Just call him 'Mr. Mayor'

Mike Allen always made Northville his Number One priority

Five hundred and twenty-four of Northville's 1,132 registered voters cast ballots at the spring election last Monday.

They elected Claude N. Ely as village president to succeed Claude E. Langfield, and put two new men — Earl L. Reed and Ed C. Welch — on the village commission. A. Malcom Allen, who has served two years on the commission, was returned to office by an outstanding plurality of 343 compared with 189 for Reed, the runner-up, and Welch, who ran third in a field of eight candidates.

Look at Mike Allen from across a restaurant, and you'd see the kindly face of a man in the autumn of his life.

For some inexplicable reason, his is not the appearance one would expect a person to have who's operated a successful small business, had a senior citizen living complex named after him and served as mayor for two decades.

He also doesn't look like the sort of person who's traveled to Alaska nearly a dozen times and sold his property in Florida because the traditional subtropical senior retirement state wasn't his cup of tea.

"I'm just a hillbilly from Missouri," Allen said, smiling. "I just don't want to settle into that rocking chair quite yet."

Allen has literally seen Northville grow up from its small village beginnings to its transformation into a city. He and friends close to him have helped orchestrate the construction of Main Center Apartments, CadyCentre, and revamping Northville City Hall.

Mike Allen never stepped foot into a college classroom, but Allen wound up serving one month shy of 20 years as Northville's mayor — the longest since Northville upgraded from sleepy village to city.

THE BASEMENT

There are a number of things one notices when entering Mike Allen's basement. For one thing, the ceiling in the room is noticeably higher than what you'd expect from a house its size. It doesn't have a cramped feeling many homes do.

The other thing about the basement isn't really noticed until you round the corner from the room where the former brain trust of Northville Downs once gathered, of which Allen was a part.

It's a wall dotted with about a dozen carpet samples. Each small patch of fabric has about 25 letter openers attached to it.

"It's my letter-opener collection," Allen said. His is the only such collection he knows of.

A little further through the basement and you arrive at a small office. It's in this room that Allen has the anecdotes of his mayoral days. The walls are dotted with ceremonial keys to other cities around Michigan and gradually-yellowing photographs of Allen and his former colleagues on the Northville city council.

"A lot of these fellows — they're either dead or moved on now," Allen said, chuckling wryly.

Recall group seeks change in attitude by trustees

■ Families for a Better Northville committee encourages residents to attend next township board of trustee meeting March 18 to voice concerns

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Before the term "recall election" comes to the forefront, a group protesting Northville Township's lawsuit against the Northville school district is hoping cooler heads will prevail.

But should that not happen in very short order, Families For A Better Northville co-organizer Jim Nield said the ante will be upped to seek some new faces on the township's board of trustees.

Nield, who belongs to the group headed by resident Scott Wilson, said the group was strongly considering petitioning for a recall election against the board last week. A press release from the organization stated that if the group's demands weren't addressed very quickly following a scheduled rally at the board's meeting next week, that the recall campaign would be launched.

In addition to the lawsuit against the district, Nield said Families would also ask for:

- A reduction in tap-in fees being levied against the district for the new Northville High School;
- The hiring of a full-time township manager, and;
- An investigation into a possible conflict of interest by township supervisor Karen Woodside in her dual roles as both an appellate court prosecutor for Wayne County and as supervisor.

Wilson said a lot was riding on the outcome of the

Conventional lights selected for stadium at new high school

Woods of Edenderry residents will see the light when the new Northville High School opens.

Because of a tight budget for the new school, though, it may be more than they like, said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for administrative services for the Northville school district.

The Northville board of education finance subcommittee discussed the soccer stadium lighting at its most recent meeting. The lighting system was approved with the electrical contract, but the subcommittee wanted more information on the issue, Bolitho said.

"(The finance subcommittee) questioned whether or not we should consider anything else," he said. "But they didn't have a problem with the system we talked about."

The district considered two kinds of lighting systems: a conventional and soft light system.

Northville teen caught stealing beer from store

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A local teen's scheme to provide Bud to his buds seemed simple enough.

Sneak some alcohol out the back door with garbage and set it by a Dumpster for your friends to pick up.

The only glitch in the plan is that it's illegal to steal alcohol from the place you work and give it to people under the age of 21.

The incident happened Feb. 27 at about 8 p.m.

According to Northville police department reports, a 16-year-old Northville resident who lives on Ironwood Court and had worked at Good Time Party Store, 567 Seven Mile Road, admitted to sneaking alcohol out the back door of the store and providing it to other minors.

Officers were alerted to the plan after the store's manager witnessed the 16-year-old stock boy sneak alcohol out the door and set it by the Dumpster with garbage. The report said the manager went out to the Dumpster to make sure alcohol was taken out to it before he called police.

After police were called, the report says, a police officer parked in the lot of McDonald Ford and waited for someone to pick up the alcohol. Police then witnessed "several vehicles" and about 10 juvenile males in the area of the Dumpster.

Is our downtown safe from the threat of fire?

■ Older downtown buildings could be at risk, with no sprinkler systems or firewalls to stop the spread of a fire

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

No sprinkler system, breached fire walls and building age were a devastating equation for Hot Springs, Ark. in 1996.

In March of that year, the city lost a national historical marker called McGee's Cafe after it burned to the ground. The building, which had previously been a clothing store and had a hotel on the second level, was a mainstay in Hot Springs since the 1800s much like many of downtown Northville's buildings.

town Northville's buildings.

And also like many of the buildings in Northville, McGee's wasn't prepared for fire.

"I'm sure there was something that we could've done to make things safer," said Ed Davis, fire marshal of Hot Springs. "It was an important building and a huge loss to the downtown area."

The possibility for a similar loss in downtown Northville exists, according to Jim Allen, fire chief of Northville.

"The potential for a major fire is there," Allen said.

The problems, Davis and Allen said, are buildings built long before fire codes were put in place. Buildings built before that

Innsbrook making safety improvements

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Innsbrook Apartments and Northville Township public safety officials continued working toward making safety improvements at the complex last week.

Fire chief Bill Zhmendak said he was "very pleased" with the progress of modifications being made to Innsbrook, and added that the complex had gone above and beyond what was originally requested in the installation of firewalls in two locations.

Fire officials determined substantial changes were necessary after a fire broke out at Innsbrook in early January.

The blaze was determined to have started when contractors brought in to remove ice dams used gas torches to cut through icicles. Heat and flame from the torches apparently worked its way into the rafters of one of the buildings on the east side of Innsbrook. No injuries were reported.

Zhmendak said Innsbrook management had replaced malfunctioning smoke detectors, installed fresh batteries in existing smoke detectors and repaired separation walls in several of the buildings in the complex.

Carbon monoxide tests are also slated for later this month in some of the buildings and inspections of many of the furnaces in Innsbrook will be forthcoming, he added.

"It would have been almost impossible to replace all the furnaces simultaneously," Zhmendak said. "I think they're addressing the issue in a very timely manner and doing a good job at it."

Mechanical problems with furnaces were the believed to be the cause of fires over Memorial Day weekend in 1998 and in the first fire in 1995.

Zhmendak said he was considering making contributions to a monthly newsletter distributed to Innsbrook residents which would provide a few fire safety reminders geared toward apartment dwellers. Such information would include reminding residents that the proper way to put out a grease fire in a skillet is not to throw water on it, but to place a lid on it to restrict oxygen flow to the fire.

Zhmendak said such submissions may not only be provided to Innsbrook but to all apartment complexes served by Northville Township public safety.

As for reconstruction of apartments destroyed in the Memorial Day fire, Zhmendak said he had seen no inspection requests from Innsbrook cross his desk as of yet. But, he said, he had heard through others in the department that the complex was nearing completion of the units, whose floor plans had been reconfigured to provide easier traffic flow.

"From what I've heard, they're really state-of-the-art in there," Zhmendak said. He said he anticipated receiving inspection requests sometime in the next 30 to 60 days.

Innsbrook has 208 living units in its older phase, located toward the rear of the complex, and an additional 78 units in the newer phase, located closer to Seven Mile Road.

Northville enjoys increase in track monies

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Northville may have to jockey less money toward capital improvement projects due to the closing of a neighboring city's racetrack.

Nicolette Bateson, assistant city manager and finance director for Northville, said a dramatic rise in the amount of money the city received from racetrack breakage in January may be due to the closing of Ladbroke DRC.

For the month, the city received $43,553 in racetrack breakage revenue - the most since the program was put into place during fiscal 1997.

The way it works is like this: if a horse has a pay-off of $4.12 the track rounds it to the closest figure divisible by 10. In this case, the payoff would be $4.10. The two cents then goes into a fund that goes to the city. "Those pennies can really add up," Bateson said.

Money received through the program goes to the city's capital improvement fund.

Racetrack breakage replaced the Grants for Cities with Racetracks program that sent money to cities with racetracks in the past. Northville used to receive $1 million from the program until 1990 when the program ended.

Bateson said she couldn't say whether or not the increase in funding was due to the closing of Ladbroke but told the council that she thought it was "significant."

The previous high was $35,155 which was received during November 1997 and the low is $15,965 received during September 1997.

Police News

Teens arrested for possession of marijuana

Two Northville High School students were cited for possession of marijuana March 3.

The incident happened at 11 a.m. According to Northville police reports, an officer saw a green Ford Ranger pull into the lot of 141 E. Cady St. and park next to a gray Jeep Cherokee also occupied. The occupants of both vehicles stayed in their cars.

The officer then watched the passenger of the Jeep, later identified as an 18-year-old Northville resident from Old Bridge Court, receive something from the driver of the Ranger. The driver of the Ranger was identified as a 17-year-old from North Valley Drive who turned 18 March 6.

After the exchange, Northville police approached both vehicles. Police discovered the Old Bridge Court resident had hid marijuana under the seat and also in his waistband.

The driver of the Ranger told police he had no more drugs but when they raised the issue of possibly bringing a police dog to the truck to make sure, the driver remembered he did have a large coin purse that contained a Bic lighter, Zig Zag rolling papers, a small plastic bag and a sandwich bag containing pot.

Both were cited and released for possession. The 18-year-old will be in court March 31. The former 17-year-old will be contacted by juvenile court.

THREE STRIKES: A 39-year-old woman who lives on Jamestown Circle and drives a 1988 black Ford was cited for unlawful blood alcohol level.

The incident happened March 4 at about 9 p.m.

According to police reports, the woman was driving south on Griswold Street near Butler Avenue when she struck a large rock with the right front of her car as half of her car was in the road and the other out. She proceeded on the same path - following the curve - and struck an arrow sign and then a tree.

She received a citation for operating a vehicle under an illegal level of alcohol and unlawful blood alcohol level.

NOT A MYTH: A 30-year-old Swartz Creek man learned the hard way that slippery ice is not a myth.

The incident happened March 2 at 8:15 a.m. According to police reports, the man was driving his 1988 Ford L9000 north on South Main Street coming into downtown Northville when he hit a patch of ice, lost control of his car and ran into a truck driving in the outside lane being driven by 22-year-old man from Manchester.

The Swartz Creek man received a citation for driving too fast for conditions.

WHY CARS HAVE LOCKS: An Allen Drive woman's car telephone was stolen from the driveway of her residence.

The incident was reported March 6 at about 10 a.m.

According to Northville police reports, unknown person or persons entered the woman's 1998 Plymouth Voyager while it was parked in her driveway and stole her cellular phone. The phone was located between the drivers and passenger front seat and the car was left unlocked.

There are no witnesses or suspects.

CAR SEARCH: An 18-year-old man who lives on Bradner Road in Northville was stopped and arrested by Northville police. He also had his car searched.

The incident happened March 5 at about 1:30 p.m.

According to police reports, the man was stopped for driving 58 miles per hour in a 40-mile-per-hour zone while traveling westbound on Eight Mile near Center Street.

A background check of the man showed him to have a suspended license. As a result the man was arrested and released on a $100 bond.

Also, the report said, the man is a known drug dealer in the Northville police jurisdiction so the K-9 unit from Livonia police was called in to do a search of the car. The search turned up nothing.

DWLS: A 29-year-old Southgate man was stopped for disobeying a red flashing signal and was arrested for driving with a suspended license.

The incident happened March 7 at about 3:30 a.m.

According to police reports, the man disobeyed a traffic signal near Hines Drive and Center Street. A background check revealed the man's license to be suspended for failure to appear in court in Garden City for driving with an expired license.

He was processed and released on a $100 bond for the Northville charge and a $200 bond for Garden City.

TOWNSHIP POLICE

RUDE AWAKENING: Township police were called to the residence of a 24-year-old Innsbrook Apartments man after he complained of a woman honking her car horn excessively in front of his home.

The incident occurred at around 6:45 a.m. March 7.

When police arrived, a neighbor pointed out where the woman, later identified as the man's 20-year-old ex-girlfriend, was waiting. Police confronted the woman, who was dressed in a T-shirt and shoes. Temperatures that morning were in the high teens.

The woman complained of being cold, so police allowed the woman to sit in a patrol car while questioning her. Officers noticed the odor of intoxicants on the woman's breath.

Meanwhile, another officer spoke with the man, who said he only wished that the woman leave him alone.

The woman agreed to submit to a breath alcohol test, which checked in at 0.07, over the limit for a person under age 21.

The woman advised police that such an incident being reported to the courts would violate the terms of her probation from a 1998 incident.

Cigarette lighter blamed for apartment fire

A house fire at Country Club Village apartments last month appeared to have been started by a lit cigarette igniting a couch.

That was the word Monday from township fire chief Bill Zhmendak. He said preliminary investigations suggested that someone inside the apartment may have fallen asleep and accidentally dropped a burning cigarette on or near a couch in the family basement.

Though cigarettes are very small, studies have shown that cigarettes burn at temperatures from 550 degrees on the outside of glowing ash to 1,350 degrees on the interior of the same ash.

"Based on the shape of the burn mark in the fire, that's what we're zeroing-in on," Zhmendak said.

Neither of the occupants of the home, an elderly couple, were injured in the fire, but they were transported for observation. Damage in the basement of the home was extensive. Flames pierced the basement window and began to singe screens on the second floor of the home when firefighters arrived.

A look at news in Northville and Northville Township

SCHOOL BRIEFS

School elections slated for June

Two school board seats will be up for grabs this June.

The Northville school board approved June 14 as the official school election day for the year. As a result, a number of deadlines have been set up in regards to the school election.

Candidate petitions are due April 12 by 4 p.m. at the district's business office, 501 W. Main St. The last day people may register in order to be eligible to vote at the election is 5 p.m. May 17.

