached at Pat Guy Interiors in South Lyon, phone (248) 486-5321.

'Dorothy' dishes up impressive dividends

By Anne McCollam
Copley News Service

ANTIQUES

Q. The dishes in this photo are part of a set that includes 98 pieces. They are decorated with a green design against a white background. Each piece is marked "Upper Hanley Semi Porcelain - Pottery - England - Dorothy."

Any information you can give us about the age, manufacturer and value of the set would be appreciated.

A. Upper Hanley Pottery Co. made earthenware and semiporcelain in Hanley, Cobridge and Staffordshire, England. They were in business for just a short time, from 1895 to 1910. "Dorothy" is the name of the pattern. Your set would probably be worth about $900 to $1,500.

Q. I recently acquired a set of English china. Each piece has the enclosed mark. The dishes were originally purchased in the late 1940s. It is a four-piece service for eight and includes three serving bowls, a teapot, creamer and covered sugar bowl. Each dish is decorated with blue and taupe borders and multicolored medallions. The set has been used only a few times and is in mint condition.

Is this just a 'nice old set' or is it rare? Also, I am interested in its value.

A. Myott, Son & Co. in Staffordshire, England, used the mark you provided. They have been in business from 1875 to the present. "Medici" is the name of the pattern. The registration number shows the design was registered with the British government in 1939.

Although your set is not rare, it is of high quality. Its value would probably be about $500 to $600.

Q. We were given an extension dining table. It has pedestal legs and an extra leaf that pops up when the table is pulled apart. The person that gave it to us was on his way to the dump with it. He gladly gave it to us because it saved him a dumping fee.

Someone had botched up the original finish with an antiques kit that was all the rage in the 1970s. It really looked awful, but we thought it was worth saving.

We have been told it is a Duncan Phyfe table. Apparently, that's good, although we don't know anything about Duncan Phyfe. Is it a style or manufacturer?

The table has been refinished and is now beautiful. Several people have offered to buy it and we have no idea of its value. Can you help?

A. Duncan Phyfe was a Scottish-born cabinetmaker who worked in New York in the late 1700s and early 1800s. His most admired work was in the Sheraton style. Pedestal tables have become associated with his name.

The entire set of this dinnerware made by the Upper Hanley Pottery Co. is worth about $900 to $1,500.

Your table is an early 20th century reproduction of one of his tables. The value of your table would probably be about $400 to $500.

Q. For 27 years, I have had a figurine of a little girl being chased by a puppy. She has red hair and is wearing a green dress. On the bottom is a bee in a "V" and the words "W. Goebel - W. Germany - 1957." On the base is the name "Charlot Bj." Can you tell me something about my little figurine?

A. W. Goebel Porcelain Factory produced a line of redheaded figurines designed by Charlot Bj. Yours was made in West Germany around 1957 and would probably be worth about $25 to $35.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

Max Printing center expands, relocates

By JASON SCHMITT
Staff Writer

It's been several years in the waiting, but for Tom and Rob Schendel, it's been well worth it.

The two brothers are co-owners of Max Printing and Copy Center, now located at 43043 Grand River in Novi. From 1986, when the two expanded their business, until July 1, Max Printing was located just off the corner of Grand River and Novi Road behind Bates Hamburgers.

Their business was located on one of the busiest intersections in Novi and it just wasn't that easy to pull in and out in a hurry. To make matters worse, the store was a little bigger than a shoe box compared to many copy and printing centers in the area.

But since their relocation to their new store, which sits between Meadowbrook and Novi roads just west of the Novi Fire Station, access to the store and proper customer service has been made easy.

"It used to be a small narrow thing," Tom said of their former building. "The lobby was about one-third of this store and there wasn't much of a counter."

"The thing we wanted here in Novi was to find a place that looked more like a franchise."

And now with more space to work with, the Schendel's have shaped their new store into a work of art. The two redid the ceiling and lights, installed new shelves and built a new counter top.

"It was kind of like an empty box when we got here. So we sat here a few nights and talked about where we wanted everything to go," Tom said. "Like with any business, you're going to have three or four people come in at any one time and you'd have to pull them to the side to talk to them. But here it works out real great."

