City mourns loss of Mitchell Deeb

■ Long-time Northville resident was former 'Citizen of the Year.'

By CHRIS C. DAVIS Copy Editor

The smiling crossed itch.ell Deep's face was'\ more than just something that appeared out of habit. In the minds of those who the knew

Mitchell Deeb

Northville resident, it was an expression that came from the heart.

"He always wore a smile," said Father John Budde. Deeb's priest at Holy Family Catholic Church in Novi. "As an usher, he always understood that one of his roles was to welcome people to church and make them feel welcome throughout."

Mr. Deeb died at his home in Northville on Sunday. He was 84. Deeb was given the prestigious Citizen of the Year award by the Northville Area Chamber of Commerce in 1994, some 18 years after he relocated from Farmington. Originally from Ohio, Deeb spent most of his life in electrical

The attorney general's probe into the way an investigation into Northville businessman Jim Nield was handled should end soon, a spokesman said.

However, Nield told The Northville Record he is baffled by the fact he hasn't been contacted by the office.

"I don't know how an investigation can be nearing completion if the attorney general's office has not interviewed me," Nield said.

Chris DeWitt, spokesman for Attorney General Jenniser Granholm, said it is fair to say the investigation is coming to a

Going for the JUGular

Hey guys do me a favor, bring jug back to Northville

An open letter to the members of the Northville High School football

Hey, guys. I know you're busy preparing for this weeks seasonending game against rival Novi High School, but I've got this favor to ask. I normally wouldn't ask for this type of favor, but, i've got this small problem I need you all to help

You see, I've got the new and improved Baseline Jug in my office. It sits on a table right across from my desk so whenever I look up. I can't help but notice it. I know you haven't seen this jug - after the original one was broken administrators decided to do away with it and replace it instead with a plaque, which seems a bit silly because after all this game is always referred to as the "Jug" game, not the "Plaque" game.

But I digress. The new jug is

actually the size of...let me see...oh yeah, the Stanley Cup. On one side is Northville's logo, school colors. and the scores of all of those games in which you pounded Novi into dust. The other side of course has Novi's logo, school colors, and the scores of the four games in which you let them beat you.

Which brings me to my problem. guys. I sort of made this deal when we debuted the new jug last year. The deal was that if Northville won the Novi editor would be forced to keep the jug in his office with the Northville side of the jug displayed. If Novi won, and alas they did last year, then the Northville editor. which is me, would be forced to display the jug with the Novi side

Did I happen to mention that I really hate the color green?

Anyway. I've had this jug in my office now for one solid year. The Novi staff has made my life unbearable and I don't think I could take another year of staring at this green jug. So what I'm asking, guys, is nothing more than for you to walk onto their field Friday night and make these Wildcats look sick. I'm not asking for a big win, mind you. Heck I'd settle for a 20-17 Northville victory.

Now, I know that we're 4-4 and they are 7-1. And I know that

New high school: behind schedule, under budget

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The bad news: construction of the new Northville High School is still behind schedule. The good news: the district's $61.5 million construction and renovation program is some $540,000 underbudget, assistant superintendent David Bolitho said last

With most of the 85 construction projects finished, focus has shifted to the completion of the new high school and the transformation of the current high school into Hillside Middle school.

We are putting a lot of energy into making the transition as smooth as possible next year. Bolitho said.

Beginning in the summer of 2000, Bryant Center will move from its Livonia location to Cooke Middle School. Cooke students and staff will then move into Hillside Middle School, formerly known as Northville High School, while Northville High School's students will find a home at the new high school located on Six Mile Road. The workers at the new High School have made up some of the time lost when the project began, but are still about seven weeks behind schedule.

The delay caused the cancellation of a tour of the new building Oct. 20, so that more work could be completed before the Northville high school staff were allowed to see it.

We are hoping that we will have the building pretty well sealed by Nov. 1, before the cold weather hits." Bolitho said. "I think we should get pretty close

Northville man's efforts get water wheel turning

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Northville resident Bob Russell smiles when he thinks how happy Mr. Ford would be with a project he's spent the last 10 months working on.

The project was getting the vaterwheel on the old Ford factory building turning once more after a three-year period of laying dormant. The building welcomes visitors and residents to the city of Northville who enter the city on

Northville Road. "I know Mr. Ford would have been disgusted if he knew the wheel wasn't turning." Russell

Russell said he grew tired of driving into Northville and seeing the wheel idle on the building that includes such businesses as the Water Wheel Health Club. The motionless wheel bothered Russell so much that one day he stopped and talked to the building owner Rick Cox about forming a committee to get the wheel operational. The committee officially formed last December.

During research for the project. Russell said he discovered the wheel was installed in 1936. And although waterwheels typically were used as primary sources of power in old factories, that wasn't Another anecdote regarding children — Budde said Deeb often handed out candies to children who attended Mass at Holy Family.

Guernsey Farms Dairy founder John McGuire said he remembered Deeb as a man who became close friends with one of his own children, who suffered from a mental handicap.

"He was a fantasiic man," McGuire said. "We couldn't thank him enough for the time he spent. The guy had a heart of Northville mayor Chris Johnson said he also knew of Deeb's selfless spirit.

*He was one of those people who would just roll up his sleeves and do things for others," said Johnson, who came to know Deeb through church. "He was never looking for praise or recognition. He just wanted to put some joy in other people's lives.

Deeb was active in the Kiwanis Club of Northville, the Kiwanis Counsel, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, the Knights of Columbus, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Salvation Army Children's Home.

A funeral for Mr. Deeb was held Oct. 20 at Holy Family Catholic Church in Novi. Internment will be at Glen Eden Memorial Park in Livonia. Funeral arrangements were handled by Northville's Casterline Funer-

But consider this. I've got the jug. and I would be more than happy to bring it to your awards banquet at the end of the season, so you can proudly show it off and maybe even have a team photo taken with it. That's what we did last year for Novi, and guys I've got to tell you when the team saw this jug they went nuts. They even began talking trash, saying things like "Northville will never win this thing back."

I don't know about you, but I'd take that as a personal challenge.

So that's it, guys. That's my favor. Win back this jug. There's nothing I'd like to see more than this fine new trophy sitting in the Novi News editor's office, proudly displaying the orange and black.

Oh, and one more thing. Good luck out there. All of Northville is pulling for you.

"I was so thrilled I told Rick Cox I wanted to get a cot and sleep out there." Russell said.

Cox said he also was excited to see the wheel in action.

'It's great to see it turning again," he said. "It's been almost three years since we realized we had to shut it down. I hoped it wouldn't be this long before we got it going again."

Cox said the damaged bearings caused the wheel to be inoperative originally.

From time to time the wheel will be shut down so the screen in front of the wheel can be cleaned of debris, Cox said.

But Cox said the wheel is a great attraction and landmark for Northville.

If you sit in front of the building a good 60 to 70 percent of people driving by are watching the wheel turn," he said. "If the wheel is static it just doesn't garner that kind of attention.

Landscaping and benches will be added to the area to create a "park-like" feel Cox said.

Additionally, he said, he expects the wheel to continue turning for a long time. "It looks like it's good to go for

Northville's Rob David receives MSU award

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

For Rob David, the big "S" he received for the Michigan State University Alumni Service Award meant more than just "service" or 'Spartans"

It also meant "special."

David was recognized Sept. 30 by MSU's Alumni Association for his outstanding service contributions not only to the university but to the Northville community as

It was with a sense of wanting to give back to the community that drove David to get involved with events and causes, he said.

David's community projects began when he was an undergraduate at Michigan State. After his graduation in 1978, he said he was anxious to stay involved with the MSU community and be able to show his appreciation for what the school had given him.

From there he joined the Alumni Association and quickly moved up in the ranks. Among his alumni associates he can count the president of the university and top brass at major corporations such as DaimlerChrysler, Ford and Lear Automotive.

"It's given me the chance to meet people that I never would have otherwise gotten to meet in my life and it's great because I get to know them as friends," he said.

Among his service credits locally. David includes his cochairing Celebrate Northville which is an organization that is responsible for the Fourth of July Parade and fireworks. ### CSX says crossing improvements may be delayed

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Repairs to the railroad crossing at Seven Mile Road and Northville Road will be later than anticipated. a CSX official said this week.

Gary Wallenhaupt, public relations director for CSX transportation, said the late October target date for repairs was unlikely because of other repair projects in the metro Detroit area that take precedence. He said the delay should have no real effect in terms of safety.

They are working their way along the track as quickly as possible, but I don't see this as a real emergency," Wallenhaupt said.

He said that as far as CSX was concerned, the track was safe for motorists as well as railroad employees.

CSX design engineer Marty Ludwig said that the project has not been forgotten but that the delay is unavoidable.

"We very much want to get that (Seven and Northville crossing) done, but we have at least seven projects that very much need to get done," Ludwig said.

On Oct. 7, a sormer railroad engineer and Northville Township resident, Joe Macura, brought the dilapidated condition of the railroad to everyone's attention in an article featured in The Northville

However, Ludwig said it was more likely the repairs would not be done until the second week of November, if not later.

Ludwig also said that two other projects followed the Wixom job, each taking two to three weeks to finish. After this, Ludwig said, CSX can get to the Northville Road and Seven Mile Road crossing.

Wallenhaupt said CSX would continue its twice-a-week inspection routine of the tracks at the crossing

Township Board no closer to decision on manager post

■ Trustees to further study report issued by township management committee.

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

At least one more month will pass before the Northville Township board of trustees takes action on possibly putting a township manager in place.

The Northville Township board of trustees held a special study session Oct. 14 to consider a report submitted in June by the Northville Township management study committee.

Little movement was made at the meeting, though, with the exception of asking township supervisors from Canton and Plymouth some questions about their townships, some disorganized dis-cussion and setting up another study session on the township manager Issue Nov. 23.

The purpose of this study session is to start moving forward on taking action on this report," said Karen Woodside, Northville Township supervisor, at the beginning of the session.

After Tom Yack, Canton Township supervisor, and Kathleen Keen McCarthy, Plymouth Township supervisor, answered some initial questions about how management works in their communities, board members has an unstructured discussion on some issues, such as whether or not it would be a ballot issue and what they viewed as the problem with the current structure.

But one board member thought it was a little premature to begin to delve into those issues.

We haven't even reached the point of deciding whether or not this is something we even want to discuss," said Mary Gans, board trustee and committee member.

Richard Henningsen, co-chair of the committee and board trustee, said the process of making a decision has taken baby steps since board trustees first received the report in June.

"I haven't got any feedback besides people saying 'Yes it's a good report." he said.

More than two years were spent on the report that includes three types of management options available to the township and pros and cons of each.

The three options include: a fulltime manager/part-time supervisor; full-time superintendent/parttime supervisor; full-time supervi-

The township has operated with a full-time manager/part-time supervisor since 1980, but turnover between 1987 and 1997 was "quite high," the committee said in the report, with five managers between 1987 and 1997.

When the last manager left in 1997, the board of trustees wanted to assess the position before hiring study group to look into the mat-

The six-member committee consists of two elected officials, two employees, one appointed official and a resident-at-large.

The reports were given to board members in June. Some board members said they have been reading the reports and knew which structure they wanted.

But Henningsen felt more time was needed to prepare.

"I guess we should give everyone a chance to read their reports and come back in November, he said. Hopefully we can come up with a decision.

Bill Pomeroy, co-chair of the committee, said he wished more

"I'm disappointed there wasn't more pre-thought put into how the process would be organized."

Carpenter fights condo fire with garden hose

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

A quick-thinking carpenter may have saved a seven-unit condominium building on the city's north side from going up in flames, neighbors said.

The man used a garden hose to douse a small fire Oct. 18 he created while working on the deck of 962 New Haven Court in the Lexington Commons. He lit the deck on fire with a torch while attempting to loosen the rubber adhesive used to hold tiles on the deck in place.

Tony Sabo, spokesman for Grunwell-Cashero, said using heat is the "normal" method of removing the rubber adhesive.

Additionally, he said the way the deck was designed made it hard for the carpenter to tell anything had caught fire.

*Fortunately he was able to put water on the fire right away." Sabo said. "If it wasn't for his fast action it could have been a lot worse.

Despite Sabo's saying that heat was the normal method of loosening the rubber adhesive, he said it wouldn't be used on the other porches the company had been contracted to replace in the building.

School Credit Union teaches Amerman students common (cents)

Students at Amerman Elementary School are putting their money where their educations are at the Amerman Elementary Credit

"It's really cool because kids like to spend money," said fourth grader Amy Mnich. This way it is more convenient to get your money but also easier to save it."

For the 10th year in a row, students at Amerman are running their own credit union. Twice a week, the students make deposits into a savings account through Community Federal Credit Union, 400 East Main Street, from their school's media center. The credit union is run and organized entirely by students with a little help from some of the Community Federal staff.

"We come in about twice a month until they get used to the way things run, but the premise is to have them learn how to do it eral branch manager Natalie McLaughlin.

The students are learning the value of saving their money with the project, McLaughlin said. Melissa Dirado, a fourth grader, said that if she didn't keep her money in her account she wouldn't have it for very long.

"If I have money at home, I just spend it," she said. "This way I can can save up to buy a TV for my McLaughlin said that the program was originally designed to supplement the math and social studies curriculum for the upper elementary.

Since then it has grown to include 32 student staff members taking on the roles of tellers, promotions and marketing representatives, greeters, and a branch manager.

Each student fills out an application and goes through an interview process," McLaughlin said.

Principal Stephen Anderson said educators wanted to give a taste of the real world. Each student who applies gets a position.

They're not quite ready for that kind of rejection," Anderson said, adding that there was time for students to learn about that later

Robert Lyon, the fifth grade branch manager of the Amerman Credit Union, learned quickly about the art of persuasion from his interview.

"I gave them a few good reasons why I should be branch manager," Lyon said." I told them that my mom was a branch manager and that I wanted to learn more about what she does.

He added that this was all the reason he needed because his classmates hired him for the posi-

Both Anderson and McLaughlin said the credit union concept was a great way for the kids to become active members of the community and to bring businesses and schools in the area together.

"It gives students a chance to see that there are adults in the community that care for them and want them to succeed in addition to their parents," McLaughlin said.

Township trustees pass resolution opposing proposal

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Reading books and driving trucks never really belonged with each other until a proposal brought the two together.

And it's a proposal with which the Northville Township board of trustees is none-too-happy.

The board passed a resolution opposing the bill that would reroute monies received from the trucking violations.

The proposed HB 4927-4932 would require local governments to use fines collected from truck weight violations be used for county libraries.

This bill should be a concern to this community and any municipalities that have heavy trucks use their roads," said Karen Woodside. Northville Township supervi-

House Transportation Committee chairperson Rick Johnson, R-LeRoy, introduced the bill, along with Bob Patzer, executive director of the association representing heavy trucking industries. LeRoy is a small town south of Cadillac. along State Highway 131 with a population of 251.

Johnson said the bills would prevent harassment of truckers by local government because municipalities would no longer receive the money.

By diverting funds to the library fund we are hoping to maintain safety on Michigan's roads while at the same time eliminating what has become a proverbial cash cow for some local governments," Patzer said.

Northville has several main roads that are haul routes for waste, sand and gravel haulers.

According to the resolution, the Conference of Western Wayne has reviewed the house bills and has recommended to all member municipalities that the bills be Woodside said Michigan already has one of the highest weight limits and that oftentimes trucks are caught between 10,000 pounds and 15,000 pounds over the weight limit.

"In addition to damage to our roads, there also are a number of safety issues," Woodside said.

Northville Hills Golf Club, located on Sheldon Road south of Six Mile Road, is beginning to take shape, and is expected to open next year.

Northville Hills Golf Course to open in March

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Golf activity at the Northville Hills Golf Club course should be in full swing by this time next year, a course official said.

Martin Fuchs, manager of construction on the site, said the course is 75 percent complete with mostly cosmetic care such as planting grass seed and sod in a few of the holes left.

Fuchs gave a tour of the golf course Oct. 18 to Northville Township board of trustees and some planning commissioners.

The back nine should be opened around Memorial Day on a limited basis, with our grand opening late in the summer."

Highlights of the tour included showing wetland areas of the course, many of the golf course greens where sod and seed have been planted and started to grow and areas where trees were going to be left to stand.

had to be cut down if we followed the course design exactly," Fuchs said. "But we are the owner and we can make decisions such as if this green will go over there."

"Some of the areas would have

Also featured were areas where trees will be cut down.

"Some of these lollipops that stick up would be knocked right over in a 50- or 60-mile wind," he said referring to the trees that stick up between 30 and 50 feet but only are green at the top.

Many of the trees don't have any undergrowth, Fuchs said, because they were protected by other trees already cleared to make way for the development of roads and lots where some of the more than 600 new homes will be located. Fuchs said attempts were being made to save any trees small enough to be picked up with a tree spade.

Combined, the golf course and residential lots take up about 459 acres of land that used to be Wayne County property

More than 20 buildings were scattered throughout the site. many of which became havens for disorderly conduct before they were knocked down about two years ago.

Work on the Arnold Palmer-designed golf course started in March, Fuchs said, and has included moving 1.2 million cubic yards of dirt.

As for the new community park to be located off Six Mile Road across from the new Northville High School, Fuchs said, it may be ready for next fall's soccer season.

The park will include three soccer fields, four baseball diamonds and a picnic area.

"We want to present Northville Township an excellent park that is excellent quality," Fuchs said. 'We wouldn't want to open a park unless it is absolutely excellent.

Police provide tips for trick-or-treaters

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

It won't be long now before area youngsters take part in the annual rite of passage known as Halloween.

More importantly, perhaps, is the best part of Halloween trick-or-treating.

Trick-or-treating will be held in the city of Northville and Northville Township Oct. 31 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Jim Petres. Northville Police chief, offered several tips for a safe Halloween:

Costume safety

• Use make-up or face paint instead of masks, but if masks are used, make sure that they fit properly and have holes large enough for mouth and eyes.

- Choose costumes that are marked flame retardant.
- · Wear light-colored clothing at night, short enough to prevent tripping, add reflective tape or reflectors to dark-colored cos-

WTUA may opt for wastewater facility

The Western Townships Utilities Association has authorized a feasibility study into the possibility of building its own facility instead of contributing almost $142 million to expand the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority plant. That's where the communities send their wastewater.

Center receives national accreditation

Main Street's Early Childhood Center, 501 W. Main, earned an "A" for accreditation in early Octo-

The National Association for the Education of Young Children, granted the Center its accreditation after a year long evaluation process.

However, only 7 percent of the 6.146 early childhood programs will receive accreditation. Additionally, once a program achieves this national standing, it must apply again in three years to maintain that standing. This is the second time the Main Street Early Childhood Center has received the award.

The process the Center must go through is not only beneficial to the reputation of the center but also to the children it serves, said director Barbara Rusch.

The heart of NAEYC accreditation focuses on the child's experiences because they study critical areas for children's success in school as well as in life," Rusch

Mueller said the Center had to make only minor adjustments to comply with the National Standard on which the NAEYC judges them. The NAEYC then sent in an auditor for a day to evaluate the Center. Based on the material gathered by the Center and the auditor, the Center received its national accreditation.

Mueller said the staff at the Center has always prided itself on its development as a staff, making it nice to be recognized as a whole in such a manner.

1998 CONSUMERS ANNUAL REPORT ON WATER QUALITY

The City of Novi is pleased to present the 1998 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report. This report contains mandatory information about weather quality issues and potential health effects, lists the source of our water and provides the results of the water quality monitoring tests for 1998. Our water is safe to drink and treatment and monitoring complies with all mandatory Federal and State Drinking Water Regulations. Of the water quality is compromised we will notify our customers immediately.

Title XIV of the United States Public Health Service Act (Chapter 373, 88 Stat. 1660), popularly known as The Safe Drinking Water Act, and the Michigan Safe Drinking Water Act (1976 PA 399 as amended to 1998 PA 56) require a supplier of water to provide annual Consumer Confidence Reports (CCR) to its customers.

Drinking Water, Including Bottled Water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminates does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hottline (800-426-4761).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminates in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminates in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as person with cancer (undergoing chemotherapy), persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care provides. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)/Center For Disease Control (CDC) guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791). The City of Novi purchases treated water from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD). The DWSD water supply source is from surface water. The majority of the water supplied to the City of Novi comes from the DWSD Lake Hurron Water Treatment Plant which is located north of Port Hurron Michigan at the lower end of Lake Hurron. #### General Information about Our Distrubution System:

In 1998 we purchased 2,033,523,100 gallons of treated water from DWSD. We currently have more than 9,000 customers on our Water Distribution System. In an effort to improve the reliability and meet the needs of our growing community we have Capital Improvements valued in excess of $24,000,000.00 scheduled for constrution in the next 3-5 years.

If you have questions or concerns about this report you can contact Bruce Jerome, Superintendent, at (248) 348-7751.

COPIES OF THE REPORT ARE AVAILABLE AT THE WATER DEPARTMENT AT:

In 1992 we began testing homes with plumbing systems which may contribute lead and copper to the household water supply. The results of lead and copper testing have all been below the action levels.

Health Effect: Lead is a common metal found throughout the environment in lead-based paint, air, soil, household dust, food, certain types of pottery, porcelan, pewter and water. Lead can pose a significant risk to your health if too much of its enters your body. It builds up over many years and can cause damage to the brain, red blood cells and Kidneys. The greatest risk is to young children and pregnant women. Excessive lead levels could cause delayed physical and mental development.

The tables on the next page are based on tests conducted by DWSD in the year 1998 and within the last five (5) calendar years. DWSD conducts many tests throughout the year, however, only tests that show the presence of a contiminant are shown.

DPW to continue hydrant flushing

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Before you have your entire plumbing system replaced because of brown water coming out of your faucet, consider this: it's normal.

That is, only if the problem has appeared during this week.

The city of Northville department of public works has been conducting its third annual hydrant flushing program. The flushing should end Oct. 22.

*As we open fire hydrants most of the sediment is removed from the water lines, but this operation does tend to stir up the water." said Jim Gallogly, department of public works director. "If residents are using water during periods of flushing they may pull some of the sediment into their system."

The target area for this year's flushing is the northwest area of the city, which is north of Eight Mile Road and west of Tast Road. reached via e-mail at adlet-Gallogly said other areas have derich@ht.homecomm.net.

already been flushed in the past or will be flushed in future hydrant flushing programs. Flushing has been taking place between the hours of 8 p.m. and 12 a.m. The flushing is done, Gallogly said, to improve the overall reliability of the city water system including taste, odor and firefighting ability. Sediment that builds up in watermains may impact the efficiency of valves and fire hydrants.

The water is safe to drink, although it may be high in iron. Additionally, the brownish-orange water may turn white fabric into an orange color if the water finds its way into a clothes washer.

Cooke Middle School welcomes Craycraft as assistant principal

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The search has finally ended for a new assistant principal at Cooke Middle School.

James Cracraft, former Meads Mill Middle School social studies teacher, was the unanimous choice to fill the assistant principal position left vacant by Gail Weeks at the earlier this school year. His first day on the job was Oct. 18.

"I have some big shoes to fill with Gail leaving, but I'm up to the challenge," Cracraft said

Weeks left to fill the assistant principal position at Northville High School when David Maile left took a position as principal in

Since the position was posted in late August, the district received 24 letters of interest in the position. Out of those, seven were chosen for interviews with a panel composed of PTA president Judy Wollack, Cooke teacher Dwight Sieggreen, Cooke princi-pal Jeffrey Radwanski, Moraine Elementary principal Mary Kay Gallagher, assistant superintendent Linda Pitcher, and district personnel director Roy Danley.

Cracraft was the unanimous

"He was head and shoulders above the rest of the applicants," Radwanski said. "Also, he's very familiar with Northville and understands how we do things

Siegreen, who represented the teachers of Cooke during the hiring, said he and the rest of the staff at Cooke developed a list of criteria they were looking for in a candidate.

'We wanted someone who would be supportive and respectful of the staff, had a middle school background, was a good listener and someone who brought doughnuts for the staff." Sieggreen joked.

Siegreen said they were right on target with Cracrast and he would be an excellent addition to the staff.

Wollack was chosen to represent the parent population. She said in addition to his excellent qualifications, Cracraft had the personality that students and parents would both enjoy.

"He brings with him such a great energy," she said. "He just exudes the feeling that he loves children and loves being an edu-Wollack also said Cracraft's experience with at-risk children at Starr Commonwealth worked in his favor.

