Asphalt versus concrete

Opinions differ as to which is better for our roads

By JEREMY MCBAIN Staff Writer

For many city, county and state governments, choosing between concrete and asphalt when building a road is like trying to decide if a glass of water is half-full or half-empty.

The issue even confounds Novi City Manger Ed Kriewall, who 30 years ago was a road inspector for the Michigan Department of Transportation.

To say in Novi, one is better than the other, I don't think you could say, Kriewall said.

Novi Department of Public Services Director Anthony Nowicki agreed. Unfortunately, in my opinion, there is really no exact science as to which product to pick," he explained. Nowicki said there are a lot of factors to look at when choosing between asphalt or concrete for a road.

"Fortunately, it is not a one person decision," he added. But for many local and state governments this decision really comes down to "A lot of the decision making is based on a budget. Governments are driven by how much money you have to spend on a road system," said Dave Wilson, Region Construction Engineer for the Michigan Department of Transportation.

However, Wilson noted, "If we didn't have to worry about budget, we would have to use both (asphalt and concrete). In a perfect world, we would still have two industries. If we picked one product over the other, one would go out of business."

Wilson added both products are very good products, but there are many variables that are used to decide which to pick for road construction. These variables are; budget, traffic volumes, type of ground under the pavement and life of the pave-

In next week's "Road Work Ahead" coverage, Chris Davis tells us about the physical and mental problems that plague drivers battling road construction.

Concrete is made out of four materials: cement, stone, sand and water.

All of these materials are mixed together at a concrete plant, after this it is put into trucks to be delivered to a job site where it is placed on prepared ground, Wilson said. The concrete must then remain untouched until it hardens.

Sometimes the concrete is placed on top of a wire mesh to prevent shrinkage and cracks. This gives more life to the concrete by making it stronger.

According to Bob Risser, executive director of the Michigan Concrete Pavers Association, concrete's strength is its selling Concrete simply lasts longer than asphalt, he said. For an example of this, Risser pointed to the concrete Davidson Freeway, which lasted 53 years before it needed to be rebuilt.

That is the kind of longevity we have specifically seen on roads with concrete,"

Along with longevity, comes the material's ability to hold up well to Michigan weather and traffic weight, Risser said. ,

Due to the Michigan's industrial and agricultural economy, heavy trucks frequently travel many of the state highways and roads. Risser said concrete has been proven to hold up to the weight on these trucks much better than asphalt.

In addition to lasting longer than asphalt. Risser said concrete also costs less than asphalt in the long run. Many governments make a decision to spend less money on asphalt today, but the material won't last as long, he said.

They have to (rebuild the road) again and again," Risser said, adding that this ends up costing the taxpayers more money after a long period of time.

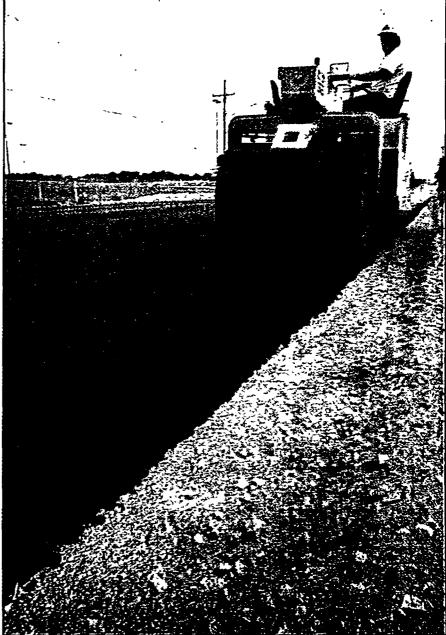

But ask that the asphalt industry about all this and the response is that asphalt is the better road material.

"First off, the biggest advantage to asphalt is it is the best buy for taxpayers." said John Becsey, managing director of the Michigan Asphalt Paving Association.

In direct contrast to Risser, Becsey said over asphalt's average lifespan of 20 to 30 years, it will cost less money to maintain than concrete and requires less care.

Unlike concrete, asphalt is made of three

Maile leaves NHS for principal post at Milford school

*Northville's loss is Lakeland's gain," said principal Tom Johnson. "We wish him well."

However, Maile's announcement to leave his position did not come as a big surprise to Johnson.

The position became available after the Sam Osborn, former principal of Lakeland, took over as personnel director for the Huron Valley district. Maile said such moves seemed to be happening with greater frequency among educators, quoting a statistic that

Commissioners' attendance less than perfect

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Some members of the Northville planning commission fail when it comes to planning on attending the board's meetings.

Though some say it's not a problem, an investigation by the Record found an absence rate of the commission of about 22 percent for 16 meetings held from August 1998 to August 1999.

Among those who missed the most meetings during the year were: Jim Allen, chairman of the commission, missing six of 16; Richard Birdsall, board member, missing seven of 16; Jerry Mittman, board member, missing six of 16.

said he doesn't see the absence rate as a problem.

You want people that are committed to the group to be there as often as possible," he said. "But the depth of this particular group means you still get positive results."

Word said there's never been a problem with having a quorum, which means there must be five of nine members present. Additionally, he said the fact that the commission chairman's ranks first on the

Bankes seeks answers to Nield inquiry

Nield was the subject of a fivemonth police investigation that originated from the office of Walsh.

Walsh said he received a letter from a concerned citizen that Nield was abusing Northville school district property as part of his involvement with Families for a Better Northville. The organization threatened to launch a recall effort of Woodside and other board of trustee members if they didn't work more closely with the district in trying to come up with a settlement over the dispute of the new Northville High School.

The original complaint was filed by Walsh with the Northville Police Department in early March. Jim Petres, Northville police chief, passed the investigation on to Michigan State Police in order to avoid any appearance of impropriety toward any of the groups involved.

The investigation by state police included 14 interviews that ranged from Northville school officials to employees of the district to Nield, including a visit from state police who asked to see receipts for the $12,000 worth of supplies used in the mini-campaign.

The investigation ended in July and the Wayne County prosecutor's office found no evidence of wrongdoing on the part of Nield.

Nield subsequently told The Record he is in contact with his attorney and conducting an investigation of his own to determine whether or not there was any wrongdoing on the part of the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

Originally Bankes said she thought the county was on a witch hunt for Jim Nield.

She said her investigation was started after she received a telephone call from Nield last week in which he explained his concerns to her.

New assisted living facility specilizes in Alzheimer care

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Sheri Landry's face lights up with excitement when she thinks about one of Northville Township's newest businesses opening.

The business is Addington Place. 42050 Seven Mile Road, a $4 million assisted-living facility specializing in treating Alzheimer's disease. The facility opens Aug. 15. Landry is the director.

One of the most Important things provided by Addington. Landry said, is the attempt to provide a normal life for those with Alzheimer's. The disease affects a person's brain and can make the person forget things as simple as walking or family mem-

Addington also is open to those who may not have memory impairment as associated with Alzheimer's, but have physical frailties. Landry said.

Either way, residents of Addington will have programs customized for them to meet their own needs, she said.

For example, if residents chose to do so, they could help in the kitchen area with cooking and baking.

"We want to provide them the opportunity to keep living a nor-administration, meal preparation mal life as much as possible." she said.

Addington Place is owned by Northville resident Carl Sincox. He owns 10 other assisted-living facilities in the metro Detroit area and said he's glad to open his latest venture in Northville.

I happen to live in the area so I knew there was a need for this service," he said. Sincox said the level of service provided by the trained staff sets it apart from other assisted-living facilities.

"Here it's much more personalized," he said. "And that comes from having a skilled staff."

There still are about 20 openings for residence at Addington. More information on the business may be obtained by calling (248) 305-9600.

Racial literature discovered in city neighborhood

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Residents of the Ely Drive and Center Street neighborhood were greeted to several hundred Nazi propaganda flyers July 28.

The flyers, which were picked up by the Northville department of public works after reports of the flyers were passed on to them, were signed by the American Nazi Party and have a post office box in East Pointe and a telephone number with a 734 area code. The telephone number connects to a prerecorded message that tells people how to donate money and answers questions people have supposedly mailed to the group.

In addition to the telephone numbers and name of the group. the flyers contain racial siurs against blacks and foreigners.

Susan Hatch, spokesman for the Northville Police Department, said this has happened before in the city of Northville.

The only way those responsible for the flyers would get in trouble is if they were witnessed littering. Additionally, those responsible could face punishment because it's against city ordinance to pass out handbills without a permit. she said.

As a result, though, police are not investigating the incident. she said.

The American Nazi Party also dropped flyers in Novi in early Novi police Detective John Nelson told the Novi News the group is run by Eastpointe resident Rocky Suhayda. Additionally, they said he's been involved in neo-Nazi organizations for 20 years.

Nelson said Suhayda is being monitored by the Eastpointe Police Department and Anti-Defamation League.

Downtown development?

Cady Street targeted for residential, business development

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

OK, so Main Street Junior or Main Street II don't exactly roll off the tongue.

Still, the names might be appropriate for Cady Street as developers continue to eye the thoroughfare as the prime prospect for what appears to be the next wave of residential and business development

Cady runs parallel to Main Street one block south of it.

There is a lot of open space there and it's easier to develop, said Gary Word. Northville city

Word said Cady Street has never been the city's first choice in trying to attract potential developers to Northville, but the city won't exactly turn away those interested in it.

"It's a little bit of a deviation, but we do have to consider these things," he said.

Lori Ward, executive director of the Northville Downtown Development Authority, said developing

"The land is really underdeveloped. There's nothing there and it's really ugly as it currently exists."

> Dennis Engerer Northville developer

Cady falls in line with at least one goal the city has.

"We would like to get as many new businesses and residential units downtown as possible," Ward

The DDA was introduced by Ward this week to a new project in the works on the part of Cambridge Development Co. that has the company constructing a 30,000-square-foot business and residential building. The building, estimated to be a $3 million project and bring about 85 new jobs to Northville, would be built along Cady Street opposite the parking

If the project moves along, the city would be requested by Cambridge to exchange some land it has in the area in part for the city parking lot where the building would be built.

Ward said the city-owned parking lot where the building is proposed rarely is used.

"I drive by there everyday just to see what's going on." Ward said.
"There's rarely any parking going on there."

The Cambridge Development project, which Ward said really is in the conceptual stage, is the second such development to come before the city this year.

The first was a $1.5 million to $2 million office development on the corner of Cady and Church

Northville resident and developer Dennis Engerer bought two lots on the corner of the two streets with plans to construct the business building. "The land is really underdeveloped," he told The Record in April.

"There's nothing there and it's really ugly as it currently exists." As part of the Engerer's development, a vacant home on the corner of Cady and Church will be knocked down along with an apartment building he owns to the north of the house.

And as other developers look to Northville, Ward said there won't be any hesitation to guide them to

The DDA will iron out issues such as how much residential. office and retail will be preferred in the upcoming months.

"We really need to see what the DDA envisions for the area," Ward

Representatives from Cambridge have requested to go before the Northville DDA at its Sept. 14.

Township resident files lawsuit to save backyard deck

A Northville Township man wants officials to keep all hands off his deck.

Matthew Ospeck, 19667 Windridge Drive, has filed a lawsuit against the township in an attempt to prevent it from ordering him to take down a deck he added on to his home.

Problems started after the Northville Township board of zon-ing appeals voted 2-1 with two members absent to deny his request to build a deck with a minimum 7.5 foot setback from a sideyard instead of the standard 15-foot setback. However, Ospeck applied for the variance after the deck already was built.

Ospeck told the Record he didn't want to comment on the case.

Additionally, the two board members who voted to deny the variance, William Selinsky and Don Samhat, were unavailable for comment.

However, Ospeck said during a March zoning board of appeals meeting he had intended to build a paved walkway around the house instead of a deck, but that the area was so wet he decided to build a deck.

Selinsky said the deck "does encroach significantly in to the side yard set back." "Mr. Selinsky stated that he was sure that Mr. Ospeck would want the benefit of the township's zoning ordinance applied equally to all his neighbors as well so that they don't build out into his yard," the minutes from the board meeting said. Ospeck said he didn't realize he needed a permit before the deck was built because of the the design and that it was a part of the landscape scheme.

Before a deck is built in the township, several criteria must be met, including: meeting all township engineering standards for drainage; meeting all current adopted township building code requirements; access to the site needs to be maintained from the south side of the lot; permits were not obtained before construction begins: a complete plan review required by the building division.

Selinsky and Samhat voted down the motion to approve the variance because they didn't think the criteria was met.

Asphalt versus concrete: which is better on roads?

materials and does not need time to harden after being put into place

Asphalt is made of liquid asphalt, stone and sand. The liquid asphalt must be heated to about 300 degrees to be mixed with the stone and sand. Even at this temperature, the asphalt can be taken to a job site, put down and used by traffic in much less time than concrete.

Because of this. Becsey said asphalt paving crews can work during off-peak hours on a road and have the road open for traffic during peak hours.

Becsey added that because of the materials used in asphalt, it is completely recyclable. Material taken from asphalt roads when they are repaired is sometimes taken back to an asphalt plant to be reused.

In addition to costing less and providing a road surface to traffic faster. Becsey said asphalt is also quieter than concrete.

Because there are no joints in asphalt, traffic traveling on asphalt roads create less noise than on concrete roads.

As far as holding up under traffic and weather. Becsey said asphalt still scores better than concrete.

He said a properly-designed asphalt road can withstand any type of weather and any kind of load. In addition, because asphalt is a dark color, snow melts off of it faster, Becsey said.

Even with testimony from each side of the issue, local road engineers and city officials still have a hard time deciding which material is the right choice, especially when it comes to weather.

"I think when it gets very bad,
Mother Nature has a pretty detrimental effect on each," said

MDOT's Wilson.

But Kriewall said he believes asphalt is better in Michigan weather than concrete. Asphalt is completely resistant to salt and

> Ed Kriewall Novi city manager holds up better under freezing and thawing because it is more flexible than concrete, the Novi city manager explained.

Kriewall added asphalt looks better in some areas than concrete because of its darker color. For example, asphalt used on Meadowbrook Road between Twelve Mile and Thirteen Mile Roads blends in better to its country surroundings, he said.

But, in some cases, concrete is the better choice, Kriewall added. For example, if the ground under asphalt is bad, the asphalt road could fail. If the ground under concrete is bad, there is less of a chance that it would cause the concrete to fail.

Regardless of their differences, Kriewall pointed out that with the right engineering, both asphalt and concrete can be designed to be equal. Thus, in the end, neither can be said to be more beneficial than the other.

"We actually brought in both representatives (from asphalt and concrete paving associations) and had a debate. When they got done, I don't think anyone could decide. They both put up good arguments," said Kriewall.

School board welcomes new trustees

The Northville school board adds two fresh but not unfamiliar faces to their meetings this year.

Jerry Rupley and Gregory Pelc are two new members of the school board family after being elected June 14 to replace Robert McMahon and Richard Brown.

*Both Jerry and Greg have been involved previously, both are very intelligent, and have lots of energy." said Mike Poterala, president of the school board.

Pelc and Rupley have very similar aspirations and goals for their time as trustees. Both Pelc and Rupley said they are anxious to see the completion of all the bond projects and praised the existing academic programs of the district.

existing programs to continue to make improvement," Rupley said.

Pelc emphasized the need to avoid going along with unproven trends in education as far as new curriculum is concerned. Rupley echoed Pelc's sentiment.

We are interested in not simply implementing the new fad." he

Both Pelc and Rupley said they had reservations about running for school board.

"If Dick (Brown) and Bob (McMahon) had continued to run, I wouldn't have run," Pelc joked. However, Rupley's reticence was

"I didn't t think that I'd be able to do it because of the time factor," he said. "There's a certain amount a matter of time.

"We will be evaluating new and of seasoning one has to go through."

Though Rupley and Pelc are similar in many of their beliefs, they each said they'll be bringing unique qualities to the table. Pelc said he was very concerned about the MEAP tests and would like to see some changes in the future. but believed scores were nonetheless strong.

