Dwight Sieggreen named middle school science teacher of the year

Dwight Sieggreen doesn't just teach science, he lives it.

Whether it's literally rubbing shoulders with hammerhead sharks, getting wrapped up in adventure with anaconda snakes, or teaching seventh grade middle school students, the Cooke Middle School instructor loves science.

The love translates to positive results both from student reaction and the number of awards he receives. Sieggreen will pick up another award in May after recently being named 1998-1999 Out-Wayne County Outstanding Middle School Teacher in the 13th annual Newsweek-WDIV Outstanding Teacher Awards program. The program honors 12 teachers in southeastern Michigan: one teacher in the elementary, middle and high school levels from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and the Detroit Public Schools.

Sieggreen, 53, attributes his teaching success to his own "hands on, minds on" approach to learning.

"It's one thing to learn by reading," he said. "It's another thing to learn by doing."

Sieggreen admits he wasn't exactly taught to use that approach when he first became a teacher in 1969, but said he quickly learned that to be a quality teacher he had to forget much of what he had been taught.

"People remember 10 percent of what they're told and between 50 percent and 60 percent if they do something," he said. "But when they do something that relates to their life you start getting retention rates of 80 percent to 90 percent."

Sieggreen said he tries to relate science to students' lives. For example, new students in his class harvest a garden started by students during the fall semester that was planted by exiting students in the spring. Additionally,

Recall group set to voice concerns at public meeting

A large turnout expected at township board meeting tonight

BY CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The message from Families For A Better Northville, Families member Jim Nield said, will ring loud and clear: end the lawsuit against Northville schools, or face the possibility of being removed from office.

Families is an organization of which resident Scott Wilson plays a major role. Nield and Wilson, along with a few dozen others, have tabulated a list of requests for the township. Families will air its case at tonight's township board meeting at a pre-meeting rally.

Nield said the big issue in the minds of Families' members is the ongoing litigation between the township and the Northville School district regarding construction of the new Northville High School on Six Mile Road.

If the litigation isn't dropped post haste, Nield said Families would immediately move ahead with filling out the necessary paperwork to organize a recall election against one or more members of the board.

But, he said, tonight's board meeting won't be a matter of the trustees having to negotiate with the Northville school board.

"The trustees will be negotiating with a community," Nield said Tuesday.

Unfortunately, you'll be waving hello.

Construction began this week on the $1.3 million North Center Street project between Eight Mile Road and Dunlap Street. It's phase two of a two-year project to replace Center Street between Seven Mile Road and Eight Mile Road.

Middle school name selected

School board selects 'Hillside' as new middle school name

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

A riddle: It's black, white and red all over and goes by the nickname Raiders.

If your guess is Cooke Middle School, you're right, but only for a little bit longer. Starting August 2000, when the middle school moves to the current Northville High School, Cooke Middle School will be known as Hillside Middle School.

Northville school board members voted 5-0 in favor of Hillside.

"I didn't like the whole student naming thing," said Alexandra Hollmeyer, a sixth grader at Cooke. "I think the principals, teachers and secretaries should have named it because they've been there longer."

Sixty-nine names were submitted by the Northville community and mostly by students. The names were narrowed down to three: Hillside; Stone Ridge; and Northville Middle School. The winner will be treated to a special lunch with the superintendent that includes a ride in a Cadillac.

The six students who suggested Hillside Middle School include: Jason Collins; Jared Perry; Kelley Hill; Ashley Moore; Meredith Cole; Shannon Bailey. Additionally, Leonard Rezmierski's secretary Gayle Jalecs suggested the name.

"I was just picking all kinds of names and thought the school is on a hill and the one side faces downtown Detroit which you can see on a clear day," Jalecs said. "It was real simple."

Board member Martha Nield told the administrative services subcommittee she didn't like

Release of lawsuit information investigated

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Documents related to a Northville school district lawsuit are appearing in area mailboxes mysteriously.

Terry Miglio, attorney for the Northville school district in the case of Robin Zaas against the district, Stephen Anderson, principal of Amerman Elementary School, and Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent of Northville schools, said an investigation has been started to try and find the source of the documents.

"We don't know who did this,"

Miglio said. "We know that a number of parents have informed us that they've received the packets."

Miglio said the packets contain such information as the original police report filed by the Northville police department when Robin Zaas alleged abuse of her daughter Stephanie.

Additionally, the packets contain information that isn't public record, Miglio said.

They started showing up in Northville area mailboxes in mid February.

"The packets contain allegations against Dr. Anderson that have already been the subject of a lawsuit," Miglio said.

Repeated attempts by The Northville Record to get comment from Zaas were unsuccessful.

The case that Zaas brought against the district was thrown out in a pretrial hearing held in November. Additionally, Anderson countersued Zaas for defamation of character. That lawsuit ended with a settlement Feb. 4.

Shortly thereafter, Miglio said, the documents started to appear in mailboxes.

In addition to the fact the packets contain material not of public record, Miglio said another problem is the way the information is being distributed.

"It's against the law to illegally place information in mailboxes," he said.

Miglio said if the investigation turns up the person or persons responsible for distributing the materials, they "will be met with significant response."

Anyone who has received one of the packets in their mailbox is asked to call Rezmierski's office at (248) 344-8440.

Board OK's Early Childhood tuition increase

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The cost of sending a child to Northville's Early Childhood Center just went up.

The school board approved a rise in tuition of between 3 percent and 7 percent for the 1999-2000 school year.

"Tuition goes up to the extent that prices in general are going up," said John Street, director of business and finance for the Northville school district.

Regular full-time weekly rates will rise 3 percent, one of the smallest increases.

Rates for the Kids' Club break full day were among two categories to experience the highest rate of increase of 7 percent. The other was for the part time fixed rate of Summer Kids' Club.

The Early Childhood Program in its present form started in 1985 when Moraine Elementary School closed. The district used Moraine as a preschool building to make a little money at help cover the operating costs of keeping the building.

When Moraine reopened as an elementary school in 1990, the Early Childhood Program's popularity led the Northville board of education to authorize continuation of the program in its current form.

The board established several principles that it would observe including: the program is important but not required; tuition would be in line with private providers; the program would be self-supported.

Street said the main reason prices increase is to not undercut private prices.

"We don't sit down and say 'This is this instructor's salary and this is how we're going to cover our costs,'" he said.

It's a small world for doll collector

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Her grandfather was a Norwegian sea captain who sailed throughout the Far East.

So Northville resident Rigmor Cuolahan speculates that her fascination with the different cultures of the world - as well the urge to accumulate exotic loot - just might be genetic.

"I love to travel. That might be Viking blood in me," said Cuolahan, who grew up in Oslo.

Cuolahan's been around about as much as her Nordic ancestors, including visits to Morocco, Belgium, Singapore, Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain and Ireland. Typically, she brings back dolls in ethnic costumes to add to her huge collection.

But when as a girl she suggested she might become a radio operator and go to sea herself, her father firmly quashed that idea.

No matter. Cuolahan would find other ways to cross the water, above all with a shipboard romance launched during an Atlantic voyage with Paul Cuolahan, a young man from Lansing, Michigan in 1950. The couple married in 1953.

Cuolahan estimates she's one of some 2,000 people living in the metro area who are either of Norwegian descent or immigrants from the country.

"I love to go to schools and talk about Norway to me kids. It's amazing to me how very little people know about Scandinavia. If they know something, it's about Swedes," she said.

"The sad thing is people think the Vikings were plunderers and robbers but they were also good people. They cultivated the land. They traded with the Arabs."

Cuolahan's been a leader in most local Scandinavian organizations, including the Swedish Club, Danish Sister and the Finnish Cultural Center. She's a past president of the Sons of Norway, although she prefers to refer to herself as a Daughter of Norway.

During ten years ending in the 1980s, Cuolahan was on-air with the Norwegian radio program on WMCK. For 30 years, she's been on the board of directors for the Old World Market, the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit's annual ethnic bash, where she runs the Norwegian Booth. In 1996, Cuolahan was made a member of the International Institute's International Heritage Hall of Fame at Cobo Hall.

To promote the traditions of her corner of Northern Europe, as well as other cultures, she's organized countless ethnic fashion shows.

Eight years ago, she was one of a group of local dignitaries invited to Toyota City, Japan to celebrate the community's 20th anniversary of sister cityhood with Detroit.

Cuolahan grew up in Nazi-occupied Norway, where she had to nervously pass the SS headquarters in Oslo on her way to school and watch as truckloads of Norwegian prisoners passed her home.

Her family lived a half-block from Vidkun Quisling, the man whose surname would become a synonym for traitor.

"We used to see him when we were kids," she said.

Quisling was head of the state council of Norway during the Nazi occupation, while Norway had a free government in Great Britain.

During the war years, Norway suffered food shortages because the Nazis shipped the supplies to Germany. The schools were used as Nazi barracks and classes were conducted in students' homes. Norwegians looked for ways to undermine the Nazis. When the Nazis wanted boats, Cuolahan's father chopped a hole in theirs and sank it in the fjord. Schoolchildren were forced to visit exhibits staged by the Nazis.

"We tried to sabotage them. We would wear red hats with H7 on them. That was our king's name, Hakun the Seventh," she said.

Cuolahan's collection features dolls from various countries.

Norwegians didn't want to go near the Nazis on the subways and Cuolahan and her friends got in trouble when they chose to stand up during one memorable trip on the underground.

"We wouldn't sit next to a German. When a German officer saw that, he screamed 'Halte, Halte' and they conductor had to stop and the German officer threw us out into the snow up to our knees," she said.

"You were always afraid, because if something happened, you didn't know what they would do to you."

Her experiences during the Nazi occupation may explain some of the lure international dolls have for Cuolahan.

"I used to have a lot of dolls when I was growing up. One day, my brother and his two little friends were playing doctor and they operated on my dolls. They took the eyes out, they took the tonsils out," she said.

Those she managed to salvage, she was pressured to give away as an older girl. During the war, toys couldn't be purchased and her mother persuaded her to give her dolls and doll house to neighboring little girls.

Cuolahan has no shortage of dolls now, although she has no idea how many fill showcases and boxes in her home. She seeks those in native dress, particularly if the clothing is hand-made. Her collection includes dolls from Senegal to Sweden, Latin America to Laos. Among her favorites are a clay-faced Moslem imam she purchased in Agadir, Morocco and French santos figures, hand-made dolls representing elderly peasants.

Dolls have been created by most civilizations for thousands of years, Cuolahan said.

"They were made of stone but they didn't know if they were dolls or servants to serve the deceased in the after life," she added.

Some dolls served ritual functions, such as the corn dolls from England.

"In the old days, they believed the spirit of the doll would go into the corn fields so they would have a good harvest," Cuolahan explained.

She's especially fond of Russian nested dolls and her sets include the Tsar Nicholas of Russia and his family and the Communist rulers of Russia from Gorbachev back to Lenin.

Other stars in her collection include two Japanese child figures hand-made by a woman from Japan living in the Detroit area. The faces are made from a paste created by hand-grinding oyster shells.

But her favorite is a miniature depiction of Henry VIII.

"I'm fascinated by him, ever since I was a little girl, because he was so terrible," Cuolahan said.

Northville Police investigate locker room theft

A Northville High School teen learned the difference between a locker room and bank the hard way last week.

The incident happened at about 9:30 a.m. March 11.

According to a Northville police department report, police were called to Northville High School after two girls had $403 taken from their purses which were located in the female locker room.

An 18-year-old Northville girl from Pierson admitted to stealing $333 from a 17-year-old Novi girl and $70 from a 14-year-old Northville girl from Dundalk Lane after she was seen leaving the locker room after the money was discovered missing.

She then got out of the car and ran. A background check of the woman based on her license plate revealed her license was suspended and there was a felony bench warrant for probation violation out of Third circuit court. She also had to misdemeanor warrants out of Southgate and Southfield.

Police couldn't find the woman but police were called to a house on Hutton Street after they received a call about a suspicious woman. The woman told the people that live in the house she had been raped and needed to use the phone but she didn't call police and left. The man told police he had never made an application for the card. The man filed the report March 10.

OUIL: Township police arrested a 23-year-old Northville woman for drunk driving in the early morning hours of March 13.

Police reports indicated officers were on patrol along eastbound Eight Mile Road near Wintergreen when a car drove past at a radar-verified 62 mph. Police pursued the car, which accelerated to as fast as 65 mph before the woman's car was pulled over at the entrance of Woodland Glen Apartments.

The woman said she had consumed two beers earlier in the evening. The woman bumped into the officer on duty after she was requested to exit her vehicle to perform a series of field sobriety tasks. Her blood alcohol level later checked in at 0.184. The woman will be in court March 19.

OUIL, Pt. II: Township police on patrol the early morning hours of March 12 spotted a car traveling southbound on Haggerty, slowing to approximately 15 mph, make a rolling stop and proceed eastbound on Five Mile Road.

Police pursued the man, whose car was later seen making errant lane changes. A traffic stop was initiated.

The man, a 38-year-old Livonia resident, produced a driver's license and asked police why he was being stopped. Police asked the man to step outside of his car to begin a series of field sobriety tasks, which he did.

The man completed the physical tests and was then asked if he would submit to a breathalyzer test. The man again asked why he was being detained. He eventually began taking the breathalyzer test, but was sucking on the straw rather than blowing into it. After being advised he was taking the test improperly, the man eventually blew into the machine, which registered a 0.186.

While at the police station, the man was read his chemical test rights on several instances, but the man insisted he did not understand the rights, despite telling officers he held a college degree. The man requested he be able to telephone his attorney, but could not recall his lawyer's name.

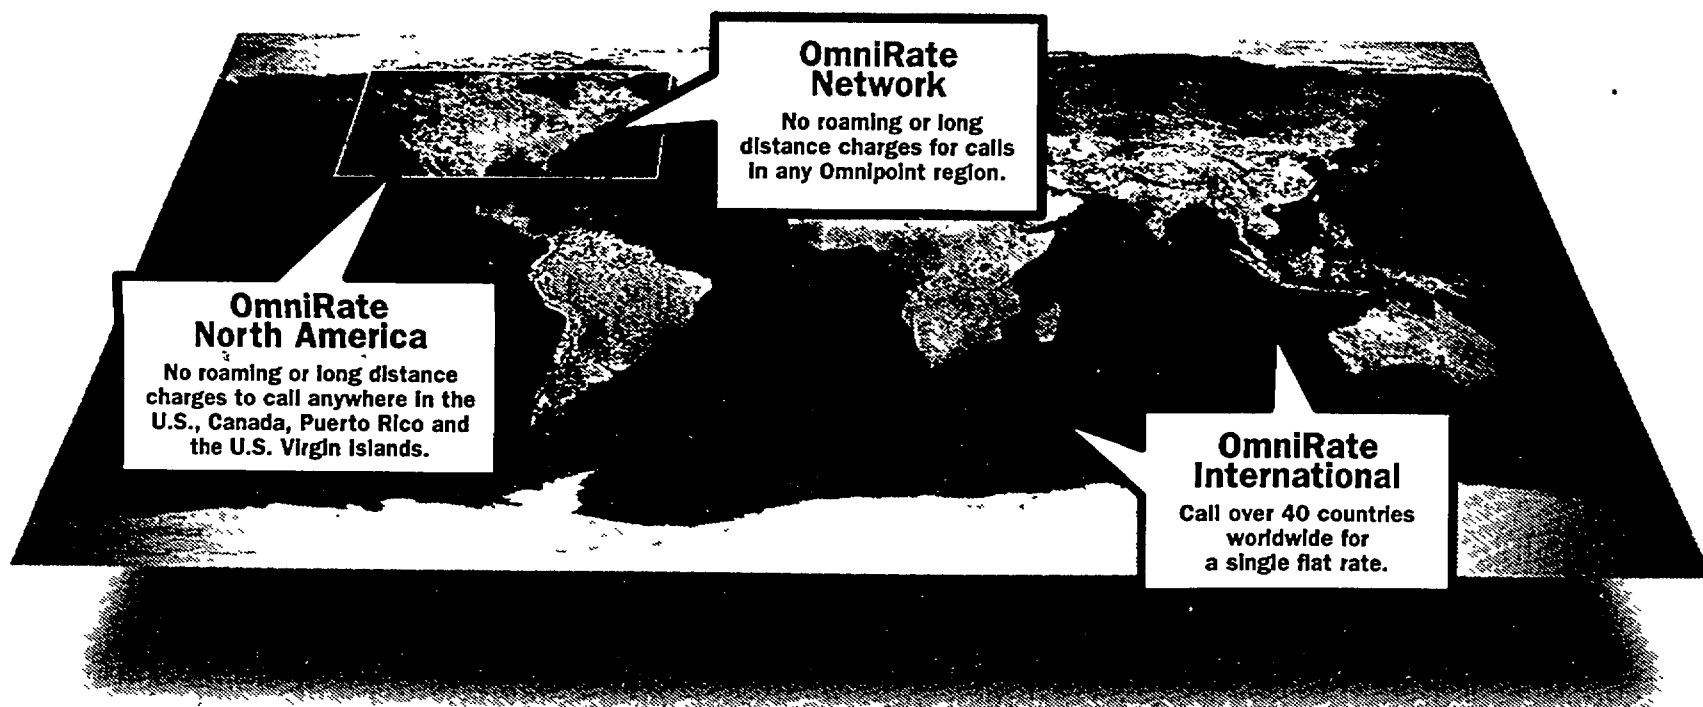

Reports said the man was provided with a phone book and allowed to search through it for his attorney, but became frustrated with the large number of listings.

"You just love screwing up people's lives, don't you?" the man asked at the questioning.

During this time, police obtained a search warrant from a judge to have a blood sample drawn from the man for alcohol analysis. The man was transported to Novi's Providence Hospital where the sample was taken.

A look at news in Northville and Northville Township

CITY BRIEFS

Council OK's festival street closures

Although it's months away, Northville organizations already are planning for the 11th annual Victorian festival.

Northville city council approved a request by the Northville Chamber of Commerce to close certain streets Sept. 17 through 19. The streets include: Main Street between Wing Court and Center Street 2 p.m. Sept. 17; Main Street between Center Street and Hutton Street 5 p.m. Sept. 17; Mary Alexander Court between the First Presbyterian Church and Center Street 6 a.m. Sept. 18; the upper level of the Cady Deck at 6 a.m. Sept. 18. All streets are to be reopened by 7:30 p.m. Sept. 19.

