Attorney general to investigate prosecutor's office

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The Michigan Attorney General's office plans a formal review of the Wayne County prosecutor's office investigation of Jim Nield, The Northville Record learned this

"We are reviewing the situation," said Chris DeWitt, spokesman for the Attorney General. Beyond that there's nothing else I can say.

However, DeWitt said the review was prompted by an editorial in the Record and a citizen's request.

No time limit set for Granholm's review of Nield case

DeWitt said he had no predictions as to when the review may be completed, he "Hopefully it will be sooner than later,"

DeWitt said. The five-month investigation that lasted from March through July centered around Nield's involvement with Families for a Better Northville and accusations that he abused school district properties in that effort by employing school labor and materials for mailings connected with support for the group.

Nield's wife, Martha, is vice-president of the Northville board of education. The Michigan State Police investigation cleared Nield's name in July, but Nield still has yet to obtain the one answer he is looking for - what started the investiga-

"I'm pleased that the attorney general is investigating it because I hope we can put it behind us as soon as possible," Nield said. *But there are just too many unanswered questions still.

The original complaint, wherever its origination may be, started the investigation after Ray Walsh, deputy Wayne County prosecutor, contacted Northville Police and passed on information that an unknown person(s) contacted him with the information Nield was allegedly abusing the school property. Northville Police passed the investigation on to Michigan State Police.

The Wayne County prosecutor's office said it has no record of who contacted the office with the original complaint, but did say the office was contacted through letters and telephone calls. Lynn Schultz, Northville resident, was named in several documents as being the possible source of the original complaint. However, Schultz said she felt as if she was "being used or framed or something else" because she's never seen Nield or

Former teen recalls how mentor program turned her life around

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Brianne McJenkin had already felt the strain of her parents divorce, her mother's remarriage. and the absence of her father by age 13. Her problems were hidden behind a fine-manicured Northville lawn and the nice clothes she wore belied the fact that she was falling apart.

While most children at that age are preoccupied with the physical and emotional changes of adolescence, McJenkin was struggling to understand why her life had taken such a turn.

Weeks enjoys new role, new challenges

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The Northville School District is doing more juggling than Barnum and Bailey.

There is a not-so-new addition to the high school staff. Gail Weeks, former assistant principal at Cooke Middle School, will be replacing David Maile at Northville High School. "I'm really pleased to see the students from Cooke here," Weeks said. "They don't seem to be hiding from me, so that's good."

Maile's departure left the staff not only saddened but also in desperate need of a suitable replacement. The position was offered to her soon after he left. However, she took some time to weigh the pros and cons of the situation.

"There are a lot more late nights here," Weeks

However, Week's decision tilted in favor of the opportunity to work in the new building. She said she liked the idea of sharing the assistant principal's duties rather than carrying them for the most

Cooke science teacher receives grant for international project

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

"How far away is the moon and how do I get there?" "If I eat Pop Rocks and drink a Coke is that really bad?" "Are kids in other countries just like me?" "Are there bugs in Japan?"

Though these questions may seem silly to an adult, the answers - at least the latter two questions — are currently being answered at Cooke Middle School.

Gary Gondolfi, a science and technology teacher at Cooke. received a Fullbright grant to implement an international project to study insects from around the world from the comforts of his classroom. Gondolfi's students, as well as other students statewide. will be collecting data on the creepy critters and their habitats.

The project is an expansion of the existing seventh grade curricu-lum, Gondolfi said. On Sept. 15 and 16. the seventh graders at Cooke examined a one-meter area and counted as many varieties of bugs as they could, as well as, the numbers of bugs in those varieties. The data the students collected will be used to determine the environmental health of the area and also to study the terrain in which certain species live. The information will then be posted on a web site.

"There is talk that if the project keeps going that the To a kid, the world is full of results could be used for some significant research."

> Gary Gandolfi Cooke Middle School science teacher

involved in the research. Collection and observation will also take place in Texas, California, Kansas and Massachusetts in order to incorporate different terrains and climates in the experiment.

Meanwhile, halfway around the world, students from all the Japanese islands and the mainland will be performing the same studies. The goal is for the shared information to culminate in a live satellite teleconference at the end Gondolfi says that the purpose of the project is to get kids to start working with their overseas counterparts. Gondolfi said the growing global economy presented new opportunities to work internationally.

"It will be good for the kids to be skilled in that now before they enter the working world," he said. Gondolsi emphasized that the project is a "kid-driven" project.

We want them to start making decisions and asking questions about why there are differences between the countries," he said.

The Cooke project is one of the Michigan is just one of the states has been tried. Gondolfi said that the students are feeling their way around and still working out the glitches with the program.

One of these stumbling blocks is the language barrier. in most Japanese schools, the students are not required to learn English until the seventh grade. Likewise, most American students do not know Japanese. To remedy the problem, the Global Communications Network will translate the information into the respective students' native language.

The project as a whole was initiated and funded by the by the Japanese government in an effort to improve the technology in the educational system. The Fullbright grant that Gondolfi received took him and four other teachers from around the country to Japan for three weeks.

Gondolfi was chosen with four other teachers in the country. In that time he observed that although Japan has a stellar worldwide reputation for education, they are, in reality, quite behind the times.

government. Gondolfi said he was hoping to gain some insight into how technology is integrated into the curriculum in America. He said Japanese teachers really don't use the Internet to enrich the classroom experience due to a lack of equipment and funds.

The Japanese government simply ran out of money after the 1980's to put into school technology, "he said. They have no more than two computers per school with Internet access. Cooke has 160."

Gondolfi estimated that Japan was about five to eight years behind districts like Northville in terms of technology.

The proposal that earned Gondolfi the grant was intended for a smaller district wide project but turned into the "umbrella" project for the entire program. Despite his modesty over his proposal being chosen, he speculated he was chosen because the project was the one that would allow for the most exposure to American technology and science in schools.

Gondolfi said he was hoping that the project could be an ongoing program saying that there has been some interest from university professors, the Smithsonian Institute and the National Museum of Science in the data that is collected.

There is talk that if the project keeps going that the results could be used for some significant research," he said.

Cooke Middle School science teacher Gary Gandolfi talks to students Valerie Schomer, Julie Schoenheider, Lauren Iwema, and Allie Esper during a class computer project. Gandolfi recently received a Fulbright grant to study insects.

Northville Downs has lent its infield for use by parks and recreation sponsored soccer teams.

Community partnerships

Creativity helps in securing fields for soccer

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

If you see little people at the Northville Downs these days, don't jump to the conclusion that they're horse jockeys.

It's more likely that they're at the Downs to play soccer in just one of many community partnerships between the Northville Parks and Recreation department and other organizations in the area.

The agreement between the Northville Downs and the Northville Parks and Recreation department is typical of the way the department works with other organizations. In that agreement, the department of parks and recreation gets to use the infield of the racetrack in exchange for cutting the grass and lining the field with chalk.

"It's a real life saver," said Jeff Weicksel, president of the Northville Soccer Association. That means that on any given night we can have up to 10 teams practicing at once. It's a huge dif-

Township firefighters save life of eight-month-old infant

By WENDY PIERMAN MITZEL Staff Writer

One minute three Northville Township public safety employees were fighting fire, the next they were helping an eight-month-old infant fight for her life.

Sergeant Michael O'Brian and firefighters Dan Dipple and Brian Siriani had a two alarm night. Aug. 31, when in the middle of attending to a building fire they received a call about an infant not breathing. Luckily, they were only about a mile away from the Swan Lake address they were given.

On the way to scene the men shifted mentally from one emergency to another.

Children are hard for a lot of people," O'Brian said. "It brings a lot of things close to home for a lot of rescuers. Still, anytime you get a call for someone not breathing you know your actions have to be quick. This is someone's life."

It was a few minutes after 9 p.m. when they arrived at the home of the Japanese couple whose child had stopped breath-

'You could see (the parents) frantic in the upstairs window." explained O'Brian. The couple ran down the stairs with the baby where firefighters took over.

"She had a pulse and was breating pretty quickly and sporadically," O'Brian recalled.

Because the child was having a hard time breathing the three men placed her on oxygen. Still she O'Brian noted a high fever on the infant. Although there was a slight language barrier. O'Brian said they were able to get enough information to learn the couple had started cardiopulmonary resuscitation before the rescue squad had arrived.

The infant was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia and then airlifted to the University of Michigan Hospital where she

Although the men were unable to find out the diagnosis, a febrile seizure caused by a high fever was suspected. According to Kelly Pigeon at Northville Township, the mother of the girl reports she is doing very, very good."
O'Brian said time was of the essence.

*What helped so much was we were there so quickly and especially that the parents did CPR. Without that, you're looking at some kind of loss," he explained.

O'Brian said residents will be able to sign up for CPR classes and learn more about the lifesaving procedure during the Northville Township's sixth annual Public Safety Exposition on Monday, Sept. 27. The 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. event is designed to show off the public safety department and promote safety for residents. This year it will be held in the parking lot at the Northville Center shopping plaza near the intersection of Six Mile Road and Haggerty Road.

Board, parents discuss class size problems

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Tensions between parents at Thornton Creek and school administrators seemed to be eased after an administrative subcommittee meeting last Tuesday.

There were 22 parents in attendance in the cramped conference room at the school board office who were disturbed over the large class size of the third grade at Thornton Creek.

This issue was brought up in the spring and hasn't been dealt with as far as I'm concerned," one parent said.

Some of the parents wanted to see another section added for the third grade. This was not a viable option according to Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski. He said that contrary to popular belief, there are not that many teacher candidates available that meet the high standards set by the

"I think they know now who they are dealing with."

also said that even if the district did begin looking for a new third grade teacher, it could take several weeks to fill the position. This in turn, was not viable for the parents because many vehemently were opposed to disrupting their children so far into the semester. One parent even related a story of how her child, upon hearing the news that he might have to switch classes, flew into a tantrum and begged not to be taken away from his current teacher.

Rezmierski said that even if a new teacher was hired quickly. there remained a significant lack of space to put a new class. Some of the parents suggested that the health teacher be put Northville school district. He "on a cart," or be mobilized and go to each classroom. Linda Pitcher, curriculum supervisor. advised strongly against this saying that it was the "least desirable solution."

According to Pitcher, the health teacher has a good deal of equipment that was necessary to the curriculum. That being the case, Pitcher said it would be incredibly difficult to teach from a cart. The parents seemed to understand that argument but still were not satisfied. Rezmierksi recommended that the school keep the three third grade classes without adding a fourth and instead keep the teacher aides in the class and just extend their hours. He said that this was positive in many ways. one of which being the student-toteacher ratio would be 14:1 instead of 28:1.

The parents were skeptical of the qualifications of the teacher aide due to the fact that aides are not required to hold teacher certification or even a college degree. However, Pitcher explained that the aides went through the same rigorous training that the teachers did this past summer, have learned the curriculum and would continue their training throughout

After the meeting both sides seemed satisfied, but some of the parents warned the administrators and the board members that they would accept the plan of having a teacher aide, but that some serious planning needed to be done to avoid similar situations in the Township officials discuss policy for naming parkland

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The name game is one surely to be played quite often in Northville Township's future.

After all, people will need to somehow reference the more; than 200 acres of land the township has acquired. As a result. the township has put together a policy on the naming of park

I think it's a real good idea to put in some guidelines now," said Dick Henningsen. Northville Township board of trustee. Next year we're going to start redoing signs so it's important to resolve what we can put on them now.

Sign ordinance up for vote Oct. 4

The Northville City Council could sign off on a new city ordinance as soon as Oct. 4.

Council mulled over details of the sign ordinance at its Sept. 20 meeting in preparation for a second reading of the ordinance and possible adoption at its next meeting Oct. 4.

The sign ordinance amendments provide up-to-date details on what kinds and how much signage each business may have in Northville's central business district.

Some work on the ordinance remains though.

"It's been a frustrating year-and-a-half." said Gary Word, Northville city manager. *But we've compromised a position that I think will ultimately be good for

High school code prohibits tank tops

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Girls are prohibited from wearing spaghetti strap tank tops to Northville High School, according to a new school rule.

The change in dress code came after the administration found the teeny tops too revealing.
There's an awful lot of bare skin showing with the tops." assistant principal Gail Weeks said. 'We just don't feel that it's appropriate for young ladies."