Max Printing is a full-service color and black and white copy center. Their high-tech equipment allows them to print up to 70,000 copies overnight.

The two also own another shop in Garden City where they do all of their printing work on their presses. Max Printing and Copy Center also offers typesetting service, two-color printing and high speed digital printing and copying.

The Schendel's believe the relocation along with the work they have put into the store has allowed them to better service their customers.

"Pretty much our customers throw their things down and say they'll be back in a half an hour," Tom said. "We run them and they are out the door."

"Our base is a lot of corporations," Rob said. "Because of the big savings we offer, we're very price conscious."

Max Printing and Copy Center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Their phone number is (248) 348-2240.

Yard Wastes!

Protect our natural resources
– recycle yard wastes,
instead of burning them.
Recycling yard wastes through composting and mulching helps retain soil moisture, keeps weeds down, and enriches the soil.
It also eliminates the health hazards of smoke, and the risk of wildfire.

The progress being made by the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute is best measured on the golf course. Or, for that matter, wherever people with cancer continue to lead normal lives.

The Institute is driven by a 50-year-old commitment to provide the very best in cancer care and research. So it's no coincidence that more people are surviving cancer than ever before.

In fact, our diagnosis and treatment programs, provided through the hospitals of The Detroit Medical Center, North Oakland Medical Centers in Pontiac, and St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, are achieving results that would have been unheard of. Even just a few years ago.

And, through a unique partnership with Wayne State University, our researchers are gaining ground against this disease every day.

All of which, no matter where you look, you'll find cancer patients doing something remarkable. Enjoying life.

EDITOR'S LETTER

Dear Readers,

September is here and so is the more comfortable fall weather. It's a perfect time to head outside and get some exercise. Here's a challenge for you: This month, turn off the television for one-half hour each day and do something active. Take those 30 tiny minutes and

- Walk in your neighborhood. Meet someone down the block.
- Bike with the kids. Stop at the frozen yogurt shop before it shuts down for the season.
- Learn the butterfly at a swim class in your community pool.

If you do these things, or any other activity that gets you moving, I guarantee you'll feel better. One, you'll probably have more energy and may even lose weight. Two, you'll pick up a new interest and have fun doing it. Three, you'll spend time enjoying more of your surroundings - whether that's family, friends or nature. If at the end of the month you don't feel better, you can climb back on the couch. Promise. (I feel confident I'm going to win this bet and your sofa will remain empty.)

Just one-half hour a day to meet new people, trim your thighs, find a new hobby, strengthen your heart and have something more interesting to talk about than last night's sissy sitcom. Is it a deal?

To your health

What's New

Keep your ticker in tip-top shape

Let's save the heart-breaker endings for the movies. During National Cholesterol Education Month, we'd like to offer you info on keeping your ticker in tip-top shape. First, some facts:

- Cholesterol is a waxy substance used by the body to produce hormones and carry fat through the bloodstream to tissues. High cholesterol levels cause the inner walls of the arteries to become lined with fatty deposits.
- Clogged arteries can restrict blood flow and cause a heart attack. High cholesterol also leads to coronary artery disease.
- Heart disease is not just a problem of men; it's the No. 1 killer of both men and women.

Here are some tips for keeping your cholesterol level in check:

- Have your blood cholesterol level measured by a blood sample taken from your finger or arm. A concentration below 200 milligrams of cholesterol per deciliter of blood is considered normal. Between 200 and 239 is borderline and 240 or higher is abnormal. Have a test at least once every five years.
- Reduce the level of saturated fat in your diet which raises cholesterol levels. Saturated fat is found in fatty cuts of meat, poultry with skin, whole milk dairy products, lard, and oils such as coconut, palm and palm kernel.
- Exercise! It reduces the amount of harmful low-density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol and fats in your blood and reverses hardening of the arteries (which helps lower blood pressure), according to the American Medical Association.
- Skip the garlic as a cure-all. It doesn't lower cholesterol levels, according to a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It's not bad for you, it just isn't going to help cut your heart disease risk.

Buyer beware: read this first

Old sayings usually don't become old sayings unless they're worth repeating. "If it seems too good to be true, it probably is" is an ideal example. Yet, despite this oft-recited phrase, there still are plenty of people willing to plunk down their hard-earned money for the latest pill that will grow their hair back, cure an incurable disease or make them instantly desirable.