Starr Commonwealth is a facility that houses and educates middle- to high-school aged children who have emotional and behavioral problems.

This also impressed new colleague Radwanski.

With the way society is changing, it would be naive to think that schools are immune to such problems," he said. "It's an asset

There is nothing that Jim wouldn't do for a colleague or a student," she said, we miss him

Cracraft's students, past and present, came out Oct. 15 to see him off on his last day and recalled how he always made them laugh and managed to make learning fun.

Friend and colleague James

The 1999 Northville Citizen of the Year

We want to say thank you to the scores of people who commit their time, energy, money and talents to making the Northville community a special place to live. We want to say thank you to the individuals who work with service groups that help the less fortunate in our community. We want to say thank you to the men, women, and children who clean up our parks, plant flowers around town, drive meals to those who can't get out, work in our schools, in our businesses and in our governments.

And to do this, we need your help.

Each year, the Northville Chamber of Commerce celebrates the dedication and support shown by our volunteers through our Citizen of the Year award. Once again, we're asking the community to nominate individuals for this award. Nominations should include the name of the individual and a brief outline of the reasons they qualify for Citizen of the Year status.

This award was started in 1976 as our way to honor a special individual whose effort made a difference in the community. The following are criteria for nomination:

- Be involved in actively supporting (through time, talent or financial support) an organization that improves our community:
- Live or work in the Northville community;
- Show concern for community, environment and family:

School district administrators critical of school legislation

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The new school safety bills are not particularly helpful and neglect student's rights, according to some Northville school district administrators.

Four school safety bills were passed earlier this summer, one of which allows a teacher to immediately suspend a student from class for verbal assaults, physical assaults or threats. Furthermore. the laws require all school boards to adopt a policy that defines the activities for which the student can be suspended for up to 180 days.

However, many administrators in the district felt that the existing district policy was more than ade-

"Verbal assaults and bomb threats are already covered in the district's code of conduct and the crisis plan," Bob Sornson, director of special education said. So those laws really don't apply to us

Additionally, Sornson disagreed with the policy of teachers suspending a student without due

"Students have rights." he said. 'We shouldn't be allowed to just kick a kid out."

Sornson said the laws were poorly written and didn't allow the schools enough options for action. He said in some instances there might be extenuating circumstances that lead to a students behavior. Under the new law, the circumstances would not be considered until after the student had been suspended for one day and the matter had been placed on the pupil's permanent record.

"These laws don't help us." Sornson said. "We don't like being held to an arbitrary standard."

He also said that the laws neglected the procedures already in place in the district.

Usually we have an administrator review the situation before a student is suspended and we make sure that the student is released from school in a safe manner," Sornson said. "None of these things are referred to in the laws as they stand."

The school board is currently looking at the definitions and new policy for verbal assaults, bomb and similar threats in a first reading. With the first reading, the board members may make changes in the policy so long as it is still compliant with state statutes and prepare it for a final

The policy, created by Sornson and the district's lawyers, still allows a teacher to suspend a student. However, the suspension power may only be wielded when a student's misconduct poses a clear threat of imminent injury to persons or property through threats or false alarms.

The policy also states that a student may be suspended for possession of drugs, alcohol, weapons, fireworks, or other explosives, all of which are addressed in the existing code of conduct. Teachers are also required to continue to follow the due process procedures as written in the district handbook.

Sornson hoped that the law would be tweaked to include more detail that would allow students to be treated fairly.

State lawmakers to ponder handicap parking legislation

BY MIKE MALOTT

RoAnne Chaney of East Lansing once spend two hours sitting in her wheelchair in a freezing rain because a driver had parked too close to her van to allow her to operate the lift she needed to get

Police who responded to her call couldn't back the van up for her. because they were unfamiliar with the special controls she uses to

Still, the officers were reluctant to issue a ticket because, at present, state law does not specifically say it's illegal to park in the access aisle located next to handicapped parking spaces.

If you ask most drivers what yellow strips on the pavement mean, most recognize that means 'no parking.' But if you ask them what the blue stripes mean, they don't have a clue," Dearborn resident Chris Mageli said, explaining he believes drivers need to be better educated about handicapped parking rules.

Some of the worst offenders. Mageli said, are drivers who have handicapped parking placards themselves but don't realize the purpose of the blue-striped access stripes designate wheelchair access aisles, intended to give wheelchair users the room they need to operate lifts to get in and out of their vans.

Legislation that would make it illegal to park in an access aisle, whether the driver holds a handicapped parking placard or not. was introduced last week by Michigan Rep. Laura Toy, R-Livo-

The bill, which has so far received 54 co-sponsorships. would levy a fine up to $100 for anyone who parks in those access aisles, or blocks a curb cut or a wheelchair ramp.

*My brother had cerebral palsy for 44 years, and my mother is also disabled. Because of these personal experiences, I know the frustration disable people face when ramps, access aisles and curb-cuts are blocked by inconsiderate drivers. There are currently no penalties in Michigan law for individuals who block or park in wheelchair access aisles. Likewise, no penalties exist for those who block a wheelchair curb-cut or ramp with their vehicle. Blocking these access areas has been a significant problem for disable citizens who use these mobility enhancers on a daily basis."

Tom Masseau, Public Policy Specialist for Michigan Protection and Advocacy Services, agrees the problem is a lack of education. He said that drivers who get tempo-rary handicapped placards, needed because of an injury or illness from which they are expected to recover, currently are not even given a full set of handicapped parking rules.

Mageli, a member of the State Commission on Disability Concerns, said he believes the first step will be to clarify the rules in the law. After that, he hopes to convince the Secretary of State's office to include questions about handicapped parking in drivers license tests, to assure that all drivers will be, informed of the rules surrounding handicapped parking areas. Mageli, himself a wheelchair user as a result of a 1993 shooting that severed his spinal cord, tells a similar story of being stuck in the rain when a driver blocked in his van. He said police are reluctant to write tickets if the errant driver holds a handicapped placard. Chaney, Operations Director for the Michigan Disability Rights Coalition, who also depends on a wheelchair to get around - the result of her struggle with juvenile arthritis - said that while the loophole in the law often leaves officers unwilling to act, she sees an increasing number of violations in access aisles. She comes across the problem herself regularly, she said, about twice a week.

OPINION

The committee did its job, now trustees need to step up

Some board members

ay back in June it looked like some progress finally was going to be made on the issue of a township manager in Northville Township.

Well here it is in the middle of October and absolutely nothing has been done with the report presented to the Northville Township board of trustees at that time.

The report presents three options for the board to make a decision on: having a full-time manager/parttime supervisor; full-time superintendent/part-time supervisor; full-time superviso::

It's hoped by appeared ready to give members of the their opinions. But others committee that put the report together seemed to look like they that a decision be had just learned this was made for the next an issue being put before board of trustees.

discussion on the report has been pushed back another month to Nov. 23.

"We haven't even reached the point of deciding whether or not this is something we even want to discuss," said Marv Gans, at the study session where it was decided to discuss the issue Nov. 23.

That is most certainly true and it also is something that is most the next session, combined with certainly disturbing.

The two years it took to put together the report was bad enough and it would seem the board would have its chops watering waiting to be fed the

What is the lack of interest in getting a decision as quickly as possible?

One may argue it isn't a decision that should be made in haste. That certainly is true. However, one also may argue that since two years was spent on putting the report together by a committee of dedicated individuals, we shouldn't have to wait another two years for anything to be done with the report.

And given the amount of time the board set up between the most recent study session and the fact the holidays will be right around the corner, we don't think it's too unreasonable to ask the board to take some action on the

Weighted grades just window dressing

Window dressing.
That's about the best way I can sum up my feelings on the current controversy surrounding the school district's study of whether to implement weighted grades next year at Northville High

As most of you know, a group of high school parents are pushing for the move to weighted grades, which would give students more credit for being successful in Advanced Placement classes.

In other words, getting an "A" or 4.0 in a class would no longer be the standard for excellence under the weighted grade option. We'd have students with 4.25 GPA's walking proudly across the stage to collect their diplomas.

In other words, window dressing. And one needs only listen to one of the more vocal parents who is pushing for the weighted grade option. Linda Jo Hare has been fighting for weighted grades for the past year. Last week, she and a few supporters argued their case at a forum sponsored by the high school, in which parents, teachers and administrators discussed the weighted

"This is not a new issue," Hare said.
"The reaction from some of the parents at the forum shows the underlying dissatisfaction with the way the school presents our kids."

The way the school presents our kids? Correct me if I'm wrong here, but I was under the impression that the high school's mission was to educate kids, not to make them look attractive to the university of their dents have the necessary skills to lead productive adult lives?

Ahhh, but I keep forgetting, we are in Northville, where some parents encourage their kids to boycott MEAP tests because they're too hard and low scores might somehow keep them out of those nice Ivy League colleges. This is Northville, where some parents think being involved in their child's education consists of dropping them off at school and picking them up after

Yep. Just as long as we have that wonderful window dressing, our kid will be just fine.

WRONG. Weighted grades, in my opinion, don't do anything to improve a student's capacity to learn. A toughbut-fair curriculum, teachers who challenge the minds of students, and parents who take ownership of their child's education, improve the capacity of a child to learn and stretch and

And contrary to what Linda Jo Hare claims, the majority of colleges don't consider weighted grades. They're interested, instead, in ACT and SAT scores, grade point average, Advanced Placement test scores and rank, as well as extra-curricular school activi-

With that being the case, I have to wonder what the fuss is all about. Oh yeah, I forgot - high school in Northville is all about looking good. I mean, heck, we wouldn't want our kids to actually learn anything in high school, now would we?

As a matter of fact, while we're at it. perhaps we should institute weighted attendance. If a student doesn't miss a day of school in one semester he or she should get a week's credit towards the next semester. At the end of the year we could have an attendance honor roll, with students receiving awards at the yearly honors convocation. I bet the school would even include mention of sparkling attendance on a student's transcript.

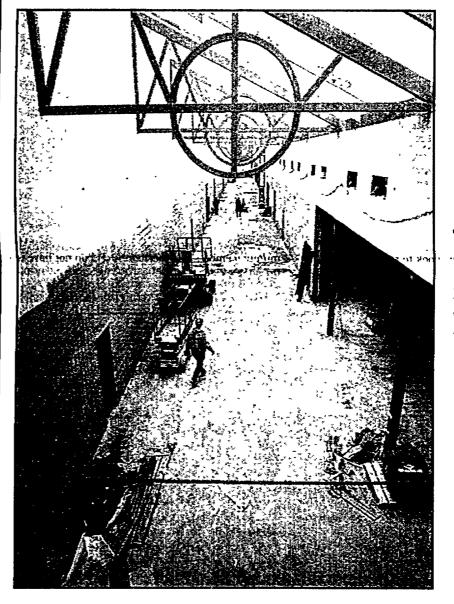

Or perhaps we should move towards giving students "weighted" credit for their extra-curricular activities. That might just encourage more students to join the Spanish club. After all, universities just love students who are involved in school activities.

I think you all probably get my point here. Instead of putting our emphasis on "dressing up" our students, we need to go back to basics. Let's simply teach them what they need to know in order to survive in that rat race we call society. Let's teach them how to have successful and fulfilling lives.

Leave the window dressing at home. where it belongs.

There must be something in the water

Due to time constraints beyond my control I present a brief glimpse into the dysfunctional thoughts that race through my mind on both the conscious and unconscious level.

Something in the water Just this past weekend my good friends and I traveled to Chicago for my first-ever bachelor party. Before I get into the fun of the Chicago trip, I must add that Friday I will be flying to Las Vegas for my cousin's wedding.

I guess as my friends and I approach the intriguing age of 30, marriage is something to be contem-

For them. Personally, I struggle with my everyday routine, taking care of my dog and figuring out where I have to be and what I have to do. Not to say I am irresponsible (although my editors may argue with me), but the complete commitment of marriage is something I have not found (yet), though am not against.

Both my cousin and friend have been with their significant others for awhile and are looking forward to their upcoming weddings.

I am looking forward to these weddings also as there is promise of free booze and food. Disregard that last statement.

I am looking forward to these weddings as people very close to me are taking the step in their lives showing they are ready for the most complete and emotional bond between two people, the sanctity of marriage.

B.J. Hammerstein

To Gary Lobel and Shay Berger, I say congratulations on your upcoming weddings.

Don't laugh

Nashville, Roswell and Phoenix are all places I have resided and now that I am back home I believe I can make a fair statement that living in the Metro Detroit area is a little stuffler than these other places.

Pinpointing the reasoning behind this sentiment is not easy, but rather by just walking around and observing people it can be quite evident.

But as pressures to conform to the norm and do the right thing lurks around every corner, I will stay true to my beliefs, even though they may not be "normal."

Better to kill the living wage ordinance

Last November, voters in Detroit approved by a 4-1 margin a "living wage ordinance."

The measure requires all companies doing more than $50,000 in business with the city or getting that much in tax breaks to pay their employees at a rate of 125 percent of the federal poverty level. As of now, that comes to $8.23 per hour if workers get benefits or $10.29 if they don't. (The current national minimum wage is $5.15 per hour.)
Political wisdom at the time was that organized labor slipped the measure onto the ballot while Mayor Dennis Archer wasn't paying attention. Given the highly unionized electorate in the city, getting an ordinance entitled "living wage" onto the ballot was all

Not surprisingly, business leaders went ballistic. They were joined by some Democrats who worried about the antigrowth consequences of local voters legislating wage levels. Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara, for example, called the ordinance "diabolical" and "the greatest deterrent to economic development that's out there.".

Governor John Engler and House Speaker Chuck Perricone agreed. And, surprise, State: Rep. Robert Gosselin, a conservative Republican from Troy, duly introduced HB 4777, which he called The Job Creation and Regulatory Responsibility Act."

The bill — also called the "Destruction of Local Government Act" by opponents, some from organized labor and some local officials would block local government units from setting policy in areas already addressed by state government. Because there are a bunch of state and federal laws already on the books dealing with minimum wages. HB 4777 would effectively nullify attempts by cities to dictate wages.

There's no doubt about it. Living wage measures are popular with the voters. In Michigan, efforts are already under way to get similar measures on the ballot in Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, and liberals in Ann Arbor, Kalamazoo and Lansing are beginning to beat the drums. The movement has a national dimension, too, with a bunch of communities including Baltimore, Boston and San Jose already having adopted similar ordinances.

Although the debate over the bill looks on the surface like state versus local control, in actual fact it's about economics and the workings of the free market system.

Supporters of living wage measures argue morality, arguing that it's just not fair for employers in a given city to be allowed to pay workers less than the poverty level for raising a family. Opponents ask how economic development and job creation can possibly be encouraged when countless local governments are ceaselessly interfering with the workings of the labor market.

Aside from the ideology involved, I think there are compelling practical reasons to eliminate living wage ordinances.

First, pandering. Once you let one living wage ordinance on the books, local politicians will find themselves falling over each other to set higher and higher required wage

Second, migration. Manufacturing companies have for years migrated their plants out of state to find lower wage levels in Alabama or Mexico. Imagine what would happen if gas stations, party stores or dry cleaners started moving their businesses from community to community in response to varying living

Mike Malott, the head of the statewide news service used by this newspaper, points out an interesting parallel to the living wage argument: tax abatements. In the 1970's and '80's, Malott writes, politicians got the bright idea that giving businesses 50 percent property tax breaks for 12tyears was a neat way to lure new business and compete with other states. But smart business people started shopping for the best deal, pitting state against state and community against

The quarrel now going on between Troy and Warren over tax breaks for General Motors will look like a polite conversation in Sunday School if living wage ordinances are enacted in all manner of Michigan communities and bidding wars erupt between local politicians pandering for votes and between communities trying to attract jobs and economic development.

Local government officials who worry that Gosselin's bill would destroy home rule would be well advised to work with him to narrow the bill down just to living wage

Planning Commissioner upset with Record story

To the editor:

Despite the Northville Record's obvious limited knowledge of business and development, there are those of us in the Northville community who have such capabilities and volunteer to enhance the future of Northville in any way possible. Being an industrial real estate broker, I welcome any opportunity to represent Northville properties for sale or lease at any time. I welcomed the opportunity to broker the former Warren Products facility, both as a broker and as a resident, uncomfortable with the deterioration of the facility.

Being a planning commissioner. it is my sworn obligation to help provide for the best possible development of the limited space available here in Northville. As a broker, I want to best utilize the property for the seller. The fact that this facility has not sold in the strongest industrial economical market ever should send a vivid message to anyone who feels that Warren Products is a viable facility.

Graduate thanks teacher for effort

To the editor:

I am writing to you in part to give thank you but mostly to let this story be known to me people of Northville.

My name is Amy Poster Joaquin. I am a 1993 graduate of Northville High School and my diploma came to me thanks to one Northville High School teacher, Mrs. Counzelman. I had somehow managed to make it through the Wayne school system and then the Northville system without really asking for help. At American Elementary. I was tested for reading they found some phoenix problems and that I was at a kindergarten reading level in the fourth grade. Many times over the next seven years, people tried to help me with my reading problem but my headstrong ways would prevent anyone from getting through

All in all, I made it to the 11th grade without taking reading lab and somehow fooling teacher after teacher into believing that I understood the reading assign-

Then came Mrs. Counzelman's reading lab. On the first day of class. I showed up with a Garfield comic book to read and do a report on. Mrs. Counzelman saw the book and asked me to find another book to read from her selection. This put me into tears because I knew there was no way that I would be able to read one of those big thick books. I quickly grabbed any book and sat back down. Mrs. Counzelman saw me do this and asked me to stay after class. After everyone else left the room, she asked me if I had any problem and I broke down, "I simply can't read.

Steele's "The Promise" off the book rack and handed it to me. The 100-plus pages scared me and she explained that if I needed help with any of the words, I should underline them and she would help me look them up in the dictionary. The next day I came to her with almost every word underlined and after class we spent our lunch hour looking up the words and she taught me to use the dictionary in the process.

Now, six and a half years later, I have read every Danielle Steele novel, magazine, newspaper, etc., that I can get my hands on. I know in my heart that I always had it in me to read but without Mrs. Counzelman, I also know that I never would have. My greatest thank you to Northville Schools and especially to Mrs. Counzelman, reading has enriched my life and I hope to pass on my love of reading to my daughter, Kaitlyn.

Police fundraiser a huge success

To the editor: On Aug. 14, I participated with several other area police mountain bicycle officers in a charity bike ride that benefited the Ronald McDonald House of Ann Arbor. I had a goal of raising $500 for my participation and donation to this

I solicited the help of several Northville Township businesses and community members, and they came through in a big way. I surpassed my goal and raised just over $500 with the help of the below-listed businesses and community members-Furthermore. my amount was the most gathered by any other individual police officer in the charity ride.

Once we made the 17-mile trek on our police mountain bicycles from Canton to Ann Arbor, we visited families at the Ronald McDonald House and visited several children with serious medical conditions at the University of Michigan Hospital. It was nice to see them cheer up when a group of police officers walked into their room for a visit. All the funds rai went directly to help families afford the enormous cost to stay with their children while receiving medical care.

It is nice to see the business community come together for such an important cause.

The following individuals and businesses made donations: McDonald's Restaurant at Six Mile and Haggerty, McDonald's Restaurant at Five Mile and Haggerty, Chirri Builders, Davis Auto Care, Sheehan's on the Green, Moose Lodge of Northville, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Henningsen, Mary Ellen King. ### Novi Fire Department joins up with Western Wayne HAZMAT team to overcome chemical disasters

By JEREMY MCBAIN Staff Writer

If a train full of deadly sulfuric acid were to ever dump its load while traveling through Novi and residents were fleeing in terror, Novi Fire Department Lts. Tom Johnson and Don Dominick would rush into action.

Along with the Western Wayne hazardous materials team, called HAZMAT, the situation will be assessed and steps will be taken to get the spill under control.

When the fire department is not sure what they have, they call us out," Johnson

The HAZMAT team is composed of 40 firefighters from 12 communities in Western Wayne County, including Novi and Farmington Hills. Each community has a minimum of two fire fighters on the

Dominick and Johnson, who both have been with the Novi Fire Department since the early 1970s, joined the HAZMAT team

The team is used whenever there is a threat to the environment or safety of people due to a chemical release from an accident, fire or terrorist act.

Johnson said in addition to each of the team members' regular fire fighting training, HAZMAT team members must also attend at least 100 hours of hazardous materials training. This training focuses around identifying chemicals and dealing Additionally, many team members elect to take even more classes that deal with chemistry.

"It's a continual learning process." Johnson sald.

"To be able to obtain knowledge, to me, is important and to be with the team, that is one of the best in the state and country. is great," added Dominick.

Due to the age we live in, one of the latest situations the team is training for is terrorist attacks involving dangerous biological agents or chemicals in highly populated areas.

To really make this threat hit home, in the New York City Trade Center bombing. there was a biological agent involved that could have caused harm if it had been released." Dominick said. Luckily, the biological portion of the bomb did not go off. Generally though, the team spends most of its time training, rather than rushing to calls. According to Johnson they only get about two or three calls a

When a call comes to HAZMAT, a squad of 12 team members is sent to assess the situation. Using their knowledge of chemistry and a trailer full of technical equipment, the team can determine what type of chemical is involved, its danger and here it is going.

For example, if the chemical is in cloud form, the trailer the team takes to every scene is equipped with a variety of weather instruments that can track wind direction and tell the team members were the chemical cloud is headed.

If the situation is big enough, the squad can notify the entire 40 member team, whose main station is at Detroit Metro Airport.

The beauty to the HAZMAT team is that it is a combination of several communities. Before this team was formed, cities formed their own hazardous materials team, that took a lot of money and manpower away from its regular fire depart-

With the HAZMAT team in place, communities do not deplete their fire departments to staff the team or break their budgets to equip the team.

Instead of taxpayers from one community being responsible for the equipment just one hazardous materials suit can cost $2,000 and it can only be worn once—the cost of each call is pro-rated for the community involved and the person or company responsible for the chemical spill would be back-charged. Dominick said.

This means if a train traveling through Novi spills a toxic load on the ground, the train company must pay for its cleanup.

The reason the team was formed is the high cost of running a team. A city the size of Novi would have a hard time keeping it funded alone, "Johnson said.

In addition to keeping the cost low for a community, the HAZMAT team provides communities with a valuable protection against chemical dangers.

I would have concern to be residing in a community were this type information and resources wouldn't be available. Dominick said.

Northville High School's Aditya Prasad is on an accelerated path to success

Aditya studies his engineering notes under the Unversity of Michigan's north campus bell tower on a recent Wednesday morning.

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Aditya Prasad has done more in his 16 years than most have done in a lifetime.

The Northville High School senior is a National Merit Semi-finalist, a member of Rotary Interact, a member of the tae kwon do club, and just got his driver's license - and oh yeah, and he's also an engineering student at University of Michigan, is currently working on a project with NASA, and was offered a job in the U.S. Department of Defense.

"It's not terribly difficult," Prasad said.
"The only bad part is the drive to Ann Arbor and that I don't get to see my friends a lot."

As a junior, and at the ripe old age of 15. Prasad had taken all of the accelerated math and science classes that were available at NHS. It was looking as though his senior year might not be as challenging as he might like. Then he heard that it was possible to work towards college credit at Schooleraft. But Prasad wanted to take this one step further. He called a counselor at U-M and asked them if they had a similar program. She informed him that the only thing that was available to him were classes in the college of letters, sciences and arts, a sort of honors liberal arts program that offers high school and college students the opportunity for greater depth of study in a variety of subjects.

Yet Prasad was persistent. It still wasn't quite what he was looking to study. Additionally, the program would only allow him to take one or two classes through the college. He proposed the possibility of taking actual engineering classes and beginning his college a career a bit

The counselors at U-M were worried that I might not be able to handle a heavy class load, but I talked to them and proved to them that I could do it," he said. After showing them his academic records and the passion he had for the subject matter, the counselors had no choice but to give in, if only because Prasad wouldn't give up.

This opportunity didn't just fall in his lap, Prasad said.

Aditya Prasad listens to a lecture in his U of M engineering class.

You can't wait for other people to tell you about opportunities like this," Prasad said. "You have to pursue it yourself. If you like something enough and you can handle you have to go and get it.'

Prasad did get what he wanted, and enrolled in a sophomore-level mechanical engineering class, calculus 3, and a contputer science course. In addition to his book learning. Prasad is learning the ropes of a college campus.

