The long and bumpy road

Motorists find area roads tough going on automobiles

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

After another traumatic day on Novi and Northville roads, you pull into your garage, just thankful to be alive. And then you see it.

Ridges in the pavement have flattened your tires and bent your rims.

Dips in the road have butchered your exhaust system.

Your transmission has been pounded worse than a Mike Tyson opponent.

Arrgggh!

And for all this, you're going to pay how much? Quite a bit, say Northville mechanics and body shop personnel.

The maddening season of road construction has made its mark not only on the psyche of the suburbanite driver, but also on cars. Jim Davis, owner of Davis Auto Care, said he's seen more than his share of vehicles coming into the shop with tires and wheels damaged because of road construction or bad roads.

"What happens with some of these roads is that it causes stress on the tires and will actually begin damaging the interior of a tire," Davis said. "The treads get out of line, you might get ply separation, and the next thing you know there's a blister that's formed on the outside of the tire."

Davis said a sure sign that a tire has been damaged is the feeling of repeatedly driving over a bump.

"It's like a dog wagging its tail," he said.

More costly and trickier to repair are bent rims, Davis said. Those items on a car become damaged when a car hits a chuckhole or a big bump.

CAR COSTS

Making generalized statements about how much a car repair will cost is a lot like asking how much a house costs. Even so, here's what mechanics and auto body repair people in Northville say about the dollars and cents of construction-related auto repairs.

- Cracked heat gasket or cylinder head — $500 to $1,000
- Bent aluminum wheel or rim — $300
- Alignments — $30 to $50, front or back
- Tires — $20 to $150 per tire
- Exhaust systems — varies depending on severity of repair

Center Stage

Play practice takes place on stage at the historic Marquis Theater, which has greeted audiences for more than seven decades.

Marquis Theater has been Northville institution for 73 years

Through the courtesy of Harry Lush of Plymouth, a representative of The Record was shown the plans for Northville's new theater building last Friday.

The structure will be 50 feet by 180 feet and will contain all the newest and latest equipment. The new theater will be an ornament to our business section and a credit to those who are promoting the enterprise.

You'll note upon entering the Marquis Theater that the place isn't equipped with Dolby digital Surround Sound. It doesn't have plush stadium seating and it doesn't have video games in the lobby area.

On the other hand, you don't need to take out a second mortgage to buy popcorn and a soft drink at the Marquis, mostly because you can get both of them for a buck.

And then there's Oscar the Ghost, the spirit of the theater — something the giant megaplexes could only dream of having.

Enga Zayti is the owner of the classic old building, whose hall-ways and rooms echo an era of a day gone by. Movies aren't shown at the Marquis anymore, because Zayti said she isn't particularly fond of the themes in today's motion pictures. That leaves stage productions as the lone form of entertainment to be found in the place.

That suits her just fine.

"No, I'm never going to get rich," she says with her thick German accent. "But what else do I need? I've got a nice house and I'm living comfortably, so you do this job because you love it."

A summer day camp theater session is going on when Zayti walks through the Marquis on a

Police arrest man accused of child terrorism

By ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A 28-year-old Livonia man arrested for indecent exposure and attempting to accost children told Novi police he could have easily kidnapped young girls "if he wanted to."

Kenneth Stefanski, Livonia, was arrested July 10 after police interviewed the man several times in the middle of last week. He was picked up by police after witnesses saw the man watching children play.

"It was such a strong resemblance and strong coincidence to what we were looking for that we brought him into the station," said Doug Shaeffer, Novi police chief. "And he denied everything initially."

After reinterviewing Stefanski, though, Shaeffer said the 28-year-old admitted to masturbating while trying to call girls over to his truck.

"He offered in his own defense that he was not trying to kidnap the girls and that he had plenty of opportunity to do it and would have

Nield investigation may take more time, State Police claim

■ Wayne County Prosecutor's office would like investigation report 'sooner than later.'

By ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The investigation into a Northville businessman who allegedly abused district property could take as long as another four weeks, Michigan State Police said this week.

Michigan State Police Detective Donald Laymond said there are still more people he needs to talk to before he passes the investigation on to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office.

Richard Padzieski, chief of operations in the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, said he would like to see the report sooner than later.

"There is no average length of time for an investigation like this," he said.

Laymond said he didn't want to give an exact time of when the investigation may be completed.

"I don't have a time frame," he said. "I'm still looking into the matter."

Former businessman faces larceny charges

By ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A former Northville businessman faces about 20 years in prison after a Northville Township resident lost more than $10,000 to the man in a bad business deal.

According to Northville Township Police, Steve Newton, who co-owned Gold Coast Spas, is being charged with operating under false pretenses, up to a five-year felony and/or $10,000 fine, larceny by conversion, up to a five-year felony and/or $2,500 fine, and contractor fraud, possibly between a six-month to three-year felony and/or a $100 to $5,000 fine. The suspect also has been charged as a habitual offender with could be a seven-and-a-half year felony.

"We have a suspect who has been charged on four counts," said Northville Township Detective Paul Sumner. "We are currently in contact with his attorney who said the suspect plans to come in."

The Northville Township investigation started

"We have a suspect who has been charged on four counts. We are currently in contact with his attorney who said the suspect plans to come in."

Paul Sumner,
Northville Township Detective

when a resident filed a complaint with township police after a deal between the resident and the former owner of Gold Coast Spas went bad. She publicly confirmed her plans to file a complaint with township police in that issue of the Record.

The deal, featured in the April 22 Northville Record, called for Newton to arrange for the installment of a $7,000 porch and subsequently a $5,000 hot tub at the woman's home.

Concrete was installed for the porch but the gazebo around the porch and the hot tub were never delivered, the woman told the Record.

The investigation into the complaint by Sumner revealed the suspect had never ordered lumber from a lumber store as he had told the woman even though he took payment for the materials, and he never paid the main contractor for the work done on the project.

Newton's pattern of bad business deals in the Northville area stretched back to last November when a Northville couple paid more than $10,000 for two hot tubs and a gazebo.

The couple filed suit against Gold Coast in January and the case hasn't been settled yet.

Because the Northville Township complaint deals with just the suspect and the porch built in the township and not business deals made in Northville, township police just handled the one complaint.

Gold Coast abruptly closed its doors in April. Northville Police Detective Dave Fendelet said his department is investigating two cases in

EXOTIC PETS

Tips on owning an exotic pet will be the topic of a program at the library on Monday, Aug. 9 at 2 p.m. Dan Bruere, from "Little Critters," will exhibit and discuss caring for various unusual pets. Register at the information desk or by calling 349-3020.

LIBRARY BOARD MEETING

The next meeting of the Northville District Library Board of trustees will be Thursday, July 22 at 7:30 p.m. The public is welcome to attend.

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Northville school district authorities announced Thursday they had received a letter from Northville Township's board of trustees that made official the end of litigation between the two bodies.

School district attorney Bob Lusk said the letter was a disposition of the case, which took the matter out of the legal system. He said he expected to receive a notice from the courts soon acknowledging the agreement between the township and the district.

The township board began its backing down from the lawsuit in late March, when the group Families For A Better Northville packed the Civic Center chambers and asked for immediate cessation of the suit, and also strongly hinted at seeking recall of township supervisor Karen Woodside and other board members if the suit wasn't dropped.

A series of modifications to the March settlement continued being debated between the district and the township before the disposition was forwarded.

The lawsuit, which took nearly a year to resolve, revolved around zoning issues pertaining to the new Northville High School. In both instances in which the matter was debated in a courtroom, judges ruled in favor of the school district.

Thursday's announcement did not mean the end of all legal action. Lusk said the district is still in litigation with some of the residents of the nearby Woods of Edenderry subdivision, who dispute the plans for lighting of soccer fields at the school.

"(Woods of Edenderry residents are) still hanging around and pursuing this," Lusk said. "It seems to me that if the township has things settled in their mind, then the Woods of Edenderry folks should probably feel comfortable as well. I don't see what moral grounds their contention is based upon."

Lusk said the district and township worked closely together to negotiate the placement and height of soccer field lights, as well as the hours they would function.

Lusk said the original litigation filed by the township was done so with the Woods of Edenderry kept most closely in mind, as it was the only residential area within close proximity of the new high school.

"I think that the settlement should satisfy (the Woods of Edenderry), but it hasn't," Lusk said. "I'm hoping that in time they'll come around as well."

Bushwood withdraws sale of alcohol request

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A request to sell alcohol on the Bushwood Golf Course has been withdrawn.

The attorney for Pinnacle Food Services Inc., which had requested the permit to sell alcohol on the course from a cart, sent the letter of withdrawal to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission July 13.

Pinnacle Food Services plans to take over the food service portion of the golf course if approved by township officials.

In transferring the business from the owner of Bushwood, Haggerty Hills Limited Partnership, to the new owner several modifications including the request to sell on-course were added.

Other changes included an official permit to have people on the premises before 7 a.m. but no alcohol served and an outdoor service permit for patio sales.

More than 40 people attended a recent township board meeting to voice concerns about the sale of alcohol on the course. Additionally, Bushwood faces a liquor license suspension and/or fines after ignoring warnings from township police to stop selling alcohol on the course without the permit.

The violation was referred to the Liquor Control Commission after two township police officers bought four beers from a golf course beverage cart June 21.

EARRINGS, FOR MEN
By now, most people are not surprised to see men sporting earrings. The fact of the matter is that men's earrings have gone in and out of fashion since the days of King Tut. The latest upsurge in men's earrings, prior to the present, occurred in the nineteenth century when it was believed that piercing one's ears improved one's eyesight. That perhaps explains why earrings were so popular among sailors and pirates. Today, young, twenty-something men to older, rugged individualists sport earrings. Studs, hoops, and even dangling earrings can be found on everyone from skateboarders to Ed Bradley. Women, therefore, should not even think twice about buying earrings for the men in their lives.

We also have a wonderful collection of fine gemstones. If you are already one of our valued customers we thank you for your continued patronage, if new, stop by and see us. We are now licensed by the city of Novi to offer loans on jewelry. Here at 41990 Grand River Ave. (248-347-0303), we are open Tue. & Thurs. 10 a.m. - 6 p.m., Wed. & Fri. 10 a.m. - 8 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. We're "The name you know, the name you trust." Most major credit cards accepted.

A wonderful selection of gold jewelry for both casual and dressy wear, abounds here at WEINSTEIN JEWELERS OF NOVI, even for men.

P.S. Men who wear hoops in their ears are considered to be more casual in attire than the ones who wear plain studs.

The exterior of the new Northville High School is nearing completion. Brickwork will be added to the structure shortly.

In high gear

School officials still hopeful for fall 2000 high school opening

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Northville school district authorities pushed construction of the new Northville High School into high gear Thursday, adding as many as 100 new workers to the project.

Assistant superintendent for instructional services Dave Bolitho said the new faces were needed in an attempt to get the project back on schedule. At present, the high school project is some nine weeks behind where it should be.

Those extra bodies, Bolitho said, spent the last several days pouring concrete in several areas throughout the building. He said the corridors on the second floor of the building have been poured except for the hallways outside the theater. The swimming pool floor has also been poured, as has the theater stage, he said.

With a good portion of the concrete work completed on the interior, Bolitho said it was now possible to move ahead and begin calling in drywallers, plumbers and electricians to construct the walls for classrooms. The academic portions of the building were of primary importance, he said.

"We have to have the classrooms ready for that Aug. 1 move-in date," Bolitho said.

Also on the horizon for the project, Bolitho said, is the awarding of bids for carpeting and resilient tile in the building.

"Those are two fairly substantial bids we're talking about," Bolitho said. "They're very important components to the project."

Carpeting will be installed in the hallways, resilient tile in science labs, and porcelain tile in the "Main Street" portion of the building — a glass-enclosed corridor spanning from the western side of the high school into the cafeteria.

The project is being funded by a multi-million bond issue approved by Northville voters, which not only covered the cost of the high school, but also capital improvements to many of the other buildings in the district.

We have to have the classrooms ready for that Aug. 1 move-in date,"

Dave Bolitho

Construction work continues on new 35th District Court

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

The traditional Christmas tree and American flag topped the final piece of structural steel at the new 35th District Court earlier this month, a milestone in the development of the building.

Judge Ron Lowe said the steel was signed by all members of the court staff and construction crews before it was hoisted into position and set in place. The moment, he said, was bittersweet in the minds of many in the court.

"It was both good and bad — it was good in the sense that we had all the steelwork behind us, but now we were entering into that phase where we really wouldn't see a lot of progress being made," he said. "When steel goes up, it's big and visible and you can watch things happen. Plumbing and electrical work is important, of course, but from a distance, you really can't see much happening."

Lowe said the concrete for the three floors of the court were hoped to be poured last week, but were delayed because of rain. Lowe said workers would take another crack at pouring the floors next week.

The project is still on schedule, but Lowe said the work hasn't been without its tie-ups and delays, most of which revolved around labor issues.

"Early on there was a real concern about our ability to get contractors in here to do the work," he said. "This is a huge building season and construction groups are hard to find."

More recently, Lowe said construction came to a halt last week when it was learned a non-union plumber was working on the project. Union members walked off the job and picketed the site.

Lowe said the union / non-union matters are left to the construction manager to address. Whether or not a complete resolution to the dispute had been reached Friday was difficult to tell, Lowe said, as rain kept all workers away from the job.

Despite the setbacks, Lowe was still largely optimistic.

"It's been explained to me that what we're going through is like falling behind by a couple of runs in the early innings of a baseball game — it's a long game with plenty of opportunities to make it up," he said.

As for life at the temporary 35th District Court, Lowe said court staff has had to contend with a number of small nuisance problems, but also said the facility is largely suited staff's needs.

Lowe said the court was being forced to run on half-power Friday afternoon, which required a jury trial to move from a blacked-out courtroom to one with fully operational electricity.

Still, Lowe said the inconveniences didn't outweigh the benefits.

"We've endured a lot, but functionally-speaking, we enjoy having our court in one location instead of spread out all over the district," he said.

The new court is being built to replace the old 35th District Court which burned following a July 1997 electrical storm.

Committee completes study on township manager position

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Imagine going to work and not knowing who your boss would be that day or when he/she might show up.

Sure, you might know what your goals are, but the day-to-day routine of trying to reach success would be hampered by not having a person around to make basic on-the-spot decisions.

The recently completed Northville Township Management Study Committee report suggests not having an accessible manager for those general day-to-day operational decisions is one of the problems facing the township. Getting a person in place, if it happens at all, though, is still a long way off, one committee member said.

"I'm convinced this is a good process," said Richard Henningsen, board of trustees treasurer and committee member. "But I don't know if everyone else on the board has bought into it."

The report recommends the township adopt an ordinance that vests full authority, responsibility and accountability for administrative operations in a single individual, or chief executive officer. Additionally, the report suggests a resolution be adopted "that clearly defines the roles and responsibilities of the board of trustees and the chief executive officer."

"I think it like an air traffic controller," said Sue Hillebrand, township clerk. "You have a bunch of pilots (department heads and employees) flying planes and the manager makes sure everything flows smoothly. We need someone there every day, all day, for a manager."

Other employees seemed to agree.

In the report, put together by a six-member committee formed by the Northville Township board of trustees in the summer of 1997, township employees were asked about a full-time manager.

"It was clear that most, but not all, employees wanted a leader, rather than a manager," the report said. "Many employees said that management skills (e.g.: organization, communication, delegation) were more important than technical skills (e.g.: planning, finance, etc.)."

Karen Woodside, current township supervisor, said a full-time person is needed. Not to run departments, she said, but for things such as representation of the township.

"I have to decline a lot of things where the supervisor is requested to represent the township," she said.

Woodside said she tries not to take calls during the day related to township business and instead waits until she is in the township office, typically after 4 p.m., in an effort to not mix township business with her work.

"I've returned calls as late as 1 or 2 a.m.," she said.

Woodside said she hasn't decided what form of administrator should be in charge.

The report identifies three management options available to the township including: a full-time manager and a part-time supervisor; a full-time superintendent and part time supervisor; and a full-time supervisor.

With a manager position, the manager is full-time with limited authority for managing administrative operations while the supervisor is part-time and retains statutory authority for administrative operations described in the township charter. In the past the supervisor's administrative oversight and decision-making has been shared with an executive committee composed of the supervisor, clerk and treasurer.

With the superintendent, all the supervisor's statutory authority for administrative operations is delegated to the superintendent except those of assessor.

With the supervisor option, a full-time elected person would carry broad authority for managing all administrative operations.

Northville Township last had a full-time manager in the summer of 1997. Between 1987 and 1997 there were five managers, thus the board of trustees decided to assess the position before hiring another manager.

Marv Gans, board trustee and member of the the study committee, said putting the report together was an arduous process.

"The whole thing took time," he said. "There were people who said we need to get somebody in there now, but we thought we should take some time and see what is the best way to go."

Putting the report together involved committee group members taking trips to other "exemplary" townships such as Van Buren and Saginaw and meeting with township managers, compiling a questionnaire for township employees, interviewing former Northville Township managers and supervisors, and reviewing historic township documents related to the township manager position.

Gans said the findings in the report will be beneficial.

"The study pointed out some very interesting things," he said. "And will be very useful in providing for some direction."

Henningsen said the work doesn't stop with completion of the report.

"We've already drawn up a timeline chart and are in the process of trying to get more people and other activities going," he said.

The timeline calls for someone to be in the position September 1, 2000. Additionally, a vote by board of trustees to approve a manager would take place this August or September, if the timeline flows smoothly.

"Hopefully we'll be able to sell this so that we have a vote of 7-0," he said.

Northville News Briefs

PARTY BUSTED ON ALLEN DRIVE, TEENS ARRESTED

Six youths were arrested after police responded to a loud party complaint on Allen Drive.

The incident happened July 11 at 2 a.m.

According to a Northville police report, police responded to a complaint on Allen Drive. Upon investigation of the home it was discovered six teens — ranging from 16 years old to 19 years old — were drinking.

They were arrested.

GUARDRAIL BROKEN ON HORTON STREET

A 27-year-old Milford man was arrested after slamming his car into the woods and being chased by police.

The incident happened July 8 at about 12:30 a.m.

According to a Northville police report, the 27-year-old man was seen slamming into the guardrail near the curve at the intersection of Rayson and Horton. He crossed the road and slammed into a tree at 411 Horton. He left the scene and was followed by a witness who saw the man drive into the woods.

The man got out of the car and couldn't respond to the witnesses inquiries into the man's condition.

The witness went and told police where the man was. Police went to the car and saw the man was gone.

A search of the area revealed the man laying face down on the ground. The car the man was driving had no right front tire.

He was arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Additionally, he was cited for refusing to take a preliminary breath test and leaving the scene of an accident.

DRIVER ARRESTED FOR SUSPENDED LICENSE

An Ypsilanti man was arrested for driving with a suspended license.

The incident happened July 8 at about 2:30 p.m.

According to a Northville Police report, a man made a right turn on to westbound Eight Mile Road through a red light, which is illegal. A background check of the man revealed he had two license suspensions out of Ann Arbor.

In addition to being arrested, the man was cited for driving with a suspended license and making a prohibited turn on red.

WOMAN IGNORES STOP SIGN, INJURES DRIVER

A 38-year-old Farmington Hills woman drove her 1995 Oldsmobile through a stop sign at Novi Street at Eight Mile Road.

The incident happened July 10 at 1:30 p.m.

According to a Northville Police report, the woman failed to stop for a stop sign at Novi Street headed north and ran into a 1993 Ford driven by a 73-year-old Redford woman who just turned right onto Eight Mile Road.

The driver of the Oldsmobile said her visibility was obstructed by eastbound cars stopped for a red light.

71-YEAR-OLD DRIVER ARRESTED FOR OUIL

A 71-year-old man who lives on Nine Mile Road and drives a 1991 blue Dodge was arrested for drunken driving.

The incident happened July 11 at about 9:30 p.m.

According to a Northville Police report, police responded to an accident at northbound South Center Street and Main Street. When questioning what happened the driver of the Dodge said his foot slipped off the brake and he lost control.

Police said they smelled the strong odor of intoxicants, the man had trouble speaking and his eyes were glossy. He had trouble with sobriety tests including a preliminary breath test of which he blew a .141.

He was arrested pending sobering and posting of a $100 bond.

TOWNSHIP POLICE BRIEFS

OFFICERS INJURED WHEN WOMAN KICKS OUT WINDOW

Two Northville Township officers were injured when they were helping Plymouth Township police.

The incident happened July 7 at about 5 a.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, Plymouth Township police requested help with a 29-year-old Ann Arbor woman. They were trying to put leg irons on the woman.

The irons were on and the 130-pound woman was kicking the passenger side back window until it shattered.

$2,500 TAKEN FROM HOME UNDER CONSTRUCTION

About $2,500 was taken from a construction site where a house was being built.

The incident happened July 10 at 3 p.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, about $2,500 in wood was taken from a construction site on Wildflower. Lumber stolen included 300 two-by-fours and 50 four-foot by eight-foot sheets of plywood.

There are no suspects or no witnesses.

MAN CITED FOR CARELESS DRIVING AFTER HITTING TREE

A 22-year-old man was cited for hitting a tree after he lost control of his van.

The incident happened July 11 at about 1:30 a.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, the man tried to make a turn in his 1995 Ford from northbound Silver Springs on to westbound Lake Success and hit a tree because he tried to turn too fast.

The man blew a preliminary breath test of .082.

Novi chiropractor receives top honor

By B.J. HAMMERSTEIN
Staff Writer

A crack of the back and a twist of the neck has helped many of Dr. Patricia Chelenyak's patients live a healthier life.

As a chiropractor for more than 17 years, Chelenyak, 39, has recently been presented the prestigious "Chiropractor of the Year" award from the Michigan Chiropractic Council.

"It feels really great to win this award," Chelenyak said.

"I am honored to receive an award like this from an organization like the MCC, which has so many dedicated workers."

The award is presented to the chiropractor who shows outstanding commitment and leadership in the advancement of chiropractic medicine in the state of Michigan.

"I like to think of myself as a primary health care provider," she said. "I look to the spine as a center for the cause of significant disease."

Chelenyak said that a healthy spine leads to a healthier life and will cut down on health problems such as asthma, back pains, ear infections and headaches.

"I know that if there is a spinal misalignment, I will check a patient through examinations, X-rays and then I do a surface scan, which is an EMG, and a thermal scan," she explained.

"After determining where the spinal misalignment is, I adjust the spine to release that nerve interference so the body can give itself a chance to heal."

Originally from the downriver area, Chelenyak has had her chiropractic practice in Novi for the past eight years. She began her chiropractic career in Sebawing, after graduating from Life Chiropractic College, now Life University, in Marietta, Ga.

She said her chiropractic practice is a family practice and she really enjoys taking care of athletes and children.

"I have treated my two daughters since the day they were born," Chelenyak said. "The best chance of keeping children from getting sick is getting them to see a chiropractor. I treat many young kids and the youngest I have had in the office was 2-days-old."

Chelenyak said most people wait until there are symptoms before they make an appointment with a chiropractor. But with 17 years of experience, she encourages people to make an appointment before the pain begins.

"The nervous system controls everything in the body," she said.