Here's some info on health care product advertising from the Oakland County Medical/Legal Committee, a coalition of physicians and attorneys from Oakland County's Medical Society, Bar Association and Osteopathic Association.

- Is the product advertised as fast, safe and easy? A secret formula? Guaranteed? Painless? FDA approved? A miracle, or having miraculous properties? Exciting, fantastic or amazing?
- Does the product claim to improve your sex life? Reverse aging? Cure a serious disease? Prevent calorie absorption? Allow you to eat all you want without gaining weight?
- Does the advertisement include vague testimonials that can't be confirmed, such as those given by 'Susie Q' or 'Jonathan B', without surnames and addresses?

According to the Food and Drug Administration, if you answered yes to one question, be suspicious of the product, two questions, fraud is likely. If you answered yes to three questions, save your money. If you're still interested in the product, contact the manufacturer or promoter and ask for proof of the claims. If the business can't give you that proof, be cautious about buying the product.

The FDA is the federal agency that regulates health care devices, drugs and medication, blood and blood products, foods and infant formulas, and cosmetics. Whenever a vitamin manufacturer makes a health claim for its product, the FDA rules that product to be a drug rather than a vitamin. If you're interested in finding out whether the FDA has investigated the claims of a particular product's health benefits, call the FDA in Detroit at (313) 226-6260.

Health tip!

Ginger helps relieve nausea. A study in the medical journal Anaesthesia found ginger was as effective as prescription medicine in stopping nausea and vomiting after surgery. It also may prevent motion sickness, and a Danish study found it to help alleviate morning sickness in pregnant women. Find ginger at your grocery store or capsules at a health food store.

Body Works Mix fun, fitness and family

A common complaint is that it's tough fitting exercise into your life, another is there never seems to be enough time for fun. Still another concern is the lack of quality time with family. It seems we're overlooking the obvious solution: combine these activities so there's time to do it all.

This month features Family Health and Fitness Day USA, so we'll offer you several great ways to be active, have fun and enjoy the family. Now that's time management at its best!

Hike it. There are great trails throughout our many state parks. Call the one nearest you for details. A nice brisk walk will burn 200 to 300 calories an hour, pick up the pace to a jog and you'll knock off 500 to 700 calories an hour. If you're feeling really adventurous and want to make a weekend out of it, try one of our national parks or forests, such as the Huron-Manistee National Forest near Cadillac which features 122 miles of the North Country Trail. The trail travels along hilly terrain and small lakes and the very picturesque Udell Hills. Take along a book on birch trees, wildflowers -- anything you'll come across -- and get the added bonus of learning a little something about nature while you're walking. Exercising the mind and body -- how clever! Don't forget the bug spray, water, a few snacks (see trail mix recipe this issue) and a compass. Watch out for poison ivy: a green plant with three shiny leaves, greenish-white flowers and clusters of berries. If you do get too close and you get a mild rash, redness, blisters, swelling, burning or itching, remove the contaminated clothing, wash the area with soap and water and apply calamine lotion.

Seek medical care immediately if you have a more serious reaction.

Bike it. There are miles of bike paths throughout the state and you'll burn 500 to 700 calories per hour while seeing a bit of the landscape. Be sure everyone wears a bike helmet. Buy only helmets that bear the approval label of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) or the Snell Memorial Foundation. Make sure the helmet covers the top of the forehead and doesn't move around. There are helmets available for toddlers, though the American Academy of Pediatrics does not recommend bike travel for children under age one because of their weak neck structure.

Lap it up. Swimming burns 500 to 700 calories per hour. Swimming works most of the major muscle groups and is nonweight-bearing, so there's virtually no stress to muscles and joints. Head out for a last dip in the lake or check your community pool for open swim times.

Kid around. Be a real daredevil: let the kids choose an activity, whether that's in-line skating, street hockey or something equally invigorating. You'll score extra points with the kids for being a good sport in letting them take the lead and for keeping them amused as they watch you fumble around on a skateboard or other such foreign object. Just make sure you gear up appropriately so when you come crashing down (it's a given) only your pride will be injured.