The freshmen aren't much bigger than me, so most people can't tell that I'm only 16," he saki.

He said that when they find out his age. they can't help but be a little impressed. He also said that he was enjoying the freedom the open campus offers him.

"It's great because I can go where I want for lunch and I don't have to eat in the cafe-

He said he tried his luck at a career fair at the university. Much to his surprise the Defense Department recruiter took one look at his resume and wanted to set up an

It was great until the realized I was only 16." Prasad said. "I can't get security clearance until I'm 18."

Prasad said he still checks in at NHS either for his humanities class or gym class and to catch up with his friends.

But sit ups and laps around ancient Greek pottery are not foremost on his mind these days. He is part of a team at U-M that is designing a satellite that will be attached to another satellite launched by NASA next year called Proseds.

Prasad is designing the software for U-M's satellite that will collect the data from space which will gather measurement by sing magnetic fields. He said that though the program was very challenging, it was also a lot of fun and gave him an opportunity to do things that no one else had tried. He has also said that he never regretted his persistence in striving to get that opportunity. People should do what they want to do, not what others say they should do," Prasad said. "If it's uncharted territory, all the better. You'll clear the path as a plo-

Pets provide welcome therapy to Novi seniors

Pet-A-Pet program has resumed after summer break. This is a non-profit program with more than 400 volunteers and their pets, who visit not only Charter House of Novi and Whitehall Health Care Center, but area hospitals and youth centers as well.

Ruth Curry, president of the group, founded the organization 14 years ago when, at that time, she would take her two cats to visit her father who was in a nursing home. From that initial visit, the program spread through Oakland County and is continuing throughout adjoining Recent visitors to Charter House were Dot Hickson with "Nicky," a cockapoo; Jean Grant with "Buddy," a welsh corgi; "Reebok," a shih tzu accompanied owner, Sharron Disbro: Karen Landacre with "Shiloh," a sheltie; Cheri Graves with "Addie," a shih tzu; and "Macy," a golden retriever along with owner. Sharon Silverberg.

Sharron Disbro, coordinator of the program at Charter House, is in need of more four-legged visitors and their owners. She would like 10 to 12 dogs for the size of the facility. Pets need to be current in shots and friendly, with the volunteer owners paying $5 to join the program, which covers insurance. She can be reached at (734) 449-8339. Time of visits are usually once a month for about an hour. Participants in this program are recognized as special guests at the annual spring volunteer recognition dinner.

NOVI MINISTERS ASSOCIATION

The group has resumed their meetings, the first being hosted by Providence Hospital. They enjoyed a lunch and later, a tour of the new Asserian Cancer Center.

Rev. Louise Ott hosted a recent luncheon held at Novi United Methodist Church. Discussion involved the CROP Walk and the new parish nurse program. Further information can be obtained by calling the Rev. Richard Henderson at (248) 349-5666.

Hosting the Nov. 2 meeting will be Meadowbrook Congregational Church with Rev. Neil Hunt as luncheon host. Plans for the where and time of the traditional Ecumenical Thanksgiving service held Nov. 24 will be on the agenda for discussion. Several local churches will be participating in the service along with music provided by a combined choir. An offering will be taken. Last year's offering was presented to the Community Food Bank.

Ministers Association. This service is offered every other Monday morning at Faith Presbyterian Church. Currently needed at the Bank are the following items: paper products, non-perishable items such as canned goods, and diapers. Items can be dropped off at any of the area churches; barrels or baskets are available in the vestibules for this purpose. In charge of distribution are volunteers Kathy Laux and Debby Goodman.

Six more new families have recently signed up for the program. Oct. 24 is the next date for those interested. Monetary donations are also accepted. Please make checks payable to the Novi Ministers Association with the notation "Food Bank" on the check. Mail to P.O. Box No. 1, Novi.

NOVI SENIOR CENTER

Center manager Jan McAlpine and spe cial recreation coordinator Kathy Crawford have planned many activities, from lunch to entertaining programs. Due to the many programs, more volunteers have become involved.

The volunteers were recently honored at a dinner served by the youth of St. James Church. In addition to dinner was a raffle and entertainment by the Novi Choralaires. Well-known tunes familiar to the seniors were highlighted: tunes from Broadway shows, rock 'n' roll, and TV theme songs, all recognized and enjoyed by those attending. Approximately 60 volunteers were present. Programs involving volunteers were: Meals on Wheels (some from Mercy College). Sixgate Cloggers, pinochle, bridge, Focus Hope distribution, serve meals, help decorate, and the set-up of special activities and programs.

The annual Pen-Pal program is in progress. Jan McAlpine provided the seniors with names of first graders, with whom they are corresponding. They will continue to write and send letters and cards throughout the year. A party will be held in May when pen pals will meet each other. Letters are due Oct. 26 in the senior office so that correspondence can reach the children by Halloween.

Rehearsals for the Novi Theater Senior Variety series have started; "Silver Belles and Beaus" is scheduled for Dec. 17.

A goodbye party was recently held for Dorothy Jarvis, a four-year staff member. She plans to spend more time with her grandchildren.

NOVI PUBLIC LIBRARY

It's time to register for "Storytime," a program for various age groups. Registration will continue through Oct. 30. Classes run from Nov. 15 through Dec. 17. There will be no classes on Thanksgiving Day.

Three sections are offered for the following age groups: "The Two of Us" for children ages two and three; "Three's Company" for ages three and four; and

"On My Own" for four- and five-year-olds who have not yet started kindergarten.

A special folder, "Storytimes Fall 1999-Spring 2000" has been assembled for parents by librarians Margi Karp-Opperer, Mindy Schafer, Jennifer Taggart and children's program assistant, Tiffany Liguorri: The folder not only gives information on Storytimes, but resources for parents and caregivers as well.

Available in the near future will be the Novi Preschool and Child Care Directory, which is being developed through cooperation with Novi Youth Assistance and the

The annual "Design-A-Plate" program is in progress. Special paper and color markers are used by the children for their designs, which are then transferred onto dishwasher-safe plates. The library will handle the remaining process; plates will be returned in time for the holidays.

Children's Book Week is Nov. 15-20. Maureen Schissman will be performing 'Coco Goes on a Safari" on Nov. 17 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. All ages are welcome.

Also scheduled for sometime this month will be Frances Loynes' presentation of her collection, "Noah's Ark." Illustrated will be a teapot, lamps, clocks, books, T-shirts, jewelry, and even two Bibles printed in 1860 and 1865, with scripture reference indicated in Genesis 5:20 through 9:29.

Dinner coupons create awkward situation Rec Briefs

9. Recently, a couple asked my husband and me if we would like to join them at dinner. They picked the restaurant of their choice and it was understood that each couple would pay for their own meals. When the checks arrived, we were surprised that the other couple produced a half-off coupon which they used for themselves. We were not aware that they had such a coupon nor did they offer to share it with us. Needless to say, we were somewhat taken back but kept silent. Should we have said or done something at the time?

A. Since we are all bombarded with half-off, dollars-off, buy-oneget-one-free coupons every day from stores, services, restaurants, etc., it is very tempting to use them. For those who frequent those establishments, it can mean sizable savings when added up over months.

You were right in not saying anything to the other couple at the restaurant as it could have been embarrassing and uncomfortable for all concerned. Words may have been said that could not be taken back.

However, since you contacted me, it shows that you were hurt and disturbed over the situation. Human nature being what it is, probably our first instinct would be to retaliate: Next time I'll choose the restaurant and I'll have a coupon and not tell them about it and see how they like it. But that would put you in the same category as your friends and you would be doing exactly what disturbs you about them. Do you want that?

If this should occur again, here are some choices you could consider:

• Each couple should have their own coupon. Since most of the coupons are sent through the mail. It is quite likely others in your group will also have one. If not, no coupons by either couple should be used as you can see it can cause ill feelings. The few dollars you would save is not worth the risk of developing a crack in your friendship.

• If you are paying for your own meal, you should have a say-so in choosing a restaurant. If your host will be picking up the tab, it is his right to pick an eatery of his choice and, as a guest, you do not disagree unless you are asked what is your preference.

· A less convenient way to have settled the situation would have been to ask the waiter to split the coupon between the two couples. This, however, could be against restaurant policy. Plus, since all four meals could be different prices, the waiter would have to be a mathematical wizard to figure out the checks and should not be want the bill to arrive at the table obliged to do so.

• It is best to use restaurant coupons only with family, close friends, nights - in other words, those with whom you are free and comfortable. Under no circumstances do you want to use them when you want to make a "good impression" such as: a first date. when entertaining an important client or customer, when having out-of-town guests, or when inviting your boss (or your spouse's boss) out to dinner. Using a coupon at these times can send out a wrong message.

To make a very good impression, do what I always do. For instance, on one occasion, a gentleman friend helped me with some business transactions yet refused any monetary compensation. I decided therefore to invite him out to lunch, I made reservations at an elegant French bistro. When we entered the restaurant, I went along to the desk to check on my reservations. At the same time I left instructions that I did not and that I would be back at the end of the meal to pay the tab. When dessert was served. I excused myself and went to the desk and paid the bill. My friend probably thought I went to powder my nose because as we were leaving, he wondered about the check. I told him it was already taken care of. "When? How did you do that?" I just smiled sweetly and said, "That's my secret." Now it's yours, too.

The school children have been touring Mill Race Village for the last month. It is always fun to watch them arrive at the park dressed in clothing which replicates the Victorian Period. Their day consists of a tour of all the buildings in the park which is conducted by a docent who shares the history of each of the buildings with the students. Students then return to the Wash Oaks School where they learn what it was like to be a student in the 1800s studying in a one-room schoolhouse. Because teachers were not allowed to be married, the students cannot address their female teacher as Mrs. Children bring their lunches in brown bags or other similar packaging of the Victorian Period. During play time they use jump ropes, hoops, and stilts. Students and parents have both expressed how educational and enjoyable it is for them to have this one-room school house experience.

Harvest Festival is this Sunday. Oct. 24 at Mill Race Village. Come pick out a pumpkin for yourself and enjoy the wonderful fall colors in the park. This will be the last Sunday that the buildings will be open until June (except for the Christmas Walk).

Cider mills tempt tastes across Michigan

By CHRIS C. DAVIS

Anyone from Northville or Novi will tell you that Parmenter's Cider Mill has a special place in their heart once the leaves start changing. The crisp autumn air seems to go just right with the taste of fresh cider and warm dough-

But as residents take to the highways this fall in search of brilliant color, football games and enjoying Michigan's fall splendor, the craving for cider and doughnuts may creep up once in a great while. After all — it hardly seems right only to enjoy those October treats just once or twice.

Here's a list of cider mills around in the southeast Lower Peninsula. A complete list of all cider mills in Michigan can be found on the Internet www.michigaweb.com/cidermill.html.

'Three to Tango' features Hollywood's hottest young stars

Matthew Perry, Neve Campbell, Dylan McDermott and Oliver Platt team up in the offbeat romantic comedy "Three to Tango." Oscar Novak (Perry) is an idealistic, young architect on the rise. The boyishly handsome and funny Oscar with his brother, Peter Steinberg (Platt), have just landed a career-making opportunity — Chicago tycoon Charles Newman (McDermott) has chosen them to compete for the design of a multi-million dollar cultural center.

In a ploy for publicity, Newman has pitched Oscar and Peter in a neck-and-neck competition with their archrivals and former colleagues, the hugely successful (and equally ruthless) Decker and develop a crush on Amy, a beautiful and headstrong artist, who begins to return his growing affection. Much to his chagrin, Oscar may have finally found the woman of his dreams.

But Oscar's dream is short-lived when he discovers that the jealous Charles has assigned him this special job only because he (mistakenly) believes that Oscar is gay. Oscar's frustration compounds when he realizes that Amy also believe him to be gay.

The very heterosexual Oscar Novak becomes the most famous gay man in Chicago, and his entire life is turned upside down.

When he is honored as Chicago's Gay Professional of the Year. Oscar has to make a decision will he continue the lie and hold on to the job of a lifetime and a friendship with the girl he loves, or is it time to face the consequences and tell the whole world that he is secretly ... straight?

Oscar's bumbling attempts at surveillance fail, but he does

by Jon M. Gibson GUEST MOVIE REVIEW

It opens as any David Lynch production — the haunting score of Angelo Badalamenti played against the beautiful black and white night sky — yet the director seems to lose his touch with "The Straight Story.

Lynch attempts to return to the mainstream market with this yarn, but its tragically slow and simple subject matter and uninteresting visuals delete any portion of greatness. However, Lynch isn't necessarily known for his cinematic taste. so it is no surprise that "Straight Story is extremely languid.

Most of his features are misunderstood or just too grotesque for audiences — "Lost Highway."
"Eraserhead," "Wild at Heart" and even the television series "Twin Peaks* being a few examples.

So it might be quite ironic to see a Disney label on his newest effort. since sex. darkness and cynicism are such intricate parts of many of component that destroys the pacing of "Straight Story" is the concept.

The true story of a 73-year-old Alvin Straight riding a lawnmower across Iowa state lines to Wisconsin would make an emotional and wonderfully rendered "20/20" featurette or even a short film, but the script lacks too much substance for a two-hour theatrical release.

His motivation is his estranged and extremely ill brother, which allows for some emotional carpentry. but ultimately acts as another weight on the film.

Moreover about the determination of the elderly, the "Straight Story is a suitable example of perseverance. But with a cast of primarily actors in their 70's. Disneytuned children and seniors alike will loose concentration.

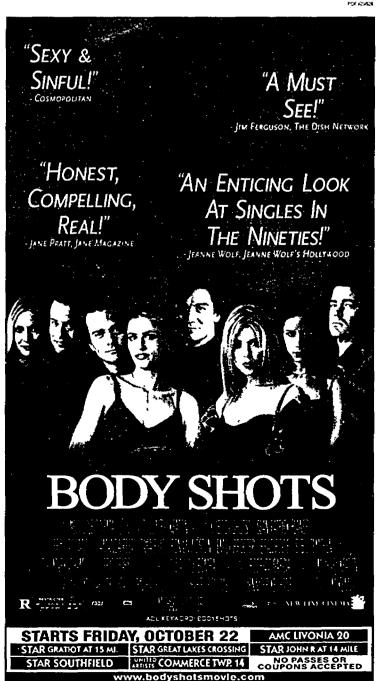

Sissy Spacek might have been a good marketing tool for the film an actress whom usually embraces most of her roles — is fantastic as a daughter in her mid-40's, retarded but mentally able.

However, she is another element of "Straight Story" that barricades the speed of the film.

Lynch's style doesn't dominate the screen in this picture, but it may seem too awkwardly slow for most audiences; so the film suffers from a double negative.

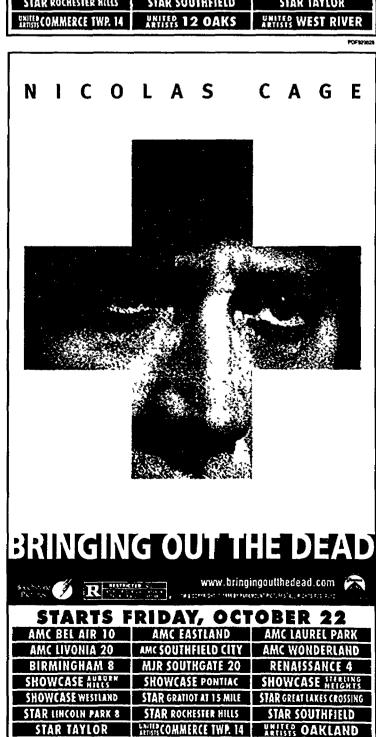

"Straight Story" is not a bad concept, it is just too monotonous Although, the more important for a silver screen transfer, allowing for a better home on the evening news than in a movie.

Netters 11th

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

If there's one sport where you're at the mercy of the officials, it's tennis. And Northville's girls learned a lot about that at last weekend's Division Il state tennis tournament in Oke-

The Mustangs received just one seed and faced stiff competition early throughout the draws en route to an 11th-place finish in the state. The team scored seven points, with all seven coming from three of the seven

Once again, it goes to show you how important the draws are," coach Uta Filkin said.

Okemos won the title for the second-consecutive year and for the sixth time in the 1990s. Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern was second and Birmingham Seaholm took

To show how much the draws can help, one would have to look no further than North Farmington's 10thplace finish with eight points. The Raiders lost badly to Northville in their dual match, the conference tournament and the regional tourney, yet still finished higher at the state. All of Northville's losses came to teams that finished higher than them in the team standings. Three of Northville's flights lost to No. 2 seeds. another lost to a No. 3 seed and yet another fell to a No. 4 seed.

The Mustang's best finish came from Kerry Woolfall at second singles. The junior made it all the way to the semifinals before losing to eventual state champion Ashley Smith of Portage Northern 1-6, 1-6. She defeated Lori Banacki of Flushing 6-2. 7-5 in the first round and then topped Kristen Macfarlane of Grand the quarterfinals. Two years ago Woolfall won the No. 3 singles title at

"She's very tournament experienced," her coach said.

At first doubles, Joanna Lee and Nicole Lindholm defeated Fraser's Andrea Green and Teryn Kennedy 6-1, 6-0 before bowing out to Seaholm's Kristen Neff and Stephanie Springer 1-6. 5-7. They earned the team two points, as did the No. 2 doubles team of Lauren Farris and Sarah Poirer.

That duo topped Kristen Ziech and Kathryn Ryan of Kalamazoo Loy Norrix 7-5, 7-6 (4) in the second round. but lost to Melissa McGinnis and Marci Messenger of East Lansing 4-6.

Unfortunately for Jessie Mills at first singles, she had to play one of the two rat-tails matches. She was pitted against Okemos' Karli Schneider and lost 1-6. 1-6 to end her day

Both Lauren West (three singles) and Gina Halicki lost their first matches of the day. West fell to Marian's Elizabeth Evola 2-6, 2-6 in the second round and Halicki lost a 2-6. 1-6 decision to Marian's Linda Andrews, the eventual state run-

Rachel Huang and Emily Steven-son battled tough, but came up on the short end of a 7-5, 6-3 match against Katie Hasse and Niki Swindler of GRFHC.

These were all new doubles teams for us this year," Filkin said. "So we could have used another couple weeks of practice to prepare them.

Northville ends its season with conference and regional crowns in the bag and an undefeated regular season to top it off. The all-area tennis team will appear in an upcoming Rapids Forest Hills Central 6-0 6-2 in issue of The Northville Record.

Joanna Lee (above) and Nicole Linholm won their first match before losing to Birmingham Seaholm 1-6, 5-7 in the quarterfinals at the state meet.

Boy's finish 11th at Gabriel Richard Invite

By JASON SCHMITT

The Northville boys' cross country team had a seemingly busy schedule last week, taking on Walled Lake Western and Plymouth Canton in a trimeet before colliding with 19 other teams at the Gabriel Richard Invitational last Saturday.

Facing many of the teams it will see at the regional meet. Northville finished 11th overall at Richard. Brian Bilyk was the lone medalist for Northville, fin-ishing 17th overall in a time of 17:17 at Buhr Park.

Nick Moroz ran one of his best races of the season, according to his coach, Chris Cronin. He was 56th overall in 18:14.

This was the time last year that Nick really started to turn it on. his coach said. "If he runs well, he could have a shot at an all-division finish Friday (at the Western Lakes meet)."

The Mustangs second through sixth runners all finished within 25 seconds of each other, as Moroz, Phil Santer (18:25), Joe Lunn (18:31), Eric Nadeau (18:34) and Joe Tracz (18:39) held down those slots.

N'VILLE 2ND IN TRI MEET

Unable to top Walled Lake Western, the Mustangs were able to topple Plymouth Canton as the three teams battled it out at Willis Park last Thursday. Bilyk was again the team's top runner, finishing in a time of 17:29, which was second overall in the

The key, however, for Northville was its next three runners, who finished 10th, 11th and 12th in the race. Santer, Moroz and Lunn were 10 seconds apart and solidified the win over the Chiefs. Ben Flood was the fifth scorer, taking 15th place overall in 19:02. The team tied Canton 28-28, but Eric Nadeau helped his team win the tiebreaker with a 16th-place finish at 19:02.

Northville finished 3-2 in the Western Division of the WLAA, which was good for third place.

We knew that if we didn't run well, that we could easily lose both races." Cronin said.

Northville or Novi? And the winner is...

Will it be clean? No. Will it be ugly? No.

Will it be ugiy? No.

Will it be a hard-hitting, bone-crushing, inyour-face style of game that fans have grown to love between two high schools separated by two miles of asphalt? You better believe it.

There is not a better high-school rivalry on the gridiron than the annual Northville and Novi "Baseline Jug" game. Played on the last night of the regular season since 1976, the game has often meant more than just the third non-conference game on each team's schedule. Many times it pits a struggling, mediocre team against a team with a shot at the playoffs or a perfect season. So regardless of the team's records, it has a special meaning for these two a matchup between a team that's 4-4 and most neighboring schools.

And although this year's game may seem like likely out of playoff contention and one that's already locked up a playoff berth, it goes much deeper than that.

First off, Novi has locked up a playoff spot, but it's yet to be determined if it will be on the road or at home. Playing at friendly Novi High would suit the Wildcats Just sine, where the team is 4-0 heading into the "Baseline" game. The 'Cats could also accomplish something that no other Novi team has done since the 1988 team that reached the state semifinals. win seven or more games. The 1996 team was 6-3. but was far from getting a playoff opportunity under the old system.

Langston nears school touchdown record

Does "Touchdown Brandon" sound

Well it doesn't have quite the flair that "Touchdown Tommy" Vardell used to have scoring touchdowns for Stanford University. but the Northville junior has had a flair for getting the ball in the end zone this

Such was the case last Friday night. when Langston scored on touchdown runs of 71, 1, 8 and 14 yards to lead Northville to a 33-0 rout of Walled Lake Central. The four scores gives Langston 15 for the season, one short of the school record set by Ron Rice in 1963.

We could have gotten him one more to tie for the record, but time is time, and next week is next week," coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We need him against Northville asserted its dominance early on, scoring on the first play from scrimmage. Langston took the option pitch from quarterback Eric Cooley and scooted 71 vards to give his team a 6-0 lead. Tim Kelleher nailed the extra point to complete the team's hot start.

"I thought we hit well at that point. We were able to move them off the ball," Schumacher said. "I just didn't want the team to get overconfident. But they stayed focused and played a great game.

It was the first game Schumacher felt his team hit on all cylinders. Only two missed extra points tainted the team's performance.

Langston scored his second touchdown from one-yard out with 9:43 left in the half and added a third score from eightyards out with 2:35 left to give his team a 19-0 lead at the half.

If there was any remaining doubt as to whether the Mustangs were in control of the game, consecutive scores from Langston (14 yards) and Ryan Anolick (5 yards) in the third quarter shut it off.

"I was very pleased with the way our offense came off the line," the coach said. We were able to execute any play we wanted to the whole game. We were play ing hard-hitting, hard-working football."

Northville's offense wasn't the only aspect of perfection on the field. The defense allowed just 37 yards rushing on 29 attempts. Travis Bliss led the team with eight first hits and two assisted tackles to go with his sack and pass deflection. Steve Jameson and Joe Rumbley each had five solos and three assists. Three of Rumbley's tackles were for a loss and he also caused a fumble and had a pass deflection. Bobby Baker had five first hits and Brian Roth had three solos and an interception. Jon Campion had four total tackles and forced and recovered a Offensively, Langston was the star. He rushed for 205 yards and his four touchdowns. Cooley was 5 for 8 for 105 yards while Aaron Redden hauled in three catches for 67 yards and Anolick had two

Up next...Novi

Although the chances of Northville making the playoffs as a 5.4 team are slim to none, there's still a chance. As of last week, 311 teams had four or more wins and a chance at the automatic six wins needed to solidify a playoff berth or the five wins needed for an at-large bid.

If there are less than 256 teams in all classes with six wins or more, the state will begin searching for the best 5-4 teams remaining. If those run out, 4-4 teams are eligible. The problem with Northville's chances is that the team has no wins over quality opponents. The team is 4.0 against sub-.500 teams and 0-4 against winning teams.

"We've got to find a way to beat the big boys," Schumacher said.