Wing Street to get sidewalks

The city council has named the section of Wing Street between Hines Drive and Fairbrook Street as a selected site for sidewalk improvements in fiscal 2000.

The request of the sidewalk was made through a petition signed by 57 residents of the St. Lawrence Estates presented to the board March 1. There isn't a sidewalk on either side of the street now.

The sidewalk will be placed on the east side of the street, will be five feet wide, 370 feet long and the cost will be about $9,500.

City receives $26,000 for Y2K work

The city of Northville has been approved to receive $26,000 for assistance with year 2000 compliance studies.

The money will come from the Risk Avoidance Program from the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority and will assist with the embedded system project.

The only string attached, said Nickie Bateson, finance director, is that the city of Northville share its experience with other Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority communities.

Special meeting scheduled

The Northville city council will hold a special meeting March 29.

Council approved the meeting after it was brought to their attention by Gary Word, city manager, that there are some things that should be addressed before the end of March including: an equipment bid award for the department of public works; personnel items; a revision of building codes; reconsideration of the office space parking requirement standard.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Amendment set for unpaid bills

The Northville city council has adopted a 10 percent penalty on water and solid waste bills that are unpaid for more than six months as of April 1.

Additionally, the unpaid bills will be considered a tax lien from the city.

Only the sewer utility ordinance currently provides for a 10 percent penalty although the city has been considering solid waste and water charges in the same category. The ordinance amendment officially extends the penalty to include water and solid waste.

SCHOOL BRIEFS

Preschool hosts open house

Northville Coop Preschool will hold an open house.

The event will be held 10 a.m. to noon March 27 at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, 200 E. Main St. Classes are available for two-, three- and four-year-olds.

More information may be obtained by calling Kary Adamowicz (248) 348-7759.

Children's parade scheduled

The Ninth Annual Month of the Young Child parade will be held April 30.

The parade is sponsored by the Northville Public Schools Early Childhood Center.

The event will be 6 p.m. to 6:35 p.m. The parade will run from the Northville Downs parking lot behind Church Street and go to the Northville Recreation Center via Main Street. Additionally, purple ribbons will be placed on lamp posts downtown two weeks prior to the event and leaflets will be distributed to downtown businesses to promote the week.

The Northville city council approved the parade March 1.

TOWNSHIP BRIEFS

Lindquist appointed as canvasser

Northville township resident Charles Lindquist was appointed the township's board of canvassers to replace former canvasser Janis Stevenson, who since moved from the community.

The move was required by Michigan state law. The township has no policy which requires the individual candidate to complete an appointment application.

Lindquist's term will expire at the end of this year.

Foundation fundraiser approved

The Michigan Make-A-Wish Foundation was granted permission by the township to sell fundraiser flowers at the Mobil station at Six Mile and Haggerty roads on April 2, 3, and 4, and again during the Mother's Day holiday on May 8 and 9.

Proceeds from the flower sales go towards covering the cost of wishes made by children with life-threatening illnesses.

OAKLAND COUNTY BRIEFS

Weather Awareness Week set

The week of March 28 to April 3 has been named Severe Weather Awareness Week by L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County executive.

Throughout the week, the county will be engaged in various public education efforts to help citizens and visitors prepare themselves and their families to minimize the loss of life and destruction of property that can result from severe weather.

Additionally, there will be a special test of the tornado warning siren system March 30 at 1 p.m.

Local groups sponsor respect week

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Members of the Northville Youth and Family Forum won't have any idea if a project they're engaging in next week will be a success.

But Mary Ellen King, co-chair of the forum, said people will only know in their hearts if the program's successful.

Next week has officially been adopted as Respect Week by the city of Northville city council, the Northville Township board of trustees and the Northville school board.

The purpose of the week is to encourage all people to focus on the need to show respect to each other. The week focuses on all ages.

"It has to be the entire community that takes this on," King said.

King said measuring the success of what she hopes will be an annual event is difficult.

"We may not know if it's successful. But if one person treats someone else with respect we'll feel like it's a success."

Mary Ellen King

"We may not know if it's successful," she said. "But if one person treats someone else with respect we'll feel like it's a success."

Various organizations will be participating in the week.

Rev. Neil Ellison of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church sent a letter to area churches requesting pastors to bring a message to church March 21 of showing respect in the family setting or how Christians should treat each other with love and respect.

Additionally, here's what Northville schools are planning for the week:

Amerman Elementary - Respect week will be highlighted on the public address system. Additionally, teachers are requested to write positive referrals on students that respect one another.

Moraine Elementary - Students and staff will tie in the school's March theme of nonviolence with the week. Additionally, the definition of respect will be reviewed and respect will be part of the Constitutional Moment on Tuesday and Thursday.

Silver Springs Elementary - Five students will be recognized on the public address system who demonstrate respect toward another person or taken responsibility beyond what's expected.

Thornton Creek Elementary - Students and staff will discuss the issue of respect in classrooms.

Winchester Elementary - Staff will continue to show a respect video created by the school's special area teachers.

Cooke Middle School - Speakers will be in various classrooms discussing respect and diversity in the afternoon on March 26.

Meads Mill Middle School - Assemblies dealing with self-improvement and diversity will be held. Also, teachers will eat lunch with students in an effort to model respect.

Northville High School - The peer mediation team will introduce its Speak Up program during Respect Week. With the program, students will discuss any given topic during their sixth hour seminar block. To start off Speak Up, students will spend March 23 and 25 defining and discussing respect.

Additionally, the PTA council will address the theme of respect at its March 25 meeting from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. More information may be obtained about the PTA council by calling (248) 349-1565.

Hundreds of interested people turned out for last year's "Taste of Northville" celebration, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber of Commerce hosts annual Taste of Northville celebration

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The show is about to begin.

The curtain for the 10th Annual Taste of Northville Business Showcase is about to lift, revealing the theme for this year's best-of smorgasbord of area businesses and restaurants: "A Night At The Movies."

Northville Chamber of Commerce director Laurie Marrs said the annual exposition of city and township retail and commercial establishments has proven itself to be a great way for families and businesspeople to get to know the communities in which they do business.

And, she said, the cinematic theme to this year's installment is turning those involved into Steven Spielberg clones.

"People are really letting the creative juices flow," Marrs said. "They're definitely having a lot of fun with the theme this year."

Marrs said each business is borrowing on a Hollywood production and creating a display booth based around a film. More than just sly references to the silver screen, though, Marrs said the Showcase has been an effective link among businesses.

Awards are given to the best restaurant and best business displays. Last year's winners were Sizzling Sticks and Margo's of Northville, respectively.

Margo Kramar, owner of Margo's of Northville, said the only problem — if it could be called that — experienced by her business last year were the crowds which crammed in around her booth all night long.

"The response we had was wonderful," Kramar said. "We enjoyed a phenomenal amount of new and additional business because of it. We're really looking forward to it again this year."

Kramar also said the show gave her a rare chance to get up close to her business neighbors.

"I don't get a chance to get out all that often — it was nice being able to see who else operates in town," she said.

Kramar's beliefs spilled over into many other businesses in Northville and Northville Township, Marrs said.

"I've talked to many businesses in the community, and many of them tell me the Showcase is the single best way for them to network," she said. "They tell me that they might find a company in town they didn't know existed and form a great partnership with each other because of it."

But it's not just the business folk that the show caters to. Marrs said the Showcase also is one of the prime opportunities for families to see what their towns have to offer.

"There's definitely something for everyone there," Marrs said. "It's an opportunity for people to come out, see what's in town, and stuff themselves silly with food in the process."

Entertainment will also be provided in the form of appearances by Elvis and other stars, Marrs said. A demonstration on swing dancing would also be taking place throughout the three-hour gala, she said.

"It's a great time for everyone who comes out," Marrs said. "We expect it will be very well-attended, as it's been every year."

The Taste of Northville Business Showcase runs from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. March 23 at the Northville Community Center. Admission is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors and $3 for children under age 12. For more information, call the chamber at (248) 349-7640.

Courts use tethers to curb domestic violence

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Staff Writer

The courts have a new weapon in their arsenal for the war against domestic violence.

For the first time ever, a man sentenced for domestic violence will have a "satellite tether" placed on his ankle to make sure he stays far away from his victim. A "satellite tether" is an ankle tether placed on a person convicted of a crime that transmits radio signals to orbiting satellites which are used to track his movements.

Judge Brian MacKenzie ordered the satellite tether for Charles Tester, a Milford resident, at his sentencing for domestic violence and drunk driving recently.

According to George Miller, manager for Oakland County Community Correctional Division, the satellite tether was placed around Tester's ankle. The tether transmits a radio signal to a handheld receiver Tester must carry with him or keep within 150 feet at all times. If the signal is interrupted, a "violation" is relayed to the satellite.

The handheld receiver sends Tester's position to an orbiting satellite and the satellite in turn continuously beams his position to House Arrest, an East-pointe company that monitors the signal, and Pro Tech, a Florida company that designed the tether and serves as the back-up monitoring station.

Using a GIS mapping program, House Arrest can pinpoint Tester's exact location. If he enters certain "hot zones" — areas the court has ordered him to avoid, such as the vicinity of his victim's home — a signal is sent to Tester's handheld receiver telling him to leave the area immediately.

"This thing is so high tech that when Mr. Tester is driving his car, we will know how fast he is driving," Miller said.

Local police and Tester's victim are also notified of Tester's presence if he enters a "hot zone." If he does not leave the area, he will immediately be arrested.

An added bonus to this high tech system, Miller said, is it does not cost Oakland County a dime to run.

The defendant pays $15.50 a day. This money comes out of the defendant's pocket," Miller said. Currently, Oakland County pays $78 a day to house a prisoner. With this system there is no cost to the county, Miller said. "It's a great trade-off."

Currently, the system can track a tethered person anywhere in the United States. Officials are hoping to expand this in the future by including GIS maps of Canada.

Tester was chosen to be the first to be fitted with this new technology due to an extensively violent past with girlfriends, MacKenzie said.

Tester was being sentenced Friday for attacking his girlfriend with a baseball bat. She escaped him and reported the incident to the Milford police. Tester also has a previous conviction for domestic violence.

MacKenzie said at sentencing that Tester's past has shown he is not afraid to go to jail and that he will continue to beat up his former girlfriend.

"You have a criminal history that starts in 1992. You have an alcohol addiction problem. You are violent. You don't follow the law, you think it doesn't apply to you," MacKenzie said to Tester at sentencing.

The judge sentenced Tester to 90 days in jail and 2-years of probation. Having served 30 days already, Tester will spend 60 days in jail, after which his movements will be tracked by the monitor.

MacKenzie also ordered him to go to domestic violence and alcohol abuse counseling and get a job. In addition, MacKenzie ordered Tester to have the satellite tether placed on him and to never set foot in the Village of Milford, Township of Milford and certain areas of Jackson, in order to protect Tester's ex-girlfriend from further attacks.

"I want you to be clear you are going to do precisely what I order," MacKenzie said to Tester. "If you do not obey me, some of those felony times you did will seem real short."

To further explain how serious domestic violence is, MacKenzie referred to Tester's young daughter from a relationship with a previous girlfriend and said, "How are you going to feel when your daughter comes home at 21 with an engagement ring and a black eye?"

Tester's only comment was, "I wouldn't like that."

Tester's victim, Theresa, said while she knows he will come after her again, she does feel a lot safer because of the satellite tether.

"No matter where he goes, they will know," she said.

Northville DDA approves recruiting and retention plan

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The Northville Downtown Development Authority always has been a "bricks and mortar" kind of committee.

With a project the authority has been working on for about three years and was recently put in place though, the committee has refined its role.

The project is the downtown development authority's retail retention and recruitment strategy. The downtown development authority recently approved the initial phases of the plan.

"The idea is to get the downtown development authority into economic aspect of development as well as the bricks and mortar aspects," said Chris Johnson, Northville mayor and chairman of the downtown development authority.

The group has been working on a recruitment and retention plan for the last three years with hopes of bringing new business to Northville, Johnson said.

Even more important, he said, is working with existing businesses to make sure they stay in Northville.

"Businesses like Gardenviews and the Stampeddler probably get asked once a week if they want "Businesses like Gardenviews and the Stampeddler probably get asked once a week if they want to move here or there."

Chris Johnson
Northville mayor

to move here or there," Johnson said. "So we have to work to make sure they don't take those offers up."

The downtown development authority's first three steps to the plan are to assemble information packets for both kinds of business.

The first part of the almost $20,000 plan the downtown development authority is working on involves developing "tools for successful recruitment." This includes developing a marketing and recruitment packet that will be sent to prospective new businesses.

The packet will include: an overview of Northville and specifics of the downtown; a copy of the market information provided by the Gibbs/Green report; a profile of available buildings; a copy of a downtown brochure; information on financial incentives; and testimonials from local business owners.

The goal of the packet, according to a report by the downtown development authority, would be to "entice business owners, currently in the downtown and prospects, to further invest in and enhance the downtown." The estimated cost of the packet would be about $6,000.

The second part of the plan is to put together a clustering or placement plan. Clustering groups allows a certain mix of business to benefit from each other's sales, customers and market.

According to the development authority's report, a clustering plan would provide a blueprint for where various types of uses would be located within the downtown. For example, the businesses surrounding Arbor Drugs in Northville.

The final part of the initial stages of the plan is to develop a comprehensive database of all the buildings and vacant parcels in the downtown. The database will include such information as: rent prices; selling prices of property; infrastructure; parking; taxes.

"We're not trying to take the place of any other agency with this plan," Johnson said. "But want to facilitate any businesses that would need this information."

Free bus service offered at job fair

Free shuttle bus service will be available to those attending the Job Fair sponsored by the HomeTown/Observer & Eccentric Newspapers on Wednesday, March 24, at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

The 18-seater shuttle bus will run in a continuous loop from Madonna University, located on the corner of Schoolcraft and Levan roads, to Laurel Manor, located on Schoolcraft Road, just south of I-96. Job fair attendees who wish to catch the shuttle bus will be able to park for free at Madonna University's southeast corner parking lot and board the bus.

The bus will make a complete loop every 15 minutes. This service is available from noon until 5 p.m. on the day of the job fair. Job fair hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"Due to the overwhelming success of our September 1998 Job Fair, we realized that a shuttle bus service was needed in order to grow this event," said Grace Perry, publisher of HomeTown Newspapers' Wayne-Oakland editions. "We anticipate an even larger attendance at the March Job fair, and the shuttle bus service should help us realize that goal. We hope that those who come to the job fair and find limited parking at Laurel Manor, will drive one mile to Madonna University and catch the free shuttle."

This free shuttle bus service is provided courtesy of the City of Livonia Community Transit. Project Coordinator Kurt Sonoras from the City of Livonia Community Transit Service says this new service of the city was created through a federal grant, in cooperation with SMART, to provide an alternative method of transportation within city limits to residents of Livonia.

They provide curbside pickup, and need a 24-hour advance registration since they do not have scheduled routes. Fare is $2 each way. Pickups are available Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. For more information on this service, contact Kurt Sonoras at the City of Livonia, (734) 466-2700.

HomeTown Newspapers publishes papers in Novi, Northville, South Lyon, Brighton, Northville, Milford and Livingston County.

Recall effort could be time consuming

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

If the members of Families For A Better Northville decide to move forward with their recall effort, they'd better be prepared for a lot of paperwork.

That, and paying careful attention to the calendar.

State elections bureau spokesperson Bradley Wittman said the road to recall is long and winding, but processes involved are spelled out very specifically in election law.

The first step in the recall, Wittman said, is for the party seeking a recall — in this case, Families — needs to submit to the Wayne County clerk the language it intends to use in a recall election. The wording of the recall is reviewed within 10 to 20 days by the county's clerk, chief of probate and county treasurer. Their job is to verify the clarity of the language.

"It has nothing to do with the propriety of the recall," Wittman said. "That's strictly a political question."

Should the clerk, chief of probate and treasurer determine the language is invalid, Families can take the language to the state Court of Appeals or submit a newly-worded proposal for review, Wittman said.

Assuming the language gets out of review, Families would then need to garner the signatures of one-fourth the number of persons who cast ballots in the most recent gubernatorial election, Wittman said. For Families, that number would amount to 2,008 signatures required. And if those signatures are obtained, they go back to the county clerk — this time for authentication.

"There's a 35-day calendar of events that the petition goes through that the clerk helps oversee," Wittman said.

The first seven days are designated for the county clerk to review the petition's signatures to discount those which are illegible or potentially fraudulent. Days eight through 21 are set aside for the clerk to validate the voting status of the persons listed on the petition, Wittman said.

"The clerk has to make sure that those people who signed, saying they voted in the last election for governor, actually did so," he said.

During days 22 through 30, those elected officials being singled out for recall have the opportunity to challenge signatures on the petition. The remaining days are specified for the clerk to resolve any outstanding issues or questions and make a formal public announcement about whether or not the recall election is on, Wittman said.

If the election is given the go-ahead, an election must be scheduled within 60 days after the clerk's announcement. A simple majority — 50 percent plus one vote — is needed to remove a township official from office. Once the election is validated by the county board of canvassers, the official is removed from power.

Wittman said statistics were not maintained by the state regarding the percentage of recall efforts which succeeded or failed in their attempts.

RECALL Q&A

Here are a few questions and answers about township recall elections:

Q: Does the party sponsoring the recall election need to provide candidates of its own as opposition to the up-for-recall trustees?

A: No. The recall election itself only asks the question if a sitting elected official should be removed from office. A simple majority — 50 percent plus one vote — determines the fate of the official. If the official is removed, a second election is scheduled a few weeks later to fill the vacancies created.

Q: Can a recalled official run for election in the follow-up balloting?

A: Yes and no. Elections rules state that a trustee may not run for the office he or she was removed from. However, if multiple officials are recalled, they are permitted to run for each other's seats.

Q: Clerks of township are elected positions. If Northville Township clerk Sue Hillebrand is up for recall, who would run the recall election?

A: If the election was approved to be placed on the ballot, county officials would be assigned to run the election. Hillebrand would step aside during election proceedings.

A Special Day of Basketball

Area Special Olympians meet at Northville High School for a day of basketball and comraderie.

Dozens of Special Olympian teams from the metro-Detroit area gathered at Northville High on the first Saturday of March for a day of competition and fun. The event was hosted by the school, its athletic office and had many student volunteers from the National Honor Society manning scorer's tables.