Pelc said he was also interested in finding ways to help students who need extra help in preparing for the MEAP.

"We don't want to see anyone left behind. We want everyone to do well," Pelc said. Rupley's strength is in educational finance. When it comes to those types of issues he is an expert," Poterala

Rupley gained such expertise after his years as a higher educa-tion and finance attorney for Miller, Canfield, Paddock, and Stone in Bloomfield Hills. "I have an understanding of the government process which I think will be helpful," Rupley said.

Pelc said the talents of all board members could not be overstated.

"I may not have the expertise or the education, but there are seven people on the board and each is a piece of the puzzle." he said.

Both Pelc and Rupley said they were very excited to be members of the school board and were looking forward to the new year.

They have different perspectives, neither of which are any less vital or important," Poterala said.

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

It's no secret that residential developments are at the heart of what's coming to Northville Township in the next year or so. One not-so-small part of that collection of new homes is The Ravines of Northville.

Priced to sell from around $475,000 to $675,000 each, the community of 111 homes is being built near the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

Information from Ravines codeveloper Fairchild Development said the homes will offer from 3,160 square feet all the way up to 3.760 square feet.

The tentative date for completion of the subdivision is the spring or summer of 2000, but work is readily underway right

The sub will have two small ponds within the development, as well as planned footpaths connecting residences to Middle Rouge Park, which is located northeast from the main living areas. Landscaping on all the properties will be required, pursuant to deed restrictions in the Ravines.

The Ravines' homes are being built primarily by Robert Jones Associates, Pace Development and Classic Homes.

We offer Assisted Living through a carefully structured and comprehensive program.

Personalized care and social activities designed to stimulate body and mind. By focusing our efforts in small groups in our residential setting, we are able to accomodate Active/Alert Memory Impaired, Frail/Recovering, and Alzheimers residents. We welcome Respite.

Bushwood loses its liquor license

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The liquor license of Bushwood Golf Course was taken by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission last week.

The commission confiscated the license after an investigation discovered more than 10 percent of the business had been sold and the Class 'C' liquor license transferred without approval from the commission

"As of right now they are not licensed, said Chip Snider. Northville Township director of public safety.

The liquor control commission investigated the books and records of the business "and observed in certain evidence, including copies of tax filings and other business records, that showed a transfer to Tyweeb Properties Inc. of more than 10 percent of the stock or assets of the interest in the licensed business during June 1997, without obtaining prior approval of the Michigan liquor control commission.

The commission charged that on and after June 9, 1997 (Haggerty Hills) sell or transfer the license in the aggregate more than 10 percent of the stock or assets of the interest in the license to Tyweeb Properties Inc. without prior approval of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission con-

The penalty for not obtaining the prior approval was a suspension of the license until a $200 fine was paid. The suspension meant no liquor could be sold or served at the site.

Bushwood would not return any calls to the Record to answer ques-

Detective Fred Yankee, Northville Township police, said the suspension doesn't have anything to do with the recent trouble Bushwood was in.

The business was written up by township police after serving alcohol on its course from a golf cart to two police officers without the proper permit.

Township planners approve cellular tower construction

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Two new cell towers that will help elevate recreational funds have been approved by the Northville Township planning com-

A third cell tower has been referred to the zoning board of appeals for a variance request.

The two towers approved - one in Community Park adjacent to Scott Correctional Facility and one on township land on Seven Mile Road across from the Michigan State Police 2nd District headquarters - were done so with certain conditions, according to planning commission minutes.

Conditions included among others: the company must conduct landscaping; buildings must be constructed in a certain manner: minimum setback requirements must be met.

The towers will be constructed by Trinity Wireless Towers and will have the capacity to put five or six companies on one tower.

Trinity must rent the land the towers will be on from the township and will present $300,000 to the township up front.

Mary Gans. Northville Township board of trustee, said the township wins all the way around.

"It's a good thing," he said. These companies could come in here and each put up their own tower. With this method we can co-locate a number of companies and reduce the number of towers that need to be built."

The towers are about 160 feet tall and the areas where they are built require a number of buildings necessary to run the tower effectively.

The Community Park tower is to be located adjacent to Scott Correctional Facility, the east Seven Mile Road location will be deep in patch of trees and the west Seven Mile Road location - if a variance is received from the zoning board would be located behind the fire station on Seven Mile Road.

Gans said the $300,000 received from Trinity initially will be used to offset the cost of lighting two soccer fields and two baseball diamonds at Community Park.

To get approved. Trinity had to first obtain a contract through the Northville Township board of trustees. The company then had to receive site plan approval from the planning commission.

Maureen Osiecki. Northville Township director of planning. said the process wasn't an easy one for Trinity.

There is an ordinance for this type of thing in place," she said. The township have very stringent regulations as to where the towers

Additionally, she said. Trinity hopes to construct the towers as soon as possible.

"They want to get in here as soon as possible because they have customers lined up," she

Peters' will be sorely missed by seniors

Something extremely sad happened last week.

Most of you probably didn't notice. what with summer vacations to finish, back-to-school shopping to do. a few final dips in the pool.

But if you are a senior citizen in Northville, and you frequent the Senior Center with any regularity. you know exactly what I'm talking

A good friend of ours has left us. Carl Peters, the Senior Center Coordinator for the past 15 years, said goodbye last week. And while that might not seem like earth shattering news to many of us, to those who have come to rely on Carl the news is somewhat akin to saying goodbye to a member of the family.

Because you see, Carl Peters was much more than the coordinator of the center, Carl Peters was the cen-

"It's like losing a member of your family," said Florence Orr, a regular at the center. He's a wonderful person. Nobody can fill his shoes.'

Well for Orr's sake, and the sake of the dozens of senior citizens who have benefited from this program. let's hope city and township officials can find someone who can fill Carl's

That's how important Peter's has become to the center, and to the seniors of this community.

And I haven't even gotten to the sad part yet. But fear not, it's com-

First let me tell you what type of impact Peters had on this program and the people it served. Carl began working at the Senior Center part time, while still waiting tables at the Dearborn Inn. He was hired to help implement several innovative programs geared towards keeping Northville senior citizens active and vital in the community.

We were such a young program that we really got to be pioneers in a way," Peters explained. "Our advisory council was very forward thinking."

So the programs grew, along with Peter's connection to the senior's who took part. He began organizing more trips and programs. Soon seniors were traveling to watch the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, or taking trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Year after year the programs flourished. And so did the seniors. "It's their personalities and they're upbeat way of looking at things," he said. "I've been to other senior centers and (senior citizens) are fine talking about their illnesses, but we don't have to do that here."

That's what makes Carl Peters a special man. He deserves a salute from this community for the impact he's made with our elderly. Unfortunately that's not quite what has happened.

Now comes the sad part. He didn't have to leave.

What this community needs to know is that Carl Peters has left due to personal reasons. He wouldn't tell us what those reasons were - he's too classy of a guy to point fingers. But let me tell you, a person doesn't leave a position he's held and loved for 15 years, to go to work in another community at a far lesser rate of pay unless something is wrong.

And that's what Carl Peters did. That's what makes his story so sad to tell.

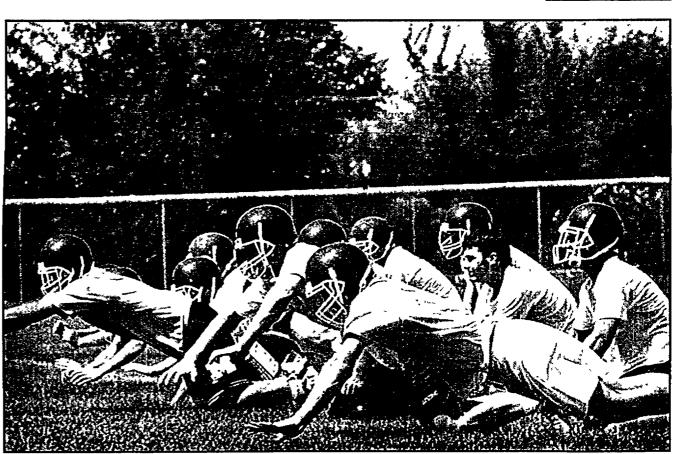

Because I'm fearful those in positions of making decisions for the senior center are not as serious as Carl was in ensuring the seniors in this community are taken care of. It seems lately the focus is solely on our youth, and while that is, indeed. a very important and worthwhile focus to have, it should not take away from our responsibilities to our

And that's the message I want to leave with those decision makers. It is important for you to continue what Carl Peters began. Anything less would be an injustice to the very people who built this community into a very fine place to live.

Signs of autumn

Member of the Novi High School varsity football team work on leg strength exercises during football camp Monday.

No complaints...I'm just glad to be here

Okay, so this is Northville's big chance to get to know the new kid at the paper. To find out just what in the heck is going through her head about Northville thus far. What dirt does she have? What social injustice is she going to right with the ferocity of a pit bull reporter?

I hate to disappoint you Northville, but I got nothing!

I have nothing to gripe about yet! Everyone's been nice. Everyone's been helpful. Give me a break people, I need to prove myself as a hard nosed journalist here!

But Just to prove that I do have an opinion, that I do in fact think about things I found one thing (and trust me. Northville, I had to dig for this).

Now this thing is something that I think may just be intrinsic to me, but let me know if this is a problem for you too. I am speaking of the dreaded parking tickets.

I do not care what city I go to, what time of day it is, what good luck charms I am carrying. I get the ticket. I swear I have seen the parking lot where my car resides for the day with cars totally devoid of tickets. I go to my car thinking I, too, had managed to clude the system when - lo and behold - there is a city love note stuck to my windshield

Melanie Plenda

Now like I said, I have encountered this phenomenon before. When I was in college, I think I personally funded the building of the Breslin Center at MSU. But I thought that once I had moved into the real world that'my ticket-checkered past would be left at 54-B District Court.

What intrigues me about this is the seemingly arbitrary nature with which the ticket god delvers his glad tidings. I was so intrigued, in fact, that I conducted a little experiment.

Let me start by telling you that I do not wantonly break traffic or parking laws. I did in fact try to find a parking spot where the employees are supposed to park. However, much to my chagrin, every Tom, Dick and Toyota is parked there. So I am forced to park in the two-hour parking. That being said, my experiment consisted of parking in the same spot, if I could, every day for the eight hours or longer that I am

The first day, nothing. The second day, nothing. I began to think that maybe I had lost favor with the ticket god when, alas, on the third day he bestowed me with that fine laden gift. I got so excited that I almost forgot it was a ticket that I had to pay. The fourth and fifth day produced the same results except I was not as amused by it as before.

Through my research I discovered and proved conclusively, if only to myself, that there is no rhyme or reason to this ticket madness. However, here are some tips that might help the next hapless hatchback hero out there. If you absolutely must park in a timed spot, do it on a day that is really hot, raining really hard, or it looks like a there's a threat of locusts. The parking police seem to show mercy those days. If you are really daring though, just for giggles, try parking where you are supposed to for the amount of time

Preserving our lakes is important task

"I been to Michigan before and I love yer Great Lakes," a guy named Jack Murphy told me in a slow Texan drawl.

This visitor from San Antonio, located in the heart of one of the famed "Sunbelt" states, was telling me why he liked to travel to a "Rustbelt" state like Michigan. I had to

We've got the Gulf, a course, and I like go swimmin' there. But, as soon as you jump in the water, you have to do this ... Murphy made a comical face, scrunching it up to clamp his eyes and mouth tightly shut.

It's the salt water, he explained. "It makes yer eyes sting. It tastes nasty."

"Ya don't have to do that in the Great Lakes. They are so much nicer to swim in." I met Murphy in Dearborn just one day before I, my wife, our three kids and two dogs were scheduled to jump in the family van and head off on our annual pilgrimage to Michigan's great northern forests. Each year we make the trek to an old log cabin on the north shore of Higgins Lake.

If Murphy likes the Great Lakes, he'd love Higgins. And I recommended it to him.

If you are not familiar with it, Higgins is one of this state's most beautiful recreational inland lakes. God must have had swimmers in mind when he put it there. It's crystal clear. The lake bottom, nearly all sand, is quite shallow, waist to chest deep, for about 100 yards off the shoreline before it drops off. The result is a huge area where young and old can wade out and do a bit of splashing around.

But I'd be lying if I told you all was well with Michigan lakes, even Higgins. In the past few years, I've noticed signs of stress even in that great northern lake.

Few people would even notice the little clumps of seaweed that are beginning to take hold on the bottom but it's sure sign nutrients are making their way into the lake.

Mike Malott

And if it's happening way up north, imagine what the problem is like in southeast Michigan. Well in this area, in fact, it is nothing new. Lakefront homeowners in the Detroit metro area have battling with excessive weed and algae growth in their swimming holes for years. It has long since reached the point that many area lakes are suffering from "eutrophication, " that is accelerated

Much of the problem is due to run off from development, carrying with it the nutrients that spur the weed and algae growth. There are also natural sources. Bird droppings around the lake, for instance, certainly adds to the nutrients in the water.

Sen. Gary Peters. D-Bloomfield Township. told me recently that 80 percent of pollution in lakes in this area is from humans, mainly the result of sewer overflows and failing septic systems. I know the Department of Environmental Quality thinks that's the primary problem at Higgins Lake. It has been pressuring the cabin owners there to install sewers to replace all the old septic systems crowded around the lake. I'm in favor that, but most other cabin owners there object to the costs. And I can appreciate that. The expense of sewers would be hard on some people's pocketbooks.

Still, there is one source of pollution that could be eliminated today and would not cost anyone a penny. In fact, it would save homeowners money.

It's lawn fertilizer.

I can't figure out exactly why people drive three hours to spend their time at a cabin in the northern woods manicuring a tiny patch of grass. But some do. And it seems that more of them are doing it these days.

In southeast Michigan, where most of the landowners live on the lake year-round, the problem is even worse. For some reason, many feel the need to coiffure their lawns right to the edge of the lake. I don't get the point. Isn't a shoreline lot supposed to be a little sandy with relatively sparse vegetation . like a beach?

When it rains, much of the fertilizer - if not most of it - ends up in the lake, fertiliz-ing seaweed and algae rather than the lawn. For some reason, the state has yet to ban the use of lawn fertilizer near lakes. although clearly it should. There should be a 100-yard, or perhaps even a 200-yard, nofertilizer zone around all lakes, streams, rivers and watercourses in the state.

Lawmakers may argue such a ban would be hard to enforce, but I can't see why it would be any more difficult than enforcing the state's ban on burning leaves, enacted in part for the same reason, to keep rain runoff from flushing ashes and partially burned leaves into the lakes.

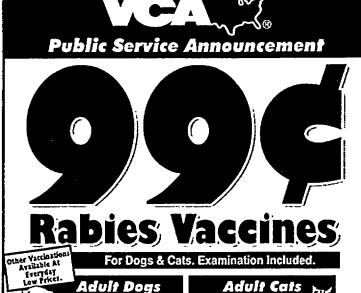

Some homeowners would howl over such a restriction, just as they did with the burning ban. But whose interests does it serve, really, to have a pool-table-like yard right to the water's edge?

The spirit of the Highlanders lives on

The spirit of the Scottish Highlanders lives on in my family.

Along with this spirit, the Clan McBain (also spelled MacBean) also has the Scottish habit of holding grudges. This fact presented itself to me recently over a grudge match between the Clan MacBean Society and the St. Andrew's Highland Festival organizers over last weekend's event in Livonia. Let me take a break here to provide some background information. I am Scottish and I take this very seriously. I attend many cultural events celebrating Scotland and I even play the bagpipes.