"It takes time — not just for a spinal adjustment to relieve the pain, but for correcting the problem."

Chelenyak is currently serving as Program Chair for the MCC and is a member of its Executive Board.

Her other interests include spending time with her daughters, Tai, 14, and Kayla, 11.

She also stays active by earning a black belt with her daughter in Tae Kwan Do.

A fan of soccer, Chelenyak really enjoys watching her two daughters play the game and encourages them to stay active through athletics.

"I really enjoy my practice and I love to stay busy," she said. "I like helping people get well."

MORE THAN 100 BUILDING OWNERS CITED

Northville Police have completed a check of all homes and businesses for compliance with the building identification ordinance.

During the check, 122 violations were found.

Officers assigned to checking the buildings would attempt to contact building owners and inform them of the ordinance. If no one was able to be reached the matter would be referred to the building department.

MEDIAONE CONTINUES NEGOTIATIONS FOR SITE

MediaOne continues to work with Canton Township in an attempt to open a customer service center in the township.

MediaOne services Canton, Northville and Plymouth.

MediaOne signed a lease earlier this spring for space in a shopping center at 8008 Sheldon Center

Road in Canton Township in an attempt to be more accessible to customers. The company had planned to open the location by June 30.

However, they ran into problems when the township planning services department did not approve the application for the building permit. The new storefront will open about six weeks after the permit is approved.

SIDEWALK WAIVER APPROVED WITH CONDITIONS

An agreement has been made between R&R Fire Truck Repair Inc. to waive construction of a sidewalk along its new facility on Doherty Drive.

The agreement allows for a delay of construction of a sidewalk until other sidewalks are constructed in the area and within a five-year time frame.

The motion was approved 3-1 with Carolann Ayers casting a vote against the waiver.

Don't Delay... Decide Today.

Christmas or Hanukah?
Too often, intermarried couples put off any decisions regarding religion. And quite often, the decision they make is no decision at all.

That may work today, but what about later? What about the rich Jewish traditions that can provide you with a sense of belonging, of comfort in times of need and of identity for your children? Think about it, and when you're ready, give us a call.

City council approves relaxed parking ordinance downtown

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The city of Northville hopes to lure more development by baiting downtown with lower parking rates.

Northville city council has approved an ordinance that relaxes the number of spaces business owners must provide or pay for per square footage. The vote passed city council 4-0.

The ordinance requires property owners of areas deemed business and professional within the central business district to provide one parking spot per 300 square feet of gross floor area they have on second and third floors. Before the ordinance change, businesses had to provide or pay for one spot per 200 square feet on the second and third floors.

First floor offices within the central business district would still be required to provide one parking space for each 200 square feet.

Not everyone was in favor of the change.

"When council raised the cost to purchase a parking credit to cover half the cost of creating a parking space I felt we were taking a step in the right direction," said Kevin Hartshorne, city council member. "Are we not now going backwards by requiring developers to purchase fewer parking credits?"

However, Hartshorne was on vacation and couldn't vote against the ordinance change.

Businesses that don't actually build a parking lot must purchase parking credits from the city to help maintain parking levels and lots downtown.

The relaxed parking standards for offices were recommended in the city of Northville Parking Management Plan from 1998.

The relaxed rates for parking make Northville one of the loosest in the Detroit area as far as required spots for office facilities go.

"This puts us more in the mainstream of those communities trying to encourage downtown development," Word said. "This will be a good thing for the city."

For example, Ann Arbor requires one spot per 250 square feet, Birmingham, Plymouth, and Rochester require one spot per 300 square feet, and Royal Oak requires one spot per 225 square feet.

The recommendation came from Carlisle/Wortman Associates Inc., the consulting firm for the Northville Downtown Development Association.

"We feel comfortable that the city can relax their standards from one parking space per 200 square feet to one parking space for 300 square feet for office. We believe that this relaxation will still allow for adequate parking within the Northville downtown," the recommendation said.

Additionally, the recommendation is to continue the use of parking occupancy surveys to monitor supply and demand.

Northville business owners and organizations supported the changes.

"Change to one space for every 200 square feet of office space will keep us in similar conformity with other communities in the area," said Mary Poole, owner of Poole's Tavern, in a letter to city council.

The Northville Chamber of Commerce board of directors also sent a letter recommending the change to city council.

"The board of directors believes this change would be a twofold benefit: it would encourage more development in the downtown area; it would increase the employment rate in the city, which would have a direct effect on the amount of dollars spent in the service and retail businesses," the letter said.

Council OKs Eight Mile/Taft road plans

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Construction in the immediate Northville area was almost nonexistent.

"Was" is the operative word there.

The Northville City Council has approved Wayne County plans to resurface the intersection of Eight Mile Road, Taft Road and Randolph Road. The construction is sure to provide more summer construction delays once the project gets rolling.

Jim Gallogly, Northville department of public works director, said the project is needed.

"They're out here all winter with cold patch," he said. "So we wanted to try and work something out during the summer."

Gallogly said the road is "really rough" and that many of the concrete joints are crumbling.

In a report to city council, Gary Word, Northville city manager, said repairing the intersections is important because they "are in poor condition and particularly hard to maintain during the winter months."

Work should begin within the month, Gallogly said, and it could take until November.

The city requested Wayne County consider the project, which will stretch almost all the way from the intersection of Eight Mile Road and Taft Road to Center Street.

The project calls for about 2,900 feet of the road to be repaired through the intersections. The internal paving program of the Wayne County road division will perform the work and since the jurisdiction of Eight Mile Road is shared between Wayne County and Oakland County, each will share in one-half the cost for the work.

Additionally, under the guidelines of the program, the city of Northville must agree to share one-third of Wayne County's cost, or $22,548, which will be moved in the 1999-2000 budget from local street budget to the major street budget. Local street improvements proposed for the Pheasant Hills subdivision will be delayed until next year.

Victorian festival set for Sept. 17-19

Take a trip back in time to a simpler era with a visit to Northville's 11th annual Victorian Festival, Sept. 17, 18 and 19. Come celebrate the art, history, and romance of the 1800s amid Northville's historic homes and tree-lined streets.

The festival begins with a kickoff parade Friday at 6:30 p.m. For the next two days, the streets will be closed to automobile traffic as townspeople, artists, and business owners turn back the clock and transform the community into a Victorian Village complete with period costumes, free horse and carriage rides, storytellers, a medicine man show, strolling musicians, street entertainment, and an elegant costumed ball. Visitors can enjoy a unique shopping experience in the many fine establishments in Northville - old fashioned games, food booths, a creative art show, an antique show, and a fine art market. Activities and events take place all day Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Founded in the early 1800s, Northville came of age during the Victorian period. The Festival, sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, celebrates the town's special heritage.

The community retains much of the flavor of that period today.

Maybury State Park

PARK HOURS: Maybury State Park is open daily from 8 a.m. until dusk. Farm hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily. A state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry to the park. Additional information about programs or facilities may be obtained by calling the park office at (248) 349-8390.

SUMMER EVENING SERIES: Our popular Summer Evening Series returns on Thursday evenings throughout the summer. Join us for any of the following topics:

• "Birds at Maybury," July 15, 7 p.m. Meet at the farm demonstration building for a short slide presentation, followed by a walk in the park in search of some of the summer birds at Maybury.

• "Maybury Farm," July 22, 7 p.m. Come see the farm animals and learn a little bit about them on this special guided tour of Maybury Farm. Meet at the farm demonstration building.

CONSTELLATION HIKE: Come to Maybury for a special night hike on Friday, July 16 beginning at 8:30 p.m. We will explore the fact and folklore of our summer evening skies using sky charts, binoculars, and Native American stories. Meet at the concession building in the main parking lot.

JULY KIDS' HIKE: Join us on Saturday, July 17 at 11 a.m. for "Creepy Crawlies." This program for children and their families, will explore the amazing world of insects and other small creatures. Meet at the farm demonstration building.

SUMMER GRAIN HARVEST: Come to the farm on Saturday, July 24 for our annual Summer Grain Harvest beginning at 2 p.m. Learn how cereal grains are planted, harvested and processed, try your hand at using some of the tools from our agricultural past, and sample some whole wheat bread, donated by Great Harvest Bread Co. of Northville. All activities take place at the farm demonstration building.

Catholic Central High School on another outstanding school year in 1998-1999!

In addition to being named among the "100 Outstanding High Schools in the United States" by U.S. News and World Report (January 18, 1999), Catholic Central students have achieved excellence in the following areas of academics, athletics and community service.

In Academics:

- Quiz Bowl...1st Place in the NAQT National High School Championship at the University of Oklahoma (June 5-6, 1999)
- Math Team...1st Place in the Michigan Math Contest
- Symphonic Band...No. 1 Rating in the State
- National Merit Recognition...19 students
- National Honor Society...81 seniors
- Scholarships...over three million dollars in scholarships awarded to over thirty percent of the 1999 graduating seniors

In Athletics:

- Three State Championships:
Class AA Football...ranked no. 15 in the Nation
Class A Hockey...ranked no. 1 in the Nation
Class A Baseball...ranked no. 12 in the Nation
- Three CC students received distinction of "Best High School Player in 1999" in hockey, wrestling and baseball
- One student honored as the "Best High School Athlete in Michigan"

While accomplishing these remarkable goals, CC students have never forgotten their commitment to the community. This is evidenced by the tremendous success in raising funds to aid those who are less fortunate.

Discovery Store heads list of new businesses at 12 Oaks Mall

Shoppers at Twelve Oaks will discover five new stores as recent additions to the more than 180 shops and services at Twelve Oaks.

The Discovery Channel Store is just one of many offering exciting new services and merchandise. This store has an impressive selection of games, books, apparel and so much more.

MasterCuts, a family hair salon, offers cuts, perms and retail beauty products all at affordable prices. For a refreshing beverage while shopping, customers can now enjoy healthy drinks from Surf City Squeeze.

The latest fads and fashions can be found at Mr. Rags, the newest men's clothing store featuring brand names such as Fubu and Billabong.

Opening July 1 is Elias Jewelry and Repairs, which is a jewelry sales and repair store.

"It's exciting to see these new services and products we can offer our customers," says Peggy Hayes, marketing director of Twelve Oaks.

• Discovery Channel Store

If you like the great outdoors, science and technology, history, and world culture you will love the Discovery Channel Store. They will feature merchandise which reflects the programming on Discovery Channel, The Learning Channel, The Travel Channel, and Animal Planet. Such items will include games, books, videos, packaged foods, stationary and apparel. But that's not all. They will also offer posters, paintings, computer software, and natural objects such as minerals and fossils.

• MasterCuts Family Haircutters
MasterCuts Family Haircutters, a Regis company, offers walk-in hair cutting services with four stylists to assist you. Their top-of-the-line services are made available at affordable prices. MasterCuts also carries several different lines of retail beauty products featuring Matrix, Biolage, Redkin, Paul Mitchell, Back to Basics, and many more.

• Surf City Squeeze

If you're looking for a refreshing drink to quench your thirst after a hard day of shopping, stop by Surf City Squeeze. This store brings to Twelve Oaks a variety of healthy drinks such as smoothies, fresh squeezed juices, and lemonade. They also feature bagels, bagel spreads, and muffin tops.

• Mr. Rags

The newest addition to Twelve Oaks is Mr. Rags, a men's clothing store featuring the latest and most popular brands. Within Mr. Rags you will find clothes from JNCO, Fubu, Billabong, Polo, Nautica, and Ecco. In addition, this store also sells and assembles complete skateboards.

• Elias Jewelry and Repairs

Opening July 1, Elias Jewelry and Repairs will include the sale and display of diamonds, watches, crystal, platinum, precious and semi-precious stones, and 14k gold and silver jewelry. To better serve their customers, they will also offer jewelry repair and making services.

Twelve Oaks Mall shopping hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The City of Northville will receive sealed bids until 2:00 p.m. local time on July 27, 1999, for the sale of miscellaneous equipment.

This equipment can be inspected at the City of Northville Department of Public Works "Yards" facility located at 650 Doherty Drive, Northville, Michigan. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The following equipment will be sold "as-is" to the highest bidder:

1990 Dodge Power Wagon
VIN T1 37-18991

All BIDS must be submitted to the Office of the CITY CLERK located in the Northville City Hall, 215 West Main Street, Northville, Michigan 48167. BIDS must be submitted in a sealed envelope marked "USED EQUIPMENT BID."

The City of Northville reserves the right to waive any irregularity or informality in bids, and to reject any and/or all bids, in whole or in part, if it determines, in its sole judgment that the high bid does not represent the market value of the equipment.

Marquis Theater: a downtown landmark for 73 years

Friday afternoon. Small voices fill the large empty spaces.

"Let me show you the backstage area," she says.

You've really got to watch your step in the place, as the cramped places are filled with the sorts of objects you could only find in the Marquis. There's a harp (complete with missing strings) in one corner. A stoic-looking suit of armor stands guard at one of the doors. Classic oil paintings of unnamed people adorn the walls.

And on this day when kids are taking direction from theater counselors, there are costumes and props in various locations.

We make our way down the incline toward the front of the stage.

"Hi, Mrs. Enga," a girl says. "Good afternoon, dear," Zayti responds, smiling. "Sounds like you're doing well up there."

The mini-dialogues continue with nearly every youngster that walks past us. They can't help but smile and greet the blonde-haired Zayti, who's been a fixture of the Marquis since she came to own the place 30 years ago.

Kids play a big part in what goes on at the Marquis.

"We have two shows a year in which we have both adults and children, and then three where it's only children," she says, then beams with pride. "We've had seven kids act here and go on to Broadway. You don't hear about that everyday."

Two of them were picked simultaneously to perform in the production of "The Secret Garden." Zayti makes it clear to me that there are better odds that you'd be hit by lightning and then winning the lottery, both in the same day, than to hit the daily double with "The Secret Garden."

The Marquis will never be able to boast the sorts of overflow crowds that Detroit's Fox Theater can, and Zayti knows it.

"On the weekends, no. It's not terribly busy, but during the week when we get the school classes coming in here, it's packed," she says.

"Hi, Mrs. Enga," says another youngster, this one mildly out of breath from jogging across the stage.

SUBURBAN ARCHEOLOGY

On our way to the stage, Zayti tells me that the newspaper item I uncovered about the Marquis being built around 1925 may, not be accurate. She says she'd had conversations with long-time Novi and Northville residents — many of whom have since passed on — led her to believe the Marquis is actually much older than the Record article would indicate.

"Mr. Yerkes once told me that he came here for his high school graduation, which would have been around 1914 or 1915," Zayti says, referring to the Yerkes for whom Yerkes Cemetery is named.

That's not the only evidence that suggests the place might have been a lot older than former writers for the Record may have suggested. The original lighting equipment, located on the left side of the stage, has a patent label dated 1914. Steel doors on the north side of the building have their dates concealed by layers of paint, but it's plain to see they're older than any garage door you'd have seen in the last 40 years.

And inside the other areas of the Marquis, everything from light switches to door handles to old woodwork give hints that the place has seen more years than the kindly Mr. Lush may have let on.

Zayti came into ownership of the theater after moving to the area and running what were two boutique shops flanking the Marquis, which at the time she bought the theater was in something less than ideal condition.

"It was just terrible," Zayti says.

"There was stuff everywhere. It took a lot of work to get it back in shape."

Along with her husband, Jay (who died some 10 years ago), the two set out to refurbish the Marquis and bring it back to the state of grandeur it once knew.

It was a state of grandeur that — at least as far as the rumors go — once attracted the great Charlie Chaplin to do a performance.

Chaplin went about rebuilding the dilapidated building, she said she unearthed evidence that the place looked strikingly different under her ownership than it had years earlier.

There once was a balcony in the rear of the building, but it was removed to make way for a darkroom so movies could be shown. In case you're wondering, the projectors are still in the theater, but are buried under racks of animal costumes.

Zayti also discovered an orchestra pit, which hadn't seen the light of day in many moons. It's used almost daily now.

And then there's the labyrinth of dressing rooms, storage rooms, bathrooms, tight staircases, creaky doors and hollow walls that hold secrets as to what's behind them.

"It's a beautiful old place," she says, a smile on her face.

THE CLOSING CURTAIN

Living in the shadow of million-screen theaters isn't easy, but Zayti tells me she thinks she's found the formula for continued success: It's all about tradition and a family atmosphere.

"I always want this place to be safe for the kids," she said. "We keep close tabs on where they are when they're here and what they're doing."

Whether the kids are performers or spectators, it's clear the place is designed with the younger set in mind. Plastic chairs in the shape of a cupped hand can be seen behind every corner.

In another portion of the theater, kids are singing songs so happy even the Grinch would have a hard time not smiling.

I don't even bother raising the question to Zayti about what the future holds for the grand old place. It's clear from the smile on her face that she gets unspeakable joy from being around a place with such a rich past. She takes a moment to gaze and the tiny pieces of glass that collectively make up one of the ornate chandeliers hanging from the tall ceiling.

"It's got a great history, doesn't it?" she asks.

Nield investigation to continue

Raymond said he couldn't answer why the case, which started in March, took so long before it was given to him.

"All I know is that I was assigned this case from someone else," he said. "I don't have any information about why it took so long before I got it."

Raymond was assigned the case in June after the original investigator was suspended for a reason unrelated to the case.

Nield is being investigated for allegedly abusing Northville School District property.

The investigation started in March after Ray Walsh, deputy Wayne County prosecutor and former district school board candidate, filed a complaint with the city of Northville police department. In the police report, Walsh said a concerned citizen contacted him through a letter making the allegations.

The allegations accuse Nield of using school copy machines, paper and labor to benefit families for a Better Northville. The group threatened to recall Township Supervisor Karen Woodside, an assistant Wayne County Prosecutor, along with several trustees if a lawsuit filed against Northville Public Schools related to the construction of the new high school was dropped. Nield said the group later focused on helping facilitate a settlement agreement between the school district and township.

Nield paid for the mailing of 23,000 district residents to raise support at a community rally March 18, a regular township board of trustees meeting.

Walsh told the Record that he received a letter making questioning Nield's use of district equipment and that he passed it on to Northville Police. Northville Police Chief Jim Petres and State Police Detective Tim Heideman told the Record they didn't remember seeing the letter. And the Wayne County Prosecutor's office also has told the Record the letter is either missing or may not have even existed after saying some form of written complaint would be required for such an investigation to be pursued.

Petres said he passed the investigation on to Michigan State Police to avoid showing any kind of impropriety.

The investigation by Heideman, the original officer in the case, included a visit to Nield's home where he was asked to produce receipts for all materials bought relative to the Families for a Better Northville.

Additionally, Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent of Northville Schools, and Thomas Gudritz, president of the Northville School board, were interviewed in the investigation.

Nield said he couldn't comment on what action, if any, he would take as a result of the investigation until the report is completed.

been easy to grab one if he wanted to," Shaeffer said. "Obviously he had given it some thought."

Given Stefanski's comments and what Shaeffer called a "repetitive nature," Stefanski said he believed the male is "truly a sexual predator."

Stefanski was arrested July 10 and arraigned July 11 in District Court in Pontiac on two counts: attempting to accost children for immoral purpose; and indecent exposure.

He could face life in prison if convicted on the charges.

There have been several reports of the suspect fitting Stefanski's description in Northville, Novi, Livonia, Westland, Wixom since June 20.

Shaeffer said once information was given to the press about Stefanski, Novi police received several hundred tips themselves.

The tips lead to the arrest of Stefanski.

"We are exceptionally glad he was arrested, charged and incarcerated," he said.

Others are glad to see Stefanski off the streets.

"Let's be honest," said Kathleen McLallen, Novi mayor. "Around here, the mom network was in hyper-drive."

Stefanski is being held in Oakland County Jail on a $250,000 cash bond.

Kroger site plan gains approval

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

On the Novi Planning commission gave preliminary site plan approval to three new developments - including a Kroger for Grand River Avenue, Wednesday.

An Extended Stay America is slated for the west side of Orchard Hill Place Drive, on the west side of Haggerty Road, just north of Eight Mile. The project will be a three-story hotel with 89 studio suites covering a little over three acres.

Extended Stay Hotels cater generally to businessmen and women who require accommodations for extensive business trips.

According to Planning Commissioner Robert Churella, though the fascia of the building "doesn't really fit into what's there, they fulfilled all the ordinances." He went on to say that, "It would have been nice if the same type of fascia, but since they fulfilled all the requirements, you can't turn a guy down."

The difference in the facade of the building is a matter of taste and style. The surrounding buildings are more contemporary, while the new hotel has a more traditional look.

Churella added that ultimately, "it should be a good mix," he went further to say that, "nobody from Turnberry has anything to say about it." This is in reference to those living in the up-scale subdivision near-by.

Another plan that was given unanimous approval was the Providence Park Place. This project is located at the northwest corner of Beck Road and Grand River Avenue. It is expected that there will be a new Kroger, a gas station/convenience store with auto car wash, and a possible Home Depot.

Similar developments near Eight Mile Road had previously been denied. Churella attributed the difference this time to "200 people didn't want the one on Eight Mile."

Last summer, a Kroger proposed for Eight Mile and Beck road was strongly opposed by a coalition of Novi and Northville residents.

Churella added, "it's about what the community wants." Furthermore he explained that the difference also lies in the fact that this development is in a highly commercial as opposed to residential area.

Churella pointed out that the gas station is going to be a state-of-the-art facility and also "very attractive."

Along with the new stores comes more road construction. Grand River will be expanded to five lanes, as well as Beck Road.

Finally, the planning commission were all in agreement on the Town Center expansion. This project is located at the northwest corner of Novi Road and Grand River Avenue in Novi Town Center. Here there will be a new restaurant and retail building.

Churella said that currently this area is just weeds, so building the buildings there will be "very desirable to look at."

There will also be an additional lane put in at the nearby car wash to improve the car stacking problem.

Northville related to business dealing with Gold Coast.

"We're working on two cases and just finishing up on covering all our bases," he said. "Once we get that all completed we'll send it to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office and hopefully get a warrant."

Fendeleit said the city of Northville investigation should be completed within two weeks.

Additionally, Donna Ilitch, co-owner of Gold Coast told the Record April 22 the company planned to file bankruptcy. As of July 9 though, the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Detroit had no record of Newton, Ilitch or Gold Coast filing.

OPINION

When it comes to roads we get what we pay for

Here's a thought to mull as you sit in all those traffic jams throughout the summer while workers somewhere up ahead tear up pavement and lay down new sections of roadway — this may be the summer from construction hell, but when it's all over, we'll be driving on a top-notch, Grade A road system, right?

Wrong. What we are seeing is a spurt of road reconstruction and repairs as a result of some extra money put to roads in the last two years. The funds come from increased gas taxes here as well as some extra federal spending on Michigan roads. But it doesn't come close to matching all the needs for road improvements. Nor does it put road spending in Michigan on par with most other states. Michigan still lags behind, in spending on roads and, as a result, in the condition of our roads.

At present, our state ranks 42nd in per capita spending on roads, according to the Oakland County Road Commission. Now, that's a great improvement over 1992 when Michigan ranked 49th in per capita spending on roads and dead last in spending per 1,000 miles driven, according to statistics offered by the road commission.