Weeks said that so far there has been no major problems with the change.

"I have had to tell some girls to put their outer shirts on over the tops. Some of them don't understand why they have to, but then generally they just put the outer shirt on." Weeks said.

If the student does not comply, she asked to come to the office. cussion the student does not comply, then a parent is called Weeks said that the major complaint with new rule is that the high school girls feel like they are being treated like children and that it is so hot in the school that they need to wear the shirts to keep cool. Some students, led by Mindy Marburger and Heather Gillespie, have begun a petitioning campaign to try to change the ruling. Neither of the girls were available for comment.

Weeks said that she was unaware of the petition but that it probably would do little to change the administration's collective mind.

"We like to have students" input," Weeks said." Now and then administration has to make a rule in the best interest of the students. We are going to stick to where I could still remember what it was like but I was also an adult." Wazny said. With a little empathy and some sound advice, she began counseling McJenkin and her family and earning McJenkin's trust.

"I always knew she'd be there no matter what," McJenkin said.

She is such a great mommy. Wazny said. "She has so much strength. I don't think I could have risen above it like she has."

The staff at Northville was very pleased with her decision. "It is monumental to have someone of her caliber," said Northville

High School principal Tom Johnson. The fact that she comes in already knowing half of the students make the transition from the middle school to the high school that much easier for her and the students." Johnson said he was impressed with the way Weeks learned so much and adapted so well in the new environment.

"it underscores the fact that we want the students and parents to feel comfortable and oriented, and it helps to have a friendly face to help make the connection from Middle School to High School," he said.

Cooke Middle School principal Jeffrey Radwanski was equally impressed whether abilities.

"I never felt like it was principal and assistant. We were very much in line in decision making," he said. "Departure leaves a huge hole."

The district is currently looking for someone to fill that gap. However, Radwanski is anticipating a fairly lengthy search.

However, the developer said he wasn't going to pay because the company that told him where he could and couldn't dig was wrong and he further said he felt that company should be held responsible for the problem.

Charges were determined from a ordinance the Northville board of trustees passed in 1993.

The resolution says that in the township, whoever is held responsible is charged $250 an hour for ladder and tanker trucks, $150 an hour for pumpers and ambulance and $100 an hour for all other township vehicles, such as police cars.

Additionally, responsible parties are charged for the cost of the wages of Northville Township fire and police personnel.

With all the companies that owe the township money, it was found they had struck the line on accident.

The biggest offender of the five companies sent bills is George A. Odien Inc. Underground Contractors.

The company owes the township $17,534 for the cost of a gas main break at the intersection of Five Mile Road and Beck Road on July 15, 1998. A representative from the company couldn't be reached.

Bill calls for harsh penalties for student threats

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Any threat made in a school. however idle, could land a student in jail.

Sen. Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, is pushing a bill that would make threats, currently considered misdemeanors, low level felonies.

According to McCotter, this would shorten the time between a threat becoming an action and could prevent unnecessary violence in schools.

With a misdemeanor, the police have to wait to get a bench warrant," McCotter said. "If it's a felony, the police can arrest immediately on probable cause."

Lieutenant Barry Sherman of the Livonia Police Department suggested the legislation to McCotter after a threat made at Stevenson High School in Livonia last Spring.

The lieutenant was unavailable for comment, but according to Livonia Police Chief Pete Kunst, a student had put up a poster reading that he was going to "kill everybody," gave a date, and drew a picture of a sniper scope over the words. The police were called, and upon investigation, discovered who made the poster.

However, because the threat was not delivered over the phone, the police could only request a warrant for the student's arrest.

The student was eventually detained for a psychological examination. Kunst placed the blame for this on a law that is not broad

"If he had called in a bomb threat, we could've acted right away because it is a different statute and he would have been considered an immediate threat," Kunst said. "Instead it was considered just a threat'."

This was unacceptable to the senator who plans to get the bill on the fast track at the state level. McCotter was encouraged by the early support he had already received from both parties and was confident it will pass quickly.

He was hopeful that the bill would also help curb malicious. prank threats, as well as the ones that may turn into violent acts.

"I could not live with myself if that threat became an act and there was something I could have done to help prevent it." McCotter

The bill is expected to be presented sometime in the next few weeks.

Wayne County commissioner Lyn Bankes conducted an investigation in August to try and determine if a member of the prosecutor's office had abused his or her power and was satisfied when O'Hair told her no one had.

Bankes then suggested the attorney general be contacted if the results of her own investigation were unsatisfactory, which is what Nield had done with a Sept. 10 letter to Attorney General Jennifer Granholm. In the letter, he asked for help in determining who started the investiga-would very much like to focus our time on helping others and the Northville community." Nield said in his letter to the attorney general.

In addition to the attorney general's office. Nield sent a letter to Wayne County prosecutor John O'Hair. Nield requested to meet with O'Hair.

Nield requested to meet with O'Hair "to review this with the possibility that I could obtain a satisfactory reason for this investigation so that we might be able to put this behind us."

However, O'Hair suggested in a written response Nield possibly contact the state attorney general regarding the investigation into his personal life.

"A meeting to review again this matter would not be fruitful," O'Hair said in the letter.

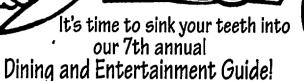

Further, O'Hair said in his written response, "Every effort is made to respond to the requests for information in a responsible and professional manner. However, occasionally, a citizen or agency is not satisfied and wishes to pursue the matter further. I fully understand that differences of opinion do occur. In these situations, further review through the Michigan Attorney General's Office is a possibility. If an error has been made by our office, the Attorney General can advise us and correction will be made.

Granholm investigation should give us our answers

At long last this community may finally learn the answers to the questions we've been posing to the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office regarding its investigation of Northville Township resident Jim

Attorney General Jennifer Granholm has agreed to review the case. A representative for Granholm confirmed the review

Which means that after four months of asking questions, we just might get some truth here. That's right, it's been four months since we broke the story on our front page and every week since. the whole sordid affair has played out on the front page of the Record, as we reported new plot twists and turns.

We begged County Commissioner Lyn Bankes to intercede on behalf of her Northville constituents. What we received from Bankes amounted to a cursory look -a conversation with prosecutor John O'Hair, who assured Bankes that nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

No questioning of witnesses, of tions for Ray Walsh, the deputy prosecutor who launched this whole thing.

Nope. None of those interesting and important questions ever got answered.

We're hoping that Jennifer Granholm doesn't take the same road in her review of the Nield investigation. Because we as a community need to be reassured that nothing out of the ordinary happened here. We need to be reassured that the police are not going to be knocking on our door if we begin questioning the actions of our elected officials.

Most of all we need to be able to have faith and trust in our system of government, something Jennifer Granholm talked about in great length during a public appearance in Howell last week.

This isn't a witch hunt we're on here. This is simply a community that wants to be certain its government isn't trouncing the rights of the very people it is supposed to protect and defend.

Hopefully, Jennifer Granholm the state police detectives who con- will be able to give us all the ducted the investigation. No ques- answers we've been waiting for.

ith all due respect to five Hills and Knight Construction of metro Detroit-area contractors, we think not paying Northville Township back for police and fire services when gas lines have been struck is a load of Spare us the sob stories about how it's not your company's fault, and that someone else is to blame for the hours of closures of roads from leaking gas mains. The fact of the matter is that it was this nickel-package of contractors who were on Spare us the sob stories digging, and striking about how it's not your the mains.

Northville Township public safety someone else is to blame director Chip Snider seems to agree. "We're billing whoev- of roads from leaking gas er we believe to be responsible party." Mr. Snider said. "And whoever was digging the house for underground utility hole is who we are going to hold responsible."

Sounds like a pretty solid line of logic to us, but not to one contractor who's on the township's list for owing a portion of $27,000 in screwup bills. The anonymous contractor (he declined to say which company he represented) told us that the agency responsible for indicating where and where not to dig failed to do its job.

That's possible, but until we see some proof to the contrary, we'll take it on Mr. Snider's word that companies like Gethsemane Landscape Architectural Builders, of Oakland; George A. Odien Inc. Underground Contractors of Brighton; Foukes Electric of West-

Troy owe this community some money for problems they had a hand in.

In a community like Northville Township, $27,000 is a king's ransom. And even with an eight-year millage passed last year, things like gas main leaks and other hazards that could have been avoided by taking extra care in the prepatory stages put a major dent in the community's bank account.

That hissing sound heard when a main is struck isn't just gas. It's dollars and manpower being wasted.

MissDig, an organization that encourages builders to call before construction begins, has said in the past that it isn't a clearing-information. Rather, the group will act as a liaison between a builder and the utility companies to locate where the lines are at.

And if that remains to be the case today, we think MissDig and other locating companies need to get their ducks in a row. Builders can't wait forever they have schedules to keep. A more systematic method of organizing utility information needs to be established so that growing communities like ours don't have emergency roadblocks springing up every time we turn around.

But in the meantime, the Township Five can do this the township a great service by paying its bills first. That's one leak we don't think land; Byers Locating of Rochester should go unplugged for long.

Schools need our ideas, not threats

I've been following, with interest, the ongoing dialogue between the Northville Public School District and a small group of concerned parents, whose children attend Thornton Creek Elementary School.

Just in case you are not familiar with the debate, the parents are concerned that the student-to-teacher ratio for third grade classes at the elementary school have increased a bit. The group went to the school board a few weeks back to protest the increase, demanding that something be done to lower the ratio from its current level of 28-to-1.

Now, before I become somewhat critical. I should point out that these parents should be applauded for getting involved in the process. Too many times I've written columns or editorials bemoaning the fact that many parents in this wonderful community of ours don't bother to involve themselves in their child's

So when a group of parents band together to voice a concern. I think some praise and applause is in order.

With that said, however, I also need to issue a warning - it's okay to voice those concerns and it's okay to request (and in some cases demand) changes. But you cross the line when you stop voicing concerns and become threatening.

Take Sheryl Tripp Khoury's lone comment quoted in our newspaper this week. I think they know now who they are dealing with," she told our

Robert Jackson

Hmmm...sounds somewhat threatening to me. All of a sudden Khoury's comment leads me to believe that this group of parents might not have the entire student body of Thornton Creek in mind when citing their concerns. That statement also leads me to believe that these parents could be demanding something of the school district that the district might not be able to give.

You see, there seems to be this little problem. It's called rapid development. Houses are springing up in our community quicker than weeds in the front yard. Houses mean families and families mean kids, who - just in case you're not following the logical progression - attend Northville Public Schools.

The district has managed to lower class sizes for quite a few years, but as more students walk through the doors of our schools that's going to be more difficult to achieve. Sure the district can hire more teachers - they recently hired a record number during the summer - which allows them to reduce the number of kids per class. But that poses a different and more difficult problem to address: space for additional classes.

And if you've wandered the hallways of our schools lately you come to the quick realization that there isn't much space left. Unless, of course, you don't mind your child learning about math in the janitor's maintenance room. Oh, and remember, we could always ship in more portables. Now wouldn't that cause a stir? The point I'm trying to make here is that I have watched this school district work each year to reduce class size. They've been successful at it for a number of years, and you can't get me to believe that they've abruptly lost interest in maintaining a lower student-to-teacher ratio.

So, instead of threatening to picket the school district offices in an attempt to force the district into a more difficult position - one that could effect hundreds of students perhaps Khoury and the rest of this group should offer their time and energy to help the district battle an overcrowding problem that is only going to worsen as our community gets larger.

Because we need more people like them to ensure our children get the best educational opportunities possi-

I went to a neighborhood bank (a federally-insured place, mind you) and told the teller I wanted to exchange the Canadian money for American dollars. Given the catastrophic state of the Canadian economy, we're talking about a grand total of roughly six bucks and a few coins. The teller told me that you needed to be a member of the bank to perform such transactions. When I asked why that was, I was told it was because a) the bank "wanted to serve its customers first" (no one else was in the lobby), and b) because they weren't sure if it was counterfeit. Academics, politics don't (usually) mix

In this era of news spin and press manipulation, a good way for a reporter to gain insight into the real workings of a candidate is to talk informally with the spouse. It's still a good method, even today when we've heard far more psycho-babble than we ever wanted about the marital dynamics between Bill and

So last week I dropped in at the Ann Arbor Jewish Community Center to listen to presidential candidate Bill Bradley's wife, Ernestine Schlant Bradley. A professor of German and comparative literature at Montclair State University in New Jersey, Dr. Ernestine Schlant, as she is professionally known, is the author of a recently published book, "The Language of Silence: West German Literature and the Holocaust."