I also am offended when someone asks me what I am wearing under my kilt. I don't ask what you wear under your pants. During a festival I was visiting in Northern Michigan last May, I asked the MacBean Society representative if she was coming to the Livonia festival. She gave me an angry no." Her reasoning was several clans were boycotting the festival because of so-called "poor" treatment shown to them by organizers of the Livonia festival: In addition, she said, they made rules that offended some of the clans. While these rules were really insignificant, it was a matter of honor and she urged my to stay away from the games

This is a serious offense, for her at least. For me, even though I took my heritage seriously, I still wanted to go to the festival. So from that moment, I had something to think about. Do I follow the wishes of the clan and my heritage or do I go against them and attend the festival.

If a Highlander went against his family, if he ran into trouble, he would not have the support he needed. During the violent wars with England. when Scots were shot just for speaking their native language Gaelic, wearing a kilt or playing the bagpipes, it was vital that you have the strength of your family. Without, you were nothing more than a dead man in a kilt.

Even now, my family is my root. We are together through everything, all of the good and all of the bad. Sure, some family members have their arguments with each other, but no one would dare defy the rest.

While my clan representatives urging to stay away from the festival may seem small, it was not. Although this did not involve defying my

It was stupid to offend a clan. Clans had a nasty habit of forming grudges against you. In the old days, those grudges could end in an allout war with the clan. Now, it is simply a boycott.

The days of charging at our enemies, screaming with a sword in one hand, died a long time ago. Cannons were a big help. Think of it, would you charge a cannon with a sword because a country offended your family?

She reminded me how about fun these festivals were and increased my desire to go. The day of the festival, I stood at the window in my home looking outside, pondering what I should do. Behind me, I had my kilt and bagpipes laid out

Reader defends dentist, Atkins Diet plan

As a long time patient of Dr. James Payne, I would like to comment on the recent article and letter in the Northville Record. Dr. Payne is an excellent dentist as well as a very intelligent and concerned human being.

I am one of the patients with whom he shared his experience on the Atkins Diet. I had already come to the conclusion that I had trouble with yeast and sugar. Dr. Payne was not dispensing medical advice, he was enthusiasticalby explaining his own reactions to the Atkins Diet.

His explanations made sense given my experience. I have been following the Atkins Diet now since February with a total loss of 30 pounds. I have much more energy and fewer uncomfortable symptoms that I attribute to my problem with carbohydrates.

written by Melanie Plenda and published in the August 5, 1999 edition of the Northville Record. The title of the article was "A Leader in the Making." Why was it scary, you might ask. It was just an article about young people attending a youth leadership conference at the Nation's capitol. Yes, and it was a good arti-

I was encouraged that there are so many young people interested in leadership in our great nation. There was, however, one statement made by Powen Shiah, the young man featured in the article, that scared me. It went like this, The majority came to the mind set that it was okay, and the few people who didn't agree just stopped talking."

The statement was made in regard to a topic discussed in small groups that the young people engaged in after listening to debates on the floor of the House of Representatives. One of the debates on the floor was about the issue of same-sex marriage and it sounded like that was the topic Shiah was referring to in his statement. The part of Shiah's statement that really

I'm not criticizing the young Mr. Shiah, not at all. It's just that his statement revealed something to me. It revealed a mindset that says, if you disagree and you are in the minority, shutting up and going with the crowd is the best thing to do who cares if they're speaking truth or not. Wrong! If you disagree and you are in the minority, standing your ground is the best thing to do. Being in the minority and speaking your mind on such major and volatile issues as same-sex marriage is a tough thing to do. I can't say I'm really good at it, but this article has challenge me.

Please God, let not those few of us who disagree with the majority when it comes to important issues that our country is faced with, just stop talking. Thank God for the few who refuse to be quiet - especially those who are serving our country in visible

If they ever just stop talking. this country is in trouble. Cheryl Robbins Reader:Nield did nothing wrong To the editor

I see by the paper that Jim Nield annoyed people by writing about recall of township trustees includ-ing the part time Supervisor of Northville Township who is full time (?) in the Wayne Cty Prosecutors Office. According to the paper a letter was written to the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. Officially, nothing can proceed unless there is a letter alleging something to investigate. I read that Ray Walsh, a Wayne County Deputy Prosecutor filed a report of something to investigate with Jim Petres of the Northville Police. The Police Chief was said to have forwarded the allegations from Wayne County Prosecutors office to the State police who then took 5 months to find no evidence of wrongdoing on Nields part. Somewhere in the papers writings. the letter to the prosecutor's office became lost/missing/nonexistant and seemingly was supplanted by a phone call from an anonymous person. Ray Walsh did not "take the fifth", but according to the paper all mention of Ray Walsh has been deleted fromthe investigation for reasons of "privacy." This "whiteout" is seen to include the State Police. The Wayne County Prosecutors Office, and by default Lynn Banks our representative on the Wayne County Board of Commission.

Langham's life ended August 6, when he died of cardiac arrest at Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Langham had been hospitalized since Monday, Aug. 2, receiving dialysis treatment to relieve the symptoms from the failure of the kidney which his mother, Kathy Langham, had donated to him two years earlier.

Although the treatments were working, an unexpected heart malfunction took Langham's life.

"He was diagnosed with the disease since he was in the first grade," said Kathy Langham, a special education teacher in Northville.

"It was a slow deterioration of the kidneys, but it never seemed to let him down. It was many years before people knew he was

In addition to his mother, Langham is survived by his father. Keith, his sister Elizabeth, 20, who is attending the University of Michigan and his two grandmothers. Jessie Dryden and Elaine Langham.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Faith Community Presbyterian Church in Novi. Langham's body will be cremated and the ashes will be scattered in a memorial garden at the church where he sang for many years.

SEMCOG traffic study says roads are safer

The roads of southeast Michigan are getting to be a safer place to drive your car.

The number of traffic accidents in the seven county region decreased by 13.000 in 1998 when compared to the previous year, according to a report issued last week by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The total number of crashes in the region last year was 186,693. according to the report titled *1998 Southeast Michigan Crash Summary Statistics." The report is compiled annually by SEMCOG from accident reports filled out by local police, sheriffs departments and the Michigan State Police. The regional total in 1997 was 199,638,

The crash rate — the number of traffic crashes per vehicle miles traveled — decreased in the region as well. The overall crash rate in southeast Michigan was 4.39 crashes per million vehicle miles traveled in 1998, down from 4.79 crashes per million in 1997, despite the fact that vehicle miles traveled increased from 41,679 million in 1997 to 42,512 million in 1998." SEMCOG concluded in the report.

Other conclusions reached in the report:

• Injuries occurred in 25.3 percent of all accidents in the region. That's a decline for the third year in a row. Overall, southeast Michigan accounts for 51.8 percent of all injury crashes in the · Alcohol-related accidents are on the decline. There were 8,153 crashes in the region involving alcohol, a drop in the number for the fifth year in a row.

But alcohol-related accidents are more severe. In accidents not involving alcohol, injury results about a quarter of the time. In alcohol-related accidents, injury results 46.6 percent of the time.

• Injuries also occurred more frequently when seatbelts were not used. Only 14 percent of drivers overall are injured in accidents. But when belts are not used, the injury rate jumps to 42.9 percent. Some 7,100 men were not wearing belts when they got into an accident, twice the number of women who failed to wear restraints.

• Younger drivers were involved in more accidents. Drivers age 21-34 were involved in 27.9 percent of accidents, compared to 24.2 percent for drivers between the ages of 35 and 49.

Monroe County is the safest place to drive. The accident rate per million vehicle miles traveled there is only 2.5. Livingston County had the second lowest rate, 3.11. Oakland ranked fifth with a rate of 4.01 per million miles traveled. Wayne County was in last place, with a rate of 4.99.

Daly Ice Cream

Northville resident takes us along for the ride as he delivers his frozen treats

I'm your ice cream man stop me when I'm passing by...

They say all my flavors are guaranteed to satisfy...

-Van Halen, "Ice Cream Man"

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Staff Writer

When Joe Daly calls it a day and drives home from work, traveling 40 mph seems like the speed of light.

But that's mostly because he rarely touches the gas pedal when he's driving his Penguin ice cream truck through the streets of Northville and Northville

The only time I really get to hit the accelerator is if there's a hill," said Daly, 23. Other than that, I let the truck just roll along.

Daly's been trolling the neighborhoods in the white truck with the nonstop summertime jingles blaring since he was 18, due mostly to the fact his father owns Penguin and its fleet of 20 trucks. A recent graduate of the University of Michigan. Daly will be taking on an entirely new vocation as a teacher at Marine City High School in the next couple of months.

This then, is Daly's last summer as the everyday hero to the hot and hungry residents near Novi and Northville.

THE PENGUINMOBILE

Daly hops inside the converted Ford Econoline van. By any standard, this is a vehicle designed for work.

The seat cushions have been tattered almost beyond recognition. Bubble gum wrappers are scattered on the dashboard and on the floor. Brown carpeting has been installed across the walls and ceiling of the cab. There's no rear bench in the van, but there is a blue folding chair Daly sits on when he's wheeling and dealing the wares.

We bought this thing used and made the modifications to it," he says. It takes about three or four turns on the starter to get the engine to take over, probably due to the fact the van has logged nearly 100,000 miles so far.

He smiles. "As vans go, this is the Cadillac of the fleet," he says. "This one's got power steering and a stereo. Most of the other ones don't."

He makes his way toward Rayson Street. It's a little after 2 p.m. now, which I later find out isn't the most profitable time of day. The bucks start rolling around 5 or 6 p.m.

It's also near 90 degrees ture Daly tells me is actually too hot to be selling ice cream in.

"Around 70 or 80 degrees is perfect." he says. When it gets like it is now, a lot of people will just go inside and turn on the air conditioning. They don't want

As we creep along, I come to find out Daly's first job was as a summer assistant for basketball camps. He played basketball himself during his years at Detroit Catholic Central. He began working for Penguin a few months shy of his 18th birthday and has since worked both as a driver and as a

There's a pause in our conversation. which makes me acutely aware of the neverending cycle of electronic music filling the air outside. Inside, rock music is quietly streaming through the cabin.

If he really wanted to. Daly could change the tune. There's a knob on the dashboard he shows me. flipping through the four selections he has at his

"When I first started out, it really got on my nerves." he quips. You just get used to it after a while."

Most of rear portion of the van is filled with a freezer chest that's been bolted to the floor. I'm surprised to learn that the cooler is actually kept cold through the use of cold plates which are charged overnight, but are not electrically active while the trucks are out on the route.

They stay frozen through the entire route." he said.

THE CUSTOMERS

At the very moment when I'm beginning to think no one will buy ice cream from Daly, a boy around age nine or 10 shuffles his way to the curb. Daly kills the music and activates a stop sign that flips out from the side of the truck.

The boy peers at the corn-colored menu of goodles. He's soon joined by another boy about his age and two younger girls wearing swimsuits who tiptoe their way across the hot pave-

The boys take a few moments to consider their options and come away with the $1.50 items. The girls, on the other hand, aren't quite as financially well-off.

"What can we get for 40 cents?" they "Well, you don't have enough right now, but if you get 70 cents you could split one of these," he responds, pointing to a rainbow freezer pop.

The girls look at each other, then dash back to their home, returning moments later with two more quarters. Daly cuts them a deal and gives them a fudge bar and a watermelon frozen treat. The girls take hold of the already-dripping sweets and make their way back to the shade of their front yard.

Daly sits back down behind the driver's seat. A lineup of cars has assembled behind the truck, unaware that cars can pass a stopped ice cream truck, so long as they've stopped and proceed with caution.

That's the sort of thing that tugs at your heart," he says with a sigh. "You know they've only got a few pieces of change in their pockets and they don't have enough. Sometimes I'll let a nickel slide here and there.

Not five minutes after selling to the kids do we encounter a pair of carpenters, one of whom bears a striking resemblance to former Red Wings defensemen Slava Fetisov.

Using heavy accents, they buy up three or four chocolate items from the menu. Daly strains out the window to pass them their orders. I notice that he makes change not from some sophisticated-looking cash register, but rather from a red plastic pencil box you'd find in a second grade classroom.

*Construction workers are great. because they're usually stuck on the site and they're hungry as all heck." Daly says.

We round the corner onto Horton Street. I ask about what he does if he springs a flat tire. So far, he hasn't had that misfortune.

"I did have a transmission go on me once, and the chimes died, too, he says. "Our guys in the shop take good care of the trucks, though."

Daly peers almost as much into his mirrors as he does the road in front of him. This, I'm told, is to catch sight of youngsters who try their hand at longdistance running in the hopes of catching him after he's already passed by their house.

"I usually see them, but once in a while I don't," he says, again checking the rear-view. "The worst feeling is when a kid has been chasing you for a block and you haven't realized it."

Joe Daly has delivered ice cream to Northville residents for more than five years.

We pass by a woman who glances in our direction. She stares at the truck momentarily, then makes her way back into her house. No sale. That's a classic example of a head fake." Daly said. "You get a lot of those in the afternoon hours.

But around the next corner Daly's luck is better. It's an older man wearing a Ben Hogan golf hat.

"Ice cream sandwich, please," he says, without hesitation. Daly crawls back to the cooler and extracts the foil-wrapped

"Seniors are the ones that will almost always buy from you if they see you. Daly says. "I'd say that in 95 percent of the cases when an older person is look-

Routes are still driven in light rain. Torrential showers will cancel a portion of a day, but usually not the whole day.

Those hired at Penguin pass background checks and driving tests. Says Daly, "My boss isn't about to hire criminals." Along those same lines. Daly tells me he still gets inquiries about the 1950s-era white jacket and cap and if it's a standard issue uniform. (It isn't, in case you're wondering. The day I'm with him. Daly is wearing an ash-gray U-M shirt and shorts.)

We pull up near the Northville water tower. I jump out and make my way toward my car. Before I do, I turn and ask Daly one more question.

"Just out of curiosity — do you still like ice cream, even if you're around it all day?" Lask.

He smiles and laughs.

"Yeah. probably too much." he says.

Darga said she has also worked as as the Wayne County coordinator for the Southeast Michigan Greenways program and helped organize the initial Rouge Rescue program.

But the accomplishment that made Darga most proud was the passage of federal legislation last November that designated certain portions of southeast Michigan as automotive historic districts. The laws helped provide the incentive for old auto plants - like the former Ford Valve Plant in Northville — to be spared the wrecking ball and instead converted into other projects.

"What was wild about that was that when we came up with the idea, people were telling me that it would never happen." Darga said. "Then President Clinton signed it into law after (U.S. Representative) Joe Knollenberg put on the boxing gloves and got it done." Darga is a graduate of Michigan State University and mother to her to children. Alex and Anna. She is married to Wayne County engineer Michael Darga.

The shroud, believed to the the burial cloth of Jesus Christ, has for centuries been the source of debate and controversy. It is roughly 15 feet by 4 feet and is have thought to have been brought to Europe during the Crusades. It first came to the Catholic Church in 1353.

The full-length image of the front and back of a human figure bearing the signs of crucifixion is imprinted on one surface of the cloth. In 1898. the church in Turin was ready to relegate the shroud to a museum. A picture was taken of the cloth for cataloging purposes by Secondo Pia. Though it seems impossible, the image on the shroud turned out to be a negative. It appears similar to a negative of a black and white photo.

When a photograph is taken of the shroud and is developed into a photographic negative, the image is reversed and one now sees a positive picture of Jesus. Scientists are in general agreement that they would be unable to produce an image of the shroud's likeness with today's

'The Iron Giant' has insatiable appetite for metal

The space race had officially begun. The Cold War just got cold-

A single mother holding down a job at the local diner, Annie has her hands full with Hogarth-headstrong and imaginative, always on the lookout for the latest attempted takeover by mutant aliens or subversive invaders.

So when a local fisherman comes into the diner with a tall tale about a huge metal man falling into the sea, the only one to pay him much attention is Hogarth, who sets out exploring to find the enormous robot.

What he does find is a 50-foot giant with an insatiable appetite for metal and a childlike curiosity about its new world.