Born to shop: retailer loves foraging for merchandise

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Anna Carlesco describes herself as a shopaholic.

But rather than kick her addiction, she's indulging it.

Fourteen months ago, she and her daughter Vicky opened their own store, Fabulous Finds. Antiques and Modern Oddities, a mixture of antiques, resale, new items and crafts.

"I feel the Oddities would cover anything. If we find a cow, we'd say, 'that's an oddity,'" Carlesco said.

"Most of the stuff we buy, we like it ourselves. Obviously, the store is not for everyone."

Once Carlesco's jaunts to yard and estates sales filled her own home to capacity, she decided it was time to go into business.

Her stock ranges from Chinese knock-offs of tiny Limoges boxes for $3 to a Fiesta ware vase for $700 that Carlesco says has a book price of $1,200. About half of the merchandise is new and Carlesco strives to keep prices lower than typical for a gift shop.

"I want value for my dollar. I don't want to pay more than it's worth. I have a good eye for artistic items, things that will make a house," she said.

"Even if the price is low, it can still be unique. You can put in the right display by combining things."

Special corners are set aside for Oriental decorative items, Southwestern style and objets de Country. Hot selling items include boudoir lamps, candlestick holders and angels.

Carlesco likes music boxes and her shop has plenty of them, including a bust of Beethoven that plays a wedding march.

She finds that she fills a special niche in Novi, which is mainly known for chain store retailing opportunities.

"If it doesn't do well here, I'm going to have to take it to Northville. Novi doesn't have a cute store. All it has is the mall," she said.

Carlesco's a native of Puggle, on Italy's Adriatic coast and lived in South America before arriving on these shores. Her husband, Douglas, a former U.S. Air Force B-52 pilot, and son, Chris, pitch in with the shop when they have time. As a military family, they were constantly on the move through the U.S. and even Guam, but settled in Michigan in 1978.

With her own experience of buying and selling homes, Carlesco decided to become a Realtor. She's still in that business, too, but finds running a shop more relaxing.

"It's not a life and death situation. They tell you about their headaches, they tell you about your family. It's kind of fun," Carlesco said.

"You have a very good human interaction. They're like your buddies who come to the store."

Her storeroom is crammed with items awaiting a chance on the shelves. Some 30 new items make an appearance daily, Carlesco said.

"I've been told by people who come into the store that it takes three times around to find everything," she added.

Every spare moment, she's out looking for new stuff. Come summer, she'll be at garage and estate sales at 7 a.m.

"If you're not there in the first 15 to 20 minutes, there's nothing there anyway," she explained.

"My car is constantly packed. I look like Mrs. Santa Claus."

Her own collections include

1950s aluminum Christmas trees and anything Art Deco.

Carlesco said one of her biggest challenges is getting the word out about her store. She's concerned about the visibility of the Peachtree Plaza location.

Because of local sign ordinances, you won't see Fabulous Finds advertised in front of the Meadowbrook Road shopping center.

"As far as traffic, we have no exposure whatsoever," Carlesco said.

"The city should be concerned about the little guys like us. They should help us with signs. They told us we can't put a sign on the front. How are they going to know you're here?"

Meanwhile, word's getting out as customers tell their friends about Fabulous Finds.

"You can use it as a gift shop for all the odd-ball people," Carlesco said.

Fabulous Finds is in the Peachtree Shopping Plaza on the west side of Meadowbrook Road, just south of Ten Mile Road. Hours are: Mondays, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Closed Sunday

Some historical tidbits:

The Northville Woman's Club is one of the oldest clubs in Northville. In 1892, a group of women organized the club under the leadership of Lucy Stout Dowd who was elected the first president. The group met in different homes and started with the study of lives and works of some of the prominent authors along with discussion of current events.

In 1926, the Rotary International granted Northville a charter which was presented at a memorable banquet held in the high school gymnasium. The first meetings were held in the Park House Hotel, a frame building located on the southwest corner of Main and Center streets. The first participation by the club in a community activity was having a float in the Centennial parade of 1927.

Novi planners OK zoning changes

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Staff Writer

In effort to provide "appropriate" zoning for Novi senior housing, the Novi Planning Commission gave a positive recommendation March 3 to zoning text changes in multi-family housing areas.

The proposal amends the definition of "density," adds a definition of "net site area," includes shared elderly housing as a principal permitted use and includes independent and congregate elderly living.

The proposal also amends the RM-1 Multifamily Residential District to change height, density and area requirements to "provide minimum floor area requirements for an efficiency room in a RM-1 unit" and amends the dwelling unit density regulation.

"The intent of this amendment is to clean up items in the ordinance and address ordinance needs for senior housing," Planning Consultant Rod Arroyo said. "There have been several senior housing projects coming through and almost all of them are going to require a trip to the Zoning Board because of the current ordinance."

The amendment passed 7-1, with Planning Commissioner Karen Piccinini dissenting. She said she could not vote for it because of the number of equations used in the amendment, making it confusing.

"As we had it, it was much more simpler without all these crazy numbers. I know we have talked about making things easier to understand. This has way too much calculation," she said.

The Novi City Council OK'd a first reading of the zoning text amendment on Monday.

While they may have voted in favor of the proposal, other commissioners had various concerns and questions about the amendment.

Commissioner Robert Churella said he was concerned about the proposal's requirements for a apartment to have at least one living room and one bedroom.

He said the wording could mean a developer could design an apartment with just one living room and one bedroom, leaving only a common kitchen and bathroom.

Commissioner Andrew Mutch said he was concerned over the setback requirements from residential.

Mutch asked why the setback requirements for senior housing was only 50 feet while other types of housing are 75 feet.

Arroyo responded the setback actually gives more footage than office-type developments.

Among others, this zoning text amendment gives a definition of "density" as meaning "the total number of dwelling units that may be placed on an acre of the net site area."

The ordinance amendment also lists the definition of "net site area" as an "area of land excluding identified wetlands or watercourses which are regulated...but not excluding quality wetland less than two acres ..."

The proposal will now go before the Novi City Council for final approval.

Township officials claim steep tap fees are necessary

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Are the sewer and water tap fees for new construction in Northville Township too steep?

Township authorities addressed that question last week, in the wake of the recent controversy surrounding the township charging the Northville Public School District close to $400,000 to connect to the township's water and sewer lines.

Township trustee Mark Abbo and township public services director Don Weaver spoke to the Record via conference call last week. Both said that while the township's water and sewer tap-in costs were steep, the fees are necessary to counter the township's debt incurred by joining the Wayne Township Utilities Authority.

The township's two options in taking in water and sewer-related revenue are to modify the rates for amount of water consumed or sewage disposed of, or to modify the rates for tapping into the water and sewer network.

The township learned it would take on a $30 million debt when past township leadership opted to join the utility consortium in the early 1990s, Abbo said.

Prior board members believed that WTUA membership would provide for cleaner water and give greater opportunity for utility expansion in the future, he said.

Before signing on with WTUA, the township had a fund balance hovering around $10 million. Since that time, WTUA membership has eaten away at the balance at a steady rate. Current financial models suggest the township's fund balance might drop below $500,000 within five years' time, Abbo said.

To help maintain financial health, Abbo said the township has held the philosophy that new development in Northville Township should bear the brunt of the blow for adding to the township's water system.

"We've operated under the belief that the expansion should pay for the costs, since they're the ones that are benefiting most in the long run," Abbo said. "We've managed our fee structure so that when we come that point in time when debt requirements kick in, we're not left with a huge hole and have to hit our residents with a gigantic (water and sewer rate) increase," Abbo said. When you have to raise $30 million, the question remains — how are you going to get it?"

Weaver said that because the township had almost zero large-volume water users, the cost differential needed to be made up in the tap-ins. One of the few larger-size businesses in the township, OIS Optical Imaging Systems, didn't fall under the heading of "big-volume user" in Weaver's mind.

OIS was lured to the township, in part, with a township tax abatement. But the manufacturer of military aircraft display panels needed was just one of a host of businesses Wayne County hoped to bring to the former county property in a planned unit development, Weaver said.

As such, the township paid $400,000 for a water line to be installed along Six Mile Road, which effectively looped the water system in the PUD, Weaver said.

"Certainly, OIS prompted that decision, but we considered the future development which we anticipated going in there, as well," Weaver said.

As a matter of practice, the township seeks to loop its water systems whenever possible.

Sanitary sewer installation was also necessary for OIS. A township report obtained under the Freedom of Information Act indicated the township contracted with Wayne County for a $73,000 fee to oversee the sewer project.

The report also said OIS was charged $104,000 for sewer and water connection fees, based on the 1993 fee schedule. The memorandum also indicated that the same project, under the fee schedule established in 1998, would have been priced $182,000. The costs were calculated based on an assumption that OIS would have used the same amount of water as 17.3 single-family homes.

The memo went on to say that the new Northville High School — a structure using 39 single-family homes' worth of water — would have been charged $183,000 based on 1993 fees.

Based on office space, "clean room" area and test and assembly rooms, OIS had a total of 108,000 square feet of area.

The establishment of the fee schedule, Weaver said, was made several years ago after Oakland County authorities performed a study to compare water usage by buildings and businesses of various sizes to that of a standard residence.

"In the case of (the new Northville High School), the structure of the fee schedule was very clear," Weaver said. "It was the same with OIS."

Once sewer and water lines are installed, Weaver said it became the township's responsibility to maintain and monitor them.

When asked if the township's fee schedule for tap-ins could be considered excessive when compared to other communities, Abbo said making cross-community comparisons was a tricky thing to do.

"Every community is unique," Abbo said. "Each community has a different set of circumstances which can affect the rates they charge. Regardless of what other communities might be doing, we still have a huge debt to pay."

Neither Abbo nor Weaver said they had heard anything relating to displeasure with tap-in rates, nor had they been presented with proposals to modify the rate structure.

"If anyone believes our methodology or costs are unfair in this, they should bring them to our attention," Abbo said. "They should ask if something can be done. The township is very good at evaluating individual circum-

Sieggreen named teacher of the year

Sieggreen's science students are exposed to many species of exotic animals in room 15 of Cooke Middle School: boa and anaconda snakes; talking birds; tree frogs; and alligators.

And those are just the creatures that are alive.

"This is a life science class so it only makes sense to have life in the class," Sieggreen said.

He lives in Northville with his wife Mary and has two daughters.

Sieggreen started in Northville at Standish Elementary School in 1969 and since has taught at Moraine Elementary School, Silver Springs Elementary School, Meads Mill Middle School and has been at Cooke since 1990.

He received his bachelor of arts degree from Wayne State University and master of arts degree from Eastern Michigan University. He has done post masters work with Eastern, the University of California at Berkeley, The Colorado School of Mines, the State University of New York at Brockport, and the University of Idaho.

Additionally, Sieggreen has won many awards including: the National Science Teachers Association Most Distinguished Science Teaching Award in 1997; the National Presidential Award for Excellence in Science Teaching in 1992; National Chemical Manufacturers Catalyst Award in 1996; Michigan Science Teacher of the Year in 1987.

Sieggreen also is a member of more than 25 professional organizations such as the National Education Association, the National Middle Level Science Teachers Association and The Planetary Society.

Additionally, Sieggreen has won about 40 awards and grants during his career including the most recent Newsweek/WDIV award.

"I feel lucky because there are a lot of good teachers out there," he said.

The best part about winning such awards, Sieggreen said, isn't the reception dinner that will be held May 12 or the special Newsweek cover he'll be featured on, but the cash that he receives. With this award he'll receive $2,000.

But Sieggreen said the money won't go into his savings account, it'll be used to maintain some of the many projects that surround his classroom.

"We get a certain amount from the school board," he said. "But our costs go above and beyond what they provide so when we can get money from outside sources it helps."

Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent of the Northville school district, said the Northville area is lucky to have Sieggreen as a teacher.

"He brings a sense of energy that epitomizes the science and art of teaching," he said. "Dwight is a good example of an educator who believes in, and lives, what he teaches."

New name selected for middle school

Stone Ridge because of a possible drug connotation.

However, Thomas Gudritz, president of the board of education, was absent from the vote for the new school name but sent a written message to the school board indicating his preference for Stone Ridge.

Additionally, school board members said they didn't like Northville Middle School because there are two middle schools in the city.

"I liked Northville Middle School," said Lance Dehne, a seventh grader at Cooke. "I like it because it's just like the high school. I don't really like Hillside."

Diane Houren, president of the Cooke Middle School parent teacher student organization, said now that the name of the next middle school's been chosen marketing can begin.

"We can make and finalize plans to sell Hillside's name now," she said. "We are definitely moving in a positive direction."

Not everyone is happy with the new name.

"Personally I like Stone Ridge," said Jodi Matley, a Cooke Middle School mother. "Hillside seems real common."

Recall group set for public meeting

immediate cessation of the lawsuit, as well as:

- A reduction in water and sewer tap-in fees in the township;
- The hiring of a full-time township manager to oversee the day-to-day business of the township; and;
- An investigation into a possible conflict of interest by township supervisor Karen Woodside in her dual roles as both an appellate court prosecutor for Wayne County and as supervisor.

The state attorney general's office said that without knowing all the specifics regarding Woodside's situation, that it wouldn't appear as if such a conflict existed.

"Typically, it comes down to a question of the relationship between the two positions," state attorney general spokesperson Chris Dewitt said. "In this case, I don't know as there's that tight a link between being a prosecutor and being township supervisor."

Signs promoting the rally dotted portions of both the city of Northville and Northville Township this week, encouraging residents to join the group in making its collective voice heard by the board.

Scott Wilson, another face in Families, said that he strongly hoped that the township went into closed session to discuss dropping the litigation prior to the scheduled 7:30 p.m. start time of the general meeting.

But while the Families were waiting to find out what the township would do with the lawsuit, Wilson said Families were in the process of finalizing ballot language for a recall effort, should the litigation not be dropped by 8 a.m. Friday.

"This is not an ultimatum technique at all," Wilson said. "The litigation has gone on for 10 months, in which time the school district has complied with over 80 demands. The recall is a last resort after months of unsuccessful negotiations have taken place."

If the litigation was dropped, Wilson said the other items on Families' laundry list of concerns would be dropped in response. However, if the litigation wasn't dropped, more demands could be added.

"The same people who support all the millage increases, the school bond, the Victorian Festival, Fourth of July events and parks and recreation are now the same people who are saying 'Enough is enough'," Wilson said. "Time has run out on tolerating the continual spending of taxpayers' money suing ourselves."

Clock adds elegance to downtown helped bring the clock to town, it's like it was installed yesterday.

Former mayor Paul Vernon, now retired and living in the northern Lower Peninsula, said the clock was part of the original Main Street 1978 project, but took some extra time in bringing to the community because of safety concerns over the placement of the clock in the median.

Concerns, he said, which were deemed to be unwarranted after consulting with the Michigan State Police.

Vernon served as Northville's mayor for 10 years, starting in 1977. He retired to the north.

"The clock had always been a part of the restoration of downtown Northville, but it was originally going to be two-sided," Vernon said.

But Vernon's wife, Norma, a member of the Northville beautification commission, wasn't happy with having a clock face on only two sides.

Deciding that having a face on four sides was better than just two, Vernon said his wife helped spearhead a movement to collect $1,000 contributions from community members to help make the clock symmetrical on four sides.

"She really deserves most of the credit for the clock," Vernon said, adding that stories which ran in the Northville Record about the clock made few mentions of her work in helping bringing the timepiece into being.

In total, $17,000 in donations were secured. The names of those who made contributions are inscribed on the clock.

Two other major helpers in making the clock sound as good as it looked were Louise and Ebbie Whittington, now relocated elsewhere in suburban Detroit. Vernon said those two helped get musical speakers installed inside the clock.

"They really wanted to make the clock something special," Norma Vernon said.

The spot in which the clock was ultimately placed had been mapped out for something very similar to a clock some years prior to the start of the Main Street 1978 program. Vernon said drawings made by students of the late Northville High School drafting instructor Arnold Anderson included a fountain where the clock is now.

"If you look at those old sketches, it's remarkable how close the drawings and how the street ultimately turned out are," Vernon said. "It's simply amazing when you put the two side-by-side."

Vernon said that for those who believed strongly in the streetscape project, the clock was a focal point for the makeover.

"The clock was one of those things that we thought was the nucleus of the downtown," he said, adding that the across-the-street gazebo was expanded in part because his wife felt that a larger bandshell would be a more attractive gathering spot in the downtown area.

Reconstruction work on Center Street begins

Gallogly said the project will be done in two phases. The first phase includes ripping up the west side of the road, then replacing the eight-inch water main along the road with a 12 inch pipe. The water main is part of a plan to get higher water pressure to the northeast section of Northville, Gallogly said. The sidewalks and road will then be completely replaced. That portion of the project should be completed in early May barring any disasters such as snow storms, Gallogly said.

The second phase of the project includes tearing up the east side of the road and replacing it. Since there isn't any water main projects there this portion of the project will take less time, Gallogly said.

The entire project should be done in early July, he said.

Additionally, during the project cars will be able to approach downtown Northville from the north, but will be detoured out of the city on Griswold Street.

"We want to get people to the businesses downtown, but once they get there they're going to have to find their own way out," Gallogly said.

LET'S TALK JEWELRY

WITH GARY S. WEINSTEIN GEMOLOGIST

EMERALD'S SISTER

Both emerald and mor-ganite are examples of the mineral beryl (beryllium aluminum silicate). While emerald derives its color from the presence of chromium and vanadium, mor-ganite is colored by manganese impurities. This gemstone, which was named after banker and gem enthusiast J. Pierpoint Morgan, is found in colors of pink, rose, peach and violet. As with aquamarine (another form of beryl), mor-ganite is dichroic, meaning that it either shows two shades of the body color or one shade and colorless. Another characteristic that it shares with its beryl siblings is its considerable hardness, 7 1/2 on Mohs scale. Unlike the more famous emerald and aquamarine, morganite's beauty is quite affordable.

Only an established, well inventoried jewelry store such as WEINSTEIN JEWELERS OF NOVI can provide you with the high quality showcases. If you don't see exactly what you are looking for, custom design is available. We are here at 41990 Grand River Ave. (248-347-0303) and open Tue. & Thurs. 10 a.m.-6 p.m., Wed. & Fri. 10 a.m.-8 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Most major credit cards accepted. Count on us for repairs of all kinds. We do rush and emergency repairs. We are "The name you know, the name you trust."