Trees donated to new high school

Ten maple trees, six ash trees and four Norway evergreen trees have been donated to the Northville School District by a Northville Township man.

Thomas Conwell, 17578 Stonebrook Drive, planted the trees during the fall and summer of last year to put a natural barrier between his home and the new high school.

The maple trees are worth $5,000, the ash are worth $3,000 and the Norway evergreens are worth $4,000.

William Allen Academy hosts events

William Allen Academy students and families have participated in several events during the past few months.

In December, students gave a musical presentation at Allen Terrace. Additionally during the month, two collections were carried out to aid victims of last fall's hurricane in Central America: one of food and supplies and another of money for the Red Cross.

In January a fundraising proceeds, dance and auction was held with the proceeds going towards the purchase of a new playground for the playground.

In February, the students sent two large envelopes of valentine cards to the Veterans Hospital. Additionally, fourth and fifth graders took a field trip to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

CITY BRIEFS

Council gives okay on negotiations

The Northville city council has approved a recommendation from Gary Word, Northville city manager, for the city to negotiate the sale price of land at the intersection of Cady Street and Church Street.

The city solicited bids for the land last fall. Two proposals were received in the fall, but both were below market value. One proposal was rejected. The other proposal was below market value.

As a result the city sought input from the city attorney as to whether Northville could negotiate a higher price for the land. The attorney determined it was acceptable but unanimous approval was needed by the city council which happened March 1.

Parking recommendations approved

Northville city council approved two of three recommendations for action on the city of Northville Parking Management Plan.

The two recommendations accepted were to accept the plan and to direct city staff to prepare a resolution to increase parking credit fees. The cost for existing building expansion or renovation is $2,350 per credit and the cost for new construction is $3,400 per credit. The plan recommends increasing the fees from $3,200 to $4,500 respectively.

The recommendation to adjust the office space requirement to one space per 300 square feet instead of one space per 200 square feet didn't have enough support from the initial meeting.

New police cars purchased

The city of Northville police department has bought two new police patrol vehicles at a price of $19,745 each.

The purchase of two new cars was approved during the 1998-1999 budget process. The cars were needed because three of four primary marked patrol vehicles in the police department's fleet have more than 50,000 miles.

The cars were to be ordered before March 13 and were ordered through a manufacturer lease-purchase program through the state of Michigan from Jorgensen Ford, of Detroit.

The two cars will be Ford Crown Victoria.

City signs drinking water resolutions

The city of Northville has approved a resolution endorsed by the Michigan Municipal League that supports the efforts of the Environmental Protection Agency and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality.

The resolution supports the efforts of the groups in working together with other groups to develop and put in place administrative rules for existing federal and state statutes passed to safeguard the nation's water supply.

TOWNSHIP BRIEFS

Bowden employee of the month

Finance department employee Delores Bowden was recognized by the board as its employee of the month for February.

Township supervisor Karen Westside noted that Bowden had been promoted to acting administrator of the department and that she assisted finance director Thelma Kubitskey in preparing budgets and audit-related materials.

"She'll be busy next week," Kubitskey joked.

Trustees proclaim "Respect Week"

The board adopted a resolution acknowledging the week of March 20-27 as Respect Week in the township. The resolution said respect was defined as "showing regard for our physical, mental, emotional and spiritual well-being, and recognizing ourselves as persons worthy of love and respect from others."

Though accepted unanimously, trustee Bill Selinsky asked if something additional could be done for future Respect Weeks to more clearly define its objective.

Northville parks and recreation director Traci Sincock said that funding was sought for this year to add programs to the week but couldn't be obtained in time. Funding will be sought in the future, she said.

Wayne County loses fight for bids

Appeals court rules that MDOT controls bid process for highways

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Wayne County has lost another round in its battle for a chance to bid on state highway projects.

A Court of Appeals panel March 2 refused to order the Michigan Department of Transportation to let the county bid on reconstruction of the I-275 freeway. Wayne CEO Ed McNamara, through then-corporation counsel Jennifer Granholm, now state attorney general, had asked for a writ of mandamus ordering MDOT to let the county bid.

Mandamus is an extraordinary remedy and is appropriate only when there is no other legal remedy, legal or equitable, that might achieve the same result, said Judges David Sawyer, Richard Bandstra and Robert Burns. They overturned an order in the county's favor issued by Wayne Circuit Judge Edward M. Thomas.

In this case, mandamus relief is inappropriate because plaintiffs (McNamara and several taxpayers) have another remedy that might achieve the same result, the panel said. It said the county should appeal the denial of the pre-qualification application pending in circuit court. If that appeal is successful, plaintiffs would be granted the right to be pre-qualified and to bid on the projects at issue.

The issue is also political. House Democrats last year sought to let counties bid on state projects, saying local government deserved the right to compete. But Republicans resisted, arguing that private contractors paying state taxes would be put at an unfair advantage.

The court opinion gave the history of the controversy.

Until 1992, MDOT negotiated its year-round maintenance contracts directly with various governmental units. Beginning in 1992, MDOT decided to test competitive bidding on the year-round maintenance contracts to see what private contractors would charge.

Wayne County's bid was approximately $750,000 less than that of a private sector bidder and approximately $386,000 less than MDOT's engineer estimate and therefore it was awarded the contract.

The contract expired and was rebid in 1996. Wayne County's bid was approximately $1.9 million less than the next lowest bidder, a private contractor, and approximately $210,000 less than the engineer estimate and again it got the contract.

In October of 1997, MDOT advertised for bids on design, building and maintenance for a portion of I-275 near I-96. MDOT rejected all bids as too high.

In December of 1997, MDOT again advertised for bids but did not specify the bid was closed to governmental units, so Wayne County requested a bid proposal in January of 1998. However, it was informed that it had to be pre-qualified under state law in order to bid.

McNamara filed suit in January 1998, arguing MDOT's pre-qualification requirement was unwarranted and illegal. He requested mandamus, said the county had to avenue for appeal, charged MDOT unconstitutional deprivation of the county of due process rights, requested a permanent injunction and won in circuit court.

The Court of Appeals reversed the circuit court and sent back the case.

Keeping the faith

Northville/Novi Sikhs celebrate religion's 300th anniversary

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

As the first-generation in this country, Baldev Singh, Dhaliwal said he has one leg here, one leg in India.

But Dhaliwal's two grown daughters are American, his wife, Kari Kaur Dhaliwal, added emphatically.

The couple, who live in Novi's Lochmoor Village subdivision, are members of the Sikh religion. This week, they're preparing for the 300th anniversary of the Khalsa Panth, an order founded by their tenth and last guru, Gobind Singh Jee.

Saturday's Sikh Heritage Banquet at the Novi Hilton will not be a religious ceremony but a time to bring the local Sikh community together with Americans who are not of that faith.

"I believe we are living in the community so long that we would like to give back," explained Dhaliwal, who is on the board of directors of the Century Khalsa Celebration Committee.

"We want to celebrate our community, but at the same time we want to share our value system with our fellow Americans."

Sikh means a disciple or one who is in search of the truth.

"We believe there is only one God and everybody calls it by a different name," Kari Dhaliwal explained.

Fifteen Sikh families live in Novi. The Dhaliwals are members of a temple on Five Mile Road in Northville. While this week's event will focus on Sikh heritage, religious services will be held at the temple on April 13, the actual 300th anniversary of Khalsa.

Founded 500 years ago by the Guru Nanak in the Punjab in northern India, the Sikh religion was radical for its time. Guru Nanak, a Hindu who attracted both Hindu and Moslem followers, sought to override the restrictions of India's caste system and raise the status of women. Before, Indian women were restricted to the home. Guru Nanak brought them into the temples.

"Humans are equal," said Kari Dhaliwal, a former schoolteacher born in Nairobi, Kenya.

"The lower-class people, they were very happy when they were treated as equal. A lot of lower-class people became Sikhs."

Guru Nanak also spoke out against India's ruling class, the Moslem Moghuls.

"At the end, he was revered by both. Moslems were saying he was their guru, Hindus were saying he was their guru," Dhaliwal said.

As a way to abolish caste, which is discernible based on an individual's surname, all Sikh men take the last name of Singh, which means lion and all women, Kaur, which means princess or lioness. Many, but not all, keep this tradition, in America.

"In the U.S. system, with the wife taking the husband's last name, Singh doesn't make sense," Dhaliwal explained.

Sikhs are recorded as immigrating to the United States as early as 1898. The first Sikhs in the Detroit area came when Henry Ford asked them to move here from California and work in his first factory, Dhaliwal said.

Dhaliwal is from the Lodon District in the Punjab. His marriage was arranged by family members and the couple lived briefly in Kenya, before being accepted for immigration to Canada, Australia and the U.S.A. They chose the U.S. because Kari Dhaliwal's brother lives here.

"We came here in 1971. At the time, there were only 30 families in all of Detroit. At my estimate, we are now close to 1,000 families," Dhaliwal said.

Their first six months in Michigan were difficult. As an engineer studying on a master's degree at Wayne State University Dhaliwal had to accept a job as a laborer before finding one in his field. Today, he is employed by Ford Motor Company.

The Sikh religion requires members to leave their hair uncut. Traditionally, male Sikhs have worn their hair long, twisted into a bun under a turban and beards, but Dhaliwal said it was easier to find work here once he began dressing like a typical American.

Many Sikh boys now wear short hair, Kari Dhaliwal said.

"You stand out. Some children are not strong enough and can't take it. The children can tease them," she added.

"In Rome, you do what Romans do."

On April 13, 1699, Guru Gobind Singh, the tenth and the last of the Sikh gurus, founded Panth Khalsa, the Order of the Pure Ones. Most Sikhs belong to the order and cannot use alcohol, drugs and tobacco. But like members of any other religion, all Sikhs aren't saints and many drink, Kari Dhaliwal said.

Along with unshorn hair, other visible symbols of a Sikh's faith are a comb worn in the hair, a sword, which now appears as an emblem on the comb, a steel bracelet and distinctive undergarments.

At the temple, worshippers of both sexes cover their heads and do not wear shoes. The religion does not have a formal priesthood and any member can officiate at the services. Sikhism has two key components. Along with praying and meditating daily, a Sikh must practice social service, including give ten percent of his or her income to charity.

Like other Asian religions, in recent years Sikhism has had Western converts, mostly in California.

"There are a lot of American Sikhs. They are really devout, more than us," Kari Dhaliwal said.

Several years ago, plans were laid for a Sikh temple or gurdwara on Eight Mile Road in Novi, but a dispute between rival factions within the community has led to an ongoing court battle. Meanwhile, a former church at Five Mile and Bradner roads in Northville was purchased for a gurdwara.

There, an important part of the service is the luncheon prepared by volunteers, Dhaliwal said, this also promotes equality.

"The community luncheon is very important part of Sikhism. Everyone sits on the same level on the floor and eats the same food," he added.

Leaders of the metro area's Christian, Jewish and Islamic communities will have a chance to taste traditional Indian food at this weekend's Sikh

Heritage Banquet, where they will be served traditional Indian food. About 100 of the 450 participants are not Sikhs, including Novi Mayor Kathleen McLaughlin and U.S. Senator Carl Levin.

After the singing of the U.S. national anthem and the Sikh anthem, three speakers are scheduled: Professor Arthur Helvig of Western Michigan University on the Sikhs in America, Sher Singh of Toronto on the miracle of Vaisakhi (the day the Khalsa was founded) and University of Michigan Sikh Studies Chair Professor Bashura Singh on Guru Gobind Singh's vision of Khalsa.

The event will include Bhangra and Gidda, lively Indian folk music and dancing. After a dance troupe performs, the floor will be open to all.

"Indian people love to dance. They jump in and enjoy it," Kari Dhaliwal said.

As new Americans, the Dhaliwals have led interesting lives. They've traveled by car through most of the United States, lived in Brazil for 18 months on an assignment for Ford Motor Company and have visited the North and South poles.

"People who come from outside, they work really hard because they are risk-takers," Dhaliwal said.

Township, Novi still at odds over drain issue

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Three years after residents first voiced their concern, the Quail Ridge drain is still unrepaired.

But Northville Township authorities were poised this week to take a big step forward and try to force a dialogue with the neighboring city of Novi to fix the erosion problem impacting dozens of Quail Ridge homeowners.

The Quail Ridge drain passes under Eight Mile Road near Meadowbrook Road. Water from the drain flows from Novi into Northville Township and the Quail Ridge subdivision.

Several homeowners have complained to the township about substantial erosion damage sustained by their homes and property. At a township board meeting last spring, one resident even said a child nearly drowned in the swollen waterway after a heavy storm because of poor water design.

Neither Novi nor Northville Township authorities deny a problem exists, but the two sides have come up with very different conclusions as to who is to blame for the problem.

Based on tentative plans, the costs of repairing and upgrading the drain would be borne by both city and township residents and businesses. Novi would pick up the tab for $303,000, while Northville Township would be assessed $65,000.

The Quail Ridge issue has left leaders and employees on both sides of Eight Mile more than a bit perplexed, as correspondence between the two entities suggests a communication gap exists.

A Dec. 15, 1998 memorandum from Novi public services director Tony Nowicki said that it had been more than two years' time since Northville Township authorities made any overtures to discuss the drain problem with them.

A letter from Nowicki to former township public services director Bill Anderson dated Feb. 5, 1997, said that Novi would not be participating in any drain correction project, as the city's engineering consultants had placed the design flaws on the township's side of Eight Mile Road.

A meeting between state, Wayne County and Northville Township authorities was slated for last week, Township public services director Don Weaver said the meeting was designed to "freshen everyone's memory" about the history of the problem and to help set the stage for an anticipated meeting with Novi officials.

Weaver said he sympathized with the plights of those whose homes and property were being threatened by the drain problem, but said that part of the delay was due to the township's need to establish a special assessment district to raise the money necessary to correct the problem.

"We want to make sure we move everything in line before we move ahead with this," Weaver said. "I'm encouraged by how we're progressing on this."

Police arrest local teen for stealing alcohol

Police followed one of the cars, a Jeep, after a police officer thought it was possible some of the alcohol could be in the Jeep. The car was stopped on South Main Street just south of Seven Mile Road. Inside were three white males, a four-pack of Jack Daniels cocktails and two beers. When all three occupants were asked about the alcohol no one admitted to it so the 16-year-old Northville Township resident who lives on Old Bedford was cited for open intoxicants in a vehicle. Additionally, another 16-year-old Northville Township resident who lives on Woodbend was cited for minor in possession of alcohol.

The 16-year-old stock boy admitted to police the next day to furnishing a pack of Zima, a jug of Captain Morgan, a 12-pack of Budweiser, a pack of Jack Daniels cocktails and a pack of Kaluha Mudslides to other teens that night.