Things changed in 1997 when the state Legislature and Gov. John Engler decided to boost the gas tax by 4 cents, raising the tax on a gallon of gas to 19 cents. You may recall the original plan was for an 8 cent per gallon hike, but the increase was cut in half before passage, mainly at Gov. Engler's insistence. You may also recall that diesel fuel taxes were not increased, but were left at 15 cents per gallon.

What was passed generated some $231 million more per year for Michigan roads. And the federal government has kicked in an additional $300 million per year for highway construction and upkeep.

All told, the extra cash will mean $5.3 billion more for roads in our state over the next 10 years, the way the road commission tallies it up. What we are seeing in terms of road construction projects this summer are the fruits of that additional spending.

Unfortunately, the number still falls far short of what is needed to fix up the state road network. According to Road Information Program Reports, Michigan as a whole will need $19 billion worth of work in the next 10 years.

The state's additional $5.3 billion isn't even enough to cover the needs in this region. The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments projects road needs here will run in the range of $26 billion over the next 20 years. Oakland County alone will need $1.5 billion in the next decade, according to the road commission.

"When the bone is too small, we all end up fighting over it," Brent Bair, executive director of the road commission, said.

The fight these days is before the Act 51 Study Committee, authorized in 1998 by the Legislature and appointed by the governor, given the assignment to reviewing the distribution formula for Michigan's $1.8 billion per year transportation fund. This coming January, the committee is scheduled to publish a preliminary report of its findings. By July 2000, the committee is expected to issue its recommendations for revisions about how those funds are divvied up.

At present, the Michigan Department of Transportation walks away with 39 percent of the money to take care of about 8 percent of the state's roads. To be fair, those roads — expressways mainly — carry the highest volumes of traffic. Nonetheless, county road commissions are expected to take care of 75 percent of Michigan's roads on another 39 percent of the funding. Local governments get the rest, 22 percent, to take care of about 17 percent of roads.

Much is made of Oakland County's donor status when it comes to road funding. And Bair makes a convincing case that this area sends off a great deal more to Lansing in road money than it gets back. The average return for state road dollars is only 68 percent.

The effect of chronic underfunding of roads, Bair argues, is that roads continue to deteriorate while communities get frustrated over their inability to get their road needs met. When they get mad, they start getting suspicious that other communities are getting more favorable treatment from the MDOT and the road commissions. And that only adds fuel to the fire in the inter-agency fight over the distribution of road funding.

In the end, Bair argues, the cause is a lack of funding all around. Michigan can't hope to catch up to other states, he points out, when the state still ranks in the bottom nine for overall funding.

Nobody wants to be in favor of more taxes, but there is an old adage that may apply here "you get what you pay for."

Committee report should be lauded

Let me start by my weekly offering by first congratulating the six-member Northville Township Management Study Committee for completing a time consuming study of the township's administrative management structure.

Heck, for the past year or so I've been extremely critical of township trustees regarding the subject, so it's only fair to give trustees and the committee a round of applause for completing their task, and releasing a report that suggests that not having an accessible, on-site manager is a detriment to the future of the township and its taxpaying residents.

The report comes out of a study that was initiated by the township board of trustees in 1997. Part of that study required input from township employees, many of whom agree that a full-time, on-site manager is needed in order for the day-to-day operations of township government to run smoothly.

The report recommends the township adopt an ordinance "that vests full authority, responsibility and accountability for administrative operations in a single individual, or chief executive officer." Additionally, the report suggests a resolution be adopted "that clearly defines the roles and responsibilities of the board of trustees and the chief executive officer."

I would heartily agree with that recommendation. Because let's be honest here, in her position as assistant Wayne County Prosecutor, Township supervisor Karen Woodside could never hope to be able to stay on top of everything going on in this growing township of ours.

Not that she hasn't tried, mind you, but it's got to be difficult to manage the daily affairs of the township and juggle the responsibilities of her career. There are too many balls in the air, and I'm not sure Woodside has the time to keep them there.

And with the township growing by leaps and bounds we need a full-time administrator managing the daily responsibilities. Taxpayers deserve have their interests safeguarded, their quality of life maintained.

Because sooner or later, those balls are going to begin to drop, one by one, the problems will begin to mount up, and before you know it this fine, vibrant community of ours finds itself in real trouble.

All we have to do is look to our neighbors to see what happens when affairs of local government aren't managed properly — roads fall into disrepair, the infrastructure begins to crumble, and taxes begin to increase. Pretty soon we'd find ourselves trying to play catch up, spending money hand over fist just to keep our collective heads above water.

Hopefully we won't get to that point. The report presented by the management committee has some sound and reasoned recommendations. They should be applauded for their hard work, and I hope that township trustees study the committee's findings and work out a plan that will benefit the citizens of Northville Township and the future of their community.

State government fills 'Godfather' role

Poker is a fine old American tradition.

In this country, we have come to recognize games like baseball and football as more than just interesting contests. These days we venerate them as cultural icons — distinctly American events that help define us as a people, that have become a part of our national identity.

Poker ought to get equal billing. While no one individual is given credit for inventing the pastime, historians trace the game to New Orleans where it first became popular in the early-1800s. From there it spread up the Mississippi, on riverboats of course, and throughout the Old West.

Today there is hardly a one of us who hasn't played it at one time or another.

Ante up a dime to a hand of Seven Card Stud and you feel like you should be slapping the trail dust off your vest while pouring yourself a shot of rot gut. Lay a big quarter bet drawing to an outside straight and it makes want to check your six shooter in case some varmint comes up with a flush.

And oh, by the way, this national ritual is still illegal in the State of Michigan.

That's right. Play for pennies around the kitchen table and you are technically in violation of the law. Throwing down nickels and dimes with your poker pals at your regular Saturday night home game could net you a misdemeanor conviction and a $500 fine.

What kind of sense does that make in a state hell-bent on expanding gambling opportunities? From tribal casinos up north to three new casinos coming to Detroit, wagering of all kinds is widely available here. And the latest development is that the State Lottery

Mike Malott

Commission is concerned that the new Detroit gambling houses will cut into its proceeds, so it is proposing new games. Under consideration is a state-wide Vegas-style Keno game, with drawings every seven minutes throughout the day.

State Sen. David Jaye, R-Washington Twp., noticed a similar discrepancy with sports betting. Putting up $5 with a friend over a handshake on the outcome of the Super Bowl could get you in similar trouble with the law. Throwing a buck into the March Madness office pool technically makes you a criminal in Michigan.

Jaye proposed legislation this year to legalize such small wagers. Senate bills 422 and 423 would allow you get a little action on a sporting event, as long as the bet didn't exceed $5 and the potential winnings didn't go over $1,000.

Apparently, there are no similar advocates of kitchen-table card games in Lansing because no other bills have been offered to legalize low stakes, home poker gatherings.

Even so, Jaye's idea has been met with a collective yawn in the Capitol, in part because it is Jaye who's proposing it. But lawmakers also say they aren't interested because, they argue, putting a dollar limit on how big a bet has to be before it becomes illegal would require a periodic review to adjust the amount for inflation. Or they would have to install some "cost of living" formula in the bill to allow the betting limit to occasionally ratchet upward.

Cops don't bust such low stakes games anyway, legislators argue. That's not really true, considering police broke up a low-level poker game in Novi and a sports betting party in Royal Oak just last year. I predict that as Michigan residents get more used to gambling, there will be more such incidents in the future. At this point, cops have to decide what is illegal gaming and what is so small that lawmakers really didn't intend to have officers bother with it.

More bizarre yet is the fact that while poker in the privacy of your own home for nickels and dimes is still technically illegal, you can go play that game in a casino card room for stakes that are a lot higher. Poker games requiring bets of $10 to $40 are commonplace in casinos. Of course the casino takes 5 percent of every pot, and the government gets its cut through taxation, or "compacts" in the case of tribal gaming houses.

In the old days, there was another name for the guy who said what gambling games you could play and who made that decision based on whether he could get a cut of the action. He was referred to as "the godfather." Now it is Michigan state government that fills that role.

Ruling allows for fair competition

The news media buried it, so you probably missed it. But to Michigan universities, it was certainly the most important event of the year.

I'm referring to the ruling of the Michigan Supreme Court that it's unconstitutional to apply the state's Open Meetings Act to university governing boards seeking a new president until a vote on a final candidate is taken at a formal meeting.

The 6-1 decision, announced last month, arose from a lawsuit filed in 1993 by the Detroit News and the Lansing State Journal against the Michigan State University Board of Trustees. The newspapers argued MSU violated the Open Meetings Act when it carried out a secret search process that wound up selecting current President Peter McPherson.

The Court reasoned that the Michigan Constitution explicitly gives the power to control the workings of universities to their respective governing boards, not to the Legislature. The Open Meetings Act, however, is a creation of the Legislature. Therefore, university boards are not required by the OMA to keep presidential searches open, although any formal meetings to officially select a president must be open to the public.

The Court's key finding: "The Legislature does not have power to regulate open meetings for the (university) defendant in the context of presidential searches, i.e., it is institutionally unable to craft an open meetings act that would not, in the context of a presidential selection committee, unconstitutionally infringe the governing board's power to supervise its institution."

During the years I served on the University of Michigan Board of Regents, I was involved in searches for two presidents, James Duderstadt and Lee Bollinger. In both cases, the university was sued by the news media for violating the Open Meetings Act. So I've got some direct experience with this issue.

Over the years, various OMA court rulings made it tough on public university boards to find good presidential candidates. I recall a sitting university president and an excellent potential candidate for the U-M presidency telling me, "I admire your university and I'd love to be its president. But under no circumstances will I let my name be considered. Why? Because the way your Open Meetings Act has been interpreted makes it certain my interest will become public. And that would damage my presidency here, whether I'm selected or not."

Michigan became known nationally in the higher education community as a state with a crazy Open Meetings Act. Able people with university leadership experience increasingly refused to let their names go forward in Michigan university presidential searches. For example, not one sitting university president allowed his or her name to be considered during the Regents' last search for a new U-M President.

The constraints forced on boards by the courts could be absurdly restrictive. During the Bollinger search process, members of our board were ordered by a circuit judge not to interview candidates, check out their backgrounds with references or even talk informally among ourselves without the public being present!

The public policy issues involved go far beyond momentary inconvenience. Able and experienced university leaders are a scarce resource, and competition to recruit them is fierce. Restrictively applying the OMA to presidential searches systematically disadvantages Michigan public universities in competing with private schools for hard-to-find leadership talent.

The recent Supreme Court decision resolves this tangled situation. University boards in Michigan may now conduct searches for new presidents in private, opening up the process to the public only at a last, formal board meeting at which a final vote is taken. Our public universities can now compete on a level playing field for talented and experienced education leaders.

The risk, of course, is that university boards might now try to use the Court's ruling as an excuse for keeping secret a slew of things now firmly in public view. Eastern Michigan University, for example, announced last month that its search for a successor to President William Shelton will be entirely closed. And some experts are worried that the application to public universities of other beneficial laws — the Michigan Freedom of Information Act, for example — might be threatened.

But, on balance, the gain for our public universities — arguably Michigan's crown jewels — far exceeds the risks.

Letters to the Editor

Runner appalled by biased view of 'Classic'

To the editor:
I was appalled at your biased view of the Roadrunner Classic race and its new course. Contrary to your slanted view, I have heard a lot of people comment positively on the new course. In fact, I enjoy running in Hines Park. Unfortunately, you were clearly not interested in presenting mine or others views. I would suggest that, if you want to be considered a credible news source, you present an objective, unbiased view of reality. In conclusion, I think that in trying to gain support for the race to be run in downtown Northville, you may have helped ensure that the race may not occur at all beyond this year. Was that your intention? If so, congratulations.

I'm walking in your shoes

To the editor:
Dear fellow "Gun Control Nuts," I have a plan: If we can get more gun control regulations and file multiple frivolous law suits on gun manufacturers we can drive up the price of firearms and drive many manufacturers out of business. Soon, no one will make guns, sell guns, or be able to afford them.
The Brady Bill is currently being used to register firearm purchases. If we can withstand the NRA's challenge of this unlawful registration, Steve Lawrence may find it a little more difficult to support his comment in last week's paper that: "Going door-to-door collecting weapons from citizens would be a logistical nightmare and a virtual impossibility."
Yes, we've got to keep chipping away at that pesky old Second Amendment. Don't forget to sign your petition card for safety locks on all guns, they will make owning and using a gun inconvenient, and a little more expensive. Also, keep in mind people are buying into the idea of using existing technology so that only the gun's owner can use it. That'll drive gun prices through the roof and only the good people with lots of money will be able to afford them. Plus, if those gun nuts want to teach a family member how to use a firearm responsibly, or if they need it in an emergency, they'll have to buy one gun for each person. If they can afford it.
Do any of my fellow "Gun Control Nuts" find it strange that those old guys who had such a good idea with the First Amendment also wrote the Second? Couldn't they foresee the likes of Hitler and King George can never happen again? That Steven Spielberg was quite a "Movie Nut," exercising the First Amendment to make that "Schindler's List" in order to educate people so such things never happen again. With the economy in great shape and crime going down, why would anyone want to think about or guard against what could never happen here.
Our political branch, known as "Hand Gun Control Nuts Inc.," really wants to restrict the use of firearms to sporting weapons. But first we need to change the definition of "Assault Weapon" again. Did you know a shotgun can hold five or more rounds that spray lots of pellets?

Why does anyone need more than one of those rounds at a time? Now that's an assault weapon.
Finally, shout loud and proud how "Violent crime is decreasing largely because of a sustained strong economy." It's partly true. But did you guys know that more than 22 states have adopted right-to-carry laws in the past ten years; bringing the total to 31 right-to-carry states, 11 of which changed in the past three years. Strange that should happen and the crime rate is still going down?
Also be careful claiming, as President Clinton did, that violent crime has decreased due to the Brady Bill preventing tens of thousands of individuals from obtaining guns. I heard a guy named Joe Pilatz sent two copies of the same letter, one to President Clinton's office and one to the NRA. In it he asked why the executive office of the U.S. Attorney's reported only a fraction of 1 percent of all those felons temporarily prevented from obtaining guns were prosecuted. The NRA responded promptly with a thorough explanation of why the Brady Bill is a failure. Poor Joe is still waiting to hear from President Clinton's office.
Lastly, if any fellow gun control nuts know of a book on the "successes of gun control" that I can use to rebut that book "More Guns Less Crime" by Professor John Lott, please let me know. Once you read it, it's hard to believe the position we are taking. (The preceding editorial was me: Joseph D. Pilatz, walking a few paragraphs in the shoes of a Gun Control Nut.)

Companies take advantage of kids

To the editor:
In your June 17 edition you stated that the Coca Cola Co. had donated $60,000 to purchase a marquee for the new Northville High School.
Coca Cola did not donate the money for the sign. If they had done so they would have received nothing in return. What they did receive was the exclusive rights to place vending machines in our new high school through the year 2005. It should be interesting to know the return they will receive on this "generous donation" — I can only surmise.
While I am on my soapbox, let me say I have a great deal of difficulty with children being used to sell soap, cereal, pizza or any other products in our public schools. I don't care how generous these companies claim to be. If they have such an interest in our children or schools, simply send a check with no strings attached or better yet, support any future millage needs.

In all fairness, all the blame for taking advantage of our children cannot be placed on companies. They see an opportunity to promote their product and take it.
Much of the blame for permitting this situation to grow and develop rests with school administrators, P.T.A.s who truly think they are helping, and school boards that do not set policies preventing this situation.
If the public who own our schools want our high school to have a marquee sign or our classrooms to have new, modern necessary equipment, they should be willing to pay for these things by taxing themselves.
Let's not take advantage of our children by making them little hucksters for profit making enterprises that have nothing to do with education.
William Craft

Some Freedom Day memories

To the editor:
"Freedom Day" — A Birthday Celebration 1999
I awaken at 6 a.m. — like most mornings
Back to sleep soon — like most mornings?
No. Why?
Memories — History Channel in review
Fourth of July parade (on July 3). Today I'll be marching
No more walker, no more cane.

As I pen these words, thunder rumbles.
Dark clouds unload heavy rains — cancel?
No parade?
No — we walk rain or shine (spectators not required)
The crowd may be less — but we march!

I walk today not for charity. But in honor of those who march no more.
Perhaps voices from the past are whispering
"Please don't forget us. Keep marching.
We couldn't make it today
Freedom's never free."
Thanks to everyone attending the parade.

All Night Party a huge success

To the editor:
Wow, what a year. Now that I've had a chance to catch my breath and reflect on the past months, let me say thanks.
Since June of 1998, I have had the privilege of chairing the Senior All Night Party for Northville High School.
Initially, I felt my daughter Christina had placed me in a position I would not be able to perform or recover. The beginning was rocky, but I slowly began to realize the enormous talent, determination and love for their kids the parents of the Class of '99 possessed.
I have worked for many years in different organizations and positions, but found chairing this committee for the past 15 months an experience I will never forget.
The businesses, parents and friends of Northville who donated their time and services was unbelievable and overwhelming. You came through for the kids once again. I am told this year's decorations were bigger and better than ever. That is a direct compliment to you. The kids enjoyed every minute of the night of the party and were amazed at what their parents and Northville accomplished.
"Remember the Magic" was the theme and it simply was magical for me and my family.
I'd like to thank all my chair people, volunteers, administration and those who donated their time, money, gift, or talent, for the support given and wish the Class of '99 much success as they continue to grow.

Local man takes part in 'Baltic Challenge' exercises

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

Picture diving into fox holes, wearing 50-pound rucksacks.

The air reeks of gunpowder and is fraught with dust and anticipation. The grenades leave an eerie glow in the atmosphere.

As the sun goes down on this battle-ravaged scene you rest content in the thought that when reveille sounds Monday morning you'll be heading for the office.

Bruce Jerome knows this double life well. Not only is he Novi's superintendent of sewer and water, but he also serves in Michigan National Guard. In June he participated in what was called the "Baltic Challenge" held in Grayling. The activities ran from June 5-26. The exercises were completed by June 23, with the rest of the time devoted to social events and clean-up of the area.

Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania troops all took part in the challenge with their U.S. counterparts from Michigan, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Here, platoons of approximately 30 men each were assembled and put through a rigorous series of competitions.

They were judged on rifle marksmanship, grenade-tossing, road marches and land navigation exercises. Each platoon is then rated on a point system.

At the end of the exercises the points are added and a percentage is reached. The awards are given to those who ranked the highest out of each individual country.

The annual multinational exercise, was established to integrate and standardize all three Baltic military forces with those of the NATO countries. The three tiny countries border the Baltic Sea to the north of Poland and south of Finland and St. Petersburg, Russia.

With the split-up of the former Soviet Union, the newly-independent states sought help from the west, Jerome explained. They wanted to create small armies equivalent to the U.S. National Guard. So far two of the 19 former Eastern Bloc nations and republics have been admitted into NATO since 1993.

For Jerome's part, he has been involved in the National Guard for over 23 years. He began his military career in 1968. He spent most of his active duty in Frankfurt, Germany.

"The Army had been very good to me," Jerome said.

Jerome's National Guard headquarters is the Regional Center out of Battle Creek. This is the "schoolhouse" for the Michigan National Guard.

Here he was asked to lead the grenade-tossing and land navigation exercises for the challenge.

"It was a great honor to be chosen," Jerome said.

Jerome said that overall the experience was a positive one.

"It was like a high school athletic competition," he added.

"I managed to come home with all my fingers and toes!"

Though he jokes, Jerome explained that everyone took the competition very seriously and "they were all very competitive." He mentioned that the Michigan team had an extra pressure on them because they were hosting the event.

Once the Challenge had ended there was plenty of time to get to know the other men (and one woman) involved.

"It gives you a sense of appreciation of the opportunities that you have," Jerome noted.

Most of the participants, with the exception of those from Lithuania, were not professional soldiers.

In fact they came from all walks of life. "They were everything from college students to factory workers," he said.

Jerome traveled to Latvia through the National Guard, where he learned a bit of language and made Latvian friends.

"It is like the US in the 1930s," he said.

The people were very friendly but that terrain and cities were considerably less advanced than those in the US.

Motorists find roads tough going

Repairing rims will cost a pretty penny with steel rims, but aluminum rims, Davis said, get especially costly.

"In a lot of those cases with the factory aluminum rims, you can't even fix them. They just have to be replaced," Davis said.

Not as frequent but nonetheless expensive are damaged exhaust systems, which Davis said get beat up when vehicles drive along roads where sudden dips occur, causing the car to bottom out.

That kind of damage happens with greater frequency on older-model cars where parts may have become loosened over the years.

"We've seen exhaust systems dropped out because of hitting bad bumps," Davis said.

But what about driving when you're not going anywhere? Davis said idling a car in a traffic backup with newer vehicles shouldn't be that big of an issue, assuming a car has had regular oil and engine coolant changes.

Paradise Found

Nestled in Novi is a gardener's dream resplendent with dozens of varieties of plant species to tickle the senses

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

Much like the rest of state, the road leading up to the Michigan State University Tollgate Gardens is under construction.

But once past the rough orange cones and the road blocks there is a veritable Garden of Eden right here in Novi.

"You get the best of both worlds," said Lynn Markey, one of the Master Gardener volunteers.

"It's a farm in the city, which you don't see too often anymore."

Much of the maintenance, planting and supplying for the gardens comes from local volunteers.

The MSU Tollgate Gardens are part of a facility supported by MSU Extension, the Agriculture Experimentation Station and the College of Agriculture. Though it is MSU land, much of the maintenance, planting and supplying for the gardens comes from local volunteers.

Last week, the Novi Beautification Commission sponsored a garden walk at Tollgate, to familiarize community members with this local asset.

The gardens officially "took root" in 1992 with the help of The Master Gardeners group. Their program is a five-week course that teaches the average green thumb how to research gardens and learn new techniques to improve existing gardens. Each member is required to volunteer 40 hours a year in a garden. Many choose Tollgate to happily fulfill their requirement.

Though most of the exhibitions are three years old, there are two new ones designed by one of the farms' managers Linda Schorr.

The first is a Demonstration Garden. This area will be used to grow plants conducive to southeast Michigan climate and soil. Here volunteers and master gardeners will work together to develop new techniques and share gardening tips.

"We hope to have it completed by the end of the year," Schorr said.

She added that "we still need more donations."

However, the two managers, Schorr and Roy Prentice, often shoulder the bulk of the maintenance duties. Prentice lives on-site.

"The beds should be weeded every day but usually we can only get to them every other," Schorr confessed.

With over 350 plants in the rose garden alone, this is quite a task. But, she mentioned that many local businesses, such as Anglin Supply, often offer help on short notice for special events and that "most of the local nurseries have been very responsive."

Another new attraction to the gardens is a pond and constructed wetland. Schorr pointed out that they have designed the pond to act as a natural wetlands would. This includes special plant life placed around the pond to filter runoff and keep contaminants out.

She also mentioned that there were plans to build a nature walk and teaching platforms in and around the pond. These are to be used for classes, primarily for the MSU extension courses.

Going further into the gardens, it's clear that every plant tells a story and even has its own personality. For example, the Xeriscape Gardens host arid plants that can live for an extended amount of time on natural rainfall. Donna Mrozek, who tends this area, explained that, "these plants will adapt to their surroundings."