St. Patrick's Day is March 17th, to celebrate all jewelry with green stones are at least 20% off list price. Stop in and look around "McWeinsteins".

PS Beryl crystals, with exception of emerald, grow to sizes that can often be measured in pounds.

Tougher sentencing laws: redundant punishment?

The "crime of the week" is becoming a sad joke in the Michigan Legislature.

Latest entry is a pair of bills to add two years onto the prison sentence of a pedophile who uses Internet to prey on kids. "Get tough," say the news releases of publicity-hungry lawmakers. One suspects there are more "tough new laws" news releases than there are Bill/Monica jokes floating around the State Capitol lobby.

Let's talk sense. Crime is crime. Assaulting a child sexually is one of the more heinous crimes a human can commit. It deserves and usually gets a prison sentence along with lengthy exposure on the address list of sexual criminals.

But what makes using Internet an extra crime, worth an additional two years in prison? Why is that worth two years more than a male intruding into the bedroom of his ladyfriend's daughter?

What makes using Internet worth two years more than going into a park and dragging a kid into the bushes? What makes using Internet worth two years more than picking up and abusing a young hitchhiker?

What makes using Internet worse than using a standard telephone or writing a letter?

The Michigan Senate rushed to the job for publicity purposes. The phenomenon of attacking children sexually has been around for thousands of years. Internet is just a few years old. It's a hotter topic at suburban cocktail parties than the U.S. Postal Service, the telegraph or two tin cans and a string.

"If you are a sexual predator using the Internet, we are going to find you, we are going to get you, and we are going to put you in jail," said Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton, sponsor of SB 7 defining the crime. Why not just nail all predators regardless of how they approach a kid?

Michigan does have a law tacking two years onto a criminal's sentence if he uses a gun in committing a crime. That makes sense. Guns are more effective tools of death than fists, brass knuckles and even knives.

But Internet? If Senate Bills 7 and 217 become law, they will just take up space in the statute books.

It was ironic that the Senate acted within a week after some of its members bawled out budget director Mary Lannoye for giving the Department of Corrections (prisons) an 8.6 percent increase while higher education was getting half that percentage. Senators wanted to know, Why? The answer is that every new crime is greeted with the bleating legislative response of "tough new laws" and "tougher penalties."

Here's a question for Sens. Rogers and his pal, George Z. Hart, D-Deerborn, sponsor of SB 217: What are you doing to make sure we catch those predators? Are more law enforcement people being hired to police the Internet? Are more prosecutors being added to assemble the burden of proof in an Internet case?

Or are you just hiring more publicists to prepare more news releases about redundant punishments?

Genetic testing: a problem looming on the horizon

The problem hasn't arrived yet, but we hope Michigan legislators act before it does.

The problem is genetic testing. It's a tool science can use to learn your hereditary makeup and warn you and your spouse about dangers to your future children. That's good if you want to know about potential deformities in advance.

It's also a tool employers and insurers could use to disqualify you for a job and health insurance. That's bad. Suppose a 22-year-old shows a propensity to develop a serious heart problem at age 45. Should that person be thrown on the social scrap heap with no job and no insurance for 20 years? That's not fair. Already companies are throwing too many middle-aged workers to the wolves in the name of "rightsizing."

Finally, genetic testing is a tool police can use and misuse. Michigan law, and the laws of 49 other states, already permit the genetic testing of those convicted of sex crimes. That's fair.

But some police would like to test everyone arrested for anything. That's unfair and an intrusive invasion of privacy. Our state and U.S. constitutions prohibit warrantless searches of our persons, papers and property. Police shouldn't have free rein to take 100 cc. blood samples in order to search one's genetic history.

On this issue, Gov. John Engler has come down on the side of the angels: "Specifically, genetic testing must not be a precondition for obtaining health insurance. And genetic testing must not be allowed as precondition of employment." Suffering from a cold, Engler cut this and 13 paragraphs from his State of the State speech, but it's clear he stands by his printed text.

And so, a few weeks later, did his Michigan Commission on Genetic Privacy and Progress.

Group employer health insurance plans "generally do not require genetic testing or other forms of risk assessment of applicants," said the panel of health and legal experts.

One would think U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno might be constitutionally opposed to genetic testing. Not yet, we are sorry to say. Reno asked the National Commission on the Future of DNA Evidence to study the legality of taking DNA samples from everyone arrested instead of just convicted sex offenders and violent felons.

Once the federal recommendations are in, Michigan legislators will act in fall, according to Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, chair of the House Health Policy Committee. Law predicts Michigan and the feds will be on a collision course if Reno wants too broad a law for genetic testing.

"The 'brave new world' got here a lot quicker than we thought it would," said Barry Steinhardt, an American Civil Liberties Union critic of DNA testing. "It's part of our tendency as a society to look for a quick technological fix."

"Brave new world" is a term of irony, not a compliment. It was coined by Shakespeare in "The Tempest" to denote a pack of scamps and picked up by novelist Aldous Huxley to denote a rather bad new world. Another term would be "Police State."

On the political right, Pat Robertson takes an equally dim view of DNA probing. No genetic testing for jobs. No genetic testing for health insurance. Genetic testing only of convicted sex offenders. No unreasonable searches and seizures.

This is no backyard 'barbecue' group

Let me tell you a little bit about the group calling itself Families for a Better Northville.

They are not, as they have been categorized recently, a few malcontented residents who, within the past few weeks, hatched up a scheme to recall township trustees.

They are not, as they have also been described, a small group of trouble makers serving as lackeys for the Northville Public School District.

And they are definitely not, as some recent letter writers have labeled them, a group whose "...approach of trying to resolve these community problems is suspect at best, 'divisive' at worst."

No, let me tell you about this group, because it has become obvious to me that some of our readers — and letter writers, for that matter — have an extremely short memory.

Let me take you back to August of last year. That's about the time Jim Nield — yes, Jim Nield the guy who placed the "NO" signs before the last township millage election, and is married to Martha, who happens to sit on the school board — met with supervisor Karen Woodside in an attempt to mediate the disagreement between township and school district.

Then for the next eight months, this community "trouble-maker" mediated several secret meetings between several township trustees and school board members. Progress seemed to be ongoing and in October it looked as if a settlement would be reached.

Then suddenly the talks fell through. I have several opinions as to how that happened but they aren't important. What is important is that this community needs to know that when they read letters written by Woods of Edenderry residents claiming that this group has not researched and understood the issues, has not attended board meetings or asked questions of public officials, or have not offered alternate solutions, that those claims are pure fiction.

Yes, they are false. This group has spent the better part of eight months attempting to solve the problem, and what you readers need to know is that this is not just a backyard "barbecue" group that has given no thought to their actions. These are the same people who rallied support for the township's millage requests, the same people who spent countless months serving as design team members for the new Northville High School, the same people who made it possible for the current slate of trustees to be elected in the first place.

And they have every right to question the decisions of this board. Contrary to what some will tell you, this group has spent the better part of a year trying every conceivable method to end the DIVISIVENESS, to end the quarreling, to put an end to this sorry chapter in our community's history.

I, for one, applaud their efforts. By asking the community to show up to a township board meeting to debate the merits of this wasteful lawsuit, Families for a Better Northville has managed to do what I, and this newspaper, have been unable to do — rally the community so that positive change can take place.

Regardless as to what these detractors tell you, you need only remember this: It was the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who started this chain of events. It was the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who saw their lawsuit fall in court twice. It is the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who continue to force the expenditure of taxdollars.

And for what? By the time this case comes to its unhappy end, the school will already be built.

It is the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who have created this divisiveness, not this group of citizens who are daring to challenge the decisions made by those trustees.

It is the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who have failed to act in good faith, and it is the TOWNSHIP board of trustees who should be held accountable for those actions.

Plenty has been said about this controversial issue the past few months. And it is because we embrace the belief of free speech for a free society, that we encourage you to attend tonight's township meeting.

We need to put an end to this madness, and move on to other things that will ensure our community's prosperity.

Thoughts and random observations

More thoughts and random observations on life...

• This job can be emotionally trying at times, but when I have the chance to give a tour of the Northville Record/Novi News office to community groups, I come away with a sense of renewal. Such was the case when a pack of Cub Scouts and Tiger Cubs came through the office a few weeks back. If your group has an interest in seeing the paper in action, give me a call. I'd be happy to accommodate you.

• After covering this wonderful recall effort/township v. school board lawsuit issue, I'm more convinced than ever that people have forgotten that sitting down over a cup of coffee will solve more than any attorney ever could, and at a savings that will make your head spin.

We're living in one of the most litigious areas in Michigan. It's the easiest thing in the world these days to pick up the phone and send a lawyer out for someone if you don't like the way they're looking at you.

Hey — if someone's jerking your chain, talk to them about it. Save the lawyers for closing deals on homes or reading a will.

• I'm happy to hear Walled Lake school authorities have decided to keep the non-swastika symbol in the school, and even happier to hear the school has decided to place a plaque near the symbol giving an explanation of its existence.

I certainly sympathize with those who believe the bent cross to be a representation of something that it isn't, but misunderstanding and ignorance is no excuse for punishing near-political incorrectness. Education is the only way to combat the inevitable knee-jerk reactions. For what it's worth, while reviewing copies of the Northville Record from the 1920s, I came across an ad for a butchery, which was entirely framed in near-swastikas. If you want to accuse the district of insensitivity, then sign the paper up, too.

• A close friend of mine was asked to distribute pamphlet displays for a charity event benefiting the American Diabetes Association last week. The displays stood about 3 inches wide and 7 inches tall. There was no obligation requested on the part of the businesses, besides must keeping the display standing upright. (Gravity would take care of 99 percent of that task, too.)

So it amazed me at the number of big chain stores which told her that they couldn't allow her to set up the displays without first getting corporate approval. Is this a joke? Come on, franchises — it's high time you quit being so super-mega-ultra contentious of every minute detail and let non-profits like the ADA a few square inches of your space.

Oh, wait — how silly of me. That might mean competition for space for your in-store credit card displays. Just forget I even brought it up.

• Another excerpt from the Newbywed's Guide To Living: It's a great feeling to get caught by your wife drinking milk straight from the carton, and rather than being lambasted, be asked to pass it to her when you're done.

• It's nice to see spring start to show its face, if only a little bit. Yes, the nights are still chilly, and I haven't put away the snow shovel quite yet, but the hardware stores are getting lawnmowers and barbecues on the shelves. The four seasons truly are something special.

• Your days are numbered, Titanic fans. Star Wars Episode I: The Phantom Menace hits the screen in just eight more weeks. A friend of mine who has an intimate knowledge of the film industry tells me that this flick is going to force a reexamination of the term "blockbuster movie." I'd like to tell you I'll be at the theater on opening day, but from what I've heard, the first screenings is already sold out in many locations.

One thing is for absolute certain — Episode I won't be what I call "STV," or "straight to videocassette."

Campaign fund-raising is out of hand

I wasn't all that surprised when I got the fax from Jim Blanchard. "I thought long and hard about once again serving the people of Michigan in Washington but have decided not to seek election to the Senate for personal and professional reasons."

For months, Blanchard had been considering running against Republican freshman Sen. Spencer Abraham.

Like most potential candidates, Abraham has been working on fund-raising. Aiming at a $9 million war chest for his campaign, last week he raised $1 million at a single event in Livonia. But Abraham was widely regarded as vulnerable, especially to Blanchard, a skilled campaigner and still a popular former governor who served with distinction as ambassador to Canada.

Blanchard's departure from the race says more about the sad state to which our politics has descended than it does about Abraham's relative vulnerability. Over the weekend, Blanchard and I talked at length about his decision and about how the current state of politics affected it.

Power: "It seems as though state-of-the-art politics has turned into little more than an exercise in fund-raising."

Blanchard: "I'm afraid that's true. (U.S. Sen.) Carl Levin told me he went to 250 fund-raisers for his last campaign, and I know that I'd have to do something close to that if I decided to run. Politicians today tend to look at people as though they're walking wallets. It's gotten completely out of hand."

Power: "Moreover, the kind of mud-slinging and personal abuse would make anybody but the toughest flinch before getting into a big race."

Blanchard: "There's a rule of thumb in politics: You have to want to get elected to whatever office you're running for with every atom of your heart and every piece of your soul. If you have any hesitation at all, it's wise not to do it."

Power: "Campaigns used to be regarded as an opportunity for public debate about issues and a chance for people to show what they're like. Has that changed, too?"

Blanchard: "Entirely. I got into politics because of ideas and people. Ideas to help people. But people, especially, I love old-fashioned campaigning because it puts you directly in touch with people. Media campaigns are just the reverse. They take the candidate away from the people, and they're the main reason politics has gotten so expensive and requires so much fund raising."

Power: "So how are you going to contribute? Are you going to withdraw entirely from public service?"

Blanchard: "No. I'm going to be working hard to elect (Vice President Al) Gore. I can live a life of public service, accomplish a lot, have a lot of fun without all the invective and hate, without running for elective office."

Phil Power

That's why I took the job as ambassador, and that's why I wrote my book on that experience. I wanted to show young people it's still possible for folks to contribute to society in other ways than running for office."

Blanchard's answers to my questions - thoughtful, humane, practical - helped persuade me that his decision not to make the race for the Senate was the best decision for him ... and the worst outcome for the people of Michigan. Because, whether you're a Democrat or a Republican, people like Jim Blanchard are exactly the sort who should be making the race for significant office in our country.

No doubt the Democrats will come up with a credible candidate to run against Sen. Abraham. But the net effect of what has happened to our politics in recent years is to have deterred from running for public office precisely the kinds of able, effective, thoughtful and sane people who should be in positions of responsibility in a democracy. Sadly for the republic, the field is increasingly being left to the insecure and the egomaniacal, the wealthy and the celebrities with high name ID and the passionately ideological.

Is this why I'm not surprised Geoffrey Fieger is talking about running for the Senate?

Letters to the Editor

Letter writer claims letters were 'edited'

To the editor:

I would appreciate if you would quit editing my letters and publish them with the correct signature. Two times you have added "Planning Commission Chairman" after my name when these letters did not contain that notation and were not written on behalf of the commission. It is dishonest of you to imply that it was.

Jackson now uses the oldest trick in the books. When you will not debate the facts, attack the writer and try to discredit him with more concocted stories.

Here are the facts. State law permits industry to apply for property tax abatements. OIS applied and the board of trustees saw fit to grant it. There are no abatements for water and sewer taps. The township did install a water main on Six Mile (to service all projects in the area) that created a looped system which is necessary for adequate water flows for fire protection. This is the same water main that the new high school will tap into. Without it, the school would have had the very high expense of installing a 24-inch water main on Six Mile. A sanitary sewer was installed for OIS by Wayne County. There was zero expense to the township. The township did receive a small sewer cleaner at no cost.

SAD means Special Assessment District and taxes are assessed for the cost of improvements to all benefiting parties, 1 or 1000. They are not abated or cut rate. Anyone can petition for a SAD to obtain needed water and sewer. The costs go on the benefiting parties tax bill.

If you want the real facts The Record will not print regarding the cost of the school water/sewer tap fees and the real issues involved in the lawsuit, see the March 10 issue of the Community crier, pages 3 and 22.

If "Families for a Better Northville" put as much effort into trying to resolve the issues as they have in polarizing the community, this could have been resolved long ago. Negotiation is not a one sided event.

A prayer was offered in church Sunday asking for truth on both sides of this issue so that it may be brought to an end. Amen.

Richard E. Allen
Chairman
Township planning commission

EDITOR'S NOTE: As a point of clarification, it is the policy of this newspaper to identify public officials submitting letters to the editor. Because Mr. Allen sits as chairman of the Northville Township Planning Commission, he is considered a public official. In no way did this newspaper intimate that Mr. Allen's remarks are shared by the planning commission as a whole, or by individual commissioners, and we are in no way attempting to mislead readers in that regard.

Group doesn't represent community

To the editor:

Who is this self proclaimed group "Families For a Better Northville"? While they certainly are entitled to their opinions, and as you like to say it's still a free country, their approach of trying to resolve these community problems is suspect at best, "divisive" at worst. We are a bit surprised that your newspaper has not challenged them on their methods and last week, even supported their actions in an editorial.

Let's make sure we have this right. Any time we disagree with local government actions, we should demand that it immediately change its position or the elected officials will face a recall drive. This is how we should resolve our differences, correct? What about researching and understanding the issues, attending board meetings, asking questions of public officials, and offering alternative solutions? This group stated they were going to do some research - where is it? Nope, skip all the hard work and proceed directly to demands and threats. It is much simpler and easier that way.

The names of the two leaders of this group, Scott Wilson and Jim Nield, sound vaguely familiar. Where have we heard these names before? Wait a minute, hmmm, now we remember. We hope you don't mind if we throw a few facts around, as you say.

Nield's wife, Martha Nield, has served on the Northville School Board since 1994.

Last fall, Nield put up hundreds of signs in the middle of the night urging voters to vote against township millages to improve public safety, fund parks and rec activity, and purchase more parkland. (We guess "supporting a better township" and "being for the children" were not in vogue a few months ago.)

Wilson and Nield served as members of the new Northville High School design team.

Gosh, is it really a surprise to anyone that Nield and Wilson would be of the opinion that the township should drop its lawsuit against the school board. Again, these gentlemen are entitled to their opinion yet it is extremely difficult to believe that they are the voice of the community as they claim. It would appear this group is nothing more than a few people backing the school board. If they are truly representative of the community, how come they are not holding the school district accountable for its actions as well? Oops, we did not mean to imply criticism of the school district. We all know that is frowned upon in Northville.

What about the group's plans for a "public rally" at the township offices a half-hour before the township board meeting tonight? And then formally present their demands and threats to the township board. Who appointed this group judge and jury on these issues? It certainly was not this Northville family.

Eric and Laura Hanpeter

Soccer field light decision explained

To the editor:

I wish to expand upon your article regarding the lights for the new high school soccer field. The school board subcommittee used several factors beside cost to reach its recommendation March 2 to go with the conventional lighting system at a cost of $61,000.

'...what good can come from this commoner's request...'

To the editor:

Midnight. It is the third Wednesday of the month. Cloistered away in a small, dimly lit chamber deep within the township hall, the Northville Board of Trustees, the privileged class, are gathered to review the previous month's bills. As is the custom, two piles of invoices are stacked neatly in the center of the large mahogany conference table; one labeled "public" the other labeled "sacred." To one side of the stacks lay a letter from a common taxpayer seeking information about the township's attorney expenses. The silence of the scene is suddenly shattered by the roar of the supervisor, her Lordship, Karen Woodside.

