Court construction underway

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

With Mother Nature finally lending a hand, construction was well underway on the new 35th District Court last week.

Judge Ron Lowe said footings were being poured and foundation work was beginning on the new courthouse. To allow that to happen, the foundation for the burned-out courthouse needed to be removed and certain portions backfilled. The parking lot of the old courthouse had also been dug out. Lowe said.

They're really going to town now that better weather has broken," Lowe said.

Bonds for the construction of the new court were expected to go out for sale sometime in the near future, Lowe said, though he wasn't certain of a specific date.

at the court, Lowe said.

You can see the weight that's been taken off the shoulders of the court staff," Lowe said. "That's probably a combination of the spring weather and what's happening with the new construction." Though it had been originally hoped to have the new court completed by November of 1999, Lowe

Family says riot charges stem from mistaken identity

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Gary Pastor stares through the window on the back of his Salem Township house and calls what his family is experiencing a total "nightmare."

It started April 8 when Gary and Terri Pastor's 21-year-old son, Anthony David Pastor, was arraigned in East Lansing District Court on a felony charge of possession of an explosive device.

The incident allegedly took place during the March 27-28 riot in East Lansing that was sparked by Michigan State University's loss to Duke University in the NCAA men's basketball semifinals.

He was released after posting 10 per-cent of a $2,500 personal bond. If convicted on the charge. Pastor faces up to 15 years in prison. In addition to legal troubles. Pastor may face disciplinary charges from Western Michigan University.

But Gary Pastor said he insists this is a case of mistaken identity.

"Maybe he looks like someone who did something, I don't know," he said. "But I can tell you this, that knowing his character. knowing his background and knowing the people he associates with that he is totally, totally innocent. It's a clear, unmistakable case of mistaken identity." There have been 39 defendants in the case so far with 22 arraigned as of April 9. according to the city of East Lansing. Twelve of the 22 arraigned have been Michigan State University students. Additionally, there are 12 arraignments pending and five bench warrants outstanding for failure to appear for arraignment.

Anthony David Pastor has been at Western Michigan University for three years. Pastor's father said his son is busy balancing his studies and working two jobs.

Before going away to school, Paster attended Plymouth-Canton High School and was a varsity letterman in baseball for three of the years. Gary Pastor said his son has never been in any kind of trouble and that he is "a very good human being."

Pastor said his son has many friends. including a group that he had grown up with that attend Michigan State University. Trips between Kalamazoo and East Lansing to visit each other were not uncommon, Pastor said, "whenever things are going on.

Current and outgoing Northville School Board members asked for it and they'll get it - a contested race for two open slots on the board in June

Five Northville area residents turned in petitions to run for school board before the 4 p.m. April 12 deadline.

They are: Sharon Fleming: Jerry Rupley: Gregory Pelc: Carol Poenisch: Raymond

"It's wonderful to have five people interested enough to campaign," said Joan Wadsworth, vice president of the Northville school board. "It speaks highly of the com-munity when you have so many people willing to run for offices."

Wadsworth said voter turnout is higher with more candidates running.

Candidates have until the end of today to drop out of the election which will be held June 14.

The two board seats are being left by Robert McMahon and Richard Brown who both recently announced they were retiring from the board when their terms end in

Northville District Library debuts new reading programs

By CAROL DIPPLE Feature Editor

The Northville District Library unveiled new services in conjunction with National Library Week.

The Reading Edge, two new computer workstations, and database access from home computers were introduced this week.

Through funds received from a Library Services and Technology Act grant, the library was able to install two "adapted features" computers.

The new computer terminals can be used by all patrons but are specifically designed for those with sight and/or hearing impairments.

"Our goal is to increase access," said Anne Mannisto, assistant Besides having large, 21-inch monitors, the adapted features on the two computers include software that can magnify text on the screen, which already appears much larger than usual (about the size of a nickell, up to 10 more times.

Judge Woodside?

Supervisor may be in line for bench selection

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

Though it could not be substantiated, word persisted Monday that Northville Township supervisor Karen Woodside may be in the running for a judicial appointment Wayne County Circuit Court.

It was speculation Woodside denied in a phone message left Monday at the Record. The message said she "was not under consideration for judicial appointment."

Karen Woodside

All appointments to the bench are made by Gov. John Engler. Engler's press secretary, John Truscott, said he could release no information regarding court appointments, including the number of candidates being consid-

"It's been our strict policy to make this a confidential process," Truscott said Friday. "If the person make it public, that's their call."

Truscott also said that formal announcements regarding judicial appointments were still more than two weeks off, as Engler was scheduled to leave for a 14-day trip to Germany beginning April 11.

Pat Wierzeicki, Engler's Detroit office aide, said she didn't know for a fact" if Woodside had been under consideration for the position and referred all questions to Truscott per state policy.

However, Tara Hechlik, assistant to lieutenant governor Dick Posthumus said that paperwork pertaining to Woodside and the position as a judge had been forwarded from Posthumus's office to the governor's office, but was unable to elaborate.

A subsequent phone call to Hechlik said that she had meant that the items which had "crossed her desk" were "meant figuratively and not literally.

She also said that Woodside's name had cropped up in "rumor mill" type conversations as a possible candidate for the judgeship.

With or without Woodside involved as a candidate for the position, Hechlik said the office of the Lieutenant Governor does not chose to go out and their own and make authoritative decisions regarding judicial appointments. "We don't say 'yay' or 'nay'." Hechlik said. "We're just here to assist the governor's office. That's our function.

In cases when bench vacancies pop up, an interested party sends a letter of intent to the governor's office. Upon receipt, the governor returns to the sender an application for the position. That mailing is filled out by the applicant and attached to a resume and a statement of philosophy.

The bundle of paperwork is then forwarded to the Michigan Bar, whose job it is to assign a candidate rating, which is then sent back to the governor's office. Finally, interviews are conducted and recommendations passed on to the governor.

Woodside has served as a prosecutor in the appellate division of the Wayne County prosecutor's office for nearly 10 years. She made an unsuccessful bid for a bench position in 35th District Court. John MacDonald is now in that position.

Northville youths arrested for OUIL

The incident happened 11:30 p.m. April 7.

According to Northville Police reports, police were checking a suspicious vehicle near the southeast entrance of city parking lot no, one when they witnessed several people "scurrying" at a house on South Center Street. Police went to the back of the house and saw a person standing in the kitchen who they then told to go to the side door.

Police told the 16-year-old boy to go to the side door. He told them he had "a bunch of people" over but told them to leave because he wasn't supposed to have anyone over. When asked by police if there was anyone else in the house the boy replied he didn't

As a result, police searched the home and found five other teenagers in the basement along with various bottles containing alcohol scattered. The six teens in the home were given preliminary breath tests of which five failed and were arrested. The teens were between the ages of 15

They were released into the custody of their parents.

BREAKING AND ENTERING:

The Upper Deck, 235 E. Main St., was broken into sometime during the night of April 6.

The incident was reported to Northville Police at about 8:30 a.m. According to the Northville Police Department, a person or persons broke a window on the east side of the building, unlatched the window and entered the business. An office door window was smashed and about $216 was stolen from a money bag in the office.

There were no suspects or witnesses. Anyone with information on the case is asked to call Northville Police at (248) 349-

Police recover body of drowning victim

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

A two-day search for a missing Livonia woman ended Monday after search dogs located her body near a bend of the Rouge River in Hines Park.

The victim, 21-year-old Kerry Hoffman, was pulled from the rapidly-flowing water Monday after a K-9 unit found the body in a hidden area under a fallen tree.

Lieutenant John Sherman of the township's police department said an officer on his way to work Sunday morning observed a 1987 Toyota Camry half-submerged in the Rouge River along Northville Road, south of Reservoir. The driver of the car could not be located at the scene. The doors of the vehicle were closed, but a window on the car was folled down. Police could find no evidence at the scene to suggest foul play or that the car had swerved after hitting a wild animal. 🏸

Sherman sáid records were pulled on the car. A check with the owner revealed that Hoffman was the last known person seen driving the car. She was said to have last been seen at around 5:30 a.m. Sunday after leaving a relative's home, according to Police walked through the park for most of the day Sunday, but were unable to locate Hoffman. A tracking dog unit was summoned from Van Buren Township on Monday. Within a matter of minutes, the dog found Hoffman approximately 130 yards downstream from where the car was Additional assistance was requested from the Wayne County Water Recovery unit, as the investigation was taking place on county property.

Sherman said the woman's body was later turned over to Wayne County authorities, who were performing toxicology tests on the woman.

There is no evidence of any foul play whatsoever at this point." Sherman said Tuesday.

Township public safety director Chip Snider said he was saddened at the case but nonetheless relieved that there was an end to the story.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE UPDATE

Alzheimer's disease is the most common dementia (cognitive and memory decline) in people over the age of 65. It affects approximately 4 million Americans and ranks as the fourth leading cause of death after heart disease, cancer and stroke. The emotional and social impact of this disease is suffered not only by patients, but also the caregivers. The functional and behavioral decline in Alzheimer's disease result from destruction of the nerve cells that control memory, thinking and behavior, linitially short-term memory fails and there is decreased ability to perform familiar tasks. As the disease gradually robs people from cognitive and social skills, behavioral symptoms such as aggression, disonentation and wandering are seen. Older individuals, especially those with family history of Alzheimer's disease are at high risk. Complaints of social withdrawal, depression and decreased awareness of time along with memory decline require prompt medical attention and early diagnosis. The future holds promise for effectively treating this 'silent epidemic', and current treatments significantly improve symptoms. When given in uncomplicated disease, a new therapy improved cognitive function in 12 weeks. Treatment of early symptoms can help prevent long-term facility placement, preserve dignity and reduce caregiver stress.

Water down the drain?

The rushing water has eroded the Quail Ridge Drainage Ditch. Township officials are appealing to Novi officials to fix the drain problems.

Northville Township seeks relief from drain problems

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

Northville Township authorities continued moving toward forcing the city of Novi and Oakland County to help pay for reconstruction of a deteriorating water drain under Eight Mile Road.

The township enacted a petition last month to seek an intercounty drain agreement for the drain's redevelopment costs to be borne by multiple municipalities. The township claimed the agreement was needed because Novi officials were expressing little, if any interest to willingly make financial contributions to the County and the state department of Agriculture, would be evaluated in Lansing. A large amount of legal juggling is needed to be completed before Oakland County and Novi would be made to help cover the cost.

The Wayne County portion of debate is slated for an April 20 meeting of the county board of commissioners. By the time all negotiations are completed, Weaver said there was a strong likelihood that the method of assessment on the repairs would be changed from its tentative plan, which calls for the township to pay an estimated $65,000 versus $303,000 for Novi.

The township has already footed the bill for the engineering study of the drain," Weaver said.

Water that passes under Eight Mile and into Northville Township and Wayne County, for that matter - has at times caused serious damage to homes and property for people living along the drain's banks. Quail Ridge residents pleaded with the township one year ago to fix the problem before further damage was caused or personal injuries were gone back and forth on the Quail Ridge issue. Neither side in the matter denies a problem exists, but the two sides have very different opinions as to how the erosion was caused.

Weaver said Northville Township was taking the lead on the matter because of Novi's reluctance to be a willing partner in solving the problem.

The pace of making change happen has been slowed. Weaver said, because of the ranty of intercounty drain agreements. He said he'd never before been asked to organize and execute a drain agreement, and knew of only a few which had ever taken place in Wayne

The homes, he said, were almost exclusively duplexes constructed from coconut tree wood. They were small by American standards, he said, and lacked running water or electricity. They were, however, a quantum leap in Improvement from what many of the shantytown dwellers had been forced to live in earlier. Kwas said he helped with the masonry work on the homes, as well as some of the carpentry and painting. Roof work was left to skilled labor people in the area, which Kwas said earned an average of around $100 a month.

Kwas was joined in his efforts by other Habitat volunteers from across the U.S. and around the world. The inability to speak in each other's native didn't deter the group from getting work from completed, Kwas said.

District/township settlement at hand

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The proverbial fat lady may be warming up, but hasn't sung a note yet in a battle between Northville Township and the Northville School District.

The latest episode of the the almost year-long battle between the two parties will take place

Northville Township board of trustees will take into consideration changes to its proposed settlement between the two parties involved that includes possibly relocating the site of the planned soccer field for the new Northville High School.

The Northville board of education voted on the changes to the settlement agreement at its regular meeting April 13.

We've established a good basis of communication and are getting closer and closer to a final agreement," said Thomas Gudritz, president of the Northville School District board.

Gudritz said he couldn't estimate as to when a final agreement could possibly be reached but he was "hopeful it would be a short time frame."

Township board members sent its proposal to the district after the district sent a letter to the Township clarifying several issues that some school board members said there was confusion on. The township then developed a settlement agreement and sent it to the school district.

The document that the township will be looking at includes "slight modifications" to the township's proposed settlement which includes among other things the township provides a game soccer stadium site that is acceptable to the district by July 1 lights will not be installed at the site.

Other parts of the settlement include: the closest corner of the soccer stadium will be about 75 feet and the track will be about 31 feet from the western property line; landscape plantings on the western and northern property lines will meet or exceed landscape plans dated July 31, 1998 and the district shall landscape the eastern property line; the main detention pond shall be completely fenced with six-foot high fencing designed to keep people out and will meet Northville Township and Wayne County ordinances.

Additionally, the district proposes water and sewer fees be based on 1998 rates which would not exceed $386,440 and the fees may be paid in one payment or five equal annual installments without interest. With rates that took effect in December, the costs would be more than $413,000. Also, the settlement calls for the fees to be paid in one payment or five equal annual installments without interest.

The last part of the settlement voted on by the school board, the district agrees to "seek input from the township on site plans and zoning issues and cooperate with the township as deemed reasonable and appropriate by the dis-

"I'm encouraged that we're at the point of being able to talk about a resolution," Gudritz said.

Historical Tidbit

The 16th day of November 1889. was a bright day and brighter night for Northville. The first electric lights were turned on that night. Thirty street lights of 20-candle power each for streets and 100 lights of ten- candle power each supplied the stores. House lighting was a problem for the future.

The system was owned and operated by the Globe Furniture Co., with Samuel W. Wilkinson as chief engineer, master of equipment, supervisor of lines, solicitor of extension and collector of bills. In 1899, the destructive fire of the Globe Furniture Co. put the town in darkness for a time.

The village took over the system in 1900, and erected a new plant on the north side of Beal Avenue west of River Rouge.

The Detroit Edison Co. leased this plant, taking possession on Nov. 16, 1914, exactly 25 years after the first lights were turned

Later, the Edison Co. purchased the plant, thus releasing the village from the heavy burden of operating under municipal owner-

Retaining superintendents a problem, report says

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

The stories coming out of school board meetings are true: Fewer educators are applying to become school superintendents.

School boards are alarmed when even a $120,000 salary offer may fail to attract a lot of candidates.

*Candidates for leadership positions in public schools have been declining for at least a decade," say two Oakland University professors in a new report commissioned by the Michigan Association of School Boards.

School boards can deal with the problem by paying more and by dealing more professionally with inevitable conflicts.

Candidates for superintendent *do not want to seek positions in districts where the board and superintendent have had a history of conflict," say Drs. William G. Keane flicts will apparently severely reduce the number of applicants."

Keane, who headed the Oakland Intermediate School District for 14 years and worked with many boards to resolve conflict, had this advice:

Conflicts are normal in human relations. but some boards work quietly to resolve problems without acrimony while others become the newspapers' delight, providing reporters with a story every board meeting.'

Boards can make searches easier by deciding early whether they want to promote from within. Reason: 64 percent of outside superintendents are discouraged if they believe an in-house candidate has the inside track. Don't do a "high profile 'intergalactic' search only to find the perfect person down the hall. Look down the hall first," they percent is needed to lure 37 percent of potential candidates, the authors reported.

An assistant or director in a safe district doesn't want to jump to a financially strapped problem district as superintendent without a big pay increase. The flip side of the problem is that the board has trouble explaining to voters why it's offering big money to the new chief executive.

Other reasons for the shortage of superintendent candidates:

 The heavy time commitment required of the superintendent.

 "The growing number of single-issue school board candidates." The writers didn't elaborate on this point except to suggest that "the community church has decided that certain literature previously studied in surveyed 604 local and intermediate districts last fall, getting "usable responses" from 63 percent of superintendents and about half of other high-echelon administrators - well beyond the 35 percent needed to draw conclusions.

The superintendent's job is important. they argue, because he or she has the key role in selecting principals. The CEO also drives the vision building process and helps clarify belief about the ability of all children to learn.

Candidates want to go to a district 'with more support for schools from the community (62 percent), more help for the superintendent is available (60 percent), where there is labor peace (50 percent), a larger district (44 percent).

Others want a district "closer to family (33 percent)," where there's no need to relocate

Assessments on the rise according to city report

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The total assessed value of homes in Northville rose more than $14 million for 1999, a recently released report said.

The total assessed value of the 2.254 residential parcels in the city rose from $217,202,710 in 1998 to $231,405,780 in 1999, according to Amerestate Inc.

Additionally, a report by city assessor John McLenaghan to the Northville city council said, "the taxable value for the community is increasing from $236.459.680 to $245.510.775 representing an increase of 3.83 percent."

The report also indicates the median price of residential parcels in the city of Northville was about $216,630 in mid year

The assessment report is part of the proposed 1999-2000 city of Northville budget put before Northville city council April 5.

Taxable value assessments are conducted on an annual basis and are given out at budget time since 67 percent of the city's revenue comes from property taxes. said Gary Word, Northville city manager.

"I'm not surprised by those numbers," he said "The property values in Northville have always been strong."

The increase of the taxable value for the community results from the 1.6 percent increase allowed by the cost of living adjustment, the uncapping of values caused by sales of properties plus the increases from new construction, the report to the city council said.

During the past four years, the taxable value of Northville homes has increased between 1.93 percent and 4.75 percent, the report

City prepares for budget hearings

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Lots of number crunching, long meetings and some disappointed departments can only mean one thing - it's budget time for the city of Northville.

For the next five weeks department heads and city council members will hash out the details of what will and won't be included in the city's budget for fiscal year 1999-2000.

The budget presents a financial plan for all activities of the upcoming fiscal year by collecting and presenting income and proposed expenditures in a form prescribed

While the budgeting process remains consistent from previous years, there is one big change for this year, said Gary Word, Northville city manager.

The biggest difference is that instead of the traditional budgeting method, we are doing a fiveyear plan," he said.

Many communities don't use the five-year plan method. Word said. Northville decided to do five-year projections to give city planners a better tool to work with while making decisions based on the future.

Word said looking five years down the line was "quite a bit of extra work" for department heads and staff but that the new document will be a great assistance in

The budget process itself begins with goals and objectives being outlined and prioritized by city council, city manager and city administrators in January. In February, department heads prepare line item budgets which go to the finance director in March.

