Too close for comfort?

Crowded roads, impatient drivers lead to unsafe driving conditions

By JASON SCHMITT
Staff Writer

It's one of the most violated traffic laws in both Northville and Novi, but it happens to be the least cited violation.

It's "following too closely," or better known to your typical metro-Detroit driver as tailgating. A traffic law that's difficult to adhere to, police officials say tailgating is one of the most dangerous traffic violations a driver can commit.

"Tailgating is a major contributor to rear-end accidents," Northville Township director of public safety Chip Snider said. "Why people like to cluster together on the roads is beyond me."

As any local driver knows, it happens all the time, and unless there's an accident because of it, a driver isn't likely to be cited for the infraction. Snider said that's because it's difficult for officers to defend in court.

"It's somewhat subjective," Snider said of the law. "What it comes down to is the officer's word against the defendant. You're not going to see it issued very often because it's so hard to get a conviction."

Snider said in an accident situation, a driver who rear-ended another vehicle is more likely to be cited for failure to stop rather than for following too closely. The wording in the Uniform Traffic Code used by both Northville Township and Novi police departments is somewhat vague as to exactly what tailgating is.

The infraction reads: "The driver of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and

Interviews continue in Nield probe

■ Former school district employee questioned by State Police officials as investigation enters fifth month.

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A former worker in the finance department of the Northville School District was interviewed last week in connection with the Michigan State Police investigation of Northville businessman Jim Nield.

Michigan State Police Detective Donald Laymond said Cindy Cushner was one of between seven and 10 former and current employees in the finance department of the school administration building interviewed regarding the case.

Additionally, Laymond confirmed the original complaint came from a source outside of any employees in the school administration building.

"The case is still open," Laymond said. He said there still are more people to interview in regards to the investigation.

Cushner, who now works in the finance department of the city of Northville, confirmed being interviewed but didn't want to give details about what was discussed other than saying it was about the investigation.

Nield said he went to the finance office where Cushner used to work "basically twice" for business related to the Families for a Better Northville.

"I went there once to drop off the (Freedom of Information Act) request and to pick up the set of mailing labels," he said.

The investigation into Nield started in March after Ray Walsh, deputy Wayne County prosecutor and former district school board candidate, filed a complaint with the city of Northville police department. In the police report, Walsh said a concerned citizen contacted him through a letter making the allegations against Nield.

The allegations accused Nield of using school copiers, paper and labor to benefit Families for a Better Northville. The group threatened to recall Northville Township Supervisor Karen Woodside, also an assis-

Mr. Jones goes to Washington

Local teen enjoyed beltway experience

He was one of the first to read the Starr Report on President Clinton. He delivered the Censure resolution.

He knew about Jane Doe No. 5 before the Senate.

His next official task: figure out who he is going to take to prom.

At the tender age of 17, Adam Jones has accomplished more than most people do by 40. He has attended numerous leadership conferences, received countless awards for leadership and public speaking, and served as a volunteer for the likes of U.S. Senator Spencer Abraham, Governor John Engler and U.S. Representative Joe Knollenberg. In fact, it was his service for Knollenberg that earned him his position as a page in Washington for a year.

"I applied through Congressman Knollenberg and (former) Speaker (Newt) Gingrich appointed me," Jones said nonchalantly.

Jones began this once-in-a-lifetime adventure last September and wrapped it up in June. His day consisted of rising at the wee hours of morning to get to his classes by 6:45 a.m. in the Congressional Library. Then, depending on Congress' schedule, he would go to the Cloak Room at the Capitol.

The Cloak Room is where members of Congress go to relax, get voter information, and strategize.

"It was neat to hear the Speaker plotting against the Democrats," Jones said with a slight Republican gleam in his eye.

Jones' day would not end sometimes until 11:30 at night.

"It was brutal. A lot of people would fall asleep," Jones said.

He recalled one day when Gingrich came in with his entourage.

"He handed me a piece of paper and said, 'Make 20 copies of this,'" Jones said.

After Jones regained consciousness from such a request from the Speaker, he attempted to make the copies. Much to his dismay he said he couldn't operate

WTUA options concern trustees

■ Northville Township trustees seek solutions to growing water/sewer use problems.

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Officials in western metro Detroit townships don't want to waste time when it comes to flushing out a solution to a potential sewage problem.

The Western Townships Utilities Association soon will make a decision on whether or not to build its own multi-million dollar waste water treatment plant or contribute to the expansion of the plant it already uses. The decision will be based on a two-year study recently finished by WTUA.

"This certainly is one of the most important decisions concerning Northville Township within the next five to fifteen years," said Karen Woodside, Northville Township supervisor.

The problem isn't complex: the WTUA communities of Canton Township, Plymouth Township and Northville Township will produce more waste water in the future than can be handled at the Ypsilanti Treatment Plant and Detroit Treatment Plant.

One of two solutions will happen, said Tim Faas, operations manager for WTUA. The first would have the WTUA communities contribute to the expansion of the Ypsilanti plant.

The second option would have the communities build their own plant.

Either way, Northville Township residents should prepare finan-

The Northville Broncos will host teams from across the country at the NASB World Series.

Northville ready to host 17th NASB World Series

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

They must be doing something right. Why else would Northville be hosting the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series for the 17th consecutive year?

If for no other reason, than its because the Northville Bronco baseball program and its numerous volunteers go all out to provide the best accommodations and competition for the other seven teams that travel from all parts of the United States and Canada to take part in the annual event.

The tournament, which was directed by Northville's 1998 Citizen of the Year Bob Frellick the first 14 years, is now in the hands of tournament director Dave Jerome. According to Jerome, Frellick will always be the "Tournament Director Emeritus." But it is Jerome who will take the tournament into the 21st Century.

"I told Bob I would only take the job if he would come back every year. That was part of the agreement," Jerome said. "His knowledge and expertise of the game will forever be needed. He's sort of like a father, you can always take his advice."

This year's tournament will begin next Thursday (July 29), although a slew of activities will take place Wednesday evening. Tournament games will be played at both Northville High School (NHS) and Madonna University beginning at 9 and 9:30 a.m.

The World Series consists of eight teams competing in round-robin play in Youth program seeks mentors

NYA looking to recruit volunteers to help at risk youths

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

There are some who believe that everyone deserves a second chance as long as he or she makes the most of it. In Northville, that responsibility belongs to Mary Ellen King, director of Northville Youth Assistance.

In 1987, the Northville Youth Assistance program was designed as a diversion program for first-time offenders. Susie Hines began the program that has since grown into a wide array of projects open to the community.

King said the program started because many juvenile offenders were being sent to Wayne County Circuit Court. In the court, youth crimes were viewed as minor in comparison.

"They were receiving just a slap on the wrist without any real consequences," King said. "We can't help anyone who doesn't want to be helped."

However, King went on to say that all of the youths, some as young as five years old, who are willing to give the program a shot, are given every opportunity to do so.

The mission of the organization is to provide supervised volunteer and professional social services to youths and their families in order to help strengthen family life and to assist the youths to become mature, responsible adults.

King said many of the kids are referred by the courts, but more often than not they are sent to Youth Assistance by concerned parents, teachers or counselors.

"Sometimes it's simply because they have just moved here and are having trouble making friends," she said. "It's not always because they have done something wrong."

Once referred, youths are often placed into a mentoring program in which they are paired with a member of the community.

"Most people won't see the immediate gratifying results right away," King said. "But I have stories of mentoring relationships that have lasted for years."

Another program available through NYA is the Parent Network. Here, speakers address drug abuse issues, eating disorders, and every day lives of high school kids.

"It's a kind of parent support group," King said.

Many of the speakers are experienced in their subject matter. For instance, those who gave the talk about drugs were recovering addicts. There have also been talks given by current high schoolers to allay fears of the parents whose children will soon be attending high school.

"The kids who have been there set them straight," King said.

Unfortunately, the attendance numbers have been dwindling a bit since the huge turnout at the beginning of the program last year.

"We went from 65 to 35 to four parents at the last meeting," she said.

King went on to say that it is not for lack of interest in the speakers. She speculated that the reasons may be as simple as people being more busy in the summer.

"Sometimes a parent thinks that if they attend a meeting it is an admission of a problem and something they wouldn't want their neighbors to know," King said.

And because of that notion, King stressed that the Parent Network is more of a support group and information network than anything else.

Another project in the works is a school day student/teacher mentoring program. The call for mentors among teachers and counselors went across the Northville school district.

King said 11 volunteers came forth and would begin their mentor training in the fall. This program will link a student with one of the mentors in an effort to give the student a supportive influence during the school day.

"This way if a student is having a bad day they know that there is someone there that they can talk to that they can trust," King said.

For more information on Northville Youth Assistance programs, call (248) 344-1618. Office hours are from 10:00 am to 2:00 pm, Monday through Thursday. Evening appointments are available upon request.

Lisa Denhof, a member of the Northville Croquet team, takes aim during a match at Mill Race Village Sunday.

Timeless

Society members enjoy old fashioned croquet match

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

It was an unscheduled battle royale on the croquet greens at Mill Village Sunday afternoon.

The Fightin' Northville Historical society squared off against bitter (but friendly) rivals, the Saucy Salem Historical Society.

The game was heated by temperatures in the 90s. In the end of a close game, Salem's team defended its title for the second year in a row.

"It's done with a lot of fun," said Terri Denhoff, chairperson of the match. "We are looking forward to making this an annual event."

This game marks the 102nd anniversary of the first game played against Salem. Last year was the first time in more than a century that Salem and Northville had played croquet together.

"We are carrying on the tradition of the more genteel sports," Denhoff said.

The members of the respective historical societies even go so far as to wear all white in the spirit of their Victorian counterparts.

Croquet, of course, is a lawn game played with balls, mallets, wickets and two pegs. Each team has nine to 12 players, with three people playing per game.

The object is to get a team from one end of the field to the other by way of wickets that are set up throughout the course. However, the trouble begins when the other team hits the rival team's ball and not only gets another turn but has the option of sending the opponent's ball into a bad portion of the playing field. Barring the friendly fracas that this may cause, the game continues until one side has successfully moved all of their team's balls to the other side of the field.

In the end, all the side line coaching in the world couldn't save the mighty Northville Historians. It was hard to say whether it was the killer heat or the man-eating mosquitoes that finally took their toll on the team. Though they played valiantly, with none of them reportedly crying or resorting to violence, Northville lost its first two of three matches with scores of 34-27 and 32-29.

But there was hope. Denhoff said the team was already coming up with a strategy for next year.

"We plan to keep practicing and put our better team in the earlier games," Denhoff said, then kiddingly added, "If that doesn't work, we'll give the other team faulty mallets."

Northville Historical Society is a non-profit organization which maintains Mill Race Village. For more information on how to volunteer, become a member or how to put together a croquet team, please call (248) 348-1845. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Police, Fire crews ready for growth

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

As the saying goes, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

And as far as Northville Township public safety director Chip Snider is concerned, that's pretty much what the surge of development in the township means from a police and fire protection standpoint.

"We're going to have more of the same," Snider said. "I anticipate we'll be seeing an upward percentage of the type of incidents we've had in the last few years."

Those incidents haven't been particularly violent, but they have been plentiful. In a report issued before the township's board of trustees earlier this year, Snider said that the number of Part I offenses (armed robbery, arson, homicide, etc.) were on the downside.

That was the good news. The bad news was that the overall level of activity in the township was up. Snider pointed to the demolition of the Fairweather property as a key ingredient to the Part I statistics.

Now that the vacant buildings have been leveled, Snider said it was a matter of remaining focused on a strategic plan built around the township's master plan. Some 20 new building projects are slated for construction — or in many cases, already are.

Many of those projects are single-family homes. Snider said that police and fire officials tend to spend their time dealing with alarms, traffic-related matters, medical runs, vandalism and minor larcenies in subdivisions.

Newer subdivisions tended to have a larger percentage of reported incidents of trespassing and theft of building equipment, where more mature and developed subdivisions saw the lions' share of speeding problems, Snider said.

Better news yet for residents: despite the projected continued population increase for the township, Snider said the current funding level for residents would be adequate for the next several years.

"I see no risk looming in the future to increase the charges for the services public safety delivers," Snider said. "So long as there aren't any wild surprises, we'll be fine."

At least a portion of that status was dependent on staffing needs for the police department, which Snider said was nearly right on the suggested one police officer for every 1,000 residents.

Snider credited the township's board of trustees with keeping development and growth in check.

"The township is managing the growth at a decent pace," Snider said. "By developing a strategic plan that works hand-in-hand with the master plan, we can stay ahead of the game."

PURPLE PASSION
Amethyst, the birthstone for February and the most valuable crystal of the quartz family, ranges in color from pale lilac to deep purple. Its name is derived from a Greek word meaning "not intoxicated" and is supposed to help maintain sobriety. According to myth, Bacchus, the god of wine, enraged over a slight by the goddess Diana, vowed to have tigers devour the first person entering his forest. This happened to be the beautiful Amethyst on her way to worship at the shrine of Diana. As the tigers sprang, Amethyst called out to Diana for help. She was turned into pure white stone. In a repentant gesture, Bacchus poured wine over the stone to give it its purple color.

Police Reports

Man threatens to blow up Hungry Howie's

A 30-year-old man who lives in the Innsbrook Apartments threatened to blow up Hungry Howie's because he wasn't treated right.

The incident happened July 16 at about 3 p.m.

According to a Northville Police report, an argument took place between a worker and the customer on the telephone concerning delivery and coupons. The worker ended up hanging up on the customer.

The customer later called back and said "How about I bomb you?" the report said.

Hungry Howie's had the number of caller identification and it was traced to the Innsbrook address whereby the man admitted to the threat and his house was searched for explosives.

Dearborn teens arrested for OUIL

Two Dearborn Heights teens were arrested for underage consumption of alcohol while driving home.

The incident happened July 16 at about 1 a.m.