Additionally, he said he had taken between 10 and 15 cases, a "couple of bottles of cheap wine" and a bottle of Apple Pucker in the last four to five months.

All of the alcohol taken was given to Northville High School teens, he told police.

The student was charged with retail fraud II and furnishing alcohol to minors.

Jim Roth, owner of Good Time Party Store, said he was surprised by the actions of the 16-year-old.

"I was just talking to his mother during Christmas telling her how much of a good kid I thought he was," Roth said. "I was surprised this fellow did this. I thought he was a nice young man."

time have no sprinkler systems or have breaks in the fire walls of the buildings both of which allow fire to rapidly spread. Further, city officials have no way to make sure businesses are fireproof.

The Northville Record looked at three sets of connected buildings downtown.

The first were the buildings on the north side of Main Street east of Center Street which includes the Marquis Theatre and the Great Harvest Bread Co.

The second set of buildings were on the south side of Main Street, directly across the street from the first set of buildings.

The last set of buildings examined were those located on the north side of Main Street west of Center Street which includes Ultimate Toys and Gifts and the Starting Gate Saloon.

Of the 27 buildings included in all three groups only 4.5 were equipped with sprinkler systems.

"Any time you don't have buildings with sprinklers, especially downtown, it's a concern," Allen said.

Changing the rules is hard, though, fire officials said.

In Hot Springs, it took the fire at McGee's to prompt changes in fire codes, Davis said. Today, any building that undergoes a 50 percent or more renovation is required to put a sprinkler system in place.

"That rule would've applied to McGee's when it was remodeled," Davis said.

In Northville, the only rule for putting sprinkler systems on older buildings is that renovations on areas of more than 12,000 square feet are required to install sprinkler systems.

All new commercial buildings must have sprinkler systems, but that doesn't mean much to downtown.

"A lot of the buildings we have downtown were not built the way new ones are," Allen said.

The four buildings that have sprinkler systems are Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall, 108 E. Main St., Genitti's Little Theater, 112 E.

Main St., the Schrader Building, 111 N. Center, Cellar Door Productions, 104 E. Main St. and Ultimate Toys and Gifts, 107 N. Center St.

"I think it's a good idea (to have a sprinkler system)," said Lou LaChance, owner of Ultimate Toys and Gifts. "Fortunately we do have fire walls between buildings but it would help if all businesses had them (sprinklers)."

LaChance said the system was installed as part of a remodeling project about six years ago.

LaChance said he would rather risk some of his products getting wet rather than all of it getting burned.

But John Bueter, owner of Bueter's Outdoors, 120 E. Main St., said the cost and aesthetics of sprinkling systems make them not practical.

"Each of us merchants lives in fear of fire," he said. "These buildings were built a long time ago and it scares every one of us."

The project involves putting in pipes, high pressure water and a water reservoir as well as an "invasion on decoration." Bueter said to have a system put into his store would cost about $15,000.

"We ran some numbers to see when we would make that back and it would be amortized over 30 years before we made our money back," he said.

Having some kind of financial assistance to offset costs would help, Bueter said.

"We would definitely look at putting a system in if it was economically reasonable," he said.

Another obstacle in fire prevention is the elimination, or breaching, of fire walls. Originally designed as a barrier between buildings with common walls, fire walls oftentimes are eliminated to make way to expand business space. Fire walls were eliminated at McGee's to make way for more people to sit, Davis said. However, the removal of walls also aided in the rapid fire spread, he said.

Allen said free inspections of businesses may be set up by calling his office at (248) 449-9920.

subcommittee meeting.

The $61,000 conventional lighting system to be installed will be used between 16 and 18 times a year, Bolitho said.

With the conventional lighting system, light will spill over into the front yards of homes that have their backs facing the soccer field, Bolitho said. The conventional lighting system incorporates 1,500 watt metal halide lighting fixtures to maintain an average of 32 foot-candles of light on the playing field. Four poles 80 feet tall each will be installed.

The other system the school district considered was a $220,000 "soft light" system. That system uses 1,000 watt metal halide and high pressure sodium lighting fixtures to maintain an average of 30 foot-candles of light on the playing field. The design of the system is comparable to some lighting systems in parking lots because the lights point directly down on the field, Bolitho said.

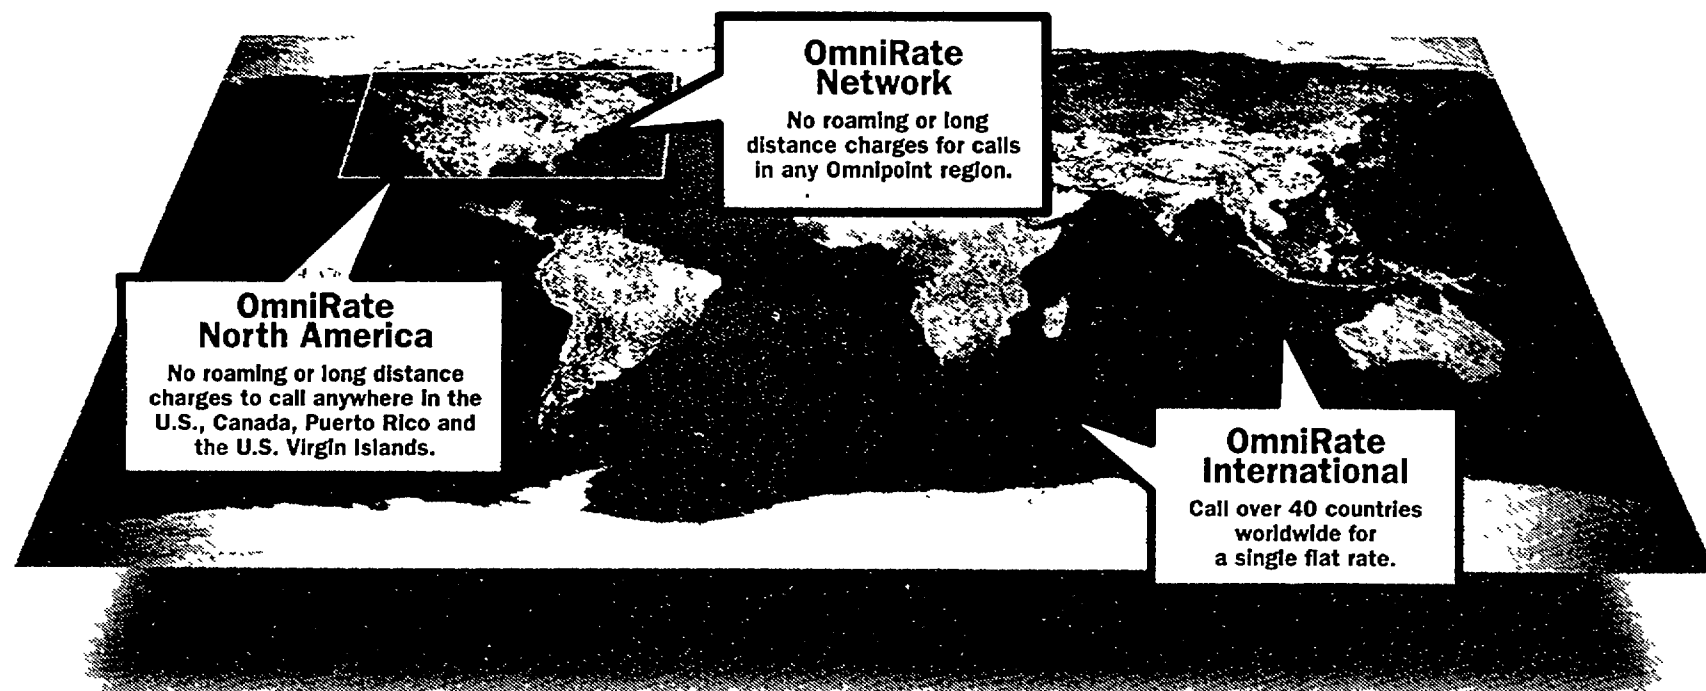

With the system, light spillage is cut back and would barely reach the back of neighboring homes, Bolitho said.

"The conventional system was purely picked from a budgetary point-of-view," he said.

The issue of light spillage was one of the complaints in the lawsuit the residents of the Woods of Edenderry and Northville Township brought against the Northville school district. The cost of the lawsuit for the school district has been more than $120,000.

Bolitho said work will begin during late spring or early summer on the ground level preparations for the lighting system. Seeding and other landscaping will take place in the late fall of 1999 or early spring of 2000, he said.

Learn how to use the computer

Free drop-in computer workshops will continue to be offered to adults and high school students by Northville Public Schools on Saturdays.

A new round of five consecutive workshops will run through March 27. Sessions run from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Each session begins with 30 minutes of instruction during which Donna Shannon, technology/curriculum facilitator and National Honor Society members from Northville High School.

After the initial instructional period of each session, lab participants are then free to search the Internet on their own.

David Pryor, Northville resident, said he's received a photo of his grandson through e-mail, shopped for a paint sprayer and learned how to shop for cars.

"I'm getting over being intimidated," he said.

The lab will serve 25 people on a first-come, first-serve basis. More information on the open labs may be obtained by calling (248) 344-8420 extension 209.

Detroit water department looks at 4 percent rate hike

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The summer months could cost Northville and Novi area residents a little bit more.

The Detroit Water and Sewage Department has proposed average increases of 4.4 percent for Detroit's suburbs making it slightly more costly to area municipalities for residents to water the lawn or take that extra glass of ice water.

Each municipality would have to decide whether or not to pass the increased costs onto its residents.

In Northville, costs would jump 2.9 percent from $31.10 per 7,500 gallons of water. Proposed costs in Northville Township would push bills up 2.61 percent from the current $17.92 per 7,500 gallons. In Novi, costs would rise 2.79 percent from $16.69 for the same amount of water.

If approved, the increase in cost to each municipality would go into effect July 1.

Gary Word, Northville city manager, said determining how the additional costs to the city of Northville would be covered is what city staff and committees will examine during the year.

"We won't initially raise costs," he said. "We will do our due diligence and make a determination."

Word said the city will work with the Citizens Committee on Utility Financing to figure out how and if the costs will be covered. A final ruling isn't likely to happen until next fall, Word said.

Detroit Water and Sewage Department officials couldn't be reached by the Northville Record for comment.

But the department told The Detroit News that the rate increases on the city and its suburbs will generate about $18 million and be used to offset more than $300 million in planned improvements.

Planning ahead

School district committee to review future facility usage

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

It's time to go back ... to the futures committee.

The Northville board of education has reestablished a future facility use committee to review the use of existing and possibly future buildings in the district.

"Every four or five years we pull the group together to kind of get an idea of how things are going," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent of administrative services. "Is the rate of development increasing or stabilizing? Do we need another school or to increase the capacity at existing facilities?"

Bolitho said he planned to reform the committee next fall but the rate of development in the Northville area made him take another look at forming it earlier.

Also, other changes in the district have occurred such as the addition of the elementary foreign language program.

The committee will examine a number of issues including: current use of existing school buildings; school building capacity; rate of expected residential growth with the district; areas within the district where residential growth is most likely to occur; if school building capacity will accommodate projected enrollment.

The same committee with different members was formed in 1994 studying the same issues. The report that came out of that committee has served as the district's handbook relative to building usage, building capacity and enrollment trends.

Committee responsibilities will be to determine the rate of growth since the 1994 report, school building capacity using board of education average class size targets, how current school buildings are being used, examine where residential growth is projected.

On the 1994 committee, Bolitho said more than 20 people from throughout the community were involved. The group was divided into subgroups that each handled a different task.

He said he'd like to have between 10 to 15 people join the new group, but more will be accepted.

"The number of people who participate is not as significant as member willingness to put all of the pieces together," Bolitho said.

Bolitho said he expects the group to meet about two times a week with the goal of having a report ready by mid-June. More information about the committee may be obtained by calling Bolitho's office at (248) 344-8441.

Recall group plans community rally

rally, slated for 7 p.m. on March 18 at the township Civic Center, prior to the next regularly-scheduled board meeting.

"Northville has always been a community to work together," he said. "This is a critical moment for our township government. Their duty as elected officials is to represent the people of Northville. We sincerely hope that they will comply with the overwhelming desires of their constituency by honoring our requests."

Nield said that while the group's concerns were many, the lawsuit pertaining to the construction of the school was the most emotional issue the committee was dealing prepared to take on.

Township clerk Sue Hillebrand cast the lone vote to not continue with litigation against the district following its second courtroom loss last month.

Nield said Friends would not move forward with recall proceedings unless change wasn't made quickly. The timetable for such change to happen, however, was very small, he said.

"I would hope that the trustees have a discussion in closed session on March 18 and then emerge and have at least four of their members vote to drop the suit the same night," Nield said. "I don't think there's one of us (in Families For A Better Northville) who are willing to wait until April 15."

April 15 is the next regularly-scheduled township board meeting.

Elections rules require that those seeking a recall election garner the signatures of 25 percent of the number of persons who cast ballots in the last gubernatorial election. For Families, that would be obtaining around 2,500 signatures. Nield said he believed "an overwhelming number" of signatures, above and beyond the required 2,500, could be obtained with little effort.

"We're not trying to make recall a priority here," Nield said. "We're trying to have the board of trustees understand that we want this lawsuit settled. We're hoping to get the point across that the majority of people don't want our tax dollars fighting our school, which is paid for with our other tax dollars."

The March 17 board of trustees meeting is slated to open at 7:30 p.m.

Lawmakers cool to school code changes

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

State legislators representing the Northville area said last week they had little interest in changing the state's school code to hand over construction supervision of schools to local municipalities.

The question over school construction supervision has been particularly important in Northville Township in recent months, since the township filed suit against the Northville school district to stop the district from proceeding with construction of the new Northville High School. The township has come up the loser in court twice, but the township's board of trustees voted to take the suit to the Michigan state Court of Appeals.

Many have suggested that a desire to fight the legal standard was an issue best addressed in the legislative chambers of Lansing rather than in the court systems.

Cassidy, a former school psychologist, admitted that she hadn't studied up on the Northville school / township situation as much as she would have liked, but did say she thought the matter wasn't being worked through as well as it could be.

"From what I understand, there may have been a breakdown in the willingness of the two parties to work together," Cassidy said. "It's delaying the school and adding tremendously to the cost. This is a lose-lose situation instead of a win-win, as it should be."

Cassidy drew an analogy of neighbors coming into a disagreement with one another which escalated to the point where one or both sides refused to talk with the other.

"Even between neighbors, when relations break down, there comes a point where one side is tempted to go to court to fight the other," she said. "In this case, I don't know that it's necessarily the right thing to do, because it's costing a lot of tax dollars in the process."