Novi is one of those big boys, and may be the best team the Mustangs have faced since running into Harrison in week num-

"They've got all kinds of weapons," the coach said of Novi. "Whether the ball is thrown, or pitched, you know the ball is going to be in the air."

The Wildcats are 6-2 and have won four straight since falling to Hartland 20-19 on Sept. 17. The team displays an option offense led by its best player, Mitch Maier. The quarterback has passed for over 800 yards and rushed for over 500 this year. He has accounted for 16 total touch-

He's also a catalyst on defense in the secondary, where he had intercepted three passes and leads the team in total tackles.

The Wildcats have won three of the last four games in this series, which began with three-straight wins in the early Novi will host the "Baseline Jug game" tomorrow night at Novi High School beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Seniors night brings home win for tankers

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

With one of its strongest senior classes in recent memory, it was only appropriate that the Northville swim team won its seventh-straight meet of the season last Thursday in the only home meet of the season, on senior night.

The Mustangs topped Franklin with ease, winning 10 of 12 events and securing another division championship. The meet was the last of six seniors' careers at Northville High School. Michelle Cheaney, Stefanie Nurmi, Lara Lee Roney, Stephanie Sabo, Jackie Salliote and Nicole Sprader all ended their home Northville careers, which only spanned four home meets in four years.

Next season the team will host several home meets with the opening of the new high school.

The Mustangs opened up the meet with a 2nd and 3rd place finish in the medley relay. Salliote, Sprader, Roney and Nurmi formed an all-senior quartet that finished runnerup.

Michelle Longeway and Jessie Stuber were 1-2 in the 200 freestyle, as were Deirdre Schwiring and Erin Schubert in the 50 freestyle. Jessica Hrivnak and Roney were first and second in the 100 butterfly and

Sprader and Laura Sheppard were 1-2 in the 100

Finishing first and third also became commonplace for Northville, which did it in the 200 IM (Sabo and Sprader), the diving (Kim Veres and Lindsay Dehne) and the 500 freestyle (Ali Stewart and Lauren Phillips). Schubert won the 100 freestyle and Salliote and Annette Calabrese were 2nd and 3rd in the 100

The Mustangs dominated the 200 free relay event. Sabo, Michelle Tomes, Lisa Longeway and Nurmi won the race and Jenny Carr, Jenny Houselander, Megan Houslander and Drie Komasara were runnerups.

Sabo. Stewart. Sheppard and Amy Black won the 400 freestyle relay to close the meet.

Going undefeated doesn't mean anything to us. It doesn't give us any awards," coach Bill Dicks said. Sometimes it's better to go through a season with a loss to keep yourselves hungry. Fortunately this year every one of these girls have been focused on win-

Northville concluded its regular season against Novi Tuesday (after The Northville Record's deadline) and will now taper some before the league meet Nov.

Novi upends cagers

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

In a battle of two hot teams on the hardwood, Novi proved to be too hot for Northville to handle, as the Wildcats handed the Mustangs a 50-37 loss at Novi High School Saturday night.

Novi took advantage of its superior speed, applying an early press which caused several first-quarter turnovers by Northville.

"My biggest concern was their size." Novi coach Dennis Cichonski said. "I didn't know how well we'd rebound against a taller team. We ended up about even in rebounds and if I can get that against a team like Northville, I'll take it.

By halftime Novi had built a 32-21 lead, thanks in part to the 'Cats ability to score against Northville's zone defense.

'We started with a zone, but Novi's good at two things; they play extremely hard - all the team- and catch and pass the ball really well." Northville coach

We were surprised to see a zone, to be honest with you," Cichonski admitted. "Our kids reacted well to the Novi maintained its pace in the third quarter. outscoring Northville 12-10 to take a 44-31 lead. Both teams struggled offensively in the fourth as Novi improved to 12-1 on the season. Northville dropped to 8-5 with the loss.

McGlinnen led Novi with 12 points and Colleen Lewis added 11 off the bench. Jessica Gilbert had two big three pointers and eight points.

Kate Hammond's 13 points led Northville. Emily Carbott added seven points.

N'VILLE 47, WESTERN 30 Northville was able to use its height advantage against the Warriors, pulling down 32 rebounds and attempting just four three pointers the entire game. Unlike the Novi game, Northville was able to jump out to leads of 13-5 and 24-9 at the end of the first two quarters. A 14-7 advantage in the third quarter put the game out of reach.

Mary Tanski had 10 points and four rebounds (all offensive) to really give her team a spark. Hammond added 12 points and pulled down six boards of her own. Meredith Hasse had a game-high nine rebounds.

N'VILLE 53, STEVENSON 28

Despite the fact that the team hit just 12 of 24 free throws and turned the ball over 22 times, the Mustangs were simply too much for the Spartans to handle in this Western Lakes game.

Northville made up for their shortcomings with 33 rebounds and 18 steals in the game. Meredith Hasse had a well-balanced game, knocking down seven points, seven steals and six rebounds. Janel Hasse led the team with 15 points and eight rebounds and Hammond added 12 and four.

Northville was aided when it found out that Stevenson's best player, Lindsay Gusick, was suspended for the first half of the game for missing a practice earlier that week.

The Mustangs now hit the toughest part of their league schedule, where it played Salem on the road Tuesday night (after The Northville Record's deadline). Harrison on the road tonight and North Farmington at home Tuesday night. Salem was undefeated in WLAA play and the Hawks and Raiders each had one loss along with Northville.

Colts varsity whips Clarkston

Colts' Varsity Whips Clarkston in Season Finale

The Northville-Novi Colts' Varsity (12- and 13-year-olds) finished the season with a huge win over the Clarkston Chiefs, 49-6, last Sunday at Northville High School. The Colts' Varsity finished with their season with a 4-4 record in the Suburban Youth Football Confer-

"It was a great way to finish the season for our Varsity," said Bob Baum, commissioner of the Northville-Novi Colts. "We really prepared our kids to go forward into their school program next year.

"I believe we accomplished our goals for this season," Baum added. We learned many significant football and cheerleading skills. We also learned the importance of playing together as a team.

I feel very confident that the Colts will continue to become a stronger program in the future."

The Varsity dominated the entire game against Clarkston, scoring 22 points in the first quarter and adding 19 more in the second quarter to jump out to an insurmountable 41-0 halftime lead that they never relinquished.

Anthony Sabo, who scored three touchdowns on the day, opened the scoring with the first eight points by sacking the Clarkston quarterback for a safety and then scoring on the ensuing kickoff when Kevin George lateraled back to Sabo, who ran 55 yards. Sabo added another first-quarter touchdown on a 40yard scamper.

Sean Costello also scored in the first quarter on a 15-yard run. Joe Prain capped off the 22-point quarter with an extra-point kick.

In the second quarter, Brandon Hatcher made the score 28-0 with a 10-yard touchdown run. Josh Woods galloped 30 yards for a score, and his brother, Jarrell Woods, added a 60-yard touchdown run - immediately after one of his touchdown runs was called back because of a penalty. Prain added an extra-point run to make the score 41-0 at halftime. Everyone saw action in the second half as coach Chuck Sislo shuffled in players on both offense and defense. Sabo scored his third touchdown in the third quarter. Alex Baum and Bill Steele finished off the scoring when they combined to sack the Chiefs for a safe-

Defensively, the Colts were outstanding thanks to the play of Jeff Freers, Chris Polis, Chas Maul, and Patrick Tierney.

The Colts' Junior Varsity and Freshmen teams finished their seasons with disappointing losses to Clarkston.

The Express narrowly slipped by Livonia 1-0 as Rachel Reuter scored the team's only goal. Sharing in the shutout were goalies Julliane Schulz and Andrea Mohele.

The team topped Plymouth #2 by the score of 2-0 on goals by Lisa Vershave and Alicia Watts. Again, Schulz and Mohele shared the shutout.

Five different players scored goals in the United's 5-0 win over Farmington last week. Heather Cox. Kelly Lockman. Brynn Smetana. Jessica Reuter and Kendra Rose all found the net and Jill Paladino was the

The United beat the Stompers 2-1 on a pair of goals by Smetana. Lauryn Brennan was the team's MVP.

In the first of two Northville Cup games, the United duplicated their 2-1 win over the Stompers, getting a pair of goals from Sara Dolmetsch. Liz Fields was the MVP.

The Express tied South Lyon 1-1. Allison Foerg scored the only goal for the Express, and Schulz and Mohele were the team's goalies. Jenna Hansen scored a pair of goals and Jean Hanley and Jaclyn Kelly each added one in a 4-1 Stompers win over Farmington.

Amy Cauzillo scored the Rockers only goal against South Lyon, but it was enough to lift her team to a 1-0 win. Jessica Piippo and Laura Randall were the team's MVPs.

Despite the MVP efforts of Kristin Delaney and Erica Danaj, the Arsenal couldn't find the net in a 3-0 loss to South Lyon last Sunday.

Shannon Farris scored a pair of goals and Kathryn Kinville, Laura Kempa and Marie Ambler each added one in the Lightning's 5-0 win over Farmington. Farris and Mary Schubert were the game's MVPs. Katie Beger's goal lifted the United to a 1-0 win over Novi #2. Carly it looks a lot like this last year's Novi squad. Young, with almost a full year of experience behind it. Northville is looking to match the Wildcat's 5-4 record of a year ago.

In my estimation, the game will be won at the line of scrimmage. Novi's got the experience, but Northville's got a little more size.

Northville coach Darrel Schumacher said after last week's 33-0 win over Central that his team played its first full-game of the season. He's been concerned about his young offensive and defensive lines all year long, but had no worries against the Vikings.

Can Northville's defense pressure Novi quarterback Mitch Maier enough to make him make quick decisions? Will it be able to force a few turnovers? If the answer is yes to both of those questions, then Northville has a legitimate chance to win this ball game.

But if Novi controls the line, opens up holes for their option attack and Maler and Scott Minke patrol the secondary like they have and Novi's unheralded defensive front seven can stop the surging Brandon Langston, Novi will win this ballgame.

Here's a few quick facts about the ball-

McDONALD FORD SALUTES NORTHVILLE ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Kerry Woolfall - Junior

The second time this season that Woolfall has been out athlete of the week. But she deserves it.

The junior displayed the same excellence that won her a state title at three singles two years ago.

Brandon Langston - Junior

Another repeat performer, Langston is nearing the school record for touchdowns scored. He has 15 with one game to play and trails just Ron Rice, who set the mark with 16 touchdowns in 1963.

Langston scored four times and rushed for 205 yards in a 33:0 Northville romp over Walled Lake Cenral last Friday night.

Kickers get revenge game

If it were not for a lack of scoring this season, the Northville soccer team would be looking at a division championship, at least

Instead, the team finds itself in third place in its own division, thanks to losses to division winner Churchill (3-2) and runnerup Canton (1-0). Northville dominated both games, but couldn't score when it needed to.

"We are possessing and dominating the ball, but not executing on offense," Northville coach Henry Klimes said. "You can outplay anyone you want, but you still have to put the ball in the net."

Monday night the team faced Farmington in the Western Lakes crossover, and fell to the Falcons 1-0. Jeff Frederick scored the game's only goal to lead Farmington. No other details of the game were available at press time.

On Oct. 13, the team was able to muster up some offense, collecting four goals en route to a 4-0 win over Farmington Hills Harrison. The game was the last of the home season and it was senior night at Northville High School.

DISTRICT SET

With the regular season a distant memory already. Northville found out it will be hosting Churchill in the district opener Monday night at NHS. The winner of that game will play at Franklin on Wednesday. The other half of the draw has Stevenson and the University of Detroit-Jesuit matching up in the first round and the winner taking on Detroit Catholic Central in the semis.

The championship game will be played a week from Saturday at the University of

Without its best runner in the lineup and no others running personal best times, Northville strugged to a 16th-place finish at the Gabriel Richard Invitational last Saturday at Buhr Park.

Alyson Flohr is still recovering from a isolated and had to miss the invite. That meant the Mustangs were going to score and didditional 70-90 points and finish a bit way have n from where they may have mining number one for Northville was inne Blair, who finished 69th overall in a ne of 22 minutes, 43 seconds. Teammate Allison Loeffler was not fair behind, finishing 74th in 22:55, Kelly Driscoll was 79th overall 23:071 and Laura Elsesser (84th in 23:16) the team's sixth and seventh runners.

N'VILLE LOSES TWO

With both Flohr and Blair missing this meet because of injuries and sicknesses, the Mustangs had little chance in this tri meet with Western and Canton. Northville lost to Canton 15-46 and 17-42 to the Warriors.

Loeffler was the top Mustang runner finIshing the tough Willis Park course in 23:10.

Christy Delano was fourth at 24:20 and

Conway shoots 87 at state

Northville junior Dean Conway advanced to the state golf tournament last Friday, but did not advance past the first day of competition and into Saturday's finals. Conway fired an 87, which was eight strokes above the cut. The state finals were held at El Dorado golf course in Mason last Friday and Saturday.

"It was a good learning experience for him," Northville coach Brad Stedry said. 'I didn't get a chance to see him play, because they had us coaches doing different things on the course." Northville missed advancing as a team by placing fourth at the regional tournament, four strokes behind Milford. Conway had advanced by shooting a 79.

Silent killer may lurk inside you

Don't become a victim of the "silent epidemic": Find out today if you have hepatitis C. or learn to avoid it.

You may not know it, but a silent killer may lurk inside your body. And if you don't find and treat it, you may wind up dead. Even if you don't have it yet, you could be at risk and not even

It sounds too dramatic, but it's true: the virus known as hepatitis C is one of the nation's newest and most frightening health threats. infecting the bodies of 4 million Americans, killing 10,000 every year and causing more than half of the liver failures that lead to transplants. Still, most people who have it or might someday catch it don't suspect a thing.

Scientists at the University of Michigan and elsewhere are hard at work on a vaccine, and treatments can keep hepatitis C from shutting down the livers of a sizable number of those it infects. But says U-M professor of gastroenterology Dr. Fred Askari, the most important weapons against the virus are awareness and "It is estimated that as many as nine out of ten people who are infected with hepatitis C may be unaware that they harbor the infection," said Askari, who authored an authoritative guide on the disease. Many infections don't cause symptoms, or the symptoms are mistaken for something else, he said, until it's too late.

Within a decade, if no new treatments are found, the death rate from hepatitis C may actually eclipse the number of deaths caused by AIDS or breast cancer.

The rapid spread of hepatitis C is an impressive feat for a virus that was only identified ten years ago. Even more impressive is the battle that medical scientists are waging against it.

Already, new treatments can clear the virus from the blood and livers of 20 percent to 40 percent of patients. Tests have been developed to screen the nation's blood supply, though many infections can be traced back to blood transfusions made before screening began in 1992. Most of the disease's risk factors have been deduced by studying those who are infected, though the source of a full 20 percent of hepatitis C cases is unknown.

The news for prevention and treatment may be encouraging, but Askari stresses that there are still ways to be exposed to hepatitis C mostly through tainted blood. Risk factors

 Blood transfusion or use of blood products such as clotting factors before 1992;

· Having been tattooed; · Having ear or body plercings done:

· Sharing razor blades:

· Promiscuous unprotected sexual activity:

Intravenous drug use, even just one time;

· Intranasal cocaine use.

Even having a manicure or pedicure may carry some risk, experts speculate, if the instruments used aren't well sterilized. "Any form of blood that's infected with hepatitis C and comes into contact with someone else's blood is an opportunity for spreading the infection." Askari

Anyone who faces one or more of these risk factors should have their blood screened for hepatitis C immediately, says Askari. Even if you don't meet any of these criteria, you may still be among those who unknowingly caught the virus another way, and may still wish to be tested.

It's also important to get screened even if you don't think you have any symptoms, he stresses. Hepatitis C's warning signs are often vague, and don't appear in everyone who carries the virus. However, symptoms do include: fatigue. joint aches, muscle aches, flu-like symptoms, sweats, and bloating.

If you do find out you have hepatitis C. there are several options to treat the disease. Injections of interferon, which boosts the immune system, can be combined with the antiviral drug ribaviran to put many patients into remission. More treatments are on the way.

The U-M is taking part in a clinical trial to compare two hepatitis C treatments for patients who have just begun treatment, and soon will become one of only nine centers studying a treatment for chronic hepatitis C that does not respond to other theraples. For information on either trial, prospective patients can call 1-800-395-6431. To make an appointment at the U-M to be tested or treated for hepatitis C, call 1-888-229-7408.

One of the greatest worries with the hepatitis C "silent epidemic," Askari says, is that there won't be enough donor livers to replace the inflamed, scarred, cirrhosis-damaged organs of the disease's carriers.

Though not everyone who has the virus in their body will experience liver failure and need a transplant, the number is large enough that it may make the existing shortage of donor organs even worse, Askari says. "Those of us who are not infected should sign our donor cards and help increase the number of organs available to all who need them," he adds.

Research continues on how best to prevent hepatitis C infection and liver problems that come from it. At the U-M, this includes work on how best to vaccinate against the virus, which many change from year to year like influenza. Askari and others at the U-M are studying substances called adjuvants, which could be administered along with a vaccine to help the immune

For now. Askari says, the best defense is to insist on sterile equipment for manicures, pedicures, shaving and tattooing, and to avoid contact with the blood or personal items of others. The nation's current blood supply, however, can be trusted because of the screening process now

REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

HOW TO

Blood, sweat, & tiles

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. We are expanding our home by adding a new kitchen and family area. The subfloor is plywood. I plan on installing ceramic tile flooring myself. Can I install the tile directly over the plywood? What is the best type of adhesive for laying tile on plywood?

A. Although it has long been an accepted practice to glue tile to plywood subflooring, you might consider some enhancements to this type of subflooring that will assure better durability for your new tile floor. In some cases, tile bility for your new the noor. In some cases, the bonded to plywood will tend to form cracks in the grout lines and even pop loose.

The problem is caused by the flexibility of the wood - and wood's sensitivity to moisture. Wood floors tend to flex and bend under weight. But tile doesn't flex because it is rock hard. Grout, which is essentially cement, also hardens. Together the tile and grout form an inflexible sheet on top of a more flexible wood subfloor.

To assure a strong subflooring that won't flex. a special layer of plywood at least 3/8-inch thick. called underlayment, should be installed over a 3/4-inch plywood subflooring. A better choice than plywood underlayment would be to use cement backer board. 5/16-inch thick, bonded to at least 3/4-inch plywood subflooring.

Cement board consists of a layered concrete bond between two fiberglass mats. It comes in 30-by-60-inch sheets, and though heavy, it is easy to cut by scoring with a utility knife. Its advantage over a plywood underlayment is the protection to moisture it provides. It is the recommended underlayment for kitchens and bathrooms. However, wood is sensitive to moisture in other areas of your home. It expands and contracts according to weather conditions and the relative humidity. Tile and grout don't expand and contract with moisture changes.

in areas where humidity is high and moisture penetrates the wood, you can easily have problems with cracking grout and popping tiles that are installed over a wood base. Cement backer board will help prevent this. It acts as a buffer, allowing the wood base to move with changing moisture conditions, while the tile remains stationary. Bonding the cement board to the wood also helps stiffen the floor, providing a better bonding surface for a latex-cement

A solid foundation is important no matter what underlayment you use. To assure this. your floor joists should be 16 inches on center. Anything wider will require additional reinforcement, and it would be best to consult a tile-installation professional. Also, if the floor you are tiling is more than 24 feet long, you'll need to put special expansion joints in it to keep the grout from cracking due to floor move-ment. Often, this is best left to professionals. Consult your tile dealer.

There are two basic types of adhesives that professional tile setters use. One, the organic type, is a thick glue that you buy premixed in cans or tubs and trowel on. The other is a latex-cement mortar that you buy in powdered form and mix yourself. Although both work and when you're bonding tile to cement backer board. It is not as easy to use as the premixed adhesives, but it is the product I would recom-

It's important to read and follow manufacturer's directions concerning the best use for that particular adhesive as well as directions for mixing, application and drying time. Drying time is critical. Some premixed adhesives dry very slowly. It causes major problems if you grout the tiles before the adhesive has dried properly. And walking on tile too soon can ruin

g. I have a common problem with continual mildew in the grout in the bathroom and shower. I have used various treatments over the years. Nothing seems to work. I recently had the entire shower regrouted and a fan put in the ceiling because our bathroom has a lot of moisture with nowhere to go after showers. The problem has returned. Do you have any suggestions for a solution?

A. You have taken all of the appropriate steps to combat this problem. I often recommend cleaning with a thick paste of scouring powder and hot water left on the stained areas for five to 10 minutes, combined with household bleach if necessary, or using undiluted bleach left on the grout for a least five minutes prior to rinsing with clear water. Installation of a ventilating fan is useful in flushing out the moisture and helping the bathroom dry faster. If you cut off the moisture supply, mildew can't

Perhaps the fan you installed is not efficient enough for the task. The one step you haven't mentioned taking is application of a sealer on the grout lines. A quality sealer will help reduce mildew in showers and other damp areas by preventing water from collecting behind the tiles and in the grout itself. Good sealers, though somewhat expensive, will last for years. I have previously recommended using one of the silicone sealers.

Sealer is best applied soon after new grout has dried, before stains can penetrate the porous surface. Apply this type of scaler carefully, avoiding the surface of the tile. A small artist's brush works well. Any excess scaler that gets on the tile surface should be wiped off immediately. Two coats of sealer can provide pre-qualifying for a mortgage, and finding a broker and communicating with that broker.

The survey was conducted by the California Association of Realtors. Its survey and study focused on consumers and brokers in its state, but the findings are similar to national reports. It contained some interesting information that indicates certain trends emerging in the real estate mar-

The survey found that the typical home sold this year was on the market for four weeks - half the eight-week period of two years ago and the shortest time on the market since 1989. And, perhaps even more significantly, the median home price this year is closer to the initial asking price than any other time on record. The median difference is only 3.2 percent, down from 3.5 percent just a year ago.

We're clearly in the midst of a strong seller's market in most areas throughout the country. The survey also noted that buyers now view their residential real estate purchase as a prudent investment as well as a place to live.

"Although the stock market played less of a role in the decision to purchase a home than earlier this year. the survey found that buyers using the Internet were much more likely to use the sale of stock for their down payment (7.6 percent), said Leslie Appleton-Young, the association's chief economist.

Specifically, the role of the stock market in home buyers' and sellers' decisions was apparent in 6.6 percent of home-purchase transactions, down a bit from 10.2 percent earlier this

Internet buyers indicated the stock market played a more significant role in their decision to purchase a home. Also, Internet buyers are paying a final sales price that is, on average, $20,500 higher than the final price paid by all homebuyers.

As for the profile of today's average homebuyer, the survey showed that 59 percent are married, 30 percent are single, and nearly 10 percent are composed of two or more related or unrelated individuals. About 10 percent of buyers paid cash for their home purchase.

Repeat homebuyers comprise about 57 percent of all home purchasers.

The proportion of first-time buyers is 43 percent. Fixed-rate mortgage loans comprised 84 percent of mortgages issued in recent months.

To survive in a highly competitive environment, real estate brokers must quickly adapt to new trends and consumer demands in the marketplace. The National Association of Realtors recently completed a survey of its members, and discovered the following:

• In spite of the continuing trend of consolidation in the real estate industry, the typical real estate firm has remained a single-office operation. About 83 percent of all firms are oneoffice operations. The mom-and-pop shops are still alive and healthy.

• The typical real estate firm has four sales agents. Three out of five firms have five or fewer agents. Only 4 percent of firms have more than 50 sales agents.

· Firms that specialize in residential brokerage tend to be larger than firms involved in other specialties. The typical residential brokerage has five agents, while other real estate brokerages and firms that are not brokerages (e.g., those involved with mortgage services, property management, etc.) have a median of two sales agents.

Even though most real estate firms are small, they tend to be affiliated with larger firms or franchise organizations. Most of these smaller firms are affiliated with a firm of at least 20 sales agents. Some of the larger organizations have hundreds or even thousands of agents.

The smaller firms benefit from affiliating with a large organization by gaining access to many resources they would not otherwise have. They can also be plugged-in to an extensive referral system, and share added visibility from major advertising programs.

About 22 percent of firms are now affiliated with a franchise organization. That jumps to 27 percent for residential brokerage firms. Larger firms are more likely to be affiliated with franchises. More than half of those firms with at least 11 agents are affiliated with franchises compared to just 14 percent of firms with 10 or fewer agents.