According to a Northville Police report, the car was stopped for having its right front headlight out. Police detected a strong odor of intoxicants and noticed the 19-year-old driver had glassy eyes and had trouble finding his driver's registration despite it being on top of a pile of papers he was holding.

He was given a series of sobriety tests and had difficulty completing them including a preliminary breath test of which he blew a 0.10. In Michigan, 0.10 is considered intoxicated. He was arrested for operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Additionally, the 18-year-old passenger in the vehicle was arrested for underage consumption when he blew a 0.099 preliminary breath test. Both were held pending sobering and posting of a $100 bond.

Parent awareness committee to distribute awareness book

By MELANIE PLEND
Staff Writer

It was easy, some parents might say, to tell their kids when they were younger not to touch the stove when it was on, to look both ways when crossing the street, or not to talk to strangers.

Now they're using the stove, driving on the street, and in many ways are the are the strangers.

Adolescence is a difficult time for everyone involved, but this fall a parent handbook will be sent out to parents in the district in hopes of easing this turbulent time.

Presented by the Northville PTA Parent Awareness Committee, the booklet will be sent to parents with their annual school-start packets in August. The booklets have been designed to give helpful hints on how to effectively deal with problems such as drug and alcohol abuse, curfews and talking with teens. It offers possible dialogue suggestions to help facilitate communication with teens and it also describes early warning signs of drug use.

Mary Jo Hare, president of the PTA and co-producer of the handbook said that the project began mainly out of the concerns of one parent, Val Corben. Corben raised the issue of having a parent handbook in order to inform parents of the dangers their kids face these days and as a way of creating a parent support network. She then did the research and, Hare said, "Really pushed the project forward."

The handbook is composed of several tips on teen and preteen behavior and how to manage it.

"As you have teens and you see their friends, you start becoming more aware of the risks and concerns that you have for your own child. We all sort of have these same concerns community-wide."

Mary Jo Hare
Northville parent

Much of the information was garnered from brochures, the local sheriff's department, and first-hand experience from the parents putting it together.

Hare pointed out that the handbook was approved based on concerns of parents throughout the community.

"As you have teens and you see their friends, you start becoming more aware of the risks and concerns that you have for your own child," she said. "We all sort of have these same concerns community-wide."

The handbook was adapted from a similar one designed by the self designated national headquarters for the SafeHomes program in New York City. The SafeHomes handbook has been duplicated in 26 states and locally in the Troy Public School district, Plymouth-Canton, Birmingham, and Bloomfield Hills school districts are also set to employ the book and attached SafeHomes pledge in the Fall. Plymouth-Canton tried the project in the middle of last school year, with little success.

Contained in the packet of information is a SafeHomes pledge. The document is a non-legally binding contract. By signing this pledge, parents are showing their intention of keeping their kids and other youngsters who come into their home drug and alcohol free.

Hare also said the pledge is very different from others that have been used locally.

"We were put off by the strong language of the other documents," she said. "We felt it needed to be more invitational."

After signing, the SafeHomes registry will be compiled and distributed in order for parents to have the names and numbers of the other parents who share these views.

"Parents really need to feel more comfortable reaching out to other parents," Hare said. She also said that the parent-teacher association hopes to quell parents fears that they are the only ones dealing with such issues.

"We want to increase parent networking and education," Hare said.

Beginning in autumn, there will be follow-up meetings in the evening in an effort to gauge the success of the project, she said.

"As parents we realize you can't be there 24 hours a day, you don't always know what your little urchins are up to," Hare said jokingly. "This is a pledge of intent to do the best you can."

Township trustees approve new park land master plans

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The acquisition of 235 acres of land by Northville Township during the last two years might as well be 235 square feet.

After all, without a plan of what to do with land acquired it doesn't matter how much land township officials acquire.

But township and Northville Parks and Recreation department officials have taken steps to begin planning for the property.

The township board of trustees approved $10,000 for two master plans - one for the Clarke Property and one for 60 acres acquired last week.

The master plans will present three alternatives for each parcel of land and narrow it down to one recommendation. The master plans will be conducted by the township planning consultant The Strader Group Inc.

Karen Woodside, Northville Township supervisor, said the master plan follows the purchase of land for a very specific reason.

"If we don't buy this land now, it's not going to be there very long," Woodside said.

The township closed July 14 on about 60 acres of land known as the Phoenix property on Five Mile Road west of Beck and Scott Correctional Facility for $1.37 million. The acquisition will expand Community Park.

The township bought the land for about $22,000 an acre.

The property acquisition is one in a line of property acquired by the township to be used for recreation.

Other recent acquisitions include the purchase of 15 acres at the northeast corner of Five Mile Road and Sheldon Road and the Clarke property of 56 acres on the northeast corner of Six Mile Road and Napier Road.

Land acquisitions have partially been funded by a four-year 0.75-mill levy voters approved last year. Other organizations and businesses have donated money to help offset the costs.

Woodside said a study in the Northville Parks and Recreation Master Plan completed Dec. 2, 1996 indicated a need for an additional 107 acres in the township.

Additionally, she said one of her goals and platforms in running for supervisor was to try and get the land.

And there is a rush to acquire, she said.

"We are competing with developers for land in our township," she said.

Woodside said she doesn't like the fact the township is forced to compete with developers who come to the township with plans to build houses and condominium units.

Woodside said if the land isn't purchased now though, developers would try to put buildings on as much of the township as possible.

"We don't want every single piece of land here developed," she said. "That's the beauty of having a township."

Man arrested for 12th OUIL offense

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A Westland man is being held on a $50,000 bond after being arrested in Northville Township for his twelfth drunken driving offense.

Richard Refitt, 40, Westland, was arraigned July 13 and faces fines of $500 to $5,000 and/or one to five years in jail, along with possible revocation of his license and forfeiture of his vehicle and probation.

According to a Northville Township police report, Refitt was arrested July 13 at about 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of Haggerty Road and Five Mile Road.

Northville Township Police said in the report they saw the man drive his car over the center lane two times and stopped him. Refitt then told police he didn't have his license but he did have a strong odor of intoxicants and glassy eyes, the report said.

He told police he had four beers that night and he was on his way to Westland.

Due to the strong odor of intoxicants, glassy eyes and slurred speech, the man was given a number of field sobriety tasks which he had difficulty completing, the report said.

Among the tests was a preliminary breath test of which Refitt blew a 0.127. In Michigan, 0.10 is considered intoxicated.

Additionally, a Secretary of State background check of the man revealed the Northville Township stop was his third of operating a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor since Jan. 21, 1992. Before that he'd been arrested eight times for the same charge since 1980.

He also had four criminal bench warrants for his arrest including three failure to appear in court charges and one for probation violation. In addition, his license had been revoked until 2015.

The man will be in court Aug. 2.

Gov. Engler signs new state Single Business Tax into law

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service

Once it counted as "reform," but today lawmakers are reforming the Single Business Tax.

Criticized back in the '70s for the hurried manner in which it was adopted — in one of the Legislature's famed late night sessions — the Single Business Tax is now slated to be phased out over the next 23 years.

And detractors are criticizing the "fast track" manner in which that decision was made.

Gov. John Engler signed three bills Wednesday, July 14, which would phase out the SBT and adjust sales and use taxes in a special ceremony at a small business in Southfield, Vettestorations, a family owned business specializing in the restoration of vintage Corvettes, hosted the event.

Getting much of the credit from Gov. Engler were the sponsors of the bills, State Rep. Nancy Cassis, R-Novl, and Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton.

"As we all know, when the cost of doing business is higher than it should be, it's the consumers who end up paying the bill," Engler said. "This phase-out is another important step to the long-term strength of Michigan's economy. By phasing out the SBT, we are removing the last significant business barrier and positioning Michigan for an even brighter future."

"Talk about turbo-charging our economy: eliminating the SBT puts Michigan on the fast track to more jobs and continued prosperity," Cassis said of the measure at the signing ceremony. "Everyone, from families to family owned businesses, will enjoy the ride ... We're getting rid of one of the most onerous, anti-competitive taxes in Michigan."

And just when opponents of the phase out were claiming that it would benefit only a minority of companies and provide minimal relief, Cassis said the owners of Vettestorations announced that the phase out will allow them to hire one additional employee. That's one additional family with a salary and benefits, Cassis said.

House Bill 4745, the first of those signed, will drop the SBT by 0.1 percent each year, starting with Jan. 1 of this year, until it is phased out in the next 22 years. The bill contains wording that will suspend the phase out should Michigan's economy dip and the state's "rainy day fund" be depleted.

It also amends the SBT, until it is phased out, to treat all companies doing business here the same. Previously, foreign firms weren't taxed.

House Bill 4744 and Senate Bill 544, Rogers' bill, mainly make technical adjustment to sales and use taxes needed as a result of the SBT phase out and making collections more fair. Among the changes was exempting all "rolling stock" from sales tax collection.

Ben Kohrman, Deputy Director of Media Relations for the House Democratic caucus, said his party has four main concerns with the SBT repeal plan.

For one, Democrats don't believe the measure will provide real tax relief. Only about a third of Michigan businesses pay Single Business Taxes, due to the exemptions that have been placed on the tax. Most of those are larger corporations.

Indeed, Public Sector Consultants confirms that about 75 percent of SBT revenue comes from roughly 5 percent of companies in the state, the largest 5 percent of corporations.

Under the phase out, some firms will pay even more single business taxes until it is eventually eliminated, Kohrman said.

Democrats also argue that if, as Engler contends, the state's economy is competitive and growing, then elimination of the tax isn't needed.

"I thought we already were competitive," Kohrman said.

Corporate profits are up in Michigan. In fact, Kohrman argues, they are reaching record levels. Personal and family incomes are stagnant however, he argues. So any tax relief provided by the state should have come from personal income taxes, he argues.

Cassis argues the state has already dropped the income tax once this year, from 4.4 percent to 3.9 percent.

Finally, Democrats say an error in the wording of the bills would have applied the SBT to Canadian firms for business done elsewhere as well as business done in Michigan. With some $83 billion in trade with Canada, it would be a mistake for Michigan to "start a trade war with Canada," Kohrman said.

Republicans agree there was an error, but argue the verbiage was fixed in the state Senate during passage so that Canadian firms will only paid taxes on business done here.

"I'm not convinced. How wording is intended and how it actually works when applied to an individual's or a company's taxes aren't always the same thing. We'll see when this is put in effect how it really works," Kohrman said.

"And that is the problem, really, with fast tracking the process. Had the Canadians not been on the ball, this might have been enacted. It still could have a number of unintended consequences."

The SBT took effect in 1976 as a replacement for seven business taxes. The SBT returned the state to a value-added tax form of business taxation, which was used from 1953 to 1967 in the form of a business activity tax. Corporate income taxes, used from 1967 to 1976, proved unsatisfactory to the state because of instability in producing revenues due to severe cyclical fluctuations in the economy.

Nield probe continues tant Wayne County Prosecutor, along with several trustees if a lawsuit filed against Northville Public Schools related to the construction of the new high school wasn't dropped. Nield said the group later focused on helping facilitate a settlement agreement between the school district and township.

Nield paid for a mailing directed at 23,000 district residents to raise support at a community rally March 18, a regular township board of trustees meeting.

Walsh told The Record that he received a letter that questioned Nield's use of district equipment and that he passed it on to Northville Police. Northville Police Chief Jim Petres and State Police Detective Tim Heideman told the Record they didn't remember seeing the letter. And the Wayne County Prosecutor's office also has told The Record the letter was either missing or may not have even existed after saying some form of written complaint would be required for such an investigation to be pursued.

Petres said he passed the investigation on to Michigan State Police to avoid showing any kind of impropriety.

The investigation by Heideman, the original officer in the case, included a visit to Nield's home where he was asked to produce receipts for all materials bought relative to the Families for a Better Northville.

Additionally, Leonard Rezmierski, superintendent of Northville Schools, and Thomas Gudritz, president of the Northville School board, were interviewed in the investigation.

Laymond told The Record July 15 that the investigation will be completed "hopefully" within a month.

Tailgating makes for unsafe roadways

prudent considering the speed of such vehicle and the traffic on, and the condition of, the street.

To each officer, what is reasonable and prudent may differ. Lieutenant Tim McNamara of the Novi City Police Department said he has a two-second rule of thumb in normal driving conditions.

"If people are worried about tailgating another vehicle, find an inanimate object along the roadside and begin counting when you see the car in front of you pass it," he said. "If two seconds pass before you reach the object, you should be fine. In poor weather conditions, up the time to four seconds."

Snider said that although there's no clear-cut rule of thumb to tailgating, he allows one car length of distance for every 10 miles per hour that your vehicle is traveling, under dry conditions. "Now I know that's not always practical, just go out to I-275 at 5 p.m. and see if that happens," Snider said.

Both McNamara and Snider agreed that they haven't seen an increase in the number of problems because of the current construction throughout Northville and Novi.

"A lot of people like to blame it on the construction, but it hasn't made it any worse," McNamara said. "You mainly see it at the rush hours in the morning and afternoon. We are all in a hurry these days and people always have something on their plates."

"How many people do you see driving around with car phones?"

McNamara said tailgating can sometimes lead to a bigger problem, road rage.

"It's irritating. It drives you crazy," he said. "If you see someone come right up on you and get right on your bumper, just move aside. You have to allow a safe distance between you and the next car, especially at the busy times of the day."

Following too closely is a misdemeanor punishable with a fine of up to $80 and two points. But it's the possible cost of repairs to a damaged bumper or front end which should leave people worrying.

Doug Lyon, co-owner of C. Harold Bloom Insurance Agency in downtown Northville, said the average claim for a rear-end accident is $1,400. Those claims range anywhere from $800-$5,000, and they are continually on the rise.

"We've always planned ahead and made our own choices. That's why we pre-planned our final arrangements."

The wisdom of pre-planning.