Here's the skinny on our weighty problem.

Michigan is a leader in something besides the production of cars and trucks: it is one of the most obese states in the country.

The Coalition for Excess Weight Risk Education ranked Detroit as the sixth-most overweight city in America. Yet, we're hardly alone in our problem: 33 percent of adults in the United States are much chubbier than they should be (a percentage that has gone up nearly 10 percent in 10 years). With those added pounds come added risk of heart disease, cancer, diabetes, and a host of other life-threatening health concerns.

Most obesity is not the work of bad genes, but bad lifestyle choices, says Samson K. Kpadenou, M.D., M.P.H., director of the Rochester Lifestyle Change and Health Center. Dr. Kpadenou is board-certified in bariatric medicine, the treatment of obesity and weight control. Among his findings:

- Many people are thin most of their lives, but as they age they become less active while continuing to eat the same amount of food as in the past—so weight gain follows.
- Once a person gets heavy, a vicious cycle of weight gain and loss often ensues, and after each gain it becomes increasingly difficult to lose the extra pounds.
- Dealing with obesity is more difficult than combatting other health concerns, such as smoking or overuse of alcohol. The reason? You can eliminate the latter two vices from your life, but you always have to eat to survive, so you're continually facing and being tempted by your problem.

At the Rochester Lifestyle Change and Health Center, a patient begins the program with a discussion about obesity and the nature of Dr. Kpadenou's bariatric methods. Patients then give a medical history and blood work and undergo a thorough physical to assess their health, so a dietitian can tailor a program to meet their specific needs. Therapists and other experts are on hand to assist patients with lifestyle changes that can affect the whole family when someone undertakes a weight-loss plan.

Eating Well

Stay in the game with this healthy tailgate menu

Tailgates are almost as much a part of football season as the game itself. But, if you want to avoid looking like the linebacker, you're going to have to avoid those fatty, calorie-laden dishes at the pregame party. Start by bringing your own low-cal dish. Here's the perfect tailgate menu.

- Veggies and blue cheese dip
- Spicy turkey chili
- Black bean salad
- Raisin-oatmeal cookies

Recipes:

 1 large clove garlic, minced
 1 t Worcestershire sauce
 2 T lemon juice
 1 cup nonfat plain yogurt
 3 T fresh dill, finely chopped

Puree cottage cheese and blue cheese in blender. Add onion, garlic, Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice and blend. Fold in yogurt and dill. Makes three cups. Per one tablespoon
 Calories 16, fat 1 g

 2 (14.5-oz) cans stewed tomatoes (no salt added)
 1 cup tomato puree
 1/2 t salt

The dangers of eating disorders

Your strong-willed daughter with the 4.0 grade-point average and the superb tennis backhand may not seem the type to have an eating disorder. Strangely that's precisely who often does.

Millions of people—mostly young women—develop eating disorders each year. About 1 percent of all adolescent girls develop anorexia nervosa, a dangerous condition in which they can literally starve themselves to death. Another two to three percent of young women develop bulimia nervosa, a destructive pattern of excessive overeating followed by vomiting or other "purging" behaviors to control their weight, according to the National Institute of Mental Health.

While many women die from these disorders, there is hope. Researchers have found that early recognition and treatment of the conditions can mean a full recovery. People with anorexia and bulimia share some traits, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics

- distorted body image
- strong-willed nature
- obsessive thoughts about food, eating and body shape
- depression
- excessive exercise
- overachiever, perfectionist
- difficulty concentrating
- poor self-esteem
- self-destructive behavior
- irritability
- vomiting and use of laxatives and/or diuretics to keep weight off

Eating disorders may run in families, suggesting genetic factors may play a role. One recent study found that mothers who are overly concerned about their daughters' weight and physical attractiveness may put the girls at increased risk of developing an eating disorder. In addition, girls with eating disorders often have a father or brothers who are overly critical of their weight. If you have a child who you suspect may have an eating disorder based on the descriptions above, contact your physician immediately. 10

Kid's Stuff

Think out-of-the-box when it comes to kids' lunches

The kids have only been back to school for a few weeks and already they've staged a boycott of your famous "Lifesaver-butter sandwiches" (in retrospect, you realize packing them three days in a row was a risky move on your part). Don't panic. Here are 10 creative and healthy alternatives to the hum-drum bread-and-bologna standard.