"Who is this simple plebeian and why would he want such information. What good can come from this commoner's despicable request? Do not let the masses know that we are omnipotent and masters of the township?"

"Ah, your Lordship," speaks on timid trustee, "Perhaps he is seeking the cost of our legal fees in our battle with the educational foes over their new building of higher learning."

"Your Lordship," interjects trustee Henningsen, overseer of the purse, "Are we not to approve all the bills at tomorrow night's festivities. Heretofore, we have been blessed that no member of the citizenry has ever asked for anything from the 'sacred' pile. What are we to do?"

"Deny it!" shouts the supervisor, "The commoners must never know what we do." At this outburst from their leader, the rest of the privileged class cower to the corners of the chamber. Finally, from but of the shadows, trembling with fright, one trustee slowly comes forward and meekly asks: "Your Lordship, I am frightened. What if other plebeians seek similar information: will not our power wane?"

"Never" the supervisor screams. "Send the messengers to Edenderry Valley and have the peasants there write glowing letters of our virtue. Those commoners are so blinded by their ignorance they believe anything we say."

"But, but..." another trustee begins.

"Speak up, you sniveling idiot" interrupts the supervisor.

"I fear that the folk in the surrounding valleys are beginning to realize our dishonesty and deception."

End of Chapter One - the story will continue...

James M. Koster

Please cease the senseless litigation

To the editor:

My wife and I have the pleasure of serving on the New Northville High School Design Team and over the course of the process, attended many meetings as did township supervisor Woodside. Along with the other members of the team, we know what was said there, what decisions were made and why, and are well aware of the reasons that ninety-some changes were made to the design specifically at the request of the supervisor and the board of trustees. From Ms. Woodside's recent comments and actions which have brought about this litigation process and waste of the taxpayer's money, we believe that the citizens have been misled. It is time for the township board to realize this, cease this useless misadventure and stop the litigation.

The court system has firmly ruled against the township twice. It appears that our local state legislators have no interest in changing state laws that support the position of the school district. The township trustees have no legal basis to continue a lawsuit that should never have been filed. This entire pursuit is divisive to the future of Northville - all of it, the township and the city. Thursday's township meeting will be the last chance for our trustees to put an end to this and demonstrate the good judgment many thought they had when they were elected. They must do the right thing and immediately drop their litigation against

JOSEPH ZBIKOWSKI, M.D.

Former Northville resident Dr. Joseph Zbikowski died Feb. 24.

He was an Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church generous contributor to the building fund, outstanding radiologist, World War II veteran, and devoted husband to wife Julia, loving father of Mark (wife Carlene) and Susan Steinke (husband Bruce), proud grandfather of Jessica and Jeffrey, brother of Northville resident Dr. Zdzislaw Ted Zbikowski (wife Arlene) and Arlene Peterson (husband William).

"Dr. Joe," as he liked to be called, had a penchant for travel and world history. His hobby of photography came in handy for his travels and his fascination with family genealogy. He was a great storyteller.

He graduated from Wayne State college of medicine in 1944 and interned at Detroit Receiving Hospital. He then served as captain in the Army attached to the Air Force on Okinawa. Although World War II had ended in the Pacific theater, the Air Force remained on active status. He was assigned to run the medical clinic at the air base on Okinawa.

It was his responsibility to monitor the health of personnel stationed there. Most of the time, he performed like a family doctor in civilian life, but there were times when he had to care for airmen seriously injured while riding in heavy military trucks, whose weight triggered land mines.

Other times the large B-29 reconnaissance planes were involved in accidents causing injuries which required medical attention.

After he returned to civilian life, he began his radiology training at Eloise Hospital (later renamed Wayne County General Hospital). He became certified as a radiologist by the Specialty Board of Radiology. He was offered and accepted the position as head of the radiology department at Wayne County General, and the University of Michigan appointed him associate professor of radiology.

He made his radiology department at Wayne County General one of the most efficient and respected departments. He trained residents who also became board-certified radiologists. After 20 years of dedicated service, he retired from the hospital and joined his brothers in private practice of radiology, servicing the communities of Northville, Livonia, Farmington, Plymouth and Garden City. He fully retired in 1985.

Dr. Joe, you are missed by all who knew and loved you.

Letters to the Editor

the school district. It would be sad to see a recall of elected officials, but I, like many of my friends and neighbors, will work aggressively to see this to completion if it becomes necessary.

Edward G. Sarkisian D.D.S.

Writer apologizes for comments

To the editor:

I would like to apologize to the Northville Township Planning Commission regarding the Jan. 23 letter I wrote regarding the planned bike path along Six Mile Road.

If I had bothered to make a simple phone call, I would have found out that it's not the commission who's holding up this project but Wayne County. I also blamed the developer of the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty, Grand Sakwa and the commission for being responsible for causing the increase in traffic. While this is partially true, the developer has put up the required fees levied to pay for this bike path so I would not expect them to put up any more than that.

Please accept my sincerest apologies regarding this matter and I assure you, I will be a lot more careful in the future before doing any more uninformed venting.

Township has right to appeal

To the editor:

The self proclaimed Families for a Better Northville (FBN) are asking the citizens of this community to support them in denying Northville Township the right to appeal because one judge could not see the distinction between "construction" and "planning." If the FBN is successful, then perhaps the abolition of the Michigan Court of Appeals and the Michigan Supreme Court will soon appear on their agenda. Since the FBN does not believe the township has the right to appeal, why weren't they protesting against the Northville Public Schools when the NPS made a second appeal to the voters after the bond issue was first defeated?

The FBN appears to be nothing more than a puppet mouthpiece for an incompetent NPS. There is no reason why the township should offer the NPS a reduction in the sewer connection fee, especially when that results in the residents of Northville Township subsidizing the other communities which make up the Northville School District. Has the FBN forgotten that the NPS could pay for the tap in fees with the recently received multi-million dollar windfall from the settlement of the Durant lawsuit? Or, has the NPS administration squandered away all that money already?

FBN has a right to their opinion. They do not have the right to claim that they speak for the community. Let them hold their rally. Let them fill township hall if they can. But let the thousands of us who do not support their misguided purpose show it by staying home.

Robert Bernard

Stopping lawsuit is right choice

To the editor:

I want to give special thanks to Northville Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand for voting to end the litigation between the township and our school system.

The courts have twice ruled against the township in this lawsuit, and ending it now is the right thing to do. I hope that the other trustees will join you this Thursday, March 18 and end this litigation.

The quality of our Northville community has always been improved through cooperation between the township, city and the school district. Thanks again to Sue Hillebrand for showing the leadership necessary to bring us together again.

Futuring group seeks volunteers

To the editor:

Since over 20 community residents and leaders met Saturday, Feb. 27 at the Northville District Library to kick off Stakeholder Month, meetings have been convened to gather input from as many segments and interests within the community to identify the needs, dreams and possibilities for the future direction of recreation in the city of Northville and Northville Township.

The Futuring Project is organized by resident Tom Swigart and implemented totally by volunteers. This is not unlike the processes used to bring about the district library, the new high school, or other positive changes in our schools, recreation, and community.

Throughout the month of March, these small "stakeholder" groups will continue to meet and participate in a form of the futuring process. During the process the participants use brainstorming techniques, discuss community and global trends, review what is working and not working in recreation and consider what the community values in recreation.

The priority visions of all of the 30-40 stakeholder meetings will be combined into two or three scenarios. The scenarios are actual concepts of what residents prefer as their recreation choices in the Northville community.

The project leaders' goal is to have the scenarios prepared by the April 24 Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation Auction. During the month of May, it is anticipated that a community-wide meeting will be held to review the scenarios and to determine action plans for bringing the vision to reality.

It is vitally important that we reach as many segments and interest groups throughout the community to gather input. We need the help of everyone who is interested in this aspect of our community.

Please contact Anna Sarkisian, (248) 344-4321. For additional information on the futuring process itself, please contact Tom Swigart at (248) 348-2947.

Out on a limb: Forester a statewide leader in field

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

His grandfather's garden was the inspiration for Chris Pargoff's career.

Three hundred rose bushes adorned the 60-foot wide Detroit lot and Pargoff, at the time just 10 years old, decided to cultivate some roses of his own. The hobby fascinates him to this day.

"Basically, it is something I was good at, growing things," he said.

In 1991, Pargoff was hired by Novi to fill what was then the newly-created position of city forester.

Last month, he was recently named vice president of the Michigan Forestry and Park Association, the Michigan chapter of the International Society of Arboriculture. Among the chapter's duties is offering the ISA certified arborist program, which requires passing an exam and taking continuing education to recertify.

Pargoff has been a certified arborist for eight years and since 1986, a Michigan certified nurseryman.

Rapid development has left many residents mourning the loss of old stands of trees. But new ones have been sprouting up.

Novi has some 20,000 to 25,000 street trees of 45 varieties under Pargoff's care. 15,000 of them planted since the forester was hired. Street trees are those along major roads and between the curbs and sidewalks in subdivisions.

They're a healthy batch, Pargoff said.

"I'd say they're in good condition. We have some older subdivisions that need corrective trimming," he added.

Pargoff is partial to flowering trees, but as a history buff, he finds the sheer age of the plants amazing.

"Just the fact that they can get

"It's not a real safe business, it can be really hazardous. You have to be really alert when you're up in a tree. I carry a few too many pounds around me to be very effective."

Chris Pargoff
vice-president

International Society of Arboriculture, Michigan chapter to be so big and old and some of the oldest living material on earth is trees," he said.

Once the city had a forester on staff, Novi successfully applied for and was designated a Tree City, USA, by the National Arbor Society for every year since 1991, with 1998's application still awaiting approval.

"Tree City is a national recognition for efforts the city puts forward for planting and tree care," Pargoff explained.

A typical work week will see Pargoff in the field about 35 percent of his time, with the rest taken up with office work. Naturally, it's a seasonal job, with Pargoff directing tree trimming crews in the winter, planting in the spring, lawn mowing and pruning in the summer, followed by some fall plantings and fertilization and winter-proofing of the stock.

Pargoff's active in Global Relief of Michigan's Big Tree Hunt, tracking down historic trees. Novi has a black walnut on private property that's 400 to 500 years old, he said, and swamp white oak some 250 years old in Abbey Hills subdivision on Eleven Mile Road. The oak is in the neighborhood's commons.

"It's in an area that the farmer didn't feel like farming," Pargoff said.

The black walnut is about 40 feet too short to qualify for a national championship, he added. Pargoff also searches out and estimates ages of trees in surrounding communities.

A former history teacher in the Detroit school system, almost 20 years ago Pargoff moved to Novi, where he operated his own nursery for the wholesale trade on Ten Mile Road west of Taft Road. He also had his own landscaping maintenance firm before becoming a city employee.

His wife, Louise, is a floral designer with Four Seasons in Northville. June is the time to drive by the family's Ten Mile home. Pargoff still loves roses and has 100 hybrid tea rose bushes in his yard.

Pargoff has a bachelor's degree in education from the University of Michigan and from Michigan State University, a bachelor's degree in horticulture and a master's degree in urban forestry.

If you saw a fire engine at Tollgate Farm on last week, the historic site was in no danger. The Michigan Forestry and Park Association and Michigan Arborist Association was hosting a seminar there teaching forestry professionals how to rescue injured tree trimmers. As much as Pargoff loves trees, he's likely to scale one.

"It's not a real safe business, it can be really hazardous. You have to be really alert when you're up in a tree. I carry a few too many pounds around me to be very effective," he said.

The best of both worlds

Assisted living communities provide the elderly independence while relieving family members of the task of day-to-day care-giving

CAROL DIPPLE
Feature Editor

When does independent turn into dependent? There are some ways to tell if a relative, maybe your mother or father, is becoming more and more dependent on you.

If you are caring for a family member and you are getting tired, that is a clear indication that it may be time to rethink the caregiver role.

"When you notice that you're tired because you're doing so much to make their life 'independent,'" said Patty Cooper, director of sales at Brighton Gardens by Marriott. "I tell (adult children), when you're tired, mom needs (assisted living)."

If after putting in an eight hour day yourself, you find yourself rushing to the store for their groceries, or calling their neighbor to see if they've checked in on them, it may be time to consider an assisted living community for them.

Forgetting to take medication or taking too much, which usually means a trip to the doctor, is another indicator that things are not going well.

Noticing that the food you bought is still in the cupboard and milk in the refrigerator has soured, means they are not eating regularly.

Signs of dehydration, which could turn into a hospital stay, should send up another red flag.

"It is no fun to eat by yourself," Cooper said. "The sense of thirst is the first thing to go as you age. It is not like they are trying to starve themselves or dehydrate."

Those are some of the signs that the first syllable in independent has been dropped.

Assisted living is for those that do not need a nursing home or full-time care, people who are fairly independent but can't be at home by themselves, according to Cooper.

"The biggest majority feel like they are letting their parents down," said Cooper.

Services provided at a facility include help with bathing and medication, reminders about meal times and social activities, even helping with buttons. A minimum number of hours is included in the facility's monthly charge. Extra hours are available to purchase.

"We don't change their environment. We increase their services right to them. Moving to another part of the building is not conducive to their comfort at all," said Kirstle Young, executive director for the Grant Court in Novi.

To make the transition from independent to assisted living easier for everyone involved, caregivers should plan to take some time off. Visit the community ahead of time and help with the move. Prior visits and participation in activities by the relative as well as introductions to other residents, will help with transition.

Plan a shopping day to pick out new furniture or accessories like curtains, towels, etc. Buy their favorite groceries to stock the cupboards.

Hang pictures, wall paper borders, curtains and display photo albums.

"Make them part of the process," said Young. "Make sure they don't feel like they're being put somewhere."

Moving a family member from a hospital or rehabilitation center unexpectedly might send families into a panic mode but the transition is easier if the family member feels a sense of security by having as many memories with them as possible.

"(Families) are in control of it all," said Young.

Invite the neighbors to come over and have lunch or dinner. Assisted living facilities offer restaurant-style menus for lunch and dinner, some are included in the month charge, some are extra.

Costs at Grand Court are $1,625 per month for a one bedroom and $2,015 for a two bedroom. Evening meals are $100 a month per person extra or $6 a day. The average age of residents at Grand Court is 86.

Residents bring their own furniture to assisted living facilities like Grand Court, and to the Brighton Gardens by Marriott in Northville Township.

Making the transition more comfortable

To make the adjustment from an independent to assisted living environment easier, here are some suggestions:

- Have individuals come to the community and participate prior to the actual move. Family members should plan on taking a couple days off work if necessary to help.
- Prior to deciding on a facility or before moving relative in, family members should visit for a day to experience the schedule, activities, meal times, etc.
- Go shopping with the relative to pick out new towels, curtains, furniture, etc. to ensure that they will like the items selected and to make them feel included in the move.
- Put up wall paper borders, hang curtains, photos, artwork, and move in as many possessions as possible prior to the relative's arrival, which will create a more familiar setting.
- Fill the kitchen cupboard with favorite foods and snacks.
- Have as many family members as possible meet the director of the facility. Don't designate just one relative to the task of contact person. Furnish phone numbers for all family members.

Dealership treats staff to dinner after being named top seller

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Just like the Detroit Red Wings, Varsity Lincoln Mercury has gone two for two.

For the second year in a row, the Grand River Avenue auto dealership is Lincoln Mercury's top seller in the nation. Four thousand vehicles left the lot in 1998.

"The only time I was prouder was when I had my children," said Michael Stanford, who owns the dealership with his brother, Lou Stanford.

To celebrate, Lincoln Mercury recently sent all 130 of the dealership's staff out to dinner at Forte in Birmingham. But the employees weren't driving those Lincolns there, limousines and buses were hired by the auto company to transport the dinner brigade.

"It was excellent. Everybody had a good time. They had a live band there," Stanford said.

Last year Lincoln Mercury dined the dealership crew at Morton's Steakhouse, which was the first time a winning dealership was feted in this manner. Now, it's a tradition.

Stanford said the track record is particularly good because the dealership has only been open for four-and-a-half years. Varsity led the nation in not only overall sales, but in truck sales and in sales for these vehicles:

Navigator, Continental, luxury cars, Mountaineer, Villager and Cougar.

Throwing a bash for all 130 staffers was an appropriate gesture, according to Stanford. He said the dealership attracts consumers from throughout the metro area who like the service they're offered when they buy a car or truck.

"They're good people who work here. We all work together with one goal in mind and that's the customer," Stanford added.

Applications for scholarships to attend Higgins Lake Environmental School this summer are now being accepted by the Northville Garden Club.

The environmental school is held at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center, the training facility of the Michigan DNR, located on the north shore of Higgins Lake.

In each of the three courses being offered this summer, resource people, materials, lectures, field trips and discussions are all focused on providing participants with an understanding of critical environmental concepts and issues.

Family Health Day

During the Family Health Day on March 6 at the First United Methodist Church, Northville residents Suzette Heathcote, daughter Mary Beth, 4, and son stopped by to see Northville Township firefighters Dan Dipple, left, and Brian Siriani. Other participants included health professionals and Northville police. For children, there was educational information about health and bike safety, fingerprinting, child identification and a fire truck to climb on. There was also a free drawing for a bike helmet and other items. For adults, free and low-cost health screening tests were available. The Family Health Day is part of the month-long Project Health-O-Rama which is held in 97 locations in the tri-county area and is sponsored by WXYZ-TV, United Health Organization, and the United Way. Kathy Greenleaf coordinated the day's activities for the church, which participated in the yearly Project Health-O-Rama for the first time.

Assisted living reduces care by family members

Services available at a facility include activities, transportation, housekeeping, coinless laundry facility, and housekeeping with linen service.

Former caregivers can still help parents do their laundry.

"That way they can still feel like they are in their parent's life," Cooper said.

A studio apartment at Brighton Gardens starts at $2,730. One bedrooms begin at $3,295. Two bedroom shared suites start at $2,320 per person. All have a bathroom and a refrigerator with enough cupboard space for snacks and a microwave.

Brighton Gardens also has a special care center for residents with Alzheimer's and related memory disorders who need a more secure environment.

During a life-style assessment, the director of the facility will gather information which will help in their care of the relative.

"If mom has never turned down a grilled cheese sandwich in her life and she gets picky at dinner time, we can try her favorite," Cooper said. "We are not here to take the place of anyone. This is where you leave off and we begin."