A proposed, balanced budget is then developed that takes into account the goals and objectives outlined by the city council and community in January and Febru-

Among the big items planned for the year include: the Center Street improvement project; other local street improvements; and addressing problems possibly associated with the year 2000 bug.

Some items are required to be cut from department requests in order to establish a balanced budget in the beginning.

Some items proposed to be cut from the budget already include: establishing a Northville Web site. $12,000; historic preservation video, $23,000; entrance signs to the city, $7.500; parking lot improvements and expansion at Mill Race Village, $50,000; vehicle/bike storage shed, $20,000; technology outlay projects worth $49,216.

The items recommended to be cut may be added back into the budget if city council members deem it necessary. Word said.

There are a number of items that can't be cut from the budget. Among those items and how much they account for the budget are: police department, 40 percent; city administration. 18 percent; department of public works. 10 percent. Other items such as buildings and grounds, recreational and cultural activity and fire department account for between one percent and 7 percent of the total budget expenditures.

Special meetings will be held April 14. April 21 and April 26 in order to examine each item in the budget. The public may attend

The exterior of the NovaCare building on Main Street in downtown Northville is getting a face lift.

Downtown building undergoes renovations

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Dennis Engerer said he doesn't want his building to stick out like a "sore thumb."

That's why at his building at 215 E. Main St. he's adding a second level and redoing the facade to match neighboring buildings, he

"I wanted to give the building a whole new look so it would fit in better in this part of town." Enger-

As part of the $700,000 upgrade to the building, the facade of the building will include limestone characteristics "that mimic the (First Presbyterian) church across the street and will have a raised seam roof. The upgrade also calls for all new brick on the building, new windows.

There's going to be a lot more here than the previous look we had," Engerer said.

The building is about 25 years old and has served as a sawmill and warehouse distribution center among other things.

Engerer owns and operates NovaCare, an outpatient rehabilitation clinic, in the building and shares it with a family practice.

He plans to have some type of medical business located on the new 5,000-square-foot second floor of the building when construction is completed. The project is planned to be done Aug. 23. Engerer said.

The Northville businessman also has submitted a proposal to the city to purchase land at the intersection of Cady Street and Church Street with intentions of developing a business and/or residential complex at that site. He is waiting for city council action on his proposal for that space.

Northville DDA approves Cady Street property sale

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

A $1.5 million to $2 million office development could be on its way to downtown Northville within the next two years.

The Northville Downtown Development Authority has approved a recommendation from Gary Word, Northville city manager, for the city to sell two parcels of land at the intersection of Cady Street and Church Street to a developer for $150,000.

The recommendation moves onto the city council for a vote within the next two weeks.

Word said the development proposed by Dennis Engerer, who is renovating the NovaCare center at 215 E. Main St., makes perfect sense for the city.

Those properties were acquired in the 1980s specifically for redevelopment purposes. he said. This development makes sense and I see no basis to deny it."

About half of the land in the proposed deal is vacant and the other half is occupied by a house right on the corner and an apartment building north of the house. The apartment building, which is owned by Engerer, and the house would both be demolished as part of the proposal.

In a letter to the Northville Downtown Development Authority,

"Those properties were acquired in the 1980s specifically for redevelopment purposes," he said.

"This development makes sense and I see no basis to deny it."

Dennis Engerer

Word said that in 1998 the authority asked staff to determine the approximate value of the property without requiring a formal property appraisal. City staff reported a property value of about $170,000 to $225,000.

Engerer's original proposal price for the land was $100,000. After a March 10 meeting between Word and Engerer, the developer increased his offer for the land to $150,000.

Following the offer, the city's contracted assessor John McLenaghan determined "the offer of $150,000, as proposed without commissions, demolition or other improvements, is a reasonable

Engerer said he doesn't have plans finalized for the site yet.

However, he said, his first choice of development for the land would be an office complex. His second choice would be an office/residential mix with housing units on the second level. The total development cost of the site and building between $12,000 and $14,000 would likely be between $1.5 million and $2 million.

A parking lot that could be used by the neighboring First Presbyterian Church Northville or any other parties during off hours could be constructed where the apartment unit now stands. Additionally. underground parking could be an option depending on how much parking space the city requires. Engerer said.

If approved by city council con-struction would begin in the next ear, Engerer said.

That land is really under developed," he said. "There's nothing there and it's really ugly as it currently exists.

Additionally, Engerer said he's interested in that area of the city because of talks of making Cady Street a *kind of second Main Street" in the city.

Some of the improvement plans proposed to develop Cady St. a real nice and could turn it into a really nice area," Engerer said.

Northville forms utility commission

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Complaining will get you somewhere in Northville.

For instance, you may end up on a mayor-appointed committee that handles exactly what you have concerns about, like 12 residents who landed on the Citizens Committee on Utility Financing.

The committee has met several times since the beginning of the year and soon will make recommendations to city council on possible ways to control water and sewage costs

Mark Cryderman, chairman of the citizens' committee, said the committee was formed in response to Northville citizen complaints last winter about escalating water and sewage costs.

The goal is to look at the water and sewer rates to understand why rates are so high and see if anything can be done to improve (the rates)," he said.

Gary Word, Northville city manager, said the committee was formed earlier this year in response to a suggestion made last December.

"When we adjusted rates last time, there was some resident feedback," he said. "And it was suggested a committee be formed to further examine the situation."

The goals of the group is to review the utility system of Northville including revenues and expenditures including other ways of financing increasing costs, Word

Word said the group has been meeting since earlier this year and that "feedback has gone very well" for the productivity of the group. The recommendations to city council should occur in the next few weeks.

Cryderman said he was voted into the chairman's seat based on past experience as a Northville city council member, a planning commission member and the historic district commission. The rest of the committee consists of "quite a different cross-section" of Northville residents. Cryderman said.

Also, he said, the committee has examined the structure of rates. where they come from, what can be changed and what can't be.

Cryderman said he hopes the committee's work doesn't go

I hope our recommendations have some impact," he said. "But it's also important for people to understand what the recommendations are and that there are some things we can't do anything about.

And despite the intentions of the group. Word said it's important to keep in mind the fact that the suggestions will be just that.

"I'm not say that we're going to agree with everything they suggest or that everything they suggest will be put in place," he said. "But I think they're a good group and are practicing good due diligence in this process.

Fire officials warn of faulty CO detectors

A defective carbon monoxide detector facing a nationwide recall had grabbed the attention of Northville Township fire chief Bill Zhmendak.

A press release from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety commission said that two models of the Lifesaver and Nighthawk have shown instances of reacting late, and sometimes not at all, to the presence of carbon monoxide.

Zhmendak said no injuries or fatalities have been reported to date regarding the detectors, but that knowledge did little to comfort

The fire department continues to recommend that every household have an Underwriters Laboratory (UL) listed carbon monoxide alarm," Zhmendak said.

odorless gas produced from any fuel-burning appliance. In small doses it can cause dizziness or nausea, but if inhaled in large enough quantities can be fatal. Some 10,000 Americans each year are treated for carbon monoxide inhalation and 200 die from it.

Zhmendak said the problem with the detectors stemmed from the foam packing material used to ship the detectors to retail outlets. For some reason, the packaging had a tendency to de-sensitize the gas sensors in the mechanism.

The Nighthawk models included in the recall were all models manufactured between Nov. 8, 1998 and March 9, 1999 with the words 'Nighthawk" and "Carbon monoxide alarm' were written on the front of the unit. The Lifesaver models, on the other hand, included model number 9CO-1 and 9CO- The potentially malfunctioning item has the manufacturing date listed in the first six numbers of the serial number, which is located above the UPC symbol.

hardcovers costing $1. paperbacks, 50 cents; and romance novels, 25 cents. Special collector books are individually priced, and there will be a $4 bag sale on Sunday.

Selections are varied and include historical novels, government, technology, how-to, medical, psychology, travel, children, adolescents, crafts, music, poetry, literature, and more.

Proceeds will be used to educate the public on governmental issues. This year the brochure They Represent You" was printed and distributed to the libraries and a study on Charter Schools was completed on the

The Senate Fiscal Agency compiled the numbers in its annual Status of Lawsuits Against the State of Michigan" report.

In the record case, the state Legislature dipped into its "rainy day" fund to pay off the Durant suit. named for a board member in Warren Fitzgerald School District who was the lead plaintiff when the case was filed in 1980.

Durant said the state shorted suburban school districts, in particular, on special education, special ed transportation, bilingual education, driver education and school lunches. The programs are required by law. The Supreme Court said the state violated the 1978 Headlee amendment to the state constitution by failing to fund programs it had mandated.

An old school desegregation case from Benton Harbor is still costing the state $2.7 million a year.

Other departmental payouts, either in court judgments or settlements, last year:

 Transportation $8.3 million. Most payouts were for failure to maintain a smooth road with adequate shoulder. A Wayne County case was settled for $1.7 million. In general, MDOT payouts were far below fiscal 1991's $22.8 million. 1993's $21 million and 1990's $20.7 million. The Senate staff gave no reasons, though lawmakers wrote tougher suit standards as part of the ongoing "tort once they have money in hand. As the stewards of our tax dollars, the township has a responsibility to make certain it is spending the public's cash in a proper manner. Assuming this park is made into something everyone in the community can benefit from, it's got our endorsement.

But that brings us to a very critical point: we believe that the township needs to tread carefully and

Sheri Peters Northville Community Foundation director regarding the turnout of citizens to volunteer their help in running the Northville Fourth of July Parade

Getting the straight scoop...sort of Ever wondered how a judge gets appointed?

I always wondered that myself. I mean, I understand the mechanics of it. When judicial vacancies occur, an interested party sends a letter of intent to the governor's office. The governor's office, in turn, sends back an application for the position, and then the interested party fills out the application, attaches a resume and a statement of judicial philosophy, and sends it back to the governor's office.

The entire file is forwarded to the Michigan Bar, which assigns a rating to the candidate. The Bar then sends the paperwork back to the governor's office, where interviews are conducted and recommmendations passed onto the governor for consideration.

It all sounds like a pretty cut and dried, straight forward process except for one thing. It all happens out of the public eye.

The reason I even bother to bring this up is that we received word through the political grapevine that our very own township supervisor Karen Woodside was being considered for a seat on the judicial bench. For us, and our readers, that's pretty big news, something that we'd all like to know about if for no other reason than to puff out our chests and claim proudly that another Northville citizen has been put in the spotlight.

And you'd think that those governing the process - those guardians of the public trust - would be more than willing to alert the public that candidates are being considered for such a position. Heck, President Clinton would have to make public his candidate for a supreme court position, so one would logically surmise that our state officials would follow the same script.

Not so. Those officials responsible for processing the candidates for this position aren't talking. Check that, they're not talking on the record, that

You see when we called Lieutenant Governor Dick Posthumus's office we were first told that paperwork pertaining to Woodside and the judicial position had been forwarded from Posthumus's office to the governor's office.

Two days later, however, we were informed by the lieutenant governor's office that they're first comment needed to be taken "figuratively and not lit-

Huh? What, exactly, is that comment supposed to mean? Either Woodside's paperwork was forwarded by the lieutenant governor's office or it

I'm still scratching my head, trying to figure out how such an action could be taken figuratively anyway. It gets better. Members, up and down the ranks of our state Republican Party have been all too willing to confirm, off the record of course, that Woodside was one of many candidates being considered for the post. On the record those same people just nod and smile, and politely tell us they can't confirm the information.

Ohhhh, I get it. That's one of those political non-confirmation, confirma-

Now we can certainly understand Woodside not wanting to say anything about the process. She's a candidate, after all, and it would be bad form to publicly trumpet her own horn.

But those responsible for the appointment process owe it to the public to keep the masses informed of the process, and who's involved in it.

I know...I know. Doing so would require those politicians to do something they are not accustomed to doing - giving the public straight

With a little luck I'll be here next week

As you read this week's reporter column, consider this fact: this may be the last Northville Record with my name in it!

Gasp! How scary!

Like thousands of other people in the country that started new jobs at the beginning of the year, corporate higher-ups are deciding my fate this week with the traditional end-of-theprobation evaluation.

That's right, the same people that decide whether or not we need light bulbs or smiling sunshine on our corporate t-shirts will be deciding if I should report to work next Monday.

And so now, I turn to you, our readers, for a little extra help in ensuring my position within the company. .

As part of my plan to avoid becoming a professional vacationer, I took my mugshot (see right) to False Bay near the Cape of Good Hope to seek out "the great One" to have it bless my mug and make it lucky.

Andrew Dietderich

Here's how I benefit: you call The Northville Record Lucky Dietderich hotline at (248) 349-1700 and tell someone that's already made it through probation all the good things that have happened to you by carrying your Official Lucky Dietderich mugshot.

The great One says that the responses should be more convincing than some evaluation sheet that includes the words "works well with others' somewhere in the text.

And as if the onslaught of calls won't be enough to convince the check signers that I should stay, I offer the following proof that I am a valuable asset to the company and committed to providing quality product to our Northville area readers at a somewhat scary level:

Į

Last week during high school spring break I learned that my 18-year-old sister was one of the students trapped in Florida on spring break.

In case you haven't heard, a Grosse Pointe businessman doing business as a travel agent promised hundreds of metro Detroit teens a few days in Daytona Beach, Fla., then a cruise to the Bahamas where they would stay for another couple of days. Most students paid between $500 and $800 to the agent for the

However, it turned out the man had failed to set up the Bahamas part of the trip leaving students stuck in Daytona Beach with no ride back to Michigan and no place to stay after 11 a.m.

Tuesday. A normal person might say, *Oh my God! Is she OK? What is she going to do? What can we do?" But that's not what I said.

My first reaction to the news my sister was trapped thousands of miles from home with no way back and no place to go and out more than $600 to the travel agent was this: "Ask her if she can find out if any of the students with her are from Northville."

Andrew Dietderich is a staff writer for the Northville Record.

They sure are scraping dirt out at Detroit Metro Airport these days.

My Northwest Airlines flight last week from Albany landed (on time) on the south runway. We must have taxied for a good 10 minutes past giant earth movers, big holes in the ground, piles of drain pipe and lots of construction workers.

The theory is the new $1.2 billion mid-field terminal project will open some time in 2001. The project will feature a new milelong East concourse that will include gates for international flights and a 700-foot-long passenger tunnel connecting with the smaller West concourse. All in all, the project is supposed to add some 60-odd new gates, virtually all destined for Northwest.

That's what has a lot of people worried. Northwest has exploited its near-monopoly position at its "fortress hub" at Detroit Metro to increase its prices to among the highest in the nation, while simultaneously allowing passenger service to deteriorate. The question is whether the new terminal project will merely extend Northwest's market dominance or open the, ahem, gate to increased competition. Airport director David Katz says he's "confident that as the terminal project gets to completion, we will be able to increase competition at Detroit Metro and, hopefully, bring prices down and increase service quality."

How? Here's Katz's reasoning: Later this year, he will solicit bids to renovate the old Smith and Davey terminals, now the workhorses of Detroit Metro. At present, there are only 14 jet gates available for non-

the new midfield terminal and after the renovation (which will include eliminating the A. C and E concourses at Smith), a total of 24 gates will be available for non-Northwest carriers, a substantial increase.

Katz says he expects Southwest Airlines to step up its presence at Metro, along with Pro Air, which may find the runways at Detroit City Airport just too short and move some operations to Metro. Although Katz says there's no prospect of other big national carriers - American, Delta, United - taking on Northwest by building hubs at Detroit. But he's hopeful each will choose to add gates once the construction is over. And there are other possibilities for increased competition, including TWA, which just bought a bunch of new aircrast.

The obvious fear in all this is that Northwest, anxious to maintain its monopoly, will try to buy all the new gates for its own use. Other airlines, just as anxious as Northwest to maintain their own fortress monopoly Northwest airlines. Once Northwest moves to hubs, in the past have traded gates around from one airport to another to maintain dominance.

Katz says he doesn't think that will happen. He says the old gate leases, going back to 1958, were "exclusive," which in practice meant they guaranteed Northwest's monopoly. New leases after 2001 will be "preferential" - that is, not exclusively held for one airline or another.

Moreover, says Katz, "I don't think Northwest wants any of the old gates that will be modernized at Smith and Davey terminals." Andrea Fischer Newman, Northwest's vice president of government, law and civic affairs, agrees: Northwest is not in line for any of these gates."

There's no doubt that the poor state of airline service in Detroit is in large part the result of Northwest's monopolistic practices. But it's also the consequence of outmoded terminals at Metro, planned and built before the enormous increase in traffic that resulted from Northwest's hub.

Maybe, just maybe, the new midfield terminal and the rebuilt old terminals will result in a better facility for all passengers and a more competitive environment between air carriers. This might even bring down air fares and improve passenger service.

If so, that's called getting the best of both

How much are CEOs worth anyway?

A few years ago, I wrote about how K mart which was losing money, closing stores and laying off people - paid its CEO twice as much as competitor Wal-Mart, which was making money, opening stores, hiring and moving into the No. 1 retail spot nationally. K mart's action

And as Michigan National Bank limped toward a takeover, I reported the diamondstudded, platinum-plated parachute its outgoing CEO would keep even as he closed branches and laid off a ton of tellers.

It made me wonder if the big business in America is really run by the best and brightest or whether the top brass were ripping off not only the workers but also the stockholders.

The latest horrifying news comes from "Executive Pay," section R of the April 8 Wall Street Journal. Not from the AFL-CIO agitators, environmentalists or some dang Ann Arbor socialists, but the Wall Street Journal. Honest.

Let's take a company close to home, Daimler-Chrysler, formed by a merger in May of 1998. Chrysler CEO Robert Eaton collected $16 million in salary, bonus, stock and options. Juergen Schrempp, CEO of the former Daimler-Benz, collected about $2 million. The WSJ story on page R 6 adds:

"And Mr. Eaton, thanks to special conditions of the merger, gained nearly $70 million in cash and stock when it was completed, while Mr. Schrempp got nothing extra because of the bonus, stock options and other compensation of nearly $2.06 million, while BP chief John Browne received $1.6 million. Additionally, Mr. Fuller at the end of 1997 was sitting on $18.6 million of paper gains from exercisable stock options, while the value of Mr. Browne's unexercised options was about $650,000.

The WSJ then quotes a study by consultant William M. Mercer Inc. of the 20 top-paid CEOs in two countries that found:

· The Americans' salaries averaged 40 percent higher than their British counterparts.

· Americans' bonuses averaged 210 percent of base salary compared with 50 percent for British CEOs. • The American CEOs, on average, were sit-

Letters to the Editor

Welcome to the arena of free discourse

I welcome Neil Goodbred's comments in response to my letter, "Is tax break even handed, fair?" that appeared in the April 1 issue of The Northville Record.