Leaving decisions about your final arrangements to your family forces them to make hard choices at a time of extreme distress. Planning now lets you make choices you're comfortable with, and protects your family from needless burdens. Pre-planning is also the wise financial choice. Discovery Channel opens store at mall

By MELANIE PLEND
Staff Writer

Nestled in between the wonderful world of the Disney Store and a store space yet to be filled is the brand new Discovery Channel Store, which opened June 3 at Twelve Oaks Mall.

To say this store has a variety of items would be an understatement. Here a visitor is likely to find secret treasures of the deep on video, or he or she can relive memories of the World War II-era with commemorative plaques or an authentic bomber jacket.

A customer can even bring home a new friend, if a life-sized skeleton is more his or her speed. With a motto like "explore your world," anything is likely to pop up as a purchase.

Though the Discovery Channel store is a fresh addition to Twelve Oaks, it is not a new concept. In May of 1996, Discovery Communications Inc. bought the Nature Company, which had been established to enhance the public's appreciation for the natural world. Since then more than 100 stores have been created. 52 of them with the Discovery Channel concept. The company hopes to reach their goal of 300 stores by the end of next year.

There is also talk of more new stores coming to the Detroit area, according to store manager Doug Penick.

"The vice-president of our company is from this area and believes that the market can support at least 6 stores," Penick said.

Though Penick was not at liberty to discuss the store's volume, he did say that the company had been doing "very well."

"It is hard to say after being open only a month, but we are doing really well," Penick said.

There are several popular picks in this store, but Penick pointed out that their Feng Shui merchandise is a big seller. Feng Shui is the Chinese art of perfect placement of objects and colors to create a more harmonious environment.

"We had a customer who tried it for fun and really enjoyed it and recommended it to other people," Assistant Manager Anderson Johns said.

Penick attributed the sudden rise in sales for the product with the "overall interest with anything Eastern."

The Discovery Channel Store is also playing host in August to local stargazers at Kensington Metropark. Here members of astronomy clubs and the general public are encouraged to come out with their telescopes.

(The store) has a little of everything and it's exciting and reflects the programming," Penick said.

Johns concurred. "It is an interactive explorative experience for customers of all ages," Johns said.

Jones enjoyed beltway experience

the copy machine.

Though Jones did not reveal how he did, it said that Gingrich did get his copies.

All kidding aside, Jones was witness to many of the tumultuous — albeit historical — events of last year.

"The impeachment was a big issue that separated the parties," Jones said, adding that it was a moral issue for him, personally. "When you lie to your nation and lie to your people, that's got to hold some weight. I felt that it was very good that (President Clinton) was impeached."

Though he said that it is now taboo to speak of the impeachment in and among the Congress, while it was going on, there was plenty of talk to which he was privy. With his job in the Cloak Room, there were several occasions when he heard the phrase, "I can't say any more information." However, very often members of Congress did say more.

There were some things that Jones could not comment on but he did say that he was told about key evidence in the impeachment trial.

"Jane Doe No. 5 was a big Republican secret and the pages in the Cloak Room knew about it before everyone," Jones said.

Doe No. 5 was the witness who claimed that the President had raped her several years earlier.

Furthermore, Jones was wise to the fact that their were several members of Congress that did not approve of President Clinton's choice to bomb Iraq. According to Jones, much of Congress thought it was a ploy to divert attention from the impeachment proceedings.

"Congress was upset (Clinton) was doing this and Trent Lott came out and said 'Well, it's kind of suspicious.'"

Overall, Jones said he was impressed with the proceedings.

"The House did a great job," Jones said, adding that he believed the Senate should have voted to convict Clinton on the impeachment articles.

"There were very cogent arguments in the House and I don't think people realize that he was a bad person for what he did," he said.

There was similar dissent in the Congress when the news of Kosovo broke, Jones said. Jones said he was in charge of carrying the war resolution to the House. He said that after the vote came back in a tie there was chaos on the floor.

"Members started yelling and throwing things," Jones said. "The chair had an interesting time calming them down."

For his part Jones smiled and said, "I was just back there laughing."

For all his intelligence and charm beyond his years, Jones is still a kid. He delighted in the fact that when he and several other pages were invited to the NATO 50th anniversary ceremony he managed to come away with British Prime Minister Tony Blair's name tag and program.

And then there was the time a Congressional resolution was not signed and thus was deemed invalid and thrown away. Jones fished through the trash to find it.

"It's a piece of history," he said with a grin in his defense.

For now, Jones' political aspirations are on hold for a year. This fall he will be a senior at Northville High School and his goal is to simply "live through senior year." His biggest hurdle, he said, will be, "not being able to go where I want to for lunch."

Though he must set aside his year in the hallowed halls of Congress for the hallowed halls of NHS he does have very definite plans for a political future.

"I'd love to be in politics somewhere. Being in Washington celebrated that for me," he said.

The selling point in politics for him came from hearing the members of Congress debate.

"These guys can say just a few words and effect the lives of millions of people drastically," Jones said.

He said he plans to have a sort of family values platform that was influenced by the tragedy at Columbine High School.

"These are hollow people. Because they don't eat dinner with their family, because parents don't know their kids, and I think that's what we need to focus on before we can effectively start a gun debate," Jones said.

As far as his dreams of running for president in the future, he chuckled.

"The presidency is really a pipe dream for me," he said.

He did, however, mention what he believes a President should be.

"We need a President who can speak to us about idealism and speak to us about ethics and we won't laugh about it," Jones said.

It is this idealism that Jones said he believes is necessary to be successful in politics.

Jones also mentioned the lost Prince of the Kennedy family, John F. Kennedy, Jr.

"He would have made a great idealistic president. He was a normal guy and an idealist," Jones said.

He went on to say that Kennedy's idealism helped create "the great romance Americans have with the Kennedys."

He pointed out the lost potential with so many members of the Kennedy family dying before their time and that JFK, Jr. was a reminder of what could have been had it been allowed to blossom.

"You can't lose the idealism because that's what keeps you going," Jones said. "The idealism and the ignorance."

Township trustees study WTUA plan

cially to pay for the increased need of sewer capacity.

"No matter what ... people are going to see significant increases in sewerage rates in the next five years," Faas said. "It's unavoidable."

The WTUA communities produce about 17 million gallons of sewage daily with about half going to the Ypsilanti plant and the other half going to the Detroit treatment plant.

The amount of sewage produced annually increases by about 400,000 gallons daily each year, Faas said.

That means in between five and seven years both facilities would be handling their maximum capacity from WTUA.

"It takes about five to seven years to come up with additional capacity," Faas said.

For WTUA to build its own plant, the price would be about $124 million. To contribute to the expansion of the Ypsilanti plant, the cost would be about $142 million.

Operation and maintenance costs for WTUA to build its own plant would be $9.1 million annually. To expand Ypsilanti, would cost $10 million annually.

The expansion or new facility will be paid for with bond issues.

Faas said he hopes WTUA can make a decision as soon as this summer about if a plant will be built or if they will contribute to the Ypsilanti plant.

He said three goals have been set that the decision should follow: to protect and further enhance the Rouge River watershed; provide waste water services for existing and future needs of the townships; to have reasonable degree of certainty about the long-term costs of waste water disposal.

Both options meet the first two goals, Faas said.

The major difference between building its own plant and contributing to WTUA though, has to do most with who holds the most power.

A new plant would be governed by members of WTUA. But there would be no representation from WTUA members in the expanded plant even if they were to contribute $142 million as there never has been.

"They've told us the way the agreement reads today is the way it would read after an expansion," Faas told the Northville Township board of trustees.

That means officials - and the residents they represent - have no say in rate hikes as was with the recent case where the board of the Ypsilanti Treatment Plant decided to change the way it treated waste water resulting in higher costs to residents.

"It's getting to the point where we account for almost 50 percent of the waste water but don't have any control on what happens," Woodside said.

The rule was part of the agreement signed between WTUA and the Ypsilanti Plant in 1986. The North Huron Valley project proposed in 1986 by Wayne County at a cost of $68 million to the three townships would not have added any capacity to the communities thus they decided to acquire additional capacity at Ypsilanti. The agreement expires 2011.

However, the three townships already are at 80 percent of their capacity at Ypsilanti, Faas said, and all parties, including officials at the Ypsilanti plant, agree something needs to be done.

That's why alternatives are being looked at now, Woodside said.

"They (Ypsilanti Treatment Plant) can come to us and say 'We're going to double our plant in size' and we only have 90 days to respond," she said.

After that, the WTUA communities would have two years to get out of the Ypsilanti plant.

Each board of the WTUA will hold public meetings regarding the issue and a unanimous decision will be made as to which route will be taken, Woodside said.

"The sooner we can make a decision the better," Faas said. "Because each day we're closer to running out of capacity."

Northville to play host to NASB World Series tourney two separate divisions. The two teams with the best records in each division will advance to play in the semifinals, which will be begin July 31 at 9 a.m. and noon at Northville High School. The championship game will begin at 4 p.m., also at NHS.

Aside from the host Broncos, who automatically earn a spot in the Series, seven other teams qualified from various regional sites in North America. Only one regional, out of Spokane, has yet to determine a representative.

The other six regionals will hold their tournaments this weekend.

Playing in Northville's Group B will be winners from the Welland, Ontario, Baltimore and Daytona Beach regionals. Group A will consist of regional winners out of Memphis, Tenn., Troy, Ohio, Hopkinsville, Ky., and Spokane, Wash.

"This is baseball's version of college basketball's March Madness," Jerome said. "You don't apply to get into the tournament, you have to win to get here. These are all good ball teams coming in here."

City of Toronto announces results of Expression of Interest and invites public comment on next steps

The City of Toronto's Integrated Solid Waste Resource Management Process (TIRM) offers business opportunities in three categories: "proven diversion" (50% or better by 2006), "proven disposal" & "new and emerging and innovative technologies" to meet the city's solid waste resource management needs:

The City of Toronto has identified Browning-Ferris Industries Ltd. (BFI), as one of seven firms, qualified through an 'expressions of interest' process, to submit responses to the Request for Proposals stage of the disposal component.

This submission may involve truck haulage and disposal of municipal solid waste at an existing landfill, Arbor Hills Landfill Site, located in Northville, Michigan.

From July 14 - August 27, 1999, members of the public living in the vicinity of the proposed facility are invited to provide comment on evaluation criteria for Toronto's Request for Proposals. To receive a copy of the draft evaluation criteria, contact:

OPINION

We believe WTUA should build wastewater facility

When it comes to major government decisions, every vote counts for something.

That is, when you actually have a vote.

Take for instance, the Western Township Utilities Association lack of a vote at the Ypsilanti Wastewater Treatment Plant, Northville Township, Plymouth Township and Canton Township send about 9 million gallons of waste to the plant every day.

Yet no one from our area sits on the board that makes decisions on such things as what kind of new equipment will be installed or how much you will be charged for using the services.

In essence, going to the booth to elect an official to represent you is a waste of time in this case because the official can't have any say in what happens.

But an opportunity is presenting itself that allows that to change.

WTUA recently did a two-year study to see whether or not it should build a new plant at a cost of about $124 million or contribute to the expansion of the Ypsilanti plant at a cost of $142 million. The change is needed to accommodate an anticipated increase in waste production from the three townships.

Tim Faas, chief of operations at WTUA, said one of the two options will take place no matter what. The public will have opportunities to address the Northville board of trustees in upcoming months to voice their opinions on which option they like best.

We believe WTUA should build its own sewage treatment facility.

The reasons are threefold and plainly spelled out in WTUA's latest Business Plan Update:

1. The new plant would protect and further enhance the Rouge River watershed.

2. The new plant would provide waste water services for both the existing and future needs of the member townships.

3. The new plant would allow elected representatives and others actually from the area would exercise a degree of certainty about the long-term costs of waste water disposal.

It's the last point that makes building our own waste water treatment plant so attractive.

Faas told the Northville Township board of trustees the Ypsilanti board does not plan to change the structure of the board and give WTUA any more representation.

That's unacceptable.

Do you really want to be part of an organization that spends millions of dollars on a new plant that serves other growing, yet relatively far-off, communities such as Pittsfield Township or Ypsilanti Township, yet has no say in basic operations or rate increases?

More importantly do you want your votes for elected officials to be meaningless?

We applaud committee for designing parent book

Finally, a useful tool for parents to use in the ongoing battle against teen drug and alcohol abuse.

That tool comes in the form of a booklet that will be sent to parents with their annual school-start packets next month, and is the brainchild of the Northville PTA Parent Awareness Committee.

Now we're not saying that this booklet, which is designed to give helpful hints on how parents can effectively deal with those alcohol and drug problems, will be the end all as far as parenting teens is concerned, but we're optimistic that it's a big step in the right direction.

And here's why. Simply put, the booklet is designed to offer possible dialogue suggestions and to better the communication between teen and parent. We've said all along that the main ingredient missing in our communities anti-drug and alcohol efforts has been more parental involvement. That's exactly what the booklet encourages, and it give parents tips on how to get more involved in the lives of their children.

The handbook was adapted from the program run by SafeHomes in New York City. That handbook has been duplicated in 26 states and is in use locally in nearby Plymouth-Canton, as well as the Troy, Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills school districts. The approach is one that is working in numerous communities and seems to have a great track record.

The bottom line is this. Anything that can help parents understand and communicate better with their children is a benefit. We applaud the PTA Parent Awareness Committee for taking up this important cause, and we hope parents will take advantage of this tool, and others like it.

Taking the time to smell the...flowers?

Let's talk about flowers for a minute. Or in the case of downtown Northville, the lack of flowers.

It has probably become painfully apparent to most, as they stroll down our lovely downtown streets, that the large planters, which usually contain colorful flowers, are nowhere to be found.

Well, there's a reason for that. The city council, by recommendation of the Northville Downtown Development Authority, decided earlier this year to replace the aging planters with floral containers made of sturdier materials and designed to last longer than the preceding containers.

Good idea. I've always been one for improving the way our downtown looks because, let's face it — downtown Northville is the showcase for our entire community. Visitors love to come here for its Victorian-like charm and quaintness.

So magnetic is the appeal for downtown Northville that neighboring cities like Plymouth and Novi have spent millions attempting to duplicate the look.