Rumors of everything from an alien invasion to a Russian secret

Keeping one step ahead of Mansley. Hogarth convinces his beatnik friend Dean (voiced by Harry Connick, Jr.) to hide the Iron Giant (voiced by Vin Diesel) in Dean's junkyard.

'Drop Dead Gorgeous' offers cheap laughs and slow plot

By Jon M. Gibson GUEST MOVIE REVIEW

It's a great concept, and the movie even packs a few laughs, but when seen through to the end. "Drop Dead Gorgeous" is nothing more than your average unmemorable

Effectively crafted through the eyes of a documentary crew, the film delves into the twisted world of teenage beauty pageants, following the same rough guidelines that made Spinal Tap a world renowned presence in cinema.

With back-stabbing, colorful and ultimately uneducated characters thrown into this dark comedy, you might assume that Christopher Guest had his hands in this kernel of pop culture called a 'mockumen-

Surprisingly enough, the completely outrageous antics of the hopeful winners of Mount Rose's Miss Teen Princess American Beauty Contest were conceived by a former Minnesota pageant contestant, Lona Williams, making it a more reasonable concoction.

So as eerie as it sounds, the film might actually have some truth to it no matter how exaggerated the storyline becomes.

Both Amber Atkins (Kirsten Dunst) and Becky Leeman (Denise Richards) are the motivation for the picture, being the equally competitive members of Mount Rose's brutal competition.

But the real pleasure of the movie comes from Ellen Barkin, playing Amber's supportive mother who is bruised and blown up throughout the course of the film.

Her out-of-type performance shines in Gorgeous, overpowering the film's other supporting cast members, similar to what she accomplished in her previous works. "The Fan" and "Fear" and "Loathing in Las Vegas."

The major downfall of this decently funny picture is its abnormal running time. Even though it is only 97 minutes in length, the last 15 minutes of are completely unnecessary.

They present only a lagging and tiresome attitude. Even though the "real"conclusion offers a few laughs. it ultimately throws off the pace of Gorgeous.

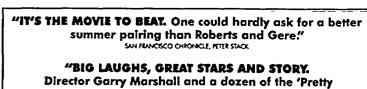

Director Michael Patrick Jann should have cut the film to keep it under an hour-and-a-half. It will be a considerable feat if audiences don't fall asleep by the end of this picture.

Searching for the best

Jason Schmitt

When I write a column. I want one of two things to happen.

One-I want my readers to understand what I'm saying. I want them to have been there before, have thought that before. I want supporters.

or two-I want people to disagree with me. I want them to think differently, react to my words, respond to the column. I want to hear about it.

I think many writers would agree that if one of the two above cases occur, they've done their job.

The reason I'm explaining this is because in the near future, during the upcoming 1999 high school football season. HomeTown Newspapers is planning to run a special section or insert (to be determined). In this special section, we will select two separate all-time Northville and Novi football teams. We will include 22 position players from each school. We will also include feature stories on a variety of topics.

The we' is myself, Jason Schmitt, and Phil Jerome, the current executive editor of HomeTown Newspapers and former Northville editor and sports editor. We have called upon numerous sources, present and past, to assist us in this endeavor. It will not be easy, but with the list of "experts" we have called upon for help, we will put a damn good football team out there for each

I will handle most of the all-time Novi football team. I plan to call upon John "The Lone Coach" Osborne for a plethora of history. He's the best source possible, so with his permission. I plan to take careful notes when I get the chance to sit down with him.

But he will not be the lone source. I hope many of my Novi readers will respond to this plea for help. If anyone has even the slightest information or input on who should be included in our list. I would hope they contact me, preferably by email or through a letter. I will include this vital information at the bottom of this column.

You see. I am but 25 years old. If you take into account the fact that Novi High School is over 30 years old. I'm just a young pup. I have seen a splinter of the foundation this school has built. I was not here during the glory days of the early or late 1980s, nor was I here for the many great athletes that laced 'em up in the

And don't even get started about Northville High. The history dates back farther than Novi, and there have been at least six head coaches since the 1950s.

But that's where you the readers come into play. For those of you who have been here for the past 50 years, this will be a trip down memory lane. For those of you who have moved here in recent years, it will be a lesson in the history of Northville and Novi football.

I recently read an article in a daily paper. The article focused on ESPN's weekly feature "50 Greatest Athletes of the 20th Century." It was the first such critique of the station's project, which has drawn many criticism's during its first 25 weeks.

Unlike ESPN's choices, I will not select Secretariat as one of my greatest athletes. Don't worry about that.

But the list may include many players from the 1950s and 1960s who may not be as big. strong or athletic as today's players, but made such an impact in their time that they are deserving of a spot on the roster.

Many of the players may be members of successful teams. Just because one or two stars emerge off a select winner doesn't mean they were the only great athletes

With that said, I hope to hear from all of you. Whether that be before the team is selected later this month, or after you've gazed upon our selections.

Either way I'll know you've read my columns. Jason Schmitt is the sports editor for the Northville

Record and the Novi News.

Who's the best?

Now that 1999 is upon us, and 2000 is nearing. The Northville Record asks the questions; what was the best team and who were the best football players ever to don the Northville 'N'? We're asking our readers for help us in our search for the best football players in Northville High School history. If you've got a memory, a thought or an opinion you'd like to share with us, please return this slip to the Northville Record office at 104 W. Main St. Northville MI 48167, or fax it to Jason Schmitt at (248) 349-9832. If you'd like to provide your name or phone number for additional information, please do so.

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

It's no soccer, and it's not quite at the level of football or basketball.

To be honest, it wouldn't even rank in the top 10 participation sports in the City or Township of Northville. But with all the hardware Northville ath-;letes have brought back from national competitions recently, you'd think it was.

Taekwondo continues its growth across the nation. 'but locally, it's grown into a force which has been displayed by a pair of athletes under the age of 16. Add to that the tremendous achievements of some newcomers and Northville has been well represented across the country in recent years.

Both Steven Wegener and Erica Bivens were recently invited to the Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympic Games in Cleveland. And both came back with medals for their efforts.

Bivens won a gold medal in Olympic-style sparring and a bronze in forms. Wegener was injured in his first fight, but managed to take home a silver medal in Olympic-style sparring and a bronze in forms.

Both competed at the A.A.U. National Taekwondo Championships in Cedar Rapids. Iowa last month along with seven other medal-winning athletes.

Four members of the Kevin Eicholtz family made the trek to Iowa and brought home six medals in all, three silver and three bronze.

Kevin competed in his first national championship ever, and brought home a silver medal in the Olympicstyle sparring and a bronze in forms. He fought in the 35-year old senior division.

His oldest son Joe, competed in the 10-year-old intermediate division and took home a bronze medal in Olympic-style sparring. Trisha Eicholtz used her three years of training and won a pair of medals. including a silver medal in point sparring and a bronze in forms. The youngest Eicholiz, Harry, took home a silver medal in Olympic-style sparring. He has his yellow belt and has been competing for two years.

Siblings Jessica and Robert Bloom fared considerably as well, winning a combined three medals at nationals.

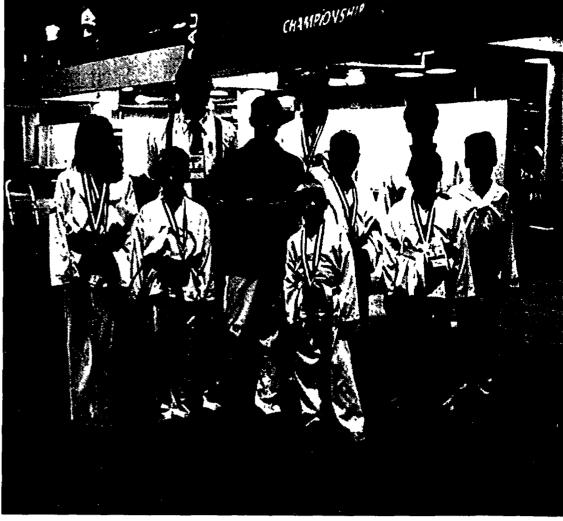

Jessica, competing in the 13-year old division, won gold medals in both Olympic-style sparring and forms. Her brother won a bronze medal in point sparring. Both are blue belts and have been training for five

Balanced guide to nutrition important

The most powerful tool for burning fat is the food we eat. More specifically, the ratio of carbohydrates, protein and fat in your meal. What is the proper ratio we should be aiming for? A diet comprised of 40 percent complex carbohydrates low on the glycemic index, 30 percent protein and 30 percent fat. It is a balanced guide to nutrition.

Every time we eat, we generate a complex hormonal response in our bodies. These responses determine how much body fat we store and how much fat we burn. Why is this important? In 1980, 26 percent of Americans (5 percent of them children) were obese. In 1996. that number climbed to 55 percent. Obesity is the second-leading cause of death, and it is preventable.

Do diets work? Fifty percent of people that go on a diet fail. To diet means you restrict some nutrient in your diet that your body needs. The body was not designed to restrict nutrients. Most people will only have the willpower to stay on a diet for six weeks. The body sends the message. "It's time to make a change. We need that nutrient.

Most magazines have diets that are for four to six weeks, because that is how long the body can go without the particular nutrient. Ninetyfive percent of people on a diet gain the weight back within a year. We eat to supply nutrients to the body. replace substances lacking and to provide a fuel source. The human body needs all three macronutrients to function: carbohydrates, fat and protein. In 1980 we had the introduction of low-fat diets. Since that time, fat consumption has gone down while carbohydrate consumption has doubled to nearly 200 percent.

The typical American diet is 60 to 70 percent of carbohydrates, 5 to 10 percent protein and 20 to 30 percent fat.

High carbohydrate and low-protein diets is the reason our obesity rates are soaring," said Dr. Martin Tamler of Beaumont Hospital, "High carbohydrate diets are not balanced. They can cause blood sugar imbalances and trigger constant hunger with fatigue and mood swings. They raise insulin levels, and this causes our body to store fat and prevent the utilization of

What happens when we eat? Carbohydrates are the body's most rapid fuel source. It takes 30 to 90 minutes for carbohydrates to be converted to glucose. Everything not burned is converted to fat. Most people can only use about 50 grams of carbohydrates. The remaining is converted to fat.

If you eat a whole bag of air-popped popcorn. it has 300 grams of carbohydrates - your body can only use 50 grams. The next source is protein. This is the body's mid-range fuel source. It take from 90 minutes to eight hours for proteins to be converted to a fuel source. If protein is lacking, cravings will set in within one hour when the brain gets the message.

There is no fuel source — get me some, quick." The last source of fuel is fat. Fats last up to 12 hours, and coupled with a low glycemic carbohydrate, they keep your blood sugar stable or level. They slow digestion and keep us satisfied for longer periods of time. It is important to address why protein is so can be reached at (248) 344 0896.

Important.

Protein is the most abundant organic biomolecule in our cells," said Dr. Martin Tamler a fibromyalgia specialist. It makes up 50 percent or more of the dry weight of the cell. We use protein to maintain growth and repair of muscle. It is the building block of muscles. Protein is 100 times more prevalent in our blood, yet we eat 22 times more carbohydrates."

Tamler also said that a low-protein diet causes one to lose muscle mass, decrease a metabolic rate, lose muscle tone and shape. cause energy and endurance swings and drop mental focus.

The 40-30-30 diet is comprised of 40 percent complex carbohydrates low on the glycemic index. 30 percent protein and 30 percent fat. Complex carbohydrates include grain, fruit and vegetables. Proteins are made of lean meat, poultry, egg whites, fish and protein powders. Good fats come from nuts, avocados and vegetable oils.

Protein is important for all the reasons listed above. In addition, protein stimulates the hormone gluagon, which balances blood sugar levels. promotes the burning of stored body fat. releases human growth hormones and increases oxygen transfer.

Dr. Tamler recommends the 40-30-30 diet for those with high blood pressure, sleep disorders. type-2 diabetes, high cholesterol, depression. mood swings hypoglycemia, fibromyalgia and chronic fatigue.

HOW TO

Firewood houses household pests

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. Please help me with a problem on how to store firewood. I want to invest in a cord of wood and had planned to have it stacked against the house. My neighbor informs me that this would be a big mistake due to insects that often live in woodpiles and could invade my house. What would you recommend for the storage of firewood?

A. Your neighbor is correct. Firewood should be stored well away from the house. Termites, carpenter ants and wood beetles are among common inhabitants of woodpiles and can do serious damage to your home. Woodpiles can also harbor cockroaches, mice and other pests that come in with uninspected wood to take up residence in your bookcases, furniture and

Here are some suggestions from an extermi-nator to reduce or eliminate pests in the woodpile and the house:

- Build a rack for the woodpile try two-by-fours on concrete blocks so that wood is stacked at least 10 inches from the
- ground.
 Rotate the woodpile; logs should not remain at the bottom of the pile for more than one year.
- · Cover the pile with plastic in the winter to keep it dry. · Do not store firewood in a heated garage or
- basement. · Do not spray logs with residual insecticides (such wood can emit dangerous elements into the atmosphere during the burning
- process). Bring only two or three pieces of wood in at a time as needed; do not store wood inside the house.
- Before bringing logs in the house, remove the bark and pound each log on the ground to shake off remaining pests.

Q. I found an old-fashioned cast-iron skillet in my mother's attic. It is dirty with some rust spots. How can I clean it so it is

A. Cast-iron cookware is enjoying a resurgence in popularity. It's very likely that your skillet can be restored: **-

To loosen dirt, grime and cooked-on food, boil in a solution of 2 teaspoons of baking soda per quart of water. Do not use harsh powders or steel wool for cleaning unless you have some rust spots. If this is the case, scrub them with steel wool and clean in hot sudsy water. Dry thoroughly. To get your skillet really dry, heat It briefly over a stove burner.

Once your skillet is clean it will need to be re-seasoned. Even a new cast-iron skillet needs to be seasoned. To season cast iron, clean in hot soapy water, dry and then coat lightly with shortening or vegetable oil and heat at 200 to 300 degrees in the oven for 30 minutes. Let the skillet cool and wipe off the excess oil with a paper towel.

After each use, gently clean the pan in hot sudsy water (without heavy scrubbing), rinse and dry. Finally, wipe with a thin coating or oil before storing. To avoid rust, store cast-iron utensils in a dry place. Never leave lids on because condensation can cause rust. Your iron cookware will need re-seasoning occasionally to avoid

Q. I have just finished stripping varnish coats from a long, narrow table that is ideal for my entrance hall. I believe that the wood is cherry. Do you have any suggestions for applying a finish on the wood that would enhance the natural patina and also provide protection?

A. Here's a finish that was recommended to me by a friend. It's excellent for small projects and is particularly suited for woods such as oak, cherry and walnut.

Start by applying a light coat of an oil finish like Danish oil or Dest oil. These oils dry to a hard surface. Wipe thoroughly, and let it dry completely - more than the manufacturer recommends, such as 48 hours. Then apply two to three coats of a semi-gloss aerosol lacquer. A brand with an adjustable spray tip on the can (Deft, for example) is best. Sand lightly with 600-grit wet or dry sandpaper between

This finish gives you the advantage of both oil and lacquer: the warm rich color of the oil and the gloss and surface protection of the lacquer. One of our readers writes: I recently read your article regarding removal of hard-water stains from a toilet bowl. It reminded me of the hard-water stains that collected in our toilet while we were living in military housing. The housing inspector for the project recommended a pumice stone, such as those used to clean swimming pools. It worked wonderfully, and is much safer than an acid cleaning

A. Thanks for the reminder. A pumice stone is excellent for cleaning stained porcelain sinks, bathtubs, toilet bowls. It simply takes a little elbow grease, and the stained service of a fixture can look like new. Keep in mind, it won't restore a cracked or pitted service.

Pinckney couple renovates home while preserving history

By Ann Marie Price SPECIAL WRITER

Kevin MacRitchie knew he wanted the 100ear-old house with the beautiful landscape the minute he pulled in the driveway.