Not surprisingly, the crowd was rapt when I sidled in about half way through her presentation. It was just what you might expect from a professor of comparative literature: Literate, detailed, knowledgeable, academic. You cannot deconstruct the Holocaust," she argued at one point, launching into a review of 40 years of German literature.

"What's going on here?" I wrote on my reporter pad. "Here is a mature, perceptive, intelligent, civilized person implausibly engaged in a political process that is none of

At the end of her talk, Mrs. Bradley took questions, which she answered carefully and in detail. Only one dealt with her husband's campaign. Her answer consumed five minutes, concluding with the thought that Senator Bradley had learned from her that reading a country's literature often turned out to be far more useful to a visitor than a briefing from the State Department. "No sound bites here," I thought.

So when we sat down for a visit, I wondered how a wife, German-born and a full blown academic, relates to a husband, a former professional basketball player and now a professional politician. "It's not that difficult," she responded, "because it's very liberating when you know for certain what the most important thing is. In my case and at this time in my life, it's my husband's cam-

"But how," I asked, "can you manage in two entirely different worlds? One academia - where intelligence is used to illuminate and words are used to clarify and the other — politics — where intelligence is used to confuse and words are used to con-

"For me, it's not a problem," she said, pointing out she had participated in each of Bradley's three past campaigns for the Senate. "I know Bill's position on the issues, but I express them in my own way and in my own language. I won't read the position papers from the campaign; I speak about Bill, not for Bill."

But the contradiction between the two worlds? In her mind, the resolution is that,

"Bill really believes that he is running a different kind of campaign, one intended to reconstitute respect for the political process in this country. He wants to talk seriously to the voters, to present himself as an authentic, serious and non-politically driven candidate." The purpose: To give voters now frustrated and alienated with the political process some hope the system can change.

At the end of our talk, I asked Mrs. Bradley about the story that her husband decided not to run for President in order to be by her side in 1992 when she was diagnosed with breast cancer in June. "What a lovely anecdote," I thought, "perfectly illustrating the contrast between the Bradley family and some other political families we know about.

"Not true," she declined to mythologize. By the time I was diagnosed in June, the campaign for president was long under way. Bill was a rock during my illness, but it had nothing to do with his not running for Presi-

I was on Eight Mile and as I was approaching Griswold, the light was turning red. When the light changed, I couldn't start my car. It died! I was more annoyed than worried because two days before, I was at the dealer's for a brake adjustment and they assured me that my car was

Everything is a little out of whack

To the editor: It seems that most everyone is against the wealthy today.

Malcomb Forbes said, The sure way to wealth is to born of wealthy parents and be on the good side of them when they die."

I have been fortunate to have a number of wealthy clients in my accounting and tax practice the past 40 years.

They all have some things in common - a high school education, discipline, and the desire to succeed. They all worked at a job for a few years, saved some money and started from ground zero.

They worked 50-70 hours per week and the harder they worked, the luckier they got. After sacrific-ing for 15 to 20 years, they made it. No Cadillacs until they retired. They didn't spend 120 percent of their income like the government did to have a national debt of $6

I must give them credit. No one ever asked me to cheat for them. I gave them their tax bill and they paid it. That is the only part of my work that I don't enjoy. Telling them that they owe more taxes after they have paid their esti-mates all year, which we have been upping each year to avoid penalties.

The wealthy are the people that provide jobs and capital so let's not knock them too hard.

I don't think a former president of Chrysler needs $10 million a year to live on or our school superintendent needs a 4 percent raise while the school bus drivers get a 2 percent raise, which is about even in today's thinking.

The bus drivers have a lot of responsibility too, getting 40 to 50 students to school and home safety each day.

Everything is a little out of whack today.

We old timers don't worry about ourselves too much but we are concerned about the younger generation making it.

Once upon a time in a galaxy far away

To the editor: How about that. Scientists have predicated the existence of at least three planets similar to Jupiter and Neptune, in orbit around a sun that astronomers call Upsilon. Andromeda.

With all the millions of suns in our own galaxy the Milky Way, setting aside the billions that shine from other galaxies scattered about the cosmic horizon is it at all inconceivable that there may be some, nay many, planets that are merrily making their circular or ovate orbits around their particular sun, that may, if given circumstances similar to those that obtain between the Earth and our sun, be propitious for life of some form to exist?

I can visualize two "beings" on a distant planet looking through their light-years-traveling telescopes at the earth and one saying to the other, "There's some form of life on a little planet out there quick. Take a look before they blow it up."

Though we've been around 70,000 years, more or less, as a species and have amassed no small number of deities, I sometimes wonder how it will all come out, here on earth what with the sobering fact that we are murdering one another, in huge numbers, over the same things we always have: real estate, ethnicity, religion, or all three.

A employee lifts a large crate of apples into Parmenter's Northville mill during a Thursday morning pressing.

Pressing Tradition

Fall means doughnuts, orchard fresh apples, pies and, of course, cider made the old-fashioned way - at Parmenter's -Cider Mill

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Probably the last thing Parmenter's Cider Mill needs is coverage in the local newspaper.

They do just fine themselves, thank you.

After all, consider the facts without any coverage: about 300 pounds of doughnuts made on a good day; about 60 pallets boxes that contain 25 bushels of apples each used for cider a week; more than 100 apples pies made on site and sold in any fall weekend; and thousands of smiling faces young and old served every year for 126 years.

This is really a special place, said Roz Fink, Northville resident. It's great you can come here and just feel really comfortable. Not to mention the doughnuts and cider are delicious.

Parmenter's has been a Northville establishment since 1873 and is on its third set of owners: Diane and Mel Jones; Cheryl and Rob Nelson. The cider mill features two kinds of doughnuts, fresh picked apples, pies, caramel apples and, of course, cider.

apples, pies, caramel apples and, of course, cider.
The mill opens Labor Day weekend and closes the Sunday before Thanksgiving. Diane Jones said keeping the business as close to tradition as possible equals success.

For example, doughnuts not sold the day they're made are donated to local charities or organizations, although that's the last option. 'It's a real guessing game as to how much we're going to sell," Jones said.

The same method is applied to Parmenter's most popular product, the cider, said Rob Nelson, head cider pressman

A Parmenter's employee pours the crushed apples into a large steel vat where they'll be further processed by heating.

A cider-maker watches a freshly-delivered load of apples makes its way into a washing hopper.

Making the cider

We keep track of what we sell each day and look at that the next year and try and gauge how much we might need to make," he said. "Of course you never know for sure.

Cider is made about every two days, Nelson said. using a process that's as close to tradition as possi-

It starts with apples being shipped to Parmenter's from Kropf apple farms, just north of Grand Rapids, in huge wooden pallets that hold about 25 bushels each.

The cider mill is open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. every day through the end of October and is open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. in November.

For more info. call the mill at (248) 349-3181.

The bushels are loaded onto a conveyor belt where the bad apples are separated out and thrown away. It's the last time human hands touch the fruit.

From the separating zone, the apples are washed and ride up a conveyor belt where they are loaded into a grinder that turns the apples into an applesauce-like form. The apple pulp then is transferred via tube into the apple press where its mixed with rice hull so that friction is created and the juice is separated. The juice then empties out the bottom of the tank and is transferred, again through tubes. through a filtration system to a large 800 gallon storage tank. The cider then goes to cooling tanks where cider is stored at about 45 degrees.

After the cooling tanks, the cider is sent to a bottling machine in the cooler where pints, quarts and gallons are bottled as needed.

We do a whole press in about two-and-a-half hours," Nelson said. "Sometimes we do three or four presses a day which equals out to 1,500 gallons of cider," Nelson said.

During the process of making cider, not one thing is added. Nelson said.

And the cider at Parmenter's is never pasteur-

"It alters the makeup of the cider and can affect the taste," he said. "We want the cider to be its purest and as close to tradition as possible."

The key word is tradition

Whether people go to Parmenter's for the cider, the doughnuts, the ambience or whatever else, the key word is tradition.

Jones sald keeping the tradition going is all the

"It leads to a quality product that is freshly made, is a fall tradition and just a nice place to come, she said. We're not a high sale place. We're just a place where people can come and enjoy a nice day."

People like Northville resident Don MacKinnon seem to agree.

He said he'll probably make about "a half-a-dozen or so trips to the eider mill this fall." "I love the cider and it's just a special thing to do in the fall," he said. The cider mill is open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. everyday through the end of October and is open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. in November.

Etiquette, protocol not the same

"The desired result of etiquette and protocol knowledge is not increased self-consciousness but a greater feeling of self-confi-

Dorothea Johnson, renowned Washington D.C. etiquette consultant

Many people are often confused as to the difference between the usage of the words "protocol" and "etiquette." Well, let me "unconfuse" you.

Think of it as the difference between the words "climate" and "weather." Climate is the general year-round temperatures of a certain region such as tropical, arctic, or mild, and does not change. The North Pole is always cold, the equator is always hot.

Weather, on the other hand, changes from day to day. It can be rainy, cool, humid, snowy, hot or whatever.

Protocol, like climate, is pretty well set in stone. It deals mainly with the courtesies and policies when negotiating with foreign nations. The dictionary describes it as the ceremonial forms accepted as correct in official dealings, as between heads of states or diplomatic

This' means who greets whom at airports, when the national anthems are played, where flags are placed, who sits where at the negotiating table, observing cultural or racial traditions to the foods when a meal is served. and knowing what gifts are proper to exchange.

These are all guided by strict rules and are observed at all functions where officials of a government or its representative are in attendance. Official and diplomatic protocol decree that these rules are to be followed. Even though the authority on protocol is the Department of state's protocol office, only the President can change any of these rules in the United States.

Protocol, even though it sounds contemporary, is not anything new. In fact, it has been with us for thousands of years since it was first invented by the Chinese. Even carvings in Egyptian tombs depict the proper order of procession of those in royal courts some 2.500 years

Etiquette, on the other hand, is like the weather. It can be here today and gone tomorrow. Years ago, it started out as a list of rules and regulations as to proper behavior when attending a dinner or special event usually at a home of great wealth. These lists would be attached to a post in the courtyards of feudal castles, homes, or palaces for all to read before entering.

If the owners decided they would like to change a certain rule, the list would be torn down and changed, sometimes daily.

In modern times, etiquette rules do not change that suddenly or frequently but there have been changes. For instance, not too long ago, when a man and woman were dining In a restaurant, the woman was to give her order to her male partner who would then relay it to the waiter along with any other request she would have. She was not to speak or look at the waiter. Now that the world has discovered women are quite capable of ordering their own food, these etiquette rules have been revised.

The idea of etiquette is not quite as old as protocol. Just as the Chinese first recorded the idea of protocol, so did the Italians record the first books on etiquette. The first we read about these rules of civility is about 1290 A.D. when a Milanese monk set down some rules that we still observe today:

• Do not pick your teeth with

· Turn your head when coughing or sneezing:
• Do not gulp food or drink in one mouthful; and

• Do not set your feet on the dining table.

Now to some of your ques-

Q: What is the best way to eat breakfast bacon?

A: If the bacon is softly cooked, use a knife and fork, cutting off one bite at a time. When the bacon is crisply cooked, it is proper to pick it up, a strip, with the fingers and take one bite at a time. Trying to cut it when crisp will only send pieces all over your plate and 9: How should a man refer to his wife when introducing her to associates? To strangers? To friends? Do I use her first name? Last name?

A: A man introduces his wife as "my wife. Elaine" to acquaintances, as "Elaine" to close friends, and "Missus Adams" to strangers. He should never. ever, under heavy penalty from yours truly, refer to her as "the wife", or "the Missus" or "the old lady." Such introductions are crude and insensitive.

Martin Lawrence cons the cops in 'Blue Streak' thief Miles Logan (Martin Lawrence, "Life" and "Bad Boys"). was forced to hide his stolen, preclous diamond at a construction site when his $20 million heist

Today, Logan is out of jail — and willing to go to outrageous lengths to get that diamond back.