No, I have absolutely no problems with the DDA and council deciding to bring in new flower containers, but I do have this nit-picky little question to ask — where are the containers, and more importantly, where are the flowers?

Now, I might seem to be a bit on the dense side — there are dozens of people in our community who would readily tell you that I'm missing a few brain cells — but when, exactly, are we planning on using these containers? In the fall, perhaps?

Heck, we're already half-way through summer, and downtown sidewalks are looking kind of drab. We're used to the vibrant colors, brought on by flowers that are usually planted in April.

In case you're counting, that was close to four months ago.

And before you begin to wonder as to whether I've really lost my senses here, let me segue into a somewhat related topic — that attractive new traffic island constructed in the middle of Center Street, near Shopping Center Market.

It seems that a few residents petitioned the city council to allow for the island's construction to allow for a more "residential" look. The council agreed and the island was included in the street's renovation.

Public Works director Jim Gallogly told me that the island could help slow traffic down as it approaches the downtown area.

"There are traffic engineers that say the (traffic) islands have a calming effect and suggests to the motorist to slow down," he told me.

Again, I think that's a good idea. But it got me thinking...what is the city going to put in the middle of that island?

According to Gallogly, the plan is to put in grass, a few bushes and, you guessed it, FLOWERS.

Is it me, or does anyone else see the irony there?

Blues guitar

Mem Shannon, center, heated up the Novi Blues Festival last weekend with some New Orleans style Blues.

I'm back to where I started from

And who knows? Someday I may be back. After coming back to Novi once, I'll never say never."

Such were the words that appeared in my Novi News goodbye column for July 30, 1999. I wrote to tell the community I grew up in and reported about for the last three years that I was moving to another newspaper. I had many people to thank and felt I would really miss the friends I'd made.

Looking back, I must have had a sixth sense when I penned those words because here I am, back in Novi and Northville all over again.

It's been a long road since I left the newspapers a year ago for an editor's position at a new HomeTown newspaper in Pinckney. Shortly after putting down roots west of M-23 I found out I was pregnant. A few months later I found out I was having twins!

In December, though, my husband and I were given bad news. I had a rare complication called Twin to Twin Transfusion Syndrome. My identical boys were sharing a circulatory system, causing one twin to receive too much blood and nourishment and the other to be deficient.

Wendy Pierman Mitzel

In many cases, one or both of the twins can die.

I was placed on immediate bed rest at home, then checked into the hospital for three weeks. At 31 weeks gestation, we opted to bring the boys into the world early via a scheduled Caesarean section. The boys remained in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit for months before coming home.

I received cards and well wishes from several people in Novi and know that many others were aware of our ordeal and were thinking of us. It gave our spirits a boost. And thanks to all the prayers and good thoughts Cooper and Maxwell are healthy and wonderful and truly special.

Still, after only a few months of changing diapers and wiping spit-up off my clothes, I decided I needed something to get me out of the house now and then. Lucky for me, HomeTown is a great company and editors Jan Jeffres and Bob Jackson are good people. A deal was made and here I am back in the proverbial saddle again. I'll be working part-time as a special projects coordinator.

I can't wait to get back into the two communities. I grew up in Novi and with relatives in Northville felt an attachment there also. There's just something about returning to a place where you know the history. It's kinda comfy.

It will give me a chance to explore new stories and the lists and lists of stories that I wanted to cover but never got around to. Let me just say there is no shortage of ideas around here.

So if you think you might have an interesting story (and everybody does) please give me a call. You now know where to find me.

Wendy Pierman Mitzel is now special projects coordinator for The Novi News and Northville Record.

Economic changes are for the better

A quick glance at the recent headlines suggests something big is happening in Michigan's economy.

- "High-tech firms find cash they need in Ann Arbor"
- "Property values skyrocket, led by Livingston County"
- "State's low unemployment rate sets new record"

Although I'm not one of those who trumpet that the business cycle has been repeated, I do sense that a basic paradigm shift in the functioning of our economy has taken place over the past 20 years or so. Three factors in particular deserve attention: venture capital, the stock market (stock options in particular) and high technology.

In the old days, the way you started a business was to go into debt. You mortgaged your house or you took the receivables from your little company to your local flint-eyed banker. And you hoped the resulting interest payments didn't kill your company.

Today, you take your business plan to a venture capital firm, where equally flint-eyed folks poke and prod at every detail before deciding whether to invest. And you hope they don't take too big a chunk of your equity.

The shift from bank debt to equity investment as the basis for financing companies is fundamental. Banks, prohibited since 1933 from making equity investments and therefore concerned primarily with getting their loans paid off, had no particular incentive to support your company through hard times. But venture capital firms take a percentage of your stock, hoping to make a big score when you go public, which means they have an incentive to work with you through thick and thin.

And today there are a lot more venture firms with a lot more capital to invest than even a few years ago. According to PricewaterhouseCoopers, the big accounting firm, $11.4 million in venture capital was invested in Michigan in 1996, $65.2 million in 1997 and $114.5 million in 1998.

Linked to changes in the capital basis for firms is the amazing stock market. It isn't just the that the market is at an all-time high. It's that you can cash in on the success of your little company by going public in a buoyant market, which also gives the venture capital firm a way to make its score and thereby justify the risk of its original investment.

Moreover, most newly formed companies today attract and retain skilled managers, engineers and computer jockeys not by paying big salaries but by granting stock options. In granting key employees the right to make a big killing if the stock price goes up, companies not only retain key people but create an enormously effective incentive system to motivate long hours and high output.

Certainly, stock options existed 20 years ago, but they were very limited in extent and offered nowhere near the opportunity of becoming an instant multi-millionaire they do today.

Unlike venture capital and stock options, new technology has always been the basis for successful firms. Water power and, later, gas and electricity formed the technological basis for the prosperity that accompanied the Industrial Revolution in the 18th and 19th centuries. The gasoline-fueled internal combustion engine and mass standardized manufacturing were the core technologies behind Michigan's automobile industry. Both were developed just after the turn of the century.

What's different today is that the technological leaps are far more numerous than in the past, in large part because they are the product of a far more conscious process of research, invention and development that is quite new. Scientists in university or government laboratories today understand that one important consequence of discoveries is the possibility that they can be turned into commercial successes.

This is quite new. Policy at the University of Michigan, for instance, used to be that the University owned the rights to any inventions dreamed up in its labs. But the U-M changed the policy five years ago so that scientists could claim a stake in their inventions, and it's likely the big venture capital boom in Ann Arbor is rooted in the change. Whether it's information technology or software or microscopic sensing or bioengineering, labs in Michigan are providing the technological underpinnings for all kinds of new companies.

I wouldn't argue all this prosperity will last forever. But I do think the we are witnessing today the outcome of fundamental changes in the way our economy works. And at least for the present, we are all the better for it.

'Payne's prescription' not without some risk

To the editor:
Re: Payne's Prescription, July 8 Northville Record. "Dr. Atkins New Diet Revolution."

The article that appeared in your publication implies that the above referenced diet is a safe and effective method of losing weight. As a registered dietitian and nutrition educator, I have a responsibility to provide balance to fad diet du jour articles that tend to gloss over the downside and side effects of some eating plans. Participants may unwittingly subject themselves to unnecessary health risks by following a diet that is nutritionally unsound.

Although an eating plan that promotes eggs, bacon and cheeseburgers for weight loss may look attractive to some people, the health risks involved with following a high protein, low carbohydrate plan should be strongly considered.

Dr. Atkins' plan is actually a low-calorie diet in disguise. Although he doesn't specify quantities, there's not much food in the weight-loss phase of the diet. Cut calories and you lose weight—that's no surprise.

Another reason for the weight loss, at least initially, is due to a loss of body fluid. A high protein diet, low carbohydrate diet encourages the body to dehydrate itself. This loss of fluid is mistakenly interpreted as a loss of body fat. That's why people who supposedly "splurge" and add a baked potato to their high protein diet gain a pound or two. They're gaining back water because carbohydrates hold water in the body.

Your body will begin to burn fat on Dr. Atkins regimen. However, the body can't burn that fat efficiently without the carbohydrates that bread, potatoes, pasta and other starches provide. As a result, the body produces compounds called ketones that accumulate in the blood.

At first, this condition, known as ketosis, may make dieting easier because it often kills the appetite and even causes nausea. However, ketones cause fatigue, weakness, headache, irritability, bad breath, lightheadedness, dehydration and kidney trouble. Such ketogenic diets are especially dangerous for the elderly, those with untreated diabetes and those susceptible to kidney stones and gout. In fact, another high protein, low carbohydrate diet book called "Protein Power" lists several unpleasant side effects from following their high-protein plan, including dizziness, diarrhea, insomnia, fatigue and aching legs.

People who eat lots of animal protein and little carbohydrate tend to have diets low in antioxidants, fiber and phytochemicals. Antioxidant nutrients like vitamin C (found in citrus fruits and juices, broccoli and strawberries) and beta carotene (found in carrots, sweet potatoes and cantaloupe), fiber (found in fruits, vegetables and whole grains), and phytochemicals like lycopene (found in tomatoes, watermelon and red peppers) may be protective against heart disease and cancer.

Folic acid is another nutrient typically lacking on a high protein, low carbohydrate eating plan. Women of childbearing age need a healthy supply of folic acid to decrease the risk of infants being born with brain and spinal cord birth defects like spina bifida. Folic acid is helpful in reducing homocysteine levels (a marker for increased risk of heart disease) in the blood. Folic acid may also provide protection against colorectal cancer.

How much protein do we need each day? Generally speaking, women need about 45 to 50 grams of protein a day and men need about 60 to 65 grams a day. A 3 1/2 ounce hamburger patty has about 28 grams of protein, a half cup of cottage cheese has 14 grams, one cup of milk has 8 grams, an egg has 6 grams, a slice of bread has about 2 grams, and a half-cup of broccoli has about 1 gram.

The question to ask yourself is not whether you can lose weight on such a diet, but whether you can stay on the diet indefinitely and keep the weight off permanently without incurring any health risks. No scientifically sound study has been published to support the use of a high protein, low carbohydrate eating plan. Studies indicate that a diet rich in plant foods is one of the best ways to prevent heart disease and cancer—a weight-loss plan that limits such foods makes little sense.

While it may not be a miracle pill or the hot new trend, eating plenty of fruits, vegetables, and whole grains along with moderate amounts of lean meat and low-fat dairy foods, is the safest, surest way to maintaining a healthy weight.

Fireworks contributors receive thanks

To the editor:
We want to take this opportunity to thank our contributors that made this year's annual Northville fireworks display a huge success and provided an evening enjoyed by record crowds of Northville area residents. Without their help, the display would not occur. Our sincere thanks to the Charter Township of Northville, the City of Northville, Browning Ferris Industries Arbor Hills facility, Davis Auto Supply, Reuben Jensen, and Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May Engineers.

We are still in need of funds for the annual fireworks display. Contributions can be sent to: Celebrate Northville, P.O. Box 5258, Northville, MI 48167.

The Northville Township Public Safety Department did another fine job of ensuring the safety of all attendees and getting the large crowds in and out efficiently.

Proud to be an American liberal

To the editor:
The Fourth of July has come and gone and the splendor of the fireworks displays, seen by many, are but a fond memory. I disagree with political Conservatives who claim that American values have been replaced, wrote Donald Kaul of Tribune Media Services Inc., by a "miasma of sex, violence and drugs."

I seem to disagree with Conservatives pretty much on every issue we both care about and I'm comfortable with my understanding of people-oriented issues. I never feel more American than when I'm opposing bad ideas, supporting good ones.

On the issue of abortion, I am pro-choice not pro-abortion. There is no useful purpose served in bringing children into the world without the love and acceptance of at least one parent. I believe a woman ought to have the right to choose on her own whether she carries a pregnancy to full term.

• Tax cuts. Conservatives are always clamoring for more cuts. Though it makes a terrific applause line in campaign speeches, should we not first repair the deficiencies in the Social Security and Medicare programs, let alone chip away at the nearly $5 trillion national debt on which we pay nearly a quarter of trillion dollars in interest every year?

• Military spending. Conservatives love it more than they hate to spend money on the people. Kaul asks, "What do we need a bigger military for? Against whom are we defending?"

• Gay rights. Oddly, Conservatives think gays shouldn't have any. Do Conservatives think everybody should be as good as they are and their concept of what's good is the only valid one? A revered person, long ago said, "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

• Prayer in school. The First Amendment precludes introducing organized prayer or religious icons in public schools. An aside: Prayer at the beginning of each session of Congress doesn't seem to produce the milk of compassion and concern for those who may need a helping hand, not a hand-out, in order to achieve that to which they aspire.

• School vouchers. We should be trying to improve public education not abandon it.

I am proud to be an American. Proud to be a liberal also.

Some lessons in firearm safety

To the editor:
Recently, The Northville Record's editorial page has been a generous forum for firearms debate. Perhaps it would also be appropriate to share a few simple lessons in firearms' safety. Guns are kept in approximately half of all U.S. households, where the owner is responsible for the safe use and storage of their firearms. Obviously these firearms, from BB guns to handguns, spend more time in storage than in use.

An often overlooked area of firearms' safety by owners and non-owners alike is early childhood education. Even if you do not own firearms this is no guarantee your children will never encounter a firearm; forgotten in a grandparent's attic, for example. The NRA's "Eddie Eagle" gun safety program is taught by many schools, police departments, and civic groups. Eddie Eagle's lesson to children is simple to teach and easy to remember: "If you see a gun—stop, don't touch, leave the area, and tell an adult."

Discussing what your child sees on TV is also important. Kids often see characters shot and "killed" on one program only to appear alive and well on a different one the next day. It's important not to assume they understand the difference between death on TV and death in real life.

Whether you own firearms or not, insist others follow the basic rules of firearms safety: Keep guns pointed in a safe direction, keep your finger off the trigger until ready to shoot, and trigger the gun unloaded until ready to use.