The survey report concluded: 'It's difficult to define the typical real estate firm. A firm may be a single-office operation with a sales force of one agent specializing in commercial real estate. or a firm with hundreds of offices, thousands of salespeople, specializing in residential brokerage.

Q. So much land has been developed into commercial projects in recent years, I'm wondering if we are in danger of running out of open spaces. What do you think?

Entertaining new ideas for the kitchen

By Rose Bennett Gilbert COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

G. I'm the kind of cook who makes reservations, not dinner. We do spend a lot of time in the kitchen, however, because it and the dining table are all in our great room.

My point is, I'd like to make the kitchen a little more formal-looking, since we do entertain a lot.

A. Several suggestions hop to mind. First, remember that your cabinets are the furniture of your kitchen. The style and materials you choose set its moreformal - or less-formal - attitude.

For example, dark polished woods with classic-style doors and dressy hardware fall into the first category. So may some painted cabinets (think glossy enamel and white or dark dramatic colors) and many contemporary-style cabinets (the sleeker, the more formal).

On the less-formal side, think pine, plank and painted cabinets with period hardwood, such as wrought-iron hinges. The cabinets call the shots, and the rest of your kitchen decor follows suit.

DECORATING

More formal appointments include granite and ceramic-tile countertops, tile or hardwood floors, dressy light fixtures and important accessories.

Check out the more-formal charms of the kitchen we show here. It's easy to forget that you're sitting next to the kitchen sink when the scene is set so handsomely with gleaming green cabinets and a display of fine china (a smart role for cabinets in a noncooking kitchen). The lighted shelves not only show off the collection, but also shed a warm glow over the table at dining time.

Even the window treatment underscores the formal attitude: Hung over Hunter-Douglas classic horizontal blinds, the whimsical swag is made of fine-link chain, trimmed with blue glass beads.

G. The ceiling in our bedroom is pretty low, just over 8 1/2 feet high. We want to add a crown molding and chair rail to give the room some interest - there were no trim pieces anywhere in the house - but I'm afraid it will make the ceiling look even lower.

A. You can have your traditional charm and your illusion, too, if you ply a little magic with brush and paint. Chicago interior designer Daniel DuBay counsels that how you paint matters more than the color you paint: If you want to raise the ceiling, visually speaking, paint your crown molding to match the color of the wall. But where you want to lower the ceiling to cozier levels, extend its color on down over the crown molding.

Even where the color difference is subtle, between, say, walls of cream and a ceiling of white, the eye will draw its own conclusions about where one ends and the other begins. It may be a matter of mere inches, but oh, what those few inches can do.

Q. Although my living room is more contemporary in style, I hope you can suggest a piece that would work well on the 72-inch mirror-front buffet I have under the window. I would like it to be an important piece because when you enter the area that is what you focus your eye on.

A. Lucky you, to have many happy hours of shopping ahead in search of the perfect, prominent accent piece. My best advice: You'll know it when you see it. Meanwhile, a few ideas:

 For this piece to be important, it must make an instant, personal statement about you, your taste and interests.

Consider something traditional, old, even rough or rusty in counterpoint to the sleekness of your mirrored buffet.
Consider more than one important

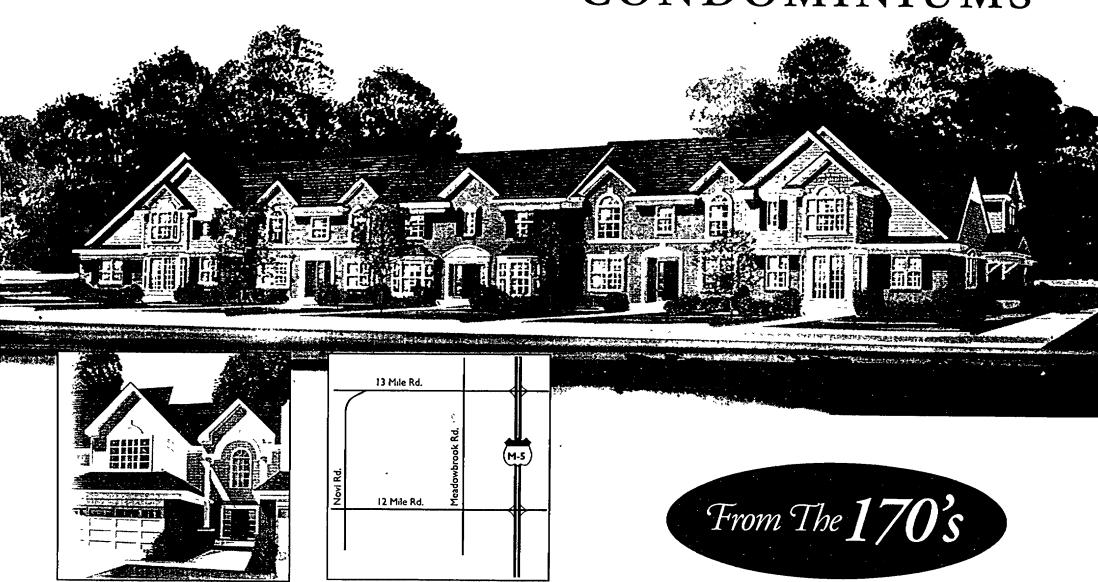

Consider more than one important accent piece - a pair of interesting lamps, for example, or a tightly composed trio of stone urns filled with dried flowers.

NO BLUEPRINT? NO SALE!

Image trying to build a new home without a blueprint. When completed, if ever, the home is likely to represent somewhat less than an architect's dream. Selling your home requires a blueprint too, something called a marketing plan.

Like a builder's blueprint, the marketing plan includes: specifications (an in-depth analysis of your homes positive qualities, 2) a list of talented tradespeople (identification of prospective buyers), a budgeted cost (determination of a fair market price), and a schedule for completion (a timeline for implementing each step in the plan). Your reference for implementing each step in the plan). Your sales representative knows the drill, and will make certain each step is carried out correctly.

The initial steps include a careful evaluation of the home's condition, followed by a market analysis to determine the most likely sale price range. Once the home is ready to show, an agent's "open house" can quickly attract showings by other area agents working with their way list of mobiliarial borns house.

own list of motivated home buyers.

Advertising and promotional activates soon follow, with each targeted to attract the most likely buyers. These activates may include newspaper and magazine ads, open house events, mailing campaigns, and worldwide exposure of the home via the internet.

Qualification of buyers to determine their ability to complete the purchase falls in the category of "quality control" Follow up by the agent ursures a completed transaction with an on-time moving day

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 248.348.1500 or E-Mail: john@magic-marker.com.

Wixom construction company one of area's top businesses

By JASON SCHMITT Staff Writer

Both Paul Hatcher and Paul Oliver must have done something

You don't make Crain's *40 Under 40° list by sitting still and being complacent. Hatcher and Oliver have been with the movers and shakers over the last four years and have built a very successful construction company because because of it.

The partners made the list for what they've done with their company, Oliver/Hatcher Construction and Development, Inc. out of Wixom, Hatcher, 37, and Oliver, 39, started their business in 1995, and have built more than five million square feet of warehouse and 180,000 square feet of office facilities. Last year alone, they built six out of every 10 square feet of warehouse distribution center construction in the tri-county area.

To be eligible for Crain's list. business people must demonstrate an impressive blend of initiative. drive, scope of achievement, potential for future leadership and community involvement. Both made the list, which was selected from more than 200 nominees.

Still a small-family sized operation. Oliver/Hatcher has just 20 employees and deal with a great amount of sub-contractors. Novi resident Sandi Page was the first employee hired at the company and is currently the office managits construction of warehouses, and that's how the company got started four years ago. Within six months of opening up, it won a bid with New York City-based Ashley Capital, which is still its primary client to this day. The large company put its trust in Oliver and Hatcher, and the two delivered in the form of a 500,000 square-foot building in metro Detroit.

They really stuck their necks out," Oliver said in the business weekly. "We delivered on their leap of faith."

Since then the company has built several other projects for Ashley, including one of their current projects, the Livonia Corporate Center. Part of the Millennium Park project on the site of the former Detroit Race Course at Interstate 96 and Middlebelt Road, it is one of the largest projects in Michigan, featuring four buildings, two of which are 760.00 square feet

Wixom-based company a top-40 success story

"You have to go into it believing you can do it." Hatcher said. "Or else it wouldn't work out. We went into it believing we could do it and anticipated a certain amount of success.

Recently the company received ISO 9001 certification, one of only 20 construction companies nationwide to receive the industries most comprehensive and distinguished accreditation. Hatcher said Oliver/Hatcher was among the youngest companies on the short list, which included four other Detroit-based companies.

"When we started this certification process about 18 months ago. there were only six or seven companies which were certified," he said. "Four of them were from Detroit and were large companies. and here we were, a young company among them.

The president said the company's goal is to have managed growth.

*We've got some real quality people that work for us, and we will grow as time goes on," he said. For more information about Oliver/Hatcher Construction.

Dependency exemptions reduce taxes Money Management

Taxpayers typically know that they can take dependency exemptions for their children, but too often exemptions are needlessly lost because many people are unfamiliar with the laws governing this tax break. Generally, if you are providing more than half the support of a parent or other relative. you may be entitled to an additional dependency exemption as long as that dependent does not file a joint return with his or her spouse. That, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Dependency exemptions reduce your taxable income. For 1998, each exemption reduces your taxable income by $2,700. You usually can claim exemptions for yourself, your spouse and each person you claim as a qualified dependent. You may, however, lose all or part of the benefit of your exemptions if you have a high taxable

The phase-out amount depends on your filing status. Exemptions are phased out if adjusted gross income in 1998 exceeds $124,500 for single filers, $186,800 for tax-payers filing jointly, and $155,650 for heads of household. The phaseout affects all exemptions that can be claimed on a return.

The Michigan Association of CPAs offers the following strategies for making the most of your dependency exemptions:

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

If your baby was born on Dec. 31, 1998, you can claim a full year exemption for that child. Similarly, you can claim a full year's exemption for a dependent who dies at any time during the year, as long as the dependency tests are met.

FREE ADVERTISING? Free Items! Check Out the Absolutely Free Column in the Green Sheet

You forfeit the exemption for a deceased spouse if you remarry during the year.

For purposes of qualifying for the dependency exemption, support includes food, lodging, educa-tion, medical and dental care, transportation, recreation, clothing and laundry, phone bills and similar necessities.

A WHOLE IS BETTER THAN TWO

Unless you specifically designate one parent asithe recipient of your support, the IRS routinely allocates your contribution equally between your mother and father. If you furnish less than half of your parents' total support, try provid-ing support for only one of them the one with less income. By making out checks only to that parent. you may become eligible to claim at least one parent as a dependent.

A PENNÝ SAVED, AN EXEMP-TION EARNED

In determining how much a potential dependent contributes to his or her support, you should only count money actually spent money available for support. If you're providing close to half of someone's support, you might suggest that the person save more and you make additional support payments to meet the support test.

IT'S NOT OVER UNTIL IT'S OVER

To protect your dependency exemption for someone, for whom you provide support, add up the numbers well before the end of the year. If, for example, you discover that you're coming up short by a few hundred dollars, you may be able to preserve your exemption by spending — before Dec. 31— an additional sum on items that qualify as support.

SHARE AND SHARE ALIKE

When two or more persons combine to provide support for a dependent person, and not one of them provides more than half of that person's support, they can agree among themselves to let one of them take the exemption. This strategy allows anyone who contributes more than 10 percent of the support to claim the dependency exemption as long as greater than half the support was con-tributed by persons who, except for the support test, would be entitled to claim the supported individual as a dependent. Each year, you can decide who gets the dependency exemption. The others waive their claim to the exemption by signing Form 2120.

The person claiming the exemption

return.

Usually a divorced or separated parent who has custody of a child for the greater portion of the year is entitled to claim the dependency exemption for the child. This is the case whether or not that parent actually provided more than half of the child's total annual support. If the non-custodial parent is in a higher tax bracket and so could benefit more, the two parents can work out an arrangement to transfer the exemption. To do this, the custodial parent must sign Form 8332 releasing the exemption to the non-custodial parent who attaches this form to his or her tax return for each year the exemption is released.

What would happen if Northville great Steve Juday went up against Novi defensive star Ron Buck? Or what if the Wildcat's Jim Van Wagner went head-to-head with Mustang defensive stud Tony Briningstool?

No one knows, but one could only think what kind of game we'd have if the best of all time from Northville and Novi went head to head in an all-time game of the century. Matching up the best players from each school, the Northville Record and Novi News presents each high school's best.

THE BATTLE OF THE MILLENNIUM

Welcome to the best ever

Welcome to HomeTown Newspaper's all-time only include more recent players on our team. If any-Northville and Novi football team special tab section.

Jason Schmitt

This was a project I concocted about four months ago, but never actually got started on until early September. It's amazing how fast the time went, but we've finally made our selections of who's the best of the best to ever play high school football at Northville and Novi High Schools.

Both of these schools have their own all-time teams, but we decided to combine them into one special section because of the close proximity of the two schools and the heated rivalry between them on the playing field. There's no other Novi on Northville's schedule, and there's no other Northville on Novi's

The selection processes and makeup of each team is slightly different. Because Northville High School football has an older tradition, its team is slightly bigger than Novi's. The Northville squad was selected from Northville teams after 1950. Because the records aren't very detailed and our sources were scarce before that time, we decided it would be fair to one has information on pre-1950 Northville football teams, please contact me.

The selection process for the Mustang squad was long and tedious. Because of this, I called upon the historical expertise of Phil Jerome, HomeTown Newspaper's executive editor, for help. He spent many hours in the very chair I sit in today, and with all his Northville contacts, he was a tremendous partner in this project.

Together we devised an expert panel of former Northville football coaches and players to help us select the nominees for the team. From there we presented the master list back to the coaches, who then narrowed their lists down to a select group of final-

About two weeks ago several members of our panel joined both Phil and I at Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall in downtown Northville for a selection meeting. At that meeting, we were joined by Dave Longridge, Chuck Apap, Darrel Schumacher, Dennis Colligan, Dutch Vanlingen and Dave Jerome. After an hour for dinner and two hours of talking, the team was

The Novi team was a different story. I had done some research of Wildcat teams and came up with a list of players that I ran across. To that I added names from submissions from you readers. I took that list to John Osborne, who had already formed a list of his own. Together we compiled the best players in Novi history, John Osborne history.

At this point I'd like to thank all of those people who helped in the selection processes for this section. All of the coaches and players on our Northville panel; Dave Longridge, Dave Jerome, Chuck Apap, Darrel Schumacher, Dennis Colligan, Dutch VanIngen, Ron Horwath and Chuck Shonta. Thanks to Novi coach John Osborne for spending time with me in devising the Novi team, to athletic director John Fundukian and booster club members for helping us distribute this special section. To those who have submitted pictures or information about this project.

A big thanks must go to Bill McLaughlin, who researched each of Northville's last 49 teams and compiled all-league and all-area accomplishments and provided me with vital stats when needed.

We know there may be arguments that arise from these teams, but that's healthy. We want that, as long as the arguments are clean and fun.

I welcome all comments about this special section. Please let me know how we did.

Now sit back and enjoy a few memories from both the distant and recent past in this retrospective of football on both sides of the "Baseline."

The history of Northville football is on our panel

Here are the members of the panel which selected the All-Century Northville High School football team:

David Jerome

Selected to the All Wayne-Oakland League team as an offensive lineman at Northville in 1963, Jerome has been a regular observer of Mustang grid teams for more than 40 years — since he was a junior high school student, through his playing years, all the way up to the present. As a 165-pound sophomore, Jerome had earned a starting spot as an offensive guard on the great 1961 team until a broken arm prior to the season sent him to the sidelines.

Dutch VanIngen

VanIngen is another panel member with more than 40 years experience observing Mustang grid fortunes. VanIngen was a hard-nosed halfback at Hope College where he developed a lifelong friendship with quarterback Ron Schipper. When Schipper took over the reins of the Northville grid program in 1957, VanIngen was his trusted assistant. Together the two men built some of the greatest teams and players in Northville history as they developed one of the finest programs in the state.

Ron Horwath

When Ron Schipper left Northville after the 1959 season to pursue a coaching career that would ultimately take him to Central Iowa College, the task of guiding Mustang football fortunes was passed on to Horwath. It was an excellent choice as Horwath continued the tradition of outstanding football teams. A former defensive back with the Detroit Lions, it was Horwath who coached the great undefeated 1961 team headed by quarterback Steve Juday.

Chuck Apap

Apap came to Northville along with Chuck Shonta to revive a struggling program and has been considerably more than a casual observer of Mustang football teams ever since. After working as an assistant with Shonta for several years, Apap fulfilled his desire to over the Walled Lake Western team in the late 1970s. Apap built the Western program into one of the best in the state and winning the MHSAA Class A state championship in 1996. Apap brings a unique perspective to the panel. In addition to have been a Northville coach, he also has coached against the Mustangs for the past 19 years.

Dennis Colligan

Although his kids played sports at Novi High School, Colligan is a Mustang at heart. He is the current assistant principal at Northville High School and was the athletic director after spending eight years as head coach at Northville from 1978-85.

His teams posted a 38-32 record in his time there, and put together back-to-back 7-2 seasons in 1983 and 1984. Six of the players he coached are on the all-time Northville team.

Darrel Schumacher

The longest tenured coach in Northville history, Schumacher has been the head skipper for the past 13 seasons. He has coached some of the best players to come through NHS, including quarterback Ryan Huzjak in 1991.

His teams have won 60 games since he took over the program from Colligan in 1986. He started coaching at Northville in the mid-70s under then head coach Chuck Shonta. If there's anything to know and the second s

become a head coach when he took about the last 25 years of Mustang football, coach Schu's your man.

Dave Longridge

Longridge was an assistant football coach under Ron Horwath from 1960-65. He saw many of the greats in his time as a coach, and many more since. A Northville resident, Longridge regularly keeps up with Mustang football and maintains a close friendship with Horwath.

He was also the boy's basketball coach throughout the 60s and knows many of Northville's greatest athletes. In his short stay as an assistant with the football team, Longridge saw 11 of our all-time players run up and down the field.

Chuck Shonta

The toughest guy on our selection panel, Shonta coached the Mustangs from 1971-77. He took over a program which had posted a 4-12 record record the previous two years and turned it into a squad that was 14-4 his last two years at the school.

A former American Football League all-pro with the Boston Patriots in the 1960s, Shonta's 1974 team was among the best ever at Northville High School. It's record of 7-2 was good, but it's defense allowed just two touchdowns and 23 points in nine games, posting six shutouts. It's two losses were by a combined four points.

In the seven seasons Shonta led the Mustangs, they were 34-26-1 and produced 10 all-time selections.

A coach for all ages

Novi coach John Osborne is Novi football, or at least the only coach the school has known

By DAN KITTLE Special Writer

He sits in a back room of Novi High School, with his arms folded and a pensive look on his still youthful face.

When asked a question relating to a past Novi football squad, head coach John Osborne launches into a long, detailed, vivid story that takes the listener back in time and makes him feel as though he's pacing the sidelines with the man himself, under the lights on a Friday night, hearing the roar of the crowd and the smack of the pads and helmets, getting so absorbed in the game that everything else on earth becomes almost non-existent for 48 minutes.

He's been doing this for 33 long, illustrious seasons, and every year, he puts all he has into the Novi football program.

"Football is my passion," says Osborne. "It's my hobby. I don't have much else that I do. I'm not very handy at anything, so my hobby is pretty much football."

He's had some good seasons, some great seasons, and some mediocre-at-best years, but every year, he comes back for more with a renewed confidence and sense of hope. He approaches every fall football season with a great amount of passion, pouring his heart and soul into his program, and his players often reflect that on the field. Winning or losing, his players always give everything they have, leaving it all on the field every Friday night, much like their enthusiastic coach.

"I've never had a coach care about his kids the way he does," says Dave Tardella, a member of this year's varsity team. "He expects the best out of us."

Starting from scratch

Many, many years ago, back when the Super Bowl was just getting started and the Tigers were actually a good baseball team, Osborne gave Novi High School its first varsity football squad. In the fall of 1967, "Coach O," as he is affectionately dubbed, was named the first head coach of the Wild-

He still recalls those first few seasons as though they happened yesterday, reminiscing about how people were only charged to sit in the bleachers and how the first ever night game at Novi was played with the lights running on generators. "Things got kind of noisy," he says with a chuckle.

In 1971, he says, the program began to really take off. After implementing the wishbone offense ("It was kind of ahead of its time" he says), the team proceeded to lose merely one game in a threeyear span from '71 to '73. They won the league again in '74, then qualified for the state playoffs for the first time in 1976. Since there were only four qualifiers at the time, this was a big accomplishment for the Wildcats.

The 80s certainly had no shortage of dynamic Novi ball clubs as well. In '81, the team took its first KVC title, then won four-consecutive league championships from '86 through '89. In 1988, the team got on a roll in the playoffs, making their way to the state semifinals before falling to the eventual state champions, Traverse City.

The Wildcats actually had the ball at the TC two-yard line with 20 seconds to go in the game, but an extremely unfortunate fumble ended the team's shot at a prestigious state title. "It was very frustrating that we couldn't get it," says Osborne. "We played so well, but you play too many close games, and that's going to happen.

Coach Osborne (pointing) has compiled a 176-122 record in 32-plus seasons as Novi's head coach. He had back-to-back undefeated years in 1972-73.

You don't win all the close games, as we've been experiencing this year."

While speaking of the ill-fated loss to Traverse City, Osborne sneezes loudly. "I'm still having an allergic reaction," he says with another loud sneeze, "to that game." Always the comedian, he still jokes today about such a tough loss. That is one of the reasons he is so well admired and respected to this day.

The 90s weren't quite as good to Osborne. Although his teams seemed to consistently pound Northville, he was never blessed with the type of perennial state powers he coached in the two previous decades.

Over his many years on the sidelines, Osborne has seen the game change and evolve in many ways, but he says that the players remain basically the same. "They like the game, they work hard at it, and they do the best they can," he says. He adds, however, that today's players focus more on the game of football than in the past. "It's more demanding in terms of time than it used to be. Athletes aren't the three-sport stars that they used to be. Now they concentrate on only one or two of the sports and time is spent concentrating on these in the off-season. They make the game better and they make the players better."

He also claims that he has changed in many ways as well. "I'm more mellow than I used to be," he says. "I used to fly off the handle more, but now I've learned to relax and take it easy when necessary."

A great coach and a great man To this day, Osborne has the respect and admiration of his players, students, and fellow coaches. He pours everything he has into Novi football, and it shows when chatting with those he has worked with over the years. When asked about Osborne, players and coaches alike are quick to praise him.

"Everything I am as a coach I owe to coach Osborne," says Cole Rowekamp, an assistant with the varsity team since 1985. "Every success I've ever had as a coach I owe to him. You know, I was the head coach at Milford and I coached many years before I came over here, but I knew nothing about football until I started coaching for him."

He hasn't only affected the coaches with his knowledge, but with his character as well. His integrity and honor are looked up to by everyone.

"He's an outstanding man," continues Rowekamp. "I mean, he's trustworthy, he's loval, he's never done an unfair thing as long as I've known him."

Coach Kraig Caurdy praises Osborne, "My best way of explaining John would be that he's a man's man. He's a gentleman in every sense of the word. I've learned more from him, not just about coaching, but the way to handle kids, the way to enjoy things. I've never coached for a better person or worked for a better person in my life.

"I look forward to coaching with him for the rest of my years and as long as he wants to coach. I look at him as a father figure to me at

Jug or no jug, it's still a great rivalry

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

There's no other rivalry like it at the two schools. No other sport even compares to the emotional 48-minute war between the two teams.

The annual season-ending football bash between Northville and Novi has been ongoing since 1971 when the two teams strapped on their helmets and clashed for the first time. Novi won that first game, and the next two in a series that has seen its shares of streaks.

Northville has put together winning streaks of five, four and three games during the 28-year rivalry. Novi won the first three, and has since had streaks of four, two and two games. Only twice in its history has a team not won at least two years in a row. The 1992 Novi win (32-28) was sandwiched between six Mustang victories. And the 1997 Northville triumph (35-6) was the Mustang's lone win in the last four meetings between the two schools.

Any way you slice it, the two schools have a sort of love-hate relationship. They basically share many of the same amenities living so close to each other. They go to the same restaurants, malls and many of these football players started out their days playing for the Northville/Novi Colts football program.