Cassidy said she favored making certain that schools hired qualified architects and engineers to design and oversee the construction of new buildings. She said she could find little reason to have a school district hire engineers and architects to design a school when another set of people working at the township or city level would be performing the same task. Doing so, she said, was an unnecessary duplication of tasks.

Cassidy also said that despite "isolated incidents" of school buildings suffering design flaws, the overwhelming majority of construction works according to plan and services student and faculty needs well.

"In the final analysis, the superintendent and school board are responsible for shoddy workmanship," Cassidy said. "It's their feet that would be held to the fire if something went wrong."

McCotter, on the other hand, said the political climate in Lansing at the present time wouldn't allow for lawmakers to examine school construction issues. He said many state Senators were concentrating on moving through agendas they had focused on during the 1998 election campaign.

At present, McCotter said he knew school construction to be an issue of little importance to Michigan beyond Northville Township. Even if the situation were different, McCotter said he would want to examine all facets of the construction argument before making a commitment one way or the other.

McCotter said he had fielded no phone calls or letters from constituents asking about construction control, nor had he been pushed to work on such controlling legislation from groups like the Michigan Municipal League or the Conference of Western Wayne.

"(Lawmakers) are very cautious up here, and rightly so," McCotter said. "Right now, I'm not getting the sense that this is a burning issue anywhere outside Northville Township. No matter what happens, you're not going to get legislation like this through at this moment."

McCotter said many of his colleagues serving on committees which would likely examine a bill to change the school code would probably wait to see the end-all conclusion to courtroom action before deciding whether or not to act.

But in the meantime, McCotter said he thought construction control was more an "intergovernmental turf war" than a major league concern on the minds of taxpayers in the community. He said that because the schools in the 9th State Senate district were functional and safe, the average person probably wasn't giving the construction control issue an exceptional amount of consideration.

McCotter recognized that the propriety of spending tax dollars to fund a legal battle between two public entities wasn't very popular, but said that such action was inherently different than the question of whether or not school buildings were safe.

"The school code that's in place right now is being followed to the point where the schools aren't falling apart," McCotter said. "If they were falling apart, I'd be hearing about it right now."

District may add five new counselors

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Some people might give anything to be a kid again, but may not realize the price they would have to pay.

Social problems involving family stress and divorce, substance abuse by students and their families and a general fear of violence are just some of the obstacles today's student faces.

As a result, the counselor social worker committee from the Northville school district is studying the possibility of adding 5.2 more counselors to the district from the elementary to high school level at a cost of about $234,000.

"The number of young people we're dealing with that have conflict is far greater than all the years I've been here," Rezmierski said.

The proposal calls for the addition of one counselor to the existing four at Northville High School.

According to a report to the Northville board of education finance committee, "the most compelling reason (to increase counseling staff at the high school) is the student-counselor ratio." The ratio has grown from 278 students per counselor in the 1990-1991 school year to 364 students per counselor in the 1998-1999 school year.

Comparably, West Bloomfield High School has a ratio of 301 students to one counselor. Novi High School's ratio is 290 students per counselor and Bloomfield Hills Lahser High School's ratio is 254 students per counselor.

Counselors' responsibilities include among other things: helping students select what classes to take; coordinating career workshops; help students that have academic difficulties; meeting with parents; and serve as friends and mentors by being "available and accessible."

At the middle school level, another counselor would be added bringing the number of counselors to a total of two per building.

Jeff Radwanski, principal of Cooke Middle School, said in the report that counseling is most important at the middle school level with the changes they "go through from a sociological, physiological and emotional points of view."

Cooke Middle School has 1.4 counselors per 554 students and Meads Mill has 1.6 counselors per 675 students. Individual counseling, organization of after school peer tutoring would be put in place and expansion of peer mediation and conflict resolution to include more student practice in coping skills.

There are only 1.8 counseling positions for the five elementary schools in Northville. "Elementary social workers often do not have the time for parent issues and student problems that do no qualify for special education services," Stephen Anderson, principal at Amerman Elementary School in the elementary school portion of the report.

Because of the expense of adding five counselors to the district, Rezmierski said they would be phased in over a number of years starting with the 1999-2000 school year.

The report was presented to the finance subcommittee and also will be presented to the personnel committee for consideration in the 1999-2000 budget, Rezmierski said.

Finance subcommittee members initially had some concerns about whether or not the time of the counselors was being spent properly.

For instance, Tom Gudritz, president of the Northville board of education, suggested some counselors may be getting tied up in too many administrative duties that take away from their time with students.

"I don't think there's anybody here that disputes the children at risk issue I just want to make sure we're addressing the issue in the most cost effective way," Gudritz said.

Symphonic bands earn state awards

Congratulations to our three Northville High School symphonic bands and band director Michael Rumbell for their outstanding performances at the Michigan State Band and Orchestra Association District Band Festival held at Lincoln High School in Ypsilanti on March 6.

Each of the ninth grade, tenth grade and upperclass combined 11th and 12th grade symphonic bands earned Number One ratings in performance and sight reading judging. None of the other bands at the festival received a similar rating of "All Ones." The top scores earn the Northville bands an invitation to the state level festival in April.

Despite 8 inches of snow and icy, treacherous roads, the bands arrived on time, in uniform and tuxedo, ready to perform. Just making it to the festival was a challenge in itself as five bands had to cancel.

These grades reflect the dedication and degree of teaching expertise of Michael Rumbell. His efforts consistently produce top rated bands who demonstrate superior music skills.

As parents of these fortunate music students, we appreciate and applaud Mike's commitment in conducting one of the finest band programs in the state. Bravo.

OPINION

School construction lawsuit heads list of our concerns

If anyone in Northville has a political seismograph, get ready to watch the needle shake like a broken-down washing machine.

The group calling itself Families For A Better Northville announced it would be firing a very visible warning shot at the township's board of trustees to get its act together and listen to the group's demands.

If those requests fell on deaf ears, Families representatives said an all-out governmental overhaul would almost certainly be started in the near future.

In essence, the citizen's committee is putting the proverbial ball in the township's court. We're curious to see what the trustees and supervisor Karen Woodside decide to do with it.

It has been no secret that we believe the ongoing lawsuit over construction of the new high school is a needless waste of taxpayer dollars. We've also been critical of the price tag placed on the water and sewer connection fees.

And yes, we've even expressed concern that the township, which is growing by leaps and bounds, is in desperate need of a full time manager to keep the organization running smoothly.

Now, it seems, many residents are expressing the same concerns. And that's a positive thing, elected officials need to hear the public's voice from time to time.

Speaking optimistically, we hope that the board — once confronted with a host of emotionally-down-trodden residents speaking their minds — will acquiesce and make the changes being requested by Families. And in doing so, we'd like to think this whole recall thing could be avoided entirely.

But speaking realistically, we've got a feeling that for whatever reason, the message won't get through, and this newspaper will be reporting about the attempt to remove trustees from power.

It's sort of like life imitating life.

Don't let us be misunderstood — few things would make us happier

than seeing a township manager in place, watching

water and sewer

tap-in fees reduced

and allowing the construction of the new Northville High

School proceed

without the distraction of litigation.

Our faith in the township

would be improved

immensely.

We also know that asking government to make speedy changes in its policy is like asking a runaway locomotive to slam on its brakes to avoid hitting the car stuck on the grade crossing.

In both cases, the momentum of the machine is too much, and bad things happen.

With that, we give our solid support to any dialogue between Families and the board to avoid dragging our community through a recall election — an election we're afraid will deepen the wounds in an already hurting Northville.

For the Record...

"We're not trying to make recall a priority here," Nield said. "We're trying to have the board of trustees understand that we want this lawsuit settled."

Pardon me...I'm feeling a bit sheepish

I'd like to thank Dick Allen for confirming for me that I am indeed doing my job.

Allen, many of you may know, sits as the chairman of the township's planning commission. He took offense to my column two weeks ago and penned a letter to the editor, which ran in last week's paper.

Good for Dick. The editorial pages of this newspaper are designed to allow for debate on issues. I've always felt it important to provide equal space for people who don't agree with what the newspaper, or I, have said on the opinion page.

And I've always prided myself on not getting into an exchange with letter writers. After all, we want to encourage debate, not squelch it. But this week I'm going to make an exception to that rule because Dick Allen has managed to bring up a point that I would like to debate further.

And just so there is no misconception as to why I'm writing this particular column, I'd just like to say I really could care less what Dick Allen thinks of me personally. I'm not the editor because I want to be popular. If that were my motive, I would do something else, like run for elected office or be appointed to some board.

Nope, I'm here because of a deep-rooted belief that somebody in this town needs to shake the trees a little bit, to spur debate, to draw up some controversy in an otherwise stagnant place.

Oh, and just so there is no further misunderstanding, fueling controversy is part of my job description. If you were to pull out a dictionary you'd find the following entries — con'tro'ver'sy — discussion of a controverted matter; dispute; debate; contention; and ed'i'to'ri'al — an article in a newspaper giving the editor's views; spurring debate.

With that said, I'd like to take a moment to talk with you about a term that describes many of us — "SHEEPLE."

You see, most people in this town (and many towns just like ours) rarely question those in the position of authority. They go through the same routines every single day — get up, go to work, take the kids to soccer or band practice, read the mail, eat dinner, go to bed.

They have no idea about the decisions being made for them by those they elect or appoint, and when they do happen to question a decision, they allow themselves to be beaten back by the established party line.

After awhile they complacent, just nodding their heads without thinking when those officials come to them for additional taxes or ask them for a vote of confidence. They never question their motives or intentions, they just nod and give, nod and give. Just like sheep being led to the shearing pen.

Henceforth, the term SHEEPLE.

The point I'm trying to make here is that as long as the good SHEEPLE continue to feed at the established authority trough, those making the decisions are happy. But when they begin to question the established party line, they are looked upon as black SHEEPLE, and those in authority don't like that one bit, and become very nervous.

Allow me to introduce myself — Bob Jackson, one of the black SHEEPLE of Northville.

In Dick Allen's letter last week, he said that being "selective" in applying fees to developers was "illegal." Hmm...I wonder...was it illegal Mr. Allen, to not charge Optical Imaging Systems for the construction of water and sewer lines when they came to town a few years back. Or is it okay to allow that type of concession for large tax-paying corporations and not for public institutions, such as schools.

Oh, and correct me if I'm wrong, but didn't OIS recently hit financial trouble, leaving us with this nice huge VACANT building. I guess it's too late to go after them for the cost of those water and sewer lines now, isn't it?

And while I'm in a mood to question authority, don't we occasionally make concessions for new development coming into our wonderful township? Didn't we just create a SAD that would only benefit one developer along Haggerty Road? Wouldn't you consider that selective?

Mr. Allen, please forgive me, but I believe charging the school district $400,000 for tap connection fees is just plain wrong...no matter what the circumstances are.

So if you want to spout off because you think I'm an inciteful editor, fine. I can deal with that. Just don't try to push through the argument that everything goes by the book in the township. You might be able to convince many of the SHEEPLE in this community with that type of rhetoric, but as a professed black SHEEPLE, I will always be skeptical of those types of claims, and the people making them.

Hey, city...why the haste in selling land?

When most people get hungry they don't go to the grocery or party store and buy the first edible item they see. Unless they're starving, that is.

Otherwise, you normally would shop around and find something that not only satisfied your need but tastes as well.

However, it appears that the city of Northville is starving financially as it negotiates with a prospective developer to sell a chunk of land it owns downtown.

Northville city council approved a recommendation from Gary Word, Northville city manager, that states there is no advantage to the city resulting from additional bidding for the sale and development of city owned lots at the intersection of Church Street and Cady Street. The recommendation also allows the city manager to "initiate negotiations with the preferred land purchaser/developer and report back to the Northville downtown development authority and city council with an adjusted price for the purchase of the lots."

The negotiations follow a bidding process that started last summer, but only resulted in two bids. After the bids were received, the Northville downtown development authority determined the value of both bids "were about 50 percent to 100 percent below market value." One of the two bids was immediately turned down and the city attorney recommended negotiating a higher price for the other bid to try and get closer to market value for the property. Word wouldn't release any details about the project.

Andrew Dietderich

Even though Word insists the city is in "no hurry to get the land sold" he said he wants the project to come to some sort of conclusion.

Now it must be kept in mind and stressed that the land hasn't been sold and the city is only negotiating the land with no obligation to sell to the developer.

Still, why not make a definite decision to reopen the bidding process to see what's out there? Why is it necessary that a "conclusion" come sooner than later? After all, the land in question is vacant except for a lone house at the intersection. It's not exactly overrun with garbage and rats, so why not take some time to find the perfect — yes, perfect, not just acceptable — bid for the city of Northville? And what's with this attitude that the city of Northville is lucky to have someone want to develop the land? It should be the other way around: the developer should feel lucky to have the chance to develop in a city that has so much to offer like Northville.

Charles Lapham and Kevin Hartshorne, city council member seemed to agree.

Lapham spoke at the council meeting where the request to negotiate the price of the land was approved.

"With such a good and stable economy I feel like we would be shortchanging ourselves by settling for market value," he said. "That property is worth more than he (the developer) offered."

Hartshorne said he approved of continued negotiations but stressed the point that the city "can't afford to sell under the market price of the land."

Granted I've never tried to sell land so don't know how hard or easy it is to draw up enough interest to get bids for land.

But if the city were to open the bidding process two or three more times and even if only one or two more bids were received each time, the city would have that many more options to choose from.

Term limits are still a very bad idea

Remember the old line about how risky it is to want something too much? You might actually get it.

Lots of politicians jumped on the term limit bandwagon in the early 1990s. Some got elected to office promising to abide by strict limits on their time in office. "If we break this contract, throw us out," declared U.S. Rep. George Nethercutt of Washington state, a leading term limit proponent.

Now that time is up, and it's fascinating if slightly disillusioning to watch once high-minded candidates come wriggling against the reality of wanting to stay in office. Words such as "disingenuous" and "hypocritical" come quickly to mind.

According to a Detroit Free Press survey, all six Republicans in the Michigan congressional delegation pledged support for term limits when they signed the Contract with America and voted for one or more term-limit bills in 1995 and 1997. However, only three of the six are actually limiting their terms.

To their credit, Reps. Joe Knollenberg, R-Bloomfield Hills, Peter Hoekstra, R-Holland, and Nick Smith, R-Addison, intend to leave Congress after serving for the prescribed six terms (12 years).