Most importantly, stay actively involved with the relative and with the facility.

Cooper said it is important that as many family members as possible meet the director of the facility. Don't assign the responsibility to one person.

Wedding

Cara and Mark McCarthy

The wedding of Cara Maegen Flynn and Mark Egan McCarthy was held Sept. 12, 1998, in the backyard of the home of the groom's parents, where the reception for 80 guests followed. The Rev. Doris Dash of South Lyon officiated the double ring ceremony; the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride is the daughter of Timothy Flynn of Cleveland, Ohio, and Jennifer Flynn of East Lansing. She is a 1993 graduate of East High School in Rochester, N.Y. She graduated in 1998 from Michigan State University and is employed at Americorp-Lapeer Co., MSU Extension 4-H Program.

Attending as bridesmaids were Nickey Harmon of East Lansing and Erin Green of Clawson. Lilly Day of New York City and Rhiannon Campbell of Westover, W.V. served as flower girls.

The bride wore a silk floor length gown designed with a halter top encrusted in pearls. The headpiece was a simple net veil suspended from a wreath of roses in her hair, and the bridal bouquet was of pink and cream roses and baby's breath.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George McCarthy of Northville. He is a 1992 graduate of Northville High School. He also graduated in 1998 from Michigan State University and is currently employed at Biosystems of Marlette, Mich.

High school friend, Brian Sholz and brother of the groom, Tyler McCarthy served as best men. Brothers of the bride, Ian and Justin Flynn were attending groomsmen.

The couple went to Traverse City for their honeymoon. They now reside in Columbiaville, Mich.

"Give me one good reason to contribute to the Red Cross."

- The American Red Cross helps people prevent, prepare for and respond to emergencies. • We unite families and loved ones separated by war and disaster. • We're in your neighborhood every day, providing disaster preparedness information and teaching classes in first aid, lifesaving and water safety, to help keep families like yours safer. • We're not a government agency, but an independent organization that depends on donations from people you to survive. • Our volunteers give their time to help others.

There are many reasons to contribute to the Red Cross. Then again, one reason is all it takes.

Churches present Easter specials

Musical selected by Northville Christian Assembly

The Creative Arts Ministry of Northville Christian Assembly will present the musical drama "King of Kings" for three performances on March 26, 27 and 28.

Novi residents Rheanna Councell and Jared Detrich, as well as Northville residents Bill Livingston and Mike Lane, and all those involved in the production have worked hard to create a truly inspiring, excellent theatrical experience.

"King of Kings," through a reflective look back at the life and miracles of Jesus Christ, presents the lasting effect of Christ's teachings on Paul and Silas, two men imprisoned for telling the story of Jesus Christ. Their willingness to endure ridicule, harsh treatment, and prison was only because of the power of a changed life.

The Creative Arts Ministry's goal

is that the audience will experience, through the eyes of Paul and Silas, the agony and triumph of the man Jesus Christ and how his life can impact ours.

The public is cordially invited to attend the presentation of "King of Kings" on Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, at 7 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 4 p.m. Sunday's performance will include creative translation for the hearing impaired.

One-man drama will focus on 'Pontius Pilate'

The First Presbyterian Church will present "Pontius Pilate" on Tuesday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m.

The one-man drama, with Ronald C. Smeenge as Pilate, is based on the novel by Paul L.

Maier, which received excellent reviews in both the "The Christian Herald" and "The Chicago Daily News."

The cost is a $5 donation. Reservations are necessary.

The play will be presented in the church sanctuary and dessert will be served in Boll Fellowship Hall following the performance.

The community is invited to attend.

The First Presbyterian Church is located at 200 East Main Street in Northville.

Three place at wrestling state finals

Junior 125-pounder Reggie Torrence struggled early in state tourney, but came back to take third place.

Torrence, Saran and Scappaticci place among top 6

By JASON SCHMITT

The goals were there, but the results weren't exactly where the Northville wrestling had hoped they would be.

Reggie Torrence took third place, and two other Mustangs also placed at the State Finals in Joe Louis Arena last Saturday.

Anant Saran placed fourth and Dan Scappaticci was sixth. Senior heavy-weight Ted Bowersox was 1-2 on the day and did not place.

Torrence started the day off slowly, barely getting past Rockford's Joe Apkarian 3-2 in his first match. He got caught and was pinned by Bay City Western's Matt Kowalski in 3:09.

"We were worried about Reggie because he wrestled poorly in his first match, and then got pinned. That's only the second time I've ever seen him get pinned like that," Northville coach Bob Townsend said.

After that, the junior stepped it up a notch and won four consecutive matches to win the consolation bracket. He topped Belleville's Ryan Bird 8-5 in his first consolation match. Next up was Charlotte's Toby Dickson, whom Torrence beat 5-2. He faced East Detroit's Bruce Ealy in his next match before taking out Chadd Johnston of Temperance Bedford in the consolation final.

"I think with Rickey (Torrence) coming to town, that had an effect on him," Townsend said. "He wrestled well after the Dickinson match."

"We had hoped he would make it to the semifinals and face (A. J.) Grant, but we knew all along he could finish in the top three or four."

Torrence finished the season with a 43-3 record.

Saran came into the tournament sick, and Townsend said he was unable to wrestle at 100 percent. The senior captain suffered a first-round loss to Lake Orion's Andy Dewey 6-4 in overtime.

He came back to pin Berkeley's Lance Sanoni in 4:40 and then picked up a 6-4 decision over Holt's Joe Zolnai. He beat Romeo's Jon Nagy 6-4 before losing to Rochester Adams' Pat Diaz 8-4 in the finals.

"It's sad to see him lose his first match," Townsend said. "He is by far the hardest worker in the (practice) room, and he's a total team player."

"But to compete at the state meet, you have to be 100 percent. Everything has to fall into place."

Gymnasts take ninth

Tumblers can't defend title, finish in top 10

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Defending its state championship was never in the gymnastics team's mind. But thoughts of gaining invaluable experience at the toughest competition of the year was all Northville/Novi coach Laura Moyers could think about last Saturday in Hartland High School.

Twelve schools and hundreds of gymnasts converged on Hartland to compete for the 1999 state championship, a title the Mustangs have held for the last year. But when all was said and done, the trophy will remain in the same building it started in last weekend.

Hartland won the team title with 144.75 points. Brighton was runner-up with 144.45 points. Northville/Novi finished a distant ninth with 136.50 points.

"We would have like to finish a few spots up," Mustang coach Laura Moyers said. "But these girls looked at me and said 'Laura, we're nervous.' They'll be better off next year after having the chance to gain this experience."

Northville/Novi looked strong in the vault competition, but struggled a little on the bars and beam. "We really did good on the beam, but the judging was kind of tough," the coach said. Lindsey Carlson scored a 9.25 on the vault, leading her team. Monica Fink scored a 9.1 and Kelley Phelps added an 8.7. "All our vaulters did a nice job, but I was especially pleased with Kelley," the coach said. "She waited around all day long, and still came through with a season-high score."

Carlson again led her team in the floor competition. The freshman scored a 9.1 and teammates Jennifer Rohlfis (8.8) and Andrea Ledbetter (8.55) also scored for the 'Stangs.

Despite falling just once on the beam, Northville/Novi had just three girls reach at least an 8.0. Rohlfis led the way with an 8.5 and Northville junior gymnast Jennifer Rohlfis, shown here during warmups, hurt her knee in the vault competition Friday night and had to miss the individual competition Saturday afternoon.

Carlson and Ledbetter were second and third.

Carlson was tops on the team in the all-around. She scored an 8.85 and Fink added an 8.35.

Saturday's individual competition was not as friendly to Northville/Novi. Carlson and Fink were the only high finishers for the 'Stangs, and Rohlfis was unable to compete in Division II because of an injury she sustained in the team vault competition the night before.

Both Carlson and Fink competed in the all-around for the 'Stangs. Fink's eighth-place finish on the vault was Northville/Novi's only top 10 all day long. She scored a 9.15 in the event. Carlson was 11th overall with a 9.1.

Carlson barely missed placing again in both the all-around category and on the floor exercise. She had a 9.2 on the floor, good for 12th place, and her 35.5 in the all-around was good for 14th. Carlson finished the day with an 18th place finish on the bars (8.65) and a 26th place finish on the beam (8.55).

Fink was 31st in the floor exercise, 33rd on the beam and 21st on the bars. Her all-around total of 34.25 was good for the 23rd spot.

"I was so happy for Monica," Moyers said of her sophomore placing. "She's such a hard worker and it was nice to see her place."

"When you get to the state meet, the judging gets more difficult and the girls are really tight. This was definitely the highest caliber of competition I've seen at this meet in my three years as a coach."

Senior guard Brett Allen scored 15 points against Novi, but it just wasn't enough.

'Stangs fall to Wildcats

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

The Northville basketball squad knew it was in a tailspin coming into the district basketball tournament. The team had lost nine straight and had a dismal 5-15 record.

Nothing changed in its semifinal matchup with Novi March 10. This game came down to sound, fundamental basketball, and Novi was the better team.

The Wildcats jumped out early in both the first and third quarters. Novi outscored Northville 28-15 in those two stanzas.

Northville trailed by just six 35-29 with three minutes to play in the third quarter, but Novi went on a 7-0 run to end the quarter and took a 42-29 lead. The Mustangs cut the lead to 54-45 with 2:39 left on a Ryan Eller steal and layup, but that's as close as Northville would come.

"We knew they were going to play us in a zone, so we had a good week to prepare for that," Schluter said. "We kicked the ball inside, and then back out."

Novi center Chad Nadolni played both inside and out, accumulating a game-high 26 points while pulling down 12 boards. Novi hit 16 of 19 free throws in the game.

Their goal defensively was to shut down Northville's inside threat, Marshall Knapp. The plan was successful. Knapp scored just three points. Northville was led by senior guard Brett Allen, who scored 15 points.

Junior Dan Scappaticci fought back from a first-round loss to take sixth in the state at 140.

Three Mustangs place

Saran finished the year 43-5. Scappaticci lost his first match as well, 2-0 to Grandville's Ben Grilhorst. He fought his way back through the consolation bracket, defeating Sean Bell of Detroit Catholic Central 12-4. He won his next match because of an injury default. After he beat James Molloy of Lanse Creuse 7-0, he was ensured of placing at states. He went on to lose to Mike Woodward of Lansing Sexton 4-2 and Holt's R. J. Eding 4-2.

"We're very happy he placed," the coach said. "Now he just has to take that next step. He could win a state championship, or he could finish third or fourth next year."

Bowersox had a tough draw, which eventually doomed the senior heavyweight. He beat Adams' James Pack 8-3 in the first round, but went up against the defending and eventual state champion Casey Rogowski in his next match. Rogowski won by tech fall 19-4.

"He lost to Pack earlier this year, but he came out and just owned him," Townsend said. "And against Rogowski, we wanted Teddy to shoot more. Teddy's a very controlled wrestler, but when he gets down, we have to go for things."

Bowersox struggled in his next match, losing to Troy Gilding of Charlotte 18-3. He finished seventh at last year's state tournament.

"I feel like he was one of the top four wrestlers at heavyweight," Townsend said. "If he would have lost his first match, he would have placed. Teddy got no breaks."

Last season the Mustangs sent seven wrestlers to the state meet, but sent just four this year.

"Overall, we were very proud of everyone. To take four kids and have three of them place is great," Townsend said. "We would have liked to see Ted place, and Anant should have been in the finals against Diaz."

Kowalski seventh in breaststroke

Senior Mark Kowalski finished seventh in the 100 breaststroke at last Saturday's Class A state meet at Oakland University.

He finished the race in a time of 1 minute 0.17 seconds. Jim Kanak of Birmingham Groves won the race in :56.85 and his teammate Jeff Lanhoff was second at :57.35.

The time bettered his previous best of 1:00.57 he set two weeks ago at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet at Plymouth Salem. That time earned him all-America consideration.

Ann Arbor Pioneer won the team competition with 184 points. Birmingham Brother Rice was second at 157. Birmingham Groves, Birmingham Seaholm and Rochester Adams rounded out the top five. Northville tied for 33rd place with seven points.

Seaholm's Bill Sargent came away with three titles, including two individual championships and one relay.

One and out...

Northville senior center Marshall Knapp goes up over Novi's Larry Drury in last Wednesday's district semifinal at Plymouth Canton. Knapp was held to just three points and Novi came away with a 59-49 victory over the Mustangs. The loss left Northville with a 5-16 record and an eight-game losing streak to end the season. Northville graduates seven seniors this year.

How to tone and build you arms

This is our third column in a series of columns dedicated to the truths and techniques of strength training. We have touched on the chest and abdominal area so far. Our intent from the beginning has been to offer some facts, maybe dispel some myths, and pick a key exercise for a specific part of the body offering the lowest risk and highest benefit. We purposely choose exercises that can be done at home just as simply as in a club setting. We are using an average person with no injuries for our examples.

Spring is around the corner and with it comes our short sleeve shirts and blouses. This for many men and women means thinking about the appearance of our arms (which in many cases we have not really looked at all winter long). So let's discuss arms. The three key areas are: Biceps - the front upper portion of our arms; Triceps - the upper back portion of our arms; and the Brachioradialis - the forearm area.

Like all body parts, information on how to tone and build your arms is everywhere. Application of basic resistance training with the proper form is the key. Focusing on the techniques to enhance toning or focusing on a specific area of a specific muscle to alter the shape is simply not possible. Applying a proper resistance formula will build the area up per your genetic structure. Some people have a more favorable shape than others, just work to bring out the best of you and don't continue to fall for these exercises or equipment that give your arms a better peak for example.

Biceps curl:

- Start by stabilizing yourself in a seated or standing position.
- Stabilize your shoulder area, keeping the elbows secure in the position they started in. In other words, where they start they stay. This is probably the number one error when training the biceps, you must keep the shoulders and elbows stable to allow the biceps muscle to work fully.
- Supinate or turn your wrists out to emphasize the biceps.
- Start with the elbows in a slightly bent position, arms should not be fully straight or locked to begin.
- Visualize raising the resistance in a curved motion up towards the chest area and lift the resistance.
- Stop raising at a point where you cannot control the shoulder stability and you're not resting the muscle (refer to the picture for range of motion).
- Return slowly to the starting position and repeat.

Brachioradialis area:

If you want to focus more on the forearm area, simply repeat the above steps but alter your wrist to the neutral position or point the thumbs up versus out to the side. For most people, the work this area receives in the biceps movement produces adequate results.

Triceps kickback with tubing:

This area is key, lack of use causes the tone and strength to reduce drastically affecting both appearance and quality of life. In our example, we are using rubber tubing to offer the resistance.

- Wrap the tubing around a stable structure (basement pole, table leg, etc.).
- Bend in a back safe position to align the muscle area we want to work (see picture for starting position), remember to bend your legs and gain stability in your stance.
- Start with your arm bent up toward the chest area.
- Again stabilize the shoulder area; this area should not move during the movement.
- Slowly pull the resistance close along the side of your body until the arm is fully extended.
- Slowly return to the starting position and repeat while maintaining stability with the entire body. Isolate the triceps area.

Since our client is an average person and many average people find this training new, we follow the basic guidelines of two-three exercises and six-ten total sets with eight-12 repetitions per set for both the biceps and triceps. Wait about 30-90 seconds between sets and keep your movements slow and controlled. Rest each body part at least 48 hours before working it again, stay consistent and this summer you will have the arms you want. Good luck.

This column was written by Chris Klebba, owner and operator of the Water Wheel Health Club. The Water Wheel is a personal training club designed for people of all fitness levels. For more information or comments call (248) 449-7634.

Water Wheel Health Club fitness instructor Marc Marry demonstrates the proper techniques for bicep and tricep exercises.
To the left, Marc demonstrates how to stabilize yourself before starting your motion. On the right, Marc is at the top of his motion, and beginning to lower the weights to their original position. Below Marc demonstrates the beginning and ending positions for Triceps kickback with tubing.

WHAT IS OSTEOPOROSIS?

Osteoporosis is a disease that affects the skeleton and causes a progressive reduction in the amount of bone tissue. The core of the bone becomes less dense and on the surface bone loses thickness. This causes weakening of bone and predisposes to fractures.

Bone mass peaks around age 35 then gradually decreases with age. Female gender, menopause, Caucasian or Asian ethnicity, advanced age and family history of osteoporosis are known risk factors. Low dietary calcium, cigarette smoking, high caffeine intake and decreased physical activity are additional risk factors. Post menopausal women, in particular, have increased risk. Few years after menopause with the decline of estrogen production, evidence of osteoporosis may be seen. Complaints such as low back pain, stopped posture and decreased height, even compression fractures of the spine, hips and wrists are not uncommon.

Older adults and those at risk should have medical evaluation and measurement of bone density when indicated. Regular weight-bearing exercise and daily calcium and vitamin D supplement can help maintain bone strength and prevent fractures. Additional treatments and medications are also available. (L84242)

HOW TO

Protection for wood siding

By Gene Gary
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Do you have any advice on how to remove black spots which have begun to form on our natural cedar siding? Is there any way to restore the wood and prevent future staining and discoloration.

A. If left untreated, wood will darken with age. But there are methods of restoring much of the original natural finish. The dark spotsches you refer to can be caused by mildew which is often mistaken for dirt. Mildew can grow on any building material which is not protected against it. It forms dark spots on the surface. Gray, fan-shaped areas spread below the spots as spores from the original colony are washed down and multiply. Severe infestation can cause a uniformly gray or black discoloration over large surface areas.

To remove a mild case of mildew, scrub the surface with a mild cleaner or detergent and rinse with a solution of household bleach mixed with water to kill surviving spores.

For more severe cases, use a solution of 2/3 cup of trisodium phosphate (purchased from a paint dealer) mixed with 1/3 cup detergent, one quart household bleach and three quarts warm water. Scrub the siding with a stiff-bristle brush (do not use a wire brush - fragments of wire left from the scrubbing action will form rust spots on the wood) and rinse with plenty of clean water.

Once the mildew has been removed, an effective treatment for brightening the natural finish and restoring color is to use oxalic acid (four ounces oxalic acid crystals per gallon of water mixed in a nonmetallic container). Using a cloth or soft brush, apply to an entire board area at a time. When the wood dries, rinse with clear water. More than one application may be necessary if discoloration is severe. Commercial deck and siding cleaners (containing sodium percarbonate, sodium metasilicate or similar chemicals) are also effective in removing dirt, mildew and general stains.