But for many of those same reasons, they want to win this game very badly.

"I'd be lying to you if I didn't say that winning that game wasn't one of our goals at the beginning of the season," Northville assistant coach and 1985 grad John Briningstool said. "We lost to them my sophomore year (1982), and we were tired of losing. So we made it one of our goals to beat Novi. With the state playoffs not being a realistic goal back then, it's the last thing to play for in a season."

Both Briningstool and Northville athletic director Larry Taylor agree that this is a game for "bragging

"Many of these kids live next door to each other and have played in summer and travel leagues together. They have a comaraderie between thme and neither one wants to lose to each other," Taylor said.

Even though Novi has a few interconference rivals in South Lyon and Brighton, none can match what it has with Northville.

"We get a chance to play against kids that we've played with on teams since we were little, kids that we've been friends with, and now we're enemies." Novi senior

Despite the fact that the "Baseline Jug" was destroyed after Northville last won it in 1997, the game has not lost its luster. Northville leads the all-time series 15-13, but have lost three of the last four to Novi.

Sean McGuckin said.

"I don't think playoffs, wins or losses, none of that matters in this game," Northville mentor Darrel Schumacher said. "They're the people we know, and we want to show them we're better."

What many people don't know is that Novi players used to go to Northville and many of Northville's greatest players actually lived in Novi. In 1967 Novi had it's first varsity team ever, but had to wait until 1968 before it had its first senior class.

The two teams did not schedule each other the first four years, but finally met on Sept. 17, 1971 at Novi High School. Novi upset the larger Mustangs 22-7 and set the stage for some of the most memorable games in both school's histories.

Northville holds a 15-13 series lead, a series which hasn't always featured close games. Only eight times in 28 meetings has the game been decided by six points or less. And only once has it been a one-field goal game.

The excitement has come from the spoils that have been created by the underdogs. It seems like everytime a Novi team has a chance to make the playoffs or finish a season undefeated, Northville thwarted those attempts, and visa versa.

"There's been a lot of evidence where one team would be having a dominant season and the other one comes in and leaves with the victory," Briningstool said. "Your other eight games aren't an indication of how you'll play that game."

The 1989 Novi team came into the "Baseline Battle" with a nearperfect 7-1 record, only to lose 10-7 to a Northville team that sported a 2-6 record coming in.

The year before a 3-5 Northville squad topped a previously unbeaten, 8-0 Novi team that did go onto the state semifinals before losing to Traverse City.

The 1980 Northville team was an impressive 6-2 heading into the last game of the year. Novi handed the Mustangs a 21-6 loss.

A 32-28 loss to Novi in 1992 almost cost the team a shot at the state playoffs, but the team did sneak in at 6-3.

This year's game looks to be of similar fates, however with the new playoff system in effect. Novi's playoff berth should be solidified by the time Oct. 22 rolls around. Northville, however, is still reeling from the early-season poundings it took from Brighton, Harrison and Canton. But if history has anything to say about the outcome of the game, you can disregard the above statements.

Novi players and fans are confident that the famous "Baseline Jug" will be theirs once again.

"The senior class has never lost to Northville, and it won't happen this year." Novi captain and alltime player Mitch Maier said.

THE BATTLE OF THE MILLENNIUM

The 1968 Novi football team wasn't the best team in school history, but it may just have been the most important. The team had the first senior class in school history and finished 6-2, winning five straight during the season.

Why do you say this season may have been the most important in Novi history? I bet there were two eighth graders at each of these games watching their older brothers. And I bet their first names were Jimmy and Pat.

1968 Wildcats

1961 Mustangs Perhaps the best team ever assembled at Northville High School, the 1961 team featured a potent offensive attack and a big, bad defense. The 'Stangs outscored their opponents 263-26. Only the 1976 team allowed fewer points in a season (23). The team featured such all-time players as Steve Juday, Dick Bathey, Jack Dowd and Ron Rice. One of two undefeated teams at Northville (1958 was the other), it's also the last team to lose less than two games in a season.

times, as a mentor, as a colleague.

"I guess, for lack of better words, I adore the man. I would walk on water and go through fire for him. I really, really respect what he does and the way he treats people."

Sean McGuckin, a member of this year's team, explains, "He's more than just a coach. He's a friend. He's someone you can always count on."

Rowekamp adds, "I've played with him on many softball teams and I've dealt with him in many situations, and he's never done a dishonest or disloyal thing to anybody. The people he works for, he's loyal to, he never says a bad thing about him ... the guy is fabulous.

"The only person I respect more is my father. He means that much to me."

Long after Osborne is gone, he will be remembered with a great amount of reverence, awe, and adoration by all those who were fortunate enough to cross paths with the legend. He will be remembered for the way he paces the sidelines every Friday night, the way he celebrates after a big win as though he was a youthful high school teen once again for a few moments, and for the way he always screams until he's red in the face at the Homecoming Pep Assembly.

But most of all, he will be remembered for his character, his sense of humor, and the way he relates to kids. Not only does he have a passion for football, but a passion for life. He is always willing to offer a joke or light-hearted comment at the drop of a hat, and he cares about everyone around him with all his heart.

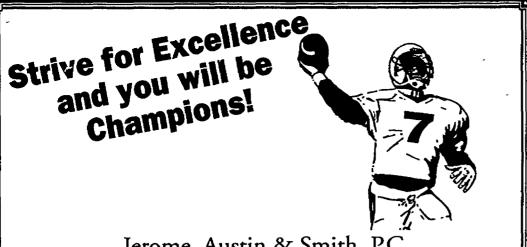

Long after Osborne is gone, he will be remembered with a great amount of reverence, awe, and adoration by all those who were fortunate enough to cross paths with the legend. He will be remembered for the way he paces the side-echoes off the ceiling of the stadium.

But even if he can't manage to take his team to the top, he will certainly find no shortage of admiration from everyone who knew him. In his long, illustrious coaching career, he has touched countless lives and left great impressions on thousands of students, coaches, and even fans. All those whose lives he touched will take a piece of the legend with them long after he says goodbye.

Juday, Huzjak head up all-time offense

By PHIL JEROME Executive Editor and JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

An 11-man offensive team. "No way, not for an All-Century team," said our panel of experts. "There have been just too many talented athletes to limit the offensive squad to a mere 11 players."

As a result, the All-Century offensive team has a total of 18 players — three quarterbacks, five running backs, three receivers and seven interior linemen.

One of the team's strong points is the three outstanding quarter-backs, headed by Steve Juday, arguably the best football player in Northville history. But Ryan Huzjak and Doug Marzonie were also talented QBs. And the rest of the team is equally adept — both at the skills positions and down in the trenches.

Here are the players our panel of experts selected to the All-Century offensive squad:

OFFENSE

Quarterbacks Steve Juday (1961)

"The best football player in the history of Northville High School," according our panel, Juday remains a legendary athlete in local annals almost 40 years after graduating. As a senior, Juday led the Mustangs to a perfect 9-0 season, winning All-State honors and becoming perhaps the most highly recruited player in the state. For the record, Juday threw for 1,112 yards and nine touchdowns as a senior, completing 77 of 126 attempts (61 percent) in addition to scoring 14 touchdowns on the ground. He also handled punting chores (41-yard average) and returned punts.

Defensively, he was a hard-nosed safety who led Northville in tackles while recovering six fumbles and snaring seven interceptions. "He was a safety, but there was nothing he loved better than hitting somebody at the line of scrimmage," remarked Panel Member Dutch VanIngen.

Juday's greatest ability, however, may have been his leadership. He was indeed the field general. Juday went on to Michigan State where he started at quarterback as a sophomore, junior and senior for Duffy Daugherty's great national championship teams of the mid-60s which featured Bubba Smith, Clint Jones, Gene Washington and George Washington. Despite the the presence of Huzjak and Marzonie, Juday was a "no brainer" selection as the All-Century quarterback.

Ryan Huzjak (1989-91)

Probably the best pure quarterback to play at Northville, Huzjak holds most of the school's career and single-season passing records, including passing yards, touchdowns, completions and attempts.

As a junior in 1990, Huzjak completed 127 of 226 attempts for 1,564 yards and 13 touchdowns, while rushing for 820 yards and nine more scores. The next season he hit 121 of 222 for 1,637 yards and 14 TDs. In all, Huzjak passed for 3,876 yards while leading his team to a 14-7 record and a semifinal appearance in the 1990 Class-A playoffs, the school's first-ever playoff experience.

He went on to become a fouryear starter at the University of Toledo.

Doug Marzonie (1977)

"Possibly the best quarterback Northville has ever had," crowed a Northville Record sportswriter who had never heard of Steve Juday. The 6-3 175-pound Marzonie was nonetheless a terrific passer and signal caller. As a senior, Marzonie completed 83 of 157 passes for 1,333 yards and seven touchdowns while rushing for 314 yards on 59 carries. He was named to the All-Western Six team as a defensive back. He weighed scholarship offers from Arizona, Pennsylvania, Eastern Michigan and Michigan

Briningstool, Winemaster among the best hitters

By PHIL JEROME Executive Editor and JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

If anybody could stop the talented All-Century offensive squad, the All-Century defensive unit would have the best chance.

Our panel selected 18 members to the defensive unit — nine linemen, four linebackers and four defensive backs.

Here's a look at the men our panelists selected for the All-Century defensive squad:

Gary Winemaster (1977)

Another of the "no-brainer" selections, Winemaster dominated opposing linemen with his massive size (6-3, 215). Described as "big, fast and rangy" by his coaches, Wine-master was one of three candidates for the all-area player of the year in 1975. He earned a spot on the first-team at defensive end that year and the year before and was all-Western Six at the same position in both his junior and senior seasons. Winemaster went on to play four years at Penn where he was a captain his senior season.

Jim Porterfield (1973)

Saw some varsity action as a sophomore, but really blossomed into a great defensive tackle in as a junior in 1972. Although the honors did not roll in that year, Porterfield went on to earn Sliger's (Northville Record) Player-of-the-Year award in 1973 when he was also a first-team Western Six selection. Known for his tremendous strength, Porterfield bench pressed 350 pounds. "During the eight years I was here, he was the best defensive players we had," said former Northville assistant and long-time Walled Lake Western head coach Chuck Apap.

Bob Wagenshutz (1956)

A menacing force at 235 pounds, Wagenshutz was a three-year starter on offense and defense for coaches Dick Kay and Ron Schipper. Despite his huge size for the times, he also was was the second fastest player on the team and was switched to the backfield on short-yardage situations ala "Refrigerator" Peny. He also handled punting responsibilities for the Mustangs. After being named to the All-State team in 1956, Wagenshutz went on to a fine career at offensive center for the University of Idaho.

Jay Sugrue (1960)

The Record did not carry much information about Sugrue, who played on Northville's great undefeated 1961 team. But the members of our panel were steadfast in their

The layout of Novi's all-time team is a bit different than that of Northville's. This team is comprised of many two-way players, most of who starred as an offensive force.

In the "John Osborne" era, the best athletes were on the field, regardless of position. That's what has made Novi football so special.

Here's a look at HomeTown Newspapers all-time Novi High School football team, beginning with the offense and then switching to defense and special teams.

Quarterbacks Gary Boyer (1968)

The Grandfather of Novi football, all great quarterbacks thereafter resembled the nimble Boyer. The oldest of three brothers who played for Novi, Boyer was the leader of both the 1967 and 1968 Novi teams that started Wildcat football.

There were no post-season awards at Novi back then, but he and Jon Van-Wagner were the Wildcats. Without them, who knows where the program and head coach John Osborne would be.

He rushed for four touchdowns in 1968 and passed for seven more.

Steve Lukkari (1972)

The post-season honors never seemed to stop for Lukkari, who never had the most impressive numbers in the area. But what could not be accounted for were his tremendous leadership abilities and his ability to master the wish-bone offense to perfection.

Known as a field leader, Lukkari completed 40 of 85 passes his senior season for 1,000 yards. He was an all-SEC and all-area selection at quarterback as a senior and went on to earn all-Oakland County and all-state honors that year as well. Lukkari was named the Sliger player of the year by area newspapers his junior season, where he completed 32 of 91 passes for 582 yards.

Dave Brown (1973)

A better athlete than Lukkari, Brown spent his first two years as a defensive star. As a sophomore in 1971, Brown was all-SEC as a defensive back after intercepting four passes. He moved to linebacker his junior year because coaches say "he was our best hitter." At that position he again earned first-team all-SEC honors.

Known for his strong arm, Brown moved to quarterback in 1973 and led his team to an undefeated season. He made the all-conference first team at both quarterback and linebacker. He was also first-team all-area after rushing the ball 41 times for 331 yards and completing 17 of 42 passes for 485 yards.

Randy Wroten (1976)

Somebody had to quarterback the team to its first-ever post-season appearance, and that man was Randy

Wroten. Known moreso for his baseball prowess, he was a great quarterback as well Wroten was 39 of 69 passing his senior season, but also ran the ball 1,059 yards on just 168 attempts. He earned all-SEC quarterback honors, but was the all-area running back because Brighton's Dean Clark had a superb season behind center in 1976. That 1976 team was one of just four Class B teams to qualify for the state playoffs.

Eric Deline (1982)

Not the biggest of Novi quarterbacks, but Deline had a strong arm and tremendous athletic ability. He was an all-Kensington Valley Conference selection at quarterback in 1982, when his team finished with a 7-2 record.

Deline completed 83 of 188 passes that year for 1,241 yards and 14 touchdowns. He also scored three on the ground.

It was at this time that the offense was nicknamed "Air Osborne."

Jeff Tanderys (1986)

After becoming a starter midway through his sophomore season in 1984, Tanderys went on to quarterback the Wildcats the next two seasons. He was the last quarterback before Mitch Maier this year to be a two-year starter at the position.

He threw for 1,116 yards in his junior season, when he made the first-team all-area squad. He went on to pass for more than 1,000 yards his senior season and again earned all-area honors. But this year he was also a first-team all-KVC pick.

Brian Schram (1987)

The tallest of the quarterbacks on this team, Schram was one of Osborne's one-year field generals on one of the great Novi teams.

His 1987 team finished 9-0 in the regular season before losing in the first-round of the state playoffs. That year Schram earned all-area first-team honors after completing 44 of 103 passes for 704 yards and rushing for another 224.

Jon Wroe (1994)

Osborne once said that he was going to try to play his players less on both sides of the ball and let them concentrate on either offense or defense to save their energy for the latter parts of the game.

That was in 1968.

Known as Mr. Versatility to Novi footballers, Wroe made HomeTown's allarea football team in 1994 as a defensive back. He had three interceptions and made 61 tackles. Add to that the 400 yards he gained in quarterbacking Osborne's option offense and his versatility was shown. Furthermore, the year before he was an all-area selection at wide receiver, where he hauled in 20 receptions for 283 yards.

Mitch Maier (1999)

As stated above, Maier is the first quarterback since Jeff Tanderys in 1986 to start at the position two consecutive seasons.

.Through his first seven games of this season, Maier had passed for 626 yards and five touchdowns. He added 482 yards on the ground and six more scores: He has also picked off three passes so far this season.

As a junior he completed 46 of 108 passes for 972 yards while leading Novi's option attack with 542 yards rushing and six touchdowns. He threw for eight more touchdowns.

Defensively, Maier led the team with 65 total tackles and was second with 41 first hits. He was a first-team all-area selection at quarterback in 1998 and is well on his way to that same slot this year.

Running Backs

Jon VanWagner (1968)

Stats were hard to come by in 1967, but the statistics VanWagner compiled in 1968 alone were worthy of mention.

The senior halfback scored 10 rushing touchdowns in just six games on offense. He was also the team's kicker, booting 15 extra points in Novi's 6-2 season. He and the above Boyer were the heart and soul of Novi's first-ever senior class.

Jim VanWagner (1972)

Probably known more for what he did as a halfback at Michigan Tech than his two great years as one of the dynamic duo he formed with fellow back Pat Boyer at Novi. VanWagner set a standard at running back that has yet to be equaled in the 27 years since he graduated. He rushed for 758 yards on just 91 carries and scored 68 points his junior year before exploding for 941 yards on a remarkable 95 carries. He also led the area with 90 points scored his senior year. To see exactly what he could have done had he not shared the carries with fellow all-timer Pat Boyer, just add Boyer's numbers to VanWagn-

"They were both outstanding players, equally as good," coach Osborne said.

He was an all-Southeastern Conference selection in both his junior and senior seasons and also earned all-area honors in 1971-72. He played for the New Orleans Saints for a year before suffering an injury.

Pat Boyer (1972)

Was just about equally efficient as VanWagner, gaining 686 yards on 96 carries his junior season before averaging an incredible 10.0 yards per attempt his senior campaign. He had 852 yards on 85 carries and scored 84 points in 1972, a year after leading the area in scoring with 74 points.

Boyer was an all-SEC first-team selection as a running back in 1971 and as a defensive end in 1972. Coincidentally, he was an all-area first teamer at defensive end his junior season before moving over to the first team as a running back in 1972.

Mike Riley (1973)

He was to Hansor like Boyer was to VanWagner, a perfect compliment.

Brown, Riley and Hansor picked up the wishbone offense where their three predecessors left off. Riley was an allconference nose guard as a junior in 1972 and then went on to earn firstteam honors at running back as a

Running Backs Dick Biery (1957)

The lightning-fast halfback led Northville's 1957 squad, when he carried 101 times for 759 yards for an average of 7.5 yards per carry. Biery also picked 317 upyards in the air to earn first-team All-State honors. He also started at safety in 1956 and 1957. After graduating, Biery went on to play for Central Michigan University.

Dick Bathey (1961)

The Record had few statistics about Bathey, but panel members were adamant that the tall running back deserved a slot on the All-Century team. Tall and fast, Bathey was switched from wide receiver to handle running chores on the great undefeated 1961 squad. Panel members recalled a game against Clarkston in which Bathey dashed 85 yards to the one on one carry and followed that effort with an 87-yard touchdown jaunt on his next carry.

Bob Starnes (1958)

A 6-foot, 210 pounder, Starnes was just plain tough for opposing defenses to bring down. Starnes and Spike Walker formed a backfield tandem that was compared with Army's famed Doc Blanchard/Glenn Davis Mr. Inside/Mr. Outside duo. During Northville's undefeated 1958 season, Starnes gained 921 yards on a mere 91 carries for a 10.1 yard per carry rushing average and 13 touchdowns. He also hauled in 13 passes for 245 yards, one of the most productive seasons ever enjoyed by Mustang running back. He went on to star at running back at the University of Louisville.

Doug Crisan (1974)

At 6-4 and 210 pounds, Crisan was "the man" in Coach Chuck Shonta's smash-mouth offensive schemes. Crisan gained 960 yards as a junior and was a unanimous All Western-Six selection at running back despite the fact that opposing defenses knew exactly who would be carrying the ball. As a senior, Crisan again was a unanimous All Western-Six choice, gaining 1,054 yards — a school record that stood until broken by Rick Van-Buren in 1984. "We knew who was going to get the ball, but he just refused to go down," commented one opposing coach. Crisan went on to play at Eastern Michigan University and survived to the final cut during a tryout with the Oakland Raiders.

Aneil Kersey (1995)

Longevity can sometimes be overlooked, especially at the high-school level. But Kersey displayed three years of excellence unmatched in Northville history. As a sophomore, he rushed for 970 yards and was a first-team allarea pick by HomeTown. His 38-carry, four touchdown, 209-yard seasonending performance against Novi helped him finish with 708 yards in 1994. His senior season saw Kersey rush for 922 yards and score nine touchdowns, giving him a school records for career yardage (2,606). career carries (549), attempts in a season (209) and career touchdowns (22). He was all-conference in his junior and senior seasons.

Receivers/Ends Jerry Imsland (1965)

Another "no brainer" choice on the All-Century team, the 6-3, 200-pound Imsland teamed with QB Tom Baughman to break all the Northville passing/receiving records in 1965. As a senior Imsland snared 63 passes for 811 yards. His records included most receptions in one game (15), most receiving yards in one game (231), most career receptions (83) and most career receiving yards (1,129). An All-State selection, Imsland accepted a football scholarship from the University of Kentucky where he starred on the freshman team, then transferred to the University of Michigan where he was a starter on new coach Bo Schembechler's squad that upset topranked Ohio State in one of the biggest upsets in Big Ten history. As a junior at U-M, he snared 19 passes for 269 yards.

John Horwath (1977)

The son of Coach Ron Horwath, John Horwath at 6-1, 175 was neither particularly big nor particularly fast. What he did have was an uncanny ability to (1) get open and (2) catch the ball despite heavy attention from opposing defenses. As a senior, Horwath caught 38 passes for 705 yards and three touchdowns in addition to picking off seven interceptions as a defensive back. He won first-team all-conference honors and was an all-state choice as a defensive back. He is currently an assistant coach for the Mustangs.

Ben Keetle (1998)

As a senior in 1998, Keetle apparently broke the school season-records for receptions (56), yards (767) and touchdowns (7). Upon further research into this project, Keetle's numbers fall just short of the season marks set by Imsland. His junior numbers of 34 receptions, 467 yards and three touchdowns gave him career school record totals of 90 receptions for 1,234 yards and 10 touchdowns. "When Ben was a freshman our assistant coach John Horwath came to me and told me this kid was going to break all of Northville's school records," said current coach Darrel Schumacher said. "And this was from a guy who set all of these records."

Offensive linemen Bill Juday (1959)

The oldest of the Juday brothers, Bill was an exceptionally fast and punishing blocker who was named to four All-State teams (Detroit Free Press, Detroit News, Detroit Times and Associated Press) his senior year when the Mustangs went 8-1. At 5-10 and 190 pounds, Juday accepted a scholarship from Vanderbilt where he was a tri-captain his senior season. Panel members agreed that Juday was a "no brainer" choice for the All-Century team. He was the field leader of a team that won 31 straight league games and 24 of its last 25 games.

Jack Dowd (1961)

"Big Jack" (6-5 and 300) transferred to Northville at the start of the 1961 season to anchor the huge offensive line that provided protection for Steve Juday in the undefeated 1961 season. Amazingly fast for a man of his size, Dowd was an intimidating force who won All Wayne-Oakland League honors at both offensive center and defensive guard.

A 6-4, 215-pound offensive center, Wendell was the heart of the 7-2 Northville 1984 team. The senior cocaptain, a fierce and vocal competitor, was a quick and powerful blocker who called all the blocking schemes. Wendell was a unanimous All-Western Six selection at center. As a strong side defensive end, he had 37 first hits and three fumble recoveries.

Steve Schrader (1983)

At 6-6, 228 "mobile Mustang mountain" was an exceptional offensive lineman, according to

Colligan, adding that Schrader would "completely obscure from view the entire Mustang backfield." As a defensive tackle, Schrader had 31 first hits, 33 assists and three quarterback sacks and was a first-team All-Western Six selection.

He received a football scholarship to play at Miami (OH) where he excelled as a defensive lineman.

Bob Tuck (1964)

Big and fast, the 220-pound Tuck was a dominant performer on the 1964 Mustang squad. He was named Northville's best offensive lineman as he sparked the running attack. He was named to the Wayne-Oakland Allleague team as an offensive tackle and a defensive nose guard.

Fred Mitchell (1960)

Teaming with Bill Juday at offensive guard on the great 1959 team, Mitchell was fast and mean, and gave Coach Ron Schipper's Mustangs arguably the best pair of offensive guards in the state. "Fred would have been All-State if Juday hadn't been," said VanIngen. "You can't talk about one without talking about the other," said Schipper of his two superlative guards.

Mitchell received honorable mention recognition on the Detroit Times All-State team.

Jeff Weber (1977)

A 6-3, 205-pound offensive tackle, Weber was called "tougher than a junkyard dog" by coaches on the 1977 Northville team. A varsity starter since his sophomore season, Weber received a 92 percent blocking efficiency rating his senior season when he was named to the All-Area first team and the All-Western Six second team. Weber went on to play at Michigan Tech.

Dick Bathey (with ball) has nothing but daylight in front of him in this 97-yard jaunt for a TD. One play earlier, he had a 95-yard TD called back because of holding.

THE BATTLE OF THE MILLENNIUM

He was also a first-team all-area pick and a second-team selection at nose guard as a senior. Showing his versatility, he blocked five punts in his two years on varsity.