Hopefully such proactive measures providing knowledge while teaching responsibility and respect, will help reduce the use of less effective reactive measures, which are often too little, too late.

Michigan 50s Festival to host model plane airshow

Submitted photo

Radio controlled planes, like this one above, will take to the skies during the Michigan 50s festival, which takes place July 22-25 at the Novi Expo Center.

By B.J. Hammerstein
Staff Writer

The propeller rotates furiously as the pilot directs the aircraft in its takeoff for a journey into the great wide open.

This pilot is not sitting inside of the cockpit of this craft, but instead maneuvers the flight from a control pack completely separate from the plane.

Don't worry, this isn't Detroit Metropolitan Airport. It is the Lang Aerodrome field located at the northwest corner of Ten Mile Road and Wixom Road in Novi.

The event is the Eighth annual Rib Crackers Radio Control Air Show which will be displaying all varieties of model airplanes performing thrilling demonstrations and stunts for the public to view.

The air show, in conjunction with the Michigan 50s Festival, is set to take off Saturday, July 24 and Sunday, July 25 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Assistant Contest Director Vince Blaszczyk said the viewing public will be treated to a fantastic air exhibit as model airplanes, helicopters and jets will be on display.

"We are going to have airplane dog-fights, helicopter demonstrations and an expert competition," Blaszczyk said. "No flyer is going to want to miss this one. It is going to be great."

Blaszczyk said the air show is designed for everyone from the expert flyer to the average person who is just looking to have an enjoyable day.

"Weather permitting, there will be a phenomenal jet display which will just blow people away," Blaszczyk said.

"If it is not too windy and the grounds are in good condition, the crowd will be treated to high-speed jet and rocket launches."

With more than 180 members, the Rib Crackers Club appeals to men and women interested in flying, building, and collecting radio control airplanes.

"With the support of all of the local hobby shops, people can get information about the Rib Crackers and other flying clubs," he said.

"There are over 100 different clubs in Michigan, and we plan on having some pilots from these clubs participate in our air show."

Blaszczyk said club members range in age from anywhere between-eight years old to 75-years-old. He added all the Rib Crackers are certified and insured to fly their radio control airplanes.

The majority of airplanes on display are large and small scale models, usually one-third or one-quarter scale in size.

It is the intricate details of the planes that hook the new flyer and wow the fans. The planes are equipped with movable rudders, a high-powered gas engine and working landing gear.

According to Blaszczyk, the majority of radio-control airplanes are built with engines that range in capacity from less than one horsepower to a commanding 12-horsepower motor.

"These airplanes are exactly designed to work like a full-size jet," Blaszczyk said.

"The planes have an airspeed that may range from 35-40 miles per hour to 80 miles per hour. The jets are capable of flying up to 200 miles per hour."

The airplane replicas can be constructed completely from scratch or the novice may choose to begin with an ARF. Almost Ready to Fly, airplane kit.

"It can take someone anywhere between six and eight months from beginning to end to construct a radio-control airplane," Blaszczyk said.

"An ARF can literally take just a few hours. An ARF is relatively inexpensive. If you want to, you could be out here flying tomorrow."

Blaszczyk said a typical ARF may range in price from $99-$2,000. The ARF is a pre-made kit that can be constructed together in a matter of hours.

Working on completion of his eighth radio-control airplane, Blaszczyk said the hobby is fun, fulfilling and allows people with similar interests to get together and build a camaraderie.

"I once attended an air show and was instantly hooked," he said.

"I was so excited, I went out the following Monday and purchased my first airplane."

The air show is charging a $1 per vehicle to park, and a mere $2 per person for the entertainment. Children under 12 are admitted for free.

Michigan 50s Festival enthusiast Don Campion, in greaser attire, stands in line to check out some 1950s literature at the Novi Public Library.

Reliving the '50s by the book

When you think of literature in the 1950s, writers such as Ayn Rand, Ernest Hemingway, Jack Kerouac and even Grace Metalious come to mind. As a salute to the Michigan 50s Festival, which runs today through Sunday, we asked Novi Public Library Reference Librarian Kate Gillette to tell us what book covers people were really between 40 years ago.

A few surprises popped up, not least of which was that a best-selling author in 1959 was Pat Boone. And you thought he only wore white shoes and sang!

Novi Reference Librarian Kate Gillette thumbs through a well-known 1950s novel.

Popular Titles of the Decade From the Ridiculous to the Sublime

• "The Catcher in the Rye" by J.D. Salinger

Believe it or not, Holden Caulfield has been around since 1951. The first-person narrative of a 16-year-old expelled from prep school still appears regularly on high school reading lists and on banned book lists. Even millennial teens can relate to a novel whose first paragraph includes that eternal adolescent truth, "my parents would have about two hemorrhages apiece if I told anything pretty personal about them."

• "From Here to Eternity" by James Jones

The '50s saw surprisingly few novels about World War II. Jones' story of soldiers stationed in Hawaii in 1941 was conspicuous for its explicit language, sexual descriptions and details of military brutality. The 1953 movie adaptation produced one of film's most indelible images, of Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr passionately embracing on a beach as the surf crashes around them.

• "Invisible Man" by Ralph Ellison

"I am invisible, understand, simply because people refuse to see me." The powerful first novel follows a young African-American from the segregated South to Harlem. "Invisible Man" became a best-seller and won the National Book Award for fiction in 1953 - two years before Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on a Montgomery bus.

• "Kids Say the Darndest Things" by Art Linkletter

Long before Bill Cosby, Art Linkletter was chatting up kids on his TV show "House Party." The number one bestseller two years running was illustrated by the young cartoonist Charles Schulz, whose "Peanuts" strip debuted in 1950.

• "Kiss Me, Deadly" by Mickey Spillane

Detective Mike Hammer was a magnet for women and quick to pull a trigger. The 1952 "Kiss Me, Deadly" was Spillane's last novel for nearly a decade, but seven of his titles were among the all-time top ten American fiction bestsellers by 1956.

• "On the Road" by Jack Kerouac

Kerouac's semi-autobiographical novel describes a series of road trips and the sometimes lengthy stops in between. The travels of writer Sal Paradise, a stand-in for Kerouac, and drifter Dean Moriarty, a fictionalized Neal Cassidy, are punctuated with alcohol, drugs, and a changing cast of lovers, wives, and characters like addict Bull Lee. "On the Road" is generally considered the definitive novel of the Beat Generation, a term that Kerouac coined.

• "Peyton Place" by Grace Metalious

The words "Peyton Place" still evoke a steamy, secretive soap opera set in a small town. It didn't win any literary awards, but the novel by a New Hampshire housewife sold six million (mostly paperback) copies in 18 months.

• "Twixt Twelve and Twenty" by Pat Boone

By 1959, clean-cut teenage idol Pat Boone had sold more than 20 million records. He capitalized on this popularity by writing a bestselling advice book for teenagers, containing such original tips as "dine insurance - calling home to let your parents know where you are and if you are going to be late."

Smocking Guild meets at Novi Library each month

Michigander Smockers

The Smocking Guild is a local chapter of an international non-profit organization called Smocking Arts Guild of America. History indicates that SAGA was formed in 1979 to preserve and foster the art of smocking and related needlework for upcoming generations. They expected to achieve this through education, communication and quality workmanship. Presently, the local chapter is making plans to attend the national convention in Richmond, Va., Sept. 29-Oct. 1.

The local chapter meets at the Novi Library located on Ten Mile once a month on the third Thursday of the month at 10 a.m. In addition to regular meetings, "Sit and Stitch" usually meets the fourth Thursday of the month at the home of a member. The last time they met at the home of Tina Knebel. To learn more about this art.

Many projects are in the planning stage. The group will be working on a smocking sampler, including single and double feather stitching. Scheduled for Aug. 19 is a field trip to Lansing to visit Country Stitches, followed by lunch at Clare's, an unusual building resembling an old train station. The group will be carpooling. Departure from the Novi Library will be at 8:45 a.m.

At each meeting there is a time for "Show and Share." Recently, Janet Rost brought in a millennium quilt, hoping to obtain 2,000 different fabrics, which she achieved with help from the Internet. One was a patch from Littleton, Colo. that she received before the tragedy that occurred.

Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church

The Rev. Matthew M. McMahon was welcomed as new pastor to the church at a recent installation service. Present for the occasion was Pastor Jack Eggleston of the Bishop's office. Following the service, a luncheon reception was held at Novi Civic Center with about 80 church members, friends and family present. Also in attendance was Mayor McLallen and Councilman Kramer. Caryn Doehler, president of the congregation, spoke with welcoming remarks and the Rev. McMahon also indicated how pleased he was to be welcomed by the church.

The new pastor graduated from Trinity Lutheran Seminar in Columbus, Ohio, serving an internship at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cincinnati.

er; and Joan Larson, bookkeeper.

Before the arrival of Rev. McMahon, the church family was busy completing the several changes in the sanctuary and other portions of the church. In addition, the church office and pastor's office have a new look.

Sunday school classes ended for the year with a special program for the children entitled, "Carnival Adventure Fair." This was also an opportunity to thank all the Sunday school teachers. Classes will resume in the fall.

This week the Vacation Bible School is ending after much advertisement was made through the Memorial Day parade of Veggie Tales Character Town, which was under the direction of Kathy @9pts-sub-head:Novi

All week the children have been bringing in canned foods for needy families.

Novi Jaycees

Plans of participation were confirmed at a recent meeting of the Jaycees '50s Festival, July 21-25, and next weekend's Grand Prix. The group also participated in the recently held Bluesfest. Also included on the agenda was the appointment of Kim Zwar as secretary.

In addition to regular meetings and attending Novi Council meetings, the Jaycees find time for several other activities held monthly. What better a way to socialize with other members and meet new friends than by having a movie night with dinner at a local restaurant. Dinners have been held at Country Epicure and Ghenghis Khan.

Another night out is the T.J.I.F. (Thank Jaycees It's Friday). This too, is scheduled locally and is an evening of fun and relaxation. This group has met at Red, Hot and Blue, Mr. B's. On July 30, they'll meet at Fifth Avenue Ballroom, located on Novi Road near the Grand River Avenue railroad tracks.

At the last meeting, a report was given on the barbecue held at the home of vice-president Steve Grants and the Jaycees' participation in the Memorial Day parade.

The Jaycees are cooperating with the Novi Rotary in the selling of raffle tickets for the classic Ford Mustang.

For additional information regarding the Jaycees, call Lisa Glaszola, president, at the Novi Jaycee Hotline. The number is (248) 348-NOVI.

A Growing Place Inc.

During the summer, the format of children attending Growing Place changed to accommodate school-age children from ages six to 10. The program is under the direction of Sherry Kemp.

The children have been working on several programs: recycling and taking care of our Earth, the out-of-doors and the solar system, and science.

Renovation of the playground has now been completed. Playscape rubber has been placed under the swings and other recreational equipment that adds a new degree of safety.

The older age group joined the preschool water days when they brought their bathing suit and towel to cool off. They recently went to see "Tarzan" at the Novi Town Center cinema.

Both preschool and school-age will attend a joint program featuring Nelson Pierson of Marine Safari on July 30 at 10:30 a.m. His visit will include some wild things: a bobcat, fox, an armadillo, snakes, and maybe some exotic insects.

Renovations and additions have also been made in the science center, animal center, and with the creation of a new book center.

Especially popular are the giant floor pillows in the form of a raccoon and a duckbill platypus. In small cages are some crabs, which have been appropriately named Hermit and Kermil by the children.

There's also a fish tank with three large snails, "Sunshine, Midnight and Speedy," also named by the kids. The center also includes an ant farm.

The big attraction currently in the making is the multi-level play loft; it's together but final touches will be coming later. It will be a little home with lamps, window boxes, trellis, child-size furniture, and other items.

Lisa Irwin is in charge of the Play Camp program, which is held for more than two hours each day. It's been found that this program is especially good for children who will be attending Growing Place in the fall. In fact, some of the "graduates" have come back to participation in the camp.

Pleasant problem pushes business to build expansion

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Really, it was a pleasant problem that forced Northville Township's Masonpro to build a new home: too much business.

That's what Jeff Snyder, president of Masonpro, said last week. The brick and masonry supply company scrapped its old building and has begun work on building a new one on the former site.

"The old building was outdated for our use," Snyder said. "It wasn't fitting our needs any more."

Masonpro is a supplier that works primarily with contractors and professional builders. Snyder said the company has had a presence in Northville Township for more than a decade.

Snyder said Masonpro's old building, located at the northeast corner of Seven Mile Road and Gerald Avenue, had low ceilings and too little floorspace available for showing off Masonpro's goods. All that will change with the new building, Snyder said.

"After we did some talking with people, we learned that it would cost more to renovate the old building than it would if we were to scrap it and just start over," he said.

Walls and a new foundation are expected to be installed in the next week or so, Snyder said. The entire building is slated for completion sometime in August.

In addition to being more functional, Snyder said more attention is being paid to the appearance of its new home. He said the new Masonpro will also take on a fresher appearance in line with the Victorian appearance of nearby downtown Northville.

"We're trying to make this an aesthetic statement," he said. "When we're done with this project, it's going to be a real complement to the community. I believe the Victorian theme is a real asset to the community."

Snyder said additional space will be included with the new building to allow for floor displays so that architects will have the chance to see first-hand the materials they order in construction projects.

Links of Northville to build in PUD

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

One thing's for absolutely certain — a home at the Links of Northville Hills Golf Club practically guarantees a view of lush, green grass out the back window.

The 135-unit attached condominium development slated to be built in the Wayne County planned unit development had developer Paul Robertson, Jr. plenty excited.

"These homes are being built with a combination market in mind," he said Friday. "If you're the sort of person who'd just as much assume give up the snow shovel and the rake and wants a nice place to live, this is what you might be looking for."

Robertson said the Links of Northville condominiums will be built with natural elements, such as wood and stone, but will also include modern conveniences and luxuries often sought by home buyers of the 1990s.