Then there are those plants that stand head and shoulders above the rest, literally. In the Enabling Garden, those with handicaps, back troubles or simply those who have limited ground space can still enjoy gardening.

Here Bob Mrozek has created specially designed, elevated containers, that are not only wheelchair accessible, but act as "anti-stooping" devices. He explained that some people give up on gardening because of the bending and lifting involved. However, with the pots in a space

Fun flora and fauna flourishes in the Children's Garden. Here Gabe Tiberio, one of the volunteers for this garden, stresses, "our goal is to educate, amuse, and make the learning curve fun."

There's a tall tale for every petal in the place.

One of them comes from the tansy plant, an import from New York with the attitude to match. In the early part of the century, before refrigeration, meat markets used to use the elixir-like mixture from the plant's center on the meat to keep the flies away.

Even today, a tansy's bug-killing ability can be used on people as a natural insect repellent.

"Although," chuckled Tiberio, "You want to take a shower because the smell of it might keep people away too!"

The Children's Garden is also home to some kiddie-grown crops. As a project last year, children from Walled Lake's Meadowbrook Elementary School, came in and planted crops that are now coming to fruition. They liked it so much that the project sprouted a horticulture club. These young human sprouts come every two weeks or so to tend to their mini-gardens and reap the harvest. Last week they harvested their lettuce and the squash was not far behind.

All members of the public are welcome.

Care group has located in Novi

COMPASSIONATE FRIENDS

The Compassionate Friends, a self-help organization for families grieving the death of a child, is now located in the Novi area at Richardson Center, 1485 Oakley Park Road, Commerce Township near Walled Lake Central High School. The group meets on the third Tuesday of the month, from 7-9 p.m.

The organization originated in England and is located in 16 different international areas; there are 26 chapters in Michigan.

This local chapter was formed in 1993 by former Novi residents Wayne and Pat Loder. At that time, Wayne was associated with The Novi News and his wife Pat was assistant deputy clerk for the city of Novi. Wayne is currently chapter leader for the Novi area and his wife, newly-elected development director of the National Compassionate Friends organization. They recently returned from a national conference where they hosted a well-received workshop entitled, "Sudden and Accidental Death." Due to the many registrations, a second session was presented.

A memorial balloon launch was recently held at the Novi organization. All families and siblings gathered for this family day, writing messages that were placed inside the balloons which were then released. Total/Petroleum contributed the balloons for the program.

Those who have recently lost a child can call the new number now listed in the phone book, (248) 684-4674 or call the Loders at 684-4234. Information will be given regarding the monthly newsletter and packets of available information.

Parents who have a loss of a child are encouraged to attend a meeting, perhaps several before joining the group. There are also phone numbers available for anyone feeling depressed and in need of talking to someone. Perhaps there has been a suicide, auto accident, multiple loss or short term illness of a loved one. Please feel free to call.

The group continues to remember birth dates or anniversary

WHITEHALL HEALTH CARE CENTER OF NOVI

This center is affiliated with Centennial Health Care Corp. and offers long term and rehabilitative care in the 82-bed facility. It is presently undergoing a complete renovation of the bedrooms, activity areas, hallways, etc., with painting, air conditioning, new handrails, and new furniture in the bedrooms and dining room, etc.

A new expedited admissions process has been inaugurated; seven days a week, 24 hours a day. Arrangements can be made for a tour or information about activity programs by calling 349-2200.

Activity director Vickie Theu and assistant director Fran Simo, also coordinator of volunteer services, are looking for organizations who would like to present a community service project, or individuals who could volunteer their services for an hour or more per week to assist with activities. Volunteers are needed especially during the week-ends and evenings.

Many residents are vision or hearing impaired which prevents them from participating in activities such as Bingo. This is when volunteers are needed to assist the resident in attending activities. Once again, call 349-2288 for more information.

Lillian Hoblak visited twice a month and provided entertainment with her accordion; also assisting with various games were Sisters Shambre and Salmond. Volunteers Tom Stringfield, Bisela Murphy, Juanita Spencer and Fran Azotte of the Word Alive Christian Fellowship have also been assisting.

There is also a need for men to assist the Men's Club with their most recent project, working on model cars. If interested, the Gourmet Club is also in need of help in planning and cooking a meal. However, this month was easy, they opted for Col. Sanders and corn-on-the-cob.

NOVI NEWCOMERS AND NEIGHBORS

Though regular meetings have been suspended for the summer, the board recently met and made plans for their involvement in the '50s Festival which starts Saturday, July 24. This is one of the club's major fund raiser with two available shifts open, from 5:30 p.m.-1:30 a.m.

Interest group activities continuing through the summer include the Book Club which meets at 7:30 p.m. on the second Wednesday of the month at Border's Bookstore Cafe. Discussion of "Endurance Shackleton's Incredible Voyage" by Alfred Lansing will be the topic for July 14. The book for discussion on Aug. 11 will be "Where the Heart Is" by Billie Letts.

Couples Golf continues with seven couples involved every Friday evening at Pebble Creek Golf Course; subs and regular players are welcome to join. Ladies Night Out at the Movies is planned for July 29.

Play groups have been busy with the following trips: the Tim Pope Play Structure and the Fort Griswold Play Structure in Northville. July 18 is scheduled for a trip to Lake Shore Park and beach and on Thursday, July 29, a trip to Maybury State Park.

Planned for Aug. 13 is a family outing to a baseball game, Detroit Tigers versus Anaheim. Following the game will be fireworks. This could be one of the last times to visit the "old ball park."

Returning in the fall will be the following interest groups: Tuesday morning bowling for those who would like to form a new team or join the league; Saturday Evening Couples League meets one Saturday a month, September through May, sign up for this league; and a tentative preseason meeting will be held Aug. 6 for Evening Bunko. Others include a daytime Bunko, Couples Euchre, Couples Events, still other new groups will be formed as soon as chairpersons are located.

HOPE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Vacation Bible School was a great success this year with over 80 girls and boys attending the program, "Treasure Hunt Bible Adventure." The project was under the leadership of Melissa Burns and her helpers known as the "Clue Crew Leaders."

Other youth activities include 17 young people attending a week of confirmation camp at Camp Stoney Lake, July 18-24, accompanied by Pastor Bradley Gee.

Laura Pawloski, youth advisor at Camp Frederick in Ohio, and the senior high youth group will be camping July 18-24 for a week of learning, service and fun.

"Friends," a group of 20- to 40-year-olds who are single or married without children will meet for fellowship on the fourth Friday of each month. They will meet July 23 for the Birmingham JazzFest.

The Book Group that meets every third Thursday of the month will discuss "the Tempest" by William Shakespeare for this month's selection. In addition, they plan to see a play at Stratford, Ontario on July 25.

"Service Saturday," lunch for families of hospitalized children, will be held at the Ronald McDonald House July 24. Food for 20-30 people will be provided. Following the lunch there will be clean-up.

Saturday, July 17 is "Hope Golf Day"; it will be 18-hole golf this time instead of nine holes. Not much interest in that format last month. Time is 8 a.m. and the place is Glen Oaks.

Additional activities include softball games, going to Whitehall Nursing Home, and for the groups "Woman to Woman" and "Mom's and Tot's," a trip is planned for Domino's Farms on July 26. For additional information, call the church office at 553-7170.

Novi teen selected to participate in National Youth Leadership Forum

Ted Lubinsky of Novi is scheduled to participate in the 1999 National Youth Leadership forum on Medicine, from July 27-July 7 in San Francisco. Lubinsky, in the class of 1999 at Novi High School, will be among a select group of outstanding high school juniors and seniors from across America and around the world who have met the qualifications required to participate in the forum. He was selected because of his outstanding academic achievements and his interest in the profession of medicine.

Beginning June 27, Lubinsky will join his fellow forum students in San Francisco for ten days of discovery and mentorship at some of America's most prominent and technologically-advanced medical institutions and research centers, including the University of California, Davis School of Medicine, University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine, California Pacific Medical Center, Pacific Campus, Children's Hospital, Oakland and the Travis Air Force Base. Intensive day-long concentrations at these and other institutions will allow students to examine state-of-the-art diagnostic tools and future medical specialties in detail.

Students will also have the opportunity to study and learn from some of America's most distinguished medical leaders. Prominent leaders in the medical community addressing the students include Dr. Warner Greene, director of Gladstone Institute of Virology and Immunology; Dr. Edgar Engleman, medical director of Stanford Blood Center and professor of pathology at Stanford University; Dr. Elizabeth M. Mutsya, resident in neurological surgery, University of California, San Francisco and Dr. James Kahn, director of San Francisco General Hospital Clinical Component of aids, Clinical Research Center and assistant professor of medicine, University of California San Francisco.

Topics to be discussed include breakthroughs in genetic research, cancer research, aids, sports medicine, neonatal and pediatric research, computers in the world of medicine, public health, clinical decision-making and bioethics.

The National Youth Leadership Forum is a non-profit educational organization which sponsors highly specialized, career-oriented programs for outstanding secondary youth with demonstrated leadership abilities. You can get additional information at (202) 628-6090 or by e-mail at info@nylf.org.

A breath of fresh air

Researchers help children cope with asthma

University of Michigan researchers are helping children with asthma learn to breathe easier about the disease.

Alarmed by the rising rates of asthma among children living in inner cities, educators and researchers from the U-M School of Public Health are teaching Detroit youngsters ways to manage their asthma. Researchers also are educating parents and teachers about the chronic disease, which typically begins in childhood.

Few things are as frightening to children and their parents as an asthma attack. The wheezing and coughing of an obstructive air tubes is the result of obstructed air tubes in the lungs. Air pollution, tobacco smoke, humidity and allergens such as pollen or dust all can trigger asthma.

While there is no cure for asthma, it can be managed with medications, most often inhalants that relax the airway muscles.

"Many parents don't understand the benchmark of good asthma care. A lot of children live with wheezing because families think this is normal in asthma," says Noreen Clark Ph.D., dean of the School of Public Health. "In fact, any child with asthma should be able to be put on a clinical regimen that will control the wheezing, the coughing or the other symptoms."

"Children with asthma should be able to lead normal lives. They should sleep through the night and they should engage in normal physical activity. To achieve that, it takes a very good relationship between the family and the physician," she adds.

That's where the U-M Open Airways for Schools Program enters the picture. On-site workers are in 14 Detroit public schools to help children - along with their parents, teachers, principals and doctors - learn about asthma and how to manage it.

Asthma rates among children in inner cities have jumped up to as much as 20 percent in recent years, Clark says. Chronic illnesses due to asthma are the No. 1 reason children miss school, with up to 10 million school days lost every year.

"Low-income, inner-city, minority communities reflect these alarmingly high rates of asthma and, quite frankly, we don't know why," she says.

The National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) has identified a number of factors leading to the growing increase in asthma among inner-city children. NHLBI, which has conducted numerous studies of asthma in young people, points to exposure to cigarette smoke, lack of access to medical care, poor housing and exposure to cockroach allergens as causes of asthma in children.

The U-M team members are teaching children to understand what happens during an asthma attack. Youngsters also talk about their asthma with other children with the illness.

"So for many children it's the first time they realize they're not the only one with the problem. Or they're not the only one feeling this way about having the problem," Clark says. "And that in and of itself is wonderful for these children."

The education process carried out by U-M researchers is touching many. Principals and school personnel are learning about building conditions that might be improved to reduce asthma attacks. Parents receive materials about helping their child manage the disease. Teachers learn about asthma and how it affects children's learning.

"By educating the child and educating everybody in their world, we think we can make a real difference in both trying to reduce symptoms and helping the kids be able to go to school and do better in school," says Lise Anderson, program coordinator for the Partnership to Control Asthma in Public Schools (a U-M program in Detroit).

"They feel better about their asthma. They feel like they know what to do. They're not so scared of their asthma, like when are they going to have the next attack. That's what we're looking for," she says.

Facts About Asthma and Children:

- Asthma is the leading cause of school absenteeism due to chronic illness. Ten million school days are lost every year to asthma.

- Asthma affects more than 14 million Americans, including 4 million children 14 and under.

- Asthma is more prevalent in black children than white children.

- Asthma-related deaths in people 25 and under increased 118 percent between 1980 and 1993.

- While there is no cure for asthma, it can be treated with medication and good management by the patient and family.

Nobody wants a cure for these summertime blues

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

Their babies done left 'em. Luck ain't on their side. But they got their mojo workin', and all they need is a guitar and a bottle of whisky to take 'em away. They got the blues.

American Rhythm and Blues has had many faces. From Etta James to Muddy Waters to Otis Redding, the blues legends have a legacy born of pain and bred on suffering. The new blues icons at the Bluesfest International are no exception and will have the festival pulsing with this tradition.

The event is held simultaneously in Novi and Windsor. First launched in Canada, the musical bash crossed the water in 1997.

This week-end every soulful cry, scream and moan of Buddy Guy, Buckwheat Zydeco, Big Bill Morganfield and many more can be heard under canvas at the Novi Expo Center.

Grammy-award winning blues man Buddy Guy got his start in the gritty streets of Chicago in the late fifties. Here, he played with the likes of Howlin' Wolf, Junior Wells and Muddy Waters. His brand of traditional "Chicago" blues and cutting edge soul guitar earned him his early recognition. Hits like "First Time I met the Blues" and "Stone Crazy" were called "frenzied" and "gutsy."

His influence is seen throughout contemporary blues including the music of Eric Clapton, Jeff Beck and the late Stevie Ray Vaughn. With two Grammy's under his guitar strap and a slew of other music awards, he also garnered a Century Award which had until then only been awarded to George Harrison.

Currently Guy is still touring and in 1989 opened his club called, what else, "Legends" in the Chicago Loop. Here, not only has he played but he has given fledgling blues musicians their chance at the big time. Countless local blues bands have graced the stage as well as Van Morrison, David Bowie, Lou Rawls and Koko Taylor.

This year he will find a home on the stage at the Novi Expo center, Friday, July 16. He will be playing at 11:15 pm. Tickets are $15.00 and doors open at 5:00.

With a guitar that's seen it all, this musician was a hit at last year's Bluesfest International, now playing again at the Expo Center.

If Buddy Guy typifies the icy north Chicago blues, then Buckwheat Zydeco is the firecracker, finger-poppin' tradition of the south. Zydeco is born out of southern Louisiana's French-speaking Creole' accordion-led dance music. Now this is not your typical wedding style accordion polkas music. Instead it is a spicy fast-paced, herky-jerky ride through an amalgam of blues, rockabilly, country and an element that can only be described as the spirit of pure zydeco.

Stanley "Buckwheat" Dural, has had a long and varied musical career. At the onset he would be found playing piano and organ in local bands around southeast Louisiana. Throughout the 1970's he dabbled in funk music in the bands The Hitchhikers and the IIs Sont Partis Band. By the early 90's Dural was ready to return to his roots. In 1990, he formed Buckwheat Zydeco, signed with Island Records and the rest is his-

NOVI'S GOT THE BLUES

Blues legends bring a classic sound to Novi

The four time Grammy Award nominees, have been called, "one of the greatest party bands in America." Their brand of frenzied fun has earned them tours with U2 and Eric Clapton. They will be at Bluesfest Saturday night. Their show begins at 11:30 and tickets are $15.

Then there is the blues that spans the map. Big Bill Morganfield's music has world weary sound of the north mixed with the sultry smoky vocals found in the south. Though the name Morganfield may not ring any bells, his Dad Muddy Waters should jog a memory or two. Big Bill Morganfield's music has been described as "hard edged" and "passionate" and has very often been compared to his late father's work. However, he has not planned a trip on his fathers coat tails just yet. He has been known to say, "It's pretty easy to copy something, so I didn't want to just rely on that." "Instead," Morganfield said, "I really want to exemplify my daddy's music through my writings."

His passion for writing almost took him on a different career path. In college he studied English and even had a job as an English teacher. However, when his father died in 1983, Morganfield decided to, "dedicate his life to music." He has said of his decision, "Everyone else was doing a tribute to him, and I thought it would be good for his son to do one, as well."

Currently, Morganfield has completed his first album, set for release this year. Some of Muddy Waters old band mates are also contributing to the album.

Big Bill Morganfield will be performing on Sunday at the Bluesfest at 9:45. He will be joined by Pinetop Perkins and Steady Rollin' Bob Margolin.

Tickets are $5.00.

Some of the other performers at the Bluesfest include BB King's daughter, Chicago's diva, Shirley King on Thursday night. Also performing that night is the jump blues and swing man, Big Rude Jake. Later on in the weekend, Bill "the Sauce Boss" Wharton will not only play music, but at the break he will make a lovely gumbo on stage for the audience. There will also be several regional and local bands in to spotlight, including 4 time Motor city Music Award winners Mudpuppy, Detroit's 10 piece R&B Band The Sun Messengers and Indiana's cowboy swing band The Starlight Drivers.

OF HOPE

NOVI'S GOT THE BLUES

Bred to the blues

Performers are a living museum of music history

The Bluesfest International will bring together a roster of musicians who have learned their art from the legends — and are legends themselves.

BIG RUDE JAKE

Singer, songwriter, acoustic guitarist and band leader, the "rude" one would like to be the spokesperson for Swing music.

Jake started out in Toronto nine years ago, playing his own brand of "jazzy-jump-blues" and cabaret tunes long before Swing music got back into the popular groove.

He moved to New York City in 1997, but his band defected back to Canada.

In February 1998, Big Rude Jake formed a new band and hit the run two months later. Not long afterwards, he signed with Roadrunner Records.

BUCKWHEAT ZYDECO

Even if you think you haven't heard Buckwheat Zydeco — and is such a thing possible — you probably have.

The unique accordion styling of Stanley "Buckwheat" Dural, Jr. has been co-opted as background music for several network TV commercials, including those for Cheerios, Coke and Budweiser.

Beyond that, Buck and band performed before an estimated three billion viewers in the closing ceremonies of the Atlanta Summer Olympics, not to mention gigs with the Boston Pops and as an opening act for Eric Clapton.

This year marks the 20th anniversary for the group, which left a fast-dancing Novi crowd howling for more during a 1997 performance at the Bluesfest.

Dural hails from Lafayette, Louisiana, in the heart of Creole country.

Before starting his own band — Ils Son Partis — in 1979, Dural played with the legendary zydeco musician Clifton Chenier.

A totally Louisiana art form, Zydeco features a unique mix of Cajun and Louisiana African-American music styles, but Buckwheat also stirs gospel, rock, country and R & B into his musical gumbo.

Buckwheat Zydeco has played with U2, Willie Nelson, Keith Richard, Ringo Starr, Jimmy Buffett and Bill Clinton, or at least the band was featured during the inaugural festivities.

Dural and band have 11 albums out, including the Grammy-award nominated "On A Night Like This," and "Trouble," the latest release. He is the only Zydeco artist who has signed with a major recording label.

Buckwheat Zydeco tunes have been featured in motion pictures such as "Little Buddha," "The Big Easy," "Fletch Lives" and TV shows such as Northern Exposure.

If music isn't enough, Dural has a recipe in Chef Emeril Lagasse's cookbook.

EDDY "THE CHIEF" CLEARWATER

Born in Mississippi, raised in Alabama, Clearwater (originally Eddie Harrington) was a gospel musician when he moved to Chicago in 1950 at age 15.

In three years, the left-handed guitarist and singer made his move to the blues. (His stage name is a word play on Muddy Waters coined by an agent.)

Clearwater remained tucked away in Chicago until the late 1970s, when worldwide recognition of his musical skills came.

He toured in Europe and recorded in France and England.

In June 1987, the U.S. government sent Clearwater on performing sweep through West Africa, as a diplomat of music.

In 1998, Clearwater's tune "Don't Take My Blues" won a 1998 W.C. Handy Award Nomination for "Blues Song of the Year."

RIK EMMETT

native of Toronto. He first picked up the guitar at age 12.

In 1975, he helped form the group Triumph. He left them to go solo in 1988 as a singer, songwriter and guitarist.

Emmett's musical stylings dip into blues, rock, flamenco, folk and jazz.

BUDDY GUY

Billed as the "Greatest Living Electric Blues Guitarist," Guy was born in 1936 in Lettsworth, Louisiana.

His career path has run the range from sharecropper, gas station attendant to four-time Grammy Award winner and "Billboard's" 1993 Century Award recipient.

Grammy releases include "Damn Right I've Got the Blues" (1991) and "Slippin' In" (1994).

Guy's guitar riffs have been billed as influential by artists of the caliber of Eric Clapton, Jimi Hendrix and one of his favorite students, the late Stevie Ray Vaughn.

Guy and other artists, including Clapton, took home a Grammy in 1996 for "SRV Shuffle," a salute to Vaughn.

Never was formally trained on the guitar, Guy has told reporters that no matter what technical skills a musician has, blues demands feeling behind the notes. "Heavy Love" is his latest release.

JOCELYN B

Sometimes called the Queen of Novi blues, Jocelyn B is a regular at hot night spots in town, such as the Oxford Inn Tavern. Last year, she wowed the crowds at the Motor City Blues Awards and took home the coveted "People's Choice" award.

SHERLIE KING

Like father, like daughter. And since that father happened to be B. B. King, it's not surprising that she's a genuine Chicago diva of blues.

STEADY ROLLIN' BOB MARGOLIN

A graduate of the Muddy Waters Blues Band (1973 to 1980), guitarist/vocalist/songwriter Margolin has jammed with stars from B.B. King to Bob Dylan.

Margolin grew up in Brookline, Massachusetts, where he nurtured a lifelong passion for Chicago Blues. The first time he heard the music of Muddy Waters, he said, it changed his life.

His big break came in 1973 when Waters was in Boston and needed a guitarist.

Margolin's opened for some of the biggest names in music, including The Allman Brothers, the Rolling Stones and Eric Clapton.

In 1978, he was invited to the White House to perform for Jimmy Carter.

BIG BILL MORGANFIELD

Morganfield got the blues the old-fashioned way, he inherited it from his daddy, Muddy Waters.

MUDPUPPY

Mudpuppy's sound mingles soul funk and swamp dadio for an audience-pleasing performance.

In 1997, this group won the Bluesfest International's Motor City Blues Awards as "The Best Band of 1997."

PINETOP PERKINS

Early on, Perkins figured he'd spend his life on a farm near his native Belzoni, Mississippi. But he showed an amazing natural talent, teaching himself to play the piano by listening to 78 records by Memphis Slim and Little Brother Montgomery.

Perkins performed with blues greats on radio shows such as the King Biscuit Time program in Arkansas, but his career took off when he moved to Chicago and met Muddy Waters.

He was with Waters from 1969 to 1980 and toured the world with the band.

Since his 1998 Grammy Award nomination, Pinetop's so busy performing he has little time for his favorite pastime, fishing.

MEM SHANNON & THE MEMBERSHIP

This N'Orleans-based singer, songwriter and guitarist has become the darling of the national media, including "The New York Times" and "USA Today."

A former taxi driver with a drive towards funk, he recently released his third CD, "Spend Some Time With Me."