Reps. Dave Camp, R-Midland, Vernon Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, and Fred Upton, R-St. Joseph, are among the wrigglers. Of course, they support term limits, but not self-imposed ones. Camp, for example, told the Free Press that until term limits become the law of the land he will not impose on his political ambition term limits that do not also bind his 434 colleagues such as John Dingell, D-Trenton, and Sandy Levin, D-Southfield.

How convenient. I understand. Or, maybe, I don't. But I do recognize ambition wriggling on a phrase book when I see it.

In Michigan, it's much the same story, although in an earlier phase. The state House, which got 64 new members this year because of term limits, is still holding training sessions for inexperienced lawmakers on crafting and passing bills and understanding state budgets. The term limit tidal wave will hit the Senate in four years time, when we can confidently expect the departure of the few remaining experienced and knowledgeable legislators.

Not surprisingly, some people are beginning to have second thoughts about term limits. They include Sen. Glen Steil, R-Grand Rapids, a second-term member who in 1992 was co-chair of the petition drive to put term limits in the Michigan Constitution.

Steil is preparing another constitutional amendment to modify legislative term limits to "12 years for everybody", i.e., six two-year terms for representatives and three four-year terms for senators. "The compelling reason is that six years (in the House) do not give a person enough experience ... to make an impact."

Steil may be right. But years of watching politicians wriggle has made me skeptical.

Look at it this way. Everybody knows the Republicans won control of the state House last year by winning seats previously held by Democrats who were term-limited out of office. And now that they've got control, what's to prevent the GOP from the convenient idea that now term limits should be increased?

I put this hypothesis to Bill Ballenger, publisher of Inside Michigan Politics, and one of the most knowledgeable guys around. "Your premise might be accurate in theory, but I doubt anybody has thought it through as clearly - or as cynically - as you have," said Ballenger.

"Most of the Republican leadership is for term limits; Betsy De Vos (State GOP Chair) puts out endless press releases on the subject. And those that are against it are being browbeaten into silence. Senator Steil's out in front, and we'll just have to see what happens."

I asked Ballenger about the odds for success of legislating the wriggle away. "Not good," he responded. "High interest in extending term limits extends no farther than two blocks in any direction from the State Capitol."

I used to think term limits might be a good idea. I now fervently believe they are a bad idea whose time has come and should now go.

Letters to the Editor

Claims of 'divisive' fine art are malicious

To the editor:
The editor has admitted he is divisive. What he claims is a fine art has now turned into maliciousness. He makes up the fact that several township department heads have left in the last two years and the others are currently running for the door like the place is infected with the plague.

Fact: One manager was terminated and one department head left to change his career. Under the previous administration, two managers and one department head were fired, one department head left for a career change, one department head was harassed until he quit, and the deputy clerk chose to retire.

The current administration appears to me to be relatively stable.

Just think, Jackson, if your predecessor hadn't left for a career change, you wouldn't have a job.

You continue to scream about the high water and sewer tap fees and to incite the public rather than find out why they are high. Yes, they are high. I know you don't want to know why they are high because then you would have to stop whining.

Just remember, Jackson, six years ago The Record had an editor and reporter that twisted facts for their convenience and both of them are employed somewhere else today.

Richard E. Allen
Chairperson, Northville Township Planning Commission

Editor's columns were juvenile

To the editor:
I have read your editorials from the past two weeks and both times I have been amazed at how juvenile the columns were. You are most certainly entitled to your opinion, as is anyone and everyone else. The question of how much Northville Township is charging the new high school for water/sewer hookup can certainly be debated, however, without the snide, condescending, arrogant attitude you have adopted. I would expect a less juvenile attitude towards this or any other topic. A more professional approach would also include hard facts and figures, i.e. substance, to back your argument, whether on the editorial page or elsewhere in the paper. I have seen neither. As another writer noted, I am not qualified to say whether or not $400,000 is fair or an "error," but The Northville Record has not helped me to become informed.

If the formula used to compute the $400,000 is indeed the going rate, then I am at a loss to understand why any township resident would argue for less. They are shooting themselves in the foot. If, by some chance, the "extortionists" adjust the bill" and then have to raise rates, can I get my increase transferred to a naysayer's water bill? I'm sure most thinking township residents don't want to eat any part of an increase in their water and sewer caused by an "adjustment" to the schools. Is that divisive or prudent? If other municipalities do wave charge for hookup to the schools, perhaps it is because their entire school district falls within that municipality. It's all coming out of the same taxpayer pockets. That's not true here. If there are bills to be paid by the Northville Public Schools (whatever the amount), let all of the Northville Public School taxpayers pay it, not simply those who live in the township. Furthermore, if there are fingers to be pointed, perhaps you should start with the school administrators who neglected to ascertain these fees during the development phase of this project instead of during the "Spill Milk" phase. Perhaps this issue is divisive, Mr. Jackson, but could we all base our opinions on facts rather than the rhetoric that has been printed so far?

Kathryn Peltier

No sufficient reason for recall

To the editor:
The Northville Township Board of trustees is responsible for a multitude of aspects regarding its jurisdiction. Just because one group of people is unhappy with the school issue is certainly not sufficient cause for recall.

The board of education groupies talk about community spirit - that's exactly where the board of trustees is coming from. In the sincere interests of the entire community, all buildings should be subject to its community guidelines; they exist to provide harmony and avoid conflict. If the board of education had abided by them, everyone would have saved money, time, emotions, etc. Fighting the township government on this issue is an interesting way of setting a good example for our teenagers. Furthermore, does clear cutting the boundary line show good neighborliness (something they desire) or a good environmental spirit? If the water and sewer taps had been properly budgeted there would not be crying now. Where is the planning ahead that should have gone into this big project, rather than looking for a scapegoat? (The real blame probably rests with the educational board that sold part of the original site - it seems incomprehensible to me that a growing school district would sell off valuable land that is constantly increasing in value; if that had not been done, we'd probably have avoided all these concerns and have a state of the art high school.)

It sounds as if this group only wants the recall for its own concerns; the board of trustees has many more considerations than just the high school issue. This board of trustees cannot be doing so poorly for the community in light of all the good things going on in the township, when one looks at the total picture. Replacing the board by those with an ax to grind and/or just an interest to change the high school issue would hardly be in the best interests of Northville Township.

Township needs to listen to message

To the editor:
The majority of Northville residents work hard for their money, pay their taxes as expected and in turn, expect their tax dollars to be put to good use.

The majority of Northville residents understand the need for a high-caliber school system with adequate space, up-to-date technology and the necessary programs that allow our kids to develop into responsible, productive adults.

The majority of Northville residents do not want to see more than $12,000 of school and township money spent on a lawsuit, an additional $413,000 of school money spent on a water tap tax and the potential for an additional $2 million of school money spent if there are further delays that prevent the new high school from opening on time.

I urge the Northville Township board of trustees to take a close look at where this is going. Do you really think your present course of action is in the best interest of the majority of Northville residents? Do you really think the residents of Northville should be paying for a lawsuit that it attempting to change state law? If you truly believe the laws governing school site development need changing, then do it through the state legislature and don't jeopardize the progress of this project that the majority of Northville residents want completed, and completed right.

It hasn't taken me very long to recognize there are many, many residents that actively support the actions of the Families For A Better Northville committee. I think if you take the time to listen, you will recognize the message, too.

Alarmed by hostile atmosphere

To the editor:
I am increasingly alarmed at the hostile atmosphere created by the members of Northville Township Board of trustees who have voted to continue to pursue the lawsuit against the Northville Public Schools. I am becoming convinced that focusing on this lawsuit is creating such ill will that important planning needs are being ignored.

Northville is experiencing tremendous growth. This requires that the township work with the schools to plan for land that will be needed to accommodate the new students this growth will bring. I have not seen evidence of this planning. When the Wayne County land became available, land was earmarked for fire stations and parks, but not schools. This lack of foresight will cost the taxpayers countless more dollars and aggravation when new schools are needed.

Isn't it the township's responsibility to work with developers to meet these needs? The citizens of this community should be asking themselves if the township is meeting their responsibility to plan adequately for growth.

I encourage you to attend the rally before the township board meeting on March 18 to express your concerns to the board.

Township manager is sorely needed

To the editor:
Northville Township is one of the most rapidly growing communities in southeast Michigan. We can not continue to effectively grow or spend our tax dollars for the best interest of the citizens without a full-time township manager. The employees who work for the township need to contact a full time manager for prompt decisions with effective leadership. A trained, qualified, paid professional is necessary and normal in a growth oriented community with a long-range plan. Contractors and builders need a daily contact, the same people and organization in Northville Township that stays in place for years. A part-time township supervisor with a full-time job working for the county in an elected position that lasts only four years is a very ineffective and inconsistent arrangement.

The construction of a new high school, industrial and commercial buildings, over 20 subdivisions now under construction, and the shared services of the recreation department and senior citizens cannot be managed with the taxpayer's best interests in mind without a full time manager.

Northville Township has now gone two years without filling this opening. The unnecessary subcommittee controlled by part-time elected officials evaluating this position is too busy to meet on a timely basis. We deserve to have

Lawsuit serves no community purpose

To the editor:

We value the Northville community for many things, including a cohesive community and a successful school system. Both of these are threatened by actions taken by the Northville Township supervisor and board of trustees. Their pursuit of litigation against the school district over the construction site for the new Northville High School continues even after it was dismissed from the courts twice.

This lawsuit makes residents financially responsible for both sides of the litigation and takes money slotted for educational purposes. Too much money has been spent, and hundreds of thousands, even millions more, may be the result if the opening of the new school is delayed. Certainly, our children will enjoy fewer benefits from the dollars which taxpayers approved.

Were is the pride, the joy, the celebration that should go with building a new high school? Will there be increased expenditures and delays? Will high school kids have to spend another year crammed in the current building, likely with the addition of portables, while a beautiful new building languishes amid a political squabble?

The township should accept defeat on this one. It does not serve the good of the larger community, or even of most of Northville Township, to pursue this lawsuit. Let the new school open. Those who border it knew it would be there when they moved in; they should also drop the suit and get on with building bridges to the rest of the community. If the township wants the law to read differently regarding control of school construction, they should approach the legislature and change the law, not sue the schools, who have done no wrong. That only puts this community through an ordeal, and trust me, we won't thank you for that at the voting booth.

What is the township hiding?

To the editor:

On Feb. 14, I forwarded to our illustrious township supervisor Karen Woodside a Freedom of Information request. The exact request is shown below:

- A copy of the Northville Township budget for calendar year 1998.

- A copy of the Northville Township budget for calendar year 1999.

- A copy of all attorney invoices from January 1998 through January 1999.

- A copy of all checks payable to all attorney invoices.

- A copy of that portion of the general ledger which shows the "legal expenses account" to which all attorney fees are posted. A single page from the trail balance showing the account for each of the months (January 1998 through January 1999) would be sufficient.

On March 3, the township forwarded me a copy of each budget, copies from the general ledger that did not show all the legal expenses ($157,086.79), an incomplete number of checks written to attorneys (totaling $222,455.95), and a flat denial of copies of attorney invoices.

On March 5, I contacted the township and was promised additional copies of checks to attorneys and a more complete general ledger. Upon questioning why I could not have copies of attorney invoices, I was told that Karen Woodside gave the direction that these were not public documents. I then contacted a large legal firm and was told that all legal bills submitted to a public body are subject to the Freedom of Information guidelines.

In addition to all this subterfuge and cover-up, the township charged me $29.45 for these copies. The next day (March 4) my neighbor goes to the township hall, requests a copy of the budget and is not charged. I then called the township and confronted them with this fact and was told they simply "made a mistake" and I would be refunded my money.

What are you hiding, Karen? I am asking you now publicly, and you will receive another Freedom of Information request: I want copies of all attorney invoices. They are public, you know they are public, your own board of trustees know they are public because they approve all attorney bills at a public meeting.

Les DeBora

Business working hard for downtown

To the editor:

I would like to add a couple of points that were not included in the March 4 Record, regarding the city council meeting of March 1, about the new signage ordinance proposal.

Approximately 25 merchants, restaurant owners, and business people attended specifically to support the continued use of sidewalk signs, feeling for a variety of reasons that these signs are vital to their businesses. Several who could not attend sent letters to voice their support.

We certainly would have attended the meeting on Jan. 19 also, if we had known about it. This is an important issue that directly affects us, and we care deeply about it. I have personally attended three meetings, one of which included a dozen merchants and another with eight of us, all in favor of this type of signage.

Those of us in favor of sidewalk signs feel strongly that they are necessary for a number of reasons: they communicate at a glance down the street whether a business is open or not, savings shoppers an unnecessary walk; they're used by some to advertise specials; and for some small shops, that we exist. With businesses that are not facing either Main or Center streets, these are especially essential.

Perhaps the real problem is not the sidewalk signs themselves, but their usage. Some have said the signs clutter the street for pedestrians, but that could be easily remedied if merchants complied with placement regulations. Others say the signs are not maintained properly, that some don't have a quality look. Both of these problems could easily be solved by working together.

Each business has its own unique needs, based on size, location, and type of business. Some would be best served by bracket signs, some by sidewalk signs. If each business were given a choice of which to use, our signs could add more interest and variety to the town. We've heard comments from customers feeling that sidewalk signs add a unique charm to Northville, and the additional option of bracket signs would contribute further to that look.

These signs are an expenditure that we wouldn't make if those who need them didn't feel they're necessary. We're working hard to build businesses that we love and that add to Northville, with competition on all sides from malls and chain stores. As one illustrious attendee at the meeting so eloquently put it, "We must be careful that we don't end up with a very lovely-looking ghost town." Please don't make things harder for us than they already are.

Northville was always Allen's first priority

Unlike many of his counterparts, Allen said he never gave serious consideration to actively seek public office. In fact, his being named to the then-Northville village council happened quite by accident. Allen said he was quite happy continuing his work making grave markers and other ornamental stones, like granite tabletops and fireplace hearths.

Which is why it came as such a surprise when Allen returned home one night from a meeting of other memorial-makers in the Detroit area. Allen said his wife informed him that he had been voted onto the council.

"I must have signed something somewhere along the line that got me on the ballot," Allen said, smiling. "I didn't really know what had happened."

But serve he did at age 35. Once on the council, Allen was named mayor pro-tem. Having only been on board for a few years, Allen once again found himself in a limelight he hadn't actively sought in 1958 when sitting mayor Claude Ely died while in office. Allen was handed the gavel and assumed the center chair at city council meetings until 1977.

NORTHVILLE - THE CITY
Northville was the new kid on the block, in terms of cities in metropolitan Detroit. An integral part of that conversion, Allen said, had to do with the money which could be obtained from Northville Downs by the community if it were a city rather than as a village.