Renee MacRitchie was not immediately enchanted with the farmhouse on Patterson Lake Road, and took nearly 20 minutes to be persuaded.

"Kevin and I went shopping for homes with our own 'must have' lists," said Renee. "Some items appeared on both lists and some did not. Our search was somewhat limited because we were looking for a farm and needed to move in immediately. The other two things we agreed upon were that the house had to be comfortable and had to have enough living space."

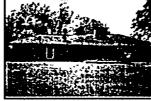

Using their abilities to conceptually plan a home, the MacRitchies bought their treasure in 1993 with a plan to change.

"This is the second home we've renovated," said Kevin. "We were refurbishing our last farmhouse in Toledo, Ohio, when Kevin got offered his job as director at Cisco Systems in Southfield. Luckily, the people who bought the house decided to complete the job using the plans we designed.

"Kevin and I, who both grew up in houses similar to this one, feel that an old house should be taken care of because it can offer so much character to an area as each one can be unique."

The MacRitchie's endured 18 months of construction that renovated their home into a beautiful spectacle.

Even though the house was recently restored, some of it looks as though it was constructed 100 years ago. In the living room, for example, new pine planks were beaten by hand to create the look of aged wood.

Catalina Pottery highly collectible

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

G. Enclosed is a photo of my Catalina Island pottery pitcher and six matching tumblers. My aunt purchased them in 1932. They are blue with tan rims.

I would like to know if Catalina Island pottery is a popular collectible today and the value of the set.

A. Chewing-gum magnate William Wrigley Jr. owned Catalina Island. He established Catalina Clay Products in the late 1920s. His goal was two-fold. The pottery would provide constant employment for residents and economical means to develop the nearby city of Avalon as a tourist area. The pottery started out making tiles and advanced to decorative accessories. Tilework on his Catalina Casino kept the pottery humming for several years.

Tablewares were introduced around 1930. Ceramic engineer Virgil Haldeman developed a series of outstanding glazes. Even though the native brown clay was brittle and easily damaged. Wrigley refused to allow stronger clay to be imported. After his death in 1932, clay was imported from Lincoln. Calif. The cost of importation proved to be too high. Gladding McBean in Los Angles bought the molds and designs in 1937 and continued to produce Catalina pottery until 1941.

Your pitcher and tumblers are examples of the Catalina Blue glaze. Catalina Pottery is very collectible. The set would probably be worth about $500 to $625.

G. This mark is on the bottom of a porcelain pedestal cake plate that I have. The plate is with a scene of a century clothing and the edge is trimmed with gold. A metal bolt and nut holds the pedestal to the plate.

Could you tell me its origin and value?

A. Many European factories have used variations of the mark you provided. The Imperial and Royal Porcelain Manufactory of Vienna originally used it. It was a shield and intended to represent the coat of arms of the Hapsburg family. Over the years many people did not realize it was a shield and assumed it was the image of a beehive. Consequently, it is commonly referred to as a beehive mark.

was made in the early 1900s and would probably be worth about $75 to $125.

Q. I have a half-liter Mettach beer stein that has been in my family for at least four generations. I have been searching for an approximate date of manufacture, an explanation of its design and estimated collector's value for insurance purposes.

On the bottom of the stein are the words "Mettach - VB - Gegen Nachbildlung - Geschutz - 1394 - 98." The following German words appear around the side of the stein: "Ob du Verlust hast ob Gewinn mit leichtern Sinn nimm Beides hin."

I certainly would appreciate any information you can give me.

This pottery pitcher with six matching tumblers, is Catalina Blue Glaze and is worth from $500 to $625.

A. Your German card etched stein was made by Villeroy and Boch in Mettach, Germany. 1394 is the mold number and is the mate to a French card stein with the number 1395. Both steins have a decorated ceramic disk placed in the pewter lid. Gegen Nachbildlung Geschutz means "protected against copying." This term was included in marks before 1899. 98 is the year your stein was manufactured. 35 is a quality-control mark. Loosely translated, the German quotation means, "Whether you win or lose, take either in your stride."

Your stein was made around 1900 and is listed in "The Mettach Book" by Gary Kirsner at $475

BUY AN EXIT STRATEGY! Does your present career track mark you as a likely transferee within the next 2-3 years? Still want to buy a home in the meantime? Fine - but why not include an exit strategy in your purchase? Here's how. First, choose a home which will appeal to the broadest possible segment of buyers over the next few years. Recently built homes in newish neighborhoods are often a good choice. In the short-term, the homes will remain attractive and in good repair Look for a home with neutral colors in a popular style.

Another strategy suggests purchasing the smallest home in the neighborhood Regardless of the neighborhood price range, home values in the lower end of the range are more likely to be pulled up at a faster rate by the larger homes, increasing the possibility of selling at a profit.

Consider a mortgage which allows for assumption by the next buyer. Although this option is more difficult to accomplish these days, it can be a strong motivation to a future buyer. To lower payments while owning the home, give consideration to an "adjustable rate" mortgage. Interest rates are lower during the early years, but can escalate as time goes on.

Even over the short term, home ownership is a wise move. At today's low rates, it makes good sense to invest in a home, while enjoying all the benefits.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 248.348.1500 or E-Mail. john@magic-marker.com.

Steve and Dan Hornbeck own and operate Hornbeck Recycling and Disposal Inc. in Northfield Township. The business has been family-run since 1939.

A recycling family

Hornbeck Recycling celebrates 60th anniversary

By Annette Jaworski Special Writer

The work ethic isn't dead. Not according to Steve and Dan Hornbeck of Hornbeck Recycling and Disposal Inc. in Northfield Town-

In an age where most refuse services are run by a few large corporations, the brothers run a successful family waste disposal and recycling business, thanks to hard work and determination. Indeed, they believe they are the last rub-bish business in Southeast Michigan not owned by a nationwide conglomerate.The Hornbeck family became involved in waste disposal and recycling in the 1950's through their great uncle, George Sawyer, and grandfather, Karl Hornbeck. Dan believes they may have started as early as 1939. making this their 60th year in business.

The growth began in 1968 when Steve and Dan's father. Gene. joined in by serving about 500 homes in Plymouth on Friday and Saturday after his day job at Ford Motor Co. The brothers learned the ropes at an early age through helping their dad. Dan and I were working on the truck instead of watching early morning cartoons." Steve said.Later on, in 1979, they were both laid off, so the brothers decided to go into the business full time. When we first started, we had a one-day route. We were up to five days a week in less than a year," Steve said. They weren't the only family members working. Mom even drove the truck at times. Dan likes to tease her that it's time for her to get back behind the wheel, but she enjoys her retirement, thank you very much. Father Gene still likes to drive a couple days a week and continues to man the Northfield Township Recycling Center.

Other members of the family joined in. Dan's wife, Sally, works three days a week answering the phones and mail. Steve's wife, Jane, gives a hand with proposals. They currently have a staff of 12 employees and seven trucks. Steve and Dan don't believe in managing from a distance. They're out there working right alongside their crews on the trucks several days a week. They now serve about 7,000 accounts covering the city of Novi as well as rural areas including Ann Arbor Township, and Salem, Green Oak, Lyon, Webster, Northfield. Superior, and Pittsfield Townships. "We don't do a lot of advertising. It's almost all by word of mouth." Dan said. To survive against the competition, they know they have to deliver top-level service. Our service is a big plus with the customers. We don't miss anyone. Customers say, 'We can set the clock by you,' Steve said. They've also had to meet the competition head-on with pricing. Our pricing hasn't changed once in the last 12 years. We actually supply more services now." Steve

Eight years ago they began providing curbside recycling for their customers. In the Novi area exclusively, they provide yard-waste pick-up as well.

Curbside recycling has been very successful, by their measure. The Hornbecks estimate 75 percent of their customers participate. All recycled materials aren't sold at a profit, however. They are taken to the City of Ann Arbor Recycling Center, considered a state-of-theart facility.

A recycling tip from the brothers: don't forget to remove the plastic caps on recycled bottles. It's their biggest problem, the lids contaminate the rest of the plastic making it unusable. The only drawback to running a successful family business is being able to take a family vacation, the brothers agree. Dan has three daughters. Paula, Bonnie and Ashley, Steven has two sons and a daughter, Matthew, Christina and David. Asked if they want to pass along the business to their families, the brothers know that it entails a lot of hard work and long hours."I just hope to instill some responsibility in my kids, as I had in me," Dan said. We take a lot of pride in the family name."But, as Dan puts it, Garbage men still make house calls. For new subscriptions, including roll-off containers for construction sites, call Hornbeck Recycling and Disposal Inc. at 734-662-9361.

(248) 347-7723

Mrs. Johnson's office, dining room and living room all show-case Bossio's approach to the new millennium style, by incorporating cherished items of Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, into their beautiful Birmingham home.

Down to the last detail, Carmine Bossio Interiors transforms rooms into functional, beautiful space that will satisfy the client's needs.

The interior design studio has been in business for nine years and specializes in designing room interiors, both residential and commercial. From traditional to contemporary decor fit for the new millennium, owner Carmine Bossio can create the perfect look.

Besides the appearance of the room, Bossio looks to provide an environment that reflects the client's lifestyle and purpose of the space. Bossio and his staff review a consultation guide to determine a client's likes and dislikes.

"You can be the best designer, but if you can't predict the customers needs, you'll never be able to implement the idea," Bossio said.

Many aspects determine how a room is decorated, he explained, including the client's personality and their tastes. The consultation matches the client with the perfect fabrics, colors, patterns and upholstery style.

"We provide an environment for people's needs and tastes, and we work closely with our clients to develop the type of interior setting they wish to create," Bossio added.

With the year 2000 quickly approaching, Bossio is focusing on reflecting the style of his clients into designs that are practical and timeless. His most recent clients, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, incorporated Bossio's approach to the style of the new millennium into their Birmingham home.

"Their home reflects
the style of the year 2000.
These clients are well traveled and their collection of artifacts have been incorporated into their interior. This creates a style that is long term,"
Bossio said.

Bossio further explained that an "eclectic mix," is the mode of the new century, and with this, people can blend a lot of styles and design options into a look that is fresh. "The trend is to keep some cherished items and by adding new pieces to these existing pieces a collected look is created," Bossio added.

Most of the interior design projects handled by Carmine Bossio Interiors are residential. Preconstruction phase is the best time for interior design planning, Bossio said, so he and his staff can make sure the architectural design fits with the decor. Lighting, furniture selection, furniture placement, fireplace design, and tile design is also Bossio's forte, and Bossio and his company also help clients design the exteriors of their home or business.

The biggest perk of Bossio's design firm is that he and his staff completely plan out rooms before any decisions are made, from the furniture and wall coverings, to the window treatments and accessories.

"We take the fear out of any purchase," Bossio said. "You'll know every option before you make a choice. This policy exposes clients to new styles and decorating options they may have otherwise been unaware of."

Carmine Bossio Interiors is a dealer of many furniture lines including Sherrill, Lane, Old Hickory Tannery and many more. Bossio, who holds a bachelor's degree in design from the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, serves the Northville, Plymouth, Birmingham, Novi, Farmington Hills, Grosse Pointe, and out-of-state areas, such as Florida and New Jersey.

Carmine Bossio Interiors prides itself on style, elegance, and quality customer service. "Service is the key, and we provide just that," Bossio said.

Carmine Bossio Interiors is located at 510 Randolph St.

Northville Chamber of Commerce

(248) 349-7640 • www.northville.org

Northville Chamber of Commerce staff Carol Kapusky, Roxanne Koche, Executive Director Laurie Marrs, and Linda Temple promote business through promoting the community.

Each year, Northville's Victorian Festival represents the spirit and the heritage of this century-old town. "The Victorian Festival is a celebration of our heritage," said Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Chamber of Commerce. "We're a Victorian community, and very proud of it."

The Victorian Festival is one example of a successful strategy by the Chamber of Commerce — to promote business through promoting the community.

The Northville Chamber of Commerce is a not-for-profit organization made up of business owners and employees and governed by a board of directors. As a network of information, a referral source, an advertising agency and an imagemaker, the Northville Chamber of Commerce provides many benefits for its members.

Of 530 businesses in the Northville area, 400 are members of the Chamber of Commerce, creating a valuable network of business resources that includes retailers, financial institutions, services, schools, manufacturers and non-profit organizations. "Our members see the benefit," Marrs said. "We all work together as a team."

If Northville's businesses and organizations work as a team, the Chamber of Commerce is its manager. "Our job is to promote our members," Marrs said. "In doing so, we promote the community."

Since its inception in 1964, the Chamber has promoted business through events like the Victorian Festival, an annual golf outing, Art in the Sun, an outdoor art show, the Summer Farmers Market, and the Christmas Walk.

Although the smell of freshly baked bread can be detected all the way down Main Street, you have to walk into Great Harvest Bread Company to see the singing and dancing employees.

Ray Novelly, owner of the Northville Great Harvest, strives to maintain a "fun, enjoyable atmosphere" from the moment a customer walks in the door. In addition to music and a smile, each customer is offered thick, free slices of bread to sample.

Novelly and his wife Lorie have owned Great Harvest in Northville for six years. They also own stores in Brighton and a satellite location in South Lyon, and will be opening stores soon in Commerce Township, and Farmington.

"We sell it hot and fresh every day,"

Ray Novelly, Great Harvest Bread Co.

"We're excited about our new stores," Novelly said. "It provides a greater opportunity for the employees to advance into managerial positions or possibly store ownership."

Great Harvest uses no fats, oils, eggs, or preservatives in its bread, and only a few varieties use dairy products. Nine different types of bread are available daily, as well as cookies and muffins.

Each loaf of bread is made fresh in the store. The key to freshness is stone-milling the wheat immediately before putting the bread in the oven. This also leaves essential nutrients in the bread, making it healthy as well as delicious.

Some of the better sellers at Great Harvest include Honey Whole Wheat, Cinnamon Raisin Walnut, Michigan Cherry Walnut, and Golden Cheddar Garlic breads. Popular cookies include Giant Oatmeal Raisin and Oatmeal Walnut Chocolate Chip. A monthly muffin special is also offered.

"We sell it hot and fresh every day," Novelly said. "It's never more than 24 hours old."

Salutations

(248) 349-3537

Owner Lorie Wyant offers Mary Engelbreit gifts as well as many other lines at Salutations in downtown Northville.

"The increasing use of e-mail concerned me for about five minutes," says Lorie Wyant, owner of Salutations in downtown Northville. "Regardless of e-mail's speed and ease, there will always be a place for a hand written note on special paper stock. The time and effort taken, the feel of the paper, the visual excitement of someone's special handwriting ... these are what will always make e-mail take a back seat to 'real mail' for personal correspondence."

Salutations offers an array of special options when it comes to expressing yourself, whether it be in writing, inviting or gift wrapping. Among its unique offerings, this card and stationery shop specializes in invitations for all occasions.

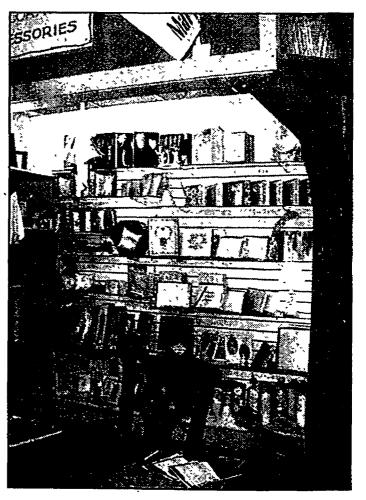

"While weddings are a large part of our business," Lorie notes, "we create invitations for all sorts of occasions."

Customers have several choices in the approach to their invitations. One option includes the traditional engraved and thermography styles. Bookcases in the store are filled with large binders offering a multitude of wedding invitation options. "The thought of having to look through each binder can be overwhelming for brides and grooms just beginning to make their selections," Lorie said. "We try to make the task as easy as possible by asking questions, directing them to books with their specific taste and budget and personally guiding them through the decision-making process."