BILL "THE SAUCE BOSS" WHARTON

This guy cooks. Really. He's been called a cross between B.B. King and Julia Child. Not only does the Florida-based slide guitarist draw on the roots of blues, zydeco and calypso in performing his music, but he cooks up his own brand of gumbo on stage and dishes up for the audience.

An estimated 50,000 have sampled his cooking over the past few years and he bottles and sells his own brand of hot sauce, Liquid Summer.

Fest gambling tent lures in the not really so high-rollers

By JASON SCHMITT
Staff Writer

It may be a year or two before Detroit-area residents can take full advantage of legalized casino gambling in southeast Michigan, but for two straight weeks in July, they'll have to travel no farther than Novi to get their fix.

A Vegas-style casino tent will find its way to both the International Blues Festival July 15-18 and the Michigan 50s Festival July 22-25, both at the Novi Expo Center.

Tent chairperson Virginia Savinsky will again be in charge of the events, which has been a tremendous success in its five years at the 50s Festival.

"It's been very successful," she said.

"In fact, if we were allowed to expand the number of chips we can sell, we could open up another Casino Windsor, easily."

Under current state laws, the Vegas Tent can only bring in and pay out so much money each night, despite all the proceeds going to charity.

Savinsky, who's been involved with various festivals over the years, said a portion of this year's proceeds will go the Poverty Social Reform Institute in Farmington Hills, which serves all of the tri-county area. Other proceeds from the Bluesfest tent will benefit the Children's Hospital of Detroit.

There will be four games available to festival-goers, including blackjack, roulette, craps and the wheel of fortune. There will be a $5 maximum bet per hand, roll or spin in each of these games.

The tent will be located within the main entertainment area and will be open from 5 p.m. to midnight Thursday through Saturday and 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday.

"This is one of several new additions to the festival this year," Bluesfest co-owner Craig Bender said.

"Certainly we brought it in after seeing the success it's had at the 50s Festival."

Born to be wild, but law-abiding

Harley museum roars in, Novi officer builds his own collection

By JEREMY MCBAIN
Staff Writer

Seeing him dressed in his black riding leather, sporting tattoos and riding roaring Harley Davidson motorcycle, you would never know Dave Butler is a Novi Police Lieutenant during his day job.

Butler, a member of the Novi Police Department for 28 years, has been an avid motorcycle rider for the last 35 years and for six of those years a Harley rider.

"I love it. It is just an experience you can't describe. You get all the smells, wind and noises you just don't get when riding in a car," Butler said.

Today, from 4 p.m. to midnight, you can check out the bikes for yourself when the Harley Davidson Museum roars into the Novi Expo Center to gun the motors for the Bluesfest International.

Butler got into his hobby when he started riding dirt bikes as a kid. Then, in the 1960s, he bought his first road bike, a Honda.

"Harley's weren't too reliable in those days," he said, pointing to their notorious mechanical problems.

However, Harley Davidson solved those problems and Butler bought his first one in 1993. Since then, Butler has had six of the renowned motorcycles.

"I get a new one every year or two years," he said.

"I like them. They are a quality product now."

Butler added he simply likes all motorcycles. With a hobby such as this, Butler wanted to meet people who had the same love for the machines and joined the American Harley Owners Group out of Ann Arbor in 1994.

He is quick to point out the group is not a typical "motorcycle gang" as represented in movies and popular culture.

"In our club we have people from every walk of life: doctors, lawyers, policemen," he said.

"Harley Davidson is working very hard to change the image. They have a very reliable product."

He said because of the image there have been times when his group has pulled up to family gathering and he has watched parents grab their children.

"I don't like that part of the image," he said.

Through the group, Butler met other Harley owners giving him other to ride with. In these rides, Police Lieutenant Dave Butler with a favorite form of transport.

Butler has been to motorcycle rallies throughout the eastern United States, taking him through mountains and flat lands, while riding in every form of weather from sunshine to hail.

He added, while enjoying many of these rides, he has stayed in some of the worst "dives" in the United States. Motorcycle rides largest Harley Davidson motorcycle rally in the world.

The rally attracts motorcyclist from all over the world, Butler said.

"People even fly there bikes in from Europe to ride them there," he said.

This week, Butler took some time off from work to attend another rally in Greenville, South Carolina. The trip will take him throughout the mountainous landscape of the Virginias.

"I think what I like most (about the rallies) is the people you meet. People come right up and talk to you about your motorcycle," he said.

While he speaks highly of the feeling of riding a motorcycle, Butler also cautions people about the hazards. Most of the danger comes not from the rider's ability to ride, but from the surrounding traffic.

"As a police officer I work with accidents more and everyone in an accident with a motorcycle says they didn't see (the motorcyclist)," he said.

Because of this, Butler strongly suggests all motorcycle riders take a rider's safety class. He even retakes the class every two years as a refresher course.

"Statistically, you will see since these classes started motorcycle accidents are on the decline. But, that doesn't keep the guy not looking at you from running you over," he said.

While Butler has never been in an accident, he said he has fallen over on his bike before.

"Most everybody that rides a motorcycle sooner or later falls down," he added.

As for the future of Butler's hobby, he said he really doesn't see an end. He pointed out a member of his club who is 72-years-old and puts more miles on his bike in a year than Butler does.

Because of this elder rider's inspiring example, Butler predicts he will probably have at least 25 more years of riding before he puts his bike out to pasture.

While he holds these expectations for riding into his old age, Butler's dream is to have the chance to combine his hobby and his job.

"I would love to be a motorcycle cop. But as a lieutenant, I wouldn't be even if (the Novi Police) had it," he said.

Weddings and Engagements

Philip John Isom and Carey Frances Burks

Burks - Isom

Carey Frances Burks and Philip John Isom were married June 5 in St. Clement's Catholic Church, Chicago, Ill. The celebrant for the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Michael Knotek. Readings were done by the bride's friends, Allison Brinks and Juliette Serr. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hudson Club in Chicago.

The bride is the daughter of Carolyn and Ernest R. Burks III of Northborough, Mass., formerly of Okemos. She is a 1988 graduate of Okemos High school and a 1992 graduate of the University of Michigan. She is currently pursuing her master's degree in business administration at Loyola University-Chicago. She holds the position of marketing manager for BP Amoco Corp. in Chicago.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was sister, Ashley Repaskey of Aurora, Colo. Bridesmaids were sister of the groom, Annette Isom of Glen Ellyn, Ill.; and friends of the bride, Sandy Lollo of Livonia and Bethany Duffield of Atlanta, Ga.

The bride, who approached the altar on the arm of her father, wore a floor length, white, silk organza gown with a chapel length train designed by Vera Wang. The bride's finger tip veil was held by a headpiece trimmed with miniature rosettes and pearls.

The bridal bouquet was a tight circle of white roses and stephanotis blossoms tied with sheer organza ribbon.

The attendants wore sleeveless, A-line, floor length gowns of periwinkle moss crepe.

The groom is the son of Barbara Isom of Phoenix, Ariz., formerly of Northville and the late Robert D. Isom. He is a 1988 graduate of Catholic Central High School in Redford and a 1992 graduate of the University of Dayton in Ohio. He received a master's degree in business administration from Loyola University-Chicago, and is now vice president for Finova Corp., Chicago.

Attending the groom as best man was brother, Timothy Isom of Rochester, N.Y. Groomsmen were brothers, Robert of Phoenix, Ariz., and Patrick of Chicago; and brother-in-law, Michael Ahern of Glen Ellyn.

Sheryl Ann Wissman and Scott Douglas Devereaux

Wissman - Devereaux

Sheryl Ann Wissman and Scott Douglas Devereaux exchanged wedding vows May 29 at The Links at Pinewood in Wall Lake, after which 280 guests remained for the reception. William Lange officiated the double ring ceremony; the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Judy Wissman of Northville. She graduated from Northville High School in 1979, from Michigan State University in 1983, and from Wayne State University School of Medicine in 1987. She is an internist/pediatrician with Glennan Medical Group in Detroit.

Attending as matron of honor was Carol Marshall, sister of the bride. Serving as junior bridesmaids were Katelyn Turnbull, Kelly Gleeson, and Sarah Rademaker. Meghan Gleeson, Megan Rademaker, and Lauren Devereaux were the attending flower girls.

The sleeveless bridal gown was of silk satin trimmed in pearls at the neckline and arms, with a small flowing train.

The bridal headpiece was a pearl-studded circular veil; her bouquet was an over-the-arm design of roses, iris, and yellow lilies.

The groom is the son of Bill and Vickie Devereaux of Oakley, Mich. He is a 1986 graduate of Chesaning High School and a 1991 graduate of General Motors Institute. He is employed as an electrical engineer at TRW Vehicle Safety Systems in Washington Township.

Gary Devereaux, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Mike O'Hare, Bill Lentz, Ian (Dave) McEwan, and Mike Wissman. Jake, Ben, and Michael Devereaux served as ring bearers.

The couple is planning a trip to Hawaii for their honeymoon. They now reside in Oakland Township.

Orlowski - Croissant

Parents of Suzanne Therese Orlowski and Matthew Joseph Croissant are pleased to announce their engagement.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Orlowski of Northville, is a 1991 graduate of Divine Child High School; a 1995 graduate of the University of Michigan; and a 1998 graduate of Wayne State University. She is currently employed as an attorney at Dickinson Wright.

The groom-elect is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul D. Croissant of Rochester Hills. He graduated from Rochester Adams High School in 1987; from Albion College in 1991; and from Wayne State University Law School in 1998. He is currently employed by Merrill Lynch.

An October wedding is planned.

St. Andrew's Society to host Livonia's Highland Games

The St. Andrew's Society of Detroit christened its new headquarters in Southfield's Cranbrook Center recently, kicking off the society's historic 150th anniversary celebration.

The new headquarters will be used primarily as a resource center for the society. The suite of offices will be used for meetings and an archive for societal memorabilia and records.

The grand opening also featured the unveiling of the society's commemorative poster for this year's Highland Games. Artist Don McFarlin was on hand to pass out copies of his artwork which will grace the Games' poster, fliers and brochures.

The St. Andrew's Society of Detroit was formed on Nov. 30, 1849, by 35 Scottish immigrants. Since that time, the society has attracted thousands of metro Detroiters of Scottish lineage to its ranks in the name of ethnic and community pride.

This year also marks the 150th anniversary of the society's Highland Games, held annually at Greenmead Historic Village in Livonia. Detroit's Highland Games is the longest running festival of its kind in North America. This year's Games is slated for Saturday, Aug. 7.

In its 150th year, it only seems fitting that The St. Andrew's Society of Detroit would schedule the grandest array of athletic talent ever seen in its long and fabled history.

"This, by far, is the toughest field of competitors ever assembled at our Games," said Michael O'Brien Watt, director of athletic events for the Highland Games. "We have world-caliber athletes coming from as far as Scotland and Iceland to participate. This roster represents the best of the best in Scottish skills competition."

The best of the field is Ryan Vierra, the three-time defending world champion. He is also the North American record holder in the 16-pound hammer toss and 28-pound weight for distance. In 1997, the American won an unprecedented 13 games championships.

Vierra will be challenged by Iceland's Peter Goodmanson, who finished a close second in the world in 1998.

Both men will be pushed five-time Canadian champion Harry McDonald. Holder of Canada's "Strongest Man" title, he set a standard in the Guinness Book of World Records for pulling the HMS Bounty (387-ton ship) 25 meters in just over a minute and a half. He finished eighth at last year's world championships.

Scotland's own Craig Anderson will also be competing in the Games. A legacy of sorts, his father once held the world record for the hammer toss.

Locally, Detroit will be represented by two Highland Games veterans. Kirk Pauley of Farmington Hills has won Detroit's heavy athletics title for the past four years. However, he's never had to face competition of this magnitude on his home turf before.

Bill Phenix, right, president of the St. Andrew's Society of Detroit, and Southfield-based artist Don McFarlin display the commemorative poster for the 150th Annual Highland Games. This year's event is slated for Aug. 7 at Greenmead Historic Village in neighboring Livonia

Frank Stozza, a resident of Carleton, has also been selected to participate in the field of 14 competitors. Stozza has been one of the Detroit Games' top finishers the past few years.

For more information on the heavy athletics competition or its participants, contact Curt McAllister at (248) 362-4200.

Dusty Rhodes to perform in Northville concert

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Be advised — if it's just music you want, you won't get it in Dusty Rhodes.

But if it's entertainment that you're looking for, the transplanted Michigan folk singer is probably right up your alley.

Rhodes will be one of the participants in downtown Northville's free summer concerts this weekend. He'll share the stage with Northville computer techie Jack Rousch.

Rhodes said, he'll be doing the sort of performance he'd want to see if he was the one in the crowd.

"The shows I like the best are the ones where you reach out to the audience and really interact with them. I really like to put on a show. I often tell people I'm an entertainer first and a musician second."

That's not to say that his music is second-rate. Rhodes said he describes his music as extremely varied, though its foundations are in folk. A big part of that comes from his growing up in the late 1960s, during America's period of social upheaval.

"The songs weren't just a pastime or a hobby back then. They were making a political statement," Rhodes said.

His father's ambition as an amateur opera singer represented another influence in his life. And though Rhodes readily admitted he wouldn't be jumping on The Three Tenors tour anytime soon, he did say that he tries his hand at the theatrical voice from time to time.

"I'm really diversified in the sounds I try out," he said. "My repertoire is rather eclectic. I'd say."

Rhodes plays banjo, flute, harmonica, and guitar, both folk and classical-style. He's also fluent in German, French, Spanish and Italian, and uses those foreign tongues from time to time in his songs.

Mix those elements together, and Rhodes said he'll play anything from blues, to jazz to showtunes. And folk, of course.

"The shows I like the best are the ones where you reach out to the audience and really interact with them. I really like to put on a show. I often tell people I'm an entertainer first and a musician second."

Dusty Rhodes
musical performer

Rhodes attended Westminster College in Missouri where he met the woman who would eventually become his wife (now his ex-wife). Rhodes said he ventured to Michigan not wanting to separate himself from his daughter.

"I came back to Lansing with probably fifty bucks in my pocket," Rhodes joked. "But I've loved it in Michigan since I came here."

Rhodes said he's spent a lot of time in the Great Lake State's woods and has drawn on the scenery for inspiration in some of his work. More than words, though, Rhodes said he's now the custodian of 20 acres of forested land near Highland.

"I always had this dream that I wanted to be a custodian of the woods, and now I've got that chance," he said.

When he takes stage, Rhodes won't be alone. His son, 16-year-old Rocky, will be bringing his guitar with him. Rhodes said his son draws on alternative sounds of the 1990s, as well as The Beatles and some John Sebastian pieces.

"That's more his sound, but he likes folk, too," Rhodes said.

When he's not plucking away on the guitar, Rhodes runs the Studio Cafe, a coffee house on Oakland Community College's Farmington Hills campus. He said he readily encourages musicians of all ages to come to the coffee house for the open-mic opportunities.

"That's really what a community college is all about," he said. "It should be a place where students, faculty and people abroad can meet and enjoy each other's company in a friendly environment."

Rousch, 26, is the self-described "vice-president of technical logistics" at whatuseek.com, a metasearch engine operating a stone's throw from the Northville bandshell. Rousch is at work on his first compact disc, "The Real Kazimoto."

Don't even ask where the name came from.

"I got the idea for it in my sleep one night," Rousch said. "The more I thought of it, the more I liked it."

Rousch said his sound is also extremely varied, but that it takes on a more modern flair, drawing inspiration from The Beatles, Soundgarden and The Violent Femmes. He started in music as a reluctant seven-year-old taking piano lessons.

"I was by no means a good student," Rousch joked.

But times changed, and Rousch said his musical preferences did, too. Now a guitar player, only occasionally ticking the ivories, Rousch has had the chance to play with Rhodes at the open mic nights.

"He does fantastic Irish music," Rousch said. "It's probably the best I've seen."

The Rhodes father-son combo and Rousch will be performing from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 17, at the Northville bandshell. Admission is free.

Northville sophomore Emily Carbott (in front) fends off a Novi attacker during the two teams' 1-1 tie earlier this season.

Bowdell, Carbott provide core Duo lands on HomeTown's all-area team, again

Although there were no conference championships among our all-area teams this season, most of our teams took yet another step towards improving their programs.

Northville finished 10-4-2, with two of their losses coming to state finalist Livonia Stevenson and their two ties coming to Brighton and Novi.

The Wildcats finished 10-2 in the Kensington Valley Conference, despite losing 10 seniors to graduation a year ago. South Lyon continued to close the gap on Brighton and Novi, playing Novi to a pair of one-goal games this season.

Here's a look at HomeTown's east and central office's all-area team for 1999.

Kristi Arrington—forward
Novi junior HomeTown's Player of the Year

As if teams didn't mark Arrington enough this season, next season you may see six or seven girls on her.

The junior followed up a stellar sophomore season (34 goals, 23 assists) with an even more impressive junior campaign (38 goals, 7 assists). She scored over 60 percent of her teams' 59 goals. She is a repeat all-area and all-district performer and was selected as her teams' hardest worker.

"She did some great things on a team that was no where near as good as it was last year," Christoff said. "We didn't have the luxury of a second prolific scorer, so she was marked very well by the better teams."

Cassie Teeple—forward
South Lyon senior

Teeple gave up a successful track and field career to try her feet at soccer. It was a successful crossover, as she was South Lyon's leading scorer and earned a scholarship to Grand Valley State.

"Cassie is an explosive scorer [a hat trick against Milford, for instance]," South Lyon coach Bill Stevanovic said. "She has terrific one-on-one moves."

Michelle Williams—midfield
Milford senior

Williams was the Redskins' leading scorer as both a junior and senior.

"But Michelle did more for us than just score goals," Milford coach Mallia Sauer said. "She was a true midfielder who could also drop back and play stopper against big scorers."

Sarah Clark—goalie
Novi junior

Not quite the season she had last season, Clark dropped off a bit and allowed .54 goals per game this season. But kidding aside, she was again the most dominant goalie in the KVC in the 14 games she spent in goal.

A hockey player by trade, Clark found herself out of goal more often this season than last, to better utilize her skill in the field.

"We were fortunate (backup goalie) Michelle Jewel came along for us this year," Christoff said. "Sarah worked extremely hard in the field and was instrumental in some tie games, where we used her as a stopper."

Brigid Bowdell—forward
Northville senior

Why break the string? Bowdell was selected to her fourth-straight all-Western Lakes and all-district teams as Northville's top player in 1999. She went one step further and was an all-region selection after earning all-region and all-state honors a year ago.

The Northville captain had 11 goals and eight assists in the best soccer conference in the state. For her efforts, Bowdell has received a full-ride scholarship to Duke University.

"She was a strong, aggressive forward for us, and a real leader," her coach Doug Lyon said. "She motivated all the other players and really stepped into a leadership role I haven't had in a long time."

Jill Gibson—midfield
Novi senior

One of three bonafide scorers on the team this year for Novi, it was Gibson who set up Arrington the majority of the time.

She added 17 assists to her eight goals and was selected to the all-KVC first team. An aggressive player, Gibson will be playing at Madonna next season.

"She did an excellent job for us," Christoff said. "She was the one who really stopped Brigid (Bowdell) in our tie against Northville."

Melissa Lawson—midfield
South Lyon senior

Lawson was once again South Lyon's best all-around player.

"We ran most of our plays through Melissa," South Lyon coach Bill Stevanovic said. "Plus, she was very effective at applying defensive pressure."

Junior Broncos fall to NFWB 9-7

Regular season nears close as team prepares for run at World Series

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

For the U-16 Northville Broncos baseball team, Monday night was just another day in the daily grind of a compacted six-week baseball season.

Coming off another busy summer weekend, the Broncos fell to the North Farmington/West Bloomfield Cobras 9-7 in eight innings. The Cobras erupted for five runs in the top of the eighth inning, thanks in part to three walks and a pair of wild pitches by the Broncos.

Northville did have a chance in the bottom of the eighth. Northville capitalized on a NFWB error and Mike Walsh drove a shot to straight-away center field. The ball hit the fence on the fly and scored a run to make it 9-7, but Northville would team to within one at 3-2 with a homer of his own.

"They've battled back all year. The heart is there," coach Carl Galietti said. "They tend to start a little late, but they will not quit. There's no quit in any of them."

Tovey pitched 7 1/3 innings, limiting the Cobras to four runs until running into problems in the top of the eighth.

"That was my fault," the coach said. "His pitch count was getting up there, and I didn't have anybody warming up."

The loss dropped Northville to 6-10 overall this season. The Broncos played Detroit on Tuesday and Dearborn Heights/Ann Arbor yesterday (both after The Northville Record's deadline). The team hosts the Michigan Rams today at 6:30 in their final regular-season game.

The Broncos will have a tuneup tournament July 23-25 in Kokomo, Ind. in preparation for the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series July 29-31, which will again be hosted here in Northville.

strand runners at first and third to end the inning.

Twice in the game, the Broncos came back to tie the game. Kris Betker hit a home run to tie the game 1-1 and Dave Tovey pulled the

Washtenaw Country Club turns 100 years

It was July 11, 1899, when 15 Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area residents formed the Washtenaw Country Club, laying out a three-hole course to enjoy the "wonderful new game of golf being played on the East Coast."

The third oldest country club in the state, Washtenaw will begin celebrating its week-long centennial observance on July 11, 1999. The Detroit Golf Club and the Saginaw Country Club are the first and second oldest clubs in Michigan.

More than half the Washtenaw Country Club members reside in the HomeTown Communications Network communities of Plymouth, Livonia, Farmington Hills, Northville, Novi, Canton, South Lyon and Brighton.

Current president of the Washtenaw Country Club is Plymouth's Clark Ewing who noted that a membership campaign has been launched to attract new members during the week-long centennial celebration which will feature special events daily from July 11 through Saturday, July 17.

The course is widely recognized as a "golfers' test with rolling fairways and traditional greens. Tim Johnson of Northville is the course superintendent.

One of the highlights of the observance is the publication of a 120-page hardcover centennial book written by Bill Sliger. It records the club's history with emphasis on achievements of former junior golf program members. The book also contains a number of turn-of-the-century photographs. One of the historic photos shows sheep on the fairways. Sheep were used to keep the fairways both trim and fertile.

For more information about the book or membership call the Washtenaw Country Club at (734) 434-2150.

U-11 Broncos win first tourney...

The U-11 Northville Broncos travel team won four-straight games en route to the championship of the Otisville Little League Tournament.

The team topped Thornapple Valley/Grand Rapids 9-8 in their first game and followed that up with a 10-2 win over Otisville. The next day the Broncos defeated Attica and then Flushing for the championship. During the tournament, Ryan Gendron went 5 for 9 and drew six walks. Pat Uetz was 9 for 15, topping the Bronco hitters.

Northville well represented on HomeTown's all-area team

Alex Katona—Goalie
Northville sophomore
 Northville had one of its best seasons in school history, and much of the credit went to first-year goalie Alex Katona. She was voted as the team MVP after earning a spot on the WLAA all-division squad.

Katona, all-district at goalie, also played some center and offensive halfback.
 "She made a sacrifice to help the team this year," Lyon said. "She's one of the main reasons we finished 10-4-2."