As I read about people in many many countries not being able to express themselves freely without the risk of being incarcerated - or worse - I thank my lucky starts that my parents brought me to the U.S. in 1913, leaving Italy behind.

A little income tax history. The first modern income tax was levied in 1799 in Britain to fund the Napoleonic wars. The U.S. imposed a temporary income tax during the Civil War, becoming permanent in 1913 as the 16th amendment to the Constitution. Most states and some cities have imposed an income tax.

Why pay taxes? My dictionary shows that taxation is a system whereby our government obtains money from people and organizations, to support itself and to provide public services. Our graduated income tax system requires that those who benefit most from our economic system, contribute more to maintaining a system that allows them to benefit more than those, the majority, who find themselves in the very large, middle hump of the Bell Curve.

Mr. Goodbred, how do you answer The Citizens for Tax Justice when they report that a 10 percent across the board cut in income taxes would have the richest 10 percent of taxpayers receive 62 percent of the tax cut, while the poorest 27 percent would receive nothing?

Welcome to the arena of free discourse where one can disagree without being disagreeable.

America, what a country.

Alfred P. Galli

Disagrees with levying flat tax

I have read with interest Mr.

Goodbred's letter in which he expounds that it is unfair to have the wealthy pay more taxes than the poorest of us and that at the worst, there should be a flat tax ing that the wealthy pay the same for goods like everyone else, so why should they pay more for government services. In his argument, he equates entities that exist to make profit to an entity that exists presumably for the common good, to establish a civilized society and provide services for all; the two are not synonywealthy are getting a lot more good out of an ordered society than the struggling single mother working

To buttress his attack on our present graduated income tax structure, Mr. Goodbred tosses terms such as communism, socialism, or whatever it takes to get a knee-jerk emotional response. It does not matter to him that some of our low-paid workers are doing essential community services such as taking care of the elderly at nursing homes.

etc., while many of the wealthy may have achieved their economic success sitting at a desk manipulating the market, maybe even investing in tobacco stocks, for all

No, the flat-tax boosters believe in economic Darwinism: survival of the fittest in making money. No, we do not all agree with them; we do not believe that the rich have too little money and the poor have too much. A flat rate tax would mean increasing the taxes on the least able to pay to benefit those who already have far more than they need. It would have to be a lot higher than the 17 percent touted by Steve Forbes

awareness month

To the editor:

April is Donor Awareness Month, making it the perfect time to recognize the importance of organ and tissue donation. There's no greater gift than the gift of life and you can:

· Pass is on by discussing organ and tissue donation with your family and friends.

Each new donor brings the chance for renewed life to 2,200 Michigan patients waiting for an organ donation.

it's important your family know about your wishes. They will be responsible for making the final decision about organ donation.

 Pass it on by signing the back of your driver license. Signing your driver license is an excellent way to alert others about your organ donor wishes.

• Pass it on by signing and mailing your organ and tissue donor registry enrollment card. The Secretary of State's office makes it easy. Cards are mailed with all new driver licenses and are available at any branch Celebrate Donor Awareness Month by designating your organ donation wishes. Remember, life is great - pass it on.

Reading month a huge success

Work on Winchester's March-Is-Reading-Month theme began last September when the decision was made to build a living timetunnel to celebrate the end of this century and the beginning of the next. The prospect of being able to experience this served as a motivator causing students to read over 6.000 hours during March. Through generous donations from Pete Friedman at Home Depot (on Seven Mile and Haggerty), a budget from the PTA, and wonderful help from the Operations Department, the gym became eleven separate decades, from 1900 to 2,000 and beyond.

We would like to thank the following Decade Directors who spent months planning, gathering, and on March 31, presented information about their decade 57 times to over 550 children and adults: Susie Pool, Cheryl Drogosch, Suzanne Wegener, Marjorie Dunn, Judy Enderle, Mary Palmer, Karen Bell, Susan Bawden, Janine Myers, Linda Sheldon, Mary Ann Raphael, Patty Rush, Cindy Rush, Linda Forsthoefel, Cathy Ponder, Dlanne Doren, Jan Radon and Betsy Basoukeas. At the last minute, in what could have been a true calamity, Jan Radon, Judy Enderle, Sandy Craig, Heldi Haite and the Winchester staff came to the rescue and developed a great following for all their help during these "reading days": Debbie Waineo, Cindy Blair, Jean Kozak, Patti Huguelet, Sheri Patrone, Stephanie Cohen, Diane Smith, Gwen LeFresne, Shelagh Aretakis, Julie McDougall, Lynn Skrbina, Kim Bartolo, Jenny Conte, Nancy Czerwinski, Ann Armitage: Attorney General Jennifer Granholm, who stressed the importance of reading as well as sharing her favorite book with all of Winchester students; Mary Wilson, who pulled it all together when it could have easily all fallen apart; and everyone else who helped make this March so magnificent.

Gary Pastor said curiosity got the best of his son and that he went outside to see what was going on.

"When there's fires and sirens I think it's human instinct to say 'lets take a peak." Pastor said.

Because of the pending legal action, Pastor said he couldn't discuss details of how his son got from the point of going outside to gawk to being picked up at his Kalamazoo residence by Michigan State Police.

But Allie Phillips, Ingham County assistant prosecutor, said eyewitnesses have stepped forward identifying Pastor as having a Moltov cocktail in hand during the

*People could have been seriously injured if it weren't for the quick actions of some security guards." she said. "Explosives are not toys."

Phillips said that's exactly the message the East Lansing District Court judge was trying to send by charging Pastor with a new law that took effect Jan. 1. The new law increased the penalty for having an explosive device from four years to 15 years in prison.

This sends the message that no one should carry an explosive whether it's for fun or another purpose." Phillips said.

Elson Floyd, Western Michigan University president, said Pastor may face disciplinary action regarding the alleged incident.

We began investigating these allegations as we became aware of them about 10 days ago." Floyd said. "If we find that a Western Michigan University student did in fact take part in the rioting we will not hesitate to take appropriate action. This is not something that we take lightly nor is it something that we will accept from our students, regardless of where it happens.

Since being arrested, Pastor said he, his wife and his son have been on a roller coaster ride of emotions from "disgust to anger to sadness to frustration" to a generally "very uncomfortable feeling.

This is a terrible, terrible ordeal to put a young man through to threaten and to jeopardize his life for something of this nature is unconscionable. Pastor said.

Pastor's pretrial hearing is scheduled for April 16 and his preliminary examination is scheduled for April 26.

Brothers are Star Wars fans

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

To say the Poulos brothers are Star Wars fans is something like calling the Beatles "a music

It's the first new movie in the science fiction epic in nearly 20 years, which has stirred a cyclone of hysteria among both casual and hardcore fans. But for Northville residents like Rob. Greg and Michael, the interest level in the Star Wars movies never dipped. That's evidenced by the giant array of collectibles the brothers have amassed.

The core of it is the Kenner stuff," Greg said, referring to the mainstream Star Wars toys. Like many youths growing up in the Star Wars era, some of the items were sold off when the interest in action figures shifted from Star Wars to G.I. Joe.

But when the first rumblings of a new film were heard some four or five years ago, the Star Wars items were re-released in new packaging. once again generating interest in the collectibles.

"We'd get as many of the figures as we could," Greg said. "There would be some Darth Vaders issued with a longer lightsaber and others with a shorter one. We'd go looking for both of them."

Win a "Makeover for Mother"

Calling all mothers. Are you so busy taking care of others that you don't have time for yourself? Have you been thinking about pampering yourself with a day at the salon but don't know how you'd fit it in to your busy schedule?

"The Novi News" and "The Northville Record" is running a "Makeover for Mother" contest. A winner will be selected to receive a "pampering package" at Geralds in Northville the week of April 19. The makeover will include hair cut, style, and color, facial, makeup, manicure and pedicure.

There is no time to waste. Send us a photo of your wife or mother and tell us why you think she deserves a few hours of pampering. There will be prizes for the second and third place finishers.

The top three winners in the contest will have a story written about them which will be published on May 6, just in time for Mother's Day, which is a nice surprise in itself.

Send your entry including why you think your entrant has earned a day of pampering, a photo, and a phone number where she can be reached during the day to Makeover for Mother, Northville Record, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, MI 48116. Entries must be received by April 16. by April 16.

To all patients and visitors to the Botsford General Hospital Campus...

We know, we apologize and it's going to be better soon!

Visitors to the Botsford General Hospital campus this spring will immediately notice that changes are in process. In June work will be completed and a new parking lot area will be available. The opening of this parking lot will add 170 additional spaces to the campus.

We know that it has been a challenge for visitors to our campus to find parking in a convenient, quick and easy manner. Although we have been aware of this for sometime finding a solution has not been easy.

We are grateful for the support received from Farmington Hills City Council and the Farmington Hills Engineering Division and Planning Department which made it possible for us to identify and acquire suitable land for the parking expansion.

Our neighbors provided valuable feedback during our early planning stages. The landscaping plan for the area bordering the parking site addresses our mutual desire to enhance, not detract, from the residential character of the neighborhood. Their cooperation and patience are greatly appreciated.

And to those who have circled our campus, arrived late for appointments and found their own creative parking arrangements...our appreciation and apologies.

Characters aren't quite what they seem as they pursue good life

"Goodbye, Lover" is set in contemporary Los Angeles, a place obsessed with image and money. A place where outward appearances matter more than inner Sandra Dunmore (Patricia Arquette), is at the center of a storm of overlapping relationships and betrayals. Sandra could be the girl next door. In fact, she is the girl next door: beautiful, friendly, a devout churchgoer, a fervent believer in self-help tapes and always doing good unto others. Just as long as others are willing to return the favor. In her zealous quest for a much bigger piece of the good life. Sandra may have to step on a few toes — in her stiletto heels. But that doesn't make her bad. It simply makes her a product of our times. She is the wife to one brother, Jake (Dermot Mulroney), and mistress to another, Ben (Don Johnson).

Sandra lives a life whose outward appearances seem good and pure but whose true character seems a lot darker. Sandra's on her way up, but her ad exec husband, Jake, is on a downward spiral, apparently flailing in a morass of alcoholism. Although Sandra sells high-priced real estate, this doesn't begin to support the lifestyle they both so desperately desire. Sandra and Jake aren't the only people who want things in this city of unfulfilled dreams. Jake's older brother Ben, a spin doctor and high-powered publie relations executive, wants to preserve his access to the good life. And there's Peggy Blaine, (Mary-Louise Parker) a seemingly innocent bystander in the charade of power brokers and posers at the brothers high-powered public relations firm. She's an insecure junior of Ben's staff, with plans of her own. But her floundering loyalty to either Ben or Jake would suggest that she too may be another duplicitous player in this tale of double crossing and back stabbing.

They're all young, beautiful and openly avaricious. But then it's the '90s; who doesn't feel entitled to having it all, especially when it's all tantalizingly within reach? These players all scheme and plot to inherit a $4 million dollar insurance policy left behind after a plunge from a high rise leaves one character dead. The ramification of this death asks many more questions than it answers. Seeing through everyone's agendas is Rita Pompano (Ellen-DeGeneres), a heard-it-all-before detective who just may have all their numbers. She knows what people are all about, and she doesn't expect too much from them.

Jake Dunmore (Dermot Mulroney) with wife Sandra (Patricia Arquette) in Regency Enterprises' wry thriller, "Goodby Lover," destribùted by Warner Brós., also stars Ellen DeGeneres, Marý-Louise Parker and Don Johnson.

It's a nacissist-eat-narcissist world out there. "Goodbye Lover" is a wry look at life, a thriller filled with an enjoyable gallery of characters who aren't quite what they seem and have learned not to seem quite what they are. But hey, they've got mountains to climb. "Goodbye Lover" is rated "R."

Reviewer gives EDtv low rating

By Andrew Haver

"EDty" is about a man whose life is chosen to become a TV show. Seeing doubles? Good, you might remember this type of plot from a little movie called The Truman

"EDtv" seems as if it were put together with Popsicle sticks. The cheap humor and numerous sexual situations were the only things keeping me from realizing that it had an incredibly weak plot. A man agrees to put his life on television, and to nobody's surprise realizes that he is in too deep and his producers will not let him out.

Then Truman Burbank ... oh, sorry, wrong movie. Then Ed decides to make a contest to see who can come up with the most dirt on any of the channel's bigwigs, in a sort of attempt at freedom. Who would have known.

"A GLOSSY, SEXY, TWISTY COMIC THRILLER!"

AMC LIVONIA 20

something big gets known and just before it is told he gets off the air? Wow. Had my heart going for a minute there.

A cheesy movie with dull jokes, so-so acting and pointless drama where the good guy wins. This movie is just another Hollywood attempt at money making by copy ing ideas. First it was disaster films, then monster films, then horror films. Now "EDtv" brings Hollywood to a new low by copying a great plot from The Truman Show.

"EDty" stars McConaughey, Woody Harelson. Jenna Elfman, and Ellen DeGeneres Rated PG-13. Overall rating: D-.

RECORD SPORTS

The way the Northville wrestling team ate up the competition this year, much like they did last year, it was no wonder they won the conference, district and regional championships

en route to the state semifinals. They did it with unselfishness, teamwork and a work ethic unlike your average team, they did it HomeTown's East/Central all-area team consists of high school athletes from Lakeland, Milford, Novi. South Lyon and Northville high schools.

In any given sport, the all-area team can consist of district, regional or even state champions. When put together, as a group of individuals, there's very few areas of the state that can match its strength. It doesn't matter what sport it is.

This year's all-area wrestling team doesn't have an individual champion like it did last year (Rickey Torrence), but it does include a pair of runnerups and four more state placers.

Tim Bragg Lakeland sophomore

Called by Lakeland coach Don Urban the "sophomore sensation." Bragg still has two seasons left to terrorize opponents. He was a Division I state qualifier following a second-place regional finish and a district championship. He was also the KVC champion at 103 pounds, as he handed Hartland's Bruce Scannel his first loss of the season in the finals.

Bragg's final season record was 36-10.

Ryan Churella-Co-HomeTown wrestler of the year Novi sophomore

No wrestler in the area improved as much throughout the season as did Churella. The second-year wrestler made great strides throughout the state tournament. After losing to Plymouth Salem's John Mervyn 10-4 in the district finals. Churella came back the next week to defeat Mervyn 5-2 in the regional Riding that wave. Churella reached the state finals before falling to Eric Gervais of Grand Haven 6-5 in double overtime. He came within one second of escaping and winning a state championship.

"People may ask what happened to him last year. Why didn't he advance out of districts," his coach Brad Huss said. "But what people didn't know was that he was 97-98 pounds, wrestling kids as big as 107 pounds. This year he was 112 pounds.

To me it's very impressive that he can make that kind of Improvement in one year, even moreso on a week-to-week basis.

The junior won the Kensington Valley Conference title for the second-straight year and finished third at the Oakland County meet. He finished the year with a

The kid who beat him in the finals is a senior, so he's one of the top guys out there now. Everybody knows who he is now." Huss said.

Dan Jilg-Co-HomeTown wrestler of the year Novi junior

Novi opponents knew that trouble didn't end when Ryan Churella left the mat, but that the trouble was just beginning. Dan Jilg duplicated Churella's feat by finishing runnerup at the Division I state meet at 119

And Jilg did it without sneaking up on anybody. The junior is a three-time state placer, taking fourth at 112 pounds last year. He finished this season with a 50-3 record and has a three-year mark of 140-16 at Novi High School. He was runnerup to Clarkston's Ryan L'Amoreaux at both the state meet (decision, 4-3) and at Oakland County (decision, 3-1). Jilg won district and regional championships for the secondstraight year, as well as his third-consecutive KVC title. His three losses all came to eventual state cham-

The match I was most impressed with was against Ethan Smith in the semifinals," his coach said. "He had beaten the kid by a couple of points earlier in the season, and came out very, very determined in that match.

"It was really an exceptional season for him. Of all the wrestlers I've had, no one can say they've done what Dan Jilg has done here at Novi."

Reggie Torrence Northville junior

After advancing farther than any sophomore at Northville High School had gone before him last year, Torrence set his sights on the same feat this year as a

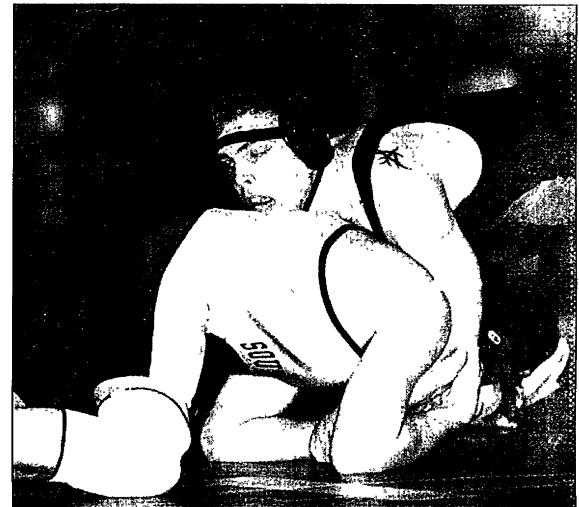

And he accomplished that goal. Torrence finished third in the state this season at 125 pounds, losing only to Bay City Western's Matt Kowalski (sixth place) in the second round of the tournament.

The junior won the Western Lakes Activities Association title, as well as the district championship. He was second at the regional tourney. Torrence finished the season with a 45-4 record.

"He's a really smooth wrestler," Northville coach Bob Townsend said. "He's fluid in his movements, and he has great technique. Some wrestlers go out there and are really physical, but Reggie will beat you with his

Ryan Giles, wrestling from the top, started late, but finished as a district champion at 189.

Depending on how things go, he should be right up there. He's gonna be really tough to beat," he said.

Northville senior

Much like Churella and Jilg provided a tough back-to-back punch for Novi. there was no way opponents could elude both Reggie Torrence and Anant Saran. The senior co-captain led his team in wins (46-5 record) and in team points. He was a WLAA champion, district champion, regional champion and

But what made him so important to the team was that Saran wrestled most of the season a weight class higher (at 135). This allowed Townsend and Northville head coach Garnett Potter the flexibility 119 and 125 pounds.

"He never complained one bit," Townsend said. "He's the hardest worker in the room, the hardest that I've ever seen.

"He was legitimately sick at the state meet. On any other given day he would have finished in the top two.

Tom Stanley

Milford sophomore

Kevin Neuendorf

Lakeland senior

Stanley showed a lot of promise in his first varsity season, which culminated in a regional birth in the Division I Individiual Tournament. Stanley endured a rough road to get there, winning two district matches to reach the semifinals, despite entering as a seventh seed.

But Stanley's potential was evident even earlier, as evidenced by his championship at the West Bloomfield Invitational and third-place finish at the Holly Invitational.