The problem? The site where we hid the diamond is now an L.A.

police precinct. In "Blue Streak," a hilarious comedy packed with high-voltage action directed by Les Mayfield ("Flubber." "Encino Man"). Miles impersonates a detective in the hopes of making a quick and easy getaway with the rock.

But teamed with rookie partner Carlson (Luke Wilson). Logan instead becomes the toast of the department - and "fails upward" to become head of detectives when his criminal expertise ends Mayfield. In addition to Lawrence and Carlson, the cast includes Dave Chappelle, William Forsythe, Peter Greene and Nicole Ari Parker.

Director Les Mayfield is no stranger to comedy, having helmed the box office successes "Flubber" and "Encino Man."

He welcomed the challenge of the added action elements, which included many stunt and special effects-laden sequences.

I love comedies. I like that experience of going to a theater and laughing." Mayfield said. "But what I wanted to do was take a comedy and merge it with some large-scale action. I like the contrast between the comedy and action."

Martin Lawrence, who starred in the long-running television series "Martin," the megahit action picture "Bad Boys" and the recent hit film "Life," had read an early draft of the script and was intrigued by the simple yet inventive plot conceived by the longtime writing team of Michael Berry and John Blufeature film scripts including the 1990 comedy "Short Time," starring Teri Garr and Dabney Coleman.

We liked the idea of a thief pretending to be a cop. The hard part was figuring out what might motivate a crook to go to all that trouble. The answer was obviousgreed," Blumenthal said.

Producer Toby Jasse, who initially came upon the screenplay for Blue Streak and developed the project from its inception, was inspired by 'heist comedies' of the '70's like "The Hot Rock" and "Cops and Robbers." I wanted to do a film like that in the '90's, where the main character was a thief who you loved so much you actually wanted him to succeed in the heist," says Jaffe. The challenge was finding an actor appealing enough to pull it off."

The search ended with Martin Lawrence, whose unique brand of comedy Jaffe felt was perfectly suited to the script.

"Blue Streak" is rated "PG-13."

Netters dominate WLAA foes

The scores haven't been exactly where coach Brad Stedry had hoped, but they were good enough to get the Northville golf team two wins last week.

One of those wins came in division play, against Walled Lake Western. The Mustangs beat the Warriors on the road, at Bay Pointe, 211-215. No player broke 40 for the match, but in the 25-30 mph windy conditions, they didn't need to. Tom Borda had a 40 to lead his team to the win. Kyle Dehne had a 41 and Kris Betker and Brian Arndt each had 43. Dave Oljace rounded out the scoring for Northville with a 44.

"It was ridiculous," Stedry said of the wind. "A 211 wasn't the greatest of numbers, but considering it was on a private course and the windy conditions, it's not that bad," Stedry said. "It's tough to judge the wind and how it will affect your

No team likes to split up their handling the Hawks, taking the top upper class and lower class talent, but that's exactly what the seven teams at the Walled Lake Western Invitational did last Saturday after-

The meet was divided into two separate divisions, one for the juniors and seniors and one for the freshmen and sophomores. Northville finished fourth as a team in the upper classmen race and sixth with their youngsters. Alyson Flohr led the upperclassmen with a third-place finish in a time of 22 minutes, one second. She was one of four Mustangs to medal among the top 20 finishers. Flohr moved up from sixth place to third in the last half of the race. "Alyson always seems to be able

The team was missing three of its. regulars (Lorianne Blair, Anna Schovers and Laura Elsesser) to a soccer tournament and Hillary McCrumb is still nursing a sore hi and did not medal.

In the freshmen-sophomore race, Kelly Driscoll led the team with a 14th-place finish in 23:29. Teammate Allison Loeffler was the only other placer, taking 18th in

The Mustangs had little trouble two spots and five of the top six. Flohr won the race in 20:48, which was ran at Cass Benton last Thursday.

Blair finished second in 21:47 and Driscoll, Schovers and Loeffler were the last three scorers for Northville. Driscoll's time was 22:22, Schovers' 22:29 and Loeffler's 22:37.

Elsesser, Krizanich and Ecclestone were the Mustangs next three finishers. Flohr, Loeffler, Schovers, Colleen

Thompson, Krizanich, Delano, Lyndsay Wheeler, Nicole Walters and Danielle Barkoski all ran season-best times during the race.

*Our times are really starting to come down significantly," Nelson said. I think the girls are starting to see their hard work pay off. Some of the girls have had to revise their season goals as they've already reached the ones they previously set."

Northville is now off until next Wednesday, when it takes on Churchill at Cass Benton. Following that the team will compete in the Redford Union Invitational on Oct.

Harrison limits Northville to just 48 total yards in 38-7 win

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

It wasn't a pretty football game last Friday night at Northville High School.

But they rarely are when they involve Northville and Farmington Hills Harrison.

The Hawks exploded for 28unanswered second-half points to turn what was an otherwise competitive first half into a 38-7

Harrison blowout. Northville lost the battle of field position in the second half, and it showed.

After holding Northville on its initial possession in the second half, Harrison took the ball 31 yards into the end zone on a Lou Hadley's bootleg on the first play from scrimmage. The score came with just over 10 minutes remaining in the third quarter and gave the Hawks a 17-7 lead.

Two possessions later Harrison used a 36-yard Kevin Woods punt return to give them possession on the Northville nine yard line. Two plays later Hadley found Brian Nelson for a 13-yard touchdown pass to give his team a 24-7 lead. The Hawks would add another score just 1:41 later following an Eric Cooley interception and a 35yard return.

Harrison's average starting field position in the third quarter was at the Northville 27-yard line. Northville's average starting position was their own 20 yard line.

That's the name of Harrison football - kick 'em in deep and go play some defense," Northville coach Darrel Schumacher said. You can never underestimate their defense. Harrison plays like sharks in water. Once they get a bite, they come right after you."

The Hawks defense did just that, allowing Northville Just two first downs the entire game. In all, the Mustangs had just 48 yards of total offense compared to 182 for Harrison.

Northville's lone touchdown of the game was a one-yard touchdown run by Brandon Langston with 1:56 left in the half. The touchdown, which pulled Northville to within a field goal at 10-3, was set up by an 83-yard kickoff return by Ryan Anolick. The junior ran back to the goal line to scoop the ball up. He found his way through the initial band of defenders and found himself in a footrace with Hadley.

"We got a lucky bounce that came right up to Ryan and we got some good blocking at the point of attack," Schumacher said. "Ryan would have been gone, but their team is made up of some excellent

The game was dominated by Harrison from the get-go. Northville was held to just two yards of offense in its first four possessions before their short scoring drive. The Mustang defense did a fine job themselves. finding themselves often playing on the short half of the field.

"We felt that if we could have got one score (in the third quarter) that we would be in good shape," the coach said. "We knew going in that if we were going to win the ball game, we'd have to win it at the line. And we didn't do that.

Steve Jameson again led the team with four first hits and six assisted tackles for 10 points. Bobby Baker had five and two and Mike Peters had three first hits and five assists to go along with his caused fumble, fumble recovery and sack. Steve Klein had four and two and Brian Roth had three and two. Chris Lebeis, who was often double and triple teamed, had four first hits and three tackles for loss in the game.

The loss was Northville's 30th in the 31 all-time meetings between the two schools. Harrison has now outscored Northville 108-7 in the last three meetings.

We've come to the point where we've tried not to talk about the Schumacher said. Somewhere, somehow it gets to a point where the kids say 'Are we supposed to be doing this?"

Northville will travel to Churchill this week to regain its winning touch. The Chargers come into the game 2-2 after receiving a forfeit win over Harrison. The Hawks were found to have played an academically ineligible player in their first two wins this season. Coach John Herrington reported it the the Michigan High School Athletic Association and his team's 35-12 win over Walled Lake Central and its 56-6 win over the Chargers.

Northville shut out Churchill last season 21-0 and have won 11 straight in the series.

Junior tackle Jon Campion looks to get past a Harrison lineman during the Hawks 38-7 win at Northville High School. "Give me one good reason

Soccer team takes two

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

In what could very well determine the Western Division champion of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Northville fell to Canton 1-0 Monday night.

The loss drops Northville to 1-1 in divisional play, a game behind the Chiefs.

Northville coach Henry Klimes said his team dominated the game, but were the victims of a "fluke" goal early in the second half. Canton took a free kick from 45 yards out, and put the shot at the center of the goal. One of the Chiefs headed the ball past Jon McClory for a 1-0 lead. The Mustangs again took control of the play.

but were unable to beat the Canton goalie. "I wasn't even worried about their chance to score," Klimes said, pointing out that his team outplayed Canton for 78 of the 80 minutes in the game. Canton was very fortunate to be tied with us at the half."

Despite the loss. Klimes said he was proud of his team for the way it played. 'I would call it a great game by Northville, but it can't be a great game because it's a loss. We had numerous opportunities to score, but we didn't. You need to finish to win games.

Klimes said his team played great and that he couldn't ask for more from them. "Except maybe a goal or two," he joked.

N'VILLE 3, CENTRAL 0

McClory picked up his third shutout of the season as Northville won this Western Lakes game last Wednesday.

Brandon Bethel scored two second half goals and Erik Anderson added another off a header to lead Northville to the win. Peter Klausler assisted on Bethel's first goal and Tim Kelleher picked up the assist on Anderson's header. Bethel's second goal came off a free kick from 18 yards out.

"They've definitely improved up there." Klimes said of the Vikings. "Our defense played well and it was a good game for everyone.

The game was tied 0.0 at the half until Bethel's goal broke the tie with 18 minutes remaining in the game.

Northville played John Glenn Wednesday night (after The Northville Record's deadline) and square off with Novi Saturday at home. That game will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the High School football field.

Health Column

Which diet plan is right for you?

I have completed a mental survey of the most popular questions and concerns our clients have asked this week. The following are the two I feel may have the most interest overall for you. If you have any questions, concerns, or comments, please feel free to call or mail to the information found at the end of this column.

9: I have been working out for a year and still have this ugly cellulite on my thigh area. My friend said I can never lose this. I have also read about cosmetic treatments for this. What is the

A: The question is very common. First, let's talk a little about what cellulite is. Cellulite is actually a weak area in the connective tissue of an area of a person's body. A person's fitness history and genetics really dictate the lucky ones most likely to have this situation.

In a simple explanation, the connective tissue actually holds the body fat covering the muscle and organs in place. Visualize a mattress with buttons every few inches, or a shirt with buttons. Depending how full the mattress or how heavy the person, will dictate how bulging the area around the buttons appear. So if I have a weak area around a certain area of connective tissue, I

No, you probably will not be able to totally correct this weak area, but you can drastically change its appearance if you choose. If you are ready to commit to a specific program of cardiovascular and strength training along with proper food intake all geared towards body fat reduction. this will certainly help. Think again of the mattress or shirt, how much bulging is dictated by how full the interior is. In other words, in the case of cellulite, how much body fat one has stored will affect how much bulging a person has. The less body fat the less protruding and the better the appearance of that troubled area.

Chris Klebba

This task will take a little patience and a lot of commitment, since once we are on the correct program we cannot decide where the body fat reduces first. Genetics preprogram where we store body fat and how it comes off. It may not start to reduce in that problem area first, but with proper guidance and consistency, you will revail. No, the other treatments you mentioned, while they may offer some temporary improvements, will not help permanently. (For the record, there is not a magic machine to make cellulite go away regardless what the supermodel says on the infomercial.) Never any easy answers. Good luck.

9: I have been reading about so many different diet plans - high protein, high carbohydrates which is the right one to lose weight?

A: I am not about to get involved in this ongoing debate by picking one plan over another because I can't. No one really can on a broad basis. But let's take opinions out (which I like to do on a regular basis) and look at the facts.

• There are over 30,000 diets listed with the FDA. This single fact serves as a testimonial that no single diet works for weight control. If it did we would all be on it and all have the bodies we

• We are the most overweight as a society than we ever have been...why? Because of the wrong diet plan? No, because we consume approximately 260 more calories daily than we did a decade ago, and we move less because of evolving technology. How do we stop or reverse this? It is obvious, eat less and move more.