Lyon said the team will have trouble replacing Katona, who will probably move to the field next season.
Lindsey Dunmead—Defender
Northville freshman
 She and teammate Larissa Fill were two of just three freshmen to earn all-division honors this season in the WLAA. One of four freshmen on Northville's roster, Dunmead had nine goals and five assists from her defensive halfback position.
 "She was a huge asset for us this year," her coach said. "For a freshman to step up like that, she's going to be a superstar."

Kristin Shea—Defender
Novi senior
 Christoff didn't get much offensive production out of Shea this season, but he wasn't looking for any from one of his key stoppers. It was Shea who kept Novi in the game in its win over Salem.
 "We depended on her this season," Christoff said. "She was one of four key girls up the middle."
 Shea will play at Alma College next year.

Emily Carbott—Defender
Northville sophomore
 Just two seasons into her high school career and she's earning the highest praise from her coach.

"She's one of the strongest defensive players we've ever had at Northville," Lyon said. "She knows the game extremely well and is overall a superb athlete."

Lyon decided to keep Carbott on defense this season, although he said she's definitely capable of putting the ball in the net.

Carbott was a first-team all-conference selection in the WLAA and also earned all-district and all-region honors. She scored a goal and had four assists.

Broncos win at Clio...

The U-10 Bronco Baseball team participated in the Clio Youth Baseball Tournament this past weekend and finished a perfect 5-0 to win the tournament championship.

Home runs by Dan Schultz, Jeff Gorecki, Chase Dehne and grand slams by Bret Spencer and Brett DePace led the team offensively.

The team will be competing in a post season tomorrow (Friday) against the South Farmington Blues. The team earned their way into the playoffs with a season-ending win over the Allen Park Predators last Thursday.

Golf Outings

ANNUAL NORTHVILLE GOLF AND HOCKEY OUTING

A year after its successful beginning, the Northville golf and hockey teams will be hosting their 2nd annual golf outing and silent/live auction Saturday, August 21 at the Links of Novi.

The cost is $95 per player or $350 per foursome. It's $35 for dinner and the auction only.

That price includes green fees and cart, steak dinner, snack at the turn/pop and water on the course and the silent/live auction. There will also be a hole-in-one contest to win a two-year new car lease courtesy of Lou LaRiche and Marty Feldman Chevrolet, prizes for best men/women/mixed teams, and prizes for longest drive and closest to the pin.

Check in will be 12 p.m. with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. The dinner/silent auction will take place at 7 p.m.

2ND ANNUAL PAUL BRAZEN OUTING

Friends and family of Paul Brazen will host the 2nd annual "Paul Brazen Memorial Golf Outing" on Saturday, August 7 at Partridge Creek Golf Club in Clinton Township.

The cost is $90 per person and includes 18 holes of golf plus cart (scramble format), lunch, goody bag, on-course contests and numerous silent auction items including autographed Detroit Red Wings memorabilia.

Hole sponsorships are available for $250. For more information or reservations, call Roberta Semanco at (810) 286-4028.

Artificial pump may help thousands

An artificial pump that gives precious months to people awaiting a heart transplant may permanently help thousands of other with congestive heart failure when surgery isn't possible.

The University of Michigan Health System is one of 20 centers nationwide participating in a study of the left ventricular assist device as long-term help for people with congestive heart failure who are not candidates for new hearts.

"We've gained a considerable amount of experience in using LVADs as a bridge to transplant and we want to apply that experience and use the LVAD as a potential permanent therapy for patients who are not candidates for heart transplantation," says Francis Pagani M.D., director of the Heart Transplant Program at umhs.

The LVAD typically is used in people with congestive heart failure who are awaiting transplant surgery. Implanted in the chest cavity, the LVAD takes over the pumping operation of the heart's left ventricle. The left ventricle is the workhorse of the heart; where the right ventricle pumps blood to the lungs, the left ventricle is responsible for pushing blood throughout the body.

"The LVAD has the function of really increasing the patient's ability to achieve a more normal lifestyle. It increases his or her exercise capacity. It essentially gives the patient an opportunity to recover from congestive heart failure and reverse the symptoms associated with congestive heart failure," says Pagani.

"The LVAD has the function of really increasing the patient's ability to achieve a more normal lifestyle. It increases his or her exercise capacity. It essentially gives the patient an opportunity to recover from congestive heart failure and reverse the symptoms associated with congestive heart failure," says Pagani.

About 4.9 million Americans have congestive heart failure; every year, up to 90,000 patients lapse into serious heart failure.

People with congestive heart failure are treated with medications, rest and a modified diet. However, in the most serious cases, patients may require a heart transplant.

About 4,200 people nationwide are awaiting heart transplants, although the demand far exceeds the supply of organs. About 1,500 people are left waiting for a heart. 20 percent of who will die before a donor is found.

The American Heart Association estimates 16,000 people age 55 and younger could benefit from heart transplant surgery.

The LVAD provides additional months of life for transplant candidates - people who five years ago would have died waiting for a new heart. The LVAD is operated by rechargeable batteries worn at the patient's side.

"The pump allows patients to go home and wait for their transplant. This is clearly something that patients were not able to do a number of years ago, so that in itself improves their quality of life," Pagani says.

Now doctors will learn if the LVAD can help those patients who aren't transplant candidates but need more than medication to treat their damaged heart.

"This technology now offers significant hope to patients who would otherwise be in a serious medical condition with only little hope of treatment," Pagani says.

I think in the next few years we'll see significant technological advancements that will enable us to offer this as a permanent form of treatment to patients with congestive heart failure."

HOW TO

Starting over on the basement floor

By Gene Gary
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. We contracted a company to waterproof our basement walls, and ended up with our basement floor collapsing at least three inches, as there had been space underneath and the company we hired did not test before drilling around the floor to lay pipes.

It responded to our complaint by breaking up the existing basement floor and pouring a new concrete floor by wheelbarrow. You would know if you saw the results that they were not qualified to do the work. The floor is bumpy in some places and has low spots in others. It is roughly finished and patched in many areas. It would be impossible to tile or even carpet it to get the recreation room we once had. My question is: Have you any ideas or advice to give us on resurfacing the floor, instead of breaking the concrete up again and starting from scratch?

A. You have several options that should be less of an investment than starting from scratch. First, it is important that you test for moisture penetration. Dampness can migrate up through the concrete slab. This won't happen in a properly poured concrete floor - gravel or a vapor barrier under the slab will stop the moisture. But in areas with poor drainage or with slabs poured directly on the soil, dampness may be persistent.

Check for moisture in two or three spots around the room using 2-foot-by-2-foot sheets of polyethylene plastic placed flat on the floor, the edges sealed with duck tape. After 24 hours, peel up the plastic. If the covered areas are damp or darkened by moisture, you will be more limited in flooring applications than if the areas remain dry.

Assuming that moisture is no longer prevalent, application of a mortar-based interior floor leveler may be the solution to your problem. A floor leveler is generally designed to adhere to concrete and wood and can also be used to patch cracks and fill low spots. It is one of the best techniques to assure a smooth, compatible surface for tile, vinyl, carpet and even wood flooring installations. A good floor leveler sets hard in 30 minutes and will not shrink or crack.

In preparation, all dirt, dust or loose materials on the existing surface need to be removed. A good floor leveler can be used on below-grade surfaces such as yours. Be careful: There should be no presence of moisture or continued dampness on the concrete surface.

Floor levelers are applied like pre-mixed concrete. You only need to add water and stir and mix it to a creamy blend. Most manufacturers recommend that you wet the concrete floor or wood substrate before application to improve adhesion and retard suction. Then pour the mixed compound directly onto the uneven or cracked surface and spread with a steel trowel. Allow 15 or 20 minutes for the mixture to set prior to finishing with a steel trowel. The finish can be sanded when it is thoroughly dry.

If your moisture test revealed dampness in the concrete, you should consider other options which include waterproofing. One is to lay a polyethylene moisture barrier over the entire floor, overlapping separate sheets by 12 inches. Another waterproofing method is to spread an asphalt sealer over the concrete. Some flooring consultants recommend both, the asphalt sealer covered with the 6-mil polyethylene sheeting.

If the ceiling height allows, fasten pressure-treated 2-by-4s on edge around the perimeter of the room, and at 16-inch intervals (2-by-4 sleepers) across the floor, shim them where necessary to level the new floor. Plywood subflooring is then laid perpendicular across the sleepers. The addition of fiberglass insulation between the sleepers, prior to installing the subflooring, will provide added warmth to your floor.

Once the subflooring has been installed you have many options on floorcoverings: tile, carpet, vinyl, wood. Another option would be to install a floating laminated wood flooring system. In this system, laminated planks, usually about 1/2-inch thick, are laid over a thin (1/8-inch) foam pad (6-mil polyethylene sheets or an asphalt sealer can be used to cover the concrete slab first as an added moisture barrier). Other than the glue used to secure each tongue-and-groove plank to each other, no other adhesive or nails are used.

As its name implies, the floor literally floats on its foam pad. The advantage of this flooring over glued ones is that it is easier and quicker to install. Also, the foam can better bridge irregularities in the floor below. It is a good choice for concrete slabs. As with other types of wood flooring, the floating wood floor should be spaced away from walls about 3/8 inch to allow for expansion and contraction.

Reverse-mortgage loans continue to grow in popularity

By James M. Woodard
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Reverse mortgages are becoming a more important factor in the residential real-estate market. A steadily growing number of senior homeowners and a buildup of home equity is fueling the greater demand for these special mortgages.

A reverse mortgage, as the name implies, works in the opposite direction of a conventional mortgage loan. Instead of sending a payment check to the mortgage company every month, the homeowner receives a monthly check.

Reverse-mortgage loans (yes, they are loans) allow a senior homeowner over age 62 to tap into home equity without having to sell and move out of his or her home. In recent years, reverse mortgages have been growing in number of originations and types of plans being offered.

Basically, a reverse mortgage is a loan secured by the equity in the home of a senior owner. But instead of receiving a lump sum, the owner is paid a specified amount each month. In some cases, it's coupled with an annuity, allowing the monthly payments to continue for the lifetime of the owner or until the home is sold.

The rising significance of reverse mortgages is, in large part, a demographic phenomenon, slated a new report from Standard & Poor's. It's primarily due to the steady expansion of the elderly population. The trend is also enhanced by federal agencies educating lenders as well as borrowers on the innovative concept of reverse mortgages.

Also, the tremendous buildup of home equity over the past two decades in a robust housing market has formed a strong base for the originations of these special mortgages. In the next 10 years, reverse mortgages are expected to be more significant and viable financial instruments, according to the S&P report.

These mortgages are definitely not for every senior homeowner. But those senior individuals and couples who have acquired large equities in their homes and don't want or plan to move from their home, but need extra income to maintain their desired lifestyle, might take a close look at reverse-mortgage offerings.

There are many and varied plans now available. It will take considerable study to determine the plan that's best for you.

The new S&P report includes a description of basic types of reverse mortgages, a presentation of cash-flow features, key factors in the risks in such mortgages and the potential demographic demand for the mortgages. Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the full report can call Standard & Poor's in New York at (212) 208-8727.

A battle is brewing between the National Association of Exclusive Buyer Agents and the National Association of Realtors. The NAEBA is accusing the NAR of launching a campaign aimed at eliminating the "protections afforded in real-estate transactions by the common law of agency with designated agency," as NAEBA words it.

In other words, NAEBA objects to the practice of one real-estate firm simultaneously representing both sides in a real-estate transaction - both seller and buyer.

The association contends this practice ensures the largest possible commission for the firm but does not deliver on the firm's promise of representation to either buyer or seller.

NAEBA is a relatively small, recently organized group representing brokers who represent property buyers only. The NAR is the largest real-estate trade association in the country with more than 700,000 members.

In my experience and observations over the years, I've seen very few problems stemming from dual representation by brokers. Even though a broker legally represents the property seller only (per his listing contract), he will normally perform professionally for both buyer and seller. If the broker did not so perform, the resulting "bad service" reputation would soon force him out of business.

If you're planning to put your home on the market this summer or fall, here are a few tips for immediate action, offered by real estate brokers Bob and Bobbi Courselle:

Spring for a fresh coat of paint. It's the most cost-effective pre-sale improvement you can make.

Spruce up your landscaping. Adding a few extra plants and trimming your trees will add to your home's curb appeal.

Start a major spring-summer cleaning project. Clear out your clutter and box up your collections temporarily, so buyers will see your house, not your stuff.

Q. Where are today's most popular retirement communities?

A. The nation's most popular housing markets for seniors seeking a retirement home within the next eight years will be Nevada, Florida, Arizona and Arkansas, according to a report from the National Association of Home Builders.

Climate, affordability and the trend toward seniors remaining in their own home state were key factors in determining this list of popular retirement states.

Eclectic chest combines design elements

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. The chest in the enclosed picture belonged to my father. It is in excellent condition. In the top drawer, there is a metal strip with the words "Kroehler Made."

Can you tell me anything about it, and does it have any value?

A. Eclectic is the best way to describe the style of your chest. Design elements of Colonial furniture and 20th-century use of veneer were the inspiration for your chest. The pilasters and the single drawer at the top of the chest suggest a Sheraton influence. The V-matched veneer is a 20th-century innovation that was seen in the 1920s and 1930s. Its value probably would be about $275 to $375.

Q. This mark is on the back of a flow-blue plate that I have. The plate is white and decorated with a cobalt-blue border.

Please give me any information that you might have on my plate.

A. Alfred Colley Ltd., Tunstall, England, used the mark you provided from 1909 to 1914. Flow-blue is a technique that allows the bleeding or flowing of blue onto a white background. English potteries were the first to employ this blurring technique. By the end of the 19th century, other European potters and several American potters were producing flow-blue. Lusitania is the name of the pattern. Your plate would probably be worth about $60 to $70.

Q. Could you please tell me if my toy cement-mixer truck has any value? The cab is red with black tires, and the rotating drum is white. Tonka made it in the late 1950s.

A. Tonka Co., located in Minnesota, has made painted-metal toy trucks and tractors since the 1940s. Their trucks were made to be sturdy to withstand constant play by active children. Your truck would probably be worth about $175 to $225 depending on the condition.

Tip: Don't attempt to repaint a Tonka truck. Collectors are unyielding when it comes to condition and original paint. Repainting the trucks greatly diminishes the value.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

This chest, which blends elements of Colonial and early 20th century influences, is worth about $275 to $375.

Brainer's unique garden to be featured on tour

things he finds that are fun. He even admits to a little garbage picking for his finds. At one point, he was collecting antique doors that people discarded. There's one standing near the petunias in the middle of his garden.

"It's amazing what you can find when you're looking," he adds. Today he's excited about an antique range that was being thrown away. He'll paint it orange and turn it into a potting bench. There's a shopping cart overflowing with purple petunias, dahlias, variegated ivy and alyssum — with a baby doll in the children's seat. There's half an orange mannequin and a laughing dog sculpture on a park bench. You'll even find an antique shower. Amidst all the fun and whimsical accents in the backyard are more traditional statuary, like bird baths and mid-night blue votive lighting. A fountain also overlooks the patio area in the back. But not to forget, the spectacular display of flowers and plants. This year, he'll also feature a photograph of jazz singer Billie Holiday framed in a large artist's easel.

Brainer didn't begin with a specific plan for his garden, but followed his instincts. Hard work and originality rank higher with him than showmanship. He admires people who accomplish something on their own in their garden. He also practices what he preaches, doing nearly all of the labor in his garden himself. "Everything that I've done in my garden, is something others can do," he said.

The front yard portrays a more formal look than the fun and unique character of the back yard. There you'll find a dwarf topiary blue spruce near the entrance and manicured boxwood shrubs lining the walkway. A wave of yellow stelladores spills into the sidewalk to greet visitors.

The main color theme of the front yard is oranges and yellows, while the back yard is predominantly purples and pinks, including new guinea impatiens. The purple, pink and white asters should be in full bloom for visitors to see. Non-stop tuberous begonias in yellow and white are sprinkled throughout the gardens adding a cheerful look. Classic or traditional plants such as snow ball bush, spyrta, lilac, day lilies and hosta also lend an air of formality, he notes. "They're very time-proven plants, varieties that hold up against the test of time. You'll find these plants consistently throughout famous gardens wherever you go."

On the east side, Brainer went for a more informal morning garden, a great place to settle for a cup of coffee and a newspaper. "It's great eastern exposure in the morning. It's subtle and soothing," he said. Pine trees and vines provide seclusion in the village setting.

He enjoys the peace and quiet of the small town compared to his former residence in Royal Oak.

Visit Brainer's garden during the Milford Garden Walk being held Saturday, July 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday, July 18, from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Tickets are $10, and available in advance from Read Between the Lines, Village Peddler and Milford Garden.

Luring a catch

CCW Lures provides latest in fishing gear

By Annette Jaworski
Special Writer

Next to his favorite fishing hole, the next most treasure possession of any fisherman is his tackle box. Now there's a new place where you can find all the latest fishing gear. CCW Lures in New Hudson is jam packed with everything you need to help you hook the big one.

"You have to offer a wide variety of items for a wide variety of fisherman and a wide variety of fish," said owner, Carl Stencel.

Stencel decided to put his years of pro bass fishing experience to work for him by opening up his own specialty shop. Since he's opened in May he's had a lot of compliments on his variety and pricing.

"I constantly read catalogs for new products. I'm always calling to check out the new products," he said.

For example, there's a new item called the S.P. Chugger. It's a spring powered lure that wiggles just like a dead or dying fish, great for attracting predator fish.

Checking out the products, he points out the detailed workmanship put into the tiny items.

Many of the lures are expertly and artistically finished.

Stencel also makes and sells his own specialty lure. It's a favorite of his and wife, Julie.

"My wife and I have caught every type of fish on it. It's intended for bass, but we've caught blue gills, pike and muskie, all kinds of fish on it," he said.

CCW Lures also carries a full line of plastics - very popular with the fisherman. Plastics are available by the piece to create your own handmade jig. You'll find worms, crayfish, jelly worms and even mud puppies. The store also carries terminal tackle, including sinkers, leaders and swivels. And of course they have rods and reels, including one to covet - a custom-made outfit by Dick Chapman of Howell.

Stop by for your live bait, including minnows and worms. They're available as early as any fisherman needs them - at 6 a.m. Other accessories such as binoculars and sunglasses are also in stock. Other useful items include marked fishing maps for most of the popular lakes in and out of the state are available. Stencel fishes all over the United States himself.

If there's something you can't find, he's happy to order it even if it's not in the way of fishing. Most items can be ordered without a deposit, unless it's a large ticket item.

"I can special order anything and everything... I'm a full supplier for any sports. I can order anything from baseball to soccer, even accessories for jet skis," Stencel said.

If you have a favorite rod and reel that you just can't part with - the shop also is a drop off point for rod and reel repair. They'll also wind line by the yard, done while you wait.

The store is also a great place to stop and share a fish story. Stencel keeps a bulletin board that honors some of the big catches. He's also holding a contest all summer, with no entry fee for the largest fish caught in eight different categories. If it's the largest catch come Labor Day, the winners will receive a $25 gift certificate.

For the hard to buy for person, gift certificates are available.

CCW Lures is open six days a week. He's open in the wee hours to make sure the early morning fisherman can get his bait. Hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. every day, except Tuesday, when he's "Gone Fishing." Prepare yourself for the next big one by visiting CCW Lures at 56200 Grand River in downtown New Hudson, just east of Milford Road. Phone is (248) 486-9173.

Carl Stencel, owner and operator of CCW Lures, keeps his fishing customers happy with a wide selection of fishing gear. CCW Lures is open six days a week. Hours are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. every day, except Tuesday. CCW Lures is located at 56200 Grand River in downtown New Hudson, just east of Milford Road. Phone is (248) 486-9173.

Festival

Wednesday through Sunday
July 21-25, 1999
Novi, Michigan

Dear reader:

Welcome to the Twelfth Annual Michigan 50s Festival and to The Novi News' special Michigan 50s Festival supplement, the official guide for the activities.

While it's hard to believe today, the Novi of the 1950s was a small rural town where local celebrations featured activities such as pig chases and pony rides. (If that bit about the galloping porkers sounds odd, check out page 42, where a 1959 advertisement for the Village of Novi's first anniversary is featured.)

Forty years later and 1999 is a big year for Novi and not because of Y2K and all the end-of-the-millennium hype. Bringing things down to a smaller scale, this is the community's 30th anniversary of the time when the Village of Novi became the City of Novi.

Since then, the Michigan 50s Festival has become a major part of this city's calendar.

Ballooning from its 1988 start, the nostalgia bash has grown from a hometown celebration to a regional even, but it's still a chance for Novi residents to meet their neighbors, party down and rock and roll. The main responsibility we all have this year, and please do your share, is to party like it's 1999 - and 1959 - at the same time.

Almost a teen-ager

50s Festival at 12 has become a bustling business

By JAN JEFFRES
EDITOR

Such a soggy start.

But today the money keeps rolling in for the Michigan 50s Festival, which runs this year from July 21-25 at the Novi Expo Center.

When in the late 1980s a group of Novi shakers and movers got together to ponder the concept of a festival for Novi, four themes were tossed out for consideration. It could have been a Big Band festival, it could have had a nautical theme. Or it might have become the Michigan Country Western Festival.

Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall was pushing for a fifties gig, because a similar concept had proven successful in his hometown of Bay City, Michigan. The Novi Chamber of Commerce agreed and now over 200,000 people annually have endorsed the idea as well.

"It eventually turned into one of the top four festivals of the state."

Ed Kriewall,
Novi city manager

As a launch, the first event in 1988 was not promising. The festival hired one of the quintessential fifties revivalist groups, Sha-Na-Na, but disaster struck in the form of a deluge. The band couldn't perform, for fear the mix of rainwater and their electrical instruments would turn their music into shock rock.

With a financial loss of $17,000, the whole idea almost washed away into the city's stormwater drains with the rain.

But Novi folks just don't give up easily.

Today's event is so robust, moneywise, that the Michigan 50s Festival just donated a $125,000 bandshell to the city. When completed, the structure will grace the corner of Main and Market streets in Novi's new downtown.

"Over time, the thing is pretty financially healthy. It eventually turned into one of the top four festivals in the state," said Kriewall, who sits on the festival board of directors.

Each year, members of the festival's board take on the tough-job-but-somebody's-got-to-do-it task of attending other festivals. Then, they bring home the best ideas to Novi.

New this year is the Omnipoint Grand Prix races at Mervyn's, where local contenders take a go-around the track in miniature race cars on July 24-25. Not only will the cars be festooned with the owners' colors, but the driver and pit crew will be wearing appropriate racing attire.

Not to be missed entertainment runs the gamut of world rock from Liverpool to our own Motown sound. Rocky and the Rollers – longtime festival standards when it comes to getting the crowd on its feet – are bringing along BeatleMania Live on July 22. Martha Reeves, formerly of the Vandellas on July 23 and Bobby Vee on July 24. Be there, or be square.

Little rockers can kick up their heels here

By JENNIFER NORRIS

Special Writer

There's something to interest everyone at this year's Michigan Fifties Festival, especially for younger generations.

The festivities scheduled during June 21-25 will amaze children of all of ages.