A second option is to create an invitation from the many types of blank stock in the store. This paper can be used for all kinds of gatherings such as weddings, showers, rehearsals, birthdays, dinner parties, and more. The blank stock is all laser or ink jet printer compatible. Customers who are comfortable with setting up their computers can print their own invitations. If they choose not to print themselves, Salutations can do the complete job for them.

"In addition, we can create a very unique one-of-a-kind invitation, with specialty papers, ribbons, envelopes, etc.," Lorie said. "For any occasion, an invitation is a personal reflection of the sender. It creates the initial excitement and anticipation for your guest. It's a visual statement of the celebration to come."

There are many factors involved in preparing an invitation order. The staff at Salutations is always ready to offer answers to questions on etiquette, addressing, wording and layout. Personal service here is a priority and customers can contribute as much or as little as needed in the process. For the busy customer, Salutations can address, stuff, stamp and mail any invitations.

Beyond invitations, Salutations carries a variety of accessories for the bride, including guest books, unity candles, garters and favors. In addition, unique gift-wrap, bows and bags are available to complete that special package. Other gift items include Northville afghans and pillows, Camille Backman Hand Therapy, Taylor of London, boxed stationery and the largest selection of Mary Engelbreit products in the area.

The shop is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday with later hours until 8 p.m. on Thursdays; also from noon to 4 p.m. Sundays through Christmas.

In 1988, Jeffrey Jepko and John Gallagher brought the delicious taste of Italy to Northville.

The full-service restaurant serves regional Italian food that is made to order, using only the finest ingredients available. Special care is taken to ensure all meats and seafood come from the highest quality providers.

"We have even gone so far as to find out where the food comes from, not just who," Jepko

To help patrons maximize their dining experience at Little Italy's, Jepko and Gallagher have developed the Chef's tasting menu. This offers a complete menu from cold and hot appetizers through dessert. "It allows our guests to fully experience the Italian philosophy of dining." Jepko explained.

Little Italy also boasts one of the largest selections of fine wines in the region with over 350 selections, all of the great estates of Italy are represented. In addition to the great wine list, Little Italy offers over 30 selections of Italian grappa brandy. Single malt scotches and other specialty spirits are also in abundance.

The atmosphere of Little Italy instantly whisks patrons back to the homeland. The small, quaint restaurant provides customers with an intimate and personal setting reminiscent of the great restaurants of Italy. The newly opened outdoor patio offers full service dining al fresco for both lunch and dinner, or, just a great place to relax with a glass of wine.

"People feel welcome here," Jepko said. "It's like you're eating in someone's home."

The inviting atmosphere, both chefs believe, is complemented by their constant presence.

"Because we do all the actual cooking as it's ordered, it's guaranteed to be of the highest quality," Jepko said.

Gallagher and Jepko also stress the important marriage of food and wine.

"Over the years we've seen our patrons' knowledge of food and wine evolve," Jepko said.

However, customers don't have to dine in to enjoy Little Italy's exquisite cuisine. Carry out orders, including wine, are also available as is full service catering.

Gallagher and Jepko feel that Northville is the perfect setting for their restaurant.

"There is a quaintness about Northville," Gallagher said.

Whether you're taking out of town guests out for fine dining or just in the mood for appetizers and a glass of wine outside. I ittle Italy can compliment any dining experience.

While dinner reservations may not be needed during the week, weekend reservations are highly recommended.

Jack's Wholesale Meat Market owner Ken Lapides and wife Rochelle.

The doors of Jack's Wholesale Meat Market, a federally licensed meat department, have been open since 1972. Experience and care are two things a customer can expect from the service of this family-owned business.

"Quality service is what we give our customers," said Ken and Rochelle Lapides, owners of Jack's Wholesale Meat Market.

Five days a week the meat department is inspected to make sure it meets the USDA Federal Standards. The meat department is always clean, sanitized and is in orderly fashion. This is to be expected from the long-standing meat market, which caters to the meat needs of restaurants, country clubs and individual customers.

Jack's sells meat retail and wholesale. Other selections include frozen fish, sausage, Italian meats, USDA choice and freezer beef. Lapides said his weekly sales output of ground beef is 2,500 pounds. Other offerings at Jack's Wholesale Meat Market are baked goods, such as pies and bread. Ken Lapides and his employees take pride in their meat department.

Besides the great selection of meats, Jack's Wholesale Meat Market also offers beer, wine, produce and condiments.

Piazza Dance Company

(248) 348-3720

Piazza Dance Company offers quality dance instruction to all ages and skill levels.

Recently completing its 18th year of instruction, Piazza Dance Company is owned and operated by sisters Marilynn Esper and Gina Piazza.

They both have shared a passion for dance their whole lives and have been certified as company instructors through Dance Masters of America. They are also members of Dance Masters of Michigan.

Both Gina and Marilynn have over 25 years of teaching experience and dedicate themselves to improving technique for all areas of dance. Marilynn, Gina, and the eight other instructors are committed to a continued learning all forms of dance they teach

Many different types of dance are taught at Piazza Dance. For young children, a rhythm class combining ballet and tap is popular, as well as pre-ballet.

Instruction is taught in tap, jazz, hip-hop, Irish step, Hawaiian, Tahitian, ballet and pointe focusing on the the Russian graded method for all levels.

Last year, Piazza Dance began teaching hip-hop classes, receiving a hardy response from all age groups.

A new dance floor was recently installed in all three dance rooms of the studio, specially designed with a resilient surface to prevent knee injuries.

The addition of another dance room could be in the studio's future.

Piazza Dance Company offers both recreational and pre-professional programs to students. This allows those seeking serious dance study or possibly a career in dance a chance to dedicate themselves to the art, while people seeking a fun, invigorating pastime are not pressured into commitment.

Competitive dance classes are also available to the more determined dance student, with auditions held at the end of September. Piazza Dance Company competitors have danced around the world and have won national awards for performance and choreography.

Piazza Dance Company feels that competition is a great tool for learning some of life's lessons such as dedication and hard work. However, the studio's philosophy is to concentrate and dedicate as much time and attention to the recreational dancers as the dancer who competes. Being a dance educator is about appreciating everyone who wants to study the art.

Fall registration runs from 4 to 7 p.m., Aug. 16-19 and Aug. 23-26. Classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 10.

Feel free to call (248) 348-3720 for information regarding any of the many programs offered.

Bill Richardson, Dustin Wall, Rollen Williams and Carla Hardy make up Northville Camera/Picture Plus Gallery's professional staff.

Northville Camera/Pictures Plus Gallery has been helping people capture memories for over 20 years.

Bill Richardson purchased the business 22 years ago, adding the art gallery in 1986 to better serve his customers needs.

Northville Camera/Pictures Plus Gallery offers a wide variety of services, making it the only one-stop camera shop in town. ### Owner Wendy Simrod has treasures to be found at B & W Variety.

Bruce and Wendy Simrod own a discount variety store reminiscent of an "up-north store in town."

The only thing their five-and-dime is missing is the creaky, hardwood floor. B & W offers a wide variety of items from party supplies and toys to household goods.

The Simrods realized they could combine their love for flea markets and retail sales by opening their own variety store in 1982. After two previous locations, it settled into its current Northville site two and a half years ago.

Wendy Simrod remarked that she feels she is one of the "best-kept secrets in Northville," because the business is not located in the downtown district. However, the customers that have stumbled upon the store have offered plenty of positive feedback.

"Everyone is impressed with how neat and clean the store is," Simrod said.

While B & W offers "everything from A to Z," the store specializes in a wide selection of half-off greeting cards. An assortment of gift wrap and bags is offered for giving needs as well.

The Simrods and daughter Morgan run the store, picking up items from all over the country and discount distributors. While B & W is not a dollar store, they do carry some quality products found in such shops.

The store takes the word "variety" quite seriously. "Our range of merchandise is always different," Simrod said. "What we have in stock is usually a one-shot deal."

B & W Variety is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday, accepting all major credit cards and personal checks. It is located in the Highland Lake Shopping Center on Seven

Community Federal Credit Union is committed to the members and communities that they serve. The not-for-profit, full service financial institution is owned and governed by its members and strives to provide them with the products and services that they want and deserve. Community Federal provides members very competitive dividend rates and personal loan rates. But one of the greatest services they provide is an experienced and friendly staff. People you know and trust, who live and work in your community. "We have been in Northville for 15 years, and in this location for 10. We are not strangers here," said Janice Lyon, assistant manager. "We know our members and are always available to answer any questions they may have."

According to Lyon, not only does Community Federal offer traditional banking products like checking and savings accounts, CDs, mortgage loans, auto loans and home equity loans, but they offer non-traditional ways to access them. Services like WebPB internet banking and Direct Dial 24 allow members 24-hour access to transfer funds between accounts, check balances or even make a loan payment. And, with today's busy lifestyles, they are well-used services.

In a continued commitment to provide outstanding customer service, Community Federal recently introduced a new Sales Center. Members, or potential members can call (734) 453-1200, or (877) 937-2328, toll free and apply for a loan right over the phone. Member tepresentatives are on hand to answer any questions, provide payment options and take the application. Loan decisions are usually made within one hour and then an appointment is made to close the loan at an office convenient to the member.

Plus, Community Federal's "computer-minded" members can apply for a loan through WebPB internet banking. "Our first priority is to our member's peace of mind," said Lyons, "that is why we have worked hard to ensure confidentiality and security for our members utilizing the WebPB service."

Community Federal also believes that a strong financial foundation is important to our children. For the past 10 years, they have partnered with

Northville's Familiar Faces

Bonfire Bistro and Brewery

(248) 735-4570

"Put some more wood on that fire!"

Amidst the jazz and blues music, the clink of beer mugs, and the roar of good times and great food, you may hear a request for some more kindling in Northville's newest restaurant, Bonfire Bistro and

"We're like no place else. The wood fire creates the rotisserie taste of the chops, steaks, pizzas and other items on our menu. The smell pours out into the parking lot, and pulls people in," Jeffrey Lane, owner of Bonfire Bistro and Brewery said.

The restaurant, which opened in early April of 1999, is creative in its approach to their food, their guests and their service.

"The beers great, the foods better, and the service is excellent," owner Chet Czaplicka said.

Chet and Jeff, who claim to both love beer and great food, felt there was a need for a restaurant that wasn't a chain restaurant. Wanting to provide something tempting to travelers and locals alike, the two embarked on their own business venture, and established the one and only, Bonfire Bistro and Brewery.

'We brew real ale here, nonpasterized and with no preservatives," Jeff said. The ale is served unfiltered at cellar temperature of 52 degrees, smooth and bursting with flavor, Chet explained.

Lagers include the popular "Vulcan's Vienna Ale," with a toasted and nutty malt flavor, and the "Seasonal Specialty," which is brewed to celebrate the season, and includes beers from around the world.

Speciality drinks are also available, such as the "Chocolate Martini," and the much loved, "Cascade Infusion Martini." A nice selection of wines, single malt scotches, small batch bourbons, draft cider, ports and brandies finish off the list of tongue teasing spirits.

As the for the food, Executive Chef David Platzer, from the Culinary Institute of America, delivers fresh fish and pasta dishes, steaks and chops dressed in the right seasons and paired with the perfect sides, and chicken, duck and prime rib from the rotisserie. Sandwiches, soups, salads, appetizers and pizzas complete the menu, offering something for everyone.

Jeff's wife, Brenda Lane, helped to coordinate the menu, to provide guests with many choices.

To complete the perfect meal, the dessert menu includes root beer floats, hot fudge brownies, s'more cheesecakes, and the "dessert of the day."

"David comes up with amazing specials, like the watermelon smoked ribs - a must have," Chet said. "You will not find a typical menu here. This is a bistro style restaurant with food far from the can. It's a great place to entertain business clients for lunch, or for a dinner date."

The wait staff, highly trained and educated, is there to provide the perfect service to their guests.

"They are professional and as invisible as possible. They do their job

Owners Chet Czaplicak and Jeffrey Land agree a highly trained staff and great food make for good times at the Bonfire Bistro & Brewery.

right, and then allow their guests to enjoy," Chet said,

General manager Mark Aniol takes his staff through three weeks of training, completing their knowledge of the menu and customer service.

"From the food to the staff, to the atmosphere, we can satisfy any person's needs, no matter who they are, or what they're looking for,"

Chet's wife Linda Wilke designed the interior of the restaurant with warm woods, stone and granite decor and colorful wall murals that blend together for an upbeat, classy and entertaining environment.

Jazz and blues music is featured every Friday and Saturday night for the post movie crowd.

The AMC 20 Theater and the Bonfire Bistro and Brewery have paired to offer customers the perfect date; dinner and a movie, with discount passes to the cinema with the purchase of two meals at the restaurant.

"Nobody leaves here unhappy. Unless they did not let us know, we make sure everybody leaves with a smile. We're here for the long haul," Jeff and Chet said. "This is simply a great place to enjoy food and spirits."

Carry-out, accommodation for parties up to 50 people, and outside dining is available on the patio. Lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., dinner from 4 p.m. to midnight during the week, and to 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday. Call ahead seating and reservations for parties larger than five are available and encouraged.

COMPLETE CAR CARE FACILITY

"Our business is repairing cars, but our job is solving customers' problems," says Jim Davis, President of Davis Auto Care. "It is very gratifying to have so many people who depend on our services."

Since the early days back in their two-bay gas station, Jim has offered a level of technical expertise and customer service that have proved to be a winning combination. It was always Jim's vision to provide automotive repairs and services that would make his company a one-stop, all inclusive answer for his customer ... sort of the family practitioner for vehicles. In 1979, he set up shop in what was then the Boron gasoline station at Fight Mile and Taft roads. Word soon spread about the friendly, old-fashioned service that was provided, and soon the parking lot was overflowing with local folks who realized that here was a businessman who provided a level of professionalism and honesty that they could trust. That same focus continues today in their 15-bay repair facility on Doheny Drive, where each member of the staff proudly subscribes to the company's motto — "Integrity is Everything."

"When we started out, I'd go home and tell my write that we'd had a busy day when I did a couple of oil changes and a tire repair," he recalls. Today, they still perform those oil changes and tire repairs, as well as all routine maintenance services and complete diagnosis and repair of any of the vehicle's complex systems. This includes brakes, shocks, time-ups, exhaust, alignment, batteries, air conditioning (on both R-12 and 134A from systems), engine repair, radiator and cooling systems, electrical systems, suspension components, carburctors and fuel injections systems and much more. Additionally, his staff of experienced Master Mechanics excels at engine and computer system diagnosis and repair

HIGH-TECH QUALITY SERVICE

As vehicles have become more and more complicated, the company has invested in the latest diagnostic equipment and support services to assist their technicians in diagnosing customers' problems, thereby saving customers money and time. "In a shop the size of ours, we can afford to invest in things like our ABS-Tech system, and the SIMU-TECH computer system." These tools, light years beyond what was required by technicians as recently as 10 years ago, help to diagnose on-board computer systems.

Jim is especially proud of his mechanical staff. Most of his technicians are not only state certified, but also have achieved accreditation from the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence.

Five of the technicians are A.S.E. Master Mechanics, as well as being certified in Automobile Advanced Engine Performance (a new designation achieved by fewer than five percent of the technicians in the country).

The tests these technicians pass are administered by ACT, the organization which conducts college entrance exams. "It separates the Best of the Best." Jim explains. "A.S.E. certification shows that a technician has dedicated himself to the highest level of professionalism in his field." Last year, one of Davis Auto Care's Master Mechanics was named "National Technician of the Year."

To keep up-to-date, mechanics regularly attend seminars and continuing education classes. This commitment to ongoing training is one of the most important aspects of the business. "Yes, we have the absolute best and latest in diagnostic equipment." Davis said. "But without the level of expertise that our technicians have, all the diagnostic computers in the world would be useless."

At Davis Auto Care, the term "customer service" encompasses many things, including friendliness, convenience and follow-up. The customer contact staff is friendly, knowledgeable and efficient.