· All diet plans have a low success rate of less than 5 percent. Are we focusing on the right issues? The proper amount of protein, carbohydrates and fat is really an individual issue based on your history, lifestyle, etc. I will throw one opinion in: if we all could focus a little more on the things people do not want to do — change exercise and eating habits for life including mind/appetite issues versus the catchy marketing title of the new diet plan, we would be much further ahead as a society.

 We continue to consume too many calories in relation to our expenditure. The mind-appetite factors to understand and overcome include hereditary set points; hectic schedules; continuous technological advancement; mental stress; fat-free foods; larger and larger portion sizes; social eating and drinking patterns; and early introduction and resulting addictions to sugary. fatty, convenience foods.

I am not sure this is the answer you were looking for but the bottom line is, start with moving more and eating a little less, and seek out professional fitness guidance to figure out what balance will assure your nutritional and energy needs.

REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

Old windows can be sticky business

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. I am fixing up an older home which involves some rewiring, replacement of bath fixtures, repair and repainting. The windows are the old-fashioned, double-hung wooden variety. Some are so coated with paint that they are permanently stuck shut. Others won't stay in the up position. I had considered window replacement but find that this would be too expensive at this time. Do you have any suggestions on repair and service for these older windows?

A. The older models of double-hung windows. those which operate with a weight and cord system. have far more problems than newer models. The most common problem is that a window doesn't stay up, the result of a broken cord. The other common problem is a stuck window. Fortunately, if the windows are not badly warped or full of dry rot, restoring them is relatively easy.

Before struggling with a stuck window, be sure that it is unlocked and that there are no hidden fasteners such as security bolts (or nails) preventing the sashes from moving. Remove any such obstructions.

To free sashes (the frames that hold the glass) that have been painted shut, score the seams of the window along the tracks and the top and bottom of the frame. Use a utility knife or a tool called a paint zipper, which has a serrated blade. After scoring. hold a wood block against the sashes where they touch the seams. Hammer gently against it. Be careful not to break the glass; wear safety goggles as If hammering does not work, force a corner of a stiff-bladed putty knife into the seam, then gently hammer the end of the handle. While hammering, pivot the blade to embed the entire edge about an inch deep. Then wiggle the knife back and forth to widen the seam and break loose any paint inside.

If the window will still not budge, or if it binds while sliding in the tracks, get a block of wood about 1/16th of an inch thicker than the width of the window tracks. Gently tapping with a hammer, force this into each track as close as possible to the stuck window - this will widen the tracks by spreading their sides.

If a window sash binds but is not stuck, scraping and smoothing exposed parts of the tracks usually cures the problem. However, a more thorough job can be done if both window sashes are removed (as described below). After removing the paint, sand the tracks with a fine-grit sandpaper. To check and repair each cords with the balance mechanism that operates the windows, you will need to start with the removal of the lower sash. Pry off window stops (a thin strip of wood nailed or screwed on the jamb) on the indoor side of the frame. With the stop removed, you can pivot the lower sash out of the window frame resting it on the sill. In this position, remove the knotted sash cord (or chain) from the channel in the side of the sash. A nail is often driven through the knot in the end of the cord which will be in a cross-drilled hole at the end of the groove. (There may be a weight and cord attached to each side of both the upper and lower sashes so that both can be operated). Use the same procedure for removal of the upper sash, except you will also have to remove the parting bead as well as the stop. The parting bead is recessed in a shallow groove in the side jamb and can be carefully removed by pulling it out with pliers.

If the sash cord or chain is still intact, tie the end to a screwdriver or similar weight. Otherwise, the counterweight on the other end will drop, carrying the cord or chain into the wall, where it will be difficult to retrieve. To replace a sash cord, you will need to unscrew or pry out the access cover in the jamb to expose the weights. Once the plate has been removed pull out the weight on the end of the cord (if you can't pull it out entirely, pull it far enough to untie the cord be sure and secure the weight so it won't fall down inside the wall) Purchase new cord the same thickness as the old for a replacement.

To install a new sash cord, slip it over the pulley at the top of the jamb and push it so it goes down the weight pocket, eventually appearing at the door opening. If this doesn't work, tie a nail to a string and slip it over the pulley, lowering it until it appears in the opening. Tie this string to the cord so you can pull it over the pulley and into the weight pocket (if the pulley has a cover, you may need to loosen the pulley-cover unit for this procedure) Pull the rope through the access opening and attach the weight. Set the bottom sash on the window sill in the closed position. You will see the grooves on the edge of the sash, ending with a slightly larger hole about halfway down. Thread the other end of the cord through the channel on the side of the sash and pull down the cord until the weight is touching the pulley. Then lower the weight about 2 inches. Knot the cord and place the knot in the slot of the sash. You will have to use a screw to secure chain, and some prefer to insert a nail through the knot in the cord to assure that it is secure. Re-insert the sash.

With the sash up, re-install the access door. With the sash down, re-install the side stop. When the window is disassembled, this is a good time to sand and refinish the sashes, as well as the tracks. Be sure to repaint with primer and paint where you've exposed bare wood. Lubricate the sash and the jamb by rubbing with paraffin wax prior to reassembling the window.

Because high humidity causes wood to swell, be sure to do any necessary sanding and wood removal (planing may be required to trim sides of a sash for better fit) when humidity is low. Scaling and painting exposed wood on all six sides of each sash as well as the tracks will prevent excessive expansion and contraction and deterioration of the wood from

Fifteen years ago. Howell resident Tesa Riemann replaced the carpeting in her home, and noticed the hardwood floor underneath. She couldn't help wondering what they would look like throughout her house. even though her new carpeting was about to be Riemann continued to wonder about it until recently. when that carpet was removed and her hardwood was refinished.

When the carpet wore out, I knew I had two options: replace the carpet with a new one, or refinish the hardwood floors." said Riemann. "But first I had to find out IF the floors were salvageable after being covered for more than 30 years."

After calling several local places, Riemann received her first piece of good news: The price for both carpeting and floor refinishing was comparable.

She then interviewed a local company that told her it would be a simple process to determine whether or not the floors could be refinished.

After they examined her home, the second piece of good news was delivered: Her floors were in great shape. She was tired of the expense and inconvenience of maintaining carpeting, and since there wasn't much difference in price, she opted to go for the floors

"It always bothered me that those beautiful floors were covered," she said.

According to Riemann, the process from that point meant approximately a week of inconvenience. All furniture had to be removed from the areas to be treated. Since she was having five rooms and a hallway done. this meant the majority of the furniture in her home had to go either down into the basement or out in the Existing carpeting was removed the first day, and the floors were sanded during the second. Day three brought the first coat of polyurethane. The next day, the floor was lightly sanded, then another coat of polyurethane was applied.

Riemann, along with her daughter, Nicole, stayed in a local hotel during this process.

Wood floors expand decorating options

Although the Riemanns were permitted to walk on the floor after the fifth day, furniture had to wait a full 48 hours after the final coat of polyurethane was applied, and area rugs had to wait until seven days had passed.

But Riemann says the results were absolutely worth the wait. She's noticed much less dust, fewer allergy symptoms, and that food odors don't seem to linger as long.

Further, cleaning has become much easier. Once a week, she goes over the floors with a dustmop or a lightweight vacuum, and cleans the floor once a month with a sponge mop and a solution of water mixed with a small amount of vinegar.

Is there a downside to hardwood floors? According to Riemann, the only difficulty she's run into is that area rugs can present a problem if they're not specifically made for hardwood floors. If they don't have a good padding underneath, they can become quite slippery.

Riemann also advises anyone thinking of making the switch to be prepared to do some painting as well.

"I knew I'd have to paint the base-boards," Riemann said, "but then the walls looked awful. Then, of course, after I painted the walls, the ceiling looked old."

Riemann claims that the biggest benefit of the entire project is the versatility it offers in decorating. She can now switch her area rugs and have a whole new look. Additionally, she feels it adds a whole new dimension to the original character and charm of the house.

'My only regret is that I didn't do this 20 years ago," she said. "I believe this has increased the value of my

Always look both ways before you go into reverse

By James M. Woodard COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Our growing number of seniors are generating an increasing demand for reverse mortgages. But is this relatively new concept a good thing for today's senior homeowners? A new study by Consumer Reports magazine throws some light on the subject.

A reverse mortgage is a special type of mortgage loan for seniors over age 62, with the borrower's home being used as collateral. It allows the senior homeowner to borrow against the equity in his or her home in order to access funds.

In most cases, the homeowner receives a specified payment every month · for a stipulated term or for the rest of the senior's life (or until the house is sold). However, the senior could receive a lump sum or a line of credit, which are usually not repaid until the borrower moves or dies.

With senior home ownership and life-expectancy rates climbing, a steadily increasing number of seniors qualify for a reverse mortgage.

For some seniors, a reverse mort-gage can enable them to maintain financial independence and an adequate standard of living by converting their home's equity into tax-free cash. For others, these mortgages carry serious hazards that should be seriously considered, according to Consumer

Those hazards include very high costs, charged by some lenders. And the complex contract terms are confusing, and the high overall costs are often not fully disclosed.

Numerous fees drive up the costs. including origination fees, points. mortgage insurance premiums, closing costs, servicing fees, shared equity or "maturity" fees, and shared appreciation fees, according to Consumer Reports. And the promised "financial counseling" is often inconsistent and not independent of the lender.

Consumers should make informed choices," said Norma Garcia, an attorney with Consumers Union. "We also urge state and federal policy makers to improve consumer protections in this industry. The lack of regulation and education in this new industry has opened the door to numerous hazards. It's important for policy makers to close that door and protect America's seniors."

Information on reverse mortgages can be obtained by calling Consumer Reports at (415) 431-6747. Another good source of general information on various reverse-mortgage plans and firms offering them, is the National Center for Home Equity Conversion. 7373 147th St. West, Suite 115. Q. You recently mentioned that a global commercial real-estate auction was being planned. When and where will it take place?

A. The first such auction is now set for Chicago on Sept. 24. It will be at the Sheraton Chicago Hotel, and will be simulcast in Dallas. Miami and London, said Steven L. Good, CEO of . Good & Company, the firm that will conduct the auction.

This will be a 1 1/2-hour bidding frenzy," Good said. "We'll auction an unprecedented $100 million slate of prime international real estate in the United States, Mexico, Chile and the Caribbean.

The inaugural global auction forms the cornerstone of "Transact '99," the nation's first international real-estate conference developed jointly by the National Association of Realtors and the Urban Land Institute, with major sponsorship from The Wall Street Journal and 50 other national and international trade organizations. About 1,000 delegates from around the world are expected to attend Transact '99, which culminates in the global auction.

9. Are first-time home buyers backing off from purchasing a home since prices are on the increase?

A. No, indeed. They are a stronger segment of the market than ever. Ten years ago, first-time buyers accounted for 31 percent of all home purchases. Today it's 47 percent.

How old is today's typical Realtor?

A. The median age of today's Realtor is 52 years, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors. The median age of today's home buyer is 37 years. The median age is that point where an equal number of people are older and younger.

WHY ASK FOR A MARKET ANALYSIS? Who sets the asking price when a home is offered for sale? The property owner does, however to attract buvers the price should be based on rock-solid market analysis and statistics. This can be provided by the real estate representative in the form of a CMA (Competitive Market Analysis).

What does a CMA include? First, the seller's home is analyzed to determine its condition and the features and amenities it offers. Its size, location, age, and condition are all taken into account.

Next, the "market" is analyzed. The market includes homes already sold, those currently for sale, and those which were offered buy did not sell (the expired listings). Each plays a role in the final determination of price on the Homes recently sold carry the most weight, indicating the price buyers have already been willing to pay. Homes currently offered for sale are considered the competition, against which prospective buyers will be measuring value. Having not yet sold at their asking prices, they carry less weight in the final price determination. Homes on which the listing expired without a sale are a strong indicator of prices buyers are not willing to pay.

Homes priced above the market are likely to languish without a sale. Those priced within the range established by an accurate market analysis are quick to attract serious

By:Karl Kling Staff Writer

Experiencing troubles with your back and neck, but do not have the time during the day to leave work and have it addressed?

The answer can be had by contacting Janice Tuck, a certified massage therapist, who is serving South Lyon residents and businesses during the evening or weekends.