There are also wood restorative products on the market. Their primary function is to restore natural wood color by bleaching out weathering and other types of dirt and stains. They are not intended to remove mildew. Flood Co.'s Dekswood and Cabot's Problem Solver Wood Brightener both brighten and restore the natural color of the wood, remove extractive oils that may bleed from redwood or cedar, and eliminate some staining caused by oxidation of steel nails. Forest Paint Co.'s Restorex is a stronger, two-part restorative that uses a caustic sodium hydroxide gel followed by a neutralizing wash. It will clean and brighten the wood, as well as remove semi-transparent stains, other coatings and a layer of gray surface-wood cells.

Concentrated restoratives and cleaners must first be dissolved in water. They are best applied with a pump-type garden sprayer, but can also be rolled or brushed on. After spreading the restorative or cleaner, you scrub the surface with a stiff bristle brush. Let the chemicals soak for 15 to 30 minutes and rinse the area with plenty of clean water.

Power-washing is a good method of final rinsing, sure to remove all remaining dirt and any chemical residue. When using a power-washer, care should be taken to prevent damage to the wood. Use caution around windows and doors to prevent damage to screens, window panes, etc. Power-washing equipment can be rented through equipment rental companies. Be sure and follow directions and wear gloves, protective clothing, and eye goggles when using power-washing equipment or any of these cleaning solutions.

When mixing acid solutions pour acid into water, not the reverse. It may be necessary to protect shrubs and plantings. Check manufacturer's directions concerning this aspect of product use.

Once the wood has been cleaned, it will still need a protective coating to stand up to constant exposure to harsh rains, snow and damaging rays of the sun. There are literally dozens of products designed expressly for the purpose of protecting outdoor wood surfaces. You can maintain the natural finish and simply treat the wood with a water repellent, which may need to be applied in several coats and renewed every year or two. Water repellents are finishes that achieve just that one goal, without any of the fungi- or pest-fighting properties of more complex wood preservatives. Wood preservative compounds such as copper naphthenate, zinc naphthenate, copper-8-quinolinate, polyphase and TBTO (bis-tributyltin-oxide) offer sturdier protection from the elements. They protect against moisture damage and possible subsequent damage caused by insects, fungi and molds. These preservatives penetrate the wood, rather than forming a film on the surface.

To enhance natural, unpainted wood you may want to try one of the preservatives with stain, which protect as well as color at the same time. Either semi-transparent or opaque, these are typically used for exterior applications and come in a range of shades. Semi-transparent stains do not peel, and they let the natural grain of the wood show through. Because they contain less pigment than opaque stains, semi-transparent versions penetrate the wood more deeply; thus heavy-use areas, such as decks, are better protected with these deep-penetrating semi-transparent stains than with solid color ones. Many of the stains will provide protection for years, but eventually they will have to be reapplied to maintain adequate protection. Durability will depend on climatic conditions as well as the type of product you choose.

Be sure the wood is clean and thoroughly dry prior to application of a wood protective product. New wood should age three to six months prior to the application of any of these products.

Ray Fox is the sales director of Bristol Corners in Novi, which will have 231 home sites when all phases are complete.

ANNETTE JAWORSKI
SPECIAL WRITER

As they say in real estate, it's all location, location, location.

And according to Ray Fox, sales director of Bristol Corners in Novi, location is the beauty of their new development.

Bristol Corners

Novi development boasts high quality homes in a beautiful, natural setting rural look, with the set back requirements, you're not stacked up next to each other,"

he said. "We even see deer here in the protected areas."

The convenient central location at Beck and West Roads in Novi, allows homeowners access to major highways for that daily commute to work, while living near the great outdoors.

Although they offer 10 different floor plans or models, the most popular is the Grand Cypress II. So much so, that they offer it in seven different elevations. Fox attributes its popularity to its efficient floor plan, which he calls open, yet functional.

Traffic floor and space is carefully planned down to the mudroom and laundry room which is located off the garage. You don't have to walk through the laundry area to get to the main living area.

Another area where they maximize the use of space includes the combination formal dining room and living room area with a cathedral ceiling, serving two functions at once in a formal setting.

The family room is more relaxed, which is open to the kitchen area. It's a roomy 18 feet by 16 feet wide. Lots of windows open up this area for sunshine, taking full advantage of the woodland view.

The first floor also has a home office or den to accommodate today's lifestyle of more people working out of their homes.

The hallways upstairs open up to a full eight feet, offering more freedom of movement. Most floor plans offer four bedrooms on the second story, however three plans offer a first floor master bedroom with an option for three or four bedrooms.

The master bedrooms come standard with cathedral ceilings. The space is planned so that three full walls are open for decorating. This allows for more flexibility when arranging furniture or other decor.

All master bedrooms have 24-foot-long, walk-in closets. Shelving for the closet is standard.

With a nature trail, tennis courts, playscape and a boardwalk leading to the lake, the development promises a resort feel. In addition to the natural amenities, another great selling point, according to Report says Rust Belt may shine anew

By James M. Woodard
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

For several decades it's been a common scenario: Homeowners in the Midwest sell their homes and move to a more climate-friendly locale in a southern state.

It was a case of fleeing the "Rust Belt" in search of a better life in "Sun Belt" regions of the country. There are now indications of that trend reversing itself.

It wasn't just retirees moving to a more suitable retirement residence. The economic slowdown during the 1980s in many Midwestern cities and towns resulted in zooming unemployment rates. Many people felt they had to move for economic reasons.

But in recent months and years, economic conditions have improved and people - many of them - are returning to their former Rust Belt communities, according to a report from the U.S. Census Bureau. The Rust Belt is reviving in popularity as a good place to live and own a home. Rust is being replaced with revitalized economies and employment opportunities.

"In many Rust Belt metro areas, unemployment is down, welfare rolls are down, crime is down, wages are up, home prices are still low (comparatively) and the population is either up or stable," stated a recently released Census Bureau report.

It's interesting to note that Nebraska led the nation in the increasing rate of home resales during the last quarter of last year, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors. That Midwestern state posted a 12.8 percent increase in resales, reflecting the sale of 1.35 million units in that quarter alone.

The reason for the turnaround varies from community to community. But generally, it's tied to the improved national economy, according to Glenn King, a Census Bureau analyst. Also, local growth strategies have been important, led by mayors, residents and businesses in different cities, he noted.

As an example, Peoria, Ill., suffered such a severe economic slowdown in the 1980s the city's unemployment rate reached 20 percent. During that decade, the city lost about 7.3 percent of its population. But that population is now growing significantly.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, lost 0.6 percent of its population during the 1980s. But during the 1990s, its population grew by 7.7 percent.

Some Midwestern cities are surprisingly progressive and effective in enhancing the appeal of their city. My hometown is Des Moines, Iowa. After living in California for many years, I visited Des Moines and was amazed at what I saw.

Instead of the cluster of deteriorating old brick buildings I remembered in the downtown area, many gleaming new structures carved a new landscape for downtown Des Moines. A skywalk links buildings throughout the downtown area. This provides an enclosed, climate-controlled passageway for walking and shopping in the area. A fine new municipal auditorium, an arts center and a particularly well-designed botanical garden complex (Des Moines Botanical Center) adds interest and excitement to the area.

Such improvements are creating a new and more attractive image of Midwestern cities. The result is increasing populations, more jobs and stronger local economies. And as the trend progresses it will mean more active home building markets and rising home prices.

Q. Is there an Internet information source that might help us find a home to rent?

A. Yes, there are several. One of the newest and best is part of the recently launched MSN HomeAdvisor site owned and operated by Microsoft. The Web site address is www.homeadvisor.com.

Visitors to the new Apartments & Rentals section of the site have direct access to apartment listings, searchable by city or town. The site also includes a new Home Improvement section and the most comprehensive database of home improvement contractors and resources on the Internet, according to a spokesperson for HomeAdvisor.

"These important new content areas enhance the value of our site and will attract even more consumers to the real estate listing and loan offerings on our site," said Ian Morris, an executive with MSN HomeAdvisor.

Another very recently added section to the HomeAdvisor site is called the HomeAdvisor Partners Center. It's designed to help real estate agents and brokers promote their presence online and maximize their participation on the HomeAdvisor site.

The new section offers a variety of marketing tools - fact sheets and other promotional materials to help real estate agents increase their exposure and generate additional revenue, according to Morris.

Q. Are the number of home resales on the upswing in all states?

A. Most, but not all states. During the past quarter, home resales (sale of previously owned homes) were up in 39 states and the District of Columbia. And in 29 states, the number of resales increased at double-digit rates.

Eclectic furniture design combines earlier styles

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Around 1907 in Paterson, N.J., my father bought the mahogany music cabinet seen in this photo. Twenty years ago when it was given to me, I had the finish restored. The decorative scenes on the door and top were cleaned and not retouched. I treasure this piece and plan to pass it on to one of my grandchildren. Since I am writing a family history about it, I would love to know who made it and any other information you can add.

A. Music cabinets were popular around the turn of the century. As a rule they had four or five shelves to store sheet music. The style of your cabinet is eclectic. Furniture that combines and adapts design features of earlier periods is referred to as eclectic. The Rococo carving, cabriole legs and decorative scenes are representative of eclectic design. Without a manufacturer's mark or label, it can be impossible to identify the maker.

Your circa 1907 music cabinet would probably be worth about $1,000 to $1,500.

Q. I have a set of pink Depression glass cups and saucers. The pattern is Cleo. This mark is on the bottom of each piece.

What can you tell me about them, including their age and estimated value?

A. Cambridge Glass Co. in Cambridge, Ohio, used the mark you provided. The pattern, Cleo, was introduced in 1930 and was available in a variety of pieces. Amber, green, crystal, pink, blue and yellow were the colors used.

Your cups and saucers would probably be worth $20 for each piece.

Q. Could you tell me something about my Mickey Mouse camera? It is a black and white plastic head of Mickey with a red hand strap. The flash is between his ears. It is marked "Walt Disney Productions - Made in U.S.A."

How old is my camera and does it have any value?

ANTIQUES

A. Walt Disney introduced Mickey Mouse's prototype, Steamboat Willie, in 1928 in a black and white film short. Mickey's ability to overcome obstacles with his tenacity and good nature made him a symbol of every man. Disney was a visionary and quickly realized the merchandising potential of his affable mouse.

Kay Kamen was brought on to promote and design toys. He had the expertise to connect with major toy manufacturers. There are three copyright dates that help to identify the approximate age of Disney toys. "Walt E. Disney" or "W.D." or "W.D.E. Toys" was used from the late 1920s to the early 1930s. "Walt Disney Enterprises" was seen on toys made from the mid 1930s to 1939. "Walt Disney Productions" is the last mark and shows a toy was made from the 1940s or later.

Your circa 1960s camera would probably be worth about $50 to $100.

Q. I have a blue glass pitcher with a picture of Shirley Temple on it. It is 4 1/2 inches in height.

Could you please tell me if it has any value?

A. Your mug was originally part of a three-piece breakfast set that included a milk pitcher, a mug and cereal bowl. Shirley Temple memorabilia is collectible. Your circa 1930s pitcher would probably be worth about $50 to $75.

Q. I inherited several boxes of books that range in age from the 1800s to the mid 1960s. I would like to sell them and have no idea of what their value is. Do you have any advice?

A. Go to your local library and in the reference section you will find American Book Prices Current. These reference books are issued annually with prices of books that have sold. Information that you will need at your fingertips include complete name of author, title, publisher, copyright date and edition number. Most books are not worth much, especially book club editions. First editions are usually the most valuable.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

This circa 1907 music cabinet is worth about $1,000 to $1,500.

Quality materials used in Bristol Corners homes

Fox is the quality of the homes. This is backed by the reputation of two respected builders, including Ivanhoe Huntley and S.R. Jacobsen. Most importantly, the homes come with a two-year home warranty, most offer only one year, Fox points out.

The floors come with a lifetime guarantee against squeaking. The basement waterproofing comes with a 10-year warranty by Tuff-N-Dry. Other quality features that are not obvious include the use of fiber cement siding. It comes with a 50-year warranty.

"It won't rot, it won't crack," he adds. "It won't have the look of a vinyl siding subdivision," Fox said.

The best news is that the home prices are a great value. Home sizes run from 2,500 square feet to 3,500 square feet with an average price in the low 300's.

Bristol Corners is located off of West Road near Pontiac Trail in Novi.

They'll soon be accepting deposits for Phase II, where over 80 percent of the homes will back up to woodlands or protected areas. The development will have a total of 231 home sites when all phases are complete. The model office is open every day, seven days a week from noon until 6 p.m.

For more information, call Ray Fox at (248) 669-7533.

Inner Harmony seeks to restore balance to the body

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
Staff Writer

The New Year is a great time to make some healthy changes in lifestyle. For those who want to feel better, want more energy, or are just sick and tired of being sick and tired, Kathy Jerore of Inner Harmony would like to show you the way to better health.

Her new business in South Lyon, is ready to help those with an open mind with new ways to improve their health.

Jerore is not a doctor, and does not prescribe, but makes recommendations to improve health through vitamins, food supplements, herbs and essential oils and other natural healing techniques.

The system used at Inner Harmony is called the Survival Awareness Formula. This employs a device which takes the temperature measurements of 23 points on your face with an infra red sensitizer. She sees this as the key to unraveling the core of the client's imbalance by providing an energy map of the body. It provides a map that encompasses the client's entire scope of interaction with the environment. It's the only functioning system of its kind in Michigan, she believes.

"It makes you aware of what's out there and how it's affecting your body and how to bring it back into balance," Jerore said.

This can eventually lead to a physical illness if not treated nurtured and corrected.

"It's like taking a picture of a person at this point in time. It can be constantly changing."

She also is looking for toxins and their effects on the client. One of the philosophies at Inner Harmony is to remove the toxins and parasites, and then rebuild the body with nutrients. She is also looking at the emotional side of wellness as well.

Kathy Jerore uses an infrared sensitizer to read create an energy map of her client's body.

Jerore does not see the service as alternative to medicine, rather she sees it as a support to nourishing each healthy cell. She reminds clients healing is a process, not a pill. The evaluation and consultation take about an hour and a half and cover several areas extensively. Follow up visits are recommended in order to monitor the progress. She recommends a variety of different options. These might include vitamins, supplements, essential oils. She also suggests natural healing techniques like Reiki and Reflexology. These will support the nutritional recommendations and be helpful in the whole healing process.

In the process, she tries to educate her customers when it comes to nutritional supplements. Many believe that if they eat a healthy diet, they don't need vitamins, Jerore said. She believes that instead they see it as a bank account, to build up to cope with extra demands when their body requires it.

Those products she carries include Metagenics Nutritional Supplements, Nature's Sunshine Products, Bach Flower Remedies and Homeopathic remedies, such as Zincaid Plus, with Zinc and Vitamin C.

She is happy to take special orders of products that she does not carry. Many will arrive quickly and this ensures a fresh inventory.

Most people aren't totally surprised by what the evaluation finds. They usually know where they need to take better care of themselves. Quite often what they need is the reinforcement of someone else telling them to live a healthier lifestyle.

Instead of performing the Survival Awareness Formula, some clients opt for a questionnaire type evaluation, which she also offers. Although helpful, Jerore says they can only be as accurate as the information that people give.

Jerore is also teaching classes through Community Education. Some current offerings include Healing the Body, Mind and Spirit, March 2, Aromatherapy, March 9, Bach Flower Remedies, March 16, Natural Weight Management with herbs will also be held each Thursday evening beginning Jan. 21. Call 437-8105 at the Community Center, or Inner Harmony directly.

You can reach Kathy Jerore at Inner Harmony (248) 486-1788, 214 S. Lafayette St. in South Lyon. Consultations can be scheduled for mornings, evenings and weekends. Normal walk in hours to purchase products are Monday through Wednesday, noon to 6 p.m., Thursday, noon to 7 p.m. and Friday noon to 4 p.m.

Challenge me.

Two powerful words that kids are saying to their teachers, their schools, their parents

Surprisingly too many kids think school is too easy. They need, and want, to be challenged.

Need convincing?

- 74% of kids say schools should pass them to the next grade only when they've learned what's expected of them
- 75% say they'd study harder if their schools gave them tougher tests.

Kids are curious and motivated when challenged in school. Now it's our challenge to challenge them. To educate them with rigorous academic standards and high expectations. To give them the skills and knowledge they'll need to succeed in school, the workplace and everyday life.

We're talking about your kids. Or grandkids. Or kids you know if you underestimate their desire to learn you underestimate their future. And ours.

To make that future a bright one, we need to challenge our schools to challenge our kids. And support schools in that effort. It's easy to start. Just call for our free booklet. It's filled with information on how you can help raise academic achievement. And raise the hopes of every kid who wants to succeed.

To the Citizens of Oakland County...

I am pleased to present the Community Development Annual Report for Program Year 1999. Each year the County of Oakland publishes this document to inform residents of federal and local housing and community development funds at work in Oakland County.

Although the County enjoys a world class reputation for its quality of life, the programs administered by the Community Development Division demonstrate our commitment to addressing the needs of all residents.

Since 1975, the Division has invested more than $125 million in housing rehabilitation, neighborhood revitalization, and public services in fifty participating communities.

During 1998, more than $6 million in federal program funds were invested to help meet the needs of low and moderate income residents.

This report highlights the accomplishments of each program administered by the Division and details the planned use of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), Home Investment Partnerships Grant (HOME), Emergency Shelter Grant (ESG), and Comprehensive Housing Counseling Grant (CHC) funds for the 1999 program year.

Here are just a few of the Division's 1998 accomplishments:

- ♦ 297 homes were rehabilitated through the Home Improvement Program.
- ♦ 235 CDBG projects were initiated by local communities including: street improvements, accessibility upgrades, and home chore services.
- ♦ 2,433 persons received assistance from the Division's Housing Counseling Unit.

As we celebrate the 25th year of CDBG, I am joined by Jeff Kaczmarek, Director of the Department of Community and Economic Development and Karry L. Rieth, Manager of the Community Development Division, in saluting our fifty participating communities for their tremendous commitment to Oakland County.

- L. Brooks Patterson County Executive

Consolidated Planning

In January 1995, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) combined the requirements for the Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy (CHAS) with numerous submission and reporting regulations for the CDBG, HOME, ESG, and HOPWA programs into a five year Consolidated Plan requirement.