Eric Hansor (1973)

When remembering back on Novi's successes in the early 1970's, two players that don't come to the forefront too much are Eric Hansor and Mike Riley. This pair replaced the graduated Van-Wagner and Boyer in 1973 and helped their team to that second-straight undefeated season.

Hansor played varsity for two years, but didn't get the chance to explode until 1973. He rushed for 852 yards on 125 carries and earned first-team SEC and all-area honors.

Andy McComas (1976)

McComas saw the fall and rise of the Novi football program in his three years as the starting halfback. Following his school's back-to-back undefeated seasons, he played for a teams that finished 6-3 and 4-5.

He was a catalyst for the 1976 team, which was the first-ever Novi team to qualify for the state playoffs. The Wildcats lost to Okemos 35-13 in the Class B semifinals, but McComas went on to earn first-team all-SEC honors at running back and all-area recognition at linebacker. He was a second-team SEC running back and defensive end his junior year and was an all-area first-team selection at running back with 445 yards in just seven games.

Scott Wladischkin (1988)

Perhaps the best pure athlete to ever don a Novi jersey? Maybe. But without a doubt, Wladischkin was one of the best to ever play for the school.

Osborne feels that Wladischkin ranks up there with Pat Boyer and Jim Van-Wagner as possibly the three best Wildcats to ever play for him. And that says a lot coming from the only coach the school's ever had.

He was first-team all-KVC as a sophomore at defensive back, but really stood out his junior and senior seasons at both tailback and d-back. He gained 623 yards and 13 touchdowns in 1987 as an all-area running back. He came back the following year and amassed school records with 1,498 yards and 18 touchdowns. His 128 points were the second most in the state.

He was the all-area player of the year and rushed for 502 yards in three state playoff games.

"I'm always aghast when Scottie misses a tackle or cuts the wrong way." Osborne told the Novi News back in 1988. "He make the old coach look smart out there because he very rarely makes mistakes and he can be so explosive."

Jason Witherspoon (1996)

No other runner in Novi High School history has made a career impact on the running game as Witherspoon has.

He was a three-time all-area selection, twice at running back and once at kicker. He also earned all-Kensington Valley Conference honors all three seasons. He is Novi's career rushing leader with 3,138 yards.

Witherspoon broke onto the scene in 1994, rushing for 200 yards in a 28-20 loss to Northville and finishing the season with 1,193 yards. He came back the next year and amassed 1,297 yards and 12 touchdowns. His senior season saw opponents preparing for him, so he ended up with 800 yards on the ground and booted a school-record 47-yard field goal.

Wide Receivers
Kevin Serra (1993)

A "multi-faceted player" to his coach, Serra was another athletic player who played wherever his team needed him to.

Serra earned all-area first-team honors in 1992 as a tight end after catching 37 passes for 568 yards. He also scored 48 points. The next year he moved to quarterback and completed 83 passes for 1,086 yards while rushing for 325 yards in the option offense.

Linemen

Tom VanWagner (1970)

It's hard to see just how important Tom VanWagner was to the Novi football program in its infant stages.

Whether it be blocking for his older brother Jon, or for his younger brother Jim (at Michigan Tech), Tom was always the one doing the dirty, unappreciated work.

But it really did draw attention to the little, big guy, who stood just 5-foot-8 and weighed in at 195 pounds. He was an all-area selection at offensive guard in 1969 and was the Sliger Newspapers (Novi News) most valuable player during the 1970 season. On defense, he had 201 total tackles, leading the team in that category in eight games.

"Just his attitude and personal training alone made him one of our most valuable players," Osborne said back in 1970.

Bob Pisha (1972)

With all the attention Novi's dominant backfield received from 1971-73, there must have been a few guys up front paving the way for them. Pisha was one of those dominant forces from 1970-72.

Pisha was one of just two players to earn first team all-area honors on both the offensive and defensive squads in 1971. To show just how important he was on that line, one would have to look no further than Novi's season-ending matchup with Dearborn Crestwood. Pisha played the first half and his defense allowed just 39 yards on the ground. After suffering an injury early in the third quarter, Pisha left the game and Crestwood proceeded to rush for 147 yards in the second half.

Dave Ward (1972)

Just 155 pounds his senior year, Dave Ward used his 5-11 frame to push defensive linemen around. He was a unanimous selection for the all-SEC team in 1972, one of only two players along with teammate John Pantalone to receive that distinction. He was a vital player on Novi's first undefeated team and helped pave the way for both Jim VanWagner and Pat Boyer to rush for over 1,800 yards combined.

Ron Buck (1974)

Buck picked up where the Pishas and Wards left off. He was a three-year starter and earned all-conference honors at both offensive and defensive tackles his junior and senior seasons.

Said an opposing SEC coach after his senior season, "I had my biggest, toughest lineman opposite Buck on a goal-line defense and he just knocked my man on his can."

Brett Keir (1987)

Good size for a center, Keir was an all-area second-team pick at the position in 1986. He was a first-team KVC pick that same year.

He went on to star as a linebacker as a senior and gained all-area honors at that position. His senior season was the first regular-season undefeated team since Novi's 1973 team.

Dave Skown (1987)

Like Keir above, Skown was a big part of Novi's undefeated 1987 team. That squad was known both for its offense and its defense. The team allowed just 64 points in nine regular-season wins while racking up 240 of its own.

Skown had his best game against South Lyon in the regular-season finale in 1987. He had seven solo tackles and eight assists for 15 points. He was a second-team all-area selection at linebacker in 1987.

Bob Ahrens (1989)

Known as "Big" Bob, Ahrens dominated opponents on both offense and defense in his stay at Novi. The three-year letterwinner was an all-area lineman in both 1988 and 1989 and earned all-KVC honors in 1989. He had 41 tackles his senior year, with most teams running away from him. He was an honorable-mention all-area pick his sophomore season.

"Big doesn't necessarily mean good, but Bob is both big and good," Osborne said back in 1989.

Bob Barnatz (1976)

Whether he played defensive end, or defensive tackle, Bannatz wreaked havoc on his opponents. He was 6-2, 210 and "was a competitor who took care of business on his side of the field," according to Osborne.

Linebackers Mike Yankowski (1989)

Along with Ahrens, Craig Berry and Jeff O'Neill, Yankowski led a near flawless Novi defense in 1988 and 1989.

The best linebacker around, Yankowski had 64 solo tackles and 59 assists hi senior season and even picked off a pass. He was an all-KVC and all-area first-team selection in 1989 after receiving honorable-mention honors in 1988.

Defensive Backs Jason Korte (1987)

A throw-back player in more modern times, Korte was best known for his "disregard for his own body" style of play. Area teams best remember Korte as the flercest hitter in the area. He had 73 total tackles in 1987, the same year he was an all-area first-team defensive back. He had three interceptions that year as well.

Kicker Chris Caudell (1981)

Although Caudell had the leg to reach the end zone on each kickoff, he was better known for his knack of pinning teams inside the 15 with his sidewinding kicks. He nailed 12 of 13 extra points in 1991 and made all three of his field-goal attempts inside 40 yards. He made the first team alarea and all-KVC teams in 1981 and in 1980, when he missed just one extra point.

He originally went to Kentucky, but transferred back to Michigan State where he kicked under George Perles.

All-time greats spawn from stingy defenses

conviction that the defensive end deserved a place on the team. A transfer student from Catholic Central and the stepbrother of "Big Jack" Dowd, Sugrue was tall, mean and a key component of the '61 defensive unit that registered six shutouts in nine games and yielded just 26 points all season.

Mark Morland (1977)

He was there during the turn-around years of coach Chuck Shonta's career. In fact, defensively he was a big reason for the turnaround. Morland wasn't necessarily the biggest defensive lineman (6-2, 190), but his heart and determination carried him from all-area honorable-mention status in 1975 to all-Western Six first team and all-area first team honors in 1976. A center on offense and a nose guard on defense, he led that 1976 team with 68 solo tackles and 67 assists. In the last game of his career, Morland asked to be put at fullback so he could score his first touchdown. The coaching staff denied him, so Morland proceeded to score a pair of touchdowns off fumble recoveries to lead his team to a 38-12 win over South

Vince Candela (1981)

With the proportions of an oversized full-back (6-1, 252 pounds), Candela terrorized Western Six opponents in his two years as a regular on defense. Unlike many other players, Candela's talents were reserved for the defensive side of the ball. In 1981, he had 51 first hits and 39 assisted tackles, eight of which were for losses, and five sacks. He earned Western Six first team honors as a defensive lineman and was also on the all-area first team. He was a second-team all-area selection as a junior.

Jerry Asher (1966)

Despite playing in one of the down times in Northville's gridiron history on the gridiron, Asher was one of the best. Back then, if a team didn't do well, the players weren't necessarily highly regarded in post-season awards. So Asher's honorable-mention status in both 1966 and 1967 in the Wayne-Oakland League wasn't indicative of what he meant to his team. He played right guard in 1966.

Mark VanIngen (1977)

"The toughest kid I ever coached," said Colligan. "He just loved to hit people hard." The 5-10, 200 pound nose guard won All-Western Six Conference honors as a senior on the 1977 squad that posted a 7-2 record. "Mungy," as he was known to teammates and coaches, led the 1977 team with 116 total tackles and caused two fumbles.

Fred Hicks (1969)

Again, to reiterate the fact that down teams had very few opportunities to promote its players for post-season awards, Hicks was another victim. He played both offensive and defensive tackle and was a second-team selection on the Wayne-Oakland League in both 1967 and 1968. He went on to play four years on the offensive line at Western Michigan University where he was named to the All-American honor-

Tony Briningstool (1986)

It wasn't necessarily what Briningstool did throughout his career at Northville, it was what he did his senior year. Defensively, it may be the most dominating season of any of the players on this list.

'That was the first year us coaches went to MSU's stunt 4-3 defense, which allows the linebackers the opportunity to work from sideline to sideline," Schumacher said. "People begged to work the chains just to be down there to see if this guy was legit. He was a stone-cold hitter." Schumacher said Briningstool's biggest attribute was his ability to move from sideline to sideline and make the hit. For his efforts he was named the Gatorade Player-of-the-Year for the state of Michigan. He went on to play at Michigan State, but blew out both shoulders and played out his career on the special teams.

Ron Rice (1963)

What's he doing at defensive linebacker? Well, Rice was an all-around athlete who spent his three years on varsity doing whatever the coaches needed. He played linebacker, was the team's punter and kicked extra points. But what he was best known for was his play at fullback during the 1963 season. Rice scored 16 touchdowns, a school record, on the ground in 1963. He also holds the school mark for touchdowns in a game (five), when he led Northville to a 33-6 win over Holly on Sept. 27, 1963. He also accounted for all the team's extra points. After the season, the co-captain was named to the all-Suburban West team by the Detroit News.

Doug Hartman (1984)

Had good size (6-1, 200) for a linebacker, and also played fullback as a senior. Hartman was one of four players from the 1984 team to earn all-conference honors after making all-division and second-team all-area squads as a junior. One of his biggest claims to fame came in a limited effort against Livonia Stevenson his senior season. Hartman collected 14 solo and assisted tackles against the Spartans, all in the first quarter before he suffered an ankle injury which ended his career a game and a half short.

Spike Walker (1958)

Walker was given the "Chief Mudder" Award at the awards banquet after the 1958 season. Built like a human tank, Walker joined Bob Starnes in the backfield to give Northville a devastating 1-2 punch that compared favorably with Army's Doc Blanchard/Glen Davis duo. Now a successful businessman, Walker rushed for 845 yards and 13 touchdowns on 124 carries for a 6.7 yard average. On defense he was a fierce buildog of a competitor who terrorized opposing running backs and quarterbacks.

Larry Pink (1977)

A definite throw-back player along the lines of a Dick Butkus, Pink was as good a linebacker as Northville High School has ever seen. In 1973 he was a first team allarea, all conference and all-Metro West selection. He went on to earn all those accolades as a senior in 1974 and added years.

Sliger's (Northville Record) all-area player of the year award to that list. He had four sacks in his last game against South Lyon. Said former assistant coach Ed McLoud: "He plays the position like it was meant to be played — with reckless abandon."

Defensive backs Dave Hay (1960)

Tough and aggressive with a nose for the ball, Dave Hay prowled the defensive backfield at 5-10, 170 pounds for the Mustangs in the 1959-60 seasons. He was one of the players recruited by Schipper to attend Central Iowa where he starred in the defensive secondary four years while the team was posting a 28-7-1 record. He led Central Iowa team in '64 with eight interceptions. Hay now teaches Shakespeare at a college in California.

Jim Zayti (1966)

"Just a real good athlete" is how Dave Longridge remembers Jim Zayti whose best position was defensive back. As a senior, the 175-pound Zayti was pressed into service as a running back where he gained 591 yards on 107 carries for a 5.5 average, winning honorable mention Wayne-Oakland League recognition. Selected as the Mustang's most valuable player, he was also an outstanding punter. He went on to star at Ferris State as a flanker.

John Sherman (1974)

Sherman was a unanimous All-Western Six choice as a 5-6, 140-pound sophomore safety when he compiled nine interceptions. Sherman was also a unanimous all-conference choice in both 1973 and 1974 as he finished up with 17 career interceptions. "He couldn't be beaten at passing and he was a great tackler," said Apap, noting that Sherman was one of the players at the helm of Chuck Shonta's rebuilding program. "He had a lot of heart and went after the ball," added Longridge.

He was one of only two Mustangs ever to be named to the all-area team three

David Greer (1980)

Up until 1980 Western Six coaches were obligated to select the quarterback from the championship team as their first-team all-league signal caller. But David Greer changed all that. "He had earned so much respect from coaches of the other teams that they changed that rule," Schumacher said. "He made great plays on offense and defense (as a defensive back). He was a rock-solid player." With quarterback being such a talented position in the area that year, Greer was an honorable-mention selection.

SPECIAL TEAMS
Kick returner/all-purpose
Dan Walsh (1992)

One of those athletes every coach wants on his team, Walsh earned most of his praise from his ability to break a game open from any position. The 1993 grad was a two-time all-area selection (1991-92), once at wide receiver and once at defensive back. He had seven interceptions and 42 tackles his senior season along with 1,565 all-purpose yardage. His junior season, Walsh had 32 receptions for 495 yards and gained 1,200 all-purpose yards. "He was dangerous," said Apap who coached against Northville at Walled Lake Western. "We did everything we could to keep the ball away from him."

Kicker/Punter Adam Tibble (1997)

Without a doubt, Tibble is the best kicker Northville's ever had. As a senior, he converted 9 of 10 field goals and 12 of 14 extra points. Five of his field goals were from over 40 yards out, and he set the school record with a 50-yarder. He was a first-team all-area and all-conference selection in 1997 after earning second-team honors in 1996. He is currently a walk-on kicker at Notre Dame.

BATTLE OF THE MILLENNIUM THE

Novi won first-ever Baseline game, 22-7

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

If anything is certain of the Northville/Novi series as it heads into its 29th year on the gridiron, it's that the series has been one of streaks. Only twice in the first 28 meetings have the two teams failed to defend their grip on the bragging rights at least once, and many times the two teams would put together two, three and four-game winning streaks in the Northville leads the all-time series 15-13, but Novi has won three of the last four meetings. The Wildcats also won the first three times the two teams got together, including the inaugural game on Sept. 17, 1971 at Novi.

Here's a brief recap of the game that started the "Baseline" rivalry between the two neighboring schools.

It was Chuck Shonta's first year as Northville's head coach, having taken over the reins from Al Klukach. It was John Osborne's fifth season as the head coach of a Novi varsity squad, but the fourth season since his team's began having four years in the Novi football program.

The game was the first of the season for both schools, who were coming off dismal 1970

What started out as a close, defensive battle between the "Big" Northville team and the "Little" Novi squad, turned into the Jim VanWagner and Pat Boyer show.

Northville built a 7-6 halftime lead when Bill McDonald hit Jeff Moon for a 16-yard scoring strike with 27 seconds left in the first half. The touchdown and extra point gave the Mustangs their first lead of the game after Boyer had scampered 12 yards for the game's first score.

In the second half, what Boyer started, Van Wagner finished and visa-versa. Boyer scored his second touchdown of the game from four yards out midway through the third quarter. VanWagner scored on the two-point conversion to give Novi a 14-7 lead. Later on in the same quarter, VanWagner scored from seven yards out and Boyer capped it off with the two-point conversion to complete the scoring in the Novi ended up winning that first meeting 22-7 and set the stage for the next 27 years.

When asked who his stars were following the game, Osborne responded by saying, "when you beat Northville, they're all stars."

Shonta was not pleased with his team's effort in the second half, saying "I guess that's the way it goes when you don't play football, we stopped them in the first half, but then we just stopped playing ball."

Is it important for you to arrive at your wedding by a horse-drawn, gilded carriage, dressed in a $2,000 Galina gown? Would your wedding day be meaningful only if you said your vows on that remote island where you shared your first kiss? And what about the reception - are giant ice sculptures, Godiva chocolate party favors and a 10-piece band really necessary?

How you dress, where you have your wedding and how many people you invite are all factors determined by your wedding budget. So, where do a bride and groom begin when deciding how much money to spend on that all-important day?

Experts offer differing advice on how to determine a wedding budget, but what most agree on is the fact that a couple must decide on the guest list before they can proceed any further.

"It's sort of a chicken and an egg thing," says wedding guru Leah Ingram.

"Until you know how many people you can invite, you cannot realistically set your budget," adds Ingram, who is the author of "The Bridal Registry Book" and "The Portable Wedding Consultant." Her third book, "Your Wedding Your Way," comes out in January, 2000.

Where experts differ in their opinions is how to determine the guest list in the first place.

Author and wedding consultant Deborah McCoy believes that the quality of the reception is more important than the quantity of guests you invite.

"A wedding is really a very intimate, family and friends affair. People who are out of the loop find weddings very boring," explains McCoy.

"My favorite weddings are those with 100 people. Everyone enjoys themselves and no one is intimidated. If you keep your guest list small, you're gonna be able to do things better," adds McCoy, who also owns a full-service bridal shop in Boca Raton, Fla.

"You're the hosts of your first party as man and wife. If guests are walking out saying, 'I'm so hungry, I'm going to Denny's,' you haven't had a successful wedding reception."

Millie Bratten, editor in chief of Bride's magazine, has a different take on the guest list.

"It's a very individual approach," says Bratten, who has worked for Bride's for 20 years.

Bratten suggests writing down what is important to you.

"That's the time to dream," she says.

"Is it small and intimate in a restaurant? Do we want to go to an island?" are questions that Bratten poses.

"From your dream, look at what's most important to you. Is it the nostalgic location? Is it the time of day? Is it the number of guests?"

Bratten encourages couples to invite as many people as they want.

"If the most important thing is to have all the guests you want, but the dinner is too expensive, then have a brunch, or cocktails," she advises.

So, once you've determined how many to invite, then what?

Can you have your wedding cake and eat it, too?

According to a recent survey done by Bride's magazine, the average cost of a wedding is just over $29,000 in New York City; a little more than $16,000 for nuptials in the Midwest; and, on the West Coast, the bill comes to nearly $19,000.

McCoy says if you're smart, creative and innovative, you can cut that cost in half.

She offers tips on what not to skimp on ("bite the bullet" components), and what corners to cut ("extraneous extras," she calls them).

Top priorities should be entertainment and food at the reception, and photography and videography at the ceremony, she says.

When a bride mentions to McCoy that she wants to skip entertainment at the reception or serve appetizers only. McCoy cringes.

"Some of these brides want their weddings to turn into coffee klatches. They say, 'I don't dance, so we've decided not to have dancing. ... We figure our guests should just sit there and talk.'

"My answer to that," says McCoy, is: "'Your wedding is not a coffee klatch. Dancing is integral. There are great DJs out there, and for only a few hundred dollars."

When it comes to photography and videography, McCoy doesn't believe in pinching pennies there either.

"You can hire a professional photographer to shoot formal pictures at the wedding, then have friends take informal shots at the reception," she suggests.

"So many people don't feel the need to have a video and that's so wrong," says McCoy.
"Everything that you do will be recorded. The wedding day for the bride and groom goes by so quickly,

most say it's such a blur, they can't remember everything."

McCoy reports that the couples with a video say, "I'm so glad I got it. I didn't realize my fiance was crying at the altar," or, "I didn't know Aunt Mary was there." In her latest book, "The Elegant Wedding and the Budget-Savvy Bride," McCoy covers all the bases when it comes to planning a wedding.

Here are several of her money-saving tips:

- Have an off-season wedding (summertime in a warm climate; or a Friday evening or Sunday afternoon ceremony, for example).
- Avoid the "extraneous extras" like matchbooks, imprinted cocktail napkins, swizzle sticks, "basically, all those expensive favors from the back of wedding catalogs," she says. "Weddings are so expensive that, to me, the invitation is favor enough."
- Skip the limousine ride: Instead, she says, "rent a huge, white Lincoln Continental. You can use it all weekend, pick up relatives, run errands, etc. And then have a friend or family member play chauffeur on the wedding day."
- Make your own headpiece and veil: McCoy says you can do it for less than $35. For a headpiece, she says, buy a hat frame and glue on silk flowers, pearls and sequins. Or, for a tiara, McCoy bought a $40, three-strand necklace made with pearls, crystals and gold, and glued it onto a tiara hat frame, which cost her $1.
- Make your own invitations: McCoy says she found beautiful stationery and card stock at Kinko's and was able to make 100 color invitations on her computer for about $20 (not including postage).
- The gown: "In a bride's mind, that's the most important item that she shops for when planning a wedding." McCoy's advice: Take advantage of sale racks in traditional bridal shops and look for a discontinued dress. "Isn't it better to buy a $2,000 dress for half price than to buy a full-price dress for $700?"
- Rings: The second largest expense of a wedding, according to McCoy. "I advise that you hit your local pawn shops, and study my chapter on diamonds (in "The Elegant Wedding and the Budget-Savvy Bride"). I buy all my jewelry in pawn shops. I teach you how the industry is regulated and how it's safe to shop there," McCoy assures.
- The honeymoon: If you plan on using frequent-flyer miles, plan one year in advance and, she advises, go off-season (the Caribbean in the summer, for example, or Europe in the winter).

There's a figure-flattering gown for every bride-to-be

By Cheryl Walker

Copley News Service

It's the ultimate shopping trip, and one many young women dream about from the time they are little girls - the search for the perfect wedding gown.

But the dream bubble can easily burst once inside a department store fitting room. This is the time in a woman's life when not just any dress will do and it must fit perfectly.

Unfortunately, there is no such thing as the perfect body. What if the bride is too thin, too heavy, flat chested, too busty or big in the hips for the gown she has her heart set on? Shopping for a wedding gown is supposed to be a joyful experience, but it can quickly turn into a tearful episode when the bride-to-be tries to squeeze a size 14 body into a size 10 or 12 dress.

It doesn't matter if a woman is full-figured or skinny as a rail. There are many styles that are flattering, whether you are a slender waif or voluptuous bride.

"There's not any one particular hard-and-fast rule for shopping for a wedding gown," said Pam Venable, manager of special occasions and sales at a West Coast Nordstrom store. "You simply work with the person and what's available."

A woman who is well-rounded should look for shops that carry samples in large sizes. She should also look for styles that avoid big puffy sleeves and yards and yards of fabric, which add pounds. Shop for the medium-weight fabrics.

"A bride who is trying to hide the pounds should look for something that fits loosely rather than tight-fitting," Venable said. "Especially if a woman has large hips, a tight fit will only accentuate it."

Princess-style dresses are a good choice for a full-figured woman. A square neckline can detract from a large bust and hips and sheer tapered sleeves can cover up large arms.