Tuck, who completed a 10-month "If you have been course at the Health Enrichment Center experiencing pain in Lapeer, has resided in South for some time, Lyon for the past 14 remember it will years. She explains that evening and take time to alleviweekend appointments are more ate it as well." conducive to the contemporary fami-

"Most of us are very busy," she said. "After work. dinner, grocery shopping and driving the kids here and there, finding additional time to drive to and get a massage can be nearly impossible. I eliminate part of that problem by driving to you."

Tuck can set up the equipment necessary to provide a quality massage in minutes in either a home or office setting. She has worked in a variety of environments from a computer room to basements, with children playing in the area to pets sleeping underneath the table.

Tuck said that massage therapy can be used to increase relaxation or to ease chronic pain. Through the therapy, which she said enhances but does not replace medical treatment, the muscles are loosened to relieve the stress and pressure. A typical massage can last up to one hour and costs $45 for the visit.

The long-term goal of Tuck is to reduce the pain and also teach the patient the techniques to prevent recurring problems.

"If you have been experiencing pain for some time. remember it will take time to alleviate it as well," she said. "But the idea is not to have customers for life, but rather to set the person free from the pain.

Janice Tuck

Tuck specializes in general wellness and relaxation massage, therapeutic massage, reflexology, prenatal and infant massage, modified shiatsu and self-help techniques.

Her goal is to develop a massage educational demonstration series at area libraries or community centers, as well as donating her services to support charitable fund raising in the community and developing an area allied health organization.

outfits riders

Annette Jaworski

It gives Leslie Marsac, owner of Saritas Equine, Etc. in Highland a lot of satisfaction to see a well dressed rider wearing an outfit from their store.

We go to a lot of shows, and I noticed a lot of customer wearing outfits that we helped put together." Marsac said proudly. "They're always the best dressed.

Owners, Sara Crites and Leslie Marsac aim to provide the highest quality of merchandise and personal service at Saritas. Marsac uses her years of experience to help customers select exactly what they may need.

Different classes require different looks. For example, with halter classes, a jacket is preferred. For pleasure or riding classes a tucked in blouse or vest is appropriate. Top off the look with a great looking pair of boots. Saritas carries the top names in boots, such as Justin and Ariat.

We can outfit a person from top to bottom to give them a winning look," Marsac said.

The clothing is only a small part of the store's offerings, which is located next to the Detroit Polo Club in Highland offers.

Saritas also carries a complete selection of tack. Marsac notes that they carry only quality brand names such as Circle Y and Dale Chavez, for western tack. For English tack, their merchandise includes Stubben bridles and Crosby saddles. You'll find English riding apparel for show and casual

There's lots of things for the well dressed horse as well, like show stalls and halters with silver accents. Other accessories are available such as saddle pads, and a wide supply of grooming supplies, including brushes. You'll also find cleaning supplies, hats. books, videos and magazines. There's also casual clothing, such as sweatshirts, T-shirts and base: ball hats, T-shirts and polos with Detroit Polo Club ensignia. A storewide sale will be held in September with 10 to 20 per cent

Tack repair and custom saddle fitting are other services that Saritas offers their customers. They offer a pony and 4-H discount to encourage young riders. With a large horse population in the surrounding area, it's no surprise that customers have discovered them in the short time they've been open from April 15 of this year. Riders come from near and far, including the South Lyon. Howell, Flint and Bloomfield

We've got a three county draw," she notes. "Once people know. we're here, they come back. We have a nice selection with quality merchandise.

The store plans to offer monthly clinics in various areas including showmanship, dressage and saddle fitting. The next event scheduled is a dressage clinic for September 11.

It's nice to have it here, people can bring the horses right here into the ring. Marsac said.

Saritas Equine Keep good records for tax time

When it comes to doing our tax returns, there's a little bit of the April Fool in all of us. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says that given the complexity of the tax laws and even the forms themselves, it's easy to misinterpret the law or make mistakes. To help you avoid becoming an April fool this tax season, the Association provides the following tax tales:

USE GOOD HORSE SENSE: KEEP RECORDS

A dentist operated a horse farm as a sideline business. When he suffered losses from the horse farm, he deducted those losses against his other income. Although the IRS tried to disallow the deduction, saying the horse farm was a hobby and not a business, the IRS was overruled. The tax court ruled in the dentist's favor, saying the horse farm was a legitimate business because the dentist kept good books and records, had a business plan and consulted with industry

BEWARE OF POSTAGE METERS

To meet the IRS's rules for filing on time, your tax return must be postmarked by April 15. Using a postage meter, even if it displays the due date of the tax return, may not be good enough. One taxpayer mailed a tax return on its due date and the postage meter stamp on the envelope displayed that date. Unfortunately the return did not reach the IRS until eight days later. The result: the IRS imposed a late-filing penalty because it did not arrive on time. In the eyes of the IRS, the private meter date is not proof of meeting the filing date unless the return reaches the IRS within the normal mailing time.

To avoid such penalties, stick with the U.S. mail or IRS-recognized services, such as DHL, Airborne, Federal Express, and UPS.

PROTECT YOURSELF BY SIGN-ING YOUR RETURN

The IRS assessed taxes on a return filed 10 years prior to the assessment. The couple, who had not signed the return, protested that they were protected by the three-year status of limitations. But the Tax Court ruled in favor of the IRS allowing the assessment. The reason? An unsigned tax return isn't valid, so the status of limitations never runs out.

NO DEDUCTION FOR MARITAL

When one couple divorced, the husband agreed to pay $70,000 in marital debts, then claimed the payments as additional alimony. Tax Court denied the deduction on the basis that the payments were not in fact alimony. The terms of the couple's agreement did not indicate that the husband's liability for the debts would terminate on the wife's death - and to be deductible, alimony must terminate at the recipient's death.

KEEPING IT ALL IN THE FAMILY

The IRS questioned a family business's decisions to pay $1 million in total annual compensation to the family members who ran the business. It denied a compensation expense deduction on the basis that the compensation was excessive. While at first glance, $1 million does seem exceedingly high, the Tax Court learned that family members worked long hours - up to 80 hours a week - and spent considerable time innovating new products. In light of this, the Tax Court believed they deserved the compensation and ultimately ruled in the family's favor.

AMEND YOUR TAX RETURN BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE

One taxpayer filed a tax return that substantially understated his income. However, before the extended due date of the return. he filed an amended return on which he corrected much of the understatement. Because of the substantial underpayment on the initial return, an IRS auditor wanted to know if the six-year statute of limitations applied to the return versus the three-year limitation which applies for returns on which there are no substantial underpayments. The IRS ruled that the amended return is treated as an original return if it is filed by the extended due date of the return.

CPAs say this story offers a good lesson to taxpayers: If you think your original return is erroneous or contains under-statements. take the time to amend it as soon as possible, simply complete Form

A road trip to Holland planted Pumpkinfest seed

by Janet Renwick Pumpkinfest Historian

It was a sunny spring morning when a group of South Lyon business people took a trip to the Holland Tulip Festival in Holland, Michigan.

During the trip the idea of something to bring the people of South Lyon together began to bring out ideas. We thought of other towns and what they did. It seemed that a festival would be something to look into.

Dean Sparks was most insistent that we not let the idea go without doing something about it. Thus, the pumpkin seed was planted, and on Thursday, January 31, 1985, Dean was chosen as our President, Bill Erwin, Vice President, Janet Renwick, Secretary and Helen Read, Treasurer. The Board of Directors were Tedd Wallace, Bill Bakhaus, Loren Read, Lonnie Potter and Janice Sparks.

With this team we set out to form the first Pumpkinfest Festival. The name of South Lyon Area Activities Association was suggested and those present made the motion unanimous, it was so named to include the whole South Lyon area. Our purpose was "to promote area his-Promotions Chairman and Clarence Harder, Activities. The first meeting was held in the basement of the Witches Hat Depot.

Our first fund raiser was a spaghetti dinner at the Centennial Elementary School and a Walk-a-thon. The following years included Donkey Basketball games, professional wrestling match, RV parking for the festival, antiques, dinner theater, ugly dog contest, barber shop quartet and Vegas Night ... and on until today.

The dream for tomorrow is to have our very own fairground from which to have all the room we would like and grow even more.

YOU CAN HELP BE A PART OF THAT DREAM ...

PUMPKINFEST 1999

It was just a walk in the rain, as spirits were high for the 1998 Pumpkinfest Parade.

Parade kicks off weekend

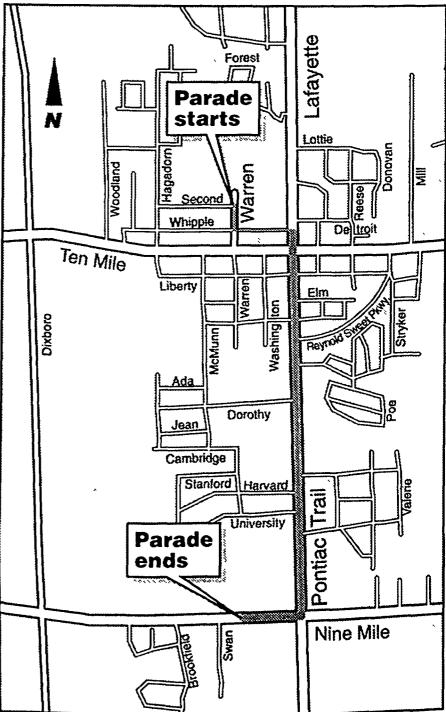

What is the perfect beginning to a fun-filled weekend? Why the 15th annual Pumpkinfest parade of course! This years parade will start at 10 a.m. on Saturday Oct. 2, 1999. Check-in for parade participants will begin at 8 a.m., with all participants arriving no later than 9 a.m.

The parade will line up at Bartlett Elementary at the north end of Warren. The parade will travel south on Warren to Whipple, east to Pontiac Trail, south to Nine Mile, west to Centennial Elementary, where the parade will disperse.

Our parade features anything and everything you may want to see. This year we are privileged to have the Award Winning Vietnam Color Guard chapter 528 out of Plymouth to lead our parade. We also have many return parade participants such as the Honda Goldwing Motorcycle Club, area children's organizations such as scouts, horses, floats, area businesses, state and local dignitaries, police, fire, ambulance, and many others. We welcome any parade participants, whether you are returning for the 15th year, or whether this is your first Pumpkinfest parade. The presentation of the parade plaques to the winners will take place in front of South Lyon Middle School as each unit who has won a category pulls into the (SLMS) driveway. If you would like to see the presentations you need to be in front of the (SLMS) during the parade.

We look forward to seeing you at the Pumpkinfest parade.

Geri & Muffy to lead parade

If you have lived in South Lyon for any length of time, or even if you visit South Lyon frequently you are sure to know this year's Pumpkinfest parade grand marshals. We are honored to have Geri Krolicki and Muffy from Geri's Hallmark as our "Co-Grand Marshals" this year.

Geri has been a familiar face for South Lyon residents for the past 18 years. That is how long her Hallmark store has been in Brookdale Plaza. Geri is very active donating to both charities and area organizations. Following are a few of her achievements. Geri makes donations to the South Lyon High School all night graduation party, she also makes donations to various school and church activities. The ladies from the Hallmark shop wrote letters, sent cards, and collected donations for local service men and women during Desert Storm. Geri has also collected canned goods for the postal service charity, donated holiday candy to the homeless people at the Capuchin Soup Kitchen in Detroit and she has read and donated plush toys to the elementary school reading program.

The Hallmark store also has several annual benefits. Among them is the annual bake sale for the Leukemia Society and the Children's Leukemia Foundation. There is also an auction for the Leukemia Society. Geri also holds a raffle and a can goods drive for Active Faith. As many of you can remember in September of '98 Geri held a can goods drive in honor of Muffy's birthday. Muffy is Geri's Maltese dog, who has become a permanent and well loved fixture at the Hallmark shop. In addition to helping people choose that "perfect" card, Muffy also visits the Martin Luther Home Residents on a regular basis. Speaking of the Martin Luther Home, Geri donates gifts for the residents at Christmas time. Another annual benefit held at Geri's Hallmark is the Geri Krolicki and Muffy, with a basket of food to donate to Active Faith.

Danny Thomasen Children's Hospital Cherished Teddies Benefit.