Consolidated Plans are designed to serve as a comprehensive document that identifies a jurisdiction's overall housing and community development needs. Street and sidewalk improvements, park/recreation facilities, and housing counseling were included as priorities in the County's 1995-2000 Plan.

The Plan lays out strategies to address identified needs and was developed to help coordinate the use of housing and community development programs and improve citizen involvement in the planning process.

The Consolidated Plan requirements result in an Annual Report that informs the public, meets federal requirements, and expresses the County's commitment to local community development efforts.

The planning process for the 2000-2005 Consolidated Plan will kick off soon. For more information contact our offices at (248) 858-0493 or check out a summary of the 1995-2000 Plan on the HUD website at <http://www.hud.gov>.

The Community Development Division

Since 1975, the Community Development Division has linked federal funds to Oakland County communities.

The Division administers the Dept. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Community Development Block Grant (CDBG), HOME Investment Partnerships Grant (HOME), Emergency Shelter Grant (ESG), and Comprehensive Housing Counseling Grant (CHC) to provide revitalization and human services to low and moderate income residents in fifty participating urban, suburban, and rural communities. The Division is also charged with ensuring that each participating community utilize their allocated funds according to federal regulation.

The Division's success over the past twenty-five years has been measured, in part, by dollars invested and the number of projects designed to benefit Oakland County's low and moderate income residents and neighborhoods.

For more information on the Community Development Division please contact (248) 858-0493. Our offices are located in Room 112, Executive Office Building (34E), at the Oakland County Service Center in Pontiac, MI.

The Home Improvement Program

The Oakland County Home Improvement Program (HIP) is designed to improve the condition of existing housing. With a low interest loan from the Community Development Division you can:

- ... Make needed repairs
- ... Maintain or increase values
- ... Decrease your utility bills
- ... and much more

Eligible homeowners receive installment or deferred loans of up to $12,000 for repairs to roofs, plumbing and electrical systems, water and sewer systems, or other structural items. Loan repayments are scheduled over a number of years or may be deferred.

The HIP is financed with Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) and HOME Investment Partnerships Grant (HOME) program funds.

All rehabilitation work is completed by licensed and insured residential builders. Community Development staff are prepared to: (1) help you to file an application, (2) advise you of eligibility, (3) inspect your property to determine needed repairs, (4) request bids from licensed contractors, (5) assist in contractor selection, (6) monitor the construction process, and (7) perform a final inspection.

Average cost per case $12,529

HUD Best Practices

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has once again awarded Oakland County's Home Improvement Program (HIP) as a Blue Ribbon Best Practice.

Specifically, the HIP was recognized for creating decent housing and suitable living environments for persons with low and moderate incomes.

During the 1996 program year, the Division rehabilitated 247 single-family homes at a cost of $2,593,335. The average cost per unit was $10,499, much less than the national average of $12,725. The number of units completed also exceeded the national average of 67 units for similar size grantees.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE DECLARATION

L. Brooks Patterson

Hereby issues this special proclamation in observance of Oakland County Community Development Week
March 29 - April 4, 1999

Whereas, the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program has operated for twenty-five years to provide governments with the resources required to meet the needs of persons of low and moderate income, and CDBG funds are used by thousands of neighborhood based non-profit organizations throughout the nation to address pressing community and human service needs; and

Whereas, the Community Development Block Grant program has had a significant impact on our local economics through job creation and retention, physical redevelopment, and improved local tax bases; and

Whereas, Oakland County and other local governments have clearly demonstrated the capacity to administer and customize the CDBG program to identify and resolve pressing local problems, such as affordable housing, neighborhood and human service needs, and physical redevelopment.

Now, Therefore, I, L. Brooks Patterson, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Oakland County Executive do hereby proclaim the week of March 29 - April 4, 1999, as Oakland County Community Development Week and urge all citizens to join us in recognizing the Community Development Block Grant program and the importance it serves in our community,

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set me hand and caused the seal of Oakland County, Michigan to be affixed this 16th day of March, 1999.

L. Brooks Patterson
Oakland County Executive

Community Development Block Grant - 25 Years of Strengthening Communities

The Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program benefits low and moderate-income persons and helps to keep neighborhood and business districts structurally sound, attractive, and economically viable. Since 1975, the county has invested more than $102 million in CDBG funds.

Locally, Oakland County earmarks one-third of CDBG funds to operate the Home Improvement Program (HIP). Almost two-thirds of remaining funds are invested in participating communities to implement revitalization projects.

Pages 8-11 detail each community's plan for its 1999 CDBG funds. Oakland County's 1998 CDBG funds totaled $5,834,882.05. Approximately 80% of the funds benefitted low and moderate income people or eliminated deteriorating community conditions. Nearly 20% supported planning and technical assistance activities.

Oakland County Housing Counseling

Community Development's own Housing Counseling Unit delivers comprehensive housing counseling services to Oakland County residents. Low and moderate income families, mentally and physically disabled persons, and senior citizens are assisted in finding and applying for subsidized or low-cost, safe, and decent housing.

Oakland County's Housing Counseling Unit is the only "public entity" HUD approved counseling agency in Michigan. The Unit provides an initial intake/screening interview, public and nonprofit resource referrals, and client follow up.

Fair Housing Assistance

It is illegal for real estate agencies, apartment complexes, or property owners to turn a person away from housing solely on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status or national origin.

Since 1994, Oakland County has worked with the Fair Housing Center of Metropolitan Detroit (FHC) to increase fair housing awareness. The FHC provides educational information and services including: a quarterly newsletter, housing referral guide, and training for public officials and housing providers.

If you feel you have been discriminated against while seeking housing, contact the following agencies for fair housing assistance:

Fair Housing Facts

This April will mark the 31st Anniversary of Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 — the Federal Fair Housing Law.

FAIR HOUSING FACTS

- The Fair Housing Act protects every one! No one can be denied housing because of their race, color, religion, sex, national origin, familial status, or disability.
- Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 - the Fair Housing Act was signed by President Lyndon Johnson on April 11, 1968.
- Within one year of its passage, HUD began receiving 1,000 complaints a year. By 1988, complaints leveled off to about 5,000 a year.
- In 1989, additional amendments were implemented to strengthen the Act. The act now covers discrimination based on disability and family status and has a new enforcement mechanism. These provisions stimulated a dramatic increase in complaints.
- By the mid-1990's, HUD was receiving 10,000 complaints a year.
- HUD works with some 80 state and local agencies to review and investigate fair housing complaints.

Citizens Advisory Council

The Citizens Advisory Council for Community Development (CAC) monitors the Community Development Division and serves an advisory role in planning, implementing, and assessing community development activities.

The twenty member Advisory Council is appointed by the Chairperson of the Oakland County Board of Commissioners annually. Membership includes four Board of Commissioner positions, six community representatives, and ten citizens at large.

A minimum of four meetings are held per year and take place at the Oakland County Service Center. Citizen Advisory Council meetings are open to the public and generally take place at 9:30 a.m. on the second Wednesday of the month.

Home Investment Partnerships Program

The HOME Investment Partnerships Grant (HOME) program was authorized by the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act of 1990. The purpose of the HOME program is to increase the supply of decent, safe, sanitary, and affordable housing for low income persons through strengthened public-private partnerships. Since 1992, Oakland County has received and administered more than eight million dollars in HOME funds.

By law, the County sets aside 15% of its annual HOME allocation for Community Housing Development Organizations (CHDOs). A CHDO is a non-profit community based agency whose purpose is to provide housing for low income persons.

Oakland County has certified the following five organizations as eligible CHDOs: Venture, Inc., Oakland Housing Advantage, Lighthouse Community Development, Housing Plus, and Your Home Co., Inc.

Oakland County invests approximately 85% of HOME funds in the Home Improvement Program. As mandated HOME funds are used to provide HIP loans for housing rehabilitation to the lowest income homeowners. Moderate income homeowners receive loans funded by the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG).

Federal regulations require the County to provide a 25% match for all HOME funded projects. Since 1992, the Oakland County Board of Commissioners and L. Brooks Patterson, Oakland County Executive, have authorized this match. Federal guidelines also permit a 10% administrative allowance.

The HOME program comment and environmental review periods are the same as the Oakland County CDBG program. See page 11, "Notice of Request for Release of Funds" for comment deadlines and addresses.

Emergency Shelter Grant Program

The Emergency Shelter Grant (ESG) program has operated in Oakland County since 1987 and was authorized by the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act.

The programs goal is to help improve the quality of existing emergency shelters, to make additional shelters available, and to help meet operational costs. ESG funds have been distributed by Oakland County to five shelters currently participating in the program: South Oakland Shelter, HAVEN (Help Against Violent Encounters Now), Lighthouse PATH, New Bethel Outreach Ministry, and The Common Ground Sanctuary "A Step Forward" program.

Three categories of expenditures are eligible under the County's ESG program: essential services (up to 30%), operations and maintenance (up to 100%), and organizational support (up to 10%). Each shelter chooses its own combination of expenditure categories (within acceptable limits).

Essential Services are associated with medical care, counseling, food, education, and similar expenses. Operations and Maintenance costs are incurred in shelter operations such as insurance, utilities, security services, and rent. Organizational Support expenses are mainly the salaries of shelter personnel.

Comment periods for the ESG program are identical to those for the HOME and CDBG programs. See page 11, "Notice of Request for Release of Funds" for comment deadlines and addresses.

Program Year 1999 CDBG Projected Use of Funds

STATEMENT OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT OBJECTIVES

Since 1975, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has allocated over 125 million dollars to Oakland County to administer annual Community Development Programs pursuant to the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended. The primary objective of Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act and of the Oakland County CDBG Program is the development of viable urban communities by providing decent housing, a suitable living environment and expanding economic opportunities, principally for persons of low and moderate income. Consistent with this primary objective, the Housing and Community Development Act identifies three broad national program objectives. Oakland County gives maximum feasible priority to CDBG projects which comply with one or more of the national objectives.

NATIONAL PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

- Ensure benefit to low and moderate income persons; not less than 70% of a grantee's aggregate funds shall be used to support activities that benefit low and moderate income persons.
- Aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blighting community conditions.
- Meet other community development needs having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a serious and immediate threat to the health or welfare of the community where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs.

In promoting the primary national objectives Oakland County Community Development has developed the following specific objectives and strategies consistent with policy statements for Federal, State, Regional, and County levels of government for the 1999 program year.

COUNTY PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

- Encourage communities to realistically plan for future development and to assist communities in developing the capacity to implement activities.
- Increase each community's commitment to its proposed community development activity.
- Discourage the use of community development funds on projects which can be funded through other sources.
- Improve, upgrade and increase property values through the concentration of rehabilitation efforts within neighborhoods.
- Reduce the number of substandard dwelling units within the county through the rehabilitation of existing residential units.
- Improve living conditions within housing units and reduce the financial burden of low and moderate income persons.
- Reduce housing maintenance and fuel costs and enable lower income persons to remain in their housing unit.
- Instill within homeowners the incentive to maintain and improve conditions within the housing unit.
- Assist homeowners in using available funding sources to accomplish housing rehabilitation activities.
- Reduce the isolation of income groups and increase housing opportunities for low and moderate income persons.
- Affirmatively further fair housing and equal opportunity.
- Minimize displacement of persons as a result of CDBG assisted activities through counsel and careful assessment of each project requiring displacement.
- Provide relocation assistance in accordance with the Uniform Relocation Act of 1970 (24 CFR 42) and mitigate adverse effects of displacement, if any, on low and moderate income persons.
- Ensure that persons displaced as a result of CDBG assisted projects will be treated fairly, consistently, and equitably so such persons will not suffer disproportionate injuries as a result of projects designed for the benefit of the public as a whole.
- Ensure that tenants displaced involuntarily and permanently as a result of the use of CDBG assistance to acquire or substantially rehabilitate property will be treated the same as activities covered under the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act of 1970.
- Ensure that not less than 70% of CDBG funds received annually are used for activities that principally benefit persons of low and moderate income.
- Provide for citizen participation in the CDBG process by implementing a detailed citizen participation plan.

The following projects are eligible uses of CDBG funds in accordance with federal and 9/6/88 Rules and Regulations defined in 24 CFR Part 570:

Acquisition/Disposition	Relocation
Public Facilities/Improvements:	Removal of Arch. Barriers
Senior Centers	Rehabilitation/Preservation:
Recreational Facilities	Public Residential Rehab.
Centers for the Handicapped	Public Housing Modernization
Fire Protection	Private Property Rehab.
Parking	Temp. Relocation Assist.
Public Utilities	Code Enforcement
Street Improvements	Historic Preservation
Water and Sewer	Economic Development
Pedestrian Malls/Walkways	Acquisition
Planning and Management	Clearance/Demolition
Administration	Public Services
Interim Assistance

All objectives, strategy statements and definitions of eligible activities are available for public review in the Oakland County Community Development Division, Executive Office Building, Room 112, 1200 N. COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT PROGRAM YEAR 1999 PROJECTED USE OF FUNDS

The County of Oakland, a Michigan Constitutional Corporation, in compliance with the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, will submit the following proposed projects and allocations to HUD for FY 1999 CDBG funding totaling $4,772,000.00 on March 16, 1999. Oakland County will supplement the 1999 CDBG entitlement from HUD with $1,308,404.45 in County and Community CDBG program income generated from 1/1/98-12/31/98 for total 1999 revenues of $6,080,404.45.

HOW TO READ THIS PROJECTED USE OF FUNDS

The use of Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds must comply with a number of federal guidelines. These requirements must all be listed in this Projected Use of Funds. To save space, a number of codes have been used. For example, you may read a project title like this:

SENIOR CITIZEN CENTER A2a $44,500

This means that the community will spend $44,500 of its 1999 CDBG funds on a senior citizen center. Each part of the code "A2a" has a meaning. The capital letter indicates which national CDBG objective the project falls under. The national objective codes are:

- Project benefits low and/or moderate income people.
- Project addresses slums or blighted conditions.
- Project meets an urgent community need where no other funding is available.

The number indicates the project's status under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA).

- Project has been environmentally assessed.
- Project is categorically excluded from environmental review by NEPA.
- Project is exempt from environmental review by NEPA.

Finally, the small letter indicates the regulatory authority for the project; in other words, where in the regulations it says that the project may be funded with CDBG money. All regulations regarding CDBG are found in the Code of Federal Regulations, Volume 24. This is abbreviated as "24 CFR". The specific section comes afterward. Thus 24 CFR 570.201(c), means volume 24, Code of Federal Regulations, section 570.201(c). The regulatory codes used in this publication are:

a 24 CFR 570.201(a)	k 24 CFR 570.202(c)
c 24 CFR 570.201(c)	m 24 CFR 570.205(a) d 24 CFR 570.201(d)	n 24 CFR 570.206(a)
e 24 CFR 570.201(e)	o 24 CFR 570.206(a)(1)
f 24 CFR 570.201(f)	p 24 CFR 570.206(c)
g 24 CFR 570.202(a)	r 24 CFR 570.207(b)(1)(iii)

j 24 CFR 570.202(b)(3)	u 24 CFR 570.202(e)

ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT,
HOME INVESTMENT PARTNERSHIPS, AND EMERGENCY SHELTER GRANT PROGRAMS
NOTICE OF FINDING OF
NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT ON THE ENVIRONMENT

The County of Oakland has prepared an Environmental Review Record in respect to the aforementioned projects and has determined that the listed projects will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and, accordingly, the County has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. The reasons for such decisions not to prepare such a statement are as follows:

- Adverse impacts on the physical or natural environment are negligible and other impacts are beneficial.
- The projects will make no significant increased demand on public services and will create no pollution impacts.
- The project will not substantially change the income, racial, ethnic, age distribution or population size of the County. Other impacts on the social environment are neutral or beneficial.
- The extent of any environmental impact is limited to the County.
- The nature, magnitude and extent of any environmental impact on the project, whether beneficial or adverse are such that there will be no significant effect on the environment.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the aforementioned 1999 projects has been made by Oakland County which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth reasons why such a statement is not required. The environmental review status respecting the aforementioned 1999 projects is keyed as: (1) environmentally assessed, (2) categorically assessed, (3) exempt.

The Environmental Review Record is on file at the Community Development Division, 1200 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac, MI and is available for public examination upon request in Room 112, 8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Community Development manager for consideration by Oakland County. Such written comments must be received from March 31st until the close of business on April 14th. All such comments so received will be considered and Oakland County will not request the release of federal funds or take any administrative action on the project prior to April 15th.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT,
HOME INVESTMENT PARTNERSHIPS, AND EMERGENCY SHELTER GRANT PROGRAMS

On or about April 15th, the County of Oakland, a Michigan Constitutional Corporation, will request the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to release federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, the Cranston-Gonzales National Affordable Housing Act, and the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act to undertake the aforementioned projects for which an Environmental Review Record has been prepared. It has been determined that such requests for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment. The County of Oakland, 1200 N. Telegraph Rd., Pontiac, MI will undertake the projects described about with block grant funds from HUD under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, HOME funds under the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act, and Emergency Shelter Grant funds under the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act. The County of Oakland is certifying to HUD that the County and L. Brooks Patterson, County Executive, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts, if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to Environmental Review decision making and action, and that these responsibilities have been satisfied.

The legal effect on the certification is that upon its approval, the County may use the block grant funds and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: A. That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer of the applicant approved by HUD. B. That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicated omission of a required decision finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process.

Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to HUD at Patrick V. McNamara Federal Bldg., 477 Michigan Ave., Detroit, MI 48226. Objections to this release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. All interested agencies, groups, and persons must specifically indicate that program commented on (Community Development Block Grant, HOME, or Emergency Shelter Grant) and, for each program, whether the objection(s) submitted addresses the Environmental Review or the Request for Release of Funds. No objection received after April 30th on any program will be considered by HUD.

YOUTH SPORTS

The YMCA Youth Sports leagues are designed so every child plays half of every game. At the Plymouth YMCA, the word "winning" means a lot more than a score at the end of the game. Winning means working towards the realization of personal goals, which might include improving a particular aspect of the game, learning to work as a team, or just having fun and making new friends! For information on the YMCA Youth Sports Leagues or to become a volunteer coach or official, call the Plymouth YMCA at (734) 453-2904.

Jazz dance is a mixture of African and European dance styles that stretches, elaborates, and even breaks the rules of ballet. Often set to popular music, it is the dance form of MTV and the musical theater, which explains its popularity. This class will explore the different kinds of jazz disciplines and performance using high energy music and choreography.