The racetrack revenue sharing was enough of a lure for voters to approve the measure in 1955.

But not long after Northville was adjusting to its life as a city instead of a village, the racetrack revenue question came up again, Allen said, when voters were asked if there was a desire to merge with Northville Township.

"This time around, it was folks in the city who said no," Allen said. "They didn't want to share that money with the folks in the township."

As Northville evolved through the years, Allen said he became aware the face of downtown needed to evolve, as well. A major question mark in his mind was what to do with Northville's city hall.

The problem, Allen said, was that renovation issues were cropping up in 1962, when America was going through an economic recession. It wasn't the best time to be doing those sorts of projects, Allen said.

"We didn't want to burden the taxpayers, so we looked for ways that we could refurbish the hall at a low expense," Allen said.

The solution came in a federal program which gave matching grants to communities which made capital improvements to its municipal buildings. The grant was approved, which allowed the city hall Northville residents see today to be adopted as the new municipal headquarters.

More substantial renovations were completed at city hall last year.

Another vestige of the Allen era can be seen on High Street, where Northville's senior living complex is located. Allen said support swelled in the early 1970s to establish some sort of affordable housing for its older residents. But as was the case with city hall renovations, economic realities but a damper on plans.

Allen said he wasn't deterred. "I talked with a few people and came up with the idea of selling the bonds for the complex which would be paid off, plus interest, by the people who would be living there," Allen said. "If you weren't living there, it wouldn't cost you a dime."

Voters gave strong support to issuing a bond sale. When the day for the grand opening of the facility arrived, Allen said he noticed a black sheet covering a plaque on the wall.

When the sheet was pulled back, Allen saw his name in stone. The complex had been named after him — Allen Terrace.

"I was floored," Allen said. "It was a heck of a honor."

Allen Terrace is slated to be out of the red and in the black later this year. Allen said since the complex opened, he and other council members have fielded phone calls from across the country asking how the project was done at no taxpayer expense.

"I told them it was no big secret," Allen said. "You just do it, that's all."

REFLECTIONS

Allen's life is substantially less busy these days than it had been in the past. No longer are evenings filled with long meetings. Instead, he and his wife, Betty, can enjoy their modest but attractive home — and the letter-opener collection in it.

He still helps with the monument business he started some 60 years ago and meets once a week with friends.

But when it comes to leisure time, Allen said he spends time making custom birdhouses. A bookshelf along one wall displays one made with a U-M license plate and another with a pink heart on the outside.

Portraits of his family line the walls, and he speaks of them proudly. One of his daughters is a teacher in Alaska — a state which Allen says has a rugged, beautiful quality few can really understand; hence, his decision to travel to the Last Frontier as many times as he has.

"You have to go there to understand how gorgeous it is," he said, smiling.

Allen said he doesn't necessarily miss being in the mayor's chair, but is still impressed by how the little town along the Rouge River has grown through the years.

"It's a lot different than how it used to be — that's for sure," he said.

Whichever you choose,
it's like money in the bank.

Proper maintenance and storage will help your sports equipment last for seasons to come

CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

It won't be long before the winter sports equipment is pushed to the back of the garage or closet to make way for spring's recreational gear.

But that method of storage can lead to some problems.

There is routine maintenance that needs to be performed on skis and correct storage methods for tennis rackets and golf clubs that will add to the life of the equipment and your enjoyment of the sport.

Active skiers, both cross country and down hill, need to tune their skis at least several times a year.

"The more harsh conditions, the more often you should get your skis tuned," said Tony Aquirre, Novi's Bavarian Village Ski and Golf store manager.

Bavarian Village updated its tuning shop in October to include three Montana fully automated and computerized ski conditioning machines.

"Nobody (in North America) has all three machines," said Aquirre. "Montana is a lot more precise. It is able to put the Oski back to the manufacturer's specifications."

The machines smooth edges, structure and put material back in to the base.

Aquirre suggests skis be conditioned before the season begins, mid-season and before storing for the summer, get a full tune up.

The better the skis are maintained the longer the longevity," he said. "It makes skiing a lot more enjoyable."

The new machine can condition 30 pair of skis in an hour.

The cost is $39.99 for repair, edge sharpening, beveling, wax and structuring the bottom. Snow boards can be done for $29.99.

"We are the only retail establishment that offers it," he said.

Two people run the machine and about a half a dozen people are employed in the tuning department.

Even if you didn't get out on the slopes much this year or for several years, stagnant skis especially need to be tuned.

"When the moving part needs to move, it doesn't," he said.

Maintenance for ice skates includes sharpening or replacing the blades.

Ice skate blades can be sharpened either in the spring or fall, according to Jessie Rizkallah, owner of Jessie Shoe Repair in Novi.

"The blade, when it gets really bad, they have to change them," he said.

If golf clubs or tennis rackets are stored incorrectly, they can wear prematurely.

"A lot of people don't store their equipment properly," said Alan Dante, manager of Las Vegas Golf and Tennis in Novi.

Golf clubs should always be stored at room temperature. They should never be stored in an outside shed during the winter or in the trunk of the car during the summer.

"Extreme cold or heat is detrimental to golf clubs," said Dante.

Extreme temperatures affect the epoxy which holds the heads on to the shafts and also creates dry rot in the rubberized grips causing premature wear.

"In the spring, people come in and say they hit the golf ball and the head flew off," Dante said.

Another problem which causes premature wear is dirty club faces. Get the dirt out of the grooves. A dirty face will affect accuracy and distance.

All repairs for both golf clubs and tennis rackets are done in-house at Las Vegas Golf and Tennis.

Tennis rackets should also be stored at room temperature.

"Strings, being that they are more synthetic type material, are susceptible to hot and cold," Dante said.

Tennis rackets should be stored flat. Hanging is okay but leaning the racket up against the wall and storing it with a broken string is not, it can cause the racket to warp.

"When a string breaks, remove all the strings," Dante said.

Dante recommends taking golf clubs and tennis rackets to a qualified service technician for repairs.

"There is not nearly as much that can go wrong with a tennis racket than can go wrong with a golf club," Dante said.

Friends of the Libraries to host author luncheon

Jack Driscoll, author-in-residence for 23 years at Interlochen Academy in northern Michigan, will be the guest speaker at this year's Observer/HomeTown Newspapers and Friends of the Libraries Author Luncheon on Thursday, April 22.

The award-winning Driscoll will address the group following the noon luncheon at the Fox Hills Country Club on North Territorial between Curtis and Gottfredson.

Driscoll is the winner of the 1998 Pushcart Editors Award and the Barnes & Noble Discover Award for his most recent novel "Lucky Man, Lucky Woman: A Love Story."

Driscoll's "Lucky Man, Lucky Woman" was all set to be published and then at the last moment was dropped due to industry cuts.

Having the novel's momentum halted abruptly was disheartening for Driscoll but it turned out that the book's journey to publication had just reached a fork in the road, not a complete brick wall. "Lucky Man, Lucky Woman" was propelled down a different road.

Novelist Rick Bass had read a manuscript version of the novel and thought it such a good read that he nominated it for the Pushcart Editors Award, a prize established in 1972 for works of high merit that have been rejected by at least 10 publishers.

The paperback rights to "Lucky Man, Lucky Woman" have already been grabbed and Driscoll's next novel "Stardog," has also been purchased.

Besides having written three novels, four books of poems and a collection of short stories, Driscoll finds time to spend up to 200 days a year fly-fishing.

Driscoll has spend most of his life near water, once living in a farm house in Massachusetts built on top of a stream. Another time his commute to work was via a canoe.

His stories have been read frequently over NPR's "The Sound of Writing," and his work has appeared in magazines, journals, and newspapers including "Chicago Tribune," "Kansas City Star," "Civilization," "Poetry," "The Georgia Review," "The Southern Review," and "Ploughshares."

He has received numerous grants and awards including the NEA Creative Writing Fellowship, the NEH Independent Study Grant, Best American Short Story citations, the PEN/Nelson Algren Fiction Awards, the Associated Writing Programs Short Fiction Award, and seven PEN Syndicated Project Short Fiction Awards.

Tickets are available for the noon luncheon beginning March 14 at both the Northville and Novi libraries and are $20. For more information, call the Northville District Library at (248) 349-3020 or the Novi Public Library at (248) 349-0720.

Fund raiser is still going strong

For 13 years, Friends of the Northville and Novi libraries have been presenting a book and author luncheon to benefit their libraries.

This year, the guest speaker will be award-winning Michigan author Jack Driscoll, on Thursday, April 22, at the Fox Hills Country Club. Tickets are $20 and may be purchased at the Northville District Library, 212 W. Cady Street in Northville or the Novi Public Library, 45245 West Ten Mile Road in Novi.

This is the fourth year the annual luncheon has been sponsored by the Observer and HomeTown Newspapers, along with the Friends of the Northville, Novi, Canton and Plymouth libraries.

In 1987, the Friends of the Northville Library Board of Directors, with Betty Griffin as its president, first discussed sponsoring such a luncheon. They contacted their neighboring Friends group from the Novi Library, whose president at the time was Barbara Pipas, to discuss a joint venture.

Plymouth and Canton Friends joined the group in 1990. The newspaper joined as the sponsoring group in 1996.

New reading club is catching on

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

When some Northville girls recall their past, at least one page will involve a new kind of club.

The clubs are mother-daughter reading groups and are rapidly gaining popularity.

"It seemed like something that would be easy to do," said Mary Storch, one of the founding members of a local reading group. "Plus it means so much to discuss not only the literature but the issues involved."

The group Storch is involved in includes girls from Amerman Elementary School and Thornton Creek Elementary School.

With mother-daughter groups, a small group of mothers and daughters meet on a regular basis and discuss the assigned reading. Storch said the books typically deal with issues young women may be facing or will face in the future.

"We try to pick books that have strong female protagonist that can give girls good examples of gutsy women," she said.

Storch said her group started meeting in February of 1998. The idea came from a newspaper article and a book called The Mother-Daughter Book Club: How Ten Busy Mothers and Daughters Come Together to Talk, Laugh, and Learn Through Their Love of Reading, by Shireen Dodson.

Additionally, the club uses 100 Books for Girls to Grow On to aid in the selection of books.

Each meeting of the Amerman/Thornton Creek groups lasts two hours and consists of social time, discussion of the book, a craft activity or snack related to the assigned book.

Meetings rotate from member home to member home and the hostesses get to pick what the book to be discussed will be.

The Amerman/Thornton Creek group consists of six mother-daughter pairs. The group is not open to new members, Storch said.

"It takes a while to build up that trust factor," she said. "And it takes a while for the girls to feel comfortable with each other."

Storch's daughter Ellen said she thinks the club is "very fun."

"If you have a discussion about a book you can focus in on what happened," she said. "And you get to meet other friends."

In addition to getting the girls reading and discussing the issues of the book, Storch said the club has helped the girls meet other girls they likely will be attending Cooke Middle School with.

Sue Anker and her daughter Sarah participate in the program.

"It's been really fun to see how they (the girls) perceive the book," she said. "To hear the girls put some situations into real life is really neat."

Anker said with her family's busy schedule it's sometimes hard to sit and talk about the books Sarah reads.

"This gives us that opportunity to read together and talk about what we've read," she said.

Even though the Amerman/Thornton Creek group isn't taking any more members, more information about starting a club may be obtained by calling Storch at (248) 380-3298.

Correction

In the story about the Restaurant Poll in the Feb. 25 issues of "The Northville Record and Novi News," Charley's Deli and Grille is correctly listed at 16873 Haggerty Road in Northville Township, but it is incorrectly identified on the locator map which accompanied the story. Charley's Deli Grille is located next to McDonald's on the southwest corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

'The Other Sister'

New approach to love story

In this uplifting and often bitter-sweet romantic comedy, 24-year-old Carla Tate (Juliette Lewis) is a slightly mentally challenged young woman who, after years of special education at a private boarding school, has successfully transcended many of her limitations—except her overprotective mother, Elizabeth (Diane Keaton). When Carla graduates and returns home with dreams and ambitions, her need for personal fulfillment begins to express itself in ways her mother is unable to accept. When she falls in love for the first time, Carla defies her mother in order to prove that despite all appearances she has the capacity to be a responsible adult, worthy of loving and being loved. Embarking on a journey of self-discovery, Carla and her boyfriend Danny (Giovanni Ribisi) set out together to find answers to some of life's toughest challenges, and to prove that sometimes, an ordinary life can be an extraordinary achievement.

Juliette Lewis and Giovanni Ribisi portray Carla Tate and Danny McMahon in "The Other Sister," by Touchstone Pictures.

Dreams of state title dismissed in semifinals

By JASON SCHMITT

The Northville wrestling team's season came to a twisted end last Saturday in Battle Creek.

Usually, on the winning end of lopsided scores, the Mustangs found out life on the other end in a 39-24 loss to Rochester Adams in the state semifinals. The Highlanders made some adjustments in the middle of their lineup, and pulled out a few close wins to gain the momentum they needed to advance to the state championship, where they lost to Temperance Bedford.

Northville tied the match at 9-9 after Anant Saran beat Adams' Pat Diaz 2-1 at 130 pounds. The loss was just the second of the year for Diaz.

But the Mustangs voided at 135, due to some shifting in the Adams lineup and some unexpected early lineup losses. The void was the first of five losses in the next six weights, which doomed Northville.

"We knew we would have to wrestle our best to beat them," Northville coach Bob Townsend said. "We had to have some key weights come through for us."

Jeremy Carter beat Matt Chamberlain 6-1 at 103 to get things going for the 'Stangs.

At 112, Matt Tarrow was momentarily knocked unconscious and pinned at 4:41 by Adam Cross. "We knew he had to be unconscious because Tarrow is very hard to pin. He will hang on an entire match before being pinned," Townsend said.

Kevin Arbuckle lost a close match, 5-3 in overtime, to Omar Youssef. The loss gave Adams a 9-3 lead, which caused a shift in Northville's lineup.

Reggie Torrence moved down to 125 and beat Mike Holtz 9-3 before Saran tied the match.

"We were down, and we decided to bump them up so we didn't fall too far behind," the coach said. "And then they changed up their lineup a little and then again later in their lineup. They made some nice moves and they worked."

Chad Neumann wrestled hard at 140, but fell to J.P. Reese 2-6. Dan Scappaticci beat Brad Reichart 5-0 to keep the Mustangs within six at 18-12.

But the meat of the Highlanders' lineup was waiting, and took over.

Matt England was caught and pinned by David Boyd in 4:35 and John Rekounis was caught by Mark Lazzo at 3:54 to make it 30-12.