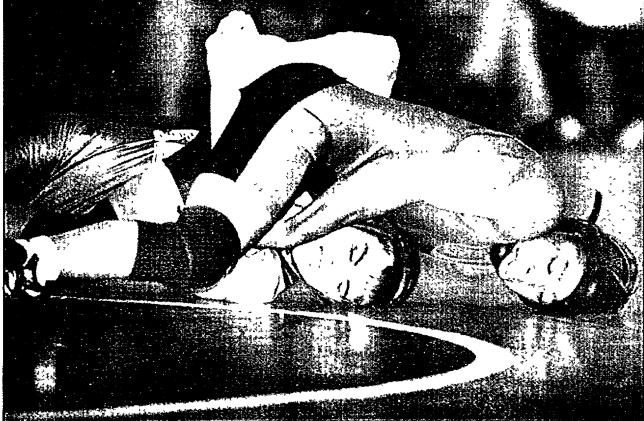

Just about everything went right for

Brian Clark South Lyon senior

Clark might have been South Lyon's most consistent wrestler. He started early with an undefeated showing at the Birmingham Groves Invitational, and never looked back, finishing his senior season with a 31-8 record. Clark was the KVC champion at 160 pounds, then earned a third-place finish in the individual districts.

Six residents set to take on Boston Soccer team holds off Salem 2-1

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

It seems like just yesterday that the Boston Marathon celebrated its 100th running. But that was three years ago.

This Monday the race will take place for the 103rd time, with over 11,000 runners expected to officially take part in the event.

Six Northville and two Novi residents are scheduled to take part in the race, which is the world's oldest annually contested marathon. The Boston Marathon, in terms of media credential's distributed, is the second-largest single-day sporting event in the world.

Northville residents competing in the marathon are 50-year old Victor Barkoski, 54year old Larry Huff, 54-year old Jerome Mittman, 55-year old Bill Rossow, 35-year old John Walter and 39-year old Kris Warszawski. Novi residents Mark Squires (48) and Pierre Ehinger (45) will also compete in the race. which covers 26.2 miles from rural Hopkinton to Boston.

The race will start at noon, with the wheel chair race beginning 15 minutes earlier. The race will be limited to 15,000 athletes. Last year 11.499 entrants took part in the event, the second largest total in Boston Marathon history. The centennial race in 1996 attracted a record 38,708 runners during a year when the Boston Athletic Association lifted the 15,000-runner

The history of the race dates back to April 19. 1897, when the first race took place on Patriots Day. The race remained on the 19th of April until 1968, when the holiday was officially moved to the third Monday of April.

The defending champions of the race are Moses Tanui of Kenya in the men's open and Fatuma Roba in the women's open.

Despite the fact that only 11 players were able to make it to the lone practice following spring break, the Northville soccer team took it to Plymouth Salem Monday in a 2-1 Mustang win.

Coach Doug Lyon held a practice Sunday night in preparation for the first game back from the break. and was missing eight players. The practice eventually paid off, as Northville jumped out to a 2-0 lead and held on.

With the wind in its faces, the Mustangs fended off numerous

Salem attacks, and went into halftime tied at 0.0. With the wind at their backs, Northville came out strong to begin the second half.

"We were a little unfocused, but I can understand that because of the break," Lyon said. "In the second half, we started winning the ball a little more."

About 15 minutes into the second half, freshman Larisa Fill controlled the ball into the corner and found Angela Maile in front of the goal. The junior, under pressure Northville sophomore Chad Neumann, a regional qualifier at 140 pounds this past season on the varsity wrestling team, finished 1-3 this past weekend at the Team Duals National Tournament in Battle Creek.

There were eight teams representing seven states at the tournament. Neumann's team, the Michigan Maroon team, finished seventh. Pennsylvania won the team tournament with New Jersey, Michigan Blue and New York rounding out the top four.

Neumann defeated his New Jersey opponent in the first match, but suffered an injury that plagued him the rest of the tournament. He lost to opponents from Oregon, Florida and Pennsylvania.

Wrestlers had to qualify for the Team Duals at the qualifier at Williamston High School the weekend of March 27-28.

Neumann lost to Zamir Pittman, Division I state champion at 145 pounds, 13-10 to open up the tournament. He went on to beat Bay City Western's Brandon Brissette (sixth place at states in 145-pound class) and another state placer in Division III.

Northville assistant coach Cheech Aloisio went with Neumann, and said he was impressed with the way the sophomore wrestled.

"He is on a high right now," Aloisio said. "These are some of the best kids from each state in each weight class. Chad's really wrestling at his best right now. He's wrestling with a lot more control."

Neumann, along with Northville teammates Reggie Torrence, Anant Saran, Dan Scappaticci and Jeremy Carter will compete this next week at Hazle Park for a spot on the Junior National Olympic team. Only the top two wrestlers at each weight class qualify for the team.

In other wrestling news, Torrence and Scappaticci recently competed in a freestyle invitational in Roseville and both came home with runnerup finishes

Reel's two homers, pitching leads Northville to romp

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

There's always a first for everything.

A first game of the season, a first win, a first home run, a first strikeout, you name it. Northville accomplished it.

The Mustangs baseball team obliterated Ann Arbor Pioneer 13-2 in a game that was called after five innings due to a mercy rule. Northville used an 11-run third inning to blow open a 2-2 game.

Senior Rob Reel hit a pair of three-run home runs in the inning, and Evan Edwards and Tim Edick each doubled in two runs. Both players two runs in the inning. Andy Borda, Kevin Justusson, Tommy Hughes and Brian Boyes also scored runs.

Seven of Northville's runs came with two outs, as the Pioneers committed two costly errors.

"They made a couple of errors which helped prolong the inning." coach Mickey Newman said. "That's what we didn't do, we didn't give them five or six outs an inning."

Northville did not commit an error, something the team hasn't done in a long time. "Surprisingly, we looked like we were in midseason form." Newman said. "Defensively we didn't make an error, and we were aggressive on the bases."

Reel started the game and pitched the first four innings to get the win. Borda pitched the fifth inning and picked up four strikeouts, the fourth coming on a strikeout/wild pitch which allowed the baserunner to reach first safe-

The sticks were hot for Northville the entire game. Reel was 2 for 3 with his two homers and six RBI. Borda was 3 for 3 with a pair of runs scored. Edick was 2 for 3 with three RBI and Edwards was 2 for 3 with two runs scored and a pair of RBI. Justusson was 1 for 2 with a home run and two RBI.

"That's the one thing we worked on hardest in practice, was our hitting." Newman said. "And it showed. We hit the ball pretty good."

Northville played yesterday at Salem and have a double header with West Bloomfield Saturday on the road. Monday the team hosts Churchill for a divisional matchup.

The second of Northville's tri captains, McCracken led his team by example.

"He is just an amazing leader," his coach said. "He would go out there, wrestling sick, and still give his all. He had one of the biggest hearts on the team and I can't say enough about his leadership."

The senior finished the year 30-11 and won the WLAA championship at 171 pounds. He was third at the district tournament. He was a HomeTown first-team selection at 160 pounds last year.

"Pound for pound, he's one of the strongest kids in the room," his coach said. "As coaches, we just didn't want to wrestle this kid."

Ryan Giles

Northville senior
After missing the first third of the season with an injury, Giles pounds. A four-year wrestler, Giles earned a reputation as a "pinner."

"He had a shoulder injury at the end of the season, but he still sucked it up and wrestled." Townsend said. "He was focused on the team, and that was very unselfish.

"We were in some close meets this year and he came through for us when we needed him to. He wants to win so badly that he just went out there and won."

Tim Zemiatis

South Lyon junior

There were many occassions when Zemiatis didn't wrestle like a man with a .500 season. As a district semifinalist, he was a regional qualifier, where he lost to the eventual 215 pound champion. Zemiatis was the fourth-place finisher in the KVC meet and, early on, a second place finisher at the South Lyon Invitational.

Ted Bowersox Northville senior

The cream of the crop of heavy-weight wrestiers. Bowersox was undefeated against area heavy-weights. He defeated Novi's Brett Faulkner twice and went on to win a district championship.

"He just ran into a brick wall at the state tournament." Townsend said. "If he would have lost his first match he would have placed. For a big guy, he's quick and agile."

Bowersox was a tri-captain this year.

We tried not to put Ted into any tough situations this year," the coach explained. "But if we were ever in that situation where we needed a win, Bowersox is one of those kids I'd want in that position. He's another great leader for us, and an all-around great kid."

Bowersox finished 38-5 this year, won a conference championship and was third at the regional tournament.

Pregnant women should think twice

Pregnant women should not equate natural herbal remedies with healthy prenatal care.

Herbal supplements and medicines abound on the shelves of today's supermarkets and health food stores, but women who are pregnant should think twice before adding a natural ingredient to their diet.

Pregnancy is a time when we need to pay particular attention to a healthy lifestyle and healthy eating habits. Remember that anything you eat or drink crosses through the placenta and affects the baby, said Sandra Lynne, a certified nurse midwife with the University of Michigan Health System. "As a general rule, herbs that we cook with are safe. Manufactured prepared herbal teas are safe. Herbal remedies that you may find in the health food store could be unsafe.

We just don't know the strength that we're getting because they're not tested or standardized in this country, so it's important not to ingest (herbal remedies) during pregnancy."

Nearly $4 billion in herbal remedies are sold annually in the United States. Unlike drugs that are regulated by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, herbal remedies are not monitored as an industry. The FDA views herbal remedies and products as dietary supplements and does not subject them to the rigorous research studies that are applied to pharmaceuticals. Dietary supplements are regulated only on a case-by-case basis.

I have great respect for herbal medicine. It works in a lot of people at lot of the time." Lynne said. But I really feel we need more studies. We need more research so that we really know what's safe and what's not safe in preg-

During the first three months of pregnancy, the baby's major organs develop rapidly. Food and liquids ingested by the mother pass through the placenta to the baby. Physicians typically recommend that pregnant women not take any medications during their first trimester. Lynne extends that precaution to herbal remedies.

"Many people think, Well, this is just like a vitamin - it's over-the-counter, it must be safe. I don't need to talk to my midwife about that." But we really need to know everything that our patients are taking, including herbal medicines," she said.

Herbs to avoid during the first 12 weeks of pregnancy include:

· Ginger in large amounts. While small doses of ginger may be used to quell queasy stomachs and morning sickness, large amounts should be avoided. A typical dose of ginger in Chinese medicine is 9 grams – an unsafe amount for pregnant women. Ginger used in cooking typically falls well below 9 grams.

St. John's Wort. An increasingly popular remedy for depression, it has not undergone enough testing to determine its safety during pregnancy.

· Echinacea. The herb is commonly used to ward off colds and flu. Like St. John's Wort. however, echinacea has not been tested enough to be used safely during pregnancy.

· Ephedra and kava root. Both are stimulants that can increase the heart rate and cause shortness of breath. Ephedrine, derived from ephedra, is sometimes used in cold remedies.

If a pregnant woman wants to use herbal remedies later in her pregnancy, she should talk with her doctor or midwife.

After the first trimester, usually it's OK to take most over-the-counter medications and herbal remedies and herbal medicines, with the advice of your care provider, your nurse, mid-wife, or your physician," Lynne said.

Prepackaged herbal teas are considered safe for pregnant women, as the amount of herb is small and poses no risk to the baby. Lynne cautions against making your own herbal tea, however, because it's difficult to determine just how much of the herb is being used. "If you make your own teas, they could be quite a bit stronger and they could have adverse effects on a pregnant woman and her baby," she says.

Lynne suggests pregnant women interested in herbal remedies talk with their health care provider and consult textbooks or guides to herbal supplements.

REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

HOW TO

Fix dripping toilet yourself

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

CONTRACTOR OF THE PROPERTY OF

Q. I have a problem with toilet water coming on after I have flushed it. You can hear a drip after it fills up. I pushed the black cap down and it seems to fit properly. How can I find the problem and is this something I can fix myself?

A. When water continues to run in the tank after it has filled, you need to check for malfunctions in the flush mechanism within the tank. First check the handle, trip lever or guide arm and flush ball to assure that the connections are all working. The handle may be too loose; the trip lever or guide arm may be bent or broken; or the connection between the trip lever and guide arm may be out of adjustment so it doesn't raise the flush ball high enough.

A flush ball (the suction cap at the bottom of the tank) may not be properly seating. Replace the flush ball if there are signs of wear. With the flush ball removed, clean the ball seat to remove any buildup of corrosion. Use fine steel wool to buff the metal seat until it's shiny. Make sure the linkage rod is adjusted so that it allows the ball to seat. Adjustments can be made by loosening the screws that hold the guide arm and repositioning the guide so the linkage rod is lowered into its proper position.

If your toilet flush mechanism has a flappertype ball, check to make sure that the flapper is properly seated on the overflow tube by twisting it into position. A worn flapper ball should be replaced. On this type of flush system, a chain serves as the linkage and can be adjusted in length at its connection to the trip arm. If the lift chain is broken or badly corroded, replace it.

A faulty float ball could also cause the problem. Check to see that the float ball does not have water inside it. You will need to replace a faulty unit.

g. The toilet fixtures in our house have become encrusted with a ring of hard mineral deposit where the standing water level meets the side of the bowl. I've tried a mild abrasive such as Comet and various plastic pot cleaners. all to no avail. I'm afraid to use anything like steel wool for fear that the fixture surface will be scratched or otherwise marred. Is there any chemical agents that can dissolve the deposit without damaging the toilet bowi?

A. There are numerous commercial products on the market developed to clean stained toilet bowls such as the one you describe. The success of a specific product will sometimes vary depending on the mineral content of your water source. I would recommend that you try one of these products or a product such as CLR (a chemical treatment for removal of calcium, lime and rust deposits) which is available at home centers or many supermarkets. It is important to drain the toilet bowl prior totreatment with any chemical solution. Turn the water off at the tank or its original source and flush your toilet, then sponge dry prior to treatment.

Acid solutions are also effective in removing buildup scale. Try a solution of oxalic acid applied with a mop. An even stronger solution would be muriatic acid (one part muriatic acid mixed with nine parts of water, or even a stronger 50-50 solution). Pour acid into the water when mixing, not the other way. Take precautions when working with acid solutions by wearing eye goggles, rubber gloves and old clothing. Avoid splashing.

Another solution that helps clean and prevent scale is white vinegar, heated and applied with a rag or mon. When applying any of these cleaners, let the solution remain on the encrusted area for at least an hour (with commercial cleaners, follow manufacturer's directions), then rinse with clear water. It may be helpful to scrub with a stiff bristle brush after the solution has soaked the area, prior to rinsing.

Q. Do you have any information on the type of bathroom faucet fixtures that would be most durable over time and be easy to clean and maintain?

A. There are a great variety of options available in a wide price range. Most common options include chrome, brass (in bright, satin, antique finishes), brushed chrome, black chrome and even gold plated finishes. Chrome which can be plated over nickel-plated brass is the most durable and can be moderately priced.

However, pricing varies and often the more expensive fixtures are of better quality and more durable. Brass tends to tarnish and is susceptible to damage by certain chemicals. So almost all brass fixtures today are protected with a clear sealer. These coatings vary widely with the lacquers and polyurethane coatings being the least durable. Powdered epoxies make by far the best protective coatings.

A new line of brass fixtures introduced recently carries a lifetime guarantee for a durable finish which will not tarnish. Although more expensive, the durability of this line may warrant the extra investment if you want gold (brass-colored) fixtures. There are numerous plastic products on today's market which offer durability as well as a wide range of color choices. Inexpensive fixtures will not stand up as well as units that are higher in price. However, this does not mean the most expensive are the best.

The consumer's best guide to quality and durability are the written warranties that come with these products. Clean with warm soapy water. Never use abrasives or cleaners containing chlorine bleach. To remove limescale and soap scum, use phosphoric acid cleaners, such as LimeWay or CLR. Rinse with clear water and buff with a soft.

Pebblecreek Village

Genoa Township development will have homes along fairways of Woodlands Golf Course

By Buddy Moorehouse

It's just an open field now, but in a month or so. people in the Hacker Road area will be seeing some beautiful homes pop up on the site.

A development called Pebblecreek Village is taking shape there, right on Livingston County's Genoa Township/Brighton Township border.

Later this month, the roads will go in, and by this summer, numerous homes will be up on the site.

For now, though, Pebblecreek Village is just a sign in a field. If you're wondering what the development will offer, though, here are some of the details:

- · There are 66 homesites slated for the development, all on half-acre lots.
- A company called Huntwood Development is developing the project. Two builders Fal-con Building and Schulist Builders are building the homes there.
- · The homes are expected to start in the $230.000 range.
 • Pebblecreek Village is located in Genoa
- Township, in the Howell Public Schools dis-
- · The site borders the Woodlands Golf Course, and at least half of the homes will line fairways at the course.
- · The terrain is mostly open, but there are some rolling, walkout sites available.
- The development will include municipal water and sewer services, with paved streets and sidewalks throughout.
- · There will also be park land set aside for use by
- the residents. • The location on Hacker Road is just a mile-and-ahalf north of Grand River Avenue, convenient to Brighton, Howell and the nearby freeways.

For information on Pebblecreek Village, call Schulist Builders at (248) 553-4466 or Falcon Building at (734) 427-5262.

With continuing low mortgage interest rates, we're still experiencing a robust home buying market. And as long as those rates remain low. the spring and summer might well produce record home sales.

In the rush to find and purchase a home, some buyers neglect to inspect and consider important aspects of a home before they sign the purchase agreement. These folks may miss warning signs of costly structural problems that strike more homes each year than floods. tornadoes or hurricanes combined, according to a report from the American Society of Civil Engineers.

When looking for a house, many homebuyers check to see if the siding or roof is in good shape or if the carpet needs replacing, but most will merely glance at the foundation or the soil around it, the ASCE report noted. One of the most common and least recognized problems causing severe structural damage to houses lies under-

Expansive soils and clay underneath a house will expand and contract with changes in the moisture level in the soil. This can raise or crack the foundation or push in the walls, ASCE warns.

About half of houses built each year in the United States are constructed on expansive clays. And about half of these will suffer some damage. The repair costs can run from 10 percent to 50 percent or more of the cost of the house. Expansive clays dominate in some major metro areas, and occur to some extent in almost all states, according to ASCE.

"Homebuyers should know expansive means expensive, particularly if the problem is not taken into account during design and construction," said Richard L. Handy, Ph.D., a geotechnical engineer and author of the book "The Day the House Fell: Homeowner Soil Problems. from Landslides to Expansive Clays and Wet Basements."

'It's normal for new houses to settle and slightly shift. which is mostly a one-time event. But expansive clay never wears out and the damage can reoccur whenever there are changes in the soil's moisture level." Handy pointed

Homebuyers can look for evidence of damage from expansive clays in tilted floors and cracks in walls, especially in doorways and windows where stresses are most concentrated. Small cracks are common, but if there are larger cracks that look like they have been patched, it's best to call in an engineer to investigate.