"We'll be including things like a full basement, two-car garage and fireplace in the home," he said.

And though Robertson said the condos are being designed with empty-nesters and professional singles or couples in mind, he said specifically targeting homes for a specialty group has become an increasingly difficult task.

"The buyer profiles have changed quite a bit," he said.

"It's tricky to gauge what sorts of home buyers we have out there right now."

The Links of Northville will be built near the front nine holes of the Northville Hills Golf Club. Robertson said the project has its final engineering plans being reviewed right now.

Model apartments should be ready by the end of June, with sales of finished units beginning in mid to late September, he said.

Along with Links of Northville, about a dozen other residential projects are being built in Northville Township now and in the coming months.

Fox Hollow subdivision to feature custom homes

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Staff Writer

Just because there haven't been very many fox seen in the area isn't stopping the construction of the Fox Hollow subdivision.

It's one of more than a dozen residential developments taking off in Northville Township.

Project developer Joe Malloure said Fox Hollow, when finished, will be a platted subdivision of some 37 custom-built homes covering nearly 50 acres of land along Beck Road, south of Seven Mile Road. Malloure is part of Nottingham Partners, a Walled Lake development group.

"These are all being built to order," Malloure said. "They're going to be made according to the buyer's specifications."

Four individual building companies are overseeing the construction of the homes. Prices for the houses, Malloure said, start at around $500,000 and go up from there.

"We're probably about half-built by now," Malloure said. "A good third of the acreage we have out there will be park commons space, which should be a nice place for families to spend some time together."

Malloure said Fox Hollow homes will range from around 3,700 square feet and go up to nearly 6,000 square feet in a few instances.

Do it for someone you love

Coaching a major league team is a full-time job and so is my responsibility to my family. That's why I eat plenty of healthy foods like veggie burgers, spinach and bean burritos, and vegetable lasagna. The more vegetarian meals you include in your routine, the better. So play it safe for your team.

Kirstie Alley stars in New Line Cinema's wickedly colorful comedy about a small-town beauty pageant.

'Drop Dead Gorgeous'

Kirstie Alley stars in comedic tale of a small-town beauty pageant

The local boosters of Mount Rose, Minnesota proudly invite you to watch as their annual celebration of civic pride, wholesome achievement, teenage innocence and spirited camaraderie all go up in hilarious flames over the course of one nasty, backstabbing beauty contest.

A wickedly colorful, twisted comedy, Drop Dead Gorgeous probes the heart of a small Minnesota town where a fictional teen beauty pageant has unleashed a fury of very unladylike behavior.

Here in the hallowed American heartland — amidst the cow fields, pork sausage factories and Lutheran churches, going after the tiara is not just a fairy-tale dream: it's all-out war.

Everyone involved in the contest — mothers, daughters, boyfriends — knows only one thing counts and it isn't talent, physical fitness, current events or sportsmanship. It's being Number One. "yah, you betcha!" Because in Mount Rose, you win any way you can.

Let's meet a few of the main contestants: enjoying a firm lead is Becky Leeman (Denise Richards), spoiled little rich girl, daughter of former winner Gladys Leeman (Kirstie Alley). Becky's main talent seems to be sanctimoniousness, sucking up to the judges with all the gusto that she — and her mother — can muster.

Close behind Becky Leeman is television anchorwoman-in-waiting Amber Atkins (Kirsten Dunst), the smart, sexy trailer-park beauty who was raised on second-hand smoke, and dreams of getting out of Mount Rose and away from her trailer home where she lives with her loving mother Annette (Ellen Barkin). If Diane Sawyer could make it out of a small town, so can Amber! This little lady shows promise — especially in underdog perseverance, tap-dancing and beautifying stiffs at the local funeral parlor.

Joining Becky and Amber is an equally ambitious cadre of girls doing animal calls, lip-synching and interpretive sign language dances in sequins and spandex.

For the cast, melding into Minnesota culture not only meant downing such culinary oddities as lutefisk and lefse, but learning to use nasally vowels and dropping all their g's.

As in the real Midwest, each of the characters in Drop Dead Gorgeous has an individual accent. Kirsten Dunst explains the general rules: "You have to round your O's and you have to use this really relaxed way of speaking. You can't worry too much about pronouncing things clearly or anything like that. Just let it flow."

Broncos finish up regular season with pair of wins

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

John Hutchison didn't exactly have his best performance of the season last Thursday, but thanks to three offensive outbursts from his Bronco teammates, he didn't have to be sharp.

Northville scored four runs in the fourth inning and broke loose for eight more in the fifth to mercy the Michigan Rams 18-7 in the regular-season finale. Hutchison picked up the win, despite allowing seven runs in four plus innings of work.

Joe Evans' RBI-triple and Brian Ashby's two-RBI double helped the Broncos break open the game in the fourth. Ashby's hit scored both Evans and Adam Malmin to give the team a 9-6 lead. Dave Tovey knocked in Ashby with a double later in the inning. Kris Betker relieved Hutchison with the bases loaded in the top of the fifth inning and escaped with only a single run scored.

Northville added eight more in the bottom of the fifth to put them ahead by 11 runs. The game was then called due to the mercy rule.

The Broncos amassed 15 hits in the game, led by Ashby's 3 for 3 performance. He also finished with four RBI. Seth White was 3 for 5 with four RBI. Betker was 2 for 3 with a pair of RBI and Bill Sallotte and Evans were each 2 for 3. Evans also threw out two potential base stealers from the catcher's position.

"This team can be streaky, but they can hit," head coach Carl Galletti said. "This is the best they've hit, consistently as a team. It's quite refreshing to see everyone hit the ball."

The win leaves Northville with an 8-11 record heading into this weekend's regular-season ending tournament. The Broncos will host the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series next weekend at Northville High School.

The team has added a pair of pitchers to the team for the tournament. Paul Mercier of Livonia and Brian Ouellette of Windsor will join the team for the national tournament. Galletti said they will help out tremendously, especially with pitching being the big question mark on this year's team.

"I'm most concerned with us pitching strikes," Galletti said. "If we can throw the ball where we want to, we'll be fine."

Earlier last week, the Broncos topped Dearborn Heights/Annapolis 8-5 July 14 and fell to Detroit PAL 8-3 the day before.

Against DHA, Robbie Harmer picked up the win on the mound and Mike Walsh and Betker each had two hits. In the team's loss, Malmin and Ashby were each 2 for 3 and Sallotte had a triple and a run scored. White gave up seven runs in the first two innings, but settled down to pitch six innings with five strikeouts.

Sports club instructor makes exercise fun, safe

By DAN KITTLE
Special writer

While Billy Blanks has the entire nation clamoring over his new TaeBo instructional videos, Sherri Robinson has everyone at the new Sports Club of Novi in a frenzy over a similar form of exercise known as TaeBoxing.

Unlike Blanks' highly-popular videos, Robinson's class has been around for a couple of years and offers a safe environment in which all those eager for a workout can get themselves in shape.

Robinson first started the class at Novi's sister club in West Bloomfield back in 1997. When Novi's facilities opened its doors last October, she brought the class with her to the new location, and saw its popularity soar within a matter of months.

From the beginning of this year through the present, the class expanded from a small assembly once a week to six classes a week of 15 to 20 participants per session.

"It's fun. It's a different way of exercising," says Robinson, who on top of being a certified aerobics, Tae Kwon Do, and Boxerobics instructor, is also a 3rd Degree Black Belt and was crowned a Tae Kwon Do world champion from 1988 through 1993. In addition, she is a certified personal trainer, so she brings it all to the table when she works with her TaeBoxing class.

"I think the biggest draw to this particular class is that these people get in here and they're just having a good time," she adds.

A big reason participants enjoy the class is the variety of exercises Robinson can throw at them in a short amount of time. The main feature of the class is the kick-boxing, done by most with a pair of 12 to 16 ounce boxing gloves on hand-held bags, but the class often participates in abdominal and toning exercises as well. All this is done with the highly-motivational Robinson barking instructions to everyone in the room.

"It's a fun class," says Shannan Norwood, a regular member of the class. "Everytime she does it, she does something different. It's never the same class."

Different than TaeBo

Although the class is similar in many ways to Blanks' videos that have quickly become the exercising craze throughout the nation, it varies in a few ways. Robinson claims that these differences are what make her class the more effective way to get in shape.

"I don't want to put myself as promoting TaeBo," she says. "That's Billy's deal. It's my style and because of the fact that I was involved in martial arts for so long, they're getting a lot more technique and a lot more knowledge than I think they're going to get at home."

She says she applauds anyone who is working out on their own, but for safety reasons, she recommends taking a class like hers. For example, her sister does TaeBo at home, and she hears all kinds of stories about people who have been showing up at chiropractors from injuries that they've suffered through unsupervised exercise.

"[Safety] is important," she says. "You can blow your knee or blow your back, and then you're out."

A great stress-reliever that shows results as any form of exercise will provide, TaeBoxing gives anyone who sticks to it a chance to relieve a great deal of stress in addition to helping participants slim down and feel good.

"It's helped me get a lot of stress out," comments Amy Black, "especially with Sherri. She's actually there screaming in your ear. She's a very positive motivator. It's great to scream after work."

Kristopher Berlin agrees, adding, "It's really helped out, especially when you're allowed to punch the bag and get a little aggression out. With a lot of that construction on the roads, it helps to get a little bit of that aggression and that anger out on a body bag and be able to hit something now and then."

"It's the best workout I've ever had," says an energetic Lori Tremonti, who has been working out for ten years and never saw any significant change until she began TaeBoxing. "I love it. Physically, it's changed my look. I've got people in the gym always asking, 'Well, what do you do? You know, I want to look like you.' It's the hardest class I've ever done."

Erin Wilson adds, "It's an all-over-body type of workout, so if you don't have the

Sharpshooters will be brought in Colts set to begin a whole new season

The hunt is on.

The decision by the Huron Clinton Metro Authority Board of Commissioners Thursday approved plans to trim the large herds of white-tailed deer in three of the Metroparks by means of controlled hunts and sharpshooters.

The proposals to reduce the populations followed aerial counts of the herds in January of this year that suggested there was an extreme overpopulation problem.

Kensington rang in as the most crowded with 528 deer.

The Department of Natural Resources recommends 10 to 20 deer per square mile. According to the counts, the metro park currently has more than 100 per square mile, creating an overpopulation of more than 400 deer in the 6 square mile park.

A combination shotgun/bow hunt is planned for Stony Creek and a controlled bow-only hunt will take place in Hudson Mills. Hiring a sharpshooter has been the plan in Kensington, with changes being made to the proposal at the final presentation to the board.

Originally the plan sought approval for hiring a professional sharpshooter. Dr. Anthony DeNicola, of Connecticut, had been the prime source for information on this method of culling and was on the list to be considered for hiring. Since the first presentation, the sharpshooting plan has been altered and adopted to include only Michigan game population control companies as viable prospects to bring into the park.

According to the new plan, the first option would be to train HCMA Rangers in marksmanship and try to handle the cull internal-

Colts Football Begins Preparations for New Season

The Northville/Novi Colts and their staff are preparing for another exciting season of junior league football under the direction of coach Bob Baum of Novi.

The Colts have a great schedule this year; practices begin Aug. 9 and games run until the Super Cheer on Oct. 23. The team will spend a day at the Pontiac Silverdome on Oct. 2. There are also several fund raisers planned to help maintain this program.

The Colts would like to thank everyone in the community who has participated in this program and for signing up their sons and daughters to play football. The Colts would also like to thank all the volunteers who have given so graciously of their time to help make this year's team the best in Colts' history.

This year, the Colts will be sponsoring a golf outing on Sept. 19 at Brae Burn Golf Course. Anyone is welcome to join the team by coming to play 18 holes or sponsoring a hole. All proceeds will go to support this growing program.

The Colts are asking the cities of Northville and Novi to help support this growing program. Please come cheer the team on at their home games which are held at the Northville High School stadium.

Anyone interested in assisting the 1999 Northville/Novi Colts or for fund-raiser information can contact coach Bob Baum at (248) 344-4775.

ability or time to fit in weights religiously into your workout, your upper body just automatically gets strong, especially if you wear the gloves. I've seen a huge increase in my upper body strength and I don't lift anymore than I had been, so it's nice to kill two birds with one stone."

Here to stay?

A form of exercise that apparently does it all.

it seems as though TaeBoxing isn't going to disappear and become just another brief craze in the world of fitness.

"I don't believe it's anything that's going to disappear real quickly," says Robinson, "because people are seeing phenomenal results with it. Also, although it's a hardcore type of workout, it's doable by the novice as well."

It seems as though this highly-successful class is growing more and more popular every day. All the time, more people are discovering the wonderful things this activity can do.

"It's getting more popular and bigger every minute," she adds. "I have new people in every class. I've got instructors coming from other clubs to check this out."

"People are exercising, they're sweating bullets, they're going out of there feeling like they've had a great workout, but they've had a good time."

"If you're consistent with it, the results are phenomenal."

Lethal methods only viable option

ly. The second option would be to bid out the job to in state companies specializing in deer euthanasia.

According to Kensington Chief of Interpretive Services Dave Mollanen, the way has already been paved for the hunts at Stony Creek and Hudson Mills and they are in the process of working out details such as skill testing, handling the lottery and registration.

Approval from the DNR on the sharpshooter angle is pending, yet favorable, he added.

"We still have to obtain approval by the Natural Resources Commission (the civilian board that presides over the DNR)," he said, "because we want to use a method not normally used by (the DNR) and we want to do it outside of the regular hunting season."

He said after more than a year of studying the problem in a diverse committee, lethal methods seemed to be the only viable option at this point. Six of the seven commissioners agreed, approving the plan as a one year experiment.

But the Metroparks Deer Preservation Group begs to differ. Working with the Humane Society of the United States, they feel they have offered HCMA information on several non-lethal options that have been summarily dismissed.

Noreen Owens, one of the organizers of the grassroots group, said they submitted proposals that would make surgical sterilization not only a viable option, but a cost effective one. She said she was furious over the decision allowing only lethal methods.