The other Lazzo, Luke, beat Ryan McCracken 14-8 to end the senior's season. The loss ended the Mustangs as well, as Adams jumped out to an insurmountable 33-12 lead with three matches to wrestle.

Joe Rumbley was pinned by Kevin Boyd in :52 before Ryan Giles and Ted Bowersox finished the match with pins. Giles caught Joel Miner at 1:36 and Bowersox pinned Dan Ziska in 3:45.

"We gave it our best shot, and you don't get too many shots."

Regional champions for 3rd-straight year

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

The easy part's over. Now it's down to business.

The Northville/Novi gymnastics team breezed to its third-consecutive regional championship last Saturday, scoring 140.025 points, and advancing to the state meet this weekend at Hartland High School.

The Mustangs advance, as do the next two teams, Saline (137.60) and Hillsdale (134.00).

"The big thing for us this year was to win the regional," coach Laura Moyers said. "Anything we do next week will be the icing on the cake."

Northville/Novi had four girls place at the regional, including three of the top six in division I. Lindsey Carlson had a 35.975 to win division I. Her teammates Andrea Ledbetter (34.30) and Monica Fink (34.20) finished fifth and sixth. Jennifer Rohlf's scored a 35.00 in division II, which was fifth best.

As for the individual events, the Mustangs struggled on the beam, but came through on the bars. Four girls placed on the bars, three of them coming in division I. Carlson won the event with a 9.275 and Fink and Ledbetter were seventh and eighth with an 8.55 and an 8.40.

Carlson, Fink and Ledbetter were 1-2-3 on the vault. Carlson won it with a 9.15. Fink and Ledbetter added a 9.00 and an 8.75 respectively.

The floor exercise saw Carlson finish runner-up with a 9.0 in division I. Fink was close behind in third place (8.95). Rohlf's was sixth in division II with an 8.95.

Ledbetter and Carlson were second and fourth on the beam. Ledbetter scored an 8.65 and Carlson had an 8.55.

"Division II was much tougher at the regional meet because you have a lot of division II girls," Moyers said. "But at the state meet, there will be more division I girls."

That bodes well for Rohlf's, the defending division II state champion in the vault and all-around competitions. She will look for a repeat in both events. Moyers also expects Carlson to fare well at the meet.

"She's strong in all events, but the field for division I is going to be extremely tough," the coach said.

Carlson's step sister, Shannon McCall of Brighton, is the odds on favorite to win the Division I all-around crown. "There are only a few girls in the state that can even come close to competing with her," Moyers added.

Brighton and Hartland are the favorites to walk away with the title Northville/Novi currently holds. Moyers said she hopes her team will have a top six finish among the 12 teams at the meet.

"I'd like to see us in the top 10, but we can only do what the girls can do as a team," she said. "Personally, I feel Brighton and Hartland are the clear favorites to win it."

The Mustangs were unable to repeat last year's miracle district championship, but did reach the semifinals with a win over Ann Arbor Huron Feb. 26 at the Ice Cube in Ann Arbor. Ann Arbor Pioneer knocked out the 'Stangs out and eventually won the district title with a win over Brighton.

Second season ends for icers

By ROBERT JACKSON

Playing back to back games on five hours of sleep would be tough for any National Hockey League player, but for high school players the combination can be disastrous.

That's exactly what happened to the Northville Mustang Hockey team last week in the district hockey tournament. The Mustangs beat a tough Ann Arbor Huron team 3-2 in the district opener, but lost to a big and talented Ann Arbor Pioneer squad 6-2, ending their hopes for a second straight district championship.

According to coach Brad O'Neill, his team "ran out of gas" in the Pioneer game.

"It was really unfortunate the way our district scheduled the games. Our guys didn't get home from the first game until well past midnight, and then they had to get up, go to school, and be back at the rink for a 9 p.m. game," O'Neill said. "I'm not taking anything away from Pioneer, they're a great team, but our guys just seemed to run out of gas after the second period."

Both games were played in Ann Arbor, and Pioneer drew a bye in the first round.

In the game against Huron, Jason Engelland scored the game winning goal midway through the third period. Evan Edwards and Marc Olin picked up the other two Northville tallies.

Against Pioneer Northville trailed 4-2 after two periods, with Sean Nappo and Edwards lighting the lamp for the Mustangs. Pioneer tallied two more in the third to put the game out of reach.

"I was really proud of the effort our guys gave in both games, especially against Pioneer," O'Neill said. "The first game against Huron was

Netters fall to Churchill in semis

Sometimes you're just at the mercy of the your geographical location.

Having to compete in one of the toughest district volleyball tournaments in the state, the Northville team bowed out in the district semifinals to Livonia Churchill 6-15, 9-15. The Chargers did everything right, and the Mustangs couldn't find the answers.

"They (Churchill) played smart, and they played the ball where we were not," Northville coach Lara Huettner said. "They don't hit a whole lot, but you don't have to hit the ball hard to win. We had a tough time digging up the tips."

Janel Hasse led Northville with six kills and Meredith Hasse added five kills and four blocks. Kara Anderson added two blocks and two aces for the Mustangs.

"Sometimes we're better at hard-digging spikes than we are at rolling tips," Huettner said. "Our girls needed to see the court like Churchill, and we did not."

Plymouth Salem ended up beating Churchill in the district championship game Saturday afternoon.

Junior middle hitter Beth Gillis will be one of 10 players returning next season.

Northville returns 10 of 12 varsity members next season. Anderson and Christina Chase are the two departing seniors on the team. Chase was an honorable-mention all Western Lakes (WLAA) selection. Next year's team will be led by all-division selectee Janel Hasse and honorable-mention honoree Meredith Hasse.

Huettner is excited about Northville's prospects for next season. "They learned a lot. They learned how to run a quicker offense and they learned the finer points of the game."

Northville finished sixth in the WLAA this year.

Cagers end season with a loss to Central

By JASON SCHMITT

Saying that the Northville basketball team is a slow-starting team is like hitting the nail on the head with a sledgehammer.

You can't miss.

The Mustangs were hammered in the first quarter last Thursday night, eventually falling to Walled Lake Central 79-71 in a seventh-place Western Lakes matchup. The Vikings Jason Obomsawin hit a school-record 10 three pointers, including six in a row in the first quarter. He finished with 18 points in a first quarter that saw Central take a commanding 25-10 lead. Obomsawin would finish with a game-high 34.

"He was just shooting," a stunned Northville coach Scott Baldwin said. "He shot from everywhere, and we couldn't find an answer for him."

"We knew he could shoot, but not that well. He had one of those career games."

Baldwin said his team came into the game trying to focus on all-conference selection Cory Heitsch, who still ended up with 21 points.

Northville cut the lead to 36-27 at half-time, and trimmed the lead to eight at the end of three quarters.

"We outplayed them the rest of the way," the coach said. "We're just not getting out of the blocks quick enough. We're not a first-quarter team."

"We don't have a lot of great scorers, but once we start scoring, we can score in bunches."

Senior guard Brett Allen had another solid performance. Allen led the team with 17 points, 11 assists and eight rebounds. Sophomore forward Aaron Redden and senior forward Ben Keelle scored 13 each off the bench for Northville.

"Aaron came in and gave us balanced scoring throughout the game," the coach said. "We're excited about him because he's just a sophomore."

The loss left Northville with a 5-15 regular-season ending record and an eighth-place finish in the WLAA. Last year Northville finished 10-10 during the regular season, but finished ninth in the conference.

"Last year we were able to win our non-conference games. But this year our schedule was tougher. We actually did better in our league," Baldwin said.

The Mustangs looked to avenge a 51-46 loss to Novi last night after The Northville Record's deadline. The winner advanced to the district championship game which will be played tomorrow night against either Plymouth Canton or Salem. That game will begin at 7 p.m. at Canton High School.

extremely exciting, and I was happy that Jason (Engelland) got the game winner."

The Mustangs ended their season with a 11-11-3 record overall. Justin Wainoe and Sean Nappo were selected for first team all league honors - Wainoe was also selected first team last year. Marc Olin and Evan Edwards received honorable mention honors.

"Our seniors really played well for us this year, and they provided excellent leadership," O'Neill said. "It was also a good experience for our younger players, to get a taste of what high school hockey is all about. We'll have a good nucleus returning next year."

that's not right. Just in being there, we showed last year was no fluke."

Back in December the Mustangs lost to the Highlanders 62-6. At the time the lineup was beaten up.

"Let's face it, they are a great team, and we'd probably beat them two out of eight times," Townsend said. "Both Garnett (Potter) and I are extremely proud of the kids and if you look at the top four teams that were there, there's probably only one with a junior varsity program. That's saying something about our kids."

The loss leaves Northville with a 25-3 record and a division, conference, district and regional championship this year.

NORTHVILLE 48, STERLING HEIGHTS 21

Resembling the Mustangs of old, Northville jumped out to a 34-0 lead and never looked back. Carter pinned Mike Casciano in :56. Tarrow won 10-5 over Andy Hoppe and Arbuckle topped Dan Fulmer 7-5.

Ben Ashby picked up a major decision 18-5 win over Jason Russell. Three consecutive pins closed the match out. Torrence pinned Randy Tarsoff in 1:28. Saran pinned Justin Riberas in 1:44 and Neumann caught Waleda Wazni in 2:56. The pins gave the Mustangs a 34-0 lead.

Scappaticci won 17-1 over Scott Lauzon and John Rehoumis pinned Eugen Petrov in 2:45. Bowersox concluded the match with a 6-0 win over Jason Curtis.

"I think it was a good showing by our team," Townsend said. "Everyone stepped up and I think being in this situation."

The individual wrestling tournament is Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Joe Louis Arena. Torrence (125), Saran (130), Scappaticci (140) add Bowersox (HWT) will be wrestling in their respective divisions.

People, doctors beginning to understand fibromyalgia

How do people respond when they hear the term "fibromyalgia?"

A large percentage of people will say, "fibro-what?" But for 8 to 10 percent of the population, it means pain and uncertainty. Fibromyalgia has been around for centuries. In fact, it has been written that Cleopatra suffered with this condition. The medical profession has only recently begun to understand and diagnose this troublesome condition. Although the American Medical Association now recognizes it as a legitimate syndrome, some doctors still question its existence.

Fibromyalgia refers to a complex syndrome characterized by pain amplification, musculoskeletal discomfort, and systemic symptoms. Six million people meet the criteria for fibromyalgia. On average patients see five to 50 doctors before they are correctly diagnosed, and until that time many are convinced they have a life threatening illness, such as cancer.

The chief complaint with fibromyalgia is pain. The pain may be described as a constant ache, throbbing or burning. Painful locations are found in the muscles of the neck, head, shoulders (especially between the shoulder blades), low back and hips. The pain may begin in one area, but over time it begins to involve more and more regions until it has spread throughout the entire body. Fibromyalgia pain is a wandering pain. One day it may present in the back and the next day in the shoulders.

General fatigue is another major complaint with fibromyalgia. Poor sleep contributes to this problem. It is not unusual for individuals with fibromyalgia to sleep as little as a couple of hours or for much as 12 hours and feel completely exhausted the next day. Instead of waking up refreshed they start their day as if they never slept.

Fibromyalgia occurs in all ages, ethnic groups and cultures. Its gender distribution is nearly equal in childhood, but in adults it is more prevalent in females. Is fibromyalgia genetic? Even though no fibromyalgia genetic markers have been found, there are studies documenting high prevalence of the syndrome among certain families.

There are many theories as to the cause of this syndrome. Trauma, infection and stress are three of the most common etiologies. Dr. Martin Tamler of William Beaumont Hospital, a leading specialist in the field believes fibromyalgia is a disorder characterized by a low endurance state or deconditioning of one's muscles. He points out that when an individual exceeds the endurance capabilities of the muscles, pain ensues. Living with fibromyalgia is a challenge. There is no cure, but there are ways to manage the pain. The first step is to find a physician who is competent and willing to make a diagnosis, as well as invest the time to work with the patient. There is no diagnostic test or x-ray that can detect the syndrome. However, physicians can substantiate the diagnosis by checking established universal tender point sites throughout the body that are more susceptible to pain from applied pressure than would be experienced by a person without the disease.

According to Dr. Tamler the first step in treatment is finding the underlying problem, and working together with the patient to correct this first. "It is not uncommon for these patients to present with thyroid abnormalities, sleep disorders, and nutritional abnormalities that have a direct effect on muscle endurance. Many triggers can ultimately lead to fibromyalgia, but in order to be successful in fibromyalgia treatment, one must treat the trigger first."

"The next step is educating the patient. Fibromyalgia patients need to know how to prevent, manage and survive a flare up. Medication, which is frequently requested by patients and over-utilized by physicians, is not the answer to controlling the disease. It may be necessary to establish regular sleeping patterns, but can't do anything to build endurance in the muscles that are weakened by the disease," says Tamler.

Regular exercise, stress management and alternative therapies such as reflexology, meditation, acupuncture and biofeedback can be helpful. However, it is important to realize that a person's lifestyle up to the point that they develop fibromyalgia has helped to set up the problem. Individuals on high carbohydrate, low protein, low fat diets and who are devoid of exercise in their lives are at great risk of developing the disorder. Once the trigger is encountered, fibromyalgia develops. After an individual is plagued by fibromyalgia, unless that individual makes a commitment to changing his/her former lifestyle, he/she will be subjected to ever worsening exacerbations of the condition.

Dr. Tamler will be presenting a series of seminars to educate people about fibromyalgia. The three-session series is designed for fibromyalgia patients, family members, friends and health care professionals. The first workshop provides an overview of the disease (including an overview on treatment); the second deals with the importance of good nutrition in proper health maintenance (applicable to all individuals and not just fibromyalgia); and the third session addresses pain management. These lectures have been well attended and provide people with a great deal of factual information. The goal is to replace fear with knowledge and in so doing, allow patients to make the right choices to control the disorder.

Dr. Sharon Ostalecki of Novi will be hosting conferences on fibromyalgia this year at the Novi Hilton. She can be reached at (248) 344-0896.

HOW TO

Silica in paint makes concrete stairs safer

By Gene Gary
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. The painted concrete steps to our front porch are very slippery when wet. Is there any way to make them slip resistant other than using those strips of non-slip tape on the treads?

A. If you are considering repainting the steps, remove all flaking and loose paint. Scrub the steps with a solution of trisodium phosphate, detergent and warm water to remove grease and grime. Rinse with clear water. Sand with a medium to fine grade sandpaper.

Apply the initial coat of paint and fine sand prior to application of the final paint coating. For the final coat, mix clear silica into the paint before you apply it. Silica is available at most hardware stores and home centers. This should give the surface enough texture to alleviate much of the slipperiness.