Another sign of expansive clay is shrinking or cracking of the soil into a honeycomb pattern when it's dry.

Evidence of soil problems also can be found by looking around the neighborhood. Look for sunken driveways. streets or yards. And look for pools of water or houses with cracked foundations. And note older retaining walls or leaning trees.

Expansive clay is found all over the country and usually occurs in black, brown or gray soils - not red soil, Handy said. In moderate amounts. expansive clay does not pose an engineering problem, but it can be concentrated by erosion, which tends to concentrate the clay. Lake beds, river deltas and coastal plains are primary locations for expansive clay deposited by rivers. he noted.

Damage from expansive clays can be prevented or managed. Before building. contractors can replace the clay with non-expansive soil or stabilize the soil with hydrated lime. Contractors also can use a slab-on-grade foundation (no basement), a deep foundation, or protect basement walls by cutting the soil at an angle so pushing is directed upward instead of against the wall, according to Whether there are expansive clay problems or not. homeowners always should make sure water is not running toward the house and pooling against the foundation. That could result in a flooded basement.

The house should have a roof overhang and roof-line gutters with downspouts that deposit water runoff at least four to six feet away from the

"Don't rely entirely on information given to you by the property seller or sales agent." Handy suggested. "If you see indications of possible problems, have the home inspected by a licensed home inspector before making a purchase commitment. And if there are concerns about soil problems. contact a geotechnical engineer. If you suspect structural problems, call on a structural engineer to investigate.

For more information on this subject, you might obtain Handy's book The Day the House Fell. It's a down-toearth guide that uses catchy humor to pique interest and avoid being preachy. For information, contact the American Society of Civil Engineers at (800) 548-2723.

Sugar bowl has sweet background

By Anne McCollam

9. The porcelain sugar bowl in this photo has been in my family for years. It is in mint condition. On the bottom is a red star above a green wreath. The letters "R.S." are inside the wreath and the word "Prussia" that is below are also red.

What can you tell me about its age, value and manufacturer?

A. Both Reinhold and Erdmann Schegelmilch used the R.S. Prussia red mark. It can be found on porcelain made from the 1870s to around 1914. As a rule, pieces were decorated with transfer prints or a combination of enameling and transfers. Gilding was applied by hand and there were some pieces that were hand-painted.

The value of your circa 1900 sugar bowl would probably be about $250 to $350.

and trimmed in gold. I have enclosed the mark that is on the bottom of the pedestal. I would certainly appreciate any information you might provide.

A. Carl Schumann Porcelain Factory in Arzberg, Bavaria, Germany, used the mark you included in your letter. It has been in business from 1881 to the present. Schumann was one of a number of porcelain factories in Bavaria. Your cake plate was made in the early 1900s and would probably be worth about $75 to $125.

Q. On the eve of the destruction of a home built around 1900, I rescued a door with a beautiful leaded stained-glass window. It was in an Arts and Crafts-style home in the fashionable part of Los Angeles. The window is set in a solid oak door that separated the kitchen from the dining room. In the center of the window is a medallion with yellow flowers with berry red centers surrounded by beveled leaded clear glass. Any information on my window would be greatly appreci-

Your door with a stainedglass window would probably be worth about $1.500 to

Q. I have a piano stool that is in excellent condition. The seat swivels to adjust the height and the legs have glass ball and brass claw feet. It was made by the Charles Parker Co. in Meriden, Conn.

Does it have any value?

A. Your plano stool was made around 1920 and would probably be worth about $155 to

Q. I have several cut-glass pieces that are marked with a circle and the words "J. Hoare and Co." In the center of the circle are the numbers "1853.

Could you please tell me what the numbers represent?

A. The number 1853 represents the year J. Hoare and Co. was founded. It was located in Brooklyn and Corning, New York. The mark you described was used circa 1900 during the Brilliant period of cut glass. Hoare was recognized for its pre-cise and detailed cutting. It was also known for adapting existing patterns by making changes or adding a new design.

For example, Hoare & Co. used crosshatched bars as the core design for a number of patterns. Hobstars was another popular motif that appeared in their patterns. Hoare and Co. closed in 1920.

A MESSAGE FROM THE U. S. DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Now I don't have to worry about my dad cashing his Federal check.

With Direct Deposit, his Federal benefit is deposited to his account automatically.

Starting this January, most Federal payment recipients will get paid automatically by Direct Deposit. That means recipients won't need to make a special trip to deposit their check. If there is a reason they don't want Direct Deposit, your dad, mom and anyone else can still get their payment by check.

Whatever they choose, recipients will continue to receive Federal payments without interruption.

To learn more about Direct Deposit, visit your bank, savings and loan, or credit union. Or call the appropriate Federal paying agency.

Geran fills void in South Lyon orthodontic care

By KEVIN SHOPSHIRE

With one elementary school scheduled to go up soon and and least one more in the works, it doesn't take a mathematician to figure out the population of children is growing in the South Lyon

Dr. Renee Geran is stepping up to fill a much needed void by providing orthodontic care for both children and adults in her new office at 22890 Pontiac Trail in the King Plaza.

There was a real need here, and its a growing city," she said.

The office opened for business Feb. 9 in the former dental offices of Dr. Robert Boroweic, but they have been receiving inquiries and referrals since early January. The first order of business was to renovate the office space which began in October, and the end result is an airy, open modern clinic.

They did a nice job, and I'm very happy with it. Geran said.

The orthodontic office has a number of modern conveniences including an on-site lab for certain custom-made appliances, two Xray areas, three chairs in the open examining area and an enclosed initial consultation/examination room for privacy. The consultation room comes complete with a high tech digital camera and computer that allows instant viewing by both the patient and doctor of any dental or facial irregularities.

"It's kind of nice to show them what their face will look like as well as any problems. Geran said.

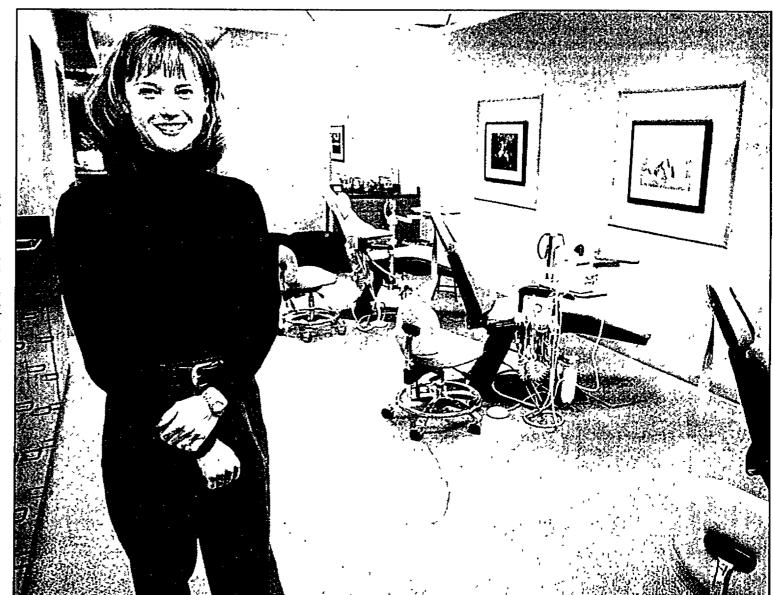

Geran did her undergraduate work at Hillsdale College. She graduated from the University of Michigan dental school, and she just finished a three year orthodontic residency program at Michigan. She also holds a masters degree in public health from the University of Michigan.

Geran lives in the Brighton area with her husband, and she contacted other practitioners in the area to inquire about partnerships. joining their practice as an associate or buying a practice. They all had two words of advice for her:

"It's been great so far, and the people here are really friendly," she said. "I plan on spending my entire career here."

The office currently employees an assistant and a medical records technician, but Geran expects to expand the staff as her practice

The office can be reached at (248) 437-1620

HAVING A BALL

Novi couple owns one of only three retriever manufacturers nationwide

By Jason Schmitt Sports Editor

The object of golf is to keep the ball in the fairway, to steer clear of the woods, sand traps and large bodies of water that seem to sneak up on the everyday golfer.

But the game of golf is not that simple.

For those of us who seem to find those large ponds and narrow streams once every three or four holes, the sight of seeing the ball lying in the water just three or four arm lengths away can be tempting.

Such was the case of Joe Nihra some 20 years ago. "I think his true passion was to go out and find balls," Nihra's son, Tom said. "I think he enjoyed that more than the golf."

Working as a tool and dye maker, Joe decided to go into the business of manufacturing golf ball retrievers. So he started the business out of the basement of his house in 1980. Shortly thereafter, his son Tom joined him.

"We shipped stuff out of our front porch," Tom said "We were working out of the basement, garage and front porch. We eventually got too big for the house."

Now, after 19 years of perfecting the trade and taking over the business from his father, Tom and his wife Denni own and operate JTD's Search 'n Rescue Retrievers out of Troy. The couple lives in Novi.

The company manufactures over 50,000 units per year and has nearly 1,200 retail accounts worldwide.

JTD is one of only three ball retriever manufacturers in North America, which makes it easy for the company to provide a lifetime service warranty if the retriever break.

"Most of the other companies are off-shore, and it can be tough to have it fixed," Tom said. "But being here in the United States makes it easier for us to fix them. They can send it back to us and we'll repair it to its best possible shape and send it back to them. We prefer them to send it right back to the company, rather than have them take it back to the retail shop where they bought it."

"We've hopefully got to the point where most of our retailers refer the customers back to us," Denni added.

For the most part, consumers have little to worry about. Tom said that less than 1/2 percent of the retrievers sold will break, and many of those are ones that were sold a couple of years back.

Search 'n Rescue retrievers come in nine different styles, with seven different head designs. They range from nine feet all the way up to 24 feet. The Nihras said the most popular are the 15 to 18 foot models, with the two-ball head attached.

"We laugh because we have some of our customers ask us if we make them any longer than 24 feet," Tom said. "But that's one step short of buying scuba gear. Some people would rather retrieve balls than golf."

Retail prices range from $17.95 to $49.95, with the prices corresponding to the size and unit. Search 'n Rescue Retrievers can be found in almost any golf retail shop, from Wal-mart to Dunhams to your local pro shop.

Nihra said the best bet is to look in the golf section at sports retail shops, because finding them at the local golf course may be difficult.

"Of course the retailers like the product, but some courses tend to stay away from them," Tom said. "They don't want golfers to hold up play on the course. Some pro shops like to sell them because they make it quicker to retrieve a ball than to reach in the water with a club."

The Nihras also receive a lot of orders from large companies who like to use them for door prizes or giveaways.

For more information on JTD's Search 'n Rescue Golf Ball Retrievers, you can visit their store at 1864 Austin Drive in Troy or call (248) 740-8675. Information can also be retrieved at their website at www.jtdent.com or you can e-mail them at jtdent@ix.netcom.com.

STRICTLY GOLF

Book provides consumers the low-down on golf balls

By Jason Schmitt Sports Editor

If every golf ball manufacturer on the market had its way, every golfer out there would be playing the best ball available.

Well that's the way advertising campaigns have ruled the golf ball industry for as long as marketing has been a part of the sport. If a particular pro can win the Masters, it's got to be because of the ball. If you want to out-drive John Daly, then use our ball.

We've all heard it before, and quite frankly, you can't blame Titleist, Dunlop or Wilson for trying. Everyone wants to make a buck.

But if it were not for the people at StrictlyGolf, Inc., consumers may never know the truth about which ball is the best for them. The company, owned by Novi resident Mike Cortis and Louis G. Caschera, Jr., recently published a revised edition of the book, "Strictly Golf Balls, The Golf Ball Handbook."

Caschera, the author of the book, takes a look at 86 different off-the-shelf golf balls, testing all of their characteristics under controlled conditions. The 115-page book "catalogues performance and construction characteristics of various golf balls as advertised by their manufacturers, including important comparative information that the manufacturers don't tell."

The testing offered the same set of parameters for each ball, in line with today's golfer. A robot was used to hit each ball at club speeds of 80, 90 and 100 miles per hour.

"We are just trying to provide unbiased

Partners Karen O'Bryan, Louis G. Caschera Jr. and Mike Cortis tested a variety of golf balls prior to coordinating efforts to produce "Strictly Golf Balls, The Golf Ball Handbook."

information of the equipment and balls we used," Caschera said. "The testing we did took it out of their lab, allowing us to be fair. Most companies market their balls to be the best, without comparing them to other golf balls. We buy balls off the shelf at the local store. We don't allow manufacturers to select the best balls for us to test."

Both Caschera and Cortis said there wasn't any readily available information on the market.

"All of the manufacturers know about our book," Cortis said. "We sent draft results to them, but not final results."

The partners said they receive a lot of feedback from the companies, both good and bad. Some companies now use Caschera's terminology in their packaging.

Caschera talks about the evolution of the golf ball to the modern-day design. He talks about the cover and inside of the ball, as well as two- and three-piece balls.

As for each individual ball, Caschera lists the manufacturer, construction, cover, ball size, core, dimples and performance characteristics.

The book also has an added bonus section sampling six of the most popular distance titanium drivers, testing center hits, toe hits and heel hits at speeds of 80, 90, and 100 miles per hour. The section samples what StrictlyGolf hopes to feature in future publications.

"We've received a lot of feedback from some top manufacturers telling us that they use it as an educational guide for their distributors," Cortis said.

StrictlyGolf also customizes the book as a corporate promotion. Companies have used the book for give-aways, promotions and for golf outings. StrictlyGolf customizes a page to their specifications and it is inserted just inside the front cover.

The book can be found at your local bookstore, pro shop or on the Internet at www.amazon.com, www.barnesandnoble.com or www.borders.com.

StrictlyGolf also has its own web site at www.strictlygolf.com. For additional information, Caschera, Cortis, vice president Karen O'Bryan or vice president/treasurer Katy Dyer-Caschera can be reached at (248) 926-6169.

Area fans can watch professional golf locally during several events

By Stephen Bell SPORTS EDITOR

Potential LPGA stars of the 21st century will be in the area this spring, as the FUTURES golf tour comes to the Mystic Creek Golf Club in Milford, affording area fans the opportunity to witness competitive, professional golf. One hundred and twenty professional women golfers from around the world will converge on Camp Dearborn May 26, 27 and 29 for the MEDHEALTH Wellness Centers FUTURES Golf Classic, which last year was held in Plymouth.

Since it was founded by Eloise Trainor in 1981, when it was known as the Tampa Bay Mini Tour the FUTURES, tour has served as a stepping stone to the LPGA. There are currently 160 FUTURES alumni with LPGA status, including well-known players like Donna Andrews, Laura Davies, Tammie Green, Meg Mallon, Michelle McGann and Karrie Webb.

Though all 19 FUTURES events are held in the United States, its participants are far from provincial. They come from 29 different countries and five continents, from India to Ireland, China to Colombia.

The top three money winners — assuming they have participated in at least six FUTURES events — are automatically exempt the following year. The next seven money winners receive direct entry to the LPGA qualifying tournament.

FUTURES alumnae have won over 200 LPGA matches, including 20 majors.

This year, FUTURES became the official developmental tour of the LPGA. It is the first time the LPGA has ever officially designated a developmental tour. The importance of developmental tours is perhaps best evidenced by Tom Lehman, who has been one of the top performers on the PGA tour in the nineties, but began his career on the Hogan Tour.

Eight players from last year's tour were exempt qualifiers for the 1999 LPGA tour, including A.J. Eathorne from British Columbia, who led the tour with a scoring average of 70.83, and Lori Astedes of Ithaca, New York, who has won five FUTURES events since 1992. In addition, 16 other golfers were non-exempt qualifiers for the LPGA tour.

Nevertheless, there is still ample talent on the FUTURES tour, including: Michelle Bell, who was the FUTURE tour's 1998 SBC Communications Player of the Year: Elizabeth Bowman, who was an All-American at UCLA in 1993; Audra Banks, who won the Greater Lima FUTURES Open in 1998, and qualified for the U.S. Women's Open in 1997 and 1998; Jane Egan, a three-time U.S. Women's Open qualifier; Shelley Finnestad, who played in the 1998 U.S. Women's Open: Jan Kleiman, a three-year LPGA qualifier who has played in five U.S. Women's Opens; Abby Pearson, who won two FUTURES events in the 1998 season; Shelly Sanders, who has been on the LPGA Tour since 1984, with secondplace and third-place finishes in her сагеет.

The 1999 season is already underway, with the San Diego FUTURES Classic at the Fallbrook, CA Golf Club, the Pacific Bell FUTURES Classic at the Paradise Knolls Golf Club in Riverside, Calif., and the Yuma FUTURES Classic at the Mesa del Sol Golf Club in Yuma, Ariz., already complete. Mystic Creek will be the first stop of the tour's third series.

The purse in Milford will be $50,000, about on par with the FUTURES average of $52,600. Over the course of the season, which runs from March to October, the total purse will be $1 million.

But its not just players making the money. Since 1989 the FUTURES tour has raised over $1.3 million for charitable causes. Proceeds from the tournament at Mystic Creek will benefit developmentally disabled women and children at Our Lady of Providence Center located in Northville Township.

The FUTURES tour will not be the first professional event to stop at Mystic Creek, which opened in 1996. Last year Mystic Creek hosted the IVonyx Senior Series Golf Tournament and a U.S. Open Oualifier.

Nor will it be the last. Mystic Creek and the FUTURES tour have agreed to hold an event during the 2000 and 2001 seasons.

Golf Association of Michigan celebrates 80 years

Public courses and private golf clubs share something besides offering the opportunity to hit the linksr-Cattails Golf Club, Tanglewood Golf Club, and Walnut Creek Country Club in South Lyon, Mystic Creek Golf Club and Kensington Metropark in Milford, and the Prestwick Village Country Club in Highland are also members of the Golf Association of Michigan.

In May the GAM will be celebrating its 80th anniversary, though it was born under a different name. In 1919 an organization known as the Detroit District Golf Association was formed by 14 private clubs seeking a way to collectively promote and protect the game.

Since that time, the organization has undergone two significant changes. In 1961 the DDGA became the GAM, opening membership to clubs throughout the state.

The second major change came in 1985, when the GAM, whose membership at the time consisted solely of private golf clubs, amended its by-laws to allow public courses to become members. At that time the GAM's membership consisted of 87 clubs and 40,000 golfers. Today approximately 75 percent of the membership is public courses, with 450 member clubs and 80,000 golfers.

Individual golfers can join through clubs. This opens up the door to over 75 tournaments which are open only to GAM members, such as the GAM Championship and the Michigan Amateur Championship.

For clubs, the membership fee is $360 a year, which includes 20 individual GAM memberships. Additional individual memberships are $13 per person. For the clubs, the GAM provides USGA Course and Slope ratings and USGA Handicap Indexes.