"I was most disappointed at how uninformed the board was on the subject," she said. "They didn't really know what was going on."

They were told the DNR would not issue permits for any other methods, so they approved the plan."

DNR Wildlife Management Unit Supervisor Tim Payne said other, non-lethal methods of population control are not approved by the DNR.

"One of the things suggested was a trap and transfer method of relocation," he said. "Studies have shown a very high mortality rate for this method. More than half of the deer relocated die within 12 to 18 months. (The DNR) does not see this as a viable option."

He added the overpopulation problem was prevalent throughout the state, leaving nowhere to ship excess deer.

Payne also said neither dart contraception, nor surgical sterilization had been proven to be effective on free roaming herds such as are found in the parks. In fact, he said, no one has been able to do it on herds like these.

But in the end, non-lethal methods in Kensington were not at issue with the majority of residents. The sharpshooter was. Many felt if the HCMA wanted to eliminate approximately 400 deer in the park, area hunters should be the ones to do it.

Milford Township resident Pat Roan agreed. She said she has suffered extensive deer damage on her property off Buno Road and is glad the issue is finally being addressed.

"For three years I have not been able to have a garden," she said. "The deer have twice wiped out a King Crimson Maple tree I planted 14 years ago. I agree with the need for control and permanent removal, but I would have preferred they let the hunters in the area have a crack at it."

Read. Then Recycle. Our future depends on it.

Fight the inactivity monster now

Summer is in full swing and the weather has been beautiful. There is no better time to fight the inactivity monster than right now. We as a society (thanks in part to the many labor saving devices), are moving less than we ever have moved. In today's day and age, one really has to make a concentrated effort to move more.

Think about the activity in a typical day in the life of today's average executive. Out of bed, into the shower, and a quick walk to the attached garage, push one button to open the garage door, another to start the car before you get there. Adjust the radio and temperature from the steering wheel and it's off to the office. A short walk to the elevator and he or she is at their desk. (The shower was the most movement of the morning.)

The afternoon consists of meetings, phone calls, and lunch. Late afternoon is much of the same, back to the car, to the attached garage, dinner and the favorite chair for TV. Out of bed the next morning and the cycle continues until the weekend. Saturday, we can sit on the porch and watch the lawn service cut and trim our lawn, run the car through a car wash, catch up on a little work on our lap top computer, or watch the hot sports competition of the season. Later, dinner and maybe a movie and it's to bed and Sunday is relaxation day. Monday morning alarm, up out of bed, and the inactivity cycle continues...if we let it.

Sometimes we're in the fitness business in our effort to help make things too complicated. If you did one thing to help your quality of life, it would be to move more. Do something, anything that involves movement. Oh yeah, take your kids with you.

Do you have to get in a gym all summer, absolutely not. In fact, we encourage a variety of outdoor activities. On the other hand, should I give up my current exercise program all summer and pick it up in the fall? Not a great idea either. Let's end up somewhere in between. You need to maintain the muscle mass you have been fighting in the gym or in your basement all winter. Letting it go all together for three-four months will not be the best idea for long term health. So, cut it back to two shorter workouts a week and get outside.

Chris

With the help of Venture Outdoors and R.E.I., both local outdoor recreation stores, I have outlined some fun and creative (relatively easy with moderate financial commitment) summer activities for you and your family to consider.

• Kayaking. Dan Argonis, owner and operator of Venture Outdoors states, "This is clearly the hottest summer activity this year. Sales are up like 78 percent, manufacturers cannot keep up with demand." According to Dan, it is super easy to hop in one of these recreation flat water kayak things and go. All you need is 6 to 8 inches of water. They weigh as little as 40 pounds and can fit in their car. You can get one or two person units starting as low as $400. The nearby ponds, lakes, and rivers offer quick access, and one can get to spots no one else can get to and it does not take a lot of training to begin. R.E.I. in Northville offers free clinics on kayaking and other popular activities.

• Hiking. R.E.I. states "Long family weekends which include hiking are very popular this year." For around $100 for a good pair of hiking boots and $25 for a day pack, you are ready to go. Northern Michigan offers a wide array of hiking options as well as Maybury Park in our own backyard.

• Cycling. Both mountain biking and road biking offer a lot of fun. There are enough trails within a half an hour from here to keep us busy all year. You can get started for as little as $350 for a decent bike and helmet.

You can see the three easiest activities involve walking, biking or paddling, which most people can do without a lot of training and conditioning. The list of summer activity options can go on and on; the point is to find something you like and move. Good luck.

HOW TO

Carpenter bees can be costly visitors

By Gene Gary
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Our biggest problem relates to carpenter bees. They drive into the wood, dig holes and destroy whole sections of siding. What can I do?

A. Often mistaken for black bumble bees, the shinier, less-hairy carpenter bees are not much of a threat to humans. The males, with an aggressive flight pattern and loud buzz, cannot sting. The less aggressive females can bite if cornered. Overall, these are beneficial insects. However, they can become a significant problem in some weathered or unpainted woods when female carpenter bees build or enlarge their nests.

The areas of residential structures most commonly attacked are roof trim and siding, exterior columns, steps, decks and porch beams and railings. Entrance holes to the bees' tunnels are very round and regular on the exterior of the wood. Typically they tunnel into the wood about an inch, then abruptly redirect the tunnel at a right angle traveling with the grain of the wood for 4 to 6 inches. However, a system of galleries developed by several bees working in the same area over a period of time can extend as much as 6 to 9 feet within a wood beam or siding panel.

Previously damaged or especially vulnerable areas can be covered or replaced with aluminum, asphalt or fiberglass materials. The holes can be filled with steel wool and then covered with metal flinted screening. Wood fillers and caulks are often too soft to prevent re-entry by the bees.

New infestations can be avoided by keeping the wood painted or heavily varnished. Pay particular attention to maintaining the paint on the undersides of siding or trim that is accessible to bees but not easily visible to humans. The bees are often attracted to depressions in wood, so be sure to fill these before painting. Unfortunately, clear and semi-transparent stains won't deter them.

Many of these avoidance techniques are not feasible with wood siding, so chemical treatments remain the best option. If a pesticide is considered, use one that is pyrethrum-based. This type of insecticide can be used to kill the bees directly, but it does not pose significant hazards to mammals due to a very short residual life of 24 to 48 hours. Revenge, a pyrethrin plus silica aerogel mixture in an aerosol can, is effective and can be sprayed directly on the bees and applied to the entrance of their galleries to deter these insects.

Products sold for wasp control, such as the insecticide Baygon (frequently listed on the labels as 2-(1-methylethoxy) phenyl methylcarbamate, or resmethrin), and designed for long-distance application (10 to 13 feet) can also be effective. Apply an insecticide directly into the nest entrances. Spray in the evening when most of the bees are in the nest and less active. Recurring signs of bee activity will require subsequent re-application of the insecticide.

Q. Squirrels have invaded our attic. They are noisy, and I am concerned about the damage they may do. How can I get rid of these pests?

A. Squirrels are basically tree dwellers that feed on nuts, fruits, seeds and fungi. However, as we build and change their natural environment, these busy critters are often attracted to our homes to build their nests in chimneys and attics. They can be very destructive, chewing through wood, electrical wiring and insulation. The trick to eliminating these pests is to change the household environment so that it is no longer appealing or accessible. Leave a light or radio on in the attic or chimney for one week and the squirrels will leave, assuming that the young are old enough to travel (they usually have two litters annually, three to four each, in spring and late summer).

Another deterrent is to spray a solution of ammonia and water (mixed in equal parts) along the roof line and eaves, in the attic area being invaded, and around the chimney. After-shave lotion is just as repulsive to squirrels and can be used in the same manner to drive them out.

Once the critters have exited, cover attic vents with hardware cloth. Use a fire-rated chimney cap with wire mesh on the sides. Seal off other cracks and holes. Trim tree limbs back away from the roof 7 to 9 feet. These preventive measures will keep these unwanted house guests from returning.

Q. I read your article recommending professional exterminators for dealing with termites. Are you aware that there is a fairly new product on the market called Sentricon (manufactured by Dow) that kills the entire colony, not just the workers, who invade a home? It does not require any tenting or harsh chemicals. It is a system of monitoring tubes placed in the ground, and when one is found to have been hit by termites, the monitoring device is replaced with bait. The termites carry the bait back to the colony, and it is eliminated.

A. The system you refer to is good for monitoring the activity of subterranean termites, which are the most prevalent kind in the United States. However, it is not recommended as the sole method of protection.

Although part of the life cycle of the subterranean termite is spent in the ground, this insect also swarms during the reproductive cycle and can enter your home in flight as well as through tunneling at ground level. The Sentricon system is not effective in determining the presence of dry-wood termites, which do not spend part of their life cycle in the ground. This variety of termite is found along both the Atlantic and Pacific coastal strips in the warmer climates, as well as along the Gulf of Mexico, and in a few other areas including Tacoma, Wash.

The cost of inspection by a pro is very affordable compared to that of lost equity from termite damage. Most pest-control firms recommend an annual termite inspection, as termites can move in within hours and remain hidden for years (though subterranean termites will return to the ground area in their life cycle and may very well be detected by the Sentricon system at this stage).

These three Northville neighbors share flowers instead of fences

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
SPECIAL WRITER

You've heard of a block party, but how about a block garden? That's what seems to have evolved at one Northville neighborhood, where you can't tell where one property ends and the other begins.

Three families, including George and Nelda Jewell, Dick and Mary Bayerl and Frank and Karen Gonda, don't believe fences make good neighbors. gardens do. From flower beds to the soft blanket of green grass, the yards flow together.

"We've tried to blend it in in one stretch," said George Jewell, observing the hosta and white impatiens combination. "We kind of got inspired by the condos in last year's garden walk," he adds.

"The one thing that's neat is there's not any fences, we feel comfortable walking into each other's yard," Frank Gonda said.

Although they like to joke about sending the moles to one another's yards, there's a true camaraderie among the gardeners. As Karen Gonda puts it, the neat part is sharing the plants. One example of the have garden, will share, are the five Japanese maples growing throughout the lots. All the seedlings began from one original tree in the Bayerl's yard.

Three Northville gardens have distinct styles but blend well

Unfortunately, his died, but Dick Bayerl commented, "It's like a soap opera. I can still come and visit all my children."

Each garden has its own distinctive look. Frank and Karen Gonda are carrying on the heritage left by his mother, Eleanor Gonda, who passed away a year and a half ago. They moved in afterwards and also inherited the care of her gardens.

"Eleanor had a beautiful garden, but I told her (Karen) to make it their garden," Nelda Jewell pointed out.

For them, it was a learning experience. The young couple removed some of the antique garden accents and replaced them with plants. With a new baby on the way, they're hoping to free up a little yard space for play.

"We tightened it up a bit," Karen Gonda said.

Their color schemes include red purple and yellow for her pots, while most of the perennials are pink. The late Eleanor's Gonda's tribute include the many traditional favorites that grace the yard such as lilac and snow ball bushes and day lilies. She also passed along her black eyed Susans to George and Nelda Jewell, and then to Dick and Mary Bayerl.

A white Victorian look gazebo is the focal point of the Jewell's back yard. It features lots of lush hosta and perky shasta daisies and dahlias. There's a corner under a purple plum tree that serves as a memorial to their late son, George Jewell, Junior. They gathered sweet peas from his grave, primrose from one of the arrangements, as well as trillium and bleeding heart from good friends who expressed their sympathy.

Their back yard also features two ponds. It's another feature of share and share alike among neighbors. George and Nelda provided the water for the birds and animals. Frank's mother, Eleanor, used to supply the bird feed. The combination worked well.

Dick and Mary Bayerl's garden has a more up north/woodland feel to it. Here you'll find elderberry bushes and pampas grass his mother's home in Grand Rapids. You'll also find roses, day lilies and black currant bushes. He notes that many of the plants in that part of the garden are edible. His garden's main purpose is to provide a subject for his interest in photography. Bayerl's talents have been used to photograph and videotape the Northville Garden Walk for the club.

The community yard also attracts the area wildlife.

"The animals think they've died and went to heaven," George Jewell said.

They've seen deer, fox and even peacocks enjoying their habitat. George Jewell has a blue jay that regularly visits for peanuts as well as a squirrel. Unfortunately, the rabbits like to nibble. Nelda Jewell is used to it by now.

"When I plant, I plant a dozen, two are for us, the rest are for the rabbits," she said.

Wide open spaces behind their lots give an even more spacious look to the yards.

"It isn't ours, but it's an open five acres, and next to that they own two acres...In fall and winter it's great. I like to cross country ski," Dick Bayerl said.

The three gardens were presented in unison on the 1996 Garden Club walk, where about 900 people enjoyed the event. The group agrees, a gardener's work is never done, but it's a lot more fun if you're working together.

Heir will sit pretty in Victorian chair

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a special chair that I inherited in 1970. A British doctor who set up practice in a small Kentucky town in the late 1800s gave it to my grandmother in 1912.

The chair has never been refinished except for replacing the hand-tooled leather seat with a cushion. The original construction was not disturbed in the event someone would want to replace the leather seat. I could not find a manufacturer's mark. The upholsterer thought the chair was made of mahogany, cherry and ebony. Based on the chair rung, he also suggested it was made in France or England in the 15th or 16th century.

Since I plan to pass it along to my son, I would like to know its age, origin and value.

A. Judging from your information and photo, you have a late-Victorian Hunzinger-type chair. The style is similar to chairs designed by George Hunzinger in New York. His chairs featured spindles, knobs, cogs, wheels and balls, and they were displayed at the 1893 Chicago World Fair. Many of his chairs were marked. Although the spiral twist turning on the rung is similar to an English design found in the 1600s, your chair was made in the late 1800s. It would probably be worth about $500 to $600.

ANTIQUES

Q. What can you tell me about the mark on a small porcelain plate that I have? The plate is 5 1/2 inches in diameter. It is decorated with roses against a white background. The border is black and trimmed in gold.