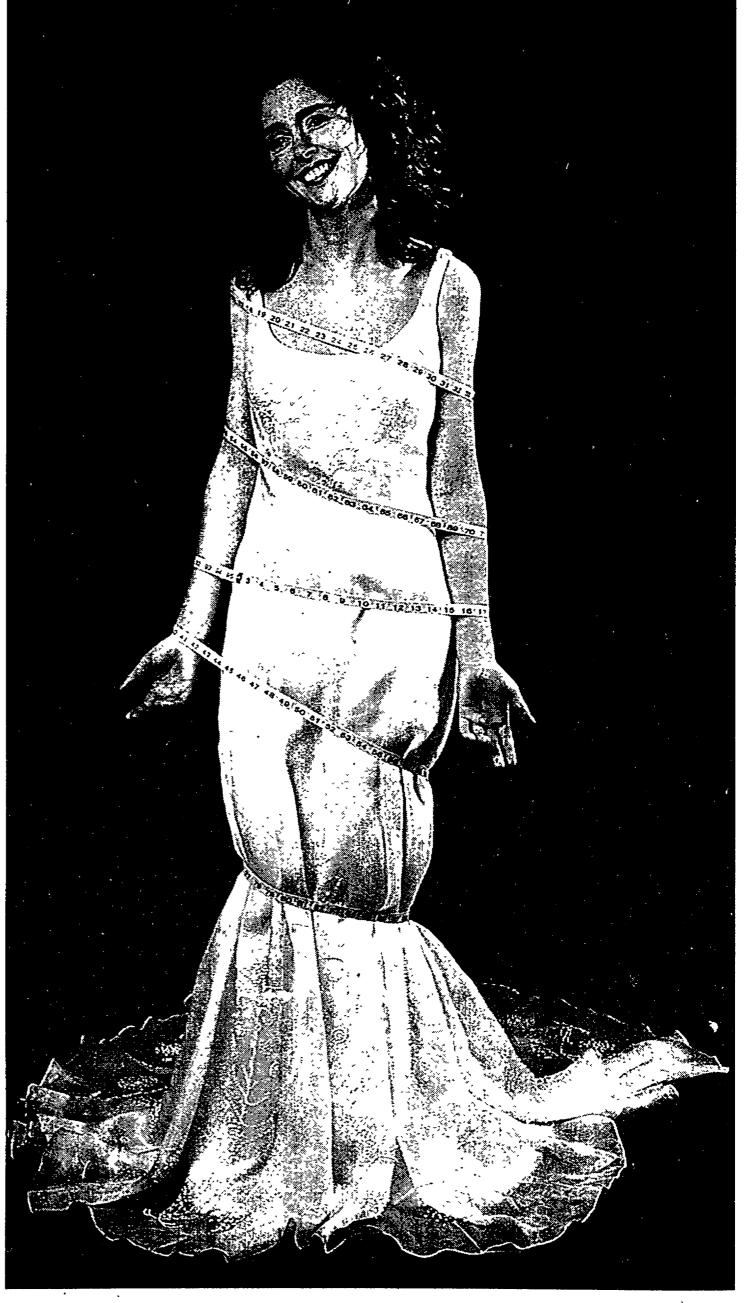

For the slender bride with a boyish figure, choose a dress that makes the most of the body. Off-the-shoulder dresses or those with a fitted bodice flatter the slender figure. To add more to the bustline, choose a corset-type ton.

"Basically, a thin person can go with almost any style," Venable said. If she's small on top she should look for a dress that has some padding in it. Many dresses are made with padded bras just like swimsuits.

Some brides may want to take a shot at changing their figure before the wedding by losing weight or working out to enhance a more shapely body. A year before the wedding (if you plan a wedding that far in advance) is a good time to start getting into shape. Take a good look in the mirror and decide what it is that you want. Set a goal of dropping a dress size, improving posture or toning up the body. Make sure the fitness and diet goals are realistic and work with your lifestyle and time frame.

If you choose to burn some calories to drop a few pounds before the big day, there are some things that can be added to the daily routine in addition to a regular workout.

While working at your desk, pull in your stomach and hold it for 10 seconds and then release. This helps burn extra calories while working and also helps when posing for full-length photos on the wedding day.

A PERFECT FIT – With so many styles to choose from, there's a wedding gown that is sure to measure up to every bride's expectations for flattering her figure.

Slimming down an option, but start early

At lunchtime, take a walk around the mall. This way you can accomplish two things at once: do some shopping for wedding items while working off some calories.

Another suggestion is to take the stairs whenever possible. Oftentimes, people are in such a rush they head for the elevator, but before pushing that button think about the extra calories that are burned by taking a little more time to climb the stairs. This also gives the leg muscles a work-

Once at the desired weight and dress size before the wedding, don't forget those lastminute emergencies that always seem to crop up before a special occasion. This is always the time when a woman is sure to have trouble with a broken nail, unmanageable hair, puffy red eyes, dark circles - or heaven forbid - a pimple.

Here a few tips in dealing with life's little setbacks.

For puffy eyes, try staying away from salty foods. Cool compresses with ice cubes wrapped in a washcloth or cold cucumbers over the eyes are also helpful.

For dark circles, apply a light moisturizer and foundation around the eye area. Apply a greentinted concealer in the darkened area to offset the bluish color, followed by a regular concealer. Dab the area lightly with translucent powder.

Chipped nails can really be a pain. Lightly buff with a nail file to smooth out the rough edges and put a little polish on the tip to strength the nail. Then put on a regular coat of polish - followed by a new topcoat. To get nail polish to last longer, make sure nails are clean, dry and oil-free.

The best thing to do to avoid getting acne is to maintain a balanced diet. Ixnay on the fried foods and chocolate. But even giving up junk food doesn't always work. Stress is also a major factor in causing an acne outbreak. When this happens, apply a cold compress to the area to help reduce swelling and redness. Then use an over-the-counter medication that contains a small amount of salicylic acid.

Probably the best thing the bride-to-be can do for herself is to not stress out by trying to do everything herself. Stress can affect physical appearance as well as the mental state.

So, brides, pamper yourself, relax and enjoy the dream - the one you've had ever since you were a little girl.

WEDDINGFACTS

Setting the date

Numerous factors determine when the big day will be. Making both bride and groom happy is the main objective.

Consider getting married on the same day as your parents, grandparents or other couple significant to both of you. The anniversary of a first date, a famous date in history or the date the question was "popped" are good choices.

Plan the date according to your budget. If If you are saving to pay for the wedding, figure the cost of the wedding and divide it by the amount of money you can save monthly.

a bad month for an accountant to get married. Summer would be a good time for professors or schoolteachers, etc.

Remember:

■ Most vendors will give discounts for non-Saturday weddings and for those occurring off-season. ■ Holiday weekends are good if you will have many out-of-town guests.

thrown, the honeymoon starts and it's your time. Of course, honeymoons can be any type of trip, from backpacking in the Sierras to a Mediterranean cruise. But nothing beats the languid romance of a warm, exotic destination.

HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

From the bustle of Waikiki on Oahu to the quiet elegance of Lanai, the Hawaiian Islands offer plenty of choices. You can rent a private condo on the Big Island, or stay at your choice of first-rate resorts.

Travel & Leisure's readers named the Kea Lani on Maui the top hotel in Hawaii. This whitewashed, Moorish-style, all-suite resort certainly offers a romantic retreat for honeymooners on Maui's sun-splashed Wailea coast.

Another deserving T&L winner: Maui's Napili Kai Beach Club. This small, unpretentious gem has rooms perched right over the water.

Also on Maui, the Four Seasons Resort pampers guests with friendly, attentive service and every amenity. If you get too warm while sunbathing, the pool staff will cool you off with a spritz of Evian water.

On the Big Island, consider the luxurious Mauna Lani Bay Hotel. All rooms are wonderful retreats, but if you can pop for $3,500 a night, you can stay in one of the resort's famous, 4,000-square-foot "bungalows." Each has a private pool and spa, plus butler service. No wonder Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman came to stay.

The private island of Lanai has become a favorite getaway among the rich and famous. Bill Gates and his wife exchanged nuptials at the Lodge at Koele. This property has the formal ambience of an English country manor house while its sister property, the Manele Bay Hotel, has all the trappings of an upscale beach resort. Guests who stay at one property can use the facilities at the other.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER

Fiesta time! A honeymoon in Mexico lets you experience another culture, plus great resorts and beaches. One that tops everyone's best-of list is Las Brisas in Acapulco. The property has more than 300 casitas on a hillside overlooking the city and bay. The decor, from bedding to pool furniture, is soft pink. But the best part is that each casita has a private plunge pool complete with floating pink hibiscus blooms.

The management has a long track record of catering to pairs who want their privacy - Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are just one of many famous couples who have retreated to Las Brisas. Even room service is served through a box so you don't have to see anyone.

Also on the Mexican Riviera are the resort communities of Cancun, Ixtapa and Zihuatanejo, where you can reserve a room in an all-inclusive Club Med or unwind in the elegance of a Ritz-Carlton resort. And an added attraction in Mexico is the terrific value.

Suites at the Hotel Bel-Air in Puerto Vallarta start at $110 per night, or you can reserve a private villa for $195. Even at Las Brisas, rooms run an average of $265 per night.

At the tip of the Baja California Peninsula, in Cabo San Lucas, you have the Pacific Ocean and the Sea of Cortez. Sitting on its own sandy cove on a 135-acre estate, Hotel Twin Dolphin offers 50 ocean-front rooms at rates starting at $175 a night.

If you prefer a full-service resort, all 243 rooms at the Westin Regina boast ocean views and private balconies.

CARIBBEAN ESCAPE

Few places on the planet do a better job of catering to honeymooners than the Caribbean, where there is something for every sensibility and budget. Jamaica alone offers a huge range of choices. You can stay at the Half Moon Resort in Montego Bay, where old British colonial elegance meets great beaches.

Or head to the white-sand beach of Negril, where you'll find all-inclusive resorts like Swept Away and COUPLES Negril. The remote beaches of Port Antonio offer small, upscale resorts, such as the Blue Lagoon.

On Jamaica's north coast, Ocho Rios is home to the famous Dunn's River Falls.

You'll find plenty of seclusion throughout the Caribbean. The 98-room Little Dix Bay, on Virgin Gorda in the British Virgin Islands, is a honeymoon favorite. While there's plenty to keep you occupied at this 500-acre paradise overlooking Sir Francis Drake Channel, you can also hop on a water taxi to explore nearby beaches.

Another honeymoon favorite in BVI is the private Peter Island Resort. This gem has just 52 rooms, plus five beaches. Both Little Dix Bay and Peter Island Resort have romantic packages that include meals, resort activities, cruises and other perks.

SOUTH PACIFIC

For a really exotic getaway, head to the South Pacific. French Polynesia captivated painter Paul Gauguin, and newlyweds can sample some of that tropical romance at the Bora Bora Lagoon Resort.

The highlight is staying in a traditional, thatched-roof Polynesian bungalow over the water. Don't worry, these bungalows have every modern amenity, including a private deck with steps leading into the clear, blue water. Of course, first-rate snorkeling and scuba diving are available right off shore.

In Fiji, make reservations at Turtle Island. This private island accommodates just 28 guests per week in 14 suites. Even better, the island has 14 beaches, so you're sure to find plenty of privacy.

Wedding gifts are surely one of the great perks of getting married.

They literally are the icing on the cake, because even though someone accepted your invitation to join in the celebration, they are not absolutely obligated to send a gift.

"In general, everyone who receives an invitation to a wedding reception or to a small wedding in a hotel or home sends a gift," says Elizabeth L. Post in "Emily Post's Complete Book of Wedding Etiquette, Revised Edition" (Harper Collins). "An invitation to a church ceremony alone carries no such obligation. Neither does a wedding announcement. ... People receiving an invitation who barely know the bride, or perhaps have not seen her in years, should feel no compunction in refusing it, nor need they send a present."

Still, wedding presents are to be expected, and the bridal couple can help their guests choose welcome gifts by registering at a wide variety of stores today.

HELP YOUR GUESTS

Registering for gifts has become a wedding tradition.

"Registering is also a courtesy to guests - you spare them the time and effort of hunting for the perfect idea for you, as well as the possible disappointment of buying you something you don't want or can't use," say the editors of Bride's magazine in "Bride's Book of Etiquette" (Conde Nast Publications).

But wherever you register, do not announce any avarice (remember: gifts are gifts, not obligations) by listing the store or stores on your wedding invitation.

"A shower hostess can note the store name on invitations, but you would never print it on wedding invitations," says the Bride's book. "Your mother, his mother and your attendants might also spread the word."

"Any mention of gifts, registries, etc., is improper with an invitation," says Patty Sachs, wedding etiquette adviser on the Ultimate Internet Wedding Guide Web site. "An invitation does not command the giving of a gift ... so when someone says, 'No gifts please,' 'We're registered at ...,' 'Money preferred,' it is presuming that the guest is going to give one."

If the couple marrying is older and really doesn't want or need gifts, Post advises that "it is not in good taste to write, 'No gifts please' on wedding invitations." But the couple may ask family and close friends to spread the word.

Or, if the bride and groom "are deeply interested in a cause or charity, she could write on the invitation, 'In lieu of gifts, we would greatly appreciate a contribution to the Leukemia Society."

Of course, if someone asks you if you're registered and where, tell them. But also remember that many people prefer choosing gifts themselves, and any such effort should be genuinely appreciated.

REGISTRIES TODAY

Bridal registries today are no longer limited to major department stores.

Something New

Registering for gifts helps guests avoid guessing game

Didn't she register? Listing your home needs in a gift registry helps those who would like to send you a wedding present know that while you already own a toaster (or two), a blender or bath towels would be welcome.

"Couples can register in all sorts of stores - camping goods, bookstores, wine shops, art galleries and museums, hardware emporiums, gourmet supply stores - wherever their lifestyle or interests lead them," says the Bride's book. "Since we thought you could only register at department stores and we had everything we needed to set up a household together, we didn't register," says Leah Ingram in "The Bridal Registry Book" (Contemporary Books). "It wasn't until months after we got married that we found out my husband could have registered at Home Depot and the music fan in both of us could have registered for our favorite CDs at Tower Records."

Registration can really aid out-of-town guests who may be able to phone the store where you've registered, choose one of your specified wishes, and have it delivered to you, instead of carrying it themselves to the wedding.

"Look into registering at a store that has a toll-free service so guests can do their shopping by phone," suggests Wedding-Bells magazine. Many stores today have branches nationwide or even on-line registries and on-line purchasing.

Some examples include Target (you can register in Club Wedd Bridal Gift Registry at Target on-line at www.target.com); Bloomingdale's, (800) 888-2WED; or the Bridal Registry, (800) 501-5885, which links 300 stores nationwide including Filene's, Robinsons-May, Kaufmann's, Hecht's/Strawbridge's and Meier & Frank.

Ingram's book also details dozens of bridal registry operations in specific department stores, specialty stores, home improvement stores, hardware stores and even unconventional stores.

REGISTRY DETAILS

It's perfectly fine to register at more than one store.

"By registering at more than one store, you're giving your guests additional options in buying you gifts," says Ingram.

And keep in mind a wide price range of possible gifts. It is extremely rude to register only for very expensive items, such as china settings that cost $250 apiece or a silver pattern in which a fork costs over $100.

"By all means, register for a few expensive things if you think someone might actually buy them for you. But be sure you vary your registry list so your graduate student friends and retired aunts and uncles alike will be able to find something they'd like to give you and can afford to buy," says Ingram.

DON'T FORGET THANK-YOUS

"For every present received, whether the bride has thanked the donor in person or not, she must write a thank-you note," says Post.

To be sure you thank every gift-giver, make your own registration list of all gifts received. You can even buy wedding gift record books that include stickers to assign numbers to each gift received, then listing the gift number with a description, giver, giver's address, when the gift was received, where it was purchased and when your thank-you note was mailed.

"In ordinary circumstances, all thankyou notes should be sent within three months of the date of the wedding," advises Post.

These thank-you notes should be hand-written and "as warm and personal as possible," advises the Bride's book. "Describe the gift itself and how you plan to use it. If it's one of those inevitable 'mystery gifts,' refer to it by color or material. It's much better to say thanks for a specific 'blue glass piece' than for a vague 'lovely gift."

A colorful gown sets the tone for a romantic wedding

By Sharon Mosley Copley News Service

And the bride wore mauve and green and pink and blue ... yes, it's true, the brides of the new millennium have a colorful future. The newest bridal gowns are turning heads as they waltz down the aisle in colorful wedded bliss.

"It used to be traditional for first-time brides to always wear white and second-time brides to wear color," says Millie Bratten, editor in chief of Bride's magazine. "Now that it's OK to wear white any time you get married, first-time brides are choosing to wear more color in their gowns."

White is still the predominant color for brides, no matter how many times they've been married, according to Bratten. A flip through the most recent issue of Bride's proves that point. But she admits there is definitely a trend for more color in bridal designs. Bridesmaids don't get to have all the fun.

"Bridal designers are using darker pale colors," says Bratten. "There are stronger champagnes, deeper ivories and even taupe. Many bridal houses, including Amsale, Lazaro, Vera Wang, Christian Dior and others offer designs in these sophisticated pales that are often combined in the same dress or contrasted with pure white."

At Amsale, candlelight, a deeper, crisper shade of ivory, is combined with a creamy ivory in a two-tone silk-faced satin gown. Lazaro pairs a fitted scoop-neck beaded bodice in white with a full satin taffeta ball gown skirt in a rich champagne. Christian Dior's toast to the colorful neutrals juxtaposes romantic white lace in a corset bodice accented with darker champagne satin straps and full skirt with a white lace petticoat.

The golden tones are also brightening up bridal color palettes for wedding attire, says Bratten. "It's almost an antique gold," she says.

Vera Wang's buttery dress is a frothy fit-and-flare design that is also a corset-inspired bodice with satin-covered buttons in the back with a trumpet skirt.

The metallics are glowing in not only gold, but silver.
"The platinum silvers are very contemporary," says Bratten. Designers favor combining platinum with white for a modern feel to bridal gowns. Amsale Aberra pairs a lustrous silver chantilly lace with a blush organza and gazar in a bell-shape gown.

For the more adventurous bride, there are gowns in a variety of other more "noticeable" colors. And they're not just in blushing pink. Designer Margarita Zingg gives daring brides the option of wearing a hand-embroidered ball gown in mauve silk-taffeta. Kat-Moon Designs does its taffeta ball gown in mint green and Yumi Katsura comes up with a peachy idea in her organza and crepe sheath scrolled with gold-vine appliques. At Original Bride Couture by Manolo, a sleeveless floor-length sheath shimmers in sea-water blue and white silk charmeuse.

"Today, fashion influences carry over very quickly to the bridal market," says Bratten, "and the colors follow." Romance is not far behind.

Other romantic details that get the colorful touch this year in bridal designs include special accents on bridal gowns: satin rosettes down the back of a dress, crystal-accented bows and hand-beaded fringe.

And, you can use accessories to add a splash of color to a traditional gown. Delicate necklaces with colored stones, jeweled tiaras and barrettes that glimmer in butterflies and flowers are just a few of the ways you can add subtle color to your bridal ensemble.

Beaded handbags and embroidered clutches also provide a glimpse of sophisticated pastels with power. Veils edged in sparkling silver crystals and silvery feather headpieces are other ways to top it off with glittering color.

Romance may be in the color of your gown ... or your accessories this year. But don't blush too much if you still want that night in white satin.

"Color is for a very special bride," says Bratten. "It's not for everyone."

Explaining expenses keeps bridesmaids blissful

By Priscilla Lister Copley News Service

Even though they're called bridesmaids, don't think they're servants.

While you may consider the invitation to be a member of your bridal party a distinct honor, to some it might actually be a hardship.

Since bridesmaids are traditionally expected to foot most of their own bills, their financial abilities must be considered when asking them to participate.

"Bridesmaids are responsible for paying for their costumes and seeing that they are properly fitted," says Elizabeth L. Post in "Emily Post's Complete Book of Wedding Etiquette" (HarperCollins). "The considerate bride will think of her bridesmaids' pocketbooks when she chooses their dresses."

Other financial responsibilities traditionally include their transportation to and from the wedding. However, according to Post, the bride is responsible for their lodging "from the time they arrive until the day after the wedding."

Additional attendants' responsibilities may include a shower, given by the maid of honor or a bridesmaid or the group of them together, and/or a luncheon given for the bride.

"Generally, they give her a joint present, engraved with their names or initials, as well as personal wedding gifts," adds Post.

As these traditions suggest, being a bridesmaid today can be costly.

ASK AND DISCUSS

"Once you've decided who you'd like to ask, try to make the asking a special occasion," says WeddingBells magazine., "Ask the person to dinner or out for coffee or a drink."

During this get-together, says Wedding-Bells, the bride "should be honest and forthright about expenses attendants will likely be obliged to cover. If any potential attendants feel they cannot afford these costs, they should discuss this as soon as possible."

Another option for including a good friend who just cannot make the financial commitment to be a bridesmaid is to find a different role for her in your festivities. Such possibilities include giving her responsibility for the guest book, the wedding presents or just asking her to make a toast to the happy couple at the reception.

CHOOSING GOWNS

The bride has the right to make the final decisions about how she wants her bridal party to look. But her attendants are the ones who have to wear - and pay for - the dresses.

"Start off on the right foot by considering their figures," advises WeddingBells. If you're having six bridesmaids who range from size 4 to 18, finding one dress to fit them all may be impossible. One possibility in this case might be to choose the color and fabric and floor length, and ask each attendant to have a dress made in a style they like. Or simply choose color and length and let them buy a dress they might actually wear again.

"If your bridesmaids all have similar shapes, narrow your choices down to two or three and let them choose," suggests WeddingBells. "Also, make sure they all agree on the price of the dress beforehand. Surprising your maids with a gown they can't afford - no matter how pretty you think it is - is sure to build resentment."

If you have your heart set on a particular dress but it's relatively costly, you might subsidize each attendant so that their expense is more in line with normal bridesmaids' dress expenses.

In some stores, it is possible to rent bridesmaids' gowns, which might be more affordable for all your attendants.

"Try factory outlets for dresses that can be used in a wedding," suggests Diane Warner in "How to Have a Big Wedding on a Small Budget" (Betterway Books 1997). "In this case, there is no escape from shopping with all the bridesmaids at once. ... It is worth a try if the attendants really need to save money."

order dresses a try. Selecting a dress from a catalog can be especially handy for bridesmaids of different sizes and different cities.

GIFTS FOR YOUR PARTY

"Strict wedding etiquette requires that you give presents to all your bridesmaids and attendants," says Baldrige. "Normally, all bridesmaids get the same gift and so do all the ushers. You may want to give something a little more special to your maid of honor and your best man."

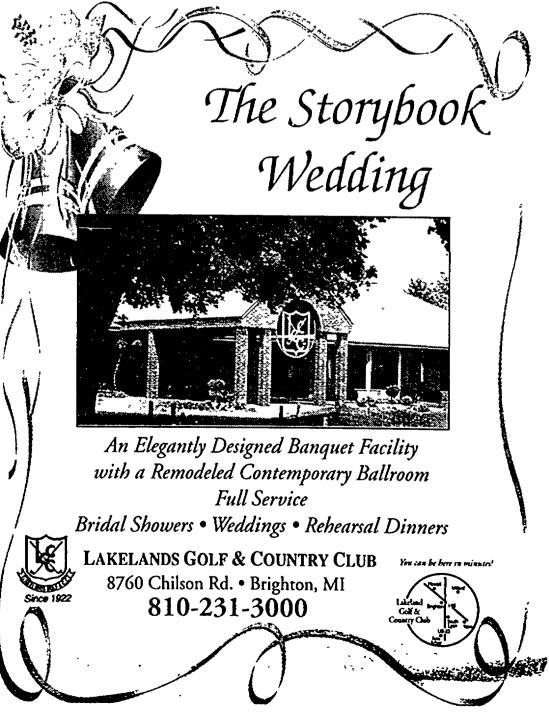

Traditionally, such gifts are a wedding keepsake, she adds. "You could give something they might wear on your wedding day - a simple pendant for the women and cuff links or a tie clasp for the men, for instance."

Other attendant gift ideas include: Any piece of jewelry.

• A silver picture frame.

- An anamound man
- An engraved pen.
- Special evening bags.
- Candlesticks.
- A bud vase.
- Personal pampering, such as gift certificates to local spas.
- Tickets to a performance event you know they'll enjoy - which might also become a mini-reunion for the group that helped make your wedding memorable.

TRAIN BOARD & TABLE (A $260 VALUE)

The Thomas the Tank Engine wooden railway system is a classic that your children will enjoy for many years. Based on the beloved stories of Thomas and his engine friends, it's an entire collection of playful characters.

We have a whole train yard of the newest engines, buildings, accessories, and special Clickety-Clack Track, waiting for your arrival.

Lionel, the Great American Train Legend, has created exciting stories and classic die-cast engines to spark your child's love for the mighty railroad. True to Lionel quality, they feature real-life train detailing, with 1930s styling. These battery-powered engines have working headlights, forward and backward movement. See the new track layouts and accessories!