Most importantly, they care about people. Service Manager April Rice, and Service Advisors Dave Massel and Rob Darga work together to make sure every customer who comes to Davis Auto Care walks away satisfied. "Our mechanics are the best in the business." says Davis, "and our desk staff mirrors that expertise and professionalism. We get so many comments from people who say that in coming to our facility, they had their questions answered in a clear, courteous manner for the first time. We try to take the mystery of automotive service, and our customers feel very comfortable making decisions in that way."

Work is explained in a way that lets the customer know how serious each item is, and the service staff goes out of their way to let customers know when a needed repair can wait for future service. "We all work with budgets, and it's our job to help people stay within those budgets whenever possible."

Because people are so dependent on their vehicle, Davis Auto Care takes extra strides to make the service experience as convenient as possible. The size of the facility allows them to service vehicles quickly, usually within one day. phone if you are going to be hard to teach, so repairs can be completed as quickly as possible. They stock many name-brand parts, such as Interstate Batteries, Bendix brake parts, Monroe shock absorbers and Mobil lubrication products. Another highly appreciated detail is the shuttle service, which can take customers to or from their business within the area. The company also has a web site where appointments can be made by e-mailing them at: service@davisautocare.com.

All repair work comes with a written guarantee, and Davis and his staff always want to know in case a problem occurs after a customers pick up their vehicle. The company sends follow-up letters inquiring about customer satisfaction.

They also maintain a computerized service history on all vehicles, which makes it easy for the company to answer questions about routine maintenance.

Letters and postcards are sent out notifying customers of any maintenance items that are coming due. "We realize our customers are busy, and don't have time to worry about preventive maintenance. That's why we track it for them," If m explains

Jim's Oil Depot was built beside Davis Auto Care, creating a one-stop auto care experience for Northville area residents.

JIM'S OIL DEPOT

The company has continued to grow for 20 years. They moved from the gas station at Eight Mile and Taft in 1986, and expanded again in 1989. Added in 1993, Jim's Oil Depot is fast and fun.

"We had always offered oil changes, including a 15-point inspection," Jim said, "But we knew that our customers were becoming more and more timeconscious. We looked for a way to speed up the process, without sacrificing quality."

Jim's Oil Depot, which is located right next door to the main facility, filled the bill. Customers can get an oil change in 10 minutes without having to leave their cars. The Oil Depot also performs minor items such as headlight replacement and wiper blades while you wait.

A new addition to the Depot is tire repair, rotating and balancing service. Many of these services are performed by trained staff members using a special tire-care machine. This machine relies on a touchless tire suspension system that avoids rim damage. As Jim said, "Tire rotating is an example of the type of maintenance people want done quickly."

But it goes much farther than that, Jim's Oil Depot is decorated to resemble a Victorian train depot. "Being just underneath the railroad bridge, it seemed natural," Jim said. "After we got underway with the theme of the place, I learned that there actually was a Northville train depot many years ago, just a few yards from our building." Both exterior and interior are painted in a trompe l'oile technique, and once inside a huge mural depicts a view through "windows" onto a train platform with the train ready to pull out.

Children of all ages love to watch the large-scale model trains running on the opposite sides of the shop, as they circle the little town at the far end, cross bridges and trestles, and then disappear through a "tunnel" into the waiting room to turn around and head back again. The themie is carried right down to a train whistle, which sounds as each car is raised into the air. What more can we say, except, "All aboard!"

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

A long-time area resident, Jim has always been involved in the community. He is an active member and past president of the Northville Chamber of Commerce.

Pamplemousse

(248) 449-5176

Pamplemousse suggests this for these sweltering days: 1, take a long, cool bath in a Rosemary Mint bubble bath made by Dutch aroma therapists. 2. spritz all over with lavender-scented body mist (for supreme relief, keep it in the fridge. After a day outside-heaven!). 3. Use liquid talc in cucumber to smell fresh and feel smooth and serene all day. Then breeze into town and say hello.

It's been over a year, but Pamplemousse remains one of the better-kept secrets in downtown Northville. However, more people are discovering the tiny store on Main Street, and they're getting hooked on "shameless indulgence," the store's slogan.

"People have a hard time finding us." said Laura Williams, who owns the store with her daughter, Jane. "But once they do, a lot of customers keep stopping in just to see what we have new. And they bring their friends.

They come to sample cremes, colognes, balms and bubble baths — or just to see what's new. Laura and Jane hunt down the highest quality products in the most exquisite packaging in New York and Europe. They're picky, and they know their stuff.

Pamplemousse — which is French for grapefruit — is a jewel box of a store on Main Street. Intrepid shoppers will be delighted to find favorite lines from Europe, Asia, and Australia are now available at home — lines like Coté Bastide from Provence, England's Neal's Yard, Terax shampoos from Italy, Thornbury from New Zealand, and Aesop from Australia, to name a few.

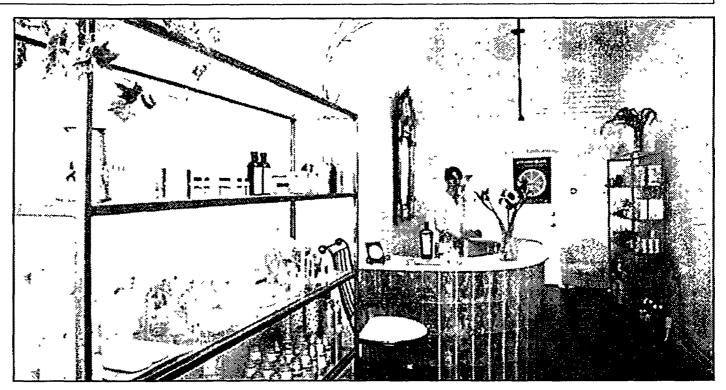

A few products are popular no matter what the season. The single-note scents in the Demeter line, particularly summery Grass, yummy Chocolate Mint and the surprisingly appealing Dirt, are popular for their simplicity and wearability. A true Pamplemousse Greatest Hit.

Massive (one pound!) bars of soap from Portugal come in funky boxes and cool scents. They have a hard time keeping Terax Crema, the conditioner in the pink-and-blue tube, in stock. Some women use it every day in the shower; a few leave it on under a cap for a few hour around the house for extra deep repair - highly suggested for swimmers, sunners, or dyers.

Rhinestone hair accessories will continue to be hot into the millennium — and why not? Flowers, or simple bars, look freshest now. The latest trend is hair springs -- tiny silver springs set with rhinestones that can be used as teeny barrettes or dress up ponytails and twists.

A little scented candle, wrapped in pink and yellow tissue and nestled in the trademark translucent white bag, makes a personal, classy gift. So does a big basket of extravagant products for a very special occasion. An d keep in mind - small bags holding a few little products, priced from $10-$15, are perfect shower favors.

Gift sets can be made to order; does she like rose? Blue? Bubbles? Asian things? Or, does he like almond? Sandalwood? Vetiver?

Laura Williams (bottom) and daughter Jane (above), are dedicated to offering quality body products to their customers.

Pamplemousse has shaving accessories and masculine bath products. "The guys are even worse than the women," Laura said. "They become addicted to this stuff."

Have a friend who's feeling down? Put together a bag of relaxing aroma therapy candles, invigorating bath fizzies, and a cheery peppermint lip balm. She'll have to smile.

Summer weather traumatizing your skin? Try Joey, a new skin care line that clears pores and wiped out blemishes, with Pure Pores.

Feet feeling a little rough for those strappy sandals? Give yourself the power pedicure: whittle down those callouses with a scented French pumice stone, then follow with Bloom's Feet Treat. Polish orange or pink will make you happy every time you look down. Then go gallivanting!

Visiting somebody for the weekend? Bring along some garden incense — the thick, foot-long strips from Provence come wrapped in bright tissue, smell great and keep away mosquitoes, too. A fabulous hostess gift — original, cute and useful.

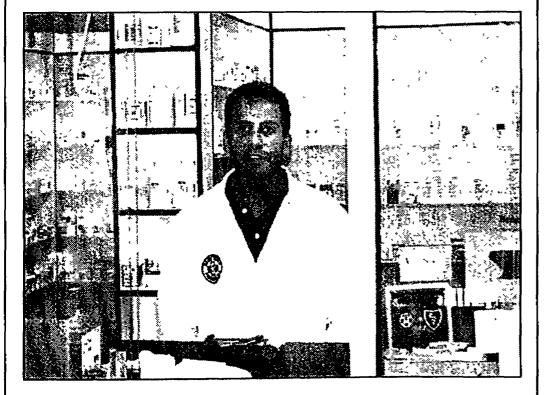

Here are some hints for summer nights: use a little lavender-scented body shimmer, or hair shimmer, or face shimmer — just a subtle, sexy highlight adds a lot to cheekbones, collarbones, brows or bangs. With a swipe of vanilla-orange scented lip gloss in the season's best pink, and tiny (so feminine!) rose-tipped bobby pins holding up your perfectly casual French twist, you're pretty, relaxed and low-maintenance. What more could you ask for on an August

Antiques, botanicals and found objects; Kristi Colt (above) at The Hopeless Romantic specializes in carrying something special for anyone. Sid Dickens Memory Blocks (right), hand-crafted plaster tiles cracked to create an aged look are available at The Hopeless Romantic.

Kristi Colt feels like she may have been born in the wrong century, which is great for the town of Northville. Her new Main Street antique store, specializing in Victorian and early 19th century antiques, offers items to be cherished by all.

The co-owner of The Hopeless Romantic, 342 E. Main St., Northville, has always had a love for antiques, including linens, clothing, jewelry, books, prints, and home furnishings. Her love runs so deep for antiques and architecture that she has moved her business into a historic house on Main Street.

The Hopeless Romantic was established two years ago in the back of Sparr's Flowers and Greenhouse, where she carried a selection of antiques, created floral arrangements and sold bulk flowers and herbs. As business grew, Kristi added new product such as cards and books and has recently expanded to include artwork and natural products created by local craftspeople. Customers can purchase ingredients for their own potpourri or aroma therapy potions, create a custom blend or place a special order to suit their specific needs. But there's more.

Kristi wanted to add vintage clothing, linens and furniture but environmental conditions at the Sparr's location wasn't ideal for the older materials. As a result, she decided to make the move when the opportunity to lease a portion of 342 E. Main St. became available.

"There is so much history here," she said. It's the perfect atmosphere for what we do. The house used to belong to Henry Ford."

In the room where Kristi has stocked with antiques and such,
Ford used to host dances.

Kristi runs The Hopeless Romantic with her mother Anne Sterling. The two have a love for helping people find items for their home that fit their decor or gifts for others. Kristi custom designs dried floral arrangements, potpourri and herbal blends.

"We are an exclusive dealer of Sid Dickens Memory Blocks, which are just beautiful," Anne said.

The blocks are hand-crafted plaster tiles, cracked to create an aged look. Motifs from Medieval, Baroque, Renaissance and Rococo art; mystic symbols; music and love letter calligraphy are among the 32 styles available.

Kristi, who once owned a similar business in Okemos, said she fell in love with Northville the first time she visited.

"The people are wonderful and I like the slower pace," she said.

The Hopeless Romantic is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and until 8 p.m. Fridays.

Orin Jewelers

(248) 349-6940

The jewelry business has been a way of life in the Mazzoni family for more than 65 years.

The first Orin Jewelers was opened by Orin Mazzoni in 1933. A watchmaker and jeweler by trade, Orin Sr. devoted his younger years to building his reputation as a fine craftsman dedicated to quality work and service at a fair price.

In the early years, the Mazzoni children grew up in an apartment above the Garden City store, which became a natural playground where they learned the jewelry business from the ground up.

By 1969, Orin Jr. was ready to run the family business. With new ideas and the same dedication to fine quality and service that had become a family tradition, a new era began. With the help of his sisters, Joyce and Carolyn, and brother, Michael, a constant upgrading of quality and service oriented.

In 1983, Orin Jewelers opened a store on the corner of Main and Center streets in downtown Northville. A major expansion of the showroom in Northville took place in 1994.

"Your family diamond store where fine quality and service are affordable," is the mission statement of Orin Jewelers.

"We are a REAL 'customer-oriented' store. Quality, personal service and customer satisfaction are what we are all about," say Orin Mazzoni, Jr., president and owner of Orin Jewelers. "It is very important that our customers understand the quality of the jewelry that they're buying because today's purchase is tomorrow's heidoom."

A strong part of Orin Jewelers' business is their custom-design capabilities. Orin's has its own design and repair shop (at the Garden City store) that can create a finished piece of jewelry from a customer's drawing or ideas or make modifications to an existing piece of jewelry to make it a more personal item for the customer.

"A lot of times when customers are shopping at jewelry stores, they must choose between taking an item just the way it is in the showcase or not buy it at all," says Mazzoni. "But we realize that everyone has different tastes and styles of jewelry that they like. Frequently, we make modifications to a piece of jewelry — changing to a different gemstone or metal composition, for example — to achieve the style and appearance the customer is looking for."

Orin and his brother Michael travel to all major jewelry shows to find independent designers to offer his customers unique and one-of-a-kind pieces they won't find anywhere else, as well with creating a lot of their own designs. Along with the major cutters of the most beautiful diamonds at best prices. Orin travels to Antwerp, Belgium, to pick from the world's greatest supply of the most beautiful diamonds at the best prices.

Special events protesting color gernstones, gold jewelry, estate jewelry an in-store of chiraction" (taking place this month) are all part of Orin Jewelers calendar, making it easier for customers to tailor their jewelry collections to their liking.

Orin Jewelers also has a highly trained, professional staff to assist you in your diamond purchasing.

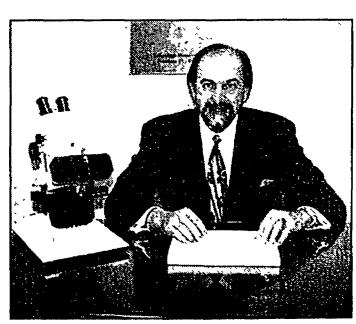

Orin Jr. graduated from the Gemological Institute of America. He is a certified gemologist with the American Gem Society, a profession society of fine jewelers throughout the United States and Canada which promote a high standard of business ethics and continued education among jewelers.

In order to maintain his title, Orin must pass a rigorous exam every year. There are only about 30 to 35 certified gemologists in the state. This continued education keeps Orin on top of new innovations. It also allows him to be more precise and exact in the diamond grading process than a jeweler who is not certified.

Orin personally guarantees that any diamond you buy is guaranteed to be the quality stated on your sales receipt and appraisal.

Orin Jewelers' professionally trained staff anxiously awaits your visit so they may have the opportunity to show you some of the most beautiful and unique jewelry you'll ever see.

Orm Jewelers is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

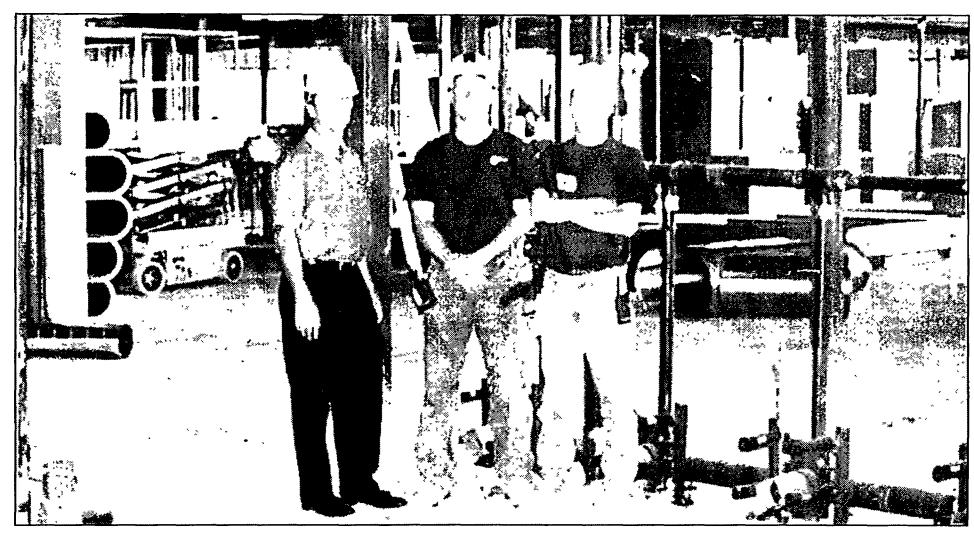

Orin Mazzoni (top) says the knowledgeable staff of Orin Jewelers is professionally trained.