1. Raw veggies and Little Dipper dip

Little Dipper dip
1/2 cup low-fat or nonfat mayo
1/2 cup plain nonfat yogurt
2 t. dry dressing mix (or 1 t. Worcestershire sauce)
1 t. lemon juice
Mix ingredients well

2. Fruit kebabs

Fill skewers with strawberries, grapes, orange wedges, sliced apple, kiwi, banana, melon and pineapple.

3. Personal pizzas

Split mini-pizzas and spread with bottled spaghetti sauce. Top with veggie slices and shredded mozzarella cheese. Grill for a few minutes under a broiler. Cool! The kids can eat them cold (who doesn't love leftover pizza?) or use the school's microwave if it's available.

4. Mexican rollups

Spread a flour tortilla with nonfat refried beans, sprinkle with low-fat cheese and roll. Heat 20 seconds in a microwave. Cool! Eat cold with a dash of salsa.

5. Celery and apple slices, topped with peanut butter.

Or core an apple and stuff it. Send along some low-fat string cheese.

6. Yogurt cup.

Send along a fruit kebab or a piece of fruit.

7. Fruit bars.

Again, send yogurt, trail mix (see below) or veggies and dip.

8. Rice cakes with peanut butter, gnt cream cheese or jam.

9. Trail mix

Combine equal amounts of almonds, peanuts, cashews and other favorite nuts and seeds, raisins, dried fruits and a few M&Ms. Store in an airtight container or zipper plastic bags.

10. Sandwich stuffings

such as hummus or fat-free lunch meats in pita pockets, tortillas or mini-bagels. Use Dijon or honey mustard or low-fat mayo to keep fat in check. Instead of cheese, top with lettuce and tomato.

Playing it Safe on the Playground

This is the time of year when children head for playgrounds at recess and after school. Unfortunately, each year approximately 280,000 children will be treated in hospital emergency rooms for injuries involving playground equipment and surfacing. The National Safety Council offers these guidelines for playgrounds.

Make sure the surfacing can cushion falls.

Loose fill materials such as sand, bark/wood chips and pea gravel are sufficient. Synthetic surfacing systems such as multi-layered and interlock rubber mats also are good. Grass, dirt and asphalt are not acceptable because they do not provide enough cushioning.

Make sure there is enough space to accommodate all equipment safely.

There should be enough room around and between each piece of equipment for foot traffic. Lots of room allows children to fall clear of equipment and other children.

Perform routine maintenance.

When equipment is exposed to outside elements, rust and erosion can occur. Check nuts, bolts, camps and swing chains.

Check for poor design.

Look for pinch or crush points, sharp edges or rough surfaces. Especially guard against open "S" hooks and accessible moving parts. Openings such as hanging rings, stair rungs or spaces between railings should be less than five inches or more than 10 inches in diameter or they could trap a child's head.

No play area or piece of equipment can be completely injury-proof. But proper equipment choice, placement, upkeep and parental supervision can help prevent injuries. ■

Older & Wiser

Take a test, save your life, during Prostate Cancer Awareness Week

Men don't typically like to show fear, but most will admit they are scared to death of prostate cancer — and with good reason. It's one of the leading cancers in men, killing 40,000 each year.

What's surprising is the fact that thousands of men could be saving their own lives and aren't. Men could drastically lower their risk of death if they'd just get a yearly screening test. When prostate cancer is caught in its early stage, it is highly curable.

Because there are usually no signs in the early stage of prostate cancer, all men age 50 and older should receive a digital rectal examination and a blood test to measure a protein called prostate-specific antigen, or PSA. In a study of 46,000 men, those who received an annual PSA test were 69 percent less likely to die from prostate cancer than men who didn't get the yearly blood test.

If you are age 40 and older and have at least one of the following risk factors, the American Cancer Society recommends you begin your annual exams now. Risk factors include:

- family history of prostate cancer on either the mother's or father's side

- being of African American heritage. African American men have the highest rate of prostate cancer in the world.