One popular attraction according to Linda McCarthy, director of the family area, is the K-9 Dog Olympics. She explained that the 45-60 minute event, to be held inside the Novi Expo Center, will feature trained pets performing in an obstacle course with their owners' assistance. Both large and small dogs will be jumping over blocks and through hoops to the audiences' delight.

"It's a lot of fun," said McCarthy.

"I see families coming back to it again and again."

While the dogs are performing a deejay will be announcing characteristics about the pets.

"It's a huge hit," she added.

Another attraction that kids shouldn't miss is the carnival. The carnival rides will open Wednesday at 5 p.m., Thursday-Saturday at 11 a.m. and Sunday at 10 a.m.

The carnival will feature a carousel, a swing and spider ride, and all kinds of good food, said McCarthy. There will plenty of elephant ears, Thai food, popcorn, pizza and roasted corn to satisfy your appetite.

McCarthy said the yo-yo show is going to be a big hit this year with younger kids as well as the puppet show performed by Maureen Schiffman and Coco.

"She does a marvelous job," said McCarthy.

"She involves the kids and she's a lot of fun."

Check the Michigan 50s Festival schedule to find out who's performing when and where.

Local dance groups will also be performing at the Michigan Fifties Festival, including dancers from Sheryl's School of Dance, Tollgate Cloggers, Whistle Stop Cloggers, Dance Force Dance Team, Just for Kicks Dance Team, Wild West Dancers and the Lone Star Dance Group.

McCarthy said children seem to enjoy observing the dancers perform.

"There is always a big group watching," she said.

The Earth Angels, a high-energy lip sync group, will also be performing music from the 50s and 60s.

On Friday and Saturday, beginning at 6:30 p.m., children and parents can listen to Rich Eddy's Rock-n-Roll show at the Twelve Oaks Family Stage, outside the Expo Center. McCarthy explained this show first appeared in the festival last year and was so popular, it is being brought again.

"We get a big crowd," said McCarthy. "They put on one heck of a show."

The show will be transferred to the big entertainment tent for Sunday and Monday.

Venture inside the Novi Expo Center and kids will find even more fun attractions. Activities will include the longest drive golf shot competition, a Moon Walk, Jacob's Ladder and Warner Brothers characters will be making acquaintances. In addition there will be several new cars on display inside the Expo Center, a variety of information booths, an arts and crafts area plus visitors can also test their talent at hula-hooping.

"It's going to be a lot of fun," said McCarthy.

Fin-tastic!

Car show brings out Detroit's streamlined look of the 1950s

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Imagine driving a race car normally used by Jeff Gordon, Dale Earnhart or Kyle Petty.

More than 10,000 car enthusiasts will have the opportunity to do the next best thing by sitting in one of the cars at the 12th annual Michigan 50s Festival car show.

The race car setup will be part of a display sponsored by General Motors and the United Auto Workers.

And even though the new display promises to be exciting, the most important part of the car show will be the between 700 and 800 vintage cars parked in the north lot of the Novi Expo Center. The car show is sponsored in part by Chrysler Corp. and Keford Collision.

"The car show adds a lot of excitement," said Jane Thomas, festival manager.

"It adds a whole other dimension to the festival."

Tim Herrington, 50s Festival Board of Directors member and head of the car show, said the car show has grown every year in both the number of people and cars that take part.

The car show is a natural fit for a 50s Festival because of how important cars were to those growing up then.

"Part of the whole fun that started during the fifties was cruising," Herrington said.

When the 50s Festival first started, the car show mostly consisted of hot rod cars. However, in more recent years the show's been opened up to street rods and other custom cars. Prizes will be given in several categories, which make the Novi car show extra attractive to car nuts.

Planning for the show begins each August, immediately after the 50s Festival, Herrington said. Planners submit advertisements to various car journals, which accounts for a large part of the cars that make the trek to Novi.

"There are also people that just know where the car shows are going on," he said.

Herrington said the display with the race-course rarely makes an appearance at car shows such as the one at the 50s Festival.

He expects it to be a huge attraction, especially since those who sit in the car get their picture taken and handed to them on the spot at no cost.

"That setup is really a good draw," he said.

"At races people have been known to stand in line for one hour just to sit and get their picture taken in one of the cars."

And despite the fact there are several other car shows going on that day, Herrington said he is expecting a record crowd to attend this year's.

"I wouldn't be at all surprised if we see 10,000 people come through," he said.

The cost to attend the car show is $3 for those 12 years old and up. There is no cost for those under 12 years.

More information about the car show may be obtained by calling (248) 349-1950.

There's not going to be a lot of thrills or spills, but the Michigan Fifties Festival Carnival will provide a ton of fun for the kiddies this year.

Carnival organizer Vic Muscat said the Festival is trying to stay low key this year, focusing its efforts towards the younger children.

"It's not going to be big," he said.

"We're not going to have a lot of big rides and loud music. We want to keep it kind of low-key. With the beer tent right there, we don't want the music to collide."

D & D Amusement out of Belleville will provide the rides and games this year. Muscat, a festival board member, said he expects about eight to 10 different types of rides and "many" different skilled games.

"We don't want hustling types of games here," he said.

The limited amount of space at the festival site limits the size of carnival it can bring in.

But that suits Muscat, who used to work in the amusement business, just fine.

He said the type of carnival on site this year will attract children up to the age of 13 or 14.

"We're trying to bring in kiddie rides because a lot of times, there's nothing for the kids to do," Muscat said.

Like last year's inaugural carnival, this one will be held in the Novi Expo Center parking lot, to the south of the center itself.

The carnival will run from Wednesday through Sunday, beginning at about 11 a.m. each day. For all of those early arrivers, the cost of all the rides will be fifty cents all day Wednesday.

BOBBY'S HITS

■ These are some of the songs Bobby Vee made the charts with, including six gold records:

- Susie Baby - 1959
- What Do You Want - 1960
- Devil or Angel (Gold) - 1960
- Rubber Ball (Gold) - 1960
- Stayin' In - 1961
- Take Good Care Of My Baby (Gold) - 1961
- Run To Him (Gold) - 1961
- I Can't Say Goodbye - 1962
- Someday - 1962
- The Night Has A Thousand Eyes (Gold) - 1962
- Charms - 1963
- Every Little Bit Hurts - 1964
- Cross My Heart - 1965
- Look At Me Girl - 1967
- Come Back When You Grow Up (Gold) - 1967
- Beautiful People - 1967
- My Girl/Hey Girl - 1968
- Do What You Gotta Do - 1968
- Someone To Love Me - 1968
- Let's Call It A Day, Girl - 1969
- Sweet Sweetheart - 1970

Think you haven't heard of these Michigan 50s Festival's headliner acts, Martha Reeves and Bobby Vee? Just read the hit lists and realize you can already sing along with many of those tunes. Sure, the beat is mostly from the 1960s, but sometimes you just gotta bend the decades a little.

The third show-stopping act of the event never made the hit list, but if you don't know most of the songs they'll be performing, you must be so hooked on classics you've never turned on the radio. BeatleMania Live is guaranteed to leave you feeling like it's yesterday, yeah, yeah, yeah.

Bobby Vee

BY: MELANIE PLENDIA
STAFF WRITER

Remember the old Hollywood movies, where the star can't go on stage, giving the understudy the big break?

Bobby Vee's story may be even more amazing than any Hollywood script.

In 1959, Robert Velline was a self-taught teen-aged musician living in what was hardly the music capital of the country, Moorhead, Minnesota. He and a few friends were inspired by the new music of Elvis Presley and Buddy Holly and formed a band, The Shadows.

On Feb. 3, 1959, a big concert was scheduled for Moorhead, starring Buddy Holly, Richie Valens and The Big Bopper. But their plane crashed in Iowa, killing everyone aboard. The promoters put out a call for local talent and 15-year-old Bobby Vee was on his way to stardom.

Billboard Magazine once called Bobby Vee, "One of the most consistent chart-makers ever." With catchy hits such as "Rubber Ball," "Devil or Angel," And "Take Good Care of my Baby," Vee has become a legend of rock and roll history.

However, Vee is not resting on his legendary laurels. With over 30 albums, 6 gold records, and 100 plus appearances a

BOBBY'S FILMS

Bobby Vee was featured in several movies during his career, all aimed for the teen market:

- 1962: "Swingin' Along" A comedy about a songwriting contest with scenes of Bobby Vee and Ray Charles performing. Among the stars were Barbara Eden.
- 1962: "Play It Cool" Early sixties performers were blended with a plot about a spoiled teen looking for her boyfriend.
- 1963: "Just For Fun" British teens run for political office, while pop stars parade by, including The Crickets and The Springfields.
- 1967: "C'Mon, Let's Live A Little" A starring role for Bobby Vee as a country boy in college who romances the dean's daughter, Jackie DeShannon.

Vee led the charts in the '60s

year he has kept himself very busy.

His mix of rockabilly and rock and roll caught the attention of Paul McCartney who asked him to perform for his annual tribute to Buddy Holly in London. Vee was joined by members of the Crickets, Carl Perkins and McCartney himself. Recently, he broadened his repertoire when he performed with Andrew Lloyd Webber at his annual Sydmonton Festival in South England. In addition, he currently he has completed two brand new albums to add to the K-Tel release of, "The Early Rockin' Years" which includes previously unreleased earlier material.

He will be performing at this years Fifties Festival on Saturday, July 25, at 8:00 p.m., along with Rocky and the Rollers in the Entertainment tent. The price of admission is $10.00 and all who attend must be 21 or older.

Festival favs, Rocky and the Rollers, will be back for the weekend.

BEATLE FACTS

■ Some Highlights in Beatle history:

- July 6, 1957: John Lennon meets Paul McCartney at the Woolton Parish Church Fete.
- February 1958: George Harrison joins the group.
- August 1962: Pete Best is fired and Ringo is hired.
- January 1963: Beatlemania is born in Britain.
- February 9, 1963: First really big appearance on "The Ed Sullivan Show"
- February 15, 1964: "Meet the Beatles" hits number one on the charts in the U.S.
- July 6, 1964: Their first film, "A Hard Day's Night" premieres in London. At $500,00, this was a low-budget job.
- July 29, 1965: Their second film "Help" is released, which cost $1.5 million to produce.
- August 15, 1965: The Beatles play to a record-breaking 55,000 crowd, mostly composed of screeching girls, at Shea Stadium.
- August 29, 1966: Heartbreak time. The Beatles give their last live concert, in San Francisco, California.
- June 25, 1967: Beatles perform in the first live television satellite program to air worldwide.
- April 10, 1970: Paul announces publicly that he has left the Beatles.
- 1970: The Beatles break up.

Beatlemania Live is next best to the real, never to be repeated, thing.

By MELANIE PLENDIA

Staff Writer

It's the British Invasion—well sort of.

Okay so none of the guys in this invasion are actually British.

And instead of John, Paul, George and Ringo they are Ron, Mac, Jim and John.

But to them and the fans of Beatlemania Live they are the mop-top reincarnations of the real thing.

Beatlemania Live started as one of the throngs of tribute bands that sprang up during the latter part of the seventies and early eighties. This faux fab four was inspired by a 1976 Broadway show called "Beatlemania," which enjoyed a lengthy run and a world tour.

Some might call this act the hardest working impersonation act in show business.

The band, comprised of Ron McNeil (John Lennon), Mac Ruffing (Paul McCartney), Jim Owens (George Harrison), and John Preston (Ringo Starr) can boast of a bassist that went from a righty to a lefty to complete his role, a guitarist who mastered the under the chin style of Harrison and vocals eerily similar to Lennon's.

Their shows have been known to run two hours, at least, with as many encores as their public demands. Their performance is broken into three segments based on the three eras in Beatles music history: "The Ed Sullivan Show" appearance, the Sgt. Pepper years and the enigmatic White Album era, each replete with costume and wig changes that illustrate the each period.

MARTHA REEVES

■ Martha Reeves and the Vandellas hit the charts with these songs:

- Come Get These Memories - 1963
- Heat Wave - 1963
- Quicksand - 1963
- Dancing In The Streets - 1964
- Nowhere To Run - 1965
- I'm Ready For Love - 1966
- Jimmy Mack - 1967
- Honey Chile - 1967

Reeves is a Hall of Famer

Born in Alabama, Martha Reeves was less than a year old when her family moved to Detroit, the city she would help put on the world's music map as Motown.

At Northeastern High, she studied voice with Abraham Silver, who also taught two other legendary "girl singers," Florence Ballard and Mary Wilson of the Supremes.

In 1961, Reeves started work as a secretary at Motown Records, when Barry Gordy was short a background singer for Marvin Gaye. She was earlier "discovered" in a talent show at Detroit's Twenty Grand Club.

It wasn't long before Reeves was in her own group, the Vandellas. The name came from the street Van Dyke and Reeves' favorite singer, Della Reese.

By 1963, the group's second release, "Come Get These Memories," soared to number one. The rest is history, Rock And Roll Hall of Fame history, that is. The group was inducted into the Cleveland museum in 1995.

Music critics of the sixties saw the Vandellas, with recordings such as "Nowhere To Run," "Heat Wave" and "Jimmy Mack," as an earthier alternative to The Supremes. From 1967 on, Reeves was featured as the lead of The Vandellas.

In her 1994 autobiography "Dancing In The Street," Reeves charged that Gordy's preference for The Supremes damaged The Vandellas. The group subsequently sued Motown for back royalties.

On her own, she has cut four critically-acclaimed albums.

She currently lives in Detroit, but continues to tour, bringing fans a taste of the music that made her hometown great.

See her at 8 p.m. on Friday, July 23 in the Entertainment Tent. Tickets are $10; you must be 21 or older.

Meet The Beatles, well, almost

These cheeky lads are no strangers to the real Beatles-sized crowds. Beatlemania-Live has set tons of toes a tappin' from the prime minister of Malaysia to the thousands who packed the New Orleans Superdome at the Mardi Gras Concert in 1998. Many attribute their success to the timelessness of the music.

Beatlemania Live will be performing at the Novi Fifties Festival on Thursday, July 22 at 8:00 p.m. in the Entertainment Tent. Those perennial fest favorites, Rocky and the Rollers will be joining them.

Admission is $5.00 for adults and free for kids 12 and under when accompanied by an adult.

Kiddie cars?

At $4,000, these are serious buggies

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Special writer

It won't be long before Novi residents will see the hottest new attraction at the Michigan Fifties Festival — miniature Grand Prix race cars.

The colored flags will wave and initiate the race on July 24-25 in Mervyn's parking lot in the Novi Town Center.

"It's the first year for the race cars," said Bob McCann, festival president.

"We expect to do it for a number of years to come."

Approximately 20 to 25 cars will be zooming around the one-mile track, which will include pit stops for refueling and car maintenance. McCann explained there will be a six-person pit crew to perform any mechanical work and assist the driver.

The race cars are one-third the size of a standard Indy car and can reach speeds of up to 40 m.p.h. Vehicle dimensions measure about seven feet long and four feet wide and are powered by a 3.5 horsepower Briggs & Stratton engine. The chassis is made from tubular reinforced steel with an ABS plastic body, has hand controls for easy operation, specially made disc brakes, centrifugal clutch and is belt-driven. Special features on the race car include padded seating, adjustable tie rods, a safety bar, push bar, an engine protection bar and 5/16 bolted steel wheels.

The cars will also have a electronic tracking system which will indicate the position of the vehicles and also determine how many seconds each lap took.

"I think it's going to add a lot of flavor to the festival. It's going to look great."

Tim Herrington,
Member of festival board of directors

The race cars are being sold for $4,000 and are supplied by USA/M-Car, a nationally sanctioned racing circuit. Once the car is purchased, it can later be raced at any M-Car approved racetrack, said McCann.

Several local businesses and its employees have purchased cars to race in the event and are currently prepping their vehicle for performance and appearance.

Some companies have even chosen to have their car professionally decorated and painted. Keford Collision has done the decor work on two company race vehicles for Midwest Power Systems and Time Warner Cable, said owner Tim Herrington.

He explained the cars will also feature sponsored decals and that he helps design the ideal vehicle paint job with clients.

Regarding the Grand Prix, Herrington said, "I think it's going to add a lot of flavor to the festival. It's going to look great."

Herrington added that it takes about half a day to a full day to complete the paint work on the vehicles.

Midwest Power's race car will have an elaborate custom finish complete with decorative flames, said company owner Brent Canup.

Canup.

"We're excited about it," said Canup. "The race is set up for business people to have recognition in the community. It's a way of advertising and being part of the community."

Canup also said the driver's helmet will match the car's design and there will be uniforms for the pit crew and driver.

Gary Smith, president of USA/M-Car, explained the main purpose for these types of races is to raise money for worthy causes. The company has been supporting charities since 1991 and is involved with numerous races around the country.

"I'm always very impressed with the amount of time and effort it takes into painting and decorating a car," said Smith. "They put a lot of pride into their cars."

Smith added that he feels racing cars and raising funds for charities is a very rewarding experience.

"We enjoy the phenomenally great people we meet. We have lots of friendships around the United States and it's very fulfilling being able to give something back," he said.

The winning car will receive a trophy and plaques will be distributed for second and third place.

Smith added that this will be a highly competitive race and is great for families to attend: "Racing is very much a family sport. Anything that has to do with speed or racing is a natural part of what makes up the motor city area."

The year was 1959 and "The Novi News" told all

Following is the year in review, printed in "The Novi News" on Dec. 30, 1959, as citizens prepared for the turn of the decade and the onset of what would be the turbulent 1960s.

Reading through the news items, today's residents may have the feeling of been there, done that. Or for those of you who took high school French, "Plus ça change, plus c'est la même chose."

These News Articles Made Headlines in Novi in 1959 January

Attorney Edmund P. Yerkes, owner of 36 acres of land at 12580 Eight Mile Road, filed a petition in court to become disconnected from the village (of Novi.) (Some of that land is now Yerkes Manor subdivision, safely situated in Novi.)

A 43-year-old Highland Park man was unanimously elected by the village council to serve as Novi's first village manager. Fred E. Olson, graduate of Wayne State University's law school, was picked by Novi's five councilmen, who pledged him their "full support."

(Full support, maybe. Local historian Barbara Louie points out in her book "No. VI On The Trail" that Olson's reign was stormy and characterized by the departure of Lee BeGole, founder of the Novi Police Department. BeGole left town briefly, but Olson was out of office in June 1960.)

BeGole came back, remained police chief until 1991 and currently serves on the Novi Board of Review.)

February

Dr. Harold L. Morris, 26111 Meadowbrook, was appointed to the Novi school board to replace Kenneth Bernard, secretary, who moved to California.

March

Preparations of the 1959-1960 budget got underway with a recommendation by the village manager that plans for a garbage and rubbish pick-up be considered.

(As of 1999, the city does not offer municipal curbside collection; that is done by private contractors.)

Novi's second and newest elementary school, Orchard Hills, located near Willowbrook subdivision, was officially dedicated.

(And is still going strong.)

April

Supervisor Frazer Staman was returned to office for his fourth consecutive term, along with incumbents Clerk Hadley Bachert, Treasurer Ray Harrison and Trustee Frank Watza.

(At age 94, Frazer Staman is also still going strong, alive and well and living in Wixom. In March, he joined in on the fun at the City of Novi's 30th Anniversary Party.)

A recommendation by the planning board to rezone the agricultural property of Arthur Heslip from agriculture use to heavy industry was approved by the village council.

(Heslip Drive, which is home to a variety of industrial firms, runs north of Nine Mile Road.)

Robert Young, president of the Young Door Company, announced his firm would move to Plymouth, Indiana.

A still existing Novi business in 1959 wished customers the best for a new decade, the 1960s.

May

Nine Mile Road residents opposed to rezoning of the Arthur J. Heslip property to industrial classification formed the Novi Civic Association to represent their viewpoints.

(Sound familiar?)

Wixom councilmen approved the settlement figure of $26,607 as its share of the Novi Township assets.

(In 1957, Wixom became a village and grabbed the Ford Lincoln plant on Wixom Road from Novi Township. The following year, Novi became a village.)

June

The village council accepted the resignation of Treasurer-Assessor Frazer Staman.

The three-year battle over 220 acres that includes the Warren Products plant ended with the decision going to Northville.

(Based on a state supreme court ruling, the City of Northville succeeded in annexing 220 acres of Novi land.)

July

Three incumbents were voted back into office as 265 Novi electors cast their ballots in the annual school board election. Returned to office: Dr. Harold L. Morris, Arthur J. Heslip and Russell Taylor. Heslip was subsequently reelected president of the board.

(Forty years later, in June 1999, three incumbents were elected to the Novi school board by 68 voters.)

August

Novi's oldest and largest manufacturing plant — Novi Equipment Corporation — was sold to Continental Motors Corporation of Detroit and Muskegon.

Mrs. Zetta Tuck, 58, wife of Novi Village President Walter Tuck, died suddenly after suffering a heart attack at home.

September

Village residents voted against changing Novi to a city by an overwhelming 766 to 175 decision. While stamping their disapproval on incorporation, the electors gave the village planning board and council a vote of confidence by their 532-388 decision to retain a much debated zoning ordinance amendment.

(Current resident Leo Harrawood was a leader in seeking cityhood for Novi 40 years ago. Not until 1969 did voters give the go-head for the creation of the City of Novi.)

Firemen from four units arrested a $10,000 blaze at Bob O'Link (golf course.)

October

Petitions calling for an election to amend the village charter to permit Novi to be returned to township status were presented to the council.

One of the most difficult and important tasks undertaken by village officials was completed when the council enacted the zoning ordinance recommended to it by the planning board.

A Ford Motor Company executive delivered the main address at the Lincoln-Mercury plant where the Novi Rotary Club officially received its charter.

November

Plans for a $4 million dollar residential estate development, including a 25-acre lake, moved ahead with the completion of a control dam in southeastern Novi.

(Today that would be a $4 million house.)

Court action to repeal a village zoning amendment changing 120 acres of Nine Mile Road property from residential to industrial classification was shattered.

A giant committee to handle giant village planning problems was formed.

(How jolly!)

An Oakland County Circuit Court judge overruled a village board of appeals decision and granted permission for operation of a landfill on Twelve Mile Road.

December

Officials from nearly 10 area municipalities met at Pontiac to discuss a plan to extend sewers into this area via the Farmington interceptor.

Three women and 10 men were elected to the board of directors of the recently organized Novi Citizens Development Committee.

Novi residents prepared for the upcoming March election.

"SOFT TOUCH" CHIROPRACTIC

Kathy Duncan had a satisfying full time career as a registered nurse in critical care when she decided to pursue a degree as a Doctor of Chiropractic. The career move came when Dr. Duncan found relief from her migraine headaches after being treated by a Doctor of Chiropractic. In chiropractic treatment, Dr. Duncan found her problem resolved when other methods of treatment failed.

This prompted Dr. Duncan to become a chiropractor. She graduated from Life Chiropractic College in 1986, where she was president of her class. In 1990, Dr. Duncan opened Soft Touch Chiropractic in Novi. Dr. Duncan practices a soft, gentle, non-invasive pressure point treatment for all types of pain or discomfort in the back, neck, head or legs. With the spine as the focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure on points along the muscles in conjunction with the spine. With the muscles relaxed, the spine can re-adjust itself naturally. Tight muscles caused by stress, tension, strains or trauma can pull the

Dr. Kathy Duncan spinal column out of alignment. This can produce many types of pain or discomfort in the body.