This season the GAM is sponsoring a number of events in the area. May 26 is the Evans Scholar Pro-Am at the Links at Pinewood in Novi; Aug. 3, a U.S. Amateur Qualifying tournament at Prestwick Village; Aug., 7, the Father and Son Championship at the Lakelands Golf and Country Club in Brighton.

Tips for the average golfer

By Scott Kelley SPORTS EDITOR

Golf can be a fun and frustrating sport. It may sound like an easy proposition to hit a small white ball with a somewhat large club. How hard can it be, right?

If you are asking this question, then it is obvious you have never played golf before. Golf is a game that requires a lot of practice and is mental as much it is physical.

So, to help the average golfer with their game, here's a few tips.

1. When to practice

Most professionals will agree the best time to practice is right after you have played a round of golf. Hopefully, the golfer hasn't used all of their strength by this time. By practicing when you finish your round of golf, the problem areas you have are still fresh in your mind.

Most golfers tend to practice with the clubs they like and avoid the ones they don't. This won't fix any problems you are experiencing. Instead, concentrate on the shots and clubs which gave you the most problems and go from there.

Also, avoid getting into any type of routine when practicing. For example, most golfers will begin with a wedge and work up to a driver. Just practice the shots which give you the most problems.

2. Assembling your golf bag.

Every golfer comes to the point where they choose what clubs they want in their bag. The best way to make sure your bag is complete is to make sure your set of clubs do not leave any big gaps in distance in them. Be sure to cover most of your distances with each club.

3. What to do on a windy day.

Wind can cause havoc on anybody's game. For most days, a high, lofty shot is o.k., but even a little wind can throw off that shot. On a windy day, a low shot is a better choice.

The tendency in the wind is to swing harder than normal. However, this won't work because the ball will probably go even higher than normal. The key is to use higher clubs than you usually do and swing a little easier than normal.

Now make sure you keep a wide stance and choke down on the grip an inch or two. In your backswing, only go about three-quarter length and be sure to use a smooth downswing, remembering you have plenty of club to hit with.

On your follow through, try to finish the swing with the club pointing toward the target, not above your shoulders as normal. A full swing will add height to your ball.

ONE WITH NATURE

Scenic Majestic allows golfers to enjoy lay of the land

By Scott Kelley SPORTS EDITOR

Golf is more than just a sport — it's a time to be at one with nature.

But often, that love of nature is spoiled by courses which cram 18 holes into a small area of land. The result is a lessthan-satisfactory day,

"We span

and the total

distance to

is 12 miles."

over 1,400 acres,

drive the course

Bill Fountain

at Lake Walden

co-owner, The Majestic

where more time is spent waiting for a golfer on another hole to retrieve his ball from your fairway.

But for the player who wants to enjoy golf, nature and get away from this problem, few courses are better than The Majestic at Lake Walden in Hartland, off Crouse Road.

This course features 27 holes spanning some of the most scenic 1,400 acres in the county. The course is situated in a manner in which each hole is isolated from the other allowing the colfer other, allowing the golfer to enjoy the full potential of the land.

"The most important thing about this

"The most important thing about this course is the amount of land that is out there," co-owner Bill Fountain said. "Most golf courses are laid out on land the size of Lake Walden. We span over 1,400 acres, and the total distance to drive the course is 12 miles."

Another unique characteristic of the course: carts are mandatory. This is because of the course's unique layout.

Also, unlike many other courses, the Majestic offers many varieties of holes to play

"This course really has a lot of beautiful holes," Fountain said. "It's on the perfect piece of property for a golf course. Once you are out there on a hole, you never see the other golfers. The course is laid out the way it was shaped by the glaciers."

The first 18 holes are situated around Lake Walden and challenge the golfer with its hilly, wood-lined fairways and well-guarded greens. The final nine holes are situated on the other side of Crouse Road and are just as isolated as the first

However, the challenge and beauty of each hole makes the course a memorable experience.

On the first 18, some of the more memorable holes are No. 4, No. 7 and No. 10.

No. 4 is one of the most scenic on the course, but is can also be a tough par-3. The hole hits 123/133 yards from the middle/championship tees, but jumps to 173 from the pro tees.

The golfer must hit over a hazard area of tall trees onto a long, narrow green. The green is surrounded by five bunkers — three in the back and two more in the front. Because the hole is so short from the front tees, it can be easily parred if the golfer takes a shot at the pin.

No. 7 is in stark contrast to hole No. 4. It plays a long 609 yards from the protees, but it is straight as an arrow. As one might expect, the length is perfect for a big hitter, but it'll take three big shots to reach the green for even the best golfers. As the golfer approaches the green, four greenside bunkers await.

Another hole which will provide some challenge for the golfer is No. 10. This challenging par-4 is a solid dogleg left, but is well-bunkered. It takes an accurate shot to be successful.

On the final nine holes, No. 25 is a beauty. One of the best par-3 holes in the area, it drops off 90 feet from tee to green and overlooks some beautiful wetlands.

As one might expect, the course requires quite a bit of attention in its upkeep. That is why the Majestic employs over 90 employees each year to keep everything it tip-top shape.

And while the course is always kept in the best shape over the year, the Majestic did decide to do a few minor upgrades over the winter, including an addition to the clubhouse and an enclosed back porch. Fountain also said there will be continued improvements made to the cart paths and other areas of the course.

This course, which is about to begin its fifth year, has made a reputation for itself with golfers all across the state and the Midwest. It's in an ideal location, located in a central location between Ann Arbor, Flint, Detroit and Lansing, for golfers traveling up north or making their way across the state.

"We seem to be a one-day destination kind of course," Fountain said. "We had a couple of guys come in last year and say they love it, because they can come in and play 18 on their way up north. But then they stop in on their way home for a nice break. We get golfers from all over the area and we get a lot of guys up from the Toledo, Cincinnati and Cleveland areas. They feel it is worth the drive." Continued on 5 ave you ever wanted to float along over the highest trees with a sense of absolute serenity, able to observe wildlife in its most natural setting?

That's how Craig Elliott of Michigan Balloon Corp. describes a hot air balloon ride.

"I call it an aerial nature walk. It's a surreal experience," Elliott says. "It's the closest thing to a magic carpet ride that you'll ever get. Even people who are afraid of heights will love it – money back guarantee."

Elliot has taken tens of thousands of people up for rides over the past 22 years and roughly half of them were apprehensive about trusting their lives to a basket, some rope, hot air and a pilot. "Unfortunately, there is a misconception that balloons are not safe, but riding in a balloon is safer than driving down the highway by far. We're going very slow and there's not much traffic up there," he says. He hasn't witnessed a serious injury in all his years of flying.

"I've flown people who have done this in an effort to stop their fear of heights. They had more trouble climbing the ladder to the basket than the actual ride itself," he says.

Michigan Balloon Corp. takes off from Seven Lakes State Park in Holly. They offer rides morning and evening, seven days a week, year-round. Gusty winds, rain or other inclement weather will keep the balloon landed. Prices range from $140 (group rate) and $175 (single passenger rate) to $575 per couple for a private charter.

Couples looking for a unique way to celebrate a special occasion might consider Wicker Basket Balloon Center in Wixom. According to owner Gordon Boring, they've had their share of mid-air special occasions.

"We do a lot of wedding gifts and flights where couples get engaged," he says. These engagement flights cost $185 per person. At the end of the ride, couples receive a glass of champagne to toast a successful flight and honor a 200-year-old French tradition. According to Boring, a bottle of wine or champagne was the only way early French balloonists could prove they weren't Martians.

Boring, now in his 23rd year of business, takes passengers up all year, but says May through October is the best time to fly. Although balloons can fly higher than 2,000 feet, he rides lower to the ground so passengers can take in the spectacular panorama. If the weather permits, the pilot will do a "splash and dash" – where the pilot briefly touches down on a lake then lifts back off into the air.

Wicker Basket Balloon Center flies over the South Lyon, Milford, Brighton and Kent Lake areas, where wildlife and scenery abound. Prices range from $130 to $150 per person.

While Bob Hedges encourages people to take a ride in a hot air balloon, he goes one step further by inviting them to take a more active role. As owner of Balloon Safaris of Michigan and president of the Southeastern Michigan Balloon Association (SMBA), Hedges says there are a lot of ways to enjoy ballooning.

He suggests that in addition to taking rides, people join a balloon club to meet others interested in the sport. Attending balloon events such as the Michigan Challenge IV in Howell, the Hot Air Jubilee in Jackson, Seven Lakes Balloon Race in Holly and the Remax/Midland Balloon Festival in Midland can also make for an enjoyable day.

For those folks who want more handson experience, Hedges will take on two or three people to be part of his crew. He asks his temporary crew members to assist with take-off, landing and pursuit of the balloon. Interested individuals can contact Hedges to join SMBA or sign on as a crew member. Costs are $149 per person with a third person added for $74. Winter rates and group rates are available.

Dennis Kollin, owner of Sky Adventures in the Oxford area, claims hot air ballooning is for people ages 5 to 90. And he means that literally.

"We took a lady up last year for her 90th birthday – the oldest passenger we have ever taken," he says. "She enjoyed it so much she went up again a few months later."

Prices at Sky Adventures range from $150 to $225 depending on how many are in your group. They've taken 26,000 people up in the past 24 years without an incident and with many smooth landings.

"As long as people are fairly mobile and are able to flex their legs for the landing and hang on tight, there won't be any problems," says Kollin. "Since we're moving with the wind at the same speed as the wind, you don't really feel any movement. It's almost as if you're standing still and everything else is moving."

Sky Adventures' pilots will fly just above the treetops, providing riders with the opportunity to see deer, or as high as 2,000 feet to point out landmarks around southeastern Michigan. You can find Sky Adventures 10 miles north of the Palace.

Kites for Any Taste

By Chris McEmeel

For those who would rather keep both feet on the ground, kite flying is an enjoyable alternative to a hot air balloon ride. According to Rick Hargraves, owner of Bullseye Dart & Kites, kite flying can be recreational or competitive.

"People do it as families. They can go out and do it in the springtime and then in the fall," he says. "Other people get involved in it for the sporting competition."

There are two-line and four-line kites, says Hargraves. Competitive two-line kite flyers must draw a series of diagrams in the sky; or they move to music, receiving scores from the judges based on their kite-handling skills.

Four-line kites are a bit more difficult to maneuver. They are multi-directional, as opposed to two-line kites which only move forward and backward.

"Basically anyone can learn to fly a kite," Hargraves says. "Although it takes a lifetime to master."

People interested in kite flying should go to Indian Springs Metro Park on the first and third Saturday of each month for free kite lessons. The only cost to you is the park fee.

hen I grew up in the Michigan north woods, hunting was a way of life. In those Depression days, we hunted for subsistence more than sport, but today I consider myself blessed by that heritage. I'm proud to have passed it on to my son and know that he, in turn, will pass it on to his son, and his grandson. It's a valuable experience for a young man, not just for the rewards it offers, but for the maturity it fosters and the character it builds.

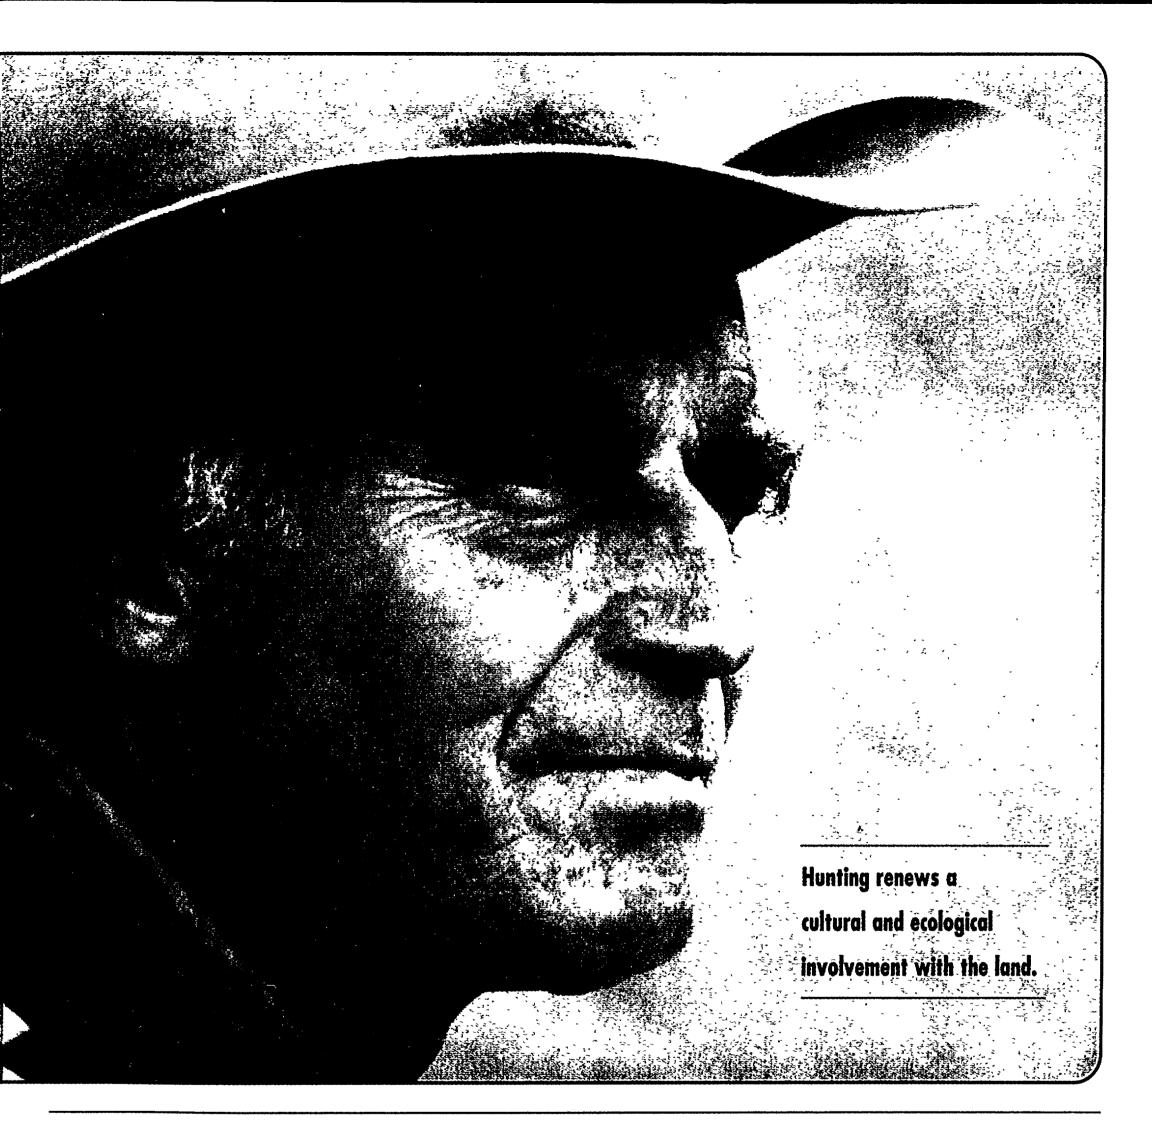

Hunting renews a cultural and ecological involvement with the land. It is something real among the artifice of the executive's high-rise office tower, the machinist's factory floor – or the actor's studio or stage for that matter. It's an opportunity to once again return to an environment and vocation that's far more natural and innate to us.

You know it when you go out into the woods. All at once, the memory of hunting trips from years past, the excitement of an eager, impatient bird dog nagging you to be loose in the field; the invigorating clarity of watching the dawning sun blaze on frost-crusted grass as a distant crow breaks the stillness with his call – all these combine to give us a new perspective on our lives, our world and what's worthwhile.

And make no mistake: Hunters benefit wildlife in America, possibly more than anyone else. In 1937, American hunters imposed the Pittman-Robertson federal excise tax on themselves, an 11 percent tax on firearms, ammunition and hunting-related equipment and supplies. Each year it adds up to more than $150 million for wildlife conservation.

Add that to the more than half-a-billion-dollars per year that Americans spend on hunting licenses, permits and stamps, and the bottom line is that hunters are paying nearly $2 million a day to improve habitats, build ranges, pay game wardens, teach young hunters gun safety and more.

Pittman-Robertson funds alone have allowed states to buy more than 4 million acres for habitat and hunting. In some cases those moneys account for three-quarters of a state's conservation budget.

Thanks to the projects these funds have made possible, we now have six times as many turkey, 18 times as many elk, 30 times as many bison and 52 times as many whitetail deer as we had in 1900. Beavers have come back from about 100,000 in the 1920s to more than 15 million today. And it's not just the game species that benefit. Bald eagle nesting pairs have risen from 400 to more than 2,660. Trumpeter swans have come back from a low of 73 birds to more than 12,000.

Even though these projects are paid for by hunters, they benefit hunters and nonhunters alike. Hikers, campers, birdwatchers, boaters, "camera hunters" and just about everyone who enjoys the outdoors shares in the bounty that hunters and anglers make possible. If you want to preserve that legacy for future generations, if hunting is a pastime that you're glad you discovered, then share it with those who don't know about it yet. In so doing, you'll help sustain our outdoors traditions, build upon our nation's history of wildlife management success and enrich the lives of future Americans.

t isn't flashy, but you can do it everywhere, anywhere, anytime. It's relaxing and good for you. It strengthens your joints and bones. And all you need is a good pair of shoes. It's running. And those who do it claim it can be addictive.

"It's a very personal sport – a way to nurture yourself," says

Andy Step, marathon runner, two-time Iron Man competitor and owner of Running Fit which offers classes to beginning runners.

"All you hear are the sounds of your feet slapping against the sidewalk and your breath whistling in and out of your lungs. Running releases endorphins which become addictive," Step says.

Running is a popular sport for people ages 30 to 60. Metro Detroit boasts over 20 running clubs. It's easy to get started. A good pair of shoes to provide the proper support and shock absorption costs around $80.

Running Fit offers motivational classes for would-be runners. "Most runners quit too soon. We help keep them motivated," Step says.

Step suggests beginning runners start out slowly – about a mile every other day. "People can alternate between running and walking until they find a comfortable pace," he says. "Most people provided by Punning Ft ple start out too fast." Step recommends that you start slowly, break into a sweat and spend five to 10 minutes stretching at the end of your run to minimize the chance of injuries.

He tells people to increase their mileage by 10 percent each week. For example, if you run five miles this week, run five-and a-half the next. One day each week you should run a little longer than usual. If you usually run a mile, run one-and-a half.

For safety's, sake wear reflective clothing, run against traffic, and start your run by going into the wind so the wind is at your back on the way home when you're more tired. He also recommends varying your route and time to avoid becoming a crime victim.

If you need moral support, you can find it at Running Fit. They have experts in sports psychology, nutritionists, physical therapists and podiatrists to answer your questions and help you plan a routine.