Health is as good as gold in your older years

Older people are the fastest-growing segment of society. So it makes sense to stay in shape to enjoy your golden years. But with age comes health concerns. One in every three people will eventually get cancer, so catching it early is essential. Most cancers don't show signs in their early, curable stages, so regular screening tests are lifesavers. It's Healthy Aging Month, so here's a list of tests older men and women should receive to keep them healthy.

Women age 65 and older should.

- Receive a mammogram every one-to-two years according to the National Cancer Institute. To find out where to get a mammogram, ask your doctor or call the NCI's Cancer Information Service at 1-800-4-CANCER.
- Receive a breast exam from your doctor every one to two years as part of your regular check-up and perform a breast self-exam every month.
- Receive a pelvic exam and Pap smear every year to check for cancers of the uterus and cervix.
- Receive a rectal exam and guaiac stool test every year, to detect colon and rectal cancer.
- Receive a sigmoidoscopy or "procto" exam to test for colon and rectal cancer. The thin, lighted sigmoidoscope is inserted into the rectum to check for cancer.
- Receive a skin cancer check every time you receive a routine physical exam.

Men age 65 and older should.

- Receive a rectal exam every year to check for prostate, colon and rectal cancer.
  - Receive a prostate specific antigen test every year to check for early prostate cancer (see related story, this issue).
  - Receive a guaiac stool test every year to detect colon and rectal cancer.
  - Receive a sigmoidoscopy or "procto" exam (in which a thin, lighted instrument called a sigmoidoscope is inserted in the rectum) to check for colon and rectal cancer.
  - Receive a skin cancer check every time you receive a routine physical exam.
- For information on how to find a doctor, call 1-800-4-CANCER.

"I Could See Forever!"

78 year old Vision Institute patient Rose Hurd, puts her improved vision to the test after cataract surgery.

Cataract Surgery does more than just improve your vision — it can also improve your confidence and outlook on life! At the Vision Institute of Michigan, cataract surgery is performed with no stitches and uses a topical anesthesia to numb your eyes rather than an injection. Now, you can get back to your regular activities the next day — even if that means taking a more scenic view of the city!

Call now • Free seminars & consults on how We use Laser for No-Stitch Eyelid Surgery & removing Wrinkles

A New View of Cataract Treatment

Cataract surgery is now pain-free, stitch-free and fast. Cataracts are the leading cause of poor vision among older adults in the United States, causing vision problems for more than 70 percent of people over age 50.

Symptoms include foggy vision, or a feeling there is a "film" over the eyes. This makes sense because the lens of the eye is actually clouding. Sensitivity to light or glare and gradual blurring of vision, especially at night, are other signs.

In general, there is no way to prevent cataracts, although some recent studies seem to indicate that if a person prior to age 40 starts taking supplemental vitamin E and C, this may retard cataract growth.

Certain types of cataracts are also more frequent in patients with diabetes. Sometimes trauma or exposure to ultraviolet light can cause cataracts or cause cataracts to progress.

The only cure for cataracts is surgery. But surgery today is not like it was years ago. In the past, cataract surgery meant several days in the hospital. Today, with modern technology, cataract surgery is done as an out-patient procedure. For most cases, cataracts are removed with high speed ultrasound and with the use of foldable intraocular lenses. In this way, an incision 3mm (1/8 of an inch) can be made and the entire operation performed through this tiny incision. This self-healing incision generally does not require stitches. Patients can return to their normal activities almost immediately and the eye is generally healed within two to three weeks. In addition, the Vision Institute of Michigan uses topical drops to freeze the eye so that patients do not even need a patch after the operation and can experience immediate visual results.

There is a misconception that cataracts can be removed primarily with a laser. In general, this is not true. (There is a new laser instrument that is being tested.) Lasers are not used to remove the primary cataract. A large percentage of patients after cataract surgery will develop a clouding of a membrane that supports the intraocular lens, and this, to the patient, appears as if the cataract has returned. This is what is treated with a laser. The treatment generally takes 10 to 20 seconds and can restore the vision to what it was before the membrane clouded. This surgery is pain-free, easy for the patient to undergo, and the results are, in general, outstanding. ■