In addition to all of these wonderful charities and area organizations, Geri also takes the time to help some of our area children that are seriously ill. Just recently she has had raffles to benefit Austin Clark and currently for Trevor Martos.

Pumpkinfest would like to share a few words with you from Geri. "Geri's Hallmark is more like family than a business, we have been invited to showers and weddings and we have met many new babies who stopped by on the way home from the hospital to see us! We've sat with families who had sick members and cried with them when others died. We have been extremely fortunate to have been in South Lyon for 18 wonderful years!! South Lyon people are the best!!"

The 1999 Pumpkinfest Committee is pleased and honored to have Geri & Muffy for our Co-Grand Marshals, and we would like to thank them both for taking the time to do this for us.

Johnston led off 1998 festivities

In 1998, Mrs. Dayna Johnston added to her list of South Lyon contributions by being the Grand Marshal for the Pumpkinfest Parade.

The South Lyon Pumpkinfest Committee would like to extend their appreciation to Mrs. Dayna Johnston for her participation in the festivities.

Dayna Johnston was the 1998 Pumpkinfest Parade's Grand Marshal.

Craft show is at the heart of Pumpkinfest happenings

What do you look for in a craft show? Are you looking to start your Christmas shopping or obtain holiday decorations? Are you looking for child or an adult oriented item? Are you looking to support your favorite nonprofit organization? Whatever you are looking for in a craft show you are likely to find it at the South Lyon Pumpkinfest Craft Show.

This year's craft show will have over 200 crafters and vendors. The crafters travel to South Lyon from all over Michigan and the surrounding states to display their wares.

If you are looking for holiday decorations, the craft show is the place to be. Crafters will have many different types of decorations for Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

There are many things that are child oriented at the craft show, including sand art, sandy candy and face painting. There will also be teddy bears, dolls, doll clothes, wood toys, clothes, buttons, books and many other items for the children.

Here's a sneak peak at the volume of crafters you can expect to find in the South Lyon Middle School gymnasium.

For the adult shopper there is an even greater variety of products. If you need to decorate your home, there will be dried floral arrangements, candles, potpourri, pictures, wood items (from cutout wood figures to hardwood furniture) and many, many other items. There are also clothes, leather products and many other unique items that can only be found at a craft show.

If all the shopping and activities make you hungry, then visit one of the nonprofit organizations for bake sale items, pop, caramel apples and many other special treats. There will also be other items such as honey, beeswax, nuts and iced drinks available from vendors.

So, as you can see, there are many reasons to visit this year's South Lyon Pumpkinfest Craft Show. Variety is only one of them.

Hours for this year's craft show are Saturday, Oct. 2, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, Oct. 3, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The South Lyon Fire Department volunteers are required to participate in twice-monthly training sessions. The department also prides itself on being aggressively involved in Fire Prevention and Fire Safety programs within the community.

Being a volunteer firefighter is a very demanding job. It requires the same training as a full time

Special thanks to great Pumpkinfest supporters

As Pumpkinfest rapidly approaches we begin to think of all the people whose hard work makes our festival possible. Among these are the custodial staff of South Lyon Middle School.

Pumpkinfest could not do without their hard work and dedication. They clean the entire middle school in a timely manner on Friday evening so that the crafters can check in. We also have several custodians on hand both Saturday and Sunday who work closely with us to help keep the festival running smoothly and to keep the school clean. The custodians clean the school again on Sunday evening to prepare it for the staff and students to return to classes on Monday morning.

We would again like to thank the custodians of SLMS and let them know how much we appreciate their help.

Thanks, Pumpkinfest Committee

South Lyon Area Pumpkinfest would like to extend our thanks to all the South Lyon Bus Drivers who make runs to South Lyon Middle School. We understand the inconvenience that the carnival causes and we would like to let you all know how much we appreciate your cooperation year after year!

Thank you, Pumpkinfest Committee

Providence offers health check

When Dr. Cherolee Trembath's patients need a house call, she's happy to oblige them. The good doctor just hops on her bicycle, black bag in tow, and administers her special brand of health care to the folks around town.

Dr. Trembath is one of many staff members at the Providence Medical Center -South Lyon, who take extra steps to promote health and wellness in the community. The four staff physicians at the medical center supervise nine residents in pediatrics, geriatrics, obstetrics and gynecology and family practice medicine. They, along with the rest of the health care team, provided hepatitis vaccinations to all sixth grade students and South Lyon School staff members last year. The health care team also provides free PSA blood tests for prostate cancer each year and treats patients at the Martin Luther Nursing Home.

The medical center, located on N.

Lafayette, is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year and recently got a face-lift. The new facade reflects the Victorian theme of downtown South Lyon. The facility has expanded over the years and currently, more than 1,300 patients visits are recorded monthly. Extended hours on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 8:30 a.m. - 8:30 p.m. make it easier for working parents and those with busy schedules to visit their doctor. The center also is open on Wednesdays and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

When you visit the Pumpkinfest on Saturday, Oct. 2 stop by the medical center's booth located in the sixth grade hall of the South Lyon Middle School. You'll be able to get your blood pressure checked and pick up information about health and wellness. And next time you see Dr. Trembath pedaling in your neighborhood, be sure to wave.

South Lyon Ambulance: Always ready to faithfully serve

By Dennis Timmermann

For many years, ambulance service in the South Lyon community was provided by the Phillips Funeral Home. When an ambulance request was received, a stretcher, first aid equipment, and a red rotating light would be added to the hearse for the call.

As state regulations increased, most Michigan funeral homes stopped offering ambulance service in the late 1960's. South Lyon's funeral home was no exception and stopped providing services in 1969.

The City's fire department began operating the community's ambulance with a white panel van, donated by a local bump shop. Shortly thereafter, the City purchased its first real ambulance, a used Pontiac high-top station wagon.

The City's first new ambulance, a 1972 Chevrolet van was purchased under a federal grant, and the white panel van was retired. The Pontiac station wagon was also retired, following the purchase of a second ambulance in 1974.

During this period, the corps of ambulance volunteers grew, and in 1976 the service was detached from the fire department, into its own division of the City's Department of Public Safety. In 1977, a home was purchased next to the fire/ambulance station and volunteers began staying at the house during their shifts. The service, following a successful fund raising drive, purchased new ambulances, a 1978 modular unit and a 1980 van.

On January 26, 1982, SLA began providing paramedic advanced life support service to the community. It was only the fifth ambulance service in Michigan to do so with a totally volunteer staff.

Attracting volunteers continued to be a challenge to the City, and in 1984 the first full-time EMS coordinator was hired by the City to manage the ambulance service. A number of changes and enhancements were made during this period, including the purchase of two new modular type ambulances. A second set of paramedic equipment was purchased enabling volunteer to manage two patients at this level.

Volunteer recruitment reached a problematic stage in 1989 when the City's EMS Coordinator quit the service. The City asked Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA) to manage the service in December, and in June 1990, formally transferred the operation to HVA as a subsidiary unit, in a cooperative effort with Lyon Charter Township. HVA provides three Senior/Training Paramedics to staff the station on a 24-hour basis along with volunteer EMTs and Paramedics.

Following two successful fund-raisers in 1993 and 1996, SLA purchased two state-of-the-art modular ambulances.

Since then, SLA has been used as a model by HVA to create community based EMS systems in Chelsea, Tecumseh, and Cambridge (Irish Hills).

In addition to emergency care, SLA offers safety demonstrations, CPR classes, station tours, and blood pressure screenings.

SLA provides service to the City of South Lyon and Lyon Township, as well as parts of Salem, Northfield, and Green Oak Township.

Each year SLA donates its services to Pumpkinfest, standing by during the hours of operation of the festival.

SLA is a non-profit community service and is nationally accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Ambulance Services (ACAS).

provide financial support for families overwhelmed by illness or the death of the breadwinner.

Today, we have grown from that one local unit, or council to nearly 11,000 councils in the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Phillipines, Puerto Rico, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Panama, the Bahamas, the Virgin Islands, Guatemala, Guam and Saipan.

Here in the ever growing city of South Lyon, Fr. Edmund Battersby Council 7586, is located at St. Joseph's Catholic Parish and are 145 strong. Reverend Father Kenneth Chase, the new pastor is also the Chaplain of these Knights.

This year, at the State Convention, held at Mackinac Island, the Council received recognition as "Supreme Star Council" (the highest award a council can achieve), for its outstanding charitable efforts to those in need.

As in previous years, the community, the outlying neighbors, as well as our local businesses

The Tootsie Roll Drive finds another donor.

Mental Retardation Drive, (M.R. Drive), where we hand out Tootsie Rolls in appreciation for your contributions, again set new highs. The outstanding participation by the Brother Knights, their families, as well as the generosity of YOU, the donors, will assist many who are in need. Thank You for Caring. We ask for your continued support in our charitable endeavors. The monies collected from this drive have helped support the Special Education Department of South Lyon, Our Lady of Providence, Special Olympics of Oakland County, Northfield Place, and the St. Louis Center. These funds can ONLY be used for the mentally handicapped. Thanks Again.

The Council also contributes financially to help support Boysville, a not-for-profit child caring and family preservation agency located in Clinton, MI. The Council also annually sponsors the free-throw competition as well as the Pumpkinfest Blood Drive. This drive is on Saturday, October 2, 1999 in room 140 from 10 am until 5 pm.

Although membership in the Knights of Columbus is open to practical Catholic men over the age of 18, it is a fraternal, family oriented organization. We are grateful to the many wives and families for their constant support and assistance to our charitable efforts.

"It is one of the most beautiful compensations of this life, that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself."

Lions set sights on service

The original Lion's Club began June 17, 1917, at the behest of a Chicago insurance man – Melvin Jones. Jones wondered whether small local business clubs could expand their activities for the betterment of not only their community and other communities of the United States, but become worldwide to better aid those less fortunate. Those twelve men were the original members of the first Lion's Club – an organization that consists of 1.4 million members in 187 countries today.

Then, as now, one of its chief concerns is that "no Lion's Club shall hold out for the financial betterment of its members" as its object, but rather devote itself to humanitarian concepts. The Lion's emblem is a gold letter L on a purple field. The two lions' heads face both the past and the present – proud of the past and confident of the future. The Lion's motto is "We serve" – a motto that exemplifies the spirit of Lionism.

A few of the Lions charities are "Sight First" – an international program dedicated to controlling blindness worldwide. Clubs work separately, as well as collectively, to prevent and reverse the major causes of blindness in their area.

The Lions also have a drug program called

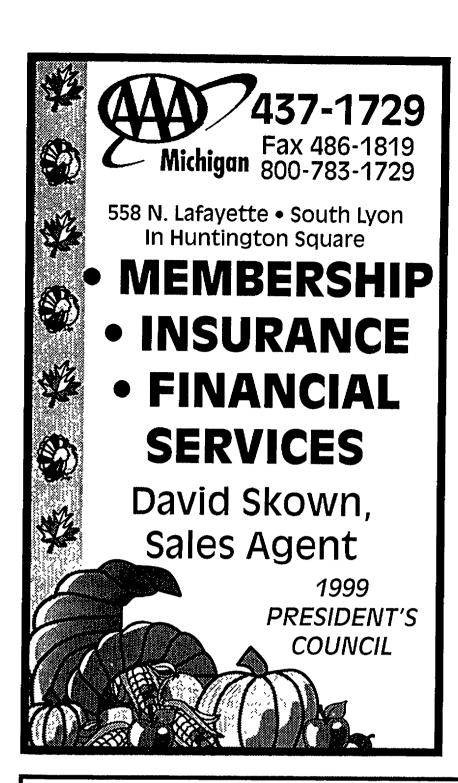

"Quest" – a program designed for drug awareness to help young people make healthy decisions. Through the LCIF program, clubs support medical facilities and research with diabetic retinopathy, a leading cause of blindness. Clinics have been established to fight glaucoma and eye banks are supported by the Lion's Club.

Although mush of the general public knows about the Lion's Club because of their many eye programs, the Lion's Club also supports hearing and speech clinics and work with the hearing impaired. They not only repair thousands of eyeglasses for those who are unable to afford them, they also repair hearing aids. The Leo Club is a Lion funded club for younger people – giving them a chance to develop into responsible adults.

These are but a few of the many programs sponsored and funded by the Lion's Club. In addition to these, they also have extensive programs for educational, recreational, environmental and health services.