If the existing paint is in good condition you can coat the steps with a slip-resistant finish. Bondex markets a product called Slip-Tex, which is specially formulated to prevent slips and falls on concrete, wood, glossy-painted surfaces, metal, ceramic tile and various other surfaces.

The product, available in quarts and gallons or an aerosol can, is a non-yellowing, water-based acrylic formula which is good for both exterior and interior use. It is extremely durable and resistant to cracking and peeling.

Bondex also makes a non-slip Skid-Tex paint additive that can be added to interior or exterior paints (a substitute for silica). For more information on availability of these products in your area, call (800) 225-7522.

Q. We have glued-down indoor/outdoor carpeting in a basement recreation room. We are redoing this area and want to replace the floor covering. We tried pulling the carpeting up, but it is firmly bonded to the concrete. How can this floor covering be successfully removed?

A. Glued-down outdoor carpeting and vinyl floors, especially those stuck down with chemical adhesives, can be almost impossible to peel up without special equipment. An electric vinyl-tile stripper's beveled blades will rip up almost any floor covering and whatever's holding it down to the wood or concrete beneath: tile made of asphalt, rubber or vinyl, epoxy glue, grease, linoleum, all types of adhesives, indoor-outdoor carpeting, felt, cork, even tennis court surfaces.

To operate, you simply guide the handles as you would a walk-behind lawn mower. This powerful tool is usually available from an equipment rental firm.

You can also purchase a similar tool. Red Devil markets their Slamscraper Impact Tool which comes with a 58-inch, heavy-duty welded steel handle and two separate blade attachments. The scraping blade is for heavy removal jobs like asphalt and ceramic tile, glued-down parquet flooring and slate, as well as sludge and other unwanted floor deposits. The second replacement stripping blade attachment is perfect for inlaid linoleum tile and wall-to-wall carpeting.

For availability in your area, contact Red Devil Inc. customer service, (800) 847-3790.

Q. We had to remove wood tiles from a concrete slab floor (moisture from the concrete caused the tiles to loosen). The black mastic which was applied to the concrete when the tiles were laid still remains. Do you know how this black mastic can safely be removed so the slab can be cleaned and prepared for sealing in some manner.

A. It's usually best to scrape off as much of the adhesive as you can with a scraper, then remove the rest with a floor sander. You may find that even after this process, some glue residue will remain.

To clean the slab further you will need to find an appropriate solvent that will work on the particular type of mastic you are dealing with. Start with mineral spirits, and work your way up to the more potent solvents such as lacquer thinner until you find the one that softens and removes your particular mastic.

Most industrial paint supply companies carry a complete range of solvents (if you can bring a sample - some scrapings of the old mastic - with you, some supply houses will even help test for the right solvent). Use caution when working with solvents: Most are highly flammable. Wear a solvent-rated respirator and protective gloves. Pour a small amount of solvent on your concrete slab and work with rags to clean as much of the mastic off the surface as possible. Follow with the application of an appropriate masonry sealer.

Q. Two years ago when we painted our new garage doors, we also painted the weather stripping. Ever since, the doors stick to the stripping and we have to pull the stripping away from the outside of the doors to open them. We have cleaned the paint off the stripping with paint thinner but the sticking continues. Is there anything we can do?

A. Replace the old weather stripping with new. In the process you described, the surface of the old weather stripping was most likely chemically damaged and will always remain sticky.

One with Nature

Milford builder capitalizes on land's natural amenities

By Annette Jaworski
SPECIAL WRITER

Can developers and nature live in harmony? Milford Builder Delcor Homes believes they can. Their philosophy of building homes in harmony with nature is reflected in a recent ad campaign - "Up North living, close to home."

"In all of our communities, we look for land with a lot of natural amenities such as water and trees. We've been successful in doing that," said Cathy Doig, Sales and Marketing Manager for Delcor.

To begin with, the builders never uses a detention pond for runoff water. Instead, they use a retention pond that's continuously filled with water.

"Then we like to put in a fountain. It's kind of our trademark," said Doig. "It takes what's necessary for water retention and turns it into a beautiful amenity."

Lake Shore Pointe in Howell has five or six retention ponds sprinkled throughout the development, in addition to Thompson Lake. The Alger Creek Nature Preserve also winds through the community with about two miles of walking trails. In winter, they can be used for cross country skiing. The firm's other developments,

Delcor replants mature trees removed from land being developed

Country French Estates and Villas of Oak Pointe feature walking trails as well.

Lake Shore Pointe in Howell features Thompson Lake, an all sports lake. In addition, there are two marinas, with built-up sand areas and boat docks. One marina features a basketball court and a picnic gazebo, and the other features a huge playscape as well as a gazebo.

Another unique way the builders work in harmony with the environment is their use of mature trees throughout their developments. If your idea of a new development is a spot of cleared land with newly planted landscaping, what Delcor Homes is doing would surprise you.

"When we enter a community, instead of clearing the trees, we have a tree moving service with a spade that moves hundreds of trees," Doig said.

These are kept in a nursery area for later use throughout the development. If for some reason, the land doesn't have as many large trees as they would like, they seek out nearby farmers and negotiate a deal to purchase more of the mature trees.

"You won't find a ten-foot tree in our development," Doig said. "We don't look like a brand new community in terms of vegetation."

They also consider the position of the home on the lot when it comes to making the most of woodland or wetland area. Because of the high price of property, today's lot sizes are smaller. Delcor tries to "expand" the lot by backing up the home to the woodland or wetland. If there aren't any naturally protected areas, they create natural buffers with trees.

Another unique concept this builder is banking his reputation on is called the ISO 9000. Delcor Builders will probably be one of, if not the first builder, to qualify for the standards of the ISO 9000 group. ISO stands for the International Organization Foundation for Standardizing. It was a group originating in Switzerland that established international standards for trade, usually applied to manufacturing. It's something that's widely recognized in the Detroit area, because automobile manufacturers comply with ISO standards.

President of Delcor Homes, Phil McCafferty believes strongly that Delcor Builders should pursue those standards of excellence. It was no easy task, since the building industry consists of using groups of contractors, making it more difficult to regulate. They finally came up with a checklist given to tradesmen they use. There are over 500 items on the checklist from start to finish that need to be followed.

The goal of the entire process is to build a zero-defect home. What this means for the homeowner, is when they do the walk-through, the list of corrections should be down to five items, and those items are to be completed before the closing. Delcor Homes has been preparing for the past year and a half and hopes to become ISO certified this spring.

Delcor Homes is located on 2195 S. Milford Road, Milford. (248) 684-1234. Lake Shore Pointe is located in Oceola Township on Golf Club Road, just north of Grand River. Villas of Oak Pointe is located in Brighton and Country French Estates in Ann Arbor.

What makes Dickens pottery so valuable?

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

ANTIQUES

Q. Enclosed is a photo of a piece of pottery that we have had in the family for at least 60 years. It is 16 inches tall. Impressed on the bottom are the words "Dickensware - Weller."

Whatever you can tell us about it will be appreciated.

A. Samuel Weller started his pottery in Fultonham, Ohio, in the late 1800s making jardinières, flower pots and umbrella stands. American art pottery was introduced in 1893 at the Chicago World's Fair. Weller liked what he saw at the fair and had a keen sense of the future of art pottery. In 1895, he moved his plant to Zanesville, Ohio, and hired the best and the brightest designers he could find. Dickensware, one of his most successful lines, was developed in 1900. Sam Weller, a Charles Dickens character seen on tableware and accessories made by Doulton in England, was the inspiration for the new line.

The first Dickensware line was created by artist Charles Babcock Upjohn and was made for only a short time.

The second Dickensware line was decorated with hand-incised designs. Featured on the ware were American Indians, monks, fish, historical scenes and drinking scenes, all having nothing to do with Charles Dickens characters.

The third line is the most rare and was introduced around 1904. This time the pieces were decorated with Charles Dickens characters.

As a rule, Dickensware was marked with a hand incised or impressed mark.

Your circa 1900 vase is an example of the second line and would probably be worth about $1,000 to $1,500.

Q. I have a Vallerystahl opaque glass covered dish that was given to me. It has dolphin feet, a large shell finial on the lid and is decorated with small shells around the bottom of the bowl. The height is over 6 inches and the width is 5 1/2 inches. We have had it in our family since 1895 and it is in perfect condition.

What is it worth?

A. Vallerystahl Glassworks in Lorraine, France, has been making glass since 1836. Your covered dish fits the description of a sweetmeat jar. It was made in the late 19th century and would probably be worth about $85 to $125.

Q. I inherited several pieces of china from my great-grandmother that I have been unable to trace. There are 11 dessert-size dishes decorated with pink roses and green leaves against an ivory background. The rose pattern varies with each dish and all have scalloped edges.

Enclosed is the blue mark that is on the back of each plate.

I hope you will be able to provide some information on the manufacturer of my plates.

A. Hermann Ohme Porcelain Manufactory in Lower Silesia, Germany, used the mark you provided. They made porcelain that has become known as Old Ivory from around 1882 to 1930. Most pieces are marked with a pattern number. A variety of floral patterns were made - No. 16 and No. 84 being the most often seen. Old Ivory was originally distributed in Maine and Chicago.

Your plates were made around 1900 and each would probably be worth about $50 to $85.

Q. I have a "Planet of the Apes" bank. It is in the shape of Dr. Zarius and stands 17 inches high. On the bottom are the words "Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation." "Planet of the Apes" is marked on the back of the figure.

I have not been able to find any information on my bank anywhere. Can you tell me what its value is?

A. Objects related to the popular 1970s "Planet of the Apes" movies are collectible. Your 1974 Dr. Zarius bank would probably be worth about $35 to $45.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

This circa 1900 vase is worth about $1,000 to $1,500.

New jobs help firm reorganize

Things are looking up for the Brivar Construction Company of Highland as the firm adds new projects and reorganizes its offices.

The firm recently broke ground on a large government project in Livingston County, the new Community Mental Health Facility in Genoa Township. The 20,000 square-foot building was designed by the Ann Arbor Architects Collaborative, and will be completed this November.

Brivar Construction demonstrated its breadth of experience with three other projects it recently contracted to design and build.

Two of the new projects are of an industrial nature. A & F Wood Products of Green Oak Township signed Brivar up to build its 35,560-square-foot corporate headquarters there. The company manufactures and distributes pocket door frames, and commercial architectural flush doors.

Brivar will also begin construction this spring on an addition for Kennedy Industries in Milford. Kennedy Industries manufactures industrial pumps, and will add 10,750 square feet to its existing plant. The addition will include crane bays to boost the company's capacity.

But Brivar will also shift gears this spring when it begins construction on the Brown Chapel AME Church in Ypsilanti Township. This uniquely designed church will include administrative offices, religious education classrooms and a commercial kitchen to support its community outreach programs. Brivar will both design and build the 15,000-square-foot facility.

Brivar will also undergo a reorganization to handle its new-found success.

President Steve Varilone will add chief executive officer to his nameplate. Stanley Brish has been promoted from vice president to executive vice president and chief sales officer. James R. Spurr has come on board as vice president to take Brish's place.

Brivar Construction Co. is located at 945 S. Milford Road. Call 248-889-1463 for more information.

Jarratt's designs include elegant features of granite, solid mahogany wood, and grandiose chandeliers. Furniture has an Old World European feel. The Porter includes a cigar bar with comfortable leather lounge seating.

CONSTRUCTION FINANCING FROM CHELSEA LUMBER CO.

The money, the materials and the people to make your dream home a reality

When you visit us, we'll assign you to your own Home Construction Financing Professional, one of five people who work exclusively in our Construction Financing Department. They have the expertise to handle the financing details and help you with your construction from start to finish.

There is one person who is directly responsible for answering all your questions. You won't be shuffled from one person to another. You'll get as much or as little help as you want...just stop in or call toll free 1-800-875-9126 or 475-9126 locally.

Come to Chelsea Lumber. Our friendly and knowledgeable people are dedicated to helping you build your dream home!

Why consider a Home Construction Financing Plan?

- Banks provide the dollars for a final mortgage, but do not care to provide the money during construction.
- You will save money by being your own general contractor and by providing some of the labor yourself, or by using your relatives' and friends' help.
- You don't have to wait, why not start your home now?

Why select Chelsea Lumber Company's Home Construction Financing Plan?

- EXPERIENCE! Our Financing Plan is the original. All others have tried to copy ours! For more than 32 years, we've been financing new-home construction, making it possible for over 3,200 homes to be built in a 17-county area. We've helped more people and financed more homes than all the others put together.
- WE MAKE IT SIMPLE. When you talk with Chelsea Lumber, the whole process suddenly shifts from complicated to doable. All the estimating, qualifying and arranging for any outside contracting you'll need is done with the help of your personal Home Construction Financing Professional.
- WE PROVIDE FINANCING. Cash to build your home is provided by Chelsea Lumber Company, and no payments are due until your home is completed. We are your one-stop source for money and materials (You don't have to buy the materials from us).
- FOR SEVENTY YEARS, Chelsea Lumber has been selling top-quality building materials at low prices. As a Home Construction Finance customer, you will get our lowest cash 'n carry prices (not even the boss buys for less). We want you to compare our material prices with any other dealer who has a financing plan.
- WE NOW OFFER A CUSTOM HOME PLAN LIBRARY WITH 30 HOME DESIGNS TO SELECT FROM.
- WE ALSO HAVE A DESIGN CONSULTANT TO MODIFY A CURRENT DESIGN OR TO DESIGN TO YOUR SPECIFICATIONS.

How important is this decision?

- Building your home is the most important financial decision you'll ever make - it's that important! Join the hundreds of Michigan families who choose Chelsea Lumber's Home Construction Financing Plan each year. Come learn the facts...see our facilities...meet our people at our FREE CLINICS Monday or Tuesday, March 15th or 16th at 7:00 PM, and then make an informed choice about this most important decision.

Can you picture yourself in your own home?

Come to our Free Clinic Tuesday, March 16th at 7:00 P.M.

Joists

Jager Super I™

WE'VE SWITCHED! Why did

Chelsea Lumber switch to Jager Super I Joists?

- Provable better quality — EVERY joint in EVERY joist is tested for strength!
- More builder-friendly — 2½ inch nailing flange rather than 1½" flange makes nailing the subfloor easy.
- Mechanicals can be cut in to the floor system rather than suspended below it.
- Stronger — will span further and reduce deflection, vibration and floor squeaks.
- Codes and standards — Meets the latest revisions of all applicable codes and standards.

Jager Super I products are guaranteed to be free from defects in workmanship and materials and will carry the loads specified provided they are used under normal service conditions and in accordance with the instructions and specifications as referenced in our literature.