Located at 23895 Novi Road, Suite 400 in Novi, Soft Touch Chiropractic is open Monday, Tuesday, and Friday 9am-12:30 pm and 2:30pm to 6:30pm, Wednesday 12:30pm-6:30pm. The phone number is (248) 348-2000.

If you're looking to strike it rich, bust the tent and retire comfortably, then you're out of luck.

But if you're looking to have a good night, or two, enjoy a cold beverage under the moonlit skies of July in Michigan, then this is the place for you.

In what has become one of the most visited and irresistible attractions at the Michigan 50s Festival the past few years, the Vegas Tent will make a return visit this year.

Tent chairperson Virginia Savinsky will again be in charge of the event, which has been a tremendous success in its five years at the festival.

"It's been very successful," she said.

"In fact, if we were allowed to expand the number of chips we can sell, we could open up another Casino Windsor, easily."

Under current state laws, the Vegas Tent can only bring in and pay out so much money each night, despite all the proceeds going to charity.

Savinsky, who's been involved with various festivals over the years, said a good portion of this year's proceeds will go the Poverty Social Reform Institute in Farmington Hills, which serves all of the tri-county area.

There will be four games available to festival-goers, including blackjack, roulette, craps and the wheel of fortune. There will be a $5 maximum bet per hand, roll or spin in each of these games.

The tent will be located within the main entertainment area and will be open from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. Thursday through Saturday and 6 p.m. to midnight on Sunday. You must be 21 years old to enter the entertainment area on Friday and Saturday.

Prizes usually comes at the end of pageantry, not the beginning.

But that's the case when it comes to the 50s Festival Car Cruise. The event, expected to feature the majority of the between 700 and 800 participating in the car show, starts after the prizes have been awarded for the show.

The cruise is open to anyone who has a car to show off and wants to participate, said Tim Herrington, 50s Festival board of directors member and head of the car show. There is no cost to participants.

"Anyone can cruise," he said.

"It's like a big parade."

Cars move slowly along the route and people may line up along the side of the route. Herrington said thousands of people are expected to line up to watch the cruise.

"The cruise is just fun," Herrington said. "People really enjoy watching the cars in action."

This year's cruise will be the 12th time a cruise was held after the car show, Herrington said.

Pass the Cheez-Whiz

A look at food of the 1950s

By Jan Jeffres
Editor

The minute you mention food of the 1950s, everybody thinks of delectables packaged nutrients such as Twinkies, Chef Boy-Ar-Dee Spaghetti in a can, Ding-Dongs and Jiffy Pop pop-corn.

The tendency is to visualize the era as a time when folks were clogging their insides with Cheez-Whiz, when the youth and not-so-young of America were wallowing in Velveeta and biting into stuff so full of additives, preservatives and artificial sweeteners it was like swallowing a chemistry set.

The fifties are seen as a decade in which the four food groups were considered to be Coca-Cola, potato chips, hot dogs and milk shakes.

As always, the stereotypes of the 1950s veer somewhat from what appears to be historical reality.

It was indeed a time when easy-to-prepare convenience foods, fast food restaurants and frozen foods consolidated the impression they'd already begun to make on Americans in the 1930s and 1940s.

However, consumption of vegetables was up. So-called "fancy foods," like espresso, vichyssoise, lobster bisque, coq au vin, artichokes, souffles and assorted canapes were trendy with middle-class diners eager to become "sophisticated."

By 1959, Americans were eating less starch and more fresh produce than they did in 1945. But one ominous development was the scientific tinkering with veggies and fruits to make them look good, ultimately leading to today's lovely red but flavorless tomato.

One 1950s study found that the favorite American meal began with a fruit cup, worked its way through vegetable soup, steak and potatoes, peas, rolls and butter, to be followed by pie ala mode. (And perhaps capped off with Alka Seltzer?)

The most popular ethnic food was French, although Americans were beginning to tantalize their taste buds with Mexican, German, Chinese, Jewish and Italian food.

Pizza was still a little exotic, but already well-loved.

Dan and Frank Carney would open the first Pizza Hut in 1958 in Wichita, Kan., choosing the name because a nine-letter sign was cheap.

Freezers were less expensive and finding a place in most American homes. Between 1947 and 1953, the production of frozen food quadrupled. Frozen orange juice, including Minute Maid, was the most popular item; consumers swilled 562,000 gallons of the stuff in 1947 and an amazing 70 million gallons in 1953.

In 1954, Swanson introduced the first frozen TV dinners, a smash hit with those unwilling to leave Walter Cronkite and "I Love Lucy" and go to the dining room for supper.

A frozen cream cheesecake named after his daughter, Sara Lee, was what started Charles Lubin's food empire. In 1951, he opened the Kitchen of Sara Lee and added other products, also inventing in the early 1950s aluminum foil pans.

For residents of those thousands of new suburbs, home barbecues became a weekend ritual. Hot dog production grew from 750 million in 1950 to 1,050 million in 1960, while the amount of potato chips manufactured went from 320 million pounds to 532 million pounds.

Birthing in the late 1940s and 1950s, along with the baby boomers, were some of America's most popular fast-food eateries.

Jean Bell had left the Marines and was looking for something to do in 1947, so he bought a hot dog stand in San Bernardino. In 1952, with hamburger diners more popular than ever, he got the idea of offering Mexican food as an alternative, hence Taco Bell.

One of the very first hamburger chains started as a drive-through restaurant opened in 1948 by brothers Dick and Mac McDonald in San Bernardino. Ray Kroc bought the franchise rights in 1954 and in 1955, the first golden arches went up in Des Plaines, Ill.

To avoid creating teenage hangouts, Kroc banned jukeboxes, pinball machines and telephones at his new eateries. Initially, teenage female employees were also not hired, with the rationale that if they were, teenaged boys would congregate at the new McDonald's restaurants.

Burger King made its debut in 1954 in Miami and the founders James McLamore and David Edgerton, on a business trip to Orlando in 1957, came up with the concept of the flame-broiled Whopper.

The 1950s saw a lot of food firsts. Chew on these facts:

- 1950 — New foods were Sugar Pops, Minute Rice and concentrated milk.
- 1951 — Earl Tupper invents the containers bearing his name to store all those leftovers.
- 1952 — Kellogg's brings out Sugar Smacks and Sugar Frosted Flakes, but Tony the Tiger won't accompany the flakes until 1955. Also new is Kirsch Beverage's No Cal Ginger Ale, the first artificially-sweetened soft drink.
- 1953 — First instant ice tea poured, White Rose by Redi-Tea.
- 1954 — Peanuts are added to M&Ms. (That's the same year the world's largest shopping center opened with 100 stores, Northland in Southfield, Mich.)
- 1957 — For the first time, margarine outsells butter.
- 1958 — Sweet N-Low saccharine hits the shelves.
- 1959 — The Coca Cola Co. markets Fanta and General Mills introduces Frosty Os.

People were worried about the aesthetic impact of all that eating. In 1952, a craze developed for chlorophyll as a breath sweetener in products such as Beech-Nut gum. Then, a prestigious medical journal pointed out that goats ate chlorophyll all the time when they grazed grass and weren't universally considered kissably fresh.

They rock around the calendar

Unlike some pop music acts, the Michigan 50s Festival is not an overnight happening. While the massive rock and roll party is the combined effort of many, the folks who lead the event are busy planning all year long for these five days in July.

They are:

Officers of the festival Board of Directors :

President, Bob McCann
Vice President, Brent Canup
Treasurer, Gary Wyatt Festival Manager, Jane Thomas

Members of the Board of Directors:

Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall

Hot nights

This pair really sizzled on the dance floor at last year's 50s Fest.

But if things get to hot, lemonade and ice cream can cool you down.

Or better still, the event's official beverage, Tail Fin Lager by Local Color Brewing Company, is on tap.

Little red what? Take a chance on a dream Corvette

By MELANIE PLEND
Staff Writer

Fast, classic, and cherry red—few other phrases the beat to the heart or the spring to the feet as these.

That is if the new car these loaded words are describing is yours.

The Novi Rotary Club will be giving away a 1959 crimson Corvette in this year's car raffle.

Raffle tickets can be purchased at The Michigan Fifties Festival and at the Car and Truck Boutique 24400 Novi Rd.

Get three chances for paradise on wheels for $10, with all proceeds going to local charities.

Chairperson of the raffle and owner of the Car and Truck Boutique, Steve Muldoon, calls this little buggy, "a classic."

Purchased from a local private owner, the car sports a black interior, red exterior and is valued at $35,000.

This is an annual event sponsored by the Rotary club.

Muldoon, along with the rest of the Novi Rotary, hopes to raise $65,000 to $75,000 in ticket sales which will go to such local charities as Novi Food Bank, Novi Senior Citizens, D.A.R.E. and Crossroads Soup Kitchen.

The drawing will be held August 26, in front of the Novi Civic Center.

For more information, call Steve Muldoon at 380-5960.

1917.

Since then they have broadened their mission in the hopes of supporting the efforts of Rotary International to achieve world understanding and peace through international, humanitarian, educational, and cultural exchange programs. They manage to do this in many ways including but not limited to, club, community, international and vocational service. The organization also promotes high ethical standards in business and professions.

Cool dudes

Something about the 50s fest makes a guy want to grease back his hair and practice his moves. While the fellow on the right is pretty smooth, who's to say he couldn't pick up technique from the whipper-snapper on the left?

Did you score? Answers to our quiz

1. (B) — President Truman ordered the takeover to avert a strike. He did the same thing two years later to the nation's steel mills, but the courts overruled the decision, saying it was an illegal maneuver.

2. (C) — Fleming won the award in 1961, while McKnight brought it home in 1957.

3. (A) — Sir Alec Guinness won Best Actor for his performance in the film. He also played Obi-Wan Kenobi in the original "Star Wars." (No word from the wise old Jedi on how he feels about Ewan McGregor.)

4. (D) — The guy who made his living by starting up jukeboxes at 1950s-era malt shops merely by slamming his fist into the side of them was born Oct. 30, 1945.

5. (C) — Don't try this at home, but Lotito, from Grenoble, France, holds the world record for most metal consumed. The 1999 Guinness Book of World Records says Lotito has eaten two beds, a pair of skis, a Cessna aircraft, a computer and a coffin since he got his odd diet started in 1959, when he accidentally swallowed a piece of glass. The real question: does he get enough iron in his diet?

6. (D) — The Honolulu blue and silver captured three championships in the decade, as did Cleveland. The Lions won it all in 1952, 1953, and 1957, while the Browns-turned-Ravens-back-to-Browns brought home the trophy in 1950, 1954 and 1955.

7. (C) — Whether your heart bleeds blue or green, tough luck. San Francisco owned the decade, winning the big prize in 1955 and 1956. U-M and MSU have one exactly once championship each.

Those silly Blue Devils have finished on top of the heap seven times.

8. (A) — The electronic comp-u-tater came about in 1942, the nuke in 1947 and the color tube goes all the way back to 1928. (Have we really been infatuated with the mindless box for that long?)

9. (B) — We promise...that's the last jab we'll take at Northwest. Or at least until the next helacious snowstorm falls at Metro.

10. (B) — The Cheeseheads opened up Lombardi's playhouse in 1957. Wouldn't it be great if the Lions could actually win the trophy named after ol' Vince?

11. (C) — Founded by William Gaines, MAD only accepted advertising for the first couple of years before realizing he'd managed to get under the skin of companies the magazine spoofed. What!? Him, worry!?

12. (D) — Male names had been used since 1951 according to the military alphabet, then turned around a few years later and said the fairer sex deserved a crack at being identified with a hurricane. Gee...what a compliment.

13. (A) — It was in 1896 that the phrase "separate but equal" became the law of the land. "Brown" was actually the umbrella name for five different segregation cases from five different states. It was fought for eight-year-old Linda Brown, whose father became weary of taking his daughter to an all-black school some distance away in Topeka, when a whites-only school was right around the corner from their home.

14. (B) — Michigan Agricultural

School transformed into Spartytown in 1955. Wayne State followed a year later, while OU became a fancy-pants school in 1957.

15. (B) — And if you think making that decision didn't have any impact, just take a look at the face of someone doing some charter fishing when they pull up a sea lamprey instead of a northern pike. Mmmm-mmm! Nothing like fileted suck-erfish.

16. (B) — Even though ol' Jerry Lee didn't come up big in sales, he still got his notoriety when he was literally booed out of his Great Britain tour after it was learned he'd made a wife out of Myra Brown, his 13-year-old cousin. Maybe he should have toured France instead.

17. (A) — Fred Morrison gets the credit for inventing (?) the plastic wonder, which was originally a meat-pie tin used by Yale college students to play catch. Leave it to those Ivy Leaguers.

18. (C) — Even though the film got a resounding thumbs down from the powers-that-be, producer Otto Preminger distributed the film himself. Its financial success was the beginning of the end for the tight regulations on language and content in Hollywood.

19. (C) — Yes, the pooch survived the launch and the initial weightlessness, but Moscow never devised a way to bring Laika back to Earth. PETA would have a field day if something like that happened again.

20. (B) — Rock fans mourned the loss of the three stars, particularly Holly. Ironically enough, Holly's hometown newspaper in Lubbock, Texas, only ran a few small paragraphs on his death. Maybe the editor had a thing against people who wore horn-rimmed glasses.

21. (D) — The King's now-famous hip gyrations got parents everywhere in a tizzy. Time Magazine contributor John Lardner wrote, "What Elvis acts like is a lovesick outboard motor." Uh, thank yuh...thank yuh very much.

22. (A) — The modern campus for the Air Force academy, in Colorado Springs is so large that it could hold both the Naval and Army academies on the grounds and have room to spare. We're wondering if there's any way Claude Lemieux could be placed in the middle of the bomb test fields.

23. (B) — The queen became the top of England's monarchy following the death of King George VI on Feb. 6. Little-known fact: Great Britain's national anthem, "God Save The Queen," changes its name depending on whether a king or queen is ruler of the lands. No fooling.

24. (D) — It wasn't until the days of hardcore political correctness came out that people determined Barbie, if life-sized, would have a waistline roughly the diameter of a nectarine. The toy was named for the daughter of designers Ruth and Elliot Handler.

25. (C) — Rodge made things happen at the Empire Games on May 6. Bannister may have been the first to break four minutes, but John Landy, who lead the race for most of the way, also broke four minutes at 3:59.6. Too bad he finished in second place. It's like the saying goes: second place is the first loser. Sorry, Johnny.

Kids, try this at home Some fab '50s recipes

Most people in the 1950s enjoyed entrees like hamburgers, steaks and pot roasts and fried chicken.

But with the soldiers and sailors home from the war and setting up new families, economy in the kitchen was a priority. Magazines and newspapers encouraged housewives to spice up the old regulars for exciting new taste treats.

Check out these mouthwatering suggestions from "Everywoman's" magazine, February 1955, and from "The Novi News," 1956.

By 1959, "The Novi News" had stopped running recipes. Wonder why?

"Summer sunshine for a winter meal"

• California Fiesta Spam 'N' Yam Fiesta Loaf

Simply cut a Hormel Spam loaf in two crosswise. Between the two layers, spread canned sweet potatoes, mashed and seasoned. Surround with golden cling peaches from California. Top with "fan" of peach slices. Drizzle on peach juice seasoned with one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes.

"A Quickie That's Tasty and Thrifty"

• Franks Oriental with Dawn Fresh Mushroom Sauce

Four cups hot, salted cooked rice (one-half pound raw)

One and a half tablespoons butter or margarine

One-quarter cup pickle relish

One pound franks, heated

Two six-ounce cans mushroom sauce, heated.

Combine rice, butter or margarine and pickle relish. Put rice on serving platter. Top with uncut Franks. Serve with hot mushroom sauce.

"What Food These Morsels Be"

• Deviled Sardine Sandwiches

One can cream celery soup

Two teaspoons prepared mustard

One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Four stuffed olives

Two four-ounce cans of sardines

Two hamburger buns

Two slices processed cheese.

Chop the olives coarsely. Open sardines and drain well. Mix soup, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, olives together. Mix in sardines. Heat for three minutes. Split buns and toast lightly brown. Spoon sardine mixture into bun halves. Cut cheese into strips and place on top of sardine mixture. Slide under broiler three inches from heat and broil until cheese has melted. Makes four servings.

• Vinegar Pie

One and one-half cups water

One cup sugar

Two tablespoons vinegar

Three tablespoons flour or corn starch

Two egg yolks

One tablespoon butter

Bring water, sugar and vinegar to boil.

Add flour or corn starch mixed with a little water and cook until thickened. Add egg yolks and butter. Let cool. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue and brown under grill.

5 WAYS TO CHARGE

You Can Get Your Builders Square Credit Card At Any Store Transformed Into Store

HO Card Holders: If the promotional purchase is paid in full within 6 months, finance charges will be waived. Offer applies to specified promotional products and purchase amounts during the promotional period made on an existing or newly opened HO or Hechinger Consumer Credit Card account. Monthly payments are not required on qualified purchases during the promotional period (6 months). Finance charges and any optional credit insurance charges on your promotional purchase will be assessed and added to the account, but will be credited if you pay the full purchase price by the end of the promotional period. If you do not, you will be responsible for these charges. Regular credit terms will continue to apply to your nonpromotional purchases. Offer is subject to credit approval by Monogram Credit Card Bank of Georgia. Builders Square card holders: Minimum purchase required, ask for details. If purchase amount is paid in full within 6 month period, accrued finance charges will be waived; if not, finance charges will be assessed from purchase date. To Qualified customers using the Builders Square or Square Plus credit card, AFR for Builders Square card is Prime Rate + 12.50% (21% as of 8/1/99), APR for the Square Plus card is Prime Rate + 4.0% (12.50% as of 8/1/99). The rate may vary. Minimum financing charge $3.50. *Not available extra. See store for details. *Installation is performed by independent contractors.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR THE BANK ONE PLATINUM VISA CARD

|--|--|
| Annual Percentage Rate (APR) for Purchases   | 3.9% APR on Purchases and Balance Transfers (excluding overdraft advances) applicable until the first day of the billing cycle that includes the five (5) month anniversary date of the opening of the account; a 9.99% APR for Purchases and Balance Transfers after that ("Standard Rate"). If applicable, 13.99% APR for purchases of overdraft protection advances. (Does not apply in Arizona or Utah.) The APR for Cash Advances is 19.99%. If payment is received late once during the introductory period, the rate for purchases and balance transfers (excluding o/d advances) will adjust to the Standard Rate. If payment is received late two times in a six-month period, an adjusted APR of 22.99% will take effect on all balances.* |
| Annual Fees  | None.  |
| Minimum Finance Charge   | $.50 in any month that a finance charge is payable.   |
| Grace Period for Repayment of Balance for Purchases (excluding overdraft protection advances)+ | At least 20-25 days if your new balance on your previous and current statements are paid in full by the Payment Due Date indicated on the statements.  |
| Transaction Fees   | Purchase of wire transfers, money orders, betting or casino chips or similar items; purchase of foreign currency and travelers checks from other than a bank; and use of Convenience Checks: 3% of the amount of each purchase or check, but not less than $5.Balance Transfers: 3% of the amount of each balance transfer, but not less than $5 nor more than $35.   |
| Method of Computing the Balance for Purchases  | Average Daily Balance Method (including new purchases).  |

Transaction Fee for ATM Cash Advances: 3% of the Cash Advance, but not less than $10. Transaction Fee for all other Cash Advances: 3% of the Cash Advance, but not less than $15. Late Payment Fee: $29. Over-the-Credit-Limit Fee: $29. Returned Check Fee: $29.

*The adjusted rate will become effective in the billing cycle immediately following the missed payment. We may allocate your payment in the manner we deem appropriate, including applying your payment to purchase and balance transfer balances before cash advance balances.

You understand that this application to establish a credit card account was initiated by First Credit Card Services USA, LLC ("First Credit") on behalf of First USA Bank, N.A., a Bank One affiliated company, located in Wilmington, Delaware ("Bank") (together with First Credit, "we"). If your application is approved, your account will be issued by First USA Bank, N.A. You understand that the use of any card or account issued in connection with an approved application will constitute your acceptance and will be subject to the terms and conditions of the Cardmember Agreement that will be sent with the card. You agree to be responsible for all charges incurred according to the Cardmember Agreement. You understand the terms of your account are subject to change as provided in the Cardmember Agreement.

You agree that we have the right to obtain a current credit report in connection with the First Credit's review of your application and, subsequently in connection with a requested change to your account, the renewal of your account, or a change in your credit line, and that the Bank has the right to report to others its credit experience with you. Upon your request, the Bank will tell you the name and address of each consumer reporting agency from which it obtained a consumer report on you. You understand First Credit will review your credit history and income to determine if you qualify for a card and, if so, your credit line. In certain instances, based on this review, you may receive a Classic card with a credit line of less than $5,000. The minimum gross household income required for a Visa is $14,400.

Balance Transfer Option: Transfer balances from your current credit card accounts to your new Bank One Visa account, and the Bank will handle the paperwork. The MasterCard®, Visa®, Discover®, or Optima™ accounts you indicate will show a credit, reducing the amount you owe by the amount you transferred. The available credit on your new Bank One Visa account will be reduced, just as if you had made a purchase. The transfer will show up on your first statement. Your other credit card accounts will not be closed (even if you transfer the entire balance). Remember, it may take up to three weeks to set up your account and post the balance transfer transaction to your account, so you may still need to make payments to your other accounts to keep them current. If you want to close an account, please contact that credit card company directly. Balance transfer is contingent upon approval of your Bank One Visa account. Balance transfers are subject to the transaction fee shown in the Terms and Conditions enclosed herewith. We reserve the right to decline to process any partial or full balance transfer and will not process a balance transfer request from any other Bank One, First USA, or any other related bank credit card account.

Ohio Residents: Ohio laws against discrimination require that all creditors make credit equally available to all credit worthy customers, and that credit reporting agencies maintain separate credit histories on each individual upon request. The Ohio Civil Rights Commission administers compliance with this law.

Wisconsin Residents: No provision of any marital property agreement, unilateral statement or court decree adversely affects the rights of First USA Bank, N.A. unless a copy of each agreement, statement or court order is furnished to First USA Bank, N.A. prior to the time credit is granted, or First USA Bank, N.A. has actual knowledge of the adverse obligation. All obligations on this account will be incurred in the interest of your marriage or family. You understand that First USA Bank, N.A. may be required to give notice of this account to your spouse. (Married Wisconsin residents must furnish the name and address of their spouse to First USA at P.O. Box 15281, Wilmington, DE 19885-5281.)

Affiliate Information Sharing: First USA is a part of Bank One Corporation. First USA and our Bank One affiliates may share information about you among affiliates in order to offer products and services of interest to you. If you would rather we not share information from your application, credit bureaus or third parties, please write to us at First USA Bank, N.A., FCRA Opt-Out, P.O. Box 182793, Columbus, OH 42318-2793. Please make sure to include with your request your entire name, full address and social security number.