Perhaps the parents of some of the dancers can say it best. Each June the studio teaches dads and their daughters a dance that they perform at the annual lune recitals. In six years, the participation has grown from 45 to 200 dads (or uncles, grandpas, brother-in-laws, etc.) and daughters. One dad, after performing, wrote to say: "Remember my look of panic at the first rehearsal? I thought I'd never get it right. But, with generous applications of your talent (and patience). Lisa Shapiro and Edna Burg think you should come to their studio if you're looking for a place that will share their passion for dance, instill pride and self-assurance, boost self-confidence and self-esteem, promote responsibility and maturity, nurture, support and teach in an atmosphere that's relaxed and familial.

Although many studios have gone to a competitive format (select dancers compete against other studios), Shapiro and Burg have chosen another route. Their dancers (all ages, all skill levels) perform for nursing homes, children's homes, senior residences, and hospitals during their Christmas and spring tours.

They also dance in community events such as the Fourth of July Parade, Northville Bargain Bazaar, Northville Christmas Walk and their annual Open House, held this year on Saturday, August 14 from noon to 3 p.m.

We want our customers to feel at home," said Sam Savedes, owner of Uptown Cafe.

A great location and atmosphere were two reasons Savedes opened his cafe in 1996. "The people of Northville have been great to this restaurant. I hope we can keep on pleasing our customers." Savedes said.

The menu at Uptown Cafe stirs the taste buds and imagination beginning with appetizer selections of Pane Di Formaggio or Bruschetta breads; and Black Bean Salsa dip served with tortilla chips.

Another great meal-starter includes Italian Chicken Soup or soup of the day.

From there the menu gets even more tantalizing. A selection of salads, such as a Pomidori or Chicken Mandarin Orange, and sandwiches like ground round, Italian burger, Huge Uptown Ham, Calabrian Meatloaf sandwich and plenty more — all made to satisfy.

Main courses at Uptown Cafe offer such tempting dishes as Char-Grilled Barbecued Salmon and pasta as well as Smoked Chicken Ravioli and Chicken Fettucine.

First Financial Mortgage Corporation

(248) 347-7440

First Financial Mortgage Corporation, located at 200 North Center Street in downtown Northville, was founded in 1991 as a state licensed, full service, home mortgage lender.

They offer a complete selection of home loan products to suit nearly every home finance need, including purchases, refinances, construction loans, home equity loans, bill consolidation loans and more.

Since 1991, First Financial has provided hundreds of millions of dollars in home loans, much of that to Northville home owners. They provided over $54 million in loans in 1998.

"We like to think of ourselves as a client based lender," says Mike Gruley, President and founder. "We don't just sell product and price alone. We provide solutions to needs and problems. We view our customers as long-term clients." First Financial provides to its clients regular updates on money saving mortgage strategies, as well as reliable sources for other information, such as investments, real estate, legal services, insurance and the like. The downtown lender currently employs ten people — seven loan officers and three office staff — eight of those ten having at least ten years experience in the lending business.

"We're located in Northville because I wanted to work in a community, in which I live," says Gruley, who has lived in Northville since 1985 with his wife Terry and their two children. "I can't imagine a better way to be involved in the community than by providing financing for home ownership. We're a small company, and in a small town like Northville, it gives us a nice feeling to know that we can make a noticeable difference in the community. By supporting local events such as the Victorian Festival, the Memorial Day Parade, or even a grade school program such as March is Reading Month, we feel like we're an important part of something very special."

In an effort to stay on the cutting edge of the mortgage industry, First Financial utilizes the latest in computer technology to simplify and expedite the mortgage process. Having the newest, innovative loan products has set them apart from other lenders, for instance, in the next few weeks, they will be offering Reverse Mortgages designed to help senior citizens tap the equity of their homes to supplement their retirement incomes.

First Financial just recently announced their new web site, at www.firstloans.net, where prior clients, as well as new ones, can obtain mortgage information and even apply on-line 24 hours a day. "The goal of the web page is not to attract 'surfers,' It's just another medium by which we can inform and communicate with our current clients," Gruley said. The site offers clients a place to go on-line to get information about mortgages, the stock market, interest rates, and the economy. In addition, the site has a helpful directory of other related professionals with links and e-mail addresses.

Century 21 Town and Country agent, Nigel Cook, is in the center of this great town, eager to help you with your lifestyle aspirations.

He claims that fate brought him to Northville from his home in England. Nigel Cook, a Century 21 Town and Country real estate agent, came from one historic town to another, to chase his American Dream, and to help others live out theirs.

Having worked for design/build and property companies in England, Cook is not new to the business. He is here — as he said — "to help others with their lifestyle aspirations. Throughout my career in real estate. I have accomplished a great many things, thanks in part to my supportive clients. I want to let people know that I really appreciate their support."

That support stems from his expertise and love for the business. Cook works for America's number one producing Century 21 firm, as one of their leading agents, and shares impor-

Northville residents of all fitness levels have relied on the Water Wheel Health Club to provide them with a comfortable atmosphere and personalized guidance to get and stay in shape.

Chris and Ellen Klebba created the unique club almost four years ago to reach those who may have never been involved with a health club on a regular basis.

"We're not trying to be everything to everyone," said Chris. "We're a specialty club with a very distinct mission."

The Water Wheel Health Club is an elite health club for adults of any fitness level, providing a fun, non-intimidating atmosphere where your goals become theirs. The Water Wheel offers personal guidance for cardiovascular, nutritional and strength training. "This removes any guess work on exactly what to do to reach your specific goals." Chris adds.

The Water Wheel really is an alternative to the large impersonal chain clubs. From the first moment you walk into the club you begin to realize the unique fitness experience, no pressure, comfortable, health professionals focused more on long term relationships versus signing up today. In fact all potential clients are encouraged to try the club with no obligation for 14 days before deciding to become a part of the club longer term.

Aside from having all the latest equipment, Water Wheel also houses the Street View Cafe located in the club offering a large selection of the latest active wear and accessories.

In an effort to promote funess the Water Wheel holds monthly social and educational events. These range from golf outings and seminars to theme parties, which are free of charge to members.

Evidence of the success of the Water Wheel difference lies in the satisfaction of its members.

'I was not involved with a club before coming to the Water Wheel. I tried walking and home exercise equipment, but found it difficult to stay consistent and did not see the results I wanted. I began checking out clubs in town. I would not even walk into one of the large chain clubs, as it seemed every one

Their program sorted out the proper food balance for my specific body, the proper mix of cardio and strength training, and the proper way to perform exercises. I have much more energy and I am down a size in clothes — they don't have that tight feeling."

Jan Ranucci,

Water Wheel Health Club member

"We were never regular members of any health club before we found the Water Wheel Health Club. We love the convenient location. The club is not a flashy place for people already in shape, but rather a comfortable, non-intimidating emironment for people of all fitness levels. It is also not a pick-up place." Toni adds, "Women of all shapes and sizes can come here and reach all their goals comfortably. This is our fourth year renewing. We have both reached many of our goals and really enjoy the members. We would recommend the Water Wheel to anyone,"

Gary and Toni Giles, fourth-year renewing members

Discover Northville ...

It's in every handshake, behind every business card, and shadowing the story of every business' beginnings.

You can see it on office walls, where coloring pages scribbled by kids are taped, and pictures of the family and home are hung.

It's in the struggle behind the hard work, and in the long hours spent rearranging and organizing just to get "caught up."

Discover Northville captures the businesses, their services, the employees and their credentials. But there is something special that lies within their "commitments to quality," and that is truth.

The Discover Northville advertising supplement features local businesses who pride themselves, first and foremost, on being a part something larger.

Their commitment to the community, to local children as their team sponsors, and to people in general stems from their hearts, not just from their business sense.

Northville area businesses have a common ground. They all work hard, they all strive to connect with their customers and communities, and they all leave the workplace to become the parent, the spouse, or the customer.

In small towns, such as Northville, things are recognizably different.

Word travels quick, there is an intimacy among locals, and business is done on a more personal basis.

Discover Northville businesses share in a mutual privilege; they are all in it together, and together they develop that small town warmth that makes these small towns a wonderful place to live and work.

Lon Huhman Special Sections Intern

Until this summer, mowing lawns was the best job Lon Huhman had. But working as a Special Sections intern for HomeTown Newspapers has changed his mind.

"This has been a great experience for me," Huhman said. "The benefits of this job outweigh any job I have ever had."

Weigh any job I have ever had.'

Huhman, a senior at Eastern Michigan University is working toward a degree in Written Communication. The major offers two routes of education in writing — technical and creative. Huhman opted for the creative emphasis. He also minors in literature.

"I enjoy reading and writing short stories." Huhman said "I'm starting out small, hopefully I'll get one of my stories published. A good short story can be very hard to write."

Working in the Special Sections department has helped expand his writing experience. Interviewing business owners and taking photographs has taught him plenty this summer.

"It has been interesting," Huhman siid.

Kristin Lukowski Special Sections Intern

From the time she could read, Kristin Lukowski knew she wanted to be a writer.

"I wanted to be a novelist, then a photojournalist, then a poet," she remarked. "But my dream jobs have always included writing."

She says that her inspiration stems from winning an honorable mention in a Be-An-Author contest sponsored by her library in the fourth grade. "It was such a goofy award, but that's what made me believe that I could do this," she reflected.

Kristin has published several poems and is a Features and Sports writer for the student newspaper at Adrian College. She will be a junior in the fall, majoring in English-Journalism. She has minors in Theatre and Spanish, and hopes to spend a semester studying in Spain during her senior year.

Kristin lives in South Lyon with her parents, sister, and two dogs. She loves reading, listening to music, and doing anything outdoors.

Heather Wilson Special Sections Intern

It is plain and simple. Heather Wilson, a Michigan State journalism junior has always loved to write.

As a Special Sections intern at HomeTown Newspapers this summer, she is putting her talents and her hobby to work, and the experience is putting her goals in perspective.

"Everyday, I am reassured that this is what I want to do. Meeting people, hearing their stories, and then putting it all down on paper helps me to realize the larger things of life, and that is what I want; simply to know the important stuff." Wilson said.

As a Milford High School senior, Wilson worked for her school newspaper and interned at her local paper, The Milford Times. She began writing long before high school though, and her clips go back as far as the sixth grade. She has had an article published in USA Today magazine, and other various papers.

Josh Bachmeier Special Sections Intern

As long as he can remember, Josh has enjoyed writing.

"The first thing I wrote that was published, was in middle school. It was in a small publication called the "Writers Cramp," for which all the students were able to write a poem or short story.

As an English major at Michigan State University, Josh feels the position of Special Sections intern for HomeTown Newspapers' Our Town series is a good opportunity to venture into another field of writing.

"I have done just about every other kind of writing. he said. "I am enjoying my experience as a Special Sections intern."

Another aspect of working for HomeTown Josh appreciates is meeting and speaking with business owners.

"It's really interesting to hear the stories behind their businesses. The proprietors, and in many cases their families, have worked very hard to achieve success."

But the second of the second confidence of the second of t

The difference between this salon and any other is the separate styling and coloring departments. Extensively trained specialists in both areas ensure clients receive the proper treatment.

Co-owner Nadine Girvan explained that both departments of the salon work together as a team "to create the image desired." Stylists strive to maintain knowledge about the newest trends, and while colorists can handle any job, they specialize in corrections.

"We work very well together," Girvan added.

In addition to hair styling and color, Matthew Thomas Salon also offers makeup, facial, and waxing services.

Although the salon is only in its second year of operation, most of the stylists and colorists have worked in the field for at least five years, some as long as 20.

Continuing education, consisting of salon technique and classes, is a priority at Matthew Thomas Salon. The colorists recently returned from Cancun where they studied advanced color education.

Matthew Thomas Salon carries a line of Tigi and Wella styling products. They also participate in an in-house apprenticeship program for both future stylists and colorists.

Positive customer response is common at this salon. Girvan feels everyone has established a wonderful following, and happily accommodates new clients. Matthew Thomas Salon offers a warm, inviting atmosphere, and is large enough to offer full services while small enough to devote individual attention to each client.

Matthew Thomas Salon expresses its gratitude to other salons who have referred clients looking for a particular stylist and thanks its customers for giving it a great two years.

Bonnie Brook Homes, LLC

(248) 380-3060

The focus on quality and pride in workmanship is a factor in Bonnie Brook Homes' success.

Bonnie Hartsock has been building dream houses for Northville residents for six years.

Bonnie Hartsock began related companies Bonnie Brook Development, Inc., in 1993 and Bonnie Brook of Maybury Crossing in 1998

One of the ingredients that ensure satisfaction in the finished product at Bonnie Brook Homes, is the open line of communication between the client and the building process, which allows customers to express their hopes and expectations.

Another factor in the success of Bonnie Brook is the focus on quality and pride in workmanship. This guarantees the highest standards of quality are met. They are able to stay committed to these standards by personally hand selecting each tradesman and craftsman.

The combination of these elements allow Bonnie Brook Homes to turn clients' dreams into reality.

While focusing on quality and luxury, Bonnie Brook's resume includes premier developments like The Oaks of Northville and Maybury Crossing.

The Oaks of Northville is located on 15 gorgeous acres bordered by woodlands, wetlands, pond and stream. Seventeen home sites have been carefully constructed to create a peaceful community in harmony with the natural surroundings. Home sites range from approximately one-half to three-quarters of an acre, which provides everyone with a sense of privacy as well.

Maybury Crossing is a development of 15 homes ranging in price from approximately $550,000 to $1,000,000. Backing up to Maybury State Park, residents are able to appreciate nature and wildlife in their own backyard while being only minutes from town. This private, tranquil setting embraces elegant homes on one acre or larger lots.

"You're just as likely to see deer as you are to see your neighbor in the 20-acre development," Bonnie said. "There is a certain segment of people who want to live in close-proximity subdivisions. We're fulfilling the need for those people who want a little more elbow room."

Architecture of the homes is carefully monitored to ensure a continuity in the development and protect the investment each homeowner has in their home.

Bonnie Brook Homes also builds individual homes on private lots in the surrounding areas.

Bonnie Brook Homes has built its reputation on customer satisfaction. When clients state their needs, they immediately become the needs of the company. They then become dedicated to completing each aspect of the building process according those expectations. The company is not looking to establish numerous homes within a subdivision. Rather, they aim to keep their developments small and private to ensure the integrity of each home.

"We utilize our communication cycle to the information between the client and the builder," Bonnie said. "When the home is completed, our clients are more than satisfied, they are proud of their successful partnership with Bonnie Brook Homes."

For more information Bonnie can be reached at (248) 670-2008 or at her Northville office, (248) 380-3060.

GAYLE'S DANCEPHASE 248-305-5600

The best choice you can make for your beginning dancer;

Dancers can begin anytime after age 3. At our studio they will start with children of similar age and ability. What makes our program standout is the special things we do to help the dancer become a self-confident person able to enjoy performing and dancing. From their first time on the small platform stage in class all the way to the full scale auditorium recital we nurture their love for the art. Great music, bean bags, parachutes, rhythm sticks and props are all used in class to keep the learning fun. Our students have learned to love dance and most of them study many years. We are a studio the dancers really grow with. Join us this fall for our 17th season, your child will really thank you.