Step has been running for over 25 years. He runs an average of 100 miles per week.

He recently took 100 people on a running vacation to Mexico. "I love it!' he says. "Once you 'find' running, you'll stick with it because it makes you feel great."

The Smart Way to Fish for the Big Ones

ith more than 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline and thousands more miles of river banks and lakefront, Michigan is a fisherman's paradise.

Now that it's early spring, the game fishing season is starting in Michigan streams with steelhead salmon spawn that will eventually make their way to the big waters of the Great Lakes. Other varieties of salmon, including the Coho and Chinook, will be running later in the season. Walleye, brown trout and their smaller cousins the yellow perch are all waiting to be caught. Will you be one of the lucky folks out there bringing in the game fish?

Going after the big ones can be a great adventure. To do it right, consider going with a professional charter. Successful sports fishing is a high-tech pursuit. Charter boats are usually equipped with fish-finding sonar and global positioning systems. With a charter comes expertise. Where are the fish? When do they bite? What techniques should you use? A professional can answer these questions and many more.

Also, charter fishing is safer than going it alone – especially in the deep waters of the Great Lakes. Weather can change quickly. You'll want a guide who knows the waters, the winds and the weather.

"I've been fishing the waters of Lake Michigan and the rivers around Manistee for 31 years," says John King, who owns his own charter company. King takes parties up the river when the steelhead are striking or to Lake Michigan when the steelhead arrive there. "The Manistee river is the home of the state's biggest brown trout. In fact, between 50 and 70 percent of the state's master angler catches have come from these waters," he says,

Jim Byers, owner of Jim's Sports Charter, charters out of southern Lake Huron early in the season. However, fish move around. "As the season progresses, I go into the northern part of Lake St. Claire for bass, walleye and muskie. I fish there until July," he says. Byers knows the hottest salmon fishing spot in the state. "The area hasn't been discovered yet, but in August, it's the place for salmon," he says. He's taken groups of six there and come home with boats full of game fish.

Captains of charter fishing craft are licensed by the state and their boats are inspected by the United States Coast Guard and by the state Department of Natural Resources. All charter captains belong to the Michigan Charter Boats Association.

For those people who prefer wilderness fishing, Tahquamenon Outfitters of Hulbert, Mich. offers American Plan and Outpost type trips on the Tahquamenon River system in the Upper Peninsula. Operating out of the Tahquamenon Hotel in Hulbert, they offer trips on over 35 miles of river. Anglers test their skills against the great muskie as well as pike and walleye. "We try to offer the same experience as the Canadian fishing lodges without having to leave Michigan," says Rich Goupille, owner of Tahquamenon Outfitters, which has the ability to offer lodging, meals, fishing, hunting and adventure trips.

The big ones are out there. Take a charter fishing trip and bring them home.

ave you ever heard of a high school teacher using birds, mice and spike collars as teaching tools? If you've heard of Jefferson High School teacher Len Jenkins, you have. In addition to being a popular high school teacher, Len Jenkins is a highly respected gun dog trainer. His methods are unique. He doesn't believe in sending dogs out to be trained. Instead, he trains the owners with the dogs, using their relationship as a training tool. "The more they love you, the more eager they are to please you," Jenkins says.

Jenkins' courses teach dogs to point, flush and retrieve birds. He uses actual birds, mice and a spiked force collar during his threehour training courses. While the spiked force collar sounds uncomfortable, it is valuable because it keeps the dog's head up so it can spot birds. A good dog should be able to spot a bird from about 200 to 500 feet away.

Think your family's mutt could never be a hunting dog? According to Jenkins, any dog can be a good gun dog. Although he has a soft spot for English setters, he says Labs, Weimerheiners and retrievers also make good gun dogs. However, your dog doesn't have to be one of these breeds to be a gun dog. In an recent interview with the Monroe Prime Times, Jenkins said that in 20 years of training dogs he has never met a dog he couldn't train. He even managed to successfully train a dog who became gun shy after being accidentally shot by his owner. Jenkins' techniques have been so successful that many of his students return to his Monroe facility for refresher courses.

As if he isn't busy enough devoting his time to teaching dogs and kids, he also demonstrates his training techniques at shows like the Detroit Kennel Club Dog Show at Cobo Hall. Jenkins also runs a 200-acre preserve in Reading and owns 80 acres in Midland where he holds hunting and training sessions.

Jenkins says he loves teaching – be it high school students or gun dogs. He still manages to find time for his own 11 English setters and four labs. "The dogs are like a part of my family," he says.

Name: Stephen Trudeau

Age: 42

Address: Metamora, Michigan

Family: Wife Laura, daughter Victoria, 10 and son Brooks, 8 Profession: Vice President/Financial Consultant at Merrill Lynch

Sport: Championship Wing Shooting

"It's like playing golf with a shotgun," says Stephen Trudeau, champion wingshooter and vice president at Merrill Lynch.

By Jackie Headapohl

shooting at flying targets or game. Trudeau started shooting at 18 and hasn't stopped since. "I love being outdoors and I love the challenge," he says.

He's a past Class A State Champion in the game of Sporting Clays, where shooters go around a course, stopping at the appropriate stations where trappers launch targets. Two targets, usually launched simultaneously, are in the air for only a few seconds and travel at 30 to 60 miles per hour. In a typical round of sporting clays, Trudeau hits about 75 to 80 percent of the 100 targets at distances of up to 60 yards.

Last fall, Trudeau traveled to Rhode Island for the World Side-By-Side Flush Championships. Trudeau, alongside partner T.J. Yareema, won the Two Man Flush Championship, besting several "professional" shooters. Flush shooting differs from sporting clays in that the shooters don't know when or where the targets will be launched. Trudeau and Yareema hit 135 targets in four minutes to win the championship.

Trudeau lives on a "gentlemen's farm" in Metamora where he pursues his love of wingshooting and where his wife, an avid equestrian, has room for her horses. His children share their parents' love for the outdoors and practice their wingshooting skills with a 20-ga. single shot Beretta.

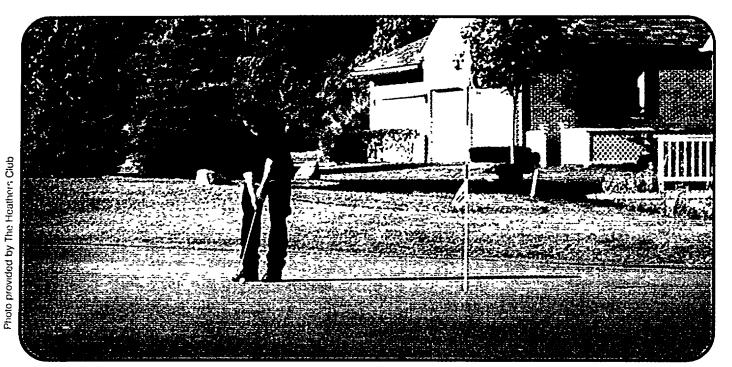

When Trudeau isn't attempting targets, he enjoys shooting at winged game such as ruffed grouse, woodcock, quail, pheasant and various waterfowl. He has hunted in Canada, Mexico, Arizona and Kentucky, but Michigan's Upper Peninsula is still his favorite destination. "The country is wild and beautiful with some of the most challenging game anywhere," he says. He hunts with his dogs, Gracie and Parker, who do double-duty as beloved family pets.

Trudeau uses a Winchester Model 21 20-ga. side-by-side shotgun, which was manufactured in the 1940s but is now out of production. He needs to reload his gun after two shots. "I prefer traditional side-by-side shotguns," he says. "It's more challenging."

What's ahead for Trudeau? "I'm planning a hunting trip to Argentina or maybe Africa in 2000," he says. "Who knows?"

Country Club or Private Golf Course?

olf is an old and venerable game, but in the last two decades the sport has changed dramatically. The traditional game of older generations has been replaced by the quicker and slicker enterprise demanded by today's captains of the links. Two factors make up the changes in today's games: technology (see below) and more subtly, the sociology of golf and the golf business.

Two parallel trends illustrate the changes: the emergence of new family-oriented programming at traditional country clubs and new private full-service golf courses that offer all the luxury of country clubs, without the emphasis on social relations. On the surface, these two developments look much alike.

For example, The Heathers Club of Bloomfield has a beautiful clubhouse, restaurant, tennis courts and swimming pool in addition to the golf course. But The Heathers Club is a private business; all land and facilities are the property of the owner.

Older country clubs, like the Twin Beach Country Club, are owned by the membership. Part of the membership fees buys equity in the club and its property.

If a private course is unprofitable, it fails as a business. If a country club headed by a popular president faces a financial loss, the members will come to its rescue. If the president is unpopular, the membership will boot him out at the next election.

As Jeff Carley, manager of The Heathers Club says, "Private courses have all of the amenities of a country club, but none of the politics."

The Heathers Club was built to be a part of The Heathers development, but not all members live in The Heathers community and living in the community does not guarantee someone automatic membership. The Heathers Club also caters to members who do not golf. If offers an associate membership for those who want access to the clubhouse, restaurant, tennis and swimming facilities.

"We can offer a round of nine holes of golf in about three hours. Today's players are looking for a mentally and physically challenging game and the opportunity to meet in an informal setting," says Carley. "The needs of the current crop of urban golfers are met by private clubs."

The Twin Beach Country Club, founded in the 1930s, has also changed its program to meet the needs of the contemporary golfer. "While private courses are convenient to the individual player, we see ourselves as a family club," says Dave Raynush, manager of Twin Beach.

Twin Beach has only 175 members who own the place lock, stock and barrel. New members are allowed in when an opening becomes available.

"People who join our club get to know each other and form long-standing friendships. Husbands and wives play together on weekends. We have a program to introduce our members' children to the game. The country club experience is much more than just playing golf," Raynush says.

Country club or private course – the decision is up to you. Busy individuals who want golf with amenities might want to join a private membership golf course. On the other hand, a couple who both enjoy the game or a single parent with children interested in golf may prefer the family approach of a traditional country club.

Chuck Seavey, co-manager of Pro Golf Discount in Clinton tells Sport Spotlight readers about advances in golf club design. "Multi-metal construction is the main improvement," he says. "Clubs are being produced with up to four different types of metals to improve game perfomance." Here he explains:

- Alpha-Maraging: This is a new process of forming steel which makes the metal almost twice as hard as titanium. You won't have to sacrifice control to gain extra distance.
- Tungsten: This metal results in a lower center of gravity that allows the golfer to get the ball airborne more easily, enables the golfer to hit the ball out of tough lies and allows him or her to gain distance with a more consistent trajectory.
- Titanium: Still the metal of choice for the basic shell of most drivers. With great strength and little weight, clubs can be made larger, allowing for a larger face with a more forgiving sweet spot. Titanium allows for longer shafts, allowing the golfer to gain distance.
- Nickel: Fairly new to the club market. This metal provides a very hard surface yet gives a very soft feeling in the hands of the golfer. Although somewhat expensive, many of the lower-handicapped golfers are moving to this metal.

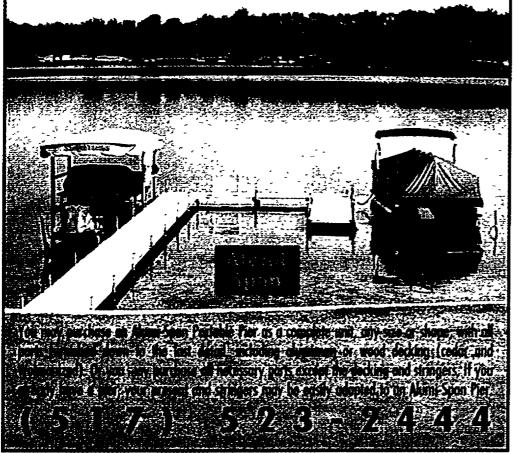

"No one can buy a good golf game," says Seavey. "But with the help of great equipment, a golfer should have the confidence to be 'one up' on the turn."

he outlook for 1999 spring turkey is excellent. The winter of 1998-1999 was a mild one with very few turkey die-offs. Turkey season starts April 19 and goes through May 31, depending on the hunt date the DNR assigned you. Remember, each hunter is allowed to take only one male adult bird or jake (juvenile) turkey during the hunt. An easy way to tell the difference - male birds have beards - females do not. You can hunt mornings through 4 p.m. No hunting is allowed after 4 p.m.

When you turkey hunt, wear camouflage clothing from head to toe. I use mossy oak, real tree and greenleaf. Don't forget to camouflage your face and hands. Turkeys have excellent eyesight and can detect movement, so you must be completely covered and keep your movement to a minimum. We at Midwest Sports recommend breaking up your outline by sitting next to a tree.

Turkey calls are also very important. Box calls are the easiest to use and are very good for purring, yelping, clucking and cutting. Slate calls are good but a little harder to learn than box calls. Diaphragm calls are the hardest to learn how to use. They are mouth calls and can be used for purring, yelping, clucking and cutting.

As for guns, a 10 or 12-ga. with full cock is your best bet. Try to keep your gun drab. Turkeys will see shiny guns! Recommended shot is 4's or 5's that are copper-plated.

Turkey decoys can make or break a hunt. I use two hens and a jake; that usually brings in that wise old gobbler most times.

Last but not least, it's important to do some pre-scouting. Find out where the birds roost and feed. Taking the extra time to prepare will definitely increase your odds of bagging a bird.

Scott Kelley is owner of Midwest Sports.

Camouflage Dress for Success

- 1. Never wear pieces of clothing that contain red, white or when calling. blue because they can be mistaken for colors found on wild turkeys.
- 2. Be sure that accessories you carry that are red, white or blue (box call chalk, candy wrappers, apples, cigarette packs) are not visible to other hunters.
- 3. Camouflage your gun. If not, at least cover up white diamonds or other red or white markings.
- 4. Always keep your hands and head camouflaged
- 5. Wear dark-colored socks and pants that are long enough to keep your bare skin from being exposed.
- 6. Do not over-camouflage by sitting in vegetation so thick that it obscures your vision.

or those looking for their first motor-cycle to take that great wind-swept adventure, the Internet isn't a bad place to start. Choose any search engine, and you'll find most every major motorcycle brand has a web site which features product pictures and descriptions. But there's very little about cost – and no test drives available either. For that, you have to do some legwork

"If you're a first time buyer, I recommend you walk into a dealership and check them all out," says Dick Rose, owner of Motor City Harley in Farmington Hills. "Talk to the salesperson and explain what kind of riding you want to do and get some ideas. Then decide which model you want to buy."

The brand and model you choose depends on if you're a beginning or experienced rider. Are you going to ride cross country and take trips? Or just ride around the city? You also have to consider your size versus the size of the motorcycle.

For short trips around the city, a cruising bike is the most appropriate. It's lighter, medium-size and easier to handle. Touring bikes are larger and longer with more amenities like storage space for luggage and cruise control. Off-road bikes, or dirt bikes, are meant for off-road adventures. On-road-racing bikes are ones you would ride on a track.

Joel Field, a salesperson at BMW Triumph of Warren, says that first time buyers typically choose Japanese models such as Yamaha, Honda or Kawasaki because the cost of $3,000 to $6,000 is nearly half that of BMWs or Harleys. "I do get first time buyers for the Ducati," he says, referring to the Italian bike known as the "Ferrari of motorcycles."

Customized bikes carry a lot of flash, but not a lot of resale value. For that, the Milwaukee-based Harleys still come out ahead. At Motor City Harley, bikes range from $6,000 for a Sportster to $20,000 for the Ultra Classic touring model. "They're easily financed, just like an automobile," says Rose. "The resale on a Harley is very high and that makes financing very easy."

According to the American Motorcycle Association, Honda was the top-selling motorcycle brand in 1997 with 28 percent of the market share, followed closely by Harley-Davidson with 27 percent. Yamaha, Kawasaki, Suzuki and BMW rounded out the top six.

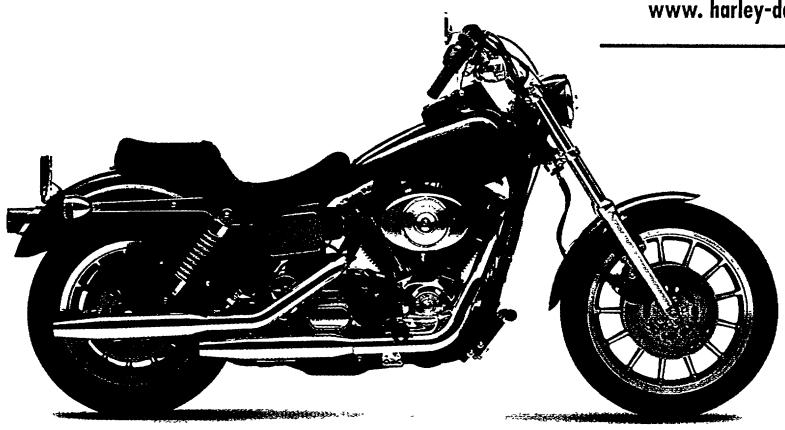

In Michigan, sales of motorcycles peaked in the mid '70s to '80s with more than 300,000 non-expired plates registered with the Secretary of State. Today, there are just under 140,000.

For Peggy MacDonald, 53, of Warren, her decision to buy a Honda off-road bike back in the late '70s came on a whim. "I bought mine on impulse when I turned 30," she says. "My girlfriend and I wanted something to do when we were up north, and the Honda seemed small enough for me to handle."

MacDonald rides her off-road model in the back woods. Today, she dreams of owning a Harley, but back then, Harleys weren't as female-friendly and were associated with a less desirable element of society.

But Rose says that the Harley Owners Group (HOG), a national group sanctioned by Harley-Davidson, is very family-oriented. "They've changed considerably over the years," he says. "We have rides nearly every weekend to raise money for charity."

But before going on any ride, a Michigan Department of Education-approved Motorcycle Safety Course is strongly recommended. Classes are offered at Schoolcraft College in Livonia and Oakland Community College Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills for a minimal cost of $25. Riders must also pass a written test at the Secretary of State to receive a motorcycle endorsement. For safety's sake, the Secretary of State recommends all cyclists wear a helmet as required by Michigan law. Gloves, eye protection, reflective clothing, jacket and pants that cover arms and legs completely, and sturdy boots or shoes to cover the ankles are recommended as well.

ar is hell, or so the saying goes. But the folks at Hell Survivors in Pinckney say war is fun. They hold one every Saturday from noon to three. These 'soldiers' don't risk life and limb, however, they only risk getting paint-splattered and winded.

Welcome to the world of paintball – not for the faint of heart (or the out of shape). Paintball began in 1981 with 12 competitors playing capture the flag with air-powered pistols. Since then, the game has expanded into a multi-million dollar sport with professional tournaments across the United States and in Europe.