A. Adderley Ltd., in Staffordshire, England, used the mark you provided from 1912 to 1926. The company has made earthenware and porcelain from 1906 to the present. The value of your plate would probably be about $15 to $25.

Q. I have a root-beer syrup dispenser that I would like to learn more about. I found it while doing demolition work at a Madison Avenue coffee shop in New York City. The dispenser is in the shape of a mug and stands approximately 12 inches tall. The body is amber glass with a plastic base and a chrome lid. The spigot works and has a rubber gasket between it and the glass. Above the spigot are the words "Middleby Root Beer - Five Cents." I'm looking forward to what you have to say about my dispenser.

A. Your Middleby Root Beer dispenser was made in the early 1900s and would be worth about $275. The base is Bakelite, an early plastic. Bakelite was made of phenol formaldehyde and invented by L.H. Baekland in 1908. Large quantities of Bakelite items were made in the 1930s. Your dispenser would appeal to collectors of both advertising memorabilia and Bakelite objects.

BOOK REVIEW

If you liked Jack Chipman's first book on California pottery, wait until you see the totally revised edition, "The Collector's Encyclopedia of California Pottery, Second Edition" (Collector Books). Greatly expanded from 168 to 328 pages, it features more than 900 photos, all in luscious color.

Chipman provides company histories, marks, current values and reliable new information on more than 30 different artists and companies. Sascha Brastoff, Kay Finch, Marc Bellaire, Batchelder, Bauer and Metlox are just a few of the innovative ceramic industry manufacturers. One look at the pottery in this exceptional book and readers can't help but do a little "California dreaming."

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

This late Victorian Hunzinger-type chair is worth about $500 to $600.

THE IRON HORSE OF ALS

When Lou Gehrig's widow chose an organization to lead the fight against amyotrophic lateral sclerosis -- the muscle-wasting disease that killed her husband -- she selected the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Since the time she served as MDA national campaign chairman, the Association has consistently led the battle against ALS. MDA maintains the world's largest nongovernmental ALS research and patient services program.

Join our rally for a cure. Together, we can enrich the lives of Americans fighting the ravages of ALS today, and save countless lives tomorrow.

Community support

Novi car dealer has taken an active role in helping Novi community grow, prosper

By JASON SCHMITT
Staff Writer

When a business has been a part of, and has seen nearly the entire growth of one of the fastest growing communities in any part of the country, it's no wonder why it would be one of the most biggest fixtures and supporters of that community.

Such is the case for Marty Feldman Chevrolet in Novi, who will once again be a major part of this year's Michigan 50s Festival at the Novi Expo Center this weekend.

"Mr. Feldman is a pillar in the community, and he's proud of the way Novi has grown over the years," dealership general manager Larry White said. "Both he and his daughter, Marla Feldman, have a genuine concern and care for the community."

Marty Feldman Chevrolet became the first dealership of any kind in Novi when it opened its doors in 1981. Feldman sold his half of James Martin Chevrolet in Detroit to seek out its current location.

"People thought he was crazy to come all the way out to the cornfields of Novi. But he had the vision that Novi was an up-and-coming city, and his vision paid off," said White.

It was that faith in a growing community, along with an obvious knack for running a successful business that earned Marty Feldman the "GM Dealer Award for Outstanding Sales and Service" after 25 years as a GM dealer.

Over the years, Marty Feldman Chevrolet has taken heavy interests in supporting local organizations and events. In the last four years alone, he has sponsored 17 Little League softball and baseball teams along with two men's softball teams. He's a regular contributor to Novi High School's band and sports programs.

As part of Michigan's Adopt-a-Road program, the dealership adopted Grand River Avenue between Novi and Haggerty roads. Recently, Marty Feldman Chevrolet and members of the Brightmoor Christian Church combined efforts to clean up the stretch. Over 60 youths from the church spent three hours cleaning up the area and were treated to a barbecue lunch provided by the dealership. Feldman also made a contribution to the church, which will be breaking ground at its new location in Novi next month.

Feldman has planned to extend his normal involvement in the 50s Festival this year. The dealership has joined hands with SoccerZone of Novi to bring in some soccer instructors, who will run some fun soccer-oriented games for the kids as part of GM's traveling promotion of USA Soccer.

Laura Wellington, the 1998 Miss Michigan will be a part of their 100 x 100 foot display inside the Expo Center.

"We're trying to take it to the next level," White said. "We want our display to be more of an event which is family oriented. We're trying to make it a fun place to go."

"It's always been a place for mom and dad to go, but we're trying to make it a place where mom, dad and the kids can come down to."

For more information about Marty Feldman Chevrolet, please visit the dealership at 42355 Grand River or call (248) 348-7000.

Northville set to host two 'classic' events this weekend

Downtown Northville will be a flurry of activity July 24 and 25. The highlights of the weekend is the Roadrunner Classic, which takes place Saturday, 3 p.m. This year the Central Business Association gets into the act with its Bargain Bazaar from noon to 8 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Main and Center will be closed to vehicular traffic to create a "marketplace" atmosphere. Beside local businesses taking to the sidewalks and streets, home-based vendors will be selling toys, food items and household goods. The Roadrunners will be selling its casual apparel along with their unique gift items. Food vendors and restaurants will also utilize the outdoor space.

Saturday, the Roadrunners will be displaying in the band shell their unique handmade vases, photographs and athletic apparel that will be this year's prizes. Also in the band shell, entertainment on the hour, featuring the Tollgate Cloggers from Novi, a barbershop quartet and kids gymnastics group.

The combination of the Roadrunner Classic and Bargain Bazaar makes for a day-long family adventure in downtown Northville. After shopping and enjoying the entertainment at the Bargain Bazaar on Saturday the whole family can get a little exercise by participating in the Classic one-mile run or the Classic 8k. These events begin at 6 p.m. for the one-mile run and 6:30 for the 8k run.

The Roadrunner Classic race course has been changed from previous years to include a run through Hines Park.

Roadrunner Classic gets 'back to basics'

If there's one thing members of the Redford Roadrunner Club have learned how to do in the past 16 years, it's how to throw a good party. That's what will draw more than 1,200 runners and walkers from throughout the metropolitan Detroit area to Northville the evening of Friday, July 30 for the 16th celebration of the Roadrunner Classic.

This year's Classic comprises an eight kilometer race and a one mile fun run and walk. The fun run and walk begins at 6 p.m.; the 8k begins at 6:30. Both races start and finish in downtown Northville, but the 8k has a different course than in years past. According to Classic Race Director Belinda Lee, the race begins on Main Street and ends on Cady Street in Northville, but much of the course follows Hines Drive out of town and back again. "We wanted to keep the downtown Northville involvement, but this course requires less blocking of neighborhood streets, which was an inconvenience to residents and required large numbers of volunteer course marshals," Lee notes.

Members of the Redford Roadrunner Club, a loosely organized group of runners who meet every Tuesday to run out of St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township, voted to take a "back to basics" approach to this year's Classic. "That's why we moved back to holding just the two races (previous years featured a 5k walk)," Lee says. She adds that the after-race party will continue to live up to its reputation as one of the running community's favorite summer gatherings.

Members of the community and visitors to Northville have come to anticipate race night as well, when the downtown gazebo becomes the source of music (this year there will be a DJ spinning audience favorites) and young and old alike join in dancing under the stars. Thanks to the Classic's newest major sponsor, Busch's Markets, there will be plenty of food for party-goers. Members of the Northville Rotary are pitching in to cook hot dogs for the crowd. Other sponsors include the Great Harvest Bread Co. and Rain Soft Water, who will be keeping race participants hydrated and carbo-loaded.

The Classic is being held in conjunction with Northville's Bargain Bazaar, sponsored by the Northville Central Business District, so participants and spectators are urged to come early and shop prior to the race. Registration is being held in the Cady Street parking structure from 4-6 p.m. The 8k costs $15 on race day; while the fun run/walk is $5 for those under the age of 14 and $8 for everyone else. Those who just want to come for the party can participate for $5. Tanktop T-shirts cost another $8 and will be available for sale on race day. The Boon Loot store in Northville also is carrying the shirts for sale.

While the Classic offers no prize money, there will be plenty of awards. The top finishers in age groups incremented every five years from age 18 on will be eligible for awards. "We like to make the race a rewarding experience for runners of all ages. We attract a lot of elite runners who like to do the race because it's such a fun evening, but the large number of age categories means a lot of area runners get to take home some hardware," Lee says.

In addition, many area businesses have donated merchandise that will be raffled off at the post-race party.

The Classic has long been a labor of love for members of the Redford Roadrunners, who use the race as the club's major fund-raising source and a way to bring the running community together for an evening of fun. Most races are held in the morning, so the Classic remains one of the few evening events. It first was held in Livonia in 1984, but in 1993, was moved to Northville. Various club members have taken on the big job of race director over the years. Last Year's volunteer director was well-known marathoner Doug Kurtis, who since has gone on to act as race director for this year's Detroit Free Press Marathon.

Laurel Park, from Livonia is a five-time winner of the Roadrunner Classic.

Downtown Northville is the backdrop, once again, for the 16th annual Roadrunner Classic. The race course has changed a bit this year, as runners will be traveling through a portion of nearby Hines Park. The event runs in conjunction with the Central Business Association's Bargain Bazaar, which takes place throughout the weekend.

"SOFT TOUCH" CHIROPRACTIC

Kathy Duncan had a satisfying full time career as a registered nurse in critical care when she decided to pursue a degree as a Doctor of Chiropractic. The career move came when Dr. Duncan found relief from her migraine headaches after being treated by a Doctor of Chiropractic. In chiropractic treatment, Dr. Duncan found her problem resolved when other methods of treatment failed.

This prompted Dr. Duncan to become a chiropractor. She graduated from Life Chiropractic College in 1986, where she was president of her class. In 1990, Dr. Duncan opened Soft Touch Chiropractic in Novi.

Dr. Duncan practices a soft, gentle, non-invasive pressure point treatment for all types of pain or discomfort in the back, neck, head or legs. With the spine as the focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure on points along the muscles in conjunction with the spine. With the muscles relaxed, the spine can readjust itself naturally.

Tight muscles caused by stress, tension, strains or trauma can pull the spinal column out of alignment. This can produce many types of pain or discomfort in the body.

Dr. Kathy Duncan

Located at 23895 Novi Road, Suite 400 in Novi, Soft Touch Chiropractic is open Monday, Tuesday, and Friday 9:00 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. Wednesday 12:30 to 6:30 p.m. The phone number is (248) 348-2000.

Race has some classic memories

Entering its 16th year of existence, the annual RoadRunner Classic has accumulated a history unto itself, collecting many classic memories along the way.

And Northville resident Doug Kurtis can still remember the day the race was born.

"The race originated in the basement of my house," Kurtis recalled. "The name of our running club is the Redford RoadRunners and that's where we got the name from."

Actually the club stole the idea for the race from the Trenton Treadmill Race. It was an evening race that included different activities the entire night.

The RoadRunner Classic originated in Livonia in 1984 and involved an 8-kilometer race and a one mile fun run, as well as a party to cap things off. In 1988 a junior classic race was added and the original race teamed up the the Trenton Treadmill and the Allen Park 8Ks to form a "Twilight Triple Crown." That lasted five years before the race was moved to its current site in Northville.

"We liked the party in Livonia, but not the course," Kurtis said. "Northville has been known as a running community and I felt like we'd get the support of the city and community, especially the businesses."

Since the move the race has continued to thrive, as race coordinators have continued to make annual improvements. This year the course has been altered, bringing runners through a portion of Hines Park.

And the response has been great with downtown businesses as well. This year the classic will be run during the Central Business Association's Bargain Bazaar, which traditionally brings plenty of visitors to downtown Northville.

Still one of the top 50 races in Michigan, the RoadRunner Classic had close to 1,200 entrants last year, and looks to draw close to that number this year as well

DO YOU SUFFER FROM . . . ASTHMA, ALLERGIES, EYE IRRITATIONS, SNEEZING, CONSTANT ILLNESS, VIRUSES, RHINITIS, HEADACHES OR TROUBLE BREATHING?

"Some substances in Air Ducts are Biopollutants such as Fungi, Bacteria, Viruses and Allergens. Micro-organisms grow in air ducts whenever organic particles are moistened by condensation. These are continually carried to the building's living areas. All ventilation systems need periodic cleaning"

IMPORTANT: NOT ALL DUCT CLEANERS ARE ALIKE

What to look for in Air Duct Cleaning Firms:

1. Make sure they are members of NADCA (National Air Duct Cleaners Association.)
2. Try to find a certified firm. We were one of the first NADCA staff members certified and we're also a certified firm through MSHI (Mechanical Systems Hygiene Institute.) Don't be afraid to ask for proof or call NADCA in Washington D.C. at (202) 737-2926.
3. Get an in-home quote! There are many companies that quote low prices over the phone and add on charges once they begin the job. True professionals inspect before they quote prices.
4. Proper cleaning procedures. Source removal is the method recommended by NADCA. This basically consists of: 1) Creating a negative air flow (suctioning throughout the ventilation system); 2) Air washing each and every duct with highly compressed air. All vent covers must be removed for a proper and thorough job. Any other way is an improper shortcut; 3) Cleaning trunk lines in basement with large brushes and compressed air; 4) Cleaning blowers in furnace; 5) Vacuuming coils; 6) Washing and replacing all vent covers; 7) Spraying biocide when needed.

OUR UNIFORMED TECHNICIANS WILL TAKE CARE OF YOUR HOUSE LIKE IT'S THEIR OWN!

In order to qualify for NADCA membership, our firm is required to adhere to the organization's comprehensive performance standards and mandatory code of ethics. Here at VentCorp we pledge to maintain NADCA requirements and pledge to our customers that we will do everything possible to ensure a quality cleaning job of your home's ventilation system.

REMEMBER! All Duct Cleaners Must Be Licensed In The State Of Michigan To Clean Air Ducts!