The local Lion's Club has been in continuous existence for some 18 years and is proud of its many achievements. One of the most visible is the town clock on the main four corners, the

There's fun in the pumpkin patch for this youngster.

It's an orange sunrise

It's a beautiful way to start off your mornings, sitting on the deck, and looking out at the pumpkin fields. You get to watch them go from seedlings to huge plants you could never put on any windowsill, and then the flowers are everywhere. Before you know it, you have the beautiful orange globes tucked neatly in between all of those large leaves, and you walk through your garden, peeking underneath, and watching them all grow. Now, to me that's a piece of heaven. It gets even better when you watch the little ones, like my granddaughter Ashley, get all excited trying to pick out the best one for Halloween.

Three years ago, my brother Chris talked our Dad into putting in a small pumpkin field. It would really cut down on our mowing, plus give Chris a back-up across town, as he and his wife JoAnn owned one of the biggest pumpkin fields around, at Drivers berry farm. Little did we know that on the very day we got the field ready to plant, our Dad would die of a heart attack, and our excitement sort of went with him. After a time, we decided that it would be our quest to Dad, and planted and watched his plants grow. The first year was a bit hard, because he never got to see his beautiful garden, and Mom, my sister Becky and I found out that this was a whole new world for us. However, we've never regretted it, and we personally call our pumpkin fields 'Everett's Fields' for Dad.

In fact, we even keep part of his workshop going, as he did when he was the marketeer for South Lyon's Farmer's Market. It's really great when people stop by and tell us they remember the market days, or even remember when this property was a raspberry farm over twenty years ago with our Grandparents.

Anyway, hence we now have 'Peggy's Pumpkins'. Actually, it belongs to Peggy, Becky and Sam, but Peggy happened to go with the word pumpkin, so it landed on our sign. This is our first year as the pumpkins for Pumpkinfest, and we're really looking forward to it. Our family has been working with Pumpkinfest in other aspects, as well as helping Chris for at least 12 years, and we just feel that nothing has changed, except where the pumpkins are growing. We're looking forward to this year, and hopefully many after, so stop and see us. Maybe you'll have a story for us too!

PRECISION HEAT TREATING and IonProcessing ®*

Salt Bath Hardening

Salt bath (convective heating) is preferred over other methods of heat treating due to unsurpassed temperature uniformity of bath (typical +/- 2°F) and the ability of heating and quenching uniformly thin and thick sections of the same part or mixed loads. In a salt bath, parts simply cannot exceed the prescribed salt temperature. Desired properties are achieved on a highly predictable and repeatable basis.

lonitriding

lonitriding is a method of surface hardening producing nitrided cases, using the glow discharge technology to generate nitrogen ions to the surface of a metallic part for diffusion. This process can be applied to finished ferrous metal parts and is done in a vacuum vessel at low temperatures (750-1040°F or 400-560°C). This diffusion based process improves resistance to wear, fatigue and corrosion. Extends the life of tooling and machinery components used in the metal forming, plastics, forging and die casting industries up to 10 times, depending on application.

Services Offered:

lonWear

Annealing: cycle, process, stress relieve Hardening: HSS, air, hot-work, alloy, temper, age Homogenizing
lonitriding*

lonWear*

This surface treatment process combines the benefits of lonitriding and Steam Treating. It provides a highly wear and corrosion resistant ceramic in nature structure. The aesthetic blueblack oxide finish enhances its ability to retain lubricants. May be applied to any ferrous metals.

Normalizing and stress relieving Precipitation hardening and aging Straightening, hot and cold Tool steel treatment Cryogenic treatment to -140°F Solution treatment - super alloy High temperature, high strength alloys

Martensitic low alloys, secondary hardening Semi-austenitic precipitation Austenitic alloys Magnafluxing Steam treating Always on guard...

Small-town police force stays up-to-date

By Lt. Stephen Sharpe

Members of the South Lyon Police Department provide Community Oriented Policing service to over 9000 city residents, as well as to those who visit or pass through our community. Police services are available on a 24 hour-a-day, seven day-a-week basis. Your police department is always here to serve you.

Presently the department is staffed with seventeen (17) full-time officers. This number includes the Chief, one lieutenant, three (3) sergeants and twelve (12) patrol officers. Two full-time clerks and three part-time officers augment them. In addition the department employs school-crossing guards to help keep your children safe while walking to and from school.

When you dial 911 or the non-emergency number, your call is automatically routed to a central dispatch facility in Novi. The Novi Police Department provides dispatch and prisoner lock-up services through contractual agreement with the City of South Lyon. Short-term prisoners are lodged at the Novi PD. This saves South Lyon officers the hours of travel time that would be required for a trip to the Oakland County Jail in Pontiac.

Cops More is a federal grant that has been awarded to Oakland County Law Enforcement Agencies for 17.1 million dollars. The goal of the grant is to upgrade and improve computerization and communications in county law enforcement. The county is supplementing the grant with a 6.4 million-dollar match from its general fund. The South Lyon Police Department will receive computer hardware and software, an improved countywide Records Management System, improved computer aided-dispatch, criminal query tools, and data improvements through the Court and Law Enforcement Management Information System (CLEMIS).

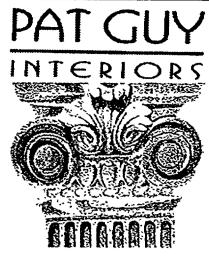

The South Lyon Police will be on patrol at Pumpkinfest.

Lloyd T. Collins is the Chief of Police and serves as the department's administrator. Chief Collins has been in law enforcement for the past 29 years. He enjoys the unique challenges offered by our progressive community. He is particularly proud of his officers' record of quick response to urgent situations. In many cases city officers are on the scene of emergencies within one minute. That type of response is tough to beat.

Chief Collins has arranged for the lease of two Harley-Davidson police motorcycles through a special program to further assist the department in responding to your needs. The motorcycles are used extensively in community policing projects and for conducting patrols of the Rail-Trail system throughout the city. They are a welcome addition to the patrol vehicle fleet.

South Lyon City Police Officers stand ready to respond to your request for assistance at any time, day or night. They accept this responsibility because of their dedication to duty and to the community they serve. However, they need to know that they have the support of the citizens they serve. Please don't be reluctant to let them now they're appreciated.

Civil Air Patrol: Awakening to new challenges

By Cadet/Capt. Jennifer Gorman

The night lay before me in all silence. Quiet reigned in this world filled with the dreams and slumber of those around me. After a day of hard work, and achievements, I had finally fallen asleep within my warm, comfortable sleeping bag. I was so looking forward to a relaxing sleep and a fresh start in the morning.

That was when I heard that horrid, unbearable sound. It was as loud as a banshee, and was probably being operated by one. I pulled the pillow over my head and moaned. It was too early for this. The daylight hadn't even broken the horizon, let alone the area our tents occupy.

"Good morning, Ma'am! It's a beautiful day!" the cadet that had popped her head through the small opening greeted me a cheery smile. Cheery people, and mornings don't mix!

How can someone be "awakened"? As in the story above, one might say when a person wakes them with one heck of an interesting sounding voice and the volume to go with it. When looking at the question in a literal sense, that person couldn't be more right. But when you read the question from a different angle, it has more meaning then just waking up to loud noises.

For instance, one could take the question as another person, or themselves, becoming aware of a situation or a particular idea. We say that someone is "awakened" to an idea, or they have "woken up to" a situation they may not have known about.

For over 10 years the Sixgate Composite Squadron of the Michigan Wing Civil Air Patrol have greeted Pumpkinfest goers. Helping with the loading and unloading of crafters, maintaining the task of Pumpkinfest parking, and for the more current years, conducting nightly "fire watches."

Cadets take it upon themselves to take time to help out theirs and other neighboring communities through volunteer work. Teenagers show the public, through their actions, that pride in one's community and nation lives and reigns. It is these types of qualities in America's youth that the Civil Air Patrol prides itself on in all of our cadets.

Another angle that could be taken is the awakening of something hidden, or buried deep within us. An emotion or courage that we never even knew existed. An emotion that may be fear of something, and the courage to overcome it. The Civil Air Patrol offers such opportunities to do just that.

Cadets (from the age of 12 to 21) have walked up to a past fear and faced it on the spot. Some formally feared heights, sit back and thoroughly enjoy soaring through the skies in an Air Force owned aircraft. With the guidance of a certified pilot, cadet's watch as trees, houses, and people become the size of dolls down below them, and understand, through experience, the basics of flight.

Awakening the competitive spirit within us all, Civil Air Patrol provides teamwork building Encampments, Drill Competitions, Honor Guard Competitions, and Academic Bowls. Cadets strive for excellence in these activities, while making lasting friendships with other cadets from other cities, other counties, or even other states.

Though competition is experienced, the spirit of teamwork reigns supreme. In some of the activities and missions, the only way to truly gain the training that is needed, is to be a team player.

Awakenings happen each and every day in all forms. Some by loud noises, others by new and interesting information about different things, and then there are others that happen within the human mind.

With each year cadets, both old and new to the program, along with the seniors guiding the way, the Sixgate Composite Squadron helps awaken the American public to one of the most kept secrets of the United States: Civil Air Patrol. What we are, and who we are.

Behind each cadet and group of cadets stand the senior members. A man or woman who volunteered their time and experience to teach our nations youth. Teachers, politician, doctors, fathers and mothers each and every senior member has a story to share, and a talent awakened within themselves to teach.

Accounting for about half of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) work force at Pumpkinfest stands the cadets within the Cadet Program. Through helping with Pumpkinfest, cadets demonstrate the eagerness that our youth show in supporting their community. It's that quality, along with countless others, that CAP supports and prides itself on.

As we walk through our lives, we come to "awaken" in all different ways. Like the short story described above, some of those awakenings can be both rude awakenings, and bothersome ones. But other awakenings bring us into a whole new way of understanding. They may begin harsh, and seem as though they are useless, but in the end guide us further on our paths to the goals that we have set for ourselves.

Golden K Kiwanis support world and community projects

We are the South Lyon Kiwanis "Golden K." Our meetings are held on Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Kiwanis Hall at 288 Warren in South Lyon.

Come out and join in the fun and help your community. We contribute to Active Faith, Mott Children's Hospital and Maxey Boys Training School and local families and children in their time of need. We ring the bells at Christmas time for the Salvation Army. We also contribute to Childrens Miracle Network, IDD which means Iodine Deficiency Disorder, and can be a cause of retardation. These are worldwide projects which we do, and our local projects are too numerous to mention.

Stop by our booth and say "hello." We'll be selling South Lyon Historical Coverlets at $40. Or call Helen or Ray Tolinski at 437-0681 for your coverlet. Also South

Bernard "Barney" Dery and Hildreth Bakhaus sell coverlets for the Kiwanis Golden K.

Lyon Theater movie tickets at a savings for only $12 a book (5 in a book) or call Marge or Ed Bardyga at 437-8380 for your booklet. These items make excellent gifts and remember you are supporting Kiwanis Golden K as all our profits go to charity.

complete carpeting of a local center for adults, CDs for a young blind child, numerous glasses for youngsters as young as three years old as well as some senior citizens and annual contributions to Active Faith and other deserving charities. In addition, there have been Christmas programs for elementary school children and help for needy families not only on Christmas but throughout the year for poverty knows no season. These are but a few of the visible signs of the Lion's Club helping the community.

What you may not see is the $600 awarded each year to the adult education program to fund scholarships for deserving students who wish to further their education, the alarm system to warn of impending tornadoes, certain home repairs for the needy and, saving the best for last, the local lady that was sent to the seeing eye dog program in Rochester. She now has a seeing eye dog and has regained her place in society. All of this at no cost to her.

All of these programs as well as many others not listed are made possible by the various fund raisers held throughout the year. The most successful ones are our annual White Cane Day, Hunter's Raffle and Las Vegas Nights. These are all staffed by local people who gladly volunteer their time and effort to make South Lyon a little better place to live. No one gets a salary, no travel expenses and no parties and we even pay for our own meals out of our pocket.

We would like you to join us. We are loosely structured but closely knit. We deeply appreciate the aid given us by the people of South Lyon for without you we couldn't exist. As our motto says "We serve", but it is your financial support that enables us to do it.