Paintball is a combination of capture the flag, chess, hide 'n' seek, with a rush of adrenaline added. The game has two teams, each with its own flag station and matching arm band. Each team starts at its own flag station, tries to reach the other team's station and grab its flag and then return to its station all while dodging incoming paintballs. When a player gets tagged (splattered with paint), he or she is out of the game.

"Does it hurt?" was my first question when my husband and I showed up for a Saturday game.

"Have you ever got stung by a bee?" asked Ted Simpson, who, when not refereeing paintball games works with computers at EDS.

My husband and I were placed on the same team (damn, I wanted to shoot at him!), given arm bands, face masks that made us look like Darth Vader and paintball guns. Armed and ready, we awaited further instructions.

While marching up the rugged terrain oozing with mud, my husband instantly became transformed into GI Joe. When we reached our flag station, he began talking about "flanking positions" and "offensive strategies." I asked the referee, "Which way do I go?" He pointed. I went, hiding behind trees and ducking behind bunkers. Then I got shot. Yes, it hurts like a bee sting. I awaited the next game, determined to stay alive to the end, no matter what. I felt the adrenaline rush as I slowly made my way towards the opposing team's bunker, ducking behind trees as paintballs whizzed by my head. I spotted the enemy, dodged behind a bunker and began to fire.

Bad aim. But someone else got him.

I reached the bunker with the rest of my teammates. Success! "Lady," said Steve, a 14-year-old referee, "you're the luckiest player I ever saw. I can't believe you didn't get shot."

I was the only woman playing that day. There were teenagers and dads with their kids and men from 20 to 40 – all having a good time, all really good sports.

Other games followed. I climbed up hills, slid in the mud, jumped behind trees – mad with power. After awhile I didn't even feel the frigid temperatures. My only thoughts were the next tree, the next bunker. I shot many rounds of ammo and tagged nobody. I got shot plenty. I had a riot. One hint if you should ever play paintball: when someone's says "surrender" at point-blank range, surrender! Those paintballs really pack a wallop from only 15 feet away.

Tired, dirty and splattered with paint, I called it a day. "Lady, you did okay for your first day out," said one 14-year-old kid. "But you still look like a VanGogh."

Yeah, just wait till next time...

Fishing on the Fly

If you saw the film "A River Runs Through It," you might remember the scene in which Brad Pitt stands in a rushing stream, whipping the fly line through the air with a graceful motion that can only be learned – the key word here is learned.

While fly fishing is a sport that anyone can enjoy, it requires learned skills and plenty of practice, unlike traditional angling where anyone with enough knowhow to bait a hook and drop a line is technically fishing.

While he says he doesn't mean to demean traditional spin fishing, John Bueter, owner of Bueter's Outdoors in Northville, says that aside from the fact that both require rod, reel, line and water, fly fishing is a very different game altogether.

"I don't want to sound like a purist or a snob," he says. "But lake fishing is not a high-skilled sport." According to Bueter, fly fishing requires tricking the fish in its own environment – not an easy task. "We try to outthink the fish and imitate as closely as possible the natural things – the bugs," Bueter says. "It has more to do with bugs than anything else. It's not the rod, the reel or the places we go. It's nothing more than the bugs. That is the only interface between us and that briny creature in the deep."

Another major difference between fly fishing and spin fishing is the cast. When casting a seemingly weightless fly, it's impossible to get the weight of the fly to pull the line from the reel.

Bueter's offers a number of fly-tying and casting courses for everyone from the novice to the seasoned pro who's landed lunkers in Alaska's remote Yukon River. The beginner fly casting course is a one-day, hands-on instructional course that takes students to a remote lake on the outskirts of Northville. The cost is $125 and includes all the gear and a catered lunch. Bueter requires only three things from participants: a fishing license, waders and a positive attitude.

Bueter's also offers an entomology class, taught by the curator of entomology at Eastern Michigan University. Students study the bug populations in a nearby creek.

"We look at what they eat, how they transport in water or even if they transport in water. It's more than just learning the names of bugs," Bueter says.

The entomology course costs $100 and available fly-tying classes run $75 to $80. Bueter's Outdoors also organizes fly-fishing trips to northern Canada and other remote locations. Fly fishermen are privy to some of the most spectacular panoramas on earth – another reason to give it a try. These locations provide solitude and tranquillity that is matched only by the breathtaking views of rippling water and plush, green tree-lined banks.

eason the birds with salt and pepper. Heat a large skillet (very hot). Pour in melted butter, place quail in. Over high heat, brown them nicely on both sides. Pour excess butter off, add cognac, flame, add veal stock, allow to reduce to 1/4 cup of sauce. Add grapes and 2 tablespoons butter, swirl around. As soon as grapes are heated, serve. The whole cooking time should not exceed 10 minutes.

Food Managent for Wildlife

🙉 ue and Mike Quinn bought their dream home on 10 acres of land 😝 in Oakland Township. Adjacent to woods on one side and a forest on the other, the Quinns received a lot of wildlife visitors – six to 10 deer per night. "We like the deer," says Sue Quinn. "But do they ever eat!"

Although the Quinns planted apple trees specifically for the deer, they still eat the Quinns' tulips (just the petals. they leave the stems) and lilac bushes. The only way they can keep the deer away from the lilac is to hose the bushes down with coyote urine. Yuck!

Because of several mild winters, the deer population is booming and hungry. Many homeowners like the Quinns are discovering their landscaping is being treated like a salad bar by the deer. Fortunately, there is a solution. More and more property owners are planting crops specifically for the deer - helping the wildlife and saving their tulips at the same time. Supplemental feeding through deer plots is the wave of the future for Michigan homeowners.

Following are the "ABCs" of food plot management: area, balance, cop and season.

Area can be broken down into two factors: geographic area and area of dimension. You must choose a spot conducive to crop growth. Sunlight, soil conditions and contour of the area must be taken into consideration. Many seeds require three to five hours of sunlight to grow properly. Soil pH will influence the crop you choose and the ground contour will play an important factor when rains come. Seeds planted on hilly ground Photo provided by Noth American Fish & Game could be washed away before they germinate and take root.

DECEMBER OF THE PROPERTY OF TH

Generally, heavy soils and lowlands are best for planting. But with proper implementation of farming practices, even poor soil can be improved over time.

You'll need to know the dimensions of your land to determine the proper amount of seed. Multiply the length of the area by its width to determine square footage. For example, a plot that is 100 feet by 20 feet has an area of 20,000 square feet, or nearly half an acre. If you chose to plant clover, which requires 8 pounds of seed per acre, you would need 4 pounds of seed.

Balance is also important. You need a proper ration of food plot to acreage. Your food plot should be 2 to 3 percent of your total acreage. A half-acre plot is a good start. Eventually, a three-acre plot should produce enough to support a normal wildlife quota.

The area you select will in some ways affect your choice of crops. A largely shady area will be better situated to "no-plow, no-till" types of crops. You will, however, need the extra boost of a vitamin/mineral supplement for your soil. For areas where you can get equipment to clear the land, crops such as clover, alfalfa, hay and beans are good choices.

Are the crops you choose perennial or annual? Buckwheat and rye grass are perennial. Clover, alfalfa and hay are annual. Some crops won't be available for forage until later in the spring; others "green" with the warm weather. Remember, planted crops of any size or caliber are better than bait, which is available too late in the season to be of any nutritional use for the deer.

our or five hours of powerboat noise, sun, wind, glare and wave action can produce a sort of "boater's hypnosis" in the 1.5 million boaters who use our waterways each year. This hypnosis slows reactions almost as much as being flat-out drunk.

Add too many beers and the effect is intensified. The National Transportation Safety Board concluded it takes only a third as much alcohol to impair a boater's balance, judgment and coordination, so having two beers on the water is like downing a sixpack on land.

Bill Ventola, of Central Beer, a distributor of Anheuser-Busch, recommends waiting to drink until after you're off the water. "Seventy million people drink responsibly and have a pleasant time," he says. "The few who abuse alcohol are a danger to everybody."

Over 1,200 people die in boating accidents each year. Over half of those fatalities are alcohol related. Ninety percent of alcohol related fatalities are from drowning.

Alcohol reduces the body's natural defenses against cold water so that within a few minutes, victims might be unable to call for help or swim to safety. In fact, a drunk whose head is immersed can become disoriented enough to swim down to death rather than up to rescue.

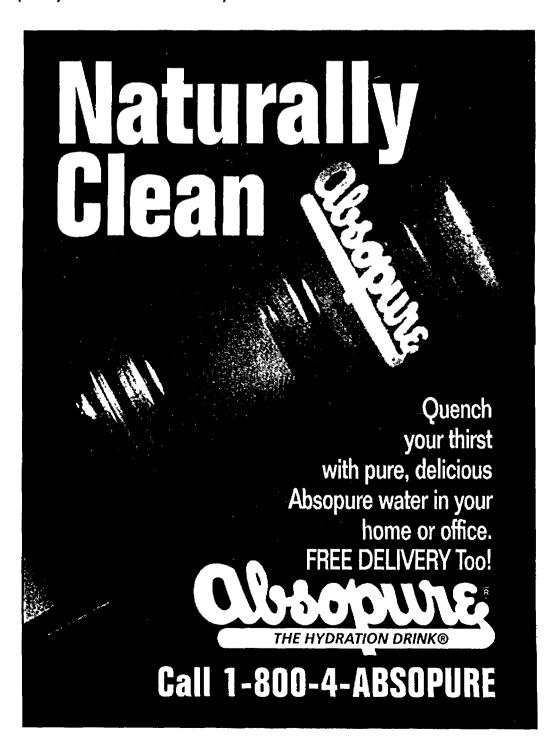

Ventola suggests that boaters remember to follow all safety rules, such as follow load limits, wear life jackets and if you must drink, limit yourself to one beer per hour and remember never to drink on an empty stomach.

Experts suggest you go easy on sodas and juices as well because most contain sugar and caffeine which may hasten dehydration.

"Water is the best hydrator," says Bill Young of Absopure. "It tastes great and it's convenient." But be sure to drink before you feel thirsty, as thirst is a symptom that dehydration has already set in. Headaches and dizziness are also signs that your body is lacking fluid.

As temperatures rise, so does the body's need for water. Everyone needs eight 8-ounce glasses of water per day – more if you're in the heat and active. On your next boating trip pack plenty of bottled water in your cooler and save the beer for land.

Fight Hunger

ichigan Sportsmen Against Hunger program is a perfect way for sportsmen and sportswomen to share a part of their harvest.

This statewide program, whose goal is to link generous hunters with food banks, soup kitchens and other charitable organizations that feed hungry Michiganders is in its fifth year. The program has fed hundreds of thousands of hungry people from Detroit to Iron River.

Hunters can donate venison, wild boar, elk or other big game meat by taking it to the nearest Sportsmen Against Hunter drop off station. Processing costs are the responsibility of the donor. Non-hunters can send cash donations to cover the costs of transportation, processing and promotion. Canned food and domestic meats are also accepted.

Leading Retailers Choose Novi Town Center

Tovi Town Center continues to be the location of choice for prominent national, regional and local retailers, according to Town Center Manager, Jim Clear. "In the past year and a half, we've seen occupancy here soar to more than 95%, as Old Navy Clothing Company, Linens N' Things, Saffron Billiards, Workbench Furniture and Music Go Round have joined our already strong merchant mix. Customers who haven't stopped by recently will be impressed by the selection and quality offered at Novi Town Center."

Clear has announced four new tenants at Town Center. They include Naturally, a bath essentials store located between Old Navy and Linens N' Things; Thomas Travel, a full-service travel agency; Gold Mortgage, a provider of mortgage services located in the south quadrant of the Center next to Saloné Nadwa; and Rainbow Sign, next to Saffron's. At least one additional major tenant announcement is expected by mid-summer.

To showcase the vitality of Novi Town Center and its merchants, owner, Allegis Realty Investors and management firm, The Linder Company, have combined to create a new series of advertisements. Look for these ads in your local Observer/Eccentric newspapers for merchant news and special promotional programs. For more information call (248)347-3830.

MANAGER'S MESSAGE

ust as no two fingerprints are alike, so it is with our feet. Sizes may be similar, but shapes are often as unique as our particular walking or running style. Understanding this difference distinguishes Running Fit at Novi Town Center from other athletic apparel and footwear retailers.

According to manager Paul Aufdemberge, "Everyone on our staff is a runner who takes fitness very seriously. We make every effort to select a shoe that is most appropriate for the customer. Due to our expert staff and wide selection, Running Fit has always been a favorite of marathoners and high school or college track athletes, but with the increased interest in health, we're seeing a more diverse customer mix including walkers and cross trainers. The key is to get our customers into a pair of shoes that will provide maximum comfort and stability while meeting their individual exercise needs."

Literally hundreds of shoes line the display area at Running Fit. Leading brands include Etonic, New Balance, Nike, Asics, Adidas, Saucony, Brooks and Reebok, priced from $35 to more than $100. Aufdemberge says one of the most popular shoes this season is the Asics Gel 2040. "Everyone here is passionate about running and that's reflected in the variety of shoes we carry. We focus on obtaining a high level of information from our customers to help them find just the right shoe. It's an approach that has served us well, as more than half our sales is derived from repeat customers. We have several runners who drive from Flint, Lansing and Toledo because they love the service."

In addition to footwear, Running Fit carries a complete line of all-season running apparel, windproof and waterproof running suits, swimsuits and lightweight micro-fiber running shorts. Running Fit was founded nearly 10 years ago and is co-owned by Randy Step, who has competed in Ironman Triathlete events, and Steve Angerman, an Eastern Kentucky College graduate who is also a marathon runner.

Running Fit is located just south of Mervyn's.

Custom Designs Spell Success for Ram Creations

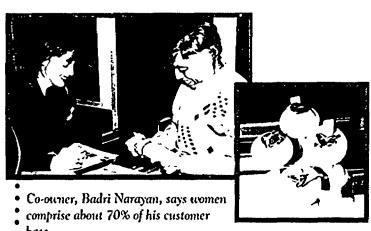

Il that glitters is definitely not gold at Ram Creations, Novi Town Center's upscale jeweler. While gold remains in high demand, diamonds, emeralds, rubies, alexandrite and other precious stones are also on the most-wanted list.

Ram Creations founder and co-owner Badri Narayan has worked in the jewelry business for decades. Narayan was trained by his grandfather in Hyderabad, India. "We specialize in high-end, custom jewelry ranging from as little as $200 to rings and necklaces valued at more than $100,000. While approximately 70% of our customers are women, more and more men are wearing jewelry, particularly earrings. We take great pride in creating innovative designs that reflect the tastes and character of the customer."

Narayan and co-owner Narender Agarwal say much of their success has been due to the support of Metro Detroit's thriving Indian community. "Our customers come from a 75-100 mile radius," says Agarwal, "Jewelry is such an important part of Indian culture and has very significant value and meaning to Indian women. It is close to their heart and represents a sound investment."

Narayan is quick to point out, however, that his customers come from all cultures and walks of life, each in search of the perfect wedding ring, watch, necklace, pendant or chain. "Since opening at Town Center in 1995, we have developed a very loyal clientele," Narayan says. "In fact, repeat business represents at least half our income. This is an excellent location and provides our customers with convenient access. Most of our shoppers live within 30 minutes of the center."

Narayan says the name of his store has three origins: It is his father's name; it is also the name of a mythologized figure in Hinduism; and just to entice the Americans, it happens to be the name of one our most famous football teams. To speak with any of the fine jewelry professionals at Ram Creations call (248)305-8686.

Diamond Jim Brady's Offers Paradise for the Palate

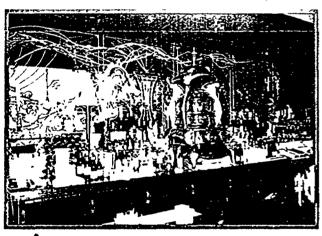

"There is no sincerer love than the love of food."

— George Bernard Shaw

he words of the famous British dramatist and playwright adorn a simple chalkboard above the open kitchen at Diamond Jim Brady's Bistro. Everyone at this 45-year-old metro Detroit dining institution seems to share Shaw's sentiment, especially those who are enjoying the house seafood specialties such as grilled salmon and potato-crusted whitefish. Everything on the menu is prepared by Certified Executive Chef, Mary Brady, who co-owns Diamond Jim's with her husband, Tom.

"Without question, the quality of our food distinguishes us from many other restaurants, particularly the chains," Mary says. "We offer an upscale menu in a very relaxed setting, featuring three or four nightly specials. Several of our food preparation staff are graduates of the cooking programs at Schoolcraft Community and Oakland Community colleges, while others are in the chef's apprentice programs at those schools. If you want the best Caesar Salad or Chicken Isabella in Detroit, this is the place."

Diamond Jim's takes its name from the owners as well as Diamond Jim Brady, a well-known ladies' man and bon vivant who became famous in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Diamond Jim's likeness, complete with

"We like to think we share some of his legendary jovial spirit every time we open the doors," says Tom Brady. "We literally serve generations of customers, from our days at 7 Mile and Greenfield in Detroit, to our move here to the Town Center 7 1/2 years ago."

Diamond Jim himself would undoubtedly be proud, as Tom is found serving lunch and dinner to those familiar faces, along with a stinging barb or two. During a recent lunch, one longtime customer told Tom, "I sure liked the old place back on 7 Mile." Tom dryly replied, "You mean you liked the PRICES back in the old place."

Manager's Greeting

fter months of planning and preparation, we proudly introduce the first edition of "Do the Town," the official newsletter of Novi Town Center.

Our purpose is quite simple: Town Center has much to offer you and your family ... these pages are dedicated to showing you how much.

Our center remains at the top of the "A" list for retailers looking for a prime location in Oakland County. In the past year or so, notable national tenants such as Old Navy Clothing Company and Linens N' Things have made Town Center an even more attractive retail destination. This year promises to be even more eventful as we prepare to announce a major landscaping and development program. Look for details in our July issue.

"Do the Town" gives you a closer look at the 35-plus merchants who provide quality products and services in a safe, attractive and convenient setting. A great deal of time has been spent by ownership (Allegis Realty Investors, LLC) and management (The Linder Company) to create an appropriate mix of retailers. In one convenient location you'll find a wide selection of clothing, electronics, books, music, toys, sporting goods, restaurants, furniture, kitchen and bath accessories, gifts, musical instruments and jewelry.

For nearly 15 years, Novi Town Center has been a community of neighbors serving neighbors. A unique benefit of our promotional program is the "gift with purchase" feature, which awards Town Center shoppers with quality gift items. In just a few days we'll celebrate Mother's Day by awarding attractive, handmade candle jars to those who spend $100 between April 30 and May 9.

We encourage you to spend a few moments "doing the town" and learning more about the great shopping and dining experience that lies fewer than 20 minutes from your doorstep.

Until next time, Jim Clear, The Linder Company Novi Town Center Manager
